4. In the aforesaid Panchayat, Tak Chandra Pradhan, who has contested Parliamentary Election under the Symbol of B.S.P, one Mr. Shyam Sunder Sharma, President of Lok Dal, District Ghaziabad and one Kartar Hithora, Member Zila Panchayat, who belong to Lok Dal Party, Jai Bhagwan, Block Pramukh, Loni, of B.S.P., Rajendra Singh, Up-Pramukh, of Lok Dal Party, Madhu Sharma, of B.J.P., Daya Nand real brothers of Roop Chaudhary, Present M.L.A. were also present at the alleged place of occurrence, but the F.I.R has been lodged only against the persons, who are active member and supporter of Samajwadi Party. The police personnels themselves destroyed the old vehicle in concerned police Chauki by way of firing and a false report has been lodged against the applicants. The Police Chauki was fully safe and no article/material has been destroyed in the concerned Police Chauki by the applicants.

5. When the F.I.R. was lodged, the applicants filed a Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 7362 of 1999 - Mukhiya Gurjar And Others Vs. State of U.P., in which the Hon'ble Court stayed the arrest of the applicants on 07.12.1999 and when the then S.H.O. had taken necessary action against the accused persons relating to Crime No. 626 of 1999, under Sections 394 / 302 I.P.C and also other matters relating to POCSO/rape, dacoity etc, then the applicant no. 2 constituted a Committee and demanded compensation in this regard. The Committee also moved a representation to the Chief Minister of the State of U.P. The higher authority admitted the fact that due to negligence of the police personnels three persons were murdered in Nithora and after concluding the investigation the police has submitted charge-sheet against the applicants, which is annexed as Annexure No. 5 to the application.

6. The learned A.C.J.M 5th, Ghaziabad, vide his order dated 30.05.2002, issued N.B.W against the applicants and fixed 20th July, 2002 for appearance. The I.O. of the case has submitted a charge-sheet without any evidence and all the police personnels have given similar statement. It is alleged that about 100-150 persons armed with different type of weapons attacked on the police party, but no police personnel received any grievous injury. The I.O of the case has recorded the statement of Sri U.P.S Chauhan, the then Chauki In-Charge, who repeated the same version as stated in the F.I.R. Except the police personnel, no public witness was present and supported the prosecution version. The entire criminal proceeding is being concocted by the local police only to save themselves from the mass demand made by the said committee. On the basis of the charge-sheet, the learned Magistrate has taken cognizance, which is unjustified and it is also an abuse of process.

7. One Sri Brijendra Singh has given a reminder to the Chief Minister, State of UP. regarding bad administration and corruption of local police, in which it is clarified that three family members lost their lives due to loose administration and negligence of local police of Loni. The complaint was also moved before the National Human Rights Commission and notices were issued to the Chief Secretary and D.G.P, U.P. Since there is not a single evidence against the applicants regarding commission of the alleged offence/crime, therefore, the entire criminal proceedings initiated against the applicants is wholly illegal and is an abuse of process.

8. From the perusal of the F.I.R and the relevant documents, no offence under the aforesaid Sections are made out, therefore the charge-sheet and the entire criminal proceedings in Case Crime No. 881 of 2001 – State Vs. Tek Chand & others in the aforesaid Sections, Police Station Loni, District Ghaziabad, pending in the Court of A.C.J.M. 5th, Ghaziabad be set aside.

9. All the relevant papers have been annexed with the affidavit.

10. From the side of respondents a counter affidavit has been filed against the contentions and prayer of the application, in which allegations of the applicants made in the application and the affidavit have been denied and it has been submitted that the incident had taken place at the police out post Banthala, P.S Loni, Ghaziabad, on 02.12.1999 for which an F.I.R under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 352, 436 I.P.C and Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act was registered at P.S Loni, Ghaziabad in respect of the offence committed by the accused persons. In connection of the said offences eight persons were arrested on the spot and another persons managed to escape. In the aforesaid incident the vehicles belonging to the police personnels, Government property was set on fire by the accused persons. After completion of the investigation, a charge-sheet has been submitted. The accused-applicants have not filed the entire records, which are collected during the course of investigation, which amounts to concealment of material facts from the Hon'ble Court and as such the present application is liable to be rejected.

11. Apart from this, the applicants have remedy to raise all the points before the concerned court at the time of framing of charge, which can easily be decided there. In view of availability of alternative remedy before the trial court, the present application is not maintainable and is liable to be rejected. If a lawful meeting is held, the Police has nothing to do, but since the mob gathered there at the instance of the applicants and other persons, took the law in their own hands by setting ablaze the Government property, the present action has been taken in accordance with law.

12. It is wrong to say that the police has lodged a false and frivolous report and has also set the articles on fire. There are as may as seven witnesses of the facts. The news items are not the substantial piece of evidence, hence, no reliance can be placed on the same.

13. The F.I.R has been lodged against those persons, who have taken law in their own hands without any ill-will or malafide intention.

14. The contention of para 12 of the affidavit is totally false and denied. In fact the government records, such as case diary, wireless set etc. have been damaged by the miscreants. It is also wrong to say that the Police himself has destroyed the old vehicles. There is nothing on record before this Hon'ble Court to substantiate the contents of the application. The statutory right of hearing may be afforded by the applicants at the time of framing of charge.

15. The accused persons have failed to appear before the concerned court, hence, non-bailable warrants were issued against them in accordance with law.

16. The incident which has taken place at Police out post Banthala, P.S. Loni, District Ghaziabad has been witnessed by the Police Party and their statements have also been recorded.

17. In view of the submission of the charge-sheet, the alleged reminder was of no avail. At the time of incident the applicants were also the member of unlawful assembly who in furtherance of common object have committed the offence in question and they cannot escape their liability of being prosecuted. In view of availability of alternative remedy before the trial court at the time of framing of charge, the present application is premature and is liable to be dismissed.

18. No rejoinder affidavit has been filed by the applicants.

19. The learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A have already advanced their arguments.

20. It has been averred by the learned counsel for the applicants that there is no injury to any of the Police Personnel. In this regard it is argued by the learned A.G.A that to constitute an offence under Section 307 I.P.C, there is no need of injury.

21. Section 307 I.P.C is as under:

“307. Attempt to murder.—
Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if hurt is caused to any person by such act, the offender shall be liable either to [imprisonment for life], or to such punishment as is herein before mentioned. Attempts by life convicts.—When any person offending under this section is under sentence of imprisonment for life, he may, if hurt is caused, be punished with death.

Illustrations :-

(a) A shoots at Z with intention to kill him, under such circumstances that, if death ensued. A would be guilty of murder. A is liable to punishment under this section.

(b) A, with the intention of causing the death of a child of tender years, exposes it in a desert place. A has committed the offence defined by this section, though the death of the child does not ensue.

(c) A, intending to murder Z, buys a gun and loads it. A has not yet committed the offence. A fires the gun at Z. He has committed the offence defined in this section, and if by such firing he wounds Z, he is liable to the punishment provided by the latter part of 3[the first paragraph of] this section.”

22. According to this Court, injury is not necessary. If an attempt to kill a person is made, the same is also sufficient to attract Section 307 I.P.C. In this case from the evidence on record, it has been prima facie established that the applicants and the mob tried their best to damage the property, to cause injuries to the Police personnels, but if the Police personnels any how managed to escape, the same would not absolve the applicants from their criminal liability in the eyes of Law.

23. If any dacoity, murder and rape had taken place, a complaint could be made to the Higher Authorities for taking departmental action against the responsible policemen which had already been made and Panchayats have already been held. Demands had already been sent. The matter has already been in the knowledge of Higher Police and Executive Authorities. Under Article 19 of the Constitution of India, a peaceful demonstration is permissible, but in the garb of peaceful demonstration, one cannot take law in his own hand. If Police did not take action or the action taken by the Police was not satisfactory, the applicants had right to raise the same through their Political representatives in Legislative Assembly and Council or in High Court or the Apex

Court. It is nowhere mentioned that any permission was taken from the local authorities for the alleged gathering or meeting. It is true that the news of the News Papers are not the authentic proof of any fact. It is mere hearsay evidence which are not admissible as held in Joseph M. Puthussery Vs. T.S. John, AIR 2011 S.C. 906, Laxmi Raj Shetty Vs. State of T.N AIR 1988 S.C. 1274.

24. There is no prima-facie proof that the Police personnels themselves set ablaze fire and damaged the alleged properties. It appears that the applicants forgot that any such demand could be made in right way. There are documentary and oral evidence on record to prima-facie establish the guilt of the applicants. When all the influential political and social persons were involved in the matter, it is beyond imagination that any public person would come forward in support of the Policemen. In such a circumstance when there is only evidence of Police personnels, the same would be considered as to whether it is cogent, credible and reliable or not. In such a circumstance, evidence of public persons cannot be sought for.

25. In Pramod Kumar Vs. State (NCT) of Delhi, AIR 2013 SC 3344, Govindaraju @ Govinda Vs. State by Srirampuram Police Station and another AIR 2012 SC 1292, it has been held that the testimony of Police personnels should be treated in the same manner as testimony of any other witness. There is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses the testimony of police personnels cannot be relied on. The presumption that a person acts honestly applies as much in favour of a police personnel as of other persons and it is not a proper judicial approach to distrust and suspect them without good reasons. As a rule it cannot be stated that Police officer can or cannot be sole eye witness in criminal cases. Statement of Police Officer can be relied upon and even form basis of conviction when it is reliable, trustworthy and is preferably corroborated by other evidence on record.

26. This application has been moved under Section 482 Cr.P.C, which is as under:-

“482. Saving of inherent powers of High Court. Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.”

27. From the above it is very much clear that a High Court can exercise its inherent power only to give effect any order under this Code or to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of Justice.

28. The powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C cannot be liberally exercised and it has to be sparingly exercised, in cases, there is a dire need of exercise of this power.

29. In CBI Vs. Ravi Shankar Srivastava, AIR 2006 SC 2872 it is held that while exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on reasonable appreciation of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of trial judge. The same reason and ground has been taken by the State through counter affidavit.

30. In Kamal Shivaji Pokarnekar Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2019 SC 847, it has been held that the correctness of the allegations against accused has to be decided only in trial. Criminal complaints cannot be quashed at initial stage of issuance of process only on ground that allegations made therein appear to be of civil nature.

31. In Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2019 SC 327, it has been held that the expression “abuse of process of law” or “to secure the ends of justice” do not confer unlimited jurisdiction on High Court.

32. In State of Bihar Vs. P.P Sharma, 1991 CrLJ 1438/ 1448 SC it is held that the allegations of malafide against the informant based on the facts after the lodging of the FIR are of no consequence and cannot be the basis of quashing the proceedings. Simply because the IO, while acting bonafide, ruled out certain documents as irrelevant, it is no ground to assume that he acted malafide. In the case in hand, the applicants have blamed the IO that he has not investigated properly the old vehicles were set on fire by the policemen and not by the applicants which cannot be decided under section 482 Cr.P.C.

33. In Kaptan Singh Vs. State of U.P., AIR 2021 SC 3931, it is held that if petition under section 482 Cr.P.C was at the stage of FIR, in that case the allegations in FIR/complaint only are required to be considered and it has to be considered as to whether a cognizable offence is disclosed or not. However, thereafter when statements are recorded, evidence is collected and charge-sheet is filed after conclusion of investigation/ inquiry, matters stands on different footing and court is required to consider material/evidence collected during investigation. Even at this stage also the High Court is not required to go into merits of the allegations and / or enter into merits of the case as if High Court is excising appellate jurisdiction. In the cited case the High Court quashed the criminal proceedings even after the submission of the charge-sheet and even magistrate had taken cognizance. The Apex court held that the High Court did not take into consideration material collected during investigation/ inquiry and even statements recorded. The order of High Court regarding quashing the proceedings of the criminal case was set aside. Similarly in this case, the IO has submitted the charge-sheet long ago after collecting the oral and documentary evidences and the concerned court after taking cognizance has also issued the process against the applicants. According to this court the principle laid down in this case is fully applicable in the case in hand.

34. On the basis of the above discussion, this Court is of the considered view that the questions raised in the present application cannot be decided by this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

35. After investigation, a charge-sheet has been submitted against the applicants, they are summoned in due course of law. They have to face the trial. The trial court has to decide the case according to the evidence adduced by the prosecution and the defence. The proceeding under Section 482 Cr.P.C is not an alternative remedy of the trial. When there was enough material before the magistrate for the purposes of issuing process, the accused is not entitled to challenge that order under this section. In this application it is not denied that the properties were not damaged and the vehicles etc. were not set ablaze. Therefore, the High Court cannot exercise its power under section 482 Cr.P.C if the prima-facie offence has been made out on the basis of the allegations made in the complaint without going into the truth or otherwise of those allegations. The truthfulness or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint, cannot be dealt with at this stage. If some offence is made out on a bare perusal of the complaint or FIR, then such a complaint or FIR cannot be quashed by invoking inherent jurisdiction under section 482 of the code. The sufficiency of evidence or material cannot also be gone into, at this stage. In a proceeding under this section, it is not open to the High Court to go into the question of fact. It is settled law that the High Court in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction would not make any roving inquiry into the questions of facts and record any findings. The High Court will not enter into inquiry of disputed facts and thereafter hold in favour of the accused.

36. Thus this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed accordingly.

ORDER

37. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C is accordingly dismissed. Stay order, if any, stands vacated.

38. Let a copy of this order be sent to the Trial Court to proceed with trial in accordance with law.

THE HON'BLE OM PRAKASH SHUKLA, J.

Application U/S 482. No. 7324 of 2023

Shankar Nath Pnadey & Anr. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Gopal Pandey

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482- Quashing of Summoning Order – The applicants sought to quash the summoning order and criminal proceedings under Section 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 (PDPP Act) for alleged encroachment on Gaon Sabha land – Held, the High Court's inherent powers under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482 can quash proceedings when they constitute an abuse of process, particularly when the allegations do not establish an offence under the charged provisions. (Paras 2, 6, 19, 20)

B. Applicability of PDPP Act, 1984 – Scope and Purpose – The applicants were charged for erecting barbed wire fencing on Gaon Sabha land to protect crops – Held, the PDPP Act is intended to curb vandalism and damage to public property during riots or public commotion, not minor encroachments like fencing, which are governed by specific provisions under the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. (Paras 5, 9, 10, 11)

C. U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 – Remedy for Encroachment – The applicants removed the alleged encroachment after objection by the Lekhpal, as confirmed by a report dated 30.10.2019 – Held, Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code provides a comprehensive mechanism for addressing encroachments on

Gaon Sabha land, including demarcation and eviction by revenue authorities, rendering criminal prosecution under the PDPP Act inappropriate. (Paras 4, 12, 14, 17)

D. Investigation and Charge-Sheet – Procedural Irregularities – The Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet within 20 days of the FIR without awaiting the Lekhpal's report or conducting proper demarcation – Held, the hasty investigation, lacking Statements from villagers or independent witnesses, was arbitrary and potentially mala fide, influenced by enmity with the Gaon Pradhan. (Paras 4, 8, 18)

E. Absence of Criminality – Quashing Justified – The applicants, senior citizens, removed the fencing voluntarily, and no damage to public property was established – Held, in the absence of criminal intent or vandalism as required under the PDPP Act, and given the resolution of the encroachment, continuing the prosecution was an abuse of process, warranting quashing of the summoning order and proceedings. (Paras 6, 8, 18, 20)

Application Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

(1) Heard learned counsel for the applicant as well as the learned Additional Government Advocate.

(2) The present application under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 has been filed by the applicants, Shankar Nath Pandey and Shambhu Nath Pandey, seeking to quash the summoning order dated 15.03.2021 passed by the Judicial Magistrate-I, Faizabad in Criminal Case No.137 of 2021 : State Vs. Shankar Nath Pandey & others arising out of Case Crime No. 335 of 2019, under Section 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, Police Station Khandasa, District Ayodhya and also to quash the entire proceedings initiated against the applicants.

(3) The records of the case indicate that criminal proceedings were initiated pursuant to an FIR dated 01.09.2019 lodged against the applicants and one Kaushal Kishore, which was registered as Case Crime No.335 of 2019, under Section 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 (hereinafter referred to as PDPP Act), Police Station Khandasa, District Ayodhya. The case was investigated and a charge sheet dated 21.09.2019 was submitted, whereupon cognizance was taken by the Judicial Magistrate-I, Faizabad and on 15.03.2021, an order for summoning the applicants was passed. It is this order, which has been challenged before this Court in the instant application.

(4) It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicants that the applicants are recorded co-tenure holder of Gata Nos.2727 adjacent to Gata No.2722 and 2729 (chak road of Gaon Sabha) situated in Village Kotiya, Pargana Khandasa Tehsil Milkpur. These Gatas belonging to the applicants are connected with the said chak road. The applicants for the purpose of safety of their crops, which were cultivated on the aforesaid gatas from the wild animals, had made fencing with the barbed wire (sparked wire), however, on raising objection by the Lekhpal on the said fencing on inspection, the applicants have removed the said fencing. In this regard, Lekhpal has also submitted its report dated 30.10.2019 to the Sub-Divisional Officer to the effect that the applicants themselves have removed the said encroachment and at present, there is no encroachment on the land in question of the Gaon Sabha. However, the Investigating Officer, in the meantime, in a hasty manner, has submitted a charge-sheet dated 21.09.2019 under Section 3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 against the applicants i.e. within 20 days from the date of lodging the F.I.R. without taking any statement of any of the villagers nor any independent witness and as such the whole exercise made by the Investigating Officer has been done under the influence of the then Gaon Pradhan, who has enmity with the applicants.

(5) Learned Counsel for the applicants has, thus, submitted that cognizance taken in the matter is illegal and without application of judicial mind. The disputed plot/land, for which encroachment is said to have been made, is related to Gaon Sabha land (chak road) for which specific provisions have been provided under the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and Revenue Code to remove such type of encroachment. It is further submitted that since there is specific provisions under U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act/Revenue Code for eviction/removal of encroachment/unauthorized occupation of plot/land in question, provisions of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act are not applicable in the matter.

(6) Referring to provisions of Sections 3 of the Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act, learned counsel for the applicants submitted that continuation of prosecution against applicants in this matter is nothing but an abuse of process of law.

According to the learned Counsel, the applicants are senior citizens aged about more than 70 years and as no offence under Section 3 of the Prevention of Damage of Public Property Act, 1984 as alleged in the F.I.R., charge-sheet as well as in summoning order against the applicants is made out, hence the impugned summoning order as well as entire proceedings initiated against the applicants are liable to be quashed.

(7) On the other hand, referring to provisions of U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for State submitted that F.I.R. in the matter was lodged against the applicants taking recourse to the provisions of Sections 3 of the Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act, which is equally applicable in the present matter. There is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned order. It is further submitted that F.I.R. for such type of criminal act can be lodged under the provisions of Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act irrespective of the fact that there is specific provisions under U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act / Revenue Code for eviction/removal of encroachment/unauthorized occupation from the plot/land in question.

(8) Having regard to the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties and going through the record available before this Court, this Court finds that the allegations made in the F.I.R. against the applicants that they are in wrongful occupation of the land in dispute belonging to the Goan Sabha, cannot come within the realm of mischief or wrongful occupation, till such time its actual physical measurement is not conducted by the authority concerned. Site plan prepared by the Investigating officer, which has been placed before this Court by the applicants by means of the supplementary affidavit, is only a narration of the fact that the applicants are conducting their farming and cultivating over their land and only in order to safeguard their crops from the wild animals, they have made fencing with the barbed wire (sparked wire), but the Investigating Officer cannot decide it unless and until actual demarcation is being done by the competent revenue authority after holding the exercise of measurement and establishing its identity. In absence of this vital link, it cannot be said with certainty that charge-sheeted accused persons including the applicants have swelled their limits and encroached upon the land of the Gaon Sabha, particularly the fact that on the pointing out of the Lekhpal, the applicants themselves have removed the encroachment as is evident from the report of the Lekhpal dated 30.10.2019 annexed as Annexure No. 4 to the instant application.

(9) At this juncture, it would be apt to mention that the underline object and idea of enacting the Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act, 1984 is to curb acts of vandalism and damage to public property including destruction and damage caused during riots and public commotion. The “public property” as defined under Section 2(b) of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 means any property, whether immovable or movable (including any machinery) which is owned by or in possession of or under the control of the Central or State Government or any local authority or any Corporation or any institution established by the Central, Provincial or State Act or its undertaking. Section 3 of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 provides that anyone who commits mischief by doing any act in respect of any ‘public property’ including the nature referred in subsection (2) in the said section shall be punished with imprisonment and a fine depending upon the nature of the property as per sub-section (1) and subsection (2) of Section 3 of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984. Thus, the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 is a Special Act enacted to punish for the offence committed under Sections 3 and 4 of the said Act by doing any act of vandalism including the destruction or damage during any riots or public demonstration in the name of agitations, bandhs, hartals and the like. The “Mischief” has been defined under Section 2(a) of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 having the same meaning as in Section 425 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860). Section 6 is the saving clause which says that the Act, 1984 covers the offence committed under it and the provisions of it are in addition to any other law which provides for any proceeding (whether by way of investigation or otherwise) which may be instituted or taken against the offender, apart from this Act. Special provisions with regard to disposal of a prayer for bail made by a person accused or commission of offence under the Act, 1984 has been provided under Section 5 of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984. The provisions oblige a person found guilty of commission of offence to pay the damage or loss caused to the public property. Thus, this Act covers the specific area of damage or loss or destruction of public property and recovery of such damages from the person(s) who is/are found guilty of such damage during the course of any public demonstration in the name of agitations, bandhs, hartals and the like.

(10) In Re. Destruction of Public and Private Properties, In Re vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, 2009 (5)

SCC 212, taking a serious note of various instances where there was a large scale destruction of public and private properties in the name of agitations, bandhs, hartals and the like, suo motu proceedings had been initiated by the Apex Court and two Committees were appointed to give suggestions on strengthening of the legal provisions of P.D.P.P. Act to effectively deal with such instances. The recommendation of two Committees were considered and it was observed that the suggestions were extremely important and they constitute sufficient guidelines which need to be adopted. It was left open to the appropriate authorities to take effective steps for their implementation.

(11) In Kodungallur Film Society and another vs. Union of India and others, 2018 (10) SCC 713, the relief was sought to issue a mandamus to the appropriate authorities to strictly follow and implement the guidelines formulated by the Apex Court in Re: Destruction of Public & Private Properties (supra), with regard to measures to be taken to prevent destruction of public and private properties in mass protests and demonstrations and also regarding the modalities of fixing liability and recovering compensation for damages caused to public and private properties during such demonstration and protests. It was observed in Kodungallur Film Society (Supra) that the recommendations of the Committee noted in the said judgment traversed the length and breadth of the issue at hand and, if implemented in their entirety, would go a long way in removing the bane of violence caused against persons and property. As far as implementation of the said recommendations, the Union had advised the States to follow the same in its letter and spirit. Issuing directions to implement recommendations made by the Apex Court in both the above decisions. Direction was issued in Kodungallur Film Society (supra) to both the Central and the State Government to do the same at the earliest. Accordingly, the State of Uttar Pradesh too has notified “Uttar Pradesh Recovery of Damages to Public and Private Property Rules, 2020” with a view to provide for recovery of damages to public and private property during hartal, bundh, riots, public commotion, protests etc. in regard to property and imposition of fine. The said Rules provides for constitution of the claims tribunal to investigate the damages caused and to award compensation related thereto.

(12) Learned Counsel for the applicants has also drawn attention of the Court to the provisions of Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code which speaks about the power to prevent damages, misappropriation and wrongful occupation of Gram Panchayat property:-

“(i) Where any property entrusted or deemed to be entrusted under the provisions of this Code to a Gram Panchayat or other local authority is damaged or misappropriated, or where any Gram Panchayat or other authority is entitled to take possession of any land under the provisions of this Code and such land is occupied otherwise than in accordance with the said provisions, the Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti or other authority or the Lekhpal concerned, as the case may be, shall inform the Assistant Collector concerned in the manner prescribed.

(ii) Where from the information received under sub-section (i) or otherwise, the Assistant Collector is satisfied that any property referred to in sub-section (i) has been damaged or misappropriated, or any person is in occupation of any land referred to in that sub-section in contravention of the provisions of this Code, he shall issue notice to the person concerned to show cause why compensation for damage, misappropriation or wrongful occupation not exceeding the amount specified in the notice be not recovered from him and why he should not be evicted from such land.

(iii) If the person to whom a notice has been issued under sub-section (ii) fails to show cause within the time specified in the notice or within such extended time as the Assistant Collector may allow in this behalf, or if the cause shown is found to be insufficient, the Assistant Collector may direct that such person shall be evicted from the land, and may, for that purpose, use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary, and may direct that the amount of compensation for damage or misappropriation of the property or for wrongful occupation as the case may be, be recovered from such person as arrears of land revenue.

(iv) If the Assistant Collector is of opinion that the person showing cause is not guilty of causing the damage or misappropriation or wrongful occupation referred to in the notice under sub-section (ii), he shall discharge the notice.

(v) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Assistant Collector under Sub-section (iii) or Sub-Section (iv), may within thirty days from the date of such order, prefer an appeal to the Collector.

(vi) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provisions of this Code, and subject to the provisions of this section every order of the Sub-Divisional Officer under this section shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (5) be final.

(vii) The procedure to be followed in any action taken under this section shall be such as may be prescribed.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this section, the word "land" shall include the trees and building standing thereon."

(13) Rule 67 (1) of U.P. Revenue Code, 2016 reveals that it is incumbent upon the Assistant Collector to make an inquiry as he deems proper and obtain further information regarding the following issues :-

"(a) full description of damage or misappropriation caused or the wrongful occupation made with details of village, plot number, area, boundary, property damaged or misappropriated and market value thereof;

(b) full address along with parentage of the person responsible for such damage, misappropriation or wrongful occupation;

(c) period of wrongful occupation, damage or misappropriation and class of soil of the plots involved;

(d) value of the property damaged or misappropriated calculated at the circle rate fixed by the Collector and the amount sought to be recovered as damages."

(14) Thus, from the above, it is crystal clear that as per the U.P. Revenue Code, it is the Assistant Collector of the area who is the authority concerned to act a pivotal role in demarcation and holding and declaring the land in dispute is encroached by the applicants. However, the Investigating Officer of criminal cases is not even remotely connected to conduct this exercise. The entire procedure has been laid down in Section 67 (2) of the U.P. Revenue Code that only after getting a reply from the alleged encroacher, the Assistant Commissioner/Sub Divisional Officer has to pass an order giving reasons for not exceeding the explanation, if so offered by the person concerned. The eviction from the land in dispute can only be recorded after disposal of the explanation offered by the person concerned keeping in line with the cardinal principle of natural justice by passing a well reasoned and speaking order while disposing of the said explanation. The Act is itself contained the amount of compensation of damage or misappropriation of the property or for wrongful occupation, as the case may be, may be recovered from such person as arrears of land revenue. Section 210 of the Revenue Code, 2006 confers supervisory power on the Board or the Commissioner to call for the record of any proceeding decided by the subordinate revenue court in which no appeal lies for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit or proceeding.

(15) A careful reading of the provisions of the Revenue Code, 2006, thus, makes it clear that the proceeding for causing damage to the public property can be undertaken against any person who is in wrongful occupation of the same or causes damage or misappropriations to the said property. The nature of eviction proceeding under Section 67 of the Revenue Code, 2006, is, however, summary in nature. The rights of the parties claimed, if gives rise to a dispute requiring adjudication on the questions of fact, a suit for declaration has to be instituted against such person. The Gram Sabha may institute a suit under Section 145 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 for declaration of its right or to seek any further relief. In case of institution of such a suit, a temporary injunction may be granted by the Court concerned to prevent wastage, damage or alienation of the suit property. The Revenue Code, 2006 is a Special enactment providing for the law relating to the 'land' defined under Section 4(14) of the Code.

(16) As far as criminal proceeding for illegal encroachment, damage or trespass over the land belonging to Gram Sabha is concerned, the same can be undertaken but it would be subject to the adjudication of rights of the parties over the land in dispute as the said determination can be done only by the revenue Court.

(17) Thus, taking into account the gravity of offence and its nature in which there is no criminality as such, the apt remedy would be to proceed against the erring so called encroacher under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code and get the land in dispute demarcated. It is the case exclusively falls within the domain of concerned revenue authority to impose the fine, if any, after taking the whole exercise as per the provisions of law contained under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code.

(18) In the instant case, the applicants have specifically pleaded before this Court in this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. that they have moved an application duly supported by an affidavit regarding the alleged encroachment before the Sub-Divisional Officer on 09.09.2019

i.e. prior to filing the charge-sheet dated 21.09.2019, upon which the Sub-Divisional Officer directed the area Lekhpal to submit its report. In compliance thereof, the Area Lekhpal had visited the site and prepared its report dated 30.10.2019 and submitted the same before the Sub-Divisional Officer. As per the said report dated 30.10.2019, the applicants themselves have removed the encroachment and now there is no encroachment over the chak road of the Gaon Sabha. Though the action of the revenue authorities on the application of the applicants appears to have in the knowledge of the Investigating Officer, however, without waiting for the outcome of the decision of the revenue authorities, the Investigating Officer had proceeded with the investigation and submitted charge-sheet dated 21.09.2019 i.e. within 20 days of lodging of the F.I.R. and before submission of the report of the Lekhpal dated 30.10.2019, which smacks the action of the Investigating Officer arbitrary and mala fide.

(19) Thus, taking note of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in abovementioned cases and also keeping in view the totality of facts and circumstances of the case, this Court has no hesitation to allow this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and quash the impugned summoning/cognizance orders as well as proceedings challenged therein.

(20) Accordingly, the impugned summoning order dated 15.03.2021 as well as entire criminal proceeding of Criminal Case No. 137 of 2021 : State Vs. Shankar Nath Pandey and others, arising out of Case Crime No.335 of 2019, under Section 3 of Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act, Police Station Khandasa, District Ayodhya, pending in the Court of Judicial Magistrate-I, Faizabad are hereby quashed.

(21) As the Area Lekhpal vide report dated 30.10.2019 (Annexure No. 4), which is not disputed by the State Counsel, itself reported that now there is no encroachment of the land of the Goan Sabha as alleged in the F.I.R., therefore, no fruitful purpose would be served in remitting the matter to the concerned authority for fresh consideration.

(22) The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is, accordingly, allowed.

Amardeep Sonkar ...Applicant

State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Shivam Agarwal, Ms. Tanu Shree

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482– Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005- Section 12 - Quashing of Summoning Order Dismissed – The applicant sought to quash the summoning order and proceedings under Section 12 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 (DV Act) –

Held, the application under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482 was dismissed as the proceedings under Section 12 are civil in nature and do not require strict adherence to CrPC procedures for complaints, rendering the quashing unwarranted. (Paras 2, 21, 23)

B. Nature of Proceedings under DV Act – Civil Character – The applicant argued that the Magistrate failed to follow CrPC procedures under Sections 200 and 202 before issuing notice – Held, proceedings under Section 12 of the DV Act are civil, aimed at providing remedies like protection, residence, and monetary relief, not criminal prosecution, unless a protection order is breached under Section 31. (Paras 8, 10, 12, 19, 22)

C. Application under Section 12 DV Act – Not a Complaint – The applicant contended that the Magistrate's order lacked judicial application due to non-compliance with CrPC complaint procedures – Held, an application under Section 12 is not a complaint under Section 2(d) CrPC, as it seeks civil remedies without alleging an offence, and thus, Sections 200 and 202 CrPC are inapplicable. (Paras 4, 12, 20, 21)

D. Section 28 DV Act – Procedural Flexibility – The applicant relied on Section 28(1) DV Act, which references CrPC procedures – Held, Section 28(2) grants courts discretion to adopt their own procedures for disposing of applications under Sections 12 or 23, exempting strict compliance with CrPC, as the notice under Section 12 is not a summons under Section 61 CrPC. (Paras 5, 16, 17, 22)

E. Purpose of DV Act – Civil Remedies for Women – The opposite party emphasized the civil nature of DV Act proceedings – Held, the DV Act, enacted to protect women from domestic violence under Articles 14, 15, and 21 of the Constitution, provides civil remedies like protection and residence orders, transforming into criminal proceedings only upon breach of such orders, as per Kunapareddy Vs Kunapareddy. (Paras 8, 9, 10, 15)

4. Smt. Geeta Vs St. of U.P., 2022 8 ADJ 523

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shivam Agarwal, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Anish Kr. Upadhyay, learned AGA for the State.

2. The instant Application has been filed seeking quashing of the summoning order dated 22.5.2023 as well as entire proceeding of Complaint Case No. 227 of 2023 (Smt. Gunja Sonkar vs. Amardeep Sonkar and others), u/s 12 of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 (hereinafter referred to as "Domestic Violence Act"), P.S. Kothwali Katra, District Mirzapur, pending before Civil Judge (J.D.)/FTC, Mirzapur.

3. The fact giving rise to the present case is that opposite party No.2, who is the wife of the applicant, has filed an application u/s 12 Domestic Violence Act. However, after getting the report from the Protection Officer, the learned Magistrate issued notice to the applicant by order dated 22.5.2023 to reply to the same.

4. learned counsel for the applicant contends that while passing the impugned order dated 22.5.2023, the learned Magistrate has failed to consider that as per Section 28 of the Domestic Violence Act, the procedure of complaint case for the Application filed u/s 12 Domestic Violence

Act is to be followed as per Cr.PC.. Before passing the impugned order, he did not record the statement under Section 200 Cr.P C.. As the applicant resides beyond the Magistrate's territorial jurisdiction, the Magistrate had to conduct the enquiry u/s 202(1) Cr.P.C. before proceeding further. It is lastly submitted that the impugned order itself shows that there is complete non-application of mind. Learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgement of the coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Hamid Ali vs. State of UP and another, Application U/s 482 No. 11135 of 2020, as well as Smt. Geeta vs. State of U.P. ; 2022 8 ADJ 523.

5. Per contra, learned AGA submits that Section 28(2) of the Domestic Violence Act itself provides that notwithstanding anything contained in Section 28(1) of the Domestic Violence Act, the Court can lay down its procedure for the disposal of the Application u/s 12 or Section 23(2) of Domestic Violence Act. It is further submitted that there is no allegation in the complaint regarding the commission of any offence. Therefore, the present complaint is simply an application and not a complaint. It is also submitted that the Court is not bound to strictly follow the procedure of the complaint case as mentioned in the Cr. P.C.

6. After hearing the submissions of learned counsel for the parties as well as on perusal of the record, the following questions have arisen for determination: (i) What is the nature of the proceeding of the Domestic Violence Act; (ii) whether the Application u/s 12 Domestic Violence Act is complaint or simply an application; (iii) whether before issuing notice to opposite parties, the procedure of complaint has to be followed as required u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C.

7. Before proceeding further, it would be appropriate to discuss the object of the Domestic Violence Act.

8 . The very purpose of enacting the Domestic Violence Act was to provide a remedy that is an amalgamation of the civil rights of the complaint, i.e., the aggrieved person. The intention was to protect women against violence of any kind, especially that occurring within the family. As the civil law does not address this phenomenon in its entirety. It is treated as an offence u/s 498-A of IPC. The purpose of enacting the law was to provide a remedy in civil law for the protection of women from being victims of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in society. It is for this reason that the scheme of the Act provides that in the first instance, the order that the Magistrate would pass on an application by the aggrieved person would be of a civil nature, and if the said order is violated, it assumes the character of criminality. In order to demonstrate it, it would be appropriate to reproduce the introduction as well as the relevant portion of the statement of objects and the reasons for the said Act as follows:

"Introduction

The Vienna Accord of 1994, the Beijing Declaration, and the Platform for Action (1995) have acknowledged that domestic violence is undoubtedly a human rights issue. The United Nations Committee on Convention on Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women, in its General Recommendations, has recommended that State parties should act to protect women against violence of any kind, especially that occurring within the family. The phenomenon of domestic violence in India is widely prevalent but has remained invisible in the public domain. The civil law does not address this phenomenon in its entirety. Presently, when a woman is subjected to cruelty by her husband or his relatives, it is an offence under Section 498-A of the Penal Code, 1860. In order to provide a remedy in the civil law for the protection of women from being victims of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in society, the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Bill was introduced in Parliament.

Statement of Objects and Reasons

1. Domestic violence is undoubtedly a human rights issue and a serious deterrent to development. The Vienna Accord of 1994, the Beijing Declaration and the Platform for Action (1995) have acknowledged this. The United Nations Committee on Convention on Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (Cedaw), in its General Recommendation No. XII (1989) has recommended that State parties should act to protect women against violence of any kind, especially that occurring within the family.

3. It is, therefore, proposed to enact a law keeping in view the rights guaranteed under Articles 14, 15 and 21 of the Constitution to provide for a remedy under the civil law, which is intended to protect women from being victims of domestic violence and to

4. The Bill, inter alia, seeks to provide for the following?

(ii) It defines the expression "domestic violence" to include actual abuse or threat or abuse that is physical, sexual, verbal, emotional or economic. Harassment by way of unlawful dowry demands to the woman or her relatives would also be covered under this definition.

(iii) It provides for the rights of women to secure housing. It also provides for the right of a woman to reside in her matrimonial home or shared household, whether or not she has any title or rights in such home or household. This right is secured by a residence order, which is passed by the Magistrate.

(iv) It empowers the Magistrate to pass protection orders in favour of the aggrieved person to prevent the respondent from aiding or committing an act of domestic violence or any other specified act, entering a workplace or any other place frequented by the aggrieved person, attempting to communicate with her, isolating any assets used by both the parties and causing violence to the aggrieved person, her relatives or others who provide her assistance from the domestic violence."

9. From the object and reason of the Domestic Violence Act, it is clear that the purpose of this Act is to provide a remedy in civil law for the protection of women from being victims of Domestic Violence.

10. Hon'ble Apex Court, in the case of Kunapareddy @ Nookala Shanka Balaji vs. Kunapareddy Swarna Kumar and another (2016) 11 SCC 774, has already observed that all reliefs, contemplated under Chapter IV of the Domestic Violence Act, are civil in nature. The relevant part of paragraph No.12 of the Kunapareddy @ Nookala Shanka Balaji (supra) case is quoted as under:-

"12. In fact, the very purpose of enacting the DV Act was to provide for a remedy which is an amalgamation of civil rights of the complainant i.e. aggrieved person. Intention was to protect women against violence of any kind, especially that occurring within the family as the civil law does not address this phenomenon in its entirety. It is treated as an offence under Section 498-A of the Penal Code, 1860. The purpose of enacting the law was to provide a remedy in the civil law for the protection of women from being victims of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in the society. It is for this reason, that the scheme of the Act provides that in the first instance, the order that would be passed by the Magistrate, on a complaint by the aggrieved person, would be of a civil nature and if the said order is violated, it assumes the character of criminality."

11. Under the Domestic Violence Act, various reliefs that the Magistrate can grant are set out in Chapter-IV of the Domestic Violence Act, and the same can be summarized as follows:-

- "(i) Protection orders (Section 18)*
- (ii) Residence orders (Section 19)*
- (iii) Monetary reliefs (Section 20)*
- (v) Compensation orders (Section 22)"*

12. All the aforesaid reliefs are civil in nature, but the breach of a protection order or an interim protection order alone is a cognizable and non-bailable offence u/s 31 and 32 of the Domestic Violence Act. The proceeding before the Magistrate is in the nature of civil proceeding while deciding the Application under Chapter IV of the Domestic Violence Act, but it may transform into a criminal proceeding while trying an offence under Chapter V of the Domestic Violence Act. Section 12 of the Domestic Violence Act provides the Application on behalf of the aggrieved person or protection officers and not the complaint. The format of the Application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act is also provided in Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Rules, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2006"). Section 12(4) of the Domestic Violence Act further mandates that the Magistrate, on receiving the Application, will fix the first date of hearing not ordinarily beyond three days, and Section 13 of the Domestic Violence Act provides that the notice of hearing shall be given to the protection officer not in the form of any summon as mentioned in Section 61 of Cr.P.C. It is further mentioned in Rule 6(5) of the Rules, 2006 that the procedure for the Application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act shall be dealt with in the same manner as laid down u/s 125 Cr.P.C. Sections 12 & 13 of the Domestic Violence Act as well as Rules 6 of the Rules, 2006 are being quoted below:-

"Section 12. Application of Magistrate.

(1) An aggrieved person or a Protection Officer or any other person on behalf of the aggrieved person may present an application to the Magistrate seeking one or more reliefs under this Act:

Provided that before passing any order on such Application, the Magistrate shall take into consideration any domestic incident report received by him from the Protection Officer or the service provider.

(2) The relief sought for under sub-section (1) may include a relief for issuance of an order for payment of compensation or damages without prejudice to the right of such person to institute a suit for compensation or damages for the injuries caused by the acts of domestic violence committed by the respondent:

Provided that where a decree for any amount as compensation or damages has been passed by any court in favour of the aggrieved person, the amount, if any, paid or payable in pursuance of the order made by the Magistrate under this Act shall be set off against the amount payable under such decree and the decree shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), or any other law for the time being in force, be executable for the balance amount, if any, left after such set off.

(3) Every Application under sub-section (1) shall be in such form and contain such particulars as may be prescribed or as nearly as possible thereto.

(4) The Magistrate shall fix the first date of hearing, which shall not ordinarily be beyond three days from the date of receipt of the Application by the Court.

(5) The Magistrate shall Endeavour to dispose of every Application made under sub-section (1) within a period of sixty days from the date of its first hearing.

Section 13. Service of notice.

(1) A notice of the date of hearing fixed under section 12 shall be given by the Magistrate to the Protection Officer, who shall get it served by such means as may be prescribed on the respondent, and on any other person, as directed by the Magistrate within a maximum period of two days or such further reasonable time as may be allowed by the Magistrate from the date of its receipt.

(2) A declaration of service of notice made by the Protection Officer in such form as may be prescribed shall be the proof that such notice was served upon the respondent and on any other person as directed by the Magistrate unless the contrary is proved.

Rule 6. Applications to the Magistrate-

(1) Every Application of the aggrieved person under section 12 shall be in Form II or as nearly as possible thereto.

(2) An aggrieved person may seek the assistance of the Protection Officer in preparing her Application under sub-rule (1) and forwarding the same to the concerned Magistrate.

(3) In case the aggrieved person is illiterate, the Protection Officer shall read over the Application and explain to her the contents thereof.

(4) The affidavit to be filed under sub-section (2) of section 23 shall be filed in Form III.

(5) The applications under section 12 shall be dealt with and the orders enforced in the same manner laid down under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974)."

13. Notice under Section 12 of the Domestic Violence Act has been prescribed in Form VII (Rule 11(1)) of the Rules, 2006, while the format of summons has been prescribed in Form I of the Second Schedule of Cr.P.C. Both these formats show that notice u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act is sent to appear and answer for civil relief claimed by the applicant while summons is sent to appear and reply to the charge of offence. Therefore, this notice is like any suit or civil proceeding notice.

14. When the protection order is breached, then the proceeding u/s 31 of the Domestic Violence Act will be as per Rule 15(6) of the Rules, 2006. Rule 15(6) of the Rules, 2006 provides that the proceeding u/s 31 of the Domestic Violence Act should proceed summarily in accordance with the procedure of Chapter XXI of Cr.P.C. Section 31 of the Domestic Violence Act as well as Rule 15 of the Rules, 2006 are being quoted as under:-

"Section 31. Penalty for breach of protection order by respondent.

(1) A breach of protection order, or of an interim protection order, by the respondent shall be an offence under this Act and shall be punishable with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to twenty thousand rupees, or with both.

(2) The offence under sub-section (1) shall as far as practicable be tried by the Magistrate who had passed the order, the breach of which has been alleged to have been caused by the accused.

(3) While framing charges under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may also frame charges under section 498A of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or any other provision of that Code or the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961), as the case may be, if the facts disclose the commission of an offence under those provisions.

Rule 15. Breach of Protection Orders-

(1) An aggrieved person may report a breach of protection order or an interim protection order to the Protection Officer.

(2) Every report referred to in sub-rule (1) shall be in writing by the informant and duly signed by her.

(3) The Protection Officer shall forward a copy of such complaint with a copy of the protection order of which a breach is alleged to have taken place to the concerned Magistrate for appropriate orders.

(4) The aggrieved person may, if she so desires, make a complaint of breach of protection order or interim protection order directly to the Magistrate or the Police, if she so chooses.

(5) If, at any time after a protection order has been breached, the aggrieved person seeks his assistance, the Protection Officer shall immediately rescue her by seeking help from the local police station and assist the aggrieved person to lodge a report to the local police authorities in appropriate cases.

(6) When charges are framed under section 31 or in respect of offences under section 498-A of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or any other offence not summarily triable, the Court may separate the proceedings for such offences to be tried in the manner prescribed under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) and proceed to summarily try the offence of the breach of protection order under section 31, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XXI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

(7) Any resistance to the enforcement of the orders of the Court under the Act by the respondent or any other person purportedly acting on his behalf shall be deemed to be a breach of protection order or an interim protection order covered under the Act.

(8) A breach of a protection order or an interim protection order shall immediately be reported to the local police station having territorial jurisdiction and shall be dealt with as a cognizable offence as provided under sections 31 and 32.

(9) While enlarging the person on bail arrested under the Act, the Court may, by order, impose the following conditions to protect the aggrieved person and to ensure the presence of the accused before the Court, which may include-

(a) an order restraining the accused from threatening to commit or committing an act of domestic violence;

(b) an order preventing the accused from harassing, telephoning or making any contact with the aggrieved person;

(c) an order directing the accused to vacate and stay away from the residence of the aggrieved person or any place she is likely to visit;

(d) an order prohibiting the possession or use of a firearm or any other dangerous weapon;

(e) an order prohibiting the consumption of alcohol or other drugs;

(f) any other order required for protection, safety and adequate relief to the aggrieved person."

15. Section 14 of the Domestic Violence Act further provides that after service of notice upon the respondent, the Magistrate may try to arrange counseling between the parties. Therefore, it is clear that the proceeding of Application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act, as well as the order, passed therein u/s 18, 19, 20, 21, and 22 of the Domestic Violence Act, are essentially civil in nature. Therefore, the provision of appeal is itself provided u/s 29 of the Domestic Violence Act.

16. Even though Section 28(1) of the Domestic Violence Act provides that except the procedure provided under this Act all other proceedings u/s 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 of Domestic Violence Act and also the offence u/s 31 of Domestic Violence Act shall be governed by the provision of Cr.P.C. with further exception u/s 28(2) of Domestic Violence Act which grants discretion to Court to lay down its procedure for the disposal of Application under Section 12 or Section 23 of Domestic Violence Act. In view of the discretion u/s

28(2) of the Domestic Violence Act, court is not bound to follow the provision of Cr.P.C. in stricto sensu while deciding the application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act. For reference, Section 28 of the Domestic Violence Act is quoted as under:-

"Section 28. Procedure.

(1) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, all proceedings under sections 12, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23 and offences under section 31 shall be governed by the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall prevent the Court from laying down its own procedure for disposal of an application under section 12 or under sub-section (2) of section 23."

17. As the procedure for sending and service of the notice itself provided in the Domestic Violence Act to provide an opportunity to the respondent before passing any order u/s 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 of the Domestic Violence Act and also to try the offence u/s 31 of the Domestic Violence Act, but merely because the criminal Court is deciding the issues which are of civil nature will not itself make the proceeding as criminal.

18. The Apex Court, in the case of S.A.L. Narayan Row vs. Ishwarlal Bhagwandas; AIR 1965 SC 1818, explained the distinction between the civil and criminal proceedings and also observed that the character of the proceeding does not depend upon the nature of the Tribunal, which is invested with the authority grant leave but depends upon the rights violated and appropriate relief which may be claimed. The relevant extract of the judgement of S.A.L. Narayan Row (supra) is quoted as under:-

"The expression "civil proceeding" is not defined in the Constitution, nor in the General Clauses Act. The expression in our judgment covers all proceedings in which a party asserts the existence of a civil right conferred by the civil law or by statute, and claims relief for breach thereof. A criminal proceeding on the other hand is ordinarily one in which if carried to its conclusion it may result in the imposition of sentences such as death, imprisonment, fine or forfeiture of property. It also includes proceedings in which in the larger interest of the State, orders to prevent apprehended breach of the peace, orders to bind down persons who are a danger to the maintenance of peace and order, or orders aimed at preventing vagrancy are contemplated to be passed....."

.....The character of the proceeding, in our judgment, depends not upon the nature of the Tribunal which is invested with authority to grant relief, but upon the nature of the right violated and the appropriate relief which may be claimed. A civil proceeding is, therefore, one in which a person seeks to enforce by appropriate relief the alleged infringement of his civil rights against another person or the State, and which if the claim is proved would result in the declaration express or implied of the right claimed and relief such as payment of debt, damages, compensation, delivery of specific property, enforcement of personal rights, determination of status etc."

19. Therefore, in view of the observation of the Apex Court in the case of S.A.L. Narayan Row (supra), it is clear that judging the character of the proceeding depends upon the nature of the violated right and relief claimed and not the Court which is adjudicating such a proceeding. Merely because the Magistrate is called upon to adjudicate and enforce civil rights, an application under Chapter IV of the Domestic Violence Act will not be sufficient to presume that it is of criminal character. A Magistrate not exercising function or determining cases of criminal character cannot be said to be a criminal court. The purpose of sending a notice to the respondent through protection officer u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act instead of sending a summons as per Section 61 of Cr.P.C. is to grant the opportunity of hearing to the respondent before passing any order and not to accuse him of any offence. Even otherwise, none of the provisions providing relief to the aggrieved person is in the nature of the offence. It is only when the protection or interim protection order was breached only then the criminal proceeding commences u/s 31 & 32 of the Domestic Violence Act. The word "complaint" is defined u/s 2(d) of Cr.P.C. and the same is quoted as under:-

"2(d)."complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report."

20. From the perusal of Section 2(d) of Cr.P.C., it appears that where in an application allegations are made against a person who has committed an offence, but in the case of notice issued u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act, no allegation of commission of an offence is made out. It simply asks the respondent to reply to the averments of the Application filed u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act so that appropriate civil remedy could be granted to the aggrieved person. Rule 16(1) of Rules, 2006 provides the format of Application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act. This format (Form II) nowhere provides any allegation to take action on the part of the Magistrate for committing any offence by the respondent.

21. From the above analysis, it is clear that Application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act is not a complaint as defined u/s 2(d) of Cr.P.C., the procedure for the cognizance set out u/s 190(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. followed by the procedure set out in Chapter XV of Cr.P.C. for taking cognizance will have no application to the proceeding under the Domestic Violence Act. Therefore, Section 190(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. and the procedure mentioned in Chapter XV of Cr.P.C. will apply only in the cases of complaints u/s 2(d) Cr.P.C., filed before a Magistrate and not an application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act. Therefore, the stage of the issuing process contemplated u/s 204 Cr.P.C. has no application to the proceeding u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act as the Court, while dealing with the Application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act, is not taking cognizance of any offence but simply dealing with an application for civil relief. Consequently, the procedure of Sections 200 & 202 Cr.P.C. will not be applicable for an application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act.

22. After the aforementioned discussion, this Court comes to the following conclusion:-

(i) Nature of proceeding u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act is a civil proceeding, and Application u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act is not the complaint as mentioned u/s 2(d) Cr.P.C., therefore, proceeding under the Domestic Violence Act as well as order passed u/s 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 of the Domestic Violence Act are civil in nature except the violation of protection order which is punishable u/s 31 of the Domestic Violence Act;

(ii) Issuance of notice u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act is not a summon as mentioned u/s 61 of Cr.P.C., and while issuing such notice, the Magistrate does not take cognizance for any offence as in the case of complaint defined u/s 2(d) Cr.P.C. Therefore, procedure of Sections 200 & 202 Cr.P.C. does not apply in the proceeding u/s 12 the Domestic Violence Act.

23. In view of the foregoing conclusion, the present Application is dismissed.

24. The Registrar (Compliance) is directed to circulate a copy of this order to all the District Judges in the State of Uttar Pradesh, who in turn will circulate the same to all the judicial officers who are dealing with applications u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482- Quashing of Order Closing Prosecution Evidence – The applicant challenged the order closing prosecution evidence without deciding his application for copies of case documents – Held, the Trial Judge's failure to address the application dated 21.11.2022 before closing evidence violated the applicant's rights, warranting quashing of the order. (Paras 1, 10, 29, 32)

B. Section 207 CrPC – Right to Documents –

The applicant, an accused in a murder trial, sought copies of the case diary, inquest, postmortem reports, and charge-sheet – Held, Section 207 mandates furnishing Statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC to the accused, and non-compliance prejudiced the applicant's right to cross-examine witnesses. (Paras 11, 23, 24, 29)

C. Section 172 CrPC – Limited Access to Case Diary –

The St. argued the accused has no right to case diary entries under Section 172 – Held, the prohibition under Section 172(3) applies to the Investigating Officer's observations, not to witness Statements under Section 161, which must be provided under Section 207. (Paras 13, 24, 26, 27)

D. Fair Trial and Natural Justice –

The applicant was denied the opportunity to cross-examine witnesses due to non-availability of documents – Held, closing prosecution evidence without providing mandated documents and deciding the applicant's application infringed the right to a fair trial, necessitating recall of witnesses if required. (Paras 9, 10, 29, 32)

E. Judicial Discretion and Case Diary Use –

The applicant relied on precedents allowing limited use of case diary entries – Held, courts may use case diaries under Section 172(2) to aid trials, and accused may access Section 161 Statements for cross-examination under Sections 145 and 161 of the Evidence Act, subject to legal restrictions. (Paras 12, 17, 20, 26)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. ('Code' for short) seeks to quash an order dated 16.03.2023, by which the prosecution evidence has been regarded closed and a direction given that the case may come up for recording the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code. It is not this order that substantially aggrieves the applicant. The applicant is aggrieved by the non decision of his application dated 21.11.2022, before passing the order impugned. The applicant, in substance, therefore, seeks that before the Court would direct that the prosecution case is over and the accused's statement under Section 313 of the Code recorded, the applicant, who is an accused at the trial, is entitled to a decision on his application, above referred.

2. The applicant is one of the accused facing trial before the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Ghazipur in

3. According to the applicant, the first information report giving rise to the crime was lodged on 25.09.1986 at 11:30 a.m., while the incident took place on 25.09.1986 earlier in the day at 08:30 a.m. There are three nominated accused in the FIR, to wit, Kanhaiya Singh, Hridaya Narayan Singh and Sheshnath Singh alias Shishu, besides two men unnamed. The first information version is that the informant, Satish Kumar, was a resident of Ward No.5, P.S. Dildarnagar, District Ghazipur. In one of his houses, about 7-8 years ago, Brij Narayan Singh of Village Gohda, P.S. Dildar Nagar, District Ghazipur used to live. Brij Narayan was a Goonda and a man of criminal propensities. In the neighbourhood, people were scared of him. The informant's father asked Brij Narayan Singh to vacate his house, upon which, the former refused.

4. About 5-6 years antedating the FIR under reference, Brij Narayan Singh was murdered. The informant's father was arraigned in the case relating to Brij Narayan Singh's murder, but upon trial, was acquitted. The informant's house, nevertheless, remained in the occupation of Kanhaiya Singh, Brij Narayan Singh's brother.

5. About 7-8 days prior to the occurrence, the informant's father locked the house aforesaid. Kanhaiya Singh threatened the informant's father over locking the house, telling him that he better open the lock, else he would be done to death. The informant's father did not yield and refused to remove the lock. On 25.09.1986, the informant's father, Murat Sahu and his uncle Madan Lal were proceeding to the District Magistrate's office to complain regarding the threat held out by Kanhaiya Singh and also to buy supplies for their shop. They had proceeded from Dildarnagar to the railway station, reaching there at 08:30 in the morning and boarded the train. Kanhaiya Singh, Hridaya Narayan Singh, Sheshnath Singh alias Shishu and two other men, whom the informant did not know, but said that he could identify them if confronted, entered the railway coach. Kanhaiya Singh, Hridaya Narayan Singh and Sheshnath Singh alias Shishu were armed with guns and the two other men, who belonged to Kanhaiya's family, were unarmed. Kanhaiya Singh came forward abusing the informant's father, caught hold of him, dragging him out of the coach. The passengers on board objected. Kanhaiya Singh warned the passengers that if they attempted to resist, they would be shot. This abated all resistance from the passengers, out of fear. In the meanwhile, the train moved. Kanhaiya Singh exhorted his companions to shoot the informant's father, whereupon Seshnath Singh alias Shishu shot the victim. All the five men jumped off the train and made good their escape. The informant's father collapsed and after a little while, passed away. Some passengers on board were nominated as witnesses, whose names figure in the FIR. As soon as the applicant came to know that he was nominated in the case, he surrendered in Court three days after the occurrence and released on bail by the learned Sessions Judge of Ghazipur on 19.02.1987.

6. The applicant says that according to the bail order, it is recorded that there were memos issued by the Guard to the Stationmaster, Tarighat and the Stationmaster of Dildarnagar, who, in turn, sent a message of the occurrence to P.S. G.R.P., Dildarnagar. The said message does not mention the name of the deceased or the accused. The dead body of the deceased reached P.S. Dildarnagar at 09.35 a.m., where the FIR was lodged at about 11:30 a.m. by the complainant, Satish Kumar against the applicant and other members of his family, as the applicant says, on account of animosity. Interestingly, there is much reliance placed on the remarks of the learned Sessions Judge, apparently while granting bail to the effect that the report by the Stationmaster to the G.R.P. should be treated the FIR.

7. The most interesting feature of the case appears to be that a transfer application was made by the informant before this Court being Criminal Misc. Transfer Application No. 810 of 1988, where this Court, vide order dated 28.01.1988, admitted the application, issued notice to the other side and stayed the trial. It is on account of the said order that the trial remained pending from the year 1988 to 2022.

8. The proceedings of the trial were resumed under an order of the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Ghazipur dated 29.10.2022, who proceeded with it relying upon directions of the Supreme Court in Asian Resurfacing of Road Agency Private Limited and another v. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2018) 16 SCC 299.

9. The applicant, upon acquisition of knowledge, that proceedings in the trial had commenced, appeared before the Trial Court on 29.10.2022 and 01.11.2022. On 01.11.2022, the testimony of PW-1 Satish Kumar was recorded before the Trial Judge and time was sought by the applicant to cross-examine him. The applicant was trying to collect relevant documents, including copies of the case diary, inquest report, postmortem report and the charge-sheet, but could not succeed in securing these, as the same were reported to be unavailable. The applicant then made an application before the Trial Judge, seeking a direction to the prosecution to provide him copies of the necessary documents, including the case diary, which would enable him to undertake the prosecution witnesses' cross-examination.

10. The applicant's grievance is that no orders have been made by the Trial Judge on the application dated 21.11.2022, which is still pending. Nevertheless, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses has been heard and recorded in a cursory manner, depriving the applicant of his right to cross-examine them.

11. It is the applicant's case that without following the mandatory provisions of Section 207 of the Code, which obliges the Court to ensure that documents including the case diary, inquest report, the postmortem report and the charge-sheet are provided to the accused free of cost, the trial is proceeding against him. In support of his submission that the conduct of trial in the absence of compliance with Section 207 of the Code is not one held in accordance with law, learned Counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon a decision of the Supreme Court in State of Kerala v. Babu and others, AIR 1999 SC 2161. Allusion would be made to the principle in Babu (supra), and how it bears upon the applicant's case, during the course of this judgment.

12. Learned Counsel for the applicant has further placed reliance upon the guidance of the Supreme Court in State of NCT of Delhi v. Ravi Kant Sharma and others, (2007) 2 SCC 764, which, according to the learned Counsel, is an authority that supports his right to have copies of the statement of witnesses and other documents, part of the case diary, supplied to him before the prosecution witnesses were examined.

13. Mr. D.K. Srivastava, learned Additional Government Advocate, on the other hand, submits that the applicant has no right to ask for a copy of the case diary or the statements recorded by the Police, in view of the provisions of Section 172(2) and 173(3) of the Code, as that right is very limited. He has placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Balakram v. State of Uttarakhand and others, (2017) 7 SCC 668.

14. Heard Mr. Abhishek Pandey, learned Counsel for the applicant and Mr. D.K. Srivastava, learned Additional Government Advocate on behalf of the State.

15. After hearing learned Counsel for the parties and perusing the record, this Court is minded to think that Mr. Pandey and Mr. Srivastava have advanced their submissions relying on very different provisions of the Code, dealing with the same right of the accused, but with regard to a right to access very different kinds of the record of investigation under the Code.

16. Before the issue is elucidated upon, it would be profitable to refer to authorities that are in point.

17. Balakram (supra), upon which Mr. Srivastava has reposed faith, was a case that arose out of an application to submit certain documents before the Trial Judge in a sessions trial on a charge of murder, where the accused proposed to confront a prosecution witness in that case on the basis of those documents. The documents that the accused wanted to bring on record were part of the case diary, maintained by the Police during investigation, under Section 172 of the Code. The witness, who was proposed to be confronted with the documents from the case diary, was the Investigating Officer (PW-15). Copies of the documents in question were secured by the accused by invoking the provisions of the Right to Information Act, 2005. The application was opposed by the complainant on the ground that fresh documents cannot be allowed to be produced on behalf of the accused at a premature stage - premature in the sense that the stage was one where the prosecution testimony was being heard. It was contended on behalf of the complainant opposing the application that the documents could be produced during the stage when the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code were recorded. It was also the complainant's contention that after the statements under Section 313 of the Code were recorded, the accused could produce these documents when it was time to lead defence evidence. The application was rejected by the learned Sessions Judge. Aggrieved, the accused moved the High Court under Section 482 of the Code. The High Court allowed the application under Section 482 of the Code, and this, apparently, made the complainant appeal to their Lordships of the Supreme Court by seeking special leave. The Supreme Court, after referring to the provisions of Section 172 of the Code and Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 ('the Act of 1872' for short) observed :

“9. The aforementioned provisions are to be read conjointly and homogenously. It is evident from sub-section (2) of Section 172 CrPC, that the trial court has unfettered power to call for and examine the entries in the police diaries maintained by the investigating officer. This is a very important safeguard. The legislature has reposed complete trust in the Court which is conducting the inquiry or the trial. If there is any inconsistency or contradiction arising in the evidence, the Court can use the entries made in the diaries for the purposes of contradicting the police officer as provided in sub-section (3) of Section 172 CrPC. It cannot be denied that the Court trying the case is the best guardian of interest of justice. Under sub-section (2) the criminal court may send for diaries and may use them not as evidence, but to aid it in an inquiry or trial. The information which the Court may get from the entries in such diaries usually will be utilised as foundation for questions to be put to the police witness and the court may, if necessary in its discretion use the entries to contradict the police officer, who made them. But the entries in the police diary are neither substantive nor corroborative evidence, and that they cannot be used against any other witness than against the police officer that too for the limited extent indicated above.

10. Coming to the use of police diary by the accused, sub-section (3) of Section 172 clearly lays down that neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for such diaries nor he or they may be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the Court. But, in case the police officer uses the entries in the diaries to refresh his memory or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such police officer, then the provisions of Sections 145 and 161, as the case may be, of the Evidence Act would apply. Section 145 of the Evidence Act provides for cross-examination of a witness as to the previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing and if it was intended to contradict him in writing, his attention must be called to those portions which are to be used for the purpose of contradiction. Section 161 deals with the adverse party's right as to the writing used to refresh memory. It can, therefore, be seen that, the right of the accused to cross-examine the police officer with reference to the entries in the police diary is very much limited in extent and even that limited scope arises only when the Court uses the entries to contradict the police officer or when the police officer uses it for refreshing his memory.

11. In other words, in case if the Court does not use such entries for the purpose of contradicting the police officer or if the police officer does not use the same for refreshing his memory, then the question of the accused getting any right to use entries even to that limited extent does not arise. The accused persons cannot force the police officer to refresh his memory during his examination in the Court by referring to the entries in the police diary.

13. Be that as it may, as mentioned supra, right of the accused to cross-examine the police officer with reference to the entries in the police diary is very much limited in extent and even that limited scope arises only when the Court uses such entries to contradict the police officer or when the police officer uses it for refreshing his memory and that again is subject to the provisions of Sections 145 and 161 of the Evidence Act. Thus, a witness may be cross-examined as to his previous statements made by him as contemplated under Section 145 of the Evidence Act if such previous statements are brought on record, in accordance with law, before the Court and if the contingencies as contemplated under Section 172(3) CrPC are fulfilled. Section 145 of the Evidence Act does not either extend or control the provisions of Section 172 CrPC. We may hasten to add here itself that there is no scope in Section 172 CrPC to enable the Court, the prosecution or the accused to use the police diary for the purpose of contradicting any witness other than the police officer who made it.

15. The police diary is only a record of day-to-day investigation made by the investigating officer. Neither the accused nor his agent is entitled to call for such case diary and also are not entitled to see them during the course of inquiry or trial. The unfettered power conferred by the statute under Section 172(2) CrPC on the court to examine the entries of the police diary would not allow the accused to claim similar unfettered right to inspect the case diary.

17. From the aforementioned, it is clear that the denial of right to the accused to inspect the case diary cannot be characterised as unreasonable or arbitrary. The confidentiality is always kept in the matter of investigation and it is not desirable to make available the police diary to the accused on his demand.

18. Since we are not called upon to decide the question as to whether the copy of the case diary or a portion thereof can be provided to the accused under the provisions of the Right to Information Act, we are not deciding the said question in the matter on hand. In Sidharth v. State of Bihar [Sidharth v. State of Bihar, (2005) 12 SCC 545 : (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 175 : AIR 2005 SC 4352] , the entire case diary maintained by the police was made available to the accused by the trial court. In that context certain observations were made by this Court which read thus : (SCC p. 561, para 27)

“27. ... But if the entire case diary is made available to the accused, it may cause serious prejudice to others and even affect the safety and security of those who may have given statements to the police. The confidentiality is always kept in the matter of criminal investigation and it is not desirable to make available the entire case diary to the accused. In the instant case, we have noticed that the entire case diary was given to the accused and the investigating officer was extensively cross-examined on many facts which were not very much relevant for the purpose of the case. The learned Sessions Judge should have been careful in seeing that the trial of the case was conducted in accordance with the provisions of CrPC.”

19. Since in the matter on hand, neither the police officer has refreshed his memory with reference to entries in the police diary nor has the trial court used the entries in the diary for the purposes of contradicting the police officer (PW 15), it is not open for the accused to produce certain pages of police diary obtained by him under the provisions of the Right to Information Act for the purpose of contradicting the police officer.”

18. The question about the right of the accused or the power of the Court to utilize the entries in the case diary for the purpose of testing the veracity of the police witnesses arose in Shamshul Kanwar v. State of U.P., (1995) 4 SCC 430. The issue in that case arose in the context of the particulars of entries made in the G.D. Entry, Ex. Ka-124 which was referred to, with the accused saying that the G.D. Entry should carry more details, and the absence of the names of the accused there and the witnesses rendered the presence of the witnesses doubtful. It was in the context of what details of the occurrence should be mentioned in the G.D. that the Court examined the question of how and in what manner and to what extent entries in the case diary, envisaged under Section 172 of the Code, can be utilized by the Court and the accused, and subject to what conditions used to contradict, confront or test the veracity of a police witness. After referring to the provisions of Section 172 of the Code, their Lordships of the Supreme Court held in Shamshul Kanwar (supra):

This section firstly lays down that every police officer making an investigation should maintain a diary of his investigation. It is well-known that each State has its own police regulations or otherwise known as police standing orders and some of them provide as to the manner in which such diaries are to be maintained. These diaries are called case diaries or special diaries. The section itself indicates as to the nature of the entries that have to be made and what is intended to be recorded is what the police officer did, the places where he went and the places which he visited etc. and in general it should contain a statement of the circumstances ascertained through his investigation. Sub-section (2) is to the effect that a criminal court may send for the diaries and may use them not as evidence but only to aid in such inquiry or trial. The aid which the court can receive from the entries in such a diary usually is confined to utilising the information given therein as foundation for questions to be put to the witnesses particularly the police witnesses and the court may, if necessary, in its discretion use the entries to contradict the police officer who made them. Coming to their use by the accused, sub-section (3) clearly lays down that neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for such diaries nor he or they may be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the courts. But in case the police officer uses the entries to refresh his memory or if the court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such police officer then provisions of Section 161 or Section 145, as the case may be, of the Evidence Act would apply. Section 145 of the Evidence Act provides for cross-examination of a witness as to the previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing and if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradiction. Section 161 deals with the adverse party's rights as to the production, inspection and cross-examination when a document is used to refresh the memory of the witness. It can therefore be seen that the right of accused to cross-examine the police officer with reference to the entries in the general diary is very much limited in extent and even that limited scope arises only when the court uses the entries to contradict the police officer or when the police officer uses it for refreshing his memory and that again is subject to the limitations of Sections 145 and 161 of the Evidence Act and for that limited purpose only the accused in the discretion of the court may be permitted to peruse the particular entry and in case if the court does not use such entries for the purpose of contradicting the police officer or if the police officer does not use the same for refreshing his memory, then the question of accused getting any right to use the entries even to that limited extent does not arise. The accused person is not entitled to require a police officer to refresh his memory during his examination in court by referring to the diary. At the most the accused can on a reasonable basis seek the court to look into the diary and do the needful within the limits of Section 172 CrPC. However, the court is not bound to compel the police witness to look at the diary in order to refresh his memory nor the accused is entitled to insist that he should do so. If there is such a refusal what inference should be drawn depends on the facts and circumstances of each case. Section 172 does not deal with any recording of statements made by witnesses and what is intended to be recorded is what the police officer did namely the places where he went, the people he visited and what he saw etc. It is Section 161 CrPC which provides for recording of such statements. Assuming that there is failure to keep a diary as required by Section 172 CrPC, the same cannot have the effect of making the evidence of such police officer inadmissible and what inference should be drawn in such a situation depends upon the facts of each case. It is well-settled that the entries of the police diary are neither substantive nor corroborating evidence and they cannot be used by or against any other witness than the police officer and can only be used to the limited extent indicated above. The above-stated principles are reiterated in many decisions rendered by the courts.

18. With regard to the nature of the entries to be made in the diary as required under Section 172 CrPC and the limited permissible use by the court or by the accused indicated therein have been the subject-matter of decisions of a number of High Courts over the years. It may not be necessary to refer to them. However, we have noticed that there is vagueness as to the nature of the diary contemplated under this section. In some States the diary referred to in Section 172 CrPC is known as ‘special diary’ or ‘case diary’ and in some other States like Andhra Pradesh, J & K and Kerala there is a provision in the Police Acts that a “general diary” is to be maintained in the police station thereby indicating it to be different from the case diary. In some States there are police standing orders to the effect that the diary contemplated under Section 172 CrPC can be of two parts; the first one relating to the steps taken during the course of investigation by the police officer with particular reference to time at which the police received the information and the further steps taken during the investigation like visiting the places etc. and the second part contains statement of the circumstances ascertained during the investigation which obviously relate to the statements recorded by the officer in terms of Section 161 CrPC and other relevant materials gathered during the investigation. The copies of the second part which mainly contains the statements of the witnesses as a matter of course are supplied to the accused persons.

20. Therefore it is clear that the diary referred to in Section 172 and which the court may call for and which can be used to the limited extent mentioned therein obviously refers to the first part and to the copies of which the accused is not entitled to and the entries of which can be used to the limited extent by the court as well as by the accused as contained in Section 172 CrPC. If by virtue of such police standing orders, the second part also forms, compendiously, part of the diary as a whole and if that also is before the court, the use of the entries in such second part which contains the statements of the witnesses recorded, would be of different nature. In some States for instance Uttar Pradesh there are regulations regarding the maintenance of general and case diaries. Section 161 CrPC provides for examination of witnesses by police. It further lays down that the police officer during investigation may examine the witnesses and may reduce into writing any statement made to him in the course of such examination and if he does so he shall “make a separate and true record” of the statement of each such person. Section 162 lays down that no such statement made by any person to a police officer shall if reduced to writing be signed “nor shall any such statement or any record thereof whether in a ‘police diary’ or otherwise” be used for any purpose at any inquiry or trial save as provided under that section. The words “police diary or otherwise” used in this section have perhaps been the basis for dividing the diary into two parts. Section 167, an important provision, deals with the procedure when investigation is not completed within 24 hours and provides for production of the accused before a magistrate for seeking remand. This provision also lays down that the officer-in-charge of a police station or the police officer making the investigation “shall forthwith transmit to the nearest judicial magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case” and at the same time forward the accused to such magistrate. Likewise sub-section (2-a) of Section 167 which provides for production of the accused before an executive magistrate lays down that the copy of the entry in the diary ‘hereinafter’ prescribed relating to the case shall be transmitted while forwarding the accused. The object underlying is that the magistrate before remanding the accused to custody should satisfy himself that there is a prima facie case for doing so after a perusal of the copies of the entries “in the diary”. We are referring to this aspect only to point out that some vagueness or confusion is there in respect of the meaning of the word ‘diary’ used in Section 172 and other sections of CrPC and we suggest that a legislative change is necessary providing for framing of appropriate and uniform regulations regarding the maintenance of the diaries by the police for the purpose contemplated by Section 172 CrPC vis-à-vis the other sections referred to above.

21. We are constrained to go into this aspect in an elaborate manner as even today we are coming across a number of cases where there has been a patent misuse of the case diaries to be maintained as per Section 172 CrPC. The Full Court in Mannu case [ILR (1897) 19 All 390 : 17 Awn 174] observed, as long back as 1897, as under:

“It is within the experience of every Judge of this Court that much misconception exists in these Provinces as to the use which can be made by a court or by an accused person or his agents of the diaries which are kept by police officers under Section 172 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and which in these Provinces are known as special diaries. It is within our judicial knowledge that some Sessions Judges and some Magistrates have decided criminal cases by conviction or by acquittal of the accused on statements which are found in the special diary relating to the case....”

To the same effect are the observations by Privy Council in Dal Singh case [AIR 1917 PC 25]. But as pointed out by this Court in Malkiat Singh case [(1991) 4 SCC 341 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 976] that the courts even in recent times are not keeping in view the true scope of Section 172 and the use to which the diaries should be put to.”

19. The question, again, engaged the attention of the Supreme Court in State of Kerala v. Babu and others, (1999) 4 SCC 621. The facts and the proceedings, in the context of which the three questions that arose for consideration before the Court, can best be recapitulated in the words of their Lordships, as these figure in the opening part of the report in Babu (supra):

“1. In a pending sessions case, on behalf of the accused persons, applications were made to summon the case diary of a case registered as Crime No. 81 of 1991 for confronting a witness with his previous statement as found in the said case diary and to recall the said PW 5. The learned Sessions Judge allowed the said applications which came to be challenged in criminal petitions filed before the High Court of Kerala by the State as well as the brother of the deceased. These petitions came to be dismissed by an order of the High Court dated 17-8-1993. Both the Sessions Court and the High Court held that there is no bar in law to summon the case diary of a case even other than the one which is being tried, for the purpose of contradicting the evidence of the prosecution witnesses. In this appeal by special leave, the State of Kerala has raised the following questions of law:

(a) Whether the statement of a witness recorded under Section 161 of the CrPC in one particular crime could be used against that witness in any other trial, enquiry or proceedings by the accused.

(b) Whether the learned Sessions Judge can call for the police diaries of a case which is not under enquiry or trial before him and permit it to be used by the accused for contradicting a witness examined in another case under trial before him.

(c) Whether Section 162 of the CrPC permits the use of statement recorded under Section 161 of the CrPC in any other proceeding other than the enquiry or trial in respect of the offence for which the investigation was conducted.”

20. It must be remarked that the context in Babu was slightly different, because it was about the permissibility of use of statements recorded under Section 161 of the Code in a different crime than the one that was subject matter of trial before the Court. Nevertheless, the Court examined the question in the context of the right of the accused to make use of a witness’s previous statements recorded during the course of investigation for the purpose of impeaching his veracity during trial. Their Lordships in Babu observed : the object of the said section and Section 145 of the Evidence Act, it is clear that an accused in a criminal trial has the right to make use of the previous statements of a witness including the statements recorded by the investigating agency during the course of an investigation for the purpose of establishing a contradiction in the evidence of a witness or to discredit the witness. The question then arises, how does the accused confront the previous statement made by a witness in the course of an investigation to establish the contradiction in the evidence given by the witness in the trial? So far as the statements made during the course of investigation of the case being tried is concerned, there is no difficulty because an accused is entitled under Section 207 of the Code for the supply of free copies of the documents referred to in the said section which includes the previous statement recorded under sub-section (3) of Section 161 of the Code. The accused does not have such a right as a matter of course in regard to other previous statements; more so, in regard to the statements recorded by the investigating agency under Section 161 in a case other than the one that is being tried by the court. Therefore, in the instant case, the accused made an application for summoning the case diary of Crime No. 81 of 1991 invoking the provisions of Section 172 of the Code. But the State contends that this section does not apply to summoning the case diary of cases other than the one that is being tried. Therefore, we will now examine the contention of the State with reference to Section 172 of the Code which reads thus:

“172. Diary of proceedings in investigation.—(1) Every police officer making an investigation under this Chapter shall day by day enter his proceedings in the investigation in a diary, setting forth the time at which the information reached him, the time at which he began and closed his investigation, the place or places visited by him, and a statement of the circumstances ascertained through his investigation.

(2) Any criminal court may send for the police diaries of a case under enquiry or trial in such court, and may use such diaries, not as evidence in the case, but to aid it in such enquiry or trial.

(3) Neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for such diaries, nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the court; but, if they are used by the police officer who made them to refresh his memory, or if the court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such police officer, the provisions of Section 161 or Section 145, as the case may be, of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872), shall apply."

9. Sub-section (1) of the above section mandates that every police officer making an investigation shall maintain a case diary of that case in which among other entries, he shall maintain the statements of the witnesses examined by him during the course of his investigation. Sub-section (2) of the same section empowers a criminal court to send for such police diaries of a case under enquiry or trial in such court, (emphasis supplied) and permits the use of such diaries, not as evidence in the case, but to aid it in such an enquiry or trial. The words used in sub-section (2) of Section 172, more particularly "police diaries of a case under enquiry or trial in such court," indicate it is only that police diary in which the investigating officer concerned had made entries of his investigation and which pertains to the case being tried by the court alone can be sent for. Sub-section (3) of Section 172 further imposes restrictions in the manner in which such diaries can be used by the court. It also specifically bars the right of an accused or his agent to call for such diaries. Thus, on a plain language of this section, it is clear that this section cannot be used for the purpose of summoning a case diary which does not pertain to the investigation of the case which is being tried by the court. It also stands to reason because so far as the accused is concerned in the case in which he is being tried, he would have been supplied with all the documents referred to under Section 207 of the Code. Therefore, the question of he using the entries in the case diary would not arise. Section 172 is specifically meant for the contingencies when the court finds it necessary to look into the case diary for the purpose of finding an aid in the trial or for the purpose of assisting the police officer to refresh his memory. Therefore, Section 172 does not contemplate summoning of the case diary for the purpose of assisting the accused to have a look at the previous statements of the witness for using it for his benefit, as contemplated in Section 162 of the Code. The trial court and the High Court in this case proceeded on the footing that there is no bar under the Code to summon the case diary relating to the cases other than the one that is being tried. Hence, they placed reliance on Section 172 of the Code. We are unable to subscribe to that part of the finding of the courts below that the source of power to summon the case diary of a case other than the one that is being tried, emanates from Section 172 of the Code. The respondents have sought to place reliance on a Division Bench judgment of the High Court of Calcutta in the case of

“Section 172 relates to the police diary made in respect of a case under enquiry or trial by the court which calls for it and therefore does not in terms apply where the diary relates not to the case which was actually being tried by the court but to the counter-case, but the principles set out in the section apply. There is no provision in the Criminal Procedure Code which would prevent the court from looking into the diary of the counter-case, or from using the diary in the counter-case in the way laid down in Section 172(2).”

11. The High Court in the impugned judgment proceeded on the basis that a statement recorded by an investigating officer in any case which was under investigation, being a statement made under Section 161 of the Code, the same can be used for the limited purpose provided under Section 162 of the Code read with Section 145 of the Evidence Act. There can be no quarrel with this approach of the High Court in regard to the use of the previous statements of a witness made in the course of another investigation being used in the course of another criminal trial. This is because as seen from the observations of this Court in the case of Tahsildar Singh [AIR 1959 SC 1012] the very object of enactment of Section 161 of the Code and Section 145 of the Evidence Act is to create a right in the accused to make use of the previous statements of the witnesses for the purpose of contradiction and for impeaching the merit of the witness. This right has not been taken away by Section 172 of the Code and, as noticed above, there is no prohibition in regard to this right of the accused either under the Code or under the Evidence Act. But the question for consideration is, how does the accused exercise this right with reference to a previous statement of a witness made in another case which is recorded by the investigating officer in that case under the provisions of Section 161 of the Code? In our opinion, this right certainly does not flow under Section 172 of the Code nor is the accused entitled to these previous statements under Section 207 of the Code. But, this does not mean that the accused is denied of his limited benefit of using the said previous statements recorded during the course of another investigation. The answer to this question, in our considered view, lies in Section 91(1) of the Code which reads thus:

“91. Summons to produce document or other thing.—(1) Whenever any court or any officer in charge of a police station considers that the production of any document or other thing is necessary or desirable for the purposes of any investigation, enquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code by or before such court or officer, such court may issue a summons, or such officer a written order, to the person in whose possession or power such document or thing is believed to be, requiring him to attend and produce it, or to produce it, at the time and place stated in the summons or order.

(2) Any person required under this section merely to produce a document or other thing shall be deemed to have complied with the requisition if he causes such document or thing to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

(a) to affect Sections 123 and 124 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872), or the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891 (13 of 1891), or

(b) to apply to a letter, postcard, telegram or other document or any parcel or thing in the custody of the postal or telegraph authority.”

12. The language of Section 91 is much wider than the language of Section 172 and by no stretch of imagination it could be contended that the case diary maintained under Section 172 of the Code is not a document as contemplated under Section 91(1) of the Code. If that be so and if the court comes to the conclusion that the production of such a document is necessary or desirable then, in our opinion, the court is entitled to summon the case diary of another case under Section 91 of the Code dehors the provisions of Section 172 of the Code for the purpose of using the statements made in the said diary, for contradicting a witness. When a case diary, as stated above, is summoned under Section 91(1) of the Code then the restrictions imposed under sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 172 would not apply to the use of such case diary but we hasten to add that while using a previous statement recorded in the said case diary, the court should bear in mind the restrictions imposed under Section 162 of the Code and Section 145 of the Evidence Act because what is sought to be used from the case diary so produced are the previous statements recorded under Section 161 of the Code.”

21. The question involved here again fell for consideration in Ravi Kant Sharma (supra). As would appear from the report of the decision in Ravi Kant

Sharma, some directions were issued by the Delhi High Court, directing provision of the gists of interrogation by the Police as statements under Section 161(3) of the Code. It appears that these gists of interrogation were recorded in summary form. If the gists of the interrogation of the accused done by the Investigating Officer, that were his own remarks in the case diary, qualified for statements under Section 161 of the Code, not referable to Section 172 thereof, was the issue that their Lordships of the Supreme Court considered and held :

“11. Under Section 161 CrPC the police officer may reduce into writing any statement made to him in the course of examination under that provision and if he does so he shall make separate and true record of the statement of each such person whose statement he records. The provision in other words authorises the police officer to reduce into writing any statement made by a witness. In a given case the investigating officer may record circumstances ascertained during investigation in the case diary in terms of Section 172 CrPC. It is only when the investigating officer decides to record the statement of witnesses under Section 161 CrPC that he becomes obliged to make a true record of the statement which obviously will not include the interpretation of the investigating officer of the statements or the gists of statement. At this stage it will be necessary to take note of sub-section (b) of Section 173 CrPC which authorises the police officer to claim a sort of privilege in respect of any statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC after giving reasons as to why such statement may not be provided to the accused. Such privilege can only be claimed in respect of statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC and not in respect of what the officer records in the case diary i.e. the gist of the statement under Section 172 CrPC. It will also be necessary to take note of Section 207 CrPC. The Magistrate has to, in terms of that provision, provide to the accused, free of cost, copies of statements recorded under Section 161(3) subject to the exceptions in terms of Section 173(6). A categorical statement has been made by the learned counsel for the appellant that the gist of the statement has not been produced by the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused and the gists of the statements were not recorded in terms of Section 161 CrPC and the accused has no right to ask for the gists of such statements if recorded under Section 172.

12. At this juncture it would be necessary to take note of sub-section (3) of Section 172 which provides that neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for such diaries meaning diary of proceedings in investigation nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the court.

13. As rightly submitted by learned counsel for the appellant, in different States case diaries are maintained in different ways. Some States have a composite case diary which includes the statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC as well as the observations of the investigating officer under Section 172 CrPC. This Court, therefore, in Shamshul Kanwar case [(1995) 4 SCC 430 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 753] held that the statements under Section 161 need to be separated from observations which are recorded under Section 172 in order to make available the statement under Section 161(3) to the accused. The position is entirely different here. Certain observations made by this Court in two recent cases also need to be noted. In Sunita Devi v. State of Bihar [(2005) 1 SCC 608 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 435] it was observed at para 27 as follows : (SCC p. 617)

“27. The supervision notes can in no count be called. They are not a part of the papers which are supplied to the accused. Moreover, the informant is not entitled to the copy of the supervision notes. The supervision notes are recorded by the supervising officer. The documents in terms of Sections 207 and 208 are supplied to make the accused aware of the materials which are sought to be utilised against him. The object is to enable the accused to defend himself properly. The idea behind the supply of copies is to put him on notice of what he has to meet at the trial. The effect of non-supply of copies has been considered by this Court in Noor Khan v. State of Rajasthan [AIR 1964 SC 286 : (1964) 1 Cri LJ 167] and Shakila Abdul Gafar Khan v. Vasant Raghunath Dhoble [(2003) 7 SCC 749 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1918]. It was held that non-supply is not necessarily prejudicial to the accused. The court has to give a definite finding about the prejudice or otherwise. The supervision notes cannot be utilised by the prosecution as a piece of material or evidence against the accused. At the same time the accused cannot make any reference to them for any purpose. If any reference is made before any court to the supervision notes, as has been noted above, they are not to be taken note of by the court concerned. As many instances have come to light when the parties, as in the present case, make reference to the supervision notes, the inevitable conclusion is that they have unauthorised access to the official records. We, therefore, direct the Chief Secretary of each State and Union Territory and the Director Generals of Police concerned to ensure that the supervision notes are not made available to any person and to ensure that confidentiality of the supervision notes is protected. If it comes to light that any official is involved in enabling any person to get the same, appropriate action should be taken against such official. Due care and caution should be taken to see that while supplying police papers supervision notes are not given.”

15. The direction of the High Court as contained in the impugned order is not a definite one. It only refers to Shamshul Kanwar case [(1995) 4 SCC 430 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 753] and concludes that if the “gists” can be regarded as statements under Section 161 CrPC although in summary form they would have to be made over to the accused. It does not factually find out that as to whether the gists can be regarded as statements in view of the position of law stated above. It did not take note of the specific stand of the appellant about separate maintenance of case diaries.”

22 . It would be noticed that in this case, the application dated 21.11.2022 moved by the applicant has not been decided before hearing the prosecution’s testimony, which has been closed by the impugned order dated 16.03.2023, posting the trial for recording the statements under Section 313 of the Code. The application dated 21.11.2022 carries the following material facts and prayer :

“लेकिन मुकदमा वादी द्वारा दी गयी तहरीर के आधार पर अभियोजन साक्षी / मुकदमा वादी का बयान हुआ तथा बचाव पक्ष द्वारा प्रतिपरीक्षा की गयी आज उपरोक्त सत्र परीक्षण साक्ष्य हेतु नियत है तथा अभियोजन साक्षी के रूप में साक्षियों को परिक्षित होना है

23. This is a case where there has been no compliance with the provisions of Section 207 of the Code and the documents postulated under the aforesaid provision of the Code have never been supplied to the applicant. There are assertions to this effect in paragraph Nos.14, 15, and, particularly, paragraph No.18 of the affidavit filed in support of the application. In Paragraph Nos.11, 13 and 14 of the counter affidavit, while answering the assertions in the relative paragraphs above mentioned, it is not disputed for a fact that there has been non-compliance with the provisions of Section 207 of the Code. For a fact, therefore, there is no cavil that the statements recorded by the Police during investigation under Section 161 of the Code have not been provided to the applicant, an accused at the trial. The provisions of Section 207 of the Code read:

“207. Supply to the accused of copy of police report and other documents.—In any case where the proceeding has been instituted on a police report, the Magistrate shall without delay furnish to the accused, free of cost, a copy of each of the following:—

- (i) the police report;
- (ii) the first information report recorded under Section 154;
- (iii) the statements recorded under sub-section (3) of Section 161 of all persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses, excluding therefrom any part in regard to which a request for such exclusion has been made by the police officer under sub-section (6) of Section 173;
- (iv) the confessions and statements, if any, recorded under Section 164;
- (v) any other document or relevant extract thereof forwarded to the Magistrate with the police report under sub-section (5) of Section 173:

Provided that the Magistrate may, after perusing any such part of a statement as is referred to in clause (iii) and considering the reasons given by the police officer for the request, direct that a copy of that part of the statement or of such portion thereof as the Magistrate thinks proper, shall be furnished to the accused:

Provided further that if the Magistrate is satisfied that any document referred to in clause (v) is voluminous, he shall, instead of furnishing the accused with a copy thereof, direct that he will only be allowed to inspect it either personally or through pleader in Court.”

24. From a conjoint reading of the provisions of Sections 207, 173 and 172 of the Code and the way these have been interpreted by high authority, it is evident that the accused has a right to receive all statements recorded under Section 161(3) of the Code by the Investigating Officer, except those regarding which there is a note made by the Police, requesting the Magistrate to exclude from the copies to be granted to the accused, stating his reasons founded on interest of justice or public interest, or still more, their non-relevance to the subject matter. Here, there is no case about any statement recorded under Section 161(3) being requested by the Police to be excluded from the copies granted to the accused in compliance with the provisions of Section 207 of the Code. As the Authorities already considered hold, there is a seminal distinction between those entries made in the case diary by the Investigating Officer that are based on his own observations on one hand, and the statements of witnesses recorded during investigation under Section 161 of the Code, on the other. The prohibition upon the accused or his agents calling for such diaries have been held by the Supreme Court to apply to that part of the diary, where the Investigating Officer may have recorded his own observations, impressions or the gist of investigation. It does not apply to the statements of witnesses that are reduced to writing, under Section 161(3) of the Code, during investigation. This distinction has been elucidated by their Lordships in Shamshul Kanwar and followed in Ravi Kant Sharma. In Shamshul Kanwar, their Lordships spoke of two parts of the case diary, with the first relating to steps taken during the course of investigation, and, the second, carrying statements of witnesses examined during investigation that bear reference to statements reduced to writing under Section 161(3) of the Code.

25. It may also be noticed that these two distinct parts of the case diary, one relating to statements reduced to writing under Section 161(3) of the Code, and the other, relating to the facts and observations of the Investigating Officer, were found to be differently provided for in different States of the country. In fact, the employment of the expression 'diary' in Section 172 of the Code was opined to have sum vagueness or confusion about it in Shamshul Kanwar. The remarks of their Lordships in the said decision carry a suggestion about some legislative change by framing appropriate uniform regulation relating to maintenance of these diaries contemplated under Section 172 of the Code. It would be apposite to note that Section 172 of the Code, since the decisions in Shamshul Kanwar, Ravi Kant Sharma and Babu as well, on a slightly different aspect, has undergone amendment vide Act No.5 of 2009 w.e.f. 13.12.2009. Sub-Sections (1-A) and (1-B) of Section 172 of the Code have been added and the amended provisions read :

(1-B) The diary referred to in sub-section (1) shall be a volume and duly paginated.”

26. It would be noticed that sub-Section (1-A) provides that statement(s) of witness(es) recorded during the course of investigation under Section 161 of the Code shall be inserted in the case diary. This legislative change perhaps takes note of the 'diary' under Section 172 of the Code being in two parts, as observed by the Supreme Court - one relating to steps taken by the Investigating Officer during investigation, which may also carry his own notes and impressions, and the other, carrying statements of persons acquainted with the facts of the case, recorded during investigation under Section 161(3) of the Code. There is, thus, a statutory acknowledgement of the statements of witnesses existing as a separate part of the diary. The prohibition carried in sub-Section (3) of Section 172 of the Code, which does not permit the accused or his agent to call for the case diary, in the considered opinion of this Court, would have no bearing upon the right of the accused to receive copies of statements recorded under Section 161, which he enjoys as a right under Section 207 of the Code. The only limitation on that right is the one mentioned in Section 207(3) read with Section 173(6) of the Code. The prohibition in sub-Section (3) of Section 172 of the Code relates to parts of the case diary that record other matters, other than statements under Section 163(3).

27. Likewise, the applicant would also have a right to receive all other documents mentioned under Section 207 of the Code, even if these were included in the case diary or the diary as postulated in Section 172 of the Code. If the submissions of Mr. Srivastava were accepted, it would lead to an abnegation of the accused's right under Section 207 of the Code. The expression 'diary' postulated in Section 172 and to which part of the 'diary' or the case diary, the embargo on the right of the accused to call for it would attach, can harmoniously be construed with the right of the accused under Section 207 of the Code to receive statements recorded under Section 161(3) by confining the restriction envisaged under sub-Section (3) of Section 172 to that part of the case diary, which contain other details of investigation, other than statements recoded under Section 161 of the Code. This, otherwise too, is the clear legislative intent, which, in this Court's opinion, has been made more explicit with the introduction of sub-Section (1-A) in Section 172 of the Code.

28. The principle in Balakram harped upon much by Mr. Srivastava does, in no way, detract from the view that this Court takes. In that case, the question about the right of the accused to receive statements under Section 161 of the Code never arose. Rather, the issue in Balakram arose out of refusal of an application by the Trial Court to accept on record some pages of the case diary secured by the accused under the Right to Information Act, 2005 at a stage when the prosecution testimony was being heard. The complainant opposed it saying that the documents that were sought to be produced by the accused could be done at the stage when he led defence evidence. It was in this context that the sacrosanctity of the case diary under Section 172 of the Code was pronounced upon by their Lordships of the Supreme Court, noting that the accused had no right to call for the diary. It could be done for a very limited purpose in the two contingencies envisaged under sub-Section (3) of Section 172 of the Code, and that too, for the limited purpose envisaged under Section 161 or 145 of the Act of 1872. The principle in Balakram, therefore, has no bearing on the issue that is involved here.

29. In this conspectus of the law and the state of proceedings in the trial, this Court is of opinion that it was imperative for the learned Sessions Judge to have disposed of the applicant's application dated 21.11.2022 before closing the prosecution evidence. The applicant is entitled to copies of the statements recorded under Section 161, so that he has the liberty of cross-examining the prosecution witnesses in the exercise of his right, and, in the manner specified, under Section 145 and 161 of the Act of 1872. The impugned order closing the prosecution evidence without provision of copies of the statements under Section 161, forecloses the applicant's valuable rights under Sections 145 and 161 of the Act of 1872, that may prejudice him seriously in his defence.

30. For the said reasons, the impugned order cannot be sustained and the Trial Judge deserves to be appropriately directed in the matter in order to secure the ends of justice.

31. Before parting with the matter, this Court places on record our appreciation for the very fair and able assistance rendered in this case by Mr. D.K. Srivastava, learned Additional Government Advocate.

32. In this result, this application succeeds and shall stand allowed. The impugned order dated 16.03.2023 is hereby quashed. Before proceeding further in the matter, the learned Trial Judge shall decide the applicant's application dated 21.11.2022 within the period of 15 days of receipt of a copy of this order, after hearing learned Counsel for parties and bearing in mind the guidance in this judgment. If the applicant is found entitled to provision of copies of the statements under Section 161 of the Code, which he has not yet been furnished and seeks to cross-examine any of the prosecution witness(es), the witness(es) concerned, shall be recalled for the purpose and opportunity to cross-examine given. The trial shall be expedited and concluded early.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION

DATED: ALLAHABAD 22.12.2023

THE HON'BLE DINESH PATHAK, J.

Application U/S 482. No. 17003 of 2023

Om Prakash @ Jani ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:

Sri Chandra Mishra, Sri Abhishek Kumar Mishra, Sri Daya Shankar Mishra (Sr. Adv.)

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482—

No Interference with Order Allowing Additional Charge – The applicant challenged the order dated 23.11.2022 allowing an application to frame an additional charge under Section 376 IPC – Held, the order was lawful, as the trial court rightly entertained the application as a piece of information to rectify a defect in framing charges, and no prejudice to the applicant was demonstrated. (Paras 3, 16, 17, 20, 21)

B. Section 216 CrPC – Court's Power to Alter Charges –

The prosecution's application to add a charge under Section 376 IPC was based on the victim's Statement under Section 161 CrPC – Held, Section 216 CrPC empowers courts to alter or add charges at any stage before judgment, and the trial court's decision to allow the application was within its discretion to ensure a fair trial. (Paras 10, 14, 16, 17)

C. Maintainability of Prosecution's Application –

The applicant argued that no party has a right to move an application under Section 216 CrPC – Held, the prosecution's application was a legitimate means to highlight an omission in framing charges, and the court could act on such information to correct defects, as supported by Anant Prakash Sinha and Soundarajan. (Paras 5, 11, 13, 16)

D. Sufficiency of Material for Additional Charge –

The applicant challenged the adequacy of evidence for framing a charge under Section 376 IPC – Held, the victim's Statement under Section 161 CrPC provided prima facie material for the additional charge, and the applicant could contest its sufficiency at the trial stage. (Paras 8, 18)

E. Validity of Victim's Statement under Section 161 CrPC –

The applicant questioned the sanctity of the victim's Statement recorded by a lady constable during reinvestigation – Held, issues regarding the Statement's genuineness or procedural compliance under the Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956, should be raised before the trial court, not under Section 482 CrPC. (Paras 5, 7, 19)

Application Dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard Sri Daya Shankar Mishra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Abhishek Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for applicant and Sri Raj Kumar Kesari learned counsel for opposite party No.2 as well as learned AGA for the State.

2. Learned counsel for opposite party No.2 has refused to file any counter affidavit in the instant matter, therefore, present application is being decided on merits with the consent of learned counsel for the parties.

3. The applicant has invoked the inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. assailing the order dated 23.11.2022 passed by Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Varanasi in Sessions Trial No. 651 of 2020 arising out of Case Crime No. 300 of 2005, under Sections 372, 373 I.P.C. and Sections 3, 4, 5, 6, 9 of Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956, Police Station Manduwadih, District Varanasi.

4. An FIR, being Case Crime No. 300 of 2005, under Sections 373, 373 I.P.C. and under Sections 3, 4, 5, 6, and 9 of Immoral Traffick (Prevention) Act, 1956 has been lodged by the Police Inspector. Some young girls have been recovered from two different places. Charge sheet has been submitted against two accused persons, however, present applicant was neither named in the FIR nor arraigned in the charge sheet as an accused. Ultimately, Sessions Trial No. 161 of 2006 was concluded convicting both accused and the same was affirmed by this Court in Crl. Appeal No. 5583 of 2016 vide order dated 05.08.2019. During this period an application dated 22.06.2010 (Annexure-2) has been moved under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to call upon the eight persons including present applicant as an accused for trial together with other co-accused. The said application was rejected by the trial court vide order dated 24.05.2021. High Court, on application being filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 29267 of 2011, has relegated the parties before the trial court with a direction to reconsider the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., vide order dated 14.09.2011. Learned trial court, after remand, has passed the order dated 07.01.2012 with a direction that the matter may be reinvestigated under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. In pursuance thereof, after due investigation, Investigating Officer has submitted the supplementary charge sheet dated 17.07.2020 (Annexure No.22) arraigning the present applicant under Sections 3, 4, 5, 6 and 9 of Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956 and under sections 372 and 373 I.P.C. Considering the supplementary charge sheet dated 17.07.2020, learned trial court has framed the charges against the present applicant vide order dated 20.10.2020 (Annexure No.15). At later stage, prosecution has moved an application dated 12.03.2021 (Paper No.10 Kha) (Annexure-20) beseeching frame one additional charge under Section 376 I.P.C. against the present applicant. Learned trial court, vide order impugned dated 23.11.2022 (Anneuxre-21), has allowed the aforesaid application (Paper No.10 Kha) and fix next date 18.12.2022 for framing of additional charge against the present applicant. On the pointed query raised to the learned counsel for the parties they have stated that till date charge has not been framed under Section 376 I.P.C. Having been aggrieved, with order dated 23.11.2022, allowing the application (Paper No.10 Kha), applicant (accused) has invoked the inherent jurisdiction of this Court by moving the present application.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has advanced three fold submissions before this Court. First relating to the maintainability of the application dated 12.03.2021 (Paper No.10 Kha) on the ground that the prosecution or any other interested persons have no locus standi to move any application before the court concerned for alteration or addition of charges under Section 216 Cr.P.C. In support of this submission, learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of P. Kartiklakshmi Vs. Sri Ganesh and Another reported in (2017) 3 SCC 347, Sushil Dhameja and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Another decided by co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 18.04.2023 passed in Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 12344 of 2023 and Kuldeep Vs. State of U.P. decided by co-ordinate Bench of this Court reported in 2019 2 ACR 1947. He has placed reliance as well upon the judgment of Madras High Court in the case of Krishnammal Vs. The Revenue Divisional Officer and others reported in (2008) 0 CrLJ2845. Second submission raised by learned counsel for applicant is that no additional material is available on record to frame additional charge indicting the present applicant under Section 376 I.P.C. Thirdly, learned counsel for the applicant has tried to challenge the sanctity and genuineness of statement made by victim u/s 161 Cr.P.C. during re-investigation and submits that the statement of victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C. as referred in the order dated 23.11.2022 was not recorded, in accordance with law, during re-investigation. It is further submitted that from perusal of the record, prima facie, it appears that alleged statement of victim was got recorded by some lady Constable namely, Poonam Verma. It was not recorded by Investigating Officer, therefore, same cannot be treated to be part of the re-investigation. It is next submitted that under Section 13(2) of Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956, the Special Police Officer shall not be below the rank of an Inspector of Police, whereas instant matter statement was get recorded by the police constable which has got no sanctity in the eye of law. In support of his submission learned counsel for applicant has cited the case of Delhi Administration Vs. Ram Singh 1962 0 AIR (SC) 63. It is further submitted that learned trial court has illegally made an observation in its order dated 23.11.2022 that the victim in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has made allegations of rape against the present applicant. However, in her initial statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. no such allegation was made by the victim against the present applicant. Lastly, it is submitted that the order dated 23.11.2022 passed by learned trial court is liable to be quashed being illegal, unwarranted under the law and tainted with irregularities.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 has contended that in present application, applicant has not challenged the entire criminal proceeding except an order impugned dated 23.11.2022 by which application (Paper No. 10Kha) has been allowed for the purposes of indicting the accused under Section 376 I.P.C. It is further contended that the application (Paper No. 10Kha) cannot be treated to be an independent application rather it is a piece of information given to the court concerned for the irregularity in the proceedings wherein statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has not properly been appraised by the the Court concerned, consequently offence under Section 376 I.P.C. has been left out to be considered. It is further contended that the victim/prosecutrix being a lady has to be examined by the lady officer, therefore, her statement has rightly been recorded by lady constable namely, Poonam Verma on the instructions of the Investigating Officer. Learned counsel for the respondent has drawn attention of the Court towards the second proviso to sub-section 3 of Section 161 Cr.P.C. wherein lady police officer has been entrusted to record the statement of a woman against whom offence under several sections of I.P.C. including Section 376 I.P.C. has been committed. He has also placed reliance on the provisions as enunciated under Section 15, sub-Section 6-A, of the Immoral Traffic Act wherein victim is required to be interrogated by the woman police officer. Lastly it is contended that learned trial court has rightly passed order impugned dated 23.11.2022, which does not warrant any indulgence of this Court in exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C., therefore, the instant application is liable to be rejected being misconceived and devoid of merits.

7. In reply, learned counsel for the applicant submits that the copy of statement of victim under section 161 Cr.P.C., as referred in the order impugned, has not been supplied/given to the present applicant (accused), therefore, he was not in a position to go through the aforesaid statement. He has further submitted that it appears that alleged statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. dated 05.02.2020, as referred by the respondents in his impleadment application has been planted subsequently for the purpose of framing additional charge u/s 376 I.P.C. It is further submitted that for the purposes of investigation under the Immoral Traffic Act a Special Police Officer not below the rank of Inspector of Police is authorised to investigate or record the statement of the victim, therefore, in the instant matter statement recorded by the concerned lady constable vitiates the process of the entire statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

8. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of record, it manifested that the name of the present applicant was emerged during re-investigation under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. and he has been arraigned in the supplementary charge sheet dated 17.07.2020. During re-investigation victim has made her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. which is evident from the copy of the supplementary charge sheet (Annexure No.5) wherein name of victim has find placed at serial No.2. Having considered the material on record filed along with the subsequent charge sheet dated 17.07.2020, learned trial court has framed as many as seven charges, vide order dated 20.10.2020, against the present applicant. At later stage, prosecution has moved a miscellaneous application to frame additional charge under Section 376 I.P.C. inasmuch as same has been left to be considered whereas specific allegations has been made by the victim in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in this regard.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant in his first submission has raised question qua maintainability of the application (Paper No.10 Kha) moved on behalf of the prosecution with a submission that there is no provision under the law to move such application before the trial court who himself competent to subtract or addition of charges in exercise of power under Section 216 Cr.P.C. On the contrary learned counsel for opposite party No.2 has contended that application (Paper No. 10 Kha) under Section 216 Cr.P.C. moved by the prosecution was nothing but a piece of information to bring the relevant fact in the notice of learned trial court, which has been over cited by the concerned court, to eliminate defect in framing of the charge.

10. For analyzing the divergent submissions made by the counsel for the rival parties it would be befitting to consider the scope of Section 216 Cr.P.C., which is quoted herein below :-

"(1) Any Court may alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced.

(2) Every such alteration or addition shall be read and explained to the accused.

(3) If the alteration or addition to a charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may, in its discretion, after such alteration or addition has been made, proceed with the trial as if the altered or added charge had been the original charge.

(4) If the alteration or addition is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

(5) If the offence stated in the altered or added charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction had been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered or added charge is founded."

11. Bare perusal of Section 216 Cr.P.C. clearly denotes that the court is empowered to alter charges at any stage of trial before the delivery of judgment. Question with respect to the maintainability of miscellaneous application (Paper No. Kha) moved by prosecution or any other party for framing of additional charges under Section 216 Cr.P.C. is relevant for the purposes of deciding the instant matter. In the case of P. Kartikalakshmi (Supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court has expounded that there is no right to any party to seek for a subtraction or addition of charges by filing any miscellaneous application as a matter of right. The relevant paragraph Nos. 6 and 7 of the judgment is quoted herein below :-

"6. Having heard the learned counsel for the respective parties, we find force in the submission of the learned Senior Counsel for Respondent No.1. Section 216 Cr.P.C. empowers the Court to alter or add any charge at any time before the judgment is pronounced. It is now well settled that the power vested in the Court is exclusive to the Court and there is no right in any party to seek for such addition or alteration by filing any application as a matter of right. It may be that if there was an omission in the framing of the charge and if it comes to the knowledge of the Court trying the offence, the power is always vested in the Court, as provided under Section 216 Cr.P.C. to either alter or add the charge and that such power is available with the Court at any time before the judgment is pronounced. It is an enabling provision for the Court to exercise its power under certain contingencies which comes to its notice or brought to its notice. In such a situation, if it comes to the knowledge of the Court that a necessity has arisen for the charge to be altered or added, it may do so on its own and no order need to be passed for that purpose. After such alteration or addition when the final decision is rendered, it will be open for the parties to work out their remedies in accordance with law.

7. We were taken through Sections 221 and 222 Cr.P.C. in this context. In the light of the facts involved in this case, we are only concerned with Section 216 Cr.P.C. We, therefore, do not propose to examine the implications of the other provisions to the case on hand. We wish to confine ourselves to the invocation of Section 216 and rest with that. In the light of our conclusion that the power of invocation of Section 216 Cr.P.C. is exclusively confined with the Court as an enabling provision for the purpose of alteration or addition of any charge at any time before pronouncement of the judgment, we make it clear that no party neither de facto complainant nor the accused or for that matter the prosecution has any vested right to seek any addition or alteration of charge, because it is not provided under Section 216 Cr.P.C. If such a course to be adopted by the parties is allowed, then it will be well-nigh impossible for the criminal court to conclude its proceedings and the concept of speedy trial will get jeopardised."

12. Hon'ble Supreme Court has further clarified in the case of Anant

Prakash Sinha @ Anant Sinha Vs. State of Haryana and Another (2016) 6 SCC 105 that it is obligatory at the part of the court to see that no prejudiced cause to the accused and he is allowed to have a fair trial and court can change or alter the charges if there is no defect or something is left out. Relevant paragraph No.18 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted herein below :-

"8. The controversy as raised rests on two aspects. The first aspect that has emanated for consideration is whether without evidence being adduced another charge could be added. In this context, we may usefully refer to Section 216 CrPC which reads as follows:-

"216. Court may alter charge.—

(1) Any court may alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced.

(2) Every such alteration or addition shall be read and explained to the accused.

(3) If the alteration or addition to a charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the court may, in its discretion, after such alteration or addition has been made, proceed with the trial as if the altered or added charge had been the original charge.

(4) If the alteration or addition is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary. (5) If the offence stated in the altered or added charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered or added charge is founded."

13. In the aforesaid judgment Hon'ble Supreme Court has also examined the maintainability of the application moved by the private party for alteration of charge. Parting with the matter Hon'ble Supreme Court has expounded that by way of application relevant fact has brought to the knowledge of learned Magistrate about the defect in framing the charges, therefore, Magistrate has not committed any error in entertaining the said application. Relevant paragraph Nos. 21 and 22 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted herein below :-

"21. Presently to the second aspect. Submission of Mr. Sharan is that the learned Magistrate could not have entertained the application preferred by the informant, for such an application is incompetent because it has to be filed by the public prosecutor. In this regard, he has laid stress on the decision in Shiv Kumar v. Jukam Chand and another²³. In the said case, the grievance of the appellant was that counsel engaged by him was not allowed by the High Court to conduct the prosecution in spite of obtaining a consent from the concerned Public Prosecutor. The trial court had passed an order to the extent that the advocate engaged by the informant shall conduct the case under the supervision, guidance and control of the Public Prosecutor. He had further directed that the Public Prosecutor shall retain with himself the control over the proceedings. The said order was challenged before the High Court and the learned single Judge allowing the revision had directed that the lawyer appointed by the complainant or private person shall act under the directions from the Public Prosecutor and may with the permission of the court submit written arguments after evidence is closed and the Public Prosecutor in-charge of the case shall conduct the prosecution. This Court referred to Sections 301, 302(2), 225 CrPC and various other provisions and came to hold as follows:- "

"13. From the scheme of the Code the legislative intention is manifestly clear that prosecution in a Sessions Court cannot be conducted by anyone other than the Public Prosecutor. The legislature reminds the State that the policy must strictly conform to fairness in the trial of an accused in a Sessions Court. A Public Prosecutor is not expected to show a thirst to reach the case in the conviction of the accused somehow or the other irrespective of the true facts involved in the case. The expected attitude of the Public Prosecutor while conducting prosecution must be couched in fairness not only to the court and to the investigating agencies but to the accused as well. If an accused is entitled to any legitimate benefit during trial the Public Prosecutor should not scuttle/conceal it. On the contrary, it is the duty of the Public Prosecutor to winch it to the fore and make it available to the accused. Even if the defence counsel overlooked it, the Public Prosecutor has the added responsibility to bring it to the notice of the court if it comes to his knowledge. A private counsel, if allowed a free hand to conduct prosecution would focus on bringing the case to conviction even if it is not a fit case to be so convicted.

That is the reason why Parliament applied a bridle on him and subjected his role strictly to the instructions given by the Public Prosecutor.

14. It is not merely an overall supervision which the Public Prosecutor is expected to perform in such cases when a privately engaged counsel is permitted to act on his behalf. The role which a private counsel in such a situation can play is, perhaps, comparable with that of a junior advocate conducting the case of his senior in a court. The private counsel is to act on behalf of the Public Prosecutor albeit the fact that he is engaged in the case by a private party. If the role of the Public Prosecutor is allowed to shrink to a mere supervisory role the trial would become a combat between the private party and the accused which would render the legislative mandate in Section 225 of the Code a dead letter."

22. Being of this view, this Court upheld the order passed by the High Court. The said decision in Shiv Kumar v. Jukam Chand and another²³ is, in our opinion, is distinguishable on facts. The instant case does not pertain to trial or any area by which a private lawyer takes control of the proceedings. As is evident, an application was filed by the informant to add a charge under Section 406 IPC as there were allegations against the husband about the criminal breach of trust as far as her stridhan is concerned. It was, in a way, bringing to the notice of the learned Magistrate about the defect in framing of the charge. The court could have done it suo motu. In such a situation, we do not find any fault on the part of learned Magistrate in entertaining the said application. It may be stated that the learned Magistrate has referred to the materials and recorded his prima facie satisfaction. There is no error in the said prima facie view. We also do not perceive any error in the revisional order by which it has set aside the charge framed against the mother-in-law. Accordingly, we affirm the order of the High Court in expressing its disinclination to interfere with the order passed in revision. We may clarify that the entire scrutiny is only for the purpose of framing of charge and nothing else. The learned Magistrate will proceed with the trial and decide the matter as per the evidence brought on record and shall not be influenced by any observations made as the same have to be restricted for the purpose of testing the legal defensibility of the impugned order."

14. Discussing the wide power of the trial court under Section 216 Cr.P.C. Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in the matter of Dr. Nallapareddy Sridhar Reddy Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and Others (2020) 12 SCC 467, that the court has immense power to change or altering the charges at any stage. The relevant paragraph No.21 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted herein below :-

"21. From the above line of precedents, it is clear that Section 216 provides the court an exclusive and wide-ranging power to change or alter any charge. The use of the words "at any time before judgment is pronounced" in Sub-Section (1) empowers the court to exercise its powers of altering or adding charges even after the completion of evidence, arguments and reserving of the judgment. The alteration or addition of a charge may be done if in the opinion of the court there was an omission in the framing of charge or if upon prima facie examination of the material brought on record, it leads the court to form a presumptive opinion as to the existence of the factual ingredients constituting the alleged offence. The test to be adopted by the court while deciding upon an addition or alteration of a charge is that the material brought on record needs to have a direct link or nexus with the ingredients of the alleged offence. Addition of a charge merely commences the trial for the additional charges, whereupon, based on the evidence, it is to be determined whether the accused may be convicted for the additional charges. The court must exercise its powers under Section 216 judiciously and ensure that no prejudice is caused to the accused and that he is allowed to have a fair trial. The only constraint on the court's power is the prejudice likely to be caused to the accused by the addition or alteration of charges. Sub-Section (4) accordingly prescribes the approach to be adopted by the courts where prejudice may be caused."

15. Learned counsel for the applicant has emphasized the judgment passed by coordinate Bench of this Court in the matter of Sushil Dhameja and Another (Supra) wherein this Court has quashed order passed by the trial court by which miscellaneous application u/s 216 Cr.P.C. moved on behalf of the prosecution has been entertained and allowed. While passing the order, coordinate Bench of this Court has referred the dictum of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of P. Kartikalakshmi (Supra) and in the light of the said judgment quashed the order passed by the court below and granted liberty to the trial court to pass fresh order in the light of the provisions as enunciated under Section 216 Cr.P.C. Learned counsel for applicant has also placed reliance upon the case of Kuldeep (Supra) decided by coordinate Bench of this Court. The facts of the cited case are distinguishable in the given circumstances of the present case. In the cited case application to alter the charges was moved on 30.01.2018 under Section 216 Cr.P.C. and the same was kept pending which lead to file an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. for a direction to expeditious disposal of the said application. Hon'ble Judge has dismissed the application with an observation that separate application under Section 216 Cr.P.C. for subtraction or addition of charges is not maintainable in the eye of law, accordingly, refused to issue direction for expeditious disposal of said application. In the recent judgment of Soundarajan Vs. State Rep. by Inspector of Vigilance Anti Corruption Dindigul, 2023 SCC Online SC 242. Hon'ble Supreme Court has expounded that even a public prosecutor has a duty to be vigilant and if a proper charge is not framed it is his duty to apply to the court to frame an appropriate charge. Relevant paragraph No.16 of the said judgment is quoted herein below :-

"We find that, in this case, the charge has been framed very casually. The Trial Courts ought to be very meticulous Criminal Appeal No.1592 of 2022 when it comes to the framing of charges. In a given case, any such error or omission may lead to acquittal and/or a long delay in trial due to an order of remand which can be passed under subsection (2) of Section 464 of CrPC. Apart from the duty of the Trial Court, even the public prosecutor has a duty to be vigilant, and if a proper charge is not framed, it is his duty to apply to the Court to frame an appropriate charge."

16. Having considered the matter in hand, in light of the guidelines of Hon'ble Supreme Court as discussed above, I am of the considered opinion that learned trial court has rightly entertained the Misc. Application (Paper No.10Kha) as a piece of information moved on behalf of prosecution. While deciding the said application, learned trial court has specifically considered the allegation of forceful sexual assault made by victim which was left to be noticed at the time of framing charges. In her statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. she has made specific allegation, as highlighted by learned trial court, of rape. Statement of victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded by the Investigating Officer during re-investigation under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. The right of accused to have a fair trial and no prejudiced beget to him while conducting the trial is an obligatory at the part of the court, however, said right of the accused cannot be seen in isolation and same would be considered in conjunction with the provisions as enunciated under Section 216 Cr.P.C., Therefore, any defect in framing charges which begot due to lack of proper consideration of the material on record can be rectified at any stage of trial even before the delivery of judgment in exercise of power under Section 216 Cr.P.C. It might possible that court misled in framing of charges, the Public Prosecutor has a duty to be vigilant and apprise the court qua correct facts of the case in the light of the material on record and, accordingly, take an appropriate steps for subtraction or addition of charges under the provisions of law as enunciated under Section 216 Cr.P.C. In this respect Hon'ble Supreme Court has clearly held in the matter Soundarajan (Supra) that the Public Prosecutor is entrusted with duty to apprise the court qua defect, if any, in framing charges. In the matter in hand, ADGC (Public Prosecutor) has moved application dated 15.03.2021 (Paper No.10Kha) to frame additional charge under Section 376

I.P.C. against the present applicant. Learned trial court, vide order impugned dated 10.11.2022, has entertained the said application as a piece of information and acknowledged the defect in framing of charges, wherein allegation of rape made by the victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has been left to be considered. Learned trial court by order impugned has simply allowed the application and deferred the hearing of the case for the next date to frame additional charge and, accordingly, accused has been directed to be present on the next date. It is admitted position to both the parties that till date additional charge under Section 376 I.P.C. has not been framed by the trial court in pursuance of the order impugned dated 23.11.2022.

17. As discussed above, there is no iota of doubt qua wide power of the courts for subtraction or addition of charges under Section 216 Cr.P.C. Miscellaneous application dated 12.3.2021 (Paper no.10Kha) moved on behalf of the prosecution cannot be treated to be an independent initiation rather than a piece of information which is pious duty of the prosecution (Public Prosecutor) to bring the correct fact to the notice of the court concerned so that correct charges could be framed for the purposes of fair trial sans begetting prejudiced to any party. Even assuming for the sake of argument, as raised by learned counsel for the applicant, that no party has vested right to seek any addition or alteration of charge by moving an application, the power vested in the court would not be affected owing to entertaining such application as a piece of information to alter the charges, in case, there is any omission or defect in framing of charges due to ignorance of the relevant event which is already on the record. Once the defect has been brought to the knowledge of the court it would not be befitting for him oblivious to the allegation as levelled by the victim against the present applicant. Even otherwise, having considered the material on record learned court is competent enough to pass an order suo moto to substract or addition of the charges. Therefore, in my considered opinion learned trial court has not committed any error in entertaining the application (Paper No.10Kha) and fixed dated for framing of charge in the light of the fact which has been brought to his knowledge in the said application.

18. Second submission raised by learned counsel for the applicant questioning the availability of inadequate material for framing of additional charge u/s 376 I.P.C. is unfounded at this stage. Statement of victim u/s 161 Cr.P.C., priam facie, is suficient to alter the charges in exercise of jurisdiction u/s 216 Cr.P.C. Trial court by order impugned has simply allowed the application acknowledging the relevant fact for the purposes of framing of charge, however, he has deferred the matter for framing of charge on the next date fixed. Therefore, in may opinion opportunity is still open for the applicant to raise question qua adequate material on record with respect to the framing of additional charge, if any.

19. Third submission raised by learned counsel for the applicant questioning the genuineness and sanctity of the statement dated 05.02.2020 made by victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is unfounded as well. At this juncture, wherein trial commenced after framing of charges vide order dated 20.10.2020 and, at later stage, next date fixed for addition of charge under Section 376 I.P.C. it would not be befitting for this Court to examine the sanctity, genuineness and correctness of the statement made by the victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C. during reinvestigation, whereas same can be examined by the trial court at the appropriate stage of trial. So far as the allegation made by the applicant in his rejoinder affidavit that the statement made by victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C. during reinvestigation has not been supplied to him, same can be raised before the trial court as well at the relevant stage. At this stage of trial, for the procedural glitch, if any, this Court cannot assume inherent jurisdiction to quash the proceedings. Genuineness and sanctity of the statement made by victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in the light of the provision as enunciated under Section 13(2) Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956 and not recording her statement by the authority competent, as pointed out by learned counsel for the applicant, is a matter of scrutiny which can more appropriately be adjudicated upon by the trial court while examining the relevance and admissibility of the evidence during trial. At this juncture, this Court, in exercise of it's inherent jurisdiction, cannot assume the power to examine the correctness and validity of the statement of witness under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in the light of procedural glitch, if any, more particularly for want of recording the statement by authority competent as allegedly required under the Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956.

20. In this conspectus, as above, I do not find any justifiable ground to entertain the instant application at this juncture. There is no illegality, perversity, ambiguity or infirmity in the order under challenge. I found neither any abuse of process of court in the order impugned dated 23.11.2022 nor is there any valid ground to interfere in

5. Sunil Bharti Mittal Vs CBI, (2015)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prashant Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amit Daga, learned counsel for applicant, Sri Swetashwa Agarwal, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Sri Shashidhar Pandey, learned AGA for the State.

2. By means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the applicant has prayed for quashing the summoning order dated 16.02.2016 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Muzaffarnagar in Criminal Complaint Case No.49/9 of 2016 (whereby the trial court summoned accused applicant for the offence punishable under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act) as well as entire proceedings of Criminal Complaint Case No.49/9 of 2016 (Uttarakhand Engineering Products Pvt. Ltd. Vs. M/s. Trimurti Concast Pvt. Ltd. and others), under Section 138 of N.I.Act, Police Station New Mandi, District Muzaffarnagar, pending in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Muzaffarnagar.

3. Brief facts of the case are that Uttarakhand Engineering Products Private Limited (here-in-after for the sake of brevity has been referred to as "Complainant") is engaged in the business of Sponge Iron and Silicon Manganese. M/s Trimurti Concast Pvt. Ltd. placed an order for supply of Sponge Iron and Silicon Manganese, the complainant supplied the product, thereafter, M/s Trimurti Concast Pvt. Ltd gave a cheque of Rs.1,07,05,318.00 on 16.07.2015 bearing cheque no.000441 drawn in HDFC Bank, 53/4-A, Bagh Kambalwala, Jansath Road, New Mandi Muzaffarnagar. This cheque was presented on 12.10.2015 and the same was bounced because of insufficiency of funds, thereafter, the complainant gave a legal notice on 23.10.2015 within stipulated time. When, M/s Trimurti Concast Pvt. Ltd did not pay the said amount the complainant was left with no option but to file a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act before Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffarnagar. The evidence was filed by way of an affidavit and also filed all relevant documents, thereafter, the Court was pleased to issue summons on 16.02.2016.

4. Once the summons were issued, the applicant herein, Ashok Sharma, who was signatory of the cheque filed the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in which this Court vide order dated 05.07.2016 issued notices to the opposite party no.2 and stayed the further proceedings of the aforesaid complaint case, therefore, the trial could not proceed since last 8 years. Now the pleadings are complete and the matter is ripe for hearing.

ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE APPLICANT

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that prosecution, initiated under Section 138 of N.I.Act by and on behalf of the company cannot be initiated through power of attorne. It is initiated by power of attorney HOLDER, then the power of attorney and letter of authorized signatory must be on record of trial court. There was not even a single authorization letter, power of attorney or letter bearing seal and signatures of the Board of Directors of the Company, which authorize to institute complaint on behalf of the complainant is available before the trial Court, therefore, the complaint filed by the complainant is not maintainable

6. He further submits that complaint does not fulfil the basic ingredients of Section 141 of N.I.Act. The complaint as well as the statements are absolutely silent on the point, that on the date of issuance of the cheque or on the date on which the cheque was dishonoured, who was in charge or responsible, and looking after day to day affairs of the company. Hence, the complaint against the applicant is not maintainable.

7. In support of his argument learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance on the judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of A.C. Narayan vs. State of Maharashtra and another¹ wherein the Court had held as follows:-

“In the light of the discussion, we are of the view that the power of attorney holder may be allowed to file, appear and depose for the purpose of issue of process for the offence punishable under Section 138 of the N.I. Act. An exception to the above is when the power of attorney holder of the complainant does not have a personal knowledge about the transactions then he cannot be examined. However, where the attorney holder of the complainant is in charge of the business of the complainant payee and the attorney holder alone is personally aware of the transactions, there is no reason why the attorney holder cannot depose as a witness. Nevertheless, an explicit assertion as to the knowledge of the Power of Attorney holder about the transaction in question must be specified in the complaint. On this count, the fourth question becomes infructuous.

In view of the discussion, we are of the opinion that the attorney holder cannot file a complaint in his own name as if he was the complainant, but he can initiate criminal proceedings on behalf of his principal. We also reiterate that where the payee is a proprietary concern, the complaint can be filed (i) by the proprietor of the proprietary concern, describing himself as the sole proprietor of the “payee”; (ii) the Page 13 13 proprietary concern, describing itself as a sole proprietary concern, represented by its sole proprietor; and (iii) the proprietor or the proprietary concern represented by the attorney holder under a power of attorney executed by the sole proprietor.”

8. Learned counsel for the applicant further placed reliance on the judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court A.C. Narayanan vs. State of Maharashtra and another² wherein the Court held as follows:-

“From the bare perusal of the said complaint, it can be seen that except mentioning in the cause title there is no mention of, or a reference to the Power of Attorney in the body of the said complaint nor was it exhibited as part of the said complaint. Further, in the list of evidence there is just a mere mention of the words at serial no.6 viz. “Power of Attorney”, however there is no date or any other particulars of the Power of Attorney mentioned in the complaint. Even in the verification statement made by the respondent no.2, there is not even a whisper that she is filing the complaint as the Power of Attorney holder of the complainant. Even the order of issue of process dated 20th February, 1998 does not mention that the Magistrate had perused any Power of Attorney for issuing process.

The appellant has stated that his Advocate conducted search and inspection of the papers and proceedings of the criminal complaint and found that no Power of Attorney was found to be a part of that record. This has not been disputed by the respondents. In that view of the matter and in light of decision of the larger Bench, as referred above, we hold that the Magistrate wrongly took cognizance in the matter and the Court below erred in putting the onus on the appellant rather than the complainant. The aforesaid fact has also been overlooked by the High Court while passing the impugned judgment dated 12th August, 2005."

9. He further submits that in the complaint it is not stated that the complaint has been filed through the power of attorney holder. He further submits that there is no averment in the complaint nor in the counter affidavit where the authorized signatory is said to have knowledge about the business transactions between the accused and company. If it is not so, it is a directors alone who should be deposed before the trial Court.

10. He further submits that it has not been averred in the complaint or in the counter affidavit that the director, Mr. Ashok Sharma was responsible for the day to day affairs of the company. He further submits that only allegation against the applicant is that he (Ashok Sharma) was the signatory and has issued the cheque.

11. He further submits that applicant, Ashok Sharma is not an active director of the company; he is a sleeping director of the company and not actively involved in the day to day affairs of the company and not authorized to conduct day to day affairs of the company, nor had the authority to sign or issue the cheque.

ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF OPPOSITE PARTY NO.2

12. Per contra, Mr. Shwetashwa Agarwal, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submits that the averment made by the applicant that the applicant, Ashok Sharma was a sleeping director is just a fig of imagination. He cannot be a sleeping director when he himself is signing the cheque. As regards to, whether he has no authority to sign the cheque, Mr. Agarwal states, if he has no authority to sign the cheque then signing a cheque amounts to a criminal breach of trust. It was that situation why the other directors have not initiated any criminal proceedings against him.

13. In response to the first submission, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 submits that the law cited by counsel for the applicant has been watered down and clarified in the latest judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M/s TRL Krosaki Reractories Ltd. Vs. M/s SMS Asia Private Limited and another (Criminal Appeal No.270 of 2022 arising out of SLP (Crl.) No.3113 of 2016)³ he relies on paragraph no.25, which is quoted hereunder:-

“In that view, the position that would emerge is that when a company is the payee of the cheque based on which a complaint is filed under Section 138 of N.I. Act, the complainant necessarily should be the Company which would be represented by an employee who is authorized. Prima facie, in such a situation the indication in the complaint and the sworn statement (either orally or by affidavit) to the effect that the complainant (Company) is represented by an authorized person who has knowledge, would be sufficient. The employment of the terms “specific assertion as to the knowledge of the power of attorney holder” and such assertion about knowledge should be “said explicitly” as stated in A.C. Narayanan (supra) cannot be understood to mean that the assertion should be in any particular manner, much less only in the manner understood by the accused in the case. All that is necessary is to demonstrate before the learned Magistrate that the complaint filed is in the name of the “payee” and if the person who is prosecuting the complaint is different from the payee, the authorisation therefor and that the contents of the complaint are within his knowledge. When, the complainant/payee is a company, an authorized employee can represent the company. Such averment and prima facie material is sufficient for the learned Magistrate to take cognizance and issue process. If at all, there is any serious dispute with regard to the person prosecuting the complaint not being authorized or if it is to be demonstrated that the person who filed the complaint has no knowledge of the transaction and, as such that person could not have instituted and prosecuted the complaint, it would be open for the accused to dispute the position and establish the same during the course of the trial. As noted in Samrat Shipping Co.

Pvt. Ltd. 4dismissal of a complaint at the threshold by the Magistrate on the question of authorisation, would not be justified. Similarly, we are of the view that in such circumstances entertaining a petition under Section 482 to quash the order taking cognizance by the Magistrate would be unjustified when the issue of proper authorisation and knowledge can only be an issue for trial.”

14. He further submits that A.C. Narayanan case was between two individuals and the Hon’ble Supreme Court was appreciating the facts of that particular case vis a vis the powers of a principal and an agent inter se and now that law has been clarified because in the cases of company, a company is a corporeal personality it is a de jure complainant and the person, who is representing the company is a defacto complainant, so those parameters of specific assertions, specific words cannot be put into a strait-jacket formula and those specific words are not required to be mentioned. The only thing, which has to be appreciated by the Court at the time of summoning of accused is as to whether the complaint has been filed by a payee or a holder in due course, which in the case is a company so obviously the company has filed the complaint but through a defacto complainant, who is authorized signatory duly authorized by the resolution of the Board of Directors of the company. He further submits that it is a sufficient requirement to meet out the ingredients of Section 141 of N.I.Act. He further submits that it has also been held by the Hon’ble Supreme Court that these arguments as to whether he had the authority or not cannot be appreciated at the time of summoning and there is a full-fledged trial to follow to adjudicate these issues. The accused has the liberty to raise these questions during the course of trial but at the stage of summoning this burden cannot be put upon the magistrate to scan through the entire evidence and conduct a mini trial prior to the summoning of the accused.

15. He further submits that in the complaint if a specific word is not used that would not defeat the substantive right for prosecution. Once he has specifically alleged the specific acts and the role played to the accused persons.

16. He further submits that the complaint qualifies the threshold of the complaint as per the ingredient of Sections 138 and 142 of N.I.Act. The legally enforceable debt is there it is not disputed, the cheque has been dishonoured on the ground of insufficient funds, it cannot be disputed. The legal notice was sent in time, it is not disputed and the complaint has been filed as per the provisions of Section 138 of N.I.Act. is not disputed.

17. He further submits that the arguments advanced by the counsel for the applicant are squarely covered by the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of M/s TRL Krosaki Reractories Ltd. (supra).

18. He further refers on Section 168 of the Companies Act, which lays down that even upon resignation of a director he would be liable for the acts performed during the course of his directorship. For ready reference Section 168 (1) and (2) of the Companies Act are quoted hereunder:-

(1) A director may resign from his office by giving a notice in writing to the company and the Board shall on receipt of such notice take note of the same and the company shall intimate the Registrar in such manner, within such time and in such form as may be prescribed and shall also place the fact of such resignation in the report of directors laid in the immediately following general meeting by the company:

Provided that director shall also forward director may also forward a copy of his resignation along with detailed reasons for the resignation to the Registrar within thirty days of resignation in such manner as may be prescribed.

(2) The resignation of a director shall take effect from the date on which the notice is received by the company or the date, if any, specified by the director in the notice, whichever is later:

Provided that the director who has resigned shall be liable even after his resignation for the offences which occurred during his tenure.

19. He further submits that scope of judicial enquiry is limited at this stage would be very limited, moreover, there are catina of judgements, which says that the inherent power of Section 482 Cr.P.C. should sparingly be used.

CASE NO.12652 OF 2016 (NARENDRA SINGH PAWAR)

20. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant, Narendra Singh Pawar is not signatory of the cheque and there was no allegation that he was looking after day to day affairs of the company.

21. Per contra Mr. Shwetaashwa Agarwal, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 submits that as per provisions of Section 141 of N.I. Act the vicarious liability flows from the company to the directors, who are involved in the transaction in question. Here in the facts of the present case their involvement in the transaction has been shown in the complaint right from the very inception. The complaint and the statement on oath submitted by the complainant undisputedly discloses specific allegations of participation and the specific acts attributed to all the directors of the company, who were involved in the transaction. They placed the orders on behalf of the company, and the opposite party no.2 was pursuing the payment from the company through them. There is specific assertion against the directors of the Company. The cheque was issued on behalf of the company in which the accused/applicant herein are the directors and also responsible for the day to day affairs of the company, and the signatory was one of the director, Mr. Ashok Sharma, towards the discharge of the legally enforceable debt. Legal notice was sent to all of them. No reply was given by them. Thereafter, a complaint was filed that is sufficient compliance of their participation.

22. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submits that the this concept of vicarious liability is alien to criminal jurisprudence, however, the same was introduced in the N.I.Act for the reasons of dealing with corporeal entities because in a company the directors and its representatives and signatories are the persons who run the company. Since the company is juristic personality and cannot be prosecuted, hence, the normal criminal law will not be applicable in that case, it is for this reason the vicarious liability was first recognized and introduced by the law makers while drafting N.I.Act.

23. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 further submits that keeping this in mind Section 141 was enacted wherein just now the company, the key personnels, directors was to be held liable for such kind of criminal offence.

CASE NO.9430 OF 2016
(YATINDRA SINGH PAWAR)

24. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the cheque was issued on 16.07.2015 and Mr. Yatindra Singh Pawar was appointed as director of the company on 24.11.2005 resigned from the company on 02.05.2015 and the same came in effect on 13.05.2015.

25. In reply Mr. Agarwal, submits that even assuming that he has resigned on 02.05.2015 still he cannot get out of the liabilities as the order was placed while he was a whole time director of the company. The material was supplied while he was a whole time director of the company, it seems if he has resigned only for the sake of getting away from the civil and criminal liabilities then such kind of resignation cannot absolve him of such liabilities.

CONCLUSION

26. It is undisputed that M/s. Trimurti Concast Pvt. Ltd. placed an order for supply of Sponge Iron and Silicon Manganese, which the complainant company had supplied against which a cheque was given on behalf of M/s. Trimurti Concast Pvt. Ltd. and the signatory of the cheque was one of its directors of the company, Mr. Ashok Sharma.

27. The cheque was presented on 12.10.2015 and the same was returned back due to insufficiency of funds. A legal notice as contemplated under Negotiable Instruments Act was issued on 23.10.2015 within time. When no payment was made to the complainant, he filed a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffarnagar, who being satisfied had issued summons vide order dated 05.07.2016.

28. The counsel for the applicant has argued that the proceedings under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments is not maintainable as the complaint has been filed by a power of attorney holder and the power of attorney was not placed before the trial court neither the power of attorney holder had averred in the complaint that he had a personal knowledge about the alleged transactions.

29. To buttress his argument, the counsel for the applicant has relied on a decision passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of A.C. Narayan vs. State of Maharashtra and another, (2014) (supra).

30. He further placed reliance on another judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of A.C. Narayanan vs. State of Maharashtra and another, (2015) (supra) wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court had set aside the proceedings initiated under Section 138 of N.I. Act on the ground that there is no whisper in the complaint that the same was being filed through a power of attorney holder.

31. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has placed reliance in one of the latest judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M/s TRL Krosaki Reractories Ltd. Vs. M/s SMS

Asia Private Limited and another (supra) in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court has clearly held that the ratio laid down in the matter of A.C. Naraynan cannot be understood to mean that the assertion should be in any particular manner much less only in the manner understood by the accused in the case. All that is necessary is to demonstrate before the learned Magistrate that the complaint filed is in the name of the "payee" and if the person who is prosecuting the complaint is different from the payee, the authorisation therefor and that the contents of the complaint are within his knowledge. When, the complainant/payee is a company, an authorized employee can represent the company. Such averment and prima facie material is sufficient for the learned Magistrate to take cognizance and issue process. If at all, there is any serious dispute with regard to the person prosecuting the complaint not being authorized or if it is to be demonstrated that the person who filed the complaint has no knowledge of the transaction and, as such that person could not have instituted and prosecuted the complaint, it would be open for the accused to dispute the position and establish the same during the course of the trial.

32. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Samrat Shipping Co.Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Dolly George⁵ has held as under:-

Having heard both sides we find it difficult to support the orders challenged before us. A Company can file a complaint only through human agency. The person who presented the complaint on behalf of the Company claimed that he is the authorised representative of the company. Prima facie, the trial court should have accepted it at the time when a complaint was presented. If it is a matter of evidence when the accused disputed the authority of the said individual to present the complaint, opportunity should have been given to the complainant to prove the same, but that opportunity need be given only when the trial commences. The dismissal of the complaint at the threshold on the premise that the individual has not produced certified copy of the resolution appears to be too hasty an action. We, therefore, set aside the impugned orders and direct the trial court to proceed with the trial and dispose it off in accordance with law. Parties are directed to appear before the trial court on 31.01.2000.

33. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of National Small Industries Corporation Limited vs. State (NCT of Delhi)⁶ has held as follows:-

“The term ‘complainant’ is not defined under the Code. Section 142 NI Act requires a complaint under section 138 of that Act, to be made by the payee (or by the holder in due course). It is thus evident that in a complaint relating to dishonour of a cheque (which has not been endorsed by the payee in favour of anyone), it is the payee alone who can be the complainant. The NI Act only provides that dishonour of a cheque would be an offence and the manner of taking cognizance of offences punishable under section 138 of that Act. However, the procedure relating to initiation of proceedings, trial and disposal of such complaints, is governed by the Code. Section 200 of the Code requires that the Magistrate, on taking cognizance of an offence on complaint, shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses. The requirement of section 142 of NI Act that payee should be the complainant, is met if the complaint is in the name of the payee. If the payee is a company, necessarily the complaint should be filed in the name of the company. Section 142 of NI Act does not specify who should represent the company, if a company is the complainant. A company can be represented by an employee or even by a non-employee authorized and empowered to represent the company either by a resolution or by a power of attorney.

Section 142 only requires that the complaint should be in the name of the payee. Where the complainant is a company, who will represent the company and how the company will be represented in such proceedings, is not governed by the Code but by the relevant law relating to companies. Section 200 of the Code mandatorily requires an examination of the complainant; and where the complainant is an incorporeal body, evidently only an employee or representative can be examined on its behalf. As a result, the company becomes a de jure complainant and its employee or other representative, representing it in the criminal proceedings, becomes the de facto complainant. Thus in every complaint, where the complainant is an incorporeal body, there is a complainant -- de jure, and a complainant - - de facto. Clause (a) of the proviso to section 200 provides that where the complainant is a public servant, it will not be necessary to examine the complainant and his witnesses. Where the complainant is an incorporeal body represented by one of its employees, the employee who is a public servant is the de facto complainant and in signing and presenting the complaint, he acts in the discharge of his official duties. Therefore, it follows that in such cases, the exemption under clause (a) of the first proviso to section 200 of the Code will be available.

Resultantly, when in a complaint in regard to dishonour of a cheque issued in favour of a company or corporation, for the purpose of section 142 NI Act, the company will be the complainant, and for purposes of section 200 of the Code, its employee who represents the company or corporation, will be the de facto complainant. In such a complaint, the de jure complainant, namely, the company or corporation will remain the same but the de facto complainant (employee) representing such de jure complainant can change, from time to time. And if the de facto complainant is a public servant, the benefit of exemption under clause (a) of proviso to section 200 of the Code will be available, even though the complaint is made in the name of a company or corporation.

34. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Sunil Bharti Mittal Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation⁷ has held as follows:-

In the present case, however, this principle is applied in an exactly reverse scenario. Here, company is the accused person and the learned Special Magistrate has observed in the impugned order that since the appellants represent the directing mind and will of each company, their state of mind is the state of mind of the company and, therefore, on this premise, acts of the company is Criminal Appeal No. of 2015 & Ors. Page 41 of 58 (arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 2961 of 2013 & Ors.) Page 42 attributed and imputed to the appellants. It is difficult to accept it as the correct principle of law. As demonstrated hereinafter, this proposition would run contrary to the principle of vicarious liability detailing the circumstances under which a direction of a company can be held liable.

(iii) Circumstances when Director/Person in charge of the affairs of the company can also be prosecuted, when the company is an accused person:

No doubt, a corporate entity is an artificial person which acts through its officers, directors, managing director, chairman etc. If such a company commits an offence involving mens rea, it would normally be the intent and action of that individual who would act on behalf of the company. It would be more so, when the criminal act is that of conspiracy. However, at the same time, it is the cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that there is no vicarious liability unless the statute specifically provides so.

Thus, an individual who has perpetrated the commission of an offence on behalf of a company can be made accused, along with the company, if there is sufficient evidence of his active role coupled with criminal intent. Second situation in which he can be implicated is in those cases where the statutory regime itself attracts the doctrine of vicarious liability, by specifically incorporating such a provision.

When the company is the offender, vicarious liability of the Directors cannot be imputed automatically, in the absence of any statutory provision to this effect. One such example is Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. In Aneeta Hada (supra), the Court noted that if a group of persons that guide the business of the company have the criminal intent, that would be imputed to the body corporate and it is in this backdrop, Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act has to be understood. Such a position is, therefore, because of statutory intendment making it a deeming fiction. Here also, the principle of “alter ego”, was applied only in one direction namely where a group of persons that guide the business had criminal intent, that is to be imputed to the body corporate and not the vice versa. Otherwise, there has to be a specific act attributed to the Director or any other person allegedly in control and management of the company, to the effect that such a person was responsible for the acts committed by or on behalf of the company.”

35. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances and the ratio laid down by the Hon’ble Supreme Court in the judgement of A.C. Naraynan (supra), that the power of attorney holder, who filed the complaint clearly needs to aver that he has knowledge of the complete transaction has been watered down by Hon’ble Supreme Court in the matter of M/s TRL Krosaki Reractories Ltd. (supra) wherein it is held that when a complainant is a company and authorized representative can represent the company, such averment and prima facie material is sufficient for the Magistrate to take cognizance in such cases.

36. Undoubtedly, a company is a separate legal entity, which can only be represented through its officers, directors, managing directors, chairman etc. if such a company commits an offence, it would normally be taken as an action of that individual, who has acted on behalf of the company.

37. The argument advanced by the counsel for the applicant that the other director, Narendra Singh Pawar had nothing to do with the transaction is also not correct. All the directors are equally responsible for the act done on behalf of the company.

38. As far as, the third director, Mr. Yatindra Singh Pawar is concerned, it has been alleged that he has resigned few days before the cheque was given. It can only be seen during the trial whether he was responsible in placing the order getting the material and, thereafter, resigning to absolve himself from any kind of liability. This issue cannot be adjudicated upon in the present proceedings.

39. 37A. It is a settled principle that if the payee is a company the complaint has to be filed in the name of the company. Section 142 of the N.I. Act does not specify as to who should represent the company, if the company is the complainant. A company can be represented by an employee or even by a known employee, who is duly authorized and empowered to represent the company either by resolution or by a power of attorney.

40. Further, where the company is a complainant, who will represent the company, and how the company will be represented in 138 proceedings is not covered by the Code. Section 200 of the Code mandatory requires an examination of the complaint, and whether the complainant is an incorporeal body, it is only one of its employee or authorized representative can be examined on behalf of the company. With the result, the company becomes a de jure complainant and the person, who is representing the company whether it is employee or the authorized representative becomes de facto complainant, thus, in every complaint lodged by a company, which is a separate juristic personality, there is a complainant de jure and a complainant de facto.

41. This application has been pending since last 8 years and the trial could not proceed, it is in the interest of justice that the trial may be concluded expeditiously in accordance with law, preferably within a period of six months from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order without granting any unnecessary adjournments to either side.

42. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the instant application filed by the directions of the company is devoid of merit, and is, accordingly, dismissed.

CRIMINAL SIDE

THE HON'BLE GAJENDRA KUMAR, J.

Application U/S 482. No. 20183 of 2013

Smt. Kirti ...Applicant

Versus

State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:

Sri Santosh Tripathi, Sri Manas Bhargava

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

G.A., Sri Satish Kumar Tyagi, Sri Devesh Mishra, Sri Harsh Kumar Anand

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482- The Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 - Sections 3/4 - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 406 -The applicants sought to quash the proceedings in Case No. 1643 of 2012 under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 406 IPC and Sections 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act – Held, the proceedings were quashed as the allegations were omnibus, vague, and lacked specific evidence, indicating an abuse of process with ulterior motives. (Paras 3, 14, 16, 23)

B. Section 498-A IPC – Misuse of Provisions –

The FIR alleged cruelty and dowry demands against the applicants, including the husband and his sister – Held, general and omnibus allegations without specific instances of cruelty or dowry demands, as deprecated in Kahkashan Kausar and Varala Bharath Kumar, do not justify prosecution and warrant quashing to prevent misuse of law. (Paras 15, 16, 17)

C. Abuse of Process and Ulterior Motive –

The opposite party no. 2 filed the FIR after marital disputes and a divorce petition in the USA, with a delay in reporting – Held, the FIR appeared to be a tool to harass and coerce the applicants, falling under categories (1) and (5) of St. of Har. Vs Bhajan Lal for quashing due to lack of prima facie offence and inherent improbability. (Paras 14, 18, 23)

D. Inherent Powers of High Court –

The court emphasized the cautious exercise of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482 powers to prevent abuse of process and secure justice – Held, the court must examine attending circumstances beyond FIR averments to identify frivolous or vexatious proceedings, as guided by Salif @ Shalu and Neeharika Infrastructure. (Paras 19, 20, 22)

E. Fraud and False Allegations –

The applicants argued the FIR was lodged with mala fide intent and false allegations – Held, proceedings based on fraud or unclean hands, as per S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu and A.VS Papayya Sastry, are null and void, justifying quashing to prevent injustice. (Paras 5, 6, 7, 9)

17. Mukesh Bansal Vs St. of U.P., Cri. Revision No. 1126 of 2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gajendra Kumar, J.)

1. Since these applications arising out of same case crime number, they have been heard together and are being decided by a common order.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicants, learned counsel for the first informant/opposite party no.2 and learned AGA for the State-respondents.

3. The instant Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed with a request to quash the Case No.1643 of 2012 arising out of Case Crime No. 2/2012, under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 406 I.P.C. & 3/4 D.P. Act, pending in the Court of A.C.J.M.-VIII, Ghaziabad.

4. The prosecution story in brief of the instant case are as follows:-

Marriage of applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) with the opposite party no.2 was solemnized on 14.02.2019 at Destination Resort, Solan, Himanchal Pradesh according to Hindu Rites and Rituals. Thereafter, on 24.02.2019, the applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) along with opposite party no.2 left for USA, where they have blessed with a son on 02.02.2010 in USA and all were living there happily, but due to some difference of opinion, the relationship between applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) and opposite party no.2 became strained, thereafter, applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) filed a complaint for divorce on 09.02.2012 before Oakland County, Circuit Court, Family Division, State of Michigan. In the said case, an ex-parte interim order regarding custody and parenting time was passed on 10.02.2012 by the concerned Judge of Family Court directing the applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) and opposite party no.2 not to change the domicile and residence of the minor child from the State of Michigan without a written order from the Court. Thereafter, on 23.03.2012, an Application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was moved by the opposite party no.2, though, an FIR has been lodged by the opposite party no.2 against the applicants and three other co-accused persons with false and frivolous allegations, which was registered as Case Crime No.02 of 2012, under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506 and 406 IPC and Section 3/4 of D.P. Act, Police Station-Mahila Thana, District-Ghaziabad. Prior to filing of application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., the opposite party no.2 had made a complaint before S.S.P., Ghaziabad, in which the SHO was directed to conduct an inquiry and submit a report, thereafter, making a thorough enquiry by SHO concerned, submitted the report mentioning therein that there is no truth in the complaint of opposite party no.2 and no further legal action is required in the complaint. Opposite party no.2 had also moved an application before the Metropolitan Magistrate, Tees Hazari Court, Delhi under the Protection of Women From Domestic Violence Act, 2005, which is still pending consideration. On 26.04.2012, the American Court has issued warrant of arrest of opposite party no.2 as she has violated order of the Court in relation to carrying away minor child, who is U.S. citizen by virtue of his birth in U.S.A. and carried him to India. On 26.05.2012, I.O. without conducting a proper and fair investigation, has submitted the charge-sheet against the applicant and three other co-accused persons under the aforesaid sections. On 29.05.2012, in the divorce petition filed by the applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) against the opposite party no.2, even the concerned Judge of Family Court, State of Michigan has passed an order dissolving the marriage between the parties.

4. It has been contended by the learned counsel for the applicants that the malicious proceedings have been lodged by opposite party no.2 against the entire family members including the present applicants, who are 'Nanand' and husband of opposite party no.2. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicants that they are innocent and have been falsely implicated in the present case due to ulterior motive. Applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) left for USA along with his wife (opposite party no.2) as applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) was residing in New York (USA) and was working as a Post Doctorate Fellowship in Nuclear Medicine in Memorial Sloan Katering Hospital, New York (USA). He further submitted that father-in-law and mother-in-law of opposite party no.2 have already been granted bail by the court below and they are facing criminal prosecution. Further submission is that there is contradictions in the F.I.R. version and statement of witnesses. Further submission is that after completing the investigation, the Investigating Officer has submitted charge sheet in a perfunctory manner and the concerned Magistrate has taken cognizance in a mechanical way without application of judicial mind. Further submission is that only intension behind lodging of the impugned F.I.R. of opposite party no.2 was to blackmail the husband and his family and to create undue pressure upon them, as such, the present criminal proceedings against the applicants is nothing but an abuse of process of law, which is liable to be quashed.

5. In this regard, reliance is placed by the learned counsel for the applicants upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court passed in S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu vs. Jagannath; 1994 AIR 853, 1994 (1) 1, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loandodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal-gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation."

6. Further reliance is placed on the judgement of the Apex Court passed in A.V. Papayya Sastry & others vs. Governmnet of A.P. & Others Appeal (Civil) No. 5097 of 2004 , wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"It is thus settled proposition of law that a judgment, decree or order obtained by playing fraud on the Court, Tribunal or Authority is a nullity and non-existent in the eye of law. Even the Chief Justice Edward Coke proclaimed "Fraud avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal".

7. Therefore, it is settled principle of law that, decree or order obtained by fraud by the first Court or by the final court has to be treated as a nullity by every Court, superior or inferior. It can be challenged in any Court at any time, in appeal, revision, writ or even in collateral proceedings. Lord Denning had observed that in the leading case of Lazarus Estates Ltd. v. Beasley,

(1956) 1 All ER 341 : (1956) 1 QB 702 : (1956) 2 WLR 502, that "No judgment of a court, no order of a Minister, can be allowed to stand, if it has been obtained by fraud."

8. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the applicant has further relied upon the judgments of Apex Court in the cases of R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab, A.I.R.; 1960 S.C. 866, State of Karnataka vs. L. Muniswamy and Ors.; (1977) 2 SCC 699 and State of Haryana and Ors. vs. Bhajan Lal and Ors; 1992 SCC (Cr.) 426 and submits that whole proceedings have been re-initiated with ulterior and oblique motive to harass the applicants and to tarnish their image in the society and use the process of Court to permeate injustice.

9. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that as Opposite Party No.2 has lodged the First Information Report with unclean hands and has made material concealment, in order to mislead the police as well as the learned trial court, therefore, the cognizance order being obtained through fraud renders the same untenable in the eyes of law. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid submissions, it is submitted by learned counsel for the applicants that the proceedings of the above-mentioned criminal case against the applicants in nothing but an abuse of process of law, which are liable to be quashed.

10. On the other hand, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the applicants and submitted that due to non-fulfillment of additional dowry demand, the victim/Opposite party number 2 was harassed and tortured by the applicants and his family members. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has further submitted that at the stage of taking cognizance by the Magistrate as per the provisions contained in Section 190(1)(b) of Cr.P.C., the concerned Magistrate has to see as to whether prima facie case is being made out or not against the applicants and, as such, the concerned Magistrate has rightly taken the cognizance on the basis of the chargesheet dated 26.05.2012 filed by the Investigating Officer including the statements of the witnesses and documents collected during the investigation, as such, this Court may not exercise its inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in the present case, and, hence, the present application is liable to be rejected.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has opposed the aforesaid contentions made by the learned counsel for the applicants and submits that applicants were involved in committing the aforesaid offence as has been alleged in the impugned FIR and chargesheet were also submitted by the Investigating Officer against them. In case, applicants have any grievance, they may raise their grievances at appropriate forum, as such, there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned cognizance order passed by the learned court below and the same cannot be quashed at this stage.

12. In response to the notice issued to the respondents, a counter affidavit on behalf of opposite party no.2 Reeta Kapoor (mother of opposite party no.2) wife of Bhavnesht Dutt Kapoor, aged about 67 years have been filed mentioning therein that applicants and their family members always causes cruelty with the opposite party no.2 and several times tortured mentally and physically, which is evident from the doctor's report. It has also been mentioned that after the birth of the baby boy, mother-in-law and husband did not allow the opposite party no.2 to breastfeed the child. Upon the protest by the opposite party no.2, her husband and his mother tried to choke her throat by inserting almonds in her mouth, one of the attending medical personnel at hospital heard the noise and came running to attend her, as such, due to repeated acts of cruelty the opposite party no.2 reported to the domestic assaults in Planned Parenthood.

13. In reply to the counter affidavit filed on behalf of opposite party no.2, rejoinder affidavit has been filed on behalf of the applicant (Smt. Kirti), by Kailash Prashar (father of the applicant) son of Kishori Lal Parashar, Aged 69 years, wherein he has denied all the allegations made in the counter affidavit as well as in the impugned FIR and mentioned that only with a view to harass the applicants and his family members, impugned criminal proceedings have been launched by the opposite party no.2.

14. Having heard the submissions made by the learned counsel for the rival parties and perusal of the records as well as impugned FIR, it is evident that Opposite party no.2 was married with applicant (Dr. Kalind Parashar) on 10.02.2019 and she remained with her-in-laws in India for a period of ten days and left for USA on 24.02.2019 and after remaining there, delivered a baby boy out of the wedlock. Some differences arose between the parties as both are mature, educated and well qualified. Proceedings for divorce were undertaken in the Family Court in USA and certain orders were passed by the Family Court regarding the parenting and non-shifting of domicile/residence of the child who is the citizen of USA, but she obtained duplicate passport left for India and herein Ghaziabad lodged FIR against her husband and entire family members. There is no plausible explanation of the delay in lodging the FIR. It appears that simply omnibus and vague allegations of cruelty are made against the husband and his family members only in order to harass and coerce them.

15. The Court has occasion to go through the judgment of Hon'ble Apex court in the case of Varala Bharath Kumar vs. State of Telangana reported in (2017)9 SCC 413. Relevant paragraph of the aforesaid order reads as follows:-

"8. We are conscious of the fact that, Section 498A was added to the Code with a view to punish the husband or any of his relatives, who harass or torture the wife to coerce her or her relatives to satisfy unlawful demands of dowry. Keeping the afore-mentioned object in mind, we have dealt with the matter. We do not find any allegation of subjecting the complainant to cruelty within the meaning of Section 498A of IPC. The records at hand could not disclose any willful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the complainant to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) of the complainant. So also, there is nothing on record to show that there was a demand of dowry by the appellants or any of their relatives, either prior to the marriage, during the marriage or after the marriage. The record also does not disclose anywhere that the husband of the complainant acted, with a view to coerce her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand of any property or valuable security."

16 . Further in the present case, it is also seen that only omnibus and general allegations of cruelty and demand of dowry have been made, against the husband and his family members. Further it is seen that only general and omnibus allegation of demand of dowry has been made in the First Information Report which is in the teeth of the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kahkashan Kausar @ Sonam vs. State of Bihar (2022 LiveLaw (SC) 141 whereby such practice by the Hon'ble Apex Court has been deprecated and it has been held that the accused cannot be prosecuted on the basis of such allegations. Relevant paragraph of the aforesaid order reads as follows:-

"18. The above-mentioned decisions clearly demonstrate that this court has at numerous instances expressed concern over the misuse of section 498A IPC and the increased tendency of implicating relatives of the husband in matrimonial disputes, without analysing the long term ramifications of a trial on the complainant as well as the accused. It is further manifest from the said judgments that false implication by way of general omnibus allegations made in the course of matrimonial dispute, if left unchecked would result in misuse of the process of law. Therefore, this court by way of its judgments has warned the courts from proceeding against the relatives and in-laws of the husband when no prima facie case is made out against them."

17. A co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Mukesh Bansal vs. State of U.P. & Anr (Cri. Revision No. 1126 of 2022) has given its opinion on the growing tendency of misusing the provisions of Section 498A IPC has held as under:-

"Now, coming to the precise question involved in the present case has to level the omnibus allegations of dowry related harassment of all the family members connected with the husband in recent judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of K. Subba Rao Vs. State of Telangana reported in 2018 (14) SCC 452 , it was observed by Hon'ble the Apex Court that the Court should be extremely careful and vigilant in proceeding against the distant relative of the husband in the crimes pertaining to the dispute even in dowry deaths. All the relatives of the husband should not be roped in on the basis of omnibus allegations unless Specific Instances of the involvement in the crime as alleged and surfaced during investigation with materials certainty. The sweeping and general allegations are very frequent now-a-days and if such people are put to trial on such a casual and omnibus allegations, it would bound to lead the disastrous result and unwarranted hardships to those persons."

18. The powers conferred by section 482 CrPc was widely discussed in various cases as in the Case of State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no.102 has held as follows:

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the Act concerned (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

19. Recently In the case of Salif @ Shalu @ Salim Vs. State of U.P. and others in Criminal Appeal No.2344 of 2023 (arising out of S.L.P. (Criminal) No. 3152 of 2023) vide order dated 08.08.23 Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"26. At this stage, we would like to observe something important. Whenever an accused comes before the Court invoking either the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) or extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to get the FIR or the criminal proceedings quashed essentially on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous or vexatious or instituted with the ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance, then in such circumstances the Court owes a duty to look into the FIR with care and a little more closely. We say so because once the complainant decides to proceed against the accused with an ulterior motive for wreaking personal vengeance, etc., then he would ensure that the FIR/complaint is very well drafted with all the necessary pleadings. The complainant would ensure that the averments made in the FIR/complaint are such that they disclose the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence. Therefore, it will not be just enough for the Court to look into the averments made in the FIR/complaint alone for the purpose of ascertaining whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed or not. In frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the Court owes a duty to look into many other attending circumstances emerging from the record of the case over and above the averments and, if need be, with due care and circumspection try to read in between the lines. The Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the CrPC or Article 226 of the Constitution need not restrict itself only to the stage of a case but is empowered to take into account the overall circumstances leading to the initiation/registration of the case as well as the materials collected in the course of investigation"

20. In case of M/s Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Maharashtra and others AIR (2021) SC 1918, the Hon'ble Apex Court defined the scope of Section 482 Cr.P.C. and Article 226 of Constitution of India and observed that if a case falls under the parameters of R.P. Kapur case (supra) and Bhajan Lal case (supra) then this Court is having jurisdiction to quash the proceedings by invoking its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

21. In Preeti Gupta and another vs. State of Jharkhand and another [(2010) 7 SCC 667], the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"The tendency to implicate the husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon in complaints filed under Section 498A IPC. It was observed that the Courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases, as allegations of harassment by husband's close relations, who were living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided, would add an entirely different complexion and such allegations would have to be scrutinised with great care and circumspection."

22. In Neelu Chopra and another vs. Bharti [(2009) 10 SCC 184], the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"The mere mention of statutory provisions and the language thereof, for lodging a complaint, is not the 'be all and end all' of the matter, as what is required to be brought to the notice of the Court is the 12 particulars of the offence committed by each and every accused and the role played by each and every accused in the commission of that offence. These observations were made in the context of a matrimonial dispute involving Section 498A IPC."

23. In Mahmood Ali and others vs. State of U.P. and others (Criminal Appeal No. 2341 of 2023), decided on 08.08.2023), the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"On the legal principles applicable apropos Section 482 Cr.P.C. Therein, it was observed that when an accused comes before the High Court, invoking either the inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or the extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, to get the FIR or the criminal proceedings quashed, essentially on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous or vexatious or instituted with the ulterior motive of wreaking vengeance, then in such circumstances, the High Court owes a duty to look into the FIR with care and a little more closely. It was further observed that it will not be enough for the Court to look into the averments made in the FIR/complaint alone for the purpose of ascertaining whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed or not as, in frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the Court owes a duty to look into many other attending circumstances emerging from the record of the case over and above the averments and, if need be, with due care and circumspection, to try and read between the lines".

24. In case of Prabhatbhai Aahir alias Parbatbai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others Vs. State of Gujarat and another (2017) 9 SCC 641, a three three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that Section 482 Cr.P.C. is pre-faced with an overriding provision and this Court being a superior Court has the inherent power to make such order as necessary;

"(i) to prevent an abuse of the process of any Court; or

(ii) otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

22. In case of Kapil Agarwal and others Vs. Sanjay Sharma and others

(2021) 5 SCC 524 also Hon'ble Apex Court has held as follows:

"As observed and held by this Court in catena of decisions, inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution is designed to achieve salutary purpose that criminal proceedings ought not to be permitted to degenerate into weapon of harassment. When the Court is satisfied that criminal proceedings amount to an abuse of process of law or that it amounts to bringing pressure upon accused, in exercise of inherent powers, such proceedings can be quashed."

22. Finally, in a similar case, a Bench of Three Judges of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of (Sundar Babu and another Vs. State of Tamil Nadu); (2009) 3 S.C.R. 326, has observed as under:-

HELD: 1.1. Though the scope for interference while exercising jurisdiction under Sec.482 CrPC is limited, but it can be made in cases as spelt out in the case of Bhajan Lal. The illustrative examples laid down therein are as follows: 1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused; 2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Sec.156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Sec.155(2) of the Code; 3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused; 4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Sec. 155 (2) of the Code; 5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused; 6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is an specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party; 7) where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge. [Para 6] [332-8-H; 333-A-C].

1.2. Section 482 CrPC does not confer any new power on the High Court. It only saves the inherent power which the Court possessed before the enactment of the Code. It envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised, namely, (i) to give effect to an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. It is neither possible nor desirable to lay down any inflexible rule which would govern the exercise of inherent jurisdiction. No legislative enactment dealing with procedure can provide for all cases that may possibly arise. Courts, therefore, have inherent powers apart from express provisions of law which are necessary for proper discharge of functions and duties imposed upon them by law. That is the doctrine which finds expression in the section which merely recognizes and preserves inherent powers of the High Courts. All courts, whether civil or criminal possess, in the absence of any express provision, as inherent in their constitution, all such powers as are necessary to do the right and to undo a wrong in course of administration of justice on the principle "quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur et id sine quo res ipsae esse non potest" (when the law gives a person anything it gives him that without which it cannot exist). [Para 9] [333-E-H; 334-A-B].

1.3. While exercising powers under section 482, the court does not function as a court of appeal or revision. Inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. It is to be exercised ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone courts exist. Authority of the court exists for advancement of justice and if any attempt is made to abuse that authority so as to produce injustice, the court has power to prevent abuse. It would be an abuse of process of the court to allow any action which would result in injustice and prevent promotion of justice. In exercise of the powers court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation/continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. [Para 9] [334-8-E].

1.4. The powers possessed by the High Court under Sec.482 of the Code are very wide and the very plenitude of the power requires great caution in its exercise. Court must be careful to see that its decision in exercise of this power is based on sound principles. The inherent power should not be exercised to stifle a legitimate prosecution. The High Court being the highest court of a State should normally refrain from giving a prima facie decision in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy, more so when the evidence has not been collected and produced before the Court and the issues involved, whether factual or legal, are of magnitude and cannot be seen in their true perspective without sufficient material. Of course, no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down in regard to cases in which the High Court will exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction of quashing the proceeding at any stage. [Para 10J [334-E-H; 335-A].

1.5. In the present case, even a cursory perusal of the complaint shows that the case at hand falls within the category (7) of the illustrative parameters highlighted in Bhajan Lal's case. The proceedings in Criminal Petition pending before the Judicial Magistrate are consequently quashed. [Paras 7 and 10] [333-D].

23. For all the reasons recorded above and considering the facts and circumstances of the case as well as the case-laws cited above and the case on hand falls squarely in categories (1) and (5) set out in Bhajan Lal (supra), the entire criminal proceedings against the applicants namely Smt. Kirti

6. Professor R.K. Vijayasathy Vs Sudha Seetharam, Criminal Appeal No. 238 of 2019

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Upendra Vikram Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Uday Bhan, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the summoning order dated 31.05.2014, under Section-465 IPC, Police Station-Chamanganj, District-Kanpur Nagar and the entire proceeding of Complaint Case No.356 of 2014 (Om Prakash Agrawal Vs. V.P. Govil and others), pending in the court of MM-IV, Kanpur Nagar.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant had retired as an Executive Engineer in 2010, and after his retirement, the impugned complaint was filed In 2014, the summoning order was passed on 15.04.2014. Thereafter, the applicant, after obtaining bail, filed an application dated 19.06.2015 that complaint itself is barred for want of proper sanction u/s 197 Cr.P.C., which was heard on 01.09.2015, but disposal of same was postponed till the evidence stage. Now, after almost four years, the applicant has challenged the impugned criminal proceeding on the ground that prior sanction u/s 197 IPC was not taken before lodging the complaint above or before taking cognizance of the aforesaid complaint.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the allegation in the complaint against the applicant is that while discharging his duty as an Executive Engineer, he had produced a forged disconnection slip dated 03.11.2008. Therefore, without prior sanction u/s 197 Cr.P.C., the proceeding of the complaint case cannot be initiated. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the applicant has also relied upon the judgement of a coordinate Bench of this Court passed in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. - 17421 of 2011 (Ayush Kumar And Others Vs. State of U.P. And Another) vide order dated 10.04.2019, as well as the judgement of the Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No.238 of 2019 (Professor R.K. Vijayasathy & Anr. Vs. Sudha Seetharam & Anr.) decided on 15.02.2019 as well as the judgement of Punjab State Warehousing Corporation Vs. Bhushan Chander And Another reported in 2016 (13) SCC 44.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has submitted that once the applicant's application for dropping the proceeding on the ground want of prior sanction u/s 197 Cr.P.C. was rejected, that order has become final. The applicant cannot challenge the impugned proceeding on the same ground.

6. Learned AGA also adopted the argument of opposite party no.2 and furthermore submitted that the impugned proceeding itself is at the evidence stage, and the applicant also obtained bail in the impugned proceeding, he can raise this objection at the appropriate stage.

7. After considering the submission of the parties and on perusal of the record, it is clear that the applicant moved an application for dropping the proceeding on the ground that prior sanction u/s 197 Cr.P.C. was not obtained before filing the complaint. Though that application was heard by the court on 01.09.2015, but disposal of same was adjourned on the grounds of whether applicant's act of producing the allegedly forged disconnection slip dated 03.11.2008 is in the discharge of his official duty, which can be decided on the basis of evidence. The order sheet shows that this application is still pending.

8. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Orissa Vs. Ganesh Chandra Jew reported in 2004 (8) SCC 40 observed that protection u/s 197 Cr.P.C. had certain limits and is available only when the alleged act done by the public servant is reasonably connected with the discharge of his official duty and is not merely a cloak for doing objectionable acts. The question is not as to the nature of the offence such as whether the alleged offence contained an element that necessarily depends upon the offender being a public servant, but whether it was committed by a public servant acting or purporting to act as such in the discharge of his official capacity. Paragraph no.7 of the above judgement is being quoted as under:

"7. The protection given under Section 197 is to protect responsible public servants against the institution of possibly vexatious criminal proceedings for offences alleged to have been committed by them while they are acting or purporting to act as public servants. The policy of the legislature is to afford adequate protection to public servants to ensure that they are not prosecuted for anything done by them in the discharge of their official duties without reasonable cause, and if sanction is granted, to confer on the Government, if they choose to exercise it, complete control of the prosecution. This protection has certain limits and is available only when the alleged act done by the public servant is reasonably connected with the discharge of his official duty and is not merely a cloak for doing the objectionable act. If in doing his official duty, he acted in excess of his duty, but there is a reasonable connection between the act and the performance of the official duty, the excess will not be a sufficient ground to deprive the public servant of the protection. The question is not as to the nature of the offence such as whether the alleged offence contained an element necessarily dependent upon the offender being a public servant, but whether it was committed by a public servant acting or purporting to act as such in the discharge of his official capacity. Before Section 197 can be invoked, it must be shown that the official concerned was accused of an offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties. It is not the duty which requires examination so much as the act, because the official act can be performed both in the discharge of the official duty as well as in dereliction of it. The act must fall within the scope and range of the official duties of the public servant concerned. It is the quality of the act which is important and the protection of this section is available if the act falls within the scope and range of his official duty. There cannot be any universal rule to determine whether there is a reasonable connection between the act done and the official duty, nor is it possible to lay down any such rule. One safe and sure test in this regard would be to consider if the omission or neglect on the part of the public servant to commit the act complained of could have made him answerable for a charge of dereliction of his official duty. If the answer to this question is in the affirmative, it may be said that such act was committed by the public servant while acting in the discharge of his official duty and there was every connection with the act complained of and the official duty of the public servant. This aspect makes it clear that the concept of Section 197 does not get immediately attracted on institution of the complaint case."

9. Similarly, in the case of Shambhoo Nath Mishra Vs. State of U.P. & Others reported in 1997 (5) SCC 326 observed that whether a public servant who allegedly commits the offence of fabrication of records or misappropriation of public funds can be said to have acted in the discharge of his official duty and further observed that it is not the official duty to fabricate records or to misappropriate public funds. Paragraph no.5 of the judgement above are being quoted as under:

"5. The question is when the public servant is alleged to have committed the offence of fabrication of record or misappropriation of public fund etc. can he be said to have acted in discharge of his official duties. It is not the official duty of the public servant to fabricate the false records and misappropriate the public funds etc. in furtherance of or in the discharge of his official duties. The official capacity only enables him to fabricate the record or misappropriate the public fund etc. It does not mean that it is integrally connected or inseparably interlinked with the crime committed in the course of the same transaction, as was believed by the learned Judge. Under these circumstances, we are of the opinion that the view expressed by the High Court as well as by the trial court on the question of sanction is clearly illegal and cannot be sustained."

10. Similarly, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Shadakshari Vs. State of Karnataka & Another in Criminal Appeal No.256 of 2024 decided on 07.01.2024. Hon'ble Supreme Court observed in paragraph no.25 that the question of whether respondent no.2 was involved in fabricating official documents by misusing his official position as a public servant is a matter of trial and further observed that manufacturing of such documents or fabrication of records cannot be a part of the official duty of a public servant. Paragraph no.25 of the judgement above are being quoted as under:

"25. The question whether respondent No.2 was involved in fabricating official documents by misusing his official position as a public servant is a matter of trial. Certainly, a view can be taken that manufacturing of such documents or fabrication of records cannot be a part of the official duty of a public servant. If that be the position, the High Court was not justified in quashing the complaint as well as the chargesheet in its entirety, more so when there are two other accused persons besides respondent No.2.

There is another aspect of the matter. Respondent No.2 had unsuccessfully challenged the complaint in an earlier proceeding under Section 482 Cr.PC. Though liberty was granted by the High Court to respondent No.2 to challenge any adverse report if filed subsequent to the lodging of the complaint, instead of confining the challenge to the chargesheet, respondent No.2 also assailed the complaint as well which he could not have done."

11. The legal position as mentioned above is clear that whether the particular act of fabricating official documents is a part of the official duty of a public servant or not, is a matter of trial and the proceeding cannot be quashed on that basis.

12. So far as the judgement of Punjab State Warehousing Corporation (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicant is concerned, in that judgement Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that there has to be the reasonable connection between the omission or commission and discharge of official duty or the act committed was under the colour of office held by the officials. If the act of omission or commission aligns to the discharge of official duty, then the question of invoking Section-197 Cr.P.C. does not arise. This legal position is correct and does not support the applicant because it is yet to be decided whether the act of producing a forged disconnection certificate on the part of the applicant can be said to be the act in the discharge of the official duty, which can be considered after adducing the evidence during the trial. Paragraph no.20 of the above judgement is being quoted as below:

"20. A survey of the precedents makes it absolutely clear that there has to be a reasonable connection between the omission or commission and the discharge of official duty or the act committed was under the colour of the office held by the official. If the act(s), omission or commission of which is totally alien to the discharge of the official duty, question of invoking Section 197 CrPC does not arise. We have already reproduced few passages from the impugned order from which it is discernible that to arrive at the said conclusion the learned Single Judge has placed reliance on the authority in B. Saha [B. Saha v. M.S. Kochar, (1979) 4 SCC 177 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 939] . The conclusion is based on the assumption that the allegation is that while being a public servant, the alleged criminal breach of trust was committed while he was in public service. Perhaps the learned Judge has kept in his mind some kind of concept relating to dereliction of duty. The issue was basically entrustment and missing of the entrusted items. There is no dispute that the prosecution had to prove the case. But the public servant cannot put forth a plea that he was doing the whole act as a public servant. Therefore, it is extremely difficult to appreciate the reasoning of the High Court. As is noticeable he has observed that under normal circumstances the offences under Sections 467, 468 and 471 IPC may be of such nature that obtaining of sanction under Section 197 CrPC is not necessary but when the said offences are interlinked with an offence under Section 409 IPC sanction under Section 197 for launching the prosecution for the offence under Section 409 is a condition precedent. The approach and the analysis are absolutely fallacious. We are afraid, though the High Court has referred to all the relevant decisions in the field, yet, it has erroneously applied the principle in an absolute fallacious manner. No official can put forth a claim that breach of trust is connected with his official duty. Be it noted the three-Judge Bench in B. Saha [B. Saha v. M.S. Kochar, (1979) 4 SCC 177 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 939] has distinguished Shreekantiah Ramayya Munipalli [Shreekantiah Ramayya Munipalli v. State of Bombay, AIR 1955 SC 287 : 1955 Cri LJ 857] keeping in view the facts of the case. It had also treated the ratio in Amrik Singh [Amrik Singh v. State of Pepsu, AIR 1955 SC 309 : 1955 Cri LJ 865] to be confined to its own peculiar facts. The test to be applied, is as has been stated by Chandrasekhara Aiyar, J. in the Constitution Bench in Matajog Dobey [Matajog Dobey v. H.C. Bhari, AIR 1956 SC 44 : 1956 Cri LJ 140] which we have reproduced hereinbefore. The three-Judge Bench in B. Saha [B. Saha v. M.S. Kochar, (1979) 4 SCC 177 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 939] applied the test laid down in Gill case [Gill v. R., (1948) 10 FCR 19 : AIR 1948 PC 128 : (1947-48) 75 IA 41 : 1948 SCC OnLine PC 10] wherein Lord Simonds has reiterated that the test may well be whether the public servant, if challenged, can reasonably claim, that what he does, he does in virtue of his office."

13. So far as the judgement of Ayush Kumar And Others (supra), relied upon by the applicant is concerned, in that case, the dispute was only about incorrectly mentioning the C.T. ratio of metering cubicle during the check-in drive. Subsequently, C.T. ratio of the metering cubical was corrected from 20/5 to 30/5, the applicant did not dispute the facts in that case. Therefore, from the evidence available before the court, it was undisputed that the preparation of sealing certificate mentioning the C.T. ratio metering cubical was in discharge of official duty, therefore, the Hon'ble Court on being satisfied that the act of the officer was in discharge of official duty; consequently, he is entitled to protection u/s 197 IPC but in the present case, the dispute is yet to be ascertained whether the preparation and producing the forged disconnection slip on the part of the applicant can be said to be the preparation of documents in the discharge of official duty; therefore this judgement also does not help the applicant.

14. So far as the judgement of Professor R.K. Vijayasathya (supra), relied upon by the applicant is concerned, that judgement does not apply in the present case because in that case, the dispute was whether the civil dispute had been converted into criminal dispute.

15. This court holds on the basis of the legal position discussed above that whenever there is a slight doubt whether the act or omission on the part of a public servant was in discharge of his official duty or not. Unless that issue was decided on the basis of evidence during trial, the criminal proceeding cannot be quashed in the exercise of power u/s 482 Cr.P.C., mainly because a person claiming himself to be a public servant alleges that his act was in discharge of his official duty. Protection u/s 197 IPC is given to protect the public servant who bonafide performed any act in the discharge of his official duty not for all the act whether that act was part or not his official duty as there are number of acts which has been declared by the Apex Court which cannot be said to be part of the official duty like fabricating the document or misappropriation of funds.

16. From the perusal of the record, it appears that against the entry in 2009 in the register of the electricity department, the alleged disconnection slip, which was produced as a defence by the applicant, was itself prepared in 2008. Therefore, prima facie, the accused's act cannot be said to be in discharge of his official duty. Even otherwise, it is a matter of evidence. This issue can be decided during the trial whether the applicant, while producing the forged disconnection slip, was performing his duty or it was beyond his duty to produce the forged disconnection slip as a defence in the proceeding before the consumer forum. The issue is still open for the applicant to take this defence during the trial. Therefore, this court does not find any good ground for quashing the impugned proceeding.

17. From the perusal of the order sheet, it appears that this case has been pending since 2014, therefore, it would be appropriate to direct the court below to conclude the proceeding of Complaint Case No.356 of 2014 (Om Prakash Agrawal Vs. V.P. Govil and others), under Section-465 IPC, Police Station-Chamanganj, District-Kanpur Nagar, pending in the court of MM-IV, Kanpur Nagar, as expeditiously as possible, preferably within one year from today.

