15. A half hearted argument is also placed on record that allegation of firing was only on two applicants, however, learned counsel has missed that it was specific case of complainant as well as injured witness that all applicants have formed an unlawful assembly and have acted in furtherance of their common object. At this stage, the Court could not fracture the story, which has been supported by witnesses including two doctors. The last argument is that it was a counterblast case, as the applicants side has lodged an FIR of an occurrence against complainant side, which took place two days prior to present occurrence. However, this could not be a ground to reject a well reasoned order passed by learned Trial Court, who has meticulously examined the material on record to assign an opinion that there are sufficient ground to proceed.

16. Accordingly, all arguments raised by learned counsel for applicants have been dealt above and the Court is of considered opinion that they have no merit.

17. Accordingly, I do not find any reason to interfere with the impugned summoning order and therefore, present application is rejected.

4. Learned counsel for opposite party-2 has supported the impugned order that on basis of statements recorded during proceedings and after taking note that there are sufficient grounds to proceed against applicants, therefore, impugned order is passed whereby they were summoned.

5. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

6. It is clearly evident from statement of complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. that he has made sweeping general and omnibus allegations against all applicants including that they have stolen Rs. 70,000/- from his house. It is also evident from impugned order that trial Court has disbelieved allegations in regard to theft since applicants have not summoned under said offence as such substantial part of statements were found false, therefore, all witnesses have stated exaggerated version.

7. It was alleged that applicants have committed offence for causing hurt not only with complainant but her relatives also. No alleged injured was medically examined since no injury report was placed on record.

8. In regard to alleged offence of trespass, allegedly applicant no.1 has come to her matrimonial house along with her relatives and since on basis of above discussion, Court is of opinion that no offence of causing hurt is made out, therefore, offence of trespass is also not made out as it is alleged that after trespass, applicants have caused hurt to number of persons of complainant side.

9. So far as ingredients of Section 504 and 506 IPC are concerned, Court takes note of Mohammad Wajid and Another Vs. State of U.P. And Others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 951 and since their basic ingredients that there must be an 'alarm' as well as that nature of insult must be of such extent that complainant and his associates would be provoked to breach peace are missing as well as nature of insult or abusive language was also not disclosed by any witnesses, therefore, neither of said offences are made out. Admittedly, complainant's wife has filed various cases against complainant and his family members, therefore, it would be a reason for false implication of applicants being counterblast.

10. In aforesaid circumstances, since impugned order was passed only on basis of sweeping general and omnibus allegations against applicants who are 8 in numbers, therefore, in view of judgment of Supreme Court in Kahkashan Kausar @ Sonam and others vs. State of Bihar and others, (2022) 6 SCC 599 that in the absence of any specific role attributed to the accused, it would be unjust if they are forced to go through the tribulation of a trial i.e. general and omnibus allegations cannot manifest in a situation where relatives of complainant's wife are forced to undergo trial as well as in view of Achin Gupta vs. State of Haryana and another, 2024 0 INSC 369, I am of considered opinion that it is a fit case where inherent powers of this Court could be invoked.

11. Accordingly, impugned order dated 16.01.2024 passed by learned Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, Court-1, Kanpur Nagar in Case No. 911 of 2021 (Pankaj Kumar vs. Smt. Reha Sharma and others) under Sections 323, 504, 506, 452 IPC, Police Station- Bithur, District- Kanpur Nagar, pending before ACMM, Court-1, Kanpur Nagar and consequential proceedings thereof are hereby set aside.

12. In view of above, application is allowed.

13. Registrar (Compliance) to take steps.

5. Apex Court in Randheer Singh Vs St. of U.P. (2021) 14 SCC 626

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. As per office report dated 20.08.2024, notice has reportedly been served on opposite party no.2 personally.

2. Heard Sri Akshay Raj Singh, Advocate holding brief of Sri Pradeep Chandra, learned counsel for the applicants, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

3. In the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicants have prayed to quash the summoning order dated 20.04.2009 passed by Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun in Complaint Case No.70 of 2009, under Sections 307, 504, 506 IPC and Sections 3 (1) (x) of SC/ST Act P.S. Ait, District Jalaun and also to quash the entire proceedings in Complaint Case No.70 of 2009 with regard to said matter.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that opposite party no.2 Lala Ram filed a complaint case with averments that he belongs to scheduled caste category and he was working as a labourer in the field of Munni Babu, who is a co-villager. He was subjected to forced labour, day in and day out. In the intervening night of 17/18.04.2000 at 3:30 hours when opposite party no.2 was taking rest in Khalihan of Munni Babu, he asked him to come and do work whereupon he requested him for being permitted to have rest, then the accused, Munni Babu abused him by caste specific words, thereafter accused, Chandra Bhan alias Lalla, on being exhorted by Munni Babu took licensee gun of Munni Babu and fired at complainant which hit him on thigh and he became injured. Accused, Amar Singh and Kallu were also present there. They subsequently assaulted the complainant by butt of Rifle. The case was reported by his brother at police station but the report was not lodged in proper manner and charge sheet was filed wrongly under Section 338 IPC and that too against accused Chandrabhan @ Lalla only in which accused got himself saved by confessing the offence of Section 338 IPC after paying Rs.1,000/- as fine. The applicant stated that he was suffering from fire arm injuries received on his thigh and unable to walk.

4. He next submitted that on the similar facts F.I.R. was lodged on 14.04.2000 at the instance of one Raghubir, brother of the injured Lala Ram and same was registered vide Crime No. 40 of 2000, under Sections 307, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(1) (X) of SC/ST Act. However, the case under Section 307 IPC was not found to be made out during investigation and charge sheet was filed under Section 338 IPC against petitioner No.1 only. The said criminal case was decided on the basis of confession against one of the applicants viz Chandrabhan @ Lalla recorded by learned court below for charge under Section 338 IPC. The present complaint case has been filed only to make pressure on the accused persons after conclusion of police case instituted on same set of facts. He lastly submitted that the prosecution in the complaint case is abuse of process of law and deserves to be quashed.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer made in present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and submitted that the filing of complaint case after conclusion of police case instituted on same facts, has been duly explained by the complainant/injured in the complaint itself. The impugned summary order is legally and factually sound and just. It needs no interference in present proceedings.

7. From perusal of material on record, it appears that an FIR was lodged initially in the case at the instance of Raghubir son of Zalim Chamar against the accused Lalla @ Chandrabhan Niranjan, Amar Singh, Munni Babu and Kallu. The accused belonged to same family. The FIR was drawn on the basis of written report filed by the informant vide Crime No.40 of 2000 under Sections 307/504/506 IPC and Section 3(2)(V) of SC/ST (P.A.) Act, at Police Station Ait, District Jalaun at Orai in which an acquisition was made to the effect that on 17.04.2000 at around 3:30 am accused persons abused and intentionally insulted Lalaram, the real brother of the informant when he was taking rest in the agricultural field of accused persons accused Munni Babu and Chandrabhan Niranjan and when he tried to plead his stand that he was badly tired due to thrashing work and requested the accused persons to refrain from abusing, Munni Babu got enraged and exhorted Lalla @ Chandrabhan Niranjan to kill him. On being exhorted by Munni Babu, Lalla @ Chandrabhan Niranjan fired a shot at Lalaram by a licensed gun of Munni Babu which hit Lalaram and he fell down on earth. The accused persons also abused Lalaram with caste specific words. The incident was witnessed by Krishna Murari Chamar, Kailash and Ravi Shankar who came there on hearing sound of firing. The informant also reached there alongwith the said witnesses and Lalaram was rushed to Jhansi for treatment, thereafter he was referred to Gwalior where he had been admitted.

8. The informant lodged FIR on 19.04.2000 at 22:45 hours after returning from Gwalior. The police investigated the same and recorded statements of the informant and witnesses. During investigation the FIR version was not found reliable and the Investigating Officer concluded that the injured Lalaram was working at the place of accused Munni Babu for last six months. The injured Lalaram stated that when he sat down on being tired of work, on order of Munni Babu, Lala @ Chandrabhan Niranjan fired a shot at him and when he got injured, Munni Babu got him driven by tractor to a doctor at Ait where he was given first aid; he was taken to Jhansi where he was treated for few days, and thereafter he was rushed Gwalior where he was treated for four days. Accused Munni Babu bore the expenses of his treatment. Some witnesses stated to Investigating Officer that in fact two persons Lalaram and one Pratap Bahadur Singh from the side of the accused got injured as firearm kept by Chandrabhan @ Lala went off accidently. At the time of incident, harvesting was closed and Lalaram, Pratap Bahadur Singh and Chandrabhan were sleeping, suddenly the country made pistol possessed by Chandrabhan @ Lalla went off accidently which hit Lalaram on his thigh, and Pratap Bahadur Singh on his hand. The injuries of Lalaram and Pratap Bahadur Singh were not on vital part.

9. The Investigating Officer placed reliance on statements of independent witnesses Pappu Basor, Shiv Ram, Ravi Shankar and Kailash Chamar and concluded that none of the penal sections mentioned in FIR attracted against the accused persons, and complicity of only Chandrabhan @ Lala was found for charge under Section 338 IPC and accordingly chargesheet under Section 338 IPC was filed against Chandrabhan @ Lalla before the court on 20.04.2000. The accused Chandrabhan @ Lalla moved an application on 16.02.2001, expressing his desire to confess the guilt for said charge, which was allowed and statements of accused was recorded by learned Special Judicial Magistrate-II and on the basis of confession he was convicted of charge under Section 338 IPC and sentenced to Rs.1,000/- fine and 20 days' imprisonment in default, by order dated 16.02.2001 the criminal case arising out of said FIR Crime No.40/2000 P.S. Ait, District Jalaun concluded. The informant Raghubir assailed said order dated 16.02.2001 before court of session by filing a Criminal Revision before the Court of session and said Criminal Revision No.1998 of 2001 was dismissed by Special Judge EC Act, Jalaun at Orai vide order dated 22.11.2001 with observation that no interference is warranted in the impugned order passed by learned Magistrate while deciding the case on the basis of confession of accused. There is a separate procedure for enhancement of sentence. Any other order in the ends of justice can only be passed under Article 482 Cr.P.C. by Hon'ble High Court and the revision was dismissed with these observations.

10. Consequently the order dated 16.02.2001 passed by learned Magistrate was affirmed by court of session in Criminal Revision. The revisional order has now attained finality, as the informant perused no further remedy in the matter before any higher court.

11. About seven years of passing the above stated revisional order the injured/complainant Lalaram filed a Criminal Complaint before the Court of C.J.M. Jalaun, at Orai on 10.10.2007 against the same accused persons with regard to same incident. The allegations in the FIR lodged at the instance of Raghubir, the brother of the complainant and Criminal Complaint has been filed by the injured Lalaram based on same statement of facts and accusation. In nutshell, it can be said that the FIR lodged earlier and Criminal Complaint lodged after seven years thereof are based on same set of facts, allegations, offence and accused persons. The learned Magistrate recorded statement of complainant Lalaram under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and witnesses Smt. Savitri, wife of Lalaram and Ravi Shankar, the brother of Lalaram under Section 202 Cr.P.C., learned Magistrate vide order dated 20.04.2009 considered the allegations made in the complaint and statement of complainant and the two witnesses recorded in inquiry under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. summoned all the four accused persons after finding a prima facie case made out against them, to face trial for charge under Section 307, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3(X) SC/ST (P.A.)Act.

12. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned summoning order the accused persons have filed present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. If we look into the statutory provisions with regard to lodging of FIR and filing of complaint in respect of same offence the procedure is found under Section 210 of the Code of Criminal Procedure which may be reproduced as under:-

"210. Procedure to be when there is a complaint case and police investigation in respect of the same offence.

(1)When in instituted a case otherwise than on a police report (hereinafter referred to as a complaint case), it is made to appear to the Magistrate, during the course of the inquiry or trial held by him, that an investigation by the police is in progress in relation to the offence which is the subject-matter of the inquiry or trial held by him, the Magistrate shall stay the proceedings of such enquiry or trial and call for a report on the matter from the police officer conducting the investigation.

(2)If a report is made by the investigating police officer under section 173 and on such report cognizance of any offence is taken by the Magistrate against any person who is an accused in the complaint case, the Magistrate shall inquire into or try together the complaint case and the case arising out of the police report as if both the cases were instituted on a police report.

(3)If the police report does not relate to any accused in the complaint case or if the Magistrate does not take cognizance of any offence on the police report, he shall proceed with the inquiry or trial, which was stayed by him, in accordance with the provisions of this Code."

13. On perusal of aforementioned provision it is apparent that subs-section (1) applies where a complaint case is instituted during progress of police investigation in a case and sub-section (3) provides for proceeding the case as a complaint case where police report does not relate to an accused in the complaint case, or if the Magistrate does not take cognizance of any offence on the police report. In such a situation, the Magistrate consolidates both the cases together and proceed in the matter by observing procedure prescribed for complainant cases. In Session triable case, there is no distinction between a case instituted or a police report or on complaint, so far as trial is concerned and procedure prescribed for trial before the Court of session is applicable for both type of cases after committal of the case by a Magistrate concerned to court of Session for trial.

14. The present case was instituted on the basis of complaint of injured although for altogether different offences in distinction to offence found in chargesheet filed after investigation into said FIR and concluded by order dated 16.02.2001 passed by learned Magistrate on the basis of conviction of chargesheeted accused Chandrabhan @ Lalla for charge under Section 338 IPC and when complaint was filed no police case was pending. The present complaint which has been assailed by the accused persons in present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was filed after six years and eight months of conclusion of earlier police case based on same accusations.

15. On conclusion of police case by by order of Magistrate on the basis of conviction, sole accused and no plausible explanation has been found in complaint or in statement of the complainant and witnesses for such an inordinate delay. The complainant has stated in complaint itself that he was not aware of proceedings of the court of Magistrate regarding filing of chargesheet under Section 338 IPC.after investigation of case instituted on the basis of investigation carried out in FIR lodged at the instance of his brother Raghubir. He has stated that he came to know about order of learned Magistrate-II regarding closure of case on the basis of conviction under Section 338 IPC. On 06.08.2007 when he filed an application before the Court of Magistrate concerned seeking progress of the case; which is inconceivable as the informant Rabhubir filed a Criminal Revision before the court of session against the order dated 16.02.2001 passed by learned Magistrate without any delay, which was decided by the Court concerned by order dated 22.11.2001 and no interference was made in the impugned order passed by learned Magistrate in said police case.

16. After a lapse of period of six years on dismissal of Criminal Revision preferred by the informant who is none other than the real brother of the complainant the present complaint has been filed.

17. This Court is not oblivious of settled proposition of law that even after acceptance of closure report filed by Investigating Officer, after investigation of the case, the informant /aggrieved person can file a criminal complaint before the competent Magistrate.

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in a recent case Zunaid Vs. State of U.P. and others in Criminal Appeal Nos. 2628-2629 of 2023 observed as under:-

> …….11. In view of the above, there remains no shadow of doubt that on the receipt of the police report under Section 173

Cr.P.C., the Magistrate can exercise three options. Firstly, he may decide that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding further and drop action. Secondly, he may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(b) on the basis of the police report and issue process; and thirdly, he may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a) on the basis of the original complaint and proceed to examine upon oath the complainant and his witnesses under Section 200. It may be noted that even in a case where the final report of the police under Section 173 is accepted and the accused persons are discharged, the Magistrate has the power to take cognizance of the offence on a complaint or a Protest Petition on the same or similar allegations even after the acceptance of the final report. As held by this Court in Gopal Vijay Verma Vs. Bhuneshwar Prasad Sinha and Others*, as followed in* B. Chandrika Vs. Santhosh and Another, a Magistrate is not debarred from taking cognizance of a complaint merely on the ground that earlier he had declined to take cognizance of the police report. No doubt a Magistrate while exercising his judicial discretion has to apply his mind to the contents of the Protest Petition or the complaint as the case may be.

19. However, the facts of present case are distinguishable from the facts of the case in which Hon'ble Supreme Court made above observations, as in the present case the police had not submitted closure report after investigation of the case lodged at the instance of the informant Raghubir and filed chargesheet against one of the named accused persons for charge under Section 338 IPC, which is a minor offence and complicity of other accused persons was not found in the offence. The complaint itself has been filed after lapse of a period of seven years of the conclusion of the case on the basis of police report and subsequent dismissal of revision preferred by the informant against final order passed by learned Magistrate. The revisional order has not been challenged before any superior court by the informant/defacto complainant. In as much as, fact of filing of Criminal Revision by the informant in police case and dismissal of the Revision by court concerned has been concealed in complaint case instituted by the complainant/ respondent No.2.

20. In these facts and circumstances, I am of the considered opinion that the complaint was not maintainable after lapse of six years of decision in Criminal Revision preferred against the order of Magistrate dated 16.02.2001.

21. The petitioner/applicants have invoked indulgence of this Court in exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. vested in this Court. The scope of exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. by the High Court has been discussed and circumscribed by Hon'ble Apex Court in a number of judicial precedents.

22. The law in regard to inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is discussed hereinafter :-

"Inherent Power of the High Court under Section 482 Criminal Procedure Code 1973 :-

(I) "Inherent Power" of the High Court under Section 482

Cr.P.C., an extraordinary power is with purpose and object of advancement of justice, which is to be exercised "to give effect to any order under the Cr.P.C.", or "to prevent abuse of process of any Court", or "to secure ends of justice", making arena of the power very wide, yet it is to be exercised sparingly, with great care and with circumspection, that too in the rarest of rare case.

(II) It is no more res integra that exercise of inherent power could be invoked to even quash a criminal proceeding/First Information Report/complaint /chargesheet, but only when allegation made therein does not constitute ingredients of the offence/offences and /or are frivolous and vexatious on their face, without looking into defence evidence, however such power should not be exercised to stifle or cause sudden death of any legitimate prosecution. Inherent power does not empower the High Court to assume role of a trial court and to embark upon an enquiry as to reliability of evidence and sustainability of accusation, specifically in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy. Similarly quashing of criminal proceedings by assessing the statements under section 161 Cr.P.C. at initial stage is nothing but scuttling a full fledged trial.

(III) There can not be any straight jacket formula for regulating the inherent power of this Court, however the Supreme Court has summarised and illustrated some categories in which this power could be exercised in catena of judgments. Some of them are State of Haryana Vs Bhajan Lal : 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335, Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd Vs Mohd Sharaful Haque: (2005) 1 SCC 122, Ahmed Ali Quarashi and Anr Versus The State of Uttar Pradesh : 2020 SCC Online SC 107, Joseph Salvaraja A v. State of Gujarat (2011) 7 SCC 59, Sushil Sethi and another Vs The State of Arunachal Pradesh and others (2020) 3 SCC, 240, Priti Saraf and Anr Vs State of NCT of Delhi and Anr : 2021 SCC Online SC 206. Some categories/ circumstances as illustrations but not exhaustive are : allegations made in FIR / complaint, if are taken at their face value and accepted do not prima facie constitute any offence or are so absurd and inherently improbable to make out any case or no cognizable offence is disclosed against the accused, criminal proceedings is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive and with a view to spite the accused due to private and personal grudge, or where there is a specific legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or in the concerned Act to the institution and continuance of the proceedings or when dispute between the parties constitute only a civil wrong and not a criminal wrong, further Courts would not permit a person to be harassed although no case for taking cognizance of the offence has been made out.

(IV) In Sau. Kamal Shivaji Pokarnekar v. The State of Maharashtra : (2019) 14 SCC 350*, the Apex Court has laid emphasis on the principles laid down in two of its previous judgements namely,* State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa : 2015 (3) SCC 424 and Indian Oil Corporation v. NEPC India Ltd. & Ors.: (2006)6 SCC 736 and held that quashing of criminal proceedings is called for only when the complaint does not disclose any offence, or the complaint is frivolous, vexatious, or oppressive and further clarified that defences available during a trial and facts/aspects whose establishment during the trial may lead to acquittal cannot form the basis of quashing a criminal complaint. The criminal complaints cannot be quashed only on the ground that the allegations made therein appear to be of a civil nature, if the ingredients of the alleged offence are prima facie made out in the complaint.

(V) The Supreme Court in M/s Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd Versus State of Maharashtra and Others : (2020) 10 SCC 118*, has categorically held that High Court is not justified in passing the order of not to arrest and or no coercive steps either during the investigation or till the final report/ charge sheet is filed under Section 173 Cr.P.C., while dismissing/disposing petition under Section 482Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution and even in exceptional cases where High Court is of the opinion that a prima facie case is made out for stay of further investigation,such order has to be with brief reasons, though such orders should not be passed routinely, casually and/or mechanically.*

(VI) Whether the allegations are true or untrue, would have to be decided in the trial. In exercise of power under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C., the Court does not examine the correctness of the allegations in a complaint except in exceptionally rare cases where it is patently clear that the allegations are frivolous or do not disclose any offence. (see Ramveer Upadhyay & Anr. versus State of U.P. & Anr. 2022 SCC Online SC 484)

(VII) "A careful reading of the complaint, the gist of which we have extracted above would show that none of the ingredients of any of the offences complained against the appellants are made out. Even if all the averments contained in the complaint are taken to be true, they do not make out any of the offences alleged against the appellants. Therefore, we do not know how an FIR was registered and a charge-sheet was also filed.....It is too late in the day to seek support from any precedents, for the proposition that if no offence is made out by a careful reading of the complaint, the complaint deserves to be quashed." (See, Wyeth Limited & others vs, State of Bihar & another, Criminal Appeal No.1224 of 2022 (Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No.10730 OF 2018), decided on 11th August, 2022)."

23. Hon'ble Supreme Court in a recent judgment A.M. Mohan Vs. The State represented by SHO and another reported in 2024 SCC Online SC 339 (three Judge Bench) considered the scope of Section 482 Cr.P.C. while deciding the appeal challenging the order passed by learned Single Judge of the High Court of Madras on an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the Hon'ble Court observed as under:-

> …….9. The law with regard to exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 of Cr.P.C. to quash complaints and criminal proceedings has been succinctly summarized by this Court in the case of Indian Oil Corporation v. NEPC India 10 Limited and Others after considering the earlier precedents. It will be apposite to refer to the following observations of this Court in the said case, which read thus:
> "12. The principles relating to exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to quash complaints and criminal proceedings have been stated and reiterated by this Court in several decisions. To mention a few— Madhavrao Jiwajirao Scindia v. Sambhajirao Chandrojirao Angre [(1988) 1 SCC 692 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 234] , State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , Rupan Deol Bajaj v. Kanwar Pal Singh Gill [(1995) 6 SCC 194 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 1059] , Central Bureau of Investigation v. Duncans Agro Industries Ltd. [(1996) 5 SCC 591 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 1045] , State of Bihar v. Rajendra Agrawalla [(1996) 8 SCC 164 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 628] , Rajesh Bajaj v. State NCT of Delhi [(1999) 3 SCC 259 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 401] , Medchl Chemicals & Pharma (P) Ltd. v. Biological E. Ltd. [(2000) 3 SCC 269 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 615] , Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma v. State of Bihar [(2000) 4 SCC 168 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 786] , M. Krishnan v. Vijay Singh [(2001) 8 SCC 645 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 19] and Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. v. Mohd. Sharaful Haque [(2005) 1 SCC 122 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 283] . The principles, relevant to our purpose are:
> (i) A complaint can be quashed where the allegations made in the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out the case alleged against the accused.
>
> For this purpose, the complaint has to be examined as a whole, but without examining the merits of the allegations. Neither a detailed inquiry nor a meticulous analysis of the material nor an assessment of the reliability or genuineness of the allegations in the complaint, is warranted while examining prayer for quashing of a complaint.
> (ii) A complaint may also be quashed where it is a clear abuse of the process of the court, as when the criminal proceeding is found to have been initiated with mala fides/malice for wreaking vengeance or to cause harm, or where the allegations are absurd and inherently improbable.

(iii) The power to quash shall not, however, be used to stifle or scuttle a legitimate prosecution. The power should be used sparingly and with abundant caution.

(iv) The complaint is not required to verbatim reproduce the legal ingredients of the offence alleged. If the necessary factual foundation is laid in the complaint, merely on the ground that a few ingredients have not been stated in detail, the proceedings should not be quashed. Quashing of the complaint is warranted only where the complaint is so bereft of even the basic facts which are absolutely necessary for making out the offence.

(v) A given set of facts may make out: (a) purely a civil wrong; or (b) purely a criminal offence; or (c) a civil wrong as also a criminal offence. A commercial transaction or a contractual dispute, apart from furnishing a cause of action for seeking remedy in civil law, may also involve a criminal offence. As the nature and scope of a civil proceeding are different from a criminal proceeding, the mere fact that the complaint relates to a commercial transaction or breach of contract, for which a civil remedy is available or has been availed, is not by itself a ground to quash the criminal proceedings. The test is whether the allegations in the complaint disclose a criminal offence or not.

24. Hon'ble Apex Court further observed that there is nothing in the words of section 482 Cr.P.C. which restricts the exercise of the power of the Court to prevent the abuse of process of court or miscarriage of justice only to the stage of the FIR. It is settled principle of law that the High Court can exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC even when the discharge application is pending with the trial court [G. Sagar Suri v. State of U.P., (2000) 2 SCC 636].

25. Hon'ble Supreme Court in a recent judgment Naresh Kumar and another Vs. The State of Karnataka and another reported in 2024 SCC Online SC 268 arising out of SLP (Crl.) No.1570 of 2021 observed as under:-

.....6. In the case of Paramjeet Batra v. State of Uttarakhand (2013) 11 SCC 673, Hon'ble Supreme Court recognized that although the inherent powers of a High Court under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure should be exercised sparingly, yet the High Court must not hesitate in quashing such criminal proceedings which are essentially of a civil nature. This is what was held:

"12. While exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code the High Court has to be cautious. This power is to be used sparingly and only for the purpose of preventing abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure ends of justice. Whether a complaint discloses a criminal offence or not depends upon the nature of facts alleged therein. Whether essential ingredients of criminal offence are present or not has to be judged by the High Court. A complaint disclosing civil transactions may also have a criminal texture. But the High Court must see whether a dispute which is essentially of a civil nature is given a cloak of criminal offence. In such a situation, if a civil remedy is available and is, in fact, adopted as has happened in this case, the High Court should not hesitate to quash the criminal proceedings to prevent abuse of process of the court." (emphasis supplied)

26. Relying upon the decision in Paramjeet Batra (supra), Apex Court in Randheer Singh v. State of U.P. (2021) 14 SCC 626, observed that criminal proceedings cannot be taken recourse to as a weapon of harassment. In Usha Chakraborty & Anr. v. State of West Bengal & Anr. 2023 SCC OnLine SC 90, relying upon Paramjeet Batra (supra) it was again held that where a dispute which is essentially of a civil nature, is given a cloak of a criminal offence, then such disputes can be quashed, by exercising 8 the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure."

27. Considering the submissions of learned counsel for the applicants and learned A.G.A. on behalf of State and keeping in the light facts and circumstances of the present case and above stated judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court; on the basis of foregoing discussion, I am of the considered opinion that filing of instant complaint case and issuance of summoning order thereon by learned Magistrate amounts to abuse of process of law, as this is tantamount to reopening of a case based on same allegations which has already been concluded on the basis of police report by orders of the Court, around seven years before. The petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. stands allowed and impugned summoning order dated 20.04.2009 as well as the entire proceedings in said complaint case are hereby quashed.

Criminal Law-The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881-Sections 138 & 142(1)(b)- to constitute the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act, the cheque must be presented for encashment within its validity period and after the receipt of intimation with regard to dishonor of the cheque, the holder of the cheque is required to issue demand notice within a period of 30 days from the date of intimation of dishonor of the cheque and after the legal demand notice is issued and served on the drawer of the cheque, the holder of the cheque is required to wait for a period of 15 days. When after expiry of 15 days, the demand notice is not complied with by the drawer of the cheque only then the cause of action of filing the complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act would arise. Thereafter, the complainant has a further period of one month in terms of Section 142(1)(b) for filing the complaint. (Para 7) (E-15)

List of Cases cited:

Mamta Gautam Vs St.of U.P. passed in Criminal Revision No. 530 of 1998 dated 2.5.2000

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Man Mohan Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Rajeev Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking quashing of the entire criminal proceedings of Complaint Case No. 1397 of 2021 (Rajveer Singh vs. Dinesh Kumar) under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, Police Station-Jaithra, District-Etah as well as order dated 16.08.2022.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant relying upon the judgement of the Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Mamta Gautam vs. State of U.P. passed in Criminal Revision No. 530 of 1998 dated 2.5.2000 has vehemently submitted that the instant complaint case filed by the opposite party no. 2 is time barred as the legal demand notice was sent on 18.2.2021 which was served on 19.2.2021 on the applicant, therefore the complaint ought to have been filed within one month from the date of service of notice. However, in the instant case the complaint was filed on 2.4.2021 which is beyond the period of one month from the date of service of notice, therefore, learned counsel for the applicant seeks quashing of the entire proceedings of the instant case.

4. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submits that in terms of Section 142 (1)(b) of N.I. Act, the complainant has one month's time to file the complaint under Section 138 of N.I. Act from the date when the cause of action arises for filing such complaint and the cause of action for filing the complaint would arise only after the expiry of 15 days period from the date of service of demand notice on the drawer of the cheque. In the instant case, demand notice was served on 19.02.2021, therefore, the cause of action for filing the complaint would arise after the expiry of 15 days period from 19.02.2021 i.e. 7.03.2021 and from 07.03.2021 the complainant had the time of one month to file the complaint and in the instant case the complaint has already been filed within the period of limitation i.e. on 02.04.2021. In view thereof, learned A.G.A. submits that no interference is called for in the instant matter.

5. Having heard the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the record of the case.

6. From the record of the case, it is apparent that the cheque was allegedly issued by the applicant herein on 18.10.2020 and 20.10.2020. The aforesaid cheques were presented for encashment on 21.01.2021 which were dishonored on 22.01.2021 with the remark 'payment stopped by the drawer'. Thereafter, on 18.2.2021 legal demand notice was issued by the opposite party no.2 which was served on 19.2.2021 upon the applicant herein, thereupon the complaint was filed on 02.04.2021. To appreciate the submissions made by learned counsel for the applicant, it is relevant to take note of the provisions of Section 138 and 142(1)(b) of the Negotiable Instruments Ac, 1881, which are reproduced herein as under:-

> "138. Dishonour of cheque for insufficiency, etc., of funds in the account*.?Where any* cheque drawn by a person on an account maintained by him with a banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability, is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with that bank, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence and shall, without prejudice to any other provision of this Act, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may be extended to two years', or with fine which may extend to twice the amount of the cheque, or with both:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply unless?

(a) the cheque has been presented to the bank within a period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity, whichever is earlier;

(b) the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque, as the case may be, makes a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice; in writing, to the drawer of the cheque, within thirty days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid; and

(c) the drawer of such cheque fails to make the payment of the said amount of money to the payee or, as the case may be, to the holder in due course of the cheque, within fifteen days of the receipt of the said notice.

Explanation.?For the purposes of this section, "debt of other liability" means a legally enforceable debt or other liability.

142. Cognizance of offences.?(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974),?*

(a) no court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under section 138 except upon a complaint, in writing, made by the payee or, as the case may be, the holder in due course of the cheque;

(b) such complaint is made within one month of the date on which the cause of action arises under clause (c) of the proviso to section 138:

Provided that the cognizance of a complaint may be taken by the Court after the prescribed period, if the complainant satisfies the Court that he had sufficient cause for not making a complaint within such period;

(c) no court inferior to that of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Judicial Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence punishable under section 138.

(2) The offence under section 138 shall be inquired into and tried only by a court within whose local jurisdiction,?

(a) if the cheque is delivered for collection through an account, the branch of the bank where the payee or holder in due course, as the case may be, maintains the account, is situated; or

(b) if the cheque is presented for payment by the payee or holder in due course, otherwise through an account, the branch of the drawee bank where the drawer maintains the account, is situated.

Explanation.?For the purposes of clause (a), where a cheque is delivered for collection at any branch of the bank of the payee or holder in due course, then, the cheque shall be deemed to have been delivered to the branch of the bank in which the payee or holder in due course, as the case may be, maintains the account."

7. From the plain reading of the aforesaid provisions, it is apparent that to constitute the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act, the cheque must be presented for encashment within its validity period and after the receipt of intimation with regard to dishonor of the cheque, the holder of the cheque is required to issue demand notice within a period of 30 days from the date of intimation of dishonor of the cheque and after the legal demand notice is issued and served on the drawer of the cheque, the holder of the cheque is required to wait for a period of 15 days. When after expiry of 15 days, the demand notice is not complied with by the drawer of the cheque only then the cause of action of filing the complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act would arise. Thereafter, the complainant has a further period of one month in terms of Section 142(1)(b) for filing the complaint.

8. In view of the aforesaid observations, the observation made by Coordinate Bench of this Court in Mamta Gautam (supra) that "under Clause (b) of Section 142, Negotiable Instruments Act, the complaint can be filed within a period of one month, from the date of service of the notice" is in the considered opinion of this Court, per incuriam as language of Section 142(1)(b) is categorically clear which says that one month period for filing the complaint will start when the cause of action arises under clause (c) of the proviso to Section 138 of N.I. Act.

9. In view thereof, the instant application lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed.

(Criminal Law- The Code of Criminal Procedure-1973-Section-437(6)- Section 437 Cr.P.C. itself goes to show that any person accused of any non-bailable offence triable by Magistrate, is entitled to be released on bail, if in case the trial is not concluded within a period of 60 days from the first date fixed for taking evidence in the case, the satisfaction of the Magistrate has to be recorded while passing the order releasing such an accused on bail, however in case the Magistrate directs otherwise, reasons have to be recorded in writing. In present facts of the case Magistrate while rejecting the application of the applicant has given detailed reasons for the same. (Para 7)

Result Application u/s 482 CrPC rejected. (E-15)

1. Arvind Kumar Vs St. of U.P., order dated 08.01.2010 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 31262 of 2009

2. Saurabh Singh Chandel Vs St. of U.P., Neutral Citation No.2021:AHC:81934

3. Suresh Verma Vs St.of U.P. & anr., Neutral Citation No.2013:AHC:40699

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Sheshadri Trivedi, learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan, learned AGA-I for the State.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to set aside the impugned order dated 31.05.2024 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Banda as well as the entire proceeding of Crl. Case No. 7658 of 2023 (State of U.P. Vs. Roshan Singh) arising out of Case Crime No. 531 of 2023, under sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Banda, pending against the applicant in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate Banda, District Banda.

3. As per the allegations in the FIR lodged by Poonam Gupta; Principal, Arya Kanya Inter College, Kotwali Nagar, Banda, when the re-examination 2018 for the post of Village Development Officer was going on, in the second meeting on 26.06.2023 at about 04:20 pm, a call was received from the Control Room, Lucknow regarding examination room no. 4 informing that the bio-metric of one Ranjan Gupta was found suspicious. On the aforesaid, a team was constituted for checking, in which the person sitting in place of Ranjan Gupta was found to be Roshan Singh, whose photograph and bio-metric fingerprint did not match with the admit card of the original candidate Ranjan Gupta. Information about the same was sent to the Commission conducting the examination, on the basis of which, an FIR has been lodged.

4. The applicant was arrested and he filed bail application No. 34031 of 2023, which has been rejected by this Court, vide order dated 22.02.2024. After investigation charge sheet was submitted on 19.08.2023, thereafter the case was committed and charges under sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC were framed against the applicant by order dated 05.09.2023 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Banda, 19.09.2023 was the first date fixed for leading of evidence by the prosecution fixing 04.10.2023 as the next date. The witness of prosecution did not appear on any of the dates and period of more than 8 months elapsed without producing a single witness, thus the application dated 13.05.2024 was filed on behalf of applicant before the learned trial court as the trial of the present case has not been concluded within more than a period of eight months since first date fixed for taking evidence in the case i.e. 19.09.2023, hence the applicant may enlarged on bail in accordance with provision of section 437(6) of the Cr.P.C. The aforesaid application has been rejected by order dated 31.05.2024, hence the present petition has been filed.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant is entitled to be released on bail under section 437(6) of Cr.P.C. due to reason that the trial could not conclude within 60 days from the first date fixed for taking prosecution evidence. He further submits that the provisions of section 437(6) Cr.P.C. are mandatory in nature and only in exceptional circumstances for the reasons to be recorded a bail prayer may be refused under section 437(6) Cr.P.C. The applicant is jail since 29.06.2023. The first date fixed for prosecution evidence was 19.09.2023 and since then the trial is pending with no logical progress and only one witness i.e. PW-1 Pushpa Singh who appeared before the learned trial court on 24.05.2024 has been examined and her cross examination was also concluded on the same day. In support of his submission he has relied upon judgement and orders passed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court in case of Arvind Kumar Vs. State of U.P., passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 31262 of 2009 vide order dated 08.01.2010, in case of Saurabh Singh Chandel vs. State of U.P., Neutral Citation No.2021:AHC:81934. Relying upon the judgment of this Court in case of Suresh Verma Vs. State of U.P. and Anr., Neutral Citation No.2013:AHC:40699, learned counsel for the applicant submits that the court below has rejected the application without considering the mandatory requirement of the provision u/s 437(6) Cr.P.C. The applicant is in jail since 29.06.2023. It is also not disputed that the first date fixed for taking prosecution evidence was 19.09.2023 and the trial has not been concluded within 60 days from that date. Thus as per the provision of section 437(6) Cr.P.C., in non bailable offence, if the trial is not concluded from the first date fixed for evidence such person is entitled to be released on bail and thus the application has been illegally rejected by the order impugned.

6. The learned AGA on the other submits that in the present case it would be appropriate to quote 437 (6) Cr.P.C. prior to preceding with the arguement with the case, which is as follows:-

> "437. When bail may be taken in case of non-bailable offence.
> (1) When any person accused of, or suspected of, the commission of any non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a police station or appears or is brought before a Court other than the High Court or Court of Session, he may be released on bail, but ---
> (6) If, in any case triable by a Magistrate, the trial of a person accused of any non-bailable offence is not concluded within a period of sixty days from the first date fixed for taking evidence in the case, such person shall, if he is in custody during the whole of the said period, be released on bail, to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, unless for reasons to be recorded in writing, the Magistrate otherwise directs."

7. He further submits that bare reading of section 437 Cr.P.C. itself goes to show that any person accused of any non-bailable offence triable by Magistrate, is entitled to be released on bail, if in case the trial is not concluded within a period of 60 days from the first date fixed for taking evidence in the case, the satisfaction of the Magistrate has to be recorded while passing the order releasing such an accused on bail, however in case the Magistrate directs otherwise, reasons have to be recorded in writing. In present facts of the case Magistrate while rejecting the application of the applicant has given detailed reasons for the same.

8. Even otherwise, the bail application of the applicant has already been rejected by order dated 22.02.2024, therefore, the present case amounts to second bail application, thus the judgments as relied upon by the counsel for the applicant are not applicable in present facts of the case as they are silent about the situation where first bail application of the applicant is rejected.

9. In view of the above, the aforesaid prayer as made by learned counsel for the applicant for setting aside the order impugned is refused and the application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is rejected accordingly.

8. Dharmraj Vs Shanmugam & ors. decided on 8th September 2022 in Crl. Appeal Nos. 1515-1516 of 2022

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ram Raj Pandey, learned counsel for the applicants, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. Both applications are arising out of same summoning order, same proceedings and informants are co-accused in the same criminal case, hence both the applications are being heard and decided by a common judgment.

3. By means of instant application filed under section 482 Cr.P.C. the applicants have assailed same cognizance order, summoning order dated 10.03.2010 passed by Judicial Magistrate, Baghpat and has also prayed for quashing the entire proceedings of S.T. No.497 of 2010 arising out of Case Crime No.294 of 2009, under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 307 IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act, Police Station Balainee, District Baghpat (State Vs. Raju @ Rajkumar and others).

4. According to prosecution version, the informant- Smt. Rinki @ Guddi, (respondent No.2) lodged the first information report at Police Station concerned on 9.11.2009 with averments that she was married with Monu S/o Gulab Giri on 17.6.2009, in which her father given sufficient gifts and dowry up to his financial capacity. Unfortunately, after three months of marriage, in the night of 12/13.9.2009 her husband died. An offer was made by her father-in-law to her father to re-marry the informant with his other son Raju @ Rajkumar due to death of her husband and her marriage was solemnized with Raju @ Rajkumar on 18.9.2009. However, after her marriage with Raju @ Rajkumar, her husband and parents-in-laws started harassing for non fulfilment of dowry, she narrated her story to her parents and her brother when he came to meet her on 10.01.2009. Her father and family members tried to convinced the persons not to harass her but they did not pay any heed and continued with demand of dowry and on 8.11.2009 11.00 A.M. when she was in her parental house, her husband Raju @ Raj Kumar, parents-in-law and brother-in-law Sonu visited her house and in absence of her parents and family members, who had gone to see paddy crops, they abused, her husband and mother-in-law tried to commit murder by a rope tied around her neck, her father-in-law, brother-in-law assaulted her by a knife and stick, the witnesses came at the place of occurrence to hear her cries and saved her. She got her medical examination at Government Hospital. The police, after investigation filed charge sheet against the applicants under sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 307 IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that during pendency of the present applications, under Section 482 Cr.P.C before this Court, parties wished at compromise and this fact has been brought to the notice of this Court in compliance of the order dated 12.4.2024 by this Court, a compromise deed was filed before the court concerned i.e. Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Baghpat and learned court below has verified the compromise on 11.6.2024 and passed an order in this regard. A certified coy of this order dated 11.6.2024 has already been filed with the present application. Therefore, the matter may kindly be decided on the basis of compromise and proceedings pending before the court below may be quashed in the light of the compromise agreed by the complainant and accused persons. He lastly submitted that dispute between the parties being essentially matrimonial in nature and this is in the interest of justice and family peace the proceedings of trial court be quashed accordingly.

6. Per contra, learned AGA submits that the applicants are prosecuted in a case under sections 498A, 323, 504, 506, 307 IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act before the Sessions Court and charge under section 307 IPC of being serious in nature and proceedings against the applicants should not be quashed on the basis of compromise. However, it is admitted fact that this Court can exercise its power under Section 482 Cr.P.C to scuttle the proceeding, on the basis of compromise even in non-compoundable offences but where the offences are serious and heinous in nature which affects the society at large then this Court should not quash the proceedings pending against the accused persons on the basis of compromise arrived between the parties.

7. From perusal of the first information report itself appears that informant had not suffered any serious injury in the hands of accused persons. She herself visited the police station to lodge the FIR.

8. The Apex Court in catena of judgements held that this Court can exercise its power vested under section 482 Cr.P.C. beyond the boundaries of Section 320 Cr.P.C. which states that only compoundable offence can be compounded and this Court can even quash the proceedings relate to non-compoundable offences on the basis of the compromise executed between the parties but at the same time Apex Court cautioned that the proceeding of serious and heinous offences which affects the society at large, should not be quashed on the basis of compromise executed between the parties.

9. The three Judges Bench of the Apex Court in Gian Singh Vs. Punjab, reported in (2012)10 SCC 303 discussed the circumstances very elaborately and held that this Court can quash the proceedings in the cases of non-compoundable offences on the basis of settlement arrived at between the parties and observed as follow:-

> "58. Where the High Court quashes a criminal proceeding having regard to the fact that the dispute between the offender and the victim has been settled although the offences are not compoundable, it does so as in its opinion, continuation of criminal proceedings will be an exercise in futility and justice in the case demands that the dispute between the parties is put to an end and peace is restored; securing the ends of justice being the ultimate guiding factor. No doubt, crimes are acts which have harmful effect on the public and consist in wrongdoing that seriously endangers and threatens the well-being of the society and it is not safe to leave the crime-doer only because he and the victim have settled the dispute amicably or that the victim has been paid compensation, yet certain crimes have been made compoundable in law, with or without the permission of the court. In respect of serious offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc., or other offences of mental depravity under IPC or offences of moral turpitude under special statutes, like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity, the settlement between the offender and the victim can have no legal sanction at all. However, certain offences which overwhelmingly and predominantly bear civil flavour having arisen out of civil, mercantile, commercial, financial, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony, particularly relating to dowry, etc. or the family dispute, where the wrong is basically to the victim and the offender and the victim have settled all disputes between them amicably, irrespective of the fact that such offences have not been made compoundable, the High Court may within the framework of its inherent power, quash the criminal proceeding or criminal complaint or FIR if it is satisfied that on the face of such settlement, there is hardly any likelihood of the offender being convicted and by not quashing the criminal proceedings, justice shall be casualty and ends of justice shall be defeated. The above list is illustrative and not exhaustive. Each case will depend on its own facts and no hard-and-fast category can be prescribed".

10. In Nareinder Singh Vs. State of Punjab reported in (2014) 9 SCC 466, the Supreme Court held that in case of heinous and serious offences, which are generally to be treated as crime against society, it is the duty of the State to punish the offender. Hence, even when there is a settlement, the view of the offender will not prevail since it is in the interest of society that the offender should be punished to deter others from committing a similar crime.

11. The Three Judges Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Parbatbhai Aahir Alias Parbathbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and Others V. State of Gujrat and Another reported in [(2017) 9 SCC 641], after discussing its earlier judgements observed as follows:-

"16. The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject, may be summarised in the following propositions:

16.1. Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognises and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court.

16.2. The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a first information report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

16.3. In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power.

16.4. While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised (i) to secure the ends of justice, or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court.

16.5. The decision as to whether a complaint or first information report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated.

16.6. In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences.

16.7. As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing insofar as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned.

16.8. Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute.

16.9. In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and 16.10. There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions 16.8. and 16.9. above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the State have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanor. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

12. The Three Judge Bench of the Apex Court in State of Madhya Pradesh V. Laxmi Narayan & Ors. reported in (2019) 5 SCC 688 laid down the following principles:-

> 15. Considering the law on the point and the other decisions of this Court on the point, referred to hereinabove, it is observed and held as under:
> 15.1. That the power conferred under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings for the non-compoundable offences under Section 320 of the Code can be exercised having overwhelmingly and predominantly the civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes and when the parties have resolved the entire dispute amongst themselves;
> 15.2. Such power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involved heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society;
> 15.3. Similarly, such power is not to be exercised for the offences under the special statutes like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender;
> 15.4. Offences under Section 307 IPC and the Arms Act, etc. would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone, and therefore, the criminal proceedings for the offence under Section 307 IPC and/or the Arms Act, etc. which have a serious impact on the society cannot be quashed in exercise of powers under Section 482 of the Code, on the ground that the parties have resolved their entire dispute amongst themselves. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to framing the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delicate parts of the body, nature of weapons used, etc. However, such an exercise by the High Court would be permissible only after the evidence is collected after investigation and the charge-sheet is filed/charge is framed and/or during the trial. Such exercise is not permissible when the matter is still under > investigation. Therefore, the ultimate conclusion in paras 29.6 and 29.7 of the decision of this Court in Narinder Singh (supra) should be read harmoniously and to be read as a whole and in the circumstances stated hereinabove;

> 15.5. While exercising the power under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings in respect of non-compoundable offences, which are private in nature and do not have a serious impact on society, on the ground that there is a settlement/compromise between the victim and the offender, the High Court is required to consider the antecedents of the accused; the conduct of the accused, namely, whether the accused was absconding and why he was absconding, how he had managed with the complainant to enter into a compromise, etc."

13. The Apex Court in the case of Arun Singh and Others v. State of Uttar Pradesh Through its Secretary and Another reported in 2020 (3) SCC 736, held as under:-

> "14. In another decision in Narinder Singh v. State of Punjab (supra) it has been observed that in respect of offence against the society it is the duty to punish the offender. Hence, even where there is a settlement between the offender and victim the same shall not prevail since it is in interests of the society that offender should be punished which acts as deterrent for others from committing similar crime. On the other hand, there may be offences falling in the category where the correctional objective of criminal law would have to be given more weightage than the theory of deterrent punishment. In such cases, the court may be of the opinion that a settlement between the parties would lead to better relations between them and would resolve a festering private dispute and thus may exercise power under Section 482 CrPC for quashing the proceedings or the complaint or the FIR as the case may be.

14. The Apex Court in case of Ram Gopal & Another Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in [2021 0 Supreme (SC) 529] had occasioned to discuss the issue and observed in paragraph -14 as follows:-

> 14. In other words, grave or serious offences or offences which involve moral turpitude or have a harmful effect on the social and moral fabric of the society or involve matters concerning public policy, cannot be construed betwixt two individuals or groups only, for such offences have the potential to impact the society at large. Effacing abominable offences through quashing process would not only send a wrong signal to the community but may also accord an undue benefit to unscrupulous habitual or professional offenders, who can secure a "settlement' through duress, threats, social boycotts, bribes or other dubious means. It is well said that "let no guilty man escape, if it can be avoided."

15. The Supreme Court in case of Daxaben Vs. The State of Gujarat & others 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 642 observed as follows:-

"38. However, before exercising its power under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. to quash an FIR, criminal complaint and/or criminal proceedings, the High Court, as observed above, has to be circumspect and have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous or serious crimes, which are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society cannot be quashed on the basis of a compromise between the offender and the complainant and/or the victim. Crimes like murder, rape, burglary, dacoity and even abetment to commit suicide are neither private nor civil in nature. Such crimes are against the society. In no circumstances can prosecution be quashed on compromise, when the offence is serious and grave and falls within the ambit of crime against society.

39. Orders quashing FIRs and/or complaints relating to grave and serious offences only on basis of an agreement with the complainant, would set a dangerous precedent, where complaints would be lodged for oblique reasons, with a view to extract money from the accused. Furthermore, financially strong offenders would go scot free, even in cases of grave and serious offences such as murder, rape, brideburning, etc. by buying off informants/complainants and settling with them. This would render otiose provisions such as Sections 306, 498A, 304-B etc. incorporated in the IPC as a deterrent, with a specific social purpose.

"40. In Criminal Jurisprudence, the position of the complainant is only that of the informant. Once an FIR and/or criminal complaint is lodged and a criminal case is started by the State, it becomes a matter between the State and the accused. The State has a duty to ensure that law and order is maintained in society. It is for the state to prosecute offenders. In case of grave and serious non-compoundable offences which impact society, the informant and/or complainant only has the right of hearing, to the extent of ensuring that justice is done by conviction and punishment of the offender. An informant has no right in law to withdraw the complaint of a non-compoundable offence of a grave, serious and/or heinous nature, which impacts society."

16. The Supreme Court in the case of P. Dharmraj Vs. Shanmugam and others decided on 8th September 2022 in Crl. Appeal Nos. 1515-1516 of 2022, after discussing in earlier judgements observed in para-42 as follows:-

"Thus it is clear from the march of law that the Court has to go slow even while exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.PC or Article 226 of the Constitution in the matter of quashing of criminal proceedings on the basis of a settlement reached between the parties, when the offences are capable of having an impact not merely on the complainant and the accused but also on others."

17. From the decisions noticed above, the law as it stands is that although this Court can invoke its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. even in non-compoundable offence and can quash the proceedings on the basis of settlement arrived at between the parties even in the cases of non-compoundable offences but while exercising its jurisdiction this Court must consider the fact that whether the proceedings relates to any serious and heinous offences and whether the crime in question has impact over the society.

18. Considering the nature of offences, nature of dispute, facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the opinion that the case against the applicants, which is pending in Court of Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Baghpat is to be quashed in the light of the compromise entered between the parties and verified by the court concerned vide order dated 11.6.2024.

19. Therefore, the applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. are allowed. The proceedings of Criminal Case pending before the Judicial Magistrate, Baghpat against the applicants as stated above is hereby quashed on the basis of compromise entered between the parties.

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate, Sri Brijesh Sahai, Sri Ganesh Shankar Dubey, Sri Pratik J. Nagar, Sri Rajul Bhargva, Sri Sikander B. Kochar, Sudhir Kumar Agarwal

A. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 -Sections 30 & 34- Appellants, Nadeem Ahmad & Ahrar Ahmad, were charged with the murder of Asif -Prosecution was able to prove the guilt of appellant, Nadeem Ahmad - Nadeem Ahmad was named in the FIR. Eyewitnesses (PW-1 and PW-2) testified that Nadeem, using a country-made pistol, fired at Asif, causing his death. Both witnesses confirmed that Nadeem, tried to flee the scene, firing in the air to escape. Motive was attributed to Nadeem, due to electoral rivalry with Asif. Licensed revolver belonging to Nadeem was recovered by the police, and ballistic reports confirmed that the weapon was used in the crime. Doctor who conducted the post-mortem, confirmed that the injuries sustained by the deceased were consistent with the firearm used by Nadeem. No evidence suggested that two different firearms were involved in the murder. Appellate Court upheld the judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by the trial court for accused Nadeem Ahmad. (Para 33)

B. Criminal Appeal - Murder - Indian Penal Code, S. 302, S. 34- Acquittal on Benefit of Doubt - Appellants, Nadeem Ahmad & Ahrar Ahmad, were charged with the murder of Asif -Prosecution could not prove the guilt of Ahrar Ahmad. No firearm was recovered from Ahrar. No specific motive was attributed towards him.Independent witness stated that Ahrar was present at Jama Masjid of village- Akbarpur at the time of incident. Appellate Court set aside the judgment of conviction and order of sentence for appellant- Ahrar Ahmad and he was acquitted of the charge. (Para 34)

Appeal partly Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Singh Sangwan, J.)

1. This appeal is preferred against the judgment of conviction dated 12.11.2014, passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Bulandshahar in S.T. No. 104 of 2013 (State Vs. Nadeem & another) arising out of Case Crime No. 688 of 2012, Police Station- Kotwali Nagar, District- Bulandshahar vide which the appellants Nadeem and Ahrar were held guilty of offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. as well as the order of sentence dated 15.11.2014 vide which both the accused were awarded life sentence along with fine of Rs. 40,000/- each. In case of non-payment of fine, further they were directed to undergo punishment of one year. The two-third amount of the fine was directed to be paid the legal heirs of Asif.

It is worth noticing that appellant-Ahrar Ahmad filed S.L.P. (Criminal) No. 21671 of 2022 praying for bail. The Supreme Court, however, vide order dated 14.12.2022, directed the High Court to finally decide and dispose of the appeal within a period of nine months. Therefore, this appeal is taken in the category of Supreme Court expedited cases.

2. Heard Mr. Dilip Kumar, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. Vinod Singh, Advocate, Mr. Mohd Sahibe Alam Khan and Mr. Pushpendra Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, Mr. Sudhir Kumar Agarwal, learned counsel for the informant and learned AGA for the State.

3. The Trial Court's record is received and paper books are ready. With the assistance of learned counsel for the parties, the entire evidence is re-scrutinized and re-appreciated.

5. The police prepared the Panchayatnama and thereafter sent the dead body for post-mortem examination. Thereafter, the police conducted the investigation and effected the recovery of blood stained earth vide recovery memo and further recovered the licensed 32 bore revolver no. F.G. 34117 on the pointing out of accused- Nadeem from his house along with the three cartridges inside the chamber of revolver and five live cartridges in the holster were recovered. The license which was in the name of accused- Nadeem Ahmad was also taken in possession by the police vide recovery memo.

6. The bullet recovered from the spot along with the revolver and live cartridges were sent to F.S.L. for ballistic examination. The police, on completion of investigation, submitted the final report before the court which was submitted to the court of Sessions. The Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar on 18.02.2023 framed the charge under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. against the accused person.

7. The accused did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

8. In prosecution evidence, PW-1- Aabid Hussain- informant stated on the line of information given to the police in the FIR. This witness stated that on 14.10.2012 at about 5:00 PM, he along with his younger brother- Asif, paternal uncle- Mohd. Umar and brother-in-law- Afsar were coming back on the motorcycles after having food in the house of Afsar, situated at Maukheda. One motorcycle was driven by Asif and Mohd. Umar was sitting on the pillion seat. Second motorcycle was driven by informant and his brother-in-law- Afsar was the pillion rider. Asif was driving the motorcycle ahead of PW-1. When they reached near the shop of one another Asif- a shopkeeper, Nadeem, Ahrar and two other persons stopped his brother- Asif and started abusing him and gave him beatings. PW-1 stopped his motorcycle and asked the assailants why they were beating and abusing his brother. In the meantime, accused- Nadeem and Ahrar took out their firearms and fired on Asif. PW-1 along with Afsar, Mohd. Umar tried to catch hold of Nadeem and Ahrar but they ran away towards village Bhud while firing in air and threatening to kill them. His brother fell down on the corner of southern side of the road. By making a phone call to one Tanveer, he arranged the vehicle and took his brother to Govt. Hospital, Bulandshahar where the doctor declared him brought dead. This witness stated that the grandfather of the accused namely Mumtaz had contested the election of Village

Pradhan against his brother deceased-Asif and since then the accused were having enmity with him.This witness proved the complaint given to the police as Ex.K1. In cross-examination, this witness stated that he is less educated and can only sign. He further stated that his eye sight is poor and he cannot read without glasses, however, he can see from distance place. He further stated that his mobile no. is 9927523132 and at the time of incident, he was carrying this mobile. This witness denied a suggestion that his brother Asif and accused Nadeem were good friends and used to stay together for 12 to 14 hours in a day. He further stated that his brother Asif contested the election of Village Pradhan in 2000.

9. This witness further stated that Mumtaz against whom Asif contested the election is in relation with the accused by third degree of generation. This witness further stated that his wife Mehnaz contested the election of Pradhan in 2005 against Smt. Shabnam wife of Tanveer who is son of his uncle Mohd. Umar. He further stated that Smt. Firozan wife of Mumtaz also contested the election. This witness denied a suggestion that on account of this election he was not on the talking terms with Mohd. Umar. This witness further stated that he, his uncle- Mohd. Umar and deceased- Asif have no criminal history. The place of occurrence was an habitated place and there were shops nearby. In further cross-examination, he stated that the I.O. did not prepare the site plan in his presence, however, he has told the detail about the incident to the I.O. He further stated that Mumtaz has died about seven years ago and qua his sons Asrar and Avrar, he had no knowledge whether the cases are pending against both of them and he did not know whether Mumtaz also faced the criminal cases. In further cross-examination, PW-1 stated about the place of occurrence, the time when they started from village- Maukheda and the manner in which they took injured Asif in a car and that his clothes were also blood stained. This witness further stated that he did not know whether one Mustakim by dialing 100 number gave information to the police and rather denied whether that has given information that there were four assailants. On a specific question about the firing by the accused person, this witness replied that when accused gave him slaps, Asif moved about one pace. He further stated that he cannot tell which accused fired upon Asif, however, all the four accused fired. He further stated that when the accused fired upon Asif he was about one and a half steps away from them. At the end of the lengthy cross-examination, this witness denied a suggestion that he had not witness the occurrence and also that he was not present at the spot.

10. PW-2- Mohd. Umar stated that deceased- Asif was his nephew and on the date of incident at about 5:00 PM, he and Asif were going on one motorcycle and on the second motorcycle Aabid and Afsar were coming. This witness also gave the complete description of the incident, when accused Nadeem and Ahrar after giving beating to Asif took out the country made pistol and fired on Asif, which hit him and thereafter, he fell down and accused by firing in air ran away. When Asif was taken to the hospital, he was declared dead. He further stated that his statement was recorded by the I.O. after about 8 to 10 days. This witness also stated that Village Pradhan Mumtaz died about 5-7 years ago and Avrar and Asrar are his sons. He further stated that his son Tanveer’s phone no. is 9837552410 and his younger son is named Tafseer and both of them reside in Saudi Arabia. This witness further stated that he did not know if any part of his statement made to the I.O. was not recorded in his statement. This witness was cross-examined at length by the defence counsel about the relationship of the accused with Mumtaz. He denied a suggestion that he was not present at the spot along with Aabid and Afsar or that one Mustakim prior to his reaching at the spot gave information to the police by dialing 100 number. PW-2 also denied a suggestion that he along with Aabid and Afsar reached the hospital, later on, when the deceased was got admitted in the emergency hospital by some electrician and they reached subsequent to the death of Aabid.

11. PW-3- Dr. Sachin Kumar who conducted the post-mortem reported the injuries as:

"चोट नं०- 1- आग्नेआस्त्र का प्रवेश घाव 1 x 1 cm चेस्ट केवटी तक गहरा दायीं तरफ छाती पर ऊपरी भाग में दायी निपिल से 3 से०मी० ऊपर 12 बजे की स्थिति में जिसके मार्जिन अन्दर की तरफ थे।

In cross-examination this witness stated that

"चोट नं०-1 पर कोई कालिग व गोडन (बेलेकनिंग व टेटोइंग) मौजूद नहीं थी। चोट नं०-2 पर भी बेलेकनिंग व टेटोइंग मौजूद नहीं थी। यदि मृतक को 6 फुट से कम की दूरी से आग्नेयास्त्र से चोट पहुंचाई गयी होती तो इन चोट नं० 1 व 2 बेलेकनिंग टेटोईग आना सम्भव था।"

This witness stated that the injured cannot sustain injuries on both side of his body i.e. front and backside due to a fall and the injury nos. 5 and 6 can be caused by a pointed article made of an iron rod.

12. PW-4- Bhupendra Singh constable proved that he had recorded the chik FIR Ex. K3. In cross-examination, he stated that his statement was recorded by the I.O. He pleaded ignorance, if prior to registration of the FIR, some message through wireless was received in the police station that Asif has died.

13. PW-5- S.I.- Shyam Sundar stated that on 14.10.2012, he had gone to district hospital's mortuary and prepared the Panchayatnama regarding death of Mohd. Asif. The Panchayatnama is Ex.K-5, the sketch of the dead body was prepared which is Ex.K-6, letter of CMO is Ex.K-8 and another letter to R.I. is Ex.K-9. The dead body was handed for post-mortem as per letter is Ex.K-10. The S.H.O.- Jitendra Kumar visited the spot and collected the blood stained and simple earth in separate boxes which were sealed. The recovery memo of the S.H.O. is Ex.K-11. In cross-examination, this witness stated about the time of panchayatnama as well as the time when the post-mortem was conducted. This witness stated that at page 33, in the Panchayatnama, there is over-writing as rapat no.40 is changed to 41. He denied suggestion that he has prepared the papers of investigation while sitting in a police station.

14. PW-6- Jitendra Kalra stated that he was S.H.O. in P.S.- Kotwali and he has supervised the investigation. chik FIR and G.D. was registered and thereafter, the investigation started. He prepared the site plan at the spot which is Ex.K-12. This witness also stated about the arrest of accused- Nadeem and upon his pointing out he recovered a revolver used in commission of crime and the accused also confessed about involvement of his brother- Ahrar. This witness further stated that accused Nadeem took the investigation team to his house and from a room, recovered one revolver in which there were three empty cartridges and five live cartridges in the holster. The revolver was of 32 bore and it was licensed in the name of Nadeem. The recovery memo of the weapon is Ex.K-13. Thereafter, on 03.11.2012, Afsar was arrested and his statement was recorded and confessed about committing the offence along with accused Nadeem. He stated that he had thrown away the country made pistol. Thereafter, PW-6 along with witnesses and accused Ahrar went to place where he has stated about throwing the country made pistol but the same could not be recovered. He approved the charge-sheet which is Ex.K-14. With the permission of the court, a sealed packet was opened which was consisted of five live cartridges in a belt and a revolver of 32 bore, and from the envelope, three empty cartridges EC1, EC2 and EC3 were taken out and two empty cartridges TC1 and TC2 along with bullets were seen. The witness identified all these recoveries and the same were exhibited from Ex.1 to Ex.15. One bullet EB1 was also taken out from the packet which the witness stated that it was recovered from the body of the victim at the time of the post-mortem. The same is Ex.16. The gun license is Ex.17. Thereafter, all these articles were sealed in a white coloured cloth bag is exhibited from Ex.18 to Ex.21. This witness stated that these articles were sent to F.S.L. for cross-examination.

15. In cross-examination, this witness stated about the information received in the police station at about 7:00 PM. He stated that he got the information from the brother of deceased Asif and after recording the statement, he went to hospital. He also stated about recording the statement by Constable regarding the chik FIR and when he reached the hospital, he found Asif was lying dead. In further cross-examination, this witness stated that he had prepared the site plan of the spot on the identification of the informant and has given complete details of the investigation conducted by him. He admitted that later on, the receiving information from a secret informer regarding two unknown persons, he had removed their names in the investigation as the informant and witnesses have stated that only two persons have fired upon the deceased. He stated that he recorded the statement of both the witnesses on 26.11.2012 but could not record the statement of Mohd. Umar and Afsar for a period of about more than one month being busy in government work. At spot, he did not recover any empty cartridge and no bullet or pellet was seen on the wall at nearby place. In further cross-examination, this witness gave details about the time, the conduct of post-mortem, the recovery effected from the spot etc. After a lengthy cross-examination, he denied a suggestion that he visited the spot and he prepared the investigation documents while sitting in the police station.

16. Thereafter, the statement of accused Nadeem and Ahrar was recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. and all the incriminating evidences were put together to them. In reply to question no.7 regarding the enmity of the informant side and the accused, it was asked that as grandfather of accused contested the election against deceased Asif, he replied that Mumtaz is not my grandfather and there is a difference of five degree of generation in between and they did not have any direct relation. Regarding registration of the chik FIR and GD Nos. Ex.K3 and Ex.K4, this witness stated these are ante-time and the I.O. has falsely implicated them due to part them. Regarding question no.25, i.e. what clarification he want to give, the accused replied that on the date of incident Ahrar was not with him. He had not committed any offence and at the time of incident, he was in Bulandshahr and at night he came to know about the death of Asif, when he reached his village. Thereafter, by calling him, from his home his licensed revolver was taken in possession by way of a false recovery.

17. In the statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., accused Ahrar was also put to all the incriminating evidences and he gave similar reply to question no.7 that Mumtaz and his family has a gap of five degree of generations. Regarding question nos. 19 to 21, recovery of blood stained earth, weapon, the witness stated that the police under pressure of the informant's side has falsely implicated. In reply to question no.25 for giving his clarification, replied that at the time of incident, he was reading 'Namaz' in the Jama Masjid of village- Akbarpur. A total number of 36 respectable persons of the village gave affidavit to S.S.P.- Bulandshahar in this regard that he has no connection with the offence.

18. In defence, DW-1- Hussain M. Zaidi, Nodal Officer, Idea Cellular Limited was examined who stated that in compliance of the order of the court, he has brought the call details and location details from the mobile nos. 9837555515, 9837552410 and 9927523132 for the date 14.10.2012, the same is signed and attested by him with a seal of the company. The details of all the mobile phones were Ex.Kha-2 to Ex.Kha-4. He has given the details of all the three mobile numbers from 1:00 PM to 6:00 PM. In cross-examination by the public prosecutor, he stated that one tower covered about one kilometre as per the Ministry of Telecommunication's directions.

19. DW-2- Om Prakash Singh, Zonal Control Police, Office of Inspector General stated that on 14.10.2012, he was Radio Inspector in the control room on 14.10.2012 and at about 17:45 hours from mobile no. 9027108618. Informant gave information that one person is injured in firing incident in Veesa Colony to the police. The informant gave his name Mustakim, s/o Fakhruddin, r/o Chandrawali, P.S.- Sikandarabad. Thereafter, the police team/ Kotwali Nagar police station reached the spot and sent injured to the hospital. In cross-examination by public prosecutor and he stated that he is making the statement on the basis of the complaint registered from 100 number.

20. DW-3- Faheem Ahmad, S.O., P.S.- Kotwali (rural) stated that on 14.10.2012, at about 4:45 PM, he had gone to Jama Masjid of Village- Akbarpur for reading the 'Namaz' and found that Ahrar s/o Hussain Khan was also present in the Jama Masjid and about 30-35 persons were also reading the 'Namaz'. Ahrar stay in the Masjid for half an hour later on he came to know that Asif is murdered and he had given an affidavit on 27.11.2012 in this regard to the S.S.P., he also proved the copy of the affidavit. He also stated that apart from him, 20-25 persons have also given the affidavit. In cross-examination, he gave name of some of the persons who have given the affidavit and denied a suggestion that he is making a false statement.

21. The trial court thereafter, vide impugned judgment dated 12.11.2024 held the appellant guilty of offence under Section 302/34 of I.P.C and vide impugned order dated 15.11.2014 awarded them life imprisonment along with fine as discussed above.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the FIR is registered after a delay of about 1 hour 40 minutes and it is stated that four persons have committed the offence whereas during investigation, the I.O.- PW-6- S.H.O.- Jitendra Kalra has stated that on the basis of the information from some secret informer and as per the statement of the informant and the witnesses only two persons were found involved who fired upon the deceased. Counsel submits that informant has given an aggravated version. It is next argued that the statement of the eye-witness is not trustworthy. PW-1- Aabid and PW-2- Mohd. Umar are in fact not the eye-witnesses. It is submitted that from the statement of DW-1, Nodal Officer, the call details of the phones of PW-1 and PW-2 show that they were not present at the place of occurrence. It is argued that in cross-examination of PW-1, a specific question was asked about the mobile phone no. 9927523132 which he was using at the time of the incident and he admitted it to be correct. As per the statement of DW-1, the location of the said phone was not at the place of occurrence. It is argued that this witness has proved that on 14.10.2012, PW-1 for whole day till 5:15 PM was in village- Akbarpur and has not come to village- Maukheda where the incident took place.

23. It is submitted that even from the call details of Tanveer, it is proved that he was in his village- Akbarpur, and was not at Maukheda till 5:51 PM and he did not make any phone call. It is argued that in such circumstances, both Afsar and Abid persons have not seen the place of occurrence where allegedly the accused were present. Counsel submits that even call details of Tanveer proved that no call was made on his phone which falsify the version of the prosecution that he was called at the spot by the informant. Counsel submits that there is nothing on record to prove that on the date of incident, Afsar had invited 5-10 persons at his house for a feast at about 3:00 PM. As per his call details, he himself was not present at his place of residence, the story build up by the prosecution that the informant and deceased had gone to house of Afsar for attending an invitation is not proved. Similarly, his presence at the spot is also not proved. It is next argued that the prosecution has failed to prove any motive against the accused person. The motive set up by the prosecution that deceased Asif has contested the election against one Mumtaz in the year 2000 and therefore, the accused persons being the grandson of Mumtaz had enmity with Asif is not proved. It is argued that firstly PW-1 has clearly admitted that Mumtaz was related to them in the third degree of generation. It is also argued that if election was contested in the year 2000, there was no justification for committing the offence in 2012 as Mumtaz has already died in the year 2006.

24. Learned counsel has argued that the motive with regard to contesting the election 12 years prior to the incident that to when Mumtaz, a distant collateral of the accused had already died in the year 2006 is totally unbelievable. It is next argued that as per the informant, the incident took place outside the shop of one Asif who was having a mobile phone shop but the he was not examined as an independent witness to support the interested witnesses PW-1 and PW-2. It is argued that the occular and medical version of the prosecution do not corroborate each other.

25. As per the oral evidence, the gun shot were fired from a close range but on injury nos. 1, 2 and 7 neither there is charring nor tatooing and there is no inversion of skin wound. It is also argued that the doctor has failed to explain how injury nos. 5 and 6 were caused. It is also argued that in the stomach of the deceased only 150mg food was found whereas the prosecution version was that the deceased along with PWs was coming back after having a feast on invitation from Afsar. It is next argued that it has come in the statement of DW-1 that the information in the police control room was given by one Mustakim s/o Fakhruddin at 17:45 hours who was resident of village- Chandrawali and however, this informant was never made a witness by the police.

26. It is also submitted that contrary to the version of PW-1 and PW-2 that after the incident, he called Tanveer on his mobile phone and he came and took the injured person to the hospital, the record shows that one Ahad Shyam got the deceased admitted in the hospital. The information to the police was given vide GD No. 40 at 18:39 hours by Ajay Kumar, ward boy but the I.O. neither recorded the statement of Mustakim nor of Ahad Shyam and even the statement of Ajay Kumar was not recorded as a prosecution witness which raises a serious doubt about the presence of PW-1 and PW-2 at the spot. It is also argued that there is a variation in the statement of PW-5- Shyam Sundar and PW-6-SHO- Jitendra Kalra to support the argument that the I.O. has not signed the Panchayatnama and for a period of 1 and 3/4 months, the statement of the eye witnesses were not recorded and it was not clear in the statement where there were two or four assailants. It is next argued that the recovery of license revolver from accused Nadeem is doubtful as it is recovered from the room which was already open.

27. It is next argued that the Forensic Science Lab report does not support the prosecution version as it is not clear which weapon was used for commission of offence. Learned Senior Counsel has laid much emphasis on this report to submit that an opinion is given that the bullet retrieved from the body of the deceased, was not fired from the revolver recovered from the accused Nadeem and therefore, it is not proved that the offence was committed from the licensed revolver of Nadeem. It is also submitted that no recovery was effected from accused Ahrar.

28. Learned counsel has further argued that it has come in the statement of DW-3, an independent witness that at the time of incident accused Ahrar was not present at the spot and he was reading the 'Namaz' in the Jama Masjid of village-Akbarpur. The counsel has argued that as many as 36 people of the said village were also reading the 'Namaz' at the relevant time and given affidavits to SSP but were not made as the part of the investigation. Counsel submits that even recovery of blood stained earth do not to prove guilt of the appellant.

29. Learned counsel further argued that the presence of Ahrar Ahmad is not at all proved at the spot and even no recovery of the country made pistol was effected from him.

30. In reply, learned counsel for the informant as well as learned AGA for the State have, however, opposed the arguments of the appellant on the ground that the motive to commit the offence is proved as it has come that the deceased Asif has contested election against one Mumtaz in the year 2000 and Mumtaz is grandfather of the accused person. Therefore, they had the enmity to commit the offence. It is also submitted that both PW-1 and PW-2 are credible witnesses who are present at the spot and have seen the incident. They are the eye witnesses and the call detail records cannot be read in evidence in the absence of 65B certificate. It is also argued that as per the prosecution version, the accused persons first stopped the motorcycle of the deceased Asif, pick up a brawl and then gave him beatings and PW-1 and PW-2 tried to intervene, by taking out the gun they fired upon the deceased. It is also argued that the time and place of incident is not disputed by the accused while by not giving any suggestion to the prosecution witnesses of fact. It is submitted that Afsar s/o Altaf was scriber of the complaint forming the basis of the chik FIR and therefore, his presence at the spot is proved. It is argued that there is no reasons to discard the statement of prosecution witnesses and variation if any, in the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 as well as between PW-5 and PW-6 is minor and in ordinary course the same is bound to occur. It is also argued that the prosecution has led sufficient evidence to prove the guilt of accused person.

31. Learned counsel submits that as per the prosecution version, two firearms were used, however, from the statement of PW-3- Dr. Sachin Kumar, it is not proved that injury nos. 1, 2 and 6 were caused with two different firearm weapons and therefore, in the absence of any recovery from appellant- Ahrar Ahmad, the injuries attributed to him, are not explained in the post-mortem.

32. After hearing counsel for the parties and on re-appreciation of evidence, we find that the prosecution has been able to prove the guilt of appellant- Nadeem Ahmad but could not prove the guilt of Ahrar Ahmad beyond doubt for the following reasons:

A. Appellant- Nadeem Ahmad is named in the FIR along with accused- Ahrar. However, in the FIR, two unknown persons were also named but later on, their names were dropped as their identity could not be proved.

B. PW-1 has categorically stated that Nadeem and Ahrar have fired upon from their country made pistol (tamancha) which hit Asif. When PW-1 along with other witnesses tried to catch hold of the accused, they ran away by firing in air. A motive is attributed that deceased Asif has contested election against one Mumtaz who was the grandfather of accused, being a collateral and Nadeem had a grudge against him on that account. This witness has further stated that accused Nadeem was having relationship with the deceased Asif and even Asif has contested the election in the year 2000.

C. The police has recovered the licensed revolver of accused Nadeem along with three cartridges in the chamber of the revolver and five live cartridges in the holster which was sent to the FSL for examination.

D. The trial court has rightly recorded a finding that Nadeem has fired upon Asif with his licensed revolver. However, no firearm was recovered from the appellant- Ahrar. As per the statement of PW-3- Dr. Sachin Kumar who conducted the post-mortem examination, has nowhere stated that the characteristics of the injuries sustained by the deceased, by use of firearm indicate that the same were caused by two different firearms, therefore, only the injury attributed to accused- Nadeem by his revolver is corroborated by the post-mortem report.

E. Even PW-2 had stated that accused- Nadeem and Ahrar by taking out the country made pistol fired upon Asif, however, no such firearm was recovered from appellant- Ahrar. This witness has also attributed the main allegation towards accused- Nadeem and even motive is attributed towards him. Even this witness stated that there are two unknown accused who also fired upon deceased- Asif. However, no evidence in this regard is led by the prosecution. In cross-examination, this witness stated that the unknown offender did not give any beatings to deceased- Asif.

F. PW-3- Dr. Sachin Kumar who conducted the post-mortem stated that on injury nos. 1 and 2, there was not blackening or tatooing. He further stated that if the firearm was used at a distance of less than six feet, the possibility of blackening and tatooing was there. Similarly, injury no.7 also had no blackening or tatooing which suggest that the same were fired upon from a distance of more than six feet. PW-1 and PW-2 both have stated that at the first instance, Nadeem had fired upon the deceased, therefore, the firearm injury sustained by the deceased on injury nos. 1, 2 and 7 have similar margins.

G. PW-6- I.O. in his deposition has proved that the licensed revolver of accused-Nadeem Ahmad, the cartridges-EB1, which was retrieved from the body of the deceased and cartridges EC1 and EC2 which were test fired from the licensed revolver of Nadeem Ahmad, were sent to the Forensic Science Lab to ascertain the user of the revolver. All this evidence relates to Nadeem Ahmad only as it is a case of prosecution that no recovery of any weapon was effected from Ahrar Ahmad.

H. In the statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., accused-Nadeem Ahmad, in reply to question no.25 regarding his clarification, has stated that on the date of incident, Ahrar was not along with him and he has not committed any offence as he was in Bulandshahar and later on, he reached back home and came to know about the death of Asif and thereafter by calling him from his house, the revolver was taken in possession by police.

I. In statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., accused-Ahrar Ahmad has categorically stated that he was present in Jama Masjid of village- Akbarpur and he was reading the 'Namaz'. He has also stated that about 36 persons of the village who were also reading 'Namaz' had given their affidavits to S.S.P., Bulandshahar regarding his presence at Jama Masjid in village of Akbarpur.

J. The trial court has not properly appreciated the defence evidence led by the accused Ahrar. DW-1- Hussain M. Zaidi, Nodal Officer, Idea Cellular Limited has proved the call details of PW-1 as well as of Ahrar. The location of phone number belonging to Ahrar Ahmad from 3:00 PM till 5:20 PM was at village- Akbarpur which also shows that Ahrar Ahmad was not present at the spot when the incident took place. The trial court has also not considered the statement of DW-2- Om Prakash Singh, Zonal Control Police, Office of Inspector General, Meerut wherein he has stated that a radio wireless message was received from 9027108618 and the informant told that one person has suffered firearm injury in Veesa Colony. The informant gave his name as Mustakim, s/o Fakhruddin, r/o Village- Chandrawali, P.S.-Sikandarbad, Bulandshahar and the same was entered in G.D. Number 161/3440. To the contrary, PW-1 has stated that he has sent the information to the police and this evidence was not considered by the trial court.

K. DW-3- Faheem Ahmad, S.O., P.S.- Kotwali (rural), r/o Akbarpur, District- Bulandshahar has stated that on 14.10.2012 at about 16:45 hours, he had gone to Jama Masjid in his village- Akbarpur for reading 'Namaz' and he found that Ahrar, s/o Hussain Khan was also present along with 30-35 persons of this village and they altogether were reading 'Namaz'. Ahrar was there for more than half an hour. On coming to know that Ahrar has been nominated in the murder of Asif, DW-3 along with many other persons have given affidavit to S.S.P., Bulandshahar and a copy of the affidavit dated 13.08.2014 was produced on record. In cross-examination, by the public prosecutor of all DW-1 and DW-2, their testimony could not be shattered being based on the public record and similarly, DW-3 was consistent in making the statement that Ahrar was present in Jama Masjid of village- Akbarpur at the time of incident.

33. In view of above, considering the statements of PW-1 and PW-2, the two eye-witnesses who have named Nadeem Ahmad as the principal accused who first fired upon the deceased- Asif and PW-6- S.H.O./I.O., who recovered the licensed gun from Nadeem Ahmad and considering the report of FSL, coupled with the fact that PW-3- Dr. Sachin Kumar who has conducted the post-mortem, did not state that two firearms were used and lastly considering that no recovery of any firearm was made from accused Ahrar Ahmad, who had also led defence evidence to show the location of his phone which was in village- Akbarpur as well as one independent witness who stated that he along with 35 villagers have given an affidavit to S.S.P., Bulandshahar to show that Ahrar was present at Jama Masjid of village- Akbarpur at the time of incident, we find no merits so far the appeal of Nadeem Ahmad is concerned and we uphold the judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by the trial court for accused Nadeem Ahmad. The accused Nadeem Ahmad is in custody and he will undergo the remaining sentence in accordance with law.

34. However, considering the evidence in entirety as noticed above, we find that the prosecution has failed to prove the presence of accused Ahrar Ahmad at the spot; beyond doubt no recovery was effected from him and no specific motive was attributed towards him. We find merit in the appeal filed by Ahrar Ahmad and set aside the judgment of conviction and order of sentence for appellant- Ahrar Ahmad and he is acquitted of the charge. As per custody certificate dated 16.01.2023, Ahrar Ahmad is in custody for more than 11 years and 8 months of actual sentence. Therefore, appellant- Ahrar Ahmad be released from judicial custody forthwith, if he is not involved in any other case.

35. With the aforesaid modification in the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by the trial court, we uphold the conviction and order of sentence of accused- Nadeem and modified the judgment for accused Ahrar Ahmad by acquitting him by giving benefit of doubt. With the aforesaid modification, the appeal is disposed of.

36. The trial court records be transmitted forthwith.

THE HON'BLE RAJAN ROY, J.
THE HON'BLE OM PRAKASH SHUKLA, J.

First Appeal No. 131 of 2012

Kuldeep Singh ...Appellant
Versus
Smt. Yashoda Devi ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Asif Hasan, Rajendra Prasad Tiwari, Shweta Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:
Ambika Prasad, Narvind Kumar Singh, R.K. Yadav

A. Family Law – Family Courts Act 1984 – Section 7 - Explanation Cl. (b) – Jurisdiction of Family Court – Matrimonial status – Second Suit was filed to nullify the divorce decree obtained on the basis of mutual consent – Objection to jurisdiction of Family Court was raised – Permissibility – Held, subsequent suit that had been filed by the respondent is in essence for determining her matrimonial status as wife of the appellant for which the Family Court would indeed have jurisdiction in terms of Clause (b) of the 'Explanation' to Section 7 (1) of the 1984 Act. (Para 13)

B. Family Law – Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 – S. 13-B – Mutual divorce decree – Absence of jurisdictional prerequisite – Fiduciary relationship – Husband and wife had not been living separately for one year preceding the filing of Mutual divorce suit as was a prerequisite for a suit u/s 13-B of the Act, 1955, and even thereafter they lived together – Decree of divorce dated 08.07.2005 was alleged to be the result of misrepresentation, deceit and fraud practiced by her husband taking advantage of the trust reposed by her on him, she not being much educated, being a trusting Indian wife – Effect – Held, the appellant/husband took advantage of his dominant position vis-a-vis his wife as also the trust reposed by her on account of her fiduciary relationship and betrayed the same – High Court held the decree dated 08.07.2005 obtained by misrepresentation and deceit and resultantly null and void. (Para 26, 27, 35, 38 and 39)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

(1) Heard Shri Rajendra Prasad Tiwari, learned Counsel representing the appellant/husband. Although, the respondent/ wife has filed her counter-affidavit, however, none appeared on behalf of the respondent/wife at the time of final hearing.

(2) The appellant/husband has filed the present appeal under Section 19 of the Family Courts Act, 1984 read with Order XIII Rule 1-A of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 against the judgment and order dated 01.08.2012 passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow, in Original Suit No. 1411 of 2005 : Smt. Yashoda Devi Vs. Kuldeep Singh.

(3) Apparently, in the aforesaid suit, the respondent/wife had sought declaration of the judgment/decree dated 08.07.2005 passed in Original Suit No. 32 of 2005 filed under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1955') by which divorce on the ground of Mutual Consent was granted, to be a nullity. Vide judgment and order 01.08.2012, the learned Family Court, while allowing the suit, has set-aside the judgment and decree dated 08.07.2005 and has held it to be a nullity, consequently, appellant/husband has been prohibited from marrying another woman unless he takes divorce from respondent/wife in accordance with law.

(4) The factual matrix relevant to decide the present appeal can be captured from the records as herein below :-

(i) The appellant/husband married the respondent/wife on 05.05.1996 in accordance with Hindu rites and rituals. After marriage, respondent/wife was residing at her husband's/in-laws' house situated at village Haluni, Post Sangla Koti, district Pauri Garhwal, Uttranchal (now Uttarakhand). Out of their wedlock, two male children were born on 21.07.1997 and 05.07.2000, respectively.

(ii) Appellant/husband was serving in the Indian Army. He was transferred and posted at Lucknow on his personal request on 25.04.2003. As per the appellant, he was allotted an official accommodation at Lucknow on 01.11.2004. He then brought the respondent/wife and his younger son to Lucknow in November, 2004 and lived together at Lucknow till January, 2005. As there were irreconcilable differences between the two, they decided to part ways amicably, therefore, on 06.01.2015, a suit under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 for dissolution of marriage on ground of mutual consent was filed before the Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow, which was registered as Original Suit No. 32 of 2005 and was decreed on 08.07.2005.

(iii) After passing of the decree, as per the respondent/wife, the appellant/husband took her to her in-laws' house where she stayed for two days and then he left her at her parents' home at Dehradun on the premise that as soon as he arranges a house at Joshimath where he had been posted, he will take her with him but, he never came back. The respondent/wife and her father went to her in-laws' house to inquire, who, ill-treated them, and also disclosed that their son (appellant herein) had divorced her at Lucknow. It is then that respondent/wife came to know about the divorce. She then came to Lucknow with her father, met an Advocate, and inquired about the case in the Family Court, Lucknow and then filed Suit No. 1411 of 2005, as referred above.

(iv) The case of the respondent/wife is that while staying with the appellant/husband, she was made to sign blank papers and photographs which, as per the appellant/husband, were necessary for his service related matters and for this very purpose, she was again made to sign papers and photographs after six months and was also taken to a place which, according to the appellant, was his office. By practicing deceit and fraud not only on the respondent but also on the Court, he was able to obtain a decree of divorce for cancellation of which the subsequent suit was filed.

(v) Suit No. 1411 of 2005 was filed on 10.10.2005 by the respondent/wife within about three months of the decree in the earlier suit dated 08.07.2005.

(vi) Notice was issued to the husband/defendant in Suit No. 1411 of 2005. In response, husband/defendant put in appearance and filed his written submission, denying the averments made in the aforesaid suit filed by the wife/plaintiff.

(vii) On the basis of pleadings and documents, the learned Family Court framed following issues in Suit No. 1411 of 2005 filed by the wife/respondent:-

i. क्या मूल वाद संख्या 32/05 कुलदीप बनाम यशोदा देवी अंतर्गत धारा–13 बी हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम–1955 में दिनांक 8.7.05 को अपर प्रधान न्यायाधीश, पारिवारिक न्यायालय, लखनऊ के द्वारा पारित किया गया निर्णय एवं आज्ञप्ति, प्रस्तुत वाद में दिये गये कारणों के आधार पर शून्य घोषित किये जाने योग्य है ?

ii. क्या मूल वाद संख्या 32/05, अंतर्गत धारा 13 भबी हिन्दू विवाह अधिनियम 1955 में पारित किया गया विवाह विच्छेन की आज्ञप्ति प्रतिवादपत्र में दिये गये कारणो से शून्य घोषित किए जाने योग्य है ?

iii. क्या वादिनी किसी अन्य अनुतोष को पाने की अधिकारिणी है। यदि हॉ तो क्या ?

(viii) The wife/respondent, in support of her case, examined herself as P.W.1 and her father, namely, Shri Bhagirath Singh as P.W.2. No documentary evidence was adduced by the wife/respondent.

(ix) The husband/appellant examined himself as D.W.2 and filed documentary evidence along with list of documents (marked as C36/1) viz. (i) original train ticket for the journey dated 23.11.2004 from Kotdwara to Lucknow (marked as C36/2); (ii) original train ticket for the journey dated 18.01.2005 from Lucknow to Najibabad (marked as C36/3); and (iii) photocopy of accommodation allotment letter dated 11.11.2004 issued to the appellant/husband (marked as C36/4). Besides these documents, no other documentary evidence was filed by the appellant/husband.

(x) On an application, the trial Court summoned the original record of Suit No. 32 of 2005, which is tagged with the records of Suit No. 1411 of 2005.

(xi) On a consideration of the facts pleaded and evidence led in the light of the issues framed, the learned Family Court has decided issues no. 1 and 2 in favour of the respondent/ plaintiff and has decreed the suit.

(5) Shri Rajendra Prasad Tiwari, learned Counsel representing the appellant/husband would urge that respondent-wife, after having validly agreed to file a suit for divorce by mutual consent under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955, had signed the memorandum of Original Suit No. 32 of 2005 as well as affixed her photograph on it on the basis of which the judgment and decree dated 08.07.2005 was passed by the learned Family Court at Lucknow in Original Suit No.32 of 2005 and as such, respondent/wife could not resile from the same and seek its cancellation. Moreso, according to the learned Counsel, the Family Court has failed to appreciate the fact that there is nothing on record to belie the statement recorded by the learned Family Court prior to the passing of consent decree in earlier suit filed under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 and also there is nothing on record to substantiate the allegation of collusion, misrepresentation and fraud on the part of the appellant, hence the findings recorded by the learned Family Court in the impugned judgment and decree dated 01.08.2012 are not based on any evidence rather they are based on surmises and conjecture.

(6) Learned Counsel representing the appellant also urged that the respondent/wife is 10th Class pass and is also quite educated, therefore, her allegation of being lured in signing the earlier plaint in the suit filed under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 on the alleged pretext of service record, is absolutely concocted and bald allegation. According to the learned Counsel, in any case, the subsequent Original Suit No.1411 of 2005 seeking to declare the earlier judgment and decree dated 08.07.2005 as nullity by the respondent/wife, was not maintainable before the Family Court as it was not open for the Family Court to exercise jurisdiction declaring the decree passed earlier by it under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 a nullity. Elaborating his submission, learned Counsel urged that though the issue relating to jurisdiction of the Family Court for passing of a decree for nullifying a decree passed earlier by it in earlier proceedings on the basis of mutual consent between the parties, is a very important issue, however, the learned Family Court has lost sight of the fact in not framing this issue while adjudicating the matter. Thus, he prays that the impugned judgment and decree dated 01.08.2012 is liable to be set-aside.

(7) Although, no oral submission was led by the respondent/wife, however, in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent/wife, she has reiterated the allegations made in the plaint and also stated that her husband had played fraud on her in seeking divorce under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 and as such, learned Family Court had rightly declared the judgment and decree dated 08.07.2005 a nullity and had rightly allowed the suit filed by her, hence appeal is liable to be dismissed. Respondent/wife had also stated that learned Family Court had framed the issues based on the pleadings of the parties, which were never objected by the appellant before the learned Family Court nor any application in this regard was filed by him before the Family Court, hence at this stage such an objection as raised by the appellant is not sustainable.

(8) Having regard to the contentions of the appellant/husband and having gone through the record available before us in this appeal as well as record of the trial Court, the points which fall for determination in this appeal are as under :-

I. Whether a Family Court constituted under the Family Courts Act, 1984, has the jurisdiction to set aside or nullify a decree of Divorce passed by it under Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955 ?;

II. Whether, findings of the trial Court on issues no. 1 and 2 are perverse and unsustainable in law, thereby rendering the impugned judgment erroneous ?;

III. Whether the judgment and decree dated 08.07.2005 in Suit No. 32 of 2005 was obtained by deceit, misrepresentation and fraud?;

IV. Whether the judgment and decree dated 08.07.2005 in Suit No. 32 of 2005 is liable to be declared null and void ?

Point No. I

(9) No such objection to jurisdiction of the Family Court to hear the suit in question was raised by the appellant before the trial Court nor any application was filed for framing additional issue on this point. Nevertheless, as a jurisdictional issue has been raised before us, we proceed to consider the same.

(10) Section 7 of the Family Courts Act 1984 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1984) deals with the jurisdiction of the Family Court. Section 7 of 1984 reads as follows :-

"7. Jurisdiction.-- (1) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, a Family Court shall—

(a) have and exercise all the jurisdiction exercisable by any district court or any subordinate civil court under any law for the time being in force in respect of suits and proceedings of the nature referred to in the Explanation; and

(b) be deemed, for the purposes of exercising such jurisdiction under such law, to be a district court, as the case may be, such subordinate civil court for the area to which the jurisdiction of the Family Court extends.

Explanation.--The suits and proceedings referred to in this sub-section are suits and proceedings of the following nature, namely:--

(a) a suit or proceeding between the parties to a marriage for a decree of nullity of marriage (declaring the marriage to be null and void or, as the case may be, annulling the marriage) or restitution of conjugal rights or judicial separation or dissolution of marriage;

(b) a suit or proceeding for a declaration as to the validity of a marriage or as to the matrimonial status of any person;

(c) a suit or proceeding between the parties to a marriage with respect to the property of the parties or of either of them;

(d) a suit or proceeding for an order or injunction in circumstances arising out of a marital relationship;

(e) a suit of proceeding for a declaration as to the legitimacy of any person;

(f) a suit or proceeding for maintenance;

(g) a suit of proceeding in relation to the guardianship of the person or the custody of, or access to, any minor.

(2) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, a Family Court shall also have and exercise—

> (a) the Jurisdiction exercisable by a Magistrate of the first class under Chapter IX (relating to order for maintenance of wife, children and parents) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974); and
> (b) such other jurisdiction as may be conferred on it by any other enactment."

(11) A bare reading of the aforesaid provision shows that a Family Court subject to the provision of the 1984 Act has and exercises all jurisdiction exercisable by any District Court or any subordinate Civil Court under any law for the time being in force in respect of suits and proceedings of the nature that are referred to in the 'Explanation'; besides, it is deemed for the purposes of exercising such jurisdiction under such law, to be a District Court, or, as the case may be, such subordinate Civil Court for the area to which the jurisdiction of the Family Court extends. Section 10 of the Act 1984 is also relevant in this context.

(12) From the facts of the present case, it is seen that Original Suit No. 1411 of 2005 (hereinafter referred to as 'second suit') was filed by the respondent-wife for declaring the judgment and decree dated 08.07.2005 passed by the learned Family Court at Lucknow dissolving the marriage to be a nullity and for cancellation of the same, as allegedly, the same was obtained by misrepresentation and fraud. The outcome of the second suit filed by the respondent-wife thus related to the determination of her matrimonial status, that is to say, as to whether she is or she is not the wife of the appellant.

(13) The decree of the Family Court dated 08.07.2005 by which the matrimonial relationship between the parties stands severed declares the legal character of the parties as far as their relationship of husband and wife is concerned. Thus, the subsequent suit that had been filed by the respondent is in essence for determining her matrimonial status as wife of the appellant for which the Family Court would indeed have jurisdiction in terms of Clause (b) of the 'Explanation' to Section 7 (1) of the 1984 Act. The plea of the appellant is, accordingly, rejected. Point No.1 is answered accordingly.

Point Nos. II, III and IV

(14) Point nos. II, III and IV are being dealt with conjointly. Learned Family Court, while considering issues no. (i) and (ii) framed by it, has recorded a finding that circumstances and evidence of the present case do not support divorce by mutual consent viz. firstly because in para-3 of Original Suit No.32 of 2005 filed under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955, on one hand, it was stated that both of them were living together and on the other, it was also stated that they were living separately since 2002; secondly because there is no explicit mention nor any statement regarding any alimony given by the appellant/husband to the respondent/wife at the time of divorce by mutual consent, whereas generally in such a case the situation regarding alimony would be determined; thirdly if the wife had actually accepted such an important incident of her life willingly, then, she would have told it gladly and immediately to her parents but not doing so, shows that she was unaware of the proceedings and nature of the documents signed by her and that her signature and photograph were taken by deceit as the wife had stated in her plaint that her husband brought her by telling her about the necessity of affixing her signature and photograph in the formalities related to his service; fourthly P.W.1 (the wife herself) and P.W.2, who is the father of the respondent/wife, had stated that on 26.09.2005, when he along with his daughter (respondent herein) went to in-laws of her daughter, then, they came to know the factum of divorce. The learned Family Court has recorded a finding that P.W.1 herself had stated that on 15.06.2005, her husband/appellant brought her to permanent residence at Pauri Garhwal, from where her husband brought her to her parents' residence at Dehradun on 18.08.2005 by saying that he would take some time for arranging accommodation at Joshimath.

(15) Besides the aforesaid, the learned Family Court has also opined that on one hand, in the Original Suit no. 32 of 2005 filed under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955, both have accepted to live together and as such, in that situation, as per the provisions of Section 13-B of the Act, 1955, it cannot be said that at the time of filing of the suit, both the parties were living separately for a year or more. In this background, learned Family Court has decided issues No.1 and 2 in the affirmative in favour of the wife and has decreed the suit of the respondent/plaintiff.

(16) As far as these points are concerned, this Court finds that appellant/husband was serving in Indian Army and was posted at Joshimath (Uttaranchal). He got married with the respondent/wife on 05.05.1995 in accordance with Hindu rites and rituals in Village Gadauli, district Pauri Garhwal (Uttaranchal). After marriage, appellant/husband brought respondent/wife to his residence at village Haluni, district Pauri Garhwal. Out of their wedlock, two male children were born on 21.07.1997 and 05.07.2000, respectively. The appellant/husband was transferred to Lucknow on 25.04.2003. The wife continued to live with the in-laws as stated by P.W.2 with no contrary evidence led by appellant on this issue.

(17) The appellant/husband, as per his own testimony, was allotted official accommodation at Lucknow on 01.11.2004. He brought the respondent/wife and his younger son to Lucknow in November, 2004, though the wife says that she was brought in January, 2005. Be that as it may, as per the wife, she was brought to Lucknow. The husband has brought on record the photographs of the train tickets in support his claim, which we will deal later. The husband brought her to Lucknow as per the wife on the pretext of completion of necessary service related formalities while leaving both the children in the custody of his parents. In paragraph-6 of her plaint, respondent/wife has stated that on 05.01.2005, her husband/appellant brought her to a place and got her signature on some papers as this was necessary in connection with his service. Her husband/appellant also convinced her not to disclose anything about the photograph and signature to anyone. Thereafter, her husband kept her there till afternoon and then brought her to his temporary residence near his work place, where the appellant intimidated and confused the respondent/wife not to tell anyone about the signatures as well as pasting of the photographs etc. In paragraph-7, she has stated that while going on duty, she was instructed not to meet anyone nor to leave the house. Her husband kept her with him for about 6 months only. During the said period, again her husband brought her to the said designated place by telling her that some interrogation in connection with her signatures and photographs already made on the service related documents were required, wherein her husband, in his presence, again got signed some papers. Thereafter, on 15.08.2005, her husband brought her to his village Halauni, district Pauri Garhwal and told her that he had been transferred from Lucknow to Joshimath and he would require some time for arranging accommodation etc. at Joshimath and till then she should stay with his parents and after arranging accommodation etc. at Joshimath, he would take her to Joshimath. In paragraph-9, wife/respondent has stated that after staying for two days at her in-laws house, on 18.08.2005, her husband took her to the residence of her father posted at Dehradun and left her there. When her husband did not come to take her to her matrimonial home, then on 26.09.2005, she along with her father went to the house of her in-laws, wherein her in-laws for the first time disclosed to the respondent/wife and her father that the appellant had already taken divorce from Lucknow Court and now she had no relation with her in-laws and her husband and sent her away. In paragraph-10, respondent/wife has stated that on 04.10.2005, she came to Lucknow with her father and sought legal guidance from an Advocate and on 07.10.2005 filed an application for information regarding the case alleged to have been filed in the Family Court and then she came to know that Original Suit No. 32 of 2005 was registered on 06.01.2005.

(18) In the plaint, respondent/wife has also asserted that the said suit was not even verified and most significantly there was no mention of giving lump sum amount to her towards permanent alimony. Further, it has been contended that her signature on the said suit were due to misrepresentation and deceit by her husband/appellant. It has been also stated that the respondent/ wife was a rural woman, not much educated, who gullibly signed the papers on the instructions of her husband as any other Indian wife in her position would do.

(19) The appellant denied the case of the respondent/plaintiff in his written statement but there are certain pleadings therein, which are relevant. In para-4, he has stated as under :-

> "4.---------वास्तविकता यह है कि प्रतिवादी के मूल निवास के साथ वादिनी समय≤ पर, स्थानान्तरिण होने पर और निवास की सुविघा प्राप्त होने पर, स्थानान्तर स्थान पर निवास करती रही और लखनऊ में नवम्बर 2004 से जनवरी 2005 तक सेना के सरकारी आवास में निवास किया था। वाद–पत्र संख्या–32/2005 अं0 धारा–13 (बी) दाखिला के 12 दिन बाद प्रतिवादी के मूल निवास उत्तरांचल में 22 अप्रैल तक तथा 23 अप्रैल से 10 जुलाई तक फिर लखनऊ में रहने के बाद वादिनी को उसके मायके भेज दिया गया था। वादिनी का यह कहना भी गलत है कि दोनो बच्चे मूल निवास छोड दिये गये थे। वास्तविकता यह है कि बडा पुत्र स्कूल हेतु मूल निवास पर रह रहा था तथा छोटा पुत्र आकाश सिंह प्रतिवादी व वादिनी के साथ लखनऊ में निवास कर रहा था।"

(20) In para-5 of written statement, it has been averred as under :-

> "5.------वास्तविकता यह है कि प्रतिवादी का लखनऊ स्थानान्तरण होने पर, सरकारी आवास सुविधा प्राप्त होने पर नवम्बर 2004 में ही छोटे पुत्र तथा वादिनी के साथ निवास हेतु आ गया था जिसका रिकार्ड सेना के सरकारी आवास से प्राप्त किया जा सकता है आवास एलाटमेन्ट की प्रति संलग्नक–1 हैं। वादिनी का यह अभिकथन कि जनवरी 2005 में कलु ित उद्देश्यों की पूर्ति हेतु वादिनी को लखनऊ लाया गया असत्य है। छोटे पुत्र आकाश सिंह का इलाज लखनऊ में चल रहा था, जो संलग्नक–2 है। स्वयं सिद्ध करता है कि वादिनी असत्य अभिभा ाण कर रही है। वादिनी को छोटे पुत्र सहित लखनऊ लाया गया था रिजर्वेशन स्लिप को फोटो प्रति संलग्नक–3 है।"

(21) These averments clearly show that even as per appellant, respondent/wife before coming to Lucknow had been residing at the appellant/husband permanent residence i.e. village Halauni Pauri Garhwal, meaning thereby they had not been living separately for one year preceding the filing of Suit No. 32 of 2005 on 06.01.2005 as was a prerequisite for a suit under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955, and even thereafter they lived together.

(22) Further, in para-11 of the written statement, while responding to the plea in para-12 of plaint regarding the suit not being maintainable on account of non-existence of jurisdictional prerequisites mentioned in Section 13-B pertaining to one year of separate living, it has been averred by the husband, as under :-

"11. यह कि वाद-पत्र की धारा-12 का कथन असत्य, भ्रमपूर्ण है मनगढंत है, गुमराह करने का प्रयास है इनकार है सत्यता यह है कि मूल वाद सं0-32/2005 की धारा-3 वादिनी के लिखित साक्ष्य में जनवरी 2002 से पति-पत्नी के शारीरिक सम्बन्ध न रहना कहा गया है जो स्पष्ट करता है कि पक्षकारों के मध्य पति एवं पत्नी के सम्बन्ध समाप्त हो गए थे और पति-पत्नी इस आशा से एक साथ रह रहे थे की समय बीतने पर हो सकता है की पति-पत्नी के सम्बन्ध फिर से मधुर हो जाये जो लखनऊ में आकार एक साथ निवास करने पर भी सम्भव नहीं हो सका और अं0 धारा 13(बी) हि0 वि0 अधि0 की आवश्यकता पक्षकारों के मध्य संस्थित किया गया।"

(23) These averments again amount to an admission that they were not living separately during the immediately preceding one year from the date of filing of Suit No. 32 of 2005. Language used in Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955 is "on the ground they have been living separately for a period of one year or more."

(24) In para-10 of his written statement, appellant has averred that respondent has studied upto Class-10th, a fact which has been denied by her in her plaint, examination-in-chief and cross-examination. Interestingly, no suggestion/question was put to her by the appellant in her cross-examination.

(25) Before considering the oral testimony and other evidence on record, in continuation of the above, we may refer to the pleadings in the earlier suit to examine as to whether the jurisdictional prerequisites for attracting Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955 were satisfied or not. In para-3, 10, 11 and 12 of the plaint under Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955, it was averred as under :-

"3. यह कि उपरोक्त पते पर हम याची गण साथ–साथ रह रहे है किन्तु आपस में अत्यधिक मतभेद के कारण जनवरी 2002 से अलग–अलग रह रहे है और दोनो के मध्य इस बीच पति–पत्नी के सम्बन्ध नहीं रह गये है।

10- यह कि इस समय उभय पक्षकार उपरोक्त पते पर एक साथ निवास

कर रह है किन्तु आज दिनांक 6–1–2005 से अलग–अलग रहेंगे और उपरोक्त वाद में प्रस्तुत होकर मुकदमे की पैरवी करते रहेंगे।

11. यह कि वाद–का कारण आपस में पति–पत्नी का सम्बन्ध समाप्त हो जाने के बाद जनवरी 2002 को उत्पन्न हुआ जब पति–पत्नी के बीच में उपरोक्त वाद को विवाह विच्छेदन हेतु दाखिल करने का समय लिया गया।

12- यह कि उभय पक्षकार लखनऊ जनपद में उपरोक्त पते पर विवाह के बाद से निवास कर रहे थे और इस समय भी निवास कर रहे है जो माननीय न्यायालय के क्षेत्राधिकार में है।"

(26) Apart from the fact that the written statement of the appellant in Suit No. 1411 of 2005 itself contains averments/admissions that they had not been residing separately for one year or more prior to 06.01.2005, the averments in the plaint of the earlier suit quoted above, apart from being self contradictory and contrary to subsequent pleadings in written statement of subsequent suit, especially para-10 and 12 clearly establish that they had not been living separately and the jurisdictional prerequisite for moving a suit under Section 13 (B) (1) was absent.

(27) In her examination-in-chief filed on affidavit, respondent/wife (P.W.1) has categorically stated that the alleged decree of divorce was the result of misrepresentation, deceit and fraud practiced by her husband taking advantage of the trust reposed by her on him, she not being much educated, being a trusting Indian wife. She has stated that by keeping her in dark, her husband got her signature on the pretext of some service related formalities of the husband. She has categorically stated that if she had even slightest information that these documents were related to divorce, then, she would never have signed them nor would have gone anywhere.

(28) In her cross-examination, she (P.W.1) has categorically stated that her husband told her the necessity of her signature and her photograph on the service related documents. P.W.1, in her cross-examination, has also stated that she did not enquire anything from her husband relating to her visit to Court. This statement, in our view, is quite natural because P.W.1 herself has stated in as many words that her husband had asked her to not say anything regarding her signature and photograph to anyone and had also threatened her with dire consequences if she told anyone in this regard. She has clearly stated in her cross-examination that she did not know the subject of the first suit. The subsequent suit has been filed because her husband had cheated her. She has accepted that her husband was allotted official accommodation in November, 2004 and after a few days, he had taken her and she had stayed with him for 6 or 7 months. She has further stated as under :-

" यह कहना सही है कि नौकरी सम्बन्धी कागजातों पर वादिनी के हस्ताक्षर व फोटो लगाया जाना आवश्यक है कहकर, निर्धारित स्थान पर ले गये। यह बात दि० 05.01.2005 की है। दि० 05.01.2005 की सुबह 10:00 बजे मुझे ले गये। शाम को 2:00-3:00 बजे वापस लाए। इन्होंने कहा था कि वो मेरा ऑफिस है ऑफिस ले गये। मुझे कोई नौकरी नहीं मिली। इन्होंने मुझसे यह भी कहा था कि किसी से यह बात बताना नहीं कि कागजात पर हस्ताक्षर किया है व फोटो लगाया है। मुझे नहीं मालूम कि मुझे किसी से बताने को मना क्यों किया था। मैने पूछा था तो इन्होंने कहा था कि अन्दर की बात बाहर नहीं जाना चाहिए। पहले मुझे नहीं मालूम था अब मुझे मालूम है कि वह स्थान कचहरी था, जहाँ मुझे ले गये थे। मुझे दोबारा पुनः उसी स्थान पे ले गये जहाँ पहले ले गये थे। वह स्थान यही कचहरी थी, जहाँ दोबारा मुझे लाए थे।

05-01-05 के बाद दोबारा मुझे 5-6 माह उसी स्थान पर कचहरी लाए थे। मुझे नहीं मालूम कि दोबारा जब लाए थे तो उस समय वहाँ ऐसा ही माहौल था, जैसा आज यहाँ है। दोबारा जब मुझे लाए थे तब वहाँ मेरा हस्ताक्षर व अँगूठा लगवाए थे। दोबारा जब मैं 2005 में आयी थी तब मुझसे कोई पूछताछ नहीं हुई थी। मैं अगस्त 2005 में लखनऊ से वापस गयी। मैं अपने पति के साथ वापस गयी थी। लखनऊ से चलकर मैं कार द्वारा स्टेशन में उतरी थी। वहाँ से हम दोनों गाँव हलोनी गये थे। मुझे 2005 के मुकदमे की जानकारी सबसे पहले मेरी सास व मुझे दी थी। मुझे सितम्बर 2005 में जानकारी प्राप्त हुई थी। तिथि याद नहीं है। मैं अक्टूबर 2005 में लखनऊ कचहरी में 2005 के मुकदमे की जानकारी करने आयी थी। मैं उसी कचहरी में आई, जहाँ पहले दो बार आ चुकी थी। यहाँ आकर मैं अधिवक्ता श्री आर० के० यादव से सम्पर्क किया। उन्होंने मुझे मुकदमे के बारे में बताया। मैं वकील साहब के तख्त पर बैठी थी। वकील साहब ने जानकारी करके मुझे बताया था। मैं किसी न्यायालय या कार्यालय में नहीं गयी। जानकारी होने पर मेरे साथ जो धोखाधड़ी हो रही थी, उसके खिलाफ मैंने मुकदमा दायर किया। जानकारी होने व मुकदमा दायर करने के मध्य मैंने किसी कागज पर हस्ताक्षर नहीं किया था।

(29) She (P.W.1) has reiterated in her cross-examination that she was not literate. No question or suggestion was made to her in her cross-examination as to whether she had been living separately for one or more year prior to filing of Suit No. 32 of 2005.

(30) This Court cannot be oblivious of the fact that the respondent/wife being a woman of humble and rural background, not much educated, who reposed trust in her 'Patiparmeshwar' and it was quite natural that wife/respondent did not know relevance of those papers upon which her husband got her signature and also pasted her photograph albeit with ulterior motive and ultimately used them for the said purpose of divorce.

(31) P.W.2-Bhagirath Singh, who is father of the respondent/wife, was also examined and he has stated in his cross-examination that his son-in-law (appellant) himself had brought her daughter (respondent) from his permanent matrimonial house (Village Haluni, district Pauri Garhwal) to Lucknow in the first week of January, 2005, though he did not remember the date. He has further stated that her daughter lived along with her husband (appellant) in Lucknow till August, 2005. He met his daughter on 18.08.2005. Prior to it, he had not met her. This was obvious because she was residing at her in-laws and thereafter with her husband. He has further stated that her daughter could neither read Hindi nor understand it nor speak it. His daughter had passed Middle class. He has also stated that his son-in-law brought her daughter to his house in the month of August, 2005 and at that time he had no information regarding divorce, however, on 26.09.2005, when he went along with his daughter to her in-laws house, then, parents of his son-in-law told them about the divorce. He has categorically stated that his daughter did not say anything about divorce between 18.08.2005 (date on which appellant left his wife to her parents at Dehradun) to 26.09.2005 (the date when P.W.2 and her daughter/respondent went to in-laws' house of the respondent).

(32) The testimony of P.W.2 clearly establishes that the appellant had brought his wife to his house on 18.08.2005 when he met her and that prior to it, she had been living with the appellant since January, 2005. Most important, he (P.W.2) has stated that she did not tell him about any divorce nor did appellant tell him any such fact which establishes the version of the wife (his daughter) that she was unaware about any such divorce proceedings.

(33) Now, we examine the testimony of appellant, who was examined as D.W.1. In his cross-examination, he has stated that on 06.01.2005, he along with his wife, for the first time, came to Court and both of them came to Court to seek divorce by mutual consent due to lack of mutual understanding. Thereafter, both of them came to Court second time after six months i.e. on 07.07.2005. The learned Judge inquired from them separately. Their statements were also recorded by the Reader of the Court but he did not know the date of recording of the statement, however, he guessed that these statements were recorded on 7th or 8th July, 2005. He has also stated that both of them had borne the cost of litigation jointly filed under Section 13-B of the Act, 1955. Appellant has further disclosed that the respondent/wife was engaged in the work of tailoring in his quarter out of which his wife met the expenditure of litigation. He has clearly admitted that respondent was living with him at the time of filing of suit under Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955.

(34) Based on an examination of pleadings and evidence on record what comes out is firstly that the prerequisite for initiating proceedings under Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955 i.e. separate living for one or more year was admittedly absent, therefore, the Suit No. 32 of 2005 was not maintainable in the first place and any proceedings held de hors Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 were clearly without jurisdiction. Secondly, the respondent/ wife, who was not much educated nor aware about the ways of the world certainly not about law and legal proceedings, was deceived by misrepresentation to sign blank papers and photographs, which were used to obtain a decree of divorce by the appellant fraudulently, we have no reason to disbelieve the testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2, whereas the testimony of D.W.1 does not inspire confidence. Whether respondent/wife came to Lucknow in November, 2004 or January, 2005 is not very relevant in view of absence of prerequisite for attracting Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955. Photocopy of tickets filed by the appellant in this regard are also not of much significance in view of the discussion already made.

(35) So far the statements of the parties recorded in the earlier proceedings of Suit No. 32 of 2005 and the order passed on the said case, firstly the learned Judge, who decided the case, did not even satisfy himself about existence of prerequisites of Section 13 (B) of the Act, 1955, absence of which was apparent from the pleadings of the plaint, moreover, the order-sheet reveals cryptic observation regarding attempt for mediation and inquiry. Most important, the statement of respondent and appellant are almost verbatim similar which is not natural. The statements were recorded by the Reader. Though they bear the signature of the Presiding Officer and an endorsement that the Reader had recorded it on his dictation the verbatim similarity in the statements does not inspire confidence especially when the Presiding Officer did not even bother to see as to whether the suit was maintainable on the basis of pleadings before him. Proceedings did not appear to have been held in accordance with law. Even the address of the husband and wife in their statements recorded by the Reader and the plaint were same but even this was not noticed nor mentioned by the Presiding Officer. Suit No. 1411 of 2005 was filed within almost three months of the decree dated 08.07.2005 being passed in Suit No. 32 of 2005, as soon as the respondent came to know about the fraud, which was not only on her but also on the Court. P.W.1 and P.W.2 have stood there ground in cross-examination, whereas the defence of the appellant/defendant is shaky and unbelievable/ unacceptable.

(36) Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 reads as under:-

> "13-B. Divorce by mutual consent.--(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act a petition for dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce may be presented to the district court by both the parties to a marriage together, whether such marriage was solemnized before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976, on the ground that they have been living separately for a period of one year or more, that they have not been able to live together and that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.
> (2) On the motion of both the parties made not earlier than six months after the date of the presentation of the petition referred to in sub-section (1) and not later than eighteen months after the said date, if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the court shall, on being satisfied, after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, that a marriage has been solemnized and that the averments in the petition are true, pass a decree of divorce declaring the marriage to be dissolved with effect from the date of the decree."

(37) The requirements of Section 13-B of the Act, 1955 for grant of divorce are that the parties had been living separately for a period of one year or more at the time of filing the petition and that they had not been able to live together, besides, they had mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved. As already discussed, both these ingredients were not satisfied.

(38) The appellant/husband took advantage of his dominant position vis-a-vis his wife as also the trust reposed by her on account of her fiduciary relationship and betrayed the same.

(39) The Family Court giving reference to the plaint and the written statement as well as circumstances of the case has rightly came to the conclusion that the appellant by playing fraud upon the Family Court as well as by keeping his wife in the dark, obtained the decree of divorce vide judgment/decree dated 08.07.2005, which was legally not sustainable. Its finding on issues no. 1 and 2 do not suffer from perversity. They are reinforced by our own reasoning. The decree dated 08.07.2005 was obtained by misrepresentation and deceit. The suit itself was not maintainable. The decree dated 08.07.2005 is null and void. Point nos. II to IV are answered accordingly.

