APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 05.04.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SHEKHAR B. SARAF, J.

 1996 No. 389 of 2023

Union of India	Versus	...Appellant
Ms. Yauk Engineers		...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri S.K. Misra, Sri Ashok Nigam A.S.G.I., Sri Gopal Verma

Counsel for the Respondent:

Sudhir Dixit

(A) Arbitration Law - Appeal against arbitral award - Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 - Sections 21, 28(3), 34 & 37 - The Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Act, 2015 - Contractual Terms - Arbitral Award - Patent Illegality - Severability - Retrospective Application - Public Policy - Rule or law cannot be applied retrospectively unless there is a clear or manifest intention to the contrary - Contract between the parties outlines the boundaries within which an arbitral tribunal can act - Any act or decision of the arbitral tribunal beyond clearly defined contractual provisions is patently illegal and unsustainable - Any award passed against the statutory or constitutional principles goes against the public policy of India - Under Section 34 and Section 37 of the Act, courts have the authority to partially set aside an arbitral award. (Para - 9,48)

(B) Word or Phrases - lex prospicit non respicit: law looks forward not backward, Principle of pacta sunt servanda: Parties must honour their obligations under the contract, Principle of severability - provides a mechanism for courts to partially set aside an award when certain issues within it are found to be flawed or invalid - severability does not amount to modification, which is prohibited - Courts under Section 34 of the Act have the power to sever and partly set aside the award.(Para - 9,34, 40 to 47)

M/s Yauk Engineers (Respondent) contracted with the Union of India (Appellant) to install a 33KV transformer - contract included a 12-month performance guarantee - defects arose in June 1998 which the Respondent repaired - Respondent claimed ₹6,22,268/- as repair costs - Union refused reimbursement citing guarantee terms - Arbitrator awarded the amount with interest to the Respondent - District Judge upheld the award - Union appealed under Section 37, arguing it contradicted the contractual terms - preliminary issue regarding instant appeal under Section 37 of Act - arbitral award was issued in 2006 and adjudicated in 2024 - temporal disjuncture prompts a crucial examination of legal principles - specifically concerning retrospective application of laws and temporal scope of legal provisions. (Para - 1 to 8)

HELD: - 2015 Amendment to the Arbitration and Conciliation Act did not apply retrospectively to the present case. Award of Rs.6,22,268/- and interest to the Respondent for repairing transformer defects was a violation of Section 28(3) of the Act, as it stood before the Amendment Act, 2015 & it was against the contract's clear provisions. Arbitral award granting reimbursement for repair costs was set aside as it violated the explicit contractual terms, but the remainder of the award was upheld by applying the doctrine of severability. (Paras 34, 39, 51, 52)

Appeal disposed of. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. This is an appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') filed by the Union of India through Garrison Engineer AF (hereinafter referred to as the 'Applicant') against the order dated January 12, 2012 passed by District Judge, Agra in Arbitration Case No. 406 of 2006 under Section 34 of the Act.

FACTS

2. I have laid down the factual matrix leading to the instant appeal below:

a. M/s Yauk Engineers (hereinafter referred to as the 'Respondent') entered into a contract with the Applicant for providing 33KV transformer (Independent Feeder) vide letter dated May 16, 1995 for an amount of Rs.1,00,86,922.26/-. Work was to be completed within 18 months with effect from June 06, 1995. The work order was issued on May 29, 1995. The work was finally completed on August 09, 1997 and completion certificate was issued on August 14, 1997.

b. As per clause 39 and 39.1 of the Contract between the parties and condition 46 of IAFW 2249 General Conditions of Contract (hereinafter referred to as the 'GCC'), entire installation was deemed to be guaranteed by the Respondent for efficient performance for 12 months from the date of completion of work. The Respondent had also given specific undertaking in this regard vide its letter dated October 1, 1997.

c. The Transformer provided by the Respondent became defective in June, 1998 and accordingly, the Respondent was asked by the Applicant to rectify the defects. The Respondent rectified the defects, and claimed reimbursement of Rs.6,28,268/- incurred by it in the rectification of defects. Since, the Applicant contended that based on the guarantee provided by the Respondent it was not liable to reimburse any cost incurred towards rectification of defects, disputes arose between the parties which were referred to arbitration.

d. The Arbitrator vide its award dated July 31, 2006, among other things, awarded a sum of Rs.6,22,268/- along with interest at the rate of 12% p.a. from February 2, 1998 to July 31, 2006 and at the rate of 8% p.a. from August 1, 2006 till the date of actual payment in favour of the Respondent.

e. The arbitral award dated July 31, 2006 was challenged by the Applicant under Section 34 of the Act before the District Judge, Agra (Arbitration Case No. 406 of 2006). Vide its order dated January 12, 2012, the District Judge, Agra dismissed the application filed by the Applicant and upheld the arbitral award dated July 31, 2006 in its entirety.

f. Aggrieved by the order dated January 12, 2012 passed by the District Judge, Agra, the Applicant filed the instant appeal under Section 37 of the Act before this Court on May 4, 2012.

CONTENTIONS OF THE APPLICANT

3. Although several claims that were allowed by the Arbitrator and affirmed by the District Judge are under challenge in this appeal, learned ASG of India has confined his arguments to the reimbursement of Rs.6,22,268/- . The other grounds of appeal have not been pressed by him and are accordingly dismissed in limine. With regards to the claim of reimbursement of Rs.6,22,268/-, Sri Gopal Verma, counsel has made the following arguments:

i. As per clause 39 and 39.1 of the contract between the parties, and condition 46 of IAFW 2249 GCC, entire installation was deemed to be guaranteed by the Respondent for efficient performance for 12 months from the date of completion of work and in case of any default arising during that period, the Respondent was required to rectify/replace the same at its own cost. The Respondent had further specifically given a guarantee vide its letter dated October 1, 1997.

ii. The Arbitrator without considering the oral and written submissions as well as documentary evidence illegally awarded Rs. 6,22,268/- in favour of the Respondent.

iii. The issue regarding the undertaking given by the Respondent for 1 year from August 9, 1996, and further extended vide its letter dated October 1, 1997, in terms of clause 39 of the contract between the parties was specifically raised before the Arbitrator during the arbitration proceedings as well as before the District Judge in proceedings under Section 34 of the Act but no specific finding in this regard has been given either by the Arbitrator or by the District Judge.

iv. The contention of the Respondent that the guarantee given by the manufacturer has expired, does not give it the right to demand the expenses incurred in repair of the transformer in as much as under the terms of the contract, it was the Respondent who had given guarantee as well as undertaking for efficient performance of the transformer from August 8, 1997, and not the manufacturer. As such, the findings given by the Arbitrator as well as the District Judge are beyond jurisdiction in as much as an arbitrator is a creature of contract and it cannot travel beyond it. Reliance is placed in this regard upon the judgments of the Supreme Court in Indian Oil Corporation Limited v. M/s Shree Ganesh Petroleum reported in (2022) 4 SCC 463, and MMTC Ltd. v. Vedanta Ltd. reported in (2019) 4 SCC 163.

v. The Arbitrator while allowing the claim of the Respondent has acted without jurisdiction against the terms of contract in as much as the role of the arbitrator is to arbitrate within the terms of contract. If the arbitrator travels beyond the contract, the arbitrator can be said to be acting without jurisdiction. Reliance is placed in this regard upon the judgments of the Supreme Court in PSA Sical Terminals (P) Ltd. .v. Board of Trustees of V.O. Chidambranar Port Trust Tuticorin reported in 2021 SCC OnLine SC 508.

vi. Award given by the arbitrator is contrary to the contractual provisions between the parties and therefore it is patently illegal and liable to be set aside by this court.

vii. In Delhi Airport Metro Express Private Limited v. Delhi Metro Rail Corporation Limited reported in (2022) 1 SCC 131, it was held by the Supreme Court that a domestic award can be interfered with under Section 34(2A) of the Act on the ground of patent illegality when the arbitrator takes a view which is not even a possible one, or interprets a clause in the contract in such a manner which no fair minded or reasonable person would, or if the arbitrator commits an error of jurisdiction by wandering outside the contract and dealing with matters not allotted to it. Without looking at the aforesaid position of law, the District Judge upheld the award under Section 34 of the Act.

viii. This Court should set aside the order dated January 12, 2012 passed by District Judge, Agra affirming the Arbitral Award dated July 31, 2006.

CONTENTIONS OF THE RESPONDENT

4. Sri Sudhir Dixit, counsel appearing on behalf of the Respondent has advanced the following submissions:

i. A perusal of the grounds taken by the Applicant in proceedings under Section 34 of the Act show that the grounds raised by the Applicant were not within the purview of Section 34(2) of the Act.

ii. The judgment dated January 12, 2012 passed by the District Judge is perfectly legal and valid.

iii. The instant appeal filed under Section 37 of the Act also does not disclose any ground which falls within the parameters of Section 34(2) of the Act.

iv. The District Judge has considered each and every objection raised by Applicant. Therefore, the instant appeal under Section 37 of the Act is devoid of any merits and deserves to be dismissed with cost.

ANALYSIS

5. I have heard the Learned Counsel appearing for the parties and perused the materials on record.

6. A preliminary issue arises before this Court before it delves into the merits of the instant appeal under Section 37 of the Act.

7. Since the arbitral award in the instant case was rendered in 2006 but the instant appeal is being heard and decided in 2024, the question arises as to the law applicable to the instant proceedings given that the Act underwent multiple amendments between 2006 and 2024.

8. The passage of time often renders legal proceedings complex, especially in cases involving arbitration awards. In the present matter, the temporal gap between the issuance of the arbitral award in 2006 and the current adjudication in 2024 presents a challenge. This temporal disjuncture prompts a crucial examination of legal principles, specifically concerning retrospective application of laws and the temporal scope of legal provisions.

9. In Commissioner of Income Tax v. Vatika Township reported in (2015) 1 SCC 1, a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court propounded that a rule or law cannot be applied retrospectively unless there is a clear or manifest intention to the contrary. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

*“28. Of the various rules guiding how a legislation has to be interpreted, one established rule is that unless a contrary intention appears, a legislation is presumed not to be intended to have a retrospective operation. The idea behind the rule is that a current law should govern current activities. Law passed today cannot apply to the events of the past. If we do something today, we do it keeping in view the law of today and in force and not tomorrow's backward adjustment of it. Our belief in the nature of the law is founded on the bedrock that every human being is entitled to arrange his affairs by relying on the existing law and should not find that his plans have been retrospectively upset. This principle of law is known as lex prospicit non respicit: law looks forward not backward. As was observed in Phillips v. Eyre [(1870) LR 6 QB 1], a retrospective legislation is contrary to the general principle that legislation by which the conduct of mankind is to be regulated when introduced for the first time to deal with future acts ought not to change the character of past transactions carried on upon the faith of the then existing law.*

29. The obvious basis of the principle against retrospectivity is the principle of “fairness”, which must be the *basis of every legal rule as was observed in L'Office Cherifien des Phosphates v. Yamashita-Shinnihon Steamship Co. Ltd. [(1994) 1 AC 486 : (1994) 2 WLR 39 : (1994) 1 All ER 20 (HL)] Thus, legislations which modified accrued rights or which impose obligations or impose new duties or attach a new disability have to be treated as prospective unless the legislative intent is clearly to give the enactment a retrospective effect; unless the legislation is for purpose of supplying an obvious omission in a former legislation or to explain a former legislation. We need not note the cornucopia of case law available on the subject because aforesaid legal position clearly emerges from the various decisions and this legal position was conceded by the counsel for the parties. In any case, we shall refer to few judgments containing this dicta, a little later.”*

10. The principle against retrospective application of laws holds particular significance in the realm of arbitration. Arbitration is founded on the parties' agreement to resolve their disputes outside the traditional court system, relying on the laws as they exist at the time of their arbitration agreement. Retrospective application of laws could disrupt the parties' expectations and undermine the finality and efficiency of arbitration proceedings.

11. Retrospective application of laws to arbitral proceedings could affect the validity of arbitral awards, challenge the jurisdiction of arbitral tribunals, or introduce procedural requirements that were not in place at the time of arbitration. Retrospective application of laws introduces uncertainty and unpredictability into legal relationships. Parties cannot foresee the legal consequences of their actions if laws can be altered retrospectively. This lack of certainty undermines the confidence in the legal system and erodes the rule of law. Arbitral awards, which are intended to provide parties with a final and binding resolution of disputes, become vulnerable to challenge or reversal based on retrospective legal changes. This prolongs the resolution of disputes, increases litigation costs, and undermines the efficacy of arbitration as an alternative to traditional court proceedings.

12. The grounds for challenge to an arbitral award under Section 34 of the Act underwent a significant change in 2015 with the enactment of the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as the ‘Amendment Act, 2015’). However, since the arbitral proceedings in the instant case commenced in 2006, that is, prior to the enactment of the Amendment Act of 2015, the said amendment in relation to the substantive provisions in the Amendment Act will not apply to the instant case, given the principle against retrospective applicability of laws, and various pronouncements of the Supreme Court in this regard.

13. Reference can be made to Section 26 of the Amendment Act, 2015 which states that the Amendment Act, 2015 will not apply to arbitral proceedings commenced, in accordance with the provisions of Section 21 of the Act, before the enactment of the Amendment Act, 2015:

“26. Act not to apply to pending arbitral proceedings.—Nothing contained in this Act shall apply to the arbitral proceedings commenced, in accordance with the provisions of Section 21 of the principal Act, before the commencement of this Act, unless the parties, otherwise agree but this Act shall apply in relation to arbitral proceedings commenced on or after the date of commencement of this Act.”

14. In Union of India v. Parmar Construction reported in (2019) 15 SCC 682, the Supreme Court held that by virtue of Section 26 of the Amendment Act, 2015, the said amendments will only apply to those arbitral proceedings which commenced in accordance with Section 21 of the Act on or after October 26, 2015, that is the day on which the Amendment Act, 2015 came into force (hereinafter referred to as ‘the effective date’). Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

“26. The conjoint reading of Section 21 read with Section 26 leaves no manner of doubt that the provisions of the 2015 Amendment Act shall not apply to such of the arbitral proceedings which have commenced in terms of the provisions of Section 21 of the principal Act unless the parties otherwise agree. The effect of Section 21 read with Section 26 of the 2015 Amendment Act has been examined by this Court in Aravali Power Co. (P) Ltd. v. Era Infra Engg. Ltd. and taking note of Section 26 of the 2015 Amendment Act laid down the broad principles as under :

27. We are also of the view that the 2015 Amendment Act which came into force i.e. on 23-10-2015, shall not apply to the arbitral proceedings which have commenced in accordance with the provisions of Section 21 of the principal Act, 1996 before the coming into force of the 2015 Amendment Act, unless the parties otherwise agree.”

15. Again in Union of India v. Pradeep Vinod Construction Co. reported in (2020) 2 SCC 464, the Supreme Court reiterated that the provisions of the Amendment Act, 2015 will not apply if the arbitral proceedings commenced before the effective date:

“11. The respondent(s) are registered contractors with the Railways and they are claiming certain payments on account of the work entrusted to them. The request of the respondent(s) for appointment of arbitrator invoking Clause 64 of the contract was declined by the Railways stating that their claims have been settled and the respondent(s) have issued “no claim” certificate and executed supplementary agreement recording “accord and satisfaction” and hence, the matter is not referable to arbitration. Admittedly, the request for referring the dispute was made much prior to the Amendment Act, 2015 which came into force w.e.f. 23-10-2015. Since the request for appointment of arbitrator was made much prior to the Amendment Act, 2015 (w.e.f. 23-10-2015), the provision of the Amendment Act, 2015 shall not apply to the arbitral proceedings in terms of Section 21 of the Act unless the parties otherwise agree. As rightly pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant, the request by the respondent(s) contractors is to be examined in accordance with the principal Act, 1996 without taking resort to the Amendment Act, 2015.”

16. Finally, in Ratnam Sudesh Iyer v. Jackie Kakubhai Shroff reported in (2022) 4 SCC 206, the Supreme Court espoused that on a conjoint reading of Section 21 of the Act and Section 26 of the Amendment Act, 2015 it becomes apparent that unless the parties otherwise agree, provisions of 2015 Amendment Act will not apply to arbitral proceedings which commenced in accordance with Section 21 of the Act before the effective date. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

“21. In BCCI v. Kochi Cricket (P) Ltd. [BCCI v. Kochi Cricket (P) Ltd., (2018) 6 SCC 287 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 534] a reference was made to Section 26 of the 2015 Amendment Act which had bifurcated proceedings into arbitral proceedings and court proceedings. The said provision reads as under:

“26. Act not to apply to pending arbitral proceedings.—Nothing contained in this Act shall apply to the arbitral proceedings commenced, in accordance with the provisions of Section 21 of the principal Act, before the commencement of this Act, unless the parties, otherwise agree but this Act shall apply in relation to arbitral proceedings commenced on or after the date of commencement of this Act.”

22. It was clearly elucidated in para 39 of the judgment that the reason behind the first part of Section 26 of the 2015 Amendment Act being couched in the negative was only to state that the Amendment Act will apply even to arbitral proceedings commenced before the amendment if the parties otherwise agree. This is not so in the second part. The judgment derived that the intention of the legislature was to mean that the 2015 Amendment Act is prospective in nature and will apply to those arbitral proceedings that are commenced, as understood by Section 21 of the said Act, on or after the 2015 Amendment Act, and to court proceedings which had commenced on or after the 2015 Amendment Act came into force.

23. The applicability of Section 34(2-A) was further elucidated in Ssangyong Engg. & Construction Co. Ltd. V. NHAI [Ssangyong Engg. & Construction Co. Ltd. V. NHAI, (2019) 15 SCC 131 : (2020) 2 SCC (Civ) 213] , where the SC categorically opined that Section 34 as amended will apply only to Section 34 applications that have been made to the Court on or after 23-10-2015, irrespective of the fact that the arbitration proceedings may have commenced prior to that date.

24. In the subsequent judgment of Hindustan Construction Co. Ltd. V. Union of India [Hindustan Construction Co. Ltd. V. Union of India, (2020) 17 SCC 324 : (2021) 4 SCC (Civ) 373] , it was observed in para 60 that the result of the BCCI [BCCI v. Kochi Cricket (P) Ltd., (2018) 6 SCC 287 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 534] judgment was that salutary amendments made by the 2015 Amendment Act would apply to all court proceedings initiated after 23-10-2015.”

(Emphasis Added)

17. In West Bengal Housing Board v. Abhisek Construction reported in 2023 SCC OnLine Cal 827, while dealing with a similar issue, I had concluded that the Amendment Act, 2015, will not apply to arbitral proceedings that have commenced prior to the effective date. Relevant paragraph thereof reads thus:

“ 23. Therefore, it becomes manifestly clear that Section 26 of the 2015 Amendment Act is the position of law on this subject whereas Section 87 in the principal Act is no longer in existence. While interpreting a particular statutory provision, the Court has to accord significance to every word, space, and character in that provision. Post BCCI v. Kochi (supra) interpretation of Section 26 of the 2015 Amendment Act, it is crystal clear that the applicability of 2015 Amendment Act is prospective in nature, and will apply to those arbitral proceedings that have commenced, in accordance with Section 21 of the Act, on or after the effective date, and also to court proceedings which have commenced on or after the effective date.”

18. It is clear from the aforesaid principals and judicial pronouncements that Section 34 of Act, as it existed prior to the Amendment Act, 2015, will apply in the instant case and the award in the instant case will have to stand the test of principles governing the setting aside of arbitral awards as they existed in 2006.

19. Section 34 of the Act as it stood before the Amendment Act, 2015 came into force is reproduced below:

“1. Application for setting aside arbitral award. –

(1) Recourse to a court against an arbitral award may be made only by an application for setting aside such award in accordance with sub-section (2) and subsection (3).

(2) An arbitral award may be set aside by the court only if-

(a) The party making the application furnishes proof that-

(i) A party was under some incapacity, or

(ii) The arbitration agreement is not valid under the law to which the parties have subjected it or, failing any indication thereon, under the law for the time being in force; or

(iii) The party making the application was not given proper notice of the appointment of an arbitrator or of the arbitral proceedings or was otherwise unable to present his case; or

(iv) The arbitral award deals with a dispute not contemplated by or not falling within the terms of the submission to arbitration, or it contains decisions on matters beyond the scope of the submission to arbitration:

Provided that, if the decisions on matters submitted to arbitration can be separated from those not so submitted, only that part of the arbitral award which contains decisions on matters not submitted to arbitration may be set aside; or

(v) The composition of the arbitral tribunal or the arbitral procedure was not in accordance with the agreement of the parties, unless such agreement was in conflict with a provision of this Part from which the parties cannot derogate, or, failing such agreement, was not in accordance with this Part; or

(b) The court finds that-

(i) The subject-matter of the dispute is not capable of settlement by arbitration under the law for the time being in force, or

(ii) The arbitral award is in conflict with the public policy of India.

Explanation. -Without prejudice to the generality of sub-clause (ii), it is hereby declared, for the avoidance of any doubt, that an award is in conflict with the public policy of India if the making of the award was induced or affected by fraud or corruption or was in violation of section 75 or section 81.

(3) An application for setting aside may not be made after three months have elapsed from the date on which the party making that application had received the arbitral award or, if a request had been made under section 33, from the date on which that request had been disposed of by the arbitral tribunal:

Provided that if the court is satisfied that the applicant was prevented by sufficient cause from making the application within the said period of three months it may entertain the application within a further period of thirty days, but not thereafter.

(4) On receipt of an application under sub-section (1), the court may, where it is appropriate and it is so requested by a party, adjourn the proceedings for a period of time determined by it in order to give the arbitral tribunal an opportunity to resume the arbitral proceedings or to take such other action as in the opinion of arbitral tribunal will eliminate the grounds for setting aside the arbitral award."

20. Section 34 of the Act, as it stood in its original form, provided that an award could be set aside, among other things, on the ground that it is against the public policy of India.

21. Public policy, encompasses a broad spectrum of principles, including principles of justice, equity, and morality. In the context of arbitration, the invocation of public policy aims to safeguard against arbitral awards that contravene these core principles, thereby preserving the integrity of the legal system. However, it is important to recognize the inherent complexity and subjectivity associated with the application of public policy in arbitration proceedings. The determination of what constitutes public policy is inherently contextual and may vary depending on the specific circumstances of each case. Consequently, courts must exercise caution and discretion in applying this ground for setting aside arbitral awards, balancing the need to uphold public policy with the principles of party autonomy and finality of arbitration.

22. Public policy as a ground for challenging arbitral awards poses significant challenges due to its inherent complexity and subjectivity. Unlike other grounds for setting aside arbitral awards, public policy is a nebulous and multifaceted concept that defies precise definition. One of the primary difficulties in applying the ground of public policy is the lack of clear and objective criteria for its assessment. Unlike legal principles that are codified in statutes or judicial precedents, public policy is often amorphous and open to interpretation. What may be considered contrary to public policy in one jurisdiction or at one point in time may be deemed acceptable in another. Furthermore, the subjective nature of public policy leaves ample room for judicial discretion, which can result in divergent interpretations and outcomes.

23. Moreover, the broad and elastic nature of public policy allows courts considerable latitude in exercising judicial review over arbitral awards. While this flexibility can be beneficial in addressing egregious cases where awards contravene fundamental principles of justice or morality, it also opens the door to judicial intervention based on vague or ill-defined notions of public policy. Another challenge associated with the ground of public policy is its potential for abuse or misuse by parties seeking to challenge unfavorable awards. Parties may attempt to invoke the ground of public policy as a pretext for re-litigating the merits of their case or for circumventing the binding nature of arbitration.

24. Despite these challenges, the ground of public policy plays a crucial role in safeguarding the integrity and legitimacy of the arbitration process. It serves as a bulwark against arbitral awards that shock the conscience of the courts or undermine fundamental principles of justice. However, to mitigate the risks associated with its application, courts must adopt a cautious and a principled approach to determining whether an arbitral award conflicts with public policy.

25. Before the Amendment Act, 2015 came into force, the Supreme Court had propounded on the scope of public policy under Section 34 of the Act in its judgment in Oil & Natural Gas Corporation Ltd. v. Saw Pipes Ltd. reported in (2003) 5 SCC 705. The Supreme Court espoused that the phrase “public policy of India” must be accorded a wider and not a narrower meaning. Furthermore, the Supreme Court also outlined the grounds on which a court can set aside an arbitral award under Section 34 of the Act. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

“28. From this discussion it would be clear that the phrase “public policy of India” is not required to be given a narrower meaning. As stated earlier, the said term is susceptible of narrower or wider meaning depending upon the object and purpose of the legislation. Hence, the award which is passed in contravention of Sections 24, 28 or 31 could be set aside. In addition to Section 34, Section 13(5) of the Act also provides that constitution of the Arbitral Tribunal could also be challenged by a party. Similarly, Section 16 provides that a party aggrieved by the decision of the Arbitral Tribunal with regard to its jurisdiction could challenge such arbitral award under Section 34. In any case, it is for Parliament to provide for limited or wider jurisdiction to the court in case where award is challenged. But in such cases, there is no reason to give narrower meaning to the term “public policy of India” as contended by learned Senior Counsel Mr Dave. In our view, wider meaning is required to be given so as to prevent frustration of legislation and justice. This Court in Rattan Chand Hira Chand v. Askar Nawaz Jung [(1991) 3 SCC 67] observed thus: (SCC pp. 76-77, para 17)

“17. ... It cannot be disputed that a contract which has a tendency to injure public interests or public welfare is one against public policy. What constitutes an injury to public interests or welfare would depend upon the times and climes. ... The legislature often fails to keep pace with the changing needs and values nor is it realistic to expect that it will have provided for all contingencies and eventualities. It is, therefore, not only necessary but obligatory on the courts to step in to fill the lacuna. When courts perform this function undoubtedly they legislate judicially. But that is a kind of legislation which stands implicitly delegated to them to further the object of the legislation and to promote the goals of the society. Or to put it negatively, to prevent the frustration of the legislation or perversion of the goals and values of the society.”

29. Learned Senior Counsel Mr Dave submitted that the purpose of giving limited jurisdiction to the court is obvious and is to see that the disputes are resolved at the earliest by giving finality to the award passed by the forum chosen by the parties. As against this, learned Senior Counsel Mr Desai submitted that in the present system even the arbitral proceedings are delayed on one or the other ground including the ground that the arbitrator is not free and the matters are not disposed of for months together. He submitted that the legislature has not provided any time-limit for passing of the award and this indicates that the contention raised by the learned counsel for the respondent has no bearing in interpreting Section 34.

31. Therefore, in our view, the phrase “public policy of India” used in Section 34 in context is required to be given a wider meaning. It can be stated that the concept of public policy connotes some matter which concerns public good and the public interest. What is for public good or in public interest or what would be injurious or harmful to the public good or public interest has varied from time to time. However, the award which is, on the face of it, patently in violation of statutory provisions cannot be said to be in public interest. Such award/judgment/decision is likely to adversely affect the administration of justice. Hence, in our view in addition to narrower meaning given to the term “public policy” in Renusagar case [1994 Supp (1) SCC 644] it is required to be held that the award could be set aside if it is patently illegal. The result would be — award could be set aside if it is contrary to:

(a) fundamental policy of Indian law; or

(b) the interest of India; or

(c) justice or morality, or

(d) in addition, if it is patently illegal.

Illegality must go to the root of the matter and if the illegality is of trivial nature it cannot be held that award is against the public policy. Award could also be set aside if it is so unfair and unreasonable that it shocks the conscience of the court. Such award is opposed to public policy and is required to be adjudged void.”

(Emphasis Added)

26. The Supreme Court in ONGC v. Saw Pipes (supra) also held that contravention of provisions of the Act including Section 28(3) of the Act which before the Amendment Act, 2015 provided that the arbitrator at all times shall decide in accordance with the terms of the contract, would make an award liable to be set aside on the ground of public policy. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted:

“22. The aforesaid submission of the learned Senior Counsel requires to be accepted. From the judgments discussed above, it can be held that the term “public policy of India” is required to be interpreted in the context of the jurisdiction of the court where the validity of award is challenged before it becomes final and executable. The concept of enforcement of the award after it becomes final is different and the jurisdiction of the court at that stage could be limited. Similar is the position with regard to the execution of a decree. It is settled law as well as it is provided under the Code of Civil Procedure that once the decree has attained finality, in an execution proceeding, it may be challenged only on limited grounds such as the decree being without jurisdiction or a nullity. But in a case where the judgment and decree is challenged before the appellate court or the court exercising revisional jurisdiction, the jurisdiction of such court would be wider. Therefore, in a case where the validity of award is challenged, there is no necessity of giving a narrower meaning to the term “public policy of India”. On the contrary, wider meaning is required to be given so that the “patently illegal award” passed by the Arbitral Tribunal could be set aside. If narrow meaning as contended by the learned Senior Counsel Mr Dave is given, some of the provisions of the Arbitration Act would become nugatory. Take for illustration a case wherein there is a specific provision in the contract that for delayed payment of the amount due and payable, no interest would be payable, still however, if the arbitrator has passed an award granting interest, it would be against the terms of the contract and thereby against the provision of Section 28(3) of the Act which specifically provides that “Arbitral Tribunal shall decide in accordance with the terms of the contract”. Further, where there is a specific usage of the trade that if the payment is made beyond a period of one month, then the party would be required to pay the said amount with interest at the rate of 15 per cent. Despite the evidence being produced on record for such usage, if the arbitrator refuses to grant such interest on the ground of equity, such award would also be in violation of sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 28. Section 28(2) specifically provides that the arbitrator shall decide ex aequo et bono (according to what is just and good) only if the parties have expressly authorised him to do so. Similarly, if the award is patently against the statutory provisions of substantive law which is in force in India or is passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to the parties as provided under Section 24 or without giving any reason in a case where parties have not agreed that no reasons are to be recorded, it would be against the statutory provisions. In all such cases, the award is required to be set aside on the ground of “patent illegality”

(Emphasis Added)

27. In Associate Builders v. DDA reported in (2015) 3 SCC 49, the Supreme Court propounded on the meaning of patent illegality and regarded it as the fourth head of public policy. The Supreme Court also held that any contravention of the provisions of the Act itself would amount to patent illegality. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

“Patent Illegality

40. We now come to the fourth head of public policy, namely, patent illegality. It must be remembered that under the Explanation to Section 34(2)(b), an award is said to be in conflict with the public policy of India if the making of the award was induced or affected by fraud or corruption. This ground is perhaps the earliest ground on which courts in England set aside awards under English law. Added to this ground (in 1802) is the ground that an arbitral award would be set aside if there were an error of law by the arbitrator. This is explained by Denning, L.J. in R. v. Northumberland Compensation Appeal Tribunal, ex p Shaw [(1952) 1 All ER 122 : (1952) 1 KB 338 (CA)] : (All ER p. 130 D-E : KB p. 351)

“Leaving now the statutory tribunals, I turn to the awards of the arbitrators. The Court of King's Bench never interfered by certiorari with the award of an arbitrator, because it was a private tribunal and not subject to the prerogative writs. If the award was not made a rule of court, the only course available to an aggrieved party was to resist an action on the award or to file a bill in equity. If the award was made a rule of court, a motion could be made to the court to set it aside for misconduct of the arbitrator on the ground that it was procured by corruption or other undue means (see Statutes 9 and 10 Will. III, C. 15). At one time an award could not be upset on the ground of error of law by the arbitrator because that could not be said to be misconduct or undue means, but ultimately it was held in Kent v. Elstob

[(1802) 3 East 18 : 102 ER 502] , that an award could be set aside for error of law on the face of it. This was regretted by Williams, J., in Hodgkinson v. Fernie [(1857) 3 CB (NS) 189 : 140 ER 712] , but is now well established.”

41. This, in turn, led to the famous principle laid down in Champsey Bhara Co. v. Jivraj Balloo Spg. and Wvg. Co. Ltd. [AIR 1923 PC 66 : (1922-23) 50 IA 324 : 1923 AC 480 : 1923 All ER Rep 235 (PC)] , where the Privy Council referred to Hodgkinson [(1857) 3 CB (NS) 189 : 140 ER 712] and then laid down:

“The law on the subject has never been more clearly stated than by Williams, J. in Hodgkinson v. Fernie [(1857) 3 CB (NS) 189 : 140 ER 712] : [CB(NS) p. 202 : ER p. 717]

‘The law has for many years been settled, and remains so at this day, that, where a cause or matters in difference are referred to an arbitrator, whether a lawyer or a layman, he is constituted the sole and final Judge of all questions both of law and of fact. ... The only exceptions to that rule are cases where the award is the result of corruption or fraud, and one other, which, though it is to be regretted, is now, I think firmly established viz. where the question of law necessarily arises on the face of the award or upon some paper accompanying and forming part of the award. Though the propriety of this latter may very well be doubted, I think it may be considered as established.’

Now the regret expressed by Williams, J. in Hodgkinson v. Fernie [(1857) 3 CB (NS) 189 : 140 ER 712] has been repeated by more than one learned Judge, and it is certainly not to be desired that the exception should be in any way extended.

An error in law on the face of the award means, in Their Lordships' view, that you can find in the award or a document actually incorporated thereto, as for instance, a note appended by the arbitrator stating the reasons for his judgment, some legal proposition which is the basis of the award and which you can then say is erroneous. It does not mean that if in a narrative a reference is made to a contention of one party that opens the door to seeing first what that contention is, and then going to the contract on which the parties' rights depend to see if that contention is sound. Here it is impossible to say, from what is shown on the face of the award, what mistake the arbitrators made. The only way that the learned Judges have arrived at finding what the mistake was is by saying: 'Inasmuch as the arbitrators awarded so and so, and inasmuch as the letter shows that the buyer rejected the cotton, the arbitrators can only have arrived at that result by totally misinterpreting Rule 52.' But they were entitled to give their own interpretation to Rule 52 or any other article, and the award will stand unless, on the face of it they have tied themselves down to some special legal proposition which then, when examined, appears to be unsound. Upon this point, therefore, Their Lordships think that the judgment of Pratt, J. was right and the conclusion of the learned Judges of the Court of Appeal [Jivraj Baloo Spg. and Wvg. Co. Ltd. v. Champsey Bhara and Co., ILR (1920) 44 Bom 780. The judgment of Pratt, J. may be referred to at ILR p. 787.] erroneous."

This judgment has been consistently followed in India to test awards under Section 30 of the Arbitration Act, 1940.

42. In the 1996 Act, this principle is substituted by the "patent illegality" principle which, in turn, contains three subheads:

42.1. (a) A contravention of the substantive law of India would result in the death knell of an arbitral award. This must be understood in the sense that such illegality must go to the root of the matter and cannot be of a trivial nature. This again is really a contravention of Section 28(1)(a) of the Act, which reads as under:

"28. Rules applicable to substance of dispute.—(1) Where the place of arbitration is situated in India—

(a) in an arbitration other than an international commercial arbitration, the Arbitral Tribunal shall decide the dispute submitted to arbitration in accordance with the substantive law for the time being in force in India;"

42.2. (b) A contravention of the Arbitration Act itself would be regarded as a patent illegality — for example if an arbitrator gives no reasons for an award in contravention of Section 31(3) of the Act, such award will be liable to be set aside.

42.3. (c) Equally, the third subhead of patent illegality is really a contravention of Section 28(3) of the Arbitration Act, which reads as under:

(3) In all cases, the Arbitral Tribunal shall decide in accordance with the terms of the contract and shall take into account the usages of the trade applicable to the transaction."

This last contravention must be understood with a caveat. An Arbitral Tribunal must decide in accordance with the terms of the contract, but if an arbitrator construes a term of the contract in a reasonable manner, it will not mean that the award can be set aside on this ground. Construction of the terms of a contract is primarily for an arbitrator to decide unless the arbitrator construes the contract in such a way that it could be said to be something that no fair-minded or reasonable person could do."

28. The phrasing of Section 28(3) of the Act underwent a significant change when the Amendment Act, 2015 came into force wherein instead of Section 28(3) of the Act mandating the arbitrator to decide in accordance with the terms of the contract, it provided that the Arbitrator shall "take into account" the terms of the contract, thereby allowing some flexibility.

29. In any case, as discussed above, the law as it existed prior to the Amendment Act, 2015 will apply to the instant case. However, the legislative intent behind Section 28(3) of the Act remains the same. Arbitrator is a creature of contract and must operate within its confines at all times. At the heart of arbitration lies the principle of party autonomy, wherein the parties have the freedom to shape the arbitration process according to their needs and preferences. Central to this principle is the notion that the arbitral tribunal must operate within the confines of the agreement entered into by the parties. Venturing beyond the terms of the contract not only undermines the autonomy of the parties but also risks eroding the legitimacy and enforceability of the arbitral award. Therefore, it is imperative that the arbitral tribunal always decides in accordance with the terms of the contract between the parties and refrains from exceeding its jurisdiction. After all, arbitral proceedings are not cricket matches, where hitting beyond the boundary is usually rewarded.

30. The sanctity of the parties' agreement lies at the core of arbitration. When parties choose arbitration to resolve their disputes, they do so with the understanding that the arbitral tribunal will adjudicate based on the terms that they have mutually agreed upon. These terms delineate the scope of the arbitral tribunal's authority, the rules governing the proceedings, and the substantive rights and obligations of the parties. Departing from these contractual parameters not only disregards the parties' intention but also risks imposing outcomes that are contrary to their expectations. Moreover, upholding the terms of the contract promotes predictability and certainty in arbitral proceedings. Parties rely on the clarity and specificity of their contractual arrangements to guide their behaviour and expectations. By adhering to the contract, the arbitral tribunal provides parties with a sense of assurance that their rights and obligations will be respected and enforced as agreed upon. Beyond considerations of efficiency and predictability, adhering to the terms of the contract is essential for maintaining the legitimacy and enforceability of arbitral awards. Arbitral awards derive their authority and validity from the consent of the parties as expressed in their agreement to arbitrate. When the arbitral tribunal exceeds its jurisdiction by deciding matters beyond the scope of the contract, it renders an award that is vulnerable to challenge and is non-enforceable.

31. Despite the importance of adhering to the contract, arbitrators may encounter situations where the terms of the contract are ambiguous or silent on a particular issue. In such cases, arbitral tribunal is tasked with interpreting the contract in accordance with the principles of contractual interpretation. This involves examining the language of the contract, the intentions of the parties, the surrounding circumstances, and any applicable trade usages or practices. The goal is to give effect to the parties' intentions and to resolve any ambiguities or gaps in the contract in a manner consistent with their reasonable expectations.

32. The instant case before me is not one where there are any ambiguous contractual terms leaving room for arbitral tribunal to exercise its discretion. It was explicitly clear from the contractual terms between the parties that the efficient performance of the transformer was guaranteed by the Respondent. Clause 39 of the contract between the parties is extracted below:

"The entire installations (after satisfactory completion of all test specified in the contract documents and taking over) shall be deemed to be guaranteed by the contractor for efficient performance for 12 months from the certified date of completion of work. In case of any fault arising during this period the contractor will do all the rectifications/replace the defective parts as the case may be at its own expense. The defect liability period referred to in condition 33 of IAFW -2249 (General Condition of Contract) for purpose of this contract shall be deemed to be the period covered by the guarantee given by the contractor."

33. Hence, the claim of the Respondent amounting to Rs.6,22,268/- on account of costs incurred towards repairing of the transformer (which malfunctioned in June, 1998) during the subsistence of the guarantee period as extended by the undertaking given by the Respondent dated October 1, 1997 stood on a foundationless ground as it was beyond the terms of the contract entered between the parties. As such there was no cogent rationale behind the Arbitrator's decision to award the said claim in favour of the Respondent. The Arbitrator's decision is fundamentally flawed and cannot be sustained. The award of the aforesaid claim is unreasonable as it overlooks the unequivocal guarantee provided by the Respondent.

34. The arbitrator's decision appears to have disregarded the clear and unambiguous language of the contract, which unequivocally places the responsibility for rectifying any faults or defects during the guarantee period squarely on the shoulders of the Respondent. By awarding the claim in favour of the Respondent, the Arbitrator has effectively relieved the Respondent of its contractual obligations and imposed an unwarranted financial burden on the Applicant, contrary to and de hors the terms of the contract. Awarding this claim is definitely within the four corners of 'patent illegality' as espoused in the ONGC v Saw Pipes (supra) by the Supreme Court. This deviation from contractual framework not only contradicts the explicit terms of the contract but also undermines the principle of pacta sunt servanda, which means that parties must honor their obligations under the contract.

35. Arbitrator's decision also shocks the conscience of the court due to its unjust and inequitable nature. By awarding the claim of Rs. 6,22,268/- in favour of the Respondent, the Arbitrator has also set a dangerous precedent that undermines the sanctity of contracts and erodes trust in the arbitration process. If arbitrators are allowed to disregard contractual terms and impose arbitrary and unjustified outcomes, parties will lose confidence in the efficacy of arbitration as a means of dispute resolution. This erosion of trust not only undermines the effectiveness of arbitration but also undermines the rule of law and the integrity of the legal system. As such, it cannot be sustained and warrants careful reconsideration to ensure that justice is served.

36. The District Judge, Agra ought to have corrected this jurisdictional and fundamental error in proceedings under Section 34 of the Act. The District Judge in failing to set aside the arbitral award, compounded the error inherent in the Arbitrator's decision and overlooked the fundamental principles governing the review of an arbitral award under Section 34 of the Act.

37. While Section 34 of the Act indeed imposes limitation on the court's interference with arbitral awards, it does not absolve the court of its duty to correct errors that are fundamental in nature, such as jurisdictional errors or decisions that shock the conscience of the court. Moreover, while interference on factual grounds is generally prohibited under Section 34 of the Act, courts are empowered to intervene when the Arbitrator's findings are completely contrary to the materials on record.

38. The District Judge's failure to correct the jurisdictional and fundamental errors in the Arbitrator's decision represents a dereliction of duty. Section 34 of the Act empowers the court to set aside an arbitral award if it is found to be in conflict with the public policy of India. The Arbitrator's decision clearly falls within this category since it exceeds the scope of contractual agreement between the parties. If courts are unwilling to correct manifestly unjust decisions made by arbitrators, parties will lose confidence in the efficacy of arbitration as a means of dispute resolution.

39. Supreme Court in ONGC v Saw Pipes (supra), underscored the importance of upholding the sanctity of contracts and ensuring that arbitrators abide by terms thereof. Section 28(3) of the Act, as it stood before the Amendment Act, 2015 mandated that arbitrators should decide in accordance with the terms of the contract. Any deviation from these terms, such as awarding claims beyond the contractual scope, constitutes a violation of Section 28(3) of the Act. The District Judge under Section 34 of the Act, ought to have examined the Arbitrator's award of the claim of Rs. 6,22,268/- in light of the aforesaid principle as propounded in Saw Pipes (supra). The District Judge's failure to correct the Arbitrator's decision also represents a serious miscarriage of justice and therefore, the District Judge's decision must be revisited and corrected.

SEVERABILITY OF ARBITRAL AWARDS

40. Since only a portion of the arbitral award with respect to the award of Rs. 6,22,268/- in favour of the Respondent on account of costs incurred towards repairing the defects in the transformer is being interfered with and set aside by this Court, while the rest of the award is being upheld, I feel it is pertinent to discuss the principle of severability of arbitral awards.

41. Principle of severability holds immense significance since it provides a mechanism for courts to partially set aside an award when certain issues within it are found to be flawed or invalid. Severing and setting aside only those issues suffering from infirmity allows the rest of the award to stand, thereby preserving the valid and enforceable aspects. This approach aligns with the objectives of arbitration, which prioritizes efficiency and finality.

42. From a commercial standpoint, severability makes eminent sense. In the complex world of business transactions, disputes are often multifaceted and involve numerous issues. It is not uncommon for an arbitral award to address multiple claims or issues raised by the parties. In such cases, severability provides a practical solution for resolving disputes without causing undue disruption to ongoing business relationships or transactions. Rather than invalidating the entire award due to the flaws in certain aspects, severability allows courts to salvage the valid portions of the award, thereby minimizing the potential for further disputes or litigation.

43. It is however important to note that severability does not amount to modification, which is prohibited. Severability involves setting aside only those portions of an award that are found to be flawed or invalid, without altering the substance of the decision as a whole. This approach allows courts to address specific issues within an award while respecting the finality and integrity of the arbitration process.

44. In R.S. Jiwani v. Ircon International Ltd. reported in 2009 SCC OnLine Bom 2021, a full bench of the Bombay High Court exhaustively examined the scope of the law on severability of arbitral awards. Relevant portions have been extracted below:

clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 34 are the grounds where it is mandatory for the Court to set aside the whole award and there is no other choice before the Court. It is only in the class of cases falling under section 34(2)(a)(iv) that with the aid of the proviso to that subsection, the Court can apply principle of severability. In that case, if the matter submitted to the arbitration can be separated from the one not submitted then the Court may set aside that part of the award alone which is not submitted to arbitration. This argument is founded on the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Mrs. Pushpa P. Mulchandani v. Admiral Radhakrishin Tahiliani, 2008(7) LJ Soft, 161, and which was relied upon by the respondents for inviting the decision against the Appellant. Thus, we have to examine the provision of section 34 of the 1996 Act to find whether it permit of any other interpretation than the one put forward by the respondents. Sub-clauses (i), (ii), (iii) and (v) of clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 34 deal with certain situations which may require the Court to set aside an award of the arbitral tribunal. These may be the cases where the party was under incapacity, the agreement is not valid under the law in force, where proper notice was not given to the party or otherwise enable to present his case, and the composition of arbitral tribunal or procedure was not in accordance with the agreement between the parties and lastly the subject-matter of the dispute is not capable of settlement by arbitration under the law for the time being in force. Explanation to section 34(2) which is in the nature of a declaration further explains that when an award is in conflict with the public policy of India when the award was induced or affected by (i) fraud or (ii) by corruption; or (iii) was in violation of section 75 or 81 of the Act. It is difficult for this Court to hold that under all these categories it would be inevitable for the Court to set aside the entire award. It may not be very true that even under these categories, it would be absolutely essential for the Court to set aside an award. It is true that where a party was under incapacity or was not served with the notice at all and the arbitration agreement itself was not valid that an award may have to be set aside in its entirety. But even within these clauses, there is possibility of a situation where it may not be necessary for the Court to set aside the entire award. Let us take an example that where a party is given a notice has participated in the proceedings before the arbitral tribunal but was unable to lead evidence or present himself or submit his counter claim. Would it be fair for the Court to set aside an award of the arbitral tribunal in its entirety in this situation? A party who participated in the arbitral proceeding even led evidence and cross-examined the witnesses of the claimants in relation to the claims but for any reason was not able to place his evidence on record in relation to the counter claims or he was not granted sufficient opportunity to present his case or for some reason was unable to present his case before the arbitral tribunal, would it not be just, fair, equitable and in line with the object of the Act of 1996 to consider setting aside award only regarding counter claim.

Is such a party which has succeeded in the claims made by it, which are otherwise lawful and not hit by any of the stated circumstances, should be awarded his reliefs while either rejecting or even altering the award with regard to the counter claim filed by the aggrieved party before the Arbitrator. Situation may be different where arbitration agreement is not valid. In other words, where claim is unlawful the Supreme Court in the case of Karnail Singh v. State of Haryana, 1995 Supp (3) SCC 376 held that not valid would mean unlawful and equated it to void.

“8. ‘Void’ dictionarily means, ineffectual, nugatory; having no legal force or binding effect, unable in law to support the purpose for which it was intended; nugatory and ineffectual so that nothing can cure it; not valid. In Words and Phrases (American), Vol. 44, published by West Publishing Co., at page 319 it is stated thus:

“A ‘void’ thing is nothing; it has no legal effect whatsoever; and no rights whatever can be obtained under it or grow out of it. In law it is the same thing as if the void thing had never existed.”

What was declared void was election. That is the process which led to choosing or selecting appellant as a member was invalid. The legal effect of declaration granted by the Tribunal was that the election of the appellant became nonexistent resulting automatically in nullifying the earlier declaration. The declaration did not operate from the date it was granted but it related back to the date when election was held. The legislative provision being clear and the Tribunal being vested only with power of declaring election to be void the entire controversy about voidable and void was unnecessary. The appellant could not therefore, claim any pension under section 7A of the 1975 Act.”

20. The cases would be different where it is not possible or permissible to sever the award. In other words, where the bad part of the award was intermingled and interdependent upon the good parts of the award there it is practically not possible to sever the award as the illegality may affect the award as a whole. In such cases, it may not be possible to set aside the award partially. However, there appears to be no bar in law in applying the doctrine of severability to the awards which are severable. In the case of Messrs. Basant Lal Banarsi Lal v. Bansi Lal Dagdulal, AIR 1961 SC 823, though the Supreme Court was dealing with an application for setting aside an award passed by the Bombay City Civil Court, contending that forward contract in groundnuts were illegal as making of such contracts was prohibited by Oil Seeds (Forward Contract Prohibition) Order, 1943 and hence arbitration clause contained in the forward contracts in groundnuts between the parties was null and void, where it was found as a matter of fact that it was not possible to segregate the dispute under the various contracts as there was direct link between them. The Supreme Court held as under:

‘It would follow that the arbitration clause contained in that contract was of no effect. It has therefore to be held that the award made under that arbitration clause is a nullity and has been rightly set aside. The award, it will have been noticed, was however in respect of disputes under several contracts one of which we have found to be void. But as the award was one and is not severable in respect of the different disputes covered by it, some of which may have been legally and validly referred, the whole award was rightly set aside.’

24. Now a further question that falls for consideration of this Court is as to whether there is anything contained in 1996 Act which prohibits in law the Court from adopting the approach applicable under the 1940 Act or prohibits applicability of principle of severability to the awards under 1996 Act. We are unable to see any prohibition much less an absolute bar in the provisions of section 34 of 1996 Act to that effect. There could be instances falling under section 34(2)(a), sub-sections (iii) and (v) where the principle of severability can safely be applied. These provisions do not specifically or impliedly convey legislative intent which prohibits the Courts from applying this principle to the awards under the 1996 Act. Again for example, an Arbitral Tribunal might have adopted a procedure at a particular stage of proceeding which may be held to be violative of principles of natural justice or impermissible in law or the procedure was not in accordance with the agreement between the parties but the parties waived such an objection and participate in the arbitration proceedings without protest, in that event it will be difficult for the Court to hold that the good part of the award cannot be segregated from the bad part.

30. If the principles of severability can be applied to a contract on one hand and even to a statute on the other hand, we fail to see any reason why it cannot be applied to a judgment or an award containing resolution of the disputes of the parties providing them such relief as they may be entitled to in the facts of the case. It will be more so, when there is no statutory prohibition to apply principle of severability. We are unable to contribute to the view that the power vested in the Court under section 34(1) and (2) should be construed rigidly and restrictedly so that the Court would have no power to set aside an award partially. The word “set aside” cannot be construed as to ‘only to set aside an award wholly’, as it will neither be permissible nor proper for the Court to add these words to the language of section which had vested discretion in the Court. Absence of a specific language further supported by the fact that the very purpose and object of the Act is expeditious disposal of the arbitration cases by not delaying the proceedings before the Court would support our view otherwise the object of Arbitration Act would stand defeated and frustrated.

33. It must be understood that the scope of judicial intervention under section 34 is very limited and cannot be equated to the powers of a civil appellate Court. The award can be set aside on the grounds stated in these provisions and that is what is emphasized by the use of expression 'only'. The Supreme Court in the case of Mc Dermott International Inc. v. Burnt Standard Co. Ltd., (2006) 11 SCC 181 has discussed in some elaboration the cases where the Court can interfere with the awards and/or set aside the award. Mere appreciation of evidence or an error simpliciter in appreciation of fact or law may not essentially fall within the class of cases which may be covered within the ambit and scope of section 34 of the Act. We will shortly proceed to discuss this aspect of law but only insofar as it is relevant for answering the question posed before the larger Bench.

35. The Supreme Court was primarily stating the principles which have been kept in mind by the Courts while interfering with the award of the Arbitral Tribunal that it was to outline the supervisory role of the Courts within the ambit and scope of section 34. It is true that the Court like a Court of appeal cannot correct the errors of arbitrator. It can set aside the award wholly or partially in its discretion depending on the facts of a given case and can even invoke its power under section 34(4). It is not expected of a party to make a separate application under section 34(4) as the provisions open with the language "on receipt of application under sub-section (1), the Court may....." which obviously means that application would be one for setting aside the arbitral award to be made under section 34(1) on the grounds of reasons stated in section 34(2) and has to be filed within the period of limitation as stated as reply under section 34(3). The Court may if it deems appropriate can pass orders as required under section 34(4). In other words, the provisions of section 34(4) have to be read with section 34(1) and 34(2) to enlarge the jurisdiction of the Court in order to do justice between the parties and to ensure that the proceedings before the Arbitral Tribunal or before the award are not prolonged for unnecessarily. In our humble view, the Division Bench appears to have placed entire reliance on para 52 by reading the same out of the context and findings which have been recorded by the Supreme Court in subsequent paragraphs. It is also true that there are no pari materia provisions like sections 15 and 16 of the Act of 1940 in the 1996 Act but still the provisions of section 34 read together, sufficiently indicate vesting of vast powers in the Court to set aside an award and even to adjourn a matter and such acts and deeds by the Arbitral Tribunal at the instance of the party which would help in removing the grounds of attack for setting aside the arbitral award. We see no reason as to why these powers vested in the Court should be construed so strictly which it would practically frustrate the very object of the Act. Thus, in our view, the principle of law stated by the Division Bench is not in line with the legislative intent which seeks to achieve the object of the Act and also not in line with accepted norms of interpretation of statute."

45. The principle on severability of arbitral awards was reiterated by the Supreme Court in J.G. Engineers (P) Ltd. v. Union of India reported in (2011) 5 SCC 758:

“25. It is now well settled that if an award deals with and decides several claims separately and distinctly, even if the court finds that the award in regard to some items is bad, the court will segregate the award on items which did not suffer from any infirmity and uphold the award to that extent. As the award on Items 2, 4, 6, 7, 8 and 9 was upheld by the civil court and as the High Court in appeal did not find any infirmity in regard to the award on those claims, the judgment of the High Court setting aside the award in regard to Claims 2, 4, 6, 7, 8 and 9 of the appellant, cannot be sustained. The judgment to that extent is liable to be set aside and the award has to be upheld in regard to Claims 2, 4, 6, 7, 8 and 9.”

46. In Damodar Valley Corporation v. Reliance Infrastructure Limited reported in 2023 SCC OnLine Cal 3307, I had dealt with the severability of arbitral awards. Relevant portions have been extracted below:

“57. It is a well-established principle that the Courts under Section 34 of the Act have the power to sever and partly set aside the award. A doctor treating a poisoned leg would prefer to cut the poisoned leg off to prevent the poison from spreading across the entire body. Afterall, you would not kill off the entire body just because the leg is poisoned. Similarly, in an arbitral award, there might be some issues suffering from infirmity, which would invite the Courts to exercise their powers under Section 34 of the Act. In such a case, it would be preferable to sever and set aside only those issues, rather than setting aside the arbitral award in its entirety. This also makes commercial sense.

60. The principle which emerges is that while severing an arbitral award is a delicate procedure, insofar as, the severed/perverse part of the award is not in any way connected to the legally sound part of the award, the Courts under Section 34 are empowered to set aside only that portion of the award which suffers from some infirmity. In my opinion, such a practice should be encouraged also, as rather than setting aside the entire arbitral award, it will be more prudent to separate the good and the bad. It is better to take out the rotten apple, instead of throwing the entire basket out.”

47. In light of the aforesaid judicial pronouncements, it can be concluded that power of severing an arbitral award is a part and parcel of the court's power under Section 34 and Section 37 of the Act. However, severability can only be applied if the part of the award which is to be severed does not relate with the part of the award that is to be upheld in any manner whatsoever.

PRINCIPLES

48. The principles that emerge from the aforesaid discussion have been highlighted below:

a. Laws or rules will not have retrospective applicability unless and until there is a clear indication to the contrary. Especially in arbitration cases, retrospective application of laws may introduce uncertainty and unpredictability.

One cannot hold someone liable for doing something, which although was not a forbidden act at the time it was committed but became a forbidden act later. Parties, especially in arbitration, cannot be expected to walk on eggshells and be subjected to unpredictability.

b. The Amendment Act, 2015 which introduced among other things, amended grounds for challenge to an arbitral award under Section 34 of the Act, will only apply to those arbitration proceedings, which commenced in accordance with Section 21 of the Act on or before the Amendment Act, 2015 came into force.

c. Public policy as a ground under Section 34 of the Act must be invoked with certain caution since the broad and subjective nature of public policy can lead to excessive judicial interference with arbitral awards.

d. An award can be interfered with on the ground of public policy when it is in contravention of substantive provisions of the Act itself. Any award passed against the statutory or constitutional principles goes against the public policy of India.

e. The contract between the parties outlines the boundaries within which an arbitral tribunal can act. Any act or decision of the arbitral tribunal beyond clearly defined contractual provisions is patently illegal and unsustainable.

f. While the principle of minimal judicial interference must be kept in mind while dealing with challenges to an arbitral award, Courts are duty bound to ensure that arbitral tribunal has not acted in a manner contrary to the contractual provisions between the parties.

g. Under Section 34 and Section 37 of the Act, courts have the authority to partially set aside an arbitral award. If certain issues within the award are unsustainable and can be separated from the remaining issues, it is better to set aside only those specific parts of the award.

EPILOGUE

49. The case at hand, where the arbitral award was rendered in 2006 but the challenge is being finally dismissed in 2024, underscores a glaring issue in the arbitration landscape of India: the inordinate delays that plague the arbitration. While arbitration is often hailed as a faster and more efficient alternative to traditional litigation, the reality in India frequently falls short of this ideal due to systemic challenges. Arbitration was envisioned as a means to provide parties with a quicker and more cost-effective method of resolving disputes, bypassing the lengthy court procedures associated with litigation. However, the prolonged duration of this case highlights a significant discrepancy between the theory and practice of arbitration in India. One of the primary reasons for the delay in the resolution of arbitration cases in India is the extensive backlog of cases in the judicial system. Despite efforts to promote arbitration and streamline dispute resolution processes, the Indian judiciary continues to grapple with a staggering caseload, resulting in delays at various stages of the arbitration process, including challenges to arbitral awards. In the case under consideration, the fact that it took nearly two decades for the challenge to the arbitral award to be finally dismissed raises concerns about the efficiency and effectiveness of the arbitration mechanism. Such delays not only undermine the perceived advantages of arbitration but also erode confidence in the efficacy of alternative dispute resolution mechanisms.

50. The challenges associated with delay in arbitration proceedings are multifaceted and require a comprehensive approach to address. One of the key areas that warrant attention is the need for reforms aimed to expediting the arbitration process and reducing the backlog of cases. This may involve measures such as the establishment of specialized arbitration divisions in courts, and the implementation of procedural reforms to streamline the arbitration process. In conclusion, the case under discussion serves as a stark reminder of the challenges and shortcomings inherent in the arbitration landscape of India. While arbitration holds immense potential as a faster and more efficient alternative to litigation, the prevalence of inordinate delays underscores the urgent need for reforms and corrective measures. By addressing the systemic issues contributing to delays in arbitration proceedings and promoting a culture of timely and effective dispute resolution, India can unlock the full potential of arbitration and ensure access to justice for all parties involved.

CONCLUSION AND DIRECTION

51. In light of the same, it is apparent that the award of Rs.6,22,268/- along with interest in favour of the Respondent on account of repairing of defects in transformer was in violation of Section 28(3) of the Act as it stood before the Amendment Act, 2015. Since the award of the claim was against the clear provisions of the contract, therefore, this Court in exercise of its power under Section 37 of the Act, sets aside the order dated January 12, 2012, passed by the District Judge, Agra, in Arbitration Case No. 406 of 2006, under Section 34 of the Act only to the extent that upholds the award of Rs.6,22,268/- along with interest to the Respondent on account of costs incurred towards repairing the defects in the transformer. Consequently, the arbitral award dated July 31, 2006, is also set aside to that limited extent. I make it clear that the rest of the arbitral award stands as it is.

52. The instant arbitration appeal is disposed of on the aforesaid terms.

53. There shall be no order as to the costs.

2. N.H.A.I. Vs Smt. Sampata Devi & ors., 2023 (12) ADJ 787

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. Heard counsel appearing on behalf of the parties.

2. This is an appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') arising out of an order passed under Section 34 of the Act.

3. There is a substantial delay of four years in filing this appeal under Section 37 of the Act.

4. Counsel appearing on behalf of respondents relied upon a judgement in Government of Maharashtra (Water Resources Department) Represented by Executive Engineer v. M/s Borse Brothers Engineers & Contractors Pvt. Ltd. reported in (2021) 6 SCC 460 to submit that such a delay in filing an appeal under Section 37 of the Act cannot be allowed. Relevant paragraph relied upon by counsel appearing on behalf of respondents is delineated below :-

"61. Given the aforesaid and the object of speedy disposal sought to be achieved both under the Arbitration Act and the Commercial Courts Act, for appeals filed under section 37 of the Arbitration Act that are governed by Articles 116 and 117 of the Limitation Act or section 13(1A) of the Commercial Courts Act, a delay beyond 90 days, 30 days or 60 days, respectively, is to be condoned by way of exception and not by way of rule. In a fit case in which a party has otherwise acted bona fide and not in a negligent manner, a short delay beyond such period can, in the discretion of the court, be condoned, always bearing in mind that the other side of the picture is that the opposite party may have acquired both in equity and justice, what may now be lost by the first party's inaction, negligence or laches."

5. A coordinate Bench of this Court in National Highway Authority of India Vs. Smt. Sampata Devi and Ors. reported in 2023 (12) ADJ 787, in similar facts and circumstances, discussed in great detail a catena of judgements of the Supreme Court and has come to the following conclusion :-

"(44) In view of the authoritative Judgments of the Apex Court in M/s Borse Brothers Engineers & Contractors (supra), it must be held that an appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 should be filed within 60 days from the date of the order as per Section 13(1A) of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015. However, in those rare cases where the specified value is for a sum less than INR 3,00,000.00 then the appeal under Section 37 would be governed by Articles 116 and 117 of the Schedule of the Limitation Act, as the case may be.

(45) Further, Section 5 of the Limitation Act will apply to the appeals filed under Section 37 of the Act, 1996 and in holding the said applicability, the Apex Court noted with affirmative that Section 13(1A) of the Commercial Courts Act does not contain any provision akin to section 34(3) of the Arbitration Act, 1996 and merely provides for a limitation period of 60 days from the date of the judgment or order appealed against, without going into whether delay beyond this period can or cannot be condoned.

(46) Further, the expression 'sufficient cause' under Section 5 of the Limitation Act is not elastic enough to cover long delays and merely because sufficient cause has been made out, there is no right to have such delay condoned. The Apex Court further held that only short delays, can be condoned only by way of an exception and not by the way of rule, and that too only when the party acted in a bona fide manner and not negligently.

(47) Since, in the present bunch of appeals, the impugned order passed by the Additional District Judge, Barabanki under Section 34 of the Act, 1996 has been sought to be challenged by NHAI by filing a belated appeal under Section 37 of the Act, 1996 beyond the permissible 60 days without any "sufficient cause", the above-captioned appeals are held to be time barred."

6. Upon a perusal of the above judgement, it is clear that the Arbitration Act being a legislation for speedy redressal, the delay in filing the appeal can only be allowed if the appellant makes out a very strong case and explains the reasons for delay. In the present case, one does not find any such reason provided which would enable this Court to condone the delay.

7. In light of the same, the appeal is dismissed as barred by limitation.

5. इसी विक्रय-पत्र के निष्पादन के संबंध में क्रेता घनश्याम सिंह ने भी एक प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 285 सन 2022 अंतर्गत धारा 409, 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 506 भा.दं.सं. थाना बिसवां जिला सीतापुर में अंकित करायी थी,

6. प्रार्थना-पत्र का विरोध करते हुए राज्य सरकार के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री पुनीत कुमार यादव ने कहा कि प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध धारा 82 दं०प्र०सं० की कार्यवाही प्रारंभ की जा चुकी है किन्तु उनको प्राप्त अनुदेश में नहीं कहा गया है कि धारा 82 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत उद्घोषणा का प्रकाशन हुआ है या नहीं।

7. लवेश बनाम राज्य (2012) 8 SCC 730 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह अवधारित किया है कि सामान्यतयः एक फरार घोषित व्यक्ति को अग्रिम जमानत नहीं दी जानी चाहिए। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह अवधारित किया कि ऐसी व्यक्ति जिसके विरुद्ध वारण्ट जारी हुआ किन्तु वह फरार है अथवा वारण्ट की तामीली से बचने के लिए अपने को छिपा रहा है तथा जो धारा 82 दं०प्र०सं० के प्रावधानों के अनुसार फरार व्यक्ति घोषित हो चुका है, अग्रिम जमानत पाने का अधिकारी नहीं है।

8. धारा 82 दं०प्र०सं० के प्रावधान निम्नवत हैं:-

"82. फरार व्यक्ति के लिए उद्घोषणा. (1) यदि किसी न्यायालय को (चाहे साक्ष्य लेने के पश्चात् या लिए बिना) यह विश्वास करने का कारण है कि कोई व्यक्ति जिसके विरुद्ध उसने वारण्ट जारी किया है, फरार हो गया है, या अपने को छिपा रहा है जिससे ऐसे वारण्ट का निष्पादन नहीं किया जा सकता तो ऐसा न्यायालय उससे यह अपेक्षा करने वाली लिखित उद्घोषणा प्रकाशित कर सकता है कि वह व्यक्ति विनिर्दिष्ट स्थान में और विनिर्दिष्ट समय पर, जो उस उद्घोषणा के प्रकाशन की तारीख से कम से कम तीस दिन पश्चात् का होगा, हाजिर हो।

(2) उद्घोषणा निम्नलिखित रूप से प्रकाशित की जाएगी:-

(i) (क) वह उस नगर या ग्राम के, जिसमें ऐसा व्यक्ति मामूली तौर पर निवास करता है, किसी सहजदृश्य स्थान में सार्वजनिक रूप से पढ़ी जाएगी,

(ख) वह उस गृह या वासस्थान के, जिसमें ऐसा व्यक्ति मामूली तौर पर निवास करता है, किसी सहजदृश्य भाग पर या ऐसे नगर या ग्राम के किसी सहजदृश्य स्थान पर लगाई जाएगी,

(ग) उसकी एक प्रति उस न्याय सदन के किसी सहजदृश्य भाग पर लगायी जाएगी,

(ii) यदि न्यायालय ठीक समझता है तो वह यह निदेश भी दे सकता है कि उद्घोषणा की एक प्रति उस स्थान में, परिचालित किसी दैनिक समाचार पत्र में प्रकाशित की जाए जहाँ ऐसा व्यक्ति मामूली तौर पर निवास करता है।

2[(4) जहाँ उपधारा (1) के अधीन प्रकाशित की गई उद्घोषणा भारतीय दण्ड संहिता की धारा 302, धारा 304, धारा 364, धारा 367, धारा 382, धारा 392, धारा 393, धारा 394, धारा 395, धारा 396, धारा 397, धारा 398, धारा 399, धारा 400, धारा 402, धारा 436, धारा 449, धारा 459 या धारा 460 के अधीन दण्डनीय अपराध के

अभियुक्त व्यक्ति के संबंध में है और ऐसा व्यक्ति उद्घोषणा में अपेक्षित विनिर्दिष्ट स्थान और समय पर उपस्थित होने में असफल रहता है तो न्यायालय, तब ऐसी जाँच करने के पश्चात् जैसी वह ठीक समझता है, उसे उद्घोषित अपराधी प्रकट कर सकता है और उस प्रभाव की घोषणा कर सकता है।

(5) उपधारा (2) और उपधारा (3) के उपबंध न्यायालय द्वारा उपधारा (4) के अधीन की गई घोषणा को उसी प्रकार लागू होंगे जैसे वे उपधारा (1) के अधीन प्रकाशित उद्घोषणा को लागू होते हैं।"

9. धारा 82 द०प्र०सं० के प्रावधानों के अनुसार न्यायालय ऐसा विश्वास होने पर, कि कोई व्यक्ति जिसके विरुद्ध वारण्ट जारी किया गया हो, फरार हो गया है या अपने को छिपा रहा है, जिससे वारण्ट का निष्पादन नहीं किया जा सकता, तो न्यायालय लिखित उद्घोषणा प्रकाशित कर सकता है कि वह व्यक्ति विनिर्दिष्ट स्थान में और विनिर्दिष्ट समय पर प्रस्तुत हो। उद्घोषणा के प्रकाशन की रीति धारा 82 की उपधारा (2) में दी गयी है। उपधारा 3 के

प्रावधान के अनुसार उद्घोषणा जारी करने वाले न्यायालय को उद्घोषणा के प्रकाशन के संबंध में लिखित कथन से संतोष अंकित करना आवश्यक है।

11. प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में ऐसा कोई तथ्य विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता को प्राप्त अनुदेशों में कथित नहीं किया गया है, जिससे यह प्रतीत हो कि प्रार्थी के फरारी की उद्घोषणा का प्रकाशन धारा 82 (2) दं०प्र०सं० के अनुसार हुआ है और धारा 82(3) के अंतर्गत न्यायालय ने इस उद्घोषणा के सम्यक प्रकाशन से संतुष्ट होने का लिखित कथन किया है। ऐसी

परिस्थिति में यह नहीं कहा जा सकता कि प्रार्थी धारा 82(3) दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत फरार व्यक्ति घोषित किया जा चुका है। अतः प्रार्थी इस स्तर पर फरार उद्घोषित व्यक्ति नहीं कहा जा सकता और उसके द्वारा प्रस्तुत अंतरिम जमानत प्रार्थना-पत्र गुण-दोष के आधार पर निस्तारित होने योग्य है।

12. उपरोक्त तथ्यों को दृष्टिगत रखते हुए, जबकि प्रार्थी इस प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में नामित नहीं है, शिकायतकर्मी ने अपने बयान में प्रार्थी के इस अपराध में सम्मिलित होने का कथन किया है, किन्तु उसमें भी प्रार्थी द्वारा किये गये किसी विशिष्ट कृत्य का कथन नहीं है तथा इसी विक्रय पत्र के संबंध में क्रेता सह-अभियुक्त घनश्याम सिंह द्वारा लिखाई गई प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट के संबंध में प्रार्थी को अग्रिम जमानत दी जा चुकी है, न्यायालय का मत है कि प्रार्थी इस प्रकरण में भी अग्रिम जमानत पाने का अधिकारी है।

13. उपरोक्त मुकदमा अपराध संख्या में आवेदक की गिरफ्तारी / न्यायालय के समक्ष उपस्थिति की दशा में, उसे संबंधित थाने के भारसाधक अधिकारी / न्यायालय की संतुष्टि के अनुसार

व्यक्तिगत बंध पत्र एवं दो प्रतिभू प्रस्तुत करने पर परीक्षण के अंतिम रूप से निस्तारण तक, निम्न शर्तों के अधीन अग्रिम जमानत पर रिहा किया जाएगा:

6. Noor Alam Vs St. of U.P., Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.53159 of 2021

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Matter is taken up in the revised call.

2. Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I for the State contends that the police authorities in compliance of the directions issued by this Court in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 46998 of 2020 (Junaid Vs State of U.P. and another) reported at 2021 (6) ADJ 511 and with a view to implement the provisions of POCSO Act, 2012 read with POCSO Rules, 2020, have served the bail application upon the victim/legal guardian as well as upon the CWC.

3. By means of the bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No.419 of 2023 at Police Station-Shalimar Garden, District-Ghaziabad under Sections 363, 376 IPC and Sections 3/4 of POCSO Act. The applicant is in jail since 05.12.2023.

4. The bail application of the applicant was rejected by the learned trial court on 21.12.2023.

5. The following arguments made by Shri Vikash Chandra Tiwari, learned counsel on behalf of the applicant, which could not be satisfactorily refuted by Shri Ajay Singh Yadav, learned counsel for the informant and Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I from the record, entitle the applicant for grant of bail:

1. The victim was wrongly shown as a minor of 16 years in the F.I.R. only to falsely implicate the applicant under the stringent provisions of the POCSO Act and cause his imprisonment.

2.The age of the victim set out in the prosecution case is refuted in light of the judgement of this Court in Monish Vs. State of U.P. and others (Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 55026 of 2021) and on the following grounds:

(i) There are material contradictions in the age of the victim as recorded in various prosecution documents.

(ii) The age of the victim was incorrectly got registered in the school records by the victim's parents to give her an advantage in life. There is no lawful basis for the age related entry of the victim in the school records. The school records disclosing her age as 16 years and 10 months are unreliable.

(iii) The victim in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has stated that she is 15 years of age respectively.

6. The medical to determine the age of the victim was not drawn up at the time of arrest of the applicant. The medical of the victim was subsequently drawn up on the order passed by this Court on 12.03.2024 in the instant Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.2322 of 2024 (Aman @ Vansh v. State of U.P. and 3 others).

The medical report opines that the age of the victim is about 17 years.

Two submissions are made in regard to the aforesaid medical report. Firstly, the range of error in determining the age is about two years and the same should be read in favour of the applicant at this stage. Secondly, the relevant scientific parameters as per latest medical protocol which would establish the majority of the victim has been excluded from consideration in the medical report. The medical report is flawed. In fact the victim is a major.

3. The incident occurred on 09.11.2023 and the F.I.R. was got registered on 13.11.2023.

4. Delay of 4 days in lodgement of the F.I.R. in the facts of this case is fatal to the prosecution case.

5. The victim and the applicant were intimate.

6. The F.I.R. is the result of opposition of the victim's family to the said relationship with the applicant.

7. The victim in her statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and Section 164 Cr.P.C. has admitted to intimacy with the applicant. She has also asserted that she eloped with the applicant to Delhi of her own volition. The victim has lastly asserted that she got married to the applicant.

8. No allegation of commission of rape by the applicant with the victim was made in the F.I.R. or in the statements of the victim under Sections 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C.

9. The victim was never confined or bound down in any manner. The victim was present at public places. She did not raise an alarm nor did she resist the applicant. Her conduct shows that she was a consenting party.

10. Major inconsistencies in the statements of the victim under Sections 161 Cr.P.C. and Section 164 Cr.P.C., as well as the recitals in the F.I.R. discredit the prosecution case.

11. The victim has declined to undergo the medical examination.

12. The applicant does not have any criminal history apart from the instant case.

13. The applicant is not a flight risk. The applicant being a law abiding citizen has always cooperated with the investigation and undertakes to join the trial proceedings. There is no possibility of his influencing witnesses, tampering with the evidence or reoffending.

7. In the light of the preceding discussion and without making any observations on the merits of the case, the bail application is allowed.

Let the applicant-Aman @ Vansh be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number, on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court below. The following conditions be imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence or influence any witness during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the date fixed, unless personal presence is exempted.

The learned trial court is directed to fix the sureties after due application of mind in light of the judgement rendered by this Court in Arvind Singh v. State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Home Deptt. (Application U/S 482 No.2613 of 2023).

9. The learned trial court shall ensure that the right of bail of the applicant granted by this Court is not frustrated by arbitrary demands of sureties or onerous conditions which are unrelated to the socioeconomic status of the applicant.

10. Before parting some observations have to be made which arise in the facts of this case but also become applicable to large number of matters arising before this Court.

11. This Court has consistently held that while sitting in the bail determination the High Court is not denuded of its constitutional status. The bail jurisdiction though created under the statute is also a constitutional jurisdiction of first importance since the most precious right of life and liberty are engaged in the process of consideration of bail. Consequently when legal issues which directly impact the life and liberty of a citizen arise during consideration of a bail application, the Court has to squarely deal with this issues.

12. In the instant case as in a large number of bail applications under the POCSO Act, issues relating to the age of the victims having serious consequences on the life and liberty of accused persons arise for consideration.

13. This Court has been finding that in the large number of cases the age of the victim set out in the prosecution case is often at variance with the age determined by the expert medical boards in accordance with the latest medical protocols. At times there are multiple contradictions in age related documents available with the prosecution. Numerous cases of false implication and abuse of POCSO Act have also been noticed. Runaway couples of young age are criminalized in the process. The age determined by the Medical Board has several benefits:-

(a) The said report may prove to be a reliable piece of evidence in the case.

(b) The said medical reports will assist the process of law and enable the courts to make a conclusive finding on the victim's age after considering all evidences in the record.

(c) The said medical reports determining the victim's age at the very outset will also help prevent misuse of the POCSO Act.

(d) The said medical reports are relatable to specific provisions of law.

14. The importance of medical reports in the criminal investigation process was recognized by the legislature while incorporating Section 164-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The provision is extracted hereunder:

"Section 164A. Medical examination of the victim of rape.-(1)

Where, during the stage when an offence of committing rape or attempt to commit rape is under investigation, it is proposed to get the person of the woman with whom rape is alleged or attempted to have been committed or attempted, examined by a medical expert, such examination shall be conducted by a registered medical practitioner employed in a hospital run by the Government or a local authority and in the absence of such a practitioner, by any other registered medical practitioner, with the consent of such woman or of a person competent to give such consent on her behalf and such woman shall be sent to such registered medical practitioner within twenty-four hours from the time of receiving the information relating to the commission of such offence.

(2) The registered medical practitioner, to whom such woman is sent shall, without delay, examine her person and prepare a report of his examination giving the following particulars, namely—

(i) the name and address of the woman and of the person by whom she was brought;

(ii) the age of the woman;

(iii) the description of material taken from the person of the woman for DNA profiling;

(iv) marks of injury, if any, on the person of the woman;

(v) general mental condition of the woman; and

(vi) other material particulars in reasonable detail,

(3) The report shall state precisely the reasons for each conclusion arrived at.

(4) The report shall specifically record that the consent of the woman or of the person competent, to give such consent on her behalf to such examination had been obtained.

(5) The exact time of commencement and completion of the examination shall also be noted in the report.

(6) The registered medical practitioner shall, without delay forward the report to the investigating officer who shall forward it to the Magistrate referred to in section 173 as part of the documents referred to in clause (a) of Sub-Section (5) of that section.

(7) Nothing in this section shall be construed as rendering lawful any examination without the consent of the woman or of any person competent to give such consent on her behalf."

15. In this context reference to Section 27 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 can also be profitably made in support of the narrative. Section 27 of the POCSO Act reads as under:

"Section 27. Medical examination of a child.-(1)

The medical examination of a child in respect of whom any offence has been committed under this Act, shall, notwithstanding that a First Information Report or complaint has not been registered for the offences under this Act, be conducted in accordance with section 164A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1973).

(2) In case the victim is a girl child, the medical examination shall be conducted by a woman doctor.

(3) The medical examination shall be conducted in the presence of the parent of the child or any other person in whom the child reposes trust or confidence.

(4) Where, in case the parent of the child or other person referred to in sub-section (3) cannot be present, for any reason, during the medical examination of the child, the medical examination shall be conducted in the presence of a woman nominated by the head of the medical institution.”

16. Wide ambit of the provision embraces various kinds of medical reports including a medical report determining the victim's age in POCSO Act offences. The provision contemplates that medical reports to determine the age of victims be drawn up by competent professionals from eminent institutions in accordance with the latest scientific parameters and medical protocols. Further the said medical reports have to be presented to the Court at the earliest for assisting the process of law.

17. False depiction of a victim as a minor in POCSO Act cases is an abuse of the process of court. Complications caused by false depiction of a victim as minor and contradictions in age related documents were also examined by this Court in Monish Vs. State of U.P. and others (Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 55026 of 2021).

18. In numerous cases the age determined by the Medical Board contradicted the minority of the victim set up in the prosecution case. Illustrative list of POCSO Act of such cases before this Court where the Medical Board opined that the victim was a major is appended as appendix-Ii.

19. This Court is finding that in many instances the accused-applicants have argued that medical determination of the victim's age was not got done deliberately as it would establish the majority of the victim and repudiate the prosecution case. By falsely depicting the victim as a minor the accused persons are wrongly implicated under the stringent regime of the POCSO Act only to cause their indefinite imprisonment. Reference of such cases by way of exemplars is appended as appendix-IIIi.

20. There is a third category of cases. Despite the statutory mandate the medical report to determine the victim's age is not drawn up and made part of investigations in a majority of cases. Absence of medical report determining the age of a victim came in the way of the Court dispensing equal justice. In these cases this Court has developed a practice to call for such reports. An exemplar list of this set of cases is appended as Appendix-IIIiii.

21. Medical Report determining the age of a POCSO Act offence is an imperative requirement of law and an absolute necessity of justice.

22. In the wake of the preceding discussion the following directions are issued:

1. The police authorities/investigation officers shall ensure that in every POCSO Act offence a medical report determining the victim's age shall be drawn up at the outset under Section 164A of the Criminal Procedure

Code read with Section 27 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012. The report may be dispensed with if medical opinion advises against it in the interests of the victim's health.

2. The medical report determining the age of the victim shall be created as per established procedure of law and in adherence to latest scientific parameters and medical protocol.

3. The medical report determining the age of the victim shall be submitted under Section 164-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure to the Court without delay.

4. The Director General (Health), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow shall also ensure that the doctors who comprise the Medical Board are duly trained and follow the established medical protocol and scientific parameters for determining the age of the victims in such cases. Constant research shall be done in this field to keep the reports in line with the latest scientific developments.

A copy of this order be communicated by the learned Government Advocate to the Director General of Police, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh for compliance and Director General (Health), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This civil revision is directed against an order of the Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Rampur dated the 6th of July, 2022, rejecting an application by the defendants to amend their written statement.

2. The plaintiff-respondent instituted O.S. No.203 of 2021 before the Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Rampur for specific performance of contract against the defendant-revisionists. He claimed specific performance of a registered agreement to sell dated 30.11.2018, said to be executed in favour of the plaintiff-respondent by defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, to wit, Jagtar Singh and Smt. Sukhraj Kaur. Not to enter the thicket of facts that parties have pleaded in this case, but to take note of those essential, that form the essence of the controversy, leading to this revision, it would, for a first, need be said how the defendant-revisionists are related to each other. The defendant-revisionist No.3 Jagtar Singh, is the son of Smt. Sukhraj Kaur, defendant-revisionist No.4. Defendant-revisionist No.1, Smt. Kinder Jeet Kaur is Jagtar Singh's wife, whereas Master Gurudeep Singh Sandhu, defendant-revisionist No.2, is Jagtar and Kinder Jeet Kaur's son, a minor aged about 12 years. The plaintiff-respondent, Karam Jeet Singh, is a Non-Resident Indian, settled in Birmingham, United Kingdom. He has instituted the present suit for specific performance through his power of attorney holder, Karan Singh, a resident of Village Tali Farm, Post and Tehsil Bajpur in the district of Udham Singh Nagar, Uttarakhand.

3. The substance of the plaintiff-respondent's case is that he entered into a contract to purchase the suit property with defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, which is agricultural land, comprising different plot numbers, described in the plaint, admeasuring a total of 2.0305 hectares and situate at Village Shekhupura, Tehsil Swar, District Rampur. The defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 were recorded bhumidhars with transferable rights in the suit property. The plaintiff-respondent, on one hand, and the defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, on the other, according to the plaintiff-respondent, voluntarily entered into the suit agreement dated 30.11.2018, duly admitted to registration by the Sub-Registrar, Swar, Rampur, where defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 covenanted to convey the suit property to the plaintiff-respondent for a total sale consideration of Rs.78,52,000/-. The suit agreement, that was executed, was one without possession. Out of the agreed sale consideration, defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, according to the plaintiff-respondent, received an earnest of Rs.70 lakhs through cheques and cash, leaving a residue of Rs.8,52,000/- to be paid at the time of registration of the sale deed. It was covenanted also by parties to the suit agreement that the sale deed would be executed by 01.06.2020. It is the plaintiff's case that well before the arrival of the agreed date i.e. 01.06.2020, defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 gifted away the suit property through registered gift deeds, both dated 29.02.2020 in favour of defendant-revisionist Nos.1 and 2. The suit was, therefore, brought for specific performance of the suit agreement, cancellation of the two registered gifted deeds dated 29.02.2020, executed by defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 in favour of defendant-revisionist Nos.1 and 2, besides a permanent prohibitory injunction, restraining the defendant-revisionists from further transferring the suit property in favour of any third-party or delivering its possession to anyone else.

4. A written statement was filed in the suit on behalf of defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, who are defendant Nos.1 and 2 to the suit. The defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, in substance, plead in their written statement that they were defrauded by Balkar Singh, a son of defendant No.3's elder brother into executing the suit agreement in favour of the plaintiff-respondent, Karam Jeet Singh, also called Paul UK. It is pleaded in the written statement that Balkar Singh was entrusted by defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 to take care of their farming done on the suit property, for reason that Balkar Singh enjoyed defendant-revisionist No.3's trust. Balkar Singh, in connivance with his wife, Rajvinder Kaur and her brother Balveer Rai and another Gurpreet Singh, represented to the defendant-revisionists that all of them could migrate to UK and work there with the assistance of the plaintiff. It is said that at the same time for the purpose of facilitating the defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4's transactions of money relating to the farming, bank accounts were got opened with the Axis Bank, Branch Bajpur for both defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4. In the said accounts, the mobile number given was Balkar Singh's father's, so that the defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 would not receive any alerts about the transactions done.

5. At the same time, Balkar Singh and his associates, inspiring the defendant-revisionists about their migration to the UK with the help of the plaintiff, told them that they had to have a sum of at least Rs. 2 crores in their account to get a UK citizenship or commercial VISA. There are some other allegations related to agreements got executed by Balkar Singh in favour of his wife, but that is not directly related to the issue involved here. It is said by defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 that Balkar Singh, on the pretext of getting a special power of attorney, executed in his favour by defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, took them to the Sub-Registrar's office on 30.11.2018. He represented to them that the special power of attorney had to be executed by defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 in order to enable him to deal with matters relating to the defendant-revisionists' immigration to UK and also to manage their farm related transactions. The suit agreement was got executed by defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 by Balkar Singh in favour of the plaintiff-respondent, misrepresenting its character as a power of attorney, without any consideration settled or paid.

6. In this very detailed written statement filed on behalf of the defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4, where the defence appears to be indicative of a fraud and misrepresentation, practiced upon the said defendant-revisionists by Balkar Singh and his associates, including the plaintiff-respondent, amendments were sought to paragraph No.29 and by an addition to the written statement, numbered as paragraph No.55-अ. In paragraph No.29 of the written statement in the fourth line for the word “है” after the word “कराता”, the word “था” was sought to be substituted.

7. In order to better appreciate the nature of the amendment sought to be effected in paragraph No.29 of the written statement, it would be apposite to quote paragraph No.29 of the written statement filed on behalf of defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 (defendant Nos.1 and 2 to the suit):

“29. यह कि कथित इकरारनामा मुआयदाबय का गवाह बलकार सिंह प्रतिवादी सं0-1 के ताऊ का पुत्र अर्थात् सगा तहेरा भाई है। प्रतिवादी सं0-1 कई वर्ष से बीमार चल रहा है। बीमारी के कारण अपनी काशत की आराजी पर कृषि कार्य ठेके पर अपने सगे तहेरे भाई बलकार पुत्र गुरूदेव सिंह से कराता है। बलकार सिंह परिवार का होने के कारण यह जानता है कि प्रतिवादी - उत्तरदातागण के खास सगे रिश्तेदार इंग्लैंड में हैं। बलकार सिंह लोगो को विदेश भेजने का भी कार्य वादी के सहयोग से करता है। उसकी इस सम्बन्ध में अच्छी पकड़ व जानकारी है।”

8. The amendment sought is to substitute the word “है”, shown in bold letter by the word “था”. The other amendment sought is the addition of a paragraph, numbered as 55 (अ). This reads as follows:

“55 (अ) यह कि बलकार सिंह पुत्र गुरदेव सिंह, श्रीमती रजविन्दर कौर पत्नी बलकार सिंह, दलजीत सिंह व नरेन्द्र सिंह पुत्रगण सन्तोष सिंह समस्त निवासीगण ग्राम शेखपुरा, तहसील स्वार, जिला रामपुर बलवीर सिंह राय व गुरप्रीत सिंह पुत्रगण चरनजीत सिंह, श्रीमती किरनदीप कौर पत्नी बलवीर सिंह समस्त निवासीगण ग्राम इकधारा, तहसील बाजपुर, जिला ऊधमसिंहनगर (उत्तराखण्ड) तथा सुनील कुमार पुत्र महेन्द्र सिंह निवासी ग्राम कुण्डा तहसील बाजपुर, जिला ऊधमसिंहनगर आवश्यक एवं प्रोपर पक्ष है जिस कारण वाद उपरोक्त में आवश्यक व प्रोपर पक्षकार न बनाये जाने के कारण पक्षों के असंयोजन के दोष से दूषित है।”

9. The plaintiff resisted these amendments before the learned Trial Judge on ground that one amounted to withdrawal of an admission, and the other, to implead parties to the suit, who were not parties to the contract. The learned Trial Judge by the order impugned rejected the amendment application. The Trial Court opined that after commencement of trial, it had to be established necessarily by the defendants why steps were not promptly taken to introduce the amendment. It was held that going by the proviso to Rule 17 of Order VI CPC, the defendants have not been able to show why steps were not taken promptly. The suit was indicated to be set down for trial, which had already commenced. The other reason for refusing addition of paragraph 55 (अ) to the written statement assigned by the Trial Court is that it is not indicated in the written statement how the persons, whom the defendants want to implead as necessary and proper parties, have assisted or connived with the plaintiff. A reference is made by the Trial Court to the decision of the Supreme Court in Vidur Impex and Traders Private Limited and others v. Tosh Apartments Private Limited and others, (2012) 8 SCC 384, for the principle that in a suit for specific performance, non-parties to the contract need not be impleaded.

10. The Trial Judge repelled the contention put forward on behalf of the defendant-revisionists that at the stage of permitting amendment, it was not to be seen if the persons, whose names were sought to be introduced in the pleading, are necessary or proper parties. Through the plea of non-joinder sought to be introduced, the Trial Court opined that because it was proposed to seek impleadment of parties, it was necessary to examine, at that stage itself, if the persons, whose names were sought to be introduced, were in fact necessary and proper parties. Relying on the proviso to Rule 17 of Order VI and the absence of necessity to implead persons, not parties to the contract, both the proposed amendments were declined.

11. Heard Mr. Shreeprakash Singh, learned Counsel for the defendant-revisionists and Mr. Virendra Kumar Gupta, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the sole plaintiff-respondent.

12. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the defendant-revisionists that it is not an inflexible rule that no amendment can be made after commencement of trial, unless the Court comes to the conclusion that despite due diligence, it could not be raised before such commencement. It is argued that amendments to the written statement are to be granted by a more liberal standard as compared to an amendment to the plaint and the amendments which the defendant-revisionists seek are no more than amplification or the correct statement of facts, not inconsistent with the other pleas. It is argued that the Trial Court has adopted a hyper-technical approach in rejecting the amendment application, which ought to be eschewed by a Court generally, while considering pleas seeking amendments to the written statement.

13. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the plaintiff-respondent, supporting the impugned order, that it is not permissible to grant amendment after commencement of trial in view of the proviso appended to Rule 17 of Order VI CPC. The defendant-revisionists had filed a very detailed written statement and there was no purpose to be served by seeking the proposed amendments after commencement of trial. It was just a pretext to delay trial. In addition, it is argued that by seeking substitution of the word "५" in place of "६" in paragraph No.29 of the written statement, an admission in favour of the plaintiff is sought to be withdrawn, which is impermissible, going by the first principles governing the law of amendment.

14. So far as the addition of paragraph 55(3f) is concerned, it is submitted that it is well settled that persons, who are not parties to the suit agreement, need not be impleaded in a suit for specific performance. The plea sought to be introduced about non-joinder of the parties, is ultimately directed to secure their impleadment to the suit. Therefore, it is urged that the Trial Court was right in scrutinizing, if at all the plea of non-joinder of those parties, sought to be raised in the written statement, would be of any permissible avail to the defendant-revisionists, in order to be allowed by way of amendment.

15. We have carefully considered the submissions made by parties and perused the record.

16. So far as the amendments sought to paragraph No.29 of the written statement is concerned, the amendment is one that seeks to substitute the words "है" for "थी" there. The effect of the proposed amendment is not at all to withdraw any admission made in favour of the plaintiff. This is so because the relevant pleading in the first instance is about defendant-revisionist No.3's terms with his cousin Balkar Singh about the affairs of his farming. Whereas in the unamended paragraph, the defendant-revisionists have said that they get their farming done by Balkar Singh, what they now seek to say is that defendant-revisionist No.3 got all that farming done by Balkar Singh in the past. It seeks to disown any current association between Balkar Singh and defendant-revisionist No.3, in the affairs of his farming. The proposed amendment is generally in keeping with the fabric of the defendant-revisionists' wholesome defence. The defence is about Balkar Singh being involved in fraudulently getting defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 into executing the suit agreement in favour of the plaintiff in association with his wife, his wife's brother and other associates, misleading defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 about the character of the document, by betraying the trust reposed in him by them. This was done, according to the defendant-revisionists, by Balkar Singh and his associates, misrepresenting to defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 that the special power of attorney that they were asked to execute would permit Balkar Singh to settle their affairs about immigration to the UK and also to handle matters of their farming back home.

17. Now, in this context of things, if the defendant-revisionists had inadvertently said in paragraph No.29 that Balkar Singh was still helping them in their farming, which obviously he would not be doing now in the changed circumstances, the substitution of the word "है" for "थी" in paragraph No.29, does not withdraw any kind of admission made. It is rather one sought to explain the correct facts, pleaded in the written statement and put them in order with the general scheme of defence. The amendment of this paragraph would also hardly cause any prejudice to the plaintiff because all facts, elsewhere pleaded in the written statement, blame Balkar Singh for his connivance with the plaintiff.

18. The principles governing amendments to the written statement have been laid down by the Supreme Court in State of Bihar and others v. Modern Tent House and another, (2017) 8 SCC 567. In Modern Tent House (supra), it has been held by the Supreme Court:

“7. It is not in dispute that the suit filed by the respondents against the appellants out of which this appeal arises is still pending. It is also not in dispute that the evidence of the parties is not yet over. In other words, the trial in the suit is going on.

8. We have perused the amendment application filed by the appellants. We find that firstly, the proposed amendment is on facts and the appellants in substance seek to elaborate the facts originally pleaded in the written statement; secondly and in other words, it is in the nature of amplification of the defence already taken; thirdly, it does not introduce any new defence compared to what has originally been pleaded in the written statement; fourthly, if allowed, it would neither result in changing the defence already taken nor will result in withdrawing any kind of admission, if made in the written statement; fifthly, there is no prejudice to the plaintiffs, if such amendment is allowed because notwithstanding the defence or/and the proposed amendment, the initial burden to prove the case continues to remain on the plaintiffs; and lastly, since the trial is not yet completed, it is in the interest of justice that the proposed amendment of the defendants should have been allowed by the courts below rather than to allow the defendants to raise such plea at the appellate stage, if occasion so arises.”

19. The principles regarding amendment to the written statement have also been laid down by the Supreme Court in Baldev Singh and others v. Manohar Singh and another, (2006) 6 SCC 498, where it has been observed:

“9. Keeping this principle in mind, let us now consider the provisions relating to amendment of pleadings. Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure deals with amendment of pleadings which provides that the court may at any stage of the proceedings allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just, and all such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties. From a bare perusal of this provision, it is pellucid that Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure consists of two parts. The first part is that the court may at any stage of the proceedings allow either party to amend his pleadings and the second part is that such amendment shall be made for the purpose of determining the real controversies raised between the parties. Therefore, in view of the provisions made under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC it cannot be doubted that wide power and unfettered discretion has been conferred on the court to allow amendment of the pleadings to a party in such manner and on such terms as it appears to the court just and proper. While dealing with the prayer for amendment, it would also be necessary to keep in mind that the court shall allow amendment of pleadings if it finds that delay in disposal of suit can be avoided and that the suit can be disposed of expeditiously. By the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2002 a proviso has been added to Order 6 Rule 17 which restricts the courts from permitting an amendment to be allowed in the pleadings of either of the parties, if at the time of filing an application for amendment, the trial has already commenced. However, the court may allow amendment if it is satisfied that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial. So far as proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure is concerned, we shall deal with it later.

11. A bare perusal of the order rejecting the application for amendment of the written statement indicates that while rejecting the application for amendment of the written statement, the High Court as well as the trial court based their decisions mainly on three grounds. The first ground was that since the appellants had made certain admissions in the written statement, its amendment cannot be allowed permitting the appellants to withdraw their admission made in the same. Secondly, the question of limitation cannot be allowed to be raised by way of an amendment of the written statement and lastly, inconsistent pleas in the written statement cannot also be allowed to be raised by seeking its amendment.

14. As noted hereinafter, the case set up by the plaintiff-Respondent 1 was that his parents had no money to purchase the suit property and it was the plaintiff-Respondent 1 who paid the consideration money. In the written statement, this fact was denied and further it was asserted in the written statement that the suit property was in fact purchased by their parents and they had sufficient income of their own. In the application for amendment of written statement it was stated that the plaintiff-Respondent 1 did not have any income to pay the consideration money of the suit property and in fact the parents of the plaintiff-Respondent 1 had sufficient income to pay the sale price. It was only pointed out in the application for amendment that after the death of their parents, the suit property was mutated in the joint names of the plaintiff-Respondent 1 and the defendants in equal shares. Therefore, the question whether certain admissions made in the written statement were sought to be withdrawn is concerned, we find, as noted hereinafter, there was no admission in the written statement from which it could be said that by filing an application for amendment of the written statement, the appellants had sought to withdraw such admission. It is true that in the original written statement, a statement has been made that it is Defendant-Appellant 1 who is the owner and is in continuous possession of the suit property, but in our view, the powers of the court are wide enough to permit amendment of the written statement by incorporating an alternative plea of ownership in the application for amendment of the written statement. That apart, in our view, the facts stated in the application for amendment were in fact an elaboration of the defence case. Accordingly, we are of the view that the High Court as well as the trial court had erred in rejecting the application for amendment of the written statement on the ground that in the event such amendment was allowed, it would take away some admissions made by the defendant-appellants in their written statement. That apart, in Estralla Rubber v. Dass Estate (P) Ltd. [(2001) 8 SCC 97] this Court held that even if there were some admissions in the evidence as well as in the written statement, it was still open to the parties to explain the same by way of filing an application for amendment of the written statement. That apart, mere delay of three years in filing the application for amendment of the written statement could not be a ground for rejection of the same when no serious prejudice is shown to have been caused to the plaintiff-Respondent 1 so as to take away any accrued right.

15. Let us now take up the last ground on which the application for amendment of the written statement was rejected by the High Court as well as the trial court. The rejection was made on the ground that inconsistent plea cannot be allowed to be taken. We are unable to appreciate the ground of rejection made by the High Court as well as the trial court. After going through the pleadings and also the statements made in the application for amendment of the written statement, we fail to understand how inconsistent plea could be said to have been taken by the appellants in their application for amendment of the written statement, excepting the plea taken by the appellants in the application for amendment of written statement regarding the joint ownership of the suit property. Accordingly, on facts, we are not satisfied that the application for amendment of the written statement could be rejected also on this ground. That apart, it is now well settled that an amendment of a plaint and amendment of a written statement are not necessarily governed by exactly the same principle. It is true that some general principles are certainly common to both, but the rules that the plaintiff cannot be allowed to amend his pleadings so as to alter materially or substitute his cause of action or the nature of his claim has necessarily no counterpart in the law relating to amendment of the written statement. Adding a new ground of defence or substituting or altering a defence does not raise the same problem as adding, altering or substituting a new cause of action. Accordingly, in the case of amendment of written statement, the courts are inclined to be more liberal in allowing amendment of the written statement than of plaint and question of prejudice is less likely to operate with same rigour in the former than in the latter case."

20. There is a further restatement of the principle that amendments to the written statement are to be more liberally granted as compared to amendments to the plaint, even one explaining an admission or taking inconsistent pleas, to be found in Usha Balashaheb Swami and others v. Kiran Appaso Swami and others, (2007) 5 SCC 602. In Usha Balashaheb Swami (supra), it has been held by the Supreme Court:

"21. As we have already noted herein earlier that in allowing the amendment of the written statement a liberal approach is a general view when admittedly in the event of allowing the amendment the other party can be compensated in money. Technicality of law should not be permitted to hamper the courts in the administration of justice between the parties. In L.J. Leach & Co. Ltd. v. Jardine Skinner & Co. [AIR 1957 SC 357] this Court observed "that the courts are more generous in allowing amendment of the written statement as the question of prejudice is less likely to operate in that event".

In that case this Court also held "that the defendant has right to take alternative plea in defence which, however, is subject to an exception that by the proposed amendment the other side should not be subjected to serious injustice".

22. Keeping these principles in mind, namely, that in a case of amendment of a written statement the courts would be more liberal in allowing than that of a plaint as the question of prejudice would be far less in the former than in the latter and addition of a new ground of defence or substituting or altering a defence or taking inconsistent pleas in the written statement can also be allowed, we may now proceed to consider whether the High Court was justified in rejecting the application for amendment of the written statement."

21. The issue, if the substitution of the word "थ" for "है" would amount to withdrawal of an admission, which we have answered earlier in this judgment and held that it does not. The view that this Court takes that the proposed amendment has to be understood consistent with the general fabric of the defence, finds support in the holding of this Court in Bhagwan Swaroop Tripathi and others v. Gaushala Committee, Shikohabad and another, 2011 (88) ALR 188, where it is observed:

“13. In my opinion, the document has to be read in whole and in case, the amended paragraph 1 of the written statement and paragraph 20 are read together it will be found that they are inconsistent and paragraph 20 clearly shows that the intention of the petitioner was never to admit the contention of the respondent that society was registered at the time of filing the present suit and the petitioner has never tried to wriggle out from own admission since in paragraph 20 of the written statement it was categorically stated that registration of the petitioner has already expired and the suit is not maintainable, as such, there was no occasion for him to admit the contents of the paragraph 1 of the written statement with regard to registration.....”

22. This Court is, therefore, of opinion that substituting the word "५" for "६" in paragraph No.29 does not amount to withdrawal of any kind of admission and is in no way an amendment inconsistent with the general scheme of the defendant-revisionists' defence. In any case, it does not prejudice the plaintiff-respondent in any manner, so as to entitle the plaintiff to have the proposed amendments refused.

23. Now, the other issue which the Trial Court has considered in declining the amendment is based on the proviso to Rule 17 of Order VI of the CPC. It is no doubt true as a rule that after commencement of trial, amendment should not generally be permitted. One exception, however, is mentioned by the proviso itself and that is that despite due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before commencement of trial. But, the rule embodied in the proviso is not an inflexible rule. In this connection, the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in Abdul Rehman and another v. Mohd. Ruldu and others, (2012) 11 SCC 341 are seminal. It is observed in Abdul Rehman (supra):

“11. The original provision was deleted by Amendment Act 46 of 1999, however, it has again been restored by Amendment Act 22 of 2002 but with an added proviso to prevent application for amendment being allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial. The above proviso, to some extent, curtails absolute discretion to allow amendment at any stage. At present, if application is filed after commencement of trial, it has to be shown that in spite of due diligence, it could not have been sought earlier. The object of the rule is that courts should try the merits of the case that come before them and should, consequently, allow all amendments that may be necessary for determining the real question in controversy between the parties provided it does not cause injustice or prejudice to the other side. This Court, in a series of decisions has held that the power to allow the amendment is wide and can be exercised at any stage of the proceeding in the interest of justice. The main purpose of allowing the amendment is to minimise the litigation and the plea that the relief sought by way of amendment was barred by time is to be considered in the light of the facts and circumstances of each case. The above principles have been reiterated by this Court in J. Samuel v. Gattu Mahesh [(2012) 2 SCC 300 : (2012) 1 SCC (Civ) 801] and Rameshkumar Agarwal v. Rajmala Exports (P) Ltd. [(2012) 5 SCC 337 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 92] Keeping the above principles in mind, let us consider whether the appellants have made out a case for amendment.”

24. Reference may also be made to a decision of this Court in Rajendra Shanker Tripathi v. Ajay Kumar Gupta, 2011 (113) RD 651, where summarising the principles, it was observed:

“4. Object of Order VI, Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure is that the Court should adjudicate on the merits of the case that come before them and should consequently allow all the amendments that may be necessary for determining the real question in controversy between the parties. Order VI, Rule 17 consists of two parts. The first part is discretionary and leaves it to the Court to order amendment of pleading while the second part is imperative and enjoins the Court to allow all the amendments which are necessary for the purposes of determining the real question in controversy between the parties. It may be added that there is no absolute rule that in every case where a relief is barred because of limitation an amendment should not be allowed.

5. A party cannot be refused a just relief merely because of some mistake, negligence, inadvertence or even infraction of the rules of procedure. The Court generally gives leave to amend the pleadings to a party unless it is satisfied that the party applying was acting mala fide or that by his blunder he had caused injury to his opponent. In the present case the amendments which have sought to be incorporated will not change the basic nature of the written statement (sic-plaint).

6. After engaging an advocate the party may remain supremely confident that the lawyer will look after his interest. It will not be proper that the party should suffer for the inaction, deliberate omission or misdemeanour of his Counsel. It is well settled that litigant should not suffer for the lapses on the part of his Counsel. Laws of procedure are meant to regulate effectively, assist and aid the object of doing substantial and real justice.”

25. The rule is not, therefore, inflexible that in every case, where trial has commenced, the doors of amendment are irreversibly shut. In a case, where the facts warrant, amendment can be granted post commencement of trial as well. In case of amendment to the written statement, the standard has already been indicated to be liberal, and to the understanding of this Court, it would also have bearing on the issue of a belated amendment to the written statement, if brought in to clarify or elaborate facts, already pleaded in the written statement. In the present case, as already said, the amendment to paragraph No.29 does nothing more than to put the pleadings in paragraph No.29 in accord with the general matrix of pleadings on behalf of defendant-revisionists.

26. So far as the other amendment is concerned, the principle against non-joinder of persons, who are not parties to the suit agreement, was laid down by the Supreme Court in Vidur Impex and Traders Private Limited (supra) in a completely different context. The principle was laid down in the context of an application for impleadment by a party, who had entered into a transaction with the vendor to purchase the suit property, while a suit for specific performance was pending. The transaction was in violation of an order of injunction, restraining the vendor from alienating the suit property or creating third party rights. It was a denial of that kind of an application, that was upheld by the Supreme Court in Vidur Impex and Traders Private Limited.

27. Here, the amendments sought is about parties, who are said to have facilitated the plaintiff along with Balkar Singh in perpetrating a fraudulent transaction, as the defendant-revisionists say, that led defendant-revisionists Nos.3 and 4 into entering into the suit agreement with the plaintiff, thinking that it was something very different. If in the background of this defence, the plaintiff has sought to raise a plea about non-joinder of these persons said to be involved in the conspiracy or the act of connivance, refusal of the amendment can hardly be said to be justified. It would still be a matter to be seen, if indeed, these persons ought to be impleaded as parties. As already seen in the context of broad principles relating to the amendment of a written statement, many pleas, some inconsistent, can and ought to be permitted by way of amendment, that cannot be permitted in the case of a plaint. The Trial Judge, in refusing the amendment here, has certainly not gone by the settled standards of permitting amendment to a written statement.

28. The Trial Court, in declining the amendment, has failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it, which would result in failure of justice to the defendant-revisionists, if allowed to stand.

29. In the considered opinion of this Court, therefore, the amendment application ought to have been and must, therefore, be allowed.

30. In the result, this revision succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 06.07.2022 passed by the Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Rampur, is hereby set aside and reversed. The application for amendment is allowed. Let the written statement be amended in the terms prayed. The interim stay order is hereby vacated. The proceedings of the suit shall now be expedited and concluded early without granting any unnecessary adjournment to either party.

31. There shall be no order as to costs.

32. Let a copy of the judgment be communicated to the Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Rampur through the learned District Judge, Rampur by the Registrar (Compliance).

Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 - Section 12 - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 32 - U.P. Development Authorities Centralised Service Rules, 1985 - Rule 20-A - Applicants alleged non-compliance with order dated 19.08.1992 directing regularization of their services as Junior Engineers within nine months.

Court held: (1) Direction to "take steps" for regularization within nine months was not mandatory but required reasonable efforts, considering posts were under U.P. Public Service Commission and no regularization rules existed initially (Shri Ram Kishan Vs U.O.I., Writ Petition (Civil) No. 853 of 1990). (2) St.'s efforts, including creating supernumerary posts, amending Rule 20-A in 2001, and regularizing services in 2003 after litigation, demonstrated compliance despite delay due to legal challenges (Rama Narang Vs Ramesh Narang, (2009) 16 SCC 126). (3) Applicants' failure to challenge the 1997 select list and their participation in subsequent litigation indicated acceptance of regularization process; delay was not deliberate but due to absence of rules and ongoing appeals (Kunwar Singh Saini Vs High Court of Delhi, (2012) 4 SCC 307). (4) Applicants' non-disclosure of relevant Supreme Court orders and litigation history did not amount to material suppression, but no wilful disobedience was established, as St. showed earnest efforts through cabinet approvals and rule amendments. Contempt notices discharged; petition dismissed. (Paras 24-38)

Contempt Petition Dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Dr. L.P.Mishra, assisted by Sri Sharad Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Neel Kamal Mishra, for opposite party no. 3 and Sri Ratnesh Chandra assisted by Sri Ishan Singh, for the Lucknow Development Authority.

2. Instant contempt petition is preferred for alleged non compliance of the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 passed in Writ Petition No. 222(S/S) of 1992 connected with Writ Petition No. 6384 (S/S) of 1989.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioners were appointed as Junior Engineers on workcharge basis in the years 1984, 1985 and 1987, in the Lucknow Development Authority, and in the year 1992, they approached this court by preferring several petitions namely, Writ Petition No. 222(S/S) of 1992 connected with Writ Petition No. 6384 (S/S) of 1989, and were heard together. The final Judgment and order was passed by this court on 19-08-1992, whereby these writ petitions were allowed, while directing the Lucknow Development Authority to pay minimum of the pay-scale to the petitioners as is being paid to the regularly appointed Junior Engineers, Clerks and Class-IVth employees, were getting at that point of time and as many as 7 directions were issued, but, so far as the last direction in the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, which is allegedly not complied with, by the opposite parties, is to the effect that 'to take step to obtain regularization of the services of those petitioners within nine months, if the posts are within the purview of Public Service Commission. If posts are not within the purview of Public Service Commission, the opposite parties will regularize the services of the petitioners within said period.'

4. Being aggrieved with the above said Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, the Lucknow Development Authority filed two Special Appeals namely; Special Appeal No. 35 of 1993 and the Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993. Since, the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 was with respect to the Junior Engineers, Clerks and Class-IVth employees, whereas the Special Appeal No. 35 of 1993, particularly; challenging the Judgment and Order with respect to the Assistant Engineers and that was dismissed on 20-10-2003. The Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993; was also dismissed for non-prosecution on 20-12-2016. Later on, the order dated 20-12-2016 was recalled vide order dated 30-10-2017 though on 30-10-2017, on the request of the learned counsel for the appellant, the same was dismissed as being rendered infructuous but no objection was raised by the learned counsel for the petitioners /respondent, then.

5. Admitted fact in between the parties are that the services of the petitioners were regularized in the year 2003 and further, the special appeal, which was preferred by the Lucknow Development Authority, is dismissed as infructuous as no objection was raised by the learned counsel for the petitioners against the statement given by the learned counsel for the appellants/opposite parties. The fact remains that the Writ Petition (Civil) No. 853 of 1990 titled as 'Shri Ram Kishan and Ors Vs Union of India & Others' was filed by some of the employees of the Development Authority for regularization of their services directly before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, invoking powers under Article 32 of the Constitution of India, wherein, while passing the Judgment and order dated 21-02-1991 by the Hon'ble Apex Court, it was directed to the authority 'to take steps through the State of Uttar Pradesh to obtain regularization of the petitioners' as far as possible preferably within nine months from now so that by the end of the year the process of regularization may, as far as practicable be completed.'

6. Thereafter, the Apex Court clarified it's order on 04-09-1991, while observing that 'the question is one of recruitment into U.P. Development Centralised Service. For that purpose, we understand that there are a set of rules and recruitment is through the State Public Service Commission. Our direction on February, 21,1991, is obviously not intended to require regularization contrary to the rules inforce.'

7. The order dated 19-08-1992 passed in Writ Petition No. 6384 (S/S) of 1989 and Writ Petition No. 222(S/S) of 1992 was stayed in Special Appeal No. 47 of 1994 preferred by the Lucknow Development Authority on 23-11-1995. It is also said that since the petitioners were appointed against the posts, which come under the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission and since there were no rules with respect to the regularization of such appointees and thus, several exercise is said to be done by the State Government and ultimately, on 22-07-1997, the petitioners under the special circumstances, a select list was issued wherein, the names of the petitioners also find place.

8. After the aforesaid select list was prepared, the same was assailed by some of the employees of the Development Authorities and an order was passed on 08-09-1997, whereby the exercise with respect to appointment of the petitioners including other similarly situated employees are done, had been declared unsustainable. Thereafter, Special Appeal No. 788 of 1997 alongwith other special appeals were preferred by the petitioners including the other employees, which was finally decided on 16-06-2000, whereby the order passed by the learned Single Judge dated 08-09-1997 was set aside. Paragraph no. H of the plaint of the Special Appeal No. 788 of 1997 preferred by the petitioners, is evident that the petitioners have sought parity of the Judgment and Order passed in Shri Ram Kishan's case (Supra). Thereafter, Civil Appeal No. 353 of 2001 was preferred, wherein, as an interim measure, the following order was passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court on 24-03-2003, which is quoted hereinunder :-

“Learned counsel for the State of U.P. submits that the State of U.P. would try to regularise the adhoc/daily wage appointees who are in service for a number of years and that said regularization would be subject to the final decision in the appeal.

In view of the aforesaid statement, learned counsel for the applicant is not pressing the applications. Hence, the applications stand disposed of accordingly. It is made clear that no further contempt proceedings should be initiated by the parties.”

9. Thereafter, this appeal was disposed of with the following observations :-

“Heard learned counsel for the appellants and counsel for the State.

The Judgment of the Division Bench of the High Court of Allahabad dated 26-06-2000, directing regularisation of certain adhoc employees and daily wage appointees who were working as Junior Engineers. The appellants herein have already been regularised by the State pursuant to the Judgment of the High Court. However, they have raised a contention that while making regularisation these appellants were entitled to get seniority over some other candidates who were regularised by the respondent-State. If there is such a dispute regarding inter-se seniority of regularised candidates, they challenge the same before an appropriate forum. We see no justification to consider such a question in these appeals.

10. Now, it emerges out that the services of the petitioners have been regularized on 23-07-2003, while amendment in the rule 20-A of Rules 1985.

11. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioners is that on place of regularization of the services of the petitioners within a period of nine months from the date of the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, the same is done w.e.f. 23-07-2003. He submits that the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 passed in Writ Petition No. 7638 (S/S) of 1989 (Vijay Kumar Srivastava and Others Vs State of U.P. and Others), has never been modified, altered or changed in any proceeding before any court of law and the Amendment Application moved in Special Leave to Appeal (C) Nos. 2332-2333 of 2023 has also been dismissed on 19-10-2023 and the Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993 (Lucknow Development Authority and Others Vs. Vijay Kumar Srivastava and Others) filed against the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, was stayed and the same was dismissed as infructuous, on 30-10-2017, on the statement of the learned counsel for the appellants that the order passed by the Single Judge has been complied with, though the statement given by the appellant was incorrect and misleading and the present contempt petition has been filed after the Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993 was dismissed. He further argued that the exercise, which is said to be done in the year 1997 for appointing/treating the petitioners as adhoc employees, is not in compliance of the Judgment and order dated 19-08-1992, as no reference is made, in the order dated 22-07-1997.

12. Further, submitted that in the Judgment and order passed in Shri Ram Kishan's Case (Supra), it is evident that the directions are flexible as the words are used 'as far as possible preferably within nine months' and so far as the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 is concerned, there is a specific direction that 'to take steps to obtain regularization of the services of these petitioners within nine months'. Therefore, submission is that the period prescribed for regularization of the services of the petitioners is very particular and that has not been interfered at any stage before any higher forum/court and thus, it is not open for the opposite parties to make any interpretation of the direction of this court as per their own facility and thus, it is not the second set of regularization, but the regularization of the petitioners should have been done, since the year 1992, that too, within a period of nine months, which apparently, has not been done. Further more, the S.L.P. has also been dismissed by the Hon'ble Apex Court regarding any interference in the order of the year 1992 and it is open for the petitioners to press their contempt petition.

13. He further contended that the petitioners were not the parties in the case of Shri Ram Kishan (Supra) and even the order dated 22-07-1997 also does not disclose that the Judgment and order passed by the writ court is also taken care of and the petitioners could not approach this court by way of instituting the contempt petition, prior to the decision in the Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993 as the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 was stayed and as soon as the same was dismissed, the petitioners have preferred the present contempt petition. Infact the petitioners were not in a position to refuse their regularization w.e.f. 23-07-2003 as the interim order was stayed and the petitioners were not in a bargaining position as they had no option to insist that they should be regularized within nine months, from the date of the Judgment dated 19-08-1992.

14. In support of his contentions, he has placed reliance on the Judgment reported in (2021)10 SCC, 166 (Somesh Thapliyal and another Vs Vice Chancellor H.N.B. Garhwal University and another) and has referred paragraphs nos. 43 & 44 of the said judgment, which are quoted hereinunder :-

43. The bargaining power is vested with the employer itself and the employee is left with no option but, to accept the condition dictated by the authority. If that being the reason, it is open for the employee to challenge the conditions if it is not being in conformity with the statutory requirement under the law and he is not stopped from questioning at a stage where he finds himself aggrieved.

44. In the instant case, they lodged the protest petition and brought their grievances to the notice of the respondents but were unable to question except to pray to the Almighty to consider their grievances sympathetically."

15. Adding his arguments, he submits that there is no concealment of facts by the petitioners in contempt petition and if any word is left to be transcribed but the paragraph discloses the sense of the word left to be mentioned, could not be termed as the concealment of facts and it is mere an inadvertence or typographical error. He also added that the opposite parties have failed to substantiate with any of the counter attack that there is any intentional concealment of facts on the part of the petitioners, may be there are certain documents left to be annexed alongwith the pleadings exchanged in the contempt proceedings.

16. Concluding his arguments, he submits that admittedly, the regularization is done since 23-07-2003 and the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 is very clear in it's term of directions that the opposite parties shall take steps to obtain regularization of the petitioners, which has apparently not been done even after passing of more than three decades and the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 is still intact. Therefore, submission is that the opposite parties have committed wilful and deliberate contempt of the Judgment and Order passed by the writ court and thus, they may be dealt with strictly, in accordance with the provisions contained in Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

17. On the other hand, Sri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 3 has very vehemently opposed the contentions aforesaid and submitted that after the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, there are several developments, as various set of writ petitions, special appeals and S.L.Ps, were filed and the opposite parties after making their best efforts, have made compliance of the order dated 19.08.1992.

18. While craving the leave to put a brief history of appointment of the petitioners for proper adjudication, he submits that the petitioners were initially engaged as work-charge Junior Engineers by the Lucknow Development Authority, though the said posts are a centralised services post, which falls within the purview of the U.P. Public Service Commission and there were neither any rules for regularization of daily wage/work-charge employees working on the centralized posts covered under the U.P. Public Service Commission nor there were sufficient number of sanctioned posts of Junior Engineers to accommodate all the daily wage and muster roll employees and therefore, efforts were made by the state authorities to ensure compliance of the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 passed in the writ petition of the petitioners, as after, creating supernumerary posts by resorting to the cabinet approval, the services of the petitioners were regularized on 23-07-2003.

Further submitted that that it is an admitted fact that the Judgment and order dated 19-08-1992 was passed by Hon'ble Single Judge while referring the Judgment and Order dated 21-02-1991 passed in case of Shri Ram Kishan's and later on, the Lucknow Development Authority, had filed an Special Appeal, wherein the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 was stayed uptill 30-10-2017; as there were six other directions in the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 and undisputedly, those were complied, within period of nine months as was directed by the writ court, but, so far as the grievance of the petitioners with respect to alleged non compliance of the one of the direction i.e. 'to take steps to obtain regularization of the petitioners' is concerned, because of non existence of rules of regularization, the certain exhaustive exercise was done by the State authorities positively and ultimately, the select list could be prepared on 22-07-1997, though thereafter, also the same was challenged and the Hon'ble Single Judge found it unsustainable and thereafter, Special Appeals were preferred by certain other employees including the present petitioners also, which were allowed and after long running litigations, the exercise could reach to it's logical end, in the year 1997 and thereafter, finally the services of the petitioners could be regularized in the year 2003. These exercises are done resorting to the cabinet decision as there was no rule of regularization, which shows the earnest endeavour of the opposite parties regarding the compliance of the orders passed by this court as well as by the Hon'ble Apex Court, as is evident from the order dated 22-07-1997.

19. Further rebutting the contention of learned counsel for the petitioners regarding the difference in the directions given in the case of Shri Ram Kishan (Supra) and the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, he submits that the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 is 'not to obtain the regularization but, to take steps for obtaining regularization' and thus, it opens to the opposite parties to carry out the necessary formalities and to adhere to the rules of regularization for obtaining regularization as the claim of the petitioners for the regularization was on the posts, which comes under the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission and since the petitioners were not the adhoc employees, as they were appointed on daily wages, which is an admitted fact, and there were no rules prevalent at that point of time, with respect to regularization of the services of the daily wage employees, on the posts, under the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission, therefore, in compliance of the order passed in the case of Shri Ram Kishan (Supra) as well as the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, a detailed exercise was done and while resorting to the cabinet proceedings, the select list dated 22-07-1997 was prepared and thereafter, the amendment in the rules 1985 was done on 02-08-2001 and the services of the petitioners were regularized with effect from 23-07-2003.

20. Drawing attention towards the order dated 30-10-2017, by which the Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993 was dismissed, he submits that the petitioners were the parties over there, but, they did not make any objection to the statement given by learned counsel for appellant or the Lucknow Development Authority, as it was said that the special appeal has become infructuous. He added that once the select list dated 22-07-1997 was challenged and said list was quashed, the petitioners by way of moving an special appeal, challenged the said order passed by the learned Single Judge and they succeeded in the special appeal. Further, the opening sentence of the select list dated 22-07-1997 is evident that the same is done in compliance of the order passed by the High Court as well as by the Hon'ble Apex Court, though, the description is not given, but it is clear that the said exercise is not aloof but, the same is in compliance of the orders passed by the Courts. He submits that in the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, the Judgment and order passed in the case of Shri Ram Kishan (Supra) was also considered and thereafter, when all the exercises are done and the petitioners have been accorded the benefit of regularization, even all the proceedings regarding challenge of the select list; was in the knowledge of the petitioners and they took the benefit of the same, now at this stage, they are claiming that there is non compliance of the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, though they never challenged the select list dated 22-07-1997 and are regularized on the very basis of the same.

21. Adding his arguments, he submits that the petitioners did not disclose the complete facts and documents while preferring the contempt petition as they did not disclose the Judgment and Order of the Hon'ble Apex Court, which is relevant for adjudication of the contempt petition and he tried to demonstrate that the same has not been disclosed deliberately and thus, his submission is that there are certain implications of concealment of facts before the court; for which the petitioners should be dealt with strictly, and also added that the contempt petition is not maintainable on the ground of suppression of material facts; as the petitioners are not with the clean hands and there are clear cut misrepresentation and deliberate suppression of the facts and the documents.

22. Further contended that there is no wilful, deliberate or intentional disobedience of the Judgment and the directions dated 19-08-1992, passed by the writ court and law is very clear on this point as the provisions of Contempt of Courts Act as well as several verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court is very clear that while punishing a contemnor for non compliance of the order and direction of the court, the court must satisfy that the disobedience is deliberate and intentional.

23. Concluding his arguments, he submits that because of the foregoing reasons, stated in the preceding paragraphs, the petitioners have failed to put their case under the four corners of the wilful disobedience as is defined under section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 and the petitioners are not with clean hands before this court as there are material suppression of facts in the contempt petition itself. Therefore, submission is that this contempt petition is liable to be dismissed.

24. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and after perusal of material placed on records, it transpires that the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 was passed in Writ Petition No. 222(S/S) of 1992 connected with Writ Petition No. 6384 (S/S) of 1989 filed by the Junior Engineers, initially appointed on work-charge basis in the years 1984,1985 and 1987 alongwith clerks and Class-IVth employees of the development authorities of centralised services department (hereinafter referred to as 'centralised services'). The writ court issued, as many as seven directions and the opposite parties were directed to make compliance of the order within a period of nine months.

25. Undisputedly, except apart the issue with respect to regularization of the services of the petitioners, all other directions/orders passed by the writ court, in the aforesaid writ petitions have been complied with, within period prescribed by the writ court, but, so far as regularization of services of the petitioners is concerned, it went upto the long litigations in between the parties. From the Judgment and order dated 19-08-1992, it is evident that the Writ Petition(Civil) No. 853 of 1990 titled as 'Shri Ram Kishan and Ors Vs Union of India & Others', was directly preferred before the Hon'ble Apex Court by some of the identically situated employees of the centralised services under Article 32 of the Constitution of India, wherein the Judgment and Order was passed on 21-02-1991; and subsequently, clarifying it's order dated 21-02-1991, an order was passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court on 04-09-1991, which briefly says 'not intended to ensure regularization contrary to the rules inforce.' The writ petition of the petitioners were decided relying upon the case of Shri Ram Kishan(Supra), which is referred in paragraph no. 20 of the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 and similar directions were issued as given in Shri Ram Kishan's Case (Supra) by the Hon'ble Apex Court, though the learned counsel for the petitioners has tried to demonstrate the difference in between the Judgment and Order passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shri Ram Kishan's Case (Supra) as well as in the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, while pointing out that in the direction of Shri Ram Kishan's Case (Supra), the same is flexible as the words 'possible and preferably' are used, but, in the Judgment and Order dated 19-

08-1992, the time prescribed is strict and there is no liberty given to the opposite parties to go beyond the time prescribed, but, while going through both the directions, the start wordings is common i.e. 'to take steps' and therefore, this court finds that so far as the purposive interpretation applies the words 'to take steps' qualifies the rest part of the direction and once this court examines the steps taken by the opposite parties regarding the regularization of services of the petitioners, it emerges that admittedly, there was no rules or regulations to regularize the services of work-charge or daily wage employees on the posts, which come under the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission and therefore, State Government started exhaustive exercise so as to make the appointment of the petitioners on adhoc basis and therefore, after great deliberations with U.P. Public Service Commission by way of putting a cabinet note, an amendment was got done, which is known as 'The Uttar Pradesh Development Authorities Centralised Services (7th Amendment Rules,2001)' and prior to it, on 22-07-1997, a select list was prepared, wherein the names of the petitioners also find place.

26. Notably when the select list dated 22-07-1991, was prepared, the same was assailed by way of instituting Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 1907 of 1995, alongwith other connected writ petitions, which were finally decided vide Judgment and Order dated 08-09-1997, whereby the writ court found that the exercise, which has been done, with regard to selection for making adhoc appointments against substantive post, is unsustainable in the eyes of law, whereafter, the same was assailed by way of an Special Appeal bearing no. 792 of 1997 alongwith other connected special appeals, wherein the petitioners including Shri Ram Kishan also filed Special Appeal No. 788 of 1997, which were finally decided on 26-06-2000 and it was directed that the State Government shall reconsider the claim for regularization of the services of the Junior Engineers in accordance with the provisions contained in Rule 20-A of U.P. Development Authorities Centralised Service Rules, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'Rules 1985') and the liberty was given to make amendment in the Rule 20-A; as aforesaid. The Rule 20-A of the Rules 1985, was amended and thereafter, an S.L.P. bearing no. 356 of 2001 along with other S.L.Ps were preferred before the Hon'ble Apex Court and the same was finally decided on 20-04-2006, wherein the following order was passed :-

The Judgment of the Division Bench of the High Court of Allahabad dated 26.6.2000, directed regularisation of certain adhoc employees and daily wage appointees who were working as Junior Engineers. The appellants herein have already been regularised by the State pursuant to the Judgment of the High Court. However, they have raised a contention that while making regularisation these appellants were entitled to get seniority over some other candidates who were regularised by the respondent-State. If there is such a dispute regarding inter se seniority of regularised candidates, they challenge the same before an appropriate forum. We see no justification to consider such a question in these appeals.

27. From perusal of the order dated 20-04-2006 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court, it transpires that the Hon'ble Apex Court while considering the facts that the services of the appellants/petitioners have already been regularized by the State Government and therefore, further dispute of inter-se seniority etc. were open to be challenged before the appropriate forum.

28. In all these exercises, the petitioners were the parties and the facts were fully in the knowledge of the petitioners that though the State Government was intended to regularize the services of the petitioners, but, since the several writ petitions, special appeals and S.L.Ps were preferred and therefore, the delay occurred, which is not done intentionally.

29. It is apparent from the directions given in the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 that the opposite parties will proceed to take steps for regularization and the records, which were preferred through the pleadings before this court, are evident that the State Government was in a continuous process of undertaking steps for regularization of the services of the petitioners including the other identically situated employees of the 'centralised services department' and therefore, the directions cannot be gone into aloof. So far as the allegation of deliberate defiance is raised by the petitioners, the fact remains that the petitioners were not adhoc employees and further from perusal of the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992, it is also apparent that the writ court was cautious enough regarding variations of the posts falling under the purview of the U.P. Public Service Commission and outside of the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission and therefore, as on immediate direction, it is observed that 'if the posts are not within the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission, the opposite party will regularize the services of the petitioners, within the said period.' This clearly shows that the exercise and steps, which are necessarily to be carried out, were in the knowledge of the writ court and the writ court could not have speculated that number of litigations would be instituted in future and which will cause delay in exercise of regularization proceedings.

30. The Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 was assailed in Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993, wherein an interim order was passed and the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 was stayed and the Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993 was finally decided on 30-10-2017, on the statement of the appellants that the special appeal has been rendered infructuous, though no objection was ever raised by the counsel for the petitioners at that point of time.

31. If the petitioners are taking a stand that the exercise of preparing the select list was carried out vide order dated 22-07-1997, wherein the names of the petitioners also find place, but, the same was never challenged by them, which shows that principally the petitioners, were satisfied that some exercises are being done for regularization of their services, but, as soon as the order dated 22-07-1997 was found as unsustainable by Hon'ble Single Judge in the writ petitions, the petitioners immediately ran to challenge the same by way of instituting special appeals and ultimately, they succeeded and thereafter, the exercise was done and admittedly, their services were regularized in the year 2003.

32. Further there was no provision under 20-A of the Rules, 1985 regarding regularisation of daily wage or muster roll employee against the post comes under purview of U.P. Public Service Commission and therefore, the Rules were amended vide 7th Amendment, 2001 and thereafter, the regularization exercise became possible, particularly, with respect to the petitioners, which indicates the earnest efforts of the State, regarding compliance of the order of the writ court.

33. This court is also aware that the interim order passed in Special Appeal No. 39 of 1993, wherein the Judgment and Order dated 19-08-1992 was stayed for quite long time and that could only be dismissed in the year 2017, when the statement was given by the appellants that the same has become infructuous.

34. When this court examines the matter on its facts and law that whether there is any deliberate or wilful disobedience on the part of the opposite parties? it borne out that there was no rule or regulation with respect to regularization of the services of the petitioners as they were not appointed on adhoc basis but, they were working as work-charge or daily wages and therefore, regularization of their services could have been done after the amendment in the rules and the petitioners have failed to substantiate that no exercise or any steps are taken or carried out, for regularization of their services. Number of letters were written by the State Government to the U.P. Public Service Commission, by the time of preparation of the select list and the effort of the State Government is apparent regarding substantive exercise for regularizing the services of the petitioners.

35. The petitioners have also failed to substantiate that the opposite parties have intentionally not considered the claim for regularization of their services and they have also failed to demonstrate that the exercises, which were being carried out by the State Government including the preparation of select list dated 22-07-1997 as well as the litigations challenging the action of the State Government while proceeding with the regularization of the services of the petitioners, were not in their knowledge.

36. While the direction in the order dated 19.08.1992, the words 'taking steps' is said meaningfully, as the same clearly encapsulates the intention and cautiousness of the writ court regarding the time taking process of regularization. At the same time, the writ court was also cautious enough regarding the nature of the posts, which are under the purview of U.P. Public Service Commission and therefore, the time which was consumed either in several set of litigations or in the exercises done to ease out the process of regularization, enough to show that the element of deliberate or intentional disobedience is missing in the present matter.

37. It is trite law that the willful and deliberate defiance of the order is pivotal aspect in so far as adjudicating the contempt proceedings against a contemnor. It is the factual matrix, which can be interpreted and looked into, to come to a final conclusion that is there any intention of the alleged contemnor to commit defiance of any order or direction passed by the court. If in a case, the contemnor succeeds to demonstrate that if a particular time or period prescribed for compliance of the Judgment and Order is disobeyed for some reasonable causes or those were not within the approach of such contemnor or such disobedience is the out-come of some compelling circumstances which created impossibility for the contemnor to comply with the order, the same cannot be termed as wilful or deliberate contempt, though this could be considered on the facts of each and every case. Hon'ble Apex Court has also considered the issue with respect to wilful and deliberate contempt in the case of Rama Narag Vs. Ramesh Narang and Others, Contempt Petition (Civil) No. 92 of 2008, Kunwar Singh Saini Vs High Court of Delhi, 2012(4) SCC 307 and 1994(6)SCC 332 and the case of the contemnors/opposite parties is squarely covered with the ratio of the Judgment abovesaid.

38. In view of abovesaid submissions and discussions, no contempt is made out against the contemnors/opposite parties. Consequently, the contempt notices are hereby discharged.

39. The contempt petition is dismissed accordingly.

40. Consigned to records.

Criminal Law - Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 - Sections 13, 14, 17 & 32 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 420, 120-B - Registration Act, 1908 - Section 82 - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226

- Petitioners challenged FIR dated 22.07.2023 alleging fraudulent transfer of property under SARFAESI Act, claiming it was a civil dispute and an abuse of process. Court held: (1) FIR filed by defaulter-borrower company, after failing to secure relief against SARFAESI proceedings in multiple forums, was an attempt to scuttle lawful auction of secured asset (Plot No. 9, Ahinsakhand, Ghaziabad) (K. Virupaksha Vs St. of Karn., (2020) 4 SCC 440). (2) Issues regarding valuation, auction legality, or alleged encroachment beyond transferred property are civil in nature, exclusively triable by Debt Recovery Tribunal (DRT) under Section 17 of SARFAESI Act, not through criminal proceedings (Indian Overseas Bank Vs Ashok Saw Mill, (2009) 8 SCC 366). (3) Section 32 of SARFAESI Act protects actions taken in good faith by secured creditors, barring prosecution unless mala fides are established (Priyanka Srivastava Vs St. of U.P., (2015) 6 SCC 287). (4) Vague allegations of encroachment without specifics and absence of Section 441 I.P.C. charge rendered FIR unsustainable, as criminal proceedings cannot override DRT's jurisdiction. (5) Allowing FIR would enable defaulters to misuse criminal process to challenge SARFAESI actions, undermining legislative intent of specialized tribunals. FIR quashed; petitions allowed. 1. Petitioners have invoked the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, challenging the First Information Report lodged against them on 22.07.2023, registered as Case Crime No.611 of 2023, under Sections 420, 120-B of IPC and Section 82 of Registration Act, 1908, Police Station - Kavi Nagar, District – Ghaziabad. It is urged that the FIR is maliciously instituted in respect of a civil dispute and is thus an abuse of the process of law. It is also urged that the first informant has lodged the FIR on behalf of the borrower company, which undertook loan and defaulted in its repayment, on account of which proceedings were initiated in accordance with the provisions of Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as the 'SARFAESI Act'). Borrower company since has failed to seek any protection before the competent forum, in respect of coercive proceedings under the SARFAESI Act, it has lodged the impugned FIR with the intent to pressurize the finance company as well as auction purchaser to withdraw lawful actions initiated against the borrower/defaulters. Prayer accordingly is made to quash the aforesaid FIR.

2. We have heard Sri Gopal S. Chaturvedi and Sri Siddharth Agarwal (through VC), learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Dhruv Kapur, Sri Debashish Chauhan, Sri Varad Nath, Sri Rajan Kohli, Sri Divya Lamba, Sri Maharshi Kaler and Sri Chiranjivi Sharma (through VC), Advocates for the petitioners in Writ Petition No. 11838 of 2023; Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Raghav Dwivedi, Advocate for the petitioner in Writ Petition No. 11837 of 2023 and Sri Syed Imran Ibrahim, learned counsel for the first informant/respondent no. 3 and Sri J.K. Upadhyaya and Sri Pankaj Kumar, learned AGA for the State and perused the materials on record.

3. The writ petition was entertained and despite the matter being deferred on different occasions no counter affidavit has been filed in the matter. When the matter was taken last on 14th March, 2024, following orders were passed:-

“Learned State Counsel as well as Sri Syed Imran Ibrahim, learned counsel appearing for the private respondents pray for and are allowed three weeks and no more time to file counter affidavit. Rejoinder affidavit may be filed within one week thereafter.

4. Though a stop order was passed granting last opportunity to the informant and the State to file a counter affidavit the respondents have not chosen to file any counter affidavit in the matter so far. Since opportunity to file counter affidavit has not been availed, we proceed with the hearing of the matter treating the averments made in the writ petition to be correct by applying the doctrine of non-traverse.

5. The first informant i.e. respondent no.3 claims to be a resident of District Ghaziabad and authorized representative of M/s Shipra Hotel Private Limited, a company registered under the Companies Act. Allegation in the first information report is that Plot No. 9, Ahinsakhanda, Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad is owned by M/s Shipra Hotel Private Limited on which a Shipra Mall was constructed, which has been fraudulently and unauthorizedly transferred to the owners of M/s Himri Estate Pvt. Ltd. namely, Sumit Kumar Narwar through its authorized representative Rajeev Goel, by Smt. Reena Bagga, authorized representative of M/s India Bulls Housing Finance Limited on 12.5.2023 by way of a registered transfer deed for a consideration of Rs.551 crores, although its value is Rs.2000 crores so as to cause financial loss to the U.P. Government. It is also alleged that Sumit Kumar Narwar by exercising undue influence and extending threats has got the agreement entered into between Shipra Mall and Shipra Estate and other companies cancelled. The FIR further recites that a securitization appeal raising such issue is pending before the Debt Recovery Tribunal at Lucknow. It is also alleged that in addition to the property kept as mortgaged certain other property has also been encroached by M/s Himri Estate Private Limited, though such property was not specifically kept as mortgage with M/s India Bulls Pvt. Ltd. Allegations are also made that the accused persons are influential and despite a complaint made to the concerned Police Station Incharge no action has been taken and, therefore, request has been made to the Chief Minister of the State of U.P. to take appropriate steps to ensure justice for the informant.

6. The first information report is challenged by the two petitioners namely M/s Himri Estate Private Limited and its officer-bearers (hereinafter referred to as the 'auction purchasers') as well as Smt. Reena Bagga authorized representative of M/s India Bulls Housing Finance Limited as well as M/s India Bulls Housing Finance Limited a non-banking finance company limited incorporated under the provisions of the Indian Companies Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Finance Company').

7. The petitioners state that Plot No. 9, Ahinsakhanda, Indirapuram, District – Ghaziabad, on which Shipra Mall was established by M/s Shipra Hotel Private Limited, was kept as mortgage with the Finance Company in lieu of loan availed by M/s Shipra Hotel Private Limited and its sister concerns (hereinafter referred to as the 'borrower') of approximately Rs.2000 crores. It is asserted that the borrower company has defaulted in repayment of loan amount to the finance company. It is thereafter that the finance company proceeded to recover its dues from the assets of the borrower company, which were kept as mortgage, for securing the loan.

8. According to petitioners about 16 loan agreements were entered into between the finance company and the borrower company details whereof are mentioned in para 30 of writ petition no. 11837 of 2023. It is also asserted in para 33 of the said petition that in order to secure the loan amount the borrower company has kept various assets as mortgage with the finance company which included Plot No. 9, Ahinsakhanda, Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad on which exists the Shipra Mall.

9. It is further stated that on account of default in repayment of loan by borrower company, proceedings were initiated under the SARFAESI Act with issuance of a notice under Section 13(2) of the SARFAESI Act on 28.7.2021 in respect of the property in question i.e. Plot No.9, Ahinsakhanda, Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad. This notice was acknowledged by the borrower company vide its reply dated 25.9.2021. Jurisdiction under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act was then invoked by the competent authority who passed an order on 30.5.2022 permitting taking of possession of the property in question i.e. Plot No.9, Ahinsakhanda, Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad.

10. Action taken under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act was challenged by the borrower company by filing writ petition no. 22594 of 2022 before this Court. A Co-ordinate Bench by a detailed judgment dismissed the writ petition on 25th November, 2022. Aggrieved by this order, the M/s Shipra Hotels Limited and another approached the Hon'ble Supreme Court by filing Special Leave Petition (Civil) No. 40574 of 2022, which was dismissed as withdrawn on 28th February, 2023, vide following orders:-

"1. Upon being mentioned, taken on board.

2. Mr Sajan Poovayya, senior counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners, states that the petitioners are advised to withdraw the Special Leave Petition so as to pursue the alternate remedy which is available under the provisions of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act 2002 before the Debts Recovery Tribunal.

3. Since the Special Leave Petition is not pressed, we clarify that this Court has not expressed any opinion on the merits.

4. The Special Leave Petition is dismissed as withdrawn.”

11. The borrower company also invoked arbitration proceedings and an order came to be passed by the learned arbitrator on 30.8.2022 staying the auction proceedings initiated by the finance company. This order was challenged before the Delhi High Court in arbitration appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. The appeal was allowed by the Delhi High Court on 21st February, 2023. The Delhi High Court set aside the order passed by the Arbitrator and allowed the auction proceedings to proceed as per law.

12. The order of Delhi High Court was then challenged by the borrower company before the Supreme Court and the SLP was withdrawn vide following orders on 24.4.2023:-

“1. Mr CA Sundaram, senior counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner seeks liberty to withdraw the Special Leave Petition on the ground that the petitioner has been advised to pursue its remedies under the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act.

2. The Special Leave Petition is dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to pursue remedies under the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act.”

13. Our attention has been invited by Sri Anoop Trivedi appearing for the petitioner in writ petition no. 11837 of 2023 to the assertions made in para 12 of the writ petition which refers to various steps taken by M/s Shipra Hotel for challenging the proceedings initiated under the SARFAESI Act. For the sake of convenience we reproduce the chart contained in para 12 of the writ petition:-

14. Various steps in accordance with the provisions of the SARFAESI Act were then undertaken by the finance company against the borrower company in respect of property in question. Notice of sale in terms of Rule 8(6) read with Rule 9(1) and its proviso to the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002 was issued lastly on 8.4.2023. E-auction notice was published in newspaper on 11.4.2023 in respect of Plot No.9, Ahinsakhanda, Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad (excluding specified shops on lower ground floor and first floor) under the Rules framed under the SARFAESI Act. It is asserted that pursuant to these lawful proceedings initiated under the SARFAESI Act the property popularly known as Shipra Mall has been transferred by the finance company in favour of M/s Himri Estate Private Limited (the auction purchaser). The petitioners have also brought on record the sale certificate issued in favour of the auction purchaser on 10.5.2023. It is also pointed out that the proceedings initiated under the SARFAESI Act have been challenged by the defaulter-borrower company by instituting Securitization Application No. 906 of 2022 and the same is engaging attention of DRT at Lucknow. It is submitted that lawful proceedings initiated under the SARFAESI Act cannot be assailed at the instance of a defaulter by lodging an FIR as the same amounts to an abuse of the process of law.

15. So far as the allegation in the FIR with regard to petitioners having encroached upon other property of M/s Shipra Group is concerned, it is argued vehemently on behalf of the petitioners that neither the property allegedly encroached upon has been specified, nor any details in that regard have been mentioned. It is submitted that the auction purchaser has taken possession of the properties of the borrower on Plot No.9, Ahinsakhanda, Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad popularly known as Shipra Mall. It is pointed out that there is no allegation of trespass and the FIR has not even been registered under Section 441 IPC. Contention is that in the absence of any details furnished in the FIR with regard to the property allegedly encroached upon it would not be open for the petitioners to effectively controvert such vague allegations. It is nevertheless asserted that the petitioners have not encroached upon any land and its possession is restricted only to the property which has been validly obtained in public auction, for lawful consideration, under the provisions of the SARFAESI Act.

16. The first information report in the present case has been lodged by the first informant on behalf of the defaulter-borrower company i.e. M/s Shipra Group. The assertions made in the writ that finance to the tune of Rs. 2000 crores has been availed by the borrower company from the finance company i.e. petitioner no.2, in Writ Petition No.11837 of 2023, remains undisputed. The further assertion that the borrower company i.e. M/s Shipra Group has failed to repay the loan availed from the finance company i.e. M/s India Bulls Housing Finance Ltd. equally remains undisputed. Records further reveal that on account of failure on part of the borrower company to repay the loan availed by it various steps have been taken by the finance company i.e. M/s India Bulls Housing Finance Ltd. by invoking the provisions of the SARFAESI Act. A notice under Section 13(2) of the SARFAESI Act has been issued on 28.7.2021. This notice is followed with steps taken under Section 13(4) of the Act. Auction notices have also been issued pursuant to which the property identified as Plot No. 9, (except specified shops on the lower ground floor and first floor) has been transferred by the finance company i.e. M/s India Bulls Housing Finance Ltd. to M/s Himri Estate Private Limited. Sale certificate is also on record, which would go to show that the property has been transferred on a consideration of Rs. 551 crores. Stamp duty has also been paid of Rs. 38,57,00000/-. It is otherwise acknowledged by the informant that action taken under the SARFAESI Act resulting in transfer of property in question to M/s Himri Estate (auction purchaser) is subject matter of challenge in Securitization Application No. 906 of 2022.

17. It is also reflected from the materials placed on record that repeated attempts of the defaulter-borrower company M/s Shipra Hotel Limited to assail the ongoing auction proceedings before the competent forum, where such issues can be examined, have not succeeded, so far. The matter is otherwise sub-judice before the Debt Recovery Tribunal at Lucknow. It is in this context that this Court is required to consider as to whether proceedings initiated under the SARFAESI Act, 2002 culminating in auction of secured assets can be questioned by lodging an FIR?

18. Records reveal that the secured asset i.e. Plot No.9, Ahinsakhand, Indirapuram, District Ghaziabad has been transferred to the auction purchaser M/s Himri Estate Pvt. Ltd. by the secured creditor M/s India Bulls Housing Finance Ltd. pursuant to the proceedings undertaken under the SARFAESI Act. Though the defaulter company has instituted various proceedings before different forums to stall the auction proceedings but without any success. The matter is otherwise pending before the competent forum i.e. the Debt Recovery Tribunal, Lucknow. Such auction proceedings conducted under the SARFAESI Act cannot be allowed to be challenged by lodging an FIR as it would amount to opening a new avenue for the defaulter to challenge the auction proceedings, which is not countenanced in law. We are, therefore, of the considered opinion that the FIR at the instance of the defaulter company on the allegations contained therein cannot be allowed to proceed any further as it would amount to an abuse of the process of law.

19. Once that be so, we fail to understand as to how a first information report can be lodged in respect of various transactions undertaken by the finance company culminating in transfer of property in question to the auction purchaser. We are, therefore, of the view that impugned FIR could not have been lodged at the instance of the defaulter company which is already contesting this matter before DRT at Lucknow. In the event we allow first information report of the present kind to be entertained, it would only enable the defaulter-borrower company getting another avenue to challenge the auction proceedings, on the pretext of criminal action, against the finance company or the auction purchasers.

20. The issue as to whether legality of the auction proceedings undertaken pursuant to SARFAESI Act could be questioned by lodging an FIR came to be examined by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in K. Virupaksha and Anr. vs. State of Karnataka and Anr. (2020) 4 SCC 440. The High Court of Karnataka repelled the challenge laid to the initiation of criminal action in respect of auction proceedings under the SARFAESI Act, at the instance of the defaulter-borrower. In appeal, the Supreme Court noticed the facts of the case in para 14 and after scrutinizing the scope of SARFAESI Act proceeded to hold that issues such as valuation of property or conduct of auction can be examined only in proceedings before the DRT. Consequently, the criminal proceedings initiated in respect of such issues came to be quashed. Para 14 to 18.1 of the judgment in Virupaksha (supra) are reproduced hereinafter:-

“14. The issue, however is, as to whether such proceedings by the police in the present facts and circumstances could be permitted. At the outset, the sanction of loan, creation of mortgage and the manner in which the sanctioned loan was to be released are all contractual matters between the parties. The complainant is an industrialist who had obtained the loan in the name of his company and the loan account was maintained by Canara Bank in that regard. The loan admittedly was sanctioned on 16-3-2009. When at that stage the amount was released and if any amount was withheld, the complainant was required to take appropriate action at that point in time and avail his remedy. On the other hand, the complainant had proceeded with the transaction, maintained the loan account until the account was classified as NPA on 15-1-2013. Initially, the issue raised was only with regard to the undervaluation of the property when it was brought to sale. On that aspect, as taken note, the writ proceedings were filed and the learned Single Judge having examined, though did not find merit had reserved liberty to raise it before DRT, which option is also availed. It is only, thereafter, the impugned complaint was filed on 20-5-2016.

15. The Sarfaesi Act is a complete code in itself which provides the procedure to be followed by the secured creditor and also the remedy to the aggrieved parties including the borrower. In such circumstance, as already taken note of by the High Court in writ proceedings, if there is any discrepancy in the manner of classifying the account of the appellants as NPA or in the manner in which the property was valued or was auctioned, DRT is vested with the power to set aside such auction at the stage after the secured creditor invokes the power under Section 13 of the Sarfaesi Act. This view is fortified by the decision of this Court in Indian Overseas Bank v. Ashok Saw Mill [Indian Overseas Bank v. Ashok Saw Mill, (2009) 8 SCC 366 : (2009) 3 SCC (Civ) 403] wherein it is held as hereunder : (SCC pp. 375-76, paras 34-37)

“34. The provisions of Section 13 enable the secured creditors, such as banks and financial institutions, not only to take possession of the secured assets of the borrower, but also to take over the management of the business of the borrower, including the right to transfer by way of lease, assignment or sale for realising secured assets, subject to the conditions indicated in the two provisos to clause (b) of sub-section (4) of Section 13.

35. In order to prevent misuse of such wide powers and to prevent prejudice being caused to a borrower on account of an error on the part of the banks or financial institutions, certain checks and balances have been introduced in Section 17 which allow any person, including the borrower, aggrieved by any of the measures referred to in sub-section (4) of Section 13 taken by the secured creditor, to make an application to the DRT having jurisdiction in the matter within 45 days from the date of such measures having taken for the reliefs indicated in sub-section (3) thereof.

36. The intention of the legislature is, therefore, clear that while the banks and financial institutions have been vested with stringent powers for recovery of their dues, safeguards have also been provided for rectifying any error or wrongful use of such powers by vesting the DRT with authority after conducting an adjudication into the matter to declare any such action invalid and also to restore possession even though possession may have been made over to the transferee.

37. The consequences of the authority vested in the DRT under sub-section (3) of Section 17 necessarily implies that the DRT is entitled to question the action taken by the secured creditor and the transactions entered into by virtue of Section 13(4) of the Act. The legislature by including sub-section (3) in Section 17 has gone to the extent of vesting the DRT with authority to even set aside a transaction including sale and to restore possession to the borrower in appropriate cases. Resultantly, the submissions advanced by Mr Gopalan and Mr Altaf Ahmed that the DRT has no jurisdiction to deal with a post-Section 13(4) situation, cannot be accepted.”

16. We reiterate, the action taken by the Banks under the Sarfaesi Act is neither unquestionable nor treated as sacrosanct under all circumstances but if there is discrepancy in the manner the Bank has proceeded it will always be open to assail it in the forum provided. Though in the instant case, the application filed by the complainant before DRT has been dismissed and Appeal No. 523 of 2015 filed before DRAT is also stated to be dismissed the appellants ought to have availed the remedy diligently. In that direction, the further remedy by approaching the High Court to assail the order of DRT and DRAT is also available in appropriate cases. Instead the petitioner after dismissal of the application before the DRT filed the impugned complaint which appears to be an intimidatory tactic and an afterthought which is an abuse of the process of law. In the matter of present nature, if the grievance as put forth is taken note of and if the same is allowed to be agitated through a complaint filed at this point in time and if the investigation is allowed to continue it would amount to permitting the jurisdictional police to redo the process which would be in the nature of reviewing the order passed by the learned Single Judge and the Division Bench in the writ proceedings by the High Court and the orders passed by the competent court under the Sarfaesi Act which is neither desirable nor permissible and the banking system cannot be allowed to be held to ransom by such intimidation. Therefore, the present case is a fit case wherein the extraordinary power is necessary to be invoked and exercised.

17. The appellants herein had also referred to the provision as contained in Section 32 of the Sarfaesi Act which provides for the immunity from prosecution since protection is provided thereunder for the action taken in good faith. The learned Senior Counsel for the complainant has in that regard referred to the decision of this Court in Army Headquarters v. CBI [Army Headquarters v. CBI, (2012) 6 SCC 228 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 88] to contend that the defence relating to good faith and public good are questions of fact and they are required to be proved by adducing evidence. Though on the proposition of law as enunciated therein there could be no cavil, that aspect of the matter is also an aspect which can be examined in the proceedings provided under the Sarfaesi Act. In a circumstance, where we have already indicated that a criminal proceeding would not be sustainable in a matter of the present nature, exposing the appellants even on that count to the proceedings before the investigating officer or the criminal court would not be justified.

18. In that view, for all the reasons stated above, we pass the following:

Order

18.1. The complaint bearing PC No. 389 of 2016 and the order dated 20-5-2016 passed therein as also FIR No. 0152 of 2016 insofar as the appellants herein are concerned stand quashed concerned."

21. In Priyanka Srivastava vs. State of U.P. (2015) 6 SCC 287 the Supreme Court considered the entertainment of application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. in respect of proceedings initiated under the SARFAESI Act. The Hon'ble Court emphasized that a separate procedure existed in respect of SARFAESI Act proceedings under the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 and, therefore, the Magistrate must show an attitude of care, caution and circumspection while entertaining application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Section 32 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 has been referred to and relied upon by the Court in para 32 and 33 of the judgment in Priyanka Srivastava (supra) which are reproduced hereinafter:-

"32. The present lis can be perceived from another angle. We are slightly surprised that the financial institution has been compelled to settle the dispute and we are also disposed to think that it has so happened because the complaint cases were filed. Such a situation should not happen.

33. At this juncture, we may fruitfully refer to Section 32 of the Sarfaesi Act, which reads as follows:-

"32. Protection of action taken in good faith.—No suit, prosecution or other legal proceedings shall lie against any secured creditor or any of his officers or manager exercising any of the rights of the secured creditor or borrower for anything done or omitted to be done in good faith under this Act."

In the present case, we are obligated to say that the learned Magistrate should have kept himself alive to the aforesaid provision before venturing into directing registration of the FIR under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. It is because Parliament in its wisdom has made such a provision to protect the secured creditors or any of its officers, and needless to emphasize, the legislative mandate has to be kept in mind."

22. We have carefully perused the allegations made in the impugned First Information Report which are in respect of transfer of secured asset in favour of auction purchaser by the secured creditor/finance company under the SARFAESI Act. Allegations that proceedings have not been lawfully undertaken or that the secured asset is undervalued are aspects which can only be examined in pending proceedings before the Debt Recovery Tribunal. The defaulter company has already approached the Supreme Court twice and such proceedings were withdrawn with liberty to approach the Debt Recovery Tribunal. The defaulter company has already approached the DRT, Lucknow where the matter is pending. Question as to whether the auction purchaser has exceeded its possession beyond the property transferred in auction purchase is also open for examination before the DRT, Lucknow. Such issues are otherwise civil in nature and cannot be allowed to be raised by lodging an First Information Report. Vague and unsubstantiated ancillary allegations made of encroachment, beyond the transferred secured asset, or alleged irregularity in conduct of auction etc. cannot be allowed to be raised by lodging an FIR and thereby vest jurisdiction in the police regarding civil issues which are required to be adjudicated exclusively by the DRT or the civil court. The tendency of the defaulter to invoke criminal proceedings for resisting coercive action under the SARFAESI Act has to be curbed. The Parliamentary vision of vesting exclusive jurisdiction in specialized tribunal viz DRT, in respect of banking transactions relating to loan, debt etc. has to be respected. Criminal proceedings cannot be pressed into action at the instance of defaulter to scuttle proceedings under the SARFAESI Act on issues exclusively triable by DRT.

23. For the reasons recorded above, these two petitions succeed and are allowed. The First Information Report, dated 22.07.2023, registered in Case Crime No.611 of 2023, under Sections 420, 120-B of IPC and Section 82 of Registration Act, 1908, Police Station - Kavi Nagar, District - Ghaziabad is quashed.

Criminal Law - Constitution of India, 1950 – Articles 21, 22 – National Security Act, 1980 – Section 3(2) & 3(3) – Habeas Corpus Petition – Preventive Detention – Distinction Between Public Order and Law and Order – Delay in Detention Order – Subjective Satisfaction of Detaining Authority – Single Offence Without Criminal History - The petitioner, Sandeep Yadav, challenged the detention order dated 17.05.2023 passed by the District Magistrate, Gonda, under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980 (NSA), seeking release through a habeas corpus petition filed by his brother. The detention stemmed from an FIR (Crime No. 008/2023) alleging that on 28.01.2023, the petitioner and an accomplice murdered Krishna Kumar Yadav, a teacher, inside his rented room in Gonda, after a dispute over money, under Sections 452, 302, 379 IPC, later expanded to Sections 449, 380, 411, 201

IPC, and Section 3/25 Arms Act. The SHO's report dated 12.05.2023 claimed the murder caused widespread fear, disrupted public order, and led to protests by the Teachers' Association, justifying detention due to the petitioner's bail application and potential for further crimes. The detention order was approved by the St. Government on 25.05.2023, and the petitioner's representations were rejected by the District Magistrate, St., Central Government, and the U.P. Advisory Board. Held: The petition was allowed, and the detention order quashed, as: (1) the murder, committed inside a private residence, was an isolated act against an individual, constituting a law and order issue, not a public order disturbance, per T. Devaki Vs Government of T.N., (1990) 2 SCC 456, and Gulab Mehra Vs St. of U.P., (1987) 4 SCC 302; (2) the absence of specific evidence showing societal impact or repercussions failed to justify the detention under Section 3(2) NSA, as the SHO's report lacked concrete details beyond general assertions; (3) the three-and-a-half-month delay between the incident (28.01.2023) and the detention order (17.05.2023), with the charge sheet filed on 27.04.2023, rendered the order punitive rather than preventive, snapping the live link between the act and detention, per Santosh Kumar Upadhyay Vs District Magistrate, Gonda, 2006 (1) LCrR 338; (4) the petitioner's lack of criminal history and the solitary nature of the offence did not support the detaining authority's subjective satisfaction that the petitioner would likely commit prejudicial acts if released on bail, per Manu Bhushan Roy Pradhan Vs St. of W.B., AIR 1973 SC 295; (5) the detaining authority's failure to apply judicial mind to the material, which lacked specificity on public order disruption, violated Articles 21 and 22, rendering the detention order a colorable exercise of power. The petitioner was ordered released unless required in other cases.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. Heard Shri R.P. Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned A.G.A. for the State/opposite party Nos. 2 to 4 and Mrs. Pooja Singh, learned counsel for the Union of India/opposite party No.1 and perused the record carefully.

2. This habeas corpus petition has been filed by detenu Sandeep Yadav, S/o Ram Dhani Yadav through his next friend/real brother Pradeep Yadav, assailing the detention order dated 17.05.2023, passed by the District Magistrate, Gonda/Detaining Authority, with prayer to release the petitioner on the ground that the detention order passed under the National Security Act, 1980 (herein after referred as the "Act of 1980") is illegal, arbitrary and bad in the eye of law.

3. The brief facts of the case are that, one Ram Kewal Yadav lodged an F.I.R. under Sections 452, 302, 379 IPC vide Crime No.008/2023, at Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Gonda against the petitioner and one unknown person, with contention that the son of informant, namely, Krishna Kumar Yadav, who was working as teacher in Janta Inter College, Itiyathok, Gonda and was residing in the house of Mohd. Sabir Ali on rent. On 28.01.2023 at about 7.35 P.M., he was taking rest in his rented accommodation, when accused Sandeep Yadav with one unknown person entered into the room of his son and started quarreling for demand of money. His son refused to give money, resultantly, the above Sandeep Yadav and his colleague struck the head of his son against the inner wall of the room many times, consequently, his son fell down and died on the spot. Thereafter, the accused persons snatched the money of his son and fled away.

4. On receiving information, the informant came from his village. The date and time of the occurrence has been shown as 28.01.2023, at 07.35 P.M. and the F.I.R. of the case lodged on 29.01.2023, at 4.30 A.M.

5. In furtherance of the F.I.R., the police came in action and arrested the accused Sandeep Yadav and his colleague Jagga @ Jawahar Mishra on 30.01.2023, at 10:10 A.M. During the course of investigation, on the basis of evidence collected, the Investigating Officer added Sections 449, 380, 411, 201 IPC and Section 3/25 Arms Act and after completion of investigation, submitted charge sheet against the accused Sandeep Yadav under Sections 302, 449, 380, 201, 411 IPC and Section 3/25 Arms Act on 27.04.2023. Accordingly, the trial of the case proceeded.

6. On 12.05.2023, the S.H.O., Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Gonda submitted a report to the Superintendent of Police, Gonda stating that the accused Sandeep Yadav on 28.01.2023, at 3.30 P.M. with intention to create terror, forcefully hit the head of Krishna Kumar Yadav against the wall of his room and after killing him mercilessly, took money from his pocket and fled away. Before the occurrence, the deceased Krishna Kumar Yadav was taking rest in his room at that time accused Sandeep Yadav along with his one colleague came at his room and demanded money. When the deceased refused to give money, the accused killed him brutally. At that time another tenant Km. Lucky Singh was present in her room. When she heard cry of the deceased Krishna Kumar Yadav, she made a call to brother of the deceased named Rahul Yadav from her mobile phone. Rahul Yadav told her to go in the room of his brother and see why he is crying. Rahul Yadav also made video call to Lucky Singh and saw the occurrence from the mobile phone of Lucky Singh, who peeked into the slightly open door of Krishna Kumar Yadav's room. She saw that Krishna Kumar Yadav was lying on the floor and the accused Sandeep Yadav was sitting on the chest of Krishna Kumar Yadav and was strangulating his neck with a Muffler and a colleague of Sandeep Yadav was catching hold the legs of Krishna Kumar Yadav.

Having seen the occurrence, the witness Lucky Singh fell in fear, returned back to her room and called an ambulance by dialing 108 from her room. Before ambulance reached, the accused persons fled away from the spot. The persons of the ambulance informed to the police immediately by dialing 112. The occurrence of murder took place in a densely populated area of the locality. As a consequence of aforesaid brutal murder, residents of Mohalla and businessmen of the market were instilled with fear and panick. All the residents of the locality locked themselves in their houses due to the brutal crime. They did not dare to come out of their houses even to purchase articles of their daily use. Simultanelusly, the public order got affected badly in the area. The businessmen shut down shutters of their shops and there was an eerie silence in the area and market. As the S.H.O. of Police Station Kotwali Nagar, got information of the occurrence, he immediately infromed his higher authorities. The Circle Officer, Superintendent of Police, D.I.G., Devipatan Division, Gonda and the Additional Superintendent of Police, etc. reached the spot. They deployed sufficient police force after calling from the nearby police stations and police line of the district and made effort to restore public order. As a consequence of the occurrence, law and order along with the public order got completely disturbed.

7. He further mentioned that the office bearers of the Teachers Association also made Dharna-Pradarshan and submitted their representation to higher authorities enraged by the occurrence and they expressed their annoyance. Persons of the locality became fearful for their safety and security. The newspapers also published the news of the brutal murder and residents of the entire district were fearful for many days. Police authorities gave assurance to the people of the area that they would ensure that the accused may not be released from jail as the people were in apprehension that as the accused will be released on bail, he will try to influence the witnesses and may again commit heinous offences, like murder. The accused submitted his bail application in the Court of Session Judge on 08.05.2023, in which the date 18.05.2023 was fixed for its hearing and there was a high probability that his bail application will be allowed, hence, necessary action be taken to detain the accused under the Act of 1980.

8. The Circle Officer concerned in his letter to Superintendent of Police, Gonda dated 15.05.2023, expressed his consent on the report of S.H.O., Kotwali Nagar, Gonda and recommended to detain the accsued under the Act of 1980.

9. The Additional Superintendent of Police, Gonda also expressed his agreement with the letter of S.H.O., Police Station Kotwali Nagar, Gonda and gave consent to the report of Circle Officer, City, Gonda and requested to the Superintendent of Police, Gonda to detain accused under the Act of 1980 vide his letter dated 16.05.2023 to Superintendent of Police, Gonda.

10. The Superintendent of Police, Gonda considered the reports of S.H.O., Police Station Kotwali, Circle Officer and Additional Superintendent of Police, and requested the District Magistrate, Gonda by his letter dated 17.05.2023 to detain the accused/petitioner under the Act of 1980.

11. The District Magistrate, Gonda perused and considered the above reports as well as other related material/documentary evidence submitted by the police, which were collected by the Investigating Officer during the course of investigation of the case and after his subjective satisfaction that accused/petitioner has committed the heinous offence and as a result of the fearful and daring offence public order had been affected adversely in the locality. The act of accused was prejudicial to public order. He is a criminal minded and powerful person who has moved his bail application before Sessions Judge, Gonda and it's very likely he will be released on bail, there is a great apprehension that after release from jail, the accused/petitioner may again indulge in his criminal activities and may again commit any crime prejudicial to the maintenance of public order, hence the District Magistrate, Gonda passed the order dated 17.05.2023 to detain the petitioner/accused under Section 3 (2) of the Act of 1980.

12. Above detention order along with the grounds of detention and appended documentary evidences have been served to accsued, through Jail Superintendent, Gonda on the same date as he was under incarceration. The District Magistrate, Gonda also sent his report along with the detention order, grounds of detention and related documentary evidence to opposite party No.2 on 18.05.2023, the detentioin order was approved by the opposite party No.2 on 25.05.2023, i.e. between 12 days from the date of order of detention. The approval order of the State Government was received by the District Magistrate through radiogram on 25.05.2023 itself, which was served upon the petitioner on the same date in jail through opposite party No.4.

13. Opposite party No.2 further sent the copy of detention order, grounds of detention with appended documentary evidence as well as its approval to opposite party No.1, in accordance with the provisions of Section 3 (5) of the Act of 1980.

14. The petitioner against his detention under Section 3 (2) of the Act of 1980, submitted his representation dated 27.05.2023 to opposite party No.4, who transmitted it to opposite party No.3 on 27.05.2023 itself. Opposite party No.3, the District Magistrate, Gonda sent the copies of representation to opposite party No.1, 2 and the Advisory Board (detention), Lucknow promptly.

15. Opposite Party No.3 called the report from Superintendent of Police, Gonda on the representation of petitioner/accused. 28.05.2023 was Sunday holiday. Thereafter, on 29.05.2023, he received the report of Superintendent of Police, Gonda and after due consideration, he rejected the representation of accused/petitioner on 30.05.2023 and communicated his rejection order to detenue on same date through opposite party No.4.

16. The representation of the petitioner/accused sent by opposite party No.3 was received by concerned official of State Government on 01.06.2023 along with the letter of District Magistrate, Gonda dated 30.05.2023 and parawise comment on it. The State Government sent a copy of the representation along with parawise comments thereon to opposite party No.1

through speed post and to Advisory Board through special messenger vide its separate letters dated 01.06.2023. The concerned official of opposite party No.2 examined the representation on 02.06.2023. The joint Secretary also examined it on the same day. There was Saturday and Sunday on 03.06.2023 and 04.06.2023, hence the Special Secretary (Home) examined the representation on 05.06.2023. Subsequently, the Secretary (Home) and Principal Secretary (Home) Government of U.P., Lucknow, examined the same on 06.06.2023. Thereafter, the representation was submitted to the higher authorities for final order, who, after due consideration, rejected the same on 07.06.2023. The information of rejection was sent through telegram to opposite party No.3 on 08.06.2023. The said telegram was communicated to the petitioner/accused on same day through opposite party No.4.

17. The U.P. Advisory Board (Detention), Lucknow vide its letter dated 22.06.2023 informed the opposite party No.3 that the case of the petitioner would be taken up before the Board for hearing on 28.06.2023. Opposite party No.2 communicated the same through telegram/email dated 22.06.2023 to petitioner. On 28.06.2023, the petitioner personally appeared before the U.P. Advisory Board (Detention). The Board also, after due consideration, rejected the representation of the petitioner and submitted its report to the section of opposite party No.2 on 03.07.2023. The said order was also communicated to petitioner promptly.

18. Opposite party No.2 again considered the case of the petitioner after getting the report of U.P. Advisory Board under Section 11 of the Act of 1980 and extended the period of detention for 03 months from the date of detention and for communication sent the order vide telegram/letter dated 6th July, 2023, which (the telegram) was received by opposite party No.4 on 07.07.2023 and formal order on 13.07.2023. The aforesaid radiogram as well as formal order were served to the petitioner on 07.07.2023 and 13.07.2023 respectively.

19. The representation of petitioner along with report and parawise comments was received by official of opposite party No.1 on 09.06.2023. There was holiday on 10.06.2023 and 11.06.2023. Hence, the said representation was examined by officials of opposite party No.1 on 12.06.2023. Thereafter, the representation was examined by Under Secretary and Deputy Secretary on 13.06.2023, by Additional Secretary on 14.06.2023, and on the same day, i.e. on 14.06.2023, opposite party No.1 rejected the representation after due consideration. Thereafter, the file was returned through proper channel and reached the concerned section on 16.06.2023, who, by wireless message dated 16.06.2023, informed the above rejection order, which was also served to petitioner.

20. From the perusal of counter affidavits of opposite party No.1 to 4, it transpires that the detention order dated 17.05.2023 was communicated to the petitioner on the same day along with grounds of detention and annexed documents. Thereafter, the detention order was confirmed by the State Government within the period prescribed by the Statute. The representations of accused/petitioner were also decided by the opposite party Nos.1, 2 and 3 as well as by the Advisory Board (Detention), Lucknow, and communicated the decisions to petitioner with due promptness. No violation of any provision of the Act of 1980 has been found in disposal of representation as well as communication of aforesaid decisions to petitioner.

21. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that according to provisions of Section 3 (2) of the Act of 1980, the accused can be detained under the Act, when there is an apprehension of disturbance of public order. In present case, as according to the F.I.R., the offence was committed by the accused/petitioner within the four walls of a residential house. According to the prosecution story there may be a situation of disturbance of "law and order" but there was no disturbance in "public order", hence, the provisions of Section 3 (2) of the Act, 1980 has been slapped on accused illegally and without any basis. Petitioner has no criminal history. Learned counsel for petitioner further submitted that order of preventive detention has been passed against petitioner after approximately 3 and 1/2 months after the date of occurrence, i.e. on stale grounds, that too, on a solitary criminal case. At the time of passing of detention order, the petitioner was in jail. The detaining authority failed to consider essential ingredients of Section 3 of the Act, 1980 for his subjective satisfaction, therefore, the impugned order is against Article 21 and 22 of the Constitution.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner, in support of his arguments, has placed reliance upon the following case laws :-

(i) Shiv Kumar @ Mukhiya Vs. State of U.P. , [2015 (3) JIC 92 (All)]

(ii) Mrs. T. Devaki v. Government of Tamil Nadu and others, (1990) 2 SCC 456

(iii) Gulab Mehra Vs. State of U.P. and others (1987) 4 SCC 302

(iv) Bharat Lal Tewari Vs. State of U.P. & others [Habeas Corpus Petition No.12782 of 1988, decided on 17.02.1989]

(v) Manu Bhushan Roy Pradhan Vs. State of West Bengal and others, AIR 1973 SC 295.

(vi) Islamuddin Vs. The State, 1991, L.Cr.R 27

(vii) Ram Bharose Yadav Vs. District Magistrate, Deoria & Ors., [2004 (2) JIC 116 (All)]

(ix) Pahadi @ Shiv Shanker Verma Vs. State of U.P. and others [Writ Petition No.670(H.C.) of 2003, decided on 27.07.2004]

(x) Waseem Vs. State of U.P. and others, L.Cr.R 225 and in the case of Ram Singh Vs. District Magistrate, Lucknow and others, 1985 L.L.Journal 335

23. The counsel for the opposite parties vehemently opposed the writ petition and submitted that accused is a criminal minded person; he has committed the murder of a Government teacher brutally; as a consequence of daring and fearless act of petitioner, public order in the area got disturbed badly. The detaining authority considered the police report properly and after his subjective satisfaction that the act of petitioner was prejudicial to maintenance of public order detention order has been passed by the District Magistrate. Petitioner was likely to be released on bail and there was great apprehension that after release on bail he may commit heinous crimes and acts against the maintenance of public order as well, therefore, petitioner has rightly and legally been detained under the Act of 1980 by the opposite party No.3.

24. Learned counsel for the opposite parties relied upon following case laws in support of their arguments :-

(i) Malwa Shaw Vs. State of West Bengal, (1974) 4 SCC 127

(ii) Ibrahim Nazeer Vs. State of Tamil Nadu & another, AIR 2006 SC 3606

(iii) Veeramani Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (1994) 2 SCC 337

25. We have considered the arguments of both the sides and have also perused the records.

26. According to the facts of the case the petitioner had caused the murder of Krishna Kumar Yadav on 28.01.2023. As a consequence of the offence the residents and business persons of the area became fearful and terrorised. The public order and tranquility got disturbed badly. The petitioner who was arrested in connection with the aforesaid offence on 30.01.2023 was trying to be released on bail. Knowing about it, the general public again got panicked. There was a great apprehension that after release on bail the petitioner will again indulge in criminal acts and act prejudicial to public order and peace, hence District Magistrate, Gonda/detaining authority passed the order on 17.05.2023 to detain him under the provisions of the Act of 1980.

27. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the murder of a single person took place inside the room. The offence was committed by accused neither in day light, nor in public view. Lucky Singh is a planted witness. Trial is still pending. The petitioner was not known criminal. He was having no criminal history. Hence, there was no situation of disturbance in public order; maximum, as a result of offence, there would have been adverse effect on law and order situation of the area.

28. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of T. Devaki v. Government of Tamil Nadu and others, (1990) 2 SCC 456, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that :

“18. The question which falls for consideration is whether single incident of murderous assault by the detenu and his associates on the Minister at the Seminar held at Dry Chilly Merchants' Association Kalai Arangam Hall was prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. Any disorderly behaviour of a person in the public or commission of a criminal offence is bound to some extent affect the peace prevailing in the locality and it may also affect law and order problem but the same need not affect maintenance of public order. There is basic difference between 'law and order' and 'public order', this aspect has been considered by this Court in a number of decisions, see: Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar; Pushkar Mukherjee v. The State of West Bengal, and Shymal Chakraborty v. Commissioner of Police. In these cases it was emphasised that an act disturbing public order is directed against individuals which does not disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public peace and tranquillity. It is the degree of disturbance and its effect upon the life of the community in the locality which determines the nature and character of breach of public order. In Arun Ghosh v. State of West Bengal, [1970] 3 SCR 288 the Court held that the question whether a man has only committed a breach of law and order, or has acted in a manner likely to cause disturbance of the public order, is a question of degree and the extent of the reach of the act upon the society. This view was reiterated in Nagendra Nath Mondal v. State of West Bengal; Sudhir Kumar Saha v. Commissioner of Police, Calcutta; S.K. Kedar v. State of West Bengal; Kanu Biswas v. State of West Bengal; Kishori Mohan v. State of West Bengal, and Amiya Kumar Karmakar v. State of West Bengal.