18. Accordingly, the present application is rejected, with the aforesaid observation.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482- Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 153-A, 153-B, 124-A, 298, 505 & 120-B IPC - Quashing of Order Dated 18.01.2020 - The applicants sought to quash the order dated 18.01.2020 by the Additional Sessions Judge, rejecting their applications, and related orders granting prosecution sanction under Section 196 CrPC – Held, the order dated 18.01.2020 was unsustainable due to non-compliance with prior High Court directions and failure to address legal objections, warranting partial quashing. (Paras 2, 3, 8, 9)

B. Section 196 CrPC – Requirement of Prosecution Sanction – The charge sheets were filed without prior sanction under Section 196 CrPC, mandatory for offences under Sections 153-A, 153-B, 124-A, 298, 505, and 120-B IPC – Held, the Magistrate's failure to ensure sanction before taking cognizance and committing the case to the sessions court violated High Court's directions dated 08.05.2003, rendering subsequent proceedings flawed. (Paras 5, 6, 8)

C. Delay in Obtaining Sanction and Right to Speedy Trial – The prosecution sanctions were granted in 2018 and 2019, 17 years after the charge sheets, with no explanation for the delay – Held, this delay violated the applicants' right to a speedy trial under Article 21 of the Constitution, but the issue requires further adjudication by the trial court. (Para 6)

D. Non-Compliance with High Court Directions – The Magistrate ignored the High Court's order dated 08.05.2003 to verify sanction before proceeding and committed the case to the sessions court without compliance – Held, such non-compliance was contemptuous, and the sessions court erred in not addressing this illegality while rejecting the applicants' applications. (Paras 5, 8)

E. Opportunity for Hearing and Discharge – The sessions court rejected the applicants' applications without considering legal objections or providing a hearing on the point of charge – Held, the trial court must reconsider all legal objections, including discharge, with a reasoned order after providing a hearing. (Paras 8, 10)

Application Partly Allowed.

2. Criminal misc. application under section 482 Cr.P.C. No.26271 of 2021 has been filed by the accused-applicants to quash the impugned order dated 18.01.2020, as passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Gorakhpur, in Sessions Trial No.385 of 2019, arising out of Case Crime No.609 of 2001, under sections 153-A, 153-B, 124-A, 298, 505, 120-B, IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Gorakhpur (State Vs. Shahid Badr Falahi & others), as well as the impugned orders dated 19.11.2018 and 16.11.2019, passed by the State Government, granting sanction under section 196 Cr.P.C. against the accused-applicants for their prosecution in the aforesaid criminal case, and consequently to quash the impugned criminal proceeding.

3. Another application under section 482 Cr.P.C. No.10551 of 2020 is filed by the co-accused Human Ahmad Siddiqui with a prayer to quash the impugned order dated 18.01.2020, passed by Additional District Judge, Court No.6, Gorakhpur, in S.T. No.386 of 2019 (State Vs. Hamam Ahmad Siddiqui), arising out of Case Crime No.609 of 2001, under sections 153-A, 153-B, 124-A, 505, 298, 120-B, IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Gorakhpur, as well as sanctioning order dated 19.11.2018.

4. Both the cases are connected to each other and related to same matter, hence being disposed of by a common judgment.

5. An FIR, Case Crime No.609 of 2001, under sections 153-A, 153-B, 124-A, 298, 505, 120-B, IPC, was lodged at Police Station Kotwali City, District Gorakhpur, on 21.09.2001 regarding the incident dated 15.09.2001, naming Shahid Badra Falahi, Hamam Mohammed. During the investigation the name of other co-accused persons also came into light. After investigation one charge sheet dated 23.01.2002 filed against the accused-applicants Shahid Badra Falahi, Fazlur Rahman, Daud Husain Khan & Rashid Husain and another charge sheet dated 30.07.2002 was filed in absconder against Humam @ Humam Ahmad Siddiqui.

Learned Magistrate taken cognizance on the first charge sheet on 04.05.2002. The accused-applicants of the aforesaid charge sheet challenged the cognizance order in Criminal Misc. Application under section 482 Cr.P.C. No.2524 of 2003, and this Court, disposed of the aforesaid application vide order dated 08.05.2003, directing the court, taking cognizance, to examine whether the previous sanction of the appropriate Government, has been obtained or not, which is condition precedent for taking cognizance. It further directed that the court, before proceeding further in the matter shall first decide this point and thereafter pass the order according to law, keeping in view section 196 of the Cr.P.C., within one month from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

The learned Magistrate without making compliance of the aforesaid order committed the case to the court of sessions on 27.07.2006. The accused-applicants moved an application before the court of sessions under section 227 Cr.P.C. for discharge on the ground that cognizance has been taken and case has been committed without any prosecution sanction, which is a condition precedent under section 196 Cr.P.C. The sessions court on the aforesaid application passed an order on 29.09.2007 and remitted the matter back to the learned Magistrate to ensure the compliance of the order passed by the High Court and pass appropriate order thereupon and proceed according to law. The matter remain pending in the court of learned Magistrate and ultimately on 02.09.2019 the learned Magistrate again committed the case to the court of sessions. Copies of the prosecution sanction dated 19.11.2018 and 16.11.2019 are on record, but it is not clear, when this prosecution sanction was filed in the court by prosecution.

On the charge sheet filed against co-accused Humam Ahmad Siddiqui, cognizance was taken on 16.08.2002. As the charge sheet was in absconder, he was declared as absconder, and the case was fixed for proceeding under section 299 Cr.P.C. The same proceeding continued till 10.03.2008. On 23.06.2008 the accused was arrested and produced before the learned Magistrate, later on he was enlarged on bail. The case remain pending for supplying copies and thereafter fixed for committal proceeding and ultimately this case was also committed to the court of sessions vide order dated 02.09.2019.

In Sessions Trial No.386 of 2019 and Sessions Trial No.385 of 2019 separate applications were moved by the accused-applicants, alleging therein that direction be issued to the learned Magistrate in the light of the order of Hon'ble High Court dated 08.05.2003 and further order of Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C., Court No.2, Gorakhpur. It is also alleged that the High Court vide order dated 08.05.2003 has given some directions to the learned Magistrate, but the learned Magistrate without making compliance of the directions of the High Court has committed the case to the court of sessions. The court of Additional Sessions Judge, directed the learned Magistrate vide order dated 29.08.2007 to consider, whether sanction under section 196 Cr.P.C has been obtained or not. Thereafter, after obtaining prosecution sanction the case has been again committed to the court of sessions. Both the above applications have been rejected by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Gorakhpur, vide order dated 18.01.2020, passed separately in both the sessions trial.

6. Learned counsel for the applicants vehemently contended that charge sheet was filed without obtaining requisite prosecution sanction of section 196 Cr.P.C., which is mandatory for taking cognizance of the offence complained of, but the learned Magistrate failed to consider it and taken cognizance on the charge sheet. This order was challenged before the High Court and the Hon'ble High Court vide order dated 08.05.2003 directed the learned Magistrate to consider the necessity of the prosecution sanction required under section 196 Cr.P.C. and pass an appropriate order on it within a month. The learned Magistrate failed to comply this order and without making compliance of the aforesaid order has committed the case to the court of sessions. The matter was raised before the court of sessions and vide order dated 29.09.2007 the court of sessions remitted the matter to the learned Magistrate for ensuring compliance of the order of Hon'ble High Court dated 08.05.2003. The learned Magistrate kept the matter pending for nearly 17 years. Ultimately, prosecution sanction orders dated 19.11.2018 and 16.11.2019 were passed by the State Government. The learned Magistrate without ensuring the compliance of the Hon'ble High Court order dated 08.05.2003, committed the case again to the court of sessions. The learned counsel for the applicant contended that post cognizance sanction cannot cure the illegality. It is also contended that learned trial court has clearly failed to notice that the delay in obtaining the requisite sanction for prosecution for the last 17 years was attributable to the prosecuting agency and no fault left with accused-applicants, who are facing that proceeding since last 19 years causing irreparable loss to the social esteem and reputation. The impugned criminal proceeding, therefore, are clear abuse of the process of the court.

It is further contended that the learned Sessions Judge also failed to notice that the constitutional guarantee of speedy trial and justice under Article 21 of the Constitution of the accused-applicants has been clearly violated in the instant case as the prosecuting agency has failed to offer any plausible explanation whatsoever for the delay of 17 years in obtaining requisite sanction for their prosecution. The learned Judge also failed to notice that in such situation permitting further prosecution against the accused-applicants after 17 years would be a travesty of justice and a mere ritual or formality, which will burden unnecessarily the court. A period of nearly 20 years have passed since the registration of the FIR against the accused-applicants, now the trial proceedings according to law have yet to be commenced as the State Govt. without any explanation of delay of 17 years since submission of charge-sheet has granted requisite sanction, the accused-applicants have been deprived of their constitutional right to speedy trial flowing from Article 21 of the Constitution therefore further continuation of the impugned criminal proceedings pending against them are clearly unwarranted and abuse of process of court.

The learned counsel for the applicants placed reliance on the case of 'Mahendra Lal Das Vs. State of Bihar and others', (2002) 1 SCC 149 and 'Vakil Prasad Singh Vs. State of Bihar', (2009) 3 SCC 355.

It is also contended on the part of the accused Humam Ahmad Siddiqui that Humam Ahmad @ Hamam Ahmad has been mentioned in the FIR as Humam Mohammad. Similarly sanction order also speaks of Humam Mohammad. The real name of applicant is Humam Ahmad Siddiqui son of Ansarul Hassan, resident of Hanif Nagar, Near Masjid Belal, Pyare Patti Road, District Sultanpur. The applicant has no alias. A deliberate attempt has been made to implicate the applicant by using alias, on the identity of the applicant without any basis or material. For the last 35 years, the applicant is not residing in Village Teari, Police Station Gosaiganj, District Sultanpur and is residing at 49, Khairabad (Lucknow Naka) Sultanpur. After the year 2000 applicant is residing at Hanif Nagar, Near Masjid Belal, Pyare Patti Road, District Sultanpur. The applicant is registered with the Bar Council of U.P. as an advocate in the year 2000 on the aforesaid address. Due to deliberate inclusion of the name of applicant on an address, where the applicant did not reside, he never knew about the pendency of the any proceeding against him. For the first time he came to know the proceeding in the year 2008. Thereafter he was arrested and produced before the concerned court and he was bailed out on 25.07.2008. Since then the proceeding is continuing against him. It is also submitted that applicant has moved applications dated 26.05.2009 and 29.03.2021 seeking indulgence of the learned Magistrate to return the charge sheet and discharge the applicant in absence of compliance of section 196 Cr.P.C. The applicant has been denied an opportunity to seek discharge and the learned trial court misinterpreting the application filed before it straightaway directed framing of charges against the applicant. Even otherwise, on the fact of the case, FIR is taken at its face value, does not constitute any offence, much less a cognizable offence punishable under sections 153-A, 153-B, 124-A, IPC alongwith sections 505 and 506, IPC. There is no material on record to demonstrate that the applicant was member of any unlawful/illegal organization. It is further contended that prosecution sanction with regard to accused-applicants Fazlur Rahman, Daud Husain and Rashid Husain have been granted by the Government vide order dated 16.11.2019, while the learned Magistrate has committed the entire case to the court of sessions before it on 02.09.2019, which includes the case of aforesaid three accused also.

Learned counsel for the applicants placed reliance on the following decisions of Hon'ble Apex Court as well as High Court:-

"(i) Gokulchand Dwarkadas Morarka Vs. Kind Emperor, ILR 1978 Bom 316.

(ii) Basdeo Aggarwalla Vs Kind Emperor (1945 58 LW 313 (FB).

(iii) Manoj Rai & Ors Vs. State of MP (1999) 6 SCC 728.

(iv) Abdul Mian & Ors Vs. The King (1951 CrLJ 710 Patna HC.

(v) State of U.P. Vs. Gayur & Ors 2019 SCC Online All 4920 Allahabad HC.

(vi) Arun Jaitley Vs. State of U.P., 2015 SCC Online All 9413 Allahabad HC.

(vii) Balwant Singh Vs. State of Punjab (1995), 3 SCC 214,

(x) Patricia Mukhim Vs. State of Meghalaya, 2021 SCC Online SC 258, (xi) Chakra Behara & Ors Vs. Balakrishna Mohapatra, AIR 1963 Ori 23.

(xii) State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp(1) SCC 336."

7. It is undisputed that both the charge sheets were filed without compliance of section 196 Cr.P.C., regarding prosecution sanction, which was necessary for taking cognizance for offence complained of. Cognizance order was challenged before this Court. Following directions was given vide order dated 08.05.2003:-

"It is hereby directed to the court taking cognizance to examine whether the previous sanction of the appropriate Government has been obtained or not which is a condition precedent for taking cognizance. The court below proceeding further in the matter shall first decide this point and thereafter pass the order according to law, keeping in view Section 196 of the Code of Criminal procedure, within one month from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

With this direction the application is disposed of finally."

8. Unfortunately the learned Magistrate without making any compliance of the aforesaid order, committed the case to the court of sessions. When the matter was raised before the court of sessions, it remitted the matter to learned Magistrate to pass appropriate order in compliance of the direction of the High Court. The most unfortunate aspects is that the learned Magistrate kept the matter pending for years. The applications were moved before him by the accused persons, but the learned Magistrate failed to pass any order on it. He also failed to comply the order of this Court dated 08.05.2003, within stipulated period of one month, rather he ignored it completely and kept the matter pending till he finally committed the case to the court of sessions on 02.09.2019, without complying the order of High Court. The aforesaid act of the learned Magistrate is contemptuous as well. When the matter was again committed to the court of sessions, the accused-applicants moved applications before the sessions court, but the learned sessions court without appreciating the facts and law on the point and without taking into consideration the legal provision on flimsy ground has rejected the application making observation that the case is at its preliminary stage, even after more than 16 years have lapsed since 2003, which is an example that how a case can be prolonged on technical point. The aforesaid comments of the learned sessions court is wholly unwarranted. In the delay of the proceeding, clearly there is no role of the accused-applicants. The cause of the delay is apparent, which is latches on the part of the prosecution itself as well as on the part of the learned Magistrate, who has failed to comply the order of High Court dated 08.05.2003. The learned sessions court should have considered the consequences of the non compliance of the order of the High Court dated 08.05.2003 and further the effect of post cognizance prosecution sanction and further the prosecution sanction of three accused is post committal proceeding. It should have also considered the legality and validity of the entire proceeding from the very beginning that of from the cognizance stage. It is also evident that while rejecting the application moved by the accuse-applicants, the learned sessions court has posted the matter for framing charge, without giving any opportunity of hearing on the point of charge to the accused-applicant. As the legal points raised by the accused-applicants have not been decided by the sessions court, it will not be proper for this Court to enter into merits of the arguments advanced by the learned counsels for the parties. It will be just and proper to direct the trial court i.e. the concerned court of sessions where cases are pending to consider all the legal aspects and the legal objections, raised by the accused-applicants, provide them opportunity for hearing on the point of charge and then pass an appropriate order in accordance with the provisions of law.

9. From the aforesaid discussion it is clear that order dated 18.01.2020 is not sustainable in the eye of law and liable to be quashed.

10. The application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby partly allowed only in respect of quashing the order dated 18.01.2020 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Gorakhpur. The applicants may move a fresh application within 15 days after obtaining a certified copy, raising all their legal objections and legal points against the prosecution and may also pray for discharge. The sessions court after providing opportunity of hearing to both the parties will dispose of the same with a reasoned order in accordance with the provisions of law, within one month from the date of filing of the such applications before it.

THE HON'BLE ANISH KUMAR GUPTA, J.

Application U/S 482. No. 27063 of 2023

Anshul Kumar ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:

Sri Gulab Chandra, Sri Rupesh Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

G.A., Sri Satish Kumar Tyagi

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 376, 377, 393, 504, 506, 323, 427 - Quashing of Charge-Sheet and Cognizance Order Denied -
The applicant sought to quash the charge-sheet dated 25.05.2023 and cognizance order dated 05.06.2023 in Criminal Case No. 46985 of 2023 under Sections 376, 377, 393, 504, 506, 323, 427 IPC – Held, a prima facie case of rape and related offences was established based on the allegations and Section 164 CrPC Statement, warranting trial and not quashing. (Paras 2, 15, 16)

B. Section 376 IPC – Rape on False Promise of Marriage – The opposite party no. 2 alleged that the applicant, a police officer, forcibly raped her after administering a contaminated cold drink and maintained a physical relationship under a false promise of marriage – Held, as per Shambhu Kharwar, a false promise of marriage known to be false from inception vitiates consent, making out a prima facie case of rape. (Paras 9, 14, 15, 16)

C. Abuse of Position by Police Officer – The applicant, as the Investigating Officer in a prior case, allegedly exploited his authority to coerce the opposite party no. 2 into a physical relationship – Held, the misuse of official position to exploit the victim strengthens the prima facie case against the applicant. (Paras 13, 16)

D. Previous FIR and Final Report – The opposite party no. 2 had lodged a prior FIR (Case Crime No. 392 of 2022) against the applicant, which ended in a final report due to her coerced Section 164 CrPC Statement – Held, her explanation of coercion and false promises by the applicant justifies the fresh FIR, and the issue requires trial adjudication. (Paras 5, 6, 9, 16)

E. Consensual Relationship Defence Rejected – The applicant claimed the relationship was consensual and the opposite party no. 2 was aware of his marital status – Held, the allegations of initial forcible rape and subsequent false promise of marriage negate the consensual relationship defence, as per Vinod Kumar and Jiyaullah, requiring trial to ascertain facts. (Paras 11, 15, 16)

Application Dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Gulab Chandra, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Satish Kumar Tyagi, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and Sri Vibhav Anand, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking quashing of the charge-sheet no.01 of 2023 dated 25.05.2023 as well as impugned cognizance order dated 05.06.2023 and entire criminal proceedings in Criminal Case No.46985 of 2023 (State of U.P. vs. Anshul Kumar), arising out of Case Crime No.0109 of 2023 u/S 376, 377, 393, 504, 506, 323, 427 I.P.C., P.S.- Madhuban Bapudham, District- Ghaziabad, pending in the court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, .

3. The brief facts of the case are that the opposite party no.2, Shivani Dube, was previously married with one Prashant Sharma. She obtained divorce by mutual consent from said Prashant Sharma on 22.09.2020. Subsequently, the opposite party no.2 had lodged an F.I.R. under Sections 507, 376, 504, 508, 420 and 406 I.P.C. being Case Crime No. 31 of 2022 on 22.01.2022. In the said F.I.R. which was registered by the opposite party no.2 against the said Jishan Hashim, the applicant herein was the Investigation Officer (IO). During the investigation of the said F.I.R. against Jishan Hashim, the opposite party no.2 came in contact with the applicant herein. In the meantime on 27.03.2022 the applicant herein has prepared the charge-sheet against the said Jishan Hashim, which was forwarded on 19.04.2022.

4. Subsequently, on 26.04.2022, the opposite party no.2 lodged an N.C.R. against Amita Rani (the wife of the applicant herein), her brother (Rajat) and her two sisters (Vimal and Mrs. Rakam Singh). Subsequently, on 13.06.2022, the opposite party no.2 allegedly submitted an application to the Station House Officer (S.H.O.), P.S. - Link Road, District- Ghaziabad, stating that she doesn't want any action on the N.C.R. No. 18 of 2022

dated 26.04.2022, registered by her against Amita Rani and her other relatives. Since, the opposite party no.2 used to visit the house of the applicant herein in connection of her case against Jishan Hashim, the said Amita Rani had developed suspicion over her and there was some altercation with Amita Rani and she has further stated in her application that she had filed this N.C.R. to create a pressure on the applicant herein, so that the applicant may take stringent action in the F.I.R. registered against Jishan Hashim. In the said case, Jishan Hashim was granted bail on 11.07.2022.

5. Thereafter, on 15.10.2022, the opposite party no.2 herein had lodged an F.I.R. being Case Crime No. 392 of 2022 against the applicant herein, alleging that when the applicant herein was the Beat Incharge at Surya Nagar, Ghaziabad, she came in his contact in connection to her case wherein the applicant was the IO. During the investigation, the applicant had proposed her to which the opposite party no.2 did not agree and on 05.01.2022, she had made a call to the Women Cell and complained about the applicant. Subsequently, she was afraid as it was her first case and the applicant used to take her on lonely places. Slowly, he made her to believe that he will take divorce from his wife and today when, as per his promise, he did not come, then she went to his house where he had abused her, broken her phone and beaten her with fist. She further stated that on the promise of marriage, the applicant had made physical relations with her at Hotel Country Inn Red - Kvelvet, Ghaziabad, due to which she became pregnant and after the confirmation of pregnancy at Max Hospital, Vaishali. Subsequently, her pregnancy was aborted between 24-27, March. She further stated in the F.I.R. that the applicant is such an officer who promises to marry and then breaks his own promise, therefore, strict action be taken against such officer. During the investigation in the instant F.I.R., the opposite party no.2 refused to undergo the medical examination on 15.10.2022 itself. Subsequently, her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded and she has stated that during the investigation of the case lodged by her against the said Jishan Hashim, she came in contact with the applicant and both have developed a good friendly relationship with each other and due to some altercation she had lodged this false F.I.R. against the applicant herein. On the basis of such statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the final report in Case Crime No. 392 of 2022 was submitted by the Investigation Officer in the instant case on 02.12.2022 and vide order dated 12.12.2022, the said final report was accepted by the court below as same was admitted by the applicant herself before the court.

6. Subsequent thereto, the opposite party no.2 filed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. alleging that earlier she had lodged an F.I.R. being Case Crime No. 392 of 2022 against the applicant herein, wherein, the entire details have been given. Subsequent to lodging of the said F.I.R., the applicant herein had another chance to correct his mistake and as per the promise he again assured the opposite party no.2 that he will take divorce from his wife and will marry her. Thereupon, after four days of registration of the said F.I.R., the applicant took the opposite party no.2 to Hotel Country Inn Kvelvet, P.S. Kavi Nagar, Ghaziabad, where he had established consensual physical relationship with the opposite party no.2 on the pretext of promise of marriage from 19.10.2022 till 31.10.2022 and subsequently, from 01.11.2022 till 15.12.2022, he kept the opposite party no.2 in a flat which he had taken on rent. On 28.10.2022, when her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., was to be recorded, then, the applicant through her advocate had allured her with the promise of marriage and stated that if she will not make statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as per their advice, then, the applicant will go to jail and life of both the applicant and the opposite party no.2 will be spoiled. After such assurance, he took a flat on rent and kept the opposite party no.2 as his wife and continued physical relationship with her under the promise of marriage. When the opposite party no.2 realized that he is just trying to be good only for the purpose of getting her statement recorded and he has no intention to marry the opposite party no.2 then the opposite party no.2 objected to such relationship with the applicant, then, the applicant assaulted the opposite party no.2 and locked her inside the flat. When the opposite party no.2 tried to contact the guard then the applicant broke the intercom telephone and also took the phone of the opposite party no.2. When the guard came after hearing the noise, the gate was opened by him and he told the guard that there are some personal disputes between them, thereupon, the guard had went away. Thereafter, the applicant again assaulted the opposite party no.2 and threaten her that if she will not follow the instructions given by the applicant then he will kill her. It is further alleged that her signatures were taken on blank papers, which were later used as affidavits in the proceedings and with regard to the final report being accepted by the Magistrate.

7. The said application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., was dismissed with the observation that opposite party no.2 should approach at the first instance to the senior police officials and thereupon if no action is taken then she can again approach the court.

8. In pursuance thereof, she approached the higher police official and thereupon on 28.03.2023, the instant F.I.R., was registered being Case Crime No. 109 of 2023 under Sections 376, 377, 493, 504, 506, 323, 427 I.P.C.

9. After this F.I.R., on 03.04.2023 a medical examination of the opposite party no.2 was conducted and her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded before the trial court again wherein she has categorically stated that she came in contact with the applicant herein with regard to her case when he was Beat Incharge and the applicant used to keep her in the Police Beat till late night for the purpose of the investigation of the case but due to fear she could not oppose. After sometime, he stalled the opposite party no.2 and on 28.02.2022 when she was sitting with the applicant in his vehicle, then, the applicant gave her cold-drink, infiltrated with something, therefore, she lost her consciousness, then the applicant forcibly raped the opposite party no.2 in his vehicle. Subsequently, he said sorry about the same and on 29.02.2022, he called her in his house where again the applicant raped the opposite party no.2. In April, 2022, the opposite party no.2 realised that she is pregnant then the applicant took her to the doctor and when the doctor confirmed that she is four weeks pregnant then abortion pills were given and pregnancy was aborted. Though, the applicant was married he used to promise that everything will be alright and on 13.10.2022 the applicant called her in his house and then the applicant assaulted her. Thereupon, she lodged the Case Crime No. 392 of 2022 against the applicant. When her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was to be recorded then the applicant threaten her that if she did not come within five minutes then he will use very bad words for her mother. Her advocate, namely Dilshad who was also known to the applicant, has also told her that if she will not say what she is instructed in her 164 Cr.P.C. statement, then it will be very bad for her. Thereupon, in her 164 Cr.P.C. statement she told the falsehood. After the statement, the said Dilshad took her to Anshul, the applicant. Thereupon, Anshul took her to Nilaya Greens Tower, Rajnagar Extension, Ghaziabad where they lived together and maintain physical relationship and on 14.12.2022, when there was a date fixed in her previous case which she has lodged against the applicant, then, her advocate told her to sign the attendance slip. On 12.12.2022, the said Dilshad obtained signatures in his chamber and she could not read such papers as she was doing some work of her office and on 12.12.2022, Dilshad took her to the court where he assured that he was going to submit the papers related to divorce of Anshul where she heard something like FR, but she did not know what FR means, therefore, she signed it and on 16.12.2022, Anshul came to her in a drunkard position then abused and assaulted the opposite party no.2 and then she called the guard, the guard came but when the applicant told the guard that nothing had happened then the guard went away. Again, the applicant tried to have anal sex with her and raped her and since thereafter from 16.12.2022, the applicant did not come to her.

10. On the basis of this statement the charge-sheet was filed against the applicant herein. Thereupon, the cognizance was taken on 05.06.2023. The instant application has been filed challenging the charge-sheet as well as the order taking cognizance against the applicant.

11. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that there was a long-standing consensual physical relationship between the applicant and the opposite party no.2 who was a person of well understanding of all the consequences of such relationship. The applicant herein is a married man with children and the opposite party no.2 was well-aware of all the aforesaid facts. Despite that she continued her relationship with the applicant. Now, the opposite party no.2 is trying to blackmail the applicant herein for such consensual relationship and in the earlier F.I.R. lodged by the opposite party no.2, on her own statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the final report was filed. Thereupon, the instant F.I.R. has been lodged. After four months of the final report submitted in the earlier cases with the same allegations, the said final report was also accepted in her presence before the court. She has not raised any objection to the said final report before the court concerned. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that the instant F.I.R. is nothing but a counterblast to the F.I.R. lodged by the mother of the applicant herein against the opposite party no.2, under the provisions of S.C./S.T. Act. Since, the opposite party no.2 is an adult person and it was a consensual relationship between the applicant and the opposite party no.2, therefore, no offence of rape is made out against the applicant herein and the instant case is nothing but a malicious prosecution on behalf of the applicant.

12. Learned counsel for the the applicant has relied upon the judgements of the Apex Court in Vinod Kumar v. State of Kerala, (2014) 5 SCC 678, Shambhu Kharwar v. State of U.P. : 2022 SCC Online and Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P., : (2017) 13 SCC 369 and the judgement of this Court in Jiyaullah vs. State of U.P. and Another : [2023 (10) ADJ 438].

13. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. for the State submits that the applicant was a Police Officer and was under obligation to protect the opposite party no.2, who has registered a case against Jishan Hashim and under the garb of that investigation he had established physical relationship by forcing the opposite party no.2 to consume a contaminated cold-drink, therefore, when she become unconscious, he has committed a forcible physical relationship with the opposite party no.2 without her consent, which clearly tantamounts to an offence of rape. In the earlier F.I.R. lodged by the opposite party no.2, the applicant in connivance with the Advocate of the opposite party no.2 had threatening to an ill treatment of her mother, had got her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., under coercion and again she had lodged the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., through her mother against the applicant for the charges under the provisions of the S.C./S.T. Act and in the instant case, since, the applicant herein was already married, there was, from the very beginning, an element of force and subsequently thereto, the false promise of marriage by the applicant. Therefore, the subsequent relationship on such false promise of marriage which the applicant knew from the very beginning that the same is false, therefore, the offence is categorically made out against the applicant. Since, his promise to marry the opposite party no.2 was false since its inception, therefore, prima facie a case has been made out against the applicant and the same cannot be quashed in exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

14. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has relied upon the judgement of Shambhu Kharwar (supra) to submit that since from the inception the applicant knew that he has no intention to marry the opposite party no.2 and initially he had established forcible physical relationship by making the opposite party no.2 to consume contaminated cold drink and thereupon under the garb of false promise to marry, he had maintained the relationship, therefore, a prima facie case has been made out.

15. Having heard the submissions made by learned counsels for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the record of the case. In Vinod Kumar (supra), the Apex Court having regard to the facts of that case wherein the victim was fully aware that the relationship of marriage, which she has performed with the accused in that case was a nullity and continued with such relations and had physical relationship with the accused. In that circumstances, the Apex Court has held that such consensual relationship would not amount to rape, as the victim was fully aware about such relationship. In Shambhu Kharwar (supra), the Apex Court has held that once it is established that the promise of marriage under the garb of which the accused had made relationship with the victim was false from its inception and on such promise if the accused has induced the victim into a sexual relationship, then, the offence of rape shall be made out. If initially the promise of marriage was made in good faith and the parties have entered into a consensual physical relationship and on subsequent breach of such promise, no offence of rape shall be made out. In Vineet Kumar (supra), the Apex Court having found that the prosecution of the accused by the victim was a malicious prosecution, has allowed the appeal and quashed criminal proceedings against the accused persons. In Jiyaullah (supra), this Court having regard to the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case wherein the parties were having long-standing consensual physical relationship for more than 15 years and initially there was promise of marriage in good faith and subsequently on such breach of promise to marry, no offence of rape is made out. Therefore, the criminal proceedings were quashed.

16. In the instant case from the statement as made under Section 164 Cr.P.C., it is clear that in the first instance the applicant herein has raped the opposite party no.2 by making her to consume a contaminated cold-drinks, thereby, making her unconscious. Therefore, it was prima facie an act of force without consent. Thereafter, looking at the authority of the applicant, she could not resist such relationship. Subsequent thereto, the applicant had established the physical relationship with the opposite party no.2 under the garb of promise to marry her by divorcing his previous wife. However, from the allegation it is crystal clear that the applicant herein knew that such a promise which is made by the applicant was nothing but a false promise and he had no intention to marry the opposite party no.2. When the opposite party no.2 herein had tried to create pressure on the opposite party no.2 to keep his promise and divorce his wife and marry the opposite party no.2, then, the applicant as being a Police Officer filed an Application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., upon which an F.I.R. was registered under the provisions of the S.C./S.T. Act through his mother. The Police Officers are duty bound to protect the victims. However, in the instant case, as per the allegations made, the applicant herein appears to have misutilized his position and has exploited the opposite party no.2. Therefore, in the considered opinion of this Court a prima facie case has been established against the applicant from the charge-sheet as well as statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of the opposite party no.2 in the instant case. With regard to the previous F.I.R. and the final report submitted in the previous F.I.R., the opposite party no.2 has categorically explained her conduct as to under what circumstances and on the pressure created by the applicant, the opposite party no.2 did not make true statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and did not oppose the final report as the applicant herein was continuously making false promise of marriage and continuing his relationship with opposite party no.2. Therefore, all the allegations made in the instant case are subject to evidence during the trial in the instant case. Since, a prima facie case has been found against the applicant, therefore, this Court do not find any good ground to interfere in the charge-sheet or in the order taking cognizance against the applicant herein. Accordingly, the instant application is dismissed in the light of the judgements of Apex Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal : 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335, Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of Maharashtra and Others : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 315 and R. P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482- Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 149, 307, 436, 120-B - Quashing of Cognizance Order Denied – The applicants sought to quash the order dated 17.01.2020 by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, rejecting the final report and taking cognizance under Sections 147, 149, 307, 436, 120-B IPC – Held, the Magistrate validly took cognizance under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC based on material in the police report, and no infirmity was found in the order. (Paras 2, 15, 16, 18)

B. Section 190(1)(b) CrPC – Cognizance on Police Report – The Magistrate rejected the final report and took cognizance based on the material in the police report – Held, as per H.S. Bains, India Carat Pvt. Ltd., and other precedents, a Magistrate can take cognizance under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC, ignoring the police's conclusion, if the material supports a prima facie case. (Paras 7, 8, 9, 11, 15)

C. Rejection of Final Report – The investigating agency submitted final reports on 16.02.2018 and 19.11.2018, both rejected by the Magistrate after considering protest petitions and material evidence – Held, the Magistrate's rejection of the final report and cognizance based on police report evidence was lawful, as per Vishnu Kumar Tiwari. (Paras 3, 12, 13, 16)

D. Magistrate's Discretion in Cognizance – The applicants argued that cognizance could not be taken after rejecting the final report – Held, the Magistrate is not bound by the police's conclusion and can independently take cognizance under Section 190(1)(b) CrPC without treating the protest petition as a complaint under Section 200 CrPC, as clarified in Gangadhar Janardan Mhatre and Asif Ahmad Siddiqui. (Paras 9, 11, 14, 15)

E. Conflict with Coordinate Bench Judgment – The applicants relied on Shahid and Others, which held that cognizance cannot be taken after rejecting a final report – Held, this judgment is inconsistent with Supreme Court precedents and does not aid the applicants. (Para 17)

Application Dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Shri Amit Daga, learned counsel for the applicant and Shri Pankaj Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application under section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking quashing of the order dated 17.1.2020 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hathras in Criminal Case No. 470/12 of 2018 (now numbered as Criminal Case No. 453 of 2020) "State of U.P. Vs. Shree Om and others" arising out of Case Crime No. 1481 of 2017 under sections 147, 149, 307, 436, 120-B I.P.C. police station Sadabad, District Hathras.

3. The facts, in brief, of the instant case are that the applicant no. 1 and the opposite party no. 2 are the real brothers and the applicants no. 2 and 3 are the sons of applicant no. 1. There was property dispute between the applicant no. 1 and the opposite party no. 2 and various litigation with regard to property dispute between them are already pending. In the night intervening 16/17.12.2017, the fire took place in the shops owned by the opposite party no. 2 which were let out to somebody else. Taking the advantage of the said fire incident, the instant FIR has been registered by the opposite party no.2 against the applicants as well as other co-accused, namely, Dalveer Singh who is the Advocate of the applicants herein and pursuing their cases before the trial court. For the same incident another FIR was registered by the tenant of the shop on 18.12.2017 stating that fire has taken place in which they have suffered huge loss. During the investigation, the opposite party no. 2 and some of the witnesses have been produced and they have stated that they have seen the applicants running away after the fire took place in the shops. After due and proper investigation of the case a final report was filed by the investigating agency on 16.2.2018. On protest petition being filed by the opposite party no. 2 the said final report dated 16.2.2018 was rejected on 26.7.2018 and the C.J.M. Hathras directed for further investigation in the matter. The matter was again investigated and further final report dated 19.11.2018 was filed by the investigating agency. Thereupon again the protest petition was filed by the opposite party no. 2. Thereafter, considering the entire material in the final report, learned Magistrate vide order dated 17.1.2020 rejected the said final report. However, summoned the applicants herein as well as the co-accused Dalveer Singh for the offences under sections 147, 149, 307, 436, 120-B I.P.C. Against the said order dated 17.1.2020 one of the co-accused, namely, Dalveer Singh, who was the Advocate and representing the applicants in the trial court, filed a Revision No. 57 of 2021, which was disposed of by the Sessions Judge, Hathras vide order dated 11.10.2021 whereby the learned Sessions Judge remanded back the matter directing the revisionist to approach for discharge before the Magistrate, which shall be decided on merit. Against the said order, the opposite party no. 2 filed a petition under Article 227 No. 238 of 2022 which was disposed of vide order dated 25.1.2022 by this Court holding that since the offences under sections 147, 149, 307, 436, 120-B I.P.C. are triable by Sessions Court, therefore, the matter could not have been remanded back and the other co-accused could not have been directed to approach the C.J.M. for discharge, therefore, in the light of the aforesaid observation the order dated 11.10.2022 was set aside and the matter was remanded back to the Sessions Judge for fresh decision. Thereupon the learned Sessions Judge, Hathras vide order dated 6.7.2022 has allowed the said revision and set aside the order dated 17.1.2020 in respect of the cognizance taken against the revisionist, who is one of the co-accused in the instant case. Now the instant application has been filed by the applicants challenging the order dated 17.1.2020 passed by the learned Magistrate.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that vide order dated 17.1.2020 the C.J.M. Hathras has rejected the final report submitted by the investigating agency and at the same time the learned Magistrate has taken cognizance against the applicants as well as against the co-accused person for the offences under sections 147, 149, 307, 436, 120-B I.P.C. under section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. Learned counsel for the applicant, therefore, submits that as per section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. the cognizance can be taken by the learned Magistrate only on a police report of such facts. However, since the police report in the instant case has already been rejected, therefore, there was no material before the Magistrate on which the Magistrate could have taken the cognizance. In support of his submission learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Vishnu Kumar Tiwari Vs. State of U.P. and another (2019) 8 SCC 27. Learned counsel for the applicant has also relied upon a judgement passed by this Court in Application u/s 482 No. 10032 of 2022 (Shahid and others Vs. State of U.P. and others), wherein this Court has held as under: for State and upon perusal of record, this Court finds that once Court below rejected the police report (final report) then Court below could not have taken cognizance upon aforesaid Police report. The course of action open to court below was to disapprove (Aswikar) the report. This having not been done, the impugned order is illegal perverse and unsustainable in law."

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that the Magistrate disagreeing with the conclusion drawn by the investigating agency rejected the final report and has rightly taken the cognizance under section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. therefore, there is no error in the order passed by the Magistrate.

6. Having heard the rival submission made by learned counsel for the parties, this court has carefully gone through the record of the case. Therefore, the limited question involved in the instant case is as to whether while rejecting the final report submitted after due investigation by the investigating agency, the Magistrate can take cognizance under section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. ? Section 190(1)(b) reads as under:

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub- section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try."

7. From bare reading of the aforesaid provision it is clear that as per section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. it is open for the Magistrate to take cognizance on a police report irrespective of the conclusion drawn by the investigating officer.

8. The Apex Court in the case H.S. Bains Vs. State (1980) 4 SCC 631, in paragraph 7 has held as under:

"7. In Abhinandan Jha v. Dinesh Mishra [AIR 1968 SC 117 : (1967) 3 SCR 668 : 1968 Cri LJ 97] , the question arose whether a Magistrate to whom a report under Section 173(1) had been submitted to the effect that no case had been made out against the accused, could direct the police to file a charge-sheet, on his disagreeing with the report submitted by the police. This Court held that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction to direct the police to submit a charge-sheet. It was open to the Magistrate to agree or disagree with the police report. If he agreed with the report that there was no case made out for issuing process to the accused, he might accept the report and close the proceedings. If he came to the conclusion that further investigation was necessary he might make an order to that effect under Section 156(3). If ultimately the Magistrate was of the opinion that the fact set out in the police report constituted an offence he could take cognizance of the offence, notwithstanding the contrary opinion of the police expressed in the report. We find it impossible to say that a Magistrate who takes cognizance of an offence on the basis of the facts disclosed in a police report must be said to have taken cognizance of the offence on suspicion and not upon a police report merely because the Magistrate and the police arrived at different conclusions from the facts. The Magistrate is not bound by the conclusions arrived at by the police even as he is not bound by the conclusions arrived at by the complainant in a complaint."

9. In the case of M/s India Carat Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Karnataka and another, (1989) 2 SCC 132 the Apex Court in paragraph 16 and 17 has held as under:

"16. The position is, therefore, now well settled that upon receipt of a police report under Section 173(2) a Magistrate is entitled to take cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code even if the police report is to the effect that no case is made out against the accused. The Magistrate can take into account the statements of the witnesses examined by the police during the investigation and take cognizance of the offence complained of and order the issue of process to the accused. Section 190(1)(b) does not lay down that a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence only if the investigating officer gives an opinion that the investigation has made out a case against the accused. The Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the investigating officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case, if he thinks fit, in exercise of his powers under Section 190(1)(b) and direct the issue of process to the accused. The Magistrate is not bound in such a situation to follow the procedure laid down in Sections 200 and 202 of the Code for taking cognizance of a case under Section 190(1)(a) though it is open to him to act under Section 200 or Section 202 also.

17. It has been held in Tula Ram v. Kishore Singh [(1977) 4 SCC 459 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 621 : (1978) 1 SCR 615] that if the police, after making an investigation, send a report that no case was made out against the accused, the Magistrate could ignore the conclusion drawn by the police and take cognizance of a case under Section 190(1)(b) and issue process or in the alternative he can take cognizance of the original complaint and examine the complainant and his witnesses and thereafter issue process to the accused, if he is of opinion that the case should be proceeded with."

10. The Apex Court in the case of Union of India Vs. Prakash P. Hinduja and another (2003) 6 SCC 195 in paragraph 14 has held as under:

"14. The Magistrate is no doubt not bound to accept the final report (sometimes called as closer report) submitted by the police and if he feels that the evidence and material collected during investigation justify prosecution of the accused, he may not accept the final report and take cognizance of the offence and summon the accused but this does not mean that he would be interfering with the investigation as such. He would be doing so in exercise of powers conferred by Section 190 CrPC. The statutory provisions are, therefore, absolutely clear that the court cannot interfere with the investigation."

11. In Gangadhar Janardan Mhatre v. State of Maharashtra (2004) 7 SCC 768, the Apex Court in paragraph 9 has held as under:

"9. The Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the investigating officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case, if he thinks fit, exercise his powers under Section 190(1)(b) and direct the issue of process to the accused. The Magistrate is not bound in such a situation to follow the procedure laid down in Sections 200 and 202 of the Code for taking cognizance of a case under Section 190(1)(a) though it is open to him to act under section 200 or Section 202 also."

12. Paragraph 27 of the judgment in the case of Vishnu Kumar Tiwari (supra) relied by learned counsel for the applicant reads as under:

"27. It is undoubtedly true that before a Magistrate proceeds to accept a final report under Section 173 and exonerate the accused, it is incumbent upon the Magistrate to apply his mind to the contents of the protest petition and arrive at a conclusion thereafter. While the investigating officer may rest content by producing the final report, which, according to him, is the culmination of his efforts, the duty of the Magistrate is not one limited to readily accepting the final report. It is incumbent upon him to go through the materials, and after hearing the complainant and considering the contents of the protest petition, finally decide the future course of action to be, whether to continue with the matter or to bring the curtains down.”

13. In the same judgement of Vishnu Kumar Tiwari (supra) it is worth mentioning that the Apex Court has held in paragraph 18 and 42 as under:

“18. Thus, when he proceeds to take action by way of cognizance by disagreeing with the conclusions arrived at in the police report, he would be taking cognizance on the basis of the police report and not on the complaint. And, therefore, the question of examining the complainant or his witnesses under Section 200 of the Code would not arise. This was the view clearly enunciated.

42. In the facts of this case, having regard to the nature of the allegations contained in the protest petition and the annexures which essentially consisted of affidavits, if the Magistrate was convinced on the basis of the consideration of the final report, the statements under Section 161 of the Code that no prima facie case is made out, certainly the Magistrate could not be compelled to take cognizance by treating the protest petition as a complaint. The fact that he may have jurisdiction in a case to treat the protest petition as a complaint, is a different matter. Undoubtedly, if he treats the protest petition as a complaint, he would have to follow the procedure prescribed under Sections 200 and 202 of the Code if the latter section also commends itself to the Magistrate. In other words, necessarily, the complainant and his witnesses would have to be examined. No doubt, depending upon the material which is made available to a Magistrate by the complainant in the protest petition, it may be capable of being relied on in a particular case having regard to its inherent nature and impact on the conclusions in the final report. That is, if the material is such that it persuades the court to disagree with the conclusions arrived at by the investigating officer, cognizance could be taken under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code for which there is no necessity to examine the witnesses under Section 200 of the Code. But as the Magistrate could not be compelled to treat the protest petition as a complaint, the remedy of the complainant would be to file a fresh complaint and invite the Magistrate to follow the procedure under Section 200 of the Code or Section 200 read with Section 202 of the Code. Therefore, we are of the view that in the facts of this case, we cannot support the decision of the High Court.”

14. A coordinate Bench of this Court in Application u/s 482 No. - 5500 of 2023 (Asif Ahmad Siddiqui Vs. State of U.P. and another) decided on 26.4.2023 has held in paragraphs 19, 20 and 21 as under:

“19. It is not disputed by the learned counsel appearing for the parties that the Magistrate is empowered to take cognizance under Section 190(1) CrPC in either of the three contingencies namely:-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

20. The cognizance of the offence can be taken on the basis of the police reports as envisaged in Clause (b) of Section 190(1) CrPC irrespective of the opinion of the Investigating Officer that prima facie no case is made out, if the material collected and the statements of the witnesses recorded under Section 161 CrPC, in the opinion of the Magistrate, are sufficient to make out a prima facie case against the accused persons.

21. Thus the position is very clear and well settled that upon receipt of a police report under Section 173(2) a Magistrate is entitled to take cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code even if the police report is to the effect that no case is made out against the accused. The Magistrate can take into account the statements of the witnesses examined by the police during the investigation and take cognizance of the offence complained of and order the issuance of process to the accused. Section 190(1)(b) does not lay down that a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence only if the investigating officer gives an opinion that the investigation has made out a case against the accused. The Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the investigating officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case, if he thinks fit in exercise of his powers under Section 190(1)(b) and direct the issue of process to the accused. The Magistrate is not bound in such a situation to follow the procedure laid down in Sections 200 and 202 of the Code for taking cognizance of a case under Section 190(1)(a), though, it is open to him to act under Section 200 or Section 202 also."

15. Therefore, from the above noted judgements it is crystal clear that where an FIR has been filed and the Magistrate chooses to take cognizance of the matter disagreeing with the conclusion arrived at in the police report then such cognizance is taken on the basis of the police report and it is not mandatory for him to treat the protest petition so filed by the complainant as a complaint and then proceed in accordance with the provisions of Section 200 Cr.P.C. If the Magistrate take cognizance on the police report itself, then the procedure under section 200 Cr.P.C. is not required to be followed. From the aforesaid observations made in the judgements referred above it is crystal clear that when a final report is submitted by the police the Magistrate may agree or disagree with such police report and if he wants to agree with such final report filed by the police then it is mandatory for him to issue notice to the complainant and consider the protest petition after giving the opportunity to the complainant and if he found that the conclusion drawn by the police in its report is wrong or not sustainable then he may straight away proceed to take cognizance in the matter under section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. on the basis of the material brought on record alongwith the police report.

16. Therefore, in the instant case the learned Magistrate has considered the final report submitted by the police and entire material available before him even on the initial investigation and on the further investigation as directed by the Magistrate and on the basis of the material available before Magistrate he has found that the conclusion drawn by the investigating agency are not sustainable and thereupon he has rejected the said final report and has taken cognizance against the applicants herein. Therefore, in the considered opinion of this Court there is no infirmity in the order passed by the learned Magistrate rejecting the final report and taking the cognizance against the applicants herein.

17. So far as the judgement of another Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Shahid and other (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicant is concerned, in the light of the judgements of the Apex Court, referred to herein above, the same is not in conformity with the aforesaid judgments of the Apex Court and, therefore, is of no help to the applicants herein.

18. For the reasons afore stated, the instant application is devoid of merit and is hereby dismissed.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B - Quashing of Bail Rejection Order Denied – The applicant sought to set aside the order dated 19.07.2023 rejecting his bail application under Section 437(6) CrPC in Case No. 6781 of 2021 for offences under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B IPC and Sections 4/20/21/25 of the Indian Telegraph Act – Held, the Magistrate's rejection was justified due to the serious nature of the offence, and no illegality was found in the order. (Paras 2, 20, 22)

B. Section 437(6) CrPC – Mandatory but Not Absolute – The applicant argued that Section 437(6) CrPC mandates bail if a trial for a non-bailable offence is not concluded within 60 days from the first date fixed for evidence – Held, while the provision is mandatory, it is not absolute like Section 167(2) CrPC, and the Magistrate can reject bail by recording exceptional reasons, as clarified in Chhabi Vs St. of Orissa and Didar Singh Vs St. of Jharkhand. (Paras 8, 11, 16, 19)

C. Reasons for Bail Rejection – The Magistrate rejected the bail application citing the grievous nature of the offence involving an illegal international telephone exchange – Held, the reasons were sufficient, as the offence posed a threat to national security and caused significant loss to the exchequer, justifying the exceptional rejection under Section 437(6) CrPC. (Paras 20, 21)

D. Nature of Offence and National Security – The applicant was charged with running an illegal telephone exchange, causing financial loss and posing a threat to national security – Held, such serious allegations, involving unmonitored international calls and potential anti-national activities, constituted exceptional circumstances for denying bail. (Para 21)

E. Judicial Discretion in Bail Rejection – The court distinguished the applicant's case from co-accused who were granted bail, noting the applicant's distinct role – Held, the Magistrate's limited discretion under Section 437(6) CrPC was exercised judicially, and the rejection was not arbitrary, as supported by Ram Kumar Vs St. of M.P. and Bhikhaji Chaturji Thakore. (Paras 19, 21, 22)

Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Manish Tiwari, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Aushim Luthra and Sri Anurag Vajpeyi, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Pankaj Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. By way of the instant application u/S 482 Cr.P.C.(hereinafter referred as 'the Code'), the applicant has prayed for setting-aside the order dated 19.07.2023, passed by the Court of Civil Judge, Sr. Division, Fast Track Court, Additional Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddh Nagar, in Case No. 6781 of 2021 (State of U.P. vs. Karam Allahi and others), arising out of the Case Crime No. 129 of 2021 u/S 420, 467, 648, 471, 120-B I.P.C. and 4/20/21/25 of Indian Telegraph Act, P.S.- Phase-3 Noida, District- Gautam Buddh Nagar.

3. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicant submits that in the instant case, the applicant herein was arrested on 10.02.2021. Since then, he is in custody. His earlier bail application was initially rejected on 09.07.2021 and the second bail application moved by the applicant was rejected by a detailed order dated 18.11.2022. The instant application has been filed by the applicant herein u/S 437(6) of the Code, which provides that if in a case triable by a Magistrate, if the trial of a person accused of any non-bailable offence is not concluded within a period of 60 days from the first date fixed for taking evidence, such person shall, if he is in custody during the whole of the said period, be released on bail to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, unless for the reasons to be recorded in writing, the Magistrate otherwise directs.

4. Learned Senior Counsel further submits that in the instant case, the charges were framed on 25.04.2023 and the first date for evidence was fixed as 19.05.2023. The period of 60 days from the first date fixed for taking evidence has expired on 19.07.2023. Thereafter, the applicant herein had moved an application u/S 437(6) of the Code on 19.07.2023, which has been rejected by the learned Magistrate on the same day. The only reason recorded for the rejection of the said application is the matter relates to grievous nature. Learned Senior Counsel further submits that provisions of Section 437(6) of the Code, are mandatory and the learned Magistrate while rejecting the bail application is required to record its reason in writing.

5. Learned Senior Counsel has further submits that all other co-accused persons have already been released on bail. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant submits that the provisions of Sub-section (6) of Section 437 of the Code, are in the nature of safeguard provided to the accused persons and while rejecting the bail application moved by the applicant herein under the provisions of Sub-section (6) of Section 437 of the Code, the learned Magistrate has not assigned any reason as was required nor has adverted to the provisions of the said Section. Therefore, learned Senior Counsel prays for setting-aside the said order passed by the learned Magistrate and grant bail in terms of Sub-section (6) of Section 437 of the Code.

6. Sri Pankaj Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that while rejecting the application, the learned Magistrate has categorically recorded his reason stating that since the matter is of grievous nature and the earlier bail applications have already been rejected by the Sessions Court as well as by the High Court, therefore, the said application has been rejected. Therefore, learned counsel for the State submits that reasons aforesaid have already been assigned in the order, there is no illegality in the order.

7. Having heard the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully perused the record of the case.

8. Provisions of Sub-section (6) of Section 437 of the Code, reads as under:

"(6) If, in any case triable by a Magistrate, the trial of a person accused of any non-bailable offence is not concluded within a period of sixty days from the first date fixed for taking evidence in the case, such person shall, if he is in custody during the whole of the said period, be released on bail to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, unless for reasons to be recorded in writing, the Magistrate otherwise directs."

9. From the plain reading of the said Sub-section, the following ingredients are required to be looked into:

(i) Whether the case is triable by the Magistrate and the offence involved is of a non-bailable offence;

(ii) Whether the period of 60 days has expired from first date fixed for taking evidence in the case; and

(iii) the accused is in custody during the whole of the said period. Unless there are some compelling reasons which are required to be recorded in writing the bail has to be granted under the said provisions.

10. With regard to nature of right of the accused to be released on bail u/S 437(6) of the Code, there are divergent views of different High Courts and no direct judgement of the Apex Court is available with regard to the right of the accused to be released on bail u/S 437(6) of the Code. Though, there is a reference to the provisions of Section 437(6) of the Code, in a judgement of the Apex Court in Chandraswami and Others vs. Central Bureau of Investigation : (1996) 6 SCC

715, wherein the argument was raised with regard to the entitlement of the accused persons for bail u/S 437(6) of the Code. However, the Hon'ble Apex Court had considered the grant of bail, looking at the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case, without going into the question of interpretation or applicability of Section 437(6) of the Code.

11. The first judgement which is available is that of the Odisha High Court, on the issue in Chhabi vs. State of Orissa : 1995(2) Crimes 622, wherein Justice Pasayat, J., has held under:

"3. A Magistrate while dealing with a case under sub-section (6) of section 437 of the Code has to record reasons for making an exception. The said provision deals with cases where the trial of a person accused of any non-bailable offence is not concluded within a period of a sixty days from the first day fixed for taking evidence in the case, and it provides that such person shall, if he is in custody during the whole of the said period be released on bail unless for reasons to be recorded in writing the Magistrate otherwise directs. It is the right of an accused person to demand that the charge against him should be tried without any unreasonable delay and such delay entitles the accused to get bail. That right is statutorily recognised and puts a time limit. In a case falling under this sub-section if the Magistrate for reasons to be recorded, holds that the accused shall not be released, then the accused will not be released on bail. It is stated that merits of the case should not be considered at that stage. There is no force in this place. An overall view cannot be equated with prejudging the case. The Court is not precluded from considering the nature of allegations, while dealing with a case under sub-section (6) of section 437 of the Code. "

12. The next judgement available on the point is that of the Gwalior Bench of Madhya Pradesh High Court in Ram Kumar @ Raj Kumar Rathore vs. State of M.P. : 2000 (3) Crimes 388, wherein Justice Dr. Maithli Sharan, J., has observed as under:

"5. Looking to the provision referred to above it is but clear that it is mandatory in nature, and the mandate is that if the Magistrate is trying a case in which the accused has been charged for a non-bailable offence and the trial has not concluded within a period of sixty days from the first date of recording the evidence in the case and that the accused had remained in custody during the whole of such period of sixty days, then he becomes entitled to be released on bail, provided of course, the Magistrate does not reject the same recording in writing his reasons therefor. Circumscribing the undisputed factual circumstances in the ambit of the provisions of section 437(6) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 it is apparent that they hold the field and apply here from all four corners. In rejecting the bail application of the petitioner the learned trial Magistrate and the learned Fourth Additional Sessions Judge, Gwalior, have no doubt given their reasoning as required under the above provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure but they are simply to the effect that if the petitioner were to be released then it is doubtful that he would be attending the Court on each and every date fixed by the Magistrate. These reasoning's indicating the apprehension of the learned Courts below, by no stretch of imagination, could be termed as judicious, and therefore, they are not of such a nature as to thwart and wash off the mandatory character of the provisions of section 437(6) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. I am of the considered view that the statutory right given to the accused by the above provisions cannot be taken away in such a fashion. Since the petitioner had although remained in custody during the said period of more than sixty days from the first date fixed for recording the evidence, he would be deemed to have been clothed with the right to be released on bail. The rejection of his application under section 437(6) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 by the learned trial Magistrate and later the dismissal of his revision petition by the learned Fourth Additional Sessions Judge, Gwalior, was nothing but the abuse of the process of Court and had given rise to the miscarriage of justice."

13 . The other judgement of the Madhya Pradesh High Court in Rajendra Rajaram Pal vs. State of M.P. : (2002) 4 MPHT 186, wherein Justice S.L. Kochar, has observed as under:

"9. This Provision is showing that if the trial is not completed within a period of 60 days from the date fixed for recording evidence then the accused, who is in custody, is entitled to be released on bail. If the Court is of the opinion that the accused is not entitled for bail then it is obligatory on the part of the Court to assign reason for refusing the bail. In view of mandatory Provision of Section 437 Sub-section (6), Criminal Procedure Code, the applicant is entitled to be released on bail. There is no special reason on the basis of which his prayer may be refused. Similar view has been taken in the case of Saritadevi v. State of Himachal Pradesh [2000 (2) Crimes 543] and in the case of Mohd. Abdul v. State of West Bengal [1991 (2) Crimes 741]."

14. The next judgement is that of the High Court of Kerala in Re: 122 Prisoners : 2007 CriLJ 3241, wherein Justice K. Hema, has observed as under:

*"10. It is also relevant to make reference to Section 437(6) of the Code, in this context. As per sub-section (6) of Section 437 of the Code, in any case triable by a Magistrate, if the trial of a person accused of any non-bailable offence is not concluded within a period of sixty days from the first date fixed for taking evidence in the case, such person shall, if he is in custody during the whole of the said period, be released on bail to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, unless for reasons to be recorded in writing, the Magistrate otherwise directs. So, the normal rule is to release a prisoner on bail, who has completed such sixty days of detention as specified above unless the court otherwise directs. The rule is mandatory in nature, as indicated by the expression "shall" in the provision itself.

11. But, if any such prisoner is to be detained any further in prison, it shall be done only as per a specific order passed by the Magistrate in writing, recording reasons for the continued detention. Thus, it follows that if any prisoner is detained in any of the prisons in the State for more than the period stated in section 437(6) of the code, without any reasoned order in writing for the continued detention, such detention is unauthorised and illegal. Such prisoner deserves immediate release from prison, subject to what has been laid down in Section 437(6) of the Code."

15. In case of Lakki Chakhbeer Singh vs. State : 2006 CRI.L.J. (NOC) 95 (RAJ.), Justice Narendra Kumar Jain, speaking for the Rajasthan High Court, has observed as under:

"4. A bare perusal of Sub-section (6) of Section 437, Cr.P.C. will show that it is not necessary that in each and every case, an accused in a case triable by Magistrate has to be released on bail if trial is not concluded within a period of sixty days from the first date fixed for taking evidence in the case. A Magistrate is required to record the reasons in writing for refusal of the bail."

16. In the case of Didar Singh vs. State of Jharkhand : 2006(1) J.C.R. 283 : 2006 CriLJ 1594, the Jharkhand High Court has held that the right of the accused u/S 437(6) of the Code and has compared with the right of the accused u/S 167(2) of the Code and has held that u/S 167(2) of the Code the accused has absolute right to be released on bail, in default of submissions of charge-sheet within time prescribed in the said sections and held that the right of the accused to be released on bail u/S 437(6) of the Code, is not an absolute right and the learned Magistrate has power to deny the bail for the reasons to be recorded. Justice Amareshwar Sayay has held as under:

"10. From plain reading of the aforesaid quoted provision, it appears that the intention of the legislature is to speed up trial without unnecessarily detaining a person as an under-trial prisoner. This provision applies only to a case triable by a Magistrate and not to a case committed to the Sessions for trial.

The intention behind the provision is that the trial should be concluded within period of sixty days from the first date fixed for evidence.

11. The contention advanced on behalf of the petitioner that if the trial Court is not concluded within a period of sixty days from fixed date for evidence then accused who is in custody has to be released on bail cannot be accepted as from the plain reading of the aforesaid provision. It is clear that the said provision under Section 437(6) is not mandatory in nature as Section 167(2) of the Criminal Procedure Code which provides that if the investigation is not completed within a period of ninety days or sixty days as the case may be then the accused is entitled to be released on bail mandatorily irrespective of the merit of the case. Under Section 167(2) Criminal Procedure Code, the right to be released on bail is absolute under the provision of Section 437(6) of the Criminal Procedure Code which is not mandatory in nature, the entitlement of the accused to be released on bail is dependent upon the reasons to be recorded in writing by the Magistrate for refusal to release him on bail. The reasons may be several, therefore, it is the discretion of the trial Court either to release or not to release an accused under the aforesaid provision for the reasons to be recorded in writing. There is no doubt that discretion of the trial Court has to be exercised judicially and not arbitrarily. It is found that the trial Court has exercised its discretion either refusing or granting bail in exercise of power under Section 437(6) of the Criminal Procedure Code is justifiable in the facts and circumstances of a particular case then such exercise of discretion is not liable to be interfered with unless it is found that discretion so exercised by the trial Court is wholly improper, unjustified and arbitrary. The Division Bench of Delhi High Court in the case of Robert Lendy (1987 Cri LJ 55) (supra) has held that the procedural law is essentially meant to safeguard the interest of justice. The twin objects, namely, to reject the delay in trial and to achieve the ends of justice are necessarily, to be harmonized. It is in that context, one has to find out whether the discretion exercised by the Magistrate in withholding bail after sixty days, has been properly and judicially exercised.

12. It is further held in the aforesaid decision of the Delhi High Court that the considerations for refusing bail under this provision can be the reasons which are generally invoked and understood in law as the grounds for refusing bail. All that is required of a Magistrate is that if he decides to decline to grant bail, he must record his reason in writing. The decision of Supreme Court cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner in the case of Chandra Swami (AIR 1997 Supreme Court 2576) (supra) is of no avail for this case, as it appears that the Supreme Court did not go into question of interpretation or applicability of Section 437(6), Criminal Procedure Code.

13. In the decision in the case of Ram Kumar alias Raj Kumar Rathore (supra), the Madhya Pradesh High Court has held that the provisions of Section 437(6), Criminal Procedure Code is mandatory in nature and after the expiry of sixty days from the first date fixed for recording evidence, the accused acquires statutory right of being released on bail, if the trial is not concluded within the said period. With all due respect, I differ with the view of the Single Judge of Madhya Pradesh High Court, because in my view the provisions of Section 437(6) is not mandatory in nature and the accused does not get absolute right to be released on bail under Section 437(6) of the Criminal Procedure Code, if the period of sixty days expires from the first date fixed for recording evidence and the trial is not concluded within the said period.

14. In the case of Nageshwar Bhagat v. State of Jharkhand reported in (2004 (4) LJ 3) it appears that the learned single Judge of this Court has not laid down any law nor has interpreted Section 437(6), Criminal Procedure Code but has only held that rejection of bail by High Court at an earlier stage cannot be a ground for not invoking the power as vested in Section 437, Clause (6), Criminal Procedure Code. It further appears that in the said case, not a single witness was examined on behalf of the prosecution within a period of sixty days from the first date for recording evidence, therefore, the aforesaid decision of this Court cited on behalf of the petitioner is not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the case. "

17. In the case of Bhikhaji Chaturji Thakore vs. State of Gujarat : 2007 0 CrLJ 3433, the Gujarat High Court has held that by holding that the provisions of section 437(6) of the Code are mandatory, has held as under:

"(23) SECTION 437 (6) provides that if, in any case triable by a Magistrate, the trial of a person accused of any non-bailable offence is not concluded, within a period of sixty days from the first date fixed for taking the evidence in the case, such person shall, if he is in custody during the whole of the said period, be released on bail to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, unless for reasons to be recorded in writing, the magistrate otherwise directs. Sub-section (6) clearly uses the mandatory word "shall" because the scheme of the Act is that if you cannot conclude the trial at least within sixty days from the date of starting of the recording of the evidence, then, such an apathy shown by the Court or by the prosecution would pave the path of the accused to walk out of the jail. The mandate under the law is to release the accused on bail. The rejection is an exception and for such D rejection, the Court is required to record the reasons in writing. The word "shall" is to be read as "shall" and not as "may". If it is read as "may", then, there would be reason to give reasons for rejection. When the liberty of a person is involved the mandate of law cannot be diluted by reading the word "shall" as "may".

18. In Application u/S 482 No. 5136 of 2013 (Suresh vs. State of U.P. and Another), the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court has held that the provisions of Section 437(6) of the Code, are mandatory in nature without discussing the said provisions in detail.

19. From the aforesaid judgements, the proposition of law emerges is that the provisions of Section 437(6) of the Code, are mandatory in nature but are not absolute as the provisions of Section 167(2) of the Code is. The right of the accused to be released on bail u/S 437(6) of the Code, is in the nature of a statutory protection granted under the Code. However, such protection is not an absolute protection. Looking at the facts and circumstances of each case, the Magistrate has a discretion to reject such application by recording the reason. Therefore, from the discretion of Magistrate while exercising the bail applications u/S 437(6) of the Code, if it is compared with the discretion of the Magistrate to grant bail u/S 437(1) of the Code, then while rejecting the the bail Application u/S 437(6) of the Code, the learned Magistrate has very limited discretion to reject the bail application and it should be exercised in exceptional cases. In the normal course, when the Magistrate is trying a case where the accused has been charged for a non-bailable offence and the trial has not been concluded within a period of 60 days from the first date fixed for recording the evidence, then, normally the learned Magistrate is required to grant bail. It is only in exceptional cases where the exceptional reasons are to be recorded in writing when such bail Applications u/S 437(6) of the Code, can be rejected by the learned Magistrate.

20. Having considered the position of law as enumerated from the aforesaid judgements, if we test the impugned order passed by the learned Magistrate, rejecting the bail application, the learned Magistrate has rejected the instant bail application recording the reason that in the instant case the charges against the applicant herein is of very serious in nature, where the applicant herein has been charged for running an international telephone exchange, which is a threat to the national security of the country. Therefore, the said offence was of a serious nature. Therefore, the learned Magistrate has rejected the bail application of the applicant herein.

21. Looking at the nature of allegations against the applicant herein, which are serious in nature and the modus operandi of the applicant was to cause a huge loss to the Government exchequer and the accused gain advantage for themselves dishonestly through the fraudulent means and such type of international calls pose a great threat to the national security as the international calls remain unmonitored by the law enforcement agencies and the public at large is affected by such calls and which are mostly used for cheating the public at large and such calls are often involved in illegal activities and anti-national activities and thus, this is a serious threat to the national security. Therefore, in the considered view of this Court, the instant case is of an exceptional nature, where, though this Court has granted bail to the other co-accused persons, has rejected the bail applications of the applicant herein twice as the case against the applicant herein was found distinguishable with the other co-accused persons.

22. Therefore, in the considered view of this case, the learned Magistrate is justified in rejecting the bail application filed by the applicant u/S 437(6) of the Code, considering the exceptional circumstances involved in the case against the applicant herein. Therefore, there is no illegality in the impugned order dated 19.07.2022, passed by the learned Magistrate. Therefore, the application is devoid of merits and is hereby dismissed.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482- Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 - Section 14(3) - Quashing of Juvenile Justice Board Order – The applicant sought to set aside the order dated 19.07.2019 by the Juvenile Justice Board (JJB), Lalitpur, transferring his case to the Children's Court under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 – Held, the order was set aside due to non-compliance with the mandatory time limit under Section 14(3) of the Act, and the case was remanded to the JJB for trial. (Paras 4, 38, 39)

B. Section 14(3) of JJ Act, 2015 – Mandatory Time Limit for Preliminary Assessment – The JJB conducted a preliminary assessment under Section 15 for a heinous offence after a delay of over two years from the first production of the juvenile, contrary to the three-month limit prescribed by Section 14(3) – Held, the provision is mandatory, and non-compliance renders the assessment non-est, as it prejudices the juvenile's rights. (Paras 12, 25, 34, 36, 37)

C. Section 15 of JJ Act, 2015 – Preliminary Assessment for Heinous Offences – The JJB assessed the applicant's mental and physical capacity to commit murder, concluding he could understand the consequences – Held, the assessment was invalid due to the delay beyond the statutory period, violating the principles of best interest and non-waiver of rights under Sections 3 and 8 of the Act. (Paras 4, 29, 34, 35)

D. Best Interest and Non-Waiver of Rights – The Juvenile Justice Act emphasizes the best interest of the child and prohibits waiver of rights – Held, the delay in conducting the preliminary assessment violated these principles, causing prejudice to the juvenile and undermining the Act's objective of child-friendly justice. (Paras 9, 10, 23, 33, 37)

E. Mandatory vs. Directory Provisions –

The court analyzed whether Section 14(3) is mandatory or directory, relying on Bhavnagar University Vs Palitana Sugar Mills and Sharif-ud-Din Vs Abdul Gani Lone – Held, the time limit is mandatory due to its impact on the juvenile's rights and the legislative intent to ensure timely justice. 1. This judgment is being structured in the following conceptual framework to facilitate the discussion:

I	Prosecution Case in Brief
II	Issue before this Court
III	Submissions
IV	Broad Reasons and Objectives for the Enactment of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015
V	Factual Analysis of the Case
VI	Conclusion

2. I heard Shri A.B.L. Gour, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Pradeep Kumar Bhardwaj, learned counsel for the applicant, and Shri Vaibhav Anand Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State Respondent and perused the record.

I. Prosecution Case in Brief

3. As per the prosecution's case, while the complainant party was sowing in the field, the accused party attacked them with a sharp-edged weapon and also resorted to fire. One of the injured died in hospital, whereas three victims sustained serious injuries. The petitioner is also arrayed one of the accused along with six others. On reporting to the police on 11.10.2016, an FIR No.0484 of 2016 under sections 302, 147, 148, 149, 307, 504 & 506 IPC was registered at P.S. Pali, District Lalitpur. After concluding the investigation, the police filed a charge sheet in the instant case on 21.7.2017 before the Juvenile Justice Board qua petitioner.

4. The petitioner claims to be minor at the time of the offence and placed reliance on the High School Certificate dated 15.5.2016 issued by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, in which the applicant's date of birth is mentioned as 19.9.1999. The petitioner was 17 years and 22 days old at the time of the incident. In essence, the petitioner was over sixteen years old but less than eighteen years of age; therefore, claim rescue of section 15 read with section 14(3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015. The core argument of the petitioner is that the order dated 19.7.2019 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Lalitpur, is defective in law and, thus, has no legal sanctity, therefore, the Children's Court, has no competent jurisdiction. Notably, the Juvenile Justice Board, Lalitpur, initially tried the matter, and after it, vide impugned order dated

19.7.2019, holding the juvenile (petitioner) has the physical capacity to commit the murder and could understand the consequence of the offence and the circumstances in which the murder has been committed referred the matter to the Children's Court (POCSO Act), Lalitpur for further trial

5. Aggrieved by the impugned order dated 19.7.2019, the petitioner has preferred the instant petition to transfer the case to the Juvenile Justice Board, Lalitpur, for further trial in accordance with the provisions of the Act1. In essence, whether the Board was right to invoke the provision of section 15 of the Act in utter disregard of section 14(3) of the Act1 and justified in transferring the case in question for further trial to the Children's Court having jurisdiction to try such offences.

III. Submissions

6. In this background, Shri A.B.L. Gour, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Pradeep Kumar Bhardwaj, learned counsel for the petitioner, outlined his arguments as under:

6.1 On completion of the investigation, when it was revealed that the applicant was less than 18 years of age at the time of the incident, the Investigating Officer submitted the charge sheet before the Juvenile Justice Board qua petitioner and Chief Judicial Magistrate qua other accused persons.

6.2 The petitioner was a juvenile at the time of occurrence of the crime, and therefore, his case shall be tried before the Juvenile Justice Board.

6.3 On 2.2.2017, the petitioner filed an application before the Juvenile Justice Board, Lalitpur, to declare him a juvenile, and therefore, vide order dated 13.4.2017, the Juvenile Justice Board, after considering; a) the petitioner's mother's statement, b) statement of the Principal of Thakur Raghubir Singh Inter College, Lalitpur, c) the record brought by the Principal containing the 10th Class Mark-sheet, and d) Transfer Certificate declared the petitioner as a juvenile in accordance with the Act.

6.4 Almost after a delay of two and half years, by the time the petitioner had completed 18 years, taking recourse of section 14 of the Act1 on the application of the prosecution, the Juvenile Justice Board held an inquiry and based on the primary assessment with regard to the petitioner's mental and physical capacity to commit murder observed that the petitioner had the ability to understand the consequences of the offence and circumstances in which the murder was committed. The preliminary assessment of the Board is in defiance of section 14(3) of the Act1, which mandates the preliminary assessment in cases of heinous offences within a period of three months from the date of the first production of the child before the Board. In the instant case, the child was first produced before the Board on 23.11.2016, and the impugned order was passed on 19.7.2019, after a delay of two years, seven months and twenty seven days. Therefore, the preliminary assessment is erroneous and is bad in law.

6.5 The impugned order is passed mechanically without the application of the judicial mind.

6.6 The mandatory requirement of section 14(3) must be addressed harmoniously with section 15 of the Act1.

7. Per contra, learned AGA states that the petitioner is facing a trial in a case in which one person has been brutally murdered in broad daylight, and the assailant party has seriously injured three persons. The preliminary inquiry conducted in pursuance to section 14 of the Act1 is infallible, and the Board has taken all necessary steps to ensure a fair and speedy inquiry. He next contends that the provision of section 14(5) of the Act1 has been followed in letter and spirit, and the preliminary assessment into heinous offences by the Board as contemplated under section 15 of the Act1 has no legally sustainable flaw.

IV. Broad Reasons and Objectives for the Enactment of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015

8. It is judicious to take a comprehensive overview of the statement of objectives and reasons, in addition to the relevant provision of the Act1, before dealing with the facts of the case, which are delineated hereafter in the succeeding paragraphs.

8.1 It was opportune by the parliament to re-enact the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (56 of 2000) to formulate comprehensive regulations for children entangled in legal conflicts and those requiring care and protection. This initiative meticulously considered the standards delineated in the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Administration of Juvenile Justice (the Beijing Rules), the United Nations Rules for the Protection of Juveniles Deprived of their Liberty (1990), and the Hague Convention on Protection of Children and Co-operation in Respect of Intercountry Adoption (1993) additionally the constitutional scheme guaranteed in Article 15 of the Constitution, besides other provisions, empowers the State to enact specific measures for children under Articles 39(e) and (f), 45, and 47 further ensuring the fulfilment of all children's needs and the protection of their fundamental human rights.

8.2 India's ratification of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Children on 11th December 1992 obligates state parties to undertake appropriate measures when a child is alleged or accused of violating any penal law. These measures include treating the child in a manner consistent with promoting their sense of dignity and worth, reinforcing respect for the human rights of others, and considering the child's age and the desirability of promoting their reintegration into society.

8.3 The enactment of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act in 2000 aimed to safeguard children, subsequently amended in 2006 and 2011 to address implementation gaps and enhance child-friendliness. However, challenges emerged during its implementation, such as increasing incidents of institutional abuse, inadequate facilities, rehabilitation shortcomings, delays in adoption, and ambiguity in roles and responsibilities. These issues underscore the imperative to review the existing law.

8.4 Furthermore, the surge in crimes committed by children aged 16-18 highlights the inadequacy of current provisions under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000.

National Crime Records Bureau data reveals a notable increase in such offences, particularly in heinous categories.

8.5 Addressing the above issues necessitates substantial amendments to the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000. Consequently, Act of 2000 was re-enacted and the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 came into existence. This legislation is designed to encompass general principles for the care and protection of children, procedures for those in need of care and protection or in conflict with the law, rehabilitation measures, social reintegration strategies, adoption processes for orphaned, abandoned, and surrendered children, and provisions against offences targeting children. The overarching goal is to ensure children's proper care, protection, development, treatment, and social reintegration in challenging circumstances, adopting a child-friendly approach with the child's best interest at its core.

9. Section 2 (9) of the Act¹ espouses the definition of the "best interest of the child" means the basis for any decision taken regarding the child to ensure the fulfilment of the child's fundamental rights and needs, identity, social well-being and physical, emotional and intellectual development who is alleged or found to have committed an offence and who has not completed eighteen years of age on the date of commission of such offence.

10. Section 3 of the Act¹ addresses the inclusive general principles governing the administration of the Act. The relevant excerpt of the general principles which shall have a bearing on the facts of the instant case are reproduced hereinafter, namely (i) Principle of presumption of innocence.- Any child shall be presumed to be innocent of any mala fide or criminal intent up to the age of eighteen years; (ii) Principle of best interest.- All decisions regarding the child shall be based on the primary consideration that they are in the best interest of the child and to help the child to develop full potential; (iii) Positive measures.- All resources are to be mobilised, including those of family and community, for promoting the well-being, facilitating the development of identity and providing an inclusive and enabling environment to reduce vulnerabilities of children and the need for intervention under this Act; (iv) Principle of non-stigmatising semantics.- Adversarial or accusatory words are not to be used in the processes pertaining to a child; (v) Principle of non-waiver of rights.- No waiver of any of the rights of the child is permissible or valid, whether sought by the child or person acting on behalf of the child, or a Board or a Committee and any non-exercise of a fundamental right shall not amount to waiver; (vi) Principle of diversion.- Measures for dealing with children in conflict with law without resorting to judicial proceedings shall be promoted unless it is in the best interest of the child or the society as a whole; (vii) Principles of natural justice.- Basic procedural standards of fairness shall be adhered to, including the right to a fair hearing, rule against bias and the right to review by all persons or bodies acting in a judicial capacity under this Act¹ besides other fundamental grounds.

11. It is the function and responsibility of the Board to adjudicate and dispose of cases of children in conflict with the law in accordance with the process of inquiry specified in section 14 of the Act1 in alignment with the Model Rules2. The relevant rules of the Model Rules are reproduced hereinafter:

10. Post-production processes by the Board.- (1) On production of the child before the Board, the report containing the social background of the child, circumstances of apprehending the child and offence alleged to have been committed by the child as provided by the officers, individuals, agencies producing the child shall be reviewed by the Board and the Board may pass such orders in relation to the child as it deems fit, including orders under sections 17 and 18 of the Act, namely:

(i) disposing of the case, if on the consideration of the documents and record submitted at the time of his first appearance, his being in conflict with law appears to be unfounded or where the child is alleged to be involved in petty offenses;

(5) In cases of heinous offenses alleged to have been committed by a child, who has completed the age of sixteen years, the Child Welfare Police Officer shall produce the statement of witnesses recorded by him and other documents prepared during the course of investigation within a period of one month from the date of first production of the child before the Board, a copy of which shall also be given to the child or parent or guardian of the child.

(8) While examining a child alleged to be in conflict with law and recording his statement during the inquiry under section 14 of the Act, the Board shall address the child in a child-friendly manner in order to put the child at ease and to encourage him to state the facts and circumstances without any fear, not only in respect of the offense which has been alleged against the child, but also in respect of the home and social surroundings, and the influence or the offenses to which the child might have been subjected to.

(9) The Board shall take into account the report containing circumstances of apprehending the child and the offense alleged to have been committed by him and the social investigation report in Form-6 prepared by the Probation Officer or the voluntary or non- governmental organisation, along with the evidence produced by the parties for arriving at a conclusion.

10A. Preliminary assessment into heinous offenses by Board.

(1) The Board shall in the first instance determine whether the child is of sixteen years of age or above; if not, it shall proceed as per provisions of section 14 of the Act.

(2) For the purpose of conducting a preliminary assessment in case of heinous offenses, the Board may take the assistance of psychologists or psycho-social workers or other experts who have experience of working with children in difficult circumstances. A panel of such experts may be made available by the District Child Protection Unit, whose assistance can be taken by the Board or could be accessed independently.

(3) While making the preliminary assessment, the child shall be presumed to be innocent unless proved otherwise.

(4) Where the Board, after preliminary assessment under section 15 of the Act, passes an order that there is a need for trial of the said child as an adult, it shall assign reasons for the same and the copy of the order shall be provided to the child forthwith.

11. Completion of Inquiry.- (1) Where after preliminary assessment under section 15 of the Act, in cases of heinous offenses allegedly committed by a child, the Board decides to dispose of the matter, the Board may pass any of the dispositional orders as specified in section 18 of the Act.

(2) Before passing an order, the Board shall obtain a social investigation report in Form-6 prepared by the Probation Officer or Child Welfare Officer or social worker as ordered, and take the findings of the report into account.

(3) All dispositional orders passed by the Board shall necessarily include an individual care plan in Form-7 for the child in conflict with law concerned, prepared by a Probation Officer or Child Welfare Officer or a recognised voluntary organisation on the basis of interaction with the child and his family, where possible.

12. Pendency of Inquiry (1) For the purpose of sub-section (3) of section 16 of the Act, the Board shall maintain a 'Case Monitoring Sheet' of every case and every child in Form-11. The said Form shall be kept at the top of each case file and shall be updated from time to time. The following points shall be considered so far as 'progress of inquiry' mentioned in Form-11 is concerned:

(i) time schedule for disposal of the case shall be fixed on the first date of hearing;

(ii) scheduled date given in column No.(2) of 'progress of inquiry' shall be the outer limit within which the steps indicated in column (1) are to be completed.

12. The principal issue before this Court is whether the requirement of section 14(3) of the Act¹ is mandatory or directory. We are not oblivious of the law that when a public functionary is required to do certain things within a specified time, the same is ordinarily directory, but it is equally well settled that when consequences for inaction on the part of the statutory authorities within such specified time is specially provided it must be held to be imperative. The three-judge Bench of the Supreme Court in Bhavnagar University v. Palitana Sugar Mills Pvt. Ltd. and others³, held that;

43. In Sutherland's Statutory Construction, 3rd Edn., Vol. 3, at p. 102 the law is stated as follows:

"... unless the nature of the act to be performed, or the phraseology of the statute is such that the designation of time must be considered a limitation of the power of the officer".

At p. 107 it is pointed out that a statutory direction to private individuals should generally be considered as mandatory and that the rule is just the opposite to that which obtains with respect to public officers. Again, at p. 109, it is pointed out that often the question as to whether a mandatory or directory construction should be given to a statutory provision may be determined by an expression in the statute itself of the result that shall follow non-compliance with the provision. At p. 111 it is stated as follows:

“As a corollary of the rule outlined above, the fact that no consequences of non-compliance are stated in the statute, has been considered as a factor tending towards a directory construction. But this is only an element to be considered, and is by no means conclusive.”

44. In Dattatraya Moreshwar v. State of Bombay [(1952) 1 SCC 372 : AIR 1952 SC 181] it was held as under: (AIR p. 185, para 7)

“[G]enerally speaking the provisions of a statute creating public duties are directory and those conferring private rights are imperative. When the provisions of statute relate to the performance of a public duty and the case is such that to hold null and void acts done in neglect of this duty would work serious general inconvenience or injustice to persons who have no control over those entrusted with the duty and at the same time would not promote the main object of the legislature, it has been the practice of the courts to hold such provisions to be directory only, the neglect of them not affecting the validity of the acts done.”

45. In Craies on Statute Law, 8th Edn., at p. 262, it is stated thus:

“... It is the duty of courts of justice to try to get at the real intention of the legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the statute to be construed.’ ... that in each case you must look to the subject-matter, consider the importance of the provision and the relation of that provision to the general object intended to be secured by the Act, and upon a review of the case in that aspect decide whether the enactment is what is called imperative or only directory.”

13. In *Sharif-ud-Din v. Abdul Gani Lone*⁴, the Supreme Court has delineated the difference between a mandatory and directory rule. It was observed by the court that the fact that the statute uses the word shall while laying down a duty is not conclusive on the question whether it is a mandatory or a directory provision. The court has to ascertain the object which the provision of law in question is to subserve its design and the context in which it is enacted. If the object of the law will be defeated by non-compliance with it, it has to be regarded as mandatory. But when a provision of law related to the performance of any public duty and the invalidation of any act done in disregard of that provision causes serious prejudice to those for whose benefit it is enacted and at the same time who have no control over the performance of the duty, such provision should be treated as a directory.

14. The question of whether the statute is mandatory or directory is not capable of generalisation, and in each case, the court should try to understand the legislature's intention by analysing the entire provisions of the enactment and the schemes outlying it.

15. In *D A Koregaonkar v. State of Bombay*⁵, it was held that one of the important tests that must always be employed in order to determine whether a provision is mandatory or directory in character is to consider whether the non-compliance of a particular provision causes inconvenience or injustice and, if it does, then the court would say that, the provision must be complied with and that it is obligatory in its character.

16. In determining whether a provision of law is directory or mandatory, the prime object must be to ascertain the legislative intent from a consideration of the entire statute, its nature, its object, and the consequences that would result from construing it in one way or the other or in connection with other related statutes. The determination does not depend on the form of the statute.

17. In *Ramkrishnamma v. Lakshmibayamma*⁶, it was held that, in order to determine whether a particular provision is mandatory or directory, it would be necessary to ascertain whether the failure to comply with the requirement affects the very foundation of being validated. It is always difficult to demarcate with any degree of accuracy in a particular case what is mandatory and what is directory, or what is irregularity and what is a nullity. When a question arises as to how far the proceedings are affected by the contravention of any provision, it is necessary to see the scope and object of the particular provision which is said to be violated.

18. The word 'shall' is not always decisive. Regard must be had to the context, subject matter and object of the statutory provision in question in determining whether the same is mandatory or directory. No universal principle of law could be laid on that behalf as to whether a particular provision or enactment shall be considered mandatory or directory. It is the duty of the court to try to get at the real intention of the legislature by carefully analysing the whole scope of the statute /section or phrase under consideration.

19. The central idea for enacting the Act¹ is to make State responsible for ensuring that all needs of children are met and their fundamental human rights are protected, and secondly, as the provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 were ill-equipped to tackle child offenders between the age group of 16-18 years, whose involvement has been increased especially in certain categories of heinous offences to make the provision more rational and to meet the requirement of the society.

20. In *Raza Buland Sugar Co v. Municipal Board, Rampur*⁷, the Supreme Court considered section 131 (3) of the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916, which read as follows- "The Board shall, thereupon, publish in the manner prescribed in section 94 the proposal framed under sub-section (2) along with a notice in the form set forth in Schedule III". The Supreme Court decided whether the expression 'shall' in the provision was mandatory or directory. The court held that as long as publication was made in substantial compliance with the manner provided in section 94 (3), it would serve the purpose of the mandatory part of the section which provided for publication. It would, therefore, be improper to hold that the manner of publication provided in section 94 (3) was a directory, and so long as there is substantial compliance with that purpose, the mandatory part of section 131 (3) would be served. In arriving at the decision, the Supreme Court observed as follows:

"The question whether a particular provision of a statute which on the face of it appears mandatory, inasmuch as it used the word 'shall' as in the present case, is merely directory cannot be resolved by laying down any general rule and depends upon the facts of each case and for that purpose the object of the statute in making the provision is the determining factor. The purpose for which the provision has been made and its nature, the intention of the legislature in making the provision, the serious general inconvenience or injustice to a person resulting from whether the provision is read one way or the other, the relation of the particular provision to other provisions dealing with the same subject and other considerations which may arise on the facts of a particular case including the language of the provision, have all to be taken into account in arriving at the conclusion whether a particular provision is mandatory or directory”.

21. The best interest of the child means the basis for any decision taken regarding the child to ensure the fulfilment of his fundamental rights and needs, identity, social well-being, and physical, emotional, and intellectual development shall be taken into consideration when a child is alleged or found to have committed an offence and who was not completed 18 years of age on the date of commission of such offence.

22. A person in conflict with the law is considered a juvenile when a person is below the age of eighteen years, whereas heinous offences include the offences for which the minimum punishment under the Indian Penal Code or any other law for the time being in force is imprisonment for seven years or more.

23. A combined interpretation of section 3 with 8 of the Act1 makes it clear that the principle of best interest and principle of no-waiver of rights shall have the paramount consideration while dealing with the administration of the Act1. All decisions regarding the child shall be based on the primary consideration that they are in the best interest of the child and to help the child to develop full potential, and no-waiver of any of the rights of the child is permissible or valid, whether sought by the child or person acting on behalf of the child, or a Board or a Committee and any non-exercise of a fundamental right shall not amount to waiver. The child is to be presumed innocent of any malafide or criminal intent until the age of eighteen.

24 . It is the utmost responsibility of the Board, as mandated by section 8(3) of the Act1, to adjudicate and dispose of the case of the children in conflict in accordance with the process of inquiry specified in section 14 of the Act1 and disposing of the matter within three months from the date of the first production of the child before the Juvenile Justice Board. It is the equal responsibility of the court of Magistrate if the court finds that a person has committed an offence and was a child on the date of commission of the offence, it shall forward the child to the Board for passing the appropriate order under section 15 of the Act1.

25. It is a mandatory requirement under section 14 of the Act1 that a preliminary assessment of heinous offences as contemplated under section 15 of the Act1 shall be conducted by the Board within three months from the date of the first production of the child before the Board. Section 15 of the Act1 contemplates that the preliminary assessment into the heinous offences by the Board of a child who has completed or is about the age of sixteen years to have a preliminary assessment with regard to the person's mental and physical capacity to commit such offence and ability to understand the consequences of the offence, and the Board shall consider the circumstances in which the child in conflict allegedly committed the offence. The Board may take the assistance of experienced psychologists or, psycho-social workers or other experts as it may deem necessary. It's being provided explicitly that the assessment under section 15 of the Act1 shall be completed within the period specified in section 14 of the Act1. The Explanation appended with section 15 of the Act1 clarifies that the preliminary assessment is not a trial, but it is to assess the capacity of such a child to commit and understand the consequences of the alleged offence. In essence, the tenets of a fair trial is the consideration of the best interest of the child and no-waiver of any rights of a child is permissible or valid, whether sought by the child or a Board and maintaining a child-friendly atmosphere are integral parts of the core principles outlined in the Act1.

26. The Model Rules2, framed under the Act1, ponders all the procedural aspects of the provisions of the Act1 to be taken into consideration during the administration of the provisions of the Act1. Rule 9 of the Model Rules2 mandates the production of the child alleged to be in conflict with the law within 24 hours of his being apprehended by the police, along with the report explaining the reasons for the child besides other procedural aspects in this regard.

27. Rule 10 of the Model Rules2 establishes the post-production process by the Board on the production of the child before the Board. In cases of heinous offences alleged to have been committed by the child, who has completed the age of sixteen years, it mandates that the Child Welfare Police Officer shall produce the statements of witnesses and other documents prepared during the course of investigation within a period of one month from the first production of the child before the Board. The Board shall ensure that if the inquiry is not conducted in alignment with the spirit and object of the Act1, it shall use the power conferred by section 165 of the Evidence Act, 1872 so as to interrogate the child and proceed with the presumptions in favour of the child8. While conducting the preliminary inquiry under section 17 of the Act1, the Board shall address the child in a child-friendly manner in order to put the child at ease and to encourage him to state the facts and circumstances without any fear, not only with respect to the offence but also in respect of the home and social surroundings and influence. The Board shall also take into consideration the report containing the circumstances of apprehending the child and the offence alleged to have been committed by him and the social investigation report prepared by the Probation Officer or the voluntarily non-government organisations9. Before passing an order on preliminary assessment under section 15 of the Act, the Board shall obtain a social investigation report in accordance with Form-610.

V. Factual Analysis of the Case

28. In the background of the law discussed hereinabove, the facts of the case are being examined herein after. The documents annexed with the petition were not adequately sufficient to decide the instant case; therefore, the petitioner's counsel was called upon to file the proceedings conducted by the Juvenile Justice Board, Lalitpur, by way of supplementary affidavit, and accordingly, three supplementary affidavits were filed on i) 5.11.2023, ii) 10.12.2023 & iii) 13.12.2023.

29. The first affidavit dated 5.11.2023, appendices a report dated 19.7.2019 prepared under section 15 of the Act1 by a panel comprised of Assistant Professor, Psychology, Nehru Mahavidyalay, Lalitpur and Associate Professor, Sociology, Nehru Mahavidyalay, Lalitpur to assess the mental and physical capacity of the petitioner to commit murder and an ability to understand the consequences of murder and circumstances of which the alleged crime has been committed. On scrutiny of the preliminary assessment, it's observed that the petitioner was asked about the circumstances in which the alleged offence was committed. It was further observed that the petitioner was mentally and psychologically capable of answering the question posed by the panel. In response to the queries raised by the panel, the petitioner stated that he had been falsely implicated because of the hostility and he was not present at the place of the occurrence when the alleged offence was committed, and finally concluded that the petitioner has the ability to understand the consequence of offence and the circumstances in which he allegedly committed the offence.

30. On perusal of affidavit dated 10.12.2023, it revealed that the Juvenile Justice Board, vide order dated 13.4.2017, declared the petitioner minor in accordance with the Act1 after taking evidence of mother of the petitioner and the Principal of Thakur Raghubir Singh Inter College, Lalitpur, and observed that the petitioner was seventeen years and twenty-two days on the date of commission of alleged offence, and proceeded with the trial.

31. On examination of the affidavit dated 13.12.2023, it outlines that the petitioner was taken into first remand on 23.11.2016; after that, on 21.2.2017, the Board took cognisance of the matter, and after that, on 13.4.2017, the petitioner was declared juvenile. It further stipulates that the matter was listed fifty-seven times before the Juvenile Justice Board, and seven prosecution witnesses were examined during this period. On 28.6.2019, the Assistant Public Prosecutor filed an application stating that the petitioner was over sixteen years old at the time of the commission of the heinous offence, therefore, his psychological evaluation is necessary in the facts- circumstances of the case. The said application was allowed vide order dated 5.7.2019 by the Principal Magistrate, Juvenile Justice Board, Lalitpur, with a finding that in compliance with section 15 of the Act1, the preliminary assessment with regard to the mental and psychological capacity and the ability to understand the consequences of offence has not been conducted by the Board. The Board examined the report submitted by the Panel of Experts and referred the petitioner's case to the Children's Court.

VI. Conclusion

32. As discussed in forgoing paragraphs, section 14(3) of the Act1 statutorily mandates that the preliminary inquiry in case of heinous offences under section 15 of the Act1 shall be concluded by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board, even though, if the Board requires further extension of time for completion of inquiry, the same shall be granted by the Chief Judicial Magistrate or, Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, for the reasons recorded in writing. For conducting the preliminary assessment, Rule 10(5) of the Model Rules² prescribes that the Child Welfare Police Officer shall produce all documents collected during the investigation within a period of one month from the date of the first production of the child before the Board, additionally, Rule 10(8) & (9) of the Model Rules² sets-forth that the Board shall take into consideration the facts and circumstances, surroundings and influences which the child might have been subjected to along with the social investigation report prepared in accordance with Form-6 by the Probation Officer or voluntarily or Non-Government Organizations along with the evidence produced by the parties for arriving at a just conclusion.

33. Chapter-II of the Act¹ outlines the general principles to be followed in the administration of the Act. The fourth principle indicates that all decisions regarding the child shall be based on the primary consideration that they shall be in the best interest of the child and to help the child to develop full potential. Principle-9 articulates the principle of non-waiver of rights, which stipulates that non-waiver of any child's right is not permissible or valid whether sought by the child or person acting on behalf of the child, a Board or a Committee. Conjoint reading of the principle of best interest and principle of non-waiver of rights articulates that the paramount consideration is the welfare of the child while conducting the proceedings by the Board.

34. On the collective harmonious interpretation of section 14(3) along with sections 3(iv) & (ix), and in conjoint reading with Rule 10(5), (6), (7) & (8), 10(A) and Rule 11(1) & (3) of the Model Rules², it could safely be established that the proceeding under section 14(3) of the Act¹ shall strictly carry out within the statutory time frame, and if the Board does after three months from the first remand, the same shall be treated as non-est in the eye of law subject to section 14(4) of the Act¹. The Juvenile Justice Board has also failed to take into account the provision provided at the bottom of section 15 of the Act¹, which dictates that the assessment under this section shall be completed within a period specified in section 14 of the Act¹. For the sake of clarity, section 14 of the Act¹ and relevant portion of section 15 of the Act¹ is extracted herein under:

“Section 14. Inquiry by Board regarding child in conflict with law.

(1) Where a child alleged to be in conflict with law is produced before Board, the Board shall hold an inquiry in accordance with the provisions of this Act and may pass such orders in relation to such child as it deems fit under sections 17 and 18 of this Act.

(2) The inquiry under this section shall be completed within a period of four months from the date of first production of the child before the Board, unless the period is extended, for a maximum period of two more months by the Board, having regard to the circumstances of the case and after recording the reasons in writing for such extension.

(3) A preliminary assessment in case of heinous offences under section 15 shall be disposed of by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board.

(4) If inquiry by the Board under sub-section (2) for petty offences remains inconclusive even after the extended period, the proceedings shall stand terminated:

Provided that for serious or heinous offences, in case the Board requires further extension of time for completion of inquiry, the same shall be granted by the Chief Judicial Magistrate or, as the case may be, the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, for reasons to be recorded in writing.

(5) The Board shall take the following steps to ensure fair and speedy inquiry, namely:-

(a) at the time of initiating the inquiry, the Board shall satisfy itself that the child in conflict with law has not been subjected to any ill-treatment by the police or by any other person, including a lawyer or probation officer and take corrective steps in case of such ill-treatment;

(b) in all cases under the Act, the proceedings shall be conducted in simple manner as possible and care shall be taken to ensure that the child, against whom the proceedings have been instituted, is given child-friendly atmosphere during the proceedings;

(c) every child brought before the Board shall be given the opportunity of being heard and participate in the inquiry;

(d) cases of petty offences, shall be disposed of by the Board through summary proceedings, as per the procedure prescribed under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974);

(e) inquiry of serious offences shall be disposed of by the Board, by following the procedure, for trial in summons cases under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974);

(f) inquiry of heinous offences,-

(i) for child below the age of sixteen years as on the date of commission of an offence shall be disposed of by the Board under clause (e);

(ii) for child above the age of sixteen years as on the date of commission of an offence shall be dealt with in the manner prescribed under section 15."

Section 15.- Preliminary Assessment into the heinous offence by Board Provided further that the assessment under this section shall be completed within the period specified in section 14.

Emphases Supplied

35. The above-referred clause clarifies that in case of heinous offences committed by a child above the age of 16 years, the Board shall conduct the assessment under section 15 of the Act1 within a period specified under section 14 of the Act1.

36. In the facts stated herein above, the Board has erroneously allowed the application filed by the prosecution for assessing the mental and psychological health of the petitioner after a delay of almost two and half years from the first remand of the petitioner before the Board. Notably, seven prosecution witnesses were already examined, and the matter had been listed fifty-seven times before the Board; no cogent reason has been assigned in the impugned order, and in fact, the impugned order has been passed on a gross misinterpretation of section 14(4) of the Act1.

37. In the instant case, failure to comply with the provisions of sections 14(3) and 15 of the Act1 would result in an injury or prejudice to the substantial rights of the child and shall occasion a failure of justice. It would result in a serious inconvenience for the promotion of the real aim and objective of the legislation for which the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of the Children) Act, 2000 is amended from time to time.

38. In the foregoing discussions, the petition is allowed, and the impugned order dated 19.7.2019 is set aside.

39. The petitioner's case shall be tried before the Juvenile Justice Board in accordance with law. The Additional District Judge (POCSO), Lalitpur, is directed, through the District Judge, to remand Sessions Trial No.01 of 2019 titled as State v. Shanu Raja, to the concerned Juvenile Justice Board immediately after receipt of a copy of this order for completion of the trial.

G.A., Sri Geetam Singh, Ms. Shweta Singh Rana

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure,1973 -Section 482- The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act 2012 - Section 5/6 - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 363, 366, 376 - Quashing of Charge-Sheet and Cognizance Order Denied - The applicant sought to quash the charge-sheet dated 16.03.2022 and cognizance order dated 13.05.2022 under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC and Section 5/6 of the POCSO Act - Held, prima facie offence was made out as the victim was a minor on the date of the incident, and no grounds existed for quashing the proceedings. (Paras 2, 27, 28)

B. Determination of Victim's Age - Section 94 of JJ Act, 2015 - The School Leaving Certificate indicated the victim's date of birth as 19.01.2005, establishing her as a minor on 26.12.2021 - Held, under Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, the school certificate takes precedence over the ossification test, which showed the victim's age as about 20 years, rendering the medical examination irrelevant. (Paras 5, 7, 18, 26)

C. Consent of Minor Irrelevant under POCSO Act and IPC - The victim, though claiming to have gone with the applicant willingly and married him, was a minor - Held, as per Independent Thought Vs U.O.I., consent of a minor has no legal consequence for offences under Section 375 IPC (Exception 2) and the POCSO Act, even if married. (Paras 12, 14, 27)

D. Presumption under Section 29 of POCSO Act - The prosecution established a prima facie case under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC and Section 5/6 of the POCSO Act - Held, Section 29 of the POCSO Act creates a presumption of guilt against the accused, which the applicant failed to rebut at this stage. (Paras 6, 10, 27)

E. Reliability of Documents for Age Determination – The applicant's reliance on a birth certificate registered post-incident (17.02.2022) was rejected – Held, as per Jarnail Singh Vs St. of Har. and Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs St. of U.P., the School Leaving Certificate is prioritized over a belated birth certificate or ossification test for age determination. (Paras 18, 20, 26, 27)

Application Dismissed.

13. Praveen Kumar Singh @ Pravin Kumar Vs St. of U.P., Application U/S 482 No. 2941 of 2023

1. Heard Sri Binod Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Geetam Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Sri Pankaj Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking quashing the charge-sheet no.33 of 2022 dated 16.03.2022, arising out of Case Crime No.27 of 2022, under Sections 363, 366, 376 I.P.C. and Section 5/6 Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (hereinafter referred as 'the POCSO Act') Police Station Dholna, District Kasganj.

3. The facts in brief in the instant case are that the opposite party no.2, the father of the victim, had lodged an F.I.R. on 12.02.2022, alleging that on 26.12.2021 when his daughter went to the tubewell, in the evening at 5:00 P.M., from where the accused/applicant herein, namely Puspendra Singh, took away the daughter of the opposite party no.2, in which his brothers Prem Singh and Rajendra Singh have also assisted the applicant herein. On the basis of the aforesaid F.I.R., the investigation was started and the victim was recovered. In her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the victim stated that her age is 17 years and she is educated upto Class VIII and she stated that she had gone alongwith the applicant out of her own free will and thereafter they went to Mathura and from there they went to Allahabad and she has solemnized the court marriage and both are living together as husband and wife. She further stated that she is pregnant for two months. This statement was recorded on 28.02.2022. In her statement she has further stated that she still want to live with the the applicant herein. In her medical examination, she was found pregnant and her age, as per the X-Ray Examination, was stated to be about 20 years. Such medical examination was conducted on 02.03.2022. During her medical examination, she has stated that her father used to shout at her, therefore, she ran away with the applicant. Subsequently, in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., she claimed that she is 19 years old and had gone with the applicant out of her own free will and she knew Puspendra Singh for about 45 months. Now, she is pregnant and she further stated that she don't want go with her father but she want to go with her husband, namely the applicant herein. After due investigation, having found the victim being minor on the date of incident, the charge-sheet was filed on 16.03.2022 against the applicant for offences under Sections 363, 366 and 376 I.P.C. and Section 5/6 of the POCSO Act. The instant application has been filed challenging the aforesaid charge-sheet dated 16.03.2022 as well as the order dated 13.05.2022 passed by the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POCSO Act, Kashganj, whereby the cognizance has been taken by the learned Special Judge on the aforesaid charge-sheet.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that as per the Ossification Report, the age of the victim at the time of incident has been found to be about 20 years and in her statements under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., the victim has categorically stated that she has gone with the applicant out of her own free will and she has married with the applicant and she is pregnant. After her 164 Cr.P.C., statement, she was sent alongwith her father. However, she has again left the house of her father and came to the applicant and both are living as husband and wife. Therefore, learned counsel for the applicant submits that as per the Ossification Report the victim was found to be a major, therefore, no offence whatsoever is made out against the applicant, as the victim has come alongwith the applicant out of her own free will and there was no force used by the applicant herein and both are adults and they are married and living together as husband and wife. Therefore, learned counsel for the applicant prays for quashing of the entire proceedings of the case. In support of his arguments, learned counsel for the applicant relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court dated 18.07.2023 in the case of P. Yuvaprakash v. State : 2023 SCC OnLine SC 846.

5. Per Contra, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submits that as per the school records the date of birth of the victim is 19.01.2005. In support of the same, the opposite party no.2 has filed the counter affidavit annexing School Leaving Certificate issued by Primary Junior High School- Athaiya, District- Kasanj, in which the date of birth of the victim is mentioned as 19.01.2005. The said Certificate has been annexed as CA-1 to the counter affidavit filed by the opposite party no.2. In view of the same, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submits that on the date of first incident i.e., 26.12.2021, the victim was minor, therefore, prima facie a case under Sections 363, 366 and 376 I.P.C. and under Section 5/6 of the POCSO Act, has been made out against the applicant herein.

6. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has also relied upon Section 29 of the POCSO Act and submits that as per the provision of Section 29 of the POCSO Act, where a person is prosecuted for committing or abetting or attempting to commit any offence under Sections 3, 5, 7 and 9 of this Act, there is a presumption that such person has committed the said offence unless the contrary is proved. Therefore, a presumption against the applicant in view of Section 29 of the POCSO Act is made out. However, it is further submitted that in the instant case when the statement of the victim was to be recorded before the Special Judge, the applicant and the other accused persons have again took away the victim forcibly at the gun point and by assaulting the other family members and making them unconscious, for which another F.I.R. No. 82 of 2023 was lodged by the opposite party no.2 on 01.04.2023, PS- Dholna, District- Kasganj, wherein it has been apprehended that the applicants are threatening to kill the victim if the opposite party no.2 proceeds against them. However, learned counsel for the applicant submits that so far as the second F.I.R., is concerned, the same has already been quashed by this Hon'ble Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 15211 of 2023, filed by the applicant and 3 others, vide judgement and order dated 31.10.2023, on the basis of the fact that on the second date of incident the victim had become major which could not be disputed by the opposite party no.2.

7. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 further submits that as per Section 94 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred as 'the Act, 2015'), in the presence of the School Certificate, the age determination through medical examination is not permissible and such determination of age on the medical examination is of no consequence. Therefore, so far as the instant case is concerned prima facie the victim has been found to be a minor as per the School Leaving Certificate as she was less than 18 years of age on 26.12.2021, and therefore, the charge-sheet has rightly been filed against the applicant herein. Therefore, since a prima facie case has been made out against the applicant in the instant case, there is no ground for quashing of the proceedings before conclusion of the trial at this stage.

8. In the rejoinder affidavit, the applicant has stated that now the marriage between the applicant and the victim has already been registered on 15.04.2023, and admittedly even as per the School Certificate the victim was a major girl and she has duly married to applicant as per her choice. Therefore, the applicant and the victim are adult and they have solemnized their marriage out of their own choice, therefore, no offence can be alleged to have been made against the applicant herein.

9. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has relied upon the judgments of this Court dated 29.03.2023 passed in Application U/S 482 No.2941 of 2023 (Praveen Kumar Singh @ Pravin Kumar and 2 others Vs. State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy Home Deptt, Lko. and another) and also the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Independent Thought Vs. Union of India and another : 2017 10 SCC 800.

10. Learned counsel for the State has also submitted that since prima facie on the date of incident in the instant case i.e., on 26.12.2021, the victim was minor as per the school records and prima facie a case has been made out against the applicant. The charge-sheet has rightly been filed against the applicant for the offences under Sections 363, 366, 376 I.P.C., and Section 5/6 of POCSO Act. Therefore, as per Section 29 of the POCSO Act, there is presumptions against the applicant and prima facie a case has been made out against the applicant. Therefore, there is no ground available for quashing of the instant proceedings at the behest of the applicant.

11. Having heard the submissions made by learned counsels for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the record of the case.

12. In the case of Independent Thought Vs. Union of India and another : (2017) 10 SCC 800, the Apex Court has observed as under:

20. As a first step in this direction, child marriages were criminalised by enacting the PCMA in 2006 but no corresponding amendment was made in Section 375 IPC, as it existed in 2006, to decriminalise marital rape of a girl child.

21. The National Charter was followed by the National Policy for Children notified on 26-4-2013. The National Policy explicitly recognised in Clause 2.1 that every person below the age of 18 years is a child. Among the Guiding Principles for the National Policy was the recognition that every child has universal, inalienable and indivisible human rights; every child has the right to life, survival, development, education, protection and participation; the best interest of a child is the primary concern in all decisions and actions affecting the child, whether taken by legislative bodies, courts of law, administrative authorities, public, private, social, religious or cultural institutions.

23. The National Plan of Action for Children recognises that the early marriage of girls is one of the factors for neo-natal deaths; early marriage poses various risk for the survival, health and development of young girls and to children born to them and most unfortunately it is also used as a means of trafficking.

(Emphasis Supplied)

13. While, dealing with the conflict with the provisions of the POCSO Act and the Exception -2 to Section 375 I.P.C., the Apex Court has held as under:-

"107. On a complete assessment of the law and the documentary material, it appears that there are really five options before us : (i) To let the incongruity remain as it is — this does not seem a viable option to us, given that the lives of thousands of young girls are at stake; (ii) To strike down as unconstitutional Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC — in the present case this is also not a viable option since this relief was given up and no such issue was raised; (iii) To reduce the age of consent from 18 years to 15 years — this too is not a viable option and would ultimately be for Parliament to decide; (iv) To bring the Pocso Act in consonance with Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC — this is also not a viable option since it would require not only a retrograde amendment to the Pocso Act but also to several other pro-child statutes; (v) To read Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC in a purposive manner to make it in consonance with the Pocso Act, the spirit of other pro-child legislations and the human rights of a married girl child. Being purposive and harmonious constructionists,

we are of opinion that this is the only pragmatic option available. Therefore, we are left with absolutely no other option but to harmonise the system of laws relating to children and require Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC to now be meaningfully read as: "Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under eighteen years of age, is not rape." It is only through this reading that the intent of social justice to the married girl child and the constitutional vision of the Framers of our Constitution can be preserved and protected and perhaps given impetus.

Relief

88. In view of the above discussion, I am clearly of the opinion that Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC in so far as it relates to a girl Child below 18 years is liable to be struck down on the following grounds:-

iii.....

Sexual intercourse or sexual act by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under 18 years, is not rape."

(Emphasis Supplied)

14. Thus, from the aforesaid declaration of law any sexual relations with a girl of less than 18 years of age would amount to rape, by any person, whether he is her husband or otherwise would amount to offence of rape in terms of Exception -2 to Section 375 I.P.C, as has been laid down by the Apex Court.

15. Therefore, in the instant case, if it is found that the victim was minor on the date of incident, when the first sexual intercourse (with or without her consent) was committed by the applicant, then the offence of rape shall be made out against the applicant herein.

16. Thus, the primary question arises in the instant case is with regard to the determination of age of the victim and what should be the procedure to determine the age as there is no provision in the POCSO Act or under the I.P.C. for determination of the age of the victim.

17. In Ravinder Singh Gorkhi v. State of U.P. : (2006) 5 SCC 584, the Apex Court has observed as under:

21. Determination of the date of birth of a person before a court of law, whether in a civil proceeding or a criminal proceeding, would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. Such a date of birth has to be determined on the basis of the materials on records. It will be a matter of appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties. Different standards having regard to the provision of Section 35 of the Evidence Act cannot be applied in a civil case or a criminal case.

38. The age of a person as recorded in the school register or otherwise may be used for various purposes, namely, for obtaining admission; for obtaining an appointment; for contesting election; registration of marriage; obtaining a separate unit under the ceiling laws; and even for the purpose of litigating before a civil forum e.g. necessity of being represented in a court of law by a guardian or where a suit is filed on the ground that the plaintiff being a minor he was not appropriately represented therein or any transaction made on his behalf was void as he was a minor. A court of law for the purpose of determining the age of a party to the lis, having regard to the provisions of Section 35 of the Evidence Act will have to apply the same standard. No different standard can be applied in case of an accused as in a case of abduction or rape, or similar offence where the victim or the prosecutrix although might have consented with the accused, if on the basis of the entries made in the register maintained by the school, a judgment of conviction is recorded, the accused would be deprived of his constitutional right under Article 21 of the Constitution, as in that case the accused may unjustly be convicted.

39. We are, therefore, of the opinion that until the age of a person is required to be determined in a manner laid down under a statute, different standard of proof should not be adopted. It is no doubt true that the court must strike a balance. In case of a dispute, the court may appreciate the evidence having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case. It would be a duty of the court of law to accord the benefit to a juvenile, provided he is one. To give the same benefit to a person who in fact is not a juvenile may cause injustice to the victim. In this case, the appellant had never been serious in projecting his plea that he on the date of commission of the offence was a minor. He made such statement for the first time while he was examined under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

(Emphasis Supplied)

18. The Apex Court in Jarnail Singh vs. State of Haryana : (2013) 7 SCC 263, has relied upon the provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children)

Model Rules, 2007, for determination of age of the victim as well. The Apex Court in para '23' has held as under:

"23. Even though Rule 12 is strictly applicable only to determine the age of a child in conflict with law, we are of the view that the aforesaid statutory provision should be the basis for determining age, even of a child who is a victim of crime. For, in our view, there is hardly any difference insofar as the issue of minority is concerned, between a child in conflict with law, and a child who is a victim of crime. Therefore, in our considered opinion, it would be just and appropriate to apply Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules, to determine the age of the prosecutrix VW, PW 6. The manner of determining age conclusively has been expressed in sub-rule (3) of Rule 12 extracted above. Under the aforesaid provision, the age of a child is ascertained by adopting the first available basis out of a number of options postulated in Rule 12(3). If, in the scheme of options under Rule 12(3), an option is expressed in a preceding clause, it has overriding effect over an option expressed in a subsequent clause. The highest rated option available would conclusively determine the age of a minor. In the scheme of Rule 12(3), matriculation (or equivalent) certificate of the child concerned is the highest rated option. In case, the said certificate is available, no other evidence can be relied upon. Only in the absence of the said certificate, Rule 12(3) envisages consideration of the date of birth entered in the school first attended by the child. In case such an entry of date of birth is available, the date of birth depicted therein is liable to be treated as final and conclusive, and no other material is to be relied upon. Only in the absence of such entry, Rule 12(3) postulates reliance on a birth certificate issued by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat. Yet again, if such a certificate is available, then no other material whatsoever is to be taken into consideration for determining the age of the child concerned, as the said certificate would conclusively determine the age of the child. It is only in the absence of any of the aforesaid, that Rule 12(3) postulates the determination of age of the child concerned, on the basis of medical opinion."

(Emphasis Supplied)

19. Thus, the aforesaid opinion expressed by the Apex Court in Jarnail Singh (supra), in the absence of any specific provision for determination of the age of the victim of the offences under the POCSO Act or under the provisions of Indian Penal Code, the provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 for the determination of the age of the victim can safely be applied.

20 . In Rishipal Singh Solanki vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others : (2022) 8 SCC 602, the Apex Court had laid down the following principles with regard to the determination of age of the child in conflict of laws, which reads as under:

"33.6. That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

33.7. This Court has observed that a hypertechnical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

33.8. If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

33.9. That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

33.10. Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Evidence Act viz. Section 35 and other provisions.

33.11. Ossification test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015."

(Emphasis Supplied)

and Another : (2022) 6 SCC 187, the Apex Court has interpreted the procedure to be followed for determination of the age of a child, in conflict of laws, which reads as under:

"7. The appellant relies upon three documents such as a birth certificate; school leaving certificate and the report of the ossification test in support of his plea of being a juvenile, whereas the State relies upon the family register prescribed by the Family Register Rules.

(i) Birth Certificate

8. First, we shall examine the truthfulness of the birth certificate issued by the Government of Uttar Pradesh wherein the date of birth is mentioned as 13-5-1993. Such date of birth was registered on 19-11-2014 after the filing of the application under Section 7-A of the Act on 7-10-2014.

9. We find that such date of birth certificate has been arranged to claim benefit under the 2000 Act. The date of birth certificate produced by the appellant cannot be relied upon as it was obtained after filing of the application under Section 7-A of the Act on 7-10-2014. As per the birth certificate, the appellant was born at house. Therefore, in terms of Sections 8(1)(a) and 10(1)(i) of the Registration of Births and Deaths Act, 1969 ("the Registration Act"), birth had to be reported to the Registrar by the head of the household or by the nearest relative of the head present in the house or by the oldest adult male person present. In case birth is reported within 30 days, it shall be registered on payment of such late fee as may be prescribed.

There are other conditions for registration of birth after 30 days as well.

10. The relevant provisions of the Act read thus:

"8. Persons required to register births and deaths.—(1) It shall be the duty of the persons specified below to give or cause to be given, either orally or in writing, according to the best of their knowledge and belief, within such time as may be prescribed, information to the Registrar of the several particulars required to be entered in the forms prescribed by the State Government under sub-section (1) of Section 16,—

(a) in respect of births and deaths in a house, whether residential or non-residential, not being any place referred to in clauses (b) to (e), the head of the house or, in case more than one household live in the house, the head of the household, the head being the person, who is so recognised by the house or the household, and if he is not present in the house at any time during the period within which the birth or death has to be reported, the nearest relative of the head present in the house, and in the absence of any such person, the oldest adult male person present therein during the said period;

10. Duty of certain persons to notify births and deaths and to certify cause of death.—(1) It shall be the duty of—

(i) the midwife or any other medical or health attendant at a birth or death,

(ii) the keeper or the owner of a place set apart for the disposal of dead bodies or any person required by a local authority to be present at such place, or to notify every birth or death or both at which he or she attended or was present, or which occurred in such areas as may be prescribed, to the Registrar within such time and in such manner as may be prescribed.”

(iii) any other person whom the State Government may specify in this behalf by his designation.

(ii) School leaving certificate

11. Therefore, the courts have rightly not relied upon date of birth certificate which was granted on 19-11-2014 as it was obtained after filing of the application and registered many years after the birth and not immediately or within the prescribed time period.

12. The school leaving certificate (Ext. A-3) has been proved by examining Umesh Kumar, Head Teacher of Adarsh Siksha Sadan, Pinna. As per the statement of the witness, the school was functioning in the year 1999 in Village Kheri, Dudadhari and was shifted to Village Pinna in the year 2009-2010 where he had been working as Head Teacher from the year 2000. As per the certificate, the appellant was a student of such school from 12-7-1999 till 2-7-2003. In cross-examination, he admits that the school is a private school and the father of the appellant has not produced any certificate of the appellant attending the first class. The appellant was admitted directly in the 2nd standard. He admits that Ext. A-1, the admission form, is a loose sheet prepared in his handwriting and it does not bear any counter-signature of any higher authority. He has not even produced any proof of registration of the school with the Education Department.

(iii) Ossification test report

16. The Medical Board has opined the age of the appellant between 23 to 24 years, when the appellant was examined on 13-5-2016. This report has been relied upon by the learned Additional Sessions Judge to allow the plea of juvenility raised by the appellant. However, it is to be noted that ossification test varies based on individual characteristics and hence its reliability has to be examined in each case.

17. A textbook of Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology by Modi, 26th Edn., p. 221, delineates the factors relevant to determining the age:

(1) Height and weight.—It is opined that progressive increase in height and weight according to age varies so greatly in individuals that it cannot be depended upon in estimating age in medico-legal cases.

(2) Ossification of bones.—This sign is helpful for determining the age until ossification is completed, for skiagraphy has now made it possible to determine even in living persons, the extent of ossification, and the union of epiphysis in bones.

18. Hence, it cannot be reasonably expected to formulate a uniform standard for determination of the age of the union of epiphysis on account of variations in climatic, dietetic, hereditary and other factors affecting the people of the different States of India.

19. Furthermore, this Court in a judgment in Jyoti Prakash Rai v. State of Bihar [Jyoti Prakash Rai v. State of Bihar, (2008) 15 SCC 223 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 796] held that the medical report determining the age of a person has never been considered by courts of law as also by the medical scientist to be conclusive in nature. It was also found that though the Act is a beneficial legislation but principles of beneficial legislation are to be applied only for the purpose of interpretation of the statute and not for arriving at a conclusion as to whether a person is juvenile or not."

(Emphasis Supplied)

22. In the judgement of P. Yuvaprakash (supra), which has been heavily relied upon by learned counsel for the applicant, the Apex Court has observed as under:

14. Section 94(2)(iii) of the JJ Act clearly indicates that the date of birth certificate from the school or matriculation or equivalent certificate by the concerned examination board has to be firstly preferred in the absence of which the birth certificate issued by the Corporation or Municipal Authority or Panchayat and it is only thereafter in the absence of these such documents the age is to be determined through "an ossification test" or "any other latest medical age determination test" conducted on the orders of the concerned authority, i.e. Committee or Board or Court. In the present case, concededly, only a transfer certificate and not the date of birth certificate or matriculation or equivalent certificate was considered. Ex. C1, i.e., the school transfer certificate showed the date of birth of the victim as 11.07.1997.

Significantly, the transfer certificate was produced not by the prosecution but instead by the court summoned witness, i.e., CW-1. The burden is always upon the prosecution to establish what it alleges; therefore, the prosecution could not have been fallen back upon a document which it had never relied upon. Furthermore, DW-3, the concerned Revenue Official (Deputy Tahsildar) had stated on oath that the records for the year 1997 in respect to the births and deaths were missing. Since it did not answer to the description of any class of documents mentioned in Section 94(2)(i) as it was a mere transfer certificate, Ex C-1 could not have been relied upon to hold that M was below 18 years at the time of commission of the offence.

19. It is clear from the above narrative that none of the documents produced during the trial answered the description of "the date of birth certificate from the school" or "the matriculation or equivalent certificate" from the concerned examination board or certificate by a corporation, municipal authority or a Panchayat. In these circumstances, it was incumbent for the prosecution to prove through acceptable medical tests/examination that the victim's age was below 18 years as per Section 94(2)(iii) of the JJ Act.

23. The Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Sanjay v. State of U.P., : 2020 SCC OnLine All 1397, has observed as under:

"25. Thus it is clear that for the determination of age of victim, primacy shall be given to Date of Birth (hereinafter referred to as 'DoB') mention in matriculation (or equivalent) certificate, in absence thereof DoB mention in the school first attended by the victim shall be taken into consideration, in absence of both, the entries made by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat regarding DoB shall be taken into account and finally if none of the aforesaid document containing DoB is available, medical evidence regarding age of victim, shall be taken into consideration. It is further clear that neither merely ocular evidence nor any other document shall be considered for determination of age."

24. With regard to the determination of age of a prosecutrix, the Rajasthan High Court in Bajrang Lal v. State of Rajasthan : 2006 SCC OnLine Raj 1392, has observed as under:

"19. So far, as the present case is concerned, as mentioned above, there are three types of evidence in respect of the age of the prosecutrix Manohari. Her parents have stated her age to be 12 years at the time of occurrence whereas as per the school certificates, which have been proved by the Headmaster of the Government School, the age of the victim approximately comes to 13 years and 7 months on the date of incident, whereas as per the ossification test it comes in between 15 to 17. years. The trial Court, after considering the evidence relating to her age, as referred above, determined the age of the prosecutrix Manohari as 15 years on the date of occurrence. I have also considered the statements of the parents of the prosecutrix Manohari, who have stated her age as 12 years but (hey have also admitted in their cross-examination that they do not remember her exact date of birth. So far as the documents Exhibit P-12 and Exhibit P-18 are concerned, the age of the victim from 15 to 17 years is based on ossification test, which cannot be said to be a conclusive evidence but, in fact, it is an evidence of advisory character as observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Madan Gopal Kakkad v. Naval Dubey, (1992) 3 SCC 204. In the present case the date of birth entered in the school certificates of the prosecutrix Manohari has been proved by PW. 10 Shivpal Nai, the Headmaster of the school where the prosecutrix studied. PW. 10 Shivpal Nai, the Headmaster, also brought the originals of Exhibit P-14A to Exhibit P-17. If the statements of the parents of the prosecutrix Manohari are read with the documentary evidence Exhibit P-14A to Exhibit P-17 (her school certificates) relating to the age of the prosecutrix, then certainly her age approximately comes in between 12 to 14 years. As per ossification test of the victim, her age comes from 15 to 17 years. This Court in Ganga Ram's case (Supra), has observed that of-course the ossification test of bones is helpful but even that is not also very sure test as owing to the variations in climatic, dietetic, hereditary and other factors affecting the people of the different States of India. There is not a uniform standard for determination of age of the union of epiphysis for the whole of India. According to Modi the range of error in ossification test may be upto three years. In Narendra Singh's case (Supra), the Madhya Pradesh High Court has also observed that margin of three years could be on either side. As per Exhibit P-12 and Exhibit P-18 the age of the victim is from 15 to 17 years and it can vary on either side to three years. If 15 years age varies to 12 to 15 years then it is corroborated with the statement of her parents as well as school certificates, therefore, school certificates are more reliable. The exact date of birth was not known to the parents as they are illiterate villagers and it is not possible for each and every such person, who resides in interior parts of the country to know and remember the exact date of birth of their kids but approximate years of age stated by them is nearer to the date of birth of victim i.e., 31.12.1985 mentioned in the school certificates proved by PW. 10 Shivpal Nai, the Headmaster of the school in which the prosecutrix studied. The learned trial Court has not determined the age of the victim taking her date of birth as 31.12.1985 but it determined her age as about 15 years and after considering all the facts and circumstances of the case I do not find any illegality or perversity in the finding of the learned trial Court regarding the age of the prosecutrix Manohari whereby her age has been determined as about 15 years and in view of it, the consent of victim becomes immaterial."

25. Thus, from the aforesaid observations and principles as laid down by the Apex Court and the different High Courts, it is crystal clear that the provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, can also safely be applied for determination of the age of a victim of crime, specifically the crimes with regard to sexual offences, which are covered under the provisions of the POCSO Act as well as under the Indian Penal Code. The Act, 2015, provides a complete machinery in Section 94 with regard to the presumption and determination of age, which reads as under:

"Section 94. Presumption and determination of age

(1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining—

*(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person."

(Emphasis Supplied)

26. As per the aforesaid provisions, specifically, the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 94 of J.J. Act, in the instant case, a prima facie document i.e., the School Leaving Certificate, which has been issued by the Primary Junior High School, Athaiya, Kasganj, according to which the date of birth of the victim is stated to be 19.01.2005. Therefore, once the Date of Birth Certificate from school is available, the requirement of Ossification Test in the instant case is unwarranted. However, if the prosecution ultimately fails to prove the said Birth Certificate issued by school during trial, the Ossification Test would be relevant for determination of the age of the victim. Since, this Court is exercising the powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the limitations are that whether prima facie a case, as has been alleged against the applicant is made out or not. From the School Leaving Certificate, which has been produced by the opposite party no.2 as CA-1 to the counter affidavit, it prima facie appears that the date of birth of the victim is 19.01.2005. Therefore, the age determined by the Ossification Test by the medical examination loses its significance. Therefore, on 26.12.2021, undisputedly, on the basis of the aforesaid School Leaving Certificate, the victim was minor, which has also been alleged in her statements under Section 161 as well as 164 Cr.P.C. by the victim that she was minor on the date of incident.

27. In the instant case, the applicant has annexed as Annexure-6, the Birth Certificate of the victim. However, the date of registration of the birth of the victim is 17.02.2022, after the date of incident. Therefore, it appears that the said Birth Certificate has been purposefully obtained by the applicant to get away from the clutches of law and the offence against the victim, who was minor at the time of the incident. Therefore, the Birth Certificate which has been obtained by the applicant in considered opinion of this Court, is of not much relevance at this stage. Therefore, on the basis of the School Leaving Certificate, the date of birth of the victim is prima facie established to be 19.01.2005. Otherwise also, as per the scheme of Section 94 of the Act, 2015 once the school certificate is available, the other certificates such as the Birth Certificate issued by the Municipal Corporation becomes a secondary evidence. Therefore, it is concluded that on the date of incident the victim was prima facie a minor. The consent of a minor, has no consequence for the offences under the POCSO Act as well as Section 375 I.P.C. Exception- 2, irrespective of the fact that such minor victim had married to the applicant herein. Thus, prima facie offence as alleged against the applicant has been made out. Therefore, there is no ground for interference in the impugned charge-sheet as well as the cognizance order at this stage.

28. For all the reasons stated above and in the light of the judgements of the Apex Court in Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of Maharashtra and Others : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 315, State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] and R. P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed

29. However, it is made clear that the observation made herein above shall have no bearing on the trial of the case, which shall be concluded on the basis of the evidence led during trial

3. Contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that though this complaint under N.I. Act was filed in the year 2022, but the trial could not yet be concluded. It is further submitted that as per Section 143(2) of N.I. Act, the trial for the offence under N.I. Act should be conducted on day to day basis and it is further provided u/s 143(3) that the trial should be concluded within six months from the date of filing of the complaint.

4. The Apex Court in the case of Indian Bank Association and others vs. Union of India and others; (2014) 5 SCC 590, has issued direction for expeditious disposal of the cases under N.I. Act. Paragraph Nos. 22, 23 and 24 of the aforesaid judgement are being

"22. We notice, considering all those aspects, few High Courts of the country have laid down certain procedures for speedy disposal of cases under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. Reference, in this connection, may be made to the judgments of the Bombay High Court in KSL and Industries Ltd. v. Mannalal Khandelwal, Indo International Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra (2005) 44 Civil CC and Harischandra Biyani v. Stock Holding Corpn. of India Ltd. (2006) 4 MhLJ 381, the judgment of the Calcutta High Court in Magma Leasing Ltd. v. State of West Bengal and others (2007) 3 CHN 574 and the judgment of the Delhi High Court in Rajesh Agarwal v. State and another (2010) ILR 6 Delhi 610.

Directions

23. Many of the directions given by the various High Courts, in our view, are worthy of emulation by the Criminal Courts all over the country dealing with cases under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, for which the following directions are being given :-

23.1. The Metropolitan Magistrate/Judicial Magistrate (MM/JM), on the day when the complaint under Section 138 of the Act is presented, shall scrutinize the complaint and, if the complaint is accompanied by the affidavit, and the affidavit and the documents, if any, are found to be in order, take cognizance and direct issuance of summons.

23.2. The MM/JM should adopt a pragmatic and realistic approach while issuing summons. Summons must be properly addressed and sent by post as well as by e-mail address got from the complainant. The court, in appropriate cases, may take the assistance of the police or the nearby court to serve notice to the accused. For notice of appearance, a short date be fixed. If the summons is received back unserved, immediate follow-up action be taken.

23.3. The court may indicate in the summon that if the accused makes an application for compounding of offences at the first hearing of the case and, if such an application is made, the court may pass appropriate orders at the earliest.

23.4. The court should direct the accused, when he appears to furnish a bail bond, to ensure his appearance during trial and ask him to take notice under Section 251 Cr.P.C. to enable him to enter his plea of defence and fix the case for defence evidence, unless an application is made by the accused under Section 145(2) for recalling a witness for cross-examination.

23.5. The court concerned must ensure that examination-in-chief, cross-examination and re-examination of the complainant must be conducted within three months of assigning the case. The court has option of accepting affidavits of the witnesses, instead of examining them in the court. The witnesses to the complaint and accused must be available for cross-examination as and when there is direction to this effect by the court.

24. We, therefore, direct all the criminal courts in the country dealing with Section 138 cases to follow the above-mentioned procedures for speedy and expeditious disposal of cases falling under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. Writ Petition is, accordingly, disposed of, as above."

5. The Apex Court in the case of In Re: Expeditious Trial of Cases under Section 138 N.I. Act, 1881, reported in 2021 SCC Online 325 has already issued following directions for expeditious trial u/s 138 N.I. Act as under:-

24. The upshot of the above discussion leads us to the following conclusions:

1) The High Courts are requested to issue practice directions to the Magistrates to record reasons before converting trial of complaints under Section 138 of the Act from summary trial to summons trial.

2) Inquiry shall be conducted on receipt of complaints under Section 138 of the Act to arrive at sufficient grounds to proceed against the accused, when such accused resides beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the court.

3) For the conduct of inquiry under Section 202 of the Code, evidence of witnesses on behalf of the complainant shall be permitted to be taken on affidavit. In suitable cases, the Magistrate can restrict the inquiry to examination of documents without insisting for examination of witnesses.

4) We recommend that suitable amendments be made to the Act for provision of one trial against a person for multiple offences under Section 138 of the Act committed within a period of 12 months, notwithstanding the restriction in Section 219 of the Code.

5) The High Courts are requested to issue practice directions to the Trial Courts to treat service of summons in one complaint under Section 138 forming part of a transaction, as deemed service in respect of all the complaints filed before the same court relating to dishonour of cheques issued as part of the said transaction.

6) Judgments of this Court in Adalat Prasad (supra) and Subramaniam Sethuraman (supra) have interpreted the law correctly and we reiterate that there is no inherent power of Trial Courts to review or recall the issue of summons. This does not affect the power of the Trial Court under Section 322 of the Code to revisit the order of issue of process in case it is brought to the court's notice that it lacks jurisdiction to try the complaint.

7) Section 258 of the Code is not applicable to complaints under Section 138 of the Act and findings to the contrary in Meters and Instruments (supra) do not lay down correct law. To conclusively deal with this aspect, amendment to the Act empowering the Trial Courts to reconsider/recall summons in respect of complaints under Section 138 shall be considered by the Committee constituted by an order of this Court dated 10.03.2021.

8) All other points, which have been raised by the Amici Curiae in their preliminary report and written submissions and not considered herein, shall be the subject matter of deliberation by the aforementioned Committee. Any other issue relating to expeditious disposal of complaints under Section 138 of the Act shall also be considered by the Committee.

6. From the above mentioned judgements of Hon'ble Apex Court, it is clear that the Apex Court for expeditious disposal of cases under N.I. Act, has issued several directions which the concerned court/Magistrate has to follow while deciding the cases under N.I. Act. From the observations of the Apex Court as well as analysis of Sections 138 & 143 of N.I. Act, it is expedient that all the proceedings under N.I. Act should be concluded expeditiously without going into unnecessary technicality.

7. Considering the aforesaid judgements, this Court directs the Additional Civil Judge (J.D.) Ist/Judicial Magistrate, Jaunpur to conclude the trial of complaint case No. 19412 of 2022 (Ramdhari Pal vs Ajay Yadav), u/s 138 N.I. Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Jaunpur, keeping in mind the direction of the Apex Court in above mentioned cases, expeditiously preferably within a period of six months from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order, strictly in accordance with statutory provision of Sections 143(2) and 143(3) of the N.I. Act.

8. With the aforesaid direction, the application is disposed of.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 482- Quashing of Summoning Order Denied – The applicants sought to quash the summoning order dated 13.06.2022, non-bailable warrant issued on 18.04.2023, and proceedings in Complaint Case No. 4147 of 2019 (now No. 208 of 2023) under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 – Held, no illegality or abuse of process was found in the impugned order, and the application was dismissed. (Paras 2, 19, 20)

B. Section 138 and 141 of N.I. Act – Liability of Authorized Signatory – The applicant company (drawer) and its authorized signatory were summoned for dishonour of a cheque – Held, as per Aneeta Hada Vs Godfather Travels and Tours Pvt. Ltd., the authorized signatory of a company is considered a “drawer” under Section 7, and specific averments under Section 141 are not required for their liability. (Paras 6, 7, 13, 14)

C. Section 141 of N.I. Act – Vicarious Liability – The complaint did not explicitly invoke Section 141 or make specific averments against the authorized signatory – Held, as per S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. Vs Neeta Bhalla and K.K. Ahuja Vs VSK. Vora, no specific averments are needed for the signatory of a dishonoured cheque, who is prima facie liable under Section 141(2). (Paras 8, 9, 10, 11, 13)

D. Prima Facie Case under Section 138 –

The court found that a prima facie case was established against the applicants based on the dishonour of a cheque for Rs. 20,90,770/- and failure to pay after demand notice – Held, the summoning order was justified, and the applicants could rebut the presumption under Section 139 during trial. (Paras 14, 15)

E. Judicial Application of Mind – The applicants failed to demonstrate any illegality or perversity in the summoning order – Held, the court below applied judicial mind, and no grounds existed to interfere with the order under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (Paras 18, 19)

Application Dismissed.

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned AGA for the State.

2. The present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicants with the prayer to quash the summoning order dated 13.06.2022 and order dated 18.04.2023 which continued till 16.10.2023 where by non bailable warrant was issued as well as the entire proceeding of Complaint Case No.4147 of 2019 (New Complaint Case No.208 of 2023), under Section 138 of N.I. Act, pending in the court of Additional Court No.1, Gautam Buddh Nagar.

3. In brief, facts of the case are as that the opposite party no.2 filed a complaint against the applicant no.1, the company i.e. M/S. Shiv Shakti Infra Vision Private Limited and applicant no.2 as the Authorized Signatory of the said company, on account of dishonour of cheque being Cheque no.014022 dated 1st June, 2019 for the sum of Rs.20,90,770/- drawn by the applicant no.1. The said cheque was given to opposite party no.2 in discharge of liability pursuant to an agreement entered into between the applicants and opposite party no.2 and the said cheque was also returned unpaid for the reason that “payment stopped by the drawer”. It is further alleged that despite receipt of demand/legal notice, the drawer of the cheque failed to make the payment and thus a complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act was filed by the opposite party no.2. In support of the complaint, the opposite party no.2 filed his statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. dated 06.12.2019 in form of an affidavit. The court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2, Gautam Buddh Nagar vide order dated 13th June, 2022 took cognizance of the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act against the applicants and issued summons to the applicants. It is further alleged that opposite party no.2 provided the wrong address in the complaint which was rectified by him in the month of June, 2023 by seeking an amendment in the complaint regarding the correct address, which was allowed by the court on 16.06.2023. When the applicants came to know about the present proceeding without further delay, the applicant company approached the Court by means of application under Section 305 Cr.P.C. and further made an application for the cancellation of N.B.W. and without further delay this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed whereby summoning order dated 13.06.2022 is challenged.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the applicants are innocent and have been falsely implicated in the present matter due to ulterior motive. Further submission is that as per the opposite party no.2, the applicant no.2 is the Authorized Signatory of the applicant no.1 the company namely M/S. Shiv Shakti Infra Vision Private Limited and applicant no.2 admittedly is not the drawer of the cheque. Further submission is that the applicant no.2 has neither been prosecuted nor summoned in his capacity as a director of the applicant no.1, the company since there are no averments or pleadings in the complaint in accordance with Section 141 of N.I. Act. Further submission is that applicants being aggrieved by the summoning order dated 13th June, 2022 and the pleadings emanating therefrom are preferring the present application for quashing the summoning order. Further submission is that the court below has erred in law in not appreciating that the applicant no.2 is not the drawer of the cheque in question and thus no criminal liability can be fastened upon him under Section 138 of N.I. Act. Further submission is that as the opposite party no.2/complainant has not made the directors of applicant no.1/accused no.1 as accused and has not pleaded essential ingredients of Section 141 of N.I. Act, thus, the summoning order should not have been passed against the applicants. The opposite party no.2/complainant has not even invoked Section 141 of N.I. Act and the complaint lacks essential ingredients of Section 141 of N.I. Act and in view of this, the summoning order against the applicants is bad in law. Even in summoning order dated 13th June, 2022 there is no reference to Section 141 of N.I. Act, thus, the applicants should not have been summoned, merely because the applicant no.2 is the Signatory to the cheque and is neither the drawer of the cheque nor any allegations have been made against him in accordance with Section 141 of N.I. Act. It is further submitted that it is a settled proposition of law that the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act is capable of being committed only by the drawer of the cheque and every person signing a cheque on behalf of the company on whose account the cheque is drawn does not become the drawer of the cheque. Such a signatory only a person duly authorized to sign the cheque on behalf of the company/drawer of the cheque. It is further submitted that criminal liability on account of dishonour of cheque primarily falls on the drawer of the cheque and if the drawer is a company, then drawer company and is extended to the officers of the company in view of Section 141 of N.I. Act but does not extended to the authorized signatory of the cheque, who is merely authorized to sign the cheque on behalf of the drawer company. It is further submitted that the opposite party no.2/complainant has not made specific averments as contemplated by Section 141 of N.I. Act against the applicant no.2 and in absence of specific averments, the cognizance of the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act against the applicant no.2 is bad in law. The vicarious liability on the officer of the company can be fastened only under Section 141 of N.I. Act and non-invocation of Section 141 of N.I. Act renders the summoning order, bad in law as against the applicants. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the applicants has placed reliance upon the judgements of Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of GHCL Employees Stock Option Trust Vs. Indian Infoline Ltd., (2013) 4 Supreme Court Cases 505, S.K. Alagh Vs. State of U.P. And others (2008) 5 Supreme Court Cases 662, Sarad Kumar Sanghi Vs. No.3913 of 2020 dated 29th October, 2021 and Aneeta Hada Vs Godfather Travels and Tours Pvt. Ltd, (2012) 5 Supreme Court Cases 661.

5. On the other hand, learned AGA has opposed the prayer and submitted that there is no illegality and perversity in the impugned order. A prima facie case is made out against the applicants. Applicant no.1 is the company, who has been summoned by virtue of its role as a drawer of cheque and applicant no.2 is a signatory of the cheque. Signatory of the cheque is included in the definition of drawer as given in Section 7 of the N.I. Act. So far as the specific averments in the complaint are concerned, there is no need for the same as it is apparent that authorized signatory of the cheque is vicariously liable for the act of the company i.e. applicant no.1.

6. From the perusal of the record and submissions made by the rival parties, it is apparent that so far as the argument of the learned counsel for the applicants is concerned with regard to the effect that applicant no.2 is not drawer of the cheque but merely an authorized signatory of the cheque, under the scheme of Section 141 of N.I. Act only drawer of the cheque i.e company is liable and signatory is not liable as he has merely signed the cheque for no debt/liability of his own. In this respect, it will be pertinent to refer to the case law, Aneeta Hada (supra), in which in paragraph no.20 it has been clarified that an authorized signatory of a company is a drawer, which read as under:-

“20. The section 7 of the Act defines “drawer” to mean the maker of a bill of exchange or a cheque. An authorized signatory of a company becomes a drawer as he has been authorized to do so in respect of the account maintained by the company.”

7. In view of the above, as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the expression “drawer” under Section 7 and Section 141 of N.I. Act covers “the authorized signatory” of a company, thus the argument in this regard is not sustainable.

8. So far as the argument regarding the specific averments have not been made in the complaint which are necessary for fastening vicarious liability upon the authorized signatory of the cheque is concerned, in this regard it will be pertinent to refer to S.M.S. Pharmaceutical Ltd. Vs. Neeta Bhalla and another 2005 SCC (CrL) 1975, in which the Hon'ble Apex Court has held and observed that:-

*“To sum up, there is almost unanimous judicial opinion that necessary averments ought to be contained in a complaint before a persons can be subjected to criminal process. A liability under Section141 of the Act is sought to be fastened vicariously on a person connected with a Company, the principal accused being the company itself. It is a departure from the rule in criminal law against vicarious liability. A clear case should be spelled out in the complaint against the person sought to be made liable Section141 of the Act contains the requirements for making a person liable under the said provision. That respondent falls within parameters of Section141 has to be spelled out. A complaint has to be examined by the Magistrate in the first instance on the basis of averments contained therein. If the Magistrate is satisfied that there are averments which bring the case within Section141 he would issue the process. We have seen that merely being described as a director in a company is not sufficient to satisfy the requirement of Section141. Even a non director can be liable under Section141 of the Act. The averments in the complaint would also serve the purpose that the person sought to be made liable would know what is the case which is alleged against him. This will enable him to meet the case at the trial.

In view of the above discussion, our answers to the questions posed in the Reference are as under:

(a) It is necessary to specifically aver in a complaint under Section141 that at the time the offence was committed, the person accused was in charge of, and responsible for the conduct of business of the company. This averment is an essential requirement of Section141 and has to be made in a complaint. Without this averment being made in a complaint, the requirements of Section141 cannot be said to be satisfied.

(b) The answer to question posed in sub-para (b) has to be in negative. Merely being a director of a company is not sufficient to make the person liable under Section141 of the Act. A director in a company cannot be deemed to be in charge of and responsible to the company for conduct of its business. The requirement of Section141 is that the person sought to be made liable should be in charge of and responsible for the conduct of the business of the company at the relevant time. This has to be averred as a fact as there is no deemed liability of a director in such cases.

(c) The answer to question (c) has to be in affirmative. The question notes that the Managing Director or Joint Managing Director would be admittedly in charge of the company and responsible to the company for conduct of its business. When that is so, holders of such positions in a company become liable under Section141 of the Act. By virtue of the office they hold as Managing Director or

*Joint Managing Director, these persons are in charge of and responsible for the conduct of business of the company. Therefore, they get covered under Section 141. So far as signatory of a cheque which is dishonoured is concerned, he is clearly responsible for the incriminating act and will be covered under sub-section (2) of Section 141.

9. In the case of K.K. Ahuja Vs. V.K. Vora and another, 2 (2009) 10 SCC 48, it has been held that:-

10. The position under Section 141 of the N.I. Act can be summarized thus:-

“(ii) In the case of a director or an officer of the company who signed the cheque on behalf of the company, there is no need to make a specific averment that he was in charge of and was responsible to the company, for the conduct of the business of the company or make any specific allegation about consent, connivance or negligence. The very fact that the dishonoured cheque was signed by him on behalf of the company, would give rise to responsibility under sub-section (2) of Section 141.”

11. In the case of National Small Industries Corp. Ltd. Vs. Harmeet Singh Paintal and another, (2010) 3 SCC 330, it has been held that:-

(vi) If accused is a Director or an Officer of a company who signed the cheques on behalf of the company then also it is not necessary to make specific averment in complaint.”

12. In the case of Sunita Palita and others Vs. M/s Panchami Stone Quarry, 2022 Livelaw (SC) 647, it has been held as under:-

*“43. Liability depends on the role one plays in the affairs of a company and not on designation or status alone as held by this Court in S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (supra). The materials on record clearly show that these Appellants were independent, non-executive Directors of the company. As held by this Court in Pooja Ravinder Devidasani v.State of Maharashtra and Anr. (supra) a non-Executive Director is not involved in the day-to-day affairs of the company or in the running of its business. Such Director is in no way responsible for the day-to-day running of the Accused Company. Moreover, when a complaint is filed against a Director of the company, who is not the signatory of the dishonoured cheque, specific averments have to be made in the pleadings to substantiate the contention in the complaint, that such Director was in charge of and responsible for conduct of the business of the Company or the Company, unless such Director is the designated Managing Director or Joint Managing Director who would obviously be responsible for the company and/or its business and affairs.

44. The High Court correctly observed that three categories of persons were covered by Section 141 of the NI Act – the company who committed the offence as alleged; everyone who was in-charge of or was responsible for the business of the company and any other person who was a Director or a Manager or a Secretary or Officer of the Company with whose connivance or due to whose neglect the company had committed the offence.

49. For the reasons discussed above, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order of the High Court is set aside. Criminal Case No. AC/121/2017 pending under Section 138/141 of the NI Act in the Court of Judicial Magistrate, 2nd Court, Suri Birbhum is quashed in so far as these Appellants are concerned. It is made clear that the proceedings may continue against the other accused in the criminal case, including in particular the Accused Company, its Managing Director/ Additional Managing Director and/or the signatory of the cheque in question."

13. In view of the above, legal position is settled and certain that in respect of authorized signatory of the cheque, specific averments are not necessary to be made in the complaint as the very objective/purpose of averments to be made in the complaint is that the person sought to be made liable would know, what is the case, which is alleged against him and this will enable him to meet the case at trial.

14. In this complaint, the applicant no.2 has been shown as an authorized signatory of the company i.e. applicant no.1. There is no confusion regarding his role/act in drawing/signing the cheque for which he has been prima facie found liable and resultantly has been summoned for the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act. It is needless to emphasize that the Court taking cognizance of the complaint under Section 138 of the Act is required to be satisfied as to whether a prima facie case is made out under the said provision. The drawer of the cheque undoubtedly gets an opportunity under Section 139 of the Act to rebut the presumption at the trial.

15. So far as the non invoking of section 141 of N.I. Act is concerned, it is made clear that in case of dishonour of cheque Section 138 of N.I. Act is charging/penal section and Section 141 of the N.I. Act is only enabling section for fastening the vicarious liability upon the accused in case where the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act is committed by the company. As such offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act is committed by the company. It is a penal provision wherein if a person draws a cheque on an account maintained by him with the Banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part of any debt or other liability, is returned by the Bank unpaid, on the ground either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with that bank, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence.

16. At this juncture, it may be referred to Section 141 of N.I. Act, which deals with offences by companies. As the spine of the controversy rests on the said provision, it is reproduced below:

"141. Offences by companies. –

(1) If the person committing an offence under section 138 is a company, every person who, at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly;

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any person liable to punishment if he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge, or that he had exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of such offence:

Provided further that where a person is nominated as a Director of a Company by virtue of his holding any office or employment in the Central Government or State Government or a financial corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, he shall not be liable for prosecution under this Chapter.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where any offence under this Act, has been committed by a company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to, any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

17. On a reading of the said provision, it is plain as day that if a person who commits offence under Section 138 of the Act is a company, the company as well as every person/officer in charge of and responsible to the company for the conduct of business of the company at the time of commission of offence is deemed to be guilty of the offence. The first proviso carves out under what circumstances the criminal liability would not be fastened. Sub-section (2) enlarges the criminal liability by incorporating the concepts of connivance, negligence and consent that engulfs many categories of officers. It is worth noting that in both the provisions, there is a 'deemed' concept of criminal liability.

18. Counsel for the applicants has not been able to point out any such illegality much less than any abuse of court's process which may persuade this Court to interfere in the impugned order. The impugned order reflects judicial application of mind. There appears no good ground to castigate the impugned order. The view taken by the court below seems to be correct and even this Court does not have reason to take a different view in the matter.

19. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, after perusing the impugned order as well as the materials brought on record and having considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, I do not find any good ground to quash the impugned order. Hence, the prayer made in the application is refused.

20. With the aforesaid observations, the present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is devoid of merits and is, accordingly, dismissed.

(A) Civil Law - The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 15 Rule 5 - Revision - Provincial Small Causes Court Act, 1887 - Section 25 - Revision of decrees and orders of Courts of Small Causes - Order of the Revisional Court suffers from patent illegality and irregularity if it decides the revision without addressing objections regarding its maintainability. (Para 9-10)

Landlord filed SCC Suit - Tenant ejectment - Recovery of arrears and damages of rent for use and occupation - Tenant accused of rent default - Objection to landlord's application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC - Initial ex parte proceedings - Disputes regarding rent deposits and interests - hence petition. (Para 3, 4, 5)

HELD: - Revisional Court misconstrued and misinterpreted the order of this Court and ignored its mandate. Order dated 19.12.2023 by the Revisional Court set aside due to non-compliance with procedural mandates. Revisional Court is directed to decide the objections regarding maintainability before addressing the merits within three months. (Para 9-10)

Petition allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Shri Prakhar Tandon, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Shivakant Singh, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed for setting aside the order dated 19.12.2023 passed by the learned Addl. District Judge, Court No. 1, Kanpur Nagar in SCC Revision No. 240 of 2022 (Ram Kumar Gupta versus Piyush Shukla) whereby and whereunder, the revision has been allowed and the order dated 17.8.2022 passed by the learned Judge, Small Causes Court whereby deferring the consideration of the application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC moved by the landlord/respondent after receipt of evidence at the time of final judgment has been set aside and direction has been issued to proceed with the suit only after deciding the application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC.

3. The facts giving rise to the controversy involved between the parties lie in a narrow compass. The plaintiff/respondent has instituted a SCC Suit No. 280 of 2017 for ejectment of the tenant/petitioner and for recovery of arrears of rent and damages for use and occupation. The rate of rent alleged by the landlord/respondent in the plaint is Rs.1500/- per month. The tenant/petitioner has appeared in the suit proceedings and has filed his written statement on 27.10.2018. The landlord/respondent filed an application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC alleging that the tenant/petitioner has committed default in the payment of extra rent and prayed for striking off the defence of the tenant/petitioner. The said application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC was objected to by the tenant/petitioner by filing objections. In the objections, it was clearly stated that the suit was instituted on 9.11.2017. When the tenant/petitioner appeared in the proceedings, the suit was proceeding exparte against him. After recall of the order to proceed exparte, the tenant/petitioner on 31.8.2018 submitted the tender of Rs.57,250/- to be passed. The tender was passed on 27.9.2018 and the amount was deposited by the tenant/petitioner on 1.10.2018. It was also stated that the landlord/respondent had demanded rent from 1.2.2016 to 31.12.2018 i.e. 35 months. The rent works out to Rs.52,500/-. Interest @ 9% per annum works out to Rs.4,725/- total works out to Rs.57,225/- and a sum of Rs.57,250/- was got deposited. The plaintiff/respondent calculated the amount of interest on Rs.52,500/- incorrectly. The tenant/petitioner is also regularly depositing the monthly rent of Rs.1500/-.

4. The learned Judge, Small Causes Court vide its order dated 17.8.2022 being of the view that there was a dispute regarding the amount tendered, which could be adjudicated only after receipt of evidence of the parties deferred the consideration of the application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC at the time of final decision of the suit.

5. The order dated 17.8.2022 was assailed in SCC Revision under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Causes Court Act, 1887 by the landlord/respondent. The tenant/petitioner filed his objections to the maintainability of the revision itself on the ground that the order did not decide the application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC and was interlocutory in nature and as such, the Revision under Section 25 was not maintainable. The Revisional Court ignoring the objection of the tenant/petitioner allowed the revision by the order dated 15.10.2022 and set aside the order dated 17.8.2022 and directed the Trial Court to first decide the application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC and then, proceed with the SCC Suit. The order dated 15.10.2022 was put to challenge before this Court by the tenant/petitioner in a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India No. 325 of 2023. This Court after hearing the counsels of the parties and taking note of the fact that the objections to the maintainability of the revision was not considered by the Revisional Court while allowing the revision, set aside the order dated 15.10.2022 passed in the revision and directed the Revisional Court to pass the order strictly in accordance with law within a period of three months vide order dated 7.8.2023. The Revisional Court by its order dated 19.12.2023 has again passed the order allowing the revision and setting aside the order dated 17.8.2022 and directions have been issued to the learned Judge, Small Causes Court to decide the application under Order 15 Rule 5 CPC first and thereafter proceed with the SCC Suit.

6. Shri Prakhar Tandon, learned counsel for the tenant/petitioner has vehemently argued that the Revisional Court has completely misconstrued and misinterpreted the order of this Court dated 7.8.2023 passed on the petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India No. 325 of 2023, which required it to decide the objections of the tenant/petitioner regarding the maintainability of the revision. The impugned revisional order suffers from patent illegality and deserves to be set aside. The Revisional Court has proceeded to pass orders on merit without deciding the objections. It is contended that the revision itself was not maintainable in law as it was preferred against an interlocutory order by which no rights of the parties were decided. The revision was also decided without granting the petitioner any opportunity to file his response to the revision. It is also contended that the objections of the petitioner to the maintainability of the revision is pending as on date and has not been decided.

7. Per contra, Shri Shivakant Singh, learned counsel for the respondent submits that the order of the Revisional Court is just and proper and does not suffer from any illegality or infirmity. This Court had directed the Revisional Court to pass the order strictly in accordance with law without being influenced by the observations made by this Court in its order dated 7.8.2023. The Revisional Court has thus proceeded to decide the revision in accordance with law.

8. I have heard learned counsels for the parties and have perused the record.

9. Having heard the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and having gone through the order dated 7.8.2023 passed by this Court in the earlier round of litigation, I find that the Revisional Court while passing the impugned order dated 19.12.2023 has misconstrued and misinterpreted the order of this Court dated 7.8.2023 and has completely ignored its mandate. This Court had set aside the order dated 15.10.2022 passed in SCC Revision No. 240 of 2022 (Ram Kumar Gupta versus Piyush Shukla), being of the view that admittedly the order had been passed without deciding the preliminary objection as raised regarding the jurisdiction of the Revisional Court to entertain the revision. The tenor of the order of this Court was that the objections regarding the maintainability of the revision was required to be addressed first before proceeding to decide the revision on merits. This having not been done, the order suffers from patent illegality and irregularity.

10. Accordingly, the order dated 19.12.2023 passed by the Addl. District Judge, Court No. 1, Kanpur Nagar in SCC Revision No. 240 of 2022 (Raj Kumar Gupta versus Piyush Shukla) is set aside. The petition stands allowed. The Revisional Court is directed to first decide the objections of the petitioner regarding the maintainability of the revision and then proceed to decide the revision on merits within a period of three months from the date of service of certified copy of the order of this Court.

11. Parties to bear their own costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh

1. Heard Sri Ashwani Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for petitioner and Sri

2. Present petition has been filed seeking following relief:-

“(i) Issue an order or direction in exercise of power conferred under Article 227 of the constitution of India setting aside the order dated 16.03.2017 passed by the court of Small Cause in Suit of Small Cause No. 17 of 2017 and order dated 14.11.2017 passed by the District Judge, Gorakhpur in Revision No. 26 of 2017.”

3. Learned counsel for petitioner submitted that earlier petitioner has moved an application 97(c) dated 07.01.2016 in Small Cause No. 17 of 2017 for a direction to the plaintiff/respondents to produce some evidence in respect of material alteration in tenanted house.

4. It is next submitted that the said application was allowed vide order dated 09.12.2016 imposing the cost of Rs. 500/- to the applicant/defendant and the cost was also accepted by the plaintiff/respondents. Later on, plaintiff/respondents have moved application 119(c) dated 25.02.2017 for rectification of order dated 09.12.2016. In the said application, it is stated that from the perusal of order dated 09.12.2016, it is apparently clear that Court was inclined to 'reject' the application, but in operative portion, it has wrongly been typed as 'allowed'. The said application was considered by the Court concerned and the same was allowed vide order dated 16.03.2017 rectifying the typographical error in the earlier order dated 09.12.2016.

5. He firmly submitted that once an application is allowed imposing certain costs and costs is also accepted by the opposite party, the said order cannot be challenged and is barred by the principle of estoppel.

6. He further submitted that petitioner has challenged the order dated 16.03.2017 by filing Revision No. 26 of 2017, which was also rejected by the Revisional Court vide order dated 14.11.2017. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of Krishan Kumar Khanna vs. International Society For Krishna Consciousness; 2000 LawSuit(SC) 1371.

7. Per contra, Sri Narendra Kumar Chaturvedi, learned counsel for respondents submitted that from the perusal of order dated 09.12.2016, it is very much clear that since beginning to last, except in operative portion, Court was inclined to reject the application. Even in last line before the operative portion, Court has held that application 97(C) is liable to be rejected on cost, but due to typographical error in operative part, in place of 'rejection', word 'allowed' has been mentioned. Therefore, respondents have filed application 119(c) and Court concerned vide reasoned order dated 16.03.2017 accepted that it was typographical error and rectified the same exercising its power under Section 152 of CPC, 1908. After considering both the orders, Revisional Court has also opined that Court is having power to rectify its mistake at any stage. He lastly submitted that there is no illegality in both orders dated 16.03.2017 & 14.11.2017.

8. I have considered rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perused the records as well as judgment cited above.

9. Controversy before this Court is as to whether order dated 09.12.2016 is having typographical error or not and further Court can rectify the same or not. To conclude the controversy, it is required to quote complete order in question dated 09.12.2016 and the same is quoted below:-

10. From the perusal of order dated 09.12.2016, it is apparently clear that Court was inclined to reject the application 97(c), but due to typographical error in operative portion, in place of word 'निरस्त', word, 'स्वीकार' has been typed and while correcting the same vide order dated 16.03.2017, Court concerned has held that if there is typographical error in the order, it can be rectified under the provisions of Section 152 CPC. Further, after going through the application 97(c) as well as order dated 09.12.2016, Revisional Court has also held that at any stage, order may be rectified.

11. Impugned order has been passed exercising power under Section 152 of CPC. For ready reference, Section 152 of CPC is quoted below:-

"Amendment of judgments, decrees or orders.- Clerical or arithmetical mistakes in judgments, decrees or orders or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission may at any time be corrected by the Court either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties."

12. After going through Section 152 of CPC, this Court is of the considered view that in case of any type of bonafide error including typographical error in the order, same can be rectified at any stage under the provisions of Section 152 of CPC.

13. So far as acceptance of cost is concerned, in present facts of case, that will not create any estoppel in favour of petitioner for detailed reasons given in foregoing paragraph.

14. Learned counsel for petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of Krishna Kumar Khanna(Supra) which is not applicable in the present case as the facts are entirely different as in that matter, complete order has been challenged, but here in this case, only application has been filed for rectification of typographical error of order dated 09.12.2016.

15. Therefore, under such circumstances, this Court is of the firm view that earlier order dated 09.12.2016 is having typographical error and same has been rightly rectified vide order dated 16.03.2017 which was also affirmed by the Revisional Court vide its order dated 14.11.2017.

16. Accordingly, writ petition lacks merit and is dismissed.

17. No order as to costs.

18. Respondents are directed to refund double amount of cost i.e. Rs. 1,000/- to the petitioner within two weeks from the date of this order, which was earlier imposed vide order dated 09.12.2016.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh
Srivastava, J.)

(A) Civil Law - The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Amendment in Written Statement - Constitution of India - Article 227 - The Transfer of Property Act 1882 - Sections 106 - Notice to Quit, Section 114 - Relief Against Forfeiture for Non-Payment of Rent, Provincial Small Cause Courts Act - Section 25 - Relief under Section 114 of the Transfer of Property Act applies only where the lease is determined by forfeiture due to non-payment of rent, and not where tenancy is terminated by a simple notice under Section 106 of the Act. (Para 9, 10)

Petitioner (Tenant) faced eviction and recovery proceedings - filed a written statement - denying plaint averments - later sought to amend written statement - to incorporate a plea of protection under Section 114 of Transfer of Property Act - claiming arrears of rent and damages following termination of tenancy by a notice under Section 106 of Transfer of Property Act - claiming protection based on arrear deposits - revisional court - rejecting amendment application as unnecessary - prompted petitioner to challenge the order. (Paras - 2, 3, 4, 8)

HELD: - Proposed amendment being totally misconceived and unnecessary was rightly rejected by Revisional Court. There was no requirement of mentioning the Section 114 in the written statement. It was only essential to plead complete deposit as required under the Section. Complete pleadings had already been taken in the written statement filed by the petitioner. (Para -11,12)

1. Heard Shri Syed Wajid Ali, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri A.K. Pathak, learned counsel for the caveator-respondent no. 2.

2. The challenge in this petition, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, is to the order dated 08.01.2024 passed by the learned Additional District Judge/Court No. 6, Gorakhpur, in SCC Revision No. 38 of 2022 whereby and whereunder the amendment application moved by the petitioner seeking amendment in the written statement at the Revisional Stage has been rejected.

3. It is the case of the petitioner that he is a tenant in a premises let out to his deceased father in the year 2004 initially at Rs. 680/- per month subsequently enhanced to Rs. 1800/- per month. The premises is newly constructed and the provisions of the UP Act No. 13 of 1972 are not applicable. The landlord/respondents have instituted a SCC Suit, being SCC Suit No. 4 of 2015 for his eviction and recovery for arrears of rent and damages. The petitioner put in appearance in the proceedings and filed his written statement denying the plaint averments and specifically stating in para 22 of the written statement that on 28.03.2016 with the permission of the Court a sum of Rs. 33,000/- has been deposited and he has been depositing the rent for further months which is not being accepted by the landlord/respondents. Since the amount of Rs. 33,000/- stands deposited the petitioner is entitled to benefit of Section 20 (4) of the Act. The learned Judge Small Cause Court vide the judgment and order dated 12.04.2022 has decreed the suit directing the petitioner to handover vacant possession of the tenanted premises within 30 days and also pay rent @ Rs. 1080/- per month from the date of filing of the suit till the date of handing over of possession. The learned Judge Small Cause Court has also held that the provisions of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 does not apply. Aggrieved, the petitioner has filed a SCC Revision under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act which has been registered as SCC Revision No. 38 of 2022.

4. It is contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner has moved an application seeking amendment in the written statement by incorporating the plea that his tenancy is protected under Section 114 of the Transfer of Property Act as the entire arrears of rent and damages together with interest thereon amounting to Rs. 33,000/- has been got deposited. The amendment application has been rejected by the impugned order after contest by the landlord/respondents.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently argued that the rejection of the amendment application (paper No. 9A2) by the Revisional Court is patently erroneous and the same is liable to be set aside. The amendment sought for is purely legal in nature and does not change the nature of the relief sought in the suit or the stand taken in the written statement. The Revisional Court while rejecting the Amendment has simply rejected the amendment application only on the ground that it ought to have been filed before the Court of first instance and what ever reason that has been stated in the amendment application are not liable to be accepted, without recording any findings regarding any reasons that the proposed amendment was withdrawing an admission or that it was not necessary for deciding the real controversy involved in the matter between the parties. It is accordingly prayed that the impugned order be set aside and the amendment application be allowed. Reliance has been placed upon a decision of coordinate Bench reported in 2006 (3) ARC 329.

6. Per contra, Shri A.K. Pathak, learned counsel for the caveator/ landlord/respondents has opposed the petition by submitting that the petition as framed is misconceived and is liable to be dismissed at the threshold. No illegality or irregularity has been committed by the Revisional Court in rejecting the amendment application. The petition is devoid of merits and is liable to be rejected.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have perused the records.

8. From the averments made in the plaint it is borne out that the SCC Suit has been filed for eviction and for recovery of damages for use and occupation after terminating the tenancy by registered notice dated 04.03.2015 under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. The eviction has not been sought on the basis of default. The Provisions of the UP Act No. 13 of 1972 is stated to be not applicable and the learned Judge Small Cause Court has also proceeded to hold as such. In the written statement filed a defence has been taken in para 22 that a sum of Rs. 33,000/- vide Challan No. G-0300602 dated 28.03.2015 regarding the rent along with cost of the suit, interest etc. for the period April 2015 to April 2016 has been deposited. In para 27 of the written statement it has been stated that the provisions of UP Act No. 13 of 1972 are applicable and the tenant/petitioner is entitled to the benefit of section 20 (4) of the Act. In the memo of Revision the finding of the learned Judge Small Cause Court that the provisions of UP Act No. 13 of 1972 are not applicable has not been challenged though a ground has been taken that on the first date of hearing a sum of Rs. 33,000/- towards rent and cost of suit, interest has been got deposited and the rent every month is being deposited, no default has been committed and petitioner is entitled to the benefit of Section 20 (4) of the Act. By way of the amendment at the Revisional stage the tenant/ petitioner intended to incorporate the plea of protection of Section 114 of the Transfer of Property Act.

9. This takes the Court to dwell into the question as to whether benefit of Section 114 of Transfer of Property Act as sought to be claimed by the petitioner can be granted. Section 114 of the Transfer of Property Act is reads as under:

"114. Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent.-

Where a lease of immoveable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred."

10. From the perusal of the Provision 114 of the Transfer of Property Act it is apparent that it is attracted only where a lease of immovable property is determined by forfeiture and not otherwise. In the case at hand, the tenancy of the petitioner has been determined by means of a simple notice under Section 106 of Transfer of Property Act. There is neither a case for forfeiture of tenancy nor there is an agreement which is a prerequisite condition for the applicability of Section 114 of Transfer of Property Act. In the opinion of the Court and as is also borne out from the import of Section 114 of Transfer of Property Act itself Section 114 applies to those cases where the landlord invokes his rights under a forfeiture clause under the agreement and determines the lease by forfeiture and sues to eject the tenant on the ground of forfeiture of lease. Admittedly this is not the case at hand. The law in this regard has been laid down in numerous decisions of this Court some of them being 2000 (2) ACJ 1021, 2007 ACJ 2278, 2008 ACJ 2219 and 1996 (1) ACJ 454.

11. Thus the proposed amendment being totally misconceived and unnecessary was rightly rejected by the Revisional Court.

12. There is yet one other aspect of the matter. In the opinion of the Court there is no requirement of mentioning the Section 114 in the written statement and it is only essential to plead complete deposit as required under the Section. The Court finds that complete pleadings in this regard has already been taken in the written statement filed by the petitioner.

13. In this view of the matter also the proposed amendment is totally unwarranted.

14. For the above reasons the Court finds no merit in the petition. It is accordingly dismissed.

15. No order as to costs.

1. The instant writ application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed by the State of Uttar Pradesh (hereinafter referred to as the 'Petitioner No. 1') against the order dated May 17, 2022 passed by the Additional District & Sessions Judge, Bijnor. A further challenge has been laid to the orders dated July 21, 2022 and August 2, 2022 passed by the Commercial Court, Moradabad.

FACTS

2. I have laid down the factual matrix leading to the instant appeal below:

a. Petitioner No. 1 and Shri Raj Veer Singh (hereinafter referred to as the 'Respondent') entered into a contract for construction of cross drainage, siphon at

b. Disputes arose between the parties in terms of the aforesaid contract. Accordingly, in term of the Clause 42 & 43 of the contract between the parties, these disputes were referred to arbitration.

c. Shri A.K. Gupta, Sole Arbitrator passed the arbitral award on December 12, 2013. Against the said arbitral award, the Petitioner No. 1 preferred an application under Section 34 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') before the District Judge, Bijnor. The said application was rejected vide order dated April 9, 2014.

d. The Petitioner No. 1 filed a first appeal before this Court against the order of the District Judge, Bijnor. However, the said first appeal was dismissed by this Court vide order dated December 22, 2016. A Special Leave Petition under Article 136 of the Constitution of India was also preferred by the Petitioner No. 1 before the Hon'ble Supreme Court which was dismissed on the ground of delay vide order dated November 2, 2018. Review petition filed by the Petitioner No. 1 against the order dated November 2, 2018 was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on January 15, 2019.

e. Thereafter, an execution application was filed in the year 2019 by the Respondent under Section 36 of the Act. On May 17, 2022, the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Bijnor passed an order in the said execution application directing the State Bank of India, Main Branch Nazeebababad, Bijnor to cease the bank account of Executive Engineer, Madhya Ganga Canal Construction Division – 7 Bijnor and not to permit withdrawal from the said account.

f. Subsequently, the execution application filed by the Respondent was transferred to Commercial Court, Moradabad. The Commercial Court, Moradabad vide its order dated July 21, 2022 directed the Petitioner No. 1 to ensure the payment of the awarded amount along with interest on or before August 10, 2022.

g. Petitioner No. 1 preferred an objection in under Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the 'CPC, 1908') in the year 2022 before the Commercial Court, Moradabad which was rejected vide order dated August 2, 2022.

h. Aggrieved by the order dated May 17, 2022 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Bijnor and the orders dated July 21, 2022, and August 2, 2022 passed by the Commercial Court, Moradabad, the Petitioners have filed the instant writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India before this Court.

CONTENTIONS OF THE PETITIONERS

3. Sri Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General appearing for the petitioners has made the following submissions on behalf of the Petitioners:

i. The Chief Engineer vide letter dated July 26, 2011 had forward the names of three superintending engineers who were not associated with the work under the contract to the Respondent for choosing anyone of them to be appointed as the sole arbitrator. However, the Respondent vide its letters dated August 4, 2011, and August 8, 2011 informed the Petitioner No. 1 that it has chosen the name of the Shri A.K. Singh to be appointed as the Sole Arbitrator from its own list which was sent by it to the Petitioner No. 1 on July 23, 2011.

ii. The said action of the Respondent of nominating the name of Sole Arbitrator of its own choice and from its own list was contrary to the arbitration clause contained between the parties. The name of Shri A.K. Singh was neither mentioned in the list sent by the Chief Engineer vide its letter dated July 26, 2011, nor was it accepted by the Petitioner No. 1 at any stage. Several objections were raised before Shri A.K. Singh, Sole Arbitrator with regard to his appointment but the same were rejected by him. Thereafter, the Sole Arbitrator continued to proceed with the arbitration in an arbitrary manner and gave the final award on December 12, 2013 in favour of the Respondent.

iii. The Award passed on December 12, 2013 by Shri A.K. Singh, Sole Arbitrator is without jurisdiction, tainted with fraud and unexecutable. The Commercial Court, Moradabad committed a manifest error in not deciding the objection filed by the Petitioners No. 1 under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 on its merit.

iv. Even though an arbitral award may not be a decree passed by a court but it is to be enforced in accordance with the provisions of the CPC, 1908. Therefore, for the limited purpose of the enforcement under Section 36 of the Act, an arbitral award has to be executed like a decree of the Court. Reliance is placed in this regard on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sundaram Finance Ltd. v. Abdul Samad and Another reported in (2018) 3 SCC 622, Board of Control for Cricket in India v. Kochi Cricket Pvt. Ltd. and Ors. reported in (2018) 6 SCC 287, Kanpur Jal Sansthan and Anr. v. Bapu Constructions reported in (2015) 5 SCC 267, Leela Hotels Limited v. Housing and Urban Development Corporation Ltd. reported in (2012) 1 SCC 302, Mahangar Telephone Nigam Ltd. v. Applied Electronics Ltd. reported in (2017) 2 SCC 37, ITI Ltd. v. Seimens Public Communication Network Ltd. reported in (2002) 5 SCC 510, M. Anasuya Devi and Anr. v. M. Manik Reddy and Ors. reported in (2003) (8) SCC 565, N.S.S. Narayana Sarma and Ors. v. M/s. Goldstone Export (P) Ltd. and Ors. reported in AIR 2022 SC 251, Union of India and Ors. v. Manager, M/s. Jain and Associates reported in (2001) 3 SCC 277, the Allahabad High Court in Magma Leasing v. Badri Vishal and Ors. reported in 2021 SCC OnLine All and GE Money Financial Services Ltd. v. Mohd. Azaz and Another reported in 2013(7) ADJ (DB-LB), the Bombay High Court in Jaiman Shah v. Ilia Pandya reported in 2001(2) MHLJ 297, the Chattisgarh High Court in M/s. R.S. Bajwa & Co. v. State of Chhattisgarh, and the Kerala High Court in M/s. India Cement Capital Ltd. v. William and Ors. reported in 2015 SCC OnLine Ker 24805.

v. Whenever objections are filed under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 then the same are required to be decided on merits. It is a settled proposition of law that fraud cannot be waived and neither the Court under Section 34 of the Act and nor this Court under Section 37 of the Act decided the issue of fraud. It is correct that Explanation-1 to Section 34(2)(b) of the Act treats fraud to be as an element against public policy of India but when the Court under Section 34 of the Act has not dealt with the said objection, it is trite that the same requires examination at any stage of the proceedings. Therefore, in terms of the settled law by the Hon'ble Supreme Court the issue of fraud can be brought before the Hon'ble Court at any stage of the proceedings in as much as the same is based upon the principle that fraud vitiates even the most solemn acts. Fraud coupled with corruption is an insignia of disentitlement under a decree thereby making it unexecutable. Hence, objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 are required to be decided on merits and so long as the said objections are not decided on merit neither the account can remain frozen nor assets of the Petitioner No. 1 can remain under attachment. Public at large cannot be made to suffer and that too when it is more than evident that the Respondent colluded with not only the officers of the Petitioner No. 1 but nominated a Senior Officer of the Petitioner No. 1 as the Sole Arbitrator who passed the award of his choice. Reliance is placed upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shreenath and Anr. v. Rajesh and Ors. reported in AIR 1998 SC 1827 and United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rajendra Singh and Ors. reported in (2000) 3 SCC 581.

vi. It is a well settled law that if a decree is tainted by fraud and is without jurisdiction, the objection under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 stating that the decree is not executable ought to be decided on merit so that justice can be done. Reliance is placed upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kohinoor Transporters v. State of U.P. reported in (2018) 18

SCC 165, Bank of Baroda v. Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. reported in (2020) 17 SCC 798, and Punjab State Civil Supplies Corporation Ltd. and Anr. v. Atwal Rice and General Mills reported in (2017) 8 SCC 116.

vii. In view of the aforesaid the instant writ petition must be allowed and the impugned orders must be set aside by this Court.

CONTENTIONS OF THE RESPONDENT

4. Sri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the Respondent has made the following submissions:

i. Execution proceedings under Section 36 of the Act are for the enforcement of an arbitral award and since an arbitral award cannot be treated as a decree passed by a civil court, hence objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 are not maintainable under Section 36 of the Act. Reliance is placed upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Paramjeet Singh Patheja v. ICDS Ltd. reported in (2006) 13 SCC 322, Union of India v. Vedanta reported in (2020) 10 SCC 1, State of Karnataka v. State of Tamil Nadu reported in (2017) 3 SCC 274, Pam Developments Pvt. Ltd. v. State of West Bengal reported in (2019) 8 SCC 112, and the High Court for the State of Telangana in M/s. M.S.R. Enterprises v. M/s. Pooja Enterprises (Civil Revision Petition No. 1571 of 2021).

ii. All objections with regard to fraud or jurisdiction can be decided by an appropriate court under Section 34 of the Act. Moreover, once all the issues have been decided by an appropriate court under Section 34 of the Act and the same having attained finality after rejection of appeal under Section 37 of the Act, the award cannot be objected or reconsidered at the stage of enforcement under Section 36 of the Act.

5. I have heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties and perused the materials on record.

6. Since the primary question involved in the instant writ petition revolves around the applicability of Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 to execution proceedings under Section 36 of the Act, I shall deal with the same first. Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 is extracted below:

“47. Questions to be determined by the Court executing decree.—(1) All questions arising between the parties to the suit in which the decree was passed, or their representatives, and relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree, shall be determined by the Court executing the decree and not by a separate suit.

(3) Where a question arises as to whether any person is or is not the representative of a party, such question shall, for the purposes of this section, be determined by the Court.

[Explanation I.—For the purposes of this section, a plaintiff whose suit has been dismissed and a defendant against whom a suit has been dismissed are parties to the suit.

Explanation II.—(a) For the purposes of this section, a purchaser of property at a sale in execution of a decree shall be deemed to be a party to the suit in which the decree is passed; and (b) all questions relating to the delivery of possession of such property to such purchaser or his representative shall be deemed to be questions relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree within the meaning of this section.]”

7. What is evident from the bare text of Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 is that, it delineates the jurisdiction of the court executing a decree and outlines the scope within which questions relating to the parties to the suit, or their representatives, or relating to the execution, discharge, or satisfaction of the decree, are to be determined.

8. The scope of Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 was explained by the Hon’ble Supreme Court recently in its judgment in Pradeep Mehra v. Harjivan J. Jethwa reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1395 (Coram: Sanjay Kishan Kaul and Sudhanshu Dhulia, JJ.). Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

“10. A bare perusal of the aforesaid provision shows that all questions between the parties can be decided by the executing court. But the important aspect to remember is that these questions are limited to the “execution of the decree”. The executing court can never go behind the decree. Under Section 47, CPC the executing court cannot examine the validity of the order of the court which had allowed the execution of the decree in 2013, unless the court's order is itself without jurisdiction. More importantly this order (the order dated

11. The multiple stages a civil suit invariably has to go through before it reaches finality, is to ensure that any error in law is cured by the higher court. The appellate court, the second appellate court and the revisional court do not have the same powers, as the powers of the executing court, which are extremely limited. This was explained by this Court in Dhurandhar Prasad Singh v. Jai Prakash University, (2001) 6 SCC 534, in para 24, it had stated thus:

“24. The exercise of powers under Section 47 of the Code is microscopic and lies in a very narrow inspection hole. Thus, it is plain that executing court can allow objection under Section 47 of the Code to the executability of the decree if it is found that the same is void ab initio and a nullity, apart from the ground that the decree is not capable of execution under law either because the same was passed in ignorance of such a provision of law or the law was promulgated making a decree inexecutable after its passing.”

12. This Court noted further:

“..... The validity or otherwise of a decree may be challenged by filing a properly constituted suit or taking any other remedy available under law on the ground that the original defendant absented himself from the proceeding of the suit after appearance as he had no longer any interest in the subject of dispute or did not purposely take interest in the proceeding or colluded with the adversary or any other ground permissible under law.

13. The reality is that pure civil matters take a long time to be decided, and regretfully it does not end with a decision, as execution of a decree is an entirely new phase in the long life of a civil litigation. The inordinate delay, which is universally caused throughout India in the execution of a decree, has been a cause of concern with this Court for several years. In Rahul S. Shah v. Jinendra Kumar Gandhi, (2021) 6 SCC 418, this Court had observed that a remedy which is provided for preventing injustice (in the Civil Procedure Code) is in fact being misused to cause injustice by preventing timely implementation of orders and execution of decrees. Then, it had observed as under:

“23. The execution proceedings which are supposed to be a handmaid of justice and subserve the cause of justice are, in effect, becoming tools which are being easily misused to obstruct justice.”