(40) For the reason aforesaid, we do not find any illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgment/order. The Family Court has rightly set-aside the judgment/order dated 08.07.2005.

(41) The First Appeal is hereby dismissed. No order as to costs.

(42) Registry shall transmit the trial Court's record to the Court concerned forthwith.

THE HON'BLE RAJNISH KUMAR, J.

Second Appeal No. 392 of 2013

Shyampati ...Appellant
Versus
Ram Karan Pandey & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
V.P. Nagaur

Counsel for the Respondents:
Ram Raj Ojha, Durga Prasad

A. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code – Sections 96 & 107 - O. XLI - R. 31 – Non formulation of points of determination – Appellate court observed about the agreement between parties for not framing the new issues – Effect – Held, first appellate court proceeded to decide the issues framed by the trial court one by one and recorded its findings on all the aforesaid five issues, therefore it cannot be said that there is any violation of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC. (Para 20 and 21)

B. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code,1908 – Section 100 – Substantial question of law – UP Z.A.&L.R. Act, 1950 – Ss. 7(aa) and 9 – Perverse finding based on conjectures and surmises – Scope of interference – Non consideration of evidence of plaintiff and defendants by the first appellate court – First appellate court failed to consider that all the buildings situated within the limits of a St. belonging to any person shall also continue to belong to that person and any land appurtenant thereto shall be deemed to be settled with him and a person of the categories mentioned in Section 7(aa) of the Act would continue with the similar right as was enjoying on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting and defendants-respondents are also claiming the said structure their on the ground that it settled with them u/s 9 – Permissibility – Held, though the First Appellate Court has considered all the issues framed by the trial court and no new issue was raised to be considered but recorded perverse findings on the basis of conjectures and surmises. Hence the same are not tenable in the eyes of law and liable to be set aside. (Para 23, 27, 28 and 35)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Shri V.P.Nagaur, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Ram Raj Ojha, learned counsel for the respondent No.1. The respondent no.2 has died and no other legal heir has been substituted and respondent no.3 is the court concerned.

2. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellant submitted that the First Appellate court has decided the appeal without following the provisions of Order XLI Rule 31 CPC as it has been decided without formulating the points of determination, which arises for adjudication and recording reasons for its decision on the said point. He further submitted that merely because the plaintiff-appellant, who is an illiterate lady could not give correct description of the things, it cannot be said that she failed to prove her case. He further submitted that the space between the house of the plaintiff-appellant and the land in dispute is part of her property and left for rain water and on account of same it cannot be said that the land in dispute is not appurtenant to the house of the plaintiff-appellant. He further submitted that merely because the Husk is existing on the land in dispute, it cannot be said that it is not Sahan of the plaintiff-appellant because in view of the provisions made in the United Provinces Village Abadi Act, 1948 the house owner is entitled to make construction in the Sahan Darwaja or land appurtenant to the house as may be necessary for agricultural and domestic purposes. He also submitted that a person ordinarily residing in an area of the Gram Sabha is entitled to be registered in the village Register as per U.P.Panchayat Raj (Maintenance of Village Register) Rules 1970 and since the name of the plaintiff-appellant is recorded in the Family Register, her rights on the land in dispute cannot be disputed. He also submitted that all efforts have been made by the defendants-respondents for forceful possession on the land in dispute and making construction. The plaintiff-appellant tried to get it settled before filing the suit but merely on this ground it cannot be said that the land in dispute is not of the plaintiff-appellant. Thus since the plaintiff-appellant is in possession of the land in dispute since prior to abolition of Zamindari and her house is existing adjacent to the land in dispute and the land in dispute is being used for various agricultural and house hold purposes since the time of ancestors of her husband, it is settled with them under Section 7 (aa) and 9 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Act. He also submitted that if there was any dispute in regard to settlement of land in dispute with the parties under Section 9 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Act the issue should have been framed and decided after affording opportunity of evidence to the parties.

3. On the basis of above, learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellant submitted that the findings recorded by the first appellante court are perverse, illegal and based on conjectures and surmises, therefore the same are not sustainable in the eyes of law and are liable to be set aside by this court and the appeal is liable to be allowed. He relied on Maharaj Singh Versus State of U.P. and others; (1976) 1 SCC 155, judgment and order dated 27.03.2019 passed in Second Appeal No.232 of 1990; Jhoori and others Vesus Shambhoo Nath and others.

4. Learned counsel for the defendants-respondents submitted that the defendants-respondents are in possession and owner of the land in dispute as it is a part of their Sahan land and being used by them for various agricultural and house hold purposes since prior to abolition of Zamindari, therefore it is settled with them under Section 9 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Act. The plaintiff-appellant or her husband or his ancestors were never in possession of the land in dispute because the possession was taken by her forcefully through police force after the judgment and decree dated 12.01.2010 passed by the trial court, which is apparent from the information given under Right to Information on 13.04.2010 by the concerned Police Station and filed as Paper No.24-Ga/1 before the first appellate court. He further submitted that it is not in dispute that the fire had broken in the village on 02.04.2005, in which some portion of the house of the defendants-respondents was also burnt. He further submitted that the plaintiff-appellant has not produced any witness of the village, in which the land in dispute is situated. The plaintiff-appellant had appeared herself as P.W.1, who could not tell the correct things and P.W.2 was the interested witness as he was brother-in-law of Chandra Pal, the husband of the plaintiff-appellant, who lives in another village. He further submitted that the defendant-respondent No.1 had appeared as D.W.1 and deposed that his thatch was burnt in the fire in 2005, for which government aid was given to him and houses of nine others were also burnt, therefore it cannot be said that the land in dispute is not appurtenant land of the defendants-respondents. The plaintiff-appellant had admitted in her evidence that his Pakka house was constructed 30-40 years back and since then she is making Kanda-Uppala on its roof, therefore the contention of the plaintiff-appellant that she is using the land in dispute for the said purposes is misconceived and not tenable,but the trial court recorded the contrary findings on presumption that since there is dispute between the parties in regard to the land in dispute, therefore if the plaintiff-appellant is making Kanda-Uppala on her roof to avoid quarrel and beating, it cannot be said that she is not in possession of the land in dispute. He further submitted that in the commission report, the door of the land in dispute is in front of the house of the defendants-respondents and the land in dispute is not connected with the house of the plaintiff-appellant in any manner, which was admitted by the plaintiff-appellant also. He also submitted that plaintiff-appellant has to prove her case and she can not get any benefit of weakness of the defendants-respondents but she has failed to prove her case.

5. On the basis of above, learned counsel for the defendants-respondents submitted that the trial court has passed the judgment and decree without considering the whole evidence and recording contrary and perverse findings, therefore it has rightly and in accordance with law been set aside by the first appellate court after considering the whole pleadings, evidence and recording the findings on the basis thereof on all issues framed by the trial court as no new issue was raised, therefore there is no violation of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC also. This Second Appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which is liable to be dismissed. He relied on Bala Devi (Smt.) Versus Mukhtyar Singh; 2017 (2) ARC 363, Bhudan Singh and another Versus Nabi Bux and another; (1969) 2 SCC 481, judgment and order dated 22.11.2019 passed in Second Appeal No.251 of 2019; Chandrajit Versus Baliram (dead) and 6 others, Smriti Debbarma (dead) through Legal Representative Versus Prabha Ranjan Debbarma; AIR 2023 SC (Civil) 472, Baij Nath Ram (Dead) and others Versus Smt. 6. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

7. The appellant-plaintiff filed a suit for permanent injunction for restraining the defendants-respondents for ever not to disturb the peaceful possession of the land in dispute marked with read in the map of the plaint and do not forcefully dispossess and make no new construction and demolish the wall of the husk structure (Thatch) thereon. The suit was filed alleging therein that House No.1149 of the plaintiff-appellant was got constructed by her husband and situated since prior to abolition of Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (here-in-after referred to as U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Act). It has further been alleged that since the time of construction of her house Sahan, Baithaka, Bhusaila (husk), etc. is situated on the western side. The land in dispute is part of Sahan of plaintiff-appellant, in which there is a Bhusaila (Husk). It has also been alleged that the plaintiff-appellant used to tie her animals, make Kanda-Uppala and all other agricultural and homely works and keeps Bhusa, Puwal, Lakdi, Kanda etc. in the Husk. All these works are being done since the time of her husband like his ancestors and after his death the plaintiff-appellant is doing all such works. Thus the plaintiff-appellant is in possession and the same is settled with the husband of the plaintiff-appellant under Section 9 and Section 7 (aa) of the U.P.Z.A.& L.R.Act and after his death the plaintiff-appellant is owner and in possession of the land in dispute. It has further been alleged that all the four walls of Husk are five fit high on which there is a thatch. It has further been alleged that the defendants-respondents have neither any concern with the land in dispute nor they are in possession of the same. The house of the defendants-respondents is on the northern side of the land in dispute after the path, the Sahan Darwaja of which is on the eastern side. The defendants-respondents on the basis of their muscle power use to harass the plaintiff-appellant. The fire had broken on 02.04.2005 in the village, in which the thatch kept on the husk had fallen and taking the benefit of the same the defendants-respondents tried to make possession on the land in dispute and on being objected they threatened the plaintiff-appellant and the defendants-respondents were not ready to settle the dispute (make tafsiya) in any manner, therefore the plaintiff-appellant approached the trial court with the aforesaid prayer.

8. The suit was contested by the defendants-respondents by filing two separate written statements; one by defendants no.1 and 2 and the other by the defendant no.3, who was wife of the defendant-respondent no.2 denying the pleadings of the plaint of the suit and admitting that the house No.1149 of the plaintiff-appellant is recorded in the Parivar Register. It has also been admitted that the wall of the land in dispute is five fit high. The defendants-respondents alleged that the plaintiff-appellant has no concern with the land in dispute and she was never in possession of the same. It has further been alleged that the defendants-respondents are the permanent residents of the village in question and their house is situated at its place since the time of their ancestors, the Sahan of which is on the eastern side till date and it is wrong to say that there is a path in between the house of the defendants-respondents and the land in dispute. It has further been allged that the construction in the land in dispute was got made by the ancestors of the defendants-respondents for their sitting, which is called 'Chaupal' also. The defendants-respondents also claimed that on a part of the land in dispute they are tying their animals, making Uppla Kanda and doing other works relating to agriculture and house hold since prior to abolition of Zamindari and after abolition of Zamindari the same is settled with them under Section 9 of U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Act. It has further been alleged that after death of the husband of the plaintiff-appellant, she filed the suit with malafide intention. During pendency of the suit an application for amendment was moved on 23.05.2006 and the amendment was made in paragraph 14 of the additional pleas changing their stand to the effect that some portion of the land in dispute was given to the plaintiff-appellant as demanded by her for making her new house.

9. On the basis of pleadings of the parties the following five issues were famed:-

(I) Whether the plaintiff is owner and in possession of the land in question?

(ii) Whether suit is under valued and court fee paid thereon is insufficient?

(iii) Whether the suit is barred by section 34/41 of Specific Relief Act?

(iv) Whether the suit is barred by Limitation Act?

(v) The plaintiff is entitled to get which relief?

10. The plaintiff-appellant, in support of her claim got examined herself as P.W.1 (Shyampati) and Shree Nath as P.W.2 and filed documentary evidence. She filed Paper No.8-Ga-1 (Certified copy of Pariwar Register), Paper No.8-Ga ½ and 14-Ga-1 (Certified copy of order of the High Court), Paper No.15-Ga ½ and 62 Ga-1 to 63-Ga-3 (Original Mukhtarnama Khaas). The defendants-respondents got examined Ram Karan as D.W.1, Rajendra Prasad as D.W.2 and Ram Kripal as D.W.3. In documentary evidence, they filed Paper No.32-Ga-1 (Copy of commissioner report with map of original suit no.471/96), Paper No. 33-Ga-1/2 and Paper No.53-Ga-1/4 and Paper No.54-Ga-1 (Photographs). The commission was also got conducted during pendency of the suit and the report submitted by the Commissioner is on record as Paper No.50-Ga-2, which was confirmed by the trial court subject to evidence by the parties to the suit.

11. The trial court, after considering the pleadings of the parties, evidence and the material on record decreed the suit in favour of the plaintiff-appellant restraining the defendants-respondents from making forceful possession on the land in dispute and any new construction on the land in dispute and not to demolish the walls of Husk by means of the judgment and decree dated 12.01.2010 passed in Regular Suit No.162 of 2005; Shyampati Versus Ram Karan Pandey and others by Civil Judge (Sr.Div.), Court No.15, District-Sultanpur.

12. Being aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the Trial Court, the defendants-respondents preferred Civil Appeal No.4 of 2010; Ram Karan Pandey and others Versus Shyam Pati, which has been allowed by means of the judgment and decree dated 21.11.2013 by the Additional District Judge, Court No.4, Sultanpur and the judgment and decree dated 12.01.2010 has been set aside and the Regular Suit filed by the plaintiff-appellant has been dismissed with costs. Hence this Second Appeal has been filed.

13. The following substantial questions of law have been formulated in this second appeal:-

> "(1) Whether the lower appellate court has committed manifest illegality in not complying with the provision of Order XLI Rule 31 CPC and thereby not formulating the points of determination?
> (2) Whether the non compliance of provision of Order XLI Rule 31 CPC would make the impugned judgment and order unsustainable in the eyes of law?
> (3) Whether the findings recorded by the lower appellate court are totally perverse and based on conjecture and surmises?"

14. The appeal filed under Section 96 is a valuable right of the appellant. Section 107 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (here-in-after referred as C.P.C.) provides the powers of appellate court, which is extracted here-in-below:-

> "107. Powers of Appellate Court.—(1) Subject to such conditions and limitations as may be prescribed, an Appellate Court shall have power—*
> (a) to determine a case finally;
>
> (b) to remand a case;
>
> (c) to frame issues and refer them for trial;
>
> (d) to take additional evidence or to require such evidence to be taken.
> (2) Subject as aforesaid, the Appellate Court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed by this Code on Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted therein."

15. According to the aforesaid Sub-Section 2 of Section 107 subject to the provision made in sub-section(1), the appellate court shall have the same powers and duties as are conferred and imposed on the courts of original jurisdiction of suits instituted therein. Thus, the first appellate court has all the powers of the trial court while deciding the appeal, therefore the appellate court is required to consider all the pleadings of the parties, evidence and material available on records while deciding the appeal. The appellate court is required to pass judgment in appeal in accordance with the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC, which is extracted here-in-below:-

> "31. Contents, date and signature of judgment.—The judgment of the Appellate Court shall be in writing and shall state—*

(a) the points for determination;

(b) the decision thereon;

(c) the reasons for the decision; and

(d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled, and shall at the time that it is pronounced be signed and dated by the Judge or by the Judges concurring therein.

Allahabad._ At the end of the rule, substitute a semi-colon for the full stop and add the following:*

"Provided that where that presiding Judge pronounces his judgment by dictation to a shorthand-writer in open court, the transcript of the judgment so pronounced shall, after such revision as may be deemed necessary, be signed by the Judge and shall bear the date of its pronouncement."

16. In view of above, the appellate court is required to state the points for determination and record its reasons for the decision thereon and it can reverse or vary the decree against which the appeal has been preferred and in such case the relief to which the appellant is entitled, therefore the appellate court can not only reverse the findings of the trial court but also take a different view and it can be done after considering the pleadings, evidence and material on record as a trial court and also considering the findings recorded by the trial court and as to whether the same have rightly and in accordance with law been recorded or not after evaluating the pleadings, evidence and material on record as a trial court. It is for the reason that if any plea or evidence has been left to be considered by the trial court, it can appropriately be considered by the first appellate court to avoid injustice to either of the parties. Thus the first appeal is in continuation of trial and if all the issues framed by the trial court are considered by the first appellate court in accordance with law after considering the pleadings, evidence and material on record and dealing them appropriately and no new issue is raised at the appellate stage, this court is of the view that the judgment passed by the first appellate court may not be said to be vitiated and liable to be set aside only on this ground as there would be substantial compliance of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC.

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of G. Amalorpavam and others Versus R.C. Diocese of Madurai and others; (2006) 3 SCC 224, has held that it is no doubt desirable that the appellate court should comply with all the requirements of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC. But if it is possible to make out from the judgment that there is substantial compliance with the said requirements and that justice has not thereby suffered, that would be sufficient and where the appellate court has considered the entire evidence on record and discussed the same in detail, come to any conclusion and its findings are supported by reasons even though the point has not been framed by the appellate court there is substantial compliance with the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC and the judgment is not in any manner vitiated by the absence of a point for determination.

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in a recent judgment and order dated 10th May, 2024 in the case of Mrugendra Indravadan Mehta and others Versus Ahmadabad Municipal Corporation;

(Civil Appeal Nos.16956-16957 of 2017) 2024 Live Law (SC) 369, considered the aforesaid judgment and other judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court and held that the High Court did set out all the issues framed by the trial court in the body of the judgment and was, therefore, fully conscious of all the points that it had to consider in the appeal and no issue was left to be considered while adjudicating the appeal, therefore there is no merit in the contention that impugned judgment is liable to be set aside on this issue. The Relevant paragraphs 27 to 31 are extracted here-in-below:-

> "27. This being the legal position vis-à-vis the Act of 1976, it was contended before us by the plaintiffs that the impugned judgment of the High Court is liable to be set aside on the short ground that no points for determination were framed therein, as required by Order 41 Rule 31 CPC. Reliance was placed on *Malluru Mallappa (Dead) through Lrs. v. Kuruvathappa*5, wherein this Court observed that the first appellate Court is required to set out the points for determination, record the decision thereon and give its own reasoning. It was further observed that, even when the said Court affirms the judgment of the Trial Court, it has to comply with the requirements of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC as non-observance thereof would lead to an infirmity in its judgment. However, it may be noted that no absolute proposition was laid down therein to the effect that failure to frame points for determination, in itself, would render the first appellate Court's judgment invalid on that ground.
> 28. Reference was also made to Santosh Hazari v. Purushottam Tiwari (Deceased) by LRs6, wherein this Court held that a first appeal is a valuable right and unless restricted by law, the whole case would be open for rehearing before it, both on questions of fact and law, and, therefore, the judgment of the first appellate Court must reflect conscious application of mind and it must record findings supported by reasons on all the issues arising, along with the contentions put forth and pressed by the parties for decision of the said Court. It was further observed that, while reversing a finding of fact, the first appellate Court must come into close quarters with the reasoning of the Trial Court and then assign its own reasons for arriving at a different finding. This, per this Court, would satisfy the requirement of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC.
> 29. However, in Laliteshwar Prasad Singh v. S.P. Srivastava (Dead) thru. Lrs.7, this Court, while affirming the aforestated principles, observed that it is well settled that the mere omission to frame the points for determination would not vitiate the judgment of the first appellate Court, provided that the first appellate Court recorded its reasons based on the evidence adduced by both parties.
> 30. Thus, even if the first appellate Court does not separately frame the points for determination arising in the first appeal, it would not prove fatal as long as that Court deals with all the issues that actually arise for deliberation in the said appeal. Substantial compliance with the mandate of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC in that regard is sufficient. In this regard, useful reference may be made to G. Amalorpavam v. R.C. Diocese of Madurai8, wherein this Court held as under:—

'9. The question whether in a particular case there has been substantial compliance with the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC has to be determined on the nature of the judgment delivered in each case. Non-compliance with the provisions may not vitiate the judgment and make it wholly void, and may be ignored if there has been substantial compliance with it and the second appellate court is in a position to ascertain the findings of the lower appellate court. It is no doubt desirable that the appellate court should comply with all the requirements of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC. But if it is possible to make out from the judgment that there is substantial compliance with the said requirements and that justice has not thereby suffered, that would be sufficient. Where the appellate court has considered the entire evidence on record and discussed the same in detail, come to any conclusion and its findings are supported by reasons even though the point has not been framed by the appellate court there is substantial compliance with the provisions of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC and the judgment is not in any manner vitiated by the absence of a point of determination. Where there is an honest endeavour on the part of the lower appellate court to consider the controversy between the parties and there is proper appraisement of the respective cases and weighing and balancing of the evidence, facts and the other considerations appearing on both sides is clearly manifest by the perusal of the judgment of the lower appellate court, it would be a valid judgment even though it does not contain the points for determination. The object of the rule in making it incumbent upon the appellate court to frame points for determination and to cite reasons for the decision is to focus attention of the court on the rival contentions which arise for determination and also to provide litigant parties opportunity in understanding the ground upon which the decision is founded with a view to enable them to know the basis of the decision and if so considered appropriate and so advised to avail the remedy of second appeal conferred by Section 100 CPC.'

31. As already noted hereinabove, the High Court did set out all the issues framed by the Trial Court in the body of the judgment and was, therefore, fully conscious of all the points that it had to consider in the appeal. Further, we do not find that any particular issue that was considered by the Trial Court was left out by the High Court while adjudicating the appeal. In effect, we do not find merit in the contention that the impugned judgment is liable to be set aside on this preliminary ground, warranting reconsideration of the first appeal by the High Court afresh."

5. (2020) 4 SCC 313,
6. (2001) 3 SCC 179,
7. (2017) 2 SCC 415,
8. (2006) 3 SCC 224

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of U.Manjunath Rao Versus U.Chandrashekar and another; (2017) 15 SCC 309, has held that it is well settled in law that the reason is the life of law. It is that filament that injects soul to the judgment. Absence of analysis not only evinces non-application of mind but mummifies the core spirit of the judgment. The Hon'ble Supreme Court with reference to Rule 31 of Order 41 CPC has held that it is quite clear that the judgment of the appellate court has to state the reasons for the decision. It has also been held that the appellant could raise issues pertaining to facts and appreciation of evidence and this is indicative of the fact that the first appellate court has a defined role and its judgment should show application of mind and reflect the reasons on the basis of which it agrees with the trial court. There has to be an "expression of opinion" in the proper sense of the said phrase. Needless to say, it is one thing to state that the appeal is without any substance and it is another thing to elucidate, analyze and arrive at the conclusion that the appeal is devoid of merit and the appellate court has to keep in view the language employed in Order 41 Rule 31 CPC. Similar view has been taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of B.V.Nagesh and another Versus H.V.Sreenivasa Murthy (Supra).

20. On perusal of the impugned judgment, this court finds that the first appellate court has though not framed the points for determination, but on the basis of the arguments raised before the First Appellate court observed that nothing has been stated on behalf of both the parties for framing any new issue, therefore the issues framed by the trial court would be examined by the court. The relevant paragraph is extracted here-in-below:-

"इस न्यायालय के समक्ष उभय पक्ष की ओर से किसी नवीन वाद विन्दु के निर्धारण के सम्बन्ध में कोई कथन नहीं किया गया, इसलिए अधीनस्थ न्यायालय द्वारा विरचित किये गये वाद विन्दु की ही समीक्षा इस निर्णय में की जायेगी।"

21. After recording the aforesaid, the first appellate court proceeded to decide the issues framed by the trial court one by one and recorded its findings on all the aforesaid five issues, therefore it cannot be said that there is any violation of Order 41 Rule 31 CPC and impugned judgment vitiates and liable to be set aside on this ground alone. Thus the case of Bala Devi (Smt.) Versus Mukhtyar Singh (Supra) relied by learned counsel for the respondent no.1 is not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the present case.

22. Adverting to the facts of the pesent case the Suit filed by the plaintiff-appellant was decreed by the trial court, which was challenged before the First Appellate court. The First Appellate Court recorded a finding that the trial court though mentioned all the facts mentioned in the plaint, but has not based his judgment on the evaluation of the evidence of the plaintiff-appellant and P.W.2 and only the evidence of the defendants-respondents have been referred and the suit has been decreed, whereas the plaintiff-appellant had to prove her case on the basis of her evidence and the Suit could not have been decreed on the basis of evidence of the defendants-respondents, but failed to disclose as to how the plaintiff-appellant has failed to prove her case and as to why the reference of evidence of the plaintiff-appellant and P.W.2 was not sufficient for deciding the issue no.1 in her favour.

23. The learned First Appellate Court has recorded that the trial court has referred the evidence of defendants-respondents i.e. D.W.1, D.W.2 and D.W.3 in detail, which is not required to be mentioned again in the judgment, which clearly shows that the evidence of defendants-respondents have not been considered by the First Appellate Court merely on the ground that they have been referred extensively by the trial court, whereas it is settled law that once the parties have adduced the evidence, the burden of proof looses its efficacy, and therefore evidence of both the parties is required to be considered and evaluated.

24. The First Appellate Court considering the averments of the plaintiff-appellant in paragraph 6 of the plaint that the defendants-respondents are very powerful persons and they are not ready to settle (Tafsia) the matter observed that the plaintiff-appellant claims herself to be the owner and in possession of the land in dispute then what settlement she wanted to do and held that it indicates that the plaintiff-appellant was not confirmed about her ownership on the land in dispute, but failed to consider the further averment made in paragraph 6 of the plaint that despite repeated requests of the plaintiff-appellant, the defendants-respondents are not ready to stop their illegal activities, therefore the necessity of filing of suit arose. Thus on the basis of a sentence in a paragraph without considering the other averments made in the plaint and further averment in the said paragraph and the evidence adduced before the trial court, the presumption has been drawn by the appellate court that the plaintiff-appellant was not confirmed about her ownership on land in dispute, which could not have been done.

25. The learned First Appellate Court, in regard to the husk on the land in dispute, recorded a finding that if the same would have been of the plaintiff-appellant, the door should have been on the southern side and without considering the plea of the plaintiff-appellant in regard to the passage between the house of the plaintiff-appellant and husk recorded a finding that there is no explanation as to why the said distance has been left, whereas the plaintiff-appellant has given the explanation for the same i.e. for rain water, but it has not been considered in the light of the pleadings and evidence adduced. A presumption has also been drawn without any pleadings and evidence that if the said husk would have been of the plaintiff-appellant, it would have been got constructed in the northern side of her Baithka (sitting place) because no person would get his husk made adjacent to his house, but failed to consider that there is a passage between house and husk and if a person would not construct his husk adjacent to his house then why he would construct adjacent to the place where he/she may be sitting and entertaining his/her guests. However it is also required to be considered as to when the door of husk is not towards the house or sahan of the plaintiff-appellant, how she can claim it to be her.

26. The learned First Appellate Court recorded a finding that the plaintiff-appellant is claiming in her suit that the house No.1149 is situated since prior to Zamindari Abolition Act, whereas as per her statement in evidence the Pakka house was constructed 30-40 years ago. Her statement has been recorded on 13.07.2007. Zamindari was abolished in 1952, therefor, certainly the said house would not have been constructed prior to abolition of Zamindari, even then the trial court has recorded a finding that the house of the plaintiff-appellant was on the land in dispute since prior to Zamindari abolition, but failed to consider as to whether there was any house or not at the time of abolition of Zamindari and even if the Kachcha house was there, it cannot be said that there was no house.

27. The First Appellate Court recorded a finding that the land appurtenant to the construction would settle with the owner of the construction under Section 9 and Section 7(aa) of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Act and the husk in the land in dispute comes under the category of construction, therefore the plaintiff-appellant could not have the owner of husk, but failed to consider that all the buildings situated within the limits of a State belonging to any person shall also continue to belong to that person and any land appurtenant thereto shall be deemed to be settled with him and a person of the categories mentioned in Section 7(aa) of the Act would continue with the similar right as was enjoying on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting and defendants-respondents are also claiming the said structure their on the ground that it settled with them under Section 9 of the Act, whereas the defendant-respondent No.1 i.e. D.W.1 and D.W.2 have specifically stated that they do not know about the abolition of Zamindari in their cross examination, which is in contradiction to their pleadings. Even otherwise the United Provinces Village Abadi Act, 1948, provides under Section 3 that all houses built in a village abadi and existing on the 15th day of August, 1947, shall, unless the contrary is proved, be presumed to have been built with the consent of the landlord. Section 4(b) of the said Act provides notwithstanding any custom or usage to the contrary in any agricultural village, a house-owner may make such construction in the sahan darwaza or land appurtenant to such house as may be necessary for agricultural or domestic purposes.

28. The First Appellate Court, without considering the evidence of the plaintiff-appellant and P.W.2, recorded a finding that in the present matter the case of the plaintiff-appellant is not proved by the evidence of plaintiff-appellant and P.W.2 and she has failed to prove that she was in possession on the disputed husk since prior to abolition of Zamindari on account of which she has become the owner, whereas the plaintiff-appellant pleaded the same in her suit as well as deposed the same in examination-in-chief but no cross examination was made from her on this point in her cross-examination, but it has not been considered and no findingn has been recorded as to why it is not proved.

29. The Hon’ble Supreme Court, in the case of Maharaj Singh Versus State of U.P. and others (Supra), has held that the ‘appurtenance’ is dependence of the building on what appertains to it for its use as a building. The relevant paragraphs 27 and 28 are extracted here-in-below:-

> 27. "Appurtenance', in relation to a dwelling, or to a school, college .... includes all land

occupied therewith and used for the purpose thereof (Words and Phrases Legally Defined--- Butterworths, 2nd edn).

"The word 'appurtenances' has a distinct and definite meaning ....Prima facie it imports nothing more than what is strictly appertaining to the subject-matter of the devise or grant, and which would, in truth, pass without being specially mentioned:Ordinarily, what is necessary for the enjoyment and has been used for the purpose of the building, such as easements, alone will be appurtenant. Therefore, what is necessary for the enjoy- ment of the building is alone covered by the expression 'appurtenance'. If some other purpose was being fulfilled by the building and the lands, it is not possible to contend that those lands are covered by the expression 'appurte- nances'. Indeed 'it is settled by the earliest authority, repeated without contradiction to the latest, that land cannot be appurtenant to land. The word 'appurtenances' includes all the incorporeal hereditaments attached to the land granted or demised, such as rights of way, of common ...but it does not include lands in addition to that granted'. (Words and Phrase, supra).

28. In short, the touchstone of 'appurtenance' is dependence of the building on what appertains to it for its use as a building. Obviously, the hat, bazar or mela is not an appurtenance to the building. The law thus leads to the clear conclusion that even if the buildings were used and enjoyed in the past with the whole stretch of vacant space for a hat or mela, the land is not appurtenant to the principal subject granted by s. 9, viz., buildings. This conclustion is inevitable, although the contrary argument may be ingenious. What the High Court has grant- ed, viz., 5 yards of surrounding space, is sound in law although based on guess-work in fact. The appeal fails and is dismissed but, in the circumstances, without costs.

30. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Budhan Singh Vs. Nabi Bux and Another (supra), has held that it is true that the legislature could have used the word "lawfully held" in place of the word "held" in section 9 but as mentioned earlier one of the dictionary meanings given to the word "held" is, "lawfully held". The expression "held" has been used in various other sections to connote possession by legal title, therefore ‘held’ means ‘lawfully held’. It has been relied by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Chandrajit Versus Baliram (Dead) and 6 others (Supra)

31. The First Appellate Court on the one hand recorded a finding that even after adducing the evidence by both the parties the case was to be proved by the plaintiff-appellant first and on the other hand recorded that where both the parties have adduced the evidence the ‘burden of proof’ looses its importance, but without considering the evidence of the respective parties i.e. the plaintiff-appellant and defendants-respondents recorded a finding that keeping into mind the evidence adduced by the parties the commission report of Regular Suit No.471/96 i.e. Paper No.33-Ga/3 should have been considered, which is also in contradiction to it's own findings and also failed to consider that the said report was in regard to a suit in which the parties of the instant suit were not parties and the same was also not proved in this case in accordance with law. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Smriti Debbarma (Dead) through Legal Representative Versus Prabha Ranjan Debbarma (Supra), has held that the burden to prove facts rests with party who substantially asserts in the affirmative and not on the party which is denying it and if the parties fail to adduce evidence the suit must fail. The burden of proof and establish the title lies upon the plaintiff and onus of proof shifts and shifting is a continuous process in the evaluation of process. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Habibullah and others Versus Yasin and another (Supra) has held that a suit can be allowed on the strength of the evidence of the plaintiff and not on the weakness of the respondents. A Co-ordinate Bench of this court after considering the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Baij Nath Ram (Dead) and others Versus Smt.Sonmati and others (Supra) has held that where two contesting parties have led evidence, the burden of proof looses it's imporance and it would assume secondary importance. Thus when both the parties have led evidence, the same are to be considered in accordance with law and if on the evaluating the evidence of the parties, it is found that the strength of the evidence of the plaintiff is sufficient to prove his case in comparison to the defendant the suit can be allowed.

32. The First Appellate Court without considering the evidence adduced by the defendants-respondents and merely on the basis of their averments recorded a finding that P.W.2 was the interested witness as he was the relative of the plaintiff-appellant, whereas it was specifically denied by the P.W.2, which has been recorded but not considered and reason for not accepting it has also not been recorded. The First Appellate Court also discarded the evidence of plaintiff-appellant in view of some contradiction in her statement in regard to the brothers of her husband, but failed to consider her evidence as discussed above.

33. A plea has been raised by the plaintiff-appellant that since both the parties were claiming the possession on the land in dispute and the construction thereon since prior to the abolition of Zamindari, therefore specific issue should have been framed in this regard in view of judgment and order dated 27.03.2019 passed in Jhoori and others Versus Shambhoo Nath and others (Supra) and the District Magistrate and Gaon Sabha should also have been impleaded to clarify the position. However in the said case the Coordinate Bench of this Court had observed that in the facts and circumstances of the said case the court found it appropriate. However in the present case though the plea of settlement of land is disputed under Section 9 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Act has been raised by the defendants-respondents also, but in evidence the defendant-respondent no.1 and D.W.2 have specifically stated that they do not know about the abolition of Zamindari, therefore the plea taken by them seems to be nothing but a camouflage because a plea was taken by the plaintiff-appellant. However since the matter is being remitted, it is open for the appellate court to consider it in accordance with law.

34. This court also notices that the information given under the Right to Information on 13.04.2010 by the Police Station Jamo, District-Sultanpur was placed on record before the Lower Appellate Court as paper no.24-Ga/1, which indicates that the compliance of judgment and decree dated 12.01.2010 passed by the Civil Judge (Sr.Div.), Court No.15, Sultanpur was made by the police on an application made by the plaintiff-appellant on 14.02.2010, therefore it appears that the plaintiff-appellant was not in possession on the land in dispute on the date of judgment and decree dated 12.01.2010, whereas the Suit was filed alleging therein that the plaintiff-appellant is owner and in possession of the land in dispute and defendants-respondents have neither any concern with the land in dispute nor in possession of the same. The interim injunction for maintaining the status quo by the parties was granted on 06.05.2005 in Civil Revision filed by the plaintiff-appellant before the Court of District Judge, Sultanpur and application for interim injunction was allowed by means of order dated 06.12.2006 by the trial court, therefore the First Appellate Court while considering the case and evaluating the evidence and material on record should also have considered it.

35. In view of above this court is of the view that though the First Appellate Court has considered all the issues framed by the trial court and no new issue was raised to be considered but recorded perverse findings on the basis of conjectures and surmises. Hence the same are not tenable in the eyes of law and liable to be set aside with a direction to re-consider and decide the appeal afresh. The substantial questions of law formulated in this appeal are decided accordingly.

36. This Second Appeal is, accordingly, partly allowed. The judgment and decree dated 21.11.2013 passed in Civil Appeal No.4 of 2010; Ram Karan Pandey and others Versus Shyampati by the Additional District Judge, Court Room No.4, District-Sultanpur is hereby set aside. The matter is remitted back to the First Appellate Court to consider and decide the Civil Appeal No.4 of 2010; Ram Karan Pandey and others Versus Shyampati in accordance with law and in the light of the observations made here-in-above in this order expeditiously and preferably within a period of six months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order without granting unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties. The parties shall appear before the First Appellate Court on 18th of September 2024. No order as to costs.

37. The Lower Court Record shall be remitted back to the Lower Appellate Court expeditiously and in any case within a period of two weeks from today.

THE HON'BLE RAJIV GUPTA, J.
THE HON'BLE SURENDRA SINGH-I, J.

Government Appeal No. 1851 of 1983

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Raja Ram & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A., Sri Kamal Krishna

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri S.P.S. Raghav, Sri Pankaj Kumar Tyagi, Sri Akash Tyagi

A. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Section 302 - Death - Circumstantial evidence - suspicion - It is settled law that the suspicion, however strong it may be, cannot take the place of proof beyond reasonable doubt. An accused cannot be convicted on the ground of suspicion, no matter how strong it is. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt (Para 67)

B. Criminal Law -Criminal Procedure Code, 1973- Section 378 - Appeal against an order of acquittal - scope of interference by an appellate Court for reversing the judgment of acquittal recorded by the trial Court in favour of the accused - (i) That the judgment of acquittal suffers from patent perversity; (ii) That the same is based on a misreading/omission to consider material evidence on record; (iii) That no two reasonable views are possible and only the view consistent with the guilt of the accused is possible from the evidence available on record. Appellate Court, in order to interfere with the judgment of acquittal, would have to record pertinent findings on the above factors, if it is inclined to reverse the judgment of acquittal rendered by the trial Court. In the instant case Motive was not satisfactorily proved. The testimony of Badley and Surajveer was not at all reliable, and a false story was cooked up by them in order to lend credence to the prosecution story. A vital delay in lodging the first information report was not satisfactorily explained. The chain of circumstances was not complete so as to record the finding of conviction against the accused-respondent by reversing the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court. The trial court passed a well reasoned and detailed order, which cannot be said to be perverse, impossible and illegal and, as such, the Government Appeal filed by the State was dismissed. (Para 89, 93, 94, 95)

C. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 302 - Death - Circumstantial evidence -Instant case based on circumstantial evidence, as most of the witnesses produced during the trial were not eyewitnesses to the incident. Only Ramphal Singh (P.W.-4) was alleged to be an eyewitness. Ramphal Singh stated that on the date of the incident, while he was easing himself in his field, he saw 6-7 persons forcibly taking away Har Lal. He further stated that Chand assaulted Har Lal with a knife, while the other accused attacked him with lathis. Thereafter, they wrapped Har Lal in a bed sheet and carried him toward the village by hanging him on a lathi. However, Ramphal Singh neither made any attempt to rescue the deceased nor raised an alarm. Instead, after witnessing the incident, he simply went home. He did not even attempt to lodge a report, which casts serious doubt on the credibility of his testimony. His conduct raised questions about the truthfulness of his eyewitness account, making him a highly doubtful witness, unworthy of reliance. Furthermore, during cross-examination, he admitted to having appeared as a prosecution witness in multiple police cases, leading to the inference that he was a pocket witness for the police. Held : Considering these factors, the Court held that it would not be safe to rely upon his uncorroborated testimony as an eyewitness to the incident. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rajiv Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Jitendra Kumar Jaiswal, learned AGA for the State, Sri Pankaj Kumar Tyagi assisted by Sri Akash Tyagi, learned counsel for the accused-respondents and perused the record.

2. Learned AGA has informed this Court that in the instant Government Appeal, Raja Ram, Bhagwan Singh and Sagar Singh son of Mukhtiar Singh has already passed away and the instant appeal on their behalf has already been abated vide order dated 15.5.2024 and now the appeal survives only qua appellant No. 3- Shri Chand.

3. The present Government Appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 3.5.1983 passed by Special Judge, Bulandshahr in Sessions Trial No. 230 of 1980 (State Vs. Raja Ram and others), P.S. Gulaoti, District- Bulandshahr, by which the accused-respondents have been acquitted of all the charges framed against them.

4. The prosecution case as unraveled in the first information report lodged at the instance of P.W.-6 Surajveer is that the first formant is the permanent resident of village-Bhadaula, P.S. Modinagar, District-Ghaziabad, however for the last eight years they have been living at the house of one Badley, their maternal uncle resident of village-Barmadpur, P.S. Gulaoti, District-Bulandshahr, who was running a Wheat Flour Mill (Aata-Chakki). It is alleged that said Wheat Grinding Mill was run by Har Lal brother of the first informant. On 19.6.1978 at about 5 p.m., elder daughter of Shyami Gurjar reached at Wheat Grinding Mill for collecting her wheat flour. At the relevant time, Har Lal was present at the Wheat Grinding Mill and incidently, his shoulder rubbed against the shoulder of the girl, consequent to which, she felt bad and the girl after hurling abuses left for her house.

5. It is further alleged that the said factum was disclosed by his brother to Pyare Lal and Bachan Singh. At about 7.30 p.m. when his brother after taking his meal was sitting at the Wheat Grinding Mill, Bhagwan Singh, Rajaram and Sagar Singh reached there and started hurling abuses for the aforesaid conduct of Har Lal. On his refusal for the same, they took him away for clarifying the said incident of the matter. He alongwith his maternal uncle started following them, however they were stopped stating that he will return very soon after clarifying the matter, as such they did not accompany him.

6. It is further alleged that when his brother Har Lal did not return back at his Wheat Grinding Mill till 9.30 P.M., then he alongwith his maternal uncle Badley set out to know his whereabouts and searched for him towards village- Ustara, where near the canal contributory they saw Rajaram, Bhagwan Singh, Sagar Singh. Shri Chand son of Shyami alongwith 2-3 unknown persons coming from the field of Jalla. It is further alleged that they were carrying his brother in a hanging position towards the Wheat Grinding Mill Ustara. On their interception they started assaulting his maternal uncle Badley by lathi and also rushed towards him, however he alongwith his maternal uncle made his escape good. On account of fear they stayed the whole night in the Jungle and on the next morning reached the police station to lodge the report, however, found that all the accused assailants were present there, as such they dared not to enter the police station and on making query, it was revealed that they had killed his brother and had lodged a false report of loot.

7. It is further alleged that on that very day at about 6 p.m. he had sent a telegram addressed to S.P, Bulandshahr from Hapur. On the basis of said written report, a first information report is shown to have been registered on 22.6.1978 at 12.15 p.m., vide Case Crime No. 144A, under Sections 147, 323, 504, 302 IPC, P.S. Gulaoti, District- Bulandshahr in respect of an incident alleged to have taken place on 19.6.1978 at 7.30 p.m.

8. Perusal of the record of the instant case shows that prior to lodging of the aforesaid first information report another FIR had already been lodged by Mukhtiar Singh father of accused Sagar Singh at the same police station of District-Bulandshahr, which is registered vide Case Crime No. 144 of 1978, under Section 394 IPC alleging therein that near village-Ustara they are having their fields having a tubewell and a Wheat Grinding Mill, where his son Sagar Singh alongwith his servant Rajendra Singh were sleeping and a bulb was lighting at the tube-well. At about 11.30 in the night, some miscreants came at his tube-well and looted his son and servant and assaulted them. On raising alarm, his younger brother Parmal Singh alongwith some other villagers reached there, consequent thereto, the miscreants left the place looting his wrist watch, however one of the miscreant, who was having a country made pistol alongwith cartridges was apprehended by Rajendra and Sagar Singh alongwith villagers. In the said attempt to apprehend him, he suffered injuries on his head. While the miscreant was being carried in a buggi, he died in the intervening night at about 2.30 A.M. Leaving him in the buggi, he has come to lodge the report. On the basis of a written report a first information report has been registered at P.S. Gulaoti, Bulandshahr on 20.6.1978 at 2.45 A.M. After registration of the said information, its corresponding G.D. Entry was prepared at the police station and thereafter S.I. Dinesh Lal Sharma (P.W.-12), who was posted there at the relevant time, proceeded to village-Ustara for conducting the inquest on the person of the deceased and when he reached near old Dharamshala, he found a corpse lying in a buggi and large number of persons had collected there. P.W.-12 Dinesh Lal Sharma conducted the inquest of the deceased and prepared the inquest report and also prepared the other relevant documents namely Challan nash, Photo nash, Letter to R.I., letter to C.M.O. and thereafter sealed the corpse in a cloth and after preparing its sample seal handed over the same to the police constable for carrying to the mortuary for conducting of an autopsy on the person of the deceased.

9. On 20.6.1978 at 4.45 p.m. Dr. V.P. Mittal had conducted an autopsy on the person of the deceased Har Lal and has noted the following injuries :-

1. Lacerated wound 2 ¼" x ⅓" bone deep right Side head 4" above right ear.

2. Lacerated wound ¾" x ¼" muscle deep tip of nose.

3. Contusion 4" x 4" right shoulder.

4. Contusion 7" x 3" outer aspect to arm middle.

5. Contusion 11" x 3 ½" outer and back of right forearm.

6. Stab wound 1" x ½" right lateral chest cavity deep right side chest 5" below right nipple at 8 o'clock upward and obliquely directed.

7. Abrasion 3" x ¼" right side chest 2" above injury no. 6.

8. Multiple abraded contusions are of 14 ½" x 12 ½" on the back scapular region.

9. Traumatic swelling 7" x 3 ½" front of right leg middle fracture tibia right.

10. Contusion 3" x 1 ½" left shoulder.

11. Contusion 6" x 3 ½" front of left thigh lower 1/3rd.

The cause of death has been noted to be as a result of injuries.

10. After the autopsy on the person of the deceased, his corpse was handed over to his brother Surajveer and Badley, who had taken the dead body to Hapur in a truck. Enroute to Hapur it is stated that at about 8.35 p.m. in the night on 20.6.1978 a telegram addressed to S.P. Bulandshahr, was sent by P.W.-6 Surajveer, wherein it is stated that his brother Har Lal, who was taken away by Rajaram, Bhagwan Singh and Sagar, has been done to death at the Wheat Grinding Mill of Sagar Singh in village- Ustara and when he went to lodge the report, the police detained him till 3 p.m. but did not lodge his report and is in collusion with the accused persons. The said telegram has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka – 2.

11. Perusal of the record further shows that on 22.6.1978 P.W.-6 Surajveer reached at P.S. Gulaoti and handed over a written report to the Head Moharrir at Police Station- Gulaoti, District- Bulandshahr, on the basis of which, a cross case was registered vide Case Crime No. 144A, under Sections 147, 323, 504, 302 IPC against four accused respondents in presence of Surajveer. After registration of the aforesaid first information report, the investigation of the said case was handed over to P.W.-12 Dinesh Lal Sharma, Ist Investigating Officer, who recorded the statement of first informant Surajveer and then proceeded to village- Barmadpur, where he recorded the statement of Badley, Ratiram, Ramphal, Jeet Singh and other witnesses and thereafter inspected the place of incident on way to Wheat Grinding Mill and prepared the site plan proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-17 & 18. On the way to Wheat Grinding Mill of accused Sagar Singh found blood at three places at the boundary marks of Ramphal and Vedpal and from the field of Khoob under the mulberry tree. He collected the blood stained earth and plain earth from the said places, which was kept in a container and sealed and its fard recovery memo was prepared. The aforesaid recovery memo has been proved and marked as Exbts. Ka-19, 20 & 21. On 22.6.1978, the Investigating Officer is said to have collected a Register maintained at the Wheat Grinding Mill of the Surajveer containing the name of one Kalicharan, who had given wheat for grinding on 16.6.1978. On the basis of which, a recovery memo has been prepared by the Investigating Officer, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-16. The Investigating Officer thereafter recorded the statement of Pyare Lal and Bachan Singh and thereafter the Investigation is said to have been transferred to P.W.-10- Shashi Pal Singh Tomar, 2nd Investigating Officer, who after concluding the investigation submitted the charge sheet against the accused-respondents on 28.11.1978.

12. On the basis of said charge sheet, learned Magistrate had taken cognizance and since the case was exclusively triable by the court of Sessions, as such the same was made over to the court of Sessions for trial, where it was registered as Session Trial No. 230 of 1980 (State vs. Rajaram and others). The trial court framed the charges against the accused-respondents, which was read over and explained to them, who abjured the charges, did not plead guilty and claimed to be tried.

13. During the course of trial, the prosecution in order to prove the guilt against the accused respondents have produced as many as twelve witnesses. Badley (P.W.-2), Ratiram (P.W.-3), Ramphal Singh (P.W.-4), Jeet Singh (P.W-5), Surajveer (P.W.-6) and Pyare Lal (P.W.-11) are the witnesses of fact whereas Dr. V.P. Mittal (P.W.-1) is the medical officer, who conducted an autopsy on the person of the deceased and prepared the post-mortem examination report, Dr. Anees Ahmad (P.W.-7) is the medical officer, who had examined the injuries of P.W.-2- Badley, Khoob Chand (P.W.-8) is the constable, who had taken the dead body to the mortuary for autopsy, Santpal Singh (P.W.-9) is the Head Moharrir, who had proved the chick first information report lodged by Surajveer (P.W.-6), Shashi Pal Singh Tomar (P.W.-10) is the second I.O., who concluded the investigation and submitted the charge sheet and Dinesh Lal Sharma (P.W.-12) is the Investigating Officer of the instant case. After recording the entire evidence, the statement of the accused persons were recoded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and thereafter statement of one Dr. M.P. Singh, who was produced as defence witness, was recorded and thereafter the trial court vide impugned judgment and order dated 3.5.1983 has acquitted all the accused persons. Against which, the present Government Appeal has been preferred with the prayer to reverse the acquittal of the accused-respondents and to convict them for the offence charged with.

14. In order to appreciate the controversy in question and to determine the correctness of the conclusions recorded by the trial court, it would be apt to discuss the evidence in brief adduced by the witnesses examined by the prosecution as well as defence.

15. Dr. V.P. Mittal (P.W.-1) is the medical officer, who had conducted an autopsy on the person of the deceased and has noted the ante-mortem injuries found on the person of the deceased. The said injuries have already been discussed in the earlier part of the judgment. As per the opinion of the doctor, the deceased could have died on 19.6.1978 at 8.30 p.m. and the injury no. 6 could be caused by a knife, which itself was sufficient to cause death, the other injuries could be caused by lathi.

16. Badley (P.W.-2) is the maternal uncle of the deceased. He, in his testimony, has stated that Har Lal was his nephew, he alongwith Surajveer were living with him for the last eight years and used to run his thresher and Wheat Grinding Mill. Accused Bhagwan Singh and Shri Chand are the nephews of Rajaram and accused Sagar Singh is the friend of Shri Chand, resident of village-Ustara. He further stated that about four years back, Har Lal was done to death. On the day of incident, Sheela daughter of Kalicharan had reached at the Wheat Grinding Mill of Har Lal for taking flour. At the time of her leaving, Har Lal's shoulder incidently brushed the shoulder of Sheela, consequent thereto she felt bad about it and started hurling abuses to Har Lal, however thereafter she left. Badley further stated that on the same day in the evening at about 7 p.m. he alongwith Surajveer and Har Lal were sitting at the Wheat Grinding Mill alongwith Pyare Lal and Bachan, who are the employees of Har Lal. At the relevant time Rajaram, Bhagwan Singh and Sagar reached there and Rajaram and Bhagwan asked Har Lal as to why he pushed the girl and started hurling abuses. Har Lal stated that he can clarify the said issue and with an intention to clarify things, set out with them. They also tried to follow him, however Har Lal stopped them stating that he would return back after making clarification.

17. It is further stated that they waited there till 9 p.m. however, Har Lal did not return back at the Wheat Grinding Mill and as such he alongwith Surajveer set out to search him out and went upto the house of Kalicharan but could not find him there, then they returned back and proceeded towards village-Ustara for searching Har Lal and when they reached at the bridge of the canal contributory near the field of Jalla, they saw all four accused persons alongwith three unknown persons, who were having a bundle (hereinafter referred to as gathri) from which cries of some person could be heard. On questioning the accused assailants as to where they left Har Lal they kept the gathri down and Bhagwan Singh and Shri Chand assaulted him with lathi, consequent to which he fell down, however Surajveer made his escape good and thereafter the accused persons after assaulting him left the place taking away the gathri. It was a moon lit night. After the accused persons left, he slowly proceeded towards his village and on the way found Surajveer sitting on the boundary marks of the field of Kalicharan. He also sat with him and remained sitting there the whole night due to fear and on the next day when it dawned morning they left for Gulaoti and reached at the police station Gulaoti and asked the police to lodge their report however, the police personnel asked them to sit down, but despite assurance did not lodge their report.

18. It is further alleged that inside the police station they saw all four accused persons alongwith one Mukhtiar, father of Sagar standing, however the police did not lodge their report and continued to converse with the accused persons. He further categorically stated that he had seen the dead body of Har Lal lying inside police station. At about 10-11 a.m., the police tied the corpse of Har Lal on a tonga and asked him to take the corpse to Bulandshahr. He sat alongwith the corpse on the tonga and reached Bulandshahr. Surajveer also reached separately at the hospital in Bulandshahr. At the hospital his injuries were examined. After the autopsy on the person of deceased Har Lal, he returned back to his house and corpse of Har Lal was taken away by Surajveer to his village.

19. During cross examination he stated that Har Lal is the resident of Bhadaula, District- Ghaziabad and one P.W.-11 Pyare Lal is also of the same village, however, the village of Bachan Singh another witness is not known. Surajveer brought Pyare Lal and Bachan at his Wheat Grinding Mill for training. The distance between village- Barmadpur and Ustara is two miles.

20. Further, he stated that about 6-7 years back, elections for the office of Pradhan were held in his village, which was contested by Bhuley and Ramphal. He supported the candidature of Ramphal however, Bhuley was supported by accused Bhagwan Singh, Rajaram and his family members, and since then there has been parti-bandi in the village.

21. He further stated that house of Shri Chand, Bhagwan Singh and Rajaram is situate at a distance of 25 paces from his house. He further stated that in his village there are four persons in the name of Shri Chand, however accused Shri Chand is the son of Kalicharan. After about 3-4 days of the incident, the Investigating Officer had recorded his statement. He further stated that the incident of brushing of shoulder of Har Lal with Sheela resulting in hurling of abuses by Sheela did not occur in his presence but was disclosed to him by Har Lal, which fact he had disclosed to the Investigating Officer. However, if the said factum has not been recorded by the I.O. in his statement, then he cannot explain the reason for the same. He further stated that in the evening he was sitting at his Wheat Grinding Mill when the accused persons reached there. Pyare Lal (P.W.-11) and Bachan were also sitting there. He further stated that as soon as the accused persons reached there, they started hurling abuses, which lasted for 2-3 minutes, however then he did not suspect that the accused persons will commit such an incident. He did not restrain Har Lal not to accompany the accused alone in the night hours. The accused took him away to give clarification before the girl. There was no reason to follow them. It is wrong to state that the accused persons did not come at his Wheat Grinding Mill and Har Lal did not accompany them. At the time of setting out to search Har Lal he did not ask Pyarelal and Bachan to accompany him. He further stated that on the day of incident when he alongwith Surajveer reached at the canal contributory, in search of Har Lal no persons were present there. When for the first time he had seen the 'gathri', he was 5-6 paces away from it. The said place was pointed out by him to the Investigating Officer, however he cannot explain as to why Investigating Officer has not shown the said place in the site-plan.

22. He further stated that "मैनें दरोगा को यह ब्यान दिया था "हमने मुलजिमान से पूछा कि तुमने हरलाल को कहाँ छोड़ा इतने में उन्होनें गठरी रख दी। भगवान सिंह व श्री चन्द ने मुझे लाठी मारी।" यह बात दरोगाजी ने क्यों नहीं लिखी कारण नही बता सकता।

मेरी चोटों से खून नही निकला। मैनें दरोगाजी को बता दिया था कि जब मैं गिर गया तो मुलजिमान ने और लाठी मारी यह बात ब्यान में नहीं लिखी, कारण नहीं बता सकता।

मुलजिमान के जाने के बाद मैं उठ कर अपने गांव की तरफ चल दिया। मै 40, 50 गज बरमदपुर की तरफ चला तो मुझे सूरजवीर मेंड पर बैठा मिला। मैनें दरोगाजी को ब्यान दिया था कि " मै मुलजिमान के चले जाने के बाद धीरे धीरे उठ कर गाँव कीर तरफ चला और मेरा भाँजा सूरजवीर मेंड पर बैठा मिला मै उसके साथ बैठ गया और रात भर वहीं बैठा रहा " मैं कारण नहीं बता सकता मेरे ब्यान में क्यों नही लिखा।

हम थाने के भीतर नही गये हमें थाने के फाटक पर ही बिठा दिया था। मुझे फाटक पर पुलिस के सिपाही मिले थे कहा था यही बैठना। मैने उस सिपाही से कहा था कि हमे अन्दर जाने दो रपट करानी है तो सिपाही ने कह दिया यही बैठे रहे। हरलाल की लाश घोड़ा तांगे में रखी थाने के फाटक पर ही आ गई ताँगे में मैं बैठा एक चोकीदार बैठा। लाश बाहर आ जाने के बाद मैंने थाने में घुसने का प्रयास नही किया क्योकि डर गया।

मैनें दरोगाजी को यह ब्यान दिया था " हमने कहा कि हमारी रिपोर्ट लिख दो थाने वालो ने कहा की बैठ जाओ हम तुम्हारी रिपोर्ट लिख देगे। थाने वालो ने हमारी रिपोर्ट नही लिखी" मेरे ब्यान मे दरोगा ने यह बात नहीं लिखी कारण नही बता सकता।"

23. He further stated that it is wrong to state that no such incident has taken place and on account of parti-bandi and enmity, he is falsely deposing. He further denied the suggestion that on 19.6.1978 accused Sagar Singh and his servant were sleeping at the tube-well and at about 11.30 p.m. Har Lal and 2-3 other miscreants went at the tube-well and assaulted him and looted him. He further denied the suggestion that Mukhtiar and Sagar Singh were taking away the dead body at Gulaoti on a buggi, where he died. He further denied the suggestion that in order to save himself from the incident reported by Mukhtiar Singh, he is falsely deposing.

24. Rati Ram (P.W.-3) is an another witness of the incident, who alleges to have seen Sri Rajaram, Bhagwan Sahai and Sagar taking away Har Lal towards Ustara. In his oral testimony he states that about four years back at about 8 p.m. he had gone to ease and while he was returning back home, he met 6-7 persons but identified Sri Rajaram, Bhagwan Singh and Sagar. Har Lal was also there, Sagar and Shri had held Har Lal by his shoulders, Rajaram gagged his mouth and Bhagwan Singh was pushing him towards village-Ustara. They were armed with lathies. On being questioned they asked him to leave and stated that it is none of his concern. On the next day, he came to know that Har Lal was done to death.

25. During cross examination, he stated that after three days of the incident, he was interrogated by the Investigating Officer. He in his statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. had disclosed the fathers name of accused persons however, if it is not there he cannot assign any reason for the same. Since last one year, there is no dispute between him and accused Bhagwan Singh. He had gone to ease near the pond, however except the accused persons no one was met him there. He had pointed out the said place to the Investigating Officer, however, he does not finds the said place, shown in the site-plan for which he cannot state anything. He saw the accused persons for a minutes who thereafter proceeded towards vilalge-Ustara and he returned back home and remained there till his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer. He further stated that he did not disclose the aforesaid fact to any other person except the Investigating Officer. He further stated that there are two persons by the name of Kalicharan, one is father of Shri Chand and other Kalicharan is the son of Girdhari. He further denied the suggestion that because of inimical terms and parti-bandi and on the instigation of Surajveer and Badley he is falsely deposing.

26. Ramphal Singh (P.W.-4) is another eye witness, who claims to have seen the accused persons assaulting the deceased. He stated that about four and a half years back at about 8.30 p.m. he was easing in his millet field. When he saw 6-7 persons taking away Har Lal from village Barmadpur to village- Ustara. He identified Sagar, Bhagwan Singh, Rajaram and Shri Chand amongst them but not the three others. Sagar and Bhagwan Singh were holding him by his arms and rest were pushing him. Rajaram held him by his mouth. When Rajaram hands slipped from the mouth of Har Lal then he had bitten Sagarmal, consequent to which, Sagar asked Shri Chand to stab him by a knife. Shri Chand then assaulted Har Lal by a knife while others assaulted him by lathies. Thereafter they wrapped him in a bed sheet, hanged him on a lathi and proceeded towards village-Ustara. He further categorically stated that he did not reacted at all and returned back to his home. Next day he came to know that Har Lal had been killed by the accused persons. At the time of incident, there was moon light.

27. During cross examination, he stated that in number of cases, he had been a police witness and had deposed before the Court. He further stated that he had pointed out to the Investigating Officer the place, where he had gone to ease, however the said place has not been shown in the site-plan. He further stated that he had seen the accused persons from a distance of 4-5 paces but did not question them, when accused persons had taken Har Lal towards village-Ustara then he returned back to his house. After 3-4 days of the incident, the Investigating Officer has recorded his statement. He further stated that on the next day the factum of accused taking away Har Lal was disclosed by him to the villagers, however, he did not consider it necessary to lodge any report of the incident.

28. During cross examination he stated that he saw the accused persons and their men dragging away Har Lal towards Ustara but no mark of dragging was seen by him. He further denied the suggestion that on account of enmity and parti-bandi and under the influence of police he is falsely deposing.

29. Jeet Singh (P.W.-5) is the another witness of the incident and he stated that about four years back at about 10 p.m. he alongwith one Charan Singh was returning from village-Ustara to his village and when he reached near the mulberry tree in the field of Vedu, he saw 5-7 persons present, out of which Rajaram, Sagar, Shri and Bhagwan Singh could be identified however, the other three persons standing under the mulberry could not be identified. They were armed with lathies and a bundle (gathri) was lying there. He tried to question them, however he was snubbed. Thereafter on the next day he came to know that Har Lal has been killed. He further denied the suggestion that there is some dispute between him and Rajaram over irrigation of their fields by rotation.

30. He further stated that on the relevant day of incident, he had gone alongwith Charan Singh to purchase a buffalo, however, could not buy it. He further stated that he did not disclose to the Investigating Officer that he had gone to Sherpur to buy a buffalo rather had stated to him that after completing his job he was returning back from Ustara which was correct. He further stated that he had pointed out the place to the Investigating Officer, from where he had seen the accused persons but it has not been shown in the site plan. He had disclosed the said incident to the some villagers and then went to sleep and on the next day he came to know about the murder of Har Lal however, he did not lodge the report nor asked anyone else to lodge the report. He further stated that he is related to Badley. He further denied the suggestion that on account of being the relative of Badley and being an inimical terms and under the pressure of the police, he is falsely deposing.

31. Surajveer (P.W-6) is the first informant of the incident and brother of the deceased. He further stated that since last eight years, he has been staying in village-Barmadpur alongwith his brother Har Lal at the house of his maternal uncle, where he runs a Wheat Grinding Mill and a thresher machine. About four years back at about 5 p.m. Sheela daughter of Kalicharan had come at his Wheat Grinding Mill for grinding of wheat, however, while she was leaving, her shoulder brushed with the shoulder of Har Lal, consequent to which, she hurled abuses and left. On the same day at about 7 p.m. When he alongwith his brother Har Lal, maternal uncle Badley, servants Bachan Singh and Pyare Lal were present at the Wheat Grinding Mill, Bhagwan Singh, Rajaram and Sagar came at the Wheat Grinding Mill armed with lathies and started hurling abuses and asked Har Lal to explain his conduct of brushing his shoulder with that of the girl. He alongwith Har Lal tried to clarify the issue however, they restrained him there and took away Har Lal stating that he will come back after clarifying the issue. When Har Lal did not return back even after 9 p.m. then he alongwith Badley set out to find out his whereabouts and went towards the house of Kalicharan but did not find him there then they proceeded towards canal contributory to search Har Lal and when they reached on the bridge of the canal near the field of Jalla then they heard some faint noise and were 4-5 mitres away then saw Rajaram, Lakhan Singh, Sagar and Shri Chand alongwith 2-3 unknown persons holding a gathri proceeding towards village-Ustara. The said gathri was hanging on a lathi. On questioning them about Har Lal they kept down the gathri and started assaulting them. He did not receive any injury and ran away, however, his maternal uncle received injuries. He thereafter hid himself in the field of Rajaram. After 5 minutes Badley also reached there and on account of fear they stayed there the whole night and in the morning at about 5 a.m. reached police station- Gulaoti to lodge the report. On reaching there they found the accused persons present in the police station- Gulaoti, however, the police personal asked them to sit outside the police station and detained them there till 11 a.m. On questioning the police personnels, he was informed that accused persons had lodged a false report of dacoity and had killed Har Lal. At about 11 a.m. the police personnels sent the corpse of Har Lal for post-mortem by a tonga, on which his maternal uncle also sat and subsequently, he also reached at the mortuary in Bulandshahr. At about 5 p.m. after the post-mortem the corpse of Har Lal was handed over to him, who brought corpse on a truck to Hapur and thereafter at about 8 p.m. he sent a telegram addressed to S.P. Bulandhahr, a copy of which is proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-2 and thereafter he took the corpse to his village- Bhadaula. On the next day he came to Bulandshahr and met the S.P. who took a written report, which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-3 signed by him and scribed by one Dilawar Singh. The accounts of Wheat Grinding Mill was maintained by his brother Har Lal in a register marked as Material Exhibit- 1, which contains an entry dated 16.06.1978 in the name of Kalicharan, which has been marked as Exhibit- 4.

32. During cross examination he stated that he was an Army personnel and remained in Army Services for five years however, he was tried and convicted in a case. He used to visit his nanihal since childhood and the house of the accused persons is at a distance of 100-150 meters from his chakk. He has further stated that although he was aware of the parentage of accused Rajaram, Bhagwan Singh and Sagar but did not mention it in the FIR. He further stated that he had not mentioned the name of Shri Chand in his telegram as he was in a hurry and had nominated only three persons in the telegram as only these three persons came to call his brother. After three days of the incident, the Investigating Officer had recorded his statement. He further stated that in the FIR he had stated that Sheela daughter of Kalicharan had come for grinding of her wheat at his Wheat Grinding Mill, however if the said fact is not written there, he cannot assign any reason for the same. He further stated that when he reached at his Wheat Grinding Mill at 6.30 P.M., the incident with Sheela had already been over.

33. He further stated that when accused persons came at his Wheat Grinding Mill in the evening he was sitting however, no one else was sitting with him. Though he saw the accused persons were armed with lathi but he did not suspect anything otherwise. On drawing his attention to the register marked as Material Exhibit-1, he pointed out that name of the person, who comes for grinding of wheat, is entered in the register however, in the said register name of Sheela is not mentioned. He further stated that he is not aware of the fact that there are two persons in the name of Kalicharan in his village.

34. He further stated that "मैंने अपनी रपट में यह बातें लिखाई थी कि " मुल्जिमान के हाथों में लाठियाँ थी। इन लोगों ने हम लोगों को गालियाँ दी और मेरे हरलाल से लड़की के साथ कन्धा छूने वाली बात की सफाई के लिये कहा" रपट में यह बात अगर नहीं है तो इसकी कोई वजह नहीं बता सकता। वैसे यह बात मैनें दरोगाजी को बता दी थी। मुल्जिमान के गाली देने और हाथ में लाठी लिये होने पर हमें उन पर कोई शक नहीं हुआ। हरलाल से नही कहा कि रात हो रही है इन लोगो के साथ मत जाओ। मैनें उनसे यह नहीं कहा कि जो हो गया उसको छोड़ो अब सफाई की क्या जरूरत है। चूँकि मुल्जिमान हरलाल को लड़की के पास ले जा रहे थे। मैंने नही पूछा कि कहाँ ले जा रहे हो। मैं व मेरे मामा बदले हरलाल के जाने के बाद वही चक्की पर बैठे रहे। 2 घन्टे तक बैठे रहे। इस बीच में किसी को हरलाल को देखने के लिये नही भेजा।"

35. He further denied the suggestion that no incident had taken place with Sheela and no one has come to take away Har Lal. To quote :- "मैनें अपने रपट में लिखा दिया था कि राजा राम के खेत में छिपे थे और दरोगाजी को भी बता दिया था यदि हमारे ब्यान में राजाराम के खेत नही लिखा तो इसकी कोई वजह नही बता सकता और रिपोर्ट में भी नही लिखा तो इसकी वजह नही बता सकता। बदले की चोटों से कोई खून नहीं निकला था। मेरे ब्यान 161 व F.I.R. में यह बात कि उन्होने गठरी रख दी क्यों नही लिखी गई इसका कारण नहीं बता सकता। हमने पूछा कि हर लाल कहा है यह बात रपट में लिखाई क्यों नही लिखा, कारण नहीं बता सकता। मैंने दरोगाजी को स्थान नही दिखाया जहाँ मुल्जिमान ने गठरी रख दी थी।"

36. He further stated that he alongwith his uncle reached at the police station- Gulaoti at 5 p.m. where a constable was standing at the gate, however, he did not went inside the police station as accused persons were present inside the police station nor asked the police personnels to lodge his report and remained sitting there till 11 a.m. He asked the police personnels to record his statement but they did not paid any heed. He further denied the suggestion that they remained sitting at the police station till 3 p.m., however he further stated that the factum of sitting at the police station till 3 p.m. has inadvertently been mentioned by him in the telegram in a hurry and the police personnels made them sit outside the police station only till 11 a.m. It is wrong to state that he did not went to police station to lodge the report.

37. He further stated that when he reached the police station, the corpse of Har Lal was seen lying in the police station, which he could not identify to be that of Har Lal. Alongwith the corpse one police personnel went on a tonga, however, he did not ask him to lodge his report. He did not state in his report or in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that the police personnels sent the corpse of Har Lal for post-mortem examination on a tonga at 11 a.m. nor stated that his maternal uncle sat on the tonga with the corpse, for which he cannot give any explanation. He stayed in mortuary for two hours and thereafter reached Bhadaula alongwith corpse at about 8 p.m., however, he did not lodge any report at the police station- Gulaoti. On 22.6.1978 he had lodged the report, which is marked as Exbt. Ka-3. Between the said period he remained in village- Bhadaula. In the first information report, name of witnesses Ratiram and Jeet Singh has not been mentioned.

38. He further denied the suggestion that the information about the death of Har Lal was received on 30.6.1978 and false telegram was sent. It is wrong to state that just in order to save himself from the report of Mukhtiar Singh father of accused Sagar, the instant case has been falsely cooked up and concocted on account of enmity and parti-bandi and no such incident had taken place.

39. Dr. Anees Ahmad (P.W.-7) is the medical officer, who had examined injuries of Badley (P.W.-2) and has noted the following injuries:-

(i). Contusion 7 c.m. x 2 c.m. on right side back.

(ii). Contusion 8 c.m. x 3 c.m. on right scapula.

The said injuries have been proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-5. He further stated all the injuries are simple in nature and could be caused by lathi on the date and time of incident. During cross examination, he has stated that all the injuries are on approachable part and none of the injuries are on vital part of the body and could be manipulated.

40. Khoob Chand (P.W.-8) is the constable, who had accompanied S.I. D.L. Sharma (P.W.-12) for conducting the inquest. He further stated that on 20.6.1978, he was posted as a constable at police station- Gulaoti and on the said date had gone with S.I. D.L. Sharma for conducting the inquest. He further stated that after conducing the inquest, the corpse was sealed and after preparing relevant documents was handed over to him alongwith constable Bheem Singh, who had taken the corpse to the mortuary and handed over the same to the doctor.

41. After conducting the post-mortem, the doctor handed over them certain documents, which they brought at the police station and handed them over to the concerned Moharrir. During cross examination, the said witness clearly stated that from the place of incident he straight-way to Bulandshahr and had not gone to police station- Gulaoti. He reached Bulandshahr after 12' o clock. To quote :- "मौके से लाश लेकर मै सीधा बुलन्दशहर आया था थाना गुलावटी नही गया था मै बुलन्दशहर 12 बजे पहुँचा था।"

42. Sant Pal Singh (P.W.-9) is the Head Moharrir and on 22.6.1978, he had drawn FIR on the basis of written report given by Surajveer (P.W.-6), which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-3, on which, there was an order by the C.O. to register the first information report. On the basis of which, the chick FIR has been drawn, which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-7 and its corresponding G.D. vide G.D. Report No. 21 has been drawn, which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-8. He further stated that on 20.6.1978 at 8.45 p.m. constable Bheem Singh and Phool Chand returned back at the police station alongwith the relevant documents and handed over to him, on the basis of which, G.D. Report No. 25 has been drawn.

43. During cross examination, he stated that carbon copy of the chick report of Case Crime No. 144, under Section 394 IPC at the instance of Mukhtiar Singh was drawn by him on the basis of allegation made therein. The carbon copy is proved and marked as Exbt. Kha-1 vide G.D. Report No. 3, which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Kha-2. He further stated that through constable C.P. 903 Suresh Pal he had sent accused Sagar for medical examination. He further stated that whenever a cognizable or non cognizable offence is reported, it is immediately registered. He categorically stated that neither on 19th nor on 20th June, 1978 Badley or Suraj did not visit the police station to lodge the report. To quote:- "जब थाने पर किसी Congnizable या non cognizable offence की इतला होती है उसकी रिपोर्ट तुरन्त दर्ज की जाती है। 19 या 20 जून सन् 78 को बदले या सूरज की हमारे थाने पर कोई रिपोर्ट दर्ज कराने के लिये नहीं आये।"

44. Shashi Pal Singh Tomar (P.W.-10) is the second Investigation Officer, who stated that in the year 1978 he was posted at the police station- Gulaoti and on 24.6.1978 the investigation of the said case was handed over to him by S.I. D.L Sharma, which was concluded by him and charge sheet was submitted against the accused persons on 28.11.1978, which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Kha-11.

45. During cross examination he stated that the case, which was registered at the police station for assaulting Sagar, there has also been a version of the witnesses of the said case. He further denied the suggestion that he in collusion with the first informant of the instant case he had filed a final report.

46. Pyare Lal (P.W.-11) is another prosecution witness, who is said to be an employee of Har Lal on its Wheat Grinding Mill. He, in his testimony, stated that about four years back he used to work as an employee in the Wheat Grinding Mill of Surajveer and Badley. At about 5 p.m. when Sheela daughter of Kalicharan came to Wheat Grinding Mill to take flour, Har Lal and Bachan Singh were also present with him, however, on account of sudden noise made by Wheat Grinding Mill, Har Lal rushed towards it. Meanwhile Sheela was coming out from the gate and his shoulder brushed with the shoulder of the girl, who started hurling abuses and stated that she will inform the inmates of her house regarding the said incident.

47. During cross examination he stated that three days after the incident, the Investigating Officer has recorded his statement and he has disclosed that he was working as an employee in the Wheat Grinding Mill of Surajveer at Barmadpur, however if the said fact has not been stated in any statement then he cannot explain its absence. He further stated that he did not remember if he has disclosed the name of Sheela in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. however, on his attention been drawn to his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. he stated that if it does not contain the name of Sheela, he cannot give any explanation. He further stated that he forgot to disclose the factum of Har Lal rushing towards his chakki while the girl was coming out from the gate. He further denied the suggestion that he was not employed in Wheat Grinding Mill and under influence of Surajveer and Badley is falsely deposing in the instant case and that he had not actually seen the incident.

48. Dinesh Lal Sharma (P.W-12) is the first Investigating Officer of the instant case and on 20.6.1978 he was posted as S.I. at the police station- Gulaoti. He further stated that the cross case of the incident was handed over to him for investigation. He further stated that he conducted the inquest on the person of the deceased Har Lal, which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-12. He also stated that other relevant documents including the photo-nash, challan-nash, chitthi C.M.O. and chitthi R.I. were prepared by him, which has proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-13 to Ka-15. After sealing the dead body, sealed sample was prepared by him and the dead body was handed over to constables Khoob Chand and Bheem Singh for carrying it the mortuary for post-mortem. On 22.6.1978 the instant case was instituted at the police station and investigation of which was also taken over by him. He thereafter recorded the statement of Surajveer and then reached Barmadpur and recorded the statement of Badley, Ratiram, Ramphal, Charan Singh and other witnesses and inspected the site-plan i.e. Wheat Grinding Mill and prepared its map, which has been proved and marked as Exbt. Ka-17 and Ka-18. On the way at three places, he found blood at the boundary marks of Ramphal and Vedram and also under the mulberry tree. He collected the blood stained earth and plain earth from the other places and sealed the same in a container and prepared fard recovery memo, which is exhibited as Exbt. Ka-19 to Ka-21. On 23.6.1978 he recorded the statement of Bachan Singh. On 24.6.1978 the investigation of the said case was handed over to S.O. Shashi Pal Singh Tomor.

49. During cross examination he stated that on 20.6.1978 Mukhtayar father of accused Sagar had lodged the report under Section 394 IPC, which was registered vide Case Crime No. 144 at police station- Gulaoti, which was registered in his presence, on the basis of which, he proceeded for conducting the inquest. He further stated that he cannot recollect if he had recorded the statement of Mukhtayar and Sagar and had sent Sagar for medical examination on the report lodged by Mukhtiyar he had submitted a final report. On the basis of Case No. 144, under Section 394 IPC he had visited village-Ustara and after crossing village-Ustara a dead body was found kept in a buggi near old Dharamshala, where number of persons had collected. He took the dead body in his possession and conducted its inquest at about 3- 3.30 a.m. which concluded at 6 a.m. While preparing the inquest, the name of the deceased was disclosed to him by accused Rajaram son of Bhikki. After preparing the inquest he sealed the dead body and handed it over to the police constable, to be taken to the mortuary and thereafter he returned back to the police station. During inquest he was informed that the deceased died in an attempt to apprehend him.

50. He further stated that no evidence was given till 21.6.1978 as to who killed the deceased. He, for the first time, reached village-Barmadpur on 22.6.1978 at about 1.30 p.m. He prepared the site-plan on the pointing out of Badley, Ratiram, Ramphal at about 3 p.m. In the site-plan, the presence of the witnesses have not been shown. Even the place where the gathri is said to have been kept has not been shown. He had not shown in the site-plan where Ramphal had sat to ease. He did not find any dragging mark also at the place of incident. Witness Surajveer had not pointed out any field of Rajaram to him. He further denied the suggestion that Exbt. Ka-19 to Ka-21 has been fictitiously prepared and no blood was taken from the place of incident.

51. During cross examination, he further categorically stated that "गवाह बदले ने मुझे नही बताया था कि श्री चन्द और राजाराम मुल्जिमान के पिता का नाम था। यह भी नही बताया था कि यह घटना मुझे हरलाल ने बताई थी। यह भी नहीं बताया था कि जब मुल्जिमान आये तो प्यारे और वचन सिंह चक्की पर बैठे थे। यह भी नहीं बताया कि राजाराम और लाखन सिंह ने हरलाल से कहा था कि तुमने लड़की को धक्का मारा। इसने यह भी नही बताया कि हरलाल ने कह दिया था कि साथ चलने की जरूरत नहीं है इसने यह भी नही बताया कि कालीचरन के घर तक गये कोई नहीं मिला इसने यह भी नहीं बताया कि गाँव के कालीचरन के मकान तक गये थे। इसने मुझे यह भी नही बताया कि हमने मुल्जिमान से पूछ कि हरलाल को कहा छोडा इतने में उन्होनें गठरी रख दी। इतने में भगवान सिंह और श्री चन्द ने मुझे लाठी मारी यह भी नही बताया कि जब मैं गिर गया तो मुल्जिमान ने लाठी मारी। यह भी नही बताया कि मुल्जिमान गठरी लेकर उस्तरा की तरफ भाग गये। यह भी नही बताया कि मैं मुल्जिमान के चले जाने के बाद धीरे धीरे उठकर गाँव की तरफ चला गया और मेरा भान्जा सूरजवीर मेड पर बैठा मिला मैं उसके साथ बैठ गया और रात भर वहीं बैठा रहा और यह भी नहीं बताया था कि चांदनी की रोशनी थी। इस गवाह ने यह भी नही बताया था कि हमारी रिपोर्ट लिख दो थाने वालों ने कहा कि बैठ जाओ तुम्हारी लिख देगें थाने वालों ने हमारी रिपोर्ट नही लिखी।

52. After recording the statement of the said witnesses, statements of accused-respondents were recorded, in which surviving accused Shri Chand has clearly denied the prosecution story against him and has stated that instant case was instituted against him on account of enmity and parti-bandi.

53. Thereafter, statement of medical officer Dr. M.P. Singh, who had examined the injuries of accused Sagar on 20.6.1978 at 9.20 a.m. was recorded. He has pointed out the following injuries on his person of Sagar and has drawn the said injury report:-

(i) Abraded contusion 6 ½ c.m. x 4 ½ c.m. on right side forehead reddish in colour.

(ii) Abrasion 1 c.m. x 1 c.m. on right side reddish in color.

(iv) Abraded contusion 5 c.m.x 5 c.m. on the right deltoid region of right arm reddish in color.

(v) Abraded contusion 5 c.m. x 5 c.m. on inner side of left arm middle part ? reddish in colour.

(vi) Contusion 7 c.m. x 3 c.m. on left axilla reddish in colour.

(vii) Lacerated wound 1 ½ c.m. x ½ c.m. x muscle deep on front side of left little finger middle part.

(viii) Lacerated wound ½ c.m. x ½ c.m. x skin deep on back of left little finger middle part.

The said injuries have been marked as Exbt. Kha-3. He further stated that said injuries could be caused on 19.6.1978 at about 11.30 p.m. and duration is half day old. During cross examination, he stated that injury No. 1 is on vital part of the forehead and out of the said marked injuries, only injury No. 2 and 8 could be superficial.

54. The trial court, on the above evidence led by the prosecution and the defence version given by the accused, has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case and has thus acquitted accused-respondents of all the charges framed against them.

55. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied by the said judgment and order, the present government appeal has been preferred by the State.

56. Learned Addl. Government Advocate for the State-appellants has submitted that evidence of Badley (P.W.-2), Ratiram (P.W.-3), Ramphal (P.W.-4), Jeet Singh (P.W.-5) and Surajveer (P.W.-6) coupled with medical evidence would show that the prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt, yet the trial court, on the basis of surmises and conjectures, has illegally recorded the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondents, which is bad in law and is liable to be reversed.

57. Learned AGA has next submitted that from the evidence adduced during the course of trial, it is proved beyond all reasonable doubt that the accused-respondents in furtherance of their common intention with all the accused persons, had committed the instant offence and therefore, they are liable to be convicted for the offence charged with, however, the trial court completely misjudged the evidence and material available on record and has illegally recorded the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondents, which is bad in law and is liable to be reversed.

58. Learned AGA has further submitted that Ramphal (P.W.-4) has given eye witness account of the incident and has proved the prosecution story beyond all reasonable doubt, however, the trial court has illegally rejected his testimony and recorded the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondents, which is bad in law and is liable to be set aside.

59. Learned AGA has further submitted that even if the testimony of Ramphal (P.W.-4) is not relied upon by the trial court, yet from the attending facts and circumstances of the case as adduced by other prosecution witnesses, the chain of evidence led by the prosecution is complete and clearly establishes the guilt of the accused-respondents, however, the trial court has illegally brushed aside the said circumstances and has illegally recorded the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondents, which is bad in law and is liable to be set aside.

60. Per contra, learned counsel for the accused-respondents has submitted that trial court has appreciated the material and evidence available on record in right perspective and by a well reasoned and detailed order and judgment has recorded the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondents, which by no stretch of imagination can be said to be perverse, illegal and impossible, therefore, the impugned order and judgment passed by the trial court is just, proper and legal and cannot be reversed.

61. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has next submitted that the vital delay in lodging the first information report after the cross case has already been registered on behalf of the accused-respondents, creates a serious dent in the prosecution story, which is based on completely cooked up and concocted story as an after thought and as such, the trial court has rightly held that on the basis of evidence adduced against him in the cross case, it cannot be said that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt against the accused-respondents and as such, the trial court has rightly repelled the said testimony and recorded the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondents, which is just, proper and legal and do not call for any interference by this Court.

62. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has next submitted that taking the entire evidence adduced during the course of trial and the case put forward by the defence, their case appears to be more probable and, therefore, the trial court taking a holistic view, has rightly recorded the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondent, which Judgment and Order does not suffer from any illegality or impropriety and cannot be reversed in view of well settled principle of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court that an appeal against acquittal, where presumption in favour of the accused-respondents has further been reinforced, the appellate Court cannot interfere with the order of acquittal, unless it is pointed out that the finding recorded by the trial court is perverse, illegal and impossible and in the instant case, no perversity and illegality could be pointed out by the State, as such, the impugned order and judgment passed by the trial court is liable to be affirmed by dismissing the government appeal.

63. Having considered the rival submission made by the learned counsel for the parties and having gone through the record of this case, we find that there are two versions of the incident in question, one is as stated by the prosecution, in which, accused-respondents has been tried and the other by the defence on the basis of report lodged by Mukhtiar Singh father of co-accused Sagar. The prosecution story as stated in the instant case, is to be tested in the backdrop of the entire facts and circumstances of the case led during the course of trial.

64. When we go through the entire evidence adduced, we find that the instant case is primarily based on circumstantial evidence as most of the witnesses produced during the course of trial particularly Badley (P.W.-2), Ratiram (P.W.-3), Jeet Singh (P.W.-5), Surajveer (P.W.-6) and

Pyare Lal (P.W.-11) are not the eye witnesses of the incident and their testimony is primarily based on circumstantial evidence. Only Ramphal Singh (P.W.-4) is alleged to be the eye witness and is stated to have given an eye witness account of the incident, therefore, it would be apt to first test the reliability of the evidence adduced by P.W.-4-Ramphal Singh being an eye witness account. Ramphal Singh (P.W.-4), in his testimony, has stated that on the date of incident i.e. 19.6.1978 while he was easing in his field, he saw 6-7 persons forcibly taking away Har Lal towards village-Ustara. He further stated that Har Lal had bitten Sagarmal, consequent to which, Sagarmal asked Shri Chand to assault him, who is said to have assaulted him by a knife while other accused-respondents are said to have assaulted him by lathi and thereafter they wrapped Har Lal in a bed-sheet and took him away towards villlage-Ustara by hanging him on a lathi. In his testimony, the said witness states to have witnessed the entire evidence as narrated above but neither made any attempt to rescue the deceased nor even raised alarm to rescue him and simply after witnessing the incident went to his house. He further states that on the next day he came to know about the factum of killing of Har Lal by the accused persons, however, despite knowledge of the said fact he did not reveal his eye witness account to any of the family members of the deceased and remained silent, he not even tried to lodge any report of the incident and the said conduct of the P.W.-4 raises a big question mark about the truthfulness of his eye witness account, which renders him to be a highly doubtful witness not worth credence, more particularity in the circumstances that during his cross examination, he has admitted to have appeared as a prosecution witness in many of the police report cases and therefore, he can very well be said to be a pocket witness of the police. In the backdrop of the said facts and circumstances, we are of the opinion that it would not be vary safe to rely upon the uncorroborated testimony of P.W.-4 stating himself to be an eye witness of the incident as also held by the trial court, which finding by no stretch of imagination can be said to be illegal, perverse or impossible and as such, is also reiterated by us.

65. Now, if the eye witness account of the P.W.-4 as adduced during the course of evidence is disbelieved, then in our opinion the instant case would primarily be a case based on circumstantial evidence as argued by the counsel for the accused-respondents.

66. Before we proceed further it would be relevant to note here that the law with regard to conviction on circumstantial evidence has very well been crystalized in the judgment of this Court in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, wherein this Court held thus: “152. Before discussing the cases relied upon by the High Court we would like to cite a few decisions on the nature, character and essential proof required in a criminal case which rests on circumstantial evidence alone. The most fundamental and basic decision of this Court is Hanumant v. State of Madhya Pradesh [AIR 1952 SC 343 : 1952 SCR 1091 : 1953 Cri LJ 129]. This case has been uniformly followed and applied by this Court in a large number of later decisions up to date, for instance, the cases of Tufail (Alias) Simmi v. State of Uttar Pradesh [(1969) 3 SCC 198: 1970 SCC (Cri) 55] and Ramgopal v. State of Maharashtra [(1972) 4 SCC 625: AIR 1972 SC 656]. It may be useful to extract what Mahajan, J. has laid down in Hanumant case [AIR 1952 SC 343 : 1952 SCR 1091 : 1953 Cri LJ 129] :

> "It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."
> 153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:
> (1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.
>
> It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [(1973) 2 SCC 793 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 1033 : 1973 Crl LJ 1783], where the observations were made : [SCC para 19, p. 807 : SCC (Cri) p. 1047]
> "Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."
>
> (2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,
>
> (3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,
>
> (4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and
>
> (5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.
> 154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

67. It is also settled law that the suspicion, however strong it may be, cannot take the place of proof beyond reasonable doubt. An accused cannot be convicted on the ground of suspicion, no matter how strong it is. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

68. Learned counsel further relied upon a case reported in (2010) 8 SCC 593 G. Parshwanath Vs. State of Karnataka, wherein it has been held as under :

> "23. In cases where evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should, in the first instance, be fully established. Each fact sought to be relied upon must be proved individually. However, in applying this principle a distinction must be made between facts called primary or basic on the one hand and inference of facts to be drawn from them on the other. In regard to proof of primary facts, the court has to judge the evidence and decide whether that evidence proves a particular fact and if that fact is proved, the question whether that fact leads to an inference of guilt of the accused person should be considered. In dealing with this aspect of the problem, the doctrine of benefit of doubt applies. Although there should not be any missing links in the case, yet it is not essential that each of the links must appear on the surface of the evidence adduced and some of these links may have to be inferred from the proved facts. In drawing these inferences, the court must have regard to the common course of natural events and to human conduct and their relations to the facts of the particular case. The court thereafter has to consider the effect of proved facts.
> 24. In deciding the sufficiency of the circumstantial evidence for the purpose of conviction, the court has to consider the total cumulative effect of all the proved facts, each one of which reinforces the conclusion of guilt and if the combined effect of all these facts taken together is conclusive in establishing the guilt of the accused, the conviction would be justified even though it may be that one or more of these facts by itself or themselves is/are not decisive. The facts established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and should exclude every hypothesis except the one sought to be proved. But this does not mean that before the prosecution can succeed in a case resting upon circumstantial evidence alone, it must exclude each and every hypothesis suggested by the accused, howsoever, extravagant and fanciful it might be. There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused, where various links in chain are in themselves complete, then the false plea or false defence may be called into aid only to lend assurance to the court."

69. Now, if we examine the instant case in light of the settled law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of circumstantial evidence, we find that in the instant case prosecution has relied upon the following circumstances. The prosecution story begins with the incident of Sheela, who is shown to be present at 5 p.m. on 19.6.1978 at the Wheat Grinding Mill of Har Lal for taking the flour, where he is said to have been pushed by Har Lal, consequent to which, Sheela hurled abuses to him and has left the place stating that she will inform his family members about the said incident. Consequent to the said incident, it is alleged by the prosecution that at about 7 p.m. Surajveer, Har Lal and Badley were sitting alongwith Pyare Lal and Bachan Singh, where accused-respondents Rajaram. Bhagwan Singh and Sagar armed with lathies came and questioned as to why he had pushed Sheela and started hurling abuses and on denial of the said incident by Har Lal, they took him away for giving clarification of the earlier incident.

70. The third part of the incident is that the aforesaid accused persons, namely, Rajaram, Bhagwan Singh and Sagar Singh had taken away Har Lal to the house of Kalicharan brother of Rajaram and thereafter being taken to village-Ustara kept in a bundle hanging on a lathi by the prosecution witnesses and as per the Investigating Officer, the discovery of blood from three different places on way from village-Barmadpur to village-Ustara.

71. Discussing the aforesaid circumstances, it would be apt to first analyse the truthfulness of the factum of Sheela visiting Wheat Grinding Mill of Har Lal, where she is said to have been pushed by him resulting in hurling of abuses and consequent incident.

72. It is admitted case of the prosecution that P.W.-2- Badley, who is maternal uncle of Surajveer and Har Lal, was running a Wheat Grinding Mill in village-Barmadpur, which was being run by deceased Har Lal and Surajveer. To prove the factum of taking away the flour from the Wheat Grinding Mill of Badley (P.W.-2), Surajveer (P.W.-6) had pointed out to an entry made in the register on 16.6.1978 relating to one Kalicharan, who is said to be the father of Sheela and brother of co-accused Rajaram. On the basis of said entry, it is tried to prove by the prosecution that Sheela had come to take the flour, which was given for grinding on 16.6.1978, however we analyse the said entry and on the basis of testimony of the witnesses, we find that even according to the prosecution own case, there are two Kalicharan's in the village Barmadpur, which has been admitted by P.W-3- Ratiram in his cross examination on the basis of which it cannot be certainly said that the entry made in the name of Kalicharan as pointed out in the register pertains to father of Sheela or the other Kalicharan stated to be son of Girdhari. Admittedly, there is no signature of Kalicharan found on the said register against the entry made therein. Further, the factum that the wheat was given for grinding on 16.6.1978, which is said to be being taken away on 19.6.1978 i.e. after about three days of its delivery, the three days gap in collecting the flour further creates some doubt in the veracity of the prosecution story as narrated. The factum of Sheela pushed at the Wheat Grinding Mill, has also not admittedly been witnessed by P-W.-2- Badley and P.W.-6-Surajveer, who even according to the prosecution own case, were present at the relevant time and were not simply told about the said factum by Har Lal, however, the said circumstance further become doubtful from the circumstance that P.W.-2 Badley did not state this fact to the Investigating Officer in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Further it is germane to point out here that if we carefully go through the contents of the FIR, we find that Sheela is shown to be the daughter of Shyami Gujar, which in his testimony has been changed to Kalicharan so as to corroborate entry shown to be made in the register.

73. Thus, only witness, who states about the visiting of Sheela at the Wheat Grinding Mill on the day of incident is Pyare Lal. The said Pyare Lal is admittedly the servant of deceased Har Lal and was brought by Surajveer, as such, he is highly partisan and interested witness.

74. It is further germane to point out here that Pyare Lal has not been mentioned as a witness in the FIR lodged by Surajveer on 22.6.1978. When we go through the testimony of Pyare Lal, we find that therein he has stated that apart from him, number of other villagers were also present at the Wheat Grinding Mill when the said incident is said to have taken place, however, no such person even Bachan Singh has not been examined by the prosecution to prove the said factum.

75. Furthermore, when we look into the testimony of P.W.-11- Pyare Lal, we find that although he was employed as a servant at the chakki but he is not witness of second part of the incident when the accused persons are said to have visited the Wheat Grinding Mill and there was some altercation between them and Har Lal, who is said to have been taken away by the accused persons though as per the testimony of P.W.2 Badley and P.W.-6 Surajveer he was shown to be present at the time of second incident, which further becomes doubtful from the circumstances that he does not accompany Surajveer and Badley to find out of his whereabouts when he did not return back till 9.30 p.m. In the backdrop of the said circumstance, we are of the opinion that testimony of Pyare Lal (P.W.-11) did not inspire much confidence as held by the trial court, which finding is just, proper and legal and do not call for any interference by this Court.

76. Thus, from the said facts and circumstances, the motive as pleaded by the prosecution has not been cogently and clearly established, which creates a serious dent in the prosecution story and makes it unreliable particularly in a case of circumstantial evidence.

77. Now, we may analyse the testimony of the witnesses to the extent of victim Har Lal being taken away by the accused-respondents from his chakki on the day of occurrence i.e. 19.6.1978, the witness of the said incident admittedly are Badley (P.W.-2) and Surajveer (P.W.-6). If we go through the testimony as stated by Surajveer and Badley that while he was sitting at the Wheat Grinding Mill at about 7 p.m., the accused persons, namely, Rajaram, Bhagwan Singh and Sagar armed with lathies reached at the chakki and started hurling abuses and questioned Har Lal about the earlier incident with Sheela and thereafter took away Har Lal for clarification, consequent thereto, he was done to death.

78. Admittedly, even according to the prosecution own case, three accused persons at the relevant time of taking away Har Lal were having lathies and on reaching there they started hurling abuses and questioned, rather rebuked, and chastised Har Lal for his indecent behaviour with Sheela then in such circumstance, the prosecution story that Har Lal was taken away by the three accused persons without being followed by Badley and Surajveer so as to rescue him from any untoward incident, does not inspire our confidence and makes the prosecution story further doubtful. Apart from this, it is germane to point out here that even according to the prosecution own case, at the time of taking away Har Lal from the Wheat Grinding Mill, sole surviving accused-respondent Shri Chand was not present and, therefore, he cannot be saddled with the responsibility of taking away Har Lal from the place of incident and this aspect of the matter also makes the prosecution story doubtful qua accused-respondent Shri Chand.

79. The next question required to be examined is the factum of going of Har Lal in the company of accused-respondents on the way leading from village-Barmadpur to village-Ustara. In order to prove this fact, the prosecution has relied upon the testimony of Ratiram (P.W.-3), Ramphal (P.W.-4), Jeet Singh (P.W.-5), Badley (P.W.-2), Surajveer (P.W.-6), out of them, P.W.-2-Badley and Surajveer (P.W-6) in their testimony have stated that while making the search of Har Lal when they reached near the canal contributory (Rajbaha) away from the village- Barmadpur they saw four accused-respondents proceeding towards village-Ustara with a bundle hanging on a lathi, however, even according to the prosecution own case they had not seen as to what the accused-respondents were carrying in the bundle. Contrary to this Ratiram (P.W.-3) stated that while he was returning back to his house after easing, he saw 6-7 persons taking away Har Lal by pushing him, who were armed with lathies and on questioning them he was asked to mind his own business and on the next day he came to know that Har Lal has been done to death, however, when we test veracity of the statement of the said witness, we find that he is not at all a reliable witness. Had he witnessed the fact as narrated by him and on the very next day came to know about the murder of Har Lal, he would have certainly disclosed this fact to the family members of Har Lal, however as per his own statement he neither intervened at all to rescue Har Lal nor disclosed this fact to anyone except the Investigating Officer that too after three days of the incident, though admittedly he remained in the village during this period, which further creates a serious question mark about the reliability of the said witness as held by the trial court, which finding in our opinion is just, proper and legal and cannot be interfered with.

80. He further stated that there are two persons by the name of Kalicharan son of Girdhari and the other is the father of co-accused Shri Chand. This circumstance also creates doubt about the entry made in the register in the name of Kalicharan and as per his statement, it cannot be said with certainty that name of Kalicharan mentioned in the register is that Kalicharan father of Shri Chand. This circumstance further creates a serious doubt in the prosecution story and makes it unreliable.

81. So far as P.W.-4- Ramphal Singh is concerned, his testimony has already been discussed earlier and we are of the opinion that he is not a reliable witness at all. So far as P.W.-5- Jeet Singh is concerned, he appears to be a purely chance witness, who is said to have been returning back at the relevant time alongwith one Charan Singh from village-

Sherpur, where he had gone to purchase a buffalo. He is said to have been seen the accused standing under the mulberry tree, however, the contents of the said gathri has not been seen by the said witness nor he has seen deceased Har Lal in their company. He is said to have been witnessed the incident at about 10 p.m. in the night and no source of light has been mentioned. He further stated that the factum of witnessing the incident in moon light was disclosed to the Investigating Officer, however, if the Investigating Officer has not recorded it in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. then he cannot assign any reason for the same. He further stated that he is a relative of Badley and, therefore, obviously is an interested and partisan witness. He further states that on the very next day he came to know about the murder of Har Lal but he did not disclose this fact to anyone and went to sleep in his house, but did not lodge any report. Moreover so called Charan Singh, who is said to have been accompanying him witnessing the incident have not been produced at all so as to corroborate his testimony, in the absence of which we are of the opinion that it would not be vary safe to rely upon the uncorroborated testimony of P.W.-5, who is purely a chance witness.

82. Thus, from the testimony of P.W-5 also the prosecution story cannot be said to be proved beyond reasonable doubt as held by the trial court, which finding is just, proper and legal and do not call for any interference.

82. The next question is regarding recovery of blood stained earth by the Investigating Officer from three places, which is said to have been sent for chemical examination, however if we carefully go through the chemical examination report, we find that the blood found on the shirt and the blood stained earth marked as Exbts. Ka-1, 5, 8 and 9, no human blood is found and thus, this circumstance, also do not lead to any concrete link evidence to connect accused-respondents with the instant case. There is one more circumstance as stated by the Investigating Officer in his cross examination that a first information report was also lodged by Mukhtiar Singh father of Sagar in the intervening night between 19/20.6.1978 registered vide Case Crime No. 144, under Section 394 IPC and on the basis of said FIR, he had gone to village-Ustara, where he found the dead body near Dharamshala lying on a buggi and he had conducted inquest on the person of the deceased, however, no blood was found there and after conducting the inquest, he had handed over the corpse to the constable Khoob Chand and Bheem Singh for carrying it to the mortuary for the post-mortem.

83. Constable Khoob Chand has been examined as P.W.-8. Who, in his cross examination, has categorically stated that after the inquest when the corpse of Har Lal was handed over to him then he had straightway taken the body to the mortuary and did not brought it police station-Gulaoti, however when we go through the statement of P.W.-2- Badley and P.W-6-Surajveer, we find that they had stated that when they had gone at the police station to lodge the FIR, they had seen the corpse of Har Lal lying in the police station and tried to lodge the report but his report was not lodged and thereafter from the police station Gulaoti on a tonga dead body of Har Lal was sent for post-mortem, on which he also sat and went to the mortuary. This part of the prosecution story as stated in the statement of P.W.-2- Badley and P.W.-6-

Surajveer cannot be relied upon at all as according to the testimony of P.W.-8- constable Khoob Chand, it is evident that the dead body of Har Lal was not brought to the police station- Gulaoti at all, as such, the testimony of P.W.-2- Badley and P.W.-6- Surajveer that they saw the dead body of Har Lal lying inside police station- Gulaoti is nothing but there a pure imagination and as such, their testimony in this respect become highly doubtful and creates a serious dent in the prosecution story and makes both these witnesses wholly unreliable and not worth credence at all.

84. It is further germane to point out here that from the testimony of P.W.-2- Badley and P.W.-6- Surajveer, it is pointed out that they tried to lodge the report at the police station- Gulaoti on 20.6.1978 but their report was not lodged by the police personnels despite their repeated requests and, as such, Surajveer on way to Hapur had sent a telegram addressed to S.P. Bulandshahr clearly stating therein the name of the accused persons, however, if we carefully go through this telegram, we find that the name of accused-respondent Shri Chand has not been mentioned. Even in his telegram there is no allegation that on 19.6.1978 Shri Chand had visited his Wheat Grinding Mill alongwith accused-respondents Rajaram, Bhagwan and Sagar and had taken him away.

85. Thus, from the prosecution story itself it is evident that there is no allegation against accused-respondent Shri Chand of taking away the deceased Har Lal from his house. This circumstance also creates a serious doubt regarding the participation of the accused-respondent Shri Chand in causing the death of deceased Har Lal and this important missing link in the chain of circumstance rules out the participation of accused-respondent Shri Chand in the instant case.

86. It is further germane to point out here that the prosecution story also become doubtful from the circumstance that the first information report in the instant case has been lodged on 22.6.1978 i.e. after a delay of three days of the incident. When we go through his testimony we find that it is specific case of the P.W.-9- Head Constable Santpal Singh that neither on 19.6.1978 nor on 20.6.1978 Badley (P.W.-2) or Surajveer (P.W.-6) reached police station to lodge the report. He categorically stated that "जब थाने पर किसी Congnizable या non cognizable offence की इतला होती है उसकी रिपोर्ट तुरन्त दर्ज की जाती है। 19 या 20 जून सन् 78 को बदले या सूरज की हमारे थाने पर कोई रिपोर्ट दर्ज कराने के लिये नहीं आये।" This circumstance further creates a serious doubt about the truthfulness and veracity of the testimony of P.W.-2 Badley and P.W.-6 Surajveer and makes them highly doubtful witnesses. However, if we go through the testimony of P.W.-2 Badley and P.W.-6 Surajveer in this regard we find that they have tried to explain this delay by stating that on during night hours they had seen the accused-respondent carrying away something in a bundle (gathri) hanging on a lathi and when they questioned them about the whereabouts of Har Lal then they assaulted Badley by lathi and also made an attempt to assault Surajveer, however he ran away and thereafter both the said witnesses hid themselves the whole night on the boundary marks in the field of Rajaram on account of fear of the accused persons though the accused persons are said to have proceeded towards village- Ustara. The said factum of P.W.-2 Badley and P.W.-6 Surajveer hiding themselves the whole night in the field of Rajaram on account of fear, in our opinion is too far fetched story, which in our opinion is hard to believe in the circumstance of the instant case and creates a serious dent about the truthfulness and veracity of their testimony. Moreover, the cosmetic manner in which P.W.-2 Badley and P.W.-6 Surajveer has tried to explain the delay in lodging the FIR is totally inconsistent with the testimony of P.W.-8 Khoob Chand, who categorically stated that after the inquest on the person of deceased Har Lal he had taken the dead body straightway to the mortuary for the post-mortem and did not bring it at all P.S. Gulaoti, which makes the otherwise testimony of P.W.-2 and P.W.-6 that he had seen the dead body of Har Lal inside the police station on 20.6.1978 and thereafter sent on a tonga to the mortuary for post-mortem at 11 a.m. on which P.W.-2 Badley is also said to have sat so as to reach the mortuary is nothing but a figment of imagination of P.W.-2 and P.W.-6 and makes them totally unreliable witnesses, which theory infact has been adopted just to explain the delay in lodging the FIR, which in our opinion has no legs to stand and difficult to believe by a man of ordinary prudence.

87. The testimony of P.W.-2 Badley and P.W.-6 Surajveer is further falsified by the statement of P.W.-9 Santpal Singh, who was the Head Moharrir at P.S. Gulaoti at the relevant time.

88. From the said facts and circumstances of the case, it is evident that the FIR has been lodged on 22.6.1978 and the delay in lodging the FIR has not been explained at all, which creates a serious dent to the prosecution story and makes it unreliable.

89. Thus, we find that number of circumstances alleged against accused-respondents has not been proved satisfactorily. The direct evidence of murder in the form of statement of Ramphal (P.W.-4) is not reliable at all. Motive has not been satisfactorily proved. The testimony of Badley and Surajveer is not at all reliable on material particulars and false story appears to have been cooked up by them in order to lend credence to the prosecution story. A vital delay in lodging the first information report has not been satisfactorily proved and by no stretch of imagination, the chain of circumstance can be said to be complete so as to record the finding of conviction against accused-respondent by reversing the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court, which finding in our opinion do not suffer from any illegality, perversity or impossibility.

90. It is well settled principle of law that there is a presumption of innocence in favour of the accused-respondent Shri Chand, which further has been concretised by recording the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondents.

91. The law with regard to interference by the appellate court is very well crystalized. Unless the finding of acquittal is found to be perverse or impossible, interference with the same would not be warranted. Though, there are a catena of judgments on the issue, we will only refer to two judgments, which are as reproduced below:-

> "(i). In the case of Sadhu Saran Singh Vs. State of U.P. (2016) 4 SCC 397, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that:-
> "In an appeal against acquittal where the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused is reinforced, the appellate Court would interfere with the order of acquittal only when there is perversity of fact and law. However, we believe that the paramount consideration of the Court is to do substantial justice and avoid miscarriage of justice which can arise by acquitting the accused who is guilty of an offence. A miscarriage of justice that may occur by the acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. Appellate Court, while enunciating the principles with regard to the scope of powers of the appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal, has no absolute restriction in law to review and relook the entire evidence on which the order of acquittal is founded."

(ii). Similarly, in the case of Harljan Bhala Teja Vs. State of Gujarat (2016) 12 SCC 665, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that:-

"No doubt, where, on appreciation of evidence on record, two views are possible, and the trial court has taken a view of acquittal, the appellate court should not interfere with the same. However, this does not mean that in all the cases where the trial court has recorded acquittal, the same should not be interfered with, even if the view is perverse. Where the view taken by the trial court is against the weight of evidence on record, or perverse, it is always open far the appellate court to express the right conclusion after re-appreciating the evidence if the charge is proved beyond reasonable doubt on record, and convict the accused."

92. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 111113 of 2015 (Rajesh Prasad v. State of Bihar and Another) has encapsulated the legal position covering the field after considering various earlier judgments and held as under:-

"29. After referring to a catena of judgments, this Court culled out the following general principles regarding the powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal in the following words: (Chandrappa case [Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415]

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:-

(i) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(ii) The Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(iii) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(iv) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(v) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not distrub the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

93. Thus, it is beyond the pale of doubt that the scope of interference by an appellate Court for reversing the judgment of acquittal recorded by the trial Court in favour of the accused has to be exercised within the four corners of the following principles:-

(i). That the judgment of acquittal suffers from patent perversity;

(ii). That the same is based on a misreading/omission to consider material evidence on record;

(iii). That no two reasonable views are possible and only the view consistent with the guilt of the accused is possible from the evidence available on record.

94. The appellate Court, in order to interfere with the judgment of acquittal, would have to record pertinent findings on the above factors, if it is inclined to reverse the judgment of acquittal rendered by the trial Court.

95. In our opinion, the trial court has passed a well reasoned and detailed order, which, in view of settled principle of law regarding reversal of acquittal, needs no interference by this Court. The view taken by the trial court cannot be said to be perverse, impossible and illegal and, as such, present Government Appeal filed by the State has no force and is accordingly dismissed.

96. Trial court's record be remitted back forthwith.

97. Let a copy of this judgment and order be forwarded to the court concerned alongwith the trial court record for the information and necessary compliance.

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri V.S. Misra, A.G.A., Sri Alok Ranjan Mishra, Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, Sri Samit Gopal, Sri Tej Pal, Sri V.S. Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Devendra Dahma, Sri A.D. Giri, Sri Apul Mishra, Sri Lav Srivastava, Sri P.N. Mishra, Sri S.D.N. Singh

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 378 (3) - appeal against acquittal, Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 498 -A - Husband or relative of husband of a woman subjecting her to cruelty, 304 - B – Dowry Death , Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 113-A - Presumption as to abetment of suicide by a married woman , Section 113-B - Presumption as to dowry death - Presumption of Innocence - The accused is presumed innocent until proven guilty , Presumption of Acquittal - The trial court's acquittal reinforces, reaffirms, and strengthens the presumption of innocence. (Para - 47)

(B) Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Evidence Review in Acquittal Appeals & Importance of proof over suspicion - An appellate court has the power to review and re-appreciate evidence in an appeal against acquittal - Suspicion, howsoever grave cannot take the place of proof and the prosecution case to succeed has to be in the category of "must be" and not "may be" a distance to be covered by way of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence to rule out any possibility of wrongful conviction of the accused and resultant miscarriage of justice. (Para -47)

Acquittal of respondents under challenge - trial court acquitted respondents due to lack of evidence - Prosecution failed to prove demand of dowry and cruelty against deceased - Death of deceased not proven to be unnatural - benefit of presumption under Section 113-A and 113-B IPC not extended to prosecution side. (Para - 1 to 4)

HELD: - Trial court acquitted the appellants based on evidence on record, which was not based on surmises or contradictions. Trial court's acquittal verdict justified. Main grounds for acquittal were highly belated FIR, lack of allegations of dowry or matrimonial cruelty, doubtful circumstances surrounding viscera examination, and the inability to ascertain the cause of death in postmortem examination. Evidence regarding appellants' demand of dowry and matrimonial cruelty to be discrepancy and untrustworthiness, making it difficult to determine if the death was unnatural or homicidal. (Para - 45,46)

Khekh Ram Vs Himachal Pradesh, AIR SC 2018 5255

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Instant Government Appeal and Criminal Revision have arisen out of same judgment and order dated 08.07.1997 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, Aligarh in S.T. No.834 of 1993 State Vs. Ativeer Singh and three others and S.T. No. 642 of 1994 State Vs. Udai Pratap Singh, Case Crime No.62 of 1993, Police Station Sikandara Rau , then District Aligarh under Section 498-A and 304-B of IPC. By the impugned order learned trial court has disposed of both the connected sessions trial and acquitted all the accused persons namely Udai Pratap Singh, Ativeer Singh Chauhan, Smt. Vimlesh, Kumari, Archana and Ajai Pratap Singh for charges under sections 498-A and 304-B IPC.

2. From perusal of the record it appears that respondent No.1 Ativeer Singh died during the pendency of instant Criminal Government Appeal and Appeal was directed to be abated, qua respondent No.1 vide order dated 27.05.2015 passed by this Court. Similarly respondent No.2 Smt. Vimlesh in instant Government Appeal also died during the pendency of appeal, and vide order dated 06.04.2022 the Government Appeal was directed to be abated in respect of said respondent No.2 Smt. Vimlesh. Thus the instant Government Appeal and Criminal Revision have been heard in respect of respondent Nos. 3,4, and 5 namely Kumari Archana, Ajai Pratap Singh and Udai Pratap Singh.

3. Heard learned A.G.A. Sri Rahul Asthana counsel for the appellant-State and Sri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Alok Ranjan Mishra, for appellant-State, learned Counsel appearing for Revisionist/complainant Sri Devendra Dhama Advocate was heard on behalf of respondent Nos.3 to 5.

4. Learned trial court recorded acquittal of the accused appellants with a finding that by prosecution evidence the allegation of demand of dowry and practicing cruelty against the deceased has not been proved. It is also not proved that death of deceased occurred in unnatural circumstances, therefore the benefit of presumption under Section 113-A and 113-B IPC cannot be extended to the prosecution side.

5. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order Government Appeal may file on behalf of the State as Government Appeal No.2416 of 1997 State Vs. Ativeer Singh and others under Section 378(3) Cr.P.C. and subsequently a Criminal Revision was also filed by the informant/defacto complainant Narendra Pal Singh in Criminal Revision No.2717 of 1997 Narnedra Pal Singh Vs. Udai Pratap Singh and four others. As the said government appeal and criminal revision have arisen out of same relief has been sought therein. Both of these are being disposed of by this common judgment.

6. The factual matrix of the case in brief are that the informant Narendra Pal Singh who was posted as Chief Food Inspector in the office of Chief Medical Officer, Aligarh by moving a written report bearing dated 04.03.1993 with an averment that on 15.02.1993 he was busy in official work at around 3:00 pm. One Dr. Vyas who was posted in PHC Sikandara Rau as Incharge came to him and asked him to come alongwith him to Sikandara Rau, but due to rush of work he expressed his inability to move alongwith him, thereupon Dr. Vyas left his office at 05:00 pm. On same day at around 08:00 pm one Sri M.P. Sharma, Health Inspector Sikandara Rau came to him with some other person at his residence and asked him to go Sikandara Rau because his daughter's condition was serious. On hearing this the informant immediately asked one Bijendra Swaroop, Sanatory Supervisor to approach Sri M.P. Sharma and discern the real facts to which Sri M.P. Sharma informed said Bijendra Swaroop that the daughter of informant had passed away. No information was given to the informant regarding death of his daughter from her husband and inlaws. He got flabbergasted on hearing sudden death of his daughter and came to his residence at Agra and reached Sikandara Rau alongwith his wife and son at around 12:00 night. He visited the matrimonial place of his daughter where he found his daughter in dead condition. Her tongue was stucked between the teeth, her lips had become blue and blood was coagulated under the lips. When he asked about the state of things, they told that she was caught by light fever and was vomiting, but her in-laws avoided to give true reasons of her death. Her daughter Alpana Singh was married to Udai Pratap Singh, son of Ativeer Singh Chauhan on 24.04.1992 at Kaushalpur, Agra at the place of informant, her husband and father-in-law had made several demands prior to the marriage and even after solemnization of marriage they were insisting to fulfill the shortage of dowry. The informant had already given Rs.75,000/- cash, valuables and ornaments in the marriage. The husband and in-laws of the deceased were continued to maintain the demand of Maruti Car even after marriage and due to non-fulfillment of demand of additional dowry they subjected her to maltreatment and cruelty. Father-in-law of the deceased asked the informant to get a Computer Center opened for husband of the deceased, as he was master in computer science, but due to financial constraints he could not fulfill his this demand also. He had purchased a plot in Agra in the name of his daughter Alpana and original deed was already handed over to the husband of the deceased. However, he was insisting that the said plot be transferred in his name, but deceased was not agreed upon this. He had informed the local police, the factum of her suspicious death and on his information, the police of Sikandara Rau had got the postmortem on the dead body of the deceased conducted on 16.02.1993. From postmortem report it was revealed that death of deceased was unnatural and suspicious, he firmly believed that his daughter was killed by her husband Udai Pratap Singh, father-in-law Ativeer Singh Chauhan, mother-in-law Vimlesh, brother in law Ajai and sister-in-law Kumari Archana (nanad) by administering poison to her in concerted manner. The police failed to take any action inspite of previous written report submitted to him by the informant, therefore, he had to file a written report with Superintendent of Police, on which FIR was lodged on 16.03.1993 at 09:20 am, which is exhibited as Ext. Ka-20 on record. The police investigated the case and recorded the statements of the witnesses sent the viscera of the deceased for chemical examination and submitted chargesheet against all the five named accused persons under Section 498-A and 304-B IPC.

7. In postmortem report dated 16.02.1993 no internal or external injury was found on person of the deceased. As cause of death could not be ascertained, viscera was preserved. In viscera examination report dated 04.03.1993 Aluminum Phosphide poison was found in chemical examination carried out at Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra.

8. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate took cognizance of the offence after compliance of provisions under Section 307 Cr.P.C. committed to the court of session for trial.

9. Learned Special Judge, Aligarh framed charge under Sections 498-A and 304-B IPC against all the five accused persons on two different dates. The accused persons pleaded not guilty to it and claimed for trial.