19. In the instant case the detenu was placed under detention on the sole incident which took place on July 29, 1989 and in respect of which the detenu is facing criminal trial before a court of law. The alleged attempted murderous assault made by the detenu and his associates on Thiru Durai Murugan, Minister for Public Works Department may have been made on account of political rivalry. In fact, in his affidavit Thiru Durai Murugan has admitted that in the past the detenu had misbehaved with him even on the floor of the Legislative Assembly of Tamil Nadu while participating in discussion. The attempted assault took place in the hail of Dry Chilly Merchants' Association Kalai Arangam where two Ministers, a number of officials including the District Magistrate, as well as members of the public were present. It is alleged that the attempted murderous assault on Thiru Durai Murugan created scare and a feeling of insecurity in the minds of the persons present in the hail and the detenu's action interrupted the "proceedings of the Seminar for a while" (emphasis supplied). This shows that the detenu's activity disturbed the proceedings of the Seminar for a while but the Seminar appears to have continued later on. The incident did not and could not affect public peace and tranquillity nor it had potential to create a sense of alarm and insecurity in the locality. How could a single murderous assault on the Minister concerned at the Seminar could prejudicially affect the even tempo of the life of the community? No doubt in paragraph 4 of the grounds the detaining authority has stated that by committing this grave offence in public, in broad day light, the detenu created a sense of alarm, scare and a feeling of insecurity in the minds of the public of the area and there by acted in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order which affected even tempo of life of the community. Repetition of these words in the ground are not sufficient to inject the requisite degree of quality and potentiality in the incident in question. A solitary assault on one individual can hardly be said to disturb public peace or place public order in jeopardy so much as to bring the case within the purview of the Act. Such a solitary incident can only raise a law and order problem and no more. Moreover, there is no material on record to show that the reach and potentiality of the aforesaid incident was so great as to disturb the normal life of the community in the locality or it disturbed general peace and tranquillity. In the absence of such material it is not possible to hold that the incident at the seminar was prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. In Manu Bhusan Roy Prodhan v. State of West Bengal, this Court held that a solitary assault on one individual, which may well be equated with an ordinary murder which is not an uncommon occurrence, can hardly be said to disturb public peace and its impact on the society as a whole cannot be considered to be so extensive, widespread and forceful as to disturb the normal life of the community, thereby shaking the balanced tempo of the orderly life of the general public. The Court held that the detention order which had been made for preventing the petitioner from acting in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order, was not sustainable in law. On a careful consideration of the matter in all its aspects and having regard to the circumstances in which the alleged incident took place on 29.7.89, we are of the opinion that the solitary incident as alleged in the ground of detention is not relevant for sustaining the order of detention for the purpose of preventing the petitioner from acting in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order."

29. In the case of Gulab Mehra Vs. State of U.P. and others (1987) 4 SCC 302, the Hon'ble Apex Court on the basis of its previous decisions has explained the difference in "public order" and "law and order" situation as under :-

"12. The meaning of the word 'public order' has been determined by this Court in the case of Kanu Biswas v. State of West Bengal. In this case it has been held that the question whether a man has only committed a breach of law and order or has acted in a manner likely to cause a disturbance of the public order is a question of degree and the extent of the reach of the act upon the society. Public order is what the French call "order publique" and is something more than ordinary maintenance of law and order.

13. In the case of Haradhan Saha v. The State of West Bengal, this Court has observed that the following principles emerge from the judicial decisions : [SCC p.209, SCC (Cri) p. 827, para 341]

"First, merely because a detenu is liable to be tried in a criminal court for the commission of a criminal offence or to be proceeded against for preventing him from committing offences dealt with in Chapter VIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure would not by itself debar the Government from taking action for his detention under the Act.

Second, the fact that the police arrests a person and later on enlarges him on bail and initiates steps to prosecute him under the Code of Criminal Procedure and even lodges a first information report may be no bar against the District Magistrate issuing an order under the preventive detention.

Third, where the concerned person is actually in jail custody at the time when an order of detention is passed against him and is not likely to be released for a fair length of time, it may be possible to contend that there could be no satisfaction on the part of the detaining authority as to the likelihood of such a person indulging in activities which would jeopardise the security of the State or the public order.

Fourth, the mere circumstance that a detention order is passed during the pendency of the prosecution will not violate the order.

Fifth, the order of detention is a precautionary measure. It is based on a reasonable prognosis of the future behaviour of a person based on his past conduct in the light of the surrounding circumstances."

14. This has been followed in Kanchanlal Meneklal Chokshi v. State of Gujarat and others, wherein it has been observed that : [SCC pp.18-19, SCC (Cri) p.901, para 8]

"The ordinary criminal process is not to be circumvented or short circuited by ready resort to preventive detention. But, the possibility of launching a criminal prosecution is not an absolute bar to an order of preventive detention. Nor is it correct to say that if such possibility is not present to the mind of the detaining authority the order of detention is necessarily bad. However, the failure of the detaining authority to consider the possibility of launching a criminal prosecution may, in the circumstances of a case, lead to the conclusion that the detaining authority had not applied its mind to the vital question whether it was necessary to make an order of preventive detention. Where an express allegation is made that the order of detention was issued in a mechanical fashion without keeping present to its mind the question whether it was necessary to make such an order when an ordinary criminal prosecution could well serve the purpose, the detaining authority must satisfy the Court that question too was borne in mind before the order of detention was made. If the detaining authority fails to satisfy the Court that the detaining authority so bore the question in mind the Court would be justified in drawing the inference that there was no application of the mind by the detaining authority to the vital question whether it was necessary to preventively detain the detenu."

15. In the case of Dr Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar, it has been observed by this Court that :

"The contravention of law always affects order but before it can be said to affect public order, it must affect the community or the public at large. There are three concepts according to the learned Judge (Hidayatullah, J) i.e. "law and order", "public order" and 'security of the State' . It has been observed that to appreciate the scope and extent of each of them, one should imagine three concentric circles. The largest of them represented law and order, next represented public order and the smallest represented the security of the State. An act might affect law and order but not public order just as an act might affect public order but not the security of the State."

16. As observed in the case of Arun Ghosh v. State of West Bengal, [SCC pp.99-100, SCC (Cri) p.69, para 31 :

"Public order is the even tempo of the life of the community taking the country as a whole or even a specified locality. Disturbance of public order is to be distinguished from acts directed against individuals which do not disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public tranquility. It is the degree of disturbance and its effect upon the life of the community in a locality which determines whether the disturbance amounts only to a breach of law and order. Take for instance, a man stabs another. People may be shocked and even disturbed, but the life of the community keeps moving at an even tempo, however much one may dislike the act. Take another case of a town where there is communal tension. A man stabs a member of the other community. This is an act of a very different sort. Its implications are deeper and it affects the even tempo of life and public order is jeopardized because the repercussions of the act embrace large sections of the community and incite them to make further breaches of the law and order and to subvert the public order. An act by itself is not determinant of its own gravity. In its quality it may not differ from another but in its potentiality it may be very different."

17. This has been followed in the case of Nagendra Nath Mondal v. State of West Bengal, and Nandlal Roy v. State of West Bengal.

18. Thus from these observations it is evident that an act whether amounts to a breach of law and order or a breach of public order solely depends on its extent and reach to the society. If the act is restricted to particular individuals or a group of individuals it breaches the law and order problem but if the effect and reach and potentiality of the act is so deep as to affect the community at large and or the even tempo of the community that it becomes a breach of the public order.

19. In the case of S.K. Kedar v. State of West Bengal, this Court has observed that : [SCC p. 818, SCC (Cri) p.3, para 6]

"The question whether a person has only committed a breach of law and order or has acted in a manner likely to cause a disturbance of the public order is one of degree and the extent of the reach of the act upon the society. An act by itself is not determinative of its own gravity. In its quality it may not differ from another but in its potentiality it may be very different. Similar acts in different contexts affect differently law and order on the one hand and public order on the other. It is always a question of degree of the harm and its effect upon the community. Public order is the even tempo of the life of the community taking the country as a whole or even a specified locality. It is the degree of disturbance upon the life of the community which determines whether the disturbance amounts only to a breach of the law and order."

20. This Court has further observed in the case of Ashok Kumar v. Delhi Administration, while dealing with the distinction between "public order" and

"law and order" to which one of us is a party that : [SCC pp. 409-10, SCC (Cri) p. 457, para 13]

"The true distinction between the areas of 'public order' and 'law and order' lies not in the nature of quality of the act, but in the degree and extent of its reach upon society. The distinction between the two concepts of 'law and order' and 'public order' is a fine one but this does not mean that there can be no overlapping. Acts similar in nature but committed in different contexts and circumstances might cause different reactions. In one case it might affect specific individuals only and therefore touch the problem of law and order. The act by itself therefore is not determinant of its own gravity. It is the potentiality of the act to disturb the even tempo of the life of the community which makes it prejudicial to the maintenance of public order."

21. On a conspectus of all these decisions it has been observed by this Court in the case of State of U.P. v. Hari Shankar Tewari, that conceptually there is difference between law and order and public order but what in a given situation may be a matter covered by law and order may really turn out to be one of public order. One has to turn to the facts of each case to ascertain whether the matter relates to the larger circle or the smaller circle. An act which may not at all be objected to in certain situations is capable of totally disturbing the public tranquility. When communal tension is high, an indiscreet act of no significance is likely to disturb or dislocate the even tempo of the life of the community. An order of detention made in such a situation has to take note of the potentiality of the act objected to. Thus whether an act relates to law and order or to public order depends upon the impact of the act on the life of the community or in other words the reach and effect and potentiality of the act if so put as to disturb or dislocate the even tempo of the life of the community, it will be an act which will affect public order.

30. In the case of Bharat Lal Tewari Vs. State of U.P. & others [Habeas Corpus Petition No.12782 of 1988, decided on 17.02.1989], the co-ordinate bench of this court has marked the difference in “public order” and “law and order” in following words :

“7. The distinction between concept of “law and order” and “public order” is one of the degree and the extent of the reach of the act upon the society. Any contravention of law always affects order but before it could be said to affect ‘public order’ it must affect the community or the public at large. The true distinction between the words of “law and order” and “public order” (lies not merely in the nature or quality of the act but upon the degree and extent of its reach upon the society. If the act disturbs or dislocates the even tempo of the life of the community, it will be an act which will affect “public order” and not otherwise. To say in other words, the ratio of ‘public order’ and ‘law and order’ depends upon the impact of the act. If the impact of the act is confined to an individual only, it will be a matter of law and order while if the act will have any impact upon a large section of the community the act will fall within the realm of public order. This is a question of degree and the extent of the impact of the act upon the society which is vital. The public order embraces more of the community than law and order. One of the vital acts is to consider the effect of the act on the even tempo of the life of the community.

8. In this case the police had raided only Room No.10 in the Kesari Lodge and the petitioner fired one shot at the police when he was inside the said room and the second shot was fired by him just outside the Kesari Lodge in a blind lane from a pistol on an individual police officer. Therefore, it cannot be said that by the said act of the petitioner a large section of the community was affected or that the potentiality of the said act of the petitioner was such as would disturb the tranquility or dislocate the even tempo of the life of the community. The said act came within the domain of “law and order” and not “public order”.

31. The Hon’ble Apex Court in the case of Manu Bhushan Roy Pradhan Vs. State of West Bengal and others [Writ Petition No. 252 of 1972, decided on 31.10.1972] has held as under :

“7. In our view, ground no. 1 which does not mention the names details of the others along with whom the petitioner is alleged to have committed the assault, only refers to an assault on an individual named Bulu Das Gupta on April 16, 1971 which prima facie appears to raise only a law and order problem. In Arun Ghosh v. State of West Bengal, (1970) 3 SCR 288 = (AIR 1970 SC 1228) several instances of assaults were stated in the grounds of detention. Hidayatullah C.J. speaking for the Court observed in that case.

"The submission of the counsel is that these are stray acts directed against individuals and are not subversive of public order and therefore the detention on the ostensible ground of preventing him from acting in a manner prejudicial to public order was not justified. In support of this submission reference is made to three cases, of this Court : Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar, (1966) 1 SCR 709 = (AIR 1966 SC 740); Pushkar Mukherjee & Ors. v. State of West Bengal, (1969) 2 SCR = (AIR 1970 SC 852); and Shyamal Chakraborty v. The Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, (1970) 1 SCR 762 = (AIR 1970 SC 269). In Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia's case this Court pointed out the difference between maintenance of law and order and its disturbance and the maintenance of public order and its disturbance. Public order was said to embrace more of the community than law and order. Public order is the even tempo of the life of the community taking the country as a whole or even a specified locality. Disturbance of public order is to be distinguished from acts directed against individuals which do not disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public tranquillity. It is the degree of disturbance and its effect upon the life of the community in a locality which determines whether the disturbance amounts only to a breach of law and order. Take for instance, a man stabs another. People may be shocked and even disturbed, but, the life of the community keeps moving at an even tempo, however much one may dislike the act. Take another case of a town where there is communal tension. A man stabs a member of the other community. This is an act of a very different sort. Its implications are deeper and it affects the even tempo of life and public order is jeopardized because the repercussions of the act embrace large sections of the community and incite them to make further breaches if the law and order and to subvert the public order. An act by itself is not determinant of its, own gravity. In its quality it may not differ from another but in its potentiality it may be very different."

The learned Chief Justice, after referring to the lines of demarcation drawn by Ramaswami J., in W.P. 179 of 1968 between serious and aggravated forms of breaches of public order which affect the community or endanger the public interest at large and minor breaches of peace which do not affect the public at large, and after noting the analogy drawn by Ramaswami J., between public and private crimes, cautioned against that analogy being pushed too far, observing, that a large number of acts directed against persons or individuals may total up into a breach of public order. After referring to Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia's case (supra) the learned Chief Justice observed :

"It is always a question of degree of the harm and its effect upon the community. The question to ask is : Does it lead to disturbance of the current of life of the community so as to amount to a disturbance of the public order or does it affect merely an individual leaving the tranquillity of the society undisturbed? This question has to be faced in every case on facts. There is no formula by which one case can be distinguished from another."

This view was reaffirmed in Nagendra Nath Mondal v. The State of West Bengal (AIR 1972 SC 665), Sudhir Kumar Saha v. Commissioner of Police, Calcutta (1970) 3 SCR 360 = (AIR 1970 SC 814), S.K. Kader v. The State of West Bengal (AIR 1972 SC 1647), Kanu Biswas v. State of West Bengal (AIR 1972 SC 1656), Kishori Mohan v. State of West Bengal (AIR (1972) SC 1749 and Amiya Kumar Karmakar v. State of West Bengal, (W.P. 190 of 1972, D/- 31-7-1972) = (reported in AIR 1972 SC 2259).

the petitioner on Bulo Das Gupta. It shows neither the nature of the weapon used nor the nature or extent of the injuries inflicted, nor does it disclose as to how long after the assault the injured person died. The motive or the purpose of the assault is also not stated. This kind of a solitary assault on one individual, which may well be equated with an ordinary murder which is not an uncommon occurrence, can hardly be said to disturb public peace or place public order in jeopardy, so as to bring the case within the purview of, the Act. It can only raise a law and order problem and no more; its impact on the society as a whole cannot be considered to be so extensive, widespread and forceful as to disturb the normal life of the community thereby rudely shaking the balanced tempo of the orderly life of the general public. This ground is, therefore, not at all relevant for sustaining the order of detention for preventing the petitioner from acting in a manner prejudicial to, the maintenance of public order. Ground no. 2, however, is quite germane to the problem of maintenance of public order. But the question arises whether in the absence of ground no. 1 which, in our view, is wholly irrelevant, the detaining authority would have felt satisfied on the basis of the solitary ground no. 2 alone to make the impugned order. Can it be said that ground no. 1 is of a comparatively unessential nature so as not to have meaningfully influenced the decision of the detaining authority. Similar problem has faced this Court on a number of occasions and the decision has generally gone in favour of the detenu. This Court in Dr. Ram Krishan Bhardwaj v. The State of Delhi, 1953 SCR 708 = (AIR 1953 SC 318) laid down that the requirement that the grounds must not be vague must be satisfied with respect to each of the grounds. In Dwarka Das

Bhatia v. The State of Jammu & Kashmir, 1956 SCR 948 = (AIR 1957 SC 174) the principle deduced from the earlier decisions of this Court and also from the decision of the Federal Court in Keshav Talpade v. The King Emperor, 1943 FCR 88 = AIR 1943 FC 72 was stated thus :

"Where power is vested in a statutory authority to deprive the liberty of a subject on its subjective satisfaction with reference to specified matters, if that satisfaction is stated to be based on a number of grounds or for a variety of reasons, all taken together, and if some out of them are found to be non-existent or irrelevant the very exercise of that power is bad. That is so because the matter being one for subjective satisfaction, it must be properly based on all the reasons on which it purports to be based. If some out of them are found to be nonexistent or irrelevant, the Court cannot predicate what the subjective satisfaction of the said authority would have been on the exclusion of those grounds or reasons. To uphold the validity of such an order in spite of the invalidity of some of the reasons or grounds would be to substitute the objective standards of the Court for the subjective satisfaction of the statutory authority. In applying these principles however the Court must be satisfied that the vague or irrelevant grounds are such as, if excluded, might reasonably have affected the subjective satisfaction of the appropriate authority. It is not merely because some ground or reason of a comparatively unessential nature is defective that such an order based on subjective satisfaction can be held to be invalid. The Court while anxious to safeguard the personal liberty of the individual will not lightly interfere with such orders. It is in the light of these principles that the validity of the impugned order has to be judged." In Rameshwar Lal

v. State of Bihar, (1968) 2 SCR 505 = (AIR 1968 SC 1303) it was observed :

"Since the detenu is not placed before a Magistrate and has only a right of being supplied the grounds of detention with a view to his making a representation to the Advisory Board the grounds must not be vague or indefinite and must afford a real opportunity to make a representation against the detention. Similarly, if a vital ground is shown to be non-existing so that it could not have and ought not to have, played a part in the material for consideration, the court may attach some importance to this fact." In Motilal Jain v. State of Bihar (1968) 3 SCR 587 = (AIR 1968 SC 1509), a decision by a Bench of six Judges, after reviewing the earlier decisions, this Court expressed its view thus :

"The defects noticed in the two grounds mentioned above are sufficient to vitiate the order of detention impugned in these proceedings as it not possible to hold that those grounds could not have influenced the decision of the detaining authority. Individual liberty is a cherished right, one of the most valuable fundamental rights guaranteed by our Constitution to the citizens of this country. If that right is invaded, excepting strictly in accordance with law, the aggrieved party is entitled to appeal to the judicial power of the State for relief. We are not unaware of the fact that the interest of the society is no less important than that of the individual. Our Constitution has made provision for safeguarding the interests of the society. Its provisions harmonise the liberty of the individual with social interest. The authorities have to act solely on the basis of those provisions. They cannot deal with the liberty of the individual in a casual manner, as has been done in this case. Such an approach does not advance the true social interest. Continued indifference to individual liberty is bound to erode the structure of our democratic society."

32. With reference to acts prejudicial to maintenance of public order, Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ram Ranjan Chatterjee Vs. State of West Bengal, (1975) 4 SCC 143 has held as under :-

"8. It may be remembered that qualitatively, the acts which affect "law and order" are not different from the acts which affect "public order". Indeed, a state of peace or orderly tranquility which prevails as a result of the observance or enforcement of internal laws and regulations by the Government, is a feature common to the concepts of "law and order" and "public order". Every kind of disorder or contravention of law affects that orderly tranquility. The distinction between the areas of "law and order" and "public order" as pointed by this Court in Arun Ghosh v. State of West Bengal, "is one of degree and extent of the reach of the act in question on society". It is the potentiality of the act to disturb the even tempo of the life of the community which makes it prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. If the contravention in its effect is confined only to a few individuals directly involved as distinguished from a wide spectrum of the public, it would raise a problem of law and order only. These concentric concepts of "law and order" and "public order" may have a common "epicentre", but it is the length, magnitude and intensity of the terror wave unleashed by a particular eruption of disorder that helps distinguish it as an act affecting "public order" from that concerning "law and order"."

33. In view of the above decisions of Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court, it is apparent in the present case that why the accused/petitioner was demanding money from the deceased Krishna Kumar Yadav, has not been shown. Whether the money was borrowed or it was extortion money is not clear. The conclusion regarding motive of crime can be drawn after final decision of the trial of concerned criminal case. Whether there was any personal enmity or not is also a matter of merit of the trial. On the factual matrix the contention of the F.I.R. and the report of S.H.O. Police Station Kotwali Nagar, Gonda dated 12.05.2023 do not have similarity on certain facts although it is also the subject matter of the decision of the trial court, yet the material available on record shows that the occurrence took place against an individual person. The material available on record does not indicate that accused while returning from the place of occurrence after committing the offence had ever opened any fire in air or towards any person. The time of occurrence has been shown as 7.35 P.M. in the month of January when the sun sets quite early. The incident was committed inside the house by the accused. The deceased was a teacher in a government school, therefore, the protest/representation of the association of Teachers against the occurrence is a natural act. The deceased might have been the member of the Teachers Association and the Association might have submitted the representation regarding safety, security and arrest the accused. It can be seen commonly that in present society when the population is rising and the resources are limited, moral values and patience are reducing, greed for physical substance and luxury life is raising, therefore, heinous crimes in society are increasing frequently. In this scenario the occurrence of murder is not a rare incident. News papers contain news of occurrence of such criminal acts almost every day. Such a criminal act may be prejudicial to law and order but every crime cannot be termed as prejudicial act against public order. In the present case no specific consequences of offence of aforesaid murder has been shown in the report of S.H.O., Police Station Kotwali Nagar, Gonda as well as in the grounds of detention order.

34. The co-ordinate Bench of this Court has also in the case of Ram Bharose Yadav Vs. District Magistrate, Deoria & Ors., [2004 (2) JIC 116 (All)], held in paragraph 6 as under :-

“6. We have given thoughtful consideration to the rival submissions. In our opinion disturbance of this nature in such incidents are common in any area where they take place. There does not appear any disturbance to the public order of some lasting endure. It has no where been stated that the incident caused any Chakka jam, etc. organized by the public to show their repugnance to such an occurrence. Public order in itself is a phenomenon, which requires some substantive disturbance in the even tempo of the life of the society. In the region or in whole of the township where such an incident takes place, a temporary disturbance, as a consequence to these incidents, is a normal phenomenon and is most likely to occur. The shorter the life of such disturbance is the lower would be the degree of its potential to disturb the even tempo of the life of the society. This is one serious criterion to differentiate or to draw a wedge between the public order and the law and order. The mere allegation in the General Diary etc. That police force including Circle Officer and S.P. arrived at the spot soon after the occurrence is not sufficient indication of any serious disturbance to the public order. This is a routine and normal practice that senior officers to arrive at the scene of occurrence to supervise the investigation. Therefore, this mere fact does not lead to the conclusion that the incident had any potentiality to disturb the public order or the even tempo of the social life of the concerned area. Nothing serious has been pointed out except the above said fact to disturb the public order. At least no such incident was brought on record otherwise to amplify any such circumstance. We, therefore, see no force in the contention raised by learned A.G.A. In our opinion, the submission made by learned counsel for the petitioner has sufficient force and is accordingly accepted. From the facts it is evident that while passing the detention order the detaining authority lacked an application of mind to the facts and circumstances brought before him.”

35. The detention order against any person can be passed, according to the provisions of Section 3 of the Act, 1980, which reads as under :-

“3. Power to make orders detaining certain persons.—(1) The Central Government or the State Government may,-

(a) if satisfied with respect to any person that with a view to preventing him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the defence of India, the relations of India with foreign powers, of the security of India, or

(b) if satisfied with respect of any foreigner that with a view to regulating his continued presence in India or with a view to making arrangements for his expulsion from India, it is necessary so to do, make an order directing that such person be detained.

(2) The Central Government or the State Government may, if satisfied with respect to any person that with a view to preventing him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the security of the State or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of Public order or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community it is necessary so to do, make an order directing that such person be detained.

Explanation. - For the purposes of this sub-section, “acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community” does not include “acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies of commodities essential to the community” as defined in the explanation to sub-section (1) of Section 3 of the Prevention of Blackmarketing and Maintenance of Supplies of Essential Commodities Act, 1980 (7 of 1980), and accordingly, no order of detention shall be made under this Act on any ground on which an order of detention may be made under that Act.

(3) If, having regard to the circumstances prevailing or likely to prevail in any area within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a District Magistrate or a Commissioner of Police, the State Government is satisfied that it is necessary so to do, it may, by order in writing, direct, that during such period as may be specified in the order, such District Magistrate or Commissioner of Police may also, if satisfied as provided in sub-section (2), exercise the powers conferred by the said sub-section :

Provided that the period specified in an order made by the State Government under this sub-section shall not, in the first instance, exceed three months, but the State Government may, if satisfied as aforesaid that it is necessary so to do, amend such order to extend such period from time to time by any period not exceeding three months at any one time.

(4) When any order is made under this section by an officer mentioned in sub-section (3), he shall forthwith report the fact to the State Government to which he is subordinate together with the grounds on which the order has been made and such other particulars as, in his opinion, have a bearing on the matter, and no such order shall remain in force for more than twelve days after the making thereof unless, in the meantime, it has been approved by the State Government:

Provided that where under section 8 the grounds of detention are communicated by the officer making the order after five days but not later than ten from the date of detention, this sub-section shall apply subject to the modification that, for the words "twelve days", the words "fifteen days" shall be substituted.

(5) When any order is made or approved by the State Government under this section, the State Government shall, within seven days, report the fact to the Central Government together with the grounds on which the order has been made and such other particulars as, in the opinion of the State Government, have a bearing on the necessity for the order."

36. Accordingly, the following essential ingredients for application of Section 3 of the Act of 1980 came into light :-

(i) There should be subjective satisfaction of Central Government or the State Government or District Magistrate or a Commissioner of Police that –

(a) any person is acting in any manner

(b) prejudicial to defence of India, the relation of India with foreign power, of the security of State/India, or

(c) prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order, or to the maintenance of the supplies and services essential to the community, and

(d) there is necessity to prevent the person from doing the above prejudicial acts.

37. Under section 3 (3) of the Act of 1980, the District Magistrate or a Commissioner of Police (under delegation of power by State Government) may pass the written order to detain any person involved in a prejudicial act, after his subjective satisfaction. The words "law and order" have not been mentioned in Section 3 of the Act of 1980. The words "prejudicial to maintenance of public order" has meaning wider than the "maintenance of law and order."

38. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that the detention order has been passed on occurrence of single offence of murder. The petitioner has no criminal antecedent, therefore, in the light of the facts of the case, the decision of detaining authority to detain the petitioner under the provisions of the Act of 1980 was neither justified, proper nor in accordance with law. On the above point, learned counsel has referred some decisions of this Court. The co-ordinate Bench of this Court, in the case of Islamuddin Vs. The State, 1991, L.Cr.R 27 has held on the basis of dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court that :-

“16. In Manu Bhushan Roy Prodhon v. State of West Bengal, AIR 1973 SC 295, it was held that a solitary assault on an individual, which could well be equated with an ordinary murder, could hardly be said to disturb public peace. The Supreme Court further observed that its impact on the society as a whole could not be considered to be so extensive, wide spread and forceful as to disturb the normal life of the community.”

39. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed his argument that the date of occurrence has been shown as 28.01.2023 and the detention order has been passed on 17.05.2023, after approximately three and half months, which is illegal. In support of his argument he has submitted the decision of the co-ordinate bench of this Court in the case of Santosh Kumar Upadhyay Vs. District Magistrate, Gonda and others, 2006 (1) LCrR 338, wherein it has been held as under :-

“11. In the case in hand, the offence under Section 302, I.P.C. was committed on 13.8.2004 while the detention order was issued on 29.10.2004, i.e. more than 2-1/2 months after. No doubt, this was a heinous offence which might be said to have been committed but such act was not immediately considered to be as prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. Neither the detaining authority, nor the learned Counsel for the State could explain as to why there was a long delay of 2-1/2 months in issuing the detention order, if the act of the petitioner was prejudicial to the public safety and security in the vicinity. Therefore, we are of the considered view that the detention order is not based on sound rational and, as such, it stands vitiated.”

In the case of Pahadi @ Shiv Shanker Verma Vs. State of U.P. and others [Writ Petition No.670(H.C.) of 2003, decided on 27.07.2004], it has been held by co-ordinate bench of this Court as under :-

“6. A perusal of paragraph 12 of the affidavit of the detaining authority would show that since the petitioner-detenu had preferred a bail application before the Court of Special Judge, Gangster Act, Faizabad on 18.8.2003 the detaining authority was convinced that there was every likelihood of his being released on bail and consequently on 3.9.2003 clamped the impugned detention order on him. We are afraid, that a perusal of paragraph 12 of the return of detaining authority shows, that he has not comprehended the pleadings contained in paragraph 14 of the writ petition. Paragraph 12 of the return of the detaining authority shows that he was oblivious of the fact that the pleading in para 14 was that the unexplained delay of three months in the issuance of the detention order has vitiated it in the law.

7. We are afraid that this is a classic instance where the detaining authority has confused cheese with chalk.

8. For the aforesaid reasons, the pleading contained in paragraph 14 of the petition, in terms, that the impugned detention order was passed after an inordinate delay of over three months, resulting in the live link between the prejudicial activities of the petitioner-detenu and the rationale of clamping a detention order on him being snapped, thereby vitiating the impugned detention order, has been left unanswered in the return of the detaining authority. In our judgment the unexplained delay of three months in the issuance of the impugned detention order has brought about a three-fold results namely :-

(a) the live-link between the prejudicial activities of the petitioner-detenu and the rationale of clamping a detention order on him has been snapped.

(b) the bonafides of the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority to detain the petitioner-detenu vide the impugned detention order has been rendered suspect, and

(c) the impugned detention order lost its preventive purport and instead acquired a punitive character, defeating the very object of its issuance."

The same view has been taken by the co-ordinate bench of this Court in the case of Waseem Vs. State of U.P. and others, L.Cr.R 225 and in the case of Ram Singh Vs. District Magistrate, Lucknow and others, 1985 L.L.Journal 335.

40. On the point of delay in passing the order for preventive detention of accused learned counsel for the opposite parties have submitted that the dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in Malwa Shaw Vs. State of West Bengal, (1974) 4 SCC 127, Hon'ble Apex Court held that :

"2. Though at the commencement of the arguments three contentions were formulated by the learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner against the validity of the order of detention, two were given up when it became evident in the course of the discussion that they were wholly unfounded and ultimately only one contention was pressed by him on behalf of the petitioner.

He contended that all the three grounds on which the order of detention was made related to incidents alleged to have taken place between 5th October, 1971 and 31st October, 1971 and they could not reasonably form the basis for reaching a satisfaction on 21st April, 1972 when the order of detention was made, that the petitioner was acting in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community and with a view to preventing him from so acting, it was necessary to detain him. The argument was that the date when the order of detention was made was so far removed from the dates of the alleged incidents that no reasonable person, on the basis of the alleged incidents which took place about five months before, could possibly arrive at the satisfaction leading to the making of the order of detention. The satisfaction of the District Magistrate, which was the foundation of the making of the order of detention, was therefore no satisfaction at all and the order of detention based on it was invalid. This contention is without force and cannot be accepted. The District Magistrate has filed an affidavit in reply to the petition stating that he was satisfied on the basis of the incidents referred to in the grounds of detention that the petitioner was acting in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community and he had, therefore, passed the impugned order detaining the petitioner. Of course this statement made on oath by the District Magistrate merely affirms the recital made in the order of detention and like the recital, it can be shown to be incorrect. But when the District Magistrate has made a statement on oath, the burden would be heavy on the petitioner to show that what is stated by the District Magistrate is not correct. The petitioner would have to establish from the material on record that the District Magistrate could not possibly have arrived at the satisfaction which he claims to have done and that his satisfaction is colourable. Now the only circumstance on which the petitioner has been able to rest his case is the fact that the incidents referred to in the grounds of detention took place between October 5, 1971 and October 31, 1971 while the satisfaction which constitutes the foundation of the order of detention was arrived at by the District Magistrate on 21st April, 1972, more than five months after the date of the alleged incidents. But this circumstance cannot avail the petitioner. It is but a read of straw which cannot support the argument of the petitioner. The time lag between the dates of the alleged incidents and the making of the order of detention is not so large that it can be said that no reasonable person could possibly arrive at the satisfaction which the District Magistrate did on the basis of the alleged incidents. It must be remembered that some time is bound to elapse before the investigation into the alleged incidents is completed and the matter is brought to the notice of the District Magistrate and the District Magistrate applies his mind and arrives at the requisite satisfaction culminating in the order of detention. The period of about five months which elapsed between the dates of alleged incidents and the making of the order of detention cannot be regarded as so unreasonably long as to warrant the inference that no satisfaction was really arrived at by the District Magistrate or that the satisfaction was colourable or no satisfaction at all as required by the statute. The satisfaction which the District Magistrate is required to reach in order to support the order of detention is that it is necessary to detain the petitioner with a view to preventing him from acting in a particular manner and that satisfaction can obviously be founded only on a reasonably anticipated prognosis of future behavior of the petitioner made on the basis of past incidents. It is not possible to say that the incidents referred to in the grounds of detention were such that they could not reasonably lead to the satisfaction which the District Magistrate reached when he made the order of detention. This contention urged on behalf of the petitioner must, therefore, be rejected and the order of detention must be held to be valid.”

41. In above case, the accused was having criminal history of same kind of offence. The accused was involved in theft, which took place on different dates. The accused was involved in the theft of 1133 Mts. length of copper wire from the electric pole, which took place on 5/6.10.1971; 1070 Mts. of copper wire from the electric pole on 5/7.10.1971; theft of 805 Kg. of copper wire on 30/31.10.1971 which disturbed the community at large. The offence committed by the accused were of the similar nature and it has been found that as a result and repercussion of the offence, the normal life and routine of large number of people of the area was affected, accordingly the detaining authority applied his mind that accused is indulging in activities in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplying the services essential for the community at large. Therefore, with a view to prevent further commission of same nature of offences, the detaining authority rightly passed the detention order against him. The time gap from the date of incident and the date of detention order, was not material, but it is the nature of offences, which provided material for subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority.

42. Learned A.G.A. also argued that the accused who had committed the offence under the substantive law and who is languishing in jail was likely to be released on bail. If the detaining authority satisfies that the accused is likely to release on bail, this fact was sufficient for his subjective satisfaction. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the opposite parties have relied upon paragraph 7 of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ibrahim Nazeer Vs. State of Tamil Nadu & another, AIR 2006 SC 3606, which reads as under :-

"7. It has to be noted that whether prayer for bail would be accepted depends on circumstances of each case and no hard and fast rule can be applied. The only requirement is that the detaining authority should be aware that the detenu is already in custody and is likely to be released on bail. The conclusion that the detenu may be released on bail cannot be ipsi dixit of the detaining authority. On the basis of materials before it, the detaining authority came to the conclusion that there is likelihood of detenu being released on bail. That is his subjective satisfaction based on materials. Normally, such satisfaction is not to be interfered with. On the facts of the case, the detaining authority has indicated as to why he was of the opinion that there is likelihood of the detenu being released on bail. It has been clearly stated that in similar cases, orders granting bail are passed by various courts. Appellant has not disputed the correctness of this statement. Strong reliance was placed by learned counsel for the appellant on Rajesh Gulati v. Govt. of NCT of Delhi. The factual scenario in that case was entirely different. In fact, five bail applications filed had been already rejected. In that background this Court observed that it was not a "normal" case. The High Court was justified in rejecting the stand of the appellant."

43. In the above case the accused was engaged in smuggling of foreign goods. As he arrived at on 31.08.2005, at Chennai Airport, he falsely declared that he was having only foreign electronic goods of value Rs.30,000/-, whereas after seizure the value of such goods was found as Rs.8,22,500/-. He gave a false statement before the authority that the goods belong to one Selvi Narayana. Infact the bags were belonging to the accused. The accused was detained by the police under the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974. The offence of the accused was found serious in nature and was found fit for detention of accused under Section 3 of the Act of 1980, therefore, the detaining authority satisfied with the material available before him that accused was likely to be released on bail, therefore, he passed the detention order. It was his just subjective satisfaction in accordance with law. However, the facts and circumstances of said case are different from the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, as in that case smuggling of foreign electronic items were likely to cause adverse effect to the defence and security of India as well as economy and market policy of the State. Undoubtedly, it may affect the public at large.

44. On the same point, learned counsel for the opposite parties have submitted another dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Veeramani Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (1994) 2 SCC 337. He relies upon paragraph 8, which reads as under :-

"8. But in the instant case what we have to mainly see is whether there was awareness in the mind of the detaining authority that the detenu is in custody and that he had reason to believe that he is likely to be released. The grounds do disclose that the detaining authority was aware that the detenu is in custody and it is further mentioned that he was also aware that bail is usually granted by the courts in such cases and it is further emphasised that there is 'imminent possibility' of the detenu coming out on bail. As a matter of fact the High Court in its judgment while considering this aspect also observed thus :

"The grounds indicate that the detenu, who was in remand, was likely to file a bail application and come out on bail. This shows the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority not only of the awareness of the petitioner being in remand, but his subjective satisfaction of the likelihood of the petitioner coming out on bail by filing bail application. Of course, the detaining authority need not have stated that he was also aware that bail is usually granted by courts in such cases and hence there is imminent possibility that he will come out on bail if it has to be held to be a sweeping statement, but on facts, it cannot be said that the statement is of a sweeping nature for, it is well known that in offences punishable under the sections listed above, bail orders are usually granted after some time and most certainly except in rarest of rare cases after the final report is laid."

Therefore it cannot be said that the detaining authority has not applied its mind to this aspect. It is also submitted that the detenu, as a matter of fact, did not file any bail application. But it must be noted that the detenu was arrested on February 11, 1993 and remanded to custody and on February 16, 1993 itself the detention order was passed. Therefore there was no opportunity for him to file a bail application within this short interval."

45. In that case the accused was having criminal history of six cases. When the police party went to apprehend the accused and his associates in connection with the offence committed under Sections 148, 341, 302 and 506 (ii) I.P.C., the accused with intention to kill the police inspector, aimed to cut his head with Patta knife but it fell on his forearm causing blood and injury and similarly some of the associates of the accused inflicted injuries to the other police personnel and stones were pelted against them, which also caused injuries to them. Anyhow they were apprehended and the accused was threatening the general public and thereby instilled a sense of fear and panic in their minds. In the case, there was a fearful condition. The accused had tried to kill a police officer, who protects the society from criminal activities. Fearless accused and his associates inflicted injuries to police persons with intention to kill in public view and also at the time of arrest the accused was threatening the general public. He had committed a heinous offence and was having criminal history of six cases. In the backdrop of above facts, the Hon'ble Apex Court found that it was not colorable application of subjective satisfaction of detaining authority as bail can be granted to accused by application of law. Only after 05 days from the arrest, the accused was detained under the provisions of the Act. The facts and circumstances of the case cited by learned A.G.A., differs with the facts of present case.

46. However, regarding the applicability of Section 3 of the Act, 1980, Hon'ble Apex Court has stated in para 6 of the above judgment that :-

"6.From the catena of decisions of this Court it is clear that even in the case of a person in custody, a detention order can validly be passed if the authority passing the order is aware of the fact that he is actually in custody; if he has reason to believe on the basis of the reliable material that there is a possibility of his being released on bail and that on being so released, the detenu would in all probabilities indulge in prejudicial activities and if the authority passes an order after recording his satisfaction the same cannot be struck down."

47. So far as the satisfaction of District Magistrate is concerned, it is subjective to the detaining authority, who is the highest authority of the District. Since the above satisfaction relates to society as well as the community at large, hence the above subjective satisfaction must be based on proper assessment of material produced before him to pass the detention order. It should be kept in mind that the available material should be of such degree which may be capable to show the necessity for passing the detention order just to prevent, present imminent danger or prejudicial act in maintenance of public order or which is likely to prevail in future.

48. The report of S.H.O., Police Station Kotwali Nagar, Gonda is available on record which contains the wording of general in nature. No specific effect or counter effect/repercussion in retaliation to act done by accused has been mentioned by the S.H.O. or the police officers, in their reports. In other words the satisfaction of the detaining authority should be recorded with reasoning as the detention order can affect the guarantee given by the Constitution to its citizen in part III thereof. The above satisfaction of the authority must not be based on any vague material or against the mandates of law.

49. Perusal of record and fact of the present case indicates that the offence of murder of an individual was allegedly committed by the accused-petitioner on 28.01.2023. He was apprehended on 30.01.2023. The detention order has been passed on 17.05.2023. The Investigation of the offence was concluded and the charge sheet was submitted in the court on 27.04.2023. The accused has no criminal antecedent. In the report of S.H.O. Police Station Kotwali Nagar, Gonda no specific effect on the society at large has been shown. It can be presumed that post mortem report and the statement of the witnesses would have been available at the early stage of investigation. In the light of above circumstances, it transpires that grounds of detention of petitioner lack reasoning with regard to necessity of immediate detention of petitioner to prevent any prejudicial act against public order. In absence of any situation requiring prevention, the order of the detaining authority becomes punitive and not preventive in nature.

50. Infact the primary object of detention of an accused under the provisions of the Act of 1980 is not to punish him for having done something/offence under the substantive law but to intercept him further before he does so. The detention order is not a penalty for the offence done by the accused in past but it is intended to preempt a person from indulging in future activities, sought to be prohibited, by a relevant law and with a view to prevent the accused from doing prejudicial activities against the public order in future.

51. In the case of State of Punjab Vs. Sukhpal Singh, (1990) 1 SCC 35, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under :-

"10. It is submitted that in the instant case, there were sufficient materials to show that the detenu would act in the future to the prejudice of the maintenance of public order, security of the State and the government's effort to curb terrorism. From the nature and contents of his speeches stated in the grounds of detention there was sufficient justification for the inference that he would repeat such speeches if not eventively detained. Again when grievous crime against the community was committed it would surely be subject to the penal law and stringent sentences, but at the same time it could be considered unsafe to allow him the opportunities to repeat prejudicial acts during the period the penal process was likely to take. The learned Attorney General refers us to Giani Bakshish Singh v. Government of India, Smt. Hemlata v State of Maharashtra and Raj Kumar Singh v. State of Bihar submitting that the possibility of criminal prosecution was no bar to order any preventive detention and that the court should not substitute its decision or opinion in place of decision of the authority concerned on the question of necessity of preventive detention: [(1981) 4SCC p.656,para21]

"A prosecution or the absence of it is not absolute bar to an order of preventive detention; the authority may prosecute the offender for an isolated act or acts of an offence for violation of any criminal law, but if it is satisfied that the offender has a tendency to go on violating such laws, then there will be no bar for the State to detain him under a Preventive Detention Act in order to disable him to repeat such offences. The detaining authority is not the sole judge of what national security or public order requires. But neither is the court the sole judge of the position. When power is given to an authority to act on certain facts and if that authority acts on relevant facts and arrives at a decision which cannot be described as either irrational or unreasonable, in the sense that no person instructed in law could have reasonably taken that view, then the order is not bad and the court cannot substitute its decision or opinion in place of the decision of the authority concerned on the necessity of passing the order."

52. Taking into consideration the provisions of the Statute, in the light of the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court, it can be concluded that the Statute has given the power to Central Government or to the State Government to detain an accused person under the preventive detention, in the circumstances as mentioned in Section 3 (1) and (2) of the Act of 1980. Apart from that, section 3 (3) gives power to District Magistrate or the Commissionerate of Police to pass the detention order after considering the circumstances prevailing or the likely to prevail in any area within the local limits of their jurisdiction. Such detaining authorities are the highest authorities of the district executive, who may pass the preventive detention order, considering in mind the fundamental rights (particularly Articles 21 and 22 of the Constitution of India) of a person, guaranteed by the Constitution. Apart from that they have been entrusted to maintain the situation of law and order and the public order in the area of their jurisdiction.

53. Although the court cannot review the subjective satisfaction of detaining authority, also the material to pass detention order cannot be assessed by the court but there should be some reliable material before the detaining authority showing that there is a possibility of release of accused on bail and that, on being so released on bail, the detenue would, in all probability indulge in such prejudicial activities.

54. The court cannot review subjective satisfaction of detaining authority. It is for detaining authority to examine the material which was produced before the detaining authority by the police is sufficient to establish prima facie the ground that the accused has acted prejudicial to maintenance of public order and such material is also sufficient to indicate that, if accused will be set free after getting bail, it is more likely that he may commit such act which will be prejudicial to maintenance of public order in future also. If the material so cogent has not been produced by police before detaining authority, passing of preventive detention order by the authority may fall under the category of colourable exercise of power. There may be a situation that if such material so produced by police before the detaining authority, for his subjective satisfaction, lacks merit or are unable to show some specific repercussions or counter effect on society or public at large in consequence of crime committed by the accused, then preventive detention cannot be resorted, otherwise every offender/accused of heinous offence, like murder, will be behind the bars under the provisions of preventive detention act. In nutshell we may say that in the appropriate case before reaching the conclusion that there is likelihood that the accused will be released on bail, it will be necessary for the detaining authority to ascertain as to whether the act of accused comes under the provisions of Section 3 (1), 3 (2) and 3 (3) of the Act of 1980 or not, and whether there exists any material throwing light that accused, so detained, can commit such act after release on bail, and there is need/urgency to prevent the accused from doing such act. The distinction between the words - law and order and public order has to be kept in mind, which has not been done in this case.

55. Article 22 of the Constitution of India makes provision for protection against arrest and detention in certain cases. Its sub clause (1) and (2) makes following provision :-

“22. Protection against arrest and detention in certain cases

(1) No person who is arrested shall be detained in custody without being informed, as soon as may be, of the grounds for such arrest nor shall he be denied the right to consult, and to be defended by, a legal practitioner of his choice.

(2) Every person who is arrested and detained in custody shall be produced before the nearest magistrate within a period of twenty-four hours of such arrest excluding the time necessary for the journey from the place of arrest to the court of the magistrate and no such person shall be detained in custody beyond the said period without the authority of a magistrate.

(3) Nothing in clauses (1) and (2) shall apply –

(a) to any person who for the time being is an enemy alien; or

(b) to any person who is arrested or detained under any law providing for preventive detention.

56. The above sub-clause (3) (b) is like exception of above sub clause (1) and (2) of Article 22, it affects the right of detained person adversely. Fundamental Rights are meant for protecting the civil liberties of the citizens, whereas the above exceptional clause keeps the accused under incarceration without trial. Although the State has been granted the power to curb the civil liberties under the law of preventive detention, they are required to be exercised with due caution and after due consideration and on application of mind to the facts and material of a case in the light of the law on the subject.

57. In the light of the facts, circumstances and material available on record, it is apparent that in the present case there was an offence against the individual person which was committed within the walls of a residential accommodation. Any use of deadly weapon has not been shown in the F.I.R. Commission of any other offence has also not been shown subsequent to commission of murder. The accused was arrested just third day of occurrence, no specific and substantive effect on public at large in consequence of or as a repercussion of murder has been mentioned by the police authorities as well. It has also been shown that the petitioner is not having any criminal history in his credit. The detention order has been slapped after lapse of three and half months. The apprehension that he would be released on bail, apart from being a sure cannot justify the preventive detention in the absence of satisfaction of ingredients of Section 3 (3) of the Act, 1980. The above delay has not been properly explained, whereas, after the conclusion of investigation, charge sheet was submitted in the court on 27.04.2023 itself. Repetition of general and ornamental words regarding the disturbance in public order has been mentioned in the report of sponsoring authority. There seems no proximity in passing the order dated 17.05.2023 from the date of occurrence. The detaining authority has not applied his judicial mind to curb the protection guaranteed by the Constitution against the personal liberty of the petitioner.

58. Having considered the arguments of learned counsels for the petitioner and opposite parties, material available on record and dictums of Hon'ble Apex Court and co-ordinate bench decisions of this Court, as discussed above, we are of considered view that the impugned order of detention dated 17.05.2023, passed by the District Magistrate, Gonda was without application of mind, hence the detention order is held illegal, which deserves to be set aside.

59. Accordingly, the habeas corpus petition is allowed. The detention order dated 17.05.2023, passed by the District Magistrate, Gonda is hereby quashed. The accused/petitioner, if not required in any other offence, be released immediately from the Jail.

Original records be given back to learned A.G.A.

THE HON'BLE MANISH KUMAR NIGAM, J.

Matters Under Article 227 No. 113 of 2024 (Civil)

Smt. Kushma Devi ...Petitioner
Versus
Darshan Singh & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Vidyadhar Yadav, Sri Vidya Dhar Yadav, Sri Satya Man Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:

(A) Civil Law - Dispute over land possession - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 7 Rule 11 (d) - Rejection of Plaint - Where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law, U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 - Section 206 - Jurisdiction of civil Courts and revenue courts - Jurisdiction of civil courts is presumed unless explicitly or implicitly barred by statute - Suit for injunction can be maintained on possessory title grounds and is not barred under Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 - Civil Court has jurisdiction to entertain a suit for injunction if it does not fall under the prohibited categories listed in the Second and Third Schedules of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.(Para 10-12,14, 31-33)

defendants contended - suit was barred under Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code - as the subject matter fell within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Revenue Court - lower courts rejected contention - dismissed the defendants' application under Order VII Rule 11 (d) of CPC - Hence petition. (Paras 2-3, 16-17, 30)

HELD: - For filing a suit simpliciter for injunction there is no prohibition in any of the clauses of section 206 of the UP-Revenue Code, 2006. Jurisdiction of the civil court to entertain a suit for injunction is neither expressly barred nor by implication. Courts below were right in holding that suit will not be barred by provisions of Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code and have committed no illegality in dismissing the application of the petitioner under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C.(Para 32 -34)

6. Rajeshwar Gupta & anr. Vs Smt. Gauri Devi & ors., 2017 (134) RD 34

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar Niagam, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed for following relief:

"I. Issue/Pass an order setting aside Impugned Judgment/Order and Formal Order dated 16.08.2023 and 21.08.2023 passed in civil Revision No.3 of 2021, "Kushma Devi Vs Darshan Singh (Dead) and Others" by Addl. District and Session Judge, Court No.1 Farrukhabad, arising out of order dated 15.01.2021 and Formal Order dated 25.01.2021 passed by Learned Civil Judge (J.D.) Kayamganj; Farrukhabad in O.S. No.225 of 2018, "Darshan Singh (Dead) and Others Vs Jabar Singh and others"

II. Issue/Pass an order allowing Application 32C-2 dated 04.01.2019, of the petitioner filed under Order-VII, Rule-11(d) of C.P.C. and to dismiss the above mentioned suit with cost, as is barred by Sec.206 (2) A and Serial No.15 & 16 of second Schedule of U.P. Revenue Code 2006."

3. Brief facts of the case are that the plaintiff-respondent instituted suit for prohibitory injunction being Suit No. 225 of 2018 (Darshan Singh and others Vs. Javar Singh) restraining the defendant-petitioners from interfering with their possession over the land in dispute. The defendant-petitioners filed an application in the suit for rejecting plaint under Order 7 Rule 11(d) C.P.C., contending therein that the suit is barred by Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 read with Schedule 2 entry 15 and 16 of the Schedule. The aforesaid application filed by the defendant-petitioners has been rejected by the trial court vide order dated 25.01.2021. The revision No. 3 of 2021 filed by the defendant-petitioner against the order dated 25.01.2021 has also been dismissed by order dated 16.08.2023 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge Court No. 1, Farrukhabad. Hence the present petition.

4. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that in the revenue records the name of plaintiff and defendants are recorded as co-tenure holders as Bhumidhars and all the gata number being minjumla, which has not been partitioned and therefore, the jurisdiction is with the revenue court and the suit of the plaintiff is barred by Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.

5. Before examining the contention, it will be useful to look into the statutory provisions.

6. Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 provides for jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts and is quoted as under:-

" Jurisdiction of civil Courts and revenue courts

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, but subject to the provisions of this Code, no Civil Court shall entertain any suit, application or proceeding to obtain a decision or order on any matter which the State Government, the Board, any Revenue Court or revenue Officer is, by or under this Code, empowered to determine, decide or dispose of.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions of sub-section

(1), and save as otherwise expressly provided by or under this Code-

(a) no Civil Court shall exercise jurisdiction over any of the matters specified in the Second Schedule; and

(b) no Court other than the revenue Court or the revenue officer specified in column 3 of the Third Schedule shall entertain any suit, application or proceeding specified in column 2 thereof.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Code, an objection that a Court or officer mentioned in sub-section (2)(b) had or had no jurisdiction with respect to any suit, application or proceeding, shall not be entertained by any appellate, revisional or executing Court, unless the objection was taken before the Court or officer of the first instance, at the earliest opportunity, and in all cases where issues are settled at or before such settlement, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice."

7. Schedule 2 of the U.P Revenue Code, 2006 provides for 16 matters which are excluded from the jurisdiction of the Civil Court. Schedule 2 of the U.P Revenue Code, 2006 is quoted as under:

9. Section 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure enables the civil court to try all suits of civil nature excepting suits of which cognizance is barred either specifically or impliedly. A litigant having a grievance of civil nature has, independently of any statute, has a right to institute a suit in a civil court unless its cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred.

10. In Secretary of State Vs. Mask and Company A.I.R. 1940 PC 105, Privy Council has observed that it is settled law that exclusion of jurisdiction of civil court is not to be readily inferred, but that such exclusion must either be explicitly expressed or clearly implied.

11. The Supreme Court in case of Abdul Waheed Khan Vs. Bhawani and others reported in 1966 (SC) 1718 has held in paragraph no. 9 as under:

“ Under s. 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure, a civil court can entertain a suit of a civil nature except a suit of which its cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred. It is settled principle that it is for the party who seeks to oust the jurisdiction of a civil court to establish his contention. It is also equally well settled that a statute ousting the jurisdiction of a civil court must be strictly construed."

In case of Dhulabhai etc. Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh A.I.R. reported in 1969 SC(78) in paragraph no. 32 has summarized the position as under:-

" 32. Neither of the two cases of Firm of Illuri Subayya(1) or Kamla Mills(2) can be said to run counter to the series of cases earlier noticed. The result of this inquiry into the diverse views expressed in this Court may be stated as follows :-

(1) Where the statute gives a finality to the orders of the special tribunals the Civil Courts' jurisdiction must be held to be excluded if there is adequate remedy to do what the Civil Courts would normally do in a suit. Such provision, however, does not exclude those cases where the provisions of the particular Act have not been complied with or the statutory tribunal has not acted in conformity with the fundamental principles of judicial procedure.

(2) Where there is an express bar of the jurisdiction of the court, an examination of the scheme of the particular Act to find the adequacy or the sufficiency of the remedies provided may be relevant but is not decisive to sustain the jurisdiction of the civil court.

Where there is no express exclusion the examination of the remedies and the scheme of the particular Act to find out the intendment becomes necessary and the result of the inquiry may be decisive. In the latter case it is necessary to see if the statute creates a special right or a liability and provides for the determination of the right or liability and further lays down that all ques- tions about the said right and liability shall be determined by the tribunals so constituted, and whether remedies normally associated with actions in Civil Courts are prescribed by the said statute or not.

(7) An exclusion of the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is not readily to be inferred unless the conditions above set down apply."

12. The Supreme Court in case of State of Tamil Nadu Vs. Ramalinga Samigal Madam reported in A.I.R. 1986 (SC) 794, in paragraph no. 14 has held as under:-

"14. Thirdly, having regard to the principle stated by this Court while enunciating the first proposition in Dhulabhai's case (supra) it is clear that even where the statute has given finality to the orders of the special tribunal the civil Court's jurisdiction can be regarded as having been excluded if there is adequate remedy to do what the civil Court would normally do in a suit. In other words, even where finality is accorded to the orders passed by the special tribunal one will have to see whether such special tribunal has powers to grant reliefs which Civil Court would normally grant in a suit and if the answer is in the negative it would be difficult to imply or infer exclusion of civil Court's jurisdiction."

13. Again in case of Nagri Pracharini Sabha and another Vs. Vth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Varanasi and others reported in 1991 Supp (2) SCC 36 in paragraph no. 2 and 3 of the judgment has held as under:

“ 2. A litigant having a grievance of a civil nature has, independently of any statute, a right to institute a suit in the civil court unless its cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred. The position is well settled that exclusion of jurisdiction of the civil court is not to be readily inferred and such exclusion must be either express or implied.

3. Reliance has been placed by Mr. Mukhoty before us on the ratio of the Constitution Bench decision of this Court in K.S. Venkataraman & Company v. State of Madras, where reference has been made to the Privy Council case in Raleigh Investment Company Limited v. The Governor General in Council. It has been laid down that the Civil Court's jurisdiction would be presumed unless the contrary is indicated. Mr. Mukhoty has also relied upon two other decisions being Ganga Bai v. Vijay Kumar and Others, and Dhulabhai v. The State of M.P. The legal position thus seems to be clear and it is not necessary to quote further authorities.”

14. Thus from the case laws as discussed above, it is clear that normally there will be a presumption as to the jurisdiction of the civil court unless the same is expressly or impliedly barred.

15. Since in the present case, the application under Order 7 Rule 11 filed by the petitioner has been dismissed and as it is settled that for deciding an application under Order 7 Rule 11, only the plaintiff's averments has to be seen. Except for the plaintiff's averments, the averments made in the application filed by the defendant under Order 7 Rule 11 or in the written statement can be looked into therefore, it will be useful to see in short the plaintiff's averments.

16. The suit was instituted with the allegation that Bhukhand Khasra No. 352 M/0.142 hectare and Bhukhand Khasra No. 344 M/0.049 hectare which are part of Gata No. 77 situated at village Katra Rehmat Khan, the original owner in possession of the aforesaid khasra numbers was Dinanath son of Baldev Prasad, Mewaram s/o Mukti, Jabar Singh, Gajraj Singh, Havaladar Singh and Jahan Singh sons of Masal Singh. In the aforesaid parcel of land, Dinanath had half share which he received in inheritance from his father Baldev. After the death of Dinanath his half share devolved upon his sons plaintiff nos. 1 and 2 having 1/4 share each. The half share of Mukti, after his death devolved upon Mewa Ram and Masal Singh having 1/4 share each. After the death of Mewaram his 1/4 share devolved upon his son Amar Singh through his widow Jaldevi and other sons, namely, Rakesh Chandra, Maheshchandra, Sarveshchandra, Pushpendra Singh and Nilesh Singh. The 1/4 share of Masal Singh devolved upon defendant nos. 1 and 2, Havaladar Singh and Jahan Singh, who have sold their entire share to one Shareef Khan s/o Munku Khan and thereafter, nothing remained in the share of defendant nos. 1 and 2. Later on Sharref Khan sold different portion to different persons over which they have raised constructions and in the present suit the plaintiffs have no dispute with those purchasers of Shareef Khan. Over the land in dispute, name of Smt. Hridavati widow of Sher Singh was recorded as Bhumidhar and she has executed a sale deed dated 03.07.1987 of 6 Decimal 24 aire which was registered on 03.08.1987 in favour of plaintiff no. 2.

17. The aforesaid Hridawati executed another sale deed dated 11.6.1999 of her entire 1/3 share in Khasra No. 344 M area 0.049 hectare in favour of plaintiff no. 3, which has been described in the plaint as letters च, छ, ज, झ and where construction raised by the plaintiff no. 3 exist. It has also been stated that towards north of च, छ, ज, झ which belongs to the plaintiff there are constructions of the defendant. The defendants in the suit wants to illegally dispossess the plaintiffs from land च, छ, ज, झ and therefore, the suit was filed for prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants from interfering with the possession of the plaintiff.

18. From the perusal of provisions of Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, it is clear that in the first place, Section 206 of the Code makes a general declaration that no civil court shall entertain any suit, application or proceeding to obtain a decision or order on any matter which the State Government, the Board, any revenue officer or a revenue court is empowered to determine, decide or dispose of under this Code.

19. Then comes Section 206 (2) of the Code which has been divided in two parts.

i. Clause (a) of the Section expressly excludes the jurisdiction of civil court on all matters specified in the Second Schedule.

ii. Clause (b) of 206 (2) further lays down that no court other than revenue court or revenue officer specified in the Third Schedule shall entertain any suit, application or proceedings specified in the said schedule.

20. Section 206 (3) of the Code seeks to prohibit all appellate, revisional or executing courts from entertaining the plea of jurisdiction, unless such plea was taken before the trial court, at the earliest opportunity, and unless there was a consequent failure of justice.

21. Section 206 (2) (a) refers to the Second Schedule and provides that no civil court shall have jurisdiction over any of the 16 matters specified in the said schedule.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon Clause 15 and 16 of the Second Schedule and has contended that the suit is barred by Section 206 of the Code. Clause 15 relates to any claim regarding possession over any land and Clause 16 states that any claim to establish right of co-tenure holder in respect of any land.

23. From the pleadings as noted above neither the Clause 15 nor Clause 16 applicable in the present case. As from the plaint's allegation, it is clear that it has been contended by the plaintiff-respondents that the defendants in the suit has no right to the property as they have already sold their share much before filing the present suit. So, there is no question of any claim to establish the right of a co-tenure holder as stated in paragraph 16 of the Second Schedule. The Clause-15 will also not apply for the reason, the petitioner is claiming an injunction, restraining the defendant-petitioners in the suit from interfering with their possession.

24. So far as the proceedings covered under the Third Schedule do not include the suit for injunction except for there is a mention of Section 133 and 137(1) of the U.P. Revenue Code, in the Third Schedule, it has been mentioned that the suit for injunction, compensation etc. (Section 133) and suit for possession, compensation and injunction (Section 137).

25. Section 133 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 relates to suit for injunction, compensation etc. Section 133 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 is quoted as under:

“133. Suit for injunction, compensation etc.- The [Gram Panchayat] or the land-holder may, in lieu of suing for ejectment of an asami under Section 131, file a suit in the Court of Sub-Divisional Officer.

(a) for injunction restraining him from putting the land to any unauthorised use or causing any waste or damage to it;

(b) for compensation for such use, waste or damage; or

(c) for repair of the waste or damage caused to the land.”

26. From the perusal of Section 133 it is clear that Section 133 contemplates a suit by the Gram Panchayat or by the land-holder for injunction restraining the asami from putting a land to any unauthorized use or causing any waste or damage to it instead of suing for ejectment of asami under Section 131 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006

27. Section 133 of the Code will not apply to the suit simpliciter for injunction as in the present case.

28. Section 137 provides for remedies for wrongful ejectment. Section 137 of U.P. Revenue Code 2006 is quoted as under:-

(1) An asami ejected or apprehending ejectment from or prevented from obtaining possession of any land otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of any law for the time being in force, may sue the person so ejecting him, trying to eject him or keeping him out of possession –

(i) for possession of the [land; or]

(ii) for compensation for wrongful dispossession; or

(2) When a decree is passed for compensation for wrongful dispossession but not possession the compensation awarded shall be for the whole period during which the asami was entitled to remain in possession.”

29. Section 137 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 provides only for compensation and possession in case of asami is ejected or apprehends ejectment and the provisions of 137 will clearly not be applicable in the present case.

30. Learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the judgement of the Supreme Court in case of Kamla Prasad and others versus Sri Krishna Kant Pathak and others reported in 2007(4) SCC 213. In case of Kamla Prasad, it has been held by Apex Court that civil court will have no jurisdiction to decide the issue of validity of sale-deeds in respect of an agricultural land, particularly in view of the case put forward by the plaintiff that he was not the sole owner of the property and defendant nos. 10 to 12, who were proforma defendants had also right, title and interest therein. He had also stated in the plaint that though, in the revenue record, only his name had appeared but the defendant nos. 10 to 12 have also right in the property. Supreme Court held that, both the courts below were right in holding that such question can be decided by a revenue court in a suit instituted under Section 229 of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Supreme Court further held that, courts below were right in coming to the conclusion that legality or otherwise of insertion of names of purchaser in record of rights and deletion of name of the plaintiff from such record can only be decided by revenue court since the name of purchasers had already been entered into. Only revenue court can record a finding whether such action was in accordance with law or not and it cannot be decided by the civil court.

31. This court in case of Rajeshwar Gupta and another Vs. Smt. Gauri Devi and others reported in 2017 (134) RD 34 has held as under:-

“ 14. It is settled law that a suit for injunction can be maintained also on the ground of possessory title. A person in possession over some property can defend his possession and claim an injunction for protecting such possession, from the entire world, except the true owner.”

32. From the discussion made above that it is clear that for filing a suit simpliciter for injunction there is no prohibition in any of the clauses of section 206 of the UP Revenue Code, 2006. The jurisdiction of the civil court to entertain a suit for injunction is neither expressly barred nor by implication .

33. In my opinion, the courts below were right in holding that suit will not be barred by provisions of Section 206 of the U.P. Revenue Code and have committed no illegality in dismissing the application of the petitioner under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C.

34. The writ petition lacks in merit and is therefore, dismissed.

(A) Civil Law - Rejection of Complaint - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order VII Rule 11 – rejection of a complaint if it does not disclose a cause of action or is barred by law, Order 23 Rule 3A - Bar to suit to set aside a compromise decree , Specific Relief Act, 1963 - Section 38, Section 41(j) - Perpetual injunctions and when they can be granted - Compromise decree - Cause of action - Locus standi - Supervisory jurisdiction - Only the complaint averments can be seen at the time of considering an application under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. (Para -13)

(B) Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order VII Rule 11 - complaint can be rejected under Order VII Rule 11(d) of C.P.C. if the statements in the complaint itself reveal that the suit is barred by law or does not disclose a cause of action - Court must limit itself to the statements in the complaint without considering any external evidence or written statements. (Para 10, 11, 13, 16)

(C) Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 23 Rule 3A - Compromise decree under Order 23 Rule 3A cannot be challenged by a person who was not a party to the compromise - Such a person has the right to file a separate suit to challenge the decree if it affects their rights. (Para 17, 18, 19, 20)

Ownership of the property in dispute - Plaintiff-respondents filed a suit seeking a permanent injunction against the defendant-petitioner - alleging attempts to take possession and construct on disputed land - sought to declare a previous compromise decree as void - petitioner contended - suit was barred by law - filed an application under Order VII Rule 11 for rejection of plaint - which was dismissed by both trial court and appellate court. (Para 2, 3, 15)

HELD: - Application under Order VII Rule 11 was rightly rejected as the issues raised by the petitioner require evidence to be examined during trial, and the plaint discloses a valid cause of action. Courts below did not commit any illegality in rejecting the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC. (Para 24, 25)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar Nigam, J.)

1. This petition has been filed by the defendant-petitioner for the following relief:

“a. To pass an order under the supervisory jurisdiction of this Hon'ble High Court, setting aside the impugned order dated 04.12.2023 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Pilibhit in Application No. 18 Ga under Order 7 Rule 11(d) read with Section-151 of C.P.C. filed in Original Suit No. 399 of 2021 (Swatantrata Sangram Senani Ashrit Sangathan through President- Vishwa Mitra Tandon and Others vs. Rajeev Gupta) and impugned order dated 27.02.2024 passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Pilibhit in Civil Revision No. 94 of 2023 (Rajeev Gupta vs. So-called Swatantrata Sangram Senani Sangathan, Pilibhit through President- Vishwa Mitra Tandon and Others).

b. To pass an order under the supervisory jurisdiction of this Hon'ble High Court, staying the further proceedings of Original Suit No. 399 of 2021 (Swatantrata Sangram Senani Ashrit Sangathan through President- Vishwa Mitra Tandon and Others vs. Rajeev Gupta), pending before the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Pilibhit.”

2. Brief facts of the case are that the plaintiff-respondents instituted Original Suit No. 399 of 2021 (Swatantra Sangram Senani Ashrit Sangathan through President- Vishwa Mitra Tandon and 2 others Vs. Rajeev Gupta) for the relief that defendant be restrained from taking possession and raising construction over the land in dispute belonging to the plaintiffs and also that decree passed in O.S. No. 287 of 2020 (Rajeev Gupta Vs. Karan Verma) dated 03.11.2020 be declared void. Defendant-petitioner appeared in the suit and moved an application under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. for rejection of the plaint on the ground that the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the suit and the suit is also barred by Section 38 read with Section 41 (J) of Specific Relief Act, 1967. The aforesaid application filed by the petitioner was rejected by the trial court by judgment and order dated 04.12.2023. Against the judgment and order dated 04.12.2023 passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division), Pilibhit, Civil Revision No. 94 of 2023 was filed by the defendant-petitioner and the same had also been dismissed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.1 Pilibhit by its judgment and order dated 27.02.2024. Hence present petition.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner contended that plaintiffs have no cause of action and no locus standi to file the present suit. It has been further contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that the suit as filed by the plaintiff is barred under Section 38 and 41 (J) of the Specific Relief Act. It is next contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that second relief claimed by the plaintiff that the compromise judgment and decree passed in O.S. No. 287 of 2020 (Rajeev Gupta Vs. Karan Verma) dated 03.11.2020 be declared void is hit by provisions of Order 23 Rule 3-A of the C.P.C. Courts below have rejected the application filed by the petitioner erroneously without considering the law as cited by the petitioner before the court below.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the judgments of the Supreme Court as well as of this Court in case of

M/s. Sree Surya Developers and Promoters Versus N. Sailesh Prasad and Ors. reported in 2022 (1) Apex Court Judgments 655 (S.C.), Tej Bahadur Versus Narendra Modi reported in 2021 (1) Apex Court Judgments 109 (S.C.), Bharvagi Constructions and another Versus Kothakapu Muthyam Reddy and others reported in 2017 (137) RD 574.

5. It will be useful to examine the provisions of law relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner before considering the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

6. Rule 11 of the Order VII CPC is quoted as under :-

"11. Rejection of plaint — The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:-

(a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;

(b) where the relief claimed is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(c) where the relief claimed is properly valued but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(d) where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law;

[(e) where it is not filed in duplicate];

[(f) where the plaintiff fails to comply with the provisions of rule 9];

[Provided that the time fixed by the Court for the correction of the valuation or supplying of the requisite stamp-papers shall not be extended unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, is satisfied that the plaintiff was prevented by any cause of an exceptional nature from correcting the valuation or supplying the requisite stamp-papers, as the case may be, within the time fixed by the Court and that refusal to extend such time would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff.]"

7. Section 38 of the Specific Relief Act 1963 relates to perpetual injunctions. Section 38 and Section 41(J) of Specific Relief Act is quoted as under:

"38. Perpetual injunction when granted.—

(1) Subject to the other provisions contained in or referred to by this Chapter, a perpetual injunction may be granted to the plaintiff to prevent the breach of an obligation existing in his favour, whether expressly or by implication.

(2) When any such obligation arises from contract, the court shall be guided by the rules and provisions contained in Chapter II.

(3) When the defendant invades or threatens to invade the plaintiff's right to, or enjoyment of, property, the court may grant a perpetual injunction in the following cases, namely:— (a) where the defendant is trustee of the property for the plaintiff;

(b) where there exists no standard for ascertaining the actual damage caused, or likely to be caused, by the invasion;

(c) where the invasion is such that compensation in money would not afford adequate relief;

(d) where the injunction is necessary to prevent a multiplicity of judicial proceedings.

41. Injunction when refused.—

(a).....(i).....

(j) when the plaintiff has no personal interest in the matter."

8. Order 23 Rule 3 and Rule 3(A) of the C.P.C. is quoted as under:—

"3. Compromise of suit.—Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that a suit has been adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise, [in writing and signed by the parties] or where the defendant satisfied the plaintiff in respect of the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the suit, the Court shall order such agreement, compromise or satisfaction to be recorded, and shall pass a decree in accordance therewith [so far as it relates to the parties to the suit, whether or not the subject-matter of the agreement, compromise or satisfaction is the same as the subject-matter of the suit:]

[Provided that where it is alleged by one party and denied by the other that an adjustment or satisfaction has been arrived at, the Court shall decide the question; but not adjournment shall be granted for the purpose of deciding the question, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, thinks fit to grant such adjournment.]

Explanation.— An agreement or compromise which is void or voidable under the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (9 of 1872), shall not be deemed to be lawful within the meaning of this rule.

3A. Bar to suit.—No suit shall lie to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based was not lawful."

9. From the reading of Clause 11 of Order 7 C.P.C., it is clear where the suit appears from the statements in the plaint that plaintiff has no cause of action or to be barred by any law, the Court shall reject the plaint.

10. Order VII Rule 11 CPC provides that the plaint shall be rejected “where the suit appears from the statement made in the plaint that plaintiff has no cause of action or to be barred by any law”. In order to decide whether the plaintiff has no cause of action or the suit is barred by law, it is the statement in the plaint will have to be construed. The Court while deciding such an application under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C. must have due regard only to the statements made in the plaint. Whether the suit is barred by any law or the plaintiff has no cause of action must be determined from the statements in the plaint and it is not open to decide the issue on the basis of any other material including the written statement in the case.

11. In Kamala and others Vs. K.T. Eshwara Sa; (2008) 12 SCC 661, S.B. Sinha, J speaking for the Bench examined the ambit of Order VII Rule 11(d) CPC and observed: (SCC 668-69, paras 21 and 22)

“21. Order 7, Rule 11(d) of the Code has limited application. It must be shown that the suit is barred under any law. Such a conclusion must be drawn from the averments made in the plaint. Different clauses in Orders 7, Rule 11, in our opinion, should not be mixed up. Whereas in a given case, an application for rejection of the plaint may be filed on more than one ground specified in various sub-clauses thereof, a clear finding to that effect must be arrived at. What would be relevant for invoking clause (d) of Order 7 Rule 11 of the Code is the averments made in the plaint. For that purpose, there cannot be any addition or subtraction. Absence of jurisdiction on the part of a court can be invoked at different stages and under different provisions of the Code. Order 7 Rule 11 of the Code is one, Order 14 Rule 2 is another.

22. For the purpose of invoking Order 7 Rule 11(d) of the Code, no amount of evidence can be looked into. The issues on merit of the matter which may arise between the parties would not be within the realm of the court at that stage. All issues shall not be the subject matter of an order under the said provision.”

12. In case of Madanuri Sri Rama Chandra Murthy Vs. Syed Jalal; (2017) 13 SCC 174: (2017) 5 SCC (Civ) 602; the Apex Court has summarized the legal position as follows :-

“The plaint can be rejected under Order 7 Rule 11 if conditions enumerated in the said provision are fulfilled. It is needless to observe that the power under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC be exercised by the Court at any stage of the suit. The relevant facts which need to be looked into for deciding the application are the averments of the plaint only. If on an entire and meaningful reading of the plaint, it is found that the suit is manifestly vexatious and meritless in the sense of not disclosing any right to sue, the court should exercise power under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC. Since the power conferred on the Court to terminate civil action at the threshold is drastic, the conditions enumerated under Order 7 Rule 11 of CPC to the exercise of power of rejection of plaint have to be strictly adhered to. The averments of the plaint have to be read as a whole to find out whether the averments disclose a cause of action or whether the suit is barred by any law. It is needless to observe that the question as to whether the suit is barred by any law, would always depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. The averments in the written statement as well as the contentions of the defendant are wholly immaterial while considering the prayer of the defendant for rejection of the plaint. Even when the allegations made in the plaint are taken to be correct as a whole on their face value, if they show that the suit is barred by any law, or do not disclose cause of action, the application for rejection of plaint can be entertained and the power under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC can be exercised. If clever drafting of the plaint has created the illusion of a cause of action, the court will nip it in the bud at the earliest so that bogus litigation will end at the earlier stage."

13. Thus, from the law laid down by the Apex Court, it is clear that only the plaint averments can be seen at the time of considering an application under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C.

14. With the help of counsel for the petitioner, I have perused the copy of the plaint which has been filed as Annexure No. 2 to the present petition.

15. As per the plaint case, the property in dispute was constructed by the various freedom fighters as office for the freedom fighters, which was used after the independence for various social activities. The aforesaid property was maintained by the freedom fighters and after their death by their successors. It had also been stated that plaintiff nos. 2 and 3 along with other successors of freedom fighters were managing the property in dispute. After independence, in the premises of the property in dispute Bhai Kishan Lal and Chunni Lal used to carry business in the name of Haryana Handloom with the permission of the then Manager of the premises and in lieu thereof they used to get premises painted and repaired. Later on Bhai Kisan Lal and Chunni Lal handed over their business to the defendant in the suit and the defendant carried on business in the name of Haryana Handloom in the premises in dispute. Earlier, the business was being carried in the tent but later on with the permission of the then manager, the tent was removed and a tin shade was constructed by the defendant with the permission of the plaintiffs. It had also been stated that on the western side of the premises, a room was constructed by the father of the plaintiff no.2 in the memory of his wife and apart from that, in the aforesaid premises on the eastern- northern corner, two rooms were constructed. The defendant was carrying business in the name of Haryana Handloom since 1988 and for the last five years used to keep his goods in the room constructed by the father of the plaintiff no. 2. Later on the defendant turned dishonest and instituted suit being Original Suit No. 287 of 2020 (Rajeev Gupta Vs. Karan Verma) with the allegation that the plaintiff was the owner in possession of the property in dispute and the defendant was a licensee of a tin shade. The aforesaid suit was filed by the defendant in the present suit against one Karan Verma, who was the close associate of the defendant. Karan Verma, defendant in the O.S. No. 287 of 2020 filed a written statement admitting the averments made in the plaint and an agreement was entered into between the defendant in the present suit and his friend Karan Verma and the suit was decreed in terms of compromise by judgment and decree dated 03.11.2020. It was also stated that the defendant Karan Verma had no concern with the property in dispute. It had been further stated that on the basis of compromise decree passed in Original Suit No. 287 of 2020, the defendant in the suit got the map sanctioned from the prescribed authority regulated area, Pilibhit for raising a construction after demolishing the existing constructions on 03.06.2020. After the map was sanctioned, the defendant removed his tin shade and started demolishing the room constructed by the father of the plaintiff no. 2. After coming to know about the activities of the defendant, complaints were made by the plaintiff no. 2 with the administrative authorities and when the matter was opposed by the plaintiffs, the defendant informed them regarding the decree passed in Original Suit No. 287 of 2020. Thereafter, the plaintiff no. 2 moved an application before the Nagar Pallika Parishad, Pilibhit for correction of revenue records and on the aforesaid application by order dated 06.07.2021 Executive Officer, Nagar Officer Pilibhit directed for corrections of revenue records. An application was also made by the plaintiff no. 2 for cancellation of map passed by the prescribed authority regulated area, Pilibhit by order dated 06.07.2020. On the aforesaid application, the map was cancelled by order dated 17.08.2021. On 05.09.2021, the defendant tried to take forceful possession of the property in dispute and tried to raise construction, which was resisted by the plaintiff no. 2, therefore, the present suit (O.S. No. 399 of 2021) was filed by the plaintiff against the defendant for the relief of permanent injunction as well as for a declaration declaring compromise decree dated 03.11.2020 passed in Original Suit No. 287 of 2020 as void.

16. In the present case, from the reading of the plaint as a whole and proceeding on the basis that the averments made therein are correct, which is what the Court is required to do so it cannot be said that the pleadings ex facie do not disclose any cause of action. There is a serious dispute between the plaintiffs and the defendants as to the ownership of the property in dispute which is a question of fact and can only be decided after framing an issue in this respect and considering the evidence led by the parties at the time of deciding the suit.

17. So far as contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the second relief as claimed by the plaintiff is barred by Order 23 Rule 3(A) C.P.C. is also misconceived for reason that the plaintiffs in the present suit are not parties to the compromise, which has been entered into between the present defendant and one Karan Verma, defendant in Original Suit No. 287 of 2020. The plaintiff-respondents are not party to the aforesaid suit and therefore Order 23 Rule 3(A) will not come in their way to challenge the compromise decree by filing a suit for setting aside or declaring the same void.

18. This Court in case of Smt. Suraj Kumari Vs. District Judge, Mirzapur and others reported in AIR 1991 Alld 75 has held as under :

22. The petitioner's second submission regarding the applicability of O.23, R. 3-A of the Code of Civil Procedure is misconceived the provision is confined only to the parties to the suit. The said provision is not applicable to a stranger to the said compromise decree. A suit by stranger to set aside the compromise decree, which affects his rights is not barred by the said provision. Order 23, Rule 3-A of the Code of Civil Procedure cannot be read dehors its earlier provision of the same chapter. The said provision is only a part of the entire Chapter of Order 23 of the Code of Civil Procedure which prescribes provisions for withdrawal and adjustment of the suit. Order 23 Rule 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides for a situation where the parties have arrived at a compromise. Order 23, Rule 3 and Rule 3-A of the Code of Civil Procedure as added by Amending Act No. 104 of 1976 read together, makes it clear that a party to the suit is debarred from filing suit for setting aside compromise decree on the ground of being unlawful. Such a party has remedy by moving appropriate application before the Court concerned which has passed the compromise decree.

23. The said provision does not bar the present petitioner who was not a party to the said compromise decree to file a suit. As such there is no force in the petitioner's contention that a suit for setting aside the compromise decree entered into between Sri Nagarmal and Smt. Paradevi was barred by O.23, R. 3-A of the Code of Civil Procedure. The suit at the instance of present petitioner for setting aside compromise decree entered into between Smt. Paradevi and Sri Nagarmal is maintainable in law. In support of this contention the petitioner has placed reliance on AIR 1985 Karnataka 270, Smt. Tarabai v. Krishnaswamy Rao. Since the said provision does not bar the petitioner from filing the suit the decision is of no help to the petitioner."

19. The Karnatka High Court in case of Siddalingeshwar & others Vs. Virupaxgouda and others reported in AIR 2003 Karnataka 407 has held as under:

A bar is imposed to challenge the compromise in a separate suit because a party to a compromise is entitled to challenge the compromise as not lawful, either by filing an application in the same suit or by filing an appeal under Order 43 Rule 1A. But such remedies are available only to the parties to the suit. A person who is not a party to the suit, cannot obviously file an application in the suit, or an appeal, to challenge a compromise as being not lawful.

20. The Bombay High Court in case of Khalil Haji Bholumiya Salar and others Vs. Parveen and others reported in 2013 (6) BomCR 841 relying upon the judgment of Allahabad High Court in case of Suraj Kumari (supra) as well as Karnatka High Court in Siddalingeshwar & others (supra) has held as under :

Order 23 of CPC deals with adjustment/compromise of a suit. An appeal is a continuation of the suit. Section 107(2) CPC provides that subject to sub-section 1, the appellate Court shall have same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed by the Code on Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted therein. Therefore, the provisions of Order 23 apply in full force to appeal proceedings. By amendment of CPC, Rule 3A has been inserted in Order 23 to bar a suit to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based is not lawful. Therefore, if a party to a suit who enters into a compromise in terms of which a consent decree is made, wants to challenge it on the ground that it is not lawful, the remedy available to him, is either to file an application in the very suit to recall the consent decree on the ground that compromise is not lawful, or is vitiated by fraud, or to file an appeal under Order 43 Rule 1A CPC, contending that the compromise was not lawful and that it ought not to have been recorded. A compromise decree is based on the agreement arrived at between the parties, which gets a seal of approval from the Court. A stranger to the suit is obviously a stranger to the agreement of compromise. He cannot file an application either in the suit or in the appeal proceedings to challenge a compromise decree as he is not a party to the suit. Therefore, the bar under Rule 3A of Order 23 cannot be extended to him. The provision must confine only to the parties to the suit, who are parties to the agreement to compromise. Hence, I am in respectful agreement with the decisions of the Allahabad High Court and Karnataka High Court, holding that a stranger to a compromise decree cannot file an application in a suit or an appeal to challenge a compromise, as not being lawful, but must file a separate suit for the purpose. The application filed by the applicants, therefore, is required to be dismissed as not maintainable. Since the application is not at all maintainable, there is no need to enter into discussion on the rival contentions as regards the merits of the application. The Civil Application is dismissed.

21. The judgment of the Supreme Court in case of M/s Sree Surya Developers and Promoters (supra) relied upon by the Counsel for the petitioner is distinguishable on facts as in case of M/s Sree Surya Developers and Promoters (supra), the suit was filed for declaring the compromise decree void by one of the parties to the compromise and not by the person who was not party to the suit or compromise. Similarly in case of Bharvagi Constructions (supra) a suit was filed by the some of the defendants (who were party to the award) against the plaintiff and the remaining defendants for declaring the award passed by Lok Adalat on the basis of compromise illegal and null & void having been obtained by playing fraud was held not maintainable. There also the plaintiff filed the suit challenging the award was party to the award and therefore the suit was held not maintainable.

22. So far as the contention of learned Counsel for the petitioner is that the suit filed by the plaintiff-respondent was barred in view of Section 38 and Section 41(j) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 is concerned, it cannot be said from the reading of the plaint that the plaintiff has no personal interest in the matter. In the judgment relied upon by the learned Counsel for the petitioner in case of Tej Bahadur Vs. Narendra Modi (supra), it has been held by the Supreme Court the election petition was rightly rejected under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C., as the petitioner was neither an elector for such constituency nor he was a candidate and as such he has no cause of action which invest him with right to sue. Judgment in case of Tej Bahadur (supra) is also distinguishable on facts and is of no help to petitioner.

23. The ground which were taken by the petitioner in his application under Order VII Rule 11 can be pleaded by the petitioner in his written statement and the same can be decided after framing an issue in this regard after considering the evidence of the parties at this stage of hearing of the suit, but the same cannot be looked into at the time of considering an application under Order VII Rule 11 as it is only on the basis plaint averment the application has to be decided.

24. In view of the above discussion, I am of the view that the courts below have committed no illegality in rejecting the application filed by the petitioner under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C.

25. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed.

26. No order as to costs.

Civil Law - Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 - Section 13 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125 - Family Pension - Marriage between deceased employee (Bhojraj Singh) and first wife (Usha Devi) governed by Hindu Marriage Act, 1955; cannot be dissolved by compromise in maintenance proceedings under Sec. 125 Cr.P.C., which is limited to determining maintenance amount. Consent cannot confer jurisdiction on Magistrate to annul marriage; dissolution requires decree of divorce by competent civil court. Appellant's (second wife, Rajni Rani) claim to family pension rejected, as no such decree obtained and first marriage subsists. Claim of first wife's subsequent marriage disputed; requires declaration by competent court for nullity. Distinguished Deoki Panjhiyara (supra) as it involved void marriage due to bigamy (pre-existing marriage), not applicable here where first marriage was valid. (Paras 9-13)

Special Appeal Dismissed.

List of Cases cited:

1. Deoki Panjhiyara Vs Shashi Bhushan Narayan Azad, 2012 Supreme (SC) 899 (Paras 6, 12)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.

Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Radha Kant Ojha, learned Senior Counsel for the appellant and Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite party.

2. This appeal arises out of an order passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 11483 of 2023 whereby the writ petition itself has been dismissed.

3. Facts of the case as have been noticed by learned Single Judge are that one Bhojraj Singh was an assistant teacher in Maharaja Tej Singh, Junior High School Aurandh, Vikash Khand Sultanganj, District Mainpuri. He superannuated on 30.06.2012 and later died on 02.10.2021. The petitioner/appellant came up with a case of payment of family pension on the ground that she has contracted marriage with late Bhojraj Singh and has been residing as such for the last several years. In order to put-forth its case, the petitioner-appellant contended that though Bhojraj Singh had initially contracted marriage with contesting private respondent Usha Devi but the marriage ultimately did not succeed and the marital parties parted ways. Proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. had been initiated by Usha Devi in which a compromise was arrived at, as per which, the parties had separated. It was therefore urged that once Usha Devi parted ways with the deceased employee no right survived in her as against the deceased employee. The deceased employee contracted marriage with the present petitioner-appellant. Various documents have been relied upon in order to prove the factum of marriage. It also appears that in proceeding before the authorities, the petitioner-appellant also set up a claim of second marriage of Usha Devi which fact is specifically disputed by the private respondent. The appellant also claim to have obtained succession certificate and relying upon it claim for family pension was put-forth by the appellant which has been rejected by the authorities. The writ petition filed against such order has also been dismissed.

4. Learned Single Judge has returned a finding to the effect that the marriage legally contracted between Bhojraj Singh and Usha Devi could not have been dissolved except by a decree of competent court and merely in proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. such marriage cannot be annulled. The claim of the appellant based on second marriage has therefore been rejected.

5. Aggrieved by the judgment of learned Single Judge, the appellant who is admittedly the later wife has filed the present appeal. On the previous occasion when the matter was heard, this Court had called upon the appellant to demonstrate as to whether a legally contracted marriage could be dissolved except by a decree of divorce passed by the competent forum. Order passed in that regard on 05.02.2024 reads as under:

"Learned counsel for the appellant seeks adjournment as he intends to further examine the law with regard to the impact of compromise between the parties and to what extent such compromise would provide an alternative to a decree of divorce otherwise contemplated under Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 by which alone a marriage can otherwise be dissolved.

List again as fresh on 19.2.2024."

6. Sri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellate has vehemently urged that in the facts of the present case the claim of the appellant is clearly sustainable inasmuch as the previous marriage itself was dissolved by way of a compromise entered into between the parties in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. It is further submitted that the contesting opposite party has otherwise solemnized subsequent marriage, and therefore, the claim of family pension by the private respondent would be unsustainable. In order to support his contention, learned Senior Counsel for the appellant has placed reliance upon a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Deoki Panjhiyara Vs. Shashi Bhushan Narayan Azad & another, reported in 2012 0 Supreme (SC) 899. Reliance is placed upon paragraphs 18 & 19 of the said judgment which are reproduced hereinafter:

"In the present case, however, the appellant in her pleadings had clearly, categorically and consistently denied that she was married to any person known as Rohit Kumar Mishra. The legitimacy, authenticity and genuineness of the marriage certificate dated 18.4.2003 has also been questioned by the appellant. Though Section 11 of the aforesaid Act gives an option to either of the parties to a void marriage to seek a declaration of invalidity/nullity of such marriage, the exercise of such option cannot be understood to be in all situations voluntarily. Situations may arise when recourse to a court for a declaration regarding the nullity of a marriage claimed by one of the spouses to be a void marriage, will have to be insisted upon in departure to the normal rule. This, in our view, is the correct ratio of the decision of this Court in Yamunabadi (supra) and M.M. Malhotra (supra). In this regard, we may take note of a recent decision rendered by this Court in A. Subash Babu Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh & another [5] while dealing with the question whether the wife of a second marriage contracted during the validity of the first marriage of the husband would be a 'person aggrieved' under Section 198(1)(c) of the Code of Criminal Procedure to maintain a complaint alleging commission of offences under Section 494 and 495 IPC by the husband. The passage extracted below effectively illuminates the issue:

'Though the law specifically does not cast obligation on either party to seek declaration of nullity of marriage and it may be open to the parties even without recourse to the Court to treat the marriage as a nullity, such a course is neither prudent nor intended and a declaration in terms of Section 11 of the Hindu Marriage Act will have to be asked for, for the purpose of precaution and/or record. Therefore, until the declaration contemplated by Section 11 of the Hindu Marriage Act is made by a competent Court, the woman with whom second marriage is solemnized continues to be the wife within the meaning of Section 494 IPC and would be entitled to maintain a complaint against her husband.'

19. In the present case, if according to the respondent, the marriage between him and the appellant was void on account of the previous marriage between the appellant and Rohit Kumar Mishra the respondent ought to have obtained the necessary declaration from the competent court in view of the highly contentious questions raised by the appellant on the aforesaid score. It is only upon a declaration of nullity or annulment of the marriage between the parties by a competent court that any consideration of the question whether the parties had lived in a 'relationship in the nature of marriage?' would be justified. In the absence of any valid decree of nullity or the necessary declaration the court will have to proceed on the footing that the relationship between the parties is one of marriage and not in the nature of marriage. We would also like to emphasise that any determination of the validity of the marriage between the parties could have been made only by a competent court in an appropriate proceeding by and between the parties and in compliance with all other requirements of law. Mere production of a marriage certificate issued under Section 13 of the Special Marriage Act, 1954 in support of the claimed first marriage of the appellant with Rohit Kumar Mishra was not sufficient for any of the courts, including the High Court, to render a complete and effective decision with regard to the marital status of the parties and that too in a collateral proceeding for maintenance. Consequently, we hold that in the present case until the invalidation of the marriage between the appellant and the respondent is made by a competent court it would only be correct to proceed on the basis that the appellant continues to be the wife of the respondent so as to entitle her to claim all benefits and protection available under the DV Act, 2005."

7. Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the private opposite party submits that the plea of second marriage by the private respondent Usha Devi was not pleaded in writ and accept to make a vague allegations in that regard in this appeal no other material has been placed. Sri Siddharth Khare support the judgment of the learned Single Judge for the reasons contained therein. So far as the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Deoki Panjhiyara (supra) is concerned, it is pointed out that the facts of that case are clearly distinguishable.

8. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

9. The short question that arises for determination in the facts of the present case is as to whether the admitted marriage between Bhojraj Singh and Usha Devi could be dissolved by way of a compromise in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C.? As a sequel to the above question, the issue that would arise is as to whether the claim of private respondent could be non suited on the ground that she has contracted a second marriage. It is also urged on behalf of the appellant that the question as to whether Usha Devi has contracted a second marriage ought to have been adjudicated by the competent court and the authorities, on their own, could not have returned a finding on that aspect.

10. So far as the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. are concerned, such proceedings are in respect of payment of maintenance to the deserted wife. The scope of the proceeding under Section 125

Cr.P.C. is limited i.e. with regard to determination of the amount of maintenance. In such proceeding the marriage between the parties cannot be dissolved by the court inasmuch as the jurisdiction of the court would be limited to determination of the aspect of maintenance. Even with the consent of the parties, the jurisdiction of the concerned court under Section 125 Cr.P.C. cannot be expanded so as to concede the power with such court to pass a decree of divorce. Law is well settled that consent of the parties cannot confer jurisdiction if it is otherwise not vested by law.

11. Admittedly the parties herein are Hindu by religion and the marriage between them would be governed by the provisions of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. It is undisputed that late Bhojraj Singh and Usha Devi were capable of entering into a marital alliance and that such a marriage was performed between the parties. This factum is undisputed. The question that would arise is as to how and in what manner such a marriage could be dissolved. The marriage between the parties since are governed by the provisions of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, the only manner in which such marriage can be dissolved is by passing of an appropriate decree by the competent court in accordance with the provisions of the Act of 1955. It is admitted that no such decree by a competent court was ever passed.

12. In that view of the matter, we are of the considered view that the marriage between the parties could not have been dissolved merely on the basis of a compromise allegedly entered into between the parties. Reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the appellant upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in

"While the Writ Petition was pending, the respondent sought a recall of the order dated 13.02.2008 on the ground that he could subsequently come to know that his marriage with the appellant was void on the ground that at the time of the said marriage the appellant was already married to one Rohit Kumar Mishra. In support, the respondent ? husband had placed before the learned trial court the certificate of marriage dated 18.04.2003 between the appellant and the said Rohit Kumar Mishra issued by the competent authority under Section 13 of the Special Marriage Act, 1954 (hereinafter referred to as ?the Act of 1954?)."

13. The above paragraph would go to show that the claim of the appellant of the first marriage being void was based upon the assertion that the other party was already married to one Rohit Kumar Mishra and during subsistence of such previous marriage the second marriage was performed which was void. It was in that context that the Hon'ble Supreme Court proceeded to make observations in paragraphs 18 & 19 of the judgment. In paragraph 19 the Court has specifically noticed that the claim of marriage, as had been put-forth, was disputed on the ground that the lady had already contracted a previous marriage, and therefore, the marriage solemnized with the appellant therein was a nullity. The conditions of a valid marriage have been noticed and it is thereafter that the Court has proceeded to observe that once the previous marriage was void a declaration of nullity or annulment of marriage between the parties by a competent court was not required. We find that the marriage between Bhojraj Singh and Usha Devi admittedly was the first marriage contracted by either of the parties and there was no allegation of incompetence of either of the persons to contract marriage. The plea of nullity of marriage therefore is not available on facts of the present case. The claim that subsequent in point of time Usha Devi has contracted marriage is a fact, which is specifically disputed by the contesting respondents. Unless a declaration in that regard is granted by the competent court, we are not inclined to interfere with the right of first wife to claim family pension etc. merely on the ground that either the marriage stood dissolved on account of a compromise in proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. or on the ground that Usha Devi has subsequently contracted marriage with anyone else. For the reasons that have been recorded above, we find that this appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

Service Law - Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) Rules, 2001 - Rules 32, 34, 36 & 39(ii) - Constitution of India, 1950- Article 311(2) - Dismissal from Service - Principles of Natural Justice - Appellants, Head Constables in CISF, dismissed without regular departmental enquiry under Rule 39(ii) for alleged misconduct and absconding during suspension, following an FIR under Section 376 IPC and SC/ST Act, 1989, despite acquittal in criminal trial on 07.06.2007. Disciplinary authority's invocation of Rule 39(ii) held arbitrary; no objective evidence to justify dispensing with enquiry under Rule 36. Appellants' absence (to pursue legal remedy) not amounting to desertion; no efforts made to ascertain their whereabouts. Preliminary enquiry findings insufficient for major punishment like dismissal, violating audi alteram partem. High Court's earlier order (17.08.2011) directing reconsideration post-acquittal ignored by revisional authority. Impugned dismissal order (25.09.2004), appellate/revisional orders, and Single Judge's dismissal of writ petitions (22.12.2023) set aside for procedural flaws. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.

Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. Both these intra Court appeals filed by the appellants-petitioners under Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of Allahabad High Court Rules (Rules of the Court, 1952), are against the judgments and orders dated 22.12.2023 passed by the learned Single Judge in exercise of its writ jurisdiction. The Writ Court separately, vide impugned judgments and orders dated 22.12.2023, dismissed the writ petitions filed by Paramjit Singh and Jitendra Singh bearing Writ-A No. 8019 of 2012 and Writ- A No. 18146 of 2012, respectively, inter alia, challenging the order dated 25.09.2004 as also the appellate order dated 13.01.2005 and the orders passed by the revisional authority on 31.10.2005 and 28.11.2011. Though the Writ Petitions have been decided separately, but the reasons for dismissal of the petitions as returned by the learned Single Judge are the same and as such both the Special Appeals are hereby decided by this common order.

2. Facts that are culled out from the pleadings and the material available on record before this Court are that the appellants-petitioners were appointed as Constable and subsequently got promoted to the post of Head Constable in the Central Industrial Security Force (hereinafter referred to as CISF) and were assigned duties of security at NARORA Atomic Power Plant (Anupshahar), Bulandshahar. The case of the appellants-petitioners is that while posted at NARORA Atomic Power Plant, on 03.09.2004 at around 2:30 PM, 5 ladies were spotted inside the said atomic power plant. Since the security of the aforesaid power plant was extremely sensitive, the appellant namely Paramjit Singh immediately raised alarm and in response to the same the petitioner of the Writ- A No.18146 of 2012 namely Jitendra Singh, who was also a Head Constable/Driver immediately reached the spot, but could detain only 3 ladies and brought them at the security gate and before any paperwork could be done, a large number of villager, local politicians and media persons assembled and created a scene and mounted pressure to secure release of the aforesaid detained women.

3. On 12.09.2004, an F.I.R. was lodged against the appellants-petitioners under section 376 I.P.C. read with Section 3(i)(xii) and 3(ii)(v) of the SC/ST Act, 1989, and the case was registered as Case Crime No. 182 of 2004. The incident was highlighted in the local newspapers.

4. The appellants-petitioners were suspended vide order dated 13.09.2004 passed by the Assistant Commandant, CISF UNIT NAPS (respondent no.4) with the direction not to leave the headquarters without obtaining the prior permission of the respondent no.4 during the suspension period.

5. The contention of the appellants is that they could have not stayed at the headquarters during the suspension period under the unavoidable circumstances inasmuch as an First Information Report (F.I.R.) having been lodged against them and there was an apprehension of being arrested. The appellants in order to seek legal protection from the Court of law, approached the High Court at Allahabad by way of filing a Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.7426 of 2004 (Jitendra Singh and another versus State of U.P. and others). The High Court vide order dated 23.09.2004 dismissed the said writ petition with the observation that in case the petitioner surrenders and moves an application for bail in the aforesaid criminal case, the court concerned shall consider and dispose of the same expeditiously and in accordance with law.

6. A preliminary inquiry was also conducted against the petitioners for disobeying the conditions imposed in the suspension order dated 13.09.2004. Thereafter, the Commandant, CISF UNIT NAPS, NARORA, vide order dated 25.09.2004 held that it was not reasonably practicable to hold an enquiry in the matter as is provided under Rule 36 of the CISF Rules, 2001 and exercising the powers conferred under Rule 32, 34 & 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001, proceeded to dismiss the appellants-petitioners from service. Both the above named appellants filed departmental appeals against the dismissal order dated 25.09.2004 before the Deputy Inspector General, CISF (respondent no.3) that were dismissed vide order dated 13.01.2005. Thereafter, they filed separate revisions challenging the said order of dismissal. The Inspector General (WS), CISF (respondent no.2) dismissed the said revisions of the appellants, namely, Paramjit Singh and Jitendra Singh vide orders dated 31.10.2005 and 09.08.2005, respectively.

7. Both the above named appellants individually filed writ petitions before this Court assailing the dismissal order and also the appellate as well as revisional orders passed against the them. The said writ petition filed by the petitioner-appellant Paramjit Singh was registered as Writ- A No.59016 of 2007 and the writ petition filed by Jitendra Singh was registered as Writ- A No.78351 of 2005. It would not be out of place to note that since both the appellants were acquitted vide judgment and order dated 07.06.2007 passed by the Court of learned Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Bulandshahar in Session Trial No.271 of 2005 (State versus Paramjit Singh and another), this Court by a common order dated 17.08.2011 disposed of both the said writ petitions by granting liberty to the petitioner to approach the revisional authority by way of an appropriate representation with a direction to the revisional authority to pass appropriate orders in accordance with law in the light of the observations made in the said order within a period of two months from the date of submission of such representation. The extract of the aforementioned order dated 17.08.2011 is reproduced below:

of the CISF as a whole. Although the petitioners have not been able to demonstrate why they were falsely implicated but the fact remains that in the trial both the victims have denied in their statements that it was the petitioners who had raped them. Once the victims have themselves in the trial not recognized the petitioners as the culprits, the basis for their dismissal on the ground of the said incident needs to be reconsidered.

It is well settled that where an employee who is dismissed on the ground of a criminal case filed against him, although acquitted in the said criminal case, it would still be at the discretion and within the power of the Disciplinary Authority whether or not to take back in service such employees. the Disciplinary Authority for reasons to be recorded may refuse. There could be a case where after the lodging of a criminal case, the department may hold an internal inquiry and based upon the material adduced in the said inquiry may award the punishment. However in the present case no inquiry has been conducted and the order of dismissal has been passed exercising special powers under Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules. In the opinion of the Court, the Disciplinary Authority or the Appellate Authority or the Revisional Authority may re-examine the case of the petitioners in the light of the judgment of the trial Court in the Criminal case and pass appropriate orders. The petitioners should not be made to suffer for an offence they may not have committed.

Thus, without going into the question as to whether the order of dismissal in absence of any inquiry was vitiated or not in the opinion of the Court the appropriate authorities may reconsider the matter upon appropriate representation being moved by the petitioners. As the matter had been taken into appeal and revision, the proper course open to the petitioners would be to approach the Revisional Authority for recalling its order and for reconsidering the matter. It would be for the Revisional Authority whether to consider the matter at its level or remit the same to the Disciplinary Authority to reconsider in the light of the judgment of acquittal and the evidence led in the trial. In view of the above, both the petitions stand disposed of with liberty to the petitioners to approach the Revisional Authority by way of an appropriate representation annexing a copy of the judgment of the trial court along with certified copy of this order and upon such representation being filed the Revisional Authority may proceed to pass appropriate orders in accordance with law in the light of the observations made in this order within a period of two months from the date of submission of such representation along with certified copy of the order.”(emphasis supplied by us)

8. The representation filed by the appellants-petitioners, said to have been moved on 04.10.2011, was rejected by the Inspector General (respondent no.2) vide order dated 28.11.2011. The extract of the relevant portion of the order dated 28.11.2011 is reproduced hereinbelow:

“.....The representation of the petitioner has been considered on merit in compliance of order of Hon’ble Allahabad High Court and the entire proceeding has been re-examined.

8. Therefore, in due compliance of the judgment orders of Hon’ble Allahabad High Court dated 17.8.2011 and Hon’ble trial court dated 07.6.2007 to reconsider this matter, the charges on the basis of which departmental action was processed against the petitioner and the decision of the revisional authority need to be analyzed. Upon examination of materials held on records it is revealed that the Disciplinary Authority got a Preliminary enquiry conducted into the reported breach in discipline and found that (i) the petitioner while deployed for patrolling/mess duty in STF wing remained absent from STF barrack from 1400 hrs on 03.9.2004 unauthorisdlly, (ii) he alongwith HC/Dvr Jitender Singh detained 03 ladies, letting two other ladies to go out of boundary wall and then they misbehaved with two of the ladies, namely Smt. Meena and Smt. Maharani and (iii) that they did not inform this incident of trespass and subsequent events to any of their senior officer. Thus, even though the petitioner has been acquitted from the charges of committing rape and offence under SC/ST Act, the facts as mentioned at (i), (ii) and (iii) above have not been disputed.

9. With reference to the issue of conducting regular DE after culmination of Preliminary Enquiry it has come on record that the petitioner deserted the unit lines on 19.9.2004 while under suspension violating the instructions contained in para-3 of suspension order dated 13.9.2004 which was duly acknowledged by him and the Disciplinary Authority found it highly impractical to conduct Departmental Enquiry in the manner provided under rule-36 of CISF Rules 2001 in the hostile situation.

10. Thus, the delinquencies at (i) to (iii) above in para-8 proved in the preliminary enquiry which formed the basis of order passed by the disciplinary authority are different from the crime of rape and offense under SC/ST Act from which the Hon’ble Trial court has acquitted the petitioner. In other words, the charges under criminal case against the petitioner have not been the sole matter of consideration in the instant Departmental proceedings.

11. As such, even after due compliance of the Hon'ble High Court order and after taking into consideration the observations made in the order, I find the order of Disciplinary Authority commensurate with the gravity of undisciplined acts and misconduct on the part of the petitioner being a member of Armed Force of Union and subversive for good order and Force discipline and, therefore, does not warrant interference in order passed by Disciplinary Authority and upheld by Appellate Authority.

12. The representation submitted by the petitioner herein is, therefore, rejected being devoid of merit."

9. After the rejection of their above-mentioned representations; by the second respondent vide order dated 28.11.2011, the appellants separately filed petitions before the Writ Court, having Writ- A No. 8019 of 2012 and Writ- A No. 18146 of 2012. The learned Writ Court after hearing the parties and exchange of pleadings, dismissed both the writ petitions, vide the impugned order dated 22.12.2023 on the identical grounds. The extract of the findings returned by the learned Writ Court resulting into the dismissal of the Writ- A No.8019 of 2012 is reproduced below:

"23. After hearing the submissions extended on behalf of learned counsels for rival parties, after perusing the records and giving full regards to the judgments rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court and relied upon by learned counsels for the parties, it is crystal clear that submission made by learned counsel for the petitioner on the factual aspect are difficult to be gone into by this Court in proceedings of this petition where writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been invoked.

24. It is well settled while judicially reviewing any punishment order passed in disciplinary proceedings, the scope of interference of this Court is very limited and is confined to finding of fact the procedural flaws, if any.

25 The arguments raised by learned counsel for respondents seems to be forceful.

26. The entire disciplinary proceeding initiated against petitioner and the punishment has been based on the concurrent findings of facts which cannot be interfered by this Court. Moreover, no procedural flaw has been highlighted by learned counsel for petitioner while challenging the punishment order through the present petition.

27. In view of aforesaid, I do not find any good ground to interfere in the impugned orders. The instant petition thus lacks merit is accordingly dismissed."

10. Being aggrieved by the impugned order dated 22.12.2023, the petitioners-appellants preferred the instant Special Appeals. The bone of contention as advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants is that the learned Writ Court has failed to appreciate the material fact that the order of dismissal from service, being a major punishment could not have been passed merely on the basis of a preliminary enquiry which is simply a fact-finding enquiry, but the respondent authorities without giving any plausible reason for the exercise of the special procedure as contemplated under Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001, proceeded to pass the order of major punishment by circumventing the regular enquiry. It has been further contended that no punishment can be passed merely on the basis of the evidence collected during preliminary enquiry. In support of his contention, learned counsel relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Nirmala J. Jhala versus State of Gujarat and another, reported in (2013) 4 SCC 301 and also the Judgment dated 15.06.2022 passed by a Division Bench of the Karnataka High Court in the case of Sri Vikas Verma and others versus Union of India and others (W.P. No. 12681-12685 of 2016). He further asserted that the appellants-petitioners were honorably acquitted as the prosecution miserably failed to prove the charges in the Sessions Trial. Since the evidence and witness before the Criminal Court as well as before preliminary enquiry were same, thus, the judgment and order passed by the Sessions Court dated 07.06.2007 had a serious bearing on the preliminary enquiry but the respondents, despite the categorical direction dated 17.08.2011 issued by the Writ Court in Writ- A No.78351 of 2005 connected with Writ- A No. 59016 of 2007, did not consider the said aspect of the matter and rejected the representation of the appellants in the most mechanical manner thereby holding that the impugned orders do not warrant interference. This aspect of the matter has not been appreciated even by the Hon'ble Single Judge while passing the impugned order dated 22.12.2023.

11. It has also been contended that the respondent authorities have invoked the special procedure contemplated under Rule 39 of the CISF Rules, 2001, by treating the short absence of the appellants-petitioners from the headquarters as 'absconders' or 'deserters' while no proceeding was ever initiated for declaring them as 'absconders' or 'deserters'. Further, a short absence from Unit cannot be construed as a sufficient ground to invoke the extra-ordinary powers of dispensing with the enquiry, and as such the order of dismissal passed by the respondent authority under the garb of Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001, is not only violative of principles of natural justice but is also per-se illegal. It has also been asserted by the learned counsel for the appellant-petitioner that the Writ Court has failed to consider that the order dated 28.11.2011 passed by the second respondent is on a premise, which is entirely distinct from the issue that has been made the basis of dismissal order dated 25.09.2004. The second respondent while passing the impugned order dated 28.11.2011 carved out a new case by giving colour to the allegations that ultimately failed before the learned Sessions Court and as such are unsustainable in law.

12. Per contra, appearing on behalf of the Union of India/respondent, the learned Additional Solicitor General vehemently opposed the Special Appeals and asserted that on an F.I.R. being lodged under Section 376 I.P.C. and Section 3(i)(xii) of SC/ST Act, by the victims against the appellants-petitioner, they were placed under suspension vide order dated 13.09.2004 and they were instructed not to leave headquarters during suspension period without obtaining prior permission of the competent authority. While the preliminary enquiry was being conducted, the appellants-petitioners were reported absconding from the unit lines without permission/information of the competent authority. However, while returning to barracks, neither they informed about the incident nor did they make G.D. to that effect and hid from everyone. This incident caused rift in the relationship between the CISF and the locals. Due to such activity of the appellant-petitioner, the image of CISF was badly tarnished by the print and electronic media. Taking into consideration the seriousness of the matter and the fact that the issue could not be prolonged for an indefinite period and since appellants-petitioners were considered “absconding” from the unit lines during the suspension period, it was considered not practicable to hold enquiry under Rule 36 of the CISF Rules, 2001. Thus, the action was initiated in exercise of Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001 and the appellants-petitioners were dismissed from service vide order dated 25.09.2004. He further contended that the said order dated 25.09.2004 was passed to bridge the gap between the CISF and society and to restore the pride and prestige of the Force. Learned Additional Solicitor General of India placed reliance upon a Division Bench Judgment passed by the Delhi High Court in the case of Manojit Ghosh versus Union of India and others, reported in 2012 SCC OnLine DEL 888.

13. Having heard Sri Alok Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Shashi Prakash Singh, learned Additional Solicitor General of India, assisted by Ms. Pooja Agarwal, learned counsel for the respondent and upon perusal of the pleadings on record before this Court, the pivotal issue that emerges for consideration is that whether in the facts and circumstances of the instant case the provision of Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001 has been correctly invoked to dismiss the appellants-petitioners by dispensing with the procedure of enquiry for imposing major penalties otherwise contemplated under Rule 36 of the CISF Rules, 2001. The relevant provision of Rule 39(ii), for a ready reference, is quoted below:

(i) where any penalty is imposed on an enrolled member of the Force on the ground of conduct which had led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(ii) where the disciplinary authority is satisfied for reasons to be recorded by it in writing that it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry in the manner provided in these rules, or

(iii) where the President is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold any inquiry in the manner provided in these rules, the disciplinary authority may consider the circumstances of the case and make such orders thereon as it deems fit;

Provided that the enrolled member of the Force may be given an opportunity of making representation against the penalty proposed to be imposed before any order is made in case under clause (i).”

14. The question as to the circumstance in which the disciplinary enquiry could be dispensed has been elaborately dealt with by the Hon’ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India and another versus Tulsiram Patel and other connected appeals, reported in (1985) 3 SCC 398. The extract of paragraph 130 of the said judgment is quoted below for ready reference:

“130. The condition precedent for the application of clause (b) is the satisfaction of the disciplinary authority that “it is not reasonably practicable to hold” the inquiry contemplated by clause (2) of Article 311. What is pertinent to note is that the words used are “not reasonably practicable” and not “impracticable”. According to the Oxford English Dictionary “practicable” means “Capable of being put into practice, carried out in action, effected, accomplished, or done; feasible". Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines the word "practicable" inter alia as meaning "possible to practice or perform : capable of being put into practice, done or accomplished: feasible". Further, the words used are not "not practicable" but "not reasonably practicable". Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines the word "reasonably" as "in a reasonable manner: to a fairly sufficient extent". Thus, whether it was practicable to hold the inquiry or not must be judged in the context of whether it was reasonably practicable to do so. It is not a total or absolute impracticability which is required by clause (b). What is requisite is that the holding of the inquiry is not practicable in the opinion of a reasonable man taking a reasonable view of the prevailing situation. It is not possible to enumerate the cases in which it would not be reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry, but some instances by way of illustration may, however, be given. It would not be reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry where the government servant, particularly through or together with his associates, so terrorizes, threatens or intimidates witnesses who are going to give evidence against him with fear of reprisal as to prevent them from doing so or where the government servant by himself or together with or through others threatens, intimidates and terrorizes the officer who is the disciplinary authority or members of his family so that he is afraid to hold the inquiry or direct it to be held. It would also not be reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry where an atmosphere of violence or of general indiscipline and insubordination prevails, and it is immaterial whether the concerned government servant is or is not a party to bringing about such an atmosphere. In this connection, we must bear in mind that numbers coerce and terrify while an individual may not. The reasonable practicability of holding an inquiry is a matter of assessment to be made by the disciplinary authority. Such authority is generally on the spot and knows what is happening. It is because the disciplinary authority is the best judge of this that clause (3) of Article 311 makes the decision of the disciplinary authority on this question final. A disciplinary authority is not expected to dispense with a disciplinary inquiry lightly or arbitrarily or out of ulterior motives or merely in order to avoid the holding of an inquiry or because the Department's case against the government servant is weak and must fail. The finality given to the decision of the disciplinary authority by Article 311(3) is not binding upon the court so far as its power of judicial review is concerned and in such a case the court will strike down the order dispensing with the inquiry as also the order imposing penalty....."

15. In the instant case, the reason for absence from the Unit narrated by the appellant-petitioner in paragraphs no.8 and 9 of the writ petition No. 8019 of 2012, is that he was pursuing his case before the High Court at Allahabad during the period of alleged preliminary enquiry, the report of which has been made the sole basis of the passing of the dismissal order dated 25.09.2004. The said averment has been replied by the respondents in the corresponding paragraphs of the counter affidavit dated 11.06.2012, inter-alia stating therein that the departmental proceedings have no relation with the criminal proceedings. The appellant-petitioner was placed under suspension vide order dated 19.09.2004 with a direction that they shall not leave the headquarters without the prior permission of the disciplinary authority, but for the reason that the petitioner disobeyed the instruction and absconded from the unit lines at 21:05 hours on 19.04.2005, that compelled the disciplinary authority to take up disciplinary action by exercising the power under Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001.

16. Refuting the above stand of the respondent authorities, it is pleaded on behalf of the appellants-petitioners that in so far as the temporary absence of the appellants from the headquarter is concerned, the same did not amount to desertion inasmuch as the desertion has to be permanent. Justifying his absence from the Unit at the time when the alleged preliminary enquiry was in contemplation, the learned counsel submitted that the appellants-petitioners had to go to file the writ petition before the High Court at Allahabad, and it is for this reason, they left the unit on 20.09.2004 and reported back to the unit on 25.09.2004 and furthermore, there is nothing on record to show that the petitioners were ever declared 'absconders' or 'deserters'. The action on the part of the disciplinary authority in proceeding against them under the garb of Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001 is a hasty and unreasonable decision and cannot be justified in view of the fact that they were slapped with the major punishment of dismissal from service in the most arbitrary manner even without following the due procedure as is provided under law thereby depriving them of their valuable right to defend their case by filing a reply to the alleged charges and to cross-examine the witnesses.

17. The law is well settled that the rule of audi alteram partem cannot be ignored ordinarily and especially when it is a case of major punishment adversely affecting the rights of a person. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Tulsiram Patel (supra) has been pleased to hold as under:

"96. The rule of natural justice with which we are concerned in these appeals and writ petitions, namely, the audi alteram partem rule, in its fullest amplitude means that a person against whom an order to his prejudice may be passed should be informed of the allegations and charges against him, be given an opportunity of submitting his explanation thereto, have the right to know the evidence, both oral or documentary, by which the matter is proposed to be decided against him, and to inspect the documents which are relied upon for the purpose of being used against him, to have the witnesses who are to give evidence against him examined in his presence and have the right to cross-examine them, and to lead his own evidence, both oral and documentary, in his defence. The process of a fair hearing need not, however, conform to the judicial process in a Court of law, because judicial adjudication of causes involves a number of technical rules of procedure and evidence which are unnecessary and not required for the purpose of a fair hearing within the meaning of audi alteram partem rule in a quasi-judicial or administrative inquiry. If we look at clause (2) of Article 311 in the light of what is stated above, it will be apparent that that clause is merely an express statement of the audi alteram partem rule which is implicitly made part of the guarantee contained in Article 14 as a result of the interpretation placed upon that article by recent decisions of this Court. Clause (2) of Article 311 requires that before a government servant is dismissed, removed or reduced in rank, an inquiry must be held in which he is informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges. The nature of the hearing to be given to a government servant under clause (2) of Article 311 has been elaborately set out by this Court in Khem Chand case [AIR 1958 SC 300 : 1958 SCR 1080 : (1959) 1 LLJ 167] in the passages from the judgment extracted above. Though that case related to the original clause (2) of Article 311, the same applies to the present clause (2) of Article 311 except for the fact that now a government servant has no right to make any representation against the penalty proposed to be imposed upon him but, as pointed out earlier, in the case of Suresh Koshy George v. University of Kerala [AIR 1969 SC 198 : (1969) 1 SCR 317, 326] such an opportunity is not the requirement of the principles of natural justice and as held in Associated Cement Companies Ltd. v. T.C. Shrivastava [1984 Supp SCC 87 : 1984 SCC (L&S) 488 : (1984) 3 SCR 361, 369] neither the ordinary law of the land nor industrial law requires such an opportunity to be given. The opportunity of showing cause against the proposed penalty was only the result of the interpretation placed by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in Lall case [AIR 1948 PC 121 : LR (1947-1948) 75 IA 225, 243-4 : 1948 FCR 44] upon Section 240(3) of the Government of India Act, 1935, which was accepted by this Court in Khem Chand case [AIR 1958 SC 300 : 1958 SCR 1080 : (1959) 1 LLJ 167] . If, therefore, an inquiry held against a government servant under clause (2) of Article 311 is unfair or biased or has been conducted in such a manner as not to give him a fair or reasonable opportunity to defend himself, undoubtedly, the principles of natural justice would be violated, but in such a case the order of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank would be held to be bad as contravening the express provisions of clause (2) of Article 311 and there will be no scope for having recourse to Article 14 for the purpose of invalidating it.”

18. In so far as the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners-appellants that the order of dismissal has been passed neither on merits of the case nor by taking into consideration the factual matrix of the case, rather the order of dismissal was passed under the pressure and influence of the local residents and the media, finds strength from a bare perusal of the impugned order dated 25.09.2004, which contains the following:

9. Whereas on 12.09.04, a news article appeared in Hindi daily Dainik Jagaran containing all fame for CISF Unit Arora as a whole, which continues till date.

10. Whereas, an FIR lodged by the aggrieved two ladies vide crime no. 182/04 dated 12.09.04 under section 376 IPC and Section 3(1)12 of SC / ST Act against him in Narora Police Station.

11. Whereas, HC/Dvr, Paramjit Singh has been placed under suspension wef, 13.09.04.

12. Whereas MOTO directed her he would not Paramjit Singh was clearly leave Unit Hqrs., without prior permission of the Disciplinary Authority, during the period of suspension.

13. Whereas, absconding suspension, with effect from 19.09.04, himself from without the he is unit lines during taking permission from any competent authority and is still absconding till date which itself speaks that he wanted to evade from the legal and disciplinary action against the delinquency he committed.

14. Whereas, from the articles published in various news papers from 12.09.04 to till date and news articles broadcasted in various TV news channels, it is clear that not only, this incident has badly tarnished the image of CISF in this vicinity but also brought ill fame and disgrace to the Force as a whole.

15. Whereas, this incident has caused rift in the relationship of brotherhood, peace and harmony between CISF and locals and also the employees of the Undertaking where he is deployed.

16. Whereas, considering the sensitivity and seriousness of heinous act on the part of HC/Dvr. Paramjit Singh, it is eminent to keep the morale of the members of the force high by taking stern decision in the matter.

17. Whereas, since it is considered that to bridge the gap between the CISF and local inhabitants and also to restore normalcy of the situation this case cannot be prolonged for indefinite period.

18. Whereas, HC/Dvr. Paramjit Singh is still absconding himself and his whereabouts are still not known and I am satisfied that it will not be reasonably practicable to hold an enquiry in the manner provided under Rule-36 of CISF Rules, 2001, meet the ends of justice.

19. And whereas, on considering facts and circumstances of this case I am satisfied that the penalty of 'Dismissal from Service' should be imposed on No. 884526522 HC/Dvr. Paramjit Singh. Now, therefore, by view of the powers conferred upon me by Rule 32, read in conjunction with Schedule-I and Rule 34, and Rule 39(ii) of CISF Rules, 2001, I order that No. 884526522 HC/Dvr. Paramjit Singh be 'Dismissed from service' from the date of issue of this order from his above serious misconduct being a member of disciplined Force of the Union like CISF as his continuance in the service will prejudicial in the interest of public service.

19. Further, it has been vehemently argued on behalf of the appellant-petitioners that once the appellants have been acquitted in the criminal case, on finding it to be a case of 'no evidence' and more so when this aspect of the matter has been directed to be noticed by the High Court vide order dated 17.08.2011 in the writ petition No. 78351 of 2005, the revisional authority was required to reconsider the matter in the light of the judgment of acquittal and the evidence led in the trial. The action of Inspector General (respondent no.2) in passing the order treating the petitioners to be guilty of the alleged offence is not only in disregard to the order dated 17.08.2011 passed by the High Court but amounts to a premeditated decision to punish the appellants for the alleged act for which no evidence exists.

20. In so far as the judgment passed in Manojit Ghosh (supra), relied upon by Ms. Pooja Agarwal, learned counsel for the respondent, is concerned, the same is not applicable in the present case. In the case of Manojit Ghosh (supra), the Court found no malafide and arbitrariness on the part of the authorities while in the present case, the allegation of the appellants-petitioners is that the disciplinary authority without taking into consideration the merits of the case, passed the order of dismissal under the pressure of the villagers, local politicians and media and the said allegation contained in paragraph 20 of the writ petition has been replied in paras 20 and 17 of the counter affidavit filed by the respondents wherein there is no specific denial of the said argument. Further, the impugned order itself speaks the basis of the proceeding as 'to bridge the gap between the CISF and local inhabitants' which renders the factual matrix of Manojit Ghosh (supra) case distinguishable from the facts of the present case, and the judgment relied upon is not attracted in the present case. The other judgment passed in the case of Sri Vikas Verma (supra), as relied upon by the learned counsel appearing for the respondent, is also not applicable in the present case as the same has been passed in a case where the Court considered the 'incident being rarest of the rare'. For ready reference, the observations made in para 19 of the said judgment are quoted below:

"The incidents being rarest of the rare and considering the discipline and moral of the force, the disciplinary authority rightly held that it is not reasonably practicable to hold a regular enquiry. The disciplinary authority has rightly held that if a regular enquiry would have been held, the same would have spread the news of heinous incidents committed in the premises of CISF when the complainant's husband was away for duty. It would have caused serious psychological impact and insecurity in the minds of personnel who have left their family on campus and holding of departmental enquiry, would have adverse ramification and administrative difficulties while deploying the personnel outside the area of premises. Thus, the disciplinary authority has recorded the satisfaction on the objective facts and the decision to dispense with the departmental enquiry is neither outcome of whim or caprice of the disciplinary authority nor is malafide. This court cannot sit in appeal over the decision taken by disciplinary authority to dispense with enquiry. Therefore, no case for interference with the decision to dispense with the regular enquiry is made out in exercise of powers of judicial review."

21. In the case of Jaswant Singh versus State of Punjab and others; reported in (1991) 1 SCC 362, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:-

"It was incumbent on the respondents to disclose to the Court the material in existence at the date of the passing of the impugned order in support of the subjective satisfaction recorded by respondent No.3, in the impugned order. Clause (b) of the second proviso to Article 311(2) can be invoked only when the authority is satisfied from the material place before him that it is not reasonably practicable to hold a departmental inquiry."

The Supreme Court further held:

"The decision to dispense with the departmental inquiry cannot, therefore, be rested solely on the ipse dixit of the concerned authority. When the satisfaction of the concerned authority is questioned in a Court of law, it is incumbent on those who support the order to show that the satisfaction is based on certain objective facts and is not the outcome of the whim of caprice of the concerned officer."

22. Further, in the case of Sudesh Kumar versus State of Haryana and others; reported in (2005) 11 SCC 525, the Supreme Court observed as follows:-

"It is now established principle of law that an inquiry under Article 311(2) is a rule and dispensing with the inquiry is an exception. The authority dispensing with the inquiry under Article 311(2)(b) must satisfy for reasons to be recorded that it is *not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry. A reading of the termination order by invoking Article 311(2)(b), as extracted above, would clearly show that no reasons whatsoever have been assigned as to why it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry. The reasons disclosed in the termination order are that the complainant refused to name the accused out of fear of harassment; the complainant, being a foreign national, is likely to leave the country and once he left the country, it may not be reasonably practicable to bring him to the inquiry. This is no ground for dispensing with the inquiry. On the other hand, it is not disputed that, by order dated 23-12-1999, the visa of the complainant was extended up to 22-12-2000. Therefore, there was no difficulty in securing the presence of Mr Kenichi Tanaka in the inquiry.*³⁵

A reasonable opportunity of hearing enshrined in Article 311(2) of the Constitution would include an opportunity to defend himself and establish his innocence by cross-examining the prosecution witnesses produced against him and by examining the defence witnesses in his favour, if any. This he can do only if inquiry is held where he has been informed of the charges levelled against him. In the instant case, the mandate of Article 311(2) of the Constitution has been violated depriving reasonable opportunity of being heard to the appellant."

23. Moreover, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Chief Security Officer and others versus Singasan Rabi Das; reported in 1991(1) SCC 729, has also held that in the absence of sufficient material or good ground for dispensing with the inquiry, the termination order is illegal.

24. It is settled law that the evidence recorded in the preliminary enquiry cannot be used in regular enquiry as the delinquent is not associated with it, and opportunity to cross-examine the persons examined in such enquiry is not given. Using such evidence would be violative of the principles of natural justice. A Constitution Bench of this Court in the case of Amalendu Ghosh versus North Eastern Railway, reported in AIR 1960 SC 992, has held that the purpose of holding a preliminary enquiry in respect of a particular alleged misconduct is only for the purpose of finding a particular fact and prima facie to know as to whether the alleged misconduct has been committed and only on the basis of the findings recorded in preliminary enquiry, no order of punishment can be passed.

25. Having regard to the facts and circumstances as have been narrated hereinabove, it is evident that the disciplinary authority-respondents dismissed the appellants without following the procedure as contemplated under Rule 36 of the CISF Rules, 2001, and by resorting to Rule 39(ii) thereby treating the petitioner to be absconding from the Unit. However, from the pleadings as are available before us, it is evident that the absence of the appellant from the Unit was not as such to be treated as 'absconding' and compelling the respondents to resort to the Rule 39(ii) which empowers the disciplinary authority to dispense with the departmental enquiry for passing of the punishment order.

26. The mandate of the law is clear that before dispensing with an enquiry, a subjective satisfaction is to be arrived at by the Disciplinary Authority that it is not reasonably practicable to hold a regular departmental enquiry. These reasons must be based on an objective criterion and not on the whims and fancies of the Disciplinary Authority. In other words, it cannot be based on surmises and conjectures, but must reflect the actual ground reality, which makes it not reasonably practicable for the Disciplinary Authority to order a regular departmental enquiry.

27. As such the action on the part of the disciplinary authority to proceed against the appellants in the garb of Rule 39 of the CISF Rules, 2001 is a hasty decision and cannot be justified in light of the fact that the major punishment of dismissal has been awarded against the appellants without even following the due procedure, resultantly depriving them to defend their case by filing a reply to the alleged charges and to cross-examine the witnesses.

28. Further, nothing could be shown on behalf of the respondents that any effort was made by the authorities to find out the whereabouts of the appellants-petitioners, before resorting to the provisions of 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001. The learned Additional Solicitor General defending the action of the respondent authorities in passing the impugned dismissal order by dispensing with the regular departmental enquiry; submitted that due to the misconduct committed by the appellant-petitioner, the image of CISF was badly tarnished by the print and electronic media. Taking into consideration the seriousness of the matter, the case could not be prolonged for the indefinite period and since appellants-petitioners were absconding from the unit lines during the suspension period and also their whereabouts were not known, it was considered not practicable to hold enquiry under Rule 36 of the CISF Rules, 2001 and as such, action was initiated on the strength of Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001 and the appellants-petitioners were dismissed from service vide order dated 25.09.2004.

29. It also goes without saying that in the set of circumstances as narrated above, instead of resorting to the provisions of Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001, dealing with the dispensation of the regular departmental enquiry, the Disciplinary Authority at the most could have held an ex-parte regular enquiry, as contemplated under the said Rules, 2001, to proceed for dismissal of the services of the appellants-petitioners.

30. Needless to say that the power of the disciplinary authority to continue with the department enquiry cannot be curbed on the ground of acquittal of the delinquent by the Criminal Court, but normally where the accused is acquitted honorably and exonerated of the charges it would not be expedient to carry out a departmental enquiry on the very same charge or grounds or evidence. This aspect has been discussed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of G.M. Tank versus State of Gujarat, reported in (2006) 5 SCC 446. The relevant paragraphs of the same are reproduced below:

“ 30. The judgments relied on by the learned counsel appearing for the respondents are distinguishable on facts and on law. In this case, the departmental proceedings and the criminal case are based on identical and similar set of facts and the charge in a departmental case against the appellant and the charge before the criminal court are one and the same. It is true that the nature of charge in the departmental proceedings and in the criminal case is grave. The nature of the case launched against the appellant on the basis of evidence and material collected against him during enquiry and investigation and as reflected in the charge-sheet, factors mentioned are one and the same. In other words, charges, evidence, witnesses and circumstances are one and the same. In the present case, criminal and departmental proceedings have already noticed or granted on the same set of facts, namely, raid conducted at the appellant's residence, recovery of articles therefrom. The Investigating Officer Mr V.B. Raval and other departmental witnesses were the only witnesses examined by the enquiry officer who by relying upon their statement came to the conclusion that the charges were established against the appellant. The same witnesses were examined in the criminal case and the criminal court on the examination came to the conclusion that the prosecution has not proved the guilt alleged against the appellant beyond any reasonable doubt and acquitted the appellant by its judicial pronouncement with the finding that the charge has not been proved. It is also to be noticed that the judicial pronouncement was made after a regular trial and on hot contest. Under these circumstances, it would be unjust and unfair and rather oppressive to allow the findings recorded in the departmental proceedings to stand.

31. In our opinion, such facts and evidence in the departmental as well as criminal proceedings were the same without there being any iota of difference, the appellant should succeed. The distinction which is usually proved between the departmental and criminal proceedings on the basis of the approach and burden of proof would not be applicable in the instant case. Though the finding recorded in the domestic enquiry was found to be valid by the courts below, when there was an honourable acquittal of the employee during the pendency of the proceedings challenging the dismissal, the same requires to be taken note of and the decision in Paul Anthony case [(1999) 3 SCC 679 : 1999 SCC (L&S) 810] will apply. We, therefore, hold that the appeal filed by the appellant deserves to be allowed.”

31. Once it has been observed that there was no material available on record to establish that there was such a situation, much less any plausible justification to arrive at the conclusion that it was ‘not reasonably practicable’ to exercise the proceeding under section 36 of the CISF Rules, 2001; then the regular departmental enquiry becomes inevitable before awarding the major punishment of dismissal.

32. We have carefully perused the materials on record and we find that there was no intent from the very beginning on part of the employer to hold disciplinary enquiry, nor has it been shown that holding of the disciplinary enquiry became impermissible because of the alleged absence of the appellants. Since no steps were ever taken to initiate disciplinary enquiry, it was not open for the employer to state that holding of disciplinary enquiry became impermissible on account of non-availability of the appellants. We have already held that the absence from work was otherwise not for a long duration and had occasioned because the appellants were pursuing the legal remedy in respect of the criminal proceedings initiated against them by approaching the High Court.

33. In the case of Roop Singh Negi versus Punjab National Bank and others, reported in (2009) 2 SCC 570, the Hon’ble Supreme Court has been pleased to hold that a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself cannot be treated to be credible evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. The witnesses are necessary to be examined to prove the documents and merely tendering of the same by the witnesses does not prove the contents thereof further, reliance inter alia, placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR could not be treated as evidence.

34. An eloquent statement of the aforesaid law, to the same end, can be found in a decision of this Court rendered by a Co-ordinate Bench in the case of State of U.P. versus Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, reported in 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB) (LB), wherein it has been held as under:

"17. It is trite law that the departmental proceedings are quasi judicial proceedings. The Inquiry Officer functions as quasi judicial officer. He is not merely a representative of the department. He has to act as an independent and impartial officer to find out the truth. The major punishment awarded to an employee visit serious civil consequences and as such the departmental proceedings ought to be in conformity with the principles of natural justice. Even if, an employee prefers not to participate in enquiry the department has to establish the charge against the employee by adducing oral as well as documentary evidence. In case charges warrant major punishment then the oral evidence by producing the witnesses is necessary."

35. In view of the aforesaid, we are of the opinion that the impugned order of dismissal does not reflect any satisfactory reasons for dispensing with the disciplinary inquiry. The charges so leveled are such that it can only be enquired through a proper departmental enquiry. It is not a case where it could be said that it was not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry. In our opinion, the decision of the disciplinary authority was wholly arbitrary. In view of the aforesaid, the exercise of the powers under Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001 was totally unwarranted. Consequently, the impugned order of dismissal from the services against the appellants-petitioners is unsustainable in the eyes of law and as such is liable to be quashed.

36. The learned Single Judge while passing the impugned order dated 22.12.2023 has failed to appreciate the real controversy involved in the case, as discussed hereinabove and has declined to entertain the writ petitions by holding that the scope of interference of the Writ Court is very limited and is confined to the findings of fact of the procedural flaws, if any, in exercise of the writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and further recorded a finding that the entire disciplinary proceeding initiated against the petitioners and the punishment is based on the concurrent findings of facts which cannot be interfered by the Writ Court. We cannot approve of the view taken by the learned Single Judge that there is no procedural flaw in holding of the enquiry.

37. Taking into consideration the factual matrix of the case and the deliberations made hereinabove, we find ourselves unable to accord approval to the findings returned by the Hon'ble Single Judge while deciding the Writ- A No.8019 of 2012 and Writ- A No.18146 of 2012, and are of the considered opinion that the impugned orders dated 22.12.2023 passed by the learned Writ Court are liable to be set aside and are hereby set aside. Accordingly, the impugned dismissal order dated 25.09.2004 and the consequential orders passed by the Appellate as well as the Revisional Authorities are hereby quashed. Consequently, the appellants are entitled to be reinstated in service. Since the order impugned has been set aside primarily on the ground that holding of disciplinary enquiry could not have been dispensed with, in the facts of the present case, it would be open for the employer to hold fresh departmental enquiry in accordance with the CISF Rules, 2001. In case if the respondent authorities choose to hold the regular enquiry in the matter, in accordance with the prescribed rules, then in that event, the payment of back wages shall abide by the result of such enquiry.

38. This direction is being issued keeping in view the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad versus B. Karunakar, reported in (1993) 4 SCC 727. It would be open for the employer to place the appellants under suspension for the purposes of holding of enquiry. The appellants would, however, be entitled to payment of subsistence allowance during the period of enquiry which would be concluded within a period of four months. The appellants undertake to extend full cooperation in holding of such enquiry. However, in the event the employer is not desirous of holding disciplinary enquiry in terms of the above liberty the appellants shall be reinstated in service along with continuity and arrears of salary at the rate of 25% in the facts of the present case.

39. Both the appeals are, accordingly, disposed of with the aforesaid liberty. No order as to cost.

Clause 25 allows selection for small hydrocele only if operated prior to medical examination with no bad scar left, not post-rejection surgery. No right exists for candidates to undergo surgery after being found medically unfit and seek fresh examination. Judicial review limited to procedural flaws or arbitrariness; none found. ailments/deformity on account of which the candidature of a candidate could be rejected. Clause 25 which deals with large and small hydrocele reads as under:-

1. This special appeal arises out of an order passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.21108 of 2023 whereby the appellants' grievance in respect of their candidature having been overlooked on account of a medical ailment has been rejected.

2. Learned Single Judge has noticed the facts of the case as per which the appellants applied for the post of Constable Driver in the Central Police Organization-SSB. They were found suffering from small hydrocele. The Rules of recruitment permitted conduct of review medical examination, wherein also the appellants were non-suited. Aggrieved by the rejection of their candidature, the appellants approached writ Court. Learned Single Judge has observed that the respondents fairly treated the appellants in the matter of recruitment and the conduct of medical examination as well as the review medical examination was found in accordance with the procedure laid down for recruitment.

3. It is not in issue that the physical examination of the candidate provisionally selected for appointment in Central Police Organization has to be undertaken in accordance with the guidelines issued by the Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India. Detailed guidelines were earlier issued on 20.5.2015, which have been partially modified on 21.5.2021. The guidelines have been produced before us. The manner of conduct of examination has been specified in the guidelines. Clause 6 contains various physical

"25. Large hydrocele, even if curable by operation. Small hydrocele (if operated upon and no bad scar is left after operation may be accepted)."

4. With reference to the above clause, learned counsel for the appellants submits that in case of small hydrocele the guidelines permits a candidate to be selected even in a case where the candidate is operated upon and no bad scar is left after operation. With reference to the above provisions, it is urged before us that the respondents ought to have given a reasonable opportunity to the appellant to get him operated upon and thereafter the candidature ought to have been considered afresh. Learned counsel submits that the purpose of holding a review medical test is to allow opportunity to the candidate to get such operation performed so that the candidature is not discarded on a ground which otherwise could be overlooked.

5. Submission in that regard is opposed by Sri Pradeep Shankar Pandey, learned counsel for the respondents.

6. We have considered the respective submissions raised at the bar. The interpretation which is sought to be suggested by the appellants does not appeal to us. Clause 25 categorically provides that in case of large hydrocele, even if it is curable by operation, the candidate would be rejected for selection. In the case of small hydrocele the candidate could still be selected even if it is found that he has been operated upon and no bad scar is left after operation. The clause, in our Service Law - Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Ministerial Staff and Group 'D' Employees) Rules, 1984 - Rule 21 - Termination of Service - Class-IV employee in recognized Junior High School terminated without prior written approval of District Basic Education Officer (BSA), violating mandatory Rule 21. Termination order (10.04.2014) issued day after suspension (09.04.2014) without departmental enquiry, rendering it illegal. BSA's order (31.03.2017) rejecting salary claim unsustainable due to admitted lack of prior approval. Single Judge's direction (18.01.2024) for BSA to decide on approval post-termination erroneous, as prior approval is mandatory. Termination order and BSA's order quashed; appellant entitled to reinstatement. Special Appeal Allowed.

Mishra, J.
Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. The special appeal arises out of an order passed by the writ court on 18.1.2024 disposing of the appellant's Writ-A No. 24667 of 2017. Services of the petitioner-appellant have been terminated by the management and the order was sent to District Basic Education Officer for his approval. Learned Single Judge has noticed that no decision has been taken on decision of management and this aspect is not even clarified in the personal affidavit of the officer. A direction has accordingly been issued to the District Basic Education Officer to take a decision regarding grant of approval to the order of termination within a period of two weeks.. In default, the petitioner has been held entitled to salary for the period he has actually worked, subject to verification.

2. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the statutory scheme has been completely overlooked by the learned Single Judge and facts have not been examined in correct perspective.

3. It is undisputed that the appellant was a Class-IV employee in the Mahajan

Laghu Madhyamik Vidyalaya Salempur, Deoria. This Institution is duly recognized and the provisions of the Payment of Salaries Act, 1978 are applicable upon it. The services of the appellant were approved and he was working. The management apparently objected to the working of the appellant and consequently the appellant filed Writ A No. 7588 of 2016, which came to be disposed of on 19.2.2016 vide following order:-

"It is stated that petitioner is a Class-IV employee, working in the institution, but the Management for the reasons unknown, is not permitting him to incorporate signature in the attendance register, and on such count, the salary of petitioner alongwith two other employees has been stopped since the year 2013. It is contended that subsequently payment of salary to other two persons has been restored, but petitioner continues to be victimized. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that Management of the institution is acting in an arbitrary manner, and the authorities are not examining the petitioner's grievance.

Notices on behalf of respondent nos.1 and 2 have been accepted by learned Standing Counsel, whereas Sri S.K. Gupta has accepted notices on behalf of respondent nos.3 and 4.

Considering the nature of order proposed to be passed today, notices need not be issued to the respondent no. 5, as it would further delay the disposal of cause, and the writ petition is being disposed of, at this stage, itself.

Considering the facts and circumstances, as have been noticed above, it would be appropriate to direct the respondent no.4 to examine the grievance of petitioner, noticed above, in accordance with law, by means of a reasoned speaking order to be passed after affording an opportunity of hearing in the matter to respondent no.5, within a period of three months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order. All consequential action shall be taken, accordingly.

With the aforesaid observations/directions, the writ petition stands disposed of."

4. The appellant accordingly represented before the District Basic Education Officer that he be allowed to continue in the employment of the Institution and be paid salary. Since, no orders were passed by the District Basic Education Officer,□ a Contempt Application (Civil) No. 6230 of 2016 was filed, in which further time was granted to the District Basic Education Officer to comply with the order of the Writ Court. It is pursuant to this direction that the District Basic Education Officer has passed the order impugned in the writ filed before the learned Single Judge. This order is dated 31.3.2017. In the discussion part of this order it is recorded that the Block Education Officer has submitted a report on 21.7.2014, as per which the appellant was not attending to his duties and his signatures were not available in the attendance register. The Management also informed that with effect from 1.7.2013 the appellant was not working. The Committee of Management thus placed the appellant under suspension on 9.4.2014. It is then recorded by the District Basic Education Officer that on 10.4.2014 i.e. the very next day of passing of the order of suspension, the services of appellant were terminated and papers were forwarded for grant of approval to the District Basic Education Officer. The District Basic Education Officer has recorded in his order that appropriate decision relating to grant of approval would be taken later. However, claim of payment of salary to the appellant has been rejected. Aggrieved by this order dated 31.3.2017, the appellant filed Writ-A No. 24667 of 2017, which has been disposed of by the learned Single Judge vide order under challenge.

5. We have heard Shri Prabhakar Awasthi for the appellant, Shri K.N. Mishra for the Committee of Management and learned State Counsel representing respondent Nos. 1 and 2.

6. Upon hearing the counsel for the parties, it transpires that Institution is a duly recognized Junior High School and the service conditions of the Class-II and Class-IV employees in the Institution would be governed by the provisions of□ Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment And Conditions Of Service Of Ministerial Staff And Group 'D' Employees) Rules, 1984. Rule 21 would be attracted in the facts of the present case, which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"21- Termination of Service-No clerk or group 'D' employee of a recognized school may be discharged or removed or dismissed from service or reduced in rank or subjected to any diminution in emoluments or served with notice of termination of service except with the prior approval in writing of the District Basic Education Officer:-

Provided that, in the case of schools established and administered by minority referred to in clause 1 of the Article 30 of the Constitution, such an order shall not require the approval of District Basic Education Officer, but shall be reported to him."

7. Rule 21 clearly mandates that a Group 'D' employee cannot be terminated except with the prior approval, in writing of the District Basic Education Officer.

8. In the facts of the case, it is apparent that the appellant had approached this Court with the grievance that the Committee of Management is not permitting him to incorporate his signatures on the attendance register and he is not being permitted to work. It was this grievance of the appellant which was directed to be considered by the District Basic Education Officer. The District Basic Education Officer, however has proceeded on a tangent and has mechanically rejected the claim of the appellant for payment of salary on the ground that the appellant's services have already terminated by the Managing Committee. The District Basic Education Officer in the self same order has recorded that appropriate decision would be taken later with regard to grant of approval to the order of termination. It is thus admitted in the order of the officer that no prior approval was accorded, in writing, by the competent authority and consequently the termination order would be in clear derogation of Rule 21 of the applicable Rules.

9. We are at a loss to understand as to how the District Basic Education Officer could reject the claim of the appellant when it is admitted to the officer concerned that no prior approval was obtained by the Managing Committee before terminating the services of the appellant. Rule 21 has neither been noticed by the District Basic Education Officer nor the attention of learned Single Judge appears to have been invited to it. We further find from the order of District Basic Education Officer that on 9.4.2014 a decision was taken to proceed departmentally against the appellant. On the very next day i.e. 10.4.2014 the appellant has been terminated from service. It is, therefore, apparent that no enquiry whatsoever has been conducted in the matter by the Managing Committee of the Institution, and therefore, the order of termination otherwise could not have been sustained.

10. We may note that when the writ petition was earlier placed for hearing on 4.7.2017, the learned Single Judge had passed the following orders:-

"The petitioner is a Class-IV employee working in a recognised institution, namely, Mahajan Laghu Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Salempur, Deoria. He was prevented from signing the attendance register and his salary was also stopped since 2013. Later, the salaries of two other employees were released, however, in respect of the petitioner's grievance no decision was taken by the Committee of Management.

Aggrieved by the said highhandedness of the respondents, the petitioner instituted a writ petition, being Writ-A No. 7588 of 2016 (Vijay Prakash Verma v. State of U.P. and others) for redressal of his grievance. In the said writ petition this Court issued a direction to the District Basic Education Officer to decide the matter within three months. The said order was passed by this Court on 19th February, 2016. It is stated that the said order was served upon the District Basic Education Officer but he did not comply with the same. Hence, the petitioner was compelled to file Contempt Application (Civil) No. 6230 of 2016, wherein on 20th March, 2017 this Court has ordered as under:

"Despite the order dated 06.02.2017, neither the counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 1 has put in appearance nor has the opposite party no. 1 complied with the order nor is he present in the Court.

Issue bailable warrant to opposite party no. 1 through the CJM, Deoria."

It is stated that after the aforesaid order, the District Basic Education Officer has passed the impugned order dated 31st March, 2017, whereunder he has again not decided the matter and has observed that he has received the documents from the Committee of Management in respect of suspension order of the petitioner on 21st July, 2014 and the subsequent decision of the Committee of Management dismissing the services of the petitioner and the order shall be passed by him later on.

Sri K. Ajit, learned counsel for the petitioner, submits that the conduct of the District Basic Education Officer clearly indicates that his orders are infected by malafide and still he is sitting over the matter in spite of the positive direction of this Court in its order dated 19th February, 2016 to pass the order within three months. He further submits that the impugned order is just an eye-wash and the District Basic Education Officer has not taken any decision and the petitioner, who is a poor Class-IV employee, is without salary since 2013.

Accordingly, the District Basic Education Officer, Deoria is directed to file his personal affidavit on or before 14th July, 2017. In case the affidavit is not filed, he shall be personally present in the Court along with the record on the next date.

Put up this case on 14th July, 2017 in the additional cause list."

11. It is thereafter that the District Basic Education Officer has filed his personal affidavit. The only explanation offered by the officer in his personal affidavit is that the officer has recently joined. In para 6 of the affidavit, it is clearly admitted that no approval has been granted to the termination of petitioner-appellant. The fact that prior approval has not been obtained before terminating the services of the petitioner is therefore admitted on record. Once that be so, the termination order itself would be illegal for non compliance of the mandatory procedure stipulated in Rule 21 of the Rules of 1984. The order passed by the District Basic Education Officer rejecting the claim of salary of the appellant for such purpose cannot be sustained. The termination order dated 10.7.2014 would be equally bad for such reason.

12. The view taken by learned Single Judge in calling upon the District Basic Education Officer to take a decision in the matter relating to grant of approval also cannot be sustained, as the law mandates requirement of a prior approval, which cannot be cured by any subsequent approval to be obtained from the officer concerned. The judgment of learned Single, dated 18.1.2024, thus cannot be sustained.

13. Consequently, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The order passed by learned Single Judge dated 18.1.2024 in Writ-A No. 24667 of 2017 is set aside. The order passed by the District Basic Education Officer dated 31.3.2017 is also quashed. The appellant shall be reinstated in service forthwith. It shall however be open for the employer to conduct an enquiry against the appellant for the alleged absence from work within a period of four months from today. The appellant's contention that he was actually presented from work shall be examined, as per law. It shall also be open to the Management to place the appellant under suspension for the purposes of holding of the enquiry. The subsistence allowance as well as arrears in that regard would be paid to the appellant within a period of six weeks from today. The decision taken by the Committee of Management upon conclusion of such enquiry, would determine the entitlement of the appellant to arrears of salary etc. subject to appropriate approval of District Basic Education Officer in terms of Rule 21, if so required.

Service Law - Recruitment - Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Service Selection Commission - Revenue Lekhpal Examination, 2022 - Challenge to Answer Key - Questions 78 and 93 (Booklet Series 'F') - Question 78 on PURA scheme (Providing Urban Amenities to Rural Areas) upheld as correct, despite scheme's discontinuation in 2015-16, as question only asked which scheme proposes to prevent rural-to-urban youth migration; PURA correctly identified as the only such scheme among options. Question 93 on Kanya Vidya Dhan Yojana upheld, though poorly framed, as it correctly identifies Rs. 30,000 as the amount payable, despite omitting that payment is post-intermediate examination for high school pass-outs pursuing higher education. Scope of judicial interference in public examinations limited; questions not wrong or incomprehensible, and some latitude must be given to examining authority. Appellant's score (78.75, OBC) below cut-off (81.25); no relief warranted even if appeal allowed, as per Rule 8(2)(iv) of U.P. Direct Recruitment to Group-C Posts Rules, 2015. 5. According to the appellant, four answers have been suggested to the question no.78 which are different schemes framed by the Government. According to the commission correct answer to question no.78 is '(A) PURA'. PURA stands for Providing Urban Amenities to Rural Areas. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that PURA although was a scheme launched with the object of preventing migration of youths from rural areas to urban areas but the scheme itself was discontinued in the financial year 2015-16. It is, therefore, submitted that PURA was actually not a subsisting scheme on the date question was posed and in such circumstances answer '(A)' could not have been treated to be a correct answer. Learned counsel further submits that none of the other three options were correct either. It is, therefore, submitted that question no.78 in booklet series 'F' ought to have been cancelled and even marks ought to have been awarded to those who had attempted the question as per the prevalent practice.

6. In respect of his contention, Sri Seemant Singh, learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance upon the answer to question no.442 dated 17.11.2016 by the Minister of Rural Development in the Parliament, wherein it is clearly admitted that the PURA scheme has been discontinued. A note appended to the Parliamentary answer is also highlighted as per which PURA scheme has been replaced by Shyama Prasad Mukherji Rurban Mission (SPMRM). Other literatures are also replied upon in order to submit that the scheme having been discontinued, it could not have been relied upon as the correct answer to question no.78.

7. So far as question no.93 is concerned, learned counsel submits that Kanya Vidya Dhan Yojana is a scheme launched by the Government to provide one time financial assistance to girls of financially weak families for pursuing higher education. The scheme of Kanya Vidya Dhan Yojana has been placed before the Court in order to submit that entitlement to receive such amount is only to those girls, who have passed intermediate. It is, therefore, submitted that the question no.93 was incorrectly formulated, inasmuch as Kanya Vidya Dhan Yojana was not admissible to high school pass out and, therefore, answer '(C)', relied upon by the commission, was incorrect.

8. Sri Seemant Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner has further placed reliance upon Government Order dated 20.7.2016 whereby the Kanya Vidya Dhan Scheme has been modified. The entitlement to receive financial aid as per the modified scheme is specified in para 3 of the Government Order which is reproduced hereinafter:-

“3- तदनुसार वर्ष 2016 में मेधावी छात्राओं के लिए प्रदेश के प्रत्येक जनपद में माध्यमिक शिक्षा परिषद, उ०प्र० सी०वी०एस०ई० एवं आई०सी०एस०ई० बोर्ड उ०प्र० मदरसा शिक्षा परिषद, उ०प्र० संस्कृत

शिक्षा परिषद से इण्डरमीडिएट/स्तर की परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण 99,000 छात्राओं को प्राप्तांको के अवरोही क्रम में मेरिट के अनुसार रू० 30,000/- (रू० तीस हजार मात्र) की धनराशि प्रदान कर लाभान्वित किया जायेगा।”

9. Learned counsel appearing for the opposite parties submits that though the questions could have been better formulated yet the questions cannot be treated to be incorrect questions, for the reasons enumerated hereinafter.

10. So far as question no.78 is concerned, it is stressed on behalf of the respondents that the precise question posed to the candidate was as to which of the four specified schemes proposes to prevent migration of youths from rural areas to urban areas. Learned counsels submits that there is no stipulation in the question that any of the four schemes are either existing on the date of question or the question gives an inference that the schemes are presently in vogue.

11. So far as answer to question no.93 is concerned, it is stated that the precise question posed is as to what is the amount which is provided to a girl belonging to financially weak family for pursuing higher education. The four options quantified the amount as Rs.10,000/-; Rs.15,000/-; Rs.30,000/- or none of these. It is argued that Rs.30,000/- is the correct answer. The scheme contained in the Government Order dated 22.8.2012 of Kanya Vidya Dhan Yojana has been placed before the Court. Paras 1 and 2 of the scheme reads as under:-

“उपर्युक्त विषय के संबंध में मुझे यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि श्री राज्यपाल महोदय प्रदेश में आर्थिक दशा से कमजोर

परिवारों की हाईस्कूल उत्तीर्ण ऐसी छात्रायें जो उच्च शिक्षा की ओर उन्मुख होकर वर्ष 2012 एवं उसके पश्चात इण्टरमीडिएट परीक्षा अथवा उसके समकक्ष परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण हों, को प्रोत्साहन प्रदान किये जाने के उद्देश्य से कन्या विद्या धन योजना वर्ष 2012 से लागू किये जाने की सहर्ष स्वीकृति प्रदान करते हैं।

12. With reference to the scheme, quoted above, it is urged that financial support of Rs.30,000/- would be admissible to high school passed girls students of poor financial families, who pass intermediate after 2012. Submission is that though the amount becomes payable after the girl student passes class 12th but the scheme does refer to eligibility as high school but the payment is to be released after passing the intermediate examination. It is, therefore, submitted that question no.93 is also not incorrect.

13. Various judgments have been cited before the Court including the Division Bench judgment in Writ-A no.12344 of 2017 on the scope of interference in such matters by the writ Court.

14. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of Supreme Court in Ran Vijay Singh & Ors. vs. State of U.P. (2018) 2 SCC 357. Learned counsel for the commission has also placed reliance upon the Division Bench judgment of this Court in Special Appeal Defective No.112 of 2024, wherein this Court had recognized the limited scope of the writ Court to re-evaluate or scrutinized the answer-sheets of a candidate.

15. Reliance is also placed on the judgment of this Court in Kapil Kumar & Ors. vs. State of U.P. & Ors. 2023 (12) ADJ 338 (DB), wherein reference is made to various judgments of the Supreme Court, and this Court, specifying the scope of interference made in different cases.

16. The commission has also filed an affidavit stating that the appellant belongs to OBC category and has scored 78.75 marks. His date of birth is 11.1.1996. The cut-off in the respective OBC category stands at 81.25 marks. The last selected candidate was born on 25.6.1992. Referring to Rule 8(2)(iv) of the Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment to Group-C Posts (Mode and Procedure) Rule, 2015, it is pointed out that in the event two and more candidates obtain equal marks in the aggregate then the name of the candidate obtaining higher marks in the written examination shall be placed higher in the list. Submission is that even if this appeal was to be allowed yet the appellant would only be placed at serial no.103 of the list of candidate who are not selected. Argument is that, in such circumstances, no interference is otherwise required to be made in the present appeal, at the instance of the present appellant. It is also submitted that no other similar claim is pending before this Court or the Supreme Court.

17. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, we find substance in the argument advanced by the respondents in response to the contentions advanced in this appeal.

18. So far as question no.78 is concerned, the specific question posed to the candidate is with reference to the four schemes namely, PURA, NSAP, SAGY, SGRY. Question is as to which of these schemes proposes to prevent migration of youths from rural areas to urban areas. The appellant admits that out of these four schemes, the only scheme which proposes to prevent migration of youths from rural areas to urban areas is PURA. What is, however, argued is that PURA scheme stands discontinued with effect from financial year 2015-16. Although this fact is not seriously disputed by the commission, yet learned counsel for the commission points out that on several websites of the Central Government including <https://pib.gov.in/newsite/PrintRelease.aspx?relid=57173>, PURA is still shown as a scheme and it is nowhere mentioned that the scheme is abandoned.

19. Upon examination of the materials on record, we do find that no funds have been sanctioned in PURA scheme after the financial year 2015-16, and the scheme is currently not in vogue yet this fact alone would not be determinative of the issue posed before us. The precise question posed to the candidate is that which of the four schemes proposes to prevent migration of youths from rural areas to urban areas. It is admitted to the appellant that out of the four schemes provided as the option to the question, PURA alone proposes to prevent migration of youths from rural areas to urban areas. In such circumstances, merely because no funds are released in the scheme after financial year 2015-16 or even if the scheme is not presently operational it would not mean that question no.78 becomes wrong. From the formulation of question it is otherwise not suggested in any manner that the scheme had to be an existing scheme.

20. The answer to Lok Sabha question no.442 by the Minister of Rural Development is as under:-

“(a) to (b): The Government was implementing the Scheme of Provision of Urban Amenities in Rural Areas (PURA) on pilot basis for providing basic amenities in rural areas through Public Private Partnership (PPP) mode. The scheme was restructured in 2010 with the aim to achieve holistic and accelerated development of compact areas around a potential growth centre in Gram Panchayat(s) through PPP framework for providing livelihood opportunities and urban amenities to improve the quality of life in rural areas.

(c) to (c): The activities proposed under PURA projects include drinking water supply and sewerage, construction and maintenance of village streets, drainage, solid waste management, skill development, development of economic activities etc. The current status of PURA projects is as follows. There is no provision to provide funds under the PURA Scheme during the last three years.”

21. As per the answer of the Minister concerned, the PURA scheme has been replaced by SPMRM scheme but SPMRM is not one of the options given for the answer. The appellant in his reply to question no.78 has actually claimed SGRY to be the right answer. Learned counsel for the appellant, however, does not dispute that SGRY is not the right answer. What is asserted by learned counsel for the appellant is that had he not attempted question no.78 it would not have been open for the appellant to challenge answer to the question.

22. Upon analysis of the materials placed on record, we are, therefore, persuaded to the view that the correct answer to question no.78, in the manner the question is posed, would be PURA.

23. We are also conscious of the observations made by the Supreme Court in a series of judgments, limiting the scope of examination of such issues by the High Court. In para 9 and 10 of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Secretary (Health), Department of Health and Family Welfare & Anr. vs. Dr. Anita Puri (1996) 6 SCC 282, the Supreme Court observed as under:-

“9. It is too well settled that when a selection is made by an expert body like the Public Service Commission which is also advised by experts having technical experience and high academic qualification in the field for which the selection is to be made, the courts should be slow to interfere with the opinion expressed by experts unless allegations of mala fide are made and established. It would be prudent and safe for the courts to leave the decisions on such matters to the experts who are more familiar with the problems they face than the courts. If the expert body considers suitability of a candidate for a specified post after giving due consideration to all the relevant factors, then the court should not ordinarily interfere with such selection and evaluation. Thus considered, we are not in a position to agree with the conclusion of the High Court that the marks awarded by the Commission was arbitrary or that the selection made by the Commission was in any way vitiated.

10. In the aforesaid premises, we set aside the judgment of the Division Bench of the Punjab and Haryana High Court and allow this appeal. The writ petition filed by the respondents stand dismissed, there will be no order as to costs.”

24. So far as the question no.93 is concerned, we have already taken note of the Government Order dated 22.8.2012 whereby Kanya Vidya Dhan Yojana was introduced in the State of Uttar Pradesh. The scheme clearly provides that financial assistance is to be offered to girls belonging to poor financial families who have passed high school examination and are progressing towards higher education and complete intermediate or equivalent examination after 2012. The amount of Rs.30,000/- is to be paid only after the girl student passes intermediate examination after 2012. The formulation of question no.93 is not exhaustive, inasmuch as first part of the scheme although refers to grant of financial assistance to girls of financially weak family who have passed high school but the fact that such amount would be payable only after passing intermediate examination or equivalent post 2012 has been omitted. Although we are of the opinion that the question ought to have been better framed for it to be consistent with the scheme contained in the Government Order dated 22.8.2012, but the fact that question does not specify that the amount would be payable only after the girl student has passed intermediate or equivalent examination, after 2012, the question itself would not become wrong. Considering the substance of question i.e. the amount payable in the scheme, simpler way of putting the question could be as to what is the amount of financial benefit available to a girl student in Kanya Vidya Dhan Scheme. This, in our opinion, remains the substance of the question. The amount payable in the scheme undisputedly is Rs.30,000/-.

25. The question posed is essentially with regard to Kanya Vidya Dhan Scheme which has been introduced by Government Order dated 22.8.2012. The emphasis laid on the question is with reference to original scheme which is already discussed above and the amount payable thereunder. Merely because in the modified scheme, launched later, high school pass out student is omitted and only passing of intermediate or equivalent examination is mentioned, it cannot be said that question no.93 has become wrong. The modified scheme limits the grant of benefit to 99,000 students and specified the criteria for choosing such limited candidates for the grant of benefit.

26. We are of the considered view that in the matter of public examination where large scale recruitment are undertaken some play in the joints would have to be conceded to the examining authority. It is possible that the question may not have been framed in the best possible manner or a better formulation may be advisable, but it cannot be a ground to hold the question itself to be wrong as long as the question can be understood by a candidate and can be answered. Unless it is shown that the question is wrong or the formulation of question is such that the candidate could not have understood the question or answered it, we would not be justified in interfering with the question itself.

27. In view of the deliberations held above, we find ourselves to be in respectful agreement with the view taken by the learned Single Judge for dismissing the writ petition filed by the petitioner. The special appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

Special Appeal No. 456 of 2023

Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. & Ors.

...Appellants

Versus

M/S Modern Service Station, Yamunapar,

...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:

Sri Shrey Sharma, Sri Anil Sharma

Counsel for the Respondents:

Ms. Shreya Gupta

Contract Law - Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012 - Clause 5.1.4 - Principles of Natural Justice - Termination of Petrol Pump Dealership - Indian Oil Corporation terminated dealership of M/s Modern Service Station for alleged tampering in dispensing units (broken seals, soldering, extra wiring) detected during joint inspection on 17.09.2020, classified as "critical irregularities" under Guidelines. Petitioner's defence that tampering occurred during software upgradation by M/s GVR engineer (16.09.2020) not considered by authorities, violating natural justice. No evidence showed petitioner's unauthorized access to equipment post-GVR intervention. Single Judge correctly quashed termination order (05.10.2021) and appellate order (07.04.2022) for failing to address petitioner's defence, without remanding for fresh appraisal due to potential evidence tampering. Scope of judicial review under Article 226 limited but warranted due to procedural unfairness. (Paras 18-26)

1. The petitioner/respondent in the instant Appeal was a retail outlet by the name of M/s Modern Service Station. It was appointed a dealer in terms of petrol/HSD Pump Dealer Agreement executed between the petitioner and the Indian Oil Corporation on 11.4.2011. The petitioner's retail outlet had two dispensing units which were manufactured by M/s. Gilbarco Veeder Root (hereinafter referred to as "M/s GVR"). As per the Rules, the Dispensing Units had to be periodically stamped by the manufacturer and by the Weights and Measures Department and on 23.3.2019 the Weights and Measures Department had given its report as "Dispensing Unit is OK". Similarly on 19.4.2019 also with regard to the Dispensing Units a report was given that "dispensing unit is ok so no need for calibration".

2. On 20.4.2019, after taking into account all the reports, the Weights and Measures Department issued a verification certificate. Similarly on 14.1.2020, the Sales Officers inspected and reported "No variation in stocks".

3. In April 2020 again the stamping of the two dispensing units was required and, therefore, on 13.3.2020, the petitioner deposited the required fees for the stamping of the two dispensing units. In March 2020, the pandemic of Covid – 19 broke and a lock down was imposed nationwide and, therefore, on 12.6.2020 a Government Order was issued extending the validity of the last existing "Stamping" till 30th September 2020. The petitioner requested the Weights and Measures Department on 13.9.2020 to grant permission to the M/s. GVR engineer to break open the seal for stamping/software upgradation which was last done around a year back. On 15.9.2020, A.M Retail Sales, Mathura -I, through Abhishek Sharma visited the petitioner's retail outlet and issued verbal directions for immediate stoppage of sales from the dispensing units until the software of the dispensing unit was upgraded and re-stamping was done. Subsequently, the petitioner (respondent herein) stopped the dispensation of the diesel from the dispensing units.

4. On 16.9.2020 one Mr. Girendra, the Authorized Service Engineer of M/s GVR informed the petitioner that he had obtained permission from the Weights and Measures Department for breaking open the seal of the two dispensing units for software upgradation and for checking the dispensing unit for annual re-stamping.

5. Mr. Girendra broke open the seal and prepared an inspection report wherein he had stated that both CPU Cards had defect and that two new CPU Cards were required for software upgradation. On 17.9.2020, the petitioner had expected the

M/s GVR personnel to return and to correct the defect and also replace the two CPU Cards and thereafter upgrade the software. However, instead, on 17.9.2020 the Joint Inspection Team visited the retail outlet for allegedly conducting inspection of the dispensing unit and as per the report of the team the seals on the motherboard of both the dispensing units were not available and extra soldering with small wire was found in both the motherboards. The report thereafter stated that both the motherboards had been taken out from the dispensing unit in the presence of Sri Raja Babu Bansal (dealer's representative) and, thereafter, they were sealed and taken away.

6. On 21.9.2020, the petitioner received written instructions from Sri Abhishek Sharma, A.M. Retail Sales Mathura – I, of the Indian Oil Corporation Limited to stop the sales from both the dispensing units.

7. On 8.10.2020, the petitioner received a fact finding letter wherein it was observed that as per the provisions of the Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012 (amended on 3.8.2018), the irregularities which were found in the dispensing units of the petitioner's retail outlet were termed as “critical irregularities” and it was further observed that penal action in the form of termination of dealership was required. To the fact finding report, the petitioner put in a reply on 12.10.2020 and had stated that after Mr. Girendra of M/s GVR Engineering who had opened the machine on 16.9.2020, the petitioner had no control over the dispensing units and that he was responsible for the tampering with the machine. Paragraphs no. 3 and 4 of the reply dated 12.10.2020 being relevant are being reproduced here as under:

“3. it is to be noted here that it is evidence that both the motherboards were good in all respects and as such he could update the software. We apprehend that in this process of updating software some short circuit could have occurred in both the motherboards and he must have been trying to rectify the motherboard by soldering/extra wiring. The above act is without our consent and our knowledge. He left both the MPDU's with broken seals and left the RO after preparing his inspection report

4. On 17.09.2020 A Joint Inspection with few officers (as described in your subjected letter) visited at our RO. They asked us to open both the MPDU's to verify the work carried out by the engineer Mr. Girendra who visited at our RO on 16.09.2020. We opened the MPDU's and it was pointed out to us that the seals of the motherboards are broken and are having soldering and extra wire. We told the team members that all these acts were carried out by Mr. Girendra on his visit on 16.09.2020, which we were totally not in our knowledge. And we also told them that the machine was in same condition for almost 26 hours as left by the fitter. This states that we don't have any wrong intention. A report was made by the members of the team and we were made to sign on it.”

8. From the perusal of paragraphs no. 3 and 4 of the reply, it is evident that the petitioner had no control over the dispensing units as the same had been opened by Mr. Girendra, the Engineer of the M/s. GVR. The report as was submitted by the Indian Oil Corporation on 17.9.2020 and on the basis of which the fact finding report was submitted on 8.10.2020 was not denied by the petitioner. Evidently, it had only stated that the missing seal on the motherboard, extra soldering with small wires on both the motherboards were such defects which had crept in because of the opening of the units by Mr. Girendra, the Engineer of the M/s GVR and that he himself was responsible for any tampering etc. The petitioner had insisted that in view of clause 5.1.4 of the Marketing Discipline Guidelines, which was being used against the petitioner, also had provided that in cases where views and independent opinion of the Original Equipment Manufacturer (hereinafter referred to as “the OEM”) had to be obtained then they should be taken and only then a suitable decision could be taken. After the petitioner had submitted his reply and the petitioner's unit had been asked to be shut down, the petitioner waited for some order to be passed and when that was not done it approached this Court by filing a writ petition being Writ – C No. 23158 of 2020 (M/s Modern Service Station and 2 others vs. Union of India and 5 others) which was disposed of by this Court by means of order dated 18.12.2020 directing the respondents to conclude the pending enquiry initiated against the petitioner expeditiously, preferably within a period of 4 weeks. Thereafter a Joint Inspection of the Retail Outlet was once again conducted by the same team which had conducted the inspection previously on 17.9.2020.

9. This inspection was carried on 19.12.2020 once again in the presence of Raja Babu Bansal, the authorized representative of the petitioner and the team once again noticed the very same errors and it sealed the dispensing units and collected the relevant parts of both the dispensing units for further testing.

10. On 21.3.2021, a show cause notice was issued to the petitioner by the Indian Oil Corporation calling upon the petitioner to explain within 15 days as to why action should not be initiated against the petitioner for the breach of Terms and Conditions of the dealership agreement and the Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012.

11. The show cause notice which ran into 4 pages basically alleged that there was tampering in the dispensing unit of the petitioner which was in violation of the dealership agreement dated 11.4.2011 and the Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012.

12. The petitioner submitted its reply on 21.6.2021 to the show cause notice dated 21.3.2021 and the gist of the reply was that it had carried on with the dealership with utmost sincerity ever since 11.4.2011. When they had obtained the dealership they had run it with unblemished track record. The petitioner in the reply had denied any soldering etc. and had also denied that it had put any wire etc. on the motherboard. The petitioner had only blamed the authorized service engineer of M/s. GVR who had visited the retail outlet of the petitioner on 16.9.2020 for the upgradation of the software and for the facilitating of the stamping of the dispensing unit. The paragraph 17 of the reply sent by the petitioner on 21.6.2021 is relevant for the purpose of this case wherein the petitioner had alleged that everything irregular which was found by the Indian Oil Corporation was not done by the petitioner but by the allowed on 18.5.2023, the instant Special Appeal has been filed.

13. In paragraph no. 22 of the reply dated 21.6.2021, the petitioner had categorically stated that they had no knowledge of what was done by the Engineer of M/s. GVR, Sri Girendra. The paragraph no. 22 of the reply is being reproduced here as under: -

“22. In so far as the allegation contained in the SCN (at page 2 & 3), that we have accepted in our reply dt. 12.10.2020 about the broken DU seals, soldering as well as extra wire in the DU, is concerned, we wish to reiterate that we had simply shared our opinion/ apprehension in the peculiar factual conspectus of the present case, which cannot be construed as our admission. It is beyond our knowledge as to what was done by the GVR Engineer - Mr. Girendra on 16.09.2020 in the DUs. It appeared to us (theoretically) that the GVR Engineer might have placed the alleged soldering and extra wire on the motherboard while attempting to upgrade its software, which was ultimately unsuccessful. Therefore, it will be in the Interest of Justice and fairness that an explanation be sought from the GVR Engineer, Mr. Girendra, instead of taking action against us.”

14. However upon considering the show cause notice and the reply of the petitioner, the dealership of the petitioner was terminated vide order dated 5.10.2021.

15. This order was appealed against under Section 8.9 of the Marketing Discipline Guidelines 2012 and when the same was dismissed on 7.4.2022, a writ petition being Writ – C no. 13514 of 2022 was filed. This writ petition when was

16. Sri Anil Sharma, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Shrey Sharma learned counsel for the appellants has argued that :

(a). The learned Single Judge erred when it entered into the decision making process of the Indian Oil Corporation and submitted that the powers of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India with regard to contractual matters is limited.

(b). Even if the decision making process is looked into then it becomes evident that the Engineer of M/s. GVR when it had given its report had clearly observed that there was manipulation in the dispensing unit. The expert opinion of the OEM i.e. M/s. GVR was against the petitioner (respondent in the Appeal) and that the expert opinion of the OEM was not considered by the learned Single Judge.

(c). The finding of the learned Single Judge that the principles of natural justice were violated was also erroneous inasmuch as the show cause notice was given and the petitioner had replied and thereafter the orders were passed.

(d). Under Clause 5.1.4 of the Marketing Discipline Guidelines 2012, independent opinion of the OEM i.e. M/s. GVR was obtained and only on the opinion of the OEM action was taken.

(e). Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the submission of the petitioner (respondent herein) that the manipulation in the dispensing unit could have been done by the Engineer of the OEM sometime during the inspection on 16.9.2020 was not supported by any material evidence available on record and he, therefore, submits that the learned Single Judge had placed a negative burden on the appellants to prove allegations made by the dealer (respondent herein).

(f). Learned Single Judge had not considered the fact that the manipulation in the cards would lead to affected delivery of petroleum products from the dispensing units and that there was no occasion for the service engineer to make any addition/alteration during the inspection dated 16.9.2020. He submits that the dealer alone stood to benefit from any addition/modification/tampering which was done to the dispensing unit.

(g). Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that even if the report dated 16.9.2020 is perused, it becomes clear that the Engineer of M/s. GVR had found that both the CPU Cards in both the dispensing units were found defective.

17. Learned counsel for the appellants has further to bolster his arguments relied upon a judgement of this Court dated 13.7.2017 passed in Writ – C No. 29859 of 2017 (Savitri Devi and 2 others v. Union of India and 4 others) and has supported his submissions. For a similar purpose, he relied upon the judgement of this Court passed on 22.3.2018 in Writ – C No. 50151 of 2017.

18. Learned counsel for the petitioner (respondents here) Ms. Shreya Gupta has opposed the Special Appeal and has supported the order passed by the learned Single Judge. She has submitted that the learned Single Judge had very correctly allowed the writ petition basing his judgement on the fact that the defence raised by the petitioner (respondent here) regarding the visit of the M/s. GVR Engineer on 16.9.2020 was not considered at all. She submits that during the visit on 16.9.2020 vital pieces of evidence were lost which were not considered at the time of the termination of the dealership and this was, she submits, in gross-violation of the principles of natural justice. She had further submitted that the information regarding the vital piece of evidence which was in possession of the engineer was not a part of the procedure but it related to the merits of the case. She submits that when on 16.9.2020, the engineer of M/s. GVR Mr. Girendra came at the petitioner's retail outlet and broke open the seal of the dispensing units and fiddled with the units for upgrading them then it could safely be said that the dispensing units were no longer in the guardianship of the dealers. Instead they were now being looked after by the Engineer of M/s. GVR who had broken the seal and had fiddled with the CPU Cards etc.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioner (respondent here) submitted that when this submission/argument was made in the reply to the show cause notice then the Indian Oil Corporation did not care to include the M/s. GVR's Engineer in the decision making process.