14. The above judgment is an important judgment in respect of Section 47 as well as Order XXI, CPC as the three Judge Bench decision of this Court not only condemned the abuse of process done in the garb of exercise of powers under Section 47 read with Order XXI, CPC, but also gave certain directions to be followed by all Civil Courts in their exercise of powers in the execution of a decree. It further directed all the High Courts to update and amend their Rules relating to the execution of decrees so that the decrees are executed in a timely manner. As far as Section 47 is concerned, this Court had stated as under:

“24. In respect of execution of a decree, Section 47 CPC contemplates adjudication of limited nature of issues relating to execution i.e. discharge or satisfaction of the decree and is aligned with the consequential provisions of Order 21 CPC. Section 47 is intended to prevent multiplicity of suits. It simply lays down the procedure and the form whereby the court reaches a decision. For the applicability of the section, two essential requisites have to be kept in mind. Firstly, the question must be the one arising between the parties and secondly, the dispute relates to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree. Thus, the objective of Section 47 is to prevent unwanted litigation and dispose of all objections as expeditiously as possible.

25. These provisions contemplate that for execution of decrees, executing court must not go beyond the decree. However, there is steady rise of proceedings akin to a retrial at the time of execution causing failure of realisation of fruits of decree and relief which the party seeks from the courts despite there being a decree in their favour. Experience has shown that various objections are filed before the executing court and the decree-holder is deprived of the fruits of the litigation and the judgment-debtor, in abuse of process of law, is allowed to benefit from the subject-matter which he is otherwise not entitled to.

26. The general practice prevailing in the subordinate courts is that invariably in all execution applications, the courts first issue show-cause notice asking the judgment-debtor as to why the decree should not be executed as is given under Order 21 Rule 22 for certain class of cases. However, this is often misconstrued as the beginning of a new trial. For example, the judgment-debtor sometimes misuses the provisions of Order 21 Rule 2 and Order

21 Rule 11 to set up an oral plea, which invariably leaves no option with the court but to record oral evidence which may be frivolous. This drags the execution proceedings indefinitely.”

15. This Court then gave certain directions, which were to be mandatorily followed by all Courts dealing with civil suits and execution proceedings. Two of its directions were as follows:

“42.8. The court exercising jurisdiction under Section 47 or under Order 21 CPC, must not issue notice on an application of third party claiming rights in a mechanical manner. Further, the court should refrain from entertaining any such application(s) that has already been considered by the court while adjudicating the suit or which raises any such issue which otherwise could have been raised and determined during adjudication of suit if due diligence was exercised by the applicant.

42.12. The executing court must dispose of the execution proceedings within six months from the date of filing, which may be extended only by recording reasons in writing for such delay.”

16. It further directed all the High Courts to update their Rules relating to execution of decrees. It was as under:

“43. We further direct all the High Courts to reconsider and update all the Rules relating to execution of decrees, made under exercise of its powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and Section 122 CPC, within one year of the date of this order. The High Courts must ensure that the Rules are in consonance with CPC and the above directions, with an endeavour to expedite the process of execution with the use of information technology tools. Until such time these Rules are brought into existence, the above directions shall remain enforceable.”

9. Through various judicial pronouncements, the Hon’ble Supreme Court has underscored that while the executing court has authority to decide all questions arising between the parties, its jurisdiction is confined to matters pertaining to the execution of the decree. An executing court cannot delve in the validity of a decree unless it lacks jurisdiction. This principle is crucial in maintaining the finality of decrees. Powers of the executing court are inherently limited compared to appellate or revisional courts. As elucidated by the Hon’ble Supreme Court in Dhurandhar Prasad Singh v. Jai Prakash University reported in (2001) 6 SCC 534 (Coram: G.B. Pattanaik and B.N. Agrawal, JJ.) the executing court’s role is akin to “a microscopic inspection hole” focusing solely on the executability of the decree.

10. Courts must exercise caution and diligence when adjudicating objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908. The consequences of erroneously allowing or disallowing objections can have far-reaching implications for the parties involved and may undermine the integrity of the execution process. The limited scope of the executing court’s jurisdiction under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 requires a precise delineation of the issues that fall within its purview. Courts must ensure that objections pertain solely to matters concerning execution, discharge, or satisfaction of the decree and do not encroach upon substantive rights or legal issues beyond the decree’s scope. Courts must also be mindful of the principle of finality of decrees when adjudicating objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908. Decrees represent the final determination of the rights and liabilities of the parties, and objections seeking to reopen issues already decided may undermine the principle of finality.

11. Courts need to balance the need for expeditious resolution of execution proceedings with the principles of fairness and due process. While efficiency is essential in the administration of justice, courts must afford parties a reasonable opportunity to present their case and be heard on matters relevant to the execution process. Rushing through objections without adequate consideration of the parties’ submissions may result in miscarriage of justice and undermine the credibility of the judicial process.

12. However, there is also a need to guard against the misuse of objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 as a means to delay or obstruct the execution process. Parties may resort to frivolous or dilatory objections in an attempt to prolong proceedings or gain tactical advantage. Courts must exercise vigilance in identifying and dismissing such objections to ensure expeditious and effective enforcement of decrees.

13. Having dealt with the scope of Section 47 of the CPC, 1908, this Court will now deal with the applicability of Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 to execution of arbitral awards under Section 36 of the Act.

14. Section 36 of the Act which governs the execution of the arbitral awards is extracted below for ease of reference:

“36. Enforcement.—(1) Where the time for making an application to set aside the arbitral award under Section 34 has expired, then, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), such award shall be enforced in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), in the same manner as if it were a decree of the court.

(2) Where an application to set aside the arbitral award has been filed in the court under Section 34, the filing of such an application shall not by itself render that award unenforceable, unless the court grants an order of stay of the operation of the said arbitral award in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3), on a separate application made for that purpose.

(3) Upon filing of an application under sub-section (2) for stay of the operation of the arbitral award, the court may, subject to such conditions as it may deem fit, grant stay of the operation of such award for reasons to be recorded in writing:

Provided that the court shall, while considering the application for grant of stay in the case of an arbitral award for payment of money, have due regard to the provisions for grant of stay of a money decree under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908):]

[Provided further that where the Court is satisfied that a prima facie case is made out that,—

(a) the arbitration agreement or contract which is the basis of the award; or

(b) the making of the award, was induced or effected by fraud or corruption, it shall stay the award unconditionally pending disposal of the challenge under Section 34 to the award.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby clarified that the above proviso shall apply to all court cases arising out of or in relation to arbitral proceedings, irrespective of whether the arbitral or court proceedings were commenced prior to or after the commencement of the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Act, 2015.]”

15. The phrase that lies at the centre of the instant dispute is the one which provides that an arbitral award will be “enforced in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), in the same manner as if it were a decree of the court.” The question which arises is that although Section 36 of the Act, provides for the execution of arbitral awards as if they were a decree of the court, do they acquire the similar status as that of a decree passed by a civil court?

16. The language of a statute serves as the cornerstone of statutory interpretation, providing the framework within which courts must construe and apply the law. It is through the words and phrases used in a statute that the Legislature communicates its intentions. The principle that the language of a statute is the determinative factor of legislative intent reflects the fundamental tenet of statutory interpretation that courts must give effect to the plain meaning of the statutory language. This principle is rooted in the doctrine of legislative supremacy, which holds that the Legislature is the supreme authority in the enactment of laws. As such, courts are obligated to interpret statutes in accordance with the ordinary and natural meaning of the words used, absent clear evidence of legislative intent to the contrary.

17. Moreover, the plain meaning rule serves to safeguard the separation of powers and preserve the integrity of the legislative process. By respecting the language chosen by the Legislature, courts refrain from encroaching upon the legislative domain and usurping the role of the legislature. Instead, they defer to the democratic process and give effect to the will of the legislature as expressed through the text of the statute.

18. In Nagar Palika Nigam v. Krishi Upaj Mandi Samiti and Ors. reported in (2008) 12 SCC 364 (Coram: Dr Arijit Pasayat, P. Sathasivam and Aftab Alam, JJ.) the Hon'ble Supreme Court propounded that the intention of the legislature is to be gauged from the language used in a statute and attention must be paid to what has been said and also to what has not been said. Relevant portion from the aforesaid judgment is extracted below –

“17. Words and phrases are symbols that stimulate mental references to referents. The object of interpreting a statute is to ascertain the intention of the legislature enacting it. (See Institute of Chartered Accountants of India v. Price Waterhouse [(1997) 6 SCC 312 : AIR 1998 SC 74] .) The intention of the legislature is primarily to be gathered from the language used, which means that attention should be paid to what has been said as also to what has not been said. As a consequence, a construction which requires for its support, addition or substitution of words or which results in rejection of words as meaningless has to be avoided. As observed in Crawford v. Spooner [(1846) 6 Moo PC

1 : 13 ER 582] , courts cannot aid the legislatures' defective phrasing of an Act, we cannot add or mend, and by construction make up deficiencies which are left there. (See State of Gujarat v. Dilipbhai Nathjibhai Patel [(1998) 3 SCC 234 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 737 : JT (1998) 2 SC 253] .) It is contrary to all rules of construction to read words into an Act unless it is absolutely necessary to do so. [See Stock v. Frank Jones (Tipton) Ltd. [(1978) 1 WLR 231 : (1978) 1 All ER 948 (HL)]] Rules of interpretation do not permit courts to do so, unless the provision as it stands is meaningless or of doubtful meaning. Courts are not entitled to read words into an Act of Parliament unless clear reason for it is to be found within the four corners of the Act itself. (Per Lord Loreburn, L.C. in Vickers Sons and Maxim Ltd. v. Evans [1910 AC 444 (HL)] quoted in Jumma Masjid v. Kodimaniandra Deviah [AIR 1962 SC 847] .)

18. The question is not what may be supposed and has been intended but what has been said. 'Statutes should be construed, not as theorems of Euclid', Judge Learned Hand said, 'but words must be construed with some imagination of the purposes which lie behind them'. (See Lenigh Valley Coal Co. v. Yensavage [218 FR 547] .) The view was reiterated in Union of India v. Filip Tiago De Gama of Vedem Vasco De Gama [(1990) 1 SCC 277 : AIR 1990 SC 981] (SCC p. 284, para 16).

19. In D.R. Venkatachalam v. Transport Commr. [(1977) 2 SCC 273 : AIR 1977 SC 842] it was observed that courts must avoid the danger of a priori determination of the meaning of a provision based on their own preconceived notions of ideological structure or scheme into which the provision to be interpreted is somewhat fitted. They are not entitled to usurp legislative function under the disguise of interpretation.

20. While interpreting a provision the court only interprets the law and cannot legislate it. If a provision of law is misused and subjected to the abuse of the process of law, it is for the legislature to amend, modify or repeal it, if deemed necessary. (See CST v. Popular Trading Co. [(2000) 5 SCC 511]) The legislative casus omissus cannot be supplied by judicial interpretative process.

21. Two principles of construction—one relating to casus omissus and the other in regard to reading the statute as a whole—appear to be well settled. Under the first principle a casus omissus cannot be supplied by the court except in the case of clear necessity and when reason for it is found in the four corners of the statute itself but at the same time a casus omissus should not be readily inferred and for that purpose all the parts of a statute or section must be construed together and every clause of a section should be construed with reference to the context and other clauses thereof so that the construction to be put on a particular provision makes a consistent enactment of the whole statute. This would be more so if literal construction of a particular clause leads to manifestly absurd or anomalous results which could not have been intended by the legislature. ‘An intention to produce an unreasonable result’, said Danckwerts, L.J., in Artemiou v. Procopiou [(1966) 1 QB 878 : (1965) 3 WLR 1011 : (1965) 3 All ER 539 (CA)] (All ER p. 544 I), ‘is not to be imputed to a statute if there is some other construction available’. Where to apply words literally would ‘defeat the obvious intention of the legislation and produce a wholly unreasonable result’, we must ‘do some violence to the words’ and so achieve that obvious intention and produce a rational construction. [Per Lord Reid in Luke v. IRC [1963 AC 557 : (1963) 2 WLR 559 : (1963) 1 All ER 655 (HL)] where at AC p. 577 he also observed (All ER p. 664 I): ‘This is not a new problem, though our standard of drafting is such that it rarely emerges.’]

22. It is then true that, ‘when the words of a law extend not to an inconvenience rarely happening, but due to those which often happen, it is good reason not to strain the words further than they reach, by saying it is casus omissus, and that the law intended quae frequentius accidunt’. ‘But’, on the other hand, ‘it is no reason, when the words of a law do enough extend to an inconvenience seldom happening, that they should not extend to it as well as if it happened more frequently, because it happens but seldom’ (see Fenton v. Hampton [(1858) 11 Moo PC 347 : 14 ER 727]).

A casus omissus ought not to be created by interpretation, save in some case of strong necessity. Where, however, a casus omissus does really occur, either through the inadvertence of the legislature, or on the principle quod semel aut bis existit proetereunt leges, the rule is that the particular case, thus left unprovided for, must be disposed of according to the law as it existed before such statute — casus omissus et oblivioni datus dispositioni communis juris relinquitur; ‘a casus omissus’, observed Buller, J. in Jones v. Smart [(1785) 1 TR 44 : 99 ER 963] (ER p. 967), ‘can in no case be supplied by a court of law, for that would be to make laws'.

23. The golden rule for construing wills, statutes, and, in fact, all written instruments has been thus stated:

'... the grammatical and ordinary sense of the words is to be adhered to, unless that would lead to some absurdity or some repugnance or inconsistency with the rest of the instrument, in which case the grammatical and ordinary sense of the words may be modified so as to avoid that absurdity or inconsistency, but no further.' (See Grey v. Pearson [(1843-60) All ER Rep 21 : (1857) 6 HL Cas 61] , All ER p. 36 H-I.)

*The latter part of this 'golden rule' must, however, be applied with much caution. 'If', remarked Jervis, C.J., 'the precise words used are plain and unambiguous, in our judgment, we are bound to construe them in their ordinary sense, even though it do lead, in our view of the case, to an absurdity or manifest injustice. Words may be modified or varied, where their import is doubtful or obscure. But we assume the functions of legislators when we depart from the ordinary meaning of the precise words used, merely because we see, or fancy we see, an absurdity or manifest injustice from an adherence to their literal meaning'. (See Abley v. Dale [(1851) 11 CB 378 : 138 ER 519] , ER p. 525.)*

24. At this juncture, it would be necessary to take note of a maxim 'ad ea quae frequentius accidunt jura adaptantur' (the laws are adapted to those cases which more frequently occur)."

Abraham Umarji v. State of Gujarat [(2004) 6 SCC 672 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 1815] (SCC pp. 679-82, paras 10-24)."

19. While the plain meaning rule provides a starting point for statutory interpretation, it is not an absolute principle and must be applied judiciously in light of the broader context and purpose of the statute. As Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes famously remarked, "A word is not a crystal, transparent and unchanged; it is the skin of a living thought and may vary greatly in colour and content according to the circumstances and the time in which it is used."

20. To conclude, while the language of a statute serves as the primary means by which legislative intent is communicated and realized, this principle must be applied judiciously in light of the broader context and purpose of the statute, recognizing that statutes are part of a larger legal framework shaped by legislative purpose and policy objectives.

21. The phrase "as if it were a decree of the Court" occurring in Section 36 of the Act needs to be interpreted in light of the principles discussed above. The phrase "as if it were" is a construction used in language to suggest a hypothetical scenario or condition, implying that something is being treated or considered in a manner akin to a particular situation, even if it is not actually the case. It is often employed to convey a comparison or analogy between two different states or circumstances. When used in legal or formal contexts, "as if it were" indicates that a particular statement or action is being treated as if it were true, even though it may not be factually accurate. This can be useful in scenarios where a hypothetical situation needs to be imagined or simulated for analytical or augmentative purposes. The phrase “as if it were” might be used to establish a legal fiction or presumption, where a certain condition or event is deemed to exist for the purpose of legal analysis, even if it does not actually exist in reality.

22. Under Section 36 of the Act, the phrase “as if it were” conveys the idea of treating the arbitral award in a manner analogous to a court decree, despite the fact that it is not actually a decree issued by a court. By employing this language, Section 36 of the Act establishes a legal fiction or presumption, whereby the arbitral award is deemed to possess certain characteristics and legal effects akin to those of a court decree. Essentially, it means that once the time limit for challenging the arbitral award has expired, the award is to be enforced through the same procedures and mechanisms as a court decree under the CPC, 1908. This includes the execution of the award through the court’s enforcement powers, such as attachment of property, or other coercive measures. By equating the arbitral award with a court decree, “as if it were” one, Section 36 of the Act extends certain privileges and protections afforded to court decrees to arbitral awards. For example, the arbitral award becomes immune from collateral attack or challenge on the grounds that could have been raised during the arbitration proceedings or in a subsequent application to set aside the arbitral award under Section 34 of the Act. By affording arbitral awards a status akin to court decrees for enforcement purposes, Section 36 of the Act encourages parties to arbitration agreements to abide by the arbitration process and accept the resulting awards as binding and enforceable.

23. In India Oil Corporation Ltd. and Anr. v. Commercial Court and Anr. reported in 2023 SCC OnLine All 809 (Coram: Neeraj Tiwari, J.) this Court held that an arbitral award is not a decree and objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 would not be maintainable against an arbitral award. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted herein:

“46. Again the very same issue of filing of objection under Section 47 of CPC came before this Court in the matter of Bharat Pumps and Compressors Ltd. (supra) and Court following the ratio of law laid down by this Court in the matter of Larsen & Tubro Limited (Supra) has held as follows:—

“22. The Arbitration Act, 1940 is self-contained, complete code and section 17 thereof is in pari-materia with section 36 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996. Section 20 thereof, provides for challenging the appointment of an Arbitrator. The revisionist never challenged appointment of the Arbitrator under section 20 thereof. Sections 30/33 and 37 of the Arbitration Act, 1940, read with Article 119 of the Limitation Act, give provision for an application to be filed within 30 days of notice of award; however, no such application within the said period was filed by the revisionist.

23. The arbitration award by way of friction is executed as decree, but it is not a decree as defined under section 2(2) of CPC and therefore, the objection under section 47 of CPC, which was filed only in execution of decree (as defined under section 2(2) CPC), is not maintainable in the proceedings seeking execution of award.”

47. This Court has again taken view that arbitral award is not a decree under Section 2(2) of CPC, therefore, objection filed under Section 47 of CPC is not maintainable.

48. To conclude this point on the basis of undisputed fact, objection under Section 47 of CPC filed against the arbitral award is not maintainable as the same is not a decree under Section 2(2) of CPC. Further, arbitral award can be executed invoking Section 36 of New Act, 1996 alongwith the provisions of CPC in the same manner as if it is decree of the Court.”

24. In Hindustan Zinc Ltd. v. National Research Development Corporation reported in 2023 SCC OnLine Del 330 (Coram: Yashwant Varma, J.) the Delhi High Court held that since objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 are not available in proceedings under Section 36 of the Act, challenge to an arbitral award on its merits cannot be permitted under Section 36 of the Act:

“20. Mahanagar Telephone, assumes significance in light of the emphasis which was laid by the Supreme Court on Section 5 of the Act and the enactment itself being liable to be construed and understood as being a comprehensive legislation governing all aspects of arbitral proceedings. The Court deems it apposite to lay emphasis on the above since the acceptance of the contention as advanced by learned counsel for the objector would essentially amount to recognizing a right inhering in the objector to challenge or question the award on its merits in proceedings which stand restricted to enforcement and execution. That cannot possibly be permitted in light of the plain command of Section 36 of the Act. It would be pertinent to note that the Act envisages a challenge to an arbitral award being mounted solely within the contours of Section 34. Section 34 not only constructs the forum but also creates the right to question an arbitral award on grounds specified in that provision itself. This is manifest from the use of the expression “only if....” as occurring in Section 34(2). Accepting the contention of learned counsel for the objector that a challenge to the award on merits would also be permissible in proceedings referable to Section 36 would clearly amount to recognizing the same being an avenue available to be invoked in addition to the limited right which stands conferred by Section 34. Bearing in mind the principal objectives of the Act as well as the legislative policy underlying Sections 34 and 36, the Court finds itself unable to countenance the submission as addressed at the behest of the objector.

21. It would be pertinent to note that Order XXI of the Code compendiously deals with the subject relating to execution of decrees. Those provisions extend from attachment of properties to sale and auction thereof. It also envisages the trial of questions that may arise in the course of execution as would be evident from the various provisions contained in that chapter such as Order XXI Rule 46C as well as Rules 58 to 63 and 101. As this Court reads those provisions, they clearly appear to be restricted to questions that would be indelibly connected with actions and steps that may be taken by a court in the course of execution of a decree. Even those provisions cannot possibly be construed as extending to a challenge to the validity or correctness of the original judgment and decree that may be rendered.

While it may be open the Court to draw sustenance and guidance from the principles underlying the provisions contained in Order XXI in the course of enforcement of an arbitral award, it would be wholly incorrect to understand or interpret Section 36 as envisaging the adoption of its various provisions. The principles which inform the various provisions of Order XXI can at best only act as a guide for the trial of various questions that may arise in the span of enforcement of an arbitral award.

22. In summation, it must be held that a challenge to an award on the ground that it is a “nullity” or is otherwise illegal can be addressed only in proceedings that may be initiated in accordance with Section 34 of the Act. The grounds on which an award can possibly be assailed are comprehensively set out in Section 34(2). A challenge mounted on those lines in proceedings duly instituted under Section 34 alone can be recognised to be the remedy available to a judgment debtor. The Act neither envisages nor sanctions a dual or independent challenge to an award based on the various facets of nullity as legally recognised being laid in enforcement proceedings. The conclusion of the Court in this respect stands fortified from a conjoint reading of Sections 5, 35 and 36 of the Act as well as the precedents noticed hereinabove. The aforesaid statement of the law would necessarily be subject to the caveat which is liable to be entered in respect of foreign awards and which are governed by Part II of the Act. Insofar as enforcement proceedings are concerned, while the Court would be obliged to deal with all questions that may relate to or arise out of steps that may be taken in the course of execution, it would be wholly incorrect to understand the scope of those proceedings as extending to the trial of questions touching upon the merits of the award.

23. Accordingly, and for all the aforesaid reasons, the Court comes to conclude that the challenge to the award on merits as is sought to be raised by learned counsel for the objector cannot be countenanced in these enforcement proceedings in light of the observations as made hereinabove. The objection to the enforcement of the arbitral award on that score is consequently negated.”

25. Recently, in Sanjay Agarwal v. Rahul Agarwal reported in 2024 SCC OnLine All 149 (Coram: Alok Mathur, J.) this Court reiterated that a party aggrieved by an arbitral award is barred in law to challenge the validity or legality of the award at the stage of execution under Section 36 of the Act. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

“31. Analyzing the above decisions, it is now well settled that once an award is passed by the Arbitrator, any party aggrieved by the award is required to challenge the award in accordance with the procedure provided under the Act of 1996 including the issue relating to the jurisdiction of the Arbitrator, which such issue however, should be raised before the Arbitrator under Section 16 of the Act, 1996. Therefore, a party, aggrieved by the award, not having taken any of the measures provided in the Act, 1996, is barred in law to challenge the validity or legality of the award at the execution stage when such award is put into execution under Section 36 of the Act, 1996. Thus, the application filed by the opposite party under Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure challenging the legality and/or validity of the award on diverse grounds, was not maintainable, and thus the District Judge did not commit any illegality by rejecting the same.”

26. In Bellary Nirmithi Kendra v. M/s Capital Metal Industries (C.R.P. No. 100067 of 2022) (Coram: C.M. Poonacha, J.) the Kerala High Court held that recourse to Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 cannot be taken in execution proceedings under Section 36 of the Act. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

“30. Although it is the vehement contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that having regard to Section 36 of the Act of 1996 the award passed under the provisions of the Act of 1996 is to be treated as a decree and Section 47 of the CPC could be invoked, it is relevant to note that having regard to Section 36(1) of the Act of 1996, the award passed under the provisions of the said Act is required to be construed as a decree only for the purpose of enforcement of the same and it is not open to the petitioner to invoke Section 47 of the CPC before the executing Court.

31. Having regard to the judgments of the Hon’ble Supreme Court in the cases of Paramjeet Singh Patheja , Morgan Securities , Vedanta Limited, this Court is in complete agreement with the view expressed in Larsen and Tubro as well as State of Tripura and in view of the said authoritative pronouncements, it is clear that the petitioner cannot take recourse of Section 47 of the CPC in the execution proceedings initiated by the respondent.”

27. In Cholamandalam Investment and Finance Company Ltd. -v- Amrapali

Enterprises and Another reported in 2023 SCC OnLine Cal, I had outlined that there is no scope for adverse interference with an arbitral award under Section 36 of the Act. Relevant paragraph reads as under:

“18. There is no denying the fact that the Act is a complete code in itself and at the same time, it is equally true that Section 36 provides no scope of adverse interference with an arbitral award except executing it as a decree of the court. While Section 47 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the ‘CPC’) governs the challenge to a court decree at the execution stage, there is no such similar provision provided in the Act.....”

What emerges from the aforesaid judgments is that an arbitral award is not a decree as defined under Section 2(2) of the CPC, 1908. Therefore, objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 which are specifically applicable to execution of decrees, are not maintainable against arbitral awards. The Courts have constantly emphasized the self-contained nature of the Act, which provides a comprehensive framework for challenging arbitral awards, including provisions for challenging the appointment of arbitrators. Section 36 of the Act deals with enforcement and does not provide for challenges to the merits of the arbitral awards. Challenges on the grounds of nullity or illegality can only be raised in proceedings under Section 34 of the Act, which sets forth specific grounds for challenging arbitral awards. Allowing challenges on the merits in enforcement proceedings would undermine the legislative intent and the procedural framework established by the Act. Any party aggrieved by an arbitral award is required to challenge the arbitral award within the framework provided by the Act,

28. Though, the legal fiction of equating arbitral awards to court decrees serves pragmatic purposes, it is important to acknowledge that, it does not alter the fundamental nature or origin of arbitral awards. Arbitral awards are distinct from court judgments in that they arise from private contractual agreements between the parties and are issued by private arbitrators rather than state-appointed judges. Moreover, while arbitral awards are enforceable “as if they were” court decrees, they are not actually court decrees. Execution of an arbitral award, although happens in a manner “as if they were” court decrees, they are subject to specific limitations under the Act.

29. Therefore, to conclude, it can be said, that objections available under Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 will not be available under Section 36 of the Act since an arbitral award is not in reality a decree of the court but is merely treated as one for the limited purpose of enforcement. The key distinction between court decrees and arbitral awards lies in their origin and nature. Court decrees are orders or judgments issued by a court of law, following adversarial proceedings and adjudication by a judge. They carry the imprimatur of the State and are enforceable as such through the coercive powers of the Court. In contrast, arbitral awards are decisions rendered by private arbitrators chosen by the parties to a dispute, pursuant to an arbitration agreement. They arise from contractual agreements between the parties and are not issued by a court of law. While they may have the same legal effect as court decrees once enforced, they are fundamentally different in origin and nature.

30. Allowing objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 to be raised against arbitral awards would undermine the finality and binding nature of arbitration awards. It would subject arbitral awards to same procedural complexities and delays associated with court proceedings, defeating the purpose of choosing arbitration as an alternative dispute resolution mechanism.

31. Accordingly, this Court holds that the objections which were sought to be raised by the Petitioners under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 before the Commercial Court, Moradabad were not maintainable and the rejection of the Petitioners’ objections filed under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 by the Commercial Court, Moradabad on grounds of maintainability warrants no interference by this Court.

32. In any case, the objections sought to be raised by the Petitioners under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 before the Commercial Court, Moradabad and also before me under the instant application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India had previously been raised before and considered by the Learned District Judge, Bijnor under Section 34 of the Act. The Learned District Judge, Bijnor under Section 34 of the Act specifically recorded the Petitioner’s contention regarding the challenge to the appointment of Sri A.K. Gupta, Sole Arbitrator –

“Learned counsel for the applicants State of U.P. & others vehemently contended that the appointment of Sole Arbitrator Sri A.K. Gupta (O.P. no. 2) by OP no.1(Contractor) is quite illegal being against the agreement Clause 43 of the General Conditions of Contract. Learned counsel drew the attention of the court to clause 43 (GCC) of the contract/agreement. Learned counsel submitted that the Chief Engineer Madhya Ganga (CEMG) in respondent of OP no. 1 (Contractor)'s letter dated 22-06-2011, had informed to OP no. 1 (Contractor) vide its letter No. 7092 dated 16-07-2011 and referred three names of its employees for the appointment of Sole Arbitrator. This letter dated 16-07-2011 by CEMG was sent to OP no. 1 (Contractor) by speed post which he returned with the endorsement "refused" dated 25-07-2011. The applicants again sent the same letter dated 16-07-2011 to OP no. 1 (Contractor) on 22-07-2011 which returned unserved with the endorsement "out of station" dated 12-08-2011. Thus the applicants in view of Clause 43 (GCC) had referred the three names of its employees to be selected as Sole Arbitrator by OP no. 1 (Contractor) but OP no. 1 (Contractor) deliberately avoided the service of letter dated 16-07-011 and 22-07-2011 and illegally appointed Sri A.K. Gupta (O.P. No. 2) as Sole Arbitrator. Learned counsel further argued that Sri A.K. Gupta (OP no.2) was concerned with the work assigned to OP no. 1 (Contractor) through the said contract/agreement. So his appointment being against the procedure laid down in Clause 43 (GCC) is illegal and consequently the arbitral award either interim or final passed by him are liable to be set aside."

33. The Learned District Judge, Bijnor under Section 34 of the Act specifically dealt with the Petitioners contentions regarding the appointment of Sri A.K. Gupta as Sole Arbitrator and concluded as follows:

"23- In the case in hand, OP no. 1 (Contractor) invoked arbitration as per Clause 43 with the request that the names of 3 officers to select the Sole Arbitrator to be sent to him within 30 days from the date of receipt of his letter dated 22-06-2011. This letter was handed over to Chief Engineer Madhya Ganga Aligarh (CEMG)'s office on the same day i.e. 22-06-2011. Thus his time to send the list of 3 officers was to expire on 22-07-2011. This letter dated 22-06-2011 of OP no. 1 (Contractor) also constituted a notice for the commencement of arbitration u/s 21 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act 1996. As no communication within the prescribed period of 30 days from the date of receipt of notice/letter dated 22-06-2011 was received by OP no. 1 (Contractor) upto 22-07-2011 from the office of CEMG, hence his (CEMG)'s right to send the list stood forfeited entitling OP No. 1 (Contractor) to exercise his consequential right under Clause 43 (GCC). OP no. 1 (Contractor) in exercise of his right accrued to him sent the list of 3 Competent Departmental Officers including the name of Sole Arbitrator Sri A.K. Gupta to CEMG vide letter dated 23-07-2011 so that he could select one name out of them and appoint him as Sole Arbitrator in according with Clause 43. This letter was received in the office of CEMG on the same day i.e. 23-07-2011 itself. Thus CEMG had a time period for 15 days to exercise his right to select and appoint a Sole Arbitrator from the list sent by OP no. 1 (Contractor). This period was to lapse on 07-08-2011 in accordance with the provisions of Clause 43 (GCC) but CEMG did not exercise his right within prescribed 15 days period to chose Sole Arbitrator from the list sent by OP no. 1 (Contractor) vide his letter dated 23-07-2011. Consequently, OP no. 1 (Contractor) attained a right to appoint Sole Arbitrator in accordance with Clause 43 from the list of officers send by him on 23-07-2011 and he exercised his right and appointed Sri A.K. Gupta (OP no. 2) Sole Arbitrator in this matter and informed CEMG's office vide letter dated 08-08-2011 which was received in CEMG's office on the same day i.e. 08-08-2011. This process of appointment of Sole Arbitrator completed in accordance with contractual clause 43 (GCC) and Section 11 of the Act 1996.

24- The alleged letter dated 16-07-2011 sent by CEMG whereby the list of 3 officers was allegedly sent to OP no. 1 (Contractor) is denied by OP no. 1 and OP no. 1 (Contractor) has stated that the alleged letter dated 16-07-2011 was never tendered to him by Post Office authorities for delivery. However, even as per applicants' own admission the alleged letter dated 16-07-2011 is marked to have been refused by OP no. 1 (Contractor) on 25-07-2011. Thus admittedly, OP no. 1 (Contractor) did not receive any communication from CEMG within the prescribed period of 30 days which expired on 22-07-2011 as stated above.

25 – According to Section 3(a) of the Act 1996, unless otherwise agreed by the parties any written communication is deemed to have been received if it is delivered to the addressee (personally or at his place of business, habitual residence or mailing address. Section 3(2) says that the communication is deemed to have been received on the day it is so delivered.

26 – Subsequent letter dated 27-7-2011 (copy of letter dated 16-07-2011) sent by CEMG's office which allegedly returned unserved with the endorsement "out of station" was also of no significance and useless being against the provisions of Clause 43(GCC). CEMG's letter dated 09-08-2011 written subsequent to appointment of Sole Arbitrator by OP No. 1 (Contractor) on 08-08-2011 is non-est in the eye of law. Even otherwise, this letter was never delivered to OP no. 1 (Contractor).

27- Thus, the appointment of Sole Arbitrator Sri A.K. Gupta (OP no. 2) by OP no. 1 (Contractor) was completely in accordance with the provisions of 43 (GCC) and does not suffer from any procedural error. Moreover, when CEMG abandoned his right to send list of officers by 22-07-2011 and subsequently to select one name from the list send by OP no. 1 (Contractor) by 07-08-2011, his right stood forfeited and his this right cannot be revived under the contract and shall be deemed to have been waived by the applicants u/s 4 of the Act of 1996 and such waiver cannot be revived by this court in view of bar created u/s 5 of the Act of 1996."

34. The principles enshrined in Section 34 of the Act underscore that interference with arbitral awards should only occur in exceptional cases, where the grounds specified in the Act are met. The Petitioner's attempts to circumvent the procedural and substantive framework established by the Act, and to re-litigate matters already addressed under Section 34 of the Act, undermine the efficiency and finality of arbitration proceedings. The Section 34 Court meticulously examined the sequence of events leading to the appointment of the Sole Arbitrator, Sri A.K. Gupta, and determined that the appointment was made in strict compliance with the contractual provisions. Once the Petitioners had already forfeited their right to appoint an arbitrator, they were not entitled to seek the Court's leave to revive the same. Mere allegations or suspicions of impropriety in appointment of the Sole Arbitrator, Sri A.K. Gupta are not enough in absence of any evidence to support such accusations.

35 . Under the First Appeal filed by the Petitioners under Section 37 of the Act against the order of the Court under Section 34 of the Act, a Division Bench of this Court (Coram: Sudhir Agarwal, J. and Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.) concluded that there was no error in the decision of the Learned District Judge, Bijnor below under Section 34 of the Act. Relevant paragraph is extracted below:

“These findings could not be shown perverse or contrary to record. In these circumstances, it cannot be said that Court below has erred in rejecting appellants' objection under Section 34 of the Act, 1996. We, therefore, find no factual, legal or otherwise error in the impugned order. Appeal is accordingly dismissed at the stage of hearing under Order 41 Rule 11 C.P.C.”

36. The Petitioners in their objections filed under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 primarily contended before the Commercial Court, Moradabad that Sri A.K. Gupta, Sole Arbitrator acted in a biased manner to pass an award in favour of the Respondent and the arbitral award passed on December 12, 2013, was against the law. These objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 could not have been entertained under Section 36 of the Act. In any case, these objections were already considered and disposed of by the Learned District Judge, Bijnor under Section 34 of the Act. The only permissible ground for interference under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 in case of an arbitral award is that if the arbitral award was passed with inherent lack of jurisdiction, which is not the case here. The Petitioners' attempt to resurrect their objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 which were already adjudicated upon by the Learned District Judge under Section 34 of the Act and this Court under Section 37 of the Act runs counter to the principle of judicial finality.

37. Section 34 of the Act provides grounds for setting aside an arbitral award, including allegations of bias, illegality or contravention of public policy. Once objections under Section 34 of the Act are adjudicated and dismissed, and the appeal under Section 37 of the Act stands rejected, the arbitral award achieves finality. Once the Court under Section 34 of the Act had already adjudicated and dismissed the Petitioner's objections under Section 34 of the Act, those issues could not have been relitigated in execution proceedings under Section 36 of the Act under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908. Sanctity of an arbitral award cannot be undermined by attempts at revisiting settled matters. Execution proceedings, far from being a battleground for a rematch on the merits of the arbitral award, serve as the denouement of the legal drama – a final act in which the award holder claims their just reward. Like the closing scene of a play, execution proceedings bring the curtain down on the dispute, allowing the parties to turn the page and move forward. To raise objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 in the execution proceedings would be akin to attempting to rewrite the script of a play after the final curtain call – a futile endeavour that serves only to prolong the agony of litigation and delay the inevitable conclusion. Allowing parties to raise objections under Section 36 of the Act would be akin to opening a Pandora's box. In the theatre of arbitration, objections under Section 36 of the Act are like unexpected plot twists that threaten to derail the carefully crafted storyline of dispute resolution. Objections under Section 36 of the Act can be likened to the director's cut of a film, where deleted scenes and alternate endings threaten to overshadow the final product. Like deleted scenes that were left on the cutting room floor for a reason, objections under Section 36 of the Act represent arguments and challenges that have already been considered and dismissed. Allowing parties to resurrect these arguments during execution proceedings would be akin to reopening old wounds and revisiting scenes that were meant to remain in the past.

38. Objections raised by the Petitioner have traversed a substantial legal journey, having been previously considered by both the arbitral tribunal and the Courts under Section 34 and Section 37 of the Act. Furthermore, the Special Leave Application filed before the Supreme Court was also dismissed. In light of these exhaustive considerations and the subsequent dismissal by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, it becomes apparent that the Petitioners are merely engaging in dilatory tactics, needlessly prolonging judicial proceedings and squandering the valuable time and resources of this Court. It is evident that the Petitioner's actions amount to a blatant misuse of the judicial system, aimed at causing unnecessary delay and harassment to the other party. By needlessly burdening the Courts with repetitive and meritless objections, the Petition is squandering judicial time.

39. The objections raised by the Petitioners regarding alleged coercion and compulsion by the Sole Arbitrator found no mention in the application filed under Section 34 of the Act or the subsequent appeal under Section 37 of the Act. If these objections were not raised under these provisions, they cannot now be resurrected under a writ application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. To permit such objections to be raised in this forum would undermine the finality of arbitral awards and circumvent the statutory scheme established by the Act. Once parties have availed themselves of the statutory remedies available under Section 34 of the Act and have exhausted the appellate process under Section 37 of the Act, the award attains finality, akin to a judgment of a court of law. Just as a judgment of a court cannot be challenged ad infinitum through collateral proceedings, an arbitral award cannot be subjected to endless re-litigation through writ petitions under Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution of India. Moreover, the invocation of Article 227 of the Constitution of India to challenge arbitral proceedings after the dismissal of objections under Section 34 and Section 37 of the Act would amount to an abuse of process and a disregard for the principle of issue estoppel. Issue estoppel precludes parties from re-litigating issues that have been conclusively determined in earlier proceedings. Petitioners' failure to raise these objections earlier suggests either a lack of diligence or a tactical decision to withhold objections until a later stage – a tactic that cannot be countenanced in the interest of fairness and procedural regularity. The principles of finality and judicial economy demand that parties abide by the decisions of arbitral tribunals and exhaust the statutory remedies available under the Act before seeking recourse to collateral challenges through writ petitions under Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

40. The tactics employed by the Petitioners characterized by their persistent delay and obstructionist behaviour, merit unequivocal condemnation and necessitate the imposition of substantial costs. Delay tactics serve to perpetuate injustice by denying parties their rightful entitlements. In the context of arbitration proceedings, the purpose of arbitration is to provide a swift and cost-effective alternative to traditional litigation. By resorting to delay tactics, the Petitioners have sought to frustrate this objective and deny the Respondent the benefits of a timely resolution. This not only prolongs the uncertainty and financial strain but also undermines the effectiveness of arbitration as a dispute resolution mechanism.

41. It has been pronounced in umpteen Supreme Court judgments that costs serve as a deterrent to ensure that the overburdened judicial system of our country is not saddled with frivolous cases. The Petitioners in the instant case have invoked the writ jurisdiction of this Court in an attempt to have another chance at their matter without disclosing any cause of action. The arguments made by the Petitioners are a mere repletion of the grounds taken before the Learned District Judge under Section 34 of the Act, and this Court in first appeal under Section 37 of the Act. Moreover, as has been conclusively established by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the High Courts, including this Court, execution proceedings under Section 36 of the Act cannot be used to challenge an arbitral award and objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 cannot be invoked. In the present case, the award was passed in the year 2013, the order under Section 34 of the Act rejecting the appeal of the petitioners was passed on April 9, 2014, the appeal filed by the petitioners under Section 37 of the Act was dismissed on December 22, 2016 and the Special Leave Petition was dismissed on November 2, 2018. The execution application was filed in the year 2019 and the objection under Section 47 of the CPC filed in the year 2022. Unfortunaytely, till date the award holder has not been able to realise the fruits of the decree on account of procrastinating tactics being adopted by the award debtor. Clearly, the execution proceedings, which are supposed to be handmaid of justice and subserve the cause of justice has been used by the award debtor as tools to misuse, abuse and obstruct justice. Such dialatory tactics are obloquy to the judicial system and exemplary costs are required to be imposed to ensure that similar tactics are not employed by other award debtors.

SALIENT PRINCIPLES

42. I have highlighted the key principles that emerge from the aforesaid discussions below:

a. The jurisdiction of an executing court under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 is limited to matters pertaining to execution of the decree. Validity of a decree cannot be looked into by the executing court unless the decree suffers from inherent lack of jurisdiction. Role of an executing court is akin to a microscopic inspection hole, as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dhurandhar Prasad Singh (supra).

b. The repercussions of either wrongly accepting or rejecting objections can significantly impact the parties involved and potentially compromise the integrity of the execution procedure. Given the limited jurisdiction of the executing court under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908, it is crucial to precisely define the issues falling within its domain. Courts should ensure that objections raised under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 relate strictly to matters concerning the execution, discharge, or fulfillment of the decree and do not overstep into substantive rights or legal matters beyond the decree's boundaries. Moreover, courts should uphold the principle of finality when dealing with objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908.

c. Courts must be mindful of execution proceedings under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 being used as a means to unnecessarily obstruct the execution proceedings. Meritless, and frivolous objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 must be dealt with strongly.

d. Language of a statute is the primary consideration while interpreting a statute. Words used in a statute are the expression of the will of the legislature. Courts are obligated to give effect to the literal meaning of the words used in a particular provision unless the same leads to absurdity.

e. The intent behind plain meaning rule is to respect the separation of powers. By adhering to the literal meaning of the words used in a statute, courts refrain from encroaching upon the domain of the legislature. Intention of legislature is best reflected in the words used by it as propounded by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nagar Palika Nigam (supra).

f. Plain meaning rule is not an absolute principle and must be used in light of the broader context and purpose of the statute.

g. The phrase "as if it were" is used to suggest a hypothetical scenario implying that something is being treated in a manner akin to a particular situation even if it is not actually the case. It is used to establish a legal fiction or create a presumption, where a condition is deemed to exist for the purpose of legal analysis, even if it does not actually exist.

h. In Section 36 of the Act, the phrase providing for the execution of an arbitral award as if it were "a decree of the court" indicates that an arbitral award is to be executed in a similar manner as a decree passed by a court. This legal fiction is created for the limited purpose of executing an arbitral award through the court's enforcement powers.

i. An arbitral award is not in reality a decree of the Court as defined under Section 2(2) of the CPC, 1908. Therefore, objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 cannot be allowed in proceedings under Section 36 of the Act. Allowing objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 to be raised in execution proceedings under Section 36 of the Act will undermine the finality and binding nature of arbitral awards.

j. Once objections are dismissed under Section 34 of the Act, and appeal under Section 37 of the Act also stands adjudicated, an arbitral award attains finality. Any objections regarding the validity of an arbitral award are impermissible under Section 36 of the Act.

k. Execution proceedings, far from being a battleground for a rematch on the merits of the arbitral award, serve as the denouement of the legal drama – a final act in which the award holder claims their just reward. Like the closing scene of a play, execution proceedings bring the curtain down on the dispute, allowing the parties to turn the page and move forward. To raise objections under Section 47 of the CPC, 1908 in the execution proceedings would be akin to attempting to rewrite the script of a play after the final curtain call – a futile endeavour that serves only to prolong the agony of litigation and delay the inevitable conclusion.

l. Writ jurisdiction under Article 226 and Article 227 of the Constitution of India cannot be invoked to challenge an arbitral award. The Act is a complete code in itself and any challenge to the validity of an arbitral award has to be raised within the mechanisms provided by the Act itself. Only under exceptional circumstances, a writ court can interfere with an arbitral award or execution proceedings under Article 226 and Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

m. Parties' failure to raise timely objections under Section 34 and Section 37 of the Act will not entitle them to raise these grounds at a later stage by invoking the writ jurisdiction under Constitution of India. Writ jurisdiction is extremely limited and cannot be treated as a second chance at the cherry.

n. As pointed out in Rahul S. Shah v. Jinendra Kumar Gandhi; (2021) 6 SCC 418, there is steady rise of proceedings akin to a retrial at the time of execution causing failure of realisation of fruits of decree and relief which the party seeks from the courts despite there being a decree in their favour. Experience has shown that various objections are filed before the executing court and the decree-holder is deprived of the fruits of the litigation and the judgment-debtor, in abuse of process of law, is allowed to benefit from the subject-matter which he is otherwise not entitled to. In such cases, courts are duty bound to impose costs as a deterrent in order to ensure that litigants do not abuse the judicial system with frivolous and vexatious matters. Judicial resources are extremely limited and frivolous matters which unnecessarily take up the valuable time of the court deserve to be dealt with stringently.

Conclusion and Directions

43. Accordingly, for the reasons discussed above, the instant writ petition is dismissed as frivolous, vexatious, motivated and being an abuse of the process of this Court. Costs of Rs.5,00,000/- are imposed to be paid by the Petitioners to the Respondent within four weeks from the date of this Judgment.

44. The Petitioners are further directed to file an affidavit of compliance after making the payment in aforesaid terms within five weeks from date. On failure of the Petitioners to deposit such costs and file an affidavit of compliance as directed; the Registry of this Court is directed to list the matter for appropriate orders.

45. I would sincerely like to thank counsel appearing for the parties for their able assistance in the matter. Furthermore, I would go amiss if I do not put in a word of appreciation for my Research Associate Mr. Aman Deep Sharma and my Law Intern Mr. Jaspreet Singh for their dexterity in research and superlative assistance in drafting of this judgment.

EPILOGUE

46. The judicial system exists to provide a fair and impartial resolution to disputes, ensuring that individuals have access to a forum where their rights can be protected and grievances redressed. Frivolous litigation undermines this fundamental principle by clogging the courts with baseless claims, thereby delaying the resolution of legitimate disputes. As a result, individuals with valid claims may be forced to endure prolonged legal battles, often at great personal and financial cost, simply because the system is overwhelmed by frivolous cases.

47. Imposition of costs in cases of frivolous litigation is not intended to discourage legitimate claims but rather to deter abuse of the legal system. Courts have discretion to differentiate between cases where parties genuinely believe in the merit of their claims and those where litigation is pursued for ulterior motives or without any reasonable basis. By imposing costs in cases where litigation is found to be frivolous or vexatious, courts strike a balance between deterring abuse and ensuring access to justice for legitimate claimants.

48. Imposition of costs in cases of frivolous litigation is essential to maintain the integrity, efficiency, and fairness of the judicial system. By deterring abuse of the legal process, promoting judicial efficiency, and upholding the principles of fairness and justice, cost imposition serves to safeguard the rights of individuals, protect the integrity of the legal system, and bolster public confidence in the administration of justice.

49. In Vinod Seth v Devinder Bajar and Anr. reported in (2010) 8 SCC 1

(Coram: R.V. Raveendran and R.M. Lodha, JJ.) the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the provisions of costs should act as a deterrent to frivolous litigation. Relevant part from the aforesaid judgment is reproduced herein:

“48. The provision for costs is intended to achieve the following goals:

(a) It should act as a deterrent to vexatious, frivolous and speculative litigations or defences. The spectre of being made liable to pay actual costs should be such, as to make every litigant think twice before putting forth a vexatious, frivolous or speculative claim or defence.....”

50. In Ramrameshwari Devi and Ors. v. Nirmala Devi and Ors. reported in (2011) 8 SCC 249 (Coram: Dalveer Bhandari and Deepak Verma, JJ.) the Hon'ble Supreme Court propounded that frivolous litigation has to be controlled and courts have to ensure that that there is no incentive for such litigation. Relevant portion has been extracted below:

“43. We have carefully examined the written submissions of the learned amicus curiae and the learned counsel for the parties. We are clearly of the view that unless we ensure that wrongdoers are denied profit or undue benefit from the frivolous litigation, it would be difficult to control frivolous and uncalled for litigations. In order to curb uncalled for and frivolous litigation, the courts have to ensure that there is no incentive or motive for uncalled for litigation. It is a matter of common experience that court's otherwise scarce and valuable time is consumed or more appropriately, wasted in a large number of uncalled for cases.”

51. Making a reference to its judgment in Ramrameshwari Devi (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Maria

Margarida Sequeira Fernandes v. Erasmo Jack de Sequeira, reported in (2012) 5 SCC 370 (Before: Dalveer Bhandari, H.L. Dattu and Deepak Verma, JJ.) espoused that in order to prevent the court's time from being consumed in frivolous cases and to restrain or minimise the institution of such litigation, exemplary costs must be imposed. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

“82. This Court in a recent judgment in Ramrameshwari Devi [(2011) 8 SCC 249 : (2011) 3 SCC (Cri) 481 : (2011) 4 SCC (Civ) 1] aptly observed at p. 266, para 43 that unless wrongdoers are denied profit from frivolous litigation, it would be difficult to prevent it. In order to curb uncalled for and frivolous litigation, the courts have to ensure that there is no incentive or motive for uncalled for litigation. It is a matter of common experience that the court's otherwise scarce time is consumed or more appropriately, wasted in a large number of uncalled for cases. In this very judgment, the Court provided that this problem can be solved or at least can be minimised if exemplary costs is imposed for instituting frivolous litigation. The Court observed at pp. 267-68, para 58 that imposition of actual, realistic or proper costs and/or ordering prosecution in appropriate cases would go a long way in controlling the tendency of introducing false pleadings and forged and fabricated documents by the litigants. Imposition of heavy costs would also control unnecessary adjournments by the parties. In appropriate cases, the courts may consider ordering prosecution otherwise it may not be possible to maintain purity and sanctity of judicial proceedings.”

52. In conclusion, the imposition of costs in cases of frivolous litigation is not merely a punitive measure but rather an essential tool for maintaining the integrity of the judicial system, deterring abuse of legal processes, and promoting access to justice. By holding litigants accountable for their actions and imposing costs when warranted, the legal system reaffirms its commitment to upholding the principles of justice, fairness, and equity for all members of the society.

Sri Rameshwar Devi & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus

Rakesh Mishra ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Sri Arpit Agarwal

Counsel for the Respondent:

Sri Rahul Saxena, Sri Vivek Saran

(A) Civil Law - The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 151 - Order 41 - Rule 27 - Production of additional evidence in Appellate Court -Appellate courts can allow additional evidence under exceptional circumstances as specified in Order 41 Rule 27 CPC, provided the evidence is necessary to pronounce judgment or for other substantial reasons - Discretion must be judicially exercised - Application for additional evidence under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC should be considered at the time of hearing of the appeal on merits - Court must determine whether additional evidence is essential to pronounce judgment - Pre-hearing rejection of such applications, without proper consideration, is contrary to established legal principles. (Para 8-11)

Petitioners - Tenants of shop purchased by respondent - Sought to adduce additional evidence at the appellate stage - Application

under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC rejected by Appellate Authority on grounds of unnecessary evidence - Petitioners contended inability to file evidence earlier due to counsel's illness and retirement – hence petition. (Para 2-5)

HELD: - Order of Appellate Authority rejecting petitioners' application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC at the Appellate Stage was set aside. Appellate authority was directed to reconsider the application as per the guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court in Ibrahim Uddin v. Union of India (2012) and to decide the appeal expeditiously. (Para -13)

1. Heard Sri Arpit Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri Vivek Saran, learned counsel for the respondents.'

2. The instant petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of `India has been filed for setting aside the judgment and order `dated 08.08.2023, passed by the Appellate Authority/ Additional District Judge, Court No. 4 / Special Judge (EC Act) Pilibhit, in P.A. Appeal No. 8 of 2023 (Rameshwari Devi and another vs. Rakesh Mishra) whereby and whereunder the `Application filed by the petitioner for adducing additional evidence under Order 41 Rule 27 read with Section 151 CPC has been rejected.

`3. It is the case of the petitioners that they are tenants of a `shop situated in Mohalla Bazar Katra, Tehsil and Town Area Bisalpur, Pilibhti and are conducting the business of Bangles from the shop in question. Originally, the tenancy of the shop was in the name of Shri Radheyshyam the late husband of the petitioner no. 1 and father of petitioner no. 2. After the death 1 of 9 `of Shri Radheshyam the tenancy devolved upon the petitioners. The shop was originally owned by one Sushil Kumar and was purchased by the respondent herein vide Sale Deed dated 21.07.2015. A Release Application under Section 21(1)(a) of the UP Act No. 13 of 1972 was filed by the respondent without issuing notice to the petitioners as contemplated under the 1st Proviso to Section 21(1) of the Act which proceedings were registered as PA Case No. 114 of 2018. The petitioners appeared in the Case and filed their objections taking a specific plea in their objections that the plaintiff/ respondent had not served any notice upon the petitioners/ tenants that he had purchased the shop. The learned Prescribed Authority, vide judgment and order dated 20.01.2023 allowed the Release Application. The petitioners being aggrieved by the order of the Prescribed Authority, have preferred an Appeal being Appeal No. 8 of 2023. During the pendency of the Appeal the original Counsel of the petitioners, conducting the Appeal, namely Shri V.S. Ashok took retirement from the profession and the petitioners had to engage another counsel namely Shri Ishan Gupta. Shri Ishan Gupta, Advocate on going through the file opined that certain relevant documents had not been brought on record and accordingly the petitioners preferred an Application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC dated 09.05.2023 annexing the documents/evidence to be brought on record for consideration of the Appellate Authority in seisin of the Appeal. The documents sought to be filed as Additional Evidence were (i) certified copy of order dated 13.02.2020 passed in Original Suit No. 113 of 2016 (ii) certified copy of the Commission Report (iii) certified copy of the extract of the House Tax 2 of 9 Assessment pertaining to the year 2017-18 pertaining to the plaintiff/ respondent and his wife, photographs of the disputed shop and original invitation Card. The landlord/respondent filed objections to the Application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC. The Appellate Authority vide order dated 08.08.2023 has rejected the Application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC which order has been impugned in the instant petition. .

4. Shri Arpit Agarwal, learned counsel for the tenant/petitioners has argued that the Appellate Authority has committed manifest error of law in rejecting the Application to bring on record the Additional Evidence. He has invited the attention of this Court to the provisions of Order 41 Rule 27 (1) (b) CPC and submits that Order 41 Rule 27 assigns discretion to the Appellate Court to require any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment, or for any other substantial cause. For the exercise of discretion under Order 41 Rule 27 (1) (b) CPC an application is required to be considered along with hearing of the Appeal on merits. It was not open for the Appellate Authority to have exercised the discretion vested in it before deciding the Appeal and the Application was liable to be considered at the time of hearing of the Appeal. Reliance has been placed upon decisions of a Coordinate Bench of this Court reported in 2016 (2) ARC 479 (Ram Karan Vs. Jagdeep Singh) and 2015 (2) ARC 615 (Smt. Anita Sharma Vs. Om Prakash Batra).

5. It is further argued by Shri Arpit Agarwal that in the case at hand it was specifically pleaded in the Application for 3 of 9 Additional Evidence that the evidence sought to be brought on record could not be filed earlier on account of the earlier counsel Shri V.S. Ashok withdrawing himself from the case on account of his illness and retirement from the profession and when another counsel Shri Ishan Gupta was engaged he at the time of preparation of the Case opined that the documents were required to be filed on record as Additional Evidence. In the peculiar circumstances of the case the documents were liable to be accepted on record. This Court in almost similar circumstances in a case reported in 2019 (2) ARC 155 set aside the order rejecting the Application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC and directing the Court below to decide the Application within a time frame taking into consideration the relevant law.

6. Per contra, Shri Vivek Saran, learned counsel for the respondent submits that the Appellate Authority committed no error or illegality in rejecting the Application of the petitioner under order 41 Rule 27 CPC. Placing reliance upon the decision of the Apex Court in the Case of Lekhraj Bansal Vs. State of Rajasthan and Another Reported in 2014 (15) SCC 686 it is submitted that parties to an Appeal shall not be entitled to produce additional evidence in the Appellate Court unless the conditions stipulated under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC are satisfied. It is not the case of the petitioner that the Trial Court had refused to admit the said evidence which ought to have been admitted. It is also not the case of the petitioner that the said evidence was not within his knowledge or could not, after the exercise of due diligence be produced by him during pendency of the PA case before the Prescribed Authority. On the other hand it is vehemently contended that the Appellate Authority has expressed its observation that the documents sought to be brought on record are not necessary for enabling it to pronounce judgment in the Appeal. He thus submits that the petition is liable to be dismissed at the threshold.

7. I, have heard learned counsel for the parties and have perused the record.

8. Order 41 Rule 27 CPC provides for production of additional evidence in Appellate Court. The Appellate Court in exercise of the discretionary jurisdiction and subject of fulfilment of the conditions laid down under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC may allow the parties to adduce additional evidence. Order 41 Rule 27 CPC reads as under:

Order 41 Rule 27. Production of additional evidence in Appellate Court:

1. The parties to an appeal shall not be entitled to produce additional evidence, whether oral or documentary, in the Appellate Court. But if-

(a) the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has refused to admit evidence which ought to have been admitted, or

[(aa) the party seeking to produce additional evidence, establishes that notwithstanding the exercise of due diligence, such evidence was not within his knowledge or could not, after the exercise of due diligence, be produced by him at the time when the decree appealed against was passed]

(b) the Appellate Court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment, or for any of the other substantial cause, the Appellate Court may allow such evidence or document to be produced, or witness to be examined.

(2) Whenever additional evidence is allowed to be produced by an Appellate Court, the Court shall record the reason for its admission.

9. A perusal of the above provisions shows that it is an exception to the general principle that the Appellate Court should not travel outside the record of the lower Court and cannot take any evidence in Appeal. Order 41 Rule 27 enables the Appellate Court to take Additional Evidence in exceptional circumstances if and only if the conditions laid down in this provision are found to exist. A certain discretion is permitted to be exercised by the Appellate Court while considering any application under Order 41 Rule 27 which is required to be exercised judicially. The question regarding the exercise of discretion and at what stage by the Appellate Court while considering an Application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC came up for consideration before the Apex Court in the case of Union of India vs. Ibrahim Uddin and Another, reported in 2012 (8) SCC 148. The Apex Court after considering all aspects of the matter summed up the Issue in para 48 of its judgment which is being reproduced hereunder:

“48. To sum up on the issue, it may be held that application for taking additional evidence on record at a belated stage cannot be filed as a matter of right. The court can consider such an application with circumspection, provided it is covered under either of the prerequisite condition incorporated in the statutory provisions itself. The discretion is to be exercised by the court judicially taking into consideration the relevance of the document in respect of the issues involved in the case and the circumstances under which such an evidence could not be led in the court below and as to whether the applicant had prosecuted his case before the court below diligently and as to whether such evidence is required to pronounce the judgment by the appellate court. In case the court comes to the conclusion that the application filed comes within the four corners of the statutory provisions itself, the evidence may be taken on record, however, the court must record reasons as on what basis such an application has been allowed. However, the application should not be moved at a belated stage.”.

10. As regards the stage of consideration of the Application the Apex Court was of the view that the Application under Order 41 Rule 27 was liable to be considered at the time of hearing of the Appeal on merits so as to find out whether the evidence sought to be adduced have any relevance/ bearing on the issue involved. It observed that the admissibility of the Additional Evidence does not depend upon the relevance to the issue at hand or on the fact, whether the Applicant had an opportunity for adducing such evidence at an earlier stage or not but it depends upon whether or not the Appellate Court requires the evidence sought to be adduced to enable it to pronounce judgment or for any other substantial cause. The true test is whether the Appellate Court is able to pronounce judgment on the materials before it without taking into consideration the Additional Evidence sought to be adduced. It accordingly held in para 52 of the judgment as under: “ 52. Thus, from the above, it is crystal clear that application for taking additional evidence on record at an appellate stage, even if filed during the pendency of the appeal, is to be heard at the time of final hearing of the appeal at a stage when after appreciating the evidence on record, the court reaches the conclusion that additional evidence was required to be taken on record in order to pronounce the judgment or for any other substantial cause. In case, application for taking additional evidence on record 7 of 9 has been considered and allowed prior to the hearing of the appeal, the order being a product of total and complete non-application of mind, as to whether such evidence is required to be taken on record to pronounce the judgment or not, remains inconsequential/inexecutable and is liable to be ignored.”

11. Now coming to the impugned order date 08.08.2023, passed by the Appellate Authority, the Court finds that in substance the Application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC has been rejected on the ground that the conditions laid down under Order 41 Rule 27 were not satisfied and further that in its opinion the Additional Evidence sought to be brought on record was not required to pronounce judgment or for any other substantial cause. The discretion has been exercised by the Appellate Court against the petitioners (Appellant) even without discussing as to whether the documents sought to be brought on record were necessary or not for deciding the real controversy at hand. Besides, the Application has been rejected even prior to hearing of the Appeal. In the opinion of the Court, the order of the Appellate Authority rejecting the Application is contrary to the ratio of the decision of the Apex Court in the Case of Ibrahim Uddin (Supra) inasmuch as the Application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC is required to be considered at the time of hearing of the Appeal on merits so as to find out whether the documents/evidence sought to be adduced have any relevance/bearing on the issue involved and the true test being whether the Appellate Court is able to pronounce judgment on the materials before it without taking into consideration the additional evidence sought to be adduced. 8 of 9

12. In the result, the petition succeeds and is allowed.

13. The impugned order dated 08.08.2023, passed by the Appellate Authority/Additional District Judge (Court No. 4)/Special Judge (EC Act) Pilibhit in PA

2. In view of the order proposed to be passed, notice to opposite party No.2 is hereby dispensed with as purely legal question is involved in this case, however, learned A.G.A-I for the State has accepted notice on behalf of State-opposite party No.1.

3. The instant writ petition has been filed with following main prayer:-

"1. Issue an order or direction setting aside the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Faizabad in Criminal Appeal No.12 of 2024 (Mangla Prasad Singh Vs. Shanti Roller Mills Ltd. to the extent by which the learned Appellate Court despite admitting the appeal has declined to stay the operation of the impugned order dated 16.02.2024 passed by the learned Trial Court and thereby has rejected the stay application (Paper No. 5-B) as contained in Annexure No.1 to the petition."

4. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that initially, the present opp. party no. 2 filed a complaint U/S 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 read with Section 406/420 I.P.C against the petitioner in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-Ist Faizabad on 25.02.2014 with allegations that complainant was a company registered under the provisions of Indian Companies Act 1956, which was carrying out the business of manufacturing and sales of Poultry Feed through their unit situated at Plot No. B-1 to B-6 Industrial Area Site No.-1 Post-Haripur Jalalabad, Lucknow Road, P.S-Cantt Distt.-Faizabad (Now Ayodhya). It was further alleged that the present petitioner Mangal Prasad Singh purchased the Poultry Feed with the complainant company as per terms settled between the parties and handed over a cheque bearing number "394990" dated 15.12.2013 amounting to Rs. 300000/- drawn on State Bank of India Babatpur, Varanasi but when the same was presented for clearing by the complainant company in HDFC Bank Ltd. Faizabad, then the same was dishonoured by State Bank of India, Branch-Babatpur Varanasi on the ground of insufficient fund. It was also alleged that despite giving notice on 13.01.2014, the accused/petitioner failed to make payment of due amount, thereafter, the complainant filed the complaint U/S 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act read with Section 406/420 I.P.C in the Trial Court on 25.02.2014.

5. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the petitioner contested the matter before the Trial Court and also filed his written submission on 15.02.2017 in the Trial Court stating therein the true and full facts it was also averred that initially, a Saving Bank account pertaining to the petitioner State Bank of India, Branch-Babatpur Varanasi in respect of which a cheque was issued by the petitioner to the present opp. party no. 2 towards guarantee/security money but when the said account was closed and the petitioner opened new account in State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur, Branch Babatpur Varanasi, then the petitioner made payments to the present opp. party no. 2 from his new account on 14.05.2013 of Rs. 200028/-, on 03.06.2013 of Rs. 40000/-, on 17.07.2013 of Rs. 25000/-, on 19.08.2013 of Rs. 30000/-, on 27.09.2013 of Rs. 25000/-, on 11.11.2013 of Rs. 25000/- on 24.10.2014 of Rs. 35000/-, on 21.04.2014 of Rs. 20000/- & on 03.07.2014 of Rs. 20000/- but the opp. party no. 2 despite having full knowledge of closure of the first account, submitted the previous cheque which was given by the petitioner towards guarantee/security money. Although, the petitioner had issued a cheque towards guarantee/security money from his new account to opp. party no.2 and as such there was no malafide intention on the part of the petitioner.

6. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the Trial Court i.e. First Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate Ayodhya without considering the legal and factual aspects of the matter, illegally and erroneously vide impugned judgment and order dated 16.02.2024 convicted the petitioner and awarded sentence of three months simple imprisonment U/S 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act 1881 and also imposed fine of Rs. 4,00,000/-. The Trial Court further provided that out of total fine an amount of Rs. 390000/- shall be given to the complainant/present opp. party no. 2 U/S 357 of Cr.P.C as damages and rest of the amount of fine of Rs. 10000/- shall be deposited in Court and in case of non deposition of amount of fine the accused shall serve one month further imprisonment.

7. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that against the order of conviction passed by the Trial Court remedy of filing Statutory Appeal is provided to the accused person U/S 374 Cr.P.C and as such the petitioner/accused preferred Statutory Appeal on 29.02.2024 in the Court of District & Sessions Judge Faizabad. It is further stated that along with the Memo of Appeal the petitioner/appellant moved two applications one for granting bail to the appellant/accused during pendency of the appeal and other for staying the operation of the order dated 16.02.2024 passed by the Trial Court.

8. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that as per Section 148(1) of The Negotiable Instruments Act 1881, which has been inserted in the Act through Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Act, 2018 (Act No 20 of 2018) it has been provided that notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), in an appeal by the drawer against conviction U/S 138, the Appellate Court may order the Appellant to deposit such sum which may shall be a minimum of twenty percent of the fine or compensation awarded by the Trial Court, provided that the amount payable under this sub-section shall be in addition to any interim compensation paid by the appellant U/S 143A.

9. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that in Section 148(2) it has also been provided that the amount referred to in sub-section (1) shall be deposited within sixty days from the date of the order, or within such period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the appellant.

10. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the Learned Appellate Court although vide order dated 29.02.2024 has been pleased to admit the appeal and also to allow the Bail Application but by the same order despite admitting the appeal erroneously decline to stay the operation of the impugned order dated 16.02.2024 passed by the Trial Court and thereby, rejected the Stay Application (Paper No. 5B) and further directed the appellant to deposit the amount of fine imposed by the Trial Court within a period of 10 days from the date of the order and also provided that in case non-deposition of fine by the appellant, the bail order shall stand automatically cancelled.

11. Learned Counsel for the appellant further submitted that the Appellate Court while passing the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 by which it has declined to stay the operation of the order passed by the Trial Court, has failed to consider the Statutory Provisions as enshrined U/S 148(1) & 148 (2) of The Negotiable Instruments Act 1881, which resulted in miscarriage of justice.

12. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 by which the Appellate Court has provided that in case of failure of deposition of fine by the appellant, the Bail Order shall stand automatically cancelled is punitive in nature and is against the settled proposition of law as it is settled propositions of law, that if any appeal is presented by the appellant and the same is admitted by the Appellate Court, in that event it is also obligatory for the Appellate Court to stay the operation of the impugned order under appeal during pendency of the appeal, thus, if any order is challenged and the appeal is pending, one cannot permit a swinging pendulum continuously taking place during pendency of the appeal. He further submitted that by non staying the operation of the impugned order by the Appellate Court, serious far reaching Civil Consequences may arise and the same may be detrimental to the interest of the appellant/petitioner, for which there is no justification.

13. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 to the extent by which the Appellate Court has declined to grant stay order has caused serious prejudice to the petitioner and as such the necessity of filing the present petition invoking the Supervisory Jurisdiction conferred under Article 227 of The Constitution of India has arisen, thus, he submitted that it is necessary and expedient in the interest of justice that the operation of the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 passed by the Appellate Court as well as the recovery of fine to the tune of Rs. 400000/- as imposed by the Trial Court may kindly be stayed during pendency of the present petition in the Hon'ble Court, otherwise the petitioner would suffer an irreparable loss.

14. Learned A.G.A-I for the State-opposite party No.1 did not oppose the contentions made on behalf of the petitioner as learned Counsel for the petitioner has rightly pointed out illegality in the impugned order and has supported his contentions with the laws laid down by Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India and submits that the Appellate Court has failed to consider the Statutory Provisions as enshrined U/S 148(1) & 148 (2) of The Negotiable Instruments Act 1881, which resulted in miscarriage of justice.

15. I have heard learned Counsel for the parties and perused the material placed on record.

16. Before entering into the merits of the case, it would be relevant to discuss Section 148 of The Negotiable Instruments Act 1881, which has been inserted in the Act through Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Act, 2018 (Act No 20 of 2018) to provide, inter alia, speedy disposal of cases relating to dishonour of cheques so as to see that due to delay tactics by unscrupulous drawers of dishonoured cheques due to easy filing of appeals and obtaining stay in proceedings, injustice caused to payee of dishonoured cheque who has spent considerable time and resource in court proceedings to realise value of cheque, thus, having observed that such delay has compromised sanctity of cheque transaction, Parliament thought it fit to amend Section 148 Purposive interpretation of Section 148 would be in furtherance of Objects and Reasons of amendment of Section 148 and also Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. Section 148 of The Negotiable Instruments Act 1881, which has been inserted in the Act through Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Act, 2018 (Act No 20 of 2018) is reproduced hereunder:-

"Section-148 Power of Appellate Court to order payment pending appeal against conviction"

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, in an appeal by the drawer against conviction under section 138, the Appellate Court may order the appellant to deposit such sum which shall be a minimum of twenty percent of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial Court:

Provided that the amount payable under this sub-section shall be in addition to any interim compensation paid by the appellant under section 143A.

(2) The amount referred to in sub-section (1) shall be deposited within sixty days from the date of the order, or within such further period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the appellant.

(3) The Appellate Court may direct the release of the amount deposited by the appellant to the complainant at any time during the pendency of the appeal:

Provided that if the appellant is acquitted, the Court shall direct the complainant to repay to the appellant the amount so released, with interest at the bank rate as published by the Reserve Bank of India, prevalent at the beginning of the relevant financial year; within sixty days from the date of the order; or within such further period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the complainant."

17. As per Section 148(1) of the Negotiable Instruments Act 1881, which has been inserted in the Act through Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Act, 2018 (Act No.20 of 2018) it has been provided that notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), in an appeal by the drawer against conviction U/S 138, the Appellate Court may order the Appellant to deposit such sum which may shall be a minimum of twenty percent of the fine or compensation awarded by the Trial Court, provided that the amount payable under this sub-section shall be in addition to any interim compensation paid by the appellant U/S 143A.

18. As per Section 148(2) it has also been provided that the amount referred to in Sub-section (1) shall be deposited within sixty days from the date of the order, or within such period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the appellant.

19. In the instant case, the Appellate court although vide order dated 29.02.2024 had admitted the appeal and also allowed the Bail Application moved by the appellant/petitioner but by the same order despite admitting the appeal preferred by the appellant/petitioner had erroneously rejected the stay and operation of the impugned order dated 16.02.2024 passed by the trial court and thereby, rejected the stay application (Paper No.5B) and further directed him to deposit amount of fine imposed by the trial court within a period of ten days' from the date of the order and also provided that in case of non-deposition of fine by the appellant/petitioner, the order of granting bail to the appellant/petitioner shall stand automatically cancelled, thus, the appellate court while passing the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 by which it has rejected to stay the operation of the order dated 16.02.2024 passed by the trial court has failed to consider the Statutory Provisions as enshrined under Section 148(1) and 148(2) of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881 as discussed above, which resulted in miscarriage of justice.

20. It is further observed here that the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 passed by the Appellate Court, by which it was provided that in case of failure of deposition of fine by the appellant/petitioner, the Bail Order shall stand automatically cancelled appears to be punitive in nature and is against the settled proposition of law as it is a settled proposition of law, that if any appeal is presented by the appellant and the same is admitted by the Appellate Court, in that event, it is also obligatory for the Appellate Court to grant interim relief in the appeal during the pendency of the appeal, thus, any order challenged in the appeal and the said appeal was admitted and pending, thus, one cannot permit a swinging pendulum to continue swinging during the pendency of the appeal.

21. The issue involved in this petition has broadly been dealt by Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India in the case of Surinder Singh Deswal Alias Colonel S.S. Deswal and Others vs. Virender Gandhi reported in (2019) SCC 341 wherein the Apex Court has been pleased to observe in paragraph No.8, which is reproduced hereinunder:-

"8. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the appellants that even considering the language used in Section 148 of the NI Act as amended, the appellate court "may" order the appellant to deposit such sum which shall be a minimum of 20% of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial court and the word used is not "shall" and therefore the discretion is vested with the first appellate court to direct the appellant-accused to deposit such sum and the appellate court has construed it as mandatory, which according to the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants would be contrary to the provisions of Section 148 of the NI Act as amended is concerned, considering the amended Section 148 of the NI Act as a whole to be read with the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the amending Section 148 of the NI Act, though it is true that in the amended Section 148 of the NI Act, the word used is "may", it is generally to be construed as a "rule" or "shall" and not to direct to deposit by the appellate court is an exception for which special reasons are to be assigned. Therefore amended Section 148 of the NI Act confers power upon the appellate court to pass an order pending appeal to direct the appellant-accused to deposit the sum which shall not be less than 20% of the fine or compensation either on an application filed by the original complainant or even on the application filed by the appellant-accused under Section 389 CrPC to suspend the sentence. The aforesaid is required to be construed considering the fact that as per the amended Section 148 of the NI Act, a minimum of 20% of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial court is directed to be deposited and that such amount is to be deposited within a period of 60 days from the date of the order, or within such further period not exceeding 30 days as may be directed by the appellate court for sufficient cause shown by the appellant. Therefore, if amended Section 148 of the NI Act is purposively interpreted in such a manner it would serve the Objects and Reasons of not only amendment in Section 148 of the NI Act, but also Section 138 of the NI Act. The Negotiable Instruments Act has been amended from time to time so as to provide, inter alia, speedy disposal of cases relating to the offence of the dishonour of cheques. So as to see that due to delay tactics by the unscrupulous drawers of the dishonoured cheques due to easy filing of the appeals and obtaining stay in the proceedings, an injustice was caused to the payee of a dishonoured cheque who has to spend considerable time and resources in the court proceedings to realise the value of the cheque and having observed that such delay has compromised the sanctity of the cheque transactions, Parliament has thought it fit to amend Section 148 of the NI Act. Therefore, such a purposive interpretation would be in furtherance of the Objects and Reasons of the amendment in Section 148 of the NI Act and also Section 138 of the NI Act."

22. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Jamboo Bhandari vs. Madhya Pradesh State Industrial Development Corporation Limited and Others reported in (2023) 10 SCC 446 has been pleased to observe in paragraph No.12, which is reproduced hereinunder:-

"12. In these circumstances, we set aside the impugned orders of the High Court and restore the revision petitions filed by the appellants before the High Court. We direct the parties to appear before the roster Bench of the High Court on 9-10-2023 in the morning to enable the High Court to fix a date for hearing of the revision petitions. As the contesting parties are before the Court, it will not be necessary for the High Court to issue a notice of the date fixed for hearing. The High Court, after hearing the parties, will consider whether 20% of the amount is already deposited or not. If the Court comes to the conclusion that 20% of the amount is not deposited, the Court will re-examine the revision petitions in the light of what we have observed in this judgment. Till the disposal of the restored revision petitions, the interim order passed by this Court ordering suspension of sentence will continue to operate."

23. Thus, in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the facts and circumstances, as narrated above and from the perusal of the record, the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 passed by Sessions Judge Faizabad (now Ayodhya) in Criminal Appeal No.12 of 2024; Mangla Prasad Singh vs. Shanti Roller Mills Ltd to the extent by which the learned Appellate Court despite admitting the appeal has declined to stay the operation of the impugned order therein dated 16.02.2024 passed by the trial court and thereby has rejected the stay application (Paper No.5-B), is against the spirit and directions issued by the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India.

24. Keeping in view the discussions made above and the laws settled by Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India referred above, this Court finds that the Appellate Court has erred in law while rejecting the stay application of the appellant/petitioner, by which it was prayed by the appellant/petitioner to stay the fine of Rs.4,00,000/- imposed by the trial court while convicting him under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 till the disposal of the appeal preferred by the appellant/petitioner before the Appellate Court. Thus, this Court deems it appropriate to dispose of this petition with modification of the impugned order dated 29.02.2024 to the extent that the petitioner is directed to deposit 20% of the fine imposed upon him by the trial court within sixty days' from the date of delivery of this judgment by this Court and the bail already granted by the Appellate Court shall continue till the disposal of the appeal pending before the Appellate Court i.e. Sessions Judge Faizabad (now Ayodhya) bearing Criminal Appeal No.12 of 2024 ((Mangla Prasad Singh Vs. Shanti Roller Mills Ltd.).

25. It is further directed that the petitioner will be on bail as granted by the Appellate Court vide order dated 29.02.2024 with same terms and conditions as imposed by the Appellate Court while granting him bail.

26. It is hereby made clear that if 20% of the fine imposed is not deposited by the petitioner within the period of sixty days from the date of pronouncement of this judgment by this Court, then the bail already granted by the Appellate Court concerned shall stand automatically cancelled.

27. With the above observations/directions, the present petition is finally disposed of.

28. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated to the Appellate Court concerned for its immediate compliance, forthwith by the office of the Senior Registrar of this Court.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar Nigam, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and perused the record.

2. This petition has been filed challenging the order dated 10.01.2014 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra rejecting the application filed by the petitioner as well as opposite party under Section 13-B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act for waiving off the 'cooling period' in H.M.A. Case No. 2978 of 2023 (Layak Singh v. Smt. Ekta Kumari, under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act).

3. Brief facts of the case are that the petitioner Layak Singh was married to the opposite party Smt. Ekta Kumari on 29.06.2020 at Sundarpada Thana Nai Ki Mandi, District Agra. Soon after the marriage, both the parties found that it was not possible for them to live together and opposite party Ekta Kumari left the matrimonial home on 28.10.2020. Despite best efforts made by the family members and other members of the society, they failed to resolve their dispute and were adamant to take divorce. Both the parties lodged cases, against each other. The petitioner as well as the opposite party came to an agreement that the petitioner would pay a sum of ₹ 6,00,000/- to the opposite party and they would divorce each other. An application under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act was filed by the petitioner as well as opposite party on 10.11.2023 for divorce on the basis of compromise entered into between the parties. On 10.11.2023, the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra, fixed 13.03.2024 for mediation and 13.05.2024 for second motion. On 09.01.2024, a joint application was moved by the petitioner as well as opposite party for early disposal of divorce petition on the ground that the petitioner had applied for service in various states outside the State of Uttar Pradesh but because of pendency of the case, the petitioner was unable to join the service. It was also mentioned that the opposite party also wants to get the petition decided expeditiously so that she may live separately. The application so filed by the petitioner was rejected by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra by its order dated 10.01.2024, hence the present petition.

4. Contentions of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner and opposite party are residing separately for more than three years and all the efforts of conciliation between them had already failed. Both the parties had decided to part ways and had agreed for dissolving their marriage. It is further contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra had rejected the application on the ground that cooling period can be waived only by Supreme Court in exercise of power under Article 142 of Constitution of India. The view taken by the Principal Judge Family Court, Agra was erroneous. It is next contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that as per the agreement, the petitioner had paid a sum of ₹ 6,00,000/- by means of a bank draft to the opposite party and both the parties had agreed and are still agree for divorce by mutual consent. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of Supreme Court in case of Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur reported in (2017) 8 SCC 466.

5 . Before considering the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioner, it would be appropriate to consider the relevant statutory provision.

6. Section 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is as follows:

"13-B. Divorce by mutual consent.-(1)Subject to the provisions of this Act a petition for dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce may be presented to the district court by both the parties to a marriage together, whether such marriage was solemnised before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976 (68 of 1976), on the ground that they have been living separately for a period of one year or more, that they have not been able to live together and that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.

(2) On the motion of both the parties made not earlier than six months after the date of the presentation of the petition referred to in sub-section (1) and not later than eighteen months after the said date, if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the court shall, on being satisfied, after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, that a marriage has been solemnised and that the averments in the petition are true, pass a decree of divorce declaring the marriage to be dissolved with effect from the date of the decree."

7. From the perusal of the order impugned, it reflects that the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra after noting the facts of the case, considered various judgments of Supreme Court including the judgment of Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur (Supra) and judgment in case of Amit Kumar v. Suman Beniwal reported in 2021 SCC Online SC 1270, the Principal Judge, Family Court has held as under:

"In the facts and circumstances of this Case, it is not appropriate for this Court to waive the statutory period of six months as provided u/S, 13-B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 before completing the mediation/conciliation efforts, grounds mentioned in the instant application and as per law provided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Anil Kumar Jain Vs. Maya Jain (Supra)."

8. The Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra relied upon the judgment in case of Anil Kumar Jain v. Maya Jain reported in (2009) 10 SCC 415 wherein following has been held:

"29. In the ultimate analysis the aforesaid discussion throws up two propositions. The first proposition is that although irretrievable break-down of marriage is not one of the grounds indicated whether under Sections 13 or 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, for grant of divorce, the said doctrine can be applied to a proceeding under either of the said two provisions only where the proceedings are before the Supreme Court. In exercise of its extraordinary powers under Article 142 of the Constitution the Supreme Court can grant relief to the parties without even waiting for the statutory period of six months stipulated in Section 13-B of the aforesaid Act. This doctrine of irretrievable break-down of marriage is not available even to the High Courts which do not have powers similar to those exercised by the Supreme Court under Article 142 of the Constitution. Neither the civil courts nor even the High Courts can, therefore, pass orders before the periods prescribed under the relevant provisions of the Act or on grounds not provided for in Section 13 and 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

30. The second proposition is that although the Supreme Court can, in exercise of its extraordinary powers under Article 142 of the Constitution, convert a proceeding under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, into one under Section 13-B and pass a decree for mutual divorce, without waiting for the statutory period of six months, none of the other Courts can exercise such powers. The other Courts are not competent to pass a decree for mutual divorce if one of the consenting parties withdraws his/her consent before the decree is passed. Under the existing laws, the consent given by the parties at the time of filing of the joint petition for divorce by mutual consent has to subsist till the second stage when the petition comes up for orders and a decree for divorce is finally passed and it is only the Supreme Court, which, in exercise of its extraordinary powers under Article 142 of the Constitution, can pass orders to do complete justice to the parties."

9. The provisions of the Hindu Marriage Act demonstrate an inherent respect for the institution of marriage, which contemplates the sacramental union of a man and a woman for life. However, there may be circumstances in which it may not reasonably be possible for the parties to the marriage to live together as husband and wife.

10. The Hindu Marriage Act, therefore has provisions for annulment of marriage in specified circumstances, which apply to marriages which are not valid in the eye of law and provisions of judicial separation and dissolution of marriage by decree of divorce on grounds provided in Section 13(1) of the said Act, which apply to cases where it is not reasonably possible for the parties to a marriage to live together as husband and wife.

11. Section 13B incorporated in the Hindu Marriage Act with effect from 27.5.1976, which provides for divorce by mutual consent, is not intended to weaken the institution of marriage. Section 13B puts an end to divorce proceedings between spouses, often undefended, but time consuming by reason of lengthy process of procedures. Section 13B also enables the parties to a marriage to avoid and/or shorten unnecessary bitter litigation, where the marriage may have irretrievably broken down and both the spouses may have mutually decided to part. But for Section 13B, the defendant spouse would often be constrained to defend the litigation, not to save the marriage, but only to refute prejudicial allegations, which if accepted by Court, might adversely affect the defendant spouse.

12. Legislature has, in its wisdom, enacted Section 13B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act to provide for a cooling period of six months from the date of filing of the divorce petition under Section 13B (1), in case the parties should change their mind and resolve their differences. After six months if the parties still wish to go ahead with the divorce, and make a motion, the Court has to grant a decree of divorce declaring the marriage dissolved with effect from the date of the decree, after making such enquiries as it considers fit.

13. The object of Section 13B(2) read with Section 14 is to save the institution of marriage, by preventing hasty dissolution of marriage. It is often said that "time is the best healer". With passage of time, tempers cool down and anger dissipates. The waiting period gives the spouses time to forgive and forget. If the spouses have children, they may, after some time, think of the consequences of divorce on their children, and reconsider their decision to separate. Even otherwise, the cooling period gives the couple time to think and reflect and take a considered decision as to whether they should really put an end to the marriage for all time to come.

14. In case of Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur (Supra), the question which arose for consideration before the Supreme Court was whether the minimum period of six months stipulated under Section 13-B(2) of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 for a motion for passing decree of divorce on the basis of mutual consent is mandatory or can be relaxed in any exceptional situation. After considering the relevant case law, the Supreme Court held as under in paragraph no. 9 of the judgment, which is as follows:

"9. After considering the above decisions, we are of the view that since Manish Goel (supra) holds the field, in absence of contrary decisions by a larger Bench, power under Article 142 of the Constitution cannot be exercised contrary to the statutory provisions, especially when no proceedings are pending before this Court and this Court is approached only for the purpose of waiver of the statute."

15. Thereafter, the Supreme Court considered the question whether Section 13-B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is to be read as mandatory or discretionary and held that the period mentioned in Section 13-B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act is not mandatory but directory. It will be open to the court to exercise its discretion is facts and circumstances of each case where there is no possibility of parties resuming cohabitation and there are chances of alternative rehabilitation.

16. In paragraph no. 18 & 19 of the Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur (Supra), the Apex Court held as under:

"18. Applying the above to the present situation, we are of the view that where the Court dealing with a matter is satisfied that a case is made out to waive the statutory period under Section 13B(2), it can do so after considering the following :

i) the statutory period of six months specified in Section 13B(2), in addition to the statutory period of one year under Section 13B(1) of separation of parties is already over before the first motion itself;

ii) all efforts for mediation/conciliation including efforts in terms of Order 32A Rule 3 CPC/Section 23(2) of the Act/Section 9 of the Family Courts Act to reunite the parties have failed and there is no likelihood of success in that direction by any further efforts;

iii) the parties have genuinely settled their differences including alimony, custody of child or any other pending issues between the parties;

iv) the waiting period will only prolong their agony."

19. The waiver application can be filed one week after the first motion giving reasons for the prayer for waiver."

17. In case Smt. Pratibha v. Gaurav passed in Matter Under Article 227 No. 1886 of 2020 decided on 04.03.2020, this Court held that the object of the provision is to enable the parties to dissolve a marriage by consent if the marriage has irretrievably broken down and to enable them to rehabilitate them as per available option. The amendment was inspired by a thought that forcible perpetuation of status of matrimony between unwilling partners did not serve any purpose. The object of cooling off the period was to safeguard against a hurried decision if there was otherwise possibility of differences being reconciled. The object was not to perpetuate a purposeless marriage or to prolong the agony of parties when there was no chance of reconciliation. Though every effort has to be made to save a marriage, if there are no chances of reunion and there are chance of fresh rehabilitation, the Court should not be powerless in enabling the parties to have a better option.

18. The Apex Court in case of Amit Kumar v. Suman Beniwal reported in 2021 SCC Online SC 1270, has held as under:

"21. The factors mentioned in Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur (supra), in Paragraph 19 are illustrative and not exhaustive. These are factors which the Court is obliged to take note of. If all the four conditions mentioned above are fulfilled, the Court would necessarily have to exercise its discretion to waive the statutory waiting period under Section 13B (2) of the Marriage Act.

22. The Family Court, as well as the High Court, have misconstrued the judgment of this Court in Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur (supra) and proceeded on the basis that this Court has held that the conditions specified in paragraph 19 of the said judgment, quoted hereinabove, are mandatory and that the statutory waiting period of six months under Section 13B (2) can only be waived if all the aforesaid conditions are fulfilled, including, in particular, the condition of separation of at least one and half year before making the motion for decree of divorce.

23. It is well settled that a judgment is a precedent for the issue of law that is raised and decided. A judgment is not to be read in the manner of a statute and construed with pedantic rigidity. In Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur (supra), this Court held that the statutory waiting period of at least six months mentioned in Section 13B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act was not mandatory but directory and that it would be open to the Court to exercise its discretion to waive the requirement of Section 13B(2), having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, if there was no possibility of reconciliation between the spouses, and the waiting period would serve no purpose except to prolong their agony.

27. For exercise of the discretion to waive the statutory waiting period of six months for moving the motion for divorce under Section 13B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, the Court would consider the following amongst other factors:

(i) the length of time for which the parties had been married;

(ii) how long the parties had stayed together as husband and wife;

(iii) the length of time the parties had been staying apart;

(iv) the length of time for which the litigation had been pending;

(v) whether there were any other proceedings between the parties;

(vi) whether there was any possibility of reconciliation;

(vii) whether there were any children born out of the wedlock;

(viii) whether the parties had freely, of their own accord, without any coercion or pressure, arrived at a genuine settlement which took care of alimony, if any, maintenance and custody of children, etc."

20. In the present case, the petitioner (husband) is aged about 34 years and the opposite party (wife) is aged about 32 years. They got married on 29.06.2020 and are living separately since 28.10.2020. It is the case of the parties that every effort to resolve their difference failed despite best efforts being made by their family members and other persons of the society. It is further admitted that since both the parties failed to reconcile their dispute they agreed for divorce by mutual consent and entered into a settlement according to which the husband had to pay a sum of Rs. 6,00,000/- to the wife. In the application which was jointly made by both the parties for waiving of the cooling period, it was stated that the husband was in lookout for a job outside of State of Uttar Pradesh and because of pendency of this proceeding, he was not able to join his new job and further the wife also wanted to restart her life after the divorce. In this case marriage was a non starter. Admittedly, the parties lived together only for few months. After which they have separated on account of irreconcilable differences. It is jointly stated by the parties that the efforts at reconciliation have failed. The parties are unwilling to live together as husband and wife. Even after over three years of separation, the parties still wants to go ahead with divorce. As the parties are living separately for more than three years soon after their marriage and they have entered into a compromise to settle their dispute amicably and has agreed for divorce, specially considering the age of the parties, no useful purpose would be served by making the parties wait except to prolong their agony rather it will be useful that both the parties may be given a chance to restart their life afresh after the divorce. It is also admitted, in the present case, that there are no issues out of the wedlock of the parties.

21. The order passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra is not consistent with the judgment of Supreme Court in case of Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur (Supra) and Amit Kumar v. Suman Beniwal (Supra).

22. Learned counsel appearing for petitioner also submitted that the application filed by the petitioner as well as opposite party for waiving off the cooling period under Section 13-B(2) of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 be itself allowed by this Court instead of remanding the matter back to the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra after setting aside the order to decide the same afresh. In this connection learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the judgment of Supreme Court in case of Hari Vishnu Kamath v. Syed Ahmad Ishaque and others reported in 1954 (2) SCC 881 wherein the Supreme Court held:

"We are also of opinion that the Election Tribunals are subject to the superintendence of the High Courts under article 227 of the Constitution, and that superintendence is both judicial and administrative. That was held by this Court in Waryam Singh v. Amarnath (1954) 1 SCC 51, where it was observed that in this respect article 227 went further than section 224 of the Government of India Act, 1935, under which the superintendence was purely administrative, and that it restored the position under section 107 of the Government of India Act, 1915. It may also be noted that while in a certiorari under article 226 the High Court can only annul the decision of the Tribunal, it can, under article 227, do that, and also issue further directions in the matter. We must accordingly hold that the application of the appellant for a writ of certiorari and for other reliefs was maintainable under articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution. (para 23)"

23. In case of Industrial Credit and Investment Corporation of India Ltd. v. Grapco Industries Ltd. and others reported in (1999) 4 SCC 710, the Supreme Court has held as under:

"14. The High Court also said that on merits as well the Tribunal was wrong in granting an ex parte order. It is not that High Court itself considered the merits of the case. The objection of the High Court was twofold: (1) the Tribunal did not give any reasons, and (2) it was an omnibus order and that there was no reference even to prayers in the application and that the prayers stood allowed "in terms of entire hog". Criticism of the High Court appears to be correct on that account. Judgment of the High Court, however, does not refer at all to the facts of the case and it proceeds more on abstract principles of law. There was no bar on the High Court to itself examine the merits of the case in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution if the circumstances so require. There is no doubt that High Court can even interfere with interim orders of the courts and tribunals under Article 227 of the Constitution if the order is made without jurisdiction. But then a too technical approach is to be avoided. When the facts of the case brought before the High Court are such that High Court can itself correct the error, then it should pass appropriate orders instead of merely setting aside the impugned order of the Tribunal and leaving everything in vacuum."

24. Though, the application under Section 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act has been filed jointly by both the parties and also that the application under Section 13-B(2) of Hindu Marriage Act has been filed by both the parties jointly. Since the opposite party has not appeared before this Court, it would be appropriate that a direction be issued to the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra to pass appropriate orders keeping in view the dictum of the Supreme Court in case of Sureshta Devi v. Om Prakash reported in (1991) 2 SCC 25 wherein the Apex Court has held that the consent given by the parties to the filing of a petition for a mutual divorce had to subsist till a decree was passed on the petition and that in the event, either of the party withdrew the consent before passing of the final decree, the petition under Section 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 would not survive and would have to be dismissed.

25. In view of the discussion made above, the writ petition is allowed and the judgment and order dated 10.01.2014 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra in H.M.A. Case No. 2978 of 2023 (Layak Singh v. Smt. Ekta Kumari), is hereby quashed.

26. The application filed by the petitioner as well as opposite party jointly for waiving off the 'cooling period' under Section 13-B (2) of Hindu Marriage Act, is also ""

27. The Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra is directed to consider and decide application filed by the petitioner as well as opposite party under Section 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act registered as H.M.A. Case No. 2978 of 2023 (Layak Singh v. Smt. Ekta Kumari), in accordance with law, expeditiously, preferably within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order after giving opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned and without granting unnecessary adjournments to either of the parties provided that there is no other legal impediment.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar Nigam, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mithilesh Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner. No one is present on behalf of the respondent, even in the revised call.

2. This petition has been filed for following relief:

“ Set aside the impugned order dated 11.05.2018 passed by learned Additional District & Sessions Judge, FTC, Court No. 2, Bijnor in M.P. no. 340 of 2015 (Devraj Singh Vs. Babli Devi) under section 13 Hindu Marriage Marriage Act”

3. Brief facts of the case as mentioned in the petition are that the plaintiff-petitioner filed a divorce petition being Divorce Petition No. 340 of 2015 on 05.05.2015. Notice was issued on 05.05.2015 to the defendant-respondent Babli Devi for filing written statement in the aforesaid divorce petition by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Bijnor. After receiving the notices issued in the aforesaid divorce petition, the defendant-respondent appeared and filed an application Ga-10 dated 18.01.2016 under Section 24 of the Hindu Marriage Act and prayed for amount of Rs. 25,000/- for expenses of the aforesaid litigation. After filing the aforesaid application dated 18.01.2016 under Section 24 of Hindu Marriage Act, the defendant-respondent has not filed the written statement and started delaying the disposal of the aforesaid divorce petition by seeking adjournments. On 04.01.2017, the case was directed to proceed ex-parte against the defendant-respondent fixing 16.03.2017. On 16.03.2017 defendant-respondent filed an application paper No. Ga-28 dated 16.03.2017 with the prayer that she may be given an opportunity to file written statement. The application filed by the defendant-respondent was allowed by the court. Thereafter, on 10.04.2018 the defendant-respondent Babli Devi filed an application (paper No. 44-Ga) in the aforementioned case and prayed for condonation of delay in filing the written statement and has also made a prayer to accept the written statement in the aforesaid case. Along with her application dated 10.04.2018, defendant-respondent has also filed his written statement paper No. 46-Ka. To the application (paper No.

44-Ga) filed by the defendant-respondent, petitioner filed his objections and has stated therein that under the provisions of Order 8 Rule 1 of C.P.C., written statement can be filed within maximum period of 90 days after receiving the notice of the case. The application filed by the defendant-respondent dated 10.04.2018, was filed after a lapse of two years and three months. The court below vide order dated 11.05.2018 allowed the application filed by the defendant-respondent paper No. 44-Ga on payment of cost of Rs. 1,500/- and has also accepted the written statement filed by the defendant-respondent paper No. 46 Ka. Hence the present petition.

4. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that under Order 8 Rule 1 as amended by Act No. 22 of 2002 (w.e.f. 01.07.2022) written statement can be filed within a maximum period of 90 days from the date of service of summons on the defendant. It has been further contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that after the amendment in Order 8 Rule 1 of C.P.C., there is no scope for granting any further time for filing written statement. It has been next contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that the provisions of Order 8 Rule 1 C.P.C. are mandatory in nature and the court below has no option but to reject the written statement, if filed beyond the period of 90 days.

5. Before proceeding the matter any further, it will be useful to look into the statutory provisions.

6. Order 8 Rule 1 provides that defendant shall file the written statement within 30 days from the date of service of summons. Proviso to Rule 1 of Order 8 C.P.C provides, in case, defendant fails to file the written statement within said period of 30 days, he shall be allowed to file the same on such other day as may be specified by the court, for reasons to be recorded in writing, but which shall not be later than 90 days from the date of service of summons.

Order 8 Rule 1 of C.P.C. is quoted as under:

“2[1. Written Statement.—The Defendant shall, within thirty days from the date of service of summons on him, present a written statement of his defence:

Provided that where the defendant fails to file the written statement within the said period of thirty days, he shall be allowed to file the same on such other day, as may be specified by the Court, for reasons to be recorded in writing, but which shall not be later than ninety days from the date of service of summons.]”

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the judgment of Apex Court in case of Aditya Hotels (P) Ltd. Vs. Bombay Swadesh Stores Ltd. And Others reported in A.I.R. 2007 SC 1574 and also relied upon the judgment in case of Kailash Vs. Nankhu & Others (2005) 4 SCC 480.

8. In case of Salem Advocate Bar Association Tamil Nadu Vs. Union of India (2005) 6 SCC 344, Supreme Court has held that the provision of Order 8 Rule 1 providing for the upper limit of 90 days to file the written statement is discretionary. Paragraph nos. 20 and 21 of the judgment in Salem Advocate Bar Association (supra) is quoted as under:

“20. The use of the word 'shall' in Order VIII Rule 1 by itself is not conclusive to determine whether the provision is mandatory or directory. We have to ascertain the object which is required to be served by this provision and its design and context in which it is enacted. The use of the word 'shall' is ordinarily indicative of mandatory nature of the provision but having regard to the context in which it is used or having regard to the intention of the legislation, the same can be construed as directory. The rule in question has to advance the cause of justice and not to defeat it. The rules of procedure are made to advance the cause of justice and not to defeat it. Construction of the rule or procedure which promotes justice and prevents miscarriage has to be preferred. The rules or procedure are handmaid of justice and not its mistress. In the present context, the strict interpretation would defeat justice.

21. In construing this provision, support can also be had from Order VIII Rule 10 which provides that where any party from whom a written statement is required under Rule 1 or Rule 9, fails to present the same within the time permitted or fixed by the Court, the Court shall pronounce judgment against him, or make such other order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit. On failure to file written statement under this provision, the Court has been given the discretion either to pronounce judgment against the defendant or make such other order in relation to suit as it thinks fit. In the context of the provision, despite use of the word 'shall', the court has been given the discretion to pronounce or not to pronounce the judgment against the defendant even if written statement is not filed and instead pass such order as it may think fit in relation to the suit. In construing the provision of Order VIII Rule 1 and Rule 10, the doctrine of harmonious construction is required to be applied. The effect would be that under Rule 10 of Order VIII, the court in its discretion would have power to allow the defendant to file written statement even after expiry of period of 90 days provided in Order VIII Rule 1. There is no restriction in Order VIII Rule 10 that after expiry of ninety days, further time cannot be granted. The Court has wide power to 'make such order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit'. Clearly, therefore, the provision of Order VIII Rule 1 providing for upper limit of 90 days to file written statement is directory. Having said so, we wish to make it clear that the order extending time to file written statement cannot be made in routine. The time can be extended only in exceptionally hard cases. While extending time, it has to be borne in mind that the legislature has fixed the upper time limit of 90 days. The discretion of the Court to extend the time shall not be so frequently and routinely exercised so as to nullify the period fixed by Order VIII Rule 1."

9. Again in case of Zolba Vs. Keshao and others reported in (2008) 11 SCC 769, Supreme Court following the judgment of Salem Advocate Bar Association (supra) held in paragraph 15 as under:-

"15. Therefore, following the principles laid down in the decision, as noted hereinabove, it would be open to the court to permit the appellant to file his written statement if exceptional circumstances have been made out. It cannot also be forgotten that in an adversarial system, no party should ordinarily be denied the opportunity of participating in the process of justice dispensation. Therefore, unless compelled by express and specific language of the statute, the provisions of Order 8 Rule 1 of CPC or any procedural enactment should not be construed in a manner, which would leave the court helpless to meet extraordinary situations in the ends of justice."

10. This Court in case of Aligarh Development Authority and others Vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2011 (Volume 9) ADJ Page 810 has held in paragraph no. 2 as under:

"2. The short submission of the petitioners is that the provision of Order VIII Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 are not mandatory but directory in nature. Proviso to Order VIII Rule 1 provides the courts power to grant extension but not beyond 90 days. However, the rule does not indicate as to what consequences flow from the non extension of time. Courts have power to grant extension beyond period of 90 days. Filing of written statement is matter of procedure. Intended purpose of the provision is to expedite the hearing in the matter but not to scuttle the same. The very purpose of the procedural law is to sub serve the ends of justices and not to override the same. If the provision is to be construed strictly than it can lead to miscarriage of justice. There may be instances where the defendants for unavoidable reasons is not able to file his written statement. In such eventuality by operation of law the right to file written statement will be closed. The intend and purpose of the rule by its mere language cannot obliterate the dispensation of justice. It is in this context this provision has to be treated as directory and not mandatory. However, this will not clothe the Court's power to extend the time for filing written statement for unspecified period. If there is no good cause to extend the time same shall be refused. Reliance has been placed on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Rani Kusum Vs Kanchan Devi and others reported in 2005 SAR (Civil) 694 in which in paragraph 11 it has been held that:-

"All the rules of procedure are the handmaid of justice. The language employed by the draftsman of procedural law may be liberal or stringent, but the act remains that the object of prescribing procedure is to advance the cause of justice. In an adversarial system, no party should ordinarily be denied the opportunity of participating in the process of justice dispensation. Unless compelled by express and specific language of the Statute, the provisions of the CPC or any other procedural enactment ought not to be construed in a manner which would leave the Court helpless to meet extraordinary situations in the ends of justice."

11. Supreme Court in case of Desh Raj Vs. Balkishan (D) Through Proposed LR Ms. Rohini; 2020 (2) SCC 708 held in paragraph no. 16 as under:-

"16. However, it would be gainsaid that although the unamended Order VIII Rule 1 of CPC is directory, it cannot be interpreted to bestow a free hand to on any litigant or lawyer to file written statement at their own sweetwill and/or to prolong the lis. The legislative objective behind prescription of timelines under the CPC must be given due weightage so that the disputes are resolved in a timebound manner. Inherent discretion of Courts, like the ability to condone delays under Order VIII Rule 1 is a fairly defined concept and its contours have been shaped through judicial decisions over the ages. Illustratively, extreme hardship or delays occurring due to factors beyond control of parties despite proactive diligence, may be just and equitable instances for condonation of delay."

12. The Supreme Court in Sangram Singh Vs. Election Tribunal Kotah & Anr. AIR 1955 Supreme Court 425 has held as under:-

"A code of procedure must be regarded as such. It is procedure, something designed to facilitate justice and further its ends: not a penal enactment for punishment and penalties; not a thing designed to trip people up. Too technical a construction of sections that leaves no room for reasonable elasticity of interpretation should therefore be guarded against (provided always that justice is done to both sides) lest the very means designed for the furtherance of justice be used to frustrate it. Our laws of procedure are grounded on a principle of natural justice which requires that men should not be condemned unheard, that decisions should not be reached behind their backs, that proceedings that affect their lives and property should not continue in their absence and that they should not be precluded from participating in them. Of course, there must be exceptions and where they are clearly defined they must be given effect to. But taken by and large, and subject to that proviso, our laws of procedure should be construed, wherever that is reasonably possible, in the light of that principle."

13. Again Supreme Court in case of Rajinder Tiwari Vs. Kedar Nath (Deceased) Thr L.Rs. & Ors. ; 2019 (14) SCC 286 has held in paragraph 18 as under:

“18. It is a settled law that all the contesting parties to the suit must get fair opportunity to contest the suit on merits in accordance with law. A decision rendered by the Courts in an unsatisfactory conducting of the trial of the suit is not legally sustainable. It is regardless of the fact that in whose favour the decision in the trial may go.”

14. Thus, it is well settled that the provision of Order 8 Rule 1 C.P.C. is discretionary and the trial court in exercise of discretion may permit the defendant to file written statement even after the statutory period of 90 days, as provided by Order 8 Rule 1 of C.P.C. The discretion has to be exercised reasonably for advancement of justice.

15. I have perused the order impugned passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge/ Fast Track Court No. 2 Bijnor. Finding has been recorded by the court below that the defendant-respondent appeared on 18.01.2016 and moved an application under Section 24 of Hindu Marriage Act claiming lump-sum amount for expenses for contesting the suit and different dates were fixed till 04.01.2017 for hearing the application filed by the defendant-respondent under Section 24 of the Hindu Marriage Act. On 04.01.2017 date was fixed as 19.01.2017 and on that date the defendant was not present and therefore, the case was directed to proceed against the defendant-respondent ex-parte fixing 16.03.2017. On 16.03.2017 defendant-respondent moved an application for recalling the order dated 19.01.2017 which was decided on 23.10.2017 and 17.01.2018 was fixed for written statement and 16.02.2018 was fixed for framing of issues.

16. Another finding has been recorded by the court below that by order of the Principal Judge, Family Court dated 17.01.2018 the file was transferred to the present court i.e. Additional District and Sessions Judge/ FTC Court No. 2 and the matter was referred for mediation to the Mediation Centre and after the report of the mediation centre dated 05.04.2018, the matter recommenced. On 10.04.2018, the application paper no. 44 Ga was moved by the defendant-respondent along with the written statement.

17. It has also been held by the court below that the application filed by the defendant-respondent for maintenance pendente lite dated 18.01.2016 has yet not been decided and the defendant-respondent cannot be held responsible for not disposal of the application filed by her. Court below has also recorded finding that the defendant-respondent bonafidely contested the case and in view of the principles of natural justice, both the parties should have reasonable opportunity to contest the matter and therefore, the application (paper No. 44 Ga) filed by the defendant-respondent is allowed and written statement (paper No. 46 Ka) is taken on record on payment of cost of Rs. 1,500/-.

18. In case of Sau. Vanita Pravin Gaikwad V. Sri Pravin Pundlik Gaikwad reported in A.I.R. 2010 Bombay 62:: 2010 (1) A.I.R. Bombay R 352, Bombay High Court has held, in case where respondent has applied under Section 24 of the Hindu Marriage Act for grant of litigation expenses, the said respondent cannot be compelled to file written statement unless an order is passed on the said application. If an order is passed in favour of the respondent directing the petitioner to pay litigation expenses, the respondent is expected to file written statement only after the amount is paid to the respondent. (para 13)

19. In case of Usha Tripathi Vs. Chakradhar Tripathi reported in A.I.R. 2009 Chhattisgarh 10, the Chhattisgarh High Court in paragraph nos. 2,3 and 6 of the judgment has held as under:

"2. Learned Counsel appearing for the petitioner submits that the petitioner and the respondent are wife and husband, respectively. Their marriage was solemnized on 22-5-1998 at Patthalgaon, District Jashpur and within the wedlock, one son was born on 15-3-1999. On 24-7-2007 the respondent/husband filed an application u/s 13 of The Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 (for short "The Act, 1955") for grant of a decree of divorce against the petitioner/wife, in the Family Court, Ambikapur. The application was registered as Civil Suit No. 36-A/2007. The notice was issued to the petitioner and the case was fixed for 18-9-2007 for conciliation. The petitioner appeared on 18-9-2007. In the conciliation proceeding, the petitioner had shown her desire to live with her husband/respondent. On 18-9-2007 the petitioner filed an application u/s 24 of the Act, 1955 and the case was fixed for 21-9-2007. Thereafter the case was fixed on various dates. On 16-1-2008 the petitioner filed an application for grant of time to file written statement. On 25-1-2008 the petitioner filed an application for grant of permission to engage a counsel, which was allowed and the case was fixed for 28-1-2008 for order on the application of the petitioner for grant of time to file written statement. By the impugned order dated 28-1-2008 the application of the petitioner for grant of time to file written statement was rejected by the trial Court. Being aggrieved, the petitioner has filed this petition.

3. Shri Subhash Yadav, learned Counsel appearing for the petitioner submits that on 18-9-2007 the case was fixed only for conciliation proceeding between the parties and there was no order for filing written statement. Though the conciliation proceeding failed on 18-9-2007 but the case was not fixed for filing written statement. Learned trial Court has erred in holding that the time for filing written statement has expired. The petitioner could engage a counsel on 25-1-2008, as such learned trial Court ought to have granted time to the petitioner to file written statement.

6. Having regard to the facts situation of the case and taking into consideration that the case on hand relates to a marital dispute, the ends of justice would be subserved if the petitioner is granted liberty to file written statement in Civil Suit No. 36-A/2007, within a period of one month from the date of receipt of a copy of this order.

20. In view of the law laid down as noted above, it is clear that the provision of Order 8 Rule 1 C.P.C. is directory and not mandatory. Ordinarily, the time schedule prescribed by Order 8 Rule 1 has to be honoured. The defendant should be vigilant. No sooner the summons are served on him, the defendant should take steps for filing written statement on the appointed date of hearing without waiting for the arrival of the date appointed in the summons for his appearance in the court. The extension of the time sought by the defendant from the court whether within 30 days or 90 days as the case may be should not be granted just as a matter of routine and merely for the asking, more so when the period of 90 days has expired. The extension can only be by way of exception and for reasons assigned by the defendant and recorded in writing by the court to its satisfaction.

21. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the court below have exercised the discretion arbitrarily in accepting the written statement filed by the defendant-respondent after the lapse of statutory period i.e. of 90 days.

22. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that the court below has exercised the discretion arbitrarily is misconceived. The Supreme Court in case of The Printers (Mysore) Private Ltd. Vs. Pothan Joseph reported in A.I.R. 1960 Supreme Court 1156 has held that the appellate court should be slow to interfere with the exercise of discretion by the trial court. Para 9 of the judgment in case of The Printers (Mysore) Private Ltd. (Supra) is quoted as under:-

“9. Where the discretion vested in the court under s. 34 has been exercised by the trial court the appellate court should be slow to interfere with the exercise of the said discretion. In dealing with the matter raised before it at the appellate stage the appellate court would normally not be justified in interfering with the exercise of discretion under appeal solely on the ground that if it had considered the matter at the trial stage it would have come to a contrary conclusion. If the discretion has been exercised by the trial court reasonably and in a judicial manner the fact that the appellate court would have taken a different view may not justify interference with the trial court's exercise of discretion. As is often said, it is ordinarily not open to the appellate court to substitute its own exercise of discretion for that of the trial judge; but if it appears to the appellate court that in exercising its discretion the trial court has acted unreasonably or capriciously or has ignored relevant facts and has adopted an unjudicial approach then it would certainly be open to the appellate court-and in many cases it may be its duty-to interfere with the trial court's exercise of discretion. In cases falling under this class the exercise of discretion by the trial court is in law wrongful and improper and that would certainly justify and call for interference from the appellate court. These principles are well established; but, as has been observed by Viscount Simon, L. C., in Charles Osenton & Co. v. Johnston (1) " the law as to the reversal by a court of appeal of an order made by a judge below in the exercise of his discretion is well established, and any difficulty that arises is due only to the application of well settled principles in an individual case".

23. Again in case of Wander Ltd. and Another Vs. Antox India Private Ltd. reported in 1990 (Supp) Supreme Court Cases 727 has reiterated the view and it is relevant to quote paragraph no. 14 of the judgment in case Wander Ltd. And another (supra)

“14. The appeals before the Division Bench were against the exercise of discretion by the Single Judge. In such appeals, the Appellate Court will not interfere with the exercise of discretion of the court of first instance and substitute its own discretion except where the discretion has been shown to have been exercised arbitrarily, or capriciously or perversely or where the court had ignored the settled principles of law regulating grant or refusal of interlocutory injunctions. An appeal against exercise of discretion is said to be an appeal on principle. Appellate Court will not reassess the material and seek to reach a conclusion different from the one reached by the court below if the one reached by the court was reasonably possible on the material. The appellate court would normally not be justified in interfering with the exercise of discretion under appeal solely on the ground that if it had considered the matter at the trial stage it would have come to a contrary conclusion. If the discretion has been exercised by the Trial Court reasonably and in a judicial manner the fact that the appellate court would have taken a different view may not justify interference with the trial court's exercise of discretion."

24. Again in case of Mohd. Mehtab Khan and others Vs. Khushnuma Ibrahim and others reported in A.I.R. 2013 Supreme Court Page 1099, in paragraph no. 15 has held as under:

"15. In a situation where the learned Trial Court on a consideration of the respective cases of the parties and the documents laid before it was of the view that the entitlement of the plaintiffs to an order of interim mandatory injunction was in serious doubt, the Appellate Court could not have interfered with the exercise of discretion by the learned Trial Judge unless such exercise was found to be palpably incorrect or untenable. The reasons that weighed with the learned Trial Judge, as already noticed, according to us, do not indicate that the view taken is not a possible view. The Appellate Court, therefore, should not have substituted its views in the matter merely on the ground that in its opinion the facts of the case call for a different conclusion. Such an exercise is not the correct parameter for exercise of jurisdiction while hearing an appeal against a discretionary order. While we must not be understood to have said that the Appellate Court was wrong in its conclusions what is sought to be emphasized is that as long as the view of the Trial Court was a possible view the Appellate Court should not have interfered with the same"

25. In the present case, the court below has recorded a finding that an application under Section 24 of Hindu Marriage Act was filed by the defendant-respondent for litigation expenses remained pending for no fault of the defendant respondent. The matter was sent for mediation and reconciliation, which ultimately failed and immediately thereafter, the petitioner moved an application for condoning the delay in filing the written statement and has filed the written statement along with the said application.

26. Thus in view of judgments referred above, it is settled that the higher court while either setting an appeal or even this Court while exercising supervisory power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India should not readily interfere with the discretion exercised by the court below unless the discretion has been shown to have been exercised arbitrarily, capriciously or perversely or where the court has ignored the settled principles of law governing the exercise of discretion.

27. In view of the discussion above, I find that discretion exercised by the court below cannot be said to be perverse or against the settled principles of law and therefore, requires no interference by this Court.

28. So far as, judgment relied upon by the counsel for the petitioner in case of Aditya Hotels Private Ltd. Vs. Bombay Swadesh Stores Ltd. And others (supra), the Supreme Court held that where the extension of time is granted under Order 8 Rule 1 of C.P.C., 1908 the reasons are to be recorded in writing, howsoever, the brief they may be, by the court.

29. In the present case, the court below has given reasons for allowing the application and accepting the written statement which was filed with delay by the defendant-respondent. In my considered opinion, no illegality has been committed by the court below in allowing the application filed by the defendant-respondent and taking the written statement filed by defendant-respondent on record.

30. From the perusal of order impugned, it is clear that the trial court while allowing the written statement filed by the defendant-respondent to be taken on record for deciding the suit on merits after affording the full opportunity to the defendants to contest the case and at the same time has also directed for payment of cost to the plaintiff, was in my view is in tune with the observations made by the Apex Court in case of Sangram Singh Vs. Election Tribunal Kotah & Anr. (supra) and did substantial justice to both the parties. In my view, order passed by the court below is just and no illegality is committed by the court below in passing the order impugned. Accordingly, the petition fails and is dismissed.

31. However, that since the present dispute is a marital dispute under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act and is pending before the Family Court and both the parties has now appeared and filed their respective pleadings before the Family Court. In view of provision of Section 21-B of the Hindu Marriage Act, which contemplates to conclude the trial within six months from the date of service of notice of the petition on the respondent. Section 21-B of the Hindu Marriage Act is quoted as under:

"21-B. Special provision relating to trial and disposal of petitions under the Act.-(1) The trial of a petition under this Act shall, so far as is practicable consistently with the interest of justice in respect of the trial, be continued from day to day until its conclusion unless the Court finds the adjournment of the trial beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded.

(2) Every petition under this Act shall be tried as expeditiously as possible and endeavour shall be made to conclude the trial within six months from the date of service of notice of the petition on the respondent.

(3) Every appeal under this Act shall be tried as expeditiously as possible, and endeavour shall be made to conclude the hearing within three months from the date of service of notice of appeal on the respondent."

32. Additional District & Sessions Judge, F.T.C. Court No. 2, Bijnor is directed to consider and decide the aforesaid pending proceedings before him in accordance with law expeditiously after giving opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned as well as opportunity of leading evidence in respect of their case and without granting unnecessary adjournments to either of the parties provided that there is no other legal impediment, keeping in view the statutory mandate of Section 21-B of the Hindu Marriage Act quoted above.

Counsel for the Respondent:

(A) Civil Law - Rejection of Complaint - The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order VII Rule 11 - The Limitation Act, 1963 - Article 59 - Court can reject a complaint under Order VII Rule 11 if it appears from the statements made in the complaint that the suit is barred by any law, including the law of limitation - Power to reject a complaint under Order VII Rule 11 is drastic and should be exercised only when the conditions enumerated in Order VII Rule 11 are strictly adhered to - It is only if the averments in the complaint ex facie do not disclose a cause of action or on a reading thereof the suit appears to be barred under any law, the complaint can be rejected - In all other situations the claims will have to be adjudicated in the course of trial. (Para -13,29)

(B) The Limitation Act, 1963 - Article 59 of the Schedule - Limitation for filing suit for cancellation or setting aside an instrument or decree or for rescission of a contract is three years - it is the date of the knowledge of the instrument which is the material date for start of period of limitation and not the date of instrument. (Para - 7,17)

Plaintiff-respondent filed Original Suit - seeking cancellation of sale deed executed in 2008 - alleging they only became aware of the deed in 2019 through inspection of records - defendant filed for rejection of complaint under Order VII Rule 11 on grounds of limitation - suit was filed 11 years after the deed - Both the trial and revisional courts dismissed the application - Defendant-petitioner filed writ petition challenging the orders. (Para - 4,18,27)

HELD: - Courts below rightly rejected the application under Order VII Rule 11, as the issue of limitations is a mixed question of law and fact to be decided after considering evidence and hearing parties. Defendant-petitioners can raise the plea of limitation in their written statement and get an issue framed for consideration at trial. Section 3(1) of the Indian Limitation Act mandates the court to consider limitation even if not raised by parties. (Para 27, 30-32)

5. P.V. Guru Raj Reddy & anr. Vs P. Neeradha Reddy & ors, (2015) 8 SCC 331

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar Nigam, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and perused the record.

2. The present petition has been filed for the following reliefs:

"(i) Issue an order or direction setting aside the order dated 21.10.2021 passed by the Court of Civil Judge (Junior Division/ Judicial Magistrate Deoband, Saharanpur in Original Suit No. 232 of 2019 title Khurshid alias Bhoora vs. Mohammad Usman and others.

ii) Issue an order or direction setting aside the order dated 06.10.2023 passed in Civil Revision No. 79 of 2021 titled Mohammad Usman and others Vs. Khurshid alias Bhoora passed by the Court of Additional District Judge Court No. 1, Saharanpur.

iii) Issue an order or direction directing that the plaint of Original Suit No. 232 of 2019 title Khurshid alias Bhoora vs. Mohammad Usman and others pending before the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Deoband Saharanpur may be rejected under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C.

iv) Or, Issue an order or direction directing that the plea raised in the application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. may be decided as an issue without prejudice to the findings recorded in the impugned orders."

3. This writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 21.10.2021 passed by Civil Judge (Junior Division) Deoband, Saharanpur rejecting the application filed by the defendant-petitioner under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. in Original Suit No. 232 of 2019 (Khurshid @ Bhoora Vs. Mohd. Usman and Others) and the revisional order passed by the Additional District Judge Court No. 1, Saharanpur, dismissing the Civil Revision No. 79 of 2021 filed by defendant-petitioner (Mohd. Usman and others Vs. Khursid Alias Boora) vide judgment and order dated 06.10.2023.

4. Brief facts of the case are that Original Suit No. 232 of 2019 was instituted by the plaintiff-respondent for cancellation of sale-deed dated 22.01.2008 executed by the father of the plaintiff in favour of the defendants. The defendant-petitioners contested the suit by filing the written statement and taking a specific plea that the suit was barred by limitation. An application under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. was filed by the defendant-petitioners for rejection of plaint as being barred by limitation. The plaintiff-respondent filed their objection to the aforesaid application and the trial court after hearing both the parties by its order dated 21.10.2021 has rejected the application filed by the defendant-petitioners under Order VII Rule 11 on the ground that the question of limitation being a mixed question of law and fact and therefore, the same would be decided after the evidence of the parties. A revision filed by the petitioner was also dismissed by the revisional court by its order dated 06.10.2023, hence the present writ petition.

5. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that from the perusal of the plaint averments as well as documents filed along with the plaint, it is apparent, that the suit was barred by limitation and the courts below had erred in law in rejecting the application filed by the petitioner under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. Learned counsel for the petitioner contended that in view of Article 59 of the Schedule appended with the Limitation Act, 1963 the period of limitation for cancellation or setting aside an instrument is three years. The sale-deed executed by father of the plaintiff was of the year 2008 whereas, the present suit had been filed in the year 2019 much beyond the period of limitation. It has been further contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that from perusal of the Khatauni, which was filed along with the plaint by the plaintiff-respondent, it is clear that the plaintiff-respondent had knowledge of the sale deed dated 22.01.2008 and the suit was barred by limitation.

6. It will be useful to examine the provisions of Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. as well as Article 59 of the Schedule appended along with Limitation Act, 1963 and other provisions as contained in the C.P.C. Order VII Rule 11 is quoted as under:

(a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;

(b) where the relief claimed is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(c) where the relief claimed is properly valued but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(d) where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law;

[(e) where it is not filed in duplicate];

[(f) where the plaintiff fails to comply with the provisions of rule 9];

[Provided that the time fixed by the Court for the correction of the valuation or supplying of the requisite stamp-papers shall not be extended unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, is satisfied that the plaintiff was prevented by any cause of an exceptional nature from correcting the valuation or supplying the requisite stamp-papers, as the case may be, within the time fixed by the Court and that refusal to extend such time would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff.]”

7. Article 59 of Schedule appended to the Limitation Act, 1963 is contained in Part 4 of the Schedule 2, provides limitation for suits relating to cancellation of decree and instruments. Article 59 of Schedule appended to the Limitation Act is quoted as under:-

Part IV- Suits relating to Decrees and Instruments.

59. To cancel or set aside an instrument or decree or for the rescission of a contract.	Three years	When the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the instrument or decree cancelled or set aside or the contract rescinded first become known to him

8. From the reading of Clause 11(d) of Order VII C.P.C., it is clear where the suit appears from the statements in the plaint to be barred by any law, the Court shall reject the plaint.

9. Indeed, Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. gives ample power to the Court to reject the plaint, if from the averments in the plaint, it is evident that the suit is barred by any law including the law of limitation, this position is no more res integra.

10. The remedy under Order VII Rule 11 is an independent and special remedy, wherein the court is empowered to summarily dismiss a suit at the threshold, without proceeding to record evidence, and conducting a trial, on the basis of evidence adduced, if it is satisfied that the action should be terminated on any of the grounds contained in this provision.

11. The underlying object of Order VII Rule 11 is that if in a suit, no cause of action is disclosed or the suit is barred by limitation under Rule 11(d), the court would not permit the plaintiff to unnecessarily protract the proceedings in the suit. In such case, it would be necessary to put an end to the sham litigation, so that further judicial time is not wasted.

12. In Azhar Hussain Vs. Rajiv Gandhi reported in 1986 Supp SCC 315 this Court held that the whole purpose of conferment of powers under this provision is to ensure that a litigation which is meaningless, and bound to prove abortive, should not be permitted to waste judicial time of the court in the following words:

“12. ...The whole purpose of conferment of such power is to ensure that a litigation which is meaningless, and bound to prove abortive should not be permitted to occupy the time of the Court, and exercise the mind of the respondent. The sword of Damocles need not be kept hanging over his head unnecessarily without point or purpose. Even if an ordinary civil litigation, the Court readily exercises the power to reject a plaint, if it does not disclose any cause of action.”

13. The power conferred on the court to terminate a civil action is, however, a drastic one, and the conditions enumerated in Order VII Rule 11 are required to be strictly adhered to.

14. Under Order VII Rule 11, a duty is cast on the Court to determine whether the plaint discloses a cause of action by scrutinizing the averments in the plaint, read in conjunction with the documents relied upon, or whether the suit is barred by any law.

15. Order VII Rule 11(d) CPC provides that the plaint shall be rejected “where the suit appears from the statement made in the plaint to be barred by any law”, hence, in order to decide whether the suit is barred by law, it is the statement in the plaint will have to be construed. The Court while deciding such an application under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. must have due regard only to the statements made in the plaint. Whether the suit is barred by any law must be determined from the statements in the plaint and it is not open to decide the issue on the basis of any other material including the written statement in the case.

16. In case of Madanuri Sri Rama Chandra Murthy Vs. Syed Jalal; (2017) 13 SCC 174; (2017) 5 SCC (Civ) 602; the Apex Court has summarized the legal position as follows :-

“The plaint can be rejected under Order VII Rule 11 if conditions enumerated in the said provision are fulfilled. It is needless to observe that the power under Order VII Rule 11 CPC be exercised by the Court at any stage of the suit. The relevant facts which need to be looked into for deciding the application are the averments of the plaint only. If on an entire and meaningful reading of the plaint, it is found that the suit is manifestly vexatious and meritless in the sense of not disclosing any right to sue, the court should exercise power under Order VII Rule 11 CPC. Since the power conferred on the Court to terminate civil action at the threshold is drastic, the conditions enumerated under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC to the exercise of power of rejection of plaint have to be strictly adhered to. The averments of the plaint have to be read as a whole to find out whether the averments disclose a cause of action or whether the suit is barred by any law. It is needless to observe that the question as to whether the suit is barred by any law, would always depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. The averments in the written statement as well as the contentions of the defendant are wholly immaterial while considering the prayer of the defendant for rejection of the plaint. Even when the allegations made in the plaint are taken to be correct as a whole on their face value, if they show that the suit is barred by any law, or do not disclose cause of action, the application for rejection of plaint can be entertained and the power under Order VII Rule 11 CPC can be exercised. If clever drafting of the plaint has created the illusion of a cause of action, the court will nip it in the bud at the earliest so that bogus litigation will end at the earlier stage."

17. Article 59 of the Schedule appended with Limitation Act, 1963, provides that limitation for filing suit for cancellation or setting aside an instrument or decree or for rescission of a contract is three years. Time from which the period of limitation will start has also been provided in Article 59 and according to which when the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the instrument or the decree cancelled or set aside or the contract rescinded first become known to the plaintiff. Thus, from the Article 59 of the Schedule, it is clear that though the limitation have been provided for cancellation or setting aside an instrument is three years, but the limitation will start running only when the plaintiff comes to know about the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the instrument cancelled or set aside become first known to him. Thus, it is the date of the knowledge of the instrument which is the material date for start of period of limitation and not the date of instrument.

18. With the help of counsel for the petitioner, I have perused the plaint of O.S. No. 232 of 2019 filed by the plaintiff-respondent, which has been filed as Annexure No. 1 to this petition. In paragraph nos. 2 and 3 the plaintiff-respondent had made an averment to the effect that when the plaintiff-respondent obtained copy of Khatauni on 31.10.2019, the plaintiff-respondent came to know about the order dated 26.09.2019 by which the name of plaintiff-respondent was deleted from the revenue record. When the plaintiff-respondent moved an application for recalling the order dated 26.09.2019 and got the file inspected in the Registry Office, he came to know about the sale-deed dated 22.01.2008.

19. At this juncture, it would be relevant to refer the provisions of Order VII Rule 6 of C.P.C., which is quoted as under:-

"6. Grounds of exemption from limitation law.

Where the suit is instituted after the expiration of the period prescribed by the law of limitation, the plaintiff shall show the ground upon which exemption from such law is claimed:

Provided that the Court may permit the plaintiff to claim exemption from the law of limitation on any ground not set out in the plaint, if such ground is not inconsistent with the grounds set out in the plaint."

20. Rule 6 of Order VII provides that where the suit is barred by limitation, it is necessary for the plaintiff to show the ground of exemption in the plaint. The provisions of Rule 6 are mandatory in nature, whenever the plaintiff seeks exemption from the operation of law of limitation, he must take grounds on which such exemption is sought. If no such ground is shown by the plaintiff, the plaint is liable to be rejected.

21. However, after the 1976 amendment a proviso was added to Rule 6. Proviso to the Rule as inserted by Amendment Act, 1976 enables the court to permit a plaintiff to rely on a new ground of exemption, if it is not inconsistent with the ground mentioned in the plaint. In case of P.C. Bhandari Vs. New Victoria Mills reported in A.I.R. 1979 Allahabad Page 1, it has been held by this Court where in a suit instituted for recovery of debt, the plaintiff sought exemption from limitation law relying on a letter of acknowledgement written by the defendant after the expiry of 3 years from the date of transaction and also referred to his two letters making conditional acknowledgement not pleaded in his statement of claim as saving limitation. It has been held that after the amendment in the Order VII Rule 6 of the

C.P.C., there can be no impediment in taking into consideration the two letters for the purpose referred to in the opening part of the proviso to Rule 6. The Rule 6 has to be liberally interpreted so as to advance the cause of justice since the proviso being procedural in nature.

22. From the averments as made in paragraph nos. 2 and 3 of the plaint referred above, it is clear that the plaintiff-respondent has claimed exemption from the law of limitation and has made necessary pleadings in this regard as contemplated by Rule 6 of Order VII and therefore, on the plain reading of the plaint, it cannot be said that the present suit is barred by limitation as contended by learned counsel for the petitioner.

23. Since at the stage of deciding an application under Order VII Rule 11, C.P.C., it is only the plaint averments has to be seen. In the present case, from the reading of the plaint as a whole and proceeding on the basis that the averments made therein are correct, which is that the court is required to do so, it cannot be said that the said pleadings ex-facie disclose that the suit is barred by limitation.

24. So far as contention raised by learned counsel for the petitioner that the suit itself was instituted after lapse of more than 11 years from the date of execution of the sale-deed and the plaintiff-respondent had knowledge of the sale-deed as stated by the petitioner in his application under Order VII Rule 11, cannot be looked into at this stage of considering the application moved by the petitioner under Order VII Rule 11(d) C.P.C.

25. Learned counsel for the petitioner further contended that it is not only the plaint but also the documents filed by the petitioner along with the plaint has to be taken into consideration while deciding an application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. In this regard, the petitioner has relied upon judgment of the Supreme Court in case of Dahiben Vs. Arvindbhai Kalyanji Bhanusali (Gajra) Dead reported in (2020) 7 S.C.C. 366. In case of Dahiben (supra), the Apex Court in paragraph nos. 12.2, 12.3, 12.4, 12.5 and 12.6 had held as under:

"12.2 The power conferred on the court to terminate a civil action is, however, a drastic one, and the conditions enumerated in Order VII Rule 11 are required to be strictly adhered to.

12.3 Under Order VII Rule 11, a duty is cast on the Court to determine whether the plaint discloses a cause of action by scrutinizing the averments in the plaint, Liverpool & London S.P. & I Assn. Ltd. vs. M.V. Sea Success I & Anr., (2004) 9SCC 512, read in conjunction with the documents relied upon, or whether the suit is barred by any law.

12.4 Order VII Rule 14(1) provides for production of documents, on which the plaintiff places reliance in his suit, which reads as under :

"Order VII Rule 14: Production of document on which plaintiff sues or relies.— (1)Where a plaintiff sues upon a document or relies upon document in his possession or power in support of his claim, he shall enter such documents in a list, and shall produce it in Court when the plaint is presented by him and shall, at the same time deliver the document and a copy thereof, to be filled with the plaint.

(2)Where any such document is not in the possession or power of the plaintiff, he shall, wherever possible, state in whose possession or power it is.

(3)A document which ought to be produced in Court by the plaintiff when the plaint is presented, or to be entered in the list to be added or annexed to the plaint but is not produced or entered accordingly, shall not, without the leave of the Court, be received in evidence on his behalf at the hearing of the suit.

(4)Nothing in this rule shall apply to document produced for the cross examination of the plaintiff's witnesses, or, handed over to a witness merely to refresh his memory." (emphasis supplied)

Having regard to Order VII Rule 14 CPC, the documents filed alongwith the plaint, are required to be taken into consideration for deciding the application under Order VII Rule 11 (a). When a document referred to in the plaint, forms the basis of the plaint, it should be treated as a part of the plaint.

12.5 In exercise of power under this provision, the Court would determine if the assertions made in the plaint are contrary to statutory law, or judicial dicta, for deciding whether a case for rejecting the plaint at the threshold is made out.

12.6 At this stage, the pleas taken by the defendant in the written statement and application for rejection of the plaint on the merits, would be irrelevant, and cannot be adverted to, or taken into consideration. Sopan Sukhdeo Sable vs. Assistant Charity Commissioner, (2004) 3 SCC 137."

26. I have also perused the revenue records filed by the plaintiff-respondent along with his plaint and which are annexed as Annexure no. 2 to the petition with the help of counsel for the petitioner, but could not find anything which may lead to a conclusion that the petitioner had knowledge of the impugned sale-deed and therefore, the suit is barred by limitation. Further stand taken and explained by counsel for the petitioner in his application under Order VII Rule 11 cannot be considered at this stage.

27. The courts below has rejected the application under Order VII Rule 11 filed by the petitioner on the ground the issue of limitation has to be decided after framing an issue in this regard and deciding the same after considering the evidence of the parties and hearing them.

28. Question of limitation is generally a mixed question of law and fact. In case of Ramesh B Desai and others vs. Vipin Vadilal Mehta and others; (2006) 5 SCC 638; the Apex Court while dealing with the issue of limitation held that a plea of limitation cannot be decided as an abstract principle of law divorced from facts, as in every case, the starting point of limitation has to be ascertained which is entirely a question of fact.

29. In case of P.V. Guru Raj Reddy and Another Vs. P. Neeradha Reddy and others; (2015) 8 SCC 331, the Apex Court held that rejection of the plaint under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC is a drastic power conferred in the Court to terminate a civil action at the threshold. The conditions precedent to the exercise of power under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, therefore, are stringent and have been consistently held to be so by the Court. It is the averments in the plaint that have to be read as a whole to find out whether it discloses a cause of action or whether the suit is barred under any law. At the stage of exercise of power under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, the stand of the defendants in the written statement or in the application for rejection of the plaint is wholly immaterial. It is only if the averments in the plaint ex facie do not disclose a cause of action or on a reading thereof the suit appears to be barred under any law, the plaint can be rejected. In all other situations the claims will have to be adjudicated in the course of trial.

30. The courts below have rightly held that the issue of limitation being a mixed question of law and facts and has to be decided after considering the evidence of the parties and hearing them after framing an issue as to the limitation.

31. In my view no illegality has to be committed by the courts below in rejecting the application filed by the petitioner under Order VII Rule 11(d) of C.P.C. Petitioner will always have an opportunity to raise the plea of limitation in his written statement and to get an issue framed in this regard, which shall be considered and decided by the courts below at the time of hearing after considering the evidence of the parties.

32. Even otherwise, in view of Section 3(1) of the Indian Limitation Act, it is the duty of the Court or Tribunal to consider the issue of limitation of its own even though the issue of limitation has not been raised by either of the parties. In this regard, Section 3 of the Indian Limitation Act is quoted as under :-

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Transport Service Vs St. Transport Appellate Tribunal, AIR 1987 SC 88). (2) New grounds raised in the second petition, available during the first petition, indicated an attempt at bench hunting and abuse of process, as the Supreme Court's order dated 04.12.2023 in SLP (Crl.) Diary No. 45613/2023 permitted only an application, likely a review, not a fresh challenge. (3) Re-hearing on merits through a review application was impermissible, as it exceeded the scope of review (Vinod Kumar Vs St. of U.P., 2022 (11) ADJ 25 (DB)). Second writ petition dismissed with Rs. 20,000/- cost, to be deposited with the Registrar General for the Allahabad High Court Mediation and Conciliation Centre. (Paras 5-12)

Writ Petition Dismissed.

List of Cases cited:

1. Sarguja Transport Service Vs St. Transport Appellate Tribunal, AIR 1987 SC 88 (Para 6)
2. Vinod Kumar Vs St. of U.P., 2022 (11) ADJ 25 (DB) (Para 10)
3. Shraddha Gupta Vs The St. of U.P., Criminal Appeal No. 569-570 of 2022 (Para 3, cited in earlier petition)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sandeep Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ratan Singh, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. Present petition has been filed with the following prayers:

“a. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned First Information Report dated 22.05.2023 bearing Case Crime No. 185 of 2023, under Section 2/3 of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station Partapur, District Meerut.

b. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing Investigation Officer not to arrest petitioner pursuant to impugned first information report.”

3. Admittedly, earlier the petitioner approached this Court challenging the same First Information Report dated 22.5.2023 registered as Case Crime No. 185 of 2023, under Section 2/3 of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 by filing a writ petition being Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10390 of 2023 (Mohammad Anees vs. State of UP and others), which was dismissed on 13.7.2023. The said order is quoted as under:

“1. Heard Sri Aditya Prasad Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ratan Singh, learned AGA for the State respondents.

2. Present petition has been filed with a prayer for quashing the F.I.R. dated 22.5.2023 registered as Case Crime No. 185 of 2023 under Section 2/3 U.P. Gangster and Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station Partapur, District Meerut with a further prayer not to arrest the petitioner in pursuance of the impugned F.I.R.

3. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that in the base FIR the petitioner was not named and he was granted bail and only two cases have been mentioned in the gangster chart against the petitioner.

4. Learned A.G.A. submits that the petitioner has been chargesheeted in the base FIR and there are two cases and provisions of Gangster Act can be imposed on the basis of solitary case, which issue has already been decided by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shraddha Gupta vs The State Of Uttar Pradesh decided on 26 April, 2022 in Criminal Appeal No. 569-570 of 2022.

5. On perusal of the record and the first information report, we find that cognizable offence is made out. We further find that Criminal Writ Petition No. 10538 of 2023 filed by the co-accused has already been dismissed vide order dated 11.7.2023.

6. In view of the above, we do not find any good ground to take a different view in the matter.

7. Accordingly, the writ petition stands dismissed.”

4. Against the aforesaid order dated 13.7.2024, the petitioner filed Special Leave Petition (Criminal) Diary No(s). 45613 of 2023 (Mohammed Anees vs. State of U.P. & Ors.), which, after arguing for some time, was got dismissed as withdrawn vide order dated 4.12.2023, and after permission having been granted, liberty was given to the petitioner to approach the High Court for appropriate relief. It was further pointed out that if such an application is filed, the same shall be considered and decided in accordance with law. The said order dated 4.12.2023 passed in the said SLP is quoted as under:

“After arguing for some time, learned counsel for the petitioner seeks leave to withdraw the special leave petition.

Permission granted.

Accordingly, the Special Leave Petition is dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to approach the High Court for appropriate relief. If such an application is filed, the same shall be considered and decided in accordance with law.”

(Emphasis supplied)

5. Perusal of the aforesaid order clearly reflects that the matter was argued for some time before the Hon’ble Apex court and it is only thereafter the Special Leave Petition was got dismissed as withdrawn. It is clear that no liberty to file a fresh writ petition challenging the first information report impugned herein was given by the Hon’ble Apex Court. It was, however, left open that “if such an application is filed, the same shall be considered and decided in accordance with law”. The word “application” clearly indicates that it is not the permission granted to file second writ petition for the same cause of action before this Court, but only an application in the decided petition could have been filed, which may be either review application, which obviously would have been placed before the same Bench decided the writ petition (Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10390 of 2023) and as the second Judge has been transferred from this Court, the same would have been placed before the Bench presided over by the Senior Judge of that Bench. In that case, there is no occasion that present petition would have been placed before the regular Bench as the roster has changed and there is a different Bench to consider the fresh petition on merits afresh. We, however, find that appropriate Bench after perusal of the order dated 13.7.2023 passed by the Bench presided by one of us (Vivek Kumar Birla, J.) passed the following order on 1.2.2024:

“The petitioner earlier filed a writ petition being Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10390 of 2023 (Mohammad Anees Vs. State of U.P. and 2 Others) was dismissed on 23.07.2023 by the Bench comprising of Hon’ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J. and Hon’ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J. Thereafter, the petitioner filed SLP being Special Leave Petition (Criminal) Dairy No(s). 45613 of 2023, which was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to approach the High Court for appropriate relief.

In view of the same, let this case be listed on 20.02.2024 as fresh before the appropriate Bench after seeking nomination from Hon’ble The Acting Chief Justice.”

6. In pursuance of the aforesaid order, present petition has been placed before this Bench as another second Hon’ble Judge (Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.) has been transferred from this High Court. We find that filing of second petition challenging the same impugned FIR, unless the permission is granted, is not maintainable. The law has been settled long back by Hon’ble Apex Court in the case of Sarguja Transport Service vs. State Transport Appellate Tribunal, AIR 1987 SC 88. The filing of second petition afresh on absolutely different grounds is more glaring as a different counsel has put in appearance and has challenged the same impugned FIR on different grounds and is thus, clearly seeking re-hearing of the matter before a different Bench now having jurisdiction over such matters. The permission was granted by the Hon’ble Apex Court to file “an application”, which obviously would have been automatically placed before this Bench. Therefore, we find that this is nothing but an attempt to avoid the Bench, which had earlier dismissed the petition and amounts to Bench hunting. The grounds taken in the earlier writ petition (Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10390 of 2023) are quoted as under:

"I. Because the story of impugned F.I.R. dated 22.05.2023 is concocted having no truthfulness. In this case no offence is made out under Section 2/3 U.P. Gangster and Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act 1986 against petitioner and impugned F.I.R. dated 22.05.2023 is liable to be quash by this Hon'ble Court.

II. Because the petitioner is innocent and he has no occasion to surrender and go behind the bar.

III. Because the petitioner is a peace loving and law abiding citizen of the society.

IV. Because both the cases mentioned in the Gang Chart of the present case imposed on the petitioner on the single day in a single instance.

V. Because so far as case of the Investigation of Case Crime No.110 of 2022 Under Section 3/8 Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, Under Section 11 (Tha) Animal Cruelty Act and Under Section 34 IPC, Police Station Partapur District Meerut and Case Crime No.113 of 2022 Under Section 3/8 Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act and Under Section 34 I.P.C. Police Station Partapur District- Meerut is still pending.

VI. Because once the investigation of aforesaid both the cases is still pending, in the event there was no occasion with the Respondent No.2/3 to get register the impugned F.I.R. dated 22.05.2023 against the petitioner.

VII. Because under the identical facts and circumstances, this Hon'ble Court has made interference under the Writ Jurisdiction and quash the F.I.R. of U/s 2/3 U.P. Gangster Act vide order dated 01.02.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.15593 of 2023.

VIII. Because under the aforementioned circumstances petitioner cannot be say as a "Gangster". His alleged act does not come under the purview of the "Gangster".

IX. Because once the investigation of aforesaid both the cases is still pending, in the event there was no occasion with the Respondent No.2/3 to get register the impugned F.I.R. dated 22.05.2023.

7. Present petition has been filed with the following grounds:

"A. BECAUSE from perusal of entire record, it is crystal clear that no joint meeting of respective authorities were done in compliance of Section 5(3)(a) of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021, therefore, impugned first information report is liable to be set aside by this Hon'ble Court.

B. BECAUSE no separate list of criminal history was attached by the respondent number 4 while sending the gang chart for approval before respective authorities as required under Rule 5(3)(e) of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021, hence impugned first information report is liable to be quashed by this Hon'ble Court.

C. BECAUSE no up-to-date status of cases mentioned against petitioner has been mentioned in the gang chart pursuant to Rule 8 of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021, therefore impugned first information report is liable to be quashed by this Hon'ble Court.

D. BECAUSE Rule 8(3) of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 clearly says that the latest status of the cases against the gang, which are being shown in the gang-chart, regarding their pendency in the Special Court, the convictions or the state at which they are in the Court, must be clearly mentioned, the said mandatory provision has conveniently skipped by the respondent number 4, therefore, impugned first information report is liable to be set aside by this Hon'ble Court.

E. BECAUSE it is crystal clear from the undated cognizance and summoning order passed pursuant to the charge sheet dated 29.12.2022 arising out of Case Crime Number 113 of 2022 registered at Police Station Partapur, Meerut that the same was passed subsequent to the lodging of present first information report.

F. BECAUSE just to accommodate the police authorities in the impugned first information report, Learned Magistrate pass cognizance and summoning order without any date.

G. BECAUSE at the time of lodging of impugned first information report, no cognizance order in case arising of Case Crime Number 113 of 2022 was passed, hence instant writ petition deserves to be allowed by this Hon'ble Court on this ground alone.

H. BECAUSE Rule 18 of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 deals with Format of the Gang Chart and it clearly says that the "Gang Chart shall be sent only in the manner as given in Form No. 1 of these rules." From perusal of Form No. (1) Format of Gang Chart, column number 6 requires Details and current status of criminal cases.

I. BECAUSE from perusal of the gang chart enclosed herein above, the same is completely missing, hence the same is not according to Rule 18 of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021; therefore impugned first information report is liable to be set aside by this Hon'ble Court.

J. BECAUSE there is no strict compliance of Rule 16 and 17 of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 in the present case and therefore, impugned first information report is nothing but a colorable exercise of power vested in respondent number 4, therefore impugned first information report is liable to be set aside by this Hon'ble Court.

K. BECAUSE respective authorities who are duty bound to look into as to whether the gang chart has been prepared according to The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 and further as to whether all the formalities have been fulfilled or not had clearly overlooked relevant mandatory provision while approving gang chart resulting in impugned first information report, hence the same is liable to be set aside by this Hon'ble Court.

L. BECAUSE competent authorities has forwarded their recommendations in a very casual manner without applying their independent mind.

M. BECAUSE in the present case, approval of gang chart is nothing but a total non-application of independent mind of respective authorities involved in approval of gang chart against petitioner, therefore, the instant writ petition deserves to be allowed by this Hon'ble Court by quashing impugned first information report dated 22.05.2023.

N. BECAUSE from perusal of entire available with the petitioner, it is crystal clear that while approving the gang-chart, competent District Magistrate, Meerut did not hold any discussion that any joint meeting as required under Rule 5(3)(a) of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 has been held, therefore the same is clear violation of mandatory provision implemented with the Rules of 2021.

O. BECAUSE the present first information report is nothing but an abuse of the process just to falsely implicate and humiliate petitioner pursuant to impugned first information report.

P. BECAUSE police of concerned police station is raiding the house of petitioner in order to arrest him; petitioner had an apprehension that he would be arrested in connection with the above false case.

Q. BECAUSE first informant/respondent number 4 has lodged impugned first information report with totally false and frivolous story only for the purpose to drag petitioner in the instant criminal case.

R. BECAUSE petitioner is ready and willing to cooperate with pending investigation with a prayer before this Hon'ble Court that he may not be arrested in the present case.

S. BECAUSE allegations leveled in impugned first information report, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, do not constitute the offence alleged, therefore this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to quash impugned first information report.

T. BECAUSE impugned first information report seriously hampered the right of petitioner enshrined under Article 14, 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India.

U. BECAUSE petitioner is legally advised that he had no other efficacious, equally, speedy, alternative remedy except to approach this Hon'ble Court by way of present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India."

8. Perusal of the grounds would clearly disclose that the same are entirely different in nature. This practice cannot be appreciated as present petition being second petition having been filed without there being any permission having been granted by Hon'ble Apex Court after hearing the arguments for some time to file fresh/second petition on different grounds and as such it is nothing but an abuse of process of law. We further find that all such grounds that have been taken in the present petition were clearly available to the petitioner at the time of challenging the impugned order in the earlier petition (Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10390 of 2023).

9. Although copy of the Special Leave Petition has not been annexed with present petition, however, presumably all such grounds that are now being taken, must have been advanced before the Hon'ble Apex Court and thereafter the petition was sought to be withdrawn for which permission was granted and in place of filing review application, second petition with full knowledge that it would not be placed before this Bench, was filed by a new counsel, which, in our opinion, is nothing but an attempt of Bench hunting and is thus, an abuse of process of law.

10. At this stage, a prayer was made that the petition may be permitted to be withdrawn with liberty to file review application. We are not inclined to accept the same, as we have already noticed the grounds taken in the present petition, which, as already observed, clearly reflect that the petitioner is seeking re-hearing of the matter on merits, which would be beyond the scope of review application as per settled law. A Division Bench of this Court (of which one of us, Vivek Kumar Birla, J. was the member) has considered the scope of review in detail in the case of Vinod Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2022 (11) ADJ 25 (DB).

11. Therefore, even if it is considered to be a review application, the re-hearing of matter is not permissible.

12. In such view of the matter, present petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India being second writ petition for the same relief stands dismissed with a cost of Rs. 20,000/- (Rs. Twenty Thousand), which the petitioner shall deposit with the Registrar General of this Court within a period of one month from today. On deposit of such cost, it shall be transmitted to the account of 'Allahabad High Court Mediation and Conciliation Centre, Allahabad'. If the petitioner fails to deposit the cost of Rs. 20,000/- (Rs. Twenty Thousand), the Registrar General of this Court shall inform the District Magistrate/Collector concerned for recovery of the said amount as arrears of land revenue, who shall after recovering the said amount from the petitioner, transmit it to the Registrar General of this Court for depositing in the account of 'Allahabad High Court Mediation and Conciliation Centre, Allahabad' within a further period of three months.

Crl. Misc. Writ Petition No. 4874 of 2024

Umar @ Mohd. Umair ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
 Sri M. J. Akhtar

Counsel for the Respondents:
 G.A.

Criminal Law - U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 - Sections 2(b), 3 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 376 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 114 -

Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 21 -

Petitioner sought quashing of show cause notice dated 06.03.2024 issued under Section 3 for externment, based on one case under Section 376 I.P.C. and three beat reports. Court held: (1) A single case and beat reports do not establish habitual criminality required to classify petitioner as a "goonda" under Section 2(b), as habituality necessitates repeated offences (Shankar Ji Shukla Vs Ayukt Allahabad Mandal, 2005 (52) ACC 638). (2) Notice failed to specify general nature of material allegations, violating mandatory requirements under Section 3, rendering it defective (Ramji Pandey Vs St. of U.P., 1981 Cri LJ 1083). (3) Petitioner's bail in the solitary case, supported by victim's St.ment under Section 164 Cr.P.C. indicating consent, negated allegations of habitual criminality (Idu Ali Vs St. of U.P., CrI. Misc. Writ Petition No. 2895 of 2023). (4) Issuance of notice on insufficient grounds constituted abuse of power, rebutting presumption of regularity under Section 114 of Evidence Act, and violated petitioner's rights under Article 21 (Kailash Jaiswal Vs St. of U.P., CrI. Misc. Writ Petition No. 10241 of 2019). (5) St.'s failure to issue uniform guidelines for applying the Act, despite prior court directions, highlighted rampant misuse by authorities (Govardhan Vs St. of U.P., CrI. Misc. Writ Petition No. 12619 of 2023). Notice quashed; writ allowed with Rs. 1,00,000/- cost payable by St.; disciplinary action recommended against erring officials. (Paras 8-19) (Delivered by Hon'ble Siddharth, J.

Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The petitioner has approached this Court with a prayer to quash the impugned showcause notice dated 06.03.2024 issued by respondent no. 2, Additional District Magistrate (Administration), District-Moradabad.

3. The petitioner has been implicated in the present proceedings on account of his implication in Case Crime No. 282 of 2023 u/s 376 I.P.C., P.S.- Mainather, District-Moradabad and three beat reports.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that in Case Crime No. 282 of 2023, he was granted bail by this Court vide order dated 08.11.2023 passed by this Court in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 47674 of 2023 which is reproduced hereinbelow :

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant; Ms. Ruchi Singh, learned counsel for the informant learned AGA for the State and perused the material placed on record.

The instant bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant, Umair, with a prayer to release him on bail in Case Crime No. 282 of 2023, under Section 376 IPC, Police Station Mainather, District- Moradabad during pendency of trial.

Learned counsel for the informant prays for and is granted two days' time to file counter affidavit.

Put up this case on 21.11.2023 as a fresh case.

Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that in the statement of the victim recorded under section 164 Cr.P.C she has admitted her long physical relationship with applicant. Both are well known to each other. It is a case of consent. He has no criminal history to his credit and is languishing in jail since 26.9.2023.

Learned A.G.A. and learned counsel for the informant have opposed the prayer for bail of the applicant, but have not disputed the aforesaid statement made by learned counsel for the applicant.

Considering the rival submissions and totality of facts & circumstances of the case, applicant is directed to be enlarged on interim bail till the date fixed..

Having considered the submissions of the parties noted above, finding force in the submissions made by the learned counsel for the applicant; keeping in view uncertainty regarding conclusion of trial; one sided investigation by police, ignoring the case of accused side; applicant being under-trial having fundamental right to speedy; larger mandate of the Article 21 of the Constitution of India, considering the dictum of Apex Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil Vs. C.B.I. & Another, passed in S.L.P.(Crl.)

No. 5191 of 2021, judgement dated 11.7.2022 and considering 5-6 times overcrowding in jails over and above their capacity by under trials and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, let the applicant involved in the aforesaid crime be released on bail till the date fixed on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions that :-

(i) The applicant shall not tamper with the evidence or threaten the witnesses.

(ii) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in Court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the Trial Court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(iii) The applicant shall remain present before the Trial Court on each date fixed, either personally or as directed by the Court. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the Trial Court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(iv) In case the applicant misuse the liberty of bail during trial and in order to secure his presence, proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicants fail to appear before the Court on the date fixed in such proclamation then the Trial Court shall initiate proceedings against him in accordance with law under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(v) The applicant shall remain present in person before the Trial Court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case,

(ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the Trial Court absence of the applicant is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the Trial Court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

In case, of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of interim bail.

Identity and residence proof of the applicant and sureties be verified by the court concerned before the bonds are accepted.

In failure to comply this order, the interim bail till the date fixed granted to the applicant shall stand cancelled and he shall be taken into custody forthwith."

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that apart from above case, there is no other implication of the petitioner of similar nature in any case. The impugned notice dated 06.03.2024 issued by respondent no. 2 is bad in law and deserves to be quashed. It does not contains the general nature of material allegations.

6. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the submissions and has stated that the petitioner has opportunity of making representation before the respondent no. 2 and therefore his writ petition does not deserves to be entertained by this Court. Petitioner has criminal history of one case and three beat reports are also against him as mentioned in the notice.

7. There are no disputed facts warranting call of counter-affidavit from the respondents.

8. After hearing the rival contentions a look at the definition of "Goonda" is required to be made as defined under section 2(b) of U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 170 which is as follows:-

"2[(b) 'Goonda' means a person who-

(i) either by himself or as a member or leader of a gang, habitually commits or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of an offence punishable under Section 153 or Section 153-B or Section 294 of the Indian Penal Code or Chapter XV, Chapter XVI, Chapter XVII or Chapter XXII of the said Code; or

(ii) has been convicted for an offence punishable under the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, 1956; or

(iii) has been convicted not less than thrice for an offence punishable under the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 or the Public Gambling Act, 1867 or Section 25, Section 27 or Section 29 of the Arms Act, 1959; or

(iv) is generally reputed to be a person who is desperate and dangerous to the community; or

(v) has been habitually passing indecent remarks or teasing women or girls; or

(vi) is a tout;

Explanation.- 'Tout' means a person who-

(a) accepts or obtains, or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain from any person for himself or for any other person, any gratification whatever as a motive or reward for inducing, by corrupt or illegal means any public servant or member of Government, Parliament or of State Legislature, to do or forbear to do anything or to show favour or, disfavour to any person or to render or attempt to render any service or disservice to any person, with the Central or State Government, Parliament or State Legislature, any local authority, Corporation, Government Company or public servant; or

(b) procures, in consideration of any remuneration moving from any legal practitioner interested in any legal business, or proposes to any legal practitioner or to any person interested in legal business to procure, in consideration of any remuneration moving from either of them, the employment of legal practitioner in such business; or

(c) for the purposes mentioned in explanation (a) or (b), frequents the precincts of civil, criminal or revenue Courts, revenue or other offices, residential colonies or residences or vicinity of the aforesaid or railway or bus stations, landing stages, lodging places or other places of public resort; or

(vii) is a house-grabber.

Explanation. - 'House-grabber' means a person who takes or attempts to take or aids or abets in taking unauthorised possession or having lawfully entered unlawfully remains in possession, of a building including land, garden, garages or out-houses appurtenant to a building.]

(viii) is involved in offences punishable under the Regulation of Money Lending Act, 1976;

(ix) is involved in offences punishable under the Unlawful Activities(Prevention) Act, 1966 and the Indian Forest Act, 1927;

(x) is involved in illegally transporting and/or smuggling of cattle and indulging in acts in contravention of the provisions in the Prevention of cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals Act, 1960;

(xi) is involved in human trafficking for purposes of commercial exploitation, forced labour, bonded labour, child labour, sexual exploitation, organ removing and trafficking, beggary and like activities.]

9. This Court finds that the petitioner is not alleged to be leader of or member of any gang or he himself habitually commits or attempts to commit or abets the commission of offences mentioned in the definition clause quoted above.

10. There is a solitary case registered against him and he was not found to be habitual of abduction of women or girls. This Court in the case of Shankar Ji Shukla Vs. Ayukt Allahabad Mandal and others reported in 2005 (52) ACC 638 and in the case of Lalani Pandey @ Vijay Shankar Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2011(1) ACrJ 207 has held that a person cannot be held to be 'goonda' only on the basis of one or two acts. He can be held to be 'goonda' only when he is in the habit of committing repeated offences.

11. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Idu Ali Vs. State of U.P. (Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2895 of 2023) and others has held that where general nature of material allegations have not been mentioned in the notice issued under section 3 of the Act, notice will not be considered to be in accordance with mandatory provision of law as follows:-

"Learned counsel for the petitioner drew our attention to two Full Bench decisions in Ramji Pandey Vs. State of U.P. and others; 1981 Cri LJ 1083 and Bhim Sen Tyagi v. State of U.P. through D.M. Mahamaya Nagar, 1999 (2) JIG 192 (All) (FB).

In Ramji Pandey's case (supra), it has specifically been observed in paragraph 7 of the judgment that although the expression "material allegations" has not been defined by that Act, according to the dictionary meanings, the word "material" means "important and essential", "of significance". The word "allegation" means statement or assertion of facts. Thus, the notice under Section 3(1) should contain the essential assertions of facts in relation to the matters set out in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of sub-section (1) of Section 3 of the Act. It needs not refer to any evidence or other particulars or details. The names of witnesses, and persons who may have made the complaint against the person against whom action is proposed to be taken or the time, date and place of the offence committed by the person needs not be mentioned in the notice. There is a distinction between the "general nature of material allegations" and "particulars of allegations". In accordance with the former expression, the notice needs not give any details of the allegations, instead the requirement of law would be satisfied if the notice contains a general statement of facts which need not contain any details or particulars. In Ramji Pandey's case, where there were allegations that, (a) the petitioner was a goonda, (b) his movements were causing alarm, danger and harm to the lives and properties of the persons within the circle of P.S.-Sikandarpur and there was reasonable ground for believing that he was engaged in the commission and abetment of offences punishable under Chapters XI, XII and XXII of the Indian Penal Code, and (c) the witnesses were not willing to give evidence against him by reason of apprehension on their part as regards their safety and danger to their persons and personal property. Regarding the aforesaid sub-paragraphs (a), (b) and (c), the material allegations of general nature were that there were various cases pending against the petitioner and the crime numbers and sections of those cases had been given in the notice and it was mentioned therein whether the petitioner had been convicted or acquitted in the cases or they were pending. In spite of mention of the crime numbers and sections and status of those cases, the notice in Ramji Pandey's case (supra) was held not to contain the general nature of material allegations and it was struck down.

In the present case also, nothing more than mention of the crime number and sections is all that we find, instead of the general nature of material allegations. A list of case crimes/first information reports/beat report registered against the petitioner does not satisfy the test of a valid notice under Section 3(1) carrying the "general nature of material allegations". Truly, the notice, on the foundation of which the order impugned has been made, is strictly in the teeth of the law laid down consistently by this Court; particularly, the Full Bench decision in Ramji Pandey (supra) and reiterated in Bhim Sain Tyagi (supra). A notice under Section 3(1) of the kind that is the foundation of proceedings here has been held in Bhim Sain Tyagi (supra) and in earlier decisions also, to violate the minimum guarantee of the opportunity that the Statute envisages for a person proceeded with/against under the Act of 1970. Thus, in this case, the impugned order, founded as it is, on a notice under Section 3(1) of the Act, stands vitiated by defects that go to the root of the matter."

12. In view of the above consideration, it is clear that the respondent no. 2 has issued the impugned notice without considering the provisions of law only on the basis of implication of the petitioner in a single case and on the basis of three beat reports. The implication of the petitioner in the Case Crime No. 282/2023 was not supported by victim herself in her statement recorded under section 164 Cr.P.C., and she had married the applicant as well. Therefore, the recital in the notice that the petitioner is a goonda and habitually commits the offences under Chapter XVI, XVII and XXII of the Indian Penal Code and witnesses are not willing to give evidence against him by reason of apprehension on their part regarding their safety etc., are absolutely false.

13. There is presumption in favour of performance of official acts under section 114, illustrations (e) of Evidence Act that they have been regularly performed. This Court finds that the presumption in favour of respondent no.2 of performance of his official acts in accordance with law stands rebutted by the undisputed facts of this case and relevant provisions of law.

14. This Court finds that the powers of the State vested in state authorities is being misused by issuing wanton and arbitrary notices under Section 3 of U.P.

Control of Goondas Act, 1970 by the public servants like respondent no. 2. Earlier this Court vide Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 12619 of 2023 had cautioned the State Government for forming uniform guidelines regarding the applicability of U.P. Control of Goondas Act and granted time by 31st October, 2023 for circulation of the same to all the District Magistrates of the State by the following order :

"1. Heard Sri Akhilesh Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned A.G.A. for the State and also perused the record.

2. Present petition has been filed on behalf of petitioner Govardhan seeking following main prayer:

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the show cause notice dated 15.6.2023, issued by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Aligarh, in Case No. 3400 of 2023 (State Vs. Govardhan), under Section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970, Police Station Chharra, District Aligarh (Annexure No. 1 to the writ petition)."

3. Normally, we do not entertain such type of petitions, where only show cause notice is issued by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Aligarh (the Executive Authority of the District), in Case No. 3400 of 2023, State Vs. Govardhan), under Section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970, Police Station Chharra, District Aligarh.

4. In the instant case, the notice under Section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970 dated 15.6.2023 has been issued on the basis of two cases, (i) Case Crime No. 69 of 2023, under Sections 323, 504, 506, 354, 354B, 452 IPC, Police Station Chharra, District Aligarh and (ii) Rapat No. 20, dated 3.5.2023. On the basis of these "so called two cases" the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Aligarh has issued a notice under aforesaid section of the Act, 1970 against the petitioner for the purposes of bringing an additional offence within the four corners of Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970. For this objective the person must be a "Goonda" and this expression of "Goonda" has been defined in Section 2(b) of the Uttar Pradesh Control of Goonda Act, 1970.

5. The peculiar feature of this enactment that the person who is branded as "Goonda" should be ousted from the municipal limits of the city as a preventive measure by the executive authorities of the district by passing externment order. That the person either himself or as a member or leader of a gang, who is habitually commits the offences mentioned in the Section 2(b) of the Act or he has got the tendency to commit the offence time and again. If a person is having a solitary case to his credit, he cannot be branded that he has a habitual Goonda pleaded by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

6. Provisions of Uttar Pradesh Control of Goonda Act, 1970 are applicable in the entire State of U.P. From the plain reading of the enactment, it could be said with utmost certainty that this enactment has been promulgated to save the citizens from habitual "Goonda". The expression of Goonda has been defined in Section 2(b) of Uttar Pradesh Control of Goonda Act, 1970 which is as under:

2(b) "Goonda" means a person who-

(i) either by himself or as a member or leader of a gang, habitually commits or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of an offence punishable under Section 153 or Section 153-B or Section 294 of the Indian Penal Code or Chapter XV, or Chapter XVI, Chapter XVII or Chapter XXII of the said Code; or

(ii) has been convicted for an offence punishable under the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, 1956; or

(iii) has been convicted not less than thrice for an offence punishable under the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 or the Public Gambling Act, 1867 or Section 25, Section 27 or Section 29 of the Arms Act, 1959; or

(iv) is generally reputed to be a person who is desperate and dangerous to the community or

(v) has been habitually passing incident remarks or teasing women or girls; or

(vi) is a tout.

7. Its punishment is provided in Section 3 of the aforementioned enactment that when it appears to the District Magistrate that any person is a "Goonda" or his movements or acts in the district or any part thereof may cause or are calculated to alarm, danger or harm to the persons or property of the district. The District Magistrate feels and have a sufficient material of believing that, he is engaged or about to engage in the District or any part thereof, in the commission of offence referred to in sub-clauses (i) to (iii) of clause (b) of Section 2, or its abetment of such an offence and no witness would come forward to give evidence against him, meaning thereby, that individual has earned lots of bad name and has got sufficient 'nuisance value' in the district. By this reason of apprehension with regard to the safety of their person or property, the District Magistrate may pass externment order for a period of six months as specified in law with sole motive to save the citizens from the wrath of that individual "Goonda". Thus, it can safely be termed that under this enactment, the District Magistrate are empowered to handle such type of miscreants and oust them from the municipal limit of the district maximum for the period of six months by way of preventive measures. This is a deterrent law whereby a person who is termed as a "Goonda" is asked to leave the premises of the district. It shall be branded as "Goonda" for rest of his life.

8. The District Magistrate before exercising this extraordinary and unusual powers conferred by this enactment, must exercise with all caution and care, but we are noticing that there is a rampant misuse of provisions of this enactment. The executive authorities for the extraneous consideration exercising this extraordinary powers at their whims and capricious and are issuing notices on a solitary case or some beat reports. This amounts to make the deterrent enactment blunt. The indiscreet exercise of provisions of Goonda Act and sending the notices to the persons is not based on executive authorities' sweet will or choice. Issuing notice on solitary case is quite irritating and unnecessarily, there is piling up of litigation. In the instant case there is solitary case and solely on this basis no executive authority can justify that the petitioner is a 'habitual offender' or involved in the cases mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970.

9. It is a fundamental right of every citizen to reside peacefully and profess his business, but if the executive authorities are issuing notice under this deterrent law, then they must be doubly sure about the individual's past image, his past credentials, his family, social educational back ground and after assessing all these factors if the executive authorities comes to the conclusion that individual is a "Goonda" or a potential threat to society at large and should be thrown out from the municipal limits, then only by well reasoned order, after applying his own independent judicial mind pass a well reasoned order for externment of that individual or even issue notice to that individual calling upon him to justify his past conduct.

10. The public perception regarding the individuals' image carries weight. If the individual is enjoying a bad reputation and name in the area and coupled with the fact that he has got a chequered past then executive authorities are well within their right to issue notice to that individual or to pass an externment order for that individual. Trivial and insignificant offences having one or two in number would not make the person branded as a "Goonda". This adjective "Goonda" itself carries bundle load of bad name, and the executive authorities casually and irresponsibly brand a person as a Goonda, goes without saying, that his entire future and reputation would go to dogs and cause irreparable damage to his name and reputation of his family.

11. Sri Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a judgment of this Court in the case of Kailash Jaiswal Vs. State Of U.P. And 3 Others (Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10241 of 2019) decided on 14.11.2022 in which the co-ordinate Bench of this Court while relying upon the judgment of Suresh Tewari Versus State of U.P. and others, 2018 (5) ALJ 1 opined that requirement of applicability of clause (1) of Section 2 of Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970 is that a person who either himself or as a member or leader of a gang habitually commits or attempt to commits or abets the commission of offence is punishable as referred in the clause (1) itself.

12. Paragraph nos. 11, 12, 14 & 16 of Kailash Jaiswal (Supra) are reproduced hereunder:

"11. In this backdrop, it is submitted that the notice under the U.P. Goondas Act Is not only malicious but misuse of the power vested upon the District Magistrate, the proceedings have been initiated in colourable exercise of power to coerce the petitioner to vacate the premises which admittedly does not vest with the State. Further, it is submitted that on a single case, proceedings under the U.P. Goondas Act cannot be initiated as the petitioner is not a habitual offender.

12. Reliance has been placed on the decision of this Court rendered in Suresh Tewari Versus State of U.P. and others, 2018 (5) ALJ 1.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that impugned notice is not in conformity with the Rule 4 of the U.P. Control of Goondas Rules, 1970. He further submits that Section 3 of the U.P.

Control of Goondas Act, 1970 (hereinafter to be referred to as the "Act") confers powers on the concerned District Magistrate to extern anyone, who is the Goonda outside the district or to place restriction on his movement. If the District Magistrate is satisfied that the matters set forth in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of sub-Section (1) of the Goondas Act are made out he may issue notice to the Goonda informing him of the general nature of material allegations against him in clause (d) of the Act. He further submits that in the instant case clause (d) mentions about the only case registered against the petitioner being Case Crime No. 212 of 2019, thus the second respondent has mechanically noted the case pending against the petitioner in the prescribed proforma without applying its mind, as well as, without recording satisfaction about the matter set out in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Act.

16. The Division Bench of this Court in Suresh Tewari (2018(5) ALJ1), held relying upon the Supreme Court judgment that on one stray incident only petitioner could not be deemed to be habitual offender on the basis of that single incident. Para no. 19 reads thus:-

19..... The requirement of applicability of the clause (i) is that Goonda means that a person who either by himself or as a member or leader of a gang, habitually commits or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of offences punishable referred to in the said clause. In the impugned show cause notice there is a description of only one criminal case against the petitioner, while as per the definition and the law settled by this Court as well by the Hon'ble Apex Court, one cannot be treated to be a habitual offender unless and until there is recurrence of offences. Since there is a reference of one stray incident only in the notice, the petitioner could not be deemed to be a habitual offender on the basis of that single incident only and so the notice fails to satisfy the legal requirement."

13. In the impugned notice, there is a description of only one criminal case and one beat report against the petitioner while as per the definition and law settled by the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as by this Court "one" cannot be treated to be a 'habitual offender' unless and until there is a tendency of recurrence of the offence. In the instant case there is a solitary case to the credit of the petitioner, in which he has been granted anticipatory bail till the conclusion of trial, we find that this notice is nothing, but a sheer abuse of power vested in the executive authorities of the district.

14. In addition to above, there is mandatory requirement of the law, that if the executive authority is satisfied that the proceedings under Goonda Act spells out offences under clause (a), (b) and (c) of sub-Section 1 of the Act, he may issue notices to the particular "Goonda" informing him general nature of material allegations against him in clause (d) of the Act, his image among the masses, his nuisance value by which he is a potential threat to the peace and public order of the society at large.

15. But in the instant case, in the notice under challenge spells out the cases required against the petitioner which is allegedly issued on a "prescribed printed proforma" without application of mind by the executive authorities. Not only this, except enumeration of pending solitary case and a beat report, there is total lack of any judicial mind spelling out the general nature of material allegations against the petitioner, making entire impugned notice per se defective and cannot be acted upon any further.

16. We record our strong displeasure in such type of routine pasting of such provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970 and Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 in a most capricious and casual way.

17. At this juncture, learned A.G.A. stood up and informed the Court that in addition to the cases mentioned in the show cause notice, the petitioner is also involved in two-three more cases which do not find place in the show cause notice. This submissions advanced by the learned A.G.A. itself is amusing. This clearly indicates that one hand does not know what another hand is doing. All of a sudden learned A.G.A. woke up and revealed that in addition to two cases mentioned in impugned notices, the petitioner has got two more cases. The Court cannot take the judicial notice of those additional cases; we cannot permit this hide and seek practice with the proposed "Goonda" i.e. the petitioner.

18. Present matter is squarely covered by the aforesaid judgment and liable to be quashed. Accordingly, we are quashing the show cause notice dated 15.6.2023, issued by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Aligarh, in Case No. 3400 of 2023, State Vs. Govardhan), under Section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970, Police Station Chharra, District Aligarh.

19. Registrar General, High Court is directed to circulate the copy of this judgment apprising all the executive authorities of the State of U.P. to strictly adhere the ratio laid down mentioned above. Hence forth it is expected from the authorities that they would necessarily spell out 'general nature of particular allegations against the proposes Goonda', his personal image among the masses his social family background and then only pass a well reasoned order not on a prescribed proforma while issuing a show cause notice and thereafter a pass a well reasoned order of externment, (if at all required and needed) by the said executive authorities concerned. All the District Magistrates and the executive authorities working under him are directed to take appropriate action hence forth and proceed against the individual where they have got a strong reason to believe that the individual is rogue to the society and his externment is a desirable.

20. As mentioned above, we are witnessing rampant misuse of the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970. There is no uniformity in the executive authorities of the districts of UP regarding applicability of this deterrent enactment causing unwarranted piling up of the cases, challenging the notices under this Act etc.

(A). Thus in this regard, it is directed that the State Government too would form a uniform guide lines regarding the applicability of this Act in the light of the above judgment.

(B). This guidelines must be framed latest by 31st October 2023 and shall be circulated among all the District Magistrates of the Districts, so that they may strictly adhere to those guidelines and their shall be Uniformity in the application of the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Control of Goondas Act, 1970.

21. With this direction, the writ petition stands allowed. The impugned show cause notice dated 15.6.2023 issued by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Aligarh is hereby quashed. No order as to cost."

15. This Court finds that despite earlier order of this Court, the State Government has not bothered to issue any guidelines to the District Magistrates regarding applicability of the Act and the District Magistrates and their subordinates are continuously issuing illegal notices under Section 3 of the Act.

16. The present case is one such example. It is clear that respondent no. 2, Additional District Magistrate (Administration), District- Moradabad has issued showcause notice dated 06.03.2024 in abuse of power vested in him by law and has acted against the presumption of fairness in due discharge of his official duties.

17. This Court restrains itself from passing any further remarks against the respondent no. 2 but a direction is being issued to the respondent no.1, Secretary, Department of Home, Government of U.P., Lucknow that he should ensure that the public servants exercising powers of the State should remain within the bounds of law and violation of law may entail disciplinary proceedings against them.

18. The impugned showcause notice is hereby quashed.

19. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed with cost of Rs. 1,00,000/- payable to the petitioner by the State within two months.

20. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to communicate this order to respondent nos. 1 and 2 within two weeks.

21. Respondent no. 1 will report compliance of this order to the Registrar (Compliance) of this Court within ten weeks.

Criminal Law - U.P. Police Regulations - Regulations 228, 232, 233, 234, 240 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 489 - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226 -

Petitioner sought quashing of Class B history sheet and cessation of surveillance, citing quashing of solitary case under Section 489 I.P.C. Court held: (1) History sheets under Regulation 228 are opened for persons likely to become habitual criminals; Class B history sheets are for confirmed professional criminals, but require special reasons for continuous surveillance until death per Regulation 232 (Krishna Chandra Singh Vs St. of U.P., 2015 (11) ADJ 219). (2) Quashing of petitioner's sole criminal case in 2018, with no other cases pending, warranted review of continued surveillance, as Regulation 233 allows discontinuance of surveillance with a note in the history sheet, though the sheet itself remains open (Dhananjaya Reddy Vs St. of Karn., (2001) 4 SCC 9). (3) No provision exists under U.P. Police Regulations for quashing a Class B history sheet, but authorities must justify ongoing surveillance with special reasons, and surveillance must comply with constitutional privacy rights (St. of Tamil Nadu Vs K. Shyam Sunder, (2011) 8 SCC 737). (4) Writ of certiorari to quash history sheet was not maintainable, but petitioner was entitled to seek review of surveillance by representation to the Deputy Inspector General (D.I.G.) under Regulations 232 and 233. Petition disposed of; petitioner directed to file representation within one month, and D.I.G. to pass reasoned order within two months after hearing and record review. (Paras 26-36)

THE WRIT PETITION

2. This writ petition has been filed seeking a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing History Sheet No.21-B opened against the petitioner at Police Station Shahganj, District Allahabad with a further prayer to issue a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents not to keep surveillance on the petitioner in pursuance of the said history sheet.

CONCEPT OF AND PHILOSOPHY BEHIND HISTORY SHEET

3. When the term "history-sheeter" is mentioned, it conjures an image of a seasoned criminal with an extensive record. The question arises: who exactly are these history-sheeters, and how does the police categorize someone as such? What disadvantages does a criminal face after being labeled a history-sheeter, and what consequences does it entail? These queries find answers in the following exploration.

4. In essence, a history sheeter is a designation employed by the police to identify individuals with a significant criminal history. This label is affixed to those who have been implicated in numerous offenses, with the details of their criminal activities duly recorded by the police. Before initiating the history sheet for any offender, the police verify the individual's current criminal status.

5. The process begins when an individual, already proven guilty in multiple cases and/or consistently engaging in criminal activities, attracts the attention of the police station's SHO. A report is subsequently sent to the SSP or SP, and upon receiving the necessary orders, the history sheet is opened. This comprehensive document contains detailed information about the criminal, including a criminal profile, associates, and known relatives. In certain scenarios, where individuals hesitate to report crimes related to organized rackets or extortion, the police, relying on local sources, maintain surveillance on such potential threats to society. The opening of history sheets is guided by calls, daily entries in the police control room, and the ongoing assessment of those posing a danger to society.

6. The presence of a history sheet serves as a deterrent, as it subjects the criminals to constant police scrutiny. Once a history sheet is opened, the criminals are required to regularly register their presence at the police station; failure to comply prompts the police authorities to visit their residences. Furthermore, a history sheet aids in tracing the source of income for criminals, enabling authorities to determine whether they have transitioned to legitimate means of earning. This scrutiny helps identify instances where an individual, previously engaged in illegal activities, displays signs of leading a luxurious lifestyle despite being unemployed.

7. The process of opening "History Sheet" is governed by the Police Rules of the concerned State or the Act governing habitual offenders.

8. Criminals often attempt to evade capture by frequently changing addresses.

To counter this, the police communicate with other districts or States, sharing information about potential areas of relocation and requesting vigilant monitoring. Employing various strategies like crime mapping and identifying hot spots, law enforcement aims to curb criminal activities and maintain public safety.

9. History sheets are analogous to our criminal intelligence databases, but are more subject to legal constraints. At the same time, they are more vulnerable to public disclosure because they call for intensive and frequently conspicuous monitoring both by police and civilian leaders.

10. Since the days of the British regime, Indian police departments have created history sheets for persons believed to pose a risk of future criminality. The “history-sheeters” may have been convicted, or have criminal charges pending. History sheeters are subject to monitoring and surveillance. In India, the system of maintaining criminal record varies from State to State. All States require automatic creation of a history sheet for persons with certain criminal records. For example, Tamil Nadu requires creation of a history sheet for a person convicted once of a serious violent crime, twice for house breaking, three times for theft and certain other offenses. The police generally also have discretion to create a history sheet on an individual who has not been convicted, but whom police consider “addicted to crime” or a threat to public order. The police must have an articulable reason for creating a history sheet and they must notify the record-subject that a history sheet has been opened.