10. The learned trial court examined PW1 Narendra Pal Singh complainant/father of the deceased, PW2 Veerpal Singh the mediator in the marriage of the deceased and Udai Pratap Singh, PW3 Kaushal Kumari mother of the deceased, PW4 Dr. R.P. Gupta who carried postmortem examination on the body of the deceased, PW5 Deputy S.P. Yashwant Singh the Investigating Officer, PW6 O.N.Dixit conducted inquest on person of the deceased on 16.02.1993 and proved the inquest report as Ext. Ka-12. PW7 Constable Rajvir Singh carried the body of the deceased from place of inquest to postmortem house.

11. PW8 Head Constable H.C. Guru Prasad is author or Chik FIR dated 19.03.1993, time 08:20 hours and extracts of G.D. of P.S. Sikandara Rau regarding registration of case and proved the documents as Ext. Ka 18 and 19 respectively.

12. Learned trial judge recorded the statements of the accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C. after conclusion of prosecution evidence. The defence case was taken in statement of Ativeer Singh, the father-in-law of the deceased in which he stated that deceased died due to illness and he immediately informed the father of the deceased regarding her death. The deceased was happy in her matrimonial home and there was cordial relationship between complaint side and accused. This case was instituted only to blackmail the accused side. The accused Udai Pratap Singh has stated that he was under going studies in M.Sc. at Aligarh at the time of incident. Accused Ajai Pratap Singh stated that as informant was posted in Health Department, he manipulated the things and obtained wrong viscera report by tampering with the documents at Aligarh and Agra. Similar statements were also given by other accused persons. The defene examined Dr. Chandra Prakash as DW1 who testified that he treated the deceased on date of her death at Sikandara Rau Hospital at 11 to 12 hours in the day. On the request of Ativeer Singh, father-in-law of the deceased, he did not find any symptoms of poisoning on her person. She was unconscious, he found symptoms of Epileptic attack on patient and had given her treatment, Dr. Vyas was also there he visited the patient again on that day at 05:00 pm, but by the time he reached there, she collapsed.

13. DW2 Pravendra Pal Singh was Gram Pradhan of his village, he also played role of mediator in the marriage of deceased and husband and testified that Aplana Singh died due to illness.

14. DW3 Dr. V.R. Vyas testified that he was posted as Incharge at PHC Sikandara Rau on 15.02.1993 and was acquainted with the complainant and accused Ativeer Singh. He visited patient Alpana on the request of her father-in-law on 15.02.1993 at around 08:00 am and examined her. He also stated that he had treated the deceased Alpana Singh on fateful day in the morning at around 08:00 am and noticed symptoms of trampoline. He had noticed convulsion and nausea and on that basis he found that it is a case of Epileptic attack. He prescribed Epilepsy drugs to her and prescription was prepared by him on which Et. Kha 54 has been marked. He advised Ativeer Sigh at around 11:30 hours to her visited by Dr. Chandra Prakash Gupta, and Dr. Chandra Prakash Gupta visited the patient in his presence who also found it a case of Epilepsy and advised for requisite treatment. Thereafter he moved to Aligarh for personal work and Ativeer Singh told her to inform his Samdhi (Narendra Pal Singh DW1) regarding condition of his daughter and asked him to visit his place. He met M.P. Sharma at Aligarh and asked him to come to Sikandara Rau, he told him that his son will visit the place of his daughter, he did not treat the information seriously. In cross examination the witnesses stated that accused Ativeer Singh resided in a quarter in hospital compound at Sikandara Rau, he was having official relations with him. On 15.02.1993 he had spoken to patient Alpana Singh about her Epilepsy history, whereupon she denied any epilepsy history. It would be wrong to say that she was unconscious, he stated that on administration of Aluminium Phosphide, the patient suffers from vomiting, drowsiness, chest pain and froth emerging from mouth.

15. DW4, Hitendra Pratap is nephew (sister's son of accused Ativeer Singh) has stated that he studied at the place of his maternal uncle (Ativeeer Singh) after Class V and he usually visits him now and then. He proved certain letters purportedly written by accused Udai Pratap Singh and proved his signature thereon, on which Ext. Kha 55 and Kha 56 was marked. He also proved letters as Ext. Kha-39 and 40 being written and signed by accused Archana Singh.

16. DW6 Dr. Salauddin stated that he was posted at Jain Medical College, Aligarh as Medical Officer, he filed death certificate of one patient Jai Kishore son of Harishankar resident of Maurya Nagar, P.S. Khair, District Aligarh being prepared in handwriting of Dr. Asif Hussain and stated that he was acquainted with writing of said doctor. Ext. Kha-1 was marked on said death certificate of Jail Kishore. He brought this death certificate from casualty ward of medical college, he also produced case sheet of said patient on which Casualty No.1994 Case No.1888/M/93 was entered. The witnesses stated that he signed this case sheet in place of C.M.O. This paper was also marked as Ext. Kha by DW4. According to witness the patient stated the he had consumed poison, both the doctors who prepared death certificate and case sheet of said patient Jai Kishore were alive. In case sheet, suspected poisoning case is written in death certificate of Jai Kishore, Aluminium Phosphide is written Aluminium Phosphide poison affects the respiratory system. In death certificate PCF is written which means peripheral circulatory failure.

17. DW7 Dr. Asif Hussain is author of death certificate of one deceased Jai Kishore aged about 24 years, who died on 13.02.1993 at 02:35 am at Medical College Aligarh, this certificate was also proved by evidence of Salauddin DW6. This was a case of Aluminium Phosphide poisoning. The witnesses has stated that he had given treatment to Jai Kishore along with his senior Dr. R.U. Khan and Dr. Mohd. (SIC). Aluminium Phosphide poison causes formation of gas.

18. DW8 Sri S C Sharma was accountant of T.B. Clinic Malkhan Singh Hospital Aligarh on the date of incident, he proved carbon copy of postmortem report of said Jai Kishore in absence of its author Dr. Vinay Kumar Yadav and filed copy of postmortem report dated 13.02.1993 which was in handwriting of Dr. Vinay Kumar Yadav. The witness stated that according to postmortem report the viscera of Jai Kishore was preserved in Jar No.25 and 26, on which Ext. Kha-24 was marked. The witness expressed ignorance about mode and manner of preservation of viscera.

19. Amongst prosecution witnesses PW1 Narendra Pal Singh is author of written report dated 16.03.1993 being its author and formed basis of lodging of chik FIR Ext. Ka-18. He also proved letter dated 06.07.1992 and 15.01.1993 having in handwriting of his deceased daughter Alpana, on which Ext. Ka- 1 and 2 was marked. He stated that she had received education up to M.A., B.Ed. and he was acquainted with her handwriting and signature. He married his daughter Alpana to accused Udai Pratap Singh, on 29.04.1992 at his residence situated at Agra. She was send off to her matrimonial home after marriage and accused persons had refused to take her alongwith them initially due to non giving of Maruti car as per their demand, and they agreed to take her with them only on repeated request and ultimately assurance of the witness to fulfill their demand in future. She came back to her parental home after eight days of her Vidai. The witness and his son used to visit her on festive occasions and whenever any of his family member visit her, the accused person would tease them due to non-fulfillment of their demand of car. She had narrated the misbehavious and torture meted out to her by her in-laws due to demand of dowry. He repeatedly requested the accused persons to restrain from torturing her, but they did not relent. She only lived for 9 and half months after marriage.

20. On 15.02.1993 Dr. V.R. Vyas visited him at his office and asked him to come to Sikandara Rau, but did not disclose anything regarding his daughter and in the evening of that day at around 08:00 pm M.P. Sharma, Health Inspector Sikandara Rau visited him at his residence in Aligarh and told him that they should go to Sikandara Rau as condition of his daughter was serious. Subsequently Sri M.P. Sharma disclosed the factum of death of his daughter to his colleague of Vijendra Swaroop. He rushed to Agra alongwith Vijendra Swaroop to the place of accused persons at 12:30 in the night, where deadbody of his daughter was kept in the Varanda of their house. All the family members of Ativeer Singh were present there, but when he asked her for cause of death they avoided, and on further query they became apologetic to him. On hearing all these things he believed that death of his daughter was not natural and suspicious. He moved an application at P.S. Sikandara Rau which was written by his son Anil Kumar who is present, on which Ext. Ka-3 was marked. On this information inquest and postmortem examination on dead body of the deceased was carried out at the instance of police. He became shocked due to dowry death of his daughter, which he had to be admitted by doctors at Malkhan Singh Hospital where his son and wife were remained with him, due to his son illness none of his family members participate in postmortem and cremation of his daughter. He waited for 15 days for police action in the matter and when no police official visited him, he moved written report of the incident on 04.03.1993 through registered post to SSP Aligarh and other by police and administrative officers. The witness proved a typed copy of said written report bearing his signature, although the typed copy of the said written report was objected by counsel for the defence. In cross examination the witness stated that accused Ativeer Singh was serving at PHC Sikandara Rau on the post of Health Educational Officer, his one daughter was already married and the other daughter was Archana was unmarried. The witness was confronted with letter dated 04.01.1993 which he acknowledged to the writing of his son Anil, on which Ext. Kha-1 was marked and on which Ext. Kha-2 was marked during cross examination. A number of letters were produced before the witness during cross examination from the side of accused, which were written and signed by his family members on which Ext. Kha-3 to Ext. Kha 24 was marked. The witness acknowledged certain photographs of deceased daughter Alpana Singh together with her female friends, husband and relatives. He was admitted in hospital for one day and next day he was discharged. He was told by police that viscera of his deceased daughter had been preserved and will be send for examination. He had got the written report typed at Civil Court Agra and signed it and send the report by registered post to Senior Superintendent of Police. He had send two written reports/applications to S.S.P. and on second application FIR was lodged. On report dated 16.02.1993 he requested for postmortem of the dead body of his daughter to ascertain the real cause of death. In that report no prayer was made to lodge an FIR, as he did not apprehend that her daughter was done away by administering poison to her. He thought that when police officials will undertake inquiry he would tell them the entire facts. He had not moved any application prior to 04.03.1993 for initiating actions against accused persons. He visited the police station only once between 16.03.1993 to 04.03.1993, the witness denied the defence suggestion that he had changed the viscera in collusion of doctor and staff of Malkhan Singh Hospital and when he become certain that viscera had been changed only then he moved an application for lodging an FIR bearing date 04.03.1993.

21. Dr. V.R. Vyas remained with him for three hours from the date of incident. During his travel from Sikandara Rau to Agra alongwith family after being apprised of death of his daughter, nobody stated that she was killed due to demand of dowry. The apprehension of dowry death occurred in his mind when he gave a report to the police on reaching the place of incident, but he did not narrate this fact in his first report, as he thought that the picture would be clear after postmortem examination. He had not written the allegation of demand of dowry or cruelty against the accused persons in first report. The witness also acknowledged his signature on inquest report. He had not told anything to Darogaji with regard to allegation of demand of dowry or causing death of his daughter by accused persons, as he was not in his senses at that time. On inquest report, opinion of Panchas is written in his writing, on which Ext. Kha-27 was marked. The police personnel told him that there was no visible injury on dead body. He is not certain as to who had administered poison to his daughter, but all the accused persons had poisoned him.

22. In Pradarsha Kha-3 he had made a request to S.O. Sikandara Rau to get postmortem examination of his daughter and he did not named any accused person. This application was moved on 16.02.1993 he thought that after postmortem examination he will reveal all the facts before police. Both the applications dated 04.03.1993 and 11.03.1993 filed by him were same. The investigating officer had recorded his statement after 1 ¼ months.

23. Veerpal Singh was mediator of marriage of his deceased daughter to whom daughter of the cousin of his brother-in-law was married. Ativeer Singh had stated regarding dowry objection just one month prior to the marriage before Veerpal Singh. He did not state this facts in both the applications dated 04.03.1993 and 11.03.1993. In these applications, he has not stated that his daughter would tell the fact of dowry harassment to him when she visited him. He had told this fact to investigating officer (C.O) that Veerpal Singh, was mediator in the marriage, but he had not written this fact in his statement, he may not tell its reason. He has also not written this fact in his written reports that if he paid Rs.75,000/- in cash to accused persons in presence of Veerpal Singh, his deceased daughter had never asked him to refrain from interfering in family matters of accused. She never fell ill prior to marriage. It would be wrong to say that she died natural death, his daughter visited his place 4 to 5 times after marriage.

24. PW2 Veerpal Singh has stated that he is acquainted with accused persons as well as the informant. He mediated the marriage of Udai Pratap Singh and deceased Alpana. The accused Ativeer Singh told him that his son was posted as a teacher in Kasganj Degree College. He got the marriage of deceased and Udai Pratap Singh settled on getting consent of both sides. Ativeer Singh raised demand of dowry, prior to marriage in his presence and also demanded maruti car, to which Narendra Pal Singh expressed its inability. He met the deceased 1 to 2 times after marriage in Agra, and wherein she requested him to ask his father for maruti car as demanded by the accused side. He did not participate in Tilak Ceremony of deceased. The deceased had stated that the accused had fired the maid servant and she had to perform all household chores, the accused were demanding maruti car.

25. PW3 Smt. Kaushal Kumari, mother of the deceased who corroborated the statement in chief of PW1 in her sworn testimony before the Court and testified regarding demand of dowry, practicing of matrimonial cruelty, torture and causing of dowry death of deceased Alpana by accused persons. She stated that Veerpal Singh mediated the marriage of deceased and accused Udai Pratap Singh. Her husband told him that groom side was demanding Rs.75,000/- from him. It would be wrong to say that her daughter would often complain regarding stomach ache, she was her youngest child. Accused were pressurizing her husband to give them a car as dowry.

26. PW4 Dr. R.P. Gupta is author of postmortem report on dead body of the deceased, which is proved by his evidence as Ext. Ka-9. He stated that death of deceased might have occurred in the noon on 15.02.1993. The death occurred one day earlier to postmortem which was conducted by him on 16.02.1993 at Malkhan Singh Hospital, as cause of death could not be ascertained. He preserved viscera for chemical examination, no mark of external injury was seen. Both lungs were congested, stomach contains ounce watery matter, mucous membrane congested, spleen and kidney were congested, abdomen was distended, heart was partly filled, two ounce liquid matter was found in stomach. The viscera was preserved in Jar No.25 and 26. The witness also filed postmortem report of one Jai Kishore, which is authored by Dr. Vinay Kumar Yadav, who was posted in T.B. Hospital, which is situated in the compound of Malkhan Singh Hospital. In this postmortem report also it is stated that viscera was preserved in Jar No.25 and 26, on which Postmortem Report 117 of 1993 dated 13.02.1996 alongwith name and address of deceased is written. The witness filed a carbon copy of postmortem report of deceased Jai Kishore during his evidence, he stated that when the doctor finds it necessary to preserve viscera he takes jar from mortuary which is maintained by police hospital, the jar is kept in custody of pharmacist of police hospital. The person who was on duty had told him the number of Jars as 25 and 26, he had signed the Register while deposing the Jar containing viscera nausea is found in case of Epileptic. It would be wrong to say that as M.P. Singh was subordinate to C.M.O. a tampering was done in viscera on asking of C.M.O and M.P. Singh. It would also be wrong to say that the witness had sent viscera of some other person in place of viscera of Alpana, he is not able to disclosed the name of staff to whom he deposited the jar. The number of jar containing viscera is entered at relevant time as disclosed by staff on duty. The number which is told by staff is entered on jar.

27. PW5 Deputy S.P. Yashwant Singh is investigating officer of the case and he has proved site plan of place of occurrence in his signature as Ext. Ka-10 and chargesheet being in his signature as Ext. Ka-11, these papers were prepared by SI O.N. Dixit on his dictation. The witness stated that witness Smt. Kaushal Kumari had not stated to him that when her husband visited his daughter to give gifts of Rakshabandhan they were pressurized for giving car. She has also not stated to him that when she visited her daughter her lips and nails became blue and tongue was stucked between the teeth. The witness reiterated the proceedings of investigation in his evidence.

28. PW6 SI O.N. Dixit carried out inquest on dead body of Alpana deceased on 16.02.1993 at 04:20 am at official residence of accused Atveer Singh in the campus of CSC Sikandara Rau. Witness proved inquest report Ext. Ka-12, Chalan Nash Ext. Ka-13, Photo Nash Ext. Ka-14 subsequent letters as Ext. Ka-15, letter to C.M.O. Ext. Ka-16, letter to R.I. as Ext. Ka-17 being in his handwriting and signature. The tongue of deceased was stucked between teeth. The parents of the deceased and accused persons were present during inquest proceedings.

29. PW7 Constable Rajvir Singh has stated that body was handed over to him for postmortem examination by S.I. O.N. Dixit for inquest proceedings and he who carried the dead body to postmortem house alongwith constable Mahaveer Singh.

30. PW8 Head Constable Guru Prasad is author of chick FIR, entries of GD for registration of Case vide Report No.9 time 19:20 dated 16.03.1993 and he has proved these documents by his evidence as Ext. Ka-18 and 19.

31. Learned A.G.A. appearing for the appellant-State and learned counsel for the revisionist Narendra Pal Singh submitted as under:-

(1) This is undisputed fact that deceased Alpana Singh died at the residence of her in-laws (appellant) in between 08:00 am to 05:00 pm as disclosed from the evidence of doctor V.R. Vyas who attended her at her residence in the hospital premises at about 08:00 am, and Dr. Chandra Prakash who also attended her learnt from the employees of the hospital that she died at 05:00 pm. This fact is also undisputed that she died nine and half months after the marriage.

(2) In the report dated 16.02.1993 lodged by N.P. Singh at P.S. Sikandara Rau, he did not mention the fact of demand of dowry by accused persons and consequent ill treatment and harassment meted out to her for not fulfilling the demand of dowry. In his evidence PW1 N.P. Singh, has stated that he fulfilled all the demands of dowry except maruti car. He had also given the assurance to accused persons to fulfil their demand of maruti car, when the crop is reaped from the sale of agriculture proceeds. Although demand of maruti car was made prior to settlement of marriage and during marriage and also at the time of the departure of Alpana Singh after marriage, yet if continued after marriage. Further they put up a demand for establishing computer center for accused Udai Pratap Singh in lieu of maruti car. They also insisted that the plot at Agra lying in the name of Alpana Singh should be transferred in the name of Udai Pratap Singh.

(3) When the informant visited the place of accused persons and found dead body of his daughter, he notices unusual conduct of accused persons who touched his feet and requested him to excuse them, yet he was not sure at that time that her daughter was killed by them. The accused persons had even not informed the complainant even telephonically regarding ill health or subsequent death of deceased.

(4) The informant could not lodge a detailed report naming accused persons promptly at police station as he suffered mild attack due to unnatural and sudden death of his daughter and was admitted in the hospital and his wife and son had looked after him. Thus non mentioning of the fact of demand of dowry and cruelty in the report dated 16.03.1993 filed with S.H.O or in the request report becomes immaterial and insignificant on the facts of the case.

(5) The deceased died only within nine and half months of her marriage with the accused appellant Udai Pratap Singh in unnatural circumstances. There is no evidence that she was suffering from Epilepsy prior to her date of death and this story is cooked up by accused persons to create a defence. The letters produced on record which are proved to be written by the deceased reflect that she was being ill treated and harassed at her matrimonial home. These letters correspond to the time of demand of maruti car, opening of computer center for accused Udai Pratap Singh and transfer of the plot in the name of husband of deceased as appearing in FIR and evidence of parents of the deceased. The letters indicate that she was suffering from mental agony and was trying to conceal something from her parents due to fear of the appellants.

(6) There is absolutely nothing in the application dated 04.03.1993 moved by the informant to SSP which would suggest that legal advice was taken before moving this application. The contents of the letter as explained above are quite consistent and untie the truth and this version is explained by the wife of the complainant in her evidence.

(7) Omission of name of Veer Pal Singh (PW3) who was a middle man in the marriage, in FIR as well as in statements of the parents of the deceased is insignificant as nothing could be elicited in cross examination of the witness which could suggest otherwise with regard to reliability of the witness.

(8) The prosecution has proved its case against appellant by cogent and trustworthy evidence of the informant N.P. Singh, his wife Kaushal Kumari and witness Veerpal Singh in support of the charge against accused persons with regard to demand of dowry practicing matrimonial cruelty and causing dowry death of deceased. However, the learned trial court has erroneously disbelieved the testimony of the witnesses of facts produced by prosecution and recorded a verdict of acquittal of accused persons from all charges taking hyper technical approach.

32. Per contra, learned counsel for private respondents/ accused persons submitted that the judgment of learned trial court is sound, well reasoned, based on logical conclusion and is coupled with proper appreciation of evidence on record.

33. He further submitted that the learned trial court has rightly given a finding that taking into consideration the evidence adduced from both sides the prosecution case becomes doubtful. Even the viscera examination report does not conclusively prove that it was in fact viscera of the deceased Alpana Singh which was examined by chemical examiner at Forensic Science Laboratory Agra. No allegation, whatsoever has been raised against appellants in first report dated 16.02.1993 lodged with P.S. concerned by the informant. It trite law that the verdict of acquittal should not be interfered with in appeal by appellate court where two views are possible, one in favour of of the accused and other suggesting his complicity in the offence. On account of verdict of acquittal by trial court, the presumption of innocence of the accused gets fortified. Neither the appellant/State nor the Revisionist /informant could make out a good case for this Hon'ble Court to interfere with the judgment and order passed by learned trial court.

34. We have considered the submissions made by learned counsel appearing for the parties and reappreciated the evidence on record in the light of grounds taken in present appeal and criminal revision preferred against verdict of the acquittal passed by learned trial court in respect of private respondents. The accused-respondents are husband and in-laws of the deceased. Alpana Singh, the daughter of first informant had died unfortunate death around nine and half months of her marriage with respondent No.4 Udai Pratap Singh. This is admitted fact that deceased and respondent No.4 Udai Pratap Singh were married according to Hindu rites and rituals on 29.04.1992 at the residence of informant Narendra Pal Singh who was posted as Chief Food Inspector in the office of C.M.O. in Aligarh, whereas accused persons were resident of Kasba Sikandara Rau which was also lying at the time of incident in district Aligarh. The marriage was solemnized in Agra at the private residence of the informant, wherein his family was settled. The unfortunate death of Alpana Singh occurred on 15.02.1993 any time between 08:00 am to 05:00 pm at town Sikandara Rau in the campus of CHC, where official residence of Ativeer Singh the father-in-law of deceased was situated, as he was posted as Health Education Officer at Sikandara Rau district Aligarh.

35. The prosecution side produced PW1 Narendra Pal Singh, the informant and father of deceased, PW2 Veerpal Singh the mediator of the marriage of deceased and Udai Pratap Singh, PW3 Kaushal Kumari mother of the deceased, PW4 Dr. R.P. Gupta who conducted postmortem examination on dead body of the deceased on 16.02.1993 and proved her postmortem report by his evidence as Ext. Ka-9, he conducted postmortem examination in presence of Dr. S.N. Gupta and Ext. Ka-9 bears signatures of both the doctors. PW5 Yashwant Singh was Investigating Officer of the case, who was posted as Deputy Superintendent of Police at Sikandara Rau. PW6 SI O.N. Dixit carried out inquest proceedings on the dead body of the deceased on 16.02.1993 at the resident of Ativeer Singh Chauhan situated in CHC Campus Sikandara Rau. According to PW6 after completing inquest proceedings between 07:30 to 09:00 am on 16.02.1993 he filled up requisite police forms for postmortem examination on dead body and handed over the dead body in sealed condition to constables Rajveer Singh and Yashveer Singh. The dead body was moved from the place of inquest to district headquarter on 16.02.1993 at 12:30 pm according to chalan nash. The district headquarter was 40 kms from the place of inquest.

36. The postmortem on dead body was conducted on 16.02.1993 at 03:15 pm whereas it was received at postmortem house on 02:30 pm. In P.M. Report, postmortem number is marked as 135/1993. In postmortem report it is stated that cause of death could not be ascertained as no ante mortem injury was found on the body of the person of the deceased. Contents of viscera were preserved in Jar No.25 and 26. Postmortem examination of Jai Kishore son of Hari Shankar resident of Maurya Nagar, Khair District Aligarh was conducted on 13.02.1993 by Medical Officer T.B. Clinic Aligarh. Dr. Vinay Kumar Yadav and certified copy of his postmortem report has been filed by DW6.

37. DW8 Dr. SC. Sharma, on which Ext. Kha has been marked, in said postmortem report also viscera is shown to have been preserved in Jar No.25 and 26. However, there is difference of three days between postmortem of Jai Kishore and deceased in the present case namely Alpana Singh. Both were cases of suspected poisoning and viscera was preserved. The postmortem report of Jai Kishore bears Postmortem No.117/93. Jai Kishore died on 13.02.1993 at 02:30 am at J.N. Medical College, Aligarh. In viscera examination report the chemical expert from Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra has reported that in parts of viscera Aluminium Phosphide poison was found and on that basis the prosecution initiated on supposition that deceased Alpana was administered poison which resulted in her death, whereas both the jars in which viscera parts of deceased Alpana Singh and one Jai Kishore who is unconnected with present case were preserved, bore same number 25 and 26. The doctor V.R. Vyas (DW3) who attended the deceased on the day of incident has categorically stated that he did not find any symptoms of poisonings on her person and in his opinion symptoms of Epileptic attack were noticed on her body.

38. Learned trial court has analyzed the evidence regarding preservation and examination of viscera of the deceased vis a vis said Jai Kishore who was also alleged to have consumed Aluminium Phosphoide poison, it raised doubt about veracity of prosecution case in the present case that deceased Alpana Singh was administered poison by the accused persons who are her husband and in-laws.

39. We find force in finding of learned trial court that as FIR in the case was lodged after much delay on 04.03.1993, it gave sufficient time to the informant who was posted in C.M.O. office in the same district to tamper with the material exhibits, in which viscera of deceased Alpana Singh and another person Jai Kishore were preserved, as both the jars co-incidentally bore same number and learned trial court also found force in defence version that in fact it were jars containing viscera of Jai Kishore, which were sent for chemical examination to F.S.L., Agra in the garb of viscera of deceased Alpana Singh and a favourable report was obtained that the viscera contained Aluminium Phosphide poison.

40. Learned trial court has rightly disbelieved the trust worthiness of viscera examination report of deceased Alpana, on which basis a case of homicidal death of deceased Alpana has been founded by prosecution in the case, and we find no perversity or error in finding of learned trial court on this count. Another Dr. (DW1) Chandra Prakash has also testified as defence witness that he was called by Ativeer Singh Chauhan (appellant) on 16.02.1993 at around 11 to 12 hours in the day to visit his daughter-in-law whose condition was serious. When he visited the deceased at the place of her in-laws in CHC Campus Dr. Vyas was also present there. He discussed the treatment given to the patient with doctor Vyas and he did not find any symptom of poisoning in patient Alpana Singh. He advised Dr. Vyas to give her injection calm-pose also and left the place after some time to visit the patients in his clinic.

41. Thus, neither the doctor who conducted postmortem examination on dead body of the deceased who appeared as prosecution witness nor defence witnesses doctor Vyas and Dr. Chandra Prakash who attended the deceased on the date of of incident when she was seriously ill have stated in their statement that they they found it suspected case of poisoning. Therefore, only on the basis of viscera examination report which is itself shrouded with suspicion, categorical finding cannot be recorded that the deceased was administered poison like Aluminium Phosphide which resulted in her death.

42. So far as allegation of demand of dowry by the appellants is concerned, the informant and his wife who appeared as witnesses are not consistent regarding nature and demand, at one place they have stated in their evidence that appellants were demanding maruti car from father of the deceased as additional dowry and at another place they stated that they were insisting and putting pressure on PW1 to open a computer center for the husband of the deceased who was a qualified person for his proper settlement and earning. At the third place, plea of demand of dowry is taken in evidence of witnesses of fact that the appellants were insisting that PW1 transfer the plot in the name of Udai Pratap Singh, the husband of the deceased, which was purchased by him in the name of his deceased daughter. Thus, case of demand of dowry is also not consistent. This fact is also noticeable that no allegation of demand of dowry has been made by the informant in his first report lodged with police on 16.02.1993, in which he had only given information regarding death of his daughter and prayed for her postmortem examination and this first information formed the basis of conducting of inquest proceedings on 16.02.1993 between 07:30 to 09:00 am. This information was received at police station on 16.02.1993 at 04:20 am, which was entered in Report No.8 dated 16.02.1993 at G.D. of P.S. Sikandara Rau, District Aligarh.

43. The formal first information was lodged on the basis of written report Ext. Ka8 addressed to Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh bearing date 04.03.1993 on 16.4.1993. On the basis of this written report Chick FIR was lodged by DW8 Head Moharir Guru Prasad, marked as Ext. Ka-18 and case was registered vide G.D. No.19 time 09:20 hours dated 16.03.1993. Thus, a gap of one month between the incident and lodging of formal FIR gave ample time to witness PW-1, for embellishment after thought and concoction in FIR version and learned trial court has rightly disbelieved the evidence offered in support of accusation of demand of dowry and consequent matrimonial cruelty practiced by the appellants against the deceased.

44. A number of letters purportedly written by the deceased to her family members as well as some letters to her husband by her when she was at her parental place are filed on record. These letters were written by deceased to her between her marriage and death are placed on record, which are marked as Ext. Kha 1 to Ext. 54. Some photographs of the deceased, her husband and family members are also placed and proved on record, which are marked as material Ext. 1 to 10. In these photographs the deceased and husband appeared to be in cheerful and normal mode and nothing adverse can be discerned from them, even the letter of the deceased to her husband and in-laws suggest that relationship between deceased, her husband and in-laws were normal. Although in some letters she has raised some grievance with her father-in-law and also from her own father. There is no whisper of statement in these letters regarding any demand of dowry or any specific event of maltreatment meted out to deceased by her husband or in-laws.

45. Thus, after going through the judgment of the learned trial court and on re-appreciation of evidence on record, we find that the trial court was justified in regard to verdict of acquittal in respect of the appellants which is supported with evidence on record and cannot be held to be founded on surmises and conjectures and assumed contradictions as suggested from the side of State appellant and Revisionist the de facto complainant.

46. We find that the principal grounds which weighed with the trial court was according to the order of acquittal were that the FIR is highly belated and in first report filed by the informant with police just after arriving at the place of incident on hearing the death of his daughter at her matrimonial place, no allegations or accusation regarding demand of dowry or matrimonial cruelty, were mentioned therein. The circumstances in which viscera examined by the deceases surfaced or highly doubtful. The doctors who attended the deceased on the date of incident when she was seriously ill have unambiguously stated that they found no symptom of poisoning on her person, and cause of death could not be ascertained in postmortem examination and on this factual situation it is difficult to hold that death of deceased was unnatural or homicidal. The learned trial court has found that the evidence regarding demand of dowry allegedly made by the appellants and matrimonial cruelty meted out to her by the appellants has rightly been found to be suffering from discrepancy and untrustworthiness.

47. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Khekh Ram Vs. Himachal Pradesh AIR SC 2018 5255, dealtwith an appeal against conviction by the High Court of Himachal Pradesh reversing the verdict of acquittal of the appellant by the trial court. Hon'ble Court has held that appellate court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded. The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law. There is nothing to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion in an appeal against acquittal. The appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principles of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court. The Hon'ble Court further observed as under :-

" 23. It is a common place proposition that in a criminal trial suspicion however grave cannot take the place of proof and the prosecution to succeed has to prove its case and establish the charge by adducing convincing evidence to ward off any reasonable doubt about the complicity of the accused. For this, the prosecution case has to be in the category of "must be true" and not "may be true". This Court while dwelling on this postulation, in Rajiv Singh vs. State of Bihar and another dilated thereon as hereunder:

"66. It is well entrenched principle of criminal jurisprudence that a charge can be said to be proved only when there is certain and explicit evidence to warrant legal conviction and that no person can be held guilty on pure moral conviction. Howsoever grave the alleged offence may be, otherwise stirring the conscience of any court, suspicion alone cannot take the place of legal proof. The well established cannon of criminal justice is "fouler the 5 (2015) 16 SCC 369 crime higher the proof". In unmistakable terms, it is the mandate of law that the prosecution in order to succeed in a criminal trial, has to prove the charge(s) beyond all reasonable doubt.

67. The above enunciations resonated umpteen times to be reiterated in Raj Kumar Singh v. State of Rajasthan as succinctly summarized in paragraph 21 as hereunder:

21. Suspicion, however grave it may be, cannot take the place of proof, and there is a large difference between something that "may be" proved and "will be proved". In a criminal trial, suspicion no matter how strong, cannot and must not be permitted to take place of proof. This is for the reason that the mental distance between "may be"

and "must be" is quite large and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions. In a criminal case, the court has a duty to ensure that mere conjectures or suspicion do not take the place of legal proof. The large distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, must be covered by way of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence produced by the prosecution, before an accused is condemned as a convict, and the basic and golden rule must be applied. In such cases, while keeping in mind the distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, the court must maintain the vital distance between conjectures and sure conclusions to be arrived at, on the touchstone of dispassionate judicial scrutiny based upon a complete and comprehensive appreciation of all features of the case, as well as the quality and credibility of the evidence brought on record. The court must ensure that miscarriage of justice is avoided and if the facts and circumstances of a case so demand, then the benefit of doubt must be given to the accused, keeping in mind that a reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely probable doubt, but a fair doubt that is based upon reason and common sense.

[Emphasis laid by the Court]

68. In supplementation, it was held in affirmation of the view taken in Kali Ram v. State of H.P. that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted.

69. In terms of this judgment, suspicion, howsoever grave cannot take the place of proof and the prosecution case to succeed has to be in the category of "must be" and not "may be" a distance to be covered by way of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence to rule out any possibility of wrongful conviction of the accused and resultant miscarriage of justice. For this, the Court has to essentially undertake an exhaustive and analytical appraisal of the evidence on record and register findings as warranted by the same. The above proposition is so well-established that it does not call for multiple citations to further consolidate the same."

48. In the light of the above stated dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court regarding scope of interference in Criminal Appeal against acquittal and re-appreciation of evidence adduced during trial and findings of learned trial court which are based thereon, we find no good grounds to interfere in verdict of acquittal recorded by learned trial court in respect of the private respondents. Consequently instant Government Appeal and connected Criminal Revision which has been preferred by the defacto complainant are devoid of merit and deserves to be dismissed in the manner.

49. The instant government appeal and criminal revision preferred against the impugned judgment and order passed by learned trial court dated 25.04.1996 are dismissed and the impugned judgment and order passed by learned trial court are affirmed. The surviving respondents namely Kumari Archana, Ajai Pratap Singh and Udai Pratap Singh are directed to execute a persona bond and two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned, in compliance of Section 437 A of Cr.P.C. within fifteen days of uploading of this judgment on website of this Hon'ble Court undertaking to appear before the High Court as and when such Court issues notice in respect of appeal or petition filed against this judgment.

Sale/Trade Tax Revision No. 196 of 2013

M/S Sarswat Peroxides Pvt. Ltd.
...Revisionist
Versus
The Commissioner Commer. Tax U.P.
...Respondent

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Kunal Srivastava, Rajesh Kumar Verma

Counsel for the Respondent:
C.S.C.

Civil Law - U.P. Value Added Tax Act, 2008 - Sections 4, 59 - Controversy - Classification of goods and rate of levying VAT on the goods - Revisionist moved an application before Commissioner, Commercial Tax, seeking his opinion as to whether "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would fall under the Entry 29 of Schedule II-A of Act, 2008 or under Entry 89 of "oars and minerals" - Commissioner rejected application, held that "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would be categorized as "unclassified goods", liable to be taxed @ 12.5% - Revisionist preferred appeal - Appeal rejected - Impugned order - Held, according to Section 4 of Act, 2008 tax is levied on goods and not individually on raw material from which goods are prepared - Items given in Entry 29 are not goods which are being sought to be taxed in the present case, but it is the finished product which is "vitamins and minerals pre-mix", thus would not fall under the category of "chemicals" - Entry 41 defines the products which are used for alleviation of any disease or its symptoms, thus it would not fall under category of "drugs and medicines" - Entry 89 of Schedule II of Act, 2008, provides for raw "oars and minerals", thus it would not fall under category of "oars and minerals" . (Para 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15)

Revision is dismissed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajesh Kumar Verma, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Sanjay Sarin, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party.

2. Present revision has been preferred by the revisionist against order of Full Bench of the Commercial Tax Tribunal dated 10.07.2013 wherein they were adjudicating the appeal preferred by the revisionist against order of Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. passed under Section 59 of the U.P. Value Added Tax Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 2008"). Controversy in the present case pertains to the goods produced by the revisionist which are categorized as "vitamins and minerals pre-mix".

3. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that all around the opposite party were treating "vitamins and minerals" to be falling in the category of Entry 29 of Schedule II of the Act, 2008 under the heading "chemicals" and it was taxed @ 4%. Subsequently, it seems that some controversy arose with regard to classification of the goods produced by the revisionist and with regard to rate of levying Value Added Tax, on the said goods, due to which the revisionist moved an application under Section 59 of the Act, 2008 before the Commissioner, Commercial Tax, seeking his opinion as to whether "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would fall under the Entry 29 of Schedule II-A of Act, 2008 or under the category of Entry 89 of "oars and minerals".

4. The Commissioner, Commercial Tax after due consideration of the submissions made on behalf of revisionist was of the view that "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" does not fall under the Entry 89 under the heading "ores and minerals" inasmuch as "ores and minerals" pertain to "raw material" and "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" could not fall under the category of Entry 89 and accordingly rejected the application of the revisionist and held that "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would be categorized as "unclassified goods" liable to be taxed @ 12.5%.

5. The revisionist being aggrieved by order of the Commissioner, Commercial Tax dated 11.09.2012, preferred an appeal before the Commercial Tax Tribunal. The Tribunal upheld the view taken by the Commissioner, Commercial Tax and held that "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" does not fall under the category of "ores and minerals" or "drugs and medicines" and nor under the Entry 29 of "chemicals" and was liable to be taxed as "unclassified goods" and accordingly rejected the appeal preferred by the revisionist.

6. Before this Court also same arguments have been reiterated and it has been submitted that the revisionist produced mineral preparation named as "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" . Composition of 100gm of the said preparation is as follows :-

S. No.	Name of Mineral and Vitamin	Chemical Name	Weight
1	Minerals – Element Calcium	Calcium Carbonate	mg	160
2	Minerals – Element Iron	Ferrous Fumerate	7.2mg
3	Vitamins – Vitamin – A	Retinyl Palmitate	200mcg
4	Vitamins – Vitamin – B-1	Thiamine Hydrochloride	0.31mg
5	Vitamins – Vitamin B-2	Riboflavin	5mg	0.3
6	Vitamins – Vitamin – 5	Nicotine Acid (Niacin)	8mg	3.8
7	Vitamins – Vitamin – C	Ascorbic Acid	mg	16
8	Vitamins – Vitamin – D	Free Folic Acid	Mcg	16

7. Perusal of Schedule II of the Act, 2008 would indicate that Entry 29 pertain to "chemicals" has been defined as :-

> 29. Chemicals including caustic soda, caustic potash, soda ash, bleaching powder, sodium bicarbonate, sodium hydro sulplate, sulphate of alumina, sodium nitrate, sodium acetate, sodium sulphate, acid slurry, trisodium phosphate, sodium tripoly phosphate, sodium silicate, sodium meta silicate, carboxymethyle cellulose, sodium sulphide, acetic acid, sodium bisulphite, oxalic acid, sodium thiosulphate, sodium sulphite, sodium alginate, benzene, citric acid, diethylene glycol, sodium nitrate, hydrogen peroxide, acetaldehyde, pentaerythritol, sodium alpha olefin, sulphonate, sodium formate, chemical components and mixture and all other chemicals not specified alsewhere in this Schedule or any other Schedule.
> While "oars and minerals" have been provided for in Entry 89 of Schedule II of Act, 2008.

8. Considering the case of the revisionist firstly as to whether "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would fall under the category "chemicals". It is noticed that according to the revisionist the goods produced by him are termed as "vitamins and minerals pre-mix", which are made from certain chemicals including Calcium Carbonate, Di-calcium Phosphate, Potassium, Iodine, Sodium Banzol etc. which according to the revisionist are 'chemicals' and accordingly the goods are liable to be taxed treating them to the “chemicals”.

9. The arguments of the revisionist cannot be accepted considering the fact that even if the finished product namely "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" is made from chemicals which are its raw material, while the goods which is sought to be taxed under the Act, 2008 are not the raw material but the finished goods namely "vitamins and minerals pre-mix".

10. Section 4 of the Act, 2008 which a charging section clearly states that the "tax payable on sale of goods under this Act, shall be levied and paid....." accordingly tax is levied on the goods and not individually on the raw material from which the goods are prepared. Undisputedly, items given in Entry 29 are not the goods which are being sought to be taxed in the present case, but it is the finished product which is "vitamins and minerals pre-mix".

11. Accordingly, this Court is unable to accept contention of the revisionist that goods classified as "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would fall under the category ‘chemicals’.

12. The second contention raised by the revisionist is as to whether "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would fall under the category "drugs and medicines" as provided under Entry 41. Entry 41 also specifically in its contents excludes medicated soap, shampoo, antiseptic cream, face cream, massage cream, eye gel and hair oil etc. This entry very clearly defines the products which are used for alleviation of any disease or its symptoms.

13. The words “drugs” and “medicines” are used synonymously in common parlance. They have been defined in various English dictionaries as under :-

Merriam Webster

Drug – a substance used as a medication or in the preparation of medication.

Medicine – a substance or preparation used in treating disease, something that affects well-being.

Cambridge

Drug – any natural or artificially made chemical that is used as a medicine, a natural or artificially made substance, especially one that is illegal, which is taken for pleasure, to improve performance in an activity, or because someone is addicted.

Medicine – a drug that is used to treat illness or injury.

Collins

Drug – any substance used in the treatment, prevention, or diagnosis of disease, a chemical substance, such as a narcotic, taken for the effects it produces.

Medicine – any substance used in treating or alleviating the symptoms of disease.

Oxford

Drug – a medicine or other substance which has a physiological effect when ingested or otherwise introduced into the body. A substance taken for its narcotic or stimulant effects.

Medicine – a drug or other preparation for the treatment or prevention of disease.

14. From the above it is clear that "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" does not fall in the category of "drugs and medicines" nor has any material adduced either before the authorities below or before this Court that it would qualify for being classified as “drugs and medicines” and accordingly, there is no reason to accept the contention of the revisionist that "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would fall under the category of "drugs and medicines".

15. Lastly, the argument of revisionist with regard to inclusion of "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" under "ores and minerals" as defined in Entry 89 of Schedule II of the Act, 2008, the said entry provides only for raw "oars and minerals", without mentioning "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" falling under the said entry, and hence it is clear that “vitamins and minerals pre-mix” would not fall under the category of “oars and minerals”.

16. For the aforesaid reasons, this Court does not find any infirmity in the order passed by the Additional Commissioner or the Tribunal that "vitamins and minerals pre-mix" would be termed as unclassified item and liable to be taxed as such.

17. In the light of discussion made above, the revision is dismissed. The substantial questions of law are decided against the revisionist and in favour of revenue.

Special Appeal No. 372 of 2023

Subhash Chandra ...Appellant
Versus
Srikant Goswami & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Sharad Pathak assisted by Sri Piyush Pathak

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Gaurav Mehrotra assisted by Sri Akber Ahmad, Sri Prashant Puri and Ms. Shhreiya Agarwal, Sri Santosh Kumar Tripathi

Special Appeal-Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952-Chapter VIII Rule 5-Contempt of Courts Act, 1971-Section 19(1)- Challenge to-Maintainability of an intra-court appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952-The respondents raised objections to the maintainability of the appeal as the Act bars appeals against orders disposing of or dropping contempt proceedings-The appellant claimed that the High Court's inherent power in contempt matters, being sui generis in nature, allow for an intra-court appeal-Held, no appeal lies against orders dismissing or dropping contempt proceedings without punishment-The Act is a self contained code, and general provisions for intra-court appeals under Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, do not override this statutory limitation-Therefore, a contempt petitioner cannot file an appeal against an order where the court finds substantial compliance and dismisses the contempt petition.(Para 1 to 71)

If the High Court, for whatsoever reason, decides an issue or makes any direction, relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties, in a contempt proceedings, the aggrieved person is not without remedy. Such an order is open to challenge in intra-court appeal (if the order was of a learned Single Judge and there is a provision for an intra-court appeal), or by seeking special leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India (in other cases). (Para 57)

The appeal is dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. More often than not this Court is recurringly vexed with an issue of seminal importance relating to the maintainability of an intra-court appeal filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred to the 'Rules of the Court') from orders emanating from contempt proceedings.

2. This intra-court appeal too, has been filed by the appellant, who was the petitioner before the Contempt Court, being aggrieved by the order dated 10.07.2023 passed in Contempt Application (civil) 2200 of 2016 (Subhash Chandra Vs. Shri Srikant Goswami MD. U.P. Sahkari Gramin Vikas Ltd.) whereby the Contempt Court finally disposed of the contempt petition holding that there was substantial compliance of the judgment and order dated 10.08.2016 passed by the writ court and it also gave liberty to the contempt-petitioner that in case if he was aggrieved by the order of compliance dated 22.05.2024, he could approach the appropriate Forum.

3. Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned counsel for the respondents at the outset had raised a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the instant intra-court appeal on the ground that in light of Section 19 (1) of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1971), the contempt appeal will only lie against an order passed by the Contempt Court awarding a punishment to a contemnor. This necessarily implies that an appeal can only be filed by a person who is a respondent in the contempt proceedings and not by one who is petitioner in the contempt proceedings.

4. In the instant case, it is pointed out that since the Contempt Court found that substantial compliance of the order passed by the writ court had been made, hence, the Contempt Court did not find it worthwhile to proceed, consequently, the proceedings were dropped, leaving it open for the Contempt-petitioner, if aggrieved against the order of compliance to raise his grievance before the appropriate Forum.

5. It has further been urged that the Act of 1971 is a Special Act which envisages a Forum of appeal only in terms of Section 19 (1) of the Act of 1971 and it does not contemplate filing of an appeal against an order whereby the contempt proceedings are disposed of or dropped or dismissed. In such circumstances where the appeal in terms of Section 19 (1) of the Act of 1971 is not maintainable then the appellant herein in the garb of an intra-court appeal cannot invoke the jurisdiction of this Court to achieve something indirectly which is prohibited by the Act of 1971, directly.

6. Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned counsel for the respondents has further urged that the only remedy which is available to the contempt-petitioner against an order refusing to initiate contempt proceedings, dropping contempt proceedings or dismissing contempt proceedings is to approach the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution of India.

7. It has also been submitted that since the object of the Act of 1971 is to regulate the manner in which the Contempt Court exercises its powers, which primarily inheres in every High Court by virtue of it being a court of record, and thus the Act of 1971 be treated as a special Act vis-a-vis the High Court Rules of 1952 which in this case be treated as the general law under which the intra-court appeal is filed.

8. The thrust of the submission is that once a special act which governs the subject and prohibits or restricts a right of appeal, which needless to say is a creature of a statute, then the general law must give way to the special law and for the aforesaid reason, the intra-court appeal against an order dismissing the contempt petition would not be maintainable.

9. It is further submitted that this issue has been raised before this Court in a number of cases and it has been consistently held that an intra-court appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court against an order dismissing or disposing of contempt petition is not maintainable consequently the instant appeal be dismissed as not maintainable.

10. Sri Mehrotra, learned counsel for the respondents in order to buttress his submissions has relied upon the following decisions :- (i) Jagdamba Prasad Vs. Balgovind and 10 Others Neutral Citation No. - 2016:AHC:77023-DB; (ii) Sheo Charan Vs. Naval and Others 1997 SCC OnLine All 1136; (iii) Hub Lal Yadav Vs. Mahendra and Others 2017 ADJOnline 0638; (iv) Vinod Kumar Gupta and Another Vs. Sri Veer Bahadur Yadav, SDM and Another 2023(7) ADJ 107 (DB); (v) Midnapore Peoples Cooperative Vs. Chunni Lal Nanda and Others (2006) 5 SCC 399; (vi) D.N. Taneja Vs. Bhajan Lal and others (1988) 3 SCC 26; (vii) State of Maharasthra Vs. Mahboob S. Allibhoy and Another (1996) 4 SCC 411 (viii) Fuerest Day Lawson Ltd. Vs. Jindal Exports Ltd. (2011) 8 SCC 333.

11. Sri Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for the appellant responding and refuting the aforesaid preliminary objections has urged that the contempt proceeding which are initiated by the High Court is neither civil nor criminal in nature rather it is in exercise of its jurisdiction 'sui generis'. He further urges that the bar which is mentioned in Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court is not attracted as an order passed by the Contempt Court is primarily an order passed by the High Court in exercise of its original jurisdiction which is inherent in the High Court by virtue of it being a court of record and thus an intra-court appeal is maintainable.

12. Sri Pathak taking his submissions forward has submitted that even if at all, it is assumed that an intra-court appeal may not be maintainable against an order dismissing the contempt petition but the fact still remains that if a Contempt Judge in any manner touches the merit of the claim or issues fresh directions or dilutes a direction already issued then such part of the order cannot be treated to be an order passed in the contempt jurisdiction and thus that part of the order would be without jurisdiction and to that extent, an intra-court appeal would be maintainable.

13. Sri Pathak, has further submitted that a 'judgment' passed by a Court has certain well settled connotations in law. Even if at all, in cases where under the Rules of the Court, an intra-court appeal is not specifically provided then in such circumstances, the Court would be justified in taking recourse to the specific provisions in contemporaneous statutes. Elaborating his submissions, he urged that even though there was no provision which limits the exercise of original jurisdiction by the High Court in contempt proceedings but even if at all the Act of 1971 is considered to limit the exercise of jurisdiction to some extent in so far as filing of an appeal is concerned yet the same would not create an embargo for the High Court to take recourse to the Rules of the Court to effectively exercise its appellate jurisdiction and power which are rather widened by the Rules of the Court. He further contends that Section 19 of the Act of 1971 in no manner overrides or controls the powers of the High Court under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court and thus even if an appeal may not lie in terms of Section 19 of the Act of 1971 but an intra-court appeal would definitely be maintainable. He has heavily relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Shah Babu Lal Khemji Vs. J.D. Kania and Another (1981) 4 SCC 8.

14. Sri Pathak has further submitted that if the decision of the Apex Court in Midnapore (Supra), which is cited by the other side, is considered, it would reveal that the questions which were framed by the Apex Court have been clearly answered in Paragraph 11 which is to be read as a whole. He has further drawn the attention of the Court to Paragraph 11(V) of the Midnapore (supra) decision and it is urged that the Apex Court has clearly held that if the High Court for whatever reason decides an 'issue' or 'makes any direction relating to the merits of the disputes between the parties', in contempt proceedings, then the aggrieved party is not without a remedy. Such a party can challenge the same in an intra-court appeal if there is a provision for such an appeal.

15. It is thus submitted that the Apex Court has clarified that where the contempt Court touches the 'merit' or 'decides an issue' then an intra-court appeal would lie and in the instant case, the said proposition is being pressed into service to contend that the Contempt Court by entering into the question as to whether the compliance has been made or not has held that there is substantial compliance and this has diluted the order passed by the writ court in the first instance which stood affirmed up to the Apex Court. In these circumstances, where the Contempt Court has diluted the directions of the writ court, which was affirmed by the Apex Court and by holding that the Authorities had substantially complied with the order amounts examining the matter on merits, hence, such an order is definitely susceptible to challenge in an intra-court appeal.

16. Thus, for the aforesaid reasons, it is submitted that neither the rules of the Court prohibits the institution and consideration of the intra-court appeal on merits nor there can be any embargo on the power of the Court to entertain an intra-court appeal arising out of contempt proceedings which are original in nature and can neither be termed as civil or criminal rather is sui generis.

17. Sri Pathak in support of his submissions has relied upon the following decisions:- (i) Ch. Shyam Sunder v. Daw Dayal Khanna, 1955 SCC OnLine All 186; (ii) Manohar Lal v. Prem Shanker, 1959 SCC OnLine All 130; (iii) Maninderjeet Singh Bitta Vs. Union of India, (2012) 1 SCC 273; (iv) Shah Babulal Khemji Vs. J.D. Kania and Another (1981) 4 SCC 8; (v)Rajit Ram Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and others: 2024 (7) ADJ 747 (FB); (vi) Mednapore Peoples' Cooperation Vs. Cunilal Nanda and Others (2006) 5 SCC 399; (vii) Special Deputy Director Vs. N. Vasudeva & Others (2007) 14 SCC 165; (viii) Committee of Management Madarsa Ehle-E-Sunnat Vs. Prakash Singh and Others (2016) SCC Online Allahabad 34-38; (ix) Anil Kumar Gupta Vs. Pawan Kumar Singh and Others 2015 SCC Online All 3660; (x) Daya Nand Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and Others 2022 SCC Online All 598; (xi) Amit Mohan Prasad Vs. Naresh Babu Tiwari & Others, Special Appeal No. 135 of 2022; (xii) Ashwani Kumar Vs. State of U.P. & Others MANU/UP/2577/2022.

18. The Court has heard the learned counsel for the parties at length and has also perused the material on record.

19. Before proceeding further, it will be relevant to notice an order in the instant case passed by a Coordinate Bench of this Court dated 22.04.2024 and the relevant portion of the said order reads as under:-

"Now, the order impugned herein has been passed by the High Court in exercise of its contempt jurisdiction under Section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 which is a central enactment. It is referable to entry 14 of the concurrent list, therefore, to this extent there is no difficulty i.e. if it is found that this is an order passed in exercise of criminal jurisdiction by the High Court, then, this appeal would fall within the exception made in Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, however, if it is found that contempt jurisdiction exercised by the learned Judge of the High Court while passing the impugned order, does not fall within the meaning of the words "in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction" used in Chapter VIII Rule 5, then, the position would be different subject of course to there being other issues involved and authorities thereon as also the submissions to be made by the learned counsel for the parties.

The question is whether the aforesaid words- "in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction" refer to the jurisdiction exercised by the High Court on the criminal side under the Code of Criminal Procedure or any other law falling in the criminal field or would it include the exercise of contempt jurisdiction which is termed as quasi criminal proceeding/jurisdiction. Whether these words will include the quasi criminal jurisdiction of a contempt Court of the High Court."

20. In light of the tentative observations noted above, this Court will consider the nature of the proceedings exercised by the High Court in its contempt jurisdiction inter alia to adjudge the issue of maintainability of the instant appeal in light of the rival submissions.

21. At this stage, it will be apposite to take a glace at the relevant provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 which have an interplay and have some bearing on the controversy involved in the instant intra-court appeal.

22. For the ease of the reference, relevant provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 are being reproduced hereinafter:-

> "2. Definitions.—In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,—
>
> (a) "contempt of court" means civil contempt or criminal contempt;
>
> (b) "civil contempt" means wilful disobedience to any judgment, decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a court or wilful breach of an undertaking given to a court;
>
> (c) "criminal contempt" means the publication (whether by words, spoken or written, or by signs, or by visible representations, or otherwise) of any matter or the doing of any other act whatsoever which— (i) scandalises or tends to scandalise, or lowers or tends to lower the authority of any court; or (ii) prejudices, or interferes or tends to interfere with, the due course of any judicial proceeding; or (iii) interferes or tends to interfere with, or obstructs or tends to obstruct, the administration of justice in any other manner;
>
> (d) "High Court" means the High Court for a State or a Union territory, and includes the court of the Judicial Commissioner in any Union territory.
>
> 10. Power of High Court to punish contempts of subordinate courts.— Every High Court shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, powers and authority, in accordance with the same procedure and practice, in respect of contempts of courts subordinate to it as it has and exercises in respect of contempts of itself: Provided that no High Court shall take cognizance of a contempt alleged to have been committed in respect of a court subordinate to it where such contempt is an offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (45 of 1860).
> 11. Power of High Court to try offences committed or offenders found outside jurisdiction.—A High Court shall have jurisdiction to inquire into or try a contempt of itself or of any court subordinate to it, whether the contempt is alleged to have been committed within or outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, and whether the person alleged to be guilty of contempt is within or outside such limits.
> 12. Punishment for contempt of court.—(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act or in any other law, a contempt of court may be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or with both:

Provided that the accused may be discharged or the punishment awarded may be remitted on apology being made to the satisfaction of the court.

Explanation.—An apology shall not be rejected merely on the ground that it is qualified or conditional if the accused makes it bona fide.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, no court shall impose a sentence in excess of that specified in sub-section(1) for any contempt either in respect of itself or of a court subordinate to it.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, where a person is found guilty of a civil contempt, the court, if it considers that a fine will not meet the ends of justice and that a sentence of imprisonment is necessary shall, instead of sentencing him to simple imprisonment, direct that he be detained in a civil prison for such period not exceeding six months as it may think fit.

(4) Where the person found guilty of contempt of court in respect of any undertaking given to a court is a company, every person who, at the time the contempt was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to, the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the contempt and the punishment may be enforced with the leave of the court, by the detention in civil prison of each such person:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any such person liable to such punishment if he proves that the contempt was committed without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent its commission.

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (4), where the contempt of court referred to therein has been committed by a company and it is proved that the contempt has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of the contempt and the punishment may be enforced, with the leave of the court, by the detention in civil prison of such director, manager, secretary or other officer.

Explanation.—For the purpose of sub-sections (4) and (5),—

(a) "company" means any body corporate and includes a firm or other association of individuals; and

(b) "director", in relation to a firm, means a partner in the firm.

19. Appeals.—(1) An appeal shall lie as of right from any order or decision of High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt—*

(a) where the order or decision is that of a single judge, to a Bench of not less than two Judges of the Court;

(b) where the order or decision is that of a Bench, to the Supreme Court:

Provided that where the order or decision is that of the Court of the Judicial Commissioner in any Union territory, such appeal shall lie to the Supreme Court.

(2) Pending any appeal, the appellate Court may order that—

(a) the execution of the punishment or order appealed against be suspended;

(b) if the appellant is in confinement, he be released on bail; and

(c) the appeal be heard notwithstanding that the appellant has not purged his contempt.

(3) Where any person aggrieved by any order against which an appeal may be filed satisfies the High Court that he intends to prefer an appeal, the High Court may also exercise all or any of the powers conferred by sub-section (2).

(4) An appeal under sub-section (1) shall be filed—

(a) in the case of an appeal to a Bench of the High Court, within thirty days;

(b) in the case of an appeal to the Supreme Court, within sixty days, from the date of the order appealed against.

23. The High Court in order to regulate the presentation and hearing of contempt proceedings has framed rules contained in Chapter XXXV-E of the Rules of the Court, 1952 which read as under:-

"1. Introduction :- The Rules contained in this Chapter shall govern presentation and hearing of Contempt of Court cases coming to this High Court under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.*

2. Nature of contempt to be indicated :- Every application, reference or motion for taking proceedings under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 shall mention at the head whether it relates to the Commission of 'Civil Contempt' or 'Criminal Contempt'* :

Provided that, if there are allegations both of commission of Civil Contempt and Criminal Contempt against the same person/persons, two separate applications shall be moved, one dealing with Civil Contempt and the other with Criminal Contempt.

3. Facts to be stated in the motion or reference:- (1) Every such motion or reference made under Section 15 (1) of the Act shall contain in precise language the statement setting forth the facts constituting the contempt of which the person charged is alleged to be guilty and shall specify the date or dates on which the contempt is alleged to have been committed.*

(2) Every motion made by the Advocate General under sub-section (2) of Section 15 of the Act shall state the allegations of facts and the view of the informant that in relation to these facts contempt appears to have been committed of which the Court should take cognizance and take further action.

The motion should contain sufficient material to indicate why the Advocate General is inclined to move the court.

(3) (a) A petition for taking contempt of court proceedings shall be supported by an affidavit. In case of criminal contempt three copies of the application and the affidavit shall accompany the application :

Provided that if there are more than one opposite parties, the petition shall be accompanied by as many extra copies as there are opposite parties.

(b) When the petitioner relies upon any document or documents in his possession, he shall file the same along with the petition or a copy thereof as annexure to affidavit.

(c) A petition made under Section 15 (1) (b) of the Act shall also be accompanied by the consent in writing of the Advocate General and a copy thereof.

(4) Every petition is respect of criminal contempt, where it is not moved by the Advocate General and where the consent in writing of the Advocate General had not been obtained, and every petition in regard to criminal contempt of a subordinate court where no reference has been made by it and the petition is moved without the consent of the Advocate General shall clearly state the reasons why the consent in writing of the Advocate General could not be obtained and why the court has been approached to act suo motu.

4. Civil and criminal contempt's presentation after stamp reporter :- (a) Every case relating to civil contempt shall be presented before the Bench107 constituted for that purpose.*

(b) Every case of criminal contempt coming under Section 15 of the Act shall be presented before the Bench of not less than two Judges constituted for the purpose.

(c) provided that every case of contempt of Court presented before the Court shall bear the report of the Stamp Reporter as to sufficiency of Court-fee paid and also about limitation. References relating to contempt of court received on Administrative side from the subordinate courts shall, along with the office report with respect thereto, be laid before the Chief Justice, who shall have the discretion to file the same or to order that the same be laid before the Bench concerned, A [at Allahabad or Lucknow as the case might be] for further proceedings in connection with the case.

5. Issuance of notice :- Such allegations contained in the petition as appears to the Court to make out a prima facie case of contempt of Court against the person concerned, shall be reduced into charge or charges by the Court against such person, and notice shall be issued only with respect to those charges :*

Provided that the Court shall not issue notice if more than a year has elapsed from the alleged act of contempt of court.

6. Documents accompanied notice :- Where an order has been made directing that notice be issued to any person to* show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of Court, a date shall be fixed for the hearing and a notice thereof in the prescribed form given to the person concerned. The notice of a criminal contempt shall also be served on the Government Advocate. The notice shall be accompanied by copies of the application, motion and the affidavit or a copy of the reference by a subordinate court as the case may be, and a copy of the charge or charges as framed by the court and shall require the person concerned to appear either in person or through counsel unless otherwise ordered before the Court at the time and on the date specified therein to show cause why he should not be punished for Contempt of Court. Notice of every proceeding under Section 15 of the Act shall be served personally on the person charged, unless the Court for reasons to be recorded directs otherwise.

7. Contempt in the presence of the Court :- When it is alleged or appears to the Court upon its own view that a person has been guilty of contempt committed in its presence or hearing, the Court may cause such person to be detained in custody, and at any time before the rising of the Court, on the same day or as early as possible thereafter, shall—

(a) cause him to be informed in writing of the contempt with which he is charged, and if such person pleads guilty to the charge, his plea shall be recorded and the Court may in its discretion, convict him thereon;

(b) if such person refuses to plead, or does not plead, or claims to be tried or the Court does not convict him, on his plea or guilt, afford him an opportunity to make his defence to the charge, in support of which he may file an affidavit on the date fixed for his appearance or on such other date as may be fixed by the court in that behalf;

(c) after taking such evidence as may be necessary or as may be offered by such person and after hearing him, proceed either forthwith or after the adjournment, to determine the matter of the charge; and

(d) make such order for punishment or discharge of such person as may be just.

8. Application for transfer of hearing to be placed before Chief Justice :- Notwithstanding anything contained in Rule 7, where a person charged with contempt under that rule applies, whether orally or in writing to have the charge against him tried by some Judge other than the Judge or Judges in whose presence or hearing the offence is alleged to have been committed, and the court is of opinion that it is practicable to do so and that in the interest of proper administration of justice the application should be allowed, it shall cause the matter to be placed together with a statement of the facts of the case, before the Chief Justice for such directions as he may think fit to issue as respects the trial thereof.

9. Detention of contemnor during pendency of the proceedings :- Pending the determination of the charge under clause (c) of Rule 7 the Court may direct that the person charged with contempt under section 14 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, shall be detained in such custody as it may specify.

10. Informant not to plead unless directed by the court:- After giving information about the commission of contempt of court by any person or persons, the informant shall not have any right to appear or plead or argue before the Court unless he is called upon by the Court specially to do so.

11. Bail in contempt case*:- When any person charged with contempt appears or is brought before the High Court and is prepared, while in custody or at any stage of the proceedings, to give bail, such person shall be released on bail, if a bond for such sum of money as the Court thinks sufficient is executed with or without sureties conditioned that the person charged shall attend at the time and place mentioned in the bond and shall continue to so attend until otherwise directed by the Court* :

Provided that the High Court may if it thinks fit, instead of taking bail from such person, discharge him on his executing a bond without sureties for his attendance as aforesaid, or without executing such bond :

Provided further that on the failure of a person to comply with the conditions of the bail bond as regards the time and place of attendance, the Court may refuse to release him on bail when on a subsequent occasion in the same case he appears before the Court or is brought in custody and every such refusal shall be without prejudice to the powers of the Court to call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof.

The provisions of Sections 422 to 448 and 450 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, shall so far as may be, apply to all the bonds executed under the Rule.

12. Attachment of property and warrant of arrest in certain cases:- The Court may, if satisfied that the person charged is absconding or likely to abscond or is keeping or is likely to keep out of the way to avoid service of the notice, order the attachment of his property of such value or amount as it may deem reasonable. In case of criminal contempt the Court may, in lieu of or in addition to the order of attachment of property, order issue of warrant of arrest of such person :

Provided that, in case the Court considers it fit and expedient, it may issue warrant of arrest in the first instance.

Such warrant may be endorsed in the manner laid down in Section 71 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The attachment referred to above shall be effected in the manner provided in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 for the attachment of property in execution of a decree for payment of money. If after such attachment, the person charged appears and shows to the satisfaction of the Court that he did not abscond or keep out of the way to avoid service of the notice, the Court shall order the release of his property from attachment upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it may think fit.

13. Paper book and issue of copies in contempt cases:- The rules contained in the Rules of Court pertaining to grant of copies and charging process fees in criminal matters and preparation of paper book in contempt of Court cases and such other matters in respect of which no provision has been made in this Chapter, shall apply mutatis mutandis to the proceedings under this Chapter and the appeals coming under Section 19 of the Act. Similarly when proceedings are pending in subordinate Court, the Rules made by the High Court for conduct of business of such subordinate Courts shall apply to those proceedings.

14. Costs :- Where costs have been awarded by the Court in proceedings for contempt of court but have not been paid, the person entitled to them may apply to the Court for execution of the order. The application shall be accompanied by an affidavit stating the amount of costs awarded and the amount, remaining unpaid, and it shall be laid before the Court for orders. The Court may direct the Chief Judicial Magistrate to realise the amount due by himself or by any Magistrate subordinate to him. Such amounts shall be realised as if it were an amount of fine."

24. The power of the intra-court appeal has been conferred on this Court by Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules which reads as under:-

"Chapter VIII

[5. Special appeal :- An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction [or in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award—

(a) of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, or

(b) of the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge.]"

25. Before considering the respective submissions of the parties, it will be appropriate to first notice the decisions cited by the respective parties.

26. The learned counsel for the appellant in support of his submissions had relied upon the decision of this Court in Chaudhary Shyam Sunder (Supra) where it has been held that the contempt proceedings are neither civil nor criminal but sui generis. A High Court punishes for contempt of court as a court of record in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction and the procedure that it adopts is not governed either by the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as C.P.C.) or by the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "Cr.P.C.).

27. The aforesaid authority may have limited applicability, inasmuch as, it can only be an authority for the fact that the contempt powers which the High Court exercises is on account of being a court of record and the proceedings are sui generis in that context. Moreover, the said decision is of the year 1955 whereas with the promulgation of the Contempt of Court Act, 1971, the situation has changed. Suffice to state that the aforesaid case may not have much precedential value as it does not deal with the issue as to whether against an order passed by the Contempt Court dropping the contempt proceedings, an intra-court appeal could be maintained.

28. The other decisions relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant namely Manohar Lal (Supra) deals with the two classes of contempt as defined in Act of 1971 i.e. civil and criminal contempt but the said decision does not help the appellant on the issue of maintainability of an intra-court appeal arising out of contempt proceedings. Moreover, in Maninderjeet Singh Bitta (Supra) the Apex Court considered the principles which guide the exercise of judicial discretion in contempt jurisdiction. The relevant portion reads as under:-

> "16. Now, we would examine certain principles of law which would normally guide the exercise of judicial discretion in the realm of contempt jurisdiction. "Contempt" is an extraordinary jurisdiction of the courts. Normally, the courts are reluctant to initiate contempt proceedings under the provisions of the 1971 Act. This jurisdiction, at least suo motu, is invoked by the courts sparingly and in compelling circumstances, as it is one of the foremost duty of the courts to ensure compliance with its orders. The law relating to contempt is primarily dissected into two main heads of jurisdiction under the Indian law: (a) criminal contempt, and (b) civil contempt. It is now well-settled and explained principle under the Indian contempt jurisdiction that features, ingredients, procedure, attendant circumstances of the case and the quantum of punishment are the relevant and deciphering factors.
> 17. Section 12 of the 1971 Act deals with the contempt of court and its punishment while Section 15 deals with cognizance of criminal contempt. Civil contempt would be wilful breach of an undertaking given to the court or wilful disobedience of any judgment or order of the court, while criminal contempt would deal with the cases where by words, spoken or written, signs or any matter or doing of any act which scandalises, prejudices or interferes, obstructs or even tends to obstruct the due course of any judicial proceedings, any court and the administration of justice in any other manner. Under the English law, the distinction between criminal and civil contempt is stated to be very little and that too of academic significance. However, under both the English and Indian law these are proceedings sui generis.

18. While referring to Justice J.D. Kapoor's Law of Contempt of Court, 2nd Edn., 2010 which mentioned the Phillimore Committee Report—Report of the Committee on Contempt of Court, of which importantly the following passage can be noticed:

"4. In England and Wales most forms of contempt have been regarded as of criminal character, and as such, are called 'criminal contempts'. In Scotland contempt of court is not a crime nor is a distinction between 'criminal' and 'civil' contempts recognised. Scots law regards contempt of court as a chapter of a law sui generis. This difference of approach is of little more than academic significance in modern practice, but the Scottish explain certain peculiar elements in its operation and procedure. What is of particular importance is that it is a branch of the law in which breaches are investigated by a special and summary procedure and where, once established, they may be severely punished."

19. Under the Indian law the conduct of the parties, the act of disobedience and the attendant circumstances are relevant to consider whether a case would fall under civil contempt or criminal contempt. For example, disobedience of an order of a court simpliciter would be civil contempt but when it is coupled with conduct of the parties which is contemptuous, prejudicial and is in flagrant violation of the law of the land, it may be treated as a criminal contempt. Even under the English law, the courts have the power to enforce its judgment and orders against the recalcitrant parties.

20. In exercise of its contempt jurisdiction, the courts are primarily concerned with enquiring whether the contemnor is guilty of intentional and wilful violation of the orders of the court, even to constitute a civil contempt. Every party to lis before the court, and even otherwise, is expected to obey the orders of the court in its true spirit and substance. Every person is required to respect and obey the orders of the court with due dignity for the institution. The government departments are no exception to it. The departments or instrumentalities of the State must act expeditiously as per orders of the court and if such orders postulate any schedule, then it must be adhered to. Whenever there are obstructions or difficulties in compliance with the orders of the court, least that is expected of the government department or its functionaries is to approach the court for extension of time or clarifications, if called for. But, where the party neither obeys the orders of the court nor approaches the court making appropriate prayers for extension of time or variation of order, the only possible inference in law is that such party disobeys the orders of the court. In other words, it is intentionally not carrying out the orders of the court. Flagrant violation of the court's orders would reflect the attitude of the party concerned to undermine the authority of the courts, its dignity and the administration of justice."

The aforesaid principles cannot be disputed but they do not help the appellant on the issue of maintainability of the instant appeal.

29. The learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Shah Babu Lal Khimji (Supra) to contend that even in case of an interlocutory order passed by a trial judge even then an appeal under Letters Patent will lie and that any special act will not override the powers conferred on the Court under the Letters Patent.

30. In the aforesaid case of Khimji (supra), the Apex Court considered the nuances of the word 'judgment' while noticing Clause 15 of the Letters Patent of the Bombay High Court. In this context, the Apex Court considered the provisions of the C.P.C. and Letters Patent and in para 78 and 79 held as under:-

"78. Thus, after considering the arguments of counsel for the parties on the first two limbs of the questions, our conclusions are:

"(1) That there is no inconsistency between Section 104 read with Order 43 Rule 1 and the appeals under the letters patent and there is nothing to show that the letters patent in any way excludes or overrides the application of Section 104 read with Order 43 Rule 1 or to show that these provisions would not apply to internal appeals within the High Court.

(2) That even if it be assumed that Order 43 Rule 1 does not apply to letters patent appeals, the principles governing these provisions would apply by process of analogy.

(3) That having regard to the nature of the orders contemplated in the various clauses of Order 43 Rule 1, there can be no doubt that these orders purport to decide valuable rights of the parties in ancillary proceedings even though the suit is kept alive and that these orders do possess the attributes or character of finality so as to be judgments within the meaning of clause 15 of the letters patent and hence, appealable to a larger Bench.

(4) The concept of the letters patent governing only the internal appeals in the High Courts and the Code of Civil Procedure having no application to such appeals is based on a serious misconception of the legal position."

79. This now brings us to the second important point which is involved in this appeal. Despite our finding that Section 104 read with Order 43 Rule 1 applies to letters patent appeals and all orders passed by a trial Judge under clauses (a) to (w) would be appealable to the Division Bench, there would still be a large number of orders passed by a trial Judge which may not be covered by Order 43 Rule 1. The next question that arises is under what circumstances orders passed by a trial Judge not covered by Order 43 Rule 1 would be appealable to a Division Bench. In such cases, the import, definition and the meaning of the word "judgment" appearing in clause 15 assumes a real significance and a new complexion because the term "judgment" appearing in the letters patent does not exclude orders not falling under the various clauses of Order 43 Rule 1. Thus the serious question to be decided in this case and which is indeed a highly vexed and controversial one is as to what is the real concept and purport of the word "judgment" used in clause 15 of the letters patent. The meaning of the word "judgment" has been the subject-matter of conflicting decisions of the various High Courts raging for almost a century and in spite of such length of time, unfortunately, no unanimity has so far been reached. As held by us earlier it is high time that we should now settle this controversy once for all as far as possible."

Since the issue before the Apex Court was different in Khimji (Supra), hence, the said decision also does not come to the aid of the appellant.

31. The learned counsel for the appellant has then relied upon a Full Bench decision of this Court in Rajit Ram Yadav (Supra) wherein one of us (Hon'ble the Chief Justice Arun Bhansali,) was a member. The Full Bench of this Court in Rajit Ram Yadav (Supra) was considering whether an intra-court appeal would lie against a judgment of learned Single Judge in writ proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India preferred against an order passed by an Authority exercising Appellate or Revisional power under U.P. State Road Transport Corporation Employees (other than officers) Service Regulations, 1981. In the aforesaid backdrop, the Full Bench traced the legislative history of the Letters Patent as well as the provision of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 and noticed the scope of the provisions and what orders can be made amenable to an appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5. The Full Bench considered that the order passed by an officer or authority exercising Appellate or Revisional powers under the U.P. State Road Transport Corporation Employees (other than officers) Service Regulations, 1981 was passed in exercise of the Central Act, consequently, the special appeal was held to be maintainable. Thus, on account of different factual matrix, the said decision does not throw much light on the issue of maintainability of an intra-court appeal arising out of an order passed under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

32. Learned counsel for the appellant has then relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Midnapore (supra). In so far as this decision is concerned, it has been relied upon by both the parties and this Court deems it appropriate to consider this case at a later stage.

33. The learned counsel for the appellant has in the same vein relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Special

Deputy Director (Supra), a decision of Division Bench of this Court in Madarsa Ehl-E-Sunnat (supra), Anil Kumar Gupta (supra) and Daya Nand Sharma (Supra) to buttress his submissions that where the learned Single Bench decides an issue touching upon the merit of the matter, in such circumstances, it cannot be said that such directions or finding returned by the learned Single Bench would be within the scope of jurisdiction under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, hence, an intra-court appeal would be maintainable. Reliance has also been placed on the decision of the another Division Bench decision of this Court in Amit Mohan Prasad (Supra) to submit that when a contempt judge enters into the merits of the issue which was contentious then an intra-court appeal would be maintainable and so is the proposition laid by another Division Bench of this Court in Ashwani Kumar (Supra).

34. On the other hand, the learned counsel for the respondents has relied upon various Division Bench decisions of this Court, namely in Jagdamba Prasad (supra), Sheo Charan (Supra), Hub Lal Yadav (supra) , Committee of Management Smt. Dulhin Rajdhari Kunwari Kanya Junior High School Vs. Dinesh Chandra Kannaujia and Another in Special Appeal No. 303 of 2010 decided on 27.07.2017 Vinod Kumar Gupta (Supra), Shivam Das Chandani and Others Vs. Prabhu N. Singh and Others; 2022 (3) ADJ 275 (LB) (DB) (03) and Roop Singh Vs. Sri Vinay Kumar Johri and Others; 2020 (8) ADJ 519 (DB) to submit that an order passed by a Contempt Judge in exercise of its contempt jurisdiction whereby the contempt proceedings have been discharged cannot be made the subject matter of an intra-court appeal.

35. This aspect has been elaborately dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court in Sheo Charan (supra) and the said reasoning has been followed by the subsequent Division Bench decisions of this Court as mentioned in the preceding paragraphs. The relevant paragraphs 8, 9, 10 and 11 of Sheo Charan (supra) reads as under:-

> "8. The right of appeal under any other law against a decision of a Court is also taken away if the statue, which has conferred the jurisdiction on the court, has itself provided for an appeal from such a decision. The reason is that the rule that when a jurisdiction is conferred on a court, it imports the ordinary incidents of the procedure of that court including the right of appeal from its decision will not apply if the statute which has conferred the jurisdiction has itself made provision for appeal from the decision of such court. As the Act has provided for appeal from order/decision given thereunder, an appeal under Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the Rules from such a decision is barred. A Division Bench of this Court in Ved Prakash Kapoor and Ors. v. Kamla Prasad Rai Special Appeal No. 316 of 1995, decided on 23.4.1997, has also held that an appeal filed against an order passed under the Act is not maintainable under Rule 5 of Chapter VIII.

9. The Contempt of Courts Act was enacted "to define and limit powers of certain courts in punishing contempt of courts and to regulate their procedure in relation thereto-" The Supreme Court in Pritam Pal v. High Court of Pritam Pal Vs. High Court of Madhya Pradesh, Jabalpur through Registrar, has held that after the enforcement of the Act, the procedure laid down therein will govern the contempt proceedings before the High Court. The relevant extract of said decision is reproduced below:

Prior to the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, it was held that the High Court has inherent power to deal with a contempt of itself summarily and to adopt its own procedure, provided that it gives a fair and reasonable opportunity to the contemner to defend himself. But the procedure has now been prescribed by Section 15 of the Act in exercise of the powers conferred by Entry 14, List III of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution. Though the contempt jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and the High Court can be regulated by legislation by appropriate Legislature under Entry 77 of List I and Entry 14 of List III in exercise of which the Parliament has enacted the Act, 1971, the contempt jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and the High Court is given a constitutional foundation by declaring to be "Courts of Record" under Articles 129 and 215 of the Constitution and, therefore, the inherent power of the Supreme Court and the High Court cannot be taken away by any legislation short of constitutional amendment.

The Act has defined "contempt", laid down procedure and has placed limitation on the powers of the courts. By Section 19, the Act has created a right of appeal from an order or decision of the court imposing punishment for contempt. There is no provision for appeal under the Act against the decision discharging the notice of contempt and/or dismissing the contempt petition. When statute provides for appeal and also lays down the orders/decisions against which such an appeal can be filed, the Legislature"s intention is that appeal against all other orders is barred. As Section 19 has provided for appeal against an order or decision imposing punishment for contempt, the right to file an appeal against all other orders has been taken away by the statute. The result is that the appeal against a decision, rejecting the contempt petition is not maintainable under Rule 5 of Chapter VIII also.

10. Two decision of Supreme Court in State of West Bengal and others Vs. Kartick Chandra Das and others, and Pritam Pal Vs. High Court of Madhya Pradesh, Jabalpur through Registrar, on which reliance has been placed by the learned Counsel for the Appellant are of no help to him. In State of West Bengal and Ors. v. Kartick Chandra Das and Ors. (supra), the question before the Supreme Court was whether Section 5 of the Limitation Act can be applied to an appeal filed against the order of single Judge passed in contempt jurisdiction. Supreme Court answered the said question in affirmative. The submission of the learned Counsel for the Appellant is that as in the above case the appeal was filed under Letters patent against the order of single Judge passed in contempt jurisdiction and as the Supreme Court has held that Section 5 of the Limitation Act is applicable to the said appeal, it should be presumed that the Supreme Court has decided that appeal against the judgment of single Judge, rejecting the contempt petition is maintainable under Letters Patent/Rules of the Court. This submission cannot be accepted. The question involved in the present case regarding the maintainability of the appeal under the Letters Patent/Rules of the Court against the decision of single Judge rejecting the contempt petition was neither raised before the Supreme Court nor was it decided by it. Therefore, this decision is not an authority for holding that against the order rejecting the contempt case an appeal can be filed under Rules of the Court. Supreme Court in The State of Orissa Vs. Sudhansu Sekhar Misra and Others, has declared that:

A decision is only an authority for what it actually decides. What is of the essence in a decision is its ratio and not every observation found therein nor what logically follows from the various observations made in it.

The same principle was reiterated in Ambica Quarry Works v. State of Gujarat and Ors., (1987) 1 SCC 213 Similar is the position with regard to the case of Pritam Pal Vs. High Court of Madhya Pradesh, Jabalpur through Registrar, In that case also the controversy involved in the present case was not here.

11. Learned Counsel for the Respondents has, however, submitted that as no appeal lies u/s 19 of the Act from the decision of single Judge, dismissing the contempt petition, the applicant will be rendered remediless, if his appeal under Rule 5 of Chapter VIII is not held maintainable. This submission is also devoid of merit. In State of Maharashtra Vs. Mahboob S. Allibhoy and another, the Supreme Court has reiterated the rule that a contempt proceeding is not a dispute between the two parties and such a proceeding is a matter between the Court and the person, who is alleged to have committed contempt. The relevant passage from the said judgment is as under:

It is well-known that contempt proceeding is not a dispute between two parties, the proceeding is primarily between the court and the person who is alleged to have committed the contempt of court. The person who informs the court or brings to the notice of the court that anyone has committed contempt of such court is not in the position of a prosecutor, he is simply assisting the court so that the dignity and the majesty of the court is maintained and upheld. It is for the court, which initiated the proceeding to decide whether the person against whom such proceeding has been initiated should be punished or discharged taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of the particular case.

36. Similarly, a Division Bench decision of this Court in Jagdamba Prasad (Supra) has followed the aforesaid reasoning and held as under :-

"A bare perusal of the provision quoted above would got to show that an Appeal in question is to lie against any order or decision of High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt and only when there is a order of punishment for contempt then only appeal shall lie as a matter of right and in no other contingency, appeal would lie as a matter of right.

Apex Court, in the case of Purshottam Dass Goel vs. B.S. Dhillon (1978) SCC (Cri.) 195 has also clarified the position that appeal lies only against order of punishment passed by High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt and in other contingency, appeal in question would not lie. View to the similar effect has been expressed in the case of State of Maharashtra vs. Mahboob S. Allibboy 1996 (4) SCC 411; Midnapore People's Co-operative Bank Ltd. vs. Chunni Lal Nanda 2006 (5) SCC 399; Sujitendra Nath Singh Roy vs. State of W.B. in Civil Appeal No.7335 of 2011 decided on 13.03.2015.

Remedy by way of Appeal is a creation of statute and once legislature, in its wisdom, has choosen not to provide for any remedy of appeal against order passed by learned Single Judge dropping the proceedings, then in the garb of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of High Court Rules, appeal in question cannot be said to be maintainable specially when proceedings under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 are self contained. 'Contempt proceedings' are principally proceedings inter-se the Court and the Contemnor, the person who approaches the Court for initiation of Contempt Proceedings, has status of Complainant/Informant and nothing beyond the same. Complainant has not been provided for with any right to prefer Appeal against the order passed by learned Single Judge. Right of appeal has been conferred on the contemnor who has been punished under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, and in other contingency, Appeal is not at all provided for or is maintainable. What is not at all provided for in the 'Statute', same cannot be provided for by taking aid of any other statutory provisions, in view of this, as far as order that has been passed for dropping the proceedings is concerned, against the same appeal in question is not at all maintainable. This Court in the case of Smt. Subhawati Devi vs. R.K. Singh 2004 (3) AWC has already clarified the situation that Special Appeal would not lie, except for the circumstances when the order passed by learned Single Judge falls within the purview of judgement for under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of High Court Rules. Relevant paras of said judgement reads as follows:

"29. Learned counsel for the appellant, however, submitted that even if an appeal does not lie under Section 19(1) of the Act, an appeal is still maintainable under Clause 10 of the Letters Patent read with Chapter VIII. Rule 5 of the Rules as the instant appeal has been categorised as Special Appeal.

30. Let us, therefore, consider whether this appeal is maintainable under Clause 10 of the Letters Patent read with Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules.

36. Keeping the above principle in mind, we now deal with the question as to whether an order or a decision of the learned Judge rejecting the application for contempt and refusing to punish for contempt amounted to a "judgment" within the meaning of Clause 10 of the Letters Patent. To answer this query, the question to be decided is as to whether such an order would determine any right or liability of the parties. In our view, in rejecting the application for contempt and discharging the notice of contempt, it cannot be said that to proceed or not to proceed against the alleged contemnor was a matter of discretion of the Court and the appellant cannot be said to have acquired any right to ask for discretion to be exercised in a particular manner. It may also be said, in this connection, that the right of appeal can be made available to an aggrieved party and an aggrieved party, for the purpose of proceeding for contempt, has been held to be only a party who has been punished for contempt. Therefore, it can be safely concluded that when the Court refuses to commit the alleged contemnor, it does not decide any right or liability arising between the parties. Therefore, we are of the view that an order passed rejecting an application for contempt is not appealable under Clause 10 of the Letter Patent read with Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules. We, however, make it clear that there may be cases where some orders or directions have been made in variation of the original order in which an appeal can be held to be maintainable in law. However, we also make it clear that for the purposes of holding that an appeal is maintainable in law or not, one has to deal with the facts of the particular case for reaching to a proper conclusion.

37. There may be another ground for holding that an appeal under Chapter VIII. Rule 5 of the Rules against an order discharging the contempt notice is not maintainable, in law. A Division Bench of this Court in Sheo Charan v. Naval and Ors., 1997 (2) UPLBEC 1215 : 1997 AWC 1909, has held that Section 19 of the Act has created a right of appeal from an order or decision of the Court imposing punishment for contempt. There is no provision for appeal under the Act against the decision discharging the notice of contempt and/or dismissing the contempt petition. In view of the fact that the Act provides for appeal and also lays down the orders/decisions against such an appeal can be filed, the intention of the Legislature must be said to be that an appeal cannot be filed under Clause 10 or under Clause 15 read with Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules as the Contempt of Courts Act is a complete Code wherein provision for appeal has been specifically provided.

38. Under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules appeal is provided before the Division Bench of this Court from a judgment not being a judgment specified therein, of one of the learned Judges of this Court. Therefore, the question that needs to be decided as to whether an appeal from a decision of the learned Judge made in the exercise of his power under the Act is maintainable even though the Act itself has provided for an appeal from such a decision. We are in full agreement with the views expressed by the Division Bench of this Court in Sheo Charan (supra), in which it has been clearly established that if the Statute, which has conferred the jurisdiction on the Court, itself lays down the procedure, and provides for appeal from its decision, the appeal can be filed only under and in accordance with such a statute. In such a case general right of appeal from a decision of the Court stands excluded by the statute, which has conferred the jurisdiction on the Court. Such being the position, we are, therefore, of the view that an appeal against a decision rejecting the contempt petition was not maintainable also under Chapter VIII. Rule 5 of the Rules. The same view has been expressed by a Division Bench of this Court in A.P. Verma and Ors. v. U.P. Laboratory Technicians Association, Lucknow and Ors., 1998 (3) AWC 2264 : (1998) 3 UPLBEC 2333, wherein it has been held that no appeal is maintainable under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court against any order passed in a proceeding under the Contempt of Courts Act as it is a self contained Code.

39. We also express an opinion as already done that no appeal is maintainable under Clause 15 of the Letters Patent against an order refusing to initiate proceedings for contempt of Courts. Same view was also expressed by a Division Bench of Madras High Court in Shanta V. Bai v. Basnanti Builders, 1991 Cri LJ 3026, wherein it was held that no appeal was maintainable under Clause 10 or 15 of the Letters Patent against an order rejecting the application for contempt and discharging the contempt notice."

37. A similar view was expressed by another Division Bench of this Court in Hub Lal Yadav (Supra) wherein the earlier decisions of the Apex Court and the Division Bench of this Court was considered and the relevant portion reads as under:-

"In our opinion the submission made by learned counsel for the appellant is based on misreasoning of the judgment in the case of Midnapore Peoples' Coop. Bank Ltd. and others (Supra). The Supreme Court has specifically noted that if any issue is decided on merits then such directions of the contempt court can always be examined in a proceedings under the Letters Patent Appeal. We are of the considered opinion that in the facts of the case there has been no direction or decision on the merits of issues raised in the contempt application.

Similarly in the case of Vinita M.Khanolkar (Supra), the Apex Court has held that an appeal would be maintainable unless it is excluded by the statute. In our opinion, the said judgment also does not assist the appellant in any manner.

We may also record that contempt proceedings are quasi criminal in nature and, therefore, the provisions of Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of Allahabad High Court Rules to the proceedings an order dismissing an application for contempt would not be attracted except when the contempt court decides to pass orders issuing directions in exercise of powers under the contempt of courts Act which order would be referable to the powers vested in the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India rather than the contempt of courts Act."

38. Again this Court in Vinod Kumar Gupta (Supra) had the occasion to consider the issue of maintainability and after tracing the legislative history of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, it also considered the earlier decisions of the Apex Court on the said point and it held as under:-

"32. While applying the above noted judgment in the facts of the present case, now this Court has to bestow its anxious consideration as to whether the present intra-Court appeal is maintainable against the judgment and order of the learned Single Judge while declining to initiate contempt proceedings against the opposite parties.

33. As noticed above, the Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court has consistently held that an intra-Court appeal is not maintainable against the order of the learned Single Judge exercising contempt jurisdiction in a contingency, when the contempt proceedings are not being initiated. The reliance placed upon the judgment in the case of Durga Nagpal (supra) is misconceived and misplaced as in the said case, the Hon'ble Judges while exercising appellate jurisdiction were confronted with the situation where the contempt Court reviewed its own order after entertaining miscellaneous application for modification of the final judgment. The Division Bench opined that when accused are discharged and proceedings are closed, miscellaneous application for modification is not maintainable. In the said perspective, the Special Appeal was held to be maintainable. Since the present case originates from a judgment and order of the contempt Court declining to exercise contempt jurisdiction, thus, the said judgment is of no aid to the appellants.

35. Accordingly, we are of the firm opinion that the present intra-Court appeal against the judgment and order of the learned Single Judge dated 17.3.2023 declining to initiate contempt proceedings is not maintainable under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court.

36. Accordingly, the intra-Court appeal is dismissed as not maintainable."

39. Now, the stage is set to examine the rival submissions of the respective parties keeping in mind the principles of law as laid down by the Apex Court and this Court in the cases, noticed above.

40. At the outset, it will be relevant to state that Article 215 of the Constitution of India confers jurisdiction on the High Court to punish for contempt. The powers of contempt are exercised and are regulated by the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. In order to iron out the procedural creases relating to presentation and hearing of the contempt petitions, this Court has framed the rules in Chapter XXXV-E of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952.

41. The power to punish for contempt conferred on the High Court cannot be abridged or be taken away as it is inherent in the High Court by virtue of being a court of record.

42. The Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 provides for two classes of contempt and it defines civil contempt and a criminal contempt. By using the word civil contempt and criminal contempt it does not in any manner suggest that for initiating or taking the contempt proceedings to finality, the Court takes recourse to provisions of either C.P.C or Cr.P.C. Moreover, the provisions of C.P.C. and Cr.P.C. are generally applicable on the respective courts who exercise powers to decide cases as per the nature of the case in terms of the classical bifurcation of civil and criminal jurisdictions. Hence, it cannot be said that the High Court exercises civil jurisdiction nor can it be said that it exercises criminal jurisdiction while dealing with matters relating to contempt.

43. It will be gainful to refer to the word "quasi'. As per the Black's Law Dictionary Eighth Edition the term 'quasi' is explained as under:-

"QUASI. A Latin word frequently used in the civil law, and often prefixed to English words. It is not a very definite word. It marks the resemblance, and supposes a little difference, between two objects, and in legal phraseology the term is used to indicate that one subject resembles another, with which it is compared, in certain characteristics, but that there are also intrinsic and material differences between them. It negatives the idea of identity, but implies a strong superficial analogy, and points out that the conceptions are sufficiently similar for one to be classed as the equal of the other." 74 C.J.S. Quasi, at 2 (1951)."

44. Similarly, in P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advanced Law Lexicon 5th Edition, the word 'quasi' has been explained as under:-

"Quasi (lat.)As if, it were analogous to; seemingly not really This term is used in legal phraseology to indicate that one subject resembles another, with which it is compared, in certain characteristics, but that there are also intrinsic differences between them.

The word "quasi" marks the resemblance, and supposes a little difference, between two objects.

Seemingly but not actually; in some sense; resembling; nearly.

A Latin word frequently used in the civil law, and often prefixed to English words. It is not a very definite word. It marks the resemblance, and supposes a little difference, between two objects, and in legal phraseology the term is used to indicate that one subject resembles another, with which it is compared, in certain characteristics, but that there are also intrinsic and material differences between them. It negatives the idea of identity, but implies a strong superficial analogy, and points out that the conceptions are sufficiently similar for one to be classed as the equal of the other". 74 CJS Quasi, at 2 (1951).

"Not exactly'. [State of U.P. v. Raja Mahendra Pal, AIR 1999 SC 1786: (1999) 4 SCC 43, 56, para 8]

The expression "quasi" is always prefix to a noun, to mean that it signifies something that does not exactly comply with the definition of the noun, although it shares its quality and falls philosophically under the same head. The word 'quasi' itself is derived from Laitn Rules to means "similar to but not exactly". [Mad. High Court Advocates Association v. Secretary, T.N. Bar Council, AIR 2015 Mad 213, para 54]."

45. Since in contempt proceedings, the Court is invested with powers to punish which may include imprisonment and the Court while dealing with contempt proceedings also calls for a reply from the contemnor and thereafter considering the matter it frames charges and moreover the standard of proof is higher than required in civil cases, hence to some extent, the subject of contempt resembles criminal proceedings, hence, in some judicial decisions the powers of contempt is referred to as 'quasi criminal' but the fact remains that the Court does not take recourse to provisions of either the C.P.C. or the Cr.P.C.

46. Hence, it can be safely said that the proceedings under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 are not criminal in nature to exclude a challenge to an order passed in contempt proceedings by referring to such an order as having been passed in exercise of criminal jurisdiction as mentioned in Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court so as to totally bar the invocation of provisions of the Special Appeal in contempt matters.

47. However, there is an exception, which is in a very narrow spectrum and has been explained by the Apex Court in Midnapore (supra) in Para 11 (V) and the same is being reproduced here for clarity:-

"11.(V.) If the High Court, for whatsoever reason, decides an issue or makes any direction, relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties, in a contempt proceedings, the aggrieved person is not without remedy. Such an order is open to challenge in an intra-court appeal (if the order was of a learned Single Judge and there is a provision for an intra-court appeal), or by seeking special leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India (in other cases).”

48. Thus, it cannot be said as an inflexible rule that an intra-court appeal in no circumstance can be maintained. If an order passed in contempt jurisdiction has the trappings of a final order and/or it has the impact of diluting, varying the original order by which the disputes between the parties have been decided on merits or the Contempt Court touches the merit or passes an order beyond its scope then in such cases an intra court appeal can be maintained.

49. There is yet another angle with which this issue of maintainability can be viewed. Both the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 and the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 are special statutes and operate in different orbits.

50. The Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 incorporated the provision for Special Appeal in Chapter VIII Rule 5 vide notification dated 06.11.1963 which was published in the Uttar Pradesh Gazette Part-II on 05.12.1964. The Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 was promulgated, which is a special statute as it regulates the powers to be exercised by the High Court for contempt matters. As already noticed above, the power to punish for contempt is inherent with the High Court being a court of record. Hence, the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act can neither take away the power nor confer it on the High Court rather it is only to regulate the powers which the High Court already possesses in terms of Article 215 of the Constitution of India. Additionally, the rules for contempt jurisdiction were incorporate in the Rules of the Court under Chapter XXXV-E vide notification no. 6 dated 24.11.1976 published in the U.P. Gazette Part- II on 12.02.1977.

51. Thus, it would be seen that the provision providing for an intra-court appeal through the High Court Rules, results in creating a special forum. Whereas the contempt of Court Act also being a Central legislation and that too is a special Act, which is aided by the Rules under Chapter XXXV-E of the Rules of the Court. Hence, the provision i.e. for intra-court appeal and the Act of 1971 are special provisions. In this regard the law is well settled that in case if there are two special legislations operating or overlapping a field then the legislation subsequent in point of time shall prevail unless contrary intentions appears from the provisions of the two Acts.

52. In the instant case, it will be relevant to notice that though there is actually no inconsistency between Chapter VIII Rule 5 or the provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 but nevertheless even if at all there would have been any inconsistency, yet it would be the subsequent special legislation and in this case, the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 which would prevail.

53. This Court gainfully refers to the decision of the Apex Court in Allahabad Bank Vs. Canara Bank (2000) 4 SCC 406 wherein the issue of two special laws and its interplay was considered and the relevant portion reads as under:-

> "39. There can be a situation in law where the same statute is treated as a special statute vis-à-vis one legislation and again as a general statute vis-à-vis yet another legislation. Such situations do arise as held in LIC of India v. D.J. Bahadur [(1981) 1 SCC 315] . It was there observed:
>
> "... for certain cases, an Act may be general and for certain other purposes, it may be special and the court cannot blur a distinction when dealing with the finer points of law".
>
> For example, a Rent Control Act may be a special statute as compared to the Code of Civil Procedure. But vis-à-vis an Act permitting eviction from public premises or some special class of buildings, the Rent Control Act may be a general statute. In fact in Damji Valji Shah v. LIC of India [AIR 1966 SC 135] (already referred to), this Court has observed that vis-à-vis the LIC Act, 1956, the Companies Act, 1956 can be treated as a general statute. This is clear from para 19 of that judgment. It was observed:
>
> "Further, the provisions of the special Act, i.e., the LIC Act, will override the provisions of the general Act, viz., the Companies Act which is an Act relating to companies in general."
>
>
> Thus, some High Courts rightly treated the Companies Act as a general statute, and the RDB Act as a special statute overriding the general statute.
>
> Special law v. special law
>
> 40. Alternatively, the Companies Act, 1956 and the RDB Act can both be treated as special laws, and the principle that when there are two special laws, the latter will normally prevail over the former if there is a provision in the latter special Act giving it overriding effect, can also be applied. Such a provision is there in the RDB Act, namely, Section 34. A similar situation arose in Maharashtra Tubes Ltd. v. State Industrial and Investment Corpn. of Maharashtra Ltd. [(1993) 2 SCC 144] where there was inconsistency between two special laws, the Finance Corporation Act, 1951 and the Sick Industries Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985. The latter contained Section 32 which gave overriding effect to its provisions and was held to prevail over the former. It was pointed out by Ahmadi, J. that both special statutes contained non obstante clauses but that the
> "1985 Act being a subsequent enactment, the non obstante clause therein would ordinarily prevail over the non obstante clause in Section 46-B of the 1951 Act unless it is found that the 1985 Act is a general statute and the 1951 Act is a special one". (SCC p. 157, para 9)
> Therefore, in view of Section 34 of the RDB Act, the said Act overrides the Companies Act, to the extent there is anything inconsistent between the Acts."

54. In the aforesaid backdrop, it would be seen that the legislature has in the Act of 1971 provided a forum of appeal only in respect of an order passed by the Contempt Court imposing punishment in terms of Section 19 of the Act of 1971. The legislature has consciously not provided for an appeal against an order dropping the contempt proceedings.

55. Thus, there can be no manner of doubt that an appeal under Section 19 of the Act of 1971 will only lie against an order of punishment and since the impugned order at hand does not qualify to be a punishment order, hence, it cannot be challenged in an appeal under Section 19 of the Act of 1971.

56. Now, it will be appropriate to examine as to whether the order impugned can be challenged in an intra-court appeal in light of the exception made by the Apex Court in Midnapore (supra). In the said case, the questions formulated by the Apex Court for consideration have been noticed in paragraph 9 which reads as under:-

> "(i) Where the High Court, in a contempt proceeding, renders a decision on the merits of a dispute between the parties, either by an interlocutory order or final judgment, whether it is appealable under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971? If not, what is the remedy of the person aggrieved?
> (ii) Where such a decision on merits is rendered by an interlocutory order of a learned Single Judge, whether an intra-court appeal is available under clause 15 of the Letters Patent?
> (iii) In a contempt proceeding initiated by a delinquent employee (against the enquiry officer as also the Chairman and Secretary in charge of the employer Bank), complaining of disobedience of an order directing completion of the enquiry in a time-bound schedule, whether the court can direct (a) that the employer shall reinstate the employee forthwith; (b) that the employee shall not be prevented from discharging his duties in any manner; (c) that the employee shall be paid all arrears of salary; (d) that the enquiry officer shall cease to be the enquiry officer and the employer shall appoint a fresh enquiry officer; and (e) that the suspension shall be deemed to have been revoked?"

57. Thereafter the Apex Court noticed the provisions of Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 as well as its earlier decisions on the aforesaid point and in paragraph 11, it crystallized the answer to point (I) before it as under:-

> "11. The position emerging from these decisions, in regard to appeals against orders in contempt proceedings may be summarised thus:
> I. An appeal under Section 19 is maintainable only against an order or decision of the High Court passed in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt, that is, an order imposing punishment for contempt.
> II. Neither an order declining to initiate proceedings for contempt, nor an order initiating proceedings for contempt nor an order dropping the proceedings for contempt nor an order acquitting or exonerating the contemnor, is appealable under Section 19 of the CC Act. In special circumstances, they may be open to challenge under Article 136 of the Constitution.

III. In a proceeding for contempt, the High Court can decide whether any contempt of court has been committed, and if so, what should be the punishment and matters incidental thereto. In such a proceeding, it is not appropriate to adjudicate or decide any issue relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties.

IV. Any direction issued or decision made by the High Court on the merits of a dispute between the parties, will not be in the exercise of "jurisdiction to punish for contempt" and, therefore, not appealable under Section 19 of the CC Act. The only exception is where such direction or decision is incidental to or inextricably connected with the order punishing for contempt, in which event the appeal under Section 19 of the Act, can also encompass the incidental or inextricably connected directions.

V. If the High Court, for whatsoever reason, decides an issue or makes any direction, relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties, in a contempt proceedings, the aggrieved person is not without remedy. Such an order is open to challenge in an intra-court appeal (if the order was of a learned Single Judge and there is a provision for an intra-court appeal), or by seeking special leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India (in other cases)."

58. Having noticed the the dictum of the Apex Court in Midnapore (supra) and to arrive at a conclusion whether in the instant case, the intra-court appeal is maintainable, it will be apposite to examine the nature and the content of the order passed by the learned Single Judge in contempt jurisdiction and the relevant portion of the said order dated 10.07.2023 disposing of the contempt petition is being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference:-

"6. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the applicant and perused the order of compliance.

7. On perusal of the order of compliance, it is clear that the direction issued by this Court was to grant promotion to the applicant from the date his juniors have been granted promotion. At the relevant point of time, Shri R.P. Singh was holding the post of Deputy General Manager and the applicant was granted notional promotion on the said post.

8. In view of the above, there is substantial compliance of the judgment and order dated 10.8.2016. In case the applicant is aggrieved by the order of compliance dated 22.5.2023, he may approach before the appropriate Forum for redressal.

9. With the aforesaid observation, the contempt application is finally disposed of."

59. The submission of learned counsel for the appellant has been that since the order passed by the Writ Court dated 10.08.2016 contained a direction to the Competent Authority to consider and give notional promotion to the petitioner by considering his case from the date his juniors were promoted within a period of three months, this was assailed by the respondents before the Apex Court and the Special Leave Petition was dismissed on 11.07.2022, thus, the reasoning given by the Department while filing the affidavit of compliance and granting notional promotion to the appellant is in teeth of the decision given by the Writ Court which was affirmed by the Apex Court and in the aforesaid backdrop holding that there is substantial compliance amounts to interfering with the directions of the writ court and also recording that there is substantial compliance of the order passed by the writ court necessarily implies examining the case on merits and moreover, once the Contempt Court had dropped the contempt proceedings by recording that there is substantial compliance, this world necessarily amount to entering into the merits, hence, in light of the decision of the Apex Court in Midnapore (supra), the intra-court appeal is maintainable.

60. So far as Special Appeals under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court are concerned, the same is governed by certain principles which have been elucidated by a Full Bench of this Court in Ashutosh Shrotiya and others Vs. Vice Chancellor Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University and Others 2015 SCC Online Alld 8553 (FB) wherein in paras 30 and 41 it has been laid down as under:-

"30. We now formulate the governing principles:

(i) The expression 'judgment' was advisedly not defined in the Letters Patents of various High Courts which conferred a right of appeal against a judgment of a single Judge to a Division Bench of that Court;

(ii) The expression 'judgment' is not to be construed in the narrower sense in which the expression 'judgment', 'decree' or 'order' is defined in the CPC, but must receive a broad and liberal construction;

(iii) Every order passed by a trial Judge on the Original side of a High Court exercising original jurisdiction or, for that matter, by a learned single Judge exercising the writ jurisdiction, would not amount to a judgment. If every order were construed to be a judgment, that would result in opening a flood of appeals and there would be no end to the number of orders which could be appealable under the Letters Patent;

(iv) Any interlocutory order, to constitute a judgment, must possess the characteristic of finality in the sense that it must adversely affect a valuable right of a party or decide an important aspect of the trial in an ancillary proceeding. In order to constitute a 'judgment', the adverse effect on a party must be direct and immediate and not indirect or remote;

(v) In order to constitute a judgment, an interlocutory order must : (a) decide a matter of moment; or (b) affect vital and valuable rights of the parties and must also work serious injustice to the party concerned:

(vi) On the other hand, orders passed in the course of the proceedings of a routine nature, would not constitute a judgment even if they result in some element of inconvenience or hardship to one party or the other. Routine orders which are passed by a single Judge to facilitate the progress of a case may cause some element of inconvenience or prejudice to a party but do not constitute a 'judgment' because they do not finally determine the rights or obligations of the parties. Procedural orders in aid of the progression of a case or to facilitate a decision are not judgments.

41. The area which both the judgments in Shah Babulal Khimji ((1981) 4 SCC 8 : AIR 1981 SC 1786) and Midnapore Peoples' Co-op. Bank Ltd. ((2006) 5 SCC 399 : AIR 2006 SC 2190) leave open to be considered is whether the order Which is sought to be placed in issue in appeal, though passed at an interlocutory stage,' is of a nature that would affect the vital and valuable rights of parties and work serious injustice to the party concerned. An order, which has the consequence of adversely affecting the valuable rights of a party has the characteristics or trappings of finality and has, therefore, been held to be a 'judgement' which is amenable to the appellate jurisdiction. For the purpose of this proceeding, it would not be appropriate for the Court to draw an exhaustive catalogue of the circumstances in which an order of the learned single Judge declining to even take note of a prayer for interim relief may result in an irreversible situation or irretrievable injustice that would affect valuable and substantive rights of a party to the lis. Ultimately; as the Supreme Court held in the decision in Central Mine Planning and Design Institute, ((2001) 2 SCC 588 : AIR 2001 SC 883), whether the order is a final determination affecting vital and valuable Tights and obligations of the parties concerned has to be ascertained on the facts of each case. Evidendy, there is a clear category of cases where an order is purely of a processual nature in aid of the final progression of a case and which neither determines nor has the effect Of determining vital and substantive rights as between the contesting parties. The test to be applied is whether the order of me learned single Judge has trappings of finality in the sense mat the consequenceof the order is to affect vital and valuable rights of the parties and to cause or work serious injustice to the party concerned. The judgments of the Supreme Court, leave it open to the appellate court to determine in the facts of each case whether these tests which have been laid down consistently for defining the ambit of the expression 'judgment', are fulfilled in the facts of each case. The judgment in Ghisai Ram Krishak Vidyalaya Samiti, (2015 (2) ALJ 163) cannot be read as taking away the discretion of the appellate court and its unquestioned jurisdiction to enquire into the maintainability of an appeal on the, tests which have been laid down by the Supreme Court."

61. This Court gainfully refers to a decision of the Apex Court in Ram Kishan Fauji Vs. State of Haryana; (2017) 5 SCC 533 wherein principles relating to intra-court appeal were considered and it was observed as under:-

"that till a competent legislature takes away the power of the Letters Patent, the same can be exercised by the High Court. However, while exercising the power under the Letters Patent, it is imperative to see what is the nature of jurisdiction that has actually been provided in the Letters Patent. The exercise of jurisdiction has to be within the ambit and scope of the authority enshrined in the provision meant for intra-court appeal. While summarising the principles related to intra- court appeal as have been held in various pronouncements, the Hon'ble Apex Court concluded:

"42.1. An appeal shall lie from the judgment of a Single Judge to a Division Bench of the High Court if it is so permitted within the ambit and sweep of the Letters Patent.

2.2. The power conferred on the High Court by the Letters Patent can be abolished or curtailed by the competent legislature by bringing appropriate legislation.

42.3. A writ petition which assails the order of a civil court in the High Court has to be understood. in all circumstances, to be a challenge under Article 227 of the Constitution and determination by the High Court under the said article and, hence, no intra-court appeal is entertainable

42.4. The tenability of intra-court appeal will depend upon the Bench adjudicating the lis as to how it understands and appreciates the order passed by the learned Single Judge There cannot be a straitjacket formula for the same."

62. Significantly, this Court after it had reserved the present matter for judgment came across a three Judges Bench decision of the Apex Court in Ajay Kumar Bhalla Vs. Prakash Kumar Dixit, 2024 SCC Online SC 1874 where a similar issue, as involved in the instant case, was considered.

63. To place the matter in a perspective, as seen from the facts of the case of Ajay Kumar Bhalla (supra), it would reveal that the Division Bench of the Delhi High Court on 24th December, 2019 had issued certain directions directing the petitioner therein to be reinstated in service with all consequential benefits but without any back wages. It was also directed that the date of reinstatement would relate back to the date of the petitioner therein having been originally removed from service i.e. 06th July, 1995 for the purposes of pay fixation, seniority and all other consequential benefits and the consequential order was to be issued within eight weeks. Since it was not done, the petitioner before the Delhi High Court instituted a contempt proceedings and the Department promoted the petitioner therein to the rank of Deputy Commandant on notional post w.e.f. 17th October, 2001.

64. The learned Contempt Judge in the said case vide its order dated 02nd June, 2023 held that the petitioner in the contempt proceedings was entitled to all promotions till the rank of I.G. from 2021 till the date of his retirement. The learned Single Judge thereon proceeded to record that there was willful disobedience of the directions issued by the Division Bench and held the contemnor to be guilty of Contempt of Court for willful disobedience of the order passed by the Division Bench and then it went on to grant an opportunity of six weeks to the contemnor to issue fresh orders granting promotion to the petitioner (therein) to the rank of I.G. to bring him at par with his immediate junior as per merit-cum-seniority list at the point of appointment. It is in the aforesaid context that a Letters Patent appeal came to be filed before the Division Bench of Delhi High Court which was dismissed on the ground that no contempt appeal under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 was maintainable as the learned Single Judge had not crystallized any right in favour of the respondents.

65. In the aforesaid backdrop, the Apex Court considered its earlier decision in Midnapore (supra) and held that an appeal under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 lies only against an order imposing punishment for contempt. The relevant portion of the said decision reads as under:-

> " The Division Bench has lost sight of this aspect. The Division Bench, in paragraph 52, noted the submission of the respondent that the judgment of the Single Judge should not be construed as crystallizing any right in favour of the respondent and should only be confined to the question as to whether the appellants herein had committed a willful disobedience of the order of the Division Bench dated 24 December 2019. The Division Bench accepted this submission and observed that "in view of our understanding of the impugned judgment, as noted above, the learned Single Judge has not decided any dispute regarding the rights and obligations of the parties" other than adjudicating on the issue of contempt. The judgment of the Division Bench lost sight of the fact that whether the appeal was maintainable would have to be construed on a plain reading of the judgment of the Single Judge. Two aspects were covered by the judgment of the Single Judge :
> Firstly, a finding that the appellants were guilty of contempt of the order dated 24 December 2019; and
>
> Secondly, that the respondent was entitled to promotion to the rank of IG.
> The first aspect is not amenable to an appeal under Section 19 at the present stage. The finding that the respondent was entitled to promotion to the rank of IG would be amenable to an appeal in terms of the law laid down by this Court in Midnapore Peoples' Coop. Bank Ltd. (supra), more particularly in paragraph 11(V) which has been extracted above."

66. Having noticed the legal position as derived from the cases referred to hereinabove, it would be relevant to note that when a matter comes before a Contempt Court dealing with a civil contempt then it has to look into and arrive at a prima facie satisfaction that the order passed by the writ court has been complied with or not. If the Contempt Court is of the view that the order of the writ court has not been complied with then necessarily it will have to call upon the contemnor to show cause why he may not be punished for contempt of court and in course of such proceedings if it finds that the cause shown is not sufficient then it can proceed to frame charges and after affording an opportunity for hearing to the contemnor may move on to pass appropriate orders which may include punishing the contemnor for contempt or even pardon him. In case if the Contempt Court finds that the order passed by the writ court has been complied with, it has the power to drop the proceedings for contempt of court.

67. There may be a case where the compliance may not have been made in its true sense but nevertheless even while proceeding to punish for contempt, it is necessary for the Contempt Court to record a subjective satisfaction that the disobedience and non-compliance is willful and deliberate. Even if there is non-compliance but if it is not willful and deliberate then it may not necessarily culminate in a punishment order.

68. In a case where the Court finds that there is substantial compliance and it does not propose to proceed any further, even then at least a subjective prima facie satisfaction has to be recorded to drop the contempt proceedings. In such a situation, it cannot be gainfully said that the Contempt Court while dropping the proceedings has entered into the merits or has decided an issue before it.

69. The pith and substance of the aforesaid discussion, the legal principles involved and circumstances when an appeal may lie under Section 19 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 and when a Special Appeal may lie from an order passed in contempt jurisdiction can be summarized as under:-

(A) Section 19 (1) of the Contempt of Courts Act can be invoked only when the Contempt Court has exercised its jurisdiction to punish for contempt. The essence of this provision is to provide a remedy against decision where the court has taken a definitive action to penalize a contemnor. This includes orders that impose fines, imprisonment, or other punitive measures directly related to the contemptuous behavior. Interlocutory orders, which do not entail punishment for contempt, do not fall within the ambit of Section 19. Such orders may include directions to produce documents, file affidavits, or procedural directives necessary for the continuation of the contempt proceedings. These are routine judicial actions that facilitate the progress of the case but do not constitute a final determination on the issue of contempt. Routine orders passed during the pendency of contempt proceedings are also excluded from the scope of Section 19. These orders are typically procedural and administrative in nature, ensuring that the proceedings move forward without addressing the substantive issues of the original case or the merits of the contempt.

(B) The crux of the matter lies in the nuanced interpretation of what constitutes "merit" within the context of contempt proceedings, as referenced by the Supreme Court in the Midnapore Peoples Cooperative Bank Limited case. The term "merit" has not been defined in a straight jacket formula, leading to varying interpretations. However, a cumulative reading of the judgments provide clarity on several key aspects. In the Midnapore case, the Supreme Court held that in contempt proceedings, it is inappropriate to adjudicate or decide any issue related to the merits of the dispute between the parties. This principle aims to ensure that contempt proceedings do not encroach upon the substantive rights of the parties involved in the original dispute. The focus of contempt jurisdiction is to uphold the dignity and authority of the court, not to resolve the underlying dispute. The term "merit" in this context refers to the substantive issues of the original case that led to the contempt proceedings. It encompasses the core legal and factual questions that were or are being contested in the original litigation.

(C) Special appeals from the order or judgment of a single judge bench in contempt cases hinge on the distinction between addressing the merits of the original dispute and the conduct constituting contempt. The primary responsibility of the Contempt Court is to determine whether contempt has occurred and to impose appropriate sanctions if it has. The merits of the original controversy are outside the domain of the contempt court. However, when the Contempt Court issues directions or discusses the merits of the original controversy, it oversteps its jurisdiction. In such cases, a special appeal would lie to the High Court. This ensures that the original substantive issues are not inadvertently decided within the limited scope of contempt proceedings, preserving the parties' rights to a fair adjudication of their dispute.