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner (respondent here) has submitted that learned Single Judge, therefore, had found that when issues raised by the petitioners were not dealt with then there was actual violation of the principles of natural justice. She submits that "fair hearing" and "opportunity of hearing" during the enquiry proceedings would be meaningless in case the Enquiry Officer does not consider the submissions which were raised in defence by the person who was being proceeded against. She submits that the learned Single Judge had clearly found that the opportunity of hearing would include due consideration of all defences raised by a person who was being proceeded against and, therefore, the learned counsel for the respondents states that if the Disciplinary Authority failed to consider the reply then it was a clear violation of the principles of natural justice.

21. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that before the unit was sealed there was absolutely no complaint from any quarter with regard to the volume of dispensation.

22. Learned counsel for the respondent-petitioner further argued that if there is violation of principles of natural justice then that itself becomes a ground for allowing the writ petition. She has relied upon the decision of The Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P. and others vs. Kumari Chitra Srivastava and Others reported in 1970 (1) SCC 121 and has argued that the Principles of natural justice are to some minds burdensome but this price – a small price indeed – has to be paid if we desire the society to be governed by the rule of law. Since the learned counsel has specifically relied upon paragraphs no. 7 and 8 of the aforesaid judgement, they are being reproduced here as under:-

“7.The learned counsel for the appellant, Mr. C. B. Agarwala, contends that the facts are not in dispute and it is further clear that no useful purpose would have been served if the Board had served a show-cause notice on the petitioner. He says that in view of these circumstances it was not necessary for the Board to have issued a show-cause notice. We are unable to accept this contention. Whether a duty arises in a particular case to issue a show cause notice before inflicting a penalty does not depend on the authority's satisfaction that the person to be penalised has no defence but on the nature of the order proposed to be passed.

8. We agree with the High Court that the impugned order imposed a penalty. The petitioner had appeared in the examination and answered all the question papers. According to her she had passed. To deny her the fruits of her labour cannot but be called a penalty. We are unable to appreciate the contention that the Board in "cancelling her examination" was not exercising quasi-judicial functions. The learned counsel urges that this would be casting a heavy burden on the Board. Principles of natural justice are to some minds burdensome but this price-a small price indeed-has to be paid if we desire a society governed by the rule of law. We should not be taken to have decided that this rule will also apply when a candidate is refused admission to an examination. We are not concerned with this question and say nothing about it. ”

23. Learned counsel also had submitted that the case may not be remanded back for considering the case as might be put forth by the engineer of the M/s GVR. She submits that the evidence having not been put in sealed cover must have by now been fiddled by all and sundry.

24. Having considered the rival submissions of the parties, we are definitely of the view that the learned Single Judge while dealing with the case of the petitioner correctly came to the conclusion that when a particular defence which was taken by the petitioner was not considered then that itself becomes a violation of the principles of natural justice. In the instant case, the petitioner had taken a definite stand that when on 16.9.2020, the engineer of M/s. GVR Mr. Girendra had opened the unit and had broken the seal then the dispensing unit was no longer in the control of the petitioner/respondents and there was every possibility of the seal being tampered and the unit being fiddled with by the engineer of M/s. GVR Mr. Girendra. When the defence of the petitioner was not considered the learned Single Judge correctly came to the conclusion that the petitioner was wronged inasmuch as there was a definite violation of principles of natural justice. Also the learned Single Judge rightly put an end to the matter and did not remand the case for a fresh appraisal. He, therefore, rightly relied upon the decision in M/s Chaudhary Filling Point, Kazipur through its Prop. And another vs. State of U.P. through Prin. Secy. Food & Civil Supplies and Ors. reported in 2019 (3) ADJ 345 the relevant paragraph no. 39 is being reproduced here as under:

“39. As seen from the reading of the impugned order, the only reason assigned for being not satisfied with the explanation offered by the petitioner was that there was tampering in the DU and pulsar card contains certain soldering marks. However, what was not considered by the competent authority was that at what point of time this unauthorized tampering/soldering was done in the dispensing unit and how the dealer is manipulating the distribution of fuel. No material, much less credible one has been brought on record by the respondents to disclose the unauthorized access to the equipment by the petitioner. It was specific stand of the petitioner that periodically the Weights and Measurements Department officials inspected the seals and they were found to be intact. Further more, what is the impact on tampering/soldering in delivery unit is not disclosed. How the dealer can manipulate delivery of fuel by inserting such unit is not explained. The only objective of a dealer to tamper with dispensing unit is to manipulate delivery of fuel. In this case, the delivery of fuel was found to be accurate prior to checking of unit and after the checking. Furthermore, the defence of the petitioner that it is possible that the supplier himself might have done soldering while repairing for proper functioning of the unit by supplier himself cannot be brushed aside.”

25. This Appellate Court, thus, finds that when the main defence of the petitioner that i.e. the tampering was, in fact, a result of the act of the Original Equipment Manufacturer and that the petitioner had no hand in it was not considered then definitely the petitioner's interest was prejudiced.

26. We are thus of the view that the writ petition was rightly allowed and the matter was also rightly not remanded back. This we say as the appellants definitely had not been able to bring on record any fact by which it could be ascertained that the dealer had an authorized access to the equipment after the M/s GVR engineer had opened the dispensing unit and had fiddled with the motherboard and that the dealer was in any way responsible for the tampering etc.

27. For the reasons stated above, the Special Appeal stands dismissed.

Writ A No. 556 of 2022

Smt. Kavita Tiwari ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Tushar Verma, Prashant Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment – Eligibility of Married Daughter – Petitioner, a married daughter of a deceased government servant, challenged the rejection of her claim for compassionate appointment under the U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 – Held, the rejection based on her marital status was unsustainable, as the Division Bench in Smt. Vimla Srivastava Vs St. of U.P. held that a married daughter's claim cannot be rejected solely on the ground of marital status under the Rules, 1974 – The respondents' reliance on St. of U.P. Vs Madhavi Mishra, which pertained to Regulations, 1995, was inapplicable. (Paras 6, 10, 19, 20)

B. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment – Employment of Other Family Members – The respondents rejected the petitioner's claim citing her brothers' employment as Lekpals – Held, under Rule 5(1) of the Rules, 1974, as amended in 1999, compassionate appointment is barred only if the surviving spouse is in government service, not if other family members like siblings are employed – Kumari Nisha Vs St. of U.P. clarified that a sibling's employment does not preclude compassionate appointment, as their earnings are for their own family – This ground was legally untenable. (Paras 8, 11, 21, 22)

C. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment – Pension and Financial Benefits
– The respondents argued that the petitioner's mother receiving pension and retiral benefits disqualified the petitioner's claim – Held, the Rules, 1974 do not stipulate financial benefits as a bar to compassionate appointment – Pramod Kumar Rajak Vs Registrar General High Court Allahabad confirmed that receipt of pensionary benefits does not disentitle a family member from seeking compassionate appointment – This ground was rejected. (Paras 8, 12, 23)

D. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment – Dependency Requirement – The respondents contended in their counter affidavit that the petitioner was not dependent on her deceased father – Held, Rule 2(c) and Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974 define “family” to include a married daughter and do not mandate dependency on the deceased employee as a condition for compassionate appointment – The respondents could not impose an extra-statutory requirement of dependency to deny the petitioner’s claim. (Paras 9, 13, 24)

E. Judicial Review – Relief in Compassionate Appointment Cases –
The respondents’ rejection order dated 25.10.2021 was based on grounds inconsistent with the Rules, 1974 and prior judicial precedents – Held, the order was legally unsustainable due to misapplication of law and failure to adhere to the Division Bench’s ruling in Smt. Vimla Srivastava – The writ petition was allowed, the impugned order was quashed, and the respondents were directed to reconsider the petitioner’s claim within two months in accordance with the law. (Paras 14, 17, 25)

Writ Petition Allowed.

Impugned Order Dated 25.10.2021 Quashed – Respondents Directed to Reconsider Petitioner's Claim for Compassionate Appointment.

List of Cases cited:

1. Smt. Vimla Srivastava Vs St. of U.P., Writ A No. 60881 of 2015, decided on 04.12.2015
2. St. of U.P. Vs Madhavi Mishra, Special Appeal No. 223 of 2021

3. Kumari Nisha Vs St. of U.P., Writ A No. 16068 of 2023, decided on 08.02.2024

4. Pramod Kumar Rajak Vs Registrar General High Court Allahabad, 2011 (4) U.P.L.B.E.C. 2692

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Standing counsel for the respondents.

2. The instant petition has been filed challenging the order dated 25.10.2021 passed by the respondent No.3, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the petition, whereby the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment has been rejected. Further prayer is for a mandamus commanding the respondents to grant compassionate appointment to the petitioner under the U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974.

3. Bereft of unnecessary details, the case set forth by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner's father namely Shri Om Prakash Tiwari, while working on the post of Driver in the office of Executive Engineer, Sinchai Khand, Lucknow, died in harness on 18.05.2019 leaving behind his widow namely Smt. Uma Tiwari, a married son namely Rahul Tiwari and two married daughters namely the petitioner and Smt. Pratibha Tiwari.

4. The petitioner staked her claim for compassionate appointment under the provisions of U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as Rules, 1974). The claim of the petitioner was rejected vide orders dated 15.02.2020 and 11.03.2020 on the ground that she being a married daughter is not entitled for being appointed on compassionate grounds under the provisions of the Rules, 1974.

5. A challenge was raised to both the orders by filing Writ Petition No.12052(S/S) of 2020 in Re: Smt. Kavita Tiwari Vs. State of U.P. and Others and writ Court, vide order dated 30.07.2020, a copy of which is annexure 7 to the petition, set aside both the orders and required the competent authority to reconsider the claim of the petitioner afresh. The said judgment was passed considering the judgment of this Court passed in Writ A No.60881 of 2015 decided on 04.12.2015 and the Special Leave to Appeal against which had also been dismissed.

6. Incidentally, Writ A No.60881 of 2015 in Re: Smt. Vimla Srivastava Vs. State of U.P. and Another, a copy of the judgment which has been annexed as annexure No.8 to the petition, pertains to a judgment of this Court whereby this Court had also held a married daughter to be entitled for compassionate appointment and the State was required to consider the case of a married daughter and to not reject the same solely on the ground of her marital status.

7. In pursuance thereof, the petitioner again staked her claim for being appointed on compassionate grounds, which has been rejected vide order impugned dated 25.10.2021, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the petition.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner states that a perusal of the order impugned would indicate that the respondents have rejected the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment primarily on three grounds namely (a) that as per the judgment of Division Bench of this Court passed in Special Appeal No.223 of 2021 in Re: State of U.P. and Another Vs. Madhavi Mishra and 2 Others, a married daughter is not entitled for compassionate appointment and would be said to be dependent on her husband (b) two brothers of the petitioner are working on the post of Lekpal and (c) the mother of the petitioner is receiving pension every month and has also received the GPF amount.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner further states that in the counter affidavit filed by the respondents, another ground has been taken in paragraph 7 of the counter affidavit that the petitioner was not dependent on her father.

10. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that so far as the judgment is concerned, over which reliance has been placed by the respondents while rejecting the claim of the petitioner i.e. in the case of Madhavi Mishra (supra), the same does not pertain to the Rules, 1974 and as such, has no applicability to the facts of the present case, more particularly, when the petitioner has staked her claim for compassionate appointment under the provisions of the Rules, 1974 which in fact have been considered by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra).

11. So far as the allegation of two brothers of the petitioner being in employment are concerned, reliance has been placed on the provisions of Rules, 1974 to contend that there is no such bar in the Rules which prohibits the petitioner from being appointed on compassionate ground in case any of her brothers are in employment. He further states that this aspect of the matter has been considered by this Court in Writ A No.16068 of 2023 in Re: Kumari Nisha Vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others decided on 08.02.2024.

12. So far as the ground of the petitioner's mother having received pension and other dues is concerned, it is contended that mere grant of pensionary benefits to a person would not disentitle either that person or the family member of the deceased from staking their claim for compassionate appointment. Reliance has also been placed over the judgment of this Court in the case of Pramod Kumar Rajak Vs. Registrar General High Court Allahabad, 2011 (4) U.P.L.B.E.C. 2692.

13. So far as the ground taken in the counter affidavit of the petitioner not being dependent on the deceased employee is concerned, again reliance has been placed on the provisions of the Rules, 1974 to contend that the Rules, 1974 do not contemplate the family member to be dependent upon the deceased employee rather the definition of family, as indicated in Rule 2 (c), would now include a married daughter and the only condition for compassionate appointment, as stipulated in Rule 5, does not contemplate or stipulate a person seeking compassionate appointment to be dependent upon the deceased employee, rather he should be a family member.

14. Thus, it is contended that all the grounds taken by the respondents, while rejecting the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment, are legally unsustainable in the eyes of law and accordingly, the order impugned merits to be set aside with a direction to the respondents to consider the claim of the petitioner on compassionate grounds afresh.

15. On the other hand, learned Standing counsel, on the basis of averments contained in the counter affidavit, has supported the order impugned and states that on account of the grounds, as contained in the order impugned, the petitioner is not entitled for compassionate appointment.

16. Heard the learned counsels for the parties and perused the record.

17. From a perusal of record, it emerges that admittedly, the petitioner is a married daughter of the deceased employee, who died in harness. She staked her claim for compassionate appointment which was initially rejected by the respondents, vide orders dated 15.02.2020 and 11.03.2020, on the ground that she being a married daughter is not entitled for compassionate appointment. The writ Court, vide judgment and order dated 30.07.2020, quashed both the orders considering the judgment of this Court passed in the case Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra) and required the respondents to reconsider the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment.

18. In pursuance thereof, the respondents have reconsidered the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment but have rejected her claim on the grounds as already indicated above.

19. So far as the ground taken by the respondents of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Madhavi Mishra (supra) having held that a married daughter as not being dependent and hence not entitled for compassionate appointment, is concerned, a perusal of the judgment in the case of Madhavi Mishra (supra) would indicate that the Division Bench of this Court was considering the provisions of Regulations, 1995 and not the provisions of the Rules, 1974 rather the Division Bench has gone to the extent of indicating that the order of Single Judge, whose judgment had been challenged in the Special Appeal, had wrongly invoked the provisions of the Rules, 1974.

20. Thus, the said judgment would have no applicability in the instant case, more particularly, when the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment is governed by the Rules, 1974 which aspect of the matter has been considered threadbare by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra), wherein the Division Bench has observed that the case of compassionate appointment of a married daughter would not be rejected solely on the ground of her marital status.

21. So far as the ground of two brothers of the petitioner working as Lekpal is concerned, the said ground may also not detain the Court as this aspect of the matter has been considered threadbare by this Court in the case of Kumari Nisha (supra) wherein this Court, after considering the provisions of the Rules, 1974, has held as under:

17. This Court finds that initially Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 provided for compassionate appointment to one family member dependent on the deceased government servant provided he is not in government job meaning thereby that there was only one condition where the compassionate appointment could have been refused i.e. person seeking compassionate appointment was already in government job. Later on, Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 has been amended in the year 1999 and amended Rule 5(1) provides that if the surviving spouse of the deceased government servant is in government job then the other family members dependent on the deceased government servant shall not be entitled for compassionate appointment.

15. This Court further finds that the legislature while amending Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 was conscious of the fact that if one son of the deceased government servant is in government job, his earnings may not be available for survival of the remaining family members of the deceased government servant for the reason that the earnings of the son are meant for survival of his own family (his wife and children) and therefore only one prohibition has been incorporated that if the surviving spouse of the deceased government servant is in government job, the other dependent family members are not entitled for compassionate appointment."

22. Thus, from a perusal of the judgment of this Court in the case of Kumari Nisha (supra), it clearly emerges that the mere fact that any brother of a person seeking compassionate appointment is in a government service the same would not be a bar to the family member of staking a claim for compassionate appointment under the Rules, 1974. Thus, the said ground is also rejected.

23. So far as the ground that the mother of the petitioner is receiving pension every month and had also received the other retiral dues, financial benefits have not been made a bar under the Rules, 1974 or cannot be considered to be a bar when no such condition has been stipulated in the Rules, 1974 as to entail a person seeking compassionate appointment as being not eligible for seeking compassionate appointment. This aspect of the matter has been considered threadbare by the Court in the case of Pramod Kumar Rajak Vs. Registrar General High Court Allahabad, 2011 (4) U.P.L.B.E.C. 2692 while considering the provisions of the Rules, 1974. Thus, the said ground is also rejected.

24. So far as the ground of the petitioner not being dependent on the deceased government servant, as has been taken in the counter affidavit, is concerned, even the said ground may not detain the Court inasmuch as Rules, 1974 only defines the word Family as per Rule 2 (c) and Rule 5, which specifically governs the compassionate appointment, also does not indicate that a person seeking compassionate appointment should be a dependent of the deceased government servant. It cannot be a case that when a word is not included under the Rules, 1974, the respondents may add any word in order to deprive the consideration of the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment.

25. Keeping in view of the aforesaid discussion, the writ petition is allowed. The order impugned dated 25.10.2021, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the petition, is set aside. The respondents are required to reconsider the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment keeping in view the discussion made above. Let such a decision be taken in accordance with law within a period of two months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

Dr. Brajendra Singh Chauhan ...Petitioners Versus Central Administrative Tribunal & Ors.
...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Pramod Kumar Pandey

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Contempt Jurisdiction – Maintainability of Writ Petition Against Tribunal's Contempt Orders – Petitioners challenged the Central Administrative Tribunal's order dated 20.10.2023, which closed contempt proceedings for alleged non-compliance with its earlier order dated 10.05.2022 – Held, under Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985, read with Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, orders passed by the Tribunal in contempt proceedings are appealable only to the Supreme Court within 60 days, and no writ petition is maintainable before the High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution, as per T. Sudhakar Prasad Vs Government of A.P. – The writ petition was dismissed as non-maintainable. (Paras 5, 7, 10, 11, 16, 17, 20, 21)

B. Administrative Tribunals – Contempt Powers and Jurisdiction – The Central Administrative Tribunal, under Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985, has the same jurisdiction to punish for contempt as a High Court under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, with references to "High Court" construed as "Tribunal" – Held, this power is derived from Article 323-A(2)(b) of the Constitution, and the Tribunal's contempt orders are distinct from its regular orders under Section 14, as the former are appealable only to the Supreme Court, not subject to High Court's judicial review under Articles 226/227, per L. Chandra Kumar Vs U.O.I.. (Paras 7, 8, 10, 13, 15, 16, 17)

C. Judicial Review – Scope Over Tribunal's Contempt Orders – Petitioners sought to invoke High Court's jurisdiction under Article 226 to challenge the Tribunal's closure of contempt proceedings – Held, the High Court's judicial review under Articles 226/227 is limited to matters under Section 14 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985, and does not extend to contempt orders under Section 17, which are exclusively appealable to the Supreme Court – The Tribunal's contempt jurisdiction is supplemental, not substitutional, to the High Court's powers under Article 215, as clarified in T. Sudhakar Prasad and L. Chandra Kumar . (Paras 11, 13, 15, 16, 20)

D. Compliance with Tribunal's Orders – Contempt Proceedings – The Tribunal's order dated 10.05.2022 directed regularization of petitioners as Assistant Medical Officers from their initial appointment date as Short Term Medical Officers, with notional service benefits but no salary arrears – Held, the Tribunal found substantial compliance by the respondents' order dated 19.04.2023, which regularized petitioners and granted notional service benefits, and closed contempt proceedings – The petitioners' claim for additional benefits like notional seniority and promotions was not expressly directed by the Tribunal's order, and no willful disobedience was established. (Paras 2, 3, 13, 14)

E. Statutory Interpretation – Contempt Appeals and Tribunal's Role – The Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985, and Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, create a distinct framework for contempt appeals – Held, Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, read with Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, explicitly provides for appeals from Tribunal's contempt orders to the Supreme Court, excluding intra-Tribunal appeals or High Court review – The Tribunal, while exercising contempt powers, remains subject to High Court's supervisory jurisdiction under Articles 226/227 for non-contempt matters, but contempt orders are insulated from such review, as per R. Mohajan Vs Shefali Sengupta . (Paras 10, 17, 19, 20)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Donadi Ramesh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pramod Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioners.

2. The petitioners have approached the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench Allahabad, by invoking the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act 1971'). The petitioners have filed original application no.1427 of 2018 before the Central Administrative Tribunal and the same was disposed of vide order dated 10.05.2022 with the following observations:

“9. In view of the facts and circumstances as discussed above, the present original application is allowed with a direction to the Competent Authority amongst the respondents to issue orders forthwith, in any case not later than a period of twelve weeks from the date of this order giving appointment to the applicants as regular Assistant Medical Officers with effect from the date on which they were initially appointed as Short Term Medical Officer.

10. While the applicant shall be entitled to all the consequential benefits as a result of this Order, they shall have no claim over any arrears of salary and allowances, etc. The benefit of the service rendered by them as STMOs till 16.09.2015 shall be awarded to them only on notional basis.”

3. For non-compliance of the above order, the petitioners have approached the Tribunal by filing the contempt petition and the same was numbered as 48 of 2023 in original application no.1427 of 2018. The said contempt application has been disposed of vide order dated 20.10.2023 with the following observations:

12. Simple reading of the para 10 of the order of the Tribunal, which mentions of consequential benefit, cannot be read beyond the wordings of the order as all consequential benefits are as per rules and entitlement and nothing more or less can be given to the petitioners. We fail to read within the order if there is any express direction, which confers any benefit of seniority and other consequential benefit of out of turn promotion to the petitioners vide order dated 10.05.2022. The respondents have finally issued regularization order dated 19.04.2023 in compliance of the order dated 10.05.2022 and it is noted that similar benefit, as has been extended to the petitioners, has been granted to other Medical Officers, who initially joined as Short Terms Medical Officers and were subsequently regularized on recommendations of the UPSC as AMOs at a later date and these Medical Officers are deemed to be in service from the date of their first appointment and the break being ignored and shall be treated as leave to which these Medical Officers may be entitled to or as Extra Ordinary Leave without pay, if there is no leave in credit. Seniority of the Medical Officers will, however, count with effect from the date of their regular appointment as Assistant Medical Officer.

13. We have seen the order dated 19.04.2023 passed by the respondents, which is annexed at page 28 of the counter affidavit, regarding counting of past service, grant of condonation of break, increments, etc in respect of Short Term Medical Officer (STMOs) regularized following judgment of this Tribunal, we are satisfied that substantial compliance of the order of this Tribunal dated 10.05.2022 passed in OA No. 1427/2018 has been made and there is nothing on record which show anything contrary to this.

14. In view of the above facts and circumstances, this court is of the view that sufficient compliance has been made and we do not find any wilful disobedience of the direction of this Tribunal on the part of the respondents. Therefore, no further proceeding is required and the contempt proceeding is liable to be closed. Accordingly, the contempt proceeding is closed, the notices are discharged and the respondents are discharged from their liabilities. All associated pending MAs stand disposed off”

4. Aggrieved by the same, the petitioners have filed the present writ petition with the following prayers:

(i) To issue writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 20.10.2023 passed by Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad in Civil Misc. Contempt Application No.48 of 2023, Dr. Brajendra Singh Chauhan and others Vs. Sri Giridhar Aramane and another, in Original Application No.1427 of 2018, Dr. Brajendra Singh Chauhan and others v. Union of India and another (Annexure No.1 to the writ petition).

(ii) To issue writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding and directing the respondent nos.2 and 3 to comply with the order dated 10.05.2022 passed by Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Bench Allahabad, in Original Application No.1427 of 2018 (Dr. Brajendra Singh Chauhan and 2 others Vs. Union of India and another) (Annexure No.5 to the writ petition) in letter and spirit and in pith and assign the notional seniority to the petitioners from their initial appointment date, amend the seniority list and place the petitioners at the bottom of their respective batches and grant all due notional promotions to the petitioners upto the Chief Medial Officer through review DPC and thereafter fix their salary accordingly.

(iii) To issue any other suitable writ, order or direction, which this Hon’ble Court may deem fit and proper.

(iv) To award the cost of the writ petition in favour of the petitioners”

5. Learned Standing Counsel has raised a preliminary objection with regard to maintainability of the present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India by virtue of Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as “the Act 1985”) read with Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

6. To answer preliminary objection, issue fell for consideration is whether the writ petition is maintainable before the High Court against the orders passed under the Contempt of Courts Act.

7. To decide the above issue, the following relevant Statutes and provisions namely (1) Article 323 A of the Constitution of India, (2) Sections 14 and 17 of the Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985 and Sections 11, 12 and 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 are extracted respectively hereinbelow:-

“Article 323A Administrative Tribunals- (1) Parliament may, by law, provide for the adjudication or trial by administrative tribunals of disputes and complaints with respect to recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State or of any local or other authority within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India or of any corporation owned or controlled by the Government.

(2) A law made under clause (1) may—

(a) provide for the establishment of an administrative tribunal for the Union and a separate administrative tribunal for each State or for two or more States;

(b) specify the jurisdiction, powers (including the power to punish for contempt) and authority which may be exercised by each of the said tribunals;

(c) provide for the procedure (including provisions as to limitation and rules of evidence) to be followed by the said tribunals;

(d) exclude the jurisdiction of all courts, except the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court under article 136, with respect to the disputes or complaints referred to in clause (1);

(e) provide for the transfer to each such administrative tribunal of any cases pending before any court or other authority immediately before the establishment of such tribunal as would have been within the jurisdiction of such tribunal if the causes of action on which such suits or proceedings are based had arisen after such establishment;

(f) repeal or amend any order made by the President under clause (3) of article 371D;

(g) contain such supplemental, incidental and consequential provisions (including provisions as to fees) as Parliament may deem necessary for the effective functioning of, and for the speedy disposal of cases by, and the enforcement of the orders of, such tribunals.

(3) The provisions of this article shall have effect notwithstanding anything in any other provision of this Constitution or in any other law for the time being in force.”

“Section 14. Jurisdiction, powers and authority of the Central Administrative Tribunal.

(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, the Central Administrative Tribunal shall exercise, on and from the appointed day, all the jurisdiction, powers and authority exercisable immediately before that day by all courts except the Supreme Court in relation to—

(a) recruitment, and matters concerning recruitment, to any All-India Service or to any civil service of the Union or a civil post under the Union or to a post connected with defence or in the defence services, being, in either case, a post filled by a civilian;

(b) all service matters concerning—

(i) a member of any All-India Service; or

(ii) a person [not being a member of an All-India Service or a person referred to in clause (c)] appointed to any civil service of the Union or any civil post under the Union; or

(iii) a civilian [not being a member of an All-India Service or a person referred to in clause (c)] appointed to any defence services or a post connected with defence, and pertaining to the service of such member, person or civilian, in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State or of any local or other authority within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India or of any corporation [or society] owned or controlled by the Government;

(c) all service matters pertaining to service in connection with the affairs of the Union concerning a person appointed to any service or post referred to in sub-clause (ii) or sub-clause (iii) of clause (b), being a person whose services have been placed by a State Government or any local or other authority or any corporation [or society] or other body, at the disposal of the Central Government for such appointment.

Explanation.--For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that references to "Union" in this sub-section shall be construed as including references also to a Union territory.]

(2) The Central Government may, by notification, apply with effect from such date as may be specified in the notification the provisions of sub-section (3) to local or other authorities within the territory of

India or under the control of the Government of India and to corporations [or societies] owned or controlled by Government, not being a local or other authority or corporation [or society] controlled or owned by a State Government:

Provided that if the Central Government considers it expedient so to do for the purpose of facilitating transition to the scheme as envisaged by this Act, different dates may be so specified under this sub-section in respect of different classes of, or different categories under any class of, local or other authorities or corporations [or societies].

(3) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, the Central Administrative Tribunal shall also exercise, on and from the date with effect from which the provisions of this sub-section apply to any local or other authority or corporation [or society], all the jurisdiction, powers and authority exercisable immediately before that date by all courts (except the Supreme Court in relation to—

(a) recruitment, and matters concerning recruitment, to any service or post in connection with the affairs of such local or other authority or corporation [or society]; and

(b) all service matters concerning a person [other than a person referred to in clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1)] appointed to any service or post in connection with the affairs of such local or other authority or corporation [or society] and pertaining to the service of such person in connection with such affairs.

Section 17. Power to punish for contempt. - A Tribunal shall have, and exercise, the same jurisdiction, powers and authority in respect of contempt of itself as a High Court has and may exercise and, for this purpose, the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (70 of 1971) shall have effect subject to the modifications that-

(a) the references therein to a High Court shall be construed as including a reference to such Tribunal; (b) the references to the Advocate-General in section 15 of the said Act shall be construed,-(i) in relation to the Central Administrative Tribunal, as a reference to the Attorney-General or the Solicitor-General or the Additional Solicitor-General; and (ii) in relation to an Administrative Tribunal for a State or a Joint Administrative Tribunal for two or more States, as a reference to the Advocate-General of the State or any of the States for which such Tribunal has been established."

"Section 11 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. Power of High Court to try offences committed or offenders found outside jurisdiction.—

A High Court shall have jurisdiction to inquire into or try a contempt of itself or of any court subordinate to it, whether the contempt is alleged to have been committed within or outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, and whether the person alleged to be guilty of contempt is within or outside such limits.

Section 12. Punishment for contempt of court.—

(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act or in any other law, a contempt of court may be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or with both: Provided that the accused may be discharged or the punishment awarded may be remitted on apology being made to the satisfaction of the court. Explanation.—An apology shall not be rejected merely on the ground that it is qualified or conditional if the accused makes it bona fide. (2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, no court shall impose a sentence in excess of that specified in sub-section (1) for any contempt either in respect of itself or of a court subordinate to it. (3) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, where a person is found guilty of a civil contempt, the court, if it considers that a fine will not meet the ends of justice and that a sentence of imprisonment is necessary shall, instead of sentencing him to simple imprisonment, direct that he be detained in a civil prison for such period not exceeding six months as it may think fit. (4) Where the person found guilty of contempt of court in respect of any undertaking given to a court is a company, every person who, at the time the contempt was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to, the company for the conduct of business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the contempt and the punishment may be enforced, with the leave of the court, by the detention in civil prison of each such person: Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any such person liable to such punishment if he proves that the contempt was committed without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent its commission. (5) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (4), where the contempt of court referred to therein has been committed by a company and it is proved that the contempt has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of the contempt and the punishment may be enforced, with the leave of the court, by the detention in civil prison of such director, manager, secretary or other officer. Explanation.—For the purposes of sub-sections (4) and (5),—(a) “company” means any body corporate and includes a firm or other association of individuals; and (a) “director”, in relation to a firm, means a partner in the firm.

Section 19. Appeals.—

(1) An appeal shall lie as of right from any order or decision of High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt— (a) where the order or decision is that of a single Judge, to a Bench of not less than two Judges of the Court; (a) where the order or decision is that of a Bench, to the Supreme Court: Provided that where the order or decision is that of the Court of the Judicial Commissioner in any Union territory, such appeal shall lie to the Supreme Court.(2) Pending any appeal, the appellate Court may order that—(a) the execution of the punishment or order appealed against be suspended; (b) if the appellant is in confinement, he be released on bail; and (c) the appeal be heard notwithstanding that the appellant has not purged his contempt.(3) Where any person aggrieved by any order against which an appeal may be filed satisfies the High Court that he intends to prefer an appeal, the High Court may also exercise all or any of the powers conferred by sub-section (2). (4) An appeal under sub-section (1) shall be filed— (a) in the case of an appeal to a Bench of the High Court, within thirty days; (a) in the case of an appeal to the Supreme Court, within sixty days, from the date of the order appealed against.”

8. The Constitution by (42nd Amendment) Act, 1976 introduced Article 323-A empowering the Parliament to enact the law and providing for adjudication or trial by Administrative Tribunals. Clause 2 (b) of Article 323 A empowers the Parliament to specify the jurisdiction and powers of such Tribunal including the power to punish for contempt.

9. Pursuant to the Article 323-A of the Constitution of India, the Parliament enacted the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 (further it is referred to as the Act, 1985). Section 14 of the Act 1985 specifies the jurisdiction, powers and authority of the Central Administrative Tribunal. Section 15 specifies the same for the State Administrative Tribunal. There is no remedy of appeal statutorily available for the orders passed under Sections 14/15 of the Act 1985.

10. Section 17 of the Act, 1985 empowers the Tribunal to punish for contempt of itself and provides that the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (further it is referred to as the Act, 1971) shall have effect in this regard subject to the modification that any reference to High Court under the Act, 1971 shall be construed as a reference to the Tribunal. Further, the Tribunal shall have the same jurisdiction, powers and authority in respect of contempt of itself as a High Court has. There is a distinction between the orders passed by the Tribunal under Section 14(1) of the Act, 1985 and the order passed under Section 19 of the Act, 1971 as against the former there is no remedy of appeal statutorily provided but as against the latter remedy of appeal is provided under Section 19 of the Act, 1971. An order or decision of the Tribunal in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt would be appealable as a matter of right under sub-section (1) of Section 19 of the Act, 1971, which provides that an appeal shall lie as a matter of right to the Bench of at least two Judges where the contempt order is passed by the Single Judge and it shall lie to the Supreme Court where the order is passed by the Bench.

11. Since proceeding for contempt under Section 17 of the Act, 1985 is dealt with by the Bench of not less than two Members and the order passed under Section 17 of the Act, 1985 would be appealable before the Supreme Court only. Therefore, any order or decision of the Tribunal under the Act, 1971 shall be appealable only to the Supreme Court within 60 days from the date of the order.

12. The provisions of the Act, 1971 are in addition to and not in derogation of Article 129 and 215 of the Constitution. The jurisdiction contemplated by Articles 129 and 215 of the Constitution is unalienable and it cannot be taken away or whittled down by any legislative enactment subordinate to the Constitution.

13. In view of the above backdrop, to answer the issue, we have to rely on the ratio decided by the three Judges Bench of the Apex Court in the case of T. Sudhakar Prasad Vs. Government of A.P. (2001) 1 SCC 516, relevant paragraph nos.7, 8, 11, 14, 16, 17 and 18 are reproduced as under:

7. In pursuance of Article 323A of the Constitution the Parliament enacted the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 to provide for the adjudication or trial by Administrative Tribunals of disputes and complaints with respect to recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State or of any local or other authority within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India or of any

Corporation or society owned or controlled by the Government. On coming into force of the Act and Constitution of the Central Administrative Tribunal all the jurisdiction, powers and authority exercisable immediately before that day by all courts, which would include the High Courts (except the Supreme Court) in relation to the matters specified in Section 14(1) of the Act came to be conferred on the Tribunal. Section 17 gives the Tribunal power to punish for contempt which reads as under:

17. Power to punish for contempt - A Tribunal shall have, and exercise, the same jurisdiction, powers and authority in respect of contempt of itself as a High Court has and may exercise and, for this purpose, the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (7.0 of 1971), shall have effect subject to the modifications that:

(a) the references therein to a High Court shall be construed as including a reference to such Tribunal;

(b) the references to the Advocate-General in Section 15 of the said Act shall be construed.

(i) in relation to the Central Administrative Tribunal, as a reference to the Attorney-General or the Solicitor-General or the Additional Solicitor-General; and

(ii) in relation to an Administrative Tribunal for a State or a Joint Administrative Tribunal for two or more States, as a reference to the Advocate-General of the State or any of the States for which such Tribunal has been established.

8. Section 22 provides that a Tribunal shall not be bound by the procedure laid down in the CPC, 1908 but shall be guided by the principles of natural justice and subject to the other provisions of the Act and of any Rules made by the Central Government, the Tribunal shall have power to regulate its own procedure including the fixing of places and times of its enquiry and deciding whether to sit in public or in private. Sub-section (2) empowers the Tribunal to decide the application before it on a perusal of documents and written representations and after hearing such oral arguments as may be advanced. Sub-section (3) confers on the Tribunal specified powers of a civil court under the CPC in respect of specified matters. Section 27 provides that the order of a Tribunal finally disposing of an application or an appeal shall not be called in question in any court including a High Court. On a Tribunal being functional, Section 28 excludes the jurisdiction of all courts, including High Court, but not the Supreme Court, Industrial Tribunal, Labour Court or other Authority constituted under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 or any other corresponding law from exercising any jurisdiction, power or authority in relation to matters falling within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal.

11. In L. Chandra Kumar v. Union of India and Ors. MANU/SC/0261/1997 : [1997] 228ITR725(SC) the matter had come up before the seven-Judges Bench of this Court consequent upon a reference made by a Division Bench of this Court which doubted the correctness of a five-Judges Constitution Bench of this Court in S.P. Sampath Kumar v. Union of India MANU/SC/0851/1987 : (1987)ILLJ 128SC and felt the need of the same being comprehensively reconsidered. This Court framed three broad issues for its consideration and proceeded to consider the constitutional validity of Articles 323A, 323B and several provisions of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. We need not extensively reproduce several conclusions arrived at by the Constitution Bench (excepting where necessary); it would suffice to briefly summarise the conclusions of the Constitution Bench insofar as necessary for our purpose. The Constitution Bench held that the jurisdiction conferred upon the High Courts and the Supreme Court under Articles 226 and 32 of the Constitution respectively is a part of the inviolable basic structure of our Constitution. The power of judicial review over legislative action vesting in the High Courts under Article 226 and in the Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution are an integral and essential feature of such basic structure and therefore their power to test the constitutional validity of legislations can never be ousted or excluded (paras 73, 78). The power vested in the High Courts to exercise judicial superintendence over the decisions of all courts and Tribunals within their respective jurisdictions is also part of the basic structure of the Constitution and a situation where the High Courts are divested of all other judicial functions apart from that of constitutional interpretation is equally to be avoided (para 79). Though the subordinate judiciary or Tribunal created under ordinary legislations cannot exercise the power of judicial review of legislative action to the exclusion of the High Courts and the Supreme Court, there is no constitutional prohibition against their performing a supplemental - as opposed to a substitutional - role in this respect. Clause (3) of Article 32 itself contemplates that Parliament may by law empower any other court to exercise within the local limits of its jurisdiction all or any of the powers exercisable by the Supreme Court under Clause (2), without prejudice to the powers conferred on the Supreme Court by Clauses (1) and (2).

14 The jurisdictional powers of the Tribunal were summarised by the Constitution Bench as under (vide para 93):

1. The Tribunals are competent to hear matters where the vires of statutory provisions are questioned. However, in discharging this duty, they cannot act as substitutes for the High Courts and the Supreme Court which have, under our constitutional set up, been specifically entrusted with such an obligation. Their function in this respect is only supplementary and all such decisions of the Tribunals will be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the respective High Courts. The Tribunals will consequently also have the power to test the vires of subordinate legislations and rules. However, this power of the Tribunals will be subject to one important exception. The Tribunals shall not entertain any question regarding the vires of their parent statutes following the settled principle that a Tribunal which is a creature of an Act cannot declare that very Act to be unconstitutional. In such cases alone, the High Court concerned may be approached directly.

2. All other decisions of these Tribunals, rendered in cases that they are specifically empowered to adjudicate upon by virtue of their parent statutes, will also be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of their respective High Courts. The Tribunals will, however, continue to act as the only courts of first instance in respect of the areas of law for which they have been constituted; meaning thereby that it will not be open for litigants to directly approach the High Courts even in cases where they question the vires of statutory legislations (except, as mentioned, where the legislation which creates the particular Tribunal is challenged) by overlooking the jurisdiction of the Tribunal concerned.

The Constitution Bench concluded as under :

"We hold that Clause (2)(a)(d) of Article 323-A and Clause (3)(d) of Article 323-B, to the extent they exclude the jurisdiction of the High Courts and the Supreme Court under Articles 226/227 and 32 of the Constitution, are unconstitutional. Section 28 of the Act and the "exclusion of jurisdiction" Clauses in all other legislations enacted under the aegis of Articles 323-A and 323-B would, to the same extent, be unconstitutional. The jurisdiction conferred upon the High Courts under Articles 226/227 and upon the Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution is a part of the inviolable basic structure of our Constitution. While this jurisdiction cannot be ousted, other courts and Tribunals may perform a supplemental role in discharging the powers conferred by Articles 226/227 and 32 of the Constitution. The Tribunals created under Article 323-A and Article 323-B of the Constitution are possessed of the competence to test the constitutional validity of statutory provisions and rules. All decisions of these Tribunals will, however, be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the High Court within whose jurisdiction the Tribunal concerned falls. The Tribunals will, nevertheless, continue to act like courts of first instance in respect of the areas of law for which they have been constituted. It will not, therefore, be open for litigants to directly approach the High Courts even in cases where they question the vires of statutory legislations (except where the legislation which creates the particular Tribunal is challenged) by overlooking the jurisdiction of the Tribunal concerned. Section 5(6) of the Act is valid and constitutional and is to be interpreted in the manner we have indicated.

16. It is thus clear that the Constitution Bench has not declared the provisions of Article 323-A(2)(b) or Article 323-B(3)(d) or Section 17 of the Act ultra vires the Constitution. The High Court has, in its judgment under appeal, noted with emphasis the Tribunal having been compared to like 'courts of first instance' and then proceeded to hold that the status of Administrative Tribunals having been held to be equivalent to court or Tribunals sub-ordinate to High Court the jurisdiction to hear their own contempt was lost by the Administrative Tribunals and the only course available to them was either to make a reference to High Court or to file a complaint under Sections 193, 219 and 228 of IPC as provided by Section 30 of the Act. The High Court has proceeded on the reasoning that the Tribunal having been held to be subordinate to the High Court for the purpose of Articles 226/227 of the Constitution and its decisions having been subjected to judicial review jurisdiction of the High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution the right to file an appeal to the Supreme Court against an order passed by the Tribunal punishing for contempt under Section 17 of the Act was defeated and on these twin grounds Section 17 of the Act became unworkable and unconstitutional. We do not find any basis for such conclusion or inference being drawn from the judgments of this Court in the cases of Supreme Court Bar Association (supra) or L. Chandra Kumar (supra) or any other decision of this Court. The Constitution Bench has in so many words said that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Articles 226/227 could not be taken away by conferring the same on any court or Tribunal and jurisdiction hitherto exercised by the High Court now legislatively conferred on Tribunals to the exclusion of High Court on specified matters, did not amount to assigning Tribunals a status of substitute for the High Court but such jurisdiction was capable of being conferred additionally or supple mentally on any Court or Tribunal which is not a concept strange to the scheme of the Constitution more so in view of Articles 323-A and 323-B. Clause (2)(b) of Article 323-A specifically empowers the Parliament to enact a law specifying the jurisdiction and powers, including the power to punish for contempt, being conferred on Administrative Tribunals constituted under Article 323-A. Section 17 of the Act derives its legislative sanctity therefrom. The power of the High Court to punish for contempt of itself under Article 215 of the Constitution remains intact but the jurisdictional power and authority to hear and decide the matters covered by Sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Act having been conferred on the Administrative Tribunals the jurisdiction of the High Court to that extent has been taken away and hence the same jurisdiction which vested in the High Court to punish for contempt of itself in the matters now falling within the jurisdiction of Tribunals if those matters would have continued to be heard by the High Court has now been conferred on the Administrative Tribunals under Section 17 of the Act. The jurisdiction is the same as vesting in the High Courts under Article 215 of the Constitution read with the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. The need for enacting Section 17 arose, firstly, to avoid doubts, and secondly, because the Tribunals are not "courts of record". While holding the proceedings under Section 17 of the Act the Tribunal remains a Tribunal and so would be amenable to jurisdiction of High Court under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution subject to the well-established rules of self-restraint governing the discretion of the High Court to interfere with the pending proceedings and upset the interim or interlocutory orders of the Tribunals. However any order or decision of Tribunal punishing for contempt shall be appealable only to the Supreme Court within 60 days from the date of the order appealed against in view of the specific provision contained in Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 read with Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. Section 17 of Administrative Tribunals Act is a piece of legislation by reference. The provisions of Contempt of Courts Act are not as if lifted and incorporated in the text of Administrative Tribunals Act (as is in the case of legislation by incorporation); they remain there where they are yet while reading the provision of Contempt of Courts Act in the context of Tribunal the same will be so read as to read the word 'Tribunal' in place of the word 'High Court' wherever it occurs, subject to the modifications set out in Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act. Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 provides for appeals. In its text also by virtue of Section 17 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 the word 'High Court' shall be read as 'Tribunal'. Here, by way of abundant caution, we make it clear that the concept of intra-Tribunal appeals i.e. appeal from an order or decision of a member of a Tribunal sitting singly to a bench of not less than two members of the Tribunal is alien to the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. The question of any order made under the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 by a member of the Tribunal sitting singly, if the rules of business framed by the Tribunal or the appropriate Government permit such hearing, being subject to an appeal before Bench of two or more members of Tribunal therefore, does not arise. Any order or decision of the Tribunal punishing for contempt is appealable under Section 19 of the Act to the Supreme Court only. The Supreme Court in the case of L. Chandra Kumar has nowhere said that orders of Tribunals holding the contemnor guilty and punishing for contempt shall also be subjected to judicial scrutiny of High Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution in spite of remedy of statutory appeal provided by Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act being available. The distinction between orders passed by Administrative Tribunal on matters covered by Section 14(1) of Administrative Tribunals Act and orders punishing for contempt under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act read with Section 17 of Administrative Tribunals Act; is this : as against the former there is no remedy of appeal statutorily provided, but as against the latter statutory remedy of appeal is provided by Section 19 of Contempt of Courts Act itself.

17. Subordination of Tribunals and courts functioning within the territorial jurisdiction of a High Court can be either judicial or administrative or both. The power of superintendence exercised by the High Court under Article 227 of the Constitution is judicial superintendence and not administrative superintendence, such as one which vests in the High Court under Article 235 of the Constitution over subordinate courts. Vide para 96 of L. Chandra Kumar's case, the Constitution Bench did not agree with the suggestion that the Tribunals be made subject to the supervisory jurisdiction of the High Courts within whose territorial jurisdiction they fall, as our constitutional scheme does not require that all adjudicatory bodies which fall within the territorial jurisdiction of any High Court should be subject to its supervisory jurisdiction. Obviously, the supervisory jurisdiction referred to by the Constitution Bench in para 96 of the judgment is the supervision of the administrative functioning of the Tribunals as is spelt out by discussion made in paras 96 and 97 of the judgment.

18. Jurisdiction should not be confused with status and subordination. The Parliament was motivated to create new adjudicatory fora to provide new, cheap and fast-track adjudicatory systems and permitting them to function by tearing of the conventional shackles of strict rule of pleadings, strict rule of evidence, tardy trials, three/four-tier appeals, endless revisions and reviews - creating hurdles in fast flow of stream of justice. The Administrative Tribunals as established under Article 323-A and the Administrative Tribunals Act 1985 are an alternative institutional mechanism or authority, designed to be not less effective than the High Court, consistently with the amended constitutional scheme but at the same time not to negate judicial review jurisdiction of constitutional courts. Transfer of jurisdiction in specified matters from the High Court to the Administrative Tribunal equates the Tribunal with the High Court insofar as the exercise of judicial authority over the specified matters is concerned. That, however, does not assign the Administrative Tribunals a status equivalent to that of the High Court nor does that mean that for the purpose of judicial review or judicial superintendence they cannot be subordinate to High Court.

It has to be remembered that what has been conferred on the Administrative Tribunal is not only jurisdiction of the High Court but also of the subordinate courts as to specified matters. High Courts are creatures of Constitution and their Judges hold constitutional office having been appointed under the Constitution. The Tribunals are creatures of statute and their members are statutorily appointed and hold statutory office. In State of Orissa v. Bhagaban Sarangi : (1995)1SCC399, it was held that Administrative Tribunal is nonetheless a Tribunal and so it is bound by the decision of the High Court of the State and cannot side-track or bypass it. Certain observations made in the case of T.N. Seshan, Chief Election Commr. of India v. Union of India MANU/SC/2271/1995 : 1994(1)SCALE7, may usefully be referred to. It was held that merely because some of the service conditions of the Chief Election Commissioner are akin to those of the Supreme Court Judges, that does not confer the status of a Supreme Court Judge on the C.E.C. This Court observed "Of late it is found that even personnel belonging to other fora claim equation as High Court or Supreme Court Judges merely because certain jurisdictions earlier exercised by those Courts are transferred to them not realising the distinction between constitutional and statutory functionaries". We are, therefore clearly of the opinion that there is no anathema in the Tribunal exercising jurisdiction of High Court and in that sense being supplemental or additional to the High Court but at the same time not enjoying status equivalent to High Court and also being subject to judicial review and judicial superintendence of the High Court."

14. While deciding the issue in the above said decision, the observations made by the Apex Court in the case of L. Chandra Kumar Vs. Union of India (1997) 3 SCC 261, was also taken into consideration and finally observed that the Constitution Bench has not declared the provisions of Article 323-A(2)(b) or Article 323-B (3) (d) or Section 17 of the Act ultra vires.

15. Analysing the above said decision, the powers to the High Court to punish for contempt of itself under Article 215 of the Constitution remains intact but the jurisdiction, power and authority to hear and decide the matters covered by sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the Act, 1985 having been conferred on the Administrative Tribunals and the jurisdiction of the High Court to that extent has been taken away and hence the same jurisdiction which vested in the High Court to punish for contempt of itself in the matter now falling within the jurisdiction of Tribunals if those matters would have continued to be heard by the High Court has now been conferred on the Administrative Tribunals under Section 17 of the Act.

16. It has been held that jurisdiction is the same as vested in the High Courts under Article 215 of the Constitution read with the provisions of the Act, 1971. Further it has been observed that the need for enacting Section 17 arose, firstly to avoid doubts, and secondly, because the Tribunals are not 'courts of record'. While holding the proceedings under Section 17 of the Act, 1985, the Tribunal remains a Tribunal and would be amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution subject to the well established rules of self-restraint governing the discretion of the High Court to interfere with the pending proceedings. But any order or decision of the Tribunal for contempt shall be appealable only to the Supreme Court within 60 days from the date of the order in view of the specific provision contained under Section 19 of the Act, 1971 read with Section 17 of the Act, 1985.

17. Section 19 of the Act, 1971 provides for appeal and by virtue of Section 17 of the Act, 1985, the word 'High Court' shall be read as 'Tribunal'. Accordingly, any order or decision of the Tribunal punishing for contempt is appealable under Section 19 of the Act to the Supreme Court only. The Supreme Court in the case of L. Chandra Kumar (supra) has nowhere said that the orders of the Tribunal under the contempt proceedings shall also be subject to the judicial scrutiny of the High Court under Articles 226 / 227 of the Constitution despite of having remedy of appeal provided by Section 19 of the Act, 1971.

18. In the case of R. Mohajan Vs. Shefali Sengupta (2012) 4 SCC 761, as against the order of the contempt proceedings of the Central Administrative Tribunal, Calcutta Bench, the contemnor in the contempt case has approached the Apex Court, the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent therein raised an objection with regard to maintainability of the appeal before the Supreme Court and contended that the aggrieved parties have to approach the concerned High Court as per ratio laid down by the Constitution Bench in the case of L. Chandra Kumar (supra).

19. The Apex Court in the said case has rejected the objection raised by the respondent's counsel and by following the observations of the three Judges Bench in the case of T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra) held that aggrieved parties are at liberty to approach the Apex Court without exercising the remedy before the High Court. In the said case, the Supreme Court clarified the issue by following the observation in the case of T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra) and rejected the objection declaring the maintainability of the appeal before the Supreme Court.

20. Considering the relevant provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, the Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985 and also observations made by the Apex Court, more particularly in the case of T. Sudhakar Prasad (supra), we hold that all the orders of the Tribunal under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 shall be appealable to the Supreme Court only within a period of 60 days from the date of the order and no writ petition is maintainable before the High Court under Article 226 / 277 of the Constitution of India.

21. Accordingly, the present writ petition being not maintainable, is dismissed.

Writ A No. 608 of 2022

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Kushmondeya Shahi, Sri Tanuj Shahi

Counsel for the Respondents:

Sri Bhanu Pratap Singh Kachhawah, C.S.C.,
 Sri Sanjay kumar Srivastava

A. Service Law – Resignation and Withdrawal – Validity of Acceptance – Petitioner, an Assistant Teacher, challenged the order dated 31.3.2021 accepting her resignation despite her withdrawal applications dated 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021 – Held, under Rule 7 of the U.P. Government Servants Resignation Rules, 2000, a government servant can withdraw resignation before its acceptance – The petitioner's withdrawal applications, supported by evidence of submission and postal delivery, preceded the acceptance order, rendering it unsustainable, as per Lalit Mohan Upadhyay Vs The Principal, Kumaun Engineering College and U.O.I. Vs Gopal Chandra Misra – The order dated 31.3.2021 was quashed. (Paras 6, 7, 11, 12, 20, 21, 23, 24, 27)

B. Service Law – Procedure for Resignation Withdrawal – Petitioner alleged that a clerk misled her into signing a resignation letter and affidavit under the pretense of facilitating a posting change – Held, the petitioner promptly withdrew her resignation on 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021, with the latter sent via registered post and confirmed delivered – The respondents' denial of receiving these applications was rejected due to lack of substantiation, and the acceptance of resignation post-withdrawal was deemed illegal, as per Pravesh Kumar Pal Vs St. of U.P. and Dinesh Prasad Chaurasia Vs Managing Director. (Paras 5, 6, 7, 18, 19, 20, 25, 26)

C. Service Law – Back Wages and Relief – Petitioner sought reinstatement and back wages after the quashing of the resignation acceptance order – Held, as the petitioner did not perform duties from 5.2.2021, full back wages were not warranted – Following Shambhu Murari Sinha Vs Project and Development India and Managing Director, Orissa St. Handloom Weavers' Cooperative Society Vs Satyanarayan Pattnaik, the petitioner was granted reinstatement with continuity of service and 25% of admissible back wages from 5.2.2021 until reinstatement, balancing equity and the fact of non-performance of duties. (Paras 28, 29, 31)

D. Judicial Review – Arbitrary Administrative Action – The District Basic Education Officer accepted the petitioner's resignation despite her timely withdrawal applications – Held, the acceptance order dated 31.3.2021 was arbitrary and contrary to the legal principle that resignation can be withdrawn before acceptance, as established in Balram

Gupta Vs U.O.I. and Power Finance Corporation Ltd. Vs Pramod Kumar Bhatia – The court directed reinstatement within four weeks and payment of 25% back wages within four months, ensuring proportionality in relief. (Paras 11, 13, 26, 27, 30, 31)

E. Service Law – Evidence of Withdrawal Applications

– Respondents denied receiving petitioner's withdrawal applications dated 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021 – Held, the petitioner's submission of the 5.2.2021 application with an official receipt endorsement and the 11.2.2021 application with postal tracking evidence sufficiently established their delivery – The respondents' bald denial in the counter affidavit was insufficient to rebut the petitioner's evidence, reinforcing the invalidity of the resignation acceptance. (Paras 18, 19, 20)

Writ Petition Allowed.

12. J.N. Srivastava Vs U.O.I., (1998) 9 SCC 559

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manjive Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Tanuj Shahi, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondents No.1 and 3 as well as learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No.2, 4 and 5.

2. Petitioner has filed this writ petition challenging therein the order dated 31.3.2021 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Etah whereby her resignation from the post of Assistant Teacher has been accepted.

3. Brief facts of the case are that petitioner appeared in the selection for appointment on the posts of Assistant Teachers of Junior Basic Schools run by the U.P. Basic Education Board. Petitioner was selected and thereafter was issued an appointment order on 5.12.2020. Pursuant to appointment order dated 5.12.2020, petitioner was allowed to join in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Etah and thereafter vide order dated 21.12.2020 she was directed to work on the post of Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School Lalpur, Block Awagarh, District Etah.

4. Petitioner submitted her joining on the post of Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School Lalpur, Block Awagarh, District Etah on 23.12.2020 and thereafter, the District Basic Education Officer, Etah passed another order on 29.1.2021 whereby petitioner was posted as Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School Mirzapur, Block Awagarh, District Etah. Petitioner submitted her joining in Junior Basic School Mirzapur, Block Awagarh, District Etah on 3.2.2021. Petitioner being unmarried female candidate was having some difficulty to reach the aforesaid school as the same was situated at a distant place therefore, she requested the District Basic Education Officer, Etah for changing her posting to another school. Petitioner has alleged in the writ petition that instead of considering her request, one Mr. Vikrant Pratap Singh posted as clerk in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Etah provided a printed letter and affidavit to the petitioner and asked her to sign the said papers with an assurance that in the next counselling on the basis of such papers her posting may be changed.

5. Petitioner under impression given by the aforesaid Mr. Vikrant Pratap Singh signed the aforesaid letter and affidavit and submitted in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Etah on 5.2.2021. Thereafter, she realized that the contents of the letter and affidavit which she submitted on 5.2.2021 amount to her resignation from the post of Assistant Teacher.

6. Petitioner immediately after realizing her mistake submitted application on 5.2.2021 itself to the District Basic Education Officer, Etah whereby she withdrew her resignation dated 5.2.2021. Petitioner also submitted application to District Magistrate, Etah on 8.2.2021 through registered post whereby she informed about the entire case to the District Magistrate, Etah and requested him to help her out. As per online postal tracking report, the aforesaid letter dated

8.2.2021 has been delivered in the office of District Magistrate, Etah on 15.2.2021.

7. Later on, petitioner again submitted an application on 11.2.2021 to the District Basic Education Officer, Etah through registered post whereby she requested that her resignation dated 5.2.2021 may not be accepted as she does not want to resign from her post. Petitioner in the application dated 11.2.2021 further stated that she was under depression and thus, tendered resignation on 5.2.2021 but now she does not intend to resign from her post. As per online postal tracking report, the aforesaid letter dated 11.2.2021 has been delivered in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Etah on 17.2.2021. The application dated 11.2.2021 and online postal tracking report have been annexed at page-34 and 35 of the writ petition.

8. Since no action was taken by the District Basic Education Officer, Etah therefore, petitioner also submitted representations to the higher authorities.

9. To the utter dismay of the petitioner, she was served the copy of the order dated 31.3.2021 vide communication dated 3.6.2021 sent by the Block Education Officer whereby petitioner for the first time came to know that her resignation from the post of Assistant Teacher dated 5.2.2021 has been accepted by the District Basic Education Officer, Etah vide order dated 31.3.2021.

10. Petitioner in her writ petition has taken various grounds to challenge the order dated 31.3.2021 including that the order accepting resignation of the petitioner has been passed in the month of June but it has been dated as 31.3.2021. Her main ground to challenge the order dated 31.3.2021 is that once petitioner withdrew her resignation dated 5.2.2021 by submitting applications dated 5.2.201 and 11.2.2021, the same could not have been accepted.

11. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has vehemently argued that it is well settled proposition of law through catena of judgments of this court as well as of Hon'ble Supreme Court that resignation can be withdrawn at any time before its acceptance therefore, since petitioner withdrew her resignation by submitting applications on 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021, there was no occasion for the District Basic Education Officer, Etah to accept her resignation on 31.3.2021. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has further argued that since order dated 31.3.2021 has been passed after petitioner withdrew her resignation by submitting applications on 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021, the order dated 31.3.2021 is absolutely unsustainable in the eyes of law.

12. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has relied on Rule 7 of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servants Resignation Rules, 2000 wherein it has been categorically provided that a government servant may withdraw his resignation by making a request in writing to the appointing authority before its acceptance.

13. Reliance has also been placed by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner on the judgment rendered by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Lalit Mohan Upadhyay Vs. The Principal, Kumaun Engineering College, Dwarhat, District Almora and others, (2000) 1 UPLBEC 130, judgment and order dated 12.1.2021 passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in Writ Petition

No.12263 (S/S) of 2020, Pravesh Kumar Pal Vs. State of U.P. and others and judgment and order dated 30.5.2016 rendered by this Court in the case of Dinesh Prasad Chaurasia Vs. Managing Director and others, 2016 (6) ADJ 550. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner on the strength of aforesaid judgments has submitted before this Court that it is well settled proposition of law that resignation tendered by an employee can be withdrawn at any time before its acceptance and in the case of petitioner, she withdrew her resignation dated 5.2.2021 by submitting applications dated 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021 therefore, the order dated 31.3.2021 accepting petitioner's resignation is absolutely unsustainable in the eyes of law.

14. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has thus concluded his arguments and has submitted that order dated 31.3.2021 is liable to be quashed by this Court and the writ petition filed by the petitioner deserves to be allowed.

15. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No.2, 4 and 5 has submitted that petitioner tendered her resignation on 5.2.2021 and same has been accepted by the District Basic Education Officer, Etah on 31.3.2021. It has further been submitted that so far as applications dated 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021 submitted by the petitioner are concerned, the contents of paragraphs 10 to 12 of the writ petition have been denied in paragraph 7 of the counter affidavit.

16. Learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No.2, 4 and 5 has further submitted that petitioner was not willing to work in the school in which she was posted therefore, she willingly submitted the resignation from her post and that has been duly accepted by the District Basic Education Officer, Etah vide order dated 31.3.2021, which is perfectly in accordance with law and does not call for any interference by this Court.

17. Learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No.2, 4 and 5 has thus concluded his arguments and has submitted that writ petition filed by the petitioner being absolutely misconceived is liable to be dismissed by this Court.

18. I have considered the rival arguments advanced by the learned counsels appearing for the parties and I find that petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School at District Etah on 5.12.2020 and thereafter, she tendered her resignation on 5.2.2021. This court finds that petitioner in paragraphs 10 and 11 of the writ petition has categorically stated that she submitted applications on 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021 to the District Basic Education Officer, Etah whereby she withdrew her resignation. The application dated 5.2.2021 was given in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Etah and it bears endorsement of receipt by some official working in the office. The application dated 11.2.2021 has been sent through registered post and online postal tracking report has also been annexed to show that the said application has been delivered in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Etah. Respondent No.4 has filed counter affidavit in which contents of paragraphs 10 to 12 of the writ petition have been denied and it has been stated that petitioner has never submitted any application for cancellation of her resignation, before 31.3.2021.

19. Petitioner has filed rejoinder affidavit to the aforesaid counter affidavit and has reiterated her stand that she submitted applications on 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021 whereby she withdrew her resignation.

20. This court is of the view that once petitioner in her writ petition has stated that she has submitted one application on 5.2.2021 and another on 11.2.2021 and has annexed online postal tracking report to show that application dated 11.2.2021 has been delivered in the office of the District Basic Education Officer, Etah, bald denial made in the counter affidavit filed by Respondent No.4 cannot be accepted.

21. This court finds that petitioner submitted her resignation on 5.2.2021 and thereafter she has withdrawn the said resignation by submitting two applications before the District Basic Education Officer, Etah, first personally in his office on 5.2.2021 itself and second, through registered post on 11.2.2021.

22. The Uttar Pradesh Government Servants Resignation Rules, 2000 have been framed to deal with the matters of resignation from service by government servants. Rules 6 and 7 are relevant for the purpose of adjudication of the present case therefore, Rules 6 and 7 of the Rules of 2000 are extracted as under:-

"6. Termination of service.-(1)

The services of the said Government servant shall stand terminated with effect from the date of issue of order of the acceptance of his resignation or from such future date as mentioned therein.

7. Withdrawal of Resignation.-

The Government servant may withdraw his resignation by making a request in writing to the appointing authority only before the date of termination of his services as provided in rule 6 of these rules."

23. On conjoint reading of Rules 6 and 7 of the Rules of 2000, this Court is of the categorical view that resignation tendered by the government servant can be withdrawn at any time before its acceptance.

24. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Lalit Mohan Upadhyay Vs. The Principal, Kumaun Engineering College, Dwarhat, District Almora and others, (2000) 1 UPLBEC 130 has categorically held that resignation tendered by the employee can be withdrawn before its acceptance by the employer. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment rendered in the case of Lalit Mohan Upadhyay (supra) are extracted as under:-

"5. In our opinion, the Principal had no authority or jurisdiction to accept the petitioner's resignation as the petitioner's Appointing Authority is the Board of Governors and hence only the Board of Governors can accept his resignation. In fact, the Principal has recognised this legal position as he forwarded the papers to the Board, but there was no acceptance by the Board of Governors and instead it was the State Government which accepted the resignation on 17.1.1994 i.e. long after the petitioner had withdrawn his resignation.

6. In Union of India v. Copal Chand Mishra. AIR 1978 SC 694. it has been held that resignation can be withdrawn at any time before it becomes effective. In the case of employees for whom acceptance of resignation is necessary, obviously the resignation becomes effective only when it is accepted.

Similarly in M/s. J. K. Cotton Spinning & Weaving Mills Co. Ltd.. Kanpur v. State of U. P. and others, AIR 1990 SC 1808, it has been held that resignation is not complete until it is accepted by the proper authority. The same view has been taken in several other decisions. In the present case, since the petitioner's resignation was withdrawn before it was accepted, hence in our opinion the withdrawal of the resignation was valid and acceptance of the resignation was illegal.

7. Hence we set aside the Impugned order dated 27.1.1994 (Annexure-22 to the writ petition) and hold that the petitioner validly withdrew his resignation. The petitioner will be reinstated in service within six weeks from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before the authority concerned and shall be treated in continuous service as if his service had never come to an end. He will get seniority and all consequential benefits and also arrears within three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order. No order as to costs."

25. This Court vide order dated 12.1.2021 passed in Writ Petition No.12263 (S/S) of 2020, Pravesh Kumar Pal Vs. State of U.P. and others, has held in the following terms:-

"After hearing learned counsel for the parties, it is found that the petitioner had withdrawn his resignation on 3.10.2018 prior to the passing of the impugned order dated 9.10.2018, which is not in dispute in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of Respondent Nos.2 to 4. The Rule 7 of the Rules 2000 is very clear that the application for withdrawal of resignation is to be prior to the acceptance of the resignation. In the present case the resignation was accepted by the impugned order dated 9.10.2018 and the application was preferred by the petitioner on 3.10.2018.

Learned counsel for the respondents is not in a position to dispute the legal provision i.e. Rule 7 of the Rules 2000 and its applicability in the present case. The arguments raised by the learned counsel for the respondents that the knowledge of the application for withdrawal of the resignation submitted by the petitioner is only after the passing of the impugned order. At the same time in the counter affidavit it is not disputed that the petitioner had made an application for withdrawal of the resignation on 3.10.2018 and the office had taken time to place the same before the Competent Authority i.e. Respondent No.2. However, the fact is that the resignation was withdrawn before its acceptance. The petitioner would not be responsible for delay on the part of the office for placing it before Respondent No.2 late. The case of the petitioner is covered by the judgement of this Court dated 31.08.2017 passed in Writ-A No.- 47852 of 2000 (Tanweer Alam vs. U.P. Cooperative Spinning Mills Fed. Ltd & Others) (Supra)."

26. This court has considered the issue of withdrawal of resignation before its acceptance in the case of Dinesh Prasad Chaurasia Vs. Managing Director and others, 2016 (6) ADJ 550 and has held that resignation tendered by an employee can be withdrawn at any time before its acceptance. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment rendered in the case of Dinesh Prasad Chaurasia (supra) are extracted as under:-

10. So far as legal proposition with regard to resignation and its acceptance are concerned, the same is settled. Clause 23 of the U.P. Forest Corporation General Service Regulation, 1985, which has been extracted above, provides that resignation will not become effective till it is accepted by the competent authority. The resignation submitted by petitioner on 28.10.1986 remained on paper, and was not accepted till it was withdrawn on 28.2.1996. It is not in dispute that letter dated 28.2.1996 was duly served. Once the resignation was withdrawn by petitioner prior to its acceptance by the competent authority, it was not open for the respondents to have accepted the same, vide order impugned dated 30th December, 1998. This is particularly so, as the offer on part of petitioner to sever the contract of employment was not subsisting on the date when it was accepted. The acceptance of resignation, therefore, was incompetent. Even otherwise, law is settled that resignation can be accepted, so long as it is not withdrawn. The observation made by the Apex Court in para-22 of Raj Narain (supra) reads as under:-

"22. For the reasons mentioned above, we think that the learned judge was not justified in striking out Issue No. 1. On the other hand, he should have reframed that issue, as mentioned earlier. Before leaving- this question, it is necessary to mention one other fact. Yashpal Kapur appears to have tendered his resignation to the office he was holding on January 13, 1971. The certified copy of the notification produced shows that the President accepted his resignation on the 25th of January '71 and the same was gazetted on February 6, 1971. The order of the President shows that he accepted Yashpal Kapur's resignation with effect from January 14, 1971. The learned trial judge without examining the true effect of the President's order has abruptly come to the conclusion that Yashpal Kapur's resignation became effective as from January 14, 1971. This conclusion, in our opinion, requires re examination. It is necessary to examine whether a government servant's resignation can be accepted with effect from an earlier date. At any rate whether such an acceptance has any validity in considering a corrupt practice under S. 123(7). If such a course is permissible, it might enable the government to defeat the mandate of S. 123(7). The question as to when a government servant's resignation becomes effective came up for consideration by this Court in Raj Kumar v. Union of India(1). Therein this Court ruled that when a public servant has invited by his letter of resignation the determination of his employment, his service normally stands terminated from the date on which the letter of resignation is accepted by the appropriate authority and, in the absence of any law or statutory rule governing the conditions of his service, to the contrary, it will not be open to the public servant to withdraw his resignation after it is accepted by the appropriate authority. Hence the question as to when Yashpal Kapur's resignation became effective will have to be examined with reference to his conditions of service. This examination having not been done, the conclusion of the learned trial judge that it became effective on January 14, 1971, has to be ignored."

11. Reliance has also been placed upon a judgment of the Apex Court in Balram Gupta Vs. Union of India and another, reported in AIR 1987 SC 2354. Paras-10 to 13 of the judgment, which are relevant for the purpose, are reproduced:-

"10. This question arose in the case of one Shri Satish Chandra, then a Judge in the High Court of Allahabad in Union of India v. Shri Gopal Chandra

Misra and others, [1978] 3 S.C.R. 12. There the second respondent Shri Satish Chandra wrote to the President of India, on May 7, 1977, intimating his resignation from the office of Judge of the Allahabad High Court, with effect from 1st of August, 1977. On July 15, 1977, he again wrote to the President, revoking his earlier communication, and commenced deciding matters in Court from July 16, 1977. On 1st of August, 1977 the first respondent Shri Misra, an advocate of the said High Court filed a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution contending that the resignation of Shri Satish Chandra having been duly communicated to the President of India in accordance with Article 217(1) Proviso (a) of the Constitution was final and irrevocable, and that the continuance of said Shri Satish Chandra as a Judge of the High Court there- after, was an usurpation of public office. The High Court allowed the petition holding that Shri Satish Chandra was not competent to revoke his resignation letter. On appeal this Court held that the resigning office necessarily involved relinquishment of the office which implied cessation or termination of, or cutting as under from the office. A complete and effective act of resigning office is one which severs the link of the resigner with his office and terminates its tenure. In the context of Article 217(1) this assumes the character of a decisive test, because the expression "resign his office" occurs in a proviso which excepts or qualifies the substantive clause fixing the office tenure of a judge upto the age of 62 years. It was further reiterated that in the absence of a legal, contractual or constitutional bar, an intimation in writing sent to the appropriate authority by an incumbent, of his intention or proposal to resign his office/post from a future specified date, can be withdrawn by him at any time before it becomes effective i.e., before it effects termination of the tenure of the office/post, or employment. This general rule equally applies to Government servants and constitutional functionaries, this Court reiterated. The other peculiar essence of Article 2 17 which was discussed need not detain us in the facts of this case. On the principle of general law the offer to relinquishment could have been withdrawn by the appellant before the date it became effective if sub-rule (4) of Rule 48-A was not there.

11. In Air India etc. etc. v. Nergesh Meerza & Ors. etc. etc., [1982] 1 S.C.R. 438, there the Court struck down certain provisions of Air India Employees Service Regulations. We are not concerned with the actual controversy. But the Court reiterated that there should not be arbitrariness and hostile discrimination in Government's approach to its employees. On behalf of the respondent it was submitted that a Government servant was not entitled to demand as of right, permission to withdraw the letter of voluntary retirement, it could only be given as a matter of grace. Our attention was also drawn to the observations of this Court in Raj Kumar v. Union of India, [1968] 3 S.C.R. 857. There the Court reiterated that till the resignation was accepted by the appropriate authority in consonance with the rules governing the acceptance, the public servant concerned has locus poenitentiae but not thereafter. Undue delay in intimating to the public servant concerned the action taken on the letter of resignation may justify an inference that resignation had not been accepted. But in the facts of the instant case the resignation from the Government servant was to take effect at a subsequent date prospectively and the withdrawal was long before that date. Therefore, the appellant, in our opinion, had locus. As mentioned hereinbefore the main question was whether the sub-rule (4) of Rule 48-A was valid and if so whether the power exercised under the sub-rule (4) of Rule 48-A was proper. In the view we have taken it is not necessary, in our opinion, to decide whether subrule (4) of Rule 48-A was valid or not. It may be a salutary requirement that a Government servant cannot withdraw a letter of resignation or of voluntary retirement at his sweet will and put the Government into difficulties by writing letters of resignation or retirement and withdrawing the same immediately without rhyme or reasons. Therefore, for the purpose of appeal we do not propose to consider the question whether sub-rule (4) of Rule 48-A of the Pension Rules is valid or not. If properly exercised the power of the government may be a salutary rule. Approval, however, is not ipse dixit of the approving authority. The approving authority who has the statutory authority must act reasonably and rationally. The only reason put forward here is that the appellant had not indicated his reasons for withdrawal. This, in our opinion, was sufficiently indicated that he was prevailed upon by his friends and the appellant had a second look at the matter. This is not an unreasonable reason. The guidelines indicated are as follows:

"(2) A question has been raised whether a Government servant who has given to the appropriate authority notice of retirement under the para 2(2) above has any right subsequently (but during the currency of the notice) to withdraw the same and return to duty. The question has been considered carefully and the conclusion reached is that the Government servant has no such right. There would, however, be no objection to permission being given to such a Government servant, on consideration of the circumstances of his case to withdraw the notice given by him, but ordinarily such permission should not be granted unless he is in a position to show that there has been a material change in the circumstances in consideration of which the notice was originally given.

Where the notice of retirement has been served by Government on the Government servant, it may be withdrawn if so desired for adequate reasons, provided the Government servant concerned is agreeable."

12. In this case the guidelines are that ordinarily permission should not be granted unless the Officer concerned is in a position to show that there has been a material change in the circumstances in consideration of which the notice was originally given. In the facts of the instant case such indication has been given. The appellant has stated that on the persistent and personal requests of the staff members he had dropped the idea of seeking voluntary retirement. We do not see how this could not be a good and valid reason. It is true that he was resigning and in the notice for resignation he had not given any reason except to state that he sought voluntary retirement. We see nothing wrong in this. In the modern age we should not put embargo upon people's choice or freedom. If, however, the administration had made arrangements acting on his resignation or letter of retirement to make other employee available for his job, that would be another matter but the appellant's offer to retire and withdrawal of the same happened in so quick succession that it cannot be said that any administrative set up or management was affected. The administration has now taken a long time by its own attitude to communicate the matter. For this purpose the respondent is to blame and not the appellant.

13. We hold, therefore, that there was no valid reason for withholding the permission, by the respondent. We hold further that there has been compliance with the guidelines because the appellant has indicated that there was a change in the circumstances, namely, the persistent and personal requests from the staff members and relations which changed his attitude towards continuing in Government service and induced the appellant to withdraw the notice. In the modern and uncertain age it is very difficult to arrange one's future with any amount of certainty, a certain amount of flexibility is required, and if such flexibility does not jeopardize Government or administration, administration should be graceful enough to respond and acknowledge the flexibility of human mind and attitude and allow the appellant to withdraw his letter of retirement in the facts and circumstances of this case. Much complications which had arisen could have been thus avoided by such graceful attitude. The court cannot but condemn circuitous ways "to ease out" uncomfortable employees. As a model employer the government must conduct itself with high probity and candour with its employees."

12. In Power Finance Corporation Ltd. Vs. Parmod Kumar Bhatia, reported in 1997 (4) SCC 280, following observations have been made in paragraph-7:-

"7. It is now settled legal position that unless the employee is relieved of the duty, after acceptance of the offer of voluntary retirement or resignation, jural relationship of the employee and the employer does not come to an end. since the order accepting the voluntary retirement was a conditional one, the conditions ought to have been complied with. Before the conditions could be complied with, the appellant withdrew the scheme. consequently, the order accepting voluntary retirement did not become effective. Thereby no vested right has been created in favour of the respondent. The High court, therefore, was not right in holding that the respondent has acquired a vested right and, therefore, the appellant has no right to withdraw the scheme subsequently."

13. A Constitution Bench in Union of India Vs. Gopal Chandra Misra and others, reported in AIR 1978 SC 694, has been pleased to make following observations:-

"It will be repetition that the general principle is that in the absence of a legal, contractual or constitutional bar, a 'prospective' resignation can be withdrawn at any time before it becomes effective, and it becomes effective when it operates to terminate the employment or the office-tenure of the resignor..... If he chooses to resign from a future date, the act of resigning office is not complete because it does not terminate his tenure before such date and the Judge can, at any time before arrival of prospective date on which it was intended to be effective, withdraw it, because the Constitution does not bar such withdrawal."

14. In view of the settled legal position, as well as considering the fact that in terms of applicable service rules, resignation was to become effective only from the date of its acceptance by the competent authority, the decision taken by the respondents to accept resignation from the date of its tendering, after it had been withdrawn, is illegal and arbitrary. The order impugned, consequently, cannot be sustained.

15. Having reached the conclusion aforesaid, the next question, which arises for consideration, is as to what relief is liable to be granted to the petitioner. Law by now is well settled that back wages cannot be granted, as a matter of routine. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed various decisions on this aspect of the matter. In Shambhu Murari Sinha Vs. Project and Development India and another, reported in 2000 (86) FLR 206, it has been observed that in such circumstances, the employee concerned would be entitled to continue with all consequential benefits. Para-4 of the judgment is reproduced:-

"4. From the facts stated above, it would be seen that though the option of voluntary retirement exercised by the appellant by his letter dated 18.10.1995 was accepted by the respondent-management by their letter dated 30.7.1997, the appellant was not relieved from service and he was allowed to continue in service till 26.9.1997, which, for all practical purposes, would be the "effective date" as it was on this date that he was relieved from service. In the meantime, as pointed out above, the appellant had already withdrawn the offer of voluntary retirement vide his letter dated 7.8.1997. The question which, therefore, arises in this appeal is whether it is open to a person having exercised option of voluntary retirement to withdraw the said offer after its acceptance but before it is made effective. The question is squarely answered by the three decisions, namely, Balram Gupta vs. Union of India & Anr. 1987 (Supp.) SCC 228; J.N. Srivastava vs. Union of India & Anr. (1998) 9 SCC 559 and Power Finance Corporation Ltd. vs. Pramod Kumar Bhatia (1997) 4 SCC 280, in which it was held that the resignation, in spite of its acceptance, can be withdrawn before the "effective date". That being so, the appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment of the High Court is set aside with the direction that the appellant shall be allowed to continue in service with all consequential benefits. There will, however, be no order as to costs."

16. In Managing Director, Orissa State Handloom Weavers' Cooperative Society Ltd. Vs. Satyanarayan Pattnaik and another, reported in 2014 (3) SCC 218, following observations have been made in para-4 of the judgment, awarding 20% of back wages:-

"4. Keeping the question of law open, looking at the peculiar facts of the case, we feel that the appeal deserves to be allowed to a limited extent by directing the appellant employer to pay only 20% of the back wages from the date when the respondent ceased to discharge his duties till the date he is reinstated in service. The respondent shall be reinstated in service within two weeks from today."

17. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent Corporation submits that in the facts of the present case, the petitioner has virtually abandoned the services, and acceptance of resignation was a mere formality, and even if, the order of acceptance is held to be illegal, petitioner would not be entitled to any back wages.

18. From the materials, which have been brought on record, this Court finds that there was an intentional act on part of the petitioner not to perform his duties from 1985 onwards. Except for sending of certain letters, there was no serious intent on part of petitioner to actually work. It is only after 11 years that the resignation was withdrawn. Even thereafter, petitioner did nothing, and only in October, 1998, petitioner approached this Court by filing a writ petition.

19. From the facts aforesaid, this Court finds that it was not a case, in which respondents have prevented the petitioner from working, but petitioner was himself responsible for failing to perform his duties. Since the resignation was not accepted by the competent authority, and it had been withdrawn before its acceptance, as such, the order impugned cannot be sustained, but the petitioner would not be entitled to full back wages.

20. In the opinion of the Court, as the respondents could not have accepted the resignation after it stood withdrawn, the order impugned dated 30.12.1998 is set aside. Petitioner would be entitled to reinstatement alongwith continuity of service. In the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, petitioner would be entitled to a consolidated sum of Rs.1,00,000/- towards back wages."

27. In view of the law laid down in the aforesaid judgments, this court is of considered view that petitioner has withdrawn her resignation dated 5.2.2021 by submitting applications on 5.2.2021 and 11.2.2021 therefore, order dated 31.3.2021 whereby petitioner's resignation dated 5.2.2021 has been accepted, is unsustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed.

28. It is also to be seen that on order dated 31.3.2021 being quashed, what relief can be granted to the petitioner in respect of period in which she has actually not performed any work as Assistant Teacher.

29. This court is of the view that since petitioner has actually not worked from the date of her resignation therefore, she may be entitled only for 25% of the back wages.

30. In view of the aforesaid reasons, this writ petition is allowed. Order dated 31.3.2021 is quashed. The District Basic Education Officer, Etah is directed to allow the petitioner to join on her post of Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School Mirzapur, Block Awagarh, District Etah within four weeks from today and to pay her current salary as and when it becomes due.

31. It is further provided that petitioner shall be entitled to get 25% of the salary admissible to her for the period from 5.2.2021 till the date of her reinstatement in service and the said amount shall be calculated and paid to the petitioner within four months from the date of service of certified copy of this order.

1.1 - Petitioner's candidature for Assistant Teacher (Classes I to V) rejected for possessing T.E.T. certificate in Sanskrit Language (Primary Level) instead of T.E.T. for Primary Level (Classes I to V). Government Order dated 17.04.2013 and NCTE guidelines (11.02.2011) prescribe distinct T.E.T. categories, including Primary Level (Classes I to V) and Language Teacher-Primary Level; petitioner's T.E.T. in Sanskrit lacked required testing in Hindi, Mathematics, and Environmental Studies, rendering him ineligible for Primary Teacher post. Single Judge's finding that Government Order dated 15.10.2013 imposed no such restriction erroneous, as Clause 1.1 mandates T.E.T. for Classes I to VS Order of District Basic Education Officer (19.08.2014) rejecting candidature upheld; Single Judge's judgment (14.03.2023) allowing Writ-A No. 45784 of 2014 set aside. 2. St. of U.P. Vs Shiv Kumar Pathak, (Supreme Court) (Para 20)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. The present intra-court appeal filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of Court is directed against the judgement and order dated 14.03.2023 passed by learned Single Judge allowing Writ-A No.45784 of 2014 filed by respondent no.1 (hereinafter referred to as 'the petitioner'). In the writ petition, the petitioner had challenged the order dated 19.08.2014 passed by appellant no.1 rejecting the candidature of the petitioner for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in Primary Schools run by U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad (appellant no.2) on the ground that the petitioner had passed T.E.T. Examination in Sanskrit language and not T.E.T. meant for teaching primary level classes. He therefore did not fulfill the eligibility prescribed for the post. In reaching to the said conclusion, reliance has been placed on the Government Order dated 15.10.2013.

2. The learned Single Judge has held that the Government Order dated 15.10.2013 does not place any such restriction. It merely requires that the candidate should have passed T.E.T. Examination. As the petitioner had duly cleared the T.E.T. Examination, though in Sanskrit language, he was held eligible for the post and accordingly, direction was issued to the appellants to issue appointment letter to the petitioner.

3. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the Government decided to fill up 10,000 vacant posts of Assistant Teachers in primary schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad. In furtherance, it issued a Government Order dated 15.10.2013. It stipulated that the educational qualification required was graduation degree from a recognised degree college, two years BTC Course from authorised institution of the State Government and certificate of Teacher Eligibility Test (T.E.T.) meant for classes 1 to 5 i.e. primary level. The requirement of having T.E.T. certificate was an essential condition in view of the stipulations laid down in this behalf by the National Council for Teacher Education in exercise of its powers under Section 23 (1) of the Right to Education Act, 2009. The State Government, in accordance with the guidelines framed by the NCTE, had issued Government Order dated 17.04.2013 disclosing the manner in which T.E.T. Examination would be held. According to it, T.E.T. Examination was held for four separate categories-

(i) Primary Level (Classes I to V)

(ii) Language Teacher- Primary Level (Classes I to V)

(iii) Upper Primary Level (Classes VI to VIII)

(iv) Language Teacher- Upper Primary Level (Classes VI to VIII)

4. In para 2 of the said Government Order, the subjects in which candidates would be tested for T.E.T. certificate in a particular category, was specified. It reveals that a candidate who passes T.E.T. in any particular category can only teach students of that category. The candidates also had the option to appear in papers of all categories. The Guidelines issued by the State Government dated 17.04.2013 were kept in mind while taking decision to fill up 10,000 vacancies of primary teachers. This is evident from Clause 1.1 of the Government Order dated 15.10.2013 which specifically provided that the person should have passed T.E.T. meant for teaching Classes I to V. As such, the finding of learned Single Judge that there was no bar under the Government Order for a candidate possessing T.E.T. in Sanskrit language to be recruited for the post of primary teacher is manifestly incorrect. In other words, the submission of learned counsel for the appellants is that as per guidelines dated 17.04.2013 issued by the Government keeping in mind the notifications issued by NCTE from time to time, a candidate to be recruited for teaching primary classes from Standard I to V had to possess T.E.T. certificate of primary level and not the T.E.T. certificate of any other category.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the Government Order dated 15.10.2013 contains no such inhibition and the learned Single Judge was right in holding that the petitioner, who held T.E.T. certificate, though in Sanskrit Language, was fully qualified for teaching primary level classes i.e. Standard I to V. The Division Bench of this Court in *Shiv Kumar Pathak and Others vs. State of U.P. and Others*¹ has held that NCTE Notifications prescribing eligibility have overriding effect and the same merely prescribes T.E.T. as eligibility criteria, without making any distinction between different types of T.E.T. Certificates. Therefore, the appeal deserves to be dismissed.

6. The main question, which thus arises for consideration, is whether the petitioner, on the strength of T.E.T. certificate in Sanskrit language, was eligible for appointment as Assistant Teacher in Primary School in pursuance of advertisement issued in the year 2016 for filling up 10,000 vacancies. In other words, whether the test passed by the petitioner in Sanskrit language fulfilled the requirements of Teacher Eligibility Test prescribed for teachers for the Primary Schools.

7. Indisputably, the vacancies notified by advertisement issued in different newspapers in October, 2013 were for filling up posts of Assistant Teachers in Primary Schools imparting elementary education (Standard I to V). All the schools are covered within the definition of Section 2(n) of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act').

8. Section 23 of the Act stipulates that any person possessing such minimum qualifications, as laid down by an academic authority authorized by the Central Government by notification, shall be eligible for appointment as a teacher. In exercise of powers under Section 23 of the Act, the Central Government issued notification dated 31st March, 2010 authorizing the NCTE as the academic authority to lay down the minimum qualifications for a person to be eligible for appointment as a teacher.

9. The NCTE issued a notification dated 23.10.2010 laying down the minimum qualifications for appointment as a teacher in a school referred to in clause (n) of Section 2 of the Act. The minimum qualifications inter alia provided for a pass certificate in the Teacher Eligibility Test to be conducted by the appropriate government in accordance with the guidelines framed by the NCTE for the purpose. A separate set of qualifications was prescribed for teachers for Classes I to V and Classes VI to VIII. The said notification was amended by a notification dated 29.07.2011 but the prescription regarding T.E.T. test remained the same.

10. On 11.02.2011, NCTE framed guidelines for Teacher Eligibility Test to be conducted by the appropriate governments. In pursuance of the said guidelines, the State Government issued a Government Order dated 17th April, 2013 addressed to the Director, State Education Research and Training Board, U.P., Lucknow and Secretary, Examination Regulatory Authority, U.P., Allahabad emphasizing the need for conducting Teacher Eligibility Test. It refers to a previous Government Order dated 25.09.2012 by which the State Government had required the aforesaid two Authorities to submit proposal for holding T.E.T. Examination. The guidelines on basis of which T.E.T. Examination was to be conducted, was enclosed with the Government Order dated 17th April, 2013.

11. The guidelines stipulated holding of T.E.T. Examination for four different categories, namely, (i) Primary Level (Classes I to V), (ii) Language Teacher-Primary Level (Classes I to V), (iii) Upper Primary Level (Classes VI to VIII), and (iv) Language Teacher- Upper Primary Level (Classes VI to VIII). The guidelines provided for different course structure and content of question papers for different categories, however, liberty was given to the candidates to appear in one or more categories, so as to attain eligibility for appointment as teacher in more than one category.

12. The petitioner had passed U.P. T.E.T., 2013 of Primary Level- Sanskrit language. Now, it is to be seen whether the said certificate fulfilled the pre-eligibility prescribed for participating in the selection for recruitment of Primary Teachers of Classes I to V. The T.E.T. Certificate possessed by the petitioner for Classes I to V was awarded to him on basis of the test held by Examination Regulatory Authority, U.P., Allahabad in accordance with the guidelines contained in Government Order dated 17th April, 2013. The structure and content of the said test as per Government Order dated 17th April, 2013 was as follows:

(i) Child Development and Pedagogy-	30 MCQs	30 Marks
(ii) Comprehension-	30 "	30 "
(iii) Grammer-	30 "	30 "
(iv) Language Expression-	-	60 "

(MCQ is acronym for Multiple Choice Question)

13. In clear distinction of the structure and content of T.E.T. prescribed for teacher of Primary Level- Language (Standard I to V), the structure and content of T.E.T. for Primary Teacher (Standard I to V) was as follows:

(i) Child Development and Pedagogy-	30 MCQs	30 Marks
(ii) Language I-	30 "	30 "
(iii) Language II-	30 "	30 "
(iv) Mathematics-	30 "	30 "
(v) Environmental Studies-	30 "	30 "

14. The guidelines prescribed by NCTE for holding T.E.T. for Classes I to V, in terms of the structure and content of the test is exactly similar to that prescribed by the State Government vide Government Order dated 17th April, 2013.

15. The petitioner, who had passed T.E.T. meant for Classes I to V-Sanskrit language was, thus, not tested on the structure and content prescribed for T.E.T. for Classes I to V. The petitioner was not tested for Hindi language in contrast to his counter-parts, who appeared for T.E.T. I to V and had to answer questions of thirty marks in Hindi Language. Again, the petitioner was not tested for Mathematics nor for Environmental Studies, which was essential part of the structure and content of the test paper meant for students appearing for T.E.T. for Classes I to V.

16. As is the own case of the petitioner, the guidelines framed by NCTE were binding on the States while holding the T.E.T. The T.E.T. held by the State for Classes I to V was in consonance with the guidelines prescribed by NCTE in this behalf. The NCTE guidelines as well as the guidelines issued by the State Government vide Government Order dated 17th April, 2013 specifically gave an option to the candidates to appear in a specified category or in all the categories. However, the petitioner did not avail the said option and only qualified T.E.T. for Classes I to V in Sanskrit language. He had the option to appear in T.E.T. Primary (Classes I to V) as well as T.E.T. for Upper Primary Level (Classes VI to VIII) and Language- Upper Primary Level (Classes VI to VIII).

17. It is pertinent to note that Government Order dated 15th October, 2013 vide Clause 1.1 specifically provided that the candidate should inter alia possess T.E.T. Certificate for Classes I to V. The relevant part of the said clause is reproduced below:

"1- आवेदन हेतु पात्रता

(i) शैक्षिक अर्हता- सहायक अध्यापक के पदों पर चयन / नियुक्ति हेतु ऐसे अभ्यर्थी पात्र होंगे, जो भारत में विधि द्वारा स्थापित विश्वविद्यालय से स्नातक की उपाधि रखते हों, राज्य शैक्षिक अनुसंधान एवं प्रशिक्षण परिषद उ०प्र० द्वारा आयोजित दो वर्षीय बी०टी०सी० प्रशिक्षण, दो वर्षीय उर्दू प्रवीणता बी०टी०सी० प्रशिक्षण, विशिष्ट बी०टी०सी० प्रशिक्षण सफलतापूर्वक उत्तीर्ण किए हों, उ०प्र० सरकार अथवा भारत सरकार द्वारा आयोजित कक्षा 1 से 5 हेतु अध्यापक पात्रता परीक्षा सफलतापूर्वक उत्तीर्ण किए हों।"

18. Since all the posts advertised were for Primary Teachers for teaching Classes I to V and not teacher in Sanskrit language only and, therefore, the aforesaid stipulation was specifically embodied in Clause 1.1 of the Government Order dated 15th October, 2013.

19. It is noticeable that the structure and content of the tests were designed in a manner so as to test the teaching ability of a candidate to teach students of that category or subject. Thus, a teacher passing T.E.T. meant for Classes I to V was not tested nor eligible for recruitment as a teacher for Upper Primary Level i.e., Classes VI to VIII nor as a teacher for any specific language like Sanskrit, English or Urdu. Likewise, a candidate passing T.E.T. in any specific language would be eligible for consideration for appointment as a teacher of that language only.

20. The Division Bench judgement of this Court in Shiv Kumar Pathak (supra), holding that the qualifications prescribed by NCTE are binding, though, reversed in appeal by the Supreme Court in *State of U.P. and Others vs. Shiv Kumar Pathak and Others*², still holds the field to the extent it lays down the above legal proposition. In fact, there is also no dispute about the said legal proposition, as arguments of both the sides rest on the said premise, though, giving a different interpretation to advance their respective submissions.

21. As already noted above, if we go by the stipulations prescribed by NCTE for holding T.E.T., for a person to become eligible for recruitment as Primary Teacher for Classes I to V, the T.E.T. Certificate possessed by the petitioner for Sanskrit language did not meet the specified requirements.

22. The learned Single Judge has overlooked Clause 1.1 of Government Order dated 15th October, 2013 in holding that the said Government Order did not prohibit a candidate seeking appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School to possess T.E.T. Certificate in Sanskrit language. In fact, when the said stipulation in Clause 1 of Government Order dated 15th October, 2013 is read with the guidelines issued by the State Government on 17th April, 2013 and the guidelines issued by NCTE dated 11.02.2011, the distinction between the two set of tests becomes amply clear.

23. In the result, the irresistible conclusion is that the petitioner, who was not having T.E.T. Certificate for teaching Classes I to V but T.E.T. Certificate in Sanskrit Language Primary Level, was not eligible for selection on the post of Primary Teacher in Junior Basic Schools in pursuance of the advertisement.

24. We, thus, find no illegality in the stand contained in the order of Basic Shiksha Adhikari dated 19.08.2014, against which the writ petition was filed.

25. Accordingly, the instant appeal is allowed.

26. The impugned judgement and order of the learned Single Judge is set aside and the writ petition is dismissed.

Recruitment of Staff Nurse - Experience Certificate - Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (UPPSC) rejected candidature of petitioner for Staff Nurse post due to an erroneous experience certificate (09.11.2021) mentioning 'Nurse Mentor' instead of 'Staff Nurse', despite her having requisite experience (01.04.2015 to 18.10.2019). Corrected certificate (24.08.2022) and issuing authority's admission of mistake (30.08.2022) submitted post-re-scrutiny, but not considered by UPPSC, citing cut-off date for document submission (18.11.2021, extended to 22.11.2021). Single Judge allowed Writ-A No. 21430 of 2022, setting aside UPPSC's rejection order (16.11.2022), holding that procedural requirement of proof submission is relaxable, unlike essential qualifications. Distinction between possession of qualification (mandatory by cut-off date) and proof thereof (directory) upheld, supported by Supreme Court precedents. (Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. The present intra-court appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of Court is against the judgment of learned Single Judge dated 31.7.2023 in Writ – A No. 21430 of 2022 (Renu vs. State of U.P. and 3 others), whereby the writ petition filed by Renu, non-appellant no. 1 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Original Writ Petitioner') has been allowed and the order passed by the Secretary, U.P. Public Service Commission, Prayagraj (the appellant herein) (for short 'the Commission') dated 16.11.2022, has been set aside and a direction was issued to the Director, Medical and Health, Government of U.P., Lucknow (proforma respondent no.

4 herein) to grant benefit of experience certificate to her and consider her candidature for appointment as a Staff Nurse, if all other conditions stand satisfied.

Background Facts:

2. The U.P. Public Service Commission issued an advertisement dated 16.7.2021, notifying the holding of Staff Nurse/Sister Grade-2 (Male/Female) Examination, 2021. It was for filling up the posts of nursing staff in (a) Medical and Health Services Department (b) Medical Education and Training Department and (c) KGMU. The date of commencement of submission of online application was 16.7.2021; last date for receipt of examination fee online in the bank was 12.8.2021 and last date for submission of online application was 16.8.2021. Clause 10(4) of the advertisement stipulated that a maximum of 15 marks would be awarded to a candidate for past experience as Staff Nurse on contractual basis. For the first completed year of service, a candidate would be entitled to 3 marks. For the next and every completed year of service on contract basis, 3 marks for each year. In this regard, the certificate issued by the Competent Authority only was to be treated as valid. The said stipulation around which the controversy revolves, in the present appeal is extracted below: -

10(4) Selection shall carry on hundred marks. The merit list of the candidates shall be prepared in the following manner: -

(a) Written Examination shall carry Eighty Five marks.

(b) Marks to a person who is working as Staff Nurse on contract basis in the Medical and Health Services Department, Uttar Pradesh shall be awarded in the following manner subject to the maximum of fifteen marks: -

(i) For the first completed year of service on contract basis Three marks.

(ii) For the next and every completed year of service on contract basis, Three marks for each year. In this regard the certificate issued by the Appointing Authority only shall be treated valid. A Proforma for this purpose is available in Appendix – 6 of this advertisement.

(c) The marks obtained by each candidate under clause (a) shall, where applicable, be added to the marks obtained under clause (b).

Note : The candidates must possess all the requisite qualifications upto the last date for submitting the applications.

3. Thus, out of total 100 marks on which candidates were to be tested, 85 marks were allocated for the written examination and 15 marks for past experience in service.

4. The aforesaid stipulation was in accordance with Rule 15 of the U.P. Subordinate Nursing (Non-Gazetted) Service (Fourth Amendment) Rules, 2016 (for short ‘the Rules 2016’).

5. The Original Writ Petitioner after completing all the formalities, appeared in the written examination. The result was declared on 4.1.2022 and she was shown selected. She had secured 28.50 marks in the written examination and was given 12 marks for experience. Thus, she had secured a total of 40.50 marks. After the result was declared, a Writ Petition bearing No. 1815 of 2022 (Priti Patel and another vs. State of U.P. and others) was filed challenging the result on the ground that the Commission did not properly scrutinize the experience certificates of the candidates. In the said writ petition, the Commission made statement through its counsel that it would re-scrutinize the experience certificates of 814 selected candidates in respect of whom recommendation for appointment had not been made to the State Government by that time. The Court having regard to the said submission permitted the Commission to carry out the said exercise.

6. In pursuance thereof, the Commission re-scrutinized the experience certificates and issued fresh select list on 23.8.2022, in which the name of the petitioner was missing. It is pertinent to note that the petitioner had filed experience certificate dated 9.11.2021 issued by Chief Medical Officer, Rampur. In the said certificate, the Chief Medical Officer by mistake mentioned that the petitioner had worked as Nurse Mentor instead of Staff Nurse. The said mistake, it seems, came to the knowledge of the petitioner when she found her name missing in the revised result declared on 23.8.2022. On 24.8.2022, she submitted another certificate from the Chief Medical Officer, certifying that she had worked as Staff Nurse. She also filed yet another certificate from Chief Medical Officer dated 30.8.2022, stating that by inadvertence and oversight, it came to be mentioned in the certificate issued on 9.11.2021 that she had worked as Nurse Mentor in place of Staff Nurse (contractual basis). The petitioner represented to the Commission on 5.9.2022 on basis of the aforesaid certificates and highlighted the inadvertent mistake on part of the Issuing Authority and prayed for being declared selected.

7. It is pertinent to note that out of total advertised posts, 1,729 posts had remained vacant as the same could not be filled up because of non-availability of suitable eligible candidates. However, the representation filed by the petitioner did not find favour with the Commission and was rejected by the order dated 16.11.2022. It has been observed therein that the original writ petitioner had filed experience certificate as Nurse Mentor and consequently she was not given the benefit of past experience. In other words, the Commission declined to take notice of the experience certificate dated 24.8.2022 and another certificate dated 30.8.2022, in which the Issuing Authority admitted its mistake.

8. The learned Single Judge after considering a number of judgments of Supreme Court and of this Court, held in favour of the Original Writ Petitioner and issued direction for considering the experience certificate and aggrieved whereby, the instant appeal has been filed.

Issues:

9. The main issue for consideration is whether the petitioner has been wrongly denied the benefit of experience as Staff Nurse and whether the certificates furnished by her from time to time, could be considered for awarding marks on that score.

Submissions of learned counsel for the parties:

10. Shri Nisheet Yadav, counsel for the Commission contended that the Original Writ Petitioner had submitted the experience certificate of working on the post of Nurse Mentor and not Staff Nurse along with the hard copy of the online application form in terms of notifications dated 02.11.2021 and 15.11.2021 issued by the Commission after declaration of result of the written examination. Therefore, the Commission did not grant her marks for experience as that would have been in contravention of the Rules 2016 as well as the stipulations in the advertisement. The Commission in its aforesaid notifications dated 02.11.2021 and 15.11.2021, specified a cut-off date for submitting the testimonials/ documents and also mentioned that no claim would be entertained thereafter and therefore it was bound by the same. In case the Commission entertains any claim after the cut-off date, it would be an unending process and the Commission would not be able to finalize the selection process. Reliance has been placed on the following judgments: -

- (i) The State of Tamil Nadu and Others vs. G. Hemalathaa and another¹;
- (ii) Gaurav Sharma vs. State of U.P.²;
- (iii) Rajendra Patel vs. State of U.P. and Another³.

11. On the other hand, Sri Ashok Khare, learned counsel for the Original Writ Petitioner, submitted that the petitioner duly possessed the requisite experience. The inadvertent mistake on part of the Issuing Authority in the certificate originally furnished, but which was rectified as soon as the mistake was detected, would not disentitle her to the marks under the heading “experience”. The post of Nurse Mentor is a superior post and therefore even otherwise, experience on the said post could not have been brushed aside. There is difference in a candidate possessing essential qualification before the prescribed last date which is a must and from which there cannot be any deviation. However, the same principle would not apply to furnishing of documents in proof thereof, which is only directory in nature, being in the realm of procedure. Moreover, in the instant case, the Commission itself extended the date for submitting the documents from time to time and therefore, it could not have ignored the experience certificate of the petitioner. It is also urged that it was not a case of filing of experience certificate after the prescribed date, but only correction of the error in the original certificate. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance on the following judgments: -

(i) Charles K. Skaria and others vs. Dr. C. Mathew and others⁴;

(ii) Dolly Chhanda vs. Chairman, Jee and Others⁵;

(iii) Food Corporation of India vs. Rimjhim⁶;

(iv) Aarav Jain vs. The Bihar Public Service Commission and others⁷;

(v) Sweety Kumari vs. State of Bihar and others⁸;

(vi) Karn Singh Yadav vs. Govt. of NCT of Delhi and others⁹;

(vii) Karn Singh Yadav vs. Govt. of NCT of Delhi and others¹⁰.

Analysis:

12. Before we proceed to analyse the issue involved, certain facts which are not in dispute, are noted hereunder –

The petitioner applied in pursuance of advertisement dated 16.7.2021. Under the Service Rules as well as in terms of the advertisement, a candidate is entitled to a maximum of 15 marks for experience as Staff Nurse on contractual basis. The petitioner had worked as Staff Nurse on contractual basis under National Rural Health Mission from 01.04.2015 to 18.10.2019, i.e. for more than four years. It thus entitled her to 12 marks towards ‘experience’. The petitioner appeared in the written examination held on 03.10.2021 and was declared successful. Thereafter, in pursuance of press communique (Notification) dated 3.11.2021 and 15.11.2021 requiring the candidates to submit hard copy of the online application form and documents in support of the claim made in the application, she submitted experience certificate dated 9.11.2021, issued by Chief Medical Officer, Rampur. When the final result was published on 04.01.2022, she was declared selected. She was awarded 12 marks for past experience. However, on re-scrutiny, when revised result was declared on 23.8.2023, her name was missing from the list of selected candidates. The petitioner on coming to know of discrepancy in the original experience certificate dated 9.11.2021, got another certificate issued on 24.8.2022 by Chief Medical Officer, Rampur. He also issued a certificate on 30.8.2022, admitting the mistake while issuing the original certificate.

13. In the above backdrop, it has to be examined whether the stand taken by the Commission is sustainable or not and whether in the facts and circumstances of the instant case, the writ-petitioner was entitled to the benefit of experience as Staff Nurse.

14. One of the first principles clearly discernible from various judgments cited by counsel for the parties is that the rules/instructions framed by the Commission are binding and the Commission is not empowered to relax the same. Thus, in State of Tamil Nadu

15. There are series of decisions which draw distinction between essential requirements and the proof/mode of proof. It has been held that while the general rule is that a candidate should possess the eligibility qualification on a specified date or in its absence on the last date of submitting the application form and for which there can be no relaxation, but the same does not apply in relation to the requirement of submitting documents in proof thereof.

16. Thus in Charles K. Skaria, (supra), a case relating to admission to post-graduate course in Ophthalmology, a weightage of 10 per cent marks was provided to candidates possessing diploma in the relevant stream. The benefit was denied to the appellants before the Supreme Court on the ground that they had failed to produce the diploma certificate alongwith application form, despite specific requirements to the said effect. The Supreme Court drawing distinction between possessing of the qualification and its proof observed as follows:

"20. There is nothing unreasonable or arbitrary in adding 10 marks for holders of a diploma. But to earn these extra 10 marks, the diploma must be obtained at least on or before the last date for application, not later. Proof of having obtained a diploma is different from the factum of having got it. Has the candidate, in fact, secured a diploma before the final date of application for admission to the degree course? That is the primary question. It is prudent to produce evidence of the diploma along with the application, but that is secondary. Relaxation of the date on the first is illegal, not so on the second. Academic excellence, through a diploma for which extra mark is granted, cannot be denuded because proof is produced only later, yet before the date of actual selection. The emphasis is on the diploma; the proof thereof subserves the factum of possession of the diploma and is not an independent factor. The prospectus does say:

(4) (b) 10% to diploma holders in the selection of candidates to M. S., and M. D., courses in the respective subjects or sub-specialities.

13. Certificates to be produced :- In all cases true copies of the following documents have to be produced :—

(k) Any other certificates required along with the application.

This composite statement cannot be read formalistic fashion. Mode of proof is geared to the goal of the qualification in question. It is subversive of sound interpretation and realistic decoding of the prescription to telescope the two and make both mandatory in point of time. What is essential is the possession of a diploma before the given date; what is ancillary is the safe mode of proof of the qualification. To confuse between a fact and its proof is blurred perspicacity. To make mandatory the date of acquiring the additional qualification before the last date for application makes sense. But if it is unshakeably shown that the qualification has been acquired before the relevant date, as is the case here, to invalidate this merit factor because proof, though indubitable, was adduced a few days later but before the selection or in a manner not mentioned in the prospectus, but still above-board, is to make procedure not the handmaid but the mistress and form not as subservient to substance but as superior to the essence."

17. The judgement in Charles K. Skaria (supra) was followed by a three Judge Bench in Dolly Chhanda vs. Chairman, JEE and Others (supra). The facts of the said case are very similar to that of the instant case. The appellant therein submitted application for appearing in the Joint Entrance Examination, 2003 under the reserved M.I. category being daughter of an ex-servicemen, who was discharged from armed forces on the ground of permanent disability. Under Clause 2.1.4 of the admission brochure, certain percentage of seats were reserved for children, widows of personnel of armed/para military forces of Orissa, killed/disabled in action during war or peace time operations. Her position was 20 in M.I. category and she was called for counselling. During scrutiny of papers, it transpired that the certificate dated 29.06.2003 given to her father by Zila Sainik Board in column three pertaining to 'disabled/killed in war/hostilities' contained an endorsement "not eligible". Consequently, her candidature was rejected. She then filed another certificate dated 16.07.2003, which mentioned that her father was permanently disabled. This, undoubtedly entitled her to the benefit of M.I. category. However, it was not considered on the ground that she failed to produce the said certificate at the time of counselling on 07.07.2003. The appellant filed writ petition contending that she falls under M.I. category and she could not be made to suffer for the fault committed by Zila Sainik Board in not issuing a correct certificate in the first instance. The writ filed by her was dismissed. The Supreme Court held that there can be relaxation in the matter of submission of proof and it will not be proper to apply any rigid principle as it pertains to the domain of procedure. Every infraction of the rule relating to submission of proof need not necessarily result in rejection of candidature. The relevant observations in paragraph no.7 of the law report are extracted below:

"7. The general rule is that while applying for any course of study or a post, a person must possess the eligibility qualification on the last date fixed for such purpose either in the admission brochure or in application form, as the case may be, unless there is an express provision to the contrary. There can be no relaxation in this regard i.e. in the matter of holding the requisite eligibility qualification by the date fixed. This has to be established by producing the necessary certificates, degrees or marksheets. Similarly, in order to avail of the benefit of reservation or weightage, etc. necessary certificates have to be produced. These are documents in the nature of proof of holding of particular qualification or percentage of marks secured or entitlement to benefit of reservation. Depending upon the facts of a case, there can be some relaxation in the matter of submission of proof and it will not be proper to apply any rigid principle as it pertains in the domain of procedure. Every infraction of the rule relating to submission of proof need not necessarily result in rejection of candidature."

18. In Food Corporation of India (supra), the Supreme Court followed the judgement in Charles K. Skaria and Dolly Chhanda and considered the experience certificate of a candidate filed along with the writ petition, again drawing distinction between a fact and its proof. The relevant observations are as follows:

13. Now so far as the submission or behalf of the FCI that a candidate must and/or ought to have produced the experience certificate along with the application is concerned, at this stage, a decision of this Court in Charles K. Skaria v. C. Mathew and the subsequent decision of this Court in Dolly Chhanda v. JEE are required to be referred to. In Charles K. Skaria, this Court had an occasion to consider the distinction between the essential requirements and the proof/mode of proof. In the aforesaid case, this Court had an occasion to consider the distinction between a fact and its proof. In the aforesaid case before this Court, a candidate/student was entitled to extra 10% marks for holders of a diploma and the diploma must be obtained on or before the last date of the application, not later. In the aforesaid case, a candidate secured diploma before the final date of application, but did not produce the evidence of diploma along with the application. Therefore, he was not allowed extra 10% marks and therefore denied the admission. Dealing with such a situation, this Court observed and held that what was essential requirement was that a candidate must have obtained the diploma on or before the last date of application but not later, and that is the primary requirement and to submit the proof that the diploma is obtained on or before a particular date as per the essential requirement is secondary. This Court specifically observed and held that "What is essential is the possession of a diploma before the given date; what is ancillary is the safe mode of proof of the qualification." This Court specifically observed and held that "To confuse between a fact and its proof is blurred perspicacity."

19. Now, coming to the judgement relied upon by learned counsel for the appellant in Gaurav Sharma (supra), it is noticeable that there was requirement of filing OBC certificate before a prescribed date. The Full Bench held that a candidate claiming benefit of OBC category has to establish twin conditions: (i) that he belongs to OBC category recognized by State and (ii) that he does not fall within creamy layer. These requirements were to be adjudged with reference to the date prescribed in the advertisement. The Full Bench took notice of the fact that OBC certificate (non-creamy layer) is issued with reference to financial condition of holder or his parents assessed over a period of three years and, therefore, it was liable to change over a period of time. Therefore, a caste certificate submitted after the prescribed last date was held to be inadmissible. The said judgement, in our considered opinion, would not apply to the facts of the instant case, where there is no dispute of the fact that the original writ petitioner possessed experience as staff nurse but was denied its benefit only on account of mistake on the part of the issuing authority in mentioning her experience to be on the post of staff mentor instead of staff nurse.

20. The judgment of Supreme Court in Ram Kumar Gijroya vs. Delhi Subordinate Services Selection Board¹¹, on which reliance was placed before the Full Bench in submitting that OBC certificate filed even later on could be considered, was distinguished on the ground that therein the need of filing OBC Certificate was not a pre-condition for accepting the application form but was notified along with the declaration of result. To highlight the said aspect, even Para 8 of the judgment in Ram Kumar Gijroya (supra) was quoted, which is as follows: -

"8. Mr. R.C. Kaushik, the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant contends that the Division Bench of the High Court erred in not giving the opportunity to the appellant to submit the O.B.C. certificate after the cut-off date of the application. The requirement of submitting the O.B.C. certificate before the cut-off date of the application was introduced by the respondent-DSSSB only while declaring the result on 15.12.2008, holding that the appellant was not eligible for selection of the post of Staff Nurse as the O.B.C. certificate was received after cut-off date. The learned counsel contends that the stand of respondent-DSSSB is arbitrary, illegal and unreasonable and is also contrary to the settled proposition of law and guidelines issued on reservation and concession for candidates belonging to the reserved categories. The learned counsel places reliance upon the judgment of the Delhi High Court in the case of Tej Pal Singh v. Govt. of NCT of Delhi, wherein it was categorically held by the High Court that the petitioners therein were entitled to submit such certificates even after the cut-off date fixed by the advertisement".

21. A two Judge Bench of the Supreme Court in Karn Singh Yadav (supra) referred the issue involved in Ram Kumar Gijroya (supra) to Bench of three judges. When Karn Singh Yadav case came up before the Larger Bench, the Larger Bench in para-5 observed as follows:

"It must be stated here that an identical fact situation came up for consideration before this Court in Ram Kumar Gijroya v. Delhi Subordinate Services Selection Board, (2016) 4 SCC 754, wherein this Court ruled in favour of the concerned candidate. The instant matter is thus completely covered by said decision."

At the same time, noticing that the candidate was never appointed to the post in question and the matter related to the year 2007 and considerable time had lapsed, no relief was granted.

22. The judgment in Karn Singh Yadav (supra) was considered by the Supreme Court in Divya vs. Union of India, Writ Petition (C) No. 724 of 2023, decided on 09.10.2023. It is observed that the three Judge Bench in Karn Singh Yadav (supra) did not answer the question. Another judgment of three Judge Bench in Ashok Kumar Sharma and others vs. Chander Shekhar and Another¹², was preferred and relied upon. The judgment in Ram Kumar Gijroya (supra) was distinguished on the ground that in the said case, requirement of filing OBC Certificate before the cut-off date was notified by the Selection Body while declaring the result. The relevant observations are as follows: -

"54. The strong reliance placed on Ram Kumar Gijroya case (supra) also does not impress us. Not only was there no rule, like we have in the present case, it was only while declaring the result, the requirement of submitting the OBC certificate before the cut-off date was introduced by the Selection Authority there. Moreover, unlike the present, there was no contention or issue raised in that case that eligibility enures or crystalizes only on the issuance of the certificate and on possession of the certificate, before the prescribed cut-off date."

It is noteworthy that in the said case, under the relevant Rules, it was mandatory for a candidate to possess EWS certificate before the prescribed cut-off date. There was a negative covenant by way of Rule 13 that the proof of documents filed beyond the last date of submitting the application form would not be admissible and shall lead to cancellation of the candidature. Having regard to the said negative covenant, it was held that for a candidate to be eligible, he/she should not only fall in EWS category but should possess said certificate by the relevant date. It is for the said reason that the judgment in Charles K. Skaria (supra) and other cases echoing the same view, were distinguished. It is evident from para-45 of the Law Report, which is extracted :-

That is the fundamental distinction between the Charles K. Skaria (supra) line of cases and the cases at hand. As pointed out earlier, the eligibility for being categorized as EWS candidate crystallizes only when the I&AC is issued and, in this case, as required under the rules, it was to be issued and possessed by the candidate before 22.02.2022.

23. The judgment in Divya vs. Union of India (supra) is clearly distinguishable on facts. In the instant case, there was no prescription of possessing experience certificate by the last date prescribed for submitting online application rather the advertisement itself provided that the date for submitting proof of claims would be notified by the Commission in due course. This was also the situation in Ram Kumar Gijroya (supra) where the Commission notified the requirement of filing OBC Certificate at the time of declaring the result.

24. Other Full Bench judgement of this Court in Rajendra Patel (supra) is also not of much help to the appellants. Therein, there was a prescribed last date for filing the documents and a negative covenant to the effect that in case the prescribed deadline for completing various stages of recruitment is not complied with scrupulously, it would entail rejection of the candidature. In the aforesaid backdrop, the Full Bench observed as follows:

"Reliance was also sought to be placed on a judgment of the Supreme Court in Dolly Chhanda Vs Chairman, JEE, In Dolly Chhanda (supra), the Supreme Court has observed that the general rule is that while applying for any course of study or post, a person must possess the eligibility qualification on the last date fixed for such purpose either in the admission brochure or in the application form, as the case may be, unless there is an express provision to the contrary. The Supreme Court held that there could be no relaxation in the matter of holding the requisite eligibility qualification by the date fixed. However, depending upon the facts of the case, there can be some relaxation in the matter of submitting proof and it may not be proper to apply a rigid, principle which may pertain to the domain of procedure. Hence, every infraction of the rule relating to submission of proof need not necessarily result in the rejection of the candidature. These principles which have been laid down are not in dispute and they cannot be. However, the issue in the present case is whether the submission of a hard copy by the specified date together with all the documents was merely a matter of procedure. To accept the submission of the petitioner would, as we have held earlier, result in a situation where a candidate would be entitled to assert that despite the stipulated last date and a prescribed consequence of invalidation which has been drawn to the notice of the candidates, the Commission would be bound to scrutinise applications which are received together with the hard copies beyond the prescribed date. This, in our view, would not be permissible. We may also note that in a judgment in Secretary, UP Public Service Commission Vs S Krishna Chaitanya, the Supreme Court has held that the Commission cannot be directed to declare the final results when the application form of a candidate had not been received within the prescribed period."

25. The cardinal principles which emerge from the above discussion are that-

(a) A candidate should possess the prescribed qualification before cut-off date or the last date prescribed for submission of the application form unless there is stipulation to the contrary.

(b) There is difference between the fact of possessing minimum prescribed qualification by a specified date and the proof thereof. While there can be no relaxation in the first requirement, in appropriate cases and having regard to the fact of particular case and the Recruitment Scheme, there can be some relaxation in submitting the proof.

(c) If there is stipulated last date and a prescribed consequence of invalidation, the same is sacrosanct and cannot be relaxed.

26. Reverting to the facts of the case, it is important to note certain stipulations in the original advertisement dated 16.07.2021. Note no. 2 provided that - "the candidate must send hard copy of their online applications and enclose self-attested copies of all certificates in support of their claim rendered in the online application. In this connection, a separate press communique shall be published in due course by the Commission."

27. Clause no. 13(4) of the 'Important instructions to candidates' provided that- 'The candidates will have to enclose self-attested copies of mark sheets, certificates and degrees alongwith the application forms of examination in support of their claim of educational qualifications. If they do not enclose self-attested copies of certificates/documents in support of their claims, the application shall be rejected.'

28. Clause no. 13(10) stipulates that - 'The Commission may admit the candidate provisionally after summarily checking of the applications but if it is found at any stage that the applicant was not eligible or that his/her application should have been rejected or not entertainable initially, his/her candidature will be rejected and if the candidate is selected, the recommendation of the Commission for selection shall be withdrawn.'

29. The scheme of selection, as evident from the aforesaid stipulations in the advertisement is that initially the applications were entertained provisionally on basis of disclosures made in the application. Later, the Commission would notify, by a separate press communique, the date by which hard copy of the online applications and self-attested copies of all certificates and documents in support of the claim made in the online applications were to be submitted before the Commission by a specified date. This is also admitted to the Commission in paragraphs 12 and 14 of the affidavit filed in the instant appeal.

30. Accordingly, the Commission after conducting the written examination, notified the list of candidates, who had obtained marks above the minimum efficiency standard. It was 25 marks for candidates of General category and 20 marks for SC & ST candidates. The petitioner, who had obtained marks above minimum efficiency standard was duly included in the list. The Commission issued a press communique in shape of a notification on 03.11.2021 requiring the candidates, who had obtained marks above cut-off marks, to fill online application form mentioning therein the details in respect of the date, sex, residence, category etc. and after filling up online application form, the candidate was required to save and submit hard copy of the application form along with relevant certificates in support of the claim made in the application form by 18.11.2021. Paragraph nos.1, 2 and 5 of the said notification are extracted below:

"उ०प्र० लोक सेवा आयोग, प्रयागराज द्वारा विज्ञापन संख्या - ए-4 / ई-1 / 2021 के अन्तर्गत दिनांक-03.10.2021 को आयोजित स्टाफ नर्स / सिस्टर ग्रेड-2 (पुरुष / महिला) परीक्षा- 2021 में सम्मिलित सामान्य, ई०डब्ल्यू०एस० व अन्य पिछड़ा वर्ग के ऐसे अभ्यर्थी जिन्होंने उक्त लिखित परीक्षा (कुल - 85 अंक में) 25 अंक व उससे अधिक एवं अनुसूचित जाति व अनुसूचित जनजाति श्रेणी के ऐसे अभ्यर्थी जिन्होंने 20 अंक व उससे अधिक अंक प्राप्त किए हैं, उन अभ्यर्थियों की सूची आयोग की वेबसाइट <https://uppsc.up.nic.in> पर उपलब्ध है।

2 - उक्त समस्त अभ्यर्थियों से आनलाइन दावे के समर्थन में समस्त शैक्षिक अंक पत्र व प्रमाण पत्र, अनुभव सम्बन्धी प्रमाण

पत्र, उ०प्र० के आरक्षित श्रेणी की दशा में निर्धारित प्रारूप पर प्रमाण पत्र तथा उ०प्र० की महिला अभ्यर्थी होने की दशा में पिता पक्ष की ओर से निवास प्रमाण पत्र सहित परम्परागत आवेदन पत्र आमंत्रित किये जाते हैं।

5 - आनलाइन भरे गये फार्म सेट (आवेदन-पत्र) को मुद्रित करके उसके साथ समस्त संलग्नकों (प्रत्येक वर्ष की अंक तालिकाओं, उपाधियों तथा अन्य सभी दावों से सम्बन्धित प्रमाण-पत्रों की स्वप्रमाणित प्रतियाँ एवं वरीयता प्रपत्र सहित एक लिफाफे में भरकर तथा उक्त लिफाफे पर मुद्रित पता पर्ची (Address Slip) चस्पा कर दिनांक 18 नवम्बर, 2021 को 5.00 अपराह्न तक अथवा उसके पूर्व सचिव, उ०प्र० लोक सेवा आयोग, (सेवा अनुभाग-6) 10-कस्तूरबा गांधी मार्ग, प्रयागराज, पिन कोड नं०-211018 को पंजीकृत डाक द्वारा अथवा व्यक्तिगत रूप से आयोग के गेट संख्या - 3 पर स्थित डाक अनुभाग के काउन्टर (पूछ-ताछ काउन्टर) पर अवश्य उपलब्ध करा दें। उक्त अन्तिम तिथि के बाद प्राप्त होने वाले आवेदन पत्र किसी भी दशा में स्वीकार नहीं किए जाएंगे।"

31. Thereafter, the said time limit was relaxed and was extended up to 22.11.2021 by notification dated 15.11.2021.

32. It is reiterated at the cost of repetition that the aforesaid notifications were issued after holding of the written examination. The petitioner, admittedly, obtained marks above the cut-off marks. The selection scheme was not such that appearance of candidates in the written examination was dependent upon proof of experience. On the contrary, Note no. 2 of the advertisement itself provided that separate press communique would be issued at appropriate stage of selection notifying the date for filing documents in support of the claims made in the application. Thus, the requirement of filing documents had nothing do with eligibility, but with proof of claims made in the online application submitted after declaration of the result of the written- examination. The two press communiques issued were in realm of procedure and since there was nothing sacrosanct in it, the Commission itself extended the time fixed for submitting documents. Undoubtedly, the benefit of experience which was claimed was for the period anterior to the last date prescribed for submitting the online applications i.e., 16.08.2021.

33. In pursuance of notification dated 22.11.2021 and 15.11.2021, the petitioner submitted hard copy of online application forms, testimonials and certificates. In support of experience as 'staff nurse', she submitted experience certificate dated 09.11.2021, issued by Chief Medical Officer. It was in prescribed proforma – Appendix 6. It was as follows: -

34. The 'heading' of the certificate reveals that it was in respect of experience of a person as 'Staff Nurse'. However, in the end, it came to be mentioned that the Original Writ Petitioner worked as 'Staff Mentor' instead of 'Staff Mentor'. It is not in dispute between the parties that the petitioner had worked as a 'Staff Nurse' only, on contractual basis, and not as 'Staff Nurse'. However, it seems that it escaped notice of the Commission as well as the petitioner. It was only when re-scrutiny was done, that the mistake was discovered. As soon as the mistake came to the notice of the petitioner, she applied for its correction and submitted corrected certificate dated 24.08.2022 alongwith another certificate of the issuing authority dated 30.08.2022 admitting its mistake. Concededly, the certificate initially filed by the petitioner was well within time stipulated by the respondents vide the aforesaid two notifications.

35. Another noteworthy feature is that the selection in question was for filling up the posts of staff nurses, which are posts of utmost importance in any medical set up or hospital. They play crucial role as caregiver for patients by managing their physical needs, administering medications, maintaining medical records, etc. In fact, no hospital can run successfully without adequate nursing staff at its disposal. It is not disputed that even after the present selection, as many as 1729 posts could not be filled up because eligible candidates were not available. Undoubtedly, the petitioner had passed the written examination and she also possess the experience as staff nurse.

36. In the aforesaid backdrop, we are of considered opinion that it would not be proper to non-suit the petitioner on account sought salary arrears for 2016–2019 and post-retirement benefits, including pension, after wrongful termination attempts by the committee of management were quashed – Held, as the petitioner's termination was deemed illegal and his regularisation was upheld, he was entitled to salary for the period 2016–2019 when interim orders prevented his service, and to post-retirement benefits, including pension, consistent with his continuous service, as per Jahaj Pal Vs District Inspector of Schools. (Paras 5, 6, 16, 17, 38)

E. Judicial Review – Erroneous Rejection of Regularisation

– The Regional Selection Committee rejected the petitioner's regularisation claim, citing the absence of a substantive vacancy in 1993 when Section 33-B was enacted – Held, the Committee's reasoning was flawed, as the vacancy became substantive in 1990 due to deemed abandonment under Fundamental Rule 18 – The order dated 02.05.2022 was set aside for misapplication of law, and the Committee was directed to regularise the petitioner under Section 33-B with all consequential benefits, as supported by Kalyan Dombivali Municipal Corporation Vs Sanjay Gajanan Gharat. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Parashar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Petitioner who has finally retired as Lecturer from the institution of 5th respondent on 31.03.2022, has approached this Court questioning the decision of the Regional Selection Committee dated 02.05.2022 whereby his claim for regularisation as Lecturer has been rejected and so resultantly he stands denied of post retirement dues including pension.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that on account of one Suraj Prakash Agrawal, Lecturer (Chemistry) proceeding on long leave, the committee of management proceeded to fill up such short term vacancy by appointing petitioner as ad-hoc Lecturer on 29.10.1985. The appointment of the petitioner though came to be approved by the District Inspector of Schools (DIOS) but he was not paid any salary. Resultantly, petitioner filed a writ petition before this Court being Writ-A No.20807 of 1986 and the High Court while entertaining the petition issued a direction on 17.12.1986 to the effect that until services of the petitioner were terminated or some other candidate came and joined on recommendation of the Selection Board, petitioner shall be continued and he shall be entitled to emoluments (salary).

4. Ever since his appointment, petitioner continued to teach in the institution regularly and received salary as the sitting Lecturer Suraj Prakash Agrawal who had lien against the post, did not turn up to resume his duties. Section (1-A) came to be inserted after Section 33-A(1) of the UP Secondary Education Service Selection Board Act, 1982 (for short, 'the Act, 1982') w.e.f. 06.04.1991 taking aid of which, the services of petitioner came to be regularised and the order to this effect was passed by the DIOS on 19.05.1992. Since the services of the petitioner were regularised, the writ petition earlier filed by the petitioner being Writ Petition (A) No.20807 of 1986 was dismissed as infructuous on 11.09.2006. Petitioner was accorded with selection grade upon 12 years of continuous service after regularisation, by the order of DIOS vide order dated 22.11.2008, however, suddenly the committee of management adopted a resolution on the back of the petitioner on 22.11.2016 terminating the services of the petitioner. Petitioner represented before the DIOS against the resolution adopted by the committee of management on the ground that until prior approval of the UP Secondary Education Service Selection Board (for short, "Selection Board"), no such order could have been passed. The DIOS allowed the representation of the petitioner on 25.11.2016 holding that without approval of the Board, resolution adopted by the committee of management will be taken to be null and void.

5. The committee of management challenged the decision of the DIOS dated 25.11.2016 vide writ petition being Writ-A No.57215 of 2016 and got an interim stay order. It is also pertinent to mention here that, when the question of appointment of ad-hoc/officiating principal arose on account of post falling vacant on 30.06.2014, both the petitioner and one Ganesh Chandra Goel put up their repetitive claims on the basis of seniority to be appointed and claim of petitioner having been rejected, he filed a writ petition before this Court vide Writ-A No.52277 of 2014. While this writ petition remained pending, the DIOS passed an order accepting the claim of petitioner for being appointed as officiating principal on 28.09.2016, which came to be challenged by Ganesh Chandra Goel vide writ petition being Writ-A No.48836 of 2016. One more writ petition was filed by the petitioner as Writ Petition No.60494 of 2016 which was directed against the resolution of the committee of management dated 20.11.2016 and the consequential order dated 22.11.2016, though the same got subsequently disapproved by the DIOS on 25.11.2016.

6. All these four writ petitions came to be adjudicated by a common judgment delivered on 02.04.2019. Under this judgment, the writ petition of petitioner against Ganesh Chandra Goel as to seniority being Writ- A No.52277 of 2014 was dismissed and writ petition of Ganesh Chandra Goel, Writ-A No.48836 of 2016 was consequently allowed. The writ petition of the committee of management being No.57215 of 2016 to the above extent was also allowed. However, its writ petition directed against the order of DIOS holding resolution and the consequential action of the committee of management taken by the manager dated 20.11.2016 and 22.11.2016 respectively, was dismissed holding both the resolutions and the consequential action as unsustainable and consequently writ petition of the petitioner against the resolution and the consequential action being Writ Petition No.60494 of 2016 was allowed. The regularisation of the petitioner under sub-section (1-A) of Section 33(1) was also held to be unsustainable and accordingly, matter was remitted for the purposes of consideration of claim of petitioner for regularisation afresh.

7. Against this order, petitioner as well as committee of management both preferred intra-court appeals, total five in number, being Special Appeal Nos.743 of 2019, 744 of 2019, 745 of 2019, 595 of 2019 and 599 of 2019; respectively. The Division Bench considered the claim of petitioner for regularisation more to be maintainable under Section 33-B of the Act, 1982 and in light of judgment of the Full Bench in case of Jahaj Pal v. District Inspector of Schools & anr (Special Appeal No.280 of 2013), decided on 21.02.2019, petitioner's continuance was held to be valid one even after short-term vacancy getting converted into a substantive vacancy. Accordingly, all the appeals were dismissed subject to the modification that regularisation shall be considered in view of Section 33-B of the Act, 1982.

8. The Regional Selection Committee proceeded to examine the matter of petitioner for the purposes of regularisation afresh but rejected the claim chiefly on the ground that the post fell vacant substantively on 30.06.2006 and, therefore, claim of petitioner would not stand covered under Section 33-B which came to be enforced w.e.f. 07.08.1993 and on that date there was no substantive vacancy of Lecturer in place.

9. Learned Senior Counsel, Mr. Khare raised following two grounds of attack:

(i) lecturer Suraj Prakash Agrawal having proceeded on leave in the year 1985 and having not turned up again shall be deemed to have abandoned his employment with the institution upon expiry of period of five years, the maximum period for which extraordinary leave could have been granted and, therefore, vacancy should be taken to have substantively fallen vacant in the year 1991 much ahead of Section 33-B being incorporated under the Act 1982 being only w.e.f. 07.08.1993; and

(ii) taking into consideration the object with which various sections 33-A, 33-B, 33-B, 33-D, 33-E, 33-F and 33-G had come to be incorporated by the State continuously paving way for regularisation of the services of the ad-hoc teachers w.e.f. 1991 till 25.01.1999 when the powers of the committee of management to make ad-hoc appointments were finally taken away, it would lead to draw an inevitable conclusion that whoever was appointed and had been teaching on ad-hoc basis continuously as on 22.03.2016, would be regularised.

10. In support of his first argument, learned Senior Counsel had relied upon Fundamental Rule 18 which provides that if a government servant remains absent continuously for a period of five years or more whether with leave or without leave, such government servant would automatically cease to be in service/employment.

11. Sri Khare had further submitted that for the purposes of leave rules etc. vide Regulation 99 of Chapter III of UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the rules applicable to government servant had been made applicable to the teachers and employees of recognised schools and intermediate colleges under the Act, 1921 and so as per Fundamental Rule 18, Sri Agrawal would be taken to have abandoned his service for having not reported back to the institution for more than five years. In support of his contention, Sri Khare had further relied upon a division bench judgment of this Court in the case of Deputy Director of Education (Secondary) & anr v. Jyoti Yadav & anr; 2016 SCC OnLine All 3532; 2016 (4) All LJ 27, in which the Court has very categorically held that continuous absence from duty for a period of five years and above would result in automatic cession of employment without reference to any departmental inquiry whatsoever.

12. Thus, according to Mr. Khare, since Mr. Agrawal did not turn up ever to join back to resume his duties in the institution, he ought to have been taken to have abandoned his employment in the year 1991 and the Management as well as the Regional Selection Committee was not justified in holding that vacancy fell vacant in the year 2006 when Mr. Agrawal in ordinary course of employment had retired.

13. In support of his second argument, learned Senior Advocate Sri Khare had placed reliance upon a judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Kalyan Dombivali Municipal Corporation v. Sanjay Gajanan Gharat & anr; 2022 SCC OnLine SC 385; AIR 2022 SC 1618. Citing the judgment, Mr. Khare had placed emphasis upon paragraphs 31, 32 & 33 thereof to demonstrate as to how the principle of construction had been evaluated as to the interpretation of different provisions contained in an enactment. He had also relied upon the judgment of Full Bench in Jahaj Pal's case (supra).

14. Sri Khare submitted that the entire act had to be read in its entirety and the relevant provisions contained therein under various sections could not be interpreted in a compartmentalised manner. He submitted that besides the principle that an Act had to be read in its entirety for the purposes of understanding its object with which the various provisions had been incorporated but the elementary rule was to have a purposive interpretation and for that it was necessary to read various provisions of the Act harmoniously. He had argued that no word or letter in an enactment could be rendered redundant as legislature had inserted it in the Act with conscious mind and taking it to be necessary in its wisdom. According to Mr. Khare, if the clauses under various sections running from 33-A to 33-G that provided for cut-off dates for regularisation purposes were taken together then one could safely arrive at a conclusion that every appointment made on ad-hoc basis against a substantive vacancy and short-term vacancy as per the powers that were available with the management or other authority, as the case may be, teachers working between 12.06.1985 and 25.01.1998 were directed to be regularised. These cases of regularisation were covered with different cut-off dates under different sections running from Section 33-A to 33-G and according to Mr. Khare, this was indicative of a fact and law that whoever was lawfully appointed against available vacancy on a short-term basis and was having the requisite eligibility, was to be regularised, sometimes automatically and sometimes with reference to authorities including Regional Selection Committee.

15. Thus, Mr. Khare had strenuously argued that Regional Selection Committee both on the count of existence of substantive vacancy in the year 1991 and aims and object of the various sections providing for regularisation from time to time, manifestly erred in rejecting the claim of petitioner for regularisation.

16. Mr. Khare had also pressed the 3rd relief claimed in the writ petition for payment of arrears of salary in between 2016 and 2019 when his writ petitions remained pending and the interim order continued to operate against the order of DIOS in the writ petition filed by the committee of management. He submitted that he was wrongly terminated from employment and that order having been held to be bad both initially in the writ petition by Single Judge and then by the Division Bench in the appeal filed by the committee of management, petitioner upon reinstatement, was also entitled to full salary for such period.

17. Mr. Khare had further submitted that in the event writ petition succeeds against the rejection of regularization order, petitioner would be entitled to post retirement dues including pension in light of law laid down by this Court from time to time.

18. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel had sought to urge that in absence of any resignation letter or any order passed by the committee of management, an employee who has been a member of service, would be taken to have continued to enjoy lien against post and, therefore, if he/she proceeded on leave, such leave vacancy would be taken to be a short term vacancy until such employee attained his age of superannuation. He submitted that there had to be no order declaring the vacancy as a substantive vacancy for making regular appointment. He had further sought to argue that every section added under the Act, 1982 was as per the need of the time and must be contextually interpreted to mean that State intended to regularise the services of ad-hoc employees working against short term vacancy or substantive vacancy at the relevant point of time. He had submitted that there were other reasons also assigned in the order impugned which went on to show that neither any procedure was adopted for making appointment, nor any material was available as to the merit of petitioner vis-a-vis other candidates with reference to any selection committee, if ever held. Thus, he sought to justify the order for the reasons assigned therein.

19. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and their arguments raised across the bar, I find following facts to be undisputed to the parties:

(i) Sri Suraj Prakash Agrawal was working as a Lecturer in the institution against substantive vacancy as on 1985 when he proceeded on leave.

(ii) Petitioner came to be appointed against the post thus fallen vacant on account of leave granted to Sri Suraj Prakash Agrawal, treating it to be a short term vacancy.

(iii) Sri Suraj Prakash Agrawal, the Lecturer who had proceeded on leave without pay, never turned up to join back to resume his duties.

(iv) The DIOS though approved the appointment of the petitioner but he was not paid salary so he approached this Court by filing a writ petition being Writ-A No.20807 of 1986, in which, on 17.12.1986 an interim order was passed for continuance of petitioner and payment of salary. The services of the petitioner came to be regularised under Section 33-A(1-A) by the DIOS on 19.05.1992.

(v) Sri Suraj Prakash Agrawal in normal course of events would have retired only in the year 2006.

20. In view of the above, the question, therefore, arises whether petitioner could have been regularised in view of Section 33-B taking vacancy to have converted into substantive vacancy upon expiry of period of five years on the principle of deemed cession of contract of employment between Suraj Prakash Agrawal and the institution. Section 33-B(1)(a)(i) runs as under:

33-B(1) Any teacher, other than the Principal or Headmaster, who-

(a) (i) was appointed by promotion or by direct recruitment in the lecturer grade or Trained Graduate grade on or before May 14, 1991 or in the Certificate of Teaching grade on or before May 13, 1989 against a short term vacancy in accordance with paragraph 2 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981 and such vacancy was subsequently converted into a substantive vacancy

21. A bare reading of the aforesaid provisions makes it clear that whoever has been appointed by way of direct recruitment in the Lecturer's Grade on or before 14.05.1991 will be considered for regularisation if such a vacancy got converted into a substantive vacancy.

22. Admittedly, petitioner was appointed prior to 14th May, 1991 and, therefore, his case stood covered if the vacancy upon which he was appointed, is taken to have converted into substantive vacancy on account of Suraj Prakash Agrawal, who had lien against the post, having not turned up to join.

23. Now, it is to be seen in light of Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Jyoti Yadav (supra) as to what rules of leave are; how a leave can be condoned; when it can be granted and what rules are applicable. Regulation 99 of Chapter III of the UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921 very specifically provides that in matters of leave and grant of leave and related matters, the rules as applicable to the employees of the government intermediate colleges would apply. Regulation 99 runs as under:-

99. (1) आचार्य, प्रधानाध्यापक एवं अन्य कर्मचारियों को आकस्मिक अवकाश, अर्जित अवकाश, चिकित्सा अवकाश, प्रसूति अवकाश, व्यक्तिगत कार्य अवकाश तथा असाधारण अवकाश उत्तनी अवधि के लिए तथा उन प्रतिबंधों के अधीन स्वीकृत किया जा सकता है जो राज्य सरकार समय समय पर राजकीय उच्चतर माध्यमिक विद्यालयों के इन्ही श्रेणी के कर्मचारियों के लिए निश्चित करे या अपने किसी विशिष्ट आदेशों द्वारा किन्ही अपवादों सहित, जो किसी विशेष परिस्थिति वश अपेक्षित हों, निर्धारित करें। आकस्मिक अवकाश आचार्य अथवा प्रधानाध्यापक के मामले में प्रबंधक द्वारा तथा अन्य कर्मचारियों के मामले में आचार्य/प्रधानाध्यापक द्वारा

परंतु विशेष परिस्थिति में राज्य सरकार ऐसा अवकाश और ऐसी शर्तों पर जो वह उचित समझे, स्वीकृत कर भी सकती है।

(2) अवकाश अधिकार स्वरूप नहीं मांगा जा सकता, परिस्थिति की आवश्यकता को देखते हुए संमोदन अधिकारी किसी भी प्रकार का अवकाश स्वीकृत करने से इंकार कर सकता है और पहले स्वीकृत किये गये अवकाश को भी रद्द कर सकता है

टिप्पणी- यदि कोई आचार्य, प्रधानाध्यापक अथवा अध्यापक, राज्य विधान मंडल या संसद का सदस्य हो तो उसे विधान मंडल, संसद अथवा उसकी समितियों की बैठकों में भाग लेने हेतु उसके द्वारा ऐसी बैठक तथा उसमें भाग लेने हेतु जाने के अपने इरादे की सूचना दिये जाने पर, उसे संस्था से अवमुक्त कर दिया जायेगा और संस्था से उनकी ऐसी अनुपस्थिति की अवधि में उसे ऐसे अवकाश पर समझा जायेगा जैसा उसे देय हो तथा जिसके लिए वह आवेदन करें। यदि उसे कोई अवकाश देय न हो तो ऐसी अनुपस्थिति की अवधि में बिना वेतन के अवकाश पर समझा जायेगा।

24. It is not disputed by learned Standing Counsel that Fundamental Rule 18 as applicable to the government servants in various matters would apply to the government college teachers also as they are government employees and so these Rules would also be attracted in view of Regulation 99 to the teachers of secondary education recognised private aided institution.

25. Coming to the judgment of Division Bench of this Court in case of Jyoti Yadav (supra), I find that this case is related to an Assistant Teacher of a recognised private institution. Interpreting provisions as contained under Rule 18 of the Fundamental Rules and quoting the same as well, the Court vide paragraphs 10, 11 & 12 held thus:

"10. Fundamental Rule 18 runs as follows:

"18. Unless the Government in view of the special circumstances of the case, shall otherwise determine, after five years' continuous absence from duty elsewhere then on foreign service in India whether with or without leave, a government servant ceases to be in Government employee"

11. The aforementioned Fundamental Rule provides for abandonment of service/cessation of service after five years continuous absence from duty, whether with or without leave. Once five year continuous absence from duty is there, then leave or no leave will not make any difference, the abandonment of service/cessation of employment has to be accepted and prior to expiry of period of five years, if there is absence from duty, the same has to be accepted as misconduct and for the same disciplinary proceedings will have to be initiated by holding regular departmental enquiry. Here the shortcut method that has been adhered to cannot at all be subscribed by law.

12. As the above extracts from the judgment would indicate the Division Bench has proceeded to hold that if the absence is continuous and for five years or more abandonment of service and consequent cessation of employment has to be accepted. The rule clearly seems to indicate that in case of absence of five years or more, the cessation of employment is automatic and the presumption of abandonment is immediately attracted. At this stage, as the Division Bench has held, the holding of an enquiry is not necessary. Fundamental Rule 18, in the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant, would clearly be attracted to the services of the original petitioner. If the appellant be correct in this submission then and in that case the requirement of a separate provision in the service rules for automatic termination would not arise. These aspects do not appear to have been considered or taken into account by the learned Single Judge while allowing the writ petition."

26. In view of the above, therefore, the legal proposition settled is that if an employee does not proceed on leave and does not turn up to join back the institution where he has been working, beyond a period of five years, this will invite preposition of 'deemed abandonment' of employment. The result of abandonment of job by an employee having lien against post, would end his or her lien and this will automatically result in converting/creating a vacancy as a substantive vacancy.

27. Upon above legal proposition, therefore, since Sri Suraj Prakash Agrawal since did not turn up to join the post of Lecturer (Chemistry) upon which he was working on 1985 and he proceeded on leave, after expiry of five years, the post would be taken to have fallen vacant substantively by legal fiction in October, 1990 and therefore, upon incorporation of provisions contained under Section 33-B on 07.08.1993, the short-term vacancy against which petitioner in the case in hand was working since 1985, will be taken to have converted into substantive vacancy to entitle petitioner for regularisation. Thus, the contrary findings returned by the Regional Selection Committee that the post would be taken to have fallen vacant in 2006 only upon retirement of Suraj Prakash Agrawal, is absolutely unsustainable and the order deserves to be set aside on this count alone.

28. Coming to further argument about harmonious construction of various provisions incorporated under the Act, 1982 right since 1991 till the year 2016 in light of object of the State Government to regularise the services of all such employees who have been working on ad-hoc basis upon being appointed against short-term vacancy from time to time and even on substantive vacancy in accordance with law, I would like here to refer to a judgement of Five-Judge Bench of this Court in the case of Jahaj Pal (supra) where the Full Bench has observed that Section 33-G was a residuary provision to make regularisation of all such employees teachers who were appointed till 25.01.1999 or even subsequently if proceedings for selection had started prior to 25.01.1999.

29. Para 102 of the Jahaj Pal's case (supra) is quoted as under;

"102. Section 33-G in fact is a kind of residuary provision taking into consideration ad hoc appointees against short term vacancies or substantive vacancies which remained to be covered for substantive appointments under various provisions already made. Section 33-G(l)(a) says that ad hoc appointments made against short term vacancies, in accordance with procedure prescribed in Para 2 of Second Order, whether by promotion or by direct recruitment, in Lecturer or Trained Graduate Grade, and the vacancies were subsequently converted into substantive, would be considered for substantive appointment by a Selection Committee to be constituted under aforesaid provision. Section 33-G(l)(b) provided similar benefit to ad hoc appointments made against substantive vacancies in accordance with section 18 in Lecturer or Trained Graduate Grade from 7.8.1993 to 30.12.2000. All other conditions were similar as provided in earlier similar provisions, which we have already discussed."

30. Now if one examines various sections running from Section 33-A to 33-G, one would find that since prior to 1985 upto 25.01.1999 all such ad-hoc appointments were sought to be regularised. These provisions are to the rescue of those teachers who were appointed in accordance with law against the existing vacancies for the reason that selection Board was not in a position to hold selection to enable government to make appointment regularly so as to meet the requirement. Education is heart and soul of any civilized society and it is also a function of the State to ensure that its citizens are provided with adequate means of education. Ours is a social welfare State and so State Government had rightly come to the rescue of such teachers who had been validly appointed having eligibility against existing vacancies and had continued to teach for a very long period. The intendment of legislature has been not to fire them upon vacancies getting converted into substantive vacancies from short-term vacancy. In Jahaj Pal's case (supra), the Full Bench has dealt with this aspect of the matter in detail and hold appointees against short-term vacancy were entitled to continue even upon short-term vacancies getting converted into substantive vacancies later on. Vide paragraph 207(XV), the Full Bench has held thus:

XV. The teachers, who come within the ambit of section 33-B, whether appointed on ad-hoc basis against substantive vacancies or short term vacancies on and after 7.8.1993 (the date when Amendment Act 1 of 1993 came into force) would be entitled to continue till they are not considered by the Selection Committee for substantive appointment. In their cases, the term of ad-hoc appointment would not be governed either by the First Order or the Second Order, and with effect from 7.8.1993, it would be governed by sub-section (5) of section 33-B. In other words, on and after 7.8.1993, a teacher appointed on ad-hoc basis, whether against short term vacancy or substantive vacancy, falling within the ambit of section 33-B(l) will continue to work till such date, as the State Government may by order specify, and, his tenure will not be governed either by Para 3 of the First Order or Para 3 of the Second Order, as the case may be.

31. Interestingly, the Government did not specify any date to end such appointment what it did was to end appointments made under Section 16-E(ii) in light of judgement of Supreme Court in the case of Sanjay Singh v. State of UP & ors passed in Civil Appeal No.8300 of 2016, decided on 26.08.2020 and in the process directed that all such ad-hoc appointees, who were not validly appointed and who could therefore, not be regularised shall cease to continue. In my considered view, this is not a specification of date in cases covered under the judgment in Jahaj Pal's case (supra). All these appointees did continue but they remain ad-hoc because their cases were never examined for regularisation either on the relevant date when concerned sections were incorporated, or even subsequently. So, there cannot be any presumption that there appointments were invalid.

32. Mr. Khare was right in arguing that looking to the intendment of legislature, if the harmonious construction is given to various provisions contained under Section 33-A to 33-G, one would find that purpose for which the various sections were inserted from time to time would be achieved. In Kalyan Dombivali (supra) vide paragraphs 31 to 33, the Court held thus:

31. In the case of Philips India Ltd. v. Labour Court, Madras and Others (1985) 3 SCC 103, this Court had an occasion to decide the rate of overtime wages as mentioned in Section 31 of the Tamil Nadu Shops and Establishments Act, 1947. This Court found that for finding the minimum rate of overtime wages as mentioned in Section 31 of the said Act, it will have to be interpreted in the light of the provisions contained in Section 14(1) read with proviso to Section 31 of the said Act. Coming to this conclusion, this Court observed thus:

than that the statute must be read as a whole. This is a general rule of construction applicable to all statutes alike which is spoken of as construction ex visceribus actus. This rule of statutory construction is so firmly established that it is variously styled as "elementary rule" (see Attorney General v. Bastow [(1957) 1 All ER 497]) and as a "settled rule" (see Poppatlal Shah v. State of Madras [AIR 1953 SC 274 : 1953 SCR 667]). The only recognised exception to this well-laid principle is that it cannot be called in aid to alter the meaning of what is of itself clear and explicit. Lord Coke laid down that: "it is the most natural and genuine exposition of a statute, to construe one part of a statute by another part of the same statute, for that best expresseth meaning of the makers" (Quoted with approval in Punjab Beverages Pvt. Ltd. v. Suresh Chand [(1978) 2 SCC 144 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 165 : (1978) 3 SCR 370])."

32. It could thus be seen that this Court has held that the Statute must be read as a whole. It has been held that this rule of statutory construction is so firmly established that it is variously styled as "elementary rule". It has been held that for finding out the true meaning of one part of a statute, a reference will have to be made to another part of the statute and that will best express meaning of the makers.

33. In the case of Sultana Begum v. Prem Chand Jain (1997) 1 SCC 373, this Court was considering the question regarding the conflict between Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and Order XXI Rule 2 thereof. This Court held that applying the rule of harmonious construction, the so-called conflict between the said two provisions had been dispelled. Observing so, this Court reiterated the following well settled principles of interpretation of statutes:"

15. On a conspectus of the case law indicated above, the following principles are clearly discernible:

(1) It is the duty of the courts to avoid a head on clash between two sections of the Act and to construe the provisions which appear to be in conflict with each other in such a manner as to harmonise them.

(2) The provisions of one section of a statute cannot be used to defeat the other provisions unless the court, in spite of its efforts, finds it impossible to effect reconciliation between them.

(3) It has to be borne in mind by all the courts all the time that when there are two conflicting provisions in an Act, which cannot be reconciled with each other, they should be so interpreted that, if possible, effect should be given to both. This is the essence of the rule of "harmonious construction".

(4) The courts have also to keep in mind that an interpretation which reduces one of the provisions as a "dead letter" or "useless lumber" is not harmonious construction.

(5) To harmonise is not to destroy any statutory provision or to render it otiose."

(emphasis added)

33. The rule of harmonious construction of various provisions contained under Sections 33-A to 33-G leads me to conclude that no Assistant Teacher who has been working upon being validly appointed against a short-term vacancy would be thrown out of job upon vacancy getting converted into substantive on the ground that his claim could not be considered at relevant time and now time has run out. Each and every appointment has to be examined vis-a-vis vacancy upon which it had been made at relevant point of time and status of vacancy subsequently and so long as sections for regularisation from 33-A to 33-G are not repealed and remain on statute book, all such cases of regularisation would be given positive consideration, as last of such appointments made as on 25.01.1999 are sought to be regularised and thereafter no such power vested in the appointing authority to make ad-hoc appointments.

34. The Full Bench did not proceed further to make any observation to explain scope of various sections incorporated for regularisation 33-B, 33-E, 33-F and 33-G. The question, therefore, arises as to whether an Assistant Teacher can be rendered remediless who has continued in a short-term vacancy even after getting converted into a substantive vacancy.

35. When the legislature intended not to throw a teacher from his job who has been working against short-term vacancy, merely because State authorities have not attempted to rescue a teacher from getting fired only upon not being considered in accordance with Rules and the provisions contained under the law, such teacher cannot be denied benefit of regularisation.

36. A teacher who has spent more than three decades of service in an educational institution cannot be denied fruits of post retirement dues once he has rendered service against a vacancy which was very much in existence as a substantive vacancy and there is no finding that appointment of petitioner even while it was a short-term vacancy to be illegal or that such a teacher was not eligible to hold the post in question. Petitioner has continued lawfully until he attained age of superannuation.

37. In view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order passed by Regional Selection Committee dated 02.05.2022 rejecting claim of regularisation of petitioner as Lecturer is set aside.

38. Petitioner is held entitled to regularisation under Section 33-B and Regional Selection Committee is directed to pass appropriate orders. Petitioner is also held entitled to all consequential benefits including salary for the period between 2016 and 2019 and post retirement benefits in accordance with law.

39. There will be no order as to cost.

Regulations, 2020 as well as law laid down by this Court in Smt. Meera Tiwari & Munshi Lal. (Para 10 and 13)

Writ petition allowed. (E-1)

List of cases cited :-

1. Atiullah Khan Vs St. of U.P. & ors.; 2013 SCC OnLine All 5652

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel for respondent no. 1 and Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 & 3.

2. Present petition has been filed with the following prayer:

"I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned Official Memorandum dated 18.01.2024 bearing letter No. 308, Official Memorandum dated 18.01.2024 bearing letter dated 310 and Official Memorandum dated 16.01.2024 bearing letter No. 309 issued by the Respondent No. 2 by which the Petitioner No. 1, 2 and 3 has been suspended respectively."

3. The case was heard on 22.02.2024 and the Court has passed the following order:

"1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for respondent no. 1 and Sri Vinayak Ranjan, advocate holding brief of Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 & 3.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that suspension order against the petitioner has been passed without completion of inquiry, which is in the teeth of Rule 4 of Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 as well as judgment of this Court in the matter of Atiullah Khan Vs. State of U.P. and Others: 2013 SCC OnLine All 5652.

3. Sri Vinayak Ranjan, advocate holding brief of Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 & 3 prays for and is granted a week's time to seek written instruction about the initiation of inquiry and service of charge sheet upon the petitioner.

4. Put up this case as fresh on 29.02.2024."

4. Learned counsel for the respondents did not produce the instruction on the next date fixed i.e. 29.02.2024 and the Court has passed the following order:

"1. Sri Vinayak Ranjan, Advocate, holding brief of Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for the respondents prays for and is granted three days' time to seek instruction as directed by this Court vide order 22.02.2024.

2. Put up as fresh on 05.03.2024.

5. Ultimately on 13.03.2024 Court has passed the following order:

"1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for respondent no. 1 and Sri Vinayak Ranjan, advocate holding brief of Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 & 3.

2. Sri Ranjan prays for and is granted three days and no more time to seek instruction in light of orders dated 22.02.2024 & 29.02.2024.

3. Put up this case as fresh on 18.03.2024 at 10:00 AM. "

6. Today, Sri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 & 3 has not produced the instructions, but provided copies of charge sheet dated 16.03.2024 against the petitioners and submitted that the same have also been served upon the petitioners. He could not demonstrate the fact that suspension orders have been passed in contemplation of any inquiry or during the course of inquiry.

7. I have perused Regulation 4(1) of the Regulations, 2020, which is being quoted hereinbelow:

"4-(एक) कोई कार्मिक जिसके आचरण के विरुद्ध कोई जाँच अनुध्यात है या उसकी कार्यवाही चल रही है, नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी अथवा उसके द्वारा सशक्त अधिकारी के विवेक पर जाँच की समाप्ति के लंबित रहने तक, निलंबन के अधीन रखा जा सकेगा,"

8. From the perusal of Regulation 4(1) of the Regulations, 2020 it is apparently clear that any suspension order can only be passed either in contemplation of inquiry or during the course of inquiry.

9. I have also also perused judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Smt. Meera Tiwari(Supra) and judgment of this Court in Munshi Lal(Supra).

10. In the matter of Smt. Meera Tiwari(Supra), Division Bench of this Court has taken a specific view that once there is no contemplation of inquiry, no suspension order can be passed. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:

"Heard Sri A.N. Tripathi, learned Advocate for the appellant and Sri Ranvijai Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. The Special Appeal is directed against the order dated 4-4-2001 passed by the learned single Judge dismissing the writ petition.

3. The challenge in the writ petition was against the order of suspension. The contention of the appellant is that the learned single Judge did not properly appreciate the question that suspension is not permissible unless enquiry is contemplated or enquiry is pending. Learned counsel for the appellant referred to us sub-rule (1) of Rule 4 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 which is set out herein below:

"4. Suspension (1) A Government servant against whose conduct an inquiry is contemplated, or is proceeding may be placed under suspension pending the conclusion of the inquiry in the discretion of the appointing authority.

Provided that suspension should be resorted to unless the allegations against the Government servant are so serious that in the event of their being established may ordinarily warrant major penalty;

Provided further that concerned Head of the Department by the Governor by an order in this behalf may place a Government Servant or class of Government Servants belonging to Group A and B posts under suspension under this rule.:

Provided also that in the case of any Government Servant or class of Government Servant belonging to Group 'C' and 'D' posts, the Appointing Authority may delegate its power under this rule to the next lower authority."

4. From the said rule it appears that a Government Servant against whose conduct an inquiry is contemplated, or its proceeding may be placed under suspension pending the conclusion of the enquiry. The impugned order of suspension does not refer to any contemplated inquiry or the fact that any inquiry is pending.

5. In that view of the matter, we are of the view that the order of suspension is against the provisions of Rule 4 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 and the same cannot be sustained. The learned single Judge has directed the inquiry to be completed within three months, it was not within the scope of the learned single Judge to direct any inquiry to be made on his own. We are of the view that since the order of suspension is contrary to Rule 4 of the said Rules, the same should be quashed and set aside.

6. The Special Appeal is allowed and the order of suspension is hereby quashed.

7. Appeal allowed.?

11. This Court again in the matter of Munshi Lal(Supra), following the judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Smt. Meera Tiwari(Supra) has taken the same view. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:

"7. As the present case is squarely covered with the judgment of Division Bench of this Court in Smt. Meera Tiwari(Supra) and very same view has also been taken by this Court in Atiullah Khan(Supra), therefore, under such facts of the case of the case, impugned suspension order dated 19.01.2024 is hereby quashed.

8. Writ petition is allowed in light of judgment of this Court in Smt. Meera Tiwari(Supra) as well as Atiullah Khan(Supra).

9. However, this order shall not preclude the respondents to pass fresh order or to complete the inquiry against the petitioner in accordance with law. "

12. From the perusal of Rregulation 4(1) of the Regulations, 2020 as well as law laid down by this Court in Smt. Meera Tiwari(Supra) & Munshi Lal(Supra), this Court is also of the view that suspension order can only be passed in contemplation of inquiry or during the pendency of inquiry and if in the suspension order, there is no such averment, the same is bad and liable to be set aside.

13. So far as present case is concerned, it is apparently clear that in the orders in question inquiry is neither contemplated nor pending, therefore, impugned suspension orders are in the teeth of Rregulation 4(1) of the Regulations, 2020 as well as law laid down by this Court in Smt. Meera Tiwari(Supra) & Munshi Lal(Supra).

14. Accordingly, impugned Official Memorandum dated 18.01.2024 bearing letter No. 308, Official Memorandum dated 18.01.2024 bearing letter dated 310 and Official Memorandum dated 16.01.2024 bearing letter No. 309 are hereby quashed.

15. Writ petition is allowed.

16. No order as to costs.

17. However, this order shall not preclude the respondents to pass fresh order or complete the departmental proceeding against the petitioners in accordance with law.

List of Cases cited:

1. Ram Chet Verma & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & ors.; (2020) 3 SCT 640 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Sandeep Dixit, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Vidhu Bhushan Kalia, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri S.B. Pandey, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Mahendra Kumar Mishra, learned Counsel for the Union of India, Shri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by learned Standing Counsel and Shri Puneet Chandra, learned counsel for the National Health Mission.

2. Since in all the petitions same issue & controversy is involved, so they have been heard together and decided by this common judgment.

3. All the writ petitions are having almost the identical prayers and it would be difficult to mention the prayers of all the petitions but for convenience, the prayer made in the leading petition No. 1453 of 2014 (Shiv Pratap Maurya and 667 others Vs. State of U.P. and others) are being quoted hereinbelow:-

" i) to issue a suitable writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned orders dated 22.11.2013, 11.12.2013 and 26.02.2014 issued by the respondent no. 3, 7 and 4 respectively, so far as the same provides approval of services of the petitioners till 31.03.2014 and also to the extent the same provides salary/honorarium to Multipurpose Workers only upto 31.03.2014 (as are contained in Annexure No. 1, Annexure No.

2 and Annexure no. 3 respectively to this writ petition) and other consequential orders if any.

ii) to issue a suitable writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents not to give effect to the impugned orders dated 22.11.2013, 11.12.2013 and 26.02.2014 issued by the Respondent no.-3, 7 and 4 respectively, so far as the same provides approval of services of the petitioners till 31.03.2014 and also to the extent the same provides salary/honorarium to Multipurpose Workers only upto 31.03.2014 (as are contained in Annexure No. 1, Annexure no. 2 and Annexure No. 3 respectively to this writ petition) and other consequential orders if any.

iii) to issue a suitable writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to allow the petitioners to continue on the post of MPWs/MPHW till the continuation of the National Rural Health Mission Scheme and other related schemes launched by the Government of India and to pay them their salary/honorarium as and when the same accrues alongwith their arrears;

iv) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the Respondents to fill up the posts of Health Worker (Male) after initiating the regular process of selection for appointment as per the Service Rules, 1997 as amended in the year 1998 and provide preference to the petitioners in appointment and during training on account of their length of service and the nature of job and duties being same after granting required age relaxation in accordance with relevant rules and Government Order;"

4. Appointments were given to the petitioners on different dates between the period from October, 2012 till March, 2013 on the post of Multi Purpose Health Workers (Male) (hereinafter referred to as, the M.P. H.W. (Male) for a period of three years under the scheme namely National Rural Health Mission (hereinafter referred to as, the N.R.H.M.) floated by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India.

5. Government of India had also issued guidelines for M.P. H.W. (Male) namely, Guidelines for Multipurpose Health Worker (Male), 2010, (hereinafter referred to as, the Guidelines, 2010) wherein clause 3.1 provides for engagement of □ M.P. H.W. (Male) for a period of three years.

6. In pursuance of the Guidelines, 2010 the Mission Director, N.R.H.M. vide its letter dated 05.09.2012 had directed all the District Magistrates/Chief Medical Officers of State of U.P. for appointment of MPHWS (Male) as per the scheme floated by the Government of India and in pursuance thereof, all the petitioners were given appointment.

7. On 22.11.2013, the Director, N.R.H.M. issued a letter addressed to the Mission Director, N.R.H.M., U.P. □ mentioning therein that Government of India has directed to convey approval of contractual appointment of MPHWS (Male) uptill 31.03.2014 and Government of India will bear in payment of wages to the extent of 75% for current financial year subject to certain conditions and it was clarified that further support for contractual MPHWS (Male) will not be provided by the Government of India beyond financial year 2013-14. □ Against the letter dated 22.11.2013, which is under challenge in the present petitions, an interim order has been granted by this Court vide its order dated 25.03.2014 whereby this Court allowed the petitioners to continue beyond 31.03.2014. The interim order dated 25.03.2014 is being reproduced hereinbelow:-

"Since controversy involved in the aforesaid writ petitions are one and the same, as such they have been connected and heard together.

Heard Mr. S.K. Kalia, learned Senior Advocate Assisted by Mr. Vidhu Bhushan Kalia, learned counsel appearing for petitioners, Mr. K.C. Kaushik, learned Additional Solicitor General for opposite parties no. 2 and 3 as well as Mr. Saurabh Lavania, learned counsel appearing for opposite party no. 4 and the learned Standing Counsel for State.

Mr. S.K. Kalia, learned Senior Advocate, duly assisted by Mr. V.B. Kalia, Advocate, appearing for petitioners submits that under the guidelines for Multipurpose Health Worker (Male) 2010 [hereinafter referred to as the "MPHW (M)"], MPHW (M) shall be engaged for initial period of three years. The expenditure shall be shared by the Central Government and the State Government during the said period. The said guidelines also provide that the State Government is required to create requisite number of posts and fill up on regular basis within next three years so that the continuity of these workers is maintained after the initial period of three years, during which the Government of India is to provide financial assistance.

It is submitted that the Scheme under which MPHW (M) have been engaged has been initiated in the year 2012 in the State of U.P. The petitioners shall be allowed to initially continue for three years at least before being absorbed against regular posts sanctioned by the State Government. It is submitted that earlier identically situated persons like petitioners were not getting honorarium after 30th September, 2013 and, as such, had approached the Court by filing Writ Petition No.3792 (SS) of 2013. The Court, after recording the observations that learned Additional Solicitor General of India does not dispute the fact that the Scheme has been extended by the Central Government up to the year 2017, had directed the respondents to allow the petitioners to work and discharge their duties till the next date of listing and pay honorarium on the post, in question under N.R.H.M. Scheme, till the end of financial year 2013-14.

It is submitted that in compliance of the aforesaid order the Director, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (N.R.H.M.-I Section), Government of India vide letter dated 22.11.2013 has conveyed the approval of contractual MPHWS till 31st March, 2014 only.

The submission is that there is no justification for granting approval to the petitioners' engagement for a period up to 31st March, 2014 only when as per the guidelines the petitioners are required to continue for initial period of three years before being absorbed against regular posts created by the State Government. It is submitted that the work and post on which the petitioners are working are very much available and directions be issued to respondents to allow the petitioners to continue after 31st March, 2014.

Mr. K.C. Kaushik, learned Additional Solicitor General of India submits that the Scheme is in fact in two parts; one part is to continue till 2017 whereas the second part of the Scheme under which petitioners have been engaged has been approved for the period up to 31.3.2014 only. It is also submitted that the financial burden after 31.3.2014 is to be borne by the State Government.

Be that as it may, prima-facie, I am of the view that as per Scheme petitioners are required to be engaged initially for a period of three years. The engagement of petitioners is to be approved on year to year basis. The scheme has started in the State of U.P. in the year 2012 and has to continue initially for three years. The financial assistance is to be provided by the Central Government in the ratio of 85%, 75% and 65% respectively as per letter dated 3.1.2011. The remaining cost shall be shared by the State Government.

The petitioners, as such, shall be allowed to continue after 31.3.2014 and in this regard necessary formalities with respect to approval of their engagement, sanction of project implementation plan, availability of finance etc. shall be done by the authorities concerned and they shall be paid salary/emoluments regularly provided their work and conduct is satisfactory.

Let counter affidavit be filed by the opposite parties within six weeks. In case counter affidavit is filed petitioners may file rejoinder affidavit within two weeks, thereafter.

List thereafter."

8. After passing of the said interim order dated 25.03.2014, the Government of India has issued another letter dated 18.06.2014 communicating the decision that the period of service of the petitioners/MPHWs (Male) has been extended till 30.09.2014 and thereafter the Government of India will not support and the State Government shall bear the cost of payment to the MPHWS (Male). In pursuance of the letter dated 18.06.2014, the Mission Director had also issued a letter dated 09.07.2014 informing the Director General (Medical Health Services) regarding the decision of the Government of India.

9. Learned Counsels for the petitioners have submitted that as per Clause 3.1. of the Guidelines, 2010 issued by the Government of India, the period of service provided was three years and the petitioners are entitled to be treated in service for a period of three years from the date of their appointment on the post of MPHWS (Male).

10. It is further submitted that the petitioners who were appointed in the month of October, 2012 they were entitled to continue on the post till the year 2015 whereas the petitioners who were appointed in the year 2013, they shall be permitted to continue till the year 2016 and payment of their honorarium/salary would be made as per the Guidelines, 2010 laid down by the Government of India as per the ratio divided between the Government of India and the State Government.

11. It is further submitted that after the completion of three years of period, the petitioners are entitled for continuity in service on regular basis and the State Government is liable to pay the salary/honorarium after the expiry of three years of period from the date of initial appointment and in support of their submissions, they placed reliance on Clause 3.3 of the Guidelines, 2010.

12. It is further submitted that almost all the petitioners had worked uptill March, 2018 and thereafter they were not permitted to continue and thus they are entitled for the salary from the expiry of period of three years till they had actual worked.

13. On the other hand, Shri S.B. Pandey, learned Senior Advocate & Deputy Solicitor General of India assisted by Mahendra Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the Union of India has submitted that as per the Clause 3.1 of the Guidelines, 2010, the Scheme was only for a period of three years and not beyond that but it was extended by letter dated 18.06.2014 for a further period of six months i.e. uptill 30.09.2014, so the Government of India is ready to bear its share as per the Clause 3.1 of the Guidelines, 2010 and thereafter it is the State of U.P., who is liable to make the payment till they had taken work from the MPHWS (Male).

14. Whereas, Shri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the petitioners are entitled for the payment only uptill the existence of the scheme i.e. till 30.09.2014.

15. It is further submitted that the payment of salary/honorarium to the petitioners was on the basis of matching grant share of the Government of India and the State Government and after 30.09.2014, the Government of India has not provided any grant or share for the purpose of payment to these petitioners and there is no budgetary provisions for payment to the petitioners.

16. It is further submitted that on 04.02.2016, the State Government had issued a letter to all the Chief Medical Officers of State of U.P. that the Government of U.P. has already closed the scheme under which these petitioners were working and directed the C.M.Os not to take any work from these MPHWS (Male) and if they take work, they will be personally liable for the same.

17. It is further submitted that the petitioners were not permitted to work after 30.09.2014.

18. Replying thereto, learned counsels for the petitioners have relied on the letter dated 29.10.2018 written by the Director General, Family Welfare which enclosed as annexure No. S.A. 4 to the supplementary affidavit filed on 18.02.2021 in Writ A No. 5624 of 2014 mentioning therein that 394 MPHWS (Male) are working and secondly, the letter of the State Government dated 04.02.2016 directing all the C.M.Os to stop taking work from MPHWS (Male).

19. Learned counsels for the petitioners are not disputing that the number given in the letter dated 29.10.2018 that only 394 MPHWS (Male) were working and not all the petitioners and there was no occasion for the State Government to issue the letter dated 04.02.2016 if the petitioners were not working after 30.09.2014.

20. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and going through the record of the case, the position which emerges out in the present case is that to prevent the people from Vector Bond diseases, the National Vector Bond Control Program was introduced by the Government of India. In the State of U.P., the Vector Bond diseases are a major public health problem. Malaria is prevalent in all 72 districts and a matter of concern in interstate border districts. Filariasis continues to be endemic in 50 districts with a micro filarial rate of 1.5% and above. Kala-azar is endemic in 4 districts of eastern U.P. In around 27 districts Japanese encephalitis is widespread and hyper endemic in 4 districts as indicated in the Scheme itself.

21. Petitioners were appointed on different dates between the period from October, 2012 to March, 2013 so one of the important question which is to be decided would be about the date of implementation of the Scheme introduced by the Government of India. As per Clause 3.1 of the Guidelines, 2010 issued by the Government of India, the Scheme is only for a period of three years, during which it would be functional. The purpose of the scheme is to eradicate and prevention of diseases, as mentioned above and to depute the MPHWS (Male) at different Primary Health Centre in the State of U.P.□ The Central Government gave approval to the State of U.P. for making appointment under the Scheme only on 05.09.2012.

22. After the approval by the Government of India, the State Government had gone through the process of appointment by making advertisement etc and the appointments were made on different dates from October, 2012 uptill March, 2013. The date of implementation of the Scheme thus cannot be before the date of appointment on which these petitioners were given appointment.

23. The scheme would become functional only after the appointments were made which can only be taken as the date of the period of implementation of scheme and the undefined three years of scheme and this period of three years would end in the case of the petitioners, who were appointed in the year 2012 would be 2015 and the petitioners who were appointed in the year 2013 in their case, it would be 2016.

24. As far as the working of the petitioners beyond the expiry of the period of three years, reliance has been placed on

Clause 3.3.□ of the Guidelines, 2010 which is quoted hereinbelow:-

"3.3 The State Governments need to create the requisite number of posts and fill up on regular basis within next three years so that the continuity of these workers is maintained after the initial period of three years during which the Government of India is to provide financial assistance."

25. From the perusal of the same, it comes out that the State Government was required to create the requisite number of posts and fill up on regular basis but no such exercise was done. The purpose of filling up the vacancy on regular basis is for giving continuity to these MPHWS (Male)/petitioners□ and they may maintained after the end of scheme/expiry of three years period. On the contrary, the letter was issued by the State Government on 04.02.2016 directing the C.M.O.s of the State of U.P. not to take work from these petitioners/MPHWS (Male) and if they will be permitted then the officer concerned will be liable personally.□□ This direction by the State Government is against the interim order dated 25.03.2014 granted by this Court and that too on the stay vacation application preferred□ for vacating the interim order dated 25.03.2014, no orders have been passed by this Court vacating the order. When the stay order is in operation, then there was no occasion to issue such letters.□ The C.M.O.s are bound to comply with the orders passed by this Court and not the order issued by the authorities contrary to the orders of this Court.

26. The work was taken from the MPHWS (Male), so after the expiry of the three years period till the work taken from them by the State Government from the petitioners till March, 2018, the State respondents being welfare State is liable to make payment as Begar is prohibited under Article 23 read with Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Moreso, the nature of the work was prevention of certain diseases which was definitely for the benefit or the interest of the people of the State & broadly in the interest of the State itself. As indicated earlier the Central Government intended that the MPHWS (Male) may be absorbed on regular basis by creating posts. In such circumstances, the State cannot refuse to pay to the MPHWS (Male) till the date they worked. If the work was taken then they must be paid salary for the same.

27. Article 23 of the Constitution of India has wider implications and scope regarding begar i.e. by taking work but not paying for the same which is linked with right to livelihood covered under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

28. In the present case, the interim order has been granted by this court which is quoted in the preceding paragraph in favour of the petitioners permitting them to continue and the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ram Chet Verma and others Vs. the State of U.P. and others (2020) 3 SCT 640 (SC) has held that if the petitioners have served, as per the interim order, obviously they have to be paid the salary for the period they have rendered their services. Non payment of salary to them for the period they have served under the interim order or otherwise would tantamount to taking begar from them, which is prohibited under Article 23 of the Constitution of India. For convenience, the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"1. Heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties.

2. Leave Granted.

3. Since the Appellants have served as per the interim order, obviously they have to be paid the salary for the period they have rendered their services. Non-payment of salary to them for the period they have served under the interim order or otherwise would tantamount to taking begar from them, which is prohibited Under Article 23 of the Constitution of India.

4. Therefore, we direct that the Appellants shall be entitled to salary for the period they have rendered their services. The salary, if not paid, shall be paid to the Appellants within four weeks from today.

5. It is made clear that if the Appellants have been paid the salary for the aforesaid period, the same shall not be recovered from them.