11. The police, with the assistance of the village officials are obliged to surveil and record information about the activities and movements of history-sheeters who reside in their jurisdiction. There are court restrictions and police best practise guidelines, varying from State to State, on the level of permissible monitoring and surveillance. There are many factors regulating when a history sheet can be opened, how long it can be kept and the intensity of surveillance that it authorizes. Courts have held that surveillance of history-sheeters must not be excessive. For example, some State courts and some police agencies have issued guidelines stating that first-time history-sheeters should be especially closely watched; surveillance should be discrete; domiciliary visits are not permitted; family members must not be harassed; police officers should make periodic and routine inquiries about the history-sheeter’s habits, associations, income, expenses and occupation; the police officers shall record history-sheeter’s movements and absences from his domiciliary home or area where he lives, and the like guidelines.

12. The history sheet has been subject to constitutional challenge on privacy grounds. The Supreme Court has recognized that police surveillance based upon a history sheet implicates a limited right to privacy implicit in the Constitutional right to life and personal liberty. According to the Court, every individual’s autonomy should be respected; there is a right to be left alone. However, the right to privacy is not absolute and the creation of a history sheet and surveillance of the history-sheeter is not unconstitutional if carried out in compliance with legal standards or, in the absence of standards, if conducted reasonably. In one case, the Hon'ble Supreme Court struck down home visits as infringing on the right to personal liberty and freedom of movement.

13. Police is supposed to update the file periodically with both favorable and unfavorable information gathered via routine police patrols and enquiries. Such information should be recorded impartially, not with an eye toward compiling a negative case against the record-subject. The history sheet, including a photo of the history-sheeter, is a confidential record. The police is not authorized to disclose to public or private employers whether a job applicant or employee is a history-sheeter, much less what information the history sheet contains. However, the surveillance/crime control purpose of the history sheet requires that police officers have easy access to the history sheet. Local police can only monitor and surveil record-subjects if they know who they are. The history sheet is supposed to be shared with the Railway Police. If the history-sheeter moves to another jurisdiction, the history sheet is transferred to the new jurisdiction's police department. Moreover, for proper reasons, the police may show the public a history-sheeter's photos, when necessary, to capture a fugitive or solve a crime.

14. In sum, Indian law and policy recognize that police records, though necessary for crime control, implicate privacy and individual autonomy. The courts have struggled to regulate the history sheet system by providing court review for individuals objecting to their history sheet designation and by limiting police discretion to open, maintain and conduct surveillance.

15. When above is the situation and philosophy behind opening of history sheets and to keep the history sheeters on surveillance depending on the circumstances, can it be said that opening of history sheet or continuing with the surveillance is stigmatic in so far as the individual is concerned and whether permanent closure of history sheet or its quashing by a court of law would at all be justified? The answer would be – No. The reason is that the police needs a mechanism to control the crime, both individual and organized. Surveillance of suspects, habitual and potential offenders, may be necessary and so the maintenance of history sheet and surveillance register for the purpose of prevention of crime. Permissible surveillance is only to the extent of a close watch over the movements of the person under surveillance and no more. Further, transfer of police officials from one place to other on frequent basis is a normal phenomenon in India. During their short tenure at a particular place of posting, concerned police officers may have some inputs about a criminal but after they leave that particular place and new officer joins, as to what would be the data available with the new incumbent to know about the criminal activities in a particular area, village or city, is a matter of significance. Past record, including a history sheet as well as record of keeping a history sheeter under surveillance, therefore, would then be a guiding factor. A history sheet, therefore, is simply a sacrosanct idea to have inputs and information about criminals and their past record for a better police administration.

MODERN AGE CHALLENGES FOR CRIME CONTROLLING AGENCIES

16. This is the era of 'Crime and Criminal Tracking Network and Systems' (in short 'CCTNS'). Criminal Tracking

System has not changed much since the days of British Rule in India. Most of the work is still done by the investigating agencies manually despite advancement in technology. The problem is compounded multifold with police stations across the country having gaps in technological co-ordination and harmony and lack of technical know-how itself. While some States are well equipped with the technological upgradation, others are still living in old era. Even the ones with advanced technology cannot handle the huge volume of criminal cases. Therefore, the objective is putting in place a comprehensive and integrated system for enhancing efficiency and effectiveness of policing at the police station level throughout the country and this is what CCTNS is meant for.

17. The objectives of CCTNS are to facilitate a citizen friendly functioning of the police, automating the functioning of police stations for greater accountability and transparency, to enhance the functioning of the police in several other zones such as law and order, traffic management etc, to maintain appropriate track of development of cases including in courts and decrease manual and redundant record keeping. In relation to the concept of history sheeters, the objective of CCTNS is to enable sharing of information and interaction among police stations, districts, State and Union Territory's Headquarters and other police agencies. CCTNS should be implemented by integrating all criminal data and records into a Central Software that will be installed in all police stations across India. It will help the agencies in detection of crime as well as those who have committed the crime. It is a faster and easier access to crime and criminals, particularly, when Cyber crimes are expanding their branches throughout the country. Hence, electronification of history sheeters with the help of CCTNS would be a boon to the criminal investigation concept as a whole.

FACTS OF THE PRESENT CASE

18. A First Information Report dated 04.05.1998 was lodged against the petitioner and one Chhedi Lal Gupta that was registered at Case Crime No.118 of 1998, under Section 489 IPC at Police Station Audyogik Kshetra Naini, District Allahabad. The allegation against the accused persons was that they were found in possession of forged or counterfeit currency notes. Investigation was conducted by the police and a charge sheet dated 07.07.1999 was submitted against both the accused persons, on which, the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-VII, Allahabad took cognizance on 06.06.2000 and the petitioner was summoned to face trial of Criminal Case No.1087 of 2006 (State of U.P. Vs. Chhedi Lal and others).

19. Challenging the proceedings of aforesaid criminal case, the petitioner filed an Application U/S 482 No.9185 of 2009 (Aftab Alam Vs. State of U.P. and others) before this Court. The said application was allowed on 06.09.2018. It is pleaded in the writ petition that the petitioner filed a certified copy of the order dated 06.09.2018 before the concerned Magistrate, who, in compliance of the order of this Court, quashed the proceedings of Case Case No.1087 of 2006, vide Annexure No.4 to the writ petition.

20. The case of the petitioner, as pleaded in the writ petition, is that apart from the aforesaid solitary case registered at Crime No.118 of 1998, no other case is pending against him, however, the history sheet is still being kept open, which is not just and proper. Application of Regulation 228 of 'U.P. Police Regulations' (for short 'the Regulations') has also been pleaded and the main ground for claiming reliefs is quashing of the proceedings of the solitary case No.1087 of 2006, as aforesaid.

COUNTER AFFIDAVIT

21. The counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State mainly contained that in view of registration of case at Crime No.118 of 1998, the petitioner is a criminal minded person named in the first information report under Section 489 IPC; that the history sheet has been opened as per Regulation 238 of the Regulations and that the petitioner's activities are under surveillance in accordance with law. It has not been disputed in the counter affidavit that except the aforesaid case registered at Crime No.118 of 1998, there is any other case registered or pending against the petitioner.

REJOINDER AFFIDAVIT

22. The rejoinder affidavit reiterates the stand taken in the writ petition and it has been pleaded that, as per Regulation 228, history sheets of a criminal should be opened only for persons who are likely to become habitual criminals or abettors of such criminals, whereas the petitioner is a well-educated person and not a criminal minded person and the proceedings of solitary case, registered at Crime No.118 of 1998, have already been quashed.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER

23. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is primarily two fold:

(i) There being solitary case registered at Crime No.118 of 1998 against the petitioner, the proceedings whereof have already been quashed pursuant to the order dated 06.09.2018 passed in Application No. 482 No. 9185 of 2009 and the order of Magistrate dated 22.11.2018, there is no justification to keep the history sheet No.21-B open; and

(ii) As per Regulation 228 of the Regulations, history sheet can be opened only for persons who are or likely to become habitual criminals or abettors of such criminals and in so far as Class 'B' history sheets are concerned, they are issued for confirmed and professional criminals of the categories specified in the said Regulations, whereas the petitioner does not fall within any of the Clause/ sub-clauses of the said Regulations and, hence, the history sheet is liable to be quashed.

24. Learned counsel for the petitioner, in support of his submissions, has placed reliance on a Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Krishna Chandra Singh Vs. State of U.P.: 2015 (11) ADJ 219 and he submits that, under identical circumstances, this Court had quashed the history sheet of Class 'B' by relying upon Regulation 228. He has also placed reliance on other judgments of this Court pronounced in Mohammad Naeem @ Neem Babu: 2015 LawSuit (All) 3335; Sanjay Karnwal Vs. State of U.P.: 2010(7) ADJ 510; Mohd. Safi Vs. State of Uttarakhand: 2013 (2) UD 600; and Zaved Akhtar Vs. State of U.P. and 3 others passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.14644 of 2019, decided on 21.11.2022, rendered on the same issue.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

25. Per contra, Mrs. Manju Thakur, learned AGA-1 along with Sri G.P. Singh, learned AGA-1, have vehemently opposed the writ petition and submitted that there being no provision under any law including U.P. Police Regulations whereunder the police authorities are under any obligation or compulsion to close the history sheet, the prayer for quashing the history sheet is thoroughly misconceived and cannot be granted. They further submitted that apart from Regulation 228, two more Regulations, i.e. Regulations 232 and 234 need to be looked into which provide that history sheet of Class 'B' will remain continuously open and the concerned history sheetee would remain under surveillance until his death.

U.P. POLICE REGULATIONS

26. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, it is necessary to throw light on the provisions concerning history sheets, as applicable in the State of U.P., as contained under U.P. Police Regulations. Relevant Regulations are reproduced as under:-

228. Part V consists of history sheets. These are the personal records of criminals under surveillance. History-sheets should be opened only for persons who are or likely to become habitual criminal or abettors of such criminals. There will be two classes of history-sheets:

(1) Class A history-sheets for dacoits, burglars, cattle-thieves, railway-goods wagon thieves, and abettors thereof.

(2) Class B history-sheets for confirmed and professional criminals who commit crimes other than dacoity, burglary, cattle-theft, and theft from railway goods wagons, e.g., professional cheats and other experts for whom criminal personal files are maintained by the Criminal Investigation Department, poisoners, cattle poisoners, railway passenger thieves, bicycle thieves, expert pick-pockets, forgers, coiners, cocaine and opium smugglers, hired ruffians and goondas, telegraph wire-cutters, habitual illicit distillers and abettors thereof.

History-sheets of both classes will be maintained in similar form, but those for class B will be distinguished by a red bar marked at the top of the first page. No history-sheet of class B may be converted into a history-sheet of class A, though should be the subject of a history-sheet of class B be found to be also addicted to dacoity, burglary, cattle-theft or theft from railway goods wagons. A class, as well as B class, surveillance may under paragraph 238 be applied to him. In the event of a class A history-sheet man becoming addicted to miscellaneous crime his history-sheet may be converted into a class B history-sheet with the sanction of the Superintendent.

229. This classification of history-sheets as A and B is based on the principle that, whereas there is always hope of a dacoit, burglar, or cattle thief or railway goods wagons thief mending his ways, the expert miscellaneous criminal is as a general rule incapable of reform. The classification, therefore, solely on the kind of crime to which suspects are addicted and is designed to regulate only-

(1) the length of time for which a suspect should ordinarily remain, under surveillance in the absence of complaints against him,

(2) the kind of surveillance which his activities require.

The degree of surveillance of the appropriate kind to be exercised over a suspect will depend not on his classification, but on the extent to which he is believed to be active at any particular time.

230. If the subject of an A class history-sheet is thought to be so dangerous or incorrigible as to require more protracted surveillance than the generality of his class, he may be 'starred' by the order of the Superintendent. Here, again, the fact that a history-sheet man is started will necessarily indicate only that he is to be kept under continuous surveillance for a longer period. It will not necessarily indicate that his surveillance while it lasts is to be more intense. The aim is to concentrate the most intense surveillance on the criminal, whether starred or unstarred, who is believed to be temporarily active.

Superintendent of district police may not give orders for the starring of or discontinuance of surveillance over any history-sheeter of a railway police suspect without the concurrence of the Superintendent of Government Railway Police.

231. The subjects of history-sheets of class A will unless they are 'starred' remain under surveillance for at least two consecutive year of which they have spent no part in jail. When the subject of a history-sheet of class A whose name has not been 'starred' who has never been convicted of cognizable offence and has not been in jail or suspected of any offence or absented himself in suspicious circumstances for two consecutive years his surveillance will be discontinued, unless for special reasons to be recorded in the inspection book of the police station the Superintendent decides that it should continue.

When the subject of a history-sheet of class A is 'starred' he will remain starred for at least two consecutive years during which he has not been in jail or been suspected of a cognizable offence or had any suspicious absence recorded against him. At the end of that period if he is believed to have reformed he will cease to be 'starred' but will remain subject to surveillance will be discontinued only if during that period no complaints have been recorded against him.

In closing the history-sheets of an 'unstarring' ex-convicts and especially ex-convict dacoits great care should be exercised.

232. 'B' Class History Sheets-
History-sheet of 'B' class will be continuously open records and the subjects of these sheets will, except for very special reasons remain under surveillance until death. This being so it is unnecessary to 'star' suspects of this class.

233. The discontinuance of surveillance of the subject of a history-sheet does not entail closing that history-sheet. A history-sheet which is only a record of information need never be considered closed. In the case of persons whose surveillance is discontinued a note should be made to this effect in the history-sheet, and thereafter no periodical or other entries need be made unless something comes to notice which it is desirable to enter in the sheet. Sheets persons whose surveillance has been discontinued should remain in these village crime-note book but if the number is as much as to make the volume too bulky, they should be kept in a separate volume attached to the note-book. They will only be destroyed on the death of the subject of the sheet, or if, on opinion of the Superintendent their further retention is not likely to be of any value.

234. No history-sheet of class A may be discontinued without the sanction of the Superintendent of Police. If it is denied to discontinue the surveillance of the subject of a history sheet of class B, the sanction of the Deputy Inspector-General or Superintendent, Railway Police, must be obtained. Proposals from station officers for the discontinuance of history-sheets and for the 'starring or unstarring' of a class suspects must be made through the circle inspector unless dealt with directly by a gazetted officer in the course of an inspection.

240. History-sheets of both classes may be opened (1) on suspicion or (2) on conviction or acquittal. No history-sheet may be opened without the orders of the Superintendent of Police.

(1) On suspicion.- Whenever as a result of investigation into a case of dacoity, burglary, cattle theft from railway goods wagons or into a case of miscellaneous crime of a professional type, the officer-in-charge of a police station applies for the name of any person to be entered in the crime register as reasonably suspected, he must at the same time report whether the suspect is under surveillance, and if not, whether a history-sheet should in his opinion be opened for him. Should the gazetted officer-in-charge of a subdivision on receiving such a report and after such further inquiry as he may think necessary consider that a history-sheet is required he will forward the report to the Superintendent who if he accepts the proposal will define the class of history-sheet to be opened and pass orders as to whether the suspect should be 'starred'. Similarly whenever an officer-in-charge of a police station finds reason to believe, otherwise than in the course of an investigation, that any resident of his circle is addicted to crime, or whenever a gazetted officer or circle inspector for any reason believes that a history-sheet for any person is necessary a report must be submitted to the Superintendent, who will pass orders on it as laid down above.

(2) On conviction or acquittal.- Whenever any person is sent for trial on a charge of dacoity, burglary, cattle theft or theft from a railway goods wagons or of miscellaneous crime of a professional type, the officer-in-charge of the police station must state in his diary whether the accused has a history-sheet and if not, whether he recommends that a history-sheet should be opened for him. It will be the duty of the public prosecutor, if the accused is acquitted to inform the Superintendent, in his report on the acquittal or otherwise, whether in his opinion a history-sheet is required. On this the Superintendent will pass any orders to the station officer that may be necessary. If the accused is convicted, the public prosecutor must, in the remarks column of the daily report of convictions and acquittals (Form No. 107) enter in red ink the words, 'On H.S.' if a history-sheet is already open, or the letters 'H.S.' if he recommends that one should be prepared. In either case he must prepare and attach to the daily report of convictions and acquittals a P.R. slip (Form No. 313). If a history-sheet is already open or if the Superintendent agrees that a history-sheet should be opened he will sign this P.R. slip and initial the letters "H.S." or "On H.S." on the daily report of convictions and acquittals. The public prosecutor will then communicate the Superintendent's orders for the opening of a history-sheet to the police station concerned and will forward the P.R. slip to the Superintendent of Jail. If no history-sheet is opened and if the Superintendent does not agree that one should be prepared, he will not sign the P.R. slip, which will be cancelled.

27. While this Court is satisfied that opening of the history in the year 2009 against the petitioner was not illegal inasmuch as, by that time, there was a case registered against the petitioner at Crime No.118 of 1998 in which cognizance was also taken by the concerned Magistrate in the year 2000, however, the proceedings of said case were quashed after eighteen years in the year 2018, as aforesaid, and, therefore, this Court finds that the grounds for claiming reliefs as prayed in the present writ petition are based upon subsequent developments. The Court, therefore, proceeds to examine as to whether the history sheet can be closed or quashed or whether any other course recognized under the law is still open for the police authorities.

28. A bare perusal of Regulation 228 would show that the language used therein is unambiguous and there is a clear mandate that history sheet can be opened only for persons who are or likely to become habitual criminal or abettors of such criminals. Classification of history sheets in Class 'A' and Class 'B' is also clearly spelt out and since challenge in the present writ petition has been laid to history sheet of Class 'B', sub-regulation (2) of Regulation 228 needs a look that clearly provides that such history sheet can be opened for 'confirmed and professional criminals' who commit crimes other than dacoity, burglary, cattle-theft etc etc, as described in the said sub-regulation.

29. Regulation 232, however, casts an obligation upon the authorities to keep history sheet continuously open and to keep the history sheet under surveillance until death. However, for such an action, the authorities have to record special reasons. Regulation 233 clearly provides that discontinuance of surveillance of the subject of a history sheet does not entail closing of the history sheet itself and the history sheet which is only a record of information need never be considered as closed. It casts a further obligation on the authorities to make a note as regards discontinuance of surveillance on the history sheet and, thereafter, no periodical or other entries need be made unless something comes to the notice of the authorities which is desirable to be entered in the sheet.

30. This Court has respectfully perused the judgments, relied upon by the petitioners, and it transpires that this Court in those cases took note of the circumstances under which history sheets were opened against the concerned offenders and, for the reasons stated in the judgments, history sheet was either directed to be closed or the authorities were directed to wipe out the name of the concerned offender from the surveillance register. However, in the present case, the question to be considered is as to whether the history sheet of Class- 'B' can be closed forever or can it be quashed in exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

31. This Court finds that there is no provision under U.P. Police Regulations for closure of a history sheet of Class-'B'. The Regulations, as noted above, however, cast an obligation upon the police authorities to record SPECIAL REASONS TO KEEP AN OFFENDER UNDER SURVEILLANCE UNTIL HIS DEATH. As a matter of fact, Regulation 233 clearly provides that a history sheet which is only a record of information need never be considered as closed. Nevertheless, making of various entries on the open history sheet is subject to periodical review, as noted above.

32. In Dhananjaya Reddy Vs. State of Karnataka 2001 (4) SCC 9, the Supreme Court held that where a power is given to do a certain thing in a certain manner, the thing must be done in that way or not at all. In Commissioner of Income Tax, Mumbai Vs. Anjum M.H. Ghaswala 2002 (1) SCC 633, it was held that when a statute vests certain power in an authority to be exercised in a particular manner then the said authority has to exercise it only in the manner provided in the statute itself. The judgments in Anjum M.H. Ghaswala (supra) and Dhananjaya Reddy (supra) have been followed in Captain Sube Singh & others Vs. Lt. Governor of Delhi & others 2004 (6) SCC 440. Similar view was taken in State of Jharkhand & others Vs. Ambay Cements & another 2005 (1) SCC 368 and Competent Authority Vs. Barangore Jute Factory & others 2005 (13) SCC 477.

33. The principle that what cannot be done directly cannot be achieved indirectly is also well settled and was elaborated by the Supreme Court in State of Tamil Nadu and Others v. K. Shyam Sunder and Others: (2011) 8 SCC 737 laying down that what cannot be done directly, is not permissible to be done obliquely, meaning thereby, whatever is prohibited by law to be done, cannot legally be effected by an indirect and circuitous contrivance on the principle of quando aliquid prohibetur, prohibetur et omne per quod devenitur ad illud. An authority cannot be permitted to evade a law by 'shift or contrivance'." (Also see Jagir Singh v. Ranbir Singh: (1979) 1 SCC 560, M.C. Mehta v. Kamal Nath: (2000) 6 SCC 213 and Sant Lal Gupta v. Modern Coop. Group Housing Society Ltd. (2010) 13 SCC 336).

CONCLUSION

34. In view of the above discussion and the admitted position of fact that apart from solitary case registered at Crime No.118 of 1998, proceedings whereof have already been quashed, there being no other case registered against the petitioner, the Deputy Inspector General of Police of the Range (D.I.G. concerned) has to record special reasons as to why despite quashing of the solitary case, the petitioner is still required to be kept under continuous surveillance. For the said purpose, it is open for the petitioner to submit a representation before the D.I.G. concerned bringing on record all the facts and proceedings which are sufficient for the D.I.G. to form an opinion to keep or not to keep the petitioner under surveillance and to make relevant entry on the history sheet as per Regulations 232 and 233.

35. This Court also notices that apart from seeking a relief of certiorari requesting quashing of history sheet of Class 'B', the petitioner has prayed for a direction for the respondents not to keep him under surveillance and the basis of petitioner's claim is apparently quashing of the solitary Criminal Case No.1087 of 2006, as noted above. While reserving the judgment in the present case on 06.02.2024, the learned counsel for the petitioner was permitted to implead the Deputy Inspector General of Police of the Range to the writ petition. Necessary impleadment was carried out on the same day.

36. In view of the above discussion, while no writ of certiorari can be issued quashing the history sheet opened against the petitioner, the petitioner is certainly entitled to submit a representation before the D.I.G. concerned, as noted above. Therefore, giving liberty to the petitioner to file a comprehensive representation before the D.I.G. concerned along with certified copy of this order, ventilating his grievance, as per the observations made in the present order, the petition stands disposed off with a direction that, in case, such a representation is filed within a period of one month from the date of delivery of this judgment, the D.I.G. concerned shall pass a reasoned and speaking order strictly in consonance with Regulations 232 and 233 and any other relevant Regulation of the U.P. Police Regulations, after dealing with each and every ground raised before him by the petitioner through his representation, within a period of next two months after providing opportunity of personal hearing to the petitioner and after summoning relevant records from the concerned police station.

THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH-I, J.

Criminal Revision No. 167 of 2023

Rakhi @ Rekha	...Revisionist
State of U.P. & Anr.	...Opp. Parties
Versus

Counsel for the Revisionist:

Sri Jayant Kumar, Sri Kanhiya Lal Chauhan

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:

G.A., Sri Sandeep Kumar Srivastava

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 127 - Maintenance - Enhancement of - Counsel for revisionist submitted that criminal revision has been filed challenging quantum of maintenance awarded, which is meagre considering monthly income of opposite party no.2. (husband) who is serving in Indian Navy and earning Rs.35,000 - 40,000 pm - Further contended that trial Court ought to have fixed at least 25% of net monthly income as maintenance, whereas it awarded only Rs.4,000/- till date of order and thereafter Rs.5,000/-, without assigning any reason - Earlier, trial Court had ex parte granted Rs.12,000/- pm as interim maintenance, later on opposite party no.2 filed recall application u/s 126(2) Cr.P.C., allowed, hence, there was no justification for awarding lesser amount - Held, salary slip of opposite party no.2 shows deduction of Rs.9,000/- towards personal loan, which is not permissible and should be added in his net monthly income. Hence, his net monthly income is Rs.43,020/- - Opposite party no.2 St.d in his reply and oral evidence that he incurs Rs.15,000-16,000/- monthly for his father's heart and blood pressure treatment and Rs.10,000-12,000/- for his mother's liver ailment - No documentary evidence, medical prescription, or medical receipts for purchase of medicines produced, contention rejected - Opposite party no.2 submitted that revisionist earns from tuitions and as beautician, she has enough money to maintain herself, but produced no proof to substantiate claim - Impugned order set aside, thus, prayer for enhancement of maintenance allowed. (Para 3, 15 to 17, 22)

Revision allowed. (E-13)

2. Dr. Kulbhushan Kumar Vs Smt. Raj Kumari: (1970) 3 SCC 129
3. Shailja & anr. Vs Khobbanna: (2018) 12 SCC 199
4. Kalyan Dey Chowdhury Vs Rita Dey Chowdhury Nee Nandy: (2017) 14 SCC 200

By means of the instant criminal revision, revisionist has assailed the judgement and order dated 01.11.2022 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Amroha in Case No.05 of 2019 (Smt. Rakhi vs. Amit Kumar), under Section 125 Cr.P.C., Police Station Amroha, District Amroha.

2. By the impugned order, the trial Court has granted monthly maintenance allowance of Rs.5,000/- to the revisionist from the date of presentation of application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The revisionist has prayed for enhancement of maintenance allowance granted by the trial Court in her favour. The opposite party No.2 has not challenged the aforesaid impugned order, therefore, findings in the impugned judgment and findings regarding the marriage of the revisionist with opposite party No.2 as well as there being sufficient reason for her residing away from the opposite party No.2, has become final.

3. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionist that this criminal revision has been filed on the point of quantum of maintenance payable to the revisionist contending that it is quite meagre considering the monthly net income of the opposite party No.2 (husband). The averments have been made on behalf of the revisionist that admittedly opposite party No.2 is working in Indian Navy and he is getting monthly salary of about Rs.35,000/- to 40,000/- per month. The trial Court may have fixed at-least 25 % of the net monthly salary of the opposite party No.2, but trial Court has awarded maintenance allowance of Rs.4000/- till date of order, and thereafter, Rs.5000/-, which is on the lower side. It has also been submitted that trial Court has not given any reason for fixing aforesaid monthly maintenance allowance payable to the revisionist. It has also been submitted that earlier trial Court vide judgment and order dated 11.02.2020 had ex-parte granted Rs.12,000/- per month as interim maintenance allowance to the revisionist. Later on, recall application under Section 126 (2) Cr.P.C. was filed by the opposite party No.2, which was allowed and there is no ground to provide the revisionist lesser monthly maintenance allowance than the interim one, since the trial Court passed the impugned judgment and order without considering the evidence on record and without applying judicial mind it should be enhanced.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has submitted that trial Court has passed the impugned judgment and order on the basis of oral and documentary evidence on record and there is no ground to make interference into it. It has also been submitted that interim maintenance was passed ex-parte without considering the contentions raised by the opposite party No.2. The trial Court has rightly granted a reasonable maintenance allowance, which is not liable to be altered.

5. Learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has raised objection about the maintainability of the criminal revision and contended that the revisionist should have filed an application under Section 127 Cr.P.C. in the trial Court itself for enhancement of the amount of monthly maintenance allowance. It has also contended that since there is a statutory provision for enhancement of the amount of maintenance allowance under Section 127 Cr.P.C., the criminal revision for such enhancement is not maintainable in this Court.

6. Heard Sri Jayant Kumar, learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Sandeep Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for opposite party no.2.

7. The revisionist has filed instant criminal revision for enhancement of the amount of monthly maintenance allowance not on the ground of change of circumstances, since the order was passed but on the ground that the trial court while fixing the amount of monthly maintenance allowance has not considered the evidence on record, therefore, order passed is illegal or liable to be altered.

8. Learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has raised preliminary objection as per jurisdiction of this Court in view of the provision given in Section 127 Cr.P.C. for enhancement of maintenance allowance.

9. Section 127 Cr.P.C. provides for alteration of maintenance allowance or interim maintenance allowance on the ground that circumstances have been changed since the order was passed.

10. Section 127 Cr.P.C., provides for alteration of maintenance allowance in the following circumstances:-

(i) The Magistrate finds that competent civil court has passed any order due to which maintenance allowance granted has to be cancelled or modified;

(ii) The woman in whose favour maintenance allowance has been provided, has remarried after obtaining divorce such order of maintenance can be cancelled from the date of her remarriage;

(iii) Such woman has received whole of the sum which, under any customary or personal law applicable to the parties, was payable on such divorce;

(iv) The woman has obtained divorce from her husband and she had voluntarily surrendered her rights to maintenance or interim maintenance, as the case may be, after her divorce, cancel the order from the date thereof.

11. The alteration of maintenance allowance under Section 127 Cr.P.C. can be done by the trial Court on the ground of change of circumstances as mentioned in that section. In case, the person in whose favour maintenance allowance is passed, assailing the amount of maintenance allowance on the ground that it was fixed against the evidence on record, he/she can file criminal revision to this Court and Court shall have jurisdiction to decide it.

12. The opposite party No.2 has annexed his monthly salary slip as Annexure-SA-I to his supplementary counter affidavit. According to his salary slip, after deducting other expenses, he gets Rs.34,020/- per month in hand. From the perusal of the pay slip filed by the opposite party No.2, which is annexed as Annexure No.S.A.1 to the supplementary counter affidavit, it is found that gross monthly salary of the opposite party No.2 is of Rs.54,684/-, in which total amount of Rs.20,664/- is deducted and balance of Rs.34,020 is credited in the account of opposite party No.2. In the statement of salary slip filed by the opposite party No.2, the amount deducted under different heads is not legible, only total deduction of Rs.20,664/- is legible. The opposite party No.2 submitted, in his counter affidavit, that he has taken personal loan of Rs.5 lakhs, for which he has to pay instalment of Rs.9000/- per month.

13. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held in paragraph No.9 and 10 of the judgement in Anju Garg and Another vs. Deepak Kumar Garg: (2022) SCC OnLine SC 1314, which is as follows:

"9., it may be noted that Section 125 of Cr.P.C. was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish and financial suffering of a woman who is required to leave the matrimonial home, so that some suitable arrangements could be made to enable her to sustain herself and the children, as observed by this Court in Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena¹. This Court in the said case, after referring to the earlier decisions, has reiterated the principle of law as to how the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C have to be dealt with by the Court. It held as under:

"In Dukhtar Jahan v. Mohd. Farooq [(1987) 1 SCC 624 : 1987 SCC

(Cri) 237] the Court opined that : (SCC p. 631, para 16)

16. "... Proceedings under Section 125 [of the Code], it must be remembered, are of a summary nature and are intended to enable destitute wives and children, the latter whether they are legitimate or illegitimate, to get maintenance in a speedy manner."

8. A three-Judge Bench in Vimala (K.) v. Veeraswamy (K.) [(1991) 2 SCC 375 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 442], while discussing about the basic purpose under Section 125 of the Code, opined that : (SCC p. 378, para 3)

3. "Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing, and shelter to the deserted wife."

9. A two-Judge Bench in Kirtikant D. Vadodaria v. State of Gujarat [(1996) 4 SCC 479 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 762], while adverting to the dominant purpose behind Section 125 of the Code, ruled that : (SCC p. 489, para 15)

15. "... While dealing with the ambit and scope of the provision contained in Section 125 of the Code, it has to be borne in mind that the dominant and primary object is to give social justice to the woman, child and infirm parents, etc. and to prevent destitution and vagrancy by compelling those who can support those who are unable to support themselves but have a moral claim for support. The provisions in Section 125 provide a speedy remedy to those women, children and destitute parents who are in distress. The provisions in Section 125 are intended to achieve this special purpose. The dominant purpose behind the benevolent provisions contained in Section 125 clearly is that the wife, child and parents should not be left in a helpless state of distress, destitution and starvation.”

10. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai [(2008) 2 SCC 316 : (2008) 1 SCC (Civ) 547 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 356], reiterating the legal position the Court held : (SCC p. 320, para 6)

6. “... Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children and as noted by this Court in Capt. Ramesh Chander Kaushal v. Veena Kaushal [(1978) 4 SCC 70 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 508] falls within constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India. It is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife. It gives effect to fundamental rights and natural duties of a man to maintain his wife, children and parents when they are unable to maintain themselves. The aforesaid position was highlighted in Savitaben Somabhai Bhatiya v. State of Gujarat [(2005) 3 SCC 636 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 787].”

10. This Court had made the above observations as the Court felt that the Family Court in the said case had conducted the proceedings without being alive to the objects and reasons, and the spirit of the provisions under Section 125 of the Code. Such an impression has also been gathered by this Court in the case on hand. The Family Court had disregarded the basic canon of law that it is the sacrosanct duty of the husband to provide financial support to the wife and to the minor children. The husband is required to earn money even by physical labour, if he is an able-bodied, and could not avoid his obligation, except on the legally permissible grounds mentioned in the statute. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai², it has been held that the object of maintenance proceedings is not to punish a person for his past neglect, but to prevent vagrancy and destitution of a deserted wife, by providing her food, clothing, and shelter by a speedy remedy. As settled by this Court, Section 125 Cr.P.C. is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children. It also falls within the Constitutional sweep of Article 15(3), reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India.”

14. The Hon’ble Apex Court in Dr. Kulbhushan Kumar vs. Smt. Raj Kumari: (1970) 3 SCC 129 has held that only statutory deductions as income tax can be reduced from the gross salary, which have to be made compulsory. No deduction is permissible for payment of house rent, electricity charge, contribution of provident fund, instalments towards payment of loan and expenses for maintaining the car.

15. From the salary slip of opposite party No.2, it appears that deduction of Rs.20,664/- includes inter alia for house rent, payment of instalment of personal loan of Rs.9000/- per month. Therefore, deduction of Rs.9000/- per month made for payment to the monthly instalment of personal loan is not permissible and it should be added in the net monthly income of the opposite party No.2. Thus, his net monthly income becomes Rs.34020 + Rs.9000/- i.e. Rs.43,020/-

16. In reply to the application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as in the oral evidence produced by the opposite party No.2, he has submitted that his father is patient of heart and blood pressure, for which he has to spend Rs.15,000 to 16,000/- per month for medicine and he also submitted that his mother is also suffering from liver disease and her treatment is going on, for which, he has to spend Rs.10,000/- to 12,000/- per month. In this regard, no documentary evidence, prescription of doctor and medicine receipts for purchase of medicines have been filed by the opposite party No.2, therefore, this cannot be accepted that for treatment of his parents, he has spent aforesaid amount on medicine.

17. Opposite party No.2, in his reply as well as oral evidence, has submitted that revisionist is B.A. pass and earns Rs.10,000/- per month by taking tuition and she has done course of beautician, by which she can also earn money and she has enough money to maintain herself, but opposite party No.2 has not produced any documentary evidence in support of earning of the revisionist.

18. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shailja And Another vs. Khobbanna: (2018) 12 SCC 199 has held:

“we find that the High Court has proceeded on the basis that Appellant 1/wife was capable of earning and that is one of the reasons for reducing the maintenance granted to her by the Family Court. Whether Appellant 1 is capable of earning or whether she is actually earning are two different requirements. Merely because Appellant 1 is capable of earning is not, in our opinion, sufficient reason to reduce the maintenance awarded by the Family Court.”

19. Considering the above law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court merely on the ground that revisionist is B.A. pass and has done some professional course, no presumption can be drawn that she is earning sufficient money to maintain herself. Thus the plea advanced on behalf of the opposite party No.2 (husband) is without any legal basis.

20. In Kalyan Dey Chowdhury vs. Rita Dey Chowdhury Nee Nandy: (2017) 14 SCC 200, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that 25% of the husband's net salary would be just and proper to be awarded as maintenance to the wife. The amount of permanent alimony awarded to the wife must be befitting the status of the parties and the capacity of the spouse to pay maintenance.

21. In view of the aforesaid factual and legal aspect, I am of the view that the order impugned dated 01.11.2022 is erroneous and cannot survive in the eyes of law, therefore, I set aside the impugned order for the aforesaid reasons.

22. The prayer for enhancement of maintenance allowance made by revisionist is allowed and it is observed that she will be entitled for Rs.10,000/- per month, which is approximately 25 % of the next monthly income of Rs.43,020/-, as maintenance allowance.

23. Thus, opposite party No.2 shall be bound to provide maintenance allowance of Rs.10,000/- per month to his wife (revisionist) from the date of application. The arrears of maintenance allowance shall be paid by the opposite party No.2 in four equal instalments within a period of four months. The monthly interim maintenance shall be paid regularly till 7th day of each month.

24. The present criminal revision is allowed in terms of above mentioned conditions.

25. The copy of the order be sent to the trial Court concerned for necessary compliance, forthwith.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 156(3) & 195 - Against rejection of application for registering Criminal Case - Perusal of impugned order reveals that Trial Court rejected application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. on ground that revisionist sought registration of FIR against opposite parties Nos. 2 and 3 for fraud and forgery, alleging that despite cancellation of disputed Will by Civil Judge (Senior Division) they filed false affidavit and forged will before Tehsildar, Sadar and got their names mutated in revenue records - In impugned order, Trial Court held that registration of FIR for filing forged documents in Court proceedings is barred u/s 195(1)(b)(i) Cr.P.C., observing that for such offences, only complaint by concerned Court can be instituted, in whose judicial proceedings, false affidavit or forged documents have been filed, hence, no direction for registration of FIR could be passed - Perusal of application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. reveals that alleged forgery in affidavit and will deed was prepared outside Court, and forged documents were later filed in judicial proceedings in a case pending in Court - Hence, bar against taking cognizance of criminal case u/s 195(1)(b)(i) Cr.P.C. is not attracted in instant case - In view of law laid down by Apex Court in Sachida Nand Singh (infra), Magistrate erred in holding that Section 195(1)(b) Cr.P.C. bars registration of FIR even where alleged forgery committed outside Court and forged document subsequently filed in judicial proceedings - Magistrate neither assigned any other reason for rejecting application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. nor considered contention regarding registration of criminal case for alleged forged affidavit and false Will - Thus, impugned order set aside. (Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh - I, J.)

This criminal revision has been filed for challenging the impugned judgement and order dated 20.10.2022 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), FTC, Basti in Criminal Misc. Application No.462/2012/2022 (Vishwanath vs. Shivnath), under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., Police Station Kotwali, District Basti.

2. By the impugned order, trial Court has rejected the application of the revisionist filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. for directing the Station House Officer, Police Station Kotwali, District Basti to register and investigate the criminal case against the opposite party No.2.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that revisionist has filed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. alleging that his younger brother, namely, Shivnath (opposite party No.2) committed forgery and obtained the registered will deed by his father-Drigpal on 16.05.1994. He further submitted that revisionist had filed Civil Suit before the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Basti, which was registered as Suit No.202 of 1995. In the aforesaid suit, revisionist had challenged the will deed dated 16.05.1994, which was executed in favour of opposite party No.2 (Shivnath). This suit has been decreed in favour of the revisionist vide order dated 04.04.1995 and will deed executed in favour of the opposite party No.2 has been cancelled. After ten months of the decree of the aforesaid suit, opposite party No.2 instituted Original Suit No.127 of 1995 for cancellation of the aforesaid order dated 04.04.1995 passed in Original Suit No.202 of 1995. The aforesaid suit instituted by the opposite party no.2 was rejected by Civil Judge (Senior Division), Basti on 25.01.1997. Against the order dated 25.01.1997 passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division), opposite party No.2 filed revision i.e. Revision No.23 of 1997 before District Judge, Basti, which was also rejected vide order dated 12.11.1998. Against the aforesaid order of the Revisional Court, opposite party No.2 also filed a writ petitioner bearing Writ-C No.189 of 1999 before this Hon'ble Court, which was dismissed on merit vide order dated 08.01.1999. The opposite party No.2 after concealment of earlier order passed by competent Court cancelling the will deed, filed mutation proceedings with false affidavit and forged cancelled will dated 16.05.1994 before Tehsildar-Sadar, District Basti on the basis of aforesaid affidavit and will deed, the Court concerned passed order in favour of opposite party No.2 on 23.07.2007 and directed the Revenue Authority to record the name of opposite party No.2 in place of his father-Digpal on the basis of aforesaid will deed. After knowledge of the aforesaid order dated 23.07.2007, the revisionist filed recall application along with relevant details, Tahsildar, Sadar, District Basti vide order dated 04.02.2009 allowed the recall application of the revisionist and directed to record the name of revisionist and his real brother in place of their father in revenue record. Against the aforesaid order, opposite party No.2 also filed an appeal before the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Basti under Section 210 of Land Revenue Act, which was rejected vide order dated 30.03.2010. Subsequently, the opposite party No.2 concealing the earlier proceedings initiated before the authority concerned, instituted the further mutation proceedings under Section 34 of Land Revenue Act 1901 for recording his name over the property of his father, but it was rejected vide order dated 06.09.2022.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that from the averments made in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. and affidavit filed in support thereof, prima facie offence under Sections 420, 467, 478 I.P.C. was made out against the opposite party No.2, but without considering the facts and evidence given therein, Magistrate concerned illegally rejected the application of the revisionist filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. and the same is liable to be quashed.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 submitted that Digpal (father of the revisionist and opposite party No.2) was a Government Employee and has four sons, namely, Hanuman, Balram, Vishwanath (revisionist) and Shivnath (opposite party No.2). All three sons except Shivnath got good Government Service/Job, since opposite party No.2 was looking after him after retirement of Digpal (father of the revisionist and opposite party No.2), who executed registered will dated 17.05.1994 in his favour. The aforesaid will has not been cancelled or set aside by any Court. By filing the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., the revisionist wants to lodge FIR in a matter which is purely in civil nature, such act is not permissible under the law.

6. Learned counsel for the opposite party Nos.2 and 3 has placed reliance on the following judgements of the Hon'ble Apex Court:-

(i). All Cargo Movers (I) Pvt. Ltd. & Others vs. Dhanesh Badarmal Jain & Another: (2007) 14 SCC 776.

(ii) State of Maharashtra vs. Sayed Mohammed Masood & Another: (2009) 8 SCC 787.

(iii) Mohammed Ibrahim And Others vs. State of Bihar And Another: (2009) 8 SCC 751.

7. Heard Sri Ganesh Kumar, learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Phool Chandra Singh, learned counsel for opposite party No.2 and 3.

8. From the perusal of the impugned order, it is revealed that trial Court has rejected the application of the revisionist filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. on the ground that in his application, revisionist/applicant has prayed for lodging FIR against the opposite party Nos.2 and 3 for fraud and forgery. Although the disputed will dated 16.05.1994 was cancelled by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Basti, but opposite party Nos.2 and 3 by filing false affidavit and aforesaid forged will in the Court of Tehsildar, Sadar, District Basti, vide order dated 04.02.2009 obtained their name mutated in the revenue record.

9. In the impugned order, trial Court has mentioned the registration of FIR regarding filing of forged documents in a Court proceedings is barred under Section 195 (1) (b) (i) Cr.P.C. The trial Court has given reason that for the alleged offences only a complaint case can be instituted by the Court, in whose judicial proceedings, false affidavit or forged documents have been filed, therefore, for the alleged offences no order for registration of FIR under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. could be passed. The provision which bars registration of FIR for an offence of forgery committed in a Court proceedings is as follows:-

“195. Prosecution for contempt of lawful authority of public servants, for offences against public justice and for offences relating to documents given in evidence.---

(1) No Court shall take cognizance –

(a)(i) of any offence punishable under sections 172 to 188 (both inclusive) of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or

(ii) of any abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, except on the complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate;

(b)(i) of any offence punishable under any of the following sections of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), namely, sections 193 to 196 (both inclusive), 199, 200, 205 to 211 (both inclusive) and 228, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in, or in relation to, any proceeding in any Court, or

(ii) of any offence described in section 463, or punishable under section 471, section 475 or section 476 of the said Code, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in a proceeding in any Court, or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit, or attempt to commit, or the abetment of, any offence specified in sub-clause (i) or sub-clause (ii), except on the complaint in writing of that Court or by such officer of the Court as that Court may authorise in writing in this behalf, or of some other Court to which that Court is subordinate.] [Substituted by Act 2 of 2006, Section 3 for "except on the complaint in writing of that Court, of of some other Court to which that Court is subordinate"

10. Section 195 (I) (b) bars the Court taking cognizance of an offence, in which, forgery has been committed in a documents filed in case pending in any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court, if such forgery has been made in any Court proceedings, then the concerned Court should file a complaint as provided under Section 340 Cr.P.C.

11. From the perusal of averments made in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., it transpires that alleged forgery in affidavit and will deed was not done while they were already been filed in the case pending in different Courts. The alleged false affidavit or forged document were prepared out side the Court and same has been filed in the judicial proceedings in a case pending in a Court. Thus, the bar against taking cognizance of a criminal case is not applicable in the facts and circumstances given in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C.

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held in paragraph nos.7, 8, 9 and 13 of the judgement in Sachida Nand Singh vs. State of Bihar: (1998) 2 SCC 493, condition necessary for application of the bar under Section 195 (1) (B) Cr.P.C., which is as follows :-

7. Even if the clause is capable of two interpretations we are inclined to choose the narrower interpretation for obvious reasons. Section 190 of the Code empowers “any magistrate of the first class” to take cognizance of “any offence” upon receiving a complaint, or police report or information or upon his own knowledge. Section 195 restricts such general powers of the magistrate, and the general right of a person to move the court with a complaint is to that extent curtailed. It is a well-recognised canon of interpretation that provision curbing the general jurisdiction of the court must normally receive strict interpretation unless the statute or the context requires otherwise (Abdul Waheed Khan v. Bhawani [AIR 1966 SC 1718 : (1966) 3 SCR 617]).

8. That apart it is difficult to interpret Section 195(1)(b)(ii) as containing a bar against initiation of prosecution proceedings merely because the document concerned was produced in a court albeit the act of forgery was perpetrated prior to its production in the Court. Any such construction is likely to ensue unsavoury consequences. For instance, if rank forgery of a valuable document is detected and the forgerer is sure that he would imminently be embroiled in prosecution proceedings he can simply get that document produced in any long-drawn litigation which was either instituted by himself or somebody else who can be influenced by him and thereby pre-empt the prosecution for the entire long period of pendency of that litigation. It is a settled proposition that if the language of a legislation is capable of more than one interpretation, the one which is capable of causing mischievous consequences should be averted. Quoting from Gill v. Donald Humberstone & Co. Ltd. [(1963) 1 WLR 929 : (1963) 3 All ER 1803] Maxwell has stated in his treatise (Interpretation of Statutes, 12th Edn., p. 105) that “if the language is capable of more than one interpretation we ought to discard the more natural meaning if it leads to unreasonable result and adopt that interpretation which leads to a reasonably practicable result”. The clause which we are now considering contains enough indication to show that the more natural meaning is that which leans in favour of a strict construction, and hence the aforesaid observation is eminently applicable here.

9. As Section 340(1) of the Code has an interlink with Section 195(1)(b) it is necessary to refer to that sub-section in the present context. The said sub-section reads as follows:

“340. When upon an application made to it in this behalf or otherwise, any Court is of opinion that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made into any offence referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 195, which appears to have been committed in or in relation to a proceeding in that Court or, as the case may be, in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in a proceeding in that Court, such Court may, after such preliminary inquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary,—

(a) record a finding to that effect;

(b) make a complaint thereof in writing;

(c) send it to a Magistrate of the first class having jurisdiction;

(d) take sufficient security for the appearance of the accused before such Magistrate, or if the alleged offence is non-bailable and the Court thinks it necessary so to do, send the accused in custody to such Magistrate; and

(e) bind over any person to appear and give evidence before such Magistrate.”

13. The three-Judge Bench of this Court in Patel Laljibhai Somabhai case [(1971) 2 SCC 376 : 1971 SCC (Cri) 548 : AIR 1971 SC 1935] has interpreted the corresponding section in the old Code, [Section 195(1)(c)] in almost the same manner as indicated above. It is advantageous in this context to extract clause (c) of Section 195(1) of the old Code:

“195. (1)(c) No Court shall take cognizance.—

of any offence described in Section 463 or punishable under Section 471, Section 475 or Section 476 of the same Code, when such offence is alleged to have been committed by a party to any proceeding in any Court in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in such proceeding, except on the complaint in writing of such Court, or of some other Court to which such Court is subordinate.” (emphasis supplied)

The issue involved in Patel Laljibhai Somabhai case [(1971) 2 SCC 376 : 1971 SCC (Cri) 548 : AIR 1971 SC 1935] related to the applicability of that sub-section to a case where forged document was produced in a suit by a party thereto, and subsequently a prosecution was launched against him for offences under Sections 467 and 471 of IPC through a private complaint. The ratio of the decision therein is the following: (SCC Headnote)

“The offences about which the court alone is clothed with the right to complain may, therefore, be appropriately considered to be only those offences committed by a party to a proceeding in that court, the commission of which has a reasonably close nexus with the proceedings in that court so that it can without embarking upon a completely independent and fresh inquiry, satisfactorily consider by reference principally to its records the expediency of prosecuting the delinquent party. It, therefore, appears to be more appropriate to adopt the strict construction of confirming the prohibition contained in Section 195(1)(c) only to those cases in which the offences specified therein were committed by a party to the proceeding in the character as such party.”

13. Considering the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Sachida Nand Singh (supra), it is obvious that Magistrate has wrongly held that Section 195 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. bars registration of FIR even in a case where alleged forgery has been committed in the document out side the Court and thereafter, it has been filed in a judicial proceedings in a case pending in a Court.

14. Apart from this Section 195 (1) (b) Cr.P.C., imposes no bar on registration of a criminal case relating to such forged documents, it merely bars that the Magistrate shall not take cognizance of an offence regarding such forged document unless the Court, in which, forgery has been committed, filed a complaint case in accordance with the provision of Section 340 Cr.P.C. The Magistrate has not discussed or given any other reason for rejecting the application filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. and also has not considered the other point raised in the application for registering a criminal case regarding alleged forged affidavit and false will.

15. From the above discussion, I am of the view that whiling passing the impugned order, the Magistrate has committed illegality and has not exercised the jurisdiction vested in him, in accordance with law.

16. Accordingly, the present criminal revision is allowed. The impugned order dated 20.10.2022 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), FTC, Basti in Criminal Misc. Application No.462/2012/2022 (Vishwanath vs. Shivnath) is set aside.

17. The Magistrate concerned shall pass a fresh order on the application of the revisionist filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. after giving opportunity of hearing to the revisionist/applicant.

18. However, it is hereby made clear that while making aforesaid observations, this Court is merely concerned with the illegality of impugned order and no observation or finding has been made on merit of the case.

19. The Magistrate shall dispose of the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. without being influenced by any observation made in this order except that relating to non-applicability of Section 195 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. to the facts of the case.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. By means of instant revision filed under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C., the revisionist has assailed the impugned order dated 11.5.2022 passed by the Ist Additional Sessions Judge Basti in Sessions Trial No. 35 of 2015 (State Vs. Ram Suresh and others)) under Section 306 IPC P.S. Paikoliya, District Basti. By the impugned order, the trial court has rejected the revisionist's application 52 (Kha) filed under Section 319 Cr.P.C. for summoning the opposite party no.2 to 4 as an accused for trial.

2. It is has been averred by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial court has passed the impugned order against the weight of evidence on record and the without application of judicial mind, the order is illegal, improper and bad in the eye of law and it is liable to be quashed by this Court.

3. It has been submitted that the revisionist's sister Chandrakanti was subjected to dowry death for which, revisionist's father Mani Ram Verma lodged the First Information Report against Ramsuresh husband of her daughter, her mother-in-law Mewati Devi and opposite party nos. 2 Gopal (devar), opposite party no.3 Umesh (devar) and opposite party no.4 Chotelal (father) under Sections- 498-A, 304-B and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. The Investigating Officer illegally expunged the names of the opposite party nos. 2 to 4 and filed a charge-sheet only against husband of the deceased Ramsuresh and her mother-in-law Mewati Devi under Section 306 IPC. During trial P.W.- 1 Mani Ram Verma and P.W.-2 Harish Chandra have deposed that apart from husband and mother-in-law the opposite party nos. 2 to 4 were also involved in the commission of murder of the revisionist's sister, therefore, revisionist moved an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. against the opposite party nos. 2 to 4 for facing trial along with husband and mother-in-law of the deceased, thereafter, revisionist father Maniram Verma filed an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. which was rejected vide its impugned order dated 11.5.2022 by the trial court without an application of judicial mind.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 to 4 had opposed the criminal revision and submitted that the informant had named them in the FIR merely on the ground that they were relatives of deceased husband. No specific role were assigned against them in the FIR, during investigation, no evidence was found against them, the Investigating Officer has rightly exonerated their names and did not filed charge-sheet against them.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 to 4 and learned AGA for the State as well as perused the material available on record.

6. Before considering the legality of the impugned order dated 11.5.2022 passed under Section 319 Cr.P.C. the statutory provisions under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and law relating to it as propounded by the Hon'ble Apex Court to be considered which is quoted as under:-

319. Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence. – (1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

3. Any person attending the Court although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

4. Where the Court proceeds against any person under Sub-Section (1) then—

(a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and witnesses re-heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced.

7. Section 319 Cr.P.C., the provisions of Section 319 empowers to court to proceed against any person not shown or mentioned as accused in charge-sheet if it appears from the evidence that such persons committed an offence for which he could be tried together with the main accused against whom he should have been charge sheeted and against whom trial is taken place.

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chander and Another, (2012) 9 SCC 460 in paragraph nos.12 and 13 of its judgement has narrated the scope of revision by the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which is as follows :

“12. Section 397 of the Code vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law. There has to be a well-founded error and it may not be appropriate for the court to scrutinise the orders, which upon the face of it bears a token of careful consideration and appear to be in accordance with law. If one looks into the various judgments of this Court, it emerges that the revisional jurisdiction can be invoked where the decisions under challenge are grossly erroneous, there is no compliance with the provisions of law, the finding recorded is based on no evidence, material evidence is ignored or judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or perversely. These are not exhaustive classes, but are merely indicative. Each case would have to be determined on its own merits.

13. Another well-accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restrictions is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The Court has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction itself should not lead to injustice ex facie. Where the Court is dealing with the question as to whether the charge has been framed properly and in accordance with law in a given case, it may be reluctant to interfere in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction unless the case substantially falls within the categories aforesaid. Even framing of charge is a much advanced stage in the proceedings under the CrPC.”

9. In paragraph nos.17 and 19 of the aforesaid judgement, the Hon’ble Apex Court has narrated that before framing a charge, what documents should be considered by the trial court. It has also provided about the extent of evidence required for framing of a charge. In paragraph no.20 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has compared the power and extent of jurisdiction of the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. and Section 482 Cr.P.C. which is given hereunder:

exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression “prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice”, the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, propriety or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest i.e. when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the court is not permitted to be abused.”

10. The Hon’ble Apex Court in para 117.3 and 117.4 in the case of Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab; (2014) 3 SCC 92 has explained the meaning of word ‘evidence’ as used under Section 319 Cr.P.C.. The relevant paragraphs of the judgement reads as under:-

“117.3. In view of the above position the word “evidence” in Section 319CrPC has to be broadly understood and not literally i.e. as evidence brought during a trial.

Question (ii)—Whether the word “evidence” used in Section 319(1)CrPC could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned? Answer

117.4. Considering the fact that under Section 319CrPC a person against whom material is disclosed is only summoned to face the trial and in such an event under Section 319(4)CrPC the proceeding against such person is to commence from the stage of taking of cognizance, the court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination.”

11. The Hon’ble Apex Court in para 117.5 of the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) has also explained the nature of satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused. The relevant paragraph of the judgement reads as under:-

“117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b)CrPC the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319CrPC would be the same as for framing a charge. The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused.

Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different.”

12. The scope and ambit of Section 319 Cr.P.C. has been well-settled by the pronouncement of Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and others, (2014) 3 SCC 92 and paras 105 and 106 which are relevant for the purpose are reproduced hereunder :

“105. Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C, 1973 is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes un rebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973. In Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973, the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973 to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

13. In S. Mohammad Ispahani Vs. Yogendra Chandak (2017) 16 SCC 226, this Court has observed and held as under :

"35. It needs to be highlighted that when a person is named in the FIR by the complainant, but police, after investigation, finds no role of that particular person and files the charge-sheet without implicating him, the Court is not powerless, and at the stage of summoning, if the trial court finds that a particular person should be summoned as accused, even though not named in the charge-sheet, it can do so. At that stage, chance is given to the complainant also to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge sheet. Once that stage has gone, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 of the Cr.P.C. However, this section gets triggered when during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused."

14. In the case of Rajesh Vs. State of Haryana (2019) 6 SCC 368, after considering the observations made by this Court in Hardeep Singh (supra) referred to hereinabove, this Court has further observed and held that even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in F.I.R. but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 Cr.P.c. and even those persons named in the F.I.R. but not implicated in charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Yashodhan Singh and others vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another; (2023) 9 SCC 108 has explained the law purported by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) regarding the evidence required the satisfaction of the Court for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The paragraph Nos. 22.6, 22.7 and 22.8 which are relevant for the purpose are reproduced hereunder :

"22.6. It was also observed by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] that apart from evidence in the strict legal sense recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319CrPC. Holding that the expression "evidence" must be given a broad meaning, it was observed that material which is not exactly evidence recorded before the court, but is a material collected by the court, can be utilised to corroborate evidence already recorded for the purpose of summoning any other person, other than the accused. Such material would be supportive in nature to facilitate the exposition of any other accomplice whose complicity in the offence may have been suppressed or had escaped the notice of the court. Therefore, any material brought before the court even prior to the trial can be read within the meaning of the expression "evidence" for the purpose of Section 319CrPC. While considering the evidence that emanates during the trial, it was observed by this Court that evidence recorded by way of examination-in-chief and which is untested by cross-examination is nevertheless evidence which can be considered by the court for the exercise of power under Section 319CrPC so long as, it would appear to the court that some other person who is not facing the trial, may also have been involved in the offence.

22.7. Further, Section 319CrPC also uses the words "such person could be tried", which means not to have a mini-trial at the stage of Section 319CrPC by having examination and cross-examination and thereafter coming to a prima facie conclusion on the overt act of such person sought to be added. Such a mini-trial will affect the right of the person sought to be arraigned as an accused rather than not having any cross-examination at all. As under Section 319(4)CrPC, such a person has the right to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses and examine the defence witnesses and advance his arguments. It was further observed that the power under Section 319CrPC can be exercised even after completion of examination-in-chief and the court does not have to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination, for it is the satisfaction of the court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the court, in respect of complicity of some other persons, not facing the trial in the offence.

22.8. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes un rebutted, would lead to conviction. Therefore, such satisfaction is sine qua non for exercise of power under Section 319CrPC. Ultimately, the exercise of power is for the trial of such persons summoned together with the accused already on trial and not for conviction with the accused. Therefore, at that stage, the court need not form any definite opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

16. The learned trial court has taken into consideration the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of independent witnesses. The fact that P.W.-1 Maniram Verma father of the deceased and P.W.-2 Harishchandra who is deceased uncle were not eye witness in the incident, P.W.-1 Maniram Verma did not visit the place of occurrence but he visited the hospital where her daughter was under going treatment for her burn injuries and died thereafter. Hence, later on succumbed to the burn injuries on 1.9.2014, the trial court has given following other reasons for rejecting application filed under Section 319 Cr.P.C. P.W.-1 and P.W.2 were not eye witnesses in the incident. P.W.-1 Maniram Verma reached district Hospital after receiving information of his son-in-law RamSuresh. P.W.-2 Harishchandra got the information of burning and death of the deceased Chandrakanti from P.W.-1 Maniram Verma. P.Ws 1 and 2 have stated that earlier they have not made any complaint regarding harassment of Chandkanti by her in-laws and O.P. No.2 to 4, the P.Ws. 1 and 2 have not assigned any specific role to the opposite party no. 2 to 4.

17. The incident had taken place after more than seven years of marriage of the deceased, the Investigating officer have collected the evidence of aforesaid witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the effect that on the date of occasion, the Opposite party no.2 to 4 had not visited the place of occurrence only deceased's husband mother-in-law were present on the place of occurrence. The aforesaid witnesses have given the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the effect that deceased was under depression for not having a son, she had quarrel with her mother-in-law. Her mother-in-law scolded her, thereafter, she sprayed kerosene oil on herself and lit it with fire.

18. The opposite party No. 2 Gopal and opposite party No. 3 Umesh are devar and opposite party No. 4 Chotelal is the father-in-law of the deceased Chandrakanti. No specific allegations of involvement in the alleged crime is imputes against them.

19. The apex court held in the case of Kahkashan Kausar @ Sonam vs The State of Bihar and Others, 2022(6) SCC 5991, has held that in such cases relatives of husband should not be roped in on the basis of omnibus allegations unless specific instances of their involvement in the crime is made out.

20. The statutory provisions under Section 319 Cr.P.C. as has been explained by the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court requires stronger quality of evidence then merely prima facie case against the accused. The quality of evidence should be more stronger than prima facie case which is required for convicting the accused of any offence. The power provided in Section 319 Cr.P.C., it is extraordinary discretionary power which should be used sparingly and with due circumspection .

21. Considering the impugned order in light of evidence on record, the statutory provisions as interpreted by the Hon'ble Apex Court, I do not find any illegality or infirmity in the impugned order passed by the trial court .

22. The Criminal Revision is dismissed accordingly.

10. Kalyan Dey Chowdhury Vs Rita Dey Chowdhury, (2017) 14 SCC 200 (Para 18)

By means of the instant criminal revision, revisionists have assailed the judgement and order dated 22.03.2022 passed by Additional Principal Judge, Family Judge Court, Court No.2, Kanpur Nagar in Case No.591 of 2015 (Smt. Aparna Kushwaha and another vs. Ashish Singh Kushwaha), under Section 125 Cr.P.C. viz a viz amount of maintenance allowance granted to them and has prayed for enhancement of the same.

2. By the impugned order, the trial Court has granted interim maintenance of Rs.5,000/- per month to the revisionist No.1 and of Rs.3,000/- per month to the revisionist No.2 per month, under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The revisionists have prayed for enhancement of maintenance allowance granted by the trial Court in their favour.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionists has submitted that marriage of revisionist No.1-Smt. Aparna Kushwaha was solemnized according to Hindu Rites and Rituals with opposite party No.2-Ashish Singh Kushwaha on 17.02.2012. Parents of the revisionist No.1 provided sufficient dowry to the opposite party No.2 in the aforesaid marriage. It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2 (husband) and his family members were physically and mentally tortured the revisionist No.1 for bringing of one Swift Car as additional dowry. The opposite party No.2 is a Director and Manager of the Koester Pharmaceuticals Private Limited Company and is earning Rs. 1,50,000/- per month. Revisionist No.2 (daughter) is studying in SKD Academy, 2D/HS-1, Vrindavan Yojna, Raibareilly Road, Lucknow, her tuition fees is about Rs.6000/- per month, but trial Court without considering the income of opposite party No.2 passed the impugned order for granting meager amount of maintenance allowance. It has also been submitted that trial Court had passed the impugned order without considering the evidence on record and without application of judicial mind.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 submitted that opposite party No.2 and his family members did not physically or mentally harass the revisionist No.1 for dowry and they have never demanded any kind of additional dowry. The opposite party No.2 had resigned in the year 2018 from the aforesaid company and he could not join his duty due to numerous cases filed against him by the revisionist No.1. The opposite party No.2 is only the founder of the aforesaid company and there are four other members, who owned the company. The trial Court has only considered the profit of the company. It has also been submitted that revisionist no.1 is well educated and has done B.Ed, B.com and T.E.T. and she can earn the money for the maintenance herself as well as her daughter. The revisionist No.1 is not prepared to live with the opposite party No.2. On 21.04.2015, she left her in-laws house and living in her parental home alongwith her daughter, since then she has not returned to her matrimonial home. Revisionist No.1 has also lodged an FIR against the opposite party No.2, under Sections 498A, 323, 504 and 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 D.P. Act. Lastly it has been submitted that trial Court had granted enough amount of maintenance allowance and there is no ground to enhance it.

5. Heard Sri Umesh Chandra Prajapati, learned counsel for the revisionists and Sri Prakhar Kumar

6. The opposite party No.2 has not instituted any criminal revision against the impugned order, thus the finding recorded by the trial Court regarding other issues i.e. revisionist Nos.1 and 2 being wife and daughter respectively of the opposite party No.2 and due to sufficient reason, she is living separately from her husband. Revisionist No.1 has no source of income for their livelihood. Opposite party No.2 being capable of maintaining the revisionists and he is negligent in providing maintenance to the revisionists has become final.

7. Learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has raised preliminary objection to the jurisdiction of this Court in view of the provision given in Section 127 Cr.P.C. submitting that case can be filed in the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court for enhancement of maintenance allowance and criminal revision against impugned order is not maintainable in this Court. Section 127 Cr.P.C. provides for alteration of maintenance allowance or interim maintenance allowance on the ground that circumstances have been changed since the order was passed.

8. Section 127 Cr.P.C., provides for alteration of maintenance allowance in the following circumstances:-

(i) The Magistrate finds that competent civil court has passed any order due to which maintenance allowance granted has to be cancelled or modified;

(ii) The woman in whose favour maintenance allowance has been provided, has remarried after obtaining divorce such order of maintenance can be cancelled from the date of her remarriage;

(iii) Such woman has received whole of the sum which, under any customary or personal law applicable to the parties, was payable on such divorce;

(iv) The woman has obtained divorce from her husband and she had voluntarily surrendered her rights to maintenance or interim maintenance, as the case may be, after her divorce, cancel the order from the date thereof.

9. The alteration of maintenance allowance under Section 127 Cr.P.C. can be done by the trial Court on the ground of change of circumstances as mentioned in that section. In case, the person in whose favour maintenance allowance is passed, wants to assail the amount of maintenance allowance on the ground that it was fixed against the evidence on record, he/she can file criminal revision to this Court and Court shall have jurisdiction to decide it.

10. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph No.9 and 10 of the judgement in Anju Garg and Another vs. Deepak Kumar Garg: (2022) SCC OnLine SC 1314, has explained the scope of Section 125 Cr.P.C. which is as follows:

“9., it may be noted that Section 125 of Cr.P.C. was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish and financial suffering of a woman who is required to leave the matrimonial home, so that some suitable arrangements could be made to enable her to sustain herself and the children, as observed by this Court in Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena¹. This Court in the said case, after referring to the earlier decisions, has reiterated the principle of law as to how the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C

have to be dealt with by the Court. It held as under:

“In Dukhtar Jahan v. Mohd. Farooq [(1987) 1 SCC 624 : 1987 SCC (Cri) 237] the Court opined that : (SCC p. 631, para 16)

8. A three-Judge Bench in Vimala (K.) v. Veeraswamy (K.) [(1991) 2 SCC 375 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 442], while discussing about the basic purpose under Section 125 of the Code, opined that : (SCC p. 378, para 3)

3. “Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing, and shelter to the deserted wife.”

9. A two-Judge Bench in Kirtikant D. Vadodaria v. State of Gujarat [(1996) 4 SCC 479 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 762], while adverting to the dominant purpose behind Section 125 of the Code, ruled that : (SCC p. 489, para 15)

15. “... While dealing with the ambit and scope of the provision contained in Section 125 of the Code, it has to be borne in mind that the dominant and primary object is to give social justice to the woman, child and infirm parents, etc. and to prevent destitution and vagrancy by compelling those who can support those who are unable to support themselves but have a moral claim for support. The provisions in Section 125 provide a speedy remedy to those women, children and destitute parents who are in distress. The provisions in Section 125 are intended to achieve this special purpose. The dominant purpose behind the benevolent provisions contained in Section 125 clearly is that the wife, child and parents should not be left in a helpless state of distress, destitution and starvation.”

10. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai [(2008) 2 SCC 316 : (2008) 1 SCC (Civ) 547 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 356], reiterating the legal position the Court held : (SCC p. 320, para 6)

6. “... Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children and as noted by this Court in Capt. Ramesh Chander Kaushal v. Veena Kaushal [(1978) 4 SCC 70 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 508] falls within constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India. It is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife. It gives effect to fundamental rights and natural duties of a man to maintain his wife, children and parents when they are unable to maintain themselves. The aforesaid position was highlighted in Savitaben Somabhai Bhatiya v. State of Gujarat [(2005) 3 SCC 636 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 787].”

11. Recently in Nagendrappa Natikar v. Neelamma [(2014) 14 SCC 452 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 407 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 346], it has been stated that it is a piece of social legislation which provides for a summary and speedy relief by way of maintenance to a wife who is unable to maintain herself and her children”.

10. This Court had made the above observations as the Court felt that the Family Court in the said case had conducted the proceedings without being alive to the objects and reasons, and the spirit of the provisions under Section 125 of the Code. Such an impression has also been gathered by this Court in the case on hand. The Family Court had disregarded the basic canon of law that it is the sacrosanct duty of the husband to provide financial support to the wife and to the minor children. The husband is required to earn money even by physical labour, if he is an able-bodied, and could not avoid his obligation, except on the legally permissible grounds mentioned in the statute. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai², it has been held that the object of maintenance proceedings is not to punish a person for his past neglect, but to prevent vagrancy and destitution of a deserted wife, by providing her food, clothing, and shelter by a speedy remedy. As settled by this Court, Section 125 Cr.P.C. is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children. It also falls within the Constitutional sweep of Article 15(3), reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India.”

11. As per the averments made by the revisionist No.1, in her affidavit filed in support of the criminal revision, submitted that earlier opposite party No.2 used to work as senior area manager in Somatic Healthcare Pvt. Ltd. Company and later on, same was named as Koester Pharmaceuticals Private Limited Company and earns about Rs.1,50,000/- per month. Revisionist No.1 has filed certificate of registration of company, which is annexed as Annexure-4 to the revision regarding Incorporation of Somatic Healthcare Pvt. Ltd. as Koester Pharmaceuticals Private Limited Company, which was registered.

12. From the perusal of the Memorandum of Association of aforesaid company, it transpires that although this company has total five share-holders, but opposite party No.2 is main share-holder and Director of the company. The revisionist also filed statements, informations or particulars in respect of profit and loss of the aforesaid company, which is annexed as Annexure-5. The total revenue of the company has shown as Rs.77, 27,640.93/- from 01.04.2020 to 31.03.2021. In this aforesaid statements, profit of the company is shown as Rs.3,38,069.09/- and tax paid on the company as Rs.65,504/-, but in segment-III of the statement, which relates Reporting of Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR), the net worth of the company is shown as Rs.12,97,252.21/-. Thus, according to the statement relating to CSR, the net annual income of the company is of Rs.12,97, 252.21/-

13. Averments has been made by opposite party No.2, in his counter affidavit, that the actual profit of the aforesaid company for the year 2020 to 2021 is only of Rs.3,38,069/-.

14. Revisionist No.1, in her rejoinder affidavit, pleaded that her husband/opposite party No.2 has also agricultural land, for which, she has attached khatauni of 1378 fasli of seven plots of land total area 1.5020 hec. From the khatauni of the aforesaid land, which is annexed as Annexure-6 to the affidavit filed by the revisionist, it appears that total six co-tenure holders in the aforesaid land, whereas the averments has been made by the opposite party No.2, in his affidavit, that aforesaid land is on the name of his father alongwith other co-tenure holders. Revisionist has also stated, in her affidavit, that her daughter /revisionist No.2 is studying in SKD Academy, 2D/HS-1, Vrindavan Yojna, Raibareilly Road, Lucknow and fees and other expenses of the aforesaid school is bear by father of the revisionist No.1 and opposite party No.2 does not pay any amount for it.

15. From the above discussion, it transpires that opposite party No.2 is a Director of the said company and big shareholder, therefore, 50% of the net profit of the company can be considered as annual income of the opposite party No.2 for the year 2020-2021. Hence, annual income of the opposite party No.2 can be presumed to have been increased and it can be fixed at Rs.7,50,000/- (approx). Although, opposite party No.2 has made averments, in his counter affidavit, that there was decline in his income from his company, but no documentary evidence has been submitted in support of this arguments. Apart from this aforesaid annual income of Rs.7,50,000/-, agricultural land is in the name of his father though presently he has no right or interest in that agricultural land.

16. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shailja And Another vs. Khobbanna: (2018) 12 SCC 199 has held:

“We find that the High Court has proceeded on the basis that Appellant 1/wife was capable of earning and that is one of the reasons for reducing the maintenance granted to her by the Family Court. Whether Appellant 1 is capable of earning or whether she is actually earning are two different requirements. Merely because Appellant 1 is capable of earning is not, in our opinion, sufficient reason to reduce the maintenance awarded by the Family Court.”

17. Considering the above law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court merely shall be paid regularly till 10th of each month. The amount of maintenance allowance already paid shall be set-off against this amount. The order impugned dated 22.03.2022 is modified.

18. In Kalyan Dey Chowdhury vs. Rita Dey Chowdhury Nee Nandy: (2017) 14 SCC 200 has held that 25% of the husband's net salary would be just and proper to be awarded as maintenance to the wife.

23. The copy of the order be sent to the trial Court concerned forthwith for necessary compliance.

THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH - I, J.

20. From the above discussion, I am of the view that the maintenance allowance fixed by the trial Court in the impugned order should be modified and maintenance allowance provided by the trial Court to the revisionist Nos.1 and 2 should be enhanced. It is provided that revisionist No.1 (wife) shall be granted for Rs.18,500/- per month as maintenance allowance as well as Rs.10,000/- per month for her minor daughter.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh - I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nafees Ahmad, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Rishabh Kumar Pandey, holding brief of Sri Santosh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of this criminal revision, the revisionist has challenged an order dated 01.10.2022, passed by learned Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Children Court, District Meerut in Criminal Appeal No. 128 of 2022 arising out of case crime no. 55 of 2022 under sections 147, 148, 149, 323/34, 302, 504, 395 and 412 IPC, whereby the order dated 27.08.2022 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, holding him as adult has been confirmed and the Criminal Appeal No. 118 of 2022, preferred by the juvenile has been dismissed.

3. The relevant facts are as below:-

The instant revisionist has been found involved in case crime no. 55 of 2022 under sections 147, 148, 149, 323/34, 302, 504, 395, 412 IPC and produced before the Juvenile Justice Board. In the age determination inquiry conducted by the Juvenile Justice Board, the evidence has been led and further the medical opinion has also been obtained. After conclusion of inquiry, two members of the Board passed an order on 27.08.2022 holding the juvenile as aged about 16 years and 6 months on the date of the incident. The same day, on the basis of the same material, the Principal Magistrate passed a separate order holding him to be above 18 years and further directed that his case may be transferred to the court concerned for further proceeding. Both the orders, one passed by the Principal Magistrate and the other passed by the rest of two members of the Juvenile Justice Board, were separately challenged respectively on behalf of the juvenile (Criminal Appeal No. 128 of 2022) and on behalf of the victim (Criminal Appeal No. 118 of 2022). Both the appeals have been decided by a common order passed by the appellate court, on 01.10.2022 in which the Criminal Appeal No. 118 of 2022 filed by the victim was allowed and the Criminal Appeal No. 128 of 2022 filed on behalf of the juvenile was dismissed. Consequentially, he has been held as an 'adult'. Now the juvenile is before this Court in revision filed on his behalf.

4. The submission in brief are that his school leaving certificate showing his date of birth as 12.09.2005, has not been considered. His date of birth is 12.09.2005 and the same has been proved by the testimony of his father. Though the school leaving certificate was available but he was wrongly sent for medical examination. In the medical examination, his age has been found 19 years and therefore even on the basis of medical examination, taking into account probability of two years margin, he should have been held as below 18 years. Further the medical opinion said that he was not exactly 19 years but below 19 years, but his aspect has not been considered by the Principal Magistrate. Further submission is that the two members of the Board gave a different opinion, and that the majority opinion shall prevail, over the opinion of the Principal Magistrate. The appellate court gave a contrary finding which is against the law.

5. As per the admitted case of the revisionist, he did not obtain any formal education from class 1 to 4 and directly took admission in class 5th in certain school at Mawana, Meerut and thereafter in class 6th at his bua's place at Daraula, Meerut and that he did not study any further. His date of birth is 12.09.2005 and the same has been shown in his T.C. of class 5th, a copy thereto is on record.

6. I perused the papers on record, the perusal of the T.C. shows that in that school he got admitted on 6.7.2015 and left that school next year in the month of March, 2016 i.e. he studied there only for 8 months. Two diverse orders have been passed by the J.J. Board, one by the Principal Magistrate alone and the other by rest of the two members. However, in both the orders it has been clearly observed that the T.C. of class 5th was a doubtful paper and that date of birth mentioned in T.C. could not be relied upon. Interestingly, the Principal Magistrate as well as the rest of the two members of the J.J. Board both have relied upon the medical opinion but with two different approach. The members expressed an opinion that the medical opinion as regard age is not conclusive and that there is probability of margin of two years on both the sides and therefore, giving benefit of such a margin, held him to be 16 and half on the date on the incident. On the other hand, the Principal Magistrate observed as below:

"प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट के अनुसार प्रश्नगत मामले की घटना दिनांक 31.01.2022 है। दिनांक 11.08.2022को (name hidden) पुत्र प्रमोद कुमार का चिकित्सीय आयु परीक्षण किया गया जिसमें उसकी आयु लगभग 19 वर्ष अंकित की गई है। (name hidden) का आयु परीक्षण घटना के 06 माह 10 दिन बाद कराया गया है। चिकित्सीय आयु परीक्षण रिपोर्ट को आधार मानते हुए (name hidden) पुत्र प्रमोद कुमार घटना के समय 18 वर्ष से अधिक आयु का पाया जाता है। उपरोक्त तथ्य परिस्थितियों में साक्ष्य के विश्लेषण उपरान्त (name hidden) घटना की तिथि 31.01.2022 को अवयस्क होना नहीं पाया जाता है। तद्वसार आवेदक की ओर से (name hidden) को नाबालिग घोषित कराये जाने हेतु प्रस्तुत प्रार्थना पत्र निरस्त किया जाने योग्य है।"

7. I perused the order of the appellate court, the learned appellate court referred to a judgment of Supreme Court in State of U.P. Vs. Chote Lal AIR 2011 SC 697, Jitendra Ram Vs. State of Jharkhand 2006 (9) SCC 428 and Mukarrab Vs. State of U.P. 2017 (2) SCC 2010, and observed that the two members of the J.J. Board while determining his age, reduced two years in the medical age without any basis or material before it for reduction of the same. Further, the appellate court referred to judgments of the Supreme Court in Jyoti Prakash Rai Vs. State of Bihar 2008 (3) SCALE 348, Manoj Kumar @ Monu @ Vishal Chaudhary Vs. State of Haryana and Others AIR 2022 SC 1060, Parag Bhati Vs. State of U.P. 2016 (12) SCC 744, Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of M.P. 2012 (9) SCC 750, Sanjeev Gupta Vs. State of U.P. 2019 (12) SCC 370, Om Prakash Vs. State of Rajasthan 2012 (5) SCC 201 and observed that the offender had claimed juvenility on the basis of fabricated documents. It may be noted at this point of time that the Principal of the concerned school who had issued the T.C., in his on oath statement first stated that the juvenile never studied in his school and that the T.C. is a fabricated paper however, subsequently he resiled from his earlier statement and said that the juvenile had studied in his school. Several discrepancies were found in papers produced by the juvenile and also in the oral testimony and therefore the papers produced on behalf of the juvenile were rightly not relied upon. The appellate court too found the evidence given on behalf of juvenile on this issue very suspicious and agreed with the findings of the Principal Magistrate as well as by two members of the J.J. Board as regard non-reliability of papers filed on behalf of juvenile. The appellate court agreed with such findings after its own assessment of the material produced on behalf of the juvenile. But as far as the determination of age on the basis of medical examination is concerned, the appellate court expressed an opinion that there was no question of reducing the age by one year or two years, from the medical age.

8. It appears that the appellate court has treated the medical evidence as conclusive proof of age. It may be noted that though the oral and documentary evidence produced on behalf of juvenile was rightly found unreliable and inadequate to be read in evidence and to form basis of age, however, in my opinion in such circumstances it was expected from the J.J. Board that it shall obtain further evidence by calling papers like copy of pariwar register, academic records of his siblings and other evidence of like nature besides medical opinion.

9. In Criminal Revision No. 5477 of 2023 (Juvenile X Vs. State of U.P and Another) Neutral Citation No. 2024:AHC:14440 decided on 30.01.2024, the Allahabad High Court has observed in paragraph no. 9 as below:

“ 9. There is no strict law as regard lowering the age by two years from the medical age. Undoubtedly, the age determined on the basis of medical tests is merely an opinion. In view of probability of error, a general rule has evolved that there may be error of 2 year on either side. This is not to say that in all the cases, 2 year have to be deducted or added. A mechanical adherence to such law may entail failure of interest of justice. The courts ought to apply the judicial mind when it decides to lower the age by certain margin. The law on probable error in determining age on the basis of medical evidence has evolved and has a general application but the question is whether the Court is expected to go mathematically? or is it mandatory to consider the age of accused 2 years less than the medical age? The answer is 'No'. Possibility of error cannot be equated with actual error. Definitely in certain cases evidence might be available which may show the margin of error on the higher side rather than on lower side. This is well established that the medical age can act as a guideline only and not as a conclusive proof. This is an accepted fact that radiological age may not give precise or exact age. Other relevant facts and circumstances may assist the Court in arriving at the right conclusion.”

10. The Apex Court in Rishipal Singh Solanki vs. State of U.P. and Others; 2021 (11) ADJ 489 decided on 18.11.2021 has, after traversing through a number of judgments on the issue of determination of age, summed up the conclusions in Para 29 of the judgment which is as below:

"29. What emerges on a cumulative consideration of the aforesaid catena of judgments is as follows:

(i) A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage of a criminal proceeding, even after a final disposal of the case. A delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. It can also be raised for the first time before this Court.

(ii) An application claiming juvenility could be made either before the Court or the JJ Board.

(ii-a) When the issue of juvenility arises before a Court, it would be under sub-section (2) and (3) of section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015 but when a person is brought before a Committee or JJ Board, section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 applies.

(ii-b) If an application is filed before the Court claiming juvenility, the provision of sub-section (2) of section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with sub-section (2) of section 9 so as to seek evidence for the purpose of recording a finding stating the age of the person as nearly as may be.

(ii-c) When an application claiming juvenility is made under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 before the JJ Board when the matter regarding the alleged commission of offence is pending before a Court, then the procedure contemplated under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would apply. Under the said provision if the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Board shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence and the age recorded by the JJ Board to be the age of the person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the JJ Act, 2015, be deemed to be true age of that person. Hence the degree of proof required in such a proceeding before the JJ Board, when an application is filed seeking a claim of juvenility when the trial is before the concerned criminal court, is higher than when an inquiry is made by a court before which the case regarding the commission of the offence is pending (vide section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015).

(iii) That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the Court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rule 12(3)(a)(i), (ii), and (iii) of the JJ Rules 2007 made under the JJ Act, 2000 or sub-section (2) of section 94 of JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the Court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

(iv) The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

(v) That the procedure of an inquiry by a Court is not the same thing as declaring the age of the person as a juvenile sought before the JJ Board when the case is pending for trial before the concerned criminal court. In case of an inquiry, the Court records a prima facie conclusion but when there is a determination of age as per sub-section (2) of section 94 of 2015 Act, a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Also the age recorded by the JJ Board shall be deemed to be the true age of the person brought before it. Thus, the standard of proof in an inquiry is different from that required in a proceeding where the determination and declaration of the age of a person has to be made on the basis of evidence scrutinised and accepted only if worthy of such acceptance.

(vi) That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

(vii) This Court has observed that a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

(viii) If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the Court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

(ix) That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Indian Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

(x) Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the Court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act viz., section 35 and other provisions.

(xi) Ossification Test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015."

It appears that the Supreme Court has not put any fetters on the powers of the court to seek evidence of any other kind, if the evidence as mentioned in section 94 of the J.J. Act, 2015 is found inadequate, false, fabricated and unreliable. In several cases the Supreme Court has found the entries in pariwar register and other documentary evidence as relevant and having some value as far as the date of birth is concerned.

11. The court concerned may be impelled to determine the age considering the margin of error, in the background of other material available. There is no absolute law that in all the cases, two years or even one year is to be mandatorily reduced from the medical age, ignoring all other material whether that tended to rebut or tended to corroborate the medical age.

12. As far as the instant case is concerned, it appears that there was no good material before the court concerned to corroborate or to calculate the age by reducing it or increasing it with certain margins. In such circumstances, the proper course, which ought to have been adopted by the J.J. Board, is to probe further in the matter and to obtain other evidence as may be available. In my opinion, the J.J. Board should have sought evidence on its own initiative rather than depending upon the parties, as the ultimate responsibility lies on it only. The appellate court failed to notice the lack of material and treated the medical evidence as conclusive proof of age.

13. In the peculiar circumstances of the case, I am of the view that J.J. Board should be directed to obtain further evidence as regard age by recalling the witness for further examination or cross-examination and also call for documentary evidence as might be available in other records which may include the pariwar register, or any other document which may assist the court/the J.J. Board in arriving at the right conclusion. The J.J. Board can call for additional witnesses as per its discretion. In such cases, where attempts are made to mislead the court by producing suspicious and doubtful documents, the court ought to be more cautious and careful. No law bars the court to adopt a proactive approach and to look for truth.

14. In view of the above this revision is allowed. The impugned order dated 01.10.2022, passed by learned Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Children Court, District Meerut, is hereby set aside.

15. The matter is remanded back to the J.J. Board to hold further inquiry and determine the age, in accordance with law.

Criminal Law – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 125 & 127 – Family Courts Act, 1984 – Section 19 – Maintenance to wife and children – Revisional jurisdiction of High Court – Determination of husband's income – Quantum of maintenance Held: Maintainability of Revision Proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. fall within Chapter IX of the Code. By virtue of Section 19(2) of the Family Courts Act, no appeal lies against orders passed under Chapter IX. Section 19(4) expressly preserves the High Court's revisional jurisdiction to examine the correctness, legality, propriety, or regularity of such orders. Held, a criminal revision before the High Court is maintainable; objection that only an appeal under Section 19(1) lies was rightly rejected.

Scope of Section 127 Cr.P.C. Section 127 Cr.P.C. applies where there is a subsequent change in circumstances warranting alteration of maintenance. Where the challenge is to the original quantum fixed as being contrary to the evidence on record, the proper remedy is a revision before the High Court. Held, the contention that enhancement could be sought only under Section 127 Cr.P.C. before the Family Court was misconceived.

Earning Capacity vs. Actual Income of Wife Mere educational qualification or capacity to earn does not amount to proof of actual income. Absence of evidence of real earning disentitles the husband from seeking reduction of maintenance on that ground alone. Reiterated, capability to earn is distinct from actual earning.

Assessment of Husband's Income Husband's financial capacity may be assessed on the basis of admissions, lifestyle, investments, bank accounts, fixed deposits, provident fund, property purchases, and regular filing of income tax returns. A bald plea of meagre income, when contradicted by financial conduct and assets, deserves rejection. Held, husband's claimed income of ₹7,000–8,000/- per month was unbelievable; his income reasonably assessed at not less than ₹60,000/- per month.

Principles Governing Quantum of Maintenance Ordinarily, around 25% of the husband's income constitutes a just and reasonable share towards the wife's maintenance. Adequate provision must also be made for the education and future prospects of minor children, particularly where they are pursuing or preparing for professional courses.

Interference in Revision Where the Family Court fixes maintenance ignoring material evidence of the husband's financial capacity and grants an unjustly low amount, interference in revision is warranted. Held, the maintenance awarded was grossly inadequate and liable to enhancement.

Criminal Revision partly allowed.

List of Cases cited:

1. Shailja & Another v. Khobbanna (2018) 12 SCC 199

2. Kalyan Dey Chowdhury v. Rita Dey Chowdhury nee Nandy (2017) 14 SCC 200

Heard Sri Sumit Daga, learned counsel for the revisionists and Sri Rajavtar Singh, Advocate assisted by Sri Pankaj Kumar, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2.

2. By means of the instant criminal revision, revisionists have assailed the judgement and order dated 25.01.2023 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Muzaffarnagar in Case No.269 of 2014 (Computerized No. UPMZ 0200184 62014) (Smt. Shaily Mittal & others vs. Brijesh Kumar), under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

3. By the impugned order, the trial Court has granted interim maintenance of Rs.7,000/- to the revisionist No.1 and Rs.2,000/- to the revisionist Nos.2 and 3 per month each, under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The revisionists have prayed in the revision for enhancement of maintenance allowance granted by the trial Court in their favour.

4. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionists that before calculating the quantum of maintenance, the trial court has not taken into consideration the income of the opposite party No.2 (husband). It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2, in his cross-examination, has admitted that he has National Saving Certificates (N.S.C.), Rs.45,000/- in his PPF Account and F.D.R. of Rs.11,00,000/- but without considering the same, trial Court granted meagre amount of maintenance allowance to the revisionists.

5. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial Court illegally came to the conclusion that revisionist No.1 did not prove the income of the opposite party No.2, in fact the revisionist No.1 by her oral and documentary evidence has very well proved that opposite party No.2 has huge source of income and also many properties. Therefore, the trial Court had committed illegality in allowing maintenance allowance to the revisionists. It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2 is a co-partner in his family business of Saree and he is earning half of the total income arising out of aforesaid family business, but trial Court has wrongly considered that the owner of the aforesaid business was his brother, namely, Rajesh Kumar Mittal and opposite party No.2 was working there as salesman drawing salary of Rs.7000/- per month only. It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2 has not filed any criminal revision against the impugned judgment and order, therefore, finding of the trial Court regarding the matter other than quantum of maintenance allowance to be payable to the revisionists has become final.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionists has placed reliance on the following judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as this Court:-

(i) Urvashi Aggarwal and Others vs. Inderpaul Aggarwal; (2021) SCC OnLine Del 4641.

(ii) Liaqat Hussain vs. Jainab Parveen and Another; (2020) (12) ADJ 638 (DB).

7. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 while opposing the criminal revision has submitted that under the provision of Section 19 of the Family Court Act, 1984, the revision should have been filed before the Division Bench of the High Court. He also raised objection that revisionists could have obtained the aforesaid relief for enhancement of monthly allowance from the trial Court, therefore, the present revision for the aforesaid relief is not maintainable and same is liable to be dismissed. It has also been submitted that revisionist No.1 is doing job and earning monthly salary and has filed income tax return. The opposite party No.2 had filed copy of income tax return since 2006 and credited of salary into her accounts, but trial Court has not taken into consideration to provide the maintenance allowance to the revisionist No.1 against the provisions of law.

8. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 that opposite party No.2 is ready to pay educational and living expenses of his children provided it is directly paid into their accounts and he has already incurred expenses of Rs. 2,81,755/- towards Laptop, coaching fee, tuition fee, admission fee and other expenses of both the children and has made payment of Rs.24,000/- to the revisionist No.1 towards interim maintenance. It has also been submitted that revisionist No.1 is professionally qualified and had been gainfully employed, which is evident from the Bank statement of revisionist No.1. Apart from this, opposite party No.2 has submitted statement showing Rs.20,000/- as balance and copy of NSC of Rs.20 lakhs in the family Court proceedings, therefore, revisionist No.1 can maintain herself as well as her children from the interest accruing from the aforesaid accounts.

9. Learned counsel for the revisionist and learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 have been heard. Perused the evidence available on the record of the revision as well as the impugned order.

10. The opposite party No.2 has raised objection that under the provision of Section 19 of the Family Court Act, 1984 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act of 1984'), the criminal revision is not maintainable against the impugned judgment and order passed by trial Court, the aggrieved person can only file appeal in High Court and the same be heard by Division Bench. The provision regarding appeal is given in Section 19 of the Act, which is as follows:-

(1)Save as provided in sub-section (2) and notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) or in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or in any other law, an appeal shall lie from every judgment or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Family Court to the High Court both on facts and on law.

(2)No appeal shall lie from a decree or order passed by the Family Court with the consent of the parties or from an order passed under Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974):Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to any appeal pending before a High Court or any order passed under Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 (2 of 1974) before the commencement of the Family Courts (Amendment) Act, 1991 (59 of 1991).

(3)Every appeal under this section shall be preferred within a period of thirty days from the date of the judgment or order of a Family Court.

(4)The High Court may, of its own motion or otherwise, call for and examine the record of any proceeding in which the Family Court situate within its jurisdiction passed an order under Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of the order, not being an interlocutory order, and, as to the regularity of such proceeding.

(5)Except as aforesaid, no appeal or revision shall lie to any court from any judgment, order or decree of a Family Court.

(6)An appeal preferred under sub-section (1) shall be heard by a Bench consisting of two or more Judges.

11. Sub Section (1) of the Section 19 of the Act provides for appeal to High Court against every judgment and order passed by the Family Court. Sub Section (6) of Section 19 of the Act also provides that an appeal preferred under Sub Section (1) of the Act shall be heard by a Bench consisting of two or more judges. Sub Section (2) of Section 19 of the Act provides an explanation to sub Section (1) of this Act. Accordingly, sub Section (2) of Section 19 of the Act provides no appeal shall lie from a decree and order passed by the Family Court with the consent of the parties or from an order passed under Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974). The proceeding for maintenance under section 125 Cr.P.C. is included in Chapter IX of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973. Thus, the provisions of Sub Section (1) of Section 19 of the Act which provides that judgment and order passed by Family Court shall be appealable to the High Court and heard by Division Bench of that Court is not applicable to the order passed by Family Court in case filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. Sub Section (4) of Section 19 of the Family Courts Act, 1985 clearly provides that criminal revision shall be maintainable to the High Court against order passed under Chapter IX of Cr.P.C. i.e. Sections 125 to 128 Cr.P.C. Thus, objection raised by the opposite party No.2 in this regard has no merit and is liable to be rejected.

12. Learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has also raised preliminary objection to the jurisdiction of this Court for enhancement of maintenance allowance in view of the specific provision given in Section 127 Cr.P.C.

13. Section 127 Cr.P.C. provides for alteration of maintenance allowance or interim maintenance allowance on the ground that circumstances have been changed since the order was passed.

14. Section 127 Cr.P.C., provides for alteration of maintenance allowance in the following circumstances:-

(i) The Magistrate finds that competent civil court has passed any order due to which maintenance allowance granted has to be cancelled or modified;

(ii) The woman in whose favour maintenance allowance has been provided, has remarried after obtaining divorce such order of maintenance can be cancelled from the date of her remarriage;

(iii) Such woman has received whole of the sum which, under any customary or personal law applicable to the parties, was payable on such divorce;

(iv) The woman has obtained divorce from her husband and she had voluntarily surrendered her rights to maintenance or interim maintenance, as the case may be, after her divorce, cancel the order from the date thereof.

15. The alteration of maintenance allowance under Section 127 Cr.P.C. can be done by the trial Court on the ground of change of circumstances as mentioned in that section. In case, the person in whose favour maintenance allowance is passed wants to assail the amount of maintenance allowance on the ground that it was fixed against the evidence on record, he/she can file criminal revision to this Court and Court shall have jurisdiction to decide it. Thus, plea of opposite party No.2 against the jurisdiction of this Court viz-a-viz Section 127 Cr.P.C. is misconceived and is hereby rejected.

16. Admittedly, revisionist No.1 is the wife of opposite party No.2 and revisionist Nos.2 and 3 are their children, who are aged about 8 and 9 years on the date of filing of application under Section 125

Cr.P.C.. Both are carrying on their education and are residing with their mother at her parental house since 2013. From the pleadings/written statement of the opposite party No.2, it is clear that during this period, revisionist No.1 was residing away from him. Opposite party no.2 has provided lump sum amount of Rs.2,81,755/- towards expenses of Laptop, coaching fee, tuition fee, etc of revisionist Nos.2 and 3. He also provided a sum of Rs.24,000/- as interim maintenance to the revisionist No.1. Thus, it transpires that for more than 9 years revisionists are living separately from the opposite party No.2.

17. Revisionist No.1 has pleaded, in her application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C., that though she is well educated but she does not have any job and also has no source of income for maintaining herself as well as her children. She further pleaded that some amount was deposited in her account i.e SBI and PNB, but passbook and other documents relating to it has been retained by the opposite party No.2, therefore, she is not able to operate those accounts. She further pleaded that opposite party No.2 has 400 square yard area (plot), which is situated in the main market of the city. She also pleaded that her children are studying in Muzaffarnagar and she has taken rented accommodation of Rs.4000/- per month near by her parental home where she residing with her children. The revisionist No.1 requires about 40,000/- per month as maintenance allowance regarding rent of accommodation, routine expenses, medical expenses of herself and her children including educational expenses of her both children.

18. The opposite party No.2 has pleaded, in his objection/written statement, that he has no business or other source of income, he is simply working as a salesman in the business established by his elder brother. He also admitted that his brother has wholesale and retail business of Sarees and merely he is getting salary of Rs.7000/- as a salesman in the shop of his brother.

19. The revisionist No.1 has deposed, in her cross-examination, that although she has done MA and BEd and is only house wife and she has denied that she was working in S.D. Management College, Muzaffarnagar before her marriage. She also stated that earlier she used to reside in House No.76 Gher Khatti, Muzaffarnagar now she is residing in house No.75 in the same Mohalla and the house rent of her present accommodation is Rs.6000/- per month. The revisionist No.1 has shown her ignorance about income tax return and NSCs of total value of Rs.18 lakhs in her name. She has also expressed her ignorance about her purchasing of 225 square yard plot jointly with her husband. She has deposed that documents, if any, relating to her NSCs and plot of land is in the possession of her husband.

20. The opposite party No.2 has stated, in his cross-examination, that before 06.06.2013, he used to work in the shop of Mittal Sons, which is owned by his real brother, namely, Rajesh Kumar Mittal in 2013 and his salary was Rs.7000 to 8000/- per month. In the said shop including him there were four other employees and there was no deduction from his salary for credit in PPF accounts. The opposite party No.2 has admitted that he used to file income tax return for the period of 2003 to 2013. He also stated that he has filed income tax return for the year 2020, but he has no knowledge about income mentioned in it. He also admitted that he has saving bank account at PNB and PPF Account having balance of Rs.45 lakhs. In the year 2006, there was a balance of only Rs.2 to 3 lakhs in his PPF account. He has admitted that his parental house no.147 Naya Bazar Shamli is double storied, one shop is situated in ground floor and residential house situated in first and second floor. He also admitted, in his cross-examination, that his wife is not doing regular job and she is only taking tuition.

21. The opposite party No.2 deposed, in his evidence, that there is a 225 square yard plot in C.B. Gupta Colony in the joint ownership of himself as well as his wife and one half of the price of the plot was paid from his account and remaining half from the account of his wife. He further admitted, in cross-examination, that entry in his passbook (35 ka/18) shows deduction of Rs.90,000/- which is transferred to his five years R.D. He also admitted that on 18.01.2021, the amount of Rs.1,50,000/- and 7,00,000/- has been withdrawn from his account, but he could not explain for which purpose that amount has been withdrawn. He also admitted that on 19.01.2022, he had credited Rs.11 lakhs in F.D. in his name. He also deposed, in his cross-examination, that his daughter Km. Iha has passed 12th and she is interested in taking admission in Engineering course, he is ready to give expenses for completing engineering course of his daughter. He further admitted that after his wife separated from him, he has not made any payment of maintenance allowance to her. He further admitted that his family is a reputed family of district Shamli.

22. Opposite party No.2, in his cross-examination, stated that in his marriage with revisionist No.1, his parents have given ornaments of about 20 tola gold and father of the revisionist no.1 has also given ornaments about 10-12 tola gold. Opposite party No.2 has deposed that revisionist No.1 has NSC and PPF Accounts, but she has not given details of their value.

23. Admittedly, revisionist No.1 has one half share to the plot owned by the opposite party No.2, but from this plot, she is not earning any running income which she could utilise for maintenance of herself and her children.

24. From appreciation of the above mentioned oral evidence of revisionist No.1 and opposite party No.2, it transpires that revisionist No.1 is a well educated women but she is not doing any regular job and has no income of her own.

25. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shailja And Another vs. Khobbanna: (2018) 12 SCC 199 has held:

26. From the deposition of opposite party No.2, it transpires that he belongs to a reputed business family of Shamli District and his father and brother are the proprietor of Raj Cutpiece Centre and have a Saree shop. From his deposition, it is also obvious that he is continuously depositing money in his PPF Account, F.D. and R.D.s and Saving Bank Account. The PPF account has been increased from 20 lakhs to 45 lakhs and he has also purchased plot of 240 square yard in the city of the value of Rs.20 lakhs. From the aforesaid discription of the patental property as well as business transtions of his shop relating to wholesale business of cutpiece and Saree of his father and brother respectively and regular deposits and investment by him in various accounts, it appears that he has a regular income and his montly income is fairly good.

27. From the above description, it is not believable that he is simply working as a salesman in his brother's shop and earning Rs.7000/- to 8000/- per month.

28. The Court has to do some guess work to determine the income of the husband and wife. From the above discussion, it can be safely concluded that his monthly income is not less than Rs.60,000/- per month. It is well settled law that income of the husband or wife cannot be calculated in mathematical terms because actual income cannot be brought on record as both the parties are interested in concealing their incomes.

29. In Kalyan Dey Chowdhury vs. Rita Dey Chowdhury Nee Nandy: (2017) 14 SCC 200 has held that 25% of the husband's net salary would be just and proper to be awarded as maintenance to the wife.

30. The 25% of net earning of the husband should be granted as maintenance allowance to the wife. The revisionist No.2 (daughter) of the opposite party No.2 is doing engineering course and revisionist No.3 (son) completed 12th and is preparing for admission in professional course.

31. Under these circumstances, it will be fair and just to provide 25 % of the gross income of the opposite party No.2 to the revisionist No.1 (wife) and 20 % of his gross income as maintenance allowance to the revisionist No.2 and 3.

32. Considering the law propounded by the following decisions and facts and circumstances of the case, there is sufficient ground to allow the present criminal revision and enhance the amount of maintenance allowance to be paid to the revisionist Nos.1, 2 and 3.

33. In view of the aforesaid factual and legal aspect, I am of the view that the maintenance allowance granted by the impugned order dated 25.01.2023 is unjust and inadequate and should be modified and enhanced. The maintenance allowance granted by the impugned order is modified accordingly.

34. It is provided that revisionist no.1 shall be entitled for Rs.15,000/- per month as maintenance allowance. Revisionist Nos.2 and 3 (daughter and son of the opposite party No.2) each shall be paid Rs.6,000/--6,000/- per month as maintenance allowance.

35. Thus, opposite party No.2 shall be bound to provide maintenance allowance @ of Rs.15,000/- per month to his wife (revisionist No.1) and Rs.6,000/- - Rs.6,000/- to revisionist Nos.2 and 3 each till they attain the age of majority. This modified amount of maintenance allowance shall be paid to the revisionists from the date of application. The arrears of maintenance allowance shall be paid in four equal instalments at the gap of four months. The monthly maintenance allowance shall be paid regularly till 7th day of each month.

36. The present criminal revision is partly allowed in terms of above mentioned conditions. The order impugned dated 25.01.2023 is set aside in part and it is modified according to the observation made above.

37. The copy of the order be sent to the trial Court concerned for necessary compliance, forthwith.

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION

THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH - I, J.

Criminal Revision No. 1762 of 2023

Rana Pratap Singh ...Revisionist
Versus
Neetu Singh & Ors. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:

Sri Ashok Kumar Shukla

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:

Sri Chandan Kumar Jaiswal

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 125(4) & 397 - Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 - Section 9 - Constitution of India, 1950 - Articles 15(3), 39 - Criminal Revision - Rana Pratap Singh Vs Neetu Singh & Ors., Criminal Revision No. 1762 of 2023 - Revisionist challenged order dated 01.03.2023 granting maintenance of Rs. 15,000/- per month to wife and Rs. 5,000/- each to two children under Section 125 Cr.P.C., alleging misappreciation of evidence and bar under Section 125(4) due to wife's non-compliance with restitution of conjugal rights decree. Court held: (1) Ex-parte decree under Section 9 of Hindu Marriage Act, set aside by Lok Adalat on 14.12.2019, was not in force, negating the bar under Section 125(4) Cr.P.C. (2) Allegations of wife's adultery or theft lacked evidentiary support, as revisionist failed to produce FIR, application, or WhatsApp message screenshots, rendering claims unsubstantiated. (3) Wife's lack of independent income, despite B.Ed. qualification, and financial dependence on parents justified maintenance; revisionist's claim of her earning Rs. 40,000/- was unsupported (Rajnish Vs Neha, (2021) 2 SCC 324). (4) Revisionist's gross salary of Rs. 65,773/- per month (January 2023), as a CRPF constable, was correctly considered without deductions for non-statutory expenses like LIC premiums or loan instalments (Dr. Kulbhushan Kumar Vs Smt. Raj Kumari, (1970) 3 SCC 129). (5) Maintenance of Rs. 25,000/- total (Rs. 15,000/- for wife, Rs. 5,000/- each for children) was just, considering children's educational expenses (Rs. 37,700/- and Rs. 35,800/- annually) and other costs (Rajathi Vs C. Ganesan, (1999) 6 SCC 326). Impugned order upheld; no illegality or jurisdictional error found. (Paras 12-27)

Heard Sri Ashok Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Chandan Kumar Jaiswal, learned counsel for the opposite parties.

2. By means of the instant criminal revision, the revisionist has assailed the impugned judgment and order dated 01.03.2023 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Gorakhpur in Criminal Case No. 657 of 2018 (Neetu Singh and others Vs. Rana Pratap Singh) filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

3. By the impugned judgment and order, the trial court has allowed the criminal case instituted by the opposite party no.1 under Section 125 Cr.P.C. and granted maintenance allowance of Rs.15,000/- per month to the opposite party no. 1 (wife) and Rs. 5000/- each to her children i.e opposite party no. 2, Keerti Singh, and opposite party no. 3, Krishna Singh from the date of filing of the criminal case. The opposite party nos.2 and 3 were provided maintenance till they attain the age of majority.

4. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial Court has passed the impugned order against the weight of evidence on record as well as law applicable to the facts of the case. The trial court has misread and misinterpreted the documentary as well as oral evidence on record. The trial court has not taken into consideration the fact that without any fault of the revisionist, the opposite party no.1 was residing away from him. It has also been submitted that a decree for restitution of conjugal rights was passed by the concerned Family Court under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act against the opposite party no.1 still she failed to live with the revisionist and perform her matrimonial duties, therefore her rights to maintenance allowance against the revisionist is barred under Section 125 (4) Cr.P.C. It has further been submitted that while determining the amount of maintenance allowance, the trial Court has not taken into consideration the monthly income of the revisionist.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist has relied on the following judgments of the different High Courts:

(i) Amit Kumar Kachhap vs. Sangeeta Toppo passed in Criminal Revision No.512 of 2023 (Ranchi High Court).

(ii) Balaram Dash vs. Smt. Gitanjali Dash and others; 2000 CRI. L.J. 4175.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite parties submits that the trial Court has passed the impugned order after proper appreciation of oral and documentary evidence on record and it should not be interfered with. It has also been submitted that the revisionist is a central government employee and was getting monthly salary of Rs.83,910/- per month in the year 2020 as it is mentioned in the trial court order. Now his salary has increased from that amount. It has also been submitted that the parents of opposite party no. 1 are bearing expenses of opposite party nos. 1 to 3. The opposite party no. 2, Keerti Singh, is studying in Class 7th, whose annual fees is Rs.37,700/- whereas opposite party no. 3, Krishna Singh, is studying in Class 5th and his annual fees is Rs. 35,800/-, their expenses for books stationary and transportation is in addition to this amount. The opposite party no. 1 has filed receipt of fees of opposite party nos. 2 and 3 with her counter affidavit. Learned counsel for the opposite parties has relied on the judgement of Hon'ble the Apex Court in Rajnish vs. Neha and Another, (2021) 2 SCC 324.

7. The opposite party no.1 had filed an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. with the averments that the opposite party No.1, Neetu Singh, had married to the revisionist, Rana Pratap Singh on 26.02.2008 according to Hindu Rites and Rituals and from their wedlock, opposite party no.2 and 3 were born. In the said marriage, father of the opposite party no.1 had given gifts and cash as per his capacity. The revisionist/husband and her in-laws were not satisfied with the dowry given to them in the marriage, they started beating her and subjected her to physical and mental harassment for coercing her to bring a Honda City car from her parents in dowry. After the birth of children, the revisionist used to tell her that he is not able to bear the expenses, therefore the children should be kept in an orphanage or sold to some rich person. When the opposite party no.1 opposed the suggestion of the revisionist, she was beaten by her husband with kicks and fists and was also confined in the room. After living for some years in village, the revisionist took opposite party no.1 and his parents to Gandhinagar, Tamil Nadu where they stayed in their own house situated near CRPF camp. On 09.04.2018, the revisionist abused and severely beat the opposite party no. 1 and forcibly took her by train and left her near her parental home. The opposite party no. 1 told her mother about the conduct of his husband. She went with her mother to police station Gagaha but her first information report was not registered by the police. On 29.05.2018 she sent her complaint through registered post to S.S.P. Gorakhpur, but no action was taken by the police. While she is staying in her parental home, the revisionist has not provided maintenance allowance for her children. Further averment has been made that the revisionist has enough fertile agricultural land from which he has enough income. The revisionist is a Constable in CRPF and is earning 40,000/- per month salary. The opposite party no. 1 has no source of income to maintain herself and her children.

8. The revisionist has admitted that the opposite party no.1 is legally wedded wife and opposite party nos.2 and 3 are his daughter and son. He has also admitted that he is doing job in CRPF. The revisionist has stated that he did not receive any dowry in the marriage. He has also denied that he or his parents are physically or mentally tortured her for getting a Honda City car in dowry. He has also admitted that after marriage, she started staying in Tamil Nadu where revisionist was doing his job. In his written statement, the revisionist has stated that he has purchased two plots in the name of opposite party no. 1 and one plot in the name of opposite party nos. 2 and 3. He has also taken Life Insurance Policy in their name and is paying premium of the policy. The revisionist has denied that on 09.04.2018, after beating the opposite party no. 1, he forcibly took her and left her at parental home and since then he has not provided any maintenance allowance to his wife and children. The revisionist has also stated that she has done B.Ed course and she is working in a private school as teacher and earns about Rs.40,000/- as salary as well as taking tuitions of children.

9. From the pleadings and documentary evidence of the parties, the Principal Judge, Family Court/trial court has framed following four issues:-

(i) Whether the applicant no. 1, Neetu Singh, is legally wedded wife of the revisionist and applicant nos. 2 and 3 are their children born from their wedlock ?

(ii) Whether the applicant no. 1 is residing away from the revisionist due to reasonable and justified cause ?

(iii) Whether the applicant No.1 does not have sufficient source of income to maintain herself and her children ?

(iv) Whether the applicants are entitled to any relief, if yes how much and from whom and from when ?

10. Regarding the issue no.1, there is no dispute between the parties, opposite party No.1 (Rana Pratap Singh) has admitted that applicant-Neetu Singh was married with him in the year 2008 and from their wedlock two children, namely, Keerti Singh and Krishna Singh were born. Regarding issue no.2, he has pleaded the rights of the applicant-Neetu Singh for maintenance allowance is barred under Section 125 (4) Cr.P.C.

11. Regarding the above mentioned issue no.2, revisionist has pressed the fact that he had filed Case No.264 of 2018, under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act against his wife in the Family Court, Mau. The Family Court passed ex-parte judgment and order dated 24.01.2019 in favour of the revisionist, the opposite party No.1 did not comply with the same and has not resided with him in compliance of the aforesaid order, therefore, her right for maintenance is barred under Section 125 (4) Cr.P.C.

12. In rebuttal of the aforesaid averments of the revisionist, the opposite party No.1 has filed copy of order 14.12.2019, 'paper no. 33 kha to 35 kha' from which, it transpires that by instituting an application, the opposite party No.1 got the execution proceedings of aforesaid exparte judgement and decree set aside in the Lok Adalat.

13. The revisionist has also pleaded, in his written statement, that his wife has illicit relation with his younger brother, therefore, her right for maintenance is barred under the provision of Section 125 (4) Cr.P.C.

14. Regarding the existence of aforesaid ex-parte judgment and order dated 24.01.2019, the revisionist has pleaded, in his written statement, that opposite party No.1 had filed Misc Application for setting aside the aforesaid ex-parte judgment and order. This misc application was dismissed in default on 28.10.2021 and ex-parte order is still in force, but revisionist had not filed certified copy of the aforesaid order dated 28.10.2021, therefore, pleadings of the revisionist, in his written statement, in this regard cannot be accepted whereas opposite party No.1 had filed certified copy of the order passed in Lok Adalat by which ex-parte judgment and order passed under Section 9 of Hindu Marriage Act was set aside.

15. From the above discussion, it can be concluded that ex-parte judgement and order passed under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act is not in force.

16. Revisionist has also pleaded that he had lodged FIR against his wife in Police Station Tank Factory, District Chenni for leaving his house after committed theft of cash, jewellery and documents related to property. He has also pleaded, in his written statement, that he had submitted application in Police Station Kant, District Gorakhpur regarding the conduct of his wife, but he has not filed the aforesaid FIR or application given to the police authority regarding the offence committed by his wife.

17. Thus, allegation regarding his wife fled from his house after stealing jewellery and other items has not been proved or substantiated by oral or documentary evidence adduced by him in the trial Court. He has also pleaded in his written statement that on 29.03.2018 at 9:00 A.M. a whatsapp message was sent through the mobile of his younger brother to his wife to leave her matrimonial home with him. He informed to his mother about the said message. On 29.03.2018, his wife, in conspiracy with his younger brother, left his house along with jewellery and cash etc. In this regard, revisionist has not filed screen short of the aforesaid whatsapp message. There is ground to accept the averments made by the revisionist that his wife has left his house with his younger brother and she is living in adultery with him. Therefore, it cannot be concluded that his wife is living in adultery with the younger brother of the revisionist. Thus, issue no.2 was rightly determined by the trial Court in affirmative against the revisionist.

18. Regarding issue no.3, the revisionist has pleaded, in his written statement filed against the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. that his wife has done B.Ed., course in computer and beautician. He has also pleaded that that his wife earns about Rs.40,000/- per month by taking tuitions and other professional works, but he has not submitted any documentary or oral evidence in this regard. Opposite party No.1 has denied in her application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. that she has no earning and she is financially dependent on her parents.

19. Admittedly, revisionist is working as constable in CRPF. Opposite party No.1 has filed his salary slip for the month of January, 2023, in which, his monthly salary has been shown as Rs.65,773/- The revisionist has pleaded in his written statement that his salary is only Rs.40,000/- per month and after deduction of instalment towards loan taken for purchasing land and paying premium of LIC, he is receiving only Rs. 28,446/- per month.

20. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Dr. Kulbhushan Kumar vs. Smt. Raj Kumari: (1970) 3 SCC 129 has held that only compulsory statutory deductions as income tax can be reduced from the gross salary. No deduction is permissible for payment of LIC, home loan, instalments towards payment of loan for purchasing land or premium of policy of insurance.

21. Thus, the alleged deduction from the gross salary of the revisionist/husband due to payment for premium of insurance or instalment of plots purchased by him cannot be taken into consideration as no such deduction from gross salary is permissible under the law.

22. Under these facts and circumstances, the monthly salary of the revisionist is taken to be Rs.65,773/- in January, 2023 as evidenced by the salary slip filed by his wife in the trial Court.

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajathi Vs. C. Ganesan, (1999) 6 SCC 326 has held that the words "unable to maintain herself" would mean the means available to the deserted wife while she was living with her husband and would not take within itself the efforts made by the wife after the desertion to survive somehow. Section 125 was enacted on the premise that it is the obligation of the husband to maintain his wife, children and parents. It will, therefore, be for him to show that he has no monetary means to discharge his obligation and he did not neglect or refuse to maintain them or anyone of them. The statement of the wife that she was unable to maintain herself would be enough and it would be for the husband to prove otherwise.

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rajesh vs. Neha and Another, (2021) 2 SCC 324 has held that maintenance laws have been enacted as a measure of social justice to provide succour to dependant wives and children for their financial support, so as to prevent them from falling into destitution and vagrancy. Article 15(3) of the Constitution of India provides that:-

“Nothing in this article shall prevent the State from making any special provision for women and children.

Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India, which envisages a positive role for the State in fostering change towards the empowerment of women, led to the enactment of various legislations from time to time.”

25. In the case of Chander Parkash Bodh Raj vs. Shila Rani Chander Prakash: 1968 SCC Online Del 52, the Delhi High Court has held that :

“an able-bodied young man has to be presumed to be capable of earning sufficient money so as to be able to reasonably maintain his wife and child and he cannot be heard to say that he is not in a position to earn enough to be able to maintain them according to the family standard. It is for such able-bodied person to show to the Court cogent grounds for holding that he is unable, for reasons beyond his control, to earn enough to discharge his legal obligation of maintaining his wife and child.”

26. The Apex Court has held that while deciding the criminal revision against the order passed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. or corresponding section under Domestic Violence Act, Court shall take only consideration the present income of the husband and wife for determining maintenance payable to the wife and children. Apart from the fees for school of opposite party Nos.2 and 3, money is also required for purchasing books, stationery, conveyance to school and other expenses of opposite party Nos.2 and 3. In this regard, trial Court has provided Rs.15,000/- per month to the opposite party No.1 and Rs.5000/- each to the opposite party Nos.2 and 3, total of Rs.25,000/- per month, which cannot be considered to be excessive. Thus, the trial Court has rightly and justly fixed the maintenance allowance payable to the opposite party Nos.1 to 3.

27. From the above discussion, I am of the view that while passing the impugned judgement and order, the trial court has not committed any illegality, irregularity, jurisdictional error or impropriety.

28. There is no merit in the criminal revision and the same is liable to be dismissed.

29. Accordingly, the criminal revision is dismissed.

30. Let a copy of this order be sent to the concerned trial court for necessary action.

THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH-I, J.

Criminal Revision No. 3032 of 2023

Matapher	Versus	...Revisionist
State of U.P. & Anr.		...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:

Sri Praveen Kumar Tripathi, Sri Krishna Tripathi

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:

G.A., Sri Jitendra Kumar Pandey, Sri Pankaj Dwivedi

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 125, 127 & 397 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 114 - Revisionist challenged orders dated 10.12.2019 granting Rs. 7,000/- monthly maintenance to opposite party no. 2 (wife) under Section 125 Cr.P.C. and dated 07.12.2022 rejecting his application under Section 127 Cr.P.C. for modification, alleging non-marital status and no liability for maintenance. Court held: (1) Trial court correctly established marital status based on oral testimony of wife, her brother, and revisionist's brother, corroborated by public documents (Aadhar card, family register, educational certificates) showing revisionist as husband and father, with presumption of genuineness under Section 114 of Indian Evidence Act (Anju Garg Vs Deepak Kumar Garg, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1314). (2) Revisionist's claim of non-marriage and forged documents was unsupported, as he filed no FIR or complaint against alleged forgery, weakening his defence. (3) Maintenance of Rs. 7,000/-, based on revisionist's pension of Rs. 34,656/-, was reasonable and below 25% of net income as per precedent, even excluding disputed agricultural income (Kulbhushan Kumar Vs Raj Kumari, (1970) 3 SCC 129). (4) Rejection of Section 127 Cr.P.C. application was justified, as revisionist's claim of no agricultural income did not alter his financial capacity to pay; wife's alleged cultivation income was irrelevant to his obligation (Rajnish Vs Neha, (2021) 2 SCC 324). (5) Section 125 Cr.P.C., a social legislation, aims to prevent destitution, and trial court's summary findings on marital status and financial need were sound (Chander Parkash Bodh Raj Vs Shila Rani Chander Prakash, 1968 SCC OnLine Del 52). Impugned orders upheld; maintenance payable from application date, with arrears in four instalments within six months. (Paras 8-24)

Heard Sri Praveen Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Pankaj Dwivedi, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2.

2. By means of this criminal revision, the revisionist has challenged the impugned order dated 10.12.2019 passed by learned Additional Principal Judge, IIIrd, Family Court, Allahabad in Maintenance Case No. 506 of 2015, Smt. Durga Devi Vs. Matapher filed u/s 125 Cr.P.C. and impugned judgement and order dated 07.12.2022 passed by learned Additional Principal Judge, Family Court- 2, Allahabad in Misc. Case No. 02 of 2020 (Matapher Vs. Durga Devi) instituted u/s 127 Cr.P.C.

3. By the impugned judgement and order dated 10.12.2019, the Additional Principal Judge, IIIrd, Family Court, Allahabad had allowed the application filed u/s 125 Cr.P.C. and granted maintenance of Rs.7,000/- per month to opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi.

4. By the impugned judgement and order dated 07.12.2022, the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court- 2, Allahabad, had rejected application u/s 127 Cr.P.C. filed by the revisionist, Matapher.

5. Averment has been made by learned counsel for the revisionist that in the trial court, arguments were made on behalf of the revisionist that opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi was not his legally wedded wife and her both children, namely, Akansha and Alok were not his children. He had requested the trial court for DNA test but the trial court did not pass any order on his application for DNA test. It has also been submitted that the trial court without application of judicial mind to the facts and circumstances of the case and the evidence on record, passed the impugned order dated 10.12.2019 and 07.12.2022 and allowed the application of opposite party no. 2 u/s 125 Cr.P.C. and rejected the application u/s 127 Cr.P.C. filed by the revisionist respectively. The aforesaid orders were illegally passed by the court against the provisions of law merely based on surmises and conjectures. Therefore, they are liable to be set-aside. It has also been submitted that revisionist's marriage was not solemnized with the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi and the children of opposite party no. 2 are not born out of their wedlock. It has also been submitted that opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi is cultivating his farm and taking the income arising out of selling of crops. Her son has also been settled and her daughter has been married. Therefore, the trial court has provided maintenance allowance to the opposite party no. 2 without any justification. It has also been submitted that the revisionist left his village for his education in his childhood. After completing education, he came into government service and solemnized his marriage with Gayatri Devi. Two sons, namely, Saurav Pathak and Ashutosh Pathak were born out of their wedlock. In the year 2013, he retired from the government job. Since then he is residing in Allahabad along with his wife and children. His brother, Vansh Raj kept opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi and is residing in the village with her. In the year 2013, his son Saurav Pathak died. On that occasion, his brother Vansh Raj visited his house. He threatened the revisionist not to move towards the agricultural land otherwise he will face dire consequences. It has also been submitted that on 03.11.2016, opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi lodged Case Crime No. 797 of 2016 u/s 420, 467, 468, 469, 471 I.P.C. in Police Station- Dhoomanganj, District- Allahabad, against the revisionist in collusion with his brother, Vansh Raj. She has also filed complaint case on 17.12.2015 u/s 12 of the Domestic Violence Act against him. His brother, Vansh Raj has illegally occupied the share of the revisionist in his parental agricultural land. It has also been submitted that the revisionist filed objection against the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. and produced his oral and documentary evidence. He had filed application u/s 127 Cr.P.C. for alteration of maintenance allowance granted by the court concerned vide order dated 10.12.2019. The court concerned illegally allowed the application filed u/s 125 Cr.P.C. by the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi and rejected the application of the revisionist filed u/s 127 Cr.P.C. It has also been submitted that the revisionist is 79 years old and suffering from old-age related diseases for which he is undergoing treatment at Medanta Hospital, Lucknow. It has also been submitted on behalf of the revisionist that he had filed application u/s 127 Cr.P.C. for modification of the maintenance allowance granted in favour of opposite party no. 2 by the trial court. The application was filed on the ground that the trial court while granting maintenance allowance u/s 125 Cr.P.C. had not only taken into consideration his monthly pension of Rs.34,656/- but also included in it income from agricultural land and had fixed the total monthly income as Rs.40,000/- per month. The trial court on the basis of his monthly income of Rs.40,000/- had granted Rs.7,000/- per month as maintenance allowance to opposite party no. 2 whereas he is not in possession of the agricultural land and he is not getting any income from the crops grown on it. The cultivation of their agricultural land is being done by opposite party no. 2 and she is utilizing the income by selling the crops grown on it but the trial court while rejecting his application u/s 127 Cr.P.C. did not consider his pleadings in this regard.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 has opposed the criminal revision and has submitted that the trial court passed the impugned order in the case u/s 125 Cr.P.C. as well as 127 Cr.P.C. on the basis of the evidence available on the record and considering the statutory provisions of the law allowed by the Hon'ble Apex Court under the law applicable to it. It has also been submitted that while passing the aforesaid impugned order, the trial court had taken into consideration both the oral as well as documentary evidence produced by the revisionist. There is no illegality or irregularity in the impugned orders and no interference by the revisional court is warranted.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist and learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 have been heard. Perused the evidence available on the record of the revisional court including the impugned orders passed by the Additional Principal Judge, IIIrd, Family Court, Allahabad and Additional Principal Judge, Family Court-2, Allahabad.

8. The trial court in its impugned judgement and order dated 10.12.2019 has considered the averments made by the applicant, P.W.1 Smt. Durga Devi in her application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. as well as her oral evidence and oral evidence of revisionist's brother, P.W.2 Vansh Raj and brother of opposite party no. 2, P.W.3 Ram Dular Dubey in detail. The trial court has also discussed the documentary evidence filed by the opposite party no. 2 in the case u/s 125 Cr.P.C.

9. The opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi had pleaded in her application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. that her marriage was solemnized in 1972 according to Hindu rites and customs with the revisionist Matapher. About 9-10 years after the marriage, a daughter, namely, Akansha and in the year 1992, a son, namely, Alok, were born from their wedlock. After the birth of their son in 1992, the revisionist left opposite party no. 2. He was working as Senior Marketing Officer in Regional Food Corporation and staying in the city. He started living with Gayatri Devi. In the year 2001, he finally refused to keep opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi with him. The opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi is a pardahnasheen lady of rural background. She is living in her matrimonial home with her son. Whereas revisionist in his written statement had denied that opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi is his legally wedded wife and Akansha and Alok are his children. He has submitted that he got government job in the year 1981 and married Gayatri Devi. From that marriage, two sons were born. His elder son died in the year 2014 and opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi in conspiracy with his brother Vansh Raj to grab his land illegally, has prepared forged document and filed a false case for maintenance.

10. P.W.1 Smt. Durga Devi in her evidence had supported the averments made by her in her pleadings. In her cross-examination, she had given details regarding her father-in-law, mother-in-law, husband and brother-in-law as well as farming in her matrimonial home. She had deposed that she was living with her children in the village of the revisionist. The revisionist's elder brother, P.W.2 Vansh Raj Pathak has supported the averments made in the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. as well as the deposition of P.W.1 Smt. Durga Devi. He has stated in his evidence that Smt. Durga Devi was married to his brother Matapher in 1972 and presently, she is living in her husband's parental house with her children. He has also deposed that his brother is living with a lady, namely, Gayatri Devi from whose relationship, he has two children. Through forgery, his brother has incorporated the name of Gayatri Devi in his service record. His brother was not married to Gayatri Devi.

11. P.W.3 Ram Dulare Dubey had also corroborated the evidence of P.W.1 Smt. Durga Devi and P.W.2 Vansh Raj Pathak regarding the marriage of Smt. Durga Devi with Matapher and from their marriage, birth of two children. In the cross-examination of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3, nothing is found which may raise doubt about the veracity of their deposition. Apart from aforesaid oral evidence, the trial court has also taken into consideration the deposition of D.W.1 Matapher and the documentary evidence filed by the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi. No documentary evidence was filed by the revisionist in the trial court. In the documentary evidence paper no. 5 Kha/2, which is the aadhar card of Smt. Durga Devi, name of her husband is registered as M. Pathak. In paper no. 5 Kha/3 which is family register of village- Barasata Kalan, the revisionist Matapher is recorded as the head of the family and Smt. Durga Devi is shown as his wife and Akansha and Alok as their daughter and son respectively. The other document filed by opposite party no. 2 in the trial court paper no. 20 Kha/2 is marksheet of High School examination, 2006 of Alok Kumar Pathak which has been issued by U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate Education in the year 2006 in which Smt. Durga Devi and Matapher are recorded as mother and father of Alok Kumar. The year of birth of Alok Kumar is recorded as 1992. The opposite party no. 2 had also filed the certificate of Intermediate and marksheet of Intermediate Examination, 2008 of Alok Kumar paper no. 20 Kha/4 and 20 Kha/5. In these documents also, his parents name is shown as Smt. Durga Devi and Matapher. Similarly, in the certificate of High School Examination, 2000 and Intermediate Examination, 2002 paper no. 20 Kha/6 and 20 Kha/7 of Kumari Akansha Pathak, Smt. Durga Devi and Matapher are shown as her mother and father respectively. Her date of birth is recorded as 1984. In paper no. 20 Kha/8 which is Akansha Pathak's marksheet of 2012 of Sampurnanand Sanskrit Vidyalaya, Smt. Durga Devi and Matapher are shown as her parents. These documents were issued before opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi filed her application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. for maintenance allowance against the revisionist Matapher. These documents corroborate the pleadings and deposition of opposite party no. 2 and her witnesses that the daughter was born 9-10 years after their marriage which was solemnized in the year 1972 as her year of birth is shown of the year 1984 and also the year of birth of their son, Alok Kumar Pathak is shown of the year 1992. The trial court has also examined the identity card of Smt. Durga Devi paper no. 20 Kha/11 in which her husband's name is recorded as Matapher. Similarly, in the ration card, paper no. 20 Kha/12, Matapher is shown as the husband of Smt. Durga Devi and Alok Kumar Pathak as their son. Aforesaid papers filed by opposite party no. 2 are two public documents and under Indian Evidence Act, there is presumption of genuineness of the entries made in them.

12. D.W.1 Matapher has admitted in his deposition that after opposite party no. 2 filed these documents in her case u/s 125 Cr.P.C., in the year 2015, he came to know about them. He has admitted that he has not filed any first information report before police authority or complaint before any public authority in regard to the alleged forged documents. He has also admitted that he did not file any case in the Court.

13. From the deposition of D.W.1 Matapher, the trial court has concluded that in case, he had considered the documents forged, he would have definitely filed first information report or made complaint before police/public authorities and drawn inference that the documents are genuine. The trial court has also taken the fact into consideration that in the service record of revisionist, Matapher Pathak, the name of Gayatri Devi is mentioned as his wife. The name of Smt. Durga Devi is not mentioned in the column of wife. The trial court has also considered the documentary evidence filed by the revisionist, namely, medical prescription of the treatment of Gayatri Devi in which her husband's name is shown as Matapher. The trial court has rightly concluded that since revisionist, Matapher has not produced any oral evidence or documentary evidence regarding his marriage to Gayatri Devi and there is reliable evidence filed by opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi about her marriage with Matapher and birth of Akansha and Alok born from their wedlock, the aforesaid entries of service book and medical papers of Gayatri Devi, cannot be relied upon. It merely corroborates the pleading and evidence of Smt. Durga Devi that sometime after birth of both the children, revisionist finally left her in the year 2001 and did not visit her anytime nor provided any maintenance to her.

14. The proceeding u/s 125 Cr.P.C. is summary in nature in which only prima facie it has to be seen that the applicant is the wife of opposite party. It is a social legislation enacted for protecting the wife, minor children and parents of a person from vagrancy and destitution.

15. In paragraph no. 9 of its judgement in Anju Garg and Another Vs. Deepak Kumar Garg, 2022 SCC Online SC 1314, the Apex Court has mentioned the purpose of Section 125 Cr.P.C. which is as follows :

9. it may be noted that Section 125 of Cr.P.C. was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish and financial suffering of a woman who is required to leave the matrimonial home, so that some suitable arrangements could be made to enable her to sustain herself and the children, as observed by this Court in Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena. This Court in the said case, after referring to the earlier decisions, has reiterated the principle of law as to how the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C have to be dealt with by the Court. It held as under:

“In Dukhtar Jahan v. Mohd. Farooq [(1987) 1 SCC 624 : 1987 SCC (Cri) 237] the Court opined that : (SCC p. 631, para 16)

16. “... Proceedings under Section 125 [of the Code], it must be remembered, are of a summary nature and are intended to enable destitute wives and children, the latter whether they are legitimate or illegitimate, to get maintenance in a speedy manner.”

8. A three-Judge Bench in Vimala (K.) v. Veeraswamy (K.) [(1991) 2 SCC 375 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 442], while discussing about the basic purpose under Section 125 of the Code, opined that : (SCC p. 378, para 3)

3. “Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing, and shelter to the deserted wife.”

9. A two-Judge Bench in Kirtikant D. Vadodaria v. State of Gujarat [(1996) 4 SCC 479 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 762], while advertng to the dominant purpose behind Section 125 of the Code, ruled that : (SCC p. 489, para 15)

15. “... While dealing with the ambit and scope of the provision contained in Section 125 of the Code, it has to be borne in mind that the dominant and primary object is to give social justice to the woman, child and infirm parents, etc. and to prevent destitution and vagrancy by compelling those who can support those who are unable to support themselves but have a moral claim for support. The provisions in Section 125 provide a speedy remedy to those women, children and destitute parents who are in distress. The provisions in Section 125 are intended to achieve this special purpose. The dominant purpose behind the benevolent provisions contained in Section 125 clearly is that the wife, child and parents should not be left in a helpless state of distress, destitution and starvation.”

10. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai [(2008) 2 SCC 316 : (2008) 1 SCC (Civ) 547 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 356], reiterating the legal position the Court held : (SCC p. 320, para 6)

6. “... Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children and as noted by this Court in Capt. Ramesh Chander Kaushal v. Veena Kaushal [(1978) 4 SCC 70 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 508] falls within constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India. It is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife. It gives effect to fundamental rights and natural duties of a man to maintain his wife, children and parents when they are unable to maintain themselves. The aforesaid position was highlighted in Savitaben Somabhai Bhatiya v. State of Gujarat [(2005) 3 SCC 636 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 787].”

11. Recently in Nagendrappa Natikar v. Neelamma [(2014) 14 SCC 452 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 407 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 346], it has been stated that it is a piece of social legislation which provides for a summary and speedy relief by way of maintenance to a wife who is unable to maintain herself and her children”.

16. In the case of Chander Parkash Bodh Raj vs. Shila Rani Chander Prakash: 1968 SCC Online Del 52, the Delhi High Court has held that :

“an able-bodied young man has to be presumed to be capable of earning sufficient money so as to be able to reasonably maintain his wife and child and he cannot be heard to say that he is not in a position to earn enough to be able to maintain them according to the family standard. It is for such able-bodied person to show to the Court cogent grounds for holding that he is unable, for reasons beyond his control, to earn enough to discharge his legal obligation of maintaining his wife and child.”

17. The Hon’ble Apex Court in Rajnesh vs. Neha (supra) has approved the above law laid down by the Delhi High Court.

18. From the above analysis, I am of the opinion that the trial court has rightly concluded that opposite party no. 2 is the legally wedded wife of revisionist, Matapher. As far as quantum of maintenance determined by the trial court as Rs.7,000/- per month payable to the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi, the monthly income of revisionist should be taken into consideration. The revisionist had admitted in his pleadings as well as deposition that he retired in the year 2013 and is getting Rs.34,656/- as monthly pension.

19. The Hon’ble Apex Court in Kulbhushan Kumar Vs. Raj Kumari, (1970) 3 SCC 129 has held that 25% of the husband’s net salary would be just and proper to be awarded as maintenance allowance to the wife. The amount of permanent alimony awarded to the wife must be befitting the status of the parties and the financial capacity of the husband to make the payment.

20. In Kalyan Dey Chaudhary Vs. Rita Dey Chaudhary Nee Nandy, (2017) 14 SCC 200, the Hon’ble Apex Court has followed the quantum of maintenance fixed by the Hon’ble Apex Court in Kulbhushan

Kumar (supra) that 25% of net income of the husband should be paid to the wife as maintenance.

21. The trial court has added Rs.5,344/- as agricultural income into the amount of monthly pension of Rs.34,656/- of the revisionist Matapher and has taken his monthly income as Rs.40,000/-. The objection of revisionist is that he is neither in the possession nor drawing any income from the agricultural land. Even if the income from agricultural land is excluded, admittedly revisionist is earning Rs.34,656/- as monthly pension.

22. Applying the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, 25% of monthly pension will be Rs.8,664/- whereas the trial court has granted Rs.7,000/- per month as monthly maintenance allowance to the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi. Therefore, the maintenance allowance granted to the opposite party no. 2 cannot be considered as excessive vis-a-vis the monthly pension of the revisionist rather it is on the lower side. Therefore, the trial court has rightly rejected his application filed u/s 127 Cr.P.C. for reduction in the maintenance allowance on the ground that he is not drawing any income from the agricultural land.

23. From the above discussion, I am of the view that there is no illegality, irregularity, or jurisdictional error in the impugned orders dated 10.12.2019 and 07.12.2022 passed by the trial court. There is no merit in the criminal revision and is liable to be dismissed.

24. The monthly maintenance allowance provided by the trial court of Rs.7,000/- shall be payable to the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Durga Devi from the date of her filing application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. which shall be payable till 10th of each calendar month. The arrears of maintenance allowance shall be paid by the revisionist in four equal amounts within a period of six months. The amount of maintenance allowance already paid to the opposite party no. 2 shall be set off against this amount.

25. The present criminal revision is dismissed in terms of above mentioned conditions.

26. The copy of the order be sent to the trial court concerned forthwith for necessary compliance.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 311 & 397 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 323, 504 & 304 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 138 - Revisionists challenged order dated 11.05.2023 rejecting their application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. to recall P.W.1 Balwant Singh for cross-examination in a trial for offences under Sections 323, 504, 304 I.P.C. Court held: (1) Section 311 Cr.P.C. grants wide discretionary power to recall witnesses if essential for a just decision, to be exercised judiciously with caution to avoid filling prosecution lacunae or causing prejudice (Rajaram Prasad Yadav Vs St. of Bihar, AIR 2013 SC 3081). (2) P.W.1's cross-examination, concluded on 17.11.2021, did not cover injuries to revisionist's sons or N.C.R. No. 46 of 2020, which was relevant as both F.I.R. and N.C.R. arose from the same incident on 12.05.2020 (Swapan Kumar Chatterjee Vs CBI, (2019) 14 SCC 328). (3) Injury reports and x-ray confirming fracture to revisionist's son justified recalling P.W.1 for cross-examination on these points, as they were essential for a just decision, despite prior opportunity for cross-examination (Mohanlal Shyam Ji Soni Vs U.O.I., 1991 Supp (1) SCC 271). (4) Trial court's rejection of the application without considering the essentiality of evidence was an illegality, warranting recall subject to Rs. 10,000/- cost to prevent abuse of process (St. (NCT of Delhi) Vs Shiv Kumar Yadav, (2016) 2 SCC 402). Revision allowed; trial court directed to permit cross-examination on N.C.R. and injuries on a fixed date with no adjournment. (Paras 12-25)

Criminal Revision Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh - I, J.)

Heard learned counsel for the revisionists, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present criminal revision has been instituted against the impugned judgement and order dated 11.05.2023 passed by Special Judge (E.C. Act), Fatehpur in S.T. No. 679 of 2020 (State Vs. Shiv Mohan and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 88 of 2020 under sections 323, 504, 304 I.P.C., Police Station- Malwan, District- Fatehpur.

3. By the impugned order, the trial court has rejected the application 16-B filed by the revisionist no. 1 under section 311 Cr.P.C. to summon P.W.1 Balwant Singh for cross-examination.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionists submitted that regarding the incident, an N.C.R. against Raj Kumar and Gore Lal was registered by P.W.1 Balwant Singh. The accused, Shiv Mohan also got registered an F.I.R./N.C.R. No. 46 of 2020 under Section 323, 504 I.P.C., Police Station- Malwan, District- Fatehpur. In the F.I.R./N.C.R. of the alleged incident registered by the revisionist no. 1, his son had received serious injuries in the same incident. It has been also submitted that in the case registered by Balwant Singh, after investigation, charge-sheet has been filed in Case Crime No. 88 of 2020 under Sections 323, 504, 304 I.P.C. against revisionists and two other co-accused persons. It has also been submitted that the revisionist no. 1 has filed an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. in the court concerned for examination of P.W.1 Balwant Singh, which was rejected. The record was not available and no investigation was done in the aforesaid N.C.R. No. 46 of 2020. In spite of the order passed in N.C.R., record has been lost in the police station. It has been also submitted that both F.I.R. and N.C.R. relates to the same incident, in which, charge sheet was filed against the revisionists and others on his side. The revisionist no. 1 has received grievous injury on his parietal left skull. The defence was entitled to ask question to P.W.1 Balwant Singh regarding injury received by Raj Kumar and Gore Lal on the side of accused. It has also been submitted that the trial court has rejected the application filed under Section 311 Cr.P.C. without application of mind and ignoring the provision of law.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for opposite party No.2/ informant has submitted that the trial court has passed the impugned order considering the facts of the case and law applicable for summoning witnesses u/s 311 Cr.P.C. It has also been submitted that there is no illegality in the impugned order. It has also been submitted that the revisionists/ defence has not mentioned in the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. any specific question to be asked to P.W.1 Balwant Singh in cross-examination. It has also been submitted that P.W.1 Balwant Singh is not named in the N.C.R. There is no occasion to summon P.W.1 for cross-examination. It has also been submitted that in the case relating to application under Section 311 Cr.P.C., the statement of P.W.1 Balwant Singh was recorded on 17.03.2011 and his cross-examination was concluded on 17.11.2021. The revisionists were granted sufficient time to cross-examine P.W.1 Balwant Singh. The revisionists have not filed copy of N.C.R. lodged by him against opposite party nos. 2 and persons of his side.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionists and learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 have relied upon the following rulings in support of their arguments :-

(i) Application U/S 482 No. 25531 of 2022, Rajendra Kumar Vs. State of U.P.

(ii) Mohanlal Shyam Ji Soni Vs. Union of India and Another, decided in 1991

(iii) Rajaram Prasad Yadav Vs. State of Bihar and others, AIR 2013 SC 3081

(iv) State (NCT of Delhi) Vs. Shiv Kumar Yadav and Another, (2016) 2 SCC 402

7. The learned counsels for both parties have been heard. Perused the record of criminal revision including the impugned order.

8. The revisionist, Shiv Mohan has filed application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. on 17.07.2022 for summoning P.W.1 Balwant Singh for cross-examination regarding the injuries received by his sons, Raj Kumar and Gore Lal in the cross case and on some other points.

9. In the application, it is stated that his previous counsel did not cross-examine P.W.1 on this point. Therefore, P.W.1 Balwant Singh may be summoned so that applicant's counsel may cross-examine him on this point. The application was rejected by the trial court by the impugned order dated 11.05.2023 on the ground that the examination-in-chief of P.W.1 Balwant Singh was recorded on 17.03.2021. On that date, his cross-examination was deferred due to the adjournment application of defence.

10. P.W.1 Balwant Singh was cross-examined about 8 months after his examination-in-chief on 17.11.2021. In the impugned order, the trial court has also mentioned that the applicant/defence had not submitted any document relating to N.C.R. of the alleged cross case.

11. The statutory provisions relating to summoning of a person as a witness during trial is provided u/s 311 Cr.P.C. which is as follows :

Section 311 of Code of Criminal Procedure :

311. Power to summon material witness, or examine person present – Any court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case.

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajaram Prasad Yadav (supra), has narrated several guidelines which the court should take into consideration while deciding the application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. After considering the earlier precedent, the Hon'ble Apex Court has explained and enumerated following principles regarding application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. which is as follows :

"14. A conspicuous reading of Section 311 Cr P C would show that widest of the powers have been invested with the courts when it comes to the question of summoning a witness or to recall or re-examine any witness already examined. A reading of the provision shows that the expression "any" has been used as a prefix to "court", "inquiry", "trial", "other proceeding", "person as a witness", "person in attendance though not summoned as a witness", and "person already examined". By using the said expression "any" as a prefix to the various expressions mentioned above, it is ultimately stated that all that was required to be satisfied by the court was only in relation to such evidence that appears to the court to be essential for the just decision of the case.

Section 138 of the Evidence Act, prescribed the order of examination of a witness in the court. The order of re-examination is also prescribed calling for such a witness so desired for such re-examination. Therefore, a reading of Section 311 CrPC and Section 138 Evidence Act, insofar as it comes to the question of a criminal trial, the order of re-examination at the desire of any person under Section 138, will have to necessarily be in consonance with the prescription contained in Section 311 Cr.P.C. It is, therefore, imperative that the invocation of Section 311 Cr.P.C. and its application in a particular case can be ordered by the court, only by bearing in mind the object and purport of the said provision, namely, for achieving a just decision of the case as noted by us earlier. The power vested under the said provision is made available to any court at any stage in any inquiry or trial or other proceeding initiated under the Code for the purpose of summoning any person as a witness or for examining any person in attendance, even though not summoned as witness or to recall or re-examine any person already examined. Insofar as recalling and re-examination of any person already examined, the court must necessarily consider and ensure that such recall and re-examination of any person, appears in the view of the court to be essential for the just decision of the case. Therefore, the paramount requirement is just decision and for that purpose the essentiality of a person to be recalled and re-examined has to be ascertained. To put it differently, while such a widest power is invested with the court, it is needless to state that exercise of such power should be made judicially and also with extreme care and caution.

23. From a conspectus consideration of the above decisions, while dealing with an application under Section 311 Cr P C read along with Section 138 of the Evidence Act, we feel the following principles will have to be borne in mind by the courts:

a) Whether the court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it? Whether the evidence sought to be led in under Section 311 is noted by the court for a just decision of a case?

b) The exercise of the widest discretionary power under Section 311 CrPC should ensure that the judgment should not be rendered on inchoate, inconclusive speculative presentation of facts, as thereby the ends of justice would be defeated.

c) If evidence of any witness appears to the court to be essential to the just decision of the case, it is the power of the court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.

d) The exercise of power under Section 311 Cr P C should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case.

e) The exercise of the said power cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice.

f) The wide discretionary power should be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily.

g) The court must satisfy itself that it was in every respect essential to examine such a witness or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

h) The object of Section 311 Cr P C simultaneously imposes a duty on the court to determine the truth and to render a just decision.

i) The court arrives at the conclusion that additional evidence is necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce the judgment without it, but because there would be a failure of justice without such evidence being considered.

j) Exigency of the situation, fair play and good sense should be the safeguard, while exercising the discretion. The court should bear in mind that no party in a trial can be foreclosed from correcting errors and that if proper evidence was not adduced or a relevant material was not brought on record due to any inadvertence, the court should be magnanimous in permitting such mistakes to be rectified.

k) The court should be conscious of the position that after all the trial is basically for the prisoners and the court should afford an opportunity to them in the fairest manner possible. In that parity of reasoning, it would be safe to err in favour of the accused getting an opportunity rather than protecting the prosecution against possible prejudice at the cost of the accused. The court should bear in mind that improper or capricious exercise of such a discretionary power, may lead to undesirable results.

l) The additional evidence must not be received as a disguise or to change the nature of the case against any of the party.

m) The power must be exercised keeping in mind that the evidence that is likely to be tendered, would be germane to the issue involved and also ensure that an opportunity of rebuttal is given to the other party.

n) The power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice for strong and valid reasons and the same must be exercised with care, caution and circumspection. The court should bear in mind that fair trial entails the interest of the accused, the victim and the society and, therefore, the grant of fair and proper opportunities to the persons concerned, must be ensured being a constitutional goal, as well as a human right."

13. The primary factor for deciding the application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. is essentiality of the evidence to arrive at a just decision of the case. The resultant filling up the loopholes on account of allowing the application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. is merely subsidiary factor and the court's determination of the application should only be based on test of essentiality of evidence.

14. In Swapan Kumar Chatterjee Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, 2019 (14) SCC 328, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as hereunder :

"It is well settled that the power conferred under Section 311 should be invoked by the court only to meet the ends of justice. The power is to be exercised only for strong and valid reasons and it should be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The court has vide power under this Section to even recall witnesses for re-examination or further examination, necessary in the interest of justice, but the same has to be exercised after taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of each case. The power under this provision shall not be exercised if the court is of the view that the application has been filed as an abuse of the process of law."

15. In State (NCT of Delhi) (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court has discussed the question of re-summoning witness on the ground of change of defence counsel as follows :-

"While advancement of justice remains the prime object of law, it cannot be understood to mean that recall can be allowed for the asking or reasons related to mere convenience. It has normally to be presumed that a counsel conducting a case is competent particularly when a counsel is appointed by choice of a litigant. Taken to its logical end, the principle that a retrial must follow on every change of a counsel, can have serious consequences on conduct of trials and the criminal justice system. The witnesses cannot be expected to face the hardship of appearing in court repeatedly, particularly in sensitive cases such as the present one. It can result in undue hardship for the victims, especially so, of heinous crimes, if they are required to repeatedly appear in court to face cross-examination."

16. Now, it is desirable to examine the facts of the case in the light of law laid down by the Apex Court for exercise of power u/s 311 Cr.P.C. From the perusal of the first information report relating to the present case and the N.C.R. lodged by the revisionist against the persons on the side of informant, Balwant Singh, it transpires that both F.I.R. and N.C.R. relates to the same incident which took place on 12.05.2020 at 7 p.m.

17. The revisionist has filed injury report of his sons, Raj Kumar and Gore Lal. Although, the revisionist, Shiv Mohan had lodged the N.C.R. No. 46 of 2020 under Section 323, 504 I.P.C. on the next day of the incident on 13.05.2020 in Police Station-Malwan, District- Fatehpur. The revisionist has filed injury reports of his sons, Raj Kumar and Gore Lal, allegedly injured in the same incident. Raj Kumar and Gore Lal were medically examined on 13.05.2020 at 4:05 p.m. and 4:16 p.m. at District Hospital, Fatehpur. The skull of injured Gore Lal was x-rayed in Department of Radiology and Ultrasound, Combined District Hospital, Kaushambi. According to his x-ray report, 'fracture of left sided parietal bone of skull seen'. The injured Gore Lal has also submitted application u/s 155 (2) Cr.P.C. in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Fatehpur for disposal.

18. In the above facts and circumstances of the case, it prima facie, appears that in the occurrence relating to the present sessions trial, sons of revisionist, Raj Kumar and Gore Lal, have also received injuries for which he had submitted written report which was registered as N.C.R. No. 46 of 2020 in Police Station- Malwan, District- Fatehpur.

19. From the perusal of evidence of P.W.1 Balwant Singh, it is conspicuous that on 17.03.2021, his examination-in-chief was recorded and on 17.11.2021, his cross-examination was done by the defense.

20. Considering the above mentioned facts and circumstances of the case in the light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, it appears that it is essential in the interest of justice that the revisionist/defence is granted an opportunity on heavy costs to cross-examine P.W.1 Balwant Singh on the point of N.C.R. registered by the revisionist and the injuries received by Raj Kumar and Gore Lal.

21. P.W.1 Balwant Singh has not been examined on the point of N.C.R. registered by Shiv Mohan regarding the incident. He has also not been cross-examined about the injuries allegedly received by Raj Kumar and Gore Lal in the incident.

22. From the above discussion of the facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the considered view that it is essential in the interest of justice that the revisionist/defence is granted one opportunity to cross-examine at costs of Rs.10,000/- to be paid to the witness, Balwant Singh

23. On production of this order, the trial court shall get Rs.10,000/- deposited by the revisionists and then fix a date for cross-examination of P.W.1 Balwant Singh. On that date, the defense shall cross-examine P.W.1 Balwant Singh on the matter relating to N.C.R. registered by Shiv Mohan and the injuries received by his sons, Raj Kumar and Gore Lal. The defense shall conclude the cross-examination on the same day and they shall not be granted adjournment for further cross-examination of P.W.1 Balwant Singh.

24. From the above discussion, I am of the opinion that the trial court should have allowed the application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. subject to payment of heavy cost. The trial court has committed illegality in rejecting the aforesaid application.

25. The criminal revision is accordingly allowed subject to aforesaid conditions regarding payment of cost and completion of cross-examination of P.W.1 Balwant Singh on the same date.

26. The copy of the judgement be forthwith sent to the trial court for compliance.

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION

THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH - I, J.

Criminal Revision No. 3560 of 2023

Purushottam Das & Ors. ...Revisionists
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionists:

Sri Ray Sahab Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:

G.A., Sri Umesh Chandra Prajapati

Criminal Law - Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 - Section 23 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125 - Against maintenance allowance - In impugned order, trial court noted that revisionist admitted in his written St.ment that opposite party no.2, as his wife and Master Harshit as their son, from their wedlock and residing with her parents for last two years, who bear their maintenance and educational expenses - Trial court further observed that revisionist no. 1, employed as Field Officer in a nationalized bank, draws a gross monthly salary of Rs.97,227.45/-, and from that monthly salary, house rent recovery, furniture recovery, housing loan, car loan, income tax and contributory pension fund is deducted - It is well settled that only statutory deductions and income tax can be considered while computing net salary of Revisionist no. 1, other deductions cannot be deducted from gross salary - Considering maintenance of opposite party no.2 and her son's educational expenses, trial court rightly awarded interim maintenance allowance of Rs.3,000/- pm to opposite party no.2 and Rs.2,000/- pm to her minor son - Thus, no illegality in impugned order, criminal revision dismissed. (Para 20, 21)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

3. Rajat Johar Vs Divya Johar, 2017 SCC OnLine Del 11790, (Paras 21, 22)

Heard Sri Ray Sahab Yadav, learned counsel for the revisionists and Sri Umesh Chandra Prajapati, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2.

2. The instant criminal revision has been instituted against the impugned judgment and order dated 07.06.2023 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Jhansi, in Criminal Appeal No2. 98 of 2022 (Smt. Bharti Devi Vs. State of U.P. and others) filed under Section 29 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act No. 43 of 2005')

3. By the impugned order, the appellate court has set aside the order dated 01.11.2022 passed by the Civil Judge (Junior Division)/FTC (CAW)/J.M., Jhansi in Complaint Case No. 1023 of 2016 and directed the revisionist to pay maintenance allowance Rs. 3000/- per month to the opposite party no. 2 and Rs. 2000/- to her son, Harshit, till he attains the age of majority, from the date of order of the (Junior Division)/FTC (CAW)/J.M., Jhansi on 10th of each calendar month.

4. By the aforesaid order, the trial court has rejected the application under Section 23 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 filed by the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Bharti Devi.

5. The averment has been made on behalf of the revisionist that the appellate court had passed the order against the weight of evidence on record and without taking into consideration the provisions of law. It has also been submitted that the opposite party no. 2 had left the house of the revisionist voluntarily without any domestic violence committed by the revisionist and his family members against her. It has also been submitted that the opposite party no. 2 did not fulfil her duties as a wife in the house of the revisionist and had misbehaved with the revisionist and his family members. It has also been submitted that the opposite party no. 2 has filed Maintenance Case No. 34 of 2015 (Smt. Bharti Devi Vs. Purushottam Das) under Section 125 CrPC in which the court has granted Rs. 9,000/- as maintenance allowance to the opposite parties. The opposite party no. 2 is not prepared to reside with revisionist no. 1, therefore she is not entitled for maintenance.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 has opposed the criminal revision making averment that the appellate court has passed the impugned order considering the evidence on record as well as the law applicable to the facts of the case, therefore no interference in the impugned order by this Court is warranted.

7. Facts of this case which are necessary for disposal of the criminal revision are that the revisionist no. 1, Purushottam Das, was married to opposite party no. 2, Smt. Bharti Devi, on 26.02.2009 according to Hindu Rites and Customs in Jhansi. The revisionist no. 1, Purushottam Das, was an employee in a nationalized bank at Punjab. In the matrimonial home of Smt. Bharti Devi, the revisionist no. 1, her husband and other family members used to harass her for getting a four wheeler in dowry. Three four months after staying at her matrimonial home the revisionist took her to Punjab where he was in a bank job. Thereto, the revisionist no. 1 used to beat his wife and torture physically and mentally for getting a four wheeler in dowry and during her pregnancy, he did not look after her and the expenses of delivery was borne by the parents of Smt. Bharti Devi. When the opposite party no. 2 raised objection, the revisionist beat her with iron rod and on 05.12.2015 he expelled her along with her child from her matrimonial home. The revisionist no. 1 works as Field Officer in a nationalised bank and is getting Rs. 60,000/- as monthly salary.

8. The revisionist no.1 has admitted that the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Bharti Devi, is legally wedded wife and her minor son, Harshit has been born from their wedlock. The revisionist no. 1 has also submitted that he is getting Rs. 36,000/- per month as salary

9. The opposite party no. 2, Smt. Bharti Devi, has submitted in her interim maintenance application filed under Section 23 of the Act No. 43 of 2005 that she is dependent on her parents for maintenance of herself and her minor son for the last two years. She also submitted that her husband is earning Rs. 60,000/- per month as salary, therefore maintenance allowance of Rs. 20,000/- be granted to herself and her minor son for educational expenses of tuition fees, school dress and conveyance charges.

10. In his objection, the revisionist no. 1 has stated that in the case filed by Smt. Bharti Devi under Section 125 CrPC, the trial court had granted maintenance allowance Rs. 5000/- and 4,000/- to the opposite party no. 2 and 3, respectively. The opposite party no. 2 is educated and double MA and is earning about Rs.10,000-15,000/- per month by taking tuition.

11. I have heard learned counsel for the revisionists, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and learned AGA for the State and perused the record including the impugned order.

12. Section 23 of the Act No. 43 of 2005 empowers the Magistrate to pass such interim order as he deems just and proper. Section 23 of the Act No. 43 of 2005 reads as follows :-

23. Power to grant interim and ex parte orders.-

1. In any proceeding before him under this Act, the Magistrate may pass such interim order as he deems just and proper.

2. If the Magistrate is satisfied that an application prima facie discloses that the respondent is committing, or has committed an act of domestic violence or that there is a likelihood that the respondent may commit an act of domestic violence, he may grant an ex parte order on the basis of the affidavit in such form, as may be prescribed, of the aggrieved person under section 18, section 19, section 20, section 21 or, as the case may be, section 22 against the respondent.

13. Section 23 read with Section 20 of the Act No. 43 of 2005 empowers the Magistrate to provide monetary relief to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by the aggrieved person and any child of the aggrieved person as a result of the domestic violence. Section 20 of the Act No. 43 of 2005 empowers the Magistrate to direct the respondent to pay monetary relief to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by the aggrieved person and any child of the aggrieved person as a result of the domestic violence.

14. Section 12 read with Sections 20 and 23 of the Act No. 43 of 2005 reveals that in an application under Section 12 of the Act No. 43 of 2005, the Magistrate can provide the interim monetary relief for maintenance allowance granted to an aggrieved person by order passed under Section 125 CrPC or any other law for the time being in force.

15. In Ajay Kumar Vs. Lata Alias Sharuti and others, (2019) 15 SCC 352, the Apex Court held that considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the Magistrate is competent to provide interim monetary relief to the aggrieved person of domestic violence. The quantum of the interim maintenance allowance shall be taken into consideration while deciding the case.

16. In Juveria Abdul Majid Patni Vs. Atif Iqbal Mansoori and another, (2014) 10 SCC 736, the Apex Court has propounded the law relating to interim maintenance as provided under Section 23 of the Act No. 43 of 2005. The Apex Court has observed as under :-

23. In the instant case, the appellant sought relief under Sections 18 to 23 of the Domestic Violence Act, 2005. It includes protection order under Section 18, monetary relief under Section 20, custody orders under Section 21, compensation under Section 22 and interim relief under Section 23. The relevant provisions read as follows:

“20.Monetary reliefs.—(1) While disposing of an application under sub-section (1) of Section 12, the Magistrate may direct the respondent to pay monetary relief to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by the aggrieved person and any child of the aggrieved person as a result of the domestic violence and such relief may include, but is not limited to—

- (a) the loss of earnings;*
- (b) the medical expenses;*
- (c) the loss caused due to the destruction, damage or removal of any property from the control of the aggrieved person; and*
- (d) the maintenance for the aggrieved person as well as her children, if any, including an order under or in addition to an order of maintenance under Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force.*

(2) The monetary relief granted under this section shall be adequate, fair and reasonable and consistent with the standard of living to which the aggrieved person is accustomed.

(3) The Magistrate shall have the power to order an appropriate lump sum payment or monthly payments of maintenance, as the nature and circumstances of the case may require.

(4) The Magistrate shall send a copy of the order for monetary relief made under sub-section (1) to the parties to the application and to the in-charge of the police station within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the respondent resides.

(5) The respondent shall pay the monetary relief granted to the aggrieved person within the period specified in the order under sub-section (1).

(6) Upon the failure on the part of the respondent to make payment in terms of the order under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may direct the employer or a debtor of the respondent, to directly pay to the aggrieved person or to deposit with the court a portion of the wages or salaries or debt due to or accrued to the credit of the respondent, which amount may be adjusted towards the monetary relief payable by the respondent.”

The monetary relief as stipulated under Section 20 is different from maintenance, which can be in addition to an order of maintenance under Section 125 CrPC or any other law. Such monetary relief can be granted to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by the aggrieved person and child of the aggrieved person as a result of the domestic violence, which is not dependent on the question whether the aggrieved person, on the date of filing of the application under Section 12 is in a domestic relationship with the respondent.

24. “22.Compensation orders.— In addition to other reliefs as may be granted under this Act, the Magistrate may on an application being made by the aggrieved person, pass an order directing the respondent to pay compensation and damages for the injuries, including mental torture and emotional distress, caused by the acts of domestic violence committed by that respondent.

23.Power to grant interim and ex parte orders.—(1) In any proceeding before him under this Act, the Magistrate may pass such interim order as he deems just and proper.

(2) If the Magistrate is satisfied that an application prima facie discloses that the respondent is committing, or has committed an act of domestic violence or that there is a likelihood that the respondent may commit an act of domestic violence, he may grant an ex parte order on the basis of the affidavit in such form, as may be prescribed, of the aggrieved person under Section 18, Section 19, Section 20, Section 21 or, as the case may be, Section 22 against the respondent.”

Therefore, it is well within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate to grant the interim ex parte relief as he deems just and proper, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the application prima facie discloses that the respondent is committing, or has committed an act of domestic violence or that there is a likelihood that the respondent may commit an act of domestic violence.

25. It is not necessary that relief available under Sections 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 can only be sought for in a proceeding under the Domestic Violence Act, 2005. Any relief available under the aforesaid provisions may also be sought for in any legal proceeding even before a civil court and Family Court, apart from the criminal court, affecting the aggrieved person whether such proceeding was initiated before or after the commencement of the Domestic Violence Act. This is apparent from Section 26 of the Domestic Violence Act, 2005 as quoted hereunder:

“26.Relief in other suits and legal proceedings.—(1) Any relief available under Sections 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 may also be sought in any legal proceeding, before a civil court, Family Court or a criminal court, affecting the aggrieved person and the respondent whether such proceeding was initiated before or after the commencement of this Act.

(2) Any relief referred to in sub-section (1) may be sought for in addition to and along with any other relief that the aggrieved person may seek in such suit or legal proceeding before a civil or criminal court.

(3) In case any relief has been obtained by the aggrieved person in any proceedings other than a proceeding under this Act, she shall be bound to inform the Magistrate of the grant of such relief.”

26. The appellant has filed an FIR against the first respondent for the offence committed under Section 498-A IPC. The High Court refused to quash the FIR qua first respondent on the ground that prima facie case has been made out. Even before the criminal court where such case under Section 498-A is pending, if allegation is found genuine, it is always open to the appellant to ask for reliefs under Sections 18 to 22 of the Domestic Violence Act and interim relief under Section 23 of the said Act.

27. In V.D. Bhanot v. Savita Bhanot [(2012) 3 SCC 183 : (2012) 2 SCC (Civ) 53 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 102] , this Court held that the conduct of the parties even prior to the coming into force of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 could be taken into consideration while passing an order under Sections 18, 19 and 20 thereof. The wife who had shared a household in the past, but was no longer residing with her husband can file a petition under Section 12 if subjected to any act of domestic violence. In V.D. Bhanot [(2012) 3 SCC 183 : (2012) 2 SCC (Civ) 53 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 102] this Court held as follows: (SCC pp. 186-87, para 12)

“12. We agree with the view expressed by the High Court that in looking into a complaint under Section 12 of the PWD Act, 2005, the conduct of the parties even prior to the coming into force of the PWD Act, could be taken into consideration while passing an order under Sections 18, 19 and 20 thereof. In our view, the Delhi High Court has also rightly held that even if a wife, who had shared a household in the past, but was no longer doing so when the Act came into force, would still be entitled to the protection of the PWD Act, 2005.”

28. In Inderjit Singh Grewal [Inderjit Singh Grewal v. State of Punjab, (2011) 12 SCC 588 : (2012) 2 SCC (Civ) 742 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 614] the appellant Inderjit Singh and Respondent 2 of the said case got married on 23-9-1998. The parties to the marriage could not pull on well together and decided to get divorce and, therefore, filed a case for divorce by mutual consent under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. After recording the statement in the said case, the proceedings were adjourned for a period of more than six months to enable them to ponder over the issue. The parties again appeared before the Court on second motion and on the basis of their statement, the District Judge, Ludhiana vide judgment and order dated 20-3-2008 allowed the petition and dissolved their marriage. After dissolution of marriage, the wife filed a complaint before the Senior Superintendent of Police, Ludhiana against Inderjit Singh under the provisions of the Domestic Violence Act alleging that the decree of divorce obtained by them was a sham transaction. It was further alleged that even after getting divorce both of them had been living together as husband and wife. In the said case, the Superintendent of Police, City I conducted the full-fledged inquiry and reported that the parties had been living separately after the dissolution of the marriage. Hence, no case was made out against Inderjit Singh. In this context, this Court held that Section 12 “application to Magistrate” under the Domestic Violence Act challenging the said divorce was not maintainable and in the interest of justice and to stop the abuse of process of court, the petition under Section 482 CrPC was allowed. The law laid down in the said case is not applicable for the purpose of determination of the present case.

29. In the present case, the alleged domestic violence took place between January 2006 and 6-9-2007 when FIR No. 224 of 2007 was lodged by the appellant under Sections 498-A and 406 IPC against the first respondent and his relatives. In a writ petition filed by the first respondent the High Court refused to quash the said FIR against him observing that prima facie case under Section 498-A was made out against him. Even if it is accepted that the appellant during the pendency of the SLP before this Court has obtained ex parte “khula” (divorce) under the Muslim Personal Law from the Mufti on 9-5-2008, the petition under Section 12 of the Domestic Violence Act, 2005 is maintainable.

30. An act of domestic violence once committed, subsequent decree of divorce will not absolve the liability of the respondent from the offence committed or to deny the benefit to which the aggrieved person is entitled under the Domestic Violence Act, 2005 including monetary relief under Section 20, child custody under Section 21, compensation under Section 22 and interim or ex parte order under Section 23 of the Domestic Violence Act, 2005.

31. Both the Sessions Judge and the High Court failed to notice the aforesaid provisions of the Act and the fact that the FIR was lodged much prior to the alleged divorce between the parties and erred in holding that the petition under Section 12 was not maintainable.

17. The Act No. 43 of 2005 provides monetary interim relief under Section 23 of the Act to aggrieved person including a child who has been subjected to domestic violence. It is not essential that at the time of claiming relief under Section 12 of the Act, the aggrieved person is in domestic relationship with the opposite party herein revisionist.

18. In Rajat Johar Vs. Divya Johar, 2017 SCC OnLine Del 11790, Delhi Court has observed as under :-

21. Since the respondent and her minor son are to be maintained by the petitioner, in the absence of denial of existence of the marriage and denial of paternity of the minor son, who is stated to be requires constant medical treatment and supervision, the petitioner cannot shy away from his statutory obligation of maintaining his legally wedded wife and his minor son.

22. The monetary relief as provided under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 is different from maintenance, which can be in addition to an order of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. or any other law, and can be granted to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by the aggrieved person and child of the aggrieved person as a result of the domestic violence, and the question whether the aggrieved person, on the date of filing of the application under Section 12 of DV Act was in a domestic relationship with the respondent is irrelevant.

19. Section 2 of the Act No. 43 of 2005 defines "aggrieved person" and "child" as follows :-

(a) "aggrieved person" means any woman who is, or has been, in a domestic relationship with the respondent and who alleges to have been subjected to any act of domestic violence by the respondent;

(b) "child" means any person below the age of eighteen years and includes any adopted, step or foster child;

20. In the impugned order, the trial court has considered the fact that the revisionist husband has admitted in his written statement that opposite party no. 2, Smt. Bharti Devi, is his wife and master Harshit is his son from their wedlock and for the last two years, Smt. Bharti Devi is living separately from the revisionist no. 1 at her parental home and their maintenance and educational expenses of child Harshit is borne by her parents. The trial court has also taken into consideration that the revisionist no. 1 is working as field officer in a nationalized bank and has taken into consideration the salary slip, paper no. 12-B filed by the revisionist no. 1, Purshottam

Das, according to which, his gross salary is Rs.97,227.45/- and from that monthly salary, house rent recovery, furniture recovery, housing loan, car loan, income tax, contributory pension fund and income tax is being deducted.

21. It is settled law that only statutory deductions as well as income tax can be taken into consideration while determining the net salary of the revisionist no. 1. The payments made on other heads cannot be deducted from his gross salary. Considering the maintenance of opposite party no. 2, Smt. Bharti Devi and educational expenses of her son, the trial court has fixed Rs.3000/- per month to the opposite party no. 2 and Rs. 2,000/- to her minor son as interim maintenance allowance.

22. From the above, the provision for interim maintenance is a social welfare measure. It is provided to protect the minor children and old parents from hunger destitution and vagrancy.

23. From above discussion, I am of the considered view that while granting Rs. 3000/- to opposite party no. 2, Smt. Bharti Devi and Rs. 2000/- to her son, Harshit, as maintenance allowance, the trial court has not committed any illegality or irregularity or jurisdictional error. There is no merit in the criminal revision. The criminal revision is dismissed. However, I clarify that the present order as well as orders which have been passed by the appellate court shall not come in the way of a final adjudication on the merits of the complaint by the Magistrate in accordance with law. The interim maintenance allowance shall be paid till 10th of each month. The arrears shall be paid over within a period of four months from today by equal monthly instalments.

24. Let the copy of this order be sent to the trial court/court concerned for communication.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 498-A & 304-B - Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 - Section 3/4 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 161 & 227 - Against framing of charge - From perusal of trial court records, it transpired that on application of informant, trial court vide directed framing of charges u/s 498-A, 304-B IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act - Against this, accused filed Application U/s 482, wherein High Court directed applicants to file discharge application before trial court for decision as per law - In compliance of order of High Court, accused filed application for discharge from charge, trial court vide impugned order held that charge u/s 304-B is not made out and modified charge after dropping Section 304-B IPC and passed order by framing charge u/s 498-A and 302 IPC - Held, death of deceased took place after more than seven years of her marriage with accused and trial court rightly dropped charge u/s 304-B and directed for framing charge u/s 302 IPC and in impugned order, trial court gave reasons for framing charge u/s 498-A against accused - Since trial court has not prima facie considered St.ment of witnesses and contents of postmortem report regarding death of deceased and nature of injuries of deceased given in postmortem report, trial court has not given sufficient reason for framing charge u/s 302 IPC - Thus, criminal revision partly allowed - Impugned order directing framing of charge u/s 302 IPC set aside, matter remanded. (Para 16,18,19)

Revision partly allowed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. The present criminal revision has been filed under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C., the revisionists have assailed the impugned order dated 3.9.2019 passed by the Ist Additional Sessions Judge Basti in Sessions Trial No. 35 of 2015 (State Vs. Ram Suresh and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 627 of 2014 under Section 498-A, 304-B and Section 3/4 of D.P. Act P.S. Paikoliya, District- Basti. By the impugned order, the trial court has rejected the application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. of the revisionists Smt. Mewati Devi and Ram Suresh and has directed to frame charge under Section 498-A and 302 IPC against them.

2. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that the Investigating Officer had found that the occurrence has taken place after more than seven years of marriage and therefore charge-sheet has been submitted under Section 306 IPC against them. The learned trial court vide order dated 20.5.2019 instead of Section 306 IPC altered the charge under Sections 498-A, 304-B and Section 3/4 of D.P. Act, subsequently, revisionist filed a discharge application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. in compliance of the order dated 27.6.2019 passed by the co-ordinate Bench of this court in Application u/s 482 No. 23601 of 2001, then the trial court vide impugned order dated 3.9.2019 held that charge under Section 304-B is not made out and modified the charge after dropping Section 304-B IPC and passed the order by framing the charge under Section 498-A and 302 IPC.

3. It has been further submitted that the trial court passed the impugned order against the weight of evidence on record and without application of judicial mind which is liable to be quashed.

4. Learned AGA as well as learned counsel for the informant have opposed the criminal revision and submitted that the revisionist no.1 is the mother-in-law and revisionist no.2 is husband of the deceased Chandrakanti. In the FIR their direct role has been assigned in committing the murder of deceased-Chandrakani for not providing the additional demand of dowry. During investigation, the prosecution witnesses have also supported the prosecution case as well as during trial, P.W.-1 Mani Ram Verma and P.W.-2 Harishchandra . The revisionist harassed the deceased for obtaining additional dowry during non-fulfilment of the demand of additional dowry. They have murdered her by burning.

5. From the perusal of the FIR, which is annexed as annexure no.1 to the revision No. 324 of 2023, it transpires that the Maniram Verma submitted a written report in police station Paikoliya, District Basti on 9.9.2014 at 20:03 o'clock regarding occurrence dated 31.8.2014 alleging that her daughter Chandrakanti was married to RamSuresh s/o Chhotelal five years earlier. He had given dowry as per his status but her daughter's husband and his family member were not satisfied with the dowry and they used to harass his daughter to obtain golden chain and motorcycle. Her daughter had told him about the dowry demand made by her husband, mother-in-law, father-in-law and devars. Due to non-fulfilment of their demand for additional dowry, on 31.8.2014 her husband Ramsuresh, her father-in-law Chhotelal and mother-in-law Mewati Devi and Devar Umesh and Gopal sprinkled kerosene oil on the Chandrakali and brutally burned her. Due to the burn injury she died on 1.9.2014 at about 8 p.m. in Dr. Shyama Prasad Mukharji Hospital, Lucknow, and on receiving information the informant visited the hospital and to participated in postmortem and cremation ceremony of his daughter. He lodged an FIR on 9.9.2014.

6. Before examining the merits of the present case, the ambit, scope and power of the Sessions Court as well as the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. should be discussed and ascertained.

7. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chander and Another, (2012) 9 SCC 460 in paragraph nos. 12 and 13 of its judgement has narrated the ambit and scope of revision by the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which are as follows :

12. Section 397 of the Code vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law. There has to be a well-founded error and it may not be appropriate for the court to scrutinise the orders, which upon the face of it bears a token of careful consideration and appear to be in accordance with law. If one looks into the various judgments of this Court, it emerges that the revisional jurisdiction can be invoked where the decisions under challenge are grossly erroneous, there is no compliance with the provisions of law, the finding recorded is based on no evidence, material evidence is ignored or judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or perversely. These are not exhaustive classes, but are merely indicative. Each case would have to be determined on its own merits.

13. Another well-accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restrictions is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The Court has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction itself should not lead to injustice ex facie. Where the Court is dealing with the question as to whether the charge has been framed properly and in accordance with law in a given case, it may be reluctant to interfere in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction unless the case substantially falls within the categories aforesaid. Even framing of charge is a much advanced stage in the proceedings under the CrPC.

10. In paragraph nos. 17 and 19 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has narrated that before framing a charge, what documents should be considered by the trial court. It has also provided about the extent of evidence required for framing of a charge. In paragraph no. 20 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has compared the power and extent of jurisdiction of the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which is given hereunder: :

20. The jurisdiction of the court under Section 397 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression "prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice", the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, propriety or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest i.e. when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the court is not permitted to be abused.

8. After comprehensive survey and discussion of the judgements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court has mentioned the factors to be considered by the trial court while disposing of application u/s 227 Cr.P.C. and framing charge u/s 228 Cr.P.C. The Apex Court in Amit Kapoor (supra) has given following directions :

27.2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

27.3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

27.9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction; the court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

27.10. It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a full-fledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

27.11. Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

27.12. In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed therewith by the prosecution.

9. The statutory provisions to be considered in the case with a view to framing of charge or discharging the accused as given in Sections 226, 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. has been laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ghulam Hassan Beigh Vs. Mohammad Maqbool Magrey & Ors. in S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 4599 of 2021 :

15. Section 226 of the CrPC corresponds to sub-section (1) of the old

Section 286 with verbal changes owing to the abolition of the jury. Section 286 of the 1898 Code reads as under:-

“286.(1) In a case triable by jury, when the jurors have been in chosen or, in any other case, when the Judge is ready to hear the case, the prosecutor shall open his case by reading from the Indian Penal or other law the description of the offence charged, and stating shortly by what evidence he expects to prove the guilt of the accused. (2) The prosecutor shall then examine his witnesses.”

Section 226 of the 1973 Code reads thus:

“226. Opening case for prosecution.— When the accused appears or is brought before the Court in pursuance of a commitment of the case under section 209, the prosecutor shall open his case by describing the charge brought against the accused and stating by what evidence he proposes to prove the guilt of the accused.”

Section 226 of the CrPC permits the prosecution to make the first impression regards a case, one which might be difficult to dispel. In not insisting upon its right under Section 226 of the CrPC, the prosecution would be doing itself a disfavour. If the accused is to contend that the case against him has not been explained owing to the non-compliance with Section 226 of the CrPC, the answer would be that the Section 173(2) of the CrPC report in the case would give a fair idea thereof, and that the stage of framing of charges under Section 228 of the CrPC is reached after crossing the stage of Section 227 of the CrPC, which affords both the prosecution and accused a fair opportunity to put forward their rival contentions.

16. Section 227 of the CrPC reads thus:

“227. Discharge.— If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing.”

17. Section 228 of the CrPC reads thus:

“228. Framing of charge.- (1) If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid, the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which-

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class and direct the accused to appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or as the case may be, the Judicial Magistrate of the first class, on such date as he deems fit, and thereupon such Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

(2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried.”

10. While framing charge, the Court has to ensure that a prima facie case must be made out against the accused. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Union of India Vs. Prafulla Kumar Samal and another, (1979) 3 SCC 4, considered the scope of enquiry a judge is required to make while considering the question of framing of charges. After an exhaustive survey of the case law on the point, in paragraph no. 10 of the judgement, has laid down the following principles :

(1) That the Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under section 227 of the Code has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out.

(2) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained the Court will be, fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(3) The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down a rule of universal application. By and large however if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his right to discharge the accused.

(4) That in exercising his jurisdiction under section 227 of the Code the Judge which under the present Code is a senior and experienced Judge cannot act merely as a Post office or a mouth-piece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 15 and 23 of its judgement in Dipakbhai Jagdishchandra Patel Vs. State of Gujarat, (2019) 16 SCC 547, has elaborately discussed the law relating to the framing of charge and discharge of the accused which is as under :

15. We may profitably, in this regard, refer to the judgment of this Court in State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh [State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh, (1977) 4 SCC 39 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 533 : AIR 1977 SC 2018] wherein this Court has laid down the principles relating to framing of charge and discharge as follows: (SCC pp. 41-42, para 4)

“4. ... Reading Sections 227 and 228 together in juxtaposition, as they have got to be, it would be clear that at the beginning and the initial stage of the trial the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. Nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The standard of test and judgment which is to be finally applied before recording a finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at the stage of deciding the matter under Section 227 or Section 228 of the Code. At that stage the court is not to see whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction. Strong suspicion against the accused, if the matter remains in the region of suspicion, cannot take the place of proof of his guilt at the conclusion of the trial. But at the initial stage if there is a strong suspicion which leads the Court to think that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence then it is not open to the Court to say that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The presumption of the guilt of the accused which is to be drawn at the initial stage is not in the sense of the law governing the trial of criminal cases in France where the accused is presumed to be guilty unless the contrary is proved. But it is only for the purpose of deciding prima facie whether the court should proceed with the trial or not. If the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce to prove the guilt of the accused even if fully accepted before it is challenged in cross-examination or rebutted by the defence evidence, if any, cannot show that the accused committed the offence, then there will be no sufficient ground for proceeding with the trial. ... If the scales of pan as to the guilt or innocence of the accused are something like even, at the conclusion of the trial, then, on the theory of benefit of doubt the case is to end in his acquittal.