(D) The interpretation of each case depends on its specific facts and circumstances. Courts must carefully distinguish between orders that address the procedural aspects of contempt proceedings and those that encroach upon the substantive issues of the original case. This distinction is crucial to maintaining the integrity of contempt jurisdiction and ensuring that appeals under Section 19 of the Act of 1971 are appropriately limited to cases where punitive action for contempt has been taken.

Thus, Special appeals in contempt cases are warranted only when the Contempt Court oversteps its jurisdiction by addressing the merits of the original dispute, ensuring that the substantive rights of the parties are protected. The interpretation of each case must consider the specific facts and circumstances to uphold the integrity of contempt jurisdiction and provide appropriate remedies for aggrieved parties.

70. If the impugned order is now tested on the anvil of the principles summarized above then it would reveal that the Contempt Court vide order impugned has neither touched the merit nor has decided any issue and it has not made any direction relating to the merits of the disputes between the parties. Hence, it cannot be canvassed that the Contempt Court overstepped its jurisdiction.

71. Thus, in the aforesaid facts and circumstances, this Court is of the firm view that the intra-court appeal is not maintainable. Accordingly, it is dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

Dinesh Kumar Vs St. of U.P. & anr.– 2006 (2) ADJ 155 (Alld).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Shyam Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Brief facts of the case are that petitioner was allotted lease of the surplus land declared under U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1976 hereinafter referred as Ceiling Act. The proceeding for cancellation under Section 27 (4) of the Ceiling Act has been initiated by the State in the year 1994 and by ex-parte order dated 13.10.1995, the lease of the petitioner has been cancelled. Petitioner filed restoration application against the order dated 13.10.1995. The aforementioned restoration application was dismissed by the Commissioner vide order dated 4.4.2003 hence this writ petition filed on behalf of the petitioner for the following reliefs:-

" (i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 4.4.2003 passed by respondent no.2 and the order dated 13.10.1995 passed by respondent no.3.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents not to interfere in peaceful possession of the petitioner over the land in dispute."

3. This Court entertained the matter on 22.5.2003 and passed the following interim order:-

"Learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents prays for and is allowed one month's time to file counter affidavit. Rejoinder affidavit may be filed within two weeks thereafter.

List in first week of August, 2003.

In the meantime, the petitioner if not already dispossessed in pursuance of the order dated 13.10.1995 as confirmed by order dated 4.4.2003, shall not be dispossessed from the land in dispute."

4. No counter affidavit has been filed by State in spite of the time granted by this Court on 22.5.2003.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that petitioner was granted lease in the year 1976 in respect to the land which was declared surplus in the ceiling proceeding. He further submitted that proceeding for cancellation has been initiated in the year 1994 which is barred by the provisions contained under Section 27 (6) of the Ceiling Act. He submitted that the ground of cancellation is also misconceived, as such, the impugned order passed by Commissioner cancelling the petitioner's lease is liable to be set aside. He further submitted that restoration application filed by petitioner has also been dismissed in arbitrary manner. He placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court reported in 2006 (2) ADJ 155 (All) Dinesh Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and Another in order to demonstrate that cancellation proceeding under Section 27 (4) of the Ceiling Act cannot be initiated after the prescribed period of limitation as provided under Section 27 (6) of the Ceiling Act.

6. On the other hand, Mr. Shyam Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents submitted that there is no illegality in the impugned order. He further submitted that the ground for cancellation is mentioned in the order, as such, no interference is required in the matter. He further submitted that order for cancellation was passed in the year 1995 and the highly time barred restoration application has been filed by the petitioner which has rightly been dismissed by the Commissioner vide order dated 4.4.2003. He submitted that no interference is required in the matter and writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

7. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that petitioner was granted lease in the year 1976 in respect to the land which has been declared surplus under the Ceiling Act. There is also no dispute about the fact that proceeding for cancellation has been initiated after the prescribed period of limitation as provided under Section 27 (6) of the Ceiling Act and under the impugned order, petitioner's lease has been cancelled.

9. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, the perusal of Section 27 (6) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1976:-

> "Section 27 (6) of the Ceiling Act- (6) The Commissioner acting of his own motion under sub-section (4) may issue notice, and an application under that sub-section may be made, ?
> 6[(a) in the case of any settlement made or lease granted before November 10, 1980, before the expiry of a period of 7[seven years] from the said date, and ;
> 6(b) in the case of any settlement made or lease granted on or after the said date, before the expiry of a period of 8[five years from the date of such settlement or lease or up to November 10, 1987, whichever be later]"

10. The perusal of the provisions as quoted above as well as the fact that proceeding for cancellation has been initiated after about 18 years, as such, the order for cancellation of petitioner's lease passed by the Commissioner cannot be sustained in the eye of law.

11. This Court has held that in the case of Dinesh Kumar (Supra) that time barred proceeding for cancellation under Section 27 (4) of the Ceiling Act cannot be entertained. The relevant paragraph Nos. 4,5 and 6 of the judgement are as follows:-

> " 4- Admittedly, the initial allotment of the plot was made by the Land Management Committee on 6.3.1976 and was approved by the Sub Divisional Officer on 19.11.1977, after which the name of the allottees had been entered in the revenue records. As such, the lease was granted in favour of the petitioner before November 10,1980. The specific condition of the petitioner is that under the aforesaid sub- Section (6) of Section 27, no notice for cancellation of the lease granted in favour of the petitioner could thus be issued after November 10, 1987. In the present case, the notice has been issued on 18.5.1993. As such the proceedings for cancellation of the lease granted in favour of the petitioner could not have at all been initiated after 10.11.1987. The specific averments to this effect have been made in paragraphs 22 and 23 (a) of the writ petition, to which there is no denial in the counter affidavit.
> 5. Even otherwise, in the impugned order it has been stated that the land which was allotted to the petitioner for agriculture use was being used for building houses and hence the lease was being cancelled. In the same order itself it has been mentioned that there is no construction on the said land and thus the very ground on which the notice had been issued to the petitioner on 18.5.1993 that buildings were being constructed on the said land does not have any basis.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the impugned order dated 22.1.2002, besides being without jurisdiction, is also not tenable in law on merits and is thus liable to be quashed. Accordingly, this writ petition stands allowed and the order dated 22.1.2002 passed by respondent no.2, the Additional Commissioner (Administration), Meerut Division, Meerut is quashed. There shall be no order as to costs."

12. The ground taken for cancellation in the impugned order is that petitioner Roopram has transferred the allotted plot in favour of one Manipal without executing sale deed but petitioner has taken specific stand in paragraph No. 12 of the writ petition that petitioner has never sold the property in dispute and petitioner is continuing in possession of the plot in dispute. No counter affidavit has been filed by State for the last 21 years, as such, there is no option except to decide the writ petition on merit. The ground taken for cancellation in the impugned order cannot be sustained on merit.

13. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case as well as the ratio of law laid down by this Court in Dinesh Kumar (Supra), the impugned orders dated 4.4.2023 and 13.10.1995 passed by respondent no.2 are liable to be set aside and the same are hereby set aside. Writ petition stands allowed and the lease executed in favour of the petitioner in the year 1976 is hereby affirmed.

14. No order as to costs.

1. When the matter was last listed on 6.8.2024, the following order was passed :-

> "Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Ravi Anand Agarwal learned counsel appearing for the respondent No.2 & 3 who has produced another file containing original records.
> With the consent of the parties this matter was heard for final disposal.
>
> No counter affidavit has been called because the same does not appear to be required as the original record has already been produced and is available and the dispute is primarily one of jurisdiction of the respondent No.2 to pass the impugned orders.
> List on 22.08.2024 for delivery of judgment.
>
> Till that date, further proceedings consequent to the impugned orders, shall remain stayed.
> The files containing original records shall be returned back after the delivery of judgment."

2. This writ petition has been filed seeking the following reliefs:-

> "(i) Issue a suitable writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned orders dated 30.05.2024 and 04.07.2024 passed by the Additional Housing Commissioner/Additional Registrar, U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad, Lucknow (Annexure Nos.4 and 7 to the writ petition).
> (ii) Issue a suitable writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents not to give effect to the impugned orders referred to above and stay all further proceedings consequent thereupon during the pendency of the writ petition.
>
> (iii) Issue a suitable writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents not to interfere in the peaceful functioning of the petitioners as Committee of Management of Grih Laxmi Sahkari Awas Samiti Ltd., District Gautam Buddh Nagar and its office bearers as President and Secretary respectively.
> (iv) Issue any other writ, order or direction which this

Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case.

(v) Award the cost of the writ petition."

3. By the impugned order dated 30.5.2024, the respondent no.2, the Additional Registrar of Cooperative Societies, in exercise of power under Section 38(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Cooperative Societies Act, 1965[1], directed the petitioner no.1- Committee of Management of Grih Laxmi Sahkari Awas Samiti Limited, Gautam Budh Nagar to remove the Secretary and Chairman of the Society[2] within one month from the posts occupied by them under intimation to the office.

By the other impugned order dated 4.7.2024, exercising power under Section 38(2) of the Act, 1965, the respondent no.2 has directed the petitioner no.2-Chairman and the petitioner no.3-Secretary of the Society to appear before him for purpose of affording them opportunity of hearing prior to their removal or removal and disqualification.

4. Briefly stated case of the petitioners is that the Society is registered under the Act, 1965 having its registered by-laws. The election of the Committee of Management of the Society was held in the month of February 2023, in which the petitioner no.2 was elected as Chairman and petitioner no.3 was appointed by the elected Committee of Management as Secretary of the Society under Section 31 of the Act, 1965. The respondent no.4, Smt. Kunta Devi, is stated to be a member of the Society and there is a dispute in respect of the Flat No. H-207 allotted/registered in the name of Smt. Kunta Devi, as a complaint had been received that the said flat was registered in her favour by the former Secretary of the Society, namely Smt. Sushila Saraswat, even without payment being made by Smt. Kunta Devi and without the same being deposited in the account of the Society. It is stated that even after the election in February 2023, the former Secretary, Smt. Sushila Saraswat, has not handed over papers of the Society. It is stated that the daughter of Smt. Sushila Saraswat is married to the son of respondent No.4, Smt. Kunta Devi.

Notice was issued by the petitioners requiring Smt. Kunta Devi to submit necessary evidence to show that actual payment for the flat was made by her and that the same was deposited in the account of the Society. For purpose of getting necessary information regarding deposit, a notice dated 4.5.2024 was also issued by the officiating Secretary to the aforesaid former Secretary, Smt. Sushila Saraswat. Under the circumstances, Smt. Kunta Devi applied to the Registrar, Housing Society for appointment of an Arbitrator under Section 70 of the Act, 1965 and by an order dated 27.5.2024, an Additional Commissioner/Registrar, Cooperative Housing Society was appointed as Arbitrator in that case. It is stated that the petitioners have appeared before the Arbitrator and they have been supplied necessary papers for submitting reply and next date was fixed by the Arbitrator.

5. In the meantime, respondent no.4, Smt. Kunta Devi, made a complaint before the respondent no.2 on which an inquiry was ordered by respondent no.2 and some inquiry report behind the back of the petitioners was submitted. It is stated that acting thereon, the impugned order dated

Thereafter, in a meeting of the Committee on Management of the Society held on 24.6.2024, it was resolved that given the fact that Smt. Kunta Devi had already approached the Arbitrator and the dispute between Smt. Kunta Devi and the Society is pending before the Arbitrator, the entire action against the elected Chairman and appointed Secretary is wholly unwarranted and the order dated 30.5.2024 is required to be reconsidered. It is stated that the resolution alongwith a covering letter was received in the office of respondent no.2 on 25.6.2024. It is stated that without duly considering the resolution of the Committee on Management and without considering that the dispute between the parties is pending before the Arbitrator, the other impugned order dated 4.7.2024 was passed.

6. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioners is that the proceeding initiated by respondent no. 2 under Section 38(1) of the Act 1965 is wholly without jurisdiction and arbitrary, inasmuch as for want of papers from the previous Secretary of the Committee of Management, and there being no record of deposits being made by Smt. Kunta Devi in respect of the flat allotted to her and nor there being any evidence with regard to the cost of the flat being deposited in the account of the Society, legitimate notices were issued to Smt. Kunta Devi in respect of which a dispute had been raised by Smt. Kunta Devi which was referred to arbitration under Section 70 of the Act, 1965 and an Arbitrator was appointed and before whom arbitration proceedings are in progress. It is stated that under the circumstances, the proceeding initiated by respondent no. 2 under Section 38(1) of the Act, 1965 on the complaint made by Smt. Kunta Devi in respect of the same dispute that has been referred to arbitration, is without jurisdiction, unwarranted, arbitrary and illegal. It is stated that there is no material before the respondent to resort to the drastic steps under Section 38 of the Act, 1965.

7. In view of the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioners, the respondent no.2 was directed to produce the original records pertaining to the case.

8. Learned counsel for the respondent no.2 has strongly urged that there were adequate materials before the respondent no.2 to resort to proceedings under Section 38(1) of the Act, 1965 for proceeding against the petitioner nos. 2 and 3. It is contended that it was not only the respondent no.4, Smt. Kunta Devi, who had complained, but other members of the Society had also leveled serious allegations against the Chairman of the Committee of Management because of which the respondent no.2 was justified in taking the proceedings. Learned counsel has referred to a letter dated 10.5.2024 on the original record allegedly sent by several members of the Society to the Principal Secretary voicing their complaints. Learned counsel has also placed reliance upon a judgment passed by a coordinate Bench of the Court in the matter of C/M The Meerut Sahkari Avas Samiti & 2 Ors. vs. State of U.P. & 4 Ors.[3] to contend that the scope of Section 38 of the Act, 1965 has been considered by the Court and that judgment is squarely applicable to the facts of the present case and, therefore, the respondent no.2 was justified in proceeding under Section 38 of the Act, 1965 against the petitioners in the present case.

9. In the original record a complaint letter dated 2.4.2024 of Smt. Kunta Devi is on record, which, however, does not bear her signature. In that letter it is stated that she tried several times to sell her house, but the Secretary is creating hurdles in the way despite knowing that she is an aged lady and she requires to sell the house for money. In that letter, she also submitted her parawise reply to the letter that was stated to be sent by the Secretary of the Society.

10. A letter dated 4.4.2024 was sent by the respondent no.2 to the Cooperative Officer (Housing), Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur, in which it was stated that with reference to the letter of the respondent no.2 dated 20.2.2024 which was issued regarding the letter of 30.1.2024 of Smt. Kunta Devi for reconsideration of the matter of sale of her flat. On that, the Housing Commissioner had directed immediate inquiry and report alongwith a proposal. It was directed that the resolution with regard to the 'No Objection', be given within a period of three days but that resolution was not made available. This letter of 4.4.2024 further mentions that in the meanwhile, Smt. Kunta Devi's letter of 2.4.2024 was received by the office on which the Housing Commissioner had directed "Pls. get the matter enquired and fix the responsibility and put up A.T.R. on file till 9.4.2024". It was, accordingly, directed that the needful be done within a period of three days and report be submitted before the respondent no.2.

11. It is pertinent to mention here that on record at page no.21 is a letter dated 5.4.2024 sent by Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur, Cooperative Officer (Housing) to the Secretary of the petitioner-Society referring to the letter dated 4.4.2024 of the respondent no.2 regarding submission of the inquiry report. It is stated therein that there was a report required by the Housing Commissioner himself by 9.4.2024. It is stated in that letter that relatives of Smt. Kunta Devi are constantly complaining to the higher authorities as the matter was not being disposed of within a time frame and since Smt. Kunta Devi had become too old, the matter has become extremely sensitive. It was, therefore, stated that the letter be taken to be a notice and if immediate steps are not taken as per rules, then it should be assumed that the Secretary is deliberately delaying the issue and, accordingly, steps would be taken under the Act, 1965.

12. On page 23 of the original records is a letter dated 7.4.2024 of the Cooperative Officer (Housing) addressed to the respondent no.2 with reference to letter no.61/Sah./dated 4.4.2024. He referred to his letter dated 5.4.2024 issued to the Secretary of the Society whereby a report was sought. It was stated that even earlier, the Secretary and the Chairman of the Society were informed telephonically for speedy disposal of the matter but on every occasion the Secretary of the Society narrated some legal impediment, and that only after verification steps can be taken and, therefore, had refused to issue a 'No Objection Certificate'; whereas by the letter dated 5.4.2024, the respondent no.2 had asked for it being made available forthwith. It was stated that he has been informed by a letter of the Chairman of the Society that the Secretary of the Society has gone abroad and only after his return in the following month, decision could be taken after due consideration.

It was further stated in the letter of 7.4.2024 that the Secretary of the Society by his letter dated 6.4.2024 has informed that Smt. Kunta Devi's flat was allotted previously for more than 10 years to the former Chairman of the Society, Shri R.C. Sharma, and in support of that, copies of two maintenance receipts had been submitted by him, but no other good evidence had been presented by him; further, photocopies of various letters exchanged with Smt. Kunta Devi had also been submitted; that no final conclusion is possible to be reached on the basis of those letters; in view of the talks with Chairman of the Society, it appeared that certain documents of Smt. Kunta Devi were not available on the record because of which repeatedly the Management of the Society was writing letters to Smt. Kunta Devi; that in the matter, given the advanced age of Smt. Kunta Devi, the Management of the Society ought to have acted sympathetically and acted with more alacrity for disposal of the matter; therefore, it appeared that the Management of the Society was not working with adequate urgency because of which the matter was pending for several months; the officer has directed the Management of the Society to dispose of the matter in a time bound manner and the Chairman of the Society has assured that he will make all efforts in that regard. However, in this letter of 7.4.2024, in the last paragraph, the officer wrote that in the aforesaid inquiry, the management of the Society was not giving adequate cooperation because of which the role of the management was suspicious. Therefore, recommendation was made for undertaking detailed inspection of the records of the Society under the provisions of Section 66 of the Act, 1965 so that the role of the management of the Society could be inquired into.

13. By a letter dated 19.4.2024 (page 121 of the original record), the petitioners wrote to the Cooperative Officer (Housing), who was conducting the inquiry, making detailed submissions with regard to the various irregularities existing in the Society which reflected wrong doings by the previous Committees of Management. This letter was in furtherance of a previous letter dated 8.4.2024 sent by the Society to the officer of the respondent no.2 in response to a letter dated 5.4.2024. It was stated that a letter was sent to Smt. Kunta Devi asking from her certain information within a period of three days but even till 18.4.2024, the response was awaited. The letter recorded the following :-

> (i) A list of 7 flats was submitted in which 5 flats were stated to be benami properties and all 7 of which were allotted to persons who were related to each other, whose bank accounts are more than 100 kms. away from their residence at Aligarh, Hathras and Mathura, in the Nainital Bank at Sector -18, Noida. It was stated that one Radha Raman is also the brother of one of the allottees, Smt. Sushila Saraswat, and her bank account is also in that bank branch even though she is a resident of Morena in Madhya Pradesh. Several points with regard to the discordance in the membership of the persons mentioned in the list were noted. It was then stated that it is common knowledge that in Cooperative Housing Society, individuals flats are being allotted to several persons and the existing Management of the Society wants to avoid any stigma in this regard, but the Inquiry Officer and the higher authorities want to maintain the influence of Smt. Sushila Saraswat (the former Secretary of the Society) during the term of present Management. It was alleged, inter alia, that for handing over complete charge, repeated letters and personal requests of the petitioners were being ignored and opportunity was being granted to the former Secretary for manipulating the records. A direct allegation made was that at the instance of the authorities, Smt. Sushila Saraswat is selling off her benami flats in which the authorities are appearing as accomplice. It was stated that despite an unsigned complaint made by Smt. Kunta Devi, the Housing Commissioner himself took cognizance of the same and not only did he direct time bound action but has also directed to fix responsibility for not issuing a 'No Objection Certificate'. It was stated that it is not known that what the Additional Commissioner/Additional Registrar had done to ensure handing over charge from the former Secretary.

(ii) It was stated that from several sources, proof was found that the rent of the benami flats was being made directly in the Axis Bank Account No.918010038855435 of Smt. Sushila Saraswat. The details of the same were enclosed with the letter. No one had seen any of the allottees other than Smt. Sushila Saraswat and her daughter Ritu. During verification, the signature of each of them was made by another person, which was different from the signature made in the presence of the members of the Management. It was stated that in view of the unnecessary inference of the Additional Registrar, NOCs regarding transfer of six of the aforesaid flats had been given, in which till that point of time no dispute had surfaced. It was stated that the flat in question would also have been sold but for the reason that despite assurance, the tenant residing therein was not vacating the flat and the reasons for the same were inquired from which inquiry it emerged that there are some wrong doings regarding the ownership of that flat and, therefore, the tenant is not following the directions. The receipts of dues with regard to electricity and maintenance charges (of the flat) were not made available by Smt. Kunta Devi. As such, her ownership of the flat in question is suspicious and, therefore, giving of an NOC for the transfer of that flat would not be possible. It was stated that a conspiracy was reflected in the matter in view of the wrong doings of the former Secretary Smt. Sushila Saraswat, the details of which were mentioned in that letter.

14. The Cooperative Officer (Housing) submitted an inquiry report dated 20.4.2024, which appears on page 123 of the original record, in which it was alleged that there was non-cooperation by the Committee of Management of the Society which was giving inappropriate response. It was also stated in that report that the relatives of Smt. Kunta Devi are constantly demanding that the Inquiry Officer should get a 'No objection Certificate' (from the Society) immediately, whereas the entire proceeding with regard to the membership has to be done at the level of the Committee of Management of the Society. At the level of the Inquiry Officer, no action could be taken till a proper resolution is not passed by the Committee of Management of the Society. It was stated in that report by the Inquiry Officer that both the parties were inappropriately pressurising him because of which his position has become very paradoxical. It was stated that for a proper inquiry, a committee be constituted. He recommended an inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 so that the records of the Society could be inspected and the role of the Committee of Management could be properly investigated.

15. In another complaint letter dated 29.4.2024, which is on page 128 of the original record, Smt. Kunta Devi, the respondent no.4, apart from reiterating her previous complaint, also sought to give evidence in support of her claim and alleged that the Society is going to usurp her flat. In this letter, it was urged that steps be taken against the Committee of Management of the Society under Section 70 of the Act, 1965.

16. With reference to the inquiry report dated 20.4.2024, the respondent no.2 issued two letters dated 30.4.2024. One letter bears letter No.408/sah./30.4.2024 (on page 124 of the original record). In this letter, in exercise of powers under Section 66, Shri Anand Kumar Mishra, Assistant Housing Commissioner/Assistant Registrar and Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur, Cooperative Officer were nominated and directed to undertake a detailed inspection and submit an inspection report within 15 days.

There is also a letter dated 30.4.2024 bearing No.404/sah./30.4.2024 (appearing on page 126 of the original record) written by the respondent no.2 and addressed to Shri Anand Kumar Mishra, Assistant Housing Commissioner/Assistant Registrar and Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur, Cooperative Officer (Housing) directing them to submit an inquiry report within seven days. This letter refers to a complaint letter dated 2.4.2024 received from Smt. Kunta Devi against the petitioner-Society on which an order dated 4.4.2024 was passed directing the Cooperative Officer (Housing) aforesaid, to submit an inquiry report and that he, in turn, submitted an inquiry report dated 21.4.2024 (sic).

The respondent no.2 further wrote in that letter of 30.4.2024 that on the same subject, another complaint dated 5.4.2024 was received by the office and, therefore, seeing the seriousness of the matter, the photocopies of the aforesaid complaint letters were being enclosed with direction that the facts reflected in the complaint be examined from the records of the Society and an inquiry report be submitted within seven days.

17. Another letter is in the original record at page 129 bearing No. 477/Sah./ dated 1.5.2024 issued by respondent no.2 addressed to the aforesaid two members of the Inquiry Committee alongwith the aforesaid letter dated 29.4.2024 (page 124 of original record) moved by Smt. Kunta Devi. It was directed that the matter be inquired and an inquiry report be submitted within 7 days.

18. A letter dated 3.5.2024 (page 132 of the original record) was sent by the petitioners to the respondent No. 2 which appears to have been received by him on 8.5.2024. It was stated in this letter that the flat in dispute belonged to the former Chairman of the Society till the year 2017, whose membership number is 22, but instead of transfer being made by him, a registered deed was executed in favour of Smt. Kunta Devi by the Society in September 2017. It was stated that Smt. Kunta Devi became a member of the Society in July 2012, but she has been making payments of the flat since the year 2005. It was further stated that in her undated application for membership of the Society, her annual income was reflected as NIL. It was stated that the allotment and possession letters are both without any dates. It was stated that despite bringing it to the notice of the Housing Commissioner as well as to the respondent No. 2, the charge of the records of the Society was not given to the existing Committee of Management. Therefore, the Society is not able to verify any statement. It was stated that if any payment had been made by way of any cheque or draft or online, the same could have been verified from the bank account statement of Smt. Kunta Devi. However, whether the sale consideration of the flat has been deposited in the bank account of the Society is suspect. It was, therefore, urged that pursuant to the letter of the Respondent No. 2 bearing no. 477/sah./dated 1.5.2024, the proceedings be expedited, or in view of the request made by Smt. Kunta Devi in her letter dated 29.4.2024, an Arbitrator be appointed under Section 70 of the Act, 1965.

On page 133 of the original record is another letter of the same date, i.e., 3.5.2024 written by the petitioners to the Respondent No. 2 with reference to his aforesaid letter no.477/sah./dated 1.5.2024. It was stated that pursuant to the previous letter dated 30.4.2024, Shri Anand Kumar Mishra had asked separate reports from the Society and from Smt. Kunta Devi on five points. On the next day, the respondent No. 2 constituted a two-member Inquiry Committee to conduct an inquiry in respect of the complaint letter, whereas Smt. Kunta Devi had requested for action under Section 70 of the Act. It was requested that the request made by Smt. Kunta Devi should not be ignored and orders be passed for which the Committee of Management has no objection. It was stated that in the proceedings under Section 70, the examination of the five points asked by the Assistant Registrar as well as the decision shall be forthcoming.

19. On page 143 of the original record is a letter dated 4.5.2024 sent by the petitioners to Smt. Sushila Saraswat (the former Secretary of the Society) with copies endorsed (i) to the respondent no.2, (ii) to Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur, and, (iii) to Smt. Kunta Devi, in which it was stated that the receipts of payments with regard to the disputed flat as verified by her were received by the Cooperative Officers (Housing) in which she had written that the amount has been received by the Society, even though no such endorsement was necessary; that the receipts were issued by her under her signature; but since all the payments had been made in cash, therefore, proof of her having deposited the cash in the relevant bank account of the Society is required; that since the charge of crucial records had not been given, therefore, there is no verification of the amount of Rs.26,62,110/- having been actually deposited in the bank account; that since the matter related to the term of of Smt. Sushila Saraswat, therefore, it was required to be certified by her so that an NOC can be expeditiously issued to Smt. Kunta Devi. She was, therefore, asked to verify the deposits by giving a certificate, the format of which was enclosed with that letter.

However, soon thereafter by a letter dated 10.5.2024 (page 145 of the original record), a complaint purportedly signed by 12 other flat owners was sent to the Principal Secretary in the office of the Commissioner and Registrar Cooperatives, leveling serious allegations against the petitioners. A copy of this letter was received in the office of the respondent No. 2 on 17.5.2024.

By the letter bearing letter No. 766/Sah./ dated 17.5.2024 (page No. 146 of the original record), the respondent No. 2 referred to the inspection directed to be made under Section 66 and asked the two-member Inquiry Committee to include the facts mentioned in the complaint letter dated 10.5.2024 in their inspection under Section 66 and to submit their inspection report in the office as early as possible.

उपरोक्तानुक्रम में अवगत कराना है कि शिकायतकर्ता श्रीमती कुन्ता देवी के द्वारा अपने शिकायती पत्र के साथ संलग्न अभिलेखों के माध्यम से अवगत कराया गया है कि वे प्रश्नगत समिति के फ्लैट संख्या-एच-207 की रजिस्ट्रीशुदा मालकिन हैं और तत्कालीन सचिव के स्तर से उन्हें यथापेक्षित शेयर सर्टिफिकेट, आवंटन पत्र एवं कब्जा पत्र आदि सम्यक रूप से तत्समय ही निर्गत किये गये थे और वर्तमान में भी शिकायतकर्ता श्रीमती कुन्ता देवी उक्त फ्लैट की कब्जेदार हैं। अग्रेतर अवगत कराना है कि शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा विभिन्न स्तरों पर की गयी शिकायतों के माध्यम से अवगत कराया गया है कि गृहलक्ष्मी सहकारी आवास समिति लि०, गौतमबुद्धनगर के पदाधिकारीगण द्वारा जानबूझकर उनके फ्लैट को हड़पने की नीयत से उन्हें परेशान किया जा रहा है और उन्हें प्रश्नगत् फ्लैट को विक्रय करने की अनुमति प्रदान नहीं की जा रही है। अग्रेतर शिकायतकर्ता द्वारा अपने शिकायती पत्रों में यह उल्लेख किया गया है कि समिति प्रबन्धन द्वारा हर बार उनके फ्लैट ट्रान्सफर

21. As is evident from the aforesaid inquiry report that barring the short narrative of allegations in the penultimate paragraph, the entire discussion is with regard to the dispute between Smt. Kunta Devi and the petitioner Society. It has been stated therein that if there was any irregularity with regard to the allotment of the flat by the former office bearers or if any loss has been caused to the Society, then it was required for the present Committee of Management to initiate appropriate legal proceedings separately but for the actions of the former Committee of Management, a member of the Society ought not to be harassed. It was then mentioned that if the present Committee of Management had any dispute with the representation of Smt. Kunta Devi then proceedings under sections 70 of the Act 1965 ought to have been filed which should have resolved the matter, but the management of the Society is harassing an aged member on the subject of issuance of 'No Objection Certificate'.

Only in the penultimate paragraph, there is an encapsulation of the allegations made in the aforesaid letter dated 10.5.2024 allegedly sent by certain members of the Society to the Principal Secretary/Housing Commissioner. Thereafter, abruptly it is noted that in light of the aforesaid facts it is clearly evident that Secretary and Chairman of the Society have seriously damaged the interest of the Society and its members. Therefore, against both the aforesaid officers of the Society, proceeding under Section 38 of the Act, 1965 was recommended to be taken.

22. It is pertinent to mention here that in the inquiry report dated 29.5.2024, there is no mention whatsoever of the letter no.408/Sah./dated 30.4.2024 issued by the respondent no.2 asking the two member Inquiry Committee to conduct an inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 nor is there any reference to the letter no.766/Sah./dated 17.5.2024 asking the two member Inquiry Committee to undertake an inspection under section 66 of the Act, 1965 with regard to the matters including the complaint letter dated 10.5.2024. A perusal of the Inquiry Report dated 29.05.2024 reflects that it is one-sided and without taking into account the serious objections and observations made by the petitioners for not granting the NOC in favour of Smt. Kunta Devi for transfer of the disputed flat.

23. Thereafter, on the very next day, by means of a letter no.913/Sah./dated 30.5.2024, the impugned order was passed directing the Committee of Management under the provisions of sub-section (1) of Section 38 of the Act, 1965 to remove the Secretary and the Chairman from their posts within one month under information to the office of the respondent no.2. It is pertinent to mention here that even in this order, there is no reference to the office letter no.408/Sah./dated 30.4.2024 directing the two member Inquiry Committee to conduct an inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 nor is there any reference to the letter no.766/Sah./dated 17.5.2024 issued by the respondent no. 2 to the two member Inquiry Committee regarding the inspection under Section 66 bringing to their notice the complaint letter dated 10.5.2024. A perusal of the impugned order of 30.5.2024 reflects that it is based on surmises and conjectures. However, the same shall be elaborated later.

24. By a letter dated 7.6.2024 that appears on page 290 of the original record, the petitioners acknowledged receipts of the impugned order dated 30.5 2024 but demanded copy of the inquiry report dated 29.5.2024.

25. On page no.293 of the original record is summon/notice dated 4.5.2024 (sic) pertaining to Case No.3/2024-2025 issued vide letter no. 91/P.A./A.Ni (vikas), Lucknow dated May 4, 2024 (sic) with copies address to the petitioners as well as Smt. Kunta Devi which is in respect of arbitration proceedings initiated by Smt. Kunta Devi against the petitioner Society. In the summon/notice, it is written that the Commissioner and Registrar (Cooperative) has appointed its signatory, Manoj Kumar, as Arbitrator by his letter dated 27.5.2024. In this notice, the date fixed was 25.6.2024.

Evidently, the date of issuance of the aforesaid summon/ notice is discordant with the date of appointment of Arbitrator.

26. On page 295 (as well as page 302) of the original record is letter dated 24.6.2024 of the petitioners to the Housing Commissioner/Registrar complaining that the order dated 30.5.2024 was passed by the respondent no.2 but till date, neither the inquiry report nor any evidence has been made available to them. Details of the work done by the Society were reflected in the letter. It was also mentioned in that letter that the complainant had initiated arbitration proceedings in which an Arbitrator was appointed on 27.5.2024 and, therefore, the inquiry report being filed on 29.5.2024 and on the very next date, i.e., 30.5.2024, the order being passed directing the Society to remove the Chairman and the Secretary, and service of that order on the very next day, i.e., 31.5.2024 through WhatsApp, was not called for. It was stated that on one disputed issue, proceedings in two forums cannot be taken. It was, therefore, requested that the order dated 30.5.2024 be reconsidered and the matter be kept in abeyance till the decision of the Arbitrator. It was stated that in the arbitration proceedings whatever be the decision of the Arbitrator, the Committee of Management would proceed according to that.

In the copy of the aforesaid letter dated 24.06.2024 appearing on page 302, the Housing Commissioner on 28.06.2024 ordered the respondent no.2 to take necessary action after conducting an inquiry and submit the same with the record within ten days.

27. By a letter no.1298/Sah./dated 2.7.2024 (page 303 of the original record), the respondent no.2 wrote a letter to Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur, the Cooperative Officer (Housing) with reference to the letter of the petitioners dated 24.6.2024 directing to inquire into the facts and to submit a report along with the relevant proof/documents within 7 days.

28. However, by the impugned order issued vide letter no.1333/Sah./dated 4.7.2024 (page 305 of the original record), the respondent no.2 exercising powers under of Section 38 of the Act, 1965 directed the Secretary and the Chairman of the Society to appear on 19.7.2024 before him along with evidence. It is pertinent to mention here that even in this order, there is no reference to the proceedings ordered under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 by means of the letter no.408/Sah./dated 30.4.2024.

29. On page 310 of the original record is the letter dated 4.7.2024 sent by the petitioner no.2 to the respondent no.2 with reference to the order no.1333/Sah./dated 4.7.2024 under section 38(2) of the Act, 1965. It is stated in this letter that the inquiry report dated 29.5.2024 has not been provided on the basis of which the petitioners were charged. It was stated that during the inquiry proceedings, one of the inquiry committee member, Shri Anand Kumar Mishra, vide letter no.416 dated 30.4.2024 had asked information from the complaint Smt. Kunta Devi on 5 points which was imperative for verifying her ownership over Flat No. H-207. Accordingly, the information submitted by Smt. Kunta Devi alongwith a certified copy of the inquiry dated 29.5.2024 and other evidence, if any, on the basis of which the petitioners have been charged, be furnished at the earliest so that a response could be submitted. It was further stated in this letter of the petitioner dated 4.7.2024 that with regard to the order dated 30.5.2024 under Section 38(1), documents have been asked for under the provisions of the Right to Information Act but till now no information/document has been provided. It was alleged that the principles of natural justice were being violated and matters were being deliberately concealed.

30. However, on page 311 of the original record is an order issued by the respondent no. 2 bearing letter no.1513/Sah./Ghaziabad dated 16.7.2024 with reference to the office order no.408/Sah./dated 30.4.2024 with regard to the inspection being conducted under the provisions of Section 66 of the Act, 1965 stating that Shri Anand Kumar Mishra, Assistant Housing Commissioner has been reverted to his original department and, under the circumstances, the order no.408/Sah./dated 30.4.2024 is required to be amended. It is further mentioned that in the meanwhile, a complaint of Shri Sharad Chandra Agarwal and others has been received by a letter dated 10.5.2024 reflecting the irregularities by the management of the concerned Society; that therefore, the office order no.408/sah./dated 30.4.2024 was being partly amended and in place of Shri Anand Kumar Mishra, Shri Raj Kumar, Assistant Housing Commissioner/Assistant Registrar was nominated as Inquiry Officer, who was directed to include the complaint letter in the inspection under Section 66 and, after undertaking a detailed inspection, to submit an inspection report along with proof.

31. It is evident from the record that earlier, the single member Inquiry Committee had submitted a report vide letter no.29/Sah./Ghaziabad dated 20.4.2024 in which he had stated that he was being inappropriately pressurized by both the sides and he had recommended an inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 so that the records of the Society could be inspected and the role of the Committee of Management could be properly investigated. However, as noted above, the two orders, both dated 30.4.2024, were issued vide letter nos.404/sah. and 408/sah. directing the two member Inquiry Committee to conduct an inquiry within 7 days, as well as directing the same two member Inquiry Committee to conduct an inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965, respectively. There is also a letter bearing no.766/sah./dated 17.5.2024 issued by the respondent no. 2 to the two member Inquiry Committee enclosing the complaint letter dated 10.5.2024 directing that the same be included in the inspection under Section 66, and to submit a report expeditiously.

However, as noted above, neither in the inquiry report dated 29.5.2024 submitted by the two member Inquiry Committee nor in the impugned orders dated 30.5.2024 and 4.7.2024 passed by the respondent no. 2, is there any reference of the office letter no.408/Sah./dated 30.4.2024. The contents of the complaint letter dated 10.5.2024 find encapsulated in the inquiry report dated 29.5.2024 without it being stated whether any inspection of the records of the Society was conducted by the two member Inquiry Committee. It is pertinent to mention here that the report dated 20.4.2024 sent by Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur, Cooperative Officer (Housing) to the respondent no.2 bears letter no.29/sah./Ghaziabad dated 20.4.2024. However, in the letter/order issued by respondent no.2 being letter no. 404/sah./dated 30.4.2024, the date of the inquiry report is stated to be 21.4.2024, while in the office order issued by the respondent no.2 vide letter no.408/sah./dated 30.4.2024, the inquiry report of Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur is stated to bear letter no.20/sah./Ghaziabad dated 20.4.2024. Therefore, references to the same letter/inquiry report of Shri Arimardan Singh Gaur dated 20.4.2024 appearing differently in the two letters/orders issued by the respondent no.2 on the same day, i.e., 30.4.2024, may require explanation from the respondent no.2. The matter is confounded by the fact that the page numbering on the file in which the aforesaid letter/inquiry report dated 20.4.2024 appears, page no.119 has been struck off and instead page no. 123 has been mentioned. As a matter of fact, the page numbering in the original record is altered by correction on several pages.

32. Be that as it may, in the writ petition, which was submitted for reporting before the Stamp Reporter on 19.7.2024 and presented on 24.7.2024 after removal of defects raised by the Stamp Reporter, in paragraph 20, it has been stated that the alleged (inquiry) report dated 29.5.2024 has not been supplied to the petitioners.

33. The order impugned dated 30.5.2024 is vague and only reference has been made to the inquiry report dated 29.5.2024 without any discussion by the respondent no.2 that could reflect due application of mind to form an ‘opinion’ that the Secretary and the Chairman of the Society were acting fraudulently and causing serious damage to the interest of the Society and its members. Further, there appear to be no materials other than the report of the Inquiry Committee dated 29.05.2024 which Inquiry report reflects merely a dispute between the petitioners and Smt. Kunta Devi. Certain allegations made in a letter dated 10.05.2024 are merely narrated in the Inquiry report without any examination, inquiry or inspection thereon. The inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 that was allegedly ordered by the respondent no.2 was never undertaken by the Inquiry Committee prior to submitting its report dated 29.05.2024. Moreover, in the original record there is evidence of arbitration proceedings initiated by Smt. Kunta Devi against the petitioners under Section 70/71 of the Act, 1965 in respect of the same dispute which was raised by Smt. Kunta Devi and in which an arbitrator was appointed by the Commissioner and Registrar, Cooperatives by his order dated 27.05.2024, which was in the knowledge of the respondent no.2.

34. The authority of a Registrar under the provisions of the Act, 1965 are wide ranging but given the extent of autonomy conceived by the Act, 1965 to a Cooperative Society and its management, the regulation and intervention of the State are circumscribed by various provisions in the Act, 1965.

35. A Full Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Vandana Varma & Ors. vs. State of U.P. & Ors.[4] stressed upon the fact that provisions of U.P. Act, 1965 are to be read in a manner so as to give more autonomy and independence to a Co-operative Society and its management, instead of intruding administrative control of administrative officer i.e. Registrar, even if not specifically provided, as it will impinge upon the concept of independent democratic autonomy of Co-operative Society. Only to the extent law specifically provides, attempt while making interpretation, should be towards autonomy and independence of Society and its management, than, bringing in, the element of control by Executive/Administrative Officers.

36. At this stage, it is pertinent to refer to certain provisions of the Act, 1965. Section 38 comes under Chapter IV which chapter deals with 'Management of Societies'. Under this chapter fall sections 28 to 38. Section 28 provides that the final authority of a Co-operative Society shall vest in the general body of its members in general meeting, subject to the provisions of the Act and the Rules. Section 29 provides the vesting of the management of every Cooperative Society in a duly constituted Committee of Management, the term of the Committee of Management, its election, appointment of interim Management Committee, ceasing of the existence of the Management Committee after expiry of its term, filling up casual vacancies etc.. Section 29-A enumerates special provisions for Primary Agricultural Co-operative Credit Societies, Central Co-operative Banks and Apex Bank. Section 30 provides for election, nomination or appointment of a Chairman and Vice-Chairman of every Cooperative Society and their responsibilities. Section 30-A deals with motion of no confidence against the Chairman or Vice-Chairman. Section 31 details the appointment and removal of a Secretary of every Cooperative Society, his emoluments and functions. Section 31-A is in relation to Apex Society and provides for appointment of Managing Director instead of Secretary and the duties and responsibilities of the Managing Director. Section 32 deals with holding of an Annual General Meeting, while Section 33 provides for holding of other General Meeting. Section 34 provide for nominees of the State Government on the Committee of Management of certain Cooperative Societies. Section 35 deals with supersession or suspension of Committee of Management. Section 35-A provides for circumstances under which the Chairman and members of the Committee of Management are mandated to vacate their respective offices. Section 36 contains provisions for securing possession of record etc. where the outgoing member of the Committee of Management which is suspended or superseded under Section 35 or where the Society is ordered to be wound up under Section 72 and the outgoing members of the Committee of management fail to hand over charge of the records and properties of the Society. Section 37 empowers the Registrar to issue an order directing seizure and taking possession of books, records, funds and property of the Society on his satisfaction that they are likely to be tampered with or misappropriated or misapplied.

37. Section 38, in purported exercise of which the impugned orders have been passed by the respondent no.2, reads as follows:-

> "38. Removal of an officer of a co-operative society- (1) If in the opinion of the Registrar, any officer of a co-operative society has contravened or omitted to comply with, any provisions of this Act, the rules or the bye-laws of the society, or has forfeited his right to hold office, the Registrar may, without prejudice to any other action that may or can be taken against him, call upon the society to remove, within a specified period, such officer from the office held by him and where necessary also to disqualify him from holding any office under that society for a period not exceeding three years, whereupon the society shall, after affording opportunity of being heard to the officer concerned, pass such orders as it may deem fit.
> Provided that on the request of the Reserve Bank of India, the competent authority shall remove a Director or the Secretary/Chief Executive Officer of a Central Co-operative Bank or the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Bank, who do not fulfill the criteria stipulated by the Reserve Bank of India after giving him an opportunity of being heard.
> (2) On the failure of the society to take action under sub-section (1), the Registrar may, after according opportunity of being heard to the officer and for reasons to be recorded and communicated to the person and the society concerned, remove, or remove and disqualify for a period not exceeding three years, the officer from holding any office under that society.
> (3) An officer removed under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall, with effect from the date of communication of the order, cease to hold that office and, if disqualified, shall not be eligible to hold any office under that society for the period specified in the order."

38. Sub-section (1) of Section 38 of the Act, 1965 gives wide ranging power to the Registrar to direct the Society to remove such officer from the office held by him and, where necessary, also to disqualify him from holding any office under that Society for a period not exceeding three years, in case the Registrar is of the opinion that any officer of a Co-operative Society has contravened or omitted to comply with any provisions of the Act, 1965, the rules or the bye-laws of the Society, or has forfeited his right to hold office. Therefore, the discretion has to be exercised by the Registrar which is reflected in the word "may", calling upon to Society to remove an officer from the office held by him where the Registrar is of such "opinion". Thereupon, the Society is mandated to pass such orders, as it may deem fit, after affording opportunity of being heard to the officer concerned.

39. It is noted that under Section 38(1), the Society is not mandated to comply with the "call upon" of the Registrar for removal of the officer, but it may pass such orders, as it may deem fit, after affording opportunity of being heard to the officer concerned. This aspect of this provision preserves the discretion and democratic functioning and autonomy of the Society.

40. Under sub-section (1) of Section 38, the opinion of the Registrar is subjective. At this stage, he is not exercising a judicial function, but, at the same time he is directing an electorate to take a specific action against two officers of the Society one of which is the Chairman of the Committee of Management. The Chairman is duly elected. Any such direction of the Registrar has to be given its full play if such direction is within the scope of his powers and, in case there are relevant materials before him. However, if such discretion is exercised by the Registrar in an unreasonable or perverse fashion, without taking into consideration admitted facts, so as to leave no doubt in the mind of a court that discretion has been exercised arbitrarily without consideration of the materials before him and / or by relying on materials that reflect only bare allegations, then after considering other attendant facts, the court may interfere in the matter. Moreover, the court would not hesitate to interfere where the mind of the Registrar has not been applied at all to what was necessary for him to consider.

41. In Narayan Govind Gavate v. State of Maharashtra, (1977) 1 SCC 133, the Supreme Court observed :-

> "10. It is true that, in such cases, the formation of an opinion is a subjective matter, as held by this Court repeatedly with regard to situations in which administrative authorities have to form certain opinions before taking actions they are empowered to take. They are expected to know better the difference between a right or wrong opinion than courts could ordinarily on such matters. Nevertheless, that opinion has to be based upon some relevant materials in order to pass the test which courts do impose. That test basically is: Was the authority concerned acting within the scope of its powers or in the sphere where its opinion and discretion must be permitted to have full play? Once the court comes to the conclusion that the authority concerned was acting within the scope of its powers and had some material, however meagre, on which it could reasonably base its opinion, the courts should not and will not interfere. There might, however, be cases in which the power is exercised in such an obviously arbitrary or perverse fashion, without regard to the actual and undeniable facts, or, in other words, so unreasonably as to leave no doubt whatsoever in the mind of a court that there has been an excess of power. There may also be cases where the mind of the authority concerned has not been applied at all, due to misunderstanding of the law or some other reason, to what was legally imperative for it to consider."

42. In Swadeshi Cotton Mills v. Union of India, (1981) 1 SCC 664, the observations of the Supreme Court are :-

"59. We find merit in this contention. It cannot be laid down as a general proposition that whenever a statute confers a power on an administrative authority and makes the exercise of that power conditional on the formation of an opinion by that authority in regard to the existence of an immediacy, its opinion in regard to that preliminary fact is not open to judicial scrutiny at all. While it may be conceded that an element of subjectivity is always involved in the formation of such an opinion, but, as was pointed out by this Court in Barium Chemicals [Barium Chemicals v. Company Law Board, AIR 1967 SC 295 : 1966 Supp SCR 311 : 1966 Com Cas 639] , the existence of the circumstances from which the inferences constituting the opinion, as the sine qua non for action, are to be drawn, must be dimonstrable, and the existence of such "circumstances", if questioned, must be proved at least prima facie.

60. Section 18-AA(1)(a), in terms, requires that the satisfaction of the Government in regard to the existence of the circumstances or conditions precedent set out above, including the necessity of taking immediate action, must be based on evidence in the possession of the Government. If the satisfaction of the Government in regard to the existence of any of the conditions, (i) and (ii), is based on no evidence, or on irrelevant evidence or on an extraneous consideration, it will vitiate the order of "take-over", and the court will be justified in quashing such an illegal order on judicial review in appropriate proceedings. Even where the statute conferring the discretionary power does not, in terms, regulate or hedge around the formation of the opinion by the statutory authority in regard to the existence of preliminary jurisdictional facts with express checks, the authority has to form that opinion reasonably like a reasonable person.

61. While spelling out by a construction of Section 18-AA(1)(a) the proposition that the opinion or satisfaction of the Government in regard to the necessity of taking immediate action could not be the subject of judicial review, the High Court (majority) relied on the analogy of Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, under which, according to them, the Government's opinion in regard to the existence of the urgency is not justiciable. This analogy holds good only up to a point. Just as under Section 18-AA of the IDR Act, in case of a genuine "immediacy" or imperative necessity of taking immediate action to prevent fall in production and consequent risk of imminent injury to paramount public interest, an order of "take-over" can be passed without prior, time-consuming investigation under Section 15 of the Act, under Section 17(1) and (4) of the Land Acquisition Act, also, the preliminary inquiry under Section 5-A can be dispensed with in case of an urgency. It is true that the grounds on which the Government's opinion as to the existence of the urgency can be challenged are not unlimited, and the power conferred on the Government under Section 17(4) of that Act has been formulated in subjective terms; nevertheless, in cases, where an issue is raised, that the Government's opinion as to urgency has been formed in a manifestly arbitrary or perverse fashion without regard to patent, actual and undeniable facts, or that such opinion has been arrived at on the basis of irrelevant considerations or no material at all, or on materials so tenuous, flimsy, slender or dubious that no reasonable man could reasonably reach that conclusion, the court is entitled to examine the validity of the formation of that opinion by the Government in the context and to the extent of that issue."

43. Formation of the opinion by the Registrar for exercising his discretion has to be done only along well recognized and sound juristic principles with a view to promoting fairness, induce transparency and aiding equity. [Ref: Maya Devi vs. Raj Kumari Batra[5]]

44. In the case of Union of India vs. Raj Grow Impex LLP[6], the Supreme Court, after considering several of its decisions, observed as follows:-

"126. Thus, when it comes to discretion, the exercise thereof has to be guided by law; has to be according to the rules of reason and justice; and has to be based on the relevant considerations. The exercise of discretion is essentially the discernment of what is right and proper; and such discernment is the critical and cautious judgment of what is correct and proper by differentiating between shadow and substance as also between equity and pretence. A holder of public office, when exercising discretion conferred by the statute, has to ensure that such exercise is in furtherance of accomplishment of the purpose underlying conferment of such power. The requirements of reasonableness, rationality, impartiality, fairness and equity are inherent in any exercise of discretion; such an exercise can never be according to the private opinion.

127. It is hardly of any debate that discretion has to be exercised judiciously and, for that matter, all the facts and all the relevant surrounding factors as also the implication of exercise of discretion either way have to be properly weighed and a balanced decision is required to be taken."

45. Therefore, the constitutional principles of non-arbitrariness, transparency and fairness, require that such solemn discretion is exercised by an administrative/statutory authority rationally and cautiously and is guided by law; it has to be according to the rules of reasons and justice; and has to be based on relevant considerations. The direction so made by such authority has to reflect due application of mind, having due regard to the fact that the Registrar seeks to call upon an electorate comprising of members of the Society to remove, and where necessary, disqualify the Chairman, who is an officer duly elected.

46. Section 66 of the Act, 1965 comes under Chapter VIII that deals with 'Audit, Inquiry, Inspection and Surcharge'. Under Chapter VIII, fall Sections 64 to 69. Section 65, 66, 68, and 69 which read as under:-

> "65. Inquiry by Registrar.- (1) The Registrar may, of his own accord, himself, or by a person authorised by him by order in writing, hold an inquiry into the constitution, working and financial condition of a co-operative society.
> (2) An inquiry of the nature referred to in sub-section (1) shall be held by the Registrar or by a person authorised by him in writing in this behalf on the application of-
>
> (a) a co-operative society to which the society concerned is affiliated ;
> (b) not less than one-third of the total members of the society ;
> (c) a majority of the members of the Committee of Management of the society.
> (3) The Registrar, or the person authorised by him under sub-section (1) shall, for the purposes of any inquiry under this section, have the following powers, namely-
>
> (a) he shall, at all times, have access to the books, accounts, documents, securities, cash and other properties belonging to or in the custody of the society and may summon any person in possession of, or responsible for the custody of any such books, accounts, documents, securities, cash or other properties, to produce the same at any place at the headquarters of the society or any branch thereof ;
> (b) he may summon any person who, he has reason to believe, has knowledge of any affairs of the society to appear before him at any place at the headquarters of the society or any branch thereof and may examine such person on oath ;
> (c) he may, notwithstanding any rule or bye-law specifying the period of notice for a general meeting of the society require the officers of the society to call a general meeting at such time and place at the headquarters of the society or any branch thereof and to determine such matters as may be directed by him, and where the officers of the society refuse or fail to call such a meeting, he shall have power to call it himself ; and
> (d) he may in the manner and for the purpose mentioned in clause (c) require to be called or himself call, a meeting of the Committee of Management.

(4) Any meeting called under clause (c) or clause (d) of sub-section (3) shall have the powers of the general meeting or meeting of the Committee of Management, as the case may be, under the bye-laws of the society and its proceedings shall be regulated by such bye-laws.

(5) When an inquiry is made under this section, the Registrar shall communicate the result of the inquiry to the society and, in the case of inquiry on an application under clause (a) of sub-section (2), also to the applicant co-operative society.

66. Inspection books and property of a co-operative society.- (1) The Registrar may of his own motion, or on the application of a creditor of a co-operative society, inspect or direct any person authorised by him by order in writhing in this behalf, to inspect books, cash and other property of the society :

Provided that no such inspection shall be made on the application of a creditor unless the applicant satisfies the Registrar that a debt is still due to him and that he has demanded payment thereof and has not received satisfaction within a reasonable time.

(2) The Registrar shall communicate the results of any such inspection –

(a) where the inspection is made of his own motion, to the society; and

(b) where the inspection is made on the application of a creditor; to the creditor and the society.

68. Surcharge.- (1) If in the course of an audit, inquiry, inspection or the winding up of a co-operative society it is found that any person, who is or was entrusted with the organization or management of such society or who is or has at any time been an officer or an employee of the society, has made or caused to be made any payment contrary to this Act, the rules or the bye-laws or has caused any deficiency in the assets of the society by breach of trust or wilful negligence or has misappropriated or fraudulently retained any money or other property belonging to such society, the Registrar of his own motion or on the application of the committee, liquidator or any creditor, inquire himself or direct any person authorized by him by an order in writing in this behalf to inquire into the conduct of such person :

(2) Where an inquiry is made under sub-section (1), the Registrar may, after affording the person concerned a reasonable opportunity of being heard, make an order of surcharge requiring him to restore the property or repay the money or any part thereof, with interest at such rate, or to pay contribution and costs or compensation to such an extent as the Registrar may consider just and equitable.

(3) Where an order of surcharge has been passed against a person under sub-section (2) for having caused any deficiency in the assets of the society by breach of trust or wilful negligence, or for having misappropriated or fraudulently retained any money or other property belonging to such society, such person shall, subject to the result of appeal, if any, filed against such order, be disqualified from continuing in or being elected or appointed to an office in any co-operative society for a period of five years from the date of the order of surcharge.

69. Registrar's power to order remedying of defects.- If as a result of audit held under section 64 or an inquiry under section 65, or an inspection under section 66, the Registrar is of opinion that the society is not working on sound lines, or its management is defective he may, without prejudice to any other action under this Act, make an order directing the society or its officers to take such action not inconsistent with this Act, the rules and the bye-laws as may be specified in the order to remedy the defects within the time specified therein."

47. Sections 70 and 71 fall under Chapter IX that deals with 'Settlement of Disputes', which read as follows:-

"70. Disputes which may be referred to arbitration.- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, if any dispute relating to the constitution, management or the business of a co-operative society other than a dispute regarding disciplinary action taken against a paid servant of a society arises-

(a) among members, past members and persons claiming through members, past members and deceased members; or

(b) between a member, past member or any person claiming through a member, past member or deceased member, and the society, its Committee of Management or any officer, agent or employee of the society, including any past officer, agent or employee; or

(c) between the society or its committee and any past committee, any officer, agent or employee or any past officer, past agent or past employee or the nominee, heir or legal representative of any deceased officer, deceased agent or deceased employee of the society; or

(d) between a co-operative society and any other co-operative society or societies, such dispute shall be referred to the Registrar for action in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules and no court shall have jurisdiction to entertain any suit or other proceeding in respect of any such dispute :

Provided that a dispute relating to an election under the provisions of this Act or rules made thereunder shall not be referred to the Registrar until after the declaration of the result of such election.

(2) For the purpose of sub-section (1), the following shall be deemed to be included in disputes relating to the constitution, management or the business of a co-operative society, namely-

(a) claims for amounts due when a demand for payment is made and is either refused or not complied with whether such claims are admitted or not by the opposite party ;

(b) a claim by a surety against the principal debtor where the society has recovered from the surety any amount in respect of any debt or demand due to it from the principal debtor as a result of the default of the principal debtor or whether such debt or demand is admitted or not;

(c) a claim by a society for any loss caused to it by a member, officer, agent, or employee including past or deceased member, officer, agent or employee, whether individually or collectively and whether such loss be admitted or not ; and

(d) all matters relating to the objects of the society mentioned in the bye-laws as also those relating to the election of office-bearers.

(3) If any question arises whether a dispute referred to the Registrar under this section is a dispute relating to the constitution, management or the business of a co-operative society, the decision thereon of the Registrar shall be final and shall not be called in question in any court.

71. Reference of dispute to arbitration.- (1) On receipt of a reference under sub-section (1) of section 70, the Registrar may, subject to the provisions of the rules, if any-

(a) decide the dispute himself ; or

(b) refer it, for decision to an arbitrator appointed by him; or

(c) refer it, if the parties so request in writing, for decision to a board of arbitrators consisting of the three persons to be appointed in the prescribed manner.

(2) The Registrar may, for reasons to be recorded withdraw any reference made under clause (b) or (c) of sub-section (1) and refer it to another arbitrator or board of arbitrators or decide it himself.

(3) The Registrar, the arbitrator or the board of arbitrators, to whom a dispute is referred for decision under this section may, pending the decision of the dispute make such interlocutory orders including attachment of property as he or they may deem necessary in the interest of justice.

(4) The decision given by the Registrar, the arbitrator or the Board of Arbitrators under this section shall hereinafter be termed as award.

(5) The procedure to be followed by the Registrar, the Arbitrator or the Board of Arbitrators in deciding a dispute and making an award under this section shall be as may be prescribed."

48. Under the provisions of the Sections 65 and 66 of the Act, 1965, the Registrar has powers to hold an inquiry and inspection either himself or through any person authorised by him order in writing. However, the inquiry contemplated under Section 65 is required to be held only on the application of :-

(a) a co-operative society to which the society concerned is affiliated;

(b) not less than one-third of the total members of the society; and

(c) a majority of the members of the Committee of Management of the society.

49. Section 66 of the Act, 1965 authorizes the Registrar, of his own motion or on the application of a creditor of the Cooperative Society, to inspect or direct any person authorized by him in writing in this behalf, to inspect books, cash and other properties of a Society. The Registrar is enjoined to communicate the results of any such inspection to the Society where the inspection is made of his own motion.

50. Under Section 69 of the Act, 1965, if as a result of any audit held under Section 64 or an inquiry under section 65, or an inspection under section 66, the Registrar is of opinion that the Society is not working on sound lines, or its management is defective, he may, without prejudice to any other action under this Act, make an order directing the Society or its officers to take such action not inconsistent with this Act, the rules and the bye-laws as may be specified in the order to remedy the defects within the time specified therein.

51. On a conspectus of the original record, and consideration of the inquiry report dated 29.05.2024 and the order dated 30.05.2024 as well as other materials on record of the writ petition, we find that the respondent no.2, who was required to exercise his discretional jurisdiction under Section 38 (1) of the Act, 1965 after due and independent application of mind and after considering relevant materials, has exercised the same with material irregularity and in excess of jurisdiction, arbitrarily, unreasonably, and unfairly. Moreover, not furnishing to the Society copies of the Inquiry Report and other documents examined by the Inquiry Committee, would render the mandatory hearing (as a consequence to any opportunity afforded to the officers) and deliberations of the Society directionless, precluding the Society from complying with the principles of natural justice at the time of affording opportunity of hearing to the officers. The aforesaid conclusions are due to the reasons stated above and collated below :-

a) In the order dated 30.05.2024 there appear no materials other than the report of the Inquiry Committee dated 29.05.2024 which Inquiry report reflects examination of an individual dispute between the petitioners and Smt. Kunta Devi.

b) The other allegations that are merely narrated in the Inquiry Report of 29.05.2024 pertain to a complaint dated 10.05.2024 allegedly made by some Society members, which have evidently not been examined by the Inquiry Committee under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 despite directions of the respondent no.2.

c) The dispute between the petitioners and Smt. Kunta Devi is subject matter of an arbitration proceeding being case no.03/2024-25 under Section 70 / 71 of the Act, 1965 in which an arbitrator has been appointed by an order dated 27.05.2024 of the Commissioner / Registrar, Cooperative, which is pending.

d) Despite the respondent no.2 directing inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 evidently no such inspection was conducted by the Inquiry Committee prior to submission of its report dated 29.05.2024 nor is any reference made in that report to the letter of the respondent no.2 to the Inquiry Committee directing the inspection. Therefore, mere existence of an individual dispute between the petitioners and Smt. Kunta Devi, which anyway is subject matter of a pending arbitration case, would not be construed as relevant material before the respondent no. 2 to reach its conclusion warranting action under Section 38(1).

e) Even though the inspection and inquiry were simultaneously directed to be conducted by means of two of his letters both dated 30.04.2024, the respondent no.2, without considering that the Inquiry Committee did not conduct inspection under Section 66 prior to submitting its report dated 29.05.2024, on the very next day passed the impugned order dated 30.05.2024 under Section 38 (1).

f) Given the fact that under Section 38 (1) of the Act, 1965 the electorate of the petitioner-Society has been called upon by the respondent no.2 to remove two officers, one of whom is duly elected (in the present case, the Chairman), the discretion of the Registrar is necessary to be exercised after due and independent consideration of the materials on record, due application of mind, without taking into account unexamined allegations, which has not been done in the present case.

g) The Inquiry Report dated 29.05.2024 alleges that the Chairman and Secretary of the Society are working arbitrarily and are seriously damaging the interests of the Society and its members. However, this inquiry report only reflects an individual dispute between the petitioners and one member of the Society, Smt. Kunta Devi. The allegations made in the complaint dated 10.05.2024 allegedly submitted by other Society members is merely narrated in this inquiry report without their examination or without any inspection conducted by the Inquiry Committee. Relying on such an inquiry report the respondent no.2 has concluded in his order of 30.05.2024 that the conduct of the Chairman and Secretary of the Society is fraudulent, biased and is altogether contrary to their responsibilities. In the same vein the respondent no.2 observes that 'prima facie' he is satisfied that the Chairman and Secretary are not fully discharging the duties of their office, are working against the provisions of the Act and Rules, and in such circumstances they have forfeited their right to hold their offices, and therefore, in the interest of the Society and its members it is necessary to remove them from the posts held by them. Evidently, there were no materials before the respondent no.2 to initiate action under Section 38(1), rather he has based his discretion on irrelevant considerations which no reasonable man could reasonably arrive at given the facts and circumstances of the present case. As a matter of fact in the letters of the petitioners, as noted above, inter alia, serious allegations have been made with regard to non-deposit in the Society's bank account of the amounts received in cash towards the sale consideration of the disputed flat by the former Secretary, which under the facts and circumstances, where no inspection under Section 66 of the Act, 1965 has been conducted, or where the inquiry has not returned a categorical finding based on lawful considerations, could be a valid ground to deny NOC.

h) Neither the Inquiry Report dated 29.05.2024 nor other documents which were relied upon by the Inquiry Committee were supplied to the Society alongwith the impugned order / direction dated 30.05.2024 or even thereafter. These documents were necessary to be supplied because under Section 38(1) the society is mandated to pass such orders as it may deem fit after affording an opportunity of being heard to the officers. In the interest of the autonomy of a democratic Society, its members are required to be informed and supplied the materials relied upon by the Registrar to pass such an order of removal of officers and where necessary to disqualify them, so that the society can take an informed decision after considering the objections of such officers before passing such orders as the Society may deem fit. The Inquiry Report and other documents are materials that the Society would require to confront the officers while affording them opportunity of being heard.

52. The judgment of this court in the matter of Meerut Sahkari Avas Samiti relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent no.2 observes that powers of the Society that is exercisable under Section 38(1) is with the general body of the Society and not the Committee of Management. Where a direction is given by the Registrar under Section 38(1), the Committee of Management is under obligation to call meeting of the general body of the Society for considering the directive of the Registrar. It was observed as follows:-

"23. Section 38, when we read it in its entirety we find that when action is initiated under sub-clause (1) of Section 38 by the Registrar by giving direction to the Society, it is the Society which has to take action after affording opportunity of being heard to the officer concerned. At this stage, the Registrar has nothing to do except for calling upon the Society to consider the action proposed and therefore, there is no requirement of giving notice or providing for observance of principle of natural justice. It is only the Society which is required to give opportunity of hearing to the officer concerned as the decision, if any, is to be taken by the Society itself and not by the Registrar.

24. Sub-section (2) of Section 38 talks of the situation where despite direction given by Registrar, Society failed to comply with such direction and did not take any action against the "Officer" concerned, who is rendered disqualified to hold the office. In such eventuality, when Society has failed, sub-section (2) of Section 38 confers power upon Registrar to take action himself and to disqualify, remove or both, such "Officer" from the office. Under sub-section (2) of Section 38, when Registrar takes action on its own, he has to observe the principles of natural justice i.e. afford opportunity of hearing to "Officer" concerned and thereafter pass order which must be a reasoned one.

25. It is only in the second case, as contemplated in sub clause (2) of Section 38 where the Society fails to take any action, and the Registrar himself exercises the power of removal of the erring officer of the cooperative Society, sub clause (2) of Section 38 of the Act of 1965, stipulates that opportunity is to be given to the officer concerned.

26. In view of the discussion made above, we are of the considered opinion that the Registrar was not required to afford hearing to the officers at the stage of issuing direction to the Committee of Management to convene the meeting of general body to consider the removal of Chairman and the Secretary in accordance with provisions of Section 38 of the Act of 1965."

53. While we are in respectful agreement with the observations of the Bench in Meerut Sahkari Avas Samiti, however, they do not inure to the benefit of the respondent no.2 in the facts and circumstances of the present case. Though there is indeed no material on record to show that any meeting of the general body of the Society was called by the Committee of Management pursuant to the direction of the respondent no.2 under section 38(1), what we have examined and found in the present case is that while issuing the directions under Section 38(1) the respondent no.2 had not exercised his discretion judiciously. The discretion was exercised without due and independent application of mind, on the basis of irrelevant materials, unfairly, unreasonably and inequitably. Further, by the impugned order dated 30.05.2024, though the respondent no.2 directed the Committee of Management of the Society to take action under Section 38(1), however, the same is impermissible and such direction can only be construed to mean that the Committee of Management shall call a meeting of the General Body of the Society to consider the matter in the light of the mandate of Section 38(1).

Moreover, the learned Judges of the Bench in Meerut Sahkari Avas Samiti have observed that under the provision of Section 38(1), Registrar was not required to afford hearing to the officers at the stage of issuing direction to the Committee of Management to convene the meeting of general body to consider the removal, but only at the stage of proceedings under Section 38(2), to which we respectfully agree.

54. In view of the aforesaid, the impugned orders dated 30.05.2024 and 04.07.2024 passed by the respondent no.2 are quashed. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed. This order is without prejudice to the powers and authority of the respondent no.2 to proceed against the petitioners in accordance with law and keeping in view the observations made above. It is made clear that any observations made herein are for purpose of adjudication of the case at hand and shall not be taken as an opinion of the court on merits of the case of either of the parties.

Criminal Law - Bail - U.P. Gangster Act,1986 - Section 2/3 - The absence of legal aid to applicant is evident from fact that he could not file instant bail application almost one year after he has been enlarged on bail in all the three cases depicted in gang chart - Applicant has been in jail since 13.09.2020 - Applicant is financially destitute and belongs to marginalized section of society - Applicant could not approach High Court at an earlier point in time to seek his remedy of bail as he did not have access to legal aid nor was given legal advice earlier and also did not possess resources to file bail application - Directions given in Anil Gaur (infra) have been violated - Bail application allowed, learned trial court is directed to fix sureties after due application of mind in light of judgement rendered in Arvind Singh (infra). (Para 8, 20)

Allowed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Arvind Singh Vs St. of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Home Deptt. (Application u/s 482 No.2613 of 2023)

2. Anil Gaur @ Sonu @ Sonu Tomar Vs St. of U.P., 2022 SCC Online All 623

3. Ramu Vs St. of U.P., (Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 17912 of 2019)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Matter is taken up in the revised call.

2. Supplementary affidavit filed by the learned counsel for the applicant is taken in the record.

3. By means of the bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No.93 of 2021 at Police Station-Etmadpur, District-Agra under Section 2/3 of the U.P. Gangster Act. The applicant is in jail since 13.09.2020.

4. The bail application of the applicant was rejected by the learned trial court on 09.07.2024.

5. The following arguments made by Shri Ali Jamal Khan, learned amicus curiae on behalf of the applicant, which could not be satisfactorily refuted by Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I from the record, entitle the applicant for grant of bail:

I. The applicant has been granted bail in the three criminal cases depicted in the gang chart, namely, (i) Case Crime No.219 of 2020 under Sections 363, 364-A, 302, 201, 34, 120B IPC, P.S. Etmadpur, District-Agra, (ii) Case Crime No.223 of 2020 under Section 307 IPC, P.S. Etmadpur, District-Agra and (iii) Case Crime No.225 of 2020 under Sections 379, 411, 414, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC, P.S. Etmadpur, District-Agra.

II. The applicant has explained his criminal history.

III. The applicant is not a flight risk. The applicant being a law abiding citizen has always cooperated with the investigation and undertakes to join the trial proceedings. There is no possibility of the applicant influencing witnesses, tampering with the evidence or reoffending.

6. In the light of the preceding discussion and without making any observations on the merits of the case, the bail application is allowed.

7. Let the applicant-Arman be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number, on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court below. The following conditions be imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence or influence any witness during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the date fixed, unless personal presence is exempted.

8. The learned trial court is directed to fix the sureties after due application of mind in light of the judgement rendered by this Court in Arvind Singh v. State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Home Deptt.1

The learned trial court shall ensure that the right of bail of the applicant granted by this Court is not frustrated by arbitrary demands of sureties or onerous conditions which are unrelated to the socioeconomic status of the applicant.

9. The District Legal Services Authority (DLSA), Agra shall ensure that appropriate legal aid is made available to the applicant for purposes of submitting sureties and completion of other formalities for being set forth at liberty.

10. Registry is directed to send a copy of this order to the District Legal Services Authority (DLSA), Agra for onward communication to the applicant who is in jail, and for assisting the applicant in the manner stated above.

11. Before parting, the Court would like to notice the other submissions made by Shri Ali Jamal Khan, learned amicus curiae on behalf of the applicant that the applicant has also been imprisoned in the two more criminal cases registered as Case Crime No.226 of 2020 under Section 3/25 of the Arms Act, P.S. Etmadpur, District-Agra and Case Crime No.225 of 2020 under Sections 379, 411 IPC, P.S. Malpura, District-Agra and has been granted bail in the aforesaid cases by the learned trial court. However, he has not been released on bail due to his inability to furnish sureties.

12. This appears to be a serious matter. The large number of the persons who belong to marginalized sections of the society or financially destitute are unable to arrange or provide sureties fixed arbitrarily by the learned trial courts. To deal with this situation the constitutional Courts have constantly held that the right of bail cannot be defeated by arbitrary surety demands. It is the responsibility of the learned trial court to apply their minds to the socioeconomic status of the accused and accordingly fix the sureties. The law has cautioned against determining sureties in a mechanical manner.

13 . This Court, while examining the issue pertaining to failure of accused persons to furnish sureties arbitrarily or mechanically fixed by the learned trial courts in Arvind Singh (supra) passed directions are extracted hereinunder:

"24. However despite unequivocal holdings of various constitutional courts the trial courts continue to adopt a rote response to a dynamic problem and approach the issue of fixation of sureties in a mechanical manner and neglect to make requisite enquiries as contemplated in the preceding parts of the judgment. The duties of the trial courts as well as other agencies while fixing sureties can be summed up as under:-

(1) In case a prisoner cannot arrange the sureties fixed by the trial court the former can make an application to the learned trial court for a lesser surety. Material facts relating to the socioeconomic status and roots in the community of the prisoner shall be stated in the application.

(2) Similarly it is bounden duty of the DLSA to examine the status of the prisoners who have been enlarged on bail but are not set at liberty within seven days of the bail order. In case the prisoners cannot arrange for sureties they may be advised and assisted to promptly move an application for refixation of the surety in light of this judgment.

(3) Once the prisoner makes such application the trial court shall make an enquiry consistent with this judgment and pass a reasoned order depicting consideration of relevant criteria for fixing sureties with utmost expedition.

(4) Every trial court is under an obligation to satisfy itself about the socioeconomic conditions of the prisoner and probability of absconding and his roots in the community and fix sureties commensurate with the same. The State authorities or other credible agencies as the court may direct to promptly provide the requisite details.

(5). In case the prisoner is from another State and is unable to produce local sureties, sureties from the prisoner's home district or any other place of his choice determined by the court of competent jurisdiction of the said district and State shall be accepted by the trial court.

(6) The prisoner/counsel may state the details of the socio-economic status of the prisoner in the bail application in the first instance. This will facilitate an expeditious consideration of the issue related to sureties.

26. The right of fundamental liberties of the applicant are being curtailed on account of his poverty and inability to arrange multiple sureties for cases instituted against him."

14. Further, this Court has also repeatedly directed that the right of bail of the applicant granted by this Court should not be not frustrated by arbitrary demands of sureties or onerous conditions which are unrelated to the socioeconomic status of the applicant.

15. It is noteworthy that this Court in Arvind Singh (supra) had directed the District Legal Services Authorities as well as the learned trial courts to examine the cases of those under trials who are not released on bail despite bail orders in view of onerous sureties demands made by the learned trial courts. The cases were required to be visited regularly by the learned trial courts.

16. As seen earlier this Court in Arvind Singh (supra) also directed the District Legal Services Authorities to provide legal aid to prisoners who are not able to enjoy the fruits of liberty granted by bail on account of their failure to provide the sureties fixed by the learned trial courts. The District Legal Services Authorities have to facilitate the said category of prisoners in filing their applications for recall of onerous surety demands.

17. The District Legal Services Authorities and the learned trial courts have not adhered to the aforesaid directions in the facts of this case.

18. The learned District Judge, Agra shall look into the matter and send a report to the Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee, Allahabad High Court.

19. The Judicial Training and Research Institute (JTRI), Lucknow, U.P. was also issued directions to sensitize the learned trial courts to the need to apply their minds to relevant facts and the socioeconomic conditions of the accused before determining the sureties in light of this judgement and Arvind (supra).

20. The absence of legal aid to the applicant is also evident from the fact that he could not file this bail application almost one year after he has been enlarged on bail in all the three cases depicted in the gang chart. The applicant has been in jail since 13.09.2020. The applicant is financially destitute and belongs to a marginalized section of the society. The applicant was able to file the instant first bail application before this Court in the year 2024. The applicant could not approach this Court at an earlier point in time to seek his remedy of bail as he did not have access to legal aid nor was given legal advice to approach this Court earlier and also did not possess resources to file the instant bail application. It is also contended that the directions of this Court in Anil Gaur @ Sonu @ Sonu Tomar v. State of U.P.2 have been violated. [Also see: Ramu v. State of U.P.3

21. The applicant was a victim of "undeserved want" in light of Anil Gaur (supra). The denial of legal aid was caused by failure to implement the directions of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) as well as Ramu (supra).

22. Registry is directed to send a copy of this order to the Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee, Allahabad High Court as well as the Secretary, Uttar Pradesh State Legal Services Authority, Lucknow to prepare a report regarding compliance of the directions in Arvind (supra).

23. Registry is also directed to send a copy of this order to the Director, Judicial Training and Research Institute (JTRI), Lucknow, U.P. for compliance.

24. This Court appreciates the assistance rendered by Shri Ali Jamal Khan, learned amicus curiae, who addressed the Court on the merits of this case, and also made the relevant enquiries into the status of the other bail applications of the applicant where he has been enlarged on bail but he could not set forth at liberty on account of providing sureties.

25. The High Court Legal Services Committee shall consider the payment of usual remuneration to Shri Ali Jamal Khan, (A/A-518/2011) who represented the applicant as amicus curiae before this Court.

26. A copy of this order translated in Hindi shall be provided to the accused in jail through the District Legal Services Authority, Agra.

7. Government of A.P. Vs J.B. Educational Society reported in (2005) 3 SCC 212

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amrendra Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Ratan Singh, learned AGA for the State.

2. Present petition has been filed for the following relief:

"I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari, for quashing the order of attachment dated 04.05.2023 passed by Police Commissioner, Ghaziabad in the case no. 09/23, u/s 14(1) of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 in State Vs. Rakesh Sharma as much as it relates to the borrower/mortgagor's said property i.e. House no.78 Sector Delta-3, Greater Noida, Gautam Budh Nagar, Uttar Pradesh;

II. Direct the respondent no.3 to handover the physical possession of the said property to the petitioner. "

3. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioners is that petitioner no.1 is a housing finance company sponsored by Canara bank. The petitioner-finance company has granted a loan to one Rakesh Sharma to purchase house no.78 Sector Delta-3, Greater Noida, Gautam Budh Nagar, Uttar Pradesh and that the property was also mortgaged to the petitioners in lieu of the above loan facility extended to Rakesh Sharma. It is further submitted that against Rakesh Sharma, the Gangster Act was invoked, and a FIR was registered against him in case crime no.466 of 2022 and during that proceeding, the above property was attached by the Police Commissioner, Ghaziabad vide order dated 04.05.2023 u/s 14(1) of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Gangster Act').

4. As the above property was already mortgaged to the bank, which is a secured creditor, the petitioners preferred Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3720 of 2024, immediately after the knowledge of the attachment order dated 04.05.2023. That writ petition was disposed of with a direction to Commissioner of Police, Ghaziabad, to consider the representation dated 08.09.2023 of petitioners against the attachment order dated 04.05.2023 and decide the same within 15 days from the date of production of the certified copy of this order.

5. It is further submitted that despite receiving a copy of the order dated 13.03.2024 passed by this Hon'ble Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3720 of 2024, the respondent no.3 has not considered the representation of petitioner no.2, and he was simply informed by respondent no.3 vide letter dated 08.05.2024 that the final order regarding the property of Rakesh Sharma has been passed on 04.08.2023, u/s 15 of the Gangster Act and the matter has been referred to the Special Court (Gangster Act). Therefore, representation of petitioner no.2 cannot be considered at this stage. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submitted that the property in question was mortgaged to the bank, and the bank had already issued proceedings to recover its dues against the property in question (attached by respondent no.3), under the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 2002') and petitioners being secured creditors will have first right over the property in question as the Act, 2002 is Central Act and same will prevail over the law made by the Legislature of the State in view of the Article 254 of the Constitution of India.

6. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that at the time of deciding the Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3720 of 2024, petitioners had not informed the court about the order dated 04.08.2023 passed u/s 16 of the Gangster Act by which representation of the accused Rakesh Sharma was rejected and matter was referred to Special Court (Gangster Act) and at this stage, the Commissioner of Police has no authority to pass any order to release the property in question and petitioners have remedy to pursue their case before the Special Court (Gangster Act).

7. After hearing the submission of learned counsel for the parties and on perusal of the record, it appears that the impugned attachment order dated 04.05.2023 was passed by the Commissioner of Police, Ghaziabad, u/s 14(1) of the Gangster Act. Thereafter, after considering the representation of the accused, Rakesh Sharma, the final order was passed u/s 16 of the Gangster Act on 04.08.2023 and the matter was referred to the Special Court (Gangster Act). On the date of filing the Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3720 of 2024 by the petitioners, the matter had already been referred to the Special Court (Gangster Act) u/s 16 of the Gangster Act. As the matter was already referred to Special Court (Gangster Act), prior to passing the order dated 13.03.2024 in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3720 of 2024, therefore, the Commissioner of Police has no authority to consider the representation of the petitioners regarding the release of the property in question. The petitioners were already informed by the Commissioner of Police vide order dated 08.05.2024 about the order dated 04.08.2023.

8. At present, the matter is pending before the Special Court (Gangster Act). Now, as per the Section 16(3) of the Gangster Act, Special Court will conduct an inquiry u/s 17 of the Gangster Act regarding the character of acquisition of property. Sections-16 & 17 of the Gangster Act are being quoted as under:

"16. Enquiry into the character of acquisition of property by court-

(1) Where no representation is made within the period specified in sub-section (1) of Section 15 or the District Magistrate does not release the property under sub-section (2) of Section 15 he shall refer the matter with his report to the Court having jurisdiction to try an offence under this Act.

(2) Where the District Magistrate has refused to attach any property under sub-section (1) of Section 14 or has ordered for release of any property under sub-section (2) of Section 15, the State Government or any person aggrieved by such refusal or release may make an application to the Court referred to in sub-section (1) for inquiry as to whether the property was acquired by or as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act. Such Court may, if it considers necessary or expedient in the interest of justice so to do, order attachment of such property.

(3)(a) On receipt of the reference under sub-section (1) or an application under sub-section (2), the Court shall fix a date for inquiry and give notices thereof to the person making the application under sub- section (2) or, as the case may be, to the person making the representation under Section 15 and to the State Government, and also to any other person whose interest appears to be involved in the case.

(b) On the date so fixed or any subsequent date to which the inquiry may be adjourned, the Court shall hear the parties, receive evidence produced by them, take such further evidence as it considers necessary, decide whether the property was acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act and shall pass such order under Section 17 as may be just and necessary in the circumstances of the case.

(4) For the purpose of inquiry under sub-section (3) the Court, shall have the power of a Civil Court while trying a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 in respect of the following matters, namely :-

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c) receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) requisitioning any public record or copy thereof from any Court or office;

(e) issuing commission for examination of witness or documents;

(f) dismissing a reference for default or deciding it ex parte

(g) setting aside an order of dismissal for default or ex parte decision.

(5) In any proceedings under this section, the burden of proving that the property in question or any part thereof was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act, shall be on the person claiming the property, anything to the contrary contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (Act No.1 of 1872), notwithstanding.

"17. Order after inquiry*-If upon such inquiry the Court finds that the property was not acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of any offence triable under this Act it shall order for release of the property of the person from whose possession it was attached. In any other case the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of the property by attachment, confiscation or delivery to any person entitled to the possession thereof, or otherwise."*

9. From perusal of Section-16 of the Gangster Act, it is clear that when no representation is made or despite receiving representation u/s 16(1) of the Gangster Act, District Magistrate does not release the property u/s 15(2) of the Gangster Act then any aggrieved person by such refusal may make an application to special court u/s 16(2) of the Gangster Act to release such property after conducting inquiry.

10. Therefore, it is also clear from Section 16(3)(a) of the Gangster Act that when the matter is referred by the District Magistrate to Special Court u/s 16(1) of the Gangster Act then any person whose interest appears to be involved in the case may also be heard by Special Court while conducting inquiry u/s 17 of the Gangster Act. From perusal of Section 16(3)(a) of the Gangster Act, it is amply clear that any person who is interested in the property has the right to appear before the court to establish his claim over the property and the Special Court u/s 16(3)(b) of the Gangster Act will hear the parties and after considering the evidence produced by the parties would decide whether property was acquired by the Gangster, as a result of Commission of offence or not. After the inquiry u/s 17 of the Gangster Act, if the Special Court does not release the property in favour of the Gangster, then the court can also deliver the same to a person who is entitled to possession.

11. The co-ordinate Bench of this court in the case of Prithvi Singh Vs. State of U.P. And Others reported in 2022 (8) ADJ 29 (DB) considered the law relating interpretation of statute. Paragraph nos.10 to 18 of Prithvi Singh's case (supra) is being quoted as under:

"10. Before proceeding further it would be appropriate to take note of the principles of statutory interpretation as the decision of the question involved in the present case is directly dependant on the interpretation of the statutory provisions. For this purpose we have taken help of the book 'Principles of Statutory Interpretation' '13th Edition, 2012' written by Justice G. P. Singh (Former Justice of M. P. High Court).

11. One of the main basic principles of interpretation is that if meaning of words of statute are plain, effect must be given to it irrespective of consequences.

12. In Nelson Motis v. Union of India, AIR 1992 SC 1981, it has been observed that when the words of a statute are clear, plain or unambiguous, i.e., they are reasonably susceptible to only one meaning, the Courts are bound to give effect to that meaning irrespective of consequences.

13. In Kanailal Sur v. Paramnidhi Sadhu Khan, AIR 1957 SC 907, it was observed that if the words used are capable of one construction only then it would not be open to the Courts to adopt any other hypothetical construction on the ground that such construction is more consistent with the alleged object and policy of the Act.

14. In State of Uttar Pradesh v. Vijay Anand Maharaj, AIR 1963 SC 946, it was held that when a language is plain and unambiguous and admits of only one meaning no question of construction of a statute arises, for the Act speaks for itself.

15. It is also a guiding rule of interpretation that language of the statute should be read as it is.

16. In Gwalior Rayon Silk Mfg. (Wvg.) Co. Ltd v. Custodian of Vested Forests, AIR 1990 SC 1747, it was observed that the intention of the legislature is primarily to be gathered from the language used, which means that attention should be paid to what has been said as also to what has not been said.

17. In Raghunath Rai Bareja v. Punjab National Bank, (2007) 2 SCC 230, Supreme Court held that departure from the literal rule should be done only in very rare cases and ordinarily there should be judicial restraint in this connection.

18. Insofar as rule of 'regard to consequences' is concerned, the aforesaid book clearly provides that this rule has no application when the words are acceptable to only one meaning and no alternate construction is reasonably open. A reference may be made in this regard with citations noted above which provides that if meaning is plain, effect must be given to it irrespective of consequences."

12. In the present case, the petitioners have also made a representation u/s 15(1) of the Gangster Act before the respondent no.3 but same was submitted after passing of the order u/s 16 of the Gangster Act, even then their right to appear before the special court to claim their property on the ground that being finance company, they have preferential rights over the attached property which was hypothecated to the bank and the proceeding against the same was also issued under the Act, 2002 to recover the loan extended by the petitioners to the accused, Rakesh Sharma to purchase that property. Thus, the bank falls in the category of "any person aggrieved" as provided u/s 16(2) of the Gangster Act and in the category of "any other person whose interest appears to be involved in the case" as mentioned in Section-16(3)(a) of the Gangster Act.

13. From the above analysis, this court holds that if a person interested in a property could not file a representation before the District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police u/s 15(1) of the Gangster Act for want of knowledge then he can file his objection before the Special Court even after reference of attachment order to Special Court u/s 16(1) of the Gangster Act and, in appropriate cases the Special Court after completion of the inquiry u/s 17 of the Gangster Act may also deliver the attached property to the interested person if he is found entitled to possession thereof.

14. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that the Act, 2002 being a Central Act will have overriding effect over the Gangster Act in view of Article 254 of the Constitution of India is concerned, to decide this issue, Articles 246 and 254 of the Constitution of India are being quoted as under:

"246. Subject-matter of laws made by Parliament and by the Legislatures of States

(1) Notwithstanding anything in clauses (2) and (3), Parliament has exclusive power to make laws with respect to any of the matters enumerated in List 1 in the Seventh Schedule (in this Constitution referred to as the "Union List").

(2) Notwithstanding anything in clause (3), Parliament and subject to clause (1), the Legislature of any State also, have power to make laws with respect to any of the matters enumerated in List III in the Seventh Schedule (in this Constitution referred to as the "Concurrent List").

(3) Subject to clauses (1) and (2), the Legislature of any State has exclusive power to make laws for such State or any part thereof with respect to any of the matters enumerated in List II in the Seventh Schedule (in this Constitution referred to as the 'State List').

(4) Parliament has power to make laws with respect to any matter for any part of the territory of India not included in a State notwithstanding that such matter is a matter enumerated in the State List.

"254. Inconsistency between laws made by Parliament and laws made by the Legislatures of States

(1) If any provision of a law made by the Legislature of a State is repugnant to any provision of a law made by Parliament which Parliament is competent to enact, or to any provision of an existing law with respect to one of the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List, then, subject to the provisions of clause (2), the law made by Parliament, whether passed before or after the law made by the Legislature of such State, or, as the case may be, the existing law, shall prevail and the law made by the Legislature of the State shall, to the extent of the repugnancy, be void.

(2) Where a law made by the Legislature of a State with respect to one of the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List contains any provision repugnant to the provisions of an earlier law made by Parliament or an existing law with respect to that matter, then, the law so made by the Legislature of such State shall, if it has been reserved for the consideration of the President and has received his assent, prevail in that State:

Provided that nothing in this clause shall prevent Parliament from enacting at any time any law with respect to the same matter including a law adding to, amending, varying or repealing the law so made by the Legislature of the State."

15. From the perusal of Article 246 of the Constitution of India, it appears that it confers exclusive powers to Parliament to make laws with respect to any of the matter enumerated in Union List (List I) of the Seventh Schedule, and it also confers exclusive power to the State Legislatures with respect to the matters enumerated in the State List (List II), which is subject to the exclusive legislative power of Parliament. Issue of interpretation of Article 254 of the Constitution of India came into consideration before the Supreme Court in the case of Mineral Area Development Authority & Another Vs. Steel Authority of India & Another reported in 2024 SCC OnLine SC 1796. While interpreting Article 254 of the Constitution of India, the nine Judges Bench in Mineral Area Development Authority (supra) observed that issue of repugnancy arises only when both the legislatures are competent to legislate on the subject with respect of List-III and in case of conflict in other cases, answer lies in Article 246 of the Constitution of India, itself. Paragraph nos.33, 34 and 35 of Mineral Area Development Authority (supra) are being quoted as under:

"33. Article 254 clarifies that if the law made by a State legislature is repugnant to any provisions of a law made by Parliament with respect to any of the matters enumerated in List III, the law made by Parliament would prevail and the law made by the State legislature would be void to the extent of the repugnancy. The issue of repugnancy arises only when both the legislatures are competent to legislate on the subject with respect to List III. The issue of repugnancy does not arise if the legislations enacted by Parliament and the State legislatures deal with separate and distinct legislative subject matters. By virtue of Article 248, Parliament has exclusive legislative powers to make laws with respect to any of the matters not enumerated in List II or List III. However, how should courts deal with a situation where two legislations, enacted by Parliament and State legislature in pursuance of their respective legislative powers, appear to conflict with each other? The answer lies in Article 246 itself.

34. Article 246 incorporates the principle of federal supremacy. In Hoechst Pharmaceuticals (supra), this Court held that the words "notwithstanding anything contained in clauses (2) and (3)" in Article 246(1) and the words "subject to clauses (1) and (2)" in Article 246(3) embody that principle. The principle postulates that in case of an inevitable conflict between Union and State powers, the Union's power of legislation over a subject enumerated in List I shall prevail over the State powers of legislation over a subject enumerated in List II and III. However, it is also settled that this principle cannot be resorted to unless there is an irreconcilable direct conflict between the entries in the Union and State Lists. Such a conflict must be an actual one and not a mere seeming conflict between the two entries in two lists.

35. Hoechst Pharmaceuticals (supra) laid down the following principles to resolve any direct conflict between the entries in List I and List II : (i) in case of seeming conflict, the two entries should be read together without giving a narrow and restricted reading to either of them; (ii) an attempt should be made to see whether the two entries can be reconciled so as to avoid a conflict of jurisdiction; and (iii) no question of conflict arises between two Lists if the impugned legislation in pith and substance appears to fall exclusively under one list and the encroachment upon the other list is incidental."

16. The issue of repugnancy between the Central Act and the State Act has been explained in a number of statutory interpretations by G.P. Singh. The relevant extract from the Fourteenth Edition of G.P. Singh's principles of statutory interpretation is being quoted as under:

"The question whether the legislature has kept itself within the jurisdiction assigned to it or encroached upon a forbidden field is determined by finding out the true nature and character or pith and substance of the legislation which may be different from its consequential effects. If the pith and substance of the legislation is covered by an entry within the permitted jurisdiction of the legislature any incidental encroachment in the rival field is to be disregarded. There is presumption of constitutionality of statute and hence, prior to determining whether there is any repugnancy between the Central Act and the State Act, it has to be determined whether both Acts laid to the same entry in the List III and whether there is a 'direct' or that a 'irreconcilable' conflict between two, applying the doctrine of, pith and substance."

17. Similarly, from the perusal of the above quoted Article 254 of the Constitution of India, it is clear that the same is applicable where there is inconsistency between the law made by the Parliament and the State Legislature regarding any matter enumerated in Concurrent List (List III). Act 2002 is referable to Entry 45 and 95 of the Union List (List I) and deals with the recovery of debt due to bank and financial institutions, which is the subject of the Union List. Similar issue came for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State Bank of India Vs. Santosh Gupta & Anothers reported in (2017) 2 SCC 538, wherein the dispute arose regarding the Act, 2002 and the transfer of property Act. Paragraph no.37 of the Santosh Gupta's case (supra) is being quoted as under:

"37. Applying the doctrine of pith and substance to Sarfaesi, it is clear that in pith and substance the entire Act is referable to Entry 45 List I read with Entry 95 List I in that it deals with recovery of debts due to banks and financial institutions, inter alia through facilitating securitisation and reconstruction of financial assets of banks and financial institutions, and sets up a machinery in order to enforce the provisions of the Act. In pith and substance, Sarfaesi does not deal with "transfer of property". In fact, insofar as banks and financial institutions are concerned, it deals with recovery of debts owing to such banks and financial institutions and certain measures which can be taken outside of the court process to enforce such recovery. Under Section 13(4) of Sarfaesi, apart from recourse to taking possession of secured assets of the borrower and assigning or selling them in order to realise their debts, the banks can also take over the management of the business of the borrower, and/or appoint any person as manager to manage secured assets, the possession of which has been taken over by the secured creditor. Banks as secured creditors may also require at any time by notice in writing, any person who has acquired any of the secured assets from the borrower and from whom money is due or payable to the borrower, to pay the secured creditor so much of the money as is sufficient to pay the secured debt. It is thus clear that the transfer of property, by way of sale or assignment, is only one of several measures of recovery of a secured debt owing to a bank and this being the case, it is clear that Sarfaesi, as a whole, cannot possibly be said to be in pith and substance, an Act relatable to the subject-matter "transfer of property".

18. The Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in M. Karunanidhi Vs. Union of India reported in (1979) 3 SCC 431 had considered the question of repugnancy and inconsistency between the Central Act and the State Act and held that, before any repugnancy can arise, the conditions which must be satisfied are:

(i) that there is a clear and direct inconsistency between the Central Act and the State Act;

(ii) that such an inconsistency is absolutely irreconcilable;

(iii) that inconsistency between the provision of two Acts is of such a nature so as to bring the two Acts into direct collision with each other and a situation is reached where it is impossible to obey the one without disobeying the other.

19. The relevant paragraph no.24 of M. Karunanidhi's case (supra) is being quoted as under:

"24. It is well settled that the presumption is always in favour of the constitutionality of a statute and the onus lies on the person assailing the Act to prove that it is unconstitutional. Prima facie, there does not appear to us to be any inconsistency between the State Act and the Central Acts. Before any repugnancy can arise, the following conditions must be satisfied:

1. That there is a clear and direct inconsistency between the Central Act and the State Act.

2. That such an inconsistency is absolutely irreconcilable.

3. That the inconsistency between the provisions of the two Acts is of such nature as to bring the two Acts into direct collision with each other and a situation is reached where it is impossible to obey the one without disobeying the other."

20. In the case of R.S. Raghunath Vs. State of Karnataka & Another reported in (1992) 1 SCC 335, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that the Court must ascertain the intention of Legislature by directing its attention not merely to the clauses to be construed, but to the entire statute; it must compare the clause with other parts of the law and the setting in which the clause to be interpreted occurs. The relevant paragraph no.12 of R.S. Raghunath's case (supra) is being quoted as under:

"12. Further, the influence of a non-obstante clause has to be considered on the basis of the context also in which it is used. In State of W.B. v. Union of India [(1964) 1 SCR 371 : AIR 1963 SC 1241] it is observed as under: (SCR p. 435)

"The Court must ascertain the intention of the legislature by directing its attention not merely to the clauses to be construed but to the entire statute; it must compare the clause with the other parts of the law and the setting in which the clause to be interpreted occurs."

It is also well settled that the Court should examine every word of a statute in its context and to use context in its widest sense. In Reserve Bank of India v. Peerless General Finance and Investment Co. Ltd. [(1987) 1 SCC 424] it is observed that: "That interpretation is best which makes the textual interpretation match the contextual." In this case, Chinnappa Reddy, J. noting the importance of the context in which every word is used in the matter of interpretation of statutes held thus: (SCC p. 450, para 33)

"Interpretation must depend on the text and the context. They are the bases of interpretation. One may well say if the text is the texture, context is what gives the colour. Neither can be ignored. Both are important. That interpretation is best which makes the textual interpretation match the contextual. A statute is best interpreted when we know why it was enacted. With this knowledge, the statute must be read, first as a whole and then section by section, clause by clause, phrase by phrase and word by word. If a statute is looked at, in the context of its enactment, with the glasses of the statute-maker, provided by such context, its scheme, the sections, clauses, phrases and words may take colour and appear different than when the statute is looked at without the glasses provided by the context. With these glasses we must look at the Act as a whole and discover what each section, each clause, each phrase and each word is meant and designed to say as to fit into the scheme of the entire Act. No part of a statute and no word of a statute can be construed in isolation. Statutes have to be construed so that every word has a place and everything is in its place."

If we examine the scope of Rule 3(2) particularly along with other General Rules, the context in which Rule 3(2) is made is very clear. It is not enacted to supersede the Special Rules."

21. Similarly, in the case of Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Hindustan Bulk Carriers reported in (2003) 3 SCC 57, the Hon'ble Supreme Court again observed that the statute must be read as a whole and one provision of the Act should be construed with reference to other provisions in the same Act so as to make it consistent enactment of the whole statute. The relevant paragraph no.18 of Hindustan Bulk Carrier's case (supra) is being quoted as under:

"18. The statute must be read as a whole and one provision of the Act should be construed with reference to other provisions in the same Act so as to make a consistent enactment of the whole statute."

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court again in the case of Government of A.P. Vs. J.B. Educational Society reported in (2005) 3 SCC 212 observed that there is no doubt that both Parliament and the State Legislature are supreme in their respective assigned fields. It is the duty of the Court to interpret the Legislation made by Parliament and the State Legislature in such a manner so as to avoid any conflict. However, if the conflict is unavoidable and the two enactments are irreconcilable, then by the force of non-obstante clause in Clause-1 of Article 246 of the Constitution of India, the Parliamentary Legislation would prevail, notwithstanding the exclusive power of the State Legislature to make a law with respect to the matter enumerated in the State List. The relevant paragraph no.10 of Educational Society's case (supra) is being quoted as under:

"10. There is no doubt that both Parliament and the State Legislature are supreme in their respective assigned fields. It is the duty of the court to interpret the legislations made by Parliament and the State Legislature in such a manner as to avoid any conflict. However, if the conflict is unavoidable, and the two enactments are irreconcilable, then by the force of the non obstante clause in clause (1) of Article 246, the parliamentary legislation would prevail notwithstanding the exclusive power of the State Legislature to make a law with respect to a matter enumerated in the State List."

23. From the above legal position, it is clear that the concept of "inconsistency" is found in Article 254 of the Constitution of India. Article 254 of the Constitution of India has a marginal note which speaks about the inconsistencies between the laws made by the Parliament and the laws made by the Legislatures of the State. The Article aforesaid goes on to State that if the law made by the State is repugnant to the law made by the Parliament, then the law made by the Parliament to the extent of repugnancy would prevail. The said Article, being a constitutional provision, deals with the complex subject of the quasi and federal structure we have in India.

24. In the present case, the question is regarding the repugnancy of the Act, 2002 and the Gangster Act. The subject of making criminal law is in Entry-I and its procedure in Entry-II of the Concurrent List of the Constitution of India, wherein the Parliament and State Legislature are competent to legislate in view of Article 246 of the Constitution of India. The UP Gangster Act is criminal law and UP State Legislature is competent under Entry I and II of the Concurrent List to enact UP Gangster Act that provides penalties to gangster and also procedure to attach and confiscate the property of a gangster acquired through illegal means. However, Act 2002 is referable to Entry 45 and 95 of List I. For reference, Entry 45 and 95 of the Union List (List I) and Entry I and II of the Concurrent List (List III) are being quoted as under:

"Union List (List I)

Entry 45*-Banking*

Entry 95*-Jurisdiction and powers of all courts, except the Supreme Court, with respect to any of the matters in this list; admiralty jurisdiction.*

Concurrent List (List III)

Entry I*- Criminal law, including all matters included in the Indian Penal Code at the commencement of this Constitution but excluding offences against laws with respect to any of the matters specified in List I or List II and excluding the use of naval, military or air forces or any other armed forces of the Union in aid of the civil power.*

Entry II*-Criminal procedure, including all matters included in the Code of Criminal Procedure at the commencement of this Constitution."*

25. The object of the Act, 2002 is to ensure that dues of secured creditors including banks, financial institutions are recovered from the defaulting borrowers without any obstruction and without intervention of courts or Tribunals, while the object of the Gangster Act is to provide speedy and transparent procedure to punish the gangster, to establish an efficient recovery system with respect to the property of gangsters and incidental benefits acquired by them through crime. The conjoint reading of the Act, 2002 and Gangster Act shows that there is no overlapping between them.

26. This court is of the view that Article 254 of the Constitution of India will apply only in those cases where there is inconsistency between the law made by the Parliament and law made by the Legislature of State on the subject of List-III (Concurrent List) but there is no inconsistency between the Act, 2002 and the Gangster Act, as object of the Act, 2002 and Gangster Act are different and both the Acts operate in different fields, and both Acts were enacted in different lists. (List I and List III).

27. Now coming back to the controversy involved in present case, the inquiry, as per Section 16 of the Gangster Act, would be, whether the property purchased by the Gangster, as a result of commission of an offence under the Gangster Act and not the issue that who will have first right over that property. Therefore, the petitioners can file an application before the Special Court (Gangster Act) in case crime no.466 of 2022 to claim their right over the property by showing that property was not the result of commission of crime by the accused, Rakesh Sharma, but it was purchased through a bank loan, as the property in question was mortgaged to the bank, therefore, the bank is entitle to take its possession, as provided in Section 17 of the Gangster Act.

28. In view of the above, the petitioners argument has no force. Accordingly present petition is dismissed. However, liberty is granted to the petitioners to file their objection or claim before the Special Court (Gangster Act), Ghaziabad, regarding House No.78 Sector Delta-3, Greater Noida, Gautam Budh Nagar, Uttar Pradesh and the court below will consider the same, in accordance with law, on its own merits.

2. Anand Ramachandra Chougule Vs Sidarai Laxman Chougala & ors.reported in (2019) 8 SCC 50

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma

Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. This appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 3.5.1983 passed by the Sessions Judge, Budaun by which the appellant-Murari was convicted under section 302 I.P.C. and was sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 06.07.1982 when Phool Singh was allegedly murdered, a first information report was lodged on the same day by his brother Sheodan Singh alleging that Murari Lal, accused, son of Shankar who was serving in the Military and who was inimical to the deceased and the first informant and who had on earlier occasions also attempted to pick up fights with them, had killed Phool Singh when the latter was going from his village to Wazeerganj. Sheodan Singh has further stated in the first information report that he had got the first information report lodged when information was given to him by Ram Autar Singh and Dhanpal Singh at around 04:30 PM that Murari Lal with his licensed gun had fired upon the brother of Sheodan Singh namely the deceased Phool Singh and that the dead-body of Phool Singh was lying in the field of Dheemar. Upon hearing this, the first informant Sheodan Singh had gone to the spot and thereafter had gone to get the first information report lodged. Upon the first information report being lodged, investigation commenced and the Investigating Officer had prepared a recovery memo of the bloodstained soil and the plain soil and had marked it as Exhibit Ka-6. Thereafter, the five empty cartridges of 12 bore were also recovered from the spot and the memo was numbered as Exhibit Ka-7. Exhibit Ka-14 was a list of the articles which were recovered when the accused-Murari was being searched for. A Panchayatnama was prepared which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-8 and the other documents were exhibited as Exhibits Ka-9; Ka-10 and Ka-11 and they accompanied the dead-body to the postmortem house. Upon the conclusion of the investigation, the police report was sent and the charges were framed against the accused-Murari under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code and thereafter when he had denied the charges, the trial had commenced and when the trial Court by its judgment and order dated 03.05.1983 had found the accused-Murari guilty for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C., the instant Criminal Appeal was filed.

3. The prosecution from its side had produced as many as six prosecution witnesses.

4. Sheodan Singh, brother of the deceased and the first informant, was produced as PW-1. He had stated in his statement before the Court that because of certain enmity with regard to keeping of pigs, the accused-Murari on 06.07.1982 at 04:00 PM had killed Phool Singh and this information was given to the PW-1 by Dhanpal Singh and Ram Autar Singh. He had proved the first information report. In his cross-examination, he had stated that he had not stated in his statement under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. that at 04:00 PM the deceased had started for Wazeerganj from his village. He had stated that when he had reached the spot, he had found the five empty cartridges lying on the spot and that the place of incident was around one kilometer from the place of his residence. He had thereafter stated that after getting the first information report lodged, he had gone back to the place of incident. The Investigating Officer had come on his jeep. The dead-body thereafter was sealed and taken to the police station and the dead-body was thereafter lying on a dunlop outside the police station during the night. In the morning, the dead-body was taken to Budaun. Upon a question being asked that the report was ante timed, he denied. He had also denied the fact that the names of Ram Autar and Dhanpal were mentioned subsequently as an afterthought and he had specifically stated that Dhanpal and Ram Autar alone had come to give the information to him.

5. PW-2 Ram Autar Singh is the person who, it has been stated, had seen the incident and in his statement-in-chief he had stated that on the fateful day at 04:30 PM, he alongwith Dhanpal was coming from Wazeerganj to their village and Murari, the accused, was going ahead of them and was carrying a gun. At that point of time, Phool Singh was coming from the side of the village and as soon as Phool Singh reached near Murari-the accused, Murari fired from his gun 3-4 times and thereafter the accused, Murari ran away from the Eastern side. Upon a hue and cry being raised by the PW-2 and Dhanpal, a lot many villagers came on the spot. However, Dhanpal and Ram Autar went to the house of Sheodan to inform him about the incident. He has also stated that on that date, Gram Panchayat Elections were going on in Wazeerganj and counting was also going on and they had gone to Wazeerganj in connection with the counting of votes of their village. He has very categorically stated that Dhanpal had refused to come in the witness box. In his cross-examination, he has stated that Murari was not seen before a particular bhatta (brick kiln) and he was visible only after they had crossed that bhatta (brick kiln). When he saw the accused, Murari and the deceased, Phool Singh for the first time, they were just 3-4 steps away from each other and when Murari had attacked Phool Singh, the latter had fallen down and thereafter Murari had fired 3-4 shots and these fire shots were made from a very close distance. He has also stated that Murari had fired standing on the left side. He has stated that the village was around 250 meter from the place of incident and he has stated that when he reached near Phool Singh then he was lying on his left side in the West-East direction. When they had gone to inform Sheodan Singh, he was there in the village and after having given the information, the PW-2 has categorically stated that he came back to the spot. The Police had come on the spot at around 07:00 PM. The Police had not taken the evidence of PW-2 on that date i.e. on 06.07.1982. Sheodan Singh had reached the spot and thereafter the Investigating Officer had also reached the spot. He had, however, left for his house from the place of incident. He, therefore, states that he did not know how the dead-body was removed from the spot. The next day, the Investigating Officer had recorded his evidence. He has stated that on the date of incident at around 09:00 to 10:00 AM, he had reached the spot where the counting of the ballot paper was going on and that after the counting of their village which had started at around 11:00 AM, he had returned and upon a question being asked as to whether the news of the incident had reached the place when the counting was going on, he had denied the same. He has very categorically stated that when he reached the spot he had found the five empty cartridges lying on the spot.

6. PW-3 is the doctor who had conducted the postmortem and has proved the postmortem report. He has spoken about the ante mortem injuries as were there on the dead-body.

7. PW-4 Head Constable Ramanand was the chick writer. He had stated that after the case was registered, the investigation was handed over to the Sub-Inspector Virendra Singh. In his cross-examination he has stated that on 06.07.1982 the dead-body was not lying on the police station and that D.C. Sharma, who allegedly as per the PW-5 was the Investigating Officer, was not present at the time when the panchayatnama was being prepared. He had come on the spot on 07.07.1982 at around 11:00 AM. He has also stated that the special report was sent at 12.05 hours on the same day when the first information report was lodged.

8. PW-5 is the Investigating Officer Virendra Singh. He has stated that when he had reached the spot, he had taken the statements of Sheodan Singh and had also prepared the site map on reaching the spot. He has stated that he had taken from the place of incident the bloodstained soil and the plain soil. He had also taken and kept in his custody the five empty cartridges of 12 bore from the spot in question. He has stated that Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma had prepared the Panchayatnama on his instructions and in the presence of the Investigating Officer, the Panchayatnama which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-8, the photo of the dead-body and the Challan with regard to the dead-body was prepared and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-9. The letter of Chief Medical Officer was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-11 and the document by which the dead-body was to be taken for post mortem was exhibited as Ka-12. The seal was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-13 and he had very categorically stated that all the exhibits Ka-8 to Ka-13 were signed by the Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma in his presence. After having given the instructions for the preparation of the Panchayatnama, he had gone out for search of the accused. In his cross-examination, PW-5 has stated that where the dead-body was lying, there was also blood present. He has stated that in the site plan, he had given out as to where the dead-body was lying. However, he has not stated as to where the blood was found in the site plan. He has very categorically stated that the site plan was prepared at the pointing of PW-1. He has also stated that he had not shown the place where the firing had taken place. He has thereafter stated that in the night of 06.07.1982 he had not recorded the statements of PW-2, Ram Autar and in fact he has very categorically stated that when he had reached the spot, Ram Autar was not present there.

9. PW-6 is the Sub-Inspector Roshan Lal who has stated that he had arrested the accused and he has also very categorically stated that apart from arresting the accused, he had not done any investigation. He has also stated that the firearm which was used in the incident was never sent for expert opinion. No report was called for and also no application was given before the Court for the examination of the firearm.

10. Heard Sri Daya Shankar Mishra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Chandrakesh Mishra and Sri Abhishek Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the appellant; Sri Arvind Kumar, learned AGA and Sri Chandra Bhan Kushwaha, learned counsel appearing for the first informant.

11. Sri Daya Shankar Mishra, learned Senior Counsel has submitted that the entire evidence if is taken in its totality, it would go to prove that a false case had been lodged against the accused and without looking to the evidence, the order of conviction had been passed. In effect, learned counsel for the appellant has made the following arguments :-

(i) Learned counsel for the appellant has stated that the PW-2, the alleged eye-witness, in fact was never there on the spot. He has submitted that if the statement of PW-2 is seen, then it becomes clear that he was accompanied by one Dhanpal but Dhanpal never appeared in the witness box. He has further submitted that PW-2 since had never arrived, his assistance was not taken while the site plan was being prepared. In the site plan neither the place from where the firing had taken place nor the place from where the blood-stained soil had been taken into custody was shown. Also, he has stated that nowhere had it been shown in the site plan where exactly the empty cartridges were recovered from. Learned counsel for the appellant states that the PW-2 had stated that he was there on the spot but his statement was never recorded. Further, learned counsel has invited the attention of the Court to the statement of PW-5 who has stated that in fact the PW-2 was never there on the spot. Further, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the PW-2 had stated that the deceased and the accused were face to face when the incident had occurred and, therefore, he has submitted that the Injury No.1 as was described in the post-mortem report i.e. the entry wound of the gun-shot which was from behind the right arm, was never explained. Learned counsel for the appellant states that when the PW-2 had not seen the incident, he could not also graphically tell as to how the incident had occurred and, therefore, he could not explain the injury no.1 as was given in the post-mortem report which was that the entry wounds were from behind the right arm. Learned counsel submits that when the accused and the deceased were face to face and when the direct firing was done, then under no circumstances could the firearm injuries as have been shown as Injury No.1 could have occurred. Learned counsel for the appellant further states that probably the incident had occurred somewhere else and the injuries had taken place in some other manner but the dead body was brought to the place of incident and thereafter the story had been weaved around it. He states that if the deceased and the accused were 3-4 steps away then all the injuries would have had blackening and tattooing and in the instant case, he states that only Injury No.3 had blackening and tattooing and, therefore, the entire evidence of PW-2 becomes falsified. Learned Senior Counsel for the appellant further states that the presence of PW-2 is further falsified inasmuch as he has stated that the dead-body was lying on its side and that it was lying in the east-west direction whereas, it has been pointed out, that the PW-5 had stated that in fact the dead-body was lying on its back.

(ii) Learned Senior Counsel for the appellant further stated that when now the presence of PW-2 had been dislodged, he has submitted that even the motive was not so strong as to make the accused commit an offence as heinous as murder. He submits that motive is a double edged weapon and that there was a possibility that because there was some kind of enmity, the accused had also been implicated in the case.

(iii) Learned counsel for the appellant further laid stress upon the tardy investigation and has submitted that neither the Investigating Officer nor the prosecution and also even the Court did not make any attempt to connect the empty cartridges with the gun by which, it was alleged, the fire-shots were made. The gun was lying in the malkhana of the military as the appellant-accused was a military personnel and no effort was made to get the gun examined so that the empty cartridges would be matched with the gun. Learned counsel has invited the attention of the Court to the evidence as was led by PW-5 and PW-6 wherein it was stated that no effort was made to produce the gun before the Court or before any expert.

(iv) Learned counsel for the appellant has further stated that even the empty cartridges were not examined in any forensic laboratory.

(v) Learned counsel for the appellant has further invited the attention of the Court to the statement of the PW-5 wherein he had stated that Exhibits Ka-8 to Ka-13 i.e. the panchayatnama and all the other documents which were required to accompany the panchayatnama when the body of the deceased was to proceed for the post-mortem were got prepared by one Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma. However, he has invited the Court's attention to the Exhibit Ka-8 wherein he has shown that even though in the body of the panchayatnama it was mentioned that the Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma was present at the time of the preparation of the panchayatnama but the signature of the Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma was not present on the Exhibit Ka-8. Learned counsel has submitted that it was signed by PW-6 Roshan Lal who is a witness named in the charge-sheet. Learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, has stated that the entire case of the prosecution was a sham case. While the PW-2 definitely was not present, he has stated that the other investigation was also done in a manner which did not inspire any confidence. He has submitted that when the blank spaces were being filled up, the Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma had put in his signature on Exhibit Ka-8. Learned counsel has, after having invited the attention of the Court to the fact that D.C. Sharma was not present on the spot, drew the attention of the Court to the statement of PW-4 at page 20 of the paper-book wherein PW-4, who was the chik writer, had stated that in fact D.C. Sharma came back to the police station only on 7.7.1982 at 11.00 AM. He, therefore, submitted that the Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma was in fact never present at the spot and was elsewhere while the inquest was being carried out.

(vi) Learned counsel for the appellant has also invited the attention of the Court to the contradictions in the statements of prosecution witnesses wherein the PW-1 had stated that the dead body was taken to the police station from the place of occurrence but the PW-4 at page 20 of the paper-book had stated that on 6.7.1982 the dead body of the deceased was not there at the police station.

(vii) Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the incident is of the year 1982 and the appeal was filed in the year 1983. More than 41 years have elapsed and if the Court confirms the judgment of the trial Court then it may consider the imposition of the penalty, leniently.

(viii) Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that the PW-2 was the sole eye-witness and his evidence when was not corroborated by any other evidence and in fact was a shaky evidence then it was absolutely necessary that the Court should proceed with caution. In this regard, he has relied upon a judgment of the Supreme Court in Jagdish & Anr. vs. State of Haryana reported in (2019) 7 SCC 711. Since, learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon praragraph 8 of the judgment, the same is being reproduced here as under :-

"8. The question that arises to our mind is that in the mob assault by 13 persons who had surrounded the deceased at night, PW-1 was the sole eye-witness. Even if a light was burning some of them undoubtedly must have had their back to PW-1 making identification improbable if not impossible. The witness has been severely doubted both by the trail court and the High Court to grant acquittal to the other accused. Can the evidence of a solitary doubtful eye witness be sufficient for conviction? We may have a word of caution here. Conviction on basis of a solitary eye witness is undoubtedly sustainable if there is reliable evidence cogent and convincing in nature along with surrounding circumstances. The evidence of a solitary witness will therefore call for heightened scrutiny. But in the nature of materials available against the appellants on the sole testimony of PW-1 which is common to all the accused in so far as assault is concerned, we do not consider it safe to accept her statement as a gospel truth in the facts and circumstances of the present case. If PW-1 could have gone to the police station alone with her sister-in-law at an unearthly hour, there had to be an explanation why it was delayed by six hours. Given the harsh realities of our times we find it virtually impossible that two women folk went to a police station at that hour of the night unaccompanied by any male. These become crucial in the background of the pre-existing enmity between the parties leading to earlier police cases between them also. The possibility of false implication therefore cannot be ruled out completely in the facts of the case."