6. In view of the aforesaid directions, the appeal is disposed of. "

29. The Share/Matching Grant of the Government of India and State Governments is provided in Clause 3.1 of the Guidelines, 2010, which is quoted hereinbelow:-

"3.1:- Considering the need for MPHWS (Male) for the disease control programs, the Government of India decided to provide financial assistance to states for contractual remuneration of the MPHWS (Male) at 53,544 PHCs in 235 high focus districts for a period of three years. The remuneration will be paid at a rate of Rs. 6000 per MPHWS per month. The expenditure will be on sharing basis, 85% by NRHM and 15% by State Governments for the first year followed by 75% and 25% for the second year and 65% and 35% for the third years."

30. Clause 3.1 of the Guidelines, 2010 provides for matching grant by the the Government of India and State Government for the purpose of payment salaries to the MPHWS (Male).

31. As per Clause 3.1 of the Guidelines, 2010, the Government of India and the State of U.P. is directed to ensure the payment to the petitioners who were working till the period they had completed three years of service from the date of their initial appointment within a period of two months from the date of certified copy of this order is served.

32. For the period beyond three years petitioners shall be paid by the State Government till they had actually worked . The State Government shall make payment within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order after verification of 394 MPHWS (Male) of their actual working.

33. In view of the facts, circumstances and discussions made hereinabove, the present petition is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Vakalatnama filed by Shri Parmatma Pd. Singh, Advocate on behalf of opposite party no. 5, is taken on record.

2. Heard Ms. Shweta Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Akhilesh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for opposite party nos. 2 and 3, Sri Shailendra Kumar Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel for State, Sri Rakesh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for opposite party no. 4 and Sri Parmatma Pd. Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no. 5.

3. Notices to opposite party no. 4 is hereby dispensed with.

4. At the very out-set, Shri Akhilesh Kumar Srivastav, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-University has raised preliminary objection that the order dated 11th October 2023 passed by the Vice Chancellor is revisable under Section 68 of the UP State Universities Act 1973 (hereinafter referred as 'Act, 1973'). He added that the Vice Chancellor has taken decision vide order dated 11th October 2023 and refuted the claim of the petitioner while observing that the petitioner was promoted on the post of Associate Professor on 14th May 2022, and therefore, he is not entitled to be posted on rotation basis, as the same can be between the Professors, who can be inducted as Chairman/Convener of Board of Studies.

5. Adding his arguments, he submits that the petitioner has an efficacious alternative statutory remedy before the Chancellor, against the order passed by the Vice Chancellor and therefore, the present writ petition is not maintainable on this ground alone.

6. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance on a judgement reported in 2018 LawSuit(All) 2163, Committee of Management DAV Post Graduate College and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Others and has referred paragraph 13, 14 and 15 of the abovesaid judgement.

7. Paragraph 13, 14 and 15 of the abovesaid judgement is quoted hereinunder:-

"13. The question as to whether the order of the Vice Chancellor impugned herein is sustainable or not, could very well be examined in Reference under Section 68 of the Act. It is noteworthy that the petitioner Committee claims that meeting dated 25.9.2016 in which it was elected was called by Narendra Kumar Srivastava, Secretary of the parent society. Concededly, the person initially elected as Secretary of the parent society was Vinod Kumar Srivastava. The petitioners claim that he was expelled from the post of Secretary of the parent society on 25.3.2016 and his membership was also ceased. So far, there is no adjudication by any authority upholding expulsion of Vinod Kumar Srivastava. The said dispute is pending before the Prescribed Authority under Section 25 (1) of the Act. In order to be successful, the petitioners have also to establish that Vinod Kumar Srivastava was validly expelled and in his place, Narendra Kumar Srivastava was validly elected. In the opinion of the Court, these issues, which require appreciation of evidence, should be permitted to be examined in Reference under Section 68 of the Act.

14. The remedy of Reference under Section 68 is an efficacious remedy, inasmuch as the Chancellor, while exercising power under Section 68 pertaining to a dispute relating to election, is also invested with specific power to pass such orders of stay as he thinks just and expedient. A Division Bench of this Court in Writ-A No.44972 of 2013 Managing Committee Shibli National PG College Vs.

State of U.P. and others by judgement dated 30.9.2013 declined to entertain a writ petition holding that the remedy under Section 68 by way of Reference is a comprehensive remedy where questions of fact as well as law both could be raised and decided. Again, in Committee of Management, Raja Balwant Singh College and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2016 (1) ADJ 781, I have taken the same view and declined to entertain the writ petition relegating the parties to invoke the remedy of Reference under Section 68 of the Act.

15. No doubt, there is no absolute bar in entertaining a writ petition under Article 226 even though an alternative remedy is available under the Statute, but having regard to the facts and circumstances of the instant case, this Court is of the considered opinion that it is a fit case where the petitioners should be relegated to avail the alternative statutory remedy under Section 68 of the Act."

8. Referring the aforesaid, he submits that the Court, while dealing with the legal question has held that there is no absolute bar in entertaining a Writ under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Concluding his arguments, he submits that since the petitioner did not refer any reason that why this Court should invoke it's discretion to entertain this petition, even the alternative statutory remedy is available to him. Therefore, submission is that this petition is liable to be dismissed on this ground alone.

9. Shri Parmatma Pd. Singh, learned counsel appearing for the opposite no. 5 has also opted the aforesaid arguments of counsel for the respondent-University and added that several litigation are instituted by the petitioner, though he is not entitled to be appointed, as the claim which is being raised by the petitioner is premature according to his present post.

10. On the other hand, the learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently opposed the contentions aforesaid and submits, that the order impugned dated 11th October 2023 has been passed after an order was passed by this Court on 4th August 2023 in Writ-A No. 5631 of 2023. She further added that there can be no absolute bar, in entertaining the writ petition under article 226 of the Constitution of India and therefore the petition is maintainable. She also added that the facts which are narrated/contended by the learned counsel for the opposite parties, are not correct as the petitioner is entitled for his appointment on rotation basis.

11. The learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance on a judgement, rendered in Special Appeal No. 64 of 2020, Dr. Smt. Abha Sharma, Associate Professor, Department of English, Agra College, Agra Vs. State of U.P. and Others passed by this Court and has referred paragraph 9 of the abovesaid judgement.

12. Paragraph 9 of the judgement is quoted hereinunder:-

"9. Having regard to the facts of the case, and in particular the fact that one of the principal grounds sought to be raised to assail the order impugned in the writ petition is that the statutory authority has not acted in accordance with the provisions of the relevant statutory provisions, this Court is of the view that the writ petition ought to have been heard upon exchange of affidavits and only after consideration of what has been stated by the respective parties in their affidavits a final decision ought to have been taken in the matter."

13. Placing reliance on the aforesaid, she submits that the Division Bench of this Court has held that in case, any order is passed by the Vice Chancellor and even if the remedy under Section 68 of the Act 1973 is available, that could not be a bar and therefore, submission is that the writ petition is maintainable.

14. Considering the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the material placed on record, it transpires that the petitioner is aggrieved as he is not being considered to be appointed following the roster, as prescribed under the law, though it is contended from other side that the petitioner is appointed in year 2022 on the post of Associate Professor and as such he is not even entitled for the same.

15. Needless to say that there is an efficacious alternative remedy under Section 68 of the Act, 1973, which clearly speaks about the provision with respect to challenge to the order passed by the Vice Chancellor and the same is also applicable in the present case as the Vice Chancellor has rejected the claim of the petitioner while observing that he is not entitled to be considered for his appointment while applying the roster as he is appointed on 14th May 2022 on the post of Associate Professor.

16. Time and again it has been settled that if there is efficacious and alternative statutory remedy available, the interference would be under the exceptional circumstances. It's self imposed restriction and thus, it's rule of discretion not compulsion.

17. Hon'ble Supreme Court has settled this issue and the view of the Apex Court remains consistent starting from the judgement and order rendered in Case of Whirlpool Corporation Vs. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and Others, reported in (1998) 8 SCC 1.

18. In the aforesaid case, it has specifically been held by the Supreme Court that a Writ Court would be justified entertaining a writ petition despite the alternative remedy is not availed, provided that: (i) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights; (ii) where there is violation of principles of natural justice; (iii) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction; or (iv) where the vires of an Act is under challenge.

19. The law laid down by the Supreme Court in case of Radha Krishna Industries v. State of Himachal Pradesh, reported in (2021) 6 SCC 771, also adopts the same view as is held in case of Whirlpool Corporation (supra).

20. Paragraphs 25, 26 and 27 of the abovesaid judgement are quoted hereinunder:-

"25. In this background, it becomes necessary for this Court, to dwell on the "rule of alternate remedy" and its judicial exposition. In *Whirlpool Corporation v Registrar of Trademarks, Mumbai*²¹, a two judge Bench of this Court after reviewing the case law on this point, noted:

"14. The power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 of the Constitution is plenary in nature and is not limited by any other provision of the Constitution. This power can be exercised by the High Court not only for issuing writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights contained in Part III of the Constitution but also for "any other purpose".

15. Under Article 226 of the Constitution, the High Court, having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. But the High Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions one of which is that if an effective and efficacious remedy is available, the High Court would not normally exercise its jurisdiction. But the alternative remedy has been consistently held by this Court not to operate as a bar in at least three contingencies, namely, where the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights or where there has been a violation of the principle of natural justice or where the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged. There is a plethora of case-law on this point but to cut down this circle of forensic whirlpool, we would rely on" some old decisions of the evolutionary era of the constitutional law as they still hold the field."

26. Following the dictum of this Court in Whirlpool (supra), in *Harbanslal Sahnia v Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd.*²², this court noted that

"7. So far as the view taken by the High Court that the remedy by way of recourse to arbitration clause was available to the appellants and therefore the writ petition filed by the appellants was liable to be dismissed is concerned, suffice it to observe that the rule of exclusion of writ jurisdiction by availability of an alternative remedy is a rule of discretion and not one of compulsion. In an appropriate case, in spite of availability of the alternative remedy, the High Court may still exercise its writ jurisdiction in at least three contingencies: (i) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights; (ii) where there is failure of principles of natural justice; or (iii) where the orders or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged. (See Whirlpool Corpn. v. Registrar of Trade Marks [(1998) 8 SCC 1] .) The present case attracts applicability of the first two contingencies. Moreover, as noted, the appellants' dealership, which is their bread and butter, came to be terminated for an irrelevant and non-existent cause. In such circumstances, we feel that the appellants should have been allowed relief by the High Court itself instead of driving them to the need of initiating arbitration proceedings."

27. The principles of law which emerge are that :

(i) The power under Article 226 of the Constitution to issue writs can be exercised not only for the enforcement of fundamental rights, but for any other purpose as well;

(ii) The High Court has the discretion not to entertain a writ petition. One of the restrictions placed on the power of the High Court is where an effective alternate remedy is available to the aggrieved person;

(iii) Exceptions to the rule of alternate remedy arise where (a) the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of a fundamental right protected by Part III of the Constitution; (b) there has been a violation of the principles of natural justice; (c) the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction; or (d) the vires of a legislation is challenged;

(iv) An alternate remedy by itself does not divest the High Court of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution in an appropriate case though ordinarily, a writ petition should not be entertained when an efficacious alternate remedy is provided by law;

(v) When a right is created by a statute, which itself prescribes the remedy or procedure for enforcing the right or liability, resort must be had to that particular statutory remedy before invoking the discretionary remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution. This rule of exhaustion of statutory remedies is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion; and

(vi) In cases where there are disputed questions of fact, the High Court may decide to decline jurisdiction in a writ petition. However, if the High Court is objectively of the view that the nature of the controversy requires the exercise of its writ jurisdiction, such a view would not readily be interfered with."

21. This view has also been adopted by the Apex Court in judgement and order rendered in case of South Indian Bank Ltd. and Others Vs. Naveen Mathew Philip and Another reported in (2023) SCC OnLine SC 435 and has held that the Apex Court is conscious enough of the fact that powers conferred under Article 226 of Constitution of India are rather wide but are required to be exercised only in extraordinary circumstances.

22. Thus, it has been a settled view of the Apex Court that an alternative remedy is not an absolute bar in an appropriate case but ordinarily a writ petition should not be entertained when an efficacious alternative remedy is provided under law.

23. From the above said principles, laid down by the Apex Court, the present matter is not an appropriate case, wherein, this Court could find objectively that the nature of the controversy requires the exercise of writ jurisdiction.

24. Sheet anchor of the argument of counsel for the petitioner is the judgement and order dated 27.01.2020, is with respect to peculiar facts and circumstances of the case concerned, which is apparent from the starting words of paragraph 9 of the judgement itself, and further the counsel for the petitioner has also failed to substantiate that those facts are identical to the facts of present matter and therefore, the benefit of the judgement and order dated 27th January 2020 is not available to the petitioner.

25. Considering the abovesaid facts and circumstances, this Court is of considered opinion that under the facts and circumstances of the present matter, this is a fit case, where the petitioner should be relegated to exhaust the alternative remedy under Section 68 of the Act, 1973.

26. Consequently, the writ petition is hereby dismissed on the ground of maintainability.

27. However, it is open for the petitioner to approach the appropriate forum, in accordance with law.

28. No order as to costs.

A. Service Law – Bank of Baroda Transfer Policy – Clause 8.9 – Transfer of Lady Officers – Petitioner challenged transfer order dated 04.11.2023 and rejection of representation dated 09.06.2023 as violative of Transfer Policy and court orders – Held, transfer from Kanpur Dehat Region to Kanpur Metro Region within the same zone not covered under Clause 8.9.4 and 8.9.5, which apply only to inter-zonal transfers – Three-year tenure protection for lady officers applies only to inter-zonal transfers on request – Impugned order not violative of Transfer Policy or prior court orders in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 and Writ A No. 7948 of 2023 – Transfer policy to be read as a whole, and transfer within zone does not attract special provisions for lady officers – Nazir Ahmad Vs King Emperor relied upon. (Para 16-19, 23-25)

Writ petition dismissed.

List of Cases cited:

1. Nazir Ahmad Vs King Emperor; 1936 SCC Online PC 41

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Dr. L.P.Mishra, Advocate assisted by Sri Asit Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sanjay Bhasin, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Anand Kumar Singh, for the opposite parties no. 2 to 6. No one is present for the Union of India.

2. This matter is being decided finally at admission stage on the consent of counsels for both the parties.

3. Under challenge is the order dated 04-11-2023, passed by the General Manager (HRM), Bank of Baroda i.e. opposite party no. 6 as well as the order dated 09-06-2023 passed by the Regional Head, Bank of Baroda, which are said to be passed in utter violation of the order dated 13-07-2023, by this court in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 and against the transfer policy, particularly, with respect to the lady officers of the respondent Bank.

4. Factual matrix of the case are that the petitioner was initially appointed on 26-11-2008, on the post of Probationary Clerk, in Vijaya Bank, which was subsequently merged into Bank of Baroda and she joined in the office at district-Lucknow. Thereafter, in the year, 2012, she was promoted on the post of Assistant Manager in the office at Gomti Nagar, Lucknow. Later on, the petitioner was transferred on 23-05-2022 to Kanpur Dehat Region from Lucknow office and being far away from her family (parental and matrimonial), there was hardship before the petitioner and therefore, she requested for her transfer in nearby place and considering the request of the petitioner, she was transferred to Kanpur Metro Region Kanpur.

5. The Transfer Policy was framed on 31-03-2019 by the Board of Bank of Baroda under the regulations, published on the official website of the bank on 31-03-2019, wherein Clause 8.9 of the Transfer Policy provides that the lady employees posted upto Scale-III posts, shall be posted as per their request for a stipulated tenure of three years.

6. On 09-06-2023, the petitioner was transferred from Kanpur (U.P.) to Vadodara(Gujarat), on inter-zonal transfer, on the ground of 'longest stay' in one zone. As soon the inter zonal transfer was communicated to the petitioner, she preferred a detailed representation before the respondent-bank, citing therein the hardships of staying thousands of Kilometers away from her family members and her mother and also shown severity of medical condition with respect to her elders. On 16-06-2023, her representation was rejected by the Zonal Office at Lucknow and the same was communicated to the petitioner on 16-06-2023 through e-mail by the opposite party no. 3 and the relieving order was passed on 17-06-2023 from Harjinder Nagar, Kanpur Branch.

7. Being aggrieved with the order dated 17-06-2023, the petitioner approached this court on 19-06-2023 while preferring a writ petition, which was dismissed by the Hon'ble Single Judge on 21-06-2023, whereafter, an Special Appeal bearing No. 347 of 2023 was filed, wherein, on 13-07-2023, while setting aside the Judgment and Order passed by the Hon'ble Single Judge, the petitioner was permitted to make a fresh representation and the opposite parties were directed to decide the same in accordance with law and thereafter, the petitioner joined her duties at Harjinder Nagar Branch at district-Kanpur, but, she was told to join her duties at Sisamau Branch on deputation and the petitioner joined at Sisamau Branch on 21-08-2023. Thereafter, on 28-07-2023, the petitioner preferred a representation before the General Manager, Bank of Baroda, but, on 08-09-2023, the petitioner was again sent on deputation at Behrana Road Branch and ultimately, the representation of the petitioner is rejected vide order dated 11-09-2023, which was challenged by the petitioner vide Writ A No. 7984 of 2023, wherein an order was passed on 18-10-2023 and the learned Single Judge while disposing of the abovesaid writ petition, left it open to the petitioner to submit a fresh comprehensive representation for redressal of her grievances before the competent authority and the competent authority was directed to decide the same within further period of ten days. In compliance thereof, a representation was preferred by the petitioner and the same was decided vide order dated 04-11-2023, which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

8. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the impugned order dated 04-11-2023 is passed in absolute defiance of the order passed in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 and the order dated 18-10-2023 passed in Writ A No. 7948 of 2023. He added that the orders impugned suffer from non application of mind as the ground of longest stay considered by the opposite parties, is not applicable in the present case as the provisions of Clause 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy with respect to transfer of the lady officers, is evident that in consideration of any request for transfer of any lady officer by the bank at anyone instance, shall be for one tenure of posting i.e. 3 years and after completion of one tenure of posting in the requested region, it is open to the bank to transfer such employee from the said region but so far as the present matter is concerned, the locking period of three years, is admittedly not completed.

9. Adding his arguments, he submits that the transfer of the petitioner is with malafide intention and for harassing her and is not in consonance with the Transfer Policy as the opposite parties have acted in a most arbitrary and illegal manner, as the petitioner is not only transferred, but, she has been forced, while seizing her bank accounts and discontinuing her salary, which is her hard earned money.

10. Further contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that since the Judgment and Order dated 13-07-2023 passed by this court in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023, is evident that the Hon'ble Division Bench of this court has observed that earlier transfer policy is pari materia to the subsequent transfer policy with respect to the transfer of lady officers, however, in the new transfer policy, the request of transfer, appears to be confined to the request of transfer involving change of zone i.e. inter-zonal transfers, whereas, in case of transfer of any lady officer, on her request at anyone instance, her tenure of posting shall be three years, remains the same even in the new transfer policy and the Division Bench of this court has also taken note of the fact so far as paragraph 8.9.1 of the Transfer Policy is concerned, which stipulates that the 'Bank recognizes the commitment, responsibilities of lady employees towards home, family and office and will remain empathetic on issues regarding their transferability.'

11. Sheet anchor of the argument of counsel for the petitioner is that the impugned orders passed by the opposite parties are in utter violation of the Transfer Policy of the Bank and it reflects non application of mind by the concerned authorities as the petitioner has been thrown thousands of Kilometers away from her place of posting, coupled with the argument that the transfer order passed is also in violation of the observations made in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 as well as the order passed by the Hon'ble Single Judge, subsequently. Therefore, submission is that the orders impugned are wholly without application of mind, unjustified and against the Transfer Policy and at the same time i.e. against the observations of the Hon'ble Division Bench made in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023. Thus, submission is that the impugned orders may be quashed.

12. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-bank has vehemently opposed the contentions aforesaid and submitted that after the order passed by the Hon'ble Single Judge on 18-10-2023, in Writ A No. 7948 of 2023, a representation was moved by the petitioner, which has rightly and lawfully been decided by the opposite party no. 6, vide order dated 04-11-2023. While adding his arguments, he straightaway came to the provisions of the Transfer Policy i.e. 8.9 meant for transfer of the Lady Officers and contended that the provisio of 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy, cannot be read in isolation, as the same starts from the proviso 8.9.1 of the Transfer Policy and if the provision of 8.9.4 of the Transfer Policy is read in toto, that itself is explanatory that the same speaks about the transfer from one zone to another zone.

13. Adding his arguments, he submits that so far as the proviso 8.9.4 of the Transfer Policy is concerned, that speaks that 'such requests may be considered upto Scale III but not more than two occasions in the entire career, as 'Only such requests which involve change of zone shall be reckoned for being counted under this clause.'' and so far as the present case is concerned, the petitioner is not transferred from one zone to another zone but her transfer was made on her request in Lucknow Zone, i.e. from Kanpur Dehat Region to Kanpur Metro Region. Further for sometimes, looking into the work in different branches, she was sent on deputation on other branch in Kanpur region itself.

14. He next submits that so far as proviso 8.9.2 of the Transfer Policy is concerned, that too, is with respect to the transfer from one zone to another zone, i.e. known as inter zonal transfer. Thus concluding his arguments, he submits that since the transfer of the petitioner is in consonance with the provisions of the Transfer Policy and therefore, no interference is warranted in the transfer order dated 04-11-2023.

15. Having heard the learned counsels for the parties and after perusal of the material placed on record, two basic legal questions emerge so as to resolve the controversy in question. The first and foremost question is as to whether the transfer of the petitioner is in contravention of the Clause 8.9 (proviso 8.9.1 to proviso 8.9.5) of the Transfer Policy with respect to the transfer of the lady officers? The second question is as to whether the transfer order dated 04-11-2023, is hit by or under the teeth of the Judgment and Order passed in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 dated 13-07-2023 as well as order dated 18-10-2023 passed in Writ A No. 7948 of 2023?

16. When this court examines the first question, it is relevant to go through the extract of the Transfer Policy with respect of the lady officers, which is quoted hereinunder :-

“8.9 TRANSFER OF LADY OFFICERS

8.9.1 Bank recognizes the concomitant responsibilities of lady employees towards home, family and office and will remain empathetic on issues regarding their transferability. 8.9.2 At the time of initial placement upon recruitment, Bank shall, as far as possible, place lady officers (married/ unmarried) to the Zone of her choice, on her request or to the nearest zone of her choice subject to availability of vacancies in the said zone.

In case of unavailability of vacancies, such female officers can be posted to other Zone as per Bank's requirement.

8.9.3 For lady Officers upto MMG/S-III, Bank shall consider requests for transfer on marriage grounds/on the grounds of joining spouse etc., subject to availability of vacancies at the requested Region.

8.9.4 Such requests may be considered upto Scale III but not more than two occasions in the entire career. Only such requests which involve change of zone shall be reckoned for being counted Under this clause

8.9.5 Consideration of any request for transfer of any lady Officer by the Bank at any one instance, shall be for one tenure of posting (3 years). After completion of one tenure of posting in the requested Region, it shall be open to the Bank to transfer her from the said Region in accordance with the Bank's business requirements, or in furtherance of any other policy/guidelines of the Bank/Govt.

like career path policy, job rotation guidelines etc. Thus the female Officers who have been granted any placement in accordance with her request, shall be transferable in line with the general transfer policy provisions of longest stay, career path policy, job rotation policy etc. as may be applicable to her on completion of one stipulated tenure of posting in such place.”

17. Perusal of the aforesaid provisions, indicates the enabling provisions regarding the transfer of the lady officers and the instructions, which are to be taken care of. This Transfer Policy is meant looking into the responsibilities of the lady employees towards home, family and office, but, the same cannot be read aloof, as the other provisions are explanatory which says that the request under the provisions of Transfer Policy of the lady officers may be considered not more than two occasions in the entire career and the further provision, which is of much importance, to resolve the controversy is that ‘only such requests which involve change of zone, shall be reckoned for being counted under this clause’. In the next clause i.e. proviso 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy, it has also been provided that ‘Consideration of any request for transfer of any lady Officer by the Bank at any one instance, shall be for one tenure of posting i.e. for 3 years’.

18. It is obvious from the aforesaid provisions, that the special provision with respect to the transfer of the lady officers, will be considered subject to the request of such lady officer from one zone to another zone and then only the rider of three years, as provided under the proviso 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy, would attract. Further, clause 8.9.4 readwith Clause 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy for the lady officers, do not leave any confusion with respect to the benefit of rider of three years subject to condition of the transfer from one zone to another zone.

19. It is not in dispute that the transfer of the petitioner is made within the zone, from one region to another region i.e. in Kanpur Dehat Region to Kanpur Metro Region and that's why, the proviso 8.9.4 readwith proviso 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy, do not attract in the present matter and therefore, answer accordingly is that the transfer order of the petitioner dated 04-11-2023, is in no way violative of any directions/provisions envisaged under Clause 8.9.1 to 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy.

20. Now coming to the next legal question as to whether the impugned transfer order is in any way passed in violation of the Judgment and Order dated 13-07-2023, passed in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 and the Judgment and Order dated 18-10-2023 passed in Writ A No. 7948 of 2023.

21. Having at a glance, the Judgment and Order dated 13-07-2023, passed in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023, it transpires that the Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023, was filed by the petitioner assailing the Judgment and Order dated 21-06-2023 passed in Writ A No. 4679 of 2023. The Hon'ble Single Judge did not find any illegality or erroneousness in the transfer order dated 09-06-2023 challenged earlier and therefore, the writ petition was dismissed, whereafter the Division Bench of this court while dealing with the matter in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023, set aside the Judgment and Order dated 21-06-2023 and left it open to the petitioner to move a representation and the opposite parties were directed to consider the same, particularly, in the light of the provisions of the 'Transfer Policy Of The Lady Officers' of the respondent bank.

22. Much emphasis is also placed on para nos. 12 & 15 of the Judgment and Order dated 13-07-2023 passed in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 and it's tried to substantiate that the Division Bench of this court, has directed the opposite parties to consider the object of having separate and distinct provision for transfer of the lady officers while passing the fresh orders and the impugned order does not disclose that the same is complied with by the opposite party-bank.

23. In totality, the transfer of the petitioner is governed with an special provision of transfer of the lady officer. The Division Bench of this court in paragraph no. 12 of the Judgment and Order dated 13-07-2023 passed in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023, has noticed the provisions of the Transfer Policy as 'to be confined to request of transfer involving change of zone i.e. interzonal transfers'. Therefore, the Transfer Policy cannot be read in isolation, particularly, with respect to Clause 8.9.1 of the Transfer Policy, but, it has to be read in toto and qualifying Clause 8.9.4 and Clause 8.9.5 shall also be read alongwith Clause No. 8.9.1. The aforesaid provisions are very clear in it's terms that if a transfer is made on the request of a lady officer, such request is reckoned for being counted in case of change of zone i.e. inter zonal transfer.

24. Undisputedly, the tenure of the posting on request would be for a period of three years, which is a rider provided under Clause 8.9.5 of the Transfer Policy, but, such rider would only be invoked, in the event, when the transfer is made inter zonal and in all over the Judgment and Order of the Division Bench, there is no such direction to ignore the rest of the provisions of the Transfer Policy regarding the lady officers, more so, the provision of inter zonal transfer, is also viewed.

25. Resultantly, the second question is also decided negatively, as the impugned transfer order dated 04- 11-2023 is in no way violative of the order or direction issued vide judgment and order dated 13-07-2023 passed in Special Appeal No. 347 of 2023 as well as the Judgment and Order dated 21-06-2023 passed in Writ A No. 4679 of 2023.

26. This court is also not unmindful to the several verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court, wherein it is held that the statute or rules made thereunder, should be read as a whole and one provision should be construed with reference to the other provision to make the provision consistent with the object sought to be achieved.

27. It is settled law, started from the Judgment in the case of Nazir Ahmad Vs.King Emperor, rendered by the Privy Council, reported in 1936 SCC Online PC 41, as well as the consistent view of the Hon'ble Apex Court that where the law prescribes a thing to be done in a particular manner while following a particular procedure, it shall be done in the same manner following the provisions of law, without deviating from the prescribed procedure. Conclusively, it is to be done in a manner prescribed not otherwise.

28. In view of the abovesaid submissions and discussions, the writ petition is devoid of merits, hence, the Writ Petition is dismissed accordingly.

10. Krushnakant B. Parmar Vs U.O.I.; Civil Appeal No. 2106 of 2012, dated 15.02.2012

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Saharsh Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents.

2. Instant petition has been filed challenging the order of removal dated 12.01.2024, a copy of which is Annexure-2 to the writ petition.

3. A preliminary objection has been taken by Sri Saharsh Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that the petitioner has an alternative and statutory remedy of filing an appeal against the order impugned.

4. However, learned counsel for the petitioner states that as the order impugned is patently without jurisdiction having been passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, who is not the appointing authority rather the appointing authority is the District Magistrate. Further, the order impugned has been passed in gross violation of principles of natural justice and consequently placing reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Harbanslal Sahnia and another vs. Indian Oil Corporation Limited and others – AIR 2003 SC 2120 and a Division Bench judgment of this Court passed in Special Appeal No.73 of 2012 in re: Rajendra Prasad Upadhyaya vs. State of U.P. and others decided on 29.03.2012, the contention is that as the order impugned is patently without jurisdiction and in gross violation of natural justice as such the statutory and alternative remedy of appeal would not be an absolute bar in this Court entertaining the petition. Reliance has also been placed on the judgment of this Court in the case of Smt. Manju Devi vs. State of U.P. and others passed in Writ-C No.29150 of 2018 decided on 28.08.2018.

5. Whether the remedy of statutory appeal would be an absolute bar for entertaining a petition has been considered threadbare recently by the Supreme Court in the case of M/s Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. vs. The Excise and Taxation Officer Cum Assessing Authority and others passed in Civil Appeal No.5393 of 2010 wherein the Apex Court vide judgment and order dated 01.02.2023 after considering its earlier judgments has held as under:-

conferred by Article 226 of the Constitution having come across certain orders passed by the high courts holding writ petitions as “not maintainable” merely because the alternative remedy provided by the relevant statutes has not been pursued by the parties desirous of invocation of the writ jurisdiction. The power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 is plenary in nature. Any limitation on the exercise of such power must be traceable in the Constitution itself. Profitable reference in this regard may be made to Article 329 and ordinances of other similarly worded articles in the Constitution. Article 226 does not, in terms, impose any limitation or restraint on the exercise of power to issue writs. While it is true that exercise of writ powers despite availability of a remedy under the very statute which has been invoked and has given rise to the action impugned in the writ petition ought not to be made in a routine manner, yet, the mere fact that the petitioner before the high court, in a given case, has not pursued the alternative remedy available to him/it cannot mechanically be construed as a ground for its dismissal. It is axiomatic that the high courts (bearing in mind the facts of each particular case) have a discretion whether to entertain a writ petition or not. One of the self-imposed restrictions on the exercise of power under Article 226 that has evolved through judicial precedents is that the high courts should normally not entertain a writ petition, where an effective and efficacious alternative remedy is available. At the same time, it must be remembered that mere availability of an alternative remedy of appeal or revision, which the party invoking the jurisdiction of the high court under Article 226 has not pursued, would not oust the jurisdiction of the high court and render a writ petition “not maintainable”. In a long line of decisions, this Court has made it clear that availability of an alternative remedy does not operate as an absolute bar to the “maintainability” of a writ petition and that the rule, which requires a party to pursue the alternative remedy provided by a statute, is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion rather than a rule of law. Though elementary, it needs to be restated that “entertainability” and “maintainability” of a writ petition are distinct concepts. The fine but real distinction between the two ought not to be lost sight of. The objection as to “maintainability” goes to the root of the matter and if such objection were found to be of substance, the courts would be rendered incapable of even receiving the lis for adjudication. On the other hand, the question of “entertainability” is entirely within the realm of discretion of the high courts, writ remedy being discretionary. A writ petition despite being maintainable may not be entertained by a high court for very many reasons or relief could even be refused to the petitioner, despite setting up a sound legal point, if grant of the claimed relief would not further public interest. Hence, dismissal of a writ petition by a high court on the ground that the petitioner has not availed the alternative remedy without, however, examining whether an exceptional case has been made out for such entertainment would not be proper.

5.A little after the dawn of the Constitution, a Constitution Bench of this Court in its decision reported in 1958 SCR 595 (State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Mohd. Nooh) had the occasion to observe as follows:

“10. In the next place it must be borne in mind that there is no rule, with regard to certiorari as there is with mandamus, that it will lie only where there is no other equally effective remedy. It is *well established that, provided the requisite grounds exist, certiorari will lie although a right of appeal has been conferred by statute, (Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 11, p. 130 and the cases cited there). The fact that the aggrieved party has another and adequate remedy may be taken into consideration by the superior court in arriving at a conclusion as to whether it should, in exercise of its discretion, issue a writ of certiorari to quash the proceedings and decisions of inferior courts subordinate to it and ordinarily the superior court will decline to interfere until the aggrieved party has exhausted his other statutory remedies, if any. But this rule requiring the exhaustion of statutory remedies before the writ will be granted is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion rather than a rule of law and instances are numerous where a writ of certiorari has been issued in spite of the fact that the aggrieved party had other adequate legal remedies. ***"*

6. At the end of the last century, this Court in paragraph 15 of its decision reported in (1998) 8 SCC 1 (Whirlpool Corporation vs. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and Others) carved out the exceptions on the existence whereof a Writ Court would be justified in entertaining a writ petition despite the party approaching it not having availed the alternative remedy provided by the statute. The same read as under:

(i) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights;

(ii) where there is violation of principles of natural justice;

(iii) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction; or

(iv) where the vires of an Act is challenged.

7. Not too long ago, this Court in its decision reported in 2021 SCC OnLine SC 884 (Assistant Commissioner of State Tax vs. M/s. Commercial Steel Limited) has reiterated the same principles in paragraph 11.

8. That apart, we may also usefully refer to the decisions of this Court reported in (1977) 2 SCC 724 (State of Uttar Pradesh & ors. vs. Indian Hume Pipe Co. Ltd.) and (2000) 10 SCC 482 (Union of India vs. State of Haryana). What appears on a plain reading of the former decision is that whether a certain item falls within an entry in a sales tax statute, raises a pure question of law and if investigation into facts is unnecessary, the high court could entertain a writ petition in its discretion even though the alternative remedy was not availed of; and, unless exercise of discretion is shown to be unreasonable or perverse, this Court would not interfere. In the latter decision, this Court found the issue raised by the appellant to be pristinely legal requiring determination by the high court without putting the appellant through the mill of statutory appeals in the hierarchy. What follows from the said decisions is that where the controversy is a purely legal one and it does not involve disputed questions of fact but only questions of law, then it should be decided by the high court instead of dismissing the writ petition on the ground of an alternative remedy being available.

9. Now, reverting to the facts of this appeal, we find that the appellant had claimed before the High Court that the suo motu revisional power could not have been exercised by the Revisional Authority in view of the existing facts and circumstances leading to the only conclusion that the assessment orders were legally correct and that the final orders impugned in the writ petition were passed upon assuming a jurisdiction which the Revisional Authority did not possess. In fine, the orders impugned were passed wholly without jurisdiction. Since a jurisdictional issue was raised by the appellant in the writ petition questioning the very competence of the Revisional Authority to exercise suo motu power, being a pure question of law, we are of the considered view that the plea raised in the writ petition did deserve a consideration on merits and the appellant's writ petition ought not to have been thrown out at the threshold.

10. Reliance placed by the High Court on the decision in Titagarh Paper Mills (supra), in our view, was completely misplaced. The respondent Electricity Board had levied coal surcharge on the appellant company in terms of an agreement. Such agreement contained an arbitration agreement in clause 23. Instead of pursuing its remedy in arbitration, the appellant company unsuccessfully invoked the writ jurisdiction. This Court was approached whereupon it was held that in view of the issues raised, there was no reason why the appellant company should not pursue its remedy in arbitration, having solemnly accepted clause 23 of the agreement, and instead invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of the high court under Article 226 of the Constitution to determine questions which really form the subject matter of the arbitration agreement. This decision could not have been of any relevance having regard to the issue presented for resolution before the High Court by the appellant, particularly when the disputes inter se were not referable to arbitration.

6. From perusal of the aforesaid judgment in the case of Godrej Sara Lee Limited (supra), it emerges that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has carved out the distinction between the 'maintainability' of a writ petition and 'entertainability' of a writ on the ground of alternative remedy.

7. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the 'maintainability' of a writ petition goes to the root of the matter and the mere fact that the party invoking jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution has not pursued the alternative remedy of appeal or revision, would not oust the jurisdiction of the High Court and render the writ petition being 'not maintainable'.

8. So far as the 'entertainability' of the writ petition is concerned, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the question of "entertainability" is entirely within the realm of discretion of the High Courts, writ remedy being discretionary and a writ petition despite being maintainable may not be entertained by a High Court for various reasons or relief could be refused to the petitioner, despite setting up a sound legal point, if grant of the claimed relief would not further public interest.

9. The Apex Court has again reiterated the principles of law laid down by it earlier in the case of Whirlpool Corporation vs. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and Others-(1998) 8 SCC 1 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that a Writ Court would be justified in entertaining a writ petition despite the party approaching it not having availed the alternative remedy provided by the statute in the following exceptions namely (a) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights, (b) where there is violation of principles of natural justice, (c) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction, or (f) where the vires of an Act is challenged. The same principle of law has been laid down in the earlier judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Harbanslal Sahnia (supra) and the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Rajendra Prasad Upadhyaya (supra).

10. In the instant case, as already indicated above, the petitioner has approached the writ Court directly without filing of an appeal, as per rules, on the ground that (a) the order impugned is patently without jurisdiction, and (b) that the order is patently violative of the rules of natural justice.

11. Considering the aforesaid two grounds as have been raised on behalf of the petitioner, the Court thus proceeds to examine as to whether the order impugned is without jurisdiction and in gross violation of the rules of natural justice so as to entertain the writ petition despite alternative remedy of appeal.

12. So far as the order being without jurisdiction is concerned, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the appointing authority of the petitioner is the District Magistrate while the order impugned has been passed by Sub Divisional Magistrate and as the order has been passed by a lower authority than the appointing authority the said act would render the order being without jurisdiction.

13. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner has invited the attention of this Court towards the appointment order of the petitioner as Collection Amin dated 20.08.1997, a copy of which is Annexure-3 to the petition. Placing reliance on the said appointment order which in fact has been issued by the Sub Divisional Magistrate but the said order also indicates that the select list has been approved by the District Magistrate, the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner is that as the select list has been approved by the District Magistrate consequently even if the appointment order has been issued by the Sub Divisional Magistrate it is the District Magistrate who is the appointing authority of the petitioner.

14. The aforesaid argument of learned counsel for the petitioner apart from being patently fallacious is also patently misconceived considering the fact that admittedly the services of the petitioner are governed by the U.P. Collection Amins Service Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred as the 'Rules, 1974'). Rule 19-A of the Rules, 1974 categorically indicates that the appointing authority of a Collection Amin is the Sub Divisional Magistrate. Thus, considering the provisions of Rule 19-A of the Rules, 1974 vis-a-vis the appointment order of the petitioner dated 20.08.1997 which in fact has been issued by the Sub Divisional Magistrate and the removal order of the petitioner has also been issued by the Sub Divisional Magistrate consequently it cannot be said that merely because the select list had been approved by the District Magistrate, consequently it is the District Magistrate who would become the appointing authority of the petitioner. Thus, the aforesaid argument is rejected. It is held that the appointing authority of the petitioner is in fact the Sub Divisional Magistrate as per Rules, 1974.

15. So far as the ground that the order has been passed in gross violation of rules of natural justice, reliance has been placed on the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Krushnakant B. Parmar vs. Union of India passed in Civil Appeal No.2106 of 2012 decided on 15.02.2012 to contend that as one of the charges against the petitioner was his unauthorized absence consequently the disciplinary authority was required to prove that the absence is willful and in absence of such finding the absence would not amount to misconduct and as such the disciplinary authority has patently erred in law in removing the petitioner from service on the ground that the petitioner was unauthorisedly absent.

16. Apart from the fact that in case the disciplinary authority may have arrived at a wrong finding by not considering the relevant records it cannot be said that the said finding would be patently violative of rules of natural justice.

17. Even otherwise, a perusal of the inquiry report dated 23.06.2023, which is part of Annexure-18 to the writ petition, would indicate that the competent authority has considered the medical certificate of the petitioner to specifically arrive at a finding that the said medical certificate does not inspire confidence as there is a difference in date in the medical certificate pertaining to the start of medical leave.

18. Thus, merely because the inquiry officer/disciplinary authority may have arrived at a finding which was at the variance with what has been indicated in the medical certificate and thereafter has gone to hold that the petitioner was willfully absent, the same cannot be said to be violative of rules of natural justice.

19. So far as the further argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that the order is also in gross violation of rules of natural justice as the witnesses who were indicated in the charge sheet were never called to appear before the inquiry officer, the Court may only observe that mere calling or not calling the witnesses cannot be construed that the order impugned is in violation of rules of natural justice rather the same may amount to procedural irregularity which can always be looked into by the appellate authority.

20. Another ground which has been taken by the petitioner in support of his argument of the order being violation of rules of natural justice is that the reply as filed by the petitioner dated 11.12.2023 has not been considered. The said argument is also found patently fallacious inasmuch as a perusal of the order impugned dated 12.01.2024 would indicate that the reply of the petitioner has in fact been considered. Obviously, it cannot be the case of the petitioner that his reply should have been considered in a particular manner and the petitioner should have been exonerated of all the charges inasmuch as it is always the discretion of the disciplinary authority to take a view which could be erroneous but the same would not result into the said order being rendered in gross violation of the rules of natural justice.

21. So far as the judgment in the case of Smt. Manju Devi (supra) is concerned, the writ Court had proceeded on the ground that the order impugned had been passed without an effective opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

22. In the instant case, it is not that the petitioner has not been heard rather his case is that the reply that had been filed by him has not been considered in its proper perspective. Thus, the judgment of this Court in the case of Smt. Manju Devi (supra) would be of no help to the petitioner.

23. Keeping in view the aforesaid discussion, this Court finds that the principles of law as laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Godrej Sara Lee Limited (supra) of entertaining a writ petition are not made out. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed leaving it open to the petitioner to pursue the remedy of appeal as per rules.

1. Heard Shri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri G.S. Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Neeraj Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General for the State-respondents.
2. The petitioner before this Court has been working as a lecturer in the institution and his services were regularized way back on 25.04.2006. He is aggrieved now by the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education dated 19.03.2020, holding the appointment of the petitioner to be bad for being result of fraud and forgery and thus directed for stoppage of payment of salary of the petitioner, and also the consequential order passed by the District Inspector of Schools on 20.03.2020 withholding the payment of salary of the petitioner and further directing the authorized controller to take appropriate action under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 against illegal and fraudulent appointment of petitioner.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that petitioner was initially appointed on ad-hoc basis as a lecturer against a substantive vacancy on 20.01.1991. His appointment came to be approved on 07.03.1991 and thus petitioner started functioning in the institution and was paid salary accordingly. In view of the section 33C of the U.P. Secondary Education (Services Selection Board) Act, 1982, the Regional Joint Director of Education passed an order with the condition that if any fact was found to have been concealed, his regularization shall automatically stands cancelled. This order was passed on 25.04.2006 and thereafter nothing happened until a dispute arose of seniority amongst three teachers namely the petitioner, one Uday Narayan Dwivedi and Chandbhan yadav so as to be appointed as officiating principal of the institution. It transpires that the Regional Joint Director of Education who was seized with the matter, called for some report and on the basis of report, he questioned the order of the District Inspector of Schools giving charge to one Sri Uday Narayan Dwivedi as officiating principal of the institution and directed that the order be immediately recalled. It is in that process that he held, since one Ramujagir Shukla was recommended to be appointed with the formal approval granted by the District Inspector of Schools on 07.03.1991 and since Ramujagir Shukla did not turn up to join then his appointment must have been cancelled and then only any financial approval could have been granted to another teacher Basu Dev Singh (petitioner) as lecturer in Geography but the despatch register did not demonstrate the approval order to have been issued to either Ramujagir Shukla or Basu Dev Singh and thus concluded that appointment of petitioner Basu Dev Singh to be prima facie bad and directed that the payment of salary of Basu Dev Singh be stopped. It is as a sequential to the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education that District Inspector of Schools passed order on 20.03.2020.

4. Two fold argument has been advanced:

(i) Once the regularization order had been passed, taking recourse to the provisions contained under the U.P. Secondary Education (Services Selection Board) Act, 1982, until and unless that order was recalled or reviewed by putting petitioner to prior notice and giving him reasonable opportunity of hearing, the Regional Joint Director of Education was not justified in ordering for stoppage of payment of salary of the petitioner and,

(ii) On a mere apprehension and doubt being raised regarding the despatch letter of the year 1991, the Regional Joint Director of Education could not have returned a finding that the approval order to the appointment of the petitioner was forged/fraudulent.

5. Yet another argument has been advanced that the Regional Joint Director of Education does not act as court to issue an interim direction that since prima facie the approval order appeared to be doubtful, so the payment of salary be stopped despite the fact that petitioner's regularization had already taken place.

6. Meeting the arguments, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondent has sought to urge that the very regularization order contained a condition that if any fact was concealed in obtaining the regularization, it would stand automatically cancelled, so there was no question of passing any order for recalling the order of regularization. He has further sought to urge that both the despatch letters of financial approval in favour of one Ramujagir Shukla and that of the petitioner were bearing same despatch number and, therefore, there was no question of any doubt. According to him the despatch number was in respect of some requisition sent to the Manager of Janta Inter College, Ranipur as per entry and wherein neither the name of the petitioner, nor Ramujagir Shukla has been mentioned.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, I proceed first to examine the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education impugned herein this petition. Closely examining the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education dated 19.03.2020, I find that the Regional Joint Director of Education has not doubted the existence of the vacancy. All that he has doubted is the financial approval accorded to the petitioner's appointment on 07.03.1991, bearing letter No.6272 but this, as per records, was meant for Janta Inter College, Ranipur, Mau for some requisition and not in relation to the approval of petitioner's appointment. This finding is based upon a discussion held qua report of District Inspector of Schools dated 12.03.2020, that was regarding despatch number entered in his office despatch register. This finding if compared with the document brought on record in the counter affidavit at page No.34, then it is seen to be in reference to some requisition being sent in respect of a vacancy and not in relation to approval order of Ramujagir Shukla. This extract of the despatch register, typed copy of which has been filed, has no head and tail in terms of date and year.

8. The report that was filed by the District Inspector of Schools dated 12.03.2020 upon which the finding has come to be returned is verbatim as mentioned in the order of the Regional Joint Director of Education. Thus the Regional Joint Director of Education has not applied his independent mind and just mechanically acted upon report and virtually reproduced the same in passing the order. He did not even care to examine as to whether petitioner was guilty of any misrepresentation or fraud in getting appointment and financial approval. This, of course, could have been done, had the petitioner been put to notice but the order clearly shows that the petitioner was never put to notice, nor the order proceeds to hold any inquiry in the matter.

9. Looking to the regularization order which has been brought on record as annexure No.2 to the writ petition, carries a condition that if any fraud was committed by management or principal then the order would automatically stand cancelled. In order to find answer to the question as to whether there was any fraud committed by the management or the principal in the matter of approval to the appointment of petitioner, in my considered view a notice ought to have been given to the management and the principal in the first instance but surprisingly Joint Director of Education while determining the question of seniority travelled beyond the scope of dispute pending before him in holding that the appointment of the petitioner was bad that too without issuing any prior notice to the petitioner, principal and the Manager of the institution. There is no finding that the petitioner committed any fraud or misrepresentation, nor any finding has been returned regarding fraud or misrepresentation at the end of Principal or Manager of the institution. Thus, on this ground alone, the impugned order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education is liable to be quashed and so the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education and consequential order of District Inspector of Schools cannot be sustained in law. Very recently, in the case of Radhey Shyam Yadav and another Etc. Vs. State of U.P. and others (AIR 2024 SC 260) decided on 03.01.2024, Supreme Court relied upon its earlier authority in the case of Chief Engineer, M.S.E.B and Another Vs. Suresh Raghunath Bhokare (2005) 10 SCC 465 (AIR 2005 SC 1622), and vide paragraph 5, held thus:

"5. The entire basis of the dismissal of the appellant depends upon the factum of the alleged misrepresentation attributed to the respondent. The Industrial Court in its impugned order has noticed the fact that the respondent was appointed in April 1994 pursuant to the selection procedure followed by the competent authority and that he was selected by the panel of Selection Committee consisting of 6 members which included the very same Social Welfare Officer who had sent the proposal including the name of the respondent for appointment. It also noticed the fact that the selection in question was made after an oral interview and the required test as also the medical examination. The Industrial Court also noticed the fact that the appointment of the respondent was confirmed after one-year period and thereafter the respondent has been working without any complaint. The said Industrial Court also noticed the fact that the termination of the respondent was based on a showcause notice issued on 5-7-1999 which was replied to by the respondent on 17-7-1999 and the termination was made in a summary procedure permissible under Rule 90(b) of the Service Regulations. The Industrial Court after perusing the pleadings and the notice issued to the respondent came to the conclusion that the alleged misrepresentation which is now said to be a fraud was not specifically pleaded or proved. In the show-cause notice, no basis was laid to show what is the nature of fraud that was being attributed to the appellant. No particulars of the alleged fraud were given and the said pleadings did not even contain any allegation as to how the appellant was responsible for sending the so-called fraudulent proposal or what role he had to play in such proposal being sent. It also noticed from the evidence of Mr Waghmare, Social Welfare Officer who sent the proposal before the Labour Court that he did not utter a single word as to whether the said supplementary list was ever called for by the department concerned or not. Thus applying the basic principle of rule of evidence which requires a party alleging fraud to give particulars of the fraud and having found no such particulars, the Industrial Court came to the conclusion that the respondent could not be held guilty of fraud. The said finding of the Industrial Court has been accepted by the High Court. Mr. Bhasme though contended that the fraud in question was played in collusion with the Social Welfare Officer and 2 other employees of the Board and action against the said 2 employees of the Board has been taken, but by that itself we are unable to accept the argument of Mr. Bhasme that there is material to support the contention of the Board that the appellant had also contributed to making the misrepresentation at the time of applying for the job with the Board. In the absence of any such particulars being mentioned in the showcause notice or at the trial, attributing some overt act to the respondent, we do not think the Board can infer that the respondent had a role to play in sending a fraudulent list solely on the basis of the presumption that since the respondent got a job by the said proposal, the said list is a fraudulent one. It was the duty of the Board to have specifically produced the material to prove that the respondent himself had the knowledge of such a fraud and he knowingly or in collusion with other officials indulged in this fraud. Since there is no such material on record, on the facts of the instant case, the Industrial Court and the High Court have come to the right conclusion that the alleged fraud has not been established by the appellants, hence, this is not a fit case in which interference is called for. This appeal, therefore, fails and the same is dismissed."

10. Thus, the Court took a view that if the beneficiary is not liable to be charged with any misrepresentation or any kind of involvement in any conspiracy for securing such appointment, such a teacher cannot be dismissed from service for such irregularity in appointment. Once, the appointment has been made and a teacher has been made to continue for a very long time like two decades or more, now to fire such a teacher by one stroke of pen only on the ground that some despatch register did not show to be addressed to the institution granting approval to the petitioner, is not justifiable. Further, it has been held in the said judgment that if there is no cancellation of appointment order or cancellation of approval order, then such teacher is liable to be treated in the service. The Court in that case has also held vide paragraph No.34 which reads thus:

"34. We feel that the appellants were not at fault and the State could not have abruptly stopped their salaries. Accordingly, we set aside the judgments of the High Court dated 15.09.2021 in Special Appeal Nos. 1435/2013 and 1445/2013 and direct that the State shall pay the salaries of the appellants for the period from 25.06.1999 till January, 2002 in full. We also direct that insofar as the period from October, 2005 till today is concerned, the State shall pay the appellants 50% of the backwages. Since the appointment order and the approval order are still in force, we declare that the appellants have always been and are deemed to be in service. Apart from 50% backwages, as ordered above, we direct that all consequential benefits, including seniority, notional promotion, if any, and fitment of salary and other service benefits due, be granted to the appellants. We direct the State to comply with these directions within four weeks from today. We also direct that the appellants be allowed to commence work within the said period of four weeks."

11. Thus, there being no finding of fraud or misrepresentation at the end of the petitioner or the Manager of the Committee of Management under the order impugned, the earlier order of regularization cannot be said to have stood cancelled automatically and in such circumstances, therefore, the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education dated 19.03.2020 and the consequential order passed by the District Inspector of Schools dated 20.03.2020, are held to be bad for want of authority of law.

12. Besides the above, it is also worth noticing that the matter of legality of the appointment is sought to be inquired into in a seniority dispute. The law is well settled that in the matters of the seniority dispute, the legality and validity of an appointment neither can be questioned, nor can even be gone into, instead it is only to be seen as to who was appointed when and whether under the relevant regulations of the Intermediate Education Act 'A' is senior to 'B' or 'B' is senior to 'A'. Questioning the legality of appointment in the matter of seniority is going too far to adjudicate upon an issue which is never raised. A Full Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Asha Saxena Vs. S.K. Chaudhari and others reported in 1991(2) UPLBEC 1202 held that while deciding the matter of seniority even the power under Section 16E(10) ought not to have been exercised at a very belated stage. Referring to a judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Ram Sarup Vs. State of Haryana (AIR 1978 SC 1536), the Full Bench has observed thus:

"That the three teachers should be deemed to have been appointed from the date on which they would acquire qualifications for being promoted to the post of lecturers. At the very outset it may be mentioned that the earlier writ petition of Dr. Asha Saxena had been allowed inasmuch as complete material had not come before the Full Bench regarding the fact that Dr. Asha Saxena had filed objections immediately after her promotion which had been rejected and had become final. It has also not been brought to the notice of the Full bench that seniority list grade-wise was prepared every year after the incorporation of Chapter III in the year 1976. It may also be noted that Dr. Asha Saxena has not challenged the validity of the appointment and had only made a challenge to the seniority list. One fails to understand that after a lapse of nearly 17 years the Regional Inspectress of Girls Schools referred the matter to the Director of Education for adjudicating the question as to whether the appointments were valid or not. In our opinion, the exercise of power by the Regional Inspectress of Girls Schools on the facts and circumstances of the case is wholly arbitrary as that power could not be exercised after lapse of 17 years. The objections filed by Dr. Asha Saxena in the year 1986 which are contained in Annexure "3" to the writ petition are liable to be rejected inasmuch as the ground that she did not know the provision of Clause 3(1)(bb) in Chapter II was of no avail to her. The seniority lists were being prepared year after year after 1975-76 and the objection filed by Dr. Asha Saxena after the lapse of nearly 11 years was not liable to be entertained as has been held by the Supreme Court in the case of Malcom Lawrence Cecil D'Sousa (1975 L.I.C. 816) (supra). In any view of the matter, the appointments which were existing for the last 17 years could not be set aside after a lapse of such a long period. Even the earlier Full Bench had quashed the order of the Regional Inspectress of Girls Schools referring the matter under Section 16E(10) of the Act we are also of the opinion that the aforesaid order is liable to be quashed. It is true that there is power under Section 16E (10) of the Act to cancel the appointments but the power has to be exercised within a reasonable time. The appointments had been made in the year 1973 and by no stretch of imagination it can be said that the exercise of that power after the lapse of 17 year by the Director of Education under Section 16E(10), on the facts and circumstances of the case can be said to be exercise of a power within a reasonable time. In our opinion, the order of the Regional Inspector of Girls Schools referring the matter to the Director of Education under Section 16E(10) is thus liable to be quashed."

13. I have also gone through each paragraphs of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State-respondents and sworn by the District Inspector of Schools, Mau and I do not find there to be any pleadings qua fraud or misrepresentation committed by the petitioner or the Manager of the Committee of the Management. If any fraud was committed in the office of the District Inspector of Schools, it cannot be presumed that it was at the instance of the manager or the assistant teacher, the petitioner in this case. All these facts should have been brought to the notice of the Regional Joint Director of Education when the regularization of the petitioner's service was being considered. Having not done so, on mere apprehension or prima facie view, such impugned orders cannot be passed.

14. In view of the above writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned orders, passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education dated 19.03.2020 and the consequential order passed by the District Inspector of Schools dated 20.03.2020, are hereby quashed. No order as to cost.

(Para 9-13, 15)

Writ petition dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nipun Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sundeep Agarwal, learned counsel representing the plaintiff-respondent no. 3.

2. The learned Standing Counsel has accepted notice of the Writ Petition on behalf of the State-Respondents.

3. The instant Writ Petition at the instance of the Tenant/petitioner has been filed for quashing the order dated 11.03.2024 passed by the District Judge/Rent Tribunal, District Gautam Budh Nagar/Respondent no. 1, in Misc Case No. 58 of 2024 (Mayank Mittal Vs. Pooran Dev Adlakha (Deceased) and others) so far as it relates to the direction to deposit the pre-deposit 50% payable amount with the Rent Authority-Respondent no. 2 and file the receipt in the Appeal under Section 35 of the UP Act No. 16 of 2021 and only thereafter press the Appeal.

4. It is the case of the Writ Petitioner that he is a tenant of the Respondent no. 3. The Respondent no. 3 filed an Application u/s 21 (2) of the U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act 2021 (U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021) before the Rent Authority/Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue) District Gautam Budh Nagar seeking the eviction of the Petitioner as also for recovery of rent and damages. The application u/s 21 (2) registered as Case No. 72 of 2023 was allowed vide judgment and order dated 26.02.2024 by the Rent Authority directing eviction of the petitioner and further directing the petitioner to pay twice the rent of first two months after September, 2019 and thereafter to pay four times of rent and vacating the premises within 30 days.

5. The petitioner aggrieved by the judgment and order of the Rent Authority has preferred a Rent Appeal u/s 35 (1) of the U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021. Section 35 (1) of the U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021 contemplates pre-deposit of 50% of the entire payable amount under the impugned order of the Rent Authority, for the Appeal to be entertainable.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner submitted the Appeal to the Rent Tribunal along with a Draft of Rs. 16,64,000/- (being 50% of the total amount payable as ordered by the Rent Authority under the order dated 26.02.2024 impugned in the Appeal) but the Rent Tribunal did not accept the Draft and passed the order dated 11.03.2024 (impugned in the present Writ Petition) to deposit the amount before the Rent Authority and file the receipt of the deposit so made along with the Appeal. The Rent Tribunal has not entertained the Appeal and no number has been allotted to it but the case has been registered as Misc. Case No. 58 of 2024. The petitioner has been directed to press the Appeal only after making the deposit before the Rent Authority and has fixed the Appeal for 02.04.2024.

7. Sri Nipun Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the Rent Tribunal has committed manifest error of law in refusing to accept the pre-deposit of 50% of the amount directed to be paid by the Rent Authority. He submits that the amount being a precondition for maintainability of the Appeal was required to be accepted by the Rent Tribunal. He has invited the attention of this Court to the provisions of Section 35 (1) of the Act as also to Rule 12 of the U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Rules 2021 to demonstrate that there is no provision as to where the amount of pre-deposit would be payable. He also submits that the Form-9 under which the Appeal is to be preferred also does not mention where the pre-deposit is to be made. It is further contended that the Rent Authority under the order dated 26.02.2024 sought to be assailed in the Appeal preferred before the Rent Tribunal had directed eviction of the petitioner within 30 days. The Rent Tribunal has fixed the Case on 02.04.2024 without hearing the Appeal. The Rent Authority has become functus-officio after passing the order dated 26.02.2024. If the amount is not accepted by the Rent Authority the petitioner would be evicted even without his Appeal being heard and it would be travesty of justice. It is thus prayed that appropriate directions be issued by this Court to the Rent Tribunal to accept the Demand Draft bearing No. 460797 dated 07.03.2024 or in the alternative prepone the date fixed by the Rent Tribunal and direct the Respondent No. 2 i.e. the Rent Authority to accept the pre-deposit and issue the receipt thereof so as to enable the petitioner to press his Appeal.

8. Sri Sundeep Agarwal, learned counsel for the Respondent No. 3 as also the learned Standing Counsel have submitted that the petitioner ought to have carried out the direction under the impugned order. They however could not justify the directions contained in the impugned order.

9. I have heard the learned counsels for the parties and have perused the record. I have also gone through the provisions of the Act and the Rules framed thereunder. It is not in dispute that Section 35 (1) of the Act, Rule 12 of the Rules as also the Form-9 which is referable to Rule 12 (1) of the Rules is silent about before whom the pre-deposit of the 50% of the total payable amount as directed by the Rent Authority is to be made. However a perusal of the provisions of Section 35 (1) of the U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021 under which the Appeal is to be instituted the legislature in its wisdom has used the expression "no appeal shall lie" in the proviso to the section 35 (1). The relevant provision is being quoted herewith :

35. Appeal to Rent Tribunal- (1)

"Any person ☐ aggrieved by an order passed by the Rent Authority may prefer an appeal along with a certified copy of such order to the Rent Tribunal within the local limits of which the premises is situated, within a period of thirty days from the date of that order:

Provided that no appeal shall lie unless the appellant pre-deposits fifty percent of the entire payable amount under the impugned order of the Rent Authority."

10. In the opinion of the Court the inclusion of the expression "no appeal shall lie" necessarily means that the Appeal could not be conceived in the absence of a pre-deposit. Since the Appeal itself could not be conceived the Rent Tribunal has no role to play. This necessarily implies that the pre-deposit is required to be deposited with the Rent Authority whose order is sought to be appealed against.

11. In this view of the matter the impugned direction to make the deposit before the Rent Authority and file the receipt thereof along with the Memo of the Appeal cannot be faulted.

12. In the opinion of the Court, there is one other aspect of the matter. The Court on the perusal of the Rule 6 of the U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Rules 2021 finds that the Rule provides a elaborate mechanism for accepting deposit of Rent and other charges referable to Section 14 of the Act, 2021. Sub Rule 2 of Rule 6 provides that such deposits can be made by postal money order or on account payee Cheque or by any digital mode in the name of the Rent Authority, which amount is to be deposited by the Rent Authority in a Saving Bank account opened by it in any of the Nationalized Bank with due approval of the Collector of the District and the Rent Authority has been made solely responsible for the proper and safe maintenance of such account and the transactions therein. In the opinion of the Court, the said mechanism can very well be utilized for the purposes of accepting the pre-deposits for maintaining appeals before the Rent Tribunal.

13. In view of the above the Court finds no illegality or irregularity in the impugned order dated 11.03.2024 directing the pre-deposit of 50% payable amount with the Rent Authority/Respondent No. 2 and file receipt in the Appeal u/s 35 of the Act 2021 and only thereafter press the Appeal warranting interference of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

14. The Writ Petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

15. However the Court finds that the Rent Tribunal has fixed 02.04.2024 as the date fixed for consideration of the Appeal which falls beyond 30 days of the order of the Rent Authority and there is every likelihood of the order of the Rent Authority being executed, under Section 36, even before the Appeal is heard. In such circumstances the petitioner is granted liberty to make the pre-deposit of 50% of the total amount payable by the Demand Draft No. 460797 dated 07.03.2024 obtain the receipt thereof and file an application seeking to prepone the date fixed by filing an appropriate application in that regard. In the eventuality of such an application being made the learned District Judge/Rent Tribunal Gautam Budh Nagar shall prepone the date and proceed to entertain and hear the Appeal on merits.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

(1) Heard Mr. Shivam Sharma, learned Counsel representing the the petitioner and Mr. Deepanshu Dass, learned Counsel representing the Union of India/respondents.

(2) The present writ petition came to be filed by the petitioner in the year 1998 i.e. about 26 years ago, impugning order dated 3/4.12.1996 (Annexure No.1), 01.08.1997 (Annexure No.2) and 24.06.1998 (Annexure No. 3) and thereby seeking his re-instatement in service with all consequential benefits.

(3) Briefly stating, the petitioner was appointed on the post of Constable in CISF on 12.04.1987 and after training, he was posted at CISF KCC Khetri, Rajasthan and subsequently he was transferred to PGUTPP, Uchahar Unit of CISF in the year 1991 and thereafter to Rae Bareli unit of CISF on 10.08.1994. It has been claimed that the petitioner was thereafter sent in election duty in the month of April, 1996, wherein a memorandum dated 09.06.1996 came to be issued to him. The said memorandum inter-alia alleged that on 07.06.1996 between 21.00 Hours to 5.00 Hours, the petitioner's duty was assigned at Quarter Guard and apparently, in the midnight, the Company Hawaldar Major checked the Quarter Guard as usual at about 2:00 hours, wherein the petitioner was found to be absent from the place of duty and he was found sleeping with rifle on his side in his room No. 22 and, as such, on the instance of Surendra Rai and Suraj Mani, the petitioner was woken from his sleep and sought an explanation. However, the petitioner failed to give any reply and instead went back on his duty. It is stated that the petitioner, after the service of the aforesaid memorandum, gave his written explanation on 09.06.1996.

(4) However, in the interregnum, the petitioner was placed under suspension and was also served with a charge-sheet on 23.06.1996 levelling charges on four counts. The 1st being, he was found sleeping on duty, which amounted to dereliction of duty; the 2nd being hurling abuses on colleagues and threatening them on 10.06.1996 at about 2:30 hours, which again amounted to violation of rules and amounted to serious indiscipline; the 3rd being his absence from the assigned duty at the Hon'ble High Court of Allahabad on 12.05.1996, amounting to dereliction of duty; and the 4th charge being absence from roll-call parade on 12.05.1996 amounting to defiance of orders of higher authorities.

(5) The petitioner appears to have given explanation to all the four charges. However, it seems thereafter, one Mr. I.P Singh, Inspector was appointed as Inquiry Officer on 20.07.1996. Apparently, the petitioner represented before his higher authority for change the said Inquiry officer, terming him to be an interested person, which, however, came to be rejected on 20.08.1996. The petitioner alleged bias against the inquiry officer on the ground that some earlier allegations levelled against the petitioner by the same said inquiry officer was found to be wrong and he was also exonerated from the said charges on the said earlier occasion. Thus, the petitioner alleging the inquiry officer to be biased sent several representations to his higher officers but without any success.

(6) Records further reveal that after the aforesaid failure to change the inquiry officer, the petitioner went on to participate in the said enquiry proceedings and the department produced several witnesses, including PW-1(Surajmani), PW-2(Surendra Rai), Pw-4 (Subhas Ram), PW-5 (Chottey Rai), PW-6 (J.K. Hambram), PW-7 (L.D Joshi), who all were cross-examined by the petitioner. Thereafter, the statement of the petitioner was recorded on 08.09.1998 and subsequently a copy of the inquiry report was supplied to the petitioner on 12.10.1998, giving him opportunity to give his explanation against the said report.

(7) It appears that the petitioner gave a representation against the said inquiry report on 02.11.1996. However, it seems that the said explanation did not find favour with the competent authority and, as such, the petitioner was punished by removal from his service vide order dated 04.12.1996. Against the said order of removal from service, an appeal came to be filed by the petitioner, which was also rejected by the appellate authority vide order dated 01.08.1997. Against the said appellate order, the petitioner preferred a revision, which was also rejected vide order dated 24.06.1998.

(8) The learned Counsel for the petitioner challenging all these three impugned orders has taken several grounds in the present petition, including (i) non-application of mind by the punishing authority, (ii) inquiry officer being biased, (iii) inquiry being conducted without following the principles of natural justice, (iv) the apparent prejudice of the inquiry officer Shri I.P. Singh, (v) non-consideration of his several representation for change in inquiry officer, (vi) refusal to supply documents during inquiry, (vii) inquiry not having been conducted in a fair manner, (viii) absence of any presenting officer during the departmental inquiry, (ix) recording of the statement being not proper, (x) non-consideration of the repetition of the petitioner by the punishing authority, (xi) order of removal being too excessive and not being commensurate with the gravity of charges levelled against him, (xii) Rejection of appeal in a mechanical manner, etc.

(9) During the course of hearing, a legal objection of lack of jurisdiction of the Deputy Commandant in terms of Rule 34 of the Central Industrial Security Rules, 1969 to appoint inquiry officer had been pointed out by the petitioner by referring to CISF Circular No.9/78, however, the same was opposed by the learned counsel for the respondents on the ground that no such ground or pleading has been taken in the writ petition. However, this Court vide an order dated 08.12.2021 permitted the petitioner to amend the writ petition.

(10) Further, the learned Counsel for the petitioner referring to a letter dated 03.08.1998 of the CISF has submitted that since the revisional powers under the CISF Act, 1968 has been conferred to Central Government only under Section 9(3) of the CISF Act, 1968 and not to DG/CISF, the said powers cannot be delegated to the DG/CISF. He has pointed out to the contents of the said letter, wherein it has been suggested that an amendment be made in the CISF Act, 1968 to bring in conformity with the provisions of Rule 49 of the CISF Rules, 1969, thereby giving revisional powers to DG/CISF. According to the learned Counsel, since the revision filed by the petitioner has not been considered/dismissed by the Central Government, the said impugned dismissal is without any authority and the same is liable to be set-aside.

(11) Per contra, the learned Counsel for the respondent has contended that the petitioner was on election duty when the various acts of misconduct were committed by him and at that point of time, Shri S.H. Ansari, Dy. Commandment of CISF, TSL Naini was his overall in-charge. Further, it has been stated that as far as circular No. 9/78, wherein it has been observed that “Disciplinary Authority” used in sub Rule (4) of Rule 34 of the CISF Rules, 1969 would only imply, the appointing authority is concerned, besides the point that the petitioner had not taken the said ground before the Appellate authority, revisional authority or the present writ petition, the explanation to Rule 34(2) clearly stated that the term “Disciplinary Authority” shall include the authority competent under the said rules to impose upon the member of the Force any of the penalties specified in clause (e) to (h) of Rule 31. According to him, the Disciplinary authority is the Dy. Commandant, who is also well competent to issue charge-sheet and as such appoint Inquiry officer within the meaning of sub-rule 1(4) of Rule 34 of CISF Rules, 1969. As regards the Circular dated 03.08.1998, it has been contended by the learned Counsel for the respondents that no doubt, the revisional powers under CISF Act had been conferred on Central Government only under Section 9(3) of the CISF Act, 1968 and not DG, CISF, however, the said stands amended with retrospective effect in the CISF Act, 1968 vide amendment act namely “the CISF (Amendment and validation) Act, 1999 dated 29.12.1999 vide section 6 read with section 10 of the said Act of 1999.

(12) As far as the merits of the present writ petition is concerned, it has been contended that the petitioner has been subjected to a fair trial, which he has participated and the punishment inflicted was commensurate to the various allegations levelled against him, which were found to be true. It has been submitted that there was no irregularity in appointment of Inquiry Officer, all the documents have been duly supplied to the petitioner as is apparent from the records itself and there is no bias in the inquiry held by the inquiry officer. It has been further contended that mere allegations of irregularity in disciplinary proceeding, is not sufficient and the petitioner has failed to show as to how prejudice is caused to him and all those pleas which have not been taken by the petitioner may be deemed to have been taken and rejected. It was also submitted that the punishment should not be ordinarily interfered by this Court as has been held in several Judgments passed by this Court as well as the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Thus, he has submitted for rejection of the present writ petition as being without merits.

(13) Having heard the submissions of the parties, this Court is of the view that the present petition seeking quashing of the dismissal order as well as the order in appeal and revision has been challenged by the petitioner primarily for two reasons. The first being that the petitioner has sent representations to the higher authorities for change in the inquiry officer on the ground that he is biased, however, the same was not allowed and second that opportunity to defend was not adequately provided to the petitioner as document were not supplied to him. Further a ground, although not taken in the writ petition but subsequently amendment by the petitioner is relating to the implication of Rule 34(4) of the extant rules, which provides that the appointing authority is the only competent authority to appoint an inquiry officer for a departmental proceeding.

(14) Although, this Court is premised to examine the various grounds agitated by the petitioner for preferring the present writ petition, however this Court is reminded of the limited jurisdiction in entertaining this kind of petition as has been laid down by a larger bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of B.C. Chaturvedi Vs. Union of India and others: (1995) 6 SCC 749, wherein a three Judge Bench of the Apex Court held in paragraph-12 as under :-

"Judicial review is not an appeal from a decision but a review of the manner in which the decision is made. Power of judicial review is meant to ensure that the individual receives fair treatment and not to ensure that the conclusion which the authority reaches is necessarily correct in the eye of the Court. When an inquiry is conducted on charges of misconduct by a public servant, the Court/Tribunal is concerned to determine whether the inquiry was held by a competent officer or whether rules of natural justice are complied with. Whether the findings or conclusions are based on some evidence, the authority entrusted with the power to hold inquiry has jurisdiction, power and authority to reach a finding of fact or conclusion. But that finding must be based on some evidence. Neither the technical rules of Evidence Act nor of proof fact or evidence as defined therein, apply to disciplinary proceeding. When the authority accepts that evidence and conclusion receives support therefrom, the disciplinary authority is entitled to hold that the delinquent officer is guilty of the charge. The Court/Tribunal in its power of judicial review does not act as appellate authority to re- appreciate the evidence and to arrive at its own independent findings on the evidence. The Court/Tribunal may interfere where the authority held that the proceedings against the delinquent officer in a manner inconsistent with the rules of natural justice or in violation of statutory rules prescribing the mode of inquiry or where the conclusion or finding reached by the disciplinary authority is based on no evidence. If the conclusion or finding be such as no reasonable person would have ever reached, the Court/Tribunal may interfere with the conclusion or the finding, and mould the relief so as to make it appropriate to the facts of each case."

(15) Keeping in view the judicial limitation as propounded by the Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court finds that the present writ petition has a chequered history of being pending since the last more than twenty-six years. A close scrutiny would reveal that this writ petition was dismissed for non-prosecution on at least 5 different occasions on 06.02.2009, 05.03.2009, 10.03.2010, 13.12.2013 and 09.03.2018. Apparently one of the reasons for pendency of this writ petitions for such a long year is due to lack of diligence in pursuing the present writ petition by the petitioner. However, the delay in pendency of this writ petition would not hold back this Court in adjudicating the present writ petition on its own merits, keeping in view the grounds agitated by the contesting parties.

(16) As far as the ground agitated by the petitioner relating to implication of Rule 34(4) of the 1969 Rules, to contend that the appointing authority is only competent to appoint the enquiry officer, this court finds that Rule 29-A of the CISF Rules, 1969, inter-alia states that

“The disciplinary authority in respect of a member of the Force for the purpose of imposing any particular penalty or the passing of any disciplinary order shall be the authority specified in this behalf in Schedule II under whose administrative control of the member is serving and shall include any authority mentioned in the said schedule superior to such authority”.

(17) Apparently, the petitioner was posted as a Constable under the supervision and authority of unit head i.e the Deputy Commandant and was in election duty and as such as per rule 29A read with Schedule II of the Rules, the Dy. Commandant being the unit head and within whose administrative control the petitioner was serving, was the competent disciplinary authority. Further, Rule 7A of the extant rules prescribes the duties of a Deputy Commandant as follows:

“7-A. Duties of Deputy Commandant – (1) The Deputy Commandant shall assist the Commandant in the discharge of his duties; and where he is placed as head of the unit, he shall discharge all the duties of a Commandant and shall exercise only those financial powers that are delegated to him under the relevant rules.

(2) The Deputy Commandant shall be responsible for the efficiency, discipline, and morale of the personnel under him and shall also be responsible for the security of the undertaking or its part entrusted to him.”

(18) This Court finds that the use of the word ‘discipline’ in rule 7A sub-rule (2) sufficiently indicate that the Deputy Commandant is responsible for the discipline of the personnel under him and since he is responsible for the discipline for the said personnel as a corollary, he is also competent to take such measures as may be prescribed by law to ensure that the discipline is enforced. Thus, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the Deputy Commandant in view of the provisions of Rule 7-A read with rule 29A of the Rules, 1969, was the sole person responsible for the discipline of those under him including the petitioner and as being the head of the unit concerned is the appropriate Disciplinary Authority and is to exercise all the powers and duties of Commandant except such financial powers as are not delegated to him.

(19) Additionally, this Court cannot be oblivious to the fact that the petitioner has not raised this objection as to procedural irregularity either during the inquiry or during the appeal or during the statutory revision preferred by him. Even before this Court, the aforesaid ground has been sought to be introduced by way of amendment after 22/23 years of filing of the present writ petition. In any case, there are two ways in which the contravention of rules in appointment of the inquiry officer may be flagged by the delinquent officer, the first being during the inquiry itself and the second being after the inquiry, provided that the delinquent officer is able to show as to how the said appointment has caused prejudice to his rights. Admittedly, the petitioner in the present case during the inquiry did not flag the irregularities in appointment of the inquiry officer and at the later stage, although a ground had been taken after 22/23 years of filing of the present writ petition, however there is absolutely no ground nor any iota of mention as to how the same has caused prejudice to the petitioner. Further, this Court finds that the petitioner has not only participated in the proceedings but has also cross-examined almost seven departmental witnesses and relied on several documents during the departmental proceedings. There had been no report of biasness by the petitioner during the said proceedings.

(20) It would be appropriate at this stage, to quote few paragraphs from the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court, which are relevant to the present context. The Apex Court in the case of H.V. Nirmala vs Karnataka State Financial Corporation and Ors. : (2008) 7 SCC 639 observed as follows :-

10. Appellant did not raise any objection in regard to the appointment of the Enquiry Officer. He participated in the enquiry proceeding without any demur whatsoever. A large number of witnesses were examined before the Enquiry Officer. They were cross-examined. Appellant examined witnesses on her own behalf. Learned Single Judge as also the Division Bench of the High Court opined that the appellant has failed to establish that any prejudice has been caused to her by reason of appointment of a Legal Advisor as an Enquiry Officer and as the appellant has participated in the enquiry proceeding, she could not be permitted to raise the said contention.

11. Mr. Patil, however, would submit that such a contention which goes to the root of jurisdiction can be urged at any stage. We do not agree. Appointment of an incompetent enquiry officer may not vitiate the entire proceeding. Such a right can be waived. In relation thereto even the principle of Estoppel and Acquiescence would apply.

12. In State Bank of India vs. Ram Das: (2003) 12 SCC 474 this Court held (SCC P.484, Para 27) :

"It is an established view of law that where a party despite knowledge of the defect in the jurisdiction or bias or malice of an arbitrator participated in the proceedings without any kind of objection, by his conduct it disentitles itself from raising such a question in the subsequent proceedings. What we find is that the appellant despite numerous opportunities made available to it, although it was aware of the defect in the award of the umpire, at no stage made out any case of bias against the umpire. We, therefore, find that the appellant cannot be permitted to raise the question of bias for the first time before this Court."

(21) That the next ground agitated by the petitioner was regarding the bias in the whole process of inquiry by the inquiry officer. The petitioner has contended that the inquiry officer Shri I.P. Singh was biased as he had already called explanation of the petitioner while he was posted as Company Commander on 24.03.1996, to the effect that he was absent from P.T. parade and the petitioner was directed to submit reply within 24 hours failing which disciplinary proceedings were to be initiated against him and on the basis of explanation called by Shri I.P. Singh proceedings were initiated, which eventually came to be dropped and he was exonerated. Thus, it has been contended by Shri I.P. Singh, Inspector that since he was appointed as inquiry Officer to inquire into the charges framed against the petitioner within the meaning of sub-rule 1(4) of Rule 34 of CISF Rules, 1969, he was bound to be biased because of the earlier proceedings.

(22) This Court has already held that the appointment of inquiry officer in the case of petitioner was in accordance with the provisions of Rules governing disciplinary proceedings. Further, from records of the present case, it is available that the petitioner has replied in negative regarding any objection to the appointment of inquiry officer Shri I.P. Singh during the inquiry proceedings. This Court also finds that the inquiry officer Shri I.P. Singh has no administrative control over the petitioner. Furthermore, Shri I.P. Singh was neither a prosecution witness nor a defence witness and in no way was related to the inquiry proceedings.

(23) The well-established canons controlling the field of bias in service jurisprudence can reasonably be extended to the element of prejudice as well in such matters. Prejudice de facto should not be based on a mere apprehension or even on a reasonable suspicion. It is important that the element of prejudice should exist as a matter of fact or there should be such definite inference of likelihood of prejudice flowing from such default, which relates to statutory violations. It will not be permissible to set aside the departmental inquiries in any of these classes merely on the basis of apprehended prejudice. In the present case, no instances of proved bias have been pleaded by the petitioner in the present writ petition or shown from the records of the present case. Thus, this Court finds no basis for any bias or prejudice in the appointment of the inquiry officer Shri I.P. Singh in the inquiry proceedings.

(24) The next ground taken by the petitioner is relating to not having been provided with reasonable opportunity to defend his case in the departmental proceedings on the ground that all the documents have not been supplied to him. This Court finds that it would be profitable to quote a very celebrated judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court on the aspect of providing reasonable opportunity to a delinquent officer in a departmental proceeding. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case reported as Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad Vs. B. Karunakar : (1993) 4 SCC 727 held that the theory of reasonable opportunity and the principles of natural justice have been evolved to uphold the rule of law and to assist the individual to vindicate his just rights. They are neither incantation to be invoked nor rites to be performed on all and sundry occasions. Whether, in fact, prejudice has been caused to the employee or not on account of denial of report to him, has to be considered on the facts and circumstances of each case. The Apex Court has clarified even the stage to which the departmental proceedings ought to be reverted in the event the order of punishment is set aside for these reasons.

(25) Further, it will be useful to refer to the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Haryana Financial Corporation v. Kailash Chandra Ahuja : 2008 (9) SCC 31 at page 38 where the Court held as under :-

"From the ratio laid down in B. Karunakar it is explicitly clear that the doctrine of natural justice requires supply of a copy of the inquiry officer's report to the delinquent if such inquiry officer is other than the disciplinary authority. It is also clear that non- supply of report of the inquiry officer is in the breach of natural justice. But it is equally clear that failure to supply a report of the inquiry officer to the delinquent employee would not ipso facto result in the proceedings being declared null and void and the order of punishment non-est and ineffective. It is for the delinquent employee to plead and prove that non- supply of such report had caused prejudice and resulted in miscarriage of justice. If he is unable to satisfy the court on that point, the order of punishment cannot automatically be set aside."

(26) Further, there is another aspect of the matter. The petitioner by merely putting allegations of irregularity in disciplinary proceedings cannot escape his responsibility to show that prejudice has been caused to him by the same. In the case of Burdwan Central Cooperative Bank Limited & Anr. Vs. Asim Chatterjee & Ors., (2012) 2 SCC 641, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that

"However, there is one aspect of the matter which cannot be ignored. In B.

Karunakar's case (supra), despite holding that non-supply of a copy of the report of the Inquiry Officer to the employee facing a disciplinary proceeding, amounts to denial of natural justice, in the later part of the judgment it was observed that whether in fact, prejudice has been caused to the employee on account of non-furnishing of a copy of the inquiry report has to be considered in the facts of each case. It was observed that where the furnishing of the inquiry report would not make any difference to the ultimate outcome of the matter, it would be a perversion of justice to allow the concerned employee to resume his duties and to get all consequential benefits. It was also observed that in the event the Inquiry Officer's report had not been furnished to the employee in the disciplinary proceedings, a copy of the same should be made available to him to enable him to explain as to what prejudice had been caused to him on account of non-supply of the report. It was held that the order of punishment should not be set aside mechanically on the ground that the copy of the inquiry report had not been supplied to the employee. This is, in fact, a case where the order of punishment had been passed against the Respondent No.1 on allegations of financial irregularity. Such an allegation would require serious consideration as to whether the services of an employee against whom such allegations have been raised should be retained in the service of the Bank. Since a Bank act in a fiduciary capacity in regard to people's investments, the very legitimacy of the banking system depends on the complete integrity of its employees. As indicated hereinbefore, there is a live-link between the Respondent No.1's performance as an employee of the Samity, which was affiliated to the Bank, and if the Bank was of the view that his services could not be retained on account of his previous mis-demeanour, it is then that the second part of B. Karunakar's case (supra) becomes attracted and it becomes necessary for the court to examine whether any prejudice has been caused to the employee or not before punishment is awarded to him. It is not as if the Bank with an ulterior motive or a hidden agenda dismissed the Respondent No.1 from service, in fact, he was selected and appointed in the Appellant-Bank on account of his merit and performance at the time of interview. It cannot be said that the Bank harboured any ill-feeling towards the Respondent No.1 which ultimately resulted in the order of dismissal passed on 8th May, 2010. We, therefore, repeat that since no prejudice has been caused to the Respondent No.1 by the non-supply of the Inquiry Officer's report, the said Respondent had little scope to contend that the disciplinary proceedings had been vitiated on account of such non-supply."

(27) Having traced the law on the issue, it would be apt to record that it is an admitted fact as stated in para 9 of the Counter Affidavit that the petitioner was supplied all documents requested by him vide his application dated 20.08.1996, and the same is also evident from the petitioner's own receiving in his own hand-writing dated 21.08.1996 on his said application. Furthermore, the petitioner during the inquiry has admitted that he had received all documents sought by him and as is apparent from para 19 of the counter affidavit that the delinquent petitioner was also allowed inspection of all records. The Apex Court in the case of Debotosh Pal Choudhary Vs Punjab National Bank & Ors. : (2002) 8 SCC 68, inter-alia held

"5. The petitioner had been given documents for inspection as per the list given by the Presenting Officer and he made a statement on 18.7.1988 that he had verified all the documents and papers and inspected the documents as per the list given in the letter dated 24.5.1988. The Inquiring Authority allowed the petitioner to file a list of documents and as sought for by his letter dated 24.5.1988, the request for inspection or copies was also allowed. It is thereafter the Enquiry Officer has relied upon the documents produced by the Presenting Officer and adverted to various documents produced by the petitioner as well. Therefore, the contention of the petitioner that he did not have reasonable opportunity to inspect the documents is incorrect."

(28) Additionally, in the present writ petition, the petitioner was not able to point out as to which document was not provided to him in the department proceedings. The contention of the petitioner relating to non-supply of documents, in the absence of any specific enumeration, is devoid of merits and as such the present ground of the petitioner fails.

(29) Admittedly, the petitioner was a member of disciplined armed force, namely, Central Industrial Security Force but had acted in a most reprehensible manner, which is unexpected from a member of disciplined force. If the character of a cop is found to be unsatisfactory, it would be perilous in public interest to allow him continue in public service. Recently, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ex Sepoy Madan Prasad Vs Union of India and Others [2023 Livelaw (SC) 580] has held that discipline is the implicit hallmark of armed forces and a non-negotiable conditions of service.

(30) Having regard to the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, what this Court find is that learned counsel for the petitioner has failed to point out any illegality, perversity or ambiguity in the orders under challenge so as to warrant the indulgence of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

(31) In view of the aforesaid, this Court do not find any justifiable ground to exercise extraordinary jurisdiction to interfere with the orders impugned and as such, the present writ petition, being devoid of merits, is dismissed.

(32) However, in the facts of the present case, there shall be no order as to costs.

9. Prem Singh Vs St. of U.P.; (2019) 10 SCC 516

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Saharsh Shrivastav, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondents no. 1 and 2.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed praying for the following main relief(s):

"(i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 19.05.2022 passed by opp-party no.2 with all consequential benefits, as is contained in annexure no. 1 respectively to this writ petition.

(ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to provide the regular pay scale of class IV post with yearly increments on the period of 22.07.1990 to 25.02.2002, with all other consequential benefits of service, within time as directed by this Hon'ble Court.

(iii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to refix the salary and post retirement benefits and pension of petitioner after providing regular pay scale of class IV post with yearly increments on the period of 22.07.1990 to 25.02.2002, within time as directed by this Hon'ble Court.

(iv) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to grant and pay all retirement benefit of petitioner after counting his entire services for the purpose of qualifying service for retirement benefit."

3. The case set forth by the petitioner is that the petitioner had been appointed on daily wage basis on 22.07.1990 under the respondents. As the petitioner was not being paid the minimum pay scale he was constrained to approach this Court by filing

Writ A No. 2023 of 1997 in re: Chhavi Ram vs State of U.P. and others praying for following reliefs:

"(i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to give regular scale of pay to the petitioner that is Rs.750-940 which is being given to the other counter-parts of the petitioner;

(ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to regularise the services of the petitioner from the date of initial appointment that is 22.07.1990 in Class IV establishment and further.

4. During pendency of the aforesaid writ petition the service of the petitioner was regularised vide order dated 25.02.2002, a copy of which is annexure 2 to the petition. The petitioner was regularised on a class IV post in the pay scale of Rs 2550-55-2660-60-3200. The petitioner also retired on attaining the age of superannuation on 31.07.2021. Subsequent to his retirement, the writ petition filed by the petitioner has been decided vide judgement and order dated 12.04.2022, a copy of which is annexure 3 to the petition, whereby the writ court has permitted to the petitioner to file a fresh representation to the respondent no. 2 with respect of his grievance and the respondent no. 2 was directed to consider the same and pass a reasoned and speaking order. In pursuance thereof the claim of the petitioner for grant of minimum pay scale and increments has been rejected primarily on the ground that the petitioner has been regularized vide the order dated 25.02.2002 and other persons who have been granted a minimum pay scale have been granted the same in pursuance to the order passed by the writ court.

5. Raising a challenge to the said order the instant writ petition has been filed with the reliefs as aforesaid.

6. The argument of learned counsel for the petitioner is that grant of minimum pay scale to daily wagers is no longer res-integra having been settled by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sabha Shanker Dube vs Divisional Forest Officer and others, 2019 (12) SCC 297 wherein Hon'ble Apex Court, after considering various other judgements, has held that temporary employees are entitled to draw wages at minimum of pay scales which are applicable to regular employees holding the said post. The contention is that when the petitioner was appointed on daily wages basis way back in the year 1990 and staked his claim for being given minimum pay scale in the year 1997 as such the petitioner is entitled for being given the minimum of pay scale of a class IV post with effect from the date of appointment till his regularization on 25.02.2002 with all attendant benefits including yearly increments.

7. With regard to claim for grant of yearly increments reliance has been placed on a judgement of this Court in the case of Gyan Prakash Srivastava and others vs State of U.P. and others passed in Writ Petition No. 5923 (SS) of 1996 decided on 18.10.2016, a copy of which is annexure 7 to the petition which judgement has held that daily wagers who have been given a regular pay scale would be entitled to annual increment.

8. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel on the basis of averments contained in the counter affidavit argues that as the petitioner already stands regularised in service on 25.02.2002 and now stands retired on 31.07.2021 consequently there cannot be any occasion for grant of minimum pay scale to the petitioner.

9. So far as grant of increments to petitioner is concerned on the basis of judgement of this Court in the case of Gyan Prakash Srivastava (supra), reliance has been placed on judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court passed in the case of State of U.P. & others vs Puttilal, 2006 (9) SCC 337 to contend that Hon'ble Apex Court has held that grant of minimum pay scale to a daily wager would not entail grant of any increment or any other allowance and thus the petitioner is not entitled for any increment on payment of minimum pay scale or other allowances.

10. Heard learned counsels for the parties and perused the records.

11. From perusal of record it emerges that the petitioner was initially appointed on daily wages in July 1990. As he was not being paid the minimum of pay scale, he staked his claim for being given minimum pay scale by filing Writ A No. 2023 of 1997 praying for being granted the regular scale of pay of Rs 750-940 and to regularise his services. During pendency of writ petition the service of the petitioner was regularised on 25.02.2002. The petitioner has retired from service on attaining the age of superannuation on 31.07.2021. Subsequent to the petitioners regularisation and retirement from service, the writ petition filed by the petitioner for grant of minimum pay scale has been decided vide the judgement and order dated 12.04.2022 leaving it open to the petitioner to submit a representation and the respondents were required to decide the said representation in accordance with law. The said representation and the claim of the petitioner for grant of minimum pay scale has been rejected vide the order impugned dated 19.05.2022 primarily on the ground that as the petitioner now stands regularised on 25.02.2002 as such he would not be entitled for grant of minimum pay scale apart from the fact that various other persons who have been granted minimum of pay scale have been granted the same in pursuance to the order of this Court.

12. The grant of minimum pay scale to a person working on daily wage basis is no longer res-integra having been settled by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sabha Shanker Dube (supra) wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"9. The daily-wagers relied upon a judgment of this Court in Putti Lal [State of U.P. v. Putti Lal, (2006) 9 SCC 337 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1819] and submitted that the same relief may be extended to them. It is relevant to note that the judgment in Putti Lal [State of U.P. v. Putti Lal, (2006) 9 SCC 337 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1819] relates to a dispute similar to that involved in this case. Daily-rated wage earners in the Forest Department in the State of Uttar Pradesh approached the High Court for regularisation of their services. The Division Bench of the High Court of Allahabad directed the State Government to constitute the Committee as directed in order to frame the scheme for regularisation. The judgment of the High Court that the daily-rated wage workers shall be paid at the minimum of the pay scales was affirmed by this Court on the principle of equal pay for equal work. The Division Bench of the High Court while deciding State of U.P. v. Chhiddi [State of U.P. v. Chhiddi, 2015 SCC OnLine All 9087 : (2016) 1 All LJ 226] referred to the judgment in Putti Lal [State of U.P. v. Putti Lal, (2006) 9 SCC 337 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1819] but placed reliance on a later judgment of this Court in Tilak Raj [State of Haryana v. Tilak Raj, (2003) 6 SCC 123 : 2003 SCC (L&S) 828] . The Division Bench of the High Court also cited Surjit Singh [State of Punjab v. Surjit Singh, (2009) 9 SCC 514 : (2009) 2 SCC (L&S) 696] to hold that the daily-wagers cannot seek the benefit of the judgment of Putti Lal case [State of U.P. v. Putti Lal, (2006) 9 SCC 337 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1819] in view of the subsequent decisions of this Court wherein, according to the High Court, it was held that daily-wage employees were not entitled to the minimum of the pay scales.

10. On a comprehensive consideration of the entire law on the subject of parity of pay scales on the principle of equal pay for equal work, this Court in Jagjit Singh [State of Punjab v. Jagjit Singh, (2017) 1 SCC 148 : (2017) 1 SCC (L&S) 1] held as follows: (SCC p. 223, para 58)

*"58. In our considered view, it is fallacious to determine artificial parameters to deny fruits of labour. An employee engaged for the same work cannot be paid less than another who performs the same duties and responsibilities. Certainly not, in a welfare State. Such an action besides being demeaning, strikes at the very foundation of human dignity. Anyone, who is compelled to work at a lesser wage does not do so voluntarily. He does so to provide food and shelter to his family, at the cost of his self-respect and dignity, at the cost of his self-worth, and at the cost of his integrity. For he knows that his dependants would suffer immensely, if he does not accept the lesser wage. Any act of paying less wages as compared to others similarly situate constitutes an act of exploitative enslavement, emerging out of a domineering position. Undoubtedly, the action is oppressive, suppressive and coercive, as it compels involuntary subjugation."

11. The issue that was considered by this Court in Jagjit Singh [State of Punjab v. Jagjit Singh, (2017) 1 SCC 148 : (2017) 1 SCC (L&S) 1] is whether temporary employees (daily-wage employees, ad hoc appointees, employees appointed on casual basis, contractual employees and likewise) are entitled to the minimum of the regular pay scales on account of their performing the same duties which are discharged by those engaged on regular basis against the sanctioned posts. After considering several judgments including the judgments of this Court in Tilak Raj [State of Haryana v. Tilak Raj, (2003) 6 SCC 123 : 2003 SCC (L&S) 828] and Surjit Singh [State of Punjab v. Surjit Singh, (2009) 9 SCC 514 : (2009) 2 SCC (L&S) 696], this Court held that temporary employees are entitled to draw wages at the minimum of the pay scales which are applicable to the regular employees holding the same post.

12 In view of the judgment in Jagjit Singh [State of Punjab v. Jagjit Singh, (2017) 1 SCC 148 : (2017) 1 SCC (L&S) 1], we are unable to uphold the view of the High Court that the appellants herein are not entitled to be paid the minimum of the pay scales. We are not called upon to adjudicate on the rights of the appellants relating to the regularisation of their services. We are concerned only with the principle laid down by this Court initially in Putti Lal [State of U.P. v. Putti Lal, (2006) 9 SCC 337 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1819] relating to persons who are similarly situated to the appellants and later affirmed in Jagjit Singh [State of Punjab v. Jagjit Singh, (2017) 1 SCC 148 : (2017) 1 SCC (L&S) 1] that temporary employees are entitled to minimum of the pay scales as long as they continue in service.

14. For the aforementioned reasons, we allow these appeals and set aside the judgments of the High Court holding that the appellants are entitled to be paid the minimum of the pay scales applicable to regular employees working on the same posts. The State of Uttar Pradesh is directed to make payment of the minimum of pay scales to the appellants with effect from 1-12-2018."

(emphasis by the Court)

13. From a perusal of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sabha Shanker Dube (supra) it emerges that Hon'ble Apex Court after considering its earlier judgements in the case of Tilak Raj (supra) and Jagjit Singh (supra) has held that temporary employees are entitled to minimum of pay scales which are applicable to regular employees holding the same post. Once admittedly the petitioner was working as a temporary employee / daily wager right since the year 1990 and he staked his claim for being granted the minimum pay scale in the year 1997 and Hon'ble Apex Court has also held that a temporary employee would be entitled to draw wages at minimum of pay scales which are applicable to the regular employees holding the same post consequently, there cannot be any occasion for non grant of minimum pay scale to the petitioner as are applicable to regular employees holding the same post and accordingly the petitioner is entitled for grant of minimum of pay scale for a period from three years prior to filing of writ petition in the year 1997 i.e. since the year 1994 with arrears of pay till his regularisation on 25.02.2002.

14. So far as the relief of grant of increments is concerned, the sheet anchor of the claim of the petitioner is the judgement of this Court in the case of Gyan Prakash Srivastava (supra) wherein this Court has held as under:

"Since petitioners had been appointed in the years 1982, 1983 and 1984 as Junior Clerk on daily wage basis against the sanctioned post of Junior Clerks and their services have been regularized and they have been given pay scale of regular Junior Clerk from the date of their initial appointment, there appears no reason not to provide annual increments to them from the date of their initial appointment. The stand taken by the opposite parties for not providing annual increments to petitioners from the date of initial appointments being not in accordance with law, rather being without any basis and justification, the order dated 15th may 1996 of the State Government denying annual increments to petitioners from the date of their initial appointment is not sustainable in the eyes of law. The order is, therefore, quashed and opposite parties are directed to provide annual increments to petitioners from the date of their initial appointment within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order."

15. However Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Puttilal (supra) has held as under: paragraph 5 dalna hai

"5. In several cases, this Court, applying the principle of equal pay for equal work has held that a daily-wager, if he is discharging the similar duties as those in the regular employment of the Government, should at least be entitled to receive the minimum of the pay-scale though he might not be entitled to any increment or any other allowance that is permissible to his counterpart in the Government. In our opinion, that would be the correct position and we, therefore, direct that these daily-wagers would be entitled to draw at the minimum of the pay-scale being received by their counter-part in the Government and would not be entitled to any other allowances or increment so long as they continue as daily-wager. The question of their regular absorption will obviously be dealt with in accordance with the statutory rule already referred to."

(emphasis by the Court)

16. From perusal of judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Puttilal (supra) it clearly emerges that though daily wagers would be entitled for grant of minimum pay scale yet would not be entitled to draw any allowances or any increments while drawing the minimum pay scale.

17. Perusal of the judgement of Gyan Prakash Srivastava (supra) would indicate that the said judgement has been passed by Hon'ble Single Judge of this Court. However while passing the said judgement, the writ court has failed to consider the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Puttilal (supra) wherein the Apex Court has categorically held that though the daily wagers are entitled for grant of minimum pay scale yet they would not be entitled to draw any increments.

18. Thus the single bench judgement of this Court in the case of Gyan Prakash Srivastava (supra) would have to give way to the judgment Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Putilal (supra). Accordingly, the petitioner would not be entitled to draw any increments on the minimum pay scale which would be payable to him.

19. As regards the prayer of counting entire service rendered by petitioner as daily wager for the purpose of qualifying service for retirement benefits, though no arguments have been advanced by both learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel on the said prayer yet what the Court finds is that keeping in view the promulgation of the Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Act, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as the Act, 2021) which defines qualifying service as the services rendered by an officer appointed on a temporary or permanent post in accordance with the provisions of the service rules prescribed by the Government for the post and the fact that a full bench of this Court in a bunch of writ petitions leading being Writ Petition No. 25955 (SS) of 2017 in re: Ram Das Yadav vs State of U.P. and others decided on 08.11.2021 after considering the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Habib Khan vs State of Uttarakhand passed in Civil Appeal No. 10806 of 2017 decided on 23.08.2017 and considering Regulations 370 of the U.P. Civil Service Regulations as well as judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Prem Singh vs State of U.P. and others, 2019 (10) SCC 516 has held that with promulgation of Act, 2021 defining qualifying services for pension which Act has been given retrospective effect from 01.04.1961 and the validity of the Act has been challenged in a bunch of petitions the leading being Writ Petition No. 25955 (SS) of 2017 as such the relief prayed for by the petitioner may not survive as the same will depend on the result of the petitioner challenging the vires of the Act, 2021. Accordingly, considering the full bench judgement in the case of Ram Das Yadav (supra) the petitioner, if so advised, may challenge the vires of the Act, 2021.

20. Considering the aforesaid discussion, the writ petition is partly allowed. The order impugned dated 19.05.2022, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the petition, is quashed. The respondents are directed to pay the minimum of pay scale to the petitioner as was applicable to regular employees working on the same post. The pay scale shall be payable along with arrears with effect from 3 years prior to filing of Writ A No. 2023 of 1997 till the date of regularization of the petitioner i.e. till 25.02.2002.

21. Let the compliance be made within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

(Delivered by Hon’ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.

Hon’ble Donadi Ramesh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prashant Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and perused the record.

2. Petitioner is daughter in law of the deceased employee. She filed the present petition for the following relief:

i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus declaring Rule 2 (c) (iii) of the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servant Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (as amended from time to time) as unconstitutional to the extent it creates a distinction between widowed daughters-in-law and those whose spouses are alive but suffering from incapacity;

ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 23.11.2022 passed by the respondent no.3 rejecting the claim of compassionate appointment of the petitioner.

iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent no.3 to reconsider the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment.

3. The mother-in-law of the petitioner Smt. Kaushalya Tiwari died in harness on 18.1.2022. At the time of her death, she was serving as class IV employee in the office of respondent no.3. Smt. Kaushalya Tiwari was survived by her son Abhay Kumar Tiwari (husband of the petitioner) and her married daughter Smt. Poonam Tiwari Pandey who is living a prosperous and happy married life in her matrimonial home. The son of Smt. Kaushalya Tiwari i.e. Abhay Kumar Tiwari, met with a severe accident on 07.5.2019 in which he suffered grave injuries resulting in locomotor disability up to 75% and after thorough medical examination, a disability certificate was issued to Abhay Kumar Tiwari was declaring him to have suffered 75% permanent disability and incapable of earning a livelihood owing to his disability.

4. During the lifetime of Smt. Kaushalya Tiwari, she has taken care of her son and the entire family post accident. It is an admitted fact that at the time of her death, she was the sole bread earner of her family and the petitioner and her husband were also totally dependent upon her. By virtue of her sudden demise, there was no other earning member of the family as the husband of the petitioner is incapable of working. Left with no other option, the petitioner has moved an application to consider her case for compassionate appointment under The U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules"). Considering the said application, the third respondent passed an order dated 23.11.2022 rejecting her claim only on the ground that 'daughter-in-law' was not included in the definition of 'family' under the Rules. Questioning the said order, the present petition has been filed.

5. Based on the above facts, after arguing for some time, learned counsel for the petitioner intended to withdraw the first prayer which reads as follows:

i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus declaring Rule 2 (c) (iii) of the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servant Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (as amended from time to time) as unconstitutional to the extent it creates a distinction between widowed daughters-in-law and those whose spouses are alive but suffering from incapacity;

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has mainly relied on the observations made by the third respondent in the order dated 23.11.2022. In the said order, the third respondent has considered all the relevant facts and also the observations of the Full Bench judgment of this Hon'ble Court in U.P. Power Corporation, Urban Electricity Transmission Division-II, Allahabad vs. Urmila Devi 2011 (3) ADJ 432 and also the judgement of Smt. Sharma Devi vs. State of UP through its Additional Chief Secretary, Food and Civil Supply Lko And Ors. 2022 (3) ADJ 646 as respondents have considered in apprising manner but for the reason that daughter-in-law was not included in the definition of 'family' under Rule 2 (c) of the Rules. To support his contention and to decide the issue involved in the matter, Rule 2 (c) has been quoted which is as follows:

"(c) "family" shall include the following relations of the deceased Government Servant:-

(i) wife or husband

(ii) sons/adopted sons;

(iii) unmarried daughters, unmarried adopted daughters, widowed daughters and widowed daughter-in-law;

(iv) unmarried brothers, unmarried sisters and widowed mother dependent on the deceased Government servant, if the deceased Government servant was unmarried;

(v) aforementioned relations of such missing Government servant who has been declared as "dead" by the Competent Court:

Provided that if a person belonging to any of the abovementioned relations of the deceased Government servant is not available or is found to be physically and mentally unfit and thus ineligible for employment in Government service, then only in such situation, the word "family" shall also include the grandsons and the unmarried granddaughters of the deceased Government servant dependent on him."

7. Learned counsel has submitted that the definition of family under Rule 2 (c) includes wife or husband, sons and adopted sons, daughters (including adopted daughters) and widowed daughters-in-law, unmarried brothers, unmarried sisters and widowed mother dependent on the deceased Government servant, if the deceased Government servant was unmarried and Rule 5 deals with recruitment of members of the family of the deceased. From the above said Rule, one member of the family who is not already employed under the Central Government or State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or State Government, on making an application in suitable manner in the Government Service in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules, if such person fulfills the educational qualification.

8. On perusal of both the Rules, it is clarified that if there are no other earning members in the family, any member of the family is entitled to make an application to be considered under the said Rule but surprisingly, the definition of "family" under Rule 2 (c) of the Rules, all the members were included except the daughter-in-law with surviving husband. The fact of the instant case is that the husband of the petitioner is surviving with disability of more than 75%, she could not be considered as a member of the family for employment as per the abovesaid Rule.

9. The relevant paragraphs of the Full Bench judgment of this Hon'ble Court relied upon by the respondent in Urmila Devi (supra) are quoted below:

"6. We may mention that, at the preliminary hearing, our attention was invited to a Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Hardoi Vs. Madhu Mishra & Ors., [2009 (27) LCD 995], where the question for consideration was whether a widowed daughter-in-law can claim appointment under the Dying in Harness Rules? The learned Bench, after considering the definition of the word family, was pleased to hold that the decisions in Smt. Urmila Devi Vs. U.P. Power Corporation & Ors., 2003 (4) AWC 3205 & Sanyogita Rai (Smt.) Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors. (2006) 2 UPLBEC 1972, are not in conformity with the well settled principles of law and they are, accordingly, overruled. In other words, the judgment in Urmila Devi (supra) no longer subsists. It is, therefore, clear that the reference as such, would not be maintainable.

7. However, during the pendency of these proceedings, considering the peculiar features of the case, the appellant themselves, on queries raised by the Court, have taken a decision to give appointment to the respondent on producing the documents as set out in the affidavit filed on behalf of the appellants. They have also made it clear that the age bar would not come in the way while giving appointment to the respondent. In the light of that, in our opinion, really, nothing further would survive in this reference. However, liberty to the respondent, in the event appointment is not given, to apply.

8. We must, however, note one feature of the definition of the word 'family' as generally contained in most Rules. The definition of 'family' includes wife or husband; sons; unmarried and widowed daughters; and if the deceased was an unmarried government servant, the brother, unmarried sister and widowed mother dependant on the deceased government servant. It is, therefore, clear that a widowed daughter in the house of her parents is entitled for consideration on compassionate appointment. However, a widowed daughter-in-law in the house where she is married, is not entitled for compassionate appointment as she is not included in the definition of 'family'. It is not possible to understand how a widowed daughter in her father's house has a better right to claim appointment on compassionate basis than a widowed daughter-in-law in her father-in-law's house. The very nature of compassionate appointment is the financial need or necessity of the family. The daughter-in-law on the death of her husband does not cease to be a part of the family. The concept that such daughter-in-law must go back and stay with her parents is abhorrent to our civilized society. Such daughter-in-law must, therefore, have also right to be considered for compassionate appointment as she is part of the family where she is married and if staying with her husband's family. In this context, in our opinion, arbitrariness, as presently existing, can be avoided by including the daughter-in-law in the definition of 'family'. Otherwise, the definition to that extent, prima facie, would be irrational and arbitrary. The State, therefore, to consider this aspect and take appropriate steps so that a widowed daughter-in-law like a widowed daughter, is also entitled for consideration by way of compassionate appointment, if other criteria is satisfied."

10. Learned counsel further contended that in the identical situation, the Full Bench has considered and held that the widowed daughter in the house of her parents is entitled for consideration for compassionate appointment. However, a widowed daughter-in-law in the house where she is married, is not entitled for compassionate appointment as she is not included in the definition of 'family'. It is not possible to understand how a widowed daughter in her father's house has a better right to claim appointment on compassionate basis than a widowed daughter-in-law in her father-in-law's house.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that in the present case also the daughter-in-law with surviving husband having more than 75 % disability has not been considered for compassionate appointment only on the ground that she is not included in the definition of 'family'.

12. Though counsel for the petitioner has not pressed prayer no.1 and withdrawn the same but considering the facts and circumstances of the present case as noted and admitted by the respondent in the impugned order, this Court also considered the observations made by the Hon'ble Full Bench in the above noted judgment.

13. As per the custom of Indian Society, daughter-in-law is also supposed to be treated as a daughter as she is also an integral part of the family. The main purpose of extending the benefit of compassionate appointment to the dependents of a deceased government servant is to relieve the family from distress and destitution on account of death of sole bread earner of the family. Even in the instant case, an exceptional situation has been created as though the husband of the petitioner is alive but he is having more than 75% disability and he is unable to earn/work, which requires a liberal construction of the meaning under Section 2(c) of the Rules, 1974.

14. Considering the special circumstances of the case and disability of the husband of the petitioner, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 23.11.2022 passed by respondent no.3 i.e. Joint Commissioner (Karya Palak), Rajya Kar, Sambhag-A, Prayagraj is set aside.

15. The respondent no.3 is directed to reconsider the case of the petitioner for compassionate appointment as per Rule 5 of the Rules and pass appropriate order within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Sri Harindra Prasad, Sri Ramesh Kumar Tiwari

Counsel for the Respondents:

C.S.C., Sri Siddharth Singhal, Sri Ramesh Kumar Tiwari, Sri Ashok Khare (Sr. Advocate), Sri G.K. Singh (Sr. Advocate)

A. Administrative Law – U.P. Subordinate Service Selection Commission – Revised Answer Key – Judicial Review – Petitioner challenged revised answer key dated 07.09.2022 for question no. 10 of booklet series 'B' in Revenue Lekhpal main examination – Alleged correct answer as 'D' instead of 'B' based on publication – Held, courts exercise restraint in interfering with expert committee's opinion unless mistake is patently obvious without requiring inferential reasoning – Expert committee revised answer key to 'B' after objections, supported by ambiguity in term "Vindhyachal" without "Parvat" – Petitioner failed to demonstrate glaring error in revised answer key – Ran Vijay Singh Vs St. of U.P., U.P. Public Service Commission Vs Rahul Singh, and Arsiya Bano Vs St. of U.P. relied upon – No interference warranted under Article 226. (Para 18-23)

Writ petition dismissed.

4. Jitendra Singh Vs U.O.I.; Writ C No. 53877 of 2017

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent no.1, Shri Siddharth Singhal, learned counsel for the respondent no.2 as well as Shri Ashok Khare and Shri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocates assisted by Shri Ramesh Kumar Tiwari appearing on behalf of newly impleaded respondent no.4.

2. The present writ petition has been filed by two petitioners, namely, Mukesh Kumar & Sandeep Kumar for issuance of a writ in the nature of certiorari calling for record of the case and quashing the revised answer key dated 7.9.2022 issued by the respondent no. 3, namely, Examination Controller, Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Service Selection Commission, Lucknow only to the extent of question nos. 10, 65, 86 & 90 of the booklet series 'B' and its equivalent in all other series of main examination held in pursuance of the advertisement No. 01-Exam/2022 issued by the respondent no. 2, namely, Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Service Selection Commission, Lucknow. The consequential reliefs have also been prayed for.

3. After filing of the present writ petition, an application on behalf of the petitioner no. 2, being Application No. 2 of 2023 was filed on 18.5.2023 for dismissing the writ petition as withdrawn in respect of the petitioner no. 2. The said application was allowed, by an order dated 21.7.2023 passed by the Coordinate Bench of this Court, as such, in the present writ petition, there is only one petitioner, i.e., petitioner no. 1. namely, Mukesh Kumar.

4. The counsel for the petitioner, during the course of argument has made a statement that he did not challenge the revised answer key dated 7.9.2022, insofar as it relates to the question nos. 65, 86 & 90 of booklet series 'B'. Thus, in the present writ petition, the only challenge is to revised answer key dated

7.9.2022 only to the extent of question no. 10.

5. The facts as stated in the writ petition are that the petitioner has cleared the PET-2021, hence on the basis of his score he was shortlisted of appearing in the main examination, being conducted in pursuance of the advertisement No. 01-Exam/2022 for the post of Revenue Lekhpal.

6. The petitioner has appeared in the main examination held on 31.7.2022 which was conducted by the respondent nos. 2 & 3. The petitioner no. 1 was provided booklet series 'B' and the petitioner no. 2 was provided booklet series 'D'. Since the writ petition with regard to the petitioner no. 2 has been dismissed as withdrawn, as such, the facts relating to the petitioner no. 2 are not being mentioned, being not relevant.

7. The answer key of the main examination held on 31.7.2022 was published on 1.8.2022. In para 9 of the writ petition, it is stated that the petitioner has filed objection and revised answer key of booklet series 'B' and other series was published on 7.9.2022.

8. According to the petitioner, the dispute is with regard to question No. 10, which is as under:

“निम्नलिखित में कौन सा वाक्य अशुद्ध है?

- (1) उसे मृत्युदंड की सजा हुई ।
- (2) विंध्याचल पर्वत पर घने जंगल है ।
- (3) यहाँ शुद्ध भैंस का दूध मिलता है।
- (4) मेरे को उससे बात करना पसंद

नहीं है ।

(A) पहला और तीसरा

(B) पहला, तीसरा और चौथा
 (C) दूसरा, तीसरा और चौथा
 (D) पहला, दूसरा, तीसरा और चौथा
 चारो”

9. It is stated in the writ petition that the petitioner has marked answer 'D' as correct answer, whereas in the revised answer key, answer 'B' has been treated to be correct answer.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner in support of his argument has placed and relied upon an publication made by the राजस्थान राज्य पुस्तक मण्डल जयपुर stating that answer 'D' is correct answer. In the said publication at sl. no. 9 (at page 72 of the writ petition), it is mentioned that विन्ध्याचल पर्वत हिमालय से प्राचीन है is an incorrect sentence and the correct sentence is विन्ध्याचल हिमालय से प्राचीन है.

11. Relying on the aforesaid publication, the counsel for the petitioner submits that answer 'D' is the correct answer and the publication of revised answer key holding option 'B' as correct answer is incorrect.

12. One of the candidate, namely, Krishna Pratap Singh Patel has moved an impleadment application for his impleadment as respondent stating therein that he has been selected and a conditional allotment letter has been issued to him but due to pendency of the present writ petition, he is not being allowed to join. The application for impleadment was allowed by an order dated 14.3.2024 and he was impleaded as respondent no. 4 in the present writ petition.

13. In the affidavit filed in support of the impleadment application, in para 8 it is stated that in the publication relied upon by the petitioner, there was a comparison made between two mountains hence mentioning of Parwat was not required. It is further stated that there are various places named as Vindhyachal in the official website of the State Government relating to Mirzapur. Relying upon the said website, three places have been mentioned in para 8 of the affidavit filed in support of the impleadment application, which reproduced below:

“i. According to official website of Mirzapur District Administration (Mirzapur.nic.in), There is a famous religious place with the name Vindhyachal Dham.

ii. There is a railway station in Mirzapur with the name Vindhyachal.

iii. There is village with the name Vindhyachal, in Tehsil-Premnagar, District – Soorajpur, Chhattisgarh.”

14. In view of the aforesaid, it is argued that if only Vindhyachal word is used, various meanings are coming out like religious place, railway station and villages. However, if word parvat is used along with word Vindhyachal, then scene becomes crystal clear and same is beyond any doubt.

15. A counter affidavit to the impleadment application has been filed by the petitioner and in the counter affidavit, the petitioner has relied upon the book, namely Prayojanmoolak Hindi. In chapter-III of aforesaid book, the correct and incorrect sentence is explained. Item No. 13 of aforesaid chapter contains अगस्त्य विन्ध्याचल पर्वत पार कर गये as incorrect sentence and the correct sentence mentioned is अगस्त्य विन्ध्याचल पार कर गये.

16. Relying upon the aforesaid books, it is argued by the counsel for the petitioner that the correct answer of question no. 10 is 'D'.

17. Shri Siddharth Singhal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent-Commission, on the basis of the instructions submits that after objections were invited from the candidate, an Expert Committee was constituted and after taking into consideration all the aspect of the matter, the revised answer key was published and based on the revised answer key, the result was declared. It is further argued that answer 'D' was published as the correct answer on 1.08.2022 but subsequently, it was found by the Expert Committee that the correct answer is option 'B', and as such, based on Expert opinion, revised answer key was published, mentioning therein option 'B' of question no. 10 of booklet series 'B' as correct answer.

18. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent-Commission has further argued that time and again it has been held by this Court as well as by the Hon'ble Apex Court that it is only the Expert Committee who look into the matter and the Writ Court should not interfere into this kind of matter especially because the Courts are not experts and once an expert opinion had been obtained, the Court should not interfere in expert opinion. Learned counsel has further relied upon the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Ran Vijay Singh Vs. State of U.P. & others, reported in 2018(2) SCC 357. Paragraph nos.30, 31 and 32 reads as follows:-

“30. The law on the subject is therefore, quite clear and we only propose to highlight a few significant conclusions. They are:

30.1. If a statute, Rule or Regulation governing an examination permits the re-evaluation of an answer sheet or scrutiny of an answer sheet as a matter of right, then the authority conducting the examination may permit it;

30.2. If a statute, Rule or Regulation governing an examination does not permit re-evaluation or scrutiny of an answer sheet (as distinct from prohibiting it) then the Court may permit re-evaluation or scrutiny only if it is demonstrated very clearly, without any "inferential process of reasoning or by a process of rationalisation" and only in rare or exceptional cases that a material error has been committed;

30.3. The Court should not at all re-evaluate or scrutinize the answer sheets of a candidate – it has no expertise in the matter and academic matters are best left to academics;

30.4. The Court should presume the correctness of the key answers and proceed on that assumption; and 30.5. In the event of a doubt, the benefit should go to the examination authority rather than to the candidate.

31. On our part we may add that sympathy or compassion does not play any role in the matter of directing or not directing re-evaluation of an answer sheet. If an error is committed by the examination authority, the complete body of candidates suffers. The entire examination process does not deserve to be derailed only because some candidates are disappointed or dissatisfied or perceive some injustice having been caused to them by an erroneous question or an erroneous answer. All candidates suffer equally, though some might suffer more but that cannot be helped since mathematical precision is not always possible. This Court has shown one way out of an impasse – exclude the suspect or offending question.

32. It is rather unfortunate that despite several decisions of this Court, some of which have been discussed above, there is interference by the Courts in the result of examinations. This places the examination authorities in an unenviable position where they are under scrutiny and not the candidates. Additionally, a massive and sometimes prolonged examination exercise concludes with an air of uncertainty. While there is no doubt that candidates put in a tremendous effort in preparing for an examination, it must not be forgotten that even the examination authorities put in equally great efforts to successfully conduct an examination. The enormity of the task might reveal some lapse at a later stage, but the Court must consider the internal checks and balances put in place by the examination authorities before interfering with the efforts put in by the candidates who have successfully participated in the examination and the examination authorities. The present appeals are a classic example of the consequence of such interference where there is no finality to the result of the examinations even after a lapse of eight years. Apart from the examination authorities even the candidates are left wondering about the certainty or otherwise of the result of the examination – whether they have passed or not; whether their result will be approved or disapproved by the Court; whether they will get admission in a college or University or not; and whether they will get recruited or not. This unsatisfactory situation does not work to anybody's advantage and such a state of uncertainty results in confusion being worse confounded. The overall and larger impact of all this is that public interest suffers.”

19. The Hon'ble Apex Court, further in case of Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission Vs. Rahul Singh & others, reported in 2018(7) SCC 254, affirmed the aforesaid judgment of Ran Vijay Singh (Supra) and further held in para 12 that candidate has to not only demonstrate that the key answer is incorrect but also that it is a glaring mistake which is totally apparent and no inferential process or reasoning is required to show that the key answer is wrong. Paragraph-12 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

“12. The law is well settled that the onus is on the candidate to not only demonstrate that the key answer is incorrect but also that it is a glaring mistake which is totally apparent and no inferential process or reasoning is required to show that the key answer is wrong. The Constitutional Courts must exercise great restraint in such matters and should be reluctant to entertain a plea challenging the correctness of the key answers. In Kanpur University case (supra), the Court recommended a system of–

(1) moderation;

(2) avoiding ambiguity in the questions;

(3) prompt decisions be taken to exclude suspected questions and no marks be assigned to such questions.”

20. The Court further held in paragraph no.14 of the aforesaid judgment that when there are conflicting views, then the Court must bow down to the opinion of the experts. Paragraph-14 reads as follows:-

“14. In the present case we find that all the 3 questions needed a long process of reasoning and the High Court itself has noticed that the stand of the Commission is also supported by certain text books. When there are conflicting views, then the court must bow down to the opinion of the experts. Judges are not and cannot be experts in all fields and, therefore, they must exercise great restraint and should not overstep their jurisdiction to upset the opinion of the experts.”

21. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in Writ-A No. 481 of 2021 Arsiya Bano Vs. State of U.P. & others, reported in (2022) 5 ALJ 287, after relying upon various judgments of the Hon’ble Apex Court and also of this Court, held as under:

“47. Undoubtedly, the Courts cannot judicially review the expert opinion unless and until the key answer is patently wrong. There is no doubt that the candidates put in dreadful efforts while preparing for an examination, it must not be unremembered that even the examination authorities as well as experts put in equally great efforts to successfully conduct the examination, therefore the Court must consider the internal checks and balances put in place by the examination authorities before interfering with the efforts put in by the candidates who have successfully participated in the examination and the examination authorities.

48. Therefore, the Court should restrain in interfering with the efforts put in by the candidates as well as the examination authorities unless and until the mistake is apparent on the face of record and no research has to be done in proving the same, as the same will be an unending process resulting in uncertainty and confusion.

54. Taking into consideration the settled position of law in the matters where the answer key is disputed, this Court in case of Jitendra Singh Vs. Union of India and Another, passed in Writ C No. 53877 of 2017, has held that the Court has to proceed on the assumption and presumption that the answer key is correct as the same is based on experts opinion given by the persons specialised. In the event of any doubt, benefit should go to the examination authority rather than to the candidate. It is with a rider that the Court should not re-evaluate or scrutinize the answer sheets of the candidates as it has no expertise in the matter, the academic matters are best left to the academicians there being no scope of judicial review in the matter.”

22. Applying well settled principle of law in the present case, the Court finds that there are different places, named as Vindhyachal as is clear from State of U.P. website i.e., mirzapur.nic.in. If only word Vindhyachal is mentioned without mentioning therein Parvat, Station or Dham, the area on which the dense forest is situated cannot be identified, as such, the revised answer key based on the opinion of expert mentioning answer 'B' as correct answer of question no. 10 of series 'B' Booklet does not call for any interference.

23. Moreover, the learned counsel for the petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the answer key is not only incorrect, but also that it is a glaring mistake which is totally apparent and no inferential process or reasoning is required to show that the answer key is wrong.

24. In view of the above, the writ petition is devoid of merit and is hereby dismissed. No order as to cost.

Higher Judicial Service Rules, 1975 - Rule 5(c), Rule 7 - Direct Recruitment to Higher Judicial Service (HJS) - Eligibility and Reservation - Dheeraj Mor Vs High Court of Delhi, (2020) 7 SCC 401 - Petitioner challenged revised result (01.10.2020) of U.P. HJS Recruitment Examination 2018 and appointments of nine candidates, claiming inclusion in the select list and appointment as Additional District & Sessions Judge. Supreme Court's ruling in Dheeraj Mor requiring continuous practice as an advocate till the date of appointment applied prospectively by the High Court, as resolved on 18.03.2020, approved by Full Court on 30.09.2020. Respondents Nos. 3 to 9, who joined other judicial services post-provisional result (28.03.2019) but before final result

(01.10.2020), held eligible, as their interim service was fortuitous, under interim orders during Dheeraj Mor's pendency, and they were not parties to that litigation. Horizontal reservation for women (20%) applied as overall, not compartmentalized, per Rule 7 and advertisement, validly including two women candidates (respondents Nos. 10 & 11) lower in merit than petitioner to meet reservation quota. No provision for wait list under Rules; petitioner's claim based on wait list (13.03.2019) untenable, as subsequent resolution (24.07.2020) modified earlier resolutions, and no vacancy existed. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal
Singh, J.

Hon'ble Shiv Shanker Prasad, J.)

1. Heard Sri D. S. Mishra learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ramanand Pandey learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Ashish Mishra learned counsel for the High Court and Sri T.P. Singh learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Satya Prakash and Sri Raj Kumar Yadav learned counsel for private respondent Nos. 6, 8 and 10.

2. Present writ petition has been filed seeking quashing of the revised result dated 01.10.2020-of U.P. Higher Judicial Service Recruitment Examination 2018 (hereinafter referred to as the 'impugned examination'). Also, challenge has been laid to Notification dated 24.3.2021 issued by the High Court (on administrative side) under Rule 22(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Higher Judicial Service Rules, 1975 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Rules') insofar as it pertains to appointment of Sri Shashwata Pandey, Sri Pinku Kumar, Sri Utkarsh Yadav, Sri Awanish Kumar, Sri Prakash Chand Rana, Sri Sharad Kumar Tripathi, Sri Ajay Kumar, Smt. Sandeep Chauhan and Ms. Hemlata Tyagi as Additional District & Sessions Judges pursuant to the impugned examination. Since the writ petition filed by Sri Rahul Singh/respondent No.12 stands dismissed by the Supreme Court, the petitioner claims appointment in his place. Further, direction has been sought to include the petitioner in the revised result dated 01.10.2020 and to grant appointment to him as Additional District & Sessions Judge, in the State of U.P., pursuant to the impugned examination.

3. Pleadings had been exchanged earlier. Accordingly, the matter was proceeded. During hearing, learned counsel for the High Court produced the original record and consequently also filed Supplementary Counter Affidavit on 23.11.2023. Supplementary Rejoinder Affidavit thereto was filed by the petitioner on 28.11.2023. Those have also been taken on record.

4. On 10.5.2018, the High Court advertised 37 vacancies in Higher Judicial Service being 21 vacancies in Unreserved/Open Category, 07 in the Scheduled Caste category and 09 in the Other Backward Class category. Applications were invited “from Advocates having not less than 7 years standing as on the last date fixed for the submission of application forms”. That date was 14.6.2018. As to the age limit, it was stipulated, the candidate must have attained the age of 35 years and must not have attained the age of 45 years, on 01.01.2019. At the same time, age relaxation of three years was granted to candidates belonging to Scheduled Caste, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Class.

5. As to horizontal reservation for women, in terms of Rule 7 of the Rules, the advertisement contemplated 20 % horizontal reservation for women belonging to the State of U.P. only, in the following terms:

Also, Rule 7 of the Rules reads as below: -

“7. Reservation of posts for Scheduled Caste, etc.- Reservation to posts in the service for the members of the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other categories including women shall be in accordance with orders of the Government for reservation as adopted by the High Court.

Provided that twenty percent horizontal reservation for women to posts in service in direct recruitment from Bar in Uttar Pradesh Higher Judicial Service shall be subject to suitability i.e. if the sufficient number of women candidates is not available, then and in that event the reservation shall not have any operation to the extent of such unavailability.

Provided further that there shall be no carry forward of reservation for women.”

6. Of candidates who applied under the above advertisement many were serving judicial officers in the State of Uttar Pradesh and even outside. In view of the amended Rule 5 of the Rules and the ratio of the decision of the Supreme Court in Deepak Agarwal Vs. Keshav Kaushik, (2013) 5 SCC 277, candidature of serving judicial officers was rejected by the High Court, on the administrative side. For ready reference, amended Rule 5(c) of the Rules reads as below:

“5. Source of recruitment- The recruitment to the service shall be made---

(c) by direct recruitment from amongst the Advocates of not less than seven years standing as on the last date fixed for the submission of application forms.”

7. Occasioned by that rejection of their application forms, some such candidates approached this Court as also the Supreme Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction to assail the rejection of their candidature-Interim orders came to be passed in their favour allowing them to provisionally participate in the impugned examination. However, their results were not declared during pendency of litigation. Also, respondent No. 12-Rahul Singh approached the Supreme Court by filing Writ Petition (Civil) No. 1371 of 2018. Interim order was granted in his favour on 22.11.2018 allowing him to provisionally participate in the examination.

8. Consequently, petitioner as also the private respondents participated in the main written test of the impugned examination from 07.12.2018 to 09.12.2018. First, the High Court declared result of that examination on 28.02.2019. In that, 40 Unreserved/Open Category candidates and 04 Other Backward Class candidates were declared successful for the interview test. They were invited for interview conducted on 11.3.2019 and 12.3.2019. Petitioner was one of them.

9. Thereafter, the High Court declared result on 28.03.2019 wherein 21 candidates under the Unreserved/Open Category and 2 candidates under the OBC category were declared successful. None was successful under the SC Category. Of the 21 candidates successful under the Unreserved/Open Category, 11 were such who had participated in the impugned examination provisionally under interim orders granted by this Court and the Supreme Court. For that reason, their names were not disclosed/published in the result. Against their respective merit position, word “Reserved” was published. Also, a Note was attached below that result:

11. Since the result of 10 selected advocate candidates (under the Open/Unreserved category) and 2 candidates (under the OBC category) was undisputed or clear, the selection of those selected candidates was notified in accordance with the terms of the resolution of the Selection Committee dated 15.07.2019 as approved by the Full court. They were issued appointment letters. Consequently, they joined in service. For the remaining, the matter remained pending final disposal of petitions filed by them. Meanwhile, the decision of the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor Vs. High Court of Delhi, (2020) 7 SCC 401 was delivered on 19.02.2020. In short, it may be noted, for the first-time law was declared, to be eligible, an advocate candidate seeking direct recruitment to HJS Examination must not only have completed seven years of practice on the last date of submission of applications, but he must continue to be an advocate up to the date of his appointment as a HJS Officer.

12. After the judgement of Dheeraj Mor (supra) all the serving judicial officers whose application had been rejected by the High Court but who appeared in the impugned examination under interim orders granted by this Court and the Supreme Court, were disqualified. Their writ petitions both before this Court and also before the Supreme Court came to be dismissed.

13. In that circumstance, the High Court revised the earlier result dated 28.03.2019 and declared further (final) result pursuant to the impugned examination, on 01.10.2020. In that, all 21 posts for Unreserved/Open category were filled up. 7 female candidates and 3 candidates who had applied under the OBC category were also shown successful in the Unreserved/Open category. Further, as against 2 OBC candidates shown selected under the earlier result declared on 28.03.2019 only 1 found his name included under that category. One above him in the merit list namely, Ajay Kumar was now shown selected under the Unreserved category. Those found ineligible were replaced by those placed lower in merit (in the Unreserved/Open category). For ready reference, the result dated 01.10.2020 reads as below: -

14. It is also a fact, besides the impugned examination, three other examinations of U.P.H.J.S. were conducted during the period July, 2016 to September, 2018 being U.P.H.J.S.-2016, U.P.H.J.S.-2018 (Part-II) and U.P.H.J.S.-2018 (Part-III). Litigation was experienced at those three examinations as well. Only upon pronouncement of the decision of the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra) and dismissal of individual litigation brought by various candidates (allowed to provisionally appear at those examinations), the results for U.P.H.J.S.-2016, U.P.H.J.S.-2018 (Part-II) and U.P.H.J.S.-2018 (Part-III) were finalised on 01.10.2020 along with the impugned examination. For ready reference, the dates of advertisement published and declaration of results of all four exams is given below:-

15. In such facts, Sri D.S. Mishra, learned Senior Advocate has vehemently urged that respondent Nos. 3 to 9 namely Sri Shashwat Pandey, Sri Pinku Kumar, Sri Utkarsh Yadav, Sri Awnish Kumar, Sri Prakash Chand Rana, Sri Sharad Kumar Tripathi and Sri Ajay Kumar were ineligible, as on 01.10.2020.

16. Sri Shashwata Pandey, Sri Pinku Kumar, Sri Utkarsh Yadav, and Sri Prakash Chandra Rana had earlier been declared successful in U.P.H.J.S.-2018 (Part-2) Examination vide result declared on 26.07.2019. They had joined pursuant to that result. Sri Awanish Kumar was selected at the H.J.S. Examination conducted in the State of Gujarat; Sri Prakash Chand Rana had also been selected at the H.J.S. Examination conducted in the State of Himachal Pradesh and Sri Sharad Kumar Tripathi had been selected at the H.J.S. Examination conducted in the State of Jharkhand. All three had joined against those selections before declaration of the result of the impugned examination, on 01.10.2020. In fact, Sri Prakash Chand Rana first resigned from U.P.H.J.S and then joined at Himachal Pradesh. Last, Sri Ajay Kumar had joined U.P.H.J.S. pursuant to the result declared on 28.03.2019 upon his selection as a OBC candidate. Also, the subsequent result declared on 01.10.2020 was not acted upon inasmuch as no notification has been issued to appoint him under Unreserved/Open category. Hence, all seven (respondent Nos. 3 to 9) are described ineligible to appointment on 01.10.2020, in view of the ratio of Dheeraj Mor (supra). On the self-same reasoning Rahul Singh, respondent No. 12 is described as ineligible for reason of his appointment and joining M.P. Judicial Service, prior to declaration of result of the impugned examination on 01.10.2020. Though he has not been declared successful, it is further asserted, his higher merit position (as compared to petitioner) is to be ignored owing to his ineligibility. In any case, his Writ Petition filed by him before the Supreme Court has been dismissed. Hence, he may have no claim.

17. The underlying reasoning in support of the above submission advanced by Sri D.S. Mishra is-being a mandatory condition prescribed in Dheeraj Mor (supra), no candidate could be eligible at the impugned examination unless he had continued in practice without any break till his appointment under the impugned examination. None of the private respondent Nos. 3 to 9 remained eligible for appointment on 01.10.2020 as they had discontinued their practice of law before that date. Respondent Nos. 3 to 9 had joined judicial service prior to that date. Therefore, they were not in continuous practice on the date of appointment offered to them by the High Court, on 01.10.2020.

In support of the above, heavy reliance has been placed on the language of Article 233 of the Constitution of India as last interpreted by the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra). Here, it has been further disclosed, in similar circumstances, Awanish Kumar filed a writ petition before the Delhi High Court to gain appointment under the Delhi H.J.S. That claim was negated and his writ petition was dismissed by the Delhi High Court on 28.01.2020 being Awanish Kumar Vs. Registrar General, Writ Petition (C) 489 of 2020, since he stood appointed in Gujarat on 05.07.2018.

18. The dictum of the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra) has further been relied on and followed in all subsequent decisions pronounced by the Supreme Court and different High Courts. Reference has been made to R. Poornima and others versus Union of India and others 2020 SCC OnLine SC 714; Praveen Kumar Vs. High Court of Delhi and others 2022 SCC Online DEL 4447; Smt. Lily Krishnan Vs. State of Kerala and others 2023-KER 68493; K. Deepa Vs. State of Kerala 2020 SCC Online KER 2769; Sunil Kumar Verma Vs. State of Bihar 2021 SCC Online BIH 786., as also a decision of this Court in Shashank Singh and 4 others Vs. High Court of Judicature at Allahabad and another, 2021 SCC OnLine All 835, (Writ-A No. 27120 of 2018 decided on 03.12.2021) 2021:AHC:152579:DB. Thus, it has been emphasised, the only consistent view on the issue is that laid down by the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor as reiterated in R. Poornima (supra).

19. To complete his submission on the issue, Sri Mishra has pointed out, the correctness of the view taken by the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra) may have been doubted and the matter referred to a larger bench of the Supreme Court on a Review Application, at the same time, in absence of any order passed to stay the operation and effect of the judgment in the case of Dheeraj Mor (supra), the ratio of the said decision retains its binding precedential value. In absence of any doubt as to that, this Court must apply that law declared by the Supreme Court. Here reference has been made to 5 judge bench decision of the Supreme Court in the case of State of Punjab versus Baldev Singh (1999) 6 SCC 172 and a division bench decision of the Delhi High Court in Praveen Garg Vs. High Court of Delhi and Others, 2022 SCC OnLine 4477. Referring to a recent decision of the Supreme Court in Union Territory of Ladakh and others Vs. J&K National Conference and Another, 2023 INSC 804, it has been vehemently asserted, in view of the clear law declared by the Supreme Court, it does not remain open to the High Court to await the outcome of the result of the reference made to the larger bench of the Supreme Court. It is clearly not open to the High Court to refuse to follow the said law even if it may have been doubted later, by another bench of the Supreme Court. It has been further asserted, in that situation the earlier decision of the Supreme Court would bind this Court. In any case, review has not been preferred (before the Supreme Court), by any of the respondents in the present case. Hence, relying on P.V. George and Others Vs. State of Kerala and Others as followed in Manoj Parihar and another Vs. State of Jammu & Kashmir, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 782, it has also been asserted, the law declared by the Supreme Court would operate retrospectively.

20. Second, it has been submitted, the procedure of selection; the process of selection and result has been changed during the selection process. 20% reservation for women was originally advertised. That would translate to 4 vacancies under the Open/Unreserved category. Against that, 5 female candidates were declared selected in that category in the provisional result declared on 28.3.2019. Instead of rectifying that error, at the stage of declaration of the further result on 01.10.2020, 2 more female candidates were declared selected under the Open/Unreserved category that too those who were placed lower in merit to the present petitioner. Thus, against 5 posts reserved for women, 7 women candidates have been selected, two of whom (respondent Nos. 10 & 11) stood lower in merit to the petitioner. Reliance has been placed on the decision of the Supreme Court in Union of India Vs. Ramesh Ram and others, Civil Appeal Nos. 4310-4311 of 2010. Relying on the decision of the Supreme Court in K. Manjushree Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and Another (2008) 3 SCC 512, it has been emphasised, it was never permissible for the High Court to change the rules of recruitment after issuance of the advertisement.

21. First referring to the terms of advertisement dated 10.05.2018, it has been asserted 20% horizontal reservation for women had to be provided according to the Government Order issued by the Government of UP i.e. in a compartmentalised manner only. Reliance has been placed on Rajesh Kumar Dariya Vs. Rajasthan PSC, (2007) 1 SCC 785 as also a Full Bench decision of this court in Ajay Kumar Vs State of UP and others 2019 SCC Online All 2674 (FB). Applying that method, only four women candidates may have been selected under the Unreserved/Open category i.e. on the strength of merit. This exact approach was criticised by the Supreme Court in Anil Kumar Gupta and ors. Vs St. of U.P. (1995) 5 SCC 173. Thus, it has been submitted, the mandatory rule in favour of compartmentalised reservation to give effect to 20% horizontal reservation for women, was violated. To that extent selection of respondent numbers 10 and 11 must be cancelled.

22. Further, as to the correct method to be applied to implement compartmentalised horizontal reservation, the law laid down by the Gujarat High Court in Tamannaben Ashok Bhai Desai Vs Shital Amrutlal Nishad 2020 SCC Online Guj 2592 as affirmed by the Supreme Court in Saurav Yadav Vs State of UP and others 2020 SCC Online 1109 has been relied. Following that method, respondent Nos. 10 & 11 would remain excluded from selection as an Unreserved/Open category candidate as four women candidates stood selected (under that category), from before, on the strength of their higher merit position.

23. In this regard, it has also been submitted, Ms. Poonam Singhal the candidate selected at serial no. 1 of the result dated 01.10.2020 cannot be included under horizontal reservation for women. She being a candidate domiciled in the State of Haryana, the horizontal reservation for women of Uttar Pradesh was not available to her.

24. Next, it has been submitted, a Wait List of 12 candidates including the present petitioner had been prepared and approved in the meeting of the Selection Committee dated 13.03.2019. That was approved by the Full Court. Though, its existence was initially denied in the Counter Affidavit filed by respondent number 2 yet, pursuant to the earlier order of this Court, the record produced clearly demonstrates and confirms the existence of that Wait List. That resolution of the Selection Committee had been approved by the Full Court. Thus, it has been submitted, the candidate Yogesh Kumar though placed at serial number 6 of the Wait List, he was granted appointment in the Higher Judicial Service pursuant to his selection in the examination for the year 2016. Similarly, Ajay Kumar had been selected as OBC candidate. Since, the writ petition filed by Rahul Singh (the candidate placed at serial number 11 of the Wait List) was dismissed by the Supreme Court, the petitioner claims absolute entitlement to appointment being placed at Serial No. 12 of the Wait List number in terms of the resolution of the Selection Committee dated 13.03.2019.

25. On that premise and reasoning, learned senior counsel for the petitioner vehemently urged - the petitioner deserved to be included in the list of 21 selected candidates under the Unreserved/Open category. The petitioner is entitled to that selection irrespective of application of the rule of compartmentalised horizontal reservation for women. In fact, the Selection Committee itself made a note in the minutes of the meeting dated 13.03.2019 that the petitioner would be selected if the writ petition filed by Rahul Singh would be dismissed. For ready reference, relevant extract of the Wait List considered by the Selection Committee in its meeting held on 13.03.2019, is quoted below:

 Permitted by Courts Order

Note: Sri Rahul Singh Advocate, appearing at serial number 11 has also filed a petition before Apex Court in case of His Petition gets dismissed Sri Pardeep Narayan Pandey appearing at serial number 12 shall be recommended.

26. Yogesh Kumar, Prakash Chand Rana and Rahul Singh being not available for consideration against their Wait List positions, the petitioner claims a perfect right to be appointed against his Wait List position 12, on the strength of the resolution of the Selection Committee dated 13.03.2019 (extracted above).

27. Again, as noted above, respondent No.9 Ajay Kumar who was earlier shown selected under the OBC category was later migrated to the Open/Unreserved category. It has been reiterated since Ajay Kumar joined as OBC candidate pursuant to the result declared on 28.03.2019, he ceased to be in practice as an Advocate on the occurrence of that event. Consequently, he became ineligible to be appointed under the Open/Unreserved Category under the result declared on 01.10.2020.

28. It has also been submitted, Surendra Pal Singh was selected under the social category OBC, under the result declared on 28.03.2019. However, he had appeared in the impugned examination upon age relaxation granted to him as an OBC candidate. Therefore, he would remain selected under that category and may never claim selection/migration from OBC Category to Open/Unreserved Category. Reliance has been placed on Nirav Kumar Dilip Bhai Makwana Vs.

Gujarat Public Service Commission & Ors., (2019) 7 SCC 383.

29. According to the learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner, in any case, three vacancies are still available under Open/Unreserved Category being that of Prakash Chand Rana who has not joined pursuant to the result dated 01.10.2020, Ajay Kumar who may continue only as an OBC candidate only. Yogesh Kumar had been moved to 2016 U.P.H.J.S. Since the writ petition filed by Rahul Singh was dismissed by the Supreme Court on 27.09.2021, the petitioner is one of the only two candidates available for that selection. Therefore, without prejudice to the other submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioner, he remains entitled to appointment against that vacant post.

30. Responding to the above, Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel for the High Court submitted, it is factually incorrect to say that the appointment of respondent no. 9/Ajay Kumar had not been notified.

31. Second, as to eligibility condition of seven years continuous practice, the unamended Rule 5(c) of the Rules prescribed eligibility of seven years of practice on the first day of January following the year of publication of the advertisement. That stipulation in the Rule was contrary to the law declared by the Supreme Court in Deepak Agarwal (supra). Consequently, vide amendment made on 20.12.2016, Rule 5(c) was amended to prescribe seven years of practice on the last date for submitting applications. Applying that law, the advertisement was published on 10.05.2018, for the impugned examination. Second, similar selections for H.J.S. (both in the State of Uttar Pradesh and elsewhere) were initiated in different years, during 2016 to 2018.

32. While such selections were pending, another controversy arose namely, whether judicial officers (of the Nyayik Seva/similar cadre in other states) who had been an advocate for seven years before joining such judicial service, were eligible as an advocate candidate to apply for appointment in the H.J.S. cadre of a state judiciary. Thus, in Dheeraj Mor (supra) that issue was raised by serving judicial officers in the context of Delhi Higher Judicial Service examination. They claimed eligibility under advocate candidate category as they had completed seven years continuous practice before joining the state judiciary in the lower cadre. Pending that challenge raised, many such officers/applicants approached the Supreme Court or this Court. They were provisionally permitted to participate in the H.J.S. examinations conducted during 2016 to 2018.

33. In dealing with that issue the Supreme Court ruled (for the first time) in Dheeraj Mor (supra) that the eligibility condition of seven years of continuous practice must not only be met on the last date of filing the application but must it continue to be met till the date of appointment in the H.J.S. cadre. That stipulation first arose in Dheeraj Mor (supra). It was a clear departure made from the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Deepak Agarwal (supra). He has also referred to the difference of language employed by the Rules and Rule 9 of the Delhi Higher Judicial Service Rules considered by the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra). There, the eligibility condition required a candidate to have not less than seven years of practice. That language alone fell for interpretation.

34. Thus, Sri Ashish Mishra has attempted to distinguish Dheeraj Mor (supra). Relying on N.I.C. Ltd. Vs Pranay Sethi (2017) 16 SCC 680 it has been submitted, a subsequent coequal bench of the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra) may have differed and thus referred to a larger bench of that Court, the point of disagreement. Yet, it may not have laid down a law contrary to Deepak Agarwal (supra). To that extent, the earlier law laid down remains the only binding law.

35. Third, invoking the evidentiary rule of legitimate expectation and relying on Shivanandan C.T. Vs High Court of Kerala 2023 SCC Online 994 it has been submitted, upon publication of the advertisement for the impugned examination and by notification of the eligibility condition of seven years of practice on the last date of making the application, a legitimate expectation arose in favour of all applicants fulfilling that eligibility condition. Therefore, it was not possible to make any addition or change to those eligibility conditions and/or create fresh disabilities to exclude the eligible candidates. The same principle was applied by a coordinate bench of this Court in Kushagra Upadhyay Vs State of U.P and others (Writ A 8118/2020 decided on 05.10.2020). There, in the context of the same examination it was ruled- the eligibility had to be seen on the last date of submitting the application form.

36. Fourth, it has been submitted if the law laid down in Dheeraj Mor (supra) was applied retrospectively, it would lead to unintended, grossly harsh, and wholly unwarranted results. Its literal compliance would require the respondents to comb through the entire H.J.S. cadre, to eliminate those who may have joined service against vacancies for advocate candidates while serving as judicial officers on the date of their respective appointments. It would result in removal from service of officers whose selection had never been challenged and who fulfilled the eligibility condition on the date of their respective appointment. Even in the context of the present dispute, the ousted candidates would lose their eligibility at any subsequent examination for reason of their suffering forced discontinuance of practice for the duration they remained in service upon their selection under the impugned examination. Thus, reference has been made to the interim orders granted by the Supreme Court in Misc. Application No. 1050/2021 i.e. in the Review Application proceedings arising from Dheeraj Mor (supra) being order dated 04.01.2023 as also the order dated 12.07.2021 in Rejanish K.V. Vs K. Deepa and Others, Civil Appeal No. 3947/2020.

37. The challenge raised in Dheeraj Mor (supra) remained pending before the Supreme Court from year 2015 to 2020, upon arising of vacancies (in the H.J.S. cadre). In due compliance of the directions issued by the Supreme Court in Malik Mazhar Sultan (3) and another Vs UPPSC & others (2008) 17 SCC 703 the High Court conducted 4 examinations, including the impugned examination. Results of all such selections became pending, occasioned by pendency of Dheeraj Mor (supra) while vacancies continued to pile. Considering the above circumstances, initially on 15.07.2019, the Selection Committee resolved to give effect to the interim order dated 10.05.2019 passed by the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra). Thus, it resolved to appoint such practicing advocates who had been selected (pending the outcome of that litigation), whose eligibility was not in doubt. That declaration of the results is therefore described provisional. For ready reference, a relevant extract of the resolution dated 15.07.2019 is quoted below:

".....The Committee before recommending the name of the candidates finally, for appointment against the vacancies determined under 25% quota of direct recruitment to U.P. Higher Judicial Service, 2018 (Part-II) deliberated over the order dated 10.05.2019 Dheeraj Mor vs. Hon'ble High Court of Delhi (supra) wherein it has been directed that the ".....practicing advocates who have been found selected for appointment, their result be declared and they be appointed subject to the outcome of the pending matter."

38. Upon pronouncement of the decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra), the Selection Committee vide further resolution dated 27.02.2020 initially resolved to exclude from the Select List such advocate candidates who may have been serving in the judicial service/Nyayik Seva, on the date of their appointment in the H.J.S. cadre. Later, on 18.03.2020 the Selection Committee reconsidered its earlier resolution dated 27.02.2020 and took a conscious decision to apply the ratio of Dheeraj Mor (supra) prospectively. Further, the Selection Committee resolved to place the selected candidates in order of their seniority against success in their first/earlier selection gained in the four H.J.S. selection examinations referred to above. To that extent, the earlier resolutions were specifically modified. That resolution dated 18.03.2020 was approved by the Full Court on 30.9.2020. For ready reference the relevant extract of the resolution dated 18.03.2020 is quoted below:

"1. It has been apprised that certain candidates have been selected in multiple recruitment such as UPHJS-2016, UPHJS-2018, UPHJS-2018 (Part II) and UPHJS-2018 (Part III). The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above pronouncement in context with Article 232(2) of the Constitution of India observed as below:

"Under Article 232(2), an Advocate has to be continuing in practice for not less than 7 years as on the cut off date and at the time of appointment as District Judge..."

In the light of above observation, the Committee in its meeting held on 27.02.2020 had resolved to the effect that:

"The Committee is of the considered opinion that in view of the above observation of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is necessary to ensure that a direct recruit shall not be in employment as on the cut off date fixed for determining the continuous practice of 7 years as well as on the date of appointment. In case the candidate is found to be in employment on any such dates, he/she shall be considered as in-eligible for appointment in Higher Judicial Service. This shall be ensured by the Government of U.P. before issuing appointment to such direct recruits."

The Committee reconsidered its above resolution dated 27.02.2020 and is of the considered opinion that such criterion be not applied on any of the past recruitments and may be enforced prospectively. Hence, the resolution of the Committee dated 27.02.2020, in the matter, stands modified.

2. The High Court has conducted one examination in year 2016-17 and three examinations in the year 2018-19. The advocate-candidates have appeared in the multiple examinations as they were eligible and this Court had permitted them to take multiple examinations (provisionally). Some of the candidates have succeeded in UPHJS-2016 as well as in 2018 or in other UPHJS examinations.

The Committee resolves that such candidates shall not be denied their claim for recruitment on the basis of earliest examination.

The Committee is of the considered opinion that in case a candidate is getting selected in Direct Recruitment to UPHJS- 2016 and UPHJS-2018 as well, he/she shall be considered eligible and be placed in the final select list of UPHJS-2016 as per his/her merit and will forego his selection in UPHJS-2018. The post so becoming vacant will be filled up by the candidate placed below in the select list of the relevant year and as per Rule.

3. The Committee considered a possibility that while revision of result of the relevant years, the posts falling under the quota of direct recruitment may remain unfilled due to unavailability of suitable candidates. Under these circumstances, said unfilled post shall be filled up by promotion of the officers in Nyayik Sewa in the select list of that particular examination as per the provision of Rule 8(2) of the Rules, 1975.

4. The Committee further resolves that the vacancy already determined for the UPHJS Recruitments 2016, 2018, 2018 (Part II) and 2018 (Part III) shall not be re-determined and in case, during the course of revision of results of UPHJS Recruitment, 2016, UPHJS Recruitment, 2018, UPHJS Recruitment, 2018 (Part-II), UPHJS

Recruitment, 2018 (Part-III), vacancies are occurring under the quota of direct recruitment due to unavailability of suitable candidates and insufficient number of officers in the select list for promotion by application of Rule 8(2) of the Rules, 1975, such vacancies be taken into account as unforeseen vacancies for the next UPHJS Recruitment."

39. On the second submission regarding horizontal reservation for women, first reference has been made to the clear language of Rule 7 of the Rules and paragraph 2 of the Advertisement. They only provide for 20% horizontal reservation for women belonging to the State of U.P. Neither compartmentalised reservation was prescribed under the governing Rules, or the Advertisement nor overall horizontal reservation was prohibited in law. Therefore, there is no error in selecting all 7 suitable women candidates against 37 total vacancies- that being well within the overall 20% ceiling prescribed. In absence of availability of any other/more women candidate, all 7 women candidates suitable got selected. Insofar as the Rules and the advertisement did not prescribe compartmentalised reservation, the selection made is claimed to be protected under the ratio of Malik Mazhar Sultan (supra). Therefore, the selections made are in accordance with the governing Rules.

40. Further, reliance has been placed on Nawal Kishore Mishra Vs High Court of Judicature of Allahabad (2015) 5 SCC 479 to submit even in the context of social reservation to be provided, the independence of the High Courts in the recruitment process is preserved. Therefore, no legal error occurred upon the High Court applying the non-compartmentalised reservation in accordance with the governing statutory Rules.

41. Reference has also been made to the conscious decision of the Selection Committee dated 06.12.2010, taken upon consideration of Shiv Shanker Vs Public Service Commission (1996) 3 ESC 50; Rajeev Kumar Vs State of U.P. & ors. 2010 (5) AWC 5321. and Rajesh Kumar Dharia Vs Rajasthan Public Service Commission (2007) 8 SCC 785. The Committee took a conscious decision to apply non-compartmentalised overall 20% reservation. That administrative decision does not fall foul to the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Saurav Yadav Vs State of U.P. (2021) 4 SCC 542. However, since the declaration of that law, the High Court has provided for compartmentalized horizontal reservation.

42. As to actual method employed to give effect to 20% horizontal reservation, it has been shown, the Select List was finalised after pronouncement made in Dheeraj Mor (supra). Thus, upon exclusion of those provisionally selected candidates who were serving judicial officers on the last date of submitting their application, the Select List was finalised/drawn. Thus, the Combined Merit List earlier prepared was utilised in order of merit to fill up the vacant posts. In that, effect was also given to 20% horizontal reservation for women. The Combined Merit List of all 44 candidates who faced the selection process up to the final stage of interview, is extracted below:

Remarks: * Permitted by Court's Order (F) Female Candidate

43. Referring to that, it has been asserted, the candidates at merit position Nos. 1 to 4, 8, 10-11, 15, 17, 19, 26, 30, 32, 34, 37 and 39 were ineligible being in service of the Union or the State on the last date of submission of application. The candidate at serial no. 27/Yogesh Kumar was adjusted against his first selection in the H.J.S. 2016 examination. Excluding those 17 candidates, the remaining were considered for appointment in order of inter se merit. It caused displacement of 11 candidates from the provisional Select List dated 28.03.2019. An equal number of other candidates were now included in the Select List under the Unreserved/Open category. First, nine candidates were included in the Open/Unreserved Category in strict order of inter se merit. They happened to be male candidates. Thereafter, two women candidates placed lower in merit to the next three suitable male candidates were accommodated to give effect to 20% horizontal reservation (overall) to women.

44. Thus, all 21 vacancies under the Unreserved/Open category got filled. It included the first 19 eligible candidates in order of merit. Of that only 5 happened to be women candidates. Also, two out of 19 thus selected in the Unreserved/Open category namely, Shailja Rathi (female candidate) and Vinod Kumar Chaurasia (male candidate) were also members of OBC. However, having earned their selection under the General Merit, they were included under the Unreserved/Open category. Thereafter, Yogesh Kumar who stood 16th in the Combined Merit List was excluded for reason of his prior selection under H.J.S. 2016. Also, upon exclusion of the first 11 candidates from the provisional Select List dated 28.03.2019, Ajay Kumar who till then was provisionally shown selected against OBC category became the 19th suitable candidate, in order of merit. Therefore, he was included in Open/Unreserved category. He had scored total 480 marks against 469 marks scored by the petitioner. 2 vacancies remained under that category.

45. Thus, only 5 women candidates stood selected in the first 19 in the Unreserved/Open category and none was selected under the social/vertical categories of reservation. Thereafter, only 2 more were available both under the Unreserved/Open category and none under other/social/vertical reservation category. Thus, Ms. Sandeep Chauhan and Ms. Hemlata Tyagi though placed lower in merit (under Open/Unreserved category), to next three male candidates in order of merit (including the petitioner), were selected to complete the 20% overall horizontal reservation for women. Therefore, the next 2 Unreserved/Open category male candidates namely, Pankaj Kumar Rai and failing him Rahul Singh (both placed higher in merit to the petitioner), were not selected. Surender Pal Singh remained selected, under reserved category, O.B.C.

46. Thus, it has been claimed, there neither was practiced any “change of the rule of the game” nor the Rules read with the terms of Advertisement of the impugned selection were violated. In fact, the entire selection process including provision of 20% horizontal reservation for women was completed strictly in accordance with the law. As to existing or possible vacancies, it has been stated there are none. Unforeseen vacancy, if any had been carried forward to the next H.J.S. examination in accordance with the Rules. Thus, referring to the Combined Merit List it has been submitted, the petitioner being placed 3rd beyond the last male candidate / Ajay Kumar, he has no claim whatsoever.

47. As to the submission based on preparation of the Wait List, it has been replied, the Rules did not permit preparation of Wait List. Relying on State of U.P. Vs Karunesh Kumar and Ors. 2022 SCC Online SC 1706 it has been asserted, in the absence of provision to prepare a Wait List, no right can be claimed (by the petitioner), to selection. Reference has also been made to Rule 20 of the U.P. Judicial Services Rules to contrast the absence of Wait List under the Rules applicable to the impugned examination.

48. Last, referring to the resolution/s of the Selection Committee dated 24.07.2020 as approved by the Full Court, it has been further submitted, earlier resolutions dated 17.05.2017, 13.03.2019, 15.07.2019 and 16.12.2019 stood modified. Therefore, in absence of any selection gained by the petitioner (at an earlier point in time), no right vested in the petitioner under the original/unmodified resolutions of the Selection Committee dated 13.03.2019, even if those may have been approved by the Full Court at that stage, pending decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra). In absence of selection made, no right vested in the petitioner upon the resolution dated 24.07.2020 passed by the Selection Committee as was approved by the Full Court on 30.09.2020.

49. Sri. T.P. Singh learned Senior Advocate for the private respondent Nos. 6 & 8 has supported the submissions advanced by Sri Ashish Mishra. Additionally, he emphasised, Dheeraj Mor (supra) involved a different issue of eligibility of a member of a lower judicial service of a State seeking appointment to Higher Judicial Service in the same State. It did not involve any dispute of a member of Higher Judicial Service in one State seeking to join similar service in another State, before declaration of the result of his selection in the (other) State of his choice. That chance service rendered in the interregnum, by force of circumstance, did not create any ineligibility of lack of seven years continuous practice. That eligibility must arise on the last date of submission of application. The stipulation of continuous practice till the date of appointment must exist qua those in service in the same State from before i.e. on the date of submitting their individual application. He has relied on a decision of the Supreme Court in Sunil Kumar Verma Vs State of Bihar and Ors (2022) 9 SCC 686. The peculiarity of facts noticed in that case exists in the present case as well.

50. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, in the first place, it is undisputed between the parties, in the overall merit list drawn by the High Court, the petitioner was placed lower in merit - to respondent Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. Respondent no.9 (the last male candidate selected on merit), obtained 480 marks whereas the petitioner obtained 469 marks. Thus, if the dictum of Dheeraj Mor (supra) had been available before the issuance of the Advertisement published on 10.05.2018, the petitioner would have no right to selection over respondent Nos. 3 to 9. The claim made by the petitioner viz-a-viz respondent Nos. 8 & 9 may be considered a later while considering the issue of horizontal reservation, granted to female candidates.

51. Therefore, only if respondent Nos. 3 to 9 are found ineligible, the petitioner's claim may merit consideration along with Pankaj Kumar Rai and Rahul Singh, both placed higher in merit (to the petitioner). Then, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is right in his contention - since Surendra Pal Singh was granted relaxation of age as a member of a reserved category, he could not be included under the Unreserved/Open category despite higher merit than the petitioner.

52. It is also not disputed, on the date of issuance of the Advertisement, the law was, as declared in Deepak Agarwal (supra). Later, in the year 2020, the Supreme Court laid down the further law in Dheeraj Mor (supra) - that eligibility of seven years of practice must not only exist on the date of filing of the application, but the eligible candidate must continue/remain in practice up to the date of his appointment in service.

53. Thus, admittedly respondent Nos. 3 to 9 were eligible on the date of issuance of Advertisement dated 10.05.2018. They had completed seven years of practice on the last date of submission of their applications and remained in practice till declaration of the result on 28.03.2019. The ineligibility is alleged to have been acquired by them later, notably during pendency of Dheeraj Mor (supra). Yet, only to give effect to the interim orders passed by the Supreme Court and this Court, they were not declared successful at the impugned examination.

54. Again, it is not in doubt that the dispute in Dheeraj Mor (supra) arose not at the behest of any advocate candidate who may have been in practice on the date of submission of his application. It arose at the instance of existing judicial officers serving in the lower judicial service (Nyayik Sewa, in the State of Uttar Pradesh and others) on the date of submission of their application. They claimed to have earned eligibility to appear as a direct recruit for the HJS Examination having completed seven years of practice prior to entering that judicial service. Such, in-service candidates applied as direct recruits amongst others, under the impugned examination.

55. Since, such in-service candidates were treated ineligible to apply for direct recruitment, upon that challenge raised, solely under interim orders granted by the Supreme Court as were replicated by this Court and other High Courts, many candidates including Kuldeep Sharma, Pradeep Kumar Mani, Nishant Dev, Prashant Bilgaiyan, Vishnu Pratap Singh, Nidhi Yadav, Shiv Kumar Tiwari, Pradeep Kumar, Dharam Vir Singh, Sudhanshu Shekhar Pandey and Piyush Tripathi appearing at overall merit position Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 8, 10, 11, 15, 17, 19 and 26 of the merit list extracted in paragraph 42 above (hereinafter referred to as 'in-service candidates'), appeared at the impugned examination.

56. However, by virtue of the interim orders granted by the Supreme Court and this Court, the in-service candidates did not earn any right to selection pending decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra). Then, none of the private respondent Nos. 3 to 11 was party to the proceedings in Dheeraj Mor (supra). Though those respondents had no lis with the in-service candidates yet, they could not be considered for selection in face of interim orders operating in favour of the in-service candidates. In fact, as would be discussed below, those respondents have suffered on account of litigation brought by in-service candidates and interim orders passed therein.

57. It may also be noted, the impugned examination was not a stray selection examination held by this Court. Considering the pre-existing directions issued by the Supreme Court in Malik Mazhar Sultan (supra), regular exams had to be held for recruitment to the HJS, periodically. That compliance was independent of the dispute or issue arising in Dheeraj Mor (surpa). Thus, as noticed in paragraph 14 above, four examinations being U.P.H.J.S. 2016, U.P.H.J.S. 2018, U.P.H.J.S. 2018 (Part-II) and U.P.H.J.S. 2018 (Part-III) came to be conducted pursuant to separate advertisements dated 10.05.2016, 10.05.2018, 12.11.2018 and 09.08.2019 respectively, all during pendency of Dheeraj Mor (supra). We take judicial notice of similar examinations conducted in other States as well.

58. While it may have otherwise remained open to the High Court to not declare result of the above noted examinations till decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra) yet, it is also an undisputed position on record, by virtue of interim orders granted by the Supreme Court, inter alia the order dated 10.05.2019, passed on I.A. No. 49518 of 2019 in Dheeraj Mor, that fact circumstance was considered and it was clearly provided (as an interim measure), that the result of the practicing advocates (i.e. non in-service candidates) found selected for appointment, be declared and they be appointed subject to outcome of the proceedings in Dheeraj Mor (supra). For ready reference, we consider it proper to extract the order of the Supreme Court dated 10.05.2019. It reads as below:

In these matters, it is in dispute as to whether the incumbents who have joined the services as Civil Judge can stake their claims for the posts meant for direct recruitment from the Bar reserved for practicing advocates for appointment as District Judges. Since there is a quota in the direct recruitment of Bar Members, in order to attract talent from the Bar out of practicing advocates. There are separate quota of promotional posts for the incumbents who have joined the services as Civil Judge to the post of District Judge. There is a set procedure for that and there is a merit promotion quota which has to be made by virtue of the limited departmental examination as held in All India Judges' Association & Ors. v. Union of India and Ors. (2002) 4 SCC 247 and followed in All India Judges' Association & Ors. v. Union of India And Ors. - (2010) 15 SCC 170. Nowhere it is provided that such inservice incumbents can stake their claim as against posts which are reserved for direct recruitment from the Bar.

It was contended that in certain cases, interim relief has been granted by this Court and by virtue of the interim directions issued, certain in-service incumbents participated in the exam and other process by staking claim to be appointed in the quota which is basically meant for lawyers. Since the entitlement of Civil Judges to occupy posts of Bar quota is yet to be decided by hearing matter finally and in case such interim orders are continued to be granted and the Civil Judges from the judiciary are permitted to be appointed as against the quota which basically meant for practicing lawyers, serious prejudice may be caused to the Bar incumbents. In the past, for the last 65-66 years no person from the Civil Judge cadre were permitted to stake their claims as against the posts which are reserved for direct recruitment from the Bar.

It is settled proposition of law that final relief cannot be granted by way of interim measure. When direct recruitment has to be from Bar, we cannot continue to grant interim order of final nature leaving the situation virtually irreversible, an incumbent from Bar has to be deprived of the post given to in-service candidate which is reserved for Bar, question of seniority would also arise and in case relief is not finally granted several other complications would arise. In any case such ad-hoc arrangements by appointing such incumbents is not at all warranted that too in higher judiciary unless and until the case is decided in favour of in-service candidates.

It was also contended that in Dheeraj Mor case, certain interim orders have been passed allowing the members of the judicial service to stake their claims for the posts which are meant to be filled by the direct recruitment from the Advocates. In the circumstances, for years together such interim orders cannot be granted nor interim orders can be treated as a precedent. As they are creating more complications and the question of entitlement of in-service candidates has been referred to Larger Bench which will take call on it. It is considered appropriate that quota meant for the Bar no more filled by in-service candidates. However, the recruitment from Bar shall be subject to the final outcome of the matter which has been referred. We are of the considered opinion that we cannot direct any more appointment by way of interim orders of Civil Judges as against posts meant for practicing advocates or allow the judiciary members to participate in such examination to make position worse. Serious complications would arise in case ultimately in-service candidates are not found eligible for such quota. As such we are not inclined to pass any further interim orders either by permitting in service candidates to stake their claims in the examination or for being appointed as against the quota reserved for Bar. It would not be proper to stop all recruitments for years together, so as to prevent complications as to seniority as well as the quota which is required to be maintained.

It was submitted that if such an anomaly is permitted to be continued, the posts reserved for the Bar members in the High Court too will have to be filled even from the District Judges who might have earlier practiced for 10 years. Be that as it may, as we are not on that issue, in the facts and circumstances of the case, we find that it is not appropriate to pass such interim orders any more. As the matter is urgent, we request Hon'ble The Chief Justice to post the matter before appropriate Bench for hearing it finally as early as possible.

We make it clear that we are not disturbing the appointments which have been made so far by virtue of such interim orders. However, no new appointments be made from now onwards of in-service candidates against quota reserved for Bar. In case even if in-service candidate has been selected in the examination held earlier as against the Bar quota no further appointment to be made of such candidates. However, the practicing advocates who have been found selected for appointment, their result be declared and they be appointed subject to the outcome of the pending matter.

Similar course was followed in the other three HJS examinations conducted in the State of U.P. (noted above), and similar H.J.S. examination in all other States.

59. Thus, the results declared by the High Court - of UPHJS-2016 on 18.08.2017, UPHJS-2018 on 28.03.2019, UPHJS-2018 (Part-II) on 26.07.2019 and UPHJS-2018 (Part III) on 20.12.2019 remained consistent and compliant to the interim order passed by the Supreme Court as above noted and other similar orders passed by that Court and this Court. By no means those results may be described as final. In fact, in face of pending litigation in Dheeraj Mor (supra) and orders passed therein, final results could not be declared, at that stage.

60. Therefore, the in-service candidates who had been permitted to appear at the impugned examination, also could not be excluded from the selection process, at that stage. Their candidature could neither have been accepted nor it could have been disregarded or rejected, pending decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra) generally, and during pendency of their individual writ petitions, especially. Thus, the results declared remained provisional. It is also not in dispute that all such individual writ petitions remained pending till decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra).

61. Therefore, the net effect of the interim orders passed in their respect, created a lien in favour of the in-service candidates - to be considered for selection subject to outcome of Dheeraj Mor (supra). That lien was first lifted upon decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra). Therefore, pending that decision, results declared for all H.J.S. examinations (all over the country) including the impugned examination remained provisional. Such results did not confer or vest substantive rights in the in-service candidates provisionally included in the Select List declared on 28.03.2019.

62. Thus, the candidature of the in-service candidates-Kuldeep Sharma, Pradeep Kumar Mani, Nishant Dev, Prashant Bilgaiyan, Vishnu Pratap Singh, Nidhi Yadav, Shiv Kumar Tiwari, Pradeep Kumar, Dharam Vir Singh, Sudhanshu Shekhar Pandey and Piyush Tripathi remained subject to outcome of litigation in Dheeraj Mor (supra). It is a settled position in law that interim orders do not seek to create or vest final rights in the parties to a dispute. In fact, on the jurisprudential plain, no interim order may be granted by any Court that has the effect of granting final relief. The interim orders granted in favour of the in-service candidates only prevented the High Courts from excluding the claims of the in-service candidates, pending the litigation in Dheeraj Mor (supra).

63. In the facts of the present case, upon vacation of the interim orders granted in favour of the in-service candidates and dismissal of their individual writ petitions - considering the law declared in Dheeraj Mor (supra), those candidates lost their lien or right to be considered for selection. It cannot be said, by virtue of the law declared by the Supreme Court in Dheeraj Mor (supra), the selection of such in-service candidates was first cancelled. Since the in-service candidates were never selected at any earlier point in time, no selection or right to selection ever vested in those candidates. That consequence in law never arose.

64. It is a settled principle in law (as has been rightly relied by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner), that declaration of a law must relate back or be retrospective. Therefore, the 11 in-service candidates provisionally allowed to participate in the impugned examination were found ineligible - from inception. If that consequence is truly recognised, only 10 Advocate candidates were found eligible to selection in the result declared on 28.03.2019. However, there selection was also made subject to outcome of the decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra). That selection was provisional. Also, there remained available 11 vacancies and other candidates (including respondent Nos. 3 to 9) suitable for selection, against the same. Hence the entire result declared on 28.03.2019 was provisional.

65. At that stage, the merit/suitability of the private respondents 3-11 and the petitioner and other non-selected candidates had not been considered for reason of inter se lower merit position achieved. Therefore, after the decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra) and upon dismissal of the individual petitions filed by the in-service candidates i.e. at the stage of drawing the (final) result on 01.10.2020, the High Court was right in include private respondent Nos. 3 to 9 under the Unreserved/Open category. To that, petitioner cannot be heard to complain because the petitioner himself falls outside the list of first 21 candidates (in order of merit), initially considered for selection in the provisional result, dated 28.03.2019.

66. Then, respondent Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 7 had been selected in the provisional result declared on 26.07.2019 for U.P.H.J.S. 2018 (Part-II) examination, by virtue of their higher merit position, secured in a similar scheme of things in the context of that later examination in the State of U.P. Similarly, respondent Nos. 6, 7 and 8 came to be similarly provisionally selected at separate H.J.S. examinations for the States of Gujarat, Himachal Pradesh, and Jharkhand while respondent No. 9 came to be provisionally selected as a O.B.C. candidate under the impugned examination itself.

67. Those private respondents never had a choice to join or to not join pursuant to the provisional selection offered to them (under different examinations) at that stage i.e. during pendency of proceedings in Dheeraj Mor (supra). Arising from and during pendency of that proceeding, they competed and provisionally earned a right to selection under different examinations, in different States, on undisputed eligibility and high merit achieved at other examinations. Pending declaration of (final) results of those similar/other examinations written by them, the private respondents were never required/called to, either elect or surrender their right to selection under the impugned examination.

68. Theoretically, joining pursuant to a clear selection made at another examination, would have vested rights in the private respondents (qua that examination). At the same time, till then all results of H.J.S. examination results were expressly and by necessary intent only provisional. Therefore, no rights were vested in the private respondents at that stage, considering the clear stipulation made in the order dated 10.05.2019, passed by the Supreme Court. Also, in the quagmire of litigation in Dheeraj Mor (supra) that lasted five years, during that period, the right to selection (under the impugned examination) was not lost to those respondents. They did not concede/surrender their right to selection under the impugned examination.

69. Thus, respondent Nos. 3, 4 and 5 had been offered clear selection in U.P.H.J.S.-2018 (Part-II), conducted later.

They could not be forced to, and they never gave up their natural seniority in U.P.H.J.S. arising under the impugned examination, conducted earlier, occasioned by late declaration of the (final) result of the impugned examination on 01.10.2020. Selected at the impugned examination (held earlier), they had a natural right to retain and enjoy that higher seniority in the cadre of U.P.H.J.S. – the service.

70. If the law (in Dheeraj Mor (supra)), had existed from before i.e. before the conduct of the impugned examination, there is no doubt that those respondents would have found their names included in the final list on the first date of the declaration of the result itself. Same effect must be preserved to them upon declaration of the law made in the year 2020. First, on principle, that declaration of law must relate back or be retrospective. Second, they cannot be prejudiced by an act of Court arising from litigation involving rights claimed by in-service candidates. We find no justifiable reason to deny them that right, for reason of circumstances arising as a direct result of interim orders passed by the Supreme Court and this Court in such other litigation. Third, the service rendered by them pursuant to any provisional result declared in any State pending litigation in Dheeraj Mor (supra) was purely fortuitous being service rendered under the interim order granted by the Supreme Court. It did not create or alter the rights of the private respondents, that otherwise existed and must be recognised in terms of the final order in Dheeraj Mor (supra). In absence of any direction in that decision to that effect, the private respondents 3-5 who were non-parties to that litigation must be kept immune to the unintended side-effects of that litigation.

71. Similarly, respondent Nos. 6, 7 and 8 found their names included in the final select list declared on 01.10.2020. Since respondent Nos. 6 and 8 were offered selection under provisional results declared for H.J.S. examinations in different States - in circumstances no different than those noted above, it may never be inferred that those respondents would not have accepted selection under the impugned examination (at higher seniority), at the relevant time. Also similarly, owing to his higher merit position (qua the petitioner), respondent No. 9 was entitled to, and he would naturally have been selected under the Unreserved/Open category. He was initially disclosed selected under Reserved Category/OBC in the provisional result dated 28.03.2019. At the same time, the petitioner does not dispute that the said Ajay Kumar obtained a higher merit position as compared to the petitioner. The former secured 482 marks as against 469 marks secured by the present petitioner. In view of the discussion made above, category allocation/OBC assigned to the said Ajay Kumar in that provisional result also did not vest any rights and did not restrict his selection under that social category. The law in that regard being well settled since Indra Sawhney and Others Vs. Union of India, AIR 1993 SC 477, the said Ajay Kumar remained entitled to selection under the Unreserved/Open Category by virtue of his higher merit position, in the (final) result declared on 01.10.2020. For the reasons assigned above, we find the same would apply to the case of respondent no.9 as well.