But if, on the other hand, it is so at the initial stage of making an order under Section 227 or Section 228, then in such a situation ordinarily and generally the order which will have to be made will be one under Section 228 and not under Section 227.”

23. At the stage of framing the charge in accordance with the principles which have been laid down by this Court, what the court is expected to do is, it does not act as a mere post office. The court must indeed sift the material before it. The material to be sifted would be the material which is produced and relied upon by the prosecution. The sifting is not to be meticulous in the sense that the court dons the mantle of the trial Judge hearing arguments after the entire evidence has been adduced after a full-fledged trial and the question is not whether the prosecution has made out the case for the conviction of the accused. All that is required is, the court must be satisfied that with the materials available, a case is made out for the accused to stand trial. A strong suspicion suffices. However, a strong suspicion must be founded on some material. The material must be such as can be translated into evidence at the stage of trial. The strong suspicion cannot be the pure subjective satisfaction based on the moral notions of the Judge that here is a case where it is possible that the accused has committed the offence. Strong suspicion must be the suspicion which is premised on some material which commends itself to the court as sufficient to entertain the prima facie view that the accused has committed the offence.

12. In Sajjan Kumar Vs. C.B.I., (2010) 9 SCC 368, the Hon'ble Apex Court after elaborately discussing the scope

29 of Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. has laid down principles which emerge therefrom in paragraph no. 21 which is as under :

21. On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 CrPC has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal.

13. In the case of State of Karnataka Vs. M.R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515, the Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down principles to be considered by the Magistrate while dealing with discharge application of the accused u/s 239 Cr.P.C. in warrant trial case. The directions given by the Apex Court is equally applicable to the discharge of accused u/s 227 Cr.P.C.

14. In paragraph no. 25 of Ghulam Hassan Beigh (supra), the Apex Court held as under :

25. In the case of Asim Shariff v. National Investigation Agency, (2019) 7 SCC 148, this Court, to which one of us (A.M. Khanwilkar, J.) was a party, in so many words has expressed that the trial court is not expected or supposed to hold a mini trial for the purpose of marshalling the evidence on record. We quote the relevant observations as under:-

“18. Taking note of the exposition of law on the subject laid down by this Court, it is settled that the Judge while considering the question of framing charge under Section 227 CrPC in sessions cases(which is akin to Section 239 CrPC pertaining to warrant cases) has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out; where the material placed before the Court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing the charge; by and large if two views are possible and one of them giving rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion against the accused, 3 2018(13) SCC 455 4 2019(6) SCALE 794 the trial Judge will be justified in discharging him. It is thus clear that while examining the discharge application filed under Section 227 CrPC, it is expected from the trial Judge to exercise its judicial mind to determine as to whether a case for trial has been made out or not. It is true that in such proceedings, the Court is not supposed to hold a mini trial by marshalling the evidence on record.

15. In paragraph nos. 28, 29 and 30 of the judgement in Amit Kapoor (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as hereunder :

28. At this stage, we may also notice that the principle stated by this Court in Madhavrao Jiwajirao Scindia[(1988) 1 SCC 692 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 234] was reconsidered and explained in two subsequent judgments of this Court in State of Bihar v. P.P. Sharma [1992 Supp (1) SCC 222 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 192 : AIR 1991 SC 1260] and M.N. Damani v. S.K. Sinha [(2001) 5 SCC 156 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 823 : AIR 2001 SC 2037] . In the subsequent judgment, the Court held that, that judgment did not declare a law of universal application and what was the principle relating to disputes involving cases of a predominantly civil nature with or without criminal intent.

29. In the light of the above principles, now if we examine the findings recorded by the High Court, then it is evident that what weighed with the High Court was that firstly it was an abuse of the process of court and, secondly, it was a case of civil nature and that the facts, as stated, would not constitute an offence under Section 306 read with Section 107 IPC. Interestingly and as is evident from the findings recorded by the High Court reproduced supra that “this aspect of the matter will get unravelled only after a full-fledged trial”, once the High Court itself was of the opinion that clear facts and correctness of the allegations made can be examined only upon full trial, where was the need for the Court to quash the charge under Section 306 at that stage. Framing of charge is a kind of tentative view that the trial court forms in terms of Section 228 which is subject to final culmination of the proceedings.

30. We have already noticed that the legislature in its wisdom has used the expression “there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence”. This has an inbuilt element of presumption once the ingredients of an offence with reference to the allegations made are satisfied, the Court would not doubt the case of the prosecution unduly and extend its jurisdiction to quash the charge in haste. A Bench of this Court in State of Maharashtra v. Som Nath Thapa [(1996) 4 SCC 659 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 820] referred to the meaning of the word “presume” while relying upon Black's Law Dictionary. It was defined to mean “to believe or accept upon probable evidence”; “to take as proved until evidence to the contrary is forthcoming”. In other words, the truth of the matter has to come out when the prosecution evidence is led, the witnesses are cross-examined by the defence, the incriminating material and evidence is put to the accused in terms of Section 313 of the Code and then the accused is provided an opportunity to lead defence, if any. It is only upon completion of such steps that the trial concludes with the court forming its final opinion and delivering its judgment. Merely because there was a civil transaction between the parties would not by itself alter the status of the allegations constituting the criminal offence.

16. From the perusal of the trial court records it transpired that on the application of informant the trial court vide order dated 20.5.2019 passed the order for framing the charge under Section 498-A 304-B and Section 3/4 D.P. Act. Against this order the accused filed an Application u/s 482 No. 23601 of 2019 (Ram Suresh Verma And Another Vs. State of U.P. And Another) in this Court. The High Court vide its order dated 27.6.2019 directed the applicants/accused that since the charges under Sections- 304-B, 498-A and 3/4 of D.P. Act has not yet been framed, they shall submit discharge application before the trial court and the trial shall dispose of the application in accordance with law.

17. In compliance of the order of this Court dated 27.6.2019, the accused filed an application 72 (kha) for discharge from the charge under Sections- 304-B, 498-A and 3/4 of D.P. Act which was disposed of vide order dated 3.9.2019. In the impugned order, the trial court has mentioned that while passing the order dated 20.5.2019 the predecessor of the present judge had not considered the caste certificate, domicile certificate, marriage certificate and date of birth certificate, the inquest report of the deceased, Chandrakanti presuming that the deceased died within seven years of her marriage, the trial court has directed to frame charges against accused Ram Suresh under Sections- 304-B, 498-A and 3/4 of D.P. Act. In the impugned order dated 3.2.2019, the trial court has mentioned that Informant/P.W.1 Mani Ram Verma as well as P.W.-2 Harish Chandra were witness in the inquest report. The Investigating Officer has mentioned that the date of marriage of the deceased in the year 1999 and year of her Vidai ceremony to matrimonial home in 2004,. The deceased has a daughter of six years. The trial court has taken into consideration the caste certificate and domicile certificate of the deceased Chandrakanti which was issued in 2007 and the birth certificate dated 24.10.2008 of her daughter Sneha and the statement of the witnesses recorded under Section 161 CrP.C. to the effect that the deceased Chandrakanti had not conceived any child for sometime after marriage and therefore, she was under depression and had committed suicide. She did after more than seven years of her marriage to O.P. No.2 and since no presumption under Section 113 B of Indian Evidence Act regarding dowry death can be made and altered the charge and directed that instead of Sections- 304-B, 498-A and 3/4 of D.P. Act. Charge under Sections 498-A, 302 IPC was framed against the accused. In the impugned order the trial court has mentioned that since that P.W. 1 Maniram Verma and P.W. -2 Harish Chandra in their deposition in the Court has stated that accused sprayed kerosene oil on the deceased resulting into her death and other evidence regarding death of the deceased is yet to be recorded. The trial court directed the charge under Section 302 IPC along Section 498-A IPC be framed against the accused. In the impugned order, the trial court has not discussed the statement of other witness recording under Section 161 Cr.P.C. regarding involvement of the accused in commission of murder of the deceased and also not discussed the postmortem report and whether postmortem report supports framing of charge under Section 302 IPC, the postmortem report of the deceased is not on record of the revision petition.

18. From the aforesaid discussion, I am of the considered view the death of the deceased took place after more than seven years of her marriage with the accused RamSuresh and the trial court has rightly dropped the charge under Section 304-B and directed for framing charge under Section 302 IPC and in the impugned, the trial court has given reasons for framing charge under Section 498-A against the accused. Since the trial court has not prima facie considered the statement of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and the contents of postmortem report regarding death of the deceased and nature of injuries of the deceased given in the postmortem report, the trial court has not given sufficient reason for framing charge under Section 302 IPC.

19. From the above discussion, this Court is of the opinion that the criminal revision should be partially allowed. The criminal revision is partially allowed and the portion of the impugned order directing the framing of charge under Section 302 IPC is set aside. The trial court in light of the above discussion shall pass reasoned order observing that apart from Section 498-A, the charge against the accused should be framed under Section 306 IPC or 302 IPC.

20. Since much time has passed from the date of filing of the charge-sheet, the trial shall pass an order for framing of charges within a period of two months in accordance with law from the date of the productions of a certified copy of this order.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - 498-A, 323, 504 & 506 - Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 - Section 3/4 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125 - Against maintenance order - From perusal of revisional court record disclosed that revisionist, filed complaint case against opposite party no.2 and his family members -Trial court, summoned opposite party no.2, his father, mother, elder brother, sister-in-law, and younger brother to face trial - Perusal of record further reveals that complaint was filed prior to impugned order - Trial court's finding denying dowry harassment is perverse - Unrebutted evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 proves revisionist was expelled from her matrimonial home for non - fulfillment of additional dowry demand - She had just and reasonable cause to live separately - Opposite party no. 2 has neither pleaded nor deposed any special circumstance disabling him from maintaining his wife and daughters, hence, it is inferred that his earnings from manual labour are enough to discharge his legal obligation - On perusal of evidence adduced by both parties, it emerges that revisionist has no independent source of income - P.W.1 and P.W.2 St.d that opposite party no. 2 is engaged as contractor, possesses about 15-16 bighas of agricultural land, and owns two houses - D.W.1 and D.W.2 deposed that opposite party no. 2 is not a contractor but a labourer and agricultural land stands in his father's name, yielding approximately Rs. 60,000/- p.a, on which three persons are dependent - However, neither party produced any documentary evidence substantiating their respective claims regarding earning - Hence, impugned order is erroneous, set aside - Directions accordingly. (Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh - I, J.)

2. By means of this instant criminal revision instituted u/s 397/401 Cr.P.C., the revisionist has assailed the impugned judgement and order dated 06.05.2023 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Mahoba in Case No. 263 of 2021 (Smt. Maya Devi Vs. Sunil @ Balendra) filed u/s 125 Cr.P.C., Police Station- Khanna, District- Mahoba.

3. By the impugned judgement and order, the trial court has rejected the revisionist's application for maintenance filed u/s 125 Cr.P.C.

4. Averment has been made by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial court has passed the impugned order against the weight of the evidence on record and without application of judicial mind. It has also been submitted that in her matrimonial home, the revisionist was subjected to physical and mental harassment for coercing her to bring additional dowry from her parents. In this regard, a Panchayat was held between the relatives of the revisionist and opposite party no. 2 about 15 days earlier from filing of the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. but the opposite party no. 2 did not agree to keep her without fulfilling his demand of aforesaid additional dowry of Rs.1,00,000/- in cash. It has also been submitted that revisionist had instituted a complaint case against opposite party no. 2 and his family members for harassment and demand of dowry in which they were summoned by the trial court under Section 498-A, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. & Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. The revisionist had given oral and documentary evidence in this regard in the trial court but the trial court without considering it, rejected her application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. on the ground that she is staying separately from her husband without any reason and she is not entitled for maintenance.

5. Per contra, averment has been made by learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 that the trial court has considered the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto and has passed a legal order in which there is no ground for interference. It has next been submitted that since the revisionist is staying separately from her husband without any sufficient reason, her right to maintenance is barred u/s 125 (4) Cr.P.C.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist and learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 have been heard. Perused the entire evidence present on the revision and the impugned judgement and order passed by the revisional court.

7. Both the parties have admitted in their pleadings that the revisionist was married to opposite party no. 2 on 09.12.2020 and after marriage, she stayed in her matrimonial home till March, 2021. In between, she visited her parental home for 2-3 times. The revisionist has no children from her marriage with opposite party no. 2. On the issue of the revisionist staying away from her husband in her paternal home, pleading has been made on behalf of the revisionist that in her matrimonial home, her husband and her in-laws used to physically and mentally harass her for bringing Rs.1,00,000/- in cash as additional dowry. When she failed to fulfil their demand for additional dowry after beating, they expelled her from her matrimonial home in March, 2021. Since then, she is living in her paternal home. It has also been pleaded that about 15 days before filing of application u/s 125 Cr.P.C., there was a Panchayat held between the relatives of the revisionist and opposite party no. 2 but the opposite party no. 2 refused to take her back to her matrimonial home unless his demand for additional dowry of Rs.1,00,000/- cash was fulfilled.

8. The revisionist, P.W.1 Smt. Maya Devi and P.W.2 Kiran have corroborated the pleadings through their deposition in this regard. On the issue of revisionist staying away from opposite party no. 2, opposite party no. 2 in his written statement has pleaded that since revisionist is B.A. pass and he is only Class- VIII pass, the revisionist was not prepared to stay with him and left him. The fact that revisionist was staying at her paternal home, he has denied that there was any demand for additional dowry of Rs.1,00,000/- against the revisionist nor she was physically or mentally harassed to compel her to bring aforesaid additional dowry.

9. Learned Family Court Judge in his impugned judgement and order has alluded that the revisionist has not filed any other evidence in support of her averment that she was physically and mentally harassed for bringing additional dowry and ultimately expelled from her matrimonial home on her failure to do so.

10. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Pyla Mutyalamma @ Satyavathi vs. Pyla Suri Demudu and Another, (2011) 12 SCC 189 has held that in the revision against the order passed under Section 125 Cr.P.C., the revisional Court is not required to enter into re-appreciation of evidence recorded in the order granting maintenance but where finding is a negative one, the High Court would entertain the revision reevaluate the evidence and come to a conclusion whether the finding reached by the Magistrate are legally sustainable or not. In case where the trial Court has rejected the claim of the wife, minor child and aged parents and dismissed their application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for maintenance, the revisional Court has jurisdiction to consider the finding of facts recorded by the trial Court and come to a different conclusion for it.

11. From the perusal of the record of the revisional court, it is disclosed that the revisionist, Smt. Maya Devi has instituted a Complaint Case No. 3290 of 2022 (Smt. Maya Devi Vs. Sunil @ Balendra and others) against opposite party no. 2 and his family members. In this complaint case, the trial court vide order dated 07.07.2023 has summoned opposite party no. 2, Sunil @ Balendra, his father Daulat Khengar, mother Smt. Jai Devi, elder brother Shailendra Singh, sister-in-law and younger brother for trial u/s 498-A, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. & Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

12. From the perusal of the complaint case, it transpires that the revisionist had filed the complaint case before passing of the impugned order dated 06.05.2023 by the learned Principal Judge, Family Court. Thus, the finding of trial court that there is no evidence that the revisionist, Smt. Maya Devi was physically and mentally harassed for bringing additional dowry, is perverse and against the evidence on record. The deposition of P.W.1 Smt. Maya Devi and P.W.2 Kiran which is unrebutted by their cross-examination by opposite party no. 2 shows that the revisionist was expelled from her matrimonial home for not being able to fulfil the demand of additional dowry of Rs.1,00,000/- in cash and is since then living with her parents. She has filed the aforesaid complaint case against opposite party no. 2 and her in-laws for harassing her to obtain additional dowry of Rs.1,00,000/- cash. Thus, from the evidence on record, it can be inferred that the revisionist was justified and had reasonable ground to stay away from her husband. The finding of the trial court in this regard being perverse to the evidence on record, cannot be accepted.

13. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held in paragraph no. 9 of the judgement in Anju Garg and Another Vs. Deepak Kumar Garg, 2022 SCC Online SC 1314 which is as follows :

9. it may be noted that Section 125 of Cr.P.C. was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish and financial suffering of a woman who is required to leave the matrimonial home, so that some suitable arrangements could be made to enable her to sustain herself and the children, as observed by this Court in Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena.

This Court in the said case, after referring to the earlier decisions, has reiterated the principle of law as to how the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C have to be dealt with by the Court. It held as under:

“In Dukhtar Jahan v. Mohd. Farooq [(1987) 1 SCC 624 : 1987 SCC (Cri) 237] the Court opined that : (SCC p. 631, para 16)

16. “... Proceedings under Section 125 [of the Code], it must be remembered, are of a summary nature and are intended to enable destitute wives and children, the latter whether they are legitimate or illegitimate, to get maintenance in a speedy manner.”

8. A three-Judge Bench in Vimala (K.) v. Veeraswamy (K.) [(1991) 2 SCC 375 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 442], while discussing about the basic purpose under Section 125 of the Code, opined that : (SCC p. 378, para 3)

3. “Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing, and shelter to the deserted wife.”

9. A two-Judge Bench in Kirtikant D. Vadodaria v. State of Gujarat [(1996) 4 SCC 479 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 762], while adverting to the dominant purpose behind Section 125 of the Code, ruled that : (SCC p. 489, para 15)

15. “... While dealing with the ambit and scope of the provision contained in Section 125 of the Code, it has to be borne in mind that the dominant and primary object is to give social justice to the woman, child and infirm parents, etc. and to prevent destitution and vagrancy by compelling those who can support those who are unable to support themselves but have a moral claim for support. The provisions in Section 125 provide a speedy remedy to those women, children and destitute parents who are in distress. The provisions in Section 125 are intended to achieve this special purpose. The dominant purpose behind the benevolent provisions contained in Section 125 clearly is that the wife, child and parents should not be left in a helpless state of distress, destitution and starvation.”

10. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai [(2008) 2 SCC 316 : (2008) 1 SCC (Civ) 547 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 356], reiterating the legal position the Court held : (SCC p. 320, para 6)

6. “... Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children and as noted by this Court in Capt. Ramesh Chander Kaushal v. Veena Kaushal [(1978) 4 SCC 70 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 508] falls within constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India. It is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife. It gives effect to fundamental rights and natural duties of a man to maintain his wife, children and parents when they are unable to maintain themselves. The aforesaid position was highlighted in Savitaben Somabhai Bhatiya v. State of Gujarat [(2005) 3 SCC 636 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 787].”

11. Recently in Nagendrappa Natikar v. Neelamma [(2014) 14 SCC 452 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 407 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 346], it has been stated that it is a piece of social legislation which provides for a summary and speedy relief by way of maintenance to a wife who is unable to maintain herself and her children”.

14. The Hon’ble Apex Court in Rajathi Vs. C. Ganesan, (1999) 6 SCC 326 has held that the words “unable to maintain herself” would mean the means available to the deserted wife while she was living with her husband and would not take within itself the efforts made by the wife after the desertion to survive somehow. Section 125 was enacted on the premise that it is the obligation of the husband to maintain his wife, children and parents. It will, therefore, be for him to show that he has no fresh means to discharge his obligation and he did not neglect or refuse to maintain them or anyone of them. The statement of the wife that she was unable to maintain herself would be enough and it would be for the husband to prove otherwise.

15. The Hon’ble Apex Court in the case of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another, (2021) 2 SCC 324 has held that maintenance laws have been enacted as a measure of social justice to provide recourse to dependant wives and children for their financial support, so as to prevent them from falling into destitution and vagrancy. Article 15(3) of the Constitution of India provides that:-

“Nothing in this article shall prevent the State from making any special provision for women and children.

Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India, which envisages a positive role for the State in fostering change towards the empowerment of women, led to the enactment of various legislations from time to time.”

16. In the case of Chander Parkash Bodh Raj vs. Shila Rani Chander Prakash: 1968 SCC Online Del 52, the Delhi High Court has held that :

“an able-bodied young man has to be presumed to be capable of earning sufficient money so as to be able to reasonably maintain his wife and child and he cannot be heard to say that he is not in a position to earn enough to be able to maintain them according to the family standard. It is for such able-bodied person to show to the Court cogent grounds for holding that he is unable, for reasons beyond his control, to earn enough to discharge his legal obligation of maintaining his wife and child.”

17. The Hon’ble Apex Court in Rajesh vs. Neha (supra) has approved the above law laid down by the Delhi High Court.

18. In the present case, opposite party no. 2 (husband) has not made any averments in his written statement or his deposition, as he, owing to special circumstances, is not able to earn enough to discharge his legal obligation of maintaining his wife as well as his daughters. Therefore, it can be concluded that from the earnings of opposite party no. 2 from doing manual labour, he is earning enough to provide maintenance to his wife and daughters.

19. As from perusal of the evidence of revisionist and opposite party no. 2 regarding the income of the parties, it transpires that whereas the revisionist, P.W.1 Smt. Maya Devi and P.W.2 Kiran have deposed that opposite party no.2, Sunil @ Balendra is engaged in the profession of contractor. He has 15-16 bighas of agricultural land and two houses. They have also deposed that the revisionist has no source of any income and is not earning any money by teaching tuitions or stitching and embroidery. D.W.1 Sunil @

Balendra and D.W.2 have deposed that opposite party no. 2 has no agricultural land in his name but his father has four bighas of agricultural land from which they earn Rs.60,000/- per annum and on which three persons are dependant. They have also deposed that opposite party no. 2 is not a contractor but he works as a labourer. No documentary evidence has been filed by either party on the issue of earning of revisionist or opposite party no. 2.

20. Taking cognizance of prevailing wages in the labour market, even an unskilled labourer earns about Rs.500/- per day, thus it can be concluded that opposite party no.2 may be earning about Rs.12,000/- to 14,000/- per month from his wages. Apart from this, admittedly revisionist along with two other family members, ultimately earns Rs.60,000/- per annum from their agricultural land which is to be divided between three sharers. Thus, the income of the revisionist from agricultural land is about Rs.20,000/- per annum.

21. Therefore, it can be concluded that from manual labour as well as earning from agricultural land, the total income of opposite party no. 2 is Rs.15,000/- per month.

22. The Hon’ble Apex Court in Kulbhushan Kumar Vs. Raj Kumari, (1970) 3 SCC 129 has held that 25% of the husband’s net salary would be just and proper to be awarded as maintenance allowance to the wife. The amount of permanent alimony awarded to the wife must be befitting the status of the parties and the capacity of the spouse to pay maintenance.

23. In Kalyan Dey Chaudhary Vs. Rita Dey Chaudhary Nee Nandy, (2017)

14 SCC 200, the Hon'ble Apex Court has followed the quantum of maintenance fixed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Kulbhushan Kumar (supra) that 25% of net income of the husband should be paid to the wife as maintenance.

24. Following the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court and considering the facts and circumstances of the case, it would be reasonable to fix Rs.3,750/- as monthly maintenance allowance to Smt. Maya Devi, wife of opposite party no. 2.

25. In view of the aforesaid factual and legal aspect, I am of the view that the order impugned dated 06.05.2023 is erroneous and cannot survive in the eyes of law, therefore, I set-aside the impugned order for the aforesaid reasons.

26. Thus, opposite party no.2 shall pay Rs.3,750/- per month as maintenance allowance to his wife, revisionist Smt. Maya Devi from the date of filing of application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. The arrears of maintenance allowance shall be paid by the opposite party no.2 in four equal amounts within a period of six months. The monthly interim maintenance shall be paid regularly till 7th day of each month. The amount of maintenance allowance already paid to the revisionist shall be adjusted in this amount.

27. The present criminal revision is allowed in terms of above mentioned conditions.

28. The copy of the order be sent to the trial court concerned forthwith for necessary compliance.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125 - Against maintenance order - From St.ment of P.W.1, it is evident that she was subjected to mental and physical cruelty by her husband and in-laws for not bringing additional dowry and expelled from her matrimonial home, after which she has been residing separately - P.W.2, mother of revisionist No.1, corroborated same, stating that demand was for opening a hotel for husband, and that he has neither maintained his wife nor their daughters - In cross-examination, P.W.2 deposed that revisionist earlier lived in Talabpura on rent and presently resides with her, and that she bears maintenance and educational expenses of her daughter and granddaughters from her income earned by selling vegetables - Trial Court has misinterpreted deposition of P.W.1 regarding her residence with her mother-in-law - From her St.ment, it appears that she earlier resided with her mother-in-law but is now living separately on rent in same village, maintaining herself and her daughters from her own earnings and financial assistance from her mother - Revisionist No.1 is residing separately from her husband for valid reasons - Though P.W.1 and P.W.2 have supported their pleadings regarding profession and income of opposite party No.2, no oral or documentary evidence adduced in this regard - Hence, it cannot be concluded that opposite party No.2 is engaged as Halwai and earns ₹30,000/- pm - Opposite party No.2 has not St.d in his written St.ment or deposition that, due to any special circumstances, he is unable to maintain his wife and daughters - Hence, it can be concluded that his earnings from manual labour are sufficient to provide maintenance to them - Impugned order is erroneous, set aside - Directions accordingly. 3. Chander Parkash Vs Shrimati Shila Rani: 1968 SCC Online Del 52

By means of the instant criminal revision, revisionists have assailed the judgement and order dated 12.07.2022 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Lalitpur in Case No.49 of 2016 (Smt. Jamuna and others vs. Akhlesh), under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

2. By the impugned order, trial Court has rejected the application of the revisionists filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. on the ground that revisionist no.1 along with her two daughters are residing with her mother-in-law and opposite party No.2 (husband) has given expenses to his wife and two minor children.

3. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionists that marriage of the revisionist No.1 (Smt. Jamuna) was solemnized with opposite party No.2 (Akhilesh) on 26.06.2007

according to Hindu Rites and Rituals. In the said marriage, parents of the revisionist No.1 had given sufficient dowry according to their capacity. The opposite party No.2 (husband) and in-laws of the revisionist No.1 were not satisfied with the dowry given to them in the marriage and they demanded Rs.1,50,000/-, but on non-fulfilment of the additional dowry, they mentally and physically tortured revisionist no. 1. Out of wedlock of the revisionist No.1 and opposite party No.2, two female children were born, namely, Km. Lali, aged about 12 years and Km. Kiriti, aged about 10 years. After the birth of two female children, husband and in-laws of the revisionist No.1 intensified their harassment for bringing of Rs.1,50,000/- as additional dowry and they also started beating and threatening for divorce. It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2 is a good confectioner and earns Rs.30,000/- per month by taking contract in marriages and other functions. It has also been submitted that revisionist No.1 has claimed Rs.15,000/- per month for herself and Rs.4000/- per month each for her two minor daughters as maintenance allowance.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has opposed the prayer of the revisionists and submitted that trial court has passed the impugned order on evidence on record and there is no illegality in the impugned order.

5. In the written statement opposite party No.2 (husband) has admitted his marriage with revisionist No.1 and also admitted that two daughters were born out of their wedlock, but he has denied that revisionist No.1 was harassed and pressurised to bring Rs. 1,50,000/- in dowry. Opposite party No.2 also denied that he is confectioner and earns

Rs.30,000/- per month from his professional work. He also admitted that he is a labour and earns Rs.100-150/- per day as remuneration and revisionist No.1 earns about Rs.15,000/- per month from tailoring and embroidery and she is residing along with her two daughters in his house.

6. Heard Sri Jaysingh Yadav, learned counsel for the revisionists, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Ved Prakash Ojha, learned counsel for opposite party no.2.

7. Factual matrix of the case, in brief, is that marriage of the revisionist No.1 (Smt. Jamuna) was solemnized with opposite party No.2 (Akhilesh) on 26.06.2007 according to Hindu Rites and Rituals. In the said marriage, parents of the revisionist No.1 had given sufficient dowry according to their capacity. The opposite party No.2 (husband) and in-laws of the revisionist No.1 were not satisfied with the dowry given to them in the marriage and they demanded Rs.1,50,000/-, but on non-fulfilment of the additional dowry, they started torturing revisionist No.1 both mentally and physically. Out of wedlock of the revisionist No.1 and opposite party No.2, two female children were born, namely, Km. Lali and Km. Kiriti. After the birth of two female children, husband and in-law of the revisionist No.1 intensified their harassment for bringing of Rs.1,50,000/- as additional dowry and they also started beating and threatening for divorce. It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2 is a good confectioner and earns Rs.30,000/- per month by taking contract in marriages and other functions.

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another, (2021) 2 SCC 324 has held that;

“Maintenance laws have been enacted as a measure of social justice to provide recourse to dependant wives and children for their financial support, so as to prevent them from falling into destitution and vagrancy. Article 15(3) of the Constitution of India provides that:-

“Nothing in this article shall prevent the State from making any special provision for women and children.

Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India, which envisages a positive role for the State in fostering change towards the empowerment of women, led to the enactment of various legislations from time to time.”

9. The trial Court while recording its finding on the issue no.2 that whether the revisionist No.1 is residing away from her husband due to reasonable cause, trial Court has relied on the averments made in the evidence of P.W.1 (revisionist No.1) that revisionist No.1 residing with her mother-in-law along with her two minor daughters. On this point, trial Court has held :-

“ इस संबंध में प्रार्थिया ने बतौर ए.पी.डब्लू.1 अपने साक्ष्य में कहा है कि वह आज भी अपनी सास के साथ निवास कर रही है तथा उसके बच्चों भी उसकी के साथ रह रहे हैं। मुझे नज़ाई बाजार में रामस्वरूप के यहां से राशन मिलता है। इस प्रकार स्पष्ट है कि ए.पी.डब्लू. 1 ने विपक्षी के द्वारा दाखिल जवाबदावा में इस बात की पुष्टि की है कि “प्रार्थिया आज भी मेरे घर में निवास कर रही है और वहीं उसका खर्चा उठा रहे हैं।” प्रार्थिया अपनी सास के साथ निवास करती है और बच्चे

उसके साथ निवास करते हैं। इस बात को ना केवल ए.पी.डब्लू. 1 ने स्वीकार किया है। बल्कि, ओ.पी.डब्लू. 1 व 2 ने इस बात को अपनी प्रतिपरीक्षा में कहा है। ओ.पी.डब्लू. 1 व 2 से की गयी प्रतिपरीक्षा में कोई भी ऐसा प्रश्न उभर नहीं आया। जिससे इस बात की पुष्टि हो कि प्रार्थिया आज की तिथि में अपने बच्चों सहित ससुराल में सास के साथ निवास ना कर रही हो। उपरोक्त से स्पष्ट है कि प्रार्थिया पृथक निवास नहीं कर रही है। ”

10. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Pyla Mutyalamma @ Satyavathi vs. Pyla Suri Demudu and Another: (2011) 12 SCC 189 has held that in the revision against the order passed under Section 125 Cr.P.C., the revisional Court is not required to enter into reappreciation of evidence recorded in the order granting maintenance. But where finding is a negative one, the High Court would entertain the revision reevaluate the evidence and come to a conclusion whether the finding reached by the Magistrate are legally sustainable or not. In case where the trial Court has rejected the claim of the wife, minor child and aged parents and dismissed their application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for maintenance, the revisional Court has jurisdiction to consider the finding of facts recorded by the trial Court and come to a different conclusion for it.

11. Revisionist No.1 in her application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. has made averments that in her matrimonial home, her husband (opposite party No.2) and in-laws used to physically and mentally harass her for obtaining Rs.1,50,000/- as dowry so that her husband could establish his own hotel. She also deposed in her evidence that as she could not bring the additional dowry of Rs.1,50,000/- from her parents, the husband as well as in-laws were annoyed with her and started harassing her as well as her children by not providing sufficient food and cloths to them. She also deposed that her husband-opposite party No.2 solemnized marriage with one Shivani, D/o Ram Niswas and he has abandoned his child and he also threatened the revisionist-Smt. Jamuna for divorce. She also deposed that opposite party No.2 filed an application for divorce, which was dismissed.

12. P.W.1-Smt. Jamuna in her cross-examination stated that she was not residing with her in-laws and she is living separately in Talabpura on rent. She also stated that her daughters are studying in school and she bears the expenses of her daughters from the money given by her mother as well as her own earnings while doing domestic work. She has specifically stated that on 31.12.2015, her husband expelled her from his house.

13. From the perusal of the statement of P.W.1-Smt. Jamuna, it appears that her husband and in-laws used to physically or mentally harass her as she failed to bring additional dowry of Rs.1,50,000/- and her husband/opposite party No.2 expelled her from his house on 31.12.2015 and thereafter, she is residing separately. P.W.2-Gaurabai (mother of the revisionist No.1) has corroborated the statement of P.W.1 with the averments that due to failure of her daughter to bring additional dowry of Rs.1,50,000/- from her parents for opening a hotel for her husband, she was expelled from the house of her husband and her husband has not provided maintenance to his wife and daughters. P.W.2 in her cross-examination has deposed that her daughter earlier used to reside in Talabpura on rent and currently she is residing with her and she bears the expenses of maintenance of her daughters as well her grand daughters for education from her earnings by selling vegetables.

14. For careful perusal of the statement of witnesses and both the parties, it appears that Smt. Jamuna/revisionist No.1 was physically or mentally harassed for additional dowry and she was expelled from her matrimonial house in the year 2015 and she is living separately and bears the expenses of livelihood and her daughters as well as their educational expenses by the money given by her mother as well as her own meagre earnings from domestic work.

15. The trial Court has misinterpreted the deposition of P.W.1 that she is still living with her mother-in-law. From the perusal of the statement of P.W.1, it appears that earlier she used to live with her mother-in-law and later on, she is living separately on the rent in the same village and she bears the expenses of herself as well as her daughters from own earnings as well as money provided by her mother.

16. From the aforesaid discussion, it appears that due to sufficient reason revisionist No.1 is residing away from his husband. Through their deposition, P.W.1-Smt. Jamuna and P.W.2 Gaurabai have corroborated their pleadings regarding the profession and earnings of opposite party No.2 (husband), but they have not produced any oral or documentary evidences in support of their arguments. Under these facts and circumstances of the case, it cannot be concluded that opposite party No.2 is engaged in the profession of Halwai (sweet maker) and earns Rs.30,000/- per month.

17. In the case of Chander Parkash vs. Shrimati Shila Rani: 1968 SCC Online Del 52, the Delhi High Court has held:

“an able-bodied young man has to be presumed to be capable of earning sufficient money so as to be able to reasonably maintain his wife and child and he cannot be heard to say that he is not in a position to earn enough to be able to maintain them according to the family standard. It is for such able-bodied person to show to the Court cogent grounds for holding that he is unable, for reasons beyond his control, to earn enough to discharge his legal obligation of maintaining his wife and child.”

18. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajnish vs. Neha (supra) has approved the above law laid down by the Delhi High Court.

19. In the present case, opposite party No.2 (husband) has not made any averments in his written statement or his deposition, as he, owing to special circumstances, he is not able to earn enough to discharge his legal obligation of maintaining his wife and two daughters. Therefore, it can be concluded that from the earnings of opposite party No.2 from doing manual labour, is earning enough to provide maintenance to his wife and daughters.

20. Taking cognizance of prevailing wages in the labour market, even an unskilled labourer earns about Rs.500/- per day, thus it can be concluded that opposite party No. 2 may be earning about

Rs.12,000/- to 14,000/- per month from his wages. Apart from his wife, two daughters who are aged about 12 years and 10 years presently are also to be provided maintenance, therefore, opposite party No.2 shall provide 1/3rd of his monthly income as maintenance to his wife and two daughters. Hence, it is justified from the evidence on record that the opposite party No.2 be directed to provide Rs.2000/- per month to his wife (revisionist No.1) and Rs.1,000/- per month each to his daughters (revisionist Nos.2 and 3), total Rs.4000/- per month as maintenance allowance from the date of filing of application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as has been mandated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajnish vs. Neha (supra).

21. In view of the aforesaid factual and legal aspect, I am of the view that the order impugned dated 12.07.2022 is erroneous and cannot survive in the eyes of law, therefore, I set-aside the impugned order for the aforesaid reasons.

22. It is provided that revisionist No.1 will be entitled for Rs.2,000/- per month as maintenance allowance till her remarriage along with Rs.1000/- per month to revisionist Nos.2 and 3 (minor daughter of the opposite party No.2) each till they attain the age of majority.

23. Thus, opposite party No.2 shall be bound to provide maintenance allowance @ of Rs.2000/- per month to his wife (revisionist No.1) until her remarriage and Rs.1000/-each for his minor daughters (revisionist Nos.2 and 3) till they attain the age of majority, total Rs.4,000/- per month shall be given to the revisionists from the date of application. The arrears of maintenance allowance shall be paid by the opposite party No.2 in four equal amounts at the gap of four months. The monthly interim maintenance shall be paid regularly till 7th day of each month. The amount of maintenance allowance already paid shall be adjusted against this amount.

24. The present criminal revision is allowed in terms of above mentioned conditions.

25. The copy of the order be sent to the trial Court concerned forthwith for necessary compliance.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 245, 397 & 401 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 419, 420, 467, 468 & 471 - U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 - Section 9 - Revisionist challenged order dated 02.08.2022 discharging accused under Section 245 Cr.P.C. in a complaint case alleging forgery of a will dated 15.01.1995. Court held: (1) Trial court's discharge of accused (opposite party nos. 2 and 3, marginal witness and writer of the will) was justified, as complainant's evidence under Section 244 Cr.P.C. failed to establish a prima facie case under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. (Amit Kapoor Vs Ramesh Chander, (2012) 9 SCC 460). (2) The disputed will, upheld by consolidation authorities and not declared invalid by a civil court, could not form the basis for criminal proceedings for forgery until its validity was adjudicated by a competent civil court. (3) Consolidation court's order, remitted by High Court for fresh consideration, upheld the will's validity, and complainant's oral evidence (himself and one witness) did not raise doubts about the will's authenticity. (4) Revisional court's jurisdiction under Sections 397/401 Cr.P.C. is limited to examining legality, propriety, or correctness of the trial court's order, not re-evaluating evidence; no illegality, irregularity, or jurisdictional error was found in the discharge order. Impugned order upheld; revision dismissed. (Paras 9-15)

Criminal Revision Dismissed.

List of Cases cited:

1. Amit Kapoor Vs Ramesh Chander, (2012) 9 SCC 460 (Para 9)

Heard Sri Sachida Nand Tripathi, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Awadhesh Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 and 3.

2. By means of this instant criminal revision instituted u/s 397/401 Cr.P.C., the revisionist has assailed the impugned judgement and order dated 02.08.2022 passed by Civil Judge (Junior Division)/ Judicial Magistrate, Basi, Siddharth Nagar in Complaint Case No. 258 of 2005 u/s 245 Cr.P.C. (Tulsi Ram Vs. Indramati and others).

3. By the impugned judgement and order, the trial court has allowed the discharge application filed by the accused u/s 245 Cr.P.C.

4. Averment has been made by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial court has discharged the accused vide impugned judgement and order without considering the evidence on record. It has been next submitted that complainant had examined the witnesses u/s 244 Cr.P.C. and produced the documentary evidence. There was sufficient reason to frame charge against the accused u/s 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. but the trial court without applying its judicial mind to the evidence on record has illegally discharged the accused u/s 245 Cr.P.C. It has also been submitted that the trial court by the impugned judgement and order, discharged the accused of the offence u/s 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. on the ground that case u/s 9 of U.P. Consolidation of Holding Act was allowed in favour of the accused and the same is sub-judice before the S.O.C. whereas the judgement of the Consolidation Court has no impact on the criminal proceedings. From the evidence produced by the complainant, prima facie offence u/s 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. is made out against the accused, namely, Indramati wife of Phool Ram, Krishna Ram and Krishna Mohan, sons of Ram Ujagir, and Sabhapati Shukla son of Vansh Raj. Therefore, it is requested that the impugned judgement and order be set-aside and the trial court be directed to proceed against the accused after framing of charge against them.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 and 3, Krishna Mohan and Sabhapati, has submitted that the trial court vide order dated 13.04.2011 had illegally summoned them u/s 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. for trial whereas there is no evidence against them. It has also been submitted that the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 are merely the marginal witnesses and writer of the will deed respectively. The main accused, Indramati and Krishna Ram have died. The trial court vide order dated 02.08.2022 has rightly and legally allowed the application u/s 245 (2) Cr.P.C. and discharged opposite party nos. 2 and 3 of the charge. There is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned order and there is no ground to interfere with the same.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist and learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 have been heard. Perused the entire evidence present on the revision and the impugned order passed by the revisional court.

7. The complainant Tulsi Ram alleging that Ram Ujagir had four sons, namely, Tulsi Ram (complainant), Krishna Ram, Krishna Mohan and Phool Ram. Phool Ram had died earlier and his wife Indramati and son Vashistha were his legal heirs. After death of Ram Ujagir, his four legal heirs, Tulsi Ram, Krishna Ram, Krishna Mohan and Vashistha each inherited 1/4-1/4 part of his property through succession. The father of the complainant, Ram Ujagir had in his lifetime executed sale deed of 1/4th of his agricultural land, namely, plot no. 107 situated in village- Vakainiya in the year 1985 in the favour of Mohd. Hanif and remaining 3/4th in favour of Krishna Mohan, Krishna Ram and Vashistha. In the year 1988, Krishna Ram and Vashistha executed sale deed of their share of land in favour of Sai Mohammed etc. Krishna Mohan and Vashistha executed sale deed of 1/5th of plot no. 109 (Gata No. 179/0.205 aer) in village- Mahua in favour of Om Prakash Pandey on 12.08.1999. On 07.07.1999, Krishna Mohan, Krishna Ram and Vashistha executed their share of land in plot nos. 142 and 113 in favour of Dal Singar, resident of village- Mahua. Vashistha executed sale deed of his share in six plots area 1/4th of 2.347 aer and 1/2 of plot no. 4 min jumla and plot no. 206 min jumla 2 bighas 17 biswa and 13½ dhoor in favour of complaint Tulsi Ram on 16.10.1999. Mutation has been done in favour of the revisionist. The accused Indramati, wife of Phool Ram, with fraudulent intention prepared a forged unregistered will dated 15.01.1995 of Ram Ujagir. Accused, Indramati wife of Phool Ram in order to deceive the complainant, Tulsi Ram, fraudulently executed a forged unregistered will dated 15.01.1995 with forged signature of Ram Ujagir. In the aforesaid will, Krishna Mohan and Krishna Ram (since deceased) are the marginal witnesses and opposite party no. 3, Sabhapati Shukla, is the writer of the sale deed. The complainant had given information about the alleged offence to concerned police station but no action was taken. Then, he sent his application to Superintendent of Police, Siddharth Nagar by registered post. On the basis of complaint of Tulsi Ram and his statement u/s 200 Cr.P.C. and that of his witnesses u/s 202 Cr.P.C. and other documentary evidence on record, the trial court vide order dated 13.04.2011 summoned accused Indramati, Krishna Mohan and Sabhapati for trial u/s 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. The complainant, Tulsi Ram had filed information received under R.T.I. Act to the effect that the Case No. 36/41/20, Indramati Vs. Ram Ujagir relating to village- Mahua, Tappa Khesraha, Pargana and Tehsil- Bansi, Siddharth Nagar, is pending.

8. The trial court has given following reasons for allowing the discharge application of opposite party nos. 2 and 3 :-

9. In paragraph no. 20 of the judgement in Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chander and Another, (2012) 9 SCC 460, the Hon'ble Apex Court has compared the power and extent of jurisdiction of the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which is given hereunder :

20. The jurisdiction of the court under Section 397 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression "prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice", the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, propriety or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest i.e. when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the court is not permitted to be abused.

10. After comprehensive survey and discussion of the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the factors to be considered by the trial court while disposing of application u/s 227 Cr.P.C. and framing charge u/s 228 Cr.P.C., the Apex Court in Amit Kapoor (supra) has given following directions :

27.2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

27.3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

27.9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction; the court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

27.10. It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a full-fledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

27.11. Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

27.12. In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed therewith by the prosecution.

11. From the aforesaid pronouncement of the Hon'ble Apex Court regarding jurisdiction of criminal revision, it is clear that jurisdiction of revisional court is not wide and comprehensive as that of appellate court. In criminal revision, the revisional court cannot re-evaluate the factual aspect of the finding recorded by the trial court. The revisional court has only to see whether by passing the impugned order, the trial court has committed any illegality, irregularity, jurisdictional error or any impropriety.

12. From the perusal of the evidence available on the record of criminal revision, it transpires that the deceased testator, Ram Ujagir had 4 sons, namely, Tulsi Ram (complainant), Krishna Ram, Krishna Mohan and Phool Ram. Phool Ram died earlier leaving behind his wife, Indramati and his son, Vashistha. By the disputed will dated 15.01.1995, Ram Ujagir gave 1/4th share of his property to Indramati who is widow of his deceased son Phool Ram. The revisionist, Tulsi Ram, Krishna Mohan, Krishna Ram and Indramati are the legal heirs of deceased Ram Ujagir. Only 1/4th share of the property of Ram Ujagir has been given to Indramati through the will.

13. It has been contended on behalf of opposite party nos. 2 and 3 that since Vashistha, son of deceased Phool Ram, is mentally retarded, therefore, Ram Ujagir by his will dated 15.01.1995 has given 1/4th share of his property in favour of Indramati, wife of Phool Ram. Mutation has been done by the Consolidation Officer in favour of the legatees in the revenue record on the basis of the will. The appeal filed against the aforesaid order of the court of Consolidation Officer has been dismissed. The complainant Tulsi Ram has filed a writ against the aforesaid order of the S.O.C. in the Allahabad High Court which has remitted the matter to the consolidation authorities for passing a fresh order after giving both parties opportunity of hearing and filing evidence. After remand of the case, the Consolidation Officer, Bansi has again passed order on the basis of the will dated 15.01.1995. The trial court has also mentioned in the impugned order that the revisionist has not filed any other documentary evidence. The complainant has filed u/s 244 Cr.P.C. oral evidence of himself as well as witness, Anil Kumar. From their evidence, no doubt is raised about the validity of the will.

14. From the evidence on record as well as perusal of the impugned order, it transpires that the disputed will dated 15.01.1995 was assailed by the revisionist/complainant before consolidation authorities as well before the High Court but so far no adverse finding has been recorded against the will. Apart from this, the validity of the disputed will can be decided only by the civil court and so far it has not been declared invalid by the civil court. It is well settled law that unless validity of a document is not assailed by a competent court, criminal proceeding on the basis of that document for forgery, cannot proceed.

15. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid case regarding continuance of criminal case before finding by competent court regarding validity of the disputed will, I do not find any illegality, irregularity, jurisdictional error or impropriety in the impugned order passed by the trial court. There is no merit in the criminal revision and the same is liable to be dismissed.

16. Accordingly, the criminal revision is dismissed.

17. Let a copy of this order be sent to the concerned trial court for necessary action.

...Revisionist

Versus

State of U.P. & Ors.

...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:

Sri Jainendra Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:

G.A., Sri Vijai Prakash Yadav

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125 - Against maintenance allowance - Revisionist contended that opposite party no.2, voluntarily residing away from him without cause - As per ultrasound report, she was pregnant prior to their marriage and opposite party no.3, was not born from their wedlock, hence both are not entitled to maintenance - Counsel for opposite parties submitted that trial court passed impugned order after due consideration of facts and law as settled by Supreme Court and opposite party no.2, subjected to dowry harassment by revisionist and his family, resides separately with her daughter at her paternal home, receiving no maintenance - Revisionist has not disputed paternity of daughter in his written Statement or evidence, hence, such plea cannot be raised at revision stage - Held, revisionist failed to disclose his actual monthly income, warranting an adverse presumption against him - He pleaded that opposite party no.2 filed criminal and domestic violence cases, and that he suffers from depression, undergoing medical treatment, preventing him from earning - However, no doctor prescription or bill vouchers was produced, hence, his unsubstantiated claim cannot be accepted - Trial court rightly held that opposite party no.2 is legally wedded wife and opposite party no.3 is daughter born from their wedlock - Finding that she has no earning to maintain herself and her minor daughter - Revisionist is capable of earning, but has willfully neglected to maintain them, trial court reasonably awarded monthly maintenance allowance to them - No merit in criminal revision, dismissed. (Para 4, 5, 24, 25, 32)

Revision dismissed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

Heard Sri Jainendra Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Vijai Prakash Yadav, learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 and 3.

2. By means of this instant criminal revision, the revisionist has assailed the impugned judgement and order dated 04.08.2023 passed by learned Additional Principal Judge, Family Court-III, Jaunpur, in Petition No. 666 of 2019, Jyoti Kumari and Another Vs. Ashish Jaiswal.

3. By the impugned judgement and order, the trial court has granted Rs.3,000/- per month to opposite party no. 2, Jyoti Kumari and Rs.2,000/- per month to her minor daughter, Niyati from the date of filing of application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. unless they become disqualified for getting maintenance.

4. Averment has been made by learned counsel for the revisionist that the trial court has passed the impugned judgement and order against the provisions of law and without proper appreciation of evidence on record. It has next been submitted that since the opposite party no. 2, Smt. Jyoti Kumari was voluntarily and without any reason residing away from the revisionist, she is not entitled for maintenance. It has also been submitted that as per ultrasound report of opposite party no. 2, she was pregnant before her marriage with the revisionist and opposite party no. 3, Niyati, daughter of opposite party no. 2, was not born from their wedlock, therefore, she is not entitled for maintenance from him.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 has submitted that the trial court has passed the impugned order after considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the statutory law applicable to the case as interpreted by the Hon'ble Apex Court. There is no illegality and irregularity in the impugned order. It has next been submitted that due to the harassment of opposite party no. 2 by the revisionist and his family members for obtaining additional dowry, opposite party no. 2 is living separately from the revisionist with her daughter at her parental home. No maintenance is being provided by the revisionist to them. The revisionist has neither pleaded in his written statement filed against the petition u/s 125 Cr.P.C. nor in his evidence, oral or documentary adduced in support of his written statement that opposite party no. 3 is not born from his wedlock with opposite party no. 2, Smt. Jyoti Kumari. Therefore, at the stage of revision, such plea cannot be entertained and they shall not be taken into consideration.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist and learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 have been heard. Perused the evidence available on the record of the revision including the impugned order passed by the trial court.

7. From the pleadings of revisionist and opposite party no. 2 in Petition No. 666 of 2019 u/s 125 Cr.P.C., it transpires that admittedly opposite party no. 2, Smt. Jyoti Kumari was married to revisionist, Ashish Jaiswal on 18.11.2017 according to Hindu rites and customs. The mother of opposite party no. 2 gave sufficient cash and other items as dowry to the revisionist according to her status. The revisionist and his parents were not satisfied with the dowry brought by opposite party no. 2. They started physically and mentally torturing her to compel her to bring Rs.2,00,000/- as additional dowry. On 21.08.2018, from the wedlock of revisionist and opposite party no. 2, a daughter, namely, Niyati was born. On the birth of the daughter, revisionist and his family members became annoyed with her and on 28.08.2019, after beating, abusing and depriving her from her stridhan, sent her to her parental home. Since then opposite party no. 2 is living with her daughter at her parental home. Opposite party no. 2 is a domestic woman and has no skills which may enable her to earn enough for her and for her maintenance as well as of her daughter. The husband of opposite party no. 2 is engaged in the wholesale business of scrap items from which he earns about Rs.50,000/- per month. He is not providing maintenance to opposite party no. 2 and her daughter. Opposite party no. 2 has prayed for maintenance allowance of Rs.10,000/- per month for herself and Rs.5,000/- per month for her daughter.

8. In his written statement, revisionist has admitted that opposite party no. 2 is his legally wedded wife and from their wedlock, opposite party no. 3, Niyati was born. Revisionist has denied that opposite party no. 2 was subjected to physical or mental harassment for compelling her to bring Rs.2,00,000/- or any amount as additional dowry. The revisionist/applicant has denied the allegations made by opposite party no. 2 against him regarding harassment of opposite party no. 2 and after beating her, left her at her parental home with her daughter. The revisionist/applicant has pleaded that she herself left her matrimonial home and is not willing to stay with him. He has mentioned in his written statement that she has filed false case of cruelty and dowry against him due to which he is suffering from depression.

9. It is desirable to consider statutory law relating to maintenance as provided u/s 125 Cr.P.C. as interpreted by the precedents of Hon'ble Apex Court and High Courts.

10. The provision of Section 125 Cr.P.C. provides for maintenance of wives, children and parents. The Section 125 Cr.P.C. reads as under:-

“125. Order for maintenance of wives, children and parents.—

(1) If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain—

(a) his wife, unable to maintain herself, or

(b) his legitimate or illegitimate minor child, whether married or not, unable to maintain itself, or

(c) his legitimate or illegitimate child (not being a married daughter) who has attained majority, where such child is, by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury unable to maintain itself, or

(d) his father or mother, unable to maintain himself or herself, a Magistrate of the First Class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, at such monthly rate as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided that the Magistrate may order the father of a minor female child referred to in clause (b) to make such allowance, until she attains her majority, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the husband of such minor female child, if married, is not possessed of sufficient means:

Provided further that the Magistrate may, during the pendency of the proceeding regarding monthly allowance for the maintenance under this sub-section, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the interim maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, and the expenses of such proceeding which the Magistrate considers reasonable, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided also that an application for the monthly allowance for the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding under the second proviso shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within sixty days from the date of the service of notice of the application to such person.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this Chapter—

(a) “minor” means a person who, under the provisions of the Indian Majority Act, 1875 (9 of 1875); is deemed not to have attained his majority;

(b) “wife” includes a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband and has not remarried.

(2) Any such allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding shall be payable from the date of the order, or, if so ordered, from the date of the application for maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be.

(3) If any person so ordered fails without sufficient cause to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole or any part of each month's allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be, remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made:

Provided that no warrant shall be issued for the recovery of any amount due under this section unless application be made to the Court to levy such amount within a period of one year from the date on which it became due : Provided further that if such person offers to maintain his wife on condition of her living with him, and she refuses to live with him, such Magistrate may consider any grounds of refusal stated by her, and may make an order under this section notwithstanding such offer, if he is satisfied that there is just ground for so doing.

Explanation.—If a husband has contracted marriage with another woman or keeps a mistress, it shall be considered to be a just ground for his wife's refusal to live with him.

(4) No wife shall be entitled to receive an allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be, from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery, or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

(5) On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order.”

11. In paragraph Nos. 37, 38, 39 and 40 of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another: (2021) 2 SCC 324, the Hon’ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

“37. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai [Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai, (2008) 2 SCC 316 : (2008) 1 SCC (Civ) 547 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 356] this Court held that the object of maintenance proceedings is not to punish a person for his past neglect, but to prevent vagrancy and destitution of a deserted wife by providing her food, clothing and shelter by a speedy remedy. Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice especially enacted to protect women and children, and falls within the constitutional sweep of Article 15(3), reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution.

38. Proceedings under Section 125 CrPC are summary in nature. In Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena [Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena, (2015) 6 SCC 353 : (2015) 3 SCC (Civ) 321 : (2015) 4 SCC (Cri) 200] this Court held that Section 125 CrPC was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish, financial suffering of a woman who had left her matrimonial home, so that some suitable arrangements could be made to enable her to sustain herself and the children. Since it is the sacrosanct duty of the husband to provide financial support to the wife and minor children, the husband was required to earn money even by physical labour, if he is able-bodied, and could not avoid his obligation, except on any legally permissible ground mentioned in the statute.

39. The issue whether presumption of marriage arises when parties are in a live-in relationship for a long period of time, which would give rise to a claim under Section 125 CrPC came up for consideration in Chanmuniya v. Virendra Kumar Singh Kushwaha [Chanmuniya v. Virendra Kumar Singh Kushwaha, (2011) 1 SCC 141 : (2011) 1 SCC (Civ) 53 : (2011) 2 SCC (Cri) 666. This judgment was referred to a larger Bench.] before the Supreme Court. It was held that where a man and a woman have cohabited for a long period of time, in the absence of legal necessities of a valid marriage, such a woman would be entitled to maintenance. A man should not be allowed to benefit from legal loopholes, by enjoying the advantages of a de facto marriage, without undertaking the duties and obligations of such marriage. A broad and expansive interpretation must be given to the term “wife”, to include even those cases where a man and woman have been living together as husband and wife for a reasonably long period of time. Strict proof of marriage should not be a precondition for grant of maintenance under Section 125 CrPC. The Court relied on the Malimath Committee Report on Reforms of Criminal Justice System published in 2003, which recommended that evidence regarding a man and woman living together for a reasonably long period, should be sufficient to draw the presumption of marriage.

40. The law presumes in favour of marriage, and against concubinage, when a man and woman cohabit continuously for a number of years. Unlike matrimonial proceedings where strict proof of marriage is essential, in proceedings under Section 125 CrPC such strict standard of proof is not necessary. [Kamala v. M.R. Mohan Kumar, (2019) 11 SCC 491 : (2019) 4 SCC (Civ) 732 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 242].”

12. The Hon’ble Apex Court in paragraph Nos.77, 78, 79 and 80 of Rajnish vs. Neha and Another (supra) has provided for criteria for determining quantum of maintenance, which reads as under:-

“77. The objective of granting interim/permanent alimony is to ensure that the dependent spouse is not reduced to destitution or vagrancy on account of the failure of the marriage, and not as a punishment to the other spouse. There is no straitjacket formula for fixing the quantum of maintenance to be awarded.

78. The factors which would weigh with the court inter alia are the status of the parties; reasonable needs of the wife and dependent children; whether the applicant is educated and professionally qualified; whether the applicant has any independent source of income; whether the income is sufficient to enable her to maintain the same standard of living as she was accustomed to in her matrimonial home; whether the applicant was employed prior to her marriage; whether she was working during the subsistence of the marriage; whether the wife was required to sacrifice her employment opportunities for nurturing the family, child rearing, and looking after adult members of the family; reasonable costs of litigation for a non-working wife. [Refer to Jasbir Kaur Sehgal v. District Judge, Dehradun, (1997) 7 SCC 7; Refer to Vinny Parmvir Parmar v. Parmvir Parmar, (2011) 13 SCC 112 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 290]

79. In Manish Jain v. Akanksha Jain [Manish Jain v. Akanksha Jain, (2017) 15 SCC 801 : (2018) 2 SCC (Civ) 712] this Court held that the financial position of the parents of the applicant wife, would not be material while determining the quantum of maintenance. An order of interim maintenance is conditional on the circumstance that the wife or husband who makes a claim has no independent income, sufficient for her or his support. It is no answer to a claim of maintenance that the wife is educated and could support herself. The court must take into consideration the status of the parties and the capacity of the spouse to pay for her or his support. Maintenance is dependent upon factual situations; the court should mould the claim for maintenance based on various factors brought before it.

80. On the other hand, the financial capacity of the husband, his actual income, reasonable expenses for his own maintenance, and dependent family members whom he is obliged to maintain under the law, liabilities if any, would be required to be taken into consideration, to arrive at the appropriate quantum of maintenance to be paid. The court must have due regard to the standard of living of the husband, as well as the spiralling inflation rates and high costs of living. The plea of the husband that he does not possess any source of income ipso facto does not absolve him of his moral duty to maintain his wife if he is able-bodied and has educational qualifications. [Reema Salkan v. Sumer Singh Salkan, (2019) 12 SCC 303 : (2018) 5 SCC (Civ) 596 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 339]

13. After thoroughly discussing the numerous judgements of the Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court, the Apex Court in para-109 of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another (supra) held that maintenance should be provided from the date of application not from the date of order. The para-109 of the aforesaid judgement reads as under:-

“ 109. The judgments hereinabove reveal the divergent views of different High Courts on the date from which maintenance must be awarded. Even though a judicial discretion is conferred upon the court to grant maintenance either from the date of application or from the date of the order in Section 125(2) CrPC, it would be appropriate to grant maintenance from the date of application in all cases, including Section 125 CrPC. In the practical working of the provisions relating to maintenance, we find that there is significant delay in disposal of the applications for interim maintenance for years on end. It would therefore be in the interests of justice and fair play that maintenance is awarded from the date of the application.”

14. The Hon’ble Apex Court in the decision of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another (supra) has held that the husband is bound to provide maintenance allowance to his wife and children which may be upto 25% of his monthly income.

15. From the pleadings and documents filed by the parties, the trial court has framed following four issues :-

(i) Whether applicant is legally wedded wife of opposite party and due to sufficient reasons, she is residing away from her husband ?

(ii) Whether applicant is capable of maintaining herself as well as her daughter ?

(iii) Whether opposite party having sufficient source of income is still not maintaining his wife and daughter ?

(iv) Whether applicants are entitled to maintenance from opposite party ? If so, what amount ?

16. Disposal of issue no. (i) : The revisionist, Ashish Jaiswal in his pleading in the written statement as well as in his oral evidence has admitted that opposite party no. 2, Smt. Jyoti Kumari is his legally wedded wife and from their wedlock, her daughter, opposite party no. 3, Niyati was born.

17. While deciding the second part of issue no. (i) that whether opposite party no. 2 is residing away from her husband without sufficient cause, the trial court has taken into consideration the pleadings of opposite party no. 2, Smt. Jyoti Kumari and revisionist, Ashish Jaiswal. The trial court has also analysed the oral and documentary evidence of both parties in this regard including complaint case filed by opposite party no. 2, Smt. Jyoti Kumari against the revisionist Ashish Jaiswal u/s 498-A I.P.C. and $\frac{3}{4}$ of Dowry Prohibition Act and Divorce Petition No. 1025 of 2019 u/s 13 of Hindu Marriage Act filed by the revisionist against opposite party no. 2 in the court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Varanasi and came to the conclusion that due to physical and mental harassment caused by demand of additional dowry by revisionist and his family members, the opposite party no. 2 was living away from her husband. The opposite party no. 2 had apprehension of danger to her life and she was justified in living away from him. The issue no. (i) was thus, rightly decided by the trial court in affirmative.

18. Disposal of issue nos. (ii) and (iii) : Since these two issues are based on same oral and documentary evidence, they are decided together. The trial court has considered the pleading of opposite party no. 2 that she is a housewife and a woman of rural background. She has no professional skills and she is not able to maintain herself and her daughter from her own earnings and she is dependent for maintenance on her widowed mother. Opposite party no. 2 has also pleaded that her husband/revisionist is engaged in the wholesale business of scrap items from which he earns about Rs.50,000/- per month. The opposite party no. 2 has also pleaded that revisionist has a double-storey dwelling house and earns rent from it. On this point, revisionist has pleaded that his wife, opposite party no. 2 is M.A. pass and she is doing job in Mumbai and earning Rs.50,000/- per month. Opposite party no. 2 has also deposed in her evidence that since she is staying away from her husband, her husband has sent only Rs.5,000/- in her account and Rs.500/- through mobile banking but as her bank documents, aadhar card, etc. have been detained by her husband in her matrimonial home, she is not able to withdraw that amount from her account. The revisionist has not filed any documentary evidence in support of his pleadings that opposite party no. 2 is doing job in Mumbai and earning Rs.50,000/- per month as salary from it. The trial court did not believe the averments made by either party regarding income of both parties as neither party had filed any documentary evidence or other credible evidence in support of their income. From the aforesaid evidence, the trial court has come to the conclusion that opposite party no. 2, Smt. Jyoti Kumari has no earning from which she may be able to maintain herself and her minor daughter.

19. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shailja And Another vs. Khobbanna, (2018) 12 SCC 199 has held:

“we find that the High Court has proceeded on the basis that Appellant 1/wife was capable of earning and that is one of the reasons for reducing the maintenance granted to her by the Family Court. Whether Appellant 1 is capable of earning or whether she is actually earning are two different requirements. Merely because Appellant 1 is capable of earning is not, in our opinion, sufficient reason to reduce the maintenance awarded by the Family Court.”

20. Considering the above law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court merely on the ground that opposite party no. 2 is M.A. pass, no presumption can be drawn that she is earning sufficient money to maintain herself and her minor daughter. Thus the plea advanced on behalf of the revisionist (husband) is without any legal basis.

21. It is well settled law that mere averment of wife that she is not able to maintain herself and her child from her earning will shift the burden on her husband to rebut that she has sufficient income for maintenance of herself and her child. The revisionist has not adduced any credible oral or documentary evidence which may rebut the averment of his wife that she cannot maintain herself and her daughter from her income.

22. From the oral and documentary evidence adduced by both parties, the trial court has concluded that the revisionist is a healthy and young man and he is capable to earn enough to maintain himself, his wife and minor daughter.

23. In the case of Chander Parkash vs. Shrimati Shila Rani: 1968 SCC Online Del 52, the Delhi High Court has held:

“.....an able-bodied young man has to be presumed to be capable of earning sufficient money so as to be able to reasonably maintain his wife and child and he cannot be heard to say that he is not in a position to earn enough to be able to maintain them according to the family standard. It is for such able-bodied person to show to the Court cogent grounds for holding that he is unable, for reasons beyond his control, to earn enough to discharge his legal obligation of maintaining his wife and child.”

24. In the present case, as the husband has not clearly disclosed to the court, as he ought, his monthly income which he admittedly gets, the presumption would be easily permissible against him. In his written statement, the revisionist has pleaded/deposed that his wife, opposite party no. 2 has registered criminal case as well as case under Domestic Violence Act against him. He is suffering from depression and is undergoing medical treatment for it, therefore, due to depression, he cannot do any work and earn money. But the revisionist has not produced any documentary evidence regarding prescription of doctor, bill vouchers/receipts of medicines purchased by him. Thus, mere bald averments of the revisionist that he is suffering from depression and consequently he is not able to earn anything, cannot be accepted.

25. From the above discussion, the trial court has rightly decided issue no.(ii) in favour of the wife and issue no. (iii) against the revisionist and has determined that the revisionist is capable of earning enough money, still he is not providing maintenance to his wife and minor daughter.

26. Disposal of issue no. (iv) : The trial court has alluded in its judgement that it is the social, moral and legal duty of a husband to maintain his wife and children properly. Section 125 Cr.P.C. is a social welfare legislation which comes in the ambit of Article 15 (3) of Constitution of India. The statutory provision protects the wife and children from destitution and vagrancy. Maintenance includes expenses required for food, clothes, residence, medical expenses and education of children. The maintenance allowance should be sufficient to enable the wife and children to lead a life with dignity and decorum equal to that they were living with their husband/parents. The wife and children cannot be left in a helpless and hopeless state.

27. Taking cognizance of prevailing wages in the labour market, even an unskilled labourer earns about Rs.500/- per day, thus it can be presumed that revisionist may be earning about Rs.15,000/- per month from his wages.

28. Now, this Court has to consider whether the trial court has rightly provided Rs.3,000/- per month to Smt. Jyoti Kumari and Rs.2,000/- per month to her daughter, Niyati ?

29. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Kulbhushan Kumar Vs. Raj Kumari, (1970) 3 SCC 129 has held that 25% of the husband's net salary would be just and proper to be awarded as maintenance allowance to the wife. The amount of permanent alimony awarded to the wife must be befitting the status of the parties and the capacity of the spouse to pay maintenance.

30. In Kalyan Dey Chaudhary Vs. Rita Dey Chaudhary Nee Nandy, (2017) 14 SCC 200, the Hon'ble Apex Court has followed the quantum of maintenance fixed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Kulbhushan Kumar (supra) that 25% of net income of the husband should be paid to the wife as maintenance.

31. Thus, it will be just and reasonable to provide 1/3rd of the monthly income of the husband for maintenance of revisionist's wife/opposite party no. 2 and his daughter, opposite party no. 3. Thus, the amount of total maintenance to be provided to opposite party nos. 2 and 3 can be determined as 1/3rd of Rs.15,000/- i.e. Rs.5,000/-. In the impugned judgement and order, considering all the facts and circumstances and evidence on record, the trial court has also granted Rs.3,000/- to opposite party no. 2 and Rs.2,000/- to opposite party no. 3.

32. From the above discussion, I am of the view that the trial court has rightly concluded that opposite party no. 2 is legally wedded wife of revisionist and opposite party no. 3 is the daughter born from their wedlock. The trial court has rightly concluded that opposite party no. 2 has no earning to maintain herself and her minor daughter. The revisionist is capable of earning sufficient income to maintain his wife and minor daughter, still he is neglecting in maintaining them. The trial court has provided just and reasonable monthly maintenance allowance for opposite party nos. 2 and 3 i.e. wife and daughter of the revisionist.

33. There is no merit in the criminal revision and the same is liable to be dismissed.

34. The criminal revision is accordingly, dismissed.

35. Let a copy of this order be sent to the concerned trial court for necessary action.

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri Ritesh Srivastava, Ms. Shweta Singh, Sri Abhishek Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:

Civil Law - Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 - Section 23 (1) (b) - Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - Order VII Rule 11(d) - Impugned order dismisses appellant-wife's application under O.VII R.11(d) CPC read with Section 23(1)(b) of Hindu Marriage Act, holding that as divorce petition filed on grounds of cruelty and adultery is at stage of DW-1's cross-examination and matter is expedited, such application can't be entertained - Held, a plain reading of plaint shows a cause of action is made out - Paragraphs 9 -11 and subsequent averments detail the wife's repeated misconduct after initial condonation, including specific instances of adultery - Single condonation of any act does not reject the plaint where such acts are alleged to have been repeated - Condonation u/s 23(1)(b) of Hindu Marriage Act is conditional, presuming forgiven acts will not repeated - Where plaint specifically alleges repetition of such acts after initial condonation, Section 23(1)(b) cannot bar claim, and plaint cannot be rejected under O.VII R.11(d) CPC on ground of prior condonation - Court used words "coupled with" shows application under O.VII R.11 CPC read with Section 23(1)(b) Hindu Marriage Act was not rejected for that sole reason, and contention is misconceived - Appeal is devoid of merits and accordingly dismissed. (Para 3, 9, 13, 16)

2. Dr. N.G. Dastane Vs. Mrs. S. Dastane, Civil Appeal No. 2224 of 1970

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.
&
Hon'ble Donadi Ramesh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ritesh Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant.

2. Present appeal has been filed challenging the order judgment and order dated 16.02.2024 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad in Case No. 596 of 2020, under Section 13 (1) (i) of the Hindu Marriage Act.

3. By the impugned order, the application moved by the appellant-wife (hereinafter referred to as 'wife') under Order VII Rule 11(d) CPC read with Section 23 (1) (b) of the Hindu Marriage Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act) on the ground that after discussing the case law on the interpretation of the word 'condonation of the act' as given under Section 23 of the Act. The court below rejected the application and held that the divorce petition has been moved on the ground of cruelty and adultery with the averments made in the petition and the matter is at the stage of cross-examination of DW-1 coupled with the fact that the matter has been expedited by this Court, no such application can be entertained at this stage.

4. By drawing attention to paragraph 9 of the divorce petition, submission of learned counsel for the appellant is that the act of wife was condoned by the husband and therefore, in view of the provisions of Order VII Rule 11(d) CPC read with Section 23 (1) (b) of the Act, as the act has been condoned in the plaint itself, therefore, the plaint ought to have been rejected. He further submits that the sole reason for rejecting such application is that the matter has been expedited by this Court, therefore, he refused to entertain the application.

5. We have considered the submission and perused the record.

6. For ready reference, the provisions of Order VII Rule 11 and Section 23 of the Hindu Marriage Act are quoted as under:

Order VII Rule 11 CPC

“11. Rejection of plaint.- The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:—

(a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;

(b) where the relief claimed is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the court, fails to do so;

(c) where the relief claimed is properly valued, but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the court to supply the requisite stamp paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(d) where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law;

(e) where it is not filed in duplicate;

(f) where the plaintiff fails comply with the provision of Rule 9.

Provided that the time fixed by the court for the correction of the valuation or supplying of the requisite stamp papers shall not be extended unless the court, for reasons to be recorded, is satisfied that the plaintiff was prevented by any cause of an exceptional nature from correcting the valuation or supplying the requisite stamp papers, as the case may be within the time fixed by the court and that refusal to extend such time would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff.

Section 23 of the Hindu Marriage Act

23. Decree in proceedings.—(1)
In any proceeding under this Act, whether defended or not, if the court is satisfied that—

(a) any of the grounds for granting relief exists and the petitioner [except in cases where the relief is sought by him on the ground specified in sub-clause (a), sub-clause (b) or sub-clause (c) of clause (ii) of section 5] is not in any way taking advantage of his or her own wrong or disability for the purpose of such relief, and

(b) where the ground of the petition is the ground specified in clause (i) of sub-section (1) of section 13, the petitioner has not in any manner been accessory to or connived at or condoned the act or acts complained of, or where the ground of the petition is cruelty the petitioner has not in any manner condoned the cruelty, and has not been obtained by force, fraud or undue influence, and]

(c) [the petition (not being a petition presented under section 11)] is not presented or prosecuted in collusion with the respondent, and

(d) there has not been any unnecessary or improper delay in instituting the proceeding, and

(e) there is no other legal ground why relief should not be granted, then, and in such a case, but not otherwise, the court shall decree such relief accordingly.”

(Emphasis supplied)

7. For the purpose of consideration of the application on merits, paragraph 9 of the divorce petition is also quoted as under:

(ix) That after the Petitioner came across all vile and filthy chats exchanged between Respondent no. 1 and Respondent no. 2 and call logs of Respondent no.1 for the calls made on mobile number 9873877866 which belongs to Respondent no. 2, Respondent no. 1 confessed the same in front of Petitioner and his family members, that the conversation between the family members of the parties to the petition was recorded by the Petitioner on his mobile phone wherein Respondent no. 1 herself accepted her intimate relationship with Respondent no. 2, family of Respondent no. 1 further requested Petitioner to give a chance to Respondent no. 1 and forced the Petitioner to live with Respondent no.1 in the same house, for the sake of saving the married life and future of his son, Petitioner accepted the terms of family members of Respondent no. 1. (Copy of mobile recording is annexed herewith as Annexure-D (colly).

8. However, this Court is of the opinion that this paragraph cannot be read in isolation for the purpose of rejection of the plaint and entire contents of the plaint have to be looked into and therefore, paragraphs 10 to 17 are also quoted as under:

(x) That after the above mentioned family meeting, the Respondent no. 1 remained quiet for a couple of days, but to the surprise of Petitioner and his family the Respondent no.1 again started the same old activities, she again continued her arrogant and egoistic behavior along with continuous telephonic engagement and complete negligence towards her child and responsibilities.

xi) That, infact afterwards, it became further worse in addition to remain uncaring towards home and the child, she used to lock herself in a room for most of the time and she used to be continuously on phone. While being in the same room, the Respondent no. 1 used to cover her body and face with blanket, and remain busy on the phone beneath it. Further, Respondent no. 1 many a times threatened the Petitioner and his family members that she is going to file divorce petition along with multiple false complaints at various police stations.

xii) That on multiple occasions Respondent no. 1 clearly expressed her love to Co-Respondent i.e. Respondent no. 2 in open words through Facebook messages and WhatsApp messages (Photocopy of screenshot of intimate chats between Respondent no. 1 and Respondent no.2 is already annexed for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court).

xiii) That simultaneously the Respondent was in touch and in conversation with many other male friends also. Moreover the Respondent no.1 makes it obvious that the Respondent no.1 was in a habit of approaching her targets in suggestive manner to get into adulterous relation.

xiv) That the brazenness in action of the Respondent no. 1 comes to fore on repeated occasions. The Respondent dared to take Co-Respondent to hotel room leaving her son at home and splurged hard earned money of the Petitioner on her male friends. That at the time of this obnoxious act of Respondent no. 1 and Respondent no. 2, family of Petitioner use to take care of child who was born out of the wedlock.

xv) That further Petitioner got to know that the Respondent no.1 was in physical relationship with other multiple males and Respondent no.2. i.e. Amit Kumar having mobile number 9873877866.

xvi) That after confession of Respondent no.1 neither family members of Respondent no.1 tried to resolve this dispute between Petitioner and Respondent no.1, they never contacted Petitioner or his family member and only Petitioner or his elder brother used to contact the family member of Respondent no. 1. That further on December 14, 2019 as it was hard for the Petitioner to live in a harmonious cohabitation with the Respondent no.1 because of the vile and adulterous act performed by the Respondent no.1 with Respondent no. 2, it is pertinent to mention here that the Petitioner on the request of Respondent no. 1 dropped her at her

xvii) That from December 2019 to February 2020, after every proof Petitioner many times requested Respondent no. 1 and her family to meet at a common place to find a solution peacefully for this situation, and after a delay of more than a month, finally a meeting was set up for the same on 2nd February 2020 at Akshardham Mandir where Petitioner requested family of Respondent no. 1 to bring Viraj (son of Petitioner) along with them at the time of meeting, despite this clear message conveyed via father i.e. the Petitioner, Respondent no. 1 clearly refused the said request to bring the child along with her, which clearly reflects the irked behavior of the Respondent no. 1 towards the Petitioner and his family members, Moreover the Petitioner along with his family members went to the meeting point. Where, to utmost surprise for the Petitioner, family of Respondent no.1 started quarreling and blaming Petitioner for every shameful act of Respondent no.1, and started threatening the Petitioner to lodge a false case and complaints against the Petitioner and his family members. Respondent no. 1 also threatened the Petitioner that if he ever tries to get in between her relationship with Respondent no. 2, she will make sure that Petitioner will face dire consequences and if the Petitioner ever tries to get in touch with Viraj (son of petitioner) she along with Respondent no. 2 will cause serious harm to the Petitioner and his family members."

9. A bare reading of the aforesaid paragraphs clearly discloses the fact that a cause of action in the plaint is made out. As per paragraph 9, the family of the wife forced the husband-respondent to live with her in the same house for the sake of saving the married life and future of his son the respondent-husband accepted the terms of family members of the appellant-wife. In paragraph 10, it has been clearly alleged that after remaining quiet for a couple of days, the appellant-wife again started same activities. Paragraph 11 starts with the words "infact afterwards it became further worse" and other facts are narrated thereafter. Subsequent paragraphs also reflects the conduct of the wife subsequent to the initial condonation of his acts of alleged adultery. We also find that in paragraph 7, the details of check-in and check-out of hotel rooms on the same day, which were booked by the person with whom she was having relationship, have also been mentioned. Therefore, it cannot be said that no cause of action is disclosed in the divorce petition. Even otherwise, single condonation of any act or acts by itself, would not be sufficient to reject the plaint once there is allegation that subsequent to condonation of the such acts, the same were being repeated.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on the judgments of the Apex Court passed in Civil Appeal No. 8518 of 2002 (Saleem Bhai & Ors. Vs. State of Maharashtra & Ors.) and Civil Appeal No. 2224 of 1970 (Dr. N.G. Dastane Vs. Mrs. S. Dastane).

11. We find that such judgments are of no help to the appellant.

12. In para 8 of Saleem Bhai (supra), it has been observed that for Order VII Rule 11 CPC only averment in the plaint are relevant and the plea taken by the defendant in the written statement are wholly irrelevant at this stage. Dr. N.G.

Dastane (supra) is essentially on the issue of burden of proof in a case of cruelty. The appeal before Hon'ble Apex Court was challenging the final judgment of High Court passed in a second appeal on the ground that High Court has re-appreciated the evidence and came to erroneous approach and Order VII Rule 11 CPC was not in issue.

13. In our considered opinion even if there is condonation of an act, or even acts but subsequently the same are revived or repeated and there is specific statement regarding such repetition in other paragraphs of the plaint, by reading one paragraph in isolation, ignoring the other paragraphs, would not be covered by Section 23 (1) (b) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 to become a ground for rejection of plaint in Order VII Rule 11 (d) CPC as there can be no such condonation of act/acts, if the acts are being repeated. Even in common understanding, condonation of any act is conditional forgiveness that the act would not be repeated. This is not so in the present case. As the statement has been made in the plaint to the effect that such acts are being repeated.

14. It is also pertinent to note that the divorce petition has been filed not only on the ground of having voluntary sexual relationship with others by the wife but also on the ground of cruelty (Section 13 (1) (i) of the Act) as well. The other paragraphs of the plaint, therefore, cannot be ignored. The prayer clause of the divorce petition is quoted as under:

"1. Pass a decree of divorce by dissolving the marriage between the Petitioner and Respondent no.1, in favour of the Petitioner under Section 13(1)(i) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 as amended up to date;

2. Pass an order thereby directing the district forensic authority for the analysis of phones, Facebook accounts, messenger app, WhatsApp chats, of the Respondent no.1 and Respondent no.2;

3. Pass an order thereby directing OYO to provide check-in and check-out records of bookings made by Respondent no.2 on different occasions as mentioned above'

4. Pass an order thereby directing the Respondent no.1 to handover the custody of the child to father i.e. Petitioner;

5. Pass such an order and further orders as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the interest and furtherance of Justice."

15. From perusal of the order-sheet, it appears that the divorce petition is pending at the stage of cross-examination of DW-1 and the court below has also noted that there is also a direction for expeditious disposal issued by this Court is also operating in the aforesaid case.

16. The court below has used the words 'coupled with', it is, therefore, clear that the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC read with Section 23 (1) (b) of the Act has been rejected for this sole reason, is patently misconceived.

17. The court below is directed to proceed expeditiously as already directed by this Court accordingly. The Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send a copy of this order to the court concerned, as expeditiously as possible.

First Appeal Defective No. 366 of 2023

Smt. Monika Yadav ...Appellant
Versus
Aakash Singh & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri Rajesh Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:

Civil Law - Indian Succession act, 1925 - Sections 371, 372, 384 & 388(2) - Challenging rejection of application for grant of Succession Certificate - Jurisdiction of Court - Maintainability of appeal - As Civil Judge (Senior Division) which is a inferior court, exercises powers of District Judge under Part X of Succession Act, thus, the proviso to Section 388(2) would be attracted, and appeal from its order lies to District Judge, not to the High Court - Hence, appeal is permitted to be withdrawn with liberty as prayed. (Para 2, 3, 34, 35)

2. The present first appeal filed under Section 384(1) of the Succession act, 1925, is directed against the judgment and order dated 05.01.2023 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Bhadohi Gyanpur in Succession Case No. 81 of 2020 (Monika Yadav Vs. Akash and Others), whereby the Application (Paper 4Ga) preferred under Section 372 for obtaining the Succession Certificate, has been rejected.

3. A question has arisen with regard to the maintainability of the appeal in view of the provisions contained in Section 388(2) of the Succession Act, 1925.

4. Counsel for the appellant has drawn the attention of the Court to Section 384(1) of the Act to contend that an order passed by the District Judge granting, refusing or revoking the certificate under Part X, which relates to Succession Certificate, would be amenable to an appeal before the High Court. It is contended that the Civil Judge (Senior Division) while passing the order on the application seeking Succession Certificate, was acting as a

Appeal disposed of. (E-13)

2. St. Aubyn (L.M.) Vs Attorney General (No. 2), (1951) 2 All ER 473; 1952 AC 15 (HL)

District Judge and accordingly the appeal would lie before the High Court.

5. In order to appreciate the controversy at hand, the provisions relating to grant of Succession Certificates under Part X of the Succession Act, would be required to be adverted.

6. The jurisdiction to grant a Succession Certificate and the manner of making an application for the purpose, are provided under Sections 371 and 372 of the Act, respectively, which are as follows:-

"371. Court having jurisdiction to grant certificate.--The District Judge within whose jurisdiction the deceased ordinarily resided at the time of his death, or, if at that time he had no fixed place of residence, the District Judge, within whose jurisdiction any part of the property of the deceased may be found, may grant a certificate under this Part.

372. Application for certificate.--(1) Application for such a certificate shall be made to the District Judge by a petition signed and verified by or on behalf of the applicant in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the signing and verification of a plaint by or on behalf of a plaintiff, and setting forth the following particulars, namely:--

(a) the time of the death of the deceased;

(b) the ordinary residence of the deceased at the time of his death and, if such residence was not within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Judge to whom the application is made, then the property of the deceased within those limits;

(c) the family or other near relatives of the deceased and their respective residences;

(d) the right in which the petitioner claims;

(e) the absence of any impediment under Section 370 or under any other provision of this Act or any other enactment, to the grant of the certificate or to the validity thereof if it were granted; and

(f) the debts and securities in respect of which the certificate is applied for.

(2) If the petition contains any averment which the person verifying it knows or believes to be false, or does not believe to be true, that person shall be deemed to have committed an offence under Section 198 of the Indian Penal Code.

(3) Application for such a certificate may be made in respect of any debt or debts due to the deceased creditor or in respect of portions thereof."

7. The provision relating to an appeal against an order granting, refusing or revoking a certificate under Part X, is provided under Section 384, which is being reproduced below:-

"384. Appeal.—(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Part, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from an order of a District Judge granting, refusing or revoking a certificate under this Part, and the High Court may, if it thinks fit, by its order on the appeal, declare the person to whom the certificate should be granted and direct the District judge, on application being made therefor, to grant it accordingly, in supersession of the certificate, if any, already granted.

(2) An appeal under sub-section (1) must be preferred within the time allowed for an appeal under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

(3) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1) and to the provisions as to reference to and revision by the High Court and as to review of judgment of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as applied by section 141 of that Code, an order of a District Judge under this Part shall be final."

8. It would also be appropriate to take notice of the provisions contained in Section 388, on the basis of which a question has arisen with regard to maintainability of the appeal.

9. Section 388 of the Act reads as follows:-

"388. Investiture of inferior Courts with jurisdiction of District Court for purpose of this Act.—(1) The State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, invest any Court inferior in grade to a District Judge with power to exercise the functions of a District Judge under this Part.

(2) Any inferior Court so invested shall, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Judge in the exercise of all the powers conferred by this Part upon the District Judge, and the provisions of this Part relating to the District Judge shall apply to such an inferior Court as if it were a District Judge:

Provided that an appeal from any such order of an inferior Court as is mentioned in sub-section (1) of Section 384 shall lie to the District Judge, and not to the High Court, and that the District Judge may, if he thinks fit, by his order on the appeal, make any such declaration and direction as that sub-section authorises the High Court to make by its order on an appeal from an order of a District Judge.

(3) An order of a District Judge on an appeal from an order of an inferior Court under the last foregoing sub-section shall, subject to the provisions as to reference to and revision by the High Court and as to review of judgment of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as applied by section 141 of that Code, be final.

(4) The District Judge may withdraw any proceedings under this Part from an inferior Court, and may either dispose of them or transfer them to another such Court established within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the District Judge and having authority to dispose of the proceedings.

(5) A notification under sub-section (1) may specify any inferior Court specially or any class of such Courts in any local area.

(6) Any Civil Court which for any of the purposes of any enactment is subordinate to, or subject to the control of, a District Judge shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be a Court inferior in grade to a District Judge."

10. A plain reading of Section 388 would indicate that it provides for investiture of inferior courts with jurisdiction of District Court for purposes of the Act. Sub-section (1) provides that the State Government may invest any Court inferior in grade to a District Judge with power to exercise the functions of a District Judge under this Part.

11. The State Government, in exercise of powers under sub-section (1) of Section 388 of the Act, issued a notification investing all Civil Judges in the State with power to exercise the functions of the District Judge under Part X of the Act.

12. The aforesaid Notification published in the U.P. Gazette, dated March 19, 1955, reads as follows:-

Judicial Deptt. no. 4516(i)/VII-900(8)-53, dated March 11, 1955] 33 [Published in the U.P. Gazette, dated March 19, 1955, Part I, p. 341:

"In supersession of all previous notifications on the subject, and in exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (1) of Section 388 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 (Act XXXIX of 1925), the Governor of Uttar Pradesh is pleased to invest all Civil Judges in the State with power to exercise the functions of a District Judge under Part X of the said Act, within the local limits of their respective jurisdiction as Civil Judges."

13. Section 371 under Part X of the Succession Act, confers jurisdiction upon the District Judge for grant of a Succession Certificate, and against an order of the District Judge granting, refusing or revoking a certificate under Part X, a forum for an appeal before the High Court is provided under Section 384.

14. Section 388 of the Act provides for investiture of inferior courts with jurisdiction of District Court for the purposes of the Act, and in terms thereof the State Government may, by notification in the official gazette invest any court inferior in grade to a District Judge with power to exercise the functions of a District Judge under Part X.

15. The phrase 'as if it were' used in sub-section (2) of Section 388 is of considerable significance. It is a deeming provision and creates a legal fiction.

16. The legal fiction created by a deeming clause has been subject matter of consideration in a number of judicial precedents. In an oft-quoted passage from East End Dwellings Co. Ltd. v. Finsbury Borough Council², Lord Asquith stated:-

"If you are bidden to treat an imaginary state of affairs as real you must surely, unless prohibited from doing so, also imagine as real the consequence and incidents which, if the putative state of affairs had, in fact, existed must inevitably have flowed from or accompanied it. ... The statute states that you must imagine a certain state of affairs, it does not say that having done so, you must cause or permit your imagination to boggle when it comes to the inevitable corollaries of that state of affairs."

17 . Lord Radcliffe in St. Aubyn (L.M.) v. Attorney-General (No. 2)³, observed as follows:-

"The word 'deemed' is used a great deal in modern legislation. Sometimes it is used to impose for the purposes of a statute an artificial construction of a word or phrase that would not otherwise prevail. Sometimes it is used to put beyond doubt a particular construction that might otherwise be uncertain. Sometimes it is used to give a comprehensive description that includes what is obvious, what is uncertain and what is, in the ordinary sense, impossible."

18. The use of the word "deemed" in statutory definitions was explained by Windener, J., in Hunter Douglas Australia Pty. v. Perma Blinds⁴, by stating:-

"Deemed", as used in statutory definitions "to extend the denotation of the defined term to things it would not in ordinary parlance denote, is often a convenient device for reducing the verbiage of an enactment, but that does not mean that wherever it is used it has that effect; to deem means simply to judge or reach a conclusion about something, and the words 'deem' and 'deemed' when used in a statute thus simply state the effect or meaning which some matter or thing has -- the way in which it is to be adjudged; this need not import artificiality or fiction; it may simply be the statement of an undisputable conclusion."

19. Cave, J. in R. v. Norfolk County Court⁵, has explained the term "deemed" in the following manner:-

"When a thing is to be 'deemed' something else, it is to be treated as that something else with the attendant consequences, but it is not that something else"

20. The use of the word "deemed" in a definition clause has been explained by Lord President Cooper in Ferguson v. Mcmillan⁶, by stating:-

"When a statute gives a definition and then adds that certain things shall be "deemed' to be covered by the definition, it matters not whether without that addition the definition would have covered them or not."

21. Having regard to the forgoing discussion, the use of the deeming clause under sub-section (2) of Section 388 would mean that any inferior Court invested with power to exercise the functions of a District Judge under Part X shall, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Judge in exercise of all the powers conferred upon the District Judge, and the provisions of Part X relating to the District Judge shall apply to such an inferior Court as if it were a District Judge.

22. The proviso to sub section (2) of Section 388, states in explicit terms that an appeal from such order from inferior court as mentioned in sub section (1) of Section 384, shall lie to the District Judge, and not to the High Court.

23. In Craies on Statute of Law⁷, referring to the rules regarding construction of a proviso, it has been observed as follows:-

"9.1. The effect of an excepting or qualifying proviso, according to the ordinary rules of construction, is to except out of the preceding portion of the enactment, or to qualify something enacted therein, which but for the proviso would be within it; and such a proviso cannot be construed as enlarging the scope of an enactment when it can be fairly and properly construed without attributing to it that effect."

24. Again, as has been pointed out by Craies in the treatise on Statute Law:-

"The effect of an excepting or qualifying proviso, according to the ordinary rules of construction, is to except out the preceding portion of the enactment, or to qualify something enacted therein, which but for the proviso would be within it."

25. Odgers in Construction of Deeds and Statutes⁸, while referring to the scope of a proviso, mentioned the following ingredients:-

"p. 317. Provisos--These are clauses of exception or qualification in an Act, excepting something out of, or qualifying something in, the enactment which, but for the proviso, would be within it.

p. 318. Though framed as a proviso, such a clause may exceptionally have the effect of a substantive enactment."

26. It was stated in Mullins v. Treasurer of Surrey⁹ that when one finds a proviso to a section the natural presumption is that but for the proviso the enacting part of the section would have included the subject-matter of the proviso.

27. In "The Construction and Interpretation of Law" by Henry Campbell Black¹⁰, while considering the manner of construction of provisos it has been stated that the natural and appropriate effect of a proviso to a statute, or to a section thereof, is to restrain or qualify the provisions immediately preceding it.

28. It is therefore seen that the function of a proviso is to except and to deal with a case which would otherwise fall within the general language of the main enactment and its effect is confined to that case. It is a qualification of the preceding enactment which is expressed in terms too general to be quite accurate. As a general rule, a proviso is added to an enactment to qualify or create an exception to what is in the enactment and ordinarily, a proviso is not interpreted as stating a general rule.

29. The use of a proviso after sub-section (2) of Section 388 of the Act has the effect of qualifying or creating an exception by providing that an appeal or any order of an inferior court, as is mentioned in sub-section (1) of Section 384, shall lie to the District Judge.

30. The legislative intent in providing for an appeal before a District Judge in case of an order passed by an inferior court upon investiture of jurisdiction under sub-section (1) of Section 388, is also clear from the emphasis in the language of the proviso where it states 'and not to the High Court'.

31. A controversy of a similar nature had arisen in the case of Prem Chand Vs. Sunil Kumar and Others¹¹, wherein a Division Bench of this Court, upon noticing that Section 384, which deals with the forum where the appeal arising out of an order passed under Part X of the Succession Act, granting, refusing or revoking a certificate would lie, is prefaced with the words 'subject to other provisions of this part'. This phraseology used in the section, was interpreted to mean that though in ordinary circumstances an appeal against an order passed in proceedings under Chapter X would lie to the High Court, but this would be subject to the condition that there is no other provision contrary to this or which may provide otherwise.

32. It was noticed that Section 388 lays down somewhat a different provision and in its terms where powers of a District Judge are conferred upon an inferior court by a notification of the State Government, such court shall exercise the powers of the District Judge so far as Part X of the Act is concerned, and in such a case an appeal instead of being filed before the High Court would lie before the District Judge.

33. Section 388 thus creates a special jurisdiction on a Court subordinate to the District Judge through investiture of power. Once such power is invested to a Court inferior to the District Judge, under sub-section (1), in that event by virtue of the deeming clause under sub-section (2), such Court would discharge the function of the District Judge by reason of such investiture, and have concurrent jurisdiction in exercise of all the powers conferred by Part X upon the District Judge. The proviso to sub-section (2) creates an exception by providing that an appeal from any order of an inferior court falling within the scope of Section 384 would in such circumstance, lie to the District Judge and 'not to the High Court'.

34. In the case at hand, the order having been passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division) having been invested with the power to exercise the function of a District Judge under Part X, the proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 388 would be attracted and an appeal from the order passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), which is the inferior Court, would lie to the District Judge, and not to the High Court.

35. The appeal, which has been preferred, would therefore not lie before the High Court.

36. Counsel for the appellant, at this stage, submits that he may be permitted to withdraw the appeal with liberty to approach the appropriate forum i.e. the District Judge concerned.

37. The appeal is accordingly permitted to be withdrawn with the liberty as prayed.

38. Office to return the certified copies of the orders to the counsel for the appellant after retaining photo copies of the same.

THE HON'BLE RAJNISH KUMAR, J.

Second Appeal No. 425 of 2014

Sri Thakur Sanatan Ram Yugal Sarkar
Virajman Mandir Faizabad ...Appellant
Versus
Kusam Dasi Chelin Sri Lalita Das
...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
 Sri R.D. Shahi

Counsel for the Respondents:
 Sri Prem Shanker Shukla

Civil Law - Indian Succession Act, 1925 - Section 63 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Sections 69, 70 - Against dismissal of suit for declaration of title and possession - Counsel for plaintiff-appellants submitted that suit for permanent injunction was based on registered Will deed dated 26.09.1969 executed by Ram Rati Dasi in favour of Janki Dasi, which stood duly proved u/s 69 and 70 of Indian Evidence Act, execution being admitted by D.W.1

and D.W.2 - During pendency of suit, the suit was amended to include reliefs for declaration, possession and eviction - Trial Court, considering proved Will, decreed suit, however, Appellate Court, without proper appreciation of evidence, erroneously set aside decree - It was further submitted that respondents claiming rights on basis of unregistered Will dated 28.06.1978, executed after death of Ram Rati Dasi on 28.08.1976 - Held, it is evident that D.W.1 and D.W.2 did not admit execution of Will dated 26.09.1969, rather, D.W.1 St.d that impostor lady had executed Will - Hence, execution of Will cannot be treated as admitted by defendants u/s 70 of Indian Evidence Act - On contrary, St.ment of D.W.1 heightened doubt regarding its execution, which was required to be clarified and removed by plaintiff-appellants in terms of Section 63 of Succession Act, which they failed to do - Considering overall facts and circumstances, Court finds that First Appellate Court rightly set aside Trial Court's decree and dismissed suit - Thus, second appeal, being devoid of merit, accordingly dismissed. (Para 2, 4, 29, 39)

Appeal dismissed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri R.D. Shahi, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Prem Shankar Shukla, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. This second appeal has been filed assailing the judgment and order dated 09.10.2014 passed in Civil Appeal No.158 of 2014; Kusum Dasi Vs. Awadhesh Das and Another by Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Faizabad, by means of which the appeal has been allowed and the judgment and decree dated 30.05.2014 passed in Regular Suit No.192 of 1978; Sri Thakur Sanatan Ram Yugal Sarkar Virajman Mandir Maibara and Another Vs. Lalita Dasi by Civil Judge (Senior Division), Faizabad has been set aside and the suit of the plaintiff-appellants for declaration and possession has been dismissed.

3. This second appeal was admitted on the following substantial questions of law:-

"1. Whether the learned first appellate court erred in law in observing that the will deed dated 26.09.1969 was not proved despite the execution of the same being duly admitted by D.W.1 and D.W.2 making the will deed admissible under Section 70 of the Indian Evidence Act?

2. Whether the learned courts below erred in law in placing burden of proof upon the appellants though as per the law of the land when both the parties have led the evidence, the burden of proof looses its significance?"

4. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellants submitted that the appellant had filed suit for permanent injunction on the basis of registered will deed dated 26.09.1969 executed by Ram Rati Dasi in favour of Janki Dasi. During pendency of the suit, the suit was amended and the prayer for declaration and possession. and eviction of defendant-respondent was made. The will deed dated 26.09.1969 was duly proved and execution of the same was also admitted by the D.W.1 and D.W.2, therefore the same was proved as per Section 69 and 70 of the Indian Evidence Act and considering the same, suit of the appellant-plaintiff was decreed by the Trial Court, but the Appellate Court without considering the same allowed the appeal and set-aside the judgment and decree passed by the Trial Court which could not have been done. He further submitted that the respondents were claiming rights on the basis of an unregistered will dated 28.06.1978 executed by Ram Rati Dasi, whereas she had died on 28.08.1976. Thus, the submission is that the judgment and order passed by the Appellate Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be set-aside. He relied on Sampath Kumar Vs. Ayyakannu and Another; (2002) 7 SCC 559, Babu Singh and Others Vs. Ram Sahai alias Ram Singh; (2008) 14 SCC 754 & M.B. Ramesh (D) by LR. V.

K.M. Veeraje Urs (D) by LR. and Others; AIR 2013 SC 2088.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent-defendant submitted that it is not in dispute that the Ram Rati Dasi was the founder of the temple namely Sri. Thakur Sanatan Ram Yugal Sarkar Virajman Mandir Maibara and that she had died on 28.08.1976. However he submits that the suit for permanent injunction was filed on the basis of falls and concocted cause of action by an impostor lady namely Janki Dasi on the behest of Lal Das. He further submitted that the Lal Das, who was a hooligan of Ayodhya and trying to capture the temple in question, had also got executed a document from Janki Dasi appointing him as Sarvarakar. However, when he could not succeed in his illegal design to capture the temple, the suit was amended admitting the possession of the respondent-defendant and the prayer for declaration and possession was added.

6. He further submitted that since the will deed dated 26.09.1969 was the basis of the suit filed by the appellant-plaintiffs, therefore the same was required to be proved as per Section 90A which was added by the U.P. Amendment and the presumption provided under Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act is not available. He further submitted that the will was required to be proved in accordance with Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Sections 68 and 69 of the Indian Evidence Act, as it is not admitted by the respondent-defendant. The burden of proving the will was on the plaintiff-appellants as they were claiming the rights on the basis of the said will. He further submitted that the suit for permanent injunction was filed without disclosing or filing any proof of possession, whereas the respondent-defendant was and is in possession of the temple in dispute and the proof of title and possession such as mutation, tax receipts, invitations etc. were filed by the respondent-defendant, but without considering the same, the suit was allowed, therefore the appeal has rightly been allowed in accordance with law and the suit of the plaintiff-appellants has been dismissed. Thus this second appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds and no substantial question of law arises in this appeal, therefore the appeal is liable to be dismissed with cost. He relied on Sebastiao Luis Fernandes (Dead) and Others Vs. K.V.P. Shastri (Dead) and Others; 2014 (32) LCD 1452, Gurunath Manohar Pavaskar and Others Vs. Nagesh Siddappa Navalgund and Others; 2008 (26) LCD 225, Union of India and Others Vs. Vasavi Co-operative Housing Society Ltd. and Others; 2014 (32) LCD 277, Smt. Jaswant Kaur Vs. Smt. Amrit Kaur and Others; AIR 1977 SC 74 & Bharpur Singh and Others Vs. Shamsher Singh; AIR 2009 SC 1766.

7. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. The temple in dispute namely Sri. Thakur Sanatan Ram Yugal Sarkar was constructed and established by late Ram Rati Dasi. During her life time, she used to offer prayers etc. She died on 28.08.1976. A suit for permanent injunction was filed by the appellant-plaintiff no.1 and Mahant Smt. Janki Dasi, claiming the right and possession on the temple as Sarvarakar as plaintiff no.2 on the basis of will deed dated 26.09.1969 executed by Ram Rati Dasi. The suit was filed alleging an incident of 19.08.1978 without lodging any FIR etc. During pendency of the suit, the plaintiff no.2 Janki Dasi through a registered document executed on 02.03.1979 appointed Mahant Lal Das as Sarvarakar and alleged to have handed him over the possession and charge of the temple. Mahant Lal Das was murdered on 16.11.1993. However before his murder, he had executed a will dated 14.11.1993 in favour of the appellant-plaintiff no.2 Mahant Awadhesh Das. Accordingly he is claiming himself to be the legal heir and Sarvarakar of the temple.

9. The written statement and additional written statement was filed denying the averments made in the plaint and stating in the additional statement that after Mahant Ram Rati Dasi, Lalita Dasi was the Mahant. Smt. Ram Rati Dasi had got a lease of the land, on which the temple is situated, which was constructed and established by her. After death of Ram Rati Dasi, Lalita Dasi had got her cremation etc. done and in presence of reputed saints, Mahants and others of Ayodhya she was made the Mahant of the temple in dispute and a Mehzarnama was also signed by them to this effect. It was also stated that a will dated 28.06.1976 was executed by Ram Rati Dasi, which could not be registered and it was informed by her only and after her death Lalita Dasi is in charge of the temple. It was also alleged that a gang of Ayodhya and Lal Das, who claims himself to be the Naga of Hanumangarhi, Ayodhya used to threaten the defendants to vacate the temple. It was also alleged that Lal Das was basically a family man who has been ousted from Hanumangarhi. It was also alleged that he is disciple of Ramesh Tyagi and residing in Kurmi Mandir, Pramod Van, Ayodhya and with his collusion the suit has been filed by an impostor lady Janki Dasi, who resides at Bodhayan Asharam, Mohalla- Janki Ghat. She has no concern with temple situated at Maibara. A plea was also taken that no man can reside or come to the temple in question, however it could not be proved. Certain documents relating to the mutation in Nagar Palika, old house number, ration card, correspondence etc. were filed. It was also alleged that the alleged registered will deed had been got executed through some impostor lady. During pendency of suit, it was amended and prayer for declaration, possession and eviction of respondent was made. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, eighteen issues were framed. Thereafter the evidence was adduced by the parties.

10. The Trial Court allowed the suit. The civil appeal was filed by the respondent-defendant before the District Judge, Faizabad now Ayodhya which has been allowed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Faizabad now Ayodhya. The First Appellate Court framed two points of determination in appeal. The first was as to whether Ram Rati Dasi has executed any will deed dated 26.09.1969 in favour of Janki Dasi, which has been proved by the plaintiffs in accordance with law. The second as to whether any man could have been Sarvarakar of the place/ temple according to the custom, if yes, what would be its effect on merit of appeal. In regard to the first point of determination, the first Appellate Court found that the Court has to examine basically two issues in regard to proof of the will. The first is as to whether the alleged will has been got proved in accordance with law under the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act and Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. The second is as to whether the alleged will is beyond any doubt and as to whether, the doubt which has been raised has been clearly explained by the appellant-plaintiff. The Appellate Court has further recorded that the said two issues are required to be proved by the plaintiffs beyond doubt. The appellate court, after considering the pleadings of the parties and evidence adduced before the trial court and affording opportunity of hearing to the parties allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment and decree passed by the trial court and dismissed the suit of the plaintiff-appellants.

11. In view of above and the substantial questions of law framed in this appeal, the issue to be considered in this second appeal is as to whether the alleged will deed has been proved in accordance with law under the relevant provisions of Indian Evidence Act and Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act or not and the doubts raised by the defendant-respondent have been clarified and removed by the plaintiff-appellants or not or as to whether the execution of Will has been admitted by the defendant-respondent, which may be sufficient proof of its execution as against her.

12. Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 provides the manner, in which a will shall be executed, which is extracted here-in-below:-

"63. Execution of unprivileged wills.—Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:—

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

13. Sections 68 to 71 of the Indian Evidence Act provides as to how a will is required to be proved, which are extracted here-in-below:-

"68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.—
If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence:

[Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied.]

69. Proof where no attesting witness found.—If no such attesting witness can be found, or if the document purports to have been executed in the United Kingdom, it must be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at least is in his handwriting, and that the signature of the person executing the document is in the hand writing of that person.

70. Admission of execution by party to attested document.—The admission of a party to an attested document of its execution by himself shall be sufficient proof of its execution as against him, though it be a document required by law to be attested.

71. Proof when attesting witness denies the execution.—If the attesting witness denies or does not recollect the execution of the document, its execution may be proved by other evidence."

14. The aforesaid section 68 provides that if a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if he is alive and capable of giving evidence. Section 69 provides that if no such attesting witness can be found, it must be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at least is in his handwriting and that the signature of the person executing the document is in the hand writing of that person. In case of admission of a party to an attested document of its execution, it shall be sufficient proof of its execution against him as per section 70. In case the attesting witness denies or does not recollect the execution of the document, its execution may be proved by other evidence as per section 71.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Bharpur Singh and Others Vs. Shamsheer Singh (Supra), has held that a will must be proved having regard to the provisions contained in clause (c) of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 and in a case where the Will is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, it would not be treated as the last testamentary disposition of the testator. The relevant paragraph 11 is extracted here-in-below:-

"11. The legal principles in regard to proof of a will are no longer res integra. A will must be proved having regard to the provisions contained in clause (c) of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, in terms whereof the propounder of a will must prove its execution by examining one or more attesting witnesses. Where, however, the validity of the Will is challenged on the ground of fraud, coercion or undue influence, the burden of proof would be on the caveator. In a case where the Will is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, it would not be treated as the last testamentary disposition of the testator."

16. A three judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Smt. Jaswant Kaur Vs. Smt. Amrit Kaur and Others (Supra), while considering the relevant provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and 68 of the Evidence Act held as under in paragraphs-9 and 10. award

"9. In cases where the execution of a will is shrouded in suspicion, its proof ceases to be a simple lis between the plaintiff and the defendant. What, generally, is an adversary proceeding becomes in such cases a matter of the court's conscience and then the true question which arises for consideration is whether the evidence led by the propounder of the will is such as to satisfy the conscience of the court that the will was duly executed by the testator. It is impossible to reach such satisfaction unless the party which sets up the will offers a 'cogent and convincing explanation of the suspicious circumstances surrounding the making of the will.

10. There is a long line of decisions bearing on the nature and standard of evidence required to prove a will. Those decisions have been reviewed in an elaborate judgment of this Court in R. Venkatachala Iyengar v. B.N. Thirumajamma & Others. (1) The Court, speaking through Gajendragadkar J., laid down in that case the following positions :-

1. Stated generally, a will has to be proved like any other document, the test to be applied being the usual test of the satisfaction of the prudent mind in such matters. As in the case of proof of other documents, so in the case of proof of wills, one cannot insist on proof with mathematical certainty.

2. Since section 63 of the Succession Act requires a will to be attested, it cannot be used as evidence until, as required by section 63 of the Evidence Act, one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving *its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive and subject to the process of the court and capable of giving evidence.*³ Unlike other documents, the will speaks from the death of the testator and therefore the maker of the will is never available for deposing as to the circumstances in which the will came to be executed. This aspect introduces an element of solemnity in the decision of the question whether the document propounded is proved to be the last will and testament of the testator. Normally, the onus which lies on the propounder can be taken to be discharged on proof of the essential facts which go into the making of the will.

4. Cases in which the execution of the will is surrounded by suspicious circumstances stand on a different footing. A shaky signature, a feeble mind, an unfair and unjust disposition of property, the propounder himself taking a leading part in the making of the will under which he receives a substantial benefit and such other circumstances raise suspicion about the execution of the will. That suspicion cannot be removed by the mere assertion of the propounder that the will bears the signature of the testator or that the testator was in a sound and disposing state of mind and memory at the time when the will was made, or that those like the wife and children of the testator who would normally receive their due share in his estate were disinherited because the testator might have had his own reasons for excluding them. The presence of suspicious circumstances makes the initial onus heavier and therefore, in cases where the circumstances attendant upon the execution of the will excite the suspicion of the court, the propounder must remove all legitimate suspicions before the document can be accepted as the last will of the testator.

5. It is in connection with wills, the execution of which is surrounded by suspicious circumstance that the test of satisfaction of the judicial conscience has been evolved. That test emphasises that in determining the question as to whether an instrument produced before the court is the last will of the testator, the court is called upon to decide a solemn question and by reason of suspicious circumstances the court has to be satisfied fully that the will has been validly executed by the testator.

6. If a caveator alleges fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. in regard to the execution of the will, such pleas have to be proved by him, but even in the absence of such pleas, the very circumstances surrounding the execution of the will may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was acting of his own free will. And then it is a part of the initial onus of the propounder to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter."

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case Babu Singh and Others Vs. Ram Sahai alias Ram Singh (Supra), has held that in a case where the attesting witness is either dead or out of the jurisdiction of the court or kept out of the way by the adverse party or cannot be traced despite diligent search, only in that event, the Will may be proved in the manner indicated in Section 69, i.e., by examining witnesses who were able to prove the handwriting of the testator or executant and then the burden of proof may be shifted to others. However, a Will ordinarily must be proved keeping in view the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Section 68 of the Evidence Act, in the event the ingredients thereof, as noticed here-in-before, are brought on record, strict proof of execution and attestation stands relaxed. However, signature and handwriting, as contemplated in Section 69, must be proved.

18. In a recent judgment of Meena Pradhan and Others Vs. Kamla Pradhan and Another; (2023) 9 SCC 734, the Hon'ble Supreme Court relying on several previous judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court deduced the principles required for proving the validity and execution of a Will in terms of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has also held that one who alleges fraud, fabrication, undue influence etc. has to prove the same. However, even in the absence of such allegations, if there are circumstances giving rise to doubt, then it becomes the duty of the propounder to dispel such suspicious circumstances by giving a cogent and convincing explanation.

19. In view of above, a will is required to be proved by propounder of the Will in accordance with Section 63 of Indian Succession Act 1925 and the aforesaid provisions made in the Indian Evidence Act 1872 and in case of suspicious circumstances giving rise to doubt about the execution of the Will by the executor for one or the other reason, the same is required to be dispel by the propounder by giving cogent and convincing explanation.

20. Adverting to the facts of the present case, the attesting witnesses were not available, therefore the plaintiff-appellants have adduced the oral evidence of Bina Tripathi as PW-2 to prove the will in accordance with section 69 of the Indian Evidence Act. She stated in her examination-in-chief that she knows very well to Ram Rati Dasi and her disciple Smt.

Janki Dasi, who used to live in the temple in question together. Both have died. Ram Rati Dasi had executed a will in favour of Sanatan Ram Bhagwan in the year 1969 and by the same will appointed her disciple Janki Dasi as her legal heir and Sarvarakar. She also stated that the said will deed was written by Ram Rati Dasi with her free will when she was present with Ram Rati Dasi. The will was written by Naval Kishore Lal and the witnesses were Bhagat Das and Parag Das. She had put her signatures on the will after hearing and understanding the same before her and both the witnesses have also signed. PW-2 also stated that she was not the attesting witness of the will but since the will was prepared before her, therefore she recognizes the document.

21. The first Appellate Court found that this witness has not proved the will in her examination-in-chief as per law because she has failed to state that Ram Rati Dasi had put her thumb impression after reading or hearing and understanding. She has also failed to disclose the order of putting thumb impression by Ram Rati Dasi and the witnesses. The appellate court further recorded that PW-2 in her cross-examination stated that she knows the Maibara temple because she is going there for the last 25-26 years. Kurmi temple is half kilometer away from her house and now she does not go to Kurmi temple. Janki Dasi was lower in age to her but she was her friend, however she does not know as to which original place she belongs. Janki Dasi was disciple of Ram Rati, who had taken Mantra before her about 26 years back. Ram Rati Dasi was of 70 years of age at that time. Thereafter she stated that she was not present at the time of Mantra, however she had heard that she had become disciple of Ram Rati Dasi in the year 1967, again said in 1977 and she died in Maibara temple. She had gone in her 13th day ceremony, for which the cards were distributed. The first Appellate Court found that she does not know sufficiently about Janki Dasi and Ram Rati Dasi. The statement of this witness was recorded on 03.03.2014 and at that time she had stated that her age is 65 years, therefore she was born in 1949 and as per her statement regarding her connection with Maibara temple and Ram Rati Dasi, she had come in contact with Janki Dasi in the year 1976, whereas the will deed was executed on 26.09.1969, therefore she was not in contact with Janki Dasi and Ram Rati Dasi at that time, therefore the question of his presence with Ram Rati Dasi and the attesting witnesses at the time of alleged execution of will deed dated 26.09.1969 does not arrive.

22. The First Appellate Court has further recorded that PW-2 has stated in his evidence that Janki Dasi had taken Mantra from Ram Rati Dasi 24 years back when she became the disciple of Ram Rati Dasi, therefore she would have taken Mantra in the year 1990 as per her statement, whereas she was not alive at that time because she had died in the year 1967 as stated by her even by his subsequent statement of Ram Rati Dasi had died in the year 1977, though it is not correct, thus her evidence is doubtful. The first Appellate Court also found that this witness has stated in her further cross-examination that Ram Rati Dasi had died at the age of 100 years and even if she had died in the year 1977, the evidence of the said witness is not believable because as per her own statement, when she had seen Ram Rati Dasi, she was 70 years of age and she would have been 70 years of age in the year 1947, whereas the witness was born in 1949, therefore it is apparent that this witness had no information in regard to Ram Rati Dasi and Janki Dasi. He also could not give the length and breadth of the temple and its boundaries. She also does not know the measurement of the statues of Ram, Laxman, Sita and Hanuman and the material of which they are made. She further stated that Maibara is in Ramghat but she does not know any other temple in Ramghat and she does not go there. She further stated in her cross-examination that the will was written in eastern side of court but she does not know the name of the writer. She further stated that she had singed on the said will deed but does not know as to how many places she had signed. She also does not know as to whether thumb impression was taken or not and who was the other witness in the will deed. Her signatures or thumb impression are not on the Will. She also does not know as to who had written the will. She also stated that she does not know Kusum Dasi, who is present in the court. Janki Dasi had died in the year 1969 in Maibara and she had not gone in the 13th day ceremony.

23. In view of above, if Janki Dasi had died in the year 1969 and Ram Rati Dasi in the year 1977 then the question of execution of the will in favour of Janki Dasi does not arise because as per her subsequent statement she died in the year 1977, therefore the first Appellate Court found that the evidence of PW-2 is completely doubtful and his statement is not believable and she has failed to prove the execution of the alleged will in accordance with law.

24. The first Appellate Court also found that the evidence of PW-3 Satya Deo Tiwari is also not believable and sufficient to prove the will of 1969 because he had disclosed his name Satya Deo Tiwari in the examination-in-chief, whereas in the cross-examination he told his name as Satya Deo Tripathi. His signatures are also different and they also do not seem to be of one and the same person. This witness has recorded his father's name as Girja Shanker Tiwari in the affidavit of examination-in-chief, whereas in the cross-examination he has told his name Girja Shanker Tripathi. He has stated in his evidence that Ram Rati Dasi had executed the will in her lifetime in the year 1969 in favour of Sanatan Ram Bhagwan and by the same will appointed her disciple Janki Dasi as her successor and Sarvarakar and it was told to him by Janki Dasi and the said document was also shown to him. He also tried to prove the document of Sarvarakari written by Janki Dasi in favour of Ram Das.

25. The first Appellate Court found that PW-2 and PW-3 both have not disclosed the date, month and year of execution of the will deed and nothing stated in this regard except that the will deed was written in 1969. PW-3 has given his evidence on the basis of information given by Janki Dasi in regard to the will deed. He has also not proved the signatures of the attesting witnesses and he was not present at the time of execution of the will deed. The first Appellate Court has also recorded that at the time of giving evidence on 07.03.2014, PW-3 has stated his age about 58 years, therefore he must have been borne in the year 1956 and 13 years of age in the year 1969, therefore he is incompetent to prove the will of 1969. The first Appellate Court also found that as per statement of PW-3, he had not seen Ram Rati Dasi and he had gone to Maibara temple for the first time 40 years back, when Janki Dasi had met her, who used to come to his house and at that time he was 18/19 years of age, therefore he is not competent to prove the thumb impression of Ram Rati Dasi and signatures of the attesting witnesses. Thus the PW-2 and PW-3 have failed to prove the Will.

26. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the aforesaid findings recorded by the first appellate court, which have been recorded on the basis of pleadings, evidence adduced before the trial court and material on record, which are in conformity with them.

27. Now the question arises as to whether even if the plaintiff-appellants have failed to prove the execution of will deed in accordance with law, as to whether the DW-1 and DW-2 have admitted execution of the will and the same can be said to be sufficient proof of execution of will against the defendant-respondent under Section 70 of the Indian Evidence Act

28. Perusal of the oral evidence adduced by DW-1 and DW-2 indicates that DW-1 has stated in his examination-in-chief that Janki Dasi had never lived in the concerned temple and she was not a disciple of Ram Rati Dasi. She has further stated that as per written statement Lal Das, Mahipath Pandey, Lallu Pandey and a forged lady namely Meera had got prepared the will in the name of Ram Rati Dasi and got registered which is apparent from its reading because there was no justification of mentioning Janki Dasi as Sadik Cheli and in the property only Haata has been written and Kaushalya Dasi never lived as such there was no connection of Janki Dasi with the property in dispute. In her cross-examination also she has stated that she does not know as to whether the will dated 26.09.1969 has been written by Ram Rati Dasi to Janki Dasi and she had not heard of the same prior to it. She has further stated that Lalita Dasi had told her that a will was got executed in favour of Janki Dasi by an impostor lady as Ram Rati Dasi. The DW-2 has stated in her examination-in-chief that Janki Dasi, who used to live in Pramod Van, Janki Ghat, Bodhayan Ashram never lived in Maibara temple. Janki Dasi has never been the disciple of Ram Rati Dasi and she knows it very well because she is residing there since the age of 12 years. She has specifically stated in her cross-examination that Ram Rati Dasi has not written any document in her presence. She also does not know as to any will was executed by Ram Rati Dasi to any Janki Dasi. She also does not know Janki Dasi. Lalita Dasi was the disciple of Ram Rati Dasi.

29. In view of above, it is apparent that DW-1 and DW-2 have not admitted the execution of the will dated 26.09.1969 executed by Ram Rati Dasi in favour of Janki Dasi rather it has specifically been stated by DW-1 that she was told by Lalita Dasi that a will was got executed by an impostor lady as Ram Rati Dasi, therefore, it can not be said that the execution of the will has been admitted by the defendants and the same is admissible against the defendant under Section 70 of the Indian Evidence Act. However by the said statement, the DW-1 has deepened the doubt of execution of Will by an imposter lady which was required to be clarified and removed by the plaintiff-appellants which they have failed to do.

30. In view of above, it is apparent that the plaintiff- appellants have failed to prove the execution of Will in terms of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and by giving any cogent evidence in accordance with the provisions made in the Indian Evidence Act. The respondent defendants and DW-1 and DW-2 appeared on their behalf have not admitted the execution of the will. Their aforesaid statement can only be a hearsay evidence, which can not be relied in absence of its corroboration and substantive evidence and there is no corroborative substantial evidence as discussed above.

31. A Constitution (five judges) Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Neeraj Dutta vs State (Govt. of N.C.T. of Delhi); (2023) 4 SCC 731, has held that hearsay evidence is also called derivative, transmitted, or second-hand evidence in which a witness is merely reporting not what he himself saw or heard, and not what has come under the immediate observation of his own bodily senses, but what he has learnt in respect of the fact through the medium of a third person and normally, a hearsay evidence would be inadmissible, but when it is corroborated by substantive evidence of other witnesses, it would be admissible.

32. The plaintiff-appellants had filed a suit for permanent injunction and during pendency amended the suit and the prayer for declaration, possession and eviction of respondent was made, therefore the burden was heavily on the plaintiff- appellants to establish that they are entitled for such declaration and consequently the possession and eviction of respondent. The weakness, if any, of the case set up by the respondent- defendants could not be a ground to grant relief to the plaintiff-appellants, as they have to stand on their own legs, which they have failed to do, as discussed above.

33. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Union of India and Others Vs.

Vasavi Co-operative Housing Society Ltd. and Others (Supra), has held that the legal position, therefore, is clear that the plaintiff in a suit for declaration of title and possession could succeed only on the strength of its own title and that could be done only by adducing sufficient evidence to discharge the onus on it, irrespective of the question whether the defendants have proved their case or not. The relevant paragraphs- 12 to 15 are extracted here-in-below:-

"12. It is trite law that, in a suit for declaration of title, burden always lies on the plaintiff to make out and establish a clear case for granting such a declaration and the weakness, if any, of the case set up by the defendants would not be a ground to grant relief to the plaintiff.

13. The High Court, we notice, has taken the view that once the evidence is let in by both the parties, the question of burden of proof pales into insignificance and the evidence let in by both the parties is required to be appreciated by the court in order to record its findings in respect of each of the issues that may ultimately determine the fate of the suit. The High Court has also proceeded on the basis that initial burden would always be upon the plaintiff to establish its case but if the evidence let in by defendants in support of their case probabalises the case set up by the plaintiff, such evidence cannot be ignored and kept out of consideration.

14. At the outset, let us examine the legal position with regard to whom the burden of proof lies in a suit for declaration of title and possession. This Court in Maran Mar Basselios Catholicos v. Thukalan Paulo Avira reported in AIR1959 SC 31 observed that "in a suit for declaration if the plaintiffs are to succeed, they must do so on the strength of their own title." In Nagar Palika, Jind v. Jagat Singh, Advocate (1995) 3 SCC 426, this Court held as under:

"the onus to prove title to the property in question was on the plaintiff. In a suit for ejectment based on title it was incumbent on the part of the court of appeal first to record a finding on the claim of title to the suit land made on behalf of the plaintiff. The court is bound to enquire or investigate that question first before going into any other question that may arise in a suit."

15. The legal position, therefore, is clear that the plaintiff in a suit for declaration of title and possession could succeed only on the strength of its own title and that could be done only by adducing sufficient evidence to discharge the onus on it, irrespective of the question whether the defendants have proved their case or not. We are of the view that even if the title set up by the defendants is found against, in the absence of establishment of plaintiff's own title, plaintiff must be non-suited."

34. A similar view has been taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Gurunath Manohar Pavaskar and Others Vs. Nagesh Siddappa Navalgund and Others (Supra) and Sebastiao Luis Fernandes (Dead) and Others Vs. K.V.P. Shastri (Dead) and Others (Supra).

35. So far as the judgment, in the case of Sampath Kumar Vs. Ayyakannu and Another (Supra) of Hon'ble Supreme Court, relied by the learned counsel for the appellants in regard to amendment of pleadings is concerned, there may not be any quarrel on that, however it is not applicable on the issue involved in this case, therefore it is not of any benefit to the plaintiff-appellants.

36. The basis of suit, even if registered, is required to be proved in accordance with law and the presumption can not be made in respect of any such document as per Section 90-A inserted by State Amendment of Uttar Pradesh in the Indian Evidence Act 1872.

37. In the present case the Will deed dated 26.09.1969 is the basis of suit filed by the plaintiff-appellants because they are seeking declaration of title and possession on the basis of same, therefore without proof of the said will in accordance with law i.e. its execution in accordance with Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act 1925 and proof thereof in accordance with the aforesaid provisions made in the Indian Evidence Act 1872 and removal of doubts in regard to its execution, no declaration could have been made and direction for possession could have been given but the plaintiff-appellants have failed to prove them in accordance with law and also failed to remove doubts in regard to its execution. As discussed above the will can also not be presumed to be valid and enforceable, therefore also no such declaration could have been made, therefore consequential relief could also not be granted.

38. In view of above, this Court is of the view that learned appellate court has rightly and in accordance with law held that the plaintiff-appellants have completely failed to prove the will deed dated 26.09.1969 and the plaintiff-appellants have failed to dispel the suspicious circumstances arising out of evidence of PW-2, the burden of which was on them and there is no admission of execution of the said will deed by the DW-1 and DW-2, on account of which it may be said that it is sufficient prove of execution of Will as against the respondent-defendants. Thus the aforesaid substantial questions of law no.1 and 2 framed in this second appeal, are answered accordingly.

39. In view of above and considering over all facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the first appellate court has rightly and in accordance with law has allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment and decree passed by the trial court and dismissed the suit and this second appeal is misconceived and lacks merit, which is liable to be dismissed.

40. The second appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

First Appeal From Order No. 272 of 2024

Smt. Preeti Arora ...Appellant
Versus
Subash Chandra Arora & Anr.
...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
 Sri Arvind Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondents:
 Komal Mehrotra

Civil Law - Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 - Section 8 - Instant FAFO u/s 8(c) of Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956, challenges order of A.D.J, whereby plaintiff/ appellant's application seeking permission to sell property in interest of minors was rejected - Counsel for appellant contends that application u/s 8 was wrongly rejected - Trial Court erred in relying on mere conjecture that details of property to be purchased in Punj. or its possible rental were not disclosed - Appellant had bonafidely disclosed all circumstances for selling out property in her application, and also opposite parties had consented to transfer - Upon perusal of impugned order and admitted facts, Court is of view that appellant's Application u/s 8 of Act, 1956, was not liable to be rejected - However, as no natural guardian is required for a minor's undivided interest in joint family property as provided u/s 6 and 12 of Act, prior court permission u/s 8 for its disposal is not necessary - Thus, section 8 of Act, in view of express terms of Section 6 and 12 of Act would not be applicable where joint Hindu Family property is sought to be transferred/ disposed off - Impugned order, set aside. (Para 4, 7, 10, 13, 14)

Appeal allowed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava J.)

1. Heard Shri Arvind Srivastava (Advocate Roll No. A/A 1244/12) learned counsel for the plaintiff/ appellant and Sri Komal Mehrotra, learned counsel representing the defendant/ respondents.

2. The FAFO raises a purely legal issue. The respondent has already put in appearance and the Court is of the opinion that no useful purpose shall be served by keeping the FAFO pending.

3. With the consent of the parties, the FAFO is being decided finally at the admission stage itself.

4. The instant FAFO under Section 8 (C) of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act 1956 has been filed assailing the order dated 04.10.2023 passed by the Additional District Judge, Saharanpur, in Misc. Case No. 276 of 2022 registered under Section 8 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act 1956 whereby and whereunder the Application on behalf of the plaintiff/ appellant (Paper No. 4-B) supported by affidavit seeking permission to sell the property in the interest of minors has been rejected on flimsy grounds.

5. It is the case of the Plaintiff/ Appellant that she is a widow. Her husband expired on 17.03.2021 leaving behind her and 3 daughters besides his mother. The husband of the Plaintiff/ Appellant had 1/2 share in a double storied house bearing No. A-26, Paramount Tulip, having area 143.90 square meters. The other 1/2 share was of her father-in-law. After the death of her husband his heirs i.e. the Appellant, her mother-in-law and three daughters inherited 1/5th share each in the house property. The father-in-law (opposite party no. 1 herein) out of his own free will executed a Gift Deed on 05.08.2021 gifting his entire 1/2 share in the house property to the Appellant. The mother-in-law also executed a registered Gift Deed of her 10% share in favour of the Appellant. The Appellant thus has 70% of the share in the house property. The remaining 30% is that of the 3 minor daughters. The Appellant for the benefit and better prospects of her minor girls wants to sell the house and settle at Zeerakpur, Mohali, Punjab, where she is working. It has become difficult to maintain the property at Saharnpur. The maternal grand parents, uncle are all residing at Zeerakpur, Punjab. The Appellant shall not misappropriate the funds collected from the sale of the house property and shall make adequate investments for the minor girls to secure their future. The opposite parties i.e. the father and mother in law have also extended their consent for the sale of the House property. All members of the family i.e. the Appellant, father and mother in laws, minor children are residing at Punjab and the minor girls are pursuing their studies at Punjab. The house remains locked. Some land mafias have their eyes over the property. In the aforesaid circumstances seeks permission under Section 8 of the Hindu Minority and Guardians Act 1956.

6. The learned Additional District Judge, Saharanpur, under the order dated 04.10.2023 impugned has rejected the Application of the Appellant seeking permission under Section 8 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act 1956 being of the view that the Appellant wants to sell of the property and reside at Punjab. The children of the Appellant are minor out of them one is 12 year old and the other two are twins of 8 year each. The Appellant has not disclosed from whom she would purchase the property in Punjab and for what amount after selling the House Property here at Saharanpur. The property is residential property and is situated in a posh (VIP) area, it can be let out and the rental income can be utilized for the benefit of the minor children and meet out their educational needs.

7. Learned counsel for the Plaintiff/Appellant submits that the Plaintiff/Appellant ought not to have been non suited on the grounds stated in the impugned order. The Application for permission under Section 8 could not be rejected on the ground that the details of the property the Appellant would purchase in Punjab and for how much after selling the property in question have not been disclosed, or that the property could be let out on rent. The Appellant had bonafidely disclosed all the circumstances for selling out the property in her application seeking permission, yet the Trial Court proceeded to reject the application on mere conjectures and surmises. It is also contended that the opposite parties had also consented for the transfer. Accordingly it is prayed that the impugned order being illegal, unjustified is liable to be set aside and the Application (Paper No. 4B) is liable to be allowed.

8. Shri Komal Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing for the respondent nos. 1 and 2 submits that the respondents had already accorded their consent in favour of the Appellant and in fact have already gifted their share in the house property in favour of the Appellant. They have no objection if the Appeal is allowed and the impugned order is set aside.

9. I, have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have perused the record.

10. Having gone through the impugned order and taking into consideration the admitted facts as set out in the impugned order, the Court is of the opinion that the Application (4-B) moved by the Appellant under Section 8 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act 1956 was not liable to be rejected.

11. According to the Court, there is one other aspect of the matter and which is whether at all a permission was required for disposing of the undivided share of the minors. Though this point was not argued by the learned counsel for the Appellant but the Court deems it appropriate to state the correct legal position in this regard.

12. Section 6 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act 1956 deals with Natural Guardian of a Hindu minor and inter alia provides that the natural guardian of a Hindu minor in respect of the minors' person as well as in respect of the minors' property (excluding his or her undivided interest in the joint family property), are in the case of a boy or an unmarried girl the father, and after him, the mother provided that the custody of a minor who has not completed the age of five years shall ordinarily be with the mother. Section 8 thereof inter alia provides that the natural guardian of a Hindu minor has power, subject to the provisions of this section, to do all acts which are necessary or reasonable and proper for the benefit of the minor or for the realization, protection or benefit of the minor's estate; but the guardian can in no case bind the minor by a personal covenant. Furthermore the natural guardian shall not, without the previous permission of the court, mortgage or charge, or transfer by sale, gift, exchange or otherwise, any part of the immovable property of the minor or lease any part of such property for a term exceeding five years or for a term extending more than one year beyond the date on which the minor will attain majority. Any disposal of immovable property by a natural guardian, in contravention of sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), is voidable at the instance of the minor or any person claiming on behalf of the minor. Section 12 provides that where a minor has an undivided interest in the joint family property and the property is under the management of an adult member of the family, no guardian shall be appointed for the minor in respect of such undivided interest : Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the jurisdiction of a High Court to appoint a guardian in respect of such interest.

13. With regard to the undivided interest of the Hindu minor in joint family property, the provisions afore-culled are beads of the same string and need be viewed in a single glimpse, simultaneously in conjunction with each other. Each provisions, and in particular Section 8, cannot be viewed in isolation. If read together the intent of the legislative in this beneficial legislation becomes manifest. Ordinarily the law does not envisage a natural guardian of the undivided interest of a Hindu minor in joint family property. The natural guardian of the property of a Hindu minor, other than the undivided interest in joint family property, is alone contemplated under Section 8, whereunder his powers and duties are defined. Section 12 carves out an exception to the rule that should there be no adult member of the joint family in management of the joint family property, in which the minor has an undivided interest, a guardian may be appointed; but ordinarily no guardian shall be appointed for such undivided interest of the minor. The adult member of the family in the management of the Joint Hindu Family property may be a male or a female, not necessarily the Karta. The power of the High Court otherwise to appoint a guardian, in situations justifying, has been preserved. This is the legislative scheme on the subject. Under Section 8 a natural guardian of the property of the Hindu minor, before he disposes of any immovable property of the minor, must seek permission of the court. But since there need be no natural guardian for the minor's undivided interest in the joint family property, as provided under sections 6 and 12 of the Act, the previous permission of the Court under Section 8 of disposing of the undivided interest of the minor in the joint family property is not required.

14. Thus in the opinion of the Court, section 8 of the Act in view of the express terms of Section 6 and 12 of the Act would not be applicable where joint Hindu Family property is sought to be transferred/ disposed off.

15. In view of the above discussion, the impugned order dated 04.10.2023 passed by the Additional District Judge, Saharanpur, in Misc. Case No. 276 of 2022 is set aside. The Appeal stands allowed.

16. No order as to costs.

Constitution of India, 1950 – Article 226 – Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 – Sections 12, 17 – Principles of Mahomedan Law – Sections 349, 351 & 352 – Habeas Corpus – Custody of Minor – Illegal Detention – Natural Guardianship – Welfare of Minor - The petitioners, Master Hiras (minor corpus, aged about 2 years, born on 01.01.2022) and his father (petitioner no. 2), filed a habeas corpus petition asserting that the minor was illegally detained by respondent no. 4, the wife of petitioner no. 2's brother, who had a strained relationship with her husband. The minor was taken by respondent no. 4 on 27.11.2022 when she left the joint family home to reside at her maternal home. The petitioners contended that the father, as the natural guardian, and the biological mother, entitled to custody (hizanat) under personal law, had the right to the minor's custody. The corpus was produced in court on 12.03.2024, and custody was temporarily granted to the parents. Held: (1) The petition was disposed of, with the rule nisi made absolute, allowing the minor to remain with petitioner no. 2 (father) and his mother. (2) The detention of the minor by respondent no. 4 was illegal, as it lacked legal basis under personal law or statutory provisions. (3) Under Section 352 of the Principles of Mahomedan Law, the mother is entitled to custody of a male child until age seven, and the father is the natural guardian; respondent no. 4 had no legal claim to custody. (4) In habeas corpus proceedings for minor custody, the court's primary duty is to ensure the child's welfare under its parens patriae jurisdiction, and illegal detention by a person without legal entitlement justifies issuance of the writ, per Sections 12 and 17 of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, read with personal law. (5) The court found no justification for respondent no. 4's custody, and the minor's welfare was best served with his parents. The demand draft deposited in respondent no. 4's name was ordered to be returned to petitioner no. 2.

List of Cases cited:

1. Master Hiras & Anr. Vs St. of U.P. & ors., (2024) 4 ILRA, Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 949

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mohd Nasir, learned counsel for the petitioners and Ms. Divya Ojha, learned AGA-I appearing for the State-respondents.

2. The petition has been filed with the assertion that the petitioner no. 1 (corpus), who is the minor son of the petitioner no. 2, born on 01.01.2022, had been illegally detained by the respondent no. 4 (wife of the brother of the petitioner no. 2), who is stated to be having strained relationship with the husband.

3. Pursuant to the rule nisi issued earlier, the petitioner no. 1 (corpus) was produced in Court, on 12.03.2024, by respondent no. 4.

4. It was brought to the notice of the Court that the respondent no. 4 (wife of brother of the petitioner no. 2), was at an earlier point of time, living with the joint family, and on 27.11.2022, the respondent no. 4 is stated to have left her home taking the petitioner no. 1 (corpus) with her.

5. It was pointed out that the respondent no. 4, since then, was staying at her maternal home, and the petitioner no. 1 (corpus) was being illegally detained by her.

6. It was contended that the petitioner no. 1 (corpus), being an infant of age about 2 years, the father would be the natural guardian, and the biological mother would be entitled to a right of custody (hizanat), as per the personal law.

7. It was also pointed out that the mother of the petitioner no. 1 (corpus) and the respondent no. 4, were 'related to each other' and that proceedings of criminal nature as well as a matrimonial case, are pending, between the respondent no. 4 and her husband (i.e. the brother of the petitioner no. 2).

8. Taking into view that the custody of the petitioner no. 1 (corpus) with the respondent no. 4, could not prima facie be supported legally, the petitioner no. 1

(corpus) was permitted to go along with the petitioner no. 2 (his father) and his mother, who were present in the Court, on the previous date.

9. Today, upon the case being taken up, it was pointed out that the petitioner no. 1 (corpus) has been brought to the Court by the petitioner no. 2 (his father) and also his mother.

10. The petitioner No. 2, has been identified by his counsel, Sri Mohd. Nasir.

11. Learned AGA-I, on the basis of an enquiry made from the petitioner no. 2 and his wife (parents of the petitioner-corpus), in Court, submits that they have stated that the petitioner no. 1 (corpus) is under their guardianship and custody, and is being taken care of.

12. A writ of habeas corpus is prerogative process for securing the liberty of the subject by affording effective means of immediate release from an illegal or improper detention. The writ also extends its influence to restore the custody of a minor to his guardian when wrongfully deprived of it. The detention of a minor by a person who is not entitled to his legal custody would have to be treated as equivalent to illegal detention for the purpose of granting a writ directing custody of the minor child.

13. The law relating to guardians and wards is governed in terms of the Guardians and Wards Act, 18901, and an order with regard to guardianship may be passed under the aforesaid enactment, upon an application filed by a person claiming entitlement.

14. The provision with regard to making of an application regarding claims based on entitlement of guardianship is under the GWA and under Section 12 thereof the court is empowered to make interlocutory orders for protection of a minor including an order for temporary custody and protection of the person or property of the minor.

15. Section 17 of the GWA relates to matters to be considered by the court in appointing a guardian, and in terms thereof it is provided that the court while deciding the question of guardianship of a minor, shall, as far as possible, do so consistently with the law to which the minor is subject, keeping in view the welfare of a minor. Thus, the provisions of the personal law are to be applied consistently with the provisions of the GWA, and insofar as the question of custody is concerned, the rights of parties in the present case, are to be governed by the personal law.

16. The matters relating to "Guardianship of Person and Property" are provided under Chapter XVIII of Principles of Mahomedan Law² and Part-A thereof pertains to "Appointment of Guardians". In terms of Section 349, all applications for the appointment of a guardian of the person or property or both of a minor, are to be made under the GWA.

17. Further, Section 351 of Principles of Mahomedan Law, which is in terms of Section 17 of the GWA, imposes a duty upon the court in appointing guardian to make the appointment consistently with the law to which the minor is subject, keeping in view the welfare of the minor.

18. The subject matter relating to "Guardianship of a Person of a Minor" is dealt with under Part-B of Chapter XVIII of Principles of Mahomedan Law, and Sections 352 thereof, which relates to the right of mother to custody of infant children, is set out hereinbelow:-

"352. Right of mother to custody of infant children.—The mother is entitled to the custody (hizanat) of her male child until he has completed the age of seven years and of her female child until she has attained puberty. The right continues though she is divorced by the father of the child (e), unless she marries a second husband in which case the custody belongs to the father (f)."

19. It would be seen that in terms of Section 352, abovementioned, the mother is entitled to custody (hizanat) of her male child until he has completed the age of seven years.

20. In a petition seeking issuance of a writ of habeas corpus relating to the custody of a minor child, the principle duty of the Court would be to ascertain whether the custody of the child is unlawful or illegal and whether the welfare of the child requires that the present custody should be changed and the child be handed over to the care and custody of some other person. In doing so, the paramount consideration would undoubtedly be the welfare of the child and the role of the High Court in examining such cases would have to be on the touchstone of principles of parens patriae jurisdiction.

21. Habeas corpus proceedings would not ordinarily lie to justify or examine the legality of the custody of the minor child, and the question in this regard would have to be addressed by the Court in exercise of its discretionary jurisdiction. The prerogative writ of habeas corpus, is in the nature of an extraordinary remedy, and is to

27. The petitioner No. 1 (corpus) is permitted to be taken back by the petitioner No. 2 (his father), to the place from where he has been brought.

Civil Law - Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 - Sections 2(8), 2(9), 2(10), 2(12), 24(1) & 24(3) - Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226-

Petitioner challenged show cause notice and provisional attachment order dated 05.01.2023, alleging constructions on Plot No. 35, Srijan Vihar Colony, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow, as benami transactions for her son-in-law. Court held: (1) No proceedings could be initiated for the plot purchased before the 2016 amendment to the Act, as per U.O.I. Vs Ganpati Dealcom Ltd., (2023) 3 SCC 315, which declared retrospective application unconstitutional. (2) Show cause notice under Section 24(1) lacked sufficient material to establish "reason to believe" petitioner was a benamidar, relying solely on contractor's St.ment without supporting evidence (Indra Prastha Chemicals (P) Ltd. Vs CIT, (2005) UPTC 53). (3) Provisional attachment order under Section 24(3) invalid due to absence of material indicating likelihood of alienation. (4) "Reason to believe" requires rational, relevant material, not mere suspicion (Calcutta Discount Co. Ltd. Vs ITO, (1961) 41 ITR 0191; Johri Lal (HUF) Vs CIT, (1973) 88 ITR 0439). Show cause notice and attachment order set aside; consequential orders deemed non-est and void. (Paras 4-27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Chaudhary, J.
Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Shri J.N. Mathur, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Mudit Agarwal and Ms. Aishwarya Mathur, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Shri Surya Bhan Pandey, learned Senior Advocate/Deputy Solicitor General of India assisted by Dr. Ravi Kumar Mishra representing the respondent no.1/Union of India and Shri Neerav Chitravanshi and Shri Kushagra Dixit, learned Counsel for the respondent nos. 2 and 3.

2. By the present writ petition, primarily the petitioner has challenged the show cause notice dated 05.01.2023 issued under 24(1) of The Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 (hereafter referred to as 'Benami Transactions Act 1988') and provisional attachment order dated 05.01.2023 issued under Section 24(3) of the Benami Transactions Act, 1988. Petitioner has sought for further reliefs, but, at the very initial stage, learned counsel for the petitioner states that the main challenge is to the aforesaid show cause notice dated 05.01.2023 and the provisional attachment order dated 05.01.2023. In case the relief is granted to the said extent rest of the consequential orders and further actions would by themselves stand non-est and void.

3. By the impugned notice under challenge, the respondents-authorities have proposed to treat the constructions being raised by the petitioner on her Plot No.35 Srijan Vihar Colony, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow, to be a benami transaction, being carried out by the petitioner on behalf of respondent no.5, her son-in-law. The plot in question was purchased by the petitioner by a sale deed dated 23.04.2016. The Benami Transactions Act, 1988 was amended w.e.f. 25.10.2016. The sale deed of the petitioner is admittedly prior to the said amendment.

4. The Supreme Court has considered the validity of the Benami Transactions Act, 1988 in the case of Union of India Vs. Ganpati Dealcom Ltd. & others; (2023) 3 SCC 315 and in Paragraph 127, the Supreme Court has given the following findings:

"127. In view of the above discussion, we hold as under:

127.1. Section 3(2)(sic Section 3) of the unamended 1988 Act is declared as unconstitutional for being manifestly arbitrary. Accordingly, Section 3(2) of the 2016 Act is also unconstitutional as it is violative of Article 20(1) of the Constitution.

127.2. In rem forfeiture provision under Section 5 of the unamended 1988 Act, prior to the 2016 Amendment Act, was unconstitutional for being manifestly arbitrary.

127.3. The 2016 Amendment Act was not merely procedural, rather, prescribed substantive provisions.

127.4. In rem forfeiture provision under Section 5 of the 2016 Act, being punitive in nature, can only be applied prospectively and not retroactively.

127.5. The authorities concerned cannot initiate or continue criminal prosecution or confiscation proceedings for transactions entered into prior to the coming into force of the 2016 Act viz. 25.10.2016. As a consequence of the above declaration, all such prosecutions or confiscation proceedings shall stand quashed.

127.6. As this Court is not concerned with the constitutionality of such independent forfeiture proceedings contemplated under the 2016 Amendment Act on the other grounds, the aforesaid questions are left open to be adjudicated in appropriate proceedings."

5. Thus, the purchase of the said land being prior to coming into force of the amendment to the Benami Transactions Act, 1988, no proceedings with regard to the same can be initiated by the department. The said fact is also admitted by the respondents in their show cause notice. The respondents have only initiated proceedings with regard to the constructions of residential house being raised by the petitioner on the said plot. The department claims that the petitioner is a Benamidar of the said constructions while the son-in-law of the petitioner, namely Sri Indramani Tripathi, is the beneficial owner of the said constructions. However, petitioner disputes the same by claiming that the department did not have any material to reach the said conclusion and the notice is based on the basis of presumptions, surmises and conjectures and thus is without jurisdiction. On the other hand the department submits that the show cause notice is based upon the sound evidence and concrete findings and the same is a show cause notice to which the petitioner can submit her reply to the department which shall be considered by the department.

6. This writ petition was filed in the year 2023 and on 3.5.2023, the following interim order was granted by this Court.

"Order on Memo of Petition

Heard.

Let the Counsel for the petitioner bring on record the reply filed by her to the impugned show cause notice issued during pendency of the present writ petition.

Learned Counsel for the Income Tax Department bring on record statement of then Assessee/witness in response to the summons issued to him on 02.12.2022 under Section 131(1A) of the Income Tax Act, 1961, as referred in the impugned order.

As we are seized with the validity of jurisdictional notice issued under Section 24(1) of The Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 and the arguments which are on the verge of conclusion, list/put up this matter on 05.05.2023 to be taken up immediately after fresh. Any order referring the matter to the Adjudicating Officer under Section 24(5) of the Act, 1988 shall not be passed till the next date of listing.

C.M. Application No. IA/06 of 2023

This is an application for amendment supported with an affidavit.

The amendment application is allowed.

Let necessary amendment, as prayed, be carried out.

The opposite parties, if so choose, may file response to the amended portion of the writ petition."

7. The parties have exchanged their affidavits and the matter is now being heard finally.

8. The relevant provisions of the Benami Transactions Act, 1988 for the purpose of the present case reads as follows:-

"Section 2(8) benami property" means any property which is the subject matter of a benami transaction and also includes the proceeds from such property;

Section 2(9) "Benami Transactions"

(A) Transaction or an arrangement—

(a) where a property is transferred to, or is held by, a person, and the consideration for such property has been provided, or paid by, another person; and

(b) the property is held for the immediate or future benefit, direct or indirect, of the person who has provided the consideration, except when the property is held by—

(i) a Karta, or a member of a Hindu undivided family, as the case may be, and the property is held for his benefit or benefit of other members in the family and the consideration for such property has been provided or paid out of the known sources of the Hindu undivided family;

(ii) a person standing in a fiduciary capacity for the benefit of another person towards whom he stands in such capacity and includes a trustee, executor, partner, director of a company, a depository or a participant as an agent of a depository under the Depositories Act, 1996 and any other person as may be notified by the Central Government for this purpose;

(iii) any person being an individual in the name of his spouse or in the name of any child of such individual and the consideration for such property has been provided or paid out of the known sources of the individual;

(iv) any person in the name of his brother or sister or lineal ascendant or descendant, where the names of brother or sister or lineal ascendant or descendant and the individual appear as joint-owners in any document, and the consideration for such property has been provided or paid out of the known sources of the individual; or

(B) a transaction or an arrangement in respect of a property carried out or made in a fictitious name; or

(C) a transaction or an arrangement in respect of a property where the owner of the property is not aware of, or, denies knowledge of, such ownership;

(D) a transaction or an arrangement in respect of a property where the person providing the consideration is not traceable or is fictitious;

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that benami transaction shall not include any transaction involving the allowing of possession of any property to be taken or retained in part performance of a contract referred to in section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, if, under any law for the time being in force,—

(i) consideration for such property has been provided by the person to whom possession of property has been allowed but the person who has granted possession thereof continues to hold ownership of such property;

(ii) stamp duty on such transaction or arrangement has been paid; and

(iii) the contract has been registered.

2(10) "benamidar" means a person or a fictitious person, as the case may be, in whose name the benami property is transferred or held and includes a person who lends his name;

2 (12) beneficial owner" means a person, whether his identity is known or not, for whose benefit the benami property is held by a benamidar;

24. Notice and attachment of property involved in benami transaction.

(1) Where the Initiating Officer, on the basis of material in his possession, has reason to believe that any person is a benamidar in respect of a property, he may, after recording reasons in writing, issue a notice to the person to show cause within such time as may be specified in the notice why the property should not be treated as benami property.

(2) Where a notice under sub-section (1) specifies any property as being held by a benamidar referred to in that sub-section, a copy of the notice shall also be issued to the beneficial owner if his identity is known.

(3) Where the Initiating Officer is of the opinion that the person in possession of the property held benami may alienate the property during the period specified in the notice, he may, with the previous approval of the Approving Authority, by order in writing, attach provisionally the property in the manner as may be prescribed, for a period not exceeding ninety days [from the last day of the month in which the notice under sub-section (1) is issued.]

(4) The Initiating Officer, after making such inquiries and calling for such reports or evidence as he deems fit and taking into account all relevant materials, shall, within a period of ninety days [from the last day of the month in which the notice under sub-section (1) is issued],-

(a) where the provisional attachment has been made under sub-section (3),--

(i) pass an order continuing the provisional attachment of the property with the prior approval of the Approving Authority, till the passing of the order by the Adjudicating Authority under subsection (3) of section 26; or

(ii) revoke the provisional attachment of the property with the prior approval of the Approving Authority;

(b) where provisional attachment has not been made under sub-section (3),-

(i) pass an order provisionally attaching the property with the prior approval of the Approving Authority, till the passing of the order by the Adjudicating Authority under sub-section (3) of section 26; or

(ii) decide not to attach the property as specified in the notice, with the prior approval of the Approving Authority.

(5). Where the Initiating Officer passes an order continuing the provisional attachment of the property under sub-clause (i) of clause (a) of sub-section (4) or passes an order provisionally attaching the property under sub-clause (i) of clause (b) of that sub-section, he shall, within fifteen days from the date of the attachment, draw up a statement of the case and refer it to the Adjudicating Authority.

[Explanation.- For the purposes of this section, in computing the period of limitation, the period during which the proceeding is stayed by an order or injunction of any court shall be excluded:

Provided that where immediately after the exclusion of the aforesaid period, the period of limitation referred to in sub-section (4) available to the Initiating Officer for passing order of attachment is less than thirty days, such remaining period shall be deemed to be extended to thirty days:

Provided further that where immediately after the exclusion of the aforesaid period, the period of limitation referred to in sub-section (5) available to the Initiating Officer to refer the order of attachment to Adjudicating Authority is less than seven days, such remaining period shall be deemed to be extended to seven days.]"

9. The case of petitioner is that the petitioner has been a regular assessee of the Income Tax department for long and is regularly filing her Income Tax returns. Petitioner belongs to an affluent family. Her husband is a retired IAS Officer and her son is a successful lawyer practicing in the High Court at Allahabad. The son-in-law of the petitioner, respondent no.5, to whom the department claims to be the beneficial owner, is an IAS officer of Uttar Pradesh cadre.

10. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the department has no evidence to prove any benami transaction or that the petitioner was a Benamidar of the constructions in question and respondent no.5 is the beneficial owner, while on the other hand, the claim of the department that it is respondent no.5, who has paid and invested the entire amount for the said constructions. The department in support of the show cause notice has based its case upon the statement given by the contractor Sri Krishna Kumar Dubey, Partner of M/s. Vishnu Mitra Buildcon.

11. A perusal of the show cause notice shows that the total value of the constructions in dispute is around Rs.1.05 crores and out of the same an amount of Rs.95.00 lakhs has been transferred to M/s. Vishnu Mitra Buildcon from the Bank account of petitioner herself. Admittedly, the construction of the house was still underway, when on 5.1.2023 the show cause notice was issued.

12. Learned counsel for the parties have taken the Court through the detailed evidence on the basis of which the notice dated 5.1.2023 is issued. The only relevant portion, as per both the parties, is the statement of Sri Krishna Kumar Dubey, Partner of M/s. Vishnu Mitra Buildcon given on 4.1.2023. The relevant portion of the statement of Sri Krishna Kumar Dubey reads as follows:-

“प्रश्न 9: आपको दो फोटो (नीचे लगी) दिखाई जा रही हैं। कृपया इसकी पुष्टि करें की ये फोटो आपके द्वारा चसवज छवण 35ए तपरंद टीपीत बसवदलए ळवउजप छहंतए स्नबादवू पर बनाए जा रहे भवन की हैं।

प्रश्न 11: श्रीमती मीरा पाण्डेय को आप कैसे जानते हैं तथा उनसे आप कितनी बार मिल चुके हैं?

उत्तर: मैं श्रीमती मीरा पाण्डेय को प्रत्यक्ष रूप से नहीं जानता हूं तथा मैं उनसे एक बार भी नहीं मिला हूं न ही फोन अथवा ईमेल द्वारा कभी भी उनसे कोई संपर्क हुआ है। मैं मीरा पाण्डेय के पति को भी नहीं जानता हूं न ही उनसे कभी मिला हूं।

प्रश्न 12: क्या आप श्री नीलेंद्र पाण्डेय को जानते हैं?

उत्तर: जी हां श्रीमान, मैं श्री नीलेंद्र पाण्डेय जी से 2014 में अपने रिश्तेदार दिनेश कुमार मिश्र जी के माध्यम से मिला था।

प्रश्न 13: कृपया बताएं श्री नीलेंद्र पाण्डेय से आपके क्या व्यावसायिक संबंध हैं।

उत्तर: नीलेंद्र जी ने एक घर चसवज छवण 35ए तपरंद टीपीत बसवदलए ळवउजप छहंतए स्नबादवू जमीन पर बनाने का बवदेजतंबज मुझे दिलवाया था। इसके अलावा मेरा एक दूसरा प्रोजेक्ट भी दिलवाया जो की है—चसवज छवण 98ए तपरंद टीपीत बसवदलए ळवउजप छहंतए स्नबादवू जिसका स्वामित्व क्तण उड़ीअप पदही का है।

प्रश्न 14: क्या आप श्री इन्द्रमणि त्रिपाठी को जानते हैं?

उत्तर: श्रीमान, मेरी जानकारी में श्री इन्द्रमणि त्रिपाठी जी अभी स्व. के टब हैं। चसवज छवण 35ए तपरंद टीपीत बसवदलए ळवउजप छहंतए स्नबादवू पर बन रहे घर के असली मालिक वही हैं। उनके आफिस के स्टाफ और उनकी पत्नी समय समय पर भवन की पजम पर निर्माण देखने आते थे।

प्रश्न 15: कृपया बतायें की चसवज छवण 35ए तपरंद टीपीत बसवदलए ळवउजप छहंतए स्नबादवू पर बनाए जा रहे भवन के निर्माण से सम्बंधित खर्चों के बारे में आपकी बात किससे होती थी?

उत्तर: इस भवन के निर्माण के खर्चों से सम्बंधित बात श्री नीलेंद्र पाण्डेय जी से होती थी। जब निर्माण सम्बन्धी किश्त अकाउंट में आती थी या जब मुझे किश्त की जरूरत होती थी तब श्री नीलेंद्र पाण्डेय जी से ही बातचीत होती थी। यह बातचीत कभी फोन द्वारा या कभी उनके आफिस में खुद जा कर करता था। मेरी उनकी मुलाकात उनके दोनों घरों पर होती थी जिनके

प्रश्न16: कृपया बताएं की बसवज छवण35ए तैपरंद टपींत बसवदलए ळवउजप छंहंतए स्नबादवू पर बनाए जा रहे भवन के निर्माण से सम्बंधित खर्चों के लिए श्री नीलेंद्र पाण्डेय क्या कभी नगद में भी पैसे देते थे?

उत्तर: श्रीमान, कभी कभी जरूरत पड़ जाने पर श्री नीलेंद्र पाण्डेय नगद में भी पैसे दे दिया करते थे। कुल मिलाकर शायद 15 लाख रुपया नगद में दिया होगा।

प्रश्न20: कृपया बताएं कि बसवज छवण35ए तैपरंद टपींत बसवदलए ळवउजप छंहंतए स्नबादवू पर भवन का निर्माण किसके रहने/उपयोग के लिए किया जा रहा था?

उत्तर: बसवज छवण 35ए तैपरंद टपींत बसवदलए ळवउजप छंहंतए स्नबादवू पर बन रहे भवन का असली स्वामित्व श्री इन्द्रमणि त्रिपाठी का है, तथा यह भवन श्री इन्द्रमणि त्रिपाठी के उपयोग के लिए है।

प्रश्न21: बसवज छवण 35ए तैपरंद टपींत बसवदलए ळवउजप छंहंतए स्नबादवू पर बन रहे भवन के निर्माण के दौरान भवन के स्वामी के रूप में निर्माणाधीन भवन को देखने कौन कौन आते थे?

उत्तर: महोदय, भवन के निर्माण के दौरान श्रीमती वत्सला त्रिपाठी निर्माणाधीन भवन को देखने आती थी।”

13. A perusal of the statement clearly shows that Sri Krishna Kumar Dubey, Partner of M/s.Vishnu Mitra Buildcon has not given any basis or reason as to how he believes that the original owner of the constructions is respondent no.5 and even the department has not put a single question to Sri Krishna Kumar Dubey with regard to the basis of his knowledge. In support of his statement Sri Krishna Kumar Dubey has not provided any documentary or other evidence. Similarly, the department has also not referred to any other evidence in the show cause notice to support the said statement.

14. Section 24 (1) of the Benami Transactions Act states that "where the Initiating Officer, on the basis of material in his possession, has reason to believe". Thus, there are two pre-conditions to the issuance of the notice under Section 24(1) of the Benami Transactions Act; (i) The Initiating Officer should have material in his possession and; (ii) the material should be sufficient to cause a reason to believe. It goes without saying that while interpreting a taxing statute, the principle of strict interpretation is to be applied.

15. As per record, in the present case a mere statement of the contractor without any substantial supportive evidence is made the basis of the entire proceedings. Such a mere statement without any supportive evidence cannot under law be held to be a sufficient material in possession of an Initiating Officer to arrive at a reason to believe that constructions are benami. There has to be sufficient material in possession of the Initiating Officer on the basis of which he can come to a logical conclusion that can be called a reason to believe for initiating proceedings.

16. In the case of Indra Prastha Chemicals (P) Ltd. Vs. CIT (2005) UPTC 53, a Division Bench of this Court held:-

"..... the 'reason to believe under Section 147, must be held in good faith and should have a rational connection and relevant bearing on the formation of the belief and should not be extraneous or irrelevant. Further, this Court in proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can scrutinize the reasons recorded by the AO for initiating the proceedings under Sections 147/148 of the Act. The sufficiency of the material cannot be gone into but relevancy certainly be gone into."

17. In the present case except for an oral statement of a contractor, who has not given any reason for making such a statement, and from whom the department has also not even asked as to on what basis he is making the said statement, the entire proceedings are initiated. There is not even an iota of material placed by the department before this Court, referred to in the show cause notice, on the basis of which the Court could believe the said bare statement and conclude that a reason to believe can be arrived at.

18. Admittedly, the petitioner has already submitted her Income Tax Returns for the relevant period and the said proceedings are not yet completed. As such, in the absence of the same the department also cannot claim that her earnings for the relevant year are beyond her known sources of income.

19. The department-respondents while making its submissions tried to rely upon the statement made by an Architect Sri Sanjay Mathur dated 16.01.2023; a jeweler namely Sri Vishal Gupta, proprietor of the firm M/s. Shiv Nath Traders recorded dated 24.01.2023 and the statement of Khazan Chandra dated 25.1.2023. The department has also placed reliance upon certain material collected from the mobile data of Sri Krishan Kumar Dubey. All the said statements and data collected are not referred to in the show cause notice and are of later date to the show cause notice dated 5.1.2023. The said statements and data cannot be referred to or relied upon by the department while defending the impugned notice dated 5.1.2023, as all the said evidences are collected by the department after the notice is issued and cannot be included in the material in possession of the Initiating Officer for forming the reason to believe for issuance of the impugned notice. It is also not disputed by the department that an amount of Rs.95.00 lakhs is transferred from the Bank account of the petitioner to the account of the construction firm while the construction is underway and thus nearly the entire amount is already spent by the petitioner on constructions from her own account.

20. While interpreting the term "reason to believe" Courts in Calcutta Discount Co. Ltd. Vs. Income Tax Officer & others; (1961) 41 ITR 0191, CST Vs. Bhagwan Industries (Pvt.) Ltd. 1973 (31) STC 293 (Para9,10, &11), Madhya Pradesh Industries Ltd Vs. ITO (1965) 57 ITR 0637 (Paras 3,6), has time and again held that the words "reason to believe" are stronger than the words "is satisfied" or "reason to suspect" and the Constitutional Courts have consistently held that the Officer cannot record his satisfaction for "reason to believe" on an arbitrary or irrational basis. The same has to be recorded based upon reasons supported by relevant material.

21. So far as the issue of maintainability of the petition, raised by the respondents is concerned, the Constitutional Courts have repeatedly held that the basis of a notice cannot be a mere pretence but must be supported by sufficient reasons and material. It is open for the Courts to examine whether the reasons for the belief have a rational connection or relevant bearing to the formation of belief and are not extraneous or irrelevant.

22. Suffice is to refer the judgment of Supreme Court in Johri Lal (HUF) Vs. Commissioner of Income Tax; (1973) 88 ITR 0439, the relevant paragraph no.5 reads as follows:-

"Before proceedings under Section 34(1)(a) could be validly initiated the Income-tax Officer must have reasons to believe that, by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to make a return of his income under Section 22 for any year or to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment for that year; income, profits and gains chargeable to Income-tax, have escaped assessment for that year; or have been unassessed, or assessed at too low a rate, or have been made a subject matter of the excessive relief under the Act, or excessive loss or depreciation allowance have been computed. The formation of the required opinion by the Income-tax Officer is a condition precedent. Without formation of such an opinion he will not have jurisdiction to initiate proceedings under Section 34(1)(a). The fulfilment of this condition is not a mere formality but it is mandatory. The failure to fulfil that condition would vitiate the entire proceedings. As held by this Court in Sheo Nath Singh v. Appellate Assistant Commissioner of Income-tax, (Central), Calcutta, the Income-tax Officer would be acting without jurisdiction if the reason for his belief that the conditions are satisfied, does not exist or is not material or relevant to the belief -required by this Section. It is true that the Courts will not go into the sufficiency of the reasons which persuaded the Income-tax Officer to initiate proceedings under Section 34(1)(a) of the Act. But the Courts will examine the relevancy of the reasons which persuaded the Income-tax Officer to take proceedings under Section 34(1)(a). The formation of the required belief is not the only requirement. The Income-tax Officer is further required by Section 34 to record his reasons for taking action under Section 34(1)(a) and obtain the sanction of the Central Board of Revenue or the Commissioner, as the case may be."

(emphasis added)

23. Thus, in the aforesaid facts & circumstances, this Court has no hesitation in holding that there was no material in possession of the Initiating Officer which could be held to be sufficient for holding a reason to believe that the petitioner is a Benamidar of respondent no.5, her son-in-law, with regard to the constructions in question for initiating proceedings under Section 24(1) of the Benami Transactions Act.

24. As regards, the order of provisional attachment under Section 24(3) of the Benami Transactions Act is concerned, Section 24(3) requires that Initiating Officer is of the opinion that the person in possession of the property held Benami may alienate the property during the period specified in the notice. Without such a satisfaction the property can not be attached by the Initiating Officer.

25. In the present case, no such material has been referred to by the Initiating Officer in the impugned attachment order or placed before this Court which could demonstrate that the property is likely to be sold and thus require him to resort to Section 24(3) for provisional attachment. Thus, the order of provisional attachment is also without any basis.

26. In view of the aforesaid, it is held that the show cause notice dated 05.01.2023 issued under 24(1) of the Benami Transactions Act, is issued without any relevant material in possession of the Initiating Officer which would cause him to have reason to believe to initiate such proceedings and similarly the order of provisional attachment dated 05.01.2023 is also held to be without any basis.

27. Thus, the impugned show cause notice dated 05.01.2023 issued under 24(1) of the Benami Transactions Act and also the provisional attachment order dated 05.01.2023 issued under Section 24(3) of the Act, are hereby set aside. All the consequential orders and proceedings on the basis of aforesaid show cause notice dated 5.1.2023 and the provisional attachment order dated 5.1.2023, stand non-est and void.

28. The writ petition is allowed.

Civil Law - Central Sales Tax Act, 1956 -
Section 5(3) - U.P. Value Added Tax Act, 2008 - Sales/Trade Tax Revision - Revisionist challenged Tribunal's order granting exemption under Section 5(3) for paddy sales, claiming they were "sale for export" rather than "sale in the course of export." Court held: (1) Tribunal's finding that sales were in the course of export was supported by certificates of foreign buyers, purchase orders, bills of lading, and Form-H, establishing an inseverable link between the sale and export (St. of Karn. Vs Azad Coach Builders Pvt. Ltd., (2010) 9 SCC 524). (2) Section 5(3) exemption applies when sale and export are inextricably linked, requiring intention to export, obligation to export, and actual export, which were satisfied in this case (Babu Kalika Prasad Traders Vs Commissioner Commercial Tax, 2012 N.T.N. Vol-49, p. 218). (3) Revisional jurisdiction under UPVAT Act is limited to correcting jurisdictional errors or egregious legal mistakes, not re-evaluating factual findings unless perverse; Tribunal's findings were based on evidence and not perverse (Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. Vs Dilbahar Singh, (2014) 9 SCC 78). (4) First Appellate Authority erred in ignoring factual evidence of export linkage, while Tribunal correctly applied legal principles. Revision dismissed; Tribunal's order upheld. (Paras 7-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

(Judgement dictated in Open Court)

1. Heard Sri Bipin Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the revisionist and Sri R.R. Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Suyash Agarwal, Counsel for the respondent.

2. This is a revision petition filed by the State wherein the following question of law has been admitted :-

"Whether under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Commercial Tax Tribunal was legally justified in granting exemption u/s 5(3) of Central Sales Act treating the transaction as sale in the course of export whereas the sale was for export to Ex. U.P. exporter?"

3. The case of the revisionist is that the finding of the first Appellate Authority was that the dealer in the present case was acting as an agent of the farmers and was auctioning the paddy to the highest bidder. The authority came to the conclusion that since the paddy was being auctioned to the highest bidder, even if the paddy was thereafter exported, the same would not come within the definition of "Sale in The Course of Export" and would be only 'Sale For Export'. The relevant part of the order of the first Appellate Authority is provided below :-

सुनिश्चित नहीं हो रहा है इसलिए व्यापारी को इस आधार पर भी उक्त सम्बन्धों पर छूट देय नहीं है। माननीय उच्च न्यायालय तथा सर्वोच्च न्यायालय ने अनेकानेक निर्णयों में “Sale For Export” तथा “Sale in The Course of Export” के अन्तर को स्पष्ट किया है तथा यह व्यवस्था दी है कि केन्द्रीय अधिनियम की धारा 5(3) में केवल “Sale in The Course of Export” पर ही करमुक्ति है तथा “Sale For Export” इस धारा में करमुक्त नहीं होगी।”

4. Against the above order, the dealer/respondent went in appeal before the Tribunal, wherein the Tribunal took into consideration the judgement of the Allahabad High Court in Babu Kalika Prasad Traders Vs. Commissioner Commercial Tax reported in 2012 N.T.N. Vol-49 page 218, which had considered the Supreme Court judgement in State of Karnataka Vs. Azad Coach Builders Pvt. Ltd. and Ors. reported in (2010) 9 SCC 524. Upon considering the above judgements, the Tribunal came to the following finding:-

क्रेता के एक आदेश का उल्लेख करते हुए इसके क्रम में निर्यातक द्वारा इस व्यापारी को जारी क्रय आदेश का उल्लेख करते हुए यह प्रमाणित किया गया है कि इन आदेशों के आधार पर की गयी खरीद से निर्मित चावल को देख के बाहर निर्यात किया गया है। अतः ज्वाइन्ट कमिश्नर (कार्यपालक) द्वारा पारित आदेश इस सीमा तक उचित नहीं है। सर्वश्री सतनाम ओवरसीज को की गयी बिक्री रू० 783756.00 के सम्बन्ध में व्यापारी द्वारा कोई प्रमाण पत्र दाखिल नहीं किया है। इस स्तर पर भी सर्वश्री सतनाम ओवरसीज को की गयी बिक्री रू० 783756.00 के सम्बन्ध में विदेशी क्रेता का कोई परचेज ऑर्डर या अन्य साक्ष्य नहीं प्रस्तुत किया गया है। अतः सर्वश्री सतनाम ओवरसीज से सम्बन्धित फार्म-एच को मान्यता प्रदान न करने से सम्बन्धित विद्वान ज्वाइन्ट कमिश्नर (कार्यपालक) द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 18.06.12 को आंशिक रूप से स्वीकार किये जाने योग्य है।

अपीलकर्ता व्यापारी द्वारा दायर द्वितीय अपील अंशतः स्वीकार की जाती है। ज्वाइन्ट कमिश्नर (कार्यपालक) द्वारा पारित आदेश को संशोधित करते हुए रू० 2,01,98,089.00 पर 8 प्रतिशत की दर से आरोपित कर रू० 16,15,847.00 समाप्त किया जाता है। अपीलकर्ता व्यापारी ने यदि इस सम्बन्ध में धनराशि जमा की गयी है तो यह धनराशि अपीलकर्ता को वापस की जाये।”

5. Counsel appearing on behalf of revisionist Mr. Bipin Kumar Pandey argued that in the present case no clear finding could be reached with regard to the goods being sold in the course of export, and accordingly, argued that the benefit of Section 5(3) of Central Sales Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') would not be applicable, and therefore, exemption would not be available to the dealer. He relied on the order passed by the first Appellate Authority to buttress his arguments.

6. Per contra, Mr. R.R. Agarwal, Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the dealer/respondent has placed reliance on the case of Azad Coach Builders Pvt. Ltd. (Supra).

7. Upon considering the arguments placed by counsel appearing on behalf of both the parties and upon perusal of the orders passed by the first Appellate Authority and the Tribunal, I am of the view that the first Appellate Authority did not consider certain factual aspects that have later been considered by the Tribunal.

8. The undisputed facts that emerge from the order passed by the Tribunal are that the dealer/respondent had produced certificate of the foreign buyers, purchase orders of the foreign buyers, bills of lading and the Form-H as required under the Act. These documents strengthened the belief of the Tribunal that the sales were made by the dealer/respondent in the course of export.

9. One may also rely on the relevant paragraphs of the judgement passed in Azad Coach Builders Pvt. Ltd. (Supra) that explains the interpretation of Section 5(3) of the Act. Relevant paragraphs are delineated below :-

"23. When we analyse all these decisions in the light of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the amending Act 103 of 1976 and on the interpretation placed on Section 5(3) of the CST Act, the following principles emerge:

To constitute a sale in the course of export there must be an intention on the part of both the buyer and the seller to export.

There must be obligation to export, and there must be an actual export.

The obligation may arise by reason of statute, contract between the parties, or from mutual understanding or agreement between them, or even from the nature of the transaction which links the sale to export.

To occasion export there must exist such a bond between the contract of sale and the actual exportation, that each link is inextricably connected with the one immediately preceding it, without which a transaction sale cannot be called a sale in the course of export of goods out of the territory of India.

24. The phrase "sale in the course of export" comprises in itself three essentials: (i) that there must be a sale; (ii) that goods must actually be exported; and (iii) that the sale must be a part and parcel of the export. The word "occasion" is used as a verb and means "to cause" or "to be the immediate cause of". Therefore, the words "occasioning the export" mean the factors, which were the immediate cause of export. The words "to comply with the agreement or order" mean all transactions which are inextricably linked with the agreement or order occasioning that export. The expression "in relation to" are words of comprehensiveness, which might both have a direct significance as well as an indirect significance, depending on the context in which it is used and they are not words of restrictive content and ought not be so construed.

25. Therefore, the test to be applied is, whether there is an inseverable link between the local sale or purchase on export and if it is clear that the local sale or purchase between the parties is inextricably linked with the export of the goods, then a claim under Section 5(3) for exemption from State sales tax is justified, in which case, the same goods theory has no application."

10. It may be noted that circular No.66/31-3-99 issued by the Commissioner, Commercial Tax, Uttar Pradesh, also clarifies the situation wherein the benefit of exemption is to be granted to the dealer. Relevant paragraph is quoted below :-

“3- उत्तर प्रदेश व्यापार कर अधिनियम-1948 के अन्तर्गत धान की प्रथम खरीद पर कर देय है। निर्यातक को धान की बिक्री करने वाले व्यापारी अगर किसान से धान निजी खाते या अन्य प्रिंसिपल के लिए खरीद करके, निर्यातक व्यापारी को ऐसे धान की बिक्री करता है तो उसे धान की खरीद पर क्रय कर देना होगा क्योंकि किसान और उनसे खरीदने वाले व्यापारी के बीच सम्बन्धवहार केन्द्रीय विक्रय कर अधिनियम की धारा-5(3) के अन्तर्गत नहीं आता है लेकिन अगर किसान का धान कोई

व्यापारी अपनी सेलिंग एजेन्सी में निर्यातक व्यापारी को बेचता है और धारा 5(3) की शर्तों को पालन होता है तो ऐसी बिक्री पर कोई कर देय नहीं होगा।”

11. Upon a perusal of aforesaid paragraph, it is clear that the nature of sale, if it is in the course of export, is exempted under Section 5(3) of the Act.

12. From a reading of the order passed by the Tribunal, it is crystal clear that the Tribunal has relied upon the certificate of the foreign buyers, purchase orders of the foreign buyers, bills of lading and the Form-H submitted under the Act to come to a finding that in the present case the goods were sold in the course of export. Based upon this finding, the Tribunal had come to the finding that the sale is exempted under Section 5(3) of the Act.

13. This Court in The Commissioner, Commercial Tax U.P. v. M/s Godfrey Philips India Limited [Neutral Citation No. - 2024:AHC:22365 (Sales/Trade Tax Revision No.150 of 2023 decided on February 12, 2024)] after considering the Supreme Court judgements in Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited v. Dilbahar Singh reported in (2014) 9 SCC 78 and in Mohd. Inam v. Sanjay Kumar Singhal and others reported in (2020) 7 SCC 327 had come to the finding that is delineated below :-

"12. The principles governing the exercise of revisional jurisdiction under the UPVAT Act, 2008 are imbued with a presumption of finality attached to judgments and orders pronounced by the appellate authorities. High Courts, in their capacity as revisional bodies, are entrusted with the solemn duty of upholding the sanctity of such judgments and orders, and such, should not lightly disturb them unless compelling reasons of paramount significance necessitate such intervention. It is imperative to underscore that revisional jurisdiction is not designed as a mechanism for the indiscriminate prelitigation of cases or the unwarranted reopening of matters that have been adjudicated and settled through due process. High Courts, in the exercise of their revisional jurisdiction are circumscribed by certain fundamental principles that underscore the sanctity of factual findings arrived at by lower courts or tribunals. Ordinarily, High Courts are precluded from intervening in factual findings unless such findings exhibit characteristics of perversity, are predicated on no evidence whatsoever, or evince a palpable and egregious error of law. The cardinal principle underlying revisional jurisdiction mandates that High Courts refrain from engaging in the revaluation of factual evidence or arrogating to themselves the authority to substitute their own findings for those meticulously arrived at by the lower courts or tribunals.

13. Revisional jurisdiction, as envisaged under the UPVAT Act, 2008, is meticulously tailored to address jurisdictional errors and excesses of law that may have permeated the adjudicative process at lower echelons of the judicial hierarchy. It is incumbent upon High Courts, when exercising revisional jurisdiction, to vigilantly scrutinize the legal landscape and ascertain whether the impugned judgment or order suffers from any infirmities of jurisdictional import or egregious deviations from the normative contours of legal propriety. The legislative intent underpinning the conferment of revisional jurisdiction upon High Courts is imbued with a profound commitment to the principles of judicial economy, finality, and legal certainty. Revisional jurisdiction is not conceived as a vehicle for the protracted re-examination of factual matrices, or the interminable redressal of grievances already exhaustively adjudicated upon by the lower courts or tribunals. Rather, it constitutes an instrumental mechanism for rectifying egregious legal errors or jurisdictional excesses that may have vitiated the adjudicative process, thereby ensuring the equitable and efficacious administrative of justice."

14. In view of the above, I find no reason to interfere in the order passed by the Tribunal as the findings of the Tribunal are based on the materials placed before it and not a figment of their imagination. There is no perversity whatsoever in the order passed by the Tribunal, and accordingly, the same is upheld. The question of law is answered against the revisionist and in favour of the dealer/respondent.

15. Ergo, the revision petition is dismissed.

Civil Law - U.P. Entry of Goods into Local Area Act, 2007 - Sections 1(3), 17 & 18 - U.P. Entry of Goods into Local Area Tax Act, 2000 - Section 4(A) - U.P. Sales Tax Rules, 2000 - Rule 41(5) - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226 - Writ Petition -

Petitioner challenged provisional assessment order dated April 19, 2006, final assessment order dated March 30, 2008, and appellate order dated December 31, 2022, imposing entry tax of Rs. 2,78,02,393/- on Indian Made Foreign Liquor (IMFL). Court held: (1) The U.P. Entry of Goods into Local Area Tax Act, 2000, was declared ultra vires by the Allahabad High Court, and proceedings under the New Act (2007) apply, but IMFL is not listed in the schedule of taxable goods under the New Act, rendering the imposition of entry tax without jurisdiction. (2) The appellate authority failed to address the petitioner's argument regarding the absence of IMFL in the New Act's schedule, making the order unreasoned and non-speaking. (3) Authorities lacked jurisdiction to impose entry tax on goods not included in the New Act's schedule, and the issue of non-inclusion goes to the root of the matter. Impugned appellate order dated December 31, 2022, quashed; matter remanded to the authority for a reasoned order addressing the non-inclusion of IMFL in the schedule, to be completed within three months. (Paras 4-9)

Writ Petition Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. Heard Sri Harshul Bhatnagar, counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner and Sri Rishi Kumar, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents.

2. This is a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India wherein the writ petitioner is aggrieved by the adjudication order dated March 3, 2008 for recovery of the amount of Rs.2,78,02,393/-

3. At the very first instance, counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner submits that the provisional assessment order dated April 19, 2006 was passed as per Section 4(A) of the Uttar Pradesh Entry of Goods into Local Area Tax Act, 2000 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') read with Rule 41(5) of the Uttar Pradesh Sales Tax Rule 2000. Subsequently, final assessment order dated March 30, 2008 was passed. Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner submits that the Act was held to be ultra virus by the High Court, Allahabad and the matter is pending before the Supreme Court. In the meantime, the present Act was brought in by way of an ordinance and is named as Uttar Pradesh Entry of goods into Local Area Act, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as the 'New Act'). The Act in Section 1(3) makes it clear that the Act would be deemed to be in force from November 1, 1999.

4. The present proceedings have all taken place under the New Act as earlier Act has been declared ultra virus by the High Court. It is to be noted that in the New Act entry tax is leviable on the goods that are mentioned in the schedule. However, the goods in question in the present case is Indian Made Foreign Liquor (hereinafter referred to as 'IMFL') which is not mentioned in the schedule. Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner, accordingly, submits that the entire proceedings that have culminated into the present liability are non est in law and without any basis whatsoever.