Learned counsel for the appellant has also relied upon a judgment of the Supreme Court in Anand Ramachandra Chougule vs. Sidarai Laxman Chougala & Ors. reported in (2019) 8 SCC 50, wherein it has been held that even if a certain case had not been taken up by the accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. then also the prosecution had to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts. Learned counsel, therefore, submits that even if the appellant in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. had at one place stated that there was no enmity between the parties and at other place he had stated that he was implicated because of enmity then also the prosecution in fact had to prove its case on its own strength.

12. Sri Chandra Bhan Kushwaha, learned counsel for the first informant and learned AGA Sri Arvind Kumar have on the other hand tried to support the judgment and order dated 3.5.1983 which was assailed in the instant appeal. Learned counsel for the first informant has tried to explain the injuries on the back side of the right arm and he has drawn the attention of the Court to the site plan and has stated that in fact the deceased as also the PW-2 were coming from side of Wazeerganj and that in fact the accused had followed the deceased. Learned AGA as also learned counsel for the first informant has further submitted that the PW-2 had given the eye-witness account and this eye-witness account could not have been lightly done away with and disbelieved.

13. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, we are definitely of the view that the investigation was done in the most shoddy manner possible. The PW-2 who allegedly was an eye-witness had, in his statement, stated that he was accompanied by one Dhanpal but Dhanpal was never produced in the witness box. Also, the Court finds that the PW-2 when was an eye-witness then his assistance ought to have been taken while preparing the site plan and that when that was not done, a doubt arises in the mind of the Court that PW-2 in fact had not seen the incident. Even the site plan which was prepared did not show as to where exactly from, the empty cartridges were recovered. Another aspect of the matter troubles the Court is that when PW-2 was throughout present on that very date then why his statement was not recorded by the police on that very day but was recorded on the next day. In fact, PW-5-the Investigating Officer Virendra Singh in his statement had stated that the PW-2 was never there on the spot. Also, we find that when the PW-2 describes the incident, he had stated that the deceased and the accused were face to face but upon looking at injury no.1, it cannot be said that the accused had fired the deceased while they were face to face. The gun shot injury was from behind the right arm. Also, when the PW-2 was stating that the firing was done from 3-4 steps distance then definitely all the injuries ought to have had blackening and tattooing. In the instant case, only Injury No.3 had blackening and tattooing. We are, thus, definitely of the view that the PW-2 was a planted witness and in fact was never there on the spot.

14. Also, we find that the motive as was alleged by the PW-1 was being misused for the purposes of implicating the accused as the motive which the PW-1 gives was a weak one and on the basis of that the conviction could not take place. The Court also finds that no effort was made to get the gun matched with the empty cartridges. The gun of the accused was lying in the military malkhana but no effort was made to get it and the empty cartridges forensically examined.

15. We also find that a very doubtful case had been taken by the prosecution by mentioning in the panchayatnama that the Sub-Inspector D.C. Sharma was throughout there in the preparation of the panchayatnama. The Court went through the original of the panachayatnama and found that D.C. Sharma had never signed on the panchayatnama. In fact the panchayatnama was always signed by Roshal Lal. D.C. Sharma only had signed on certain blank spaces which definitely shows that he had signed the panchayatnama subsequently. The absence of D.C. Sharma on the date of preparation of the inquest further gets established upon the perusal of the statement of PW-4 - the chik writer who had stated that D.C. Sharma in fact had come to the police station only on the next day i.e. on 7.7.1982 at 11.00 AM.

16. The contradiction in the statements of the prosecutions witnesses were also very glaring. The PW-1 had stated that the dead body was taken to the police station from the place of occurrence but the PW-4 had stated that the dead body was not there at the police station ever. What is more, the Court is of the view that when PW-2 was the sole eye-witness and his statements had not been corroborated by the other witnesses present then the evidence of the sole eye-witness had to be examined properly and with caution. The argument of the learned counsel for the first informant that the site plan showed that the deceased was being followed by the accused and that the PW-2 was following them was evident from the site plan that the argument was fallacious. If the statement of PW-2 is looked into, it becomes evident that the deceased was coming from the side of the village and the accused was coming from outside the village and that they were face to face when the incident had occurred and, therefore, there is no substance in the argument made by learned counsel for the first informant. Also, we find that when the statement of PW-2 became unbelievable, it cannot be said that the Court had to rely compulsorily on the evidence of the PW-2.

17. Under such circumstances, the appeal stands allowed. The judgment and order dated 3.5.1983 is quashed and set-aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charges under section 302 IPC. Since the appellant is on bail, he need not surrender. His bail bonds and sureties are, therefore, discharge. The appellant is, however, directed to comply with the provisions of section 437(1) Cr.P.C. within a period of ten days from the date when the judgment is uploaded on the website of the High Court.

1. Instant Criminal Appeal has been preferred under Section 374 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 26.05.1982 passed by Special Judge, Additional Session Judge, "Dakaiti Prabhawit Chhetra Banda, in Sessions Trial No.318 of 1981, convicting the appellants under Sections 148, 307 read with 149 and under Section 302 read with section 149 I.P.C., whereby the accused appellants were convicted. For the charge under Section Section 148 IPC, they were sentenced to three years rigorous imprisonment. For the charge under Section 307/149 IPC they were sentenced to 7 years rigorous imprisonment and for the charge under Section 302/149 the appellants were sentenced to life imprisonment. In the impugned order dated 26.05.1982 all the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Amit Sinha learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and perused the material available on record.

3. Upon an incident having taken place on 30.05.1981, a First Information Report was lodged by the Sub Inspector Balbir Singh stating that on an application given by one Ram Bali, the Sub Inspector Balbir Singh alongwith Dharam Singh had visited the village. These two Sub Inspectors were accompanied by Om Prakash Singh and Ram Narayan constables. When they started from their police station they passed through a village called Bhabhuwa where the police party was joined by constables Jagdev Singh, Indu Khan and Jeevan Lal, and thereafter they reached the village Imiliha Purwa at around 10:30 am. The Sub Inspector Balbir Singh in an effort to investigate into the complaint made by Rambali questioned the villagers, and it so transpired that two of the persons who were named in the complaint namely Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh were hiding in a house of one Bihari Chamar. It also came to his knowledge that the two persons against whom the complaint was made by Rambli were carrying fire arms. When the police personnel reached the house of Bihari Chamar, the two accused persons namely Amar Singh and Ramesh Singh went out of the house and also hurled abuses on the police party and said that the members of the police party would be done away with. The police party as has been stated in the FIR hid behind a wall and started facing the bullets as were being fired by Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh and thereafter to protect themselves in their defence they also started firing. The Sub Inspector Dharam Singh very valiantly went into the enclosure where Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh were hiding and as he crossed the house where they were hiding, they were assailed by constant firing and S.I. Dharam Singh in the process got injured. It has been stated in the FIR that the bullet which was fired by Amar Singh, had actually hit the Sub Inspector Dharam Singh. The police party thereafter intensified its firing and entered the house and took out Dharam Singh from the house which he had entered, and Om Prakash Singh constable was instructed to arrange for a vehicle to take him to a hospital and thereafter the five accused namely Amar Singh, Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh and Vijay Singh who were residents of the village Rudauli, Police Bhaberi ran away alongwith Bhairo Singh who was a resident of village Turra, Police Station Bhadausa. However, Balwant Singh the sixth accused, while running away, got injured by the firing of the police and he hid himself in the house of Bihari. In an effort to oust him from the house, the Sub Inspector Balbir Singh put the house on fire, and thereafter Balwant came out of the house and was injured to such an extent that he also died.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the FIR was thereafter lodged by Sub Inspector Balbir Singh on 31.05.1981 and that was made an exhibit in the case. The police while investigating, prepared certain recovery memos with regard to the bullets etc. which were found on the spot and that recovery memo was exhibited as Ext. Ka-3. The revolver of Dharam Singh which had got damaged was also recovered and the recovery memo was exhibited as Ext. Ka-4. The plain soil and the soil with blood was also taken by the police and a recovery memo was also got prepared, which was exhibited as Ext. Ka-5. Ext. Ka-6 was with regard to the guns and bullets of the accused which were recovered from the spot. Since the house of Bihari was burnt, the ash was also kept as evidence and the recovery memo which was prepared was exhibited as Ext. Ka-7. The dead body of the deceased Dharam Singh and Balwant were sent for postmortem and their report were also prepared.

5. Upon the completion of the investigation on 05.12.1981 charges were framed against Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh, Vijay Singh and Bhairo Singh under Sections 148, 307/149, and Section 302/149 IPC. The first informant Balbir Singh Rathore was produced as prosecution witness No.1 and similarly Om Prakash the other companion constable who was also an eyewitness was produced as PW2. Ram Bali on whose complaint the police party had gone to the house of the Bihari where allegedly Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh hid, was produced as PW3. Dr. Vikas Chandra who had done the postmortem on the dead body of the Dharam Singh was produced as PW-4. Another eyewitness Bhagwandeen from the public was produced as a prosecution witness 5. Dr. R.N. Mathur was the doctor who had done the postmortem on the dead body of Balwant as he was produced as PW6. Sri S.L. Pandey, who was the Sub Divisional Magistrate in whose presence the panchayatnama was prepared, was produced as prosecution witness 7. R.S. Singh was the Sub Inspector who had got the dead body of Dharampal for postmortem and he was produced as PW-8. Jawahar Lal the second Investigating Officer was produced as PW9. Since charges were framed against Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh, Vijay Singh and Bhairo Singh, on 05.12.1981 their trial was proceeded as Sessions Trial No.314 of 1981. However the trial of the accused Amar Singh was conducted in Sessions Trial No.354 of 1982. He was charged by the order dated 18.01.1983. The four accused Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh, Vijay Singh and Bhairo Singh upon their conviction on 26.05.1982 filed an Appeal No.1403 of 1982. The appellant Amar Singh was convicted by the judgment and order dated 09th of July 1984 and he filed Appeal No. 2022 of 1984 in this Court.

6. The appeal No. 2022 of 1984 abated on 12.01.2024, as the appellant Amar Singh had died. In Criminal Appeal No.1403 of 1982, since the appellant Nos. 1,2 and 3 namely Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh and Vijay Singh had died, the appeals had abated on two different dates namely 05.10.2007 and 12.01.2024. The appeal vis-a-vis Bhairo Singh alone was argued by Sri Naresh Chandra Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellant.

7. While arguing the appeal of Bhairo Singh being Criminal Appeal No.1403 of 1982, learned counsel for the appellant took the court through the statements of the prosecution witnesses. When the learned counsel for the appellant took us through the statement in chief of the PW1 namely Balbir Singh, the court found that PW1 had elaborately described the incident and had also stated in his statement in chief the reasons as to why he had implicated the six accused persons. Through the statement in chief of PW1 the court was made aware again as to how on the application of Rambali, the police party comprising Balvir Singh, Dharam Singh, Om Prakash and Ram Narayan had started from the police station and while crossing village Bhabhuwa had also taken with them the constables Jagdev Singh, Indu Khan and Jeevan Lal. The incident ultimately occurred at the village Imiliha Purwa at 10:30 am. In the examination in chief PW1 has vividly described as to how the police party was given the information by an informer that the accused persons were hiding in the house of Bihari and that the accused were thereafter surrounded and in the exchange of firing the Sub Inspector Dharam Singh had died. In the cross-examination the PW1 has narrated as to how he had known the two accused persons chiefly Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh. He had stated that they were members of a notorious gang and that their registration number was D-72, and they were also involved in other similar cases. The PW1 had specifically stated that after he was posted in the relevant police station he had also visited the village around 14-15 days before the incident had occurred. With regard to the cross-examination done vis-a-vis Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh, Vijay Singh the PW1 was consistent with what he had stated in the statement in chief and he stood firm by all the statements made therein. However when the cross examination vis-a-vis Bhairo Singh was being done the PW1 had only stated that despite the fact that Bhairo Singh was of a different village namely village Turra of police station Bhadausa he had started living in the village were Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh were living and that he was a constant visitor there, and therefore he had correctly recognized him.

8. Since the learned counsel for the appellant had taken us to the statements of Om Prakash PW2, Rambali PW3 and Bhagwan Deen PW5, the court went through them and commonly found that they had also stated somewhat similar facts as were stated by PW1. However, from the statements of the eye-witnesses which were read out it is no-where clear that how exactly Bhairo Singh who was an outsider was recognized by the police party from before i.e. before the first information report was lodged.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant Sri N.C. Tripathi, has chiefly argued as follows:-

(i) Learned counsel for the appellant has stated that if the FIR was perused, then it becomes clear that the Sub Inspector Balbir Singh was as per the averments made in the FIR meeting the six accused persons namely Amar Singh, Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh, Vijay Singh and Bhairo Singh for the first time. However while getting the FIR lodged he had not only mentioned the names of all the accused persons, but had also mentioned the names of their fathers. He also knew as to how Amar Singh and Karan Singh were real brothers and that they were the sons of Shripal. He also knew that Shamsher Singh and Vijay Singh were also real brothers and they were the sons of Shiv Mangal Singh. Learned counsel for the appellants also argued that it was difinitely not possible on the date when the FIR was being lodged to know the names of the appellants and also the names of their fathers, specially when Bhairo Singh was a resident of village Turra Police Station Bhadausa and was only occasionally visiting Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh, whose details were also vividly known to the police. Learned counsel for the appellants therefore states that a doubt would therefore arise, as to how the police party on the very first day knew the names of all the accused persons and also how they were related to each other and as to what was their parentage.

(ii) Learned counsel for the appellants thereafter has submitted that even if it was taken for granted that Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh were members of notorious gangs and that they were also having a registration number being D-72, it was not possible for the police party to have known the name of Bhairo Singh or to have recognized Bhairo Singh on the spot, specially when Bhairo Singh was not assigned any role.

(iii) Leaned counsel for the appellant further states that if the statement of eyewitness Bhagwan Deen is perused, it definitely becomes clear that he was an interested witness. Also the account of Om Prakash was only a reproduction of what the PW1 had stated.

(iv) Learned counsel for the appellant states that if the entire record is seen and also if the statements in chief and also the cross-examinations are seen, then one thing definitely comes out in the open and that is that the application of the Rambali was nowhere to be seen. The application of Rambali was the basis on which the police party had gone and that application was never produced in the court. Learned counsel for the appellant states that to cover this up PW1 and the PW2 had stated that the application was with Dharam Singh the Sub Inspector who had died. However learned counsel states that neither from his clothes nor from his belongings the application was ever recovered. Learned counsel for the appellant therefore states that the entire incident becomes a doubtful one and simply because the police party was knowing the names of the accused they were made accused in the case.

(v) Learned counsel for the appellant further states that for a moment it could have been said that Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh who were members of a notorious gang could have been recognized by the police, but definitely vis-a-vis Bhairo Singh an identification parade ought to have been undergone. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellant relied upon the judgment of the Supreme Court reported in (2022) 9 SCC 402 : Amrik Singh vs. State of Punjab and submitted that it would be unsafe to convict an accused solely on the basis of his identification for the first time in the Court. Learned counsel for the appellant further to bolster his case with regard to the fact that the identification of the accused for the first time in Court was a weak piece of evidence, relied upon (1979) 3 SCC 319 : Kanan and others vs. State of Kerala and submitted that identification of the accused by a particular witness in Court raises a serious doubt and his testimony must be excluded. Still further he relied upon (1971) 2 SCC 715 : Rameshwar Singh vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir and submitted that if the accused was not previously known to the witness then an identification parade ought to have preceded the dock identification. Learned counsel for the appellant stated that though as per the decision of the Supreme Court in (2003) 5 SCC 746 : Malkhan Singh and Ors. vs. State of Madhya Pradesh evidence in Court was a substantive evidence but he submits, relying on the very same case law that if the recognition in the Court by the witness of the accused was not preceded by a test identification then the evidence would be categorized as a weak evidence. No or little weight should be attached to the evidence of identification in Court, which is not preceded by a test identification.

Learned counsel for the appellant therefore states that when the identification of Bhairo Singh itself becomes doubtful, then the appellant Bhairo Singh definitely could not have been implicated.

(vi) Learned counsel for the appellant states that the police, specially the PW1 had throughout stated that he used to occasionally visit the village of the accused persons and that he used to also see Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh and also he used to see that Bhairo Singh was visiting Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh, but learned counsel for the appellant states that no-where in the GD entry of the police station it was entered that PW1 was in fact visiting the village and that for what purpose he was visiting the village. Also nowhere was it stated as to what did he actually find out there.

(vii) Learned counsel for the appellant further states that if the panchayatnama of the Sub Inspector Dharam Singh is seen, then it becomes clear that the FIR was an ante dated FIR and he submits that when the panchayatnama was conducted at 01:35 pm, and the FIR itself was lodged on very same day at 03:00 pm, how the panchayatnama contained a Case Crime Number. Learned counsel for the appellant therefore states that everything further became doubtful.

(viii) Learned counsel for the appellant also submits that the entire investigation was a defective one, as neither the ballistic expert report was called for nor the specimen of soil was at all sent to any forensic laboratory.

10. Learned counsel for the State Sri Amit Sinha assisted by Ms. Mayuri Mehrotra however has supported the judgment of the trial court dated 26.05.1982. He has submitted that the police was always knowing the criminals of the village, and therefore they always knew the names of the villagers. He has also stated that the incident could not be denied as Dharam Singh the Sub Inspector had died and also Balwant had died as had been stated in the FIR. He states that Balwant was the last person fleeing from the spot and he had therefore faced the bullets and therefore had died on the spot.

11. Learned counsel for the State further states that there was absolutely no reason for falsely implicating the accused persons. He further states that Bhairo Singh was on bail and he had been implicated in various criminal cases, the details of which were given and are reproduced here as under:-

1. Case Crime No.200 of 1994 under Sections 323/504/506 IPC and Section 3(1)10 of SC/SC Act.

2. Case Crime No.380 of 1994 under Section 376/506 of IPC and Section 3(1)12 of SC/ST Act.

3. Case Crime No.426 of 1994, under Sections 302 IPC and Section 3(1)12 of SC/ST Act.

4. Case Crime No.334 of 1999, under Sections 323/324 IPC.

5. Case Crime No.40 of 2000, under Sections 110 Cr.P.C.

12. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, the Court finds that the appeal being Criminal Appeal No.1404 of 1982 vis-a-vis Karan Singh, Shamsher Singh, Vijay Singh has abated. The appeal was argued only vis-a-vis the appellant No.4 Bhairo Singh.

13. From the entire perusal of the record and the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, this Court is of the view that PW1, even if he was in the know of the names of Amar Singh and Shamsher Singh, it was definitely not possible for the PW1 to have known that Amar Singh and Karan Singh were the sons of Shripal and that Shamsher Singh and Vijay Singh were the sons of Shiv Mangal Singh. Also the Court is of the view that when Bhairo Singh was a resident of another village namely Turra and was of a different police station being Police Station Bhadausa, then how the PW1 came to know the name of Bhairo Singh and how he came to know that he was now living in village Bhudhauli under police station Baberi. The Court is definitely of the view that the incident did take place, as Dharam Singh the Sub Inspector had died from the side of the police and that Balawant while running away in the last had got injured by the firing of the police and had also died. However, the Court definitely finds it doubtful that how Bhairo Singh was recognized in the absence of any identification parade and also when there was definitely no evidence on the record to have shown that Bhairo Singh was ever known to PW1 or to the other prosecution witnesses. So far as the criminal history was concerned it had no bearing on the decision of the instant appeal.

14. Under such circumstances, we are of the view that the implication of Bhairo Singh becomes doubtful, and therefore we are of the view that appellant Bhairo Singh be acquitted of the charges levelled against him. The appeal vis-a-vis appellant No.4 Bhairo Singh, therefore is allowed.

15. The impugned judgment and order dated 26.05.1982 passed by Special Judge, Additional Session Judge, "Dakaiti Prabhawit Chhetra Banda, in Sessions Trial No.318 of 1981, under Sections 148, 307 read with 149 and 302 read with 149 I.P.C. is set-aside, vis-a-vis the surviving appellant No.4 Bhairo Singh. He is acquitted from aforesaid charges. He need not surrender. The bail bonds are cancelled and the sureties are hereby discharged. The appeal vis-a-vis the appellant No.4 Bhairo Singh stands allowed.

16. Lower court record be sent back to court concerned for necessary compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Nalin Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Present criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellants against the judgement and order dated 1.9.1992 passed by the IInd Additional Sessions Judge, Fatehpur in Sessions Trial No.82 of 1989 (State vs. Surajdin and others), convicting and sentencing the appellants for the offence punishable under Section 365 IPC to undergo one year's rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 200/- with stipulation of default clause.

2. Brief facts of the case, as culled out from the record, are that five named accused persons Surajdin, Sri Narain, Lallu @ Ram Prasad, Ram Kishore and Shiv Shanker, who happens to be son-in-laws and close relatives of the informant, having grudge with the informant Smt. Laxmaniya on account of some land dispute came to her house on 2.12.1988 at about 6.00 a.m. when she alongwith her husband Ghasitey was warming before fire at the door of her house and made assault upon Ghasitey and abducted him in order to kill him. F.I.R. was lodged by Smt. Laxmaniya, wife of Ghasitey on 4.12.1988 at 9.15. a.m.

3. Investigation of the case proceeded. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the witnesses, inspected the spot and prepared site plan. Further, he arrested the accused Lallu and Surajdin and on pointing-out of Surajdin recovered Ghasitey from his (Surajdin) house in presence of Raghubir and Laxmi Narain and prepared recovery memo Ext. ka-5. He also recorded the statements of the recovery witnesses and thereafter handed over Ghasitey to the complainant by preparing the memo of supurdginama Ext. ka-7. After completing the investigation, charge-sheet Ext. ka-6 against the accused appellants was submitted. Concerned Magistrate took the cognizance and the case, being exclusively triable by Sessions Court, was committed to the Court of Sessions.

4. Accused persons appeared before the trial court and charge under Section 364 IPC was framed against them. Appellants denied the charge and claimed their trial.

5. Trial proceeded and to bring home the charge against the accused / appellants, prosecution has examined in all six witnesses, who are as follows:

1	Smt. Laxamaniya	PW-1(informant)
2	Ghasitey	PW-2(abductee)
3	Sheo Prasad	PW-3

4	SheoNarain	PW-4
5	LaxmiNarain	PW-5
6	S.I. Sitaram Shukla	PW-6

6. In support of oral version, following documents were filed and proved on behalf of the prosecution:

1	Written report	Ext. A-1
2	Chik F.I.R.	Ext. A-2
3	Carbon copy of G.D.	Ext. A-3
4	Site Plan	Ext. A-4
5	Recovery Memo	Ext. A-5
6	Charge sheet	Ext. A-6
7	Supurdginama	Ext. A-7

7. After conclusion of evidence, statements of accused appellants were recorded under Section 313 CrPC, wherein they pleaded their false implication and claimed the prosecution evidence to be false and concocted. Accused Surajdin denied that he had lodged any case before the Consolidation Officer in the name of Ghasitey raising objections in mutation proceedings. Further, since accused Lallu @ Ram Prasad committed default in appearance and his attendance could not be procured, his case was separated vide order dated 20.6.1992.

8. PW-1 – Smt. Laxmaniya, is the informant of the occurrence. She has supported the contents of the written report and also the entire prosecution case including the abduction of her husband.

9. PW-2 - Ghasitey is the abductee. He has stated the name of accused persons and the manner in which he was kidnapped by the miscreants.

10. PW-3 and PW-4 – Sheo Prasad and Sheo Narain, who, according to the prosecution version, are the witness of incident of abduction of Ghasitey by the accused persons but they did not support the prosecution version and therefore they were declared hostile by the prosecution.

11. PW-5 – Laxmi Narain is the recovery witness of the abductee but he denied that Ghasitey was recovered from the house of Surajdin on his pointing out. He was also declared hostile by the prosecution.

12. PW-6 Sub-Inspector Sita Ram Shukla, is the Investigating Officer of the case, who has proved the proceedings of investigation in his testimony and has proved the site plan Ext. ka-4, recovery memo Ext. ka-5, charge sheet Ext. ka 6 and supurdginama Ext. ka-7.

13. On the basis of aforesaid oral and documentary evidence, learned trial court recorded the conviction of the accused and sentenced them, as mentioned herein-above.

14. Heard Shri Arvind Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellants and the learned AGA for the State.

15. The impugned judgment and order has been assailed on various grounds by the learned counsel for the appellants.

16. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the appellants that the trial court has recorded the conviction of the appellants only on the basis of unreliable and sketchy evidence adduced by the prosecution. It is further submitted that there is no eye witness of the alleged occurrence of abduction and the ocular evidence of the independent witnesses does not support the prosecution version. The only witness of the alleged incident of abduction is Smt. Laxmaniya, who is the wife of Ghasitey. She alongwith her husband Ghasitey kept grudge with the accused persons and they managed a false implication of the accused persons only for the sake of some property dispute. There was no cogent evidence on record that the accused Surajdin ever impersonated himself for Ghasitey and moved any application before the Tehsil Court on his behalf. It is also submitted that the present appellants were having no motive to commit the crime. F.I.R. in the matter was lodged belatedly without any plausible explanation thereof. The prosecution has miserably failed to prove the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt. The ingredients of offence under Section 364 IPC are completely missing from the scrutiny of prosecution evidence and that is why the trial court could not convict the appellants under Section 364 IPC and subsequently they were punished under Section 365 IPC and the evidence on record was never sufficient to hold the appellants guilty for any offence whatsoever. The trial court misread the facts and evidence on record and passed an illegal order warranting interference by this Court.

17. On the other hand, learned AGA vehemently opposed the defence version. It has been submitted that the incident of abduction is based upon the cogent and reliable eye witness account. PW-1 and PW-2 had absolutely no motive for the false implication of their own son-in-laws in a serious case of abduction. It is also submitted that the prosecution story is well proved beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of oral and documentary evidence and the appeal deserves to be dismissed.

18. I have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the entire record carefully.

19. Undoubtedly, in this matter the prosecution case rests upon ocular evidence. PW-1 Smt. Laxmaniya, the wife of the abductee, is the eye witness of the incident of abduction. She has proved the prosecution case as mentioned in the F.I.R. and in her examination-in-chief she had named all the five accused persons participating in the commission of the crime and the manner in which the victim was lifted and carried by them has also been explained by her. Admittedly, three of the accused persons facing trial Surajdin, Ram Kishore and Sri Narain are the son-in-laws of the informant Smt. Laxmaniya and the victim Ghasitey. She has further stated that her husband Ghasitey prior to the incident under reference had transferred his land in the name of Bhola and Sheo Nandan, the other son-in-laws of the informant. All the accused persons have been identified by her in the course of recording of her evidence before the trial court. The reason for animosity and grudge has also been explained by her and she states that after transfer of land in the name of Bhola and Sheo Nandan the other son-in-laws got angry and a forged case was also filed by accused persons Dayaram, Surajdin and Sri Narain in the name of her husband, which was confronted by Ghasitey, husband of the informant after appearing before the Court concerned. This witness has also proved the written report

Ext. ka-1. Delay in lodging the F.I.R. has also been explained by her that when her report was not lodged at police station Jahanabad, she came to Bindki and an application was got typed there and again it was given at police station Jahanabad. In her cross-examination no inconsistent statement has been given by her. Since three accused persons were her own son-in-laws, she could very well identify them. Moreover, the incident happened in the morning and the abductee and PW-1 were very well in a position to identify the accused persons.

20. PW-2 Ghasitey is the star witness from the prosecution side. He is the abductee and corroborating the testimony of PW-1 Smt. Laxmaniya, he has also explained the reason of animosity between both the sides. In his examination-in-chief he has also explained that Surajdin and Shiv Shanker having rifle came to his house alongwith three other accused persons and he was caught hold and thereafter abducted by them. He was brought to the house of Surajdin and locked in a room and he managed to be released from confinement when police came there. He has also explained that the police retrieved him from the house of Surajdin after unlocking the chain of the door. He has also stated that Surajdin and Sri Narain assaulted him with fist but however, none of the other co-accused persons made any assault upon him.

21. PW-3 Shiv Prasad and PW-4 Shiv Narain are said to be the eye witness of the incident of abduction, however, both are hostile witnesses. PW-3 categorically states that he did not see as to who was the person who took Ghasitey with him and he was not present in the village on that day. In the same manner PW-4 also states that some persons had abducted Ghasitey about two years back but he did not see any assailant. This witness has also been declared hostile by the prosecution and does not support the prosecution case in material terms.

22. PW-5 Laxmi Narain is the witness of factum of the recovery of the abductee from the house of Surajdin, but however, in his examination-in-chief he completely denies to be a witness of the incident of recovery of Ghasitey on the pointing of accused Surajdin. In his cross-examination he has stated that after receiving the information of recovery of Ghasitey, he went to police station Jahanabad alongwith Raghuvir and Laxmi Narain where the police obtained his signature over the recovery memo but he never knew as to what was written in it.

23 . PW-6 S.I. Sitaram Shukla is the Investigating Officer of this case and he also deposed on behalf of Head Moharrir Narendra Kumar Katiyar as a secondary witness and has proved the chik F.I.R. and registration G.D. as Ext. ka-2 and Ext. ka-3, respectively. This witness in his evidence has affirmed the investigation proceedings and also proved the site plan Ext. ka-4, recovery memo Ext. ka-5, charge sheet Ext. ka-6 and supurdginama Ext. ka-7. He has been tested in the cross-examination by the defence but his entire evidence is consistent on the point that abductee Ghasitey was recovered from the house of accused Surajdin. He has stated in the cross-examination that at the time of arrest of named accused Surajdin no public witness was present. There is no inconsistency in the entire testimony of PW-6 Investigating Officer.

24. The accused persons though in their statement under Section 313 CrPC have claimed that the entire prosecution evidence is false and fabricated but to show their innocence they have not adduced any defence evidence.

25. In the earlier part of this judgment, it has been clarified that albeit there is a delay in lodging the F.I.R. but it must be kept into the mind that the informant - Smt. Laxmaniya is a rustic and illiterate lady and after abduction of her husband she was all alone and after wandering here and there she succeeded in lodging the F.I.R. when the application was given to the Dy. Superintendent of Police, Bindki, Fatehpur and on his order F.I.R. was lodged and that caused delay in lodging the F.I.R., hence, delay in lodging of the F.I.R. is well explained in the facts and circumstances of the case. Interestingly, the written report was typed on 2.12.1988 i.e. the same day when the incident of abduction happened. The F.I.R. has been lodged on the basis of written report Ext. ka-1 and since Ext.ka-1 was prepared on the same day when the incident occurred it rules out any deliberation or consultation before the lodging of the same. A prompt F.I.R., no doubt, strengthens the prosecution case and if delay in lodging the same is explained properly it helps the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

26. In Mehraj Singh Vs. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188, while emphasising the importance of recording a prompt F.I.R., the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under :

"FIR in a criminal case and particularly in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating the evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain the earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eyewitnesses, if any. Delay in lodging the FIR often results in embellishment, which is a creature of an afterthought. On account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version or exaggerated story."

27. In Thulia Kali Vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in (1972) 3 SCC 393 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under.

".....first information report in a criminal case is an extremely vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of corroborating the oral evidence adduced at the trial. The importance of the report can hardly be overestimated from the standpoint of the accused."

28. Similarly, in Kishan Singh through LRs Vs. Gurpal Singh and others reported in (2010) 8 SCC 775 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "Prompt and early reporting of the occurrence by the informant with vivid details gives assurance regarding truth of its version. In case, there is some delay in recording the FIR the complainant must give an explanation for the same. Undoubtedly, delay in lodging FIR does not make the complainant's case improbable when such delay is properly explained."

29. In the facts of this case, it is also evident that the victim did not receive any injury. PW-2 in his deposition states that he was assaulted by fisting by Surajdin and Sri Narain but since the injuries might not be serious or visible no medical examination was conducted in respect of the abductee of this case.

30. The motive of the incident has also been well explained by the prosecution. Although it is a case based on eye witness account wherein element of motive loses its significance but what the law requires is that if the prosecution claims any motive behind the crime, it must prove it. From the perusal and analysis of the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 it is clear that the motive behind the incident, which was actually the transfer of property of the abductee in favour of his two son-in-laws, has been established by PW-1 and PW-2 and their evidence is consistent on the point of motive and also affirms the contents of the F.I.R. itself.

31. It is true that two independent witnesses of the incident of abduction PW-3 and PW-4 have been declared hostile but if the legal position with respect to the appreciation of evidence of a hostile witness is translated into the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, it is a trite law established in a catena of decisions that the entire testimony of a hostile witness cannot be discarded and the relevant part of his testimony, which is favourable to the prosecution, may be taken as admissible and relevant piece of evidence and the prosecution no doubt can rely upon it.

32. Hon'ble Apex Court in Koli Lakhmanbhai Chandabhai vs. State of Gujarat, 1999 (8) SCC 624 has held that evidence of a hostile witness can be relied upon to the extent it supports the version of prosecution and it is not necessary that it should be relied upon or rejected as a whole.

33. Ramesh Harijan vs. State of U.P. , 2012 (5) SCC 777, in another decision wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that it is settled legal position that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether.

34. In State of U.P. vs. Ramesh Prasad Misra and another , 1996 AIR (Supreme Court) 2766, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that evidence of a hostile witnesses would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon.

35. From the above propositions of law, it is evident that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be ignored totally and the relevant portion of his entire testimony may be taken into consideration. In this matter, PW-3, though declared hostile by the prosecution, in his examination-in-chief asserts that someone had abducted Ghasitey in the year 1988 in winters. Hence, this witness proves the incident of abduction and he also makes some positive statements in respect of relationship of the abductee and the accused persons. The husband of the informant - Smt. Laxmaniya was in fact abducted, as the prosecution claims, and this fact finds corroboration from the statement of PW-3 in his examination-in-chief and despite being hostile witness, the incident of abduction has been affirmed by this witness. In the same fashion the incident of abduction has also been proved by PW-4. Despite being a hostile witness, he affirms the incident of abduction of Ghasitey, though he states that he did not see the assailants. Therefore, from the evidence of PW-3 and PW-4, the hostile witnesses, it is established that Ghasitey, husband of the informant Smt. Laxmaniya, was really abducted in the incident and this part of the evidence of PW-3 and PW-4 is admissible and relevant so far as the prosecution case is concerned.

36. In the same manner, PW-5, who is said to be the witness of recovery of the abductee, also states that some miscreants had abducted Ghasitey from his house, though the factum of recovery of Ghasitey from the house of the accused Surajdin is denied by him. It is significant to see that he has proved his signature over the memo of recovery of Ghasitey Ext. ka-5 but he denies the subject matter written therein.

37. The incident of recovery of Ghasitey and his supurdgi in favour of his wife, the informant, has been proved by PW-6, Investigating Officer. The memo of recovery has also been proved by him as Ext. ka-5 whereupon the signatures of Laxmi Narain PW-5 and Surajdin and T.I. of other witness Raghubir are visible. PW-6 has made a categorical statement that he had recovered the abductee before the witnesses Raghubir and Laxmi Narain. PW-6 further states that accused Surajdin was arrested at Amauli Khajua Tiraha, though there was no public witness present at that time. It is also pertinent to mention here that the place of incident of abduction has been shown as Ext. ka-4 site plan, which has been proved by PW-6. This document is in conformity with the version of F.I.R. and statements of PW-1 and PW-2. Hence, the place of occurrence is also certain and fixed in this matter, which further strengthens the prosecution case.

38. Hence, on the basis of oral and documentary evidence, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt, but however, conviction of accused persons under Section 365 IPC was recorded by the trial court and not under Section 364 IPC for which they were charged.

39. This Court has got an opportunity to go through the impugned judgment and order. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellants made before this Court and before the trial court as well expresses the plea that the intention of the accused persons for abducting Ghasitey was not to commit his murder. This submission ought to be seen in entirety of facts and circumstances of this case. The abductee Ghasitey was kept under confinement secretly and wrongfully in the room of Surajdin but he was never put in danger of life and further no ransom was demanded by the accused persons for the sake of his release. The victim was never abducted in order to murder or to be so disposed of as to be put in danger of being murdered. The prosecution evidence falls short of the required evidence to establish the offence under Section 364 IPC. In the entirety of the circumstances, as mentioned above, the trial court proceeded to record the conviction of the accused appellants not under Section 364 IPC but under Section 365 IPC. It was a case of mere abduction where the intention of the accused persons was only to cause the victim to be secretly and wrongfully confined and such offence comes under the purview of the definition of Section 365 IPC which says like this :

"365. Kidnapping or abducting with intent secretly and wrongfully to confine person.—

Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person with intent to cause that person to be secretly and wrongfully confined, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."

40. At the same time, it is also desirable to have a glance upon the provisions of Section 364 IPC, which are as under :

"364. Kidnapping or abducting in order to murder.—

Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person in order that such person may be murdered or may be so disposed of as to be put in danger of being murdered, shall be punished with imprisonment for life or rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine."

41. From the close scrutiny of the prosecution case and evidence, as discussed here-in-above, and in the light of the definitions, as mentioned here-in-above which include essential ingredients to establish an offence under Sections 364 IPC and 365 IPC, this Court finds that the trial court has committed absolutely no illegality in convicting the appellants under Section 365 IPC in place of Section 364 IPC.

42. Upon careful analysis and consideration of the settled legal position in the backdrop of the facts and circumstances of the present case, I am of the opinion that the conclusion arrived at by the learned trial court in the impugned judgment and order is in accordance with law and the evidence available on record. The impugned judgment is the result of the thoughtful consideration and cautious scrutiny of the evidence on record, oral as well as documentary. Thus, this Court is of the view that the prosecution has been able to establish the guilt of the accused appellants under Section 365 IPC beyond reasonable doubt and to the satisfaction of the judicial conscience of the Court.

43. The part of sentence is also under challenge and viewed by this Court cautiously. Awarding sentence in a matter is always a difficult task which requires balancing of various considerations. The principle of law is well settled that the principle of proportionality between the punishment and crime cannot be brushed aside and the sentence must be just and proper. No doubt the concept of proportionality permits of discretion to the Court but the same has to be guided by certain principles. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Raj Bala vs. State of Haryana & Ors (passed in Special Leave Petition (Crl.) Nos.4099-4100 of 2015), has observed that neither the personal perception of a Judge nor self adhered moralistic vision nor hypothetical apprehensions should be allowed to have any play. There can neither be a straitjacket formula nor a solvable theory in mathematical exactitude. Similarly an offender cannot be allowed to be treated with leniency solely on the ground of discretion vested in a Court. The real requisite is to weigh the circumstances in which the crime has been committed. The discretion should not be in the realm of fancy. It should be embedded in the conceptual essence of just punishment. A Court while imposing sentence has to keep in view the various complex matters in mind. In respect of certain offences, sentence can be reduced by giving adequate special reasons but the special reasons have to rest on real special circumstances.

44. In the instant case, criminal machinery came into motion about 36 years ago and the present appeal has been pending for a long period of 32 years. There is nothing on record to show that the appellants are previous convict or having any criminal antecedents. Also the accused-appellants alone cannot be held responsible for long delay in disposal of this appeal. At present appellant no.1 Surajdin is 77 years old, appellant no.2 Ram Kishore is 57 years old, appellant no.3 Sri Naraina is 67 years old and appellant no.4 Sheo Shanker is 74 years old. It has been submitted and also finds support from the record that the appellants remained in custody for about one month. Neither any injury has been caused by the accused appellants to the abductee nor any ransom was demanded by them for the sake of his release. Hence, considering all aspects of the matter, in my view, no useful purpose would be served by sending accused-appellants in judicial custody at this stage, rather in the aforesaid special circumstances, it would be in the interest of justice if in lieu of one year's rigorous imprisonment they may be sentenced for the period already undergone by them in this case and also sufficient fine may be imposed upon them which would be an adequate punishment to them in the entire circumstances of this case. The appellants, who are old men at present should be repenting men.

45. Resultantly, the appeal is partly allowed. The conviction of the appellants for the offence under Section 365 IPC is upheld but the sentence of one year's rigorous imprisonment awarded by the trial court vide impugned judgment and order is converted into the period already undergone by them alongwith a fine of Rs. 2,000/- each. Appellants are on bail. They need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. The amount of fine shall be deposited within two months from today failing which the appellants will have to undergo for ten days simple imprisonment as default sentence.

46. A copy of this order alongwith trial court record be transmitted to the Sessions Judge, Fatehpur for necessary compliance.

Suresh vs. St. of U.P. reported in (2001) 3 SCC 673

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.
Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 8.9.1983 passed by the VII Additional Sessions Judge, Kanpur by which the appellant Ratan Shankar @ Silloo was convicted for an offence under section 302/34 of the Indian Penal Code and was sentenced for life imprisonment.

2. When the alleged incident occurred on 6.6.1982 at 6.20 pm, a First Information Report was lodged at 6.50 pm by Chandra Mohan Singh. The first informant had reported that when he along with Sanjeev Tripathi-the deceased were returning after seeing a movie by a bicycle then the incident had occurred. He had stated that Sanjeev Tripathi was sitting on the rod of the bicycle and when they were going westwards on the Durga Devi Road, from behind them, Shiv Singh @ Jhallar and Ratan Shanker Dixit @ Silloo along with two other persons surrounded them. He mentioned that Ratan Shankar Dixit @ Sillu and two other persons pulled down Sanjeev from the bicycle and thereafter Shiv Singh @ Jhallar shot at him. The first informant abandoned the bicycle and ran towards the Jawahar Nagar Chowki and from there he came along with two constables at the site. The incident was evidenced by Devendra Sharma, Narendra Kumar Mishra and Ram Kishore. The two constables who had accompanied the first informant from the police station, took the injured Sanjeev Tripathi @ Sanju to the hospital on a rickshaw. In the FIR itself, the first informant had stated that he had gone to the police station along with Ram Kishore. Also in the FIR, he had mentioned about the motive behind the incident. He had stated that there was enmity between the deceased and the accused. Viz.-a-viz. Jhallar, he had stated that around two and half months earlier, Jhallar was stabbed by someone and Jhallar had a feeling that Sanjeev and the first informant Chandra Mohan had stabbed him and a case with regard to that incident was also lodged in the police station Nazeerabad.

3. After the FIR was lodged, the police got into action and started with the investigation. The bicycle and the slippers etc. were taken into custody and the recovery memo of was prepared which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-5. Similarly, the plain soil and the soil with blood was also taken into custody and the recovery memo was also prepared which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-6. The clothes which the deceased was wearing at the time of incident were also recovered and were exhibited as Exhibit-Ka-12. Thereafter the post-mortem was conducted. It has been stated that the FIR was initially lodged under section 307 IPC but when the deceased passed away, the case was investigated under section 302 IPC read with section 34 IPC. The post-mortem was preceded by a panchayatnama. After the police had submitted its police report, the 7th Additional Sessions Judge, Metropolitan Area, Kanpur on 20.10.1982 framed the charges and when the charges were read over to the accused and when they denied them, the trial commenced.

4. The PW-1, the first informant had come to the witness box and had stated in his examination-in-chief the method in which the incident had occurred and also had stated the motive regarding which a mention was already there in the FIR. He has very categorically stated in his statement in chief that Silloo had held the handle of the bicycle and had pulled down Sanjeev and while Sanjeev was falling down, the other co-accused Shiv Singh @ Jhallar had shot at him by his country made pistol. Thereafter he has stated that the other two persons, who were present along with Shiv Singh and Ratan Shankar Dixit, had chased the first informant but as luck could have it, he escaped and had reached the police station. At the police station, he had met two constables who had come along with him to the place where Sanjeev was lying and the two policemen took Sanjeev to the hospital on a rickshaw. At the time when Sanjeev was being taken to the hospital, he was alive. Thereafter the first informant and Ram Kishore went to the police station Seesamau and got the FIR lodged. He had also proved the Tehrir which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1. He has stated that thereafter Sanjeev died on the same day. He has stated that as Sanjeev was very grievously hurt and there was a remote possibility that he would survive, he had not accompanied him to the hospital. In the cross-examination, he has stated that the accused had held the bicycle and thereafter after holding the collar of Sanjeev, they had pulled him down and while he was being pulled down from the bicycle, Shiv Singh and the other co-accused had fired on Sanjeev. He reiterates what he had stated in the examination in chief with regard to the fact as to how he had escaped from the site and how he got the FIR lodged. He had mentioned about Ram Kishore, Devendra and Narendra in the cross-examination upon a question being raised with regard to them. Even though he had mentioned that Ram Kishore was staying at Kahu Kothi, he did not know why he was at that point of time staying at Jawahar Nagar. Devendra and Narendra, it was stated, because they were afraid of giving evidence, they did not come in the witness box. With regard to the fact as to why the first informant had not called the doctor, he had stated that even though the deceased was his friend since childhood, because of the fact that he was afraid that it was a police case, he did not go to the doctor but went to the police. He admits in his cross-examination that he had not stated in the FIR that Sanju was pulled down by Ratan Shanker along with the two others from the bicycle. He has also stated that he had not mentioned in the FIR that the accused had held the handle of the bicycle.

5. PW-2 is the other eye-witness, Ram Kishore who has stated virtually what had been stated by the first informant. He gives the reason as to why he was staying at Jawahar Nagar despite the fact that his address was of Kahu Kothi. He has stated that when the first informant Chandra Mohan had run towards him i.e. the PW-2, then the two other co-accused had followed Chandra Mohan. He had also stated upon being asked as to why he did not accompany the injured Sanjeev to the hospital, he stated that he had thought that Sanju had died on the spot and he did not consider it necessary to accompany him to the hospital.

6. PW-3-Ranveer Singh was Investigating Officer and has also proved the Chik FIR.

7. PW-4 SI Ramyagya Singh is the police officer who had proved the inquest and the other documents accompanying the dead body which were there when the body was sent for the post mortem.

8. PW-5 was a formal witness.

9. PW-6 was Constable Ramesh Chandra Sharma who had accompanied the first informant Chandra Mohan from chowki Jawahar Nagar to the place of incident. He had also carried the body from the place of incident along with the other Constable to the hospital and has also informed the Court the name of the other Constable who had accompanied him to the hospital and has given his name as Constable Shiv Prasad.

10. The two accused who were named in the FIR were apprehended and the trial had taken place against them only and the other two were never apprehended and the trial did not take place against them.

11. The two accused Ratan Shanker Dixit @ Silloo and Shiv Singh got their statements recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. They denied the occurrence absolutely.

12. Sri Satish Trivedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the incident had in fact never occurred in the manner as was projected by the prosecution. Learned counsel for the appellant stated that both the accused Shiv Singh and Ratan Shankar Dixit were never there on the spot and in fact the PW-1 and PW-2 were brought up witnesses. Learned counsel for the appellant has very strenuously tried to convince the Court that in fact the first informant was not on the spot but had, after the incident occurred, come on the spot and thereafter had got the FIR lodged. Learned counsel for the appellant further stated that the PW-2 Ram Kishore Mishra was in fact a resident of Kahu Kothi and he never had any connection with Jawahar Nagar and, therefore, his presence was also very doubtful. Learned counsel for the appellant further stated that simply because the first informant and the deceased were named in an earlier criminal case which was lodged by the accused Shiv Singh @ Jhallar, they had implicated Shiv Singh @ Jhallar and Ratan Shankar Dixit @ Silloo. Learned counsel for the appellant further has drawn the attention of the Court to the contradiction in the statements of PW-3 when he stated that after Chandra Mohan extracted himself from the place of incident and had run westward towards the chowki, he had met Ram Kishore Mishra and thereafter both of them had gone together towards the police station but Ram Kishore Mishra states that when Chandra Mohan had run away from the place of incident then one of the two accused had actually followed him then Ram Kishore Mishra raised a hue and cry as to why they were following him. Upon this they ran away. Learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, states that in view of the contradiction, the involvement of the accused becomes doubtful. Still further, learned counsel for the appellant has made an argument in the alternative and has submitted that even if it is taken that Shiv Singh @ Jhallar assailed the deceased Sanjeev Tripathi, the present appellant in the present appeal namely Ratan Shankar Dixit @ Silloo had absolutely no role so far as his involvement under section 302 IPC was concerned. Learned counsel for the appellant states that if the averments in the FIR are perused, it becomes clear that the role assigned to Ratan Shankar Dixit was only to the extent that he had pulled down the deceased Sanjeev Tripathi from the bicycle. Learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, states that after pulling down the deceased, whether there was a common intention being shared by the appellant Ratan Shankar Dixit with Shiv Singh was absolutely not known and there is no allegation to the effect that Shiv Singh and Ratan Sankar Dixit had, with a common intention, gone on the spot to murder Sanjeev Tripathi. Learned counsel for the appellant states that it was just possible that Ratan Shankar Dixit had pulled down the deceased to just give him a slap or two but he had no idea that in fact Shiv Singh was going to use his country made pistol which had actually been used and thereafter Sanjeev Tripathi had died. Learned counsel for the appellant further states that the act of murder by Shiv Singh was an individual act of Shiv Singh and Ratan Shankar Dixit had absolutely nothing to do with the actual murder.

13. Sri Amit Sinha, learned Additional Government Advocate assisted by Ms. Mayuri Mehrotra, however, has submitted that when the incident had occurred and the eye-witnesses had given their eye witness accounts, their evidence could not be brushed aside lightly. Learned AGA has further submitted that the sequence of events as has been narrated in the FIR was also corroborated by what was stated by the prosecution witnesses i.e. PW-1 and PW-2. PW-1 when had stated that he was accompanying the deceased and when their cycle was stopped it was but natural for him to get down the cycle and run away and therefore, it could not be said that if the PW-1 was left unharmed then in fact he was not there on the spot. Learned AGA has further stated that it mattered little if there was a minor contradiction in the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 and also it was of no consequence, virtually, if the PW-1 had given a slightly different account in the FIR from what he had stated in the examination-in-chief. Learned AGA has stated that if the first informant was being chased by two unknown accused persons and if that fact was not mentioned in the FIR and also in the statement-in-chief of the PW-1 and that it was only mentioned in the statement of PW-2 then it hardly made any difference. Learned AGA further stated that when the appellant Ratan Shankar Dixit was definitely there on the spot along with Shiv Singh and he had come alongwith Shiv Singh and also had escaped with Shiv Singh then the only conclusion was that there was a common intention being shared with Shiv Singh and in this regard learned AGA relied upon the judgement of Supreme Court in Suresh vs. State of U.P. reported in (2001) 3 SCC 673.

14. Having heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA, this Court is of the view that if the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 are perused then the conclusion definitely is to the effect that the appellant alongwith Shiv Singh, co-accused, who had filed Criminal Appeal No.2130 of 1983, definitely was at the place of incident. The Court has no doubt with regard to the fact that the appellant alongwith Shiv Singh was there. The statements made in the FIR coupled with the statements made by the PW-1 and PW-2 definitely go to establish that the appellant Ratan Shankar Dixit was there on the spot alongwith Shiv Singh. The minor contradictions with regard to how the first informant escaped and whether the two unknown accused persons were following him makes no difference. Still further the statement of PW-1 that he had immediately upon the occurrence of the incident approached the Chowki Jawahar Nagar and had come back with the two police personnel also appears to be a natural thing to happen. Still further, for the Police to have carried the injured to the hospital also appears to be a very natural thing. The fact that the other eye-witnesses Devendra Sharma and Narendra Kumar Mishra whose names find place in the FIR did not appear would also not affect the case inasmuch as they definitely were, as has been stated by the PW-1, afraid to appear in the witness-box and, therefore, the defence cannot get any advantage of their non-appearance in the witness box. However, what appeals to the Court is that nowhere in the FIR or in the evidence led, even an iota of mention was there about the fact that when the two accused Shiv Singh and Ratan Shankar Dixit along with the other persons had reached the place of incident, Ratan Shankar Dixit was sharing a common intention with Shiv Singh to murder Sanjev Tripathi. Ratan Shankar Dixit was definitely not involved in the case which was lodged by Shiv Singh @ Jhallar against the deceased Sanjeev Tripathi and first informant Chandra Mohan Singh. Ratan Shankar Dixit was also not aware of any other criminal cases which were there in between Shiv Singh and Chandra Mohan Singh and the deceased. In the evidence, there is a mention of other criminal cases as well, but Ratan Shankar Dixit was out of them all. He has definitely not been assigned any specific motive to do away with Sanjeev Tripathi.

15. Under such circumstances, to implicate Ratan Shankar Dixit along with Shiv Singh by saying that he had a common intention to murder Sanjeev Tripathi would be erroneous. The role of Ratan Shankar Dixit not having come within the purview of having a common intention with Shiv Singh, we consider it appropriate to acquit him of the charges under section 302 read with section 34 IPC. The appeal, therefore, stands allowed. Since the appellant is on bail, he need not surrender. His sureties and bail bonds are, therefore, discharged.

Criminal Law - N.D.P.S. Act, 1985 - Section 8C/21, 42, 50 - Challenged the conviction and sentence - Appellant was apprehended with possession of heroin, without any legal authorization - The alleged inconsistencies regarding location of arrest are not material - Appellant were found in possession of heroin remains unshaken - Minor discrepancies in witness testimonies are not uncommon, do not discredit prosecution case, when testimonies are consistent and corroborated by other evidence - The failure to weigh seized substance at the recovery site does raise concerns, it does not undermine the fact that substance was narcotic in nature - Confirmed by forensic examination report - Trial court rightly observed that quantity was small, lapse in procedure does not negate the presence of illegal narcotics with appellant - Presence of independent witnesses would have strengthened prosecution's case, their absence does not invalidate the conviction - Testimony of police officers, if found credible, can form basis for conviction - Defense did not provide any substantive evidence to disprove prosecution's case or demonstrate that police fabricated the case against her - Sentence and fine awarded by trial court was appropriate - Appeal lacks merit, dismissed. (Para 3, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31)

Appeal is dismissed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. The case is taken up in the revised call.

2. This Criminal Appeal Under Section 374 (3) of the Criminal Procedure Code has been filed against the judgment and order dated 10.10.2006 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, F.T.C. First, Lucknow in S.T. No. 246 A of 1999 arising out Crime Number 362 of 1999: State vs. Smt. Manju, by which the appellant has been convicted and sentenced under Section 8C/21 N.D.P.S. Act to imprisonment for the period already undergone and imposed a fine of Rs. 500/- with default stipulation.

3. The brief facts of the case are that the appellant was apprehended near the house of one Kanhaiya in Lucknow with possession of 40 and 24 small packets (pudiyas) of smack (heroin) respectively. The prosecution alleged that the appellants were found in possession of these illegal substances without any legal authorization, thus committing an offense under the NDPS Act.The trial court, after considering the evidence, including the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses (PWs), convicted the appellants. The trial court noted that although there were minor inconsistencies in the testimonies regarding the exact location of the arrest, the core facts remained consistent. The court also observed that the appellants failed to bring forth any credible defense against the charges.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant submits the appellant's counsel argued that the trial court erred in relying on contradictory evidence presented by the prosecution. The witnesses produced by the prosecution provided inconsistent statements, which the court failed to adequately scrutinize. The counsel highlighted that such contradictions should have created reasonable doubt regarding the guilt of the appellant

5. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the appellant's counsel contended that the prosecution's narrative was unnatural and not credible. It was argued that the sequence of events as presented by the prosecution did not align with normal human behavior or logic, thus casting further doubt on the case. The prosecution's failure to present a coherent and believable account of the events weakens their case against the appellant.

6. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that The alleged incident occurred near a highly populated area close to government offices. Despite this, the police failed to involve any gazetted officers during the arrest and seizure, which is a mandatory requirement under Section 42 of the NDPS Act. The counsel argued that this non-compliance with procedural law was a significant lapse that vitiates the entire case.

7. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the immediate reporting of the incident to higher authorities was not done, as mandated by the NDPS Act. The delay in communication and the method of reporting raise serious questions about the integrity of the prosecution's case. The counsel argued that the failure to adhere to this statutory requirement further weakens the prosecution's case.

8. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the police did not comply with the requirements of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, which mandates that the accused be informed of their right to be searched in the presence of a gazetted officer or magistrate. The failure to inform the appellant of this right and obtain their consent renders the search and seizure illegal, making the evidence inadmissible.

9. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the arrest and seizure took place in a densely populated area, yet no independent witnesses were produced to corroborate the police's version of events. This absence of independent witnesses raises serious doubts about the legitimacy of the arrest and the subsequent recovery of contraband.

10. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the police officers did not take their own personal search before conducting the search of the appellant, which is a procedural safeguard to ensure the integrity of the search process. The failure to follow this procedure casts doubt on the legitimacy of the recovery of the contraband.

11. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the police failed to properly document the seizure and recovery process, including obtaining the necessary signatures and seals from the officers involved. This lack of documentation raises concerns about possible tampering with the evidence.

12. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the prosecution failed to produce key witnesses, such as the lady officer who conducted the search of the female appellant, in court. The non-production of these witnesses weakens the prosecution's case and suggests that the evidence against the appellant is not reliable.

13. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the prosecution failed to establish a clear chain of custody for the contraband seized and did not provide proper forensic evidence to conclusively prove that the substance recovered was indeed a narcotic drug. The lack of credible forensic evidence creates reasonable doubt regarding the appellant's guilt.

14. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the lower court's conviction of the appellant was based on speculation and not on solid evidence. The prosecution's case was riddled with inconsistencies and procedural lapses, which should have led to the appellant's acquittal rather than conviction.

15. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the lower court misapplied the law in convicting the appellant. The court failed to consider the legal principles established in relevant case law, such as the necessity of strict compliance with the procedural safeguards provided under the NDPS Act.

16. learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the prosecution failed to properly identify the appellant as the person in possession of the contraband. There was no proper identification parade or conclusive evidence linking the appellant to the alleged offense.

17. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) submits that the prosecution's witnesses were credible and their testimonies consistent with the evidence presented. The contradictions highlighted by the defense were minor and did not affect the overall reliability of the prosecution's case.

18. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the police followed the procedures laid down in the NDPS Act. The failure to involve a gazetted officer or magistrate during the search was explained by the urgent nature of the operation, and the higher officers were informed as soon as possible.

19. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the recovery of contraband was lawful and properly documented. The substance recovered was tested and confirmed to be a narcotic, and the chain of custody was maintained throughout the process.

20. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the absence of independent witnesses does not automatically render the prosecution's case weak. The credibility of the police officers involved in the arrest and recovery should be considered, and the circumstances of the case did not permit the involvement of independent witnesses.

21. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the forensic examination of the contraband was conducted in accordance with established procedures, and the report confirmed the presence of a narcotic substance. The defense's allegations of tampering are unfounded.

22. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the NDPS Act imposes strict liability on those found in possession of narcotics, and the appellant was rightly convicted based on the evidence of possession. The procedural lapses, if any, do not outweigh the evidence of possession.

23. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the lower court correctly applied the law and convicted the appellant based on the evidence presented. The defense's arguments are attempts to discredit the prosecution's case without providing any substantial evidence to the contrary.

24. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the importance of enforcing the NDPS Act strictly to combat drug offenses. The appellant's conviction serves as a deterrent to others involved in such activities and upholds the public interest in maintaining law and order.

25. The Additional Government Advocate (AGA) further submits that the importance of upholding the lower court's judgment to maintain the integrity of the judicial process and ensure that those involved in drug trafficking are duly punished. The appellant's arguments should not overshadow the substantial evidence of guilt presented in the case.

26. In this case, the appellant challenged the conviction and sentence imposed by the trial court. After a thorough review of the evidence, the submissions of both the appellant's counsel and the State, as well as an examination of the relevant legal principles, the following conclusions have been drawn:

The primary issues for determination before this Court are:

1. Whether the inconsistencies in the witness testimonies regarding the arrest location are material enough to vitiate the conviction.

2. Whether the failure to weigh the seized substance at the recovery site and the lack of independent witnesses affects the validity of the conviction.

3. Whether the sentence awarded by the trial court is appropriate and just.

27. The Court finds that the alleged inconsistencies regarding the location of arrest are not material. The core aspect of the prosecution's case—that the appellants were found in possession of heroin—remains unshaken. Minor discrepancies in witness testimonies are not uncommon and do not necessarily discredit the entire prosecution case, especially when the testimonies are otherwise consistent and corroborated by other evidence.

28. The failure to weigh the seized substance at the recovery site does raise concerns, but it does not undermine the fact that the substance was indeed narcotic in nature. The forensic examination report confirmed that the substance recovered was heroin. The trial court rightly observed that the quantity was small, and the lapse in procedure does not negate the presence of illegal narcotics with the appellants.

29. The Court notes that while the presence of independent witnesses would have strengthened the prosecution's case, their absence does not automatically invalidate the conviction. The testimony of the police officers, if found credible, can form the basis for a conviction under the NDPS Act. The defense did not provide any substantive evidence to disprove the prosecution's case or to demonstrate that the police fabricated the case against them.

30. Considering the appellants' socio-economic background and the fact that the quantity of heroin was small, the sentence awarded by the trial court—imprisonment for the period already undergone and a fine of Rs. 500/- each—was appropriate and just. The Court finds no reason to interfere with the sentence imposed by the trial court.

31 . After careful consideration of the evidence, the legal arguments presented, and the relevant case laws, this Court finds that the appeal lacks merit. The trial court's findings were based on a proper appreciation of the evidence, and there were no legal or factual errors that warrant interference by this Court. The appeal is liable to be dismissed.

32. Accordingly, the Court upholds the conviction and sentence passed by the trial court and the appeal is dismissed and the judgment of the trial court is affirmed.

1. Instant Criminal Appeal has been preferred under Section 374 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 22.10.1983 in St. No. 438 of 1982 State Vs. Dodraj and others, whereby the accused appellants Shree Ram, Ram Bahadur were convicted for charge under Section 302/149 IPC and Section 148 IPC, for which they were sentenced to imprisonment for life and one year rigorous imprisonment respectively and the remaining five accused persons Dodraj, Ram Swaroop, Neksoo, Summeri alias Bhadain and Kallan alias Kalyan were convicted under Sections 147 and 302/149 IPC and each of them have been sentenced to six months rigorous imprisonment for charge under Section 147 IPC and life imprisonment for charge under Section 302/149 IPC. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. The appellants were enlarged on bail vide order dated 27.10.1983 passed in instant appeal during the pendency of appeal. Appellants Dodraj, Ram Swaroop, Neksoo, Summeri alias Bhadain, Shree Ram and Kallan alias Kalyan have died during the pendency of appeal and appeal has been dismissed for these deceased appellants as having abated by various orders passed by this Court in the present appeal. Thus the appeal at present survives in respect of appellant Ram Bahadur only, and it has been argued in respect of appellant Ram Bahadur by the learned counsel for the parties.

3. This fact is noticeable that appellant No.2 Ram Bahadur, the sole surviving appellant moved an application before this Court with a prayer to consider his juvenality at the time of offence, as he was aged about 17 years at the time of incident. This Court heard learned counsel for the parties, on this application filed on behalf of appellant No.2 Ram Bahadur, wherein he claimed juvenality, and on 16.02.2022 passed an order to the effect that the application filed by the applicant/appellant alongwith all the documents be forwarded to the concerned session judge, and, in turn, the concerned sessions judge shall conduct an appropriate inquiry for determining the age of the appellant No.2. It is also directed in the said order the the concerned sessions judge, after conducting an appropriate inquiry in accordance with law, shall send his report before this Court.

4. In compliance of this Court's order dated 16.02.2022 a report dated 28.09.2022 alongwith lower court record has been received from District and Sessions Judge, Budaun, wherein it is stated that at the time of incident appellant Ram Bahadur was juvenile. There is nothing on record which could manifest that any appeal or revision was filed on behalf of State or defacto complainant. Interms this finding of juvenality recorded by learned Sessions Judge, the appellant would be treated as juvenile for the purposes of present criminal appeal.

5. Heard Sri Rahul Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Rahul Asthana, learned AGA for the State.

6. The factual matrix of prosecution case in nutshell are that informant Ramavtar lodged an FIR by filing written report bearing dated 05.07.1982 at P.S. Ujhani, District Budaun, wherein he stated that there was enmity between his family members and accused Dodraj. A dacoity had taken place at the house of accused Dodraj, and for that dacoity deceased Ram Prakash who was brother of the informant was named an accused and he was challaned, his brother Ram Prakash acquitted of said charge of dacoity by court of session on 28.06.1982. On 05.07.1982 the deceased Ram Prakash, his brother Ramavtar PW2, and his father Brij Lal PW3 were going to Ujhani town to get wheat grinded and to purchase other articles for the Katha (a religious ceremony) by a bullock cart. At about 07:30 am they reached near railway line crossing which was very close to their village, the accused Dodraj, Ram Swaroop, Neksoo, Summeri alias Bhadain, Ram Bahadur and Kallan alias Kalyan, met them on way who has come from other side and were armed with lathis and kanta. They stated that they abused Ram Prakash and they would kill him on that day. Ram Prakash ran towards fields to save him, but the accused persons chased him and attacked him in the field of Preetam by lathi and kanta (an incised weapon). The informant and his father raised alarm, whereupon passersby Ramphal, Anekpal, Munshi and Netram reached and cried what they were doing. The informant and his father moved forward to save Ram Prakash. The accused persons assaulted him and his father by lathi. The injured Ram Prakash fell down in the field and when the witnesses challenged the accused persons then they escaped towards railway-line. The occurrence was witnessed by the informant, his father and other witnesses. The informant and witnesses laid the injured in a tanga (horse cart) and took him at police station. The FIR was lodged under Section 147 IPC at P.S. concerned vide Crime No.289 of 1982, on same day i.e. 05.07.1982 at 11:30 am, in which all the seven accused are named.

7. The written report Ext. Ka-1 was scribed by Smt. Gayatri Devi and filed by the informant at police station under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307 of IPC.

8. Injured Ram Prakash died on account of worsening condition of Ram Prakash who had been brought to District Hospital Budaun where he died. A death information was sent to police station Ujhanai and the case converted from Section 307 IPC to Section 302 IPC, on the basis of death information memo received from district hospital. The inquest on body of the deceased was conducted on 05.07.1982 at 13:10 hours.

9. S.I. Sri V.S. Yadav of Police Station Kotwali Budaun was deputed to hold inquest on the dead body. He went to the district hospital Budaun and held an inquest on the dead body on 05.07.1982 at about noon time, in presence of the witnesses. He prepared inquest report Ext. Ka-7, Naksha Nash Ext. Ka-8, Chalan Nash Ext. Ka-9, letter to R.I. Ext. Ka-10, letter to C.M.O. Ext. Ka-11 and another letter requesting for postmortem examination on dead body of Ram Prakash. S.I. Sri V.S. Yadav also prepared sample seal and send the dead body for postmortem examination in sealed cover. For postmortem examination two constables Ramesh Chandra and Raghuveer Sahai of Police Station Kotwali, they were instructed to take the dead body to mortuary for postmortem examination.

10. Postmortem on the dead body was conducted by Dr. S.R. Gupta, PW5 on 05.07.1982 at 04:55 pm. The Medical Officer found the following ante-mortem injuries on the dead body:-

1. Incised wound 10 cm x 2 cm x bone deep on right side of dead, 4 cm behind the right ear, placed vertically above downward. Margins clear-cut.

2. Incised wound 4 cm x 1.25 cm x bone deep one cut on the central post of head, 2 cm outer to injury No.1.

3. Incised wound 6.5 cm x 1 cm x bone deep, part of scalp over head, muscle cut on left side of head. 6 cm lateral to injury No.3.

4. Multiple contusions (abraded) 11 cm x 1 cm on the right side of neck, just below the mandible, 4 cm below the right ear standing up to back and frond.

5. Contusion 1 cm x 1 cm on the top of right shoulder.

6. Contusion multiple in an area of 19 cm x 4 cm on the ulnar border of left fore-arm, close to lateral aspect, 4 cm below the elbow.

7. Contusion 7 cm x 1.5 cm on the lateral border of lower third of left arm.

8. Contusion 7 cm x 2 cm on the lateral border of elbow.

9. Incised would 1 cm x 0.5 cm on the Palmer aspect.

10. Contusion 6 cm x 2 cm on the right calf.

11. Contusion 6 cm x 2 cm on the border of right forearm lower part with fracture of radius.

11. Besides these injuries, on internal examination the Medical Officer found clotted blood present below injuries Nos. 1 and 2. Right side temporal, parietal and occipital bones were fractured. Brain and membranes were cut and clotted blood was present there. Both chambers of the heart were empty. Two onces digested unidentified food material was found in stomach. According to the medical officer, the death was caused due to shock and hamorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries at about 11:30 am vide police papers. Dr. S.R. Gupta also prepared the postmortem examination report Ext. Ka-3.

12. Investigation of this case was conducted by S.I. S.S. Sharma, PW7. The case was registered in his presence at police station Ujhani. He recorded the statement of H.M. Rameshwar Dayal, who had written the FIR and the complainant Ram Avtar at the police station. Then he proceeded to the place of occurrence where he recorded the statements of the witnesses Munshi Shah, Anekpal and others. He made a local inspection and prepared site plan Ext. Ka-5. From the place of occurrence he obtained blood stained and simple earth and prepared its memo Ext. Ka-6. He arrested the accused persons Neksoo, Summeri and Kallan on 20.07.1982 and the remaining accused persons surrendered thereafter in the court. The I.O. submitted charge-sheet against those accused persons on 18.07.1982, 20.07.1982.

13. The case of all the seven accused persons named above was committed to court for session by Sri M.K. Bansal, Judicial Magistrate-II Budaun vide order dated 14.09.1982 for trial for charge under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 IPC. The charges against the accused persons were framed by learned Additional Sessions Judge on 27.01.1983.

14. The first charge against them recites that on or about 5th day of July, 1982 at about 07:30 am at the field of Pitambar near railway crossing of village Ulehtapur, Police Station Ujhani, District Budaun, these accused persons were members of an unlawful assembly, the common object of which was to commit the murder of Ram Prakash and at that time the accused persons were armed with deadly weapons namely lathis and kanta and committed riot, and thereby they committed an offence punishable under Section 148 IPC. The second charge against them narrates that on the aforesaid date time and place in prosecution of the said common object of such unlawful assembly, the accused persons committed the murder of Ram Prakash having intentionally caused his death and thereby committed ana offence punishable under Section 302 read with section 149 IPC. The accused persons pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

15. In order to prove its case the prosecution examined Dr. M.L. Verma, P.W.1 who deposed about the injuries of Ram Autar and Brijlal, PW2 and 3. Prosecution also examined Ram Autar PW2, his father Brijlal PW3, Ramphal PW4, and Nek Ram PW6. They are the eye witnesses and deposed about the incident. Prosecution also examined Dr. S.R. Gupta PW5 who had held an autopsy on the dead body. He has deposed abut the ante-mortem injuries and internal injuries found on the dead body and proved the postmortem examination report. Then the prosecution examined SI S.S. Sharma PW7 who had conducted the investigation. He has deposed about the investigation and proved the papers connected with the dead body prepared by the SI V.S. Yadav of Police Station Kotwali. He has also proved the FIR prepared by constable Rameshwar Dayal of police station Ujhani. Prosecution also filed a judgment in S.T. No.344/80 State Vs. Ram Prakash under Section 395/397 IPC and another judgment in Criminal Appeal No.135/81 Ext.Kha-14 and Ka15.

16. In defence the accused persons examined Dr. Smt. P.K. Agarwal D.W.1 Medical Officer Women's Hospital, Budaun. She deposed that the life of the accused Kallan was admitted in the hospital at 10:30 am on 05.07.82 and she gave birth to a dead child at 03:30 pm. Defence also examined Jigar Shan DW2 a Tanga Driver. He has deposed that about 1 ¼ year ago before sun set, he had taken Kallan and his wife in his tanga to the hospital of Jagat and then to the Women's Hospital at Budaun where he reached at about 09:00 am. The defence also filed a photo-stat copy of bed-head ticket Ext. Kha-1. Copy of judgment Ext. Kha-2, copy of charge sheet Ext. Kha-3, copy of statement of Ramphal in consolidation case Ext. Kha-4. Copy of bail order Ext. Kha-5. One voter list was was also filed which is not admissible in evidence because it is not a certified copy.

17. Learned trial court after hearing the submissions of learned counsel for the accused persons and learned counsel for the State scrutinized the entire evidence placed by the prosecution in defence on record and also considered the statement of the accused persons recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. as well as defence evidence adduced by accused persons. Learned trial court observed that the FIR appears to be prompt, there is nothing in the prosecution evidence to show that FIR was ante-time. Moreover there is motive for assault. It is admitted fact that prior to this murder a dacoity had taken place at the house of Dodraj accused and in that dacoity deceased Ram Prakash was prosecuted and acquitted on 29.06.1982, vide copy of impugned judgment exhibited as Ext. Ka-14.

18. Besides this there were cross cases under Section 307 IPC between the parties. Ramavtar has also stated on oath that Dodhraj was prosecuted for possession of illicit opium and in that also the accused Ram Prakash had appeared as a witness against him. All these litigation would give sufficient motive to the accused persons to commit the murder of Ram Prakash. Under all these facts and circumstances, when the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is quite natural, independent and is in perfect harmony with the medical evidence and when it does not suffer from any material discrepancy, embellishment paddingup it must be believed to prove the guilt of the accused persons beyond reasonable doubt. The minor contradictions and inconsistency do not effect the broad features of the prosecution story relating to the assault on the deceased. The accused persons deserves to be convicted.

19. With the above findings, learned trial court convicted and sentenced the accused persons as stated above.

20. Learned counsel appearing for surviving appellant Ram Bahadur submitted that motive has been attributed to appellant Dodraj (since deceased), and the present appellant has been implicated in the case only to the fact that he is the son of Dodraj. In fact, appellants were implicated in the case due to previous enmity between deceased and appellants. The injuries of witnesses Ramavtar and Brijlal are of superficial in nature and not very significant, which could have suggested definite presence of the injured witnesses on the spot. This fact has emerged in evidence that appellant Neksoo and Dodraj are real brothers, Ram Swaroop and Kallan are sons of Neksoo, Ram Bahadur and Shree Ram are sons of Dodraj and Summeri alias Bhadain is son of Bodhan who was real brother of Neksoo and Dodraj. Therefore, all the family members of Dodraj are implicated in the case due to enmity.

21. He further submitted that the learned trial court failed to appreciate the defence evidence which includes DW1 Dr. P.K. Agarwal who deposed that wife of the accused Kallan was admitted in the hospital at 10:30 am on 05.07.1982, and she gave birth to a dead child at 03:30 pm. In this situation presence of appellant Kallan (since deceased) on the place of incident at 07:30 am was quite unnatural. Defence also examined DW2 Jigar Shah tanga driver who deposed that about 11/4 years ago before sunset he had taken Kallan and his wife in his tanga to the hospital of Jagat, and then to Women's Hospital at Budaun, where he reached at about 09:00 am. The defence also filed the photostat copy of Bed Head Ticket, Ext. Kha-1, copy of judgment Kha-2, copy of chargesheet Kha-3, copy of statement of Ramphal in consolidation case Ext. Kha-4 and copy of bail order Ext. Kha-5. The testimony of prosecution witnesses of fact is full of inconsistencies and contradictions and no weight can be attached thereon.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant also submitted that no money was recovered from the dead body of Ram Prakash and therefore it should not be believed that the deceased Ram Prakash , his father and brother were going to Ujhani to purchase essential articles for Katha ceremony and to get wheat grinded. PW2 Ramphal was cited as a witness in a criminal complaint by a person against Dodraj, he is a partisan and interested witness and can be cited as a professional witness PW4. No specific role has been attributed to present appellant in the offence, and he has been convicted and sentenced with the aid of Section 149 IPC.

23. Learned trial court has miserably failed to appreciate the evidence on record in proper perspective and committed error of fact and law by convicting the surviving appellant with four accused persons. He lastly submitted that appellant has been declared juvenile in conflict of law at the time of offence by learned session court after due inquiry instituted under the directions of this Court, and even if his complicity in the offence is found to be proved by this Hon'ble Court, the appellant deserves to be dealt with under the provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, and the sentence awarded to the appellant deserves to be set-aside.

24. Per contra, Learned A.G.A. vehemently supported the impugned judgment and order passed by learned trial court, whereby the appellant and co-accused have been convicted and sentenced for charge under Section 302/149 IPC and Section 148/147 I.P.C.

25. There is not infirmity, factual or legal error in the impugned judgment passed by trial court. However, learned A.G.A. did not dispute the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that he must be dealtwith under the provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 and not under Indian Penal Code, so far as sentence/final order is concerned.

26. On reappraisal of evidence adduced by prosecution, and stand taken by the four accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C., we find that prosecution case in respect of present appellant has been duly proved by eyewitness account. PW2 Ramavtar, the informant who has also proved the written report as Ext. Ka-1. On the basis of lodging of FIR, place of occurrence has also been proved by evidence of witnesses of fact. PW3 Brijlal, who is also an injured witness. Site Plan Ext. Ka-5, is duly proved by evidence of Investigating Officer S.I. S.S. Sharma (PW7). The appellant Ram Bahadur has not taken any specific case in defence statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., nor produce any defence evidence. He only stated that the witnesses have deposed against him due to his father Dodraj. The accused side has failed to prove illicit any material contradiction in evidence of eye witnesses PW1 M.L.Verma, PW2 Ramavtar, PW3 Brijlal, PW4 Ramphal, PW6 Netram. PW1 Dr. M.L.Verma proved injury report of witness Brijlal Varma (PW3). FIR in the case has been lodged within three houses of the incident and on facts of the case and keeping in view the enormity of crime, distance of police station and mode of conveyance no undue delay is found in lodging of FIR and rather it is lodged with utmost promptitude which strengthens its reliability.

27. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that evidence of injury reports of PW2 informant Ramavtar as Ext. Ka-2 and injury report of Brijlal PW-3 as Ext. Ka-1 and had stated that the injuries found on person of injured were likely to be caused on 05.07.1982, at around 07:30 am. That the injuries were found fresh at the time of examination, which was carried out on 05.07.1982, as police medico legal case at around 11:30 am.

28. PW5 Dr. Sita Ram Gupta, is author of postmortem report of deceased Ram Prakash, who proved postmortem report as Ext. Ka-4 by his evidence before the court. He opined in his sworn testimony before the court that injuries found on person of deceased Ram Prakash were sufficient to cause death. As many as 11 ante-mortem injuries were found on person of deceased at the time of examination.

Two ounce digested food was found in stomach, on internal examination right parietal, temporal and occipital bones were found to be broken and clotted blood was noticed in subdural space super, subarachnoid space clotted blood was also found and on other injuries. The deceased died on 05.07.1982 at 11:50 am in the hospital. No material contradiction could be suggested by defence in statements of witnesses of facts before the court from their previous statements recorded by the Investigating Officer, except the fact that PW2 Ramavtar has stated in general manner that seven named accused persons were armed with lathis and kanta. Whereas in evidence before the court he has specified that accused Shree Ram and Ram Bahadur weeded farsa and other accused persons were armed with lathis. Similar statement was given by PW3 Brijlal injured witness and also by PW4 Ramphal. PW6 Netram has also stated that all the seven accused persons were present before the court at the time of incident, assaulted the deceased Ram Prakash by lathis and kanta. Ram Prakash the witness has stated that when accused persons surrounded Ram Prakash who was travelling by a bullock cart and expressed their intent to kill Ram Prakash. He got down from the cart and ran towards the field, but accused persons surrounded him in the field of Preetam and attacked him with lathi and kanta, which caused him fatal injuries. Witnesses Ramavtar and Brijlal when rushed to save Ram Prakash, the accused also assaulted them by lathi.

29. Thus, we find no infirmity in approach of trial court in appreciation of evidence on record and application of law on the facts of the case. The judgment of learned trial court is based on strength of evidence on record and supported by cogent reasons which requires no interference, as far as recording of conviction of the appellant Ram Bahadur is concerned. However, this fact is noticeable that during the pendency of present appeal, a plea of juvenality was taken on behalf of appellant Ram Bahadur, and this Court vide order dated 16.02.2022 directed the concerned Sessions Judge to hold an inquiry regarding plea of juvenality of appellant No.2 Ram Bahadur and in compliance of directions of this Court, the learned Additional Session Judge held an inquiry regarding plea of juvenality raised by appellant No.2 Ram Bahadur, and his report dated 28.02.2022 stated that at the time of incident appellant Ram Bahadur was juvenile. Therefore, in terms of mandate of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 1996, Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 and Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the sentence awarded to the appellant for proved charges cannot be sustained. Section 16 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 may be reproduced as under:-

"16 Order that may not be passed against juvenile.- (1)Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, no juvenile in conflict with law shall be sentenced to death or [imprisonment, for any term which may extend to imprisonment for life] or committed to prison in default of payment of fine or in default of furnishing security:

Provided that where a juvenile who has attained the age of sixteen years has committed an offence and the Board is satisfied that the offence committed is of so serious in nature or that his conduct and behaviour have been such that it would not be in his interest or in the interest of other juvenile in a special home to send him to such special home and that none of the other measures provided under this Act is suitable or sufficient, the Board may order the juvenile in conflict with law to be kept in uch place of safety and in such manner as it thinks fit and shall report the case for the order of the State Government.

(2) On receipt of a report from a Board under sub-section (1), the State Government may make such arrangement in respect of the juvenile as it deems proper and may order such juvenile to be kept under protective custody at such place and on such conditions as it thinks fit:

[Provided that the period of detention so ordered shall not exceed in any case the maximum period under Section 15 of this Act.] ."

30. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vinod Katara Vs. State of U.P. 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 757 observed in paragraph No.1 of the judgment that personal liberty of a person is one of the oldest concepts to be purported by national courts. As long ago as in 1215, the English Magna Carta provided that:- "No free man shall be taken or imprisoned.... but..... by law of the land."

In writ petition concerned, which was filed at the instance of a convict accused undergoing life imprisonment for the offences of murder, in which he invoked indulgence of Hon'ble Court under Article 32 of the Constitution, seeking appropriate directions to the respondent-State of U.P. to verify the exact age of the convict on the date of commission of the offence, as it was the case of the convict that on the date of the commission of the offence i.e. 10.09.1982 he was a juvenile aged around 15 years. The Medical Board subjected the applicant to the Xray's of the skull and sturnum. Upon medical examination of the writ applicant, the Medical Board gave its report dated 10.12.2021 certifying that on 10.09.1982 i.e. the date of the commission of alleged offence, the writ applicant could have been around 15 years of age as on the date of Medical Examination, the convict was around 56 years of age.

31. Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that under the 1986 Act, the age of juvenality was up to the 16th year. Section 7(A) of the 2000 Act has inserted by Act 33 of 2006 w.e.f. 22.08.2006 provided as follows:-

" ……7A. Procedure to be followed when claim of juvenility is raised before any Court.(1) Whenever a claim of juvenility is raised before any court or a court is of the opinion that an accused person was a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, the court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) so as to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or a child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be:

Provided that a claim of juvenility may be raised before any Court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such claim shall be determined in terms of the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder, even if the juvenile has ceased to be so on or before the date of commencement of this Act. (2) If the court finds a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence under subsection(1), it shall forward the juvenile to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by a court shall be deemed to have no effect."

The claim of juvenility can thus be raised before any Court, at any stage, even after final disposal of the case and if the Court finds a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, it is to forward the juvenile to the Board for passing appropriate orders, and the sentence, if any, passed by a Court, shall be deemed to have no effect. Even though the offence in this case may have been committed before the enactment of the Act of 2000, the petitioner is entitled to the benefit of juvenility under Section 7A of the Act of 2000, if on inquiry it is found that he was less than 18 years of age on the date of the alleged offence."

32. Hon'ble Court further observed in above stated judgment as under:-

20. On and with effect from 15.01.2016, the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (for short, "the 2015 Act") came into force which repealed the 2000 Act. While the appeal of the petitioner herein against his conviction and sentence was pending in the High Court, the 2000 Act came into force which repealed the Juvenile Justice Act, 1986. The 2000 Act inter alia raised the age of juvenility from 16 to 18 years and in terms of Section 20 of the 2000 Act, the determination of juvenility was required to be done in all pending matters in accordance with Section 2(1) of the 2000 Act.

21. The effect of Section 20 of the 2000 Act was considered in Pratap Singh v. State of Jharkhand, (2005) 3 SCC 551, and it was stated as under:"

31. Section 20 of the Act as quoted above deals with the special provision in respect of pending cases and begins with a non obstante clause. The sentence "notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, all proceedings in respect of a juvenile pending in any court in any area on the date on which this Act came into force" has great significance. The proceedings in respect of a juvenile pending in any court referred to in Section 20 of the Act are relatable to proceedings initiated before the 2000 Act came into force and which are pending when the 2000 Act came into force. The term "any court" would include even ordinary criminal courts. If the person was a "juvenile" under the 1986 Act the proceedings would not be pending in criminal courts. They would be pending in criminal courts only if the boy had crossed 16 years or the girl had crossed 18 years. This shows that Section 20 refers to cases where a person had ceased to be a juvenile under the 1986 Act but had not yet crossed the age of 18 years then the pending case shall continue in that court as if the 2000 Act has not been passed and if the court finds that the juvenile has committed an offence, it shall record such finding and instead of passing any sentence in respect of the juvenile, shall forward the juvenile to the Board which shall pass orders in respect of that juvenile."

22. In Bijender Singh v. State of Haryana , (2005) 3 SCC 685*, the legal position as regards Section 20 was stated in following words:"*

8. One of the basic distinctions between the 1986 Act and the 2000 Act relates to the age of males and females. Under the 1986 Act, a juvenile means a male juvenile who has not attained the age of 16 years, and a female juvenile who has not attained the age of 18 years. In the 2000 Act, the distinction between male and female juveniles on the basis of age has not been maintained. The agelimit is 18 years for both males and females.

9. A person above 16 years in terms of the 1986 Act wasnot a juvenile. In that view of the matter the question whether a person above 16 years becomes "juvenile" within the purview of the 2000 Act must be answered having regard to the object and purport thereof.

10. In terms of the 1986 Act, a person who was notjuvenile could be tried in any court. Section 20 of the 2000 Act takes care of such a situation stating that despite the same the trial shall continue in that court as if that Act has not been passed and in the event, he is found to be guilty of commission of an offence, a finding to that effect shall be recorded in the judgment of conviction, if any, but instead of passing any sentence in relation to the juvenile, he would be forwarded to the Juvenile Justice Board (in short "the Board") which shall pass orders in accordance with the provisions of the Act as if it has been satisfied on inquiry that a juvenile has committed the offence. A legal fiction has, thus, been created in the said provision. A legal fiction as is well known must be given its full effect although it has its limitations. ……

12. Thus, by reason of legal fiction, a person, althoughnot a juvenile, has to be treated to be one by the Board for the purpose of sentencing, which takes care of a situation that the person although not a juvenile in terms of the 1986 Act but still would be treated as such under the 2000 Act for the said limited purpose."

23. In Dharambir v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2010) 5 SCC 344*, the determination of juvenility even after conviction was one of the issues and it was stated:"*

11. It is plain from the language of the Explanation to Section 20 that in all pending cases, which would include not only trials but even subsequent proceedings by way of revision or appeal, etc., the determination of juvenility of a juvenile has to be in terms of clause (l) of Section 2, even if the juvenile ceases to be a juvenile on or before 142001, when the Act of 2000 came into force, and the provisions of the Act would apply as if the said provision had been in force for all purposes and for all material times when the alleged offence was committed.

12. Clause (l) of Section 2 of the Act of 2000 provides that "juvenile in conflict with law" means a "juvenile" who is alleged to have committed an offence and has not completed eighteenth year of age as on the date of commission of such offence. Section 20 also enables the court to consider and determine the juvenility of a person even after conviction by the regular court and also empowers the court, while maintaining the conviction, to set aside the sentence imposed and forward the case to the Juvenile Justice Board concerned for passing sentence in accordance with the provisions of the Act of 2000."

24. Similarly, in Kalu v. State of Haryana , (2012) 8 SCC 34*, this Court summed up as under:"*

21. Section 20 makes a special provision in respect of pending cases. It states that notwithstanding anything contained in the Juvenile Act, all proceedings in respect of a juvenile pending in any court in any area on the date on which the Juvenile Act comes into force in that area shall be continued in that court as if the Juvenile Act had not been passed and if the court finds that the juvenile has committed an offence, it shall record such finding and instead of passing any sentence in respect of the juvenile forward the juvenile to the Board which shall pass orders in respect of that juvenile in accordance with the provisions of the Juvenile Act as if it had been satisfied on inquiry under the Juvenile Act that the juvenile has committed the offence. The Explanation to Section 20 makes it clear that in all pending cases, which would include not only trials but even subsequent proceedings by way of revision or appeal, the determination of juvenility of a juvenile would be in terms of clause (l) of Section 2, even if the juvenile ceased to be a juvenile on or before 142001, when the Juvenile Act came into force, and the provisions of the Juvenile Act would apply as if the said provision had been in force for all purposes and for all material times when the alleged offence was committed."

25. It is thus well settled that in terms of Section 20 of the 2000 Act, in all cases where the accused was above 16 years but below 18 years of age on the date of occurrence, the proceedings pending in the Court would continue and be taken to the logical end subject to an exception that upon finding the juvenile to be guilty, the Court would not pass an order of sentence against him but the juvenile would be referred to the Board for appropriate orders under the 2000 Act.

26. Thus, in view of the aforesaid discussion, we now proceed to consider the matter further keeping in view the 2000 Act.

".....39.5. The court where the plea of juvenility is raised for the first time should always be guided by the objectives of the 2000 Act and be alive to the position that the beneficent and salutary provisions contained in the 2000 Act are not defeated by the hypertechnical approach and the persons who are entitled to get benefits of the 2000 Act get such benefits. The courts should not be unnecessarily influenced by any general impression that in schools the parents/guardians understate the age of their wards by one or two years for future benefits or that age determination by medical examination is not very precise. The matter should be considered prima facie on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

39.6. Claim of juvenility lacking in credibility or frivolous claim of juvenility or patently absurd or inherently improbable claim of juvenility must be rejected by the court at the threshold whenever raised."

33. Now adverting to the facts of the present case, we have to consider the nature and scope of the final order which may be passed in respect of surviving appellant Ram Bahadur in terms of Section 16 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000. On perusal of Section 15(1)(g) and proviso to Section 16, it is crystal clear that the maximum period of detention in respect of a juvenile is 3 years as provided in Section 15(1) (g). The said section provides that where the Juvenile Justice Board is, an inquiry satisfied that the juvenile has committed an offence, then notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the the time being in force, the Juvenile Justice Board may, if it thinks fit, make an order directing the juvenile to be sent to special home for a period of three years.

34. Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 provides as under:-

"15. Order that may be passed regarding juvenile*.- (1) Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that a juvenile has committed an offence, then, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Board may, if it thinks so fit,*

(a) allow the juvenile to go home after advice or admonition following appropriate inquiry against and counselling to the parent or the guardian and the juvenile;

(b) direct the juvenile to participate in group counselling and similar activities;

(c) order the juvenile to perform community service;

(d) order the parent of the juvenile or the juvenile himself to pay a fine, if he is over fourteen years of age and earns money;

(e) direct the juvenile to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care of any parent, guardian or other fit person,on such parent, guardian or other fit person executing a bond, with or without surety, as the Board may require, fo the good behaviour and well-being of the juvenile for any period not exceeding three years;

(f) direct the juvenile to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care of any fit institution for the good behaviour and well-being of the juvenile for any period not exceeding three years;

(g) make an order directing the juvenile to be sent to a special home for a period of three years;

Provided that the Board may, if it is satisfied that having regard to the nature of the offence and the circumstances of the case it is expedient so to do, for reasons to be recorded, reduce the period of stay to such period as it thinks fit.

(2) The Board shall obtain the social investigation report on juvenile either through a probation officer or a recognized voluntary organisation or otherwise, and shall take into consideration the findings of such report before passing an order.

(3) Where an order under clause (d), clause (e) or clause (f) of sub-section (1) is made, the Board may, if it is of opinion that in the interests of the juvenile and of the public, it is expedient so to do, in addition make an order that the juvenile i conflict with law shall remain under the supervision of a probation officer named in the order during such period, not exceeding three years as may be specified therein, and may in such supervision order impose such conditions as it deems necessary for he due supervision of the juvenile in conflict with law:

Provided that if at any time afterwards it appears to the Board on receiving a report from the probation officer or otherwise, that the juvenile in conflict with law has not been of good behaviour during the period of supervision or that the fit institute on under whose care the juvenile was placed is no longer able or willing to ensure the good behaviour and well-being of the juvenile it may, after making such inquiry as it deems fit, order the juvenile in conflict with law to be sent to a special home.

(4) The Board shall while making a supervision order under sub-section(3), explain to the juvenile and the parent, guardian or other fit person or fit institution, as the case may be, under whose care the juvenile has been placed, the terms and conditions of the order and shall forthwith furnish one copy of the supervision order to the juvenile, the parent, guardian or other fit person or fit institution,as the case may be, the sureties, if any, and the probation officer."

35. Considering the fact that the incident occurred way back in the year 1982, and the appellant who has been declared as juvenile in conflict of law in terms of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 by Sessions Court after due inquiry in its report dated 28.09.2022, his present age appears to be around 60 years, he cannot be sent to special home for any period up to maximum 3 years at this juncture.

36. Therefore, on giving due consideration to the nature and gravity of the offence, long pendency of appeal and a duration of 42 years between the offence and disposal of present appeal instituted by appellants, we find it just proper and expedient that the surviving appellant Ram Bahadur be dealtwith under the provisions of Section 15(1)(d) of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, and he may be directed to pay fine, as he is now an earning person.

37. The judgment and finding of conviction recorded by learned trial court in respect of surviving appellant Ram Bahadur is affirmed, but sentence is set-aside in the light of aforesaid discussion, as he has been found juvenile in conflict of law at the time of the offence which took place way back in the year 1982. On exercising the powers under Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, we direct the appellant Ram Bahadur to pay Rs.50,000/- as fine in lieu of sentence and also as final order in terms of section 15(1)(d) of Act No.56 of 2000 as stated above, which will be deposited with High Court Mediation Center within two months of uploading of this judgment on the website of High Court.

38. Appeal is accordingly disposed of.

39. Let a copy of this judgment be forwarded to the learned Session Judge, Budaun for necessary action and compliance. The lower court record be sent back to court concerned for necessary action immediately.

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 161 & 437(A) - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section – 302: - Appeal – against conviction & sentence – offence of murder – FIR, lodged against two accused – investigation - cause of death was ascertained as a result of throttling – during investigation, accused appellant come forward and made extra judicial confession that he had attempt rape on the deceased and later throttled her to death – relying upon the confession of accused appellant, investigation officer expunged the names of accused persons named in FIR - charge sheet u/s302 IPC – conviction – sentenced with Life imprisonment – Appeal – test of evidentiary value of extra judicial confession – court finds that, sheet anchor of the prosecution case to implicate the accused appellant is the extra judicial confession made by him as well as the testimony of PW-3 who is child witness (son of the deceased) – there is no other eye witness of incident – there was a serious lapse on part of the investigation officer in the mater – accused appellant who is the real brother of informant St.d that informant had an affairs with the lady with whom he later solemnized his second marriage within a month of the ghastly murder - in the light of the above defence evidence, it would not be safe to rely upon the informant alone to convict the accused – when we test the veracity of the St.ment of the informant bearing in mind the surrounding circumstances, which reflects adversely on the reliability of the informant, we do not find his testimony to be above doubt – held - Extra Judicial confession by its very nature is otherwise a weak piece of evidence – PW-3 is a child witness and it would be prudent and desirable to look for other evidence, for the purposes of corroboration, which is found lacking – and two other witnesses to the extra judicial confession have not supported the prosecution case and we otherwise suspect the credibility of the disclosure made by PW-1, apart from this, there is no other evidence to implicate the accused – in such circumstance, prosecution has succeeded in proving the guilt of accused appellant, beyond reasonable doubt, is consequently reversed – Appeal is allowed – conviction and sentence is set aside – direction issued accordingly. Kalinga @ Kushal Vs St. of Karn. (2024 INSC 124),

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. This criminal appeal is preferred by the accused appellant Kishan Pratap Singh challenging the judgment and order dated 17.04.2019, passed by the Sessions Judge, Kannauj in Sessions Trial No.20 of 2011 (State of U.P. Vs. Kishan Pratap Singh), arising out of Case Crime No. 449 of 2010, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station–Tirva, District–Kannauj, whereby he has been sentenced to life imprisonment along with fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo six months rigorous imprisonment.

2. Informant in the present case is the husband of the deceased who gave a written report (Ex.Ka-1) on 05.10.2010 stating that he was in his general merchandise shop at the Plaza Market in Tirva. He received a phone call from his brother (accused appellant) that his children are weeping at the house and that he (informant) should go and enquire as to what is the matter. After closing the shop, informant came to his house at 10:15 p.m. and found the doors of his house open. Dead body of his wife was lying on the floor and her clothes were lying helter-skelter. Upon inquiry he found his wife dead. Apprehension was expressed by the informant that due to enmity on account of a dispute relating to chabutra (platform) his wife may have been done to death by Anoop Singh and Deepu Singh. With these allegations the first information report came to be lodged under Section 302 I.P.C. as Case Crime No.449 of 2010. Anoop Singh and Deepu Singh were the persons shown as accused in the FIR registered at 23:30 p.m. on the date of incident i.e. 05.10.2010.

3. Investigation proceeded in the matter and the inquest started at 1:00 a.m. on 06.10.2010. The inquest witnesses include the accused appellant Kishan Pratap Singh along with others. The inquest witness opined that the death was homicidal and that postmortem be conducted to ascertain the cause of death. The body was sealed and sent to mortuary for conducting postmortem. The postmortem was conducted on 06.10.2010 at 12:30 p.m. wherein following injuries were found on the deceased:

"1-Abraded contusion 3 cm X 1-1/2 cm below the angle of the mandibular bone.

2- Abraded contusion 0.5 cm X 0.5 cm and is below injury no. 1.

3-Abraded contusion 0.5 cm X 0.5cm below Injury No. 2.

4- Abraded contusion 2 cm X 1 cm on left side of neck, 5 cm below the right ear.

5- Abraded contusion 1.5 cm X 1 cm just below right angle of mandibule.

6- Abraded contusion 1 cm X 0.5 cm medial to injury no. 5.

7- Abraded contusion 2 cm X 1 cm lateral to injury no. 5 .

8-Abraded contusion 1 cm X 1 cm on left elbow joint posterior aspect.

9- Abrasion 2 cm X 2 cm medial aspect of left hand, 4 cm below base of little finger.

10- Abrasion 1 cm X 1 cm and is 2 cm lateral to injury no.9."

The cause of death was ascertained as asphyxia as a result of throttling.

4. While investigation was pending in the matter, a second report was made by the informant on 25th of November, 2010 stating that accused appellant Kishan Pratap Singh came to him and confessed that he attempted rape on the deceased and later throttled her to death. In the attempt to commit rape several injuries were caused to the deceased and since he apprehended that the deceased will lodge a complaint about the incident to the informant, as such he had no option but to throttle the deceased, whereafter he fled. This extra judicial confession made by accused to the informant in the presence of P.W.-4 and P.W.-6 forms the basis of the second report dated 25.11.2010, which is exhibited during trial as Ex. Ka-3. The Investigating Officer relying upon this extra judicial confession expunged the name of Anoop Singh and Deepu Singh from the category of accused persons vide Parcha No.6, and submitted charge sheet under Section 302 I.P.C. against the accused appellant on 02.12.2010. The Magistrate took cognizance of charge sheet and committed the case to the court of Session at Kannauj where the case got registered as Sessions Trial No.20 of 2011. The accused appellant was charged of offence under Section 302 I.P.C., which the accused denied and demanded trial.

5. During the course of trial following documentary evidences have been produced:-

"i. F.I.R., Ex.Ka.11, dt. 05.10.2010.

ii. Written Report, Ex.Ka.1, dt. 05.10.2010.

iii. Application, Ex.Ka.3, dt. 25.11.2010.

iv. Recovery Memo of pieces of bangle, Ex.Ka.7, dt. 06.10.2010.

v. P.M. Report, Ex.Ka.4, dt. 06.10.2010.

vi. Panchayatnama, Ex.Ka.2, dt. 06.10.2010.

vii. Charge-sheet, Ex.Ka.6, dt. 02.12.2010.

viii. Charge framed by Sessions Judge, dt. 17.02.2012.

ix. Note framed by Sessions Judge, dt. 17.02.2012."

6. Informant has been produced in evidence as P.W.-1 during trial. He has supported the prosecution case. He has verified both the reports made by him and has stated that the accused appellant confessed his guilt before him on 25.11.2010. During cross examination, the informant has admitted that soon after the murder of the deceased he re-married and is now living with his second wife. He has denied the suggestion that only to solemnize the second marriage he had himself killed his earlier wife (deceased).

7. Dr. Sunil Katyal, who has conducted the postmortem has been produced as P.W.-2. He has proved the postmortem report as per which the hyoid bone of the deceased was fractured and the cause of death was throttling.

8. P.W.-3 Vansh Pratap Singh is the three year old son of the deceased, who was about nine years of age when his statement was recorded during trial. P.W.-3 has supported the prosecution case according to which his mother was done to death by the accused uncle and that he saw the accused throttling his mother. The accused thereafter fled from the house. He has further stated that on the arrival of Police he had informed the I.O. that it was his uncle who had committed the murder of his mother. The police personnel however never met him thereafter and it was for the first time in court that he has specifically implicated the accused appellant. He clarified that within a month of the death of his own mother his second mother had arrived, who loves him.

9. P.W.-4 is Ashish Singh Chauhan, who allegedly was the person before whom extra judicial confession was made by the accused before P.W.-1. In the cross-examination P.W.-4 has however not supported the prosecution case and has stated that his signature were obtained on blank pages by the Police.

10. P.W.-5 is Smt. Yuvraj Kumari. She is the mother of the accused appellant and the informant. She has not supported the prosecution case and is declared hostile.

11. P.W.-6 is Saurabh Singh, who is the brother of the deceased and the second witness of extra judicial confession of the accused. He too has not supported the prosecution case and has been declared hostile.

12. P.W.-7 is the retired Circle Officer Rajendra Dhar Dwivedi, who conducted the investigation in the matter. According to him, he recorded the statement of the informant on 06.10.2010. He also claims that additional Parcha No.1-A was issued by him during the course of investigation on 06.10.2010 itself. He has explained the steps taken by him during the course of investigation. The testimony of P.W.-7 shall be referred to a little later, when the fairness of investigation is examined by us.

13. P.W.-8 is Sub-Inspector Virendra Kumar. He is the Officer who conducted inquest and has proved the police papers.

14. The above materials produced during trial have been confronted to the accused, who has stated that he has been falsely implicated. In reply to question no.12, accused has stated that the informant solemnized second marriage with Smt. Sangita and that he had an affair with her during life time of deceased. He further stated that the Police started suspecting the informant of murdering his own wife whereafter the informant, in collusion with the Police, has falsely implicated him. The defence has also adduced testimony of Arvind Singh as D.W.-1. He is the other brother of the informant and the accused appellant. He has alleged that the informant had an affair with one Sangita and on account of his extra marital affair quarrel used to occur between the deceased and the informant. D.W.-1 claims that he used to mediate to resolve their differences. He has stated that informant married Sangita just after a month of the murder of his wife. He has asserted that accused appellant has no concern with the incident and has been falsely implicated by the informant.

15. The court of Session on the basis of evidence led in the matter has convicted the accused appellant for the aforesaid offence, aggrieved by which accused appellant has preferred the present appeal.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the prosecution evidence is not reliable particularly the extra judicial confession, which is absolutely concocted. Learned counsel further contends that this is a case in which the accused appellant has been falsely implicated by his own brother, after killing his wife so as to marry the lady with whom he was having an affair and to achieve his mischievous design he has manipulated evidence in connivance with the Police and falsely implicated the accused appellant. Learned counsel also urged that the testimony of P.W.-3 is wholly unbelievable inasmuch as if this witness had actually seen the incident in the manner claimed by him and informed his father and the Police there exists no reason for the prosecution to wait for almost 50 days to implicate the accused appellant in the matter. It is also contended that the version of extra judicial confession is a well thought out excuse invented by the informant in collusion with the Investigating Officer.

17. Learned A.G.A., on the other hand, submits that the evidence on record has been correctly appreciated by the court of Session and the conviction of the accused appellant requires no interference.

18. We have heard Shri Kamlesh Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Pankaj Kumar Tripathi, learned A.G.A. for the State and have perused the materials on record.

19. The first version of the incident is based on the intimation of the informant given on 05.10.2010, as per which he received information from his brother (accused) on his mobile stating that his children are crying at home and that he should go and find out the reason. It is thereafter that the informant rushed to his house and saw the dead body of his wife. Apprehension was initially expressed against Anoop Singh and Deepu Singh of murdering the deceased on account of a dispute relating to chabutra (platform). The FIR with these allegations got registered at 11:30 p.m. on 05.10.2010. The inquest started at 01:00 a.m. in the night and was concluded by 04:00 a.m. on 06.10.2010. The inquest witnesses include the accused appellant also which shows that he was present at the time of inquest and had not fled, as was alleged by P.W.-3.

20. In the first information report or even at the stage of inquest there is nothing on record to suspect that it was the accused appellant who had committed the offence. This position clearly contradicts the version of P.W.-3, as per which he saw the accused appellant throttling the deceased and informed both his father and the Police about it.

21. The postmortem was conducted in which the cause of death was ascertained as throttling. As per the prosecution, the implication of the accused appellant surfaced only on the basis of an extra judicial confession made by the accused in the presence of the informant as well as Ashish Singh Chauhan and Saurabh Singh. Ashish Singh Chauhan and Saurabh Singh have been produced as P.W.-4 & P.W.-6, both of whom have not supported the theory of confession and have turned hostile. The only witness of extra judicial confession, therefore, is the informant himself.

22. The sheet anchor of the prosecution case to implicate the accused appellant is the extra judicial confession made by him on 25th of November, 2010 as well as the testimony of P.W.-3, who is the child witness and is the son of the deceased. At the time of the incident, P.W.-3 was around three years old. These two material evidences have been relied upon by the court of Session to hold the accused appellant guilty of offence under Section 302 I.P.C.

23. At this juncture, a serious question arises as to why the accused appellant was not apprehended on 06.10.2010 itself, if the only eye witness of the incident i.e. P.W.-3 had seen the accused appellant throttling the deceased and informed his father (informant) and the Police. Admittedly, there is no other eye witness account of the incident. We have perused the original records of investigation, from the perusal of which it does appear that the statement of P.W.-3 was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. on 06.10.2010 itself and he had clearly disclosed the I.O. about the accused appellant having throttled his mother.

24. It is a matter of surprise that notwithstanding such information given by P.W.-3 to the I.O. and the informant no steps in the course of investigation was taken against him. The accused appellant was neither arrested nor the prosecution investigated the role of the accused appellant in the crime. There is absolutely no explanation put-forth by the prosecution for not proceeding on the basis of disclosure made by P.W.-3. The serious lapse in not implicating/apprehending the accused appellant from 06.10.2010 on-wards, till the introduction of the version of alleged extra judicial confession made by the accused appellant on 25.11.2010 remains wholly unexplained. This lapse creates a serious dent in the prosecution case. Even during the course of arguments in this appeal learned A.G.A. has not been able to furnish any credible justification for not acting on the information of P.W.-3.

25. Only two inferences are available in the above situation. Either the disclosure made by P.W.-3 did not exist or the investigation was misdirected and there was a serious lapse on part of the Investigating Officer in the matter.

26. We shall take up the evidence of P.W.-3, first. In order to appreciate the testimony of P.W.-3, we have perused the original records relating to investigation of the case. The case diary has been perused by the Court. The first Parcha issued by the I.O. on 06.10.2010 mentions the recording of the statement of informant which is consistent with the information given by the informant to the Police and the consequential line of investigation.

27. Surprisingly, on the same day i.e. 06.10.2010 another parcha was issued by the Investigating Officer numbered as 1-A, before Parcha No.2. In the Parcha No.1-A, statement of P.W.-3 was recorded as per which it was the accused appellant who had throttled the deceased in the presence of P.W.-3. P.W.-3 in his testimony before the court has also stated that the accused appellant had throttled the deceased in his presence.

28. The fact that no action was taken by the I.O. on the information given by the P.W.-3 and that this line was not pursued during investigation casts a serious doubt upon the prosecution case. The possibility of this version having been planted, later, cannot be ruled out as it would be inconceivable that no action would be taken by the I.O. on such important information.

29. So far as the extra judicial confession is concerned, the two witnesses to it are P.W.-4 and P.W.-6, both of whom have turned hostile and have not supported the making of extra judicial confession. The informant in the present case is the only witness of extra judicial confession made by the accused. We are therefore required to test the evidentiary value of extra judicial confession allegedly made by the accused appellant to the first informant.

30. The evidence on record makes it clear that the informant remarried within a month of the ghastly murder of his wife. The defence witness D.W.-1 is the real brother of the informant as well as the accused appellant, who has stated that informant had an affair with the lady with whom he later solemnized his second marriage. D.W.-1 has also stated that there were often fight/quarrel between the deceased and the informant on account of the affair between the informant and the lady with whom the informant remarried soon after the death of his wife.

31. P.W.-3 as well as informant both have admitted the factum of remarriage of informant with Smt. Sangita.

In our considered opinion, remarriage of the informant within a month of the murder of his wife is not entirely natural. Remarriage is not expected in ordinary course of things within a month of the murder of the first wife. In the light of the defence evidence that informant had an affair during subsistence of earlier marriage, on account of which quarrel took place between the couple, it would not be safe to rely upon the informant alone to convict the accused.

32. When we test the veracity of the statement of the informant bearing in mind the surrounding circumstances, which reflects adversely on the reliability of the informant, we do not find his testimony to be above doubt.

33. Extra judicial confession by its very nature is otherwise a weak piece of evidence. Unless the attending circumstances are such that the extra judicial confession is found convincing, not much weight can be accorded to it. In view of the fact that the two other witnesses to the extra judicial confession have not supported the prosecution case, and we otherwise suspect the credibility of the disclosure made by P.W.-1, it would be impermissible for us to accept the extra judicial confession as a credible piece of evidence in support of the prosecution case.

34. Law regarding extra judicial confession has been settled by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kalinga @ Kushal Vs. State of Karnataka by Police Inspector Hubli 2024 INSC 124. Relevant paras of the report are reproduced hereinafter:-

"14. The conviction of the appellant is largely based on the extra judicial confession allegedly made by him before PW-1. So far as an extra judicial confession is concerned, it is considered as a weak type of evidence and is generally used as a corroborative link to lend credibility to the other evidence on record. In Chandrapal v. State of Chattisgarh, this Court reiterated the evidentiary value of an extra judicial confession in the following words:

"11. At this juncture, it may be noted that as per Section 30 of the Evidence Act, when more persons than one are being tried jointly for the same offence, and a confession made by one of such persons affecting himself and some other of such persons is proved, the court may take into consideration such confession as against such other person as well as against the person who makes such confession. However, this court has consistently held that an extra judicial confession is a weak kind of evidence and unless it inspires confidence or is fully corroborated by some other evidence of clinching nature, ordinarily conviction for the offence of murder should not be made only on the evidence of extra judicial confession. As held in case of State of M.P. Through CBI v. Paltan Mallah, the extra judicial confession made by the co-accused could be admitted in evidence only as a corroborative piece of evidence. In absence of any substantive evidence against the accused, the extra judicial confession allegedly made by the co-accused loses its significance and there cannot be any conviction based on such extra judicial confession of the co-accused."

15. It is no more res integra that an extra judicial confession must be accepted with great care and caution. If it is not supported by other evidence on record, it fails to inspire confidence and in such a case, it shall not be treated as a strong piece of evidence for the purpose of arriving at the conclusion of guilt. Furthermore, the extent of acceptability of an extra judicial confession depends on the trustworthiness of the witness before whom it is given and the circumstances in which it was given. The prosecution must establish that a confession was indeed made by the accused, that it was voluntary in nature and that the contents of the confession were true. The standard required for proving an extra judicial confession to the satisfaction of the Court is on the higher side and these essential ingredients must be established beyond any reasonable doubt. The standard becomes even higher when the entire case of the prosecution necessarily rests on the extra judicial confession."

35. Apart from the evidence in the nature of extra judicial confession and the testimony of P.W.-3, there is no other evidence to implicate the accused appellant in the present case. Argument of learned A.G.A. that the statement of P.W.-3 tallies with the injuries found on the deceased is absolutely fallacious, inasmuch as we have found that the possibility of the version of P.W.-3 having been introduced subsequently cannot be disbelieved. In that situation, it is but natural that version of P.W.-3 would be consistent with the medical evidence on record. Since we find that there is absolutely no explanation put-forth by the prosecution justifying the non-implication of accused appellant on the strength of the testimony of P.W.-3, till 25th of November, 2010, when the extra judicial confession surfaced, we disbelieve the testimony of P.W.-3.

36. P.W.-3 is a child witness and it would be prudent and desirable to look for other evidence, for the purposes of corroboration, which is found lacking. Testimony of a child witness is otherwise required to be examined with due care and cannot be taken on its face value.

37. In such circumstance no other evidence exists on record to implicate the accused appellant.

38. In view of the discussions and deliberations held above, we cannot endorse the finding of conviction and consequential sentence of the accused appellant by the court below, inasmuch as evidence of extra judicial confession as well as testimony of P.W.-3 have not been subjected to careful scrutiny by the court of Session. The finding that prosecution has succeeded in proving the guilt of accused appellant, beyond reasonable doubt, is consequently reversed.

39. For the reasons and discussions held above, this appeal succeeds and is allowed in part. The judgment and order dated 17.04.2019, passed by the Sessions Judge, Kannauj in Sessions Trial No.20 of 2011 (State of U.P. Vs. Kishan Pratap Singh), arising out of Case Crime No. 449 of 2010, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station– Tirva, District–Kannauj is set-aside.

40. The accused-appellant-Kishan Pratap Singh, who is reported to be in jail, shall be released, forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

List of Cases cited:

1. Krishna Murari Agrawal @ Deepak Vs District Magistrate, Jhansi & ors.

2. Raj Kumar Shivhare Vs Director of Enforcement

(Delivered by Hon'ble Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners, learned A.G.A. for the State/respondents and perused the record.

2. Having considered the facts, circumstances and submissions of learned counsel for the petitioners and learned A.G.A., we do not considered necessary it to call for the counter affidavit from the respondents.

3. By means of this writ petition, the petitioners have sought following main reliefs :-

"(i) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari, for quashing the order dated 10.06.2024 passed by Respondent No.2, annexed with the petition as annexure No.1 & 2,

(ii) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus, commanding the Respondent No.2 & 3, to release the seized properties attached by him,

(iii) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus, to the Respondent No.2 & 3, to permit the Representative of the Petitioners, for taking the Mango Crop at the seized Agricultural Farm of the Petitioners,

(iv) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus, to the Respondent No.2 & 3, for ensuring the videography of the Mango Orchard and Residential House at the time of the release."

4. The facts of the case, in short, are that informant Fareed Ahmad Khan lodged an F.I.R. with the contention that on 02.02.2024 at 15.30 hours, accused Siraj Ahmad @ Lallan Khan reached at the place of occurrence with his persons by Mahendra Thar vehicle and started threatening and abusing his family members. Accused Siraj Ahmad @ Lallan Khan who is an old history-sheeter was carrying a loaded rifle in his hands. Having heard the noise, the cousin of the informant, namely, Munir Khan, who was present at his house, tried to pacify Siraj Khan but Siraj and his son Faraz Khan started exhorting by saying that kill all the family members. Thereafter, Siraj Khan opened fire on Hanjla Khan, who was the minor son of the informant. Having seen the occurrence, cousin of informant, Munir Khan tried to stop him but the accused fired upon him also. When his wife Farin Khan tried to stop them, then Faraj Khan snatched the gun from his father and shot fire at Farin Khan. Consequently, all the three persons died on the spot. He further submitted that above occurrence has been recorded in Camera, which was installed in his residence. Accordingly, an F.I.R. under Sections 302, 504, 506 I.P.C. vide Crime No.0030/2024 was registered at Police Station Malihabad, Lucknow against the accused persons. During investigation, Section 34 I.P.C. as well Section 27/30 of Arms Act were also added. As a result of investigation, prima facie, commission of offence was found. Consequently, the Investigating Officer has submitted charge sheet against named accused persons on 17.02.2024.