72. Similar peculiarity of facts was taken note of by the Supreme Court in Sunil Kumar Verma (supra). In that decision the Supreme Court observed as below:

“12. It could thus be seen that firstly, the appellant was neither in services of the Bihar Subordinate Judicial Services Cadre on the date on which he applied and secondly, nor was he in the services of the Bihar Subordinate Judicial Officer Cadre on the date on which he was selected.

13. In that view of the matter, we find that the law laid down in the case of Dheeraj Mor (supra) is not applicable in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case.”

73. Further ineligibility has been set up in the candidate of Prakash Chandra Rana/respondent no.7 who had been declared successful in the provisional result declared for U.P.H.J.S. 2018 (Part-II). He joined pursuant to that selection. Later, he resigned his position in U.P.H.J.S. 2018 (Part-II) and joined another service on 27.12.2019, consequent to his selection in the Himachal Pradesh H.J.S. However, that occurred prior to decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra) which was pronounced on 19.02.2020. It being undisputed that respondent No.7 was first declared successful under the impugned examination, on 01.10.2020 and not earlier, no ineligibility arose in his candidature under the impugned examination. His rights under the impugned examination were separate and independent of his rights under other similar examination for U.P.H.J.S. 2018 (Part-II).

74. The administrative decision of the Selection Committee to apply Dheeraj Mor (supra) prospectively and to provide for selection against the first examination at which a candidate may have been selected, is wholly correct, just, proper, and equitable. It does not alter or affect the rights of the petitioner, who stood lower in merit to respondent nos. 3-9.

75. Seen in that light, the resolution of the Selection Committee dated 18.03.2020 as approved by the Full Court on 30.09.2020 is only an administrative step-in-aid necessary to give effect to the correct position in law and equity. Since no adverse consequence may have been visited on a person not party to the dispute in Dheeraj Mor (supra) and since the provisional result declared during pendency of that litigation did not confer/vest rights as may be perceived to be final (in the context of the then existing litigation), the Selection Committee ensured that no such undeserved adverse consequence is visited on the innocent non-parties to the dispute in Dheeraj Mor (supra).

76. We may also note, in the review petitions that are pending before the Supreme Court arising from the decision of the Dheeraj Mor (supra), the Supreme Court has stayed removal of selected candidates pending that review application. However, we have made this note only to complete the narration of facts but not to rely on the same by way of reasoning in these proceedings. Again, the order of the Supreme Court (noted above) is an interim order.

77. As to the principle invoked by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner that Dheeraj Mor (supra) has been consistently applied and followed, it must be noted:

(i). in R. Poornima (supra), the Supreme Court considered whether length of practice as an advocate could be considered and added to the length of service as a District Judge consideration for appointment as a High Court Judge, to overlook the otherwise lower seniority position of the person thus recommended for that appointment. Clearly, that fact situation and legal issue is not involved in the instant case. Hence, that ratio is distinguishable.

(ii). neither this Court in Shashank Singh (supra) nor the Delhi High Court in Awanish Kumar (supra), considered the issue of purely provisional nature of all H.J.S. results declared during pendency of Dheeraj Mor (supra). Also, the Courts did not have the occasion to consider and deal with the effect of that fact and legal situation created at the instance and for the benefit of the in-service candidates/ petitioners in that case/proceeding. Plainly, no submission was advanced to that effect. Hence, ratio of those decisions is also distinguished.

(iii). in Praveen Kumar (supra), the Delhi High Court; Smt. Lily Krishnan (supra) and Rajanish Kumar (supra) the Kerala High Court; Sunil Kumar Verma (supra) the Patna High Court had the occasion to consider another fact situation. In all those cases, the candidates had been found to be ineligible on the test of Dheeraj Mor (supra). However, prior to their selection against respective HJS examination, each one of them stood selected in the another/separate examination for a different service, on final and undisputed result basis. Also, each such candidate had joined that other service before being declared selected under H.J.S. examination. Thus, they were persons exactly similarly placed as the in-service candidates here. Hence, ratio of those decisions is also distinguished.

(iv). we are unable to persuade ourselves to the reasoning expressed by a coordinate bench of our Court in Kushagra Upadhyay (supra). To us, that reasoning is in the teeth of Dheeraj Mor (supra). Therefore, it may not be good law.

78. We therefore conclude - all services rendered by respondent Nos. 3 to 9 during pendency of litigation in Dheeraj Mor (supra), whether in the State of U.P. or elsewhere were wholly provisional and fortuitous as a direct result of and under the interim orders passed by the Supreme Court and this Court. That service was rendered without prejudice to the pre-existing rights of those respondents under the impugned examination, though declaration of that right stood delayed upon interim orders granted by the Supreme Court and this Court. Also, respondent Nos. 3 to 9 were not party to the Dheeraj Mor (supra) and other litigation brought by the in-service candidates. They cannot be non-suited under the provisional results declared under interim orders passed, pending that litigation. While no litigant may be prejudiced by an act of Court, without exception, a person who is not party to the dispute before a Court may never be prejudiced. Thus, the first submission advanced by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner does not find our favour. It is rejected.

79. The case of the petitioner is therefore to be tested against the selection offered to respondent Nos. 10 and 11. Both placed lower in merit to the petitioner, it is to be seen if there is any error in their selection under the 20% horizontal reservation offered to woman candidates. As extracted above, both under Rule 7 and under paragraph no.2 of the Advertisement, provision was made in favour of 20% horizontal reservation to women belonging to the State of Uttar Pradesh. The Rule and the Advertisement did not specify if such reservation would be compartmentalized or overall, yet as pointed out by learned counsel for the High Court, the Selection Committee, vide its earlier resolution dated 06.12.2010 had resolved as below:

"Thus according to Rule 7 of the U.P. Higher Judicial Services Rules, 1975 as well as the advertisement, the 20% horizontal reservation for women in U.P. HJS Examination is overall reservation and not compartmentalised reservation."

80. Since the High Court had resolved in favour of 20% horizontal reservation to women, the Government Order issued by the State Government providing for compartmentalised horizontal reservation did not apply - of its own force, to the selections made by the High Court till its' adoption by the High Court vide later resolution. Therefore, compartmentalised horizontal reservation was not applicable to the impugned examination. In absence of that method to provide for horizontal reservation and further in absence of any direct challenge raised to the method applied by the High Court, the ratio in Saurav Yadav (supra) as to the method of computation of compartmentalised horizontal reservation may not engage us any further. That issue is academic in the context of the exact dispute brought before us.

81. The High Court being independent of the State Government, in matters of selection of the judicial officers, the Government Order/decision to apply compartmentalised horizontal reservation for women cannot be enforced on its own strength. That principle (of compartmentalised horizontal reservation) was adopted by the High Court, much later in the year 2022. Since then, recruitments being made by the High Court provide for compartmentalised horizontal reservation - as orally stated by Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel for the High Court. Thus, in absence of any patent illegality seen to exist in that method of horizontal reservation provided, we are not inclined to treat as illegal the approach adopted by the High Court. Suffice to note that Rule-7 of the Rules and the Advertisement did not provide for compartmentalised horizontal reservation. In fact, the intent was otherwise – to provide overall reservation.

82. Seen in that light, against 37 vacancies advertised 21 fell for selection under the Open/Unreserved category. Also, 7 (20% of 37) were reserved for women, overall. Under the (final) result declared on 01.10.2020, the first 19 selected included 5 women candidates who got selected on the strength of their higher merit (as compared to the petitioner). Only other candidate selected (besides the two lower placed female candidates) is Surendra Pal Singh. With him the petitioner has no lis as he was selected under OBC social category. No woman candidate found selection under the social reservation categories (SC & OBC) and none was available for further selection under those categories. Therefore, on one hand, two vacancies remained under the Open/Unreserved category and two vacancies remained to be filled against 7 vacancies reserved for women candidates under the horizontal reservation provided to them.

83. It was a coincidence that only two other suitable women candidates were available in the original Combined Merit List of 44 candidates prepared pursuant to the impugned examination. Both belonged to Open/Unreserved category. It is true, both had secured lesser merit marks than the petitioner - being 461 and 453.5 marks, respectively. At that stage and in that situation, in the backdrop of overall horizontal reservation provided, they got selected in preference to the petitioner who had obtained higher merit marks.

84. All reservations (whether under vertical or horizontal reservation scheme) result in - higher merit achieved by Open/Unreserved or Male category candidates being ignored in favour of reservation granted. At the same time, that reservation is provided to achieve a higher constitutional objective referable to Article 16 of the Constitution of India. Therefore, no equitable relief may be claimed and that relief may not be granted by a writ Court to undo the plain result of reservation.

85. Insofar as it cannot be denied that respondent Nos. 10 and 11 were the only two women candidates available against the remaining two seats available under horizontal reservation quota guaranteed to them under Article 16(1) of the Constitution of India, hard as it is, the petitioner's case would remain on a lower pedestal. To the extent there is no visible change of Rule of selection (incorporated during pendency of the selection and in absence of any real challenge available to the petitioner to doubt the overall horizontal reservation granted to women, we are not inclined to accept the challenge to appointment of respondent Nos. 10 and 11.

86. Insofar as the argument has been advanced on the strength of Waiting List prepared, it may first be noted that Rules do not permit or contemplate preparation of Waiting List. The law in that regard is clear. Unless enabled by the Rules, the recruiting body may not prepare a Waiting List as may give rise to any right to the candidates be included in such list. In State of U.P. Vs. Karunesh Kumar (supra), it has been observed:

“29. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents made a specific reference to the decision rendered in the case of Rajiv

Kumar Srivastava (supra) to press home the contention that, when a post is not filled due to non-joining of a candidate, another one waiting in the wings merits consideration, as a vested right inures in his benefit.

30. The aforesaid decision, in our considered view, may not have any application to the case on hand. The effect of the relevant rules is not considered therein, as the select list shuts the door to everyone other than the selected candidates. The aforesaid decision was in the context of the 1999 GO, however, as we have held that the 1978 Rules do not apply to the present recruitment, the aforesaid decision would not be of any service. Further, it is settled law that there is no vested right of the unsuccessful candidate to insist upon their consideration, in the absence of any such rule requiring for the preparation of a waiting-list. This Court in the recent decision in Vallampati Sathish Babu v. State of A.P. (Civil Appeal No. 2473 of 2022) has held that:

“7.4 In the present case, the final selection list of 33 candidates was prepared. Thereafter all the selected candidates were called for counselling, but one of the candidates did not report for counselling. The aforesaid event took place after the final selection list was prepared and published. As there was no requirement of preparation of a waiting list, the appellant claiming to be the next in the merit cannot claim any appointment as his name neither figured in the list of the selected candidates nor in any waiting list as there was no provision at all for preparation of the waiting list. Sub-rule (5) of Rule 16 is very clear. Therefore, the post remained unfilled due to one of the candidates in the final list did not appear for counselling and/or accepted the employment. Hence, that post has to be carried forward for the next recruitment.

7.5 The appellant could have claimed the appointment to the post which remained unfilled provided there is a provision for waiting list as per the statutory provision. In absence of any specific provision for waiting list and on the contrary, there being a specific provision that there shall not be any waiting list and that the post remaining unfilled on any ground shall have to be carried forward for the next recruitment. The appellant herein, thus, had no right to claim any appointment to the post which remained unfilled.

8.1 An identical question came to be considered by this Court in the case of Suresh Prasad (supra). In the said decision, it is specifically observed and held that even in case candidates selected for appointment have not joined, in the absence of any statutory rules to the contrary, the employer is not bound to offer the unfilled vacancy to the candidates next below the said candidates in the merit list. It is also further held that in the absence of any provision, the employer is not bound to prepare a waiting list in addition to the panel of selected candidates and to appoint the candidates from the waiting list in case the candidates from the panel do not join. The aforesaid decision of this Court has been subsequently followed by the Andhra Pradesh High Court in the case of Samiula Shareef (supra)".

87. At the same time, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is quite right in his submission that as a fact a list had been prepared. The same has also been extracted above (in paragraph-25). Yet, as reasoned above, in the context of the wholly provisional result declared on 28.03.2019, preparation of such a list was an administrative necessity to deal with the circumstances arising from the provisional Select List declared in the background of litigation pending in Dheeraj Mor (supra) and the interim orders passed by the Supreme Court and this Court. Since the result of 11 candidates declared on 28.03.2019 was wholly provisional, commensurate provision had to be made and maintained to provide for a legal contingency to replace such candidates if they were found ineligible upon final decision in Dheeraj Mor (supra).

88. In fact that ineligibility arose to 11 candidates provisionally selected in the result declared on 28.03.2019. Therefore, the High Court remained under an obligation to finalise the result by accommodating 11 other candidates who may have been found eligible and suitable for selection under the impugned examination.

89. That exercise has been carried out in preparation and computation of the (final) result dated 1.10.2020. No candidate except those who had been included in the Combined Merit List have been considered strictly in order of inter se merit (respondent Nos. 3 to 9) and to accommodate the constitutionally imposed preferential order of status/reservation that pre-existed in favour of respondent Nos. 10 and 11. Since there was no other litigation pending at that stage, horizontal reservation had also to be settled at that stage. Therefore, we find no illegality on part of the High Court in having finalised the result on 01.10.2020 to accommodate respondent Nos. 10 and 11, in preference to the present petitioner.

90. The above discussion with respect to the Waiting List also leads us to the conclusion that a vacancy that may have arisen after declaration of result dated 01.10.2020 i.e. upon non-joining of respondent No. 7/Prakash Chand Rana was neither required nor permitted to be filled up by any other direct recruit. That result was final in all respects. Selected candidates who joined against that declaration of result became members of H.J.S. and those who did not only gave rise to vacancy (at that stage), to be dealt with in accordance with Rules.

91. The Rules do not permit preparation of a Wait List. Rather, they provide for a complete mechanism to fill up any vacancy initially available to direct recruits that may remain vacant upon completion of the selection process. Therefore, equitable considerations may not arise contrary the statutory provisions. Hence, we are unable to consider grant of the writ in favour of the petitioner, at this stage. Also, in any case, it cannot be lost sight - both Pankaj Kumar Rai and Rahul Singh were placed higher in merit to the petitioner. Though Rahul Singh lost a similar litigation as infructuous, the petitioner cannot claim a preferential right over Pankaj Kumar Rai, who in any case did not litigate and was not shown selected elsewhere.

92. In view of the above, the fact that Yogesh Kumar who was placed higher in the initial Wait List prepared died, is of no consequence. Further, in view of the discussion made above, we also find that the tentative observation made by the Selection Committee in its resolution dated 13.03.2019 to the effect that the petitioner may be recommended if the writ petition filed by Rahul Singh is dismissed did not confer any right on the petitioner to gain appointment.

93. At that stage, a tentative opinion appears to have emerged with the Committee to allow for inclusion of the petitioner as the 11th candidate if the 11 in-service candidates, provisionally selected in the selection dated 28.03.2019 were eventually disqualified. However, what remained to be considered by the Selection Committee at that stage was the effect that such inclusion would cause on the horizontal reservation to be provided to women. It is that provision made at the stage of preparation of (final) result declared on 01.10.2020 that led to ouster the claim of Pankaj Kumar Rai and the petitioner, rather than anything else.

94. All resolutions passed by the Selection Committee were administrative steps in aid to the final decision taken on 24.07.2020. Upon that resolution and its ratification by the Full Court all earlier resolutions stood modified, and the legal effect caused by the earlier/modified resolutions stood lost. That being exercise of administrative power, neither it was contrary to the Rules or any precedent nor any challenge has been raised to the exercise of that power. Upon subsequent resolution dated 24.07.2020 being passed by the Selection Committee as was also approved by the Full Court, it wiped out with no trace of an enforceable legal right to the petitioner or any party to claim under any earlier resolution. Suffice to note, there is no challenge raised to that later resolution. For ready reference, resolution dated 24.07.2020 is extracted below:

“... The Committee further resolves that resolutions of the Committee dated 17.05.2017, 13.03.2019, 15.07.2019 and 16.12.2019 pertaining to the results of U.P. Higher Judicial Service Direct Recruitment, 2016, 2018, 2018 (Part-II), 2018 (Part-III) respectively, stand modified”

95. Once no legal infirmity is seen in the selection of respondent Nos. 3 to 11, there did not exist any vacancy against which the petitioner may have been accommodated. Unfortunate as it appears, yet the fate met by the petitioner must be recognised as fair and consistent to the law declared in Dheeraj Mor (supra).

96. Writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs.

1. The petitioner, a tubewell operator in the Tubewell Division of the Department of Irrigation, Government of Uttar Pradesh, last posted at Bareilly, seeks redemption of his lost service and its incidents, to wit, payment of his emoluments for the period that he was out of service, pension etc. The petitioner lost his service in consequence of conviction in a criminal case on charges of corruption by the Trial Court. Now that he has been acquitted in appeal by this Court, he says that he is entitled to the revocation of the order of his dismissal from service dated 28.12.1983 with consequential benefits.

2. The facts, giving rise to this writ petition, are:

The petitioner was appointed a tubewell operator in the Tubewell Division of the Department of Irrigation vide letter of appointment dated 17.08.1977 issued by the Executive Engineer, Tubewell Division, Bareilly. He was posted at Tubewell No.32, Fatehganj-West. He joined service on 01.09.1977. As the letter of appointment would show, the petitioner's services were temporary and carried a condition that the employment could be determined by either side, giving a month's notice. While working at Village Satuia Khass, falling within the local limits of Police Station Fatehganj-West, District Bareilly, the petitioner was accused of accepting a sum of Rs.30/- in illegal gratification from one Puran Lal Yaduvanshi on 15.12.1978. The illegal gratification was said to be accepted by the petitioner to favour Yaduvanshi in the matter of not making an irrigation entry for him in government record. A First Information Report was registered against the petitioner on 15.12.1978, giving rise to Crime No.159 of 1978, under Section 161 IPC and Section 5(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, Police Station Fatehganj-West, District Bareilly. After investigation, the Police charge-sheeted the petitioner on 21.08.1979. The petitioner stood his trial on the aforesaid charge before the Additional District and Sessions Judge-VII, Bareilly, who convicted and sentenced him to one year's rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.100/-.

3. The aforesaid information was conveyed to the Executive Engineer, Tubewell Division, U.P., Bareilly by the Superintendent of Police, Anti-Corruption Organization, C.I.D., U.P., Lucknow vide letter dated 16.11.1983. Acting on the said information, the Executive Engineer, Tubewell Division, Bareilly, vide his Order No. 46/83-84 dated 28.12.1983 dismissed the petitioner from service, consequent upon conviction. No departmental proceedings were initiated or held against the petitioner, where he was found guilty. The dismissal from service was based, according to the petitioner, on the judgment of conviction alone, passed by the Trial Judge.

4. It also appears, according to the prosecution case before the Criminal Court, that the petitioner was caught red-handed on 15.12.1978 accepting a bribe of Rs.30/-. He was immediately arrested. The petitioner was suspended from service by an order dated 18.12.1978. During the period of suspension, the petitioner was paid half his salary, including allowances as per standing orders of the State Government. This happened in the interregnum between the petitioner's arrest and his conviction by the Criminal Court. What happened after the judgment of conviction was passed by the Trial Judge, has already been said and need not be repeated.

5. The petitioner challenged his conviction by the Trial Judge before this Court by preferring an appeal, being Criminal Appeal No. 2187 of 1983. The appeal was heard and allowed by this Court vide judgment and order dated 01.02.2023 and the petitioner was acquitted. The acquittal, however, was one extending the benefit of doubt. Post acquittal, the petitioner lodged an application before the Executive Engineer, Tubewell Division, Bareilly and the Superintending Engineer, Tubewell Central, Lucknow, requesting that in accordance with Government Orders on the subject, the respondents may pay half salary to the petitioner between 15.12.1978 and 05.09.1983 and full salary from 05.09.1983 until the petitioner's superannuation in the year 2016. He also requested that he may be sanctioned and paid his retirement pension. Representations to this effect were made on 24.02.2023 and 22.03.2023. No action was taken on any of these applications/representations.

6. It is the petitioner's case that he had never committed any offence, but was implicated falsely on account of someone's grudge and ill will. Now that he has been acquitted, it is the petitioner's case that he is entitled to his salary and pension. The inaction of the respondents to restore him to status and the incidents of it, despite acquittal by the Court of appeal, a status that was taken away upon conviction by the Trial Court, is an act on the respondents' part that is illegal, arbitrary and unjust. On the foot of these facts and urging his case as aforesaid, the petitioner has instituted the present writ petition.

7. To the extent of the facts and events leading to the petitioner's dismissal from service on account of his conviction in the criminal case on charges of corruption by the Trial Judge and his subsequent acquittal in appeal by this Court, the parties are ad idem.

8. A short counter affidavit has been filed by respondent Nos.3, 4 and 5, followed by a counter affidavit on behalf of all the respondents. The short counter affidavit does not say much on the issues raised and was necessitated because the petitioner's records had gone untraceable. This affidavit was filed with the service records relating to the petitioner, which was until then untraceable. Later on, these were traced out and produced before the Court and duly perused. A counter affidavit was then filed on behalf of all the respondents, answering the petitioner's case on the merits.

9. Apart from facts and issues noticed hereinbefore, where parties are not at conflict, it is averred in paragraph No.7 of the counter affidavit that the petitioner's acquittal by this Court was not an honourable one, but extending the benefit of doubt. In paragraph No.8 of the counter affidavit, it is pleaded that the total period, during which the petitioner rendered service, was one year and three months. Whatever GPF is due, the same is being calculated and will be paid to the petitioner. It is emphasized that the petitioner having retired seven years prior to the judgment of acquittal dated 01.02.2023, there cannot be any reinstatement for him. It is emphasized that the petitioner has not done any official work from 15.12.1978 to 31.01.2016, the latter being the date of his superannuation. It is also pleaded that the respondents have no role in the criminal case launched against the petitioner. He is solely responsible for his conviction. It is averred that it is on account of the petitioner's own misdeeds that he was arrested and subsequently convicted, which led to his dismissal from service. It has been pleaded that under such circumstances, the petitioner is not entitled to salary or emoluments, as claimed by him in his representations to the District Magistrate.

10. Learned Counsel for the petitioner waived his opportunity to file a rejoinder, consequent upon which the petition was admitted to hearing and heard forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

11. Heard Mr. Darwari Lal, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents.

12. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner would be entitled to reinstatement in the event the judgment of acquittal had been passed before the date of his superannuation. According to the learned Counsel for the petitioner, this is so for reason that the petitioner's dismissal from service vide order dated 28.12.1983, ordered by the Executive Engineer, was in consequence of the judgment of conviction passed by the learned Trial Judge in the criminal case. There were no disciplinary proceedings held against the petitioner, holding him guilty. Now that the petitioner has retired from service, the respondents are obliged to pay him salary for the entire period that he has remained out of service, the balance of his salary for the period that he suffered suspension pending trial, and also retirement pension, which is the logical incident of his status as an employee of the respondents, that must be deemed to have been restored to him upon his acquittal in the criminal case, on appeal by this Court.

13. On the other hand, Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that the petitioner has not been honourably acquitted, but granted the benefit of doubt. If the judgment had been rendered during the period of time that he was still on the right side of his age of superannuation, the respondents would have the option of instituting disciplinary proceedings against him on the same charges on which he was tried, and determining the worth of the charge by a different standard, that is applicable to disciplinary proceedings. The judgment of the Criminal Court would not foreclose that avenue for the respondents.

14. It is submitted in the alternative that even if the petitioner be entitled to reinstatement in service upon the judgment of acquittal passed by this Court in appeal, now that the petitioner has retired, it is not a case where he can be paid his emoluments for not rendering any work during the time period between the judgment of the Trial Court and this Court. For the same reason, since the petitioner has not rendered any work, ever since his suspension from service, way back in the year 1978 until the date of his superannuation in the year 2016, the petitioner would not be entitled to any retirement pension.

15. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court finds that the petitioner has been placed in circumstances where hardly any relief can be extended to him, though, may be, not for much fault of his. Learned Counsel for both parties have not brought to this Court's notice the service rules applicable to the petitioner, governing a situation like the present one, to wit, where the employee is convicted in a criminal case. But, it is safe to assume that the service rules would follow what Article 311 provides, if they are to be regarded constitutionally valid. Article 311 the Constitution provides:

“311. Dismissal, removal or reduction in rank of persons employed in civil capacities under the Union or a State.—(1) No person who is a member of a civil service of the Union or an all-India service or a civil service of a State or holds a civil post under the Union or a State shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed.

(2) No such person as aforesaid shall be dismissed or removed or reduced in rank except after an inquiry in which he has been informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges:

Provided that where it is proposed after such inquiry, to impose upon him any such penalty, such penalty may be imposed on the basis of the evidence adduced during such inquiry and it shall not be necessary to give such person any opportunity of making representation on the penalty proposed:

Provided further that this clause shall not apply—

(a) where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that for some reason, to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry; or

(c) where the President or the Governor, as the case may be, is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the State it is not expedient to hold such inquiry.

(3) If, in respect of any such person as aforesaid, a question arises whether it is reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry as is referred to in clause (2), the decision thereon of the authority empowered to dismiss or remove such person or to reduce him in rank shall be final.”

16. A perusal of Article 311 shows that the normal rule, governing the dismissal or removal of a member of a civil service of the Union or the civil service of a State, or one who is holding a civil post under the Union or a State, mandates that no such dismissal etc. can be ordered unless the employee concerned has been informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of hearing. This rule envisaged under Article 311 (2) makes it mandatory that before an order of dismissal etc. can be passed against the holder of a civil post under the State, departmental proceedings have to be convened, that involve holding of a departmental inquiry in accordance with procedure prescribed under the relevant rules applicable. Some salutary principles about the holding of such inquiry have also to be followed.

17. Clause (a) of the proviso to Article 311 (2), however, carves out an exception in a case where the employee is dismissed or removed etc. on ground of conduct, which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge. Therefore, while it was lawful for the respondents to have dismissed the petitioner from service upon his conviction by the Trial Judge on charges under the Prevention of Corruption Act, involving acceptance of illegal gratification, the order was passed not on the employer's own opinion about the charges. It was merely a consequence of the judgment of conviction passed by the Trial Judge in the criminal case.

18. Now that the petitioner has been acquitted in appeal, if indeed, he had not superannuated, the respondents would be obliged to reinstate him in service, may be without paying anything for the period of time that he was out of employment. They would still have the option, if they so elected, considering the case and the evidence appearing against the petitioner, to initiate disciplinary proceedings against him, holding an inquiry on the relative charge. If they could indeed have done so, can now only be a subject matter of speculation. In Ranchhodji Chaturji Thakore v. Superintendent Engineer, Gujarat Electricity Board, Himmatnagar (Gujarat) and another, (1996) 11 SCC 603, the facts would show that the petitioner was charged for an offence of murder punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC. The Sessions Judge convicted him and awarded life imprisonment. On the foot of this judgment, the petitioner, who was a Junior Clerk, employed with the Electricity Board, was dismissed from service. The petitioner challenged his dismissal from service by a writ petition before the High Court. While the writ petition was pending, in the appeal carried by the petitioner from the Trial Judge's order, he was acquitted. The learned Single Judge, before whom the writ petition came up, taking into consideration the petitioner's acquittal by the High Court in appeal, directed his reinstatement in service with continuity, but denied back wages. The petitioner's Letters Patent Appeal was dismissed by the Division Bench. It was in the context of of these facts that it was held by the Supreme Court in Ranchhodji Chaturji Thakore (supra):

“3. The reinstatement of the petitioner into the service has already been ordered by the High Court. The only question is whether he is entitled to back wages. It was his conduct of involving himself in the crime that was taken into account for his not being in service of the respondent. Consequent upon his acquittal, he is entitled to reinstatement for the reason that his service was terminated on the basis of the conviction by operation of proviso to the statutory rules applicable to the situation. The question of back wages would be considered only if the respondents have taken action by way of disciplinary proceedings and the action was found to be unsustainable in law and he was unlawfully prevented from discharging the duties. In that context, his conduct becomes relevant. Each case requires to be considered in its own backdrop. In this case, since the petitioner had involved himself in a crime, though he was later acquitted, he had disabled himself from rendering the service on account of conviction and incarceration in jail. Under these circumstances, the petitioner is not entitled to payment of back wages. The learned Single Judge and the Division Bench have not committed any error of law warranting interference.”

19. In Union of India and others v. Jaipal Singh, (2004) 1 SCC 121, the employee was charged with murder and convicted by the Trial Judge for the said offence by his judgment and order dated 05.03.1997. On appeal, the Division Bench acquitted him. Despite the acquittal, the employee was not reinstated in service. He petitioned the High Court, which allowed the writ petition, granting reinstatement with full back wages and consequential benefits. On appeal by special leave by the Union of India from the judgment of the High Court, the order was modified to provide that the employee would be entitled to back wages from the date of acquittal, though the period for which the employee remained out of service, will be counted towards service without any break. The reinstatement was not disturbed. What was, therefore, denied by the Supreme Court were wages for the period that the employee remained out of service on account of the judgment of conviction passed by the Trial Court. In Jaipal Singh (supra), it was observed by the Supreme Court:

“4. On a careful consideration of the matter and the materials on record, including the judgment and orders brought to our notice, we are of the view that it is well accepted that an order rejecting a special leave petition at the threshold without detailed reasons therefor does not constitute any declaration of law by this Court or constitute a binding precedent. Per contra, the decision relied upon by the appellant is one on merits and for reasons specifically recorded therefor it operates as a binding precedent as well. On going through the same, we are in respectful agreement with the view taken in Ranchhodji [(1996) 11 SCC 603 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 491] . If prosecution, which ultimately resulted in acquittal of the person concerned was at the behest of or by the department itself, perhaps different considerations may arise. On the other hand, if as a citizen the employee or a public servant got involved in a criminal case and if after initial conviction by the trial Court, he gets acquittal on appeal subsequently, the department cannot in any manner be found fault with for having kept him out of service, since the law obliges a person convicted of an offence to be so kept out and not to be retained in service. Consequently, the reasons given in the decision relied upon, for the appellants are not only convincing but are in consonance with reasonableness as well. Though exception taken to that part of the order directing reinstatement cannot be sustained and the respondent has to be reinstated in service, for the reason that the earlier discharge was on account of those criminal proceedings and conviction only, the appellants are well within their rights to deny back wages to the respondent for the period he was not in service. The appellants cannot be made liable to pay for the period for which they could not avail of the services of the respondent. The High Court, in our view, committed a grave error, in allowing back wages also, without advertent to all such relevant aspects and considerations. Consequently, the order of the High Court insofar as it directed payment of back wages is liable to be and is hereby set aside.”

20. In Raj Narain v. Union of India and others, (2019) 5 SCC 809, a much later decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court, the facts show that the employee was working as a Sorting Assistant in the Railway Mail Service at Mughalsarai. He was placed under suspension in contemplation of disciplinary proceedings on allegations of forgery, which led to payment of high-value money orders. A First Information Report was lodged against the employee. The order of suspension was revoked on 21.10.1987, in consequence of which he worked till 28.02.1997. However, upon conviction by the Trial Judge in the criminal case, he was dismissed from service on 28.02.1997. On appeal, the employee succeeded and a judgment of acquittal was passed in his favour. The appellant claimed reinstatement, which the employers refused. The order refusing reinstatement said that as he was dismissed from service more than six years ago, he could not be reinstated. The order declining reinstatement was challenged before the Central Administrative Tribunal. The Tribunal allowed the Original Application and directed the employee's reinstatement with benefit of seniority and notional fixation of pay together with increments from the date of his dismissal till reinstatement. The Tribunal, nevertheless, denied back wages for the period that the employee was not in service. The employee was reinstated in compliance with the Tribunal's order. The employee's claim for full emoluments during the period of suspension was also declined by the employers. The employee preferred a writ petition against the Tribunal's judgment, by which he was denied back wages. The High Court partly allowed the writ petition, holding him entitled to full back wages from the date of his acquittal until his reinstatement. The employee then carried the matter in appeal to the Supreme Court by special leave to the extent that he was denied back wages for the period between his dismissal from service and the judgment of acquittal in his favour. Their Lordships considered both Ranchhodji Chaturji Thakore and Jaipal Singh, and, explained the distinction between a criminal case initiated by the employers and one instituted by the Police, without the employers' involvement and its impact on the claim for back wages in the event of acquittal.

21. In Raj Narain (supra) one feature that was noticed by the Court was the fact that departmental proceedings had been initiated in relation to conduct that had led to the criminal prosecution with the employee being placed under suspension in contemplation of disciplinary proceedings, but the disciplinary proceedings were dropped on 21.03.1983, which was much before his conviction by the Criminal Court on 28.02.1997, when he was also dismissed from service. The employee was held entitled to backwages from the date of his acquittal as directed by the High Court and also full salary from the date of his suspension to the date of his reinstatement, because the disciplinary proceedings were dropped. However, back wages were not granted for the period that the employee remained out of employment on account of the order of dismissal following conviction by the Trial Judge.

22. In Raj Narain, considering the various facts and how the law would bear upon it, it was held:

“5. This Court in Ranchhodji Chaturji Thakore [Ranchhodji Chaturji Thakore v. Gujarat Electricity Board, (1996) 11 SCC 603 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 491] considered the case of an employee who sought back wages for the period he was kept out of duty during the pendency of a criminal case for his involvement in an offence under Section 302 IPC. The claim of the petitioner therein was that he was entitled to full wages on his acquittal by the criminal court. This Court rejected the said submission by holding that the question of payment of back wages would arise only in case of termination of service, pursuant to findings recorded in a departmental enquiry. In the event of the dismissal order being set aside by the Court, the delinquent employee would be entitled to claim back wages as he was unlawfully kept away from duty by the employer. This Court was of the opinion that an employee against whom criminal proceedings are initiated would stand on a different footing in comparison to an employee facing a departmental enquiry. The employee involved in a crime has disabled himself from rendering his services on account of his incarceration in jail. Subsequent acquittal by an appellate court would not entitle him to claim back wages.

6. The decision of Ranchhodji Chaturji Thakore [Ranchhodji Chaturji Thakore v. Gujarat Electricity Board,

(1996) 11 SCC 603 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 491] was followed by this Court in Union of India v. Jaipal Singh [Union of India v. Jaipal Singh, (2004) 1 SCC 121 : 2004 SCC (L&S) 12] to refuse back wages to an employee who was initially convicted for an offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and later acquitted by the High Court in a criminal appeal. While refusing to grant relief to the petitioner therein, this Court held that subsequent acquittal would not entitle an employee to seek back wages. However, this Court was of the opinion that if the prosecution is launched at the behest of the department and the employee is acquitted, different considerations may arise. The learned counsel for the appellant endeavoured to distinguish the prosecution launched by the police for involvement of an employee in a criminal case and the criminal proceedings initiated at the behest of the employer. The observation made in the judgment in Union of India v. Jaipal Singh [Union of India v. Jaipal Singh, (2004) 1 SCC 121 : 2004 SCC (L&S) 12] has to be understood in a manner in which the department would become liable for back wages in the event of a finding that the initiation of the criminal proceedings was mala fide or with vexatious intent. In all other cases, we do not see any difference between initiation of the criminal proceedings by the department vis-à-vis a criminal case lodged by the police. For example, if an employee is involved in embezzlement of funds or is found indulging in demand and acceptance of illegal gratification, the employer cannot be mulcted with full back wages on the acquittal of the person by a criminal court, unless it is found that the prosecution is malicious.

7. The point that remains to be considered is whether the appellant is entitled to payment of full wages between 1979 and 1987. The appellant was placed under suspension on 23-10-1979 and his suspension was revoked on 21-10-1987. An interesting development took place during the interregnum by which the disciplinary proceedings were dropped on 21-3-1983. It is clear from the record that the appellant was the one who was seeking postponement of the departmental enquiry in view of the pendency of criminal case. The order of suspension was in contemplation of disciplinary proceedings. By virtue of the disciplinary proceedings being dropped, the appellant becomes entitled to claim full salary for the period from the date of his suspension till the date of closure of the departmental enquiry. Thereafter, the respondents took four years to reinstate him by revoking his suspension. The order of suspension dated 23-10-1979 came to an end on 21-3-1983 which is the date on which disciplinary proceedings were dropped. The appellant ought to have been reinstated immediately thereafter unless a fresh order was passed, placing him under suspension during the pendency of the criminal trial which did not happen. Ultimately, the appellant was reinstated by an order dated 21-10-1987 by revocation of the order of suspension. Though, technically, the learned Additional Solicitor General is right in submitting that the impugned judgment does not even refer to the IA, we are not inclined to remit the matter to the High Court at this stage for fresh consideration of this point. We hold that the appellant is entitled for full wages from 23-10-1979 to 21-10-1987 after adjustment of the amounts already paid towards subsistence allowance.”

23. This is a case where no departmental proceedings were ever initiated and the dismissal order was founded entirely on the judgment of the

27. Costs easy.

A. Service Law – U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 1998 – Rule 11 – Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – Regulations 55 to 61 – Transfer of Principal – Petitioner Moulabi Ram challenged transfer order dated 30.06.2023 of respondent Ramyash as Principal of Goverdhan Inter College, Jaunpur – Requisition for direct recruitment sent on 16.04.2021 – Held, requisition sent by Manager on 16.04.2021 valid despite being offline, as procedural irregularity curable and no substantial injustice caused – Government Order dated 13.08.2021 prohibits transfer against requisitioned vacancy – Requisition predates transfer order, rendering it unsustainable – Equity favors Moulabi Ram, an officiating Principal, over Ramyash, a settled Principal – Tata Chemical Ltd. Vs Commissioner of Customs and Krishna Rai Vs Banaras Hindu University relied upon for procedural compliance – Transfer order quashed, Moulabi Ram's writ petition allowed, Ramyash's writ petition dismissed. (Para 12-20)

Writ petition of Moulabi Ram allowed; writ petition of Ramyash dismissed; writ petition of Mahatim Singh de-tagged for separate hearing.

List of Cases cited:

1. Tata Chemical Ltd. Vs Commissioner of Customs; (2015) 11 SCC 628
2. Krishna Rai Vs Banaras Hindu University; (2022) 8 SCC 713

1. Heard Sri V.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ramesh Chandra Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner in Writ - A No. 11297 of 2023. Sri Naresh Chandra Tripathi, learned Advocate appearing for 5th respondent and also petitioners' counsel in Writ - A No. 17926 of 2023 and Sri Trilok Nath Dubey, learned Advocate appearing for Committee of Management in both the petitions as well as Sri P.K. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondent.

2. These three above captioned writ petitions have been filed by Moulabi Ram, Ramyash and Mahatim Singh respectively. While Moulabi Ram is seeking a writ of certiorari for quashing the order of transfer dated 30.06.2023 in respect of Ramyash impleaded as 5th respondent, Ramyash the petitioner in his writ petition seeks a writ of certiorari quashing the order dated 20.07.2023 putting in abeyance his transfer order upon a representation dated 15.07.2023 of Moulabi Ram who is impleaded as 7th respondent in his writ petition. He further seeks a writ of mandamus to give him joining as Principal of Goverdhan Inter College, Muftiganj, Jaunpur pursuant to the transfer order dated 30.06.2023. One Mahatim Singh who is working as Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade in the Institution in question, questions the promotion of Moulabi Ram as Lecturer (Sociology) as according to him on the date of occurrence of the said vacancy i.e. 01.07.2007 he was not having experience of five years' continuous regular service in L.T. Grade and so also did not possess the academic qualification as per Appendix - A.

3. Looking to the facts pleaded by respective parties in the writ petitions and their grounds for relief claimed and as the learned Advocates appearing for respective parties agree, in my considered view also the controversy between Moulabi Ram and Ramyash is required to be decided in the first instance. The transfer order of Ramyash is under challenge in the petition of Moulabi Ram and there is a prayer for mandamus also in the writ petition of Ramyash to give him joining. The order putting in abeyance the transfer order of Ramyash can be considered while deciding these two petitions first and so far as Mahatim Singh's writ petition is concerned, it involves an entirely different issue and therefore, it can be decided separately.

4. Coming to the writ petition of Moulabi Ram, the facts pleaded are that on account of regular Principal Bhaiya Lal Yadav attaining the age of superannuation on 31.03.2021 he was appointed as Officiating Principal of the Institution w.e.f. 01.04.2021 and his signatures were attested by the District Inspector of Schools on 13.04.2021, however, for a short period between 30.06.2022 to 20.08.2022 attestation of petitioner's signatures as officiating Principal was put in abeyance but then it was restored. It is pleaded in the writ petition that, when the post of Principal of the Institution substantively fell vacant, a requisition was sent to the District Inspector of Schools on 19.09.2020 for seeking direct recruitment by the Board as per Rule 11(1) and 11(2) of the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 1998. Later on another requisition was sent to the board through the District Inspector of Schools on 16.04.2021. The transfer order of the 5th respondent Ramyash came to be issued only on 30.06.2023. Taking the legal plea of the Government order dated 27.01.2021, wherein transfer is not permissible in the event post of the Principal has been requisitioned, present petition was filed challenging the transfer of the 5th respondent dated 30.06.2023.

5. It transpires further that while this writ petition was pending admission before this Court, petitioner Moulabi Ram approached the Additional Director of Education (Secondary), U.P. by means of representation dated 15.07.2023 to the effect that since he has challenged the transfer order and writ petition was listed for hearing on 30.07.2023 the transfer order may be stayed and the Additional Director of Education (Secondary), U.P. on his own stayed the transfer order vide order dated 20.07.2023, which led to the filing of writ petition by Ramyash being Writ - A No. 17926 of 2023 placing reliance upon the Government Order dated 14.06.2019 according to which if the requisition has not been sent for the post of Principal to the Board online then on the basis of report regarding existence of vacancy, transfers could be made.

6. The argument advanced by learned Senior Advocate appearing for petitioner Moulabi Ram is that the Government Order dated 14.06.2019 has subsequently been superseded by the Government Order dated 27.01.2021, which provides that even if the requisition has been sent to the Board no transfer can be made against such vacancy, may be the vacancy does not stand advertised on the date of consideration of application for transfer. The other argument raised is that requisition was duly sent for the post of Principal of the Institution on 21.09.2019 itself and in the event it is claimed to have not been sent by the Management, the requisition was again sent on 16.04.2021 for the second time, which the State in its instruction given by the District Inspector of Schools on 25.11.2023 has admitted to have received on 23.04.2021. So in any case, there was a requisition sent for appointment prior to the transfer order dated 30.06.2023 and thus, according to him, transfer was bad.

7. To justify the requisition sent on 16.04.2021 under the signatures of the Manager upon prescribed form and with details, it is contended that the offline requisitions were being entertained by the District Inspector of Schools and in this regard a letter was issued by the office of District Inspector of Schools on 19.08.2020 to all the Managers and Principals of the recognized and aided Higher Secondary and Intermediate Schools for sending offline applications in triplicate within a week. It is contended also that no letter was received in the school/ college for sending requisition online.

8. Per contra, Sri N.C. Tripathi, learned Advocate appearing for 4th respondent Ramyash and petitioner in Writ - A No. 17926 of 2023 contended that the Additional Director of Education (Secondary) had written a letter to all the District Inspector of Schools (first and second) on 03.03.2020 that requisition should be made qua available vacancy on a prescribed format by 15.03.2020 as the exercise was to be undertaken to process transfer applications in terms of regulation 55 to 61 of Chapter III (as amended) of Intermediate Education Act, 1921. The seven point directives were appended to this letter and therefore, the requisition was to be sent meeting all the seven points by the Manager and not by the Principal of the Institution. So according to him the requisition sent by the Principal of the Institution on 19.09.2020 as is brought on record, was neither by the competent authority namely the Manager of the Institution in terms of Rule 11 of 1998 Rules, nor was upon prescribed format issued by the Additional Director of Education.

9. In so far as the second requisition sent by the Manager on 16.04.2021 received in the office of District Inspector of Schools on 23.04.2021 is concerned, it was argued that this requisition offline was not permissible in law for the reason that the Secretary of U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board, Prayagraj had already written letter on 02.12.2021 to all the District Inspector of Schools of Uttar Pradesh to direct that Institution to upload their respective requisitions online between 03.12.2021 and 17.12.2021 when the website would remain open and available.

10. According to him this letter was further circulated by the District Inspector of Schools to the Managers of the recognized and aided Institutions and therefore, offline requisition was not entertainable. It was submitted that according to the rules as applicable to the Secondary Education Services Selection Board, it can adopt mode and methodology to invite and entertain applications, inasmuch as, the amended regulations also provided for entertaining online transfer applications to be registered. In support of the transfer order meeting the conditions as prescribed under the relevant regulations, Sri Tripathi submitted that after obtaining the report from the District Inspector of Schools regarding existence of substantive vacancy in the Institution in question that application of Ramyash for transfer came to be expedited and his name got enlisted in the combined list of transfers that was issued on 30.06.2023. Sri Tripathi further argued that merely because petitioner Moulabi Ram had filed a writ petition before this Court, it would not have changed the circumstances either, in the absence of any interim order in the writ petition filed by Moulabi Ram. The Additional Director of Education (Secondary) exceeded his authority in putting in abeyance the transfer order of the petitioner.

11. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and their arguments raised across the bar, the legal issue that arises for consideration before this Court is two fold:

(a) whether the two requisitions made by the Principal and Manager of the Committee of Management of the Institution namely Goverdhan Inter College, Muftiganj, Jaunpur were valid requisitions within the meaning and scope of Rule 11 of 1998 Rules; and

(b) whether in the event of requisitions sent to the Board through proper channel for the post of Principal of the Institution, the transfer can still be made against such vacancy taking aid to the regulations 59 to 61 of Chapter III of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921.

12. In order to appreciate the arguments of respective parties as to the first point, I find it more appropriate to go first through the rules qua determination and notification of vacancies as prescribed under rule 11 of 1998 Rules. For ready reference rule 11 is reproduced hereunder:

"11. Determination and notification of vacancies. - (1) For the purposes of direct recruitment to the post of teacher, the Management shall determine the number of vacancies in accordance with sub-section (1) of Section 10 and notify the vacancies through the Inspector, to the Board in the manner hereinafter provided.

(2) (a) The statement of vacancies for each category of posts to be filled in by direct recruitment including the vacancies that are likely to arise due to retirement on the last day of the year of recruitment, shall be sent in quadruplicate, in the pro forma given in Appendix "A" by the Management to the Inspector by July 15 of the year of recruitment and the Inspector shall, after verification from the record of his office, prepare consolidated statement of vacancies of the district subjectwise in respect of the vacancies of lecturer grade, and group wise in respect of vacancies of Trained graduates grade. The consolidated statement so prepared shall, along with the copies of statement received from the Management, be sent by the Inspector to the Board by July 31 with a copy thereof to the Joint Director :

Provided that if the State Government is satisfied that it is expedient so to do, it may, by order in writing, fix other dates for notification of vacancies to the Board in respect of any particular year of recruitment :

Provided further that in respect of the vacancies existing on the date of the commencement of these rules as well as the vacancies that are likely to arise on June 30, 1998, the Management shall, unless some other dates are fixed under the preceding proviso, send the statement of vacancies by July 20, 1998 to the Inspector and the Inspector shall send the consolidated statement in accordance with this sub-rule to the Board by July 25, 1998.

Explanation. - For the purposes of this sub-rule the word 'groupwise' in respect of time Trained graduates grade means in accordance with the following groups, namely :

(a) Language This group consists of the subjects of Hindi, Sanskrit, Urdu, Persian and Arabic;

(b) Science This group consists of the subjects of Science and Mathematics;

(c) Art and Craft

(d) Music

(e) Agriculture

(f) Home Science

(g) Physical Education

(h) General This group consists of the subjects not covered in any of the foregoing groups.

(b) With regard to the post of Principal or Headmaster, the Management shall also forward the names of two senior most teachers, along with copies of their service records (including character rolls) and such other records or particulars as the Board may require, from time to time.

Explanation. - For the purpose of this sub-rule "senior-most teacher" means the senior-most teacher in time post of the highest grade in time institution, irrespective of total service put in the institution.

(3) If, after the vacancies have been notified under sub-rule (2), any vacancy in the post of a teacher occurs, the Management shall, within fifteen days of its occurrence, notify to the Inspector in accordance with the said sub-rule and the Inspector shall within ten days of its receipt by him send it to the Board.

(4) Where, for any year of recruitment, the Management does not notify the vacancies by the date specified in sub-rule (2) or fails to notify them in accordance with the said sub-rule, the Inspector shall on the basis of the record of his office, determine the vacancies in such institution in accordance with sub-section (1) of Section 10 and notify them to the Board in the manner and by the date referred to in the said sub-rule. They vacancies to the Board under this sub-rule shall be deemed to be notified by the Management of such institution.”

13. Upon bare reading of aforesaid provisions, I find that sub rule (1) of Rule 11 permits notification of vacancies to the Board through the District Inspector of Schools in the manner provided for. The manner is given in sub rule (2) of Rule 11 of the Rules, 1998, according to which the vacancies that are likely to arise due to retirement on the last day of the year of recruitment shall also be sent to the District Inspector of Schools by July 15 of the year of recruitment and then the District Inspector of Schools after due verification from the records of his office shall prepare a consolidated statement of vacancies subject wise and group wise of Lecturers and TGT as the case may be and then forward the same to the Board by 31st of July with a copy thereof to the Joint Director of Education. So in any case, the determination of vacancy under Rule 10 read with Rule 11(1) and (2) by 15th July all the vacancies that are likely to occur till 30th June next year would be sent to the District Inspector of Schools on a proforma prescribed under Appendix - A and that too in triplicate. So the duty is cast upon the Management to determine the vacancies and forward the same and not upon the Principal of the Institution. The second thing that bornes out is that the vacancies falling vacant in the year of recruitment by 30th June next also shall have to be requisitioned and that too on format given in Appendix – A of Intermediate Education Act, 1921.

14. It is also well settled law that when a thing is required to be done in a particular manner, that thing should be done in that manner alone. So, if the statutory rules provide for intimating a vacancy or in other words requisitioning a vacancy for direct recruitment by a particular authority then it should be done by that particular authority only under his signatures and still further, it should be on the same format/ proforma as prescribed for. In the case of Tata Chemical Ltd. v. Commissioner of Customs (2015) 11 SCC 628, it has been settled by the Hon’ble Supreme Court that “if the law requires that something be done in a particular manner, it must be done in that manner, and if not done in that manner has no existence in the eye of the law at all.” This has been reiterated by Supreme Court in the case of Krishna Rai v Banaras Hindu University (2022) 8 SCC 713).

15. Testing the first requisition claimed by petitioner Moulabi Ram sent on 19.09.2020, I find that it does not bear signatures of Manager at all. It had been sent upon a common office pad of the Principal and Manager of Goverdhan Inter College, Muftiganj, Jaunpur but bore the signature and seal of Principal only and the proforma annexed as per Appendix – A, did not bear any signature either of the Principal or the Manager and so also the certificates appended thereto regarding vacancy falling vacant on 31.03.2021 and that vacancy was not disputed one, had been signed by the Principal only. Further, I do not find there to be any compliance of the provisions for sending two names of senior most teachers of the Institution along with the requisition and still further, I do not find there to be any compliance of the letter issued by the Additional Director of Education (Secondary), U.P. dated 03.03.2020. While it could be said that the letter dated 03.03.2020 was sent to the District Inspector of Schools and was not even marked to the Management but I do not find the requisition to be valid enough on the score of the prescribed procedure and method given under Rule 11 of the 1998 Rules.

16. Coming to the second requisition claimed to have been sent by the Manager of the Institution on 16.04.2021 even though details appended thereto have not been annexed but it will be taken to have been received in the office of the District Inspector of Schools on 23.04.2021 as per the admission made in the instructions given by District Inspector of Schools dated 25.11.2023. The requisition this time of course bore the signatures of both the Manager and Principal of the Institution. So while the requisition sent on 19.09.2020 cannot be a valid requisition being signed by the Principal only, second requisition sent on 16.04.2021 will be taken to have been sent by the competent authority namely the Manager. However, the issue that remains to be resolved in order to hold requisition dated 16.04.2021 to be valid, as to whether the Manager was justified in sending the requisition offline instead online between 03.12.2021 to 12.12.2021 as per the directives issued on 02.12.2021 to all the District Inspector of Schools of Uttar Pradesh. Rule 11(2) clearly stipulates that the vacancies have to be intimated to District Inspector of Schools who after due verification shall send the same to the Board but the requisition has to be sent by 15th July. Since vacancy in question was to fall vacant on 31.03.2021, therefore, vacancy was to be sent by 15.07.2020, as 1st July 2020 to 30th June 2021 will be the recruitment year. As the recruitment year starts from 1st July 2020 to the following 30th June 2021, the process had started to consider applications for transfer of available vacancies in the relevant financial year if available vacancy was neither requisitioned, nor advertised. However, consideration had yet not started qua application of transfer and any process if was under way, validity of a transfer is to be seen on the date of its issuance. Admittedly transfer order was issued on 30.06.2023 and so it is to be seen as to whether requisition had been made of the post in question prior to this date. District Inspector of Schools has admitted to have received requisition on 23.04.2021, a date much prior to transfer order. However, now the legal issue is to be answered as to whether requisition sent on 16.04.2021 received by District Inspector of Schools on 23.04.2021 was a valid requisition having been sent off line. The letter of the District Inspector of Schools dated 19.08.2020 acknowledges off line requisition provided thus:

requisition had been sent to District Inspector of Schools off line would not have rendered it null and void. Rules, 1998 do not provide for any mode of sending requisition but acknowledge its route via office of District Inspector of Schools. The District Inspector of Schools was a responsible authority and it was his duty to send it back to the Institution same day for online sending or ought to have sent it himself using his good offices. Such intimation if was kept unforwarded by the District Inspector of Schools, it could not be presumed that there was no requisition to justify action to fill up the vacancy by transfer after receipt of requisition in the office of District Inspector of Schools on 23.04.2021.

18. Offline requisition of a vacancy for direct recruitment cannot be a ground itself to hold that Board has no authority to advertise such vacancy. It is only a procedural aspect of a matter and substantive power do not get adversely affected or diluted for such irregularity. Procedural irregularities are curable until it is established that someone's rights are adversely affected to cause him substantial injustice or may result in miscarriage of justice. But for this hyper technical stand that requisition was sent but only offline, otherwise, had it been online as on 16.04.2021, no such transfer could have been made on 30.06.2023. It was respondent education authority's own stand that online requisition of intimation was not possible due to server problem and so offline requisitions were invited. Transfer is not a vested right as such. It depends upon many factors and availability of vacancy at a desired place is a sine qua non. Requisition sent through the District Inspector of Schools was not such a serious irregularity that transfer should be permitted to deny the claim of senior teacher participating in the selection by way of direct recruitment as an internal candidate. Continuance of such a teacher as an Officiating Principal would not cause such a serious loss of opportunity to the transferee Principal that if his transfer is not sustained any miscarriage of justice would take place.

17. It is true that Board required later on online requisition, but merely because a

19. The Government Order dated 13.08.2021 is to be read in supersession to the Government Order dated 27.01.2020. The earlier Government Order dated 27.01.2020 vide clause 12 very much provided that “a transfer application can be filed in respect of a vacancy which may have been requisitioned but not advertised.

“4- अध्याचित पदों के सापेक्ष स्थानान्तरण नहीं किया जाना है, अतः स्थानान्तरण आदेश निर्गत होने के उपरान्त अध्याचित पद के सापेक्ष स्थानान्तरण होने का संज्ञान होने पर स्थानान्तरण आदेश स्वतः निरस्त समझा जायेगा।”

20. One must always bear in mind that appointment with it entails a number of rights and duties. Rights are to receive pay perquisites, periodical promotional pay scales and other allowance and duties are to carry out work entrusted diligently and honestly. Transfer is incidence of service where posts are subject to routine transfers but where cadre is Institution wise or establishment wise, it all depends upon available vacancies and agreement of establishment where transfer is sought. Such rights are recognized but are not absolute and comparing the rights of petitioner Moulabi Ram with that of Ram Yash, equity finds favour with Moulabi Ram. Petitioner Ramyash is a settled Principal of an Institution and may get an opportunity of transfer to another Institution of choice in future but if vacancy of institution in question is not subjected to recruitment, petitioner Moulabi Ram will suffer more loss. So basically, while I hold that requisition was sent in respect of the vacancy in question on 16.04.2021 was valid and so also much prior to the transfer list and order issued on 30.06.2023, I hold the impugned transfer order to be unsustainable and even equity favours more claim of Moulabi Ram than that of Ramyash.

21. In view of the above, writ petition of Moulabi Ram being Writ – A No. 11279 of 2023 succeeds and is allowed. The order of transfer dated 30.06.2023 issued in favour of respondent Ramyash is hereby quashed. In the circumstances writ petition of Ramyash being Writ – A No. 17926 of 2023 is hereby dismissed. Writ petition No. 7516 of 2023 filed by Mahatim Singh is de-tagged and is directed to be listed separately before appropriate bench.

2. Raj Narain Vs U.O.I.; (2019) 5 SCC 809

1. Heard Sri Vimal Chandra Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Petitioner before this Court, who is working as a Routine Grade Clerk in the institution, namely Government Girls Inter College, Fatehpur, is aggrieved by the order dated 1st May, 2018, whereby petitioner's claim for regular payment of salary for the period he remained under suspension on account of involvement in a criminal case, has come to be rejected.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that petitioner while working as Routine Grade Clerk in the institution came to be implicated in connection with criminal offence registered as Case Crime No.- 177 of 2009 under Sections 396, 412, 201 & 120-B I.P.C., District - Fatehpur and remained in jail from 9th August, 2009 to 1st August, 2010 and then continued in detention from 1st August, 2010 on-wards until he was finally released pursuant to the judgment of the acquittal passed by the Sessions Court dated 30th January, 2016 in Sessions Trial No.- 606 of 2010, on 6th February, 2016. As a consequence to the implication of the petitioner in a criminal case and detention in jail, he had also been placed under suspension by the disciplinary authority vide order dated 5th October, 2009, however, no disciplinary proceeding was initiated ever against the petitioner and after his acquittal in the criminal case and consequentially being released from jail, he came and joined the institution pursuant to the order of reinstatement dated 4th October, 2016 revoking his suspension.

4. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that since the respondents did not proceed to hold disciplinary inquiry by holding departmental proceedings against the petitioner and petitioner was simply placed under suspension on account of his detention in jail, upon his reinstatement with the revocation of suspension order, petitioner became entitled to salary for the period he remained under suspension. It is submitted that petitioner since has been finally acquitted in the criminal case then on the principle that petitioner has been restrained under a circumstances beyond his control and also there being order of suspension, from discharging his duties as a clerk in the institution, the respondents could not have denied payment of salary to the petitioner for the period in question. He further submits that order of reinstatement dated 4th October, 2016 clearly recorded that this order was being passed subject to any contrary order being passed in appeal against the acquittal and since no appeal to the best knowledge of the petitioner has been preferred against the acquittal inasmuch as the counter affidavit is also silent about the same, respondents are not justified in rejecting the claim of the petitioner for payment of salary for the period in question on the principle of 'no work no pay'. He submits that petitioner could not have worked on account of being under detention in jail which was beyond his control and so it was his legitimate expectation that as and when he would be released after grant of bail or acquittal, he would not only resume his duty as clerk but he would be compensated for the period he had remained under suspension for implication in the criminal case.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance upon a judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Brahma Chandra Gupta v. Union of India, AIR 1984 SC 380.

6. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, defending the order impugned herein this petition, has sought to contend□ that the department cannot be blamed for petitioner not being permitted to discharge his duty as admittedly petitioner was under detention and as per the relevant service rules he was required to be placed under suspension. It is also sought to be urged that even though petitioner has been acquitted but every acquittal is not a honourable acquittal so as to make him entitled for the payment of salary for the period he had remained under a lawful detention. However, upon a pointed query being made as to whether the State respondents ever initiated any departmental inquiry against the petitioner, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel could not give any satisfactory reply. He also could not deny that records do not reveal factum of any departmental inquiry except order of suspension.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and their arguments raised across the bar and having perused the record, I find that petitioner was placed under suspension only on account of being under detention in jail for implication in a criminal case in the year 2009 in which ultimately he came to be acquitted in the year 2016. The order of suspension though was passed by the disciplinary authority but the suspension was not in contemplation of any inquiry as the order does not disclose that competent authority intended to hold disciplinary inquiry. So it should be taken as a suspension simpliciter for detention of the petitioner in jail. The department also did not proceed further in the matter and upon acquittal of the petitioner in a criminal case, he came to be reinstated under the order of reinstatement revoking his suspension. The order of reinstatement only records that reinstatement would abide by the result of the criminal appeal, if any filed. The respondents have not come out with any case that criminal appeal has been preferred against the order of acquittal.

8. The principle that has been argued before me by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that petitioner was not honourably acquitted would have carried weight provided the department had proceeded against the petitioner holding disciplinary proceeding.

9. While the petitioner preferred an appeal against the order impugned, I find that appellate authority to have relied upon certain reports of authorities of education department especially Finance and Accounts Officer that petitioner since was reinstated subject to the appeal being preferred against the acquittal which was a conditional reinstatement, so no question of payment of arrears of salary would have arisen but I find that upon a fact being brought to its notice that no such criminal appeal was preferred, even the appellate authority has rejected the claim of the petitioner for salary on the same ground which was taken earlier by the Joint Director of Education.

10. In the absence of any departmental proceeding being drawn, the only conclusion that can be drawn is that petitioner was restrained from discharging duties on account of his detention in jail in connection with a criminal case a circumstance to be taken as beyond his control and his innocence ultimately being proved by way of acquittal in the said criminal case, he should not be penalized.

11. The principle of 'no work no pay' could have been attracted if petitioner had enjoyed bail in criminal case and had been merely kept under suspension but this is not the case either. Petitioner remained in detention until he was acquitted. There was no question of petitioner giving any certificate that he was not gainfully employed anywhere during the period he was under suspension. One must draw difference between an under-trial on bail and convicted person in jail.

12. In the judgment cited by learned counsel for the petitioner I find that the some observations regarding payment of salary for the period during the employee was under detention, but there was a decree of trial court which is not a case here. In principle petitioner might have been simply acquitted but petitioner was not responsible in any manner for not discharging his duties in the department.

13. There is nothing in the counter affidavit to demonstrate that even otherwise the conduct of the petitioner has not been good and fair while discharging his official duties. The averments raised in the counter affidavit are quite sketchy as they only refer to the criminal case and detention of petitioner in jail.

14. On the backwages to the petitioner for the period he remained suspended due to detention in jail and upon his reinstatement by revoking his suspension for acquittal in the criminal case, I find support of my view in an authority of Supreme Court in the case of Raj Narain v. Union of India and others (2019) 5 SCC 809 in which an identical issue was dealt with. In the said case even though departmental inquiry was set up but was later on dropped and upon acquittal the employee was reinstated revoking his suspension order. Vide paragraphs 7 and 8 the Court held thus:-

"7. The point that remains to be considered is whether the appellant is entitled to payment of full wages between 1979 and 1987. The appellant was placed under suspension on 23-10-1979 and his suspension was revoked on 21-10-1987. An interesting development took place during the interregnum by which the disciplinary proceedings were dropped on 21-3-1983. It is clear from the record that the appellant was the one who was seeking postponement of the departmental enquiry in view of the pendency of criminal case. The order of suspension was in contemplation of disciplinary proceedings. By virtue of the disciplinary proceedings being dropped, the appellant becomes entitled to claim full salary for the period from the date of his suspension till the date of closure of the departmental enquiry. Thereafter, the respondents took four years to reinstate him by revoking his suspension. The order of suspension dated 23-10-1979 came to an end on 21-3-1983 which is the date on which disciplinary proceedings were dropped. The appellant ought to have been reinstated immediately thereafter unless a fresh order was passed, placing him under suspension during the pendency of the criminal trial which did not happen. Ultimately, the appellant was reinstated by an order dated 21-10-1987 by revocation of the order of suspension. Though, technically, the learned Additional Solicitor General is right in submitting that the impugned judgment does not even refer to the IA, we are not inclined to remit the matter to the High Court at this stage for fresh consideration of this point. We hold that the appellant is entitled for full wages from 23-10-1979 to 21-10-1987 after adjustment of the amounts already paid towards subsistence allowance.

8. For the reasons mentioned above, we approve the judgment of the High Court by holding that the appellant shall be entitled for back wages only from the date of acquittal on 31-8-2001, till the date of his reinstatement on 20-1-2003. Further, the appellant shall be entitled to full salary from 23-10-1979 to 21-10-1987."

15. I find petitioner's case to be on a much better footing as he was only suspended for detention in jail without there being any inquiry in contemplation and his suspension was revoked immediately upon his acquittal in the criminal case and no appeal was preferred against the judgment of acquittal.

16. In view of the above, therefore, the Court is of the considered view that respondents are not justified in denying salary to the petitioner applying the principle of 'no work no pay'.

17. Accordingly, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order passed by the Joint Director of Education, Prayagraj Region, Prayagraj dated 1st May, 2018 and also the order passed by the Additional Director of Education (Basic) dated 28th January, 2020 are hereby quashed.

18. Respondents are directed to make payment of arrears of salary to the petitioner for the period petitioner has remained under suspension i.e. from 19th August, 2009 to 6th February, 2016 within a period of 30 days from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

Service Law - UGC Regulations, 2018 - Banaras Hindu University - Assistant Professor Recruitment - Qualification for Genetics and Plant Breeding - Challenge to rolling advertisement no. 01 of 2023-24 (28.06.2023) prescribing 4-year B.Sc. (Agriculture)/B.Sc. (Hons.) (Agriculture)/B.Sc. (Horticulture) as essential qualification for Assistant Professor in the Department of Genetics and Plant Breeding dismissed. UGC Regulations, 2018, under Regulations 1, 1.1, 3.1, 3.2, 3.4, 3.5, 4, 4.1, mandate a Master's degree with 55% marks and NET/SLET/SET or Ph.D. as minimum qualifications for Assistant Professor, applicable to disciplines including Agriculture. Employer (University) has discretion to prescribe specific Bachelor's degree (e.g., 4-year B.Sc. Agriculture) to suit departmental needs, provided it does not dilute the minimum qualification of a Master's degree. Prescription of specific Bachelor's degree is not a modification of UGC's minimum standards but an enhancement within employer's prerogative to ensure quality. Ministry of Agriculture's endorsement (02.08.2010) of UGC Regulations for Agriculture faculties does not preclude additional qualifications by the University. Petitioner, holding B.Sc. (Biology), failed to plead equivalence to 4-year B.Sc. (Agriculture). No illegality in University's requirement, upheld as within its discretion. (Paras 5-19)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjeev Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Pooja Agarwal, learned counsel for the University and Sri Sudhanshu Srivastava, learned counsel for the Indian Council of Agricultural Research.
2. Petitioner before this Court questions the rolling advertisement no. 01 of 2023-24 dated 28.06.2023 issued by Banaras Hindu University (6th respondent) in so far as it provides for 4 years Honor's Bachelor's Degree as an essential qualification for the post of Assistant Professor in the Department of Genetics and Planned Breeding.
3. The argument is two fold: (i) for the purpose of appointment on the post of Assistant Professor in a recognized University at Master's level the minimum qualification prescribed for by the University Grants Commission through its guidelines would prevail; and (ii) while the University Act have prescribed for additional qualification as a preferential qualification but could not have modified the minimum qualification prescribed as eligibility for the post in question.

4. In support of his first argument, learned Advocate has taken the Court through the UGC Regulations, 2018 that prescribed minimum qualification for the post of Assistant Professor, Associate Professor and Professor in the Universities and Colleges running Bachelor's and Master's Courses and Senior Professors in the Universities on the basis of merit and through an All India Advertisement. Regulation 1 of the UGC Regulations states that it shall apply to Universities and College Teachers and cadre of Librarian etc. while regulation 1.1 provides norms of standards for teaching positions in various disciplines that includes Agriculture in the University. Regulation 3 provides for recruitment and qualifications and regulation 3.4 and 4.1(i) provide for minimum marks that a candidate must have and also the minimum degree with minimum percentage of marks. Regulation, 1, 1.1, 3.1, 3.2, 3.4, 3.4(i), 3.5, 3.6, 4, 4.1, 4.1(I), A(i) and (ii) are reproduced hereunder:

4.0 Direct Recruitment

4.1 For the Disciplines of Arts, Commerce, Humanities, Education, Law, Social Sciences, Sciences, Languages, Library Science, Physical Education, and Journalism & Mass Communication.

I. Assistant Professor:

Eligibility (A or B):

A.

i) A Master's degree with 55% marks (or an equivalent grade in a point scale wherever the grading system is followed) in a concerned/relevant/allied subject from an Indian University, or an equivalent degree from an accredited foreign university.

ii) Besides fulfilling the above qualifications, the candidate must have cleared the National Eligibility Test (NET) conducted by the UGC or the CSIR, or a similar test accredited by the UGC, like SLET/SET or who are or have been awarded a Ph. D. Degree in accordance with the University Grants Commission (Minimum Standards and Procedure for Award of M.Phil Ph.D. Degree) Regulations 2009 or 2016 and their amendments from time to time as the case may be exempted from NET/SLET/SET:

Provided, the candidates registered for the Ph.D. programme prior to July 11, 2009, shall be governed by the provisions of the then existing Ordinances/Bye-laws/ Regulations of the Institution awarding the degree and such Ph.D. candidates shall be exempted from the requirement of NET/SLET/SET for recruitment and appointment of Assistant Professor or equivalent positions in Universities/ Colleges/ Institutions subject to the fulfillment of the following conditions:

a) The Ph.D. degree of the candidate has been awarded in a regular mode;

b) The Ph.D. thesis has been evaluated by at least two external examiners;

c) An open Ph.D. viva voce of the candidate has been conducted:

d) The Candidate has published two research papers from his/her Ph.D. work, out of which at least one is in a refereed journal;

e) The candidate has presented at least two papers based on his/her Ph.D work in conferences/seminars sponsored/funded/supported by the UGC/ICSSR/ CSIR or any similar agency.

The fulfilment of these conditions it to be certified by the Registrar or the Dean (Academic Affairs) of the University concerned.

NET/SLET/SET shall also not be required for such Master's Programmes in disciplines for which NET/SLET/SET is not conducted by the UGC, CSIR or similar test accredited by the UGC, like SLET/SET.

5. A conjoint reading of the provisions as quoted above, minimum qualification that a candidate must possess to be appointed as Assistant Professor for all Universities and Colleges in various disciplines including Agriculture. All Universities have to follow the minimum qualification prescribed for.

6. The recruitment has to be made by advertisement the vacancy on All India basis and then selection has to be held by a duly selected Committee constituted as per provisions made under the regulation. A candidate must possess minimum 55% marks both on Bachelor's Level and Master's Level subject to relaxation of 5%, if one holds a Ph.D. degree, but must have obtained Master's degree prior to 19.09.1991. Broad disciplines are Arts, Commerce, Humanities, Education, Law, Social Sciences, Sciences, Languages, Library Science, Physical Education and Journalism & Mass Communication. Agriculture would equally be a discipline governed under the Regulations. For the post of Assistant Professor, one must have a Master's degree with 55% marks subject to relaxation applicable under regulation 3.5. A candidate must have cleared National Eligibility Test conducted by UGC or CSIR.

7. Now from the above, two things are cleared that one must have both Master's degree and Bachelor's degree with 55% marks subject to relaxation as provided to a Ph.D. holder who has done Master's degree prior to 19.09.1991.

8. The argument, therefore, is that since Master's degree in the subject in a concerned relevant or allied is required under the regulation, whether one has an Bachelor's degree with four years simple degree or four years Honor's degree or even three years degree would not make any difference and hence the respondent University was not justified in incorporating the provisions as an essential qualification of four years B.Sc. (Agriculture) or four years B.Sc. (Hons.).

9. This according to learned Advocate Mr. Sanjeev Singh, appearing for the petitioner is an additional qualification in modification to the UGC Regulations and therefore, are bad. He submits that as per the Universities own stand vide instruction no. 3 of the advertisement, the minimum qualification for appointment of teachers and other academic staff in the Universities and Colleges would be same as prescribed for under UGC Regulations, 2018. He submits that any additional quality parameters in order to promote merit and quality over and above UGC qualifications would only be applicable if the candidates are larger than the number of candidates to be called for interview as per clause 4 of the instructions. He therefore, submits that rule of preferential qualification is only with a purpose to short list the candidate to avoid a large number of candidate appearing in which may otherwise affect the quality in selection, but preferential qualification is a preferential qualification and cannot be a minimum eligibility qualification. He also submits that even the Ministry of Agriculture, Department of Agriculture Research and Education, Government of India, New Delhi vide its letter dated 02.08.2010 had clarified that UGC Regulations notified on 30.06.2010 providing for minimum qualification for appointment of teachers and other academic staffs in Universities and Colleges in the Higher Education and the norms issued by ICAR shall apply for teachers in Faculties of Agriculture and Veterinary Science. He submits that since the UGC Regulations themselves provide applicability of norms and regulations issued by ICAR for teachers in the Faculties of Agriculture and Veterinary Science, the ICAR regulations would have prevailed had they been issued independent of the UGC Regulations in the sense that they provided different minimum qualification but since the Ministry of Agriculture itself decided to endorse the UGC regulations, 2018 and directed it to be adopted by the State Agriculture Universities, this only would be applied.

10. Countering the aforesaid submissions, learned Advocate appearing for the University Ms. Pooja Agarwal has argued that since post is Agriculture specific dealing with Agriculture Science, the University is justified in providing four years B.Sc. Course/ four years B.Sc. (Hons.) also along with M.Sc. (Agriculture) as a minimum qualification to promote merit and quality in the department of Agriculture in the Department of Genetics and Plant Breeding relating to Agriculture Science. Ms. Pooja Agarwal submitted that even previously when the advertisement was published, the same qualification was prescribed and since there is a uniform pattern brought in the four years Bachelor's course now almost in All India basis, the employer correctly thought in its wisdom to provide it also as a minimum qualification. Ms. Pooja Agarwal has submitted that UGC prescribes for minimum qualification and does not bar to the employer from providing additional qualification or a higher qualification. The four years Agriculture Undergraduate degree course or four years Honor's course is only an additional qualification to the minimum qualification prescribed for and it cannot be said to be modifying the minimum qualification. She argued that the minimum qualification is a concept for laying down a bottom line and therefore, this parameter cannot be relaxed. She submitted that the UGC Guidelines that ask for a Bachelor's degree with 55% marks is sufficient to demonstrate that one must possess Bachelor's degree. Now to provide a particular Bachelor's degree with a particular standard and course cannot be said to be modifying the minimum qualification nor can it be said to be transgressing in any manner the authority of the UGC. She argued that had it been a case that University required less than 55% marks in Bachelor's level, it could have been said that University modified the minimum qualification but at the same time the University could have asked for a higher percentage of marks.

11. Meeting the argument relating to the letter dated 02.08.2010 issued by the Ministry of Agriculture, Department of Agriculture Research and Education, Government of India, New Delhi it is sought to be urged that this did not dilute the argument advanced by her either. She argued that the minimum qualification under the UGC Regulations have been accepted by the University and merely the University prescribes for four years course as a course one must have passed through or four years Honor's does not amount to modifying the minimum qualification. Since UGC itself provides 55% marks in the Bachelor's degree that a candidate must have, the University could have been provided equally whether to four years Agriculture Course or four years (Hons.) course. It was also argued by Ms. Pooja Agarwal that providing a qualification falls within the domain of the employer either by way of additional qualification or preferential qualification. The minimum standards and norms if are fixed by UGC, any enhancement thereof cannot be said to be in transgression of the authority vested in the employer. It was argued that the University was in a best position to assess its requirement and to prescribed qualification to suit that and therefore, this Court may not embark upon an inquiry as to the qualification prescribed by the University. She relied upon the authority of Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Thingujam Achouba Singh and Others v. Dr.H.N.Nabachandra Singh and Others, (2020) 20 SCC 312.

12. Sri Sudhanshu Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for Indian Council of Agricultural Research has adopted the arguments of Ms. Pooja Agarwal in defending the advertisement.

13. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and their arguments raised across the bar and having perused the records, I find that the UGC vide its regulation no. 3.4 provides that one must have a Bachelor's degree with 55% marks and there can be relaxation upto 5%, meaning thereby, one must have both Bachelor's degree and Master's degree. Now whether one has a Bachelor's degree in a particular subject relating to the discipline in which the appointment is sought to be made or in some other discipline shall fall within the domain of the employer to determine. An employer can ask for four years Honor's degree in a particular subject or four years ordinary bachelor degree in particular subject or a three years' Bachelor degree in particular subject or related subject. If the University in the discipline of Agriculture like in the present case Plant Breeding and Genetics, wants to prescribe for a particular Bachelor degree with a particular course and if it provided for B.Sc. With four years course/ B. Sc. four years Honor's course, it cannot be said that this being not the minimum qualification required, the University has modified the minimum qualification against the UGC Regulations. The minimum qualification is still the Master's degree in the discipline concerned which a candidate must possess to in order to provide a suitable candidate to the particular subject of Agriculture discipline and if the University wants that one should have Bachelor's degree also of Agriculture Science like B.Sc. (Agriculture) with four year's course or B.Sc. four year's Honor's course, it cannot be said that it had in any manner provided an additional qualification only with a purpose to short list the candidates.

14. The University running courses in agriculture can of course, besides M.Sc. (Agriculture) can ask for B.Sc. (Agriculture) at the same time as Bachelor's degree is also required. Petitioner, who is B.Sc. (Biology) can not complain against requirement of B.Sc. (Agriculture) 4 years' course. It is sole discretion of employer to ask for a qualification in a particular discipline but of course cannot ask for lesser qualification as minimum qualification contrary to the U.G.C. regulations.

15. In State of Tamilnadu & Another v. S.V. Bratheep (minor) & Others, (2004) 4 SCC 513 while dealing in the matter of prescribed qualification by AICTE and the scope of University prescribing qualification for admission in Engineering Colleges the Court held that the State once prescribes a qualification for having secured certain percentage of marks in the related subjects which were higher than the minimum qualifying marks examination in order to be eligible for admission, the Court held that if the higher minimum marks is prescribed by the State Government in common entrance than what was the prescribed by AICTE for admission in Engineering Colleges, it could not be faulted with as it would be permissible for the State Government to prescribe higher qualification. The Court has held in that case that if the AICTE provided for certain marks to be obtained in the qualifying examination, then if the State Government prescribes certain higher marks in the Common Entrance Test which would be higher than the minimum in the qualifying examination to participate in the Common Entrance Test it would though be in addition to the Common Entrance Test and would not be contrary to what was prescribed by the AICTE but would be complementary and supplementary. The Court in this case had relied upon the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Maharashtra Public Services Commission v. Sandeep Sriram Varade and others (2019) 6 SCC 362 and in the case of P.U. Joshi and others v. Accountant General, Ahmedabad & Others (2003) 2 SCC 632 wherein it was held that the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution cannot exercise a judicial review to inquire into the validity of the qualifications prescribed for and to modify the requisite qualification. Four years B.Sc. Agriculture Course or four years B.Sc. Agriculture (Hons.) will rest upon the discretion of the employer as employer would be in better position to go ahead with the particular degree course to suit the requirement to ensure quality in teaching and other academic activities in the department concerned.

16. In the case of Dr. Thingujam Achouba Singh (supra) the court vide paragraph no. 16 has observed thus:

“16. So far as relaxation of upper age limit, as sought by the petitioners in one of the writ petitions is concerned, High Court has directed the competent authority and Executive Council of the Society to consider for providing such relaxation clause. We fail to understand as to how such direction can be given by the High Court for providing a relaxation which is not notified in the advertisement. While it is open for the employer to notify such criteria for relaxation when sufficient candidates are not available, at the same time nobody can claim such relaxation as a matter of right. The eligibility criteria will be within the domain of the employer and no candidate can seek as a matter of right, to provide relaxation clause.”

17. In the circumstances, therefore, the decision taken by the Policy and Planning Committee (Institute of Agriculture Sciences) in its meeting held on 29.03.2023 providing for four years B.Sc. (Agriculture)/ B.Sc. (Hons.) (Agriculture)/ B.Sc. (Horticulture) in respect of the departments with various sub disciplines of discipline of agriculture including the department of Genetics and Plant Reading cannot be said to be erroneous one and in excess of the authority nor it can be said to be in any manner modifying the minimum qualification so as to further pull it down by way of minimum qualification which the UGC had prescribed for.

18. No pleading has been raised in the entire writ petition that the petitioner has the same standard of learning in B.Sc. (Biology) as provided and prescribed under the four years B.Sc. (Agriculture)/ four years B.Sc.(Hons.). All that is pleaded is that since minimum qualification prescribed by UGC is only M.Sc. in the concerned subject/ allied subject from an Indian University whether one is B.Sc. (Agriculture) or otherwise in any other discipline would be entitled.

19. Writ petition fails and is accordingly dismissed.

Service Law - U.P. Higher Judicial Service Rules, 1975 - Rule 5(c) - Direct Recruitment to Higher Judicial Service (HJS) - Eligibility - Continuous Practice as Advocate - Shashi Kant

Tiwari Vs High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, Writ A No. 12307 of 2019 - Petitioner challenged rejection order (08.05.2019) of his candidature for U.P. HJS Examination 2016, claiming inclusion in the final select list. Petitioner, registered as an advocate since 16.11.1998, was in full-time employment as Law Officer with Alliance Builders and Contractors Ltd. from 15.01.2009 to 01.02.2010, which interrupted his continuous practice. Per Article 233(2) of the Constitution and Rule 5(c), a candidate must have 7 years of continuous practice as an advocate immediately preceding the application cut-off date (18.06.2016). Supreme Court's rulings in Deepak Aggarwal Vs Keshav Kaushik, (2013) 5 SCC 277, and Dheeraj Mor Vs High Court of Delhi, (2020) 7 SCC 401, mandate continuous practice as an advocate, excluding periods of full-time employment except for public prosecutors or government pleaders acting predominantly as advocates. Petitioner's employment terms prohibited engaging with other clients, and his practice from 01.02.2010 to 18.06.2016 amounted to only 6 years, 4 months, and 17 days, falling short of the required 7 years. Claim of filing vakalatnamas for other clients during employment not considered, as it was potentially in violation of Bar Council of India Rules 43 and 49 and employment terms. A belated letter (19.01.2009) permitting practice with other clients, raised for the first time, was not relied upon. Petitioner's higher marks (471) compared to the last selected candidate (455) irrelevant due to ineligibility. Resolution of Selection and Appointment Committee (17.05.2017) upheld, finding no infirmity. (Paras 5-24)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shashi Kant Shukla along with Sri Sushil Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the respondents-High Court.

2. Present petition has been filed with the following prayers:-

“I. Issue a writ order of direction in the nature of certiorari to quash the impugned order dated 08.05.2019 vide Memo No. 232/S & A Cell/2-019 passed by respondent no. 2 Registrar (J) Selection and Appointment/Seniority High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

II. Issue a writ order of direction in the nature of mandamus commanding and directing the respondents to declare the result of the petitioner as finally selected candidate in Uttar Pradesh Higher Judicial Service Examination 2016 bearing roll No. 6242.

III. Issue a writ order of direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to issue the appointment letter to the petitioner as finally selected candidate in Uttar Pradesh Higher Judicial Service Examination 2016 bearing roll No. 6242.”

3. As stated, the case of the petitioner is that the petitioner is a practising lawyer and was registered as an Advocate on 16.11.1998 in Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh. He was appointed as Law Officer on 15.1.2009 in a company with the name and style of Alliance Builders and Contractors Limited, Bareilly (hereinafter referred as the Company). It is alleged that he was representing on behalf of the Company in different courts of law, a copy of the appointment letter dated 15.1.2009 has been annexed as Annexure-3 to the writ petition. It is the case of the petitioner that he was simultaneously also appearing for private clients and had filed several Vakalatnamas on behalf of other litigants as well in various courts of law during the year 2009-10. He appeared in U.P. Higher Judicial Services Examination, 2009 and in the Form the fact regarding his legal services to the abovenoted Company has been mentioned. He was qualified the prelims as well as the written examination and was called for interview but he was not permitted to participate in the interview on the ground that he is a salary paid employee. As he intended to appear in Higher Judicial Services Examination, therefore, he moved an application dated 1.1.2010 before the Managing Director of the Company tendering his resignation, copy whereof has been annexed as Annexure-14 to the writ petition. The resignation of the petitioner was accepted by the Company and relieving order was passed on 1.2.2010. Subsequently, the petitioner appeared in U.P. Higher Judicial Services Examination, 2012 and was again successful in prelims as well as in the written examination and was called for interview, however, as he has obtained only 21 marks out of 100 marks, therefore, his name did not figure in the select list. He again appeared in U.P. Higher Judicial Services Examination, 2014 but could not qualify the written examination. The petitioner again applied in April 2016 for U.P. Higher Judicial Services Examination, 2016 against 72 vacancies so advertised. He filled up the Form on 6.6.2016 (Annexure-19 to the writ petition), however, it is claimed that due to inadvertent mistake some facts were wrongly mentioned by the petitioner in the form and the said facts were clarified by filing affidavit dated 12.6.2016 (Annexure-20 to the writ petition). The petitioner again cleared prelims as well as written examination in the aforesaid examination and was called for interview on 22.4.2017, the final result whereof was declared on 18.8.2017, however, name of the petitioner did not figure in the final select list. It is asserted that when marks of the candidate were uploaded on 19.4.2019 the petitioner came to know that he has obtained total 471 marks while lastly selected candidate of the general category, namely, Anchal Lavania has obtained only 455 marks, then the petitioner was surprised that he had obtained 16 marks more than last final selected candidate of the general category, why his name has not been placed in the final selected list, therefore, he moved a representation dated 3.5.2019, the same was rejected by the impugned order dated 8.5.2019 (Annexure-25 to the writ petition).

4. The rejection order is being challenged by learned counsel for the petitioner mainly on the ground that since 16.11.1998, the date on which he was registered as an Advocate with the Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh, the petitioner was a regular practitioner as an Advocate in various courts of law specifically in Civil Court, Bareilly. It is submitted that although the petitioner was engaged for the Company for one year, however, his nature of job was to represent the cases of the company as an Advocate before various courts of law, therefore, he had always been working as an Advocate and that the nature of work performed by the petitioner for the Company was purely advocacy. It is submitted that the petitioner appeared in U.P. Higher Judicial Services Examinations in 2009, 2012, 2014 and 2016 and always Bar Association concerned had issued experience certificate countersigned by the District Judge to the effect that he was a regular practitioner as an Advocate, therefore, the ground of rejection that he was engaged in full time employment as Law Officer of the Company and thus, did not fulfill the necessary eligibility criteria of having seven year continuous practice as on 18.6.2016 i.e. the last date of filling up the Form, is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

5. In support of his arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner has heavily placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Deepak Aggarwal vs. Keshav Kaushik and others (2013) 5 SCC 277.

6. Learned counsel for the respondent High Court has vehemently opposed the petition. A detailed counter affidavit has been filed by the respondents-High Court disputing the correctness of the arguments of learned counsel for the petitioner specifically highlighting the contents of the appointment letter, resignation letter, the Form filled up by the petitioner and the Affidavit filed by the petitioner. It would be appropriate to extract relevant paragraphs of the Counter Affidavit, which are as under:-

“4. That as per the admitted case of the petitioner, the petitioner was under full time employment of Alliance Builder and Contractors Limited from 15.01.2009. The appointment letter which is annexed to the writ petition (as Annexure 3) contains the detailed terms and conditions of employment, one of the conditions of employment contained at Clause 10 of the said appointment letter reads as follows:

10. This appointment is on a full-time basis and you shall devote your full-time to the duties assigned by the company and will not engage yourself for any other person, firm or company in any capacity during your employment with us.

5. That said appointment letter and its terms and conditions were duly accepted by the petitioner vide his endorsement dated 15/01/2009. It is pertinent to mention here that the petitioner was fully aware of the scope of his employment and the fact that in continuance of his employment the petitioner cannot be considered to be an Advocate with continuing practice for the purpose of his candidature in the U.P. Direct Higher Judicial Services exams which are conducted by the High Court, as such the petitioner himself in his resignation letter dated 01/01/2010 (Annexure 14) specifically stated as follows:-

“मैं शशिकान्त तिवारी आपकी प्रतिष्ठित कंपनी एलायंस बिल्डर्स एंड कॉन्ट्रैक्टर्स लि. में दिनांक 15 जनवरी 2009 से लॉ ऑफिसर पद पर पूर्णकालिक नियोजन में नियुक्त हूँ।

कंपनी द्वारा दिए गए नियुक्ति पत्र में वर्णित शर्त के अनुसार चूंकि मेरा नियोजन पूर्णकालिक था अतः इस कारण मैं साक्षात्कार देने से वंचित रह गया।

चूंकि मुझे भविष्य में पुनः उच्चतर न्यायिक सेवाओं में सम्मिलित होना है जिसके कारण मैं कंपनी में लॉ ऑफिसर पद के पूर्णकालिक नियोजन में कार्य कर पाने में असर्थ हूँ।

अतः श्रीमान जी से अनुरोध है कि उपरोक्त परस्थिति को देखते हुए मेरा त्यागपत्र स्वीकार कर मुझे मेरे लॉ ऑफिसर पद के पूर्णकालिक नियोजन से कार्य मुक्त करने की कृपा करें।”

As such it is submitted that even as per the understanding of the petitioner, the petitioner's employment was full time and due to his employment he was not eligible for candidature in the Direct HJS exams which were being conducted by the High Court. The petitioner's resignation was accepted on 01/02/2010 on which date he was released from service.

6. That it is further submitted that the present writ petition relates to the cancellation of candidature of the petitioner with respect to the advertisement of the year 2016; as per the admitted case of the petitioner, the petitioner has after filling of the online form, submitted an affidavit with respect to certain inadvertent error in filling the form. The contents of the affidavit itself reveal that the petitioner's stand was that during his full time employment the petitioner was ineligible for appearing in the Direct Higher Judicial Services exam. It is further submitted that the petitioner has not provided any evidence or even stated in his affidavit that he was permitted to practice or was actually practising during the period in which he was under employment. For convenience the relevant part of the affidavit of the petitioner dated 12.06.2016 (Annexure 20) to the writ petition, is reproduced herein under:

5. यह कि पूर्व में शपथकर्ता ने एक प्राइवेट कंपनी- एलाइंस बिल्डर्स एंड कॉन्ट्रैक्टर्स लिमिटेड स्टेडियम रोड बरैली में लॉ ऑफिसर के रूप में दिनांक 15.01.2009 से 01.02.2010 तक कार्य किया था तथा भविष्य में HJS परीक्षाओं में सम्मिलित होने के कारण त्यागपत्र दे दिया था। शपथकर्ता का नियोजन प्राइवेट था तथा उसे रुपये 9000/- मासिक वेतन मिलता था।”

7. That it is further submitted that no averment or evidence was provided by the petitioner that the petitioner during his course of employment was employed to act and plead in the Court of law as an advocate; no averment was made or evidence was provided by the petitioner that he continued to practice law even after his appointment. On the other hand it was categorically stated in the affidavit that the petitioner was in full term private employment and for the purposes of him becoming eligible for appearing in Direct HJS examinations in the future, he has tendered his resignation on 01.02.2010.”

7. Paragraph 8 of the Counter Affidavit containing the resolution passed by the Selection and Appointment Committee, while rejecting the candidature of the petitioner in its meeting dated 17.5.2017, is also quoted as under:-

“8. That the Hon'ble Selection and Appointment Committee while rejecting his candidature, in its meeting held on 17.05.2017 has resolved as under:

3. Shashi Kant Tiwari (Roll No. 6242):

The candidate vide affidavit dated 13/06/2016 had submitted that he was in employment as Law Officer in a private firm, Alliance Builders and Contractors Ltd. Stadium Road, Bareilly from 15/01/2009 to 01/02/2010. However, he had also submitted an application dated 13/06/2016 in which he had submitted that he had inadvertently filled NO in column number 15 of the application, form which seeks information regarding employment.

Further, the candidate had enclosed an appointment letter issued by the firm Alliance Builders and Contractors Ltd. Stadium Road, Bareilly dated 15/01/2009 offering him appointment as Law Officer at their corporate office disclosing therein that his remuneration will be ₹ 9000 per month.

At point number 10 of the said appointment letter, it is specified that:

The candidate had also submitted relieving order dated 01.02.2010 accepting his resignation from the service and thereby relieving him from duties with effect from 01.02.2010. Sri. Tiwari had disclosed the same facts again through his affidavit dated 03/04/2017. Nothing was found on record to show that he was otherwise practicing as a lawyer in this period, though the candidate had submitted an experience certificate issued by the District Judge, Bareilly showing his practice as on 18/06/2016 as 17 years 7 months and 2 days [since 16.11.1998].

A perusal of the affidavit submitted by Sri. Shashi Kant Tiwari, Roll No. 6242 with regard to his employment revealed that he was in service during the period from 15/01/2009 to 01/02/2010, which caused discontinuity in his practice. As per the instructions issued for the candidates, only APO/APP were permitted to fill up the application form pursuant to the order passed by the Apex Court in Deepak Agarwal Vs Keshav Kaushik & Others (2013) 5 SCC 277 and in Special Leave Petition No. 17201-17212 of 2007 High Court of Judicature At Allahabad Vs Sanjay Agarwal and Anr.

The last date of submission of online application form was 18/06/2016, therefore the length of continuous practice of Shri Shashi Kant Tiwari on 18/06/2016 [from 01/02/2010] was found to be 6 years 4 months and 17 days and thus, he did not fulfill the necessary eligibility criteria of having 7 years continuous practice as on 18.06.2016.

Therefore in view of the above deliberation, the Committee resolved to treat him ineligible for direct recruitment of U.P.H.J.S.-2016 rejected the provisional candidature of Sri. Shashi Kant Tiwari, Roll No. 6242.

The aforesaid resolution of the Hon'ble Committee was approved by the Hon'ble Full Court and thereafter, the final result of U.P. Higher Judicial Service Recruitment, 2016 was declared on 18.06.2017."

8. It is next submitted that, therefore, Deepak Aggarwal (supra) is of no help to the petitioner.

9. Reliance has been placed by learned counsel for the respondents to a recent decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dheeraj Mor vs. High Court of Delhi (2020) 7 SCC 401. Reliance has also been placed to a judgment of Division Bench of this Court dated 20.4.2023 passed in Writ A No. 33829 of 2015 (Kumar Mitakshar vs. State of U.P. and others), wherein the decision of Hon'ble Apex Court passed in Deepak Aggarwal (supra) as well as Dheeraj Mor (supra) has extensively been considered and claim of the similarly placed candidate was rejected.

10. We have considered the rival submissions and have perused the record.

11. Before proceeding further it would be appropriate to take note of relevant provisions of Constitution of India, definition of 'Advocate' as defined in Advocates Act, 1961, relevant rules of Bar Council of India Rules and U.P. Higher Judicial Service Rules, 1975, which are quoted as under:-

"Constitution of India

"233(2)- A person not already in the service of the Union or of the State shall only be eligible to be appointed a district judge if he has been for not less than seven years an Advocate or a pleader and is recommended by the High Court for appointment."

The Advocates Act, 1961

"2. Definitions – (1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires-

(a) "advocate" means an advocate entered in any roll under the provisions of this Act;

49- General power of the Bar Council of India to make rules- (1) The Bar Council of India may make rules for discharging its functions under this Act, and, in particular, such rules may prescribe-

(c) the standards of professional conduct and etiquette to be observed by advocates;

.....”

The Bar Council of India Rules

“43. An advocate who has been convicted of an offence mentioned under section 24A of the Advocates Act or has been declared insolvent or has taken full time service or part time service or engages in business or any avocation inconsistent with his practising as an advocate or has incurred any disqualification mentioned in the Advocates Act or the rules made thereunder, shall send a declaration to that effect to the respective State Bar Council in which the advocate is enrolled, within ninety days from the date of such disqualification. If the advocate does not file the said declaration or fails to show sufficient cause for not filing such declaration provided therefor, the Committee constituted by the State Bar Council under rule 42 may pass orders suspending the right of the advocate to practise.

Provided that it shall be open to the Committee to condone the delay on an application being made in this behalf.

Provided further that an advocate who had after the date of his enrolment and before the coming into force of this rule, become subject to any of the disqualifications mentioned in this rule, shall within a period of ninety days of the coming into force of this rule send declaration referred to in this rule to the respective Bar Council in which the Advocate is enrolled and on failure to do so by such advocate all the provisions of this rule would apply.

49. An advocate shall not be a full-time salaried employee of any person, government, firm, corporation or concern, so long as he continues to practise, and shall, on taking up any such employment, intimate the fact to the Bar Council on whose role his name appears and shall thereupon cease to practise as an advocate so long as he continues in such employment.

RESOLVED and further clarified that as Supreme Court has struck down the appearance by Law Officers in Court even on behalf of their employers the Judgment will operate in the case of all law officers. Even if they were allowed to appear on behalf of their employers all such Law Officers who are till now appearing on behalf of their employers shall not be allowed to appear as advocates. The State Bar Council should also ensure that those Law Officers who have been allowed to practise on behalf of their employers will cease to practise. It is made clear that those Law Officers who after joining services obtained enrolment by reason of the enabling provision cannot practise even on behalf their employers.

RESOLVED that the Bar Council of India is of the view that if the said officer is a whole time employee drawing regular salary, he will not be entitled to be enrolled as an advocate. If the terms of employment show that he is not in full time employment he can be enrolled.”

The Uttar Pradesh Higher Judicial Service Rules, 1975

“5. Sources of Recruitment-

The recruitment to the service shall be made-

(a) by promotion from amongst the Civil Judges (Senior Division) on the basis of Principle of merit-cum-seniority and passing a suitability test.

(b) by strictly on the basis of merit through limited competitive examination of Civil Judges (Senior Division) having not less than five years qualifying service;

(c) By direct recruitment from amongst the Advocates who have been, for not less than seven years, practicing as an Advocate, as on the last date fixed for the submission of application forms.” (emphasis supplied)

12. It would be appropriate to take note of paragraphs 57, 58, 59, 99 and 102 of Deepak Aggarwal (supra) relied on by learned counsel for the petitioner, which are quoted as under:-

“57. In Sushma Suri, a three-Judge Bench of this Court considered the meaning of the expression "advocate" occurring in Article 233 (2) of the Constitution and unamended Rule 49 of the BCI Rules. In paragraph 6 of the Report (Pg. 335) this Court held as under :

"6. If a person on being enrolled as an advocate ceases to practise law and takes up an employment, such a person can by no stretch of imagination be termed as an advocate. However, if a person who is on the rolls of any Bar Council is engaged either by employment or otherwise of the Union or the State or any corporate body or person practises before a court as an advocate for and on behalf of such Government, corporation or authority or person, the question is whether such a person also answers the description of an advocate under the Act. That is the precise question arising for our consideration in this case."

58. Then in paragraph 8 of the Report, this Court observed that for the purposes of the 1961 Act and the BCI Rules, a law officer (Public Prosecutor or Government Pleader) would continue to be an advocate. Not accepting the view of Delhi High Court in Oma Shanker Sharma v. Delhi Administration case (C.W.P. No. 1961 of 1987), this Court having regard to the object of recruitment under Article 233(2) held in paragraph 9:

"9. To restrict it to advocates who are not engaged in the manner stated by us earlier in this order is too narrow a view, for the object of recruitment is to get persons of necessary qualification, experience and knowledge of life. A Government Counsel may be a Public Prosecutor or Government Advocate or a Government Pleader. He too gets experience in handling various types of cases apart from dealing with the officers of the Government. Experience gained by such persons who fall in this description cannot be stated to be irrelevant nor detrimental to selection to the posts of the Higher Judicial Service. The expression "members of the Bar" in the relevant Rule would only mean that particular class of persons who are actually practising in courts of law as pleaders or advocates. In a very general sense an advocate is a person who acts or pleads for another in a court and if a Public Prosecutor or a Government Counsel is on the rolls of the Bar Council and is entitled to practise under the Act, he answers the description of an advocate."

59. With regard to unamended Rule 49 of the BCI Rules, this Court held as under :

"10. Under Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules, an advocate shall not be a full-time employee of any person, Government, firm, corporation or concern and on taking up such employment, shall intimate such fact to the Bar Council concerned and shall cease to practise as long as he is in such employment. However, an exception is made in such cases of law officers of the Government and corporate bodies despite his being a full-time salaried employee if such law officer is required to act or plead in court on behalf of others. It is only to those who fall into other categories of employment that the bar under Rule 49 would apply. An advocate employed by the Government or a body corporate as its law officer even on terms of payment of salary would not cease to be an advocate in terms of Rule 49 if the condition is that such advocate is required to act or plead in courts on behalf of the employer. The test, therefore, is not whether such person is engaged on terms of salary or by payment of remuneration, but whether he is engaged to act or plead on its behalf in a court of law as an advocate. In that event the terms of engagement will not matter at all. What is of essence is as to what such law officer engaged by the Government does — whether he acts or pleads in court on behalf of his employer or otherwise. If he is not acting or pleading on behalf of his employer, then he ceases to be an advocate. If the terms of engagement are such that he does not have to act or plead, but does other kinds of work, then he becomes a mere employee of the Government or the body corporate. Therefore, the Bar Council of India has understood the expression "advocate" as one who is actually practising before courts which expression would include even those who are law officers appointed as such by the Government or body corporate.

99. What we have said above gets fortified by Rule 43 of the BCI Rules. Rule 43 provides that an advocate, who has taken a full-time service or part-time service inconsistent with his practising as an advocate, shall send a declaration to that effect to the respective State Bar Council within time specified therein and any default in that regard may entail suspension of the right to practice. In other words, if full-time service or part-time service taken by an advocate is consistent with his practising as an advocate, no such declaration is necessary. The factum of employment is not material but the key aspect is whether such employment is consistent with his practising as an advocate or, in other words, whether pursuant to such employment, he continues to act and/or plead in the courts. If the answer is yes, then despite employment he continues to be an advocate. On the other hand, if the answer is in negative, he ceases to be an advocate.

102. As regards construction of the expression, "if he has been for not less than seven years an advocate" in Article 233(2) of the Constitution, we think Mr. Prashant Bhushan was right in his submission that this expression means seven years as an advocate immediately preceding the application and not seven years any time in the past. This is clear by use of 'has been'. The present perfect continuous tense is used for a position which began at some time in the past and is still continuing. Therefore, one of the essential requirements articulated by the above expression in Article 233(2) is that such person must with requisite period be continuing as an advocate on the date of application."

13. It would also be relevant to take note of Dheeraj Mor (supra) as relied on by learned counsel for the respondent-High Court, relevant paragraphs whereof are quoted as under:-

"13. Article 233(2) starts with a negative stipulation that a person who is not already in the service of the Union or the State, shall be eligible only to be appointed as District Judge if he has been an advocate or a pleader for not less than 7 years and is recommended by the High Court for appointment. The expression 'in the service of the Union or of the State' has been interpreted by this Court to mean the judicial service. A person from judicial service can be appointed as a District Judge. However, Article 233(2) provides that a person who is not in the service of the Union, shall be eligible only if he has been in practice, as an advocate or a pleader for 7 years; meaning thereby, persons who are in service are distinguished category from the incumbent who can be appointed as District Judge on 7 years' practice as an advocate or a pleader. Article 233(2) nowhere provides eligibility of inservice candidates for consideration as a District Judge concerning a post requiring 7 years' practice as an advocate or a pleader. Requirement of 7 years' experience for advocate or pleader is qualified with a rider that he should not be in the service of the Union or the State. Article 233 provides two sources of recruitment, one from judicial service and the other from advocates or pleaders. There are two separate streams provided; one is for persons in judicial service, and the other is for those not in judicial service of the Union or the State and have practiced for seven years. The expression 'in service of the Union or the State' has been interpreted in Chandra Mohan (supra) to mean judicial service, not any other service of the Union or the State. Thus, it is clear that the members of the judicial service alone are eligible for appointment as against the post of District Judge as the only mode provided for the appointment of inservice candidates is by way of promotion. They can stake their claim as per rules for promotion or merit promotion as the case may be. This Court has excluded the persons from the Indian Civil Service, the Provincial Judicial Service, or other Executive Services, before Independence, recruitment to the post of District Judge was provided from other services also. In Chandra Mohan (supra), this Court held that no person from the Executive Service can be promoted as District Judge. There is separation of the judiciary in terms of Article 50 of the Constitution of India. It mandates the State to take steps to separate the judiciary from the Executive in the public services of the State. Article 50 is extracted hereunder:

"50. Separation of judiciary from executive. The State shall take steps to separate the judiciary from the executive in the public services of the State."

14. Article 233(2) provides that if an advocate or a pleader has to be appointed, he must have completed 7 years of practice. It is coupled with the condition in the opening part that the person should not be in service of the Union or State, which is the judicial service of the State. The person in judicial service is not eligible for being appointed as against the quota reserved for advocates. Once he has joined the stream of service, he ceases to be an advocate. The requirement of 7 years of minimum experience has to be considered as the practising advocate as on the cutoff date, the phrase used is a continuous state of affair from the past. The context 'has been in practice' in which it has been used, it is apparent that the provisions refers to a person who has been an advocate or pleader not only on the cutoff date but continues to be so at the time of appointment.

17. After having answered the question about recruitment from the Bar, the further question considered in Chandra Mohan (supra) was whether the Governor could directly appoint persons from service other than judicial service as District

Judges in consultation with the High Court. They belonged to the executive branch of the Government and performed certain revenue and ministerial functions. This Court took note of the fact that in the pre-Independence era, there was a demand that the judiciary should be separated from the Executive, and that was based upon the assumption that unless they were separated, independence of the judiciary at the lower level would be a mockery. Thus, Article 50 of Directive Principles of State Policy provides that States to take steps to separate judiciary from the executive in public services of the State. There shall be separate judicial service from the executive service. This Court considered the provisions of Articles 234, 235, 236 and 237 and observed that there are two sources of recruitment, services of the Union or State and members of the Bar. This Court observed thus:

"15. With this background, if the following provisions of the Constitution are looked at, the meaning of the debated expressions therein would be made clear:

We have already extracted Art. 233.

Article 234. Appointments of persons other than district judges to the judicial service of a State shall be made by the Governor of the State in accordance with rules made by him in that behalf after consultation with the State Public Service Commission and with the High Court exercising jurisdiction in relation to such State.

Article 235. The control over district courts and courts subordinate thereto including the posting and promotion of, and the grant of leave to, persons belonging to the judicial service of a State and holding any post inferior to the post of district Judges shall be vested in the High Court; but nothing in this Article shall be construed as taking away from any such person any right of appeal which he may have under the law regulating the conditions of his service or as authorising the High Court to deal with him otherwise than in accordance with the conditions of his service prescribed under such law.

Article 236. In this Chapter

(a) the expression "district judge" includes judges of a city civil court, additional district judge, joint district judge, assistant district judge, chief judge of a small cause court, chief presidency magistrate, additional chief presidency magistrate, sessions judge, additional sessions judge and assistant sessions judge:

(b) the expression "judicial service" means a service consisting exclusively of persons intended to fill the post of district judge and other civil judicial posts inferior to the post of district judge.

Article 237. The Governor may by public notification direct that the foregoing provisions of this Chapter and any rules made thereunder shall with effect from such date as may be fixed by him in that behalf apply in relation to any class or classes of magistrates in the State as they apply in relation to persons appointed to the judicial service of the State subject to such exceptions and modifications as may be specified in the notification.

The gist of the said provisions may be stated thus:

Appointments of persons to be, and the posting and promotion of, district judges in any State shall be made by the Governor of the State. There are two sources of recruitment, namely, (i) service of the Union or of the State, and (ii) members of the Bar. The said judges from the first source are appointed in consultation with the High Court and those from the second source are appointed on the recommendation of the High Court. But in the case of appointments of persons to the judicial service other than as district judges they will be made by the Governor of the State in accordance with rules framed by him in consultation with the High Court and the Public Service Commission. But the High Court has control over all the district courts and courts subordinate thereto, subject to certain prescribed limitations."

As to the question whether persons from other services can be appointed as District Judges, the expression service of Union or State, has been held to be construed to be judicial service in Article 233(2) thus:

16. So far there is no dispute. But the real conflict rests on the question whether the Governor can appoint as district judges persons from services other than the judicial service; that is to say, can he appoint a person who is in the police, excise, revenue or such other service as a district judge? The acceptance of this position would take us back to the pre independence days and that too to the conditions prevailing in the Princely States. In the Princely States one used to come across appointments to the judicial service from police and other departments. This would also cut across the wellknit scheme of the Constitution and the principle underlying it, namely, the judiciary shall be an independent service. Doubtless if Art. 233(1) stood alone, it may be argued that the Governor may appoint any person as a district judge, whether legally qualified or not, if he belongs to any service under the State. But Art. 233(1) is nothing more than a declaration of the general power of the Governor in the matter of appointment of district judges. It does not lay down the qualifications of the candidates to be appointed or denote the sources from which the recruitment has to be made. But the sources of recruitment are indicated in cl. (2) thereof. Under cl. (2) of Art. 233 two sources are given, namely, (i) persons in the service of the Union or of the State, and (ii) advocate or pleader. Can it be said that in the context of Ch. VI of Part VI of the Constitution "the service of the Union or of the State" means any service of the Union or of the State or does it mean the judicial service of the Union or of the State? The setting, viz., the chapter dealing with subordinate courts, in which the expression "the service" appears indicates that the service mentioned therein is the service pertaining to courts. That apart, Art. 236(2) defines the expression "judicial service" to mean a service consisting exclusively of persons intended to fill the post of district judge and other civil judicial posts inferior to the post of district judge. If this definition, instead of appearing in Art. 236, is placed as a clause before Art. 233(2), there cannot be any dispute that "the service" in Art. 233(2) can only mean the judicial service. The circumstance that the definition of "judicial service" finds a place in a subsequent Article does not necessarily lead to a contrary conclusion. The fact that in Article 233(2) the expression "the service" is used whereas in Arts. 234 and 235 the expression "judicial service" is found is not decisive of the question whether the expression "the service" in Art. 233(2) must be something other than the judicial service, for, the entire chapter is dealing with the judicial service. The definition is exhaustive of the service. Two expressions in the definition bring out the idea that the judicial service consists of hierarchy of judicial officers starting from the lowest and ending with district judges. The expressions "exclusively" and "intended" emphasise the fact that the judicial service consists only of persons intended to fill up the posts of district judges and other civil judicial posts and that is the exclusive service of judicial officers. Having defined "judicial service" in exclusive terms, having provided for appointments to that service and having entrusted the control of the said service to the care of the High Court, the makers of the Constitution would not have conferred a blanket power on the Governor to appoint any person from any service as a district judge.

18. We, therefore, construe the expression "the service" in cl. (2) of Art. 233 as the judicial service."

23. In Deepak Aggarwal (supra) a three Judge Bench of this Court considered the provisions of Article 233(2) and held that service in Article 233 to mean judicial service and there is dichotomy of sources of recruitment, namely, (i) from judicial service; and (ii) from the advocate/pleader or in other words from the Bar. The meaning of the term advocate/pleader too has been considered by this Court. The expression "advocate" or "pleader" refers to the members of the Bar practicing law. Relying upon Sushma Suri v. Govt. (NCT of Delhi), (1999) 1 SCC 330, this Court further observed that members of the Bar meant classes of persons who were practicing in a court of law as pleaders or advocates. This Court further held that in Article 233(2), "if he has been for not less than seven years," the present perfect continuous tense is used for a position which began at some time in the past and is continuing. Therefore, one of the essential requirements is that such a person must with requisite period be continuing as an advocate on the date of application. This Court has observed:

"70. A few decisions rendered by some of the High Courts on the point may also be noticed here. In Sudhakar Govindrao Deshpande v. State of Maharashtra, 1986 Lab IC 710 (Bom) the issue that fell for consideration before the Bombay High Court was whether the petitioner therein who was serving as Deputy Registrar at the Nagpur Bench of the Bombay High Court, was eligible for appointment to the post of the District Judge. The advertisement that was issued by the High Court inviting applications for five posts of District Judges, inter alia, stated that, "candidate must ordinarily be an advocate or pleader who has practised in the High Court, Bombay or court subordinate thereto for not less than seven years on 110 1980". The Single Judge of the Bombay High Court considered Articles 233, 234 and 309 of the Constitution, relevant recruitment rules and noted the judgments of this Court in Chandra Mohan v. State of U.P., AIR 1966 SC 1987, Satya Narain Singh v. High Court of Judicature of Allahabad, (1985) 1 SCC 225 and Rameshwar Dayal v. State of Punjab, AIR 1961 SC 816. It was observed as follows: (Sudhakar case, Lab IC p. 715, para 16)

"16. ... the phrase 'has been an advocate or a pleader' must be interpreted as a person who has been immediately prior to his appointment a member of the Bar, that is to say either an advocate or a pleader. In fact, in the above judgment, the Supreme Court has repeatedly referred to the second group of persons eligible for appointment under Article 233(2) as 'members of the Bar'. Article 233(2) therefore, when it refers to a person who has been for not less than seven years an advocate or pleader refers to a member of the Bar who is of not less than seven years' standing."

89. We do not think there is any doubt about the meaning of the expression "advocate or pleader" in Article 233(2) of the Constitution. This should bear the meaning it had in law preceding the Constitution and as the expression was generally understood. The expression "advocate or pleader" refers to legal practitioner and, thus, it means a person who has a right to act and/or plead in court on behalf of his client. There is no indication in the context to the contrary. It refers to the members of the Bar practising law. In other words, the expression "advocate or pleader" in Article 233(2) has been used for a member of the Bar who conducts cases in court or, in other words acts and/or pleads in court on behalf of his client. In Sushma Suri v. Govt. (NCT of Delhi), (1999) 1 SCC 330, a three-Judge Bench of this Court construed the expression "members of the Bar" to mean class of persons who were actually practising in courts of law as pleaders or advocates. ...

102. As regards construction of the expression, "if he has been for not less than seven years an advocate" in Article 233(2) of the Constitution, we think Mr Prashant Bhushan was right in his submission that this expression means seven years as an advocate immediately preceding the application and not seven years any time in the past. This is clear by use of "has been". The present perfect continuous tense is used for a position which began at sometime in the past and is still continuing. Therefore, one of the essential requirements articulated by the above expression in Article 233(2) is that such person must with requisite period be continuing as an advocate on the date of application."

It is clear from the decision of Deepak Aggarwal (supra) that recruitment from the Bar is only from among practicing advocates and those continuing as advocates on the date of appointment. The submission that the issue of eligibility of inservice candidates did not come up for consideration is of no consequence as provisions of Article 233(2) came up for consideration directly before this Court.

32. Consistently, this Court in its previous judgments has taken the view which we now take. We find absolutely no reason to take a different view, though it was urged that mistakes committed earlier should not continue. We find the argument to be devoid of substance and based upon misapprehensions. We have found that the aforesaid decisions are vivid and clear, and there is no room to entertain such a submission then for a moment. Even otherwise, when the law has been administered in this country after Independence in the manner mentioned above on the principle of stare decisis and rules framed by various High Courts, we find ourselves unable to accept the submission raised on behalf of inservice candidates. The decisions in Satya Narain Singh (supra), Deepak Aggarwal (supra) and All India Judges Association case (supra) also cannot be said to be contrary to the provisions of Article 233. We unhesitatingly reject the submission to the contrary.

45. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the opinion that for direct recruitment as District Judge as against the quota fixed for the advocates/pleaders, incumbent has to be practicing advocate and must be in practice as on the cutoff date and at the time of appointment he must not be in judicial service or other services of the Union or State. For constituting experience of 7 years of practice as advocate, experience obtained in judicial service cannot be equated/combined and advocate/pleader should be in practice in the immediate past for 7 years and must be in practice while applying on the cutoff date fixed under the rules and should be in practice as an advocate on the date of appointment. The purpose is recruitment from bar of a practicing advocate having minimum 7 years' experience.

47. We answer the reference as under :

(i) The members in the judicial service of the State can be appointed as District Judges by way of promotion or limited competitive examination.

(ii) The Governor of a State is the authority for the purpose of appointment, promotion, posting and transfer, the eligibility is governed by the Rules framed under Articles 234 and 235.

(iii) Under Article 232(2), an Advocate or a pleader with 7 years of practice can be appointed as District Judge by way of direct recruitment in case he is not already in the judicial service of the Union or a State.

(iv) For the purpose of Article 233(2), an Advocate has to be continuing in practice for not less than 7 years as on the cutoff date and at the time of appointment as District Judge. Members of judicial service having 7 years' experience of practice before they have joined the service or having combined experience of 7 years as lawyer and member of judiciary, are not eligible to apply for direct recruitment as a District Judge.

(v) The rules framed by the High Court prohibiting judicial service officers from staking claim to the post of District Judge against the posts reserved for Advocates by way of direct recruitment, cannot be said to be ultra vires and are in conformity with Articles 14, 16 and 233 of the Constitution of India.

(vi) The decision in Vijay Kumar Mishra (supra) providing eligibility, of judicial officer to compete as against the post of District Judge by way of direct recruitment, cannot be said to be laying down the law correctly. The same is hereby overruled."

14. In Writ A No. 46742 of 2015 (Smt. Ruchi Chaudhary vs. High Court of Judicature at Allahabad and another) decided on 1.9.2015 this Court held that in a case of private job, decision of Deepak Aggarwal (supra) is of no help. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment are quoted as under:-

"Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner pointed out that as the petitioner was enrolled as an advocate on 12 January 2002 and had worked as a Senior Analyst Para Legal in the CPA Global from 17 May 2010 to 6 June 2014 and had filled up application form on 10 June 2014, she had more than seven years standing as on 1 January 2015. The contention advanced by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is that not only did the petitioner have more than seven years standing prior to taking up the assignment of a Senior Analyst Para Legal on 17 May 2010 but even otherwise it cannot be urged that the petitioner was not an advocate of not less than seven years standing preceding the date of her application as she had not surrendered her licence and she was also performing work of a legal nature as she was a Senior Analyst Para Legal in the CPA Global. Learned Senior Counsel has, in support of his contention, placed reliance upon the provisions of Article 233 of the Constitution and also the decision of the Supreme Court in Deepak Aggarwal, particular to paragraphs 62, 62.2, 94 and 98. Learned Senior Counsel also placed reliance upon the provisions of Article

217(2)(b) of the Constitution and the decision of the Supreme Court in Mahesh Chandra Gupta Vs. Union of India & Ors.3.

Sri Manish Goyal, learned counsel for the respondents has also placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Deepak Aggarwal and on a decision of a Division Bench of this Court in Writ-C No.664 of 20154. It is the submission of learned counsel for the respondents that in view of the provisions of Article 233 of the Constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court in Deepak Aggarwal, the expression 'if he has been for not less than seven years an advocate' in Article 233(2) of the Constitution would mean seven years as an advocate immediately preceding the date of application and since the petitioner was not an advocate immediately preceding the date of the application, the candidature of the petitioner was rightly rejected.

Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner then contended that in any case, the nature of the work of the petitioner as a Senior Analyst Para Legal in CPA Global from 17 May 2010 to 6 June 2014 should not disentitle the petitioner from being considered as eligible for the post. The contention of learned Senior Counsel is that the service rendered on the post of Senior Analyst Para Legal is consistent with the work of an advocate and, therefore, in view of the decision of the Supreme Court in Deepak Aggarwal, she is eligible for appointment.

In the present case, the petitioner was appointed as a full time Senior Analyst Para Legal. The application form submitted by the petitioner also shows that the petitioner is receiving salary of Rs.30,315/- per month. Her service conditions would also be governed by the rules framed by CPA Global.

This apart, from the application form submitted by the petitioner which has been enclosed with the writ petition, it transpires that the petitioner was enrolled as an advocate with the U.P. Bar Council on 12 January 2002 and the period of employment which the petitioner has mentioned in the application form is from 17 May 2010 to 6 June 2014. The petitioner has also stated that her standing as an advocate as on 1 January 2015 is eight years, three months and twenty-eight days. This is obviously the period commencing 12 January 2002 and ending 16 May 2010. The petitioner herself not considered for the period she was in employment with CPA Global as a Senior Analyst Para Legal.

The decision in the case of Deepak Aggarwal, therefore, does not help the petitioner.”

15. It would also be relevant to take note of the judgment of this Court passed in Writ A No. 25580 of 2018 (Shiv Kumar and another vs. Honorable High Court of Judicature at Allahabad and another) decided on 5.4.2019, relevant paragraphs whereof are quoted as under:-

“It would be profitable to first refer to the various statutory provisions regarding the eligibility and appointment to the post of District Judge/UP HJS before proceeding to answer the controversy arising in this petition.

The first and foremost provision in this regard is Article 233 of the Constitution of India which reads as under:-

233. Appointment of district judges:-

"(1) Appointments of persons to be, and the posting and promotion of district judges in any State shall be made by the Governor of the State in consultation with the High Court exercising jurisdiction in relation to such State.

(2) A person not already in the service of the Union or of the State shall only be eligible to be appointed a district judge if he has been for not less than seven years an advocate or a pleader and is recommended by the High Court for appointment."

Article 233 (2) in unequivocal term provides that a person not already in service shall be eligible for appointment as District Judge if he has been in practice as an advocate or pleader for not less than 7 years provided his name is recommended for appointment by the High Court. In other words, as regards a person not already in service what is required is that he should be an advocate or pleader of 7 years standing and that his name is recommended by the High Court for appointment as District Judge. Thus, 7 years of standing as an advocate is one of the essential eligibility condition for appointment as District Judge.

After the above constitutional provision comes the Bar Council of India Rules framed under Section 49 of the Advocates Act, 1961. Rules 47 to 52 of the said Rules provide regarding employment of an Advocate.

In this regard, Rule 49 is relevant of our purpose and is quoted below:-

"49. An advocate shall not be a full-time salaried employee of any person, government, firm, corporation or concern, so long as he continues to practise, and shall, on taking up any employment, intimate the fact to the Bar Council on whose roll his name appears, and shall thereupon cease to practise as an advocate so long as he continues in such employment"

The aforesaid rule completely prohibits an advocate from taking any full time employment during his continuance of practice and provides that if he so takes up employment, he shall inform the Bar Council whereupon he shall cease to be in practice as an advocate so long his employment continues. Therefore, as soon as an advocate enrolled with the Bar Council takes up full time salaried employment he ceases to practice as an advocate.

The UP HJS Rules, 1975 vide Rule 5 provides for the source of recruitment to the Higher Judicial Service. It provides for three sources namely; by promotion from the Civil Judge (Senior Division); by promotion through limited competitive examination of Civil Judge (Senior Division); and by direct recruitment from amongst the advocates.

The aforesaid 3rd source of recruitment is relevant for our purpose and therefore Rule 5 (c) alone of the Rules is being reproduced herein below:-

5. Source of recruitment:-

(c) by direct recruitment from amongst the Advocates of not less than seven years standing on the first day of January next following the year in which the notice inviting applications is published"

A bare reading of the aforesaid Rule reveals that the eligibility for direct recruitment to the UP HJS is from amongst the advocates of not less than 7 years standing meaning thereby that a minimum of 7 years standing as an Advocate is a sine-qua-non for selection/appointment in UP HJS through direct recruitment.

It is in this context that a question has arisen before us whether a person or an advocate who takes up full time employment with the Bank as Law Officer and in discharge of his duties may be appearing for the employer before the law courts would still continue to be an advocate so as to count the period in service towards his standing as an advocate for selection/appointment to the UP HJS/District Judge.

The issue is very simple if we go by the strict literary sense in which the aforesaid provisions have been couched.

Article 233 (2) clearly provides 7 years standing as an advocate as the condition for eligibility for appointment as District Judge. Same is the position that has been reiterated by Rule 5 (c) of the UP HJS Rules, 1975. Thus, 7 years of standing as an advocate on the relevant date is sine-qua-non for appointment as District Judge or in UP HJS. At the same time Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules clearly stipulates that an advocate who accepts a full time salaried employment ceases to practice as an advocate so long as he continues in such employment. In other words, as soon as an advocate enters into full time salaried employment, he loses the right to practice even though he may represent the employer before the law courts.

Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules creates a legal fiction to the effect that a person duly enrolled as an advocate ceases to be one as soon as he takes a full time employment on salary even if continues to occasionally appear in law Court.

The purpose of creating a legal fiction is to create an imaginary thing to be legally in existence even if it does not exist in reality. So the image created by legal fiction has to be recognized as real, otherwise the purpose of such legal fiction would stand frustrated.

In such a situation, the petitioner who practiced as an advocate from 8.10.2010 to 6.10.2014 and then took up a full time salaried employment did not have to his credit 7 years of standing as an advocate while applying for UPHJS. The period of full time employment as Law Officer with the Bank despite his appearance before the court as part of the service condition would not make him a practicing advocate for the above purpose. The period of full time employment can not be treated as time spent on practice as an advocate.

In Satish Kumar Sharma a three Judges Bench was seized with a controversy with regard to withdrawal of the enrolment of an advocate by the Bar Council as he was a permanent employee of Himachal Pradesh State Electricity Board and was holding the post of Deputy Secretary with it. In the said case the advocate obtained the law decree in the year 1975 and entered into full time employment of the Board as Law Officer Grade-II and later rose to the post to the Deputy Secretary. During the course of employment he was permitted by the Board to act an advocate on its behalf. Later, he also got himself enrolled on 9.7.1984 as an advocate. However, the enrollment was withdrawn as he was in full time employment. The withdrawal of the enrolment was challenged by him before the Division Bench of the High Court but failed. The matter went up to the Supreme Court where an affidavit of the advocate to the effect that his duties with the Board right from Law Officer to the present post were exclusively those of an advocate and that he had been personally appearing for the Board before the various courts was brought on record but even then it was held that as the appellant was undoubtedly a full time salaried employee at the time of his enrolment as an advocate and continues to be so he can not be conferred with the status of an advocate. His duties, may be exclusively to work/plead in courts but having regard to the plain language and clear term of Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules and looking to the fact that his substantial and predominant duties were not that of a lawyer except for mere occasional appearance in some courts solely on behalf of the Board would not make him an advocate.

In Haniraj L Chulani (Dr.)³ it was observed that legal profession requires full time attention and would not countenance advocates riding two horses or more at a time.

In the said case the petitioner was a medical practitioner and wanted to get himself enrolled as an advocate after obtaining decree of LLB. It was in that connection that the Court observed as above and proceeded to observe further as under:-

"It is axiomatic that an advocate has to burn the midnight oil for preparing his cases for being argued in the court next day. Advocates face examination every day when they appear in courts. It is not as if that after court hours an advocate has not to put in hard work on his study table in his chamber with or without the presence of his clients who may be available for consultation. To put forward his best performance as an advocate he is required to give wholehearted and full-time attention to his profession. Any flinching from such unstinted attention to his legal profession would certainly have an impact on his professional ability and expertise. If he is permitted to simultaneously practise as a doctor then the requirement of his full-time attention to the legal profession is bound to be adversely affected. Consequently, however equally dignified may be the profession of a doctor he can not simultaneously be permitted to practice law which is a full-time occupation. It is for ensuring the full-time attention of legal practitioners towards their profession and with a view to bringing out their best so that they can fulfill their role as an officer of the court and can give their best in the administration of the justice, that the impugned rule has been enacted by the State Legislature."

In Deepak Aggarawal the question that was raised before the Supreme Court was whether a public prosecutor/ Assistant Public Prosecutor/District Attorney/Assistant District Attorney/Deputy Advocate General who is in full time employment of the Government seizes to be an advocate or pleader within the meaning of Article 233 (2) of the Constitution.

It is in context with the above controversy that the Supreme Court referring to its earlier decision in Sushma Suri⁴ considered the meaning of the expression 'advocate' used in the un-amended Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules and held that if a person was on the roll of the Bar Council and was engaged either by employment or otherwise by the Union of India or the State for the purpose of practice before a court as an advocate such a person does not cease to be an advocate.

The aforesaid decision was in reference to the employment of an advocate as a lawyer and not for doing any other office duty. The predominant purpose of the employment in such a situation was that of an advocate rather than that of an official of the Government.

A Division Bench of this Court in Writ A No. 59375 of 2014 (Smt. Rashmi Sharma Vs. State of U.P., and 3 others) vide judgment and order dated 12.11.2014 decided a similar controversy which also related to the recruitment of U.P. HJS. In the said case also the petitioner was appointed as a full time Deputy Manager (Law) in Andhra Bank. Thus his name was not included in the list of eligible candidates for UP HJS on the ground that he was in full time employment. The Division Bench on consideration of the entire case law on the subject including Deepak Aggarwal came to the conclusion that mere appearance of the candidate before the Lok Adalat as representative of the Bank does not make him eligible and that the decision of the Deepak Aggarwal is of no help. The petition was accordingly dismissed.

A similar view was taken by another Division Bench of this Court vide its judgment and order dated 1.9.2015 passed in Writ A No. 46742 of 2015 (Smt. Ruchi Chaudhari Vs. High Court of Judicature of Allahabad and another). In the said case the candidate for U.P. HJS after enrolment as an advocate had taken up job as a Senior Analyst para legal in a company CPA Global. The period of working in the aforesaid full time employment was not counted towards her standing as an advocate and the writ petition was dismissed holding that the decision of the Deepak Aggarwal does not help her.

In yet another case a Division Bench of this Court in deciding Writ A No. 32440 of 2014 (Deep Kumar and 3 others Vs. State of U.P., and another) vide its judgment and order dated 16.6.2014 distinguishing Deepak Aggarwal's case did not permit the Law Officers in employment of the Bank to participate for direct recruitment to the U.P. Higher Judicial Service Examination of the year 2014 as they were full-time salaried employees of the Bank and no longer the advocates.

A similar view was expressed by one another Division Bench of which one of us (Pankaj Mithal, J.) was a member in Rajesh Chaubey which related to the present recruitment to the UP HJS. The Division Bench considering the decision of the Supreme Court in Deepak Aggarwal's case and the eligibility condition contained in Article 333 (2) and Rule 5 (c) of the UP HJS Rules read with Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules held that once a person by virtue of his full time employment ceases to be an advocate, the period of service rendered by him would not enure to his benefit for determining his standing as an advocate.

It may worth noting that the case of Deepak Aggarwal related to Public Prosecutors or Advocates in employment of Government who by nature of the duties assigned continued to appear before the law courts regularly on behalf of the employer. Their work during employment was treated to be predominantly to be of an advocate and was thus added towards standing as an advocate.

The position in the case of employment in other capacity is quite different from that of employment as public prosecutor. In such other services appearance before the Court is occasional and is not the predominant part of the duties. Therefore, mere occasional appearance of such employees in Courts/tribunals while in full time employment in few cases that too solely on behalf of their employer can not be taken to mean that they are continuing to be in practice as advocates. It is but natural that in such employment their main job is not that of pleading and arguing cases before the law courts on behalf of a variety of persons as is expected of an advocate. The nature of their duties is mostly of advising, conveyance etc., which may not allow them enough time for regular appearance before the law courts thus depriving them of experience of a lawyer. Any effort to treat persons in such employment as practicing advocates would be de hors of Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules. An advocate is a person who assists, defends, pleads, or prosecute for another. At times he may represent the State or the public at large in matters of public concern such as in criminal cases and for this limited purpose is a public advocate. The public prosecutor or the district attorney as such by the nature of his work is a public advocate. He as such despite his full time engagement with the State does not cease to be advocate. This is an exception to Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules.

An advocate is a responsible officer of the Court. He is as important as a Judge in the matter of dispensation of justice. He is virtually a minister of justice equally in line with a Judge. He acquires the skills of advocacy by experience and it is often said that at times experience is much more important than knowledge. It is more true in the profession of law wherein devotion to higher cause, the cause of truth and justice is more vital. One gains knowledge through experience by regular practice which can not be acquired otherwise while in employment or by appearance in some stray cases. It is therefore elementary for holding the post of DJ/UPHJS to have atleast 7 years of actual standing as an advocate and not the theoretic knowledge of law as in full time employment.

In the above situation, the persons employed as public prosecutor/District Authority predominantly discharge functions of advocates and would be recognized as advocates in the light of Deepak Aggarwal's case but in no other situation or employment. In the present case, there is no material or evidence to establish that the predominant function of the employment of the petitioner as defined/described in the letter of appointment issued to him by his employer Bank is that of practice as a lawyer and that the other functions discharged by him are only bare minimum or incidental. The Circular letter of the Reserve Bank of India does not seek to alter the terms and conditions of employment of the petitioner, neither do stray appearances recorded in some court cases establish that the Bank had engaged the services of the petitioner, predominantly to represent it in cases before courts, tribunals etc.

In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we are of the opinion that in the light of the legal fiction created by Rule 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules, the petitioner who has full time employment of the SBI ceased to be an advocate and his service period would not be counted/added in his practice as an advocate to make him eligible for UPHJS.

Accordingly, there is no force in the petition. It is therefore dismissed.”

16. The issue involved herein has also been considered time and again by Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Rameshwar Dayal vs. State of Punjab AIR 1961 SC 816, Chandra Mohan vs. State of U.P. AIR 1966 SC 1987, Sushma Suri vs. Govt of National Capital Territory of Delhi (1999) 1 SCC 330 and Satish Kumar Sharma vs. Bar Council of Himachal Pradesh (2001) 2 SCC 365, which have already been considered in the judgments quoted above, hence to avoid repetition are not being referred to separately.

17. Similarly, this issue has been considered by this Court in the cases of Rajesh Chaubey vs. Hon. High Court Judicature at Allahabad and another 2019 (3) ADJ 60, Smt. Rashmi Sharma vs. State of U.P. (Writ A No. 59375 of 2014) decided on 12.11.2014 and Rajesh Chaubey vs. Hon. High Court of Judicature at Allahabad and another (Writ A No. 27608 of 2018) decided on 2.1.2019 also.

18. The question was again considered and decided by this Court in Writ A No. 33829 of 2015 (Kumar Mitakshar vs. State of U.P. and others) decided on 20.4.2023. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgement are also quoted as under:-

“Taking note of the above submissions, we may further go through Article 233(2) of the Constitution which provides the eligibility for appointment as the District Judge of a person who is not in service of the Union of the State. It provides that any such person would be eligible for appointment if he has been for not less than 7 years as an Advocate/pleader and is recommended by the High Court. The appointment by direct recruitment to the Higher Judicial Service is made by the High Court in the spirit of the constitutional provision under Article 233(2) of the Constitution in accordance with the service Rules' 1975.

The language of Article 233(2) of the Constitution has been read and interpreted by the Apex Court in the case of Deepak Agarwal (supra) in the following manner:-

"102. As regards construction of the expression, 'if he has been for not less than seven years an advocate?' in Article 233(2) of the Constitution, we think Mr. Prashant Bhushan was right in his submission that this expression means seven years as an advocate immediately preceding the application and not seven years any time in the past. This is clear by use of 'has been?'. The present perfect continuous tense is used for a position which began at some time in the past and is still continuing. Therefore, one of the essential requirements articulated by the above expression in Article 233(2) is that such person must with requisite period be continuing as an advocate on the date of application. "

In the case of Dheeraj (supra) it was further considered in paragraphs-'58', '60(iv)' as under:-

"58. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the opinion that for direct recruitment as District Judge as against the quota fixed for the advocates/pleaders, incumbent has to be practising advocate and must be in practice as on the cut off date and at the time of appointment he must not be in judicial service or other services of the Union or State. For constituting experience of 7 years of practice as advocate, experience obtained in judicial service cannot be equated/combined and advocate/pleader should be in practice in the immediate past for 7 years and must be in practice while applying on the cut off date fixed under the rules and should be in practice as an advocate on the date of appointment. The purpose is recruitment from bar of a practising advocate having minimum 7 years experience.

(iv) For the purpose of Article 233(2), an Advocate has to be continuing in practice for not less than 7 years as on the cut off date and at the time of appointment as District Judge. Members of judicial service having 7 years' experience of practice before they have joined the service or having combined experience of 7 years as lawyer and member of judiciary, are not eligible to apply for direct recruitment as a District Judge."

It is, thus, held in Deepak Agarwal (supra) and considered in Dheeraj Mor (supra) that 7 years standing as an Advocate means the period practising law as an Advocate for 7 years immediately preceding the application and not 7 years any time in the past. The applicant who is an Advocate/pleader should be in practice in the immediate past for 7 years and must be in practice, while applying, on the cut-off fixed under the rules and should be in practice as an Advocate on the date of appointment. The purpose is to recruit the members of the bar, i.e. practising Advocates having minimum 7 years practice. The continuity accorded to the period of 7 years for computing eligibility criteria of experience as provided in Rule 5(c) of the U.P. Higher Judicial Service Rules 1975, thus, is determined with the decision of the Apex Court.

The contention of the learned senior counsel for the petitioner that the period of 1 year 2 months and 10 days is to be counted in the period practising law by the petitioner as on the date of application, the cut off date under the Rules, cannot be accepted as the requirement is that the total period of 7 years experience must be in continuity immediately preceding the last date of the submission of the application form.

The result is that as on 03.07.2014, i.e. the last date of submission of the application form, the petitioner herein had gained experience of only 6 years 11 months and 3 days as practising Advocate. He, therefore, cannot be said to be eligible for appointment by direct recruitment to the Higher Judicial Services as per the eligibility criteria under the U.P. Higher Judicial Service Rules, 1975 read with Article 233(2) of the Constitution of India.

As regards the submission of the learned senior Advocate that the observation in Deepak Agarwal (supra) in para-'102' would not be attracted in case of the petitioner, inasmuch as, the issue herein is covered by the decision in Rameshwar Dayal vs State of Punjab reported in AIR 1961 SC 816, suffice it to note that in Dheeraj Mor (supra), both the decisions of the Apex Court in Deepak Agarwal (supra) and Rameshwar Dayal (supra) had been considered to observe in para-'58' and '60(iv)' noted hereinabove.

The submission of the learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, cannot be accepted. Even otherwise the Apex Court in case of Deepak Agarwal (supra) has made observation in paragraph '102' that the words "has been" used in Article 233(2) of the Constitution being in present perfect continuous tense, continuous practice of 7 years or experience of continuous 7 years immediately preceding the cutoff date as per the service rules, is necessary.

The words "has been" used in Article 233(2) of the Constitution gives continuity to the period and the requirement, thus, is that the candidate for being treated as eligible must possess 7 years continuous period practising law immediately preceding the last date of submission of the application form i.e. on the cut off date as per the recruitment rules.

For the above discussion, no infirmity can be found in the decision of the respondent High Court.

The writ petition is, accordingly, dismissed.”

19. The discussion made hereinabove clearly establishes that as per eligibility condition contained in Article 233 (2) of the Constitution of India and Rule 5 (c) of the U.P. H.J.S. Rules read with Rule 43 and 49 of the Bar Council of India Rules framed under Section 49 of the Advocates Act, 1961 completely prohibits an advocate from taking a part time / full time employment during continuance of his practice and if he takes any such employment he shall inform the Bar Council whereas he shall cease to practice as an advocate so long as he continues in such employment and that Rule 49 creates a legal fiction that on taking of full time employment he ceases to be an advocate and cannot be conferred status of an advocate.

20. No doubt, it can be argued that nature of work matters, however, the law as discussed above clearly establishes that now settled law is that full time work/employment as a public prosecutor is distinguishable and is different from full time employment with any other bank/private company/ employer etc. This conclusion can be safely drawn from the judgement of Dheeraj Mor (supra) and various other judgements of Division Bench of this Court.

21. Coming back to the facts of this case, it may be noted that the petitioner was registered as an advocate on 16.11.1998;

vide appointment letter dated 15.1.2009 he was appointed as Law Officer in a private company, namely, M/s Alliance Builders and Contractors Limited Bareilly; it is alleged that apart from the said company, he had filed Vakalatnamas on behalf of other litigants; he appeared in UP HJS Examination-2009 and qualified in prelims and written examination but was not permitted to appear in interview on the ground that he was in full time salaried class employment; as he intended to appear in UP HJS, he tendered his resignation from the company on 01.1.2010, which was accepted on 01.2.2010; in UP HJS 2012, he could not qualify in interview; in UP HJS-2014, he could not qualify. In the relevant UP HJS Examination-2016, he filled the form, however, allegedly there was some mistake hence, he filed affidavit dated 12.6.2016 and cleared prelims and written examination and was called for interview on 22.4.2017 but his name did not find figure in the select list; when he came to know that he had obtained 471 marks whereas last general category selected candidate has obtained only 455 marks, he filed representation which was rejected. Hence, present petition has been filed.

22. We have already noted and discussed the case law on the issue in hand extensively. We have also noted the resolution of the Selection and Appointment Committee taken in its meeting dated 17.5.2017. The admitted facts of the case are that as per para 10 of the appointment letter dated 15.1.2009 the appointment of the petitioner was on a full time basis with specific condition that he shall devote full time to the duty assigned by the company and that he will not engage himself for any other person, firm or company in any capacity during his appointment with the company. Further, the

23. During the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner sought to place reliance on a letter dated 19.1.2009 allegedly given by the company, crux whereof appears to be that the petitioner can continue with his other clients as well. We may put it on record that on a pointed query, learned counsel for the petitioner could not dispute the fact that this document has never been mentioned or relied on earlier and has surfaced for first time in the present petition. We, therefore, are not inclined to place reliance thereon. In so far as filing of Vakalatnama on behalf of others in the year 2009-10 is concerned, we restrain ourselves from going into the issue that when the petitioner was in full time employment of a private company, whether, his act of filing Vakalatnama was in violation of Rule 43 and 49 of the Bar Council Rules or was in violation of terms of his appointment as Law Officer of the company, as this issue is not before us.

25. The petition is devoid of merits and is accordingly dismissed. No costs.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ A No. 13368 of 2023

Anchal Kumar Tiwari ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Shivam Yadav, Sri Aditya Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:

C.S.C., Sri Ashok Kumar Lal, Sri Satyam Singh

Civil Law - U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 - U.P. Cooperative Societies' Employees' Service Regulations, 1975 - Regulation 84 - Disciplinary Proceedings; Imposition of Multiple Penalties - Burden of Proof in Inquiry

Facts: The petitioner, a Branch Manager at the Bhogaon Branch of Mainpuri District Cooperative Bank Ltd., was punished with reversion from Manager Grade-II to Manager Grade-III and ordered to pay Rs.8,53,480/- with 6% interest for alleged negligence leading to financial loss. The petitioner, who unearthed embezzlement by a cashier, was charged with negligence and vicarious liability, suspended, and subjected to disciplinary proceedings. He challenged the order dated July 26, 2023, and the Committee of Management's resolution dated April 27, 2023, under Article 226, alleging procedural irregularities and violation of Regulation 84, which permits only one penalty.

Held: Single Penalty under Regulation 84: The court held that Regulation 84 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies' Employees' Service Regulations, 1975, limits the imposition to one penalty from the enumerated list. The imposition of both reversion (Regulation 84(1)(e)) and recovery of loss (Regulation 84(1)(d)) was impermissible, relying on Pancham Ram Yadav Vs U.P. Co-Operative Federation Ltd., 2019 (9) ADJ 1 (FB) and Vijay Bahadur Yadav Vs Chairman, U.P. Cooperative Federation Ltd., 1992 AWC 1479 All (Paras 14-19).

Burden of Proof in Disciplinary Inquiry: The establishment must prove charges through documentary and oral evidence presented by a Presenting Officer, even if the delinquent does not reply or appear. The Inquiry Officer cannot assume charges to be true by default or rely solely on charge-sheet documents. The court found the inquiry defective as no formal evidence was produced, and the Inquiry Officer relied on an appraisal note, violating principles of natural justice (Paras 20-22).

Precedents: Relied on St. of U.P. Vs T.P. Lal Srivastava, (1996) 10 SCC 702, St. of Uttar Pradesh Vs Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, Roop Singh Negi Vs Punj. National Bank, (2009) 2 SCC 570, & ors., emphasizing the establishment's burden to prove charges and the need for formal inquiry proceedings (Para 22).

Outcome: The impugned order dated July 26, 2023, and the resolution dated April 27, 2023, were quashed due to procedural irregularities and imposition of multiple penalties. The respondents were permitted to initiate fresh proceedings from the charge-sheet stage, adhering to proper inquiry procedures and imposing only one penalty under Regulation 84, not exceeding the severity of the quashed order (Para 23).

No Costs: No order as to costs was passed (Para 24).

1. This matter has been heard on rather unconventional pleadings. On the 25th of August, 2023, the learned Counsel for the petitioner sought time to file a supplementary affidavit, when the matter came up for admission. The writ petition was, accordingly, adjourned to 12th of September, 2023. A further adjournment was sought on that day. A supplementary affidavit was filed in Court by the learned Counsel for the petitioner on 27.09.2023, when time was granted to file a supplementary counter affidavit. The learned Counsel for the respondents filed a supplementary counter affidavit on 11.10.2023. On that day, the parties did not press for further affidavits; not even a counter affidavit to the writ petition. The matter was, accordingly, admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith, leading to judgment being reserved.

2. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 26th July, 2023 passed by the Secretary/ Chief Executive Officer, Mainpuri District Cooperative Bank Ltd., punishing the petitioner after disciplinary proceedings with reversion from the post of Branch Manager Grade-II to Manager Grade-III, and, further, directing recovery of a sum of Rs.8,53,480/- together with 6% interest on account of loss caused to the Bank.

3. The District Cooperative Bank Ltd., Mainpuri is a Cooperative Bank governed by the provisions of the UP Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 (for short, 'the Act of 1965') and service conditions of their employees are governed by the UP Cooperative Societies' Employees' Service Regulations, 1975 (for short, 'the Regulations'). The petitioner is employed with the Mainpuri District Cooperative Bank Ltd. (for short, 'the Bank') as a Branch Manager. He was posted as the Branch Manager at the Bhogaon Branch of the Bank. The Committee of Management of the Bank is the petitioner's appointing authority, which comprises the Board of Directors thereof. The Chief Executive Officer of the Bank, who is the Secretary of the Committee of Management, exercises all administrative powers conferred upon him for the purpose of managing the affairs of the Bank.

4. The petitioner was appointed a Clerk/ Cashier in the year 2009. He was promoted to the post of the Junior Branch Manager in the year 2014. It is his case that he has been working to the satisfaction of higher officials of the Bank. The petitioner was posted as the Branch Manager at the Bhogaon Branch, District Mainpuri with effect from 01.09.2021. The petitioner has pleaded for a fact that as the Branch Manager, he was not assigned any role in dealing with direct cash deposits made by customers. The duties assigned to the petitioner at the Bhogaon Branch were to supervise the activities of various functionaries at the Branch, and, at the end of the day, make a tally of the balance-sheet with the cashier. In case, the cashier did not enter any cash deposit in the book, there are no means, according to the petitioner, to know about it, unless there was a complaint. The petitioner says that the genesis of the orders impugned, giving rise to the present writ petition, are that on 20.07.2022, a customer approached the Bank to make some payment through RTGS. That payment, however, could not be made because of insufficient funds. He complained in the matter to the petitioner and when the petitioner personally inquired into it, he found that it was the cashier of the Bank, who would deposit receipts but not credit the customer's account. To safeguard the interest of the Bank and the customer, the petitioner called upon the cashier, one Harish Chandra Gautam, and confronted him with the customer's complaint. The cashier admitted his guilt in writing as also the fact that he had not posted the customer's account with credits of deposit made by the latter. The petitioner made the cashier write a letter on 20.07.2022 and it was retained on record. The petitioner was confronted with the situation that called for disciplinary action against the cashier. He informed top officials of the bank, to wit, the Chief Executive Officer, since the petitioner was not empowered to initiate proceedings. The Deputy General Manager of the Bank was also informed over telephone and requested to come over to the Bank at the earliest. When the higher officers of the Bank reached there, the petitioner tendered them the written report against the cashier and also apprised them of the fact that the cashier had been made to pay the sum of Rs.6,32,000/-, that he had apparently embezzled. The petitioner also took into custody deposit receipts from the cashier, Harish Chandra Gautam, which bore the various dates of deposit by the customer, to wit, 02.07.2022, 07.07.2022 and 15.07.2022. The recovered amount from the cashier was deposited in the relative account on 20.07.2022. The written admission by Harish Chandra Gautam, the cashier about the fact that he had not deposited the customer's money in his bank account, was placed before the Chief Executive Officer when he reached the Bank on 20.07.2022.

5. Notwithstanding the fact that it was the petitioner who acted promptly upon intimation of this fraud, the petitioner says that he became a victim of office politics and framed in the matter, charging him of negligence and vicarious liability. The petitioner was suspended from service pending inquiry, just two days after the incident i.e. on 22.07.2022. An interim inquiry report was submitted by the Deputy General Manager, where the entire allegations were directed at the cashier and the petitioner held responsible for negligence of duty. There is then by the petitioner a whole lot of pleas of fact and law raised to demonstrate the absence of any liability for him, but that is not a matter with which this Court is concerned.

6. A First Information Report was lodged against Harish Chandra Gautam and the petitioner, giving rise to Crime No.424 of 2022, under Sections 420, 409 IPC, P.S. Bhogaon, District Mainpuri. The petitioner was granted anticipatory bail in the matter by this Court vide order dated 31.10.2022 passed in Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application u/s 438 Cr.P.C. No.10110 of 2022. The Investigating Officer, during the investigation, did not find any complicity for the petitioner and exculpated him. The petitioner, however, remained suspended from service. The petitioner says that he was the man, who unearthed the embezzlement by the cashier, and yet he was proceeded with against by the respondents in their disciplinary jurisdiction. He was served with two charge-sheets, one dated 31.10.2022 and a supplementary dated 03.01.2023, charging him with embezzlement of funds in collusion with the cashier.

7. It is the petitioner's case that he demanded evidence collected against him and wrote various letters demanding documents. Nothing was provided to the petitioner in order to enable him to submit an effective reply to the charge-sheet. The bank proceeded unilaterally and called upon the petitioner through a show cause notice dated 03.04.2023, asking him to show cause why he may not be held guilty and punished with reversion from the post of Manager Grade-II to Manager Grade-III, and saddled with recovery of a sum of Rs.8,53,480/-, on the charge of embezzling funds in connivance with the cashier. The petitioner answered the show cause notice vide his reply dated 13.04.2023, where again the grievance raised was that necessary documents had not been provided to him. He again pleaded not guilty. On the 15th of April, 2023, the Committee of Management of the Bank passed a resolution calling upon their members to discuss certain points, including the issue of considering the petitioner's reply to the show cause notice with personal opportunity to him.

8. Pursuant to the said resolution, the petitioner was directed to appear before the Committee of Management on 27.04.2023. He appeared before the Committee on the date fixed, and thereafter, submitted his representation on 02.05.2023. It is the petitioner's case that there was a dissent in the Committee with a divided house of 7 to 6, out of the total 13. Six members spoke for the petitioner. However, on 27.04.2023, a resolution was passed by the Committee of Management to punish the petitioner, on which the impugned order dated 26.07.2023 passed by the Secretary/Chief Executive Officer of the Bank has followed.

9. Heard Mr. Aditya Yadav, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Ashok Kumar Lal, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent Nos. 3 and 4 and Mr. R. D. Mishra, learned Standing Counsel on behalf of the State.

10. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the petitioner in the first place that going by the provisions of Regulation 84 of the Regulations, two punishments cannot be awarded to an employee and has placed reliance for the purpose upon the law laid down by a Full Bench of this Court in Pancham Ram Yadav Vs. U.P. Co-Operative Federation Ltd. and another, 2019(9) ADJ 1 (FB). Reliance has also been placed on the authority of a learned Single Judge in Vijay Bahadur Yadav v. Chairman, U.P. Cooperative Federation Ltd., Lucknow and others, 1992 AWC 1479 All.

11. The other submission, that is founded on the averments in paragraph No.5 of the supplementary affidavit, is that the establishment bore the burden of proving the charges by producing evidence on their behalf before the Inquiry Officer, including witnesses. It is argued that even if the petitioner was ex parte before the Inquiry Officer, it was the bounden duty of the establishment to produce evidence through a Presenting Officer, both documentary and oral, to prove the charges. The Inquiry Officer could not assume the charges in the charge-sheet to be true merely because the petitioner had not filed a reply or not appeared before the Inquiry Officer and produced evidence in his defence.

12. Mr. Ashok Kumar Lal and the learned Standing Counsel, on the other hand, have supported the impugned order and said that the entire record of proceedings show that despite extravagant opportunity provided to the petitioner, he chose not to avail the same and kept on harping on an issue of no consequence, to wit, the provision of copies of documents, on the basis of which the case was founded against him by the establishment.

13. This Court has considered the submissions advanced on behalf of the parties by learned Counsel very carefully and perused the record.

14. So far as the first point urged on behalf of the petitioner is concerned, it is necessary to refer to the provisions of Regulation 84 of the Regulations, which read:

“84. Penalties.- (i) Without prejudice to the provisions contained in any other regulation, an employee who commits a breach of duty enjoined upon him or has been convicted for criminal offence or an offence under section 103 of the Act or does anything prohibited by these regulations shall be liable to be punished by any one of the following penalties: -

(a) censure,

(b) with holding of increment,

(c) fine on an employee of Category IV (peon, chaukidar, etc.).

(d) recovery from pay or security deposit to compensate in whole or in part for any pecuniary loss caused to the co-operative society by the employee's conduct,

(e) reduction in rank or grades held substantively by the employee,

(f) removal from service, or

(g) dismissal from service.

(ii) Copy of order of the punishment shall invariably be given to the employee concerned and entry to this effect shall be made in the service record of the employee.

(iii) No penalty except censure shall be imposed unless a show cause notice has been given to the employee and he has either failed to reply within the specified time or his reply has been found to be unsatisfactory by the punishing authority.

(iv) (a) The charge-sheeted employee shall be awarded punishment by the appropriate authority according to the seriousness of the offence:

Provided that no penalty under sub-clause (e), (f) or (g) of clause (i) shall be imposed without recourse to disciplinary proceedings.

(b) No employee shall be removed or dismissed by an authority other than by which he was appointed unless the appointing authority has made prior delegation of such authority to such other person or authority in writing.

(v) The appointing authority or person authorised by him while passing orders for stoppage of increments shall state the period for which it is stopped and whether it shall have effect of postponing future increments or promotion."

15. The question, if it was open to an establishment, the terms and conditions of whose employees are governed by the Regulations to impose more than one punishment, bearing in mind the provisions of Regulation 84 of the Regulations, received consideration of this Court in Vijay Bahadur Yadav (supra). In Vijay Bahadur Yadav, the learned Single Judge of this Court in the context of imposition of three penalties on the employee, whose terms and conditions of service were governed by Regulation 84, held:

"4.

Under the aforesaid Regulation, the punishing authority is authorised to impose any one of the penalties provided there under. Censure, withholding of increment and recovery from pay are the penalties provided under the aforesaid Regulation."

16. There was thereafter much conflict of opinion on the issue, which led to a reference being made to a larger Bench by a Division Bench of this Court. The matter came up before the Full Bench in Pancham Ram Yadav (supra). The questions referred to the Full Bench were:

"1. Whether Regulation 84 of the U.P. Co-operative Societies Employees' Service Regulation 1975 read with Rule 83 of the U.P. Co-operative Federation Limited Karmchari Seva Niyamawali, 1980 services can be harmonized so as to uphold the punishment by way of dismissal of an employee coupled with an order directing recovery of an amount on the charge of a financial embezzlement or misappropriation to be included within the fold of Regulation 84?

2. Whether the law laid down in the case of Virendra Kumar Gupta v. State of U.P. and others (Supra) in respect of the true import of Regulation 84 read with Rule 83 aforesaid does not state the correct position of law as against the reasoning given by the learned Single Judge in paragraph No. 13 in the case of Satya Narain Mishra v. Praband Nideshak and another (Supra) and alternatively as to whether the statement of law in that regard as explained in the judgment of Satya Narain Mishra v. Praband Nideshak and another (Supra) should be accepted as the correct position of law ?"

17. Their Lordships of the Full Bench answered the reference in the following terms:

"42. We, therefore, answer the questions referred to us as under:

(1) Since evident contradiction in the language of Regulation 84 of Regulations, 1975 and Rule 83 of Rules, 1980, the aforesaid provisions cannot be harmonized, hence Regulation 84 of Regulations, 1975 shall prevail over Rule 83 of Rules, 1980 and only one of the punishments prescribed can be imposed as specifically stated in Regulation 84 of Regulations, 1975.

(2) The Division Bench judgment in Virendra Kumar Gupta's case (supra) lays down correct law and otherwise view expressed by learned Single Judge in Satya Narain Mishra's case (supra) as also expressed in the Reference order is not correct position of law."

18. The aforesaid position of the law makes it clear that Regulation 84 of the Regulations limits the power of the establishment to the award of one of the enumerated punishments. The establishment cannot award more than one of the punishments enumerated under Regulation 84 at the same time.

19. In this view of the matter, so far as the first point goes, it has to be answered in favour of the petitioner, inasmuch as the order impugned awards distinctly two of the enumerated punishments under Regulation 84, to wit, one under clause (d) of Regulation 84(1) and the other under clause (e).

20. The next point, that is urged on behalf of the petitioner, is that even if an employee does not file a written statement to the charge-sheet or appear at the inquiry, it does not entitle the respondents to assume the charges to be true. It is the establishment's burden, particularly, in a case where a major penalty may be the outcome, to produce evidence, both documentary and oral in support of the charges before the Inquiry Officer. A perusal of the supplementary counter affidavit shows that the respondents say that the date, time and place of hearing was fixed by the Inquiry Officer, but the petitioner did not appear. He did not file a reply to the two charge-sheets, including the supplementary. Repeat opportunities were given and documents that he demanded supplied. The fact, however, is not denied that the establishment did not produce any witnesses in support of the charges, though a copy of the inquiry report has not been annexed by either party. A perusal of the averments in the counter affidavit, and more particularly, the impugned order as also the resolution of the Committee of Management dated 27.04.2023, show that the Inquiry Officer submitted an appraisal note on the two charge-sheets, described in Hindi as 'समीक्षात्मक टिप्पणी', holding the petitioner guilty. There is no reference in the resolution of the Committee of Management or the impugned order about the Inquiry Officer having had before him any evidence produced in a formal proceeding on behalf of the establishment through a Presenting Officer on charges, which in this case on the own showing of the respondents, ran into as many as thirty-six in the first charge-sheet, and another five, in the supplementary. The tenor of the resolution passed by the Committee of Management dated 27.04.2023 and the impugned order clearly show that the Inquiry Officer dealt with the matter through an appraisal note, based on a perusal of the papers annexed to the charge-sheet and handed over by the establishment to him.

21. It is settled for a salutary principle that in an enquiry involving the imposition of a major penalty, it is imperative for the Inquiry Officer, even if he is otherwise an officer of the establishment, to distance himself and convene formal proceedings acting as an impartial arbiter. It is the burden of the establishment to produce evidence before the Inquiry Officer through a Presenting Officer, both documentary and oral, particularly, oral, that is to say, witnesses in support of the charges, where a major penalty may be imposed. It is open to the delinquent at the inquiry to appear and cross-examine witnesses produced by the establishment. After the establishment have produced their evidence, both documentary and oral, and the stage of cross-examination of the establishment's witnesses is over, the delinquent is to be given opportunity to produce evidence in his defence. If the delinquent does not file a reply to the charge-sheet or does not appear before the Inquiry Officer at all, that does not relieve the establishment of their burden to prove the charges. It also does not license the Inquiry Officer to think that the charges set forth in the charge-sheet are proved because the delinquent has not appeared to explain himself. The Inquiry Officer has to direct the establishment to produce evidence and cannot hold the delinquent guilty by default. The delinquent can also not be held guilty by the Inquiry Officer by merely going through the charge-sheet and the papers annexed therewith. May not be the formality of evidence, as done in a Court of law, where procedure is regulated by the Indian Evidence Act, basic fairness in procedure requires that the establishment must produce both documentary evidence and witnesses in the first instance to establish the truth of the charges. This is quite independent of the fact, whether the delinquent defends himself or abstains from the beginning or at any later stage of the inquiry. In this regard, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. T.P. Lal Srivastava, (1996) 10 SCC 702, where it has been held by their Lordships:

“4. This appeal by special leave arises from the judgment of the Allahabad High Court made on 15-3-1993 in Writ Petition No. 12480 of 1987. The admitted position is that while the respondent was working as a Senior Marketing Inspector, a charge-sheet was served on him on 23-11-1984 calling upon him to explain the charges for committing gross irregularities in the movement of wheat outside the State of U.P. Instead of submitting reply to the charge-sheet, he went on dilly-dallying in submitting the reply. Several letters addressed to the respondent proved ineffective. Resultantly, the appellants took a decision on 26-6-1987 holding that the respondent was found guilty of misappropriation. Consequently, he came to be dismissed from service. The respondent challenged the same in the writ petition. The High Court has set aside the order in the impugned order holding that the documents have not been supplied to the respondent and, therefore, the action was vitiated by error of law. We do not find any justification in the view taken by the High Court; the substratum of the result is that the appellants have not conducted any enquiry though the respondent had been avoiding to give the reply. Since the respondent had avoided to submit the reply, he has forgone his right to submit his reply. Nonetheless, the appellants are not absolved of the duty to hold an ex parte enquiry to find out whether or not the charge has been proved. In the event of the Enquiry Officer finding that the charge is proved, he would submit his report to the disciplinary authority. The disciplinary authority should communicate the copy of the enquiry report to the respondent and seek an explanation for the proposed action thereon. If the respondent submits any explanation, the same may be taken into consideration and appropriate order may be passed according to law. Until then, the respondent must be deemed to be under suspension.”

22. So far as the salutary procedure governing inquiries, where a major penalty may be imposed is concerned, the law that it is the establishment's burden to prove the charges in the first instance not only by formally producing evidence before the Inquiry Officer through a Presenting Officer, but also to examine witnesses imperatively, is well settled in view of the authority of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others, (2009) 2 SCC 570, State of Uttaranchal and others v. Kharak Singh, (2008) 8 SCC 236 and the Bench decisions of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another, 2018 (9) ADJ 397 (DB)(LB), Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P., 2018 (9) ADJ 107 (DB)(LB) and State of U.P. v.

Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB)(LB).

23. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 26.07.2023 passed by the Secretary/ Chief Executive Officer, Mainpuri District Cooperative Bank Ltd., Mainpuri and the resolution of the Committee of Management dated 27.04.2023 are hereby quashed. It will be open to the respondents, if they so elect, to proceed against the petitioner afresh from the stage of charge-sheet, granting due opportunity to him and bearing in mind the guidance in this judgment about the procedure to hold an inquiry. It is further ordered that if the respondents elect to initiate fresh proceedings, not more than one of the penalties, enumerated under Regulation 84 of the Regulations, shall be imposed. It is also ordered that in case of fresh proceedings being taken, no punishment higher than that which was imposed by the impugned order, since quashed by this judgment, shall be awarded.

24. There shall be no order to costs.

Civil Law - Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited – Disciplinary Proceedings – Principles of Natural Justice – Departmental Inquiry – Medical Condition – Suspension and Dismissal – Embezzlement Allegations – Right to Fair Hearing

The petitioner, Manohar Singh, a Technician Grade-II/Cashier with Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, challenged his dismissal from service and recovery order dated 27.04.2022 by the Managing Director and the appellate order dated 16.05.2023 by the Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, following allegations of embezzlement. The petitioner, bedridden since 2018 due to a brain haemorrhage and paralysis, argued that the disciplinary inquiry violated natural justice as no witnesses were examined, and his medical condition was not considered, rendering him unable to defend himself. The respondents contended that the inquiry followed rules and the charges were serious. Held: (1) The petition was allowed, and the impugned orders dated 27.04.2022 and 16.05.2023 were quashed. (2) The inquiry was vitiated due to the respondents' failure to ascertain the petitioner's claimed paralytic condition, which, if true, rendered him unable to participate in the inquiry, violating principles of natural justice. (3) No formal inquiry was conducted, as the establishment failed to produce evidence or examine witnesses to prove the charges, a mandatory requirement for major penalties, as per St. of Uttar Pradesh Vs Saroj Kumar Sinha and other precedents. (4) The respondents were directed to constitute a Medical Board to ascertain the petitioner's medical condition before resuming any fresh inquiry, which can only proceed if the petitioner is medically fit. (5) If the petitioner is found unfit or no fresh inquiry is initiated, consequences of quashing the impugned orders shall follow, with the petitioner's case governed by relevant service rules for medical leave or disability.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. Manohar Singh, the petitioner was a Technician Grade-II, working with the Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited and posted in the establishment of the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-VI, Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Aligarh. He was initially appointed on 30.07.1999 as a Coolie with the Electricity Distribution Division, Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Aligarh, after following the procedure prescribed. In the year 2010, Manohar Singh was promoted to the position of a Technician Grade-II/ Cashier in accordance with rules. He says that he has been working with devotion and sincerity, appreciated by his superiors. For the present, he was posted as Technician Grade-II/ Cashier at the 33/11 KV Electricity Substation, Akarabad, Aligarh. His service record, until the event subject matter of this petition, is said to be unblemished.

2. Manohar Singh says that while posted at the Electricity Distribution Division-VI, Aligarh, on the 8th of March, 2010, he suffered from some heart ailment and took his treatment at the Metro Hospital and Heart Institute, New Delhi. He underwent a surgery. Once fit, he joined his duties. Much later, on 10.01.2018, when he was transferred to the Electricity Distribution Division-VI, Aligarh, he suffered another setback to his health. On the 12th of January, 2018, he had a brain haemorrhage that led to paralysis in the right side of his body. He was again admitted to the care of the Metro Hospital and Multi-Speciality Wing, Sector 11, NOIDA. He is confined to bed ever since.

3. The petitioner was transferred once more to the Electricity Distribution Division, 33/11 KV Substation, Akarabad, Aligarh in the month of January, 2020. He says that there, a certain cashier, Dhanesh Singh Yadav, an Assistant Accountant Ram Prakash, besides a Junior Engineer and an Executive Engineer, in collusion with each other, made an ID of the petitioner's for revenue collection. After suffering paralysis, the petitioner is unable to move anywhere. This gave opportunity to Dhanesh Singh, Ram Prakash, the Junior Engineer and the Executive Engineer to collect revenues under the one-time settlement scheme, utilising the petitioner's ID. Later on, they came up with allegations of embezzlement against the petitioner, on the basis of which, the Executive Engineer passed an order of suspension pending inquiry against him on 18.05.2021.

4. It is the petitioner's case that during this period of time, on the same allegations as those subject matter of the contemplated departmental inquiry, at that stage, a First Information Report was also lodged against him on 23.05.2021. The petitioner says that he is bedridden since the year 2018 till the date he instituted this petition. He cannot speak, move or take care of his daily routine. He has not discharged his duties since the year 2018. It is this non-ambulatory condition of the petitioner, which has given opportunity to Dhanesh Yadav, the Cashier, the Assistant Accountant Ram Prakash, the Junior Engineer and the Executive Engineer to perpetrate embezzlement of revenue collections belonging to the Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited (for short, 'the Distribution Corporation'). There is some reference to the police case, regarding which investigation seems to have been carried on while the petitioner lay in a vegetative state, as he says, but that is not of much relevance for the purpose of the present writ petition.

5. The petitioner challenged his suspension from service by means of Writ-A No.15568 of 2021, which was disposed of with a direction to the Disciplinary Authority, the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-VI of the Distribution Corporation to conclude the pending disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this Court's order. The petitioner was served with a charge sheet, to which he submitted a reply.

6. It is the petitioner's case that without considering his reply or affording him any opportunity of hearing, the Disciplinary Authority, to wit, the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, passed an order dated 27.04.2022, dismissing the petitioner from service and further ordering recovery of a sum of 50,44,673/-. The petitioner appealed the order to the Chairman of the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow (for short, 'the Corporation'). The departmental appeal was not decided, forcing the petitioner to move this Court again through Writ-A No.11303 of 2022. This Court vide order dated 03.08.2022, directed the appeal to be decided within a period of two months of the date of production of a certified copy of this Court's order. The petitioner's appeal was dismissed by the Appellate Authority vide order dated 16.05.2023.

7. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been instituted.

8. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondent No.4 and another on the behalf respondent No.2, that is to say, the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-VI, Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Aligarh and the Corporation. A further counter affidavit on behalf of respondent No.4 dated 17.10.2023 was filed in answer to the amended pleas in the writ petition. A supplementary counter affidavit was filed on behalf of respondent No.2 on 15.10.2023. The petitioner filed a rejoinder affidavit. This petition was admitted to hearing on 18.10.2023 and heard forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

9. Heard Mr. Niyaz Ahmad Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Abhishek Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel for respondent No.2, Mr. Manu Ghildyal, learned Counsel for respondent Nos.3 and 4 and Ms. Amrita Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel on behalf of respondent No.1.

10. The petitioner has raised two points in support of his petition. The first is that during the departmental inquiry, no witness was examined on behalf of the establishment to prove the charges, though the matter involved the imposition of a major penalty. It is the burden of the establishment, according to the learned Counsel for the petitioner, to prove the charges by their own evidence aliunde. They cannot rely on the lacunae in the employee's defence to hold the charges proved. The learned Senior Advocate for the petitioner has extensively argued that in any departmental inquiry, where a major penalty is likely to be imposed, if the charges are proved, it is the bounden duty of the Inquiry Officer to convene himself as an Inquiry Tribunal, an impartial arbiter, distanced from the employers' establishment. The charges then have to be proved by the establishment by leading evidence, both documentary and oral in the first instance. The examination of witnesses is essential in case where a major penalty is involved. After the employers have led their evidence through a Presenting Officer, it is the delinquent's right to cross-examine the establishment's witnesses. After this stage is over, the delinquent/ employee is to be given opportunity to produce evidence in his defence, both documentary and oral. It is submitted that nothing of this kind has been done and the Inquiry Officer has submitted a report, treating the charges to be proof of themselves.

11. The other submission, that has been made with much emphasis, is that since the year 2018, the petitioner, who had suffered a brain haemorrhage, is paralysed. In that condition, apart from the fact that the charge against him of embezzling funds of the Distribution Corporation, seems incredible, the petitioner was utterly unable to defend himself. It is pointed out that the respondents did refer the petitioner for his medical examination by a panel of doctors, that may include a Neurologist and submit a report regarding his medical condition. A reference was made by the Chief Medical Officer, Aligarh at the instance of the respondents, to the Sanjay Gandhi Post Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences, Lucknow (for short, 'the SGPGI'). It is pointed out that there is on record a letter dated 01.04.2023, addressed to the Chief Medical Officer, Aligarh by the Medical Superintendent, SGPGI, saying that the institute constitutes Medical Board for its own employees only, and also does so for others, on orders of Courts, declining the respondents' request. It is pointed out further by the learned Senior Advocate for the petitioner that nothing was done thereafter by the respondents to ascertain the petitioner's medical condition, whereas he was, during the course of inquiry, lying bedridden, unable to move or even sign.

12. Attention of this Court is also drawn by the learned Senior Advocate to an application dated 01.09.2022 moved by the petitioner under his thumb impression, because he could not sign. It is signed by his wife, saying that he has suffered a brain stroke and paralysis. He is lying in a vegetative state. This application seems to have been moved while the petitioner's appeal was pending. A copy of this application is on record as Annexure No.7 to the writ petition. There is also on record a slew of medical treatment papers from the Metro Hospital and Heart Institute, New Delhi, which show that the petitioner was in a seriously impaired condition of health. The submission, on the foot of these facts, is that the entire disciplinary proceedings, that were undertaken while the petitioner was bedridden, constitute gross violation of the principles of natural justice, so much so that the inquiry against the petitioner or the orders of punishment made, must be held bad on this count alone.

13. Mr. Manu Ghildyal and Mr. Abhishek Srivastava appearing on behalf of the respondents have refuted the petitioner's submission and said that the charges against him are very serious, involving embezzlement of huge funds of the Distribution Corporation. It is argued by them that the inquiry proceedings were held in accordance with rules, giving full opportunity to the petitioner. They submit that this is a case where the petitioner is not entitled to invoke this Court's equitable jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

14. We have carefully considered the submissions advanced on behalf of both parties and perused the record. There is a categorical averment in paragraph No.14 of the writ petition that the petitioner, on account of suffering a brain stroke, is bedridden since the year 2018. He cannot speak, move or carry on his daily routine. It is this disability of the petitioner's that has led four of the employees, including the Executive Engineer, to perpetrate a fraud misusing his ID. As remarked earlier, we are not concerned with the petitioner's defence on this score. However, the fact that the petitioner is bedridden since the year 2018, asserted in paragraph No.14 of the writ petition, has been denied rather unsatisfactorily in paragraphs Nos.13 and 14 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent No.4, where it is said that the petitioner was given a medical fitness certificate and he signed the attendance register, which would show that it is misleading to say that the petitioner is unable to move anywhere or carry on his daily routine. This denial is far from satisfactory. The letter of reference by the Chief Medical Officer, Aligarh at the instance of the respondents to constitute a Medical Board in order to undertake a medical examination of the petitioner, addressed to the SGPGI, Lucknow shows that, may be later in the day, the respondents did harbour doubts, regarding the petitioner's health and medical condition, which they wanted ascertained.

15. The kind of medical condition, that the petitioner has described in paragraph No.14 of the writ petition, did not require a Medical Board to broadly ascertain the truth of it. If a man, facing disciplinary proceedings, says that he is bedridden, non-ambulatory and almost in a vegetative state, it is incumbent upon the Inquiry Officer to go over to the place, wherever the delinquent is, and see for himself the physical condition that the employee is in. It is true that the Inquiry Officer, not being a doctor, cannot evaluate the delinquent's medical condition or his claimed ailment, but he can certainly ascertain from a look at the person, if indeed he is in an utterly paralysed state, almost vegetative, as the petitioner claims. He may straightaway seek medical assistance to ascertain the fact if the delinquent is truly paralysed and non-ambulatory.

16. Here, the Inquiry Officer and the respondents have been utterly insensitive to this issue. They have failed to discharge their obligation to ascertain, in the face of repeat information and applications made on behalf of the petitioner, that he was non-ambulatory, to ascertain the fact physically, by visiting the delinquent. They have also not taken any steps to ascertain the veracity of the petitioner's claim that he was in a paralysed state, unable to move. The condition described by the petitioner is one which did not require a Medical Board from an institution like the SGPGI, Lucknow or the AIIMS, New Delhi to ascertain its truth. The Chief Medical Officer could have been detailed to the task or asked to constitute a Medical Board, who could have medically evaluated the petitioner. This is quite apart from the Inquiry Officer's own obligation in the face of such allegations to find out if the delinquent, that is to say, the petitioner here, was indeed a paralysed man. If he was indeed apparently a paralysed man, who could not move at all, the inquiry that the Inquiry Officer conducted or the orders that the Disciplinary and the Appellate Authorities have passed, would all be nullity.

17. This is quite apart from the issue about the merits of the petitioner's defence, founded on his allegation of being paralysed since the year 2018, which would if proved, may be a complete answer to the charges against him. That aspect of the matter, this Court is not inclined to go into. But, so far as the issue that neither the Inquiry Officer nor the establishment took the slightest pain to ascertain if indeed the man they were proceeding against in a departmental inquiry was paralysed, utterly unable to defend himself, is concerned, must be answered for the petitioner. We think that it was incumbent upon the respondents, including the Inquiry Officer, to inquire into the fact, before commencing disciplinary proceedings, if indeed on the date they commenced inquiry and concluded or passed subsequent orders, the petitioner was a paralysed man, non-ambulatory and unable to do anything for himself. There is no evidence to show, except an inchoate effort on the respondents' part to ascertain the state of the petitioner's health, which too came at a very late stage after the inquiry was over. For the respondents' failure to ascertain the petitioner's state of health, on the day they issued a charge sheet to him and thereafter when the inquiry was scheduled or held, we think the proceedings of the inquiry and the resultant orders must be held bad.