5. Counsel appearing on behalf of the State has relied on Sections 17 and 18 of the New Act to indicate that all actions taken under the earlier Act of 2000 shall be deemed to have been validly taken.

6. I have heard counsel appearing on behalf of the parties and perused the materials on record.

7. The only issue before this Court is whether the authorities below acted in accordance with law at the time of passing the impugned orders. It is clear that the provisional assessment was done as per the earlier Act of 2000 while final assessment has been done under the New Act. The arguments raised by counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner appears to be a valid one with regard to the fact that the New Act does not contain IMFL in the schedule, and accordingly, under the New Act, no final assessment could have been done with regard to the goods which were not included in the schedule of the New Act. The Appellate Authority while passing the order dated December 31, 2022 has not considered the arguments placed by the petitioner with regard to the absence of goods in question in the schedule. It is to be noted that if the goods in question are not in the schedule of the New Act, the authorities had no jurisdiction whatsoever to impose entry tax on the same. This question is going to the very root of the matter and the authority should have considered and answered the same.

8. In my view, the orders passed are bereft of any reason with regard to imposition of entry tax on IMFL that is not even an item in the schedule to the New Act.

9. In light of the same, impugned orders are unreasoned and have been passed in a non speaking manner.

Accordingly, the impugned order dated December 31, 2022 is quashed and set aside with a direction upon the authority concerned to grant another opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and pass a reasoned order on the same and specifically giving reasons with regard to imposition of tax on the particular goods that are not mentioned in the schedule of New Act. The parties shall be at liberty to place the relevant documents and judgments before the authority concerned. The entire exercise should be completed within a period of three months from date. Upon passing of the reasoned order a copy of the same be handed over to the petitioner within a week, thereafter.

10. The instant writ petition is allowed in aforesaid terms. There shall be no order as to the cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. M/s Samsung India Electronics Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as the “Petitioner”) has preferred the instant writ petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution of India challenging the order of the Additional Commissioner, Grade – 2 (Appeal) – I, Commercial Tax, NOIDA.

2. The facts and submissions made in the instant writ petitions bearing Writ Tax Nos. 777 of 2022 and 660 of 2023 are similar except for the relevant period and refund amount in question and hence, they are being taken up together.

FACTS

3. The factual matrix leading up to the instant writ petitions has been laid down below:

a. The petitioner is a company engaged in the export of Information Technology design and software development services pertaining to mobile devices (“IT Services”) to its overseas holding company, namely, M/s Samsung Electronics Company Limited, Korea (hereinafter referred to as the “SEC Korea”) in terms of prevalent service agreement dated January 1, 2019. Such export of IT services is made by the Petitioner under Letter of Undertaking (hereinafter referred to as the “LOU”) without payment of IGST which constitutes zero rated supply as per Section 16 of the Integrated Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the “IGST Act, 2017”)

b. For rendering IT Services to SEC Korea, the Petitioner procures various inputs, input services, and capital goods and accordingly avails ITC of the CGST, SGST, and IGST paid thereon, in accordance with the applicable provisions of the GST laws.

c. The Petitioner had filed a refund claim of unutilised ITC of CGST, SGST, and IGST paid on various inputs and input services for the period of April 2019 to June 2019. After due consideration by the Department, said refund claim amounting to Rs.6,36,69,447/- was sanctioned by the Department barring for an amount of Rs.7,500/- on the ground of claiming refund of unutilised ITC on invoices missing in the GSTR-2A returns.

d. The Petitioner then filed for the refund of the unutilised ITC of CGST, SGST, and IGST paid on various inputs and input services, for the period of July – September, 2019 amounting to Rs.7,46,52,231/- and October – December, 2019 amounting to Rs.8,20,59,875/-. Against the aforesaid refund applications, deficiency memos under FORM GST-RFD-03 and later show cause notices were issued by the Department proposing to reject the refund for the aforesaid periods.

e. Thereafter, the Petitioner filed a reply to the show cause notices and attended personal hearing, after which the Department partially allowed the refund and rejected a portion of the demand on the ground that the specific goods are capital goods, and not inputs vide orders dated April 28, 2021 and November 8, 2021.

f. Thereafter, the Petitioner filed appeals against the aforesaid orders dated April 28, 2021 and November 8, 2021. The said appeals were rejected vide orders dated October 25, 2021 and February 24, 2023.

g. Aggrieved by the order dated October 25, 2021, the Petitioner preferred the Writ Tax No.777/2022 before this Court and aggrieved by the order dated February 24, 2023, the Petitioner preferred the Writ Tax No. 660/2023 before this Court.

CONTENTIONS OF THE PETITIONER

4. Sri M.P. Devnath, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Petitioner has made the following submissions:

a. The Department has adopted an inconsistent approach in dealing with the refund applications of the Petitioner, despite the fact that each of the refund applications arise out of the same set of facts and circumstances, which is grossly incorrect in law.

b. It is imperative to mention that for the subsequent and prior periods, except the period from July 2019 to March 2020, the refund claims have duly been sanctioned to the Petitioner on the same facts and circumstances only.

c. It is a settled position of law that the Department cannot take contrary stand and adopt an inconsistent approach while dealing with the same set of facts as well as legal background. Reliance in this regard is placed on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Birla Corporation Ltd. v. CCE reported in 2005 (186) ELT 266 (SC), Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. v. Collector of C. Ex., Baroda reported in 2006 (202) ELT 37 (SC), and Boving Fouress Ltd. v. Commissioner of Central Excise, Chennai reported in 2006 (202) ELT 389 (SC).

d. The Department has travelled beyond the scope of show cause notices. The show cause notices and the refund rejection orders had rejected the refund on the ground that the specific goods are not consumed in the process of provision of output service and hence cannot be treated as inputs. However, the impugned orders dated October 25, 2021 and February 24, 2023, have proceeded on a completely different ground and have held that the expenses incurred on specific goods were required to be capitalised in the books of accounts as per Accounting Standard 10, and hence, the same are covered under the ambit of capital goods in terms of Section 2(19) of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the "CGST Act, 2017"). The Respondent No. 2 has therefore clearly travelled beyond the scope of the show cause notices, which is clearly impermissible in law. Reliance is placed on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Reckitt & Colman of India Ltd. v. Collector of Central Excise reported in (1997) 10 SCC 379 and e. The Department has gone beyond the settled principles of law that if an allegation or ground is not made at the time of issuance of show cause notice, the authority cannot go beyond the scope of show cause notice to create a new ground at the later stage of adjudication. However, it is apparent and abundantly clear in the instant case that the Respondent No. 2 has completely travelled beyond the scope of show cause notices while adjudicating the issues on the principles of Accounting Standards which is not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the instant case. Neither the same was ever highlighted in the show cause notice nor in the order issued by the Respondent No. 3.

f. It is an admitted and undisputed fact that the specific goods have not been capitalised by the Petitioner. Upon a reading of the definition of the 'input' and 'capital goods', it is abundantly clear that the goods, which are not capitalised in the books of account and are intended to be used in course or furtherance of a business, would qualify as 'input'. In effect, as per the CGST Act, 2017, the only distinction between inputs and capital goods is that capital goods are the goods value of which has been capitalised in the books of account of the person claiming credit.

g. The Petitioner has not capitalised the value of specific goods in its books of account because the specific goods procured by it were used for the purpose of R & D, software development, and validation thereof, which includes, inter alia, development of project, testing and validation of the output results. The Petitioner used these specific goods for undertaking research, design, and development related activities. Since the specific goods were procured by the Petitioner specifically for the purpose of software development and the validation thereof, the Petitioner did not capitalise these goods in its books of accounts. The Petitioner followed the capitalisation method based on use of goods and given that specific items became redundant after completion and validation of software and were discarded thereafter, the said goods were not capitalised in the books and accordingly, the Petitioner availed ITC on such goods by treating them as inputs. Therefore, the Petitioner has clearly treated the specific goods as 'inputs'.

h. It is further submitted that the capitalisation of assets cannot depend upon any straight jacket formula. The question of capitalisation has to be seen and analysed, keeping in mind the use case of the given industry. Goods which can be capital goods for one industry can be input for other industry. The Supreme Court in Tata Engineering & Locomotive Company Ltd. v. State of Bihar reported in 1994 (74) ELT 193 (SC) held that tyres, tubes, and batteries would constitute inputs as they are essential and necessary for producing the goods in which it has been used. The Supreme Court held that no vehicle could operate or work, nor can it be said to have been produced unless tyres, tubes, and batteries are fixed to it, hence, these items would be inputs. Similarly, the specific goods in question are inputs because they are put for use for providing the services of R & D, software development, and validation thereof.

i. Without prejudice, the Petitioner further submits that the impugned orders dated October 25, 2021 and February 24, 2023, have erred in questioning the applicability of Accounting Standards under GST laws. Accounting Standards are applied to present Financial Statements reliably and the applicability of Accounting Standards on companies is governed by the Companies Act, 2013. Further, the financial statements of a company are required to comply with the Accounting Standards and deviation from the same is required to be disclosed along with financial effects thereof. The consequences of failure to comply with the provisions of the Accounting Standards are also contained in the Companies Act, 2013. Hence, GST authorities cannot be permitted to question the applicability and compliance of Accounting Standards as the same is beyond their jurisdiction. As long as financial statements stood prepared and audited in accordance with the provisions of Companies Act, 2013 and there were no questions raised by the relevant officers under Companies Act, 2013, the GST authorities were to regard that all expenses stood correctly recorded in the books of accounts.

j. In view of the aforesaid submissions, it is prayed that the impugned orders dated October 25, 2021 and February 24, 2023 passed by the Respondent No. 2 are patently illegal, devoid of jurisdiction and have been passed in a colourable exercise of power, and hence are liable to be set aside.

CONTENTIONS OF THE RESPONDENTS

5. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents has made the following submissions:

a. The principle of res judicata does not apply in matters of taxation and merely because refund claims have been sanctioned previously, does not mean that the refund claims for subsequent period will also be sanctioned.

b. It is clear that the Petitioner while preparing its financial statements has not adhered to the Accounting Standards. Specific goods have not been capitalised by the Petitioner in accordance with Accounting Standard 10.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

6. I have heard the learned counsels appearing on behalf of the parties and perused the materials on record.

7. Taxation serves as the cornerstone of governmental revenue, facilitating the provision of public services and infrastructure. Essential to this system is consistency, ensuring that similar factual and legal circumstances are met with uniform treatment. Inconsistencies can erode public trust, undermine compliance, and ultimately compromise the integrity of the tax system. Consistency in taxation entails the application of standardized rules and principles to taxpayers confronting analogous factual and legal circumstances. This uniformity is fundamental to fostering fairness, transparency and predictability within the tax regime. The absence of consistency can breed perceptions of inequity and arbitrariness, eroding taxpayer compliance and faith in the tax systems' integrity.

8. The Petitioner in the instant case has put forth a compelling argument, contending that the approach adopted by the Department in dealing with similar facts and circumstances lacks consistency. Upon a careful consideration, this Court finds itself in agreement with the Petitioner's assertion. It is evident that refund claims arising from precisely similar facts and circumstances for previous and subsequent assessment periods were duly sanctioned. However, a stark deviation from this precedent is observed in the treatment of refund claims for the periods of July-September 2019 and October-December, 2019, which have been inexplicably withheld by the Department. This sudden change in the Department's stand is not only inconsistent but also irrational. The principle of consistency dictates that when faced with identical factual and legal circumstances, the treatment should remain uniform. In this instance, the Department's decision to withhold refund claims for the aforementioned periods, despite having sanctioned similar claims in the past and subsequently in the future, lacks cogent rationale.

9. When taxpayers find themselves in analogous factual and legal circumstances, tax authorities must apply consistent treatment to avoid perceptions of unfairness. Inconsistencies in addressing comparable factual circumstances can lead to distrust in the fairness of the tax system and compromise compliance. Taxation departments must adhere to consistent interpretations and applications of tax laws and regulations. This adherence ensures that taxpayers are treated equitably under the law and prevents arbitrary decision-making by tax authorities. Such consistency also fosters predictability and certainty.

10. The crux of the matter lies in the undeniable fact that the factual and legal circumstances surrounding the refund claims for July-September 2019 and October-December 2019 are indistinguishable from those of previous assessment periods and also the subsequent assessment periods for which the refunds have been approved. The Department's failure to provide a valid justification for this disparate treatment further underscores the inconsistency and irrationality of its actions. Moreover, such inconsistencies create uncertainty and confusion among taxpayers, leading to potential disputes and litigation. In the absence of clear and consistent guidelines, taxpayers may find it challenging to navigate the tax system, resulting in increased compliance costs and administrative burdens. Taxpayers have a legitimate expectation that similar factual and legal circumstances will be met with uniform treatment, and any deviations from this principle undermine the credibility and legitimacy of the actions taken by tax authorities.

11. The inconsistency and irrationality displayed by the Department in withholding refund claims for July-September 2019 and October-December 2019, despite having sanctioned similar claims in the past and in the future are indefensible.

12. The Supreme Court has upheld the doctrine of consistency on numerous occasions and held that Revenue cannot take a different stand when facts are almost identical. In Birla Corpn. Ltd. v. CCE (supra), the Supreme Court held as follows:

"5. In the instant case the same question arises for consideration and the facts are almost identical. We cannot permit the Revenue to take a different stand in this case. The earlier appeal involving identical issue was not pressed and was therefore, dismissed. The respondent having taken a conscious decision to accept the principles laid down in Pepsico India Holdings Ltd. [(2001) 130 ELT 193 : (2001) 42 RLT 800 (cegat)] cannot be permitted to take the opposite stand in this case. If we were to permit them to do so, the law will be in a state of confusion and will place the authorities as well as the assesseees in a quandary.”

13. Similarly, reference can also be made to Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. v. CCE (supra), relevant paragraph of which is extracted below:

“9. Since the point involved in the present case is identical to the point involved in Hindustan Petroleum Corpn. Ltd. [(2000) 124 ELT 323 (Tri)] and the Department having accepted the principle laid down in Hindustan Petroleum Corpn. Ltd. [(2000) 124 ELT 323 (Tri)] the Department cannot be permitted to take a different stand in the present appeals.”

14. In Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd. And Anr. v. Union of India and others reported in (2006) 3 SCC 1, the Supreme Court held that even though res judicata does not apply to tax matters, where facts and law are same, no authority can generally be permitted to take a different view. Relevant paragraph is extracted below:

“20. The decisions cited have uniformly held that res judicata does not apply in matters pertaining to tax for different assessment years because res judicata applies to debar courts from entertaining issues on the same cause of action whereas the cause of action for each assessment year is distinct. The courts will generally adopt an earlier pronouncement of the law or a conclusion of fact unless there is a new ground urged or a material change in the factual position. The reason why the courts have held parties to the opinion expressed in a decision in one assessment year to the same opinion in a subsequent year is not because of any principle of res judicata but because of the theory of precedent or the precedential value of the earlier pronouncement. Where facts and law in a subsequent assessment year are the same, no authority whether quasi-judicial or judicial can generally be permitted to take a different view. This mandate is subject only to the usual gateways of distinguishing the earlier decision or where the earlier decision is per incuriam. However, these are fetters only on a coordinate Bench which, failing the possibility of availing of either of these gateways, may yet differ with the view expressed and refer the matter to a Bench of superior strength or in some cases to a Bench of superior jurisdiction.”

15. What emerges from the aforementioned judgments of the Supreme Court is that the principles of consistency is sacrosanct in taxation matters. The Supreme Court has consistently emphasized that Revenue cannot take a different stand when facts are almost identical. These judgments underscore the significance of consistency in tax administration and the need for tax authorities to adhere to established principles and precedents. The arbitrary withholding of refund claims for specific periods, despite past precedents and the absence of any material change in circumstances, is contrary to the principles of fairness and equity.

16. Another ground taken in the instant dispute by the Petitioner revolves around the difference between input and capital goods. Under Section 2 of the CGST Act, 2017 “capital goods” are defined as goods value of which is capitalized in the books of account of the person claiming ITC and are used in the course or furtherance of business. On the other hand, “input” is defined as any goods other than capital goods used or intended to be used by a supplier in the course or furtherance of business. The distinction between inputs and capital goods lies in whether the value of the goods is capitalized in the books of account of the taxpayer claiming ITC. Capital goods, by virtue of their nature, are intended for long-term use in the business and are typically subject to capitalization. Inputs, however, are goods used in the day-to-day operations of the business and are not subject to capitalization. In the instant case, specific goods procured by the Petitioner for R & D, software development, and validation directly contributed to the provisions of IT services exported to SEC Korea. These goods were not capitalized in the books of account, as they were deemed redundant after the completion and validation of software projects. The Petitioner’s assertion aligns with the definition of inputs provided under the CGST Act, 2017 which includes any goods used or intended to be used in the course or furtherance of business. Moreover, the Supreme Court’s decision in Tata Engineering & Locomotive Company (supra) underscores the principle that goods essential for producing a final product qualify as inputs. In the instant case, the specific goods used for R & D and software development are essential for providing IT services, and therefore, qualify as inputs under the CGST Act, 2017.

17. It is also apparent that the Department in the instant case has travelled beyond the show cause notice by taking a completely contrary stand. The issuance of a show cause notice entails the obligation on the authority to meticulously delineate specific allegations or concerns prompting its issuance. The principles of natural justice demands that the recipient be accorded a fair and impartial opportunity to respond to the allegations or concerns raised in the show cause notice. This includes the right to be heard, the right to present evidence or arguments in their defence and the right to present evidence or arguments in their defence and also the right to a reasoned decision based on the merits of the case. Any attempt by the issuing authority to expand the scope of inquiry or introduce new allegations beyond those articulated in the show cause notice would constitute a violation of the principles of natural justice. Such actions would not only undermine the recipient’s right to a fair hearing but also erode trust in the integrity and impartiality of the adjudicatory process. The issuance of a show cause notice marks the initiation of a dialogue between the authority and the recipient, providing an avenue for the latter to present their perspective and defend against any allegation made. This process is rooted in the principle that individuals or entities should be given an opportunity to be heard before any adverse action is taken against them. By formally notifying the recipient of the grounds for initiating action, the authority is compelled to provide a coherent and substantiated basis for its actions, thereby fostering transparency in decision-making processes.

18. In Ramlala v. State of U.P. and others reported in 2023 SCC OnLine (All) 2479 this Court propounded that a person must be accorded a fair chance to put up his case and therefore the authorities cannot traverse beyond the show cause notice. Relevant paragraphs are extracted herein:

“9. The principle that emerges from the above judgments is patently clear that a show cause notice is required to provide details of the nature of the offence and the grounds on which the show cause notice has been issued. Furthermore, the order that is subsequently passed, based on the show cause notice, cannot go beyond the said show cause notice and cannot in any manner penalise the noticee on grounds that were not stated in the show cause notice.

10. The rationale for not allowing the respondents from going beyond the realm of the show cause notice is that the petitioner has to be given a chance to put up his case with regard to the said show cause notice. In the event, a particular case is made out in the show cause notice and the order passed subsequently is beyond the said show cause notice, the same would amount to violation of the principles of natural justice, as the petitioner would not have been aware of the new grounds or new factual elements and could never have placed his case for the above before the authority concerned. It is in this background that the Supreme Court in umpteen judgments has laid down the law that an order passed by an authority cannot go beyond the scope of the show cause notice. In fact, the Supreme Court in the case of The Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P. v. Kumari Chitra Srivastava, (1970) 1 SCC 121 has categorically stated that the principles of audi alteram partem are required to be followed even if the same is burdensome in nature. Justice S.M. Sikri in his inimitable style stated as follows: “Principles of natural justice are to some minds burdensome but this price - a small price indeed - has to be paid if we desire a society governed by the rule of law.”

19. In Associated Switch Gears and Projects v. State of U.P. and others reported in 2024:AHC:12780, this Court espoused on the importance of show cause notice. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

“8. The significance of adhering to the confines of a show cause notice lies in upholding the rule of law and preventing arbitrary exercises of power. Any action taken by an authority beyond the scope defined in the notice risks transgressing the boundaries of legality and procedural fairness. Such overreach not only undermines the legitimacy of the authority but also compromises the rights of the individuals or entities involved, potentially leading to legal challenges and erosion of public trust. Moreover, the issuance of a show cause notice imposes a duty on the part of the authority to meticulously outline the specific allegations or concerns prompting its issuance. This requirement fosters transparency and accountability, as the recipient is entitled to a clear understanding of the charges against it, enabling it to formulate an informed response. Any attempt by the authority to expand the scope of inquiry or introduce new allegations beyond those articulated in the notice would violate this principle of specificity, depriving the recipient of a fair opportunity to address the accusations leveled against it.

9. The issuance of a show cause notice represents a pivotal juncture in administrative proceedings, demarcating the boundaries within which any authority can exercise its powers. By adhering to the confines of the notice, authorities uphold principles of fairness, accountability, procedural regularity, and legal certainty essential for the legitimacy and effectiveness of governance systems. Any attempt to transcend these limits not only violates the rights of the individuals or entities involved but also undermines the rule of law and public trust in the institutions tasked with upholding it. Thus, this Court holds that, adhering to the show cause notice is not merely a procedural formality, but a mandatory requirement, beyond the scope of which, no action can be taken. Adherence to the show cause notice is a fundamental safeguard against arbitrary exercises of power, ensuring that authority remains tethered to the principles of justice and the rule of law."

20. It is evident in the instant case that the Department has deviated from the show cause notice, and as such any order passed by it running contrary to the grounds taken in the show cause notice, cannot be sustained. Issuance of the show cause notice represents a pivotal juncture in legal or administrative proceedings, demarcating the boundaries within which any authority can exercise its powers. Adhering to the confines of the show cause notice upholds principles of fairness, accountability, procedural regularity, and legal certainty essential for the legitimacy and effectiveness of the governance systems. Any attempt to transcend these limits not only violates the rights of the individuals or entities involved but also undermines the rule of law and public trust in the institutions tasked with upholding it. Therefore, adherence to the show cause notice is not merely a procedural formality but a mandatory requirement, beyond the scope of which, no action can be taken.

21. Principles emerging from the aforesaid discussion have been summarised below:

a. While the principle of res judicata does not apply to taxation matters, it is incumbent upon authorities to take a consistent approach when dealing with similar factual and legal circumstances. The principle of consistency states that when faced with analogous factual and legal circumstances, the treatment should remain uniform. Taxpayers have a legitimate expectation that similar factual and legal circumstances will be met with uniform treatment, and any deviations from this principle undermine the credibility and legitimacy of the actions taken by tax authorities.

b. When facts and circumstances in a subsequent assessment year are the same, no authority, whether quasi-judicial or judicial can generally be allowed to take a contrary view. The arbitrary withholding of refund claims for specific periods, despite past precedents and the absence of any material change in circumstances, is contrary to the principles of fairness and equity.

c. Capital goods, are intended for long-term use and are typically subject to capitalization. However, inputs, are goods used in the day-to-day operations of the business and are not subject to capitalization.

d. While issuing a Show Cause Notice, it is incumbent upon the Department to clearly outline the specific allegations or concerns against the recipient. In no case, the Department can be allowed to traverse beyond the confines of the Show Cause Notice, since the same will trample upon the recipient's right to defend itself. Any attempt by the issuing authority to expand the scope of inquiry or introduce new allegations beyond those articulated in the show cause notice would constitute a violation of the principles of natural justice. Such actions would not only undermine the recipient's right to a fair hearing but also erode trust in the integrity and impartiality of the adjudicatory process. Any action taken beyond the confines of the Show Cause Notice, is void ab initio and cannot be sustained.

22. In light of the aforesaid, it is evident that the impugned orders dated October 25, 2021 and February 24, 2023 are palpably erroneous, and cannot be sustained. Accordingly, let there be a writ of certiorari issued against the orders dated October 25, 2021 and February 24, 2023 passed by the Respondent No. 2. The said orders are hereby quashed and set aside.

23. The writ petitions bearing Writ Tax No.777 of 2022 and Writ Tax No.660 of 2023 are, accordingly, allowed. Consequential reliefs to follow. There shall be no order as to the costs.

24. An urgent photostat-certified copy of the order, if applied for, should be readily made available to parties upon compliance with requisite formalities.

Civil Law - U.P. Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 - Sections 74, 107, 122, 130 - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226 -
 - Petitioner challenged orders dated September 25, 2019, and April 5, 2022 (confiscation and penalty under Sections 130 and 122), and orders dated December 3, 2022, and August 3, 2022 (tax liability under Section 74), alleging improper assessment of excess stock. Court held: (1) Mere presence of excess stock does not justify confiscation under Section 130(1) unless tax liability arises at the point of supply or intent to evade tax is established; no such intent was alleged (M/s Maa Mahamaya Alloys Pvt. Ltd. Vs St. of U.P., 2023 82 NTN DX 393). (2) Stock valuation based on eye estimation, without physical weighing or counting despite available facilities, violated Section 15 and Rules, rendering confiscation and penalty orders unsustainable (M/s Metenere Ltd. Vs U.O.I., Writ Tax No. 360 of 2020). (3) Inordinate delay of 10 months in issuing show cause notice and 11 months in passing confiscation order indicated callous conduct, vitiating proceedings. (4) Burden of proof for confiscation and penalty lies on the Department, which failed to conduct proper physical verification. Impugned orders dated September 25, 2019, April 5, 2022, December 3, 2022, and August 3, 2022, quashed; deposited amounts to be refunded within eight weeks. (Paras 7-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Alope Kumar, counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner and Mr. Rishi Kumar, Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents.

2. The above two writ petitions have been filed challenging the orders passed in appeal under Section 107 of the Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act').

3. In the first writ petition bearing Writ Tax No.916 of 2022, the orders under challenge are the order passed by the respondent No.3 (being the Assessing Officer) dated September 25, 2019 and the order dated April 5, 2022 passed by the Appellate Authority under Section 107 of the Act. The above two orders have been passed in relation to confiscation under Section 130 of the Act and levy of penalty under Section 122 of the Act.

4. In the second writ petition bearing Writ Tax No.1600 of 2022, the order dated December 3, 2022 passed by the respondent No.3 (being the Assessing Officer) and the order dated August 3, 2022 passed by the First Appellate Authority under Section 107 of the Act are under challenge. These orders have been passed under Section 74 of the Act for liability arising out of additional stock that was present with the petitioner.

5. In relation to Writ Tax No.916 of 2022, the issue to be answered is whether mere presence of additional stock would result in confiscation and subsequent penalty.

6. Counsel on behalf of the petitioner has relied on two judgments of the coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of M/s Maa Mahamaya Alloys Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2023 82 NTN DX 393 and in the case of M/s Metenere Ltd. vs. Union of India (Writ Tax No.360 of 2020, decided on December 17, 2020) in support of his arguments.

7. From a perusal of the judgment in the case of M/s Maa Mahamaya Alloy Pvt. Ltd. (supra), it is clear that the issue was decided against the respondents. One may rely upon the paragraphs provided below for the same:-

"14. Coming to the Issue no.2, Section 130 of the GST Act contemplates and provides for levy of the penalty, in the event, any of the conditions so mentioned in Section 130(1) are made out. Section 130(1) reads as under:

"Section 130. Confiscation of goods or conveyances and levy of penalty-

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, if any person -

(i) supplies or receives any goods in contravention of any of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder with intent to evade payment of tax; or

(ii) does not account for any goods on which he is liable to pay tax under this Act; or

(iii) supplies any goods liable to tax under this Act without having applied for registration; or

(iv) contravenes any of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder with intent to evade payment of tax; or

(v) uses any conveyance as a means of transport for carriage of goods in contravention of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder unless the owner of the conveyance proves that it was so used without the knowledge or connivance of the owner himself, his agent, if any, and the person in charge of the conveyance, then, all such goods or conveyances shall be liable to confiscation and the person shall be liable to penalty under section 122."

15. On a plain reading of the allegations levelled against the petitioner with regard to the improper accounting of goods, the only stipulation contained in Clauses (ii) and (iv) of sub-section (1) of Section 130 can at best be invoked by the department, however, in the present case, even assuming for the sake of argument, that the goods were lying in excess of the goods in record, the case against the petitioner would not fall under Clause (ii) of sub-section (1) of Section 130 for the simple reason that the liability to pay the tax arises at the time of point of supply, and not at any point earlier than that. On a plain reading, the scope of Clause (ii) of sub-section (1) of Section 130 is that any assessee who is liable to pay tax and does not account for such goods, after the time of supply is occasioned, would be liable to penalty under Clause (ii). Analyzing Clause (iv) of sub-section (1) of Section 130, the contravention of any provision of the Act or the Rules should be in conjunction with an intent to evade payment tax and penalty can be levied by invoking Clause (iv) only when the department establishes that there were a contravention of the Act and Rules coupled with the 'intent to make payment of tax'. There is no such allegation in the show cause notice or any of the orders, I have no hesitation in holding that even the Clause (iv) of sub-section (1) of Section 130 would not be attracted in the present case."

8. Furthermore, the coordinate Bench in M/s Maa Mahamaya Alloy Pvt. Ltd. (supra) held that confiscation of the stock cannot be done only on the basis of eye estimation. The relevant paragraph is delineated below:-

"19. Coming to the Issue no.IV with regard to the determination of value of the goods. Section 15 of the GST Act provides for valuation of the taxable supply. In furtherance of the provisions contained in the Act, Rules have been framed and Rule 27 of the said Rules provides for the manner of valuation of supply of goods or services, however, in the present case, the valuation of the goods is required to be done in terms of the mandate of Section 15(1) read with Section 15(2) and read with Section 15(3). In the said Section 15 or the Rules framed thereunder, there is no prescriptions for valuation of the goods on the basis of eye estimation as has been done by the department and has been repelled by the appellate authority. The appellate authority has erred in repelling the valuation done on the basis of eye estimation, however, has proceeded to value the goods (although differently) at the appellate stage without resorting to the mandate and manner prescribed in Section 15 read with the Rules, thus, on that count also, the impugned order is not sustainable."

9. In the present case, the Appellate Authority, after examining all materials, came to the following conclusion:-

“... यह स्थिति यह स्पष्ट करती है कि अधिकारियों द्वारा वास्तव में माल का वजन कराकर स्टॉक अंकित नहीं किया गया है तथा इस संबंध में अपीलकर्ता का कथन उचित होना स्पष्ट होता है कि अधिकारियों द्वारा उचित प्रकार से वजन कराकर स्टॉक अंकित किए बना अंदाजा से गिनती एवं वजन का आगणन किया गया है जो केवल eye estimation के आधार पर ही है जिसमें जूनियरतम अधिकारी को अकेले लगभग 90 प्रति० स्टॉक को अंकित करने का कार्य दिया गया है। सर्वेक्षण के समय बनाए गये स्टॉक शीट में से किसी भी स्टॉक शीट के साथ माल को छोटे छोटे टुकड़ों में वजन कराने की तकपट्टी जिसमें एक बार में किए गये वजन को लिखा जाता है, नहीं बनायी गयी जबकि व्यापार स्थल पर वजन कराने का कांटा उपलब्ध रहा था? स्टॉक गणना की यह प्रक्रिया निश्चय ही त्रुटिपूर्ण है जिसमें सभी साइज के सरिया का एक बण्डल का वजन बिना वास्तविक वजन कराए गोलांकित में 50 केजी अंकित किया गया है एवं बिना तकपट्टी बनाए 520, 1676, 478, 757, 150, 400, 350, 500, 292 टन आदि का स्टॉक एक एक ढेर में अंकित किया गया है। इस प्रकार का स्टॉक अंकित किये जाने से यह स्पष्ट है कि स्टॉक की गणना उचित प्रकार से नहीं की गयी है तथा अधिकारियों द्वारा केवल Eye Estimation के आधार पर स्टॉक का अंकन किया गया है। यहाँ यह भी उल्लेखनीय है कि स्टॉक शीट के प्रत्येक पन्ने पर व्यापारी की ओर से उपस्थित व्यक्ति के हस्ताक्षर न होने एवं पंचों के हस्ताक्षर न होने से यह स्पष्ट हो रहा है कि अधिकारियों द्वारा स्टॉक गणना करने के विभागीय परिपाट का अनुपालन भी नहीं किया गया है। मेरे द्वारा भौतिक सत्यापन शीट पर हस्ताक्षर करने वाले अधिकारियों द्वारा प्रयोग किए गये बाड़ी वार्न कैमरे की रिकार्डिंग

मंगाकर देखी गयी। रिकार्डिंग की विडियो उपलब्ध नहीं करायी गयी। जो स्पष्ट करता है कि इन अधिकारियों द्वारा माल की कोई तौल करायी गयी है से संबंधित साक्ष्य विभाग के पास नहीं है। व्यापार स्थल पर टुकड़ों का वजन करने हेतु कांटा उपलब्ध रहने की दशा में व्यापारी के मजदूरों का प्रयोग करके वजन कराया जा सकता था। यह भी उल्लेखनीय रूप से पाया गया कि मात्र 10 घंटे के कार्यकाल में इतने अधिक सरिया के बंडल की गिनती भी नहीं करायी जा सकती है जबकि वजन कराया जाना भी नामुमकिन कार्य है।”

10. One is unable to understand that after the Appellate Authority had come to the above finding that the stock was not weighed or counted, specifically when the same could have very well been done in the premises of the petitioner, why did the Appellate Authority subsequently reduce the penalty by making a fresh assessment. The calculation of the stock by the Appellate Authority on the basis of an estimate is without any basis in law. When the Appellate Authority had come to the finding that the officers in the survey did not carry out the quantification of the stock in the correct manner, there was no reason for the Appellate Authority to uphold the confiscation and penalty. It is to be further noted that the survey was carried out on October 26, 2018, immediately thereafter objection was raised by the petitioner on October 28, 2018 and the order of confiscation was passed by the Assessing Authority on September 25, 2019, almost after 11 months of the date of survey. From the record, I do not find any reason with regard to the delay in the confiscation and levy of penalty. In fact, the notice for confiscation was issued in August 2019, almost 10 months after the date of survey. This inordinate delay in issuing show cause notice goes to the root of the matter and is a factor to be considered. In my view, the delay leads to an inference that the authorities have acted in a callous manner.

11. This Court is of the view that the entire procedure followed by the authorities indicates not only a lackadaisical approach but also showcases the incompetence and inefficiency of the authorities that had carried out the survey in a shoddy manner and thereafter issued the show cause notice and passed order of confiscation and penalty belatedly.

12. It is trite law that the burden of proof for imposition of penalty and confiscation of goods is on the Department and the same cannot be done on estimates when it is clear that the Department could have carried out a physical verification based on counting and weighing of the goods. In light of the same, the entire finding with regard to excess stock, that is based on estimate, is liable to be rejected outrightly.

13. In light of the above, the impugned orders in Writ Tax No.916 of 2022 with regard to penalty and confiscation are quashed and set aside.

14. Similarly, the entire proceedings that have been initiated under Section 74 of the Act that have culminated in the writ petition bearing Writ Tax No.1600 of 2022, wherein challenge has been raised against the order passed by the Assessing Officer and the order passed in appeal with regard to liability of tax under Section 74 of the Act are to be quashed and set-aside as the same are based on finding that there was excess stock. As the said finding of excess stock is clearly without any basis in law and illegal, the initiation of proceedings under Section 74 of the Act cannot stand on any footing.

15. Accordingly, the impugned orders in Writ Tax No.1600 of 2022 are quashed and set-aside. Consequently reliefs to follow. The amount, if any, deposited by the petitioner with the authorities, the same should be returned to the petitioner within a period of eight weeks from date.

16. Accordingly, both the writ petitions are allowed.

Civil Law - Income Tax Act, 1961 - Sections 132(1-A), 132B(1)(i) & 132B(4) - Income Tax Rules, 1962 - Rule 119A - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226 - Petitioner challenged seizure of Rs. 36,12,000/- on 01.09.2022 under Section 132B(1)(i) and sought its release with interest under Section 132B(4), alleging non-compliance with the 120-day timeline for deciding release application. Court held: (1) Section 132B(1)(i) allows release of seized assets if their nature and source are explained and no pre-existing or likely tax demand exists; the second proviso's use of "shall release" within 120 days is directory, not mandatory, as the only consequence of non-compliance is interest at 18% per annum under Section 132B(4) (St. of U.P. Vs Manbodhan Lal Srivastava, AIR 1957 SC 912). (2) Petitioner's application dated 15.09.2022, claiming ownership of seized cash with supporting books of accounts, was maintainable despite seizure from another person, as ownership was not disputed by the revenue. (3) Assessing Authority's failure to decide the application within 120 days did not result in automatic release, as the directory nature of the provision preserves jurisdiction to decide post-timeline (C. Bright Vs District Collector, (2021) 2 SCC 392). (4) Decisions of Guj. and Gauhati High Courts treating the timeline as mandatory were not followed, as they relied on inapplicable precedent under Section 132(8) (Mitaben R. Shah Vs Deputy Commissioner of Income-Tax, (2011) 311 ITR 424 (Guj)). Writ petition disposed of with direction to Assessing Authority to decide application within two weeks by a reasoned order. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal

Singh, J.

Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rakesh Ranjan Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ram Narain Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Gaurav Mahajan, learned counsel for the revenue.

2. Present writ petition has been filed to quash the seizure of Rs. 36,12,000/- dated 13.09.2022, effected under Section 132B(1)(i) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). Further relief has been sought to release the said amount detained since 01.09.2022, together with due interest payable under Section 132(B)(4) read with Rule 119 (A) of the Income Tax Rule, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules').

3. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner submits, petitioner is a jeweller. He regularly filed his income tax returns since 2012-2013. In the year 2022, he set out to acquire stock of gold jewellery for the oncoming Dushehra and Diwali festivities. He thus handed over Rs.36,12,000/- to his worker Om Prakash Bind on 31.08.2022 alongwith railway ticket requiring him to undertake the rail journey to Kolkata to buy jewellery. On 31.08.2022, said Om Prakash Bind was apprehended by the Government Reserved Police (GRP) at Railway Station, Mirzapur. In the course of that search by the police authorities, Rs.36,12,000/- was recovered from his bag. Later, that information was passed on to the Income Tax Authority who arrived on the scene on 01.09.2022 and subjected the cash recovered from Om Prakash Bind to proceeding under Section 132 (1-A) of the Act.

4. In the course of proceedings statements of the petitioner as also Om Prakash Bind were recorded. In that, according to the petitioner, a consistent story emerged that the cash Rs.36,12,000/- recovered from Om Prakash Bind, belonged to the present petitioner.

5. The petitioner further claims, during the course of that investigation, petitioner had produced regular books of accounts and details of his income tax returns filed for the past Assessment Years to establish that the seized cash was duly accounted for/tax paid money. On 15.09.2022, the petitioner made an application to the assessing authority/respondent No.3 in terms of Section 132 B (1) (i) read with the proviso to Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act to release the amount Rs.36,12,000/-. As a fact, it is undisputed, rather it is admitted to the revenue-that application has remained pending till now.

6. In such facts, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has vehemently urged, in view of the clear language of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act read with the second proviso thereto, once the application had been made by the petitioner to release the seized amount, the assessing authority was obligated to examine, if the nature and source of acquisition of any part of the seized money was explained. Further, it was obligated to examine, if there was any existing liability of tax or penalty etc. against the petitioner that may be satisfied from the seized amount. In absence of such pre-existing demand etc., the amount or the balance amount, as the case may be, ought to have been released in favour of the petitioner.

7. Relying heavily of the second proviso, it has been urged, in absence of any decision made under the first proviso, the entire seized amount had to be released at the end of 120 days time period specified therein. Since, the petitioner had made the application within the stipulated time of 30 days (from the end of month in which assets/money was seized), that period of 120 days would expire not beyond mid January, 2023. Since no decision was made within that time, the petitioner has become absolutely entitled to release of that money.

8. Reliance has been placed on the decisions of the Gujarat High Court in Mitaben R. Shah vs. Deputy Commissioner of Income-Tax And Another; (2011) 311 ITR 424 (GUJ) as followed in Mul Chand Malu (HUF) vs. Assistant/Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax; (2016) 69 Taxmann.com 437 (Gauhati) and as also followed by the Gujarat High Court in Nadim Dilip Bhai Panjvani vs. Income-tax Officer, Ward No.3; (2016) 66 Taxmann.com 124 (Gujarat) and Ashish Jayantilal Sanghavi vs. Income-tax Officer; (2022) 139 Taxmann.com 126 (Gujarat).

9. Second, referring to the provisions of Section 132 B (4) read with Rule 119 A of the Rules, it has been submitted, the petitioner is entitled to monthly interest at the rate one-half percent, to be computed strictly in accordance with Rule 119 A of the Rules.

10. Thus, it has been submitted, the word 'shall' used in the second proviso to Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act is a legislative mandate. It comes into force on its own, upon expiry of time. Thus, at most, the revenue may hold the seized money for 120 days. During that period upon application filed, the assessing authority would become obligated to apply his mind- if money is duly accounted for and also if such money may be applied to satisfy any existing demand or demand likely to arise from the seizure itself. In the present facts, there was no pre-existing demand against the petitioner. Therefore, the revenue authority could only have examined if the seized amount Rs.36,12,000/- was accounted for and it was required to satisfy the likely demand of tax. The petitioner produced his books of accounts and clearly established that the entire money was duly accounted for. In absence of any adverse inference drawn within the permissible time limitation of 120 days, the petitioner is entitled to refund of that money, by operation of law.

11. On the other hand, Sri Gaurav Mahajan, learned counsel for the revenue would submit, there is no absolute right to refund earned by the petitioner during pendency of the assessment proceedings arising from the requisition made under Section 132 A (c) of the Act. He would also submit that the word 'shall' used in the second proviso of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act provides for directory scheme and not a mandatory legislative dictate.

12. Further objection that was also raised by Sri Mahajan, learned counsel for the revenue that the cash seized was not from the present petitioner but from Om Prakash Bind and therefore, application, if any, may have been made by said Om Prakash Bind, does not impresses the Court.

13. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, in the first place, it would be useful to take note of the provisions of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act. It reads:

"132 B. Application of seized or requisitioned assets.- (1) The assets seized under section 132 or requisitioned under section 132 A may be dealt with in the following manner, namely:-

(i) the amount of any existing liability under this Act, the Wealth-tax Act, 1957 (27 of 1957), the Expenditure-tax Act, 1987 (35 of 1987), the Gift-tax Act, 1958 (18 of 1958) and the Interest-tax Act, 1974 (45 of 1974), and the amount of the liability determined on [completion of the assessment or reassessment or recomputation] and the assessment of the year relevant to the previous year in which search is initiated or requisition is made, or the amount of liability determined on completion of the assessment under Chapter XIV-B for the block period, as the case may be (including any penalty levied or interest payable in connection with such assessment) and in respect of which such person is in default or is [deemed to be in default, or the amount of liability arising on an application made before the Settlement Commission under sub-section (1) of section 245C, may be recovered out of such assets]"

14. Undoubtedly, the first proviso to the said sub-section allows the person searched, an opportunity to make an application for release of a seized assets, if nature and source of its acquisition, is explained. The money Rs. 36,12,000/- seized from Om Prakash Bind is clearly an asset that has been seized. Therefore, subject matter of seizure fell within the scope of provisions of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act.

15. Second it is also not in doubt that the petitioner applied for release of that asset/cash Rs.36,12,000/- within a time stipulated for that purpose i.e. 30 days from the last authorization. That, the revenue does not dispute.

16. Then, a presumption exists that under the Act, an asset seized from a person belongs to that person at the same time that presumption remains rebuttable in law. Therefore, it was open to the petitioner to make such an application even though the cash had not been seized from his person or from him. At the same time, it may have remained open to the respondent/authority to issue notice to Om Prakash Bind on that application made by the petitioner and pass appropriate order, thereafter.

17. Here, it is not disputed to the revenue that in the course of investigation arising from seizure made, the said Om Prakash Bind did participate in the investigation and at present, the record appears to suggest that he made a statement indicating petitioner's ownership in the money Rs.30,12,000/-. In any case, we are not required to draw any final conclusion in that regard, at present, since that exercise had to be made by the assessing authority. Yet, there was no inherent defect in the application made by the petitioner.

18. In the present facts, no finding has been recorded by the Assessing Authority. In fact he has neither disputed the ownership of money claimed by the petitioner nor he has considered the issue to any extent. Therefore, the only conclusion to be drawn at this stage is-the application made by the petitioner for release of the seized money of Rs.36,12,000/- dated 15.09.2022 was wholly maintainable.

19. Under the scheme of the Act, in the first place, upon an application for release of seized assets filed, the Assessing Authority is first required to examine if the nature and source of acquisition of the seized asset is explained. In fact, law obligates the Assessing Authority to consider release such part of the seized asset of which nature and source of acquisition is explained by the person searched. The first caveat to that statutory principle is that there may not pre-exist any demand of tax to which such explained asset may not be applied, in the interest of revenue. The second caveat is, such asset may not be released if it would be required to recover the tax demand likely to arise upon assessment being made consequent to the search. Thus, though tax paid/duly explained assets of an assessee may come to be seized in the course of search proceedings on the strength 'reason to believe' recorded at that stage of proceedings, the Act does not permit retention of such assets. On the contrary, the Act stipulates, such assets may be released in favour of the person searched at the initial stage itself subject however to the exception that there may not be any outstanding recovery of tax against such a person and such asset may not be required to recover the demand of tax likely to arise upon assessment to be made as consequent to the search.

20. Seen in that light, we come to the core issue involved in the present case. It is whether in such facts where the petitioner had made an application to release seized asset/cash of Rs.36,12,000/- in terms of the first proviso to Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act and the Assessing Authority failed to record any satisfaction within '120 days' stipulated under the second proviso to the above noted provision, the petitioner became absolutely entitled in law to obtain release of those assets.

21. To decide that issue, we have to interpret the word 'shall release' appearing in the second proviso to Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act. If those words express mandatory intent, it cannot be denied that the petitioner would remain entitled to refund of Rs.36,12,000/-, upon the Assessing Authority's failure to decide the petitioner's application dated 15.09.2022 within the stipulated time of 120 days. On the other hand, if those words express directory intent, the application would survive for consideration by the Assessing Authority, in terms of first proviso to Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act.

22. In grammar, the words 'shall' and 'may' indicate different intent. The word 'shall' is normally used to indicate to cause a mandatory effect whereas 'may' indicates action to be taken as per the doers volition. In usage, the difference may also indicate the degree of politeness invoked by the user. However in law though application of the rules of grammar is not excluded, at the same time interpretation in law as to mandatory or directory nature of the word 'shall' is not to be decided solely on the strength of rules of grammar. Well recognized principle in that regard involve looking at the object and purpose and whether consequences of non-compliance have been prescribed in law.

23. In State of U.P. vs. Manbodhan Lal Srivastava: AIR 1957 SC 912, a five-Judge bench of the Supreme Court observed as below:

11. An examination of the terms of Article 320 shows that the word "shall" appears in almost every paragraph and every clause or sub-clause of that article. If it were held that the provisions of Article 320(3)(c) are mandatory in terms, the other clauses or sub-clauses of that article, will have to be equally held to be mandatory. If they are so held, any appointments made to the public services of the Union or a State, without observing strictly, the terms of these sub-clauses in clause (3) of Article 320, would adversely affect the person so appointed to a public service, without any fault on his part and without his having any say in the matter. This result could not have been contemplated by the makers of the Constitution. Hence, the use of the word "shall" in a statute, though generally taken in a mandatory sense, does not necessarily mean that in every case it shall have that effect, that is to say, that unless the words of the statute are punctiliously followed, the proceeding or the outcome of the proceeding, would be invalid. On the other hand, it is not always correct to say that where the word "may" has been used, the statute is only permissive or directory in the sense that non-compliance with those provisions will not render the proceeding invalid. In that connection, the following quotation from Crawford on Statutory Construction— Article 261 at p. 516, is pertinent:

"The question as to whether a statute is mandatory or directory depends upon the intent of the legislature and not upon the language in which the intent is clothed. The meaning and intention of the legislature must govern, and these are to be ascertained, not only from the phraseology of the provision, but also by considering its nature, its design, and the consequences which would follow from construing it the one way or the other..."

24. Then, in the case Banwarilal Agarwalla vs. The State of Bihar And Others; AIR 1961 SC 849, another five Judge bench of the Supreme Court as under:

6. It was not disputed before us that when the Regulations were framed, no Board as required under Section 12 had been constituted, and so, necessarily there had been no reference to any Board as required under Section 59. The question raised is whether the omission to make such a reference makes the rules invalid. As has been recognised again and again by the courts, no general rule can be laid down for deciding whether any particular provision in a statute is mandatory, meaning thereby that non-observance thereof involves the consequence of invalidity or only directory, i.e., a direction the non-observance of which does not entail the consequence of invalidity, whatever other consequences may occur. But in each case the court has to decide the legislative intent. Did the legislature intend in making the statutory provisions that non-observance of this would entail invalidity or did it not? To decide this we have to consider not only the actual words used but the scheme of the statute, the intended benefit to public of what is enjoined by the provisions and the material danger to the public by the contravention of the same. In the present case we have to determine therefore on a consideration of all these matters whether the legislature intended that the provisions as regards the reference to the Mines Board could be contravened only on pain of invalidity of the regulation.

25. Then, in C. Bright vs. District Collector And Others; (2021) 2 SCC 392

a three Judge bench of the Supreme Court had the occasion to consider whether the word 'shall' used (in Section 14 of the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002) to prescribe 30-60 days time limit to deliver possession, was mandatory or directory. The Supreme Court considered the pre-existing law on the subject and observed as below:-

8. A well-settled rule of interpretation of the statutes is that the use of the word "shall" in a statute, does not necessarily mean that in every case it is mandatory that unless the words of the statute are literally followed, the proceeding or the outcome of the proceeding, would be invalid. It is not always correct to say that if the word "may" has been used, the statute is only permissive or directory in the sense that non-compliance with those provisions will not render the proceeding invalid and that when a statute uses the word "shall", prima facie, it is mandatory, but the Court may ascertain the real intention of the legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the statute. The principle of literal construction of the statute alone in all circumstances without examining the context and scheme of the statute may not serve the purpose of the statute.

9. The question as to whether, a time-limit fixed for a public officer to perform a public duty is directory or mandatory has been examined earlier by the courts as well. A question arose before the Privy Council in respect of irregularities in the preliminary proceedings for constituting a jury panel. The Municipality was expected to revise the list of qualified persons but the jury was drawn from the old list as the Sheriff neglected to revise the same. It was in these circumstances, the decision of the jury drawn from the old list became the subject-matter of consideration by the Privy Council. It was thus held that it would cause greater public inconvenience if it were held that neglecting to observe the provisions of the statute made the verdicts of all juries taken from the list ipso facto null and void so that no jury trials could be held until a duly revised list had been prepared.

10. The Constitution Bench of this Court held that when the provisions of a statute relate to the performance of a public duty and the case is such that to hold acts done in neglect of this duty as null and void, would cause serious general inconvenience or injustice to persons who have no control over those entrusted with the duty, the practice of the courts should be to hold such provisions as directory. In a seven-Bench judgment, this Court was considering as to whether the power of the Returning Officer to reject ballot papers is mandatory or directory. The Court examined well-recognised rules of construction to observe that a statute should be construed as directory if it relates to the performance of public duties, or if the conditions prescribed therein have to be performed by persons other than those on whom the right is conferred.

11. In a judgment reported as Remington Rand of India Ltd. v. Workmen, Section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 came up for consideration. The argument raised was that the time-limit of 30 days of publication of award by the Labour Court is mandatory. This Court held that though Section 17 is mandatory, the time-limit to publish the award within 30 days is directory inter alia for the reason that the non-publication of the award within the period of thirty days does not entail any penalty.

12. In T.V. Usman v. Food Inspector, Tellicherry Municipality, the time period during which report of the analysis of a sample under Rule 7(3) of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Rules, 1955 was to be given, was held to be directory as there was no time-limit prescribed within which the prosecution had to be instituted. When there was no such limit prescribed then there was no valid reason for holding the period of 45 days as mandatory. Of course, that does not mean that the Public Analyst can ignore the time-limit prescribed under the Rules. He must in all cases try to comply with the time-limit. But if there is some delay, in a given case, there is no reason to hold that the very report is void and, on that basis, to hold that even prosecution cannot be launched.

13. This Court distinguished between failure of an individual to act in a given time-frame and the time-frame provided to a public authority, for the purposes of determining whether a provision was mandatory or directory, when this Court held that it is a well-settled principle that if an act is required to be performed by a private person within a specified time, the same would ordinarily be mandatory but when a public functionary is required to perform a public function within a time-frame, the same will be held to be directory unless the consequences therefor are specified.

14. In P.T. Rajan v. T.P.M. Sahir, this Court examined the effect of non-publication of final electoral rolls before the time of acceptance of nomination papers. The Court held as under : (SCC p. 516, para 48)

"48. Furthermore, even if the statute specifies a time for publication of the electoral roll, the same by itself could not have been held to be mandatory. Such a provision would be directory in nature. It is a well-settled principle of law that where a statutory functionary is asked to perform a statutory duty within the time prescribed therefor, the same would be directory and not mandatory."

26. Then, the Supreme Court further considered the law laid down by a five Judge Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Company vs. Hilli Multipurpose Cold Storage (P) Ltd; (2020) 5 SCC 757. It observed:

"15. A recent Constitution Bench held that the provisions of the Consumer Protection Act granting 30 days' time to file response by the opposite party or such extended period not exceeding 15 days is mandatory as the object of the statute is for the benefit and protection of the consumer. It observed that such Act had been enacted to provide expeditious disposal of consumer disputes. In this case, an individual was called upon to file his written statement in contradiction for a public authority to decide the issue before it"

27. Upon, that discussion of the law, the Supreme Court then concluded (in C Bright vs. District Collector And Others: (2021) 2 SCC 392) as below:

"21. The Act was enacted to provide a machinery for empowering banks and financial institutions, so that they may have the power to take possession of secured assets and to sell them. The DRT Act was first enacted to streamline the recovery of public dues but the proceedings under the said Act have not given desirous results. Therefore, the Act in question was enacted. This Court in Mardia Chemicals, Transcore and Hindon Forge (P) Ltd. has held that the purpose of the Act pertains to the speedy recovery of dues, by banks and financial institutions. The true intention of the legislature is a determining factor herein. Keeping the objective of the Act in mind, the time-limit to take action by the District Magistrate has been fixed to impress upon the authority to take possession of the secured assets. However, inability to take possession within time-limit does not render the District Magistrate functus officio. The secured creditor has no control over the District Magistrate who is exercising jurisdiction under Section 14 of the Act for public good to facilitate recovery of public dues. Therefore, Section 14 of the Act is not to be interpreted literally without considering the object and purpose of the Act. If any other interpretation is placed upon the language of Section 14, it would be contrary to the purpose of the Act. The time-limit is to instil a confidence in creditors that the District Magistrate will make an attempt to deliver possession as well as to impose a duty on the District Magistrate to make an earnest effort to comply with the mandate of the statute to deliver the possession within 30 days and for reasons to be recorded within 60 days. In this light, the remedy under Section 14 of the Act is not rendered redundant if the District Magistrate is unable to handover the possession. The District Magistrate will still be enjoined upon, the duty to facilitate delivery of possession at the earliest."

(emphasis supplied)

28. Here, the only consequence of non-compliance of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act, as has been rightly pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is contained in Section 132 B (4) of the Act. That provision of law reads as below:

" 4 (a) The Central Government shall pay simple interest at the rate of [one-half per cent. for every month or part of a month] on the amount by which the aggregate amount of money seized under section 132 or requisitioned under section 132A, as reduced by the amount of money, if any, released under the first proviso to clause (I) of sub-section (1), and of the proceeds, if any, of the assets sold towards the discharge of the existing liability referred to in clause (I) of sub-section (1), exceeds the aggregate of the amount required to meet the liabilities referred to in clause (I) of sub-section (1) of this section.

(b) Such interest shall run from the date immediately following the expiry of the period of one hundred and twenty days from the date on which the last of the authorisations for search under section 132 or requisition under section 132A was executed to the date of completion of the assessment [or reassessment or recomputation]"

29. Thus, the only consequence of non-compliance of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act is by way of payment of interest at the highest rate provided by the legislature i.e. @ of 18 % per annum. The period for which such interest may become payable has also been specified under that provision. By imposing the levy of interest on the revenue, a plain reading of sub section (4) of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act, the legislature itself contemplated cases where orders may remain to be passed by the Assessing Authority within the timeline provided under Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act. Payability of interest may arise only in a case where the order may have remained to be passed within a time stipulation provided under the second proviso to Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act.

30. That being the only consequence provided, we find it difficult to persuade ourselves to the reasoning of the Gujarat High Court in Mitaben R. Shah vs. Deputy Commissioner of Income-Tax And Another (supra)-the sheet anchor of the submissions advanced by Senior Advocate for the petitioner, perusal of that decision reveals, mandatory intent was read into the language of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act by relying on the reasoning/ratio in Cowasjee Nusserwanji Dinshaw vs. Income Tax Officer : (1987) 165 ITR 702. That was a case of proceeding under Section 132 (8) of the Act and not Section 132 B of the Act, as it then existed. For ready reference, that provision of law is quoted below:

"132. (8) The books of account or other documents seized under sub-section (1) or sub-section (1-A) shall not be retained by the authorised officer for a period exceeding one hundred and eighty days from the date of seizure unless the reasons for retaining the same are recorded by him in writing and the approval of the Commissioner for such retention is obtained."

31. On the test of consequences provided, Cowasjee Nusserwanji Dinshaw (supra) case was a different case altogether. It provided a statutory injunction against retention of books of accounts and other documents beyond a period of 180 days, unless reasons for their continued retention were recorded in writing with the approval of the Commissioner. In absence of reasons recorded and approval granted prior to the expiry of 180 days time limit, the seized books of accounts and documents had to be released.

32. Plainly that mandate of law does not exist under the provision of Section 132 B (1) (i) of the Act. This provision only contemplates-a person subjected to search may not be made to wait endlessly for release of valuable assets that may have been seized during the course of search. If, the nature and source of acquisition of a seized asset is wholly explained and it may not be required for recovery of any outstanding demand or demand of tax that may arise under the assessment proposed to be made consequent to the search giving rise to the seizure itself, the same may be released. The provisions does not stipulate any consequence of automatic release. It would first have to be invoked by the assessee by filing a proper application. Then if conditions are fulfilled, an order recording that satisfaction may be passed. It is for that purpose a timeline of 120 days is contemplated on a non-imperative basis. In the event of delay in making the decision the revenue has been saddled with interest liability @ 18 % per annum. On the contrary under Section 132 (8) of the Act [as considered in Cowasjee Nusserwanji Dinshaw (supra)], a statutory duty was cast on the seizing authority to itself record reasons to detain seized documents beyond 180 days and the consequence of its non-adherence was also provided by way of release of the same. Therefore, in absence of statutory intent shown to exist, it may not be inferred through the process of legal reasoning-that if no order is passed within a time of 120 days, seized assets must be released notwithstanding its impact on the recovery of existing and likely demands.

33. As noted above, similar stipulations of time provided under different enactments have been interpreted to be directory and not mandatory. Therefore, we are unable to pursue ourselves to subscribe to the reasoning that has found its acceptance by the Gujarat High Court in the case of Mitaben R. Shah vs. Deputy Commissioner of Income-Tax And Another (supra), Ashish Jayantilal Sanghavi vs. Income-tax Officer (supra), Nadim Dilip Bhai Panjvani vs. Income-tax Officer, Ward No.3 (supra) and Gauhati High Court in the case of Mul Chand Malu (HUF) vs. Assistant/Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (supra).

34. Insofar as, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has invoked the principle- if an Act is required to be done in a particular way, it may be done in that way or not at all, we find the same to be inapplicable to the present law. In our opinion, the provision in question [Section 132 B (1) (i)] being directory, the jurisdiction of the Assessing Authority to deal with the petitioner's application dated 15.09.2022 did not lapse or abate upon expiry of the period of 120 days. Since that stipulation of law is only directory, it survives to the Assessing Authority to deal with the application, even today.

35. We may also observe at this stage, if on due application of mind, the Assessing Authority reaches a conclusion that the nature and source of Rs.36,12,000/- seized from Om Prakash Bind was duly explained and if assessing officer is adequately satisfied that that amount was neither required for satisfaction of any outstanding demand or satisfaction of demand that may arise pursuant to the assessment proposed to be made, such refundable amount would attract liability of interest under Section 132 B (4) of the Act read with Rule 119 A of the Rules.

36. In view of the above, we decline to issue the writ of Mandamus as prayed. Instead, we dispose of the writ petition with a direction on the Assessing Authority/respondent No.2 to proceed to deal with and decide the application of the petitioner dated 15.09.2022 within two weeks from today, by a reasoned and speaking order, after hearing the petitioner. No order as to costs.

1. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री मनोज कुमार मिश्रा तथा राज्य सरकार के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री पुनीत कुमार यादव को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

2. धारा 438 दं०प्र०सं० द्वारा प्रस्तुत प्रार्थना-पत्र द्वारा प्रार्थी ने मुकदमा अपराध संख्या 0211 सन 2023 अन्तर्गत धारा 420, 467, 468, 471, 34, 120-B भा०दं०वि० थाना सरोजिनी नगर जिला लखनऊ में अग्रिम जमानत की प्रार्थना की है।

3. उपरोक्त प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट एक लेखपाल ने दिनांक 26.05.2023 को प्रार्थी तथा उसके पुत्र परितोष शुक्ला के विरुद्ध लिखाते हुए कहा कि जिलाधिकारी के आदेश के क्रम में तहसीलदार, सरोजिनीनगर द्वारा एक आदेश पारित कर उसे प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दर्ज कराने का निर्देश दिया गया है। प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में कहे गये कथनों से किसी भी अभियुक्त द्वारा कोई भी संज्ञेय अपराध कारित

करना प्रतीत नहीं होता है तथा ऐसी परिस्थिति में प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट अंकित नहीं की जा सकती है।

4. जिलाधिकारी, लखनऊ द्वारा प्रार्थी को दिये गये एक नोटिस दिनांक 25.05.2023 में यह आरोप लगाया गया है कि प्रार्थी ने लेखपाल के पद पर रहते हुए सरकारी भूमि के एक अंश को एक सह-अभियुक्त विशाल तिवारी के नाम गलत तरीके से अंकित कर दिया था। इस संबंध में प्रार्थी का यह कथन है कि विशाल तिवारी का नाम सहायक चकबंदी अधिकारी, मलिहाबाद, लखनऊ द्वारा मुकदमा नंबर 463/8.8.99 के आधार पर अंकित हुआ था। प्रार्थी लेखपाल, अमौसी के पद पर दिनांक 26.07.2012 को तैनात किया गया था तथा प्रश्नगत नामांतरण उसके काफी पूर्व हो चुका था।

5. प्रार्थना-पत्र के साथ प्रस्तुत शपथ पत्र में कहा गया है कि प्रार्थी एक अन्य प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 0374 सन 2023 अंतर्गत धारा 406, 420, 504, 506, 120-B भा०दं०सं० थाना सरोजिनी नगर जनपद लखनऊ में भी आरोपी है, जिसमें उसको भा०दं०सं० की धारा 41A का लाभ दिया जा चुका है।

6. प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में सह-अभियुक्त विशाल तिवारी को जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र संख्या 10344 सन 2023 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 18.08.2023 द्वारा जमानत दी जा चुकी है।

7. प्रार्थी ने इसके पूर्व इस न्यायालय के समक्ष आपराधिक प्रकीर्ण याचिका संख्या 4697 सन 2023 प्रस्तुत की थी, जिसमें

पारित आदेश दिनांक 16.06.2023 द्वारा प्रार्थी की गिरफ्तारी पर रोक लगा दी गयी थी।

8. राज्य सरकार के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने याचिका के विरोध किया। प्रकरण में आरोप - पत्र दिनांक 16.04.2023 को प्रस्तुत किया जा चुका है जिसमें धारा 34/ 120-B भा०दं०सं० का आरोप भी जोड़ा गया है।

9. इसके पूर्व प्रार्थी विशेष न्यायाधीश (भ्रष्टाचार निवारण अधिनियम), सी०बी०आई०, कोर्ट नं०- 03, लखनऊ के समक्ष अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र संख्या 2331 सन 2024 प्रस्तुत किया था, जिसमें अभियोजन पक्ष की तरफ से जयप्रकाश सिंह बनाम बिहार राज्य और एक अन्य (2012) 4 SCC 379 की विधि व्यवस्था प्रस्तुत की गयी, जिसमें यह प्रतिपादित किया गया था कि:- "Parameters for grant of anticipatory bail in a serious offence are required to be satisfied and further while granting such relief, the court must record the reasons therefor. Anticipatory bail can be granted only in exceptional circumstances where the court is prima facie of the view that the applicant has falsely been enroped in the crime and would not misuse his liberty."

10. विद्वान विशेष न्यायाधीश ने यह कहा कि:- "अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र के संबंध में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा गुरुवक्श सिंह साबिया बनाम पंजाब राज्य एआईआर 1980 सुप्रीम कोर्ट 1632 एवं पोकर राम बनाम राज्य एआईआर 1985 सुप्रीम कोर्ट 1969 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा यह विधिक सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित कि गया है कि अग्रिम जमानत केवल तभी प्रदान की जा

सकती है, जब प्रार्थी / अभियुक्त की ओर से अपवादीय एवं असाधारण परिस्थितियां इस प्रकार की प्रदर्शित की जायें, जिन कारणों से न्यायालय द्वारा अग्रिम जमानत प्रदान किया जाना उचित प्रतीत होता हो, किन्तु इस मामले में इस प्रकार की कोई अपवादीय एवं असाधारण परिस्थिति सामने नहीं आयी है।

अतः माननीय न्यायालयों की उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्थाओं में पारित किये गये विधिक सिद्धान्तों व उपरोक्त वाद के समस्त तथ्यों एवं परिस्थितियों को दृष्टिगत रखते हुये इस न्यायालय की राय में प्रार्थी / अभियुक्त को अग्रिम जमानत पर रिहा किये जाने हेतु इस स्तर पर पर्याप्त विधिक आधार नहीं है। तदनुसार प्रार्थी अभियुक्त की ओर से प्रस्तुत अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थनापत्र निरस्त किये जाने योग्य है।"

11. गुरुवक्श सिंह सिब्बिया के प्रकरण में पंजाब और हरियाणा उच्च न्यायालय ने अपने निर्णय (गुरुवक्श सिंह सिब्बिया बनाम पंजाब राज्य 1977 SCC ऑनलाइन पंजाब और हरियाणा 157) में पंजाब एवं हरियाणा उच्च न्यायालय ने यह प्रतिपादित किया था कि धारा 438 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत प्रदान की गयी शक्ति असाधारण प्रकृति की है तथा इसका प्रयोग अत्यन्त संयम के साथ, मात्र असाधारण परिस्थितियों में किया जाना चाहिए।

12. पंजाब तथा हरियाणा उच्च न्यायालय के उक्त निर्णय के विरुद्ध अपील स्वीकार करते हुए माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने अपने निर्णय (गुरुवक्श सिंह सिब्बिया बनाम स्टेट ऑफ पंजाब (1980) 2 SCC 565) में यह

कहा कि पंजाब एवं हरियाणा उच्च न्यायालय की पूर्ण पीठ द्वारा धारा 438 दं०प्र०सं० के ऊपर लगाये गये अवरोध स्वीकार किये जाने योग्य नहीं हैं। विधि की व्याख्या के सिद्धान्त के अनुसार व्यापक प्रभाव वाले शब्दों को इस प्रकार नहीं पढ़ा जाना चाहिए, जिससे कि वैधानिक प्रावधानों पर ऐसा अंकुश लग जाय, जो कि विधायिका ने स्वयं नहीं लगाये हैं। यह विशेषतया तब और भी सत्य हो जाता है जबकि वैधानिक प्राविधान निजी स्वतंत्रता के अधिकार को सुनिश्चित करने से संबंधित हो तथा इसके साथ ही इस सिद्धान्त का उपयोग भी सम्मिलित हो कि कोई व्यक्ति जब वह दोषी सिद्ध न हो जाय, तो निर्दोष माना जायेगा।

गुरुवक्श सिंह सिब्बिया के निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह स्पष्ट रूप से कहा कि पंजाब एवं हरियाणा उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा दिया गया निर्णय, कि धारा 438 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत अग्रिम जमानत दिये जाने की शक्ति अपवाद स्वरूप मामलों में इस्तेमाल की जानी चाहिए क्योंकि यह एक असाधारण प्रवृत्ति की शक्ति है, किसी भी प्रकार से न्यायोचित नहीं है। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने मात्र इतना कहा कि इस शक्ति का प्रयोग सावधानीपूर्वक, प्रकरण की परिस्थितियों को देखते हुए तब किया जाना चाहिए जब इसका प्रयोग न्यायोचित हो। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह कहा कि अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र इस आधार पर निरस्त नहीं किया सकता कि प्रार्थी कोई असाधारण परिस्थितियाँ दिखाने में समर्थ नहीं रहा है तथा अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र उसके गुण-दोष पर ही तय किया जाना चाहिए।

13. विशेष न्यायाधीश (भ्रष्टाचार निवारण अधिनियम), सी०बी०आई०, कोर्ट नं०-03, लखनऊ द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 06.04.2024 के अवलोकन से यह प्रतीत होता है कि विद्वान विशेष न्यायाधीश ने गुरुवक्श सिंह सिब्बिया बनाम पंजाब राज्य के माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय के निर्णय को ठीक प्रकार से पढ़े बिना, उसके आधार पर अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र निरस्त कर दिया है।

14. पोकर राम बनाम पंजाब राज्य (1985) 2 SCC 597 के प्रकरण में गोली मारकर हत्या का प्रयास कर देने के आरोपी व्यक्ति को सत्र न्यायाधीश द्वारा अग्रिम जमानत दे दी गयी थी तथा उच्च न्यायालय ने उक्त आदेश को निरस्त करने से मना कर दिया था। ऐसी परिस्थिति में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कहा कि जब अभियुक्त आग्नेयास्त्र से हत्या कारित करने का आरोपी है, न्यायालय को अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र तय करते हुए अत्यन्त सावधानी बरतनी चाहिए।

15. कोई भी न्यायिक निर्णय अपने विशेष तथ्यों एवं परिस्थितियों के आधार पर दिया जाता है तथा उसकी न्यायिक बाध्यता मात्र उन तथ्यों एवं परिस्थितियों के आलोक में ही होती है। भाव नगर यूनिवर्सिटी बनाम पलीताना शुगर मिल (प्राइवेट लिमिटेड) (2003) 2 SCC 111 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने अवधारित किया कि कोई भी निर्णय मात्र उस बिन्दु पर बाध्यकारी है, जो उसके द्वारा तय किया है, न कि उस बिन्दु पर जिनके संबंध में तर्कपूर्ण परिणाम निकाले जा सके। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह भी

कहा कि यह विधि का सुस्थापित सिद्धान्त है कि तथ्यों में छोटे से अंतर से अथवा कुछ अतिरिक्त तथ्यों से किसी निर्णय के बाध्यकारी प्रभाव पर बड़ा अंतर आ सकता है।

16. चूंकि पोकर बनाम राजस्थान राज्य का निर्णय उस वाद के तथ्यों के आलोक में दिया गया था, जहाँ अभियुक्त ने आग्नेयास्त्र से गोली मारकर हत्या कारित की थी, जबकि प्रश्नगत मामले में ऐसा कोई आरोप नहीं है तथा उ०प्र० राज्य में हत्या के आरोप में धारा 438(6) (जैसा कि उ०प्र० राज्य में लागू है), के अनुसार अंतरिम जमानत प्रार्थना- पत्र पोषणीय ही नहीं है, पोकर का उपरोक्त निर्णय प्रस्तुत मामले के निर्णय के लिए किसी भी प्रार्थी के अग्रिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र के निर्णय के लिए किसी भी प्रकार संगत नहीं था और विद्वान विशेष न्यायाधीश ने उक्त निर्णय पर गलत आश्रय लेते हुए अंतरिम जमानत आदेश प्रार्थना-पत्र तय किया।

17. उपरोक्त तथ्यों को दृष्टिगत रखते हुए, जबकि प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में प्रार्थी द्वारा किये गये किसी भी ऐसे कृत्य का कथन नहीं है जिससे एक संज्ञेय अपराध कारित होता हो; राजस्व अभिलेखों में किया गया नामांतरण प्रार्थी के पद पर आने के कई वर्षों पूर्व सक्षम अधिकारी के आदेश से किया जा चुका था और प्रार्थी ने कोई नामांतरण नहीं किया है; प्रार्थी एक सरकारी कर्मचारी है और अग्रिम जमानत दिये जाने की स्थिति में उसके न्यायिक प्रक्रिया से भागने की कोई संभावना प्रतीत नहीं होती है और प्रकरण में विवेचना पूर्ण हो चुकी है,

न्यायालय का मत है कि प्रार्थी अग्रिम जमानत पाने का अधिकारी है।

18. उपरोक्त मुकदमा अपराध संख्या में आवेदक की गिरफ्तारी / न्यायालय के समक्ष उपस्थिति की दशा में, उसे संबंधित थाने के भारसाधक अधिकारी/न्यायालय की संतुष्टि के अनुसार व्यक्तिगत बंध पत्र एवं दो प्रतिभू प्रस्तुत करने पर परीक्षण के अंतिम रूप से निस्तारण तक, निम्न शर्तों के अधीन अग्रिम जमानत पर रिहा किया जाएगा:-

क- आवेदक, यदि आवश्यक होगा तो पुलिस अधिकारी द्वारा जाँच हेतु अपेक्षित समय पर उपस्थित होगा;

ख- आवेदक मामले के तथ्यों से परिचित किसी व्यक्ति या पुलिस अधिकारियों को प्रत्यक्ष या परोक्ष रूप से कोई धमकी, वादा या प्रलोभन नहीं देगा जिससे कि वह ऐसे तथ्य को न्यायालय के समक्ष या किसी पुलिस अधिकारी के समक्ष प्रकट न करने पर मान जाए;

ग- आवेदक अदालत की पूर्व अनुमति के बिना भारत नहीं छोड़ेगा;

घ- आवेदक को प्रत्येक निर्धारित तिथि पर ट्रायल कोर्ट के समक्ष उपस्थित होना होगा, जब तक कि व्यक्तिगत उपस्थिति से छूट न दी गयी हो;

ङ- आवेदक अभियोजन पक्ष के गवाह पर दबाव नहीं डालेगा। धमकी नहीं देगा;

च- आवेदक विवेचना एवं विचारण के दौरान सहयोग करेंगे और जमानत की स्वतंत्रता का दुरुपयोग नहीं करेगा।

19. इस आदेश की एक प्रति विशेष न्यायाधीश (भ्रष्टाचार निवारण अधिनियम), सी०बी०आई०, कोर्ट नं०.- 03, लखनऊ को भेजी जाय।

Ms. Mahima Maurya Kushwaha, Sri Mukesh Kumar Kushwaha

Counsel for the Respondents:

Sri Desh Ratan Chaudhary, G.A., Sri Harish Kumar Srivastava, Sri Ishwar Chandra Pandey, Sri Kumar Ankit Srivastava, Sri Manoj Kumar Singh, Sri Siddharth Chaudhary, Sri Sujan Singh

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 386, 389, 504 & 506 - As per FIR, informant, Vice President of Purvanchal Truck Owners Association, pursued action against A.R.T.O., leading to his incarceration - Applicant allegedly offered bribe of ₹1 crore and demanded ₹1 lakh monthly to restrain informant from pursuing case against A.R.T.O, threatening to defame him through media - He is further accused of issuing threats, using abusive language, and posting hate and derogatory content against public and religious figures on social media - In defence, counsel for applicant contends that allegations are false and motivated by malice - It is submitted that applicant has no connection with cases against

A.R.T.O or any criminal activity - FIR is alleged to be consequence of applicant's publication exposing corruption in transport department - Further asserted that applicant neither sent any threatening messages nor visited informant's residence - Counsel for informant contends that applicant falsely poses as press reporter/editor to conceal illegal activities, lacks requisite publishing licenses, and questions authenticity of his publications - Considering gravity of allegations, including misuse of publication for extortion, abusive remarks against public figures, and disregard for religious sentiments, no merit is found in granting bail - Application rejected. (Para 3, 4, 5, 32)

Application rejected. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J)

1. Heard Ms. Mahima Maurya Kushwaha, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Desh Ratan Chaudhary, learned counsel for the informant, Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant, Amit Maurya @ Amit Kumar Singh with a prayer to release him on bail in Case Crime No.0259 of 2023, under sections 386, 389, 504, 506 IPC, Police Station ? Lalpur, District?Varuna (Commissionerate Varanasi), during pendency of trial.

3. As per the allegations in the FIR, the informant, serving as the Vice President of the Purvanchal Truck Owners Association, stands as the prime witness and key individual in the FIR lodged against R.S. Yadav, the A.R.T.O. of Chandauli. It is alleged that the informant was instrumental in pursuing the case against R.S. Yadav on behalf of the government, leading to Yadav's detention in jail for the past three years. Additionally, the informant was actively involved in pursuing cases seen by the Anti-Corruption Court. However, the applicant allegedly coerced the informant into refraining from pursuing the case against R.S. Yadav, offering a bribe of one crore rupees. Furthermore, the applicant demanded monthly payments of one lakh rupees from the informant, threatening to tarnish his reputation by publishing damaging articles in newspapers if his demands were not fulfilled. It is also alleged that the applicant resorted to sending threatening messages and engaging in verbal abuse towards the informant. Moreover, the applicant is accused of utilizing social media platforms to propagate hate speech against public figures, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, while also making derogatory remarks against religious figures.

4. In defense, learned counsel for the applicant contends that the allegations against the applicant are baseless and motivated by ulterior motives. They further contend that the applicant has no involvement in the cases against R.S. Yadav and is not associated with any criminal activities. Moreover, they highlight a publication made by the applicant regarding corrupt practices within the transport department, suggesting that this may have provoked the present FIR. The defense asserts that the applicant has never sent threatening messages to the informant nor visited his residence. They also emphasize the applicant's good family background and lack of criminal antecedents. Additionally, they assure the court that if granted bail, the applicant will cooperate fully with the trial proceedings and will not abscond or tamper with witnesses.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel for the informant asserts that the applicant falsely presents himself as a press reporter/editor to conceal his illegal activities. They argue that the applicant has not obtained the necessary licenses or permissions for publishing news articles, and they question the authenticity of the publications made by the applicant. Furthermore, they claim that the applicant has a history of criminal behaviour, as detailed in the counter affidavit. The counsel alleges that the applicant has used social media platforms to propagate hate speech and has made derogatory remarks against public figures and religious figures. They also raise concerns regarding the applicant's use of multiple Aadhar cards for identity purposes.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. Firstly, it is imperative to address the principle that if someone is engaged in corrupt practices, the appropriate course of action is to bring forth information to the public domain, allowing for transparency and accountability to prevail. It is the duty of journalists and publishers to disseminate factual information to the public, empowering them to make informed decisions. However, it is entirely unacceptable for publishers to exploit their platform for personal gain, resorting to coercive tactics under the guise of publication. The act of leveraging publication as a tool for coercion not only undermines the integrity of journalism but also erodes public trust in the media, which plays a pivotal role in upholding democratic values.

8. It is crucial to underscore the fundamental principle that in the event of someone being involved in corrupt activities, the proper course of action entails bringing this information to light in the public domain. This serves to uphold transparency and accountability within society, essential pillars of a functioning democracy. It is the solemn duty of journalists and publishers to disseminate factual and accurate information to the public, thereby empowering individuals to make informed decisions regarding their governance and societal matters.

9. However, it is utterly reprehensible for publishers to misuse their platform for personal gain, resorting to coercive tactics disguised as legitimate publication endeavours. Exploiting one's position in the media landscape to extract benefits or coerce individuals through threats tarnishes the integrity of journalism. Such actions not only betray the trust bestowed upon the media by the public but also undermine the very essence of democratic principles.

10. When publishers resort to leveraging their platforms as tools for extortion, they not only betray the trust of their audience but also jeopardize the foundational values of journalism, which include impartiality, integrity, and commitment to the truth. By engaging in such unethical practices, they erode public confidence in the media, which serves as a crucial watchdog in safeguarding democratic norms and institutions.

11. In essence, the misuse of publication for personal gain not only corrodes the credibility of journalism but also undermines the democratic fabric of society. The media's role as a guardian of truth and accountability is essential in ensuring the health and vitality of democracy. Therefore, it is imperative that publishers adhere to ethical standards and refrain from exploiting their platform for illicit purposes, thereby upholding the integrity of journalism and preserving public trust in the media as a cornerstone of democratic governance.

12. Secondly, the use of personal remarks and abusive language against any individual, particularly public figures such as the Prime Minister or Chief Minister, is reprehensible and antithetical to the principles of civil discourse. In a democratic society, dissent and criticism are essential components of robust governance, but they must be expressed in a manner that upholds dignity and respect for all individuals. Resorting to derogatory language and personal attacks serves no constructive purpose and only serves to inflame tensions and undermine the fabric of civil society.

13. Within the context of democratic governance, dissent and criticism play pivotal roles as mechanisms for accountability and progress. Citizens have the right to express their grievances and concerns regarding governmental actions or policies, fostering a culture of transparency and public engagement. However, it is essential to underscore that the exercise of this right must be conducted with a sense of responsibility and decorum. Respect for the dignity of individuals, regardless of their position or status, is paramount in upholding the integrity of civil discourse. Personal attacks and the use of derogatory language serve no constructive purpose in advancing meaningful dialogue or effecting positive change. Instead, they diminish the quality of public discourse, sow discord, and erode public trust in democratic institutions.

14. In a democracy, the robust exchange of ideas and perspectives is fundamental to the process of governance. Dissent serves as a catalyst for critical reflection and course correction, prompting policymakers to reconsider decisions in light of public feedback. However, when dissent devolves into ad hominem attacks and character assassination, it detracts from the substantive issues at hand and impedes the pursuit of common goals for the betterment of society.

15. Moreover, resorting to abusive language and personal remarks not only undermines the dignity of the individuals targeted but also sets a harmful precedent for future discourse. It fosters a culture of divisiveness and hostility, where civil dialogue becomes increasingly elusive, and the exchange of ideas gives way to vitriol and animosity. Such behaviour not only undermines the fabric of civil society but also hampers the functioning of democratic institutions by diverting attention from substantive issues to petty squabbles and personal vendettas.

16. Thirdly, it is crucial to draw a clear distinction between legitimate dissent with the government and constructive criticism, and the propagation of abusive language and hatred. In a democracy, citizens have the right to express dissent and engage in constructive criticism of government policies and actions. However, this must be done within the bounds of civility and respect for democratic institutions. Resorting to inflammatory language and spreading hatred only serves to sow discord and undermine the foundations of democracy.

17. In discussing the imperative of distinguishing between legitimate dissent and abusive language or hatred, we must underscore the fundamental principles that underpin democratic discourse. In any democratic society, the ability to voice dissent and engage in constructive criticism of governmental decisions is not only a right but a cornerstone of civic engagement. It is through such dissent that citizens express their concerns, advocate for change, and hold those in power accountable. This process fosters an environment of transparency and accountability, essential for the functioning of a healthy democracy.

18. However, this right to dissent comes with a responsibility to exercise it in a manner consistent with the norms of civil discourse. Constructive criticism entails thoughtful analysis, reasoned arguments, and a commitment to engaging with differing viewpoints respectfully. It serves as a catalyst for meaningful dialogue and positive change, encouraging policymakers to consider alternative perspectives and refine their decisions in the best interests of society as a whole.

19. On the other hand, the propagation of abusive language and hatred represents a stark departure from the principles of democratic discourse. When dissent descends into vitriol and personal attacks, it ceases to contribute constructively to public discourse and instead fosters division and animosity. Inflammatory rhetoric not only undermines the credibility of the individual expressing it but also erodes trust in the democratic process itself. It perpetuates polarization, stifles meaningful dialogue, and impedes progress towards common goals.

20. Moreover, the spread of hatred and incendiary language poses a grave threat to social cohesion and undermines the foundational values of tolerance and respect for diversity. In a pluralistic society, where individuals hold diverse beliefs and identities, fostering an environment of mutual understanding and acceptance is paramount.

21. Therefore, it is incumbent upon all members of society, including journalists, activists, and public officials, to uphold the principles of civil discourse and reject the proliferation of abusive language and hatred. While robust debate and disagreement are inherent to democracy, they must be conducted in a manner that respects the dignity and rights of all individuals. By promoting a culture of civility and respect, we can safeguard the integrity of democratic institutions and advance the collective well-being of society.

22. Fourthly, it is essential to acknowledge and uphold the secular principles upon which our nation is founded. Religious sentiments hold immense significance for millions of citizens, and any act that seeks to denigrate or insult these sentiments is not only morally reprehensible but also a violation of the fundamental rights enshrined in our Constitution. Publishers and journalists must exercise their power responsibly, refraining from making baseless statements or passing derogatory remarks on religious figures or practices. Such actions not only constitute a misuse of power but also pose a threat to the very fabric of our secular democracy.

23. Secularism stands as a cornerstone of our democratic ethos, emphasizing the equal treatment of all religions and the separation of religion from the affairs of the state. This principle not only ensures religious freedom and pluralism but also fosters a society where individuals from diverse religious backgrounds can coexist harmoniously.

24. Religious sentiments hold profound significance for millions of citizens, shaping their beliefs, practices, and cultural identities. In acknowledging the importance of these sentiments, it becomes evident that any act aimed at denigrating or insulting them constitutes a grave affront to the principles of tolerance and respect. Such actions not only undermine the sanctity of religious beliefs but also violate the fundamental rights enshrined in our Constitution, which guarantee the freedom of religion and expression for all individuals.

25. Publishers and journalists, as purveyors of information and opinion, wield significant influence in shaping public discourse and perceptions. It is therefore incumbent upon them to exercise their power responsibly and ethically. Making baseless statements or passing derogatory remarks on religious figures or practices not only constitutes a misuse of their power but also poses a direct threat to the fabric of our secular democracy.

26. In a pluralistic society like ours, characterized by its rich tapestry of religious diversity, fostering an environment of mutual respect and understanding is paramount. Publishers and journalists must be vigilant in their adherence to ethical standards, ensuring that their reporting and commentary do not inflame religious tensions or incite hatred.

27. Upholding secular principles is not merely a legal or constitutional obligation but a moral imperative essential for the preservation of our democratic values. Publishers and journalists play a crucial role in this endeavour, and it is incumbent upon them to exercise their power responsibly, refrain from denigrating religious sentiments, and uphold the principles of tolerance, respect, and equality for all. By doing so, they contribute to the strength and resilience of our secular democracy, ensuring that it remains a beacon of hope and freedom for generations to come.

28. Fifthly, it is apparent from the allegations presented in this case that the individual in question has egregiously misused publication as a tool for coercion, all while hiding behind the facade of being a journalist. Instead of fulfilling the noble duty of providing accurate and unbiased information to the public, this individual has opted to exploit their position for personal gain. By leveraging their platform to coerce individuals through threats and intimidation, they have not only betrayed the trust of their audience but also violated the ethical standards expected of journalists.

29. The misuse of publication for coercive purposes represents a severe abuse of power and a blatant disregard for the principles of journalistic integrity. Rather than serving as a beacon of truth and accountability, the individual in question has distorted the very essence of journalism, using it as a means to further their own selfish interests. Such reprehensible conduct not only undermines the credibility of the media but also erodes public trust in the institution as a whole.

30. Moreover, the act of using publication as a tool for coercion poses a significant threat to the integrity of democratic values. In a democracy, the media plays a pivotal role in fostering informed public discourse and holding power to account. When journalists abuse their authority for coercive purposes, they not only undermine the principles of transparency and accountability but also corrode the foundation of trust upon which democratic governance relies.

31. In light of these egregious allegations, it is clear that the individual in question has failed to uphold the ethical standards expected of journalists. Instead of serving the public interest, they have chosen to prioritize their own personal gain at the expense of journalistic integrity and democratic values. Therefore, considering the gravity of these allegations, there is no justification for granting bail to an individual who has so blatantly abused their position of trust and influence.

32. In conclusion, considering the gravity of the allegations against the applicant, including the misuse of publication for extortion, propagation of abusive language against public figures, and disregard for religious sentiments, I find no merit in granting bail. The principles of justice and integrity demand that individuals who abuse their position and influence for personal gain be held accountable for their actions.

33. Accordingly, the bail application stands rejected.

34. It is clarified that the observations, if any, made in this order are strictly confined to the disposal of the bail application and must not be construed to have any reflection on the ultimate merits of the case.

Criminal Law - Companies Act, 2013 - Sections 439 (2), 436 (1)(a) & (d) Proviso to Section 212(6) & 212 (14) - Companies Act, 1956 - Section 621(1) - Anticipatory bail - Maintainability - Record reveals that criminal complaint under Companies Act was filed against applicant & ors., wherein applicant, arrayed as accused no. 54, being ex-director of foreign entity, is alleged to have connived with other entities in conducting fraudulent merchanting trade, causing loss of crores of rupees to bank, thereby attracting liability u/s 447 of Act, 2013 - Learned counsel for Union of India raised preliminary objection that applicant, having directly approached High Court u/s 438 Cr.P.C. without first moving court concerned, renders present anticipatory bail application not maintainable - As per Five-Judge Full Bench decision in Ankit Bharti (infra), application for pre-arrest bail can be entertained by High Court directly only in exceptional circumstances, and not as matter of routine, unless special circumstances are shown to exist - Applicant has not disclosed any special circumstance for directly approaching High Court u/s 438 Cr.P.C. without first moving court concerned - In supplementary affidavit, applicant merely asserted that Section 438 Cr.P.C. does not bar filing anticipatory bail directly before the High Court - However, such assertion does not constitute special circumstance warranting direct entertainment of instant application - Admittedly, applicant is resident of London (U.K.) and not residing in India - Investigation stands concluded, and applicant has been summoned along with others - No warrants issued against him till date - Hence, question arises whether any reasonable apprehension of arrest still exists - Therefore, it appears that no apprehension of arrest exists in respect of applicant - Application rejected. 1. Dr. S.B. Maurya, learned AGA-I for the State apprised the Court that he has received the instructions, therefore, instant anticipatory bail application may be finally disposed off.

2. Heard Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Gopal Misra, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri R.P.S. Chauhan, learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India and Dr. S.B. Maurya, learned AGA-I for the State.

3. The present anticipatory bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant to enlarge him on anticipatory bail in Sessions Trial No. 577 of 2020 under Section 447 of the Companies Act arising out of Complaint U/s 439 (2) R/W, Section 436 (1)(a) & (d) R/W Proviso to Section 212(6) R/W 212 (14) of the Companies Act, 2013 R/W 621 (1) of the Companies Act, 1956 pending in the Court of Special Judge (Companies Act)/ Additional Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar.

Preliminary objections raised by Union of India

4. At the very outset, Sri R.P.S. Chauhan, learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India raised following preliminary objections:-

(a) applicant directly approached this Court for his pre arrest bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C. without approaching the court concerned under Section 438 Cr.P.C.

(b) applicant is the resident of United Kingdom (U.K.) and is residing in U.K. and not in India, therefore, there is no apprehension of his arrest.

Submissions advanced on behalf of Union of India with regard to preliminary objections:-

5. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India submitted that applicant straight-way filed instant anticipatory bail application before this Court without approaching the court concerned and no special circumstances has been disclosed by him in this regard, therefore, considering the law laid down by the Full Bench of Five Judges of this Court in the case of Ankit Bharti and others Vs. State of U.P and another 2020 (3) ADJ 575, the instant anticipatory bail application is not maintainable.

6. He further submits that admittedly applicant is the resident of London (U.K.) and investigation of the case has already been concluded and on the basis of the complaint, he has been summoned and till date no warrant has been issued against him, therefore, applicant is not having any belief of his arrest, therefore, on this ground also the instant anticipatory bail application is not maintainable.

7. He further submits that if applicant is released on anticipatory bail then under the pretext of order of pre-arrest bail, he will never return to India for trial. He further submits that no blanket protection can be given to the applicant under Section 438 Cr.P.C. He further submits that there are several examples in the past, if an accused once fled from India he never turned up to face the legal proceedings.

8. He further submits that it is a fraud under the Companies Act in the tune of crores of rupees and applicant being Ex Director of one of the U.K. firm also involved in the commission of the fraud.

9. He further submits that on the summon issued, applicant can come to India and participate in the court proceedings and on arrival in India if he apprehends that when he will appear before the court concerned, he will be sent to the custody then he can file an application for pre-arrest bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C. and therefore present application is premature.

10. He further submits that instant pre-arrest bail application filed by applicant clearly suggests that applicant is not intended to participate in the court proceedings and under the pretext of order of pre-arrest bail he will never turn up before the trial court.

Submissions advanced on behalf of applicant against the preliminary objections

11. Against the preliminary objections raised by learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant submitted that from perusal of the provisions of Section 438 Cr.P.C. it is apparent that anticipatory bail application can be filed either before the court of sessions or before this Court, therefore, if applicant opted to file the anticipatory bail application directly before this Court then he did not commit any illegality and it cannot be said that his anticipatory bail application is not maintainable.

12. He further submits that admittedly applicant is residing in London

(U.K.) and he is not residing within the jurisdiction of concerned sessions judge, therefore, even from this angle, he can directly file anticipatory bail application before this Court in view of the judgment passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in case of Vinod Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and another 2019 (12) ADJ 495.

13. He further argued, as per observation made by learned Single Judge of this Court in the case of Vinod Kumar (supra), the anticipatory bail can be filed straight-way to this Court where an accused is not residing within the jurisdiction of the concerned sessions judge faces a threat of arrest.

14. He further submits that the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ankit Bharti (supra) approved the law laid down by the learned Single Judge of this Court in the case of Vinod Kumar (supra).

15. He further submits that as far as the second objection raised by learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India is concerned, merely due to the fact that applicant is residing abroad, it cannot be said that he is not having any apprehension of arrest. He further submits that advancement in investigative technology and communication, the various agencies of investigation could even be deployed to arrest a person outside the country. He placed reliance on the judgment of High Court of Kerala in the case of Vijay Babu Vs. State of Kerala and others 2022 SCC OnLine Ker 3158.

16. He further submits that applicant is 73 years old person and he is willing to participate in the legal proceedings pending in India, therefore, on the basis of summons issued to him, he wants to appear before the court concerned but is having apprehension, if he will appear before the court concerned then he will be taken into custody.

17. He further submits that considering the practice now a days being adopted by the trial courts apprehension of custody raised by the applicant cannot be completely brushed aside. He further submits that even the Apex Court in the case of Mahdoo Bava Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation 2023 SCC OnLine SC 299 has shown its concern in this regard.

18. He further submits that as till date only summons have been issued against the applicant on the complaint, therefore, filing of instant anticipatory bail before this Court itself shows his bona fide and his eagerness to participate in the legal proceedings.

19. He further submits that applicant is law abiding citizen and he does not want to evade any legal process. He further submits that during investigation applicant was not arrested, however, on call he twice visited India from United Kingdom and appeared before the Investigating Officer and after the permission of the Investigating Officer he went back U.K., therefore, no presumption can be drawn that if applicant would be released on anticipatory bail then he will not return to India and will not participate in the court proceedings.

20. Learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant further submitted that considering the facts and circumstances of the case, both the preliminary objections raised by learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India are devoid of merits and are liable to be dismissed and instant anticipatory bail application of the applicant should be heard on merit.

Conclusion

21. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record of the case.

22. From the record, it reflects that a criminal complaint was filed against the applicant and several others under the provisions of Companies Act. Applicant, is the accused no.54 in the complaint and as per allegation he was Ex Director in a Foreign Entity and he also connived with other entities in running of fraudulent/abusive merchanting trade business and thus caused huge losses of crores of rupees to the bank and is liable to be punished for offence under Section 447 of Companies Act, 2013.

23. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India raised two preliminary objections. His first objection is that applicant directly approached this Court under Section 438 Cr.P.C. for his pre-arrest bail without approaching the court concerned, therefore, instant anticipatory bail application is not maintainable.

24. Five Judges Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ankti Bharti (supra) held, the anticipatory bail application can be filed before this Court directly but only in special circumstances and special circumstances must necessarily exist and be established as such before jurisdiction of this Court is invoked directly.

25. The Full Bench further observed that it is up to the Hon'ble Judge before whom the anticipatory bail application is placed whether according to him any special circumstances exist to entertain the application of anticipatory bail filed directly before this Court.

26. Therefore, as per five judges Full Bench of this Court an application for pre-arrest bail can only be entertained by this Court directly in only exceptional circumstances and not in routine manner and for entertaining such application directly special circumstances must exist.

27. In case at hand, in the entire anticipatory bail application, applicant did not disclose any special circumstances why he directly approached this Court without approaching the court concerned under Section 438 Cr.P.C., however, in the supplementary affidavit dated 26.11.2023 applicant averred that in view of the provisions of Section 438 Cr.P.C. there is no bar if applicant directly files anticipatory bail application before this Court. In view of this Court, it is not a special circumstance on the basis of which, the instant anticipatory bail application can be entertained directly by this Court.

28. Further, applicant is the resident of London (U.K.) and as per the view expressed by learned Single Judge of this Court in the case of Vinod Kumar (supra), which was approved by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ankit Bharti (supra) if an accused resides outside the concerned jurisdiction of sessions judge, then he can file anticipatory bail application directly before this Court if faces threat of arrest. Even five judges full Bench of this Court in case of Ankit Bharti (supra) held that such application must rest on strong foundation with regard to apprehension of arrest. Therefore, threat of arrest of the applicant is necessary for maintainability of his instant anticipatory bail application directly before this Court.

29. The second objection of Union of India is also with regard to belief of arrest of the applicant. Therefore, the core issue is whether applicant is having belief of his arrest.

Belief of arrest

30. The belief of arrest of accused is also the condition precedent for pre-arrest bail. The Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia and others Vs. State of Punjab (1980) 2 SCC 565 also emphasised a lot on it and held that mere fear is not belief of arrest and belief of arrest must be based on concrete facts and it must be clearly reflected from the face on record and without apprehension of arrest, the anticipatory bail application under Section 438 Cr.P.C. should not be considered.

31. The Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia (supra) in paragraph 35 observed:-

“35. Section 438 (1) of the Code lays down a condition which has to be satisfied before anticipatory bail can be granted. The applicant must show that he has reason to believe that he may be arrested for a non-bailable offence. The use of the expression reason to believe shows that the belief that the applicant may be so arrested must be founded on reasonable grounds. Mere fear is not belief, for which reason it is not enough for the applicant to show that he has some sort of a vague apprehension that some one is going to make an accusation against him, in pursuance of which he may be arrested.

The grounds on which the belief of the applicant is based that he may be arrested for a non-bailable offence, must be capable of being examined by the court objectively, because it is then alone that the court can determine whether the applicant has reason to believe that he may be so arrested. Section 438 (1), therefore, cannot be invoked on the basis of vague and general allegations, as if to arm oneself in perpetuity against a possible arrest. Otherwise, the number of applications for anticipatory bail will be as large as, at any rate, the adult populace. Anticipatory bail is a device to secure the individual's liberty; it is neither a passport to the commission of crimes nor a shield against any and all kinds of accusations, likely or unlikely."

32. The another Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Sushila Agarwal and others Vs. State of NCT Delhi and another (2020) 5 SCC 1 reiterated the observation made by the Constitution Bench in the case of Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia (supra) and observed that apprehension of arrest should not be imaginary, therefore, the law is settled, for pre-arrest bail, it is necessary for the accused to show his apprehension of arrest against accusation for non-bailable offences.

33. In case at hand, admittedly applicant is not residing in India and he is resident of London (U.K.). The investigation of the case has already been concluded and on complaint applicant was summoned along with others and till date no warrants has been issued against him. Therefore, question is whether still applicant is having belief of his arrest.

34. The learned Single Judge of Kerala High Court in case of Vijay Babu

(supra) on which reliance was placed by applicant, however, observed that investigating agencies can arrest the accused even outside the country but the facts of the present case are distinguishable from the facts of the case of Vijay Babu (supra).

35. In the case of Vijay Babu (supra) it appears that the investigation of the case was pending, therefore, learned Single Judge of the Kerala High Court observed in that context that due to the advancement in investigative technology and communication, the various agencies of investigation could even arrest a person outside the India but in case at hand, investigation has already been concluded and after filing of complaint till date only summons have been issued against the applicant. Therefore, prima facie in the present matter it appears, there is no apprehension of the arrest of applicant who resides in London (U.K.)

36. Further, if applicant truly wants to participate in the legal proceeding in India then on the basis of summon he can arrive India and after arrival if he apprehends his arrest/custody then he can approach under Section 438 Cr.P.C. for his pre-arrest bail. The instant anticipatory bail application, at this stage, appears to be premature.

37. Further, this Court finds force in the argument advanced by learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India that if blanket protection is given to the applicant under Section 438 Cr.P.C. then possibility cannot be ruled out that he will never return to India.

38. Therefore, considering the facts and circumstances of the case

1. Heard Ms Shreya Gupta, learned counsel for the plaintiff/revisionist and Sri Navin Sinha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Arvind Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. By means of the present civil revision, the plaintiff/revisionist has assailed the order dated 11.05.2022 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Bareilly by which he has allowed the application 151Ka and application 227Ga of Dharmendra Kumar Rathore-respondent no.1 for impleading him as 'defendant' in Original Suit No.530 of 2017.

3. The facts in brief are that the plaintiff/revisionist is a private limited company duly registered with the Registrar of Companies Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand, Kanpur on 07.07.2011. The plaintiff-revisionist has instituted the Original Suit No.530 of 2017 praying for a decree of specific performance of agreement to sale dated 12.07.2011 executed by respondent no.2 (defendant no.1 in original suit) in favour of plaintiff/revisionist registered in the office of Sub-Registrar-II, Bareilly on 12.07.2011, and a direction to the respondent no.2 to execute the sale deed of the land described in the plaint and in the agreement to sale dated 12.07.2011 (hereinafter referred to as 'suit property') in favour of plaintiff/revisionist after taking the balance sale consideration of Rs.2 crore & 28 lacs from the plaintiff/revisionist. It is further prayed that respondent no.3 (defendant no.2 in the original suit) and respondent no.5 (defendant no.4 in the original suit) be also directed to join with defendant no.1 as sellers in the said sale deed. The plaintiff/revisionist further prayed for a decree declaring the two sale deeds dated 11.11.2011 registered on 15.11.2011 and the sale deed dated 29.11.2012 registered on 01.12.2012 as null and void.

4. The case of the plaintiff/revisionist is that respondent no.2 agreed to sell the plaintiff/revisionist his Bhumidhari land detailed in paragraph 4 of the plaint situated at village Bilwa, Tehsil and District Bareilly. Respondent no.2 for the said purpose executed a registered agreement to sale dated 12.07.2011 registered in the office of Sub-Registrar II, Bareilly on 12.07.2011 (hereinafter referred to as 'agreement') in favour of the plaintiff/revisionist through its two Directors namely, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu. The total amount of sale consideration for the suit property under the agreement was Rs.3,28,00,000/- (Rs.3 crores & 28 lac) out of which, an amount of Rs.1 crore was paid to respondent no.2 by plaintiff/revisionist as part of sale consideration and balance amount of sale consideration was agreed to be paid at the time of execution of sale deed.

5. Under the agreement, six months was stipulated for the execution of the sale deed, and it was also agreed between the plaintiff/revisionist and respondent no.2 that the plaintiff/revisionist as prospective purchaser shall be at liberty to get the sale deed executed in its name or the name of other person or persons, firm or company of its choice and may also get the sale deed executed in one go or in parts as may be permissible under the relevant revenue law. It is also agreed that all the costs and expenses of registration, stamp duty etc. shall be borne by the plaintiff/revisionist.

6. Initially, on 07.07.2011 at the time of incorporation of the plaintiff/revisionist's company, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu were promoters and first Directors of the company. Thereafter, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal became shareholders of the plaintiff/revisionist's company by purchasing 25% shares of the company by each of them w.e.f. 11.07.2011. Thus, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore, Smt. Neetu Sahu, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal became the shareholder of the plaintiff/revisionist's company each having 25% shares in the company. Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal were also appointed Directors of the plaintiff/revisionist's company on 18.07.2011. Thus, the plaintiff/revisionist's company had four Directors namely, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore, Smt. Neetu Sahu, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal w.e.f. 18.07.2011.

7. The further case in the plaint is that the two Directors namely Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu resigned from the Directorship of the plaintiff/revisionist's company w.e.f. 18.10.2011. It is further stated that before the expiry of the period stipulated in the agreement for execution of the sale deed, two Directors of the plaintiff/revisionist's company namely, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal came to know that respondent no.2 had sold away the suit property by executing two sale deeds; one sale deed dated 11.11.2011 (registered on 15.11.2011 in the office of Sub-Registrar, Bareilly) in favour of respondent no.4 (defendant no.3 in the suit) and respondent no.5 (defendant no.4 in the suit) is in respect to one half of the land of the suit property of southern portion; and second sale deed dated 11.11.2011 (registered on 15.11.2011 in the office of Sub-Registrar, Bareilly) in favour of respondent no.3 in respect of one half of the northern portion of suit property. At the time of execution of the second sale deed, the name of respondent no.3 was M/s Saraswati Paddy Private Limited and its Director was Sri Anupam Agarwal, but thereafter, its name was changed to M/s Marigold Infra Developers Private Limited.

8. It is further stated that in both the aforesaid sale deeds, it is mentioned that respondent no.2 had earlier entered into the aforesaid agreement to sale dated 12.07.2011 in favour of the plaintiff/revisionist, and plaintiff/revisionist under clause 11 of the agreement through its resolution dated 15.07.2011 nominated and requested to the vendor i.e. respondent no.2 to sell the said land to the purchaser concerned. It was also mentioned in the aforesaid two sale deeds that the amount of advance of Rs.1 crore was paid by the plaintiff/revisionist to respondent no.2 under the agreement be adjusted in each of the said sale deeds equally. The expenses incurred in the execution and registration of sale deeds viz stamp duty, registration charges etc. were borne and paid by the vendor i.e. respondent no.2.

9. The plaintiff/revisionist further alleges that when two Directors namely, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal came to know about aforesaid two sale deeds dated 11.11.2011 (registered on 15.11.2011 in the office of Sub-Registrar, Bareilly), they objected to it alleging that no resolution dated 15.07.2011 was ever passed by the plaintiff/revisionist's company authorising the sale of suit property to said purchasers. Plaintiff/revisionist also alleged that two Directors namely, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu had resigned from the plaintiff/revisionist's company on 18.10.2011 and they in collusion with purchasers and respondent no.2 and other persons got the sale deeds executed without there being any such resolution as referred in the said sale deeds to cause grave loss to the plaintiff/revisionist's company.

10. The aforesaid two Directors namely, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal made complaints about the aforesaid illegal sale to various authorities and requested that the sale deeds be cancelled.

11. It is further stated that the respondent nos.4 and 5 despite knowing the fact that sale deeds have not been legally executed, sold away and transferred the suit property purchased by them through the aforesaid sale deeds dated 11.11.2011 to respondent no.6 (defendant no.5 in the suit).

12. As there arose serious dispute among the Directors, two Directors namely, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal filed Company Petition No.99 (N.D.) of 2012 (Bharat Kumar and Another Vs. Shri Bankhandi Nath Developers Private Limited), under Sections 397 and 398 of the Companies Act, 1956 before the National Company Law Tribunal, Allahabad Bench praying that the aforesaid sale deeds dated 11.11.2011 and the two sale deeds dated 15.11.2011 be declared null and void and suit property sold under the aforesaid sale deeds be restored. They further prayed that a proceeding for fraudulent conduct of business be launched against the respondents in the said company petition.

13. Later on, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu also filed Company Petition No.86 (N.D.) of 2013 (Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Another Vs. Shri Bankhandi Nath Developers Private Limited) praying for a declaration that transfer/allotment of shares to Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal be declared as invalid and null and void. Further declaration sought was that the alleged transfer forms be declared invalid, null and void and the resolution passed on 18.07.2011 for appointing Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal as Director on the filing of Form-32 is cancelled besides other reliefs.

14. The National Company Law Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as

'N.C.L.T.') decided both the company petitions i.e. Company Petition No.99 (N.D.) of 2012 and Company Petition No.86 (N.D.) of 2013 by common judgement dated 24.01.2017 wherein it held that Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal are the shareholders and Directors of the plaintiff/revisionist's company having together 50% authorized capital and shall continue as such. The N.C.L.T. also held that Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu have not resigned from the Directorship and they are continuing as Directors of the plaintiff/revisionist's company. It also held that there was no resolution dated 15.07.2011 authorising execution of the sale deeds dated 11.11.2011 in favour of respondent nos.3, 4 and 5. The N.C.L.T. also held that no resolution for parting with the rights of the plaintiff/revisionist under the agreement to purchase the suit property in suit was ever passed by the Board or by Extraordinary General Meeting (hereinafter referred to as 'EOGM') or by Annual General Meeting (hereinafter referred to as 'AGM') and held that parting of the suit property by the company at the behest of Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu without approval of the Board and members ignoring legal requirements cannot be held to be legal. However, N.C.L.T. refused to cancel the sale deeds and held that the plaintiff/revisionist may get the agreement enforced through a competent Civil Court since it has no jurisdiction to grant the said relief.

15. Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal filed a Company Appeal No.72 of 2017 whereas Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu filed Company Appeal Nos.108 & 109 of 2017 before the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, Delhi against the judgement and order dated 24.01.2017 passed by the N.C.L.T. The National Company Law Appellate Tribunal decided all three appeals by a common judgement dated 23.08.2017 affirming the judgement dated 24.01.2017 passed by the N.C.L.T and further directed Dharmendra Kumar Rathore to compensate the plaintiff/revisionist in the manner provided in the order.

16. It is also stated by the plaintiff/revisionist in the plaint that the plaintiff/revisionist has always been ready and willing to perform its part of the agreement and pay the balance sale consideration to respondent no.2 and to get the sale deed executed from him in terms of the agreement. In the aforesaid factual backdrop, the plaintiff/revisionist has prayed for the relief, referred to above.

17. In the aforesaid suit, an application 151Ka under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. has been filed by Dharmendra Kumar Rathore, who is one of the Directors of the plaintiff/revisionist's company for being impleaded as 'defendant' in the suit. The said application has been filed by Dharmendra Kumar Rathore mainly on the ground that N.C.L.T. in its order dated 24.01.2017 held that there are four Directors in the company, but because of the dispute between them, they are divided, and no decision of the company can be taken without the majority of the Directors. Consequently, the N.C.L.T. appointed Sri Anil Kumar, a practising Company Secretary so that the decision could be taken by the company by majority. It is further stated that no meeting of the five Directors had taken place to decide about the filing of suit on behalf of the company. Therefore, one Director Sri Bharat Kumar Agarwal alone is not competent to institute the suit as no decision to institute the suit has been taken by the other four Directors. It is further stated that since respondent no.1 Dharmendra Kumar Rathore is the Director of the company and has a direct interest in the suit property, therefore, any decision in the suit will affect the interest of respondent no.1, hence, he is a necessary and proper party in the suit.

18. It is further stated that Bharat Kumar Agarwal has stated wrong facts in the plaint which are adverse to the interest of respondent no.1, and therefore, respondent no.1 is a necessary and proper party in the suit.

19. The application 151Ka of respondent no.1 was objected to by the plaintiff/revisionist by filing objection 163Ga contending inter alia that respondent no.1 is neither necessary nor proper party in the suit and application 151Ka has been filed on misconceived grounds. It is further stated that so far as the legality of the resolution passed by the company is concerned, a third party has no right to challenge the legality and correctness of the resolution, and this Court has no jurisdiction to decide the legality and correctness of the said resolution. It is further stated that the averments made in application 151Ka are vague since respondent no.1 has not stated in his application what facts have been concealed by the plaintiff/revisionist. It is also stated that the suit has been instituted in the interest of the company and for the benefit of the company, and in case relief prayed for in the suit is granted, respondent no.1 shall not suffer any prejudice rather he would be benefited by the decree in favour of the plaintiff/revisionist.

20. It transpires from the record that the plaintiff/revisionist also filed an application under Order 39 Rules 1 & 2 of C.P.C. praying for an interim injunction. The said application was rejected by the trial court by order dated 21.10.2021. Against the said order, the plaintiff/revisionist preferred F.A.F.O. No.1771 of 2021 which was dismissed by the Division Bench of this Court by judgement dated 26.11.2021. Against the judgement of this Court dated 26.11.2021 passed in F.A.F.O. No.1771 of 2021, the plaintiff/revisionist preferred Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.1204 of 2022 in which, Apex Court has passed the following order on 07.02.2022:-

“Upon hearing the counsel the Court made the following

ORDER

Applications for exemption from filing O.T., permission to file additional documents/facts/annexures are allowed.

Learned counsel for the petitioner points out that the original vendor (respondent No.1) executed a registered agreement to sell on 12.07.2011 in respect of 55,000 sq. mtrs. of land with 50% stamp duty paid in favour of the petitioner company. There are two subsequent agreements dated 11.11.2011 registered on 15.11.2011 executed in favour of respondent No.2 and respondent Nos.3 & 4. It is the say of learned counsel for the petitioner that in view of there being an issue on the Board resolution authorizing the subsequent sales, the matter went to NCLT and thereafter NCLAT and this Court which upheld the findings that the Board Resolution authorizing the same was fraudulent in character. It is thereafter in the year 2017, the suits for specific performance were filed in which interim orders have been declined by the trial Court after 4 years and the appeal against the same dismissed by the impugned order.

He further submits that pending suit, sale transactions have taken place to third parties, including respondent No.5, represented before us, by respondent Nos.3 & 4. These parties, it is submitted were before the NCLT but only respondent No.5 is arrayed as a defendant in the suit as a subsequent purchaser other than the first four respondents.

The case of the petitioner is thus predicated on the findings of a fraudulent Board Resolution and also its submissions that the original vendor/respondent No.1 was asked to execute sale deed in favour of respondent No. 2 and respondent Nos. 3 & 4 and the proceeds therefrom is not known where they went. In this behalf he submits that as per the registered agreement for sale dated 12.07.2011, one crore had been paid out of a total consideration of Rs. 3 crores 28 lakh. The petitioner is thus stated to have been left high and dry and that the property is dealt with in the meantime, it may be difficult to realize the money from those properties, the dispute being one inter se the company.

On the other hand learned counsel for respondent No. 5 submits that he is a subsequent second purchaser and thus, his interest cannot be compromised.

The impugned orders being interim in character, we would normally loathe to interfere with the same. However, the High Court order also does not deal with this crucial aspects to give prima facie finding way one necessitating our scrutiny. or the other Issue notice on the special leave petition as well on interim relief returnable on 07.03.2022. Learned counsel for respondent No.5 accepts notice. Respondents Nos. 1 and 4 be served dasti as well.

We may note the disputed Board Resolution is dated 15.07.2011 which has been found to be fraudulent by the different forums stated to be authorizing Mr. Dharmendra Rathore, one of the Directors who is stated to be still a Director of the petitioner company. In order to enable this Court to take a view and to find out where the monies realized have gone, we consider appropriate to implead Mr. Dharmendra Rathore as respondent No. 6 in the present proceedings.

Amended Memo of parties be filed within a week.

Notice in terms aforesaid will also issue to the newly impleaded as respondent No. 6.

A copy of the order to accompany the notice."

21. The aforesaid S.L.P. was disposed off by the Apex Court by judgement dated 07.03.2022. Respondent no.1 on the strength of the judgement dated 07.02.2022 passed by the Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.1204 of 2022 filed an application 227Ga for impleading him as 'defendant' in the suit.

22. The aforesaid application was contested by the plaintiff/revisionist by filing objection 231Ga stating therein that the impleadment of respondent no.1 by the Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.1204 of 2022 was for a limited purpose and Apex Court has never directed or allowed the impleadment of respondent no.1 in the above suit.

23. The trial court by order dated 11.05.2022 allowed the application 151Ka and 227Ga of respondent no.1 by placing reliance upon the order passed by the Apex Court on 07.02.2022 in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.1204 of 2022. The order dated 11.05.2022 is assailed in the present revision.

24. Challenging the aforesaid order, learned counsel for the plaintiff/revisionist has contended that the order of the trial court allowing application 151Ka and application 227Ga is erroneous and has been passed without application of mind inasmuch as the trial court while allowing the aforesaid applications has failed to consider the necessary ingredients of Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. in allowing the impleadment application of respondent in the suit. It is contended that the plaintiff/revisionist is a dominus litis and he cannot be compelled to proceed against a person against whom he does not claim any relief. It is further contended that the plaintiff/revisionist being dominus litis is not bound to sue every possible adverse claim in the suit. It is further contended that respondent no.1 is neither a necessary nor a proper party in the suit, therefore, the trial court has committed material irregularity in not considering the fact whether respondent no.1 has made out a case for impleadment under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. or not.

25. It is further contended that the trial court has failed to appreciate correctly the order passed by the Apex Court in S.L.P. No.1204 of 2022 for impleading respondent no.1 as 'defendant' in the suit. It is submitted that the impleadment of respondent no.1 in the suit was for a limited purpose to get the direction of the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal directing respondent no.1 to compensate the company by depositing Rs.1 crore along with 12% interest complied with. Thus, it is contended that the revisional court has committed manifest irregularity in allowing the application of respondent no.1.

26. Per contra, Sri Navin Sinha, learned Senior Counsel for the respondents submits that respondent no.1 is a necessary and proper party in the suit. It is contended that it is not disputed that respondent no.1 is one of the Directors of the plaintiff/revisionist's company as has been held by the N.C.L.T. and affirmed by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, therefore, he has direct interest in the suit property. In such view of the fact, even if no relief has been claimed against respondent no.1, he is a proper party in the suit.

27. It is submitted that reading of the plaint does not disclose that there is any pleading to the effect that the plaintiff/revisionist's company passed any resolution authorising Bharat Kumar Agarwal to institute suit for enforcement of the agreement to sale. He further contends that after the order was passed by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, no meeting of five Directors of the plaintiff/revisionist's company had taken place resolving to institute a suit for enforcement of the agreement to sale, and this fact has been specifically stated by the respondent no.1 in paragraph 5 of his application which has not been denied by the plaintiff/revisionist's company in its objection 163Ga to the application 151Ka of respondent no.1. Accordingly, his further submission is that there is no provision to challenge the resolution of the Company under the Companies Act. He further submits that since the relevant issue which arises in the instant case to be considered by the trial court is whether the company has taken any decision to take legal recourse for enforcement of the agreement to sell, and the said issue strikes at the maintainability of the suit and cannot be decided effectively in the absence of respondent no.1 and the decision on said issue does not change the nature of suit, therefore, the respondent no.1 is necessary and proper party in the suit.

28. It is further stated that there are serious allegations made by the plaintiff/revisionist in the plaint against respondent no.1 that respondent no.1 has colluded with other persons in executing the sale deed, and in such view of the fact, the respondent no.1 has a right to defend himself and thus, respondent no.1 is a necessary and proper party in the suit and application of respondent no.1 falls within the parameters of Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C., therefore, the trial court has not committed any illegality in allowing the application of respondent no.1. Lastly, he contends that by impleading respondent no.1, plaintiff/revisionist would not suffer any prejudice.

29. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

30. Plaintiff-revisionist instituted Original Suit No.530 of 2017 praying for a decree of specific performance of agreement to sale dated 12.07.2011 executed by respondent no.2 in favour of plaintiff-revisionist. It emanates from the record that initially there were two shareholders of the plaintiff's company, namely, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu and they were the Directors of the plaintiff's company. Subsequently, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal purchased 50% share from Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu, and thus, there were four shareholders each having 25% shareholding in the company.

31. The plaintiff/revisionist entered into an agreement to sale executed by respondent no.2 in favour of the plaintiff's company through its Director Dharmendra Kumar Rathore for sale consideration of Rs.3,28,00,000/- (Rs. Three Crores & Twenty Eight Lacs), out of which Rs.1 crore was paid as advance. It was stipulated in the agreement to sale that the sale deed was to be executed within six months either in favour of the plaintiff-revisionist or in the name of another person or persons, firm or company of its choice and may also get the sale deed executed in one go or in portion as permissible under the relevant Revenue Law. Later on, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal also became the Directors of the plaintiff's company on 18.07.2011, and thereafter, there were four Directors of the plaintiff's company namely, Dharmendra Kumar Rathore, Smt. Neetu Sahu, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal.

32. It transpires from the record that respondent no.2 sold away the suit property by executing two sale deeds; one dated 11.11.2011 in favour of respondent no.4 & 5 selling southern one half of the suit property; and the second sale deed on the same date i.e., 11.11.2011 in favour of respondent no.3 in respect of one half of the northern portion of the suit property. It further transpires from the record that a dispute arose among the Directors of the company which led Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal to file a Company Petition No. 99 (N.D.) of 2012, under Sections 397 & 398 of the Companies Act, 1956 before the N.C.L.T. praying for a relief of declaration declaring the sale deed dated 11.11.2011 and two sale deeds dated 15.11.2011 as null and void and suit property sold under the aforesaid sale deeds be restored to the plaintiff's company. The other Company Petition No.86 (N.D.) of 2013 was filed by Dharmendra Kumar

Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu praying that allotment of share to Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt. Smita Agarwal be declared invalid and null and void. The N.C.L.T. decided both the company petitions, i.e. Company Petition No. 99 (N.D.) of 2012 and Company Petition No.86 (N.D.) of 2013 by a common judgement dated 24.01.2017. Paragraphs 5.2 to 5.5, 6.1 & 7 of the judgement of N.C.L.T. dated 24.01.2017 which have been relied upon by learned counsel for both the parties in respect of their submissions are reproduced herein below:-

“5.2. Thus, there cannot be any doubt that the Company has agreed to purchase the property and the Company is at liberty to obtain sale deed either in its own name or in the name of any other else within a period of six months, subject to other conditions of contract. But very strangely, on 15.11.2011 the company has taken the decision to part with that land. The reason for that as stated by the Respondents in their petition in CP 86/2013 is that they being directors of the Company got an offer for sale of the land at a point, therefore in order to benefit the Respondent No.1 Company, the land was sold to (1) Saraswati Paddy Products Pvt. Ltd. and (now Mari Gold Infra) (2) Shri Styendra Rathore and Shri Prem Shankar Rathore by way of registered sale deed on 15.11.2011 and thus 'earned profit within a short span of time'.

5.3 One of the important clauses of the sale deeds is that the Vendor has borne the Registration and Stamp duty charges. Under the deeds the sale consideration is Rs.3,28,00,000. It is the same value for which the land was purchased from Respondent No.4 under the agreement of sale by the Company. Therefore, there is no profit earned by the company as pleaded by the Respondents. Further very weirdly, the vendor had to bear the Stamp duty and Registration charges which comes to Rs.23 lakhs as shown in both the sale deeds together. Why the 4th Respondent had to bear loss in meeting this stipulation is un-understandable and this also goes contrary to the ordinary course of transactions. It is unknown whether the advance consideration paid by the Company under the agreement of sale was returned to it by the vendees under the sale deeds. The Respondents did not produce any evidence to that effect. Therefore, deliberately this transaction, instead of fetching profit to the company resulted in incurring huge loss. If such is not called an act of mismanagement, certainly it is imprudent act prejudicially affecting the interest of the company.

5.4. Interestingly, the Board did not record any minutes of its meeting and produce that the decision to get the sale deed executed in favour of 3rd parties in pursuance of the Agreement of sale, by the Respondent No.4 approved by the EOGM which is necessary to part with the property of the Company. Even if any such meeting was held, that minutes are not valid because, the Petitioners who are Directors are not parties to that resolution.

The Respondents did not even plead that there is any such resolution passed by the Board and the EOGM or AGM. The property of the company acquired under the agreement of sale cannot be parted with in favour of a 3rd party without the approval of the Board and Members. To that extent, the parting of property by the company at the behest of the Respondent No.2 and 3 claiming to be sole directors of the company ignoring the legal requirements and also the fact that there are other Directors, the Petitioner in CP-99/2012 as per our findings above, is not legal.

5.5. The next important question that remains with us is whether the sale deeds dated 15.11.2011 can be declared as 'null and void' as sought for in CP 99/2012. The jurisdiction of this tribunal is summary in nature and the powers thereof while dealing with causes of oppression and mismanagement are spelt out in Sec. 402 of 1956 Act and Sec. 242 of Companies Act, 2013. Two important clauses of Sec. 242 are relied upon by the learned counsel for the Petitioners in CP 99/2012 to contend that the Tribunal is competent to set aside any transfer of property under Sec. 242. Those two clauses are:

(e). the termination, setting aside or modification, of any agreement, howsoever arrived at, between the company and the managing director, any other director or manager, upon such terms and conditions as may, in the opinion of the Tribunal, be just and equitable in the circumstances of the case;

(f). the termination, setting aside or modification of any agreement between the company and any person other than those referred to in clause (e):

Provided that no such agreement shall be terminated, set aside or modified except after due notice and after obtaining the consent of the party concerned;

(g). the setting aside of any transfer, delivery of goods, payment, execution or other act relating to property made or done by or against the company within three months before the date of the application under this section, which would, if made or done by or against an individual, be deemed in his insolvency to be a fraudulent preference;

Clause (e) is with respect to termination of any agreement between directors of the company; and clause (f) is between company and 3rd parties. To fall back on the spirit of clause (f), the 3rd party shall give consent. Here the 3rd party, other than the directors is Respondent No.11, 5 to 6 who are vendees under two registered sale deeds executed by Respondent No.4. They are resisting the CP 99/2012 substantially and so, there is no consent as such they are giving to terminate any agreement i.e., the sale deeds, if they are taken as 'agreements' for the purpose of cl.(f) of sec. 242 above.

Clauses (g) cannot be attracted because the tribunal can set aside any transfer etc made or done within three months before the date of the application. Obviously this is also not applicable. Further, it is pertinent to note that there is no transfer of property as such effected by the Company but it is by the 4th Respondent. Had the sale deeds in question dated 15.11.2011 been executed by or on behalf of the Company, this provision could have been very well attracted.

6.1. As observed in point No.3, parting with the property of the company in favour of 3rd parties is virtually parting with equitable rights of the company to seek sale deed from the vendor in pursuance of the agreement of sale. When once the act of the Respondents in allowing the sale deed executed by the vendor in favour of 3rd party, is held oppressive and not binding on the company, that decision does not disturb the rights accrued to the Respondents 4 to 6 and 11, the vendees under sale deeds because there is transfer of property to them by operation of Sec. 54 of the Transfer of Property Act. Therefore, the Company has to take legal action for getting those sale deeds cancelled and obtain a sale deed in its favour and for that the Board of the Company has to take decision with the ratification by the members. Whether or not the Board will take a decision is left to the wisdom of the Directors and Members of the company.

7. Result: In view of the above discussion and observations, the following Order is passed:

1. It is declared that both the groups, namely the Petitioners in CP 99/2012 and Petitioners in CP86/2013 are guilty of committing acts of oppression and mismanagement;

2. It is declared that both petitioners in CP 99/2012 and Petitioners in CP86/2013 are Directors of the Board of the Company;

3 (a) Shri Anil Kumar, Practicing Company Secretary is appointed as 5th Director of the Company to enable the Board to take majority decision on the following issues:

(i) whether any legal action shall be taken by the Company for getting the sale deeds dated 15.11.2011 executed by Mr. Alok Goel in favour of 3rd parties cancelled and to specifically enforce the agreement of sale dated 12.07.2011 in favour of the Company executed by Mr. Alok Kumar Goel according to law;

(ii) Whether the Registered office of the Company be shifted or not;

iii) Any other issue relating to the affairs of the Company in order to put the company on track to continue its business as per the objectives of its incorporation;

3 (b) Shri Anil Kumar is further empowered to supervise that the Board meeting and the meeting of members is convened smoothly by following the procedure according to the Companies Act, 2013 and relevant rules and report to the Tribunal. He shall continue as Director of the Board till the Board elects another independent director within a period of 6 months from the date of this order or such other period as the Tribunal may direct on the application of any of the Directors or the members of the Company.

3 (c) Each of parties shall pay Rs. 25, 000/ (twenty five thousand only) (total Rs.50,000) to Shri Anil Kumar as his honorarium in advance, besides reimbursing his travelling and other incidental expenses, whenever he claims therefor;

4. Both parties in both the petitions shall file certified copy of this order before Registrar of Companies, Kanpur within 30 days from the date of this order;

5. All the other reliefs claimed in both the petitions are refused and merged in this order;

6. All applications if any pending as on today are hereby disposed of and merged in this order;

7. The Company Petitions CP 99/2012 and 86/2013 are disposed off accordingly;

8. Both parties shall bear their respective costs."

33. Against the judgement of N.C.L.T. dated 24.01.2017, Bharat Kumar Agarwal and Smt, Smita Agarwal preferred Company Appeal (AT) No.72 of 2017 and two Company Appeals i.e., Company Appeal (AT) Nos.108 & 109 of 2017 preferred by Dharmendra Kumar Rathore and Smt. Neetu Sahu before the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal which were decided by it by a common judgement dated 23.08.2017.

34. It is further relevant to point out that the Special Leave Petition preferred by Dharmendra Kumar Rathore i.e. Civil Appeal Diary No.38283 of 2017 against the judgement dated 23.08.2017 of National Company Law Appellate Tribunal was dismissed by the Apex Court by judgement and order dated 10.08.2018.

35. Before advertng to the submission of respective counsels, it would be useful to have a glance at Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. which is reproduced herein below.

“10. Suit in name of wrong plaintiff.—(1) Where a suit has been instituted in the name of the wrong person as plaintiff or where it is doubtful whether it has been instituted in the name of the right plaintiff, the Court may at any stage of the suit, if satisfied that the suit has been instituted through a bona fide mistake, and that it is necessary for the determination of the real matter in dispute so to do, order any other person to be substituted or added as plaintiff upon such terms as the Court thinks just.

(2) Court may strike out or add parties.—The Court may at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may appear to the Court to be just, order that the name of any party improperly joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, be struck out, and that the name of any person who ought to have been joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, or whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit, be added.

(3) No person shall be added as a plaintiff suing without a next friend or as the next friend of a plaintiff under any disability without his consent.

(4) Where defendant added, plaint to be amended.—Where a defendant is added, the plaint shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, be amended in such manner as may be necessary, and amended copies of the summons and of the plaint shall be served on the new defendant and, if the Court thinks fit, on the original defendant

(5) Subject to the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877 (XV of 1877), Section 22, the proceedings as against any person added as defendant shall be deemed to have begun only on the service of the summons.”

36. The Apex Court while interpreting Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. ruled that the party filing application under Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. has to establish that he is a necessary and proper party in the proceeding and without his presence the court cannot effectively and completely adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit. Once the person who files an application under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. establishes the existence of the aforesaid prerequisite conditions, the Court is under obligation to exercise its jurisdiction under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. and direct for impleadment of such person.

37. In this respect it would be apt to refer few judgments of the Apex Court:

38. In Ramesh Hirchand Kundanmal Vs. Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay and Others (1992) 2 SCC 524, the question which came for consideration before the Apex Court was whether the second respondent is a necessary and proper party to be joined as 'defendant' under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. in the suit instituted by the appellant against respondent no.1.

39. In the said case under the Dealership Agreement of 1974, appellant Ramesh Hirchand Kundanmal was in possession of the service station erected on the land held by respondent no.2-Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. as lessee. The service station consisted of a petrol pump on the ground floor and a structure with an open terrace for parking vehicles. Respondent no.1, the Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay issued notice dated August 5, 1988, under Section 351 of the Municipal Corporation Act to the appellant for demolition of two chattels on the terrace on the ground that these were unauthorised constructions. The appellant instituted suit No.6181 of 1988 before the City Civil Court, Bombay challenging the validity of the notice and for injunction restraining the municipal corporation from demolishing the structures.

40. In the said suit, an application under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. was filed by respondent no.2 -Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. on the ground that they have materials to show that the constructions are unauthorised, and they are necessary parties to the litigation. The trial court allowed the said application and directed the appellant to add respondent no.2 as the defendant and amend the plaint suitably. The appellant preferred Writ Petition No.4229 of 1989 under Article 227 of the Constitution of India in the High Court of Bombay challenging the order passed by the trial court allowing the impleadment application which was dismissed by the High Court. The order of the trial court allowing the impleadment application and the order of the High Court dismissing the writ petition of the appellant came to be challenged by the appellant before the Apex Court in the present case.

41. In the said appeal, three submissions were advanced by the appellant; The plaintiff is dominus litis, and therefore, cannot be forced to join the second respondent as the defendant; secondly, the second respondent is neither a necessary nor a proper party to the suit;

thirdly, addition of second respondent would enlarge the issue in the suit. In this regard, it would be relevant to reproduce paragraphs 13, 14 and 15 of the said judgement:-

“13. A clear distinction has been drawn between suits relating to property and those in which the subject-matter of litigation is a declaration as regards status or legal character. In the former category, the rule of present interest as distinguished from the commercial interest is required to be shown before a person may be added as a party.

14. It cannot be said that the main object of the rule is to prevent multiplicity of actions though it may incidentally have that effect. But that appears to be a desirable consequence of the rule rather than its main objectives. The person to be joined must be one whose presence is necessary as a party. What makes a person a necessary party is not merely that he has relevant evidence to give on some of the questions involved; that would only make him a necessary witness. It is not merely that he has an interest in the correct solution of some questions involved and has thought or relevant arguments to advance. The only reason which makes it necessary to make a person a party to an action is so that he should be bound by the result of the action and the question to be settled, therefore, must be a question in the action which cannot be effectually and completely settled unless he is a party. The line has been drawn on wider construction of the rule between the direct interest or the legal interest and commercial interest. It is, therefore, necessary that the person must be directly or legally interested in the action in the answer; i.e., he can say that the litigation may lead to a result which will affect him legally that is by curtailing his legal rights. It is difficult to say that the rule contemplates joining as a defendant a person whose only object is to prosecute his own cause of action. Similar provision was considered in Amon v. Raphael Tuck & Sons Ltd., (1956) 1 All E.R. 273, wherein after quoting the observations of Wynn-Parry, J. in Dollfus Mieg et Compagnie S.A v. Bank of England, (1950) 2 All E.R. 611, that there true test lies not so much in an analysis of what are the constituents of the applicants' rights, but rather in what would be the result on the subject-matter of the action if those rights could be established, Devlin, J. has stated:-

The test is 'May the order for which the plaintiff is asking directly affect the intervenor in the enjoyment of his legal rights'."

15. It has been strenuously contended before us that the respondent 2 has no interest in the subject-matter of the litigation and the presence of the respondent is not required to adjudicate upon the issue involved in the suit or for the purpose of deciding the real matter involved. It is pointed out that the subject-matter in the suit is the notice issued by the Municipal Corporation to the appellant and the issue is whether it is justified or not. The Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited is interested in supporting the Municipal Corporation and sustaining the action taken against the appellant. But that does not amount to any legal interest in the subject-matter in the sense that the order, if any, either in favour of the appellant or against the appellant would be binding on this respondent. It is true that being lessee of the premises, the Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited has an answer for the action proposed by the Municipal Corporation against the appellant, but for the purpose of granting the relief sought for by the appellant by examining the justification of the notice issued by the Municipal Corporation, it is not necessary for the Court to consider that answer. If that be so, the presence of the respondent cannot be considered as necessary for the purpose of enabling the Court to effectually and completely adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit. The appellant is proceeded against by the Municipal Corporation for the alleged action in violation of the municipal laws. The grievance of the respondent against the appellant, if any, could only be for violation of the agreement and that is based on a different cause of action. The consolidation of these two in the same suit is neither contemplated nor permissible."

42. In the case of Kasturi Vs Iyyamperum and Others (2005) 6 SCC 733 the question which cropped up for consideration before the Apex Court was whether in a suit for specific performance of contract for sale of a property instituted by a purchaser against the vendor, a stranger or a third party to the contract claiming to have an independent title and possession over the contracted property is entitled to be added as a party-defendant in the suit. In the said case, a suit for specific performance of the contract was instituted by the appellant against respondents no.2 and 3. An application was filed in the suit by respondents no.1 and 4 to 11, who were admittedly not parties to the contract setting up a claim of independent title and possession over the contracted property to get themselves added in the suit as 'defendants'.

43. The trial court allowed the application for impleadment of respondent no.1 and 4 to 11, and the writ petition preferred against the order of the trial court was also dismissed by the High Court.

These two orders came to be challenged before the Apex Court. The Apex Court after considering the scope of Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. held that a third party, who is alien to the agreement, is neither necessary nor proper party and cannot be impleaded as defendant. Paragraphs 13, 16, 17 and 18 of the said judgement are reproduced herein below:-

"13. From the aforesaid discussion, it is pellucid that necessary parties are those persons in whose absence no decree can be passed by the Court or that there must be a right to some relief against some party in respect of the controversy involved in the proceedings and proper parties are those whose presence before the Court would be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit although no relief in the suit was claimed against such person.

16. That apart, from a plain reading of the expression used in sub-rule (2) Order 1 Rule 10 CPC "all the questions involved in the suit" it is abundantly clear that the legislature clearly meant that the controversies raised as between the parties to the litigation must be gone into only, that is to say, controversies with regard to the right which is set up and the relief claimed on one side and denied on the other and not the controversies which may arise between the plaintiff/appellant and the defendants inter se or questions between the parties to the suit and a third party. In our view, therefore, the court cannot allow adjudication of collateral matters so as to convert a suit for specific performance of contract for sale into a complicated suit for title between the plaintiff/appellant on one hand and Respondent Nos. 2 & 3 and Respondent Nos. 1 and 4 to 11 on the other. This addition, if allowed, would lead to a complicated litigation by which the trial and decision of serious questions which are totally outside the scope of the suit would have to be gone into. As the decree of a suit for specific performance of the contract for sale, if passed, cannot, at all, affect the right, title and interest of the respondent Nos.1 and 4 to 11 in respect of the contracted property and in view of the detailed discussion made hereinafter, the respondent Nos.1 and 4 to 11 would not, at all, be necessary to be added in the instant suit for specific performance of the contract for sale.

17. It is difficult to conceive that while deciding the question as to who is in possession of the contracted property, it would be open to the Court to decide the question of possession of a third party or a stranger as first the lis to be decided is the enforceability of the contract entered into between the appellant and the Respondent 3 and whether contract was executed by the appellant and the Respondent Nos.2 and 3 for sale of the contracted property, whether the plaintiffs were ready and willing to perform their part of the contract and whether the appellant is entitled to a decree for specific performance of a contract for sale against the Respondent Nos.2 and 3. Secondly in that case, whoever asserts his independent possession of the contracted property has to be added in the suit, then this process may continue without a final decision of the suit. Apart from that, the intervener must be directly and legally interested in the answers to the controversies involved in the suit for specific performance of the contract for sale. In Amol Vs. Raphael Tuck and Sons Ltd. [1956(1) All ER 273] it has been held that a person is legally interested in the answers to the controversies only if he can satisfy the Court that it may lead to a result that will effect him legally.

18. That apart, there is another principle which cannot also be forgotten. The appellant, who has filed the instant suit for specific performance of the contract for sale is dominus litis and cannot be forced to add parties against whom he does not want to fight unless it is a compulsion of the rule of law, as already discussed above. For the reasons aforesaid, we are, therefore, of the view that Respondent Nos.1 and 4 to 11 are neither necessary parties nor proper parties and therefore they are not entitled to be added as party-defendants in the pending suit for specific performance of the contract for sale."

44. In a recent judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Gurmit Singh Bhatia Vs. Kiran Kant Robinson and Others (2020) 3 SCC 773, the Apex Court considered the issue whether the plaintiff could be compelled to implead a person in a suit for a specific performance against his wishes and more particularly in respect of a person against whom no relief has been claimed by him. In the said case, the suit was instituted by respondent no.2 and 3 against respondent no.1 for specific performance of agreement to sale. During the pendency of the suit, and despite there being an injunction order, a sale deed was executed by respondent no. 1 in favour of the appellant. The appellant, thereafter, filed an application for impleadment under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. The trial court allowed the impleadment application which order was set aside by the High Court in a writ petition. The appellant preferred the appeal against the judgement of the High Court dismissing the writ petition of the appellant before the Apex Court. The Apex Court placed reliance upon the judgement in the case of Kasturi (supra) and dismissed the special leave petition.

45. It can thus be seen that the Apex Court has held that for being a necessary and proper party, the twin conditions have to be satisfied. The first one is that there must be a right to some relief against such a party in respect of the controversies involved in the proceeding. The second is that no effective decree can be passed in the absence of such a party. Thus, in other words, it is necessary that a person must be directly or legally interested in the action in the answer i.e. the litigation would affect him legally by curtailing his legal rights. Further, the presence of such a person is necessary to decide and adjudicate all the issues involved in the suit and the absence of such party would handicap the Court from adjudicating the issues involved in the suit.

46. While elaborating on the scope of Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C., the Apex Court has further emphasised that the main object of the rule is not to prevent the multiplicity of actions though it may incidentally have that effect. A person would not be a necessary and proper party merely because he has relevant evidence to give on some of the questions involved; that would only make such a person a necessary witness. Such a person would also not become a necessary party because he has an interest in the correct solution of some questions and has thought or relevant arguments to advance.

47. Further, a plain reading of the expression 'all the questions involved in the suit' used in sub-Rule 2 of Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C. signifies that the legislature conceived that the controversies raised between the parties to the litigation must be gone into only. The Court cannot by invoking power under Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. allow adjudication of collateral matters as this would lead to a complicated litigation by which the trial and decision of serious questions which are outside the realm of issues involved in the suit would have to be gone into.

48. Now, this Court proceeds to consider the legality of the order of the trial court allowing the impleadment application. The order of the trial court reflects that it has placed reliance upon the order passed by the Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.1204 of 2022 which has been extracted above. The trial court did not advert to the scope of Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. in passing the impugned order. When this lacuna in the order was pointed out to the learned counsel for the respondents, he could not demonstrate from the impugned order that the trial court has recorded finding that ingredients of Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. are present, so respondent no.1 is a proper party in the suit and his presence is necessary to effectively adjudicate all the issues involved in the suit. Thus, it can easily be held that the trial court has committed material irregularity in allowing the application of respondent no.1 under Order 1 Rule 10 of C.P.C.

49. Now, the question which further comes for consideration before this Court is whether this Court in the exercise of power under Section 115 of C.P.C. can proceed to decide the impleadment application of respondent no.1 on merit or should remand the matter to the trial court to decide the application 227Ga of respondent no.1 afresh.

50. Learned counsel for the plaintiff/revisionist submits that this Court in the exercise of power under Section 115 of C.P.C. can decide the application if there is no disputed question of fact or purely a legal issue is involved. She submits that in the present case, only the question of law is involved i.e. whether the impleadment application of respondent no.1 satisfies the essential conditions to invoke the power under Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. to conclude that respondent no.1 is a necessary and proper party and has a right to be impleaded.

51. She has placed reliance upon the two judgements of this Court. In the case of Maulvi Muhammad Vs. Syed Husain 1880 ILR 3 All. 3 203, the question referred to the larger Bench was whether Section 622 of Act 10 of 1877 gives larger power of revision in civil cases than the power of Courts in exercising jurisdiction of Second Appeal. In other words, the question was whether under Section 622 of Act 10 of 1877, the Court in the exercise of power of revision has the power to pass all orders it can pass in Second Appeals. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce the judgement of Stuart, C.J as well as the judgement of Straight, J and Oldfield, J:-

"Stuart, C.J: ...Under this s.622, I consider, we can make any order, whether in regard to fact or law, we may think proper for the purposes of the justice of the case. In fact, it appears to me that the power given to the High Court under s. 622 in civil cases very much resembles, if it is not the same as, the jurisdiction given to the High Court in criminal cases under s. 297 of the Criminal Procedure Code, by which the High Court is empowered to "pass such judgment, sentence, or order as it thinks fit." In my opinion, we have under s. 622 the same power as this in civil cases."

*“Straight, J, Oldfield, J:- concurring. I would answer this reference by saying that, in my opinion, the terms of
s. 622, Act X of 1877, as amended by Act
XII. of 1879, are so wide and comprehensive as to invest the High Court with the power to call for the records of cases not open to second appeal, and to pass any order on them which might properly be made in second appeal. The words added by Act XII. of 1879 were apparently introduced for the purpose of relaxing the somewhat contracted limits within which it had been competent for the High Court to exercise revision over the proceedings of Sub-ordinate tribunals in which no second appeal lay, and to give them a narrow interpretation would, I think, be to defeat the object the Legislature had in view. Placing the most reasonable construction I can upon the terms “acting in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity,” I should read them to mean, deciding erroneously in point of law, or irregularly in a material particular in respect of procedure, and if this view be correct, the High Courts must necessarily possess in revision all the powers they have in second appeal. It is argued that this practically provides a second appeal in all cases that are in the strict sense of the term unappealable, and it is further urged that, if so serious an alteration of the law had been contemplated, words might readily have been found to express such an intention. I confess I feel the force of this contention, but I cannot give effect to it in face of the,
what appear to me to be, plain directions of
s. 622 in its present shape. I would accordingly answer the question put by this reference in the affirmative.”*

52. In the case of Laxmi Kishore and Another Vs. Har Prasad Shukla 1981

Allahabad Rent Cases 545, the question referred to the Bench was in respect to the powers of the revisional court under Section 25 of Provincial Small Causes Courts Act. The question which was referred to the Bench was as follows:-

“Whether under section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act a revisional court can pass a suitable decree in a case on a consideration of the evidence on record, if it finds that the findings recorded by the trial court were vitiated by an error of law, or can it only remand the case for a fresh trial?”

53. The Bench while answering the aforesaid question held as under:-

*“14. It was in this state of affairs that section 103 was enacted in the present
Code of 1908. It expressly enables the High Court to determine an issue of fact itself rather than remand matters in such cases.*

15. The question is what is the effect of exclusion of section 103 from the purview of the prescribed powers and procedure for revision under Sec. 25 of the Small Cause Courts Act. The answer is evident. The court exercising revisional power under Section 25 does not possess jurisdiction to determine issues of fact itself, by entering into the evidence and assessing it.

16. This aspect makes the Full Bench decision of this court in Maulvi Muhammad v. Syed Husain, distinguishable. In that case, the Full Bench was considering the scope of the phrase “may call for the record of the case and pass such orders with respect thereto as it thinks fit” occurring in Section 622 of this Act corresponding to the present section 115 CPC. It was held that under it, the court had to pass all orders which it can pass in second appeals. In second appeals, the court can, in given circumstances, determine the question of fact. As already seen, a court acting under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Causes Courts Act has no such power. The power to determine question of fact has been expressly taken away.

18. The court deciding a revision under section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act has to satisfy itself that the trial courts' decree or order is according to law. Of course, the Revisional Court should keep in mind the Supreme Court's dictum in Naicker' case (supra) that a wrong decision on fact is also a decision according to law.

19. If it finds that there is no evidence to sustain a finding on a particular issue of fact, it can ignore that finding. Same will be the case where the finding is based only on inadmissible evidence. In such cases, the court will be justified in deciding the question of fact itself, because the evidence is all one way. No assessment is needed. The court can also decide the revision if only a question of law or some preliminary point of law, viz., validity of notice, is sufficient for its decision.

20. But, if it finds that a particular finding of fact is vitiated by an error of law, it has a power to pass such order as the justice of the case requires; but it has no jurisdiction to reassess or reappraise the evidence in order to determine an issue of fact for itself. If it cannot dispose of the case adequately without a finding on a particular issue of fact, it should send the case back after laying down proper guidelines. It cannot enter into the evidence, assess it and determine an issue of fact.

21. Our answer to the question referred to us is that, in the stated circumstances, the revisional Court has no power to consider the evidence for itself in order to determine an issue of fact. The proper course is to remand the case to the trial court."

54. In the case of Shankar Ramchandra Abhyankar Vs. Krishnaji Dattatreya Bapal (1969) 2 SCC 74, the issue before the Apex Court was whether the High Court could interfere under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India with the order of the appellate court in proceedings under an act where a petition for revision under Section 115 of C.P.C. against the same order had been previously dismissed by the learned Judge of High Court. The following paragraphs from the judgement apposite to the issue are reproduced herein below:-

"5. It would appear that their Lordships of the Privy Council regarded the revisional jurisdiction to be a part and parcel of the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court. This is what was said in Nagendra Nath Dey v. Suresh Chandra Dey 59 IA 283.

"There is no definition of appeal in the Code of Civil Procedure, but their Lordship have no doubt that any application by a party to an appellate court, asking it to set aside or revise a decision of a subordinate Court, is an appeal within the ordinary acceptation of the term...."

Similarly in Raja of Ramnad v. Kamid Rowthen 53 IA 74, a civil revision petition was considered to be an appropriate form of appeal from the judgment in a suit of small causes nature. A full Bench of the Madras High Court in P.P.P. Chidambara Nadar v. C.P.A. Rama Nadar A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 385 had to decide whether with reference to Article 182(2) of the Limitation Act, 1908, the term "appeal" was used in a restrictive sense so as to exclude revision petitions and the expression "appellate court" was to be confined to a court exercising appellate, as opposed to, revisional powers. After an exhaustive examination of the case law including the decisions of the Privy Council mentioned above the Full Bench expressed the view that Article 182(2) applied to civil revisions as well and not only to appeals in the narrow sense of that terms as used in the Civil Procedure Code. In Secretary of State for India in Council v. British India Steam Navigation Company 13 C.L.J. 90 and order passed by the High Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under Section 115, Code of Civil Procedure, was held to be an order made or passed in appeal within the meaning of Section 39 of the Letters Patent. Mookerji, J., who delivered the judgment of the Division Bench referred to the observations of Lord Westbury in Attorney General v. Sillem (1864) 10 R.L.C. 704 and of Subramania Ayyar, J. in Chappan v. Moidin I.L.R. (1958) Mad. 68, 80 on the true nature of the right of appeal. Such a right was one of entering a superior Court and invoking its aid and interposition redress the error of the court below. Two things which were required to constitute appellate jurisdiction were the existence of the relation of superior and inferior Court and the power on the part of the former to review decisions of the latter. In the well known work of Story on Constitution (of United States) vol. 2, Article 1761, it is stated that the essential criterion of appellate jurisdiction is that it revises and corrects the proceedings in a cause already instituted and does not create that cause. The appellate jurisdiction may be exercised in a variety of forms and, indeed, in any form in which the Legislature may choose to prescribe. According to Article 1762 the most usual modes of exercising appellate jurisdiction, at least those which are most known in the United States, are by a writ of error; or by an appeal, or by some process of removal of a suit from an inferior tribunal. An appeal is a process of civil law origin and removes a cause, entirely subjecting the fact as well as the law, to a review and a retrial. A writ of error is a process of common law origin, and it removes nothing for re-examination but the law. The former mode is usually adopted in cases of equity and admiralty jurisdiction; the latter, in suits at common law tried by a jury.

6. Now when the aid of the High Court is invoked on the revisional side it is done because it is a superior court and it can interfere for the purpose of rectifying the error of the court below. Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure circumscribes the limits of that jurisdiction but the jurisdiction which is being exercised is a part of the general appellate jurisdiction of the High Court as a superior court. It is only one of the modes of exercising power conferred by the statute; basically and fundamentally it is the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court which is being invoked and exercised in a wider and larger sense. We do not, therefore, consider that the principle of merger of orders of inferior courts in those of superior Courts would be affected or would become inapplicable by making a distinction between a petition for revision and an appeal.

55. The judgement referred to above, postulates that the revision power of the High Court is akin to the powers of High Court's appellate power. Thus, the power of the revision of Superior Court or High Court is that of an Appellate Court with the only restraint that the prerequisite conditions to invoke power under Section 115 of C.P.C. must be present. Once, the High Court is of the view that the essential conditions to invoke jurisdiction under Section 115 of C.P.C. are present, then the High Court can revise the order passed by the subordinate courts in the exercise of power under Section 115 of C.P.C.

56. However, Sri Navin Sinha, learned Senior Counsel for the respondents submits that if this Court finds that conditions enumerated in Section 115 of C.P.C. are present to exercise the power of revision, the Court may not substitute the finding of the trial court by recording a fresh finding rather the court should remand the matter. In this respect, he has placed reliance upon paragraph 10 of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Pandurang Dhondi Chougule Vs. Maruti Hari Jadhav 1966 AIR SC 153 which is reproduced herein below:-

“10. The provisions of Section 115 of the Code have been examined by judicial decisions on several occasions. While exercising its jurisdiction under Section 115, it is not competent to the High Court to correct errors of fact however gross they may, or even errors of law, unless the said errors have relation to the jurisdiction of the court to try the dispute itself. As clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Section 115 indicate, it is only in cases where the subordinate court has exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or has failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or has acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity that the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court can be properly invoked. It is conceivable that points of law may arise in proceedings instituted before subordinate courts which are related to questions of jurisdiction. It is well settled that a plea of limitation or a plea of res judicata is a plea of law which concerns the jurisdiction of the court which tries the proceedings. A finding on these pleas in favour of the party raising them would oust the jurisdiction of the court, and so, an erroneous decision on these pleas can be said to be concerned with questions of jurisdiction which fall within the purview of Section 115 of the Code. But an erroneous decision on a question of law reached by the subordinate court which has no relation to questions of jurisdiction of that court, cannot be corrected by the High Court under Section 115.”

57. He has also placed reliance upon paragraphs 9, 10 and 42 of the judgement of this Court in the case of Anil Kumar Singh Vs. Pappu and Others 2022(2) ADJ 267 which are reproduced herein below:-

“9. Before proceeding to consider the merits of the issue it would be worthwhile to refer to a few decisions as to the scope of revisional jurisdiction under section 115, C.P.C. by the High Court. A Four Judges' Bench of the Supreme Court of India had an occasion to consider this aspect of the matter in the case of Kesardeo Chamria v. Radha Kissen Chamria & Ors. AIR 1953 SC 53. Relevant extract of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:

"17. We now proceed to consider whether a revision was competent against the order of 25th April, 1945, when no appeal lay. It seems to us that in this matter really the High Court entertained an appeal in the guise of a revision. The revisional jurisdiction of the High Court is set out in the 115th section of the Code of Civil Procedure in these terms:

"The High Court may call for the record of any case which has been decided by any Court subordinate to such High Court and in which appeal lies thereto, and it such subordinate Court appears:

(a) to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or

(b) to have failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or

(c) to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity, the High Court may make such order in the case as it thinks fit."

A large number of cases have been collected in the fourth edition of Chitaley & Rao's Code of Civil Procedure (Vol. 1), which only serve to show that the High Courts have not always appreciated the limits of the jurisdiction conferred by this section. In Mohunt Bhagwan Ramanuj Das v. Khetter Moni Dassn the High Court of Calcutta expressed the opinion that sub-clause (c) of Section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code, was intended to authorise the High Courts to interfere and correct gross and palpable errors of subordinate Courts, so as to prevent grave injustice in non-appealable cases. This decision was, however, dissented from by the same High Court in Enat Mondul v. Baloram Dey but was cited with approval by Lort-Williams, 3., in Gulabchand Bangur v. Kabiruddin Ahmed. In these circumstances it is worthwhile recalling again to mind the decisions of the Privy Council on this subject and the limits stated therein for the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by this section on the High Courts.

18. As long ago as 1894, in Rajah Amir Hassen Khan v. Sheo Baksh Singhi the Privy Council made the following observations on Section 622 of the former Code of Civil Procedure, which was replaced by Section 115 of the Code of 1908:

"The question then is, did the Judges of the lower Courts in this case, in the exercise of their jurisdiction, act illegally or with material irregularity. It appears that they had perfect jurisdiction to decide the case, and even if they decided wrongly, they did not exercise their jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity."

In 1917 again in Balakrishna Udayar v. Vasudeva Aiyar the Board observed:

"It will be observed that the section applies to jurisdiction alone, the irregular exercise or non-exercise of it, or the illegal assumption of it. The section is not directed against conclusions of law or fact in which the question of jurisdiction is not involved."

In 1949 in Venkatagiri Ayyangar v. Hindu Religious Endowments Board, Madras the Privy Council again examined the scope of Section 115 and observed that they could see no justification for the view that the section was intended to authorise the High Court to interfere and correct gross and palpable errors of subordinate Courts so as to prevent grave injustice in non-appealable cases and that it would be difficult to formulate any standard by which the degree of error of subordinate Courts could be measured. It was said - "Section 115 applies only to cases in which no appeal lies, and, where the legislature has provided no right of appeal, the manifest intention is that the order of the trial Court, right or wrong, shall be final. The section empowers the High Court to satisfy itself on three matters, (a) that the order of the subordinate Court is within its jurisdiction; (b) that the case is one in which the Court ought to exercise jurisdiction; and (c) that in exercising jurisdiction the Court has not acted illegally. that is, in breach of some provision of law, or with material irregularity, that is, by committing some error of procedure in the course of the trial which is material in that it may have affected the ultimate decision. If the High Court is satisfied on those three matters, it has no power to interfere because it differs, however from the conclusions of the subordinate Court on questions of fact or law."

19. Later in the same year in Joy Chand Lal Babu v. Kamalaksha Choudhuryis Their Lordships had again adverted to this matter and reiterated what they had said in their earlier decision. They pointed out:

"There have been a very large number of decisions of Indian High Courts on Section 115 to many of which Their Lordships have been referred. Some of such decisions prompt the observation that High Courts have not always appreciated that although error in a decision of a subordinate Court does not by itself involve that the subordinate Court has acted illegally or with material irregularity so as to justify Interference in revision under sub-section (c), nevertheless, if the erroneous decision results in the subordinate Court exercising jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or failing to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, a case for revision arises under sub-section (a) or sub-section (b) and sub-section (c) can be ignored."

20. Reference may also be made to the observations of Bose, 3. in his order of reference in Narayan Sonaji v. Sheshrao Vithobail wherein it was said that the words "illegally" and "material irregularity" do not cover either errors of fact or law. They do not refer to the decision arrived at but to the manner in which it is reached. The errors contemplated relate to material defects of procedure and not to errors of either law or fact after the formalities which the law prescribes have been complied with."

10. Though section 115 C.P.C. has undergone some changes over the years, especially so far as its application in the State of U.P. is concerned and in addition to the requirements contained in Clause (a) to (c) of section 115, C.P.C. which are required to be satisfied for exercise of such revisional jurisdiction, now, by virtue of the U.P. Act 14 of 2003, two other requirements are required to be satisfied, (i) the order if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed off the suit or other proceeding; or (ii) the order, if allowed to stand, would occasion a failure of justice or cause irreparable injury to the party against whom it is made. However, as far as clauses (a), (b) and (c) laying down the jurisdictional parameters for exercise of revisional jurisdiction under Section 115(1), C.P.C. they stand as it is, therefore, to this extent the law as laid down in Kesardeo Chhamaria (supra) applies even today as to the meaning and purport of the said clauses.

42. In view of the law which has been discussed hereinabove and considering the scope of a revision under section 115, C.P.C. in the light of the decision in the case of Kesardeo Chhamaria (supra) it cannot be said that the Court below has committed any jurisdictional error attracting clause (a) to (c) of Section 115, C.P.C. nor that the order if it was made in favour of the revisionist would not have disposed off the proceedings for impleadment nor that the order, impugned herein, if allowed to stand, would occasion a failure of justice or cause irreparable injury to the party against whom it is made. As already noticed, in the facts of the case, the presence of the transferee pendent lite is necessary for complete and effective adjudication of the suit and issues involved therein and the Court below has exercised its discretion in the matter, which does not require any interference under Article 115, C.P.C."

58. The reading of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Pandurang Dhondi Chougule (supra) reveals that the Apex Court has held that the Superior Court while exercising the power under Section 115 of C.P.C. is not competent to correct the errors of fact or law unless the said error has relation to the jurisdiction of the Court to try the dispute itself. In other words, it is held that the Superior Court or High Court can exercise its revisional power under Section 115 of C.P.C. when the subordinate court has exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law or it has failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested or has acted in exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. The High Court cannot invoke its jurisdiction under Section 115 of C.P.C. where the subordinate court has taken erroneous view on a question of law which has no relation to the question of jurisdiction of that court.

59. At this stage, it would be apt to notice that Section 115 of C.P.C. as applicable to State of Uttar Pradesh, states "superior Court may 'revise' an order passed in a suit or other proceedings by the subordinate court where no appeal lies against the order.....". The legislature has used the word 'revise' which in the dictionary is described as meaning to 're-examine, to review, to correct, or to amend the fault'. So the legislature in the State of U.P. has given ample power under Section 115 of C.P.C. by using the word 'revise' to the revisional court to review, correct or amend the fault in the orders of the subordinate courts.

60. The Court has already held that the impugned order cannot be sustained for want of consideration of the prerequisite condition of Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C to allow impleadment application.

61. In the light of the aforesaid principle, the only question which needs adjudication by this Court in the instant case is whether the application under Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. meets the requirement of said provision to confer right upon the respondent no.1 to be impleaded in the suit.

62. Since, the trial court has committed material irregularity and failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it correctly, and the revision power of the High Court is akin to the power of the appellate court, therefore, the issue of impleadment of respondent no.1 can be adjudicated by this Court, and this Court does not deem it fit to remand the matter to the trial court to decide the application of respondent no.1 afresh.

63. The impleadment application has been filed by respondent no.1 alleging that there is no resolution of the plaintiff's company to institute the aforesaid suit inasmuch as after the order was passed by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, no meeting of five Directors of plaintiff's company had taken place resolving to institute a suit for enforcement of agreement to sale. Further averments in the application are that the allegation of collusion by respondent no.1 with other persons in executing the sale deed has been levelled by the plaintiff/revisionist. Therefore, respondent No. 1 is the proper party in the suit to rebut and meet the said allegation. The further ground in the application is that since the Apex Court in its order dated 07.02.2022 has directed for impleadment of respondent no.1 in the special leave petition, therefore, respondent no.1 is a necessary party in the suit.

64. In the opinion of the Court, the averments contained in the application of respondent no.1 under Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. does not make out a case in favour of respondent no.1 to conclude that he is necessary and proper party in the suit, and he is entitled to be impleaded under Order 1 Rule 10 (2) of C.P.C. for the reasons enumerated below.

65. The question whether there is any resolution of the plaintiff's company resolving to institute a suit for the enforcement of the agreement to sell can very well be adjudicated even in the absence of respondent no.1. In this respect, it is pertinent to note that it is open to the defendants in the suit to take such plea and get an issue framed and prove by leading cogent evidence that suit has been instituted by incompetent person inasmuch as there was no meeting of the Board of the Directors of the company resolving to institute a suit for the execution of agreement to sell. Respondent no.1 can at best be a witness in the said case because he could lead evidence on record to prove that no meeting of the Board of the plaintiff's company had taken place. Only to prove that there was no resolution of the plaintiff's company to institute a suit for enforcement of agreement to sale does not make him a necessary and proper party in the suit. The suit is for enforcement of the agreement to sale which admittedly has been entered into between the plaintiff's company and respondent no.2. It is pertinent to note that the domain of Order 1 Rule 10(2) of C.P.C is to implead a person whose presence is necessary to decide the issues in the suit which have arisen between the parties, but not the issues which are between the plaintiff and third party. Order 1 Rule 10(2) of C.P.C. is not meant to implead such a person and to expand the scope of dispute.

66. Now, coming to the second ground of respondent no.1 that there are allegations of collusion against respondent no.1 in the suit, and therefore, to defend and to rebut the allegation against him, his presence is necessary, this Court may note that the allegation made in paragraph 12 of the plaint are allegation of collusion against respondent no.1 in reference to the execution of sale deed, and the reason for such allegation is that in the sale deeds executed by respondent no.2 in favour of respondent nos.3 to 6, it is mentioned that there was resolution of the plaintiff's company authorising the said sale to said purchaser. In this respect, it would be apt to reproduce the conclusion by the N.C.L.T in paragraph 6:-

“6. Conclusion: The findings recorded above would demonstrate certain situations to accept the contention of both the parties that there is oppression and mismanagement. They are:

(i). The Respondents have deliberately denied the fact that the Petitioners are members and Directors in the Company, having gained the monetary benefit from them. This defence is taken by the Respondents only to preclude the Petitioners from participating in all affairs of the Company and that is an act of oppression committed by the Respondents.

(ii). So far as the Petitioners are concerned, they have propounded the theory of resignation by the Respondents 2 and 3 to preclude them from the administration of the Company which amounts of oppression.

(iii). Further, the Respondents, having unilaterally parted with the valuable land belonging to the Company, without approval of Board and members, incurred loss to the Company which amounts to an act of mismanagement.

These acts of oppression and mismanagement are attributable to both the parties equally which is sufficient to order liquidation of the company. But ordering liquidation will not be the appropriate solution to place the company on right track."

67. It is also relevant to reproduce the finding returned by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal holding that there was no resolution of the plaintiff's company to part with the suit property, and after recording the relevant finding, the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal directed the respondent no.1 to deposit Rs.1 crore alongwith 12% interest to compensate the plaintiff's company. Paragraphs 14, 15 and 16 of the said judgment are reproduced herein below:-

"14. We have perused the chequered career of the matter and also the exchange of additional affidavits by the Appellant and Respondents before this Tribunal. It is observable that the Appellant/ Petitioner believing on the rosy picture painted by the respondents found the deal of property lucrative and invested money. The Respondents parted with its right to sale in favour of 3rd party. Appellant/ Petitioners knot the story of resignation of respondents. Though we are not into the details of the finding of the tribunal below concluding the failure on the part of both of the groups in maintaining standard of probity, fair play and business ethics thus committed oppression against each other and as has been dealt in the previous paras, but it is pertinent to take a note of the Additional Affidavits filed by the Respondents:

a. M/s Oak Infradevelopers Pvt Ltd Respondent No. 13 has claimed that they purchased on the southern side of the said property from Mr. Satyendar Rathore & Prem Shankar Rathore vide sale deed 01.12.2012, for sale consideration of Rs. 1,75,00,000.

b. Respondent 9 & 10 i.e. Satyendar Rathore & Prem Shankar Rathore has contended that they purchased the southern side of the property vide sale deed dated 15.11.2011 registered with the Registrar of Regional Office Bareilly for consideration of Rs. 1, 14,00,000 and got adjusted the half of the advance amount of Rs. 50,00,000. Further contended that they tendered a cheque of Rs 55,00,000 dated 15.11.2011 in terms of demands of M/s Bankhandi Nath Developers Pvt Ltd was returned by Mr Dharmindar Kumar director of M/s Bankhandi Nath Developers Pvt Ltd, stating that "we are returning herewith the cheque as we are finding it difficult to en-cash the same due to dispute in the company."

c. Respondent No. 5 has stated in its additional affidavit that Respondent 4 was agreed to sale for a total sale consideration of Rs.328,00,000 and advance was already paid by Respondent No.1 to the vendor. So the Respondent No.1 agreed to take 55,00,000 as against the 50% share of the advance paid by them to the vendor. And balance sale consideration of Rs. 1,14,00,000 by adjusting the half of the advance amount of Rs. 50,00,000.

Further stated that the cheque dated 15.11.2011 was returned to them by Mr Dharmendra Kumar vide letter dated 21.11.2011 stating that "we are returning herewith the cheque as we are finding it difficult to en-cash the same due to dispute in the company."

15. The statements by the Respondents above leaves it no more a grey area that the money which ought to have been received from the 3rd parties have been denied to be accepted and returned by the Respondent No. 2 on ground of dispute in the company finding it difficult to en-cash the same. Till date the Respondent has not produced any evidence on record whether the company has received the money proposed by the vendee Respondents. What seem opaque to the Tribunal is, if Company was experiencing internal dispute in the management, Respondent 2 should not have taken decision of parting with its right to sale under the agreement to sale on behalf of company. It is an intriguing situation that the Respondent 2 & 3 did not find it difficult to sell the property but found it difficult to accept the money on behalf of company which should have come to the coffers of the company. We hold the conduct of respondent as prejudicial to the interest of the company. The only property the company had was sold, claiming to be a beneficial deal, ended with neither receipt of money nor profitable continuous operation of the company in furtherance of its objectives, in fact halted its operation.

16. In view of the additional facts brought into notice through additional affidavits, while keeping all the directions in the order of NCLT intact, we uphold the decision of the Tribunal with the following modification:

"i) As the decision of returning money was a major decision, which was to be 'taken by the company but unilaterally taken by Respondent No.2 have caused prejudice to the company. The Respondent No. 2 is directed to ensure that the money which was returned comes to the account of company. The Respondent directors are also directed to compensate the company equal to 12% of interest p.a. on the amounts outstanding from 15.11.2011 to till date within one month from the date of order.

ii) The new 5th director appointed in the company will continue to enable the board to take majority decision w. r. t.

a. Whether the registered office of the company be shifted or not.

b. Any other issue relating to the affairs of the company in order to put the company on tract to continue its business as per objectives of its incorporation."

Appeals are disposed off accordingly. Parties to bear their own cost."

68. The judgement of N.C.L.T. affirmed by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal has attained finality as the special leave petition preferred against the order of National Company Law Appellate Tribunal has been dismissed.

69. It has come on record that the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal has held that there was no resolution of the plaintiff's company to part with the suit property in favour of a third party. The National Company Law Appellate Tribunal directed respondent no.1 to return the money to the plaintiff's company which he had got in execution of the sale deeds.

70. In the light of the finding returned by the N.C.L.T. as well as the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal about the conduct of respondent no.1, the allegation of collusion does not prejudice or curtail any right of respondent no.1 to make him a necessary and proper party to be impleaded in the suit. Respondent no.1 is continuing as Director of the plaintiff's company. The object of filing the impleadment application appears to defeat the interest of the plaintiff's company by getting the suit dismissed. Such conduct of respondent no.1 cannot be appreciated.

71. The Court may note that the purpose of enactment of Order 1 Rule 10(2) of C.P.C. is to implead a person who comes up with a bona fide prayer for impleadment on the ground that if any decree is passed, that would infringe or curtail his legal rights, but said provision is not incorporated to come to aid of a person whose bona fide is skeptical and has approached the Court with disdainful object to get the suit dismissed which is detrimental to the interest of the plaintiff. In the present case, the application of respondent no.1 is misconceived and has been filed with malicious intention to cause harm to the company of he is a Director.

72. Whether any right has accrued to respondent no.1 to be impleaded as a party in the suit because of the impleadment of respondent no.1 in the special leave petition.

73. The Court at the first instance would consider the background in which Apex Court passed the order dated 07.02.2022 for impleadment of respondent no.1 in the Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.1204 of 2022. The temporary injunction application filed by the plaintiff/revisionist was rejected by the trial court by order dated 21.10.2021, and F.A.F.O. No.1771 of 2021 preferred against the refusal of the temporary injunction order was also dismissed. Both the orders came to be challenged by the plaintiff/revisionist in the special leave petition and the Apex Court found that the order passed by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal directing respondent no.1 to deposit the money alongwith 12% interest has not been complied with. Considering the fact that National Company Law Appellate Tribunal has held that conduct of respondent no.1 was prejudicial to the interest of the plaintiff's company and the order of the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal was not complied with, therefore, to protect the interest of the plaintiff's company and to ensure the compliance of the order of National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, the Apex Court directed for impleadment of respondent no.1 in the special leave petition.

74. Perusal of the order of the Apex Court nowhere indicates that the Apex Court ever intended to implead respondent no.1 as the party in the suit. The impleadment of respondent no.1 was only for a limited purpose that is to ensure compliance of the order of the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal. This Court may note that in the supplementary counter affidavit, the respondents have enclosed cheques in favour of the plaintiff's company, but there is no material on record to indicate that those cheques have been encashed and money has been deposited in the accounts of the plaintiff's company.

75. In the instant case, the suit has been instituted for the specific performance of the contract and respondent no.1 is a third party. The law is settled that the plaintiff/revisionist being dominus litis cannot be forced to implead a person who is neither a necessary nor proper party. Further, no relief has been claimed against respondent no.1 in the suit nor the averments contained in Order 1 Rule 10(2) of C.P.C. makes out a case that the presence of respondent no.1 is necessary to enable the Court to settle all questions and issues involved in the suit, and to pass effective decree.

76. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court is also of the opinion that the conduct of respondent no.1 is not appropriate as till date he has not complied with the order passed by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal as well as the order of Apex Court in letter and spirit.

77. In such view of the fact, this Court is of the opinion that respondent no.1 is neither a necessary nor a proper party to the suit, and the application of respondent no.1 under Order 1 Rule 10(2) of C.P.C. is misconceived and deserves to be rejected.

78. Thus, for the reasons given above, the revision is allowed and the order dated 11.05.2022 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Bareilly is quashed and applications 151Ka and application 227Ga are hereby rejected. There shall be no order as to costs.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 302/34, 377, 201 & 403 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 161, 313, 386 & 437-A – Criminal Appeal Against Conviction – Circumstantial Evidence – Last Seen Theory – Extra-Judicial Confession – Reliability of Witnesses – Complete Chain of Circumstances - The appellants, Maiku and Manzoor alias Mansoor, challenged the judgment dated 27.11.1991 by the VIth Additional Sessions Judge, Unnao, in Sessions Trial No. 171 of 1990, convicting them under Sections 302/34 and 377 IPC (Maiku also under Section 377, Manzoor under Section 403 IPC) for the murder and unnatural sexual acts on the deceased, Satya Narayan, whose body was found in a well on 15.03.1990. The appeal abated against Manzoor due to his death. The prosecution relied on circumstantial evidence, alleging the appellants took the deceased, committed unnatural acts, and killed him, with his body discovered five days after he went missing. The surviving appellant, Maiku, argued: (1) no complete chain of circumstances established his guilt, (2) the prosecution failed to prove motive, (3) the "last seen" evidence and extra-judicial confession by Manzoor were unreliable, and (4) prosecution witnesses P.W.-2 (Hari Narayan, deceased's brother) and P.W.-4 (Jugnu) were contradictory and unreliable. The St. countered that minor contradictions in witness testimonies were immaterial and the prosecution established a complete chain of events. Held: The court allowed the appeal, acquitting Maiku, finding: (1) the prosecution's case, based entirely on circumstantial evidence, failed to establish a complete chain excluding all hypotheses except Maiku's guilt, per Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs St. of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, and Raja Naykar Vs St. of Chhattisgarh, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 67; (2) P.W.-2 and P.W.-4's testimonies were unreliable due to contradictions, as P.W.-2 did not confirm P.W.-4's claim of informing him about seeing the deceased with the appellants, and P.W.-2's failure to report the deceased's absence cast doubt on his veracity; (3) the "last seen" evidence alone was insufficient without corroboration, per Navaneethakrishnan Vs St., (2018) 16 SCC 161; (4) the extra-judicial confession by Manzoor was inadmissible as weak evidence without corroboration, per Moorthy Vs St. of T.N., 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1027; (5) the trial court's conviction relied on conjectures, ignoring the requirement that circumstances must conclusively point to guilt. The judgment was set aside, and Maiku was ordered released.

(Delivered by Ajai Kumar Srivastava-I, J.)

1. This appeal challenges the judgment and order dated 27.11.1991 passed by the learned VIth Additional Sessions Judge, Unnao in Sessions Trial No.171 of 1990 arising out of Case Crime No.151 of 1990, under Sections 377, 302, 201 and 404 of the Indian Penal Code, Police Station Safipur, District Unnao, whereby the appellants, Maiku and Manzoor alias Mansoor have been convicted and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment for the offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. The appellant no.1, Maiku has also been convicted and sentenced to undergo five years' rigorous imprisonment for the offence under Section 377 I.P.C. The appellant no.2, Manzoor alias Mansoor has also been convicted and sentenced to undergo five years' rigorous imprisonment for the offence under Section 377 read with Section 34 I.P.C. The appellant no.2, Manzoor alias Mansoor has also been convicted and sentenced to undergo one year's rigorous imprisonment for the offence under Section 403 I.P.C.

2. At the outset it is relevant to mention that this appeal was filed by the appellants, Maiku and Manzoor alias Mansoor. However, due to death of co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor, during pendency of this appeal, the appeal in respect of him has been abated vide order dated 20.01.2020 passed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court. Therefore, the present appeal survives with regard to accused/ appellant, Maiku only.

3. The prosecution case, in nutshell, is that on 15.03.1990 the first informant, Afsar Ali gave an oral information at Police Station Safipur that dead body of the deceased, Satya Narayan was spotted afloat in a well situated in the agricultural field of Mahadev Singh, which was noticed by the shepherds.

4. The inquest proceeding started on 15.03.1990 at 09:30 A.M. and got concluded on 15.03.1990 at 10:30 A.M. The inquest report has been duly proved by P.W.-7, Shiv Harsh Tiwari, Investigating Officer as Ext. Ka.6.

5. On the basis of an oral information given by the first informant, Afsar Ali, the first information report, Ext. Ka-18 came to be lodged against the appellants on 16.03.1990 under Sections 377, 302, 201 and 404 I.P.C.

6. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He visited the place of occurrence and prepared site plans thereof Ext. Ka-11 to 14.

7. Upon conclusion of investigation, a charge-sheet, Ext. Ka-15 came to be submitted in the Court concerned, which has been proved by P.W.-7, Shiv Harsh Tiwari, Investigating Officer.

8. The accused/ appellants were charged under Sections 302/34, 377/34, and 403 I.P.C., who pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. In order to bring home guilt of the appellants, the prosecution has examined Afsar Ali as P.W.-1, Hari Narayan as PW-2, Jurakhan as P.W.-3, Jugnu as P.W.-4, Balram as P.W.-5, Dr. P. N. Verma as P.W.-6, Investigating Officer, Shiv Harsh Tiwari as P.W.-7 and Sri Krishna Shukla as P.W.-8.

10. The accused/ appellants, in their statements, recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., have stated the prosecution story to be false. They also stated to have been falsely implicated in this case and claimed to be innocent.

11. No evidence in defence was adduced by the accused/ appellant before the learned trial court.

12. The postmortem on the cadaver has been conducted by Dr. P. N.

Verma, P.W.-6, which has been proved by him as Ext. Ka-5. As per postmortem report of the deceased, following ante-mortem injuries were found on the person of the deceased :-

"1. Superficial burn I degree, 2.5 cm x 1 cm on uppermost part of forehead in the middle. Hair adjacent are burnt.

2. Abrasion 14 cm x 11 cm on lower part of chest and upper part of abdomen (epigastrium) in the middle.

3. Abrasion 6 cm x 3 cm on back of Lt. elbow.

4. Abrasion 4 cm x 3 cm on back of Lt. hand in middle.

5. Abrasion 4 cm x 4 cm on back of right elbow.

6. Abrasion 6 cm x 4 cm on back of right forearm in middle.

7. Superficial burn II degree 4 cm x 1.5 cm on back of right middle finger, proximal phalynx.

8. Abrasion around anus in 2.5 cm diameter. Seminal stains not present. (Swab smears from inside taken and sent for examination to pathologist)."

13. According to the postmortem report, Ex. Ka- 5, the cause of death of the deceased, Satya Narayan is reported to be asphyxia as a result of drowning.

14. At the conclusion of trial, learned Trial Judge found that the prosecution had succeeded in proving its case on the basis of evidence adduced by the prosecution, therefore, learned trial Court convicted the surviving appellant for the offence under Sections 302/34 and 377 of I.P.C. as stated above.

15. Being aggrieved, the surviving appellant and other co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor preferred this appeal.

16. It is contended by learned counsel for the surviving appellant that the surviving appellant, Maiku is innocent, who has been falsely implicated in this case. He submits that the entire prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence. A complete chain of circumstances pointing out guilt of the surviving appellant only has not been proved by the prosecution. Therefore, he submits that the surviving appellant has been wrongly convicted by the learned trial Court without there being any evidence against him.

17. His further submission is that the name of the surviving appellant was not mentioned in the oral information which was given by P.W.-1, Afsar Ali, Village Chowkidar at Police Station Safipur. According to prosecution story, co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor only is stated to have taken away the deceased on the fateful day. The surviving appellant was falsely implicated in this case only on the basis of confessional statement of co-convict, which is not admissible in law. He has drawn attention of this Court to the fact that the deceased had gone missing four days' prior to the alleged recovery of his dead body from a well. However, no missing report in respect of the deceased having gone missing was lodged by the elder brother of the deceased, P.W.-2, Hari Narayan, which lends support to the submission of the appellant that the deceased was done to death by some unknown culprits. Therefore, after recovery of the dead body of the deceased, the surviving appellant was falsely implicated in this case.