5. The S.H.O., Police Station Mall, Lucknow/Investigating Officer of the case submitted his report on 04.03.2024, which was forwarded by the Deputy Commissioner (Upayukt) of Police (West), Lucknow to Police Commissioner, Lucknow. Upon perusal of the report of S.H.O./Investigating Officer along with the documents annexed with the report, the fact came into knowledge of the Police Commissioner that the accused petitioner No.1-Siraj Khan @ Lallan Khan is a vicious offender and under his leadership, a well organized gang is being run. The accused/petitioner No.1 himself along with other members of his gang, is engaged in criminal activities. Infact the accused Siraj Khan was born in an ordinary family and he was brought up by his parents in normal ways. Desirous of lavish life, the accused entered into the field of crime. Thereafter, he established a well organized gang and to get the temporal pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself, started committing offences. The accused has committed offences like Mar-peet, abusing, loot, attempt to murder and murder, just to create his fear and terror in public. Feared by his terror, people could not dare to come forward to lodge complaints or to witness his activities. Petitioner No.2 Faraz Ahmad Khan is the active member of his father's gang and continuously involved in the criminal activities of his father. He has also developed his terror in the area. Further to get in the dispute of possession of land both the accused persons, i.e. Siraz and Faraz along with their companions committed murder of three persons on 02.02.2024 in day light. Consequently, the public order and general life of the people got disturbed. A case under Case Crime No.0030/2024, under Sections 302/504, 506, 34 IPC and Section 27/30 of Arms Act was registered against the above offence. The Commissioner of Police also mentioned in his order dated 10.06.2024 under the U.P. Gangster and Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1986") that petitioner No.1 has acquired 35 piece of land having entire area 3.0779 Hectare having market value of Rs.3,66,00,000/-. He has also built a house No.57/602 situated in revenue village Begaria, Mohalla Adnan Palli, Dubagga, P.S. - Dubagga, Lucknow having area 55000 Sq.Ft. including covered area 17,000 Sq.Ft. having market value of Rs.25.00 Crores. He has also purchased a Mahindra Thar vehicle having registration No. UP 54

AC 9393 for the value of Rs.16.00 Lacs and also a S-Cross Smart Hybrid Car having registration No. UP 32 KX 6396 having value Rs.15,00,000/- which has wrongly been shown to be sold in the name of his brother-in-law Saifulla Khan, whereas the co-accused in above Crime No. 30 of 2024, petitioner No.2 - Faraz Ahmad Khan has acquired 27 immovable properties having total area 3.503 Hectare, whose value, according to the circle rate is Rs.87,58,000/- and the market value is approximately Rs.4,16,18,016/-. It has been alleged that that the above immovable properties have been gifted to petitioner No.2 by his father-petitioner No.1 and his mother Khusnuma Begum. Apart from that, motorcycle bearing UP 32 MY2437 (HF Delux), having value of Rs.50,000/- has been purchased by petitioner No.2. Petitioner No.2 is not having his separate income. The immovable properties which have been gifted to petitioner No.2 by his parents, they could not show their valid source of income as to how they purchased/acquired the aforesaid immovable properties which have been mentioned at Serial No.1 to 37 in the order dated 10.06.2024, all the above immovable properties have been purchased by petitioner No.1 in his and his wife's name, which subsequently have been gifted to petitioner No.2. Petitioner No.1 and his wife have not produced any documentary evidence of their income, and income tax returns of relevant years showing the income for purchase of the properties or details of bank account in which the amounts of income were deposited and from which the amount was used as consideration money. It has also been mentioned in the impugned order that although the petitioner No.2 has submitted the ITRs of Poland for the year 2022, but the same is required to be proved in accordance with law. The motorcycle which is registered in the name of petitioner no.2 has also been purchased by the income of crimes.

6. The Commissioner of Police, Lucknow in his above order has further mentioned that the accused petitioner No.1 - Siraj Ahmad Khan acquired the aforesaid properties which have total market value of Rs.28,97,00,000/-, and the value of the property which is in the name of petitioner No.2, its market value is Rs.4,16,18,016/- (immovable) and Rs.50,000/- (movable). The accused Siraj Ahmad Khan has acquired the above properties by the criminal activities and he and his family members are trying to sell out the above properties. As it has been apprised by the S.H.O., Police Station Mall, District - Lucknow. It has also been apprised to the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow that both the accused/petitioners were not having any known and valid source of income, therefore, the S.H.O., Police Station - Mall, Lucknow proposed to attach the above properties of both the accused/petitioners which were procured by them by the proceeds of crime. The Commissioner of Police, Lucknow having satisfied with the report of the S.H.O. of concerned Police Station, passed its two separate orders dated 07.03.2024 to attach the above mentioned properties of petitioners provisionally. The Commissioner of Police also appointed Tehsildar, Malihabad as receiver of the land of petitioner No.1 mentioned in order dated 07.03.2024 at Serial No.1 to 35 and for land of petitioner No.2 as mentioned in the order dated 07.03.2024 at serial no.1 to 27 and for the properties of petitioner No.1 mentioned at Serial Nos. 36 to 37 and property of petitioner No.2 mentioned at serial no.28, S.H.O., Police Station

Malihabad has been appointed as receiver. He also directed to provide a copy of the attachment order to accused Siraj Ahmad and Faraz Ahmad to enable them to submit their representation within three months of the service of the orders dated 07.03.2024.

7. Aggrieved by the order of provisional attachment, the petitioners had approached this Court vide Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.2875 of 2024, challenging the order dated 07.03.2024, passed by the Police Commissioner under Section 14 (1) of the U.P. Gangster and Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986. The Court after hearing the arguments of the petitioners as well as learned A.G.A. passed order dated 24.04.2024, which is reproduced herein below :-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Petitioners have approached this Court challenging the order dated 7.3.2024 passed under Section 14(1) of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 whereby the property of the petitioners is attached by the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the said order is passed without giving any opportunity of hearing to the petitioners. He further submits that on the said property, there are mango orchards and mangoes are ripping every day, which need to be taken off from trees, otherwise there would be huge loss to the petitioners.

4. Learned A.G.A. draws the attention of the Court to Section 15 of the said Act, which provides an opportunity of hearing to the claimant of the property to submit a representation before the authority concerned within a period of three months from the date of his getting knowledge of such attachment, on which the authority concerned is to pass appropriate orders taking into consideration the reply submitted by the claimant.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the reply/representation would be filed by the petitioners within one week from today to the impugned order dated 7.3.2024.

6. The Commissioner of Police, Lucknow is expected to decide the said reply/representation of the petitioners within a period of three weeks thereafter in accordance with law by a reasoned and speaking order after giving opportunity of hearing to the petitioners.

7. With the aforesaid, present writ petition stands disposed of."

8. The petitioners after passing the orders dated 07.03.2024 submitted their representations, both dated 29.04.2024 to the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow with the prayer to review and recall the orders dated 07.03.2024 and for release of the properties seized and attached. The Court of Commissioner of Police, Lucknow after providing the opportunity of hearing to the counsel for the petitioners, considered the representation of the accused/petitioners and passed his detailed, well discussed and reasoned orders dated 10.06.2024. Vide orders dated 10.06.2024 in the matter of petitioner No.1, the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow has released the vehicle having registration No.UP32 KX 3696 in favour of Shaifulla Khan. So far as the other provisionally attached properties of both the petitioners are concerned, the Court of Commissioner of Police, Lucknow was not satisfied with the genuineness of the claim of the petitioners/accused persons made under sub Section (1) of Section 15 of the Act of 1986. The Court of Commissioner of Police, Lucknow confirmed the provisional attachment under Section 15 of the Act of 1986 as the petitioners could not satisfy the court regarding the source of acquisition of above properties. Accordingly, the Court referred the matter to the Court which was having jurisdiction to try the offence under the Act of 1986.

9. The Commissioner of Police, Lucknow in his orders dated 10.06.2024 also discussed that the petitioner - Siraj Ahmad @ Lallan Khan is engaged in criminal activities since 1973. He has history sheet No.11-A in his credit and has committed 18 criminal offences which have been mentioned in his criminal history. In the year 1984 and 1997, Case Crime No.200/1984, under Sections 394/323 IPC and Case Crime No.111/1997 under Section 307/504/323/506 IPC and Section 25 Arms Act at Police Station Malihabad have been registered against him. He has attached the properties which has been mentioned at serial No.1 to 37 in order dated 10.06.2024 against petitioner No.1 and properties at serial No. 1 to 28 in order dated 10.06.2024 passed against petitioner No.2, by the income of the crime. The properties in the name of petitioner No.2, were given to him by petitioner No.1 and his mother Khushnuma Begam. The petitioners could not show any evidence regarding the purchase of the attached properties, therefore, in the absence of any proof of source of income, it can be concluded that the above properties were obtained by the petitioners by the proceeds of crime as petitioner No.1 was engaged in criminal activities since 1973.

10. The petitioners have challenged the above order dated 10.06.2024 of Police Commissioner, Lucknow in the present writ petition.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioners have submitted that the order passed by the court of Police Commissioner, Lucknow is bad in the eyes of law, as the petitioners have not been provided the opportunity of hearing before the provisional attachment of the properties. There is nothing on record which may prove the ground for satisfaction of the Police Commissioner. The burden of proof was on Police Commissioner regarding "acquisition of property through proceeds of crime". There was sufficient income of the petitioners to purchase the properties as the two sons of petitioner No.1 are residing abroad have given money to purchase the properties. The petitioner No.2 also doing the business in Poland. He has submitted his income tax return for the year 2022, which proves that he earns the income. The Police Officers have wrongly shown 18 criminal cases in the credit of the petitioner as the crime number of the cases have not been mentioned in history sheet. The petitioner No.1 has submitted his supplementary written argument dated 13.05.2024 before the Police Commissioner, Lucknow in which he has mentioned that in Case Crime No.200/1984 and Case Crime No.111/1997, Police Station Malihabad, Lucknow, the petitioner No.1 was acquitted long back and regarding the criminal history, the petitioner No.1 has obtained a report/reply from the Police Station Malihabad, Lucknow under the Right to Information Act. Replying the question dated 21.03.2015 that "whether any criminal case is registered against the petitioner No.1 at Police Station - Malihabad", the S.H.O., Police Station Malihabad has informed that the "information is Nil". Hence, it is wrong to say that 17 criminal cases are registered against him in Register No.8 and H.S. Khaka of Police Station Malihabad, Lucknow. As a base case of gang chart, only one case of 2024 has been mentioned against the petitioners and on the basis of that very case, neither the petitioners can be detained under the provisions of the Act of 1986, nor their properties can be attached under the provisions of the Act of 1986.

12. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the petitioners and submitted that history sheet No.11-A is being maintained by the police against the petitioner No.1. There are 17 criminal cases mentioned in the history sheet, including heinous offences as mentioned in Chapter 16, 17 and 22 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860. The petitioner No.1 could not produce any order of the court showing his acquittal from the offence under Case Crime No.200/1984 and Case Crime No.111/1997. As per the working as prevailed till 1980, prior to the year 1980, except the year of offence, no crime number was being entered in the Register No.8, that is why the offence which have been mentioned at Serial No.12 to 15 in Register No.8 of Police Station, Malihabad, are not having case crime number, although the offences before 1980 as mentioned in Register No.8 and H.S. Khaka contains the sections of criminal law under which the criminal cases were registered against the petitioner No.1. In his application for information under the Right to Information Act, the petitioner No.1 has not prayed for the information from the record of history sheet. The petitioner No.1 has wrongly mentioned that in history sheet of Police Station Malihabad, no criminal case exists against him. Apart from the cases of Police Station Malihabad, the list of case history contains criminal cases which have been lodged against the petitioner No.1 at Serial No.1 to 11 belong to different Police Station of Lucknow and Hardoi. The same has not been denied by the petitioners specifically. The petitioners could not produce the source of income for acquiring the properties. They have not produced any certificate of their regular income, like proof of income tax for the relevant year of purchasing/acquiring the properties and ITRs of subsequent years, showing the income from agriculture/vegitation or from other sources. They could not produce the proof of transaction of money in their bank account from Poland at the stage of hearing of argument. After preliminary attachment as per rule 37(4) of the Act of 1986, the burden of proof was upon the petitioners to prove that the properties attached have not been acquired by the proceeds of crime committed by petitioner No.1. The petitioners could not submit any cogent and relevant proof before the Court of Commissioner of Police, Lucknow at the stage of hearing of their representation under Section 15 of the Act of 1986. The petitioners have statutory right for redressal of their grievance and to take part in the inquiry under Section 16 of the Act of 1986 before court concerned, as the grounds taken by learned counsel for petitioners, require appreciation of evidence. This Court has no jurisdiction to adjudicate the dispute by entering into the facts and evidence. Accordingly, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

13. We have heard learned counsel for the petitioners, learned A.G.A. for the State/respondents and perused the material brought on record.

14. Petitioners have challenged the validity of the orders dated 10.06.2024 in present writ petition. Vide orders dated 10.06.2024, the Court of Police Commissioner, Lucknow has confirmed the attachment of 35 immovable properties of petitioner No.1 and one residential house and one vehicle having registration No.UP54 AC 9393 and 27 immovable properties of petitioner No.2 and one motorcycle. The orders against both the petitioners were passed by the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow under Section 15 of the Act of 1986. The record indicates that before passing the above orders dated 10.06.2024, the Police Commissioner, Lucknow had passed orders dated 07.03.2024 for provisional attachment of the properties of the petitioners. The said orders were challenged by the petitioner before this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.2875 of 2024. The court disposed of the said writ petition with a direction to the petitioners to approach the Court of Police Commissioner, Lucknow under Section 15 of the Act of 1986. This Court had also directed the Police Commissioner, Lucknow to provide an opportunity to the petitioners to submit their representations as well as to provide opportunity of hearing and decide the representations/replies by a reasoned and speaking order, in accordance with law. The order dated 24.04.2024 has not been challenged by the petitioners further and it has attained finality.

15. The record indicates that the petitioners have submitted their representation/counter reply on 29.04.2024 for review of the order dated 07.03.2024, written arguments as well as supplementary written arguments dated 13.05.202 and rejoinder reply dated 03.06.2024 against the parawise comments of S.H.O., Police Station Mall, District Lucknow dated 11.05.2024 before the Court of Police Commissioner, Lucknow. Accordingly, the Police Commissioner, Lucknow after providing the opportunity to submit representations and opportunity of hearing, passed the orders dated 10.06.2024. The orders dated 10.06.2024 contains the discussion in detail, the points of objections of petitioners against the attachment under Section 14 (1) of the Act of 1986. The Court of Police Commissioner, Lucknow passed reasoned and speaking orders after discussing the representations of petitioners properly.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the Court has not provided any opportunity of hearing before passing the order under Section 14 of the Act of 1986. The provisions of Section 14 of the Act of 1986 reads as under :-

"14. Attachment of property - (1) If the District Magistrate has reason to believe that any property, whether movable or immovable, in possession of any person has been acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence triable under this Act, he may order attachment of such property whether or not cognizance of such offence has been taken by any Court.

(2) The provisions of the Code shall mutatis mutandis apply to every such attachment.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Code the District Magistrate may appoint an Administrator of any property attached under sub-section (1) and the Administrator shall have all the powers to administer such property in the best interest thereof.

(4) The District Magistrate may provide police help to the Administrator for proper and effective administration of such property."

17. The wording as mentioned by legislature in the above section provides that if the District Magistrate/Police Commissioner has reason to believe, he may pass order for attachment of the property. The Police Commissioner has mentioned in his order dated 10.06.2024 that he perused the report of S.H.O., Police Station Mall dated 04.03.2024 which was forwarded by the Deputy Commissioner of Police (West), Lucknow and also the documents annexed with the report. It shows that S.H.O., Police Station Mall, Lucknow has given the report of the activities and properties of the accused persons/petitioner Siraj Ahmad @ Lallan Khan and his son Faraz Ahmad. The above report of S.H.O. was perused, considered and thereafter forwarded by Deputy Commissioner (Upayukt) of Police (West), Lucknow and the same was the basis of the orders dated 07.03.2024, which were passed by the Police Commissioner, Lucknow under Section 14 (1) of the Act, 1986. In other words, it can be said that the report of S.H.O., Police Station - Mall, Lucknow, which was forwarded by his senior police officer, the Deputy Commissioner (Upayukt) of Police (West), Lucknow, became the reason to believe that said properties of petitioners have been acquired by criminal activities and to pass the impugned orders by the Police Commissioner, Lucknow.

18. It has also been mentioned in the above orders that the accused persons and their family members are trying to transfer the properties which were acquired by them by the proceeds of crime, therefore, the Police Commissioner, Lucknow has passed the provisional attachment orders dated 07.03.2024. In Section 14 of the Act of 1986, no where it has been mentioned that before passing the order the District Magistrate/Police Commissioner shall require to provide an opportunity of hearing to the accused. It appears that the intention of the legislation was to prevent the immediate alienation of properties because if the opportunity of hearing is provided before passing the order under Section 14 (1) of the Act of 1986, the accused may get sufficient time to transfer the property, then in that case, a complication may come on surface in the proceeding under the Act of 1986. Therefore, it is wrong to say that it was mandatory for Police Commissioner to provide the opportunity of hearing to the petitioners before passing the orders under Section 14 (1) of the Act of 1986. It is also to be noted that challenging the orders dated 07.03.2024, the order of this Court dated 24.04.2024 passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.2873 of 2024 has attained finality.

19. The Commissioner of Police, Lucknow has passed orders dated 10.06.2024 under Section 15 of the Act of 1986. Provisions of Section 15 of the Act of 1986 reads as under :-

"15. Release of property (1) Where any property is attached under Section 14, the claimant thereof may, within three months from the date of knowledge of such attachment, make a representation to the District Magistrate showing the circumstances in and the sources by which such property was acquired by him.

(2) If the District Magistrate is satisfied about the genuineness of the claim made under sub-section (1) he shall forthwith release the property from attachment and thereupon such property shall be made over to the claimant."

20. It reflects from the orders dated 10.06.2024 that the Police Commissioner, Lucknow has passed the order after providing sufficient opportunity of hearing and after considering the representations of the petitioners. The Court of Police Commissioner, Lucknow has discussed in detail the grounds as mentioned in the representations of the petitioners. The Court of Commissioner of Police, Lucknow has also mentioned that the petitioners could not submit any cogent and relevant documentary evidence to prove the source of money by which the properties under attachments were obtained by the petitioners. In this regard the provisions of Rule 37 (4) of the U.P. Gangster and Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 1986 provides that the burden of proof that the property attached has not been acquired by committing offence under the Act and the burden to show lawful source of acquisition of the property shall be on accused whose property in question is attached. In the light of above provision, the burden of proof of both the facts was on petitioners. The proviso to clause (3) of Rule 37, also provides a condition that the criminal cases enumerated in sub clauses (i) to (xxv) of clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act of 1986 should be registered against the petitioner No.1 and the property has been acquired by him by committing such offences. In this regard the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow has discussed in the impugned orders that the petitioner No.1 has been involved in the criminal activities since 1973 and his history sheet No.11-A is entered in Register No.8 of the Police Station - Malihabad. It shows the criminal history of petitioner No.1, and according to that entry total 17 cases are registered since 1974 to 1997 against the petitioner No.1. It has also been brought in the knowledge of Police Commissioner, Lucknow that petitioner No.2 could not submit any cogent and reliable evidence regarding his income to enable him to acquire the properties attached. The properties have been gifted to him by his mother and father (petitioner No.1), although he has submitted his ITR of Poland for the year 2022 but it requires proof. The petitioner No.2 could not show his regular income. The above facts, which have been brought before Police Commissioner also provide a ground for reason to believe that the petitioners have acquired the said properties by the proceeds of crime committed by petitioner No.1 regarding which the petitioners could not submit the documentary proof regarding source of income. Therefore, the orders dated 10.06.2024, passed by the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow cannot be termed arbitrary or baseless. It is in accordance with law, regarding which the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow has jurisdiction conferred in him by the legislation.

21. The further submission of learned counsel for the petitioners that the properties which were attached by the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow were in the names of the family members of the petitioner No.1 and there was no nexus between the commission of offence and acquisition of properties. Some of the properties are ancestral, some of the properties were purchased by the earnings of his sons, Ehraz Khan who is the citizen of Ireland and Shamail Khan who is the citizen of Poland and some property has been purchased by petitioner No.2 from his own income and further submission that the 18 criminal cases have wrongly been shown as registered against the petitioner No.1, the criminal history of petitioner No.1 is not true and the properties under attachment vide orders dated 10.06.2024 have not been obtained by the proceeds of crime, these are the questions of facts and appreciation of evidence, which cannot be decided by this Court under writ jurisdiction.

22. On the above point, learned A.G.A. has placed reliance upon paragraph 4 of the judgment passed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Krishna Murari Agrawal alias Deepak Vs. District Magistrate, Jhansi and others, 2001 CRI. L.J. 949. Paragraph 4 reads as under :

"4. The question whether the property attached has been acquired by a gangster as a result of the commission of an offence under U.P. Gangsters & Anti-Social Activities Prevention Act, 1986 is a pure question of fact. The claim of the petitioner that the property has not been acquired by commission of an offence or that it is an ancestral property can only be established by appraisal of the evidence. It will be open to the petitioner to lead oral and documentary evidence in support of his claim before the Special Judge (Gangsters Act) where the matter has been referred. Such appraisal of evidence is not possible in the present proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The Act provides a complete machinery as against the decision of the Court an appeal lies under Section 18 of the Act."

23. The petitioners have right and statutory remedy under Section 16 of the Act of 1986 in which they will get the opportunity to prove that the properties which have been attached have not been acquired by petitioner No.1 by the commission of the crimes, and further if the petitioners are not satisfied by the order confirming attachment/order of the competent court under Section 17 of the Act of 1986, they shall get opportunity to file appeal under Section 18 of the Act of 1986. According to Section 20 of the Act of 1986, the provisions of the Act of 1986 shall have overriding effect over the inconsistent provisions of general law.

24. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Raj Kumar Shivhare Vs. Director of Enforcement (2010) 4 SCC 772 that where a statutory forum is created by law for redressal of grievance and that too in a fiscal statue, a writ jurisdiction should not be entertained ignoring the statutory dispensation.

25. Having considered the legal aspect that extra ordinary remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not meant to circumvent the statutory remedies, the statutory provisions cannot be bypassed by this court under its supervisory jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

26. In the light of above discussion, we decline to entertain the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

27. Accordingly, the writ petition is rejected. However, the petitioners shall have liberty to raise all the factual and legal issues before the court concerned under Section 16 of the Act of 1986.

1. Personal affidavit of Superintendent of Police, Hamirpur filed today is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Sanjay Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners as well as Sri P.C. Srivastava, Additional Advocate General, assisted by Sri J.K. Upadhyay, Additional Government Advocate and Sri Bhaiya Lal Yadav, learned counsel for the informant.

3. The present writ petition has been preferred with the prayer to quash the impugned First Information Report dated 3.7.2024, registered as Case Crime No. 0271 of 2024, under Sections 376 (2)(n), 354, 147, 452, 504, 506 IPC and Section 4 POCSO Act, PS Maudaha, District Hamirpur, and for a direction to the respondents not to arrest the petitioners in pursuance of impugned First Information Report.

4. On 23.7.2024 the following order was passed:

" The impugned FIR dated 3.7.2024 is registered under the provision of Indian Penal Code and not under Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) which came into force on 1st July, 2024. The

Superintendent of Police, Hamirpur shall file an affidavit why the FIR has not been registered under Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS)

Learned AGA for State submits that the victim is aged about 14 years and she was medically examined and seeks some time to get the instruction in this regard.

List again on 30.7.2024 as fresh."

5. In compliance with the above quoted order, learned AGA has filed a personal affidavit of the Superintendent of Police, Hamirpur. In the affidavit, it is mentioned that Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (B.N.S.) came into force on 1.7.2024 whereas the incident in question had taken place between 2.4.2024 to 28.6.2024, therefore, the first information report was lodged under the provisions of the Indian Penal Code (I.P.C.). It is also mentioned in the personal affidavit that in respect of the procedure after commencement of B.N.S.S., a circular dated 4.7.2024 was issued by the Police Technical Services Headquarters, Uttar Pradesh which provides that if any offence is committed prior to the enforcement of B.N.S., the FIR would be registered under the provisions of Indian Penal code, and procedure of investigation would be followed as per Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita (B.N.S.S.). The said circular dated 4.7.2024 issued by the Police Technical Services Headquarters, Uttar Pradesh is quoted as under:

6. However, learned counsel for the petitioners has contended that the procedure mentioned in the above noted circular dated 4.7.2024 is incorrect for the offence occurred prior to the enforcement of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023, because for this offence the F.I.R. is registered after enforcement of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 (hereinafter referred to as "BNS") as well as the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (hereinafter referred to as "BNSS"), then the F.I.R. should be registered under the BNS.

7. To decide this issue, it would be relevant to quote Section 531 of BNSS as under:-

"531. Repeal and savings. - (1) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 is hereby repealed.

(2) Notwithstanding such repeal—

(a) if, immediately before the date on which this Sanhita comes into force, there is any appeal, application, trial, inquiry or investigation pending, then, such appeal, application, trial, inquiry or investigation shall be disposed of, continued, held or made, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, as in force immediately before such commencement (hereinafter referred to as the said Code), as if this Sanhita had not come into force;

(b) all notifications published, proclamations issued, powers conferred, forms provided by rules, local jurisdictions defined, sentences passed and orders, rules and appointments, not being appointments as Special Magistrates, made under the said Code and which are in force immediately before the commencement of this Sanhita, shall be deemed, respectively, to have been published, issued, conferred, specified, defined, passed or made under the corresponding provisions of this Sanhita;

(c) any sanction accorded or consent given under the said Code in pursuance of which no proceeding was commenced under that Code, shall be deemed to have been accorded or given under the corresponding provisions of this Sanhita and proceedings may be commenced under this Sanhita in pursuance of such sanction or consent.

(3) Where the period specified for an application or other proceeding under the said Code had expired on or before the commencement of this Sanhita, nothing in this Sanhita shall be construed as enabling any such application to be made or proceeding to be commenced under this Sanhita by reason only of the fact that a longer period therefore is specified by this Sanhita or provisions are made in this Sanhita for the extension of time."

8. From the perusal of the above section, it is clear that, if any, investigation is pending on the date of repeal of Cr.P.C. then same will continue as per Cr.P.C. As per Section 157 Cr.P.C. (Section- 176 BNSS) investigation would start from the date of registration of F.IR., therefore if F.I.R. is registered before commencement of new criminal laws then the procedure of the investigation will continue as per the Cr.P.C. because investigation will be deemed to be commenced on the date of registration of the F.I.R. However, in case the F.I.R. is registered after the commencement of new criminal laws for the offence committed prior to the enforcement of new criminal laws then the F.I.R. would be registered under the provision of I.P.C. as the I.P.C. is a substantive law which was prevalent at the time of committing the offence because as per Article 20 of the Constitution of India a person can be convicted of an offence for the violation of law enforced at the time of the commission of the act. Article 20 of the Constitution of India reads as under:-

"20. Protection in respect of conviction for offences*.- (1) No person shall be convicted of any offence except for violation of a law in force at the time of the commission of the Act charged as an offence, nor be subjected to a penalty greater than that which might have been inflicted under the law in force at the time of the commission of the offence.*

(2) No person shall be prosecuted and punished for the same offence more than once.

(3) No person accused of any offence shall be compelled to be a witness against himself."

9. However, the question arises, what would be the procedure of investigation, if the F.I.R. is registered after the commencement of new criminal laws for the offence committed prior to the enforcement of new criminal laws, as such investigation is not saved by Section 531(2)(a) of the BNSS to be conducted as per Cr.P.C. To decide this issue, it is relevant to consider Section 6 of General Clauses Act which provides effect of repealing of any Central Act or Regulation. Section 6 of General Clause Act, 1897 is being quoted as under;

"6. Effect of repeal.- Where this Act, or any Central Act or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act, repeals any enactment hitherto made or hereafter to be made, then, unless a different intention appears, the repeal shall not—

(a) revive anything not in force or existing at the time at which the repeal takes effect; or

(b) affect the previous operation of any enactment so repealed or anything duly done or suffered thereunder; or

(c) affect any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under any enactment so repealed; or

(d) affect any penalty, forfeiture or punishment incurred in respect of any offence committed against any enactment so repealed; or

(e) affect any investigation, legal proceeding or remedy in respect of any such right, privilege, obligation, liability, penalty, forfeiture or punishment as aforesaid;

and any such investigation, legal proceeding or remedy may be instituted, continued or enforced, any any such penalty, forfeiture or punishment may be imposed as if the repealing Act or Regulation had not been passed."

10. From the perusal of Section 6 of the General Clauses Act, it appears that the repeal of Cr.P.C. shall not affect any investigation, legal proceeding or remedy in respect of any liability, penalty or punishment accrued or incurred under the repealed Act and such investigation, legal proceeding or remedy will continue under the repealed Act. It is also clear from

Section-6 of the General Clauses Act, the repeal of I.P.C. or Cr.P.C. will not affect any right, liability accrued or incurred under the repealed Act. Therefore, despite repealing of IPC and Cr.P.C., liability to get punishment under IPC will continue and remedy like an appeal under Cr.P.C. will remain as it is but the forum of appeal being procedural in nature will be as per the B.N.S.S.

11. In the case of Hitendra Vishnu Thakur & Others Vs. State of Maharashtra & Others reported in (1994) 4 SCC 602, the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the effect of repealed provision by way of amendment in pending cases and summarised the law relating to the effect of the amendment of procedural and substantive law. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Hitendra Vishnu Thakur (supra) observed that while right to forum and limitation is procedural in nature, while right of appeal or right of action is substantive in nature and further observed that litigants have a vested right in substantive law but no such right exists in procedural law. Paragraph no.26 of the Hitendra Vishnu Thakur (supra) is being quoted as under:

"26. The Designated Court has held that the amendment would operate retrospectively and would apply to the pending cases in which investigation was not complete on the date on which the Amendment Act came into force and the challan had not till then been filed in the court. From the law settled by this Court in various cases the illustrative though not exhaustive principles which emerge with regard to the ambit and scope of an Amending Act and its retrospective operation may be culled out as follows:

(i) A statute which affects substantive rights is presumed to be prospective in operation unless made retrospective, either expressly or by necessary intendment, whereas a statute which merely affects procedure, unless such a construction is textually impossible, is presumed to be retrospective in its application, should not be given an extended meaning and should be strictly confined to its clearly defined limits.

(ii) Law relating to forum and limitation is procedural in nature, whereas law relating to right of action and right of appeal even though remedial is substantive in nature.

(iii) Every litigant has a vested right in substantive law but no such right exists in procedural law.

(iv) A procedural statute should not generally speaking be applied retrospectively where the result would be to create new disabilities or obligations or to impose new duties in respect of transactions already accomplished.

(v) A statute which not only changes the procedure but also creates new rights and liabilities shall be construed to be prospective in operation, unless otherwise provided, either expressly or by necessary implication."

12. Similarly, in the case of Neena Aneja & Another Vs. Jai Prakash Associates Ltd. reported in (2022) 2 SCC 161, Hon'ble Supreme Court again observed that the amendment on the matter of procedural law will be retrospective unless a contrary intention emerges from the statute. Relevant extract of paragraph no.72 of Neena Aneja's case (supra) is being quoted as under:

"72. In considering the myriad precedents that have interpreted the impact of a change in forum on pending proceedings and retrospectivity—a clear position of law has emerged : a change in forum lies in the realm of procedure. Accordingly, in compliance with the tenets of statutory interpretation applicable to procedural law, amendments on matters of procedure are retrospective, unless a contrary intention emerges from the statute……."

13. Effect of Repeal of I.P.C. and Cr.P.C. and enforcement of new Criminal Laws (BNS and BNSS) was also considered by the Punjab & Haryana High Court in the case of XXXX Vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh and Another (CRM-M-31808-2024 dated 11.07.2024) which was subsequently relied upon by the Kerela High Court in the case of Abdul Khadir Vs. State of Kerala in Crl. Appeal No.1186 of 2024 dated 15 July, 2024 and observed that a fresh appeal or application or revision of the petitioner after the repeal of Cr.P.C. could be filed under the BNSS not under Cr.P.C. and remedial applications/petitions after 01.07.2024 could be filed only under BNSS not under the Cr.P.C. even though the offence was committed prior to 01.07.2024. Paragraph no.9 of the XXXX Vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh (supra) is being quoted as under:

"9. As a sequel to the above-said rumination, the following principles emerge:

I. The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 stands repealed w.e.f. 01.07.2024. Ergo; no new/fresh appeal or application or revision or petition can be filed under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 on or after 01.07.2024.

2. The provisions of Section 4 and Section 531 of BNSS, 2023 are mandatory in nature as a result whereof any appeal/application/revision/petition/trial/inquiry or investigation pending before 01.07.2024 are required to be disposed of continued, held or made (as the case may be) in accordance with the provision of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. In other words; any appeal/application/revision/petition filed on or after 01.07.2024, is required to be filed/instituted under the provision of BNSS 2023.

3. Any appeal/application/revision/petition filed on or after 01.07.2024 under the provisions of Cr.P.C., 1973 is non-maintainable & hence would deserve dismissal/rejection on this score alone. However, any appeal/application/revision/petition filed upto 30.06.2024 under the provisions of Cr.P.C., 1973 is maintainable in law. To clarify; in case any appeal/application/revision/petition is filed upto 30.06.2024 but there is defect (Registry objections, as referred to in common parlance) and such defect is cured/removed on or after 01.07.2024, such appeal/application/revision/petition shall be deemed to have been validly filed/instituted on or after 01.07.2024 and, therefore, would be non- maintainable.

4. Section 531 of BNSS shall apply to "revision", "petition" as also "petition of complaint" (ordinarily referred to as complaint before Magistrate) with the same vigour as it is statutorily mandated to apply to "appeal/application/trial/inquiry or investigation" in terms of Section 531 of BNSS."

14. From the above-discussed case, the following legal position is culled out:

(i) that amended/repealed procedural law will be applicable retrospectively unless otherwise provided in the new Act itself;

(ii) liability or right accrued under the repealed Act will not be affected and same will continue as if the repealing Act did not come into force;

(iii) procedure of investigation, trial, revision and appeal as well as a forum of remedy is part of procedural law, and the same will be applicable retrospectively unless otherwise provided in the new procedural law;

(iv) Litigants have no vested right in procedural law but has vested right in substantive law with accrued right or liability. The statute which not only changes the procedure but also creates new rights and liabilities, shall be construed to be prospective in nature unless otherwise provided.

15. From the above analysis it is clear that if any offence is committed prior to the enforcement of new criminal laws, then if the F.I.R. is registered after the enforcement of new criminal laws, then the same will be registered under the provision of I.P.C. in view of the Article 20 of the Constitution of India, but the procedure for the investigation will be as per the BNSS. Similarly, in case the offence is committed after the enforcement of new criminal laws and thereafter the F.I.R. is registered, then the investigation would be conducted as per the BNSS. However, in case the offence is committed prior to the enforcement of new criminal laws, and F.I.R. is also registered prior to the enforcement of new criminal laws then the procedure of investigation would be as per the Cr.P.C. in view of Section 531(2)(a) of the BNSS. Therefore, the procedure of investigation provided by the circular dated 7.4.2024 of the Police Technical Services Headquarter, U.P. is absolutely correct.

16. On the basis of above analysis, this Court is also summarising the law regarding effect of repealing the IPC and Cr.P.C. by BNS and BNSS respectively and same is being mentioned as below:

(i) If an FIR is registered on or after 1.7.2024 for the offence committed prior to 1.7.2024, then FIR would be registered under the provisions of IPC but the investigation will continue as per BNSS.

(ii) In the pending investigation on 01.07.2024 (on the date of commencement of New Criminal Laws), investigation will continue as per the Cr.P.C. till the cognizance is taken on the police report and if any direction is made for further investigation by the competent Court then same will continue as per the Cr.P.C.;

(iii) The cognizance on the pending investigation on or after 01.07.2024 would be taken as per the BNSS and all the subsequent proceeding including enquiry, trial or appeal would be conducted as per the procedure of BNSS.

(iv) Section 531(2)(a) of BNSS saved only pending investigation, trial, appeal, application and enquiry, therefore, if any trial, appeal, revision or application is commenced after 01.07.2024, the same will be proceeded as per the procedure of BNSS.

(v) The pending trial on 01.07.2024, if concluded on or after 01.07.2024 then appeal or revision against the judgement passed in such a trial will be as per the BNSS. However, if any application is filed in appeal, which was pending on 01.07.2024 then the procedure of Cr.P.C. will apply.

(vi) If the criminal proceeding or chargesheet is challenged before the High Court on or after 01.07.2024, where the investigation was conducted as per Cr.P.C. then same will be filed u/s 528 of BNSS not u/s 482 Cr.P.C.

17. Coming back to the facts of the case, it has been pointed out that in view of the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 CrPC, Section 376 (2)(n) has been deleted and all other offences are punishable with imprisonment upto seven years.

18. Although the prayer for quashing of FIR has been made, but without insisting on the same, only submission is that all alleged offences are punishable with imprisonment upto seven years, therefore the police authorities are bound to follow the procedure laid down under Section 41-A Cr.P.C. The petitioners have been wrongly implicated and should not be arrested. Reliance has been placed on the judgement of Apex Court in Arnesh Kumar Vs. State of Bihar, (2014) 8 SCC 273 and Social Action Forum for Manav Adhikar Vs. Union of India, Ministry of Law and Justice and others in Writ Petition (Civil) No. 73 of 2015 with Criminal Appeal No. 1265 of 2017 Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 156 of 2017 and in Satendra Kumar Antil vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and Another (2022) 10 SCC 51 and co-ordinate Division Bench of this Court in Vimal Kumar & 3 others Vs. State of U.P. & 3 others in 2021 (2) ACR 1147.

19. We have gone through the impugned first information report and without interfering in the same, we are of the opinion that the guidelines framed by the Apex Court in the above noted judgement are equally applicable to the facts of the instant case.

20. Accordingly, the instant petition also stands disposed of in terms of the judgements as noted above.

21. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send a copy of this order to the Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh who will circulate the same to all the District Police Chiefs who will further sensitize the investigating officers under their supervision.

"Heard Shri Abhijit Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Dr. V.K. Singh, learned Government Advocate assisted by Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A-I for the State-respondent Nos. 1 to 5 and perused the material placed on record.

This Court vide order dated 01.08.2024 had passed the following order:-

"Heard Sri Abhijeet Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner and Dr. V.K. Singh, learned Government Advocate assisted by Sri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A.-I for the State as well as perused the record.

The instant writ petition has been filed seeking following main reliefs:-

"I. Issue an order or direction thereby setting aside the order dated 08.02.2024 passed in Criminal Revision No.964 of 2024 (Mahant Bhagwati Prasad Das Vs. State) by which the Criminal Revision so preferred by the petitioner against the order dated 08.01.2024 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No.19 was rejected upon wrong ascertainment of facts, contained as Annexure No.1 to this petition, in the interest of justice.

II. Issue an order or direction thereby setting aside the order dated 08.01.2024 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No.19, Sultanpur by which the application dated 16.05.2023 so preferred by the petitioner for providing him his license book in its original which was being illegally kept by the local police from the date of alleged occurrence till the present was rejected, contained as Annexure No.2 to this petition, in the interest of justice.

III. Issue an order or direction to the concerned authorities for providing to the petitioner original copy of the license No.298 on which his revolver bearing No. H3767 is entered and which presently is being illegally kept back by the police authorities for no valid rhyme and reason, in the interest of justice."

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the police of Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur had seized a revolver of the petitioner bearing No. H3767 with twenty live cartridges alongwith license book illegally and with arbitrary manner on the basis of a false case shown against the petitioner bearing Case Crime No.550/2021, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/25/27/30 of Arms Act registered at Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur.

He further submits that the petitioner being aggrieved by the illegal action of the police of Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur filed a release application before the learned Additional Civil Judge (J.D.) / Judicial Magistrate, Court No.26, Sultanpur for release of the revolver bearing no. H3767 and 20 live bullets alongwith the license book. The learned Magistrate vide order dated 24.02.2023 released the aforesaid revolver bearing No. H3767 alongwith 20 live cartridges, 6 empty cartridge 32 bore and six wooden sticks with the condition that the petitioner shall give a surety of Rs.1,50,000/-. However, the license book of the petitioner was not released and no order was passed in the order dated 24.02.2023 by the learned Magistrate with regard to the license book.

He further submits that after the order dated 24.02.2023 was passed, the revolver no. H3767 alongwith 18 live cartridges and 6 empty cartridges 32 bore were released in favour of the petitioner by the police on 15.05.2023 in pursuance to the order dated 24.02.2023. However, the license book which was illegally seized by the police was not ordered by the learned Magistrate to be released. Thus, the petitioner moved an application before the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.19, Sultanpur on 16.05.2023 for release of the license book, which was seized by the concerned officer posted at that time at Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur.

He further submits that the police to save their conduct have given false statement that they have not seized any license book whereas it was a clear cut plea taken by the petitioner that the said license book was misplaced from the Malkhana and arbitrarily the entry was not made in the records. Thus, the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.19, Sultanpur vide order dated 08.01.2024 rejected the application of the petitioner.

He further submits that against the aforesaid order dated 08.01.2024, the petitioner preferred a Criminal Revision before the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Sultanpur, which was also dismissed by the learned Revisional Court vide order dated 08.02.2024.

Thus, he submits that the findings recorded by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.19, Sultanpur as well as by the learned Revisional Court are perverse and without evidence on record as the petitioner has shown certified copy of the license book, which was filed alongwith the charge sheet by the Investigating Officer. A copy of the same is also filed as annexure no.21 of the affidavit filed in support of this petition, which was duly verified by the then Sub Inspector Vimal Kapoor, Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur with the stamp of the Police Station. Thus, it is crystal clear that the said license was with the police department and they after getting photostat copy of the license, filed it alongwith the charge sheet and the same was also part of the charge sheet. Thus, whatever the statement given before the learned trial court by the police that they had not seized license book, appears to be false and for misleading the court. He further submits that it is clear cut violation of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

Accordingly, this Court is satisfied with the arguments as advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner that a conspiracy had been played by the police for misplacing the license book of the petitioner. The petitioner's license was earlier valid till 31.12.2018 and thereafter, it was extended till 31.12.2021, which contains the stamp of Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur on the photostat copy of the license. Thus, there is no doubt that the license book was with the police at the time of seizure and they filed the copy in the charge sheet as appears from the record.

Thus, it appears that the police want to unnecessarily harass the petitioner and they had misplaced the license book. As such, the act and conduct of the police of Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur appears to be very casual that shows the negligence and casual approach adopted by the police.

Accordingly, this Court deems it appropriate that the Superintendent of Police, Sultanpur and Station House Officer of Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur alongwith the then Sub Inspector of Police Vimal Kapoor, Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur shall appear in person alongwith their explanation and records before this Court to justify their conduct about the copy of license filed at the time of filing of chargesheet, which contained at annexure no.21 of the affidavit filed alongwith this petition.

Put up this case on 05.08.2024 before this Court for further orders.

Till the next date of listing, the effect and operation of the order dated 08.02.2024 passed in Criminal Revision No.964 of 2024 (Mahant Bhagwati Prasad Das Vs. State) as well as the effect and operation of the order dated 08.01.2024 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No.19, Sultanpur shall remain stayed in respect of the petitioner.

This case shall be treated as tied up or part heard to this Bench.

Let a copy of this order be provided to Dr. V.K. Singh, learned Government Advocate and Sri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A.-I for the State for immediate onward communication to the Superintendent of Police, Sultanpur, Station House Officer, Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur and the then Sub Inspector of Police Vimal Kapoor, Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur to ensure their personal appearance before this Court alongwith their explanation on 05.08.2024.

Senior Registrar of this Court is also directed to communicate this order to the Superintendent of Police, Sultanpur immediately for necessary compliance."

In compliance of the order dated 01.08.2024 (quoted above) passed by this Court, the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur, namely-Shri Somen Barma alongwith Station House Officer, Police Station-Kadipur, namely-Ashok Kumar Singh, and the then Sub Inspector posted at Police Station-Kadipur, namely-Vimal Kapoor are present before this Court in person.

Personal affidavits of all the officers present before this Court in person filed today by learned A.G.A.-I for the State-respondent Nos.1 to 5 are taken on record.

On query made by this Court to Superintendent of Police, Sultanpur regarding the laxity and misconduct on the part of his subordinates in the present case, on which he tendered unconditional apology and after perusing the photostat copy of the license book of the petitioner bearing License No.298/January/Sultanpur for Revolver No.H3767 duly attested and certified with Stamp of Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur and signed by the then Sub Inspector, namely-Vimal Kapoor, which was lastly renewed up to 31.12.2021, he submits that the same was deposited in the Maalkhana of Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur, this fact also been confirmed by the then Sub Inspector, namely-Vimal Kapoor but the license book got misplaced from the Maalkhana of Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur. He further stated that on the basis of one case bearing Case Crime No.550/2021, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/25/27/30 of Arms Act registered at Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur the police of Police Station Kadipur, District Sultanpur had seized a revolver of the petitioner bearing No. H3767 with twenty live cartridges alongwith license book. He further stated that learned Magistrate vide order dated 24.02.2023 released the aforesaid revolver bearing No. H3767 alongwith 20 live cartridges, 6 empty cartridge 32 bore and six wooden sticks with the condition that the petitioner shall give a surety of Rs.1,50,000/-. However, the license book of the petitioner could not be released as it got misplaced by his subordinates posted at Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur.

He further stated that he has taken strict actions against the officials responsible for the misconduct and laxity and further assured this Court that a duplicate copy of the license book shall be provided to the petitioner on the next date of listing as the details of the original license book is already available with the Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur, which has also been annexed with the petition as Annexure No.21. He also stated before this Court that the license book will be given to the petitioner after extending the due date up to 31.12.2024.

The then Sub Inspector, namely-Vimal Kapoor also made an agreement with the statements made by the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur and submits that when the seizure was done by him, he deposited all the seized items with the In-charge of the Maalkhana of Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur but the license book got misplaced and rest of the articles/ammunition were returned back to the petitioner in compliance of the order dated 24.02.2023 passed by learned Additional Civil Judge (J.D.) / Judicial Magistrate, Court No.26, Sultanpur.

The Station House officer, Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur stated before this Court that after due investigation, he came to know that the said license book was deposited in the Maalkhana of the Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur but the same got misplaced from the Maalkhana of the concerned police station.

Dr. V.K. Singh, learned Government Advocate assisted by Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A-I for the State-respondent Nos.1 to 5 also submit that as the officials concerned have tendered their apologies before this Court due to misconduct and laxity committed by them and assured this Court that they may be given some further time to prepare a duplicate license book of the petitioner with a renewed date up to 31.12.2024, which will be handed over to the petitioner on the next date of listing, thus, this court may grant them some time to prepare the same and hand it over to the petitioner on the next date fixed. They further submit that they will also assure that the officers concerned shall make all the endeavors to keep their assurances given by them to this Court.

After hearing learned Counsel for the parties, considering the assurances given by the officers present before this Court in person and after perusal of record, this Court finds that as it has been admitted by the officers concerned, that the license book of the petitioner got misplaced from the Maalkhana of Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur and the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur has taken strict actions against his subordinates responsible for the misconduct and laxity, therefore, this Court does not want to express any opinion on the internal actions and investigations made by Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur in his capacity but this Court deems it proper to direct the officers concerned to provide the petitioner his license book, which is necessary for keeping a weapon and the misconduct and laxity on the part of police officials has resulted in violation of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

Thus, the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur alongwith Station House Officer, Police Station-Kadipur, District-Sultanpur is directed to prepare a duplicate copy of the license book of the petitioner with a renewed date up to 31.12.2024 and hand it over to the petitioner on the next date of listing.

Accordingly, list/put up this case on 12.08.2024 before this Court for further orders.

This case shall be treated as part heard and tied up to this Bench.

On the next date of listing, the petitioner, namely-Mahant Bhagwati Prasad Chela Late Mahant Janki Das, the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur, namely- Shri Somen Barma alongwith Station House Officer, Police Station-Kadipur, namely-Ashok Kumar Singh, and the then Sub Inspector posted at Police Station-Kadipur, namely-Vimal Kapoor shall remain present before this Court in person.

Till the next date of listing, the effect and operation of the order dated 08.02.2024 passed in Criminal Revision No.964 of 2024 (Mahant Bhagwati Prasad Das Vs. State) as well as the effect and operation of the order dated 08.01.2024 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No.19, Sultanpur shall remain stayed in respect of the petitioner."

3. In compliance of the order dated 05.08.2024 (quoted above) passed by this Court, the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur, namely-Shri Somen Barma alongwith Station House Officer, Police Station-Kadipur, namely-Ashok Kumar Singh P.No. 092140051, and the then Sub Inspector posted at Police Station-Kadipur, namely-Vimal Kapoor P.No. 982462100 and the petitioner, namey-Mahant Bhagwati Prasad, son of Late Kashi Prasad Pandey, Chela of Late Shri Mahant Janki Das are present before this Court in person.

4. Compliance affidavit filed today by learned A.G.A-I for the State-respondent Nos.1 to 5 on behalf of respondent No.3 is taken on record. Paragraph Nos.2, 3 and 4 of the compliance affidavit filed on behalf of respondent No.3 are reproduced hereinunder:-

"2. That it is respectfully submitted that in compliance of the order dated 05.08.2024 passed by the Hon'ble Court a second copy of the license book of petitioner bearing UIN Number 330270020986872015 License Number-LN 33027 A7 A 2 A 824 298/ KADIP-I having validity upto 31.12.2026 has been issued from the office of the District Magistrate, Sultanpur. A true copy of the second of license book is enclosed herewith as Annexure No.1 to this affidavit for kind perusal of the Hon'ble Court.

3. That it is respectfully submitted that in compliance of the order passed by the Hon'ble Court, the deponent will put his appearance before the Hon'ble Court on 12.08.2024 and a true second copy of the license book will be submitted before Hon'ble Court at the time of hearing.

4. That it is respectfully submitted that the deponent has highest regard to the orders passed by the Hon'ble Court and duty bound to obey any orders passed by the Hon'ble Court."

5. The Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur has produced the true copy of the second Arm License Book of Revolver bearing No.H3767 of the petitioner before this Court for its perusal and to be handed over to the petitioner in original with an extended validity up to 31.12.2026.

6. This Court perused the original second Arm License Book of Revolver bearing No.H3767 of the petitioner produced before this Court by the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur and directed him to hand it over to the petitioner in original. Thereafter, the second Arm License Book of Revolver bearing No.H3767 of the petitioner with an extended validity up to 31.12.2026 has been handed over to the petitioner, namely-Mahant Bhagwati Prasad, son of Late Kashi Prasad Pandey, Chela of Late Shri Mahant Janki Das in the open Court.

7. Learned Counsel for the petitioner as well as the petitioner, who is present before this Court in person submits before this Court that now the petitioner has no grievance to be redressed by this Court as he has got second Arm License Book of Revolver bearing No.H3767, thus, they submit that this petition may be disposed of in view of the above facts and circumstances of the case.

8. Dr. V.K. Singh, learned Government Advocate assisted by Shri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A-I for the State-respondent Nos.1 to 5 also made an agreement with the submissions advanced by learned Counsel for the petitioner and submit that now the petitioner has no grievance and the same has been resolved by this Court with the best efforts of Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur, thus, they submit that this petition may be disposed of and the personal appearance of the officers present before this Court in person may be exempted till further orders of this Court.

9. After hearing learned Counsel for the parties and the parties who are present before this Court in person and after perusal of record, this Court finds that the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur, namely-Shri Somen Barma has complied with the order dated 05.08.2024 in full spirit and has produced the second Arm License Book of Revolver bearing No.H3767 of the petitioner with an extended validity up to 31.12.2026 and the same has been handed over to the petitioner in the open Court today, thus, nothing remains to be adjudicated by this Court in this petition and the petitioner also submitted before this Court that he has no grievance left to be redressed by this Court.

10. Thus, in view of the above observations, this petition is hereby partly allowed and the order dated 08.01.2024 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No.19, Sultanpur is modified, accordingly.

11. It is further observed here that this Court is not passing any order on the misconduct and laxity on the part of the officers involved in this case and the Superintendent of Police, District-Sultanpur is at liberty to take appropriate action against the officers concerned, in accordance with law.

12. Personal appearance of the officers, who are present before this Court in person is exempted till further orders of this Court.

13. Consigned to record.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rama Niwas Pathak, the learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Amit Kumar Shukla, the learned counsel for the opposite parties.

2. By means of the instant petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, the petitioners have challenged validity of an order dated 20.01.2023 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Faizabad in Original Suit No. 373/2001, whereby the trial court has allowed the application filed by the opposite parties for consolidation of Original Suits No. 21/2011 and 811/2014 with Original Suit No. 373/2001. The petitioners have also challenged validity of judgment and order dated 11.07.2024 passed by the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Faizabad in Civil Revision No. 08/2023, whereby the revision filed against the order dated 20.01.2023 passed by the Civil Judge has been dismissed.

3. The opposite parties filed an application under Order IV-A C.P.C. for consolidation of the aforesaid three suits stating that all the suits are between the same set of parties regarding the same property in dispute and all the three suits can be consolidated and decided together. The petitioners filed objections against the application stating that Suit No. 373/2001 has been filed for the reliefs of declaration and perpetual injunction, Suit No. 21/2011 has been filed for cancellation of sale deed and Suit No. 811/2014 has been filed for cancellation of will and the subject matters and causes of action of all the three suits are different.

4. The learned Civil Judge had allowed the application for consolidation of all the three suits by the impugned order dated 20.01.2023 by recording that all the three suits relate to the properties of the same family. During pendency of Suit No. 373/2001, some portion of the property in dispute was transferred to some other members of the family, due to which the subsequent suits have been filed. The subject matters of all the three suits are interlinked and all the suits can be decided together, which will save the judicial time of the Court.

5. Accordingly, the trial court allowed the application for consolidation of the suits. The petitioners filed a revision against the order of consolidation of suits passed by the civil court which has been dismissed by means of the impugned order dated 11.07.2024 on the ground that all the three suits relate to the properties of the same family and they can be consolidated and decided together and that there is no illegality in the order passed by the trial court in consolidation of the suits.

6. While assailing validity of the aforesaid orders, the learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that as the parties to the suits, cause of action for filing the suits and prayer sought are different, the suits cannot be consolidated. He has placed reliance on two judgments referred by the Rajasthan High Court in Ramanand v. Civil Judge (S.D.), Merta (Raj.): AIR 2017 (NOC) 668 (RAJ.) and M/s Anurag and Co. & Anr. v. Add. District Judge & Ors.: AIR 2006 Rajastahan 119 = 2006 SCC OnLine Raj 4.

7. Per contra, the learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that although some of the parties to the suits are different, all the parties claim to have derived title from the common predecessors in interest. All of them belong to the same family and all the suits have been filed regarding properties belonging to one family. Although the prayers made in the three suits are different, all the suits relate to the same set of properties and, therefore, the learned trial court has not committed any illegality in consolidating the suits.

8. Order IV-A has been inserted in the Code of Civil Procedure by way of a State amendment made in the State of U.P.. This Order contains only one Rule, which is as follows: -

"R. 1. Consolidation of suits and proceedings.--When two or more suits or proceedings are pending in the same Court, and the Court is of opinion that it is expedient in the interest of justice, it may by order direct their joint trial, whereupon all such suits and proceedings may be decided upon the evidence in all or any such suits or proceedings."

9. The aforesaid Rule merely provides that two or more suits or proceedings pending in the same Court can be consolidated if the Court is of opinion that it is expedient in the interest of justice. If the suits are consolidated and tried jointly, the suits may be decided upon the evidence in all or any such suits. Order IV-A Rule 1 C.P.C. does not require that the suits can be consolidated only if the cause of action and the reliefs sought in all the suits is the same. Where the Court comes to the conclusion that plural suits are pending before it which are between the members of the same family deriving title from common predecessors in interest and the issues involved in the suits are interlinked, the Court can certainly order consolidation of the suits as it will save the time of the Court, avoid a possibility of conflicting decisions in the suit and thereby serve the interests of justice.

10. The aforesaid Rule is not applicable in the State of Rajasthan and it was not in consideration in the cases relied upon by the learned Counsel for the petitioner. However, in Anurag (Supra), the Rajasthan High Court formulated the following general principles for consolidation of suits even in absence of a specific statutory provision in this regard:-

"28. The upshot of aforesaid discussion of judgment is that some of the relevant circumstances for consolidating the civil suits are as follows:-

(i) The parties are substantially the same.

(ii) Complete or even substantial and sufficient similarity of the issues arising for decision in two suits.

(iii) Common evidence is to be led, if parties are substantially the same, if only one party is common then burden of proof of facts in issue will be on different person and no common evidence can be led.

(iv) The consolidation in the aforesaid circumstances will fulfill the object of consolidation. Any other circumstances may be relevant then also the object of consolidation will be decisive for passing appropriate order."

11. In Ramanand (Supra), the Rajasthan High Court has decided the case on the basis of peculiar facts of the case and it had noted that 'it is succinct position of law that precedential verdicts are to be followed where the facts of the case are almost identical in nature or the question of law involved is identical'. In the case decided by the Rajasthan High Court, the trial court had rejected the application for consolidation of suits and the High Court also found that the parties to the suits and the documents forming basis of claims of the parties to the suit, were not the same and there was no possibility of conflicting judgments in separate suits. Keeping in view the aforesaid facts the Rajasthan High Court did not find any illegality in the order declining to consolidate the suits.

12. In the present case, all the three suits relate to the same set of properties belonging to one family. All the parties belong to one family and they claim to have derived title from common predecessors in interest. Therefore, the parties to the suits are substantially the same. There is substantial similarity in issues also. When all the suits will be consolidated and decided together, it will be open for the parties to lead evidence accordingly in support of the issues involved in all the suits, which will obviously save the precious judicial time of the court and prevent wastage of resources of the parties also. Therefore, no prejudice will be caused to the petitioners by consolidation of the suits.

13. In view of the foregoing discussion, I am of the considered view that the consolidation of all the three suits will be expedient in the interests of justice and the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Faizabad has rightly ordered consolidation of the three suits. There is no illegality or error in the impugned order dated 20.01.2023 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Faizabad in Original Suit No. 373/2021 and the judgment and order dated 11.07.2024 passed by the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Faizabad in Civil Revision No. 08/2023, warranting interference from this Court.

14. The petition lacks merit and the same is dismissed.

6. उपरोक्त आदेशों को वैधता को चुनौती देते हुए याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने कहा कि डोमिनस लाइटिस के सिद्धान्त के अनुसार वादी को यह अधिकार है कि वह अपने विपक्षीगण को

चुनाव कर सके तथा उसे किसी भी पक्षकार को किसी अन्य पक्ष के विरुद्ध वाद लड़ने के लिए मजबूर नहीं किया जा सकता।

7. इस तर्क के समर्थन में याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने गुरमीत सिंह भाटिया बनाम किरन कान्त रॉबिनसन (2020) 13 SCC 773 तथा अन्य के निर्णय का आश्रय लिया। उपरोक्त प्रकरण में प्रार्थी ने संविदा के विनिर्दिष्ट अनुपालन हेतु एक वाद प्रस्तुत किया था, जिस वाद में तृतीय पक्ष पक्षकार नहीं था। वाद के लंबित रहने के दौरान तृतीय पक्ष ने वही संपत्ति, जिसके संबंध में वादी के पक्ष में एक विक्रय अनुबंध निष्पादित हो चुका था, क्रय कर ली। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने Kasturi vs. Uyyamperumal (2005) 6 SCC 733 के निर्णय का आश्रय लिया जिसमें माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह अवधारित किया था कि आदेश 1 नियम 10 दीवानी प्रक्रिया संहित में किसी व्यक्ति को पक्ष बनाने का प्रश्न तब तक नहीं उठ सकता, जब तक उस व्यक्ति का विवाद में कोई वैधानिक हित सम्मिलित नहीं है। प्रश्नगत प्रकरण के तथ्यों से यह स्पष्ट है कि विपक्षी संख्या 2 वादग्रस्त संपत्ति में अपना वैधानिक हित होने का दावा करता है, जिस दावे की सत्यता विपक्षी संख्या 2 को पक्षकार बनाकर और उसे साक्ष्य का अवसर देने के बाद ही निर्णीत की जा सकती है।

8. कनकलता दास तथा अन्य बनाम नबा कुमार दास तथा अन्य (2018) 2 SCC 352 तथा मो० हुसैन गुलाम अली शरीफी बनाम म्यूनिसिपल कॉर्पोरेशन ऑफ ग्रेटर बॉम्बे तथा अन्य (2020) 14 SCC 392 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह अवधारित किया है कि पक्षकार वादी की इच्छा के विरुद्ध भी पक्ष बनाये जा सकते हैं तथा डोमिनस लाइटिस का सिद्धान्त आवश्यक पक्षकारों के पक्ष बनने के अधिकार को समाप्त नहीं करता है।

9. बम्बई इण्टरनेशनल एयरपोर्ट प्रा० लि० बनाप रिजेंसी कन्वेंशन सेण्टर और होटल तथा अन्य (2010) 7 SCC 417 SCC में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित किया कि पक्ष बनाये जाने के संबंध में सामान्य नियम यह है कि किसी वाद का वादी यह चुनाव कर सकता है कि वह किन व्यक्तियों के विरुद्ध वाद प्रस्तुत करना चाहता है तथा उसे ऐसे किस व्यक्ति के विरुद्ध मुकदमा लड़ने के लिए बाध्य नहीं किया सकता है, जिसके विरुद्ध वह कोई अनुतोष नहीं चाह रहा है। कोई व्यक्ति जो वाद में पक्षकार नहीं है, वादी की इच्छा के विरुद्ध पक्ष बनने का अधिकार रखता है, परन्तु यह सामान्य नियम आदेश 1 नियम 10 (2) दीवानी प्रक्रिया संहिता के प्रावधानों के अधीन है, जो आवश्यक अथवा उचित पक्षकारों को पक्ष बनाये जाने के संबंध में

10. माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने बम्बई इण्टरनेशनल एयरपोर्ट प्रा० लि० के उपरोक्त निर्णय में यह कहा कि उपरोक्त प्राविधान यह स्पष्ट करता है कि न्यायालय कार्यवाही के किसी भी प्रक्रम में आवश्यक पक्षकारों को जोड़ने का आदेश पारित कर सकता है। यदि वह पक्ष आवश्यक या उचित पक्षकार हो। आवश्यक पक्षकार वह व्यक्ति होता है, जिसको वाद में पक्ष बनाना चाहिए था तथा जिसकी अनुपस्थिति में न्यायालय कोई प्रभावी आज्ञप्ति पारित नहीं कर सकता है। यदि किसी आवश्यक पक्षकार को पक्ष नहीं बनाया जाय तो वाद इस आधार पर निरस्त होने योग्य हो जाता है। उचित पक्षकार वह व्यक्ति होता है, जो यद्यपि आवश्यक पक्षकार नहीं है, तदापि वह एक ऐसा व्यक्ति है जिसकी उपस्थिति न्यायालय को पूर्ण प्रभावी तथा समुचित रूप से प्रकरण में सम्मिलित सभी विवादों को निर्णीत करने में न्यायालय को समर्थ बनाएगी, यद्यपि उस व्यक्ति के पक्ष में अथवा उसके विरुद्ध कोई आज्ञप्ति नहीं पारित होनी है। यदि कोई व्यक्ति आवश्यक अथवा उचित पक्ष न हो तो न्यायालय को ऐसे व्यक्ति को वादी की इच्छा के विरुद्ध वाद में पक्षकार बनाये जाने का क्षेत्राधिकार प्राप्त नहीं होता है।

11. उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्था के दृष्टिगत जब विपक्षी संख्या 2 का हित वादग्रस्त संपत्ति में निहित होने का कथन किया गया है, जिस पर न्यायालय का निर्णय आना आवश्यक है, वह वाद में एक आवश्यक पक्षकार है तथा डोमिनस लाइटस के सिद्धान्त के आधार पर उसको वादी पक्षकार बनने से रोक नहीं सकता है।

12. उपरोक्त समीक्षा के आलोक में इस न्यायालय का यह मत है कि आलोच्य आदेश दिनांकित 19.02.2014 तथा 10.10.2022 में कोई त्रुटि नहीं है।

13. याचिका बलहीन है और तद्नुसार निरस्त की जाती है।

List of Cases cited:

St. Bank of Hyderabad Vs Town Municipal Council (2007) 1 SCC 765

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit filed today be taken on record.

2. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for the respondent no.1 and Sri D.S. Chauhan, learned counsel for the respondent no.2.

3. Present petition has been filed for setting aside the impugned order dated 9.2.2024 passed by the learned Additional Civil Judge, S.D., New Court No.1, Moradabad in Original Suit No. 288 of 1991.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that earlier petitioners have filed Original Suit No. 288 of 1991 before the trial Court for return of land and payment of compensation. He next submitted that at the stage of final hearing, they have filed amendment application on 17.1.2024 for formal amendment to ensure the return of land and compensation in favour of trust and not the private person, which was rejected vide order dated 9.2.2024 on the ground that it has been filed at very belated stage. He further submitted that though the due diligence of Order 6 Rule 17 of CPC inserted through amendment in 2002 has not been referred to any of the order, but the crux of impugned order is based upon the lack of due diligence.

5. He firmly submitted that in light of judgment of Apex Court in the case of State Bank of Hyderabad vs. Town Muncipal Council reported in (2007) 1 SCC 765, amended provision of Order 6 Rule 17 of CPC shall not be applicable to a suit, which was instituted prior to which pleadings have been exchanged.

6. He also pointed out that from the proposed amendment application, nature of suit would not be changed and in case suit is decreed, land or compensation whatsoever is the case, be vested in the trust and not in the hands of ancestors of R.A.N. Sinha, who has created the trust, therefore, on both the grounds, impugned order is bad and liable to be set aside.

7. Sri D.S. Chauhan, learned counsel for the respondent no.2 could not dispute the legal as well as factual submissions so raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

8. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

9. There is no dispute on the point that Mr. R.A.N. Sinha has created the trust in the year 1973. Now the trust is having dispute with the respondent no.2 with regard to excess land acquisition. After amendment, in case suit is decreed either land or compensation as the case may be would be vested with the trust and not with the individual persons. Therefore, intention of filing of amendment is bonafide

10. I have perused the judgment of State Bank of Hyderabad (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"8. In view of the said provision there cannot be any doubt whatsoever that the suit having beeing filed in the year 1988, proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code shall not apply.

9. The High Court relied upon the said proviso and opined that having regard thereto the plaintiff was obligated to establish that in spite of due diligence it could not have raised the matter before commencement of the trial of the suit. The High Court evidently committed an illegality in relying upon the said provision."

11. From perusal of the aforesaid judgment, it is apparently clear that proviso of Order VI Rule 17 of CPC inserted through amendment in 2002, would not be applicable to the suits, which are pending prior to the date of amendment, therefore, this cannot be ground to reject the amendment application.

12. Therefore, under such facts and circumstances as well as law laid down by the Apex Court, the impugned order dated 9.2.2024 passed by the learned Additional Civil Judge, S.D., New Court No.1, Moradabad is hereby quashed and petition is allowed. Petitioners are directed to carry out necessary amendment within two weeks from today. Further, trial Court is also directed to decide the suit in accordance with law.

Anil Kumar Mahajan Vs U.O.I. & ors. civil Appeal No. 4944 of 2013 (arising out of SLP (C) No. 26400 of 2010)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sharad Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Vanya Bharadwaj, Advocate holding brief of Sri Anil Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs :-

"A) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of CERTIORARI to quash the order dated 08.01.2004 passed by opposite party No.1 (Annexure No.19); Order dated 05.07.2002 passed by opposite party No.2 (Annexure No.17) and the order dated 16.12.2001 passed by opposite party No.3 (Annexure No.15).

A-(i) a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned discharge orders dated 15.05.2005 discharging the petitioner from service of company on medical ground after summoning its original from the opposite parties.

A-(ii) a writ, order or mandamus commanding the opposite parties to pay arrear of salary to petitioner and interest on same at rate of 18% p.a. compounded annually.

B) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of MANDAMUS to directing the opposite parties to take any action in pursuance to impugned order.

C) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of MANDAMUS not to reduce the pay of the petitioner and further pay the petitioner the pay his salary in Grade I without treating him reverted.

D) Issue an appropriate direction to the opposite parties to pay the petitioner the allowances to the petitioner in Grade I of the Administrative Officer.

E) Issue an ad-interim order in favour of the petitioner.

F) Award the cost of the petition to the petitioner."

3. Brief facts of the case are that the petitioner is a Development Officer in United India Insurance Company Ltd., Lucknow, who was suffering from a disease of mental disorder. He was examined by the physicians of K.G.M.U. The diagnosis was that he was suffering from disease of Bipolar Affective Order. Vide order dated 13.9.1993, he was suspended for certain act of omission on this part and on 16.12.1993, charge-sheet was issued. Thereafter, on 4.4.1994, preliminary hearing was done.

4. The petitioner sought appointment of his defence assistant vide letter dated 18.4.1994. Subsequent selection of defence assistant could not materialise either on the ground of their illness or on the ground that companies did not permit them to act as the defence assistant.

5. On 25.8.1995, the enquiry officer conducted the enquiry without there being any defence assistant on behalf of the petitioner, who being a case of mental disorder and could not conduct his case. The enquiry officer submitted the enquiry report which did not contain any date.

6. The punishing authority awarded major punishment to the petitioner reducing him by three steps in scale in Grade-I and II, fitting the petitioner at a basic pay of Rs.5,050/- in the lower grade. The suspension period was not to be taken as period spent on duty, it is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner.

7. The petitioner filed an appeal before the Assistant General Manager (respondent No.2), which was rejected on the basis of comments of respondent No.3 and without providing any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. Thereafter, the petitioner filed a Memorial before the Chairman-cum-Managing Director of the Company, who rejected the same, filed under Rule 40.

8. Thereafter, the petitioner, by passing an order of discharge, was discharged from duties on the ground of medical with immediate effect.

9. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the enquiry was conducted without providing defence assistant to the petitioner, therefore his submission is that the enquiry is ex-parte in nature and same cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. Next submission is that on the basis of ex-parte enquiry report, the impugned orders have been passed, reducing the petitioner on minimum pay scale, therefore, the order being based on ex-parte enquiry report, is not sustainable in the eyes of law. He further submitted that the appeal filed against the order of punishment was rejected without considering the fact that the enquiry was ex-parte in nature without providing defence assistant to the petitioner, therefore, the appellate order also suffers from vices of principles of natural justice.

10. It is submitted that the impugned order of discharge is wholly without jurisdiction. No employee can be discharged on medical grounds. He placed reliance upon Section 47 (Non-discrimination in Government employment) of the Act known as the Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner also placed reliance upon paragraph-20 of the judgment in the case of Anil Kumar Mahajan Vs. Union of India & others [Civil Appeal No.4944 of 2013 arising out of SLP (C) No.26400 of 2010], wherein Section 47 of the aforesaid Act of 1995 was considered.

12. On the other hand, Ms. Vanya Bharadwaj, Advocate invited attention of this Court on the enquiry report and submitted that time to time, defence assistant was changed due to which, no sanction was granted to the petitioner for appointment of defence assistant. She further submitted that enquiry was done after giving full opportunity to the petitioner to examine the witnesses and other relevant documents, therefore, her submission is that the enquiry is not ex-parte, it is after giving fullest opportunity to the petitioner. In regard to the discharge order, her submission is that on the ground of medical disabilities, the petitioner was not able to perform his duties and Section 47 of the Act of 1995 is not attracted to the case in hand.

13. I have considered the rival submission advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record as well as law report cited by petitioner's counsel.

14. For deciding the controversy involved in the present writ petition, provision of Section 47 of the Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995 is being quoted below :-

"47. Non-discrimination in Government employment .-(1) No establishment shall dispense with, or reduce in rank, an employee who acquires a disability during his service:

Provided that, if an employee, after acquiring disability is not suitable for the post he was holding, could be shifted to some other post with the same pay scale and service benefits:Provided further that if it is not possible to adjust the employee against any post, he may be kept on a supernumerary post until a suitable post is available or he attains the age of superannuation, whichever is earlier.

(2)(2) No promotion shall be denied to a person merely on the ground of his disability:Provided that the appropriate Government may, having regard to the type of work carried on in any establishment, by notification and subject to such conditions, if any, as may be specified in such notification, exempt any establishment from the provisions of this section"

15. Relevant paragraph-20 of the judgment rendered in the case of Anil Kumar Mahajan (Supra) is being quoted below :-

"20. It is informed at the bar that in normal course the appellant would have superannuated from service on 31st July, 2012. In that view of the matter, now there is no question of reinstatement of the appellant though he may be entitled for consequential benefits including arrears of pay. Having regard to the facts and finding given above, we have no other option but to set aside the order of compulsory retirement of the appellant dated 15th October, 2007 passed by the respondents; the order dated 22nd December, 2008 passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Principal Bench, New Delhi in O.A.No.2784/2008 and the impugned order dated 20th April, 2010 passed by the High Court of Delhi in W.P.(C)No.2622/2010 and the case is remitted to the respondents with a direction to treat the appellant continued in the service till the date of his superannuation. The appellant shall be paid full salary minus the subsistence allowance already received for the period from the date of initiation of departmental proceeding on the ground that he was suffering from mental illness till the date of compulsory retirement. The appellant shall also be provided with full salary from the date of compulsory retirement till the date of superannuation in view of the first and second proviso to Section 47 of the Act, 1995. If the appellant has already been superannuated, he will also be entitled to full retiral benefits counting the total period in service. The benefits shall be paid to the appellant within three months, else the respondents will be liable to pay interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date the amount was due, till the actual payment."

16. On perusal of the provision aforesaid as well as judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner, it is crystal clear that the person who attained disability during the service period, cannot be discharged on medical grounds, thus, in the opinion of the Court, discharge of the petitioner from service is wholly without jurisdiction and illegal in nature. The petitioner would have been engaged in some alternative service or if the post was not available, then on the basis of supernumerary post created for the said purpose.

17. In regard to the enquiry, which is conducted against the petitioner in discharge of duties, I perused the enquiry report, which is at page-48 and on its perusal, it is evident that the petitioner gave three names alternatively for its approval but the same was not approved and the enquiry proceeding continued without appointing the defence assistant in the matter of the petitioner.

18. On perusal of paragraph-2 of the enquiry report, it is crystal clear that the enquiry officer proceeded to conduct enquiry by giving notice to the petitioner who was not in a position to participate in the enquiry due to his mental disorder. On the basis of ex-parte enquiry report, without appointing defence assistant, the enquiry officer proceeded to submit the enquiry report to the punishing authority, who on the basis of ex-parte enquiry report, proceeded to pass the impugned order on 6.12.2001, whereby the petitioner has been penalised by reducing by three steps in scale in Grade-I and II, fitting the petitioner at a basic pay of Rs.5,050/- in the lower grade. Against the said order, the petitioner preferred an appeal before the Assistant General Manager (appellate authority), United India Insurance Company Ltd. (respondent No.2), who has nowhere considered that the petitioner was not provided the defence assistant during the course of enquiry, therefore, the enquiry was ex-parte in nature, the basis, which has been made to pass the impugned order.

19. In the memo of appeal, the petitioner took a specific ground in paragraph-C that in conducting the enquiry, three persons namely, Mr. S.S. Ahluwalia (Oriental Insurance Company), Mr. Sudhakar Tripathi (Oriental Insurance Company) and Mr. B.N. Seth (National Insurance Company) were contacted on different dates for being defence assistant for the petitioner, but the appellate authority has not take care in deciding the appeal and has rejected outrightly vide order dated 5.7.2002.

20. Thereafter, after dismissal of the appeal, the petitioner filed Memorial before the Chairman-cum-Managing Director, United India Insurance Company Ltd., 24, Whites Road, Chennai, which has also been rejected vide order dated 8.1.2004, which was communicated to the petitioner vide letter dated 4.2.2004. The Chairman-cum-Managing Director also did not consider the claim setup by the petitioner in his Memorial, therefore, the order passed by him also suffers from vices of principles of natural justice due to non-consideration of claim setup by the petitioner.

21. The ground of the respondents that the enquiry is not an ex-parte eniquiry and it is after giving fullest opportunity of hearing to the petitioner appears to be fallacious. On consideration, it is found that there is violation of principles of natural justice in not providing the defence assistant to the petitioner to setup his claim.

22. In regard to the discharge from service, the submission advanced by learned counsel for the respondent that on medical grounds, the employee can be discharged from service, I perused the provision contained under Section 47 of the Act of 1995 and the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner. This argument also suffers from vices of non-consideration of the provisions contained under the aforesaid Act and the judgment relied upon.

23. After consideration of totality of facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the opinion that the impugned orders dated 08.01.2004 passed by opposite party No.1 (Annexure No.19), order dated 05.07.2002 passed by opposite party No.2 (Annexure No.17) and the order dated 6.12.2001 passed by opposite party No.3 (Annexure No.15) are hereby quashed. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

24. It is however provided that the petitioner shall be provided all consequential benefits, which are applicable to the post, which he was holding prior to initiation of disciplinary proceeding.

25. No order as to costs.

Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure,1908 - Amended provisions of Order 41 Rule 1 CPC no longer requires the attachment of a copy of the decree in first appeals - the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 mandates the attachment of the decree in second appeals - when a single suit gives rise to multiple appeals, a single second appeal is sufficient - If multiple suits or counter-claims are involved, separate appeals must be filed – objection overruled regarding the filing of separate second appeals. 6. Narhari Vs Shankar AIR 1953 SC 419

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. The instant second appeal has been filed against the judgment and decree drawn by First Appellate Court in Civil Appeal No.26 of 2010 and Civil Appeal No.22 of 2010, and, additionally, part of the judgment passed by the trial court in Original Suit No.289 of 1984 has also been assailed.

2. The Stamp Reporting Section has endorsed a report regarding requirement of filing separate second appeals arising out of each civil appeal.

3. Learned counsel for both parties have been heard at length against and in support of the said report and also on the point as to whether it is at all necessary to attach a copy of the decree of the first appellate court along with memo of second appeal, inasmuch as it is contended by Sri Prajyot Rai, learned counsel for the appellant, that it is not the requirement of law as per certain amended provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. The Court, therefore, proceeds to deal with the said objection and contention.

4. The proceedings giving rise to instant appeal emanate from an Original Suit No.289 of 1984 instituted by the plaintiff-appellant against the defendant-respondents claiming decree of permanent prohibitory injunction. The suit was partly decreed in favour of the plaintiff-appellant. Aggrieved by that part whereby the plaintiff's claim was not accepted, he filed Civil Appeal No.26 of 2010, whereas against partial decree against them, the defendants filed Civil Appeal No.22 of 2010. Both the said civil appeals were consolidated and have been decided by a common judgment dated 18.03.2024 dismissing the suit of the plaintiff-appellant in toto. By the same judgment, a third Civil Appeal No.23 of 2010 filed by the respondents of this appeal and arising out of a different suit, i.e. Original Suit No.477 of 1984, was also dismissed, however, the present appellant has no concern with Civil Appeal No.23 of 2010 and has not challenged that decree. Whereas, Civil Appeal No.26 of 2010 was dismissed, the Civil Appeal No.22 of 2010 was allowed and the present appellant is aggrieved as such.

5. It is contended on behalf of appellant that in the aforesaid background of proceedings, it is neither necessary to file another appeal nor to attach copy of any separate decree. It is further contended that even requirement to attach decree of the first appellate court is not necessary. In support of his submission, learned counsel has placed reliance upon Full Bench judgment of this Court in Bhagwan Sahai Vs. Daryao Kunwar and another: AIR 1963 Allahabad 2010 in which, a situation with regard to different decrees drawn by civil appellate court arising out of single suit and two suits, was dealt with after placing reliance upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in Narhari Vs. Shankar, AIR 1953 SC 419. He also placed reliance upon Five Judges' Full Bench decision of this Court in Jai Narain Har Narain and another Vs. L. Bulaqi Das s/o L. Munna Lal: AIR 1969 (Ald) 504.

6. It is vehemently argued with the aid of written synopsis that till 1859, in India, there was no uniform codified law for the procedures to be followed in Civil Courts. For the first time in 1859, an organized form of Civil Procedure Code was introduced by passing the Civil Procedure Code (Act VII of 1859). The Code of 1859 was amended from time to time and was replaced by the Civil Procedure Code, 1877. This Code of 1877 was amended in 1878 and 1879 and the third Civil Procedure Code was enacted in 1882, which replaced the previous one. The Code of 1882 was also amended several times and, ultimately, the present Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 came in existence on January 1, 1909. The C.P.C was again extensively amended in the year 1976 by the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1976 (104 of 1976) which came into force on February 1, 1977 but the amendments made were not sufficient and, therefore, with a view to adjudicate upon civil cases in an expeditious manner, Justice Malimath Committee was appointed and, in pursuance to the recommendations of the Committee, C.P.C was again amended in 1999 and 2002.

7. It is further contended that the object of the Code is to consolidate and amend the laws relating to the procedure of Court of Civil jurisdiction. It is a consolidated Code which contains all the laws relating to the procedure to be adopted by Courts of Civil jurisdiction. It is designed to facilitate justice and is not a penal enactment that prescribes punishments and penalties. The provisions of C.P.C. should be construed liberally and technical objections should not be allowed to defeat justice. A procedural law is always an aid of justice, not in contradiction or to defeat the very object which is sought to be achieved and the procedural law always remains subservient to the substantive law.

8. Further contention is that by Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1976 (104 of 1976), a proviso was added under Order 41 Rule 1; sub-rule (3) was also added. Further submission is that Order 41 Rule 1 CPC was further amended in the year 2002 by Section 31(i) of Act No. 46 of 1999 which came in effect from 01.07.2002. The word 'judgement' has been incorporated by means of the amendment for "decree appealed from and (unless the Appellate Court dispenses therewith) of the judgement on which it is founded".

9. Learned counsel for the appellant also refers to Section 32 of the Amendment Act No. 46 of 1999, which came with effect from 01.7.2002 and which reads as follows:

> "Any amendment made, or any provision inserted in the principal Act by a State Legislature or High Court before the commencement of this Act shall, except insofar as such amendment or provisions is consistent with the provisions of the principal Act as amended by this Act, stand repealed."
> It is, therefore, submitted that since Order 41, Rule 1 CPC stood amended, there may be one appeal against separate judgments and decrees if two or more suits have been tried together and a common judgment has been delivered. The memo shall be accompanied by the copy of the judgment only though, earlier, it was necessary to file the copy of the decree also.

10. It is vehemently argued that in view of the Amendment Act No. 46 of 1999, the second appeal is to be preferred against a judgment and the High Court Rules are in conflict with the Code and are merely for supplementing the Code/ Act but under no stretch of imagination, the provisions as contemplated under the Allahabad High Court Rules, can override the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 as the same are in the teeth of Amendment Act No. 46 of 1999. It is further argued that if any State enactment/rules are in conflict with the Amended central Act, the provisions as contained in the central enactment will prevail if there is any inconsistency. Hence, the provisions contained in the Allahabad High Court Rules,1952 ceased to exist after 01.7.2002 by virtue of Section 32 of the Amendment Act No. 46 of 1999 which shall supersede the provisions as contemplated under Chapter V Rule 2 sub-rule (ii) in the Allahabad High Court, 1952 as the same are inconsistent with the central enactment. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance upon a judgment of Kerala High Court in Khaleel Vs. Aranjikkal Jamal Muhammed (in O.P. (C) Nos.28 of 2016 & 32 of 2016, decided on 30.11.2017) and he submits that in case certain provisions made by State amendment are inconsistent with the amended Central Law, the State amendment shall cease to exist and it is the Central law that shall prevail.

11. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon paragraphs no.6 and 7 of the judgment of Supreme Court in M/S Ramnath Exports Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Vinita Mehta and another: (2022) 7 SCC 678, which in fact note down contentions raised before Supreme Court, as under:-

> "6. Being aggrieved, the appellant preferred instant appeal and learned counsel present has contested the same on following grounds – > a) The appellant had assailed the findings recorded by Trial Court by mentioning both the suit numbers alongwith payment of requisite court fee for the purpose of valuation on the basis of consolidated value of suits;
>
> b) The first appeal was admitted by High Court vide order dated 18.07.2008, but the same was dismissed after a decade without entering into the merits of the case;
>
> c) While admitting the appeal, notice was issued on CLMA, i.e., application to seek permission to file single appeal impugning the common judgment and two decrees, but without deciding the said application, the preliminary objections raised by the respondents has been maintained causing serious prejudice to it;
>
> d) The essence of rule of res-judicata is that the two proceedings should be so independent of each other that the trial of one cannot be confused with trial of other suit, but where two suits having common issue were tried together and disposed-off vide single judgment, can they be said to be two distinct and independent trials;
>
> e) In effect, only one judgment was passed in the trial and suits were not clubbed but were consolidated for all purposes;
>
> f) In support of the said contentions learned counsel would rely upon
> i. State of Andra Pradesh & Ors. Vs. B. Ranga Reddy (thru LR's) & Ors., (2020) 15 SCC 681;
> ii. Sri Gangai Vinayagar Temple & Anr. Vs. Meenakshi Ammal & Ors., (2015) 3 SCC 624;
> 7. Per contra, the counsel for the respondents has argued in support of the findings recorded in the impugned judgment and made the following submissions –
>
> a. The appellant unilaterally preferred single appeal and paid the Court fee on the basis of consolidated value of suits, whereas, separate Court fee was to be calculated on each decree and affixed accordingly;

b. Appeal against decree in Civil Suit No.411 of 1989 can be filed before District Judge, having a limitation of 30 days as per Section 8 of Suits Valuation Act, 1887, whereas, looking to the valuation, appeal against decree in Civil Suit No.419 of 1993 lies before High Court having a limitation of 90 days. No such appeal against decree in Civil Suit No.411 of 1989 before District judge was preferred by appellant;

c. The judgment and decree passed in Civil Suit No.411 of 1989 has attained finality inter-se parties since it was not challenged within the prescribed period of limitation;

d. Consolidation of suits was done only for evidence and it does not mean that one appeal can be preferred since suits still retain their separate identity. Even assuming that the consolidation was for all purposes, yet the procedure for preferring an appeal cannot be waived or by-passed;

e. Since the day of notice in first appeal, objection has been raised for filing only one appeal and still the said defect was not rectified by the appellant;

f. Learned counsel placed reliance on following judgments to substantiate the submissions

i. Sri Gangai Vinayagar Temple & Anr. Vs. Meenakshi Ammal & Ors., (2015) 3 SCC 624;

ii. V. Natarajan Vs. SKS Ispat & Power Ltd. & Ors., Civil Appeal No.3327 of 2020)

iii. B. Santoshamma & Anr. Vs. D. Sarla & Anr., 2020 SCC OnLine SC 756;"

12. Further reliance has been placed upon paragraphs no.21 and 22 of the judgment in Sri Gangai Vinayagar Temple and another Vs. Meenakshi Ammal and others: (2015) 3 SCC 624, which read as under:-

"21. On the other hand, the verdict of Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court in Zaharia vs. Debia ILR (1911) 33 All 51 and decisions of the Calcutta High Court in Isup Ali vs. Gour Chandra Deb 37 Cal LJ 184: AIR 1923 Cal 496 and of the Patna High Court in Mrs. Getrude Oastes vs. Mrs Millicent D'Silva ILR 12 Pat 139 : AIR 1933 Pat 78 are of the contrary persuasion. These decisions largely proceeded on the predication that the phraseology "suit" is not limited to the Court of First Instance or Trial Court but encompasses within its domain proceedings before the Appellate Courts; that non-applicability of res judicata may lead to inconsistent decrees and conflicting decrees, not only due to multiplicity of decrees but also due to multiplicity of the parties, and thereby creating confusion as to which decree has to be given effect to in execution; that a decree is valid unless it is a nullity and the same cannot be overruled or interfered with in appellate proceedings initiated against another decree; that the issue of res judicata has to be decided with reference to the decrees, which are appealable under Section 96 of the CPC and not with reference to the judgment (which has been defined differently), but with respect to decrees in the CPC; that non-confirmation of a decree in appellate proceedings has no consequence as far as it reaching finality upon elapsing of the limitation period is concerned in view of the Explanation II of Section 11, that provides that the competence of a Court shall be determined irrespective of any provisions as to right of appeal from the decision of such Court; and that Section 11 of the CPC is not exhaustive of the doctrine of res judicata, which springs up from the general principles of law and public policy.

22. Procedural norms, technicalities and processal law evolve after years of empirical experience, and to ignore them or give them short shrift inevitably defeats justice. Where a common judgment has been delivered in cases in which consolidation orders have specifically been passed, we think it irresistible that the filing of a single appeal leads to the entire dispute becoming sub judice once again. Consolidation orders are passed by virtue of the bestowal of inherent powers on the Courts by Section 151 of the CPC, as clarified by this Court in Chitivalasa Jute Mills vs. Jaypee Rewa Cement (2004) 3 SCC 85. In the instance of suits in which common Issues have been framed and a common Trial has been conducted, the losing party must file appeals in respect of all adverse decrees founded even on partially adverse or contrary speaking judgments. While so opining we do not intend to whittle down the principle that appeals are not expected to be filed against every inconvenient or disagreeable or unpropitious or unfavourable finding or observation contained in a judgment, but that this can be done by way of cross-objections if the occasion arises. The decree not assailed thereupon metamorphoses into the character of a "former suit". If this is not to be so viewed, it would be possible to set at naught a decree passed in Suit A by only challenging the decree in Suit B. Law considers it an anathema to allow a party to achieve a result indirectly when it has deliberately or negligently failed to directly initiate proceedings towards this purpose. Laws of procedure have picturesquely been referred to as handmaidens to justice, but this does not mean that they can be wantonly ignored because, if so done, a miscarriage of justice inevitably and inexorably ensues. Statutory law and processal law are two sides of the judicial drachma, each being the obverse of the other. In the case in hand, had the Tenant diligently filed an appeal against the decree at least in respect of O.S. 5/78, the legal conundrum that has manifested itself and exhausted so much judicial time, would not have arisen at all."

13. It is further sought to be argued that in case of non-filing of separate appeals, threat of resjudicata may also come into picture and that would create multiple complications.

14. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, first of all the Court deals with the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant as regards applicability of amended provisions of Order 41 Rule 1 CPC which were incorporated by the Amendment Act 1999 (46 of 1999). It may be noted that when a suit is decided by the court of first instance at district level, unless the judgment is passed by the District Judge or Additional District Judge, first appeal against the decree drawn would lie before the District Judge under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In that event, memorandum of appeal shall be signed by the appellant or his pleader and shall be accompanied by a copy of the "judgment". Prior to amendment made by Act No.46 of 1999, requirement was to attach copy of the decree appealed from unless the appellate court could dispense with the said requirement. The requirement of filing judgment was already there which has been taken away by the amended provision.

15. As far as second appeals are concerned, by virtue of Order XLII Rule 1 CPC, provisions of Order XLI CPC shall, in so far as may be, applicable to the second appeals, i.e. appeals from appellate decree. For a ready reference, Order XLII Rule 1 CPC is reproduced as under:-

> "1. Procedure.- The rules of Order XLI shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals from appellate decrees."

16. Since a second appeal is filed against the appellate decree drawn by the first appellate court, even if applicability of Rule 1 of Order XLI is examined in the light of Rule 1 of Order XLII, as far as requirement of attaching or non-attaching decree appealed against, it would be worthwhile to mention that the procedure to file an appeal, either against the original decree or against the appellate decree, would be governed by the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, which have been framed in exercise of constitutional powers under Article 225 of the Constitution of India. Chapter IX contained in Part-II of the Rules speaks of "Civil Jurisdiction" and Rule 8 of Chapter IX needs a reference here in order to appreciate as to the requirement of documents to accompany memorandum of appeal. Rule 8 of Chapter IX reads as under:-

> "8. Documents to accompany memorandum of appeal or revision application.- Every memorandum of appeal or application for revision shall be accompanied by-
> (a) a copy of the decree or formal order against which the appeal or application is directed;
>
> (b) a copy of the judgment upon which such decree or formal order is founded;
> (c) a copy of the judgment of the Court of first instance where the appeal or application is directed against an appellate (or a revisional) decree or order;

17. It is, therefore, apparent that though amended Rule 1 of Order XLI CPC does not require attaching a copy of decree appealed from, there is no corresponding amendment made in High Court Rules, 1952 as far as requirement of annexing documents to a memorandum of appeal is concerned. Apparently, the decree or formal order against which appeal is directed, has to be mandatorily attached and that is why whenever such compliance is not made by any appellant, a defect is reported by the Stamp Reporting Section to that effect. However, it is clarified that as per sub-rule (c) of Rule 8 of Chapter IX when a second appeal is filed, copy of decree of the court of first instance need not be annexed and annexing copy of the judgment of that court would suffice. The submission of learned counsel based upon Section 31 of the Amendment Act, 1999, therefore, cannot be accepted.

18. In so far as Section 32 of the Act, 1999, the provision has been mis-interpreted by the learned counsel of the appellant and it relates to any amendment inserted in the principal Act, i.e. Code of Civil Procedure, prior to amendment made in 1999, by a State Legislature or High Court before the commencement of the amendment Act and those amendments which are inconsistent with the provisions of the principal Act, i.e. CPC before amendment, shall stand repealed but, certainly, subject to savings described under sub-section (2) of Section 32. The repeal clause contained under Section 32 of the Act of 1999 cannot be stretched to the extent of superseding or nullifying the High Court Rules, 1952 enacted under constitutional powers conferred by Article 225 of the Constitution of India. Promulgation of High Court Rules, 1952 or any provision contained therein cannot be treated as "State Amendment" incorporated in the Code of Civil Procedure as applicable in the State of U.P. and argument of learned counsel for the appellant on that line has no substance. The judgment of Kerala High Court in Khaleel (supra) is also of no help to the appellant as there was no issue before the Kerala High Court as to whether a separate appeal would lie from every decree or whether, as per the concerned High Court Rules, the requirement of annexing decree drawn by the appellate court would stand dispensed with. The Kerala High Court was dealing with State amendments made in CPC and the judgment was given in that background.

19. At this Stage, it would be apt to refer definition of "decree" as contained in Section 2(2) of CPC, which reads as under:-

> "2(2) "decree" means the formal expression of an adjudication which, so far as regards the Court expressing it, conclusively determines the rights of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the suit and may be either preliminary or final. It shall be deemed to include the rejection of a plaint and the determination of any question within1 section 144, but shall not include –
>
> (a) any adjudication from which an appeal lies as an appeal from an order, or
>
> (b) any order of dismissal for default.
> Explanation.- A decree is preliminary when further proceedings have to be taken before the suit can be completely disposed of. It is final when such adjudication completely disposes of the suit. It may be partly preliminary and partly final."

20. Here, reference of Order 8 Rule 6-A should also be made where filing of counter-claim by a defendant is contemplated. The provision reads as under:-

> "6-A(1) A defendant in a suit may, in addition to his right of pleading a set-off under rule 6, set up, by way of counter-claim against the claim of the plaintiff, any right or claim in respect of a cause of action accruing to the defendant against the plaintiff either before or after the filing of the suit but before the defendant has delivered his defence or before the time limited for delivering his defence has expired, whether such counter-claim is in the nature of a claim for damages or not:

Provided that such counter-claim shall not exceed the pecuniary limits of the jurisdiction of the Court.

(2) Such counter-claim shall have the same effect as a cross-suit so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit, both on the original claim and on the counter-claim.

(3) The plaintiff shall be at liberty to file a written statement in answer to the counter-claim of the defendant within such period as may be fixed by the Court.

(4) The counter-claim shall be treated as a plaint and governed by the rules applicable to plaints."

21. In view of sub-rule (2) of Rule 6-A of Order 8, counter-claim shall have the same effect as a cross-suit so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit and as per sub-rule (4), counter-claim shall be treated as a plaint and governed by the Rules applicable to plaints.

22. In view of the above discussion of legal position, it can safely be concluded that if a single suit gives rise to different first appeals, without there being any counter-claim or another consolidated suit, the decree drawn in the said single suit would conclusively determine rights of the parties and irrespective of two first appeals arising from the single judgment/ decree, necessity to file two separate second appeals would not arise. However, situation would be different if, either two suits are decided by a common judgment or there is a counter-claim in the single suit, in such event, there would be two decrees drawn by the court of first instance and if two first appeals are filed arising from such two decrees, certainly, there shall have to be two second appeals.

23. Now, coming to the necessity of filing a single or two appeals in the instant case, it may be noted that since decrees drawn in Civil Appeals No.26 of 2010 and 22 of 2010, either in toto or to some extent, have been challenged, in view of the decision of Narhari (supra), Bhagwan Sahai (supra) and Jai Narain Har Narain (supra), since there was a single suit and one trial, one finding and one decision, irrespective of the fact that two decrees may or could have been drawn up, there need not be two separate appeals. The threat of resjudicata as sought to be argued by the respondent's counsel in the light of judgments in M/S Ramnath (supra) and Sri Gangai Vinayagar (supra) has been dealt with by the Supreme Court observing that such question arises only when there are two suits but not when there is a single suit.

24. In view of the above discussion, this Court is of the considered opinion that the amended provisions of Rule 1 of Order XLI CPC do not directly or indirectly nullify or dispense with requirement of attaching certified copy of the decree drawn by the first appellate court as per Rule 8 of Chapter IX of the High Court Rules, 1952. Since, in the instant case, consolidated judgment has been passed in two civil appeals arising from a single suit, the objection endorsed by the Reporting Section, as regards filing of two separate appeals, stands overruled and single second appeal, in the present case, is held to be maintainable, without there being necessity to file another second appeal from the same decree/ judgment.

25. The Stamp Reporting Section shall comply with the directions contained in paragraphs no.17 and 22 of this order while reporting other second appeals filed henceforth.

26. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send a copy of this order to the Reporting Section to ensure compliance of the directions issued under this order.

27. Put up as fresh on 31.08.2024.

Sanjit Singh Salwan & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:

Civil Law – The Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Section 9 - Law of arbitration- appeal against order dismissing application for interim relief filed - arbitrability of trust-related issues under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- whether disputes regarding the management and membership of the Guru Tegh Bahadur Charitable Trust, a public trust, could be resolved through arbitration- such disputes are non-arbitrable under Section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which governs public charitable trusts- the arbitrator lacked jurisdiction- Commercial Court's decision to reject the application for interim relief under Section 9 of the Arbitration Act- appeal dismissed. (paras 31 to 33, 35, 38, 39, 41, 42, 43, 44, 47 and 49)

HELD:

Section 92 of CPC deals with the disputes of public charities/Trust created for public purpose or charitable or religious nature, wherein a complete procedure has been laid down for taking legal action. In order to attract the provisions of Section 92 of Code of Civil Procedure, three conditions have to be satisfied namely (i) The trust if created for charitable or religious nature; (ii) there was a breach of trust, or a direction of Court is necessary in the administration of said Trust; (iii)The relief claimed is one or the other of the reliefs enumerated in Sub-Section (1) of Section 92 of CPC. Further Sub-Section (2) of Section 92 provides with a non-obstante clause that no suit claiming any of the reliefs specified in Sub-Section (1) of Section 92 shall be initiated in respect of any of the Trust as referred thereto except in conformity with the provisions of Sub-Section (1) of Section 92. (para 31)

The bone of contention between the rival parties is whether the dispute is arbitrable, so as to invest the arbitrator the jurisdiction to decide the disputes of a Trust in the wake of the provisions of Section 92 of CPC. To test the said submission, we are required to have a quick survey of the disputes, which was referred to for arbitration and the nature of the award itself and the submission of the learned counsel for the appellants that once the respondents herein got referred the dispute relatable to the Trust for arbitration, then they cannot object that the dispute was not arbitrable. (Para 35)

As regards the direction of the Arbitrator requiring the appellants herein not to pursue and withdraw the first information report dated 26.02.2022 being Case Crime No.43 of 2022 lodged against the respondents before P.S. Sadar Bazar, Meerut under Section 420 IPC and also not to give or file evidence before the criminal courts is also beyond the scope of arbitration being non-arbitrable. The position might have been different, in case parties would have approached the arbitrator expressing their sweet will that they would not pursue the criminal case, but such type of blanket directions could not have been issued by the Arbitrator. Hence the Arbitrator has exceeded its jurisdiction while passing an award on a subject, which is non-arbitrable. (Para 39)

In Vidya Drolia (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court had laid down the four fold test in order to determine as to whether the dispute is arbitrable or not. (para 41)

Our view also stands fortified from Sub-Section (2) of Section 92 of CPC, which provides that no suits claiming any of the reliefs specified in Sub-Section (1) are to be instituted in respect of any Trust as referred to except in conformity with the provisions of Sub-section (1) of Section 92 of CPC. As regards the argument raised by learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that since the appellant-Trust is a public trust and it is not covered under the Trust Act 1882, therefore, the judgment in the case of Vimal Kishore Sahai (supra) would not be applicable and would not make much relevance, particularly when Section 92 itself provides for modality and forum for adjudication of the dispute relatable to the Trust. (Para 43)

Much emphasis had been laid upon Section 89 of the CPC so as to suggest that the same deals with the settlement of dispute outside the Court and amongst others, one of the mode is arbitration. It is contended that the said provision came to be inserted by virtue of Act No.46 of 1999, w.e.f. 01.07.2002, thus it would dilute the rigours of Section 92 of CPC, as it would be open for the parties to get adjudicated the disputes of the Trust through arbitration. The said contention cannot be accepted for the simple reason that Section 89 provides for settlement of disputes outside the Court either through arbitration, conciliation, mediation or judicial settlement including settlement through Lok Adalat, however, it is subject to the disputes which would not fall under the said category. Section 89 does not override Section 92, particularly when Section 92 CPC exclusively deals with the dispute relating to Trust. (Para 44)

The question regarding the maintainability of the proceedings under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 is not being addressed by this Court in the present proceeding, particularly when the dispute relatable to the Trust itself was not arbitrable and the arbitrator had no competence to adjudicate the same. (Para 49)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Challenge in this appeal under section 37 of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (in short A & C Act, 1996) is an order dated 24.05.2024 of the Commercial Court, Court No-II, Meerut in Arbitration Suit No. 25 of 2023 (Sanjit Singh Salwan and Others v. Sardar Inderjit Salwan and Others) whereby the application for interim relief filed by the appellants under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 was rejected.

Facts

2. Briefly stated facts sans unnecessary details are that there happens to be a Trust by the name of Guru Tegh Bahadur Charitable Trust having its registered office at 227, West End Road, Meerut Cantt, Meerut (in short 'Trust') engaged in charitable activities since 1970. The said Trust also manages an institution by the name of Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School in Meerut, which according to the appellants has a strength of all most 1700 students who are being imparted education from Ist to XIIth classes. The Trust has original Trust Deed dated 15.10.1979 which stood amended in the year 2019. The appellants and the respondents claim to be the Trustees. Certain dispute arose between the Trustees with regard to membership and administration of the school which occasioned filing of Original Suit No. 227 of 2022 by the respondents herein (Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School and Others v. Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan and Others) before the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Meerut seeking injunction against the appellants from interfering in the management and operation of the School by the respondents herein.

3. On contest the said suit came to be dismissed on 13.04.2022 on an application preferred the Appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3 under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (in short CPC) against which the respondents herein preferred Civil Appeal No. 16 of 2022 (Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School and Others v. Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan and Others) before District Court, Meerut. It is further claimed that during the pendency of the appeal before the District Judge, Meerut, the parties took recourse to arbitration and one Sri Vipin Sodhi, an advocate at Meerut was appointed as sole arbitrator. Accordingly, an application was preferred on 07.07.2022 in the proceedings in Appeal No. 16 of 2022 in the Court of District Judge, Meerut with a prayer that since the sole arbitrator has entered into the reference and proceedings are going on, thus, the appeal be decided making it dependent upon the final award to be passed by the sole arbitrator.

4. Before the Arbitrator, the respondents herein (first party) raised 4 points, which are as under:

"Points raised by Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan for and on behalf of First Party are as under:

(1) The other party Sandar Sanjit Singh Salwan and Smt. Mehar Salwan and Amandeep Singh Salwan were lawfully terminated from the Board of Trust of G.T.B. Charitable Trust. The meetings dated 29.09.2020, 04.07.2021 and 29.01.2022 are valid. They have no right to be reinstated in the Trust.

(ii) Other party has no right to enter upon in school building to 27, West End Road, Meerut Cantt. or 76/1, Sky Line Building, Guru Nanak Nagar, Delhi Road, Meerut, or intervene into the day to day running of the said institutions or management of the Trust and School.

(iii) Other party shall withdraw the criminal case filed against the First Party in the shape of FIR dated 26.03.2022, Case Crime No. 43 of 2022, Police Station Sadar Bazaar, Meerut, under Section 420, 467 etc. IPC as the same is on false grounds and no offence committed.

(iv) The property of S. Inderjit Singh in shape of land of Sky Line Building 76/1, Guru Nanak Nagar, Delhi Road, Meerut owned by Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and building owned by Sky Line Promoters Pvt Limited, Managing Director Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan is mortgaged with Piramal Capital and Housing Finance Ltd., Mangal Panday Nagar, Meerut, having its Main Office at Noida should be allowed to be released at the earliest."

5. The appellants (second party) also raised the following points:

"Points raised by Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan and his family:

(i) The removal of Other Party from the Trust on 29.01.2022 should be recalled being not valid. The meeting dated 29.09.2020 and 04.07.2021 admitting new trustees Yashkaran Singh Salwan, Smt Ramanjit Kaur and Shri Ashu Jain is illegal and they be removed from post of Trustees.

(ii) The Other party has complete right to participate in the meeting of the Trust and to participate in management of the Trust and School and to see and intervene into day to day running of the said institutions, i.e., Trust and the School.

(iii) The First Party should withdraw suit No. 227 of 2022 (Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School and another v Sardar Sanjit Singh and others) now pending in the shape of Appeal No. 16 of 2022, Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School and another v Sardar Sanjit Singh and others in the Court of District Judge, Meerut.

(iv) The personal property/papers of the Other Party, Punjab Diesel, 99, Delhi Road, Meerut, mortgaged with Piramal Capital and Housing Finance Ltd. to be released.

(v) Joint signatures of Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan to be started in the operation of Bank accounts maintained with Punjab National Bank, 227, West End Road, Meerut Cantt. and ICICI Bank, 227, West End Road, Meerut and State Bank of India, Roorkee Road, Meerut Cantt.

(vi) School website showing details of trustees to be corrected.

6. The sole arbitrator passed an award dated 30.12.2022. Relevant extract whereof is being quoted hereinunder:

"Point no 1 of the party of First Part and Point of No 1 of Party of Other Part: These points are pertaining to removal of Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan, Smt Mehar Salwan and Sardar Amandeep Singh Salwan from the Trust. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and others have asserted very strongly that the three cannot be re-reinstated because their acts had been effecting the working of the school and reputation and good will of the school. They were given thorough/lot of opportunities for rectification of their errors and acts.

On the contrary all the three Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan and others very strongly asserted that they acted perfectly and diligently. They always acted for the betterment of the Trust and School and their removal is without any justification, reason and cause.

After considering the arguments of both the parties in the interest of the trust and families and considering the entire scenario, it is deemed proper that Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan, Smt Mehar Salwan and Amandeep Singh Salwan to be reinstated in the Trust as trustees. They will always act for the betterment of the trust and School. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan to convey trust meeting at 227, West End Road, Meerut Cantt within 3 days from the date of submission of this award by both the parties before the District Judge, Meerut for reinstallation of all three parties as trustee in the Trust.

Regarding meetings dated 20.9.2020 and 4.7.2021 admitting new trustees Sardar Yashkaran Singh Salwan, Smt. Ramanjit Kaur and Shri Ashu Jain, Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan very strongly objected to the same during proceedings and hearings and stated that said all three trustees are validly appointed shall always be trustees of the Trust and they shall not be removed. Before this tribunal no reason or because has been placed for their removal and why failed their appointments. Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan, Smt Mehar Salwan and Amandeep Singh Salwan stated that they have every rights in the trust and in the meetings in which these three were admitted as new trustees, they were never called in the meetings. During the course of hearing Trustee Ashu Jain and Smt. Ramanjit Kaur of a mentally stated that they are not interested to continue as trustee of Trust due to personal reasons and other commitments and offered resignation. Accordingly S. Inderjit Singh accepted their resignations as Chairman and stated that matter shall be placed before Board so let it be accordingly.

Therefore, after hearing both the parties at length this Tribunal is of the opinion that Yashkaran Singh Salwan shall not be removed from the trustee of the trust. The Board of Trust in such event shall be as follows:

Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan - President

Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan Vice President

Smt Amarjeet Kaur Salwan - Secretary

Smt Mehar Salwan -Trustee

Shri Amandeep Singh Salwan - Trustee

Shri Yashkaran Singh Salwan - Trustee

The meeting dated 29.1.2022 is not a invalid and illegal meeting. Since Both Ashu Jain and Smt. Ramanjit Kaur have opted to resign from Trust, so it be placed before the Board of Trustees for acceptance in the next meeting to be held as above said.

Point no 2 of the Party of First Part and Other Party: Party of first part asserted that the other party has no right to enter upon the school building 227, West End Road, Meerut Cantt or 76/1, Guru Nanak Nagar, Sky Line Building, Delhi Road, Meerut or intervene into the running of the said institutions. The other party strongly objected to the same and stated that since they are the trustees they have every right to enter upon into the trust/school building at 227, West End Road, Meerut Cantt. Though during course of hearing the other party have clearly accepted that Sky Line Building is owned by Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and as the firm Sri Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School dissolved on 31.3.2021 so they have no legal right to enter upon others' property. Other party has admitted that they will not enter into the Sky Line Building 76/1, Guru Nanak Nagar, Delhi Road, Meerut and will never intervene into the functioning of school run by Sardar Inderjit Singh or by his firm M/s G.T.B Public School.

Therefore, this Tribunal passed the award that Other Party Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan, Smt Mehar Salwan and Amandeep Singh Salwan shall not enter into the premises 76/1, Guru Nanak Nagar, Sky Line Building, Meerut and they shall not intervene in any firm and the management, control and running of the school by Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan under Firm Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School or under any other firm or Company formed by him in future.

It was accepted and informed by Both parties that No School Branch of trust is being run at Delhi Road, so there is no dispute.

Regarding the control and management of Guru Tegh Bahadur Charitable Trust and its school at 227, West End Road, Meerut Cantt, this Tribunal pass the following award.

The trust and the school shall be under the control and management of Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan as Chairman of Trust and as Manager of the school for a period of six months from the date of this award. All decisions shall be taken by Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan in the betterment of the school and trust.

Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan shall be the joint signatory of Bank account maintained with ICICI bank and Punjab National Bank, 227, West End Road, Meerut. P.N.B. Bank account shall be used for payment of salaries and wages, Government Liabilities, gratuity, electricity bills, telephone bills, diesel bills and Bank loan payment EMIs.

The bank account maintained with the State Bank of India Meerut Cantt shall be operated by exclusive signature of Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan.

This arrangement for a period of six months only as above said within the period of six months Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan will get the original paper of building 99, Delhi Road, Meerut belonging to the other party, released from the bank and accordingly on deposit of full money with the bank all other party shall resigned from the post of trustee from Guru Tegh Bahadur charitable trust and shall have no concern with the trust or school in any manner.

That if the first parties Sardar Inderjit Singh fails to get release the original paper of the other party from the bank within a period of six months as above said in that event on the expiry of six months immediately thereafter within four months, other party shall get release the original property papers of Sardar Inderjit Singh and Skyline company from the bank within the said four months period by depositing full money with the Bank. In such event and deposit of full money all the parties of the first part Shall resign from the post of trustee from the Guru Tegh Bahadur charitable trust and shall have no concern with the trust and school. The other party Sardar Sanjit Singh shall have complete control over the trust and school and shall be entitled to admit new trustees in according with the object of the trust and shall be managing that trust and the school.

That in case if both party fails to honour the judgement under the award, as per stipulated period as above said, in that event for a period of six (6) months after that, things will continue in the same fashion and both Sardar Inderjit Singh and Sardar Sanjit Singh shall continue to run the school under joint signatures and will refer the matter to this Tribunal for adjudication of all or any disputes within the said period.

Point no 3 of the First Party: This relates to the FIR dated 26.3.2022 being Case Crime No 43 of 2022 registered with Police of Police Station Sadar Bazar, Meerut under section 420 etc IPC. Matter of FIR relates to removal of Other party from trusteeship in the meeting dated 29.1.2022. Since this Tribunal without going into minute details has passed a award for reinstate of the other parties as Trustee of the Trust, therefore, there is no reason why FIR should continue. Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan and others are hereby directed to withdraw the said FIR by moving application and affidavit before the police of P.S. Sadar, Meerut within 7 days from the date of submission of this copy of this award in the court of District Judge, Meerut and will not pressure the said FIR and will not give or file evidence. In case any default in submission of documents before Police, the other party shall not be entitled to benefits awarded under Point two above.

Point No 4 of First Party and Other Party: This pertains to release of their respective property papers. This Tribunal has already passed award regarding this point in Point no 2 above which shall form part and parcel of this award.

Point No 5 of Other Party: This pertains that the joint signatures of Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan to be stared in the operation of Bank accounts maintained with Punjab National Bank, 227, West End Road, Meerut Cantt and ICICI Bank 227, West End Road, and State Bank of India, Roorkee Road, Meerut. This Tribunal has already passed award regarding this point in point no. 2 above, which shall form part and parcel of this award.

Point no 6 of other Party: This relates to the Website of the School which should be corrected. Since this Tribunal has passed award regarding management and trusteeship so after submission of the copy of this award before the Court of District Judge, Meerut, Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan shall correct the website. No other point has been raised by either of the party.

Point No. 3 of Other Party: This relates to withdrawal of suit and Appeal No. 16 of 2022, GTB Public School and others v S. Sanjit Singh and others pending before the Court of District Judge, Meerut. The parties are directed to file copy of this award jointly before the Court and get the appeal decided in view of award.

This Tribunal has acted as Sole Arbitrator in this matter free of costs and has not charged any fees from either of the party."

7. According to the appellants, in terms of the award, they filed an application along with an affidavit for withdrawal of the first information report lodged on 26.03.2022 against the respondents before the Investigating Officer of the concerned police station. A compromise application was also filed under the joint signatures of the appellants and the respondents herein before the District Judge, Meerut in Civil Appeal No.16 of 2022. The District Judge, Meerut vide order dated 27.01.2023 decided the appeal in terms of the compromise/award. It is alleged that the respondents herein did not discharge their obligations while clearing the dues with the Piramal Capital and Housing Finance Ltd, but in a malafide manner preferred an application dated 12.07.2023 before the sole Arbitrator complaining that due to non-filing of the closure report with respect to the first information report, the funds could not be arranged, creating an odd situation. The said application was contested by the appellants herein while filing their objections before the sole arbitrator. However, according to the appellants, the sole Arbitrator without serving any notice or affording any opportunity of hearing to the appellants proceeded to pass an exparte award dated 30.10.2023. The operative portion whereof is quoted hereinunder:-

"In view of above the application and objections are disposed of. It is made clear that the Other Party Sardar Sanjit Singh Salwan and others have clearly defaulted in their obligations as required under Point no. 3 of the award and they have permanently lost their rights given to them in Point no. 2 of the award i.e. time of 4 months to release property papers and deposit money with the Bank and get period of control and management of the. Trust as well as the School First party shall continue the control and management of the Trust and school in terms of the award dated 30.12. 2022 and shall make compliance of the award within the stipulated period as and when Final Report is accepted by the Court."

8. The appellants herein instituted proceedings under section 36 of A & C Act, 1996 for enforcement of the award dated 30.12.2022, which was registered as Execution Case No.8 of 2023. It is alleged that on the persuasion of the sole arbitrator, the appellants withdrew the Execution Case on 08.12.2023.

9. Since, repeated obstructions and hindrances were being created by the respondents in the functioning of the Trust and school, so the appellants instituted proceedings under section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 before the Commercial Court, Meerut, which was registered as Arbitration Case No.25 of 2023 (Sanjit Singh Salwan and Others v. Sardar Inderjit Salwan and Others) seeking following reliefs:

"(A). That by an order of this Court in favour of the petitioners and against the opposite parties, the opposite party may be restrained from interfering in the applicants right to manage and running of the school Guru Teg Bahadur Public School, West End Road, Meerut and trust Guru Teg Bahadur Charitable, Meerut in any manner whatsoever, including but not limited to restrict their entry in Guru Teg Bahadur Public School, West End Road, Meerut premises.

(B) That the Manager State Bank of India, Meerut Cantt Branch be directed not take any school fees in Account Nos. 30195999322, 30133389047 and to change the authorized signatory in the said account from O.P.No.01 to the authorized appointed by the trust by a resolution passed by the applicant No.1 to 3.

(C) That the Manager Punjab National Bank, Sadar Branch be directed to allow the operation of the saving account No. 0318010100600013 of Guru Tegh Bahadur Public School only with the signature of applicant Sanjeet Singh.

(D) That any other relief which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit be awarded in favour of the petitioner."