18. In this regard, though not on facts as drastic as those alleged here, about the delinquent's medical condition, and on a different point, about the validity of the charge regarding unauthorized absence, where the employee claimed to have suffered a paralytic attack, it was held by this Court in Syed Amirul Haq v. State of U.P. and others, 2016 (2) ADJ 107 (LB):

“13. In the instant case, on perusal of the averments made in the counter-affidavit, it comes out that no reason has been indicated as to why the medical certificate issued by the doctor was not accepted by the authorities. There is no whisper as to how the authorities came to the conclusion that the medical certificates were fabricated one. The Inquiry Officer/Disciplinary Authority had neither summoned the doctor nor otherwise made an efforts to verify the genuineness of the medical certificate. Thus the Inquiry Officer/disciplinary authority has violated the principle of natural justice. A perusal of relevant record reveals that it is the definite stand of the petitioner before the Inquiry Officer to summon the three doctors who had treated him to prove the factum of his illness and the genuineness of the medical certificates submitted by him but the Inquiry Officer did not summon the aforesaid witnesses causing serious prejudice to the petitioner. No documents have been brought on record on the basis of which genuineness of the Medical Certificates produced by the petitioner were doubted by the Inquiry Officer and believed by other authorities. Without summoning and examining the Doctor, the conclusion of the authorities that the Medical certificates are not genuine documents, is wholly erroneous and unjustified. No finding could have been recorded by the Inquiry Officer with regard to certificates or the factum of illness of the petitioner without summoning the doctors, and denial by them with regard to illness and treatment given to the petitioner by them. As regard the finding recorded by the Inquiry Officer that the petitioner did not inform the authorities of his illness, the record which have been produced by the respondents, shows that there are various applications and medical certificates available on the record submitted by the petitioner with regard to grant of leave and extension of leave. The different doctors like, In-charge Medical Officer, State Unani Hospital, Musafirkhana, Sultanpur and Medical Officer GHMC and Hospital, Ghazipur had diagnosed the petitioner as a patient of paralysis on right side of the body. Apart from above, the petitioner had attacked the impugned orders on the ground of various defects in the disciplinary proceedings.”

19. Now, the decision in Syed Amirul Haq (supra) takes the medical disability on account of the paralytic attacks, two in number, suffered by the employee in that case as a defence that had to be examined seriously to the charge of unauthorized absence from duty, which may also be one of the aspects here to be examined. But, the more important part is that the principle is acknowledged that if an employee, facing disciplinary proceedings, says that he is bedridden or non-ambulatory with a serious medical condition, it is the duty of the establishment to ascertain his condition through their own resources, including doctors of their own or summoning the doctor, who had certified the ailment, to verify the genuineness of the employee's medical condition. Quite apart from the fact, if the medical condition of the petitioner claimed, upon due inquiry into its veracity and resultant affirmation, which is one of the possibilities, may lead to his exculpation on the charge, which is the Inquiry Officer's province, it would certainly vitiate the inquiry on grounds of violation of principles of natural justice.

20. To like effect is the holding in a Bench decision of the Patna High Court in Anil Kumar @ Anil Kumar Lakada v. State of Bihar and others, 2022 (1) BLJ 558, where it was observed:

“14. However, when at the appellate and memorial stage, the appellant had specifically raised issues, both on facts as well as in law and had also enclosed supporting documents, especially with regard to his illness, giving doctors' certificates, in the considered opinion of the Court, the same were required to be looked into as the purpose of giving a person a chance to file an appeal/memorial is that there is no miscarriage of justice and if there has been any omission at the previous stage, the superior authorities are able to correct such mistake. The State being a model employer and the purpose and the spirit of law being that no injustice should be caused to anyone, required, at the very least, consideration of the issues raised by the appellant, both factual as well as legal. In the present case, the issue that there was no Presenting Officer appointed and the appellant, in his Memo of Appeal, giving specific details of the circular of the Director General of Police, by which all departmental proceedings had been negated only on the ground that there was no Presenting Officer appointed by the Department, has not been dealt with. Furthermore, the issue that the certificates given by the doctors, just because they were not from an authorized hospital, is, in our opinion, a non-est ground, for every doctor who has got a licence to practice, being registered with the Medical Council of India, is supposed to be, in law, competent as a professional to give such certificate with regard to the medical condition of a person. Thus, the onus was on the authorities to negate those reports on grounds of them being, for instance, collusive or forged and fabricated. This has, admittedly, not been done.....”

21. The other issue, if the inquiry is otherwise valid because the establishment did not produce any evidence in a formally convened inquiry, must now be considered. It is a salutary principle that in any departmental inquiry, where there is likelihood of the imposition of a major penalty, it is imperative for the Inquiry Officer to convene a formal inquiry, where he acts as an impartial arbiter. It is the establishment's burden to prove the charges against the delinquent in the first instance by producing before the Inquiry Officer evidence, both documentary and oral. It is also imperative to examine witnesses, if the penalty is likely to be a major one. The charges cannot be held proved because the employee has not defended himself or proved his defence. The Inquiry Officer cannot assume the charges to be true, because they figure in the charge sheet. The Inquiry Officer also cannot hold the charges proved by perusing the charge sheet and the delinquent's reply together with papers supplied by the establishment in support of the charge sheet. It is for the establishment to prove the charges by producing evidence. Once evidence is produced before the Inquiry Officer on behalf of the establishment, which would include witnesses, the delinquent is entitled to cross-examine witnesses. After the establishment have led all their evidence, the delinquent must be called upon to produce evidence in his defence. For his failure to produce evidence, the charges cannot be held proved. These must be held proved by the establishment's evidence, may be by standards of preponderant probability.

22. Here, this Court does not find that any formal inquiry was convened or the establishment led evidence to prove the charges. Admittedly, no witnesses were examined. That witnesses were not examined, is a fact admitted in the counter affidavit dated 17.10.2023, filed on behalf of respondent No.4, in answer to the amended pleas. In paragraph No.5 of this affidavit, it is averred:

“5. That, however, from perusal of the record it is evident that no witness was proposed either in the charge sheet or any witness was named by the petitioner to examine during the departmental enquiry, therefore, no witness was examined to prove the charges during the course of departmental enquiry in the present case. Further to remove all these anomalies an Office Memorandum dated 14.8.23 has been issued by the Corporation wherein it has been directed to all the authorities of the Corporation and the discoms that they should strictly adhere to the provisions of Rule 7 of the Regulations 2020 and during the departmental enquiry they must first examine the officers on behalf of the Corporation to prove the charges and only thereafter they should provide opportunity to the employees to either cross examine them or to produce any witness on behalf of his defense.”

23. The said averment shows that the respondents have admitted their lapse in not examining witnesses and for the future rectified course as well. That would not redeem the respondents of the flaw that has crept into the impugned proceedings against the petitioner, vitiating them beyond the charge sheet. The principles that in a case involving the imposition of a major penalty, it is imperative for the employer to produce evidence in support of the charges before the Inquiry Officer, which must include oral evidence, to wit, witnesses, are salutary and well established. In this regard, reference may be made to the decisions of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others, (2009) 2 SCC 570, State of Uttaranchal and others v. Kharak Singh, (2008) 8 SCC 236 and the Bench decisions of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another, 2018 (9) ADJ 397 (DB)(LB), Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P., 2018 (9) ADJ 107 (DB)(LB) and State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB)(LB).

24. This case is rather unusual and does present some difficulty for the respondents, but these facts would not lead this Court to dither about what must be done and what must follow.

25. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 16.05.2023 passed by the Chairman of the Corporation and the order dated 27.04.2022 passed by the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation are hereby quashed. The respondents would, of course, be at liberty to proceed against the petitioner afresh from the stage of issue of the charge sheet against him, strictly in the manner indicated in this judgment and the law. But, before going ahead with the proceedings of inquiry against the petitioner, the respondents will immediately get a Medical Board constituted by the Chief Medical Officer of the district, wherever the petitioner is currently staying. The members of the Medical Board shall proceed to the petitioner's residence and ascertain his medical condition, particularly, if he is paralysed, non-ambulatory and unable to communicate. If that be his medical condition, fresh proceedings of inquiry will not be taken against him, until the petitioner is in a medically certified fit condition to understand the consequences of the charges against him and face the inquiry. If, however, the petitioner is found medically fit, the Medical Board will examine all his certificates and medical history, and inquiry proceedings, if elected to be pursued, would be resumed as above directed, taking into account the opinion about his medical condition during the relevant period of time. In the event the respondents do not elect to resume fresh proceedings against the petitioner, or his subsisting medical condition does not permit the resumption of such proceedings, in either case the consequences of quashing of the orders impugned shall follow. It is clarified that if the petitioner be irredeemably indisposed, he would be dealt with according to the relevant service rules as to medical leave, medically incurred disability by employees, as the case may be.

26. There shall be no order as to costs.

Civil Law - U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916 – Section 34 – Constitution of India, 1950 – Part IX-A – District Magistrate's Authority – Local Self-Governance – Service Matters – Medical Leave – Salary Disbursement – Principles of Natural Justice

The petitioner, Rajesh Kumar Yadav, a Zonal Sanitary Officer, challenged the District Magistrate, Hapur's order dated 06.04.2022, stopping his salary for March and April 2022, alleging unauthorized absence during medical leave for a spinal condition and cataract surgery. The petitioner sought quashing of the order, release of withheld salary, and forwarding of his medical leave applications to the Commissioner, Meerut Division. The District Magistrate claimed general administrative oversight, citing government orders and the U.P. Public Health and Epidemic Diseases Control Act, 2020. Held: (1) The petition was allowed with costs, and the District Magistrate's order dated 06.04.2022 was quashed as ultra vires. (2) The District Magistrate lacked jurisdiction under Section 34 of the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916, to interfere in the Nagar Palika Parishad's service matters, as such powers are limited to prohibiting resolutions causing public obstruction, injury, or danger to life, health, safety, or public order. (3) The petitioner's absence was supported by medical evidence, negating unauthorized absence claims. (4) The District Magistrate's actions violated principles of natural justice by failing to consider the petitioner's medical condition. (5) The autonomy of local self-governance bodies under Part IX-A of the Constitution was emphasized, restricting executive interference. (6) A mandamus was issued to the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Hapur, to release the petitioner's withheld salary with 6% interest and forward medical leave papers to the Commissioner, Meerut Division, for sanction within 15 days.

1. The District Magistrate of the district is not the Master of all that he/she surveys. But, this case, in the company of a variety of contemporary experience, tends to show that the District Magistrate acts that way. In a government, functioning under the Constitution and the laws, there is a division and consequential limitation on authority, which in this case seems not to be there on the functioning of the District Magistrate of Hapur. The District Magistrate, seems to have acted in the way he has done and a successor in office, despite being called upon to justify the exercise of an ultra vires authority, has attempted to support it because, conventionally not only the ordinary citizen, but independent officers of other departments of the Government or even independent bodies of local self-governance established by the Constitution, pay habitual obedience to the District Magistrate. This phenomena is a surviving relic of the colonial era when the District Magistrate and the Collector was the Government's representative at the district headquarters. This ought not to be so any longer.

2. The petitioner, Rajesh Kumar Yadav, is a Zonal Sanitary Officer, currently posted at the Nagar Nigam, Bareilly. He was earlier posted at the Nagar Palika Parishad, Hapur as the Chief Sanitary and Food Inspector until 27.07.2022. While posted at Hapur on the 4th of May, 2022, he was at his residence. He experienced dizziness while using the restroom and collapsed. He was taken to Dr. Jeevottam Narang and the doctor advised an MRI for his spine. The MRI was done and a perusal of the MRI report led the doctor to advise the petitioner to take bed rest. The MRI report dated 04.05.2022 from the Dev Nandini Imaging Centre records the following impressions:

“IMPRESSION

- Broad-based posterior disc bulge at L4-L5 level causing Indentation of the thecal sac bilateral neural foraminal narrowing.
- Mild broad-based disc bulge at L1-L2 and L5-S1 levels without significant neural compression.”

3. The petitioner asserts that he was next examined at a higher centre, to wit, the Indian Spinal Injuries Centre, Vasant Kunj, New Delhi and advised bed rest. In this regard, a letter dated 09.06.2022 was addressed by the petitioner to the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad Hapur, District Hapur (for short, 'the Nagar Palika), with a request to sanction medical leave for him during the period 09.06.2022 to 23.06.2022. During this period, the petitioner underwent medical treatment and sent applications to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika, seeking an extension of his leave up to 26.07.2022. A copy of the application dated 12.07.2022 sent by speed post as well as email to the Executive Officer are on record.

4. On the 27th of July, 2022, the petitioner was once again examined by Dr. Aparna Gupta of the Indian Spinal Injuries Centre, Vasant Kunj, New Delhi, who certified him fit. He was advised to take regular and proper treatment. The petitioner went to his office at the Nagar Palika and submitted a joining report dated 27.07.2022 addressed to the Executive Officer.

5. On the 30th of June, 2022, the Government issued a transfer list for employees, who are members of the Uttar Pradesh Palika (Centralized) Health Service, of which the petitioner is a member. The petitioner's name was shown at serial No.4. He was transferred from the Nagar Palika Parishad, Hapur to the Nagar Nigam, Bareilly. The petitioner was relieved on 30.06.2022 to join his new posting at Bareilly. On the 29th of July, 2022, the petitioner joined the office of the Nagar Nigam, Bareilly, as a Zonal Sanitary Officer, a promotion posting. The petitioner then addressed a memo dated 12.09.2022 to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika, Hapur, seeking sanction of medical leave for the period 1st March, 2022 to 10th May, 2022, so that his salary for the relevant period could be drawn. The petitioner says that he personally met the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika and requested him to forward all requisite papers to the Commissioner of the Division for approval of his medical leave. The Executive Officer is said to have extended assurance in this regard to the petitioner orally.

6. On the 3rd of November, 2022, the petitioner made a representation to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika, requesting him to send all requisite papers to the Divisional Commissioner for approval of his medical leave, a copy whereof was addressed to the District Magistrate, Hapur, whom the petitioner himself calls a higher authority. The petitioner, while posted at the Nagar Palika, on the 11th of March, 2022 was doing some work on a computer, when he experienced sudden pain in his eyes and his vision got blurred. It was then that on 11th of March 2022, he was rushed to the Eye Hospital, Meerut, where the doctor advised him an eye surgery. It was performed on 14th of March, 2022. The petitioner informed the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika in this regard. A copy of the petitioner's application dated 14.03.2022, addressed to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika with a copy endorsed to the Chairman, seeking sanction of medical leave on account of the eye surgery from 14.03.2022 to 19.03.2022 is on record. It shows that the petitioner underwent a surgical procedure at the Roop Netralaya, Meerut. Later on, through an application of 6th April, 2022, addressed to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika, the petitioner sought extension of medical leave until 14th April, 2022. There are medical documents annexed to these two applications. In fact, the second one, seems to show that the petitioner underwent a surgery for his cataract in the right eye and advised rest for a month from 14.03.2022 to 14.04.2022. A medical certificate in this regard dated 15.04.2022 issued by Dr.

7. On the 15th of April, 2022, the petitioner was declared fit to join his duties by the Eye Hospital, where he was treated. On the 16th of April, 2022, the petitioner moved an application to the Executive Officer for sanction of medical leave from 14.03.2022 to 15.04.2022. This leave was sanctioned to the petitioner in terms of a letter of the Chairman of the Nagar Palika dated 14.04.2022 and forwarded to the Executive Officer to take follow-up steps.

8. On the 6th of April, 2022, while the petitioner was away on medical leave, the District Magistrate, Hapur, visited the office of the Nagar Palika and issued a letter dated 06.04.2022 saying that the petitioner was absent. It was also said that there was no information about his absence from duty available with the Nagar Palika. A show cause notice was addressed by the District Magistrate directly to the petitioner, an employee of the Nagar Palika, where he was asked, on account of his unauthorized absence, to show cause within three days why for his act in neglecting government work, appropriate action be not recommended against him to the Department of Urban Development. Attached to this show cause notice, which is on record as Annexure No.13, is a report by the District Magistrate, also dated 06.04.2022, which shows that he inspected the Establishment Counter, the Water Works Department and the Health Department of the Nagar Palika. He undertook an inspection of all these Departments, as if he were the supervising authority of the Nagar Palika. This show cause notice and the report was issued/drawn up by an officer, going by the name Anuj Singh, the then incumbent District Magistrate of Hapur. This inspection report dated 06.04.2022 carries an order by the District Magistrate to the effect that the petitioner's salary shall not be drawn. It is this direction by the District Magistrate, carried in the inspection report together with the show cause notice, that has impelled the petitioner to move this Court through the present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution.

9. The petitioner has prayed that the inspection report of the District Magistrate, Hapur dated 06.04.2022 be quashed, by which this Court understands that the petitioner means to seek quashing of that part of the report, by which the drawing and disbursement of his salary has been stopped by the District Magistrate by a direction to that effect issued to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika. The petitioner has also prayed that a mandamus be issued to the respondents to release the petitioner's salary for the month of March and April, 2022. A further direction has been sought to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika to forward the petitioner's medical leave papers to the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut for the sanction of his leave.

10. Heard Mr. Rajpal Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State-respondents, to wit, respondent Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4.

11. No notice was issued to the Nagar Palika Parishad, Hapur in this case, because the action that is challenged, including the impugned order, is not one made by the Nagar Palika, but the District Magistrate, Hapur.

12. This Court must say at once that the petitioner by his pleadings in the writ petition blamed the District Magistrate for violating the principles of natural justice, in ordering the stoppage of his salary as also unfair action. It is also one of the objections that the District Magistrate inspected the Nagar Palika on the 6th of April, 2022, and, therefore, there was no occasion for him to order non-disbursement of the petitioner's salary for the month of March, 2022. The petitioner has said that there were a host of his ailments that led him to apply for medical leave, which on account of not being forwarded to the Commissioner of the Division, the competent authority, could not be sanctioned. He has, in short, said that there was no unauthorized absence on his part, but compelling medical and health issues, that kept him away from work.

13. Interestingly, the petitioner too has thought that the District Magistrate had jurisdiction to walk into the Nagar Palika's establishment, undertake a wholesome inspection of different Departments of theirs and pass orders, affecting service interest of employees of the Nagar Palika. Even in his grievance, the petitioner did not think that the District Magistrate was nobody to do that and he was not the petitioner's employer. When this question was put by this Court to the learned Counsel for the petitioner, if the District Magistrate would at all have jurisdiction to pass orders in relation to a service matter of an employee of the Nagar Palika, he answered in the negative. This Court then called upon the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel to disclose his stand. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel attempted to justify the District Magistrate's action, whereupon this Court called upon the District Magistrate to justify his jurisdiction in passing the order impugned, stopping the petitioner's salary, including doing an inspection of the Nagar Palika etc., by his personal affidavit. This order was passed on the 18th of August, 2023. The District Magistrate, Hapur, now a changed incumbent, Ms. Purna Sharma, filed a personal affidavit dated 22nd of August, 2023.

14. Sadly, in the affidavit filed by the incumbent District Magistrate, who responded for her predecessor, not a solitary provision of the law, that is to say, the statute or the rules framed under the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916 (for short, 'the Act of 1916'), or some other law was cited, to justify the District Magistrate's jurisdiction in intermeddling with the affairs of the Nagar Palika and passing orders affecting service interest of the Palika employees. What the District Magistrate has said, makes this Court think that it is her belief that the Government and all their Departments function dehors the laws and by the authority of Government Orders or policy directions. The relevant part of the District Magistrate's affidavit, in justification of the jurisdiction to intermeddle in the service matters of employees of the Nagar Palika and pass an order of the kind that is impugned, reads:

“6. That for the purpose of redressal of the grievance of the public at large the State Government has initiated IGRS portal. For effective and quality disposal of the complaints received from the public at large the State Government directs several administrative offices of the district and for smooth functioning of the offices at district level, District Magistrate and Divisional Commissioner have been held responsible to review their works, planning, projects etc. of the offices at district level vide Government Order No.540/Chautish-Lo.Sh.-05/2021 dated 20.10.2021. For kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court, Copy of the Government Order dated 20.10.2021 is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.1 to this affidavit.

7. That the Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Karmik Anubhag-1 has issued office memorandum No.4/2022/ 19 Samanya/ Ka-4-2022/303/2020 dated 12.02.2022 for determination of work arrangement in Government offices during Covid-19 with direction that all the offices will function cent percent w.e.f. 14.02.2022. However, for the purpose of checking infection it was also directed to avoid crowding and all the office staff were expected to use sanitization, face mask, maintain social distance and protective measures. For the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court copy of the aforesaid office memorandum dated 12.02.2022 is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.2 to this affidavit.

8. That under the Uttar Pradesh Public Health and Epidemic Diseases Control Act, 2020 (hereinafter referred to as Act, 2020' for short) a committee has been constituted in the name of District Epidemic Control Authority to be headed by the District Magistrate. Under the aforesaid Act, 2020 the District Magistrate has been conferred following powers:

(a) महामारी के रोकथाम एवं नियंत्रण के लिए जिला में विभिन्न विभाग के क्रियाकलापों के साथ समन्वय स्थापित करना,

(b) यह सुनिश्चित करना कि सामुदायिक कार्य के लिए आवश्यक सेवायें सुगमतापूर्वक तथा पर्याप्त रूप में की जाय,

(c) समस्त सरकारी या राज्य प्राधिकरण के आदेशों को सुगमतापूर्वक क्रियान्वित किया जाय।

For the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court copy of the relevant extract of the Act, 2020 is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.3 to this affidavit.

That for the welfare of the public at large, the District Magistrate has been nominated chairman of the several district committees constituted under different schemes floated by the State Government and the Central Government in view of financial aid to be extended by the Government for implementation of the schemes. In this regard, for the purpose of removing certain difficulties, the State Government has issued letter No.677/Nau-9- 16-193Ja/13 dated 18.05.2016. By the said Government Order the District Magistrate has been given power to give administrative and financial approval and to ensure the quality of the development works at district level. For kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court, copy of the Government order dated 18.05.2016 is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.4 to this affidavit.

9. That from the perusal of above facts and details stated hereinabove it is apparent that the District Magistrate has been conferred power from different sources to implement and make successful the schemes of the State Government as well as Central Government floated in public interest at large."

15. There is not a word said by the District Magistrate in her affidavit about the source of her authority flowing from any statute or statutory rule to interfere with the affairs of the Nagar Palika and issue directions in relation to the service interests of the servants and officers of the Nagar Palika. After a wholesome reference to the steps taken by the Government for redressal of public grievances and smooth functioning of government offices at the district level, all that the District Magistrate has to say is that the District Magistrate is the chargé d'affaires at the District Headquarters and the Commissioner at the Divisional Headquarters, who can interfere with anything and everything; with any establishment, whether independent, autonomous or elected. There is then a reference to some directions by the Chief Secretary relating to control of the Covid-19 pandemic, which is absolutely an irrelevant reference. There is then a vague and useless assertion in Paragraph No.9 of the District Magistrate's personal affidavit, which says that the District Magistrate has been conferred power from different sources to implement and make successful government schemes. None of these answer the Court's specific question put to the District Magistrate, to wit, the source of the District Magistrate's authority to interfere in the functioning of an autonomous and elected local body, and, that too service matters of the Nagar Palika's employees.

16. This Court is of opinion that the District Magistrate has very limited say in the matters of a Nagar Palika governed by the Act of 1916. Section 34 is the only source of power that the District Magistrate has to interfere with the decisions of a Nagar Palika Parishad. Section 34 reads:

“34. Power of the State Government or the Prescribed Authority or the District Magistrate to prohibit execution or further execution of resolution or order of Municipality. - (1) The Prescribed Authority may, by order in writing, prohibit the execution or further execution of a resolution or order passed or made under this or any other enactment by a Municipality or a committee of a Municipality or a Joint Committee or any officer or servant of a Municipality or of a Joint Committee if in its opinion such resolution or order is of a nature to cause or tend to cause obstruction, annoyance or injury to the public or to any class or body of persons lawfully employed and may prohibit the doing or continuance by any person of any act in pursuance for or under cover of such resolution or order.

(1A) The District Magistrate may, within the limits of his district, by order in writing, prohibit the execution or further execution of a resolution or order passed or made under this or any other enactment by a Municipality or a committee of a Municipality or a Joint Committee or any officer or servant of a Municipality or of a Joint Committee if in his opinion such resolution or order is of a nature to cause or tend to cause danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or affray, and may prohibit the doing or continuance by any person of any act, in pursuance of or under cover of such resolution or order.

(1B) the State Government may, on its own motion or on report or complaint received by order prohibit the execution or further execution of a resolution or order passed or made under this or any other enactment by a Municipality or a committee of a Municipality or a Joint Committee or any officer or servant of a Municipality or of a Joint Committee, if in its opinion such resolution or order is prejudicial to the public interest, or has been passed or made in abuse of powers or in flagrant breach of any provision of any law for the time being in force, and may prohibit the doing or continuance by any person of any act in pursuance of or under cover of such resolution or order.

(2) Where an order is made under sub-section (1) or (1-A), a copy thereof with a statement of the reasons for making it, shall forthwith be forwarded by the Prescribed Authority or the District Magistrate through the Prescribed Authority, as the case may be, to the State Government which may thereupon, if it thinks fit, rescind or modify the order.

(3) [* * *]

(4) Where the execution or further execution of a resolution or order is prohibited by an order made under sub-section (1), (1-A) or (1-B) and continuing in force, it shall be the duty of the Municipality, if so required by the authority making the order under the said sub-sections to take any action which it would have been entitled to take, if the resolution or order had never been made or passed, and which is necessary for preventing any person from doing or continuing to do anything under cover of the resolution or order of which the further execution is prohibited.”

17. I had occasion to consider this issue in Vimlesh Lal v. State of U.P. and others, 2023:AHC:242348, where I held:

“16. The District Magistrate’s power is traceable to sub-Section (1-A) of Section 34 alone, which authorizes him to prohibit the execution of a resolution passed by a Municipality or a Committee or an Officer etc., if he is of opinion that the resolution or the order is of a nature that may cause or tend to cause danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or affray. That is the limited authority of the District Magistrate to interfere in the affairs of a Nagar Palika or a Municipality, as it was formerly called. There is no other power vested in the District Magistrate to interfere with any decision made by the Nagar Palika Board, its Chairman or the Executive Officer or a Committee or an Officer thereof. Rather, this Court is inclined to think that the autonomy and independence of a Nagar Palika is far more strengthened and requires to be more zealously protected in view of inclusion of Part IX-A in the Constitution by the Constitution (Seventy-fourth Amendment) Act, 1992. This amendment elevates local bodies to a constitutional status and attempts to effect decentralization of democratic power. It provides a constitutional bulwark to strengthen local self-government, more answerable to its electorate than a supervising agent of the State Government. Part IX-A of the Constitution and all its provisions would require Section 34 of the Act of 1916 to be understood very differently from the way it was in the day of its enactment. The powers of the District Magistrate must, therefore, be held limited to Section 34 and not expanded in any manner.”

18. The issue has been answered authoritatively by a Bench decision of this Court in President, Nagar Palika Parishad, Sultanpur, Babita Jaiswal v. State of U.P., AIR OnLine 2019 All 2407. In Babita Jaiswal (supra), it was held:

“(24) From a bare reading of said Section 34, it is clear that the District Magistrate has power to interfere with only such resolutions or orders of the Nagar Palika Parishad if the same are likely to cause or tend to cause 'obstruction, annoyance or injury to the public.....' or 'danger to human life, health or safety or a riot or affray'. Awarding a contract in favour of a person cannot be matter, which may cause obstruction, annoyance or injury to the public or danger to human life, health or safety etc. Even directions to make payment with regard to contract given by the Nagar Palika Parishad or execution of resolutions passed by the Nagar Palika Parishad, which include cleaning of drains and repairing of roads etc. also would not fall in the category of cases enumerated under Section 34 of the Act under which the District Magistrate can invoke the powers under Section 34 of the Act.

(25) The Constitution of India as well as the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1916 envisage that the Nagar Palika Parishads are to work independently and carry on the functions and duties, which it is obliged in law to perform. Interference by the District Magistrate or the State Government would only be permissible if the circumstances enumerated under Section 34 of the Act prevail.

(26) The bye-laws dated 24.09.1994, as annexed with the writ petition as Annexure no.10, providing for registration and execution of works was published under Section 301 of the Act, 1916 inviting objections which is the previous publication envisaged under Section 300 of the Act, 1916. In the counter affidavit, it has been stated that the bye-laws in question was never published in the official gazette as required under Section 301 of the Act, 1916. This fact is not correct. The previous publication as envisaged under the aforesaid provision has been complied with and publication was made in the official Gazette inviting objections/suggestions from the general public. The State has failed proved that thereafter no final publication was made in the Official Gazette under Section 301 (2) of the Act, 1916.

(27) In our considered opinion, the power, which has been exercised by the District Magistrate in the present case, would not fall within the ambit of provisions of Section 34 of the Act. The members of the Nagar Palika Parishad are duly elected and interference by the executive would only be to the extent permissible in law. Since we are of the opinion that the orders passed by the District Magistrate are outside the purview of the provisions of Section 34 of the Act, 1916 and the learned Standing Counsel has not placed any other provision of law under which the District Magistrate could have passed the said orders, which clearly interfere with the functioning of the Nagar Palika Parishad, the said orders would be liable to be quashed.”

19. In Subodh Kumar Gupta and others v. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary and others, 2016 SCC OnLine All 1358, the issue was considered by this Court in the context of an order made by the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad, terminating the service of the petitioners there, all of whom were Class-III and IV employees of the Nagar Palika Parishad, appointed after the Chairman's approval. The appointments were terminated by the District Magistrate, purporting to exercise his powers under Section 34 of the Act of 1916. In the aforesaid circumstances, it was held by this Court in Subodh Kumar Gupta (supra):

“16. From a bare reading of Section 34 of the Act, it is clear that the District Magistrate has power to interfere with only such resolutions or orders of the Nagar Palika Parishad if the same are likely to cause or tend to cause ‘obstruction, annoyance or injury to the public.....’ or ‘danger to human life, health or safety or a riot or affray’. Awarding a contract in favour of a person cannot be matter, which may cause obstruction, annoyance or injury to the public or danger to human life, health or safety etc. Even directions to make payment with regard to contract given by the Nagar Palika Parishad or execution of resolutions passed by the Nagar Palika Parishad, which include cleaning of drains and repairing of roads etc. also would not fall in the category of cases enumerated under Section 34 of the Act under which the District Magistrate can invoke the powers under Section 34 of the Act. The Constitution of India as well as the Act envisage that the Nagar Palika Parishads are to work independently and carry on the functions and duties, which it is obliged in law to perform. Interference by the District Magistrate or the State Government would only be permissible, if the circumstances enumerated under Section 34 of the Act prevail.”

20. In Vimlesh Lal (supra), where the District Magistrate was confronted with the patent lack of authority with him to interfere in service matters of the Nagar Palika, he conceded to the lack of his authority in the matter. Here, the District Magistrate has taken a stand about an assumed authority and jurisdiction, not possessed by the holder of that office.

21. In plurality of governance, like other pluralities, powers are exercised concerning different bodies and establishments by no unity of authority. Sometimes, within the establishment, the laws may invest a particular Authority with a specific power that the other, may be a higher up in the hierarchy, cannot exercise. This Court cannot ignore much misconception, prevalent about the omniscience of the District Magistrate, which does not exist. Heads of independent elected bodies, as already remarked, or independent departments, are often seen succumbing to orders of the District Magistrate, which the District Magistrate has no business to issue. The acceptability of the District Magistrate's jurisdiction, where he/ she possesses none, is an unfortunate shadow of the colonial past, again as already remarked. The sooner this misconception is given up in favour of the plurality of powers exercised by various authorities functioning under different laws, the better. All District Magistrates in the State will, therefore, bear caution, limiting their interference in the Nagar Palika strictly to what the Act of 1916 permits.

22. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed with costs. The order of the District Magistrate, Hapur carried in the inspection note dated 06.04.2022, ordering the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika Parishad not to draw and disburse the petitioner's salary, is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Hapur to ensure payment of all such dues on account of salary/ emoluments to the petitioner that have been withheld under orders of the District Magistrate, Hapur, since quashed, together with simple interest @ 6% per annum till date of payment. A mandamus is further issued to the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Hapur to forward the medical leave papers to the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut. The Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut shall be under a command to decide the petitioner's application for sanction of medical leave in accordance with law within a period of 15 days of the receipt of a copy of this order.

23. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the District Magistrate, Hapur and the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut by the Registrar (Compliance).

Contractual Employment – Termination of of Natural Justice – Article 226 Jurisdiction

The petitioner, Mahesh Kumar, a contractual Safai Karmchari with Nagar Palika Parishad, Modi Nagar, challenged the termination of his services vide order dated 29.04.2023 by the Executive Officer, citing his candidature for the Chairman's post in the 2023 Nagar Palika elections as a violation of service conditions under the U.P. Government Servant Conduct Rules, 1956. The petitioner claimed he had obtained a No Objection Certificate (NOC) and leave, and argued the termination was arbitrary, lacking an opportunity for hearing. The respondents contended the appointment was purely contractual, no NOC was issued for contesting elections, and the petitioner was warned against violating Rule 5. Held: (1) The petition was dismissed. (2) The petitioner, as a contractual employee, had no lien on the post, and his service was governed solely by the contract, not the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916, or the Rules of 1956. (3) The termination did not violate Article 14 or 16, as it arose from a non-statutory contract, and disputes regarding contract breaches were outside Article 226 jurisdiction, per St. of U.P. Vs Kaushal Kishore Shukla. (4) The petitioner's claim of an NOC was incorrect, as he was explicitly warned against contesting elections. (5) No opportunity for hearing was required, as the termination was not punitive but based on contract terms. (6) The petitioner was granted liberty to raise an industrial dispute under the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

1. The petitioner, a Safai Karmchhari, engaged on contract by the Nagar Palika Parishad, Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad, assails the order dated 29.04.2023, determining the contract and in consequence terminating his services. The order aforesaid has been passed by the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad, and, shall hereinafter be referred to as the 'impugned order'.

2. The petitioner was appointed on the basis of a contract as a Safai Karmi (Sweeper) with the Nagar Palika Parishad, Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad, in terms of a letter of appointment dated 25.07.2006. The letter of appointment was issued by the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad (for short, 'the Nagar Palika'). The appointment as aforesaid was made in terms of Government Orders dated 26.08.2005 and 09.05.2006, after selection by a selection committee, constituted for the purpose by the District Magistrate, Ghaziabad. The letter of appointment says that the petitioner was appointed on contract as a Safai Karmi on a pay of Rs.2130/-. It was made explicit that the appointment is entirely contractual and made subject to the condition that in case the candidate's work is not found satisfactory, his appointment would be terminated.

3. It is the petitioner's case that though appointed as a Safai Karmi on contract basis, the Nagar Palika have assigned him the duties of a driver. The petitioner has been paid salary of a safai karmi on contract basis. A pay slip relating to the petitioner has been annexed as Annexure No.2 to the writ petition, which shows that it relates to the month of September, 2021. Reference to this pay slip would be made later in this judgment. The petitioner acknowledges the fact that though he is working on the post of a Safai Karmi since 25.07.2006, he has not been confirmed or regularized in service. It is averred in the writ petition that the letter of appointment shows that the petitioner's services can be terminated if his work is not found satisfactory. It appears that the elections to the Nagar Palika were notified and the petitioner staked his candidature for the post of the Chairman of the Nagar Palika Parishad. He made an application, seeking sanction of leave from 15.04.2023 to 26.04.2023, in order to enable him to contest the said elections. It is the petitioner's case that since there was a condition to submit a No Objection Certificate, he secured one from the Tehsildar, Tehsil Modi Nagar (Ghaziabad) and duly submitted it. It is the petitioner's further case that a 'no dues certificate' was secured on 18.04.2023, also from the Tehsildar, showing that there were no dues against the petitioner for the year 2022-23. After all formalities were completed, the petitioner contested the elections to the post of the Chairman, Nagar Palika, but lost at the hustings. On 29.04.2023, the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika terminated the petitioner's services on ground that he had contested elections to the office of the President of the Nagar Palika in the elections of 2023, which was in violation of the service conditions under the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1916 (for short, 'the Act'). It was mentioned that the petitioner's contract was being determined on that ground. The petitioner moved an application on 26.05.2023 to revoke the order of his termination from service, addressed to the Executive Officer. Nothing came out of it. Accordingly, this writ petition has been instituted by the petitioner, assailing the order impugned.

4. Parties have exchanged affidavits.

5. Heard Mr. Harish Chandra, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Amrita Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel on behalf of respondent No.1 and Mr. Radhamani Saxena, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Manu Saxena, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Nagar Palika.

6. The learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner is a low paid employee of the Nagar Palika and applied for a no objection certificate (NOC) to contest the elections and also sought leave for the purpose. He was granted an NOC and leave by the Executive Officer. Therefore, it is no longer open to the Executive Officer to terminate his services on ground that he contested elections to the office of the Chairman. It is submitted that the petitioner has no knowledge about the provisions of the Act nor was he informed about its prohibitory provisions at the time when a no objection certificate and leave without pay was granted. It is urged that the impugned order is, therefore, manifestly illegal and arbitrary. It is also argued that no opportunity of hearing or showing cause has been given to the petitioner before the order terminating his services was passed.

7. Mr. Radhamani Saxena and Ms. Amrita Singh, on the other hand, have submitted in one voice that the petitioner's appointment was entirely contractual. He does not hold lien on any post. His services have been determined in terms of the contract as his act in running for the elections to the office of the Chairman of the Nagar Palika is not only prohibited under the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant Conduct Rules, 1956 (for short, 'the Rules of 1956') vide Rule 5, but also constitutes an act that may be viewed by the Nagar Palika as one which renders the petitioner's work and conduct unsatisfactory, entitling the Nagar Palika to terminate the contract. It is particularly emphasized by the learned Counsel for the Nagar Palika that a no objection was never given to the petitioner, entitling him to contest elections for the post of Chairman of the Nagar Palika. Instead, an order dated 26.04.2023 was passed, informing the petitioner with reference to his application dated 26.04.2023 that contesting an election to any Local Body or the Legislative Assembly is prohibited for a government servant by virtue of Rule 5 of the Rules of 1956. The petitioner was particularly informed that he may not do any act which may constitute violation of the Rules of 1956, else action would be taken against him, in accordance with the Act. The aforesaid notice, a photostat copy of which is annexed as Annexure No.CA-1 to the counter affidavit, shows on its face an endorsement made by the concerned peon or employee of the Nagar Palika, who went to deliver it to the petitioner, which reads:

Sd/- illegible.”

8. It is submitted, therefore, that it cannot be said by the petitioner that he had no knowledge of the prohibition. In fact, the petitioner was informed by the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika that he was not permitted to run for elections to the office that he wanted to. The learned Counsel for the Nagar Palika, particularly, says that a no objection certificate permitting the petitioner to contest elections was never issued by the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika. It is also pointed out that the NOC, referred to by the petitioner in paragraph No.19 of the writ petition, was a certificate by the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika about the petitioner not being obliged to the Nagar Palika on account of any outstandings in their favour. The learned Counsel, therefore, submits that the petitioner contested elections to the office of the Chairman of the Nagar Palika not only without permission of the Executive Officer, but in the face of a memo inviting his attention to the Rules of 1956 that prohibited him from doing so.

9. The learned Counsel for the petitioner in his rejoinder submits of that the edifice of the respondents' action is essentially flawed, because the Rules of 1956 do not apply to the petitioner as he was a contractual employee, and the order impugned has been passed in contravention of the terms of his contract. It is emphasized that the only condition, on the foot of which the petitioner's service can be terminated, is unsatisfactory work, which is not the respondents' case at all.

10. This Court must note one submission that was forcefully made by the learned Counsel for the petitioner and that was that the petitioner's services could not be terminated on the basis of a misconduct in contesting elections, contrary to the Rules of 1956, without affording him an opportunity of hearing. In support of this contention of his, learned Counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kaushal Kishore Shukla, (1991) 1 SCC 691. He invited the Court's attention to the holding of their Lordships in paragraph No.7 of the report, which reads:

“7. A temporary government servant has no right to hold the post, his services are liable to be terminated by giving him one month's notice without assigning any reason either under the terms of the contract providing for such termination or under the relevant statutory rules regulating the terms and conditions of temporary government servants. A temporary government servant can, however, be dismissed from service by way of punishment. Whenever, the competent authority is satisfied that the work and conduct of a temporary servant is not satisfactory or that his continuance in service is not in public interest on account of his unsuitability, misconduct or inefficiency, it may either terminate his services in accordance with the terms and conditions of the service or the relevant rules or it may decide to take punitive action against the temporary government servant. If it decides to take punitive action it may hold a formal inquiry by framing charges and giving opportunity to the government servant in accordance with the provisions of Article 311 of the Constitution. Since, a temporary government servant is also entitled to the protection of Article 311(2) in the same manner as a permanent government servant, very often, the question arises whether an order of termination is in accordance with the contract of service and relevant rules regulating the temporary employment or it is by way of punishment. It is now well settled that the form of the order is not conclusive and it is open to the court to determine the true nature of the order. In Parshotam Lal Dhingra v. Union of India [1958 SCR 828 : AIR 1958 SC 36 : (1958) 1 LLJ 544], a Constitution Bench of this Court held that the mere use of expressions like ‘terminate’ or ‘discharge’ is not conclusive and in spite of the use of such expressions, the court may determine the true nature of the order to ascertain whether the action taken against the government servant is punitive in nature. The court further held that in determining the true nature of the order the court should apply two tests namely: (1) whether the temporary government servant had a right to the post or the rank or (2) whether he has been visited with evil consequences; and if either of the tests is satisfied, it must be held that the order of termination of a temporary government servant is by way of punishment. It must be borne in mind that a temporary government servant has no right to hold the post and termination of such a government servant does not visit him with any evil consequences. The evil consequences as held in Parshotam Lal Dhingra case [1958 SCR 828 : AIR 1958 SC 36 : (1958) 1 LLJ 544] do not include the termination of services of a temporary government servant in accordance with the terms and conditions of service. The view taken by the Constitution Bench in Dhingra case [1958 SCR 828 : AIR 1958 SC 36 : (1958) 1 LLJ 544] has been reiterated and affirmed by the Constitution Bench decisions of this Court in State of Orissa v. Ram Narayan Dass [(1961) 1 SCR 606 : AIR 1961 SC 177 : (1961) 1 LLJ 552] ; R.C. Lacy v. State of Bihar [C.A. No. 590/62 decided on October 23, 1963 (SC)] ; Champaklal Chimanlal Shah v. Union of India [(1964) 5 SCR 190 : AIR 1964 SC 1854 : (1964) 1 LLJ 752] ; Jagdish Mitter v. Union of India [AIR 1964 SC 449 : (1964) 1 LLJ 418 : 1964 Cur LJ (SC) 66] ; A.G. Benjamin v. Union of India [(1967) 1 LLJ 718] ; Shamsheer Singh v. State of Punjab [(1974) 2 SCC 831 : 1974 SCC (L&S) 550 : (1975) 1 SCR 814] . These decisions have been discussed and followed by a three Judge Bench in State of Punjab v. Sukh Raj Bahadur [(1968) 3 SCR 234 : AIR 1968 SC 1089 : (1970) 1 LLJ 373 : 1968 Cri LJ 687].”

11. This Court must say at the outset that this stand of the petitioner, based on the principle in Kaushal Kishore Shukla (supra), about the provision of an opportunity in case of termination of service, founded on a charge, is inconsistent with the petitioner's stand, otherwise taken, that he is not a regular employee of the Nagar Palika, to whom the Rules of 1956 or the Act apply.

12. Assuming for a moment that the Rules of 1956 and the Act apply, and the petitioner's services have been terminated for his misconduct in contesting elections without the permission of the Executive Officer, the principle in Kaushal Kishore Shukla would not come to the petitioner's rescue at all. It is so for more than one reason. The foremost is that the principle in Kaushal Kishore Shukla has been laid down in the context of an employee appointed on ad hoc basis for a fixed period that was extended from time to time, but not a contractual employee, whose conditions of service were governed by contract. The law has been laid down on principles governing the rights of temporary government servants, to whom the Uttar Pradesh Temporary Government Servants (Termination of Services) Rules, 1975 are applicable. This is certainly not the case here.

13. The other is that their Lordships in Kaushal Kishore Shukla held that even a temporary government servant has no right to the post and his services can be terminated by a month's notice without assigning any reason, either in terms of the contract or the relevant statutory rules. It is observed there that a temporary government servant also can be dismissed from service by way of punishment. It is only if the competent Authority decides to take punitive action that a formal inquiry may be held by framing charges and giving opportunity to the government servant in accordance with Article 311 of the Constitution. If the order is punitive in nature, the government servant is certainly entitled to opportunity. The Court went into the question, what order of termination may be regarded as punitive or stigmatic and what a termination simpliciter in terms of the contract or rules means.

14. The twin tests suggested to determine the nature of the order, if it is stigmatic or not is, if the temporary government servant had a right to the post or rank, and, secondly, if he has been visited with 'evil consequences', in the words of their Lordships. It has been held that if either of the two conditions exists, the order of termination relating to a temporary government servant must be held penal in nature. It has also been clarified that termination of services of a temporary government servant in accordance with the terms and conditions of service do not entail evil consequences, as held by the Constitution Bench in case of Parshotam Lal Dhingra v. Union of India, AIR 1958 SC 36.

15. In this case, the petitioner, as already remarked, is not remotely a temporary employee. He is an employee, whose services are entirely contractual. Once that is the case, even if he has been selected through some kind of a mechanism to select under a Government Order and appointed on contract, he has no right to the post. There is no lien. In fact, that is precisely the petitioner's case that the Rules of 1956 and the Act would not apply to him because he is not an employee of the Nagar Palika, governed by those statutes or statutory rules. His terms of service are governed by the contract alone.

16. If then that is the case, the petitioner's rights are governed exclusively by a contract that does not have any statutory flavour. It is a purely contractual appointment accepted by the petitioner dehors the rules and without a lien on any post. The issue whether the termination is in accordance with the contract or contrary to it in the absence of violation of any statute or statutory rules, or at least a statutory contract, is not fit to be determined by this Court in the exercise of our writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

17. The dispute between the petitioner and the Nagar Palika arises out of a contract of service simpliciter, which cannot be determined in the present proceedings. The determination of the petitioner's employment in terms of the contract of service or in violation thereof, given the terms of the contract and its nature, does not involve any arbitrariness, as may make it fall foul of the petitioner's right under Article 14 or 16 of the Constitution.

18. If the petitioner thinks that his services have been determined in violation of the contract between him and the Nagar Palika, or otherwise the Nagar Palika have indulged in any unfair labour practice in dispensing with the petitioner's services, it would be open to the petitioner to raise an industrial dispute under the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. No relief, however, can be afforded to the petitioner in the present writ petition.

19. Subject to the above liberty, this petition fails and is dismissed.

20. There shall be no order as to costs.

Civil Law - Uttar Pradesh State Electricity Board Recruitment of Dependants of Board's Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1975 – Rule 2(c)(3) – Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 – Rule 2(c)(iii) – Compassionate Appointment – Family Pension – Married Daughter – Dependency – Succession Certificate

The petitioner, Akhtari Khatoon, a divorced daughter of the deceased employee Nasir Ahmad, sought compassionate appointment and family pension, claiming dependency on her father after her alleged divorce in 2008, supported by a Talaqnama. She also obtained a succession certificate for her father's retiral dues, which were paid, but her pension was stopped. The respondents argued that the petitioner, as a married daughter, was not eligible under Rule 2(c)(3) of the Rules of 1975, and her divorce was not substantiated by a court decree.

Held: (1) The petition was dismissed. (2) The petitioner was not entitled to compassionate appointment, as Rule 2(c)(3) of the Rules of 1975, applicable to the respondents, excludes married daughters, and its vires were not challenged, distinguishing Smt. Vimla Srivastava Vs St. of U.P. (3) The petitioner failed to prove dependency on her deceased father or provide details of other dependents, such as her father's widow or minor children, to justify her claim. (4) The Talaqnama lacked authenticity, and no court decree verified the divorce, undermining her claim of dependency. (5) At 50 years of age, the petitioner was presumed to have settled and was ineligible for appointment due to age limits. (6) The claim for family pension was untenable, as no specific rule or statutory provision was cited to establish eligibility. (7) The Executive Engineer's failure to comply with the court's prior order dated 21.10.2019 to pass a reasoned order was admonished, with directions to convey this to the Chairman, U.P. Power Corporation.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The petitioner's father, the late Nasir Ahmad, was a Centrifugal Mechanic in the employ of the Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited (short, 'the Corporation'), and last posted in the establishment of the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Phase-III, Malviya Road, Basti. The petitioner was married to one Nisar Ahmad, who is said to have divorced her through a Talaqnama dated 01.01.2008, pronouncing a Talaq upon his wife, in accordance with the Shariat Law, applicable to parties. The divorce, according to the Talaqnama was pronounced in the presence of two competent witnesses. After the petitioner's divorce, it is her case that she came back to her father's house at Village Tilauli, Post Sohnaag, District Deoria and is living there since January, 2008. A copy of the certificate of residence dated 12.04.2010 issued by the Deputy Collector on behalf of the Collector is on record.

2. The petitioner says that she is the only legal heir of the late Nasir Ahmad and for the said reason, has staked claim to a compassionate appointment. It is also said that for the same reason, she has applied for the payment of her father's retiral dues vide a representation dated 21.09.2010. The respondents directed the petitioner to produce a succession certificate issued by a Court of competent jurisdiction, entitling her to the dues. Accordingly, the petitioner moved the District Judge, Deoria for the grant of a succession certificate under the Indian Succession Act, 1925. The petitioner's petition for succession was registered as Succession Case No.597 of 2010 and assigned to the Additional District Judge, Court No.5, Deoria. The learned Additional District Judge granted a succession certificate in the petitioner's favour, holding her entitled to receive from the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-I, Basti, gratuity in the sum of Rs.4,02,501/-, leave encashment in the sum of Rs.84,159/-, an ex gratia sum of Rs.30,000/-, besides dues on account of GPF in the sum of Rs.1,73,559/-, totalling a figure of Rs.6,90,219/-.

3. The petitioner points out that the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division Phase-I, District Basti, sought legal opinion in the matter and the Corporation's Counsel at Basti vide his opinion dated 31.12.2014, opined that all the documents produced by the petitioner have been verified from the Civil Court at Deoria as well as the Collectorate, which are genuine. It was further opined that the petitioner is entitled to all dues on account of the deceased employee's services, which she claims.

4. It is the petitioner's case that in order to delay processing of her claim for compassionate appointment, the Executive Engineer last mentioned sought information once again vide letter dated 21.03.2018, addressed to the petitioner, to the effect if the petitioner made her claim for compassionate appointment within five years of death of the employee, and, secondly, if the Talaqnama produced has been authenticated or verified by an institution, recognized by the Government of India or the State Government, or established by the said Governments. The petitioner says that she has the liability of three unemployed sons on her shoulders and there is no other source of income for the family to survive. This Court must remark that it has not been clarified in paragraph No.14 of the writ petition if the responsibility of 'unemployed sons' spoken of, refers to the petitioner's sons or those of her deceased father's sons, to wit, her brothers.

5. The petitioner says that for one she is entitled to receive post retiral dues on account of her father's services, a fact authenticated by orders made by the Additional District Judge granting a succession certificate in her favour. She further says that she is entitled to a compassionate appointment, inasmuch as by virtue of the law now declared, 'married daughters' are also entitled to compassionate appointment under Rule 2(c)(iii) of the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (for short, 'the Rules of 1974'). The petitioner further avers in paragraph No.17 that though she has been paid her father's retiral dues and also her pension in the year 2019-20 for some period of time, it has been stopped without any rhyme or reason.

6. Accordingly, the petitioner has moved this Court, seeking family pension for herself on account of her deceased father's services and also a direction to the respondents to offer her a compassionate appointment.

7. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondents Nos.2 and 3 jointly, to which the petitioner has filed a rejoinder.

8. This petition was admitted to hearing on 04.10.2023, which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

9. Heard Mr. Balendra Deo Misra, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Shrawan Kumar Tripathi, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent Nos. 2 and 3, and Ms. Monika Arya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State, respondent No.1.

10. This Court must remark at the outset that the petitioner had earlier approached this Court by means of Writ-A No.16500 of 2019, which was disposed of by an order dated 21.10.2019, ordering the respondents in the following terms:

“As the claim of the petitioner has yet not been considered by the competent authority, without expressing any opinion as to the merits of claim of the petitioner, the present writ petition is being disposed of with the direction to the respondent no. 2 namely the Executive Engineer, Purvanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd., Electricity Distribution Phase-III, District Basti to decide the claim of the petitioner both for grant of family pension and other retiral dues and for compassionate ground being divorced daughter of the deceased employee, by passing a reasoned and speaking order, in accordance with law, preferably, within a period of two months from the date of submission of certified copy of this order, after completion of necessary formalities.”

11. It appears that out of the claims directed to be decided by this Court vide order dated 21.10.2019, the respondents have paid post retiral dues on account of the petitioner's father's services, authorized by the succession certificate dated 27.07.2014, issued by the Additional District Judges, Deoria. The directions carried in this Court's order dated 21.10.2019 about consideration of the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment and her entitlement to receive family pension, has decidedly been observed in breach in the sense that the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Phase-III, Basti has not passed any reasoned and speaking orders, deciding the petitioner's claim for the grant of family pension or compassionate appointment, as ordered by this Court. There is an averment in paragraph No.1 of the writ petition, specifically to the effect that the orders of this Court dated 21.10.2019, passed in Writ-A No. 16500 of 2019, directing the Executive Engineer aforesaid to pass orders on the petitioner's claim for the grant of family pension as well as compassionate appointment, has been knowingly flouted. In the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent Nos.2 and 3, which is an affidavit by Kedarnath Mishra, the incumbent Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Phase-III, Basti, it is averred in paragraph No.4, in answer to paragraph No.1 of the writ petition:

“4. That the contents of paragraph No.1 of the writ petition being matter of record which can verify there from, in reply there to it is respectfully submitted that allegation made in paragraph is wrong hence denied, retire benefits has been paid to the petitioner, for other benefit petitioner is not entitle, petitioner has not given necessary documents, which is require under the law therefore representation of the petitioner has not been decided.”

12. It is one thing to say that the petitioner is not entitled to the family pension, she claims, or the compassionate appointment, and quite another, not to pass orders in regard to these claims, despite a mandamus by this Court to decide those claims by reasoned and speaking orders. Ex facie, the Executive Engineer has acted in disobedience of this Court's orders dated 21.10.2019 passed in Writ-A No. 16500 of 2019, by failing to pass a speaking order, deciding the petitioner's claim in regard to family pension and compassionate appointment.

13. This Court is of opinion that by the aforesaid act of disobedience, apart from the question of contempt, with which we are not concerned in this petition, the Executive Engineer, respondent No.2, has forced the writ petitioner to move this Court again for a writ of mandamus to consider those very claims, regarding which he is under a command to decide. This is an act of causing unnecessary litigation to be generated, taxing both the petitioner and the public exchequer. For the said reason, we are of opinion that irrespective of the event in this case, which we propose to decide finally on merits, the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Phase-III, Basti ought to be admonished for his action in disobeying the earlier orders of this Court. The admonition will be conveyed to the concerned incumbents in the office of the Executive Engineer, through the Chairman, U.P. Power Corporation, Lucknow.

14. The respondents have resisted the petitioner's claim to receive both the family pension on account of her father's services as well as the compassionate appointment due to his demise in harness. We could have sent back the matter to the third respondent, compelling him to comply with the earlier directions and decide those claims, but in view of the stand taken in the counter affidavit, we think that it would be a wasteful expenditure of the parties' resources as well as those of the Court. The matter, therefore, ought to be determined finally now, which we proceed to do hereby.

15. It is not in dispute that the petitioner is a married daughter of the deceased employee, Nasir Ahmad. She claims a divorce sometime in the year before her father's death. The deceased employee's widow is not alive and no other family members of the deceased has applied. The petitioner says that she is entitled to a consideration of her claim, because this Court in the case of Smt. Vimla Srivastava v. State of U.P. and another, 2016 (1) ADJ 21 (DB) has struck down Rule 2(c)(iii) of the Rules of 1974 to the extent that it has excluded married daughters from the definition of the family as violative of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution. It is pointed out that it has been done by striking down the word 'unmarried' in Rule 2(c)(iii) of the Rules of 1974, so that the expression that survives in Rule 2(c)(iii) is 'daughter' without any qualification as to marital status.

16. The learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that once the word 'unmarried' has been struck down in Rule

2(c)(iii) of the Rules of 1974, the stand of the respondents taken in the counter affidavit that the petitioner is not entitled, cannot be countenanced. On the other hand, the learned Counsel for the respondents submits that the Rules of 1974 are not applicable to the Corporation and they are governed by their own rules and regulations framed by the Board of Directors. The attention of this Court in this regard has been invited to the amended provisions of Rule 2 of the Uttar Pradesh State Electricity Board Recruitment of Dependents of Board's Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1975 (for short, 'the Rules of 1975'), amended on 5th July, 2012. The said amendment has been carried out in keeping with the amendment to the Rules of 1974, then made by the 9th Amendment in the year 2011. Amended Rule 2 as well as the pre-amended provisions of the said Rule would indicate, according to the learned Counsel for the respondents, that it is the unmarried daughters, including unmarried adopted daughters, widowed daughters and widowed daughters-in-law, who qualify as members of the family under Rule 2(c) of the Rules of 1975 (as amended in the year 2012).

17. It is also submitted by the learned Counsel for the respondents that the various circumstances pointed out in the counter affidavit indicate that the petitioner was not at all a dependent of her father at the time of his demise. It is urged that the factum of her divorce is not established because she has not produced any decree of divorce from a Court of competent jurisdiction. It is also said that the petitioner was aged 34 years in the year 2010 and would now be 47 years of age. Now, the presumption is that she is capable of earning for herself and not entitled for the said reason to family pension.

18. The learned Counsel for the respondents, Mr. Shrawan Tripathi and Ms. Monika Arya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel have placed reliance in support of their case upon a Bench Decision of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Madhavi Mishra and others, 2021(9) ADJ 529 (DB), where following the Supreme Court in Director of Treasuries in Karnataka and another v. V. Somyashree, (2021) 12 SCC 20 and the Kerala High Court in V. Sunithakumari v. K.S.E.B. and others, 1992 SCC OnLine Ker 145, it has been held that a married daughter is not included in the definition of 'family' under the Rules of 1975. It is also submitted by the learned Counsel appearing for the respondents that the petitioner is not entitled to claim compassionate appointment as a matter of right, specially when she has deliberately omitted to mention her mother's eligibility to receive family pension.

19. We have carefully considered the submissions advanced on behalf of learned Counsel appearing for the parties and perused the record.

20. It is no doubt true that in Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules of 1974, the word 'unmarried' qualifying the word 'daughter' has been struck down as unconstitutional by the Court in Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra). But, that by itself would not entitle the petitioner to a striking down of Rule 2(c) (3) of the Rules of 1975, which apply to the respondents' establishment. The respondents are not governed by the Rules of 1974, but their own rules, to wit, the Rules of 1975, as amended. The petitioner has not challenged the vires of Rule 2(c) (3) of the Rules of 1975, where the Court could have gone into the issue if the said Rule was ultra vires Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution. Howsoever extendable in its logic, the principle laid down in Smt. Vimla Srivastava, cannot of itself result in the striking down of another rule without its vires being properly challenged. In Smt. Vimla Srivastava the vires of Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules of 1974 was under challenge, which is not the case here. The Rules of 1975 have been amended on 5th of July, 2012 by a memo of the said date issued by the Director of the Corporation acting under an order of the Corporation's Board. The amended and the pre-amended Rule 2 of the Rules of 1975, which no doubt has followed the amendment then made to Rule 2 of the Rules of 1974, is being quoted in extenso:

21. It would be important to note that neither under the pre-amended Rules nor post amendment, married daughters have been included in the definition of family under Rule 2(c) (3) of the Rules of 1975. The principle that unless the provisions of a statute or statutory rule is challenged through a duly framed writ petition, it cannot be struck down by the Court, is well settled in view of the law laid down in Union of India and others v. Manjurani Routray and others, (2023) 9 SCC 144. In Manjurani Routray (supra), it was observed:

“10. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and considering the prayer made in the writ petition, it is luculent that Respondent 1 did not set out any grounds to declare Rule 4(b) of the Rules as ultra vires. No such relief was even prayed for in the writ petition. Respondent 1 in the writ petition merely sought a writ in the nature of certiorari to set aside the order of CAT. Therefore in the given facts, there was no occasion for the High Court to declare Rule 4(b) as ultra vires.

11. While hearing the learned counsel appearing for the parties, we asked Shri B.H. Marlapalle, learned Senior Counsel along with Shri Shibashish Mishra appearing on behalf of the respondents and intervenors, as to how, in absence of any pleading setting out grounds challenging the vires of Rule 4(b) and in the absence of seeking any relief to that effect, the High Court was justified in exercising jurisdiction to declare Rule 4(b) as ultra vires? In response, the learned Senior Counsel has fairly stated that it is a defect in the pleadings as well as in the relief sought before CAT and in the writ petition. But still, they made an unsuccessful attempt to satisfy this Court that the said rule appears to be discriminatory and therefore the High Court has rightly exercised the jurisdiction while passing the impugned order. It is a trite law that for striking down the provisions of law or for declaring any rules as ultra vires, specific pleading to challenge the rules and asking of such relief ought to be made, that is conspicuously missing in the present case. In the absence of such a pleading, the Union of India did not have an opportunity to rebut the same. The other side had no opportunity to bring on record the object, if any, behind the Rules that were brought into force. We are also of the considered view that, in the writ petition seeking a writ of certiorari challenging the order of CAT, the High Court ought not to have declared Rule 4(b) as ultra vires in the above fact situation. Therefore, the High Court was not justified to declare Rule 4(b) as ultra vires.”

22. Now, the other question that remains is if there is so striking a similarity between the “unconstitutional” provisions of Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules of 1974 and those of Rule 2(c) (3) of the Rules of 1975, should this Court not ‘read down’ the provisions of Rule 2(c) (3) of the Rules of 1975, to save it from the peril of unconstitutionality.

23. This Court in Kanhai Ram and others v. State of U.P. and others, Neutral Citation No. - 2024:AHC:52835 has referred a question, amongst others, for consideration by a larger Bench, if the Court, in the absence of a challenge to the vires of a statute can ‘read down’ its provisions, that appear to be ultra vires. We would have made a reference of the question in the present matter also or awaited answer to the pending reference, but we do not think that the question really arises in this case. We have also taken note of an opinion contrary to that in Smt. Vimla Srivastava, expressed by another Division Bench of this Court, later in point of time, in Madhavi Mishra (supra), which is expressed in the following words:

“15. It is settled principle of law that the object of the scheme is not to provide employment to the unemployed among the dependent relatives of the employee, who died in harness, but to enable one of the dependents to get some employment so as to eke out a livelihood for the members of the family of the deceased. The intention of the scheme can only be to provide immediate relief to the family of the deceased employee for their sustenance. A married daughter is excluded from that category and the exclusion is not without reason that married daughter goes out of the family and is dependent on her husband of her necessities. The father could render financial assistance to his married daughter, if he is in position to give assistance, but that is not reason to hold that married daughter still continues to dependent on her father specially when law enjoins a duty on the husband to maintain his wife and enables her to claim alimony in case he refuses to pay. Therefore, the dependency on the father ceases the moment the daughter is given in carriage and that is the justification for excluding married daughter from the category of dependents and to include only unmarried daughters. This aspect has been considered by the High Court of Kerala in minutest details in case of V. Sunithakumari v. K.S.E.B. and others, 1992 SCC OnLine Ker 145.

16. Thus, in the light of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Director of Treasuries in Karnataka and another (supra) and Kerala High Court in case of V. Sunithakumari (supra), we are of the opinion that petitioner is not entitled to compassionate appointment firstly on the ground that a married daughter is not included in the definition of a family under the Regulations of 1995 and secondly petitioner cannot claim compassionate appointment as a matter of right specially when she has deliberately omitted to mention eligibility of her mother to get family pension, thus not leaving her in penury and also not making her dependent on the present applicant and thirdly because both as per the law and the tradition, a married daughter is dependent on her husband and not on her father.”

24. The impact of the decisions of the Supreme Court would also have to be considered, as referred to by the Division Bench in Madhavi Mishra as also certain other decisions, on which learned Counsel for the respondents have placed reliance. This, however, would be necessary if for the decision of the case, it was imperative to go into the question about the validity of Rule 2(c) (3) of the Rules of 1975. That is neither under challenge nor do we think that in the facts of the present case, the question of the rule being suitably ‘read down’, necessarily arises in order to decide the cause. The reason why it is not necessary to go into the question of vires of Rule 2(c) (3) of the Rules of 1975, or exploring the possibility of a ‘reading down’ thereof, is that assuming that the petitioner is entitled to stake her claim for compassionate appointment, the facts here do not entitle her to it on reputed criteria to judge such claims.

25. The petitioner has not shown with full particulars, how she was dependent upon her father at the time of his demise. This case is not about a discrimination on the ground of sex alone, but something very different. If in the petitioner’s stead, a son of the deceased, placed in the circumstances that she is, had applied, his claim too would not have been accepted. It is a dependent son, who can claim for himself and for the benefit of supporting the deceased’s widow and minor children, a consideration for compassionate appointment. Likewise, if on the date of demise of the employee in harness, it can be shown that a married daughter is dependent upon him, or his widow and minor family members could be taken care of by the married daughter, if granted compassionate appointment, it may be a case for considering the claim and judging the validity of the prohibitive rule.

26. Here, the petitioner has not pleaded material facts and particulars to show how she was herself dependent on her deceased father at the time of his demise. There is a vague allegation that in the year 2008, her husband, Nisar Ahmad has divorced the petitioner. The evidence produced in this regard is a Talaqnama, written in Urdu on a plain paper and dated 1st January, 2008. It purports to have effected a divorce between the petitioner and her husband. Another document is a Hindi transliteration of the Talaqnama, written on a general stamp worth Rs.10/-. The Hindi transliteration shows that her husband has divorced the petitioner by pronouncing a triple Talaq in accordance with Shariat Law applicable to parties in the presence of two competent witnesses. The document to its face is a surreptitious one, which does not inspire confidence with this Court. The document has no authenticity about its record, even so much as a postal dispatch to the petitioner or its service being effected upon her through some dependable and ascertainable mode.

It is also not pleaded by the petitioner or established by the so-called Talaqnama for how long the petitioner was married, and if she had children of her own. There is one telltale circumstance about the deceased's marital status, which cannot be ignored. In her affidavit filed in support of the writ petition she has chosen to describe herself as wife of Nisar Ahmad, instead of saying daughter of the late Nasir Ahmad, as said elsewhere, such as the cause title and her applications made to the respondents. The contents of an affidavit signed and sworn by the petitioner cannot be lightly brushed aside.

27. This Court is of opinion that in the circumstances, the respondents were perfectly justified in asking the petitioner to produce evidence of her claimed divorce by a decree of a Court of competent jurisdiction, or some dependable evidence about it. If the factum of divorce is not believable, the petitioner cannot be regarded a dependent of the deceased at all. Still, taking the principle that she is eligible on assumption, if it was the petitioner's case fully pleaded and established that the deceased left behind him his widow and minor children, whom the petitioner was willing to support, there might have been a case worth consideration, of course, subject to be relevant rule being struck down or read down in accordance with law. But, that is not the case here, because the petitioner has not pleaded the full particulars of the deceased's dependents, except saying in paragraph No.14 that she bears the liability of three unemployed sons on her shoulders. It is not said by even as much as a hint as to who are the sons referred to in paragraph No.14. Whether they are sons of the deceased or the petitioner's sons, is not at all clear. If they are the deceased's sons, their ages and competence to apply for themselves ought to have been disclosed in order to ascertain whether it was necessary for the petitioner to be offered a compassionate appointment in order to support the deceased's sons, who would qualify as his dependents. If the reference is to the petitioner's sons, they are certainly not the deceased's dependents and to support them, the petitioner cannot stake her claim to compassionate appointment on account of her father's demise in harness.

28. Besides the above facts, the affidavit filed by the petitioner in support of this petition shows that she is now 50 years of age. At this age, if she can be granted an appointment at all, compassionate or otherwise, by the respondents, has to be answered against her. The reason is for one that she would no longer be eligible for appointment in terms of the maximum age of prescribed. The other is that by this time, it would be assumed that she has managed to find her way in life and settled down, where the deceased's demise in harness has not destituted her.

29. So far as the other claim about the family pension is concerned, the respondents have denied it saying that the petitioner is not eligible under the Rules to receive family pension on account of services rendered by the deceased. It is for the petitioner to establish under what rule about pension and family pension, she is eligible. Not a word has been said in the writ petition or the rejoinder affidavit, except that it was paid for some time and then stopped. The right to receive both pension and family pension has to flow from some statute, statutory instrument or rules. Nothing of that kind has been pointed out by the petitioner in order to entitle her to receive family pension for her father's service. This part of the petitioner's claim is, therefore, also untenable.

30. In the circumstances, this Court is of the opinion that no mandamus can be issued to the respondents either to consider the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment or for the grant of family pension on account of her deceased father's services

31. In the result, this writ petition fails and is dismissed.

32. There shall be no order as to costs.

33. Let this order be communicated to the Chairman, U.P. Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow by the the Registrar (Compliance) with the remark that he will carry out the direction in paragraph No.13 of this judgment.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ A No. 13858 of 2023

Shri Pal ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Agnihotri Kumar Tripathi, Si Rajesh Kumar Pandey

Counsel for the Respondents:

C.S.C., Sri Pankaj Srivastava

Civil Law - U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916 – Annual Increment – Retirement – Notional

Increment – Article 14 – Pensionary Benefits

The petitioner, Shri Pal, a retired Clerk from Nagar Nigam, Meerut, challenged the Nagar Ayukt's order dated 28.12.2019, denying his annual increment for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019, due on 01.07.2019, post-retirement on 30.06.2019, citing no government order or rule permitting post-retirement increments.

Held: (1) The petition was allowed with costs of Rs. 10,000/-. (2) The impugned order was quashed as contrary to Director (Admn. HR) KPTCL Vs C.P. Mundinamani, which held that denying an increment earned for a year's satisfactory service due to retirement on 30.06 before the increment date (01.07) is arbitrary and violates Article 14. (3) The petitioner, having completed a full year of service, was entitled to a notional increment for pensionary benefits. (4) A mandamus was issued to grant the increment notionally from 01.07.2019, revise the pension, and pay arrears within eight weeks with 6% interest for delays. (5) The Nagar Ayukt's reliance on government orders over judicial precedents was disapproved, cautioning against pedantic adherence to rules conflicting with court rulings. (6) The Nagar Ayukt's failure to justify the order and improper affidavit verification were criticized.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against the order dated 28.12.2019 passed by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut declining to grant the petitioner annual increment for the period 1st July, 2018 to 30th June, 2019. The petitioner prays that a mandamus be issued to the respondent-Nagar Nigam to pay his due increment for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019, payable on 01.07.2019.

2. When this petition came up for admission on 22.08.2023, this Court passed the following order:

“The grievance of the petitioner is that he retired on 30.06.2019. He has been denied his increments from 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019, which was due on 01.07.2018, The petitioner's claim has been rejected by the order impugned dated 28.12.2019 passed by the Nagar Aayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut.

The Nagar Aayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut will file an affidavit, showing cause why his order dated 28.12.2019 be not quashed being prima facie in the teeth of holding of the Supreme Court in Director (Admn. HR) KPTCL and others v. C.P.

Mundinamani and others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 401.

The affidavit shall be filed within ten days indicating how he has denied the petitioner's increments in the teeth of the holding of the Supreme Court in Re: C.P. Mundinamani (supra).

Lay this writ petition as fresh on 04.09.2023.

Let this order be communicated to the Nagar Aayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut by the Registrar (Compliance) within 48 hours.”

3. On the next date, that is 04.09.2023, the following order was made which effectively granted time to the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut to comply with the order dated 22.08.2023 and show cause why the order impugned be not held contrary to the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Director (Admn. HR) KPTCL and others v. C.P. Mundinamani and others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 401:

“This matter was heard on 22.08.2023 and order of date recorded.

Today when the matter is called on, no one is present on behalf of the petitioner and the private respondents.

Mr. Yashwant Singh, learned Counsel is present on behalf of the State.

This matter is adjourned as fresh to 14.09.2023.

In the meantime, the order dated 22.08.2023 shall be complied with and the Registrar (Compliance) shall submit a report regarding service of the order dated 22.08.2023. ”

4. Since, there was no affidavit filed by 04.09.2023, while adjourning the matter, this Court called for a report from the Registrar (Compliance) in the matter.

5. The matter next came up on 14.09.2023, when this Court recorded the following order which also makes a verbatim reference to the report of the Registrar (Compliance):

“Perused the report dated 13.09.2023 submitted by the Registrar (Compliance) and the office report dated 14.09.2023. The relevant part of the report submitted in compliance with this Court's order dated 04.09.2023 and in turn, the earlier order dated 22.08.2023, reads:

As per the direction contained in Hon'ble Court's order dated 22.08.2023 (copy at flag 'A'), the order dated 22.08.2023 was duly communicated to the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut, Through, The District Magistrate, Meerut for ensuring strict compliance, via email and Speed Post as well along-with D.O. letter No. 7909/RC (Civil) dated 24.08.2023 (copy at flag 'B'). The email receipt and Speed Post Track regarding the communication of the order dated 22.08.2023 is enclosed herewith (flag 'C') for Hon'ble Court's kind perusal.

The District Magistrate, Meerut, vide his letter No. 3478/O.S.D.-Camp/2023 dated 12.09.2023 (flag 'D') has submitted a report mentioning that the aforesaid Hon'ble Court's order dated 22.08.2023, has been communicated to the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut in due course.

Mr. Pankaj Srivastava, learned Counsel for respondent No. 4, has appeared via video conferencing, but, due to slow internet speed, his voice could not been heard. Mr. Srivastava, however, conveyed through a text message that this matter may be taken up in the next week.

Lay as fresh on 28.09.2023, by which time the requisite personal affidavit shall be filed. ”

6. A reading of the order dated 14.09.2023 shows that Mr. Pankaj Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Nagar Nigam, again sought time in the matter praying that it may be taken up in the next week. It was then posted on 28.09.2023 with a direction that by the said date the requisite personal affidavit (of the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut) shall be filed.

7. When the matter was taken up on the fourth occasion on 03.10.2023, a reconstructed copy of the affidavit of compliance was placed on record by Mr. Pankaj Srivastava. It was accepted on record and treated as the original. A statement was made by Mr. Pankaj Srivastava that he does not want to file any further affidavit on behalf of the respondents. Learned Counsel for the petitioner stated that he does not wish to file a rejoinder. Accordingly, this petition was admitted to hearing which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

8. Heard Mr. Agnihotri Kumar Tripathi, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Pankaj Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent nos. 2, 3 and 4 and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no.1.

9. The petitioner was appointed a Clerk in the one time Municipality of Meerut, since upgraded to a Nagar Nigam. The petitioner says that he discharged his duties honestly and to the best of his abilities throughout his career, retiring from service on 30.06.2019. The petitioner says that he attained the age of superannuation on 03.06.2019 and served with a notice of retirement dated 26.02.2019 which said that he would retire on 30.06.2019. The date of retirement is apparently a little later than the petitioner's superannuation, going by the rule providing for retirement on the last day of the month.

10. The petitioner says that upon receipt of the notice of retirement he submitted an application to the Nagar Ayukt, received by his office on 17.05.2019, requesting that he may be paid his increment for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019. All his retirement dues were paid except his annual increment for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019. In these circumstances, the petitioner moved this Court by means of Writ-A No. 18405 of 2019 with a prayer that going by the settled law, to which allusion would shortly be made, the respondent-Nagar Ayukt be directed to pay the petitioner's increment for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019.

11. This Court, upon hearing learned Counsel for the petitioner, passed an order on 19.11.2019, disposing of Writ-A No. 18405 of 2019 in terms of directions that would be evident from the order, quoted in extenso:

“Petitioner submits that he is entitled to notional increment for the period 1.7.2018 to 30.6.2019, in light of the judgment of the Madras High Court dated 15.9.2017 passed in Writ Petition No.15732 of 2017 (P. Ayyamperumal Vs. The Registrar, Central Administrative Tribunal and others), against which a special leave petition filed before the Supreme Court has been rejected on 23rd July, 2018. It is stated that denial of annual increment to the petitioner, in the facts and circumstances, is wholly arbitrary. It is also urged that various representation made in that regard have not been bestowed any consideration and hence this writ petition.

Learned Standing Counsel submits that claim of petitioner shall be examined in accordance with law by the authority concerned.

In the facts and circumstances, noticed above, this writ petition stands disposed of with a direction upon the respondent no.2 to accord consideration to petitioner's claim for grant of notional increment w.e.f. 1.7.2018 to 30.6.2019, keeping in view the law laid down in the matter, by passing a reasoned order, within a period of two months from the date of presentation of certified copy of this order.”

12. The Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut, one Arvind Kumar Chaurasia, proceeded to pass an order dated 28.12.2019, that is to say, the impugned order rejecting the petitioner's claim, on ground that the petitioner had retired from service on 30.06.2019 whereas increments are payable to employees who are in service. After retirement from service, there is no provision for the award of increment. This is particularly so as no Government Order has been issued by the Government of Uttar Pradesh. It has also been said in the impugned order, most inappropriately, that since there is no Rule or Government Order authorising the payment of increment after retirement, the petitioner is not entitled to it. The increment for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019 would fall due on 01.07.2019 and the petitioner had retired a day earlier.

13. The Madras High Court, in a Bench decision of their Lordships in P. Ayammerumal v. The Registrar, Central Administrative Tribunal and others in Writ Petition No. 15732 of 2017 decided on 15.09.2017, to which reference was made in this Court's order dated 19.11.2019 passed in Writ-A No. 18405 of 2019, had squarely dealt with the issue in a writ petition arising out of an order passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal.

14. In P. Ayammperumal (supra), the short facts were that the petitioner had joined the Indian Revenue Service in the Customs and Excise Department in the year 1982 and retired as the Additional Director General, Chennai on 30.06.2013 upon attaining the age of superannuation. The 6th Pay Commission came in and the Central Government fixed 1st of July as the date on which increment for all employees would be payable, amending Rule 10 of the Central Civil Services (Revised Pay) Rules, 2008. It was in view of the said amendment that the petitioner was denied his last increment though he had completed a full year in service from 01.07.2012 to 30.06.2013. The petitioner moved the Central Administrative Tribunal, Madras Bench which rejected the petitioner's claim going by the book, like the Nagar Ayuk there, that the increment fell due on the 1st of July and since the petitioner had retired a day prior to that date, he was not entitled. This order was challenged before the Madras High Court. The Division Bench allowed the writ petition referring to an earlier judgment of the High Court in State of Tamil Nadu, represented by its Secretary to Government, Finance Department and others v. M. Balasubramaniam, CDJ 2012 MHC 6525, holding:

“6. In the case on hand, the petitioner got retired on 30.06.2013.

As per the Central Civil Services (Revised Pay) Rules, 2008, the increment has to be given only on 01.07.2013, but he had been superannuated on 30.06.2013 itself. The judgment referred to by the petitioner in State of Tamil Nadu, rep. by its Secretary to Government, Finance Department and others v. M. Balasubramaniam, reported in CDJ 2012 MHC 6525, was passed under similar circumstances on 20.09.2012, wherein this Court confirmed the order passed in W.P.No.8440 of 2011 allowing the writ petition filed by the employee, by observing that the employee had completed one full year of service from 01.04.2002 to 31.03.2003, which entitled him to the benefit of increment which accrued to him during that period.

7. The petitioner herein had completed one full year service as on 30.06.2013, but the increment fell due on 01.07.2013, on which date he was not in service. In view of the above judgment of this Court, naturally he has to be treated as having completed one full year of service, though though the date of increment falls on the next day of his retirement. Applying the said judgment to the present case, the writ petition is allowed and the impugned order passed by the first respondent-Tribunal dated 21.03.2017 is quashed. The petitioner shall be given one notional increment for the period from 01.07.2012 to 30.06.2013, as he has completed one full year of service, though his increment fell on 01.07.2013, for the purpose of pensionary benefits and not for any other purpose. No costs.”

15. A Special Leave Petition, carried against the said decision, was dismissed by the Supreme Court on 23rd July, 2018. This judgment of the Madras High Court, against which Special Leave had been declined by the Supreme Court, was clearly referred to by the learned Single Judge in his order dated 19.11.2019 passed in Writ-A No. 18405 of 2019, when his Lordship issued a direction to the Nagar Ayuk to consider the petitioner's claim for the grant of notional increment, with effect from 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019. Now, the position of the law was well settled by time P. Ayammperumal was decided and that should have put an end to the controversy.

16. It appears that the issue arose before the Bombay High Court, the Delhi High Court and the Armed Forces Tribunal, Regional Bench, Lucknow, besides the Madras High Court who were unanimous in saying that the increment earned up to 30th June of a given year but falling due under the rules on 1st of July is already earned and has to be paid to the retired employee notionally, to be accounted towards the reckoning of his pension.

17. The issue arose before a Division Bench of this Court in a bunch of writ petitions entitled Writ-A No. 14527 of 2022, Union of India and 3 others v. Shiv Balak and 2 others decided on 15.12.2022 preferred by the Union of India from various judgments of the Central Administrative Tribunal, challenging similar orders, directing the grant of notional increment that had been earned up to the 30th of June of a particular year involved and where the employees had retired on 30th June before the increment actually fell due on the 1st of July. A Division Bench of this Court formulated the question involved in paragraph no. 2 of the judgement in Shiv Balak (supra) thus:

“The short question involved in this bunch of writ petitions is as under:

“Whether employees who retired on 30th June are entitled to the last annual increment made effective from on 1st July?””

18. After noticing the consistent opinion of the Madras High Court, the Bombay High Court, the Delhi High Court and the Armed Forces Tribunal, Regional Bench, Lucknow, all affirmed by the Supreme Court, their Lordships held:

“18. In view of the facts and legal position noted above, since the controversy/question involved in the present writ petitions is squarely covered by the judgments/orders of Hon'ble Supreme Court affirming the judgment of Madras High Court, Bombay High Court, Delhi High Court and the Armed Forces Tribunal, Regional Bench, Lucknow, therefore, all the Writ Petitions deserve to be dismissed and the impugned orders of the Tribunal deserve to be affirmed.

20. For all the reasons aforesaid all the writ petitions are dismissed and it is held that the employees who retired on 30th June are entitled to the last increment made effective on 1st July.”

19. Still later, the issue again arose before the Supreme Court in C.P. Mundinamani (supra) where the employers, who had joined a similar issue with employees, lost before the Division Bench of the Karnataka High Court and moved the Supreme Court by Special Leave.

20. In C.P. Mundinamani, the facts show that the employees of the Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Limited, the writ petitioners-respondents in that case, had retired a day before the annual increment accrued in accordance with Regulation 40(1) of the Karnataka Electricity Board Employees Service Regulations, 1977. The said Regulation made provision that an increment earned would accrue on the day following and since the employees in that case had retired on the day it was earned, the Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Limited, going by the book, denied the increment that the retiring employees had earned up to the last day of their service.

21. Their Lordships of the Supreme Court, as the report in C.P. Mundinamani would show, formulated the following question:

“13. The short question which is posed for the consideration of this Court is whether an employee who has earned the annual increment is entitled to the same despite the fact that he has retired on the very next day of earning the increment?”

22. In answering the question, their Lordships surveyed the divergent opinions of the Full Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court, the Himachal Pradesh High Court and the Kerala High Court, that would support the employer's contention and the other views favouring the employees expressed by the Madras High Court, the Delhi High Court, this Court, the Madhya Pradesh High Court, the Orissa High Court and the Gujarat High Court, and held:

“15. It is the case on behalf of the appellants that the word used in Regulation 40(1) is that an increment accrues from the day following that on which it is earned and in the present case the increment accrued on the day when they retired and therefore, on that day they were not in service and therefore, not entitled to the annual increment which they might have earned one day earlier. It is also the case on behalf of the appellants that as the increment is in the form of incentive and therefore, when the employees are not in service there is no question of granting them any annual increment which as such is in the form of incentive.

16. At this stage, it is required to be noted that there are divergent views of various High Courts on the issue involved. The Full Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court, the Himachal Pradesh High Court and the Kerala High Court have taken a contrary view and have taken the view canvassed on behalf of the appellants. On the other hand, the Madras High Court in the case of P. Ayyamperumal (supra); the Delhi High Court in the case of Gopal Singh v. Union of India (Writ Petition (C) No. 10509/2019 decided on 23.01.2020); the Allahabad High Court in the case of Nand Vijay Singh v. Union of India (Writ A No. 13299/2020 decided on 29.06.2021); the Madhya Pradesh High Court in the case of Yogendra Singh Bhadauria v. State of Madhya Pradesh; the Orissa High Court in the case of AFR Arun Kumar Biswal v. State of Odisha (Writ Petition No. 17715/2020 decided on 30.07.2021); and the Gujarat High Court in the case of State of Gujarat v. Takhtsinh Udesinh Songara (Letters Patent Appeal No. 868/2021) have taken a divergent view than the view taken by the Full Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court and have taken the view that once an employee has earned the increment on completing one year service he cannot be denied the benefit of such annual increment on his attaining the age of superannuation and/or the day of retirement on the very next day.

17. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the appellants that the annual increment is in the form of incentive and to encourage an employee to perform well and therefore, once he is not in service, there is no question of grant of annual increment is concerned, the aforesaid has no substance. In a given case, it may happen that the employee earns the increment three days before his date of superannuation and therefore, even according to the Regulation 40(1) increment is accrued on the next day in that case also such an employee would not have one year service thereafter. It is to be noted that increment is earned on one year past service rendered in a time scale. Therefore, the aforesaid submission is not to be accepted.

18. Now, so far as the submission on behalf of the appellants that as the increment has accrued on the next day on which it is earned and therefore, even in a case where an employee has earned the increment one day prior to his retirement but he is not in service the day on which the increment is accrued is concerned, while considering the aforesaid issue, the object and purpose of grant of annual increment is required to be considered. A government servant is granted the annual increment on the basis of his good conduct while rendering one year service. Increments are given annually to officers with good conduct unless such increments are withheld as a measure of punishment or linked with efficiency. Therefore, the increment is earned for rendering service with good conduct in a year/specified period. Therefore, the moment a government servant has rendered service for a specified period with good conduct, in a time scale, he is entitled to the annual increment and it can be said that he has earned the annual increment for rendering the specified period of service with good conduct. Therefore, as such, he is entitled to the benefit of the annual increment on the eventuality of having served for a specified period (one year) with good conduct efficiently. Merely because, the government servant has retired on the very next day, how can he be denied the annual increment which he has earned and/or is entitled to for rendering the service with good conduct and efficiently in the preceding one year. In the case of Gopal Singh (supra) in paragraphs 20, 23 and 24, the Delhi High Court has observed and held as under:-

"Payment of salary and increment to a central government servant is regulated by the provisions of F.R., CSR and Central Civil Services (Pension) Rules. Pay defined in F.R. 9(21) means the amount drawn monthly by a central government servant and includes the increment. A plain composite reading of applicable provisions leaves no ambiguity that annual increment is given to a government servant to enable him to discharge duties of the post and that pay and allowances are also attached to the post. Article 43 of the CSR defines progressive appointment to mean an appointment wherein the pay is progressive, subject to good behaviour of an officer. It connotes that pay rises, by periodical increments from a minimum to a maximum. The increment in case of progressive appointment is specified in Article 151 of the CSR to mean that increment accrues from the date following that on which it is earned. The scheme, taken cumulatively, clearly suggests that appointment of a central government servant is a progressive appointment and periodical increment in pay from a minimum to maximum is part of the pay structure. Article 151 of CSR contemplates that increment accrues from the day following which it is earned. This increment is not a matter of course but is dependent upon good conduct of the central government servant. It is, therefore, apparent that central government employee earns increment on the basis of his good conduct for specified period i.e. a year in case of annual increment. Increment in pay is thus an integral part of progressive appointment and accrues from the day following which it is earned."

(para 23)

"Annual increment though is attached to the post & becomes payable on a day following which it is earned but the day on which increment accrues or becomes payable is not conclusive or determinative. In the statutory scheme governing progressive appointment increment becomes due for the services rendered over a year by the government servant subject to his good behaviour. The pay of a central government servant rises, by periodical increments, from a minimum to the maximum in the prescribed scale. The entitlement to receive increment therefore crystallises when the government servant completes requisite length of service with good conduct and becomes payable on the succeeding day."

(para 24)

"In isolation of the purpose it serves the fixation of day succeeding the date of entitlement has no intelligible differentia nor any object is to be achieved by it. The central government servant retiring on 30th June has already completed a year of service and the increment has been earned provided his conduct was good. It would thus be wholly arbitrary if the increment earned by the central government employee on the basis of his good conduct for a year is denied only on the ground that he was not in employment on the succeeding day when increment became payable."

"In the case of a government servant retiring on 30th of June the next day on which increment falls due/becomes payable loses significance and must give way to the right of the government servant to receive increment due to satisfactory services of a year so that the scheme is not construed in a manner that it offends the spirit of reasonableness enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The scheme for payment of increment would have to be read as whole and one part of Article 151 of CSR cannot be read in isolation so as to frustrate the other part particularly when the other part creates right in the central government servant to receive increment. This would ensure that scheme of progressive appointment remains intact and the rights earned by a government servant remains protected and are not denied due to a fortuitous circumstance."

19. The Allahabad High Court in the case of Nand Vijay Singh (supra) while dealing with the same issue has observed and held in paragraph 24 as under: -

"24. Law is settled that where entitlement to receive a benefit crystallises in law its denial would be arbitrary unless it is for a valid reason. The only reason for denying benefit of increment, culled out from the scheme is that the central government servant is not holding the post on the day when the increment becomes payable. This cannot be a valid ground for denying increment since the day following the date on which increment is earned only serves the purpose of ensuring completion of a year's service with good conduct and no other purpose can be culled out for it. The concept of day following which the increment is earned has otherwise no purpose to achieve. In isolation of the purpose it serves the fixation of day succeeding the date of entitlement has no intelligible differentia nor any object is to be achieved by it. The central government servant retiring on 30th June has already completed a year of service and the Increment has been earned provided his conduct was good. It would thus be wholly arbitrary if the increment earned by the central government employee on the basis of his good conduct for a year is denied only on the ground that he was not in employment on the succeeding day when Increment became payable. In the case of a government servant retiring on 30th of June the next day on which increment falls due/becomes payable loses significance and must give way to the right of the government servant to receive increment due to satisfactory services of a year so that the scheme is not construed in a manner that it offends the spirit of reasonableness enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The scheme for payment of increment would have to be read as whole and one part of Article 151 of CSR cannot be read in isolation so as to frustrate the other part particularly when the other part creates right in the central government servant to receive increment. This would ensure that scheme of progressive appointment remains intact and the rights earned by a government servant remains protected and are not denied due to a fortuitous circumstance."

20. Similar view has also been expressed by different High Courts, namely, the Gujarat High Court, the Madhya Pradesh High Court, the Orissa High Court and the Madras High Court. As observed hereinabove, to interpret Regulation 40(1) of the Regulations in the manner in which the appellants have understood and/or interpreted would lead to arbitrariness and denying a government servant the benefit of annual increment which he has already earned while rendering specified period of service with good conduct and efficiently in the last preceding year. It would be punishing a person for no fault of him. As observed hereinabove, the increment can be withheld only by way of punishment or he has not performed the duty efficiently. Any interpretation which would lead to arbitrariness and/or unreasonableness should be avoided. If the interpretation as suggested on behalf of the appellants and the view taken by the Full Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court is accepted, in that case it would tantamount to denying a government servant the annual increment which he has earned for the services he has rendered over a year subject to his good behaviour. The entitlement to receive increment therefore crystallises when the government servant completes requisite length of service with good conduct and becomes payable on the succeeding day. In the present case the word "accrue" should be understood liberally and would mean payable on the succeeding day. Any contrary view would lead to arbitrariness and unreasonableness and denying a government servant legitimate one annual increment though he is entitled to for rendering the services over a year with good behaviour and efficiently and therefore, such a narrow interpretation should be avoided. We are in complete agreement with the view taken by the Madras High Court in the case of P. Ayyamperumal (supra); the Delhi High Court in the case of Gopal Singh (supra); the Allahabad High Court in the case of Nand Vijay Singh (supra); the Madhya Pradesh High Court in the case of Yogendra Singh Bhadauria (supra); the Orissa High Court in the case of AFR Arun Kumar Biswal (supra); and the Gujarat High Court in the case of Takhatsinh Udesinh Songara (supra). We do not approve the contrary view taken by the Full Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court in the case of Principal Accountant-General, Andhra Pradesh (supra) and the decisions of the Kerala High Court in the case of Union of India v. Pavithran (O.P. (CAT) No. 111/2020 decided on 22.11.2022) and the Himachal Pradesh High Court in the case of Hari Prakash v. State of Himachal Pradesh (CWP No. 2503/2016 decided on 06.11.2020)."

23. It is in view of the law laid down by the supreme Court in C.P. Mundinamani that this Court required the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut to file an affidavit of compliance showing cause why the impugned order be not quashed as it decides in the teeth of what their Lordships of the Supreme Court have held in C.P. Mundinamani. Instead of showing cause, in the affidavit of compliance that has been filed, all that is said finds mention in paragraph nos. 4 and 5, which read:

"4. That pursuant to the aforesaid directions of this Hon'ble Court the deponent had sent a communication on 12.09.2023 to the Director, Local Bodies, U.P. at Lucknow for issuing appropriate direction so that the order of this Hon'ble Court may be complied in letter and spirit. True copy of the communication dated 12.09.2023 sent by the deponent to the Director, Local Bodies, U.P. at Lucknow is being filed herewith and marked as ANNEXURE NO. AOC-1 to this affidavit of compliance.

5. That till this date no direction has been issued by the Director, Local Bodies, U.P. The deponent is ready to comply any direction of this Hon'ble Court issued in this case."

24. It is interesting to notice that these two paragraphs of the affidavit, sworn by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut himself, have been verified on the basis of "information received from the records". The communication to the Director, Local Bodies, U.P. dated 12.09.2023, that had been sent by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar

Nigam, Meerut, is a document that the Nagar Ayukt sent himself to the Director, Local Bodies. One is left to wonder why this averment would be sworn on the basis of information received from records. That apart an averment in an affidavit is sworn either on the 'basis of record' or 'information received from a person'. There is no swearing on the basis of 'information received from records'. These kinds of things happen where official respondents intermeddle with learned Counsel's draft and attempt vetting draft pleadings or affidavits by applying their 'common sense' to the expert field of the law.

25. The other noticeable feature is that the Nagar Ayukt is the man competent on behalf of the Nagar Nigam to sanction and grant increment to the petitioner. Why has he then made a reference of the matter to the Director, Local Bodies is difficult to explain. If, under the law, the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam could reject the petitioner's claim for grant of the annual increment for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019, notionally, it was for him to explain why his order be not quashed and a mandamus, as prayed, issued. The Nagar Ayukt is not a child or a ward sitting in the Director's lap seeking directions, as if it were, from his guardian or a parent figure, what to do in the matter. We strongly disapprove of the aforesaid course of action adopted by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut and caution him to be careful in future.

26. The merits of the matter now lie beyond the realm of cavil. Once the majority of the Constitutional Courts of the country, including the Supreme Court of India, have unequivocally held that a Regulation, that denies the benefit of an increment earned by an employee for the year merely because it technically accrues on the day following his retirement, would be arbitrary and unreasonable, there is no option for the Nagar Ayukt but to notionally grant the increment. This is what has been held by the Supreme Court in C.P. Mundinamani, as also the majority of the High Courts in the country. In the face of the holding of the Constitutional Courts, including the Supreme Court of India, no Government Order or Rule to the contrary can be given effect to. It is not open to the Nagar Ayukt to have referred to Government Orders in the face of the law laid down by High Courts across the country, which at the time the impugned order was passed, had met with approval of the Supreme Court, may be by a summary refusal of leave.

27. The Nagar Ayukt as well as the State Government are cautioned in the matter not to act pedantically following Government Orders on issues that are governed by judgments of the High Court or the Supreme Court, rendered after considering such Government Orders or Rules holding them to be arbitrary. Apparently, it seems that the Nagar Ayukt has thought it safer to go by a Government Order and seek instructions from the Government, ignoring judgments of this Court and the Supreme Court. This kind of an impression as well as course of action has to be firmly discouraged and put down. The impugned order being clearly one in the teeth of the consistent law laid down by the High Courts and finally approved by the Supreme Court in C.P. Mundinamani, it cannot be sustained.

28. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 28.12.2019 passed by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the respondents to grant annual increment to the petitioner for the period 01.07.2018 to 30.06.2019 notionally with effect from 01.07.2019. The petitioner's pension shall be revised accordingly and arrears of pension paid to the petitioner within a period of eight weeks of the receipt of a copy of this judgment, failing which the arrears will carry simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum for the period of delay. A revised Pension Payment Order shall be issued within the aforesaid period of time. The petitioner will be entitled to costs in the sum of Rs. 10,000/- payable by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut. It will be open to the Nagar Nigam, Meerut to recover these costs from the Nagar Ayukt who passed the impugned order.

29. Let this judgment be communicated to the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut by the Registrar (Compliance).

THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Writ A No. 15439 of 2022

Indramani Rao	...Petitioner

State of U.P. & Ors.	...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:

U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – Sections 16-E(10) & 16G(3)(q) – Pension – Disciplinary Action – Retired Employee – Verification of Academic Qualifications – Third-Party Complaint

The petitioner, Indramani Rao, an Assistant Teacher who voluntarily retired on 31.03.2022, challenged the orders dated 05.05.2022, 03.09.2022 (Deputy Director of Education), and 13.09.2022 (District Inspector of Schools) directing verification of his B.Ed. degree (Shiksha Alankar, 1991) based on a third-party complaint, potentially affecting his pension.

Held: (1) The writ petition was allowed, and the impugned orders were quashed. (2) No provision under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, or its regulations permits disciplinary action or inquiry into the academic qualifications of a retired employee, as Sections 16-E(10) and 16G(3)(q) apply only to serving teachers. (3) The petitioner, having served since 1978 and retired voluntarily, could not be subjected to post-retirement inquiry absent specific legal provisions, rendering such actions futile and burdensome to the public exchequer. (4) The petitioner was entitled to exemption from B.Ed. training under a 1994 Government Order, and his qualifications were never misrepresented. (5) The third-party complaint, previously dismissed in a related writ petition, lacked merit to trigger such verification. (6) A mandamus was issued to clear all post-retiral dues within one month, with 8% interest for delays beyond 30 days. (7) The Supreme Court's ruling in Chandra Singh Vs St. of Rajasthan and coordinate bench decisions reinforced that disciplinary proceedings cannot continue post-retirement without explicit rules.

1. Heard Sri R.C. Dwivedi, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri K. Shahi, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 5 and learned Standing Counsel for State-respondents.

2. Petitioner before this Court is aggrieved by notice dated 13th September, 2022, issued by District Inspector of Schools questioning his B.Ed. degree furnished by him at the time of his initial appointment in the institution in the year 1978 as Assistant Teacher in C.T. grade in junior high school.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that the petitioner was initially appointed as Assistant Teacher C.T. grade on 1st July, 1978. Later on, the institution was upgraded as high school in the year 1985 and on 30th March, 1983 by means of a Government Order, the institution was brought on grant-in-aid list. Since, the petitioner's name was there and the institution was brought on grant-in-aid upto junior high school, it was also brought on grant-in-aid list on 8th February, 1996 and the provisions of the U.P. High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Act, 1971, was made applicable, w.e.f., 1st April, 1996. Petitioner's name figured both at the level of junior high school and when the institution was brought on grant-in-aid as high schools and the petitioner continued to receive salary. Subsequently, since the institution had been recognized upto high school and was also brought on grant-in-aid and C.T. grade got declared a dying cadre under the Government Order issued in the year 1999, the petitioner, who continued to work as Assistant Teacher was automatically accorded with the status of Assistant Teacher L.T. grade. Petitioner seems to have also acquired B.Ed. degree of Shiksha Alankar from Rashtriya Patrachar Sanasthan, Kanpur in the year 1991. It is pleaded in the writ petition that since the Government Order was also issued for granting exemption from training to the teachers, who were untrained teachers, petitioner would also be entitled for exemption from training of B.Ed., in the event Shiksha Alankar degree were not be taken at par with the B.Ed. The petitioner's pay fixation had also been done by the District Inspector of Schools under order dated 10.10.2005 w.e.f. 19.02.1991 and the petitioner has been granted annual increments accordingly and further selection grade and pay fixation as per 7th pay commission recommendations. Since as per the date of birth recorded in the service book of the petitioner, he was to retire on 30.4.2022 but for his personal problems he made an application to the Manager for voluntary retirement from the institution on 30.10.2021, the Committee of Management adopted a resolution on 31.10.2021 accepting the request of the petitioner for voluntary retirement. In view of the provisions as contained under the Government Order dated 24.06.1983, the District Inspector of Schools Siddharth Nagar, approved the resolution of Committee of Management under his order dated 20th January, 2022 and petitioner stood retired voluntarily, w.e.f., 31st March, 2022. Upon his retirement petitioner has also been paid GPF, group insurance gratuity etc. Since he was also entitled to pension, so the papers were also forwarded by the Committee of Management for the said purpose, however, in the meanwhile it appears, on account of some village rivalry, one private person, namely, Brijesh Pratap Rao, who was envious of him made a complaint against the petitioner regarding his B.Ed. degree. Taking cognizance upon a third party complaint, the Deputy Director of Education vide letter dated 5.5.2022 and 3.9.2022, directed for verification of the B.Ed. degree of the petitioner and if found not correct then for lodging of F.I.R. against him and this is how a consequential order has come to be passed by District Inspector of Schools.

4. Argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is that once the petitioner has finally retired from service now at the time of his claim for pension, his original qualification while working as an employee, cannot be gone into. He is no more a member of service and pension is his statutory right for the service, which he has already rendered with the department, inasmuch, he having never concealed material facts regarding his academic documents submitted with the authorities, he cannot be said to have mis-representated at all. Insofar as, the B.Ed. degree is concerned, it is submitted that through out he has shown the degree of Shiksha Alankar obtained from a institute, which according to him, he had obtained bonafidely, however, even if, that degree was not admissible, technically he stood exempted from training on account of Government Order issued by the State Government.

5. Learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents submits that there was no harm in the verification being done but he could not demonstrate any relevant provisions in the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, which provide for scrutiny in appointment of a retired employee. He could not show any provision that empowers the authorities to take any disciplinary action against a retired employee. Learned Standing Counsel also could not dispute that under the relevant Government Order dated 21.10.1994, the petitioner would have been entitled to exemption from training. He also could not dispute the fact that it was a third party complaint upon which, the authorities have acted. One more factor also important to notice is that the writ petition was filed by Brijesh Pratap Rao being Writ-A No. 6179 of 2022, questioning the appointment of the petitioner and seeking a writ in the nature of quo warranto, was got dismissed as withdrawn on 25.4.2022.

6. Having heard the submissions made by learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the records, in my considered view, once the petitioner has attained the age of superannuation as he has admittedly been granted voluntary retirement under the order passed by the District Inspector of Schools dated 20th January, 2022, there remained no occasion now for the Education authorities to have gone into the verification of the academic records of petitioner so as to deny him pension and that too upon a third party private complaint more especially when the writ petition filed by the third party questioning the appointment of the petitioner, had been dismissed on 26.4.2022. The relevant provisions under the Intermediate Education Act, 1961 wherein the power could have been exercised to question the appointment in Section 6-E (10) of the Intermediate Education Act, but power is to be exercised only in respect of head of the institution and teachers, who are in service. The punishments that are required to be imposed under Section 16G (3) (q) are meant only in respect of working teachers. The regulations that have been framed for the purpose of enquiry/disciplinary proceedings are also in respect of teachers and employees working in the institution.

Nothing has been pointed out at the instance of learned Standing Counsel that any of the regulations provides for any disciplinary action against a retired employee. All that is written is vide regulation 30, 35 relates to employees working. Thus, in my considered view in the absence of any provisions to undertake a disciplinary proceeding in respect of retired employee, no action can be taken. If any such enquiry is held into the academic record of such teacher, like the petitioner, it would all lead to a futile exercise burdening the public exchequer additionally. In matters of service, there is a contract of employment, which ends with the employee retiring from service unless the rules permit departmental enquiry or action against employees even after their retirement for a certain period of time. This Court as well as Supreme Court has repeatedly held that legality of appointment should not be questioned after a lapse of substantial period of time.

7. In the case of Chandra Singh vs. State of Rajasthan and another; JT 2003 (6) SC 20, vide paragraph-37, the Supreme Court has held thus:-

37..... A departmental proceeding can continue so long as the employee is in service. In the event, a disciplinary proceeding is kept pending by the employer the employee cannot be made to retire. There must exist specific provision in the pension rules in terms whereof, whole or a part of the pension can be withheld or withdrawn wherefor a proceeding has to be initiated. Further more, no rule has also been brought to our notice providing for continuation of such proceeding despite permitting the employee concerned to retire. In absence of such a proceeding, the High Court or the State cannot contend that the departmental proceedings against the appellant Mata Deen Garg could continue"

8. This judgment has been subsequently followed by two Co-ordinate Benches of this Court in the case of Ravindra Singh Rathor vs. District Inspector of Schools; 2003 Lawsuit (All) 950 and Bal Krishna Pandey vs. State of U.P. and others passed in Writ-A No. 20488 of 2007 decided on 30th April, 2007.

9. Beside the above learned Standing Counsel has not been able to show any government order or any law that entitles the State to withhold and deny pension to a retired employee by embarking upon an enquiry into the qualification of a retired teacher at the time of his or her entry into service decades ago.

10. In view of the above, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

11. The order passed by Deputy Director of Education dated 05.05.2022 and 03.09.2022 as well as the consequential order dated 13th September, 2022 passed by District Inspector of Schools, are, accordingly, hereby quashed. The respondents are directed to clear all post retiral dues of the petitioner within a period of one month of production of certified copy of this order, failing which respondents shall have to pay interest @ 8% for the period payment is delayed beyond 30 days as prescribed above.

THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Shail Kumar Chaube ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Udai Chandani, Sri G.K. Singh (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondents:

Sri Krishna Raj Singh Jadaun, Sri Ritvik Upadhya, Sri Vikram D. Chauhan, Sri V.K. Upadhya (Sr. Advocate)

A. Service Law – Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915 – Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1965 – Rules 11, 14 & 15 – Disciplinary proceeding – Compulsory retirement – Working as a Professor in Banaras Hindu University – Charge of making vulgar remarks U.P. on the students was leveled – Earlier, the penalty of 'censure' was imposed by Executive Council, but later on U.P. on reference of Vice Chancellor, major penalty of 'compulsory retirement' was imposed – Review power of disciplinary authority was challenged – Held, the disciplinary authority in the matter of imposition of punishment after due enquiry held, in the absence of provision to review its decision and to change penalty from minor to major cannot be justified and deserves to be quashed – Original Act, 1915 did not provide for compulsory retirement by way of punishment – Since there is no power available to review a penalty imposed, it was beyond competence of Executive Council of the University to have resisted its penalty. (Para 6, 8, 21 and 41)

B. Service Law – Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915 – Statute 31 (d) – CCS Rules, 1965 – Disciplinary proceeding – Compulsory retirement – No show cause notice was issued – Effect – Held, whenever the University proposes to remove a person from employment on the ground of misconduct, he would be entitled to opportunity of show cause in respect to the decision taken – The Executive Council has not even issued a notice much less a show cause as required under Statute 31 (d) or under the CCS Rules before firing him by way of compulsory retirement from the University – Resolution adopted by the Executive Council now impugned in the present writ petition is liable to be quashed on this ground alone. (Para 34 and 37)

Writ petition allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Udai Chandani, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri V.K. Upadhya, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ritvik Upadhya, learned counsel for the Respondent-University.

2. At the very outset, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that petitioner is confining his writ petition only to the resolution adopted by the Executive Council dated 27.09.2019 and the consequential order of Registrar dated 21.10.2019.

3. Petitioner while working as a professor in the Department of Zoology Institute of Science, Banaras Hindu University was awarded with the punishment in the nature of compulsory retirement from service vide resolution adopted by the Executive Council in its meeting held on 27.09.2019 (Item No.19) and the consequential order passed by Registrar of the University dated 21.10.2019. It is this resolution of the Executive Council and the consequential order passed by the Registrar that are put to challenge before this Court in the present petition on the ground that the Executive Council being the disciplinary authority under Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915 and the statute framed thereunder exercises a quasi judicial power and, therefore, in the absence of any provision of law permitting it to review its decision, such review was bad for want of lawful authority. Learned Senior Advocate has also placed a judgment of this Court in the case of Gajadhar Prasad Mishra vs. Vice Chancellor, University of Allahabad and others: 1966 All LJ 324 (FB):1965 SCC Online All 345.

4. Yet another argument has been advanced by learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner that even on the principle of fraud and misrepresentation as twin factors to entitle an authority to review its decision, were also not available with the respondents so as to charge the delinquent employee with fraud and misrepresentation in obtaining such an order which has been reviewed. Learned Advocate has also relied upon two authorities of Supreme Court in the case of Neelima Mishra vs. Harindar Kaur Paintal: 1990 (2) SCC 746 and Roop Singh Negi vs. Punjab National Bank and others: 2009 (2) SCC 570.

5. Sri V.K. Upadhyay, learned Senior Advocate, appearing for the University has sought to urge before the Court that matter is of such gravity involving misconduct on the part of the delinquent employee that this Court may not like to exercise its discretion in equitable jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to interfere with the order of punishment of compulsory retirement. He has further urged that in the matter of imposition of penalty in the nature of compulsory retirement more especially when the petitioner has already attained the age of 58 years, would not go on to result in any irreparable loss or injury so as to lead to any miscarriage of justice. He has also argued that continuance of such teachers in faculty is against the interest of students community especially where a large number of female students are there and even otherwise it will not be conducive to the academic environment on the campus of the University to continue such an employee any further. He submits that the punishment of compulsory retirement is factored for various reasons not necessarily a punishment but in the nature of an action which discourages such conduct on the part of the faculty and non faculty members of the University from showing this kind of conduct. In respect of his argument, learned Senior advocate, Mr. Upadhya has placed reliance on authority of Supreme Court in the case of Apparel Export Promotion Council vs. A.K. Chopra: (1999) 1 SCC 759.

6. Briefly stated facts of the case are that on the basis of complaint by students regarding his alleged misconduct in making vague remarks upon the students that escalated to the degrading and in the nature of undignified comments termed as vulgar in nature that taking recourse to the provisions of Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act of 2013') university proceeded to hold enquiry by an internal complaint committee into the charges. The internal complaint committee after holding due enquiry, submitted its report on 21.12.2018 which was served upon the petitioner by the Registrar in his letter dated 24/25.01.2019 providing him an opportunity to prefer an appeal. Petitioner preferred an appeal on 22.02.2019 contending therein that he never misused or abused his position in any manner whatsoever while dealing with the students. The entire matter was placed before the Executive Council which considered the entire material placed before it including the enquiry report and the complaints on the basis of which the enquiry under the Special Act was initiated and after deliberating upon the findings of the complaint committee the Executive Council in its wisdom and discretion thought it more appropriate to resolve to impose penalty in the nature of 'censure' only with further direction that the petitioner may not be entrusted with any such responsibilities in future. The Executive Council also resolved to observe that a teacher must ensure a proper and appropriate behaviour. Interesting to notice here that this meeting of the Executive Council was held at Vice Chancellor Lodge, BHU on 07.06.2019 with the Vice Chancellor in chair. So it was a conscious decision taken by the Executive Council with the Vice Chancellor in chair to impose penalty in the nature of censure upon the petitioner with a further resolution not to entrust him with any such task in future. The Registrar issued a consequential order on 16.07.2019 with a further order passed on 28.08.2019 that the period between 23.10.2019 and 16.07.2019 shall be treated as a period spent on duty and accordingly allowed petitioner to draw full pay and allowances for the aforesaid period after deducting the subsistence allowance.

7. It transpires that upon some representation being made by the students' union, the Vice Chancellor proceeded to refer the matter back to the Executive Council for review of its decision taken in its earlier meeting regarding imposition of penalty in the nature of censure. With the approval of Vice Chancellor the Registrar informed the petitioner about the same vide letter dated 16.09.2019 asking him to remain on leave with immediate effect until the matter is reconsidered by the Executive Council under reference order of the Vice Chancellor.

8. It is at this stage that the present petition was filed questioning the decision of the Vice Chancellor to refer the matter for reconsideration and also challenging the decision of the Executive Council dated 16.07.2019 and the consequential communication made to the petitioner on 17.07.2019. During the pendency of this petition, the Executive Council reviewed its earlier decision in its meeting held on 17.09.2019 by resolving that the petitioner shall be visited with the major penalty of compulsory retirement. This resolution adopted by the Executive Council again with the Vice Chancellor in chair, as Item No. 19. The petitioner was issued with a consequential order by the Registrar retiring him compulsorily on 21.10.2019. This resolution clearly stated the resolution of the Executive Council compulsorily retiring him was in supersession to its earlier resolution dated 16.07.2019. The petitioner amended the writ petition and challenged the resolution of the Executive Council dated 27.09.2019 as well as the consequential order passed by the Registrar dated 21.10.2019. The following admitted position emerges out in the case from the pleadings raised by the respective parties and discussions made above.

(i) Upon a proper enquiry held under the Act of 1988, the Executive Council with the Vice Chancellor in chair deliberated the entire complaint issue threadbare and the enquiry report and it is upon due consideration of the total circumspect of the case resolved to impose minor penalty of censure upon the petitioner vide resolution dated 07.06.2019, which is reproduced as under:

ITEM 11

CONSIDERED the report of the Complaints Committee to inquire into the facts of the charges levelled against Prof. Shail Kumar Chaube, Department of Zoology, Institute of Science.

The Executive Council perused the report of the Complaints Committee on the complaint of 36 students of B.Sc. (hons.), Semester V Session 2018-19, Department of Zoology, Institute of Science, Banaras Hindu University against Prof. Shail Kumar Chaube, Department of Zoology, Institute of Science for their sexual harassment by Prof. Chaube which inter-alia conclude as under:

"It needs to be remembered and recorded that it was only due to the immediate initial cognizance taken by the supreme authority of the university, Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor, in this case, even when the letteer was apparently unsigned, that the victimized students could take courage in their hands and appear before the committee to record their statements and what was revealed eventually, was not a single instance of misconduct but a series of such unworthy behaviour by the same person going continuing through a number of year."

The Executive Council also perused the representation of Prof. Shail Kumar Chaub, Department of Zoology, Institute of Science on the report of the Complaint Committee sent to him vide letter no. R/V&CS/203/2019/709 dated January 24/25, 2019 refuting the findings of the Complaint Committee and inter-alia praying the following:

"It is therefore most respectfully prayed that in the interest of justice the esteemed appellate authority may allow the present appeal and dismiss/decline the report of the Internal Complaint Committee and the suspension order of the Respondent may be revoked with immediate effect.

In the alternative it is respectfully submitted that some impartial inquiry officer may be appointed by your esteemed authority to conduct proper investigation/inquiry relating to the charges leveled against the Respondent for the proper appraisal of the case, so that a just conclusion can be drawn by your authority concerned.

It is further prayed that all the respective records consisting of documentary and electronic records may be summoned at the earliest and be kept in a safe custody till the final disposal of the present appeal from the office of Internal Complaint Committee."

After deliberating over the findings of the Complaint Committee in the matter and the points put forward in the representation of Prof. Shail Kumar

Chaub thereon in detail, the Executive Council was of the opinion that a teacher must insure a proper and appropriate behavior and conduct during his interactions with the students in the classroom or outside on an educational tour to avoid giving rise to such complaints which not only spread wrong image of the Institution but also give rise to the suspicion in the mind of students and their parents. The Executive Council therefore resolved as under:

RESOLVED THAT the acts and conduct of Prof. Shail Kumar Chaube be censured and he be not entrusted with any such responsibilities in future.

RESOLVED FURTHER THAT a proper guideline on the conduct of students and teachers and staff accompanying them on study/excursion/ visit be prepared and strictly followed by all concerned."

(ii) Upon complaint of the students' union the Vice Chancellor proceeded to refer the matter back to the Executive Council for review without putting the petitioner to notice and seeking his explanation vide resolution dated 27.09.2019, which is reproduced hereunder:

"ECR 129

CONSIDERED the order of the Vice-Chancellor for placing the matter related to the complaint of students against Professor Shail Kumar Chaube, Department of Zoology, Institute of Science, BHU before the Executive Council for review of its decision in the matter.

The Executive Council noted that some students namely Mr. Abhishek, Ms. Ranjana Saroj, Mr. Anant Shukla, Ms. Rashmi & Mr. Neeraj Rai wrote a letter dated 13.9.2019 and a joint representation dated 14.9.2019 of the same nature by some other students was made to the Vice-Chancellor. The Vice-Chancellor considered the matter and found that the matter needed review and ordered on 19.9.2019 for placing the matter before Executive Council for a review.

The Executive Council reconsidered the matter. The then Chairperson of the Internal Complaints Committee (ICC) of the University was invited in the meeting and she presented the report of the committee in the case with minute details. All aspects of the charges were inquired from her in detail and each point was clarified by her. The representations of Professor Shail Kumar Chaube to the Vice-Chancellor was also presented in the Executive Council meeting and the then Chairperson of ICC clarified on the points raised in the letter by Professor S.K. Chaube. She explained that he has given ample opportunity to defend his case and submit whatever evidences he wanted to produce before the ICC in this behalf. All such points and evidences submitted by him were considered and deliberated over by the ICC minutely before arriving at its conclusion in the matter.

After detailed deliberation in the light of the above, it was finally decided to impose the penalty of compulsory retirement on Professor S.K. Chaube as per the CCS (CCA) Rules which was considered appropriate in the case, by reviewing the earlier decision in the matter, taken vide ECR No.99 dated 07.6.2019.

RESOLVED THAT the major penalty of compulsory retirement be imposed on Professor Shail Kumar Chaube, Department of Zoology, Institute of Science, BHU as per the CCS (CCA) Rules, by reviewing the earlier decision in the matter taken vide ECR No. 99 dated 07.6.2019."

(iii) The Executive Council with the same Vice Chancellor in chair this time ignoring the suggestion of Prof. Anand Mohan Member to refer the matter for enquiry afresh proceeded to review its earlier decision and to impose major penalty of compulsory retirement.

(iv) The Executive Council did not discuss either the earlier resolution and reasons during review proceedings, nor did it refer to the contents of the letter of the Vice Chancellor by which the matter was referred to be reviewed, nor the Vice Chancellors' view has come to be discussed in the matter. It is a case of review by the Executive Council of its decision earlier taken to impose penalty of censure and replace it by major penalty of compulsory retirement and that too without any notice and opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

9. It is upon the arguments advanced by learned Senior Advocate appearing for the respective contesting parties to this lis, I find the only issue required to be addressed is whether the Executive Council would have reviewed its earlier resolution and thereby could have changed the nature of penalty from minor to major. The legal proposition with regard to the power of review is that unless and until statute or the law dealing in the field provides for power of review, no judicial or quasi judicial authority can exercise this power. Power to recall an order is of course there if the order has been obtained by fraud or misrepresentation as in such event the order would be a nullity. Similar proposition would prevail in matters of exercise of administrative authority as no order can be justified based upon fraud or forgery.

10. In view of the above proposition of law qua power of review it is to be examined i.e. as to whether the Executive Council acting as a disciplinary authority or Vice Chancellor as such exercises a quasi judicial power or administrative power.

11. The Full Bench of this Court in the case of Gajadhar Prasad Mishra v. Vice Chancellor, University of Allahabad (supra) had already answered a reference that Vice Chancellor of Allahabad University while exercising functions in reflecting punishments upon students for breach of discipline would be required to perform quasi judicial functions. The reference before full bench was thus:

"Whether the Vice-Chancellor of the Allahabad University is required to perform quasi-judicial functions in inflicting punishments upon students for breach of discipline?"

12. Thus Full Bench of this Court very categorically held that exercising disciplinary action/power by an authority would be in the nature of a quasi judicial power and not a pure administrative power as it has traces of adjudication of same issue by the authority. The Full Bench relied upon the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Calcutta Dock Labour Board v. Jafar Immam (Civil Appeal No.560 of 1964 decided on March 22, 1965) reported in 1965 (2) LLJ 112. The Court vide paragraph nos.55 and 56 referred to the judgment and made analysis thereof as under:

"55. In Calcutta Dock Labour Board v. Jaffar Imam, 1965-2 Lab LJ 112: (AIR 1966 SC 282), the Supreme Court again made reference to the decision of Lord Reid in 1964 AC 40. In this case, the question that arose for consideration was whether the Calcutta Dock Labour Board, in exercising its powers to dismiss a dock worker under Clause 36 (2) of the Scheme made by the Central Government under the Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act, 1948, was required to observe principles of natural justice or not. It may be mentioned that Clause 36(3) lays down that, before any action is taken under Clause 36 (2), the person concerned shall be given an opportunity to show cause why the proposed action should not be taken against him. Clause 36 (2) empowers the Board to take action against a registered dock worker in the reserve pool who is available for work and fails to comply with any of the provisions of the Scheme or does any act of indiscipline or misconduct and enumerates several punishments that may be inflicted. Clauses 38 and 39 provide for appeals against orders of the Board.

In this case, the Supreme Court observed:--

"There can be no doubt that when the appellant purports to exercise its authority to terminate the employment of its employees such as the respondents in the present case, it is exercising authority and power of a quasi-judicial character. In case where a statutory body or authority is empowered to terminate the employment of its employees, the said authority or body cannot be heard to say that it will exercise powers without due regard to the principles of natural justice. The nature or the character of the proceedings which such a statutory authority or body must adopt in exercising its disciplinary power for the purpose of terminating the employment of its employees, has been recently considered by this Court in several cases, vide, 1965-1 Lab LJ 433: (AIR 1965 SC 1595) and (Civil Appeal No. 764 of 1964, dated 1-3-1965: (AIR 1965 SC 1767) and it has been held that in ascertaining the nature of such proceedings with a view to decide whether the principles of natural justice ought to be followed or not, the tests laid down by Lord Reid in 1964 AC 40 are relevant in view of these decisions, Sri Sen has not disputed this position and we think, rightly."

56. This case lays down firstly, that, in taking disciplinary action against a dock worker, the Board has to act quasi judicially and, secondly, that, in determining whether an authority has to follow principles of natural Justice, the tests laid down by Lord Reid in 1964 AC 40 are relevant. There can be no doubt that from the nature of the power conferred upon an administrative body it can be inferred that it is required to observe principles of natural justice. Lord Hodson has observed in 1964 AC 40 that where a statute confers power to take action against a subject for misconduct, the authority exercising the power must observe principles of natural justice otherwise it will result in denial of justice. It is well settled that even where a statutory authority acts in a purely administrative capacity, it must act fairly; and when its action is likely to seriously affect the rights of others, it must observe principles of natural justice. But merely because an authority must observe principles of natural justice, it does not necessarily follow that it has to act quasi judicially also. In this reference, we have not to decide whether the Vice Chancellor has to observe principles of natural justice or not but whether he is required to act quasi judicially. The decision of the Supreme Court in this case, in my opinion, does not lay down that simply because an authority is empowered to take disciplinary action, it must necessarily act quasi judicially. That an authority, which is empowered to decide some question of fact and whose decision seriously affects the rights of the subject, is not necessarily required to act quasi judicially also appears from another line of decisions of the Supreme Court. In Champaklal Chimanlal Shah v. The Union of India, AIR 1964 SC 1854, it has been held that the Government may, on a report of bad work or misconduct, hold a preliminary inquiry to satisfy itself that there is reason to dispense with the services of a temporary employee or to revert him to his substantive post. Now, in such cases, the Government has to decide whether the employee is guilty of bad work or misconduct and then to take action against him which may seriously affect him, in this case and other cases, the Supreme Court has held that the Government need not give the employee an opportunity of being heard before an order terminating his service or reverting him is passed. It could not, therefore, possibly be argued that the Government was, in such cases, required to act quasi judicially, even though it had to decide a question of fact and to take action which affected the employee."

13. Ultimately the ratio laid down by the Court was in paragraph no.60 for arriving at a conclusion which runs as under:

"It is contended by the appellant that the nature of the functions exercised by the Vice-Chancellor, when taking disciplinary proceedings against a student, is identical to those exercised by the Examinations Committee taking action against an examinee and, since the Supreme Court has held that the Examinations Committee must act quasi-judicially, it must also be held that the Vice-Chancellor must equally act quasi-judicially. I am unable to agree with this. Wanchoo, J. has approved of the tests laid down by S. R. Das, J. In Advani's case, 1950 SCR 621: (AIR 1950 SC 222) and he has applied those tests to the facts of the case before him. He has not laid down any new general principle or test different from or inconsistent with that laid down and followed in the earlier decisions of the Supreme Court. This decision cannot be read as laying down a rule of law that, even where the statute or rules made thereunder do not cast a duty upon an authority to act quasi-judicially, such a duty can be inferred merely from the nature of the powers conferred upon the authority. In the facts and circumstances of that case the Supreme Court was of the view that the Examinations Committee was required to act quasi-judicially. The question cannot be decided merely on the basis of similarity of functions of the Examinations Committee and of the Vice-Chancellor but it has to be decided on the basis of the statutes and rules governing the powers of these two authorities. The provisions of the regulations made under the Intermediate Education Act regarding exercise of powers by the Examinations Committee are different from those of the Allahabad University Act and the statutes made thereunder relating to the exercise of powers by the Vice-Chancellor. The regulations cast a duty upon the Examinations Committee to take action against an examinee if it finds that certain facts specified in R. 1(1) are established. The Examinations Committee has to determine these facts objectively upon materials placed before it. The nature of the action that may be taken is also specified. On the other hand, the Allahabad University Act and the statutes made thereunder leave the matter of taking disciplinary action against a student entirely to the discretion of the Vice-Chancellor. He is not required to find whether any specified facts are established or not. Even where certain facts are established, no duty is cast upon the Vice-Chancellor to take disciplinary action. The discretion of the Vice-Chancellor is not fettered even in respect of the nature of the disciplinary action which may be taken. Therefore, the decision of the Supreme Court holding that the Examinations Committee was required to act quasi-judicially is not applicable to the present case in view of the very different provisions of the Act and the statutes which govern the exercise of powers by the Vice-Chancellor. The facts that the Vice-Chancellor may take assistance of the Proctor and of the Dean of the Students Welfare in the exercise of his disciplinary authority and that the Vice-Chancellor is required by the statutes to consult the Dean of the Students Welfare before taking disciplinary action against a student cannot have any bearing on the question whether the power is to be exercised by him quasi-judicially or not."

14. Emphasizing upon the principle behind quasi judicial power and administrative power, learned Senior Advocate has asserted that the test is to see whether there is an obligation to adopt quasi judicial approach is cast upon authority or not. It is submitted that this would be necessary ingredient for exercise of power where the justice so requires and if there is no such obligation then the order would be purely administrative. He submits that where the order requires to be passed not upon any administrative policy but to adjudicate upon an issue to evaluate the evidence to arrive at a conclusion would have traces of quasi judicial power. In Neelima Mishra's case, Supreme Court has considered this aspect of the matter vide paragraph nos. 21 and 22 thus:

"21. Prof. Wade says "A judicial decision is made according to law. An administrative decision is made according to administrative policy. A quasi-judicial function is an administrative function which the law requires to be exercised in some respects as if it were judicial. A quasi-judicial decision is, therefore, an administrative decision which is subject to some measure of judicial procedure, such as the principles of natural justice."

22. An administrative order which involves civil consequences must be made consistently with the rule expressed in the Latin Maxim audi alteram partem. It means that the decision maker should afford to any party to a dispute an opportunity to present his case. A large number of authorities are on this point and we will not travel over the field of authorities. What is now not in dispute is that the person concerned must be informed of the case against him and the evidence support thereof and must be given a fair opportunity to meet the case before an adverse decision is taken."

15. In the case of Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others:(2009) 2 SCC 570, the Court had relied upon its earlier judgment in the case of Moni Shankar v. Union of India wherein the departmental proceedings was held to be quasi judicial one. Vide paragraph nos. 17 and 18 the Court referred to the two judgments that are reproduced hereunder:

17. The departmental proceeding is a quasi judicial one. Although the provisions of the Evidence Act are not applicable in the said proceeding, principles of natural justice are required to be complied with. The Court exercising power of judicial review are entitled to consider as to whether while inferring commission of misconduct on the part of a delinquent officer relevant piece of evidence has been taken into consideration and irrelevant facts have been excluded therefrom. Inference on facts must be based on evidence which meet the requirements of legal principles. The Tribunal was, thus, entitled to arrive at its own conclusion on the premise that the evidence adduced by the department, even if it is taken on its face value to be correct in its entirety, meet the requirements of burden of proof, namely, preponderance of probability. If on such evidences, the test of the doctrine of proportionality has not been satisfied, the Tribunal was within its domain to interfere. We must place on record that the doctrine of unreasonableness is giving way to the doctrine of proportionality."

18. In Narinder Mohan Arya vs. United India Insurance Co. Ltd. & ors. (supra), whereupon both the learned counsel relied upon, this Court held:

"26. In our opinion the learned Single Judge and consequently the Division Bench of the High Court did not pose unto themselves the correct question. The matter can be viewed from two angles. Despite limited jurisdiction a civil court, it was entitled to interfere in a case where the report of the Enquiry Officer is based on no evidence. In a suit filed by a delinquent employee in a civil court as also a writ court, in the event the findings arrived at in the departmental proceedings are questioned before it should keep in mind the following: (1) the enquiry officer is not permitted to collect any material from outside sources during the conduct of the enquiry. [See State of Assam and Anr. v. Mahendra Kumar Das and Ors. [(1970) 1 SCC 709] (2) In a domestic enquiry fairness in the procedure is a part of the principles of natural justice [See Khem Chand v. Union of India and Ors. (1958 SCR 1080) and State of Uttar Pradesh v. Om Prakash Gupta (1969) 3 SCC 775]. (3) Exercise of discretionary power involve two elements (i) Objective and (ii) subjective and existence of the exercise of an objective element is a condition precedent for exercise of the subjective element. [See K.L. Tripathi v. State of Bank of India and Ors. (1984) 1 SCC 43]. (4) It is not possible to lay down any rigid rules of the principles of natural justice which depends on the facts and circumstances of each case but the concept of fair play in action is the basis. [See Sawai Singh v. State of Rajasthan (1986) 3 SCC 454] (5) The enquiry officer is not permitted to travel beyond the charges and any punishment imposed on the basis of a finding which was not the subject matter of the charges is wholly illegal. [See Director (Inspection & quality Control) Export Inspection Council of India and Ors. v. Kalyan Kumar Mitra and Ors. 1987 (2) Cal. LJ 344. (6) Suspicion or presumption cannot take the place of proof even in a domestic enquiry. The writ court is entitled to interfere with the findings of the fact of any tribunal or authority in certain circumstances.?

16. The Court also referred to another judgment in the case of M.V. Bijlani v. Union of India: (2006) 5 SCC 88 in which the Court held that the enquiry officer performed a quasi judicial function and the Court in another judgment of Jasbir Singh did not approve decision of the disciplinary authority which was not couched with the reasons. The Court held that a decision to be arrived at must be based upon some evidence which is legally admissible. Vide paragraph nos.21 and 22, the Court held thus:

"Yet again in M.V. Bijlani vs. Union of India & ors. (2006) 5 SCC 88, this Court held:

"....Although the charges in a departmental proceedings are not required to be proved like a criminal trial, i.e., beyond all reasonable doubts, we cannot lose sight of the fact that the Enquiry Officer performs a quasi-judicial function, who upon analysing the documents must arrive at a conclusion that there had been a preponderance of probability to prove the charges on the basis of materials on record. While doing so, he cannot take into consideration any irrelevant fact. He cannot refuse to consider the relevant facts. He cannot shift the burden of proof. He cannot reject the relevant testimony of the witnesses only on the basis of surmises and conjectures. He cannot enquire into the allegations with which the delinquent officer had not been charged with."

16. Yet again in Jasbir Singh vs. Punjab & Sind Bank & ors. [(2007) 1 SCC 566], this court followed Narinder Mohan Arya vs. United India Insurance Co. Ltd. & ors. (supra), stating:

"12. In a case of this nature, therefore, the High Court should have applied its mind to the fact of the matter with reference to the materials brought on records. It failed to do so."

17. Thus it is clear that the Executive Council being a disciplinary authority in the case in hand was performing a quasi judicial function while deliberating upon an enquiry report and adopting a resolution to impose punishment upon the petitioner under the relevant Act and rules.

18. It is admitted to the parties that University being Central University has approved CCS (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1965 (CCS Rules) that provide for different penalties, both minor and major. Vide paragraph 8 of the counter affidavit it has been stated that 'the disciplinary proceeding was initiated under Rule 14 of CCS(CCA) Rules, 1965 against the petitioner'. Rule 11 prescribes minor as well as major penalties. Vide Clause VII of Rule 11, compulsory retirement has been prescribed as major penalty.

19. Now coming to Rule 14 of CCS Rules that lays down procedure for imposition of major penalty upon the employees, it provides for a detailed enquiry to be held evaluating both oral and documentary evidence led before the enquiry officer and pursuant to the enquiry report led before the disciplinary authority, it is to take action thereupon to punish or not to punish the delinquent employee.

20. Rule 15 of CCS Rules provides procedure for taking action on the enquiry report which prescribes opportunity of representation being afforded to the delinquent employee in respect of the proposed action and then Rule 17 thereof prescribes for communication of the order/decision taken by the disciplinary authority in the matter.

21. I do not see any provision contained under the CCS Rules that provides for review of the decision taken by the disciplinary authority suo moto as has been done in the present case. Thus the disciplinary authority in the matter of imposition of punishment after due enquiry held, in the absence of provision to review its decision and to change penalty from minor to major cannot be justified and deserves to be quashed.

22. Before testing the resolutions in question passed by the Executive Council, it is also necessary here to refer to the relevant provisions of the Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915 (hereinafter referred to as 'University's Act, 1915') and the statute framed thereunder. Section 6 of the University's Act 1915 which provides for different Officers of the University runs as under:

"6. The following shall be the officers of the University, namely :-

- (a) The Chancellor*
- (b) The Vice-Chancellor*
- (c) The Rector*
- (d) The Registrar*
- (e) The Finance Officer*
- (f) The Deans of Faculties*
- (h) The Librarian*
- (i) The Chief Proctor*
- (j) such other persons in the* service of the University as may be declared by the Statutes to be the officers of the University."

(Emphasis added)

23. Section 7 (c)(1) provides the Vice Chancellor to be Principle Executive and Academic Officer of the University and Section 7 (c)(2) provides him to be ex officio Chairman of the Executive Council. Section 7(c)(3) vests general power of Superintendence with the Vice Chancellor and Section 7(c)(5) vest with the Vice Chancellor an extra ordinary power to take action in any emergency which may ex post facto be approved by the authority namely, the Executive Council or the Visitor as the case may be. Relevant Section 7 (c)(1)(2)(3) and (5) are reproduced hereunder:

"7C. Powers and duties of Vice-Chancellor

(1) The Vice-Chancellor who shall be the principal executive and academic officer of the University, shall take rank next to the Chancellor and shall exercise general supervision and control over the affairs of the University and give effect to the decisions of its authorities.

(2) The Vice-Chancellor shall be the ex-officio Chairman of the Executive Council, the Academic Council, and the Finance Committee and shall, in the absence of the Chancellor, preside at any convocation of the University for conferring degrees and also at any meeting of the Court; he shall be entitled to be present at and to address any meeting of any authority or board or a committee of the University but shall not be entitled to vote there at unless he is a member of such authority or board or committee.

(3) It shall be the duty of the Vice-Chancellor to see that the provisions of this Act, the Statutes, the Ordinances and the Regulations are duly observed.

(5) If, in the opinion of the Vice-Chancellor, any emergency has arisen which requires immediate action to be taken, the Vice-Chancellor shall take such action as he deems necessary and shall report the same for approval at the next meeting to the authority which, in the ordinary course, would have dealt with the matter :

Provided that, if the action taken by the Vice-Chancellor is not approved by the authority concerned, he may refer the matter to the Visitor, whose decision thereon shall be final:

Provided further that, where any such action taken by the Vice-Chancellor affects any person in the service of the University, such person shall be entitled to prefer, within thirty days from the date on which he receives notice of such action, an appeal to the executive Council."

(Emphasis added)

24. Section 8A provides for various authorities of the University which includes Executive Council. Section 8A is reproduced hereunder:

"The following shall be the authorities of the University, namely:

(a) The Court,

(b) The Executive Council,

(c) The Academic Council,

(d) (Omitted)

(e) The Finance Committee,

(f) The Faculties,

(g) such other authorities as may be declared by the Statutes to be the authorities of the University."

(Emphasis added)□

25. Section 10 (1) gives all the administrative powers relating to management and administration of the properties of the University and administrative affairs of the University as a chief executive body of the University and further Section 10 (2) provides that the Executive Council shall exercise such powers and perform such duties as may be conferred upon it by the statutes or the ordinances. Section 10 (1) and (2) are reproduced hereunder:

"10. (1) The Executive Council shall, subject to the control of the Visitor, be the executive body of the University and shall have charge of the management and administration of the revenue and property of the University and the conduct of all administrative affairs of the University not otherwise provided for.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Executive Council shall exercise such other powers and perform such other duties as may be conferred or imposed on it by the Statutes or the Ordinances."

26. Section 16 (b)(1) provides for conditions of service of officers and teachers of the University. However, the provisions deal with only the contract of employment between the teacher/employees with the University and any dispute being raised, the same would be adjudicated by the Tribunal of arbitration whose decisions would be final.

27. Section 18 (1) of the Universities Act provides for framing of the ordinances in relation to various matters including the emoluments and terms and conditions of service of the employees of the University. Section 18 (1) (k) is reproduced hereunder:

"18.(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and the Statutes, the Ordinances may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely :-

(k) the emoluments and terms and conditions of service of employees of the University;"

28. Section 19 (1) of the Act also authorizes University to make regulations consistent with the Act, Statutes and Ordinances in respect of all such matters which are covered by the Act, Statutes or the Ordinances. Statute 31 of the Act of 1915 vests final power with the executive council of the University to remove a teacher on the ground of misconduct. It also provides the procedure as per which the power is to be exercised. Statute 31 is reproduced hereunder:

"31. Removal of Teachers

(a) Where there is an allegation of misconduct against a teacher, the Vice-Chancellor may, if he thinks fit, by order in writing, place the teacher under suspension and shall forthwith report to the Executive Council the circumstances in which the order was made :

Provided that the Executive Council may, if it is of the opinion, that the circumstances of the case do not warrant the suspension of the teacher, revoke that order.

(b) Notwithstanding anything contained in the terms of his contract of service or of his appointment, the Executive Council shall be entitled to remove a teacher on the ground of misconduct.

(c) Save as aforesaid, the Executive Council shall not be entitled to remove a teacher except for good cause and after giving three months' notice in writing or payment of three months' salary in lieu of notice.

(d) No teacher shall be removed under clause (b) or under clause (c) until he has been given a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against the action proposed to be taken in regard to him.

(e) The removal of a teacher shall require a two-thirds majority of the members of the Executive Council present and voting.

(f) The removal of a teacher shall take effect from the date on which the order of removal is made : Provided that where a teacher is under suspension at the time of his removal, the removal shall take effect on the date on which he was placed under suspension.

(g) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Statutes, the employees of the University, being a teacher shall be entitled to resign :

(i) in the case of the permanent teacher only after giving three months' notice in writing to the appointing authority or paying to the University three months' salary in lieu thereof.

(ii) in any other case, only after giving one months' notice in writing to the appointing authority or paying to the University one months' salary in lieu thereof."

(Emphasis added)

29. Upon bare reading of the provisions as contained under Statute 31, I find that suspension power of the Vice Chancellor is subject to ratification by the Executive Council under Clause (a). Clause (b) provides power with the Executive Council to remove a teacher on the ground of misconduct.

30. However Clause (c) provides that such power would be exercised only for a good cause. Clause (c) vest with the power of the Executive Council to remove a teacher for good cause with three month's notice or payment of three months salary in advance.

31. Clause (d) very specifically provides that power under Clause (b) and (c) would be exercised after giving reasonable opportunity of show cause in respect of the proposed action to be taken by the Executive Council.

32. Clause (e) provides that 2/3rd majority of the members present and voting in the Executive Council will be necessary to adopt a resolution in regard to removal.

33. Similarly clause (g) entitles a teacher to submit his voluntary resignation with three months' notice in advance or payment of three month's salary in lieu thereof.

34. In case of permanent teacher and in case of any other teacher only one month's notice or salary thereof would be sufficient to render voluntary resignation. Thus it is clear that whenever the University proposes to remove a person from employment on the ground of misconduct, he would be entitled to opportunity of show cause in respect to the decision taken. On the question of punishment to a teacher for misconduct, it is stated that the provisions as contained under Central Civil Services Rules would apply.

35. Now coming to the facts of this case I find that when the first resolution was adopted by the Executive Council with Vice Chancellor in chair, the University threadbare discussed the complaints committee report on the complaint of 36 students and also the representation of professor Salil Kumar Chaube (petitioner) in the matter of complaint and then after holding due deliberation to which the Vice Chancellor himself was a party resolved that a teacher must ensure a proper and appropriate behavior and conduct during his interactions with the students in the classroom or even outside on an educational tour to avoid giving rise to such complaints and thus thought it more appropriate in its wisdom to impose a minor penalty of censure and further to relieve him from any such responsibilities in future like taking tour of the students outside. But soon after the petitioner was reinstated revoking the suspension order or holding him entitled for salary etc. under the order issued on behalf of the University on 28/29 August, 2019 upon some complaint of the University students' union the Vice Chancellor proceeded to refer the matter to the Executive Council back for a review. The order issued by the Registrar does mention the decision taken by the Vice Chancellor as an executive head of the University but does not mention as to why and under what considerations the Vice Chancellor decided to refer the matter to the Executive Council for review. The order passed by the Registrar dated 16.09.2010 is reproduced hereunder:

"This is in continuation to this office order No. R/V & CS/2019/203/1171-1181 dated 16-07-2019 whereby the penalty 'Censure' was imposed upon you as per decision of the Executive Council vide ECR No.99 dated 07.06.2019.

On reconsideration of the aforesaid decision with regards to the nature of the charges, it has been decided to review the matter. This issue is therefore being referred to the Executive Council for the review of the decision.

In view of the above, I am directed to inform you that till the time the matter is reconsidered by the Executive Council you shall remain on leave with immediate effect.

This issues under the approval of the Vice Chancellor."

36. From the recitals contained in the letter/order of the Registrar directing the petitioner to proceed on leave vide letter dated 16.09.2019 does not ask the petitioner to furnish any explanation or representation in that regard. As a matter of fact this order of the Registrar was not preceded with any notice much less a show cause notice to the petitioner.

37. Again I find that the resolution adopted by the Executive Council was again chaired by the same Vice Chancellor on 27.09.2019 but it does not discuss the reasons for which it had earlier taken stand were not sufficient and warranted a review, nor does the resolution discuss the letter of the Vice Chancellor or reasons assigned therein for review of the earlier resolution. The Executive Council has not even issued a notice much less a show cause as required under Statute 31 (d) or under the CCS Rules before firing him by way of compulsory retirement from the University. The entire counter affidavit is silent about that and therefore, in my considered view resolution adopted by the Executive Council now impugned in the present writ petition is liable to be quashed on this ground alone.

38. Here it is pertinent to notice that petitioner was not compulsorily retired for any such reason that he had become deadwood and University did not want to continue him on some report of expert Committee that his services were no more required, instead, here is a case where an employee is being fired by way of compulsory retirement for a mis-conduct, a disciplinary action for being indicted in enquiry and by way of major penalty under CCS Rules. So notice of proposed punishment was a must.

39. Coming to the main argument advanced by learned Senior Advocate for the petitioner that the Executive Council being the disciplinary authority exercised quasi judicial function and, therefore, in the absence of any provision under the Act or the Statute of the University could not have reviewed its decision, I proceed to find answer to this from two angles:

(A) Whether the Executive Council exercises quasi judicial function and so in the absence of provision could not have reviewed its earlier resolution.

(B) Even assuming that power was administrative in nature or exercised of it to review its decision was in the interest of the institution as the earlier resolution suffered from vice of due application of mind to the records available before it.

40. In so far as point A is concerned, the legal proposition as has emerged out from the judgments cited hereinabove in this judgment, the Executive Council admittedly being the disciplinary authority under the relevant statute and having also the power to rectify the Act of the Vice Chancellor, in the matter of suspension, the Executive Council would be taken to be the sole disciplinary authority to be exercising quasi judicial function. Neither the provisions contained under the Universities Act, 2015 nor the relevant provisions contained under the statute of the University discussed above do provide any power with the Executive Council to review its decision taken under Statute 31 nor does the Vice Chancellor can be said to be enjoying any such power over and above the power already exercised by the Executive Council.

41. I may hasten to add here that original Act, 1915 did not provide for compulsory retirement by way of punishment and if taken it as removal as the same has been imposed in the instant case, it must have preceded with proper notice. However, that stage is gone. Since there is no power available to review a penalty imposed, it was beyond competence of Executive Council of the University to have resisted its penalty.

42. Thus, no reference could have been made by the Vice Chancellor to the Executive Council to review its decision already taken under Statute 31 of the statutes and I do not see any such power being vested with the Vice Chancellor under Section 7(c) of the Universities Act, 2015. As ex officio Chairman of the Executive Council the only duty of the Vice Chancellor is to see that provisions of the Act, the statutes and the ordinances and regulations are duly observed in discharge of function by the Executive Council and to convene its meeting only for carrying out the provisions of the Act, Statute and the Ordinances.

43. In the circumstances, therefore the very letter of the Registrar referring the matter to the Executive Council for review was per se bad for want of lawful authority as no such provision as contained under the entire University Act and the first statute of the University which may have required its performance and for which the Vice Chancellor can be said to have been compelled to make such reference on a mere letter of the students union. In the circumstances, therefore, the Executive Council's decision being final under statute 31, there being no power to reconsider or revisit the decision the Executive Council having exercise quasi judicial function in imposing penalty may be minor in nature it could not have reviewed its decision by convening another meeting. Thus, the impugned resolution adopted by the University dated 27.09.2019 and the consequential order passed by the Registrar with the approval of the Vice Chancellor dated 21.10.2019 is liable to be quashed. Point 'A' thus stands answered accordingly.

44. Coming to point 'B' on the score of exercise of administrative power or the power in larger public interest or in the interest of the institution, in my considered view such a power could have been exercised only in the event the earlier resolution passed by the University was based upon any mis-representation or forgery in the documents. The deliberations of the Executive Council in its meeting held on 27.09.2023 do not refer to any such mis-representation or fraud committed at the end of any authority or person which could be said to have mislead it earlier in inflicting minor punishment and, therefore, the conclusion drawn by it and the decision arrived by it was void and so warranted reconsideration or review. The deliberations in the earlier meeting are more exhaustive touching the complaints etc. and the findings of the complaint committee whereas the second resolution which was again chaired by the same Vice Chancellor does not discuss at all any such thing.

45. As a matter of fact while the Executive Council was deliberating upon the reference of the Vice Chancellor for review, it was required to discuss threadbare as to why the earlier decision taken by it to impose penalty of 'censure' was bad and why the petitioner deserved major penalty. Even the letter of the Vice Chancellor has not been brought on record in the counter affidavit by which the reference for review was made. This letter also does not find reference in the order of the Registrar dated 16.09.2019 according to which the matter was to be placed before the Executive Council for review of its earlier decision. The question could be whether this power could be exercised by the Executive Council suo moto, in my considered view such a power is not vested with the Executive Council for the purposes of review of nature of penalty. Once the penalty has been imposed by the disciplinary authority in administrative law, such a penalty can be altered or modified only in appeal or revision by the higher authority. The service jurisprudence does not vest any power with the disciplinary authority to keep on changing the nature of penalty suo moto, more especially when the matter becomes subjudice before a Court of law as has been in the case in hand. The present writ petition was pending when the Executive Council proceeded to review its earlier decision.

46. The decision cited by Mr. Upadhyaya on the question of interference by this Court in the matter of sexual harassment, looking to the exceptional cases of misconduct for which the special law has been enacted, suffice it to say that Court would certainly be not interfering in the matter of nature of penalty or quantum of punishment. There is no quarrel about the principle that the Courts or Tribunal would not become the disciplinary authority to embark upon an enquiry into the sufficiency of evidence so as to judge the nature of penalty. It is, of course, the sole discretion of the disciplinary authority to decide in the given facts and circumstances and the material before it what kind of penalty should be imposed.

47. Mr. Upadhyaya is right in arguing that the power of judicial review cannot be stretched to test the quantum of punishment and only thing that has to be examined, is the decision making process and compliance with the principles of natural justice and fairness etc. The Court would certainly not be substituting its opinion or view over and above opinion of the disciplinary authority. However, I find this case to be one where the power did not lay with the authority to review a punishment and, therefore, the decision taken by the Executive Council was per se bad. Once the proposition of law has been laid down by this Court that a disciplinary authority exercises a quasi judicial function in the matter of disciplinary proceedings and imposition of penalty, any attempt to circumvent the proposition by such authority would certainly lead to miscarriage of justice. Wherever there is miscarriage of justice, the power of Judicial Review would intervene and the Court would ensure that no authority exercises any power in the name of statute which does not vest in it any such power especially in the circumstances where such exercise of power results in adverse civil consequences. This is one such case. Point 'B' is decided accordingly.

48. In view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The resolution adopted by the Executive Council dated 27.09.2019 is hereby quashed. The consequential order to the resolution passed by the Registrar dated 21.10.2019 is also hereby quashed.

49. Petitioner shall be reinstated in service and shall be paid salary regularly including the entire arrears of salary for the period he has remained out of job for the impugned resolution adopted by the Executive Council and the consequential order passed by the Registrar.

50. However, since there is no challenge to the earlier resolution adopted by the University dated 07.06.2019, the same shall stand and so also the consequential order passed by the Registrar dated 16.07.2019 shall stand and shall be implemented accordingly.

51. There will be no order as to cost.

5. After the recruitment, the petitioners joined and they are continuously working on their respective posts up till date. He submits that by means of option letter dated 17.07.2002, the classification of institution was resolved/decided to run the institution for two levels and the option indicated in the letter dated 17.07.2002, shows that the state Government approved/recognized two sections uptill Prathama to Uttar Madhyama section and this was segregated from Graduate and Post Graduate sections i.e. Shastri and Acharya and thereafter, the petitioners became employees of the intermediate section by virtue of operation of the Act, 2000, but once they sought payment of salary from the State Exchequer, their claims were rejected while giving the reasons that since they are not duly appointed, therefore, and their appointments are irregular.

6. Further contention of learned counsel for the petitioners is that since section 25 of the Act, 2000 itself speaks that 'Subject to provision of this Act, the head of the institution and teachers and other employees of an institution shall be appointed in accordance with the regulation'.

7. Referring the aforesaid provision, the counsel for the petitioners submits that since the regulation is admittedly came in to the existence on 15.01.2010 and the appointments which were done likewise appointments of the petitioners from the date of promulgation of the Act, 2000 and up till the promulgation of the regulation in year 2010, the State has denied to make payment of salary to such appointments. He added that the aforesaid view is not justified as the petitioners were appointed to impart education by duly constituted selection committee and further since, there was no regulation came into effect uptill 2010, therefore, the only source remains for appointment in such institution with respect to Teaching and Non-Teaching Staff was Committee of Management, having administrative control over the institution concerned.

8. He further argued that it is not the case, where there is any denial with respect to the appointment by the Committee of Management, but the reasons for denial of payment of salary is that the source of appointment is not as per the law. He submits that in fact the question arises that once the provision of section 25 of the Act, 2000 itself, speaks that the appointment of teachers and other employees of institution shall be done in accordance with the regulations and the regulations do not come into existence uptill 2010, then the students cannot be thrown to suffer, therefore, the only mechanism of appointment was, by the Committee of Management.

9. Adding his arguments, he submits that in the identically situated circumstances, the coordinate bench of this Court in case of Shiva Kant Mishra and others versus State of U.P. and others in Writ Petition No. 8253 (SS) of 2007 passed the judgment and order on 05.05.2009, for taking decision with respect to payment of salary from the State Exchequer, whereafter, the State Government took decision and those petitioners are being paid salary. He next submits that not only to this, but the ratio of judgment and order was also followed in the subsequent judgment in the case of Sushil Kumar Pandey and 13 others versus State of U.P. and others in Writ Petition No. 6520 (SS) of 2013 and the order was passed on 12.11.2013, whereafter, the same was complied with vide order dated 17.01.2017, by the State Government and all those petitioners/employees are also getting salary from the State Exchequer. Further submits that the case of the present petitioners are ditto identical to the case of those petitioners and therefore, they are also entitled for the same relief.

10. Concluding his arguments, he submits that the reasons which are assigned for non-payment of salary to the petitioners from State Exchequer is infact shows that the there is non-application of mind and the exigency which has arisen, after the promulgation of the Act, 2000 and uptill regulation in 2010 came into existence therefore, submission is that the impugned order dated 18.12.2019 may be quashed and the opposite parties may be directed to make payment of salary to the petitioners from the State Exchequer.

11. On the other hand, Sri Vivek Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing counsel for the State has refuted the aforesaid contention of counsel for the petitioners, vehemently and submitted that the Act, 2000 is very clear in its terms as section 25 provides the mechanism with respect to the appointment of Teaching and Non-Teaching Staff of such institutions.

12. Submission is that in fact the regulation came into existence in year 2010 and therefore, any appointment contrary to the regulation is always against the law and therefore, such employees are not entitled for any salary from the State exchequer. He added that those teaching and non-teaching employees, appointed by Committee of Management are liable to be paid from its own resources. He submits that the settled proposition of law is that if, there is specific provision in the Act with respect to anything to be done in a particular manner that is to be done in a particular manner not otherwise.

13. Further contention is that so far as the judgment and order passed in the Writ Petition No. 8253 (SS) of 2007 as well as the judgment and order passed in Writ No. 6520 (SS) of 2013 are concerned, in both the orders, it was left open to the State to take decision and no ratio is drawn thereof, and therefore, the petitioners could not seek any benefit of ratio of judgments as above-said, thus, submitted that the order dated 18.12.2019 does not suffer from any illegality and therefore, no interference is warranted.

14. It is replied in rejoinder by counsel for the petitioners that in writ petition no. 8253/SS/2007, the same objection was also raised and considering that objection, this Court passed the order and that is complied with by the State, thus, the objection is unsustainable.

15. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of material placed on record, it emerges that the consequence of the bifurcation of the institution in two sections i.e. one section is education up to Uttar Madhyamik and the other up to Acharya and Sastri level and the Teaching and Non-Teaching Staff of the institution existing prior to its division was transferred to the section of the institution, imparting education upto Acharya and Sastri level and no teachers or employees were left for working in the school in the section, imparting the Sankrit Education up to Uttar Madhyamik level. Under aforesaid compelling circumstances the appointment of the petitioner was done to impart the education.

16. It is undisputed that prior to the bifurcation, the institution was receiving grant in aid from the State Government and the Teaching and Non-Teaching staff working in the section of institution imparting education upto Sastri and Acharya level is being paid by the State Government and the counsel for the State could not substantiate that the payment of salary of Teachers and Employees of the institution imparting education upto Uttar Madhyamik is governed by the payment of Salaries Act, 1971 and further he has failed to bring any material on record that any regulation framed by the Board under the Act, 2000.

17. Undisputedly, the institution was established in year 1978 for imparting education from class VI (Prathama) to post graduate (Acharya) level and it was affiliated to Sampurnanand University, Varanasi and it was receiving in aid, but once it is bifurcated in between Uttar Madhyamik and Acharya and Sastri level vide the Act, 2000, but uptill 2010, no regulation was framed and under the compelling circumstances, the committee of management for imparting the education running the institution appointed the Teachers and it is not in dispute that Teachers who were appointed are not imparting education, but they are not getting their salary from State Exchequer. It is also a fact that after the bifurcation, the Teaching and Non-Teaching Staff of the institution which is running the Acharya and Sastri Level, they are getting salary from State Exchequer.

18. This Court is also not unmindful to the judgment and order dated 05.05.2009 passed in Writ Petition No. 8253 (SS) 2007, wherein, it has categorically been held that those petitioners were appointed under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 32 of 2000 and the direction was given to the State to take necessary decision on the representation wherein, the claim of the payment of salary was made and as a result, the representation were decided infavour of those petitioners and they are getting salary from State Exchequer.

19. Further, in judgment and order dated 12.11.2013, passed in Writ Petition No. 6520 (SS) of 2013 (Sushil Kumar Pandey and 13 other versus State of U.P. and others), the benefit granted in the writ petition no. 8253(SS) of 2007 was also accorded to the aforesaid petitioners and the same was also complied with vide the order dated 17.01.2017 and they are also getting payment of salary.

20. So far section 25 read with 2(F) of the U.P. Board of Secondary Sanskrit Education, Act 2000 is concerned that specifically provides the procedure with respect to the appointment of the Head of the Institution and Teachers and other employees in accordance with the regulations.

21. The provisions with respect to framing of the regulation, envisaged under section 21 and 22 of the 'Act, 2000', whereby, the Board was empowered to make regulations with the previous approval of the State Government, while publishing it in the Gazette and the same could be approved with or without the modification by the State Government.

22. Section 2(f), 21, 22, 25 and 26 of the 'Act 2000' are quoted herein under:-

2(f) "Institution" means a Sanskrit school imparting Sanskrit education upto Uttar Madhayama recognized by the Board;

21- (1) The Board may make regulations for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing powers, the Board may make regulations providing for all or any of the following matters, namely :-

(a) constitution, powers and duties of committees and sub-committees;

(b) the conferment of diplomas and certificates;

(c) the conditions of recognition of intuitions;

(d) the course of study to be laid down for all certificates and diplomas.

(e) the conditions under which candidates shall be admitted to the examinations of the Board and shall be eligible for diplomas and certificates;

(f) the fees for admission to the examination of the Board;

(g) the conduct of examinations;

(h) the appointment of examiners, moderators, collators, scrutinisers, tabulators, centre inspectors, Superintendents of Centers and invigilators and their duties and Powers in relation to the Board's examinations and the rates of their remuneration;

(i) the admission of institutions to the privileges of recognition and the withdrawal of recognition;

(j) all matters which are to be, or may be, provided for by regulations.

22- (1) Regulations under section 21 shall be made only with the previous approval of the State Government and shall be published in the Gazette.

(2) The State Government may approve any such regulation proposed by the Board with or without modification.

25- Subject to the provision of this Act, the Head of institution and teachers and other employees of an institution shall be appointed in accordance with the regulations.

26- (1) Every person employed in an institution shall be governed by such conditions of service as may be prescribed by regulations and any agreement between the Management and such employees in so far as it is inconsistent with the provisions of this Act or with the regulations, shall be void.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the powers conferred by sub-section (1) the regulations may provide for, -

(a) the code of conduct, the period of probation, the conditions of confirmation and the procedure and the procedure and conditions for promotion and punishment including suspension pending or in contemplation of inquiry or during the pendency of investigation, inquiry or trial in any criminal case for an offence involving moral turpitude and the emoluments for the period of suspension and termination of service with notice;

(b) the scales of pay and payment of salaries;

(c) transfer of service from one recognized institution to another;

(d) grant of leave and provident fund and other benefits; and

(e) maintenance of record of work and service.

(3) (a) No Head of institution or teacher may be discharged or removed or dismissed from service or reduced in rank or subjected to any diminution in emoluments, or served with notice of termination of service except with the prior approval in writing of the Regional Joint Director.

(b) Regional Joint Director may approve or disapprove or reduce or chance the punishment or approve or disapprove of the notice for termination of service proposed by the Management;

Provided that in the cases of punishment, before passing order, the Regional Joint Director shall give, an opportunity to the Head of institution or the teacher to show cause within a fortnight of the receipt of the notice why the proposed punishment should not be inflicted.

(c) Any party may prefer an appeal to the Director against an order of the Regional Joint Director under clause (b) within one month from the date of communication of the order to that party and the Director may, after such further enquiry as he considers necessary, confirm, set-aside or modify the order and the order passed by the Director shall be final.

(4) No Head of institution or teacher shall be suspended by the Management, unless in the opinion of the Management, -

(a) the charges against him are serious enough to merit his dismissal, removal or reduction in rank; or

(b) his continuance in office is likely to hamper or prejudice the conduct of disciplinary proceedings against him; or

(c) any criminal case for an offence involving moral turpitude against him is under investigation, enquiry or trial.

(5) Where any Head of institution or teacher is suspended by the Committee of Management it shall be reported to the Regional Joint Director within seven days from the date of order of suspension and the report shall contain such particulars as may be prescribed by regulations and accompanied by all relevant documents.

(6) No such order of suspension shall, unless approved in writing by the Regional Joint Director, remain in force, for more than sixty days from the date of such order and the order of the Regional Joint Director shall be final and shall not be questioned in any court.

(7) If at any time the Regional Joint Director is satisfied that disciplinary proceedings against the Head of institution or teacher are being delayed for no fault of the Head of institution or the teacher, the Regional Joint Director may after affording opportunity to the Management to make representation, revoke any order of suspension passed under this section."

23. Bare reading of the provisions, indicates that a mechanism was proposed to be developed for appointment of teaching and non-teaching staff of such institution by way of framing regulations, but about ten years nothing was done and therefore, looking into the exigency of imparting education to the students, the appointments are done.

24. I have also noticed that the opposite parties have failed to establish that the present matter is not identical to the petitioners of the writ petition no. 8253/SS/2007 and writ petition no. 6250/SS/2013.

25. This Court is also aware about the order passed in Special Appeal No. 122 of 2010, wherein, the Division Bench of this Court has also directed that the petitioners of Writ Petition No. 8253/SS/2007, shall be paid salary as per the order passed by the Learned Single Judge.

26. The order passed in Special Appeal No. 122 of 2010 and Special Appeal No. 80 of 2010, is quoted hereinunder:-

Order (Oral)

Application with affidavit of apology filed in Court is taken on record.

Learned counsel for respondents prays for and is granted a week's time to file reply to the application.

Operation of further proceedings towards the charge drawn for committing contempt of this Court shall remain deferred till the next date of hearing.

These two Special Appeals namely Special Appeal No.84 of 2010 and Special Appeal No.122 of 2010 arise out of judgments and orders passed by learned Single Judges in Writ Petition No.8253 (SS) of 2007 (dated 5.5.2009) and Contempt Petition No.2111 of 2009 (dated 16.03.2010) respectively. The main reason that has given rise to these litigations seems to be the operative portion of the order passed by learned Single Judge in the Writ Petition. Last two paragraphs of the said judgment, on reproduction, would read as:

".....It is not in dispute that the Section of the Institution imparting education upto Shastri and Acharya level is receiving grant-in-aid from the State Government and the salaries, of the teaching and non-teaching staff of that Section of the Institution is being paid by the State Government. The State Government by its Office Memorandum dated 20.02.2004 had granted permission to the Management of the Institution to run classes upto Acharya and Shastri level and Uttar Madhyama level subject to the conditions mentioned in the said Office Memorandum and Management of the Institution having fulfilled all the conditions mentioned in the Office Memorandum dated 20.02.2004, the State Government is bound to make payment of the petitioners' salary. The submission made by the learned counsel for the opposite parties that the State Government is not liable to pay the petitioners' salary for the reason that the posts against which the petitioners have been appointed have not been sanctioned by the opposite party No.5 is totally misconceived and unacceptable. The petitioners have been appointed under the provisions of U.P. Act No.32 of 2000, which is self contained Act and there is nothing in the Act which may indicate that the provisions of Payment of Salary Act, 1971 shall apply to the persons appointed as Assistant Teachers in the Institution imparting education upto Uttar Madhyama for the purpose of payment of their salary. Since the State Government is paying salary of the teachers and the non-teaching employees working in the section of the Institution in which education upto Acharya and Shastri level is being imparted, the State Government, in my opinion, cannot deny its liability to make payment of the petitioners' salary w.e.f. the date of their appointments.

In the result, the writ petition is finally disposed of with a direction to the opposite parties No.1 to 5 to take necessary decision on the representations dated 23.10.2007 submitted by the Manager of Srimat Param Hans Sanskrit Mahavidyalaya Tikarmafi, Sultanpur (Annexures No.4 to 8 to the writ petition) and on the petitioners' claim for payment of their salary from the date of their respective appointments in the Institution in the light of the observations made hereinabove and in accordance with law within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order."

As the learned Single Judge rejected the arguments of learned counsel for State and concluded by expressing opinion inter alia that the State Government cannot deny its liability to make payment of petitioners' salary from the date of their appointments, then perhaps there was no reason to direct the State to consider the representation.

The earlier Secretary, Secondary Education, Sri Jitendra Kumar while deciding the representation proceeded in the ignorance of the above findings which though the Court has referred as observations are in the nature of mandate of the judgment.

Thus, we hold that irrespective of rejection of representation submitted by the Manager dated 23.10.2007 by the Secretary, the teachers and non teaching staff as directed vide the impugned judgment, would be entitled to get their salary. Nonetheless we cannot ignore the apathy of the State as well as the Union of India towards the institutions which are imparting education in Sanskrit, It appears that the State as well as the Central Government has forgotten the theme and mandate as contained in Article 351 of the Constitution. The said Article on reproduction would read as:

"351. Directive for development of the Hindi language.- It shall be the duty of the Union to promote the spread of the Hindi language, to develop it so that it may serve as a medium of expression for all the elements of the composite culture of India and to secure its enrichment by assimilating without interfering with its genius, the forms, style and expressions used in Hindustani and in the other languages of India specified in the Eighth Schedule, and by drawing, wherever necessary or desirable, for its vocabulary, primarily on Sanskrit and secondarily on other languages"

Accordingly, we issue notice to the Secretary, Human Resources, Government of India, to file reply as to why the Central Government has not made provision for grant in aid or some similar type of financial help to such institutions in the light of mandate of the Article as aforesaid.

Let the reply be filed by the Central Government as well as the State through their Secretaries before the next date of hearing.

Issuance of this notice is necessitated in the light of grouse that for the past many years after bifurcation of this institution, it has not been provided sufficient number of teachers and non teaching staff in the absence of grant in aid.

List on 05.03.2013.

27. Referring the aforesaid, he submits that the Hon'ble Division Bench has held that irrespective of rejection of representation submitted by the Manager, the teacher and non-teaching staff would be entitled to get their salary and it has also been observed that 'nonetheless we cannot ignore the apathy of the State as well as Union of India towards the institution which are imparting education in Sanskrit.'

28. It is noteworthy that the petitioners of the aforesaid writ petitions are getting salary from the State-Exchequer as the State has taken decision positively on the claim raised by those petitioners. The case of the present petitioners are ditto identical to those petitioners of writ petition no. 8253 of 2007 and thus, the present petitioners are entitled for same relief.

29. In view of the above-said submissions and discussions, the Writ Petition is hereby allowed.

30. The State Government i.e. opposite party no. 1 is hereby directed to consider and decide the claim of the petitioners regarding their payment of salary, in light of the judgment and orders dated 05.05.2009 passed in Writ Petition No. 8253 (SS) 2007 (Shiva Kant Mishra and others versus State of U.P. and others) and order dated 12.11.2013 passed in Writ Petition No. 6520 (SS) of 2013 (Sushil Kumar Pandey and 13 others versus State of U.P. and others) and the benefit of the said judgments shall also be extended to the present petitioners, within a period of eight weeks, from the date of certified copy of this order produced before it.

31. Needless to say that identical question is subjudice in Special Appeal No. 122 of 2010 connected with Special Appeal No. 80 of 2010 and therefore, the decision taken by the State Government shall be subject matter of final outcome of the special appeals.

This writ petition is directed against an order dated 16.11.2022 passed by the Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow¹, punishing the petitioner, an Executive Engineer, with a censure and withholding of two increments with cumulative effect. Also under challenge is an appellate order dated 26.07.2023 passed by the Board of Directors of the Corporation, rejecting the petitioner's departmental appeal against the punishment awarded by the Chairman of the Corporation.

2. The succinct facts giving rise to this petition are that the petitioner was selected by the Uttar Pradesh Electricity Service Commission and appointed a Sub-Divisional Officer on 23.05.2012 in the employ of the Corporation. The petitioner was promoted to the post of an Executive Engineer in due course. He is currently posted in the District of Varanasi. The petitioner was earlier posted at Prayagraj during the years 2020-21. At the time he was posted at Prayagraj, an order dated 24.07.2021 was issued by the Managing Director of the Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Varanasi², directing the petitioner, who then held charge as the Executive Engineer, Electricity Stores Division, Prayagraj, to physically verify the work being done under the Asian Development Bank Project in fifteen villages of District Pratapgarh by the Works Contractor, described in a word of recent coinage as the “Executing Agency”. The works contractor in this case was M/s. Larsen & Toubro, Chennai. The direction, as aforesaid, was issued by the Managing Director of the Corporation at the instance of the Chairman of the Corporation, as the order would show to its face. It would also appear from the letter dated 14.04.2021 that the work contracted out to M/s. Larsen & Toubro was a changeover in the specified villages from Low-tension Bare Conductors, to something described as “L.T.A.B.”. In compliance with the order of 24.07.2021, the petitioner says that he visited sites on 27.07.2021. While the petitioner was away to do inspection of work sites, as directed, on 27.07.2021, in his absence, the Divisional Accountant, one Jai Prakash, is said to have abused an assistant, Ashutosh Kumar, in the office of the Executive Engineer, Electricity Stores Division, Prayagraj, then under the petitioner’s charge. The matter appears to have been taken up by the Workers’ Union and a preliminary inquiry was ordered in the matter.

3. The petitioner, upon coming to know what had happened in his absence on 27.07.2021, issued a notice to the Divisional Accountant, Jai Prakash, besides four other employees in the Establishment, to report to him on the happenings of the day and facts relating to the incident. The incident was also reported to the Chief Engineer and the Superintending Engineer, who called a report from the petitioner in the matter. The Superintending Engineer addressed a memo dated 30.07.2021 to the petitioner, mentioning a report of the incident by the Union concerned and saying that the petitioner ought to inquire into the matter, so that it may not lead to eruption of an industrial dispute. The petitioner, by a separate order, was appointed the Inquiry Officer to hold a preliminary inquiry in the matter. This order was passed on 9th August, 2021 by the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Stores Division, Prayagraj.

4. The petitioner submitted a report about the details of the incident to the Chief Engineer on 18.08.2021. The petitioner says that on 06.10.2021, another incident happened in the office, of which the petitioner was in-charge, which came to notice through a video clip sent by the Superintending Engineer to the petitioner. The incident was about a event organized in the office, where liquor was partaken. A report regarding this incident too was directed to be submitted by the petitioner.

5. Immediately upon receipt of this information, the petitioner identified the employees responsible for the violation as one Santosh Shukla, an Office Assistant and Jai Prakash, the Divisional Accountant. The petitioner submitted his report in the matter to the Superintending Engineer. In the report submitted by the petitioner, it is indicated that he had warned the employees concerned, but no disciplinary action could be taken by him, inasmuch as jurisdiction, according to Departmental Circular/Instructions dated 08.08.2018 in this regard, vested in the Managing Director or the Chief Engineer. There is a reference made by the petitioner to a Circular dated 02.01.2019, which empowers the Chief Engineer to award minor punishment, perhaps to certain classes of employees. It is, therefore, the petitioner's case that his responsibility in the matter was to post the authorities with whatever had transpired and it does not lie within his jurisdiction to take any further action against any employee, exercising disciplinary powers.

6. The petitioner was served with a charge-sheet dated 14.09.2022, carrying two charges. The first charge is about the incident dated 27.07.2021 in the office of the Executive Engineer, Electricity Stores Division, Prayagraj and the other about the incident dated 06.10.2021, both related to misconduct by employees posted in the office. The substance of the first charge is that the petitioner was directed by the Chief Engineer, vide his order dated 30.07.2021, to hold a preliminary inquiry in the matter and submit a report, but the petitioner, by his report dated 18.08.2021, submitted to the Chief Engineer, not only reported on the incident dated 30.07.2021, the happening of which he affirmed, but instead of making recommendations for strict disciplinary action to be taken against the two employees, closed the matter himself by administering them a severe warning. The charge further says that in the absence of any severe action being taken against the two employees on 06.10.2021, the two of them resorted to partaking liquor in the office, which was captured on a video and made viral on the social media, harming the Corporation's reputation. The petitioner was, therefore, charged with slackness of control over his subordinates by failing to take firm disciplinary action in the matter of employees using unparliamentary language against one another, permitting a bad tradition and culture to flourish in the office, leading to the Corporation's image being tarnished, besides neglecting to perform his duties.

7. The other charge relates to the incident dated 06.10.2021 and the gravamen of this charge is that after the incident about Jai Prakash, the former Divisional Accountant went viral on the social media, the Inquiry Officer appointed by the Distribution Corporation to inquire in the matter, was confronted by Jai Prakash, with his Annual Confidential Report³ for the year 2021-21 awarded by the petitioner, rating him an outstanding employee. The petitioner was, therefore, charged with the misconduct of awarding an outstanding entry to the employee concerned, ignoring his moral values and his behaviour with subordinates, and further, for the act of disclosing the contents of the ACR to the employee concerned, breaching confidentiality.

8. The petitioner says that an inquiry commenced against him and he was given opportunity for a personal hearing, regarding which, a notice dated 26.03.2022 was issued to him. The petitioner further says that he sought time in the matter, which was granted to him by an order dated 12.04.2022. The petitioner submitted his reply to the charge-sheet on 13.04.2022. He appeared for personal hearing on 19.04.2022 before the Inquiry Officer. An Inquiry Report was submitted on 20.05.2022, holding the petitioner guilty on the first charge in part, and finding the second charge not proved at all. A show-cause notice was issued to the petitioner on 16.06.2022, requiring him to submit his reply. The petitioner answered the show cause in terms of his reply dated 15.07.2022, again dispelling the charges. It is the petitioner's case that he has been exonerated on the second charge, because it was found that he had never written the ACR relating to Jai Prakash. He was punished with the award of a censure and withholding of two increments on the basis of partial proof of the first charge about not recommending appropriate action against the two employees, who used unparliamentary language in the office. It is the petitioner's case that he held a preliminary inquiry into the matter and at his level, he gave them a severe warning and making a report to the higher authorities in the Distribution Corporation, who could, on facts, reported to them, initiate appropriate disciplinary action. It is also the petitioner's case that he never intended, by his report dated 18.08.2021, to close the disciplinary matter. The petitioner has specifically pleaded in paragraph No. 25 that his report dated 18.08.2021 has, later on, been made basis by the Managing Director of the Corporation to place the Office Assistant, Santosh Shukla and the Divisional Accountant, Jai Prakash, under suspension, and later on, terminate their services.

9. In the supplementary affidavit filed on behalf of the petitioners, it is averred that during the inquiry held, no witnesses were produced on behalf of the Corporation to prove the charges against the petitioner, which is an imperative, by salutary principle, in matters governing the award of a major penalty. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondents Nos. 2, 3 and 4, to which a rejoinder affidavit has been filed. This petition was admitted to hearing on 04.12.2023, which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

10. Heard Mr. Prabhat Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel for respondents Nos. 2, 3 and 4 and Mr. Abhay Singh Tomar, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Adarsh Bhushan, learned Counsel for respondent No. 5.

11. It is submitted by Mr. Prabhat Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner that the impugned orders passed by the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority, as well as the Inquiry Report, on which these are founded, are vitiated, for reasons that the Inquiry Committee held the first charge proved, without the salutary procedure for the Establishment to prove the charges, leading to the imposition of a major penalty being, at all, observed. It is pointed out that the Inquiry Committee have not convened themselves properly into an Inquiry Tribunal and required the Establishment to produce their evidence in support of the charge through a Presenting Officer. It was imperative, according to the learned Counsel for the petitioner, in an inquiry involving the imposition of a major penalty, for the Establishment to produce not only documentary evidence, but also examining witnesses. In the absence of documentary evidence led according to the aforesaid principle, the Authorities could not have relied upon the report to pass the orders impugned. It is next submitted, with much emphasis by learned Counsel for the petitioner, that the punishment imposed, for a part of the first charge that was proved, is shockingly disproportionate, which this Court must quash on that count alone.

12. Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel for respondents Nos. 2, 3 and 4, on the other hand, submits that the salutary principle that in an inquiry leading to imposition of a major penalty, it is imperative for the Establishment to prove the charge(s) by leading both documentary and oral evidence, as well as examining witnesses, may not apply in this case, for the reason that the said principle is, after all, a facet of procedural fairness. Here, Mr. Srivastava submits that there is no procedural unfairness involved, even if it is assumed that the Establishment failed to lead evidence in the manner necessary in a departmental inquiry, involving the imposition of a major penalty, for reason that all that has been found against the petitioner is the act of exceeding his jurisdiction and letting off the two employees with a severe warning, a jurisdiction he did not possess. The petitioner does not dispute the contents of his report dated 18.08.2021.

13. Upon hearing learned Counsel for parties and perusing the record, this Court finds that it is, no doubt true that the Establishment have not, at all, produced documentary or oral evidence in the manner imperative in a departmental inquiry, likely to lead to the imposition of a major penalty. Also, a reading of the Inquiry Report shows that the Inquiry Committee comprising the Chief Engineer and the Senior Accounts Officer have not convened themselves into an Inquiry Tribunal, distancing themselves from the Establishment, of which they are employees, and requiring the Establishment to prove the charges by producing evidence, both documentary and oral. The Inquiry Committee seem to have sat in their office, and amidst the routine of other business, gleaned through the papers produced along with the charge-sheet and the petitioner's reply and recorded their conclusions. This is certainly not the manner in which a departmental inquiry into a matter, where there is the likelihood of imposition of a major penalty involved, ought be held. The Inquiry Committee, after all, in a matter involving the imposition of a major penalty, must sit as an impartial arbiter and start with a clean slate. They must look at the charges with an impartial eye, and not regarding the charges as proof of themselves. The Establishment must be required to produce evidence at a properly convened hearing, even if the delinquent does not appear, which must include both documentary evidence as well as witnesses to prove the charge(s). This has not been done at all in the present case.

14. This Court thinks that there could have been some force in Mr. Srivastava's submissions, in the peculiar facts here, that non-adherence to the salutary principles governing the conduct of a departmental inquiry in matters involving the imposition of a major penalty may not have prejudiced the petitioner. This line of reasoning emanates from the fact that the Inquiry Committee has held the petitioner guilty of one part of the first charge, which says that in disposing of the disciplinary matter against the employees, instead of merely making a report to his superiors, the petitioner exceeded his jurisdiction. The said finding is based on the petitioner's report dated 18.08.2021, which the petitioner does not deny at all, and the terms of it are explicit. If that was all, the angle of procedural unfairness on account of deviation from the salutary principles governing the holding of a departmental inquiry in a matter where the imposition of a major penalty was involved, holding it to be a case of no prejudice at all to the petitioner, may not have vitiated the result. But, the finding of the Inquiry Officer and the Disciplinary Authority are just not about the petitioner's transgressing his jurisdiction in disposing of the disciplinary matter by his report dated 18.08.2021, which he was not permitted by law to do. The remarks of the Inquiry Committee in respect of the first charge, that has been formally found proved, are far-reaching and are just not limited to a transgression of the petitioner's jurisdiction in disposing of the disciplinary matter against two employees with a warning. These read :

उक्त आख्या के अवलोकन से दर्शित होता है कि आरोपित सेवक द्वारा अपनी आख्या में श्री जय प्रकाश यादव को बचाते हुए संदर्भित घटना हेतु श्री आशुतोष कुमार को उत्तरदायी बताते हुए मात्र कड़ी चेतावनी का दण्ड निर्गत करते हुए प्रकरण को रफा-दफा कर दिया गया, जबकि उक्त घटना की शिकायत विद्युत कार्यालय सहायक संघ द्वारा आरोपित सेवक के साथ-साथ अन्य उच्चाधिकारियों एवं प्रबंध निदेशक, पूर्वांचल विद्युत वितरण निगम लि० से भी की गयी थी तथा आरोपित सेवक के संत्रांक 373 दिनांक 28.07.2021 के अनुक्रम में उनके अधीनस्थों द्वारा उक्त घटना की पुष्टि भी की गयी (५०५०००-64 से 68)। साथ ही श्री आशुतोष कुमार, कार्यकारी सहायक के साथ की गयी अभद्रता एवं कार्यालय परिसर में मदिरापान करने संबंधी कदाचरण में भी उक्त दोनों कार्मिकों की संलिप्तता पाये जाने से खण्डीय कार्यालय के कार्मिकों द्वारा दिये गये बयान / शपथ पत्र में अंकित तथ्यों की पुष्टि होती है। प्राथमिक जाँच में विद्युत भण्डार खण्ड, प्रयागराज के कार्यालय में शराब की एक ब्रांड के ग्लास का प्रचलन आम/सामान्य पाया गया। यहाँ तक कि प्राथमिक जाँच अधिकारी को पानी भी शराब की ब्रांड के ग्लास में ही परोसा गया। साथ ही प्राथमिक जाँच में, संदर्भित वीडियो वायरल होने के पश्चात् विद्युत भण्डार खण्ड, प्रयागराज के कार्यालय में शराब की बोतलों के जखीरे की सफाई आरोपित सेवक द्वारा स्वयं अपने निर्देशन में कराये जाने का तथ्य भी अंकित है। अतः तर्क कि श्री जय प्रकाश एवं श्री संतोष कुमार के आचरण एवं कार्यालय परिसर में मदिरापान की जानकारी खण्डीय कार्यालय के समस्त कार्मिकों को थी तथा उनमें भय का माहौल था, किन्तु आरोपित सेवक को नहीं थी, व्यवहारिक एवं मानने योग्य नहीं है।

आरोपित सेवक के, कार्यालय में प्रथम बार अमर्यादित आचरण एवं व्यवहार में सुधार करने के उद्देश्य से चेतावनी का दण्ड ही उपयुक्त होने संबंधी अभिकथन से जाँच समिति सहमत नहीं है तथा जाँच समिति का मत है कि किसी भी घटना/अनियमितता हेतु दण्ड का निर्धारण अनियमितता के प्रथम बार होने अथवा पुनरावृत्ति होने पर निर्भर नहीं करता है, अपितु दण्ड का निर्धारण अनियमितता की गंभीरता से प्रभावित होता है। साथ ही अभिलेखीय साक्ष्यों के अभाव में आरोपित सेवक के प्रथम बार अनियमितता घटित होने के तथ्य की पुष्टि नहीं होती है, जबकि आरोपित सेवक के अधीनस्थों द्वारा प्रस्तुत पत्रों एवं शपथ पत्रों के (५०५०००-69 से 80) अवलोकन से स्पष्ट दर्शित है कि श्री जय प्रकाश, लेखाकार एवं श्री संतोष कुमार शुक्ला, कार्यकारी सहायक द्वारा कार्यालय में ही मीट बनवाकर खुले आम शराब एवं मीट का सेवन किया जाता था तथा कार्यालय के कार्मिकों के साथ अभद्र व्यवहार एवं गाली-गलौज की जाती थी, जिसके कारण कर्मचारियों में भय का माहौल व्याप्त था।

अतः आरोपित सेवक का दायित्व था कि संदर्भित घटना को गंभीरता से लेते हुए उसकी निष्पक्ष जाँच करते हुए प्रकरण से सम्बन्धित सभी वास्तविक तथ्यों में दोषी कार्मिकों के सक्षम दण्डाधिकारी को अवगत कराते हुए उनसे अपेक्षित अनुशासनात्मक कार्यवाही किये जाने का अनुरोध करते, किन्तु आरोपित सेवक द्वारा उक्त के विपरीत कार्य करते हुए दोषी कार्मिकों के संदर्भ में सक्षम दण्डाधिकारी न होने के बावजूद कड़ी चेतावनी का दण्ड निर्गत करते हुए प्रकरण को समाप्त कर दिया गया। आरोपित सेवक द्वारा स्पष्ट रूप से अपने अधिकारों का अतिक्रमण किया गया, किन्तु आरोपित सेवक द्वारा दोषी कार्मिकों के विरुद्ध कठोर अनुशासनात्मक कार्यवाही की संस्तुति किया जाना बांछित होने सम्बन्धी तथ्य से जाँच समिति सहमत नहीं है, क्योंकि जाँच

समिति का मत है कि किसी भी कार्मिक को दण्ड देने का अधिकार उसके नियुक्ति अधिकारी का होता है तथा कार्मिक को किस अनियमितता हेतु क्या दण्ड दिया जाना है, इसके निर्धारण का अधिकार भी नियुक्ति अधिकारी में ही निहित होता है। संदर्भित प्रकरण में दोषी पाये गये लेखाकार के नियुक्ति अधिकारी निदेशक (का० प्र० एवं प्रशा०), पू०वि०वि०नि०लिए वाराणसी एवं कार्यकारी सहायक के नियुक्ति अधिकारी संबंधित मण्डल के अधीक्षण अभियन्ता है। ऐसी स्थिति में आरोपित सेवक का दायित्व था कि संबंधित तथ्यों से दोषी कार्मिकों के उपरोक्त अंकित नियुक्ति अधिकारी को अवगत कराते हुए अनुशासनात्मक कार्यवाही का अनुरोध करते, किन्तु आरोपित सेवक द्वारा स्वयं अपने स्तर से दण्डादेश निर्गत करते हुए प्रकरण को रफा-दफा कर दिया गया। साथ ही आरोपित सेवक के उच्चाधिकारियों, जिन्हें आरोपित सेवक द्वारा पत्रांक 413 दिनांक 18.08.2021 (प० पृ०च्छे-09) प्रेषित / अग्रसारित किया गया, का भी दायित्व था कि संज्ञानित होने पर आरोपित सेवक को नियमानुसार कार्यवाही करने हेतु निर्देशित करते।

अतः आरोपित सेवक को दोषी कार्मिकों के विरूद्ध कठोर अनुशासनात्मक कार्यवाही की संस्तुति न करने हेतु दोषी नहीं माना जा सकृती, किन्तु अपने अधिकारों का अतिक्रमण करते हुए प्रकरण को रफा-दफा करने हेतु आरोपित सेवक दोषी है।

15. A reading of the above remarks would show that the petitioner was held guilty of maintaining slack control over his office, where there was indiscipline rife amongst employees, who were partaking liquor in the office. There are also remarks to the effect that the two employees concerned, that is to say, Jai Prakash and Santosh Shukla, had some kind of a fear struck amongst the other employees, on account of which, they were able to carry on these activities in the office. It is on the basis of these remarks that the Disciplinary Authority, the Chairman of the Corporation, while holding the petitioner guilty of a part of the first charge, and choosing the punishment to impose, has recorded his findings in the following words :

मेरे द्वारा श्री राहुल सिंह (2014035), तत्कालीन अधिशासी अभियन्ता, विद्युत भण्डार खण्ड प्रयागराज के अभ्यावेदन का पत्रावली में उपलब्ध संगत अभिलेखों के साथ अध्ययन किया गया। श्री सिंह के अपने कार्यालय के कार्मिकों पर नियंत्रण नहीं किये जाने के कारण उनके अधीनस्थ कार्यालय के कार्मिकों में अनुशासनहीनता की स्थिति हुयी तथा कार्यालय में मदिरा सेवन करने का कुकृत्य करने का दुत्साहस उत्पन्न हुआ। जाँच अधिकारी की आख्या के अनुसार उक्त कार्मिकों के द्वारा नियमित रूप से कार्यालय में मदिरा पान किया जा रहा था तथा श्री राहुल के यह संज्ञान में होते हुए भी उन्होंने इस प्रवृत्ति पर नियंत्रण रखने की प्रभावी कार्यवाही नहीं की गयी, जिससे ऐसी घटना घटित हुई एवं कारपोरेशन की छवि भी धूमिल हुई। उनके अभ्यावेदन में ऐसा कोई तथ्य नहीं पाया जा रहा है जो उनपर आंशिक सिद्ध पाये गये आरोप में शिथिलता प्रदान कर सके। वर्णित परिस्थितियों में श्री राहुल सिंह (2014035), तत्कालीन अधिशासी अभियन्ता पर उ०प्र० पावर कारपोरेशन लिमिटेड कार्मिक (अनुशासन एवं अपील) विनियमावली, 2020 के नियम 3 में विनिर्दिष्ट दीर्घ शास्ति प्रदान किये जाने की स्थिति पा रहा हूँ।

16. The Disciplinary Authority has concluded that the petitioner has slack control over his subordinates, who were regularly indulging in partaking liquor in the office premises, a fact that was within the petitioner's cognizance. The Disciplinary Authority has observed that the petitioner could not contain these tendencies or initiate action to control the employees working under him, leading to an event which portrayed the Corporation in poor light.

17. Now, the charge is just not about committing a technical folly in disposing of the complaint against the two employees concerned by the petitioner at his level, regarding which, he had no jurisdiction. It is more about the slackness of control, which the petitioner has been held generally to have had over his subordinates in the office, who were, over a period of time, indulging in the misconduct of partaking liquor during office hours and striking fear amongst their colleagues, who would not speak out. If these are matters which have entered the consideration of the Inquiry Committee, the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority, a finding about any of them could not have been validly recorded by the Inquiry Committee, without the Establishment producing evidence, including witnesses, to prove the facts of slackness of control over subordinates on the petitioner's part, the employees consuming liquor and indulging in general indiscipline in the office over a long period of time by striking fear amongst their colleagues. These are matters, regarding which, salutary principles governing the holding of a departmental inquiry, in the manner that the Establishment have to first prove the charges by formally producing evidence, both documentary and oral, that is to say, witnesses, has to be adhered to. The Inquiry Committee could just not look at the petitioner's report dated 18.08.2021 and draw all these inferences. For the same reason, the Chairman of the Corporation, the Disciplinary Authority, could not have drawn the inferences that he did, on the foot of an Inquiry Report written by a Committee that did not adhere to the salutary procedure of requiring the Establishment to prove the charges by producing documentary as well as oral evidence. The law, that in a matter leading to award of a major penalty, it is the obligation of the Establishment to prove the charge(s) in the first instance, by producing documentary evidence as well as witnesses, is far too well settled to brook doubt. In this connection, reference may be made to the guidance of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha⁴, Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others⁵, State of Uttaranchal and others v. Kharak Singh⁶ and the Bench decisions of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another⁷, Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P.⁸ and State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another⁹.

18. This Court is, therefore, of opinion that the impugned orders cannot be sustained. Of course, the respondents would have liberty to proceed afresh against the petitioner from the stage of issue of the charge-sheet, if they so elect, but, in the event, the respondents elect to proceed afresh against the petitioner, they shall not impose a penalty higher than that imposed by the impugned orders.

19. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and stands allowed. The impugned order dated 16.11.2022 passed by the Chairman of the Corporation and the Appellate Order dated 26.07.2023 passed by the Board of Directors of the Corporation are hereby quashed. The respondents will have liberty to proceed afresh against the petitioner from the stage of the charge-sheet, subject to the condition that a penalty higher than that awarded by the impugned orders shall not be awarded.

20. There shall be no order as to costs.

21. Let the Registrar (Compliance) communicate this judgment and order to the Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow and the Board of Directors, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow.

A. Service Law – U.P. St. Universities Act, 1973 – Section 35(2) – Lecturer for self-finance course – Appointment was put in abeyance – No prior approval of Vice Chancellor was taken – Effect – Held, the provision of Sub Section 2 of Section 35 relating to prior approval of Vice Chancellor before dismissal or removal or reduction in rank or any punishment do not make any distinction between aided/St. financed course and self financed course – Statute 17.06 (3) is pari materia to the provisions as contained under Section 35(2) of the Act of 1973 – The power of the Management is conditioned by the prior approval of the Vice Chancellor. It is a prerequisite and without that the college/Committee of Management of the Institution is not at all entitled in any manner to pass any resolution and give it effect which may have adverse civil consequences – The Committee of Management was not justified in putting the appointment of the petitioners in abeyance. (Para 9, 10, 11 and 18)

Writ petition allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri D.K. Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Ashish Mohan Srivastava, learned counsel for the Committee of Management of the college concerned and Sri Rohit Pandey, learned counsel for the University.

2. Petitioners before this Court were initially engaged in a self-financed course as a Lecturer in the subject of Sociology with the approval of the Vice Chancellor vide orders dated 22.10.2003 and 19.09.2007 respectively and continued as such until the order impugned came to be passed on 24.07.2018 putting their appointment in the self finance course of the college, in abeyance.

3. The argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is that the Committee of Management of the college concerned was not legally authorized to pass such kind of orders without seeking prior approval from the Vice Chancellor as is indicated under Section 35(2) of the U.P. State Universities Act, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act of 1973'). The provisions require every appointment, according to him, and the termination of appointment as well, to be subject to the prior approval by the Vice Chancellor. He has also taken the Court to the Government Order dated 09.05.2000 to advance a submission that in the event a Committee of Management was having any complaint against the petitioners regarding their work and conduct or otherwise then such order would amount to be punitive in nature and, therefore, was also to have preceded by the approval of the Vice Chancellor.

4. Per contra, it is argued by learned counsel for the Committee of Management, Sri Ashish Mohan Srivastava, that though the self finance course in question is being run by the institution but because of the number of students getting down/reduced there remained no further requirement of having two faculty members in addition to those who were already employed in the institution and so the order putting in abeyance appointment of petitioners have been passed on the principle of last come first go. He submits that in 2019 around only nine students were enrolled in the subject of Sociology and the first semester and second semester there were only 10 students and likewise in the subject of Geography there were only 24 and 25 students respectively and since a class consists of atleast 40 students, therefore, the management cannot be faulted with in putting the continuance of the petitioner's services on hold.

5. It is further argued that since the Committee of Management did not proceed to dispense with the services of the petitioner, therefore, there arose no question for seeking any prior approval from the Vice Chancellor. He submits that it would have been necessary had the Management proceeded to terminated their services. Another argument advanced by Sri Srivastava is that there were serious complaints against the petitioners regarding their act and conduct in the institution against the management inasmuch as there were other serious complaints from the students against them and therefore, the management got compelled to put in abeyance their continuance in college as teachers.

6. Sri Rohit Pandey, learned Advocate appearing for the University submits that as per the Act of 1973 which is applicable to the institution in question, the services of such teachers cannot be dispensed with without prior approval of the Vice Chancellor as their appointments are also done with the prior approval of the Vice Chancellor. He further submits that since there was no proceeding drawn by the Committee of Management against the petitioners, nor there is any justification shown in the order that services of the petitioners were discontinued only for the reason that there were serious complaints, there was all the more no reason to order petitioners to sit back. It is further submitted that on the University portal that contains a dash board with details of faculty in the college does show the name of these two teachers on the roll of the faculty of the college even today. He has also placed before the Court the current status of the strength of students in the subject of Sociology and Geography and according to which he submits that there are sufficient number of students for which the petitioners can be gainfully engaged.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties, their arguments raised across the bar and having perused the pleadings raised in the writ petition, order of appointment and orders putting their appointments in abeyance, Government Order dated 09.05.2000 as well as relevant statute of the University, two points emerge out for consideration:

a) Whether the Committee of Management was justified and legally entitled to put in abeyance the appointment of the petitioners which was offered to them after prior approval of the Vice Chancellor, and

b) Whether such power to put on hold on appointment duly made, is vested with the college and that too without prior approval of the Vice Chancellor of the University.

8. It is nobody's case that the institution in question is not affiliated with the University in question, namely, Chhatrapati Sahu Ji Maharaj University, Kalyanpur, Kanpur which is governed under the Act of 1973. It is also nobody's case that the first statute of the University do not provide for any prior approval of the Vice Chancellor in the matter of appointment or termination of services of the teachers of the affiliated/associated colleges. The petitioners' institution being admittedly affiliated to the University in question also stands governed by the Statute. The relevant statute 35.1 and 35.2 of the Act of 1973 are reproduced hereunder:

"35. Conditions of service of teachers of affiliated or associated colleges other than those maintained by Government or local authority. - (1) Every teacher in an affiliated or associated college (other than a college maintained exclusively by the State Government) 2[* ] shall be appointed under a written contract which shall contain such terms and conditions as may be prescribed. The contract shall be lodged with the University and a copy thereof shall be given to the teacher concerned, and another copy thereof shall be retained by the college concerned.

(2) Every decision of the Management of such college to dismiss or remove a teacher or to reduce him in rank or to punish him in any other manner shall before it is communicated to him, be reported to the Vice-Chancellor and shall not take effect unless it has been approved by the Vice-Chancellor:

Provided that in the case of colleges established and administered by a minority referred to in clause (1) of Article 30 of the Constitution of India, the decision of the Management dismissing removing or reducing in rank or punishing in any other manner any teacher shall not require the approval of the Vice-Chancellor, but, shall be reported to him and unless he is satisfied that the procedure prescribed in this behalf has been followed, the decision shall not be given effect to."

(Emphasis added)

9. From bare reading of Sub Section 2 of Section 35 of the Act of 1973 it is quite explicit that only order of dismissal or removal of a teacher or to reduction in rank or to punish him in any other manner shall have to be reported first to the Vice Chancellor and shall not be given effect to unless and until it is approved by the Vice Chancellor. The provisions do not make any distinction between aided/State financed course and self financed course.

10. The terms and conditions upon which a teacher has to be appointed are not only governed under the Act of 1973 but also have to be as per procedure as may be prescribed. The first Statute of the University concerned has come to be framed taking aid of Section 49 of the Act of 1973 and it prescribes vide Statute 17.06 that any resolution contemplating removal, dismissal or termination of services of a teacher shall in the first instance be placed before the Vice Chancellor for his approval and shall not be operative unless so approved. This Statute 17.06 (3) is pari materia to the provisions as contained under Section 35(2) of the Act of 1973. Further I find that Clause 4 of Statute 17.06 also provides that no resolution of the Management qua reduction of pay, stoppage of any annual increments for a specified period or deprivation of his pay not including subsistence allowance etc. shall be given effect to without prior approval of the Vice Chancellor. Statute 17.06 is reproduced hereunder:

"17.06. (1) No order dismissing, removing, or terminating the services of a teacher on any ground mentioned in clause (1) or clause (2) of Statute 16.04 (except in the case of a conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude or of abolition of post) shall be passed unless a charge has been framed against the teacher and communicated to him with a statement of the grounds on which it is proposed to take action and he has been given adequate opportunity ?

i) of submitting a written statement of his defense;

ii) of being heard in person, if he so desires; and

iii) of calling and examining such witnesses in his defense as he may desire;

Provided that the Management or the officer authorised by it to conduct the inquiry may, for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing, refuse to call any witness.

(2) The Management may, at the time, ordinarily within two months from the date of the inquiry officer's report, pass a resolution dismissing or removing the teacher concerned from service, or terminating his service mentioning the grounds of such dismissal, removal or termination.

(3) The resolution shall forthwith be communicated to the teacher concerned and also be reported to the Vice Chancellor for approval and shall not be operative unless so approved by the Vice-Chancellor.

(4) The Management may instead of dismissing, removing, or terminating services of the teacher pass a resolution inflicting one or more of the following lesser punishments, namely—

i. reduction of pay for a specified period;

ii. stoppage of annual increments for a specified period not exceeding three years;

iii. deprivation of his pay not including subsistence allowance during the period of his suspension, if any.

the resolution by the Management inflicting such punishment shall be reported to the Vice Chancellor and shall be operative only when and to the extent, approved by the Vice Chancellor."

(Emphasis added)

11. It is thus absolutely clear that the power of the Management is conditioned by the prior approval of the Vice Chancellor. It is a prerequisite and without that the college/Committee of Management of the Institution is not at all entitled in any manner to pass any resolution and give it effect which may have adverse civil consequences and which may include both major action of removal/dismissal/termination of service or in any manner reduction of pay or withholding payment of salary.

12. Here an argument could be that in view of the provisions as contained under statute 17.04(4) a teacher appointed in temporary or officiating capacity can be removed from the employment by giving one month's notice or payment of one month's salary in lieu thereof in advance. This provision also authorizes such a teacher to resign from the employment in a similar fashion. Provisions as contained under statute 17.04(4) are reproduced hereunder:

"(4) In the case of any other teacher appointed in a temporary or officiating capacity his services shall be terminated, by one month notice or on payment of salary in lieu thereof on either side."

13. Statute 17.06 bars termination of service of a teacher on any ground mentioned in clause (1) or clause (2) of statute 17.04 except with prior approval of the Vice Chancellor in view of Clause (3) of statute 17.06. The petitioners having been appointed on a contract basis in a self finance course can claim to be falling in such category of teachers as mentioned in clause (4) of statute 17.04 (supra). The statute if taken to be totally silent qua the appointment of teachers in self finance course and their conditions of service. It is the Government Order issued by the State Government in that behalf on 09.05.2000 shall then have to be applied. Para 2(1) of the Government Order provides that appointments of teachers under self finance course have to be made from the panel prepared by the University Executive Council and the Vice Chancellor and para 2(2) says that upon contract, an appointment coming to end, fresh process for appointment shall be undertaken but prior to that, candidature of already working teachers have to be accorded due consideration. Such a teacher vested with the power to resign by giving three months' notice in advance and the Management is equally empowered to draw disciplinary proceedings against teachers, if it is not satisfied with the work and conduct of such teachers, but then prior approval of such final action by the management has to be obtained from the Vice Chancellor.

14. Para 2(1) and 2(2) of the Government Order dated 09.05.2000 are reproduced hereunder:

"2- उपर्युक्त शासनादेश विहित शिक्षकों की चयन प्रक्रिया उनका वेतन निर्धारण एवं अर्हताओं के सम्बन्ध में राज्य सरकार द्वारा सम्यक विचार करने के उपरान्त निम्नानुसार निर्णय लिया गया है-

(1) स्वावित पोषित महाविद्यालयों में अध्यापकों के चयन के लिए विशेषज्ञ का नामांकन विश्वविद्यालय द्वारा किया जायेगा। चयन का अनुमोदन विश्वविद्यालय से कराया जायेगा. जिससे चयनित व्यक्ति के सम्बन्ध में सूचना विश्वविद्यालय में भी उपलब्ध हो जायेगी। विश्वविद्यालय के कुलपति कार्यपरिषद् के अनुमोदन से प्रत्येक विषय के लिए विशेषज्ञों का एक पैनल बनायेंगे, जो तीन वर्षों तक प्रभावी होगा। प्रबंध तंत्र को जिस विषय में अध्यापक का चयन हो इस पैनल में से विशेषज्ञों का चयन प्रबंध तंत्र द्वारा कर लिया जायेगा।

(2) स्ववित्त पोषित महाविद्यालयों में प्रबंधकों की नियुक्ति तीन वर्ष अथवा पांच वर्ष

की संविदा पर की जायेगी। संविदा की अवधि समाप्त हो जाने के बाद प्रबंध तंत्र द्वारा फिर से चयन की कार्यवाही प्रारम्भ करने पर पूर्व से कार्यरत व्यक्ति के नाम पर निश्चित रूप से विचार किया जायेगा। इन महाविद्यालयों में नियुक्त शिक्षक सस्था के प्रबंध तंत्र को तीन माह का नोटिस देकर सेवा का त्यागपत्र दे सकता है। परन्तु यदि प्रबंध तंत्र शिक्षक कार्य से सतुष्ट न हो तो प्रबंध तंत्र अनुशासनात्मक कार्यवाही कर सम्बन्धित शिक्षक को सेवा से हटा सकते हैं परन्तु अनुशासनिक कार्यवाही की स्थिति में कुलपति का अनुमोदन प्राप्त करना आवश्यक होगा।"

15. There is no other provision under the Government Order that may empower to Committee of Management to place appointment of a teacher in a suspended animation. Thus, even in case of temporary teachers and teachers appointed on contract basis, the power of Management are not absolute.

16. Now applying the above law to the order impugned, I find that the petitioner's services have been put in abeyance on 24.07.2018 in following terms:

डॉ० रमाकान्त प्रवक्ता

- भूगोल

वि० ग्रा० महा० दिबियापुर

विषय: सेवा स्थगित के संबंध में।

महोदय,

एतदर्थ सूचित किया जाता है कि आपके विषय में सत्र 2018-19 में छात्रों का

अभाव होने के कारण आपकी सेवायें अगले आदेश तक स्थगित की जाती हैं।

भवदीय

(रामशंकर गुप्त)

मंत्री/प्रबन्धक"

17. In respect of petitioner no.2 an identical order has been passed as quoted above. This order clearly states that the services of the teacher concerned is being put in abeyance. This order even does not refer to any resolution of the Committee of Management, nor does it show that any kind of communication preceded with the University. Now looking to the Clause 4 of the Statute 17.06 of first statute this order is clearly unsustainable because it puts the payment of salary of the petitioner also on hold. Naturally, if a teacher is not continued in employment may be is kept in suspended animation, he/she will equally be not entitled for the payment of salary on the principle of ' NO WORK NO PAY'. Thus order dated 24.07.2018 passed in respect of the petitioners brought on record as Annexure-1 to the writ petition is clearly unsustainable and deserves quashment.

18. Coming to the second question as to whether the Committee of Management could have put an appointment in abeyance like the case in question, I find that only provision that empowers the Committee of Management to take such decision is contained under Statute 17.06 as far as statute is concerned. The various clauses of the said statute only deal with the management's power to put a teacher under termination, dismissal or removal or even can subject him to an order which may amount to any kind of stoppage of annual increment allowances or salary, but the first statute 17.06 vide its clause 3 puts a rider upon this exercise of power of Management which according to the Statute requires prior approval of the Vice Chancellor. This provision being pari materia as I have already observed, to Sub Section 2 of Section 35, therefore, the Manager's power is also held to be not absolute one. There is no other power vested with the Committee of the Management under the Statute of the University or of the Act of 1973 by which a teacher duly appointed with the prior approval of the Vice Chancellor can be placed in suspended animation except where management intends to hold disciplinary proceedings vide statute 17.04. Therefore, in my considered view the Committee of Management was not justified in putting the appointment of the petitioners in abeyance. Even the Government Order (supra) that deals with the conditions of service of teachers in self-finance course, does not authorize management to place working of teacher in a suspended animation and then not to pay salary to such teachers. This exercise of power is held to be absolutely without any authority vested in law and hence null and void.

19. Now coming to another argument advanced by learned counsel appearing for the Committee of Management that the number of students have got reduced and, therefore, it became necessary to put the appointment of the petitioners on hold, suffice it to observe that even in such matters where the number of students had gone down and that the college did not require any more services of such teachers, the matter was required to be communicated to the University in the first instance to seek approval of the Vice Chancellor but in any case putting in abeyance the appointment of any teacher is not contemplated either under Section 35 of the Act of 1973 or the first Statute of the University.

20. Besides the above, considering the current status of the strength of the students which are more than 60 taking both the semesters together in both the subjects and the fact that the college is continuing with the courses, there is no justification to keep the petitioner's appointment in abeyance.

21. So far as the argument of learned counsel appearing for the Committee of Management, Sri Ashish Mohan Srivastava, as to the complaints by the student are concerned, the Government Order dated 09.05.2000 empowers the Committee of Management for this purpose to hold an enquiry and then take appropriate action. While pleadings have been raised in the counter affidavit regarding complaints but the pleadings are absolutely silent about any enquiry being held in the matter as contemplated under the Government Order and even if such an enquiry was held the enquiry report was liable to be communicated to the petitioner and then to the University in compliance of the principles of natural justice. On this count also, I do not find the orders passed to be sustainable.

23. The order passed by the Committee of Management dated 24.07.2018 putting the appointments of respective petitioners in abeyance by two separate orders are hereby quashed.

24. Consequences to follow.

THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Writ A No. 19126 of 2023

Ram Pratap Singh & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus
Union of India & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Sri Avneesh Tripathi

Counsel for the Respondents:

A.S.G.I., Sri Rohan Gupta, Sri Vijay Kuamr Mishra

A. Service Law – Institute of Technology Act, 1961 – Sections 13(1), 13(2)(c) & 33(1)(b) – Recruitment and Promotion Rules, 2018, as modified on 28.05.2021 – Rule 6 – Post of Executive Engineer – Advertisement for direct recruitment issued – Power of Board of Governor to frame Rules was challenged – Held, Board has been vested with power to provide for direct recruitment even U.P.on post that are prescribed not at entry level but by way of lateral entry – Residuary power lies with Board, which is not provided elsewhere – Taking recourse to the harmonious constructions of the provisions as contained under Section 13(1) and 13(2)(c) and 33(1)(b) and 38(c) of the IT Act, 1961, it can safely be concluded that Board of Governors being Apex Body of the IIT Kanpur under the Act, 1961 is fully empowered to frame recruitment and promotions rules. (Para 16, 21 and 22)

B. Service Law – Recruitment and Promotion Rules, 2018, as modified on 28.05.2021 – Rule 6 – Post of Executive Engineer – Departmental promotion claimed – Petitioner possessed no eligibility – Entitlement to claim promotion – Held, Rules vide P-19 to the schedule make post of Executive Engineer at pay matrix level- 11 in the GroU.P.-A to be filled U.P. by promotion only from Assistant Executive Engineer, pay matrix level 10 – Petitioners cannot question the advertisement as far as post of Executive Engineer is concerned because they have nothing to put on stake, being not eligible even by way of promotion U.P.on the posts in question. (Para 26 and 27)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-1)

List of Cases cited:

1. Dr. Thingujam Achouba Singh & ors. Vs Dr. H. N. Nabachandra Singh & ors.; (2020) 20 SCC 312

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Avneesh Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri V.K.Mishra, learned counsel for the Union of India and Sri Rohan Gupta, learned counsel for respondents nos. 2,3 4.

2. The petitioner no. 1 who is presently working as Senior Assistant Engineer (Special Grade) in a pay band-2 with Grade Pay 5400/- at pay matrix level 9 and petitioner no. 2 who is working as Senior Assistant Engineer, pay band-2 with grade Pay- 4800/- at pay matrix level-8 in the Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur (IIT, Kanpur) seek to challenge an advertisement issued by IIT Kanpur advertising 5 posts of Executive Engineer of which three posts are in unreserved category, vide advertisement no. 1 of 2023.

3. Both the petitioners claim that they deserved promotion at much earlier point of time to a higher post of Assistant Executive Engineer, pay band-3 with grade pay 5400/- at pay matrix level 10 as the feeding cadre for promotion was either Senior Assistant Engineer, pay band-2, with grade pay 4800/- at pay matrix level 8, or Senior Assistant Engineer (S.G.) in pay band-2 with grade pay 5400/- at pay matrix level-9. According to them, the post of Assistant Executive Engineer with grade pay 5400/- at pay matrix level-10 is not only post for direct recruitment at entry level of Group-A post, but is equally a promotional post from Group-B to Group A as per rules, and therefore, according to them they would have been entitled to be promoted as Executive Engineer, pay band 3 with grade pay 6600/- at pay matrix level-11, a Group-A post, which is subject to advertisement by direct recruitment. Their basic contention is that post of Executive Engineer advertised, is a promotional post and not a post meant for direct recruitment. It is submitted that as per recruitment and promotion rules that have come to be notified and reframed on 27th November, 2018 in suppression to 2013 Rules by the Board of Governors, the Apex Body of the institute with further modification in the year 2021.

4. According to learned Advocate Mr. Tripathi, appearing for the petitioners, the post in the field of engineering like from Junior Engineer upto Executive Engineer fall in the maintenance staff category of the Institute and are non faculty position. P-19 of the schedule appended to the rules provide for only two positions at entry level. In Group-A, it is the Assistant Executive Engineer which is an entry level post whereas in the Group-B category post of Junior Engineer provided at entry level and all other posts at higher level, therefrom should be filled up by promotion except otherwise provided under the Rules. He emphatically submits that as far as post of Executive Engineer in the category of Group-A with pay band 3 and 4 are concerned, these posts are only meant to be filled up by promotion whereas the post of Assistant Executive Engineer which is a group-A post can be filled up both by way of direct recruitment as well as promotion with 50 per cent quota each, vide P-40 of the schedule to the rules.

5. Mr. Tripathi also submits that in view of P-33 of the schedule, post of Assistant Engineer pay band-2 is also to be filled up by promotion and direct recruitment with 50 percent quota each. He further submits that even earlier also the IIT Kanpur had committed this error of advertising the post of Executive Engineer under the advertisement issued on 16th September, 2023 being advertisement no. 1 of 2023, but upon correct facts being brought to the notice, the said post was withdrawn from the advertisement vide Corrigendum issued on 20.09.2023 by recruitment section, copy of which has been brought on record as Annexure 16 to the writ petition.

6. Mr. Tripathi in support of his argument has also relied upon the recruitment and promotion policy issued by the Indian Institute of Technology Ropad, dated 20th November, 2016 in which post of Executive Engineer in the engineering cadre is shown to be 50 per cent by promotion. He asserts that similarly Administrative Section of IIT Bombay has issued its recruitment and promotion policy on 22nd September, 2017 that provide for only post of Junior Engineer at entry level, the higher post of Assistant Engineer and Assistant Executive Engineer are for the purposes of first and second advancement.

7. Mr. Tripathi, has next submitted that as per guidelines issued by the Ministry of Human Resources and Development, Department of Higher Education dated 20th February, 2019, the post of Executive Engineer was suggested to be filled up 75 percent by direct recruitment and 25 percent by promotion. So in any view of the matter, according to him, some promotion quota was liable to be assigned to the post like Executive Engineer if not all and since now IIT Kanpur has proceeded to fill up this post by direct recruitment, petitioners would be denied their chance of further progress in the establishment. It is submitted that in the above regard, petitioners had earlier moved a representation before the Higher Authority, but instead of taking any action to consider the claim of petitioners for providing promotional avenues, respondent Director of Institute proceeded to pass an order dated 28.2.2022 to the effect that petitioner may apply as and when posts are advertised, however this order remained illusive for the simple reason, according to Mr. Tripathi, as post advertised for the purpose of direct recruitments provides for such qualification which ousts petitioners from eligibility zone. According to him, respondents while have put a bar of maximum age of 55 years on one hand, on the other hand the essential qualification is that one should have three years of regular clear service at Assistant Executive Engineer level whereas petitioners are only working as Assistant Engineer and Assistant Engineer (SG).

8. In view of above, the writ of certiorari is prayed for quashing the advertisement so far as post of Executive Engineer is concerned.

9. Countering the above submissions raised on behalf of the petitioner, Mr.

Rohan Gupta, learned counsel for the IIT Kanpur has made two fold arguments:

(i) In 2018 recruitment promotion rules notified on 27th November, 2018 as amended and modified on 28.5.2021 do provide for direct recruitment upon vacancies falling even in lateral entries by external candidates in both A and B groups, inasmuch as, new vacant positions can be created by the Board of Governors, the Apex body, by adopting resolution if contingency so arises as is in the present case, it was a mission mode recruitment drive to expedite a dedicated task. This power, according to Mr. Gupta, the board enjoys both under the recruitment rules and under the provisions of Institutes of Technology Act, 1961 that governs all the IITs in the country including IIT Kanpur in question;

(ii) The relevant rule under the recruitment and promotion rules that gave such power to the Apex Body, namely Board of Governors and relevant provisions of the institutes of Technology Act, 1961 and consequential resolution adopted by the Board of Governors dated 23rd December, 2022 have not been challenged, and therefore, in the absence of any challenge, the rules and resolution, the consequential advertisement issued for direct recruitment on the post of Senior Superintending Engineer, Executive Engineer, therefore, cannot be faulted with.

10. Yet another argument has been advanced by Mr. Gupta that prescribing essential qualifications and age falls within the domain of the employer and the recruiting authority as employer is in a best position to assess the suitability for the job for which selection and appointments have to be made and, the Court cannot embark upon any enquiry by way of judicial review to prescribe which qualifications would be better qualification for the employer to provide as an essential qualification for the post upon which selection and appointment has to be made. This area according to Mr. Gupta, is an area of Technical Experts of field and the Court does not have those expertise and skills to assess exact suitability and eligibility vis-a-vis requirement for which selection and appointments have to be made.

11. In the above regard, Mr. Gupta has heavily relied upon the authority of the Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Thingujam Achouba Singh and Others v. Dr. H.N.Nabachandra Singh and Others, (2020) 20 SCC 312.

12. Having heard learned counsel appearing for the respective parties and noticing arguments advanced on behalf of the respective parties to the lis, I find there to be arising following points and issues to be addressed:

a). Whether Board of Governors, IIT Kanpur is justified in adopting resolution dated 23rd December, 2022 to hold direct recruitment drive in respect of 5 posts of Executive Engineer to the disadvantage of the petitioners who claim departmental promotion;

b). Whether in absence of any challenge to the rules taking aid of which resolution dated 23rd December, 2022 has been adopted and whether in the absence of challenge to the resolution, the same can be held bad; and c). Whether five posts of Executive Engineer advertised by respondents do fall under promotion quota.

13. The first and second points are interrelated in the sense that, if there is an authority vested under the rules with the Board of Governors, whether challenge or no challenge, the resolution will be valid and conversely if the Court finds there to be no such power under the rules vested with Board of Governors, resolution would get rendered null and void and the Court even in the absence of any challenge hold that to be so and consequential action even if not under challenge would become bad and can be struck down.

14. I proceed to examine the relevant recruitment and promotions rules to record findings as to the claim of the petitioners that there lies no such power with Board of Governors. Both the learned Advocates appearing for the respective parties do agree that recruitment and promotion rules, 2018, modifying earlier Rules, 2013 notified on 27th November, 2018 are the rules in existence and parties do agree that these rules came to be further modified and notified on 28th May, 2021 brought on record as Annexures CA 1,2 and 3 respectively).

15. The plea taken in the rejoinder affidavit is that Board of Governors is responsible only for general Superintendence and Control qua affairs of the institute but is not vested with powers to formulate or approve rules including rules and regulation for recruitment and laying down accordingly eligibility criteria etc. for selection and appointment upon faculty and non-faculty positions in the institute. A further plea taken in the rejoinder affidavit is that recruitment and Career Progression Scheme floated by the IIT Council, the top composite body for different IITs, wayback in the year 1999, would prevail as this authority is superior to the Board. Thus, it is pleaded that neither rules framed by the Board of the Governors, nor its resolution is enforceable. However, interestingly, in the writ petition, there is no such plea as to the validity of the rules and powers of the Board of Governors even though reliance has been placed and reference has been made to the Promotion Committee and chart of maintenance Staff of IWD (P-19), which is provided under the schedule of the promotion rules. It is equally important to notice that 2018 Rules have been only modified in a minor way vide notification issued on 28th May, 2021. The rules as notified on 28th May, 2021 vide its Rule 6 gives power to the Board to make direct recruitment upon posts falling in lateral entries both in Group-A and B category. Rules 6 of the rules referring to the 'vacancies' runs as under :

"6. Vacancies: All the non-teacher/ non-academic posts in the institute are categorized into three groups (Group A, Group B and Group C). Categorization of various post into different groups is as given in Schedule-1. Under each group there will be a number of cadres, each cadre having a ladder with multiple levels of posts. The lowest post in a ladder will be called the entry post and the remaining posts within a ladder will be called selection posts. The direct recruitment will normally be done at the entry post in a ladder. However, in the interest of Institute work, lateral entry of external candidates may sometimes be permitted by Board for special needs under Groups A and B posts. Promotions of institute employees can be done to both entry and selection posts. However, promotions of institute employees to entry level posts will be vacancy based."

(emphasis added)

16. Upon bare reading of the aforesaid provisions, I find that Board has been vested with power to provide for direct recruitment even upon post that are prescribed not at entry level but by way of lateral entry. In this connection, it is necessary to refer to P-19 of the schedule of the Rules. The chart is reproduced:

MAINTENANCE STAFF (IWD)

ENTRY LEVEL
Asst. Exe. Engg PB-3 Rs. 15600-39100) Grade Pay 5400 Matrix Level 11	Executive Engg PB-3 (Rs. 15600-39100) Grade Pay 6600 Matrix Level 11	Executive Engg PB-3 (Rs. 15600-39100) Grade Pay 7600 Matrix Level 12	PAY BAND CHANGE	Executive Engg PB-4 (Rs. 37400-67000) Grade Pay 8700 Matrix Level 13	Executive Engg PB-4 (Rs. 37400-67000) Grade Pay 8900 Matrix Level 13 A

ENTRY LEVEL
Junior Engineer PB-2 (Rs. 9300-34800) Grade Pay 4200 Matrix Level 6	Senior Assistant Engineer (SG) PB-2 (Rs. 9300-34800) Grade Pay 5400 Matrix Level 9	Senior Assistant Engineer PB-2 (Rs. 9300-34800) Grade Pay 4800 Matrix Level 8 OR Senior Assistant Engineer	GROUP CHANGE (FROM B TO A)	Asst. Exe. Engg PB-3 Rs. 15600-39100) Grade Pay 5400 Matrix Level 10	Executive Engg PB-3 (Rs. 15600-39100) Grade Pay 6600 Matrix Level 11

		eer (SG) PB-2 (Rs. 9300- 34800) Grade Pay 5400 Pay Matrix Level 9
Group B					Group A

17. The above chart shows that in Group-A category, the only entry level post is Assistant Executive Engineer, pay band 3, grade pay, 5400/- at pay matrix Level 10, and likewise in Group- B category, the Junior Engineer post at pay matrix level-6 is the post provided for entry level. The chart makes it clear that while Junior Engineer Level post is exclusively filled up by direct recruitment but post of Assistant Executive Engineer, which is an entry level post at pay matrix level-10 in group A can also be filled up by promotion from Group-B post. This is further supported by P-40 of the first schedule of the rules that provides for 50 per cent of the vacancies of Assistant Executive Engineer at pay matrix level 10 to be filled up by way of promotion from those Senior Assistant Engineers working at pay matrix level-8/9 with grade pay 4800/5400- respectively. Both these posts of Senior Assistant Engineer and Senior Assistant Engineer (SG) which are occupied by the petitioners presently, fall in pay band-2 category. One more thing is very clear from P-33 to the first schedule that even post of Assistant Engineer which is a lateral entry of Group-B category at pay matrix level -7 shall also be filled up both by way of direct recruitment and by way of promotion from lower grade. The chart does not show that post of Executive Engineer of pay band 3 at pay matrix level 11 and onwards upto pay matrix level 13-A are to be filled up by direct recruitment under the rules. Thus, in order to fill up these vacancies, if otherwise than promotion, the Board has to adopt a resolution in suppression to the rules for which power is very much prescribed under rule 6 (supra). Board has adopted resolution on 23rd December, 2022 to fill up 5 posts of Executive Engineer by direct recruitment. The power very much lies with Board and there should be no quarrel about. The only question is whether these rules framed are valid or not.

18. In support of his argument questioning competence of the Board of Governors to frame rules, learned counsel for the petitioner Mr. Tripathi has heavily relied upon Section 33 1 (b) of the IT Act, 1961 which is reproduced hereunder:

“33. (1) It shall be the general duty of the Council to co- ordinate the activities of all the Institutes.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of sub. section (1), the Council shall perform the following functions, namely: -

a) to advise on matters relating to the duration of the courses, the degrees and other academic distinctions to be conferred by the Institutes, admission standards and other academic matters;

b) to lay down policy regarding cadres, methods of recruitment and conditions of service of employees, institution of scholarships and freeships, levying of fees and other matters of common interest;

c) to examine the development plans of each Institute and to approve such of them as are considered necessary and also to indicate broadly the financial implications of such approved plans;

d) to examine the annual budget estimates of each Institute and to recommend to the Central Government the allocation of funds for that purpose;

e) to advise the Visitor, if so required, in respect of any function to be performed by him under this Act; and

f) to perform such other functions as are assigned to it by or under this Act.”

(emphasis added)

19. The above provisions as contained under section 33-(1)(b) do provided for laying down policy regarding entries methods of recruitment conditions of service of employees etc. but question is what would be the legal position, if there are no such policies laid down.

20. I may here refer to Section 10,11 and 13 of the IT Act, 1961 that provide for Board of Governors, Senate and such other authorities as may be prescribed and declared by statutes. The constitution of Board and powers of Board under the relevant provisions are reproduced hereunder:

10. The following shall be the authorities of an Institute,

- a) a Board of Governors;
- b) a Senate; and
- c) Such other authorities as may be declared by the Statutes to be the authorities of the Institute.

11. The Board of an Institute shall consist of the following persons, namely:-

- a) the Chairman, to be nominated by the Visitor;
- b) the Director, ex officio,
- (c) one person to be nominated by the Government of each of the States comprising the zone in which the Institute is situated, from among persons who, in the opinion of that Government, are technologists or industrialists of repute;

(d) four persons having special knowledge or practical experience in respect of education, engineering or science, to be nominated by the Council; and

(e) two professors of the Institute, to be nominated by the Senate.

Explanation:- In this section, the expression "zone" means a zone as for the time being demarcated by the All-India Council for Technical Education for the purposes of this Act.

13. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Board of any Institute shall be responsible for the general superintendence, direction and control of the affairs of the Institute and shall exercise all the powers of the Institute not otherwise provided for by this Act, the Statutes and the Ordinances, and shall have the power to review the acts of the Senate.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of sub- section (1), the Board of any Institute shall-

(a) take decisions on questions of policy relating to the administration and working of the Institute;

(b) institute courses of study at the Institute;

(c) make Statutes;

(d) institute and appoint persons to academic as well as other posts in the Institute;

(e) consider and modify or cancel Ordinances;

(f) consider and pass resolutions on the annual report, the annual accounts and the budget estimates of the Institute for the next financial year as it thinks fit and submit them to the Council together with a statement of its developments plans;

(g) exercise such other powers and perform such other duties as may be conferred or imposed upon it by this Act or the Statutes.

(3) The Board shall have the power to appoint such committees as it considers necessary for the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties under this Act.

(emphasis added)

21. According to aforesaid provisions, residuary power lies with Board, which is not provided elsewhere. The first statute and ordinances have to be framed vide Section 6(1) of the IT Act, 1961 and that power lies with both the Board and the Council both. Section 38-(c) provides that so long as statutes and ordinances are not framed for each of the institutes of colleges, the statute and ordinance of the Indian Institute of Technology, Kharagpur will prevail.

22. In total circumspect of the provisions as discussed above, it is clear that either rules are framed by the council as Apex Body on all India basis or Board for the IIT Kanpur, the provisions of the IIT Kharagpur provide for such conditions to which Rule 6 of the recruitment and promotion rules can be said to be repugnant, the rules as framed by the Board of Governors exercising power under Section 13(1) would prevail. 13(2)-c also empower the Board to frame statutes, therefore, taking recourse to the harmonious constructions of the provisions as contained under Section 13(1) and 13(2) c and 33(1) (b) and 38-(C) of the IT Act, 1961, it can safely be concluded that Board of Governors being Apex Body of the IIT Kanpur under the Act, 1961 is fully empowered to frame recruitment and promotions rules and since it has framed such rules right from 2013 onwards as amended Rules 2021, such rules are held to be valid.

23. As the argument has been advanced that All India Council has the general powers over and above institutes of Technology and the Act, 1961 does vest power in the IITs to inform Ministry of Human Resources and Development to create post by virtue of delegated power, executing this power a resolution as adopted by All India Council as item no. 40.4 placed before the Board date 19th October, 2009 is reproduced hereunder:

“Item No. 40.4: Autonomy of the Institutes - financial, functional and managerial:

The issue of autonomy is closely linked with the capacity of the institutions to raise their own resources. In order to suggest ways and means of achieving more autonomy, it was decided to constitute a Committee comprising Dr. Anil Kakodkar, Chairman, BoG, IIT Bombay and four other members to be nominated by the Chairman to suggest a roadmap for the autonomy and future of the IITs. The Committee would inter alia examine the issue of increase in fees by the IITS in a gradual manner. While doing so, the interest of weaker sections of society i.e. SCs/STs/OBCs would be taken care of. It should be ensured that any student entering the IIT system should be able to avail educational loan and the same must be facilitated by the Institutes. The Committee could suggest an interest loan waiver scheme for students who continue to do research and take up teaching assignments. In fact a portion of the loan could be even considered for being written off for every year of teaching in a publicly funded institution in such a way that the entire loan could be written off if one has served in publicly funded institutions for more than 30 years or so. Any person who does Ph.D. must be supported. The Non Plan grants to be given to the IITs, which are in the process of being raised through the Block Grant scheme, should be linked to the actual students' strength. The ratio of B.Tech

Post Graduate and Research students in the Institutes should be maintained at optimum levels, while affecting increase in students' strength. The Institutes should be entitled for matching grants from the Government in case they generate more resources through research projects from the industry, consultancy, donations from alumni and others etc. All these issues will be examined by the above Committee which will submit its report within 4 months and will also follow up on the implementation of its recommendations.

It was also decided that flexibility would be given to the IITs for creation of posts. ITs may be delegated the power to create posts subject to the ratio of 10:1:1.1 between students, faculty and non-faculty. However the ITs would be required to inform the Ministry while creating the posts under these delegated powers. Addl. Secretary (MHRD) was asked to get this processed for issue of appropriate orders in this regard, after obtaining the approval of the Ministry of Finance.

The Directors of IITs expressed that there was a need for more laboratory staff. AS & FA stated that clarifications have been issued to the ITs that requirement of increased number of technical staff due to OSC expansion only could be allowed even if the ratio exceeds the norms of 1:1.1 between faculty to non-faculty staff.

It was also clarified that for the purpose of new cars for the Directors of new IITs, the BoG of the concerned Institute was competent to approve.

It was also decided that every IIT would present its vision document at the Retreat proposed in January, 2010."

24. Mr. Gupta, has argued that rules does not provide post of Superintendent Engineer under, and therefore, resolution was rightly adopted by the Board to create a post as required. He has argued that besides there being residuary power with the Board by virtue of which it provided resolution dated 23rd December, 2022 there being residuary power with the Council under the IT Act, 1961, by virtue of Section 2-b of Section 33 of the IT Act, 1961 and so it rightly adopted resolution. So even creation of post of Superintending Engineer under the resolution adopted by the Board of Governors is a valid act within the ambit and scope of powers vested in it.

25. In view of above, in respect of both point nos. 1 and 2, I hold that Board of Governors of IIT Kanpur is justified in framing recruitment Rules 2018 as modified/ amended in 2021 and since Rule 6 of rules provides for powers for the direct recruitment even upon post falling in lateral entries (P-19) that includes post of Executive Engineer, the resolution adopted by it to make a direct recruitment upon such post dated 23rd December, 2022 is also valid. Besides the above, I also find that petitioners are not eligible for the post of Executive Engineer for the simple reason that they are not working as Assistant Executive Engineer .

26. So for the post of Executive Engineer is concerned, there should be no quarrel because Rules vide P-19 to the schedule make post of Executive Engineer at pay matrix level- 11 in the Group- A to be filled up by promotion only from Assistant Executive Engineer, pay matrix level 10 and the essential qualification under the advertisement is also three years of regular clear service at Assistant Executive Engineer, level- 10 or equivalent level. So essential qualification prescribed under the advertisement, rules are same.

27. Under the circumstances, therefore, petitioners cannot question the advertisement as far as post of Executive Engineer is concerned because they have nothing to put on stake, being not eligible even by way of promotion upon the posts in question. There is no prayer in the writ petition seeking promotion to the post of Assistant Executive Engineer, so no relief as such can be granted to promote them first as Assistant Executive Engineer if lying vacant then to direct to consider their claim for the post of Executive Engineer.

28. The question of consideration of age would have arisen had petitioners been working at pay matrix level-10 which is not a case in hand even otherwise prescribed qualification is a pure administrative policy decision of employer either by framing rules or otherwise by executing instructions to be meet requirements as per suitability required.

29. In my above view, I find support from paragraph 16 of the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Thingujam Achouba Singh and Others (Supra) Paragraph 16 runs as under:

“16. So far as relaxation of upper age-limit, as sought by the petitioners in one of the writ petitions is concerned, the High Court has directed the competent authority and Executive Council of the Society to consider for providing such relaxation clause. We fail to understand as to how such direction can be given by the High Court for providing a relaxation which is not notified in the advertisement. While it is open for the employer to notify such criteria for relaxation when sufficient candidates are not available, at the same time nobody can claim such relaxation as a matter of right. The eligibility criteria will be within the domain of the employer and no candidate can seek as a matter of right, to provide relaxation clause.”

30. Admittedly, there is no challenge to the rules. The pleading in the writ petition are absolutely silent about validity of these rules. In fact these rules have though been not annexed with writ petition but a particular table has been annexed which is P-19, which is provided under the schedule of the recruitment and selection Rules 2018 amended in 2021. This table has been relied upon by the petitioner to take the plea that post in question is a promoted post.

31. In the rejoinder affidavit although plea has been taken vide paragraph 8 that IIT Council shall be laying down the rules of recruitment shall be providing for conditions of service as per Institutes of Technology Act, 1961, but neither any policy has been annexed or even referred to by the petitioner in the rejoinder affidavit, nor even recruitment and Career Progression Scheme as referred to in paragraph 8 of the rejoinder affidavit has been brought on record.

32. In the same judgment of Dr. Thingujam Achouba Singh and Others (Supra), the Court has held merely because rules are not in public domain notifying it, cannot itself be a ground to challenge and further if the rules are not challenged the Court will not embark upon an enquiry as to the validity of such rules. Vide paragraph 13 and 14, the Court has held thus:

“13. At the outset, it is to be noticed that though, in none of the writ petitions, Rules governing appointment to the post of Director was under challenge, the High Court has gone into the validity of the Rules, as amended, and held that amendments to the Rules were not carried out by following the Rules, Regulations and Bye-laws of the Society. The specific plea of the respondent authorities in the writ petitions, that there is no challenge to validity of the Rules but same has been brushed aside by the High Court by merely stating that such an objection is of technical nature. At this stage, it is relevant to note that such objection raised should not have been brushed aside by the High Court by holding that such objection is of a technical nature. In all these writ petitions in which common order [H. Nabachandra Singh v. Union of India, 2017 SCC OnLine Mani 52] is passed by the High Court, validity of advertisement dated 16-8-2016 alone was under challenge. We are of the view that the High Court has committed an error in going into the validity of the Rules, in absence of any challenge to the same. In any event, it was the case of the respondent authorities that the Rules governing appointment were amended by following the Rules and such amendment was also approved by the competent authority, of Ministry of Health & Family Welfare.

14. Further, the fact of not notifying the amended Rules has also been made basis for grant of relief by the High Court. In this regard, the High Court has held that not notifying the amended Rules would strike at the root of the amendment process of the recruitment rules, as such, unless such Rules are notified, the same cannot be enforced. It appears from the impugned order itself that it was the specific plea in the counter-affidavit filed before the High Court that the said Rules were not framed under Article 309 of the Constitution of India and further there is no specific provision in the Rules, Regulations and Bye-laws of RIMS for notifying the same. It is true that in a public institution, rules are required to be made available, but at the same time not notifying to public at large cannot be the ground to invalidate the notification, in the absence of any provision to that effect in the Bye-laws of the Society or the Rules and Regulations framed for recruitment to the post of Director.”

33. Coming to second point as to whether these five posts would have fallen in promotion quota, suffice it to say that since these are lateral positions and the Board of Governors is vested with power to fill up within vacancies by direct recruitment regarding, under rule 6, even if these vacancies were meant to be filled up by promotion, the resolutions adopted by the Board to meet special exigency cannot be faulted with.

34. Thus, I do not find any good ground to quash the advertisement in question. Writ petition fails and is accordingly dismissed with no order as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Supplementary counter affidavit filed today be taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Anupam Kulshreshtha, learned counsel for petitioner, Sri Devesh Vikram, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for State-respondents and Sri Chandra Bhan Gupta, learned counsel for respondent no. 2.

3. Present petition has been filed seeking following reliefs:-

“a) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned show cause notice dated 07.11.2014, served by the petitioner on 25.11.2014 (Annexure No. 1 to the writ petition) as well as the impugned show cause notice dated 08.08.2022 (Annexure No. 4 to the writ petition);

b) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the respondents to drop the disciplinary proceedings initiate against the petitioner pursuant to the impugned show cause notices dated 07.11.2014 and 08.08.2022, in view of the fact that the disciplinary proceedings are not permissible to be initiated under the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Rajya Sahkari Bhumi Vikas Bank Employees Service Rules, 1976 after retirement of an employee;

c) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the respondents to pay all post-retirement dues, namely; earned leave encashment, gratuity, security, etc., along with interest @ 8% per annum accruing to the petitioner.”

4. Brief facts of the case are that petitioner was working as Assistant Field Officer in Uttar Pradesh Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Ltd. at Bhogaon Branch, Mainpuri and he was superannuated on 31.07.2013.

5. Learned counsel for petitioner submitted that after retirement of petitioner, a show cause notice dated 07.11.2014 (served on 25.11.2014) was issued to the petitioner proposing the punishment of recovery of Rs. 2,74,380/- from him. The service of petitioner is governed by Uttar Pradesh Rajya Sahkari Bhumi Vikas Bank Employees Service Rules, 1976 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Rules, 1976'). Apart from other grounds, in his reply dated 05.12.2014, petitioner has taken specific ground that after retirement, no such show cause notice may be issued as Rules, 1976 is having no such provisions for issuance of show cause notice or departmental proceeding against a retired employee. After submission of reply, no action has been taken against the petitioner by the respondent-Bank. Again, a show cause notice dated 08.08.2022 i.e. after around eight years was issued to the petitioner for recovery of 50% of Rs. 6,47,187/-. Petitioner has replied the same vide letters dated 06.09.2022 & 11.03.2023. In these replies too, petitioner has taken specific ground that after retirement, no such show cause notice may be issued. Pursuant to the show cause notices dated 07.11.2014 & 08.08.2022, till date, no decision has been taken and gratuity has also been paid to the petitioner retaining the amount of leave encashment and security. He pointed out that service of petitioner is not pensionable. In lack of provisions of Rules, 1976, impugned order is bad and liable to be set aside. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgments of Apex Court as well as this Court in the matters of Dev Prakash Tewari vs. U.P. Cooperative Institutional Service Board; (2014) 7 SCC 260, Smt. Luxmi Devi and another vs. State of U.P. and others; 2022 (11) ADJ 170, Brahmnaad Tyagi vs. State of U.P. and others; 2022 (8) ADJ 624.

6. Per contra, Sri Chandra Bhan Gupta, learned counsel for respondent-Bank submitted that service of petitioner is governed under the provisions of Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Society Employees Service Regulation, 1975 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Regulation, 1975'), but he could not demonstrate any provision in Regulation, 1975 authorizing the respondent-Bank to initiate departmental proceeding or show cause notice after retirement. He further submitted in light of judgment of Apex Court in the matter of U.P. State Sugar Corp. Ltd. vs. Kamal Swaroop Tondon; (2008) 2 SCC 41, even after retirement, show cause notice may be issued, but he could not dispute that in the present case, no departmental proceeding has ever been initiated against the petitioner till his retirement and the impugned show cause notices are based upon general inquiry against some other persons.

7. I have considered rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perused the records as well as judgment cited above. It is undisputed that in Rules, 1976 as well as Regulation, 1975, there is no provision for initiating any disciplinary proceeding or issuing show cause notice against the employee after retirement. This fact is also undisputed that against the petitioner, no inquiry has ever been instituted till his retirement. Now, by two show cause notices dated 07.11.2014 & 08.08.2022, direction has been issued to recover Rs. 2,74,380/- and 50% of Rs. 6,47,187/- from the petitioner. The question is as to whether, such show cause notices can be issued to petitioner in absence of any provisions in Rules, 1976 and Regulations, 1975.

8. Learned counsel for petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of Dev Prakash Tewari (Supra). Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment is quoted below:-

“9. Once the appellant had retired from service on 31.3.2009, there was no authority vested with the respondents for continuing the disciplinary proceeding even for the purpose of imposing any reduction in the retiral benefits payable to the appellant. In the absence of such an authority it must be held that the enquiry had lapsed and the appellant was entitled to get full retiral benefits.

10. The question has also been raised in the appeal with regard to arrears of salary and allowances payable to the appellant during the period of his dismissal and upto the date of reinstatement. Inasmuch as the inquiry had lapsed, it is, in our opinion, obvious that the appellant would have to get the balance of the emoluments payable to him.

11. The appeals are, therefore, allowed and the judgment and order of the High Court are set aside and the respondents are directed to pay arrears of salary and allowances payable to the appellant and also to pay him his all the retiral benefits in accordance with the rules and regulations as if there had been no disciplinary proceeding or order passed therein. No costs.”

9. In the matter of Smt. Luxmi Devi (Supra), this Court after following the law laid down by Apex Court in the matter of Dev Prakash Tewari (Supra), has taken the same view. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment is quoted below:-

“10. This Court has carefully considered the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in Dev Prakash Tewari (supra) where the Supreme Court had followed the judgment rendered by it earlier in Bhagirathi Jena Vs. Orissa State Financial Corporation [(1999) 3 SCC 666] where it was held that in the absence of any provision in the Regulations governing the service of an employee providing for continuation of disciplinary proceedings after retirement, the respondent cannot continue the disciplinary proceedings after the employee's superannuation.

11. The State of U.P., no doubt notified the XXII Amendment to the Regulations of 1975 but it provided the date of enforcement as the date of publication in the Gazette. Publication was made only on 27.08.2018 in the official Gazette. Hence, no retrospective operation can be given to the Regulations and the Registrar could not have given sanction on 09.02.2021 for initiation of disciplinary proceedings against the husband of the petitioner no.1.

12. This Court has also considered the Division Bench judgment in the case of Rajya Krishi Utpadan Mandi Parishad (supra), while placing reliance upon the judgment rendered in Bhagirathi Jena (supra), the Division Bench observed that the post of contesting respondent being non pensionable, Article 351-A of Civil Services Regulation was not applicable. After the date of superannuation, the disciplinary proceedings could not go on in the absence of any specific provision. The Court also held that contesting respondent was entitled to interest on the amount payable to him.

13. Having considered the judgments rendered by this Court and by the Supreme Court and the facts as mentioned in the pleadings on record regarding which there is no dispute, this Court is of the considered opinion that the disciplinary proceedings initiated against late husband of the petitioner no.1 is without jurisdiction as he retired on 31.07.2018 much before the amendment in the Regulation was notified with prospective effect.

14. The proceedings initiated against late Ram Nazar Singh being without jurisdiction are liable to be quashed and are quashed. The writ petition is allowed.

15. Consequential benefits shall be available to the petitioners. Recovery of Rs.11,80,363/- from the gratuity and other services benefits of late Ram Nazar Singh, if the same has been deducted, shall be refunded to the petitioners along with 6% compound interest as had the amount been deposited in a Bank by the petitioners on its receipt in time, they would have been entitled to bank's rate of interest on such deposit. ”

10. I have perused the judgment of this Court passed in Brahmannad Tyagi(Supra). Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment is quoted below:-

“From perusal of the judgments of the Apex Court as well as this Court, it is very much clear that once there is no rule occupying the field for disciplinary proceeding against an employee after retirement, proceeding so initiated or continued after retirement, is not sustainable as it de-hors the rules and liable to be set aside.

In the present case too, petitioner was retired on 30.04.2018 thereafter disciplinary proceeding was initiated vide order dated 07.07.2021 and charge sheet was served upon him on 07.04.2022 i.e.

undisputedly disciplinary proceeding was initiated after retirement of the petitioner whereas Regulations 1984 does not provide any disciplinary proceeding against a retired employee. Even in case of adoption of rules applicable to the State Government employees under Regulation 43 of Regulations 1984, once the service is not pensionable under Regulation 47 of Regulations 1984, no action can be taken against him under Article 351-A of CSR or any other rule adopted by respondents under Regulation 43 of Regulations 1984. Therefore, impugned order dated 07.07.2021 and subsequent charge sheet dated 07.07.2022 are bad in law and liable to be set aside. ”

11. I have also perused the judgment of Apex Court passed in Kamal Swaroop Tondon(Supra) relied by Sri Chandra Bhan Gupta, learned counsel for respondent no. 2. The facts of the case is summarized in paragraph no. 13 of the said judgment, which is quoted below:-

“The learned counsel for the appellant is right when he submitted that show cause notice was issued to the respondent-employee on January 13, 2000 when he was very much in service. The respondent submitted his explanation on January 15, 2000 which was not found to be satisfactory. A regular show cause notice was, therefore, issued by the Corporation on January 31, 2000 and was served upon the respondent-employee on the same day. The notice was also sent by registered post which was received by the employee on February 11, 2000. But it is clear from the documents that show cause notice was issued and replied. A regular show cause notice as to departmental inquiry was also served upon the respondent- employee on the last day of his service which was January 31, 2000. In our opinion, therefore, it could not be said that the proceedings had been initiated against the respondent-employee after he retired from service.”

12. Now, Court has expressed its view in paragraph nos. 28, 29 & 40, which are also quoted below:-

“If it is so, the appellant-Corporation, in our opinion, is right in submitting that the proceedings could have been continued after the retirement of the respondent-employee as far as the financial loss caused to the Corporation because of negligence on the part of employee and the benefit claimed by the respondent-workman on his terminal benefits.

Strong reliance was placed by the learned counsel for the respondent on P.V. Mahadevan v. MD. T.N. Housing Board, (2005) 6 SCC 636 : JT 2005 (7) SC 417. In that case, there was inordinate delay of ten years in initiating departmental proceedings against an employee. In absence of convincing explanation by the employer for such inordinate delay, this Court held that the proceedings were liable to be quashed.

Considering the facts and circumstances in their entirety, in our considered opinion, the High Court was wrong in holding that the proceedings were initiated after the respondent retired and there was no power, authority or jurisdiction with the Corporation to take any action against the writ-petitioner and in setting aside the orders passed against him. In our judgment, proceedings could have been taken for the recovery of financial loss suffered by the Corporation due to negligence and carelessness attributable to the respondent-employee. The impugned action, therefore, cannot be said to be illegal or without jurisdiction and the High Court was not right in quashing the proceedings as also the orders issued by the Corporation. The appeal, therefore, deserves to be allowed by setting aside the order of the High Court.”

13. From the perusal of judgments relied upon by learned counsel for petitioner, it is apparently clear that after retirement, in case of lack of provisions in Rules or Regulations, neither departmental proceeding nor any show cause notice can be issued for recovery of any amount. Present case, during the course of service, no inquiry has even been initiated against the petitioner fixing the liability.

14. The judgment of Kamal Swaroop Tondon (Supra) relied by learned counsel for respondents is based upon entirely different facts. In that case, show cause notice was issued to petitioner on 13.01.2000 when he was in service, reply was also submitted on 15.01.2000, which was not found satisfactory. Thereafter, regular show cause notice was issued on 31.01.2000 and served upon the employee on the very same date, therefore, Court was of the view that proceeding had been initiated against the employee before his retirement. So far as present case is concerned, without any dispute, first and second show cause notices have been issued to the petitioner much after his retirement, therefore, ratio of law of Kamal Swaroop Tondon (Supra) shall not be applicable in the present case.

15. Here the case is entirely different as undisputedly, after 15 months from the date of retirement, first show cause notice dated 07.11.2014 has been issued to the petitioner proposing the punishment of recovery of Rs. 2,74,380/- and surprisingly, even after submission of reply of show cause notice on 05.12.2014, no action had been taken by the respondent-Bank. Now, after around eight years, in the year 2022, again a show cause notice dated 08.08.2022 was issued to the petitioner directing to submit his reply as to why 50% of Rs. 6,47,187/- may not be recovered from him, but till date, final decision has not been taken except detaining the leave encashment and security amount.

16. In the light of facts of law discussed hereinabove, this Court is of the considered view that in lack of provisions in rules and regulations, after retirement, no show cause notice or departmental proceeding can be initiated against any employee. Further, in case a show cause notice has been issued by the department, duly replied by the employee and no action has been taken for a long time, it is not open for the department to issue another show cause notice at a very belated stage for same cause of action after.

17. In the present case, under Rules, 1976 and Regulation, 1975, there is no provision to issue show cause notice or initiate departmental proceeding after retirement, therefore, issuance of show cause notice in lack of provisions is bad after retirement. Further, first show cause notice was issued in the year 2014 and for the same cause of action, another show cause notice was issued in the year 2022, which is also not permissible. Therefore, in view of aforesaid facts and circumstances, impugned show cause notices dated 07.11.2014 and 08.08.2022 are bad and hereby quashed.

18. With the aforesaid observations, writ petition is allowed.

19. No order as to costs.

20. Respondents are directed to pay all post-retirement dues, namely; earned leave encashment, security, etc., along with interest @ 7% per annum from due date to the date of actual payment.

A. Tenancy Law – U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 – Section 21(1)(a) – Release of premises – Bona fide need claimed – After the death of applicant/landlord, the heirs were substituted and application was also amended by substituting their need for the shop – Amendment granted at the appellate stage, how far, would relate back to the date of filing of the release application – Held, the reasoning adopted by the Appellate Authority in reading the amendment in the release application retrospectively relying U.P. on the ratio of the Apex Court's decision reported in 2002 (7) SCC 559 is perfectly justified and does not suffer from any infirmity – No illegality or perversity has been committed by the learned Appellate Authority while passing the order dated 18.10.2023. (Para 9, 20 and 22)

B. Tenancy Law – U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulations of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Rules, 1972 – Rule 18 – Bar of second release application – Tenant claimed that new bona fide need pleaded at appellate stage would tantamount the application as second application, which is barred under Rule 18 – Permissibility – Held, Rule 18 would be attracted only when the first release application of the landlord has been rejected on merits and the second Release Application is filed on the same grounds within one year of the rejection of the earlier Release Application – In the case at hand it is not the case. The Release Application had not been rejected on merits or otherwise and as such there is no question of filing a second Release Application. 3. The admitted facts shorn of unnecessary details essential for deciding the controversy between the parties is that the petitioner is a tenant in a shop number 33-A situate on the ground floor of a building no. 33 Lakhanpur, Kanpur Nagar at monthly rent of Rs. 400/-. A release application under Section 21(1)(a) of the U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 was filed by one Virendra Singh the predecessor in interest of the respondent no. 1/1 to 1/3 herein setting up a bona fide need for the shop under the tenancy of the petitioner. In the release application, it was averred that the original landlord of the building no. 33C on the ground floor of which the shop under the tenancy of the petitioner is situate was Smt. Kamla Devi. On the death of Smt. Kamla Devi the building devolved upon her 3 sons (respondent Virendra and his two brothers). A mutual partition took place amongst the co-owners and the applicant Virendra Singh became the owner of the portion under which the shop under the tenancy fell. It was also averred in the release application that he has superannuated from the U.P. Power Corporation, Lucknow on 30.06.2013 and wants to set up his own business in the shop under the tenancy of the petitioner. It was also stated that the rent of the shop is Rs. 800 per month but the tenant has not paid rent since August 2013. In Para 9 of the release application, it was specifically stated that if the shop is released in his favour, the same would be utilized for carrying on business by self and would not be let out to any third party. It was further stated that the tenant petitioner is not carrying on business in the shop in question and infact is carrying on the business of his father in another shop.

4. The release application was opposed by the tenant petitioner primarily on the ground that on the own showing of the landlord respondent no. 1 the building no. 33C came to their share but the shop of the petitioner was 33A which came to the share of other co-owners and as such there existed no landlord-tenant relationship between him and the landlords. The tenant-petitioner filed the GST registration of the shop as also the electricity bills of the shop to demonstrate that the shop under his tenancy was numbered 33A.

5. During the pendency of the rent case before the Prescribed Authority the landlord Virendra Singh expired on 11.09.2018 and his heirs and legal representatives (respondent nos. 1/1 to 1/3 herein) were brought on record. Though the release application was amended but it was alleged by the tenant petitioner that no amendment regarding the need of the substituted heirs was done and consequently no need of the shop for the heirs was claimed. The respondent no. 1/1 however filed an affidavit before the Prescribed Authority clearly stating that the premises was required for starting a cosmetic business.

6. The learned Prescribed Authority on the materials on record rejected the release application vide its order dated 01.07.2022. It proceeded to record specific findings that there existed a relationship of landlord and tenant between the tenant petitioner and the landlord respondents. The Prescribed Authority took note of the fact that the relationship of landlord and tenant had not been disputed as was evident from para 1 of the written statement (paper no. 14) as also in the evidence affidavit (paper no. 38A). On the question of bona fide need the learned Prescribed Authority taking note of the fact that the applicant/landlord at whose instance the release application was filed had expired and the heirs could get themselves substituted under Section 21(7) of the Act and press their own need for the premises under the tenancy relying upon the law laid down in 2004 (8) SCC 76 and 2013 (3) ARC 247 (SC) came to the conclusion that though the heirs had got themselves impleaded in the place of the original applicant/landlord but did not plead their bona fide need for the premises under the tenancy of the petitioner. It also took note of the fact that the heirs after getting themselves substituted filed an affidavit stating that the premises was required for starting a cosmetic business in the shop in question but the same could not be looked into in the absence of any pleading. It accordingly proceeded to conclude that there was no bona fide need of the landlord/respondents for the shop under the tenancy of the petitioner and rejected the release application.

7. The landlord/respondents assailed the order of the Prescribed Authority in Rent Appeal No. 80 of 2022. At the stage of the appeal they moved an amendment application seeking amendment in the release application which amendment was allowed on an ex parte motion when the tenant/petitioner did not appear nor filed any objections to the amendment despite time having been granted. The tenant petitioner was however permitted to file his additional objections.

8. The Appellate Authority proceeded to frame the following points & determination for disposal of the appeal.

i. Whether the provisions of the U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 are applicable to the premises in question.

ii. Whether the amendment allowed at the appellate stage would relate back or be read from the date being allowed.

iii. Whether the need of the applicants is pressing and bona fide.

iv. Comparative hardship lies in whose favour.

v. What relief the appellants/applicant are entitled to.

9. The Appellate Authority on the appreciation of the material on record returned a finding that the provisions of the U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 were applicable and the tenant-petitioner failed to prove otherwise. On the question as to whether the amendment granted at the appellate stage would relate back to the date of filing of the release application the Appellate Authority ruled that in the absence of any observation that it would relate from the date the amendment stood allowed, it would relate back to the date of the release application relying upon the ratio of the decision of the Apex Court reported in 2002 SAR (civil) 854 (SC) Sumpath Kumar Vs. Auja Kannu and others (2002 (7) SCC 559).

10. On the question of bona fide need the Appellate Authority took note of the fact that the original applicant Virendra Singh who had set up a need of the premises in question for starting a business as he had retired from U.P. Power Corporation expired during the pendency of the release application. His legal representatives got substituted and amended the release application by substituting their need for the shop in question. The Appellate Authority found that an affidavit (paper no. 95) was filed by the landlord respondent 1/1 before the prescribed authority. The Appellate Authority further found that in the objection filed to the evidence affidavit of the respondent no. 1/1 in the court below the tenant petitioner had filed his objections (paper No. 100) and did not controvert the averments made in para 3 and 4 of the evidence affidavit (paper no. 95) which clearly set out the need for starting cosmetic business in the shop in dispute. The Appellate Authority relying upon the ratio of the Case laws 2013 (97) ALR 184, 1993 UPTC 407, 1995 UPTC 1035, AIR 1999 SC 1125 and AIR 2004 SC 1239 being of the view that no useful purpose would be served to remand the matter back for consideration by the Prescribed Authority afresh as the materials to evaluate /consider the bona fide need and comparative hardships of the parties were very much on record, considered the materials and returned a finding upholding the bona fide need on the ground that the bona fide need of the landlord respondent 1/1 has not been controverted and further the tenant petitioner cannot dictate the landlord in what manner he may put to use the premises relying on the ratio of the decision of the Apex Court in the Case reported in 2013 (97) ALR 817 (SC), 2010 (83) ALR 809, 2007 (2) ARC 851, 2001 SCFBRC 397 and 1999(6) SCC 222.

11. On the question of Comparative hardship, the Appellate Authority found that besides the shop under his tenancy the tenant petitioner is possessed with two other commercial accommodations in which the tenant/petitioner carrying on his business while the respondent/landlords have no other accommodation to carry on their business. Accordingly the Appellate Authority held that the respondent landlords would suffer greater hardship as compared to the tenant petitioner if the shop is not released. Consequently, the Appellate Authority proceeded to allow the appeal and the release application.

12. Sri Prakhar Tandon, learned counsel for the tenant petitioner has vehemently argued that the order of the Appellate Authority allowing the appeal of the landlord respondents suffers from manifest illegality on the ground that:

I. The appellate authority failed to decide the question whether the landlord tenant relationship existed between the parties before proceeding to consider the question of bona fide need in the admitted facts and failed to adhere to the ratio of the decision reported in 2020 (1) ADJ 766 (Shri Shiv Prakash Vs. ADJ, Court No. 24, Kanpur Nagar & others).

II. The Appellate Authority proceeded on the erroneous assumption that the tenanted shop existed in the house No. 33C Lakhnpur, Kanpur Nagar though it was established that the shop number under the tenancy of the petitioner was 33A.

III. The learned Prescribed Authority had returned finding that the landlord/respondent though moved amendment consequent to the death of the original landlord applicant but did not amend the bona fide need, yet the Appellate Authority proceeded to allow the appeal and the release application.

IV. The Appellate Authority committed grave illegality by not affording opportunity to tenant petitioner to file evidence in support of his amended pleadings and relied upon the amended para of the release application which was not supported by affidavit in evidence.

V. The Appellate Authority ought not to have read the amendment in the release application retrospectively.

VI. The findings of the Appellate Authority on the question of Comparative hardship and the tenant petitioner having alternate shops and running his business is misleading and could not form the basis of the finding as both shops have different registration and distinct proprietorships.

VII. The release application of the landlord respondents would tantamount to a second release application on new bona fide need pleaded at the appellate stage and thus barred under Section 18 of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulations of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Rules, 1972. The Appellate Authority has not applied its mind to this aspect of the matter.

13. Per contra, Ms. Shreya Gupta, learned counsel for the plaintiff/respondents has supported the impugned orders passed by the Appellate Authority by submitting that the Appellate Authority has appreciated the materials on record in the correct perspective and noticed the errors committed by the Prescribed Authority in rejecting the release application and has rightly proceeded to set aside the order, allow the Appeal as also the Release Application. She submits that the question of title to the tenanted premises is not germane for the decision of the eviction proceedings and what is to be established is the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties and the grounds on which the eviction has been sought under the rent Act. Reliance has been placed upon the decision reported in Neutral Citation No. 2019 :AHC:19470 and 2019 (7) ADJ 784.

14. It is next contended that the Appellate Authority was perfectly justified to have treated the Amendment Application to have related back to the date of the release application by placing reliance upon the decision reported in 2002 (7) SCC 559. It is further contended that after the death of Virendra Singh the Original Applicant in the release application the learned Prescribed Authority permitted amendment of the Release Application and the word 'Wadi' wherever occurring in the Release Application was permitted to be replaced by the word 'Wadigan'. Thus the need for the demised property for starting business was made and there was no necessity to indicate what business was to be undertaken in the demised property. Reliance has been placed upon the decision reported in 1997 (11) SCC 411.

15. I have heard the learned counsels for the parties and have perused the record and have also gone through the decisions cited by the respective counsels in support of their cases.

16. So far as the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner as regards non adherence to the ratio of the decision reported in 2020 (1) ADJ 766 by the Appellate Authority is concerned the Court finds no merit in the submission. The petitioner has admitted that he is a tenant in the shop in dispute in the written statement filed by him (paper no. 14) as also in the Additional Evidence Affidavit (Paper No. 38-A). The learned Prescribed Authority also took note of the said admission and returned a finding that there existed landlord tenant relationship between the petitioner and the respondent landlords. It appears that while contesting the Appeal the Tenant petitioner did not press this point in as much as no point of determination in this regards was framed. In the opinion of the Court the point cannot now be agitated before this Court.

17. There is also no merit in the submission that the Appellate Authority proceeded on the assumption that the demised property existed in House No. 33 C whereas it existed in 33A. The records particularly the Additional Evidence affidavit filed by the tenant/ petitioner before the Prescribed Authority (Paper No. 38A) clearly reveals that the tenancy in House No. 32 was admitted. Para 1 of the affidavit (Paper No. 38A) is being reproduced hereunder:

"यहकि शपथकर्ता भवन सं०- 33 सी लखनपुर कानपुरनगर के भूमिखण्ड पर स्थित एक दुकान का वैधानिक किरायेदार है, दौरान विचारण वाद याची भवनस्वामी का देहान्त दिनांक-11-09-2018 को हो गया है।"

18. The Court further finds that the Release Application under Section 21 (1) (a) of the UP Act No. 13 of 1972 was filed in respect of a shop 9x8 feet situate in House No. 33 C, Jakhanpur, Police Station-Kalyanpur, Kanpur Nagar, on the ground floor. The averments made in the release application clearly states how the building no. 33 Jakhanpur, Kanpur Nagar, earlier owned by Shri Shivpal Singh S/o Gurdalay Singh devolved upon Smt. Kamla Devi and after her death on 20.06.2007 that part of the Building No. 33, containing the shop in question which fell to the share of the plaintiff/ respondent and was numbered as 33-C and fully described in Schedule A x B of the Release Application. In para 3 of the Release Application it was specifically stated that the shop under the tenancy of the petitioner has come to the share of the Release Applicant which is situated on the main road and the residential portion is behind the shop in dispute. The averments in para 3 of the Release Application has not been specifically denied by the tenant petitioner. In the wake of the above the submissions do not merit consideration.

19. In respect of the contention of learned counsel for the tenant petitioner that the Appellate Authority did not afford any opportunity to the tenant petitioner to file evidence in support of his amended pleadings and relied upon the amended para of the release application which was not supported by affidavit, it is borne out from the order sheet of the proceedings of the Rent Appeal which has been brought on record as Annexure 12 to the writ petition that the amendment application (paper no. 24-C) dated 30.05.2023 was filed on which the order was passed to file reply and 01.07.2023 was fixed for its disposal. On 01.07.2023 one more opportunity was granted to petitioner to file reply and 04.07.2023 was fixed. On 04.07.2023 the Tenant petitioner did not appear nor filed reply and the Appeal was directed to proceed exparte. The amendment was allowed exparte vide detailed order dated 08.08.2023 taking note of the fact that copy of the amendment had been served upon the petitioner on 30.05.2023 but till date no objections/ reply had been filed. Time was granted to the tenant petitioner to file additional written statement by 18.08.2023. On 18.08.2023 the Appellate Authority noted that additional reply had not been filed and after closing the opportunity fixed the Appeal for arguments on 31.08.2023. The order dated 18.08.2023 was however subsequently recalled vide order dated 25.09.2023 and the additional reply of the petitioner was taken on record. Thereafter the Appeal was adjourned at the instance of the Tenant petitioner and final arguments were advanced on 09.10.2023 and the order was delivered on 18.10.2023. There was thus ample time for the tenant petitioner to file evidence but he choose not to do so and advanced his arguments. In the opinion of the Court the tenant petitioner in the above circumstances cannot insist that time to file evidence was liable to be afforded to him and the order of the Appellate Authority is bad on that count.

20. The submissions of learned counsel for the petitioner that the Appellate Authority ought not to have read the amendment in the release application retrospectively does not merit consideration and the Court finds that the reasoning adopted by the Appellate Authority in reading the amendment in the release application retrospectively relying upon the ratio of the Apex Court's decision reported in 2002 (7) SCC 559 is perfectly justified and does not suffer from any infirmity.

21. The last submission of learned counsel for the tenant petitioner that the release application of the landlord respondents would tantamount to a second release application on new bonafide need pleaded at the Appellate Stage and thus barred under Rule 18 of the Rules is thoroughly misplaced. The Rule 18 of the Rules in the opinion of the Court would be attracted only when the first release application of the landlord has been rejected on merits and the second Release Application is filed on the same grounds within one year of the rejection of the earlier Release Application. In the case at hand it is not the case. The Release Application had not been rejected on merits or otherwise and as such there is no question of filing a second Release Application. The amendment made in the pending release application on the death of the original release applicant cannot be contrued to give rise to a second release application so as to attract Rule 18 (2) of the Rules particularly in view of Section 21 (7) of the act which permits the heirs and legal representatives of the deceased landlord to prosecute the release application further on the basis of their own need in substitution of the need of the deceased. The contention is liable to be rejected and is hereby rejected as misconceived.

22. In view of the above the Court finds that the learned Prescribed Authority had committed patent illegality in rejecting the Release Application of the landlord respondents. The Appellate Authority, however on a thorough consideration of all aspects has found that the need of the premises under the tenancy of the petitioner is bonafide, genuine and pressing and has rightly allowed the Appeal after setting aside the order of the learned Prescribed Authority dated 01.07.2022 and has directed the release of the shop in favour of the landlord respondents. No illegality or perversity has been committed by the learned Appellate Authority while passing the order dated 18.10.2023 warranting any interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The writ petition is devoid of merits and is accordingly dismissed.

23. Learned counsel for the tenant petitioner submits that the petitioner has been a tenant in the shop in question since the year 1990 and considering the length of the tenancy some reasonable time be granted to vacate the premises. A period of 1 year to vacate has been prayed for.

24. Ms. Shreya Gupta, learned counsel for the respondent landlords has opposed the prayer for grant of time to vacate. She however submits that a period of 2 months would be sufficient. The Court has considered the request of the petitioner for time to vacate and finds that a period of 4 months from today would be more than sufficient for the petitioner to look for alternate accommodation and handover vacant possession of the shop to the landlord respondents within 4 months from today i.e. on or before 31st July, 2024. The petitioner shall continue to deposit the rent of the premises @ of Rs. 800/- per month till the date of handing over of the possession and shall not sublet the shop or change its nature.

25. Parties to bear their own costs.

A. Service Law – U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules. 1999 – Rule 7(vii) – Disciplinary proceeding – Termination – Charge of visiting Bank and facilitating pensioners for their pension was leveled against the petitioner, a Peon – Petitioner denied charges – Inquiry Officer did not convene any proceedings of the inquiry, fixing a date, time and venue – He never called U.P.on the Establishment to produce their evidence – Effect – Earlier petitioner made complaint against STO for taking duty of Clerk, consequently STO threatened for termination of his services – Relevance –

Held, all the findings have been recorded on a presumption that the charges, read together with the documents relied U.P.on by the Establishment, are proof of themselves – If the petitioner was avoiding appearance before the Inquiry Officer, that did not relieve the Establishment of the burden to prove the charges – The kind of procedure the Inquiry Officer adopted in this case could never be the lawful procedure to be followed in a departmental inquiry, involving the imposition of a major penalty. (Para 2, 21, 22, 23 and 27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

The petitioner, a Class IV employee, a Peon in the Establishment of the District Treasury, Budaun, is aggrieved by an order dated 31.07.1993 passed by the District Magistrate, Budaun, terminating his services after disciplinary proceedings, and the appellate order dated 13.02.2014, passed by the Commissioner, Bareilly Division, Bareilly, dismissing his departmental appeal and affirming the order of the District Magistrate.

2. The petitioner was appointed as a Class IV employee (Peon) with the District Treasury, Budaun in the year 1975 by the District Magistrate, Budaun. He was, later on, confirmed in service. Upon the establishment of a sub-treasury at Ujhani, District Budaun, the petitioner was transferred from headquarters to the sub-treasury at Ujhani on 09.12.1989. It is the petitioner's case that after rendering a few years of service at Ujhani, the Sub Treasury Officer¹ passed an order dated 08.11.1991, providing that the petitioner will discharge all duties at the sub-treasury relating to drawing up of accounts, pension vouchers, clearance of bills, all of which he would do as in the past, under the STO's oral directions. The petitioner says he was a Peon, but the STO illegally and arbitrarily, passed the order dated 08.11.1991, directing him to discharge the duties of a Clerk. It is the petitioner's case that the STO threatened the petitioner that his services would be terminated if he did not carry out his directions, detailed in the order dated 08.11.1991. The petitioner says that the order dated 08.11.1991 could never have been made by the STO, because it was illegal to take the work of a Clerk from a Class IV employee.

3. The petitioner wrote a letter to the Sub Treasury Officer, Budaun with a request that though a Peon, he had been directed to undertake the duties of a Clerk, under the oral directions of the STO; and therefore, if any mistake occurs on the petitioner's part, he cannot be held responsible, for obvious reasons. The STO, upon coming to know of the letter dated 08.11.1991, passed a further order, which reads :

श्री संतोष कुमार मिश्रा चपरासी के
प्रार्थना पत्र दि० - 8-11-1991 के सम्बन्ध मे

आदेशित किया जाता है की उपकोषाकार कार्यालय की अधिकता को देखते हुए मेरे मौखिक बोलने पर ही सभी राजकीय कार्य पूर्व की भांति रहेंगे।

जिसकी संपूर्ण जिम्मेदारी उपकोषाधिकारी उझानी की होगी।

4. The Treasury Officer, Budaun issued a show-cause notice dated December the 14th, 1991 to the petitioner, saying that the STO vide his memo number 286/कोष-111/91-92 dated 09.12.1991, had informed the Treasury Officer that the petitioner was absent from duties since the forenoon, without prior information or permission, and that according to the report dated 05.12.1991 received from the Branch Manager, State Bank of India, Ujhani, the petitioner had collected the scroll for the 4th of December, 1991. The notice further said that the petitioner, along with the scroll, had been handed over all the relative vouchers, but two out of these were missing. On the aforesaid premise, the petitioner was required to explain, within three days, the circumstances in which he was absent from duty and further, to whom did he entrust the missing vouchers.

5. The petitioner submitted his explanation to the show-cause vide his reply dated 27.12.1991. In his reply, the petitioner said that on 04.12.1991, he reached the Sub Treasury Office at Ujhani, but a short while later, he fell very sick. He, therefore, made an application for sanction of Casual Leave, which he handed over to the Assistant Accountant, Madan Pal Singh and took leave of him. It was also said that moments after the petitioner had reached the Sub Treasury Office on 04.12.1991, the Bank Peon arrived, carrying the scroll. At that time, the petitioner was the only functionary available at the Sub-Treasury, and therefore, the scroll was accepted by him. This was done particularly in view of the fact that the STO had authorized the petitioner, under his oral directions, to discharge clerical duties, of which, receipt of daily scroll was a part. It was also the petitioner's defence in the show-cause that after receiving the scroll, he could not look into the number of vouchers, because the STO had instructed him that the scroll comes attached with a small slip from the Bank, which mentions the money deposited and that disbursed on it. This money is entered in the register on a daily basis. If the scroll, the money mentioned in the slip and the bank record register all tally, the petitioner should receive the scroll. The petitioner compared the deposited and the disbursed money figures on the attached slip and received the scroll. In the past also, it was precisely this way that the scroll was being received by the petitioner from the Bank. The STO had never directed the petitioner to account for the voucher numbers, nor did he have any knowledge about the requirement. Whenever the daily scroll was received, it would be placed in a small almirah, that does not have a lock to secure it. The petitioner would place the scroll there and the Assistant Accountant, upon arrival, would take it out and process it.

6. The petitioner's explanation also said that on 05.12.1991, he sent a leave application to the STO through a friend of his. The petitioner, during this period of time being indisposed, was under the treatment of Dr. Parashari, but there was no relief. Therefore, the petitioner, on 06.12.1991, went to a certain Gangu Vaidh (Pandit Ganga Vallabh Mishra) for his treatment. He addressed his leave application to the STO, Ujhani sent by registered post, bearing number RL-3271 dated 06.12.1991. The said registered cover was delivered to the STO on 07.12.1991, but surprisingly, the STO refused to receive it. This application carried a request for sanction of Casual Leave of five days. Since the petitioner did not get relief from the changed medical treatment that he took, he moved to Mori Nagar, Ghaziabad, where he went to Dr. A.K. Dubey's Nursing Home. He was treated there from 11.12.1991 to 17.12.1991. A medical certificate was issued in this behalf by Dr. A.K. Dubey. The petitioner sent a leave application by registered post to the STO, Ujhani, annexing therewith the medical certificate. It is not known to the petitioner if the STO received the application by registered post or declined it. Upon his return home, he received a registered cover, bearing P.L. No. 3271. The reply to the show-cause said that his health was severely impaired and he was not in a position to discharge his duties. He made a request that he may be sanctioned medical leave from 18.12.1991 to 08.01.1992. It was said in the reply that the petitioner, upon reporting at the office, would produce the original medical certificates.

7. On 19.12.1991, the petitioner received an order of his suspension from service pending inquiry passed by the District Magistrate, Budaun. It mentioned a summary of five charges against him. This was followed by the Inquiry Officer issuing a charge-sheet dated 31.01.1992/03.02.1991 to the petitioner, carrying five charges. The petitioner was given fifteen days to submit his reply. The last mentioned charge-sheet was followed by another charge-sheet dated 15.02.1992, also issued by the Inquiry Officer, carrying the same five charges as those in the earlier charge-sheet dated 31.01.1992/03.02.1991.

8. The petitioner submitted his reply to the charge-sheet dated 31.01.1992/03.02.1992, denying the charges. It is the petitioner's case that no other document was given to the petitioner, despite several and repeated demands, except the three annexures to the charge-sheet dated 31.01.1992. These were an application dated 08.01.1992 from a certain Tikola Devi and an application by one Bhola Nath dated 05.12.1991/10.01.1992. There was another complaint dated 05.12.1991 annexed to the first charge-sheet, a handwritten document. It is the petitioner's case that an inquiry into the charges was not being concluded on one hand, and on the other, the petitioner was suffering suspension and paid 50% of his pay towards subsistence allowance. The petitioner, therefore, by his letter dated 20.03.1993, requested the District Magistrate, Budaun to revoke his suspension and permit him to join duties.

9. On 07.04.1993, the Inquiry Officer informed the petitioner that he would appear before the Inquiry Officer on 15.04.1993 at 03:00 p.m., On 15.04.1993, the petitioner appeared before the Inquiry Officer, but nothing was done that day. Instead, the Inquiry Officer passed an order, saying that due to his engagement that day in an anti-encroachment drive, he could not take down the statement of the petitioner's. He further said in his order that until the conclusion of the petitioner's evidence, the petitioner would remain attached to the Inquiry Officer's office. It is the petitioner's case that the Inquiry Officer did not record the petitioner's testimony, nor any further date was fixed, nor the petitioner informed about any date that the Inquiry Officer might have fixed. All of a sudden, the petitioner was surprised to receive a show-cause notice dated 09.07.1993 from the District Magistrate, Budaun saying that a detailed inquiry report dated 06.07.1993 had been submitted by the Inquiry Officer, one K.K. Chaudhary, an Additional District Magistrate at Budaun, where all charges against him were found proved. He was required to show cause and submit his explanation to the Inquiry Report within a period of 45 days by the District Magistrate. The petitioner was not supplied relevant documents and other materials that were referred to in the show cause. Therefore, the petitioner made an applications dated 20.07.1993 and 24.07.1993, demanding relevant copies of documents and further requested time to show-cause, which he prayed, may be suitably extended. No information was then given to the petitioner, nor a reply in answer to his application dated 20.07.1993 and 24.07.1993. The petitioner was also not intimated or informed about any subsequent date and the matter remained pending.

10. The petitioner, after waiting for a substantial period of time, bereft of the copies of documents that he had requested, but never given, submitted his reply dated 03.08.1993 to the show-cause notice dated 09.07.1993. The petitioner was served with the impugned order of termination of service dated 31.07.1993 passed by the District Magistrate, Budaun. It is the petitioner's case that a perusal of the Inquiry Report would show that no inquiry was ever held, in the sense that no proceedings of inquiry were scheduled, where the Establishment would be required to produce their evidence to prove the charges. It is averred in paragraph No. 26 of the writ petition that no witness was examined and no document produced by the Establishment to prove the charges against the petitioner. It is also averred that the petitioner was not given any opportunity to appear before the Inquiry Officer, nor any relevant document, which he demanded, was supplied to him. The petitioner's services were terminated without a lawful inquiry being held.

11. The petitioner challenged the impugned order of termination dated 31.07.1993 before this Court by means of Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 21681 of 1994. The aforesaid writ petition was dismissed on ground of availability of a statutory alternative remedy of appeal under the service rules. The petitioner, accordingly, preferred his appeal under Rule 11 of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servants (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1992 to the Commissioner of the Division. The Divisional Commissioner, vide his order dated 13.02.2014, has dismissed the appeal and affirmed the order of termination from service passed by the District Magistrate, Budaun.

12. Disillusioned by the aforesaid orders, the petitioner has instituted the present writ petition.

13. A counter affidavit was filed on behalf of the respondents, dated 16.07.2014, to which, a rejoinder affidavit was filed on 25.07.2016. On 30.11.2023, when the petition came up, it was admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

14. Heard Mr. Rajesh Kumar Namdev, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Yashwant Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents.

15. It is argued by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the impugned orders passed against the petitioner are much flawed by procedural unfairness, in that, that the inquiry, on the foot of which the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority have proceeded to punish the petitioner, is no inquiry at all. Learned Counsel for the petitioner emphasizes that in any departmental inquiry, where there is the likelihood of imposition of a major penalty, inquiry proceedings have to be formal in nature. Inquires involving the possible imposition of a major penalty, the Inquiry Officer has to distance himself from the Establishment and convene himself as an impartial Tribunal. It is not that, that the Inquiry Officer can assume the charges to be proof of themselves and hold the delinquent guilty; nor can the delinquent be held guilty by going through the charge-sheet, the delinquent's reply and the documents supplied by the Establishment, annexed to the charge-sheet. At a properly convened inquiry, in all major penalty matters, the Establishment has to be called upon by the Inquiry Officer to prove charges, both by documentary and oral evidence, that is to say, by producing witnesses. The production of witnesses is an imperative in all major penalty matters. Here, nothing of the kind, according to the learned Counsel for the petitioner, has been done and the inquiry has been an extremely informal affair.

16. On the other hand, Mr. Yashwant Singh, the learned Standing Counsel has said that the charges against the petitioner are very serious and involve defalcation of funds of the State by practice of forgery and manipulation of record. He submits that the documents enclosed with the charge-sheet are sufficient by themselves to bring home the charges, which have been held established by the Inquiry Officer and accepted by the Disciplinary Authority as well as the Appellate Authority. Mr. Singh says that in these circumstances, it is not a case where this Court should disturb the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer or the Disciplinary and the Appellate Authorities.

17. We have considered the rival submissions advanced by parties. A perusal of the Inquiry Report shows that the charges laid against the petitioner involve the payment of a sum of ₹65,783 due to government pensioners to fictitious persons, leading to defalcation of government funds. A perusal of the Inquiry Report shows that the inquiry proceeded against the former Sub-Treasury Officer, Mahesh Babu Saxena, the Accountant, Tulsi Das, the Sub Treasury Officer Madan Pal and the petitioner, a Peon. It is not the province of this Court to go into the merits of the charges, but we think that we should venture to refer to so much of the findings of the Inquiry Officer, with reference to the crux of the charges, as may enable us to fathom if the inquiry held was one that is procedurally fair and according to the salutary principle governing departmental inquiries, in matters where a major penalty may be imposed. The Inquiry Officer says in support of the charges against the petitioner, that the evidence appearing against him is :

1. "आप बैंक जाकर पेंशनर को पेंशन का भुगतान कराते थे ।"

Translated into English, it would read :

"You would go over to the bank and facilitate payment of pension to the pensioners."

2. "आप दिनांक 4.12.1992 को सभी पेंशनर के साथ बैंक गए थे ।"

This would read (translated to English) as follows :

"You went along with all the pensioners to the Bank on 04.12.1991."

18. Now, the two shortlisted matters, hereinabove detailed, and said to be evidence against the petitioner in support of the charges, are, by no means, evidence of any kind. These are facts, or may be, some relevant part of facts that may go to constitute the charges against the petitioner. What has been shortlisted as evidence by the Inquiry Officer is neither documentary nor oral evidence, or any other kind of evidence. It is assertion of facts and nothing more. The Inquiry Officer proceeds to say that the petitioner obstructed the proceedings taken to scrutinize the vouchers and pressurized the Bank Cashier to quickly pay off the pensioners.

19. The petitioner signed the vouchers for the STO, forging his signatures, and upon a repeat objection by the Bank, the petitioner fled the Bank along with the relative voucher and the pensioner. It is recorded that the petitioner himself forges the pension vouchers and if he has any authority from the STO in this behalf, he must produce the same. These and some further remarks in the Inquiry Report are more or less repetition of the charges against the petitioner, the substance of which has been indicated hereinabove. It is then remarked by the Inquiry Officer that in his reply to the charge-sheet, the petitioner has denied the charges and said that he has not violated any rule or done any act that may constitute embezzlement. He is a Peon and has not done any monetary transaction. The Inquiry Officer has remarked that the petitioner has blamed the STO, the Accountant and the others charged at the inquiry for the embezzlement and said that he has been made a scapegoat by threatening two pensioners, who moved applications against him.

20. The Inquiry Officer then goes on to remark that answering the evidence against him, the petitioner has said that he never went to the Bank to ensure disbursement of pension to the beneficiaries. The occurrence dated 04.12.1991 is incorrect. He never went to the Bank on the said date, nor did he ask the cashier to quickly pay off the pensioners. The Inquiry Officer has also remarked that the petitioner has said that he has not drawn up any forged vouchers, nor has he drawn up additional syaha, or changed the pensioner's name in the syaha. The Inquiry Officer goes on to observe that the pensioner, Smt. Tikola Devi, has said in her complaint that the petitioner, on 09.07.2011, after she was paid her pension of ₹1074, took a sum of ₹500 in loan and had not repaid her so far. There is also a reference to complaint by another pensioner, Bhola Nath, who too says that a sum of ₹1800, that he had received in arrears, was taken in loan by the petitioner. The Inquiry Officer has recorded that on the basis of details of the forged pension vouchers available on record, the pensioner, Bhola Nath was paid a sum of ₹1908 on 11.11.1991 and a sum of ₹1847 on 05.12.1991. The Inquiry Officer has also recorded that the Branch Manager, State Bank of India, Ujhani had written a letter dated 04.12.1991 to the STO, Ujhani, a copy of which is available on record. It is observed that this letter lays a complaint against the petitioner that he put pressure on the officials of the Bank to pay off pension to an imposter, a man called Rampal, and when the Bank officials refused to pay, asking the STO to come over to the Bank, the petitioner, along with the imposter pensioner, took to their heels. Upon arrival of the STO, it was revealed that the petitioner was attempting to get the pension due to a pensioner by the name Rampal fraudulently, and by that date, the said pensioner's bill had not yet been passed. This discovery led the matter to be probed, and the embezzlement of a sum of ₹65,783 came to light, all of which was paid off to bogus pensioners in place of the genuine beneficiaries. There are then findings how all these facts constituting the charges are proved.

21. It is observed that across the length and breadth of the Inquiry Report, one does not find any evidence, documentary or oral, produced before the Inquiry Officer on behalf of the Establishment in a duly convened inquiry. All the findings have been recorded on a presumption that the charges, read together with the documents relied upon by the Establishment, are proof of themselves. The Inquiry Officer has gleaned through the charge-sheet, the petitioner's reply and the annexed documents, sitting casually during the course of his ordinary duties in the Establishment, and without convening a formal inquiry, fixing a date, time and place, where the Establishment would be first required to produce their evidence, both documentary and oral, to prove the charges against the petitioner.

22. It must be remembered for a salutary principle that in a departmental inquiry, the Inquiry Officer cannot identify himself with the Establishment or accord any weightage to the charges, merely because some documents are annexed. The Inquiry Officer must start with a clean slate, placing burden upon the Establishment, with which he must distance himself in the role of the Inquiry Officer, and assume that the charges are neither proved nor dispelled. He must then require the Establishment to prove the charges by formally producing evidence, documentary and oral, which much include witnesses in a case where a major penalty may be imposed. The witnesses may give testimony of facts constituting the charges and also prove the documents relied upon by the Establishment. The witnesses must then be exposed to the delinquent's cross-examination. After this stage is over, the delinquent can be called upon to produce evidence in his defence, which, again, can be both documentary and oral. This is a salutary principle, and in this case also, the mandate of Rule 7(vii) of the Rules of 1999. The Inquiry Report, in this case, reveals that after the petitioner denied the charges, the Inquiry Officer did not convene any proceedings of the inquiry, fixing a date, time and venue. He never called upon the Establishment to produce their evidence, which would be done through a Presenting Officer and include both documentary evidence and oral, that is to say, witnesses. This fact, which is otherwise unmistakably discernible from the Inquiry Report, is admitted in paragraph No. 22 of the counter affidavit, where, in answer to paragraph No. 26 of the writ petition, it is averred :

22. That the contents of paragraph 26 of the writ petition are denied. It is stated that when the charge-sheet was given by the City Magistrate then in support thereof all the documents were attached, and he attached the petitioner in his Court till the written statement but he always absconded from his court and did not attend for the statement. It is wrong to say that he was not given the opportunity.

23. This clinches the issue that no evidence, whatsoever, was ever produced by the Establishment, in support of the charges. It is also to be noted that if the petitioner was avoiding appearance before the Inquiry Officer, that did not relieve the Establishment of the burden to prove the charges, which they would have to do even if the inquiry was set down ex-parte. The furnishing of opportunity to the petitioner to defend himself does not relieve the Establishment of their own burden to prove the charges by evidence, both documentary and oral, which has not been done in this case at all.

24. It must also be remarked that a perusal of the order dated 15.04.1993 shows that on that date, the petitioner was asked to appear before the Inquiry Officer, but the proceedings were adjourned, because the Inquiry Officer was busy with some anti-encroachment drive. What is relevant is that the said date was fixed for recording the petitioner's evidence. It is surprising that the petitioner's evidence was scheduled to be recorded on 15.04.1993 by the Inquiry Officer in a proceeding where no evidence was ever produced on behalf of the Establishment; no witness was produced to prove the Establishment's case. The order dated 15.04.1993 shows the understanding of the Inquiry Officer about the procedure of holding a departmental proceeding, is flawed beyond redemption, for reasons that we have indicated both hereinbefore and hereinafter.

25. The Inquiry Officer has sat back in his office and in the routine of his daily work, as already remarked, shuffled through the charge-sheet, the petitioner's reply and the documents annexed, which nobody proved or established the truth of, and proceeded to hold the charges proved on a supposition as if the charges were proof of themselves. It appears that the Inquiry Officer assumed that the charges read together with the papers annexed to the charge-sheet were not explained away by the petitioner in his reply, and, therefore, proved.

26. To add to all this is the fact that the nature and the particulars of the charge are such that it was imperative for the Establishment to produce witnesses in the first instance to prove it. If the Establishment had to prove that the petitioner put pressure on Bank officials to pay off pension to one or the other pensioners, or to pay off an imposter, it was necessary to produce officials of the Bank to prove the allegation in the first instance. Nothing of the kind of was done.

27. This Court may dare say that the kind of procedure the Inquiry Officer adopted in this case could never be the lawful procedure to be followed in a departmental inquiry, involving the imposition of a major penalty. This kind of procedure could be associated with a preliminary inquiry or a fact-finding inquiry, but not one, which was part of disciplinary proceedings likely to lead to the imposition of major penalty. The principle about the manner in which the inquiry is to be held, where the Establishment bear the burden of producing evidence before the Inquiry Officer, documentary and oral, particularly witnesses, is so well established that it can hardly brook doubt. It is also the mandate of Rule 7(vii) of the Rules of 1999 that this principle, as a salutary one, governing the procedure to be adopted in departmental inquiries involving the likelihood of imposition of a major penalty, is to be followed, is well established, in view of the holding of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha³, Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others⁴, State of Uttaranchal and others v. Kharak Singh⁵ and the Bench decisions of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another⁶, Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P.⁷ and State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another⁸.

28. The Authorities below have proceeded to pass the impugned orders, punishing the petitioner on the basis of an inquiry that is so procedurally flawed that it is a nullity and no inquiry in the eyes of law. Therefore, the impugned orders cannot be sustained.

29. It goes without saying that these orders being flawed on account of procedural infirmities, in the ordinary course of things, would entitle the respondents to proceed afresh with the inquiry from the stage of the charge-sheet. The only distinguishing feature, perhaps, in this case is that the petitioner was aged 56 years in the year 2014 and would have reached the age of superannuation somewhere in the year 2018. This is a fact which the respondents would bear in mind before electing to pursue fresh proceedings against the petitioner. This Court may not be understood to say that there is any lack of jurisdiction with the respondents in initiating fresh proceedings against the petitioner, but it would now certainly impose some limitations on the punishment that the respondents can award the petitioner in case he is again found guilty.

30. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and stands allowed. The impugned order dated 31.07.1993 passed by the District Magistrate, Budaun and the Appellate Order dated 13.02.2014 passed by the Commissioner, Bareilly Division, Bareilly are hereby quashed. The petitioner shall be deemed to be in service until the date of his superannuation in the ordinary course. It would be open to the respondents to resume proceedings against the petitioner from the stage of the charge-sheet, and if they elect so to do, neither emoluments due to the petitioner until his superannuation nor any part thereof or other post-retiral benefits, to which the petitioner would be entitled upon superannuation, would be payable to him, until final orders are passed. The entitlement of the petitioner to emoluments until the date of his superannuation and his post-retiral benefits would be subject to the outcome of fresh proceedings, if elected to be pursued. If, however, no proceedings afresh are elected to be pursued, the petitioner would be entitled to 50% of his emoluments from the date of the impugned order passed by the District Magistrate until his superannuation, and all other post-retiral benefits would be payable, as if the orders impugned had never been made.

31. There shall be no order as to costs.

32. Let the Registrar (Compliance) communicate this judgment and order to the Commissioner, Bareilly Division, Bareilly and the District Magistrate, Budaun.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ A No. 41897 of 2014

Dev Prakash Tripathi ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri N.L. Pandey, Sri V.K. Mishra

Counsel for the Respondents:

C.S.C., Sri Ashok Kumar Singh, Sri D.D. Chauhan

A. Service Law – Termination – Service as a Shiksha Mitra – Charges of unsatisfactory service and of making off with Attendance Register were leveled – No material particular was on record – Effect – Held, there is nothing said in the impugned order, even vaguely, apart from one fact as to how the petitioner's work and conduct were unsatisfactory or obstructive of work in the institution. Before allegations of this kind can be sustained, they have to be definitive in the sense that particulars and facts have to be set out as to how the petitioner's work is unsatisfactory, citing instances of it, and how his conduct is blameworthy – The District Magistrate has granted an approval without application of mind to any of the glaring infirmities – No act of the St. or its officials, can be so uncertain and so full of contradictions. The BSA, who passed the impugned order and the District Magistrate, who granted approval to it on 20.06.2014, shall stand duly cautioned to be careful in matters dealing with rights of citizens. (Para 10, 11, 13 and 15)

Writ petition allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against the order dated 30.06.2014 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Siddharth Nagar (for short, 'the BSA'), terminating the services/ contract of service of the petitioner as a Shiksha Mitra with immediate effect as also the order of the District Magistrate, Siddharth Nagar dated 20.06.2014, granting approval to the proposal for termination of the petitioner's services/ contract of service.

2. The petitioner was appointed a Shiksha Mitra at the Primary Vidyalaya, Rasiyawal Khurd, Development Block Lotan, District Siddharth Nagar (for short, 'the institution') in accordance with law and after following the procedure for selection and appointment of a Shiksha Mitra, provided by Government Orders issued on the subject from time to time. The petitioner says that he was discharging his duties as a Shiksha Mitra faithfully and to the satisfaction of his superiors since the year 2001.

3. In substance, the case of the petitioner is that the allegations against him are the outcome of machinations of the Village Pradhan at the relevant time, one Brahma Yadav and another Veenu Pandey, the daughter-in-law of a retired teacher, through whom a sum of Rs.59,500/- were drawn by the Headmistress of the institution, the Pradhan and Veenu Pandey, illegally depriving the State exchequer. This offence was reported to the Police at the instance of the petitioner, leading to animosity and the immediate cause for the Pradhan to lay false reports against the petitioner through the Gram Shiksha Samiti about non-provision of the mid-day meal to children in the institution. Based on the complaints against the petitioner, he was issued a notice by the BSA on 18.02.2014, which the petitioner answered by his reply dated 26.02.2014. It was mentioned that the food grains are not supplied by the local fair price shop dealer, who sends foodgrains to the Pradhan and these are not provided to the institution for cooking the mid-day meal. The BSA did not pass any orders after receiving the petitioner's reply dated 26.02.2014. The petitioner submitted a complaint in the matter dated 04.06.2013 to the District Magistrate, apprising him of illegal actions of the Pradhan. A complaint about victimization by the Pradhan on false charges was also made to the Commissioner of the Basti Division by the petitioner. There is an assertion in paragraph No.12 of the writ petition that the officiating Headmistress of the institution apprised the District Magistrate on 26.04.2013 that food grains are not being provided for cooking the mid-day meal by the fair price shop dealer. A copy of the said complaint by the officiating Headmaster of the institution is on record.

4. The petitioner's case is that the Gram Shiksha Samiti under the stewardship of the Village Pradhan, without giving any notice to the petitioner, forwarded a resolution dated 31.03.2014 to terminate the petitioner's contract of service. It is stated in paragraph No.13 of the writ petition that the BSA, while passing the impugned order dated 30.06.2014, terminating the petitioner's service, has remarked that he was issued with a notice dated 29.04.2014, providing him opportunity to have his say, which he did not satisfactorily reply. It is averred in paragraph No.13 of the writ petition that no such notice was ever served by the BSA. According to the petitioner, he was served with a notice dated 21.05.2014, asking him to show cause within three days in regard to the allegations carried in the notice.

5. The petitioner submitted his reply on 22.05.2014, denying the allegations in the notice. It was said by the petitioner in his reply that on 22.05.2014 at 11 a.m., the Block Education Officer came over to the institution and took away the attendance register, which he handed over to the Gram Pradhan along with other registers. The petitioner was asked to sign the attendance register at the Gram Pradhan's house everyday. The petitioner has asserted that the BSA has not passed any orders taking into consideration the petitioner's reply. Rather, he has forwarded the proposal to terminate the petitioner's services for consent of the District Magistrate and against renewing his service contract for the next session, without reference to his reply or defence.

6. The District Magistrate has granted approval regarding termination of the petitioner's services/ contract of service on the basis of the resolution of the Gram Shiksha Samiti forwarded by the BSA. Consequent upon the said approval, the BSA, falling back on the provisions of the Government Order dated 12.11.2008, has terminated the petitioner's services by the impugned order dated 30.06.2014. It is averred in paragraph No.19 of the writ petition that the order dated 30.06.2014 is bad in law because the BSA has recorded an incorrect finding there that a notice dated 29.04.2014 was served upon the petitioner, besides another dated 21.05.2014, to both of which the petitioner did not reply. The finding is incorrect because the notice dated 29.04.2014 was never served, whereas the notice dated 21.05.2014 was answered on 22.05.2014 and duly received in the BSA's office. The further case pleaded by the petitioner is that the District Magistrate should have given opportunity to the petitioner before he granted approval to act in terms of the Gram Shiksha Samiti's resolution, said to have been passed on 31.03.2014. It is the further case of the petitioner that the District Magistrate has committed a patent illegality in passing the impugned order dated 30.06.2014, without considering the petitioner's reply, which in any case has been passed without affording the petitioner opportunity of hearing.

7. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the BSA sworn by Block Education Officer. It is averred in paragraph Nos.4, 5 and 6 of the counter affidavit that the work and conduct of the petitioner was not satisfactory, and, therefore, the Gram Shiksha Samiti did not recommend renewal of the petitioner's contract for the session 2008-09. The Gram Shiksha Samiti has sent a proposal for a new appointment. Copies of the resolution are annexed as Annexure Nos. CA-1 and 2. In paragraph No.10 of the counter affidavit, paragraph Nos.19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24 have been answered in the following terms:

“10. That the contents of para no. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 & 24 of the writ petition are incorrect as stated therein hence denied in reply it is submitted that the notice was served upon the petitioner, but he failed to give satisfactory reply, reply of petitioner was not satisfactory, therefore the District Basic Education Officer terminated the service of petitioner. Gram Shiksha Samiti has sent a proposal for removal of the petitioner, because his work and conduct was not satisfactory, the Gram Shiksha Samiti has submitted all evidence before the District Magistrate who has accepted the proposal of removal/termination of petitioner. The impugned order is just, proper and sustainable in the eye of law. The petitioner had made hindrance/obstruction in Mid-day-mill, due to his conduct no person are interested to take charge of Head Master in the institution.”

8. This Court by an order dated 30.08.2014 had required learned Counsel for the BSA, Mr. Ashok Kumar Singh, to seek instructions particularly in regard to allegations in paragraph No.19 of the writ petition. Notice on behalf of respondent No.4 was accepted by Mr. D.D. Chauhan, learned Counsel, but there has been no representation on behalf of the said respondent or a return. Notice was issued to respondent No.5 by RP AD on 03.09.2014 and steps were taken on 19.11.2014. The office report shows that neither acknowledgment nor the undelivered cover had been received back. The service upon respondent No.5 is, therefore, held sufficient.

9. Heard Mr. N.L. Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Akhilesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

10. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court finds that the impugned order dated 30.06.2014 cannot be sustained for more than one reason. These are: firstly, that it is vague and imputes to the petitioner unsatisfactory service in uncertain terms without any material particulars, capable of being answered or asserted. Secondly, it says that the petitioner was asked to submit a reply to the notice dated 29.04.2014, which he did not do, but in the face of the petitioner's denial that the said notice was not served, there is nothing said in the impugned order or the return filed, how that notice was served upon the petitioner. Thirdly, the impugned order says that a repeat notice was issued to the petitioner on 21.05.2014 to show cause in respect of whatever the case against him is, but he did not submit a satisfactory reply or explanation. It is not mentioned by even as much as a single sentence, what the allegation was and how the petitioner's explanation was not satisfactory. Ex facie, it shows non-consideration of the petitioner's explanation to the notice dated 21.05.2014. Fourthly, the only definitive allegation, of whatever worth, is a complaint attributed to Veenu Pandey dated 08.05.2014 that the petitioner has made of with the Shiksha Mitra Attendance Register and the Students Attendance Register, which he keeps with himself and himself remains untraceable. The petitioner has said that the Attendance Register relating to the Shiksha Mitra was taken away by the Block Education Officer and kept with the Pradhan with instructions to the petitioner to sign the Attendance Register there. The impugned order does not record any finding about the truth of the matter in this regard. It just mentions the allegation and rests content with it. Fifthly, the impugned order says that in view of a number of resolutions passed by the Gram Shiksha Samiti mentioned in the opening of the order, the BSA, after obtaining the District Magistrate's approval on 20.06.2014, had decided to terminate his contract of service on grounds of his work and conduct being unsatisfactory, besides his non-cooperation and obstructive ways.

11. As already remarked, there is nothing said in the impugned order, even vaguely, apart from one fact as to how the petitioner's work and conduct were unsatisfactory or obstructive of work in the institution. Before allegations of this kind can be sustained, they have to be definitive in the sense that particulars and facts have to be set out as to how the petitioner's work is unsatisfactory, citing instances of it, and how his conduct is blameworthy. What the impugned order does is merely to cite labels without the content. A mere incantation of the words that the work and conduct of a person is unsatisfactory, would not imbue them with life or efficacy, unless the particular acts, facts and instances of poor work and bad conduct are mentioned. Then an order that proceeds on the basis of some definitive allegation has to record some kind of a finding, which must proceed on some material to infer that the allegations hold some truth to them.

12. Across the entire length and breadth of the impugned order, there is just one allegation about making off with the Shiksha Mitra Attendance Register and the Students Attendance Register, about which the only material cited is a complaint by Veenu Pandey. Ignoring the fact that there are allegations of animosity against Veenu Pandey, there is no finding with reference to any objective material on record that in fact the petitioner made off with the Shiksha Mitra Attendance Register or that of the students. To the contrary, there are allegations about some representations made by the petitioner that it was the BSA, who had kept the Attendance Registers at the Pradhan's home. There is no categorical finding about the petitioner's guilt regarding the 'attendance register's issue'. To put it shortly, the impugned order is utterly bad for the vagueness of it. The District Magistrate's order dated 20.06.2014, granting approval to termination of the petitioner's contract service, has not been placed on record in the return filed on behalf of respondent Nos.1, 2 and 3. The petitioner has asserted that it was not made available to him.

13. This Court is inclined to believe the petitioner because the fashion in which the District Magistrates generally function in the State, it is difficult for an ordinary or a humble man, like a Shiksha Mitra, to secure a copy of an order of this kind passed by the District Magistrate on the administrative files. It was the duty of the respondents to have placed the District Magistrate's order on record. In the absence of the copy of the District Magistrate's order being placed on record, this Court is inclined to believe that the District Magistrate has granted an approval without application of mind to any of the glaring infirmities that we have found hereinabove. The District Magistrate's order is, therefore, liable to be ignored.

14. To add to all this, this Court notices another feature, vitiating the order impugned, which goes utterly unexplained. In paragraph No.4 of the counter affidavit, the respondents have taken a stand that the petitioner's work and conduct was not found satisfactory and a recommendation for renewal of his contract had not been made since the year 2006-07 and also that the petitioner had brought pressure on the department without basis to pay his honorarium. The said stand is evident from a perusal of paragraph No.4, which says that a proposal for a new appointment has been sent by the Gram Shiksha Samiti on 14.02.2009. A perusal of the report of the Gram Shiksha Samiti dated 15/18.02.2010, annexed as Annexure No. CA-1 to the counter affidavit, also shows respondent Nos.1, 2 and 3 saying that the petitioner's contract of service has not been renewed after the year 2006-07, and a proposal for appointment made in favour of somebody else. The said stand of the respondents is utterly irreconcilable with the impugned order dated 30.06.2014, where it is said in the opening part of the order that dissatisfied with the petitioner's conduct, the Gram Shiksha Samiti had passed resolutions dated 25.07.2013, 14.08.2013, 30.09.2013, 02.10.2013, 03.11.2013, 09.12.2013, 25.01.2014 and 26.02.2014, cautioning the petitioner to bring about improvement in his work and conduct. It is further said in the impugned order that finding no improvement in the petitioner's work and conduct, the Gram Shiksha Samiti had passed a resolution dated 31.03.2014, proposing to terminate the petitioner's contract of service, on the basis of which the BSA had issued a notice dated 29.04.2014 to the petitioner. If the petitioner's services/ contract of service had not been renewed after the year 2006-07 as per stand of the respondents in the counter affidavit and the proposal of the Gram Shiksha Samiti dated 15/18.02.2010, annexed as Annexure No.CA-1 to the counter affidavit, the occasion could not have arisen for the Gram Shiksha Samiti to pass the multiple resolutions, referred to in the impugned order, in the years 2013 and 2014, cautioning the petitioner and then resolving to propose the termination of his contract of service on 31.03.2014.

15. The aforesaid facts show that both the BSA and the District Magistrate have proceeded to terminate the petitioner's services/ contract of service, firstly on vague allegations of unsatisfactory work and conduct, which are utterly unascertainable. It further shows that both the BSA and the District Magistrate have acted to dispense with the petitioner's services and brought an end to his contract in some surreptitious manner, without themselves being sure when the petitioner's services or contract of service was determined. No act of the State or its officials, can be so uncertain and so full of contradictions. The BSA, who passed the impugned order and the District Magistrate, who granted approval to it on 20.06.2014, shall stand duly cautioned to be careful in matters dealing with rights of citizens in whatever form these may fall for consideration. They will bear in mind that business of the State must not just claim a presumption about its regularity; it should exhibit regularity and predictability. For all the reasons indicated above, this petition deserves to succeed.

16. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 30.06.2014 passed by the BSA and the approval to it, in whatever form accorded by the District Magistrate, Siddharth Nagar are hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the BSA and the District Magistrate, Siddharth Nagar, to pass fresh orders, regarding the petitioner's claim to continue as a Shiksha Mitra, within four weeks of the receipt of a copy of this order after, examining the records carefully and affording the petitioner due opportunity of being heard. This order will be communicated to the BSA concerned, who passed the order impugned dated 30.06.2014, through the Principal Secretary, Basic Education, Government of U.P., Lucknow and the District Magistrate concerned, who granted approval to that order, through the Secretary (Personnel), Government of U.P., Lucknow, within a week of receipt of a copy of this judgment.

17. There shall be no order as to costs.

18. Let a copy of this judgment be forwarded for the purpose of communication to the Principal Secretary, Basic Education, Government of U.P., Lucknow and the Secretary (Personnel), Government of U.P., Lucknow by the Registrar (Compliance).

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Sri Yogesh Kumar Saxena

Counsel for the Respondents:

Ms. Monika Arya (Addl. C.S.C.)

A. Service Law – Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – Appointment – Class IV post in private aided college – On complaint, the District Magistrate directed to conduct enquiry on validity of appointment – Authority of District Magistrate questioned – Held, there is a complete hierarchy of officers in the Department of Secondary Education to take care of such matters – All of them are answerable to the Principal Secretary – One finds it difficult to understand why the District Magistrate entertained a complaint regarding a private aided college and asked the DIOS to inquire – We disapprove this practice of District Magistrates intermeddling in the affairs of other departments and autonomous bodies, where, by the law, they have no say or jurisdiction. (Para 7, 8 and 9)

B. Service Law – Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – Ch. III, Reg. 101 of the Regulations – Appointment – Class IV post –

Financial approval – Arising out of complaint, matter went U.P.to High Court and after remand back, the Regional Level Committee rejected the approval – Validity challenged – Amendment was made in Reg. 101 on 31.12.2009 – Prior to amendment, DIOS can permit to fill U.P. a Class IV post, but after amendment, it is only after order of Director of Education, DIOS can do it – DIOS granted permission on 10.07.2008 and recruitment was made on 10.01.2009 – Applicability of Amendment – Held, when Regulation 101 was finally amended to give effect to the policy, it would not affect a recruitment process already initiated before the earliest introduction of the policy through GOs, with due permission of the DIOS, that had already been granted and the process of selection completed on 27.02.2009 and appointment letters issued on 01.03.2009. (Para 7, 12, 13, 31 and 32)

C. Service Law – Appointment – Class IV post in private aided college – Financial approval – Selection, appointment and joining was made U.P.to 01.03.2009 – Subsequently policy of engagement through outsourcing was brought – After declaration of GO dated 06.11.2011 providing engagement through outsourcing as unconstitutional by the High Court, Reg. 101 was amended on 24.04.2014 providing filling U.P. of Class IV vacancies through outsourcing, which was declared valid by the S.U.P.reme Court in Principal, Abhay Nandan's case – Effect on the validity of the appointment already made – Held, any process of recruitment commenced before 08.09.2010 would have to be carried to its logical conclusion, irrespective of the policy decision taken on 08.09.2010, the GO dated 06.01.2011 or the ultimate amendment made to Regulation 101 with effect from 24.04.2014. (Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

This writ petition is directed against an order dated 15.09.2015 passed by the Regional Level Committee, Kanpur Region, Kanpur, rejecting the petitioners' claim for grant of financial approval to the petitioners' selection and appointment as Class IV employees with the Janta Inter College, Ajitmal, Auraiya.

2. The petitioners, who are a thirteen strong, have moved this Court, saying that though selected to Class IV posts in accordance with rules at the Janta Inter College, Ajitmal, Auraiya¹ way back on 27.02.2009, the Regional Level Committee, Kanpur Region, Kanpur have denied sanction to their selection and appointment, leading them to go without their salaries. They say that they have joined the Institution and are discharging their duties regularly.

3. The petitioners' case has somewhat of a chequered history. The Institution is a recognized intermediate college under the Uttar Pradesh Education Act, 1921². The provisions of U.P. Act No. 5 of 1982 as well as U.P. Act No. 24 of 1971, including the rules and regulations framed under all these statutes are applicable to the Institution. According to the petitioners, prior to the year 1970, there were 18 posts of Class IV employees sanctioned for the Institution. With an increase in the strength of scholars, a minimum of 20 Class IV posts were required. This requirement went with the number of sanctioned sections for each class that the Institution had. By an order of 2nd November, 1970, 30 extra Class IV posts were sanctioned. On the 14th August, 1981, the then District Inspector of Schools³ issued a notice to the Institution, calling upon them to justify the strength of teachers and employees, going by the strength of scholars enrolled. The notice dated 14.08.2021 was replied to, whereafter, it is said that it was withdrawn by an order dated 21.09.1981. It is the petitioners' case that the strength of Class IV employees in the Institution, duly sanctioned, is a figure of 31. The petitioners say that according to the Government Order dated 10.02.2005, a copy whereof has been annexed, it is provided that the posts that were sanctioned prior to 09.12.1986 shall not be abolished by any officer, except under orders issued by the Director of Education, Madhyamik, U.P., Lucknow. The said order dated 10.02.2005, this Court may notice, is not a Government order⁴, but an order issued by the Director of Education aforesaid. In the year 2008, the Principal of the Institution applied for permission to fill up 13 posts of Class IV employees that were lying vacant. The DIOS granted permission vide order dated 05.05.2008, but in an action soon to follow, stayed his order granting permission on 28.05.2008. He again granted permission to fill up these Class IV posts on 20.07.2008. The petitioners assert that there were objections by outsiders to these posts being filled up, which compelled the Institution to clarify their staff position by submitting all documents relevant to the issue.

4. This done, an advertisement was issued in Hindi dailies Swatantra Bharat and Desh Dharam issues dated 10.01.2009 and 09.01.2009, respectively. In response to the advertisement aforesaid, the petitioners made an application for consideration of their candidature against one or the other Class IV posts in the Institution. The date of interview was scheduled as 01.02.2009. A duly constituted Selection Committee sat and held interviews. It found the petitioners to be eligible and suitable for appointment to Class IV posts with the Institution. All papers after selection were submitted to the education authorities for their approval. The management of the Institution waited for the requisite period of time, whereafter, appointment letters were issued to the petitioners, subject to orders of approval by the DIOS. All the appointment letters were issued by the Principal of the Institution on the same day, that is to say, 27th February, 2009.

5. Acting on the letters of appointment, the petitioners joined the Institution on 01.03.2009. They were permitted by the Principal to join. It is the petitioners' case that since 1st March, 2009, they are continuously working with the Institution on whatever posts in Class IV they have respectively been appointed. The petitioners say that they have rendered unblemished and satisfactory service. It is their further case that they were appointed after following the due procedure prescribed by law. The process to select the petitioners had commenced with the permission of the DIOS and after due advertisement, completing all formalities, the petitioners were selected by a validly constituted Selection Committee.

6. There was some strife amongst members of the Committee of Management of the Institution, which led to false complaints being addressed to the education authorities. These complaints led the education authorities to dither in granting sanction to the petitioners' appointment. The petitioners say that though the Committee of Management have nothing to do with the appointment of a Class IV employee, but complaints were addressed about the petitioners' appointment, because, as already said, there was strife amongst members of the Committee of Management.

7. An inquiry into the validity of the petitioners' appointment seems to have been ordered by the District Magistrate, Auraiya. Here, this Court may remark, as we have often found to our dismay, that the District Magistrates in this State have assumed the role of busy bodies, almost knight errants, who are all too willing to intermeddle in the affairs of any department of the government at the drop of a hat. Little do they ponder about their jurisdiction to interfere in a matter relating to a department or an autonomous statutory body set up by law or a local body, where, they may not have the slightest of business to interfere.

8. Here also, the matter pertains to a privately managed and aided intermediate institution regarding employment of their Class IV employees, with the sanction of the DIOS. There is a complete hierarchy of officers in the Department of Secondary Education to take care of such matters. At the helm of affairs in the district relating to secondary education is the DIOS. He functions under a hierarchy of officials, including the Deputy Director of Education (Secondary), the Joint Director of Education (Secondary) and the Director of Education (Secondary). All of them are answerable to the Principal Secretary or the Additional Chief Secretary to the Government in the Department of Secondary Education. It goes without saying that the Secretary too is not a sovereign functionary and works under the command of the Hon'ble Minister of this Department.

9. In this set up of things, one finds it difficult to understand why the District Magistrate entertained a complaint regarding a private aided college and asked the DIOS to inquire. All the more intriguing is the fact that the DIOS complied with the District Magistrate's order and submitted a report to him, dated 15.02.2010. All that is relevant is that copies of this report by the DIOS were addressed to the Director of Education, Madhyamik, Allahabad and the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur. It was, again, quite irrelevantly marked for a copy to the Divisional Commissioner of the Revenue Division of Kanpur. It seems that the DIOS submitted a report to the District Magistrate by an act of habitual obedience. We disapprove this practice of District Magistrates intermeddling in the affairs of other departments and autonomous bodies, where, by the law, they have no say or jurisdiction.

10. Still, since a copy of this report was marked to some of the education authorities, including the Director of Education (Secondary), it would be relevant to note that the report, a very detailed one, on all aspects of the complaint, clearly said that the petitioners' appointments were made against substantive and vacant posts, after due permission by the education authorities, due advertisement and selection done by a competent selection committee, transparently done. No irregularity was found in the selection process. The petitioners point out that a further report dated 15.03.2010 was submitted by the DIOS, Auraiya to the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur, carrying all details of the sanctioned posts, how each post was created and how many of these posts were duly sanctioned. This report was submitted in answer to some complaint. It was specifically said in the report of the DIOS dated 15.03.2010 that the petitioners were appointed against substantive and vacant posts advertised after permission by the competent education authority and selected in accordance with rules. So, there was no irregularity about their appointment.

11. It appears that nothing moved for the petitioners regarding financial sanction to their appointments for a considerable period of time. The petitioners, therefore, instituted Writ - A No. 5294 of 2010 before this Court. This Court, by an order dated 02.02.2010 made in the aforesaid writ petition, directed the Joint Director of Education to take a decision relating to the petitioners' appointment and payment of salary by a reasoned and speaking order, in accordance with law, on the basis of the recommendations made by the DIOS within a period of three weeks of the date of production of a certified copy of the order. The Joint Director of Education, in compliance with the orders of this Court dated 02.02.2010 last mentioned, passed an order dated 16.03.2010, rejecting the petitioners' claim for approval of their appointments. The petitioners impugned the said decision of the Joint Director of Education by means of Writ - A No. 35208 of 2010, wherein, an interim order was passed on 16.03.2010, directing that the petitioners' services shall not be terminated.

However, this Court said that the order shall not entitle the petitioners to payment of salary till a final decision of the writ petition. Pending this petition, the Government carried out an exercise to verify the sanctioned strength of employees in private aided institutions across the State. This was done under the directions of this Court made in Dhruv Narain Singh v. State of U.P. and others⁵. To comply with the order, a committee was constituted by the Government on 15.06.2012, dedicated to the task of determining the sanctioned strength of teachers and other employees in private aided intermediate institutions, like the Institution. This Committee was headed by the Additional Director of Education (Secondary). The Committee submitted a report dated 22.02.2013. In their inquiry report with regard to the institutions in District Auraiya, the sanctioned strength was determined for all private aided institutions. It was reported that the sanctioned strength of Class IV employees for the Institution was 31. It is asserted by the petitioners that the name of the Institution finds place at Serial No. 33 of the list for the District of Auraiya. Whether the report submitted by the committee was just a report or something more would be alluded to a little later in this judgment.

12. Writ - A No. 35208 of 2010, which was earlier filed by the petitioners, was heard and allowed by a judgment and order dated 18.05.2015, setting aside the order dated 16.03.2010 passed by the Joint Director of Education and the matter was remanded to the said officer to consider and pass fresh orders. In reaching the conclusion that the order of the Joint Director of Education deserves to be set aside, there are certain remarks of this Court in the judgment and order dated 15.05.2015 last mentioned, which are relevant. These will be referred to a little later in this judgment.

13. This is how the matter came up before the Regional Level Committee headed by the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur and comprising, besides that officer, the Deputy Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur and the DIOS, Auraiya. The Regional Level Committee again proceeded to reject the petitioners' claim. The reasons assigned are more than one. These too would be enumerated a little afterwards, when testing the petitioners' challenge to the impugned order.

14. Aggrieved by the order dated 15.09.2015 passed by the Regional Level Committee, Kanpur Region, Kanpur, who are impleaded as respondent No. 3 to this petition, this writ petition has been instituted.

15. A supplementary affidavit was filed alongside the writ petition. A counter affidavit dated 23.12.2015 was filed by the DIOS, Auraiya, respondent No. 4 on behalf of the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur, respondent No. 2. A rejoinder affidavit dated 18.01.2016, to the aforesaid counter affidavit, was filed. In compliance with the order dated 26.10.2015, by which notice was issued, Rajendra Prasad, the then Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur, filed his personal affidavit. A counter affidavit to the aforesaid personal affidavit was filed on behalf of the petitioner. This is an affidavit dated 24.01.2015. It was on this state of pleadings that this petition was admitted to hearing on 21.09.2023 and heard forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

16. Heard Mr. Yogesh Kumar Saxena, learned Counsel for the petitioners and Ms. Monika Arya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondents Nos. 1 to 5. No one appeared on behalf of respondents Nos. 6 and 7.

17. It is argued by Mr. Yogesh Kumar Saxena, learned Counsel for the petitioners that in the report of the Committee constituted pursuant to the orders of this Court in Dhruv Narain Singh (supra), the strength of Class IV employees in the Institution was determined as 31 on 22.05.2013. It is submitted that this was the strength of Class IV employees based on the GO dated 22.02.2013, taking note whereof, this Court had set aside the earlier order dated 16.03.2010 passed by the Joint Director of Education, doubting the number of Class IV posts with the Institution as 31 and ordered him to decide the matter afresh, taking into account the GO last mentioned. The submission, therefore, proceeds that the determination of strength made by the Regional Level Committee is not only contrary to the GO dated 22.02.2013, but also orders of this Court dated 18.05.2015 passed in Writ - A No. 35208 of 2010.

18. On the other hand, Ms. Monika Arya, the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that the sanctioned strength of Class IV employees in the Institution is not a static figure and can very well be reviewed, depending upon the strength of students at the time when the process of recruitment commences. In this regard, she has referred to the terms of the GO dated 20.11.1976, which not only prescribes the number of posts for a high-school and intermediate institution, but also, by the note appended relating to the staff sanctioned for an intermediate college, upwards and downwards revision of the sanctioned strength of Class IV employees is permissible, depending upon the increase or decrease of the strength of students in an Institution. In addition, the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has argued that in this case, a report dated 22.10.2010, annexed as Annexure CA-1 to the counter affidavit, was submitted by the DIOS to the Joint Director of Education, where, the entire process of recruitment was reported to be suspect on account of the involvement of relatives of employees in the Office of the DIOS and the Deputy Director of Education (Secondary), Kanpur Region, Kanpur. It was also reported that a candidate named Kamlesh Babu, petitioner No. 12, a candidate of the then DIOS, was also amongst the selectees. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel says that there is a detailed reference to the contents of this report in paragraph No. 11 of the counter affidavit. She has further argued that the contents of paragraph No. 11 of the counter affidavit have not been denied about this report submitted by the DIOS or the truth of its contents in paragraph No. 16 of the rejoinder affidavit. The submission is, therefore, that the selection proceedings are clearly tainted with favouritism and, therefore, refusal of financial sanction by the Regional Level Committee is well-founded.

19. We have considered the submissions advanced on behalf of learned Counsel for parties and perused the record.

20. There is a reference to the provisions of Regulation 101 of Chapter III of the regulations framed under the Act of 1921. What the Regional Level Committee endeavour to say, by reference to the provisions of Regulation 101 aforesaid, as these stood after the amendment dated 31st December, 2009, is shrouded in a mystery of silence.

21. It is then observed, which would be the first count to reject the petitioners' claim, that the GO bearing number बे०आ०-2-27 / दस59(एम) / 2008 dated 06.11.2011, makes it imperative, except in cases of junior technical positions to appoint all Class IV employees by outsourcing.

22. The second count of reasoning is rather elaborate. It says that in terms of the judgment and order of this Court in Dhruv Narain Singh, three parameters to determine the approved strength of staff in an institution are postulated. The first is the original posts created, the second, the first pay-bill, and the third, the number of posts determined in the financial survey of the year 1985, minus the number of posts based on the current student strength. It is remarked that in the first pay-bill relating to the Institution, 31 posts of Class IV employees were sanctioned. In the current selection/interview, there is a recommendation to fill up one post of Clerk and thirteen posts of Class IV employees, for which, financial approval was sought from the DIOS, Auraiya on 20.02.2009. The DIOS referred the matter to the Joint Director of Education by letter dated 27.06.2009. In compliance with the directions issued by this Court on 02.02.2010 in Writ - A No. 5294 of 2010, Udai Singh and others v. State of U.P. and others, the then Regional Level Committee, vide an order dated 23.03.2010, disposed of the matter. This Court, vide an order dated 18.05.2015 passed in Writ - A No. 35208 of 2010, Udai Singh and others v. State of U.P. and others, directed the matter of financial approval to be considered afresh on the foot of there being 31 posts of Class

IV employees. There is then a reference to some GO dated 20th November, 1976, regarding determination of the sanctioned strength for aided high-schools and intermediate colleges, separately referring to the sanctioned strength for a high-school and intermediate college. The GO aforesaid details the sanctioned strength :

(a) For a High-school :- 1- Chowkidar : One, 2 - Farrash : One, 3 - Jamadar : One, 4 - Paniwala : One, 5 - Principal Orderly : One, 6 - Science Lab Peon : One, 7 - Daftari : One, 8 - Library Peon (where there is a separate and regular library in existence) : One, 9 - Office Peon : One, 10 - Gardener (wherever a garden compound is available) : One.

Note - Upon the student strength being more than 500, one additional post of Office Peon would be available.

(b) For an Intermediate College :- In additional to the aforesaid employees in a High-school, the following posts according to the requirement would be available - 1 - Physics Lab Peon : One, 2 - Chemistry Lab Peon : One, 3 - Biology Lab Peon : One, 4 - Book Binder : One, 5 - Tailoring Peon : One, 6 - Home Science Peon : One, 7 - A man to look after the farm (if there is a farm) : One.

Note - In any institution (routine) Clerks' and Office Peons' additional posts would be created or the number of posts evaluated, in the event of their being continuous increase or loss in student strength over a period of two years.

It is then said that in accordance with the aforesaid GO dated 20.11.1976, the sanctioned strength of students on the date of advertisement was 1765, on the foot of which, 17 Class IV employees, described as Peons in this part of the impugned order, would be required. It is remarked that Regulation 101, as it now stands, would show that the permission to fill up thirteen posts of Class IV employees was granted on the basis of the student strength, which is not appropriate.

23. The third count, on which financial approval has been declined, goes to the effect that the DIOS had permitted the thirteen posts to be filled up vide his order dated 05.05.2008, which, by his later order dated 28.05.2008, he cancelled until further orders (a description about the terms of the order, which is either incorrect or the order itself is strange). It is then remarked that later on, the DIOS, by his order dated 10.07.2008, permitted the posts to be filled up. After about six months of the permission being granted, the recruitment process commenced by advertisements published on 09.01.2009 and 10.01.2009. Serious complaints with regard to irregularities were received, where, it was said that there was appointment of relatives (of the Management etc.), but despite these complaints, the Principal/Manager issued letters of appointment to all the selected candidates and made them join duties on 01.03.2009. These proceedings were held to be arbitrary and against Regulation 101 of the Regulations framed under the Act of 1921. It is remarked that the aforesaid Regulation provides that without the permission of the DIOS, the Principal shall not fill up any Class IV vacancy.

24. The fourth count, on which financial approval has been declined for two of the petitioners on added ground, that is to say, petitioner No. 1, Udai Singh and petitioner No. 6, Brijesh Kumar Singh, is that, whereas petitioner No. 1, on the date of commencement of the academic session i.e. on 01.07.2009 was 36 years, 1 month and 16 days old, petitioner No. 6 was 38 years, 8 months and 11 days old. It has been opined that according to the "Government Order", for candidates of the general class, the upper age limit for appointment is 35 years. Going by the provisions of the "Government Order", the proposal to appoint both these candidates is irregular. In this manner, the selection process is vitiated.

25. For a fifth count, the order condemns the selection to the solitary post of Clerk filled up in the same recruitment exercise on grounds of violation of the law embodying the reservation policy of the State. This petition is not about the validity of appointment to the solitary post of Clerk and is limited in its office to the validity of selection and appointment of the thirteen Class IV employees, the petitioners. Nothing is said in particular about the violation of the Reservation Act or the policy in relation to appointment of Class IV employees under this count.

26. In the concluding part, it is remarked that the selection was without necessity, one made in violation of the reservation policy, involving selection and appointment of candidates overage, and all of it has been done in an arbitrary fashion. It is for these reasons that the Committee said that the appointments cannot be accepted as valid in law. To add to all this, particular emphasis is laid on the GO dated 06.11.2011 (supra), which provides that all Class IV posts have to be filled up through outsourcing. It is also said that the said GO is currently in force, and another GO bearing number 891/15-12-39 of 2012 dated 23.05.2012 is in force as well (perhaps to the same effect, though not said explicitly). It is on all these grounds that financial approval to the petitioners' appointment has been declined by the Regional Level Committee.

27. We think that the report that the DIOS has submitted to the Joint Director of Education, a copy whereof is annexed as Annexure CA-1 to the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondents Nos. 2 and 4, which seeks to taint the entire selection process with extraneous considerations and favouritism on ground that the candidates selected, at least to the extent of three, are either relatives or favourites of someone in the Office of the DIOS or the Deputy Director of Education or the DIOS himself, does not carry much force. The foremost reason is that this is not one of the reasons at all that have weighed with the Regional Level Committee in passing the impugned order. It is far too well-settled to brook doubt that the validity of an order under challenge must be adjudged by what it says. Of course, submissions in law can be advanced to buttress the order, but, that would not entitle the respondents to add to the grounds or the facts on which the order is founded by way of affidavit. The principle is that the impugned order cannot be supplemented for its reasons or grounds by an affidavit. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Mohindhr Singh Gill and another v. The Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi and others⁶, where their Lordships of the Constitution Bench stated the principle thus :

8. The second equally relevant matter is that when a statutory functionary makes an order based on certain grounds, its validity must be judged by the reasons so mentioned and cannot be supplemented by fresh reasons in the shape of affidavit or otherwise. Otherwise, an order bad in the beginning may, by the time it comes to court on account of a challenge, get validated by additional grounds later brought out. We may here draw attention to the observations of Bose, J. in Gordhandas Bhanji [Commr. of Police, Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji], 1951 SCC 1088 : AIR 1952 SC 16] :

“Public orders, publicly made, in exercise of a statutory authority cannot be construed in the light of explanations subsequently given by the officer making the order of what he meant, or of what was in his mind, or what he intended to do. Public orders made by public authorities are meant to have public effect and are intended to affect the actings and conduct of those to whom they are addressed and must be construed objectively with reference to the language used in the order itself.”

Orders are not like old wine becoming better as they grow older.

28. For this reason, this Court is not inclined to affirm the order on a ground that has not figured in the order itself.

29. The foremost to be considered, therefore, is the point if the number of sanctioned posts were indeed 31, or going by the GO dated 20.11.1976, the number of posts on the date when the recruitment process was initiated could be reduced from the initial sanctioned 31 to a lower number, dependent upon the strength of students contemporaneously enrolled in the Institution. The GO dated 20.11.1976, for one, appears to be quite an ancient standard for determining the strength of Class IV employees. Between the year 1976 and the time of issue of the advertisement, through which, process of selection was initiated, many events would have gone by. The advertisement in this case was published on 09.01.2009 and 10.01.2009. After the advertisement was issued, there was a searching determination of the sanctioned strength undertaken for all private aided institutions of Auraiya, under orders of this Court in Dhruv Narain Singh. Based on the report of the Committee that was submitted, a GO bearing number 425 / 15-12-2013-1601(250) / 2010 dated 22.02.2013 was issued by the Secretary to the Government of U.P. and the Department of Secondary Education, addressed to the Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., Lucknow. To the said order, though not made part of the record of the writ petition, there is no quarrel between parties that the sanctioned strength of Class IV employees in the Institution was shown in an appended list at Serial No. 33. The sanctioned strength determined by this GO in the appended list for the Institution was 31. After this determination was made for the Institution by the GO dated 22.02.2013, this Court is of considered opinion that the respondents cannot take a stand that the sanctioned strength was not 31, falling back upon an antiquated GO of the year 1976. More than that, when the same matter came up before this Court in Writ - A No. 35208 of 2010, directed against the order dated 16.03.2010, passed by the Joint Director of Education, rejecting the petitioners' claim on ground of lack of sanction for the 31 posts, this Court set aside the order of the Director of Education dated 16.03.2010 and remanded the matter to the Director aforesaid for decision afresh on grounds that are expressed in the following remarks :

Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn the attention of the Court to the aforesaid order of the State Government. The name of the Institution finds place at Serial No. 33 of the said order, wherein the State Government has recorded that there are 31 post of Class IV employee in the Institution.

Having regards to the facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the view that the finding recorded by the Joint Director of Education doubting the correctness of the comment of the District Inspector of Schools and the Committee of Management with regard to 31 sanctioned post is vitiated on the ground that the material facts have not been considered by the Joint Director of Education.

In view of the supervening event that the State Government has determined the sanctioned strength on 22.2.2013 the order of the Joint Director needs reconsideration in the light of the order of the State Government.

30. This Court did not hold that 31 posts are the sanctioned strength for Class IV employees of the Institution. We did say that it was a material fact, which ought to have been considered by the Joint Director. This Court is inclined to think that it was the most material fact and could hardly be brushed aside. In writing the impugned order, the Regional Level Committee on the point under consideration, did notice the order of this Court dated 18.05.2015 passed in Writ - A No. 35208 of 2010 regarding the existence of 31 sanctioned posts of Class IV, but did not consider it at all. Rather, the Regional Level Committee chose to ignore the effect of the GO dated 22.02.2013, as well as the order of this Court dated 18.05.2015, and instead, harped upon the GO of 20th November, 1976, which does not seem to be material to the question in hand at the point of time that it arose. This Court is inclined to think that in view of the GO dated 22.02.2013, there is no reason to doubt the fact that the Institution had a sanctioned strength of 31 at the time when the recruitment process was initiated, in terms of the advertisements published on 09.01.2009 and 10.01.2009.

31. The most important point that has been mooted before this Court is if on the date when the recruitment process was commenced, it was no longer open to the Institution to select and appoint Class IV employees and instead, the option left to them because of the GO dated 06.01.2011 was to engage employees through outsourcing. It is, no doubt, true that before the amendment made to Regulation 101 of the Regulations framed under the Act of 1921 with effect from 31.12.2009, the DIOS could grant permission to fill up a Class IV post, but, after amendment of Regulation 101 as aforesaid, the DIOS had to submit the total number of vacancies to the Director of Secondary Education and showing the number of students, give justification to fill up the existing vacancies. It was only upon receipt of orders permitting the vacancies to be filled up from the Director of Education (Secondary) that the DIOS could permit the Institution to fill up any kind of non-teaching posts, of course, following the rules for reservation made by the Government. Here, the selection process commenced prior to the amendment of Regulation 101 vide Notification dated 31.12.2009, when it could be initiated by the Institution with the permission of the DIOS, which, in this case, was granted on 10.07.2008. The hurdle that was mooted was the GO dated 06.01.2011, that had forbidden appointment to Class IV posts, except junior technical posts, and instead, provided for engagement of employees through outsourcing.

32. This GO dated 06.01.2011, to the extent of paragraph No. 2 thereof, was struck down as unconstitutional by a learned Single Judge of this Court in Committee of Management, Lala Babu Baijal Memorial Inter College, Lodipur, Ghaziabad and another v. State of U.P. and others⁷. It is not in dispute that the judgment of the learned Single Judge in Committee of Management, Lala Babu Baijal Memorial Inter College (supra) was never challenged and became final. It would have the effect of effacing, therefore, the GO dated 06.01.2011. Therefore, prior to the amendment made to Regulation 101, Chapter III of the Regulations framed under the Act of 1921 on 24.04.2014, there was no embargo on filling up sanctioned posts of Class IV employees with permission of the DIOS. In fact, prior to 31.12.2009, permission of the DIOS would have sufficed and justification to fill up any non-teaching posts, including Class IV posts, was not required to be offered to the Director of Education (Secondary) by the DIOS and his orders obtained for filling up such vacancies. Here, as already said, the process of recruitment commenced with the publication of the advertisement on 09.01.2009 and 10.01.2009, much before the amendment to Regulation 101 with effect from 31.12.2009 and long before the amendment brought about with effect from 24.04.2014. Much was, therefore, argued before this Court on the strength of well established principle that the amendment would not have retrospective operation. Since, in this case, the recruitment process was initiated on 09.01.2009 and 10.01.2009, it is submitted on behalf of the petitioners that assuming that the GO dated 06.01.2011, which introduced the system of outsourcing through paragraph No. 2 and since struck down by this Court, was an antecedent step to give effect to a policy decision of the Government, that ultimately took shape on 24.04.2014, when Regulation 101 was finally amended to give effect to the policy, it would not affect a recruitment process already initiated before the earliest introduction of the policy through GOs, with due permission of the DIOS, that had already been granted and the process of selection completed on 27.02.2009 and appointment letters issued on 01.03.2009. The rights of the petitioner, according to the contention advanced, would be governed by the position, as existed, before the amended Regulation 101 came into force with effect from 24.04.2014 as also the antecedent policy decision of the Government in this regard, expressed in different Government Orders, one of which relating to the Department of Secondary Education was struck down by this Court in Committee of Management, Lala Babu Baijal Memorial Inter College.

33. We may notice that though the GO dated 06.01.2011 was struck down by this Court, a position which attained finality with no challenge, the underlying policy about the changeover with regard to the recruitment of Class IV employees in intermediate institutions from regular appointments on posts funded by the State to contractual appointments through service providers had become a firm resolve with the Government, who had to fund these institutions for the posts of Class IV employees sanctioned. The Government had decided to changeover to a system of contractual employment of Class IV employees through service providers. Therefore, notwithstanding the GO dated 06.01.2011 being struck down, Regulation 101 came to be amended with effect from 24.04.2014, making provision for filling up of Class IV vacancies through outsourcing alone, except in cases where a Dying-in-Harness appointee had to be accommodated. The amendment to Regulation 101 of Chapter III of the Regulations framed under the Act of 1921 introduced with effect from 24.01.2014 was challenged before this Court by managements of colleges, who were deprived of posts supported by State grant and relegated to a system of engaging Class IV employees through service providers. The writ petitions were heard by a Division Bench of this Court and allowed vide judgment and order dated 19.11.2001, holding Regulation 101, as amended on 24.04.2014, unconstitutional.

34. The State appealed the judgment of this Court by Special Leave to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court allowed the appeals preferred by the State of U.P. in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Principal, Abhay Nandan Inter College and others⁸, holding the amendment to Regulation 101 valid. Their Lordships addressed the history of Regulation 101 and how and why did it change, which is very apposite to quote in extenso :

Regulation 101

6.Regulation 101 was inserted vide Parishad 9/592 dated 28-8-1992 and was notified by way of Government Notification No. 400/15-7-2(1)-90 dated 30-7-1992 in the following manner:

“Appointing authority except with prior approval of Inspector shall not fill up any vacancy of non-teaching post of any recognised aided institution.”

7. It was substituted through Notification No. 300/XV-7-2(1)/90 dated 2-2-1995 as under:

“Appointing authority except with prior approval of Inspector shall not fill up any vacancy of non-teaching post of any recognised aided institution:

Provided that filling of the vacancy on the post of Jamadar may be granted by the Inspector.”

8. On 23-1-2008 with a view to regulate and curtail staff expenditure a policy decision was taken by the State of Uttar Pradesh (the first appellant) to not create any new post in Class IV category and wherever it may be necessary, the work may be carried out through “outsourcing”. Thereafter, the recommendation was made by the Sixth Central Pay Commission in the month of March 2008 to the effect that it would only be appropriate to have “outsourcing” of Class IV employees instead of seeking any new recruitment.

9. Regulation 101 once again went through an amendment by way of Notification No. 9/898 dated 31-12-2009, which reads as under:

“The appointing authority shall not fill any vacancy of the non-teaching staff of recognised aided institutions, except with the approval of Inspector, subject to a restriction that District Inspector of Schools shall make available total number of vacancies to Director of Education (Secondary Education), and showing the number of students put forth justification for the filling of the vacancies. On receipt of order from the Director of Education (Secondary Education), the District Inspector of Schools shall, for filling said vacancies, give permission to the appointing authority; and while giving such permission he shall ensure to follow the reservation rules specified by the Government and the prescribed norms in justification for the posts.

The aforesaid amendment in the Regulation shall come into force with immediate effect.”

10. Taking into consideration the recommendations made by the Sixth Central Pay Commission, Government Orders were passed on 8-9-2010 and 6-1-2011 making it applicable to all Government Departments and aided schools, thus, deciding not to go for fresh recruitment of Class IV employees and further directing that any arrangement concerning the post to be vacated may be made only through “outsourcing”. Appropriate communications were sent to all the stakeholders intimating them of the decision taken.

11. Following the said decision, Regulation 101 was once again amended by the Government Order dated 4-9-2013, which was accordingly notified on 24-4-2014. The effect of the said amendment is to make the post of Class IV employees which was hitherto supposed to be filled up by the institutions through “outsourcing”. Therefore, the permanent posts were accordingly abolished, thereby, replacing the method of appointment by way of “outsourcing”. An exception has been carved out only for the dependants of those employees dying in harness during employment.

Amended Regulation:

“101. The appointing authority, except for the prior approval of the Inspector, shall not fill any vacant post of non-teaching staff (clerical cadre) in any recognised or aided institution; with the restriction that the District Inspector of Schools shall make available the total number of vacancies to the Director of Education (Secondary Education) and also put forth justification for filling of the posts, showing the strength of the students in the institution. On receipt of the order from Director of Education (Secondary Education), the District Inspector of Schools shall give permission to the appointing authority for filling the said vacancies (except the vacancies of Class IV posts) and while giving the permission, he shall ensure compliance of the Reservation Rules specified by the Government as also of the prescribed norms in justification for the posts.

With respect to the Class IV vacancies, arrangements shall be made by way of outsourcing only; but the relevant Rules, 1981, as amended from time to time, for recruitment of dependants of teaching or non-teaching staff of the non-government aided institutions dying in harness shall be applicable in relation to the appointments to be made on the vacant posts of Class IV category.”

Seventh Central Pay Commission

12. By the Seventh Central Pay Commission Report, the recommendations made in the Sixth Central Pay Commission were reiterated with a word of “caution” in its implementation. Accordingly, the need to go for “outsourcing”, keeping in view of the financial constraints and efficiency, was once again reiterated:

Paras 3.72 and 3.83 of the Report

“3.72. The General Financial Rules provide for outsourcing of services in the interest of economy and efficiency. Broad guidance is provided in the Rules on identification of contractors and the tendering process.

There are three kinds of contractual appointments:

(i) Tasks of a routine nature, typically those relating to housekeeping, maintenance, related activities, data entry, driving, and so on, which are normally bundled and entrusted to agencies. These agencies then depute the necessary persons to carry out these tasks...

* * *

3.83. The following are the conclusions and recommendations:

(vii) The Commission is of the view that a clear guidance from the Government on jobs that can and should be contracted out would be appropriate. While doing so the concerns of confidentiality and accountability may be kept in view. Further, to bring about continuity and to address the concerns regarding exploitation of contractual manpower, uniform guidelines/model contract agreements may be devised by the Government...”

13. From the aforesaid facts it is abundantly clear that a decision was made way back on 8-9-2010 to do away with the recruitment to the post of Class IV employees, by replacing the process with the utilisation of the service through “outsourcing”. It was accordingly made by taking note of the recommendations of the Pay Commission, with the primary concern being financial difficulty, followed by efficiency. The Regulation was brought forthwith as an abundant caution by way of a subsequent act to complete the formalities. Institutions were being put on notice about the decision to withhold any fresh recruitment. However, recruitments have been made de hors the same either with or without the court orders, by the institutions. It was also done without obtaining the prior permission as per the mandate of the unamended Regulation 101 except in one case which is the subject-matter of Civil Appeal No. 2753 of 2021. In Civil Appeal No. 2754 of 2021 a direction to grant prior permission was obtained from the High Court.

35. In disposing of some of the principle contention of parties, ignoring those that are not relevant to the issue here, it was observed by their Lordships :

Discussion and conclusion

Right to aid

28. We will first take up the right of institutions qua the aid. A decision to grant aid is by way of policy. While doing so, the Government is not only concerned with the interest of the institutions but the ability to undertake such an exercise. There are factors which the Government is expected to consider before taking such a decision. Financial constraints and deficiencies are the factors which are considered relevant in taking any decision qua aid, including both the decision to grant aid and the manner of disbursement of an aid.

29. Once we hold that right to get an aid is not a fundamental right, the challenge to a decision made in implementing it, shall only be on restricted grounds. Therefore, even in a case where a policy decision is made to withdraw the aid, an institution cannot question it as a matter of right. Maybe, such a challenge would still be available to an institution, when a grant is given to one institution as against the other institution which is similarly placed. Therefore, with the grant of an aid, the conditions come. If an institution does not want to accept and comply with the conditions accompanying such aid, it is well open to it to decline the grant and move in its own way. On the contrary, an institution can never be allowed to say that the grant of aid should be on its own terms.

30. We are dealing with a case where aid is not denied in toto but sought to be given in different form. The reason for such a decision is both efficiency and economy. When such a decision is made as a matter of policy and is being applied not only to educational institutions but spanning across the entire State in every department, one cannot question it and that too when there is no express arbitrariness seen on the face of it.

..... Policy decision

35. The challenge before us is the amendment to the Regulation 101. This Regulation is in the form of a subordinate legislation. A subordinate legislation can also be in the form of a policy decision. We have already noted that a policy decision has come into force in the year 2010 itself.

36. A policy decision is presumed to be in public interest, and such a decision once made is not amenable to challenge, until and unless there is manifest or extreme arbitrariness, a constitutional court is expected to keep its hands off.

37. A challenge to a Regulation stands on a different footing than the one that can be made to an enactment. However, when the Regulation is nothing but a reiteration of a policy reinforcing the decision of the Government made earlier, then the parameters required for testing the validity of an Act are expected to be followed by the Court.

38. An executive power is residue of a legislative one, therefore the exercise of said power i.e. the amendment of the impugned Regulation, cannot be challenged on the basis of mere presumption. Once a rule is introduced by way of a policy decision, a demonstration on the existence of manifest, excessive and extreme arbitrariness is needed.

Other contentions

39. Section 9(4) of the Act is certainly of a wider import. The power conferred to the State Government to give effect to the Act is unbridled. It is the very same Regulation, based upon which, recruitments have been made by the management. One has to understand the impugned Regulation in the context along with the setting. It is only by way of abundant caution, that the amendment has come into force. The existence of the power under Section 9(4) of the Act has been dealt with by this Court in Ramji Dwivedi [Ramji Dwivedi v. State of U.P., (1983) 3 SCC 52 : 1983 SCC (L&S) 361] : (SCC pp. 58-59, paras 12 & 14)

“12. Sub-section (4) of Section 9 which has been extracted hereinbefore confers power on the State Government without making any reference to the Board to make an order or take such other action consistent with the provisions of the Act as it deems necessary and in particular, may by such order modify or rescind or make any Regulation in respect of any matter. It would thus unquestionably transpire that while enacting the Regulations prior sanction of the State Government is necessary and under sub-section (4) of Section 9 the State Government enjoys the power to make, modify or rescind any Regulation. Armed with this power the State Government issued an order dated 7-7-1981 stopping all fresh selections and appointments of Principals, etc. in all non-government-aided schools. Shrinath Intermediate College is a non-government-aided school. The effect of the order conveyed by the radiogram would be to rescind the Regulation conferring power on the Committee of Management to make appointment and withdrawing and/or suspending power of appointment of Principal and teachers. The issuance of the order is not in dispute. The argument, in the High Court [Ramji Dwivedi v. State of U.P., 1982 SCC OnLine All 1392] , was that the State Government had no such power and that even if sub-section (4) is deemed to confer such a power it has to be read in juxtaposition with the power conferred on the State Government by sub-sections (1), (2), (3) preceding sub-section (4) of Section 9. The High Court therefore had to examine the width and ambit of the executive power of the State Government in exercise of which, according to the High Court, the order contained in the radiogram was issued. We need not go that far because in our opinion sub-section (4) specifically confers power on the State Government without making any reference to the Board to make, modify or rescind any Regulation as also make such other order consistent with the provisions of the Act. This power of wide amplitude will comprehend the power to stop all appointments for the time being. And the power appears to have been exercised as Government was contemplating taking away the power of private management of non-government-aided schools to make appointment of teachers including Principals. In order to avoid forestalling of governmental action by private managements, the power to make appointments was suspended for the time being. As pointed out earlier, the Regulation confers power on the Committee of Management to make appointment. That Regulation was enacted by the Board with the prior sanction of the State Government. The State Government could be said to have rescinded that Regulation conferring power of appointment or at any rate suspended the power conferred on the Committee of Management to make appointment. The order became effective the moment it is issued. The effect of this order is that the Selection Committee had no right to select the appellant nor the Committee of Management had any power to make the appointment.

14. In view of the finding that sub-section (4) of Section 9 did confer power on the State Government to make, modify or rescind the Regulation or make any other order consistent with the provisions of the Act, the second contention of Mr Sanghi is equally bound to fail.”

40. Section 9(4) of the Act is to be read in conjunction with Section 16-G, as the provisions will have to be read keeping in view all the objects of the enactment. In this connection, we need to point out that if the practice of recruitment, prior to the amendment of the impugned Regulation, was done by tracing the power under it, then it is not open to the respondents to contend to the contrary.

41. Regulation 101, prior to the amendment, imposes strict compliance of getting prior approval. We find that except in Civil Appeal No. 2753 of 2021, no such approval has been granted. Obviously, it only indicates the real intention of the respondents/management which is to have their own recruitment other than anything else.

42. The Division Bench in considering the view has entered into an arena which was not required to be done. Much labouring was done in interpreting the word “outsourcing”, however, such an exercise ought to have been avoided as it stands outside the scope of judicial review. We have already noted the fact that “outsourcing” as a matter of policy is being introduced throughout the State. It is one thing to say that it has to be given effect to with caution as recommended by the Seventh Central Pay Commission, and another to strike it down as unconstitutional. “Outsourcing” per se is not prohibited in law. It is clear that a recruitment by way of “outsourcing” may have its own deficiencies and pitfalls, however, a decision to take “Outsourcing” cannot be declared as ultra vires the Constitution on the basis of mere presumption and assumption. Obviously, we do not know the nature of the scheme and safeguards attached to it.

44. We are also not dealing with the scheme per se, and therefore, are in dark on the conditions of service. The challenge in the present case is not by the employee, recruited by way of “outsourcing”, and hence, we hold the said decision on which much reliance is sought to be made by the respondents will not be of any help. One cannot simply presume that “outsourcing” as a method of recruitment would necessarily be adopting contract labour and that there exists an element of unfair trade practice, as sought to be contended by the respondents.

46. The entire issue has to be looked at from different perspective as well. By the policy decision made, the appellants have abolished the post though in an indirect way by providing for “outsourcing”. Now, a court cannot create or sustain the aforesaid post. There is nothing on record to hold that the decision made is extraneous as it is obviously made applicable not only to the aided institutions but also to all Government Departments as well.

48. Whenever a lis is raised before the Court the grievance along with interest of the party concerned while laying a challenge has to be kept in mind. The aforesaid principle is expected to be kept in mind. More so, while invoking Article 226 of the Constitution of India being extraordinary and discretionary in nature. The aforesaid principle would help the Court to understand the actual reason behind seeking a relief by a party. Keeping the said principle in mind we could only say that the respondents/petitioners, being the institutions endowed with the power of recruitment, do not wish to let go of their hold.

36. Having laid down the above principles, the appeals were allowed by the Supreme Court in terms of the following orders :

57. Accordingly, we have no difficulty in setting aside the judgment of the Division Bench dated 19-11-2018 [Abhay Nandan Inter College v. State of U.P., 2018 SCC OnLine All 5685] and the consequential orders passed while upholding the impugned Regulation. The appeals are allowed with the following directions:

57.1. The respondents/writ petitioners in Civil Appeal No. 2753 of 2021 are directed to be confirmed by granting adequate approval as Class IV employees, having given prior approval.

57.2. The respondents/writ petitioners and similarly placed persons who are recruited by the institutions including the respondents shall be continued with the same scale of pay as if they are recruited prior to 8-9-2010 for which the entire disbursement will have to be made by the institutions alone.

57.3. The appellants shall undertake the necessary exercise to see to it that there is a mechanism available for the proper implementation of “outsourcing” with specific reference to the conditions of service of those who are employed while taking note of the recommendations made in the Seventh Central Pay Commission.

37. So far as the validity of the amended Regulation 101 with effect from 24.04.2014 is concerned, the same stands upheld by the last Court and there cannot be any quarrel about its validity anymore. The law laid down by their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Principal, Abhay Nandan Inter College (supra) would most certainly apply to all appointments made on or after amendment of Regulation 101 with effect from 24.04.2014. In view of the remarks of their Lordships in paragraph No. 13 of the report in Principal, Abhay Nandan Inter College, the most retrospective effect that the policy to discontinue recruitment to Class IV posts can be given is 08.09.2010, when a decision was taken to abolish recruitment on Class IV posts, replacing it by recruitment through outsourcing.

38. Now, therefore, if a process of recruitment had commenced before 08.09.2010, and still more, concluded well ahead of that date by issue of appointment letters and the appointees joining with the Institution, can the policy be held to effect their appointments? We do not think so. This issue squarely arose for consideration in the context of a different Statute, together with the Act of 1921, that is to say, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 (UP. Act no. 5 of 1982)⁹ before a Full Bench of this Court in Santosh Kumar Singh v. State of U.P. and others¹⁰.

39. The facts giving rise to the reference before the Full Bench cannot be better recapitulated than in the words of their Lordships in Santosh Kumar Singh (supra). The facts and the background of the reference have been thus stated by their Lordships :

2. The Act established the Secondary Education Services Selection Board (Board) for selection of teachers in institutions recognized under the Act of 1921. Section 16 of the Act provides that notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the Act of 1921 or the regulations made thereunder but subject to certain specified provisions of the Act, every appointment of a teacher shall on or after the date of the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board (Amendment) Act, 2001 be made by the Management only on the recommendation of the Board. Section 32 provides that the provisions of the Act of 1921 and the regulations made thereunder, insofar as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act or its regulations, shall continue to be in force for the purposes of selection, appointment, promotion, dismissal, removal, termination or reduction in rank of a teacher. Section 33 of the Act provides that the State Government may, for the purposes of removing any difficulty, by a notified order, direct that the provisions of the Act shall, during such period as may be specified in the order, have effect subject to such adaptations, whether by way of modification, addition or omission as it may deem to be necessary or expedient. Section 33-E was introduced into the Act by U.P. Act No.13 of 1999 so as to provide for the rescission of the Removal of Difficulties Orders made under Section 33 of the Act and is in the following terms:

"33-E. Rescission of Orders.-The Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Third) Order, 1982 and the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Fourth) Order, 1982 are hereby rescinded."

3. Section 33-E was introduced with effect from 25 January 1999. Prior to the introduction of Section 33-E, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981 (Removal of Difficulties Order) was issued in exercise of the power conferred by Section 33 to remove difficulties. Para 2 of the Removal of Difficulties Order provided for the vacancies on which ad hoc appointments could be made while Para 3 referred to the duration of ad hoc appointments. The Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981 was thereafter notified. Para 2 of Removal of Difficulties (Second) Order provided the procedure for filling up short term vacancies, while Para 3 provided for the duration of ad hoc appointments.

4. The issue which has been referred to for adjudication before the Full Bench relates to a situation where the process of selection for making an ad hoc appointment had commenced prior to 25 January 1999 when the Removal of Difficulties Orders stood rescinded as a result of the insertion of Section 33-E.

40. Based on the aforesaid facts, the following questions were referred to the Full Bench by a Division Bench :

(a) Whether even after the rescission of Removal of Difficulties Orders under Section 33-E of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 (Act) (U.P. Act No. 5 of 1982), with effect from 25 January 1999, the Committee of Management retains the power to make ad hoc appointment against short term vacancies only because it had published an advertisement for the purpose prior to 25 January 1999;

(b) Whether on enforcement of Section 33-E of the Act rescinding the Removal of Difficulties Orders issued earlier, the Committee of Management has lost all powers to make ad hoc appointment against short term vacancies;

(c) Whether under Section 16-E of the Intermediate Education Act 1921 (Act of 1921), there is a power with the Committee of Management to make ad hoc appointment against short term vacancies and if so then for what period; and

(d) Whether the Division Bench in the case of Subhash Chandra Tripathi v. State of U.P., Writ-A No. 70721 of 2010, decided on 14 July, 2014, has laid down the correct law.

41. In answering the relevant question, which would be Question (a), their Lordships in Santosh Kumar Singh observed :

10. The decision in A A Calton (supra) is, therefore, an authority for the proposition that once a process of selection has been initiated, a subsequent amendment of the law by which the power to make an appointment has specifically been taken away from a statutory authority - in that case from the Director - would have no application to a pending selection process which must be governed by the law as it stood when the selection process was initiated. Undoubtedly, the Legislature does have the power to make a law with retrospective effect but unless the law is made expressly retrospective or retrospective by necessary implication, the position of law as it stood when the selection process was initiated, would govern the selection.