18. Shri Brij Mohan Sahay, learned counsel for the surviving appellant has vehemently argued that motive assumes significance in cases based on circumstantial evidence. However, in the present case, the prosecution has miserably failed to attribute any motive to the surviving appellant. Therefore, the surviving appellant could not have been convicted by the learned trial Court.

19. While concluding his submissions, learned counsel for the surviving appellant has submitted that if the testimonies of P.W.-1, Afsar Ali and P.W.-2, Hari Narayan are examined together, it would show that they are not reliable witnesses as there appear major contradictions in their testimonies which have wrongly been ignored by the learned trial Court while appreciating their evidence.

20. In order to buttress his aforesaid submissions, he has placed reliance upon a judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra reported in (1984) 4 SCC 116 and on the basis thereof, he has submitted that the impugned judgment being unsustainable deserves to be set aside and the surviving appellant deserves to be acquitted of all charges levelled against him.

21. Shri Umesh Chandra Verma, learned A.G.A., on the other hand, has submitted that though the prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence, however, the prosecution has been able to prove a complete chain of events, which indicates the guilt of surviving appellant. He has submitted that it is settled law that minor contradictions in the statements of prosecution witnesses do not go to the root of the matter; rather existence of minor contradictions lend support to the contention of State that the prosecution witnesses were not tutored.

22. He has submitted that the impugned judgment and order dated 27.11.1991 is based on proper analysis of the prosecution evidence adduced before the learned trial Court and finding arrived at by the learned trial Court cannot be said to be perverse, therefore, no interference by this Court in exercise of power under Section 386 Cr.P.C. is warranted. The present appeal lacks merit which deserves to be dismissed for the aforesaid reasons.

23. Having heard learned counsel for the surviving appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State and upon perusal of the record, it transpires that on 15.03.1990 at 8:10 A.M., the first informant, Afsar Ali orally informed at Police Station Safipur, District Unnao that dead body of the deceased, Satya Narayan was spotted afloat in a well situated in the agricultural field of Mahadev Singh, resident of Mirzapur which was noticed by the shepherds, who informed this fact to the first informant, Afsar Ali. On the basis of aforesaid oral information, General Diary entry bearing No.19 was recorded on 15.3.1990 at 8:10 A.M. The first informant, Afsar Ali, who is a Village Chowkidar, was examined as P.W.-1.

24. The prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence as there is no eye-witness, who claims to have seen the incident of murder of the deceased. A perusal of testimony of P.W.-1, Afsar Ali, who informed the police station about the dead body of deceased having been seen in a well situated in the agricultural field of Mahadev Singh, reveals that at the time of recovery of dead body of deceased, Satya Narayan, the family members of the deceased had also reached there.

25. P.W.-2, Hari Narayan, who is the elder brother of the deceased, Satya Narayan, has also admitted in his testimony that not only he had reached the well from where dead body of deceased was recovered, but he had also retrieved the dead body of the deceased from the well on the instructions of police personnel. This witness has also stated that five days before the day of recovery of dead body of the deceased from the well i.e. , co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor had come to his house to take away the deceased with him. Even at the cost of repetition we may again mention that the oral information regarding recovery of dead body of deceased from the well was given by P.W.-1, Afsar Ali, who is a Village Chowkidar. However, despite being present at the time of recovery of dead body of deceased, P.W.-2, Hari Narayan did not get the first information report lodged by himself stating therein that his brother was taken away by co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor. This fact casts serious doubt on the veracity of testimony of P.W.-2, Hari Narayan.

26. P.W.-3, Jurakhan has deposed that the co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor had told him that he had committed unnatural sexual acts with the deceased many times. This fact was communicated to this witness by co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor about 20 days prior to the date of incident. This witness is admittedly cousin brother of the deceased. However, even after recovery of dead body of deceased, he did not tell this fact that co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor had told him of having committed unnatural sexual acts with the deceased, to the real elder brother of the deceased, P.W.-2, Hari Narayan. He has stated this fact for the first time in the Court which appears to us to be an afterthought effort to improve upon the prosecution case.

27. P.W.-4, Jugnu has stated that he had seen the deceased, Satya Narayan with the surviving appellant, Maiku and co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor. The co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor told this witness that they are going to have a walk. According to this witness, he had seen the deceased, Satya Narayan in the company of surviving appellant, Maiku and co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor prior to death of the deceased. P.W.-4, Jugnu says that he had informed the family members of the deceased that he had seen the deceased in the company of surviving appellant, Maiku and co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor before the death of deceased. However, when we examine the statement of P.W.-2, Hari Narayan, who is the real elder brother of the deceased carefully in its entirety, we find that P.W.-2, Hari Narayan does not admit that he was intimated by P.W.-4, Jugnu about any such fact that P.W.-4, Jugnu had seen the deceased in the company of surviving appellant, Maiku and co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor. This renders testimonies of P.W.-2, Hari Narayan and P.W.-4, Jugnu to be unreliable.

28. The recovery of wristwatch of the deceased which has been proved by P.W.-7, Shiv Harsh Tiwari as Ext Ka-2 relates to the co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor, who has already died and the appeal in respect of him has already been abated. Therefore, the same is not of any assistance to the prosecution insofar as the surviving appellant, Maiku is concerned.

29. Thus, if we remind ourselves of the chronology of this incident, we find that dead body of the deceased was recovered on 15.03.1990. The deceased, Satya Narayan had gone missing five days prior to the date of recovery of his dead body. His dead body was spotted by the shepherds afloat in the well situated in the agricultural field of Mahadev Singh on 15.03.1990. The oral information in this regard was given by the first informant, Afsar Ali, Village Chowkidar, who has been examined as P.W.-1. From a bare perusal of the statements of P.W.-2, Hari Narayan and P.W.-4, Jugnu, we find that the dead body of the deceased was spotted in the well and was retrieved therefrom. This place of recovery of dead body of deceased is shown in site plan, Ext. Ka 11. At the time of recovery of dead body of deceased, the family members of the deceased, Satya Narayan were present there, but P.W.-2, Hari Narayan, the elder brother of the deceased did not lodge any first information report himself. He even did not lodge any missing report in respect of deceased having gone missing and who remained untraceable for about five days despite having seen the deceased being taken away by the co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor. Also at the time of inquest report being prepared Maiku and Manzoor alias Mansoor were present along with other villagers and Hari Narayan and Satya Narayan did not say at the time that Maiku or Manzoor alias Mansoor were responsible for taking away the deceased and later killing him.

30. Keeping in view the aforesaid admitted facts, we find it very strange, unnatural and unbelievable that the real elder brother of the deceased would not lodge any missing report about his younger brother having gone missing and not traceable for many days, especially when P.W.-2, Hari Narayan says that the deceased had gone with the co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor.

31. Upon a careful scrutiny of statements of P.W.-2, Hari Narayan and

P.W.-4, Jugnu, we find their statements to be unreliable for the reason that P.W.-4, Jugnu says that he had informed the fact that he had seen the deceased in the company of surviving appellant, Maiku and co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor, to the family members of the deceased. However, P.W.-2, Hari Narayan does not admit of any such information having been given by P.W.-4, Jugnu to him. Therefore, we are constrained to observe that P.W.-2, Hari Narayan and P.W.-4, Jugnu have named the co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor and the surviving appellant, Maiku only with a view to introduce a case of “last seen” in order to rope in the surviving appellant.

32. The celebrated judgment of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (Supra) has been recently quoted with approval by Hon’ble Supreme Court in para 14 of the judgment in Raja Naykar vs. State of Chhattisgarh reported in 2024 SCC OnLine SC 67 which, for ready reference, is quoted hereinbelow :-

“14. Undoubtedly, the prosecution case rests on circumstantial evidence. The law with regard to conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence has very well been crystalized in the judgment of this Court in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, wherein this Court held thus:

“152. Before discussing the cases relied upon by the High Court we would like to cite a few decisions on the nature, character and essential proof required in a criminal case which rests on circumstantial evidence alone. The most fundamental and basic decision of this Court is Hanumant v. State of Madhya Pradesh [(1952) 2 SCC 71 : AIR 1952 SC 343 “ 1952 SCR 1091 : 1953 Cri LJ 129]. This case has been uniformly followed and applied by this

Court in a large number of later decisions up-to-date, for instance, the cases of Tufail (Alias) Simmi v. State of Uttar Pradesh [(1969) 3 SCC 198 : 1970 SCC (Cri) 55] and Ramgopal v. State of Maharashtra[(1972) 4 SCC 625 : AIR 1972 SC 656}. It may be useful to extract what Mahajan, J. has laid down in Hanumant case [(1952) 2 SCC 71 : AIR 1952 SC 343 : 1952 SCR 1091 :1953 Cri LJ 129]:

“It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.”

153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned “must or should” and not “may be” established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between “may be proved” and “must be or should be proved” as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [(1973) 2 SCC 793 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 1033 : 1973 Cri LJ 1783] where the observations were made : [SCC para 19, p. 807 : SCC (Cri) p. 1047]

“Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between ‘may be’ and ‘must be’ is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.”

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence.

15. It can thus clearly be seen that it is necessary for the prosecution that the circumstances from which the conclusion of the guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. The Court holds that it is a primary principle that the accused ‘must be’ and not merely ‘may be’ proved guilty before a court can convict the accused. It has been held that there is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between ‘may be proved’ and ‘must be or should be proved’. It has been held that the facts so established should be consistent only with the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty. It has further been held that the circumstances should be such that they exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved. It has been held that there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probabilities the act must have been done by the accused.

16. It is settled law that the suspicion, however strong it may be, cannot take the place of proof beyond reasonable doubt. An accused cannot be convicted on the ground of suspicion, no matter how strong it is. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.”

33. After a careful analysis of testimonies of prosecution witnesses of fact, we have no hesitation in holding that the case of prosecution rests entirely on circumstantial evidence, as there was no ocular witness to this incident. For the reasons stated above, we find that the statement of alleged witness of fact, P.W.-2, Hari Narayan and P.W.-4, Jugnu, to be unreliable. Even otherwise mere evidence of "last seen", in want of any other corroborative evidence cannot, per se, be sufficient to hold any accused guilty in a case based on circumstantial evidence. In this regard, we are supported by a judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Navaneethakrishnan vs. State By Inspector of Police reported in (2018) 16 SCC 161. Para 22 of the same, being relevant, is quoted hereinbelow:

“22. PW 11 was able to identify all the three accused in the court itself by recapitulating his memory as those persons who came at the time when he was washing his car along with John Bosco and further that he had last seen all of them sitting in Omni van on that day and his testimony to that effect remains intact even during the cross-examination in the light of the fact that the said witness has no enmity whatsoever against the appellants herein and he is an independent witness. Once the testimony of PW 11 is established and inspires full confidence, it is well established that it is the accused who were last seen with the deceased specially in the circumstances when there is nothing on record to show that they parted from the accused and since then no activity of the deceased can be traced and their dead bodies were recovered later on. It is a settled legal position that the law presumes that it is the person, who was last seen with the deceased, would have killed the deceased and the burden to rebut the same lies on the accused to prove that they had departed. Undoubtedly, the last seen theory is an important event in the chain of circumstances that would completely establish and/or could point to the guilt of the accused with some certainty. However, this evidence alone cannot discharge the burden of establishing the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt and requires corroboration.

(emphasis supplied)

34. So far as the alleged extra judicial confession made regarding surviving appellant by the co-convict, Manzoor alias Mansoor is concerned, it is no more res integra that an extra judicial confession must be accepted with great care and caution. It is considered as a weak type of evidence and is generally used as a corroborative link to lend credibility to the other evidence on record. In Moorthy vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in (2023) SCC On Line SC 1027, Hon'ble Supreme Court while reiterating the evidentiary value of an extra judicial confession in para 6 has held as under :

“6. Firstly, we will deal with the prosecution case about the extra-judicial confession. As regards extra-judicial confession, the law has been laid down by this Court in the case of Pawan Kumar Chourasia v. State of Bihar 2023 SCC OnLine SC 259. In paragraph 5 it is held thus:

“5.As far as extra-judicial confession is concerned, the law is well settled. Generally, it is a weak piece of evidence. However, a conviction can be sustained on the basis of extra-judicial confession provided that the confession is proved to be voluntary and truthful. It should be free of any inducement. The evidentiary value of such confession also depends on the person to whom it is made. Going by the natural course of human conduct, normally, a person would confide about a crime committed by him only with such a person in whom he has implicit faith. Normally, a person would not make a confession to someone who is totally a stranger to him. Moreover, the Court has to be satisfied with the reliability of the confession keeping in view the circumstances in which it is made. As a matter of rule, corroboration is not required. However, if an extra-judicial confession is corroborated by other evidence on record, it acquires more credibility.”

35. As the prosecution has failed to bring on record any other incriminating evidence against the surviving appellant, therefore, the alleged extra judicial confession made by the surviving appellant to the co-convict, cannot be of any assistance to the prosecution in proving its case beyond a reasonable doubt in so far as the surviving appellant is concerned.

36. Having carefully examined the entire evidence adduced by the prosecution in the trial Court, we are of the considered view that learned trial Court, while holding the surviving appellant guilty, proceeded on the basis of conjectures and surmises and failed to bear in mind the true import of law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (Supra) which has recently been quoted with approval by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Raja Naykar (Supra) for ascertaining whether there was indeed a complete chain of events that excludes any other possibility except the involvement of the surviving appellant in commission of crime in question.

37. The upshot of aforesaid discussion is that the impugned judgment and order dated 27.11.1991 rendered by learned VIth Additional Sessions Judge, Unnao, whereby it held the surviving appellant guilty for the offence under Sections 302/34 and 377 I.P.C., is unsustainable which deserves to be set aside and the present appeal deserves to be allowed.

38. Accordingly, the present appeal is allowed. Consequently, the impugned judgment and order dated 27.11.1991 is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of all charges levelled against him.

39. The surviving appellant, Maiku is in jail. Let him be released from jail forthwith, if he is not wanted in any other case.

40. The appellant is directed to file a personal bond and two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of the Court concerned in compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. within a period of four weeks from the date of his release.

41. Let the record of trial Court along with a copy of this judgment be transmitted forthwith to the concerned trial Court for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 372 & 384 – Criminal Appeal Against Acquittal – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 376-D & 506 – POCSO Act, 2012 – Section 6 – Benefit of Doubt – Proof of Minority – Material Contradictions – Lack of Corroboration – Medical Evidence - The appellant/victim (X) challenged the acquittal order dated 24.02.2023 by the Special Judge (POCSO Act), Bareilly, in Sessions Trial No. 46 of 2020, arising from Case Crime No. 432 of 2017, under Sections 376-D, 506 IPC and Section 6 POCSO Act. The prosecution alleged that on 10.09.2017, the victim, aged 17, was abducted from Nekpur Sugar Mill, rendered unconscious by a substance, and gang-raped by multiple accused, including Sanjay Sonkar, Bobby, Nandram, and others, before being left at her home with threats. The FIR was lodged on 18.09.2017, and a chargesheet was filed after investigation. The trial court acquitted the accused, granting them the benefit of doubt, finding the prosecution failed to prove the incident. Held: The appeal was summarily rejected under Section 384 Cr.P.C., affirming the acquittal, as: (1) the prosecution failed to prove the victim's minority, with the trial court noting deficiencies in evidence (unverified transfer certificate, absence of birth register or parental testimony) and the ossification test indicating the victim was 19 years old, per Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act; (2) the medical examination, conducted on 19.09.2017, showed no external or internal injuries, with an old, healed hymen tear, undermining the gang-rape allegation; (3) material contradictions in the victim's St.ments (varying number of assailants from 9 to 6, 10, and 8 across St.ments and trial) and lack of independent corroboration dented her credibility; (4) the bloodstained Capri, allegedly worn by the victim, was unreliable evidence, as it was washed, and bloodstains persisting after 10 days were implausible; (5) the absence of independent witnesses to the abduction from a public place and admitted enmity between families suggested possible false implication; (6) no perversity or misconstruction of evidence was found in the trial court's permissible view that the prosecution failed to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt. The court declined to interfere with the acquittal, as a different view alone does not warrant reversal.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar
Mishra, J.
Hon'ble Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J.)

1. This appeal has been filed by the victim (X) challenging the judgment and order dated 24.2.2023, passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act), Court No.3/Additional Sessions Judge Bareilly, in Sessions Trial No.46 of 2020 (State Vs. Sanjay and others), arising out of Case

Crime No. 432 of 2017, under Sections 376-D, 506 IPC & Section 6 POCSO Act, Police Station Subhash Nagar, District Bareilly, whereby accused persons have been acquitted of the offence by granting them benefit of doubt. A finding has been returned that prosecution has not been able to successfully prove the incident, which led to the implication of accused persons.

2. This appeal was initially entertained and lower court records were summoned, so that the appeal may be considered for admission. The records have been received and have been perused by us.

3. The prosecutrix has alleged in her written report that on 10.9.2017 at about 7.00 pm she had gone to Nekpur Sugar Mill to get Chowmein. A scooty arrived with the minor accused alongwith accused Jittu @ Jitendra, who are resident of the same locality and administered some substance, on account of which she became unconscious and victim was taken to a village where she was kept in a room. When the victim became conscious, she found herself in a room, where she was subjected to sexual assault by Sanjay Sonkar son of Netrapal, Bobby, Nandram and Sanjay son of Makhan Lal etc. The victim thereafter was left at her house at about 11.00 in the night and she was also extended threats. The victim has claimed herself to be 17 years of age. It is thereafter that on 18.9.2017 a report was lodged with local police pursuant to which Case Crime No.432 of 2017 came to be registered with above-noted allegations.

4. The investigation ultimately concluded with submission of a chargesheet. Thereafter the case was committed to the court of sessions. Charges were framed against the accused persons who denied the accusations made against them and demanded trial. It is thereafter that the trial proceeded and has ultimately resulted in acquittal of the accused persons.

5. First and foremost, the court of sessions has taken up the issue as to whether the victim at the time of incident was minor or major. Evidence in that regard has been noticed in para 31 to 34 of the judgment. The prosecution has placed reliance upon the transfer certificate issued to the victim of Class-VI, on the basis of which the victim got admitted to Class-VII in a different educational institution on 24.8.2012. The scholar register has been produced of the later institution and the Officiating Principal of the institution has been examined. The Officiating Principal has admitted that at the time of admission of the victim and till she left the institution, the witness was not posted in the institution. The transfer certificate was not verified. Trial court has taken note of the provision of Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act and it has been observed that there is neither any material to show the age of the victim at the time of her admission to Class-I, nor the extract of the birth register as per the municipal record etc. has been produced. Parents of the victim have also not been examined in respect of the age of the victim.

6. Upon evaluation of the evidence placed on record, the trial court has held that prosecution has not been able to prove the date of birth of the victim on the basis of materials placed on record. The victim was medically examined and in her ossification test report her age has been found to be 19 years. The trial court has thus concluded that the prosecution has not been able to prove the victim to be a minor, and that the evidence on record proves that she was major on the date of incident. Although learned counsel for the appellant has placed various submissions but no illegality or perversity has been pointed out in the application of appropriate law on the subject by the trial court. We, therefore, find no illegality in the finding returned by the trial court that the victim was major on the date of incident.

7. On the aspect of commissioning of gang rape the trial court has taken note of the statement of doctor, who had examined the victim and found no traces of any external or internal injury on the victim. The hymen of the victim was found old torn and healed. The trial court has doubted the prosecution case of gang rape upon the victim by accused persons on the ground that absolutely no injury of any kind has been found on the person of the victim.

8. The trial court has also disbelieved the prosecution case on account of material contradictions in the statement of victim herself. The victim in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. specifically implicated 9 persons, who allegedly had subjected her to sexual assault. The figure of assailants at the stage of her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was reduced to 6 persons. At the time of medical examination of the victim, she disclosed the doctor that number of assailants was 10. During the course of trial, the figure of assailants has been reduced to 8. This material contradiction in the number of assailants has been relied upon by the trial court to doubt the prosecution case, particularly when the medical examination of the victim showed absolutely no external or internal injury. Apart from the testimony of the victim, no independent corroboration has come on record. Although it is settled that if the victim appears to be credible then her statement alone can form the basis of conviction in a case of sexual offence, but for it to be accepted the victim must be shown to be trustworthy. The apparent consideration in her testimony coupled with the fact that medical report does not support the allegation of gang rape and no independent witness has come forward to support the victim shall surely dent the prosecution case.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that medical examination was conducted nearly 10 days after the incident, and therefore, injuries may not have been noticed. This plea of the appellant cannot be accepted, when the version of the victim is otherwise doubted by the trial court for valid consideration. The reason for delayed holding of medical examination also needs to be noticed. The incident allegedly occurred on 10.9.2017, whereas the medical examination was conducted on 19.9.2017, only because the written report itself was given to the police on 18.9.2017. The delay in holding of medical examination, therefore, was not on account of any mistake on part of the accused or the Investigating Agency.

10. The only material, which has been relied upon by the appellant is the bloodstained Capri worn by the victim. It is asserted that same Capri was worn by the victim at the time when it was recovered by the police and sent for scientific examination before the FSL. Though we find that FSL report shows existence of human blood but the circumstance of the victim wearing the same cloth even 10 days after the incident raises some doubt. The assertion that bloodstains survived even after the Capri was washed cannot be held convincing. In fact, the victim has admitted that her Capri was washed. This evidence in itself would not explain the contradictions noticed by the court of sessions in the case of the victim. After the cloth itself was washed, we do not understand as to how the bloodstains would still remain on the Capri even after 10 days of the incident. Enmity between the families is otherwise admitted on record, which can be the cause for committing the offence but can also be the reason for false implication.

11. Learned court below has also noticed that though the victim was taken from a public place in the presence of several persons at 7.00 in the evening, allegedly by the accused persons on a two-wheeler but no independent person saw the incident nor anyone came forward to save the prosecutrix also seems doubtful. The trial court on the basis of material placed on record has, therefore, found that the prosecution case is not convincing and a finding has been returned that prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

12. Though the original records have been produced before the Court and the appeal has been heard at some length, but we find that there is neither any apparent perversity nor any misconstruction of oral or documentary evidence on record, which may vitiate the findings returned in the judgment of the court below. Law is otherwise settled that just because a different view could be taken in the matter would hardly be a ground to interfere with the judgment of acquittal. On the analysis of evidence on record, we find that the view taken by the court below is clearly a permissible view, and there is no sufficient ground to interfere in the present appeal against the judgment of acquittal.

13. Consequently, this appeal is summarily rejected under Section 384 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 31 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 363, 366 & 376 – Criminal Appeal Against Sentencing – Concurrent vs. Consecutive Sentences – Single Transaction Rule – Proviso to Section 31(2) Cr.P.C. – Judicial Discretion in Sentencing.

The appellant, Shamsheer Ali, challenged the sentencing part of the judgment dated 10.01.2014 by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Bhadohi, in S.T. No. 20 of 2011, arising from Case Crime No. 325 of 2010 under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC, P.S. Gopiganj, Sant Ravi Das Nagar, Bhadohi. The appellant was convicted and sentenced to 7 years' rigorous imprisonment each for kidnapping (Section 363 IPC) and abduction with intent (Section 366 IPC), and 10 years' rigorous imprisonment for rape (Section 376 IPC), with the trial court silent on whether the sentences would run concurrently or consecutively, resulting in a potential aggregate sentence of 24 years' imprisonment. Held: The appeal was disposed of, modifying the sentencing order, as: (1) the trial court's failure to specify whether sentences should run concurrently or consecutively violated the legal obligation under Section 31(1) Cr.P.C., per Nagaraja Rao Vs Central Bureau of Investigation, (2015) 4 SCC 302; (2) the aggregate sentence of 24 years contravened the proviso to Section 31(2) Cr.P.C., which limits consecutive sentences to 14 years, per Chatar Singh Vs St. of M.P., AIR 2007 SC 319; (3) the offences under Sections 363 and 366 IPC formed part of a single transaction, with Section 366 being a graver version of Section 363, warranting concurrent sentences under the single transaction rule, per Mohd. Akhtar Hussain Vs Assistant Collector of Customs, 1998 AIR 2143, and O.M. Cherian Vs St. of Kerala, AIR 2015 SC 303; (4) no facts justified maximum punishment under Sections 363 and 366 IPC or consecutive sentences, indicating a lack of judicious exercise of discretion; (5) the appellant, having served 10 years, was entitled to relief, as consecutive sentences were disproportionate and lacked justification in the trial court's judgment. The sentences for Sections 363, 366, and 376 IPC were upheld but ordered to run concurrently, ensuring compliance with Section 31 Cr.P.C. and balancing reformatory, retributive, and deterrent sentencing principles.

8. Suganthi Suresh Kumar Vs Jagdeeshan,
(2002) 2 SCC 420

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajiv Upadhyaya, Advocate holding brief of Ms. Sufiya Bano, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri L.D.Rajbhar, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellant challenging the judgment and order dated 10.01.2014, passed by Addl. District and Sessions Judge, Bhadohi in S.T. No. 20 of 2011 (State Vs. Shamsheer Ali) arising out of Case Crime No. 325 of 2010 under section 363, 366, 376 I.P.C. P.S. Gopiganj, District- Sant Ravi Das Nagar, Bhadohi, where appellant got convicted under sections 363, 366 and 376 I.P.C. and sentenced for seven years rigorous imprisonment each under sections 363 and 366 I.P.C. and for 10 years rigorous imprisonment under section 376 I.P.C.

3. The submission in brief of the appellant is that he has been awarded a substantive sentence of 7 years for an offence under section 363 I.P.C. and another substantive sentence of 7 years for an offence under section 366 I.P.C. and further substantive sentence of 10 years for the offence under section 376 I.P.C. The trial court did not specify whether such sentences shall run concurrently or consecutively. Resultantly, he is facing prospect of imprisonment of 24 years, which is too rigorous and severe. The sentencing part of the order of the trial court is therefore flawed.

4. Learned A.G.A. submits that section 31 Cr.P.C. provides that where accused is convicted at one trial of two or more offences and the trial court has not provided for concurrent running of sentences, it shall run consecutively i.e. one after the other.

5. During the course of arguments it is, however fairly admitted by the State that section 31 Cr.P.C. is subject to provisions of section 71 of I.P.C. and further that the proviso to section 31 (2) provides that in no case, shall such person be sentenced to imprisonment for a longer period than 14 years and that in this case, the aggregate punishment is 24 years.

6. Several important issues arise in this matter, first, whether the trial court can afford to not to mention how the sentences are to run, whether concurrently or consecutively. Secondly, whether the failure to mention the same is ignorable in view of the facts and circumstances of the matter. Related with this issue is the point that whether the court intended that the sentences should run consecutively and if so, whether or not such a presumption will lead to disproportionate period of imprisonment and against the provision of law as contained in section 31 (2) proviso (a).

7. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Mohd. Akhtar Hussain Alias Ibrahim vs Assistant Collector Of Customs 1998 AIR 2143, while allowing the appeal, observed that the basic rule of thumb over the years has been the so called principles of "single transaction rule" for concurrent sentence. The Court held as below:

"2(i) The enormity of the crime committed by the accused is relevant for measuring the sentence. But the maximum sentence awarded in one case against the same accused is not irrelevant for consideration while giving the consecutive sentence in the second case although it is grave. The court has to consider the totality of the sentences which the accused has to under go if the sentences are to be consecutive. The totality principle has been accepted as correct principle for guidance. [753E.F]

2(ii) The broad expanse of discretion left by legislation to sentencing courts should not be narrowed only to the seriousness of the offence. No single consideration can definitively determine the proper sentence. In arriving at an appropriate sentence, the court must consider, and some times reject, many factors. The court must 'recognise, learn to control and exclude' many diverse data."

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Chatar Singh Vs. State of M.P. (AIR 2007 SC 319), in Criminal Appeal No. 623 of 2005 decided on 24.11.2006, had a case before it in which the accused was convicted for several offences and was convicted for different period of imprisonment which added up to 28 years, if allowed to run consecutively. The Court observed in the light of provisions of section 31(2) proviso (a) as below:

" After making such a provision, proviso (a) is added to this sub-section to limit the aggregate of sentences which such a court pass while making the sentences consecutive. That is this proviso has provided that in no case the aggregate of consecutive sentences passed against an accused shall exceed 14 years. In the instant case the aggregate of the two sentences passed against the appellant being 28 years clearly infringes the above proviso. It is accordingly not liable to be sustained."

In view of the proviso appended to Section 31 of the Criminal Procedure Code, we are of the opinion that the High Court committed a manifest error in sentencing the appellant for 20 years' Rigorous Imprisonment. The maximum sentence imposable being 14 years and having regard to the fact that the appellant is in custody for more than 12 years. Now, we are of the opinion that interest of justice would be sub- served if the appellant is directed to be sentenced to the period already undergone."

9. In O.M. Cherian @ Thankachan Vs. State of Kerela and Ors, AIR 2015 Supreme Court 303, decided on 11.11.2014, the Apex Court had a criminal appeal before it against a judgment where the trial court had ordered two years rigorous imprisonment under section 498 I.P.C. and further 7 years rigorous imprisonment under sections 306 I.P.C. and the substantive sentences were ordered to run consecutively. The Supreme Court observed in para 19, 20 and 21 as below:

"19. As pointed out earlier, Section 31 Cr.P.C. deals with quantum of punishment which may be legally passed when there is - (a) one trial and

(b) the accused is convicted of two or more offences. Ambit of Section 31 is wide, covering not only single transaction constituting two or more offences but also offences arising out of two or more transactions. In the two judgments in Mohd. Akhtar Hussain and Manoj (supra), the issue that fell for consideration was the imposition of sentence for two or more offences arising out of the single transaction. It is in that context, in those cases, this Court held that the sentences shall run concurrently.

*20. Under Section 31 Cr.P.C. it is left to the full discretion of the Court to order the sentences to run concurrently in case of conviction for two or more offences. It is difficult to lay down any straitjacket approach in the matter of exercise of such discretion by the courts. By and large, trial courts and appellate courts have invoked and exercised their discretion to issue directions for concurrent running of sentences, favouring the benefit to be given to the accused. Whether a direction for concurrent running of sentences ought to be issued in a given case would depend upon the nature of the offence or offences committed and the facts and circumstances of the case. The discretion has to be exercised along the judicial lines and not mechanically.

21. Accordingly, we answer the Reference by holding that Section 31 Cr.P.C. leaves full discretion with the Court to order sentences for two or more offences at one trial to run concurrently, having regard to the nature of offences and attendant aggravating or mitigating circumstances. We do not find any reason to hold that normal rule is to order the sentence to be consecutive and exception is to make the sentences concurrent. Of course, if the Court does not order the sentence to be concurrent, one sentence may run after the other, in such order as the Court may direct. We also do not find any conflict in earlier judgment in Mohd. Akhtar Hussain and Section 31 Cr.P.C.”

10. The Supreme Court further observed that normally the appellate court do not interfere unless the discretion exercised is arbitrary or unreasonable.

11. The Supreme Court in Sunil Kumar @ Sudhir Kumar and Anr Vs.

State of U.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 526 of 2021 decided on 25.05.2021 had a question on the point of sentence before it wherein the convict having convicted under sections 363, 366 376(1) I.P.C. had already undergone 13 years and two months of imprisonment and found that the decisions were silent on the point of concurrent or consecutive running of sentences and therefore, the convict faced a prospect of sentence of 22 years. In the above noted case, the Apex Court referred to the judgment given in Muthuramalingam & Ors. v. State: (2016) 8 SCC 313 (paragraph 28) and observed in para 11 as below:

“11. For what has been provided in Section 31(1) CrPC read with the expositions of this Court, it follows that the Court of first instance is under legal obligation, while awarding multiple sentences, to specify in clear terms as to whether they would run concurrently or consecutively. In the case of Nagaraja Rao (supra), this Court expounded on this legal obligation upon the Court of first instance in the following terms:-

“11. The expressions “concurrently” and “consecutively” mentioned in the Code are of immense significance while awarding punishment to the accused once he is found guilty of any offence punishable under IPC or/and of an offence punishable under any other Special Act arising out of one trial or more. It is for the reason that award of former enure to the benefit of the accused whereas award of latter is detrimental to the accused’s interest. It is therefore, legally obligatory upon the court of first instance while awarding sentence to specify in clear terms in the order of conviction as to whether sentences awarded to the accused would run “concurrently” or they would run “consecutively”.”

12. The Apex Court further in para 12 and 13 observed that the court of first instance ought not to leave the matter of consecutive or concurrent running of sentences for deduction at latter stage and that there is yet another obligation on the trial court that is to state the order i.e. the sequence in which the consecutive sentence ought to be executed.

In the end the Apex Court discussing about Nagaraja Rao v. Central Bureau of Investigation (2015) 4 SCC 302, held in para 21 as below:

“21. While closing on the matter, we deem it appropriate to reiterate what was expounded in the case of Nagaraja Rao (supra), that it is legally obligatory upon the Court of first instance, while awarding multiple punishments of imprisonment, to specify in clear terms as to whether the sentences would run concurrently or consecutively. It needs hardly an emphasis that any omission to carry out this obligation by the Court of first instance causes unnecessary and avoidable prejudice to the parties, be it the accused or be it the prosecution.”

13. While referring to a number of judicial pronouncements in the matter of sentence, the High Court in Yogesh Kumar Vs. State of Punjab and Another, in CRR No. 3415 of 2019 with connected matters decided on 01.06.2022, has observed in para-35 as below:

“ 35. Thus, while applying the aforesaid principles of law, it would also be essential to balance the principle of sentencing in a manner that would restore faith of people in the system of administration of criminal justice and that the judicial process is not seen siding with an accused. The sentence imposed must not seem to be a flea-bite sentence, a phrase aptly used by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of "Suganthi Suresh Kumar versus Jagdeeshan" reported as (2002) 2 Supreme Court Cases

420. The sentencing must not only show reformatory and reprimanding aspect, but must also take the retributive aspect into consideration. Where the violator of law has displayed lack of bona fide and his culpability stands duly established, the Court has to keep in mind that the sentence so imposed should not appeared to be lenient or fail to display any deterrent effect. It cannot be the object of law or the philosophy behind imposing of sentence that the same promotes violation or makes a violator-convict believe that he 40 of 53 CRR No. 3415 OF 2019 (O&M) & connected cases -41- may commit multiple offences and thereafter seek concurrent running of the sentences. A transaction in the nature of issuance of multiple cheques towards discharge of one single liability has a potential of great misuse on either sides and just as it may incite an accused to swell his liability and to not pay the same despite issuance of multiple cheques, at the same time, there is immense possibility that the creditor secures multiple cheques for each installment and lodges different complaints against default of each cheque and claim consecutive running of sentences in each of the said cases to seek confinement of a defaulter in custody for an indefinite period. The crucial test thus is the similarity of the transaction and not the quantum of the money involved. A Court is thus required to maintain a fine balance by imposing a sentence so that the reformatory, retributive and deterrent effects are balanced well. “

14. Now, coming to the instant case, the appellant has confined his arguments on the sentencing part only, submitting that the accused has been convicted for an offence under sections 363 and 366 I.P.C. both and that that he has been sentenced for 7 years in each one of them. It may be noted that section 366 I.P.C. includes the ingredients of section 363 I.P.C. Section 363 I.P.C. punishes a person who kidnaps the victim from lawful guardianship and the maximum punishment provided in this section is seven years while section 366 I.P.C. punishes a person who has kidnapped or abducted a woman with certain intent and in such case, the punishment provided is 10 years. Section 366 I.P.C. is a graver version of section 363 I.P.C.

15. There are no such facts or circumstances mentioned in the judgment to justify the award of maximum term of punishment under sections 363 I.P.C. or 366 I.P.C. Definitely the court is vested with power to award maximum term of punishment but that power is to be exercised in a judicious manner.

16. Moreover, the section 363 and 366 I.P.C. pertains to one transaction only and it does not appeal to reason that two separate sentences be provided which should run consecutively by default. The approach of the court has not been judicious to that extent. The accused has further been convicted for offence under section 376 I.P.C. and sentenced to 10 years of rigorous imprisonment. Incidentally, it may be noted that 10 years have already elapsed, a fact which has been admitted by the State. Further it may be noted that if all the sentences are allowed to run consecutively, the proviso to section 31 Cr.P.C. shall stand flouted.

17. I went through the judgment to fathom the facts and circumstances and the gravity of the matter which may justify the running of consecutive sentences but found none. In my opinion, the sentencing part of the order is flawed on two counts, first that it is against the provisions of section 31 Cr.P.C. and that the learned trial court has overlooked the legal obligation to expressly provide for whether the sentences shall run concurrently or consecutively.

18. In my opinion, the sentencing part of the order needs to be suitably modified in the manner as below:

19. The terms of imprisonment awarded by the trial court for each one of the offences i.e. section 363, 366 and 376 I.P.C. are upheld and that all the sentences shall run concurrently.

20. Accordingly this appeal is disposed of.

21. A copy of the order shall be immediately transmitted to the trial court concerned for necessary action.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 302, 34 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 313 – Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 – Sections 2(k), 2(l), 15, 16 & 18

– Criminal Appeals Against Conviction and Sentence – Murder – Common Intention – Juvenility Plea – Prompt FIR – Eye-Witness Testimony – Motive in Direct Evidence Cases

The appellants, Ajai Kumar Gupta and Satish Kumar Gupta, challenged the judgment dated 04.03.1983 by the Sessions Judge, Banda, in S.T. No. 285 of 1982, convicting them under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC for the murder of Avadhesh Singh on 16.05.1982 at Atarra Railway Station, sentencing them to life imprisonment. The incident arose from an altercation at a tea shop, where Satish Kumar Gupta exhorted Ajai Kumar Gupta to shoot Avadhesh Singh with a countrymade pistol, causing his death. The FIR was lodged promptly at 4:30 AM, supported by eye-witnesses PW-1 (Rakesh Kumar Singh), PW-2 (Ramhit Singh), and PW-3 (Kishan Pal), though PW-1 and PW-3 partly turned hostile. The prosecution relied on medical evidence, FSL reports confirming human blood on the deceased's clothes and the bench, and recovery of a .315 bore pistol from Ajai Kumar Gupta. The appellants claimed false implication due to enmity between the Investigating Officer (PW-5, Ramji Mishra) and Ajai Kumar Gupta's uncle, Shiv Prasad Gupta, over defamatory articles, and raised a juvenility plea. Held: (1) Criminal Appeal No. 705 of 1983 (Satish Kumar Gupta) was dismissed, affirming his conviction and life sentence under Section 302/34 IPC, as the prosecution proved the case beyond reasonable doubt through PW-2's reliable eye-witness account, prompt FIR, medical evidence, and FSL reports; discrepancies in witness statements (e.g., number of train tickets, mode of transport) were minor and did not undermine the prosecution case, per St. of U.P. Vs Jaggo, AIR 1971 SC 1586; motive was irrelevant in a direct evidence case; (2) Criminal Appeal No. 573 of 1983 (Ajai Kumar Gupta) was partly allowed, affirming the conviction but setting aside the life sentence, as he was declared a juvenile (aged 15 years 6 months on 16.05.1982) per the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000, vide the Sessions Judge's Inquiry Report dated 21.09.2023; under Sections 15 and 16, he was ordered to be released on probation for three years with a personal bond and two sureties, prohibiting imprisonment for juveniles; (3) the claim of false implication due to enmity lacked evidence, and the defence failed to discredit PW-2's testimony or the prompt FIR; (4) Satish Kumar Gupta was directed to surrender to serve his sentence, with coercive measures if he failed to comply. The court emphasized that juvenility can be raised at any stage, per Section 15, Juvenile Justice Act, 2000, and separate trials for juveniles and non-juveniles are mandatory under Section 18.

mother of the deceased; Sri Gyan Narayan Kanojia, learned AGA Ist for the State and perused the material placed on record.

2. As both the criminal appeals have arisen out of same judgement of conviction and sentence, hence, these are being decided by this common judgement:-

3. Above noted Criminal appeals have been preferred by the accused appellants namely, Ajai Kumar Gupta and Satish Kumar Gupta, with a prayer to set aside the judgment and order dated 4.3.1983, passed by Sessions Judge, Banda, in S.T. No.285 of 1982, under Sections-302 IPC, arising out of Case Crime No.78 of 1982, Police Station- Atarra, District-Banda, whereby, they have been convicted for charge under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and have been sentenced to imprisonment for life. The appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta was released on bail on 8.3.1983 and appellant Satish Kumar Gupta was released on bail vide order dated 22.3.1983, in their respective appeals.

4. The factual matrix of the case in brief are that the informant lodged present FIR on the basis of written report (Ext.Ka-1) at police station concerned on 16.5.1982, at 4:30 AM, with allegation that a groom's party (barat) had come from district Jalaun at the place of his maternal uncle, Raj Singh, in village Musasi, Police Station Badausa. This marriage party was to leave in the intervening night of 15/16.5.1982 from Atarra railway station. The passenger train by which this marriage party was to leave was late. The train arrived at the station at around 2:00 AM, in which informant got the marriage party boarded and he also travelled in the same train alongwith his three companions up to Khurhand railway station together with said groom's party (barat). They disembarked from the train at Khurhand railway station and came back to railway station Atarra by Bundelkhand Express. It was 3:30 AM. As soon as they reached at the platform, accused Ajay Kumar Gupta and Satish Kumar Gupta, who hail from Kasba Atarra and were known as local goons, appeared there. Satish Kumar wielded an iron rod in his hand. They stopped Shyam Sundar Gupta, one of the companions of the informant and accosted him while abusing that he appeared to be a rogue (badmash), from where he was coming. The informant and his companions objected to this and intervened. They asked them not to speak in bad manner, which resulted in altercation between informant and his companions and the accused persons. They came out of the station and sat in the tea shop of one Badku on a bench lying outside his shop. These two miscreants started abusing and threatening them while standing in front of the shop. Avadhesh Singh, one of the companions of the informant, took a strong exception to their conduct and asked them to refrain from abusing them. As soon as he stood from the bench, Satish Kumar Gupta caught hold of his hand and twisted it and got him forcefully seated on the bench. Accused Satish Kumar also exhorted accused Ajay Kumar to kill him as he was showing arrogance, thereupon, accused Ajai Kumar whipped out a countrymade pistol from pocket of his pant and fired close to the chest of Avadhesh Singh. Avadhesh Singh got injured in his left chest and fell down on the bench. Thereafter, both the accused fled away towards town. The occurrence was also seen by one Kishan Pal Singh. A written report Ext.Ka-1 of the occurrence was lodged by Rakesh Kumar Singh (PW-1) at 4:30 AM at Police Station Atarra, situated about one kilometer away from the scene of the incident.

Station Officer of Police Station Atarra, Ramji Mishra (PW-5) was present at the police station. Soon after the case was registered, he took up the investigation and examined Rakesh Kumar Singh and Shyam Sundar. He reached at the scene of incident at about 7:30 AM and found dead body of Avadhesh Singh lying on the bench in front of the shop of Badku outside the railway station. He started inquest proceeding and prepared Panchayat nama (Ext.Ka-7), Challan (Ext.Ka-8), Sketch (Ext.Ka-9) and letters (Ext.Ka-10 and 11) for postmortem. The dead body was sealed and handed over at 9:00 AM to constable Jagdeo Lal and Jeev Mandal alongwith inquest papers and copies of chik FIR (Ext.Ka-20) and general diary (Ext.Ka-21). The Investigating Officer also recovered from the dead body a pair of sleeper (Ext.Ka-5), blood stained shirt (Ext.Ka-6) and prepared recovery memo Ext.Ka-12 and 13 in respect thereof. He also recovered sample blood stained and unstained chips (Ext.Ka-6 and 7) of the bench and prepared memo (Ext.Ka-14) in respect thereof. The Investigating Officer rushed from the scene of occurrence and arrested the accused at about 11:00 or 11:15 AM near the hostel of Degree College and on search found a .315 bore countrymade pistol, two live cartridges and discharged cartridge from the possession of accused Ajai Kumar. The accused were lodged at the police station at 13:15 hours on the same day. The Investigating Officer inspected the scene of occurrence on 18.5.1982, examined witnesses Ramhit Singh, Kishanpal, conducted spot inspection and prepared site plan (Ext.Ka-15) and after concluding the investigation submitted chargesheet (Ext.Ka-16) on 1.6.1982. The autopsy was conducted by Dr. G.J. Gupta, Medical Officer, District Hospital, Banda (PW-6) at 12:10 Noon on 17.5.1982. The deceased was aged about 18 years and had died about one and half days before.

External examination:- Young man of average built, rigor mortis passing off from the upper extremities and partially present in the lower extremities, decomposition set in, foul smell, abdomen penis scrotum swollen up, blisters are occasionally present. Skin peeled off at places.

Antemortem Injuries:-

(2) Gun shot wound of exit 1 cm X 1 cm X communicating to injury No.1, on the back of chest right side 5 cm lateral to verbatim spin and 7 cm below and medial to inferior angle of scapula margin lacerated and everted.

Internal Examination:- Pleura perforated on left side and lacerated on right side. Right chamber of heart full and left empty weight 240 grams. Free and clotted blood about 1.5 litres present in chest cavity. Stomach contained about 200 grams of semi digested food material. Small and large intestine contain faecal matter and gases.

In the opinion of Dr. G.J. Gupta cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage resulting from ante mortem gun shot injuries. Doctor also recovered a blood stained under shirt (Ext.Ka-4) and underwear (Ext.Ka-3) and pant (Ext.1) from the dead body and forwarded the same to the police station. The accused have thus been committed for their trial upon being charged, stated as above.

5. The prosecution, in support of its case examined Rakesh Kumar Singh, complainant, as PW-1; Ramhit Singh as PW-2 and Kishanpal as PW-3 on facts. PW-4, Bahadur Singh was Head Moharrir of the police station Atarra and he proved chik FIR, general diary entries and other police papers. PW-5, Station Officer, Ramji Mishra, proved the investigation of the case as indicated above. Dr. G.J. Gupta, PW-6, proved postmortem examination of the deceased and memo Ext.Ka20, which he had prepared at the time of examination.

6. The prosecution tendered in evidence report of Chemical Examiner (Ext.Ka 22) and of serologist (Ext. Ka 23), according to whom blood stained shirt (Ext.2), chips of the Bench (Ext-6), Banyan (Ext.4), underwear (Ext.3) and pant (Ext. 1), were found to contain human blood and the pant (Ext.-1), chips (Ext-6) and Banyan (Ext.-4) were found to contain blood of group "O'.

7. The accused denied the allegations of the prosecution and their complicity in the occurrence of this case in their statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Accused Ajai Kumar stated that S.O. of P.S. Atarra namely, Shri Ramji Mishra, was highly inimical with his uncle Shiva Prasad Gupta, who edited weekly newspaper 'GANTAVYA LAHAR', that his uncle had published articles against misdeeds of Shri Ramji Mishra and that the news item in respect thereof were supplied by him and that there fore Shri Ramji

Mishra implicated him falsely in the case. He also alleged that deceased Avdhesh Singh was not resident of village Musasi and was also not related as nephew of P.W.-2 Ramhit. The accused also alleged that he was taken away by the police from his house at about 8:00 A. M. on 16.5.82 and was implicated in the case. Accused Satish Kumar stated that he was taken away by the police from his house at about 9:00 A. M. on 16.5.82 and was required by S.O. Ramji Mishra to become a witness against accused Ajai Kumar, that when he declined to become a false witness, he too was implicated in the case. The accused also alleged that there had been ill will between him and accused Ajai Kumar and that he had instituted a criminal case under section 324 IPC against Ajai Kumar.

8. After hearing counsel for parties, the accused were called upon to enter in defence. Accused examined Kali Charan, Assistant Judicial Assistant of Collectorate as D.W.1 to state that special report of this case, which is received at the residence of District Magistrate was received in his office on 22.5.82 and that endorsement was made : Send to A.J.A.: by Shri R.C.Dixit for Collector on 22.5.82. The witness brought file of the special report and made statement with reference to the same. The said special report has been brought on record as Ext. Kha 3. The accused further examined S.U.Khan, Station Master, Atarra Railway Station as D.W.-2, to state that on the night between 15 and 16.5.1982, three tickets were sold at Atarra Railway Station for Jhansi, that on that night Bundelkhand Express arrived Atarra Railway Station at 1:12 AM and left for Jhansi at 1:17 AM and that Bundelkhand Express arrived Atarra Railway Station at 3:23 AM from Jhansi.

The accused have also filed some documents, which will be dealt with at appropriate stage in this judgement.

9. There can be no doubt that Avdhesh Singh, a young man aged about 18 years, was murdered in the wee hours of 16.5.82. There can also be raised no doubts that dead body of Avdhesh Singh was found on a wooden bench lying in front of the shop of Badku close towards south of Atarra Railway Station. It is also borne out from the evidence that the assailant fired a gun shot which caused gun shot wound of entry on the front of left side chest 12 cm above and lateral to left nipple and corresponding gun shot wound of exit on the back of chest right side from close range, say few inches, as blackening, charring and tattooing was present. It is also not denied that the Investigating Officer found dead body of Avdhech Singh on the bench in front of the shop of Badku. The accused persons had come up of age at the time of incident and were of young age at the time of incident. In essence, the defence denied participation of present appellants in homicidal death of the deceased Avadesh Singh.

10. The prosecution in order to bring home its case relied upon evidence of P.W.1 Rakesh Kumar Singh, complainant; P.W.2 Ramhit Singh and Kishan Pal P.W.3. P.W.-1, Rakesh Kumar Singh, had set up the story of the prosecution in all its essential details in the first information report Ext. Ka-1, but was not inclined to support the case in full in his evidence. According to the evidence of P.W.-2, Ramhit Singh, the case of the prosecution had been that Rakesh Kumar Singh, Ramhit Singh, Avdhesh Singh and Shyem Sundar had escorted the Barat party from the house of Raja Singh from village Musasi to Atarra, that they took the Barat party by Bundelkhand Express from Atarra Railway station towards Jhansi, that they got down at the corssing at Khurhand Railway Station and came back by Bundelkhand Express, that they got down at about 4:00 AM at Atarra Railway Station, that the accused accosted Shyam Sundar at the platform and came along with them at the shop of Badku and hurled abuses and that when Avdhesh Singh got up to protest, accused Satish Kumar twisted his hand and got him seated on the bench and that at his exhortation accused Ajai Kumar whipped out a country made pistol and fired at Avdhesh Singh and killed him.

11. P.W.1, Rakesh Kumar Singh, in his evidence stated that he along with Avdhesh Singh, Shyam Sundar and Ramhit had come to Atarra to see off the Barat party which was returning after the marriage of sister of Raja Singh of village Musasi, that they went upto Khurhand with the Barat party and returned by another train, that the accused met them at Atarra Railway Station and accosted Shyam Sundar, that they all came along with the accused upto the shop of Badku and sat on the bench lying there, that the accused continued hurling abuses and that Avdhesh Singh got up to protest as to why the accused were hurling abuses. The witness thereafter appeared not inclined to support factum of the actual incident in which Avdhesh Singh was murdered. He stated that thereafter he went away on another shop for getting tea prepared, that in the meantime he heard a gun shot fire, that he rushed and came there and that he saw Avdhesh Singh lying dead and the two accused running away. P.W.-1, Rakesh Kumar Singh, further stated that he at once rushed to the police station and lodged written report Ext.Ka-1 and that he had correctly stated in the report as to what he had seen. This witness in the report Ext.Ka 1 had stated that accused Satish Kumar twisted the hand of Avdhesh Singh and that on the exhortation of Satish Kumar, accused Ajai Kumar whipped out a country made pistol and fired at Avdhesh Singh by his chest.

12. PW-2, Ramhit Singh has testified before the Court that he was identifying both the accused Ajai Kumar and Satish Kumar prior to incident and he identified them before the Court. He further stated that informant Rakesh Kumar Singh, who is before the Court is his nephew and deceased Avadhesh Singh was also his nephew. On fateful day marriage of the sister of Raj Singh was scheduled in village Musasi. The groom's party had come from District Jalaun. It was intervening night of 15/16.5.1982. The groom's party went back from Atarra by train. The witness accompanied by Rakesh, Avadhesh (deceased) and Shyam Sundar had come to station to see off the party, which was boarded in the train at around 3:00 AM in the Bundelkhand Express, which was running between Manikpur to Jhansi at Atarra Railway Station. He also boarded the train alongwith Avadhesh, Rakesh and Shyam Sundar and travelled up to Khurhand alongwith groom's party. They disembarked from the train at Khurhand and reached at Atarra Railway Station at 4:00 AM by Jhansi Manikpur Train from Khurhand. Accused Ajai Kumar and Satish Kumar met them at railway station Atarra, who grabbed Shyam Sundar and stated that he is gunda. The witness and his companions objected to this and they walked up to tea shop of Badku while talking together. The shop was closed and light was illuminating on electric poll. They sat on the bench lying in front of the shop.

The accused Ajai Kumar and Satish Kumar engaged in abusing throughout whereupon Avadhesh stood up and asked them to refrain from abusing them. Thereupon, Satish Kumar grabbed hand of Avadhesh and twisted it and forcefully made him to sit on the bench and exhorted Ajai Kumar to kill him. Ajai Kumar whipped out a countrymade pistol from his west and pointed out towards left side of his chest and shot a fire. Avadhesh rolled down on the bench and died. The incident was witnessed by the witnesses Rakesh Kumar, Shyam Sundar and one another person named as Krishna Pal. They cried on the incident whereupon the accused persons fled away in southwards of the town. He stayed near the dead body and Rakesh Kumar went to police station Atarra to lodge a report. A Sub-Inspector and constable reached the spot at around 6:00 AM. The witness opened a sealed bundle comprising a pant, bushirt, underwear, banyan and a pair of chappal on which material Ext.1 to 5 were marked. He identified these articles as those worn by the deceased at the time of incident. The witness also stated that the deceased Avadhesh was his real nephew and Rakesh (PW-1) is not closely related to him. In cross-examination this witness denied his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that on that date marriage of his daughter was scheduled in his house and clarified that he stated to Investigating Officer that on that date marriage of his niece was scheduled and he is not aware as to how the Investigating Officer had written in his statement that marriage of his daughter was scheduled. He also denied statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that Rakesh Kumar Singh was his 'Bhanja' (sister's son). He also stated that he had told the Darogaji that Satish Kumar exhorted Ajai Kumar to kill Avadhesh by calling his mother's name and if Darogaji has referring the abuse hurled on Avadhesh by some other way, he is not apprised of that. He had stated that he has told the Darogaji that he stayed near the dead body, when Rakesh went to lodge the report at police station, if this fact is not appearing in his statement, he is not able to disclose its reason. Barat had visited the venue of marriage on 13th date by train at Badausa and he had visited the station to receive the barat, which comprise 15 persons. 4 to 5 other persons also accompanied him while receiving the barat. The marriage was solemnized in the intervening night of 13/14.5.1982. The barat was scheduled to depart in the morning of 15.5.1982. One Raghuraj Singh of Musasi had stopped the barat by way of courtesy, when it departed in the morning of 15.5.1982. He had purchased tickets of groom's party up to Jhansi for which money was paid to him by father of Raj Singh, which cost total Rs.156/-. The witness and his 4 companions had not purchased any ticket while returning from Khurhand. There was a crossing at Khurhand railway station and for that reason, the descended from train at Khurhand and went back. There was much rush in the train on that night. He has been posted as police constable and retired 16 years earlier to his statement before the Court. There were a number of passengers in musafirkhana of railway station Atarra on that date. They did not find any police constable at the railway station at the time of incident. They sat on the bench with a view to let the accused move from there. The deceased was sitting on the bench while keeping his face northwards. Shyam Sundar and Rakesh were sitting on the bench by the side of Avadhesh. There was time gap of five minutes between their descending at the platform and commission of the offence. Shyam Sundar also accompanied Rakesh after the incident to lodge the report. The witness denied the defence suggestion that he had not seen any occurrence and the Sub Inspector of Police got written report prepared in consultation with the witness and his companions. He further stated that the accused persons were running shops at Atarra and had seen them at Atarra.

12. PW-3, Kishan Pal, is also projected as one of the persons who was coming down from platform alongwith informant and deceased and had seen the occurrence. He is resident of Atarra town and stated that he had to go to Chitrakoot by train, which he missed, therefore, he was coming back from railway station towards town at about 4:00 AM. He heard and saw the commotion in the nearby tea and sweet shop, where murder had taken place. In the cross examination, the witness was declared hostile and in the cross-examination by the prosecution, he reiterated that he had not seen how the murder had taken place and who committed the murder. He also reiterated that he did not see the accused there. The witness denied the prosecution suggestion that he was not ascertaining true facts in view of being scared by accused persons. He also denied the prosecution suggestion that he witnessed the entire incident of commission of murder of Avadhesh Singh by present accused persons. He also stated that he had requested folded hands to Investigating Officer to spare him from to be a witness of the incident.

13. PW-4, Head Constable, Bahadur Singh, stated that he was posted in the month of April and May, 1982 at police station Atarra as Head Moharrir. On 16.5.1982, the informant Rakesh Kumar produced written report Ext.Ka-1 before him and lodged chik report on the basis of Ext.Ka-1 at 4:30 AM, on which Ext.Ka-2 was marked. He prepared this chik report in his signature and hand writing. He further stated that a special report was sent on 16.5.1982, vide GD Report No.9, at 9:30 AM by SHO Lalji Shukla to senior officials. The written entry of special report is made vide GD Report No.21, time 21:30 hours on same date. SHO Ramji Mishra was present in the police station when this case was registered and he undertook the investigation of the case. The case was registered after lodging of FIR vide GD Report No.4, on which Ext.Ka-3 is marked. The special report and its receiving report were proved by this witness as Ext.Ka-4 and 5. he filed certified copies of extracts of GD at the time of his evidence. He further stated that constable Jagdeo and Jeev Mandal made entry of their return at police station after postmortem on dead body of the deceased vide GD report No.22, time 19:30 hours, dated 17.5.1982. The Investigating Officer Shri Ramji Mishra returned to police station on 16.5.1982 alongwith both the two arrested accused persons namely, Ajai Kumar and Satish Kumar and five bundles of sealed case property and lodged them at police station and a GD entry in this regard was made by the report No.12 by him. He filed certified copy of GD Entry on record as Ext.Ka-6.

14. PW-5, Ramji Mishra, is Investigating Officer of the case. He proved steps taken during investigation. He also proved inquest report being its author as Ext.Ka-7 and stated that he conducted inquest on the body of the deceased at around 7:30 AM on the date of incident. The dead body of the deceased was lying on a bench in front of tea shop of Badku at Railway Station Atarra. After conducting inquest proceeding sent the dead body of Avadhesh Singh after preparing police papers relating to postmortem of the deceased i.e. challan lash Ext.Ka-9 and letters Ext.Ka-10 and 11 through two constables. He also got the dead body sealed after inquest proceeding. The sleepers worn by deceased and his shirt were sealed and their inventory was prepared which proved as Ext.Ka-12 and Ka-13 during his evidence. He also stated that he scratched the blood stains from the bench on which dead body was lying and collected the blood stained and plain pieces of wood and got them sealed separately and prepared its inventory as Ext.Ka-14. He produced these articles before the Court and on which Ext.Ka-5, 6 and 7 were marked. He also stated that he arrested accused persons on secret information at around 11:00 AM near hostel of Degree College. A .315 bore countrymade pistol and two live cartridges, and one empty cartridge shell were recovered from accused Ajay Kumar Gupta. He produced the accused persons at police station at 13:15 hours. He also stated that so long as the case property remained with him, it was in sealed condition. He also proved site plan as Ext.Ka-15 being in his hand writing and signature. He stated that after carrying out the investigation, he submitted chargesheet (Ext.Ka-16) on 1.6.1982. he also filed statement of witnesses namely, Rakesh Kumar and Krishna Pal as Ext.Ka-17 and Ka-18 during his evidence.

15. PW-5, Investigating Officer, Ramji Mishra, deposed that soon after the case was registered at the police station, he took up the investigation, that he recorded the statements of complainant Rakesh Kumar Singh and his companion Shyam Sundar and that thereafter he reached the scene of incident at about 7.30 A.M. The police station was about one kilometre away from the scene of incident and I consider that the Investigating Officer lost no unreasonable time in reaching the scene of incident in course of investigation. The Investigating Officer, as it appears from the evidence, after the inquest proceedings which were concluded at 9 A.M. ,and after making recoveries and examining other witnesses, rushed to apprehend the accused persons whose presence in the town was made known to him through his informant. He deposed that he found the two accused at about 11 A or 11.15 A.M near the hostel of Degree College in the town of Atarra and he arrested both of them. He also deposed that accused Ajai Kumar was found in possession of .315 bore country made pistol with two live cartridges and one discharged cartridge and that the accused were deposited in the police station at 1.15 P.M. on the same day. He further deposed that he again came on the spot on 18.5.82 and examined. P.W. Ramhit Singh who was summoned by him and that thereafter he prepared site-plan Ext.Ka-15.

16. PW-6, Dr. G.J. Gupta, is author of postmortem report of the deceased, who proved the postmortem report as Ext.Ka-19 and stated that he prepared this in his hand writing and signature. He in his evidence stated that deceased was around 18 years of age and there was gap of one and half day between death and postmortem. Rigor mortis had passed off from the upper extremities but it was present in small portion of lower extremities. There was onset of marks of decomposition on dead body. He elaborated antemortem injuries and internal examination of dead body. He stated that antemortem injuries found on the dead body were sufficient to cause death. These were caused by some firearm like countrymade pistol or gun. He retrieved the clothes worn on dead body and prepared a bundle and sent the same through police constables, after getting it sealed. In cross-examination, he stated that firearm injuries were caused to deceased from a distance of 5 to 6 inches. Wound of entry was found to be bigger than wound of exit, which was due to reason of decomposition. He also stated that even after death, chemical process continues in digestive system and for that reason, food does not proceed further and gets blocked on same place in the stomach. The deceased might have taken meal one or two hours before the incident.

16. Accused persons in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. stated that the witnesses of fact have stated falsely against them. They are not aware about the time, place, mode and manner of the incident. There was enmity between Shiv Prasad Gupta, a family member of the accused persons and S.I. Ramji Mishra, the Investigating Officer of the case due to reason that said Shiv Prasad Gupta had published an article in his weekly publication "Gantavya Lahar" against said Investigating Officer. The said police officer falsely implicated the accused persons in this case. They were not arrested from the place where shown in the police papers but they were arrested from their home on 16.5.1982 at 8/9:00 AM. Accused Satish Kumar also stated that he was forced to testify against accused Ajai Kumar by police officials and when he declined to oblige them he was falsely implicated in the case.

17. D.W.1, Kali Charan and D.W.-2 S.U. Khan were examined as defence witnesses. D.W.-1, Kali Charan, stated that he was posted as Judicial Assistant in the collectorate. The special report is received from police station at the bungalow of District Magistrate and from there it goes in his office. He received a special report of this case on 22.5.1982, which bears signature of Sri R.C. Dixit. An order to the effect "sent to A.J.A." is appended thereon. He produced file before the court regarding special report and in its column 11, the name of arrested accused namely Ajai Kumar Gupta and Satish Kumar is mentioned. He filed a copy of special report which is marked as Ext.Ka-3. In cross-examination, this witness could not tell as to when this special report was received in the bungalow of District Magistrate.

18. D.W.-2, S.U. Khan stated that on 15/16.6.1982, he was posted as A.S.M. Head Quarter, Banda and stated that he had brought daily train cash book of Railway Station Atarra dated 15/16.5.1982, three tickets for Jhansi were sold from Railway Station Atarra on that date. These tickets were sold after 12:00 hours in the night, which is entered in register dated 16.5.1982. One ticket was valued Rs.12.50/-. He also produced train timing register, which shows that on that date i.e. 16.5.1982, Bundelkhand Express (towards Jhansi) reached at Atarra Station at 1:12 AM and departed at 1:17 AM. Bundelkhand Express reached from Jhansi at 3:23 AM at said station. He was on station duty in the night. He also stated that booking gates closed after arrival of train and no ticket can be sold to passengers after closing of booking window. The passengers get their ticket issued by T.T.E. thereafter. Sometimes passengers take journey certificate from guard after informing him.

19. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that PW-1, Rakesh Kumar Singh, has stated at page No.28 of his evidence that he scribed the written report at police station and he has admitted that prior to writing the report (Ext.Ka-1), he was guided by the Head Muharrir as to how the report should be written. He has also stated that the barat reached at Atarra railway station from Musasi to Atarra by bus and the witness and his companions reached at Atarra station around 10:00 PM. In fact, appellants have been falsely implicated at the instance of PW-5, Ramji Mishra, the Investigating Officer.

20. He further submitted that from statement of PW-1, at page No.28, it appears that the FIR has been lodged at the instruction of police and not in natural manner. The witnesses are not reliable. PW-1 has stated that marriage party left the railway station Atarra by Bundelkhand Express whereas PW-2, Ramhit, has stated that marriage party left from Atarra railway station to Banda by passenger train, which is material contradiction in their mutual statements at certain points. PW-2, has stated at page No.35 in his evidence that he had purchased 15 tickets from Atarra to Jhansi for Bundelkhand Express for Rs.156/-, paid by Raja Singh whereas D.W.-2, the Assistant Station Manager, who is an independent and official witness has stated that in the intervening night of 15/16.5.1982, only three tickets were sold for Railway Station Atarra to Jhansi. D.W.-2 also stated that the value of one ticket is Rs.12.50/-. Thus, total value of 15 tickets accordingly comes to Rs.187.50/- and not Rs.156/-, as told by PW-2. The prosecution evidence is also very much discrepant inasmuch as the key witness Raj Singh, who was host of marriage ceremony of his sister has not been produced in evidence. Even, none of the members of the marriage party (barat) was examined in support of prosecution case. He further submitted that PW-1, has stated that he purchased tickets for themselves from railway station Atarra to railway station Khurhand but this fact has been denied by PW-2 and he has stated that he had not purchased any ticket for himself and his companions. PW-1 has stated in his cross-examination that marriage party came from the village to railway station by bus whereas PW-2 has stated that it came by a tractor from village to railway station. Thus, the prosecution version that witnesses escorted the barat from Atarra railway station to Khurhand is completely absurd and does not appeal to common sense. PW-1 has denied that he had seen the actual incident of firing allegedly made by accused Ajai Kumar Gupta upon deceased and has stated that he had only seen back posture of accused persons while they were fleeing away.

21. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that above discrepancies in the testimony of the witnesses strongly suggests that they had not seen the incident of killing of deceased Avadhesh Singh and they have falsely testified before the Court inasmuch as the appellants had no motive to commit the murder of deceased and they have been falsely implicated at the behest of PW-5, Ramji Mishra, the Investigating Officer of the case. Real facts of the case are that one Shiv Prasad Gupta, Editor of weekly newspaper 'Gantavya Lahar', who was uncle of accused Ajai Kumar Gupta, on 22.9.1981 and 29.9.1981 had published certain news items in said newspaper against PW-5, Ramji Mishra, the Investigating Officer of the case, which was taken by him as defamatory and therefore, he filed a complaint against said Shiv Prasad Gupta on 29.9.1981 and because of this, he was harbouring ill will against Shiv Prasad Gupta and his family members. Appellant Satish had filed an FIR against co-accused Ajai Kumar Gupta under section 324 IPC prior to this incident. Accused Satish Kumar Gupta had stated that Ramji Mishra came to his house and asked Satish to become a witness against Ajai Kumar Gupta and appellant Satish declined the request made by Ramji Mishra to become a witness against Ajai Kumar Gupta and for that reason, he has been falsely implicated in the case.

22. Learned counsels for the appellants lastly submitted that both the appellants had raised plea of juvenility during pendency of present appeal. The plea of Juvenility raised by appellant Satish Kumar Gupta was declined by learned Session Judge, Banda on a reference made by this Court vide his Inquiry Report dated 20.4.2022 but the plea of juvenility raised by appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta was accepted in Juvenile Inquiry Report submitted by learned Session Judge, Banda to the Court on a reference made by this Court in this regard. Therefore, the order in respect of appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta may passed under provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 and not under provisions of Indian Penal Code.

23. Learned counsel for the appellants placed reliance on a judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in State of U.P. and Another vs. Jaggo @ Jagdish and others, AIR 1971 SUPREME COURT 1586, wherein it is held that It is true that all the witnesses of the prosecution need not be called but it is important to notice that the witness whose evidence is essential to the "unfolding of the narrative" should be called. This salutary principle in criminal trials has been stressed by this Court in the case of Habeeb Mohammad vs. The State of Hyderabad, 1954 SCR 475 for eliciting the truth. Hon'ble Apex Court further observed in paragraph No.16 of the judgement as under:-

“16. This Court in Habeeb Mohammad's case, (supra) referred to the observations of Jenkins, C.J. in Ram Ranjan Roy v. Emperor ILR 42 Cal 422 : AIR 1915 Cal 545 that the purpose of a criminal trial is not to support at all costs a theory but to investigate the offence and to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused and the duty of a public prosecutor is to represent the administration of justice so that the testimony of all the available eye-witnesses should be before the Court Lord Roche in Stephen Seneviratne v. The King AIR 1936 PC 289, referred to the observations of Jenkins, C.J. and said that the witnesses essential to the unfolding of the narrative on which the prosecution is based must be called by the prosecution whether the effect of their testimony is for or against the case for the prosecution. That is why this Court in Habeeb Mohammad's case, (supra) said that the absence of an eye witness in the circumstances of the case might affect a fair trial On be half of the appellant it was said that Ramesh Chand was won over and therefore the prosecution could not call Ramesh. The High Court rightly said that the mere presentation of an application to the effect that a witness had been won over was not conclusive of the question that the witness has been won over. In such a case Ramesh could have been produced for cross-examination by the accused. That would have elicited the correct facts. If Ramesh were an eye-witness the accused were entitled to test his evidence particularly when Lalu was alleged to be talking with Ramesh at the time of the occurrence.”

24. Learned counsel for the appellant cited another judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Shahid Khan vs. State of Rajasthan, 2016 0 Supreme (SC) 210, wherein it is held that the delay in recording the statements casts a serious doubt about their being eye-witnesses to the occurrence. It may suggest that the investigating officer was deliberately marking time with a view to decide about the shape to be given to the case and the eye-witnesses to be introduced.

25. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that there are no material discrepancies or infirmity in the evidence of witnesses of fact. Learned trial court has made a thread bear analysis of the evidence on record while passing the impugned judgment, which formed basis of conclusion of guilt of accused appellants. The contradictions pointed out by learned counsel for the appellants are not of material nature, which may have a potential of making the prosecution version suspicious or doubtful. Learned trial court has rightly observed that ticket less travels are not uncommon in this country.

26. In present case, accused Ajai Kumar Gupta had pleaded animosity between PW-5, Ramji Mishra, the Investigating Officer and his uncle Shiv Prasad Gupta, who is a journalist, as a reason to falsely implicate him in the case but he could not bring any fact or circumstance to suggest that PW-5 was having any grudge or indignation against the accused Ajai Kumar Gupta himself. The deceased died on the spot due to gun shot injuries by firearm in the incident, which is proved to have taken place at 4:00 Am on 16.5.1982. The FIR was lodged on the same date at 4:30 AM. The distance of police station from place of occurrence is shown as one kilometer in chik FIR (Ext.Ka-1), thus, the FIR in the case has been lodged at utmost promptitude without any delay, which keeps credence to its version and also gives up any likelihood of embroidery, afterthought or embellishment. Learned counsel for the appellant contended that this version of PW-2 that he had purchased tickets of 15 members of marriage party from Atarra to Jhansi for Rs.156/- which was advanced by Raj Singh to him whereas DW-2, the Releaving Assistant Station Master posted at Atarra Railway Station in the fateful night i.e. 15/16.5.1982 stated that the Bundelkhand Express train reached at Atarra railway station at 1:12 AM and left the station at 1:17 AM by producing the relevant register. He has also stated that in that night only three tickets were sold from Atarra to Jhansi, thus, this version of PW-2 gets falsify that he had purchased 15 tickets and that too it costs for Rs.156/- whereas DW-2 had stated that one ticket costs Rs.12.50/- only. Thus, the value of 15 tickets comes Rs.187.50/-. Here this fact is also noticeable that DW-2 has admitted that sometime the ticket window is closed after arrival of train and passengers purchased the ticket from T.T.E. in the train and after informing the train guard while travelling in train. Here, learned trial court has rightly observed that the question whether the barat party and the persons who were escorted them were bonafide person or not is of little significance in this case and I considered that in prosecution case that the barat party leave the Atarra railway station for that night is not shaken in the lease. Learned trial court has also observed correctly that it is “also borne out from the evidence that DW-2, S.U. Khan that the Bundelkhan via Jhansi left Atarra at 1:17 Am and the other Bundelkhand from Jhansi reach Atarra railway station at 3:23 AM, thus, the case of the prosecution that deceased, PW-1, PW-2, deceased Avadhesh and Shyam Sundar escorted the barat and came back from said Bundelkhand Express and unboarded the train at about 4:00 Am (approximately), finds support from the aforesaid evidence.

27. Learned trial court has rightly observed that the contradiction pointed out in statement of PW-2 that in his earlier statement and under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he had attributed role of referring the deceased by calling his mother's name and before the Court by calling him by his sister's name in role attributed to accused Satish Kumar is not of much significance and the defence has laid undue importance on these factors.

28. So far as the motive is concerned, as the case is based on direct evidence of witnesses of fact and PW-2 has given eye-witness account of sequence of events which led to homicidal death of Avadhesh Singh. Only reason that the prosecution failed to suggest any motive against the accused persons will not defeat the prosecution case. On facts of the case, this is trite law that in case of direct evidence, motive loses its significance to great extent. In fact motive is a mental factor which lies in the mind of assailant/culprit and there is an old adage that even devil cannot read out the mind of a person. In Bible, it is stated that only God knows thou thoughts. It is quite natural that the accused persons could have been harbouring some grudge or indignation against the deceased and driven by that, they engaged in commission of murder of deceased Avadhesh Singh, due to indiscretion in any manner, the reason of false implication at the behest of PW-5, narrated by the accused persons in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., does not hold good on facts of the case. The only reason assigned by accused Satish Kumar for his false implication is that the police wanted to project him as a witness against accused Ajai Kumar and when he refused to oblige them, he was also falsely implicated in this murder case and was arrested from his home in the early hours of 9:00 AM on 16.5.1982.

29. PW-1 has slightly deviated from his earlier statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. while testifying before the Court. In his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded by Investigating Officer, he stated that he witnessed the incident in presence of witnesses Ramhit Singh (PW-2) and Shyam Sundar. He has also stated in his evidence before the court that the contents of Ext.Ka-1 were truly recorded by him but he has stated in his evidence that he had not seen the accused persons firing shot at deceased, but he had seen Ajay and Satish fleeing away from the place of incident and notices their back posture and he had not seen nothing in their hand. This witness was cross-examined by public prosecutor after declaring hostile, in which he stated certain more things which is supportive of prosecution case. He acknowledged entire contents of Ext.Ka-1, the written report which formed basis of lodging of FIR, as its author. He also stated that when Ajay Kumar and Satish Kumar met him, Satish Kumar was having iron rod in his hand. However, he further stated that eye-witness account given by witnesses Shyam Sundar and Ramhit were narrated by him in Ext.Ka-1. He did not see the incident at his own. He also stated that he had stated the true version of the incident to the Investigating Officer. If we go through the entire testimony of PW-1, we find that he is trying to conceal the fact that he had witnessed the incident himself for reasons best known to him or under influence of accused side. This witness has named the accused persons in his written report Ext.Ka1, just after the commission of the offence but in cross-examination by defence, he has wrongly stated that prior to the incident, he had never seen the accused persons and was not acquainted with them. He has also stated that he had seen the accused persons in police lockup on 16.5.1982, at about 11:30 AM and he came to know the name of the accused persons for the first time at police station. He admitted that police proceeded to the place of occurrence just after lodging of the FIR at around 10:00 to 10:30 AM. The witness has stated that he reached at the place of incident after hearing sound of fire from a tea shop and found Avadhesh Singh in dead condition on the bench. Ramhit and Shyam Sundar were standing there. He saw Ajay Kumar and Satish Kumar taking to their heels from 15 to 20 paces. He has also stated that the master of barat had purchased full tickets. This is prosecution case that this witness as well as other witnesses, deceased and accused were present on the tea shop and this witness has also stated that he ran from tea shop to the place of incident after hearing the noise of firearm shot, thus, this version has corroborated the prosecution case that this witness was present on the spot and not only this, he has categorically stated that just after the incident, he found witnesses Ramhit and Shyam Sundar on the spot where Avadhesh was found dead on bench.

30. In FSL Report, human blood was found on shirt, banyan, underwear and pant recovered from the dead body as well as pieces of wood which were taken from the bench, on which dead body was lying after the incident. This scientific evidence corroborates the testimony of witnesses of fact with regard to place of occurrence, which is also proved by statement of PW-5, who prepared and proved the site plan of the place of incident, which is marked as Ext.Ka-15. PW-5 also filed statements of witness Rakesh Kumar and Krishan Pal on record during his testimony before the Court, which are marked as Ext.Ka-17 and 18. Although, these cannot be treated as piece of evidence in view of bar of proviso to Section 162 Cr.P.C. but these statements are permitted to be used by defence to point out contradictions in the statement of the witnesses before the Court.

31. Proviso to Section 162 Cr.P.C. also permits the prosecution to contradict such witness in the manner provided under Section 145 of Indian Evidence Act, 1972. Thus, so far as pointing out contradiction in sworn testimony of a witness from his earlier statement recorded during investigation is concerned the prosecution and defence both are afforded an equal opportunity under proviso to Section 162 Cr.P.C. The only difference is that for pointing out such contradiction in sworn testimony of the witness before the court from his earlier statement, the prosecution will have to seek permission of the court and in present case, the prosecution has pointed out contradiction in the statement of PW-1 before the court from his earlier statement recorded by the Investigating Officer.

32. In view of foregoing discussion and re-appreciation of evidence in the light of contention raised on behalf of the appellants, we are of the considered inference that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt that on 16th of May, 1982, at about 4:00 AM in front of tea shop of Badku, situated nearby gate of Atarra Railway Station, the accused persons knowingly and intentionally committed murder of Avadhesh Singh in furtherance of common intention shared by both of them. The fatal shot was fired by accused Ajai Kumar Gupta on exhortation of accused Satish Kumar Gupta. The single shot fired by accused Ajai Kumar resulted in instantaneous death of deceased Avadhesh Singh. From medical evidence, it is crystal clear that the injuries suffered by the deceased were sufficient to cause death. Thus, on reappraisal of evidence, we find no factual or legal error in appreciation of evidence undertaken by learned trial court by passing the verdict of guilt and awarding sentence permissible under law against the appellants. The appeal so far as conviction of the appellant for charge under Section 34 read with Section 34 IPC is concerned is devoid of merits and deserves to be dismissed. However, at this stage this fact is pertinent to be mentioned that during pendency of appeal before this Court, plea of juvenility was raised by both the appellants and the plea of juvenility raised by appellant Satish Kumar Gupta was rejected by Session Judge, Banda vide order dated 20.4.2022, to which a reference was made by this Court to enquire into plea of juvenility raised by him, but learned Session Judge, Banda, allowed the plea of juvenility raised by Ajai Kumar Gupta before this Court on a reference made by this Court. Both the appellants were released on bail on filing of present appeal. Appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta was held twice as juvenile in conflict of law by Session Judge, Banda on a reference made by this Court, vide Inquiry Report dated 6.9.2012, which was subsequently set aside by order dated 13.7.2023 passed by this Court as a Criminal Revision (Defective) No.68 of 2022 was filed by the complainant against inquiry report dated 6.9.2022, submitted by Session Judge, Banda and on no objection raised by learned counsel for the appellant, on premises that if an opportunity is afforded by the Session Judge, Banda to the complainant and the State to objection with regard to inquiry and determination of juvenility of the accused appellant pursuant to the order dated 6.4.2012 of this Court. Vide order dated 13.7.2023, this Court directed the Session Judge, Banda to proceed to determine the juvenility of the accused appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta and submit his report, with the consent of learned counsel for the parties and on statement of learned counsel for the complainant that he shall withdraw the aforesaid defective revision filed against inquiry report in question dated 6.9.2012. An office report dated 10.10.2023 is appended in ordersheet to the effect that in compliance of Court's order dated 13.7.2023, thus, Additional Session Judge, Banda has submitted a report dated 22.9.2023 (Flag 'Q'), wherein it is said that the appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta was juvenile at the time of incident.

From perusal of second Inquiry Report dated 21.9.2023, Special Judge, POCSO Act/Additional Session Judge, Banda, it appears that the learned Session Judge held the age of the appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta as 15 years and 6 months on the date of incident dated 6.5.1982 and, therefore, the appellant was declared juvenile in conflict of law on the date of incident. In terms of Section 2(l) of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, which was found to be applicable in present case, as date of occurrence in present case is shown as 16.5.1982 and for that reason, learned Session Judge has rightly observed that The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 as effective from 15.1.2016 will not be applicable in present case because the incident took place prior to the enforcement of new Act.

30. Section 2(k) of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 defines "Juvenile" as follows:-

'juvenile' or 'child' means a person who has not completed eighteenth year of age.

31. The definition of "juvenile in conflict of law" under Section 2(l), which stood amended in 2006 is as follows:-

"(l) 'juvenile in conflict with law' means a juvenile who is alleged to have committed an offence and has not completed eighteenth year of age as on the date of commission of such offence."

32. Undoubtedly, the appellant has been assigned main role in the offence as author of the wound of gunshot, which turned fatal to the deceased, yet this is trite law that plea of juvenility can be raised by an accused or convict at any stage of investigation, inquiry, trial or appeal and once he has been held to be juvenile by competent court or Juvenile Justice Board, as the case may be, even after finding of a verdict of guilt against him, the final order will be governed by Section 15 of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, which is a statute in parimateria of Section 18 to present enactment on the subject i.e. The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015.

33. Section 15, 16 and 18 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection) Act, 2000, provides as under:-

"15. Order that may be passed regarding juvenile

(1) Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that a juvenile has committed an offence, then, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Board may, if it so thinks fit-

(a) allow the juvenile to go home after advice or admonition following appropriate inquiry against and counselling to the parent or the guardian and the juvenile;

(b) direct the juvenile to participate in group counselling and similar activities;

(c) order the juvenile to perform community service;

(d) order the parent of the juvenile or the juvenile himself to pay a fine, if he is over fourteen years of age and earns money;

(e) direct the juvenile to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care of any parent, guardian or other fit person, on such parent, guardian or other fit person executing a bond, with or without surety, as the Board may require, for the good behaviour and well-being of the juvenile for any period not exceeding three years;

(f) direct the juvenile to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care of any fit institution for the good behaviour and well-being of the juvenile for any period not exceeding three years;

(g) [make an order directing the juvenile to be sent to a special home for a period of three years:

Provided that the Board may, if it is satisfied that having regard to the nature of the offence and the circumstances of the case, it is expedient so to do, for reasons to be recorded, reduce the period of stay to such period as it thinks fit.

(2) The Board shall obtain the social investigation report on juvenile either through a probation officer or a recognised voluntary organisation or otherwise, and shall take into consideration the findings of such report before passing an order.

(3) Where an order under clause (d), clause (e) or clause (f) of sub-section (1) is made, the Board may, if it is of opinion that in the interests of the juvenile and of the public, it is expedient so to do, in addition make an order that the juvenile in conflict with law shall remain under the supervision of a probation officer named in the order during such period, not exceeding three years as may be specified therein, and may in such supervision order impose such conditions as it deems necessary for the due supervision of the juvenile in conflict with law: Provided that if at any time afterwards it appears to the Board on receiving a report from the probation officer or otherwise, that the juvenile in conflict with law has not been of good behaviour during the period of supervision or that the fit institution under whose care the juvenile was placed is no longer able or willing to ensure the good behaviour and well-being of the juvenile it may, after making such inquiry as it deems fit, order the juvenile in conflict with law to be sent to a special home.

(4) The Board shall while making a supervision order under sub-section (3), explain to the juvenile and the parent, guardian or other fit person or fit institution, as the case may be under whose care the juvenile has been placed, the terms and conditions of the order and shall forthwith furnish one copy of the supervision order to the juvenile, the parent, guardian or other fit person or fit institution, as the case may be, the sureties, if any, and the probation officer.

16. Order that may not be passed against juvenile

(1)Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, no juvenile in conflict with law shall be sentenced to death [or imprisonment for any term which may extend to imprisonment for life] or committed to prison in default of payment of fine or in default of furnishing security:Provided that where a juvenile who has attained the age of sixteen years has committed an offence and the Board is satisfied that the offence committed is so serious in nature or that his conduct and behaviour have been such that it would not be in his interest or in the interest of other juvenile in a special home to send him to such special home and that none of the other measures provided under this Act is suitable or sufficient, the Board may order the juvenile in conflict with law to be kept in such place of safety and in such manner as it thinks fit and shall report the case for the order of the State Government.

(2)On receipt of a report from a Board under sub-section (1), the State Government may make such arrangement in respect of the juvenile as it deems proper and may order such juvenile to be kept under protective custody at such place and on such conditions as it thinks fit:

[Provided that the period of detention so ordered shall not exceed in any case the maximum period provided under section 15 of this Act.]

18. No joint proceeding of juvenile and person not a juvenile-

(1)Notwithstanding anything contained in section 223of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or in any other law for the time being in force, no juvenile shall be charged with or tried for any offence together with a person who is not a juvenile.

(2)If a juvenile is accused of an offence for which under section 223 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force, such juvenile and any person who is not a juvenile would, but for the prohibition contained in sub-section (1), have been charged and tried together; the Board taking cognizance of that offence shall direct separate trials of the juvenile and the other person.

34. Section 16 of the Act strictly prohibits the sentencing a juvenile in conflict in law to death or imprisonment for any term, if may extend in term for life or committed to prison in default of fine or in default of furnishing of security. Section 18 provides that no joint proceeding of juvenile and a non juvenile shall be undertaken. Thus, in present case, although we affirm the verdict of guilt for charge under Section 302 IPC recorded against the appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta by learned trial court yet the sentence passed against him is set aside for reasons stated, as above, as he has been declared juvenile in conflict of law by learned Session Judge on reference made by this Court during penency of this appeal and we direct the appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta, the juvenile in conflict of law, to be enlarged on probation of good conduct under Section 15(1) of the Act, 2000 on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties in the like amount in prescribed form to the satisfaction of concerned Session Court within a period of 10 days from today with undertaking to maintain peace and good behaviour and to abstain from indulging any criminal activity during period of three years' probation bond. It is also directed that Session Court shall forward a copy of this operative order in respect of said juvenile/appellant to District Probation Officer, Banda, under whose supervision and observation the appellant will remain for a period of 3 years, as directed and will apprise the Court concerned regarding conduct and behaviour of the juvenile, if found contrary to the conditions of the probation bond.

35. Accordingly, Criminal Appeal No.705 of 1983, stands dismissed and the conviction and sentence passed against the appellant Satish Kumar Gupta in impugned judgement is hereby affirmed and the Criminal Appeal No.573 of 1983 stands partly allowed in respect of sentence awarded to appellant Ajai Kumar Gupta as directed above. He need not surrender.

36. Appellant Satish Kumar Gupta has been enlarged on bail by orders of this Court passed in present criminal appeal. Therefore, he is directed to immediately surrender before the Court of Sessions Judge, Banda to undergo the sentence awarded in impugned judgement dated 4.3.1984. In case of failure of the appellant to surrender before the trial court concerned, the trial court shall compel the appearance of the appellant by issuing appropriate coercive process against him and on being apprehended/appearance before the court as the case may be, he will be sent to jail for undergoing the sentence of life imprisonment as awarded in impugned judgement.

37. Let lower court record be sent back to court concerned within a period of two weeks from today alongwith certified copy of this order for information/necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 680 of 2001

Dhaunkal & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
 Sri Arvind Agarwal, Sri Rajrshi Gupta

Counsel for the Respondent:
 Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 302, 304(1), 147, 148 & 149 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 161, 313 & 374 – Criminal Appeal Against Conviction and Sentence – Murder – Unlawful Assembly – Dying Declarations – Eye-Witness Testimony – Motive – Medical Evidence – Alteration of Conviction

The appellants, Dhaunkal, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra, Ram Swaroop, and Buddhu, challenged the judgment dated 22.02.2001 by the VIth Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur, in S.T. No. 405 of 1996, convicting them for the murder of Raju alias Kamta Prasad on 10.09.1995 at Rampatiya Ka Purwa, Fatehpur. Buddhu was convicted under Section 302 IPC simplicitor and Section 148 IPC, sentenced to life imprisonment and one year rigorous imprisonment, respectively. The other appellants were convicted under Sections 302/149 and 148 IPC, sentenced to life imprisonment and one year rigorous imprisonment, respectively, with sentences to run concurrently. The incident stemmed from enmity over a prior criminal case, where the deceased, while weeding in his chili field, was shot by Buddhu (and allegedly Ram Swaroop) following Bhaiya Lal's exhortation, causing fatal injuries. The FIR was lodged by the deceased in an injured condition at 6:30 PM on 10.09.1995, supported by his dying declarations (under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and by Naib Tehsildar), eye-witness PW-1 (Smt. Mantoriya, deceased's mother), and medical evidence (Ext. Ka-2, Ka-3). The appellants claimed false implication due to village rivalry and the deceased's alleged criminal ties. Held: (1) The appeal was partly allowed; Buddhu's conviction under Section 302 IPC was altered to Section 304(1) IPC, sentencing him to 10 years rigorous imprisonment and Rs. 10,000 fine (8 months additional imprisonment in default); convictions of Dhaunkal, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra, and Ram Swaroop under Section 302/149 IPC were altered to Section 304(1)/149 IPC, sentencing them to 7 years rigorous imprisonment and Rs. 7,000 fine each (6 months additional imprisonment in default); Section 148 IPC convictions were affirmed; all sentences to run concurrently with set-off for custody undergone. (2) The court found the prosecution case proved beyond reasonable doubt through the deceased's three dying declarations (FIR, Section 161 Cr.P.C. St.ment, and magisterial declaration), PW-1's eye-witness testimony, and medical evidence, despite minor discrepancies (e.g., role of Ram Swaroop, timing of incident); the cause of death was toxemia and septicemia due to firearm injuries to non-vital parts (waist, knee), indicating no intention to cause death but intent to cause bodily injury likely to cause death, warranting alteration to Section 304(1) IPC, per Sucha Singh Vs St. of Punj., AIR 2003 SC 3617. (3) The presence of all appellants at the scene was established, and their vicarious liability under Section 149 IPC was upheld, as no specific overt act is required, per Masalti Vs St. of U.P., (1964) 8 SCR 133, and Parshuram Vs St. of M.P., (2023) SCC OnLine SC 1416. (4) Defence claims of false implication due to village rivalry or the deceased's criminal ties were unsupported; minor inconsistencies did not discredit the prosecution case, and the maxim falsus in uno falsus in omnibus does not apply in India. (5) The dying declarations were reliable, with the deceased in a fit mental St., supported by medical certification and PW-1's testimony, per Laxman Vs St. of Maharashtra, (2002) 6 SCC 710. Appellants on bail were directed to surrender to serve the modified sentence, with coercive measures for non-compliance.

1. The instant Criminal Appeal has been preferred by the convict /appellants against the judgment and order dated 22.02.2021 passed by learned VIth Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur in Case No.405 of 1996, whereby the appellants are convicted for charge under Section 302 IPC read with section 149 IPC and sentenced to imprisonment for life for the said charge. The appellants Dhaukal, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ram Swaroop are convicted for charge under Section 302 IPC read with Section 149 IPC and sentenced to life imprisonment, and they are also convicted for charge under Section 148 IPC, sentenced to one year rigorous imprisonment for said charge. The appellant Buddhhu is convicted for charge under Section 302 IPC and sentenced to imprisonment for life. He has also been convicted for charge under Section 148 IPC and sentenced to one year rigorous imprisonment for said charge. All the sentences are directed to run concurrently.

2. The factual matrix of the case in brief as discerned from the material on record is that FIR in the case was lodged on the basis of written report Ext. Ka-1 of deceased Raju alias Kamta in injured condition which was scribed by one Dharamveer Singh, at Police Station Kishanpur, District Fatehpur on 10.09.1995 at 6:30 PM, wherein he stated that he is a resident of village Rampatiya Ka Purwa, H/o Dariyapur, Police Station Kishanpur, District Fatehpur. His co-villager Dhaukal son of Jodhi had got a criminal case registered against him and his father in which he was bailed out. In view of this enmity the accused, co-villagers Buddhhu and Dhaukal sons of Jodhi, Bhaiya Lal son of Ramdev, Rajendra son of Rambhawan and one Ram Swaroop son of Badal, R/o Gokulpur H/o Dariyapur, P.S. Kishanpur, came to him at his agricultural field lying in his village Rampatiya Ka Purwa, where he was weeding, his mother Mantoriya and one Hiruwa son of Kichdu were ploughing the field, as soon as he said to take meal, these persons came near him, and on being given a call by Bhaiya Lal to kill, him come whatever may, he would spend whatever money required, accused Buddhhu, fired two shots from his fire arm at him which hit him on his right waist and knee of left leg, he fell down on the spot, the miscreants fled away after the incident. The incident was seen by mother of the injured and witness Hiruwa. As condition of the injured deteriorated, his dying declaration was recorded by Naib Tehsildar (Executive Magistrate) on 11.09.1995 at around 7:45 AM at District Hospital, Fatehpur, wherein he substantially reiterated his version in FIR with variation that in dying declaration he stated that first fire was shot at him by Buddhhu, which hit him and thereafter Ramswaroop fired a shot at him by his gun and he fell down. He also stated the accused persons were on inimical terms with him and a scuffle (marpeet) occurred prior to ten days, in which he was sent to jail. The investigation of the case was entrusted to Sub Inspector Kamla Singh, who collected relevant papers including copy of FIR, got the inquest and postmortem examination on dead body of the deceased Rajesh who died during treatment on 17.09.1995 at 04:00 PM at District Hospital, Fatehpur. In postmortem examination report Ext. Ka-3, the cause of death has been shown as Toxemia and Septicemia as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The postmortem was conducted on 19.09.1995 at 04:30 PM and inquest was conducted on 19.09.1995 at 10:00 AM. The Investigating Officer carried out local inspection of the place of incident and prepared a site plan, which is marked as Ext. Ka-4. The medico legal examination of the deceased was conducted in injured condition at C.S.C. Khaga, which is marked as Ext.Ka-2. He was admitted in District Hospital, Fatehpur for his medico legal examination, where he died during treatment. The FIR was initially registered vide Crime No.136 of 1995, under Sections 147, 148,149, 307 IPC at Police Station Kishanpur, District Fatehpur and same was altered into Section 302, 147, 148,149 IPC vide GD Report No.11, time 08:00 hours dated 21.09.1995 on receiving death memo of injured Raju alias Kamta from hospital.

3. The Investigating Officer, received report of Serologist regarding blood stained clothes of the deceased, which is marked as Ext. Ka-17. The Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet against accused persons on finding their complicity in the offence marked, which is marked as Ext. Ka-5. The learned Civil Judge (Judicial Magistrate, Kharga) District Fatehpur took cognizance of the offence and committed the case to the court of session vide order dated 21.10.1996, where it was registered as ST No.405 of 1996, and was transferred to the Court of VIth the Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur. The learned trial judge, framed charge under Section 147, 148,302/149 IPC against all the accused persons and charge under Section 302 IPC against accused Buddhu simplicitor on 20.02.1997 on commencement of trial.

4. The prosecution examined PW1, Matoriya wife of Shivmohan, father of the deceased, PW3 Dharamveer Singh scribe of written report Ka-1, PW4 Dr. K.N. Pandey, the author of injury report of deceased Raju @ Kamta Prasad during his life time, PW5 Dr. Anil Kumar Shukla, author of postmortem examination report of the deceased, PW6 Sub Inspector Kamla Singh the initial investigating officer of the case, PW7 Sub Inspector Rambahadur Verma, who carried out final investigation in the case, PW8 Gyan Prakash Srivastava, the then Naib Tehsildar/ Executive Magistrate who recorded dying declaration of the deceased. The trial court recorded statements of accused persons under Section 301 Cr.P.C., in which they admitted that they belong to same progeny (khandan) and are resident of same village, except accused Ramswaroop. Accused persons barring Ramswaroop are of same Khandan of which deceased belonged. They also admitted that some scuffle (marpeeth) took place on some date prior to the incident between informant (deceased) and his father and accused persons had lodged a report against deceased and his father regarding said prior incident of marpeeth. However, they denied the incident alleged in the present case and stated that informant/deceased had lodged wrong report against them, they are not aware of the contents of documents proved during trial. Naib Tehsildar, Gyan Prakash Srivastava, had given wrong statement with regard to dying declaration of the deceased. The Investigating Officer had carried out wrong investigation and submitted wrong chargesheet against them. They are falsely implicated in the case due to village Partibandi. Accused persons examined DW1 Sukul Prasad, DW2 Shiv Poojan, DW3 Om Bihari Shukla, DW4 Hiralal alias Hiru as witnesses of defence. They also filed a copy of chargesheet filed against deceased Raju alias Kamra under Section 25 of Arms act, in Case Crime No.168 of 1990, P.S. Kishanpur, District Fatehpur dated 16.09.1990.

5. Learned trial judge after considering the submissions made by prosecution and defence and appreciating the evidence on record concluded trial regarding conviction and sentences against accused persons as aforesaid. The convict accused persons preferred present Criminal Appeal under Section 374 Cr.P.C. feeling aggrieved by impugned judgment and order.

6. We have heard submissions of Sri Arvind Agarwak and Sri Rajrshi Gupta, learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of the State-respondent and perused the material on record including impugned judgment.

7. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the conviction and sentence recorded against the appellants is against weight of evidence appearing on record. No offence is proved against the appellants on the basis of evidence adduced by prosecution, sentence is also severe. The appellants were enlarged on bail in present appeal vide order dated 16.12.2002 passed by this Court, the appeal is pending since year 2001. He further submitted that :

(i) FIR in the case was lodged anti-time, the distance of alleged place of incident to the police station is mentioned as 18 km in the FIR; the first Informant who was injured and admittedly received two gun shot wounds on body parts claims to have walked around to the Police Station which is highly unbelievable. The scribe of FIR as stated in his testimony that he found the injured alongwith his mother wondering about and he had written down the written report at Police Station, Vijaypur Chauki. This facts creates a serious shadow of doubt in the prosecution story, inasmuch as it is difficult to believe that the injured/ first informant having sustained gunshot wounds due village out post and police personnel present there could not make any effort to render medical assistance to him first of all. The said police out post was not situated on way to police station from the place of incident, and there was no occasion on the part of the informant/injured to visit the said police out post for lodging the FIR. The time of incident is shown as 1:30 PM, FIR was lodged at 10:30 hours and medical examination of the injured was conducted on same day at 08:30 PM at CSC, Kharga, which is around 60 kms away from police station Kushangarh. This is inconceivable that in the state of suffering two fire arm injury, the deceased traveled the distance of 18 kms for getting him medically examined.

(ii) There are three dying declarations in the present case, first being the FIR itself which is lodged by the deceased while in injured condition; second being the statement of deceased recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. after lodging of FIR, and third the dying declaration dated 11.09.1995 recorded by Naib Tehsildar, Sadar Tehsil, Fatehpur which is marked as Ext. Ka-14, and the alleged dying declaration are in variants with each other with regard to manner and the mode of incident as well as timing and other dates. In FIR the injured has stated that incident took place at 10:30 pm, whereas in his dying declaration he has stated that incident occurred around 10-11 am, moreover, there is variation with regard to manner of assault, author of the injuries as stated in FIR and dying declaration, whereas both are recorded at the instance of the deceased while in injured condition. In FIR both fire arms injuries are attributed to accused Buddhu on extortion of Bhaiyalal, whereas in dying declaration Ext. Ka 14 one shot is attributed Buddhu and the other to accused Ramswaroop.

(iii) The Doctor who has allegedly given certificate of fitness, but margin of dying declaration Ext. Ka-14 was not examined as witness during trial and the certificate of fitness has been appended after recording of dying declaration, there is no certificate of doctor prior to recording of dying declaration regarding fitness of the deponent. The dying declaration is shrouded in suspicion and is not reliable.

(iv) PW1 is highly interested and partisan witness who has given contradictory statements about the time of the incident as well as the manner of assault, her statement is full of inconsistency and does not inspire confidence. The independent witness Heera Lal @ Hiru whose name has been surfaced in FIR has not been examined as prosecution witness and even he was discharged, as prosecution witness at the instance of PW1 to avoid his testimony before the court, and he was subsequently produced as a defence witness (DW4) who has not supported the prosecution version.

(v) There is considerable delay of 14 days in recording statement of PW1

Smt. Mantoriya, the mother of the deceased, which is fitted to prosecution story.

(vi) Motive, introduced by PW2- Shiv Mohan the father of the deceased has not been proved.

(vii) Unlawful Assemble has not been proved by the prosecution has no overt act has been attributed to most of the accused persons. Genesis of the incident is suspected in FIR and prosecution evidence. No weapon of any incriminating article has been affected to any of the accused persons. Even, if this Court comes to the conclusion that death of the deceased Raju was caused by accused appellants, the case does not travel beyond Section 304 (2) IPC due to lack of intention to cause death of the deceased on the part of accused-appellants.

With the above submissions learned counsel for the appellants prayed for acquittal of accused appellants.

8. Per contra, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State-respondent submitted that there is no discrepancy or infirmity in the impugned judgment of learned trial court, whereby the appellants are convicted for charge under Section 302/149 IPC and Section 148 IPC in accordance with law.

9. He further submitted that the strength of the prosecution case lies in the fact that FIR in the case was lodged at the instance of deceased himself, while in injured condition and from police papers also it is established that he appeared on the police station to lodge the FIR by producing police report Ext. Ka.1 scribed by one Dharamveer Singh, his dying declaration is also recorded in formal manner by Executive Magistrate and same has been proved by Executive Magistrate during trial. PW1, is mother of the deceased, who has given an eyewitness account of the incident and there is no reason to disbelieve her testimony. PW2, who is father of the deceased who is not an eye witness, but has proved motive attributed to accused persons for commission of crime. The accused appellants are convicted and sentence by trial court in proper and legal manner. The appeal is devoid of force and deserved to be dismissed.

10. The postmortem examination report, Raju alias Kamta Prasad was prepared on 10.09.1995 at 08:30 PM by PW4 Dr. K.N Pandey at CSC Khaga, who has proved this document as Ext. Ka-2 during his evidence before the Court at PW4. According to injury report of Raju alias Kamta Prasad following ante-mortem injuries were found on the persons of the deceased:-

i. Fire arm wound of entry 1cm x 1 cm right side of back, 7 cm above from hip bone, pellets felt on the left side of lower abdomen under skin 9 cm away from umbilicus. No blackening, no tattooing, fresh bleeding is present.

ii. Multiple fire arm wound in the are of 22 cm x 12 cm on the back side of lower part of left thigh, left knee, joint and upper part o left leg. No exit wound, blackening or tattooing is present.

11. In the opinion of doctors and the injuries kept under observation advice xray referred to District Hospital, Fatehpur. Both the injuries were caused by fire arm, injury No.1 would have been caused from far distance from right side of entry No.2 which was caused from close distance from back side. This injury report was prepared at the instance of police station through Chitthi Majrubi of P.S. concerned.

12. PW4, Dr. K.N. Pandey has sated in his evidence that injury No.1 could be fatal. In cross examination, he stated that xray report of this injury was not brought before him, he has not sent any supplementary report. Injury No.1 was fresh, injury No.2 was also fresh; by the word 'fresh' means within six hours with three hours margin on both sides. He has not written the duration of injuries in his injury report Ext. Ka-2. Injury No.2 was found in leg in the area 12 cm width, this injury was caused by firing from back side on leg, but he could not tell whether the fire was shot from front or back.

13. The postmortem examination report of deceased Raju alias Kamta was prepared by PW5. Dr. Anil Kumar Shukla, who has proved this document as Ext. Ka-3 by his evidence before the Court. The postmortem report of deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad, reveals that his postmortem examination was conducted on 19.09.1995 at 4:30 PM at District Hospital, Fatehpur. At the time of postmortem following ante-mortem injuries were found on his person:-

i. Stitched wound right side 18 cm long on abdomen, just right to umbilicus, 15 stitches given on vertically place wound.

ii. Stitched would 3 cm horizontally on right side back of abdomen 4 cm above left crest 3 stitches given.

iii. Stitched would with drain of rubber on left side of abdomen 3 cm long 3 stitches given.

14. Initial examination- No abnormality detected in neck, scalp, membranes, brain, skull, vertebra, spinal cord was not opened, no abnormality detected in walls of ribs and cartilage, pleura, trachea, longs, pericardia, both chambers of heart were empty in abdominal cavity 200 ml puss was present, stomach was empty, his small intestine was empty and only gases were present. Multiple repairs were done at different places by calgut, faeces and gas were present in long intestine. In the the opinion of doctor, the cause of death was due to Toxemia and Septicemia, as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The one unwrapped bandage with lucoplast and rubberbands were recovered from dead body and entrusted to police constables who had brought dead body for postmortem. These exhibits were sent to FSL, Mahanagar, Lucknow for scientific examination, in FSL report dated 05.12.1995, human blood was found in large parts of these articles.

15. First Information Report was lodged by the deceased himself in injured condition. The FIR is proved by evidence of its scribe. PW3 Dharamveer Singh, due to death of the author of Ext. Ka-1 deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad. PW3 has stated in his evidence that about two years ago Raju alias Kamta Prasad met him in injured condition. He got the written report scribed by him, he wrote down the written report as dictated by injured Raju alias Kamta and readover the same to him, after writing this paper, he signed the written report as scribed and got thumb impression of informant Raju alias Kamta Prasad, on this report which is paper No.3A/2 on record, the documents is marked as Ext. Ka1. The witnesses stated that after signing this paper he handed over the same to the informant Raju alias Kamta Prasad. Investigating Officer had interrogated him about this paper. In cross examination this witness has stated that he had visited village Rampatiya Ka Purwa, and village Dariyapur prior to the incident, these villages are situated within ½ km of distance. He drives the tempo from his village Shivpuri to Khaga on the fateful day he was going to his village from Khaga; injured Raju and his mother met him on his way at around 3:00 pm. He scribed the report at police out post Vijaipur in the name of Raju alias Kamta Prasad.

16. PW1 Smt. Mantoriya, has been examined as eye witness of the incident, she is mother of the deceased. She identified the accused persons Buddhu, Dhaukal, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ram Swaroop before this court and stated that Ramswaroop is resident of village Gokulpur, and a relative of accused Bhaiyalal. Dhaukal and Buddhu are real brothers, Rajendra is nephew of Dhaukal and the accused persons are related to each other.

(i) She further stated in her evidence that the incident occurred two years ago, on the date of incident her son was weeding in his chili field, she had brought his meal in the field at 01:30 pm, suddenly her co-villagers Dhaukal, Bhaiya Lal, Bhuddhu, Rajendra and Ramswaroop appeared, who were armed with lathi, gun and Tamancha (country made pistol). Her son Raju alias Kamta was sitting to take meal, Bhaiya Lal exhorted and called other accused persons to kill him, he will spend whatever money would be required, whereupon Buddhu opened two fired by his gun, the shot fired by Buddhu hit Raju alias Kamata on his right waist and left knee. The incident was seen by Hiruwa who was ploughing his field in the vicinity, she raised an alarm and challenged the accused persons who fled away. Her son went to police station for lodging FIR in injured condition; he was sent to hospital and thereafter to Fatehpur for treatment. Her son Raju alias Kamta Prasad died in District Hospital, Fatehpur due to injuries suffered in the incident, her son had produced written report at police station, he had studied up to class 8th, he got the report prepared at police station. Accused Dhaukal and others had got a case registered against her son and husband in collusion with police, in which her husband and son (decease) were challaned. They were implicated in a case of marpeeth (thrashing) and her sons and husband were released on bail in that case. The accused persons assaulted her son due to this enmity and he died due to injuries suffered in the incident. The Darogaji (Investigating Officer) met and interrogated her.

17. PW2 Shiv Mohan, who is father of the deceased is not an eye witness of the incident; he stated in his evidence that the incident occurred one month prior to two years of his statement before the Court, his son Raju alias Kamta Prasad was shot in the incident. He had gone to visit some relative on that day, where he got the information that accused persons present in the court named as Bhaiya Lal, Dhaukal, Buddhu, Rajendra and Ramswaroop had got his son injured by firing shots due to enmity. He came to hospital at Fatehpur on getting information, his son died in the hospital after 8-9 days of the incident due to injuries suffered in the incident. The scuffle (marpeet) had taken place some days ago between his son Raju alias Kamta Prasad and accused persons, and a case is still proceeding in regard to that incident. The accused Dhaukal and others had got him and his son Raju alias Kamta challaned on the basis of false report, the deceased and the witness were sent to jail in that case and were later released on bail. The accused persons had shot his son Raju alias Kamta Prasad due to enmity. Darogaji visited the village and took him and his wife at the spot of incident and interrogated. He received information of this incident at village Tulsiput and reached at the hospital on the next day.

18. PW3 Dharamveer Singh, has stated that he found Raju alias Kamta Prasad, resident of Rampatiya Ka Purwa in injured condition. He got the written report prepared by him by dictating its contents, he wrote down whatever he dictated, he read-over the written report after scribing this to the informant and got his signature appended on that, on which Ext. Ka-1 is marked. He handed over the report to Raju after scribing this. Darogaji had interrogated him. In cross examination this witness has stated he was returning to his village from Khaga, the injured Raju alias Kamta Prasad and his mother met him at around 03:00 PM, he wrote down written statement at O.P. Vijaipur. In cross examination the witness denied suggestion that he scribed the false report at the behest of Athar.

19. PW4 Doctor K.N. Pandey is author of the postmortem report of the deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad and has proved the postmortem.

20. PW6, SI Kamla Singh, who is first investigating officer of the case has testified that on 10.09.1995 he was posted as Sub Inspector at Police Station Kishanpur (District Fatehpur). The investigation of the case was entrusted to him on that day, the witness prescribed the steps taken by him in investigation of the case, he stated that he recorded statement of the victim/injured after much efforts. The case was registered in its presence and he had also signed the chick FIR. He conducted raids to apprehend the accused persons, but during the period in which investigation was interested to him they could not be arrested. The investigation was later on resumed by Station House Officer himself. In cross examination the witness stated that injured visited the police station for lodging the FIR, he asked him about eye witnesses of the incident, whereupon he told name of his mother and one Hirwa of his village. He stated to him that these persons had not come to police station, the condition of the injured was very serious, when he visited the police station and for that reason he immediately sent him to hospital for treatment. He did not tried to record his dying declaration at that time, but he recorded his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Chitthi Majrubi was not bearing his signature, as it was left due to inadvertence, Ext. Ka-2 is signed by constable Manoj, when the patient was sent to hospital he did not tried to put his clothes off and take the same in his custody. He visited the place of incident on the date of incident, but had not carried out local inspection, as it was night and none was present in the house of the informant. He did not record statement of eye witness Hirwa, he had not met him on that time. The witness verified the statement of deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad recorded by him under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in his cross-examination, wherein he stated that on 10.09.1995 he was weeding in his field, his mother Smt. Mantoriya had got meal for her. Witness Hirwa was ploughing the field in the vicinity. The accused persons Dhaukal, Buddhu, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ramswaroop appeared there in a planned manner and while coming near him Bhaiya Lal and Ramswaroop exhorted to kill, whereupon Buddhu opened fire on him in indiscriminate manner which hit him on right side of waist, lower back and back side of left knee. He visited the spot on the date of incident, as he was lone officer at police station at that time.

21. PW7 SI Ram Bahddur Verma has testified the course of investigation conducted by him as second investigation, who was posted as Station House Officer at P.S concerned. He stated that after preliminary, he recorded statement of witnesses Hira @ Hiruwa and conducted spot inspection and prepared the site plan, which is exhibited as Ext. Ka-4. He also recorded statement of witnesses Chedi and Jagdish proceeded to trace the accused persons. On 13.09.1995 he came to know that accused Ramswaroop, Bhaiya Lal and Rajendra had surrender in the Court on 17.09.1995. He copied dying declaration of Raju alias Kamta Prasad in case diary and later on he went in search of Dhaukal and Buddhu, but could not find them. On 17.09.1995 he received information of surrender of accused Dhaukal in the Court. On 20.09.1995 he again tried to trace out the accused Buddhu and gave report for issuing process under Section 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. against him in the Court. On 21.09.1995 vide GD Report No.11 time 08:00 hours the case was converted from section 307 IPC to Section 302 IPC on account of death of the injured Raju. On 24.09.1995 he recorded statement of Smt. Mantoriya, mother of the deceased and Shiv Mohan, father of the deceased. On 27.09.1995 he recorded statements of the accused persons barring respondent No.2 Buddhu in jail after taking permission of the Court. On 11.10.1995 he received information regarding surrender of accused Buddhu in the court and thereafter he recorded his statement after taking permission of the court. On 18.09.1995 he recorded statements of the witnesses of inquest, on 20.10.1995 he sent the exhibits for scientific examination at FSL. He also recorded the statement of scribe of the written report namely Dharamveer Singh; after concluding the investigation and finding sufficient evidence against accused persons Dhaukal and others and submitted chargesheet before the court against them under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC. The witness proved the chargesheet as Ext. Ka-5 by the evidence. He also proved Chik FIR as Ext. Ka-6, entries of registration of case vide GD Report No.22, time 18:20 hours dated 10.09.1995 in absence of its author head Moharir Yashwant Singh, as Ext. Ka-7. He also proved modified GD Report dated 21.09.1995 Report No.11 time 08:00 hours by which case was converted into Section 302 IPC, in absence of its author Constable Manoj Kumar who was posted with him and the witness was acquainted with his writing and signature. The modified GD report is exhibited as Ext. Ka-8. The witness also proved the inquest report and papers relating to postmortem of the deceased like Photo Nash, Chalan Nash, letter CMO, letter RI and these papers were exhibited as Ka-9 to 13. The witness also stated that the report of FSL is placed on record.

22. In cross examination, the witness stated that at the time of registration of the case, he was on duty outside the police station, but was not on leave. He came back to police station on 10.01.1995 at 19:45 hours, he received investigation of the case from previous Investigating Officer on 12.01.1995. He tried to record statement of one of the accused Mantoriya in the village, but did not visit the hospital for recording her statement. He could not obtain the clothes worn by the deceased due to his death during treatment. He recorded statement of Mantoriya on 24.09.1995, the incident occurred within jurisdiction of O.P. Vijaipur which was lying within police station headed by him. The place of incident is dacoity infested area. At the time of incident the Gang was operated by one Athar Nian who was resident of village Rahmatpur, situated in the vicinity of police station. During investigation he did not get any information that deceased belonged to a gang of Atharmia, this fact is not stated in site plan that place of incident was 400-500 paces away from the village. The place of incident was an empty agricultural field, in which standing tree of Neem situated. This field belonged to Raju alias Kamta, the injured who later died, he has not shown in the site plan that Chili was planted in the field where incident occurred. He has also not shown the place of weeding (Nirai). He conducted spot inspection on the pointing out of eye witness Hiru alias Hirawa. The witness denied defence suggestion that investigation was carried out in the case was shoddy and was conducted under influence of the injured. The witness proved site plan of the place of occurrence, as Ext. Ka-4 being preferred by him.

23. PW8 Sri Gyan Prakash Srivastava, the then Naib Tehsildar Sadar, District Fatehpur has testified that on 11.09.1995 he visited District Hospital Fatehpur on orders of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Fatehpur where injured Raju alias Kamta prasad son of Shiv Mohan, resident of Rampatiya Ka Purwa, H/o Barar, Police Station Kishunpur, District Fatehpur admitted in emergency ward No.24, after general examination by doctor recorded his dying declaration, which is placed on record. He questioned him, as to what happened to him and why, they he replied on 10.09.1995 at around 10 to 11 hours in a day he was weeding in his chilli field; in the meanwhile his mother brought meal from home and he started eating this, suddenly Buddha, Dhaukal, Ramswaroop, Bhaiya Lal and Rajendra reached there and Buddha fired a shot at him which hit him, Ramswaroop also fired a shot which hit him and he fell down, thereafter they fled away. He asked from the injured about enmity with the accused persons to which he replied that all of them were inimical terms with him, the marpeet occurred 10-12 days ago in which was sent to jail. He recorded the statement of the injured and read-over to him on which he affixed his thumb impression, which is attested by him. The doctor has endorsed the fact of fitness of patient after deposition. PW8 also stated that he prepared dying declaration of the deceased in his handwriting, on which Ext. Ka-14 is being marked. In cross-examination the witness stated that no written order of SDM Sadar addressed to him for recording dying declaration, which is placed on record. The order of SDM would be of information sent by hospital to P.S. Kotwali, he did not perused the bed head ticket of the patient, as he did not find its necessity.

24. The accused persons stated in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that witness has denied and testified against them falsely, they had lodged a two reports against deceased and his father, in which they were challaned, but for that count they had not borne any grudge against the deceased, and the allegations made against them with regard to cause of death of deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad is false. They were not aware of the evidence of the prosecution papers. The Naib Tehsildar has given false information with regard to the dying declaration of the deceased, the case was falsely registered against them, as deceased was connected with a local gangster Athar, he would have been killed by some other persons. The deceased was the man of criminal antecedents and was held in jail custody also, he falsely implicated the accused Buddhu due to enmity. The accused Ramswaroop stated that there were party bandi in village due to Gram Pradhan election, he was falsely implicated in the case due to village party bandi. Same statement was made by accused Bhaiya Lal.

25. DW1 Shukru Prasad, stated in his evidence that Gram Sabha Barar consists of 8 Purwa including Rampatiya Ka Purwa, he is resident of Roshanpur Purwa. Village Rampatiya Ka Purwa is situated towards north of his purwa. He is acquainted of deceased, his father Shiv Mohan and his family members. The deceased and his brothers, were four siblings. He was residing in Rampatiya Ka Purwa and his brothers are residing in village Simri Khei, he used to wander here and there and had thrown out his wife, he was also an accused in murder case which occurred in another village, he was also arrested alongwith fire arm. He was the member of the gang of Athar Mian, he came to know the fact Raju alias Kamta was shot by fire arm 4-5 days after this incident. The chilli field of Raju alias Kamta was lying north towards of the field of Shivdarshan.

26. DW2 Shiv Poojan testified that he resides in village Gokulpur, which is also included in Gram Sabaha, which is also included in Gram Sabha Barar and consists of 8 villages. The accused Ramswaroop is his brother and his wife Mithilesh is Gram Pradhan. The deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad was challaned on the charge of possessing Fire Arms 8 years ago, in which he was also a witness. Deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad had threatened him and warned him to stay away to depose against him. Accused Bhaiya Lal is a relative of Raju alias Kamta Prasad was also exerting pressure on him also to refrain from deposing against him.

27. DW3 Awadh Bihari Shukla, was Lekhpal consolidation who stated in his evidence that he was posted as consolidation Lekhpal of village Barar since 12.01.1996 and used to visit different purwas of Gram Sabha Barar in connection with his official duties. He produced village original map of Mauza Barar, which is proved by his evidence and marked as Ext. Kha-2. He also produced Gunia, on which ME-1 was marked. He inspected site plan Ext. Ka-1 during his evidence and stated that in this site plan plot number or chak number is not mentioned.

28. DW4 Hira Lal alias Hiru is shown as witness in FIR, his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was also recorded by Investigating Officer, in which he supported the prosecution version. However, he was discharged from evidence at the instance of informant on application of the informant, in which he stated that he had been warned her by the accused persons. He deposed as DW4, that his village is situated in Gram Panchayat Barar. He had gone at the field of Raju alias Kamta Prasad at around 12 to 01 hours of the day at the place of incident to quench his thirst, he saw Raju alias Kamta in the shadow of Neem tree in the field, his parents and younger brother were also present there, his mother was weeping and crying that someone assault him. The witness clarified that he neither saw the assailants nor the mother of injured told him the name of assailants. He had taken some agricultural field on batai there. The Investigating Officer had called him after one day of the incident, but he did not point out the place where Raju alias Kamta Prasad was lying. Accused are resident of village Rampatiya Ka Purwa, it is wrong to say that he had stated the true facts to Investigating Officer.

29. Learned counsel for the appellants placed reliance on following judgments of Apex Court in support of defence case:-

(1) Mohd. Muslim Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh 2023 Live Law (SC) 489.

(2) Irfan @ Naka Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh 2023 Live Law (SC) 698

(3) Shanid Khan Vs. State of Rajasthan 2016 (4) SC 96.

(4) Jafarudheen and others Vs. State of Kerala 2022 (8) SCC 440

(5) Harbeer Singh Vs. Sheshpal and Ors. 2016 (16) SCC 418

The relevant paragraphs of these judgments which are pertinent to this Criminal Appeal are being cited as follows:-

(i) In Mohd. Muslim Vs. State of U.P. (now) Uttarakhand (supra) where there was interpolation in the FIR which suggested that it was anti dated time, the chick FIR was sent to court with a delay of four days, the blanket and cycle alleged to be that of the accused appellant left behind and the site of the incident does not produced before the court; considerable delay in conducting the postmortem of the dead body and difference in name of the weapons of weapon of crime in statement of witnesses and the unnatural behaviour and the conduct of the son and nephew of the deceased reflected that prosecution has merely failed to prove that accused/appellant has committed the offence beyond reasonable doubt.

(ii) In Irfan @ Naka Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh the Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding the appeal under Sections 302, 436 and 326-A IPC delve into the scope and evidential value of dying declaration, in that case there were two dying declaration observed as under :

.....43. The juristic theory regarding the acceptability of a dying declaration is that such declaration is made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to falsehood is silenced, and the man is induced by the most powerful consideration to speak only the truth. Notwithstanding the same, great caution must be exercised in considering the weight to be given to this species of evidence on account of the existence of many circumstances which may affect their truth. The situation in which a man is on the deathbed is so solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason, the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however, should always be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. [See: Laxman v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 6 SCC 710]

44. The mode and manner, in which the dying declarations came to be recorded, is also something which creates a doubt, as regards its truthfulness and trustworthiness. Although, the Investigating Officer says that the recording of the dying declarations was video-graphed and the CD has been exhibited in evidence yet it is very important to determine the evidentiary value of the same.

45. We should also look into the genesis of the occurrence from a different angle. It is not in dispute that the three deceased died on account of severe burn injuries. It is also not in dispute that the room in which they were sleeping caught fire on account of which they suffered severe burn injuries. It is also not in dispute that inflammable substance like kerosene was found from the room which ignited the fire. However, the moot question is who set the room on fire? Could it be said that the prosecution has been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that it was only and only the appellant-convict who set the room on fire by pouring the inflammable substance?

48. The justification for the sanctity/presumption attached to a dying declaration, is two fold; (i) ethically and religiously it is presumed that a person while at the brink of death will not lie, whereas (ii) from a public policy perspective it is to tackle a situation where the only witness to the crime is not available.

49. One of the earliest judicial pronouncements where the rule as above can be traced is the King's Bench decision of the King v. William Woodcock reported in (1789) 1 Leach 500 : 168 ER 352, where a dying woman blamed her husband for her mortal injuries, wherein Judge Eyre held this declaration to be admissible by observing: -

"...the general principle on which this species of evidence is admitted is, that they are declarations made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone: when every motive to falsehood is silent, and the mind is induced by the most powerful consideration to speak the truth; a situation so solemn, and so awful, is considered by the law as creating obligation equal to that which is imposed by a positive oath administered in a Court of Justice. (b) But a difficulty also arises with respect to these declarations; for it has not appeared and it seems impossible to find out, whether the deceased herself apprehended that she was in such a state of morality as would inevitably oblige her soon to answer before her Maker for the truth or falsehood of her assertions. Declarations so made are certainly entitled to credit; they ought therefore to be received in evidence: but the degree of credit to which they are entitled must always be a matter for the sober consideration of the Jury, under all the circumstances of the case."

(Emphasis supplied)

51. It is significant to note the observations made by Taylor that "Though these declarations, when deliberately made under a solemn sense of impending death, and concerning circumstances wherein the deceased is not likely to be mistaken, are entitled to great weight, if precisely identified, it should always be recollected that the accused has not the power of cross examination, a power quite as essential to the eliciting of the truth as the obligation of an oath can be, and that, where a witness has not a deep sense of accountability to his Maker, feelings of anger or revenge, or, in the case of mutual conflict, the natural desire of screening his own misconduct, may effect the accuracy of his statements and give a false colouring to the whole transaction. ...". [See: Taylor on "Treatise on the Law of Evidence", 1931, 12th Edition Pg. 462]

52. It is observed in Corpus Juris Secundum Vol XL, Page 1283 that:

In weighing dying declarations, the jury may consider the circumstances under which they were made, as, whether they were due to outside influence or were made in a spirit of revenge, or when declarant was unable or unwilling to state the facts, the inconsistent or contradictory character of the declarations, and the fact that deceased has not appeared and accused has been deprived of the opportunity to cross-examine him, and may give to them the credit and weight to which they believe, under all the circumstances, they are fairly and reasonably entitled."

53. In India in the relevant provision of Section 32 of the Act 1872, the first exception to the rule against admissibility of hearsay evidence, is as under:

"32(1). When it relates to cause of death. — When the statement is made by a person as to the cause of his death, or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question. Such statements are relevant whether the person who made them was or was not, at the time when they were made, under expectation of death, and whatever may be the nature of the proceeding in which the cause of his death comes into question."

54. Jon R. Waltz, American Jurist observed that, "It has been thought, rightly or wrongly, that Dying Declarations have intrinsic assurances of trustworthiness, making cross examination unnecessary. The notion is that a person who is in the process of dying, and knows it, will be truthful immediately before departing to meet his Maker. (Of course, the validity of this hearsay exceptions is open to some debate. What about the person who is not deeply religious? What of the person who, as his last act, seeks revenge by falsely naming a life-long enemy as his killer? How reliable is he perception and memory of a person who is dying?)" [See: Waltz, J.R. (1975) Criminal Evidence, Chicago: Nelson-Hall. pp.75-76]

55. The Privy Council in Neville Nembhard v. The Queen reported in (1982) 1 AII ER 183, on Section 32(1) of the Act 1872 opined that the evidence of dying declaration under the Indian law lacks the special quality as in Common Law and hence, the weight to be attached to a dying declaration admitted under Section 32 of the Act 1872 would necessarily be less than that attached to a dying declaration admitted under the common law rules.

58. This Court in Nallapati Sivaiah v. Sub-Divisional Officer, Guntur, Andhra Pradesh reported in (2007) 15 SCC 465 and Bhajju alias Karan Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in (2012) 4 SCC 327 had explained the meaning and principles of dying declarations upon which its admissibility is founded, with the following observations:-

“20. There is a historical and a literary basis for recognition of dying declaration as an exception to the hearsay rule. Some authorities suggest the rule is of Shakespearian origin. In The Life and Death of King John, Shakespeare had made Lord Melun utter “Have I met hideous death within my view, retaining but a quantity of life, which bleeds away, ... lose the use of all deceit” and asked, “Why should I then be false, since it is true that I must die here and live hence by truth?” William Shakespeare, The Life and Death of King John, Act 5, Scene 4, lines 22-29.

22. It is equally well settled and needs no restatement at our hands that dying declaration can form the sole basis for conviction. But at the same time due care and caution must be exercised in considering weight to be given to dying declaration inasmuch as there could be any number of circumstances which may affect the truth. This Court in more than one decision has cautioned that the courts have always to be on guard to see that the dying declaration was not the result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. It is the duty of the courts to find that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to make the dying declaration. In order to satisfy itself that the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration, the courts have to look for the medical opinion.

23. It is not difficult to appreciate why dying declarations are admitted in evidence at a trial for murder, as a striking exception to the general rule against hearsay. For example, any sanction of the oath in the case of a living witness is thought to be balanced at least by the final conscience of the dying man. Nobody, it has been said, would wish to die with a lie on his lips. A dying declaration has got sanctity and a person giving the dying declaration will be the last to give untruth as he stands before his creator.

24. There is a legal maxim “nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire” meaning, that a man will not meet his Maker with a lie in his mouth. Woodroffe and Amir Ali, in their Treatise on Evidence Act state:

“when a man is dying, the grave position in which he is placed is held by law to be a sufficient ground for his veracity and therefore the tests of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with”.

25. The court has to consider each case in the circumstances of the case. What value should be given to a dying declaration is left to court, which on assessment of the circumstances and the evidence and materials on record, will come to a conclusion about the truth or otherwise of the version, be it written, oral, verbal or by sign or by gestures.”

(Emphasis supplied)

59. This Court in Bhajju alias Karan Singh Vs. State of MP (2012) 4 SCC 327 has observed as under:

“23. The “dying declaration” essentially means the statement made by a person as to the cause of his death or as to the circumstances of the transaction resulting into his death. The admissibility of the dying declaration is based on the principle that the sense of impending death produces in a man's mind, the same feeling as that of a conscientious and virtuous man under oath. The dying declaration is admissible upon the consideration that the declaration was made in extremity, when the maker is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to file a false suit is silenced in the mind and the person deposing is induced by the most powerful considerations to speak the truth.

Xxx xxx xxx

26. The law is well settled that a dying declaration is admissible in evidence and the admissibility is founded on the principle of necessity. ...”

62. There is no hard and fast rule for determining when a dying declaration should be accepted; the duty of the Court is to decide this question in the facts and surrounding circumstances of the case and be fully convinced of the truthfulness of the same. Certain factors below reproduced can be considered to determine the same, however, they will only affect the weight of the dying declaration and not its admissibility: -

(i) Whether the person making the statement was in expectation of death?

(ii) Whether the dying declaration was made at the earliest opportunity? “Rule of First Opportunity”

(iii) Whether there is any reasonable suspicion to believe the dying declaration was put in the mouth of the dying person?

(iv) Whether the dying declaration was a product of prompting, tutoring or leading at the instance of police or any interested party?

(v) Whether the statement was not recorded properly?

(vi) Whether, the dying declarant had opportunity to clearly observe the incident?

(vii) Whether, the dying declaration has been consistent throughout?

(viii) Whether, the dying declaration in itself is a manifestation / fiction of the dying person's imagination of what he thinks transpired?

(ix) Whether, the dying declaration was itself voluntary?

(x) In case of multiple dying declarations, whether, the first one inspires truth and consistent with the other dying declaration?

(xi) Whether, as per the injuries, it would have been impossible for the deceased to make a dying declaration?

63. It is the duty of the prosecution to establish the charge against the accused beyond the reasonable doubt. The benefit of doubt must always go in favour of the accused. It is true that dying declaration is a substantive piece of evidence to be relied on provided it is proved that the same was voluntary and truthful and the victim was in a fit state of mind. It is just not enough for the court to say that the dying declaration is reliable as the accused is named in the dying declaration as the assailant.

(iii) In Shahid Khan Vs. State of Rajasthan (supra) the accused appellant was convicted of charge under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 and 397 IPC by High Court. There was a concurrent finding of guilt of appellant and co-accused with regard to charge under Section 302/149 and 148 IPC and he was sentenced for these charges. The deceased suffered four stab wounds, two incised wounds and one abrasion in the incident. He was declared brought dead “on reaching the hospital”. He died on injuries sustained in homicide violence allegedly authored by the appellants and co-accused. The statement of main witnesses of facts was recorded after three days of the offence in the opinion of Apex Court no explanation is forthcoming as to why they are not examined after three days. It is also not known as to how the police came to know that these witnesses saw the occurrence. The court further observed that the delay in recording the statements of witnesses during investigation caused serious doubt about there being eye witnesses to the occurrence, it may suggest that the investigating officer was deliberately marking time with a view to decide about the shape to be given to the case to the eye witnesses to be produced. The circumstances in this case lend such significance to this delay in view of unexplained silence and delayed statements of main witnesses PW25 and PW24 to the police, in view of their unexplained silence and delayed statement to the police does not appear to us to be wholly reliable witnesses. There is no corroboration of their evidence from any other independent source either. Therefore, it was found unsafe to rely on their evidence only to approach conviction and sentence of the appellant. The High Court has failed to overt the contentions raised by the appellants and reappreciate the evidence thereby resulting in miscarriage of justice. The case against the appellants has not been proved beyond reasonable doubt, consequently the appeals are allowed and conviction of sentence to the appellants set aside.

(iv) In Jafarudheen and others Vs. State of Kerala (supra) the deceased of the accused belonged to two different political parties, there was an altercation between the affiliated political members on 17.07.2002 prior to main occurrence of the murder of deceased. In the altercation on 17.07.2002 the deceased had reportedly assaulted the accused No.2. The accused were 16 in numbers and assembled at the family house of accused No.5 on the same day at about 7:00 pm and hatched a conspiracy to take out the life of the deceased i.e. three hours of the incident of altercation and resultantly the deceased was done to death by accused persons. The four accused persons were acquitted for charge of conspiring to commit murder of the deceased. However, High court recorded conviction of the appellants setting-aside order of the acquittal passed by trial court.

The Apex Court in appeal against conviction reiterated the law laid down in regard to appeal against acquittal, as laid down in Shivlal Vs. State of Chhattisgarh, 2011 (9) SCC 561 and Rajeevan Vs. State of Kerala (2003) 3 SCC 355, State of Rajasthan Vs. Om Prakash (2002) 5 SCC 745, Shahid Khan Vs. State of Rajasthan (2016) 4 SCC 96, Ganesh Bhavan Patel Vs. State of Maharashtra (1978) 4 SCC 371 and some other important judgments on the subject.

Hon’ble Apex Court observed in paragraph No.36 of the judgment that trial court had the advantage of seeing the witnesses as they deposed. The appellate forum cannot change the conclusion arrived at thereafter by substituting its views. It seems to us that the High Court has adopted the principle of preponderance of probability as could be applicable to the civil cases to the case on hand when more scrutiny is warranted for reversing an order of acquittal. The prosecution has to prove its fundamental facts.

(v) In Harbeer Singh Vs. Sheeshpal and others (supra) the two appeals were filed, one of State and other by son of the deceased against judgment of High Court dated 25.11.2011, where by the conviction and sentence recorded by trial court against the respondents was set-aside.

Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding both the appeals observed as under:-

.....7. However, the High Court gave the benefit of doubt to the Respondents and acquitted them on the ground that the prosecution was not able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt since the eye-witnesses were interested in the complainant and hence unreliable, while most other prosecution witnesses were chance witnesses. The evidence of the eye-witnesses both as to the fact of the alleged conspiracy and the murder of the deceased, did not inspire confidence; there were inconsistencies and improvements in the deposition of the prosecution witnesses made over their statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Further, there was unexplained delay in recording the evidence of certain prosecution witnesses as well as many important and basic lapses in investigation that made the prosecution case suspicious.

9. In Himachal Pradesh Administration Vs. Shri Om Prakash, (1972) 1 SCC 249, it was held by this Court:-

“In appeals against acquittal by special leave under Article 136, this Court has undoubted power to interfere with the findings of fact, no distinction being made between judgments of acquittal and conviction, though in the case of acquittals it will not ordinarily interfere with the appreciation of evidence or on findings of fact unless the High Court ‘acts perversely or otherwise improperly’.”

11. It is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that the guilt of the accused must be proved beyond all reasonable doubt. The burden of proving its case beyond all reasonable doubt lies on the prosecution and it never shifts. Another golden thread which runs through the web of the administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. [Vide Kali Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (1973) 2 SCC 808; State of Rajasthan Vs. Raja Ram, (2003) 8 SCC 180; Chandrappa & Ors. vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415; Upendra Pradhan Vs. State of Orissa, (2015) 11 SCC 124 and Golbar Hussain & Ors. Vs. State of Assam and Anr., (2015) 11 SCC 242].

18. Further, the High Court has also concluded that these witnesses were interested witnesses and their testimony were not corroborated by independent witnesses. We are fully in agreement with the reasons recorded by the High Court in coming to this conclusion.

19. In Darya Singh Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1965 SC 328 = 1964 (7) SCR 397, this Court was of the opinion that a related or interested witness may not be hostile to the assailant, but if he is, then his evidence must be examined very carefully and all the infirmities must be taken into account. This is what this Court said:

“There can be no doubt that in a murder case when evidence is given by near relatives of the victim and the murder is alleged to have been committed by the enemy of the family, criminal courts must examine the evidence of the interested witnesses, like the relatives of the victim, very carefully.....But where the witness is a close relation of the victim and is shown to share the victim's hostility to his assailant, that naturally makes it necessary for the criminal courts examine the evidence given by such witness very carefully and scrutinise all the infirmities in that evidence before deciding to act upon it. In dealing with such evidence, Courts naturally begin with the enquiry as to whether the said witnesses were chance witnesses or whether they were really present on the scene of the offence.....If the criminal Court is satisfied that the witness who is related to the victim was not a chance-witness, then his evidence has to be examined from the point of view of probabilities and the account given by him as to the assault has to be carefully scrutinised."

20. However, we do not wish to emphasise that the corroboration by independent witnesses is an indispensable rule in cases where the prosecution is primarily based on the evidence of seemingly interested witnesses. It is well settled that it is the quality of the evidence and not the quantity of the evidence which is required to be judged by the Court to place credence on the statement.

23. The defining attributes of a 'chance witness' were explained by Mahajan, J., in the case of Puran Vs. The State of Punjab, AIR 1953 SC 459. It was held that such witnesses have the habit of appearing suddenly on the scene when something is happening and then disappearing after noticing the occurrence about which they are called later on to give evidence.

25. In the light of the above and other reasons recorded by the High Court, we hold that the evidence of the eye witnesses is not truthful, reliable and trustworthy and hence cannot form the basis of conviction. Their presence at the scene of occurrence at the time of the incident is highly unnatural as also their ability to individually and correctly identify each of the accused from a considerable distance, especially when it was dark at the alleged place of occurrence, is itself suspect.

30. On perusal of evidence on record including the impugned judgment passed by learned trial court it appears that incident occurred on 10.09.1995 at 01:30 PM, and FIR thereafter was lodged by the deceased in injured condition himself on same day at 18:30 hours under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307 IPC at Police Station Kishanpur, District Fatehpur against the named accuse persons Dhaukal, Buddhu, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ramswaroop. Accused Ramswaroop in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. admitted that accused Dhaukal and Buddhu are real brothers, Rajendra is nephew of Dhaukal, Bhaiya Lal is cousin of accused Dhaukal, accused Ramswaroop is relative of Bhaiyalal. All the accused persons for the charge under Section 148, 149 IPC, accused Buddhu was charged under Section 302 IPC (simplisitor) and remaining accused persons namely Dhaukal, Bhaiyal Lal, Rajendra and Ramswaroop were charged under Section 302/149 IPC. Prosecution examined PW1 Smt. Mantoriya, the mother of the deceased as eye witness, PW2 Shiv Mohaan, the father of the deceased who is not an eye witness was not present in the village on the day of incident. He stated that accused persons belonged to his own Khnandan, Bhaiya Lal is his relative. Bhaiya Lal is cousin of Dhaukal and Buddhu, Ramswaroop is resident of village Gokulpur. He had gone to the place of some relative and where he was apprised of this incident that his son was shot at by accused persons due to enmity and he was hospitalized in Civil Hospital at Fatehpur, his son died due to injuries suffered in the incident after 8 to 9 days. After getting information of the incident he went to the hospital straightway, he also admitted that he resides in village Chandanapur at the time of this incident. This witness was given a suggestion during cross-examination by accused side. Accused Dhaunkal had lodged a report of marpeet against prosecution side of the case in regard to the incident of same day in which his daughter suffered serious injuries and she died next day, due to injuries received in the incident. He has also denied that his son belonged to gang of one Athar of locality and was involved in case of dacoity and murder, the witness denied this suggestion. From evidence of witnesses it appears that barring accused Ramswaroop, other accused persons belonged to same family, and Ramswaroop is related to them.

31. In this case DW3 Hirwa is projected as independent eye witness in FIR itself authored by the deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad. The Investigating Officer recorded his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C on 12.09.1995 i.e. after two days of the incident in which he has supported the FIR version. However, he did not appear as prosecution witness and was later examined as DW3.

32. PW7 S.O. Ram Bahadur Varma has stated in his evidence before the court that he conducted spot inspection of the case on the date of incident on 12.09.1995 and prepared site plan of the place of incident at pointing out of witness Hirwa. There is some inconsistency in the stand of prosecution with regard to role assigned to accused Ramswaroop in the offence. In FIR authored by the deceased and scribed by PW3 Dharamveer it is stated that at the time of incident deceased/informant Raju alias Kamta Prasad was sitting to take meal brought by his mother from home in his agricultural field, he was weeding grass and straws from his chili field, when his mother brought meal for him. The accused attacked him while he was sitting to take his meal, Bhaiya Lal exhorted the other accused persons to kill him, whereupon Buddhu opened two fires which hit his right waist and left knee, he fell on the ground being injured and accused took to their heel thereafter. The incident was witnessed by his mother Smt. Mantoriya and one Hirwa son of Kichadoo, who was ploughing the field alongwith the mother of victim Mantoriya. In FIR the injured Raju alias Kamta Prasad has assigned role of exhortation to accused Bhaiya Lal and role of firing two shots to accused Buddhu, he has not assigned any specific role to other appellants in FIR.

33. PW6 Kamla Singh, the first investigating officer stated in his cross examination that he met the deceased (then injured) at Police Station when he came to lodge his report, he told him that his co-villager Hirwa is eye witness. However, no person accompanied him as the condition of injured (Raju) was very serious, he immediately sent him to hospital, he has recorded his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. on that day, but he did not make effort to record his dying declaration. On the date of incident Station House Officer was not present in the police station, FIR was lodged in his presence and he has signed the Chik FIR. The witness has proved the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C of the deceased Raju alias Kamta

Prasad, will be treated as a first dying declaration.

34. In Laxman Singh Vs. State of Maharashtra, 2002 (6) SCC 710 the Hon'ble Apex Court held that the situation in which a man is on death bed is so solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the court insists that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however has to always be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court also must further decide that the deceased was in a fit state of mind and had the opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Normally, therefore, the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration look up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitnesses state that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the declaration, the medical opinion will not prevail, nor can it be said that since there is no certification of the doctor as to the fitness of the mind of the declarant, the dying declaration is not acceptable. A dying declaration can be oral or in writing and in any adequate method of communication whether by words or by signs or otherwise will suffice provided the indication is positive and definite. In most cases, however, such statements are made orally before death ensues and is reduced to writing by someone like a magistrate or a doctor or a police officer. When it is recorded, no oath is necessary nor is the presence of a magistrate is absolutely necessary, although to assure authenticity it is usual to call a magistrate, if available for recording the statement of a man about to die. There is no requirement of law that a dying declaration must necessarily be made to a magistrate and when such statement is recorded by a magistrate there is no specified statutory form for such recording. Consequently, what evidential value or weight has to be attached to such statement necessarily depends on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. What is essentially required is that the person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind.

35. The Divisoin Bench of this Court in Gulab Singh Vs. State of U.P. 2003 (47) ACC 161 has held that the statement of the victim recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigating Officer amounts to dying declaration, where statement was recorded after lodging the FIR at the instance of victim himself.

36. In the present case also the statement of victim Raju alias Kamta was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigating Officer on the date of incident i.e. 10.09.1995 which also may be treated as his dying declaration which preceded the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate on 11.09.1995 at 07:45 am (Ext. Ka-14) . PW6 SI Kamla Singh (first Investigating Officer) has proved the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of deceased which amounts to dying declaration during his evidence before the court, in which he reproduced the version of deceased Raju alias Kamta who was injured at that time. In paragraph No.6 of his testimony the Investigating Officer stated that the injured Raju alias Kamta stated to him that he was weeding straw and grass from his field on 10.09.1995, his mother Mantoriya brought meal for her in the field, witness Hirwa son of Kichadoo was ploughing his field nearby his co-villagers Dhaukal, Buddhu, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ramswaroop resident of Gokulpur came to him in the merely in a planned manner and on reaching near him Bhaiya Lal and Ramsraroop exhorted the the accused persons to kill him, whatever money would be required they would spend, whereupon Buddhu fired two shots at him indiscriminately which hit him on right side of his waist and left knee.

37. The written report Ext. Ka1 which forms basis of lodging of FIR Ext. Ka-6 scribed by Dharamveer Singh and deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad was its author. The written report bears its thumb impression. In FIR there is slight variation of sequence of events as stated in section 161 Cr.P.C. of the informant. In FIR the informant has stated that on exhortation of Bhaiya Lal, Buddhu opened two fires by his fire arm, whereas in statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. he has stated that Bhaiya Lal and Ramswaroop exhorted other accused persons to kill him. Ext. Ka-14 dying declaration recorded by Nayab Tehsildar.

38. PW8 Gyan Prakash Srivastava, stated that the statement of victim Raju alias Kamta in reiterated in question answer form. In Ext. Ka-14 it is stated that dying declaration of injured Raju alias Kamta was recorded on 11.09.1995 at 07:45 am who was admitted in emergency ward bed No.24 of District Hospital. The victim stated that on 10.09.1995 between 10 to 11 hours he was weeding out grass and straws from his chili field, his mother brought meal for him at at that time and he started to have a meal, the accused Buddhu, Bhaiya Lal, Rajenddra his co-villagers and Ramswaroop resident of Gokulpur appeared suddenly and Buddhu fired a shot at him by his gun from distance, which hit him and the second fire was shot at him by Ramswaroop, he fell. There was enmity between him and accused persons and marpeet took place between 10 to 12 days before in which he was sent to jail. This dying declaration bears certificate of doctor to the effect that patient Raju alias Kamta was mentally fit to make statement during the whole period of giving his statement.

39. In the facts of the case, certificate of doctor approved on Ext. Ka14 which is proved by the author of dying declaration PW8 in his testimony before the court is sufficient to prove the fact that deceased was in fit state of mind to depose as to the cause of his death or as to circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death or in other words to make his dying declaration, even in absence of the doctor who has certified his fitness of mind and his ability to speak on margin of dying declaration. This fact has not been disputed that deceased visited the police station to lodge his FIR by way of written statement Ext. Ka-1 and his dying declaration was recorded next day by the Magistrate. He died on 17.09.1995 i.e. after 7 days of the incident during treatment in the hospital. Therefore, the dying declaration recorded and proved by the Executive Magistrate, (PW8) is an admissible and reliable in evidence regarding regarding relevant facts attending to present case.

40. In Magisterial dying declaration Ext. Ka-14, there is slight variation in stand of the deceased in a manner of causing fire arm injuries to him by accused persons from his FIR and statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigating Officer which also amounts to dying declaration. In FIR and statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. the victim has attributed role of causing fire arm injury to accused Buddhu, whereas in Magisterial dying declaration he has attributed role of causing fire arm injury to accused Buddhu and Ramswaroop and role of exhortation is attributed to accused Bhaiya Lal.

41. In the present case apart from two dying declarations of the deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad one recorded by Investigating Officer on the date of incident and after lodging of FIR, and the other was recorded by Naib Tehsildar in District Hospital. As FIR in the case was itself lodged by the deceased on reaching at Police Station, it may also be treated as dying declaration. In all these three dying declarations the variation is mainly on point of role attributed to accused Ramswaroop. In FIR it is stated that on being exhorted by Bhaiya Lal, Buddhu fired two shots at informant which hit in right side of his waist and left knee. Statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is proved by PW6, the first Investigating Officer, the deceased is stated to have said that on being exhorted by Bhaiya Lal and Ramswaroop, Buddhu fired two shots indiscriminately which hit him on right side of waist and left knee joint. In dying declaration recorded by Naib Tehsildar in the hospital on 11.09.1995 which is duly proved as Ext. Ka-14 by its author, PW8 Sri Gyan Prakash Srivastava, in which deceased has stated that occurrence took place at between 10 to 12 in day hours on 10.09.1995 while he was weeding out straw and grass from his chili field and on being supply meal by his mother he started eating it first fire was shot by Buddhu and second fire was shot at him by Ramswaroop. The first fire was shot by Buddhu from distance by his gun and second fire was shot by Ramswaroop. Both fires hit him, he fell down and thereafter the miscreants took to their heal. In all the three dying declarations including FIR, name of all the appellants Bhaiya Lal, Buddhu, Ramswaroop and Rajendra has been mentioned.

42. PW1 Smt. Mantoriya, mother of the deceased is projected as eye witness of the incident who is also stated in her evidence that accused persons Buddhu, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ramswaroop are know to her, except Ramswaroop other co-accused persons are resident of village, Ramswaroop is resident of Gokulpur who is relative of Bhaiya Lal. In examination in Chief PW1 has stated that on being exhorted by Bhaiya Lal, Buddhu opened two fire at his son Raju alias Kamta which hit him on right side of waist and left knee. Her son Raju alias Kamta the injured went to lodged FIR at Police Station, from where he was sent to district hospital, Fatehpur, where he died due to injuries suffered in this incident. PW1 Mantoriya and PW2 Shiv Mohan are parents of the deceased and both have stated in their evidence that there was enmity between deceased and accused persons. In cross examination this witness has stated that she had heard sound of two fire arms, both fires were shot by accused Buddhu, her son had taken meal in the morning before moving to his field, he was conducting weeding by Khurpi from his chili field, she reached at the field at around one and half hours. She is not proficient to read the watch, as his son stated to her that she had brought meal at 1 ½ hours, she came to know that it was one and half hour in the day, the blood was spread at the place where her son received fire arm shots. He was wearing pant and shirt at that time, his clothes got blood stained due to fire arm injuries. He went to police station in same clothes worn at the time of incident. The blood strains might have been washed due to traversing of field by cattle. When her son was challenged by accused he ran towards Ganga, but he was shot at by accused Buddhu while chasing him. First fire was shot by Buddhu and the other fire was shot by Ramswaroop. Thus, inspite of variation with regard to role of firing attributed to accused Ramswaroop in dying declaration the deceased and cross examination of PW1, this is significant that in all these three dying declarations including the evidence of PW1, the role of firing is consistently attributed to accused Buddhu and for that reason he has been convicted for charge under Section 302 IPC simplicitor and other accused persons are convicted for charge under Section 302 IPC read with section 149 IPC by learned trial judge.

43. PW1 has also stated in cross-examination that Buddhu shot two fires at deceased. Her son was speaking even after getting hurt by firearm injury and was conscious. He has stated in cross-examination that she lifted her son from the place of incident and visited the police station alongwith injured. The witnesses Rujanwa, Devtaha and Rajaram also accompanied her, whereas in statement of PW6, the Investigation Officer this fact surfaced that deceased visited the police station alone and was not accompanied by any other person. However, PW6 has stated that condition of the informant was very serious and for that reason he was sent to District Hospital from Police Station, she was sent to hospital just after lodging of FIR.

44. PW1 has stated that at the time of lodging the FIR she was removed from police station, she had spoken to his son in the night. She denied the defence suggestion that Athar Nian (local muscle man) visited her son in the hospital in the night. She was given suggestion by defence that as there was Arhar field near place of occurrence, where Buddhu opened fired. She could not see the firing this suggestion infact fortifies prosecution case atleast with regard to involvement of accused Buddhu in the offence. This witness has also given defence suggestion that at the time of incident wife of Ramswaroop was village Pradhan and she has implicated Ramswaroop only due to influence of Athar Mian. This prosecution evidence with regard to role of firing attributed to Ramswaroop is highly doubtful and version of the deceased and PW1 on that point is not reliable.

45. Investigating Officer, PW7 who conducted spot inspection of the place of incident has stated in his evidence as PW7 that he had carried out spot inspection at pointing out of Hira alias Hiruwa DW4 and prepared site plan in his writing and signature which is marked as Ext. Ka-4. Both witnesses Hira alias Hiruwa deviated from his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded by PW6 the first investigating officer, wherein he supported the prosecution case in his testimony as DW4 and has stated as defence witness that he could not see the incident of firing at injured Raju alias Kamta Prasad. Yet he stated that that he visited the place of occurrence to quench his thirst around 12 to 01 hours in the day and found Raju alias Kamta Prasad and his parents present in the shadow of neen tree standing in the field, his mother was weeping saying that some body assaulted Raju, but she did not disclose the name of assailants. Chari was sown in the field, where Raju alias Kamta was lying, but it was harvested at that time, Jawar and Bazra was sown near by his field. PW7 stated that he had not tried to record the statement of Mantoriya by visiting the hospital. He recorded statement of witness Hira alias Hiruwa on 12.09.1995, PW6 has stated that a river flows by the side of the village in northern side. Deceased stated name of his co-villagers Hira alias Hiruwa as an eye witness. The circumstances strongly suggest that Hira alias Hiruwa were present on the spot at the time or just after the incident and for reasons best known to him he did not appear as witness of prosecution during trial, otherwise there was no reason that Investigating Officer would have conducted spot inspection on 12.09.1995 at his pointing out.

47. PW7 has stated in cross-examination that the place where deceased was shot was vacant and a neem tree was lying there in this field was belonged to Raju alias Kamta. He has not mentioned this fact that the field where incident occurred was chili field, he has not stated this fact also in site plan that straws were weeded out from this field at the time of incident, as he inspected the place of incident after two days. He did not find any sign of taking meal there, he did not find any wad, empties and blood stained on the place of incident. He has marked the place from where witness Hira alias Hiruwa had seen the occurrence, only due to fact that Investigating Officer had not shown plantation of chili in the field where deceased was shot dead or he was taking meal is expected from the fact that in evidence of PW1 this fact is emerged that on being exhorted by Bhaiya Lal, the injured ran to some extent and he was sought at from behind. Neither in FIR nor the dying declaration the deceased has stated that he was taking meal in the same field where he was weeding. Thus, this statement of investigating officer is not contrary to prosecution case.

48. Despite aforesaid discrepancies pointed out by defence in prosecution evidence, this fact is proved beyond reasonable doubt that accused Buddhu on alleged place date and time of incident fired two shots at the deceased which hit him on his knee, vital parts of waist and knee due to which he received serious injuries which culminated in his death after seven days of the incident at 07:45 PM during his treatment at district hospital and assailant Buddhu was accompanied by accused Dhaukal and Ramswaroop. Bhaiya Lal exhorted the assailant Buddhu at the time of incident and thereafter Buddhu caused two fire arm injuries to deceased Raju alias Kamta Prasad. Although no specific role has been assigned in dying declaration of the deceased or in testimony of eye witness PW1 Smt. Mantoriya to remaining accused Dhaukal and Rajendra, but presence of all the accused persons at the place and time of incident is proved by dying declaration of the deceased and evidence of PW1 Smt. Mantoriya. There is nothing on record which negates their presence on the spot.

49. In Sucha Singh And Anr vs State Of Punjab AIR 2003 (SC) 3617 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that even if major portion of evidence is found to be deficient, in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, his conviction can be maintained. It is the duty of Court to separate grain from chaff. Where chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the Court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient to prove guilt of other accused persons. Falsity of particular material witness or material particular would not ruin it from the beginning to end. The maxim "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has no application in India and the witnesses cannot be branded as liar. The maxim "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has not received general acceptance nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of rule of law. It is merely a rule of caution. All that it amounts to, is that in such cases testimony may be disregarded, and not that it must be disregarded. The doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a Court may apply in a given set of circumstances, but it is not what may be called 'a mandatory rule of evidence'.

50. Evidence has been adduced by any of the evidence regarding their presence else where at the time of incident. In a recent judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Parshuram Vs. State of M.P. Criminal Appeal No.524 of 2021 delivered on 03.11.2023 placed reliance on its proved judgment in Masalti Vs. State of U.P. (1964) 8 SCR 133 held as under:-

".....14. It could thus clearly be seen that the Constitution Bench has held that it is not necessary that every person constituting an unlawful assembly must play an active role for convicting him with the aid of Section 149 of IPC. What has to be established by the prosecution is that a person has to be a member of an unlawful assembly, i.e. he has to be one of the persons constituting the assembly and that he had entertained the common object along with the other members of the assembly, as defined under Section 141 of IPC. As provided under Section 142 of IPC, whoever, being aware of facts which render any assembly an unlawful assembly, intentionally joins that assembly, or continues in it, is said to be a member of an unlawful assembly."

51. In Masalti Vs. State of U.P. Hon'ble Apex Court (supra) observed as under:-

"17. What has to be proved against a person who is alleged to be a member of an unlawful assembly is that he was one of the persons constituting the assembly and he entertained along with the other members of the assembly the common object as defined by Section 141 IPC. Section 142 provides that whoever, being aware of facts which render any assembly an unlawful assembly, intentionally joins that assembly, or continues in it, is said to be a member of an unlawful assembly. In other words, an assembly of five or more persons actuated by, and entertaining one or more of the common objects specified by the five clauses of Section 141, is an unlawful assembly. The crucial question to determine in such a case is whether the assembly consisted of five or more persons and whether the said persons entertained one or more of the common objects as specified by Section 141. While determining this question, it becomes relevant to consider whether the assembly consisted of some persons who were merely passive witnesses and had joined the assembly as a matter of idle curiosity without intending to entertain the common object of the assembly. It is in that context that the observations made by this Court in the case of Baladin [AIR 1956 SC 181] assume significance; otherwise, in law, it would not be correct to say that before a person is held to be a member of an unlawful assembly, it must be shown that he had committed some illegal overt act or had been guilty of some illegal omission in pursuance of the common object of the assembly. In fact, Section 149 makes it clear that if an offence is committed by any member of an unlawful assembly in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, or such as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object, every person who, at the time of the committing of that offence, is a member of the same assembly, is guilty of that offence; and that emphatically brings out the principle that the punishment prescribed by Section 149 is in a sense vicarious and does not always proceed on the basis that the offence has been actually committed by every member of the unlawful assembly.....”

52. Thus in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in Masalti Vs. State of U.P. (supra) as well as Parshuram Vs. State of M.P. all the five accused persons are vicariously liable for act done by one of them, which is under Section 149 IPC for causing death of deceased on given date time and place and they cannot be exculpated from liability that no specific role has been attributed to two of them in FIR as well as in prosecution evidence. In so far as the charge under Section 302 IPC is concerned, taking into account dying declaration of the deceased, eye witness account of PW1 and medical evidence adduced by PW4 doctor K.N. Pandey, author of the injury report of the deceased in injured condition, PW5 doctor Anil Kumar Shukla, the author of postmortem examination of the deceased, we find that a deadly weapon like gun was used in the offence while causing such bodily injuries to victim Raju alias Kamta Prasad which ultimately resulted in his death. However, this fact cannot be lost sight that in postmortem report, cause of death has been shown as Toxemia and Septicemia as a result of ante-mortem injuries. Onset of Toxemia and Septicemia is not normal phenomenon of gun shot injuries and this symptom of often occurs due to non administration of proper medical treatment. The seats of injury are non vital part of the body i.e waist and knee and there is at least 6 hours duration between the incident and first visit of the injured in hospital as per record. Thus, keeping in view the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case, we do not find it a case where fire arms injuries was caused to deceased by assailant Buddhu with intention to cause death, which is a prerequisite of offence of murder, but from the facts and circumstances of the case it is inferred that the act by which death is caused was done with intention to cause such bodily injuries as is likely to cause death. Thus, the appellant Buddhu who is attributed role of causing fire arm injuries to deceased which proved fatal later on, is liable to be altered from Section 302 IPC to section 304(1) IPC and conviction of appellants Dhaukal, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ramswaroop from Section 302 IPC read with Section 149 IPC to Section 304(1) IPC read with section 149 IPC.

53. Conviction of appellant Buddhu for charge under Section 302 IPC, and conviction and sentence of other accused appellants for charge under Section 302 read with section 149 IPC is hereby modified/altered to Section 304(1) IPC and Section 304(1) read with Section 149 IPC, respectively.

54. The appellant Buddhu is sentenced to 10 years rigorous imprisonment for charge under Section 304(1) IPC, and Rs.10,000/- fine and in case of default of payment of fine he will further have to suffer eight months additional imprisonment in default. The conviction and sentence awarded to the appellants for charge under Section 148 IPC is hereby affirmed.

55. Other appellants namely Dhaukal, Bhaiya Lal, Rajendra and Ramswaroop are sentenced to seven years rigorous imprisonment and Rs.7,000/- fine for charge under Section 304 (I) read with section 149 IPC. In case of default of payment of fine they are awarded six months default sentence. The period of custody undergone by the appellants will be set-off to sentence awarded in this modified order. All the sentences will concurrently. The appeal stands partly allowed accordingly and conviction and sentence awarded to the appellants in impugned judgment will be deserved to be modified in above manner.

56. Let the copy of the judgment be sent to Sessions Judge, Fatehpur to ensure compliance of this appellate judgment. The appellants who were enlarged on bail in this appeal are directed to surrender before the court concerned to undergo this modified conviction and sentence.

57. Let lower court record be sent back immediately to session judge, Fatehpur for necessary action. In case of non-appearances of appellants before the Court below, they will be taken into custody without any delay by court concerned and sent to jail for undergoing this modified order and sentence.

Criminal Appeal No. 843 of 2018

Shripal Yadav ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri Ram Kesh, Sri Saroj Kumar Dubey, Sri Virendra Pratap Pal

Counsel for the Respondent:

Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 452 & 376-D – Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 – Sections 5-G & 6 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 161, 313, 437-A – Criminal Appeal Against Conviction and Sentence – House Trespass – Gang Rape – POCSO Offences – Delayed FIR – Reliability of Witnesses – Medical Evidence – False Implication - The appellant, Shripal Yadav, challenged the judgment dated 14.12.2017 by the Special Judge (POCSO)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 6, Shahjahanpur, in Special Case No. 60 of 2014, convicting him under Section 452 IPC (7 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 10,000 fine, 1 month additional imprisonment in default) and Section 376-D IPC (life imprisonment, Rs. 50,000 fine, 2 months additional imprisonment in default), with sentences to run concurrently. The prosecution alleged that on the intervening night of 17/18.04.2014, Shripal Yadav and Rahul Yadav, armed with a countrymade pistol, abducted the informant's minor daughter (aged 12-13 years) from her home, sexually assaulted her at Rahul's verandah, and left her at 4:00 AM with threats. The FIR was lodged on 19.06.2014, over 60 days after the incident, due to alleged obstruction by villagers. The victim's medical examination on 20.06.2014 showed no injuries, an old torn and healed hymen, and an estimated age of 18 years, leading to acquittal under POCSO Act charges. The prosecution relied on PW-1 (informant-mother), PW-2

(victim), and documentary evidence (FIR, medical reports, chargesheet). The appellant claimed false implication due to village enmity (Yadav vs. Thakur communities) and a land sale dispute. Held: (1) The appeal was allowed, reversing the conviction and sentence, as the prosecution failed to prove guilt beyond reasonable doubt; the appellant was ordered to be set free, subject to Section 437-A Cr.P.C. compliance. (2) The 60-day delay in FIR lodging was inadequately explained, with vague claims of obstruction by villagers; PW-1's failure to contact the local MLA, with whom she had ties, or raise an alarm despite other family members' presence, rendered her testimony unreliable. (3) PW-2's testimony lacked credibility due to no injuries despite alleged forcible abduction, and her conduct (not informing family or police) was unnatural. (4) Medical evidence did not support rape or minor age claims, and no independent witnesses corroborated the prosecution case. (5) Enmity due to caste differences and a land dispute suggested possible false implication. (6) The trial court failed to critically evaluate witness testimonies, and the victim's testimony was not of sterling quality to warrant conviction without corroboration.

Hon'ble Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J.)

1. This appeal is directed against judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 14.12.2017, passed by the Special Judge (POCSO)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Shahjahanpur in Special Case No.60 of 2014 (State Vs. Shripal Yadav), arising out of Case Crime No.264 of 2014, Police Station Garhiya Rangeen, District Shahjahanpur, whereby the accused appellant Shripal Yadav has been convicted and sentenced to 7 years rigorous imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs.10,000/- under Section 452 IPC and on failure to deposit fine to undergo additional simple imprisonment for a month; and life imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs.50,000/- under Section 376-D IPC and on failure to deposit the fine to undergo additional simple imprisonment for two months. Sentences are to run concurrently.

2. As per the prosecution case, informant (PW-1) was sleeping alongwith her daughter, aged 12-13 years, in the intervening night of 17/18.4.2014 at about 1.00 in the night, when the accused Rahul Yadav and Shripal Yadav came armed with countrymade pistol and forcibly abducted her minor daughter, who was later subjected to sexual assault by them. The victim was left in the village with threats that mother would not be allowed to live in the village. The informant tried to lodge a report but the villagers surrounded her and did not allow her to go to police station. No medical examination was held either. Repeated attempts to reach out to police personnel also failed. Ultimately the FIR was registered at 9.30 am on 19.6.2014. Written report on the basis of which FIR got registered is Ex.Ka-1 and has been proved by PW-1. The victim has been medically examined on 20.6.2014, in which no external or internal injuries have been found. Age of the victim has been determined medically as 18 years. Her hymen was found old torn and healed. The statement of victim was also got recorded on 25.6.2014, as per which the incident occurred on the date of elections. The accused came, gagged her mouth and forcibly abducted her on gun point. Thereafter, victim was allegedly subjected to sexual assault in the Verandah of accused Rahul and the victim was later left at her house at about 4.00 in the morning. Threats were extended to the victim. Though the victim claims to have informed of the incident to her mother but they were not allowed to go to police station. It is alleged that only when a complaint was made to higher authorities that the FIR was registered. Statement of victim was also recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. On the basis of evidence collected during investigation the chargesheet was submitted against the accused appellant on 11.7.2014.

3. The Magistrate took cognizance of the aforesaid chargesheet and committed the case to the court of sessions, where charges were framed on 13.5.2015 against the accused appellant under Sections 452, 376-D IPC and 5-G/6 of POCSO Act. The accused denied the charges and demanded trial.

4. During the course of trial, documentary evidence have been adduced by the prosecution in the form of FIR as Ex.Ka-8; written report as Ex.Ka-1; medical report as Ex.Ka-3; supplementary medico legal report as Ex.Ka-4; X-Ray report as Ex.Ka-5; chargesheet as Ex.Ka-7; and site plan with Index as Ex.Ka-6.

5. The prosecution has produced two witnesses namely PW-1 and PW-2. PW-1 is the mother, who has supported the prosecution case, as per which 12-13 year old victim was abducted on gun point and was subjected to sexual assault between 1.00 am to 4.00 am on the date of incident. In the cross-examination PW-1 has stated that she has two sons and three daughters. The victim is her second daughter. There were other family members also in the house alongwith the victim. PW-1 has also admitted that she is on visiting terms with one Munna Vidhayak, who has been an MLA for 5-6 terms. She used to serve in his house. She has denied the suggestion that there was earlier an agreement to sell the land of her brother-in-law to the accused, whereafter the land was sold to someone else on a higher consideration. It is, however, admitted that the person to whom land has been sold lives adjacent to the house of the informant. She has admitted that accused Shripal Yadav has been working outside the village for the last 5-6 years. On the date of incident, there was election and she had voted. She has admitted that report has been lodged two months after the incident. In her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., PW-1 has admitted that the victim was sleeping next to her and when she woke up at about 2.00 a.m., in the night, she did not find her daughter nor saw anyone else abducting her. She has denied the suggestion that her daughter was in relation with accused Rahul, and on account of village enmity she has falsely implicated the accused persons.

6. The victim has been examined as PW-2, who has supported the prosecution case. She has also verified her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In her cross-examination, she has denied her friendly relations with accused Rahul or that she was caught with Rahul in the Sugarcane Field. She has alleged that force was used while abducting her but no injury was caused. As per the victim, her mother was sleeping next to her but she could not know of the incident. She has admitted that she knew Munna Vidhayak and her mother was cooking food in the school run by him. Victim has also denied the suggestion that on account of village enmity she has falsely implicated the accused.

7. The doctor, who had medically examined the victim has been produced as PW-3. In her opinion, age of the victim was around 18 years and no definite opinion with regard to rape could be given. She found no existence of any external or internal injury on the victim and her hymen was found old torn and healed. PW-4 is Sub-Inspector, who has proved the police papers.

8. The accused was confronted with the evidence led by the prosecution in order to record his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He has alleged to have been falsely implicated on account of village enmity. It is alleged that there was enmity between the Yadavs and Thakurs and as accused was from Yadav Community, while informant was working with local MLA, who was from the Thakur Community, therefore, false complaint has been lodged against him.

9. Defence has also produced its evidence in order to show that on account of sale of landed property, there was an enmity between the parties. The defence witness DW-1 is a 60 year old resident of the same village.

10. Trial court on the basis of evidence on record has convicted the accused appellant and sentenced him as per law.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant states that accused appellant has been falsely implicated, inasmuch as the prosecution story is wholly unbelievable and is not supported by any evidence on record.

12. Learned AGA, on the other hand, has supported the judgment of conviction and sentence, on the basis of reasons assigned therein.

13. We have heard Sri Virendra Pratap Pal, holding brief of Sri Ram Kesh, learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA for the State and have perused the material on record.

14. The incident in the present case is alleged to have occurred in the intervening night between 17/18.4.2014, on which date there was an election in the locality for the office of local member of Legislative Assembly. According to the prosecution the two accused came with arms and on gun point physically abducted the minor victim and subjected her to sexual assault.

15. First and foremost, it is to be noticed that though the incident occurred on 17/18.4.2014, but no report in the matter was lodged immediately after the incident. The report has been lodged only on 19.6.2014, which is after more than 60 days. Although delay in itself would not be fatal in a case of sexual offence, but the court will have to examine the circumstances, which may have led to the delayed reporting of the offence. PW-1 has stated that she tried to go to police station but the villages surrounded her and did not let her go. In the testimony of PW-1, it is, however, not disclosed as to when she attempted to go to the police station or who stopped her from reporting the incident to the police. Discussion in this regard is absolutely vague. We suspect the testimony of PW-1 and do found her to be credible in this regard for the simple reason that PW-1, admittedly was known to local MLA and was working as a Cook in the school run by the concerned MLA. In the event the incident of the kind, as is alleged, had taken place, it would be expected that PW-1 would try to reach out to influential persons of the village, who are known to her, including the MLA. There is no explanation in the testimony of PW-1 as to why she made no attempt to reach out the local MLA, who admittedly was known to her. Even otherwise, we find that election was held on the date of incident, and generally, it is expected that there would be greater vigil maintained in the area to secure law and order. Easy access to police personnel during the election would be expected.

16. We have examined the testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 carefully, who have not furnished any detail as to when they tried to go to the police station and what attempt was made to inform the authorities or the villagers in that regard. 60 days is not a small time and the fact that during this period no attempt was made to reach out to anyone for lodging the report has to be viewed with suspicion.

17. We have also perused the statement of PW-1 and PW-2, as per whom the victim was abducted on the day of the election. As per PW-1, she was sleeping next to the victim. PW-2 has admitted that when she woke up at 2.00 in the night, she found her daughter missing. There is no explanation forthcoming from the PW-1 as to what she did, when her daughter was found missing. PW-1 has stated that she had never gone out from the house. The fact that PW-1 did not raise any alarm regarding disappearance of her daughter or make any attempt either to inform the family members or to inform police raises doubt on the prosecution version. We are reluctant to rely upon testimony of PW-1 that having found her daughter missing at 2.00 in the night, she did nothing. PW-2, moreover, has stated that on gun point she was abducted despite resistance by her. However, there was no mark of injury or even old injury on the victim. We further find from the testimony of PW-1 that the family composition of the informant included other members also. Informant has two sons and another daughter apart from the victim and the eldest daughter, who was already married. In normal circumstances, an incident of the kind where a young girl goes missing at 2.00 in the night, the mother is expected to make immediate endeavours to trace out her daughter or to at least inform other family members, who could either inform police or attempt to trace out the victim. The prosecution evidence is absolutely silent and shoddy on this aspect.

18. Medical evidence on record also belies the prosecution claim that victim is a minor. No documentary evidence in the form of school record or birth certificate etc. has been produced to prove the age of the victim. The only material in that regard is the medical opinion, as per which the victim was 18 years of age. It is for this reason that accused persons have been exonerated of charges under the POSCO Act. The medical examination otherwise does not depict any external or internal injury on the victim. The doctor has also not expressed any opinion with regard to occurrence of rape upon the victim.

19. In the facts of the present case, no independent witness has come forward to support the prosecution case. The medical opinion on record also does not support the claim of prosecutrix. The testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 are also not found convincing, inasmuch as their conduct in not reporting the incident or raising an alarm etc. is questionable. It is otherwise specifically asserted that there existed enmity on account of alleged sale of immovable property as well as village enmity, as the accused and the informant belong to two separate castes and there was cordiality missing between these two communities.

20. Upon overall evaluation of evidence on record, we find that the testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 cannot be termed to be wholly reliable. The testimony of victim cannot be treated as that of a sterling witness, which alone can be relied upon to convict the accused persons. The fact that no protest was made for almost two months nor anyone in the family raised any alarm are factors, which persuade us to doubt the testimony of injured witness. There are no other incriminating material adduced by the prosecution against the accused persons. Possibility of false implication on account of enmity between the two sides cannot be ruled out. One of the accused namely Rahul has been declared juvenile and his trial has been segregated. Accused appellant Shripal Yadav is in jail since the date of judgment i.e. 14.12.2017. He was also remained incarcerated for about 11 months during the trial.

21. Considering the totality of circumstances placed on record and for the reasons recorded above, we are of the considered opinion that prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt. The trial court has also not examined the testimony of witnesses in correct perspective.

22. In that view of the matter, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 14.12.2017, passed by the Special Judge (POCSO)/ Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Shahjahanpur in Special Case No.60 of 2014 is reversed. The appellant Shripal Yadav shall be set free, unless he is wanted in any other cases, subject to compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 148, 149 & 302 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 161, 313 & 437-A – Criminal Appeal Against Conviction and Sentence – Rioting – Murder – Unlawful Assembly – Dying Declaration – Reliability of Witnesses – Delay in FIR – Contradictions in Testimonies – False Implication - The appellant, Shanker Yadav, challenged the judgment dated 25.03.2004 by the Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-IV, Jaunpur, in Sessions Trial No. 41 of 1990, convicting him and four co-accused (Jwala Prasad, Bankey Lal, Shyam Bahadur, Mithai Lal) under Section 148 IPC (1 year simple imprisonment) and Section 302/149 IPC (life imprisonment, Rs. 20,000 fine each, 1 year additional imprisonment in default) for the murder of Rambali Yadav on 26.08.1989 at 6:00 PM near an unpaved road in Jaunpur. The prosecution case, based on a written report by PW-1 (Lalji Yadav, deceased's brother), alleged that the accused, armed with gandasas and a lathi, assaulted Rambali due to prior enmity over land disputes and a pending Section 107 Cr.P.C. case. The FIR was lodged at 4:30 AM on 27.08.1989, supported by PW-1 and PW-3 (Hari Shanker Yadav) as eye-witnesses, a purported dying declaration to the deceased's father (Jai Shri), and medical evidence showing 18 incised wounds. The appellant claimed false implication due to ongoing litigations. Held: (1) The appeal was allowed, reversing the conviction and sentence, and the appellant was ordered to be released, subject to Section 437-A Cr.P.C. compliance. (2) The prosecution failed to prove guilt beyond reasonable doubt due to unreliable testimonies of PW-1 and PW-3, who were interested witnesses (brother and friend of the deceased) and likely not present at the incident, as they reached the spot after the accused fled. (3) The alleged dying declaration to Jai Shri was unreliable, lacking proof of the deceased's fit mental St., certification, or corroboration, as Jai Shri and other witnesses (Sukhdeo, Santram, Amarnath) were not examined, per Irfan Vs St. of U.P., 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1060, Surinder Kumar Vs St. of Har., (2011) 10 SCC 173, and Naresh Kumar Vs Kalawati, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 260. (4) A 10-hour delay in lodging the FIR was unexplained, casting doubt on the prosecution case. (5) Major contradictions in PW-1 and PW-3's testimonies (e.g., timing of arrival, lighting conditions, presence of others) and their enmity with the accused suggested possible false implication. (6) The trial court failed to critically evaluate evidence, and the prosecution evidence was insufficient to sustain the conviction.

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the accused-appellant Shanker Yadav against the judgment and order dated 25th March, 2004 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-IV, Jaunpur in Sessions Trial No. 41 of 1990 (State of U.P. Vs. Jwala Prasad & Others), arising out of Case Crime No. 110 of 1989, under Sections 148, 149 and 302 of I.P.C., Police Station-Baxa, District-Jaunpur, whereby the accused-appellant along with four other co-accused, namely, Jwala Prasad, Bankey Lal, Shyam Bahadur and Mithai Lal, has been convicted and sentenced to undergo one year simple imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 148 of I.P.C. and life imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 302/149 I.P.C. with a fine of Rs. 20,000/- each, in default thereof he has to further undergo one year additional imprisonment.

2. We have heard Mr. V.P. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Mr. Ashok Singh Yadav, Mr. Sanjay Kumar Yadav, Mr. Rajesh Yadav, learned counsel for the accused-appellant, Mr. Rajeev Lochan Shukla, Mr. Direndra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent, Mr. Siddhartha Shukla, learned counsel for the first informant and Mr. Arun Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.A. for the State and also perused the entire materials available on record.

3. The prosecution case is based upon a written report dated 26th August, 1989 (Exhibit-Ka/1) of first informant, namely, Lal Ji Yadav (P.W.-1) wherein he has stated that there was a rivalry between his family and the family of the accused Jwala Prasad due to certain litigations. Earlier, the accused persons had beaten the father of the informant, which case under Section 107 was pending in the court.

Because of the said case, the accused Jwala Prasad along with other accused persons had grudge. On 26th August, 1989 at around 6:00 p.m., when the brother of the informant, namely, Rambali was returning to his house after taking medicine for the use of his child from Lakhaunwa market, the informant himself and Harishankar were also following him. As soon as the brother of the informant crossed the railway line and reached the unpaved road, the accused Jwala Prasad, Banke Lal, Shyam Bahadur, Shankar (accused-appellant) and Mithai, who resided in the same village, arrived. The accused Jwala, Bankey Lal, Shyam Bahadur and Shankar (accused-appellant) had Gandasas in their hands and the accused Mithai had stick in his hand. The above accused persons, after surrounding the brother of the informant, started beating him brutally. On hearing the scream of the informant and when the informant and Harishankar shouted, Sukhdev and Santram, who were coming from the market, arrived. On this the accused ran away threatening them. The brother of the informant had fallen down due to injuries sustained by him. His condition was severe. He was taken to Sadar Hospital by auto rickshaw and was admitted where he died at 11:30 in the night. On the basis of such written report dated 27th August, 1989 (Exhibit-Ka/1), first information report (Exhibit-Ka/4) came to be lodged at 04.30 a.m. on 27th August, 1989 in respect of the incident which occurred on 26th August, 1989 at about 06:00 p.m. (evening).

4. Thereafter, the inquest followed and the inquest report dated 27th August, 1989 came on record (Exhibit-ka/6). It is mentioned in the inquest report that the death of the deceased relates to an offence, which requires doctor's opinion and the body of the deceased be sent for post-mortem.

5. The post-mortem has been conducted on 27th August, 1989 at 04:30 p.m. and in the post-mortem report (Exhibit-ka/16), the cause of death of the deceased has been reported to be shock and haemorrhage as a result of following ante-mortem injuries:

"1. Incised wound 4 cm x 4 cm above right eye brow on the seal.

2. Incised wound 1.5 cm x 4 cm above incised wound no.1.

3. Incised wound 5 cm. bone deep on right ... 5 cm. above injury no.1

4. Incised wound stitched 7 cm above injury no.1 or temporal bone.

5. Incised wound 5 cm. stitched on 10 cm. above root of the nonjunctions wound.

6. 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm on the frontal aspect of left elbow joint.

7. Incised 4 cm. stitched, 4 cm below left knee joint on anteromedial aspect,

8. Incised wound 1 cm x 0.5 cm on the anteromedial aspect of left leg 4 cm. below knee.

9. 2 parallel incised wounds 6 cm each stitched 1 cm. apart 10 cm injury no.7 on anteromedial aspect of left leg.