10. On being noticed, the respondents herein preferred their objection on 11.01.2024.

11. The Appellants allege that they came to know about the award dated 30.10.2023 for the very first time when the same was filed along with the objection.

12. In the meantime, the Respondents herein approached the Arbitrator while initiating proceedings under section 17 of the A & C Act, 1996. On 21.01.2024, an order is stated to have been passed by the sole Arbitrator whereby the appellants were restrained from causing any hindrances or obstructions in the smooth operation of the school by the respondents herein.

13. Challenging the order dated 21.01.2024 passed under Section 17 of the A & C Act, 1996, the appellants preferred an Appeal under Section 37 of the A & C Act, 1996 before the Commercial Court, Meerut which came to be registered as Arbitration Appeal No.6 of 2024 (Sanjit Singh Salwan v. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Others). Proceedings were also initiated under section 34 of the A & C Act, 1996 for setting aside the exparte award dated 30.10.2023, which was registered as Arbitration Case No.3 of 2024 (Sanjit Singh Salwan v. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Others). A stay application was also filed seeking interim relief.

14. Since the order dated 21.01.2024 passed under section 17 of the A & C Act, 1996 was continuing and the interim prayer sought in the proceedings under Section 34 of the A & C Act, 1996 was not being decided, so the appellants approached this Court while filing petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, bearing number '4218 of 2024 (Sanjit Singh Salwan and Others v. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Others)', which came to be decided on 18.04.2024 requiring the Commercial Court to decide the interim prayer of the appellants on the next date fixed i.e. 23.04.2024 and till disposal, status quo was directed to be maintained. Against the non-disposal of the proceedings under section 34 of the A & C Act, 1996, challenging the exparte award dated 30.10.2023, application under Article 227 bearing number '4221 of 2021(Sanjit Singh Salwan and Others v. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Others)' was preferred before this Court, which came to be decided on 18.04.2024 requiring the Commercial Court to ensure that appropriate orders are passed on the said application by 31.05.2024.

15. Thereafter on 24.05.2024, three orders came to be passed by the Commercial Court, (i) order in Arbitration Case No.25 of 2023 (Sanjit Singh Salwan and Others v. Sardar Inderjit Salwan and Others) rejecting the application purported under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 holding that the disputes of Trust could not have been adjudicated by the arbitrator and thus, the award dated 30.12.2022 is nullity; (ii) order in Arbitration Case No.3 of 2024 (Sanjit Singh Salwan v. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Others) setting aside the exparte award dated 30.10.2023 observing that the disputes of the Trust are not arbitrable; and (iii) order in Arbitration Case No.06 of 2024 (Sanjit Singh Salwan v. Sardar Inderjit Singh Salwan and Others) setting aside the interim measure accorded to the respondents on 21.01.2024 on the premise that the disputes relatable to the Trust are non-arbitrable.

16. Questioning the order dated 24.05.2024 passed by the Commercial Court in Arbitration Suit No.25 of 2023 rejecting the application under Section 9 of the A & C Act, the present appeal has been preferred.

Arguments of learned counsels for the Appellants

17. Shri Manish Goyal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Utkarsh Birla and Ms. Aarushi Birla, learned counsel for the appellants has sought to argue that the order of the Commercial Court rejecting the application under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996, cannot be sustained for a single moment inasmuch as the Commercial Court has misconstrued the entire controversy and adopted an incorrect approach. Elaborating the said submission, it has been submitted that it is on the insistence of the respondents herein that the matter stood referred to the arbitrator and after hearing the parties (including the respondents herein), an award came to be passed on 30.12.2022, which has attained finality, as the same has not been challenged by either of the parties in proceedings under section 34 of the A & C Act, 1996. Since the hindrances and obstacles were created by the respondents, so the appellants had to take recourse to the proceedings under section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 for interim measure, which in all eventualities was maintainable in view of the language employed in Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 that, a party can invoke the said proceedings before or during the arbitral proceedings or at any time after making of the award, but before it is enforced under Section 36 of the Act, 1996.

18. Submission is that the proceedings under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 was initiated in furtherance of and in order to secure and preserve the movable and the immovable properties, which was subject matter of the dispute which stood adjudicated by virtue of the award dated 30.12.2022, thus it was not open for the Commercial Court in the proceeding under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 to question the jurisdiction and the competence of the Arbitrator whose award remained unchallenged.

19. Argument is that the finding recorded in the order under challenge that the arbitrator is not vested with the jurisdiction to adjudicate the disputes of the Trust in view of the express bar contained under Section 9 of the CPC is misconceived besides being out of context, particularly when the disputes stood referred by the respondents herein. It is also submitted that the disputes which were referred for arbitration does not fall within the categories of non-arbitral disputes and Section 92 of the CPC has no application. Reference has also been made to Section 89 of the CPC so as to contend that with regard to settlement of disputes outside the Court amongst others, arbitration is also a mode for settlement of disputes.

20. While placing reliance upon the judgment in the case of Vidya Drolia and Others v. Durga Trading Corporation, (2021) 2 SCC 1, followed in the Avitel Post Studioz Limited and Others Vs. HSBC PI Holdings (Mauritius) Limited (2024) 4 SCC 713, it is contended that the case of the appellants does not come within the category of non-arbitral issues. Likewise the judgement in the case of Vimal Kishore Shah and Others v. Jayesh Dinesh Shah and Others, (2016) 8 SCC 788 is distinguishable, particularly when, in the said case, the Trust in question was governed under the provisions of Trust Act, 1882. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment in the case of Chairman Madappa v. M.N. Mahanthadevaru and Others, 1965 SCC Online SC 99, Sugra Bibi v. Hazi Kummu Mia, 1968 SCC Online SC 99, and Narain Sahai Aggarwal v. Smt. Santosh Rani, 1997 SCC Online Del 575 so as to contend that it is not necessary that all the disputes of the Trust are to be governed under Section 92 of the CPC, as there happens to be certain disputes, which do not fall within the parameters envisaged under Section 92 of the CPC. While driving force from the judgment in the case of Deccan Paper Mills Company Limited v. Regency Mahavir Properties and Others, (2021) 4 SCC 786, it is contended that besides the Civil Courts, the arbitrator has the competence to grant relief of specific performance and the rights so settled therein is judgment in personam and not in rem. Reference has also been made to the judgment in the case of Interplay Between Arbitration Agreements under Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 and Stamp Act, 1899, (2024) 6 SCC 1, so as to further contend that the Arbitration Act is a special law under the Contract Act and the same has primacy over the Stamp Act as well as the Registration Act.

21. It is thus prayed that the order of the Commercial Court rejecting the application under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 be set aside and the appeal be allowed in toto.

Arguments of learned counsels for the Respondents

22. Countering the submission, learned Senior Counsel for the respondents Sri Navin Sinha, assisted by Sri Nipun Singh, Sri Vinayak Mitthal and Sri Naman Agarwal has submitted that the order of the Commercial Court rejecting the application under Section 9 of the A&C Act, 1996 does not call for any interference. It is submitted that after passing of the award dated 30.12.2022 by the sole arbitrator, the Execution Case No.8 of 2023 came to be filed by the appellants on 23.11.2023 under Section 36 of the A & C Act, 1996, however, the same stood withdrawn by the appellants on 08.12.2023. Thus, once the Execution Case stood withdrawn, and no liberty whatsoever, was accorded, then the proceedings under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 was not maintainable.

23. Submission is that Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 though provides for interim measures by the Court, however, it is restricted to certain contingencies and once an award came to be passed and an execution application also got filed and thereafter withdrawn without any liberty, then the collateral proceedings in the garb and guise of Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 is nothing but an attempt to get the award enforced which is not maintainable in the eyes of law.

24. It is further submitted that the disputes which were referred to and adjudicated by the Arbitrator are non-arbitral beyond the competence of Arbitrator inasmuch as essentially the dispute was regarding removal and appointing of new Trustee as also regarding management of the Trust, for which the only recourse available to the aggrieved party is to invoke Section 92 of the CPC. Argument is that though Section 9 of A & C Act, 1996 provides for interim measures by the Courts, however, the same is restricted only to three contingencies, namely, (i) before, (ii) during the arbitration proceeding, (iii) at any time before making of the award, (iv) but before it is enforced in accordance with Section 36, therefore, once the award became enforceable and rather it was put to enforcement at the instance of the appellants while filing an execution case and the same stood withdrawn, then the application under Section 9 by no eventualities would be maintained.

25. It is also contended that the basic reason attributable for withdrawing of the execution case was on account of objection raised by the respondents herein that the court-fees on the subject matter of the dispute referred to and decided in the award was liable to be paid by the appellants, but in order to wriggle out from the same, the execution application stood withdrawn and in the garb and in the guise of application under Section 9 of A & C Act, 1996, the award is being sought to be executed which is not permissible in the eyes of law. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Bombay High Court in the case of Centrint Pharmaceuticals India Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Hindustan Antibiotics Ltd. (2019) SCC Online Bom 1614.

26. In nutshell, it is also submitted that the subject matter of dispute referred for arbitration and which was subject matter of award is clearly non-arbitrable as it pertains to the disputes of a public charity/ trust and thus, the only option available to the appellants was to take recourse to the proceedings under Section 92 of the CPC.

27. Argument is that though it was the respondents herein on whose insistence the matter stood referred to arbitration, but the same will not clothe the arbitrator with jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the dispute relatable to public charities particularly when, by the consent of the parties jurisdiction cannot be conferred.

28. It is also submitted that a bird's eye to the dispute adjudicated would reveal that Section 92 of the CPC stands applicable to the said dispute, and the same is not within the competence and jurisdiction of the arbitrator. It is accordingly, prayed that the appeal be dismissed in toto.

Analysis

29. We have given thoughtful consideration to the arguments of parties and perused the records carefully.

30. Before embarking an enquiry upon the tenability of the arguments of the rival parties, it would be apposite to extract provisions of Section 92 of the CPC:

"Public charities

(1) In the case of any alleged breach of any express or constructive trust created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature, or where the direction of the Court is deemed necessary for the administration of any such trust, the Advocate-General, or two or more persons having an interest in the trust and having obtained the 2 [leave of the Court], may institute a suit, whether contentious or not, in the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction or in any other Court empowered in that behalf by the State Government within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the trust is situate to obtain a decree:

(a) removing any trustee;

(b) appointing a new trustee;

(c) vesting any property in a trustee;

3 [(cc) directing a trustee who has been removed or a person who has ceased to be a trustee, to deliver possession of any trust property in his possession to the person entitled to the possession of such property];

d) directing accounts and inquiries;

(e) declaring what proportion of the trust property or of the interest therein shall be allocated to any particular object of the trust;

(f) authorizing the whole or any part of the trust property to be let, sold, mortgaged or exchanged;

(g) settling a scheme; or

(h) granting such further or other relief as the nature of the case may require.

(2) Save as provided by the Religious Endowments Act, 1863 (XX of 1863), 4 [or by any corresponding law in force in 5 [the territories which, immediately before the 1st November, 1956, were comprised in Part B States]], no suit claiming any of the reliefs specified in sub-section (1) shall be instituted in respect of any such trust as is therein referred to except in conformity with the provisions of that sub-section.

6[(3) The Court may alter the original purposes of an express or constructive trust created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature and allow the property or income of such trust or any portion thereof to be applied cy pres in one or more of the following circumstances, namely :

(a) where the original purposes of the trust, in whole or in part,

(i) have been, as far as may be, fulfilled; or

(ii) cannot be carried out at all, or cannot be carried out according to the directions given in the instrument creating the trust or, where there is no such instrument, according to the spirit of the trust; or

(b) where the original purposes of the trust provide a use for a part only of the property available by virtue of the trust; or

(c) where the property available by virtue of the trust and other property applicable for similar purposes can be more effectively used in conjunction with, and to that end can suitably be made applicable to any other purpose, regard being had to the spirit of the trust and its applicability to common purposes; or

(d) where the original purposes, in whole or in part, were laid down by reference to an area which then was, but has since ceased to be, a unit for such purposes; or

(e) where the original purposes, in whole or in part, have, since they were laid down,

(i) been adequately provided for by other means, or

(ii) ceased, as being useless or harmful to the community, of

(iii) ceased to be, in law, charitable, or

(iv) ceased in any other way to provide a suitable and effective method of using the property available by virtue of the trust, regard being had to the spirit of the trust."

31. Section 92 of CPC deals with the disputes of public charities/Trust created for public purpose or charitable or religious nature, wherein a complete procedure has been laid down for taking legal action. In order to attract the provisions of Section 92 of Code of Civil Procedure, three conditions have to be satisfied namely (i) The trust if created for charitable or religious nature; (ii) there was a breach of trust, or a direction of Court is necessary in the administration of said Trust; (iii)The relief claimed is one or the other of the reliefs enumerated in Sub-Section (1) of Section 92 of CPC. Further Sub-Section (2) of Section 92 provides with a non-obstante clause that no suit claiming any of the reliefs specified in Sub-Section (1) of Section 92 shall be initiated in respect of any of the Trust as referred thereto except in conformity with the provisions of Sub-Section (1) of Section 92.

32. To begin with, we are required to determine whether the Trust in question is a private or a public trust answering the definition of public charities. The appellants herein in Memo of Appeal in Ground no.D have come up with a stand that the Trust is a public charitable Trust. Ground No.D of the Memo of Appeal is reproduced hereinunder:-

"D. Because the Trust is a public and charitable trust, which is operating the school under the name of 'Guru Tegh Bahadur public School'. Therefore, the provisions of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, do not apply to the present Trust. The learned Commercial Court lost sight of the fact that the Trust is not private in nature. It has nowhere been pleaded or argued by either party that the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, governs the Guru Tegh Bahadur Charitable Trust, nor has it been registered under the said Act."

33. The distinction between private and a public trust came up for consideration in the case of Devki Nandan Vs. Murlidhar and others, AIR 1957 (SC) 133, wherein the following was observed:-

"The distinction between a private and a public trust is that whereas the former the beneficiaries are specific individuals, in the latter, the general public or class thereof."

34. Admittedly as per original trust deed dated 15.10.1979, and amended Trust Deed of the year 2019, Guru Tegh Bahadur Charitable Trust is a Charitable Trust as the name suggests, is engaged in charitable activities in the field of education. Thus, the Trust answers the definition of a Public Trust.

35. The bone of contention between the rival parties is whether the dispute is arbitrable, so as to invest the arbitrator the jurisdiction to decide the disputes of a Trust in the wake of the provisions of Section 92 of CPC. To test the said submission, we are required to have a quick survey of the disputes, which was referred to for arbitration and the nature of the award itself and the submission of the learned counsel for the appellants that once the respondents herein got referred the dispute relatable to the Trust for arbitration, then they cannot object that the dispute was not arbitrable.

36. According to the respondents herein, who were termed as 'first parties' in the arbitration, Sardar Sanjeet Singh Salwan (appellant no.1), Sri Mehar Salwan (appellant no.2) and Sri Amardeep Singh Salwan (Appellant no.3) were lawfully terminated from the board of Trust of Guru Tegh Bahadur Charitable Trust and the meetings dated 29.09.2020, 04.07.2021, 29.01.2022 was valid. On the other hand, the point raised by the appellants herein (second party) was that their removal from the Trust on 29.01.2022 was illegal being invalid and the meeting held on 29.09.2020 and 04.07.2021 admitting new Trustees Yash Karan Singh Salwan, Smt. Ramanjeet Kaur and Anshul Jain is illegal and they are liable to be removed from the office of the Trustees.

37. The arbitrator proceeded to hold and directed that Sardar Sanjeet Singh Salwan (appellant no.1), Smt. Mehar Singh Salwan (appellant no.3) and Amandeep

Singh Salwan (appellant no.2) are to be reinstated as Trustees and as regards the meeting convened on 29.09.2020 and 04.07.2021, the arbitrator after hearing the parties had directed that Yash Karan Singh Salwan shall not be removed as a Trustee of the Trust and further directions were issued for constitution of the members of the Board of Trust. Certainly, the said dispute was beyond the scope of arbitration, particularly when the disputes relatable to removing any trustee and appointing a new trustee falls within the disputes categorized under Section 92 of CPC.

38. Point nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5 raised by the respondents herein (first party) before the sole arbitrator is with regard to the issue that the appellants (other party) had no right to enter the school building or to intervene in the day-to-day running of said institution and Management of the said Trust of the School. The appellants herein (other party) claimed absolute right to participate in the meeting of the Trust and to participate in the management of the Trust and the school and to intervene into the day-to-day running of the institution, trust and the school. The arbitrator proceeded to hold and direct that initially for a period of six months from the date of passing of the award, the bank account of the Trust and the School shall be operated under the joint signatures of Sardar Inderjeet Singh Salwan and Sardar Sanjeet Singh Salwan and the former would get released the papers of the property in question from the bank and in case Sri Sardar Inderjeet Singh Salwan fails to get the original papers released from the bank, then the other party Sardar Sanjeet Singh Salwan shall have complete control over the Trust and the school. The determination made in point nos. 2 to 5 in the award is indicative of the fact that the arbitrator has decided a non-arbitrable dispute which is subject matter of Section 92 of CPC, being issues of the management of the Trust which is clearly barred in the eyes of law.

39. As regards the direction of the Arbitrator requiring the appellants herein not to pursue and withdraw the first information report dated 26.02.2022 being Case Crime No.43 of 2022 lodged against the respondents before P.S. Sadar Bazar, Meerut under Section 420 IPC and also not to give or file evidence before the criminal courts is also beyond the scope of arbitration being non-arbitrable. The position might have been different, in case parties would have approached the arbitrator expressing their sweet will that they would not pursue the criminal case, but such type of blanket directions could not have been issued by the Arbitrator. Hence the Arbitrator has exceeded its jurisdiction while passing an award on a subject, which is non-arbitrable.

40. Further once FIR came to be lodged by the appellant against the respondents herein and the investigation stood commenced, then it transforms into a dispute in rem rather in personam, particularly when the offence committed is not only against the informant, but also against the State. The reliance placed upon the judgment in the case of A. Ayyasamy (supra) and Avitel Post Studioz Ltd. (supra) is wholly misplaced, particularly when in the said decision, the issue involved was that mere allegation of fraud and forgery would not exclude arbitration and it was held that the issue of fraud or forgery was quite complex and they denude the arbitrator to adjudicate the said issues. Here in the present case, the issue is not of fraud or forgery, but it is in relation to criminal proceedings lodged against the respondents herein.

41. In Vidya Drolia (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court had laid down the four fold test in order to determine as to whether the dispute is arbitrable or not. It was observed as under:-

"76. In view of the above discussion, we would like to propound a four-fold test for determining when the subject matter of a dispute in an arbitration agreement is not arbitrable:

76.1. (1) when cause of action and subject matter of the dispute relates to actions in rem, that do not pertain to subordinate rights in personam that arise from rights in rem.

76.2. (2) when cause of action and subject matter of the dispute affects third party rights; have erga omnes effect; require centralized adjudication, and mutual adjudication would not be appropriate and enforceable;

76.3. (3) when cause of action and subject matter of the dispute relates to inalienable sovereign and public interest functions of the State and hence mutual adjudication would be unenforceable; and

76.4. (4) when the subject-matter of the dispute is expressly or by necessary implication non-arbitrable as per mandatory statute(s).

76.5. These tests are not watertight compartments; they dovetail and overlap, albeit when applied holistically and pragmatically will 60 help and assist in determining and ascertaining with great degree of certainty when as per law in India, a dispute or subject matter is non-arbitrable. Only when the answer is affirmative that the subject matter of the dispute would be non-arbitrable."

42. Plainly and simply, the disputes, which were adjudicated and which became the part and the parcel of the award falls within the purview and the rigours of Section 92 of the CPC, as it is beyond shadow of doubt that the award touches the issue of removal and induction of members of the Trust and also directions for management of the Trust.

43. Our view also stands fortified from Sub-Section (2) of Section 92 of CPC, which provides that no suits claiming any of the reliefs specified in Sub-Section (1) are to be instituted in respect of any Trust as referred to except in conformity with the provisions of Sub-section (1) of Section 92 of CPC. As regards the argument raised by learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that since the appellant-Trust is a public trust and it is not covered under the Trust Act 1882, therefore, the judgment in the case of Vimal Kishore Sahai (supra) would not be applicable and would not make much relevance, particularly when Section 92 itself provides for modality and forum for adjudication of the dispute relatable to the Trust.

44. Much emphasis had been laid upon Section 89 of the CPC so as to suggest that the same deals with the settlement of dispute outside the Court and amongst others, one of the mode is arbitration. It is contended that the said provision came to be inserted by virtue of Act No.46 of 1999, w.e.f. 01.07.2002, thus it would dilute the rigours of Section 92 of CPC, as it would be open for the parties to get adjudicated the disputes of the Trust through arbitration. The said contention cannot be accepted for the simple reason that Section 89 provides for settlement of disputes outside the Court either through arbitration, conciliation, mediation or judicial settlement including settlement through Lok Adalat, however, it is subject to the disputes which would not fall under the said category. Section 89 does not override Section 92, particularly when Section 92 CPC exclusively deals with the dispute relating to Trust.

45. Though a feeble attempt was made by learned Senior Counsel for the appellants, while relying upon the judgments in the case Chairman Madappa (supra) and Narain Sahai Aggarwal (supra) while contending that it is not a hard and fast rule that all the disputes relating to or incidental to a Trust are to be dealt in terms of Section 92, as there are certain disputes, which though is of a Trust are beyond the scope of Section 92 of CPC. So far as the judgment in the case of Chairman Madappa (supra) is concerned, the same would not be of any aid or assistance to the appellants, particularly when in the said case, the dispute was relatable to disposal of a cattles for increasing the income of a Trust and it was held that for incidental trivial issues, no permission under Section 92 was required. However, in the present case in hand, the disputes are regarding the induction and removal of Trustees and also management, which obviously is within the purview of Section 92 of CPC. The judgment in the case of Narain Sahai Agarwal (supra) is also not applicable, as the said judgment also does not deal with the issue, which is engaging in the present proceeding.

46. As regards the submission of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellants that the respondents herein are estopped from raising the question of the competence of the arbitrator to adjudicate the disputes of the Trust is concerned, the same is neither here nor there. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of New Moga Transport Compay Ltd. Vs. United India Insurance Company Ltd., (2004) 4 SCC 677 had the occasion to consider the issue whether by consent, acquicience or wavier at the end of any party can create a jurisdiction. It was observed as under:-

"By a long series of decisions it has been held that where two Courts or more have under the CPC jurisdiction to try a suit or proceeding an agreement between the parties that the dispute between them shall be tried in any one of such Courts is not contrary to public policy and in no way contravenes Section 28 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. Therefore, if on the facts of a given case more than one Court has jurisdiction, parties by their consent may limit the jurisdiction to one of the two Courts. But by an agreement parties cannot confer jurisdiction to a Court which otherwise does not have jurisdiction to deal with a matter. (See Hakam Singh v. M/s. Gammon (India) Ltd. (AIR 1971 SC 740} and M/s. Shriram City Union Finance Corporation Ltd. v. Rama Mishra (AIR 2002 SC 2402)."

47. The judgment in the case of Interplay Between Arbitration Agreements (supra) is also of no help, particularly when the question poised before the Hon'ble Supreme Court was with regard to a situation where the arbitration agreement was insufficiently stamped. The Hon'ble Apex Court came to the conclusion that an arbitration agreement being a special agreement, would prevail over the Contract Act, 1872 as well as Stamp Act, 1899. With regard to the judgment in the case of Deccan Paper Mills Company Limited (supra), there is no quarrel to the proposition that the Arbitrator is also vested with a right to grant relief of specific performance same as Civil Courts and the adjudication so done is in personam and not in rem. What is understandable in the present case is that the issues which were referred to and adjudicated by the Arbitrator were the issues, which were triable by the Courts of law as per Section 92 of the CPC.

48. Interestingly, the issue that the dispute is not arbitrable also stands noticed in the order dated 24.05.2024 in Arbitration Case No.3 of 2024 while setting aside the award dated 30.10.2023 and Arbitration Case No.6 of 2024 wherein the interim relief granted to the respondents on 21.01.2024 in the proceeding under Section 17 of the A & C Act, 1996 was set aside.

49. The question regarding the maintainability of the proceedings under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 is not being addressed by this Court in the present proceeding, particularly when the dispute relatable to the Trust itself was not arbitrable and the arbitrator had no competence to adjudicate the same.

50. Viewing the case from the four-corners of law, we are of the firm opinion that the order dated 29.05.2024 of the Commercial Court rejecting the proceedings under Section 9 of the A & C Act, 1996 cannot be said to be suffering from any illegality or infirmity, warranting interference in the present proceedings.

51. The appeal is accordingly dismissed.

2. Freedom's dawn held unlimited promise for all Indians.

"Bliss was it in that dawn to be alive,

But to be young was very heaven"2

3. The audacity of hope of the young Republic was matched by the scope of ambition of the newly adopted Constitution resolved to secure justice to all citizens3.

4. The reality of independence is more sombre for many Indian citizens. The plight of a class of prisoners that emerges from this discussion dims the ardour of the fateful stroke of the midnight hour of August 1947:

"ये दाग़ दाग़ उजाला, ये शब-गज़ीदा सहर वो इन्तज़ार था जिस का, ये वो सहर तो नहीं"4

"This patchy light, this night-tormented dawn
What we waited for is not this morn"

I. Introduction & Facts:

5. In the simple facts of this case arise questions of highest constitutional significance. The bail application of the applicant was heard for the first time on merits, and he was enlarged on bail by this Court fourteen and a half years after his imprisonment. The trial has not concluded. The most consequential issues of the human condition located in the most inherent domain of the Indian Constitution also arise in the companion bail applications. On the morrow of 75th year of the Constitution, constitutional amnesia grips some spaces in the country. While the nation celebrates the Amrit Kaal of Azaadi, there is a class of Indian citizens who lead anonymized lives in the dark walls of prisons where the light of Constitutional liberties does not penetrate.

6. Briefly put the records disclose the following facts:

(a) The applicant was in jail since 14.02.2008.

(b) The first bail application was dismissed as not pressed on 15.11.2008.

(c) The second bail application was filed on 25.04.2019. (d) The matter was listed from time to time but the bail application was not pressed. On other dates the matter was not taken up for hearing.

(e) A listing application for expediting the hearing of the matter was filed on 07.08.2020.

7. The applicant was imprisoned on 14.02.2008 in connection with the criminal case registered as Case Crime No. 44 of 2008 under Sections 394/302 I.P.C. Police Station Jahangirabad, District Bulandshahar. This Court dismissed the first bail application of the applicant on 15.11.2008 by the following order:

"Sri Anil Raghav, learned counsel for the applicant states that the applicant does not want to press this bail application.

It is dismissed accordingly as not pressed."

8. The applicant filed his second bail application as an undertrial on 25.04.2019. The order sheet discloses that the application was heard on merits for the first time on 16.07.2022 and the applicant was enlarged on interim bail on date. Sureties imposed by the trial court could not be provided by the applicant due to his penurious condition and social exclusion. Hence the applicant was not set forth at liberty. This fact was brought to the notice of this Court. The surety demands were made commensurate to his socioeconomic status by this Court's order dated 21.07.2022. A fresh report was also called from the trial court. The report dated 15.02.2024 sent by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 2, Bulandshahar records that the applicant has been set forth at liberty pursuant to the interim bail granted to the applicant by this Court.

9. Bail application was earlier argued by the learned counsel for the applicant. On later dates when the matter was taken up for hearing, none appeared on behalf of the applicant. This Court did not dismiss the bail application for non prosecution in view of the law laid down by this Court in Maneesh Pathak vs. State of U.P.5 The Court appointed amicus curiae to represent the applicant at the hearing of the bail application.

II. Submissions of the learned counsels for the parties

10. Shri N. I. Jafri, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Sadrul Islam Jafri, and Shri Ali Jamal, learned counsels, Shri Vinay Saran, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Saumitra Dwivedi, and Shri Tanzeel Ahmad learned counsels, Shri Dharmendra Singhal learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Shivendra Raj Singhal learned counsel, Shri Manish Tiwary learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Atharva Dixit learned counsel, Shri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel and Shri Kunal Shah learned counsel were requested to appear on behalf of the respective applicant as amicus curiae and to assist the Court on the constitutional issues arising in these cases.

Counsels in connected bail applications:

VI. Shri Ram Krishna Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.6287 of 2024 (Mintu v. State of U.P.);

VII. Shri N. I. Jafri, learned Senior Counsel and Shri Vinay Saran, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Satish Sharma on behalf of the applicant in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 21823 of 2024 (Saleem @ Chhukali Vs. State of U.P.);

VIII. Shri Irfan Ali, learned counsel assisted by Shri Ajit Kumar, learned counsel on behalf of the applicant in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 17888 of 2024 (Pramod Kumar Vs. State of U.P.);

IX. Shri Rajnish Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel on behalf of the applicant in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 19701 of 2024 (Sunil Kumar Alias Chuhi Alias Sandeep Kumar Vs. State of U.P.).

Shri Ashok Mehta, learned Additional Advocate General, Shri A. K. Sand, learned Government Advocate and Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I have represented the State.

11. On similar facts and common legal issues learned amicus curiae and learned counsels for parties in this case and the companion bail applications made the following submissions:

I. The applicant belongs to a socially and economically marginalized class of citizenry. He has no effective pairokar to conduct his case.

II. The applicant was not apprised of his right to seek bail by filing a second bail application and lacked access to legal aid to file the second bail application for more than one decade. (Periods of delay in the filing the bails vary in the respective case. In many cases there was inordinate delay in filing the first bail application for the same reasons).

III. The bail application of the applicant was not pressed diligently before this Court in the absence of an effective pairokar.

IV. Lack of legal literacy and denial of legal aid despite the entitlement of the applicant delayed recourse to the legal remedy of bail, and caused their6 unjustified incarceration.

V. Right of the applicant to legal aid which is a fundamental right evolved by constitutional law and also a statutory right vested in them by virtue of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 19877, and under Section 304 of Cr.P.C. has been violated.

VI. Members of the Bar also submit that this problem is faced by many prisoners in U.P. jails. The learned counsels also highlighted non compliance of the judgement of this Court in Anil Gaur @ Sonu @ Sonu Tomar vs State of Uttar Pradesh8 in similar cases.

VII. Jail Superintendent has to discharge their9 duties under Regulation 439 (a) of the Jail Manual10. The aforesaid provision has been amended by Rule 412 (a) of the UP Jail Manual, 2022.

VIII. Submissions on merits were prefaced by contending that the applicant's inability to access legal aid raises legal and constitutional issues directly affecting the right to seek bail and the personal liberty of the applicant. The adjudication of these issues is within the scope of bail jurisdiction.

12. Shri Ashok Mehta, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Shri A.K. Sand, learned Government Advocate and Shri Paritosh Malviya, learned AGA-I referred the relevant statutes and constitutional law holdings on the right to legal aid and the right to bail to the Court.

13. Shri Ashok Mehta, learned Additional Advocate General representing the State emphatically contends that State is unequivocally committed to uphold the fundamental rights of prisoners to legal aid as propounded by the Supreme Court in various pronouncements and created by various statutory provisions. In particular it is submitted that the duties of jail officials under the Jail Manual to realize the aforesaid rights of prisoner are liable to be implemented in letter and spirit. The following submissions have also been made on behalf of the State:

I. The State Government is committed to providing legal aid to the deprived and eligible classes of prisoners and to uphold the law laid down by the Supreme Court in this regard.

II. The State Government have complied with its mandate under the LSA Act, 1987. Posts contemplated in the LSA Act, 1987 have been sanctioned and endeavours have been made to provide requisite infrastructure.

III. There is a need for strict compliance of the judgment of Anil Gaur (supra) by the concerned authorities upon whom directions were made.

IV. The learned courts have to faithfully implement their duties under Section 304 Cr.P.C. to provide legal aid to prisoners who appear before them so that the bail application can be filed and heard without delay.

V. The Jail Superintendent under Regulation 439 (a) of the Jail Manual/Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 have an obligation under law to make recommendations for grant of legal aid to prisoners to the DLSAs and trial courts respectively without delay.

VI. The State Government shall make endeavours to provide IT solutions and infrastructure to enable the competent State authorities to have easy access to all relevant information necessary to discharge their duties to provide legal aid to prisoners.

VII. The State Government shall ensure full coordination between different departments for the abovesaid purposes. The LR/Principal Secretary (Law), Government of UP, Director General (Prisons), Director General (Prosecution) and representative of Director General of Police have also been heard through video conferencing.

14. Learned Additional Advocate General has called attention to the instructions sent on behalf of the State and also the affidavits filed on behalf of the respective State authorities namely LR/Principal Secretary(Law), DG (Prisons) and Additional Director General of Police (Technical Services). It is submitted on the footing of the aforesaid affidavits that the State Government is making all out efforts to provide various facts and details pertaining to prisoners to the jail authorities in an auto-generated form to process grant of legal in an efficient manner.

III. Denial of legal aid to the applicant and some cases of similarly situated prisoners

15. From the submissions made by the learned amicus curiae and learned counsel for the applicant11 and the records of the cases these facts are most evident. The applicant had no access to legal aid for more than a decade (period varies in each case) which resulted in delay in filing of this bail application. The applicant is a financially destitute person belonging to a marginalized section of the society. The applicant does not have any pairokar to diligently prosecute his bail application before this Court due to which the case was not heard promptly. The accumulation of these circumstances of want paired with legal illiteracy and denial of legal aid prolonged the detention of the applicant and has led to a miscarriage of justice.

16. The failure of justice for want of legal aid in the instant case is not a one off. Denial of legal aid has many facets with varied consequences. Prisoners belonging to the weaker sections of the society or facing circumstances of undeserved want or suffering from acute poverty or often do not have access to legal aid and consequently are unable to file bail applications for years on end. The resulting deprivation of liberties of this class of prisoners due to lack of legal aid is a recurring feature which has been repeatedly brought to the notice of this Court.

17. The other set of cases are where a bail application is filed only to be left in the cold storage. In the latter cases no efforts are made to argue the matter or press for an early hearing. These prisoners have no contact with their counsels, and are not aware of the status of their bail applications. This class of prisoners does not have effective pairokars or means of oversight to ensure diligent prosecution of their bail applications. Some cases of undertrials filing bail applications after long delays which were brought in the notice to the Court are depicted hereinunder as exemplars:

IV A. Right to seek bail and scope of bail jurisdiction

18. Right of bail is vested by virtue of Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure,197312 (and other provisions in various special statutes).

19. With coming of the Constitution and development of constitutional law, the statutory domain of bails was transformed into a constitutional jurisdiction. The right to seek bail is derived from statute but cannot be removed from constitutional oversight.

20. The right of bail has statutory origins but can never be isolated from its constitutional moorings. The right of consideration of bail is irretrievably embedded in the fundamental right of liberty enshrined under Article 21 of the Constitution of India by holdings of constitutional courts.

21. The aforesaid authorities establish the undeniable linkage between right of bail and fundamental right to personal liberty. Every prisoner has a fundamental right to file an application for bail before the competent court as per law and without delay. (See Junaid v. State of U.P. and another13 & Ajeet Chaudhary v. State of U.P. and another14).

22. The discussion has the benefit of good authorities which entrench the right of an accused to seek bail in the charter of fundamental rights assured by the Constitution of India. Bail jurisprudence was firmly embedded in the constitutional regime of fundamental rights in Gudikanti Narasimhulu and Others Vs. Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh15. Casting an enduring proposition of law in eloquent speech, V.R. Krishna Iyer, J. held:

"1. Bail or jail?" — at the pre-trial or post-conviction stage — belongs to the blurred area of the criminal justice system and largely hinges on the hunch of the Bench, otherwise called judicial discretion. The Code is cryptic on this topic and the Court prefers to be tacit, be the order custodial or not. And yet, the issue is one of liberty, justice, public safety and burden of the public treasury, all of which insist that a developed jurisprudence of bail is integral to a socially sensitized judicial process. As Chamber Judge in this summit court I have to deal with this uncanalised case-flow, ad hoc response to the docket being the flickering candle light. So it is desirable that the subject is disposed of on basic principle, not improvised brevity draped as discretion. Personal liberty, deprived when bail is refused, is too precious a value of our constitutional system recognised under Article 21 that the curial power to negate it is a great trust exercisable, not casually but judicially, with lively concern for the cost to the individual and the community. To glamorize impressionistic orders as discretionary may, on occasions, make a litigative gamble decisive of a fundamental right. After all, personal liberty of an accused or convict is fundamental, suffering lawful eclipse only in terms of "procedure established by law". The last four words of Article 21 are the life of that human right."

23. The Supreme Court in Satender Kumar Antil v. Central Bureau of Investigation and another16 held that the delays in hearing of the appeal may also be considered as a sufficient cause for grant of bail in appropriate cases. Relevant paras are extracted hereunder:

"50. Sub-section (2) has to be read along with sub-section (1). The proviso to sub-section (2) restricts the period of remand to a maximum of 15 days at a time. The second proviso prohibits an adjournment when the witnesses are in attendance except for special reasons, which are to be recorded. Certain reasons for seeking adjournment are held to be permissible. One must read this provision from the point of view of the dispensation of justice. After all, right to a fair and speedy trial is yet another facet of Article 21. Therefore, while it is expected of the court to comply with Section 309 of the Code to the extent possible, an unexplained, avoidable and prolonged delay in concluding a trial, appeal or revision would certainly be a factor for the consideration of bail. This we hold so notwithstanding the beneficial provision under Section 436-A of the Code which stands on a different footing.

57. Thus, we hold that the delay in taking up the main appeal or revision coupled with the benefit conferred under Section 436-A of the Code among other factors ought to be considered for a favourable release on bail."

24. More recently the interplay of constitutional liberty assured under Article 21 and statutory right of bail of an undertrial prisoner was affirmed by the Supreme Court in Mohd. Muslim @ Hussain Vs. State (NCT of Delhi)17.

25. Lastly the Supreme Court in Javed Gulam Nabi Shaikh v. State of Maharasthra and another18, while iterating that delay in trials may also constitute a ground for grant of bail held:

"7. Having heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties and having gone through the materials on record, we are inclined to exercise our discretion in favour of the appellant herein keeping in mind the following aspects:

(i) The appellant is in jail as an under-trial prisoner past four years;

(ii) Till this date, the trial court has not been able to even proceed to frame charge; and

(iii) As pointed out by the counsel appearing for the State as well as NIA, the prosecution intends to examine not less than eighty witnesses.

8. Having regard to the aforesaid, we wonder by what period of time, the trial will ultimately conclude. Howsoever serious a crime may be, an accused has a right to speedy trial as enshrined under the Constitution of India.

9. Over a period of time, the trial courts and the High Courts have forgotten a very well settled principle of law that bail is not to be withheld as a punishment.

19. If the State or any prosecuting agency including the court concerned has no wherewithal to provide or protect the fundamental right of an accused to have a speedy trial as enshrined under Article 21 of the Constitution then the State or any other prosecuting agency should not oppose the plea for bail on the ground that the crime committed is serious. Article 21 of the Constitution applies irrespective of the nature of the crime."

26. Engagement of fundamental rights in bail jurisprudence is a constant in constitutional law.

IV.B Legal issues arising in the cases and bail jurisdiction

27. These questions arise for consideration in the facts of this bail application and in the companion bail applications. What is the nature and scope of the right to legal aid and the correlation between the right to legal aid and right to seek bail? What are the duties of magistrates, trial courts, District Legal Services Authorities19 and Jail authorities to secure the right to legal aid and the right to seek bail vested in the prisoners?

28. The determination of merits of the bail will be predicated by a discussion on the jurisdiction of this Court to address the aforesaid issues while deciding a bail application.

29. While sitting in bail determination, this Court is not denuded of its constitutional status. The High Court is a court of record and a constitutional court irrespective of the nomenclature of the jurisdiction it is exercising. Needless to add that the High Court always exercises its jurisdiction as per law.

30. The High Court while exercising bail jurisdiction always possesses the necessary powers to pass appropriate orders for dispensing fair justice and to realize the fundamental right of an accused to seek bail. While deciding bail applications the High Court exercises a composite jurisdiction of statutory powers and constitutional obligations. At times various legal issues which directly impinge on the fair administration of justice arise for determination before this Court in bail jurisdiction. The Court cannot neglect consideration of such issues when they arise in the bail jurisdiction. Issues relating to denial of legal aid arising in the instant case and companion bail applications directly impact the right of a prisoner to apply for bail. The powers to decide all relevant legal issues having a direct bearing on the right of bail are intended to be within the jurisdiction of the High Court unless a contrary ruling is made by this Court. Declining to decide such issues which are essential for fair administration of justice in bail jurisdiction would amount to abdication of the constitutional obligations and statutory functions of this Court. To refuse the jurisdiction in such matters would amount to absolute denial of justice.

31. The judgements rendered by this Court in Ajeet Chaudhary v. State of U.P. and another20, Junaid v. State of U.P. and another21, Monish v. State of U.P. and others22, Anil Gaur @ Sonu Tomar v. State of U.P.23 & Maneesh Pathak v. State of U.P.24, Anurudh Vs. Sate of U.P.25 enable the court in bail jurisdiction to decide the legal issues which impede the realization of the right to seek bail vested in the accused by statute, or infringe the personal liberties of the accused secured by the Constitution, or otherwise interfere in the fair administration of justice in bail jurisdiction. The legal issues were twined with the merits of the bail in the said cases as in the instant case and companion bail applications. It is a well accepted practice of Constitutional Courts while deciding bails to direct the trial courts to expedite the trial. This practice which is applied in facts and circumstances of a case also depicts the enlarged scope of bail jurisdiction.

32. While examining the scope of powers of this Court to decide legal issues in bail jurisdiction this Court in Aman @ Vansh v. State of U.P. and 3 others26 held as under:

"This Court has consistently held that while sitting in the bail determination the High Court is not denuded of its constitutional status. The bail jurisdiction though created under the statute is also a constitutional jurisdiction of first importance since the most precious right of life and liberty are engaged in the process of consideration of bail. Consequently when legal issues which directly impact the life and liberty of a citizen arise during consideration of a bail application, the Court has to squarely deal with the said (sic) issues."

[Also see: i. (Anil Gaur @ Sonu @ Sonu Tomar v. State of U.P.27) ii. (Bhanwar Singh @ Karamvir v. State of U.P.28) iii. (Noor Alam v. State of U.P.29)]

V A. Legal Aid : General

33. Legal aid has to made accessible to prisoners who cannot approach the competent courts to seek bail due to their marginalized social condition, financial penury or other "circumstances of undeserved want". The task before this Court is to ensure grant of legal aid to the said class of citizens within the existing framework of laws and through the agencies, authorities and courts nominated for the said purpose.

V B. Legal Aid : Article 39A of the Constitution of India and Constitutional Law

34. The search for justice inspired our freedom struggle30, the promise to secure justice defines our Constitution. Redemption of the preambled promise to serve justice to all citizens has animated legislative endeavours and judicial discourse alike in the country.

35. The Constitutional Courts in India knew that understanding the significance of life was key to providing the security of justice. While interpreting Article 21 of the Constitution of India, the Supreme Court embraced life in all its breadth and profundity and eschewed a narrow interpretation.

36. A watershed moment came when the Supreme Court liberated life from the fetters of mere physical existence. While examining the meaning of life under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, the Supreme Court added meaning to life in the case of Olga Tellis Vs. Bombay Municipal Corporation31, when it cited the holdings of Munn v. Illinois32 and Kharak Singh Vs. State of U.P.33 with approval and imbibed their ratio in our constitutional bloodstream:

"32….."Life", as observed by Field, J. in Munn v. Illino is means something more than mere animal existence and the inhibition against the deprivation of life extends to all those limits and faculties by which life is enjoyed. This observation was quoted with approval by this Court in Kharak Singh Vs. State of U.P".

37. Article 21 was set on a career of constantly expanding boundaries and the ambit of life was progressively enlarged.

38. Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India34 was a landmark in the law came wherein the Supreme Court brought "reasonable, fair and just" procedure to deprive a person of his liberty within the embrace of Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

39. Hussainara Khatoon (IV) v. Home Secy., State of Bihar35 comprehended availability of legal aid to a prisoner for securing his liberation as an essential ingredient of "reasonable, fair and just procedure" by stating:

"6….It is now well settled, as a result of the decision of this Court in Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India [(1978) 1 SCC 248] that when Article 21 provides that no person shall be deprived of his life or liberty except in accordance with the procedure established by law, it is not enough that there should be some semblance of procedure provided by law, but the procedure under which a person may be deprived of his life or liberty should be "reasonable, fair and just". Now, a procedure which does not make available legal services to an accused person who is too poor to afford a lawyer and who would, therefore, have to go through the trial without legal assistance, cannot possibly be regarded as "reasonable, fair and just". It is an essential ingredient of reasonable, fair and just procedure to a prisoner who is to seek his liberation through the court's process that he should have legal services available to him. …….Free legal services to the poor and the needy is an essential element of any "reasonable, fair and just" procedure. It is not necessary to quote authoritative pronouncements by Judges and Jurists in support of the view that without the service of a lawyer an accused person would be denied "reasonable, fair and just" procedure."

(emphasis supplied)

40. Liberty was assured to all citizens in the constitutional text, but justice is dear to many citizens in the real world. Inalienable constitutional rights may be severed by compelling socio economic disadvantages. Poverty, social exclusion and lack of legal aid can impede the course of justice. Article 39A of the Constitution of India removes the barriers to secure justice for all citizens.

41. Article 39A of the Constitution of India underscores the importance of providing legal aid to serve equal justice to all citizens and states so:

"39A. EQUAL JUSTICE AND FREE LEGAL AID.

The State shall secure that the operation of the legal system promotes justice, on a basis of equal opportunity, and shall, in particular, provide free legal aid, by suitable legislation or schemes or in any other way, to ensure that opportunities for securing justice are not denied to any citizen by reason of economic or other disabilities."

42. Hussainara Khatoon (IV) (supra) after referencing Article 39A of the Constitution of India propounded the law as under:

"7. We may also refer to Article 39-A the fundamental constitutional directive which reads as follows:

39-A. Equal justice and free legal aid.—The State shall secure that the operation of the legal system promotes justice, on a basis of equal opportunity, and shall, in particular, provide free legal aid, by suitable legislation or schemes or in any other way, to ensure that opportunities for securing justice are not denied to any citizen by reason of economic or other disabilities." (emphasis added)

This article also emphasises that free legal service is an unalienable element of "reasonable, fair and just" procedure for without it a person suffering from economic or other disabilities would be deprived of the opportunity for securing justice. The right to free legal services is, therefore, clearly an essential ingredient of "reasonable, fair and just", procedure for a person accused of an offence and it must be held implicit in the guarantee of Article 21. This is a constitutional right of every accused person who is unable to engage a lawyer and secure legal services on account of reasons such as poverty, indigence or incommunicado situation and the State is under a mandate to provide a lawyer to an accused person if the circumstances of the case and the needs of justice so require, provided of course the accused person does not object to the provision of such lawyer."

43. Historically speaking Allahabad High Court had pioneered the concept of legal aid as intrinsic to a fair trial in the fabled dissent of Syed Mahmood J. in Queen-Empress v. Pohpi and others36.

44. Denial of legal aid causes violation of fair, reasonable and just procedure, unjustified incarceration, and curtailment of liberty. Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India which assure equality and protecting the life and liberty of a citizen respectively are engaged in these circumstances.

45. Laying down the jurisprudential foundations of the right of an accused to a lawyer at the pre trial stage, the Supreme Court in the landmark judgment of Hussainara Khatoon (IV) (supra) acknowledged that poverty and lack of awareness of right to obtain release on bail result in injustice to the poor:

"6. Then there are several undertrial prisoners who are charged with offences which are bailable but who are still in jail presumably because no application for bail has been made on their behalf or being too poor they are unable to furnish bail. It is not uncommon to find that undertrial prisoners who are produced before the Magistrates are unaware of their right to obtain release on bail and on account of their poverty, they are unable to engage a lawyer who would apprise them of their right to apply for bail and help them to secure release on bail by making a proper application to the Magistrate in that behalf. Sometimes the Magistrates also refuse to release the undertrial prisoners produced before them on their personal bond but insist on monetary bail with sureties, which by reason of their poverty the undertrial prisoners are unable to furnish and which, therefore, effectively shuts out for them any possibility of release from pre-trial detention. This unfortunate situation cries aloud for introduction of an adequate and comprehensive legal service programme, but so far, these cries do not seem to have evoked any response. We do not think it is possible to reach the benefits of the legal process to the poor, to protect them against injustice and to secure to them their constitutional and statutory rights unless there is a nation-wide legal service programme to provide free legal services to them.

Black, J., observed in Gideon v. Wainwright [372 US 335 : 9 L Ed 2d at 799] :

"Not only those precedents but also reason and reflection require us to recognise that in our adversary system of criminal justice, any person haled into court, who is too poor to hire a lawyer cannot be assured a fair trial unless counsel is provided for him. This seems to us to be an obvious truth. Governments, both State and Federal quite properly spend vast sums of money to establish machinery to try defendants accused of crime. Lawyers to prosecute are everywhere deemed essential to protect the public's interest in an orderly society. Similarly, there are few defendants charged with crime who fail to hire the best lawyers they can get to prepare and present their defences. That Government hires lawyers to prosecute and defendants who have the money hire lawyers to defend are the strongest indications of the widespread belief that lawyers in criminal courts are necessities, not luxuries. The right of one charged with crime to counsel may not be deemed fundamental and essential to fair trials in some countries, but is in ours. From the very beginning, our State and national constitutions and laws have laid great emphasis on procedural and substantive safeguards designed to assure fair trials before impartial tribunals in which every defendant stands equal before the law. This noble ideal cannot be realised if the poor man charged with crime has to face his accusers without a lawyer to assist him."

The philosophy of free legal service as an essential element of fair procedure is also to be found in the passage from the judgment of Douglas, J. in Jon Richard Argersinger v. Raymond Hamlin [417 US 25 : 25 L Ed 2d 530 at 535-36] :

"The right to be heard would be, in many cases, of little avail if it did not comprehend the right to be heard by counsel. Even the intelligent and educated layman has small and sometimes no skill in the science of law. If charged with crime, he is incapable, generally, of determining for himself whether the indictment is good or bad. He is unfamiliar with the rules of evidence. Left without the aid of counsel he may be put on trial without a proper charge, and convicted upon incompetent evidence, or evidence irrelevant to the issue or otherwise inadmissible. He lacks both the skill and knowledge adequately to prepare his defence, even though he has a perfect

one. He requires the guiding hand of counsel at every step in the proceedings against him. Without it, though he be not guilty, he faces the danger of conviction because he does not know how to establish his innocence. If that be true of men of intelligence, how much more true is it of the ignorant and illiterate or those of feeble intellect.

Both Powell and Gideon involved felonies. But their rationale has relevance to any criminal trial, where an accused is deprived of his liberty.

The court should consider the probable sentence that will follow if a conviction is obtained. The more serious the likely consequences, the greater is the probability that a lawyer should be appointed .... The court should consider the individual factors peculiar to each case. These, of course would be the most difficult to anticipate. One relevant factor would be the competency of the individual defendant to present his own case."

46. The need to rescue the credibility of the legal system and duties of the Government of India and the State Government to put a comprehensive legal service programme in place to restore the faith of the common man in the justice system was emphasized in Hussainara Khatoon (IV) (supra):

"9. We may also take this opportunity of impressing upon the Government of India as also the State Governments, the urgent necessity of introducing a dynamic and comprehensive legal service programme with a view to reaching justice to the common man. Today, unfortunately, in our country the poor are priced out of the judicial system with the result that they are losing faith in the capacity of our legal system to bring about changes in their life conditions and to deliver justice to them. The poor in their contract with the legal system have always been on the wrong side of the law. They have always come across "law for the poor" rather than "law of the poor". The law is regarded by them as something mysterious and forbidding- always taking something away from them and not as a positive and constructive social device for changing the socio economic order and improving their life conditions by conferring rights and benefits on them. The result is that the legal system has lost its credibility for the weaker sections of the community. It is, therefore, necessary that we should inject equal justice into legality and that can be done only by dynamic and activist scheme of legal services.

….We would strongly recommend to the Government of India and the State Governments that it is high time that a comprehensive legal service programme is introduced in the country. That is not only a mandate of equal justice implicit in Article 14 and right to life and liberty conferred by Article 21, but also the compulsion of the constitutional directive embodied in Article 39A."

47. The courts have a paramount duty to ensure that prisoners appearing in criminal proceedings have access to legal aid at all times. Courts cannot remain mute spectators when legal aid is denied to prisoners in legal proceedings before them.

48. The trial courts stand at a vantage point in these matters and are best circumstanced to understand the need of legal aid of the prisoners appearing before them.

49. The importance of a lawyer's professional expertise in a criminal trial and the right of a prisoner to seek his liberation with the assistance of a lawyer's services in the court process were found to be integral to fair procedure in the criminal justice system by the Supreme Court in M.H. Hoskot v. State of Maharashtra37 wherein it was held :

"14. The other ingredient of fair procedure to a prisoner, who has to seek his liberation through the court process is lawyer's services. Judicial justice, with procedural intricacies, legal submissions and critical examination of evidence, leans upon professional expertise; and a failure of equal justice under the law is on the cards where such supportive skill is absent for one side. Our judicature, moulded by Anglo-American models and our judicial process, engineered by kindred legal technology, compel the collaboration of lawyer-power for steering the wheels of equal justice under the law. Free legal services to the needy is part of the English criminal justice system. And the American jurist, Prof. Vance of Yale, sounded sense for India too when he said: [Justice and Reform, Earl Johnson, Jr. p. 11]

"What does it profit a poor and ignorant man that he is equal to his strong antagonist before the law if there is no one to inform him what the law is? Or that the courts are open to him on the same terms as to all other persons when he has not the wherewithal to pay the admission fee?"

50. The discussion in Hoskot (supra) also relied on various international authorities in point:

"15. Gideon's trumpet has been heard across the Atlantic. Black, J. there observed: [Processual Justice to the People, (May 1973) p. 69 (372 US at 344 : 9 L Ed 2d at 805)]

"Not only those precedents but also reason and reflection require us to recognise that in our adversary system of criminal justice, any person haled into court, who is too poor to hire a lawyer, cannot be assured a fair trial unless counsel is provided for him. This seems to us to be an obvious truth. Governments, both State and federal, quite properly spend vast sums of money to establish machinery to try defendants accused of crime. This noble idea cannot be realised if the poor man charged with crime has to face his accusers without a lawyer to assist him."

16. The philosophy of legal aid as an inalienable element of fair procedure is evident from Mr Justice Brennan's [Legal Aid and Legal Education, p. 94] well known words:

"Nothing rankles more in the human heart than a brooding sense of injustice. Illness we can put up with. But injustice makes us want to pull things down. When only the rich can enjoy the law, as a doubtful luxury, and the poor, who need it most, cannot have it because its expense puts it beyond their reach, the threat to the continued existence of free democracy is not imaginary but very real, because democracy's very life depends upon making the machinery of justice so effective that every citizen shall believe in and benefit by its impartiality and fairness."

17. More recently, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Raymond Hamlin has extended this processual facet of Poverty Jurisprudence. Douglas, J. there explicated: [Jon Richard Argersinger v. Raymond Hamlin, 407 US 25 : 35 L Ed 2d 530 at 535-36 and 554]

"The right to be heard would be, in many cases, of little avail if it did not comprehend the right to be heard by counsel. Even the intelligent and educated layman has small and sometimes no skill in the science of law. If charged with crime, he is incapable, generally, of determining for himself whether the indictment is good or bad. He is unfamiliar with the rules of evidence. This noble ideal cannot be realized if the poor man charged with crime has to face his accusers without a lawyer to assist him. (372 US at 344. 9 L Ed 2d at 805, 93 ALR 2d 733.)

Both Powell and Gideon involved felonies. But their rationale has relevance to any criminal trial, where an accused is deprived of his liberty.

The court should consider the probable sentence that will follow if a conviction is obtained. The more serious the likely consequences, the greater is the probability that a lawyer should be appointed .... The court should consider the individual factors peculiar to each case. These, of course would be the most difficult to anticipate. One relevant factor would be the competency of the individual defendant to present his own case."

(emphasis added)

18. The American Bar Association has upheld the fundamental premise that counsel should be provided in the criminal proceedings for offences punishable by loss of liberty, except those types of offences for which such punishment is not likely to be imposed. Thus in America, strengthened by the Powell, Gideon and Hamlin cases, counsel for the accused in the more serious class of cases which threaten a person with imprisonment is regarded as an essential component of the administration of criminal justice and as part of procedural fair-play. This is so without regard to the sixth amendment because lawyer participation is ordinarily an assurance that deprivation of liberty will not be in violation of procedure established by law. In short, it is the warp and woof of fair procedure in a sophisticated, legalistic system plus lay illiterate indigents aplenty. The Indian socio-legal milieu makes free legal service, at trial and higher levels, an imperative processual piece of criminal justice where deprivation of life or personal liberty hangs in the judicial balance."

51. The Supreme Court in Khatri and others (II) v. State of Bihar38 underscored the pervasive legal illiteracy in the country and cast an obligation on trial judges to provide free legal aid by expounding the law thus:

"5. That takes us to one other important issue which arises in this case. It is clear from the particulars supplied by the State from the records of the various judicial Magistrates dealing with the blinded prisoners from time to time that, neither at the time when the blinded prisoners were produced for the first time before the Judicial Magistrate nor at the time when the remand orders were passed, was any legal representation available to most of the blinded prisoners. The records of the Judicial Magistrates show that no legal representation was provided to the blinded prisoners, because none of them asked for it nor did the Judicial Magistrates enquire from the blinded prisoners produced before them either initially or at the time of remand whether they wanted any legal representation at State cost. The only excuse for not providing legal representation to the blinded prisoners at the cost of the State was that none of the blinded prisoners asked for it. The result was that barring two or three blinded prisoners who managed to get a lawyer to represent them at the later stages of remand, most of the blinded prisoners were not represented by any lawyers and save a few who were released on bail, and that too after being in jail for quite some time, the rest of them continued to languish in jail. It is difficult to understand how this state of affairs could be permitted to continue despite the decision of this Court in Hussainara Khatoon (IV) case[Hussainara Khatoon (IV) v. Home Secretary, State of Bihar, (1980) 1 SCC 98 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 40 : (1979) 3 SCR 532] . This Court has pointed out in Hussainara Khatoon (IV) case [Under Article 32 of the Constitution] which was decided as far back as March 9, 1979 that the right to free legal services is clearly an essential ingredient of reasonable, fair and just procedure for a person accused of an offence and it must be held implicit in the guarantee of Article 21 and the State is under a constitutional mandate to provide a lawyer to an accused person if the circumstances of the case and the needs of justice so require, provided of course the accused person does not object to the provision of such lawyer. It is unfortunate that though this Court declared the right to legal aid as a fundamental right of an accused person by a process of judicial construction of Article 21, most of the States in the country have not taken note of this decision and provided free legal services to a person accused of an offence. We regret this disregard of the decision of the highest court in the land by many of the States despite the constitutional declaration in Article 141 that the law declared by this Court shall be binding throughout the territory of India. Mr K.G. Bhagat on behalf of the State agreed that in view of the decision of this Court the State was bound to provide free legal services to an indigent accused but he suggested that the State might find it difficult to do so owing to financial constraints. We may point out to the State of Bihar that it cannot avoid its constitutional obligation to provide free legal services to a poor accused by pleading financial or administrative inability. The State is under a constitutional mandate to provide free legal aid to an accused person who is unable to secure legal services on account of indigence and whatever is necessary for this purpose has to be done by the State. The State may have its financial constraints and its priorities in expenditure but, as pointed out by the court in Rhem v. Malcolm [377 F Supp 995] "the law does not permit any Government to deprive its citizens of constitutional rights on a plea of poverty" and to quote the words of Justice Blackmum in Jackson v. Bishop [404 F Supp 2d 571] "humane considerations and constitutional requirements are not in this day to be measured by dollar considerations". Moreover, this constitutional obligation to provide free legal services to an indigent accused does not arise only when the trial commences but also attaches when the accused is for the first time produced before the Magistrate. It is elementary that the jeopardy to his personal liberty arises as soon as a person is arrested and produced before a Magistrate, for it is at that stage that he gets the first opportunity to apply for bail and obtain his release as also to resist remand to police or jail custody. That is the stage at which an accused person needs competent legal advice and representation and no procedure can be said to be reasonable, fair and just which denies legal advice and representation to him at this stage. We must, therefore, hold that the State is under a constitutional obligation to provide free legal services to an indigent accused not only at the stage of trial but also at the stage when he is first produced before the Magistrate as also when he is remanded from time to time.

6. But even this right to free legal services would be illusory for an indigent accused unless the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge before whom he is produced informs him of such right. It is common knowledge that about 70 per cent of the people in the rural areas are illiterate and even more than that percentage of people are not aware of the rights conferred upon them by law. There is so much lack of legal awareness that it has always been recognised as one of the principal items of the programme of the legal aid movement in this country to promote legal literacy. It would make a mockery of legal aid if it were to be left to a poor ignorant and illiterate accused to ask for free legal services. Legal aid would become merely a paper promise and it would fail of its purpose. The Magistrate or the Sessions Judge before whom the accused appears must be held to be under an obligation to inform the accused that if he is unable to engage the services of a lawyer on account of poverty or indigence, he is entitled to obtain free legal services at the cost of the State. Unfortunately, the Judicial Magistrates failed to discharge this obligation in the case of the blinded prisoners and they merely stated that no legal representation was asked for by the blinded prisoners and hence none was provided. We would, therefore, direct the Magistrates and Sessions Judges in the country to inform every accused who appears before them and who is not represented by a lawyer on account of his poverty or indigence that he is entitled to free legal services at the cost of the State. Unless he is not willing to take advantage of the free legal services provided by the State, he must be provided legal representation at the cost of the State. We would also direct the State of Bihar and require every other State in the country to make provision for grant of free legal services to an accused who is unable to engage a lawyer on account of reasons such as poverty, indigence or incommunicable situation. The only qualification would be that the offence charged against the accused is such that, on conviction, it would result in a sentence of imprisonment and is of such a nature that the circumstances of the case and the needs of social justice require that he should be given free legal representation. There may be cases involving offences such as economic offences or offences against law prohibiting prostitution or child abuse and the like, where social justice may require that free legal services need not be provided by the State."

52. The summit court in Suk Das v. Union Territory of Arunachal Pradesh39 did not lose sight of the prevailing ground realities of social marginalization, financial destitution and legal illiteracy which cause denial of legal aid and also call into question the fairness of the criminal justice system in the country. The obligations cast on the trial courts in this regard were reiterated:

"6. But the question is whether this fundamental right could lawfully be denied to the appellant if he did not apply for free legal aid. Is the exercise of this fundamental right conditioned upon the accused applying for free legal assistance so that if he does not make an application for free legal assistance the trial may lawfully proceed without adequate legal representation being afforded to him? Now it is common knowledge that about 70 per cent of the people living in rural areas are illiterate and even more than that percentage of the people are not aware of the rights conferred upon them by law. Even literate people do not know what are their rights and entitlements under the law. It is this absence of legal awareness which is responsible for the deception, exploitation and deprivation of rights and benefits from which the poor suffer in this land. Their legal needs always stand to become crisis-oriented because their ignorance prevents them from anticipating legal troubles and approaching a lawyer for consultation and advice in time and their poverty magnifies the impact of the legal troubles and difficulties when they come. Moreover, because of their ignorance and illiteracy, they cannot become self-reliant: they cannot even help themselves. The law ceases to be their protector because they do not know that they are entitled to the protection of the law and they can avail of the legal service programme for putting an end to their exploitation and winning their rights. The result is that poverty becomes with them a condition of total helplessness. This miserable condition in which the poor find themselves can be alleviated to some extent by creating legal awareness amongst the poor. That is why it has always been recognised as one of the principal items of the programme of the legal aid movement in the country to promote legal literacy. It would in these circumstances make a mockery of legal aid if it were to be left to a poor ignorant and illiterate accused to ask for free legal services. Legal aid would become merely a paper promise and it would fail of its purpose. This is the reason why in Khatri (II) v. State of Bihar [(1981) 1 SCC 627 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 228 : (1981) 2 SCR 408] , we ruled that the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge before whom an accused appears must be held to be under an obligation to inform the accused that if he is unable to engage the services of a lawyer on account of poverty or indigence, he is entitled to obtain free legal services at the cost of the State. We deplored that in that case where the accused were blinded prisoners the Judicial Magistrates failed to discharge their obligation and contented themselves by merely observing that no legal representation had been asked for by the blinded prisoners and hence none was provided. We accordingly directed "the Magistrates and Sessions Judges in the country to inform every accused who appear before them and who is not represented by a lawyer on account of his poverty or indigence that he is entitled to free legal services at the cost of the State" unless he is not willing to take advantage of the free legal services provided by the State. We also gave a general direction to every State in the country "to make provision for grant of free legal service to an accused who is unable to engage a lawyer on account of reasons such as poverty, indigence or incommunicado situations," the only qualification being that the offence charged against an accused is such that, on conviction, it would result in a sentence of imprisonment and is of such a nature that the circumstances of the case and the needs of social justice require that he should be given free legal representation. It is quite possible that since the trial was held before the learned Additional Deputy Commissioner prior to the declaration of the law by this Court in Khatri (II) v. State of Bihar [(1981) 1 SCC 627 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 228 : (1981) 2 SCR 408] the learned Additional Deputy Commissioner did not inform the appellant that if he was not in a position to engage a lawyer on account of lack of material resources, he was entitled to free legal assistance at State cost nor asked him whether he would like to have free legal aid. But it is surprising that despite this declaration of the law in Khatri (II) v. State of Bihar [(1981) 1 SCC 627 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 228 : (1981) 2 SCR 408] on December 19, 1980 when the decision was rendered in that case, the High Court persisted in taking the view that since the appellant did not make an application for free legal assistance, no unconstitutionality was involved in not providing him legal representation at State cost. It is obvious that in the present case the learned Additional Deputy Commissioner did not inform the appellant that he was entitled to free legal assistance nor did he inquire from the appellant whether he wanted a lawyer to be provided to him at State cost. The result was that the appellant remained unrepresented by a lawyer and the trial ultimately resulted in his conviction. This was clearly a violation of the fundamental right of the appellant under Article 21 and the trial must accordingly be held to be vitiated on account of a fatal constitutional infirmity, and the conviction and sentence recorded against the appellant must be set aside."

53. Prophetic words which fell on institutions with short memories.

VI. Statutory Schemes for Legal Aid:

VI A. Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987:

54. Free legal aid which was earlier exalted as a fundamental right by constitutional law is today enshrined as a statutory right in the LSA Act, 1987 and Section 304 Cr.P.C.

55. The LSA Act, 1987 was enacted in compliance with the Directive Principles of State Policy enshrined in Article 39-A of the Constitution of India and with the avowed object to provide "free and competent legal services (to the weaker sections of the society) to ensure that the opportunities of securing justice are not denied to any citizens by any reason of economic and any other disabilities".

56. Holdings of Constitutional Court form the backdrop of the LSA Act, 1987. The scheme of Legal Services Act, 1987 vests the right of legal aid in all prisoners and simultaneously cast an iron clad obligation on authorities created thereunder to ensure fruition of the aforesaid right. Various authorities including the State Legal Services Authorities and the District Legal Services Authorities have been created under the said Act to realize the beneficent legislative aim of providing legal aid to the weaker and deprived classes of the citizenry or those who suffer from other disabling circumstances which deny them access to legal aid.

57. Repeated instances of inordinate delays in filing of bails due to lack of access to legal aid were noticed by this Court in Anil Gaur (supra). These facts and the above stated legal setting formed the basis of the directions of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra). Anil Gaur (supra) made upon authorities created under the LSA Act, 1987 to provide legal aid to the said class of prisoners to apply for bail.

58. Section 12(e) of LSA Act, 1987 contemplates "circumstances of undeserved want" as one of the prerequisites or eligibility conditions for grant of legal aid. In Anil Gaur (supra) this Court interpreted the phrase "circumstances of undeserved want" in Section 12(e) of the LSA Act,1987 as conditions of "externalities."

59. Externalities are conditions of deprivation which are imposed by misfortune. Such conditions are caused by forces beyond the control of the victim, and the cure is not within the capacity of the victim. In the context of the LSA Act,1987 these "conditions of undeserved want" result in denial of legal aid to the prisoners. The very nature of externalities leaves the prisoners to their own devices and prevents them from approaching the District Legal Services Authorities. These externalities which operate to the detriment of the prisoners can be remedied by intervention of the statutory authorities. The authorities under the LSA Act, 1987 have to approach all the prisoners, identify the prisoners who are entitled to legal aid and provide them with the same. The District Legal Services Authorities have to proactively go to the prisoners and cannot wait for the prisoners to come to them. Similarly even prisoners who are represented by counsels/defence counsels at the trial court are liable to be approached by the DLSA in case they do not file bail applications in the appointed time frame.

60. Every accused is expected to file a bail application in a reasonable time frame. [Suggested timeline was provided in Anil Gaur(supra)]. Delay in filing of a bail application leads to a prima facie presumption that the prisoner has no access to legal aid. When a bail application is not filed in the indicated period in the timeline, the District Legal Services Authority has to apprise the prisoners of their right to seek bail and suo moto required to make enquiries into the need for legal aid and facilitate the filing of the bail application. (See Anil Gaur(supra)). The concept of District Legal Services Authorities processing legal aid only after receipt of application from the victims of "undeserved want" or declining to commence enquiry into need for legal aid merely because the prisoner is represented by a counsel/defence counsel at the trial is liable to be discarded in respect of persons imprisoned in jails.

VI B. Section 304 Cr.P.C./ Section 341 of BNSS, 2023

61. The legislature was cognizant of the importance of the right of legal aid for prisoners who for various reasons are unable to engage a lawyer and the need to provide for a mode of implementation of the right. Section 304 Cr.P.C. vests the right of legal aid in a prisoner and casts a duty upon the Courts to secure the said right. The right to free legal aid, the responsibility of the courts and the Government as stated in Section 304 of Cr.P.C. is extracted below:

"304. Legal aid to accused at State expense in certain cases.-(1) Where, in a trial before the Court of Session, the accused is not represented by a pleader, and where it appears to the Court that the accused has not sufficient means to engage a pleader, the Court shall assign a pleader for his defence at the expense of the State.

(2) The High Court may, with the previous approval of the State Government, make rules providing for-

(a) the mode of selecting pleaders for defence under sub- section (1);

(b) the facilities to be allowed to such pleaders by the Courts;

(c) the fees payable to such pleaders by the Government, and generally, for carrying out the purposes of sub-section (1).

(3) The State Government may, by notification, direct that, as from such date as may be specified in the notification, the provisions of sub- sections (1) and (2) shall apply in relation to any class of trials before other Courts in the State as they apply in relation to trials before Courts of Session."

62. The legislative intent is clear from a plain reading of the provision and the word "shall" which prefaces the duty of the court to assign a pleader.

63. The provision shall be interpreted in light of the settled canons of statutory interpretation. The word 'shall' employed in the statute depicts the legislative intent of giving the provision mandatory force [See: State of Haryana Vs. Raghubir Dayal40, and Ram Dhani And Another Vs. State of U.P.41]

64. In view of the phraseology or words employed by the legislature in Section 304 Cr.P.C. and the holdings of Constitutional Courts discussed earlier, this court finds that the provision is mandatory in character and defines the imperative obligations of the trial courts. Under Section 304 Cr.P.C., the duty of the trial courts is to grant of legal aid to needy/eligible prisoners (appearing before them) commences from the pre trial stage. In light of the constitutional law backdrop and the authorities in point discussed earlier "Court of Session" in Section 304 Cr.P.C. shall mean all trial courts and magistrates.

65. Section 304 Cr.P.C. which has been referenced and interpreted in this judgement shall also mean to include Section 341 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 202342. The newly introduced provision under the BNSS, 2023 which corresponds to Section 341 of BNSS, 2023 is extracted hereinunder:

" Legal aid to accused at State expense in certain cases.

341. (1) Where, in a trial or appeal before a Court, the accused is not represented by an advocate, and where it appears to the Court that the accused has not sufficient means to engage an advocate, the Court shall assign an advocate for his defence at the expense of the State.

(2) The High Court may, with the previous approval of the State Government, make rules providing for—

(a) the mode of selecting advocates for defence under sub-section (1);

(b) the facilities to be allowed to such advocates by the Courts;

(c) the fees payable to such advocates by the Government, and generally, for carrying out the purposes of sub-section (1).

(3) The State Government may, by notification, direct that, as from such date as may be specified in the notification, the provisions of sub-sections (1) and (2) shall apply in relation to any class of trials before other Courts in the State as they apply in relation to trials before Courts of Session."

66. The provision is analogous/pari materia with Section 304 Cr.P.C. insofar as it relates to the duties of the courts to engage an advocate for an accused in need of legal aid. The duties of the courts flowing from Section 304 Cr.P.C. as interpreted in this judgement shall also apply to the duties of the courts contemplated in Section 341 of BNSS, 2023.

67. The right to legal aid exists whenever the applicant is produced before the magistrate or trial court and not only at the start of the trial.

68. The duty of the trial court under Section 304 Cr.P.C./ Section 341 of BNSS, 2023 extends to apprise every prisoner of the right to seek bail, and to provide legal aid to a needy accused to file a bail application before the competent court. The phrase "where it appears to the trial court" envisages that the magistrate trial court should apply their mind to germane facts and make relevant enquiries to determine the need for legal aid of the accused appearing before them. Various relevant facts including the details/information enumerated in Appendix-Ii have to be factored in by the trial courts while examining the need of legal aid of a prisoner.

69. While making the aforesaid enquiry under Section 304 Cr.P.C./Section 341 of BNSS, 2023 the trial court may consider the material in the record and may also requisition relevant details/information from various authorities like the public prosecutor, police authorities, District Legal Services Authority, Secretary High Court Legal Services Committee, jail authorities, High Court Registry.

80. Many of the said details are already available on the web resources/in auto-generated form with various institutions which can be legally accessed.

81. The said authorities (including police authorities, jail authorities, DLSA, Secretary HCLSC) are liable to cooperate with the trial courts and provide the demanded information with promptitude. Any delay on part of the trial courts or the said authorities will defeat the purpose of legal aid.

82. Proper coordination between different wings of governance and IT facilities will be needed to enable the trial courts to retrieve the said information with ease to execute the mandate of Section 304 of Cr.P.C./ Section 341 of BNSS, 2023.

83. The right of legal aid under Section 304 Cr.P.C./ Section 341 of BNSS, 2023 will be effectuated when enquiries of such nature are made by the learned trial court at every trigger event in the time line provided in this judgment and appropriate action is taken by the trial court. (See: Paras 111,112,113,114).

84. The narrative will be fortified by authorities in point handed down by constitutional courts. The cases discussed hereinunder shall apply in equal measure to grant of legal aid by trial courts to prisoners for seeking bail.

85. The appellant in Mohd. Hussain @ Zulfikar Ali v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi)43, was a foreign national who did not have a defence counsel and was tried and convicted by the trial Court. Upon examining the facts of the case and after considering the relevant provisions of Cr.P.C., the Supreme Court in Mohd. Hussain @ Zulfikar Ali (supra) opined that the appointment of an effective a counsel is a prerequisite of a fair trial and laid down the law as follows:

"11. The appellant was initially assisted by a learned counsel employed by the learned Sessions Judge. However, in the midway, the learned counsel disappeared from the scene, that is, before the conclusion of the trial. It is apparent from the records that he was not asked whether he is able to employ counsel or wished to have the counsel appointed. When the parties were ready for the trial, no one appeared for the accused. The court did not appoint any counsel to defend the accused. Of course, if he had a defence counsel, I do not see the necessity of the court appointing anybody as a counsel. If he did not have a counsel, it is the mandatory duty of the court to appoint a counsel to represent him.

12. The record reveals that the evidence of 56 witnesses, out of the 65 witnesses examined by the prosecution in support of the indictment, including the eyewitnesses and the investigating officer, were recorded by the trial court without providing a counsel to the appellant. The record also reveals that none of the 56 witnesses were cross-examined by the appellant-accused. It is only thereafter, the wisdom appears to have dawned on the trial court to appoint a learned counsel on 4-12-2003 to defend the appellant. The evidence of the prosecution witnesses from 57 to 65 was recorded in the presence of the freshly appointed learned counsel, who thought it fit not to cross-examine any of those witnesses. Before the conclusion of the trial, she had filed an application to cross-examine only one prosecution witness and that prayer in the application had been granted by the trial court and the learned counsel had performed the formality of cross-examining this witness. I do not wish to comment on the performance of the learned counsel, since I am of the view that "less said the better". In this casual manner, the trial, in a capital punishment case, was concluded by the trial court.

23. The prompt disposition of criminal cases is to be commended and encouraged. But in reaching that result, the accused charged with a serious offence must not be stripped of his valuable right of a fair and impartial trial. To do that, would be negation of concept of due process of law, regardless of the merits of the appeal. The Criminal Procedure Code provides that in all criminal prosecutions, the accused has a right ot have the assistance of a counsel and the Criminal Procedure Code also requires the court in all criminal cases, where the accused is unable to engage counsel, to appoint a counsel for him at the expenses of the State. Howsoever guilty the appellant upon the inquiry might have been, he is until convicted, presumed to be innocent. It was the duty of the court, having these cases in charge, to see that he is denied no necessary incident of a fair trial.

(emphasis supplied)

24. In the present case, not only was the accused denied the assistance of a counsel during the trial but such designation of counsel, as was attempted at a late stage, was either so indefinite or so close upon the trial as to amount to a denial of effective and substantial aid in that regard. The court ought to have seen to it that in the proceedings before the court, the accused was dealt with justly and fairly by keeping in view the cardinal principles that the accused of a crime is entitled to a counsel which may be necessary for his defence, as well as to facts as to law. The same yardstick may not be applicable in respect of economic offences or where offences are not punishable with substantive sentence of imprisonment but punishable with fine only. The fact that the right involved is of such a character that it cannot be denied without violating those fundamental principles of liberty and justice which lie at the base of all our judicial proceedings, the necessity of counsel was so vital and imperative that the failure of the trial court to make an effective appointment of a counsel was a denial of due process of law. It is equally true that the absence of fair and proper trial would be violation of fundamental principles of judicial procedure on account of breach of mandatory provisions of Section 304 CrPC.

(emphasis supplied)

26. The learned counsel for the respondent State, Shri Attri contends that since no prejudice is caused to the accused in not providing a defence counsel, this Court need not take exception to the trial concluded by the learned Sessions Judge and the conviction and sentence passed against the accused. I find it difficult to accept the argument of the learned Senior Counsel. The Criminal Procedure Code ensures that an accused gets a fair trial. It is essential that the accused is given a reasonable opportunity to defend himself in the trial. He is also permitted to confront the witnesses and other evidence that the prosecution is relying upon. He is also allowed the assistance of a lawyer of his choice, and if he is unable to afford one, he is given a lawyer for his defence. The right to be defended by a learned counsel is a principal part of the right to fair trial. If these minimum safeguards are not provided to an accused; that itself is "prejudice" to an accused."

86. In Manglu Vs. State of U.P.44 rendered by the Allahabad High Court the appellant/prisoner was not represented by a counsel when he was produced before the Court from jail custody before the court and when he was charged. Upon consideration of authorities in point and the provisions of Cr.P.C. this Court in Manglu (supra) held:

"21. From perusal of the aforesaid provisions of law as well as the law laid down by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the above judgments, now it is clear that right to legal aid to indigent and poor person is implicit in the right of guarantee as provided under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. An accused is entitled to avail the aforesaid right of free legal aid at the first instance that is at the time of his production before the Magistrate and/or Sessions Judge. The Magistrate and Sessions Judge are legally bound to inform the accused about the said right and it is imperative for them to engage a lawyer on behalf of the accused on the first day, at the State cost. Rule 37 of the General Rule (Criminal), 1977 framed by Allahabad High Court makes it imperative upon the Sessions Judge to engage a counsel on behalf of the accused persons on the first date on which the case has come before it, if the charge against him is such that a capital sentence is possible. It is also clear that if there is any violation of aforesaid law and the judgments, then the same will vitiate the trial as the same is not in accordance with the procedure established by the law.

24. It is not out of place to mention that the under Section 227 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the accused persons has a right to be released by filing an application for discharge and for that purpose, the accused persons has a right to be heard by learned Additional Sessions Judge before framing the charge. In this background of the case, the aforesaid valuable right of the accused has been denied in this case. We further find that by doing so, the learned Additional Sessions Judge had violated the mandatory provisions of Rule 37 of General Rule (Criminal), 1977, which makes it imperative for the learned Additional Sessions Judge to engage a lawyer for defending the accused if the charge against him is such that a capital sentence is possible. As noticed above, in this case charge-sheet has been submitted in this case under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code in which capital sentence is possible."

87. After citing relevant provisions of the Constitution and the Cr.P.C., the Madras High Court spoke in similar terms regarding the precious right to legal aid of a prisoner in S. Yuvaraj Vs. State rep. By The Inspector of Police, Gobichettypalayam45 :

"16. 'Hearing' a person, who is accused of having committed certain offences should not be a 'mere hearing'. Hearing him without the assistance of a legally trained person is like hearing a deaf and dumb person. It will not be giving him a 'reasonable opportunity'. It will be an 'empty formality'. It will be negation of principles of natural justice. Thus, Article 22(1) Constitution of India provides right to accused persons to be defended by a lawyer of their choice.

17. Assuring their constitutional right to legal representation enshrined in Article 22(1), Section 303 Cr.P.C. has been inserted in the New Code of Criminal Procedure,1973. It provides for right of accused to be defended by a lawyer of his choice. Article 22 (1) read with Article 21 and Section 303 Cr.P.C. reiterates a facet of human right of the accused persons. It is really a matter of 'access to justice'.

18. Such right cannot be denied nor deprived due to financial constraints. Thus, a duty is cast on the State to provide legal assistance, legal aid to the needy. Section 304 Cr.P.C. is for providing legal aid to persons more particularly who are facing trial in a Sessions Court. This has also been strengthened by the introduction of Article 39-A in the Constitution through the 42 Amendment.

19. It is pertinent here to mention that in 1981, in Khatri (II) case relating to the infamous Bhalpur blinding of prisoners in certain Bihar jail, Hon'ble Apex Court directed all the Magistrates and the Sessions Judges to inform the accused persons of their constitutional right to be defended by a lawyer. But, in practice, this mandate has been observed much in breach than observance."

88. The duty to appoint lawyers cast upon the trial courts is not merely an empty procedural formality but a judicial act with serious repercussions. The need to appoint counsels of marked ability was emphasized by the Patna High Court in Darpaon Potdrain v. Emperor46:

"10…We desire to make some remarks about the defence of prisoners who are too poor to instruct lawyers on their own account. To see whose duty it is to select lawyers to defend at the expenses of the Crown should not treat the selection as a matter of patronage for the benefit of the lawyer so appointed. The selection should be made from among young men of marked ability. We have frequently observed that the persons actually appointed, do their work very badly and conspicuous opportunities for cross examination and obvious arguments are entirely ignored…"

89. In the same vein a Division Bench of this Court emphasised the duties of the courts while coming to the following conclusions in Ram Awadh v. State of U.P.47 :

"14. The requirement of providing counsel to an accused at the State expense is not an empty formality which may be not by merely appointing a counsel whatever his calibre may be. When the law enjoins appointing a counsel to defend an accused, it means an effective counsel, a counsel in real sense who can safeguard the interest of the accused in best possible manner which is permissible under law. An accused facing charge of murder may be sentenced to death or imprisonment for life and consequently his case should be handled by a competent person and not "by a novice or one who has no professional expertise. A duty is cast upon the Judges before whom such indigent accused are facing trial for serious offence and who are not able to engage a counsel, to appoint competent persons for their defence. It is needless to emphasis that a Judge is not a prosecutor and his duty is to discern the truth so that he is able to arrive at a correct conclusion. A defence lawyer plays an important role in bringing out the truth before the Court by cross-examining the witnesses and placing relevant materials or evidence. The absence of proper cross-examination may at times result in miscarriage of justice and the Court has to guard against such an eventuality."

(emphasis supplied)

VIC. General Rules (Criminal)

90. Rule 37 of General Rules (Criminal) casts a duty on the committing magistrate to enquire into the fact as to whether the accused has engaged a counsel and as regards his means to do so. The provision is extracted hereinbelow:

"37. When counsel should be engaged for accused—In anycase which comes before a court of session, the court may engage counsel to defence the accused person if—

(a) the charge against him in such that a capital sentence is possible, and

(b) it appears that he has not engaged counsel and is not possessed of sufficient means to do so."

To enable the Session court to arrive at a decision as regards the second condition in the preceding paragraph, the committing magistrate shall in such case make enquires from the accused at the time of commitment and after making such other enquiries as may be necessary, report within a month of the commitment order to the court to which the commitment is made whether the accused is possessed of sufficient means to engage counsel. Each case must be decided on its merits and no hard and fast rule as to insufficiency of means should be applied. The sessions court in making its decision shall not be bound by the report of the committing Magistrate.

Counsel appointed under this rule, shall be furnished with the necessary papers free of cost and allowed sufficient time to prepare for the defence."

91. Rule 37 of General Rules (Criminal) has to be interpreted in light of the right to legal aid propounded by the Supreme Court and the right to seek bail enunciated by constitutional courts as discussed earlier. A narrow interpretation will not be consistent the intent of the provision. Rule 37 of the General Rules (Criminal) enjoins upon every magistrate to also examine the need for legal aid for seeking bail and for his defence at the trial of every accused appearing before them48. The task will be performed by the magistrate whenever the accused appears and also in consonance with the trigger events in the timeline drawn up in the latter part of the judgement.

VI D. Jail Manual

92. Jail manual does not merely confer policing duty on the jail officials. The Jail Manual contemplates that jail officials are the protectors of the rights of prisoners under their watch. Duties of jail officials for ensuring access to legal aid to the prisoners are provided in the Jail Manual. The relevant provisions are extracted hereinunder:

"439(a). Whenever an undertrial prisoner is detained in jail for an undue long period the Superintendent shall address the District Magistrate or the Sessions Judge, as the case may be, with a view to the speedy disposal of his case or the exercise by him of the power of releasing the prisoner on bail."

93. The aforesaid provision was substituted and Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 was introduced which is extracted hereinunder:

"412. Precautions against undue detentions—(a) Whenever an undertrial prisoner is detained in jail for an unduly long period the Superintendent shall address the District Magistrate and the Chief Judicial Magistrate or the Sessions Judge, as the case may be, with a view to the speedy disposal of his case or the exercise by him of the power of releasing the prisoner on bail."

94. The manner of the communication with the legal adviser for a fulsome legal consultation with the prisoner are provided for in Rule 434 of UP Jail Manual, 2022 which is reproduced hereinunder:

"434. Written communications from undertrials for legal advisers—Any bonafide written communication prepared by an undertrial prisoner as instructions to his legal adviser shall be forwarded to that legal adviser and the Superintendent shall not disclose the contents of the communication or any portion thereof to any other person.

The following facilities shall be extended to all undertrial prisoners—

(a) Legal defence,

(b) Signing Vakalatnama,

(c) Delegation of power-of-attorney,

(d) Execution of will,

(e) Applications for legal aid at Government cost as per provisions of law,

(f) Other applications to Courts,"

95. The importance of the duties of the Jail Superintendent defined in Regulation 439(a) of the Jail Manual/ Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 read with Rule 434 of Jail Manual, 2022 lies in the fact that they have a direct bearing on realization of the fundamental rights of life and liberty guaranteed to each prisoner under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

96. Regulation 439(a) of the Jail Manual/ Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 read with Rule 434 of Jail Manual, 2022, mandates the Jail Superintendent to be alert to prolonged imprisonment of any prisoner. The phrase "unduly long period" has to be read in light of the suggested timeline of events discussed in the later part of the narrative (see paras 111,112,113,114) Thereafter the Jail Superintendent is under an obligation of law to apply their49 mind to all relevant aspects of the case and make a recommendation to the Sessions Judge/DLSA for grant of legal aid to process the bail application of the said prisoner. Some of the relevant facts and issues which have to be factored in while making the said recommendation for grant of legal aid are depicted in Appendix-I. In absence of such details the Jail Superintendent will be hampered in performing the duties under Regulation 439(a) of the Jail Manual/ Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 read with Rule 434 of Jail Manual, 2022.

97. Similarly, the Rule 434 of the UP Jail Manual, 2022 contemplates effective consultations of undertrial prisoners with their legal advisers. Legal advisors may include the legal aid counsel provided by the DLSA or the trial court as the case may be. Rule 434 of the Jail Manual, 2022 also embraces bail applications. Prisoners at times cannot arrange for documents required for filing the bail application due to their imprisonment. The prisoners have to be assisted by the Jail Superintendent to obtain the said documents as per law.

VI E. Decision making process for grant of legal aid: Relevant considerations and availability of necessary information:

98. The process of grant of legal aid contemplates a personal interface or the interaction of each prisoner with the magistrates, trial courts, DLSAs and jail authorities. Further while processing grant of legal aid to prisoners the magistrates, trial courts, DLSAs, jail authorities also need to consider relevant facts and germane issues. Some of the facts which the learned trial courts, learned magistrates, DLSAs and the jail authorities are liable to consider in the aforesaid process are depicted in Appendix I. Absent consideration of relevant facts or lack of easy accessibility to such factual details may vitiate the process of grant of legal aid.

99. Many a time the aforesaid factual details of the prisoners (whose case for grant of legal aid is under examination) are not readily available with the learned trial courts or DLSAs or the jail authorities. Individually the task of gathering such information for each prisoner by the trial court/DLSA or the jail authority may prove to be a time consuming and cumbersome exercise. The said factual information by its nature is voluminous and requires regular updation. Regular updation of such information entails collection and processing of large amounts of data. Such vast amounts of information can be managed more efficiently by use of IT. IT solutions/digital platforms can an auto generate the said information in respect of each prisoner in every jail. The responsibility falls on the State Government to provide all relevant and updated details (including those appended in Appendix-I) in an auto generated form to the Jail Superintendents.

100. The State Government may establish appropriate coordination with the High Court. Such auto-generated information/data can be shared with District Legal Services Authorities, magistrates and trial courts in consultation with the High Court.

101. A lot of the data and information (depicted in Appendix I) which is required in the aforesaid process is already available on various digital platforms/digital interfaces being administered by different courts and authorities. The criminal history of each accused is available with the police authorities in an auto generated form with the U.P. Police. As per the standard operating procedures the police authorities are also required to update the status of bail applications pending in different courts. The said procedures need to be strictly implemented. The updated status of all bail applications are posted on the High Court website which is accessible to all.

102. The data already available on official digital platforms can be consolidated and upgraded to include various relevant facts and details. Digital infrastructure/I.T. platforms of this nature will enhance the capacity of the trial courts, DLSAs and jail authorities to process the grant of legal aid to prisoners in an efficient manner.

VII. Stand of the State Government : Instructions & Affidavits

103. Instructions sent by the State Government departments to the learned AGA are taken in the record. The said instructions disclose that the criminal case details of the accused are available with the police (CCTNS) which are shared with ICJS portal and the data is accessible to all pillars. The instructions also state that various coordination meetings are held under the Chairmanship of DGP, Chief Secretary, Govt. of UP regularly and requirements can be highlighted by each pillar. The said instructions also suggests that the prosecution/court need to update bail applications on relevant portals.

104. The affidavits have been filed on behalf of LR/Principal Secretary (Law), DG (Prisons), and Additional Director General of Police (Technical Services), Government of UP. in a connected bail application (Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 16379 of 2024, Kamil Vs. State of UP) are most encouraging and depict a supportive and positive role of the Government. The affidavits also acknowledge that a number of details including Appendix-I which are required for determining the need for legal aid and to process the bail applications of needy prisoners are also available on the web portals which are administered by the various stakeholders. Regular coordination meetings are also being proposed to ensure that said information can be smoothly accessed by the pillars i.e. departments/courts/jails.

105. From the instructions and affidavits filed by the State authorities and the submissions of learned Additional Advocate General assisted by the learned GA and learned AGA-I it is evident that the State authorities consider themselves as stakeholders and not adversaries in the controversy. The State Government/authorities have owned up to their responsibilities in regard to prisoners in need of legal aid and have acknowledged the requirement to make relevant information available to the Jail Superintendents for processing grant of legal aid to prisoners.

106. The State Government through the Law Remembrancer (L.R.)/Principal Secretary (Law), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Additional Chief Secretary (Home), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Director General of Police, Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Director General (Prosecution), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Director General (Prisons), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow shall take necessary and urgent steps to provide the details of every prisoner (including those in Appendix-I) to the jail authorities and to upgrade the jail infrastructure for the said purpose.

VIII A. Right to Legal Aid & Quality of Legal Aid

107. The Constitutional Courts have not been oblivious to the wide variations in the quality of legal aid and competence of defence counsels representing the prisoners.

108. The role of the court is not limited to be mere appointment of the counsel for the accused. While appointing counsels for the accused the courts have to be alert to the benchmark standards of professional expertise, diligence and integrity required for effective prosecution of the case on behalf of an accused. Furthermore the court also has to ensure that the said threshold standards are duly adhered to by the counsels at all times during the criminal proceedings. Faithful discharge of these functions by the courts not only subserves the legislative intent of Section 304 Cr.P.C./ Section 341 of BNSS, 2023 but also fulfils the constitutional guarantees of a fair trial assured to every accused. [Also see: Supreme Court in Ramanand @ Nandlal Bharti v. State of U.P. of U.P.50]

VIIIB. Right to Legal Aid and Right to seek Bail : A Composite Scheme

109. Right to seek bail and the right to legal aid are part of an integrated scheme comprising of holdings of constitutional law and enactments of the legislature. Infact the right to seek bail has a symbiotic relationship with the right of legal aid.

110. The right to seek bail will be an illusion till the right to legal aid becomes a reality. This particularly so for a large number of prisoners belonging to marginalized classes of the citizenry and those suffering from "circumstances of undeserved want" or facing other disabling conditions which prevent them to file bail applications for lack of legal aid. Providing legal aid to this category of citizens is a prerequisite for realizing their right to seek bail and bringing their fundamental rights and liberties to fruition.

111. Failure to file a bail application51 on a timely basis gives rise to an inference that the prisoner could not approach the Court for grant of bail due to lack of access to legal aid. An obligation is cast on the trial courts/Magistrates, the DLSAs and the jail authorities to proactively and independently examine the need of each prisoner for legal aid at each trigger event in a timeline proposed below. [Also see Anil Gaur(supra)]. The presumption about the need of the said class of legal aid will exist till such enquiry is completed. Thereafter legal aid shall be provided to every eligible prisoner/accused to apprise them52 of the right to seek bail and to file a bail53 application before the competent court. The enquiry into the need for legal aid shall be made by the magistrate, trial courts, District Legal Services Authorities, Jail Superintendents without waiting for an application from the prisoners seeking legal aid and irrespective of the fact whether the accused/prisoner is represented through a counsel before the trial court or has been provided a defence counsel before the trial court.

112. A suggested timeline of events to trigger the magistrates/trial courts, District Legal Services Authorities and the jail authorities respectively to examine the issue of grant of legal aid to advise a prisoner to file a bail application and to help process the bail application are depicted below:

SUGGESTED TIMELINE OF TRIGGER EVENTS FOR ENQUIRY INTO NEED FOR LEGAL AID

1.	Time period since the imprisonment when the bail application should be filed before trial court	3 months
3 months	xTime period when the bail application should be filed before High Court after rejection of the bail application by the trial court	6 months
3.	Time period of filing subsequent bail applications after rejection of earlier bail application by the High Court. (The process will be repeated after the time gap).	1 year Or if advised at a prior period in time.
4.	Time period for bail application after earlier bail application was dismissed for non prosecution	One week

113. Trigger event is the point in the above suggested time line when enquiry has to be made by the trial court, District Legal Services Authority or the jail authority or the Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee into the need for legal aid of a prisoner. Thereafter the District Legal Services Authorities or the jail authority or the trial court or the magistrate shall provide legal aid to every eligible prisoner to file the bail application54. The said authorities/courts respectively shall mandatorily and independently examine the case for grant of legal aid to the each prisoner.

114. It is reiterated that the above said time line is only suggestive in nature and may be shortened by trial courts/magistrates, DLSAs, Secretary, HCLSC or the jail authorities as the case may be in the facts and circumstances of each case or by means of a rule made in that regard.

115. Fundamental rights defined in the constitution are multi faceted. Often concomitant rights are derived from the constitutional text of the Fundamental Rights and evolved in holdings of constitutional country. At times concomitant rights are inalienable from the respective Fundamental Rights. The concomitant rights of the right to legal aid and right to seek bail which bring both the fundamental rights to fruition are enumerated below. The integration of various concomitant rights in the Constitutional right to life under Article 21 of the Constitution is evident from the case literature in point. In Navtej Singh Johar v. Union of India55, the Supreme Court referencing the importance of concomitant rights in the effectuation of the Right to Life under the Constitution held:

"483….. In the evolution of its jurisprudence on the constitutional right to life under Article 21, this Court has consistently held that the right to life is meaningless unless accompanied by the guarantee of certain concomitant rights including, but not limited to, the right to health... The right to health is understood to be indispensable to a life of dignity and well-being, and includes, for instance, the right to emergency medical care and the right to the maintenance and improvement of public health. [CESC Ltd. v. Subhash Chandra Bose, (1992) 1 SCC 441 : 1992 SCC (L&S) 313; Consumer Education and Research Centre v. Union of India, (1995) 3 SCC 42 : 1995 SCC (L&S) 604; Paschim Banga Khet Mazdoor Samityv. State of W.B., (1996) 4 SCC 37; Society for Unaided Private Schools of Rajasthan v. Union of India, (2012) 6 SCC 1 : 4 SCEC 453; Devika Biswas v. Union of India, (2016) 10 SCC 726; Common Cause v. Union of India, (2018) 5 SCC 1.]"

116. In wake of the preceding discussion, various facets of the right to seek bail and right to legal aid which are entrenched by Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India and also vested by statutes can be summed up as follows:

(a) Every prisoner has a right to promptly seek bail from the competent court. This right includes the right to file subsequent bail applications after rejection of the earlier bail applications.

(b) Every prisoner has to be apprised of the right to seek bail at various stages of the criminal law process/ trigger events in the suggested time line by the magistrate, trial court, DLSA and superintendent of jail (A suggestive time line has been drawn up in the preceding part of the narrative, See: Paras 111,112,113,114)

(c) Every eligible prisoner is entitled to legal aid to file a bail application56 at every such stage/ trigger events in the suggested time line. (A suggestive time line has been drawn up in the preceding part of the narrative, See: Paras 111,112,113,114). The said stages in the timeline are the "trigger events" for the learned trial courts, magistrates and DLSAs to process the grant of legal aid to each prisoner.

(d) Every prisoner has a right to timely and updated information about the status of their57 bail application.

(e) Every prisoner has a right to be informed of the steps taken by their counsel/DLSA for effective and diligent prosecution of the bail application to ensure its early hearing.

(f) Delay in filing and hearing of the bail application frustrates the right to legal aid and defeats the right to seek bail.

117. Various statutes contain provisions for grant of legal aid to prisoners. Several statutory authorities/Courts under the respective statutes are vested with the powers and charged with the duties to provide legal aid to eligible persons. The overarching intent of different statutes is to undertake multipronged efforts to provide legal aid to needy prisoners. The task before this Court is to distil the statutory duties of the courts and authorities under the said enactments and to create concert between them to achieve the statutory aims.

IX. Charter of Prisoners' Rights

118. The rights of prisoners distilled in para 116 shall be called the "Charter of Prisoners' Rights". The aforesaid paragraph 116 (alongwith those mentioned therein) shall be translated in Hindi (alongwith the other paragraphs mentioned therein) and posted at every barrack in every jail. The Charter shall be read out to the prisoners on national festivals like August 15, October 2 and January 26.

X. Duties of the magistrates / trial courts / DLSAs / jail authorities :

119. In wake of the preceding discussion it can be safely stated that an ironclad obligation is made by law upon the learned magistrate, learned trial courts, DLSAs and jail authorities to realize the rights of a prisoner to legal aid and to seek bail. The duties of the magistrates/trial courts/DLSAs/HCLSC/jail authorities are summed up as follows:

A. The duties of the magistrate/trial courts:

I. The learned trial court/learned magistrate shall examine whether the accused/prisoner appearing before them58 has been apprised of the right to file a bail application at different stages or trigger events in the suggested timeline and whether such right has been exercised (See: Paras 111,112,113,114 of this judgment) and the eligibility of said accused for legal aid.

II. The learned magistrate/learned trial court after the above consideration at the occurrence of the trigger event or expiration of the time limit in the suggested time frame (see: Paras 111,112,113,114) shall make a finding on the need/eligibility of the prisoner for legal aid and exercise either of the following options:

a) The learned magistrate or learned trial court shall send a requisition to the District Legal Services Authority or the Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee to provide legal aid to the prisoner to apprise them of the right to seek bail59 and to file the bail application before the competent court.

b) The learned magistrate or learned trial court may pass orders for grant of legal aid to the accused/prisoner for the above said purpose.

III. There are many prisoners who face trial in a district court but are lodged in a jail in another district. The learned magistrate/trial court shall recommend grant of legal aid to the District Legal Services Authorities of either district.

Alternatively the learned magistrate or learned trial court, can pass orders for grant of legal aid to the accused/prisoners.

IV. To process the need for legal aid the learned magistrate/learned trial court can rely on the materials in the record, and may also seek the necessary information (suggested details in Appendix-I) from any competent authority which can furnish the said information including Public Prosecutor/ State, Police authorities, District Legal Services Authorities, Jail authorities, High Court Registry or official websites which can be legally accessed. (At a later stage the said details shall be made available to the learned magistrate/ learned trial court in an auto-generated form by the competent authorities).

V. The learned magistrate/ learned trial court may take any other step or measure to realize the rights of prisoners to legal aid and to seek bail respectively and to implement this judgement.

VI. The learned magistrate/learned trial court shall examine the need of legal aid irrespective of whether such prisoner is represented by a local counsel at the trial or has been provided with a defence counsel.

VII. After the rejection of any bail application the learned trial court/learned magistrate are directed to ensure that the trial process is expedited in strict adherence to provisions of Section 309 Cr.P.C. and in conformity with fundamental principle of fair trial. In doing so the trial court shall be guided by the law laid down by this Court in Bhanwar Singh @ Karamvir Vs. State of U.P.60 and Noor Alam Vs. State of U.P.61.

B. Duties of District Legal Services Authorities:

120. In wake of the preceding discussion the duties of the District Legal Services Authorities are summed up as follows:

I. The District Legal Services Authorities shall maintain records of each prisoner containing all information required for determining the need of a prisoner for legal aid and to file a bail application before the competent court. A suggested framework of such details is appended as appendix-I which can assist the District Legal Services Authorities to perform its functions.

II. As of now the DLSAs may utilize the available resources like Allahabad High Court Website, obtain information from authorities and "any other official resources/digital platforms" they can lawfully access.

III. The task of gathering the aforesaid factual details (Appendix-I) is undoubtedly a time consuming exercise. The DLSAs may also need additional resources. The DLSAs may consider feasibility of taking the assistance of para legal volunteers and law students for collecting the said factual details. The DLSAs may also make local innovations with the existing resources to create the database of the said details. (Appendix-I) (At a later stage the said details shall be made available to the DLSA in an auto generated form by the competent authorities).

IV. To inform every prisoner of their62 right to legal aid to file a bail63 at different stages/proposal timeline/trigger events (as discussed earlier in Paras 111,112,113,114).

V. To provide legal aid to every eligible prisoner at different stages/trigger events in the proposed time lines (as discussed in Paras 111,112,113,114) to file the bail64 application before the competent court.

VI. To ensure relevant documents and informations and other requisite assistance are provided to legal aid counsels and assist in any other manner to facilitate the filing of the bail application.

VII. To update the said prisoners on their status of the bail applications.

VIII. To constantly oversee diligent prosecution and steps taken by the legal aid counsel to ensure an early hearing of the bail application so filed and keep a record of the same.

IX. To ensure proper coordination with the learned trial courts, HCLSC and District Jail Authorities.

X. To strictly comply with the directions issued in Anil Gaur (supra) in the case of prisoners whose cases are pending in other district and in this case.

XI. To take any other step or measure to realize the rights of prisoners to legal aid and to seek bail respectively and to implement this judgement and the judgment in Anil Gaur (Supra).

[Note: Also see para 111]

C. Duties of Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee:

121. In wake of the preceding discussion the duties of the Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee are summed up as follows:

I. Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee shall ensure proper coordination with the District Legal Services Authority and jail authorities to comply with the directions in Anil Gaur (supra) as well as this case.

II. To facilitate filing of the bail application and to ensure that the bail applications65 filed through legal aid counsels before the High Court are diligently prosecuted.

III. To provide necessary support (if needed) to all DLSAs to gather the details appended as Appendix-I.

IV. To take any other step or measure as deemed fit to implement the judgement of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) as well as this case

D. Duties of Secretary, State Legal Services Authority:

122. In wake of the preceding discussion the duties of the Secretary, State Legal Services Authority are summed up as follows:

A. To take steps as deemed fit to implement the directions of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) and this case.

E. Duties of District Judges/Sessions judges:

123. In wake of the preceding discussion the duties of the District Judges/Sessions judges are summed up as follows:

I. Every learned Sessions Judge/District Judge shall regularly supervise the implementation of the directions of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) and this judgement as well and constantly alert the respective learned magistrates, learned trial judges, DLSAs and jail authorities to their mandatory duties as outlined in this judgement and Anil Gaur (supra) and hold them to account if required.

II. In every district the District Judge shall support and guide the DLSA to gather the aforesaid details depicted in Appendix I from avoidable legal sources.

All authorities shall abide by the directions of the learned District Judge in this regard. Local innovations at the district level will play a prominent role in collecting the said information (Appendix I) in a quick time frame66. It is open to the learned Sessions Judge/District Judge to look into the feasibility of taking the assistance of para legal volunteers and law students to achieve this task.

III. To take status reports from DLSA, magistrates, trial judges at least once in three months.

IV. Every learned Sessions Judges/District Judges shall take steps to ensure coordination between trial courts, DLSA, Secretary SLSA, jail authorities, police authorities, district administration, Secretary HCLSC and High Court Registry for effective implementation of this judgment.

V. It is open to every learned District Judge/Sessions Judge to devise or evolve procedures and take any other steps to support effective implementation of the directions of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) and this judgment in letter and spirit.

VI. This procedure shall be followed till the High Court and the State Government are in a position to provide I.T. solutions/digital infrastructure providing auto-generated the information for readily accessing the said details (including in Appendix I).

F. Duties of Jail Superintendent/Competent Jail Authority :

124. In wake of the preceding discussion the duties of the Jail Superintendent/competent jail authority in every district are summed up as follows:

I. Shall maintain records of each prisoner in the respective jails containing various details and information required for determining the need of the prisoner for legal aid and to file bail applications before the competent courts. A suggestive framework of such details is appended as Appendix-I.

II. To coordinate with District Legal Services Authorities and Secretary High Court Legal Services Committee.

III. To inform every prisoner of their right to legal aid to file a bail67 at different stages/proposal timeline/trigger events (as discussed earlier in Paras 111,112,113,114), and the Charter of Prisoners' Rights.

IV. To send requisition to DLSA and the Secretary, HCLSC to facilitate filing of the bail applications of needy/eligible prisoners at different stages /timelines/trigger events (discussed earlier in Paras 111,112,113,114) through the legal aid counsel.

V. To assist legal aid counsel in securing all relevant details and documents from lawful sources for filing the bail application like criminal history of the respective accused and the status of other criminal cases pending against them.

VI. To ensure that full and updated status of the bail applications of each prisoner as available on the High Court website is made accessible to them.

VII. To implement the mandate of Regulation 439(a) of the Jail Manual/ Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 read with Rule 434 of Jail Manual, 2022 in light of this judgement.

VIII. To make arrangements for video conferencing of prisoners and their counsels (particularly High Court counsels) in tandem with DLSA/Secretary HCLSC.

IX. To submit a bimonthly report regarding compliance of these directions to the Director General of Prisons. The Director General of Prisons shall prepare a detailed report on a quarterly basis depicting compliance of the directions issued in this judgment.

X. To take any other step or measure to realize the rights of prisoners to legal aid and to seek bail respectively and to implement this judgement.

G. Duties of the State Government:

I. The State Government through Law Remembrancer (L.R.)/Principal Secretary (Law), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Additional Chief Secretary (Home), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Director General of Police, Government of UP, Director General (Prosecution), and Director General (Prisons), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow to take steps in coordination with each other to provide the details of every prisoner comprised in Appendix-I to this order and any other relevant information to the Jail Superintendent/competent jail authority in every district of the State to facilitate the process of grant of legal aid and to file bail application of prisoners from jail.

II. The State Government through Law Remembrancer (L.R.)/Principal Secretary (Law), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Additional Chief Secretary (Home), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Director General of Police, Director General (Prosecution) and Director General (Prisons), Government of Uttar Pradesh make efforts to develop I.T. solutions to provide the relevant information (including details in Appendix-I) in an auto generated form to the Jail Superintendent/competent jail authorities of every district. The said IT solutions/platform may be shared with the DLSAs, magistrates and the trial courts.

III. The State Government shall ensure that the different departments of the State work in tandem to achieve the aforesaid task of realizing the fundamental rights of disadvantaged prisoners as discussed in this order.

IV. The State Government through Law Remembrancer (L.R.)/Principal Secretary (Law), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, Additional Chief Secretary (Home), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow shall examine the quarterly reports submitted by the Director General (Prisons) as regards providing legal aid in terms of the directions in this judgement and to take appropriate action thereon.

V. The State Government through Law Remembrancer (L.R.)/Principal Secretary (Law), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Additional Chief Secretary (Home), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow, Director General of Police, Director General (Prosecution) and Director General (Prisons), Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow take any other action to facilitate the implementation under Rule 412 of the Jail Manual, 2022 by Jail Superintendent in light of this judgement.

Suggestions to facilitate the realization of fundamental rights of prisoners and implementation of the legislative mandate of LSA Act, 1987 and Section 304 Cr.P.C., Rule 37 of General Rules (Criminal) as determined in this judgement

I. The implementation of this judgment as well as Anil Gaur (supra) has to be made by the respective magistrates, trial courts, and DLSAs and the Jail

Superintendent/competent jail authority of the district, and Secretary HCLSC. However systemic support from the High Court, State Government will facilitate the realization of fundamental rights of prisoners and faithful implementation of the legislative mandate of Section 304 Cr.P.C., LSA Act, 1987, Rule 37 of General Rules (Criminal) and Regulation 439 (a) of the Jail Manual/ Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 read with Rule 434 of Jail Manual, 2022 by the concerned courts and authorities respectively.

H. Registrar General of High Court: Suggestive measures to the learned Registrar General of High Court for effective implementation of the rights of the accused persons as discussed in this judgment. (Note: These are only suggestive measures and not directions)

I. To render all assistance to the learned magistrates/ trial courts/DLSAs for obtaining the current details as are currently available with the High Court in respect of every prisoner suggested in Appendix-I from the existing infrastructure and IT resources.

II. To provide infrastructural support system including digital infrastructure and IT solutions to the learned magistrates, learned trial courts, DLSAs as may be required for effective implementation of the directions in this judgement and in order to realize the fundamental rights of the prisoners to legal aid for seeking bail from the competent court.

III. The capacity of the magistrate, trial courts and the DLSAs to provide legal aid to prisoners will be greatly enhanced if relevant details (including those suggested in Appendix-I) are made available to them in an auto generated form. Steps may be taken to achieve this goal.

IV. To establish necessary coordination with the State Government to implement the judgment including sharing of relevant information on existing IT Platforms being administered by the State pillars/verticals.

V. The Registrar General may implement the above directions only if necessary permissions/directions on the administrative side are forthcoming.

I. High Court

I. To frame Rules to facilitate filing of Jail Bails (in the manner of Jail Appeals).

XI. Right to fair and expeditious trial:

125. The right to a speedy trial has been exalted as a fundamental right in constitutional law. Hussainara Khatoon and others (I) v. Home Secretary, State of Bihar68 recognized the right of speedy trial of a prisoners flowing from Article 21 of the Constitution of India “to be implicit in the broad sweep” of Article 21 of the Constitution.

126. The legislature was also cognizant of the need to continue the trial proceedings if necessary on a day to day basis until all witnesses in attendance has been examined. Section 309 Cr.P.C. may be extracted with profit:

“309. Power to postpone or adjourn proceedings-

(1) In every inquiry or trial, the proceedings shall be held as expeditiously as possible, and in particular, when the examination of witnesses has once begun, the same shall be continued from day to day until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Court finds the adjournment of the same beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded.

(2). If the Court, after taking cognizance of an offence, or commencement of trial, finds it necessary or advisable to postpone the commencement of, or adjourn, any inquiry or trial, it may, from time to time, for reasons to be recorded, postpone or adjourn the same on such terms as it thinks fit, for such time as it considers reasonable, and may by a warrant remand the accused if in custody:

Provided that no Magistrate shall remand an accused person to custody under this section for a term exceeding fifteen days at a time: Provided further that when witnesses are in attendance, no adjournment or postponement shall be granted, without examining them, except for special reasons to be recorded in writing:

Provided also that no adjournment shall be granted for the purpose only of enabling the accused person to show cause against the sentence proposed to be imposed on him.]

Explanation 1.- If sufficient evidence has been obtained to raise a suspicion that the accused may have committed an offence, and it appears likely that further evidence may be obtained by a remand, this is a reasonable cause for a remand.

Explanation 2.- The terms on which an adjournment or postponement may be granted include, in appropriate cases, the payment of costs by the prosecution or the accused."

127. When the bail application of an accused/prisoner is rejected by the trial court, the obligation to expedite the trial of such accused becomes much stronger. This Court in Bhanwar Singh (supra) & Jitendra v. State of U.P.69 had examined one of the persisting causes for delays in the trial. The cause which arose for consideration in Bhanwar Singh @ Karamvir (supra) & Jitendra (supra) was the inability of the police authorities to serve summons and execute coercive measures taken out by the courts to compel appearances of the witnesses on a timely basis. In this context this Court had issued various directions to make the police authorities accountable to the courts for their failure to serve summons or execute coercive measures to compel appearance of witnesses. The Director General of Police, Government of U.P. as well as Principal Secretary (Home), Government of U.P. had taken out relevant orders in compliance of judgements of Bhanwar Singh @ Karamvir (supra) & Jitendra (supra) which included nomination of nodal police officials for every district in U.P. who are charged with the duty to complete the aforesaid tasks with promptitude. The trial courts are also vested with the duty to ensure strict compliance of the judgements of this Court in Bhanwar Singh @ Karamvir (supra) & Jitendra (supra).

128. The other cause for delay in trial which also a widespread problem was the lawyers' abstaining from work on account of strike calls and declining to examine witnesses on the appointed dates before the trial court. The attempt was made to address the problem by calling the Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh to clear its stand on the subject. Upon consideration of the aforesaid stand of the Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh which supported the cause of justice against striking lawyers, various directions were issued in Noor Alam Vs. State of U.P.70. The judgement of Noor Alam (supra) is also liable to be implemented strictly by the trial court in the aforesaid cases.

XII. Anil Gaur @ Sonu @ Sonu Tomar Vs. State of U.P. A. Post Script

129. In Anil Gaur (supra) it was observed "Injustice is the birthmark of a slave nation. Justice is the birthright of a free people and our Constitution says they shall have it."

130. Thereafter upon noticing repeated instances of miscarriages of justice due to denial of legal aid Anil Gaur (supra) recorded the distress of the Court:

"59. The failure of justice in the said cases was occasioned by poverty, social exclusion, legal illiteracy, impersonal administration and denial of legal aid." "For them the glorious dawn of the 75th year of independence has lost the sheen of freedom's ideals and the substance of the republic's promise."

131. However, the Court regrets to say that substantial improvement in the state of the prisoners cannot be seen despite a clear mandate of the legislature in the LSA Act, 1987 and explicit directions of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) to the concerned authorities under the said Act.

132. Violation of directions in Anil Gaur (supra) causing prolonged imprisonment of prisoners of this class has come to light in a larger number of cases. The concerned DLSAs were also noticed from time to time on the need to work scrupulously for realizing the rights of prisoners as per the mandate of the LSA Act, 1987 and directions in Anil Gaur (supra). Non compliance or at any rate lack of effective implementation of the directions in Anil Gaur (supra) has caused manifest injustices, "upon which it is difficult to speak, and impossible to be silent"71. Exactions of injustice can be more severe than the curse of poverty. Prompt implementation of the directions in Anil Gaur (supra) (as well as in the instant case) and accountability for failure have to go hand in hand if the legislative object of legal aid for prisoners is to be achieved and their constitutional rights are to be realized.

133. This Court in Anil Gaur (supra) after noticing the grave consequences of failure to provide legal aid to prisoners suffering from conditions of want or other disabling circumstances had called for institutional introspection:

"61. All stakeholder institutions have to pause and reflect. The judiciary too have to turn the searchlights inwards. The courts have the power to judge, but cannot escape the judgement of the nation's collective conscience. Independence of judiciary is strengthened by honest introspection and self correction."