11. In certain other contexts, the Supreme Court has held, for instance, that a selection process has to be governed by the Rules and Government Orders in existence on the date on which the process is initiated. In N.T. Devin Katti v. Karnataka Public Service Commission, (1990) 3 SCC 157, the Supreme Court held as follows:

"...Where proceedings are initiated for selection by issuing advertisement, the selection should normally be regulated by the then existing rules and Government orders and any amendment of the rules or the Government order pending the selection should not affect the validity of the selection made by the selecting authority or the Public Service Commission unless the amended Rules or the amended Government orders, issued in exercise of its statutory power either by express provision or by necessary intendment indicate the amended Rules shall be applicable to the pending selections. See P Mahendran v. State of Karnataka, (1990) 1 SCC 411 : JT (1989) 4 SC 459."

12. In State of Bihar v. Mithilesh Kumar, (2010) 13 SCC 467, the Supreme Court held that a change in the norms of recruitment could be applied prospectively and could not affect those who have been selected for being recommended for appointment after following the norms which were in place at the time when the selection process was commenced. The submission to the contrary was based on the decision in Shankarsan Dash v. Union of India, AIR 1991 SC 1612, to the effect that mere inclusion in a select panel did not confer indefeasible right to appointment. The Supreme Court explained the position in law as follows:

"The decisions which have been cited on behalf of the respondent have clearly explained the law with regard to the applicability of the rules which are amended and/or altered during the selection process. They all say in one voice that the norms or rules as existing on the date when the process of selection begins will control such selection and any alteration to such norms would not affect the continuing process, unless specifically the same were given retrospective effect...While a person may not acquire an indefeasible right to appointment merely on the basis of selection, in the instant case the fact situation is different since the claim of the respondent to be appointed had been negated by a change in policy after the selection process had begun."

13. In a subsequent decision in Government of Andhra Pradesh v. Sri Sevasdas Vidyamandir High School, (2011) 9 SCC 613, the Supreme Court held that a ban on recruitment to grant-in-aid posts had been issued after the school in question had been permitted by the State to fill up vacant posts. The Supreme Court held that in these circumstances, the State could not contend that the process of rationalization which was introduced subsequently, would also apply to private aided schools, where the process of recruitment had already been commenced pursuant to the approval granted earlier.

14. The judgment in A A Calton (supra) has been recently followed in a decision of the Supreme Court in Kulwant Singh v. Daya Ram, (2015) 3 SCC 177, in the context of the principle that vacancies which had occurred prior to an amendment of rules would be governed by the unamended rules and not by the amended rules where the amended rules are not made retrospective either expressly or by implication.

15. The judgment of the Division Bench in Subhash Chandra Tripathi's case was based on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in A A Calton (supra). In the referring judgment, the Division Bench has doubted the correctness of that view based on a judgment of the Supreme Court in Shankarsan Dash (supra). In the view of the Division Bench, the Supreme Court has held that even a selection does not confer a right of appointment. Hence, the view which has been taken by the Division Bench is that a mere initiation of the process of selection will not result in the retention of the power of appointment by the authority concerned even when the power of appointment had been withdrawn under a statutory provision, in this case Section 33-E. The decision in Shankarsan Dash (supra) of a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court dealt with the issue as to whether a candidate whose name appears in the merit list on the basis of a competitive examination acquires an indefeasible right of appointment as a Government servant merely because a vacancy exists. In that context, the Supreme Court held as follows:

"7. It is not correct to say that if a number of vacancies are notified for appointment and adequate number of candidates are found fit, the successful candidates acquire an indefeasible right to be appointed which cannot be legitimately denied. Ordinarily the notification merely amounts to an invitation to qualified candidates to apply for recruitment and on their selection they do not acquire any right to the post. Unless the relevant recruitment rules so indicate, the State is under no legal duty to fill up all or any of the vacancies. However, it does not mean that the State has the licence of acting in an arbitrary manner. The decision not to fill up the vacancies has to be taken bona fide for appropriate reasons. And if the vacancies or any of them are filled up, the State is bound to respect the comparative merit of the candidates, as reflected at the recruitment test, and no discrimination can be permitted. This correct position has been consistently followed by this Court, and we do not find any discordant note in the decisions in State of Haryana v. Subhash Chander Marwaha, (1974) 1 SCR 165 : (AIR 1973 SC 2216), Miss Neelim Shangla v. State of Haryana, (1986) 4 SCC 268 : AIR 1987 SC 169, or Jitendra Kumar v. State of Punjab, (1985) 1 SCR 899 : (AIR 1984 SC 1850)"

16. These observations of the Supreme Court would indicate that the issue in Shankarsan Dash (supra) was completely distinct. A candidate who is on a select list does not have an indefeasible right to appointment merely because a vacancy exists. That is not the issue in the present case. The issue in the present case is whether a process of selection which was initiated prior to the insertion of Section 33-E which rescinded the Removal of Difficulties Orders must be governed by the law as it then stood at the time when the process was initiated by the issuance of an advertisement. Plainly, the issue is not about the right of a particular candidate to appointment but whether the selection process should be governed by the law as it stood when the selection process was initiated. On this aspect, the consistent position of law has been laid down in the judgment of the Supreme Court in A A Calton (supra).

42. The questions referred to the Full Bench were answered by their Lordships in the following terms :

(a) Despite the rescission of the Removal of Difficulties Orders by Section 33-E of U.P. Act No.13 of 1999 with effect from 25 January 1999, the power of the Committee of Management to make appointments against short term vacancies, where the process of appointment had been initiated prior to 25 January 1999 by the publication of an advertisement, would continue to be preserved;

(b) On the enforcement of the provisions of Section 33-E, the power of a Committee of Management to make ad hoc appointments against short term vacancies would not stand abrogated in a case where the process of selection had been initiated prior to 25 January 1999;

(c) Under Section 16-E of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the Committee of Management is empowered to make an appointment against a temporary vacancy caused by the grant of leave to an incumbent for a period not exceeding six months or in the case of death, termination or otherwise, of an incumbent occurring during an educational session. An appointment made under sub-section (11) of Section 16-E as provided in the proviso thereto shall, in any case, not continue beyond the end of educational session during which the appointment was made; and

(d) The judgment of the Division Bench in Subhash Chandra Tripathi (supra) is affirmed as laying down a correct interpretation of the judgment in A A Calton (supra).

(emphasis by Court)

43. The aforesaid enunciation of the law, therefore, makes it vivid that in a case where the process of recruitment has commenced before a change to the law governing recruitment, the process already commenced does not abate or get rescinded. It has to be carried forward to its logical conclusion. Here, the advertisement was issued on 09.01.2009 and 10.01.2009, whereas, the earliest that the change in policy of recruitment to Class IV posts was brought about was on 08.09.2010. It was followed by the GO dated 06.01.2011, which, though quashed by this Court, and technically dead, now has the imprimatur of the Supreme Court in Principal, Abhay Nandan Inter College. We do not wish to go into that question, but all that we say is that any process of recruitment commenced before 08.09.2010 would have to be carried to its logical conclusion, irrespective of the policy decision taken on 08.09.2010, the GO dated 06.01.2011 or the ultimate amendment made to Regulation 101 with effect from 24.04.2014. Here, the advertisement was admittedly issued and the process of recruitment commenced as per the then prevalent Regulation 101 by the Management with the publication of the advertisement on 09.01.2009 and 10.01.2009. The process of selection was completed on 27.02.2009 and letters of appointment were issued to the petitioners on 01.03.2009, the date on which they joined their duties also with the Institution. This then being the calendar of events governing the rights of the petitioners, it is very difficult to accept the contention of the respondents, howsoever stretched, to uphold their policy decision, now embodied in Regulation 101, to undo a recruitment process commenced well before the policy decision was taken on 08.09.2010. There is no way the recruitment process, commenced much earlier than the change of policy and much before the amendment to Regulation 101 brought about on 24.04.2014, can be subjected to the changed law or policy and held invalid.

44. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and stands allowed. The impugned order dated 15.09.2015 passed by the Regional Level Committee, Kanpur Region, Kanpur is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur or the Regional Level Committee, whosoever be the authority competent as per assignment of business in the Department of Secondary Education to pass fresh orders considering the grant of financial sanction to the petitioners' appointment, bearing in mind the directions in this judgment. Necessary orders shall be passed within a month of receipt of a copy of this judgment by the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur.

45. There shall be no order as to costs.

46. The Registrar (Compliance) is directed to communicate this order to the Joint Director of Education, Kanpur Region, Kanpur.

List of Cases cited:

1. Shashi Kiran Vs U.O.I.; 2016 SCC Online 4819

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Bal Mukund, learned counsel appearing for all the respondents.

2. Petitioners before this Court are erstwhile faculty members of Kendriya Hindi Sansthan, Agra, a Central Government Organisation controlled and funded by it through its own sets of rules and by-laws framed with the approval of Government of India. While petitioner no.1 had already retired by the time present petition was presented before this Court on 30.11.2015, the other two petitioners were working and ultimately retired on 30.06.2019, during pendency of the writ petition.

3. All the three petitioners claim a writ in the nature of mandamus to command the respondents including Union of India to award them benefit of the Old Pension Scheme popularly known as G.P.F. Scheme by permitting them to opt for G.P.F. cum Pension Scheme (In short G.P.F. Scheme) in view of the subsequent orders issued by the Delhi University with the consent of Central Government, to permit the employees having C.P.F. Scheme to switch over to G.P.F. Scheme as late as in the year 2003. During the pendency of this petition, a judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Shashi Kiran versus Union of India: 2016 SCC Online 4819 intervened as per which even those employees of such institutions who had already opted for C.P.F. Scheme and were not permitted to switch to G.P.F. Scheme on the principle that they could not gaze into the crystal ball the benefits of the Old Pension Scheme, and to speculate whether the existing state of affairs would continue especially the rate of interest that one would get on the accumulated fund as compared to benefits given to the pension optees at the stage of superannuation. Petitioner herein claim to be the last category of petitioners as came to be mentioned in paragraph 23 of the judgment who had opted for C.P.F. benefits.

4. It is argued on behalf of the petitioners that petitioners' application remained pending consideration before the authorities since 2013 i.e. prior to their date of superannuation and even if the higher authorities of the Government of India refused to consider that application on the plea that there was no further option available in the year 1999, after 31.12.2003 now they can be benefited under the judgment of the Supreme Court as they were the third category of the petitioners who were similarly circumstanced.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents, Sri Bal Mukund has argued, firstly that petitioners having attained the age of superannuation were no more the employees of the institute and, therefore, there is no question of giving them any option to switch over as this option could be exercised by working employees only; and secondly act and conduct in opting for C.P.F. scheme was a result of a conscious decision by the petitioners and they having not chosen to opt for C.P.F. Scheme prior to 30.09.1989 when the last opportunity was given by the Central Government, there was no question now to reopen the option in favour of retired employees. Meeting the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Shashi Kiran (supra), Sri Bal Mukund has argued that judgment would operate in personem and not in rem. He has argued that judgment having been delivered in particular cases that were being pursued in the Delhi High Court and the Supreme Court extended the benefit even to the third category of such employees approaching it and these appeals arose out of the said judgment of the Delhi High Court, whereas in the present case petitioners have chosen to approach this Court much after the expiry of last date to exercise option in the year 2003 made by the Delhi University. He submits, as far as petitioner no.1 is concerned, he himself had opted to retire and take post retirement benefit as per the C.P.F. Scheme even prior to filing of his present petition. Sri Bal Mukund has also not denied the resolution of Board of Governors on date as was in the year 1999 making recommendations for permitting its employees another chance to switch over to C.P.F. Scheme.

6. Meeting the above three arguments as advanced by learned counsel Sri Bal Mukund appearing for the respondents, Sri Ashish Mishra has submitted in rejoinder that once the Government gave the above option as late as 2003, it could not be said that since petitioners had already exercised the option, they could not switch over. He submitted that the principle upon which the judgment has been delivered is equally applicable to the present case. It is also submitted that petitioners had moved their application to switch over in the year 1999 itself when all the petitioners were in service and, therefore, their right to claim benefit continued even if they had retired.

7. Meeting the argument further, learned Advocate submits that the respondents themselves made the petitioners to retire under the C.P.F. scheme with a rider that their claim for switching over from C.P.F. to G.P.F. scheme would depend upon the outcome of the pending litigation before this Court vide letters dated 12.07.2019 and 20.08.2019 brought on record as annexure to the supplementary rejoinder affidavit.

8. To the argument of learned counsel for the respondent on the point of letter of the Additional Secretary, Ministry of Human Affairs and Development (Secondary and Higher Education Department) dated 18.11.1999, it is argued that this internal communication is between the first respondent and the third respondent and it refuses to consider the claim on the ground that there was no proposal, whereas there was a proposal to exercise open upto the year 2003 and, therefore, this letter has no significance and relevance.

9. Still further it is argued that in view of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Shashi Kiran's case, benefit would be applicable to the present case and petitioners cannot be denied benefit of such judgment which has been delivered during pendency of the writ petition.

10. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties, perused the records and judgment of the Supreme Court cited before this Court, firstly I find that the petitioners cannot be said to have failed to exercise option by the last day i.e. 31.12.2003 wishing to switch over from C.P.F. to G.P.F. as they had applied way back in 1999. The admitted position between the parties is that petitioners had admittedly exercised their option to remain under C.P.F. scheme as much before their retirement they had applied for switching over. The third respondent though made recommendations in their favour but the first respondent refused to entertain such application on the plea that there was no such option open in the year 1999. It is also an admitted position that the respondents themselves observed in the letter of the Deputy Registrar dated 12.07.2019 and 20.08.2019 that their claim from C.P.F. to G.P.F. scheme would depend upon the outcome of the pending litigation but of course there is no such letter in respect of petitioner no.1, it appears since he had already retired at the time of filing of this writ petition.

11. Under the above facts and circumstances in my considered view, the letter of the Union of India dated 16.11.1999 becomes irrelevant and insignificant as the option to switch over had remain opened till 31.12.2003 as has come to be so recorded in the judgment of the Supreme Court in Shashi Kiran (supra) vide its paragraph 29.

12. Coming to the judgment cited, I find that of the three batches in terms of category of cases namely (i) R.N. Virmani Batch of cases, (ii) N.C. Bakshi batch of cases (iii) Shashi Kiran Batch of cases, the learned Single Judge of Delhi High Court allowed both Virmani Batch of cases and N.C. Batch of cases giving benefit of the office memorandum to the former and to the later on the ground that former had not opted but continued with contribution towards C.P.F. Scheme as if tacitly opted for C.P.F. by their conduct and latter ones, who though had consciously opted for C.P.F. Scheme but after the last cut off date 30.09.1987. Both these batches were given benefit of the G.P.F. cum Pension Scheme on the principle that last cut off date 30.09.1987 would not come in their way of opting for old G.P.F. Scheme as exception was to opt for C.P.F. Scheme. However, in respect of the Shashi Kiran Batch of cases the learned Single Judge refused the relief on the ground that they had exercised their option prior to the last cut off and that too cautiously and therefore, there was no room available to them for any "come back situation". Thus the learned Single Judge of the Delhi High Court classified the otherwise homogeneous group of employees seeking pension into two categories. Upon a Letters Patent Appeal being filed, while the Division Bench of the Delhi High Court upheld the judgment of the learned Single Judge in respect of Virmani Batch and N.C. Bakshi Batch dismissing the appeal of the University of Delhi, reversed the judgment of the learned Single Judge in respect of Shashi Kiran Batch of cases by giving them relief on the principle that if the relief could have been granted to those 2469 employees who had consciously opted for C.P.F. Scheme may be after the last cut off date, the petitioners appellants of the Shashi Kiran Batch should not have been discriminated against and as they were 75 in numbers. So, even though they had applied to the High Court in the year 2010, the relief to switch over to G.P.F. Scheme/ OPS was granted. Supreme Court of India upon Special Leave Petition filed by the University of Delhi affirmed the judgment of the Division Bench of the Delhi High Court by making observations in their favour after discussing the legal aspects involved therein vide paragraph nos. 22 to 37 that are reproduced hereunder:

"22. We now turn to Shashi Kiran batch of cases.

23. As indicated by the University in its affidavit filed after the Order dated 02.03.2020 was passed by this Court, 2611 employees had opted to be under CPF Scheme by the cut-off date, i.e. by 30.09.1987. Additionally, 626 employees exercised the option to be under CPF after the original cut-off, but within initial two extensions granted by the University. Thus, as against the entire body of employees of the University, 3237 (2611+626) employees had exercised the option to be under CPF. Out of these 3237 employees, by virtue of further extensions granted by the University, about 2469 employees exercised the reverse option and opted to come over to GPF, leaving only 768 (3237-2469) employees to be under CPF. The answers to queries d? and e? given by the University in its affidavit indicate that the number of employees in CPF Scheme was 86 while the petitioners in Shashi Kiran batch were 75. We are, thus, concerned with 75 original petitioners in Shashi Kiran batch of cases.

24. In Krishena Kumar, the distinction between the Provident Fund Scheme and the Pension Scheme was considered by the Constitution Bench of this Court. In that case, the employees who had joined the service on or after 01.04.1957 were to get covered automatically by the Pension Scheme and insofar as employees who were already in service on 01.04.1957, they were given an option either to retain the Provident Fund benefits or to switchover to the pensionary benefits. About 12 extensions were thereafter granted so that the options could be exercised by the employees within the extended time. Those who had chosen not to exercise such option, were before this Court. The basic nature of the Scheme was discussed in paragraph 7 of the decision as under:-

"7. We may now examine these options. The Railway Board's letter No. F(E) 50-RTI/6 dated November 16, 1957 introduced the pension scheme for railway servants. It said that the President had been pleased to decide that the pension rules, as liberalised vide Railway Board's Memo No. E-48 OPC-208 dated July 8, 1950 as amended or clarified from time to time should apply (a) to all Railway servants who entered service on or after issue of that letter and (b) to all non-pensionable railway servants who were in service on April 1, 1957 or have joined railway service between that date and the date of issue of the order?. The Railway servants referred to in para (b) were required to exercise an unconditional and unambiguous option on the prescribed form on or before March 31, 1958 electing for the pensionary benefits or retaining their existing retirement benefits under the State Railway Provident Fund Rules. It further said that any such employee from whom an option form prescribed for the employee's option was not received within the above time limit or whose option was incomplete or conditional or ambiguous shall be deemed to have opted for the pensionary benefits and if any such employee had died by that date or on or after April 1, 1957 without exercising option for the pensionary scheme, his dues would be paid on the provident fund system. The period of validity of this option was first extended up to June 30, 1958, December 31, 1958, March 31, 1959 and lastly up to September 30, 1959. There could, therefore, be no doubt that those who did not opt for the pension scheme had ample opportunity to choose between the two."

25. Reliance was placed by the petitioners before this Court on the decision in D.S. Nakara vs. Union of India. Paragraphs 16, 29 and 30 of the decision in Krishena Kumar dealt with the issue as under:-

"16. As the basis or justification for striking or reading down paragraph 3.1 on Nakara ratio, it is urged that all the Railway employees numbering about 22 lakhs comprising 16,22,000 in service and about 6 lakhs pensioners constitute one family and must be treated as one class as the government's obligation to look after the retired Railway employees both under the pension scheme and the provident fund scheme being the same, they could not be treated differently. Any differential treatment will be discriminatory and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In Nakara case the date arbitrarily chosen was struck down and as a result the revised formula for computing pension was made applicable to all the retired pensioners. The same principle, it is urged, has to be extended to the Provident Fund retirees also otherwise there would be discrimination. It is stated that though at the time of choosing between Provident Fund and Pension Scheme both the alternatives appeared to be more or less equal and the retired provident funders took their lump sum yet subsequently stage by stage the pensioners' benefits were increased in such ways and to such extent that it became more and more discriminatory against the provident funders old and new. It was because of this discrimination that successive options were given by the Railway Board for the provident funders to become pensioners. Hence the submission that this limitation must go, and all the provident funders must be deemed to have become pensioners subject to the condition that the government contribution received by them along with interest thereon is refunded or adjusted. Obviously this gives no importance to the condition in the notifications that option once exercised shall be final and binding and to the fact that in each option a cut-off date was there related to the purpose of giving that option.

29. The court in Nakara was not satisfied with the explanation that the legislation had defined the class with clarity and precision and it would not be the function of this Court to enlarge the class. The court held in paragraph 65 of the report : (SCC pp. 344-45, para 65)

"With the expanding horizons of socio-economic justice, the Socialist Republic and Welfare State which we endeavour to set up and largely influenced by the fact that the old men who retired when emoluments were comparatively low and are exposed to vagaries of continuously rising prices, the falling value of the rupee consequent upon inflationary inputs, we are satisfied that by introducing an arbitrary eligibility criterion :?being in service and retiring subsequent to the specified date? for being eligible for the liberalised pension scheme and thereby dividing a homogeneous class, the classification being not based on any discernible rational principle and having been found wholly unrelated to the objects sought to be achieved by grant of liberalised pension and the eligibility criteria devised being thoroughly arbitrary, we are of the view that the eligibility for liberalised pension scheme of "being in service on the specified date and retiring subsequent to that date" in impugned memoranda, Exs. P-1 and P-2, violates Article 14 and is unconstitutional and is struck down. Both the memoranda shall be enforced and implemented as read down as under : In other words, Ex. P- 1, the words : "that in respect of the government servants who were in service on March 31, 1979 and retiring from service on or after that date"; and in Ex. P-2, the words : "the new rates of pension are effective from April 1, 1979 and will be applicable to all service officers who became/become non- effective on or after that date" are unconstitutional and are struck down with this specification that the date mentioned therein will be relevant as being one from which the liberalised pension scheme becomes operative to all pensioners governed by 1972 Rules irrespective of the date of retirement. Omitting the unconstitutional part it is declared that all pensioners governed by the 1972 Rules and Army Pension Regulations shall be entitled to pension as computed under the liberalised pension scheme from the specified date, irrespective of the date of retirement. Arrears of pension prior to the specified date as per fresh computation is not admissible."

30. Thus the court treated the pension retirees only as a homogeneous class. The PF retirees were not in mind. The court also clearly observed that while so reading down it was not dealing with any fund and there was no question of the same cake being divided amongst larger number of the pensioners than would have been under the notification with respect to the specified date. All the pensioners governed by the 1972 Rules were treated as a class because payment of pension was a continuing obligation on the part of the State till the death of each of the pensioners and, unlike the case of Contributory Provident Fund, there was no question of a fund in liberalising pension."

26. The distinction between two Schemes was dealt with in Paragraph 32 of the decision as under:-

"32. In Nakara it was never held that both the pension retirees and the PF retirees formed a homogeneous class and that any further classification among them would be violative of Article 14. On the other hand the court clearly observed that it was not dealing with the problem of a 'fund'. The Railway Contributory Provident Fund is by definition a fund. Besides, the government's obligation towards an employee under CPF Scheme to give the matching contribution begins as soon as his account is opened and ends with his retirement when his rights qua the government in respect of the Provident Fund is finally crystallized and thereafter no statutory obligation continues. Whether there still remained a moral obligation is a different matter. On the other hand under the Pension Scheme the government's obligation does not begin until the employee retires when only it begins and it continues till the death of the employee. Thus, on the retirement of an employee government's legal obligation under the Provident Fund account ends while under the Pension Scheme it begins. The rules governing the Provident Fund and its contribution are entirely different from the rules governing pension. It would not, therefore, be reasonable to argue that what is applicable to the pension retirees must also equally be applicable to PF retirees. This being the legal position the rights of each individual PF retiree finally crystallized on his retirement whereafter no continuing obligation remained while, on the other hand, as regard Pension retirees, the obligation continued till their death. The continuing obligation of the State in respect of pension retirees is adversely affected by fall in rupee value and rising prices which, considering the corpus already received by the PF retirees they would not be so adversely affected ipso facto. It cannot, therefore, be said that it was the ratio decidendi in Nakara⁶ that the State's obligation towards its PF retirees must be the same as that towards the pension retirees. An imaginary definition of obligation to include all the government retirees in a class was not decided and could not form the basis for any classification for the purpose of this case. Nakara cannot, therefore, be an authority for this case."

27. Having observed that the Pension Scheme and the Provident Fund Scheme were structurally different, it was then concluded that the retirees in both categories did not belong to the same class and that there was no discrimination. The challenge was, therefore, rejected.

28. At this stage we must also consider that in *Rajasthan Rajya Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited vs. Dwarka Prasad Koolwal and others*⁷, a Bench of two Judges of this Court found that an employee had no inherent right to demand extension for exercising the switchover option. It was observed:-

"58. When the Pension Regulations and the GPF Scheme are read together, the necessary conclusion is that an employee must give his option for either continuing to be a member of the CPF Scheme or to switch over to the Pension and GPF Scheme. This option had to be exercised within a period of 90 days from the cut-off date, that is, 28-11-1988. But RSEB, in its wisdom, chose to extend the time for exercising the switch-over option over a period of 8 years by giving several opportunities to the employees through its notices. The right of an employee to switch over was, therefore, limited in time by the Pension and GPF Scheme. However, administrative orders issued by RSEB from time to time extended the period for exercising the option. No employee had any inherent right to either demand an extension of the period for exercising the switch-over option or claim a right to exercise the switch-over option at any time prior to his retirement, and no such right has been shown to us."

29. Krishena Kumar was a case where the retirees from two categories namely Pension Fund and Provident Fund, were taken to be distinct and different and as such the plea on the ground of discrimination was rejected. As the Judgment of the Division Bench discloses, the matter was considered by it from the standpoint of discrimination between the same category of persons, that is to say, those who had opted to be under CPF. The different groups in the same category were:-

a) Those who had not exercised any option but continued to make payment of contribution towards CPF (R.K. Virmani batch of cases).

b) Those who exercised the option to be under CPF but the option was exercised after the cut-off. Since the option was exercised after the cut-off, they were deemed to have 'come over to GPF and were granted benefit (N.C. Bakshi batch of cases).

c) Those who consciously exercised the option to be under CPF; but taking advantage of further options granted through 11 extensions to switchover, had been allowed to 'come over' to GPF (2469 employees).

30. It was against these three sub categories coming from the same category of employees that the argument of discrimination was considered by the Division Bench. Such was not the case in Krishena Kumar⁵ or Rajasthan Rajya Vidyut Vitran.

31. The matter was further considered by the Division Bench in the context of the employees of educational institutions such as IITs, who are directly under the Central Government, just as the employees of the University, which is a Central University. If the option was allowed to be exercised by granting extension to the employees of the other educational institutions, the Division Bench did not find any reason why similar choice/option could not be given to the employees in Shashi Kiran batch of cases.

32. Additionally, the feature that has been presented through the documents which have subsequently come on record is that even with respect to the employees of Insurance Corporations similar options and extensions were granted.

33. The differential treatment afforded to those 2469 employees as against the employees in Shashi Kiran batch of cases, was not founded on any rationale. No justifiable reason was coming forth. If those 2469 employees could be afforded chance to exercise an option of switchover to GPF, even though they had consciously opted to be under CPF, on principle of parity or equality, the case was certainly made out.

34. We may now consider the matter from the perspective of financial impact if the decision of the Division Bench is affirmed.

35. According to the notification dated 01.05.1987, the employees joining the service after 01.01.1986 would always be under GPF. With respect to those who were in service on 01.01.1986, said employees would be deemed to have 'come over' to GPF unless an option to continue to be under CPF was consciously exercised before the cut-off date. Thus, when the Scheme was framed and was sought to be implemented, the concerned authorities must have taken into account the entire magnitude such as, the number of employees and the likelihood of impact on the management of the fund, so that reasonable returns can be effected by way of pension upon retirement of such persons. Going by the intent of the notification, those who were to opt for CPF, were an exception and the general rule was that everybody after 01.01.1986 would normally be covered by GPF. It is in this context that the number of original petitioners in Shashi Kiran batch of cases has to be seen. We are concerned with only 75 persons. On the other hand, the bulk of people namely 2469 employees were granted the choice of reverse switchover and they were allowed all the benefits under GPF. It can reasonably be said that when the notification dated 01.05.1987 was issued, the authorities were conscious of the possibility that all the employees may 'come over' to GPF. With that possibility in mind, the fund was constituted and the affairs were arranged. The shift of those 75 employees would not in any way affect the strength and the character of the fund if a direction that the entire contribution made by the authorities be returned with reasonable rate of interest is issued. These 75 petitioners had approached the Court in the year 2010. At this length of time, it is not as if any floodgates are going to open and there will be drain on the resources of the State. A direction can, therefore, be issued, as was done by the learned Single Judge in paragraph 20 of his Judgment in R.N. Virmani batch of cases and which aspect was mentioned in the letter dated 23.01.2017 referred to in paragraph 8 hereinabove, for recouping the contribution under CPF with 8% simple interest per annum.

36. Considering the circumstances on record, in our view, the decision rendered by the Division Bench of the High Court in Shashi Kiran batch of cases does not call for any interference except to the extent of direction for recouping of the contribution under CPF with 8% simple interest per annum. It is possible that at this length of time, some of the employees in Shashi Kiran batch of cases may not be interested in switchover to GPF. But an option must be afforded to them in such manner as the authorities deem appropriate.

37. All these appeals are therefore disposed of in aforesaid terms, with no order as to costs."

(Emphasis added)

13. From the discussion as has been held by Supreme Court dealing with the Shashi Kiran batch of cases, it clearly emerges out that when employees of such institution as petitioner's institution, the general rule was that all the employees under the CPF Scheme were directed to be governed under the GPF Scheme except those who consciously opted for CPF Scheme before the cut off dated 30.09.1987, there arose an issue for those who switched over from GPF to CPF Scheme, I would call it a reverse switching and those who exercised option for GPF scheme by administrative order by the respective institutions after the cut off date. The ratio of the judgment in Shashi Kiran's case (Supra) is, switching over to GPF or not, all those in CPF Scheme became member of GPF Scheme automatically and so all such employees who did not opt for a change prior to 1987, should be taken to have become member of GPF Scheme on principle of 'deemed switch over' a fiction created by asking for option to remain in CPF Scheme. Now it has to be seen as to whether this fiction of 'deemed switch over' shall apply to the case in hand. Now in order to find answer to the above question it is to be seen what options were available to the petitioners in their institutions and whether petitioners had ever opted for CPF Scheme before or after cut off date i.e. 13.09.1987. If no options were available then deeming fiction would apply as there was no option to go for GPF, and instead, it was a reverse option that was made available. All those were made to be governed under 1972 rules irrespective of the date of retirement. The Court also considered the aspect of consistent fall in rupee value and the rates of interest upon a corpus that may be received by a retired employee under the C.P.F. scheme. The judgment of the Division Bench since has been upheld by the Supreme Court I find the principle of crystal ball emerging through the judgment at that point of time to be very genuine principle to make this benefit available to all the employees. Petitioners before this Court are only three in numbers and while two retired during pendency of this petition, one had already retired on the date of presentation of this writ petition. Thus two petitioners were in service when the judgment of the Supreme Court had intervened. The principle upon which Shashi Kiran batch has been given benefit to switch over from C.P.F. scheme to G.P.G. cum Pension scheme even on filing of the writ petition in year 2010 while the last offer was made in the year 2003 only, can be made applicable to the case in hand as well. Shashi Kiran batch employees had consciously opted for C.P.F. Scheme even before the last cut-off date as petitioners herein.

14. In the present case, the respondents-Union of India/Central Government, in my considered view, were certainly not justified in refusing to consider the claim in the year 1999 by writing back to the Sansthan that no such scheme to switch over was available any more. The third respondent is very well funded by the Central Government and the contributions have been made by the Central Government under the C.P.F. scheme. The petitioners though have received the same but would certainly be refunding back at the same rate of interest as has been directed by the Supreme Court in its judgment (supra). It is claimed that no other employee of the Hindi Sansthan falls in this category and if their claims are accepted that will not open any flood gates of litigations.

15. In the circumstances, therefore, I find good reasons to allow this petition and give benefits of old pension scheme to the petitioners. In so far as petitioner no.1 is concerned, he though had retired already but had of course moved an application to permit him to switch over from C.P.F. scheme to G.P.F. cum Pension scheme in the year 1999 and then in 2013 itself and recommendations were made sometime much before his retirement. Although his case could have fallen in the category of those cases where one can say that not much protest was made in accepting the funds etc. under the C.P.F. scheme at the time of retirement, but in view of the fact that in Shashi Kiran batch of cases Supreme Court had allowed petition even for retired employees subject to refund of fund obtained by them with 8 per cent interest to cover up the financial loss that otherwise government may suffer in giving pension under the old pension scheme, I do find justification to allow this benefit to petitioner no.1 as well.

16. In view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The respondents are directed to convert petitioners' C.P.F. scheme to G.P.F. cum Pension scheme. The fund that has been received under the C.P.F. scheme shall be refunded by the petitioner except their own share of contribution at the rate of 8 per cent simple interest as has been directed by the Supreme Court in its judgment (supra). They will be furnishing an affidavit of this undertaking and thereafter the respondents shall fix the time limit or any other modality to receive refund from the petitioners.

17. It is made clear that this will be one time opportunity and if the petitioners fail to pay back the contribution with 8 percent interest per annum as per modality prescribed for, no further opportunity will be afforded for the same and petitioners will have to remain satisfied with whatever they have gained under the C.P.F. Scheme.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

The petitioner is the widow of the late Mahesh Chand, a dismissed Constable of the Police, who seeks to challenge the dismissal of her deceased husband from service and its affirmation in departmental appeal and revision.

2. The petitioner's husband, the late Mahesh Chand, was recruited in the Civil Police in the year 2006. She and Mahesh Chand were married on 24.06.2007, according to Hindu rites. In the year 2007, he was removed from service in consequence of a general order passed by the Government in the recruitment matter, but reinstated in service in the year 2009, after Supreme Court's judgment. The petitioner, Smt. Madhu Yadav, moved an application on 09.06.2009 before the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh, saying that she was married to Mahesh Chand on 24.06.2007, according to Hindu rites, but Mahesh Chand had married another woman by the name 'X'. She said in her complaint that she had lodged a First Information Report against her husband, giving rise to Case Crime No. 121 of 2008, under Sections 498A, 323, 506, 494 of the Indian Penal Code, 18602.

3. After investigation, a charge-sheet was said to be submitted against Mahesh Chand. A preliminary inquiry in the matter was conducted by the Circle Officer, Civil Lines, Aligarh. The Circle Officer found evidence against Mahesh Chand. On the basis of the preliminary inquiry report, the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh decided to initiate departmental proceedings against Mahesh Chand under Rule 14(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Police Officers of Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 19913. The departmental inquiry was entrusted to the Circle Officer, City-II, Aligarh. The petitioner, Smt. Madhu Yadav and her father, Mahendra Pal Singh were examined on behalf of the Establishment. They supported the allegations against the late Mahesh Chand. In the departmental inquiry, the petitioner was held guilty and recommendation made for dismissal from service.

4. The Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh issued a show-cause notice dated 05.02.2010 along with a copy of the inquiry report, which was received by the late Mahesh Chand on 26.02.2010. The Constable was granted fifteen days' time to submit his reply to the show-cause, which he chose not to do. The Senior Superintendent of Police, accordingly, dismissed him from service vide an order dated 19.06.2010. The deceased constable then preferred an appeal to the Deputy Inspector General of Police, Aligarh Range, Aligarh. The appeal was dismissed on 08.11.2010. Mahesh Chand carried a revision to the Additional Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, which was rejected by means of an order dated 30.08.2011.

5. Mahesh Chand died on 17.06.2014. After his demise, the petitioner, that is to say, Smt. Madhu Yadav, his wife, filed a writ petition before this Court, being Writ - A No. 43101 of 2014, with a case that the revision preferred by her late husband to the Additional Director General of Police is still pending and may be directed to be decided. The aforesaid writ petition was disposed of by this Court vide an order dated 22.08.2014, directing the Additional Director General of Police to decide the revision against the order dated 08.11.2010 in accordance with law, expeditiously and preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of the order, along with a photostat copy of the memo of revision before the officer seized of the revision.

6. It was the respondents' case that the revision was already decided by the Additional Director General of Police, Lucknow vide an order dated 30.08.2011. So, a communication in this regard was made by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh on 30.10.2014, communicating the revisional order to the petitioner. In fact, in the order dated 30.10.2014, it was mentioned that a copy of the revisional order dated 30.08.2011 was communicated to the deceased constable at his address of permanent residence, but he was not found there. The Senior Superintendent of Police has mentioned that the order was communicated through a constable, Rajbir Singh, from the Police Lines, Aligarh. He affixed the order on the wall of Mahesh Chand's residence in the presence of his father and two residents of the village. At this stage, when the petitioner was communicated with a copy of the revisional order dated 30.08.2011 passed during the lifetime of her husband by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh, in consequence of the directions issued by this Court on the assumption that it was not decided. The petitioner moved this Court through the present writ petition, for the first time, challenging the orders of dismissal from service passed against her late husband and its affirmation in departmental appeal and revision.

7. It is not in dispute that the petitioner's husband never challenged the revisional order dated 30.08.2011, or the order of dismissal, or for that matter, the appellate order before this Court during his lifetime. He lived a little shy of two years after the revisional order was made, but never chose to challenge it. This petition was entertained by an order dated 11.12.2014, when a notice of motion was issued, asking the respondents to file a counter affidavit. In course of time, a counter affidavit dated 26.03.2015 was filed on behalf of the respondents and a supplementary affidavit dated 31.08.2015 was filed on behalf of the petitioner. A rejoinder affidavit was filed by the petitioner on 31.08.2015. A supplementary counter affidavit dated 22.09.2018 was filed on behalf of respondent No. 4. Much later when the petition came up before the Court in the month of May, 2023, still at the admission stage, another supplementary affidavit was filed by the petitioner dated 22.05.2023. In answer to this affidavit, a supplementary counter affidavit dated 28.08.2023 was filed. With exchange of so much of pleadings, except the supplementary counter affidavit last filed, which came in later on, this petition was admitted to hearing on 05.07.2023. The matter was heard on 24.07.2023, 07.08.2023, 21.08.2023 and lastly, on 06.10.2023, when judgment was reserved.

8. Heard Mr. Pradeep Kumar Dwivedi, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned

9. The petitioner was charge-sheeted on a solitary charge, which, from a perusal of the inquiry report dated 27.01.2010, is found to read as follows :

आपकी शादी श्रीमती मधु पुत्री महेन्द्र सिंह निवासी खलवारा थाना मेरापुर जनपद फर्रुखाबाद के साथ हिन्दु रीति रिवाज से दोनो पक्षों की सहमती से हुई थी शादी के बाद से आपके अवैध सम्बन्ध उमा उर्फ शपना पुत्री मोहनलाल निवासी आमिलपुर थाना मेरापुर मऊ दरवाजा जनपद फर्रुखाबाद से कायम हो गये और आपने उमा उर्फ सपना को भगाकर अपने साथ रख लिया जिससे एक पुत्री पैदा होने की जानकारी आयी है जिसके सम्बन्ध में आपके एवं आपके परिवारीजनों के विरुद्ध थाना मेरापुर में आवेदिका श्रीमती मधू ने मु0अ0सं0 121/2008 धारा 498ए/323/506/494 भादवि व 3/4 दहेज अधिनियम का अभियोग पंजीकृत कराया गया था। अभियोग में आरोप सत्य पाये जाने पर विवेचक द्वारा आरोप पत्र दिनांक 20.06.2008 को न्यायालय में प्रेषित कर दिया गया और अभियोग वर्तमान में विचाराधीन न्यायालय है।

10. The charge against deceased, on the basis of which the inquiry proceeded, on a reading of it, appears to be inchoate and inconsequential, but later on, in the proceedings and in the inquiry report, the conclusion drawn is that the deceased, by indulging in an illicit relationship while married to the petitioner, has led to the image of the police force being adversely affected in the eyes of the public and his conduct is one unbecoming of a member of a disciplined force. It is for the said reason that the learned Counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgement of this Court in Kuber Singh v. State of U.P. and others⁴ to submit that there was no charge of solemnizing a bigamous marriage against the late Mahesh Chand in violation of Rule 29 of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servants Conduct Rules, 1956. In Kuber Singh (supra) reliance was placed on a Bench decision of this Court in Shahjahan Khan v. State of Uttar Pradesh and others⁶ to more or less conclude that adultery was not defined as “misconduct” under the Rules of 1956. To add to it, Kuber Singh has reasoned that adultery is no longer a crime, after the decision of the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Joseph Shine v. Union of India⁷. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has heavily relied on the decision in Kuber Singh to say that there was, in the end, on all facts proved, no case of misconduct made out against the deceased constable, for which he could validly be dismissed from service.

11. To the contrary, Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that this is a case where the petitioner ought not to be granted relief, for reason that equity heavily weighs against her. He further submits that the petitioner is disentitled to relief on the principle of approbate and reprobate. Mr. Tripathi submits that the petitioner, in equity, is not entitled to challenge the impugned orders, even if she is in law. Mahesh Chand, when alive, had suffered the impugned order, with the exhaustion of his last departmental remedy, that is to say, the revision being turned down on 30.08.2011. He lived for a period as long as three years approximately, but never challenged the orders impugned in his lifetime. Mr. Tripathi submits that it has to be borne in mind that it was the petitioner who was the person setting into motion the process of disciplinary proceedings against Mahesh Chand, her husband. It is emphasized that she supported the charges against her deceased husband before the Inquiry Officer, leading to findings against him, on the foot of which, the departmental authorities have passed the orders impugned. Now that he is dead, three years after his demise, the petitioner has instituted this writ petition, seeking to impugn the orders of dismissal from service that were passed against Mahesh Chand at her instance, because it is she who would now benefit from the orders being quashed. Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi points out that not only has the petitioner sought quashing of the orders of dismissal from service passed against Mahesh Chand and the approval thereof by the Appellate and Revisional Authorities, but also has further sought a mandamus to consider her claim for compassionate appointment. He says, therefore, that the petitioner, in fact, is a person who seeks to approbate and reprobate for her benefit. In addition, Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi places reliance upon decision of this Court in Ex-Constable Kishori Lal Sharma v. U.P. Public Service Tribunal and others⁸ and another decision of this Court in Prem Chandra v. State of U.P.⁹

12. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, as already remarked, this Court finds that the charge is somewhat awkwardly worded, towards the close of the report, the late Mahesh Chand has been held guilty of conduct unbecoming of a member of a disciplined force by indulging in an illicit relationship with a woman, while married to the petitioner. The inquiry report also shows that at the hearing before the Inquiry Officer, the deceased, Mahesh Chand, had not filed any written statement, but the Inquiry Officer, adopting a procedure countenanced by law and proceeded ex-parte. He called witnesses for the Establishment. The first date fixed before the Inquiry Officer was 30.11.2009, when no witness or the complainant appeared. It also appears that the date for hearing before the Inquiry Officer on 30.11.2009 was fixed by a notice bearing number 6 of 2009 dated 23.11.2009, sent to both parties. On 30.11.2009, the proceedings of the inquiry were adjourned to 07.12.2009 and both sides were informed. On the adjourned date, Mahendra Pal Singh, a witness for the Establishment, appeared along with the petitioner as the other witness in support of the charge. Still another witness who appeared for the Establishment was Satya Prakash, a Deputy Superintendent of Police. On the said date also, the petitioner did not appear.

13. The testimony of witnesses for the Establishment were recorded by the Inquiry Officer. The first to depose was Mahendra Pal Sharma. He testified to the fact of the petitioner's marriage with the deceased, Mahesh Chand, on 24.06.2007, according to Hindu rites. He then testified to the fact that his son-in-law, Mahesh Chand, had indulged in illicit relations with a certain woman, whom he named with her parentage and residence and said that the said woman would stay with his son-in-law as a second wife. No maintenance was being paid to his daughter. There is also a mention in his testimony to the registration of a case against the deceased by this witness, giving rise to Crime No. 121 of 2008, under Sections 498A, 323, 506, 494 of the Penal Code and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961, Police Station Merapur, District Farrukhabad, wherein, after investigation, a charge-sheet had been filed in Court. There is testimony further to the effect that the proceedings were impugned before this Court and got referred to the Mediation Centre. Here, it is also said in this witness's testimony that the deceased had tricked his daughter into entering a settlement and an undertaking not to proceed against him in the present inquiry, but, later on, there was no change in his behaviour. The deceased still stays with the other woman at some unknown place. He still tortures the witness's daughter, that is to say, the petitioner. The witness demanded that in order to render justice to him, the deceased should be dismissed from service.

14. A further perusal of the inquiry report shows that the next witness to be examined before the Inquiry Officer was the petitioner herself. She testified to her marriage with the deceased and the fact that just two months into their matrimony, her husband had entered into an illicit relationship with a named woman, with whom he was carrying on, for 1½-2 years past. She also reiterated the fact about her being tricked into a compromise not to pursue these proceedings, but later on the deceased did not reform and stays with the other woman. The petitioner said that the deceased tortures her. She also said that after taking necessary legal proceedings against her husband, she be given justice. The Inquiry Officer then recorded that since the deceased was not present he could not cross examine the witnesses or make his submissions.

15. The last witness to be called on behalf of the Establishment was Satya Prakash, the Deputy Superintendent of Police and an Assistant Commandant with the 15th Battalion of the Provincial Armed Constabulary. He was the officer who had held the preliminary inquiry against the deceased and submitted the preliminary inquiry report dated 09.08.2009, on the foot of which, the disciplinary proceedings were drawn. He proved his report and other facts mentioned in the inquiry report. This witness was also not cross examined because the deceased was not present.

16. Later it seems that the deceased appeared before the Inquiry Officer and testified that he was married to the petitioner. He said that he would stay with his wife and rent a premises at Aligarh, where he would stay with her. He also said that he and his wife would file for a compromise in all pending cases. There is now no dispute between parties. He also stated that in future, he would never torture his wife. The deceased was cross examined by the petitioner herself and her father. The following questions were put to the deceased by the petitioner :

प्रश्न:- क्या आप भविष्य में पुनः अ उर्फ ब से सम्बन्ध रखेंगे और का प्रायाश्चित या पश्चाताप कर रहे हैं ?

उत्तर:- मैं अ उर्फ ब से सम्बन्ध नहीं रखूंगा और पूर्व में रखे गये सम्बन्ध के लिये पश्चाताप या प्रायाश्चित कर रहा हूँ ।

प्रश्न:- यदि आपके अ उर्फ ब से भविष्य में सम्बन्ध पाया जाते है तो आपके विरुद्ध कानूननी कार्यवाही / विभागीय कार्यवाही के लिये तैयार है ?

उत्तर:- जी हाँ ।

17. The petitioner, virtually, by her prowess at cross examination, made the deceased say that he was living in adultery with another woman and would not do so in future. The petitioner made the deceased confess to the charge. It was on these facts that the Inquiry Officer concluded against the deceased and held him guilty of indulging in conduct unbecoming of a member a disciplined force, that led to the image of the Police force being adversely affected in the eyes of the general public. Towards the conclusion of the inquiry report, the Inquiry Officer, who was a Circle Officer of the Police, has made quaint remarks. He has said :

अतः आरोपी कान्स0 1211 ना0पु0 महेश चन्द्र को उक्तानुसार पूर्णतः दोषी पाते हुए आरक्षी पद से पदच्युत (डिसमिस) बर्खास्त किये जाने की संस्तुती करता हूँ मेरा यह आदेश वरिष्ठ पुलिस अधीक्षक की सहमती से ही प्रभावी माना जाएगा।

(emphasis by Court)

18. Now, it is not the law that the Inquiry Officer ought even to recommend punishment to be imposed. Here the Inquiry Officer has not only held the petitioner guilty of the charge which was well within his province, but also said that he recommends the petitioner's dismissal from service and that his order would be "effective from the date of consent of the Senior Superintendent of Police". This part of the inquiry report is indeed something which is absolutely perverse and without jurisdiction. But, the event in the disciplinary proceedings has not turned upon this piece of his ignorance that the Inquiry Officer has introduced to the record. The substance of the findings that the Inquiry Officer has otherwise recorded is based on sound evidence produced by the Establishment, particularly, the testimony of witnesses, which includes the petitioner.

19. There could still be an area of doubt about the findings of the Inquiry Officer, because the question of the deceased staying in adultery with another woman might be a fact to which the witnesses of fact, to wit, the petitioner and her father, would not have had any direct knowledge, except hearsay, suspicion or circumstantial inferences. The clincher, nevertheless, came from the petitioner herself, when, by the dexterity of her cross examination, she made the deceased confess to the fact that he was staying in adultery with another woman, whom he named. The questions are recorded verbatim by the Inquiry Officer. It is on the foot of these findings that the impugned order of dismissal was passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police and upheld in appeal and revision.

20. This Court was minded to look into the validity of those orders as well, but what cannot be ignored is the well settled principle that in order to be entitled to the issue of a writ under Article 226 of the Constitution, the petitioner must not only establish his/her right in law, but also a case in equity. In this connection, reference may be made to the Bench decision of this Court in Dukh Haran Verma v. State of U.P. and others¹⁰. In Dukh Haran Verma (supra) it was observed :

4. It must be remembered that writ is discretionary remedy vide Chandra Stngh v. State of Rajasthan, 2003 (3) SCCD 1078 : JT 2003 (6) SC 20. In a writ petition the petitioner has not only to show violation of law, he must also show that equity is in his favour. Thus, to obtain a writ the petitioner must satisfy the Court about both law and equity. If the petitioner has only satisfied the Court that the law has been violated but equity is not in his favour the Court shall not issue a writ.

5. In the present case, admittedly the resolution for no-confidence was passed by $\frac{2}{3}$ rd of the members of the Board of Directors of the Bank as required by Rule 460. Hence assuming that initiation of the proceedings by means of the notice was bad as the notice was not valid yet the resolution has validly been passed by $\frac{2}{3}$ rd members of the Board of Directors of the Bank. It must be remembered that if $\frac{2}{3}$ rd members of the Board are against the petitioner then as provided under the Rules he has to quit his office.

21. The principle has been wholesomely approved by the Supreme Court in Central Council for Research in Ayurvedic Sciences and another v. Bikartan Das and others¹¹ where it is held :

52. The second cardinal principle of exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution is that in a given case, even if some action or order challenged in the writ petition is found to be illegal and invalid, the High Court while exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction thereunder can refuse to upset it with a view to doing substantial justice between the parties. Article 226 of the Constitution grants an extraordinary remedy, which is essentially discretionary, although founded on legal injury. It is perfectly open for the writ court, exercising this flexible power to pass such orders as public interest dictates & equity projects. The legal formulations cannot be enforced divorced from the realities of the fact situation of the case. While administering law, it is to be tempered with equity and if the equitable situation demands after setting right the legal formulations, not to take it to the logical end, the High Court would be failing in its duty if it does not notice equitable consideration and mould the final order in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction. Any other approach would render the High Court a normal court of appeal which it is not.

22. Here what this Court finds from the sequence of events is that the petitioner, for her part, while the deceased was alive, was prosecuting both the criminal matter and the disciplinary proceedings, charging him inter alia with a case of living in adultery, while being married to her. She reported him to the Police, supported her First Information Report leading to the institution of criminal proceedings against the deceased for the offence of adultery punishable under Section 494 of the Penal Code. If that too were discounted, the proceedings that she now impugns, commenced on her complaint to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh. She pursued her complaint in the preliminary inquiry, leading to the initiation of disciplinary proceedings. Before the Inquiry Officer, the petitioner testified as an Establishment witness, supporting the charge of adulterous conduct by her husband, the deceased constable. Her father too testified in support of the Establishment's case. We have already noticed that the petitioner cross examined the deceased, when he testified in his defence, though without a written statement, and made him confess to the charge of adultery before the Inquiry Officer. It was as a result of whatever proof the petitioner mustered against the deceased in disciplinary inquiry that the orders impugned were passed, dismissing the late constable, her husband, from service.

23. The deceased filed a departmental appeal and revision, both of which were filed during his lifetime. The last departmental remedy was a revision, which was exhausted while Mahesh Chand was alive. The revision preferred by the late constable was dismissed by the Additional Director General of Police vide order dated 30.08.2011. Mahesh Chand passed away on 17.06.2014, two months shy of three years after the date that his last departmental remedy had ended in failure. During his lifetime, he never challenged the order of dismissal or its affirmation by the higher departmental fora before this Court or any other judicial forum.

24. After Mahesh Chand's demise, the deceased seems to have worked with much machination. The revisional order had been served on the deceased by pasting a copy of the order on the wall of his residence in the presence of his father and two witnesses. The enthusiasm with which the petitioner was pursuing proceedings against the deceased, it is hard to believe that she would not have known the fate of his revision. Nevertheless, she moved this Court, saying that the revision was still pending. She made this Court pass orders directing a decision of the deceased's revision, which, by then, had already been decided. The Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh vide his communication dated 20.10.2014, recounted the entire calendar of events and said that the revision had been decided way back on 30.08.2011. Apparently, this device was resorted to overcome laches on the petitioner's part, or so she might have thought. Even if this vantage of looking at the matter is ignored, the fact remains that it was the petitioner who moved the entire process against the deceased, leading to his dismissal from service. Now, in the present writ petition she has come up with a prayer, apart from seeking quashing of the orders of dismissal passed against her late husband, that she be given compassionate appointment. This is, without doubt, telltale of the petitioner's unholy motives in moving this Court, a year after her husband's demise and four years after her husband lost his remedy before the departmental forum. Indeed this is a case

25. Therefore, quite apart from the legal validity of the proceedings taken against the petitioner's deceased-husband and the orders made against him, given all the facts noticed hereinabove, regarding the

28. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the Commissioner of Police, Aligarh by the office within a fortnight.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.
&
Hon'ble Donadi Ramesh, J.)

1. Heard Shri Punit Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioner in Writ - A No. 68541 of 2015 and respondent no.2

in connected Writ-A No.41433 of 2015 as well as Shri A.K.Gaur, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Anil Kumar, learned counsel appearing for Union of India in both writ petitions.

2. Writ - A No. 68541 of 2015 has been filed with the following prayer:-

"I. Issue a writ or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 27.05.2015 passed by the respondent no.4 (Annexure No.1 to this writ petition) to the extent denying full wages, allowances and other service benefit to the petitioner, from the date when Junior to the petitioner in merit/selection list as given appointment by the respondent No.1 to 3.

II. Issue a writ or direction in the nature of mandamus to the respondent No.1 to 3 to treat the petitioner in service and pay salary and other allowances etc. admissible to the post from date Junior in the merit/select list was given appointment in service, till the date petitioner is taken on duty by the respondents."

3. Writ-A No.41433 of 2015 has been filed with the following prayer:

"(a) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari, calling for the records and quashing the order dated 27.05.2015 (Annexure No.1 of the writ petition) passed by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad, respondent No.1."

4. The facts in both writ petitions are similar, therefore, they are being decided finally with a common judgment.

5. Facts in brief are that pursuant to the advertisement issued by Railway Recruitment Board, petitioner/respondent no.2-Ravendra Singh applied for the post of Junior Engineer-II (Tele). He appeared in the written test and declared successful, subsequently, he was called for interview and after being selected, his name was sent to General Manager, North Western Railway, Jaipur vide Railway Recruitment Board, Ajmer letter dated 31.08.2011. Thereafter, he joined in the respondent organization on 02.11.2011. Subsequently, the respondent no.3 issued a show cause notice to Ravendra Singh on 12.03.2012 for concealment of fact in replying Item No.11(b) in the Attestation Form. Thereafter, he submitted his reply on 23.03.2011, Annexure-4 to the writ petition. Considering the said reply the respondents have passed an order on 10/25.05.2012, cancelling the appointment of the petitioner. Assailing the said order, petitioner- Ravendra Singh filed Original Application No.1592 of 2012 before the Central Administrative Tribunal, with a consequential prayer to treat the petitioner in service from the date when junior in merit in the select list was given appointment and pay the salary and other consequential benefits including seniority etc.

6. In the counter reply filed on behalf of the respondents before the Tribunal, the facts of the case have not been disputed. It has been submitted that the panel dated 31.08.2011 supplied by R.R.B. has expired on 31.08.2012 in terms of Railway Board Letter dated 15.03.2012 and it will not be feasible to give appointment to those candidates who have furnished false information and suppressed any factual information. And the said warning is also contained in Railway Board's Letter dated 20.10.2013 at Item No.1 in the Attestation Form. It was further stated that the applicant has furnished false information in his Attestation Form and deliberately concealed the fact regarding his prosecution in a criminal matter. It was further contended that earlier the petitioner was prosecuted in a criminal case registered under Section 323/504/325 IPC.

7. The submission of the learned counsel appearing on behalf of petitioner/respondent no.2-Ravendra Singh is that due to ignorance and mistake, Ravendra Singh has not given true answer to the question relating to prosecution. It is submitted that in the year 2001, an N.C.R. under Section 323, 504 IPC was registered against him and subsequently a chargesheet under Section 323, 324 and 504 IPC was submitted. In the said case, complainant as well as injured Virvati did not support the prosecution version and stated that they named the applicant -Ravendra Singh on saying of villagers and based on the said statement Ravendra Singh was acquitted from charges vide judgment and order passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.5, Aligarh dated 04.03.2005. It was further submitted that at the time of incident Ravendra Singh was aged about 18 years and at the time of filling the Attestation Form, he was 25 years old, submission therefore is that such minor indiscretions should be condoned.

8. Both the learned counsel have relied upon several judgments passed by Hon'ble Apex Court.

9. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties as well as the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court the Central Administrative Tribunal has allowed the Original Application filed by the applicant-

Ravendra Singh with the following observation:-

“11. Accordingly, O.A. is allowed. The impugned order dated 10/25.04.2012 passed by Respondent No.3 is set aside and quashed. The respondents are directed to take a lenient view in the matter and take his joining on the post, he was selected. Respondents are also directed to treat him in service from the date his junior has been given appointment but he will not be entitled to the payment of salary for the period he was not actually worked. No order as to costs.”

10. Assailing the said order, Union of India as well as petitioner in Writ A No.68541 of 2015 and respondent no.2 in Writ A No.41433 of 2015-Ravendra Singh both filed separate writ petitions before this Court.

11. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India has contended that the order dated 10/25.04.2012 cancelling the appointment of the petitioner was in accordance with the legislation which is in vogue and he has placed reliance upon warning given in the Attestation Form, which reads as under:-

“1. साक्षांकन प्रपत्र में झूठी सूचना देना अथवा किसी भी प्रकार की तथ्यात्मक सूचना को छिपाना अनर्हता मानी जायेगी और ऐसा करने से अभ्यर्थी सरकार के अधीन नौकरी के लिए अयोग्य ठहराया जा सकता है।

The furnishing of false information or suppression of any factual information in the Attestation Form would be a disqualification and is likely to render the candidate unfit for employment under the Government.

2. यदि इस प्रपत्र को भरने तथा भेजने के पश्चात् हवालात में रखा जाये, दोषी ठहराया जाये, वर्जित आदि किया जाये, तो उसके बारे में यथास्थिती संघ लोक सेवा आयोग अथवा रेल भर्ती बोर्ड अथवा उस प्राधिकारी, जिसे पहले साक्षांकन प्रपत्र भेजा गया है, को ब्यौरे की तुरंत सूचना दी जाय। ऐसा न करने पर यह समझा जायेगा कि तथ्यात्मक सूचना छिपायी गयी है।

If detained, convicted, debarred etc. Subsequent to the completion and submission of this form, the details should be communicated immediately to the Union Public Service Commission or the Railway Recruitment Board or the Authority to whom to Attestation Form has been sent earlier as the case may be, failing which it will be deemed to be a suppression of factual information.

3. यदि किसी व्यक्ति के सेवा-काल में, किसी भी समय यह तथ्य नोटिस में आता है कि इस साक्षांकन प्रपत्र में झूठी सूचना दी गयी है अथवा तथ्यात्मक सूचना छिपायी गयी है तो उसकी सेवाएँ समाप्त की जा सकती हैं।

If the fact that false information has been furnished or that there has been suppression of any factual information in the Attestation Form comes to notice at any time during the service of a person, his services would be liable to be terminated.”

12. However, the information given by the petitioner in the Attestation Form on question that “have you ever been prosecuted”, he replied “No”, which is contrary to the warning given in the Attestation Form. Learned Senior Counsel further contended that as the respondent no.2-Ravendra Singh has concealed material facts by giving wrong information, therefore, the respondent no.3 has rightly passed the order dated 10/25.04.2012 cancelling the appointment of Ravendra Singh. In support of his argument, learned Senior Counsel has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of The Director General of Police, Tamilnadu, Mylapore Vs. J. Raghunees, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1379, wherein also the respondent-candidate has not disclosed the complete information with his involvement in criminal case and his appointment was also rejected. Paragraphs 13, 14, 15 and 16 of the said judgment read as under:-

"13. The issue in the matter is not of eligibility of the respondent to the post in the light of Rule 14(b) of the Tamil Nadu Special Police Subordinate Service Rules, 1978 rather that of suppression of material information which was required to be disclosed in column 15 of the verification roll. The respondent has certainly not disclosed the correct information. His honorable acquittal or acquittal by giving benefit of doubt is not material and relevant but what is relevant is the full and complete disclosure of the information regarding his involvement in a criminal case which has been suppressed by him.

14. In Avtar Singh case, a three-Judge Bench of this Court while dealing with a similar kind of situation summarised the legal position by stating that (i) Information given by the candidate to the employer as to his conviction, acquittal, arrest or pendency of a criminal case, whether before or after entering into service must be true and there should be no suppression or false mention of required information. (ii) In cases where conviction or acquittal had already taken place before filling the application/verification form, the employer may consider all relevant facts available as to antecedents and may take appropriate decision as to the continuance of the employee. (iii) and even if the employee had made truthful declaration of a concluded criminal case, the employer still has the right to consider antecedents of the candidate/employee and cannot be compelled to appoint him/her.

15. In other words, the candidate in the first instance is obliged to give correct information as to his conviction, acquittal or arrest or pendency of the criminal case and there should be no suppression or false mention of required information. Secondly, even if truthful declaration is made by him, he would not be entitled to appointment as a matter of right and that the employer still has the right to consider his antecedents.

16. In the case at hand, though the respondent may be eligible for appointment but since he has not disclosed the complete information with regard to his involvement in a criminal case, wherein he might have been acquitted earlier even before verification, he cannot escape the guilt of suppressing the material information as required by column 15 of the verification roll. Keeping in mind that the respondent was a candidate for recruitment to a disciplined force, the non-disclosure of the information of his involvement in the criminal case and subsequent acquittal therefrom cast a serious doubt upon his character and the antecedents which is sufficient enough to disentitle him from employment."

13. Shri Punit Kumar Gupta, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in Writ- A No. 68541 of 2015 and respondent no.2 in connected Writ-A No.41433 of 2015 contended that on the date of submitting the Attestation Form the petitioner/respondent no.2-Ravendra Singh had already acquitted from charges and no case was pending against him, therefore, replying the question in the Attestation Form that “have you ever been prosecuted” he answered “No”. He further argued that in the year 2001 an N.C.R. under Section 323, 504 IPC was registered against the applicant and in trial chargesheet has been submitted against him under Section 323, 324 and 504 IPC, out of which two offences, namely, offence under section 323 and 504 IPC is compoundable in nature and Section 324 IPC provided for imprisonment for a period of three years only. In support of his argument he has relied upon the judgment passed by Hon’ble Apex Court in the case of Ravindra Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 180, paragraphs 24, 25, 26, 27 and 29 whereof are quoted as under:

“24. More recently in Pawan Kumar vs. Union of India and Another, (2022) SCC OnLine SC 532, involving appointment to the post of Constable in Railway Protection Force and setting aside the order of discharge due to alleged suppression in the verification form, this Court, after noticing Avtar Singh (Supra) held as under:-

“11. This cannot be disputed that the candidate who intends to participate in the selection process is always required to furnish correct information relating to his character and antecedents in the verification/attestation form before and after induction into service.

It is also equally true that the person who has suppressed the material information or has made false declaration indeed has no unfettered right of seeking appointment or continuity in service, but at least has a right not to be dealt with arbitrarily and power has to be judiciously exercised by the competent authority in a reasonable manner with objectivity having due regard to the facts of the case on hand.

It goes without saying that the yardstick/standard which has to be applied with regard to adjudging suitability of the incumbent always depends upon the nature of post, nature of duties, effect of suppression over suitability to be considered by the authority on due diligence of various aspects but no hard and fast rule of thumb can be laid down in this regard.

13. What emerges from the exposition as laid down by this Court is that by mere suppression of material/false information regardless of the fact whether there is a conviction or acquittal has been recorded, the employee/recruit is not to be discharged/terminated axiomatically from service just by a stroke of pen.

At the same time, the effect of suppression of material/false information involving in a criminal case, if any, is left for the employer to consider all the relevant facts and circumstances available as to antecedents and keeping in view the objective criteria and the relevant service rules into consideration, while taking appropriate decision regarding continuance/suitability of the employee into service. What being noticed by this Court is that mere suppression of material/false information in a given case does not mean that the employer can arbitrarily discharge/terminate the employee from service.

19. Consequently, the appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment of the Division Bench of the High Court dated 17th November, 2015 and the order of discharge dated 24th April, 2015 and dated 23rd December, 2021 are hereby quashed and set aside. The Respondents are directed to reinstate the appellant in service on the post of Constable on which he was selected pursuant to his participation in reference to employment notice no. 1/2011 dated 27th February, 2011.

We make it clear that the appellant will not be entitled for the arrears of salary for the period during which he has not served the force and at the same time he will be entitled for all notional benefits, including pay, seniority and other consequential benefits, etc. Necessary orders shall be passed within a period of one month from today. No costs."

25. In Mohammed Imran vs. State of Maharashtra and Others, (2019) 17 SCC 696, no doubt, a case where a candidate made the disclosure of criminal case, this Court speaking through Navin Sinha, J. made the following telling observation which resonates with the hard realities of everyday existence:

"5. Employment opportunities are a scarce commodity in our country. Every advertisement invites a large number of aspirants for limited number of vacancies. But that may not suffice to invoke sympathy for grant of relief where the credentials of the candidate may raise serious questions regarding suitability, irrespective of eligibility. Undoubtedly, judicial service is very different from other services and the yardstick of suitability that may apply to other services, may not be the same for a judicial service.

But there cannot be any mechanical or rhetorical incantation of moral turpitude, to deny appointment in judicial service simpliciter. Much will depend on the facts of a case. Every individual deserves an opportunity to improve, learn from the past and move ahead in life by self-improvement. To make past conduct, irrespective of all considerations, an albatross around the neck of the candidate, may not always constitute justice. Much will, however depend on the fact situation of a case."

26. We have also kept in mind the recent judgment of this Court in Satish Chandra Yadav vs. Union of India and Others, (2023) 7 SCC 530 and the broad principles set out by this Court in para 93, especially, paras 93.1, 93.3 & 93.7. Even the broad principles set out therein recognize that each case should be scrutinized thoroughly by the public employer concerned and the Court is obliged to examine whether the procedure of enquiry adopted by the authority concerned was fair and reasonable. Avtar Singh (Supra) in para 38.2 has held that while passing the order of cancellation of candidature for giving false information, the employer may take notice of special circumstances of the case, if any, while giving such information. Further, in para 38.4.3 of Avtar Singh (Supra) the principle that, in case of suppression or false information of involvement of criminal case, where acquittal has already been recorded, the employer can still consider all relevant facts available as to antecedents and may take appropriate decision as to the continuance of the employee. We have read and understood the broad principles laid down in Satish Chandra Yadav (supra) with the following crucial para in Avtar Singh (Supra):

"35. Suppression of "material" information presupposes that what is suppressed that "matters" not every technical or trivial matter. The employer has to act on due consideration of rules/instructions, if any, in exercise of powers in order to cancel candidature or for terminating the services of employee. Though a person who has suppressed the material information cannot claim unfettered right for appointment or continuity in service but he has a right not to be dealt with arbitrarily and exercise of power has to be in reasonable manner with objectivity having due regard to facts of cases."

27. We have also examined the judgment in Director General of Police, Tamilnadu, Mylapore vs. J. Raghunees, (2023) SCC OnLine SC 1379 and we find that the case of the appellant is more aligned with the facts in the judgment of this Court in Pawan Kumar (supra), Sandeep (supra) and Ram Kumar (supra). Hence, we find that the judgment in J. Raghunees (supra) is clearly distinguishable.

28. The nature of the office, the timing and nature of the criminal case; the overall consideration of the judgement of acquittal; the nature of the query in the application/verification form; the contents of the character verification reports; the socio economic strata of the individual applying; the other antecedents of the candidate; the nature of consideration and the contents of the cancellation/termination order are some of the crucial aspects which should enter the judicial verdict in adjudging suitability and in determining the nature of relief to be ordered.

29. Having discussed the legal position above, it is necessary to set out certain special features that obtain in the case at hand.

i. The appellant hails from the small village Bagapar, P.O. Kataura, Police Station Gauri Bazar, District Deoria, U.P.

ii. On the date of the application, there was no criminal case pending and there was no suppression in the application form.

iii. The criminal case was registered when he was 21 years of age for the offences very similar to the one referred to in Sandeep Kumar (supra) and even in the criminal case he was acquitted.

iv. No doubt, the multiple columns in the verification affidavit, questions were asked from him in different permutations and combinations. He must have been in a deep dilemma as there was an imminent prospect of losing his employment.

v. Most importantly, we find from the verification documents fairly and candidly made available by the learned Additional Advocate General, that the verification report after noticing the criminal case and the subsequent acquittal stated that his character was good, that no complaints were found against him and that his general reputation was good.

vi. Not stopping there, the person who visited the spot even wished him a bright future in the report.

vii. The SHO, Gauri Bazar Police Station, who forwarded the report to the Superintendent of Police after reiterating the contents of the report observed that he was acquitted and no appeal was filed. Further, there was no other case pending and nor was any case registered against the candidate.

viii. The SHO certified the character of the candidate as excellent and that he was eligible to do Government Service under the State Government. He annexed the report of the Police Station as well as the report of the Gram Pradhan and the Court documents.

ix. The Superintendent of Police, in his letter to the Commandant, endorsed the report and reiterated that the character of the candidate was excellent.

x. While examining whether the procedure adopted for enquiry by the authority was fair and reasonable, we find that the order of cancellation of 12.04.2005 does not even follow the mandate prescribed in Clause 4 of the Form of verification of character set out in the earlier part of this judgment. Like it was found in Ram Kumar (supra) instead of considering whether the appellant was suitable for appointment, the Appointing Authority has mechanically held his selection was irregular and illegal because the appellant had furnished an affidavit with incorrect facts. Hence, even applying the broad principles set out in para 93.7 of Satish Chandra Yadav (supra), we find that the order of cancellation dated 12.04.2005 is neither fair nor reasonable. Clause 9 of the recruitment notification has to be read in the context of the law laid down in the cases set out hereinabove.”

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon the judgment of Hon’ble Supreme Court passed in Ram Kumar vs. State of U.P. and Others, (2011) 14 SCC 709

15. In fact, both the counsel appearing for petitioner- Ravindra Singh as well as appearing for Union India have agreed with the observations made in Ravindra Kumar (supra), paragraph 30 whereof reads as under:-

30. On the facts of the case and in the backdrop of the special circumstances set out hereinabove, where does the non disclosure of the unfortunate criminal case, (which too ended in acquittal), stand in the scheme of things? In our opinion on the peculiar facts of the case, we do not think it can be deemed fatal for the appellant. Broad-brushing every non-disclosure as a disqualification, will be unjust and the same will tantamount to being completely oblivious to the ground realities obtaining in this great, vast and diverse country. Each case will depend on the facts and circumstances that prevail thereon, and the court will have to take a holistic view, based on objective criteria, with the available precedents serving as a guide. It can never be a one size fits all scenario.

16. Considering the contentions raised by both the learned counsels, and also the observations made by the Hon’ble Apex Court in J. Raghunees (supra) as well as in Ravindra Kumar (supra). In fact, in Ravindra Kumar (supra) the Hon’ble Apex Court has also considered the observations made in J. Raghunees (supra) as well as considering the ratio decided in Avtar Singh vs. Union of India and Others, (2016) 8 SCC 471. In para 38 of Avtar Singh (supra) it has been categorically held that while passing the order of cancellation of candidature for giving false information, the employer may take notice of special circumstances of the case, if any, while giving such information, and further held in para 38.4.3 that suppression or false information of involvement in a criminal case where acquittal had already been recorded, the employer can consider all relevant facts available as to antecedents, and can take appropriate decision. No doubt, on perusal of the facts of this case that crime registered against the petitioner/respondent no.2-Ravendra Singh, under Sections 323, 324 and 504 IPC is trivial in nature, and the facts remains that he was acquitted from charges before submitting his Attestation Form.

17. Taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of the case, and the law laid down by the Hon’ble Apex Court in J. Raghunees (supra), Ravindra Kumar (supra) as well as in Avtar Singh (supra), we do not find any good ground to interfere in the order passed by the Tribunal.

18. However, as observed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ravindra Kumar (supra) that employee is not entitled for any arrears of salary for the period during which he has not served, and the same was also taken care by the Tribunal in its order, accordingly, both writ petitions are dismissed.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 319, 397, 401 & 482 - Inherent power - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 148 & 302/149 - Summoning of additional accused - Revisional powers - Ends of justice - Trial court's power to summon additional accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. not limited by conclusion of trial against original accused - High Court's revisional powers to secure ends of justice. (Para 24-30)

(B) Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (Cr.P.C.) - Section 319 - Scope and Power of Summoning Additional Accused - Power

under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is to be exercised only during the pendency of trial before the pronouncement of conviction or acquittal - If the trial against the originally summoned accused is concluded, a summoning order under Section 319 is not sustainable. (Para -12)

(C) Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (Cr.P.C.) - Section 319(4) - Fresh Trial and Rehearing of Witnesses - Once a person is summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C., the proceedings against them shall commence afresh, and witnesses will be re-heard - held - Conclusion of trial against the other accused persons, who had been summoned originally, does not cause any prejudice to the applicant, as the trial against the applicants would be held afresh and they will have the right to defend themselves in accordance with the law. (Para 24)

Applicants summoned to face trial in connection with an FIR - for murder of complainant's brother - Initially, charges were filed only against two accused - investigation against applicants was pending - Several applications under Section 319 Cr.P.C. were filed to summon applicants - which were rejected - revision allowed application to be reconsidered - leading to impugned order summoning applicants in 2024 - trial against others had concluded - Applicants cannot be summoned now - Court upheld trial court's decision - finding no jurisdictional error and noting sufficient evidence against the applicants.(Para 1 - 23)

HELD: - Impugned order does not stand vitiated merely because trial against other accused persons stands concluded. Non-summoning of accused persons against whom there was ample evidence warranting their trial, would defeat the ends of justice. Order rejecting application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was set aside by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction and it is only thereafter, that the trial Court has summoned the applicants under Section 319 Cr.P.C. Any interference with the order summoning the applicants to face trial would in fact defeat the ends of justice, which would be contrary to the object for which the inherent powers of this Court are meant to be exercised. (Delivered by Hon'ble Subash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sheikh Wali Uz Zaman, the learned counsel for the applicants and Sri Gyanendra Singh, the learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicants have prayed for quashing of the order dated 21.02.2024 passed by the learned Additional Session Judge, Court No. 4, Hardoi in Misc. Case No. 448 of 2021 in Session Trial No. 582 of 2009, summoning the applicants to face trial of the offence alleged in F.I.R. No. 523 of 2009 under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 IPC, Police Station Bilgram, District Hardoi.

3. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that on 14.04.2009 one Waris (father of the opposite party no. 2) had lodged F.I.R. No. 523 of 2009 under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 IPC, in Police Station Bilgram, District Hardoi against 5 persons, including the applicants, stating that when the complainant was going to his fields at about 02:15 p.m. with his brother Arif, the accused persons met them on the way and on the exhortation of the applicants and one Irfan alias Munna, the other accused persons Irshad and Abdul Aziz fired shots by pistols. The complainant's brother got injured and he fell down on the spot. Upon hearing the gun-shot and the cries of the complainant, Zaheer Khan and Jaipal reached on the spot and challenged the accused persons whereupon they ran away.

4. After investigation, a charge-sheet was submitted on 14.07.2009 against Irshad and Irfan for offences under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 IPC and the investigation against the applicants remained pending. The trial Court took cognizance of the offences and summoned Irshad and Irfan to face the trial.

5. An application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was filed for summoning the other named accused persons also, but it was rejected by means of an order dated 29.01.2010 for the reason that the witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 were yet to be cross-examined.

6. The complainant challenged the order dated 29.01.2010 by filing Criminal Revision No. 203 of 2010 and this Court disposed off the revision by means of an order dated 14.05.2010 by observing that the prayer for summoning the accused persons be considered after the cross-examination of the witnesses was over.

7. After cross-examination of PW-1 and PW-2, the complainant again filed an application for summoning the rest of the accused persons under section 319 Cr.P.C., but this too was rejected by means of an order dated 19.07.2010. The complainant filed Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010, challenging the order dated 19.07.2010.

8. During pendency of Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010 before this Court, the trial was concluded by the judgment and order dated 19.10.2011

wherein it was held that the accused persons Irshad and Irfan created an unlawful assembly with the other accused persons and they killed the deceased Arif by shooting at him with a firearm. The accused persons Irshad and Irfan were convicted for offences under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 I.P.C. and they were acquitted of rest of the charges by means of a judgment and order dated 19.10.2011 passed by the trial Court. They were sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year for the offence under Section 147 I.P.C., two years for the offence under Section 148 I.P.C. and life imprisonment and payment of Rs.5,000/- fine for the offence under Section 302/149 I.P.C. and to undergo imprisonment for six months in case of failure to pay fine.

9. Irshad and Irfan filed Criminal Appeal No. 1886 of 2011 challenging the aforesaid judgment and order of conviction and sentence, which is still pending.

10. Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010 was allowed by means of a judgment and order dated 14.09.2021 passed by this Court whereby the order dated 19.07.2010 was set aside and the application was directed to be decided afresh. On 22.09.2021, the complainant again filed an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. in compliance of the order dated 14.09.2021 passed by this Court in Criminal Revision No. 200 of 2021. This application was allowed by means of the impugned order dated 21.02.2024.

11. The trial Court has held in the impugned order dated 21.02.2024 that the prosecution witnesses have stated that the incident was given effect to by the convicted persons along with the applicants and Abdul Aziz under a common intention. Abdul Aziz has died. A prima facie case was made out against the applicants for their trial.

12. Challenging validity of the aforesaid order summoning the applicants under Section 319 Cr.P.C., the learned Counsel for the applicants has submitted that the trial Court can summon any person under section 319 Cr.P.C. only during pendency of the trial whereas in the present case, the trial stood concluded long before passing of the order under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and, therefore, the order is without jurisdiction. In support of this submission, the learned Counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sukhpal Singh Khaira v. State of Punjab, (2023) 1 SCC 289, wherein it was held that: -

“39.(I) Whether the trial court has the power under Section 319CrPC for summoning additional accused when the trial with respect to other co-accused has ended and the judgment of conviction rendered on the same date before pronouncing the summoning order?”

The power under Section 319 CrPC is to be invoked and exercised before the pronouncement of the order of sentence where there is a judgment of conviction of the accused. In the case of acquittal, the power should be exercised before the order of acquittal is pronounced. Hence, the summoning order has to precede the conclusion of trial by imposition of sentence in the case of conviction. If the order is passed on the same day, it will have to be examined on the facts and circumstances of each case and if such summoning order is passed either after the order of acquittal or imposing sentence in the case of conviction, the same will not be sustainable.

40.(II) Whether the trial court has the power under Section 319 CrPC for summoning additional accused when the trial in respect of certain other absconding accused (whose presence is subsequently secured) is ongoing/pending, having been bifurcated from the main trial?

The trial court has the power to summon additional accused when the trial is proceeded in respect of the absconding accused after securing his presence, subject to the evidence recorded in the split-up (bifurcated) trial pointing to the involvement of the accused sought to be summoned. But the evidence recorded in the main concluded trial cannot be the basis of the summoning order if such power has not been exercised in the main trial till its conclusion.

41.(III) What are the guidelines that the competent court must follow while exercising power under Section 319 CrPC?

41.1. If the competent court finds evidence or if application under Section 319 CrPC is filed regarding involvement of any other person in committing the offence based on evidence recorded at any stage in the trial before passing of the order on acquittal or sentence, it shall pause the trial at that stage.

41.2. The court shall thereupon first decide the need or otherwise to summon the additional accused and pass orders thereon.

41.3. If the decision of the court is to exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC and summon the accused, such summoning order shall be passed before proceeding further with the trial in the main case.

41.4. If the summoning order of additional accused is passed, depending on the stage at which it is passed, the court shall also apply its mind to the fact as to whether such summoned accused is to be tried along with the other accused or separately.

41.5. If the decision is for joint trial, the fresh trial shall be commenced only after securing the presence of the summoned accused.

41.6. If the decision is that the summoned accused can be tried separately, on such order being made, there will be no impediment for the court to continue and conclude the trial against the accused who were being proceeded with.

41.7. If the proceeding paused as in para 41.1 above, is in a case where the accused who were tried are to be acquitted, and the decision is that the summoned accused can be tried afresh separately, there will be no impediment to pass the judgment of acquittal in the main case.

41.8. If the power is not invoked or exercised in the main trial till its conclusion and if there is a split-up (bifurcated) case, the power under Section 319 CrPC can be invoked or exercised only if there is evidence to that effect, pointing to the involvement of the additional accused to be summoned in the split-up (bifurcated) trial.

41.9. If, after arguments are heard and the case is reserved for judgment the occasion arises for the Court to invoke and exercise the power under Section 319CrPC, the appropriate course for the court is to set it down for re-hearing.

41.10. On setting it down for re-hearing, the above laid down procedure to decide about summoning; holding of joint trial or otherwise shall be decided and proceeded with accordingly.

41.11. Even in such a case, at that stage, if the decision is to summon additional accused and hold a joint trial the trial shall be conducted afresh and de novo proceedings be held.

mmoned accused as indicated earlier:

(a) The main case may be decided by pronouncing the conviction and sentence and then proceed afresh against summoned accused.

(b) In the case of acquittal the order shall be passed to that effect in the main case and then proceed afresh against summoned accused.”

13. Before proceeding any further, it would be appropriate to have a look at the statutory provision contained in Section 319 Cr.P.C., which reads as follows: -

“319. Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence.—(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court, he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under sub-section (1) then—

(a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and the witnesses re-heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced.”

14. The limitations put by the words “in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence” used in Section 319 Cr.P.C. and explained in Sukhpar Singh Khaira (Supra), are in respect of the powers of the trial Court to summon an accused person under this power.

15. In the present case, the applicants were named in the F.I.R. and it was alleged that when the complainant was going to his fields with his brother, on the exhortation of the applicants, the other accused persons Irshad and Abdul Aziz had killed the complainant’s brother by firing shots with pistols. The investigating officer had submitted a charge-sheet against Irshad and Irfan on 14.07.2009 and the investigation remained pending against the applicant and it was never concluded. The complainant had filed an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. for summoning the applicants during pendency of the trial, after recording of examination-in-chief of prosecution witnesses PW-1 and PW-2, but it was rejected on 29.01.2010 for the reason that the witnesses were yet to be cross-examined. After cross-examination of PW-1 and PW-2, the complainant again filed an application for summoning the rest of the accused persons under section 319 Cr.P.C., but this too was rejected by means of an order dated 19.07.2010. The complainant filed Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010, challenging the order dated 19.07.2010.

16. During pendency of Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010 before this Court, the trial was concluded by the judgment and order dated 19.10.2011 wherein it was held that the accused persons Irshad and Irfan created an unlawful assembly with the other accused persons and they killed the deceased Arif by shooting at him with a firearm. The accused persons Irshad and Irfan were convicted and sentenced for offences under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 I.P.C. and they were acquitted of rest of the charges by means of a judgment and order dated 19.10.2011 passed by the trial Court.

17. It appears that the fact of pendency of Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010 was not brought to the notice of the trial Court.

18. Irshad and Irfan filed Criminal Appeal No. 1886 of 2011 challenging the aforesaid judgment and order of conviction and sentence, which is still pending.

19. Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010 was allowed by means of a judgment and order dated 14.09.2021 passed by this Court whereby the order dated 19.07.2010 was set aside and the application was directed to be decided afresh. Although the applicant was represented through an Advocate in Criminal Revision No. 400 of 2010, it appears that the applicant's Counsel did not appear to assist the Court at the time of decision of the revision and the fact of the trial having been concluded and the accused persons having been convicted and sentenced, was not brought to the notice of this Court while it was deciding the revision.

20. It is in compliance of the order dated 14.09.2021 passed by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction, that the trial Court has passed the impugned order deciding the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

21. The power of revision is conferred by Section 319 Cr.P.C. which reads thus: - “397. Calling for records to exercise of powers of revision.—(1) The High Court or any Sessions Judge may call for and examine the record of any proceeding before any inferior Criminal Court situate within its or his local jurisdiction for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order, recorded or passed, and as to the regularity of any proceedings of such inferior Court, and may, when calling for such record, direct that the execution of any sentence or order be suspended, and if the accused is in confinement, that he be released on bail or on his own bond pending the examination of the record.

Explanation.—All Magistrates, whether Executive or Judicial, and whether exercising original or appellate jurisdiction, shall be deemed to be inferior to the Sessions Judge for the purposes of this sub-section and of Section 398.

(2) The powers of revision conferred by sub-section (1) shall not be exercised in relation to any interlocutory order passed in any appeal, inquiry, trial or other proceeding.

(3) If an application under this section has been made by any person either to the High Court or to the Sessions Judge, no further application by the same person shall be entertained by the other of them."

22. In Krishnan v. Krishnaveni, (1997) 4 SCC 241, the Hon'ble Supreme Court explained the scope of revisional powers of this Court in the following words: -

"7... Ordinarily, in the matter of exercise of power of revision by any High Court, Section 397 and Section 401 are required to be read together. Section 397 gives powers to the High Court to call for the records as also suo motu power under Section 401 to exercise the revisional power on the grounds mentioned therein, i.e., to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order, recorded or passed and as to the regularity of any proceedings of such inferior court, and to dispose of the revision in the manner indicated under Section 401 of the Code. The revisional power of the High Court merely conserves the power of the High Court to see that justice is done in accordance with the recognised rules of criminal jurisprudence and that its subordinate courts do not exceed the jurisdiction or abuse the power vested in them under the Code or to prevent abuse of the process of the inferior criminal courts or to prevent miscarriage of justice."

23. The ultimate aim of every investigation and inquiry, whether by the police or by the Magistrate, is to ensure that the actual perpetrators of the crime are correctly booked and the innocents are not arraigned to stand trial. If the police does not conclude investigation against some of the accused persons and the trial Court also does not summon the accused persons after enquiry or during trial and it wrongly rejects an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., there are no limitations on the powers of this Court under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. to revise and reverse an order passed rejecting an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. merely because the trial against the originally summoned accused persons stood concluded during pendency of the revision and has resulted in conviction and sentence of those accused persons, more particularly when the trial Court has recorded that incident was given effect to at the exhortation of the persons sought to be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

24. Section 319 (4) Cr.P.C. provides that where the Court proceeds against any person under sub-section (1) of Section 319 then the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and the witnesses re-heard. Therefore, the conclusion of trial against the other accused persons, who had been summoned originally, does not cause any prejudice to the applicant, as the trial against the applicants would be held afresh and they will have the right to defend themselves in accordance with the law.

25. Therefore, keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the considered view that the impugned order dated 21.02.2024 does not stand vitiated merely because the trial against the other accused persons stands concluded.

26. The learned Counsel for the applicant next submitted that a person cannot be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. on the basis of a mere probability of complicity and the crucial test is that the evidence would lead to his conviction if it goes unrebutted. In support of this contention, he has placed reliance on the Constitution Bench judgment in the case of Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92, wherein it was held that: -

“117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b) CrPC the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319 CrPC would be the same as for framing a charge. The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different.”

27. In the present case, the witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 have stated about that the previously tried accused had shot at the victim at the exhortation of the applicant. The trial stands concluded by the judgment and order dated 19.10.2011 wherein it was held that the accused persons Irshad and Irfan created an unlawful assembly with the other accused persons and they killed the deceased Arif by shooting at him with a firearm. In case the aforesaid evidence remains unrebutted, the same would lead to conviction of the applicant.

28. Therefore, there is no illegality in the order summoning the applicant under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

29. Section 482 Cr.P.C. saves the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to secure the ends of justice. Non-summoning of accused persons against whom there was ample evidence warranting their trial, would defeat the ends of justice. The order rejecting the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was set aside by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction and it is only thereafter, that the trial Court has summoned the applicants under Section 319 Cr.P.C. Any interference with the order summoning the applicants to face trial would in fact defeat the ends of justice, which would be contrary to the object for which the inherent powers of this Court are meant to be exercised.

30. In view of the foregoing discussion, the application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. lacks merit and the same is hereby dismissed.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been for grant of permission/No objection for issuance of Passport to the applicant Mrs. Sapna @ Sapna Choudhary D/o Sh. Bhupender @ Bhupender Attri presently residing at: ATS Kocoon, Flat No. 5041, Section 109, Gurugram, Haryana in Case Crime No. 621/2018, under Section 406/420 I.P.C., Police Sattion Ashiyana, District Lucknow in so far it relates to the applicant, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 29, District Lucknow be setting aside order dated 21.12.2023.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that on 13.10.2018, the respondent No.2 who is posed as Sub-Inspector at Police Station Ashiyana, District Lucknow lodged a compaint/application against the applicant and others. Upon the aforesaid application on 14.10.2018, an F.I.R. got registered in Case Crime No. 0621 of 2018, under Section 406/420 I.P.C. Police Station Ashiyana, District Lucknow

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that passport was issued to the applicant by Regisional Passport Office concerned. The validity of the said passport has been expired. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that the applicant is an artist/actress and is required to travel to various destinations/countries for her performances and she is required to move application seeking permission to travel abroad every time she travels. The entire process is not only causing difficulty to the petitioner but also putting burden upon the trial court and due to the issuance of the short validity passport to the applicant, the applicant is unable to get visas for many host countries where she is required to perform or to attend functions, which is resulting in loss of business and income to the applicant and she prays for permission/NOC to get her passport renewed for the period of 10 years.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that an application was filed by the applicant before the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 29, District Lucknow for grant of permission for renewal of passport, which was rejected by means of order dated 21.12.2023 observing therein that this Court has no jurisdiction for granting the permission of renewal of passport.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that the applicant has been falsely implicated in Crime No. 621/2018, under Sections 406 and 420 I.P.C., Police Station Ashiyana, District Lucknow and in that case, the applicant is already on bail. It is submitted that, though the criminal case pending against the present applicant is petty in nature, but now a days such criminal cases are also take a long time to be decided finally and till then it will not be proper either to withhold no objection or to refuse the renewal/reissue of passport to the applicant. She further submitted that in case applicant, is acquitted in future, then loss, which the applicant may suffer by not going abroad for the purpose of her professional work can not be compensated in any manner. Such refusal also infringes the applicant's constitutional right available to her under Article 19 & 21 of the Constitution of India.

7. In support of her argument, learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the notification of Ministry of External Affairs, New Delhi dated 25.08.1993, which

"G.S.R. 570(E).--In exercise of the powers conferred by clause (a) of Section 22 of the Passports Act 1967 (15 of 1967) and in supersession of the notification of the Government of India in the Ministry of External Affairs No. G.S.R. 298(E), dated the 14th April, 1976, the Central Government, being of the opinion that it is necessary in public interest to do so, hereby exempts citizens of India against whom proceedings in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by them are pending before a criminal court in India and who produce orders from the court concerned permitting them to depart from India, from the operation of the provisions of Clause (f) of sub-section (2) of Section 6 of the said Act, subject to the following conditions, namely:-

(a) the passport to be issued to every such citizen shall be issued -

(i) for the period specified in order of the court referred to above, if the court specified a period for which the passport has to be issued; or

(ii) if no period either for the issue of the passport for the travel abroad is specified in such order, the passport shall be issued for a period of one year;

(iii) if such order gives permission to travel abroad for a period less than one year, but does not specify the period of validity of the passport, the passport shall be issued for one year; or

(iv) if such order gives permission to travel abroad for a period exceeding one year, and does not specify the validity of the passport, then the passport shall be issued for the period of travel abroad specified in the order;

(b) any passport issued in terms of (a)(ii) and (a)(iii) above can be further renewed for one year at a time, provided the applicant has not travelled abroad for the period sanctioned by the court; and provided further that, in the meantime, the order of the court is not cancelled or modified.

(c) any passport issued in terms of (a)(i) above can be further renewed only on the basis of a fresh court order specifying a further period of validity of the passport or specifying a period for travel abroad;

(d) the said citizen shall give an undertaking in writing to the passport-issuing authority that he shall, if required by the court concerned, appear before it at any time during the continuance in force of the passport so issued."

8. Thus, learned counsel for the applicant submits that the impugned order dated 21.12.2023 is totally illegal, perverse and arbitrary as the same is passed without application of judicial mind and also without considering the notification of Ministry of External Affairs, Government of India, New Delhi, therefore, the same is liable to be quashed.

9. On the other hand, learned counsel for the Union of India has placed a notification of the Government of India dated 25.08.1993 (which has already been quoted above) and an Office Memorandum dated 10.10.2019 (which is being quoted hereunder) issued by the Ministry of External Affairs, Government of India, New Delhi. He has also placed an order passed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court dated 02.02.2024 passed in Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.839 of 2024 and submits that there is no restriction to the learned trial court to direct for grant of permission for renewal of passport. He further submits that as per aforesaid notification and order passed by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court, the impugned order dated 21.12.2023 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 29, District Lucknow, on its face appears to be passed without application of judicial mind and without considering the aforesaid notification. Thus, the impugned order is liable to be quashed and authorities may be directed to consider the case for renewal of her passport. The Office Memorandum dated 10.10.2019 is being quoted hereunder:

OFFICE MEMORANDUM

Subject: Issue of passports to applicants against whom criminal cases are pending before a court of law in India.

Reference is invited to Notification No. GSR 570(E) dated 25.8.1993 regarding issuance of passports to applicants who have criminal proceedings pending against them and whose applications would attract the provisions of clause (f) of sub-section (2) of Section 6 of the Passports Act, 1967.

2. GSR 570(E) dated 25.8.1993 is reproduced below for reference:

"G.S.R. 570(E).--In exercise of the powers conferred by clause (a) of Section 22 of the Passports Act 1967 (15 of 1967) and in supersession of the notification of the Government of India in the Ministry of External Affairs No. G.S.R. 298(E), dated the 14th April, 1976, the Central Government, being of the opinion that it is necessary in public interest to do so, hereby exempts citizens of India against whom proceedings in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by them are pending before a criminal court in India and who produce orders from the court concerned permitting them to depart from India, from the operation of the provisions of Clause (f) of sub-section (2) of Section 6 of the said Act, subject to the following conditions, namely:-

(a) the passport to be issued to every such citizen shall be issued -

(i) for the period specified in order of the court referred to above, if the court specified a period for which the passport has to be issued; or

(ii) if no period either for the issue of the passport for the travel abroad is specified in such order, the passport shall be issued for a period of one year;

(iii) if such order gives permission to travel abroad for a period less than one year, but does not specify the period of validity of the passport, the passport shall be issued for one year; or

(iv) if such order gives permission to travel abroad for a period exceeding one year, and does not specify the validity of the passport, then the passport shall be issued for the period of travel abroad specified in the order;

(b) any passport issued in terms of (a)(ii) and (a)(iii) above can be further renewed for one year at a time, provided the applicant has not travelled abroad for the period sanctioned by the court; and provided further that, in the meantime, the order of the court is not cancelled or modified.

(c) any passport issued in terms of (a)(i) above can be further renewed only on the basis of a fresh court order specifying a further period of validity of the passport or specifying a period for travel abroad;

(d) the said citizen shall give an undertaking in writing to the passport-issuing authority that he shall, if required by the court concerned, appear before it at any time during the continuance in force of the passport so issued."

3. It may be noted that applicants may be refused passports only on grounds mentioned under Section 6(2) of the Passports Act, 1967. Section 6(2)(f) of the Act states that the passport authority shall refuse to issue a passport or travel document to an applicant on the ground that proceedings in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by the applicant are pending before a criminal court in India. GSR 570(E) dated 25.8.1993 was introduced to give relief to such applicants against whom criminal proceedings are pending before any Court of law in India but who may need to travel abroad for some urgent business. With an undertaking under GSR 570(E) and an order from the Court, an applicant could be issued a short validity passport of one year validity for the period specified by the Court.

4. It has been noticed that there are an increasing number of references being received regarding passport applications attracting Section 6(2)(f). It has also been brought to Ministry's notice that there are a number of complex issues involved while processing such applications. During the proceedings in a recent court case, the Hon'ble High Court of Delhi in W.P. (CRL) No. 2844/2018 /CRL.M.A. 48674/2018 has directed that guidelines be issued by the Ministry reiterating the procedure for processing of such applications and emphasizing that such applications need to be processed with due care and diligence.

5. In view of the above, the following instructions may be adopted while processing the passport applications in respect of those applicants who may have criminal proceedings pending before a criminal court in India:

(i) The provisions of GSR 570 (E) may be strictly applied in all case. GSR 570 (E) is a statutory notification and hence, forms part of the Rules. It is to be noted that as per Section 5 (2) of the Passports Act, 1967, the passport authority shall be order in writing take a decision whether to issue or refuse a passport, after making such inquiry, if any, as it may consider necessary. Moreover, Section 7 of the Passports Act, provides that a passport or travel document may be issued for a shorter period than the prescribed period if the passport authority, for reasons to be communicated in writing to the applicant, considers in any case that the passport or travel document should be issued for a shorter period. Rule 12 of the Passport Rules, 1980 only states that an ordinary passport shall be in force for a period of 10 years which implies that an ordinary passport cannot be issued beyond a period of 10 years.

(ii) Whenever an applicant is submitting a 'No Objection Certificate' (NOC) from a Court of law in India, the applicant should be advised that undertaking as per GSR 570(E) should be complete in all respects and should mention all the pending criminal cases against the applicant. The undertaking will have a not clearly stating that if any false or incomplete information is submitted by an applicant, then his passport application is liable to be rejected.

(iii) Extant instructions clearly lay down that such applications should be processed on pre- Police Verification (PV) mode. "Pre-PV" would be mandatory in all cases of applications submitted with GSR 570(E) to ensure that the undertaking submitted by the applicant is properly matched with the criminal cases mentioned in the Police Verification Report (PVR). Hence, such applications should not be accepted under Tatkaal nor such applications be moved to “post-PV” mode or “No-PV” mode without proper justification and approval to be recorded in writing.

(iv) If an undertaking is incomplete or misleading and the applicant is found to have suppressed details of other criminal cases against the applicant, a Show Cause Notice should be issued to the applicant and action initiated against that applicant as per provisions of Section 12 of the Passports Act, 1967. If information that an applicant has obtained a passport by making a false submission or by suppressing material facts comes to light after the passport has been issued, the passport may be impounded or revoked as per provision of Section 10 (3) (b) of the Passports Act, 1967 after following the due procedure.

(v) In case where the first police verification (PV) is 'Adverse', secondary police verification may be generated. While a secondary PV is generated, it should be accompanied by a detailed letter seeking clarification regarding the pending criminal cases against the applicant and the status of these cases. Apart from generating secondary PVR, the passport officers may, if considered necessary, call for discreet enquiry through the police authorities by sending the court order submitted by the applicant or even seek verification from other government agencies/departments, as the case may be.

(vi) In case where the secondary Police Verification is also 'Adverse', it may be examined whether the details brought out in the police report match the undertaking submitted by the applicant. It may be noted that mere filing of FIRs and cases under investigation do not come under the purview of Section 6(2)(f) and that criminal proceedings would only be considered pending against an applicant if a case has been registered before any Court of law and the court has taken cognizance of the same.

(vii) If the details given in the police report and the undertaking submitted by the applicant are matching, then the 'No Objection Certificate' issued by a Court of law submitted by the applicant would take precedence over any 'Adverse' report submitted by the police. In such cases, the 'Adverse' report may be overruled with the written approval of the Passport Officer.

(viii) If the details given in the PVR and the undertaking submitted by the applicant are at variance, then a notice may be issued to the applicant calling for clarification and advising the applicant to submit details of all pending criminal cases as well as to submit a revised No Objection Certificate (NOC).

(ix) If it is brought to the notice of the authority that an applicant has criminal proceedings arrayed against applicant before several courts of law, then the applicant may be advised to get NOC from all the concerned court (s). Normally, the Court Order would make a mention of the cases pending against the applicant as well as the prayer made by the applicant. This may be examined along with the undertaking submitted by the applicant and complaints or other court orders, if any, that have been received against the applicant.

(x) It may be noted that GSR 570(E) only exempts and applicant from the operation of Section 6 (2)(f) and none of the other sub-sections of Section 6(2) of the Passports Act, 1967.

(xi) A revised Undertaking under GSR 570(E) is attached at Annexure 'A'.

(xii) Passport Officers may issue an internal SOP along the above lines so that there is no confusion in handling of applications that would attract provisions of section 6(2)(f) of the Passports Act, 1967.

6. The above instructions may be noted for strict compliance with immediate effect.

10. After considering the arguments as advanced by learned counsel for the parties as well as after perusal of record, this Court finds that Under Article 19(1)(d) and Article 21 of the Constitution of India, the citizens of the country are entitled for passport. In Maneka Gandhi Vs. Union of India 1978 (1) SCC 248, the Apex Court has held that having passport is a fundamental right of the citizen of India and a citizen can not be deprived of such fundamental right and the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph Nos. 214 and 215 was pleased to observe as under:

214. In India, at any rate, we are all certainly governed by our Constitution. The fact that the affected petitioner may not, as a result of a particular order, be able to do something intended to be done by her abroad cannot possibly make the governmental action in India either ineffective or immune from judicial scrutiny or from an attack made on the ground of a violation of a fundamental right which inheres in an Indian citizen. The consequences or effects upon the petitioner's possible actions or future activities in other countries may be a factor which may be weighed, where relevant, with other relevant facts in a particular case in judging the merits of the restriction imposed. It will be relevant insofar as it can be shown to have some connection with public or national interests when determining the merits of an order passed. It may show how she has become a "person aggrieved" with a cause of action, by a particular order involving her personal freedom. But, such considerations cannot curtail or impair the scope or operation of fundamental rights of citizens as protections against unjustifiable actions of their own Government. Nor can they, by their own force, protect legally unjustifiable actions of the Government of our country against attacks in our own courts.

215. In order to apply the tests contained in Articles 14 and 19 of the Constitution, we have to consider the objects for which the exercise of inherent rights recognised by Article 21 of the Constitution are restricted as well as the procedure by which these restrictions are sought to be imposed. Both substantive and procedural laws and actions taken under them will have to pass tests imposed by Articles 14 and 19 whenever facts justifying the invocation of either of these articles may be disclosed. For example, an international singer or dancer may well be able to complain of an unjustifiable restriction on professional activity by a denial of a passport. In such a case, violations of both Articles 21 and 19(1)(g) may both be put forward making it necessary for the authorities concerned to justify the restriction imposed, by showing satisfaction of tests of validity contemplated by each of these two articles."

11. Thus, this Court after considering the aforesaid judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Maneka

Gandhi (Supra) this court is of the view that right to travel abroad is a part of the personal liberty guaranteed under Article 21 and 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India and in addition thereto a careful reading of provisions of the Passport Act and the Notification dated 25.08.1993 alongwith the Office Memorandum dated 10.10.2019 in the light of it's legislative backgrounds as mentioned above, it is clear that passport or travel document of a person, who is facing trial can be refused by the authority concerned during pendency of his criminal case, but there is no statutory bar for giving no objection by the court concerned. No hard and fast straight jacket formula can be laid down regarding issuance of permission or giving no objection by the court concerned for issuance of passport. It is always discretion of the court concerned and depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case, act and conduct of the accused as well as nature of alleged offence committed by him/her and stage of trial, etc. Some time on account of enmity or ill will one party enmesh the other party in a frivolous criminal case to settle his personal score, therefore, in the interest of justice, it is necessary to consider all aspects of the matter and surrounding circumstances while granting or refusing the no objection for renewal or reissue of passport or travel documents by the court concerned or by the authorities concerned and the trial in the above case is not likely to conclude very soon. These were relevant factors to be considered by the learned Trial Court while passing the impugned order.

The learned trial court had completely ignored the Notification issued by Ministry of External Affairs, New Delhi dated 25.08.1993 as well as Office Memorandum dated 10.10.2019 issued by the Ministry of External Affairs, Government of India, New Delhi (referred above) while passing the impugned order and had rejected the application of the applicant for grant of permission for renewal/re-issue of passport, thus, the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law, therefore, the same is liable to be set aside/reversed.

12. In view of above, in the light of the notification dated 25.08.1993 and the Office Memorandum dated 10.10.2019 as well as the judgment passed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Maneka Gandhi (Supra) and considering the larger mandate of the Article 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India, the impugned order dated 21.12.2023 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 29, District Lucknow, by means of which application for renewal/re-issue of passport of applicant was rejected, is hereby set aside and reversed.

13. Accordingly, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed with following directions:

(i) The applicant shall move a fresh application along with certified copy of this order for renewal/re-issue of her passport before the concerned Regional Passport Officer within 20 days from the date of this order.

(ii) In case such application is moved by the applicant, within the time stipulated by this Court, the concerned Regional Passport Officer/authority shall decide the application and pass an order for renewal/re-issue of the passport of the applicant within 01 month from the date of production of certified copy of this order, after completing the due formalities in accordance with law.

(iii) The applicant shall inform and take permission from the trial court concerned before going abroad and she shall appear before the trial Court on the date fixed as directed by the trial Court and she shall be bound by the terms and conditions imposed by the trial court.

(iv) Let a copy of this order be given to Sri Surya Bhan Pandey, learned Sr. Advocate and Deputy Solicitor General of India appearing for Union of India and Sri Ashok Kumar Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State for information and communication to the authorities concerned.

List of Cases cited:

1. Kalyani Baskar Vs M.S. Sampooram, (2007) 2 SCC 258

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Sri Satish Chandra Mishra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Mukesh Kumar Tewari, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Awadhesh Kumar

Pandey, learned A.G.A. for the State as well as perused the record.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been moved by the applicant, namely, Rupesh Kumar Srivastava Alias Nirmal Srivastava with a prayer to quash the impugned order dated 22.03.2024 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.9, Gonda in Sessions Trial No.53/2016, arising out of Case Crime No.203 of 2012, under Section 307 I.P.C., Police Station Motiganj, District Gonda.

3. Learned senior counsel for the applicant submits that final report was submitted in the case of applicant and one co-accused by the Investigating Officer on 30.07.2013 on the ground that the complicity of the applicant and co-accused was not found in the alleged crime. Thereafter, the complainant had filed an application on 14.09.2014 before the Superintendent of Police, Gonda for further investigation of the matter, wherein further investigation was carried out and the charge sheet was submitted against the applicant on 22.01.2016 under Section 307 I.P.C. in a mechanical manner without considering the evidence.

4. Learned senior counsel further submits that cognizance upon the charge sheet was taken and the trial of the case was started wherein the complainant was summoned for examination as witness. On 01.08.2017, the complainant Sushil Shukla/P.W.-1 was examined in chief, however, the cross-examination of this witness could not be completed due to paucity of time, therefore, the matter was postponed for cross-examination.

5. Learned senior counsel further submits that on 09.08.2017, the applicant has filed an application under Section 207 Cr.P.C. before the learned trial court for providing certain documents which had been collected during investigation, however, the same was refused and application was rejected by the learned trial court vide order dated 20.02.2020. Thereafter, the P.W.-1 was summoned for cross-examination on 10.03.2021, 23.03.2021, 01.11.2021, 24.11.2021 and 23.12.2021 but due to pandemic of COVID-19, the cross-examination could not be concluded. On 05.04.2022, the matter was fixed for cross-examination but an application for adjournment was filed by the applicant, which was rejected by the learned trial court vide order dated 05.04.2022 closing the opportunity of cross examination.

6. Learned senior counsel further submits that on 18.08.2022, the applicant has filed an application for grant of permission for cross examination of P.W.-1/Sushil Shukla, however, the same was rejected by the learned trial court vide order dated 06.09.2022 and on 15.02.2024, the learned trial court has passed an order whereby the P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla was summoned for 27.02.2024 for cross-examination in respect of the co-accused Triyugi Narain Gupta. In the meantime, the applicant has moved an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.5258 of 2023 before this Hon'ble Court in the month of May, 2023 for quashing of the order dated 06.09.2022 passed by the learned trial court whereby the application for grant of permission for cross-examination of P.W.-1 was rejected, however, during the pendency of the aforesaid case before this Hon'ble Court, the learned trial court had passed the order dated 15.02.2024 whereby the P.W.-1

Sushil Shukla was summoned for cross-examination in respect of co-accused Triyugi Narain Gupta, therefore, the applicant has withdrawn the aforesaid case i.e. application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.5258 of 2023 on 01.03.2024.

7. Learned senior counsel further submits that the applicant had filed an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. before the learned trial court on 06.03.2024 for grant of permission for cross-examination of P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla, which has been rejected by the learned trial court vide order dated 22.03.2024 on the ground that the opportunity of cross-examination in respect of the applicant has already been closed on 05.04.2022 as the applicant had already been afforded the opportunities of cross-examination of P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla. The same has been challenged in the present case before this Court.

8. Thus, learned senior counsel for the applicant submits that the learned trial court had illegally closed the opportunity of cross-examination. The trial of the present applicant as well as of the co-accused have been arisen from the same case crime and are running together and once the P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla had already been summoned for cross examination on 01.04.2024 in respect of co-accused Triyugi Narain Gupta then there is no legal impediment if the applicant is allowed to cross examine the said witness on the date fixed in order to secure the ends of justice by holding an unbiased and fair trial which will also be in consonance of the principle construed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Learned senior counsel further submits that while passing the impugned order, the learned trial court has not considered the fact that the cross-examination of the informant P.W.-1, who is the prime witness of the case, is necessary and in absence of cross-examination of the informant, it is not possible to deliver the justice in good sense and hold an unbiased and fair trial which is mandate to be followed in view of the provisions of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

9. Learned senior counsel for the applicant lastly submits that in the interest of justice as well as to secure the ends of justice in judicial manner, one last opportunity of cross-examination of P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla should be afforded to the applicant. The applicant undertakes that he will not misuse the liberty of cross-examination of P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla and will definitely conclude the same within a day without seeking any adjournment. Thus, the instant application may be allowed and the impugned order dated 22.03.2024 may be quashed.

10. On the other hand, SriAwadhesh Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that the learned trial court had rightly passed the impugned order dated 22.03.2024 whereby the application for summoning the P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla for cross-examination was rejected. The applicant was provided ample opportunities to cross examine the P.W.-1, however, he was just lingering on the matter on one and another ground, which is a ploy to get the proceedings delayed. He further submits that the learned trial court had rightly closed the opportunity of the applicant for cross-examining the P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla.

11. After considering the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the respective parties and after perusal of material placed before this Court, this Court is of the view that it will be relevant to quote Section 311 Cr.P.C., which reads as under:-

"311. Power to summon material witness, or examine person present. - Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case."

12. Under the provisions of section 311 Cr.P.C., the court has a plenary power to summon any person at any stage of the proceedings as a witness. This power includes recall and re-examination of any person who has already been examined. This power is to be exercised when the court finds it necessary to summon/recall any witness for just decision of the case. The law puts no fetters on the powers of the courts to call for any witness to attain the highest goal of justice. In my opinion this provision of law gives expression to the inherent power of the courts which is available to them by virtue of being the supreme authority who has been entrusted with responsibility to do justice. The power lies with the Court alone as juxtaposed to rights or powers of parties. The others stake holders whether prosecution or defence, have a limited role of drawing the attention of the court and putting the relevant material before it which may assist it in arriving at a correct inference. On the other hand, section 233 Cr.P.C. works in a different plane altogether. For better understanding of difference between the two sections, I find it appropriate to reproduce section 233 Cr.P.C. as below:-

"233. Entering upon defence. (1)

Where the accused is not acquitted under Section 232, he shall be called upon to enter on his defence and adduce any evidence he may have in support thereof.

(2) If the accused puts in any written statement, the Judge shall file it with the record.

(3) If the accused applies for the issue of any process for compelling the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or thing, the Judge shall issue such process unless he considers, for reasons to be recorded, that such application should be refused on the ground that it is made for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice."

13. Section 233 Cr.P.C. finds place under Chapter XVIII titled as 'trial before a court of session'. This provision is essential part of session trial and is applicable when the prosecution evidence is complete and the accused is given an opportunity to produce the evidence in its defence. Undoubtedly this right has been given to the defence to produce its witnesses as part of fair trial and as part of legal principle of hearing both the sides. In my opinion, here the right belongs to the accused and not to the court concerned, in the sense that the court concerned shall ordinarily issue process and can decline to summon the witness only for the reason that the request is made for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice. The difference between the powers of the court and the right of the accused is too obvious. Under section 311 Cr.P.C., the power lies in the courts only and under section 233 Cr.P.C., the right lies with the accused and the court's interference is limited. The court can only refuse to issue summons where it ought to have refused on the ground that it is made for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice only.

14. In my view, if the application is refused on the grounds which are not covered by three excluding clauses, as provided in latter part of section 233(3) Cr.P.C. such approach shall be alien as far as scope of section 233 Cr.P.C. is concerned.

15. In Kalyani Baskar vs. M.S. Sampooranam; (2007) 2 SCC 258, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while elaborating the meaning of fair trial observed as below:-

"Fair trial" includes fair and proper opportunities allowed by law to prove her innocence. Adducing evidence in support of the defence is a valuable right. Denial of that right means denial of fair trial. It is essential that rules of procedure designed to ensure justice should be scrupulously followed, and the courts should be jealous in seeing that there is no breach of them."

16. I have gone through the impugned order dated 22.03.2024 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.9, Gonda. The trial court had failed to apply the law in right perspective and ignored the difference in scope and implications in which the provisions of section 311 Cr.P.C. and section 233(3) Cr.P.C. are meant to be applied. Hence the order of the trial court suffers from legal flaw and is not sustainable which is liable to be set aside.

17. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 22.03.2024 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.9, Gonda in Sessions Trial No.53/2016, arising out of Case Crime No.203 of 2012, under Section 307 I.P.C., Police Station Motiganj, District Gonda is hereby set aside and reversed.

18. Accordingly, in the interest of justice, the applicant is given a last opportunity to appear before the learned concerned trial court on or before 15.04.2024 alongwith certified copy of this order and move an application for cross examination of the witness P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla and the learned trial court is directed to summon the witness P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla for cross examination on 19.04.2024, the date fixed or any other date fixed by the learned trial court.

19. It is made clear that it is the last opportunity provided to the applicant to cross examine the P.W.-1 Sushil Shukla, failing which, the benefit of this order will come to an end.

20. With the aforesaid observation and direction, the instant application stands allowed.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 155(2), 190, 195(1) & 482 - Inherent power - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 171-H - Illegal payments in connection with an election, Section 188 - Disobedience to order duly promulgated by public servant - Non-cognizable offence - Prior permission - Prima facie case - Abuse of process - Quashing of proceedings - Police have no right or jurisdiction to investigate the matter, without prior permission of the Magistrate, who has got jurisdiction to try those offences - when a prosecution at the initial stage is asked to be quashed, the test to be applied by the court is as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made prima facie establish the offence - Quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule - Power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists. (Para - 26, 28, 35)

Applicant No.1's father was contesting Vidhanshabha Election, 2022 - 50 persons, including applicant Nos. 1 and 2, were canvassing in support of without prior permission - FIR lodged against applicants for alleged offences under Sections 171H and 188 IPC - Applicants sought quashing of charge sheet and summoning order. (Para 3, 12-13)

HELD: - Trial court while summoning the applicants by impugned order has totally failed to appreciate the factual and legal aspect of the matter. Entire charge sheet filed by police vitiated by serious incurable defects and procedural irregularities. Impugned charge sheet and summoning order quashed due to lack of jurisdiction and non-compliance with statutory requirements. (Para 28, 36-38)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Shri Mukesh Kumar Tewari, learned counsel for the applicants, Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A-I for the State-opposite parties and perused the material placed on record.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed on behalf of the applicants with a prayer to quash the impugned charge sheet dated 27.03.2022 alongwith impugned summoning order dated 22.09.2023 arising out of Case Crime no.0045/2022 under Section 188, 171-H I.P.C., Police Station-

Mohammadpur Khala, District-Barabanki as well as the entire proceeding of Criminal Case No.3149/2023 (State vs. Sushri Sherya Verma and others) pending before the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate/F.T.C. Court No.38, Barabanki with a further prayer to stay the proceedings of the aforesaid case.

3. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the father of the applicant No.1 was contesting on the post of Member of Legislative Assembly in Vidhansabha Elections, 2022 from the constituency of Kursi District-Barabanki. During that period on 29.01.2022, an F.I.R. was lodged by the opposite party no.3, the then In-charge, Mobile Squad Vidhansabha Kursi, District-Barabanki against the applicants alleging therein that due to ongoing elections of Vidhansabha in District-Barabanki, the model code of conduct was enforced and on 28.01.2022 the applicant Nos.1 and 2 and about 50 other persons were canvassing in the election in Village Bhund Hamlet Sewali Gram Sabha Aalhemau and Jyoti without permission and the video of the canvassing programme went viral, which has been organized by applicants and others.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that on 01.02.2022, the Investigating Officer recorded the statement of the complainant, wherein he reiterated the same version of the F.I.R. and from perusal of the same no offence is made out against the applicants and the statements given by the complainant are not trust worthy and same is based on false and concocted facts.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that the Investigating Officer prepared the impugned charge sheet dated 27.03.2022 and on 22.09.2023, the learned trial court without applying its judicial mind, took cognizance and summoned the applicants to face trial on the basis of police report.

6. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that the F.I.R. was registered under Sections 171 H and 188 I.P.C., which is without jurisdiction as Section 171 H of I.P.C. is described as non cognizable offence in the penal code and Section 195(1) Cr.P.C. specifically provides that no court shall take cognizance of any offence under Sections 172 to 188 except upon a complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate. Thus, taking cognizance under Section 188 I.P.C. is also without jurisdiction.

7. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that as per Section 2(d) Cr.P.C., the opposite party no.3 had no right to lodge the F.I.R. for offences as mentioned above rather he had to file the complaint only before the concerned court. He further submitted that not only the F.I.R. was registered but also the investigation was carried out and charge sheet was submitted without any jurisdiction.

8. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that even if the entire story of the prosecution is accepted as true (only for the sake of argument though not admitted), Section 171 H of I.P.C. is not made out against the applicants.

9. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that as per Section 190 Cr.P.C., it is evident that the concerned Magistrate can take cognizance of any offence on three conditions i.e. (i) Upon receiving a complaint of facts, (ii) Upon a police report, and (iii) Suo-moto.

10. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that the impugned order dated 22.09.2023 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate/F.T.C. Court No.38, Barabanki, by which the applicants were summoned, is also non speaking as the Magistrate has not considered any material available before him while summoning the applicants to face the trial. As such, the impugned order dated 22.09.2023 on the face of record appears to be unjustified, arbitrary, illegal and is passed without application of judicial mind, therefore, the same is liable to be set aside by this Court and the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is liable to be allowed.

11. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. for the State opposed the argument advanced by learned counsel for the applicants and submits that the impugned summoning order dated 22.09.2023 is rightly passed and no interference by this Court is required in the instant matter, therefore, the instant application is liable to be dismissed at this stage only.

12. On careful perusal of the averments made in this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. as well as after hearing the learned counsel for the parties, the factual matrix disclose that the o the opposite party no.3, the then In-charge, Mobile Squad Vidhansabha Kursi, District-Barabanki had lodged an F.I.R. against the applicants alleging therein that applicant No.1 whose father, namely-Rakesh Verma was contesting election for the post of Member of Legislative Assembly in the Vidhanshabha Election, 2022 and model code of conduct was enforced in the area. On 28.01.2022 the applicant Nos. 1 and 2 alongwith 50 persons were canvassing in support of Rakesh Verma without any prior permission.

13. First of all, it would be relevant to quote Section 195(1) Cr.P.C., which is being reproduced hereunder:-

“195(1) Cr.P.C. :- No Court shall take cognizance -

(a)

(I) of any offence punishable under sections 172 to 188 (both inclusive) of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or

(ii) of any abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, except on the complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate;

(b)

(I) of any offence punishable under any of the following sections of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), namely, sections 193 to 196 (both inclusive), 199, 200, 205 to 211 (both inclusive) and 228, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in, or in relation to, any proceeding in any Court, or

(ii) of any offence described in section 463, or punishable under section 471, section 475 or section 476 of the said Code, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in a proceeding in any Court, or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit, or attempt to commit, or the abetment of, any offence specified in sub-clause (i) or sub-clause (ii),

[except on the complaint in writing of that Court or by such officer of the Court as that Court may authorise in writing in this behalf, or of some other Court to which that Court is subordinate.] [Substituted by Act 2 of 2006, Section 3 for "except on the complaint in writing of that Court, of of some other Court to which that Court is subordinate" (w.e.f. 16-4-2006).]"

14. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 195 (1) Cr.P.C., it is clear that the F.I.R. was registered without jurisdiction as Section 171 H of I.P.C. is described as a non-cognizable offence in the penal code whereas it is specifically mentioned that no Court shall take cognizance of any offence under Sections 172 to 188 I.P.C. except upon a complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate. Thus, taking cognizance under Section 188 I.P.C. is also without jurisdiction.

15. It would further be relevant to quote Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. which is being reproduced hereunder:-

“"complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report.”

16. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 2(d) Cr.P.C., it is clear that the opposite party no.2 had no right to lodge the F.I.R. for offences as mentioned above rather he had to file the complaint only before the concerned Magistrate.

17. It would also be relevant to quote Section 171 H of IPC, which is being reproduced hereunder:-

"171H. Illegal payments in connection with an election "Whoever without the general or special authority in writing of candidate incurs or authorises expenses on account of the holding of any public meeting, or upon any advertisement, circular or publication, or in any other way whatsoever for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of such candidate, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

PROVIDED that if any person having incurred any such expenses not exceeding the amount of ten rupees without authority obtains within ten days from the date on which such expenses were incurred the approval in writing of the candidate, he shall be deemed to have incurred such expenses with the authority of the candidate."

18. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 171 H of I.P.C., it is clear that only a person other than the candidate of an election, can be made accused under Section 171 H of I.P.C. Therefore, there is substantial merit in the contention of the learned counsel for the applicant that the offence under Section 171 H of I.P.C. as made out would not lie.

19. It would also be relevant to quote Section 190 Cr.P.C., which is being reproduced hereunder:-

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section (2), may take cognizance of any offence -

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try."

20. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 190 Cr.P.C., it is clear that the concerned magistrate can take cognizance of any offence on three conditions i.e. (i) Upon receiving a complaint of facts, (ii) Upon a police report, and (iii) Suo-moto.

21. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Sachida Nand Singh and Another Vs. State of Bihar and Another; (1998) 2 SCC 493 was pleased to observe at para 7 as under:-

"Even if the clause is capable of two interpretation we are inclined to choose the narrower interpretation for obvious reasons. Section 190 of the Code empowers "any magistrate of the first class" to take cognizance of "any offence" upon receiving a complaint, or police report or information or upon his own knowledge. Section 195 restricts such general powers of the magistrate, and the general right of a person to move the Court with a complaint is to that extent curtailed. It is a well-recognised canon of interpretation that provision curbing the general jurisdiction of the court must normally receive strict interpretation unless the statute or the context requires otherwise."

22. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Daulat Ram Vs. State of Punjab; AIR 1962 SC 1206 was pleased to observe at para 4 as under:-

"Now the offence under s. 182 of the Penal Code, if any, was undoubtedly complete when the appellant had moved the Tehsildar for action. Section 182 does not require that action must always be taken if the person who moves the public servant knows or believes that action would be taken. In making his report to the Tehsildar therefore, if the appellant believed that some action would be taken (and he had no reason to doubt that it would not) the offence under that section was complete. It was therefore incumbent, if the prosecution was to be launched, that the complaint in writing should be made by the Tehsildar as the public servant concerned in this case. On the other hand what we find is that a complaint by the Tehsildar was not filed at all, but a charge sheet was put in by the Station House Officer. The learned counsel for the State Government tries to support the action by submitting that s. 195 had been complied with inasmuch as when the allegations had been disproved, the letter of the Superintendent of Police was forwarded to the Tehsildar and he asked for "a calendar". This paper was filed along with the charge sheet and it is stated that this satisfies the requirements of s. 195. In our opinion, this is not a due compliance with the provisions of that section. What the section contemplates is that the complaint must be in writing by the public servant concerned and there is no such compliance in the present case. The cognizance of the case was therefore wrongly assumed by the court without the complaint in writing of the public servant namely the Tehsildar in this case. The trial was thus without jurisdiction ab initio and the conviction cannot be maintained."

23. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of M.S. Ahlawat Vs. State of Haryana and Another; AIR 2000 SC 168 was pleased to observe at para 5 as under:-

"Chapter XI of IPC deals with false evidence and offences against public justice' and Section 193 occurring therein provides for punishment for giving or fabricating false evidence in a judicial proceeding. Section 195 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Cr.P.C.) provides that where an act amounts to an offence of contempt of the lawful authority of public servants or to an offence against public justice such as giving false evidence under Section 193 IPC, etc. or to an offence relating to documents actually used in a court, private prosecutions are barred absolutely and only the court in relation to which the offence was committed may initiate proceedings. Provisions of Section 195 Cr.P.C. are mandatory and no court has jurisdiction to take cognizance of any of the offences mentioned therein unless there is a complaint in writing as required under that Section. It is settled law that every incorrect or false statement does not make it incumbent upon the court to order prosecution, but to exercise judicial discretion to order prosecution only in the larger interest of the administration of justice."

24. Now coming to the provision of first schedule of Cr.P.C., Section 171 H of Indian Penal Code is covered under the said provision which is declared as non-cognizable and bailable offence, and triable by the Magistrate of the First Class. Like wise classification of offence against other laws in Cr.P.C., it also describes, if any offence under any other law, if punishable for less than three years or with fine which shall be considered as non-cognizable, bailable and triable by the Magistrate of First Class.

25. On perusal of the above said provisions, it is abundantly clear that the offence registered against the applicant under Section 171H of IPC is non-cognizable in nature. Now, coming to Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C. which reads as follows:

"No police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial"

26. Particularly, Section 155(2) mandates the police concerned that such police officer shall investigate the non-cognizable offence with the permission of the Magistrate only. This Section describes that no Police Officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of the Magistrate having power to try such case for trial.

27. The provision in sub Section (2) of Section 155 of Cr.P.C., for asking permission of the Court to investigate a non-cognizable offence is mandatory in nature. Therefore, the investigation of non-cognizable offence by the police without prior permission of the competent Magistrate is illegal. Even mere accepting the charge sheet by the Magistrate and taking the cognizance of the offence does not validate the proceeding. Even subsequent permission by the Magistrate also cannot cure the illegality. As could be seen from Section 460 of Cr.P.C. these defects of non-taking permission before investigating a non-cognizable offence is also not curable. Though the charge sheet is filed after due investigation without prior permission of the Court and that the Magistrate has accepted the charge sheet and taken the cognizance, it does not mean to show permission is granted by the Magistrate to investigate such non-cognizable offence. Therefore, investigation into the non-cognizable offence without written order of the Magistrate is strictly contrary to the provision of this Section.

28. This Court further finds that the above said two offences are non-cognizable offences. Therefore, as per Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C., the police have no right or jurisdiction to investigate the matter, without prior permission of the Magistrate, who has got jurisdiction to try those offences. Therefore, the entire charge sheet filed by the police is vitiated by serious incurable defects and procedural irregularities.

29. This Court further finds that the F.I.R. as well as the charge sheet, do not disclose that there was any cognizable offence made by the applicant, so as to enable the police to investigate both the cognizable and non-cognizable offences together and to file the charge sheet. Therefore, the entire charge sheet papers and on the basis of which the criminal case is registered is liable to be quashed.

30. This Court also finds that the trial court while summoning the applicants by impugned order has totally failed to appreciate the factual and legal aspect of the matter. The legal position is well-settled that when a prosecution at the initial stage is asked to be quashed, the test to be applied by the court is as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made prima facie establish the offence. It is also for the court to take into consideration any special features which appear in a particular case to consider whether it is expedient and in the interest of justice to permit a prosecution to continue. This is so on the basis that the court cannot be utilised for any oblique purpose and where in the opinion of the court chances of an ultimate conviction is bleak and, therefore, no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing a criminal prosecution to continue, the court may while taking into consideration the special facts of a case also quash the proceeding even though it may be at a preliminary stage.

31. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case Inder Mohan Goswami v. State of Uttaranchal (2007)12 SCC 1 has held that it would be relevant to keep into mind the scope and ambit of section 482 Cr.PC and circumstances under which the extra ordinary power of the court inherent therein as provisioned in the said section of the Cr.P.C. can be exercised, para 23 is being quoted here under:-

"23. This court in a number of cases has laid down the scope and ambit of courts powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. Every High Court has inherent power to act ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice, for the administration of which alone it exists, or to prevent abuse of the process of the court. Inherent power under section 482 Cr.P.C. can be exercised:

(i) to give effect to an order under the Code;

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and

(iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice."

32. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India in the case of Lalankumar Singh and Others vs. State of Maharashtra reported in 2022 SCC Online SC 1383 has specifically held in paragraph No.38 that the order of issuance of process is not an empty formality. The Magistrate is required to apply his mind as to whether sufficient ground for proceeding exists in the case or not. Paragraph No.38 of Lalankumar Singh and Others (supra) is being quoted hereunder:-

"38. The order of issuance of process is not an empty formality. The Magistrate is required to apply his mind as to whether sufficient ground for proceeding exists in the case or not. The formation of such an opinion is required to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reasons are given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is a prima facie case against the accused. No doubt, that the order need not contain detailed reasons. A reference in this respect could be made to the judgment of this Court in the case of Sunil Bharti Mittal v. Central Bureau of Investigation, which reads thus:

“51. On the other hand, Section 204 of the Code deals with the issue of process, if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. This section relates to commencement of a criminal proceeding. If the Magistrate taking cognizance of a case (it may be the Magistrate receiving the complaint or to whom it has been transferred under Section 192), upon a consideration of the materials before him (i.e. the complaint, examination of the complainant and his witnesses, if present, or report of inquiry, if any), thinks that there is a prima facie case for proceeding in respect of an offence, he shall issue process against the accused.

52. A wide discretion has been given as to grant or refusal of process and it must be judicially exercised. A person ought not to be dragged into court merely because a complaint has been filed. If a prima facie case has been made out, the Magistrate ought to issue process and it cannot be refused merely because he thinks that it is unlikely to result in a conviction.

53. However, the words “sufficient ground for proceeding” appearing in Section 204 are of immense importance. It is these words which amply suggest that an opinion is to be formed only after due application of mind that there is sufficient basis for proceeding against the said accused and formation of such an opinion is to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reason is given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is prima facie case against the accused, though the order need not contain detailed reasons. A fortiori, the order would be bad in law if the reason given turns out to be ex facie incorrect.”

33. Further, Hon’ble the Supreme Court of India has provided guidelines in case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal reported in 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 for the exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. which is extraordinary power and used separately in following conditions:-

“102.(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.”

(2) where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the F.I.R. do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code;

(3) where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or 'complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused;

(4) where the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a

Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code;

(5) where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused;

(6) where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party;

(7) where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

34. Further the Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:- (i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (Cri.)192, (iii) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.) 283 and (iv) Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2021 SC 1918.

35. In S.W. Palankatkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:- (i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

36. In view of the above said facts and circumstances of the case, the investigation done by the police in this case is without jurisdiction and based on such invalid investigation report, the cognizance taken by the learned Magistrate is also illegal. Secondly, the entire proceeding before the learned Magistrate is vitiated by serious incurable defects.

37. Thus, in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court and the facts and circumstances, as narrated above and from the perusal of the record, the impugned charge sheet dated 27.03.2022 alongwith impugned summoning order dated 22.09.2023 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate/F.T.C. Court No.38, Barabanki in Criminal Case No.3149/2023 (State vs. Sushri Shreya Verma and others), arising out of Case Crime No.0045/2022, under Sections 171 H and 188 of I.P.C., Police Station Mohammadpur Khala, District-Barabanki., as well as the entire criminal proceedings in pursuance thereof are against the spirit and directions issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court and are liable to be set aside.

38. Accordingly, the impugned charge sheet dated 27.03.2022 alongwith impugned summoning order dated 22.09.2023 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate/F.T.C. Court No.38, Barabanki in Criminal Case No.3149/2023 (State vs. Sherya Verma and others), arising out of Case Crime No.0045/2022, under Sections 171 H and 188 of I.P.C., Police Station Mohammadpur Khala, District-Barabanki as well as the entire criminal proceedings in pursuance thereof are hereby quashed.

39. For the reasons discussed above, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in respect of the instant applicants.

40. Learned Senior Registrar of this Court is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the trial court concerned for its necessary compliance.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power - The Negotiable instruments Act, 1981- Sections 138 & 141 - Negotiable Instruments - Cheque Dishonour - Legal position for quashing of proceedings at the initial stage - test to be applied by court - whether uncontroverted allegations as made prima facie establish the offence - and whether the chances of ultimate conviction are bleak - such that no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing the criminal proceedings to continue - Quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule - Power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.(Para - 17,18)

Applicants, members of an Association of Persons (AOP) - were summoned in complaint under Sections 138 and 141 of NI Act - for dishonour of cheques amounting to ₹60,00,000 – allegation - cheques were issued towards repayment of investments made by him in the AOP – contention - cheques were stolen and misused by complainant after they sent a legal notice demanding repayment of borrowed funds - applicants neither denied their signatures on the cheques nor lodged any complaint regarding the alleged theft. (Paras 2, 4, 5)

HELD: - Court would not embark into an inquiry, as this is Trial Court's function. Since a prima facie offence is disclosed, quashing the complaint, summoning order, and proceedings is unwarranted. Applicants can raise objections at the appropriate stage. Prayer for quashing is denied. (Para - 19,20)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Vakalatnama filed today in the Court by Shri Lalit Kishore Pandey, Advocate on behalf of opposite party No.2 is taken on record.

2. Heard Shri Amit Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the applicants, Shri Lalit Kishore Pandey, learned Counsel for the opposite party No.2, Shri S.P. Tiwari, learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party No.1 and perused the material placed on record.

3. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed on behalf of the applicants seeking quashing/setting aside of the summoning order dated 12.10.2023 passed by learned Presiding Officer, Additional Court No.5, Lucknow in Complaint Case No.87472/2023 vide filing No.105314/2023 instituted against the applicants under Section 138 and 141 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 as well as entire proceedings of the aforesaid case so far it relates to the present applicants. A further prayer has been made by the applicants to call for the records of Complaint Case No.87472/2023 vide filing No.105314/2023 under Sections 138 and 141 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

4. Learned Counsel for the applicants submits that the applicants are innocent persons and have been falsely implicated in the present case due to enmity. He further submits that the applicants are into the business of trading of Indian-made foreign liquor and beer in the State of Uttar Pradesh and to effectively manage the business and operations they had formed an Association of Persons (hereinafter referred as "AOP") in the name and style of BKS Associates and the applicants are the Member of the AOP. He further submits that the opposite party No.2's mother, namely-Poonam Jaiswal was the licensee of a retail shop of country liquor situated at Mohamadpur, Sariya, Bankey Nagar Chauraha(A), District-Lucknow since the opposite party No.2 and his mother did not have any prior experience of operation of retail shop of country liquor, they joined AOP formed by the applicants on 17.07.2020 in which opposite party No.2 was given share of 5% only. He further submits that after joining the AOP, the opposite party No.2 borrowed/withdrew various sums from the AOP from time to time with a promise that he would return the same very soon but when the amounts were not returned the applicants issued a legal notice dated 03.07.2023 to opposite party No.2 demanding therein the return of capital withdrawn/borrowed by him from the AOP. Thereafter, the opposite party No.2 on 05.07.2023 issued a legal notice to the applicants demanding an amount of Rs.25,00,000/- (Rupees Twenty Five Lakh Only) in lieu of two cheques obtained by him bearing No.1364 dated 29.05.2023 of Rs.25,00,000/- (Rupees Twenty Five Lakh Only) and bearing No.1365 dated 19.06.2023 of Rs.35,00,000/-, Bank-ICICI Bank, Branch-Vikas Nagar, Lucknow alleging therein that the said cheques were given by the applicants to the opposite party No.2 for capital inducted by opposite party No.2 and profit accrued thereof.

5. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that since the applicants were demanding the amount, which was borrowed by the opposite party No.2 from the AOP through legal notice dated 03.07.2023, therefore, the opposite party No.2, who was also the In-charge of day to day activities of AOP, stole the said two cheques as he had the access of signed cheques and other security documents of AOP and misused them by putting them in the bank for encashment in order to implicate the present applicants in false complaint case under the provisions of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

6. The overall contention of the learned counsel for the applicants is that no offence against the applicants is disclosed and the present prosecution has been instituted with a malafide intention for the purposes of harassment, thus, he submits that the present case is nothing but an abuse of process of law, therefore, the present application may be allowed and the proceedings of the present case may be quashed.

7. Per contra, learned Counsel for the opposite party No.2 vehemently opposes the contentions made by learned Counsel for the applicants and submits that the opposite party No.2 was running his business in the name of his mother and the business was giving him profits but the applicants persuaded the opposite party No.2 to join their AOP only with the intention to commit forgery and misappropriation of funds. The opposite party No.2 in order to gain profits by joining the AOP of which the applicants are founder Members, started putting more and more money with the hope and trust given by the existing members of the AOP and made an investment of about Rs.50,00,000/- (Rupees Fifty Lakh Only) and they also promised after all these investments, the business will flourish all over the State of U.P. and then we will calculate all the profits gained together and will split it as per the share of each of the members but when the same did not happen, then the opposite party No.2 asked the applicants to return his money, which was earlier denied and later on, the applicants issued two cheques bearing No.1364 dated 29.05.2023 of Rs.25,00,000/- (Rupees Twenty Five Lakh Only) and bearing No.1365 dated 19.06.2023 of Rs.35,00,000/-, Bank-ICICI Bank, Branch-Vikas Nagar, Lucknow in the name of opposite party No.2 but when the cheque bearing No.1364 dated 29.05.2023 amounting to Rs.25,00,000/- (Rupees Twenty Five Lacs Only) was presented before the Bank of Baroda, Branch Aliganj, Lucknow for withdrawal of the said amount, the same was dishonored with remark 'Funds Insufficient' on 26.06.2023.

8. Learned Counsel for the opposite party No.2 further submits that thereafter, the opposite party No.2 issued legal notice to the applicants on 05.07.2023 stating therein all the facts and circumstances of the case. He further submits that in reply to the legal notice dated 05.07.2023, the applicants on 15.07.2023 sent a reply of the aforesaid notice to the opposite party No.2, wherein they have not denied the signatures which were done on the two cheques. He further submits that in their reply to the legal notice, they did not mention anything about them making any complaint to any authority regarding the lost two cheques, which itself weaken their case, thus, he submits that the impugned summoning order dated 12.10.2023 has been rightly passed by the learned trial court in accordance with law, therefore, the same is not liable to be quashed and the instant application is liable to be rejected.

9. Learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party No.1 contends that from the allegations made in the complaint filed by the opposite party No.2, prima facie offence is made out against the applicants. The innocence of the applicants cannot be adjudged at the pre trial stage. Therefore, the applicants do not deserve any indulgence.

10. After hearing learned Counsel for the parties and after perusal of records, this Court finds that towards the discharge of above mentioned financial liabilities, the accused-applicants provided the opposite party No.2 with two post dated cheques worth Rs.60,00,000/- (Rupees Sixty Lakhs Only) of different values payable on different dates. Out of those two cheques, one cheque bearing No.1364 dated 29.05.2023 of Rs.25,00,000/- (Rupees Twenty Five Lakh Only) was deposited by the opposite party No.2 with its banker for encashment but the said cheque was unpaid with the remark 'funds insufficient'. The opposite party No.2 informed the applicants regarding the dishonour of the cheque and asked them to pay the amount. However, the applicants did not pay any heed to the request of the opposite party No.2. Thereafter, a legal notice was sent and despite that applicants failed to make payment against the said cheques. It is further alleged in the complaint that the applicants were at the time of commission of the offence were Founder Members of the BKS Associates and were solely responsible for the conduct of the business of the AOP, therefore, the applicants are liable for offence committed under Section 138 and 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, thus, the opposite party No.2 has initiated the proceedings against the applicants under the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

11. It would relevant here to go through Sections 138 and 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. Section 138 and 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 would read as under:-

"Section 138 in The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881

138. Dishonour of cheque for insufficiency, etc., of funds in the account.?

Where any cheque drawn by a person on an account maintained by him with a banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability, is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with that bank, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence and shall, without prejudice to any other provisions of this Act, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may be extended to two years, or with fine which may extend to twice the amount of the cheque, or with both:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply unless?

(a) the cheque has been presented to the bank within a period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity, whichever is earlier;

(b) the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque, as the case may be, makes a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice in writing, to the drawer of the cheque, [within thirty days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid; and

(c) the drawer of such cheque fails to make the payment of the said amount of money to the payee or, as the case may be, to the holder in due course of the cheque, within fifteen days of the receipt of the said notice.

Section 141 in The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881

141. Offences by companies. ?

(1) If the person committing an offence under section 138 is a company, every person who, at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any person liable to punishment if he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge, or that he had exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of such offence:

Provided further that where a person is nominated as a Director of a company by virtue of his holding any office or employment in the Central Government or State Government or a financial corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, he shall not be liable for prosecution under this Chapter.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where any offence under this Act has been committed by a company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to, any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly."

11. It is further observed here that according to the reply sent by the applicants, execution of the cheques in question has nowhere been disputed and as per the reply of the applicants, the cheques in question were stolen from their possession but in this regard they did not file any complaint with the authorities concerned. This question as to whether the cheques in question were only stolen or not, is a matter of evidence to be decided later on during the course of the trial. Moreover, the applicants have no where taken up this plea in their reply that the they were neither In-charge of or responsible to the AOP for the conduct of business of the AOP.

12. It is further observed here that in their reply of the legal notice, the applicants did not dispute the signatures made on the aforesaid two cheques, thus, it can be transpired that the cheques in question were duly signed and issued by the applicants against their liabilities towards the opposite party No.2.

13. Further in the case in hand, reading the complaint as a whole, it is clear that the allegations in the complaint are that the cheques which were dishonoured were issued by the Founder Members of the AOP i.e. the applicants and the applicants were In-charge of the affairs of the AOP. It is not proper to split hairs in reading the complaint so as to come to a conclusion that the allegation as a whole is not sufficient to show that at the relevant point of time the applicants are not alleged to be persons In-charge of the affairs of the AOP. Obviously, the complaint refers to the point of time, when the two cheques were issued, their presentation, dishonour and failure to pay in spite of notice of dishonour. Reading the complaint as a whole, this Court is satisfied that it is a case where the contentions raised by the applicants can only be dealt after the conclusion of the trial.

14. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Mohd. Allauddin Khan vs. State of Bihar and Others reported in (2019) 6 SCC 107 has been pleased to observe paragraph Nos.9 and 12, which are reproduced hereinunder:-

"9. First error is that the High Court did not examine the case with a view to find out as to whether the allegations made in the complaint prima facie make out the offences falling under Sections 323 and 379 read with Section 34 IPC or not. Instead the High Court in para 6 gave importance to the fact that since there was a dispute pending between the parties in the civil court in relation to a shop as being landlord and tenant, it is essentially a civil dispute between the parties. It is on this ground, the High Court proceeded to quash the complaint. This approach of the High Court, in our view, is faulty.

12 The High Court should have seen that when a specific grievance of the appellant in his complaint was that Respondents 2 and 3 have committed the offences punishable under Sections 323 and 379 read with Section 34 IPC, then the question to be examined is as to whether there are allegations of commission of these two offences in the complaint or not. In other words, in order to see whether any prima facie case against the accused for taking its cognizance is made out or not, the Court is only required to see the allegations made in the complaint. In the absence of any finding recorded by the High Court on this material question, the impugned order [Prem Prakash Gupta v. State of Bihar, 2017 SCC OnLine Pat 3618] is legally unsustainable."

15. Thus, from the perusal of the materials on record and looking into the facts of the case and after considering the arguments made at the bar and the judgment referred above, it does not appear that no offence has been made out against the applicant.

16. At the stage of issuing process the trial court is not expected to examine and assess in detail the material placed on record, only this has to be seen whether prima facie cognizable offence is disclosed or not. The Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:-(i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Haryana Vs. Bhajanlal, 1992 SCC (CrL.)426, (iii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (CrL.)192 and (iv) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cr.)283 and (v) Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2021 SC 1918.

17. From the aforesaid decisions the Apex Court has settled the legal position for quashing of the proceedings at the initial stage. The test to be applied by the court is to whether uncontroverted allegation as made prima facie establishes the offence and the chances of ultimate conviction is bleak and no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing criminal proceedings to be continue.

18. In S.W. Palankattkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

19. The High Court would not embark upon an inquiry as it is the function of the Trial Judge/Court. The interference at the threshold of quashing of the complaint case, summoning order and the criminal proceedings in case in hand cannot be said to be exceptional as it discloses prima facie commission of an offence. In the result, the prayer made for quashing is refused. The applicant has ample opportunity to raise all the objections at the appropriate stage.

20. In view thereof, the present application lacks merit and substance and is hereby rejected.

 – Application for Quashing Proceedings – Compromise in POCSO Case – Non-Compoundable Offences

The applicant, Rajnu, filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash proceedings in Criminal Case No. 1177 of 2022 arising out of Case Crime No. 236/2021 under Sections 363, 366, 504, 376 IPC and Sections 3/4 POCSO Act, Police Station Mall, District Lucknow, based on a compromise between the parties. The applicant, previously denied quashing of the charge sheet and summoning order by a Coordinate Bench on 14.12.2022, claimed false implication due to village rivalry. The St. opposed, citing the Supreme Court's ruling in Parbatbhai Aahir Vs St. of Gujarat ((2017) 9 SCC 641), which prohibits quashing serious offenses like those under the POCSO Act on the basis of compromise. Held: The court rejected the application, finding that the allegations prima facie disclosed a cognizable offense and that quashing based on compromise was impermissible under Parbatbhai Aahir. The court reiterated that inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. are to be exercised cautiously to prevent abuse of process or secure justice, and no exceptional grounds existed for interference. The applicant was directed to raise defenses during trial.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Shri Sushil Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the applicant, Shri Om Prakash, learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party No.1 and perused the material placed on record.

2. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed on behalf of the applicant, namely-Rajnu, seeking quashing of the entire proceedings of Crl. Case No.1177 of 2022; State vs. Rajnu arising out of Crime No.236/2021 under Section 363, 366, 504 and 376 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 Protection of Children From Sexual Offences Act, 2012, Police Station-Mall, District-Lucknow pending before the Additional District and Sessions Judge/ Special Judge POCSO Act, Court No.1, Lucknow and allow the instant application in terms of the compromise entered into between the parties.

3. Learned Counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant is an innocent person and has been falsely implicated in the present case due village rivalry. He further submits that the applicant had earlier approached this Court by filing an Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No.9387/2022 for quashing of the charge sheet, summoning order and entire proceedings of the aforesaid case, which was disposed of by the Coordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 14.12.2022. He further submits that now the parties have entered into a compromise and do not want to prosecute the present case on the basis of compromise entered into parties, thus, he submits that the present application may be allowed and the proceedings of the aforesaid case may be quashed.

4. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party No.1 vehemently opposed the contentions made by learned Counsel for the applicant and submits that the parties are praying for quashing of the aforesaid case which has been registered under Section 363, 366, 504 and 376 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 Protection of Children From Sexual Offences Act, 2012, which is against the mandate given by Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur & Ors. Vs. State of Gujarat & Anr.; reported in (2017) 9 SCC 641, thus, he submits that the proceedings registered under the provisions of the POCSO Act cannot be quashed on the basis of compromise. He further submits that case is pending in the concerned trial court and it is making endeavors to conclude the same, thus, this application is misconceived and is liable to be rejected.

5. From the perusal of the materials on record and looking into the facts of the case and after considering the arguments made at the bar, it does not appear that no offence has been made out against the applicant.

6. At the stage of issuing process the trial court is not expected to examine and assess in detail the material placed on record, only this has to be seen whether prima facie cognizable offence is disclosed or not. The Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:-(i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Haryana Vs. Bhajanlal, 1992 SCC (Cri.)426, (iii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (Cri.)192 and (iv) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.)283.

7. From the aforesaid decisions the Apex Court has settled the legal position for quashing of the proceedings at the initial stage. The test to be applied by the court is to whether uncontroverted allegation as made prima facie establishes the offence and the chances of ultimate conviction is bleak and no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing criminal proceedings to be continue. In S.W. Palankattkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

8. The High Court would not embark upon an inquiry as it is the function of the Trial Judge/Court. The interference at the threshold of quashing of criminal proceedings in case in hand cannot be said to be exceptional as it discloses prima facie commission of an offence. In the result, the prayer for quashing of charge sheet/summoning order/impugned proceedings is refused. There is no merit in this case. The applicants have ample opportunity to raise all the objections at the appropriate stage.

9. Thus, after considering the submissions advanced by learned Counsel for the parties and perusal of record, this Court finds that the objection raised by learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party No.1 appears to justified, the compromise on the basis of which, the parties are praying for quashing of the aforesaid proceedings is against the mandate given by Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur (Supra). Further, there is no other ground/avement made in this application by the applicant to quash the aforesaid proceedings, thus, this application lacks merit and substance and is liable to be rejected.

10. In view thereof, the present application is hereby rejected.

The applicant, Yashpaul Chail, filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash proceedings in Complaint Case No. 1036 of 2014 under Sections 18/27 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940, Police Station Kotwali, District Muzaffarnagar, pending before the Chief Judicial Magistrate. A Drug Inspector's complaint alleged that samples of Ofloxacin Tablets (Eloflox-200) taken on 21.01.2013 from M/s Kumar Medicine Distributors were substandard, as per the Government Analyst's report dated 09.07.2013. The applicant argued non-compliance with mandatory sampling provisions under Sections 23(3) and 23(4), and that he had resigned as director of M/s Elmac Remedies Pvt. Ltd. on 01.06.2009, before the alleged offense, thus not liable under Section 34. The St. countered that the applicant did not deny directorship in response to the show cause notice and that directors are responsible for substandard drugs. Held: The court, relying on Medicamen Biotech Ltd. Vs Rubina Bose ((2008) 7 SCC 196), St. of Rajasthan Vs Cadila Health Care Ltd., Cheminova India Ltd. Vs St. of Punj. ((2011) 17 SCC 275), Sunil Bharti Mittal Vs CBI ((2015) 4 SCC 609), Mehmood Ul Rehman, and Birla Corporation Ltd. Vs Adventz Investments ((2020) 4 SCC 211), quashed the proceedings against the applicant. The court found non-compliance with Sections 23(3) and 23(4), depriving the applicant of the right to challenge the Analyst's report, and confirmed his resignation absolved him of liability under Section 34. The proceedings were deemed an abuse of process.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prashant Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Akhilesh Chandra Shukla, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Sudhir Kumar Chandraul, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.1036 of 2014 (State Vs. Yashpal Chail and others) under sections 18/27 of the Drugs and Cosmetic Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Muzaffar Nagar pending in the Court of C.J.M., Muzaffarnagar.

3. Facts of the case are that a complaint under Section 32 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (for short "Drugs and Cosmetics Act") was filed in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar on 25.02.2014 alleging that while discharging official duties the complainant took samples of three drugs for test and analysis from the premises of M/s Kumar Medicine Distributors and the Government Analyst vide report dated 09.07.2013 declared that the sample of the drug was not of standard quality. For ready reference relevant portion of the report is quoted hereunder:-

"Sample No.-GS/MZN/2013/Jan/07

Ofloxacin Tablets I.P. (Eloflox-200) B. No.-B123445, M/D-11/2012, E/D-10/2014, Mfd by - M/s Elmac Remedies Pvt. Ltd., Plot No.-202-3, Vill - Kotha, Post Lalitpur, Kichha Road, Rudrapur, Uttrakhand.

"The sample does not conform to the declared formula in respect of Assay."

Assa- Content of Ofloxacin 81.56%w/w/ of the stated amount of drug in each tablet of average weight which is less than the minimum I.P. limit of 90% w/w."

4. On being asked he stated that he has purchased medicines from the distributor, M/s Onida Health Care, C-7, Meerut Road, Industrial Estate Ghaziabad and on being asked from this distributor, it was informed that the medicines were manufactured by M/s Elmac Remedies Private Limited.

5. After investigation was completed, the report along with the recommendation of the Drug Licensing Authority was filed. Since there was a breach of Section 18A of Drugs and Cosmetics Act, the complaint under Section 32 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act was filed before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffarnagar, who took cognizance on the complaint and issued summons on 27.02.2014 against the accused including the applicant.

6. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that, the show cause notice was sent to the manufacturing company on 23.08.2013 but no compliance of Section 23 (3), (4) and 25(3) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act was made as the Drug Inspector was supposed to make four samples, but he failed to do so. For ready reference Section 23 (3), (4) and 25(3) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act are quoted hereunder:-

"Section 23 (3) 1

Where an Inspector takes a sample of a drug or cosmetic for the purpose of test or analysis, he shall intimate such purpose in writing in the prescribed form to the person from whom he takes it and, in the presence of such person unless he wilfully absents himself, shall divide the sample into four portions and effectively seal and suitably mark the same and permit such person to add his own seal and mark to all or any of the portions so sealed and marked:

Provided that where the sample is taken from premises whereon the drug or cosmetic is being manufactured, it shall be necessary to divide the sample into three portions only:

Provided further that where the drug or cosmetic is made up in containers of small volume, instead of dividing a sample as aforesaid, the Inspector may, and if the drug or cosmetic be such that it is likely to deteriorate or be otherwise damaged by exposure shall, take three or four, as the case may be, of the said containers after suitably marking the same and, where necessary, sealing them.

Section 23 (4)

The Inspector shall restore one portion of a sample so divided or one container, as the case may be, to the person from whom he takes it, and shall retain the remainder and dispose of the same as follows:—

(i) one portion or container he shall forthwith send to the Government Analyst for test or analysis;

(ii) the second he shall produce to the Court before which proceedings, if any, are instituted in respect of the drug or cosmetic; and

(iii) the third, where taken, he shall send to the person, if any, whose name, address and other particulars have been disclosed under section 18A.

Section 25(3)

Any document purporting to be a report signed by a Government Analyst under this Chapter shall be evidence of the facts stated therein, and such evidence shall be conclusive unless the person from whom the sample was taken or the person whose name, address and other particulars have been disclosed under section 18A has, within twenty-eight days of the receipt of a copy of the report, notified in writing the Inspector or the Court before which any proceedings in respect of the sample are pending that he intends to adduce evidence in controversion of the report."

7. He further submitted that compliance of this provision is mandatory and thus, any complaint without following the aforesaid provisions would be illegal. To buttress his argument, learned counsel for the applicant is relying on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of M/s Medicamen Biotech Ltd. & Anor. vs. Rubina Bose, Drug Inspector2. For ready reference paragraph nos.6, 9 & 10 of the said judgment are quoted hereunder:-

"6. A reading of the aforesaid provisions would reveal that they lay certain obligations as well as provide safeguards for a person from whom a drug has been seized for analysis or testing as Section 25 (3) specifies that unless such a person controverts the correctness of the report submitted by the Government Analyst within 28 days in writing that he intends to adduce evidence to controvert the report of the Analyst, it would be deemed to be conclusive evidence of the quality of the drug whereas sub-section (4) of Section 25 obliges the Magistrate on the request of the complainant or the accused or on in his own motion to send the fourth sample which has been disputed for fresh testing to the Director of the Central Drugs Laboratory. It is the case of the appellant that despite the fact that the appellant had repeatedly controverted the accuracy of the report of the Government Analyst the fourth sample had still not been sent to the Director for re-testing and analysis. We find that the argument raised by the learned counsel for the respondent that the appellant had never expressed a desire to controvert the report of the Drug Analyst is not correct as is clear from the letter dated 28th August 2001 addressed to the Assistant Director General, Government Medical Stores Depot in which it was stated as under:

"On receipt of your letter, we have got the control sample of same batch analysed from an approved test house, namely Industrial Testing Laboratory, Delhi. The test house has reported our control samples to be of standard quality and conforming to IP with respect to content of Enalapril Maleate. Copy of test report No. F- 405/8- 01 dt. 25.8.2001 enclosed.

In the light of above facts, we do not agree with the Govt. analyst report that the sample is not of standard quality and request you to kindly get the sample retested at your end."

9. In Unique Farmaid's case (supra) which was a case under the Insecticides Act which has provisions analogous to Section 25 (4) of the Act, the court found that the accused had indeed made a request to the Inspector for sending the sample for re-testing within the prescribed time limit and as this request had not been accepted an important right given to an accused had been rendered ineffective on which the proceedings could be quashed. This is what the Court had to say:

"It cannot be gainsaid, therefore, that the respondents in these appeals have been deprived of their valuable right to have the sample tested from the Central Insecticides Laboratory under sub-section (4) of Section 24 of the Act. Under sub-section (3) of Section 24 report signed by the Insecticides Analyst shall be evidence of the facts stated therein and shall be conclusive evidence against the accused only if the accused do not, within 28 days of the receipt of the report, notify in writing to the Insecticide Inspector or the court before which proceedings are pending that they intend to adduce evidence to controvert the report. In the present cases the Insecticides Inspector was notified that the accused intended to adduce evidence to controvert the report. By the time the matter reached the Court, the shelf life of the sample had already expired and no purpose would have been served informing the Court of such an intention. The report of the Insecticide Analyst was, therefore, not conclusive. A valuable right had been conferred on the accused to have the sample tested from the Central Insecticides Laboratory and in the circumstances of the case the accused have been deprived of that right, thus, prejudicing them in their defence.

In these circumstances, the High Court was right in concluding that if will be an abuse of the process of the court if the prosecution is continued against the respondents, the accused persons. The High Court rightly quashed the criminal complaint. We uphold the order of the High Court and would dismiss the appeals."

10. We find that this judgment helps the case of the appellant rather than that of the respondent because in spite of two communications from the appellant that it intended to adduce evidence to controvert the facts given in the report of the Government Analyst, the fourth sample with the Magistrate had not been sent for re-analysis. The observations in Amery Pharmaceuticals's case (supra) are also to the same effect. We find that the aforesaid interpretation supports the case of the appellants inasmuch they had been deprived of the right to have the fourth sample tested from the Central Drugs Laboratory. It is also clear that the complaint had been filed on the 2nd July 2002 which is about a month short of the expiry date of the drug and as such had the accused appellant appeared before the Magistrate even on 2nd July 2002 it would have been well nigh impossible to get the sample tested before its expiry. In the affidavit filed to the petition by Dr. D. Rao, Deputy Drugs Controller, and in arguments before us, it has been repeatedly stressed that the delay in sending of the sample to the Central Drugs Laboratory had occurred as the appellant had avoided service of summons on it till 9th May 2005. This is begging the question. We find that there is no explanation as to why the complaint itself had been filed about a month before the expiry of the shelf life of the drug and concededly the filing of the complaint had nothing to do with the appearance of the accused in response to the notices which were to be issued by the Court after the complaint had been filed. Likewise, we observe that the requests for retesting of the drug had been made by the appellant in August/September 2001 as would be clear from the facts already given above and there is absolutely no reason as to why the complaint could not have been filed earlier and the fourth sample sent for retesting well within time. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the facts of the case suggest that the appellants have been deprived of a valuable right under Section 25 (3) and 25 (4) of the Act which must necessitate the quashing of the proceedings against them."

8. Next argument of learned counsel for the applicant is that the applicant was not the director of the company at the relevant time (when the drug/medicine was manufactured or supplied) as he had tendered his resignation from the post of directorship of the company on 14.06.2009, which is evident from form-32, hence, he is not responsible for any act done by the company. Further, it cannot be said that the medicines were manufactured while he was director of the company. He further relies on Section 34 of Drugs and Cosmetics Act. For ready reference Section 34 of Drugs and Cosmetics Act is quoted hereunder:-

"Section 34

Offences by companies.—

(1) Where an offence under this Act has been committed by a company, every person who at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly: Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any such person liable to any punishment provided in this Act if he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of such offence. (2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where an offence under this Act has been committed by a company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly. Explanation.—For the purposes of this section— (a) “company” means a body corporate, and includes a firm or other association of individuals; and (b) “director” in relation to a firm means a partner in the firm.”

9. Relying on the above-mentioned Section, learned counsel for the applicant submits that only those persons, who at the time of offence was in charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

10. He further submits that if there is no allegation against the accused-director averred in the complaint, in absence of the same no prosecution can be initiated against such director. To buttress his argument, he has placed reliance on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Rajasthan v. Cadila Health Care Limited³, relevant paragraphs of which are quoted hereunder:-

"2. As regards the second ground which commended to the High Court, the law is well settled. Reliance has been placed on the decision in the case of Medicamen Biotech Limited and another versus Rubina Bose, Drug Inspector, reported in (2008) 7 SCC 196 and also in Amery Pharmaceuticals and another versus State of Rajasthan, reported in (2001) 4 SCC 382. It is held in these decisions that the manufacturer should be afforded an opportunity to controvert the correctness of the Government Analyst's report and if objection is raised by the manufacturer within 28 days specified under Section 25 (3) of the Act, the preserved sample is required to be forwarded to the Central Drugs Laboratory for its independent report in terms of Section 25 (4) of the Act. That is a valuable right of the manufacturer.

5. Even on the first ground which weighed with the High Court, we find merit therein, as no averment in the complaint has been brought to our notice, which would even remotely suggest the involvement of the private respondents as in-charge of and responsible to the company for the conduct of business of the Company as such."

11. He further placed reliance on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in M/s Cheminova India Ltd. v. State of Punjab⁴, relevant paragraphs of which are quoted hereunder:-

"6. Learned Counsel for the appellants by referring to Section 33 of the Act has submitted that appellants have already filed an undertaking dated 22.01.2013 before the respondents, nominating the incharge and responsible officers of the Company to maintain quality of the pesticides manufactured by the Company along with the resolution of the Company's meeting held on 28.12.2012. Learned Counsel has submitted that by making vague and bald allegations, the appellants, who were the Company and the Managing Director, are also sought to be prosecuted.

6(a). It is submitted that unless there is a clear and categorical averment in the complaint, indicating the role played by the appellants, there cannot be any vicarious liability on the 1st Appellant – Company and the 2nd Appellant–Managing Director for commission of the alleged offence. In support of his arguments, learned Senior Counsel has placed reliance on the judgment of this Court in the case of Managing Director, Castrol India Limited vs. State of Karnataka & Anr.1, and also another judgment of this Court in the case of Shiv Kumar Jatia vs. State of NCT of Delhi.

6(b). It is also further contended by the learned Counsel that before taking cognizance of the offence on the complaint, learned Magistrate has not followed the procedure, contemplated under Section 24 (4) of the Act and Section 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It is submitted that though, the 2018 (17) SCC 275 2019 (17) SCC 193 appellants are not residing within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate, without making proper inquiry and ordering investigation, cognizance of the offence is taken. Further, it is submitted that the prosecution against the appellants, is nothing but abuse of the process of law. The High Court has not considered various grounds raised by the appellants in proper perspective and dismissed their application for quashing the complaint. In support of his argument that the Magistrate has not followed the procedure under Section 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, learned Senior Counsel has placed reliance on the judgment of this Court in Re: Expeditious Trial of Cases under Section 138 of N.I. Act, 1881 (Suo Motu Writ Petition (Crl.) No.2 of 2020).

19. Section 33 of the Act deals with ‘offences by companies’. A reading of Section 33 (1) of the Act, makes it clear that whenever an offence under this Act has been committed by a company, every person who at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, or was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of, the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly. In the case on hand, it is not in dispute that on behalf of the 1st Appellant – Company, 2nd Appellant – Managing Director has furnished an undertaking dated 22.01.2013, indicating that Shri Madhukar R. Gite, Manager of the Company, has been nominated in the resolution passed by the Company on 28.12.2012 to be in charge of and responsible to the said Company, to maintain the quality of the pesticides manufactured by the said Company and he was authorized to exercise all such powers and to take all such steps, as may be necessary or expedient to prevent the commission of any offence under the Act. Filing of such undertaking with the respondent is not disputed. Even, at Para 5.10 in the counter affidavit filed before this Court, it is pleaded by the Respondents that by appointing persons responsible for affairs of the Company, quality control, etc., 2nd Appellant – Managing Director cannot escape his liability from offences committed by 1st Appellant – Company. In view of the specific provision in the Act dealing with the offences by companies, which fixes the responsibility and the responsible person of the Company for conduct of its business, by making bald and vague allegations, 2nd Appellant – Managing Director cannot be prosecuted on vague allegation that he being the Managing Director of the 1st Appellant – Company, is overall responsible person for the conduct of the business of the Company and of quality control, etc. In the instant case, the Company has passed a resolution, fixing responsibility of one of the Managers namely Mr. Madhukar R. Gite by way of a resolution and the same was furnished to the respondents by the 2nd Appellant in shape of an undertaking on 22.01.2013. When furnishing of such undertaking fixing the responsibility of the quality control of the products is not in dispute, there is no reason or justification for prosecuting the 2nd Appellant – Managing Director, on the vague and spacious plea that he was the Managing Director of the Company at the relevant time. A reading of Section 33 of the Act also makes it clear that only responsible person of the Company, as well as the Company alone shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against. Though, the Managing Director is overall incharge of the affairs of the company, whether such officer is to be prosecuted or not, depends on the facts and circumstances of each case and the relevant provisions of law. Having regard to specific provision under Section 33 of the Act, and the undertaking filed in the present case, respondent cannot prosecute the 2nd Appellant herein. Thus, we find force in the contention of Mr. Sidharth Luthra, learned Senior Counsel, that allowing the prosecution against 2nd Appellant – Managing Director is nothing but, abuse of the process of law. At the same time, we do not find any ground at this stage to quash the proceedings against the 1st Appellant – Company"

12. He further submits that the Magistrate while issuing summons has failed to apply its mind as the impugned order is non-speaking order and the Hon'ble Apex Court in *Sunil Bharti Mittal v. Central Bureau of Investigation*⁵ deprecated this practice where the summons are being issued in most mechanical manner without applying mind, relevant paragraphs of which are quoted hereunder:-

"39. When the company is the offender, vicarious liability of the Directors cannot be imputed automatically, in the absence of any statutory provision to this effect. One such example is Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. In Aneeta Hada (supra), the Court noted that if a group of persons that guide the business of the company have the criminal intent, that would be imputed to the body corporate and it is in this backdrop, Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act has to be understood. Such a position is, therefore, because of statutory intendment making it a deeming fiction. Here also, the principle of "alter ego", was applied only in one direction namely where a group of persons that guide the business had criminal intent, that is to be imputed to the body corporate and not the vice versa. Otherwise, there has to be a specific act attributed to the Director or any other person allegedly in control and management of the company, to the effect that such a person was responsible for the acts committed by or on behalf of the company. This very principle is elaborated in various other judgments. We have already taken note of Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Co. Ltd. (supra) and S.K. Alagh (supra). Few other judgments reiterating this principle are the following:

1. Jethsur Surangbhai v. State of Gujarat

"9. With due respect what the High Court seems to have missed is that in a case like this where there was serious defalcation of the properties of the Sangh, unless the prosecution proved that there was a close cohesion and collusion between all the accused which formed the subject matter of a conspiracy, it would be difficult to prove the dual charges particularly against the appellant (A-1).

47. However, the words "sufficient grounds for proceeding" appearing in the Section are of immense importance. It is these words which amply suggest that an opinion is to be formed only after due application of mind that there is sufficient basis for proceeding against the said accused and formation of such an opinion is to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reason is given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is prima facie case against accused, though the order need not contain detailed reasons. A fortiori, the order would be bad in law if the reason given turns out to be ex facie incorrect.

48. However, there has to be a proper satisfaction in this behalf which should be duly recorded by the Special Judge on the basis of material on record. No such exercise is done. In this scenario, having regard to the aforesaid aspects coupled with the legal position explained above, it is difficult to sustain the impugned order dated 19.03.2013 in its present form insofar as it relates to implicating the appellants and summoning them as accused persons. The appeals arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 2961 of 2013 and SLP (Crl.) No. 3161 of 2013 filed by Mr. Sunil Bharti Mittal and Ravi Ruia respectively are, accordingly, allowed and order summoning these appellants is set aside. The appeals arising out of SLP (Crl.) Nos. 3326-3327 of 2013 filed by Telecom Watchdog are dismissed."

13. To further buttress his argument, learned counsel for the applicant relied on the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in *Mehmood Ul Rehman*⁶ wherein it has been held there must be sufficient indication in the order passed by the Magistrate that he is satisfied that the allegations in the complaint constitute an offence and when considered along with the statements recorded and the result of inquiry or report of investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C., if any, the accused is answerable before the criminal court, there is ground for proceeding against the accused under Section 204 Cr.P.C., by issuing process for appearance. The application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of *Birla Corporation Limited vs. Adventz Investments and Holdings Limited and others*⁷ has held that the order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. The application of mind has to be indicated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. Considering the duties on the part of the Magistrate for issuance of summons to accused in a complaint case and that there must be sufficient indication as to the application of mind and observing that the Magistrate is not to act as a post office in taking cognizance of the complaint.

14. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that the summons have been issued in a very mechanical manner without considering the fact that the applicant, who has resigned way back in 2009.

15. Per contra, learned AGA appears and submits that the complainant was competent to lodge the complaint as per

Act and after taking the sample one sample was handed over to the shop keeper and the second sample was sent for testing. He further submits that the averment of non-compliance of Section 23(4) and 25(3) of Drugs and Cosmetics Act was not taken in the pleadings. He further submits that the drug was of sub-standard, which would cause great health hazard to the patients, who are taking the medicine. He further submits that when the show cause notice was issued he did not deny that he is no more a director. He further submits that no letter of any competent authority was placed on record to show that the applicant had resigned as a director. He further submits that the directors are responsible for the conduct and act of the company and also for the sub-standard medicines, which were being manufactured and sold by the company.

16. In reply of the argument made by learned AGA, learned counsel for the applicant submits that it is always open for the applicant to raise any legal issues at any point of time. The provisions of Section 23 (4) of Drugs and Cosmetics Act were not followed, its a pure legal issue and it can be raised at any time. He further submitted that no show cause notice was ever upon the applicant and the same was only served upon the company and the company had informed the Drug Inspector that the applicant was no longer a director of the company.

17. I have carefully considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the respective parties. With the able assistance, I have perused the pleadings, affidavits and annexures thereto and the reply filed by concerned parties.

18. The plain reading of Section 23 (3) of Drugs and Cosmetics Act clearly shows that when an Inspector takes a sample of a drug or cosmetic for the purpose of test or analysis, he shall intimate such purpose in writing in the prescribed form to the person from whom he takes it and, in the presence of such person unless he wilfully absents himself, shall divide the sample into four portions and effectively seal and suitably mark the same and permit such person to add his own seal and mark to all or any of the portions so sealed and marked. Section 23 (4) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act further lays-down that the Inspector shall restore one portion of the sample to the person from whom he takes and the second sample should be sent to the Government and third should be produced in the Court before which the proceedings are initiated and the fourth would be sent to a person who are defined under Section 18 A of the Act.

19. It is evidently clear that the Inspector while taking the sample has not followed the mandatory provisions of Section 23 (3) and (4) of the Act. Moreover, from the record of the ROC it is clear that the applicant had resigned from the post of directorship of the company, M/S Elmac Remedies Pvt. Ltd. with effect from 01.06.2009. Since the alleged offence is said to have been committed and the samples were collected on 21.01.2013, at that point of time the applicant had nothing to do with the company neither he was involved in the affairs of the company nor was the in-charge or key personnel running the company. The applicant has no difficulty if the prosecution is continued against the company or the directors, who were responsible for the day to day affairs of the company. Asfar as the applicant is concerned, he was not a director, and hence, cannot be fastened with the liability of the company.

20. Considering the above facts and circumstances, it is clear that the proceeding initiated against the applicant under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act is a pure abuse of legal process, and to secure ends of justice the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.1036 of 2014 (State Vs. Yashpal Chail and others) under Sections 18/27 of the Drugs and Cosmetic Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Muzaffar Nagar pending in the Court of C.J.M., Muzaffarnagar are hereby quashed.

21 . The instant Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed.

 The applicants, Mukhiya Gurjar and others, filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash the charge-sheet and proceedings in Case No. 881 of 2001 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 352, 436 IPC and Section 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment

Act, Police Station Loni, District Ghaziabad, pending before the 5th Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate. The FIR alleged that the applicants, part of a mob, attacked a police outpost, set government property on fire, and attempted to harm police personnel, prompted by the police's alleged negligence in addressing local crimes like dacoity, murder, and rape. The applicants claimed the allegations were false, motivated by political rivalry targeting Samajwadi Party supporters, and unsupported by independent witnesses or injuries. The St. countered that the incident involved damage to government property, eight arrests on the spot, and sufficient evidence via police Statements to justify the charge-sheet. Held: The court, citing Pramod Kumar Vs St. (NCT) of Delhi (AIR 2013 SC 3344), Govindaraju Vs St. (AIR 2012 SC 1292), CBI Vs Ravi Shankar Srivastava (AIR 2006 SC 2872), Kamal Shivaji Pokarnekar Vs St. of Maharashtra (AIR 2019 SC 847), Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar Vs St. of Maharashtra (AIR 2019 SC 327), St. of Bihar Vs P.P. Sharma (1991 CrLJ 1438), and Kaptan Singh Vs St. of U.P. (AIR 2021 SC 3931), dismissed the application. The court held that a prima facie offense was established, and Section 482 powers cannot be used for roving inquiries into factual disputes or evidence sufficiency, which are matters for trial. The absence of injuries did not negate the offense under Section 307 IPC, and police testimony was deemed reliable absent contrary evidence. The court directed the trial court to proceed expeditiously.

9. Laxmi Raj Shetty Vs St. of T.N., AIR 1988 SC 1274

(Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dharendra Bahadur Singh, Advocate, holding brief of Sri K.K. Dwivedi learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Mithilesh Kumar, learned A.G.A for the State and perused the record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C has been moved by the applicants to quash the Charge-sheet and entire Criminal Proceeding of Case No. 881 of 2001 (State Versus Tak Chandra and others under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 352 and 436 I.P.C and 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Loni, District Ghaziabad, pending in the Court of 05th Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad.

3. The applicants has taken ground that the entire allegations of the F.I.R are totally false, fabricated and concocted. It is alleged in the F.I.R that some persons, who were armed with county made pistol, lathi, sticks, etc. attacked on the police chauki and destroyed by way of fire also but no person received any injury and no police constable or police employee was medically examined in any hospital. The present case is of no injury. Prior to the alleged incident the local public informed the concerned Chauki In-Charge regarding the incident of Dacoity, murder and rape in the concerned area, due to negligence of the local police. When the opposite party no. 2 did not consider the matter and did not take any necessary action, the local public organized/held a Panchayat headed by applicant no. 1, who was an active member and a strong supporter of Samajwadi Party, who had also contested Parliamentary elections two times from Baghpat Constituency and also participated in election of M.L.A. He was the President of All India Pathik Sena. In this regard a public meeting was held near the Police Chauki, in which an ultimatum regarding Dharana and hunger strike was also given to the higher authorities, due to which the opposite party no. 2 lodged a false report with some allegations against the applicants. Some News items were also published in Daily Amar Ujala and some others News Papers from which it is fully proved that due to the negligence of local police, the incidents had occurred in the concerned area. Several persons and several parties were also present, but the F.I.R has been lodged only against the applicants and some others, who belong to Samajwadi Party due to mala fide intention to save the opposite party no. 2 and some police personnels.