10. Incised wound 2 cm x 0.5 cm anteromedial aspect of left leg 14 cm. below injury no.7.

11. Incised wound 5.5 cm. stitched 10 cm. below right knee joint on anterolateral part.

12. Incised wound 7 cm. x 4 cm. below injury no.11.

13. Incised wound 2.5 cm. x 0.5 cm. 3 cm. below injury no. 11 antero lateral aspect.

14. Incised wound 2.5 cm. x 1 cm. on right antero lateral of the right leg 2 cm. above lateral malleolus .

15. Incised wound 7 cm. x 01 cm. on heel 7.5 cm. below ankle joint on the dorsal aspect on lateral side. ”

6. The investigation was conducted by the Inspector Jagannath Tiwari (P.W.-4). He has recorded the statements of witnesses and prepared the site plan. He has also collected the blood stained earth and plain earth and prepared the recovery memo. After conclusions of the statutory investigation under Chapter XII Cr.P.C.. P.W.-4 has submitted the charge-sheet against the accused persons including the present appellant, namely, Jwala Prasad @ Achhey Lal, Bankey Lal, Shaym Bahadur, Shanker and Mithai.

7. On submission of charge-sheet, the concerned Magistrate took cognizance in the matter and committed the case to the Court of Sessions by whom the case was to be tried. On 5th November, 1992, the concerned Court framed following charges against the accused-persons:

“Firstly; that you, on 26.8.1989 at about 6 P.M. in the evening near kuchcha road of village Lakhawan besides Railway Line, within the circle of P.S.Buxa, district Jaunpur, were member of an unlawful assembly armed with deadly weapon, like Gandasa and lathi, and in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, used force, committed the offence of rioting with the said weapon, punishable under section 148 of I.P.C., and within the cognizance of this Court; and

Secondly; that you, on the aforesaid date, time and place, being member of above unlawful assembly and in prosecution of common object of murder of Rambali Yadav son of Jaishri Yadava you assaulted Rambali Yadava with Gandasa and lathi resulting his death, and thereby you committed an offence punishable under section 302 read with section 149 of I.P.C., and within the cognizance of this court.

And, I hereby direct that you be tried by this court on the said charges.”

8. The charges were read out and explained to the accused persons including the appellant in simple Hindi, who denied the accusation and demanded trial.

9. The trial started and the prosecution has examined six witnesses, who are as follows:-

1	Lalji Yadav (complainant)	P.W.-1
2	Dr. D. Mandal	P.W.-2
3	Hari Shanker Yadav	P.W.-3
4	Jagannath Tiwari	P.W.-4
5	Mahmood Alam	P.W.-5
6	Dr. S.S. Banarjee	P.W.-6

10. The prosecution in order to establish the charges levelled against the accused-appellant has relied upon following documentary evidence, which were duly proved and consequently marked as Exhibits:

1	Written report dated 26th August, 1989	Ex.Ka.-1
2	First Information Report dated 27th August, 1989	Ex.Ka.-4
3	Recovery memo of blood stained and plain earth dated 27th August, 1989	Ex. Ka.-13
4	Injury report	Ex.Ka.-2

	dated 26th August, 1989
5	Letter qua information for death of deceased in the hospital	Ex.Ka.-3
6	Copy of the G.D. entry about the first information report	Ex.Ka.-5
7	Copy of the letter for sending the post-mortem of the deceased	Ex.Ka.-8
8	Photo lash	Ex.Ka.-8
9	Police Paper no.33	Ex.Ka.-9
10	Sample of seal	Ex.Ka.-10
11	Informations to the Kotwali	Exts.Ka.-11 & 12
12	Post Mortem Report dated 27th August, 1989	Ex.Ka.-16
13	Inquest Report (Panchayatnama) dated 27th August, 1989	Ex. Ka.-6
14	Charge-sheet original dated 27th September, 1989	Ex.Ka.-15
15	Site plan with index dated 27th August, 1989	Ex.Ka.-14

11. After completion of the prosecution evidence, statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused-appellant denied the prosecution version and stated that due to litigation between the accused side and prosecution side, a false case has been concocted and also stated that the deceased was killed somewhere in the dark and they have been falsely implicated. In their defence, a copy of the charge sheet related to the case has been filed by the accused persons.

12. On the basis of above evidence adduced during the course of trial, the court below has come to the conclusion that the accused persons, namely, Bankey Lal, Jwala Prasad, Shanker (appellant), Shyam Bahadur and Mithai Lal, who armed with Gandasa and Lathi, organized a riot. The accused Mithai Lal had a lathi in his hand, while remaining accused persons had Gandasa in their hands. Because of the said riot created by the accused, all the accused gathered near Sarpat's tuft with the intention to kill the deceased. The deceased Rambali was returning to his house after shopping in the market and after crossing the railway line, when he came on the unpaved road, all the accused, who indulged in old rivalry, assaulted the deceased by Gandasa and Lathi due to which he sustained injuries. All the accused armed with weapons and having common object to kill the deceased Ram Bali. As many as 18 injuries were found on the body of the deceased Rambali. Most of the injuries were caused by Gandasa, as is evident from the medical examination report and the post-mortem report of the deceased. All the accused unanimously agreed to inflict injuries on the deceased Ram Bali, due to which he later died in the hospital. Thus, all the accused persons were made responsible for causing the death of deceased Ram Bali by creating a riot with a common intention. Thus, the trial court found the accused Jwala Prasad, Bankey Lal, Shankar, Mithai Lal and Shyam Bahadur guilty under Section 148, 302, read with Section 149 of I.P.C.

13. On the basis of the above exhaustive analysis of the evidence, the trial court has held that since the accused persons armed with Gandasa and lathi, came to a consensus and attacked the deceased Rambali in such a way that he died at around 6:00 p.m. in the evening (this time has wrongly been mentioned by the trial court in his impugned judgment, as at around 06:00 the alleged incident took place, whereas the deceased died in hospital at 11:30 p.m. (night) with Gandasa and lathi, the accused persons are liable to be punished to undergo one year simple imprisonment for the offence 148 I.P.C. and life imprisonment for the offence under Section 302 read with section 149 I.P.C. along with a fine of Rs 20,000/- each, which would be fair in the eyes of justice. The trial court has further held that in case of non-payment of fine, additional imprisonment of one year would be appropriate.

14. Being aggrieved with the impugned judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court, the accused-appellant has preferred the present jail appeal.

15. In support of his case, the learned counsel for the accused-appellant has advanced following submissions:

(i) As per the prosecution, alleged incident occurred at 06:00 p.m. (evening) on 26th August, 1989, whereas the first information report was registered on 27th August, 1989 at 04:00 a.m. (morning), meaning thereby that there is delay of 10 hours in lodging of the first information report for which no plausible explanation has been given by the prosecution.

(ii) The dying declaration of the deceased which has heavily been relied upon by the learned counsel for the informant/prosecution in the form of an information given by the deceased to his father, when he reached at the place of occurrence and such information has also been received by P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, is not reliable in the eyes of law, as the ingredients of acceptance of such dying declaration are missing in the present case.

(iii) The father of the deceased, namely, Jai Shree, to whom the deceased told as to who has assaulted him, as per the testimonies of P.W.-1 and P.W.-3, was not even produced in the court to support the prosecution version, as such, the alleged dying declaration of the deceased as well as the testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.-3 are not trustworthy. Apart from the above, Sukhdeo and Santraj who are stated to be eye witnesses and also charge-sheeted witnesses, as per the prosecution, were not produced during the course of trial.

(iv) P.W.1, who is real brother of the deceased and P.W.-3, who is close friend of the deceased are interested witnesses and from their testimonies, it is apparent that they were not present at the time and place of occurrence and they reached there after the accused ran away, as such their presence at the time and date of occurrence is doubtful.

(v) The deceased did not die on the spot as per the oral as well as documentary evidence relied upon by the prosecution. He was killed somewhere in the dark.

(vi) There are major contradictions in the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses.

(vii) The prosecution evidence is very weak in which the accused-appellant has been implicated only on the basis of suspicion and no evidence exist to hold the accused-appellant guilty.

16. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel appearing for the appellants submits that in view of the inconsistency in the statements of the prosecution witnesses; the prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt, as such the impugned judgment is liable to be set aside.

17. Per contra, the learned counsel for the informant and the learned A.G.A. for the State, supporting the judgment and order of conviction, submits that the first information report has been lodged promptly naming the accused persons; there is clinching evidence to support the prosecution's case in the form of witnesses of fact (P.W.-1 and P.W.-3); there is strong motive for the accused-persons, as there was dispute qua certain litigations between the families of both the parties; the prosecution case has also been supported by the medical evidence.

18. Mr. Rajiv Lochan Shukla, appearing for the informant has heavily relied upon the testimony of P.W.-3 in which it has been stated that when the accused persons escaped from the spot, the father of the deceased, namely, Jai Shree reached there and asked the deceased as to who has assaulted him, in reply, the deceased disclosed that accused Jwala Prasad, Bankey Lal, Shyam Bahadur and Shanker (appellant) assaulted him by Gandasa and accused Mithai assaulted him by Lathi with intention to kill him. Drawing the attention of the Court to the aforesaid testimony of P.W.-3, Mr. Shukla further relied upon the testimony of P.W.-1 in which it has been stated that after the escape of the accused, his father and other people also came to the spot from their house and his brother i.e. the deceased disclosed the names to his father as to who assaulted him.

19. Mr. Shukla on the basis of such testimony submits that the disclosure given by the deceased to his father Jai Shree, in an injured state as to who had beaten him, be treated to be his dying declaration as the same have been duly supported by P.W.-1 and P.W.-3, who are eye-witnesses.

20. Learned counsel for the informant and the learned A.G.A. for the State, therefore, submits that the prosecution has proved the charges levelled against the accused-appellants beyond reasonable doubt.

21. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned A.G.A. urges that in such circumstances the conviction and sentence awarded to the accused-appellant, by the court below merits no interference.

22. We have examined the respective contentions urged by the learned counsel for the parties and have perused the records of the present appeal including the trial court records.

23. The only question requires to be addressed and determined in this appeal is whether the conclusion of guilt arrived at by the learned trial court and the sentence awarded is legal and sustainable in law or it suffers from infirmity and perversity.

24. Before entering into the merits of the case set up by the learned counsel for the accused-appellant and the learned A.G.A. qua impugned judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court, it is desirable for us to briefly refer to the statements of the prosecution witnesses.

25. P.W.-1/informant, Lalji Yadav who happens to be the brother of the deceased Ram Bali, in his examination-in-chief has stated that before the present incident, a civil case and a case under Section 107 were going on between informant's side and accused's side. Earlier there was quarrel between both parties qua a land. The accused had beaten the father of the informant, whose case is pending in civil court. The court had stayed the civil case. Even at the time of the incident, the stay continued. On the same land, his Arvi/Arooi (taro roots) was buried and the accused Jwala Prasad and others were uprooting it. When the informant's side objected not to do the same, they were beaten. There is a rivalry between both the parties regarding land and criminal cases.

26. P.W.-1 has further stated that it has been almost 8 years since the incident happened. The incident is of 26 August 1989. The time was 6 o'clock in the evening. His brother i.e. deceased Ram Bali had gone to the Lakhwan market to buy medicine for his children. When the brother of the informant was coming home through the unpaved road after crossing the railway line, the informant and P.W.-3 Harishankar were also following him from the market towards home. When his brother reached near Sarpat on the unpaved road, the accused Jwala Prasad alias Achhe Lal, Bankey Lal, Mithai Lal, Shyam Bahadur and Shankar came out of the tuft of Sarpat and started beating his brother Ram Bali. The accused Jwala Prasad, Shyam Bahadur, Shankar (appellant) and Bankey Lal were holding Gandasa in their hands and the accused Mithai Lal was holding a lathi in his hand. On howling of his brother, the P.W.-1/informant and P.W.-3 Hari Shankar also moved towards the spot. P.W.-1 and P.W.-3 also started shouting loudly, hearing their noise, Sukhdev and Santram reached the spot from the village. When those people arrived, the accused ran towards the south. The informant/P.W.1 went to his brother. His brother had fallen when the accused were beating him. Even after he fell down, the accused were beating his brother. His brother was conscious at that time. After the escape of the accused, his father and other people also came from the house. His brother had disclosed the names of those who had beaten him.

27. P.W.-1 has further stated that after arranging an auto rickshaw, the deceased was taken to Sadar Hospital, Jaunpur and admitted there and he was treated. Even at that time his brother was conscious but his condition was getting serious. The deceased brother died in the hospital at around 11:15 p.m. P.W. 1 left the body at Sadar Jaunpur Hospital and wrote the report there and along with the medical examination, went to Baksa police station where his report was registered. Amarnath Yadav also went to the hospital with him. His brother i.e. deceased had disclosed the names of those who had beaten him in front of Amarnath also. The statement of P.W.1 has been recorded by the Investigating Officer. The accused had attacked his brother with the intention to kill him due to some existing rivalry and due to the injuries sustained by his brother, he died.

28. P.W.-1 has then stated that from home his brother i.e. deceased went to the market first and he went later (about an hour later, he went to the market). P.W.-1 did not scribe any report until he went to the hospital from the place of incident and his brother died in the hospital. Whatever the deceased was saying in the hospital and at home, he did not write in the report.

29. In the cross-examination, P.W.-1 has stated that when he went to the police station, his signature was made on the report. His clothes were not taken, where the Investigating Officer had only seen. His statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer at the police station. Statement of Amarnath was also recorded there. In his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer, he had stated that his brother was conscious at that time.

30. In the cross-examination, when the defence counsel put a question to P.W.-1, the accused did not kill you?, P.W.-1 replied that the accused did not kill him.

31. P.W.-1 in his cross-examination has further stated that when his brother Ram Bali went to the market to buy medicine, he was not there. Ram Bali had gone to get medicine for his two children, as they were suffering from boils and fever. P.W.-1 has further stated that on that day, he was free but he did not go to take the medicine. P.W.-1 had taken ointment for boils and tablets. P.W.-1 did not know as to which medicines Ram Bali had received on the day of the incident. The deceased Ram Bali met him in the market and when he went to the spot where Ram Bali fell down in injured condition, he did not see any medicine there as also he did not find any prescription. P.W.-1 also did not find the money which the deceased had with him at that time. He did not see whether the deceased had anything in his pocket or not. P.W.-1 came at the spot when the Panchayatnama (inquest) was taking place. He did not see whether the deceased had any luggage or not.

32. P.W.-1 has further stated that he had gone to the market for a walk, not for any specific work. P.W.-3 Harishankar had also gone for a walk, there was no special work. P.W.-3 Harishankar is from his village and he is his old friend.

33. P.W.-1 has again stated that he did not remember that after the accused ran away, his brother was conscious and his father and other people also came and his brother disclosed the name of those who had beaten him, to his father.

34. P.W.-1 has stated that when P.W.-1 reached to rescue his brother, the accused had run away towards south. No man or witness from the south side came to the spot. P.W.-1 has denied that he did not see anyone beating or killing Ram Bali. He was beaten/killed in the darkness of the night.

35. P.W.-2 Dr. D. Mondal, Retired Senior Medical Officer, District Hospital, Jaunpur has medically examined the deceased Ram Bali when he was admitted. P.W.-2 has found as many as 18 injuries on the body of the then injured Ram Bali. P.W.-2 has stated that at the time when he was examining the deceased, he found that the condition of the patient was critical and he was in a semi-conscious state. P.W.-2 has opined that injuries of the deceased were fresh and life-threatening and all injuries were kept under observation. He also stated that the deceased did not die in his presence.

36. P.W.-3 Hari Shanker Yadav, who happens to be the old friend of P.W.-1 in his examination-in-chief has stated that the incident is of 26th August, 1989. On the evening of the incident, he was returning to his home along with P.W.-1 Lal ji Yadav from Lakhouwan market. A little ahead of them, the deceased Rambali Yadav was also returning to his home from Lakhouwan market. He and P.W.1 could see Rambali Yadav, who was walking ahead. At around 6 o'clock in the evening, when Ram Bali had reached the unpaved road south of the railway line that goes from Lakhouwan Bazaar to Pakadi Bazaar, the accused Jwala Prasad alias Achhe Lal, Bankey Lal, Shankar (appellant), Shyam Bahadur armed with Gandasa and Mithai Lal armed with Lathi, who were already behind tuft of Sarpat, came out and surrounded Rambali and started assaulting him with Gandasa and lathi with intention to kill him. Rambali suffered fatal injuries due to the assault of those five accused. Rambali i.e. deceased, he and P.W.-1 had raised alarm. At the time of the incident, Sukhdev and Sant Ram, who were coming from the village towards the market, had reached the spot shouting. P.W.-1 Lal ji, Sukhdev and Santram/Saptram saw the entire incident very well and made the same statement. At the time of the incident it was sunset but there was ample light at that time and Rambali had fallen due to injury. There was rivalry and litigation between Rambali and the accused before the present incident.

37. P.W.-3 has further stated that after the accused ran away from the spot, the deceased Rambali's father, namely, Jai Shri also came to the place of incident and when Jai Sri inquired from the deceased Rambali as to who has assaulted him, in his presence, then Ram Bali, disclosed to his father Jai Shri that the accused Jwala Prasad, Baken Lal, Shyam Bahadur and Shankar (appellant) had hit him by Gandasa and the accused Mithai had hit him by lathi with intention to kill him, as such he would not survive.

38. In the cross-examination, P.W.-3 has stated that before the present case, on the report of accused Shyam Bahadur, a case under Sections 325, 323, 308 etc. of I.P.C. was going on and the same is pending before the Court of Additional District Judge-IX. A cross case was also pending in the same court against the accused Shyam Bahadur, Achhelal, Devraj, Shanker (appellant) etc. who were accused in the said case on the report of Harilal son Jagan in which he, P.W.-1 Lal Ji and his father Jai Sri were the witnesses against the accused. P.W.-3 was also an injured person and a witness in both the cases. P.W.-3 was also a witness in the case of State vs Shyam Bahadur etc. and apart from him, P.W.-1 Lal ji and his father Jai Sri were also witnesses in the said case. P.W.-3 has also stated that he did not know whether the deceased Rambali was a witness or an accused in the above two cases or not. The above two cases were going on before the instant case. A case under Sections 107/116 was also going on between the parties. In reply to a question put by the defence counsel that when his family members and villagers came to the spot, whether the accused ran away from the spot or not, in answer to this, P.W.3 has stated that before his family members and villagers came to the spot, the accused ran away.

39. P.W.-3 has further stated that he did not always come along with the deceased Rambali. On that day, he and P.W.1 were behind the deceased. He had gone to the market wearing shirt and slippers. Lal ji was wearing pyjama, kurta and slippers. Rambali was carrying a wooden sieve and medicines in his hand. When they were carrying him to the hospital, blood was falling from Rambali's body. His sieve, slippers and medicine were left behind. The investigating officer had not prepared any paper regarding the present incident.

40. This witness has further stated that he and P.W.-1 were a little away from the place of incident, therefore they did not look at the people stooping down. He did not remember whether it was dark or bright from the time of the incident till returning home. P.W.-3 has denied that any incident about which he has given his statement was not seen by him. He has also denied that he was not coming behind the deceased. He has further denied that he did not see as to who has assaulted the deceased. He has then denied that on the date and time of incident, the deceased Rambali did not go to the market nor was he returning after taking goods. He has lastly denied that the accused persons have been falsely implicated due to earlier litigations between the parties.

41. P.W.-4 Inspector Jagannath Tiwari has investigated the case and after conducting the same in terms of statutory provision under Chapter XII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, he has submitted the charge-sheet against the accused persons including the appellant.

42. P.W.-4 in his cross-examination has stated that he never went to the hospital during the investigation nor did he see any register of the hospital on which the inspection took place or the form on which the patient was admitted. He has also stated that during investigation he did not find out from where the informant/P.W.1 was coming and also no doctor's prescription and medicine were found. He knew that the patient's name is recorded in the register of the doctor's office but he did not find out. The informant/P.W.-1 did not say about the same in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He has further stated that in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the informant/P.W.1 did not say that his brother was conscious at that time. He also did not say that after the accused ran away, the people of his village had also come and his brother i.e. the deceased had disclosed the names of those who hit him to his father. P.W.-1 did not say that Amarnath Yadav had also gone to the hospital along with him. His brother had also revealed the names of those who hit him in front of Amarnath.

43. P.W.-5 Inspector Mahmood Alam, who after appointing five witnesses had conducted the inquest of the deceased has stated that after getting the dead body of the deceased sealed and after preparing the form 13 and photo lash, form no. 3, letter to the Chief Medical Officer, had sent the dead body of the deceased to the Hospital along with two constables, namely, Harshnath Yadav and Surendra Nath Tiwari. This witness has also proved the same before the Court.

44. Dr. Shitanshu Shekhar Banerjee has been examined as P.W.-6. This witness has conducted the post-mortem of the body of the deceased.

45. For coming to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case against the accused including the appellant beyond reasonable doubt, it is important for this Court to scrutinize the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses deeply, which have been relied upon by the trial court while passing the impugned judgment.

46. As per the prosecution case, P.W.-1 Lalji Yadav, P.W.-3 Hari Shanker Yadav and Amarnath were the eye-witnesses but Amarnath was not examined as prosecution witness as he died during the course of trial.

47. Therefore, first this Court may peruse the testimony of P.W.-1. In the examination-in-chief, P.W.-1 has stated that on screaming of the deceased, he and P.W.-3 moved towards the spot and on shouting of P.W.-1 and P.W.-3, charge-sheeted witnesses Sukhdeo and Santram reached at the place of occurrence and when they reached there, all the accused ran away towards south, then P.W.-1 reached to his injured brother i.e. deceased, meaning thereby that when P.W.-1 reached at the alleged place of occurrence, the incident had already taken place and P.W.-1 has not seen as to who has assaulted the deceased and by which weapon, which makes the presence of this witness as an eye witness is doubtful. For ready reference, the above statement is extracted here-under:

"भाई के चिल्लाने पर मैं व हरि शंकर भी कुछ दूर पर पहुंच गये थे। हम लोग भी जोर से चिल्लाने लगे। हम लोगों का शोर सुनकर गांव की तरफ से सुखदेव व संतराम पहुंच गये। इन लोगों के आने पर मुल्जिमान भाग कर दक्षिण तरफ भागे। मैं अपने भाई के पास गया।"

48. Similarly, in his cross-examination, this witness has stated as under:

"जब हम लोग अपनी भाई को उठाने के लिए पहुंचे तो मुल्जिमान भाग गए थे। दक्षिण की तरफ भाग गए। दक्षिण की तरफ से कोई आदमी या गवाह मौके पर नहीं आया था।"

49. In the cross-examination, this witness has stated that from home his brother i.e. deceased went to the market first and he went later. About an hour he went to the market.

50. Further in the cross-examination this witness has stated that when the deceased was injured, he went, where he did not see any medicine or any prescription nor any money was found by him. This statement will also go to show that when the deceased had already sustained injuries, then this witness reached to the deceased, which also cast a dent in the presence of P.W.-1.

51. This witness has not stated anywhere in his statement as to why he went to the market. In the cross-examination he has only stated as under:

"मैं वैसे टहलने के लिए बाजार चला गया था, कोई खास काम से नहीं गया था। हरिशंकर भी वैसे घूमने टहलने चले गए थे कोई खास काम नहीं था।"

52. In the examination-in-chief, P.W.-1 has stated that after the accused ran away, his father Jai Sri and other people came from the house and the deceased disclosed the names of persons, who assaulted him to his father, whereas in his cross-examination, he has stated that his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer in which he has stated that his brother i.e. deceased was conscious and after the accused ran away, his father and other people came and his brother i.e. deceased disclosed the names of accused to his father. This witness has also stated in his cross-examination that when the deceased disclosed the names of accused to his father, Amarnath was also present there. When as a matter of fact father of the deceased, namely, Jai Sri and Amarnath to certify such disclosure were not produced during the course of trial. However, such statements of P.W.-1 have not been supported by the Investigating Officer i.e. P.W.-4. The relevant statements of P.W.-4 are extracted here-under:

"वादी ने अपने ब्यान मे यह नहीं बतलाया था कि, " मेरे भाई उस समय होश में थे। मुल्जिमान के भागने के बाद मेरे पिता जी वा अन्य लोग भी आ गये थे। और भाई ने मारने वालो का नाम पिता जी को बतलाया था।" यह बात भी गवाह ने नहीं बताया था कि मेरे साथ अमरनाथ यादव भी अस्पताल गये थे, मेरे भाई ने अमरनाथ के सामने भी मारने वालो का नाम बतलाया था।"

53. Such statements of P.W.-1 also create a doubt on the ground that when P.W.-1 qua his presence at the time of occurrence, who happens to be brother of the deceased, was already present at the place of occurrence along with P.W.-3 and Amarnath, why the deceased, who was in serious condition, has not disclosed the names of accused to his brother i.e. P.W.-1 and why he waited his father to disclose the same to him.

54. There is major contradictions in the testimony of P.W.-2. In the cross-examination, at one place this witness has stated that at the time of incident the deceased was conscious but at another place he has stated that he did not remember after the accused ran away, whether his brother i.e. deceased was conscious or not? Similarly, in the cross-examination, at one place, this witness has stated that when the deceased went to the market for taking medicine, he was not there, but at another place this witness has stated that in the market, he met the deceased Rambali.

55. Apart from the above, from the statements of P.W.-1, it is apparently clear that there was inimical terms between his side and the accused side as there were litigations pending before the concerned court against each other as per the own statement of P.W.-1. Even otherwise, P.W.-1 being the brother of the deceased, is an interested and partisan witness.

56. There is major contradiction in the statement of P.W.-3. In-examination-in-chief, this witness has stated that at the time of incident, the sun had set but at that time there was adequate light. However, in the cross-examination this witness has stated that he did not remember whether that there was dark night or bright after the incident till his returning to home? Before this statement this witness has stated that he and P.W.-1 were a little away from the place of occurrence.

57. There is also contradiction in the testimonies of P.W.-1 and P.W.-3. In his examination-in-chief, P.W.-1 has stated that on screaming of the deceased, P.W.-1 and P.W.-3 reached at some distance and they also started shouting and on hearing the same, Sukhdeo and Santram reached and when they came, all the accused ran away towards south. The relevant statement is extracted hereunder:

"भाई के चिल्लाने पर मैं व हरि शंकर भी कुछ दूर पर पहुंच गये थे। हम लोग भी जोर से चिल्लाने लगे। हम लोगों का शोर सुनकर गांव की तरफ से सुखदेव व संतराम पहुंच गये। इन लोगों के आने पर मुल्जिमान भाग कर दक्षिण तरफ भागे। मैं अपने भाई के पास गया।"

58. When as matter of fact in the examination-in-chief P.W.-3 has stated that when the accused assaulted the deceased, the deceased himself, P.W.-1 and P.W.-3 shouted, then at that time, Sukhdeo and Santram, who were coming to the village from the market, while exhorting reached there. P.W.-1, P.W.-3, Sukhdeo and Santram saw the incident very well. The relevant statement is extracted here-under:

"रामबली मैं तथा लाल जी ने शोर किया था। मौके पर घटना के समय सुखदेव तथा स्तराम जो गांव की तरफ से बाजार की तरफ आ रहे थे ललकारते हुए मौके पर पहुंच गये थे मैंने लाल जी, सुखदेव तथा सन्तराम ने पूरी घटना भली भांती देखा तथा वही बयान किया।"

59. P.W.-3 had also inimical terms with the accused persons including the appellant, which has been admitted by P.W.-3 in his cross-examination itself. For ready reference, the same is quoted here-under:

"मेरे नाम बल्लियत का दुसरा व्यक्ति मेरे गांव मे कोई नहीं है। इस मुकदमा के पहले श्याम बहादुर अभियुक्त की रिपोर्ट पर थाना बक्सा से धारा 325, 323, 308 आदि का मुकदमा चल रहा है। यह मुकदमा ADJ 9 के यहा लम्बित है। इसका Cross Case हरिलाल पुत्र जगन की रिपोर्ट पर श्याम बहादुर अच्छेलाल देवरान, शंकर आदि जो इस मुकदमे में अभियुक्त है उनके खिलाफ उसी न्यायालय में पहले से चल रहा है। यह मुकदमा हरिलाल के रिपोर्ट पर चल रहा है जिसमें मैं गवाह लाल जी और जय श्री पुत्र जगरूम मुल्जिमान के खिलाफ गवाह है। इन दोनो मुकदमो में मैं भी चोटईल व

गवाह हूँ। मैं स्टेट बनाम श्याम बहादुर आदि मे गवाह हूँ मेरे अलावा लाल जी और जयश्री जो लाल जी के पिता है उसमे गवाह व चोटईल है। कहा मुझे पता नहीं कि उपरोक्त दोनों मुकदमे में मृतक रामबली गवाह या मुल्जिम है या नहीं। यह मुकदमे घटना के पहले से चल रहे हैं। इन पार्टीयो के बीच में 107/116 का मुकदमा भी पुलिस ने चलाया था।"

60. P.W.-3 is also an interested witness, as he is old friend of P.W.-1, as is admitted by P.W.-1 in his testimony. He is also a chance witness. Like P.W.-1, P.W.-3 also reached at the place of occurrence along with P.W.-1, when the incident had already taken place.

61. From bare scrutiny of the aforesaid testimonies of P.W.-1 and P.W.-3, who are stated to be eye-witnesses of the incident as per the prosecution, it is crystal clear that such testimonies of P.W.-1 and P.W.-3 are not reliable and trustworthy, on the basis of which it can be said that the accused has committed the alleged crime and they could be held guilty for the same.

62. Now this Court comes to examine the submission made by Mr. Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the informant that the disclosure made by the deceased to his father Jai Sri who reached at the place of occurrence after the accused ran away as to who has assaulted him, be treated to be dying declaration of the deceased.

63. It is the duty of the prosecution to establish the charge against the accused beyond the reasonable doubt. The benefit of doubt must always go in favour of the accused.

64. It is true that dying declaration is a substantive piece of evidence to be relied on provided it is proved that the same was voluntary and truthful and the victim was in a fit state of mind. It is just not enough for the court to say that such dying declaration like the disclosure made by the deceased to his father in an injured condition, is reliable as the accused is named in such disclosure/ dying declaration as the assailant.

65. It is unsafe to record the conviction on the basis of a dying declaration alone in the cases where suspicion, like the case in hand is raised, as regards the correctness of the dying declaration. In such cases, the Court may have to look for some corroborative evidence by treating the dying declaration only as a piece of evidence. The evidence and material available on record must be properly weighed in each case to arrive at an appropriate conclusion.

66. In the case of Irfan alias Naka Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1060, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph-60 has opined as follows:

"62. There is no hard and fast rule for determining when a dying declaration should be accepted; the duty of the Court is to decide this question in the facts and surrounding circumstances of the case and be fully convinced of the truthfulness of the same. Certain factors below reproduced can be considered to determine the same, however, they will only affect the weight of the dying declaration and not its admissibility: -

(i) Whether the person making the statement was in expectation of death?

(ii) Whether the dying declaration was made at the earliest opportunity? "Rule of First Opportunity"

(iii) Whether there is any reasonable suspicion to believe the dying declaration was put in the mouth of the dying person?

(iv) Whether the dying declaration was a product of prompting, tutoring or leading at the instance of police or any interested party?

(v) Whether the statement was not recorded properly?

(vi) Whether, the dying declarant had opportunity to clearly observe the incident?

(vii) Whether, the dying declaration has been consistent throughout?

(viii) Whether, the dying declaration in itself is a manifestation / fiction of the dying person's imagination of what he thinks transpired?

(ix) Whether, the dying declaration was itself voluntary?

(x) In case of multiple dying declarations, whether, the first one inspires truth and consistent with the other dying declaration?

(xi) Whether, as per the injuries, it would have been impossible for the deceased to make a dying declaration?"

67. In a case where a person was in serious state, it was necessary to ascertain the fit mental state of the injured before accepting the dying declaration. Paragraph-9 of the judgment is reproduced hereunder:-

"9. It is true that the medical officer Dr. K.Vishnupriya Devi (PW 10) at the end of the dying declaration had certified patient is conscious while recording the statement. It has come on record that the injured Smt. Venkata Ramana had sustained extensive burn injuries on her person. Dr. P.Koteswara Rao (PW 9) who performed the post mortem stated that injured had sustained 90% burn injuries. In this case as stated earlier, the prosecution case solely rested on the dying declaration. It was, therefore, necessary for the prosecution to prove the dying declaration being genuine, true and free from all doubts and it was recorded when the injured was in a fit state of mind. In our opinion, the certificate appended to the dying declaration at the end by Dr. Smt. K.Vishnupriya Devi (PW 10) did not comply with the requirement inasmuch as she has failed to certify that the injured was in a fit state of mind at the time of recording the dying declaration. The certificate of the said expert at the end only says that patient is conscious while recording the statement. In view of these material omissions, it would not be safe to accept the dying declaration (Ex.P-14) as true and genuine and was made when the injured was in a fit state of mind. From the judgments of the courts below, it appears that this aspect was not kept in mind and resultantly erred in accepting the said dying declaration (Ex.P-14) as a true, genuine and was made when the injured was in a fit state of mind. In medical science two stages namely conscious and a fit state of mind are distinct and are not synonymous. One may be conscious but not necessarily in a fit state of mind. This distinction was overlooked by the courts below.

68. The observation made in the case of Paparambaka Rosamma (supra) has been reiterated in a subsequent decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Naresh Kumar Vs. Kalawati & Others reported in 2021 SCC OnLine SC 260, wherein the Supreme Court after referring to the above quoted paragraph no. 9 observed as under in para-13:-

“13. In the facts and circumstances of the present case, considering that the statements of the deceased have vacillated, there is no evidence about the fitness of mind of the deceased to make the dying declaration including the presence of the Doctor, the veracity and truthfulness of the dying declaration remains suspect. It would not be safe to simply reject the probable defence of suicide, to reverse the acquittal and convict the respondents.”

(Emphasis supplied by us)

69. In the facts of the present case, neither the contents of the dying declaration were read out to the injured/deceased nor to the father of the deceased, namely, Jai Sri, who could certify such disclosure, as in his presence such disclosure has been made by the deceased in respect of the person, who has assaulted him. As also the father of the deceased certifying such disclosure of the deceased, was not produced during the course of trial so that the defence could have an opportunity to cross-examine such disclosure. In Suriender Kumar Vs. State of Haryana reported in (2011) 10 SCC 173, the Supreme Court questioned the dying declaration also on the ground that such a satisfaction about the contents of the dying declaration having read out to the victim was missing. In paragraph no. 25 of the judgment, the Supreme Court observed as under:-

“25.As per the prosecution, the incident took place at 2 a.m. on 26.06.1991 and as per her statement, the occurrence of burning was in the evening of 25.06.1991, that is, the previous day. The dying declaration did not carry a certificate by the Executive Magistrate to the effect that it was a voluntary statement made by the deceased and that he had read over the statement to her. The dying declaration was not even attested by the doctor. As stated earlier, though the Magistrate had stated that the statement had been made in mixed dialect of Hindi and Punjabi and the statement was recorded only in Hindi. Another important aspect is that there was evidence that Kamlesh Rani was under the influence of Fortwin and Pethidine injections and was not supposed to be having normal alertness. In our view, the trial Court rightly rejected the dying declaration altogether shrouded by suspicious circumstances and contrary to the story of prosecution and acquitted the appellant."

(Emphasis supplied by us)

70. We also find substance in the submission made by the learned counsel for the accused-appellant that there is a delay in lodging of the first information report. It is clear from the first information report that the alleged incident took place at 06:00 p.m. (evening) on 26th August, 1989, whereas the first information report was registered on 27th August, 1989 at 04:00 a.m. (morning), for which there is no explanation, which also cast a dent in the prosecution version.

71. It is also not clear from the prosecution version as to where the deceased has been done to death because of inconsistency in the testimony of P.W.-1 Lalji Yadav and P.W.-3 Hari Shanker Yadav.

72. In such circumstances, we are of the view that the court below has not examined the evidence led by the prosecution in correct perspective and the finding returned by it that the prosecution has succeeded in proving its case beyond reasonable doubt cannot be sustained. The prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the accused-appellant on the basis of evidence led at the stage of trial by the prosecution. The conviction and sentence of accused-appellant is consequently reversed.

73. In view of the discussions and deliberations held above, the present appeals succeed and are allowed. The judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 25th March, 2004 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-IV, Jaunpur in Sessions Trial No. 41 of 1990 (State of U.P. Vs. Jwala Prasad & Others), arising out of Case Crime No. 110 of 1989, under Sections 148, 149 and 302 of I.P.C., Police Station-Baxa, District-Jaunpur against the accused appellant, is set aside.

74. The accused appellant Shanker Yadav, who is reported to be in jail, shall be released forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case on compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

75. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jaunpur, henceforth, for necessary compliance.

State of U.P.	...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri B.K. Tripathi, Sri Anil Kumar, Sri Arun Srivastava, Sri Manish Jaiswal, Sri Naveen Kumar Yadav, Sri Sheshadri Trivedi, Sri Sriprakash Dwivedi, Sri Vijay Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Respondent:

Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 302, 307, 506 & 504 – Arms Act, 1959 – Sections 3, 25 & 27 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 161 & 313 – Criminal Appeal Against Conviction and Sentence – Murder – Attempt to Murder – Criminal Intimidation – Illegal Arms Possession – Eye-Witness Testimony – Recovery of Weapon – Forensic Evidence – Motive – Reliability of Witnesses

The appellant, Vinay Kumar Jaiswal, challenged the judgment dated 16.05.2012 by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 2, Maharajganj, in Sessions Trial No. 9 of 2010, convicting him under Section 302 IPC (life imprisonment, Rs. 10,000 fine, 6 months additional imprisonment in default), Section 307 IPC (7 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 5,000 fine, 6 months additional imprisonment in default), Section 506 IPC (2 years imprisonment), and Section 3/25 Arms Act (1 year imprisonment, Rs. 1,000 fine, 6 months additional imprisonment in default), with sentences to run concurrently. The prosecution alleged that on 07.05.2009 at 5:30 AM, the appellant shot his brother, Dileep Kumar Jaiswal (deceased), in the head and his mother, Durgawati Devi, in the chest, due to disputes over a saw mill and a Rs. 5,00,000 loan, killing Dileep and injuring Durgawati, who later died. The FIR was lodged by PW-1 (Sarita Jaiswal, deceased's wife), supported by PW-2 (Ashok Kumar Jaiswal, her brother), medical evidence, forensic reports, and recovery of a country-made pistol and cartridges. The appellant claimed false implication, alleging PW-1 and PW-2 were absent and the recovery was fabricated. Held: (1) The appeal was dismissed, upholding the convictions and sentences. (2) PW-1 and PW-2 were reliable eye-witnesses, providing consistent details despite rigorous cross-examination; defence claims of their absence were unsupported, as DW-1 and DW-2

(Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal, appellant's brother, who married PW-1) lacked credibility due to inconsistencies and bias. (3) The recovery of the pistol and cartridges, corroborated by forensic reports (Ex. Ka-19, Ka-20), confirmed the weapon's use in the crime. (4) Motive was established through PW-1's testimony of disputes over the saw mill and the appellant's financial demands. (5) Medical evidence, including the postmortem (Ex. Ka-2) and medico-legal report (Ex. Ka-5), supported firearm injuries with blackening and charring, consistent with prosecution claims. (6) Durgawati's Section 161 Cr.P.C. Statement (Ex. Ka-15), though not admissible as evidence, was unchallenged by the appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. (7) Defence witnesses (DW-1, DW-2) were unreliable, and the trial court correctly evaluated the evidence, proving guilt beyond reasonable doubt.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Singh Sangwan, J.)

1. The present appeal arises out of judgment of conviction dated 16.5.2012 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 2, Maharajganj in Sessions Trial No.9 of 2010 holding appellant-Vinay Kumar Jaiswal guilty of offence under Section 302, 307 & 506 of IPC read with Section 3/25 of Arms Act. Vide order of sentence dated 17.5.2012, the accused-appellant was awarded imprisonment for life under Section 302 IPC with fine of Rs.10,000/-. Under Section 307 IPC, he was sentenced to seven years of rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 5000/-, under Section 506 of IPC, imprisonment for two years and under Section 3/25 of the Arms Act, the appellant was sentenced to one year imprisonment with fine of Rs.1000/-. It was directed that in case of default in payment of fine, the appellant would further undergo imprisonment for six months. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. It is worth noticing that the Supreme Court of India vide order dated 16.12.2022 had directed the High Court to decide the appeal expeditiously. Paper book is complete and trial court's record has been received.

3. Learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA for the State have addressed their respective arguments and with their assistance, the entire evidence is re-scrutinized and re-appreciated.

4. As per the prosecution, informant-Sarita Jaiswal, PW-1 (wife of deceased-Dileep Kumar Jaiswal), gave a complaint (Ex.Ka-1) that her husband runs a saw mill which is in the name of her mother-in-law, Smt. Durgawati Devi. Her mother-in-law is residing with her husband. The elder brother of her husband, appellant-Vinay Kumar Jaiswal, had separated after the death of their father and used to demand money from her husband. On 7.5.2009, at about 5.30 in the morning, the appellant fired on the head of his brother (deceased-Dileep Kumar Jaiswal) and when his mother-Durgawati Devi tried to intervene, the appellant also fired upon her which hit her on chest and by abusing and threatening, he ran away from the spot. The informant and other brother of her husband namely Ashok alias Raju Jaiswal and other family members took the injured to Medical College, Gorakhpur, where Dileep Kumar Jaiswal died and Durgawati was admitted. On receiving the information, the formal F.I.R. was registered.

5. During the course of investigation, the police recovered the weapon of offence from the appellant along with live cartridges. From the spot, bloodstained earth was also recovered and a bullet was recovered from the head of the deceased during the postmortem which was also taken into possession by the police. The cartridges both empty and live were sent to F.S.L. for examination. Thereafter, charge-sheet was presented before the Trial Court and charges under Section 307, 302, 504 & 506 of IPC read with Section 3/25/27 of the Arms Act were framed.

6. The appellant did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

7. In prosecution evidence, the informant (PW-1) reiterated her version. It was stated by her that her husband, Late Dileep Kumar Jaiswal, were four brothers. The eldest is Ashok alias Raju Jaiswal, younger to him is Vinay Jaiswal (accused-appellant), at number three was her husband (deceased Dileep) and the youngest is Pradeep Kumar alias Chhotu. She further stated that after the death of her father-in-law namely Shiv Kumar Jaiswal, her husband separated from his two brothers, Ashok alias Raju and Vinay Kumar Jaiswal who had got their share separated and started their separate business. It was further stated that her mother-in-law and youngest brother of her husband, Pradeep alias Chhotu were staying with her husband and they were working on saw mill which was in the name of her mother-in-law and this property was not divided. She further stated that accused-Vinay Kumar had taken Rs.5,00,000/- from her husband and spent this amount on bad habits.

8. On 7.5.2009, when she was getting ready to go to her parental home and her husband was sleeping, suddenly she heard a noise of firing. She along with her brother-Ashok (PW-2), brother-in-law, Raju and mother-in-law, Durgawati Devi, went towards the room where her husband was sleeping. Accused-appellant was carrying a revolver and before they could understand anything, he fired upon her mother-in-law, Durgawati, on her chest. By extending threat, accused-Vinay Kumar Jaiswal, ran away. In the meantime, many people gathered. Injured persons were taken to Medical College, Gorakhpur where Dileep died and her mother-in-law was admitted.

9. In cross examination, the defence tried to prove that PW-1 was not present at the spot. However, in her cross examination, PW-1 has given complete details of the manner in which the incident took place, the manner in which the injured persons were taken to the hospital, the manner in which the information was given to the police and the investigation carried out by the police at the spot. This witness categorically stated that her brother (PW-2) was there at her matrimonial home as on previous day i.e. 6.5.2009, he had come to take her back for attending some function at her parental home. One suggestion was given to this witness that at the time of incident she was at her parental home and was not present in matrimonial home, however, she denied the suggestion that she along with her brother was not present at the spot.

10. Ashok Kumar Jaiswal (PW-2) narrated the incident as stated by PW-1. He has also given the complete details of giving complaint to the police and taking the injured persons to the hospital. In cross examination, the defence tried to prove that he was not present on the spot. However, this witness was consistent in giving details of the incident. He has also denied the suggestion by defence that on the date of incident, he along with his sister (PW-1) had gone to their parental home and on receiving information from the brother of the deceased, they reached the medical college.

11. Sanjay Jaiswal (PW-3), is the neighbour of the deceased as well as the accused. This witness also gave the description of the incident by saying that when he reached the house of Dileep (deceased), he found both Dileep and his mother-Durgawati lying injured due to bullet injuries. This witness also stated that there used to be panchayat between Vinay Kumar (appellant) and Dileep Kumar (deceased) regarding partition of saw mill. However, this witness stated that on 24.5.2009, the Investigating Officer, in his presence, did not record any confession of accused (Vinay Kumar) or effected any recovery from the accused. Qua this part of statement, this witness was declared hostile. He was cross examined by government pleader. In cross examination, he stated that after 5-6 months, Durgawati died and Vinay Kumar had surrendered before the Court. This witness further denied the suggestion as incorrect about the deposition made by him that after 4-5 days of the incident, the SHO came and took him and Raju (brother of accused) to the house of accused-Vinay Kumar, from where, his wife-Rekha produced a revolver wrapped in a newspaper and memo was prepared by SHO which was exhibited as Ex.15-Kha/2. In further cross examination by the defence, this witness again stated that the revolver was recovered from Rekha vide recovery memo 15Kha/2 and he had signed on the same which he identified. However, he stated that, on 24.5.2009, the Investigating Officer, after taking order from the Court had taken Vinay Kumar Jaiswal to the police station where signature of PW-3 was taken on a blank paper. This witness further deposed that PW-1 & PW-2 were not present at the spot and also stated that nobody knew as to who had fired upon Dileep Kumar (deceased) and his mother and he had given information to PW-1 & PW-2 on mobile phone.

12. Ganesh Jaiswal (PW-4) is a witness of Panchayatnama (Ex.Ka-21). In cross examination, this witness stated that both, PW-1 and PW-3, were not present on the spot.

13. Shiv Raj (PW-5) submitted that he was witness of recovery of the bloodstained earth collected by S.H.O. However, he denied having made any recovery in his presence. This witness was declared hostile.

14. Dr. Mukesh Kumar Srivastava (PW-6) conducted the postmortem of Dileep Kumar Jaiswal (deceased) and found that there was an entry wound on right parietal region with blackening and charring of size 1 x 1 cm bone deep. The bone was fractured and bullet was found inside the brain. He also stated that another injury wound with blackening and charring was present below the injury No.1 on the right parietal region of 1 x 1 cm with inverted margin. The bone was fractured and a bullet was recovered from the left side of parietal bone. He opined that death was due to shock and haemorrhage on account of receiving gunshot injuries. He prepared the postmortem report (Ex.Ka-2). This witness stated that two bullets which were retrieved from the wound of the deceased were sealed along with clothes and were handed over to the constable who had brought the dead body for postmortem and copies were sent to Chief Medical Officer, Gorakhpur and Senior Superintendent of Police, Gorakhpur. In cross examination, this witness stated that the weapon of offence was not produced before him at the time when his statement was recorded.

15. Head Constable Dileep Kumar Singh (PW-7) stated that on 7.5.2009, informant-Sarita Jaiswal gave a written complaint in the Police Station, upon which, he registered the F.I.R. (Ex.Ka-3) and copy of the same in the original G.D. was entered at 9.15 a.m. In cross examination, this witness stated that he has not brought the original G.D.

16. Dr. A.K. Srivastava (PW-8) prepared the medico-legal report of Durgawati Devi and found that injury No.1 is on the left side of the chest with inverted margin of 1 x 0.8 cm which is six centimetre towards the centre from nipple with blackening. Injury No.2 was on the left lower side of the chest .8 cm x .8 cm having inverted margins. He opined that the injuries were caused with firearm. This witness produced the original record and the medico-legal report was exhibited as Ex.Ka-5.

17. Rafiq Ahmad (PW-9), the Investigating Officer, deposed about investigation carried out by him. He proved the site plan and recovered the bloodstained earth which was sealed vide recovery memo (Ex.Ka-7) . Bloodstained bed sheet along with bloodstained mattress cover were recovered vide recovery memo (Ex.Ka-8 and Ex. Ka-9) . Thereafter, this witness went to B.R.D. Medical College on 8.5.2009 where Durgawati was admitted in emergency ward. There, he met Constable Moharir who gave him carbon copy of postmortem report, one sealed packet in which the bullets recovered from the body of the deceased were kept and copy of Panchayatnama. This witness stated that he tried to arrest the accused, however, on 15.5.2009, the accused surrendered before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate and thereafter, he was taken in custody. On 19.5.2009, his custody was taken from District Jail, Gorakhpur, where he recorded his confession statement about purchase of country made pistol along with cartridges and committing murder of his brother and causing injuries to his mother. This witness stated that the accused had concealed the country made pistol near Lehra Station. Thereafter, by taking permission from the Court on 24.5.2009, weapon of offence was recovered at the instance of accused. This witness further stated that in his confession, the accused admitted that he has committed murder of his brother and caused injuries to his mother. The confession statement of accused was exhibited as Ex.Ka-11. The country made pistol was taken in possession vide recovery memo Ex.Ka.12 and the site plan as Ex.Ka.13. After coming back to the Police Station, this witness added Section 3/25/27 of the Arms Act in Original G.D. and this was exhibited as Ex.Ka-14. This witness stated that on 6.7.2009, he reached the house of Durgawati where he recorded a statement which was also recorded in Case Diary. Statement of Durgawati under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in toto was recorded in the Case Diary and was attested which is Ex.Ka-15. On the same date, the memo was attested by Deepak Agarwal and Shivraj and statements of other witnesses were also recorded. This witness stated that after 4-5 months, Durgawati Devi died. This witness further proved sending of weapon of offence along with live cartridges, bloodstained clothes and earth, to Forensic Science Laboratory. This witness produced the case property as noticed above which were exhibited before the Trial Court.

18. This witness has also proved the country made pistol, live cartridges and empty cartridges which were inspected by Forensic Science Laboratory and were marked as 'Report of F.S.L.' This witness also stated that country made pistol along with empty cartridges and two live cartridges were the same which were recovered from accused-appellant.

19. This witness was subjected to lengthy cross examination. With regard to Ex.Ka-15, this witness stated that statement of Durgawati was recorded at her residence and the same was recorded in the Case Diary, however, there were no witness to her statement.

20. Further, with regard to recovery of country made pistol on 24.5.2009, a suggestion was given that the same was not recovered on the spot, however, this witness denied the same and stated that the country made pistol and cartridges were recovered under the Mango Tree, concealed with the dry grass and no one had access to that place.

21. S.H.O. Harish Chandra (PW-10) stated that he had verified the investigation conducted in the case and the case property along with other records were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory by preparing a docket through Constable Naval Kishore Sharma.

22. S.I. Ajit Kumar Mishra (PW-11), who had also conducted part of investigation, stated that during his investigation, he received ballistic report and forensic report from the Forensic Science Laboratory which were the part of Charge-sheet and were exhibited as Ex.Ka-19 & Ex.Ka-20 respectively. In cross examination, he stated that while seeking permission from the District Magistrate to conduct the case under the Arms Act, he had mentioned the details of recovery in the Case Diary.

23. S.I. Ambika Prasad Tiwari (PW-12) is a witness who had prepared the Panchayatnama (Ex.Ka-21) along with statements Ex.Ka-22 to Ex.Ka-25. In cross examination, this witness stated that he could not tell whether wife of the deceased and her brother were present there or not.

24. Thereafter, statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded and all the incriminating evidence was put to him.

25. In majority of the questions relating to Ex.Ka-1 to Ex.Ka-4, it was stated that fake reports were prepared. With regard to postmortem report, the accused replied that no postmortem was conducted. Regarding recording of statement of Durgawati (Ex.Ka-15) which was proved by PW-9, again a reply was given that the entire proceeding is fake and not done as per law. Regarding F.S.L. Report of country made pistol and cartridges, again he replied that the same is incorrect. Regarding another forensic report i.e. Ex.Ka-20 of bloodstained clothes and earth, the accused replied that he has nothing to say.

26. While putting all the statements of PW-1 to PW-12, the accused stated that they (prosecution witnesses) have made incorrect statements. The accused further stated that he want to lead defence witness.

27. In defence, Ashish Kumar Jaiswal (DW-1) appeared and stated that his house abutting the house of Dileep Kumar Jaiswal (deceased). On 7.5.2009, at about 5.30 a.m., he heard the voice of weeping and he went to the house of Dileep along with his brother- Sanjay and found that Dileep Kumar Jaiswal and his mother- Durgawati were injured and blood was oozing from their body. He along with his brother-Sanjay and Pradeep Jaiswal (another brother of deceased-Dileep) took Dileep and his mother to Medical College, Gorakhpur where Dileep died and his mother was admitted. This witness stated that Sarita (PW-1/wife of deceased) and Ashok Kumar Jaiswal (PW-2/brother of Sarita) were in village Naua Bari, Police Station - Jhangaha, District - Gorakhpur and they were not present at the house of the deceased. This witness stated that he and his brother-Sanjay intimated the same to them on mobile phone and thereafter, they came to the hospital and started crying.

28. He further stated that thereafter, Panchayatnama was conducted and postmortem of dead body was done. He stated that when he and other people enquired about the incident, the people who were present at the place of incident and at Medical College said that they had no knowledge of the person who had committed the offence.

29. This witness further stated that Sarita (PW-1) has performed marriage with brother of deceased namely Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal according to Hindu rites and ceremonies.

30. In cross examination by Public Prosecutor, this witness stated that he had no knowledge, when Sarita (PW-1) had gone to her parental home and he informed them (PW-1 & PW-2) through the mobile phone of his brother-Sanjay. However, this witness stated that after giving information, he did not remember if before or thereafter, he received any telephone call. On asking whether he can tell the mobile number of Sarita (PW-1) or her brother Ashok (PW-2), this witness stated that he cannot tell the same and denied that accused-appellant had committed the offence.

31. Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal (DW-2) stated that some unknown person had committed the murder of his brother and had also caused injuries to his mother by using firearm. He along with his brother accused-Vinay Kumar Jaiswal were sleeping about half kilometre away from the place of incident and Ganesh Jaiswal who lives in front of his house told him and Vinay that somebody had fired upon Dileep and, thereafter, he and Vinay Kumar went there and found that their brother-Dileep and mother-Durgawati were lying in injured condition. This witness further stated that he along with Ashish Kumar Jaiswal and Sanjay Jaiswal took his brother and mother to Medical College, Gorakhpur in a Maruti Car. This witness further stated that he told Sanjay Jaiswal to inform Sarita (PW-1) regarding the incident and to come to Medical College as a day prior to the incident, his sister-in-law, Sarita Devi (PW-1), had gone to her parental home to attend some function. When police conducted the Panchayatnama, both PW-1 and PW-2 reached there.

32. This witness further stated that four months before making his statement before the Court i.e. 27.4.2011, he had performed marriage with Sarita Devi (PW-1). This witness stated that he did not know as to who had committed murder of his brother-Dileep and further stated that he did not know as to why his statement was not recorded by the Investigating Officer and why he was named as a witness.

33. Lastly, he denied the suggestion that being brother of accused-Vinay Jaiswal, he was making false statement.

34. Jairam Shah (DW-3), an employee of the Medical College, admitted and proved the record relating to admission of Dileep Kumar Jaiswal and Durgawati which is at page Nos. 42 & 43 of the original register. As per the record, they were admitted by Ashish Jaiswal.

35. Hasim Ali (DW-4), an employee of the Office of C.O. Farenda, who brought the Z register in the Court and proved on record the chik report relating to F.I.R. (Ex.Ka-3).

36. Thereafter, the Trial Court vide impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence held the appellant guilty and sentenced him for life imprisonment.

37. Counsel for the appellant has firstly argued that presence of PW-1 and PW-2, the eye-witnesses, are highly doubtful. Counsel has placed reliance upon the statement of Sanjay Jaiswal (PW-3) to submit that he has stated that Sarita (PW-1) had gone to her parental home and even PW-2 was not present at the spot. Counsel further submits that in cross examination, S.I. Ambika Prasad (PW-12) has also stated that at the time of conducting the Panchayatnama, wife of the deceased (PW-1) and his brother-in-law (PW-2) were present or not, he could not state. Counsel further relied upon the statement of Ashish Kumar Jaiswal (DW-1) that at the time of incident, PW-1 and PW-2 were not present at the place of occurrence and he and his brother gave information to them on mobile phone which was informed by Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal. Counsel has also stated that Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal (DW-2/brother of deceased and accused-Vinay Kumar) had also stated that PW-1 and PW-2 were not present at the spot and he along with Ashish Jaiswal and Sanjay Jaiswal took the injured persons to the hospital. Counsel submits that it has also come in the statement of DW-3 that the injured persons were admitted in the hospital and if PW-1 and PW-2 were present, they would have admitted them in the hospital.

38. It is next argued that recovery of the country made pistol was not proved. Counsel relies upon the statement of PW-3 who has stated that after 4-5 days, the S.H.O. came at the house of Vinay Kumar and took him and Ashok Kumar alias Raju (brother of accused-Vinay Kumar) to the room of Vinay Kumar where his wife-Rakhi produced a country made pistol wrapped in a newspaper and Investigating Officer prepared some document regarding recovery, on which, they have signed which was tagged with the records.

39. Counsel submits that later on as per the prosecution, some recovery was effected at the pointing of accused on 24.5.2009 from an open place concealed under dry grass near Lehra Station and, therefore, recovery from the appellant is not proved.

40. It is next argued that no motive has been proved as to why the appellant has committed murder of his brother and caused injuries to his mother. Counsel has next argued that as per prosecution version, the firearm injuries were caused from close range but as per the Postmortem report, there was blackening and charring on the wound which occurs if the firearm is used from some distance.

41. Counsel further submitted that mother of the appellant was not examined as witness though she was a natural witness and the Trial Court has not given due weightage to defence evidence.

42. In reply, learned A.G.A. for the State has however submitted that both PW-1 and PW-2 are the natural witnesses and PW-1 being wife of the deceased was present in the house when the accident took place and despite lengthy cross examination, the defence could not put a dent to prove that she was not present at the spot as she has replied to every minute question put to her from the time of incident till recovery. It is further stated that she denied that she or her brother was not present on the spot. Similar is the evidence of PW-2 who was remained consistent with regard to his presence on the spot and the manner in which murder of Dileep was committed by the appellant.

43. Learned A.G.A. has also referred to the recovery effected from the appellant i.e. country made pistol, bullets retrieved from the body of the deceased, empty cartridges and live cartridges. Counsel has referred to the report of Forensic Science Laboratory (Ex.Ka-19 & Ex. Ka.20) wherein a categorical report was given that the cartridges sent for examination were matching with the weapon of offence and were fired upon by the same weapon.

44. Counsel has referred to the conclusion part of this report wherein it was stated that the disputed cartridges marked as EC-1, EC-2 & EC-3 were fired upon by pistol of .32 (point thirty two) bore marked as 1/10.

45. It is next argued that the recovery was effected from the accused on 24.5.2009 on his pointing out and no recovery was effected from the wife of accused.

46. Learned A.G.A. submits that had there been any such recovery at the instance of Rekha, the defence would have produced her as witness and, therefore, the statement of PW-3 to this effect is not relied upon as this witness was declared hostile as he was witness before whom the recovery was effected and this witness has admitted that his signatures are there on the recovery memo.

47. Learned A.G.A. has further argued that postmortem report of deceased-Dileep and medico-legal report of injured-Durgawati clearly suggest that both of them received firearm injuries because as per the injuries, the wounds were having blackening and charring.

48. Counsel further submitted that there was motive attributed to the accused as it has come in the statement of PW-3 that even on previous occasions, deceased-Dileep and accused-Vinay, both brothers, had convened Panchayat for partition of saw mill which was in the name of their mother-Durgawati.

49. Learned A.G.A. for the State further stated that it has come in the statement of PW-1 that accused-Vinay was spending money on his vices and had taken Rupees Five Lakhs from deceased-Dileep and, therefore, motive is proved.

50. Learned A.G.A. has referred to Ex.Ka-15 which is proved by PW-9, the Investigating Officer. This document is the copy of G.D. report wherein statement of Durgawati recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was entered. It is submitted that in this statement Durgawati stated that her son – Vinay Kumar committed murder of her another son-Dileep Kumar Jaiswal and also tried to commit her murder.

51. Learned A.G.A. submits that though statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is not admissible, however, in cross examination was offered to PW-9, the Investigating Officer regarding Ex.Ka-15 by suggesting that same was recorded in presence of two eye-witnesses and, therefore, in the absence of any statement of Durgawati recorded by Court, as she died within six months of incident, no adverse inference can be drawn.

52. Learned A.G.A. has lastly argued that all the incriminating evidence including Ex.Ka-15 was put to the appellant in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. but he could not give any explanation. Learned A.G.A. argued that Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal (DW-2) had stated that he accompanied Ashish Jaiswal and Sanjay Jaiswal to the Medical College but, this statement is an after thought as neither this witness lodged the First Information Report regarding murder of his own brother and injury to his mother nor he was a witness to Panchayatnama and even he did not get the injured admitted in the hospital which suggests that he was not present at the spot.

53. Learned A.G.A. submits that since this witness had performed marriage with Sarita (PW-1), he has made false statement in order to save his brother-Vinay Kumar Jaiswal.

54. After hearing the counsel for the parties, we find no merit in this appeal for the following reasons :

A. Counsel for the accused-appellant could not substantiate his arguments that Sarita Jaiswal (PW-)/Informant/wife of deceased-Dileep, was not present at the place and time of incident and is not an eye-witness.

A perusal of the examination-in-chief of PW-1 reveals that she has given a complete detail of incident as stated in the F.I.R. and investigated by the police. This witness stated that her husband (deceased-Dileep Jaiswal) had four brothers and, after the death of her father-in-law, the elder brothers namely Ashok alias Raju Jaiswal and accused-Vinay Kumar Jaiswal separated and started their independent business. However, mother and younger brother-Pradeep alias Chhotu were residing with deceased-Dileep. This witness has also stated that the accused was addicted to vices and even previously had taken Rupees Five Lakhs from his deceased brother-Dileep. She has further stated that her brother-Ashok (PW-2), a day prior to the incident, had come to her matrimonial house as she was to accompany him to attend some function at her parental home. However, on 7.5.2009 in the morning at about 6.00 a.m., the accused came with a revolver and murdered her husband and caused grievous injuries to her mother-in-law, Durgawati. Even during cross examination of both PW-1 and PW-2, nothing has come on record that they were not present at the spot as both the witnesses have replied to every minute cross examination regarding the manner of incident, the investigation, the Panchayatnama, postmortem report as well as further investigation.

Similarly, defence could not prove that Ashok Kumar Jaiswal (PW-2) who is real brother of PW-1 was also not present at the spot when the incident took place.

In order to prove that PW-1 and PW-2 were not present at the spot, the defence examined Ashish Kumar Jaiswal (DW-1), a neighbour, who stated that he had taken the deceased and his mother to hospital along with his own brother-Sanjay Jaiswal and brother of deceased namely Pradeep Jaiswal. However, this witness could not give satisfactory explanation about phone number used by him and Pradeep Jaiswal (DW-2) by which the alleged information was given to PW-1 and PW-2 to prove that they were not present at the spot and were at Village Naua Bari where DW-1 informed them.

Even Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal (DW-2) stated that he along with Ashish Jaiswal and Sanjay Jaiswal took his brother-Dileep and mother-Durgawati to Medical College. This witness also stated that PW-1 reached Medical College after the incident. However, this witness stated that four months prior to his statement before the Trial Court i.e. 27.4.2011, he performed marriage with Sarita (PW-1) who is widow of deceased-Dileep. Therefore, it is apparent that in order to save his brother (accused-Vinay Kumar Jaiswal), he appeared as defence witness. If this witness had gone to Medical College, his presence should have been marked in the record as well as the Panchayatnama which is missing.

Jairam Shah (DW-3), an employee of the Medical College, has proved that deceased-Dileep and injured-Durgawati were admitted by Ashish Jaiswal (DW-1). This statement also falsified the deposition of Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal (DW-2).

Therefore, we uphold the finding of the Trial Court that PW-1 and PW-2 are the eye-witnesses of the incident.

B. Next argument raised by the counsel for the appellant is that the recovery of weapon from the appellant is not proved is also without any substance. Counsel for the appellant has heavily relied upon the statement of PW-3 who was partly declared hostile with regard to recovery of weapon as he stated that 4-5 days after the incident, the Investigating Officer came to the house of accused-Vinay Kumar and in presence of Sanjay Jaiswal (PW-3) and Ashok Kumar Jaiswal alias Raju (brother of accused-Vinay Kumar), Rakhi (wife of accused) had produced the revolver wrapped in the newspaper. The Investigating Officer prepared recovery memo at spot which was signed by PW-3 and other witnesses. However, this witness stated that later on when accused-Vinay surrendered before the Court, the Investigating Officer had shown recovery on a subsequent date by changing date on the memo of recovery of weapon which was signed by PW-3 and other witnesses 4 – 5 days after the incident when Rakhi handed over the weapon. This aspect of PW-3 is without any substance as Rakhi, wife of Vinay Kumar, was never cited as defence to prove that she had handed over the weapon of offence to the Investigating Officer 4-5 days after the incident as it is the case of prosecution that Vinay Kumar surrendered before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate on 15.5.2009 and thereafter, as per the statement of Investigating Officer (PW-9), by taking permission from the Court, the accused was taken to the place of recovery and on his pointing out, the recovery of firearm was effected and recovery memo was prepared. Even there is no cutting on this record. This version of PW-3 has been rightly disbelieved by the Trial Court that the recovery was not effected from the house of the accused 4-5 days after the incident as accused was arrested after about 20 days of incident.

C. The argument raised by the counsel for the appellant that no motive is proved is also without any force as it has come in the statement of PW-1 that after the death of her father-in-law, two elder brothers of her husband had separated including appellant-Vinay Kumar. It has also come in the statement that Vinay Kumar was putting pressure on her husband for the partition of saw mill which was in the name of her mother-in-law namely Durgawati and he had even taken Rs.5,00,000/- from deceased-Dileep which he had spent on his bad habits. Therefore, he came with a premeditated motive to put pressure on deceased-Dileep and her mother-in-law in whose name the saw mill was there. However, having been unsuccessful, he committed murder of Dileep and made murderous assault on his mother-Durgawati who later on died after 4-5 months.

D. The next argument of counsel for the appellant is that as per prosecution, the firearm injuries were caused from close range but as per the postmortem report there was blackening and charring of the wound which occur if the firearm is used from some distance. This argument is also without any basis as both PW-1 and PW-2 have stated that when they heard noise of the gunshot, they found that accused was carrying a revolver and her husband was lying in a pool of blood and while leaving, the accused extended threat even to her mother who tried to stop him and caused firearm injuries to his mother as well which is proved from the medico-legal report. The medical evidence i.e. postmortem report and medico-legal report corroborates the version of prosecutor.

E. Next argument of the counsel for the appellant that statement of the mother of the appellant who was a natural witness was not recorded is also without any substance as she died 4-5 months after the incident that is much prior to recording of her evidence. It has come in the statement of PW-9 that during investigation, he has recorded statement of Durgawati, who stated that her son had committed murder of her other son-Dileep and had even caused injuries to her. This statement was recorded by PW-9 under Section 161 Cr.P.C. even in the Case Diary which was exhibited as Ex.Ka-15.

Though it is settled principle of law that statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. can only be used for the purpose of confrontation of the witness. However, perusal of statement of PW-9 shows that the defence has even cross examined this witness qua Ex.Ka-15 and PW-9 has stated that he recorded the statement of Durgawati at her residence which he also recorded in the Case Diary in verbatim.

Even while recording the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the statement of Durgawati Ex.Ka-15 was put to appellant but no explanation was given by defence.

F. Argument of counsel for the appellant that prosecution has failed to prove that weapon of offence recovered from the appellant, in fact was used for commission of offence is also without any substance. It has come in the reports of Forensic Science Laboratory (Ex.Ka-19 & 20) that the cartridges sent for examination matched with the weapon of offence and were fired upon by the same weapon. Therefore, the categorical finding recorded by the Forensic Science Laboratory that disputed cartridges marked as EC-1, EC-2 and EC-3 were fired upon by the pistol of .32 (point three two) bore marked as 1/10 proves that the weapon recovered from the appellant was used in commission of offence whereby the accused-appellant committed murder of his brother and caused gunshot injuries to his mother.

G. Learned A.G.A. for the State has rightly pointed out that Pradeep Kumar Jaiswal (DW-2) being brother of deceased as well as accused, after performing marriage with PW-1, in order to save accused, has made false statement that PW-1 and PW-2 were not present at the spot.

55. In view of the above, we find no merit in the present appeal.

56. Accordingly, this appeal is dismissed.

57. The accused-appellant is already in custody. He will undergo the remaining sentence in accordance with law.

58. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

THE HON'BLE SANJAY KUMAR SINGH, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2596 of 2024

Dhananjay Singh & Anr.	...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P.	...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:

Sri Sudhir Walia (Sr. Adv.), Shri Saghir Ahmad (Sr. Adv.), Shri Kartikeya Saran, Sri S.P. Singh, Shri Prakash Mani Tripathi, Shri Mohd. Raghib Ali

Counsel for the Respondent:

Shri P.C. Srivastava (Addl. A.G.), Shri J.K. Upadhyay (A.G.A.), Shri Deepak Mishra (A.G.A.), Shri Vikas Sahai(A.G.A.), Shri Rabindra Kumar Singh (A.G.A.)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 364, 386, 504, 506 & 120-B – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 374(2), 389(1), 161 & 313 – Representation of People Act, 1951 – Section 8(3) – Indian Evidence Act, 1872 – Sections 3, 65-B & 101 – Criminal Appeal – Suspension of Sentence – Stay of Conviction – Kidnapping for Murder – Extortion – Intentional Insult – Criminal Intimidation – Criminal Conspiracy – Hostile Witnesses – Electronic Evidence – Criminal History – Political Disqualification

The appellants, Dhananjay Singh and Santosh Vikram Singh, challenged the judgment dated 05.03.2024 and sentence order dated 06.03.2024 by the Additional Sessions Judge-IV/Special Judge, MP/MLA, Jaunpur, in Sessions Trial No. 109 of 2020, convicting them under Section 364 IPC (7 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 50,000 fine, 4 months additional imprisonment in default), Section 386 IPC (5 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 25,000 fine, 3 months additional imprisonment in default), Section 504 IPC (1 year rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 10,000 fine, 1 month additional imprisonment in default), Section 506 IPC (2 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 15,000 fine, 45 days additional imprisonment in default), and Section 120-B IPC (7 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 50,000 fine, 4 months additional imprisonment in default), with sentences to run concurrently. The prosecution alleged that on 10.05.2020 at 5:30 PM, the appellants abducted Abhinav Singhal (PW-1/CW-1) to Dhananjay Singh's residence, where Singh, armed with a pistol, abused and threatened him to supply substandard materials for the Namami Gange Project, supported by a WhatsApp message, CCTV footage, and mobile location data. The appellants sought suspension of sentence and stay of conviction, citing false implication due to political motives and lack of evidence, as PW-1, PW-2, PW-3, and CW-2 turned hostile, and PW-1's Section 164 Cr.P.C. Statement denied the incident. Held: (1) The application under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. for suspension of sentence was allowed, and both appellants were granted bail pending appeal, considering the lack of substantive evidence, hostile witnesses, and no misuse of prior bail. (2) The prayer for stay of conviction was rejected for appellant No. 1 (Dhananjay Singh) due to his extensive criminal history (46 cases, 28 acquittals due to hostile witnesses, 10 pending), absence of exceptional circumstances, and the need to prevent criminalization of politics under Section 8(3) of the Representation of People Act, 1951. (3) The prosecution failed to prove the charges beyond reasonable doubt, as all fact witnesses (PW-1, PW-2, PW-3) and CW-2 did not support the case, CCTV footage lacked Section 65-B certification and was unusable, and key witnesses (Mohan Lal Singhal, Pulkit) were not examined. (4) The trial court's findings, including an erroneous mention of ransom, were based on presumption rather than evidence, violating Section 101 of the Evidence Act. (5) The appeal was listed for final hearing after paper book preparation.

ORDERIn re: Criminal Misc. Application
(For Suspension of Sentence) Under Section 389 (1) Cr.P.C. No. 02 of 2024

1. The above mentioned appeal under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the appellants-Dhananjay Singh and Santosh Vikram Singh against the judgment of conviction dated 05.03.2024 and order of sentence dated 06.03.2024 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge-IV/Special Judge, MP/MLA, Jaunpur in Sessions Trial No. 109 of 2020 (State Vs. Dhananjay Singh and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 142 of 2020, Police Station Line Bazar, District Jaunpur, convicting and sentencing the appellants as under :-

(a) Seven years' rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 50,000/- for the offence under Section 364 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, four months' additional imprisonment.

(b) Five years' rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 25,000/- for the offence under Section 386 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, three months' additional imprisonment.

(c) One year's rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 10,000/- for the offence under Section 504 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, one month's additional imprisonment.

(d) Two years' rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 15,000/- for the offence under Section 506 I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, forty five days' additional imprisonment.

(e) Seven years' rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 50,000/- for the offence under Section 120-B I.P.C. and in default of payment of fine, four months' additional imprisonment.

However, the sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

Relief

2. By means of this application No. 02 of 2024, a prayer has been made to stay the operation and effect of the judgment of conviction dated 05.03.2024 and order of sentence dated 06.03.2024 of the appellants and enlarge them on bail during pendency of this Criminal Appeal before this Court.

3. Heard Shri Sudhir Walia, learned Senior counsel, Shri Saghir Ahmad learned Senior counsel assisted by Shri Kartikay Saran, Shri S.P. Singh, Shri Prakash Mani Tripathi and Shri Mohammad Raghbir Ali, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants and Shri P.C. Srivastava, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Shri J.K. Upadhyay, Shri Deepak Mishra, Shri Vikas Sahai and Shri Rabindra Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State.

Brief facts

4. The emanation of facts giving rise to the present Criminal Appeal as per prosecution case are that on 10.05.2022 at about 10:40 PM, an FIR was lodged by Shri Abhinav Singhal, complainant/informant (PW-1/CW-1), verbatim whereof is quoted here-under :-

“Sir, with due respect, I would like to inform you that last couple of weeks back I have got random call from (8948320530) & Vikram Singh (9415905703) regarding to meet Mr. Dhananjay Singh. Once I have meet with him before Holi with Dhananjay Singh ji at his home but his phone started again on

04.05.2020. Surprise to note that today Mr. Vikram Singh has visit our site and forcibly with his two person captured and taken to me at Dhananjay Singh ji house when I reached. Dhananjay Singh ji came with his black colour pistol and using abusing words his intention is for supply the material (aggregate & Sand) to STP site. By forcibly he has taken my M.D. mobile no and talked to them in front of me. They have called to UPJN department J.E. also and asking for quality of materials. Mr. Satya Prakash Yadav (8115879097) told him that the quality which they have supplied is not up to the mark (back pto) that is why we are not in position to place the order, more to him. Where as, what ever they forcibly send it may be consumed in some other disposing work but not for construction. Today at 17.30 pm Vikram Singh along with two men with black colour fortuner (0111) come at panchatiya site. Finally they leave and I also leave from there office but Vikram Singh told me that provide your supply rate list so that he can proceed further. The whole incident took place in residence of Mr. Dhananjay Singh. They forcefully want to supply quality less material to our firm and for that they said that they will do this under any situation. Mr. Dhananjay Singh and his men are very hard criminals and through his gangs and gang members he forcefully wants to do this things which we already denied. He has threaten me that I and my MD and firm owner will not accept his demand or cooperate, then he will not leave any one I am very much afraid and I want your help. So I kindly request you to lodge my FIR and take stern action against gangster Dhanjay Singh, Vikram Singh and his men.”

5. After registration of F.I.R., appellants were promptly arrested in the night intervening 10/11.05.2020 at about 02:50 AM.

6. During investigation Statement under Section 164 of Cr.P.C. of Abhinav Singhal (complainant / informant) was also recorded on 02.07.2020, in which he has denied the alleged incident and did not support the prosecution case. The said statement of the complainant is quoted as under:-

"मैं नमामि गंगे प्रोजेक्ट उसमें उपस्थित प्रोजेक्ट में प्रोजेक्ट मैनेजर हूं। दिनांक 10 मई 2020 को विक्रम जी के साथ पूर्व सांसद धनंजय सिंह के घर गया था वहां पर एक जन शिकायत के सिलसिले में गया था। लाकडाउन की वजह से मेरे पास कार न होने की वजह से सांसद जी ने विक्रम को कार लेकर मेरे पास भेजा था। वहां पर जाने के बाद हमारी क्वालिटी को लेकर वार्तालाप हुई और मैंने उनको असोरेंस दिया कि हम अच्छी क्वालिटी का काम करेंगे। उसके बाद उन्होंने मुझे जहां से पिकअप किया था वहीं पर छुड़वा दिया ड्यूरिंग दिस टेक्निकल डिसकसन मेरे पर कोई दबाव नहीं डाला गया, न ही गाली गलौज की गयी और न ही मेरा अपहरण किया गया मैंने एम.डी. और कम्पनी के सीनियर के कहने पर मैं S.P. साहेब के पास बताने गया था सारा प्रकरण क्या था, पता नहीं मेरे सीनियर के दिमाग में क्या था मुझे नहीं मालूम। S.P. साहेब ने मुझे दिनेश कुमार पाण्डे के पास भेजा, जो S.H.O. हैं वहां पे। S.H.O. ने मुझे 03 घंटे-04 घंटे तक मुझे बैठा कर रखा। मेरे ऊपर S.H.O. ने दबाव बनाया कि आप कम्पलेंट लिखो। फिर मुझे डिक्टेट करके कम्पलेंट लिखवाया जिसको बाद में उन्होंने FIR में दर्ज कर दिया। अगले दिन 11.05.2020 को मुझे

सोशल मीडिया से पता चला कि सांसद जी की गिरफ्तारी ढाई बजे हुई। मेरे साथ कुछ भी ऐसा नहीं हुआ जो मैं सांसद जी के खिलाफ FIR या कम्प्लेंट करूं। मेरे ऊपर कोई दबाव नहीं है और मैंने 11.05.2020 को ही पत्र S.P. साहेब को दिया था कि मैंने कोई कम्प्लेंट नहीं दिया था उसके बारे में मैंने अफीडेविट भी दिया है। मुझे और कुछ नहीं कहना है।"

7. After culmination of the investigation, Shri Kaushlendra Pratap Singh, first Investigating Officer/PW-4 filed final/closer report No. 83 of 2020 dated 03.07.2020 after recording his conclusion in the case diary that no crime was found to have been committed, on which Circle Officer, City Jaunpur made objection and directed for further investigation.

8. On 26.07.2020, further investigation was handed over to Mr. Jai Prakash Singh-second Investigating Officer/PW-6, who after further investigation, submitted Charge sheet No. 228 of 2020 dated 05.08.2020 under Sections 364, 386, 504, 506 and 120-B I.P.C. against appellants Dhananjay Singh and Santosh Vikram Singh, on which learned C.J.M., Jaunpur took cognizance on 06.08.2020 and on 14.08.2020, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

9. On 02.04.2022, charges under Sections 364, 386, 504, 506 and 120-B I.P.C. were framed against the appellants, which reads as under:-

“1. यह कि दिनांक-10.05.2020 को समय करीब 17.30 बजे घटनास्थल पचहटिया

12. Five C.D.s of CCTV footage have been exhibited as (Material Ext-1) to (Material Ext-5).

13. The statements of accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded on 05.11.2022 and their additional statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded on 13.02.2024, in which they have denied the allegations levelled against them.

Submissions on behalf of the appellants

14. Main substratum of argument of learned counsel for the appellants is that the appellants have been falsely implicated due to political reasons by fabricating and getting false case registered against the by the police. It is a case of no evidence against the appellants. The impugned judgment and order of the trial court are illegal and based on perverse findings, which are apparent on the face of record itself. The presumption drawn and findings recorded by the trial Court while convicting and sentencing the appellants by the impugned judgment and order dated 05.03.2020/06.03.2024 are in complete disregard to the provisions of Cr.P.C. and Evidence Act, hence the same are not sustainable in the eye of law. Appellants have been convicted on the basis of presumption / imagination without any legal evidence admissible under the law. The Trial Court has failed to appreciate that ingredients to constitute the offence punishable under Sections 364, 386, 504, 506 and 120-B IPC are lacking in this case. Learned counsel for the appellants, in order to strengthen the aforesaid submissions, further argued that:-

14.1. As per prosecution case, alleged incident as mentioned in the F.I.R. took place on 10.05.2020 at 5:30 PM and F.I.R. was lodged on 10.05.2020 at 10.40 PM without any preliminary enquiry against appellant No.1 Dhananjay Singh, who has been MLA twice and MP once and appellant No.2 Santosh Vikram Singh. Thereafter police in a pre-planned manner promptly arrested them at 02:50 AM in the night intervening 10/11.05.2020.

14.2. Referring the applications dated 12.05.2020, 13.05.2020 and 26.05.2020 (Ext. Ka-10) as well as affidavit dated 26.05.2020 (Ext. Ka-11) of the complainant, it is submitted that complainant has stated inter alia that on the direction of M.L.Singhal, Managing Director of the company 'Pulkit Project Pvt. Ltd', he met Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur on 10.05.2020, who sent him to S.H.O. Police Station Line Bazar. When he went there, Dinesh Prakash Pandey, Station House Officer made him to sit for about three hours and dictated a complaint against the appellants and obtained his signature putting pressure on him. On the next day when he came to know that Dhananjay Singh, Ex MP was arrested on his F.I.R., he was shocked. Thereafter, he personally met Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur and also wrote an application to him on 12.05.2020. When nothing happened, then he also sent an application to the Chief Minister stating true facts. Thereafter complainant sent a letter dated 26.05.2020 and his affidavit dated 26.05.2020 to District Magistrate, Jaunpur disclosing all the true facts making allegation against S.H.O. Dinesh Prakesh Pandey (CW-3) that he did not allow him to leave his house and to meet his advocate and to give any application before Sessions Judge. The complainant also disclosed that S.H.O. Dinesh Prakash Pandey pressurized him to leave district Jaunpur and to go to his native home at Muzaffarnagar for some time.

14.3. The case of the prosecution is that on 14.05.2020 security was provided to the complainant is wrong on the face of record. In fact after getting false F.I.R. registered by the S.H.O. Police Station Line Bazar, local security was given to the complainant on 10.05.2020 itself.

14.4. The complainant before the Trial Court clearly stated that after registration of F.I.R., his statement was not recorded by the inspector. When statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was read out to the complainant, after listening to it he said that I had not given any such statement to the Inspector.

14.5. The complainant-Abhinav Singhal in his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. dated 02.07.2020, did not utter anything against the appellants so far as commission of alleged offence is concerned. He has not supported the prosecution case rather he disclosed the true facts. He also proved his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. in accordance with law. There is full consistency and corroboration in the complainant's statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and his statement recorded before the trial Court as PW-1 and CW-1.

14.6. All the three prosecution witnesses of the fact namely Abhinav Singhal, complainant (PW-1), Satya Prakash Yadav (PW-2), Harendra Pal (PW-3) have not supported the prosecution case and completely denied the alleged incident stating true facts. The informant / complainant Abhinav Singhal (PW-1) has also been examined as CW-1 but again he has not supported the prosecution case. Vinod Kumar Singh who is owner of Fortuner Car, has been examined as CW-2, but he also did not support the prosecution case.

14.7. There is no substantive evidence against the appellants to prove their guilt beyond reasonable doubt, even then the Trial Court has convicted and sentenced the appellants on the basis of wrong presumption and placing reliance upon police papers created by the police in order to falsely implicate the appellants, broken CD of CCTV footages and the statements under Sections 161 Cr.P.C. which are not a substantive piece of evidence and can be used only for corroboration.

14.8. The fact and issue so far commission of alleged offence are concerned, are relevant, but those facts have not been duly proved by the prosecution witnesses beyond reasonable doubt.

14.9. Referring the investigation part, it is pointed out that initially, a final / closure report dated 03.07.2020 was submitted by the first investigating officer-Kaushlendra Pratap Singh (PW-4) but on the direction of the then Circle Officer, further investigation was handed over to second investigating officer on 26.07.2020 on the ground that statements of Mohan Lal Singhal (MD) and Pulkit (employee of STP, Namami Gangey Project) have not been recorded, the CCTV footage dated 10.05.2020 has not been enclosed along with case diary, audio clip of conversation between complainant Abhinav Singhal and Mohan Lal Singhal has not been recovered and sent to forensic laboratory, Lucknow and did not trace the owner of vehicle No. UP50 AJ 0111, but the second investigating officer, except to trace the owner of vehicle in question, also did nothing.

14.10. The ingredients of mens rea and actus-reus, which are pre-requisite conditions for commission of an offence are lacking in the present case.

14.11. So far as electronic evidence is concerned, there is neither any Forensic Science Laboratory Report nor required certificates under Section 65-B of Indian Evidence Act are on record, hence, the same cannot be taken into consideration in view of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Anvar P.V. vs. P.K. Basheer and Ors., (2014) 10 SCC 473

14.12. The trial court, without any evidence on record, gave finding of demand of ransom on his own, whereas prosecution case is otherwise. It is further submitted that imagination is not an evidence in accordance with Section 3 of Evidence Act, hence, in view of Section

101 of the Evidence Act, the trial court cannot set up another story other than prosecution case.

14.13. There is no direct evidence of facts in issue nor any circumstances in order to prove alleged guilt of the appellants.

14.14. There is no evidence of extending any influence by the appellants over the prosecution witnesses.

14.15. With regard to whatsapp message alleged to have been sent by PW-1 to PW-3, it is argued that the said whatsapp message was not collected during investigation. Even during trial, no question was put to the Investigating Officers regarding non collection of said whatsapp message.

14.16. The prosecution could not prove the allegation of abduction of complainant against the appellants. Stretching his submissions, it is further submitted that when the offence of abduction is not made out, then all other offences automatically abolish.

14.17. Referring the internal page no. 42 of the judgment, it is submitted that the trial court has recorded a wrong finding that “the statement made by the complainant that the accused have not committed any crime was made long after the incident. This appears to have been done under duress while the evidence on file is contrary.” In this regard it is further pointed out that on 11.05.2020 when the complainant came to know about the registration of false F.I.R., he on the very next day sent an application on 12.05.2020 to Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur and application dated 13.05.2020 to Chief Minister of State of U.P. denying the incident by stating true facts.

14.18. Much emphasis has been given by contending that the accused appellants cannot be convicted either on the basis of evidence of formal witnesses or material exhibits. The accused-appellants also cannot be held guilty on the basis of corroborative evidence.

14.19. The materials produced by the prosecution to prove the prosecution case do not inspire confidence.

14.20. It is well settled that according to Section 231 of Cr.P.C. and Section 101 of Indian Evidence Act, the burden of proof of the charges against the accused is on the prosecution, which could not be proved by the prosecution witnesses of fact in the present case.

14.21. The appellant No.1 is a political person. Referring the statement of the P.W.2, it is pointed out that P.W.-2 (Satya Prakash) in his statement before the Trial Court has stated inter alia that Dhananjay Singh is a popular leader of the District. Some people go to his place to make complaint. He used to visit various public representative in respect of public complaints. In this matter, I had already given an affidavit on 29.05.2020 before the Court out of his own freewill. The complainant told him that no such untoward incident had happened with him. The conversation took place in a very dignified manner.

14.22. Referring the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Lallu Manjhi and Another vs. State of Jharkhand, (2003) 2 SCC 401, and in the case of State of Rajasthan vs. Babu Meena, (2013) 4 SCC 206, it is also argued that the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of the accused-appellants has not been recorded in the light of guideline laid down by the Apex Court. The relevant paragraph no.14 of the judgment of Lallu Manjhi (Supra) is quoted here as under:-

“14. Incidentally, it may also be stated that the manner in which the Trial Court has recorded the statements of the accused persons u/s 313 Cr.P.C. is far from satisfactory. The entire prosecution case running into very many details has been summed up into just 5 questions asked to each of the accused persons. It is obligatory on the part of the Trial Court to examine the accused for the purpose of enabling the accused personally to explain any circumstances appearing in evidence against him. If such opportunity is not afforded, the incriminating pieces of evidence available in the prosecution evidence cannot be relied on for the purpose of recording conviction of the accused persons."

14.23. Lastly it is submitted that the appellant No.1 has been convicted only in the present case. Referring and relying on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Afjal Ansari vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2024) 2 SCC 187, Navjot Singh Sidhu vs. State of Punjab and Anr. (2007) 2 SCC 574 and Sucha Singh Lanagh vs. State of Punjab, Criminal Appeal No. 40 of 2017 arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 5 of 2017, it is submitted that appellant No.1 has been a Member of the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly twice and a Member of Parliament once. He wants to contest the elections of Member of Parliament, 2024. The notification has already been issued notifying the schedule for 'Lok-Sabha elections 2024' and last date of filing of nomination papers for Member of Parliament, Jaunpur is to begin from 29.04.2024 to 05.05.2024. In case, the impugned conviction of the appellant No.1 is not stayed, he will be deprived of his right to contest Lok-Sabha election 2024 in view of the Section 8(3) of Representation of People Act, 1951. Much emphasis has been given by contending that in case of irreversible situation of acquittal in future, the loss of the appellant No.1 cannot be compensated. If he misses the bus, the time will not come back and the clock will not turn back.

Submissions on behalf of the State

15. On the other hand, it is argued on behalf of the State that :-

15.1. The F.I.R. of the incident was promptly lodged by the complainant Abhinav Shinghal on 10.05.2020 at 10:40 PM with regard to incident of same day, which took place at 5:30 PM. Appellants are named accused in the F.I.R. The complainant during trial, has proved his signature on the F.I.R. (Ext.Ka.1).

15.2. On 10.05.2020, when complainant was abducted, he sent a whatsapp message to Harendra Pal (PW-3) that "Dhananjay Singh ke aadmi muzhai un ka ghar per le ker aya hai. Inform to pulkit sir immediately".

15.3. After two days of the incident, the complainant started giving application from 12.05.2020 changing his version under the pressure, fear and influence of the appellants.

15.4. On 10.05.2020, complainant was also provided security and thereafter, on his demand/letter dated 14.05.2020 (Ext.Ka-9), he was also provided security to go to his native place Muzaffar Nagar.

15.5. Referring the G.D. No. 003 dated 11.05.2020 at 05:02 O'clock (Ext.Ka-13), it is submitted that a black coloured fortuner Car no. UP-50-AJ-0111 was also recovered from the resident of Dhananjai Singh at the time of his arrest.

15.6. The complainant in his letter dated 12.05.2020 addressed to the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur stated inter alia that "the complaint was given by me on exaggerated facts as my mental condition was not good and I was in some pressure”, therefore it cannot be said that the complainant had not lodged F.I.R.

15.7. There are material contradictions regarding the complainant’s stand that Dhananjay Singh was talking to Mohan Lal Singhal, MD over telephone. In this regard, it is further pointed out that complainant in his letter dated 13.05.2020 addressed to the Chief Minister and affidavit dated 26.05.2020 (Ext. Ka-11) has stated inter-alia that Dhananjay Singh had talked with owner (MD) of my company over telephone but when the complainant was examined as PW-1 on 15.04.2022, he in his cross-examination has stated that it is wrong to say that Dhananjay Singh, after taking the mobile number of MD of his company, talked him in his presence.

15.8. The investigating officer had collected CCTV footage of the spot and Harendra Pal (PW-3) had also given certificate dated 11.05.2020 (Ext. Ka-2) mentioning that he is posted on the post of Supervisor in M/s SPML Pulkit Project Pvt. Ltd. and no interpolation has been done in the CCTV footage installed at the working site.

15.9. During investigation, the location of mobile number 9968872016 at 17:17:06 hours and 17:32:59 hours, used by the complainant, was found near Gurudwara Ras Mandal, Jaunpur, then Jessis Chauraha, Bus Stand, then Chandra Hotel, Oland Ganj and thereafter near the site in question again via the same route, as such, it was proved from the location of the complainant that he was near the house of Dhananjay Singh at the time of incident.

15.10. It is fairly admitted that investigation of this case has not been done properly by the investigating officers. In this regard it is submitted that the accused appellants cannot take benefit of the faulty investigation.

15.11. Much emphasis has been given by contending that considering the facts and circumstances of the case in totality, only conclusion can be drawn that the complainant and other prosecution witnesses have been won over.

15.12. Referring the list of criminal history of the appellant No.1 enclosed as Annexure No. CA-1 to the counter affidavit dated 22.04.2024 filed on behalf of the State and S.A-1 to the Supplementary Affidavit dated 20.04.2024 filed on behalf of appellants, it is submitted that the appellant No.1 has long criminal history of 46 cases including heinous offences, out of which in 28 cases, appellant No.1 has been acquitted as the witnesses turned hostile due to fear of accused Dhananjay Singh. It is also submitted that due to terror of appellant No.1, no one dares to depose against him.

15.13. Lastly it is submitted that the trial court considering all aspects of the matter, rightly convicted the appellants, therefore, the relief as sought by the appellants by means of this Criminal Appeal is liable to be rejected.

Issue

16. Having heard the submissions of learned counsel for the parties at length and examined the matter in its entirety, I find that in view of the interim relief as sought by means of above mentioned Criminal Misc. Application Under Section 389 (1) Cr.P.C., at this stage, this Court is only required to consider the following two prayer of the appellants for interim relief during pendency of this Criminal Appeal :-

- (a) Suspension of Sentence
- (b) Stay of operation and effect of judgment of conviction

Discussion & Conclusion about suspension of sentence

17. Following facts which emerge from the record and are not in dispute are as follows :-

17.1. All the three prosecution witnesses (PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3) of fact as well as two court witnesses (CW-1 and CW-2) did not support the prosecution case and they denied the incident in the manner as alleged in the F.I.R., hence, they have been declared hostile by the trial court.

17.2. Neither the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of Mohan Lal Singhal, M.D. of the company nor Pulkit (employee of STP, Namami Gangey Project) was recorded nor they were produced by the prosecution before the trial court whereas they were material witnesses who could throw some light on the prosecution case.

17.3. Anil Kumar (PW-5), who registered the F.I.R., in his statement has stated inter-alia that he had registered F.I.R. on the direction of Dinesh Prakash Pandey, S.H.O., Line Bazar, Jaunpur.

17.4. Despite serious allegation of the complainant against Dinesh Prakash Pandey, S.H.O., Line Bazar, Jaunpur that he dictated the complaint and obtained complainant's signature under pressure, he was not produced by the prosecution as prosecution witness. Later he was summoned and examined as CW-3 by the trial Court, who supported the prosecution case.

17.5. No incriminating material like mobile phones, conversation between complainant and M.L. Singhal (M.D. of the company) etc. have been collected.

17.6. Though the prosecution has collected five CCTV footages, but there is no certificate under Section 65-B of the evidence Act with regard to all CCTV footages, which are essential for considering the electronic evidence. Even all the CCTV footages (Material Ext-1 to Material Ext-5) produced by the prosecution before the trial court were useless as the same were produced by the prosecution in a broken condition which were not able to play.

17.7. As per the prosecution case, main allegation against the appellants is that they, through gang members, by hook or by crook adopting different modus operandi forcibly wanted to supply quality less materials (Aggregate, Sand, Ballast, Morang etc.) to the firm in question in the project which was being run in village Pachatiya, district Jaunpur at that time under "Namami Gangey Project Scheme". There is no allegation of demand of any ransom by the accused-appellants from the complainant but the trial court, at internal page no. 37 of the judgment, has recorded an erroneous finding mentioning that from the evidence on record, it is clear that the complainant and Satya Prakash Yadav were called by the accused and after giving threat to Mohan Lal Singhal on phone, a ransom was demanded.

17.8. The statements U/s 313 Cr.P.C. of the accused appellants have been recorded on 05.11.2022 and 13.02.2024. The relevant part of the statement of the appellants relating to their defence is as under:-

A. The appellant No.1 in his statement dated 05.11.2022 under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has taken stand inter alia that there was gross irregularity in the S.T.P. work, which was opposed by him on receiving complaint. The complainant - Abhinav Singhal came to his place voluntarily. Earlier also he used to come. He has nothing to do with the case. He has been implicated because of his fight against corruption. Public money is being misused.

The appellant No.2 in his statement dated 05.11.2022 under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has stated inter alia that he is innocent and false case has been registered against him.

B. The appellant No.1 in his statement dated 13.02.2024 under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has stated inter alia that F.I.R. is false, complainant did not give such statement as mentioned in the F.I.R. Wrong action has been taken by the Investigating Officer. Case has been registered due to political malice. He is innocent and was not involved in the alleged crime. He has been implicated due to political malice on raising his voice against corruption. The appellant No.2 in his statement dated 13.02.2024 under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has stated inter alia that case has been registered against him due to enmity. He is innocent.

17.9. The chain of prosecution case is missing, therefore, the accused appellants are entitled to benefit of doubt.

17.10. The appellants were on bail during trial and there is no evidence to indicate that they misused the liberty of bail.

17.11. The maximum sentence awarded to the appellants is up to seven years. There is no possibility of absconding of the appellants.

17.12. In view of the above, considering the facts and circumstances of the case in totality, nature of allegations, role attributed to the appellants, material evidence on the record, submissions advanced on behalf of the parties concerned and reasons as noted above, this Court is of the view that the application under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. of the appellants for suspension of their sentence dated 06.03.2020 during pendency of this Criminal Appeal is liable to be allowed.

18. Accordingly appellants, namely, Dhananjay Singh and Santosh Vikram Singh, who are convicted by the impugned judgment dated 05.03.2024 and sentenced by impugned judgment and order dated 06.03.2024, as noted above, be released on bail on their furnishing a personal bond and two reliable sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of Court concerned during pendency of this criminal appeal subject to furnishing undertaking that they will cooperate with the hearing of this criminal appeal.

19. Realisation of fine is not stayed.

20. On acceptance of their bail bonds, the trial court shall transmit the photostat copies thereof to this Court for being kept on record of this criminal appeal.

Discussion & Conclusion about stay of conviction

21. So far as the second prayer with regard to stay of conviction of judgment dated 05.03.2024 of the appellants is concerned, it would be apposite to mention following facts :-

21.1. As per disclosure made by the appellant No.1-Dhananjay Singh, he has a criminal history of following 46 criminal cases (36 disposed of cases [as per Chart A] & 10 pending cases [as per Chart B]).

Summary of Chart-B are as under:-

The aforesaid 10 criminal cases of appellant No.1 are still pending, out of which in 07 cases (mentioned at serial nos.

1,2,3,4,5,6 & 8), appellant No.1 is facing trial. In 01 case mentioned at serial No. 7, he has been summoned, but proceedings have been stayed by the High Court. 02 cases (mentioned at serial Nos. 9 & 10) are pending at the investigation stage.

22. During course of the argument, submission on behalf of the State that acquittal of appellant No.1 in all the 28 cases have been done on account of the fact that the prosecution witnesses turned hostile in those cases. The said fact has not been denied on behalf of the appellant No.1 but submitted that once the appellant No.1 has been acquitted, he shall be treated as innocent.

23. Section 389 of the Code of Criminal Procedure empowers the Court to suspend the sentence pending the appeal and for release of the appellants on bail. Section 389 Cr.P.C so far relevant reads as follows:

"389. Suspension of sentence pending the appeal; release of appellant on bail - (1) Pending any appeal by a convicted person, the Appellate Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, order that the execution of the sentence or order appealed against be suspended and, also, if he is in confinement, that he be released on bail, or on his own bond.

Provided that the Appellate Court shall, before releasing on bail or on his own bond a convicted person who is convicted of an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of not less than ten years, shall give opportunity to the Public Prosecutor for showing cause in writing against such release:

Provided further that in cases where a convicted person is released on bail it shall be open to the Public Prosecutor to file an application for the cancellation of the bail."

24. The cases relied upon by Shri Surendra Walia and Shri Saghir Ahmad, learned Senior Advocates appearing on behalf of the appellants, i.e. Afjal Ansari Vs. State of U.P., (2024)2 SCC 187, Navjot Singh Sidhu Vs. State of Punjab and another, (2007)2 SCC 574 and Sucha Singh Lanagh Vs. State of Punjab, Criminal Appeal No. 40 of 2017 arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 5 of 2017, decided on 05.1.2017, are distinguishable on the facts of the present case.

25. In the case of Afjal Ansari (Supra), the appellant was having the following criminal history:

(i) Case Crime No. 28 of 1998, which was registered on 16.2.1998 under Section 171-F IPC and Section 135(2) of the Representation of People Act, 1951, police station Nonhara, district Chandauli.

(ii) Case Crime No. 260 of 2001 was registered on 09.8.2001 at police station Mohammadabad, Uttar Pradesh, under Sections 147, 148 and 353 IPC and 3 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 along with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act.

(iii) Case Crime No. 493 of 2005 was registered under Sections 302, 506, 120-B IPC on 27.6.2005 at police station Mohammadabad, U.P. in which the appellant was named as a conspirator.

(iv) Case Crime No. 589 of 2005 was registered under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 302, 404 and 120-B IPC at police station Bhanvar Kol, district Ghazipur on 29.11.2005 for hatching conspiracy.

(v) Case Crime No. 1051 of 2007 was registered under Sections 302, 120-B, 436, 427 IPC and Section 3,4 and 5 of the Explosives Act, 1884 and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932.

(vi) Case Crime No. 607 of 2009, under Sections 171 and 188 IPC was registered on 11.4.2009 at police station Mohammadabad, Uttar Pradesh.

(vii) Case Crime No. 18 of 2014 was registered under Sections 171-J, 188 IPC and 121(2) of Representation of People Act, police station Chakarghatta, district Chandauli, U.P. the appellant has been granted bail.

26. In Afjal Ansari case (Supra), the appellant was involved in seven cases, out of which in one case (mentioned at serial No. IV) in which the appellant was accused for hatching conspiracy in the said murder case. The investigation of this case was entrusted to the Central Bureau of Investigation and the trial was subsequently transferred to CBI Court at Rouse Avenue, New Delhi. In this case the appellant was acquitted. In two cases (mentioned at serial Nos. I & VI) which relate to violation of Model Code of Conduct during election period, he has not been summoned, and in two cases (mentioned at serial Nos. III & V) after investigation, his name has been dropped and he has not been charge sheeted. In two cases (mentioned at serial Nos. II & VII) which are of trivial nature involving violation of Model Code of conduct during election period, he has been granted bail.

27. The effect and operation of conviction of Afjal Ansari was suspended by the Hon'ble Supreme Court with certain conditions, one of which was that the appellant Afjal Ansari shall not be entitled to participate in the proceedings of the House. He shall also not have the right to cast his vote in the House or to draw any perks or monetary benefits.

28. Navjot Singh Sidhu Vs. State of Punjab and another (2007)2 SCC 574 was a case in which the appellant was charged of causing death of a person by inflicting fist blows on head. The trial court acquitted him. Thereafter, he contested election and was declared elected as Member of Parliament. However, on the appeal being filed by the State, the High Court convicted him under Section 304 Part II IPC and sentenced him to three years RI. In view of the order of conviction and sentence passed by the High Court, appellant Navjot Singh Sidhu incurred disqualification under Section 8(3) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. Instead of filing an appeal against the order of High Court, before the Supreme Court, the appellant-Navjot Singh Sidhu resigned from the membership of Lok Sabha on moral ground and then chose to contest election again. Thereafter, he filed an appeal against the order of High Court before the Supreme Court, which by an interim order suspended the execution of the sentence. In addition to this case, he did not have any case against him.

29. Sucha Singh Langah (Supra), no detailed facts of the case has been given by Hon'ble Supreme Court as the case was pending consideration before the High Court.

30. So far as appellant No. 1, Dhananjay Singh is concerned, it is relevant to note that at present ten cases is still pending against him as mentioned in Chart-B.

31. In K.C. Sareen Vs. CBI, (2001) 6 SCC 584, it was held by Hon'ble

Supreme Court that “though the power to suspend an order of conviction, apart from the order of sentence, is not alien to Section 389 (1) of the code, its exercise should be limited to very exception Cases. It was further held that merely because the convicted person files an appeal to challenge his conviction, the court should not suspend the operation of the conviction and the court has a duty to look at all aspect including the ramifications of keeping such conviction in abeyance.”

32. In Union of India Vs. Atar Singh, (2003) 12 SCC 434, accused was convicted under Section 409 IPC and Section 13 of Prevention of corruption Act. He filed an appeal before the High Court, which has suspended the conviction solely on the ground that non-suspension of conviction may entail removal of the delinquent government servant from service. On appeal, the Hon'ble supreme Court set aside the order of the High Court by holding that the High Court had mechanically passed the order by suspending the conviction and the discretion ought not to have been exercise by the High Court by passing such an order suspending the conviction.

33. In State of Maharashtra Vs. Gajanan, (2003)12 SCC 432, relying on K.C. Sareen (Supra) it was reiterated that only in exceptional cases, the Court should exercise the power of stay of conviction.

34. In State of Haryana Vs. Hasmat (2004) 6 SCC 175, it was observed as under:

“Section 389 of the Code deals with suspension of execution of sentence pending the appeal and release of the appellant on bail. There is a distinction between bail and suspension of sentence. One of the essential ingredients of Section 389 is that requirement for the appellate court to record reasons in writing for ordering suspension of execution of the sentence or order appealed. If he is in confinement, the said court can direct that he be released on bail or on his own bond. The requirement of recording reasons in writing clearly indicates that there has to be careful consideration of the relevant aspect and the order directing suspension of sentence and grant of bail should not be passed as a matter of routine. “

35. In Ravi Kant S. Patil Vs. Sarvabhuma S. Bagali, (2007) 1 SCC 673, Hon'ble Supreme Court held in paragraph 15 that “it deserves to be clarified that an order granting stay of conviction is not the rule but is an exception to be resorted to in rare cases depending upon the facts of a case.”

36. In Sanjay Dutt Vs. State of Maharashtra (2009) 5 SCC 787, petitioner Sanjay Dutt was charged under various sections of Terrorist and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act. He was found guilty of offences punishable under Section 3 and 7 read with Sections 25(IA) and 25(IB) of the Arms Act and was sentenced to six years rigorous imprisonment. The petitioner has filed appeal against his conviction and sentence before the Supreme Court. Pending appeal, he was granted bail on 28.2.2007. Thereafter, he has filed application under Section 389 of the code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 praying that execution of the order of conviction and sentence be suspended pending final hearing of the appeal. In the petition, it was mentioned that he belongs to a family which has been in long public service in the country and that the petitioner is now desirous of contesting election of the House of People from Lucknow Parliament Constituency and in view of Section 8(3) of the Representation of People Act, 1951, he has incurred disqualification from contesting the election for becoming a member of either House of Parliament. Therefore, it is prayed that the conviction and sentence of the petitioner be suspended to enable him to contest the election.

Hon'ble Supreme Court while declining his prayer held as under:

“Despite all these favourable circumstances, we do not think that this is a fit case where conviction and sentence could be suspended so that the bar under Section 8(3) of the Representation of People Act, 1951 will not operate against the petitioner. Law prohibits any person who has been convicted of any offence and sentenced to imprisonment for not less than two years from contesting the election and such person shall be disqualified for a further period of six years since his release. In the face of such a provision, the power of the Court under Section 389 Cr.P.C. shall be exercised only under exceptional circumstances.

“ In the present case, no such circumstances are in favour of the petitioner, In view of the serious offence for which he has been convicted by the Special Judge, we are not inclined to suspend the conviction and sentence awarded by the Special Judge in the present case. “

37. In Shyam Narain Pandey V. State of U.P. (2012) SCC 384, the appellant Shyam Narain Pandey, who was a Principal of an institution, who was inter alia, convicted for murder. Hon'ble Supreme Court while stressing on the exceptionality of the power to suspend the conviction observed thus:

“ In the light of the principles stated above, the contention that the appellant will be deprived of his source of livelihood if the conviction is not stayed cannot be appreciated. For the appellant, it is a matter of deprivation of livelihood but he is convicted for deprivation of life of another person. Until he is otherwise declared innocent in appeal, the stain stands. The High Court has discussed in detail the background of the appellant, the nature of the crime, manner in which it was committed etc and his rightly held that it is not a very rare and exceptional case for staying the conviction.”

38. In State of Maharashtra Vs. Balakrishna Dattatrya Kumbhar, (2012) 12 SCC 384, Hon'ble Apex Court after considering a catena of judgement, held as under:

“Thus, in view of the aforesaid discussion, a clear picture emerges to the effect that, the Appellate Court in an exceptional case, may put the conviction in abeyance along with the sentence, but such power must be exercised with great circumspection and caution, for the purpose of which, the applicant must satisfy the Court as regards the evil that is likely to befall him, if the said conviction is not suspended. The Court has to consider all the facts as are pleaded by the applicant, in a judicious manner and examined whether the facts and circumstances involved in the case are such, that they warrant such a course of action by it. The court additionally, must record in writing, its reasons for granting such relief. Relief of staying the order of conviction cannot be granted only on the ground that an employee may lose his job, if the same is not done."

39. It is well settled that every case turns on its own facts and circumstances. Even one additional or different fact may make a big difference between the conclusion in two cases, because even a single significant detail may alter the entire aspect.

40. It is often seen that after conviction of a person who was or is Member of Legislative Assembly or Member of Parliament, used to take a general plea for stay of operation and effect of his conviction that he wants to contest election and in case the judgment of his conviction is not stayed, he will be deprived of his right to contest the election which will result in irreparable loss and injury to him, but this Court feels that each and every case has to be decided on its own merit as well as considering all the surrounding circumstances and other attending factors including gravity of offences, nature of previous criminal history etc. No uniform and straight-jacket formula can be laid down for stay of conviction in all the cases. The parameter and legal position for stay of execution of sentence/bail and stay of conviction are different. Now it is the need of hour to have purity in politics, therefore for staying the judgment of conviction, the Courts should exercise its discretionary power sparingly with caution in a rare and appropriate cases. The purpose sought to be achieved by enacting disqualification on conviction for certain offences is to prevent person with criminal background from entering into politics and governance. Persons with criminal background pollute the process of election as they have no reservation from indulging in criminality to win an election. When persons having long criminal history turn into elected representatives and become law maker, they pose a serious threat to the functioning of a democratic system. The very future of our democracy gets imperilled when such offenders masquerade as leaders making a travesty of the entire system. The increasing trend of criminalisation of politics is dangerous and has steadily been eating into the vitals of our democratic polity along with growing corruption of a humongous nature. Considering the facts of this case that the appellant No.1 has secured acquittal in 28 criminal cases due to reasons that witnesses turned hostile as pointed out on behalf of the State, which has not been controverted on behalf of the accused-appellant No.1 and that there is no dispute that at present, 10 criminal cases (as noted in Chart-B) are still pending against him, I do not find any good ground, special reason or exceptional case to stay the operation and effect of impugned judgment of conviction dated 05.03.2024 of the appellant No.1-Dhananjay Singh.

41. As a fallout and consequence of above discussion, the prayer for stay of operation and effect of judgment of conviction dated 05.03.2024 of appellant No.1 is refused and is hereby rejected.

42. Since prayer for stay of impugned judgment of conviction with regard to appellant No.2 (who is not a political person or government servant) has not been pressed during argument, therefore, his case has not been dealt with in this regard.

43. The further details relating to merits of this case need not be referred to herein since the allegations of the prosecution and the defence thereto is still open to be urged by the parties at the time of final hearing of this case.

44. The application of the appellants under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. stands disposed of.

The appellant, Nanhaku Singh, challenged the judgment dated 23.06.2016 by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 2, Shahjahanpur, in Sessions Trial No. 77 of 2013, convicting him under Section 302 IPC (life imprisonment, Rs. 5,000 fine, 3 years additional imprisonment in default), Section 376 IPC (life imprisonment, Rs. 5,000 fine, 3 years additional imprisonment in default), Section 3(2)(V) SC/ST Act (life imprisonment, Rs. 5,000 fine, 3 years additional imprisonment in default), and Section 201 IPC (4 years rigorous imprisonment), with sentences to run concurrently. The prosecution alleged that on 18.03.2012, the appellant raped and murdered an 11-year-old girl from a Scheduled Caste, whose body was found on 19.03.2012 near a wheat field with multiple incised wounds, burn injuries, and signs of sexual assault, based on a written report by PW-1 (Premwati, the deceased's mother). The appellant was implicated due to alleged enmity over land reclaimed by the informant's family. Held: (1) The appeal was allowed, and the conviction and sentence were set aside. (2) The prosecution failed to prove the appellant's guilt beyond reasonable doubt, as there was no direct or circumstantial evidence; PW-1 and PW-2 (parents) relied on hearsay without identifying sources, and no incriminating material or weapon was recovered. (3) Key witnesses (PW-3, PW-8, PW-9, PW-10) turned hostile, and PW-4 (Neelam Kumari) denied implicating the appellant. (4) The trial court's conviction was based on suspicion of enmity, which cannot substitute for evidence, and it failed to evaluate the lack of proof. (5) The appellant, incarcerated for over 12 years since 2012, was ordered released forthwith, subject to Section 437A Cr.P.C., unless wanted in another case. (6) The court expressed concern over the appellant's prolonged detention without evidence but refrained from strictures against the Investigating Officer and trial court.

1. The present appeal has been preferred by the accused appellant Nanhaku Singh challenging the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 23.06.2016, passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.2, Shahjahanpur in Session Trial No.77 of 2013 (State vs. Nanhaku Singh) arising out of Case Crime No.56 of 2012, Police Station Jaitipur, District Shahjahanpur, whereby the accused appellant has been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment under sections 302, 376 IPC and 3(2)(V) SC/ST Act with fine of Rs.5,000/-, in default whereof he is to further undergo three years rigorous imprisonment; under section 201 IPC for four year rigorous imprisonment. All the sentences are to run concurrently.

2. Written report (Ex.Ka.1) given by the informant is the basis of present case, which alleges that on 18.03.2012 the daughter of informant (PW-1), aged 11 years, had gone alone to fetch fodder from the field. She did not return till 4-5 pm and the family members got concerned. The informant kept searching for his daughter and ultimately the dead body of the deceased daughter was found near the wheat field of Bhubnesh Singh. There were signs of injuries on neck and apprehension was expressed that she was done to death. The dead body was recovered at 08.00 am on the next day i.e. 19.03.2012.

3. On the basis of written report (Ex.Ka.1) First Information Report (Ex.Ka.2) was lodged at 10.30 am on 19.03.2012 as Case Crime No.56 of 2012 under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Jaitipur, District Shahjahanpur. Investigation proceeded in the matter. Inquest (Ex.Ka.4) was conducted at 10.30 am on 19.03.2012. In order to ascertain the cause of death the inquest witnesses opined that the postmortem of deceased be conducted. Consequently, the dead body was sealed and sent to mortuary for postmortem. The postmortem (Ex.Ka.8) was conducted at 04.45 pm on the same day. The Autopsy Surgeon determined the cause of death as shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. Following ante-mortem injuries were found on the deceased:-

“(i) Incised wound 2cm x 1 cm x muscle deep over the right side chin 3cm below from right angle of mouth margins are clear cut and regular. Clotted blood present in the wound.

(ii) Incised wound 1cm x .5cm x muscle deep over the right side of chin 1cm lateral to the injury no.1 margins regular and clear cut. Clotted blood present in the wound.

(iii) Incised wound 3cm x 1.5cm x muscle deep over the left side face 2cm medial to the ear tragus, margins regular and clear cut. Clotted blood present in the wound.

(iv) Incised wound 1cm x 1cm x muscle deep on the left side of face 1cm medial to the left ear tragus, margins regular and clear cut. Clotted blood present in the wound.

(v) Incised wound 11cm x 5cm x oesophagus deep over the front and lateral aspect of neck some part of muscle, skin, and underneath trachea and oesophagus missing. Margins regular and clear cut. Clotted blood present in the wound.

(vi) Incised wound 9cm x 3cm x oesophagus deep over the front of neck just above injury no.5 over part of skin and muscle missing and underneath part of trachea and oesophagus also missing and both neck vessels found cut and separated. Margins regular and clear cut. Clotted blood present in the wound.

(vii) Incised wound 8cm x 2cm x trachea deep over the front of upper neck just above injury no.6, some part of muscle and underneath larynx and trachea also missing and neck vessels cut and separated. Margins regular and clear cut. Clotted blood present in the wound.

(viii) 1st to 2nd degree burn injury present over the front of chest 7cm x above the right nipple margins blurred size 16x11cm.

(ix) 1st to 2nd degree burn injury over the left clavicle 4cm lateral to medial end of left clavicle. Margins blurred.

(x) Lacerated wound present around the labia minora and laceration present in the both lateral aspect of anterior 1/3rd vaginal wall, hymen was also found lacerated and some part of hymen missing, margins irregular and clotted, blood present in the wound. ”

4. Investigating Officer has recovered the clothes, slippers etc. of the deceased vide Ex.Ka.13 and has also recovered a plastic sack and sickle (daranti) etc. vide Ex.Ka.11. The Investigating Officer has collected bloodstained earth and plain earth vide Ex.Ka.10 as also recovered bloodstained plants of wheat crops vide Ex.Ka.13. Such recovered materials were sent for scientific investigation by the Forensic Laboratory.

5. Role of accused appellant surfaced on the basis of information given to the parents of the deceased by the family members. The Investigating Officer, after recording the statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C., concluded the investigation and submitted chargesheet against the accused appellant under Sections 302, 376, 201 IPC and 3(2)(V) SC/ST Act. The Magistrate took cognizance on the chargesheet and committed the case to the Court of Sessions where it got registered as Session Trial No77 of 2013. Charges were framed against the accused appellant under aforesaid sections. On being read out the charges to the accused appellant, he denied the accusations made against him and demanded trial.

6. The prosecution in order to prove its case has exhibited various documentary evidence, noticed above. In addition to the exhibited documentary evidence, the prosecution has also produced the oral testimony of following prosecution witnesses:

7. PW-1 (Premwati) is the first informant/mother of deceased. In her examination-in-chief, she has stated that she has five daughters and on the date of incident her husband as well as her eldest son were working in Delhi. She has supported the prosecution case that having gone to fetch fodder from the field her daughter disappeared and ultimately her dead body was found near the field of Bhubnesh and that her throat was slit and she had no clothes on her. It is also stated that clothes, slippers, sickle (daranti) etc. were recovered from near vicinity of dead body. The report was got scribed by someone on the asking of the informant and she placed her thumb impression on it. PW-1 has also stated that she later came to know that her daughter has been done to death by accused appellant, who came in possession over her agricultural land after it was got released from accused appellant about three years back, due to which he maintained enmity.

In her cross-examination, PW-1 has admitted that she has not seen the incident and the contents of written report are based on hearsay information received from others. The person from whom such information has been received has not been identified. She has also stated that accused appellant has five children and eldest daughter is about 18-19 years of old. PW-1 has been elaborately examined in which she has disclosed her family composition and except to state that she has apprehension that accused appellant had committed the murder, there was no other basis for her to implicate the accused appellant. PW-1 has also admitted that initially one Atul Kumar was apprehended by the police whereafter Gopal Jatav was arrested but both of them were released. PW-1 has admitted that she has won the election of member of Gram Panchayat after defeating the wife of one Ram Bharose. She has denied the suggestion that on account of political dispute she has falsely implicated the accused appellant.

8. PW-2 (Ram Charan) is the father of deceased. In his examination-in-chief he has stated that on account of enmity accused appellant has committed the offence as he got his land released from him. In the cross-examination, PW-2 has stated that he was not in the village and only after death of the deceased he returned. The source of information to implicate the accused appellant by PW-2 is also hearsay statement without specifying the person from whom such information was received.

9. Omveer has been produced as PW-3, who has turned hostile during trial.

10. PW-4 (Neelam Kumari) is the minor girl whose statement was recorded by the police during investigation under section 161 Cr.P.C. in which she alleged that the deceased was done to death by the accused appellant. In her statement before the trial court PW-4 has denied having given any information to the Investigating Officer about complicity of the accused appellant.

11. PW-5 (Rohil Husain) is the Head Constable, who has proved the police papers. PW-6 (K. P. Singh) is the Sub Inspector, who has proved the inquest papers.

12. PW-7 (A. K. Rai) is the Autopsy Surgeon, who conducted the postmortem of deceased. He has proved the postmortem report and as per him ten injuries were found on the deceased.

13. PW-7 (Balwant) is stated to be an independent witness, who has turned hostile during trial. PW-9 and PW-10 are also the independent witnesses, who have turned hostile and have not supported the prosecution case.

14. PW-10 (Mukesh), PW-11 (Harirai Tripathi) and PW-12 (Vinay Kumar Saroj) are the police personnel, who have conducted the investigation in the matter from time to time.

15. The accused appellant has been confronted with the above incriminating materials produced by the prosecution during trial for recording his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. in which he has denied the charges by stating that he has been falsely implicated in the present case while he is innocent.

16. It is on the basis of such evidence led during trial by the prosecution and upon consideration of the explanation furnished by the accused appellant under section 313 Cr.P.C. that the court below has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has established its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused appellant and found him guilty of committing the offence. The court below has convicted and sentenced the accused appellant vide impugned judgment and order. Thus aggrieved, the accused appellant is before this Court in the present appeal.

17. Shri Ashok Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellant submits that this is a case in which accused appellant has been falsely implicated only on account of suspicion of the parents of deceased. He submits that absolutely no evidence of any kind has been produced by the prosecution to prove the guilt of accused appellant. Submission is that it is neither a case of direct evidence nor any circumstance adverse to accused appellant has been produced so as to implicate him. Argument is that without any cogent evidence produced during trial against the accused appellant he has remained in jail for over twelve years and that as the trial court has not correctly appreciated the evidence on record, as such the judgment of conviction and sentence is liable to be set aside.

18. Learned A.G.A. for the State, on the other hand, has supported the judgment of conviction and sentence for the reasons recorded therein.

19. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and have perused the materials brought on record, including the original records of the court below.

20. Perusal of record would go to show that the deceased was a girl aged about 11 years, who died on account of ten injuries caused to her. Her dead body was recovered at about 08.00 am on 19.03.2012. It is on the basis of information received by family members that the accused appellant has been implicated in the present case.

21. We have carefully gone through the evidence on record, which consists of documentary evidence as well as oral testimony. This is not a case of direct evidence against the accused appellant. This is also not a case falling in the category of circumstantial evidence, inasmuch as none of the circumstances have been produced by the prosecution to implicate the accused appellant.

22. PW-1 and PW-2 are the star prosecution witnesses, who are parents of the deceased. PW-2 admittedly was not present in the village when the incident occurred. PW-1 is the mother, who also admits that she has not seen the accused appellant committing the offence. She claims to have learnt of the complicity of accused appellant but no person has been identified from whom information has been received. None has otherwise been produced who has either seen the incident or any incriminating material against the accused appellant has been produced.

23. Admittedly, there is no recovery from the accused appellant. It is also not the case that dead body has been recovered on the pointing out of the accused appellant. No weapon of assault has been recovered from the appellant. In the absence of any evidence produced by the prosecution to implicate the accused appellant, we are amazed as to how the prosecution on the basis of such non-existent material could either implicate the accused appellant or the court of sessions could have convicted the accused appellant.

24. The only basis to implicate the accused appellant is the suspicion on account of alleged reclaiming of land by the informant from the accused appellant about three years back. Mere apprehension howsoever strong cannot be the substitute for evidence which alone can justify implication of an accused.

25. In the absence of evidence worth the name we find it difficult to approve the judgment of conviction and sentence of the trial court in the facts of the present case. It appears that the trial court has not carefully examined the records and in its anxiety to convict the accused has proceeded to deliver the judgment even without any evidence appearing on record against the accused appellant.

26. We are also informed that the accused appellant is in jail since 2012. It is unfortunate that despite there being no evidence against the accused appellant he has been forced to remain in jail for over twelve years. We are tempted to make harsh observations not only against the Investigating Officer but also the Presiding Officer but we refrain from doing so as they have not been heard in the matter. Nevertheless, we are disappointed by the manner in which a person is incarcerated in jail for over twelve years without any evidence against him.

27. From the discussions and deliberations held above, we have no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to establish its case against the accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt. We also hold that the court below has not evaluated the evidence led during trial in correct perspective and, therefore, the impugned judgement and order of conviction and sentence is liable to be reversed.

28. Consequently, the appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 23.06.2016 is hereby set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charges levelled against him. Since the appellant is in jail, he shall be released forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of section 437A Cr.P.C.

29. Copy of this judgment shall be communicated to the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned as also the concerned Superintendent of Jail for necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal Against Conviction and

The appellant, Hari Bahadur, challenged the judgment dated 14.09.2005 by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 10, Ghaziabad, in Sessions Trial No. 1147 of 2003, convicting him under Section 302 IPC for the murder of Sita Ram, sentencing him to life imprisonment with a Rs. 10,000 fine, and 6 months additional imprisonment in default. The prosecution alleged that on 13/14.05.2003 at 11:45 PM, the appellant stabbed Sita Ram in a hutment area, suspecting him of withholding information about his brother Radhey Shyam, who allegedly enticed the appellant's wife. PW-1 (Shobha Kant Poddar), an eye-witness, saw the assault in electric bulb light and lodged the FIR, supported by PW-2's testimony confirming PW-1's presence, the postmortem report showing six stab wounds causing death by lung laceration, and the appellant's arrest with the crime weapon (knife). The appellant claimed false implication due to enmity but led no evidence. Held: (1) The appeal was partly allowed, upholding the conviction but modifying the sentence. (2) PW-1's testimony was of sterling quality, unimpeachable, and corroborated by PW-2's confirmation of his presence and the postmortem report, despite PW-2 not witnessing the assault. (3) Adequate lighting from electric bulbs enabled clear identification of the appellant, who was known to PW-1. (4) Failure to prove recoveries (knife, blood-stained clothes, hair strands) did not undermine the prosecution case, as PW-1's reliable testimony sufficed for conviction. (5) Considering the appellant's age (28 at the time of the offence), lack of criminal antecedents, and 20 years served, the life sentence was modified to a fixed term of 22 years actual imprisonment, excluding remission, due to the brutal nature of the crime and public confidence in the legal system. (6) The court exercised its power under Section 53 IPC to impose a fixed-term sentence, as clarified by constitutional courts' authority.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajiv Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ram Sagar Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant, Shri Arun Kumar Pandey, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 14.09.2005 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.10, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No. 1147 of 2003 (State of U.P. Vs. Hari Bahadur), arising out of Case Crime No. 686 of 2003, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad, convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/- under Section 302 IPC and in default of payment of fine, to undergo six months' further additional imprisonment.

3. The prosecution case as has been set out by the first informant Shobha Kant Poddar (PW-1) in the first information report is that in the night between 13/14.05.2003 at about 12:00 O'clock in the night, while he was taking his meals, he heard an alarm being raised from near the hutment of Sita Ram. After hearing the alarm, he reached there, where he had seen in the light of the electric bulbs lit there on the electric pole, that appellant, who also used to reside near his hutment, assaulting Sita Ram by a knife on his chest and back, uttering that he suspects that his brother Radhey Shyam had enticed away his wife and whereabouts of Radhey Shyam is not being disclosed by him, as such, he would be done to death and continued to assault Sita Ram by a knife.

4. It is further stated that when PW-1 Shobha Kant tried to rescue Sita Ram, he was also threatened for dire consequences, as such, he retreated back and started raising alarm. On hearing the alarm, number of persons reached the place of incident and saw Hari Bahadur, with the knife in his hand, making his escape good towards Shukra Bazaar. The dead body of the deceased Sita Ram, soaked with blood, was lying at the place of incident.

5. On the basis of the said written report handed over by the first informant Shobha Kant, a first information report was registered against the appellant Hari Bahadur Nepali, which was registered vide Case Crime No. 686 of 2003, under Section 302 IPC at Police Station Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad at 12:45 AM or 00:45 Hours, which has been proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1. Entry regarding first information report was made in G.D. Report No.2, dated 14.05.2003 at 00:45 hours.

6. Perusal of the record shows that prior to the lodging of the said first information report, after committing the incident of murder by the appellant Hari Bahadur Nepali, and making his escape good, he was being chased by number of villagers and on the alarm raised by them, S.I. R.V. Kaul of Police Station Indirapuram, who was on the patrolling duty, reached near the place of incident and apprehended the accused-appellant Hari Bahadur Nepali alongwith crime weapon knife, which he was holding in his hand at about 12:20 AM in the night. The said knife held by the accused-appellant, was taken in possession by the S.I. R.V. Kaul and its fard recovery memo was prepared, which has been proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-9. Thereafter, the blood-stained pant, worn by the appellant at the time of his arrest, was also taken in possession and its fard recovery memo was drawn. Thereafter, accused was taken to the Police Station and lodged in the jail.

7. Thereafter, the investigation of the said case was entrusted to S.I. Mahesh Singh Tomar (PW-4), who recorded the statement of first informant Shobha Kant (PW-1) and that of the accused, who was arrested by the police. Thereafter, the statement of other relevant witnesses, namely, Sanjeev and Rajesh Kumar were recorded and the Investigating Officer reached the place of incident and prepared the site plan, which has been proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-4.

8. Thereafter, on 14.05.2003, S.I. R.V. Kaul conducted the inquest on the person of the deceased and prepared the inquest memo and other relevant documents and thereafter, despatched the dead body of the deceased for post-mortem and an autopsy was conducted on the person of the deceased on 14.05.2003 at about 4:00 PM. In the said post-mortem report, the Doctor has noted as many as six injuries on the person of the deceased, which are noted herein-below:-

(i) कटा हुआ घाव 3.5 x 1.5 से०मी० जो छाती के बीचो बीच फेफड़े की गहराई तक पाई गयी बायाँ फेफड़ा कटा हुआ था, जिसके चारो ओर लगभग 800 मि०ली० रक्त पाया गया।

(ii) कटा हुआ घाव 3 x 1 से०मी० पेट के ऊपरी हिस्से पर बांयी तरफ पसली के मध्य के नीचे मांस पेशियों की गहराई तक पाया गया।

(iii) कटा हुआ घाव 3.5 x 1.5 से०मी० पीठ पर बांयी तरफ स्कैपुला हड्डी के नीचे फेफड़े की गहराई तक पाया गया, बायाँ फेफड़ा कटा हुआ पाया गया, जिसके चारो तरफ लगभग 1 लीटर रक्त जमा पाया गया।

(iv) कटा हुआ घाव पीठ पर बांयी तरफ चोट नं०-3 से 12 से०मी० नीचे फेफड़े की गहराई तक जिससे बायाँ फेफड़ा कटा हुआ पाया गया।

(v) कटा हुआ घाव 3.5 x 1.5 से०मी० पीठ पर दाहिने हाथ की तरफ चोट नं०4 से आर पार होता हुआ तथा लगभग इससे 10 से०मी० दूर पेट की गहराई तक पाया गया। पेट के अन्दर कोई चोट नहीं पायी गयी।

(vi) कटा हुआ घाव 3 x 1.5 से०मी० चोट नं०5 से 12 से०मी० नीचे माँस पेशी की गहराई तक पाया गया।

9. In internal examination, both lungs were found lacerated and the cause of death has been noted to be shock and haemorrhage due to laceration of both lungs.

10. At the time of conducting the panchayat nama, the Investigating Officer had also collected plain earth and blood-stained earth from the place of incident and kept it in a container. Apart from it, hair strands of the accused-appellant Hari Bahadur, held by the deceased Sita Ram in his fist, was also recovered and taken in possession by the Investigating Officer and its fard recovery memo was prepared. The Investigating Officer thereafter recorded the statement of other relevant witnesses and after concluding the investigation, submitted the charge-sheet against the appellant.

11. On the basis of the said charge-sheet, learned Magistrate had taken cognizance of the offence and since the case was exclusively triable by the court of Sessions, made over the case to the court of Sessions for trial, which was registered as Sessions Trial No. 1147 of 2003 (State of U.P. Vs. Hari Bahadur). The trial court on 29.07.2023 framed the charges against the appellant under Section 302 IPC, which was read out to the appellant, who abjured the charges, did not plead guilty and claimed to be tried.

12. During the course of trial, the prosecution, in order to bring home the guilt against the appellant, examined as many as two witnesses of fact and two other formal witnesses. Their testimony, in brief, is enumerated herein-below:-

13. PW-1 Shobha Kant, first informant of the case, has stated that in the night of 13/14.05.2003, Sita Ram was murdered at about 11:45 PM, while he was taking his meals in his hutment. The hutment of Sita Ram is situated behind his hut, from where, alarm was being raised by Sita Ram. Hearing the alarm, he reached there and saw Hari Bahadur, present in the court, assaulting Sita Ram on his chest and back by a knife. The source of light was the electric bulbs lit there on the electric poles.

While assaulting him, Hari Bahadur was uttering that he had not disclosed the whereabouts of his brother Radhey Shyam, who had enticed away his wife. On making an attempt to rescue him, he was also threatened. On raising alarm, number of persons of the vicinity reached there, consequent to which, Hari Bahadur made his escape good. The report in respect of the incident was lodged by him, which has been proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1.

14. During cross-examination, he has stated that incident had occurred at about 11:45 PM on 13.05.2003 and before he reached near the place of incident, no other person was present there. His hutment is situated at a distance of 30 feet from the hutment of deceased Sita Ram. The incident had taken place outside the hutment of Sita Ram and he had reached the place of incident at about 11:45 PM and the police had also reached in the night itself. He had gone alone to lodge the report at 12:00 in the night and he himself had scribed the report in the Police Station itself and not on the dictation of any police personnel. He returned back after the police had recorded his statement.

15. During cross-examination, he further denied the recovery of knife in his presence. He further stated that Radhey Shyam is not related to him and Sita Ram used to live with his brother Radhey Shyam. He further denied the suggestion that Hari Bahadur used to make their complaints to the police, who used to look out for the miscreants in respect of sale of Ganja and in retaliation to which, he is falsely deposing against the appellant. He further denied the suggestion that he had not witnessed the incident.

16. PW-2 Raja Ram is the panch witness and after conducting the panchayat nama, the dead body of the deceased was despatched for post-mortem.

17. During cross-examination, he has stated that at about 12:00-12:30 AM, Sita Ram was murdered and his hut is situated just adjacent to his hut, which is at a distance of 20 feet. On the alarm being raised, he got up and reached the place of incident within five minutes, however, before he reached there, Shobha Kant (PW-1) had already reached there alongwith 20-25 other persons. He further stated that police reached the place of incident at about 12:00-12:30 AM. He further categorically stated that the accused made his escape good, before he could reach the place of incident. He further stated that he was a panch witness and his signature was obtained on the inquest.

18. PW-3 Dr. A. Mishra had conducted the autopsy on the person of the deceased and proved the autopsy report and contents thereof. The autopsy report has been proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-3.

19. During cross-examination, he stated that an autopsy was conducted on the person of the deceased at 4:00 PM on 14.05.2003. He further stated that injury nos. 1, 3 & 4 were sufficient to cause the death and the cause of death is laceration of the lungs. He further stated that on account of long illness or on account of taking excessive liquor, such injuries could not be caused. All the injuries could be caused by sharp edged weapon and the said injuries could not be caused by fall over a sharp edged weapon.

20. PW-4 S.I. Mahesh Singh Tomar is the Investigating Officer of the case, who was entrusted the investigation on 14.05.2003. He stated that he had recorded the statement of the first informant and that of the accused, who had been arrested by the police and brought at the police station. He prepared the site plan, which has been proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-4.

21. He further stated that he had recorded the statement of S.I. R.V. Kaul, who had arrested the accused Hari Bahadur, while he was trying to make his escape good towards Shukra Bazaar after killing Sita Ram and the crime weapon (knife) was taken in his possession from the hands of the accused-appellant Hari Bahadur, who prepared the respective recovery memos. After recording the statement of several witnesses and collecting the material evidence, he concluded the investigation and submitted the charge-sheet against the appellant.

22. During cross-examination, he stated that the place of incident is near the police outpost Kaushambi and at the relevant time of incident, Shri R.V. Kaul was on patrolling duty, who reached the place of incident and arrested the accused alongwith crime weapon (knife). The inquest proceedings was also conducted by the said S.I. R.V. Kaul and the knife, bloodstained pant, hair strands from the fist of the deceased, plain earth and bloodstained earth were taken in possession by him, who prepared their respective recovery memos.

23. He further stated that fard recovery memo in respect of recovery of knife and hair strands is not before the court, as such, he can not state anything about the said recoveries. He further denied the suggestion that on the instigation of the first informant, he investigated the said case and falsely implicated the accused-appellant.

24. Thereafter, statement of the accused under Section 313 CrPC has been recorded and all the incriminating circumstances were put to him, which were denied by him and he pleaded that on account of enmity, he has falsely implicated, however, in his defence, no evidence has been led nor any evidence relating to enmity with the witnesses has been proved by the appellant.

25. The trial court, after appreciating the entire material and evidence available on record, has held that the prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubts against the appellant by relying upon the testimony of PW-1 as also corroborated by PW-2 regarding presence of PW-1 at the place of incident and the medical reports of the deceased, however, the factum of recovery of various articles has not been found proved by the trial court. The trial court, on the basis of unimpeachable testimony of PW-1 and post-mortem report of the deceased, has held that the appellant is guilty of the offence committed and convicted and sentenced him. The medical evidence also lends credence to the prosecution case against the appellant. The datas mentioned in the post-mortem report points out conclusively to the culpability of the appellant for the commission of offence.

26. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied by the said judgment and order, the present criminal appeal has been filed.

27. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently submitted that trial court has committed a serious error in recording the finding that the appellant is guilty of murder. He has further submitted that trial court committed a serious error in believing the two so called eye-witnesses as reliable witnesses. He has further submitted that both the eye-witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 are unreliable witnesses, however, trial court by placing implicit reliance upon their testimony, has illegally recorded the finding of conviction and sentence against the appellant.

28. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that PW-2 in his testimony has clearly stated that when he reached the place of incident, accused person had already made his escape good and as such, he had not witnessed any part of the actual incident of assaulting the victim by the appellant and therefore, his testimony do not lend any credence to the prosecution story and as such, the finding of conviction recorded against the appellant is bad in law and is liable to be set aside.

29. Learned counsel for the appellant has next submitted that veracity of entire prosecution story, rests only on the sole testimony of PW-1, which has not been corroborated by any other link evidence and as such, the finding of the guilt recorded against the appellant based on the sole testimony of PW-1 is bad in law and is liable to be set aside.

30. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that only on the basis of sole testimony of a witness, the finding of guilt can not be recorded against an accused person.

31. Learned counsel for the appellant has next submitted that admittedly, the incident has taken place in the dark hours of the night at 12:00 O'Clock as evident from the testimonies of witnesses and no source of light was available in the hutment, in absence of which, identification of the appellant to be the assailant, is nothing but based on imagination of the prosecution witnesses and as such, their testimony is liable to be discarded.

32. Learned counsel for the appellant has next submitted that recovery of blood-stained clothes, knife and hair strands recovered from the fist of the deceased has not been sent for forensic examination, in absence of which, no reliance can be placed on the said link evidence and the appellant is liable to be acquitted by setting aside the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence.

33. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that PW-1 Shobha Kant Poddar is an eye-witness of the incident, who is living in the vicinity, where the incident is said to have taken place and he has been attracted on the alarm raised by the victim and when he reached the place of incident, he had seen the appellant Hari Bahadur assaulting the victim Sita Ram by a knife on his chest and the back. He has further categorically stated in his statement that adequate light of electric bulb fixed on the electric poles was available there, in which, he had witnessed the incident and identified the accused Hari Bahadur assaulting the victim, thereby causing his death.

34. Learned AGA has further submitted that during the course of trial, PW-1 in his testimony has clearly narrated the entire incident of assaulting the victim by the appellant causing his death and his testimony is of unimpeachable character and the defence has not been able to point out any inconsistency, improvement or embellishment in his testimony. Even during the cross-examination, nothing has been elicited to doubt the credibility of the said witness. PW-1 has corroborated the prosecution story in all material particulars and therefore, his testimony falls in the category of "wholly reliable witnesses," as such the trial court by placing implicit reliance upon his testimony, has rightly recorded the finding of conviction and guilt against the appellant, which is just, proper and legal and do not call for any interference.

35. Learned AGA has further submitted that even PW-2 in his cross-examination has clearly proved the factum of presence of PW-1 at the time and place of incident, which further lends credibility to the prosecution story.

36. Learned AGA has further submitted that post-mortem report completely corroborates the prosecution story and the defence has not been able to point out any contradiction or improvement in the said post-mortem report, viz-a-viz to the prosecution story, which further lends credibility to the prosecution story.

37. Learned AGA has further submitted that from the site plan as well as statement of PW-1, it is evident that adequate source of light was available at the place of incident in the form of electric bulbs fixed on the electric poles, outside the hutment in the slum area, which has been clearly marked by the Investigating Officer while preparing the site plan. Even PW-1 has clearly stated that he had identified the appellant in the bulb light, which was lit there. The Investigating Officer in the site plan has pointed out that at point B-1, B-2 and B-3, electric poles were fixed having electric bulbs, which were lighted and there was adequate source of light, in which, PW-1 had witnessed the incident and identified the appellant to have assaulted the deceased causing his death. Even PW-1 has clearly pointed out that source of light at the place of incident in the form of electric bulb lit on the electric poles. To quote: "बिजली की रोशनी खम्भे से आ रही थी।" Thus, there was adequate source of light at the place of incident, in which, the assailant has been distinctly identified by the first informant.

38. Learned AGA has further submitted that appellant is living in the same vicinity, where the first informant-PW-1 used to reside and therefore, he was well acquainted with the appellant and there can not be any doubt about his identity.

39. Learned AGA has further submitted that it is well settled principle of law that on the sole testimony of a witness if unimpeachable, the accused can well be convicted. He has further submitted that even the medical report completely corroborates the prosecution story and therefore, the trial court by placing the implicit reliance of testimony of PW-1, corroborated by the statement of PW-2 and the medical report, has rightly convicted the appellant for the offence charged with and there is absolutely no illegality in recording the finding of conviction and sentence against the appellant and as such, the instant criminal appeal has no merit and is liable to be dismissed.

40. Having considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and the evidence adduced during the course of trial, we would now scrutinize the material available on record, on the basis of which, finding of conviction has been recorded against the appellant. It appears from the evidence available on record, more particularly, the evidence of PW-1 Shobha Kant Poddar that both the deceased and the appellant herein were known to him. PW-1 Shobha Kant Poddar knew both as they used to reside in the same locality and very well acquainted with each other. PW-1 in his statement has clearly stated that while he was taking his meals, he heard the alarm raised by the deceased Sita Ram, on which, he was attracted and reached the place of incident and saw the appellant assaulting the deceased with knife, which resulted in his death. In his testimony, he has categorically stated that the incident was well witnessed by him in the electric bulb light, lit at the place of incident, particularly places B-1, B-2 and B-3 as pointed out by the Investigating Officer in the site plan. PW-1 in his testimony has categorically corroborated the entire prosecution story as witnessed by him, on the basis of which, he had gone to the Police Station and lodged the first information report.

41. Moreover, we do not find anything improbable in examination-in-chief of PW-1 Sobha Kant Poddar, even during cross-examination, the defence has not been able to point out any inconsistency, improvement or embellishment in his statement. Thus, nothing could be elicited by the defence to doubt the credibility of the said witness.

42. In the backdrop of scrutinizing the testimony of said witness, we find that the testimony of PW-1 falls in the category of “wholly reliable witness” as held by the Hon’ble Apex Court in the case reported in AIR 1957 (SC) 614 Vadivelu Thevar Vs State of Madras.

43. It is further germane to point out here that though PW-2 in his testimony has stated that he has not been an eye-witness of the incident of actual assault by the appellant but in his statement, he has categorically stated about the presence of the first informant Shobha Kant Poddar (PW-1) at the time and place of incident, which further lends credibility to the prosecution story.

44. The Hon’ble Apex Court in a recent decision passed in Criminal Appeal No. 739 of 2017 (Shahaja @ Shahajan Ismail Mohd. Shaikh Vs. State of Maharashtra) has laid down broad principles for appreciation of an ocular evidence, wherein it has been stated that:-

“27. The appreciation of ocular evidence is a hard task. There is no fixed or straight-jacket formula for appreciation of the ocular evidence. The judicially evolved principles for appreciation of ocular evidence in a criminal case can be enumerated as under:

(I). While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the Court to scrutinize the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief.

(II). If the Court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the trial court and unless there are reasons weighty and formidable it would not be proper to reject the evidence on the ground of minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details.

(III). When eye-witness is examined at length it is quite possible for him to make some discrepancies. But courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the court is justified in jettisoning his evidence.

(IV). Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole.

(V). Too serious a view to be adopted on mere variations falling in the narration of an incident (either as between the evidence of two witnesses or as between two statements of the same witness) is an unrealistic approach for judicial scrutiny.

(VI). By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen.

(VII). Ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.

(VIII). The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

(IX). By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder.

(X). In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guess work on the spur of the moment at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time-sense of individuals which varies from person to person.

(XI). Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

(XII). A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross examination by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The subconscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him.

(XIII). A former statement though seemingly inconsistent with the evidence need not necessarily be sufficient to amount to contradiction. Unless the former statement has the potency to discredit the later statement, even if the later statement is at variance with the former to some extent it would not be helpful to contradict that witness. [See Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat, 1983 Cri LJ 1096 : AIR 1983 SC 753, Leela Ram v. State of Haryana, AIR 1999 SC 3717, and Tahsildar Singh v. State of UP, AIR 1959 SC 1012].

28. To put it simply, in assessing the value of the evidence of the eyewitnesses, two principal considerations are whether, in the circumstances of the case, it is possible to believe their presence at the scene of occurrence or in such situations as would make it possible for them to witness the facts deposed to by them and secondly, whether there is anything inherently improbable or unreliable in their evidence. In respect of both these considerations, the circumstances either elicited from those witnesses themselves or established by other evidence tending to improbabilise their presence or to discredit the veracity of their statements, will have a bearing upon the value which a Court would attach to their evidence. Although in cases where the plea of the accused is a mere denial, yet the evidence of the prosecution witnesses has to be examined on its own merits, where the accused raise a definite plea or puts forward a positive case which is inconsistent with that of the prosecution, the nature of such plea or case and the probabilities in respect of it will also have to be taken into account while assessing the value of the prosecution evidence."

45. Thus, testing the credibility of the statement of two prosecution witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 on the aforesaid principle, we find that there is nothing palpable or glaring in the evidence of two eye-witnesses, on the basis of which, we can take the view that they are not true or reliable eye-witnesses.

46. Analysing the testimony of PW-1 on its face value, we are of the view that the defence has not been able to point out any inconsistency, improvement or embellishment in his testimony and he falls in the category of "wholly reliable witnesses" as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in several of its decision.

47. Now, coming to the plea raised by learned counsel for the appellant that PW-2 is not an eye-witness of the incident of actual assault by the appellant as he in his statement has categorically stated that he reached the place of incident, when the accused had already made his escape good, therefore, he is not an eye-witness of the incident of assaulting the victim, causing his death and therefore, PW-1 is the sole eye-witness of the incident and only on the basis of his sole testimony, conviction can not be based as held by the trial court.

48. In our considered opinion, the said submission made by learned counsel for the appellant can not be accepted in view of settled law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in several of its decisions, wherein it has been held that on the sole testimony of the witness, the accused can be held guilty but the only caveat is that the testimony of the said witness must be of sterling quality. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of (2012) 8 SCC 21 Rai Sandeep @ Deepu Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) has very vividly described the characteristics of the sterling witness.

“22. In our considered opinion, the “sterling witness” should be of a very high quality and calibre whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross-examination of any length and howsoever strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as the sequence of it. Such a version should have co-relation with each and every one of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other such similar tests to be applied, can it be held that such a witness can be called as a “sterling witness” whose version can be accepted by the court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged.”

49. On the anvil of the above principles, when we test the version of PW-1, we find that his testimony is of sterling quality and the defence has not been able to point out any inconsistency, improvement or embellishment, which makes the said witness to be wholly reliable witness and we find that there is a ring of truth in his testimony, therefore, the said argument of learned counsel for the appellant that on the basis of the sole testimony of the witness, the accused-appellant can not be convicted, is beyond comprehension and is liable to be rejected.

50. It is further germane to point out here that at the time of incident, adequate source of light has been pointed out by the Investigating Officer at the place of incident, in which, witnesses are said to have seen the incident and adduced their testimony, which further lends credibility to the prosecution story.

51. It is further germane to point out here that even PW-2, who is not an eyewitness of the incident, has also reached the place of incident on being attracted by the alarm raised by the deceased and he has categorically stated that when he reached the place of incident, he saw PW-1, to be present there, which further lends credibility to the testimony of PW-1. Furthermore, the datas mentioned in the post-mortem clearly supports the prosecution story and further lends credence to it.

52. Learned counsel for the appellant has also submitted that prosecution has failed to cogently and convincingly establish the recoveries of knife, blood-stained clothes and the factum of hair strands, said to be recovered from the fist of the deceased at the time of incident and as such, the prosecution has miserably failed to prove the case against the appellant beyond all reasonable doubt and he is entitled for benefit of doubt by setting aside the impugned judgment and order convicting and sentencing the appellant.

53. Now, considering the said submission of learned counsel for the appellant on its face value, it is well settled principle of law that even where the prosecution fails to prove the factum of recoveries made against the appellant as a link evidence, the conviction can be recorded against the appellant and failure to prove the factum of recoveries against the appellant can not be the sole ground to acquit the accused, where testimony of the witnesses is otherwise found to be reliable and trustworthy as in the instant case.

54. Thus, from the entire analysis and discussions made above, it is evident that prosecution by relying upon the testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 and the medical evidence, has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt against the appellant and has rightly held the appellant guilty for the offence, for which, he has been charged with and we are of the opinion that there appears to be no infirmity or illegality in its judgment, hence, the conviction of the appellant by the trial court under Section 302 IPC is just, proper and legal and is hereby upheld.

55. Now, coming to the sentence of life imprisonment been awarded to the appellant is concerned, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that at the time of commission of the offence, the appellant was only 28 years of age, moreover, he has no criminal antecedents and poses no threat to the society.

56. Lastly, learned counsel for the appellant has pointed out that the appellant as on date has undergone approximately 20 years of sentence, however, since he is a resident of Nepal, therefore, his case is not being considered for “remission” and therefore, he be awarded “fixed term sentence” as held by the Hon’ble Apex Court in a recent decision passed in Criminal Appeal No. 942 of 2023 (Shiva Kumar @ Shiva @ Shivamurthy Vs. State of Karnataka), wherein it has been held that:-

“7. Under Chapter III of the IPC, different punishments have been provided. Section 53 provides for five categories of punishments: the death penalty, imprisonment for life, imprisonment (either rigorous or simple), forfeiture of property and fine. It is also a settled position that when an offender is sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life, the incarceration can continue till the end of the life of the accused. However, it is subject to a grant of remission under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'Cr.P.C.') and the Constitutional powers vested in the Hon'ble Governor and the Hon'ble President of India, as the case may be. While imposing a life sentence, if it is directed that the accused shall not be released for a specific period, it becomes a modified punishment."

57. Further, in the said case (Union of India Vs. V. Sriharan, (2014) 11 SCC 1), it has been held that a modified sentence only be imposed by the Constitution Bench and not by the sessions court.

9. In the case of Union of India Vs. V. Sriharan, (2014) 11 SCC 1, the Constitution Bench was dealing with the question, which is quoted in paragraph 50, which reads thus:

"50. Having thus noted the relevant provisions in the Constitution, the Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code and the DSPE Act, we wish to deal with the questions referred for our consideration in seriatim. The first question framed for the consideration of the Constitution Bench reads as under: Union of India Vs. V. Sriharan, (2014) 11 SCC 1 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 1] , SCC p. 19, para 52)

"52.1. Whether imprisonment for life in terms of Section 53 read with Section 45 of the Penal Code meant imprisonment for rest of the life of the prisoner or a convict undergoing life imprisonment has a right to claim remission and whether as per the principles enunciated in paras 91 to 93 of Swamy Shraddananda Vs. State of Karnataka, (2008) 13 SCC 767: (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 113, a special category of sentence may be made for the very few cases where the death penalty might be substituted by the punishment of imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term in excess of fourteen years and to put that category beyond application of remission?"

10. While answering the question, the Constitution Bench (majority view) held that imprisonment for life in terms of Section 53 read with Section 45 of the IPC means imprisonment for the rest of the life of the convict. In such a case, right to claim remission, commutation etc. in accordance with law will always be available. Thereafter, in paragraph 105, the Constitution Bench held thus:

"105. We, therefore, reiterate that the power derived from the Penal Code for any modified punishment within the punishment provided for in the Penal Code for such specified offences can only be exercised by the High Court and in the event of further appeal only by the Supreme Court and not by any other court in this country. To put it differently, the power to impose a modified punishment providing for any specific term of incarceration or till the end of the convict's life as an alternate to death penalty, can be exercised only by the High Court and the Supreme Court and not by any other inferior court." (emphasis added)

11. What is held by the Constitution Bench, cannot be construed in a narrow perspective. The Constitution Bench has held that there is a power which can be derived from the IPC to impose a fixed term sentence or modified punishment which can only be exercised by the High Court or in the event of any further appeal, by the Supreme Court and not by any other Court in this country. In addition, the Constitution Bench held that power to impose a modified punishment of providing any specific term of incarceration or till the end of convict's life as an alternative to death penalty, can be exercised only by the High Court and the Supreme Court and not by any other inferior Court.

12. In a given case, while passing an order of conviction for an offence which is punishable with death penalty, the Trial Court may come to a conclusion that the case is not a 'rarest of the rare' case. In such a situation, depending upon the punishment prescribed for the offence committed, the Trial Court can impose other punishment specifically provided in Section 53 of the IPC. However, when a Constitutional Court finds that though a case is not falling in the category of 'rarest of the rare' case, considering the gravity and nature of the offence and all other relevant factors, it can always impose a fixed-term sentence so that the benefit of statutory remission, etc. is not available to the accused. The majority view in the case of V. Sriharan cannot be construed to mean that such a power cannot be exercised by the Constitutional Courts unless the question is of commuting the death sentence. This conclusion is well supported by what the Constitution Bench held in paragraph 104 of its decision, which reads thus:

"104. That apart, in most of such cases where death penalty or life imprisonment is the punishment imposed by the trial court and confirmed by the Division Bench of the High Court, the convict concerned will get an opportunity to get such verdict tested by filing further appeal by way of special leave to this Court. By way of abundant caution and as per the prescribed law of the Code and the criminal jurisprudence, we can assert that after the initial finding of guilt of such specified grave offences and the imposition of penalty either death or life imprisonment, when comes under the scrutiny of the Division Bench of the High Court, it is only the High Court which derives the power under the Penal Code, which prescribes the capital and alternate punishment, to alter the said punishment with one either for the entirety of the convict's life or for any specific period of more than 14 years, say 20, 30 or so on depending upon the gravity of the crime committed and the exercise of judicial conscience befitting such offence found proved to have been committed." (emphasis added)

13. Hence, we have no manner of doubt that even in a case where capital punishment is not imposed or is not proposed, the Constitutional Courts can always exercise the power of imposing a modified or fixed-term sentence by directing that a life sentence, as contemplated by "secondly" in Section 53 of the IPC, shall be of a fixed period of more than fourteen years, for example, of twenty years, thirty years and so on. The fixed punishment cannot be for a period less than 14 years in view of the mandate of Section 433A of Cr.P.C."

16. This is one case where a Constitutional Court must exercise the power of imposing a special category of modified punishment. The High Court expressed the view that the punishment imposed by the Trial Court was justified after considering the balance sheet of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. It is the duty of the Court to consider all attending circumstances. The Court, while considering the possibility of reformation of the accused, must note that showing undue leniency in such a brutal case will adversely affect the public confidence in the efficacy of the legal system. The Court must consider the rights of the victim as well. After having considered these circumstances, we are of the opinion that this is a case where a fixed-term sentence for a period of thirty years must be imposed.

58. Accordingly, in the instant case, we modify the order of sentence passed by the trial court for the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. The appellant is already in jail having undergone about 20 years of actual imprisonment, as such, we direct that the appellant shall be released only after he completes 22 years of actual sentence. The instant criminal appeal is partly allowed to the above extent.

59. Let a copy of this judgment and order be forwarded to the court concerned along with trial court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 452, 304/34, 504 & 506 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 313 & 374(2) – Indian Evidence Act, 1872 – Section 27 – Criminal Appeal Against Conviction and Sentence – House Trespass – Culpable Homicide Not Amounting to Murder – Common Intention – Insult and Criminal Intimidation – Eye-Witness Testimony – Child

Witness – Medical Evidence – Recovery of Weapon – Delay in FIR – Minor Contradictions

The appellant, Dharampal, challenged the judgment dated 03.07.2010 by the Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No. 2, Bijnor, in Sessions Trial No. 140 of 2009, convicting him under Section 304/34 IPC (10 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 10,000 fine, 3 months simple imprisonment in default) and Section 452 IPC (3 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs. 3,000 fine, 3 months simple imprisonment in default), with sentences to run concurrently. The prosecution alleged that on 21.02.2008 at 6:00 PM, Dharampal, armed with a tabbal, along with his wife Somo and son Kapil, armed with lathi and danda, trespassed into the house of PW-1 (Ram Singh) and assaulted his son Harvansha due to a dispute over a water tap, causing fatal head injuries. Harvansha died on 26.02.2008, leading to the addition of Section 304 IPC. The FIR was lodged on 26.02.2008, delayed due to medical treatment. Held: (1) The appeal was partly allowed, affirming the conviction but modifying the sentence to the period already undergone. (2) The prosecution proved the case beyond reasonable doubt through consistent eye-witness testimonies of PW-1 (father), PW-2 (grandson, child witness), and PW-4 (sister), corroborated by medical evidence showing head injuries caused by blunt and sharp weapons, and recovery of the tabbal under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. (3) Minor contradictions in witness testimonies (e.g., sequence of arrival, weapon descriptions) were insignificant and did not undermine the prosecution case. (4) The delay in lodging the FIR was satisfactorily explained by PW-1's focus on Harvansha's critical medical treatment. (5) PW-2's testimony as a child witness was reliable, supported by case law affirming the credibility of child witnesses unless tutored. (6) The absence of blood-stained earth at the scene was attributed to investigative lapses and delay, not disproving the incident. (7) The sentence was modified to the period undergone, considering the appellant's custody and a separate life imprisonment conviction in another case.

3. This Criminal Appeal has been filed against the Judgment and Order dated 03.07.2010 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.2, Bijnor in Sessions Trial No.140 of 2009 (State vs. Dharampal) arising out of Case Crime No.179 of 2008, under Sections 452, 304/34, 504, 506 IPC, Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Bijnor, whereby the appellant Dharampal has been convicted under Sections 304/34 and 452 IPC and sentenced as follows:

(i) Under Section 304/34: 10 years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.10,000/-.

(ii) Under Section 452 IPC: 3 years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.3000/-.

In case of default of fine, further imprisonment of 3 months simple imprisonment shall be awarded. All sentences to run concurrently.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

4. The prosecution version in brief, is that, on 26.02.2008, the first informant Ram Singh lodged the First Information Report (for short 'FIR') at Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Bijnor, based on a written Tehrir (Exhibit-Ka1) dated 25.02.2008 scribed by Dumpi stating that on 21.02.2008 at around 6:00 pm when his son Harvansha was at home, the accused Dharampal armed with tabbal, his wife Somo and son Kapil armed with lathi and danda respectively entered into his house and hurled abuses and challenged them for dire consequences for not allowing them to wash the clothes at the tap. His son objected but all the three accused armed with tabbal, lathi and danda gave severe beatings to his son in order to kill him. Hearing the noise, the first informant and the villagers Raju and Abid rushed to the spot and tried to save Harvansha from the accused. The accused extended life threats and fled away. In the said incident of marpeet, his son Harvansha received severe injuries on his head and the body. He was given medical treatment at Government Hospital, Bijnor. As the condition of his son was critical, so he remained busy with the medical treatment and approached late to lodge an FIR.

5. Initially, the aforementioned FIR was registered under Sections 452, 323, 504, 506 and 308 IPC, subsequently, vide G.D. Rapat No. 29 dated 27.2.2008, the case was amended and section 304 IPC was added as Harvansha died on 26.2.2008. The inquest proceedings and the post mortem of the deceased were conducted on the same day. The investigation was entrusted to S.I. Ghanshyam Tyagi who reached the spot and recorded the statement of the witnesses and prepared the site plan. A recovery memo of Tabbal at the pointing of Dharampal was also prepared. After the completion of investigation, the charge-sheet dated 09.03.2008 was submitted against Dharampal and his wife Smt. Somo alias Somvati under Sections 452, 504, 506, 304 IPC. The co-accused Kapil being a juvenile, was also charge sheeted and was referred to the Juvenile Justice Board for further course of action.

6. After the committal proceedings, the Sessions Court framed the charges against the accused Dharampal and Smt. Somo alias Somvati under Sections 452, 304/34, 504, 506 IPC. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried. During trial, the co-accused Smt. Somo alias Somvati died and the trial against her was abated on 24.02.2010.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

7. During the trial proceedings, the prosecution examined as many as ten witnesses. Their testimony, in brief, are as follows:

P.W.-1 Ram Singh: the first informant/father of the deceased/eyewitness stated on oath that he knew the accused Dharampal, Smt. Somo alias Somvati and Kapil, who were the resident of his village. There was previous enmity with Dharampal regarding water tap. Due to this reason, on 21.02.2008 at about 6:00 pm, when his son Harvansha was at home, in the meantime, Dharampal, his wife Smt. Somo alias Somvati and his son Kapil entered into their house. Dharampal was armed with tabbal, Smt. Somo was armed with lathi and Kapil was armed with danda. All the three accused challenged his son Harvansha for dire consequences for not allowing to fetch water from the water tap. Often, the accused washed dishes and cleansed the dirt etc. at the water tap which was objected by him and his son. This water tap was installed within his premises. The accused hurled abuses. His son objected. But the accused attacked and gave severe beatings to Harvansha with their weapon. At the time of incident, first informant was sleeping in his room hearing the noise, he reached the spot where other villagers also joined, amongst whom were Abid, Raju, his grandson Dumpi and his daughter Rajo, who intervened and saved Harvansha from the accused. While fleeing, the accused extended life threats. His son Harvansha received serious injuries on his body. With the help of the villagers, Harvansha was brought to Bijnor. Looking to his critical condition, he was given medical treatment. As he was busy in his treatment, therefore, delay was caused in lodging the FIR (Exhibit Ka-15).

After four days of the incident, he gave a Written Tehrir (Exhibit Ka-1), scribed by his grandson Dumpi bearing his thumb impression. He further stated that the Tehrir was written on 22.02.2008 but as he remained busy in the treatment of his only son, therefore, he modified the date of Written Tehrir from 22.02.2008 to 25.02.2008. His son died on 26.02.2008 due to the said injuries, while returning from Delhi. His son was given medical treatment at Meerut and Delhi. In the said marpeet, his son received injuries on his head caused with tabbal and danda. The danda injuries were caused on his hands, shoulders and waist, resultantly, his son fainted at the spot and could not regain his consciousness and finally succumbed to death.

P.W.-2 Himanshu alias Dumpi: an eyewitness/the grandson of the first informant who scribed the Written Tehrir stated on oath that on the date of incident he was at his maternal grandfather's (Nana) home where his maternal uncle Harvansha died due to the incident which took place on 21.02.2008 at 6:00 pm. The accused Dharampal, Somvati and Kapil came to his maternal grandfather's home, armed with lathi and danda. Dharampal was armed with tabbal and the rest two were armed with lathi and danda. The accused assaulted his maternal uncle with the said weapons who lost his consciousness and the blood was oozing out from his body. His maternal grandfather who was sleeping, reached thereafter at the spot. His maternal aunt was also present at the spot. He did not remember as to who else were present there. His maternal uncle was taken to the Hospital where he died during treatment due to the said injuries. He stated that Written Tehrir (Exhibit Ka-1) was scribed by him and his maternal grandfather had put the thumb impression. The said report bears his signature as well.

P.W.-3 Sanjay Kumar Shankar: the consultant pathologist stated on oath that on 26.02.2008 at 4:30 pm, he conducted the post mortem of the deceased Harvansha whose body was brought in a sealed cover by Constable Jabbar Singh and Home Guard Rajpal. The seal was checked and was found in order. The details of the post mortem report is as follows:

External Examination

The deceased was about 32 years old and was of normal height and physique. There was rigour mortis present over upper extremity. This was happening in the lower part from the beginning. There was a rice tube in the nose. The urine tube was also lying there. Three jelly pads were fitted and there was a vein flow on the left wrist.

Anti Mortem Injuries

(ii). Stitched wound (two stitches) of 3.5 cm on the right skull and 6 cm from Ear.

(iii). Contusion 2 x 1 cm on Right arm and 2.5 cm below shoulder.

On dissection of the head, the parietal bone on right side was broken and there was only 120 gms of Haematoma in the cavity. The heart was empty on the left side. The straight side was full. The teeth were 16/16. The stomach mucosa was normal. The stomach was empty. The gall bladder was full. The weight of the pancreas liver was 1200 gms. The weight of both the kidneys was 200 gms. Death was possible about half a day back. The cause of death was coma as a result of ante mortem injuries and the patient was given first aid before post mortem. He prepared the post mortem report (Exhibit Ka-2) at the time of inspection, which was present in his hand writing and was kept on the file.

P.W.-4 Smt Rajo: the sister of the deceased Harvansha and an eyewitness of the incident stated on oath that she knew the accused Dharampal, his son Kapil and his wife Somo alias Somvati. About 2 years back at around 6:00 pm, her brother Harvansha was beaten by the accused Somo alias Somvati, Dharampal and Kapil. The marpeet took place in her house and she was an eyewitness account. Several villagers gathered at the time of incident who saved Harvansha. Her brother died due to the injury caused by the accused.

P.W-5 Mohan Lal Yadav: prepared the inquest report of the deceased Harvansha on 26.02.2008. He stated on oath that the information regarding the death of Harvansha was given by Subhash Chand. After receiving the information, he along with Constable Jabar Singh and Home Guard Rajpal Singh proceeded to District Hospital Bijnor along with the necessary documents. He appointed the five Panchas before preparing the inquest report and relevant records. The relevant records i.e. Inquest Report, Challan Lash, Chitthi RI, Chitthi CMO, Photo Lash were in his hand writing and were prepared at the time of inquest which were proved by him as Exhibit Ka-3. He sealed the dead body and handed over to Constable Jabar Singh and Home Guard Rajpal Singh.

P.W.-6 Constable Jabar Singh: took the dead body for post mortem in a sealed condition. After the post mortem, the dead body was handed over to the family members.

P.W.-7 Dr. R.S. Ravidas: examined the injuries of Harvansha on the date of incident. He stated on oath that on 21.02.2008, he was posted at Sadar Hospital, Bijnor and he medically examined the injuries of Harvansha (Exhibit Ka-9). The said witness proved the medical report (Exhibit Ka-9) and stated that injured Harvansha was brought by his father Ram Singh. At the time of medical examination, he found following injuries on the body of deceased Harvansha:

(i) Injury No.1 : Lacerated wound, 1x 0.5 cm x scalp deep on left side back of skull 5 cm behind from left ear. Surrounded with swelling in an area of 3 cm x 2 cm.

(ii) Injury No.2 : The incised wound was 3.5 cm x 0.5 cm x bone deep, on the right side of the skull, 6 cm away from right ear.

(iii) Injury No.3 : A red contusion 2 cm x 1 cm on the right upper arm 12½ cm below top of shoulder.

In his opinion, the Injury Nos. 1 and 3 were caused by blunt and hard object while Injury No. 2 was caused by some sharp edged object. Injuries Nos. 1 and 2 were kept under observation. An X-ray of skull was advised. Injury no. 3 was simple. All the injuries were fresh. The patient was admitted and referred to the Surgeon. He further deposed that the patient's injury nos. 1 and 3 were caused by danda and sticks and Injury No. 2 was caused by tabbal at 6:00 pm on 21.02.2008. Injuries No. 1 and 2 were on the head which was a vital part of the body. This witness further stated that the medical report was in his hand writing and was prepared at the time of examination and the original medical register was in front of him which he had brought. The photocopy of it was on the file which he matched with the Register and was correct as per the original records. So, he authenticated it. Thus, the medical report dated 21.02.2008 (photocopy) was proved by this witness as Exhibit Ka-9.

P.W.-8 S.I. Ghanshyam Singh Tyagi: the Investigating Officer stated on oath that on 26.02.2008, after the registration of the FIR, he was entrusted with the investigation. On the same date, he inspected the spot. On the pointing of the first informant, he prepared the site plan which was in his handwriting and was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-8. On 27.02.2008, he recorded the statement of witnesses Ram Prasad, Rajesh and Subhash. He perused the medical examination report and entered them in the Case Diary and added Section 304 IPC on the basis of the post mortem report (Exhibit Ka-2). On 28.02.2008, he arrested Dharampal at 12:30 pm at Bhankhala Road Tiraha who in his confessional statement, disclosed that on 21.02.2009, at around 6:00 pm, he quarrelled with Harvansha for the tap water. Harvansha lifted and threw him on the ground, so he rushed to his sister's house and brought a tabbal with which he assaulted Harvansha. He even assured to get the tabbal recovered. Relying on his statement on 28.02.2008, the Constable Udai Veer Singh and Suresh Singh went on the Government Vehicle driven by Raghuvveer Singh and reached at his sister's residence. The accused Dharampal went straight to the roof top of the house and took out a tabbal hidden under the heap of eucalyptus logs. He disclosed that he assaulted Harvansha with this tabbal. The tabbal was sealed on the spot, the recovery memo was prepared and a site plan of the recovery was also prepared. The said recovery memo was signed by the police officers and the copy was handed over to the accused and the thumb impression was also taken. The recovery memo was prepared in his hand writing which he proved it as Exhibit Ka-11. The said recovery was entered in the G.D. as G.D. Rapat No.22 at 14:50 dated 28.02.2008, which was marked as Exhibit Ka-12. The said GD was in his hand writing and was prepared at the spot. The site plan of the place of recovery was prepared as Exhibit Ka-13, which was in his hand writing. Thereafter, the rest two accused were arrested and the statements were recorded. After completing the investigation, the accused Dharampal, wife Sonu @ Somvati were charge sheeted vide charge sheet No. 22 dated 09.03.2008 which was marked as Exhibit Ka-14. On the same date, charge sheet No.22-A was submitted against the co-accused Kapil. The said witness stated that the sealed cover opened before him was the recovered tabbal. It was the same tabbal which was recovered on 28.02.2008 at the pointing of the accused Dharampal from his sister's house at the rooftop hidden under the heap of eucalyptus logs. The recovered tabbal was marked as Exhibit -2 and the sealed cloth was marked as Exhibit-1.

P.W.-9 Constable Onkar Singh: prepared the Chik FIR and stated on oath that he registered the FIR on the basis of the Written Tehrir (Exhibit Ka-1) given by P.W.-1 Ram Singh and made necessary entries in the General Diary. The said witness proved the First Information Report under Sections 452, 323, 504, 506, 308 IPC which was registered by him and whose carbon copy was kept under the record. This witness proved the FIR (Exhibit Ka-15) and Kaymi Muqadma GD (Exhibit Ka-26) were proved by him. He also proved the GD (Exhibit Ka-27) on 27.02.2008, vide Rapat No. 29, Section 304 IPC was added which were in his handwriting and was proved by him.

P.W-10 Subhash Chandra: the brother-in-law of the deceased gave an application at the Police Station for conducting the post mortem of Harvansha. He stated on oath that the application dated 26.02.2008 placed on record having his signature was in his own handwriting and was marked as Exhibit Ka-8. He also stated that his brother-in-law was beaten on 21.02.2008 at 6:00 pm and due to the said injuries, he died.

STATEMENT UNDER SECTION 313 Cr.P.C.

8. After the prosecution evidence was recorded, the incriminating circumstances that appeared against the appellant in the prosecution evidence were put to him for recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The appellant in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. denied the prosecution case and stated that he was falsely implicated on the basis of false evidence. In fact, a person named Akbar committed the offence. No defence witness was produced.

TRIAL COURT FINDINGS

9. The Trial Court recorded the following findings:

There was no material contradiction in the statement of the eyewitnesses. Even in the cross-examination, no contradiction or inconsistencies were found in regard to the place and manner of incident. All the three witnesses of fact were extensively cross-examined, their presence at the place of incident was not found doubtful.

The Trial Court also found that the medical report corroborated with the ocular evidence. The medical examination report dated 21.02.2008 was proved by P.W.-7 Dr. R.S. Ravidas. The said witness found that Injury Nos. 1 and 3 were caused with a blunt weapon and Injury No. 2 was caused by some sharp edged weapon. The seat of Injury Nos. 1 and 3 was the head and the Injury No. 2 was on the shoulder. P.W.-1, in his statement, disclosed that deceased Harvansha received injuries on the head and shoulder. The rest two eyewitnesses disclosed that the deceased Harvansha was assaulted on his head with tabbal and Danda which corroborated with the medical report.

The learned Trial Court also found that the weapon (tabbal) used in the incident was recovered at the pointing of the appellant Dharampal.

All the relevant records, post mortem and inquest reports were duly proved by the prosecution witnesses, therefore, the offence was proved to be committed by the appellant beyond reasonable doubt.

As far as delay in the lodging of the FIR is concerned, the learned Trial Court found that there was no discrepancy in the narration of facts and it was explained by the first informant Ram Singh that as he was busy in the treatment of his only son, therefore, delay was caused in lodging the FIR which was reasonably and satisfactorily explained. The prosecution case cannot be refuted on the ground that no suggestion was given to the said witnesses.

The accused, in his statement, under Section 313 Cr.P.C. did not state that there was any enmity between them. Therefore, it cannot be concluded that there was any previous enmity existing between them.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANT

10. The learned Amicus Curiae Ms. Mayuri Mehrotra, appearing for the appellant vehemently argued as follows:

(i) Firstly, it was argued that there was delay in lodging of the FIR and was lodged after deliberation and consultation. Broadly, it was submitted that the three witnesses of fact (PW-1, PW-2 and PW-4) stated that though the police reached at the spot on the same day yet no FIR was lodged. PW-2 Dumpi went to the extent of stating that he went along with his grandfather PW-1 and his injured uncle Harvansha (deceased) to the Police Station, yet no attempt was made to lodge an FIR by either of them. It was asserted that there were two instances of lodging the FIR, in case they were the eyewitnesses to the incident and knew the names of the accused-appellant, they would have lodged it at once. Till that time, they did not know as to how this offence was committed and who committed it, therefore, none of the prosecution witnesses made an effort to lodge an FIR and had not even witnessed the incident. The FIR was lodged after consultation and deliberation.

(ii) Secondly, it was argued that the place of occurrence was doubtful. The prosecution witnesses deposed that the place of occurrence was the room of the deceased, but during investigation no blood was found. The Investigating Officer, S.I. Ghanshyam Tyagi, PW-8 did not find any drop of blood on the floor, neither on the cot nor on the bed roll or quilt though it was deposed by PW-1 Ram Singh that he found his son in a pool of blood lying on the cot, when he reached at the spot.

(iii) It was next argued that PW-1 Ram Singh, PW-2 Himanshu alias Dumpi and PW-4 Rajo were examined as eyewitnesses. But in the charge sheet only PW-1 Ram Singh was the sole eyewitness.

Had PW-2 and PW-4 been present at the place of the incident they would have been incorporated as eyewitnesses in the charge sheet? Moreover, PW-8, the Investigating Officer categorically stated that neither PW-2 nor PW-4 gave any statement nor did he record their statements during investigation which casts serious doubt on the presence of P.W.- 2 and P.W.-4 at the spot.

(iv) It was further argued that there were major contradictions in the statements of the three eyewitnesses, which are as follows:

(a) PW-1 Ram Singh was the father of the deceased and in his testimony, he made major improvements as compared to what he asserted in the FIR. He stated that he was sleeping when he heard the noise then he came out of his room and thereafter he along with the villagers saved his son from the accused appellants. He further improved his statement to show the presence of PW-2 and PW-4 that they also saved the deceased from the accused-appellant as opposed to the version of the FIR. The FIR nowhere mentions the name of the two witnesses that they were also present at the place of the incident. Further, PW-1 stated that he had a poor vision. The incident occurred in the month of February at 06:00 P.M. It becomes dusky and, therefore, it also casts doubt if he was able to recognise the assailants due to his poor eyesight. PW-1 thereafter stated that his son Harvansha fell unconscious due to the injuries inflicted upon him and later succumbed to death. The question arises here if PW-1 was sleeping at the time of incident and reached only after hearing the commotion and then his son became unconscious, who later died, how did he come to know about the incident as to how it occurred and who were the assailants? It is the version of PW-1 that when he woke up and saw many persons near his son who also saved him. It casts serious doubt on the testimony of PW-1 and his intention to falsely implicate the accused-appellant.

(b) The presence of PW-2 Himanshu alias Dumpi was not proved on the date and time of the incident but as per his statement recorded before the Court below the injured was taken to the hospital immediately after the incident by PW-1 and PW-2. P.W.-2 further admitted that taking notice of the said incident the police personnel reached at the spot between 07:30 and 08:00 PM. The witness further stated that the injured along with this witness was taken to the Police Station by the Police where FIR was lodged. The said version of the PW-2 contradicts the statement of PW-1 and the FIR because it was lodged on 25th/26th February, 2008 and the incident was of 21st February 2008.

(c) Another contradiction discussed was that P.W.2 Himanshu @ Dumpi was sleeping at the time of incident next to his maternal grandfather (nana) and on hearing the noise, he reached at the spot.

(d) Further, P.W.2 Himanshu @ Dumpi in his deposition stated that the accused Dharampal was armed with tabbal and the rest accused were armed with lathi and danda, who assaulted his maternal uncle Harvansha causing injuries on his head and body. P.W.3 Smt. Rajo, in her chief, stated that the accused Dharampal, his wife Somo and his son Kapil assaulted her brother Harvansha with lathi, danda and weapons.

(v) As far as testimony of PW-2 Himanshu alias Dumpi is concerned, it was argued by learned Amicus Curiae that he was a child witness, therefore, his credibility was doubtful as an eyewitness. The name Dumpi nowhere finds mention in the FIR as a witness nor in the charge-sheet. In his examination-in-chief, PW-2 stated that he was sleeping with his grandfather (PW-1) and after hearing the noise, he woke up. He admitted that his grandfather (PW1) reached the place of occurrence after him. However, in his cross-examination, he took a different stand and stated that he was playing near the disputed tap. He heard the noise, then he entered into his house, woke up everyone and called everyone in the house and then he witnessed the incident. There were three injuries found on the person of the deceased and as per the prosecution version there were three assailants, so far how long were they hitting and beating the deceased that PW-2 got so much time to enter, call everyone and even witness the incident. It was submitted that he was not an eyewitness to the occurrence.

(vi) PW-4 Smt. Rajo, the mother of PW-2, daughter of PW-1 and sister of the deceased stated that she saw her brother (the deceased) in a pool of blood who fell unconscious for three to four hours. She even gave exaggerated statement and said that the Police came to the place of occurrence and took her thumb impression. However, no such paper was produced as to what was the purpose of thumb impression if at all they were taken. She was neither named in the FIR as a witness nor in the charge-sheet.

(vii) In regard to recovery of tabbal, it was argued by learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant that Dharampal did not give any statement in police custody that weapon (tabbal) used in the incident was kept hidden in the house of his sister Vinod Kumari nor any such recovery was effected. It was also submitted that no independent witness was present at the time of recovery nor any blood stain was found on the tabbal, which was recovered at the pointing out of the accused-appellant Dharampal. The said recovery was not done in compliance with Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. The recovered weapon was not sent for examination to the Forensic Science Laboratory. Thus, it was not proved that the said weapon was used by Dharampal.

Thus, it was argued by the learned Amicus Curiae that the contradictions in the statement of the witnesses proved that none of the eyewitnesses were present at the spot nor had seen the incident. It is also a case of the prosecution that the incident took place at the sunset and PW-1 Ram Singh had poor eye vision hence there is every likelihood that the informant had falsely implicated the accused persons due to previous enmity. On the basis of the aforesaid submissions, the appellant is liable to be acquitted.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENT-STATE

11. Per contra, Mr. Ratnesh Nandan Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate, vehemently opposed the aforesaid contentions and argued that the findings recorded by the Trial Court is quite convincing and satisfactory.