134. But the preceding narrative goes to show that much more needs to be done. Hence apart from renewing the call for introspection within the institution, this Court would now insist on a system of accountability in the institution.

135. Many prisoners of this class who are forgotten by fellow Indians and go unheard by the courts and remain unwept by their72 families would even question the meaning of life:

"ज़िंदगी से बड़ी सज़ा ही नहीं
और क्या जुर्म है पता ही नहीं" 73

136. The fate of these voiceless prisoners is a muted indictment of the system. If the silent indictment by the disadvantaged is not heeded, the vocal censure of history will impose heavy forfeits. The facts of these cases and those discussed by way of exemplars will shock the conscience of any court and give good reason to go back to the founding ideals of the Republic and the first principles of judicial ethics.

137. The Supreme Court has exalted the rights of prisoners to legal aid and to seek bail in constitutional law discourse and irretrievably embedded them in the charter of fundamental rights. The legislature took cognizance of the plight of undertrials belonging to marginalized sections of the society living under circumstances of destitution and want. The farsighted legislative enactments contain comprehensive schemes to reach legal aid to such citizens and secure justice to them.

138. The State Government too rose to the occasion by sanctioning the post of DLSA in every district and by emphasizing its commitment to implement the LSA Act, 1987 and judgments of the Supreme Court.

139. The conditions of service of judicial officers in the State are most exemplary. The salary scales, perks of judicial office, conditions of service and the environment of functioning provide the most conducive support systems to serve fair justice to all citizens. Infact they never had it so good! After being so well provided for by the Government and protected under the Constitution no excuse for failure is good enough. Infact the stakes cannot be higher and failure is not an option. Availability of wherewithal and absence of results can be compared to the instance cited in " In the Service of Free India" by B. D. Pande.74 The systemic inability to implement the directions in Anil Gaur (supra) has to be recognized and redressed urgently.

140. Aspiring to perks of office and savouring the privileges of power are the attributes of an entitlement culture and not the elements of the judicial ethos. Judicial ideals put power in the service of justice and employ office to uphold the law. The hallmark of judicial values is to serve and not to be.

141. The citizens' faith in the judiciary has elevated judicial decision making to a high moral ground. But trust of the citizenry and respect of the Government bring great responsibility to the judiciary. Judicial decision making has to be alert to pitfalls which can vitiate the judicial process.

142. When judicial conscience is not shocked at the denial of right of legal aid to prisoners, or when apathy to the legislative mandate informs judicial functioning, or when the holdings of Constitutional Courts are violated with impunity a crisis point will be reached. The situation will result in miscarriages of justice which will bring discredit to the process of the courts. In that event the judiciary will have to yield the moral high ground and the foundations of a just State shall be shaken.

143. This Court is not assessing blame and the same is not remit of this discussion. The purpose of these observations is to shine light on the task before various institutional stakeholders.

The stakeholders have to ensure that the luminous legislative mandates of the LSA Act, 1987 and Section 304 Cr.P.C., Rule 37 of General Rules (Criminal) and the laudable object of Regulation 439 (a) of the Jail Manual/ Rule 412(a) of UP Jail Manual, 2022 read with Rule 434 of Jail Manual, 2022 and the radiant vision of the holdings of the Supreme Court putting the plight of disadvantaged prisoners at the summit of constitutional goals are not frustrated for some want in the judicial system or deficiency in the administration of prisons.

B. Lessons Drawn

144. Hearing of the connected bail applications and also those referenced in the narrative gave valuable insights in the impediments faced by prisoners of the deprived classes to file bail applications.

145. Many prisoners of this class are unable to provide details of their criminal history without assistance. However, explanation of criminal history is a sine qua non for deciding a bail application. Criminal antecedents cannot be neglected from consideration by the courts while deciding bail applications of the accused. The right to seek bail of such prisoners cannot be postponed indefinitely for want of updated criminal history. This presents a dilemma to the courts and poses a challenge to the legal aid framework. The situation can be remedied by concerted actions of various statutory agencies and the State authorities. The State shall ensure that such details are always available with the jail authorities and provided to the prisoners/their legal counsel.

146. During the course of various hearing of bail applications, responses of the DLSAs regarding failure to comply with Anil Gaur (supra) highlight various systemic deficiencies which need correction. The said DLSA reports variously justified denial of legal aid to the said class of prisoners on the following grounds:

i. No application for grant of legal aid was filed by the prisoner before the DLSA.

ii. The prisoner had engaged a private counsel at the trial court.

iii. A defence counsel/legal aid counsel had been appointed to represent the prisoner at the trial proceedings.

iv. The legal aid counsels had met the prisoners during jail visit but no demand for legal aid was made by the prisoner.

147. I am afraid, the responses or the aforesaid justifications tendered by the DLSAs in various cases for not providing legal aid show a complete misreading of the judgement of this Court in Anil Gaur (supra) and a misconception of their own duties under the LSA Act, 1987 and right of legal aid propounded in holdings of the Supreme Court. As held earlier the DLSAs shall independently examine the need for legal aid for every prisoner without waiting for an application from such prisoner or being influenced by the fact that the prisoner has a private counsel or has been provided with a defence counsel in the trial court.

148. I would hasten to act that none of the observations should be construed as an adverse comment on any judicial officer. Rather these should be examined in the context of systemic infirmities which call for corrective measures.

149. In matters of liberty each moment is an eternity. There is not time to lose. This is a most opportune moment for this Court to reaffirm that circumstances of want cannot deny Indian citizens fair justice and the fruits of liberty under the Indian Constitution. The Constitution of India holds the irrevocable guarantee of equal justice to all citizens, and all institutions of governance bear the inflexible resolve to redeem the pledge.

C. The Road Ahead

150. There is an urgent need for the JTRI, Lucknow and the learned District Judges to study the aforesaid systemic faults in depth and create appropriate programmes for learned magistrates, trial judges and DLSAs to sensitize them to their statutory duties towards under trial prisoners and to their obligations to bring the fundamental rights of the aforesaid class of prisoners (as discussed in this judgment) to fruition.

151. The power of superintendence conferred upon the High Court by Article 227 of the Constitution of India contemplates the role of a benign guardian for the High Court which has to provide the necessary support systems through administrative measures and other guidance as may be deemed fit.

152. Upgradation of digital infrastructure and creation I.T. solutions and digital platforms for autogenerating the requisite information and facts (including those depicted in Appendix I) will play a critical role in achieving the task of processing legal aid to needy prisoners. Only when the magistrates, trial courts, DLSAs and jail authorities have smooth access to the said information can the legislative aims of Section 304 Cr.P.C., the Legal Services Authority Act, 1987 and the Jail Manual be achieved in letter and spirit.

153. The facts of the cases and the fate of the prisoners which have been examined go to the heart of constitutional values and the raison detre of the High Courts. In view of the matter being of great moment, a copy of this judgment be respectfully placed before the pater familias the Hon'ble Chief Justice of High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

XIII. Order in Bail Application

154. Matter is taken up in the revised call.

155. By means of this bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No. 44 of 2008 at Police Station Jahangirabad, District Bulandshahar under Sections 394/302 IPC.

156. The applicant is on interim bail granted by this Court on 16.07.2022.

157. The following arguments made by learned amicus curiae on behalf of the applicant, which could not be satisfactorily refuted by learned AGA from the record, entitle the applicant for grant of bail:

I. The applicant has been falsely implicated in the instant case.

II. The applicant was not named in the FIR.

III. No incriminating article has been recovered from the applicant.

IV. The applicant does not have any motive to commit the offence.

V. Prosecution evidence does not connect the applicant with the offence.

VI. The applicant is a law abiding citizen who cooperated with the police investigations and had joined the trial.

VII. The applicant never influenced any witness or tampered with the evidence.

VIII. The applicant never adopted any dilatory tactics or impeded the process of the trial.

IX. The trial is on foot. The trial is moving at a snail's pace and is not likely to conclude anytime in the near future. The applicant is not responsible for the delay in the trial.

X. The applicant has already undergone more than 14 years of imprisonment as an undertrial.

XI. The trial is not likely to conclude soon due to heavy docket of the trial court.

XII. The applicant does not have any criminal history apart from the instant case.

XIII. The applicant is not a flight risk. The applicant being a law abiding citizen has always cooperated with the investigation and undertakes to join the trial proceedings. There is no possibility of his influencing witnesses, tampering with the evidence or reoffending.

158. In the light of the preceding discussion and without making any observations on the merits of the case, the bail application is allowed.

159. Let the applicant- Ramu be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number based on personal bond and sureties given earlier before the learned trial court at the time the applicant was released on interim bail. No further sureties will be demanded from the applicant. The following conditions be imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence or influence any witness during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the date fixed, unless personal presence is exempted.

Copy of this order:-

160. Registry shall forthwith ensure service of copy of this order on:

I. Secretary, High Court Legal Services Committee

II. Director, JTRI, Lucknow

III. All District Judges (for circulation amongst the trial courts, DLSAs in the respective judgeships)

IV. Secretary, State Legal Services Authority

161. Government Advocate to ensure copy of this judgement on:

I. Law Remembrancer (L.R.)/Principal Secretary (Law), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow,

II. Additional Chief Secretary (Home), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow,

III. Director General of Police, Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow,

IV. Director General (Prosecution), Government of UP

V. Director General (Prisons), Government of Uttar Pradesh Lucknow

162. A Hindi translated copy of this order shall be provided to the accused in the respective jails through the concerned District Legal Services Authority.

XIV. Acknowledgements of the role of the Bar & and the State:

163. The discussion cannot conclude without acknowledging the role of the Bar and other stakeholders.

164. In the highest traditions of this Court and the profession, the learned Senior Counsels with their assisting counsels, learned amicus curiae and learned counsels on behalf of the respective applicants have argued with ability and scholarship.

165. This Court would like to record appreciation of the assistance rendered by Shri Ashok Mehta, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Shri A.K. Sand, learned Government Advocate and Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I.

166. The Court also commends the positive approach of the State Government in the matter and its genuine concern for providing all support to the disadvantaged class of prisoners to enable them to realize their rights to legal aid and to seek bail from the competent courts.

Civil Law–Law of Arbitration- Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Sections 37(1)(b), 34 & 43 - application under Section 34 dismissed- Section 43 of Act,1996 read with Limitation Act, 1963-claim beyond limitation-Section 7(4) (c) of the Act, 1996-respondent-claimant filed its claim for unpaid wages before the sole arbitrator-learned arbitrator allowed the claim and counter-claim-no arbitral agreement between the parties-section 2(b) read with Section 7 of the Act, 1996-definition of arbitration agreement-merely because an arbitration clause is not in the arbitration, it cannot be said that the dispute cannot be settled through arbitration and it is without jurisdiction-Section 4 of the Act, 1996-waiver of right to object-Section 16 of the Act, 1996-competence of Arbitral Tribunal to rule on its jurisdiction- plea that the Arbitral Tribunal does not have jurisdiction shall be raised not later than the submission of the St.ment of defence-objection regrading limitation to be taken at first instance-both parties provided equal opportunity- no violation of Section 18 of the Act,1996-Appeal dismissed. (Paras 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 23, 25, 32 and 33)

HELD:
According to the aforesaid Section 7, the Arbitration Agreement may be in the form of an arbitration clause in a contract or in the form of a separate agreement. The agreement shall be in writing and arbitration agreement is in writing if it is contained in a document signed by the parties, an exchange of letters, telex, telegrams or other means of telecommunication including communication through electronic means which provide a record of the agreement or an exchange of St.ments of claim and defence in which the existence of the agreement is alleged by one party and not denied by the other. Therefore merely because an arbitration clause is not in the arbitration, it cannot be said that the dispute cannot be settled through arbitration and it is without jurisdiction, if it can be inferred in terms of Section 7 and the intention of parties to settle their disputes through arbitration are discernible form the same. (para 17)

The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Mahanagar Telephone Nigam Ltd. Vs Canara Bank & ors.(Supra), considering the provisions of Section 7 of the Act of 1996 has held that the arbitration agreement need not be in any particular form. What is required to be ascertained is the intention of the parties to settle their disputes through arbitration. The intention of the parties must be inferred from the terms of the contract, conduct of the parties and correspondence exchanged to ascertain the existence of a binding contract between the parties. If the documents on record show that the parties were ad-idem and had actually reached an agreement upon all material terms, then it would be construed to be a binding contract. The meaning of a contract must be gathered by adopting a common sense approach and must not be allowed to be thwarted by a pedantic and legalistic interpretation. (Para 18)

It was only after the arbitration proceedings were decided and the claim as well as the counter claim were allowed, when Application under Section 34 of the Act of 1996 was preferred before the District Judge, this issue was raised. Learned District Judge after considering the pleadings of the parties and the law held that the jurisdiction and existence of Arbitration Clause is the preliminary issue, which may have been raised before the High Court, who has been pleased to appoint the Arbitrator and moreover the judgment passed by the High Court appointing the Arbitrator has not been challenged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and when no appeal has been filed, this issue cannot be allowed to be raised now for the first time in this court, which has been entertaining objection in petition under Section 34 of the Act of 1996. This court is of the view that it has rightly been held by the learned District Judge because once the right of this plea was waived and sole Arbitrator was got appointed by the consent of the appellants and thereafter also despite pleaded in the St.ment of claim no objection was raised in the St.ment of defence, rather the counter claim was preferred and contested, this plea could not have been raised and rightly rejected. (Para 23)

The Second argument of learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties is that the claims raised by the respondent-claimant were beyond limitation in view of Section 43 of the Act of 1996, according to which the provisions of limitation Act 1963 are applicable, which provides the limitation of 3 years for such claim, is misconceived and not tenable for the reason that this objection was not taken by the appellants-opposite parties either before the High Court or before the Arbitrator, rather the counter claim was filed and contested before the learned Arbitrator. Any such objection should have been taken at the very first instance. Even otherwise this objection is not available to the appellants-opposite parties because they themselves raised a counter claim, pursued the same and the counter claim has also been allowed. The Delhi High Court, in the case of M/s. Raj Kishan & Co. Vs National Thermal Power Corp.; 2012 SCC OnLine Del 4799 has held that the plea of limitation is not open to the petitioner to raise at this stage as the same was never raised before the Arbitral Tribunal. (Para 25)

The learned District Judge after considering the pleadings of the parties and the award has recorded a finding that the Hon'ble Arbitrator has committed no wrong in awarding interest at the rate of 18% per annum from the date of acceptance of final report. Moreover, costs, as granted by the Hon'ble Arbitrator to both the parties, and expenses of the witnesses also cannot be said to be excessive because the Hon'ble Arbitrator has very meticulously gone through the record while awarding expenses of the witnesses of both the parties. This Court after going through the records and the findings recorded by the Hon'ble Arbitrator and the learned District Judge does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the learned Arbitrator and the District Judge. Learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties also could not point out any error or illegality in the said findings or as to how it is against public policy. (Para 32)

The arguments of learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties that the award is not sustainable as the parties have not been treated equally as different costs have been awarded to both the parties, therefore there is violation of Section 18 of the Act of 1996. Section 18 of the Act 1996 provides that the parties shall be treated with equality and each party shall be given a full opportunity to present his case. Therefore in view of Section 18 the equal opportunity is required to be provided to both the parties to present their case. Though this plea does not appear to have been taken before the learned District Judge while filing the application under Section 34 of the Act of 1996, however perusal of the award indicates that equal opportunity has been provided to both the parties before passing the award, which has not been denied. Defence of the appellants-opposite parties and the counter claim raised by him has properly been considered and dealt with in the award on the basis of pleadings, evidence and material on record, therefore merely on the basis of different costs awarded to both the parties it cannot be said that the parties have not been treated equally. The costs and interest including the claim and counter claim have been awarded according to the claims made by the parties, therefore the other contentions of learned counsel for the appellant-opposite parties are not tenable and repelled accordingly. (Para 33)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Shri Rakesh K.Chaudhary, learned counsel for the appellants alongwith Shri Aditya Pandey, Advocate and Shri Vibhanshu Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This First Appeal under Section 37(1)(b) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (here-in-after referred as Act of 1996) has been preferred against the judgment and decree dated 16.09.2013 passed in Regular Suit No.17 of 2011; U.P.Rajya Bhandaran Nigam Ltd. and others Versus U.P. Purva Sainik Kalyan Nigam Ltd. by the District Judge, Lucknow and to set aside the award dated 16.01.2011 passed by the sole Arbitrator in Arbitration Case No.28 of 2008; U.P. Purva Sainik Kalyan Nigam Ltd. Versus the Managing Director, U.P. Rajya Bhandaran Nigam Limited and others by allowing the application under Section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (here-in-after referred as the Act of 1996).

3. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that there was no

Arbitration Agreement between the parties and it could not have been even by consent of parties, therefore the arbitration could not have been held and the judgment and award passed by the sole Arbitrator is without jurisdiction. He further submitted that even the claims raised by the respondent-claimant were beyond limitation in view of Section 43 of the Act of 1996, according to which the provision of Limitation Act 1963 (36 of 1963) are applicable which provides the limitation of three years for such claims, therefore the same could not have been considered and the claim was liable to be dismissed on this ground alone. He further submitted that the impugned judgment and award made by the sole Arbitrator is against the public policy in view of Section 31(7) (a) and 31(8) of the Act of 1996. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the award is also not sustainable as the parties have not been treated equally as different costs have been awarded to both the parties, therefore there is violation of Section 18 of the Act of 1996. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that on account of theft, the appellants had suffered loss for which the First Information Report was also lodged. The correspondences show that the action was taken by the respondent against the Guards, therefore the bills were rightly withheld, which could not have been directed to be paid.

4. On the basis of above learned counsel for the appellant submitted that since the arbitration proceedings are without jurisdiction, therefor the impugned judgment and award passed by the sole Arbitrator and the judgment and order passed by the District Judge on Application under Section 34 of the Act of 1996 are not sustainable and the same are liable to be set aside. Learned counsel for the appellants relied on Yeswant Deorao Deshmukh Versus Walchand Ramchand Lothari; 1950 Supreme Court Reports 852, The United Commercial Bank Ltd. Versus Their Workmen; 1951 Supreme Court Reports 380, Kiran Singh and others Versus Chaman Paswan and others; 1954 AIR 340, Judgment and order dated 13th of January 2020 passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.Lubna and others Versus Beevi & others; Civil Appeal Nos.2442-2443 of 2011 and M/s. B and T AG versus Ministry of Defence; 2023 LiveLaw (SC) 466.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the Sole Arbitrator was appointed with the consent of the appellants and no objection in this regard was taken before the Arbitrator. The appellants not only consented for appointment of Arbitrator but made a counter claim also before the Arbitrator, therefore the appellant cannot raise this objection after disposal of arbitration proceedings and it cannot be said that the proceedings are without jurisdiction in view of Section 7(4)(c) of the Act of 1996. He further submitted that no denial of notice for appointment of Arbitrator was ever made, rather the claims were raised and the Arbitrator was appointed by this court with the consent of the appellants. He further submitted that the claim of the respondent was also admitted by the appellants, therefore, the issues were made only on counter claim. He further submitted that the plea of limitation is also not available to the appellants as it was not taken at the threshold, when the Arbitrator was appointed by this court with the consent of the appellants for appointment of the Arbitrator. Even otherwise the claim was admitted and the counter claim was also made and contested, which has also been allowed. He further submitted that since the claim of the respondent was accepted by the appellants and the Sole Arbitrator while awarding the claim and the counter claim provided for set off in the award, therefore the appellants had done the summer salt and taken the aforesaid pleas. He further submitted that the cost has been awarded according to the claims, therefore the Hon'ble Arbitrator had rightly provided for the set off and no deduction has been made in the costs claimed by the appellants. The claim and counter claim have been awarded after affording sufficient opportunity, in accordance with law, therefore the plea of unequal treatment is also misconceived and not tenable including the other contentions.

6. On the basis of above, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that there is no illegality or infirmity in the arbitration proceedings and the judgment and award passed by the Sole Arbitrator as well as the judgment and order passed on the application under Section 34 of the Act of 1996 filed by the appellants. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds. It is liable to the dismissed. Learned counsel for the respondent relied on Mahanagar Telephone Nigam Limited Versus Canara Bank and others; (2020) 12 SCC 767, Union of India Versus Pam Development Private Limited; (2014) 11 SCC 366 and M/s. Raj Kishan & Company Versus National Thermal Power Corporation; 2012 SCC OnLine Del 4799.

7. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. The parties had entered into an agreement on 10.08.2001 for providing Security Personnel at Air Strip, Prithviganj, Pratapgarh by the Kalyan Nigam i.e. the respondent for protection of food grains belonging to Rajya Bhandaran Nigam i.e. the appellants. The said agreement was renewed from time to time. According to clauses 13, 14 and 16 of the said agreement the Kalyan Nigam was liable to indemnify the Bhandara Nigam for any loss and damages caused to it on account of negligence of the Security Guards deputed by Kalyan Nigam. On 04.02.2002 the fact of theft of 204 cover tops worth Rs.4,85,724/- belonging to Bhandaran Nigam came into the knowledge of Bhandaran Nigam and it was informed to Kalyan Nigam on 06.02.2002. The First Information Report of the said occurrence was lodged in the concerned Police Station, who submitted the final report on 18.04.2002, which was not accepted by the learned Magistrate concerned and the police was directed to re-investigate the matter. After re-investigation, the final report was again submitted by the Police which was accepted on 16.05.2005 by the Magistrate concerned. Accordingly Bhandaran Nigam suffered a loss of Rs.4,85,724/- due to negligence of Kalyan Nigam employees. The claim of the appellants is also that Bhandaran Nigam had decided to shift their stock from Hawai Patti, Prithviganj, Pratapgarh, but the employees of Kalyan Nigam caused obstruction in shifting of stock. Therefore the Bhandaran Nigam had to employ the guards from Industrial Security and Training Force, who after great difficulties, could shift the stock, therefore it had to suffer the extra expenditure of Rs.3,62,825/- due to illegal and wrongful activities of Kalyan Nigam for shifting their stock. As the Kalyan Nigam did not indemnify the loss suffered by the Bhandaran Nigam, the wage bills submitted by the Kalyan Nigam to the Bhandaran Nigam on 01.05.2003, 02.06.2003, 01.07.2003, 01.08.2003, 01.09.2003 and 10.09.2003 for the total sum of Rs.6,67,193.20 remained unpaid.

9. The respondent preferred Arbitration Application No.28 of 2008; U.P. Purva Sainik Kalyan Nigam Limited through the Managing Director Versus the Managing Director, U.P. Warehouse Corporation Limited, Lucknow and another before this court for appointment of an Arbitrator. This court, by means of the order dated 05.12.2008, with the consent of learned counsel for the appellant appointed Sri K.L.Sharma, J. (Former Judge of this Court) as Arbitrator in the matter subject to his convenience and consent.

10. In pursuance of the aforesaid order passed by this court and the consent of the sole Arbitrator, he commenced the proceedings after notice to the parties. The respondent-claimant filed his claim for Rs.6,67,193.23 as the unpaid wages of security service rendered to the opposite party no.2 since April 2003 till September 2003 claiming that the respondents provided the security personnel to the opposite party no.2 in terms of the agreement entered into between the parties on 10.08.2001, but the wages of the Security Personnel was paid upto March 2003 only, whereas Security Personnel remained on duty till September 2003 and wage bills dated 1st May, 2003, 2nd June, 2003, 1st July, 2003, 1st August 2003, 1st September 2003 and 10th September 2003 were not paid by the opposite party no.2 despite repeated reminders and notices. It was further alleged that the appellant-opposite parties admitted the claim of the respondent for a sum of Rs.6,67,193.23 and alleging theft of 204 cover tops in their legal notice made a counter claim of Rs.8,08,959.95. Since the appellant-opposite party no.2 neither paid the admitted amount of wage bills nor nominated an Arbitrator to decide the dispute the respondent-claimant moved an Arbitration Application before the Lucknow Bench of Allahabad High Court under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 and consequently the Arbitrator was appointed with the consent of appellant-opposite parties.

11. The appellants-opposite parties filed a joint statement of defence admitting the claim of the respondent-claimant for payment of the wages on account of the security services rendered from April 2003 till the date of terms of the agreement i.e. 09.09.2010. However appellants-opposite parties made a counter claim of Rs.8,48,969.95 also as against the claim of Rs.6,67,193.23 made by the respondent-claimant and imposed the liability on the respondent-claimant to return Rs.1,81,776.72 to the appellants. The appellants-opposite parties alleged in support of the counter claim, firstly that 204 cover Tops worth Rs.4,85,724/- were stolen from the Hawai Patti, Prithvi Ganj, Pratapgarh due to negligence of the security personnel of the Kalyan Nigam and secondly, the appellants have suffered a loss of Rs.3,63,245.95 on account of the hindrance and obstacles caused by the security personnel by preventing the shifting of food stocks from the site to another site and for employing police force and taking the security services from Industrial Security force.

12. The respondent-claimant filed a replication to the joint statement of defence denying its liability for the alleged theft claim and also the alleged losses denying any negligence or hindrance etc., caused by security personal employed by Kalyan Nigam during the period from April 2003 till their actual dis-engagement.

13. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, documents placed on record and after hearing the 9 points for determination were made by the Tribunal, which are extracted here-in-below:-

"(I) Whether the Annexure C-1 of the statement of defence filed by the O.Ps. is false, fake and fabricated document ? If so, its effect ?

(II) Whether the O.P. received 150 cover tops on 2.5.2002, 100 cover tops on 22.5.2002 and 149 cover tops on 30.5.2002, at their Air Strip Prithviganj in District Pratapgarh ?

(III) Whether there was alleged fheft of 204 cover tops from the site of Air Strip, Prithviganj on or before 4.2.2002 ? If so, its value?

(IV) Whether the alleged theft of cover Tops was due to the negligence of the Security Staff ? If so, its effect and liability ?

(V) Whether the security staff of the claimant created any obstacle or hindrance in the shifting of the stores by the staff of the O.P.? If so, whether the O.P. suffered expenditure/loss of Rs.3,63,245.95 due to the delayed shifting?

(VI) Whether the claimant is liable to pay the value of the allegedly stolen cover Tops according to para 16 of the contract of security services dated 10.8.2001 executed between the parties? If so, its effect?

(VII) Whether the claimant is entitled to get interest on unpaid wages of security staff with effect from April 2003? If so, at what rate and at what amount and for what period?

(VIII)Whether the claimant is entitled to costs of the arbitral proceedings?

(IX) To what relief is the claimant entitled?"

14. After affording opportunity of evidence and hearing, the learned Arbitrator allowed the claim as well as the counter claim. Being aggrieved, the same was challenged under Section 34 of Act of 1996 before the District Judge, Lucknow by the appellant-opposite parties. The District Judge, after considering the grounds raised by the appellant-opposite parties, pleadings and evidence on record and affording opportunity dismissed the application/objection. Hence this appeal has been filed.

15. The first ground taken by learned counsel for the appellants -opposite parties is that since there was no arbitral agreement between the parties, therefore the whole arbitration proceedings are without jurisdiction and not sustainable in the eyes of law. It is not in dispute that the agreement dated 10.08.2001 entered into between the parties does not contain the arbitration clause, whereas the contention of learned counsel for the respondent is that since there was no objection in the various correspondence made in this regard and counter claim was also raised and the learned Arbitrator was appointed by this court by means of the order dated 05.12.2008 passed in Arbitration Application No.28 of 2008 with the consent of the appellants and thereafter not only the claim was admitted, but a counter claim was also filed and decided and no such plea was ever raised, therefore it cannot be taken at this stge.

16. Section 2(b) of the Act of 1996 defines the arbitration agreement, according to which, Arbitration agreement means an agreement referred to in section 7. Section 7 of the Act of 1996 provides the Arbitration Agreement, which is extracted here-in-below:-

" 7. Arbitration agreement.—(1) In this Part, "arbitration agreement" means an agreement by the parties to submit to arbitration all or certain disputes which have arisen or which may arise between them in respect of a defined legal relationship, whether contractual or not.

(2) An arbitration agreement may be in the form of an arbitration clause in a contract or in the form of a separate agreement.

(3) An arbitration agreement shall be in writing.

(4) An arbitration agreement is in writing if it is contained in-

(a) a document signed by the parties;

(b) an exchange of letters, telex, telegrams or other means of telecommunication [including communication through electronic means] which provide a record of the agreement; or

(c) an exchange of statements of claim and defence in which the existence of the agreement is alleged by one party and not denied by the other.

(5) The reference in a contract to a document containing an arbitration clause constitutes an arbitration agreement if the contract is in writing and the reference is such as to make that arbitration clause part of the contract."

17. According to the aforesaid Section 7, the Arbitration Agreement may be in the form of an arbitration clause in a contract or in the form of a separate agreement. The agreement shall be in writing and arbitration agreement is in writing if it is contained in a document signed by the parties, an exchange of letters, telex, telegrams or other means of telecommunication including communication through electronic means which provide a record of the agreement or an exchange of statements of claim and defence in which the existence of the agreement is alleged by one party and not denied by the other. Therefore merely because an arbitration clause is not in the arbitration, it cannot be said that the dispute can not be settled through arbitration and it is without jurisdiction, if it can be inferred in terms of Section 7 and the intention of parties to settle their disputes through arbitration are discernable form the same..

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Mahanagar Telephone Nigam Limited Versus Canara Bank and others (Supra), considering the provisions of Section 7 of the Act of 1996 has held that the arbitration agreement need not be in any particular form. What is required to be ascertained is the intention of the parties to settle their disputes through arbitration. The intention of the parties must be inferred from the terms of the contract, conduct of the parties and correspondence exchanged to ascertain the existence of a binding contract between the parties. If the documents on record show that the parties were ad-idem and had actually reached an agreement upon all material terms, then it would be construed to be a binding contract. The meaning of a contract must be gathered by adopting a common sense approach and must not be allowed to be thwarted by a pedantic and legalistic interpretation. The relevant portions of paragraph 9 are extracted here-in-below:-

"The existence of a valid arbitration agreement

9. A valid arbitration agreement constitutes the heart of an arbitration. An arbitration agreement is the written agreement between the parties, to submit their existing, or future disputes or differences, to arbitration. A valid arbitration agreement is the foundation stone on which the entire edifice of the arbitral process is structured. A binding agreement for disputes to be resolved through arbitration is a sine qua non for referring the parties to arbitration.

9.1. Section 7 defines "arbitration agreement" and reads as follows:

9.2. The arbitration agreement need not be in any particular form. What is required to be ascertained is the intention of the parties to settle their disputes through arbitration. The essential elements or attributes of an arbitration agreement is the agreement to refer their disputes or differences to arbitration, which is expressly or impliedly spelt out from a clause in an agreement, separate agreement, or documents/correspondence exchanged between the parties.

9.3. Section 7(4)(b) of the 1996 Act, states that an arbitration agreement can be derived from exchange of letters, telex, telegram or other means of communication, including through electronic means. The 2015 Amendment Act inserted the words "including communication through electronic means" in Section 7(4)(b). If it can prima facie be shown that parties are ad idem, even though the other party may not have signed a formal contract, it cannot absolve him from the liability under the agreement [Govind Rubber Ltd. v. Louis Dreyfus Commodities Asia (P) Ltd., (2015) 13 SCC 477 : (2016) 1 SCC (Civ) 733] .

9.4. Arbitration agreements are to be construed according to the general principles of construction of statutes, statutory instruments, and other contractual documents. The intention of the parties must be inferred from the terms of the contract, conduct of the parties, and correspondence exchanged, to ascertain the existence of a binding contract between the parties. If the documents on record show that the parties were ad idem, and had actually reached an agreement upon all material terms, then it would be construed to be a binding contract. The meaning of a contract must be gathered by adopting a common sense approach, and must not be allowed to be thwarted by a pedantic and legalistic interpretation. [Union of India v. D.N. Revri & Co., (1976) 4 SCC 147]

9.5. A commercial document has to be interpreted in such a manner so as to give effect to the agreement, rather than to invalidate it. An "arbitration agreement" is a commercial document inter partes, and must be interpreted so as to give effect to the intention of the parties, rather than to invalidate it on technicalities.

9.6. In Khardah Co. Ltd. v. Raymon & Co. (India) (P) Ltd. [Khardah Co. Ltd. v. Raymon & Co. (India) (P) Ltd., (1963) 3 SCR 183 : AIR 1962 SC 1810] , this Court while ascertaining the terms of an arbitration agreement between the parties, held that : (AIR p. 1820, para 30)

"30. ... If on a reading of the document as a whole, it can fairly be deduced from the words actually used therein, that the parties had agreed on a particular term, there is nothing in law which prevents them from setting up that term. The terms of a contract can be express or implied from what has been expressed. It is in the ultimate analysis a question of construction of the contract." (emphasis supplied)

9.7. In interpreting or construing an arbitration agreement or arbitration clause, it would be the duty of the court to make the same workable within the permissible limits of the law. This Court in Enercon (India) Ltd. v. Enercon GmbH [Enercon (India) Ltd. v. Enercon GmbH, (2014) 5 SCC 1 : (2014) 3 SCC (Civ) 59] , held that a common sense approach has to be adopted to give effect to the intention of the parties to arbitrate the disputes between them. Being a commercial contract, the arbitration clause cannot be construed with a purely legalistic mindset, as in the case of a statute.

9.8. In this case, MTNL raised a preliminary objection that there was no arbitration agreement in writing between the parties, at this stage of the proceedings. We will first deal with this issue. The agreement between MTNL and Canara Bank to refer the disputes to arbitration is evidenced from the following documents exchanged between the parties, and the proceedings:

9.8.1. The minutes of the meeting dated 27-3-2001 was convened by the Cabinet Secretariat, wherein all three parties were present and participated in the proceedings. The Committee on Disputes, in the meeting dated 16-12-2008 expressed the view that all the three parties should take recourse to arbitration in view of the different interlinked transactions between them. Canara Bank suggested that to expedite the arbitration, it should be conducted under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. This was accepted by MTNL, and no objection was raised.

9.9. The agreement between the parties as recorded in a judicial order, is final and conclusive of the agreement entered into between the parties. [State of Maharashtra v. Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak, (1982) 2 SCC 463 : 1982 SCC (Cri) 478. See also Chitra Kumari v. Union of India, (2001) 3 SCC 208] The appellant MTNL after giving its consent to refer the disputes to arbitration before the Delhi High Court, is now estopped from contending that there was no written agreement to refer the parties to arbitration.

9.10. An additional ground, for rejecting the preliminary objection raised by MTNL is based on Section 7(4)(c) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. Section 7(4)(c) provides that there can be an arbitration agreement in the form of exchange of statement of claims and defence, in which the existence of the agreement is asserted by one party, and not denied by the other. [Savitri Goenka v. Kanti Bhai Damani, 2009 SCC OnLine Del 177 : (2009) 1 Arb LR 320] In the present case, Canara Bank had filed its statement of claim before the arbitrator, and MTNL filed its reply to the statement of claim, and also made a counterclaim against Canara Bank. The statement of claim and defence filed before the arbitrator would constitute evidence of the existence of an arbitration agreement, which was not denied by the other party, under Section 7(4)(c) of the 1996 Act. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the objection raised by MTNL is devoid of any merit, and is hereby rejected."

19. Section 4 of the Act of 1996 provides the waiver of right to object, which is extracted here-in-below:-

"4. Waiver of right to object.— A party who knows that—

(a) any provision of this Part from which the parties may derogate, or

(b) any requirement under the arbitration agreement, has not been complied with and yet proceeds with the arbitration without stating his objection to such non-compliance without undue delay or, if a time-limit is provided for stating that objection, within that period of time, shall be deemed to have waived his right to so object."

20. Section 16 of the Act of 1996 provides the competence of arbitral tribunal to rule on its jurisdiction. Sub Section (2) of Section 16 provides that a plea that the arbitral tribunal does not have jurisdiction shall be raised not later than the submission of the statement of defence, which is extracted here-in-below:-

"16. Competence of arbitral tribunal to rule on its jurisdiction.—(1) The arbitral tribunal may rule on its own jurisdiction, including ruling on any objections with respect to the existence or validity of the arbitration agreement, and for that purpose,—

(a) an arbitration clause which forms part of a contract shall be treated as an agreement independent of the other terms of the contract; and

(b) a decision by the arbitral tribunal that the contract is null and void shall not entail ipso jure the invalidity of the arbitration clause.

(2) A plea that the arbitral tribunal does not have jurisdiction shall be raised not later than the submission of the statement of defence; however, a party shall not be precluded from raising such a plea merely because that he has appointed, or participated in the appointment of, an arbitrator.

(3) A plea that the arbitral tribunal is exceeding the scope of its authority shall be raised as soon as the matter alleged to be beyond the scope of its authority is raised during the arbitral proceedings.

(4) The arbitral tribunal may, in either of the cases referred to in sub-section (2) or sub-section (3), admit a later plea if it considers the delay justified.

(5) The arbitral tribunal shall decide on a plea referred to in sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) and, where the arbitral tribunal takes a decision rejecting the plea, continue with the arbitral proceedings and make an arbitral award.

(6) A party aggrieved by such an arbitral award may make an application for setting aside such an arbitral award in accordance with Section 34."

21. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Union of India Versus Pam Development Private Limited (Supra), has held that Section 16(2) mandates that a plea that the Arbitral Tribunal does not have jurisdiction shall be raised not later than the submission of the statement of defence and the appellant having failed to raise the plea of jurisdiction before the Arbitral Tribunal cannot be permitted to raise for the first time in the court and he is deemed to have waived the right to objection with regard to the lack of jurisdiction of the Arbitral Tribunal. The relevant paragraph 18 is extracted here-in-below:-

18. In our opinion, the High Court has correctly come to the conclusion that the appellant having failed to raise the plea of jurisdiction before the Arbitral Tribunal cannot be permitted to raise for the first time in the Court. Earlier also, this Court had occasion to consider a similar objection in BSNL v. Motorola India (P) Ltd. [(2009) 2 SCC 337 : (2009) 1 SCC

(Civ) 524] Upon consideration of the provisions contained in Section 4 of the Arbitration Act, 1996, it has been held as follows: (SCC p. 349, para 39)

"39. Pursuant to Section 4 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, a party which knows that a requirement under the arbitration agreement has not been complied with and still proceeds with the arbitration without raising an objection, as soon as possible, waives their right to object. The High Court had appointed an arbitrator in response to the petition filed by the appellants (sic respondent). At this point, the matter was closed unless further objections were to be raised. If further objections were to be made after this order, they should have been made prior to the first arbitration hearing. But the appellants had not raised any such objections. The appellants therefore had clearly failed to meet the stated requirement to object to arbitration without delay. As such their right to object is deemed to be waived."

22. Adverting to the facts of the present case admittedly the appellant-opposite parties had admitted the claim of the respondent-claimant in the correspondences and the Arbitrator was appointed with the consent of the appellants-opposite parties by this court and no objection in this regard was taken by the appellants, therefore the agreement recorded in judicial order is final and conclusive. Even after appointment of Arbitrator, when the claim was filed before the Arbitrator it was specifically pleaded in the claim that despite the observations made by this court in Writ Petition No.2197 of 2007(MB); U.P. Purva Sainik Kalyan Nigam Limited Versus State of U.P. and others passed on 6th of April, 2007 no Arbitrator was appointed and despite legal notice no payment was made and the counter claim was also made and the Arbitrator has been nominated by this court in Arbitration Application No.28 of 2007, but no objection to the same was raised in statement of defence, rather the counter claim was made by the appellants-opposite parties and thereafter the matter was contested before the learned Arbitrator. Therefore not only no objection was given for the appointment of Arbitrator but the claim was contested and counter-claim was also raised without any demur, therefore the exchange of correspondence and statement of claims and defence and conduct of parties indicates that there was agreement between the parties to settle their disputes through arbitration therefore the appellant-opposite parties are estopped from raising any objection in this regard.

23. It was only after the arbitration proceedings were decided and the claim as well as the counter claim were allowed, when Application under Section 34 of the Act of 1996 was preferred before the District Judge, this issue was raised. Learned District Judge after considering the pleadings of the parties and the law held that the jurisdiction and existence of Arbitration Clause is the preliminary issue, which may have been raised before the High Court, who has been pleased to appoint the Arbitrator and moreover the judgment passed by the High Court appointing the Arbitrator has not been challenged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and when no appeal has been filed, this issue cannot be allowed to be raised now for the first time in this court, which has been entertaining objection in petition under Section 34 of the Act of 1996. This court is of the view that it has rightly been held by the learned District Judge because once the right of this plea was waived and sole Arbitrator was got appointed by the consent of the appellants and thereafter also despite pleaded in the statement of claim no objection was raised in the statement of defence, rather the counter claim was preferred and contested, this plea could not have been raised and rightly rejected.

24. Learned counsel for the appellant-opposite parties relied on the view of one of Hon'ble Mr.Justice Fazl Ali expressed in the case of the United Commercial Bank Ltd. Versus Their Workmen (Supra) in which he has observed that it was said that Rule 12 was ultra vires for two reasons; firstly, it shows that a 'vacancy' for the purposes of the proceedings before the Tribunal can be caused and need not always be a permanent one, as suggested on behalf of the appellants and secondly, what is more important, that a 'vacancy' does not affect the jurisdiction of the remaining members to continue the proceedings, for it is settled law that consent cannot given jurisdiction in respect of a subject matter though it might cure a mere irregularity. The Hon'ble Judge observed that it appears to me to be unnecessary to inquire into this side issue. Therefore this issue has not been examined by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the said case in the facts and circumstances of the case, therefore it is not of any assistance in the facts and circumstances of this case for the reason that the appellant-opposite parties have not only consented for adjudication of the dispute through Arbitrator and appointment of Arbitrator, but admitted the claim of the respondent-claimants and raised a counter claim also and contested without any objection at the appropriate stage, which were considered by the learned Arbitrator and decided, therefore the appellants-opposite parties have waived their right, therefore it cannot be raised at this stage.

25. The Second argument of learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties is that the claims raised by the respondent-claimant were beyond limitation in view of Section 43 of the Act of 1996, according to which the provisions of limitation Act 1963 are applicable, which provides the limitation of 3 years for such claim, is misconceived and not tenable for the reason that this objection was not taken by the appellants-opposite parties either before the High Court or before the Arbitrator, rather the counter claim was filed and contested before the learned Arbitrator. Any such objection should have been taken at the very first instance. Even otherwise this objection is not available to the appellants-opposite parties because they themselves raised a counter claim, pursued the same and the counter claim has also been allowed. The Delhi High Court, in the case of M/s. Raj Kishan & Company versus National Thermal Power Corporation; 2012 SCC OnLine Del 4799 has held that the plea of limitation is not open to the petitioner to raise at this stage as the same was never raised before the Arbitral Tribunal.

26. Learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties in this regard has relied on M/s. B and T AG Versus Ministry of Defence (Supra) in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that statutory time period for enforcement of a claim which was three years cannot be defeated on the ground that the parties were negotiating, but it is not of any assistance to learned counsel for the appellant-opposite parties in the facts and circumstances of the case for the reason that in the present case the parties were not only negotiating but they had proceeded further and the appellants-opposite parties had admitted the claim of the respondent-claimant and also raised the counter claim neither only in the negotiations but before the learned Arbitrator also. Therefore once the Arbitration proceedings were decided and even claim of the appellants-opposite parties was allowed they cannot raise this objection.

27. Learned District Judge after considering the plea of limitation raised by the appellants-opposite parties and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court has rightly held that the point of limitation was not raised by the petitioner before the Hon'ble Arbitrator nor before the High Court at the time of appointment of Arbitrator, hence for the first time it cannot be allowed to be raised before the court.

28. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of National Insurance Company Limited Versus Boghara Polyfab (P) Ltd; (2009) 1 SCC 267, has held that the Chief Justice or the designated Judge will have the right to decide the preliminary aspects which includes the existence or otherwise of a live claim, therefore once this plea was not taken before the High Court at the time of appointment of Arbitrator and thereafter before the Arbitral Tribunal, it is not open to the appellants-opposite parties to take before the court.

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Yeswant Deorao Deshmukh Versus Walchand Ramchand Kothari (Supra), relied by learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties has held that if the facts proved and found as established are sufficient to make out a case of fraud within the meaning of section 18, this objection may not be serious, as the question of the applicability of the section will be only a question of law and such a question could be raised at any stage of the case and also in the final court of appeal. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has relied on the observations of Lord Watson in Connecticut Fire Insurance Co. Versus Kavanagh; (1892) A.C. 473, in which it has been said that when a question of law is raised for the first time in a court of last resort upon the construction of a document or upon facts either admitted or proved beyond controversy, it is not only competent but expedient in the interests of justice to entertain the plea. Thus if the basic pleadings have been made then this plea could have been raised. Similar view has been taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K.Lubna and others Versus Beevi and others (Supra). But in the present case there are no such pleadings were made or raised either before this court at the time of appointment of the Arbitrator, rather the consent was given or it was raised before the Arbitrator at the relevant stage in terms of statutory provisions, therefore it is of no assistance to the appellants-opposite parties.

30. Similarly the case of Kiran Singh and others Versus Chaman Paswan and others (Supra) relied by learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties is not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the present case in view of discussions made here-in-above.

31. The third argument of learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties is that the impugned judgment and award made by the sole Arbitrator was against the public policy in view of Section 31(7)(a) and 31(8) of the Act of 1996. Section 31(7)(a)of the Act 1996 provides that unless otherwise agreed by the parties, an arbitral award for payment of money may include in the sum for which the award is made interest, at such rate as it deems reasonable, on the whole or any part of the money, for the whole or any part of the period between the date on which the cause of action arose and the date on which the award is made. Section 31(8) provides that the costs of an arbitration shall be fixed by the arbitral tribunal in accordance with Section 31A. Section 31A provides regime for costs, which is in the discretion of the Arbitral Tribunal. The Arbitral Tribunal after considering the pleadings of the parties and evidence on record and claim of the parties has allowed the interest and the costs as claimed by the parties.

32. The learned District Judge after considering the pleadings of the parties and the award has recorded a finding that the Hon'ble Arbitrator has committed no wrong in awarding interest at the rate of 18% per annum from the date of acceptance of final report. Moreover, costs, as granted by the Hon'ble Arbitrator to both the parties, and expenses of the witnesses also cannot be said to be excessive because the Hon'ble Arbitrator has very meticulously gone through the record while awarding expenses of the witnesses of both the parties. This Court after going through the records and the findings recorded by the Hon'ble Arbitrator and the learned District Judge does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the learned Arbitrator and the District Judge. Learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties also could not point out any error or illegality in the said findings or as to how it is against public policy.

33. The arguments of learned counsel for the appellants-opposite parties that the award is not sustainable as the parties have not been treated equally as different costs have been awarded to both the parties, therefore there is violation of Section 18 of the Act of 1996. Section 18 of the Act 1996 provides that the parties shall be treated with equality and each party shall be given a full opportunity to present his case. Therefore in view of Section 18 the equal opportunity is required to be provided to both the parties to present their case. Though this plea does not appear to have been taken before the learned District Judge while filing the application under Section 34 of the Act of 1996, however perusal of the award indicates that equal opportunity has been provided to both the parties before passing the award, which has not been denied. Defence of the appellants-opposite parties and the counter claim raised by him has properly been considered and dealt with in the award on the basis of pleadings, evidence and material on record, therefore merely on the basis of different costs awarded to both the parties it cannot be said that the parties have not been treated equally. The costs and interest including the claim and counter claim have been awarded according to the claims made by the parties, therefore the other contentions of learned counsel for the appellant-opposite parties are not tenable and repelled accordingly.

34. In view of above and considering the over all facts and circumstances of the case this court is of the view that the impugned judgment and order dated 16.09.2013 has rightly been passed in accordance with law by the District Judge, Lucknow dismissing the objection of the appellants-opposite parties against the award dated 16.01.2011 passed by the sole Arbitrator in Arbitration Case No.28 of 2008, which does not call for any interference by this court. This First Appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which is liable to be dismissed.

35. The appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIPIN CHANDRA DIXIT, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 52 of 2024

Ashok Kumar Katiyar ...Appellant
Versus
Charan Jeet Singh & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Shivam Shukla, Sri Sushil Kumar Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Komal Mehrotra, Sri Rahul Sahai

Civil Law –Civil Procedure Code,1908 - Section 151 - First Appeal- against order granting temporary injunction Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 read with CPC- plaintiff no. 1 has purchased the suit property through registered sale deed-plaintiff in possession-memorandum of undertaking-defendant under obligation to transfer petrol pump in favour of plaintiff after completing formalities-no efforts made by him-ex-parte interim order granted in favour of plaintiff-Section 12A of Commercial Court Act-pre-litigation mediation and settlement-mandatory where in suit no urgent relief is required-instant case is distinct-urgent relief was required-defendant was interfering in the possession of petrol pump-remedy to file application under Order 39 Rule 4- against ex parte interim order is available-present appeal not maintainable-dismissed. (paras 9 to 12)

HELD:

Section 12A (1) provides that pre-institution mediation is mandatory, where in the suit there is no urgent interim relief is required, but in the present case, as the defendant is interfering in operation of petrol pump and there was an urgent need of interim relief, the provisions of Section 12A are not attracted in the present case. (para 10)

Since the interim injunction was granted by the learned trial court is ex-parte, the defendant-appellant has a remedy to file application for vacating / recalling of ex-parte injunction order under Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. Statutory remedy is available to the defendant-appellant to approach the trial court by filing application for vacating the ex-parte order. (Para 11)

From a bare perusal of Order 39 rule 4 C.P.C., it is apparent that the defendant has a remedy to move application for setting aside the ex-parte order. Since, the appellant has a statutory remedy under Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. to file such application for setting aside the ex-parte injunction order, the present appeal on behalf of defendant-appellant is not maintainable and is liable to be dismissed. (Para 12)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

M/s. Patil Automation Pvt. Ltd. & ors. Vs Rakheja Engineers Pvt. Ltd. reported in 2022 (10) SCC 1

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vipin Chandra Dixit, J.)

1. This first appeal from order has been filed on behalf of defendant-appellant against the order dated 28.08.2023, passed by Commercial Court, Kanpur Nagar, in Commercial Suit No. 46 of 2023 (Charan Jeet Singh and others vs. Ashok Kumar Katiyar and another) by which temporary injunction was granted in favour of plaintiffs on the application filed under Order 39 rule 1 & 2 read with Section 151 C.P.C. (Paper No. 6-C). The defendant-appellant was restrained to interfere in peaceful possession of plaintiffs-respondents over property no. 117/A-1, situated at Arazi Nos. 594, 595 and 596 in village Barsaitpur Tehsil & District Kanpur

Nagar. The defendant was also restrained to interfere in operation of petrol pump, its bank account and to maintain status quo in respect of suit property.

2. Heard Sri Sushil Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Rahul Sahai, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the record.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the defendant-appellant was the owner and in possession of property no. 17/A-1, situated over Arazi Nos. 594, 595 and 596 in village Barsaitpur Tehsil & District Kanpur Nagar. The defendant-appellant has sold 700 sq. yards (585.27 sq. meter) land of the aforesaid property to the plaintiff along with petrol pump through registered sale deed on 24.02.2020. The possession of petrol pump had already been handed over by defendant appellant to the plaintiff-respondent no. 1 on 19.10.2019. A memorandum of undertaking was executed between the parties on 27.06.2019. It was agreed between the parties that the plaintiff-respondent no. 1 will pay Rs. 6,25,00,000/- to the defendant-appellant as sale consideration. The plaintiff no. 1 had already paid Rs. 1,00,00,000/- at the time of execution of memorandum of undertaking and the remaining amount was agreed to pay at the time of execution of sale deed. It was also agreed that defendant-appellant will transfer petrol pump to the plaintiff no. 1 after completing formalities with Hindustan Petroleum. The defendant-appellant had sent legal notice to the plaintiff no. 1 in the month of December, 2019 admitting therein that he received Rs. 2,23,00,000/- and Rs. 4,02,00,000/- is still outstanding. The sale deed in respect of petrol pump as well as suit property was executed by defendant-appellant in favour of plaintiff-respondent no. 1 on 24.02.2020 and possession was also handed over to the plaintiff-respondent no. 1.

4. The petrol pump is being run by plaintiff, but defendant-appellant has failed to complete the formalities for transfer of petrol pump in favour of plaintiff and demanding extra Rs. 1,00,00,000/-, whereas, entire sale consideration has already been paid by the plaintiff at the time of execution of sale deed.

5. The plaintiffs-respondents have filed suit for injunction seeking direction that the defendant-appellant may be directed to transfer the petrol pump in pursuance of sale deed dated 24.02.2020 in favour of plaintiff after completing formalities with Hindustan Petroleum. It is further prayed in the suit that the defendant-appellant and his agents may be restrained from interfering in peaceful possession of plaintiff-respondent no. 1 in respect of suit property. The plaintiffs-respondents have also moved an application for interim injunction under Order 39 rules 1 & 2 read with Section 151 C.P.C. (Paper No. 6C). The trial court after considering the fact that petrol pump along with suit property has already been purchased by plaintiff-respondent no. 1 through registered sale deed on 24.02.2020 and he is in possession over the same, has granted ex-parte injunction in favour of plaintiffs-respondents vide order dated 28.08.2023, which is impugned in the present appeal.

6. It is submitted by learned counsel for the defendant-appellant that the plaintiff had failed to pay the remaining amount in terms of memorandum of undertaking dated 27.06.2019. It is further submitted that as per memorandum of undertaking the plaintiff-respondent no. 1 was required to pay Rs. 6,25,00,000/- and only Rs. 1,00,00,000/- was paid at time time of memorandum of undertaking dated 27.06.2019 and Rs. 4,00,00,000/- was paid at the time of execution of sale deed. Rs. 1,25,00,000/- is still unpaid by the plaintiffs. It is further submitted that the present suit has been filed by the plaintiff-respondent no. 1 on altogether incorrect facts only to save the unpaid amount. The plaintiffs-respondents by concealing the material facts have filed suit for injunction and they did not approach the trial court with clean hands. The trial court has also erred in granting ex-parte injunction in favour of plaintiffs-respondents. The plaintiffs were required to make efforts for mediation and settlement before filing of suit in view of Section 12 A of Commercial Court's Act, 2015, but without exhausting the remedy of pre-institution mediation, the present suit was filed. He has placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of M/s. Patil Automation Private Limited and others vs. Rakheja Engineers Private Limited reported in 2022 (10) SCC 1.

7. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for plaintiffs-respondents submits that the entire sale consideration has already been paid by the plaintiff-respondent no. 1 to the defendant no. 1 at the time of execution of sale deed. The plaintiff-respondent no. 1 is in possession over the suit property. It is further submitted that the trial court after considering the entire evidence and materials adduced by the plaintiff-respondent no. 1 has recorded the finding regarding prima-facie case in favour of plaintiff-respondent no. 1 as the suit property was purchased by the plaintiff after payment of agreed sale consideration. The possession of suit property was already handed over to plaintiff-respondent no. 1 and he is in possession over the same. The petrol pump is now operated by the plaintiffs and the trial court has rightly passed the order dated 28.08.2023 granting interim injunction in favour of plaintiff-respondent no. 1. The learned trial court has recorded the finding that the plaintiff is in possession over the suit property and is operating petrol pump. The trial court after its satisfaction has passed the temporary injunction in favour of plaintiffs-respondents. Lastly, it is submitted that the appeal against the ex-party injunction is not maintainable under Order 43 Rule 1(r) C.P.C. The defendant-appellant has right to file application for vacating / recalling of ex-parte injunction order in view of Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. The provisions of Section 12A of Commercial Court Act are also not applicable, as the plaintiff required urgent interim relief against the defendant-appellant.

8. Considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

9. It is admitted fact that the plaintiff no. 1 has purchased the suit property through registered sale deed dated 24.02.2020 and is in possession over the same. The petrol pump in question is operated by the plaintiffs. As per memorandum of undertaking, the defendant is required to transfer the petrol pump in favour of plaintiff no. 1 after completing formalities with Hindustan Petroleum. The defendant has not made any efforts to complete the formalities with Hindustan Petroleum to transfer the petrol pump in favour of plaintiff no. 1. The trial court after recording its satisfaction that prima-facie case is in favour of plaintiffs has passed ex-parte interim injunction in favour of plaintiffs vide order dated 28.08.2023.

10. So far as pre-litigation mediation and settlement is concerned, the defendant-appellant has not taken any such ground in the memo of appeal. Section 12A(1) of Commercial Court Act is reproduced herein below :-

"12A. Pre-Institution Mediation and Settlement.-- (1) A suit, which does not contemplate any urgent interim relief under this Act, shall not be instituted unless the plaintiff exhausts the remedy of pre-institution mediation in accordance with such manner and procedure as may be prescribed by rules made by the Central Government."

From the bare perusal of Section 12A(1), it is apparent that it is applicable where urgent interim relief is not required. Record shows that the defendant was interfering in functioning of petrol pump and there was an urgent need of interim injunction.

The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of M/s. Patil Automation Private Limited and others vs. Rakheja Engineers Private Limited (supra) has held that mediation is mandatory, where the plaintiff does not contemplate urgent interim relief. Relevant paragraph no. 72 is reproduced herein below :-

"72. We may sum-up our reasoning as follows:

The Act did not originally contain Section 12A. It is by amendment in the year 2018 that Section 12A was inserted. The Statement of Objects and Reasons are explicit that Section 12A was contemplated as compulsory. The object of the Act and the Amending Act of 2018, unerringly point to at least partly foisting compulsory mediation on a plaintiff who does not contemplate urgent interim relief. The provision has been contemplated only with reference to plaintiffs who do not contemplate urgent interim relief. The Legislature has taken care to expressly exclude the period undergone during mediation for reckoning limitation under the Limitation Act, 1963. The object is clear. It is an undeniable reality that Courts in India are reeling under an extraordinary docket explosion. Mediation, as an Alternative Dispute Mechanism, has been identified as a workable solution in commercial matters. In other words, the cases under the Act lend themselves to be resolved through mediation. Nobody has an absolute right to file a civil suit. A civil suit can be barred absolutely or the bar may operate unless certain conditions are fulfilled. Cases in point, which amply illustrate this principle, are Section 80 of the CPC and Section 69 of the Indian Partnership Act. The language used in Section 12A, which includes the word 'shall', certainly, go a long way to assist the Court to hold that the provision is mandatory. The entire procedure for carrying out the mediation, has been spelt out in the Rules. The parties are free to engage Counsel during mediation. The expenses, as far as the fee payable to the Mediator, is concerned, is limited to a one-time fee, which appears to be reasonable, particularly, having regard to the fact that it is to be shared equally. A trained Mediator can work wonders. Mediation must be perceived as a new mechanism of access to justice. We have already highlighted its benefits. Any reluctance on the part of the Court to give Section 12A, a mandatory interpretation, would result in defeating the object and intention of the Parliament. The fact that the mediation can become a non-starter, cannot be a reason to hold the provision not mandatory.

Apparently, the value judgement of the Law-giver is to give the provision, a modicum of voluntariness for the defendant, whereas, the plaintiff, who approaches the Court, must, necessarily, resort to it. Section 12A elevates the settlement under the Act and the Rules to an award within the meaning of Section 30(4) of the Arbitration Act, giving it meaningful enforceability. The period spent in mediation is excluded for the purpose of limitation. The Act confers power to order costs based on conduct of the parties."

Section 12A(1) provides that pre-institution mediation is mandatory, where in the suit there is no urgent interim relief is required, but in the present case, as the defendant is interfering in operation of petrol pump and there was an urgent need of interim relief, the provisions of Section 12A are not attracted in the present case.

11. Since the interim injunction was granted by the learned trial court is ex-parte, the defendant-appellant has a remedy to file application for vacating / recalling of ex-parte injunction order under Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. Statutory remedy is available to the defendant-appellant to approach the trial court by filing application for vacating the ex-parte order. The provisions of Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. are reproduced herein below :-

"4. Order for injunction may be discharged, varied or set aside. - Any order for an injunction may be discharged, or varied, or set aside by the Court, on application made thereto by any party dissatisfied with such order:

[Provided that if in an application for temporary injunction or in any affidavit supporting such application, a party has knowingly made a false or misleading statement in relation to a material particular and the injunction was granted without giving notice to the opposite party, the Court shall vacate the injunction unless, for reasons to be recorded, it considers that it is not necessary so to do in the interest of justice:

Provided further that where an order for injunction has been passed after giving to a party an opportunity of being hears, the order shall not be discharged, varied, or set aside on the application of that party except where such discharge, variation or setting aside has been necessitated by a change in the circumstances, or unless the Court is satisfied that the order has been caused undue hardship to that party.]"

12. From a bare perusal of Order 39 rule 4 C.P.C., it is apparent that the defendant has a remedy to move application for setting aside the ex-parte order. Since, the appellant has a statutory remedy under Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. to file such application for setting aside the ex-parte injunction order, the present appeal on behalf of defendant-appellant is not maintainable and is liable to be dismissed.

13. The first appeal from order is accordingly, dismissed.

Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 363, 366 & 376 - The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 - Section 3/4 - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act 2015 - Section 94 -Appeal against acquittal - determination of the victim's age, with conflicting evidence from school records and a matriculation certificate-trial court's preference for the school record indicating the victim was a major, supported by the Supreme Court's precedent that such presumptions are rebuttable-no grounds to interfere with the trial court's acquittal-prosecution failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt- Appeal dismissed. (Paras 12, 13, 16, 18, 19 and 21)

HELD:

. The submission of learned State Counsel cannot be accepted. First and foremost it is to be borne in mind that the presumption stipulated under Section 94 of the Act 2015 is not conclusive and is rebuttable. This position has been clarified by the Supreme Court in Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs State of Uttar Pradesh and others 2022 (8) SCC 602. (Para 16)

On the basis of elaborate analysis of the evidence placed on record before the trial Court, the Court has returned the finding that the prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond all reasonable doubt. We have been taken through the Judgement of trial Court and we find that neither any triable issue is raised before us nor any perversity or contradiction is shown in the judgement of acquittal, which may persuade us to grant leave to assail the Judgement of acquittal. Law is otherwise settled that where the view taken by the trial judge to acquit the accused is a permissible view, the appeal Court would not interfere only because a different view could be taken in the matter. ORDER ON DELAY CONDONATION APPLICATION NO: 01 OF 2024

1. Delay in filing the appeal has been explained to the satisfaction of the Court.

2. Delay in filing the leave to appeal is condoned.

3. The delay condonation application is, accordingly allowed.

ORDER ON CRIMINAL MISC. (LEAVE TO APPEAL) APPLICATION

4. This appeal is by State alongwith an application for grant of leave to challenge the judgment of acquittal dated 06.02.2024, passed by Special Judge (Juvenile Court) Room No.1/Additional Sessions Judge, Mau in Special Sessions No. 26 of 2017 (State Vs. Sandeep Vishwakarma) arising out of Case Crime No. 159 of 2017 under Sections 363, 366, 376 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act, 2012 Police Station Ranipur, District Mau.

5. As per the prosecution case, on 23.04.2017 at about 07:30 P.M. when the informant's daughter aged about 17 years had gone to ease herself two youngsters came on a bike and took her away. The passerby informed about it to the informant. The victim was in touch with the accused Sandeep Vishwakarma from before and when the informant made necessary inquiry from the accused-opposite party, he did not inform anything to the father of the victim. On pressure being exerted, he said that the victim is with her friend and he would bring her back. On such assurance, he left his house on a motor cycle bearing registration no. UP54U-0438 and disappeared. The accused-opposite party had extended threats to the elder daughter of the informant and therefore doubt was expressed in the written report that the accused-Sandeep Vishwakarma along with his mother and brother has enticed the minor victim. On the basis of such written report, F.I.R. came to be lodged against the accused-opposite party in Case Crime No. 159 of 2017 under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. and Section 7/8 of POCSO Act. The investigation proceeded in the matter and ultimately the victim was recovered. On the basis of her statement charge sheet was submitted against the accused-opposite party under Sections 363, 366, 376 I.P.C. read with Section 3/4 of POCSO Act. Cognizance in the matter was taken and the case was committed to the Court of Sessions. Charges were framed against the accused-opposite party in the above sections. The accused-opposite party denied the accusations made against him and consequently the trial proceeded.

6. At the stage of trial, the informant has been produced as P.W.1. The victim has appeared as P.W.2 and Dr. Mamta Sharma, who conducted medical examination of the victim has been produced as P.W.3 and other witnesses are formal police personnels. Various documentary evidence including the medical examination report, supplementary medical report were filed in the case.

7. The prosecution evidence was confronted to the accused-opposite party for recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused denied the evidence and has termed the evidence to be false and has pleaded his innocence. The accused-opposite party lastly submitted that the victim had come to his house on her own accord; she was major on the date of incident and he has been falsely implicated. He further stated that the victim has studied in primary institution at Akbarpur from Class-1 to 3 and he shall produce relevant evidence to prove the majority of victim.

8. The trial Court has taken up the issue of minority of the victim at the outset. There are two sets of evidence placed on record. From the side of the prosecution High School certificate of the victim has been produced wherein her date of birth is recorded as 08.05.2000. The prosecution case is that the victim was admitted in her school for the first time in Class-4 and she had not studied in any school from Class-1 to 3. On the strength of the High School certificate it was urged by the prosecution that such evidence being admissible and relevant in terms of Section 94 (2) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act 2015 (hereinafter to be referred to as "the Act of 2015) the victim ought to be treated as a minor.

9. On the contrary, the other evidence on record adduced by the defence witnesses is in the form of original school record of the Government Primary Institution where the victim studied from Class 1 to Class-3. The officiating Principal of the Government Primary institution has been produced in evidence where the victim had studied from Class 1 to Clsss-3. Original records were produced during trial to show that the victim was admitted on 28.07.2005 in the school and her name finds place at serial no. 179 of the scholars' register. She was promoted to Class-2 on 15.05.2006 and again to Class-3 on 30.05.2007. She was then admitted to Class-4 on 20.05.2008 but as she absented thereafter her name was struck off from the school rolls on 30.07.2009. The officiating Principal has produced the above records as also the original record wherein the date of birth of victim at the time of her admission to class-1 was recorded as 05.06.1998. It has further come in evidence that no transfer certificate was issued by the said institution where the victim studied up till Class-3. The testimony of defence witness, in this regard, has not been seriously questioned.

10. The victim in her statement before the Court however, disclosed her date of birth as 08.05.2000. She further claimed that her first admission in the school was in Class-4 and she had not studied in any previous school from Class 1 to Class-3.

11. The trial Court on the basis of evidence on record has accepted the defence version according to which, date of birth of the victim is 05.06.1998. For arriving at such conclusion, the Court has taken into consideration Section 94 (2) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act 2015 which provides for presumption and determination of age where there is doubt in that regard. Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act 2015 provides for presumption and determination of age is reproduced hereinafter:-

"94(1) Presumption and determination of age- (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining?

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

12. Section 94 (2) of Act 2015 provides where the committee or the board has reasonable ground to doubt whether a person brought before it is child or not, it shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence specified in clauses (i), (ii) and (iii). Clause (i) provides date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; in the absence thereof, birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority and in the absence thereof, medical evidence is to be relied upon for determination of age.

13. The provision, therefore clearly lets out a scheme priortising the evidence to be relied upon in a given case. At the top of the ladder is the date of birth certificate from the school or matriculation certificate or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination board. In the facts of the present case, we find that date of birth issued from the school where the victim was first admitted to Class-1 has been duly produced and exhibited during trial as per which, her date of birth is 05.06.1998. The other evidence is in the form of matriculation certificate. The matriculation certificate records the date of birth of victim as 08.05.2000. The basis for recording the date of birth in matriculation certificate is the date of birth of the victim recorded for the first time in Class-4. No explanation is furnished or any evidence adduced for recording the date of birth of victim in Class-4. The victim herself has stated that she has not studied in any school from Class-1 to Class-3 and that she was admitted in the school only in Class-4.

14. The trial Court has given preference to the date of birth of the victim recorded in Class-1 over her date of birth recorded in the matriculation certificate. The Court has found no reasons to disbelieve the defence evidence of victim's admission in Class-1 in the Government Primary Institution where her year of birth is 1998. The victim's explanation that she studied in no school from Class-1 to Class-3 has not been found reliable by the Court. The Court has doubted the victim's version that she did not attend any school uptill Class-3.

15. Learned A.G.A. submits that once the matriculation certificate is produced in evidence it was not open for the Court to have ignored it or to have admitted in evidence any other material for determination of age of victim in view of Section 94 of the Act 2015.

16. The submission of learned State Counsel cannot be accepted. First and foremost it is to be borne in mind that the presumption stipulated under Section 94 of the Act 2015 is not conclusive and is rebuttable. This position has been clarified by the Supreme Court in Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others 2022 (8) SCC 602. In para 33.3 and 33.4 of the report, the Court has held as under:-

33.3 That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rules 12(3) (a) (i), (ii) and (iii) of the JJ Rules, 2007 made under the JJ Act 2000 or sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

33.4 The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite party.

17. The view in Rishipal Singh (supra) has been reiterated by the Supreme Court in Narain Chetan Ram Chowdhary Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in 2023 Live Law (SC) 244. In para 37 the Court has observed as under:-

37. In the cases of Ramdeo Chauhan (supra), Sanjeev Kumar Gupta vs State of Uttar Pradesh and Another [(2019) 12 SCC 370], Parag Bhati (supra), Manoj (supra), Babloo Pasi vs State of Jharkhand and Another [(2008) 13 SCC 133] and Birad Mal Singhvi (supra), different Benches of this Court came to findings as regards reliability of the documents upon applying mind and none of these authorities lay down that the certificate of date of birth by the school authorities based on admission register of the school will not be acceptable for an inquiry under Section 9(2) of the 2015 Act. On the other hand, in the order of priority in the aforesaid provision, the date of birth certificate by the school authority has been given the pre-eminence. Though the heading of the said section reads "presumption and determination of age", the section itself does not specify that the date of birth certificate by the school would only lead to presumption. The way the provision thereof has been framed, the documents referred to in the first two sub-clauses of sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the 2015 Act, if established in the order of priority, then the dates reflected therein has to be accepted to determine the age of the accused or convict claiming to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence. In the event the document referred to in Section 94 (2) (i) is there, the inquiring body need not go to the documents referred to in sub-clause (ii) thereof. The only caveat, implicit thereto, which has been sounded by several decisions of this Court, is that the document must inspire confidence. But lack of inspiration of the age determining authority must come for some cogent reason and ought not to be sourced from such body's own perception of age of the juvenile-claimant.

18. If the argument of learned State Counsel is accepted then the moment matriculation certificate of victim is produced by the prosecution there would be no scope for the accused to show that the basis of age in the matriculation certificate is not reliable. This approach will restrict the right of the accused to prove his innocence by producing legally admissible evidence. It will also impede the right of accused to a fair trial. The approach suggested by the State Counsel, for such reasons, cannot be accepted.

18. Section 94 (2) (i) of the Act 2015 places the date of birth certificate from the school or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board in the same category. It would therefore be open for the Court to admit defence evidence with regard to reliability of the date of birth entry in the matriculation certificate as has been done herein.

19. The statute accords recognition to the date of birth certificate from the school at par with the matriculation certificate. Where the date of birth in the above two records are distinct it would be permissible for the Court to evaluate the evidence on record and accept one at the cost of other. In this case, we find that original records of the first school where the victim was admitted in Class-1 has been produced and is found reliable. The basis of date of birth in the matriculation certificate is not disclosed and the victim's version that she attended no school from Class-1 to Class-

3 has not been found convincing and reliable. In our opinion, the view taken by the trial judge to accept the date of birth certificate from the school by overlooking the matriculation certificate is clearly a permissible view on the basis of evidence on record. The approach of the trial judge is otherwise in keeping with the well settled principle that the accused is to be presumed innocent till he is proven guilty. The approach of the trial judge is consistent with the principles of a fair trial since the accused is given the opportunity to produce evidence and rebut the presumption which otherwise arises on a matriculation certificate by virtue of Section 94 (2) (i) of the Act 2015.The finding of the trial judge that victim on the date of incident was major is thus sustained.

20. So far as the allegation with regard to victim having been enticed or subjected to sexual assault is concerned, the evidence on record clearly shows that the victim in her statement recorded under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. has categorically stated that she had gone with the accused-opposite party on her own volition. The victim at the relevant point of time was studying in Intermediate in V.D.P. Intermediate College and she was in touch with the accused-opposite party for the last more than a year. She has admitted that she left with the accused-opposite party on his motor cycle and thereafter travelled to various places, including by train to Mumbai for more than six days. The victim remained with the accused-opposite party at Mumbai and physical relations were voluntarily formed by the victim with the accused-opposite party. It is only after return to Mau and coming in contact with her parents that the victim took a contrary stand by asserting that she was forcibly taken by the accused-opposite party and was subjected to sexual assault. The trial Court has examined the evidence on record and the subsequent change in her version has been found inconsistent with the evidence placed on record. In the medical examination also, the victim was found major. No injury either external or internal was found on the victim. The victim had clearly stated before the Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. that physical relations were established with her consent by the accused-opposite party therefore, the fact that victim's hymen was found ruptured could not have been construed as an evidence supporting the prosecution case.

21. On the basis of elaborate analysis of the evidence placed on record before the trial Court, the Court has returned the finding that the prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond all reasonable doubt. We have been taken through the Judgement of trial Court and we find that neither any triable issue is raised before us nor any perversity or contradiction is shown in the judgement of acquittal, which may persuade us to grant leave to assail the Judgement of acquittal. Law is otherwise settled that where the view taken by the trial judge to acquit the accused is a permissible view, the appeal Court would not interfere only because a different view could be taken in the matter.

22. In that view of the matter, we find no good ground to interfere in the matter so as to grant leave to appeal to the State in order to assail the Judgement of acquittal.

23. Application for grant of leave to appeal is, accordingly, refused and the appeal consequently fails and is dismissed.

A. Education Law – Cancellation of admission in Ph.D. – Students cannot be made to suffer for the fault of the management of the university. (Para 13)

While granting the admission if the academic body has acted inattentively and mechanically, then they cannot be allowed to take the plea that the admission was never valid and that the petitioners were ineligible from the very inception and knowing the ineligibility they applied for admission. The respondents cannot be allowed to cancel the admission at their own convenience at any time of the year without considering the fact that if they cancel the admission after the session has started then the entire year of the petitioners will be spoiled. (Para 14)

The respondents cannot be allowed to take advantage of their own wrong and cannot be permitted to take the plea that under the prospectus they had the power to cancel the admission of ineligible student and the principle of estoppel will operate against them. (Para 14)

B. The petitioners cannot be penalised for the negligence of authorities. It is important to appreciate that the petitioners in the facts and circumstances cannot be accused of making any false statement or suppressing any relevant fact before anybody. (Para 14)

In the present case, once the University has granted admission and permitted petitioner to continue for five long years and his Ph.D. course is on the verge of completion, it is now not open for the University to restrain petitioner from completing his course. Even presuming some irregularity did occur at the time of admission in Ph.D. course, the same cannot now be made the basis for denying petitioner from completing his course. Learned counsel for respondent University could not show from record that petitioner has in any manner misrepresented or played fraud or otherwise was maliciously involved in the said admission process and the decision was taken by the authorities of University in exercise of its powers. Thus, the respondent University cannot restrain petitioner from completing his Ph.D. course and is bound to consider his application for extension of period by one year as per rules. (Para 15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Shri Krishna Lal Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel on behalf of respondent no.1 and Shri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Atul Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel on behalf of respondent no.2 to 5.

2. By means of the present petition, the petitioner has challenged the order dated 06.10.2022 passed by the Departmental Research Committee of the Dr. Shakuntala Misra National Rehabilitation University, Lucknow by which the admission of the petitioner in the Ph.D. course of Sociology has been cancelled. He has also challenged the orders dated 13.12.2022 and 23.01.2023 passed by Research Degree Committee and by the Registrar, respectively, communicating the aforesaid order with regard to the cancellation of the admission in Ph.D.

3. It has been submitted by counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner is a law graduate having passed his LL.B. in the year 2014, B.Sc. in 2001 and M.Sc. in 2010 and thereafter had applied for pursuing Ph.D. (Sociology) from Dr. Shakuntala Misra National Rehabilitation University, Lucknow. He participated in the Ph.D. Entrance Test, 2016 where a provisional Admit Card was also issued, and according to the petitioner, he has passed Ph.D. Entrance Examination and was called for counseling on 23.08.2016, and subsequently, he was declared qualified. He completed all the formalities with regard to his admission in Ph.D. Sociology course. It is not in dispute that the petitioner is in 1st year Ph.D. Sociology course since 2016 and it is only in 2021 when the petitioner approached the Supervisor to submit the research related report and sought extra time, the Supervisor refused to accept the report and asked the petitioner to wait until further information is received with regard to the completion of his research work. Since October, 2021, the petitioner was not allowed to pursue and complete his Ph.D. and in this regard, he has made representation to the Head of the Department Sociology, the Registrar and the Vice-chancellor of the aforesaid University. It is in the aforesaid circumstances, when the petitioner was not being permitted to pursue his Ph.D., he had filed a writ petition before this Court being Writ - C No.1086 of 2023 which was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to file afresh and subsequently, the petitioner filed another petitioner being Writ - C No.242 of 2023 which was disposed of by the Coordinate Bench of this Court by means of order dated 13.01.2023 directing the Vice-Chancellor, Dr. Shakuntala Misra National Rehabilitation University, Lucknow to decide the representation with regard to the grievance of the petitioner.

4. In compliance of the order dated 13.01.2023, the representation of the petitioner was decided by the impugned order which was communicated to the petitioner. In the impugned order dated 06.10.2022, it has been stated that the petitioner was admitted in the Ph.D. Sociology without being duly selected and in this regard, he has been repeatedly asked to submit an affidavit, which he has not furnished and accordingly, a decision has been taken. The said decision was forwarded to the Research Degree Committee, who has approved the cancellation of admission of the petitioner.

5. By means of order dated 13.12.2022, the Registrar of the University has communicated that the Research Degree Committee has approved the decision taken by the Departmental Research Committee pertaining to the cancellation of admission of the petitioner and lastly, by means of the order dated 23.01.2023, the Vice-Chancellor intimated the petitioner with regard to the cancellation of his admission.

6. It has been submitted by counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner was duly selected for Ph.D. course in the entrance exam conducted by the University in 2016. In support of his submissions, the copy of the provisional Admit Card as well as information regarding Ph.D. scholars enrolled in academic session 2016-17 has been annexed indicating that the petitioner has been duly enrolled in the Ph.D. for the academic Session 2016-17.

7. The respondent - University has put in appearance and vehemently opposed the present writ petition. It has been submitted that as per the material available with the respondent University, the petitioner was not qualified for Ph.D. Entrance Examination and has managed the admission in the Ph.D. though back door. It has been submitted that with regard to the admission, the petitioner was directed to submit an affidavit but he has not submitted the required affidavit. and his name was not mentioned in the final select list and his admission has been cancelled in the year 2022.

8. It is on the strength of the aforesaid facts that the impugned orders passed by the authorities of the respondent University cancelling the admission, have been supported and prayed for rejection of the writ petition and accordingly, it was submitted that the admission of the petitioner was in violation of the Ph.D. Regulations, 2009 issued by the University Grants Commission.

9. Considering the aforesaid facts, this Court had made a query from the respondents to indicate as to what took them five years from ascertaining as to whether the petitioner was not qualified in the entrance examination and as to how, he was pursuing his Ph.D. course for more than five years in the respondent University.

10. With regard to the said query, no satisfactory explanation is forthcoming.

11. After hearing the counsel for the parties and perused the record, it is noticed that according to the petitioner, he appeared in the entrance examination conducted by the respondent University for admission to the Ph.D. courses. The petitioner has also annexed a copy of the information regarding Ph.D. scholars pertaining to the academic year 2016-17 where the name of the petitioner is occurring in the list pertaining to the Department of Sociology at Serial No.3. It is also not in dispute that since the date of admission, till passing of the impugned order sometime in 2022, the petitioner has been pursuing his Ph.D. Course.

12. Now coming to the judgments referred to by counsel for petitioner, in the case of Rajendra Prasad Mathur (supra) the dispute was with regard to cancellation of admission to the B.E. Course. The High Court allowed the writ petition and the Supreme Court while dismissing the appeals held that:

"8. We accordingly endorse the view taken by the learned Judge and affirmed by the Division Bench of the High Court. But the question still remains whether we should allow the appellants to continue their studies in the respective engineering colleges in which they were admitted. It was strenuously pressed upon us on behalf of the appellants that under the orders initially of the learned Judge and thereafter of this Court they have been pursuing their course of study in the respective engineering colleges and their admissions should not now be disturbed because if they are now thrown out after a period of almost four years since their admission their whole future will be blighted. Now it is true that the appellants were not eligible for admission to the engineering degree course and they had no legitimate claim to such admission. But it must be noted that the blame for their wrongful admission must lie more upon the engineering colleges which granted admission than upon the appellants. It is quite possible that the appellants did not know that neither the Higher Secondary Examination of the Secondary Education Board, Rajasthan nor the first year BSc examination of the Rajasthan and Udaipur Universities was recognised as equivalent to the Pre-University Examination of the Pre-University Education Board, Bangalore. The appellants being young students from Rajasthan might have presumed that since they had passed the first year BSc examination of the Rajasthan or Udaipur University or in any event the Higher Secondary Examination of the Secondary Education Board, Rajasthan they were eligible for admission. The fault lies with the engineering colleges which admitted the appellants because the Principals of these engineering colleges must have known that the appellants were not eligible for admission and yet for the sake of capitation fee in some of the cases they granted admission to the appellants. We do not see why the appellants should suffer for the sins of the managements of these engineering colleges. We would therefore, notwithstanding the view taken by us in this Judgment, allow the appellants to continue their studies in the respective engineering colleges in which they were granted admission. But we do feel that against the erring engineering colleges the Karnataka University should take appropriate action because the managements of these engineering colleges have not only admitted students ineligible for admission but thereby deprived an equal number of eligible students from getting admission to the engineering degree course*. We also endorse the directions given by the learned Judge in the penultimate paragraph of his Judgment with a view to preventing admission of ineligible students." (emphasis added)*

13. Further, in the case of Ashok Chand Singhvi (supra), where the facts were similar to the current case, the Court observed that students cannot be made to suffer for the fault of the management of the university. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are as follows:

"14. It is urged by Mr Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, that the appellant could not be admitted and his admission was illegal. There may be some force in the contention of the learned Counsel, but when all facts were before the University and nothing was suppressed by the appellant, would it be proper to penalise the appellant for no fault of his? The admission of the appellant was not made through inadvertence or mistake, but after considering even all objections to the same, as raised by the said Officer-in-Charge, Admissions, in his note. The appellant was communicated with the decision of the Dean as approved by the Vice-Chancellor admitting him to the Second Year BE course. The appellant deposited the requisite fees and started attending classes when he was told that his admission was directed to be put in abeyance until further orders without disclosing to him any reason whatsoever.

15. It is curious that although the admission to the BE degree course of the University is governed by statutes of the University and admission rules, the said resolution of the Syndicate dated 13-12-1970 has also been kept alive. Neither the Dean nor the Vice-Chancellor was aware of the true position, namely, as to whether the said resolution had become infructuous in view of the statutes and the admission rules. A teacher candidate is likely to be misled by the said resolution. It is the duty of the University to see that its statutes, rules and resolutions are clear and unambiguous and do not mislead bona fide candidates. The University should have revoked the said resolution in order to obviate any ambiguity in the matter of admission or included the same in the statutes as part of the admission rules.

16. When the appellant made the application beyond the last date, his application should not have been entertained. But the application was entertained, presumably on the basis of the said resolution of the Syndicate. The appellant also brought to the notice of the Dean the said resolution and also the implementation of the same by admitting seven teacher candidates.

17. It is submitted on behalf of the University that it was through mistake that the appellant was admitted. We are unable to accept the contention. It has been already noticed that both the Dean and the Vice-Chancellor considered the objections raised by the Officer-in-Charge, Admissions, and thereafter direction for admitting the appellant was made. When after considering all facts and circumstances and also the objections by the office to the admission of a candidate, the Vice-Chancellor directs the admission of such a candidate such admission could not be said to have been made through mistake. Assuming that the appellant was admitted through mistake, the appellant not being at fault, it is difficult to sustain the order withholding the admission of the appellant*. In this connection, we may refer to a decision of this Court in Rajendra Prasad Mathur v. Karnataka University [1986 Supp SCC 740] . In that case, the appellants were admitted to certain private engineering colleges for the BE degree course, although they were not eligible for admission. In that case, this Court dismissed the appeals preferred by the students whose admissions were subsequently cancelled and the order of cancellation was upheld by the High Court. At the same time, this Court took the view that the fault lay with the engineering colleges which admitted the appellants and that there was no reason why the appellants should suffer for the sins of the management of these engineering colleges. Accordingly, this Court allowed the appellants to continue their studies in the respective engineering colleges in which they were granted admission. The same principle which weighed with this Court in that case should also be applied in the instant case. The appellant was not at fault and we do not see why he should suffer for the mistake committed by the Vice-Chancellor and the Dean of the Faculty of Engineering." (emphasis added)*

14. The said judgments have been followed and a similar approach is adopted by the Delhi High Court in the case of Abha George (supra), the Delhi High Court was of the opinion that:

"18. In Javed Akhtar case [Javed Akhtar v. Jamia Hamdard, 2006 SCC OnLine Del 1504] , a Coordinate Bench of this Court considered a case where the petitioners' candidature was accepted for appearing in the entrance examinations, and they were admitted to the institution concerned. Their admissions were cancelled after they had attended the classes for one month. The facts of the case are very similar to the present case. The question framed by the court was in the following terms:

"21. ? This is not disputed that the petitioners filled the forms for appearing in the entrance examination and gave their correct date of birth. The forms of the petitioners were considered and they were allowed to appear in the examination. After their names appeared, they were called for counselling and after verifying the documents and certificates of the petitioners, they were given admission. The petitioners were issued identity cards after accepting the fees for the course from them and the petitioners were allowed to attend classes for a month and thereafter by communication dated 8-8-2006 the admission of the petitioners have been cancelled. Whether Respondent 1 can be allowed to cancel the admission midterm in the facts and circumstances, when the petitioners have not concealed any thing nor produced any documents to mislead Respondent 1? Whether Respondent 1 will be estopped from cancelling the admission of the petitioners in the facts and circumstances?" [Emphasis supplied]

19. The court answered the question thus:

"38. Therefore, while granting the admission if the academic body has acted inattentively and mechanically, then they cannot be allowed to take the plea that the admission was never valid and that the petitioners were ineligible from the very inception and knowing the ineligibility they applied for admission. The respondents cannot be allowed to cancel the admission at their own convenience at any time of the year without considering the fact that if they cancel the admission after the session has started then the entire year of the petitioners will be spoiled as the petitioners would not be in a position to take admission in any other college/university. If this fact of their ineligibility for admission was conveyed to them at the very start they would have taken admission in some other college/university.

39. In such situation, in view of the decision in Sangeeta Shrivastava v. U.N. Singh [Sangeeta Shrivastava v. U.N. Singh, 1979 SCC OnLine Del 202], the petitioners cannot be penalised for the negligence of authorities. It is important to appreciate that the petitioners in the facts and circumstances cannot be accused of making any false statement or suppressing any relevant fact before anybody. They clearly mentioned their date of birth in the application form for admission, and are not guilty of any fraud or misrepresentation. It was the duty of the university to have scrutinised the application form and the certificates thoroughly before granting admission to the petitioners and permitting them to attend the classes and not having done so they cannot cancel the admission thereafter. By accepting the application form and subsequently granting admission representation was made by the respondents that the petitioners' were eligible for admission and the petitioners' acting upon the same took admission and thus the petitioners' suffered a detriment. Had the respondents not made the representation that the application had been approved and granted admission the petitioners' would have applied and taken admission else where. Therefore the respondents are estopped from pleading that the petitioners were not entitled to a seat from the inception and that the admission is void ab initio and that the admission without fulfilment of the eligibility criteria is a nullity.

40. In the facts and circumstances of the case the respondents cannot be allowed to take advantage of their own wrong and cannot be permitted to take the plea that under the prospectus they had the power to cancel the admission of ineligible student and the principle of estoppel will operate against them. The respondents are estopped from cancelling the admission of the petitioners' and further from preventing them from pursuing the 'pre tib' course in the present facts and circumstances." [Emphasis supplied]

20. Applying these authorities in the present case, it appears that the petitioners' documents were accepted by the respective centres of Aiims, despite the fact that their qualifying examination results were declared one week later than stipulated in the prospectus. The petitioners have prosecuted their studies for almost two months prior to issuance of the impugned OM dated 18-10-2021. There is no allegation that the petitioners had misrepresented or concealed any information from Aiims ?indeed, there cannot be, as the qualifying examination was conducted by Aiims itself. Applying the observations of the Supreme Court in Rajendra Prasad Mathur case [Rajendra Prasad Mathur v. Karnataka University, 1986 Supp SCC 740] , in the present case also, the blame lies more upon the institution than the petitioners. The candidates applied; their results were declared by Aiims, New Delhi; those results were submitted to the regional centres to which they have been assigned, and they were granted admission. Their admissions were cancelled after they had spent almost two months on the course. The judgment of this Court in Javed Akhtar case [Javed Akhtar v. Jamia Hamdard, 2006 SCC OnLine Del 1504] , in fact, goes further to hold that an academic institution cannot be permitted to cancel admissions after the course had started, at any time during the year, due to prejudice that would be caused to the candidates who were admitted as they would by then be unable to take admission in any other university to which they may have been admitted."

15. Law is, thus, well settled on the issue involved. Once, the University has granted admission and permitted petitioner to continue for five long years and his Ph.D. course is on the verge of completion, it is now not open for the University to restrain petitioner from completing his course. Even presuming some irregularity did occur at the time of admission in Ph.D. course, the same can not now be made the basis for denying petitioner from completing his course. Learned counsel for respondent University could not show from record that petitioner has in any manner misrepresented or played fraud or otherwise was maliciously involved in the said admission process and the decision was taken by the authorities of University in exercise of its powers. Thus, this Court finds that the respondent University cannot restrain petitioner from completing his Ph.D. course and is bound to consider his application for extension of period by one year as per rules.

16. This Court further finds that the country is making its best efforts to grow from a developing nation to a developed one. Repeatedly, it is said that to become a developed nation huge research work is required to be conducted within the Country. Now, when the students are pursuing their research work and are at the verge of completion it is highly improper to restrain them from completing their research on legal technicalities. The country is in dire need of research work. Petitioner has put more than five years in his Ph.D. course and is on the verge of submitting the same. Now denial of benefit of said research work to the nation in itself would be a huge loss. In the said circumstances also this Court is inclined to exercise its discretionary jurisdiction in favour of petitioner and against the respondent University.

17. In the given facts and circumstances of the case, the writ petition is allowed and the orders dated 13.12.2022 and 23.01.2023 passed by Research Degree Committee and the Registrar, respectively, are quashed and a mandamus is issued to the respondent University to consider the application of petitioner for extension of one year after five years of Ph.D. course and permit him to submit fees in accordance with law. Such a decision shall be taken and communicated to the petitioner by the respondent University within a period of 15 days and accordingly petitioner shall be permitted to complete his Ph.D. course in accordance with law.

CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Writ - C No. 7092 of 2024

Ascent Education Trust, Kanpur
...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Ram Raj, Gokul Seth, Hanumant Lal Srivastava, Rishabh Raj

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Revenue Law – Recovery and penalty against payment of deficient stamp duty – Indian Stamp Act,1899 - Section 56(1-A) - According to generally accepted notions of professional responsibility, lawyers should follow the client's instructions rather than substitute their judgment for that of the client. In some cases, lawyers can make decisions without consulting the client. While in others, the decision is reserved for the client. It is often said that the lawyer can make decisions as to tactics without consulting the client, while the client has a right to make decisions that can affect his rights. (Para 8)

Admissions of fact made by a counsel are binding upon their principals as long as they are unequivocal; where, however, doubt exists as to a purported admission, the court should be wary to accept such admissions until and unless the counsel or the advocate is authorised by his principal to make such admissions. Furthermore, a client is not bound by a statement or admission which he or his lawyer was not authorised to make. (Para 8)

The admission in the present case was not regarding a matter of law or legal conclusions. If the lawyer assessed that there was no chance of success of the entire appeal and he decided to restrict his prayer for waiver of the penalty, it cannot be said that he acted absolutely without any authority and that might be the reason as to why the petitioner did not initiate any proceedings against his Advocate who had given the concession. (Para 14)

B. The principle is well settled that statements of fact as to what transpired at the hearing, recorded in the judgment of the court, are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. If a party thinks that the happenings in court have been wrongly recorded in a judgment, it is incumbent upon the party, while the matter is still fresh in the minds of the Judges, to call the attention of the very Judges who have made the record to the fact that the statement made with regard to his conduct was a statement that had been made in error. That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter must necessarily end there. Of course, a party may resile and an appellate court may permit him in rare and appropriate cases to resile from a concession on the ground that the concession was made on a wrong appreciation of the law and had led to gross injustice; but, he may not call in question the very fact of making the concession as recorded in the judgment. (Para 12)

The petitioner cannot be permitted to dispute before this Court the correctness of the happenings recorded by the appellant authority i.e. Commissioner Lucknow Division, Lucknow in the impugned order 09.05.2024 to the effect it had been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner was willing to pay the deficient amount of stamp duty and he was confining his prayer for waiver of the penalty. However, it will be open for the petitioner to move an appropriate application before the Commissioner for disputing the correctness of the averments recorded in the impugned order and in case any such application is filed by the petitioner, the Commissioner shall decide the same expeditiously, without granting any unnecessary adjournment to any of the parties. Present petition challenges the validity of an order dated 12.12.2022 passed by the Collector, Unnao, holding that the petitioner has paid a deficient stamp-duty on a sale-deed dated 17.07.2017 executed in its favour and ordering recovery of a sum of Rs. 15,24,220/- towards deficient stamp-duty and an equal amount as penalty. Also, challenges the validity of an order dated 09.05.2024 passed by the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, dismissing the petitioner's appeal u/s 56 (1-A) of the Indian Stamp Act filed against the aforesaid order passed by the Collector.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rishabh Raj Advocate, the learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Hemant Kumar Pandey, the learned Standing Counsel representing all the opposite parties.

2. By means of the instant Writ Petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has challenged the validity of an order dated 12.12.2022 passed by the Collector, Unnao, holding that the petitioner has paid a deficient stamp-duty on a sale-deed dated 17.07.2017 executed in its favour and ordering recovery of a sum of Rs. 15,24,220/- towards deficient stamp-duty and an equal amount as penalty. The petitioner has also challenged the validity of an order dated 09.05.2024 passed by the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, dismissing the petitioner's appeal under Section 56 (1-A) of the Indian Stamp Act filed against the aforesaid order passed by the Collector.

3. The learned Standing Counsel has raised a preliminary objection that in the order dated 09.05.2024 passed by the Commissioner Lucknow Division, Lucknow, it is recorded that it was stated on behalf of the petitioner-appellant that the penalty of Rs. 15,24,220/- imposed by the Collector, Unnao be waived and the appellant was ready to deposit the amount of deficient stamp duty i.e. Rs. 15,24,220/-. He has submitted when the order was passed accepting the offer made on behalf of the petitioner itself, it is not open for the petitioner to turn around and challenge the validity of the order. In support of his support of his submission, the learned Standing Counsel relied upon a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of B. L. Sreedhar and others Vs. K.M. Munireddy (Dead) and others: (2003) 2 SCC 355, wherein it has been held that: -

"13. Estoppel is a rule of evidence and the general rule is enacted in Section 115 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short "the Evidence Act") which lays down that when one person has by his declaration, act or omission caused or permitted another person to believe a thing to be true and to act upon that belief, neither he nor his representative shall be allowed in any suit or proceeding between himself and such person or his representative to deny the truth of that thing. (See Sunderabai v. Devaji Shankar Deshpande AIR 1954 SC 82.)

14. "Estoppel is when one is concluded and forbidden in law to speak against his own act or deed, yea, though it be to say the truth" — Co Litt 352(a), cited in Ashpitel v. Bryan [(1863) 3 B & S 474 : 122 ER 179 : 32 LJQB 91] B & S at p. 489; Simm v. Anglo American Telegraph Co. [(1879) 5 QBD 188 : 49 LJQB 392 : 42 LT 37 (CA)] , per Bramwell, L.J. at p. 202; Halsbury, Vol. 13, para 488. So there is said to be an estoppel where a party is not allowed to say that a certain statement of fact is untrue, whether in reality it be true or not. Estoppel, or conclusion, as it is frequently called by the older authorities, may therefore be defined as a disability whereby a party is precluded from alleging or proving in legal proceedings that a fact is otherwise than it has been made to appear by the matter giving rise to that disability. (Halsbury, Vol. 13, para 448) The rule on the subject is thus laid down by Lord Denman, in Pickard v. Sears [(1837) 6 Ad & El 469 : 112 ER 179] Ad & E at p. 474 : ER p. 181

"But the rule of law is clear, that, where one by his words or conduct wilfully causes another to believe the existence of a certain state of things, and induces him to act on that belief, so as to alter his own previous position, the former is concluded from averring against the latter a different state of things as existing at the same time;"

"The whole doctrine of estoppel of this kind, which is a fictitious statement treated as true, might have been founded in reason, but I am not sure that it was. There is another kind of estoppel — estoppel by representation — which is founded upon reason and it is founded upon decision also." Per Jessel, M.R. in General Finance & Co. v. Liberator [(1878) 10 Ch D 15 : (1874-80) All ER Rep Ext 1597 : 39 LT 600] , Ch D at p. 20.

See also in Simm v. Anglo American Telegraph Co. [(1879) 5 QBD 188 : 49 LJQB 392 : 42 LT 37 (CA)] , QBD at p. 202 where Bramwell, L.J. said "An estoppel is said to exist where a person is compelled to admit that to be true which is not true, and to act upon a theory which is contrary to the truth."

15. On the whole, an estoppel seems to be when, in consequences of some previous act or statement to which he is either party or privy, a person is precluded from showing the existence of a particular state of facts. Estoppel is based on the maxim allegans contraria non est audiendus (a party is not to be heard to allege the contrary) and is that species of presumption juries et de jure (absolute or conclusive or irrebuttable presumption), where the fact presumed is taken to be true, not as against all the world, but against a particular party, and that only by reason of some act done, it is in truth a kind of argumentum ad hominem."

4. The learned Standing Counsel has also relied upon a decision in the case of Sree Surya Developers & Promoters v. N. Sailesh Prasad: (2022) 5 SCC 736, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to some precedents and held that the only remedy available to a party to a consent decree to avoid such consent decree, is to approach the court which recorded the compromise and made a decree in terms of it, and establish that there was no compromise. In that event, the court which recorded the compromise will itself consider and decide the question as to whether there was a valid compromise or not. A party to a consent decree based on a compromise to challenge the compromise decree on the ground that the decree was not lawful i.e. it was void or voidable has to approach the same court, which recorded the compromise and a separate suit challenging the consent decree has been held to be not maintainable.

5. Replying to the aforesaid objection raised by the learned Standing Counsel, Sri. Rishabh Raj, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the aforesaid observations were made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the light of the factual background where the validity of the consent decree passed under Order XXIII C.P.C. Rule 3 C.P.C. was under challenge, which is not the case here.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Gurpreet Singh Vs. Chatar Bhuj Goel: (1988) 1 SCC 270 wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"10. Under Rule 3 as it now stands, when a claim in suit has been adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise, the compromise must be in writing and signed by the parties and there must be a completed agreement between them. To constitute an adjustment, the agreement or compromise must itself be capable of being embodied in a decree. When the parties enter into a compromise during the hearing of a suit or appeal, there is no reason why the requirement that the compromise should be reduced in writing in the form of an instrument signed by the parties should be dispensed with. The court must therefore insist upon the parties to reduce the terms into writing."

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that in the present case, neither was an agreement of compromise signed between the parties, nor has any decree been passed on the basis of any compromise. Therefore, the decision in the case of Sree Surya Developers and Promoters (Supra) will not apply to the facts of the present case. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the petitioner has not given in writing that it was foregoing the challenge to the imposition of additional stamp-duty.

8. The learned Counsel for the petitioner also relied upon a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Himalayan Coop. Group Housing Society Vs. Balwan Singh and others: (2015) 7 SCC 373 wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"32. Generally, admissions of fact made by a counsel are binding upon their principals as long as they are unequivocal; where, however, doubt exists as to a purported admission, the court should be wary to accept such admissions until and unless the counsel or the advocate is authorised by his principal to make such admissions. Furthermore, a client is not bound by a statement or admission which he or his lawyer was not authorised to make. A lawyer generally has no implied or apparent authority to make an admission or statement which would directly surrender or conclude the substantial legal rights of the client unless such an admission or statement is clearly a proper step in accomplishing the purpose for which the lawyer was employed. We hasten to add neither the client nor the court is bound by the lawyer's statements or admissions as to matters of law or legal conclusions. Thus, according to generally accepted notions of professional responsibility, lawyers should follow the client's instructions rather than substitute their judgment for that of the client. We may add that in some cases, lawyers can make decisions without consulting the client. While in others, the decision is reserved for the client. It is often said that the lawyer can make decisions as to tactics without consulting the client, while the client has a right to make decisions that can affect his rights."

9. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the petitioner had not instructed its Counsel to forego the challenge to imposition of additional stamp-duty and it is not bound by the concession given by the Counsel.

10. I have considered the aforesaid submissions advance by the learned counsel for the parties and the case law relied upon by them. I now proceed to refer to some precedents which are relevant for the present case.

11. In State of Maharashtra v. Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak: (1982) 2 SCC 463, the High Court had recorded a concession made by the learned Counsel for the State of Maharashtra. The Counsel intervened and protested before the Hon'ble Supreme Court that he never made any such concession and invited the Hon'ble Supreme Court to peruse the written submissions made by him in the High Court. Rejecting this contention, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"4. ...We are afraid that we cannot launch into an enquiry as to what transpired in the High Court. It is simply not done. Public policy bars us. Judicial decorum restrains us. Matters of judicial record are unquestionable. They are not open to doubt. Judges cannot be dragged into the arena. "Judgments cannot be treated as mere counters in the game of litigation." [Per Lord Atkinson in Somasundaram Chetty v. Subramanian Chetty, AIR 1926 PC 136] We are bound to accept the statement of the Judges recorded in their judgment, as to what transpired in court. We cannot allow the statement of the Judges to be contradicted by statements at the Bar or by affidavit and other evidence. If the Judges say in their judgment that something was done, said or admitted before them, that has to be the last word on the subject. The principle is well-settled that statements of fact as to what transpired at the hearing, recorded in the judgment of the court, are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. If a party thinks that the happenings in court have been wrongly recorded in a judgment, it is incumbent upon the party, while the matter is still fresh in the minds of the Judges, to call the attention of the very Judges who have made the record to the fact that the statement made with regard to his conduct was a statement that had been made in error. [Per Lord Buckmaster in Madhu Sudan Chowdhri v. Chandrabati Chowdhrain, AIR 1917 PC 30] That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter must necessarily end there. Of course a party may resile and an appellate court may permit him in rare and appropriate cases to resile from a concession on the ground that the concession was made on a wrong appreciation of the law and had led to gross injustice; but, he may not call in question the very fact of making the concession as recorded in the judgment."

12. In Bhavnagar University v. Palitana Sugar Mill (P) Ltd.: (2003) 2 SCC 111, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"61. ...We are bound to accept the statement of the Judges recorded in their judgment, as to what transpired in court. We cannot allow the statement of the Judges to be contradicted by statements at the Bar or by affidavit and other evidence. If the Judges say in their judgment that something was done, said or admitted before them, that has to be the last word on the subject. The principle is well settled that statements of fact as to what transpired at the hearing, recorded in the judgment of the court, are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. If a party thinks that the happenings in court have been wrongly recorded in a judgment, it is incumbent upon the party, while the matter is still fresh in the minds of the Judges, to call the attention of the very Judges who have made the record to the fact that the statement made with regard to his conduct was a statement that had been made in error (Per Lord Buckmaster in Madhu Sudan Chowdhri v. Chandrabati Chowdhrain [AIR 1917 PC 30 : 21 CWN 897] .) That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter must necessarily end there. Of course a party may resile and an appellate court may permit him in rare and appropriate cases to resile from a concession on the ground that the concession was made on a wrong appreciation of the law and had led to gross injustice; but, he may not call in question the very fact of making the concession as recorded in the judgment."

12. The Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the above mentioned principle in Roop Kumar v. Mohan Thedani, (2003) 6 SCC 595 by stating that: -

"11. ... It is to be noted that the parties agreed before the High Court that instead of remanding the matter to the trial court, it should consider materials on record and render a verdict. After having done so, it is not open to the appellant to turn around or take a plea that no concession was given. This is clearly a case of sitting on the fence, and is not to be encouraged. If really there was no concession, the only course open to the appellant was to move the High Court in line with what has been said in State of Maharashtra v. Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak [(1982) 2 SCC 463 : 1982 SCC (Cri) 478] . In a recent decision Bhavnagar University v. Palitana Sugar Mill (P) Ltd. [(2003) 2 SCC 111 : 2002 AIR SCW 4939]…"

13. So far as the petitioner's contention based on the judgment in the case of Himalayan Coop. Group Housing Society (Supra) is concerned, in the aforesaid case it has been held that generally, admissions of fact made by a counsel are binding upon the client as long as they are unequivocal but the client or the court is not bound by the lawyer's statements or admissions as to matters of law or legal conclusions. The admission in the present case was not regarding a matter of law or legal conclusions. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that in some cases, lawyers can make decisions without consulting the client, while in others, the decision is reserved for the client. The lawyer can make decisions as to tactics without consulting the client, while the client has a right to make decisions that can affect his rights. Therefore, if the lawyer assessed that there was no chance of success of the entire appeal and he decided to restrict his prayer for waiver of the penalty, it cannot be said that he acted absolutely without any authority and that might be the reason as to why the petitioner did not initiate any proceedings against his Advocate who had given the concession.

14. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I am of the considered view that the petitioner cannot be permitted to dispute before this Court the correctness of the happenings recorded by the appellant authority i.e. Commissioner Lucknow Division, Lucknow in the impugned order 09.05.2024 to the effect it had been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner was willing to pay the deficient amount of stamp duty and he was confining his prayer for waiver of the penalty. However, it will be open for the petitioner to move an appropriate application before the Commissioner Lucknow Division, Lucknow for disputing the correctness of the averments recorded in the impugned order and in case any such application is filed by the petitioner, the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow shall decide the same expeditiously, without granting any unnecessary adjournment to any of the parties.

15. The writ petition is disposed off in light of the aforesaid observations.

A. Public Law – Blacklisting of contractors/firm by governmental or public authorities – An order of blacklisting is accordingly required to be passed taking into consideration all aspects and should not be passed in a casual and cavalier manner as the same has an impact on the person for which such blacklisting is done. The entire concept of blacklisting is required to be seen in a holistic manner and what has to be appreciated that an order of blacklisting/debarment of a particular firm is in the nature of punishment which carries with civil consequences for a firm. (Para 7)

In the present case, it was imperative upon the respondent authorities to consider the reply given by the petitioner in totality and the mere rejection by using the term "reply is not satisfactory" is uncalled for and cannot be accepted. (Para 8)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

A.K. Construction Comp. Vs U.O.I. & ors., Writ-C No. 20223 of 2024, decided on 09.07.2024 (Para 6)

Present petition challenges order dated 23.01.2024, passed by the Executive Director, State Water and Sanitation Mission, U.P., Lucknow whereby petitioner has been debarred from making any supply to any project of Jal Jeevan Mission.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J. & Hon'ble Manjive Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ronak Chaturvedi, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing for Respondent No.1 and Sri Sanjay Kumar Om, learned counsel appearing for Respondents No.2 and 3.

2. Petitioner through this writ petition has challenged the order dated 23.1.2024 passed by the Executive Director, State Water and Sanitation Mission, U.P., Lucknow whereby petitioner has been debarred from making any supply to any project of Jal Jeevan Mission.

3. Learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner has argued that while passing the impugned order dated 23.1.2024 the Executive Director has not considered the reply submitted by the petitioner at all and only this much has been said that petitioner's reply has not been found satisfactory. He further argues that vide order dated 23.1.2024 petitioner firm has been debarred from making supply for an indefinite period whereas the Hon'ble Supreme Court in catena of judgments had categorically held that debarment or blacklisting cannot be done for an indefinite period.

4. On the other hand, Sri Sanjay Kumar Om, learned counsel appearing for the contesting respondents submits that reply submitted by the petitioner to the show cause notice has not been found satisfactory and therefore, the impugned order has been passed. He further submits that the impugned order cannot be termed as an order for blacklisting for an indefinite period as the term of State Water and Sanitation Mission itself shall come to an end on 31.12.2024.

5. We have considered the rival arguments advanced by the learned counsels appearing for the parties and we find that before passing the impugned order dated 23.1.2024 petitioner was issued a show cause notice, to which petitioner submitted a detailed reply and also made a request for re-testing of pipes supplied by the petitioner. The reply submitted by the petitioner has not been considered at all while passing the impugned order dated 23.1.2024 and only this much has been said that the reply submitted by the petitioner has not been found satisfactory. We are of the view that once proper reply was submitted, it was obligatory on the respondents to consider the entire reply and thereafter by recording reasons the order of blacklisting/debarment could have been passed. We also find that the impugned order dated 23.1.2024 proceeds to debar the petitioner firm for an indefinite period as it is the routine phenomenon that the term of the Schemes/Missions is extended from time to time.

6. This Court in A.K. Construction Company v. Union of India and Others (Writ-C No.20223 of 2024 decided on July 19, 2024), after examining the Supreme Court judgment in M/s Kulja Industries Limited -v- Chief Gen. Manager W.T. Proj. BSNL & Ors. (Civil Appeal No. 8944 of 2013), has held as follows:

14. Upon a perusal of the relevant paragraphs above, it is evident that the judgement brings forward several critical principles concerning the judicial scrutiny of decisions to blacklist contractors by governmental or public authorities. First, the inherent power to blacklist a contractor is vested in the entity awarding the contract, typically the State or its instrumentalities. This authority does not necessarily require explicit statutory authorisation but must conform to fairness and reasonableness. It is also to be noted that any governmental or public authority's decision to blacklist a contractor is open to judicial review, ensuring adherence to natural justice principles, particularly audi alteram partem and the doctrine of proportionality. This means courts can examine such decisions to ensure they are just and balanced. Further, before blacklisting a contractor, the entity must provide a fair hearing, allowing the contractor to present their case and defend against the allegations or reasons for blacklisting. The decision to blacklist must also be reasonable, fair, and proportionate to the gravity of the alleged offence or breach, avoiding arbitrariness or discrimination. Additionally, actions by State authorities, including blacklisting decisions, must pass the reasonableness test under Article 14 of the Indian Constitution, which ensures equality before the law and prevents arbitrary State actions. Furthermore, precedents and legal standards established in prior judicial decisions, such as Erusian Equipment & Chemicals Ltd. -v- State of W.B., reported in (1975) 1 SCC 70 and subsequent cases like Radha krishna Agarwal and Ors. -v- State of Bihar & Ors., reported in (1977) 3 SCC 457, shed light on the legal framework guiding the judicial review of blacklisting decisions. These principles collectively aim to ensure that the power to blacklist is exercised judiciously, upholding fairness, reasonableness, and proportionality while safeguarding contractors' rights to a fair hearing and defense.

7. The entire concept of blacklisting is required to be seen in a holistic manner and what has to be appreciated that an order of blacklisting/debarment of a particular firm is in the nature of punishment which carries with civil consequences for a firm. An order of blacklisting is accordingly required to be passed taking into consideration all aspects and should not be passed in a casual and cavalier manner as the same has an impact on the person for which such blacklisting is done.

8. In light of the same, we are of the view that it was imperative upon the respondent authorities to consider the reply given by the petitioner in totality and the mere rejection by using the term "reply is not satisfactory" is uncalled for and cannot be accepted.

9. In view of the aforesaid reasons, this writ petition is allowed. The order dated 23.1.2024 is quashed with liberty to respondents to pass fresh order after considering the reply submitted by the petitioner.

Smt. Madhubala Jaiswal ...Petitioner
Versus
Real Estate Appellate Tribunal & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Pankaj Jaiswal

Counsel for the Respondents:
Anuj Pratap Singh, Ashish Agrawal, Mohd. Afzal, Wasim Masood

A. Real Estate Law – Allotment of land - As per the doctrine of "commodum ex injuria sua nemo habere debet", it is settled law that no party can take advantage of their own fault. (Para 33)

No one can be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is a sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-performance he has occasioned. A wrong doer ought not to be permitted to make profit out of his own wrong. (Para 38)

The authorities cannot be allowed to take undue advantage of their own default in failure to act in accordance with law within a reasonable time. (Para 39)

In the present case, the undisputed fact remains that the respondent no. 3-UPSIDA allocated the plot to the petitioner without holding proper title, resulting in a delay of nearly four years to acquire the title. This delay was obviously not attributable to the petitioner but solely due to the actions and internal issues of respondent no. 3. Therefore, respondent no. 3 cannot take advantage of the delay or default that they themselves caused and ask for interest to be paid for that period. (Para 40)

The only bone of contention before the Court is whether the UPSIDA is entitled to levy interest on the remaining balance due from the petitioner during the period in which the delay was attributable to UPSIDA itself. According to the terms of the allotment letter, the petitioner was required to pay 25% of the total premium amount within 30 days of the allotment, following which UPSIDA was obligated to execute the lease deed in favour of the allottee. In this instance, despite the petitioner having paid 80% of the premium amount, UPSIDA failed to execute the "Conveyance Deed" or hand over possession until January 25, 2021, due to internal issues within UPSIDA. (Para 41)

B. In the interest of justice, there cannot be a discrepancy in the rate of interest applied. It is unjustifiable for UPSIDA to impose an interest rate of 14%, later reduced to 12%, for the period of delay, which is solely attributable to UPSIDA, caused by its own actions. The 14% interest rate was originally stipulated for instances where the allottee opted for installment payments which the petitioner did not opt for. If UPSIDA offers a 6% interest rate to individuals, for withdrawing from the agreement, in all fairness, it cannot charge 14% or 12% interest from those who remain committed to the agreement. Moreover, there is no provision in the allotment letter for charging interest if the default is on UPSIDA's part. (Para 41)

A party cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate" at the same time. This rule is applied to do equity, however, it must not be applied in a manner as to violate the principles of right and good conscience. Therefore, UPSIDA cannot take unjust benefit from its own delay and must rectify the interest rate accordingly. (Para 42)

The established legal principle that no party should get benefit for their own wrong applies in the present case. Accordingly, respondent No. 3, UPSIDA, is directed to correct the unjust imposition of interest and to comply with appropriate legal standards. They may only charge interest @ 6% on the outstanding amount. Upon the petitioner paying the outstanding amount along with 6% interest rate for the period from the date of allotment of plot, respondent no.3 is obligated to execute the lease deed and complete all other formalities within 2 weeks thereafter. (Para 44)

Regarding the interest on the 80% premium amount paid by the petitioner, this matter is currently pending before the RERA Appellate Authority. The petitioner is entitled to pursue the issue for interest or damages for the period during which the payment was made, and the property could not be enjoyed by her. (Para 43)

2. U.P. Industrial Development Authority Vs Raja Ram Maurya, Special Leave to Appeal No. 12196-12197 of 2023 (Para 16)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Pankaj Jaiswal, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Ashish Agrawal, learned counsel appears for the U.P. State Industrial Development Authority.

FACTUAL MATRIX OF THE PRESENT CASE:

2. Uttar Pradesh State Industrial Development Authority1 launched a scheme of residential plot in 'Saraswati-Hi Tech City Naini, Allahabad'. The petitioner who is 75 years old lady, made an Application No. 1693 on 18.09.2016 for allotment of plot and had deposited Rs. 1,95,930/- as Registration amount. The petitioner was found to be successful and was allotted a plot No. B 440 (measuring 200 Sq. Meter) on 18.02.2017 and the cost of plot was fixed at Rs. 36 lakhs. The allotment letter was issued on 18.02.2017, wherein it was stated that 25% of the total premium of plot after adjusting registration amount is to be deposited within 30 days.

3. From the record it emerges that the condition in the allotment letter was that the allottee while participating has to deposit Rs. 1,93,320/- as registration amount and after he/she was found successful in getting the allotment, the allottee would be required to pay 25% of the total premium amount within 30 days (which was amounting Rs. 7,01,680/-). The allotment also provided the facility of instalment, but, it carried an interest of 14% per annum on remaining premium chargeable from the date of allotment, payable in 12 half yearly installments alongwith interest on first day of January & July each year. Rebate of 2% was also admissible in case the payments due are made on or before the prescribed date if there are no arrears of dues.

4. The petitioner instead of depositing 25% (which was Rs. 7,01,680/-) of the said total amount, has deposited around Rs. 29 lakhs which was approximately 80% of the total amount of the premium, without seeking benefit of instalments which was offered in the allotment letter. So far as the possession of the plot as per the allotment letter is concerned, it was to be delivered to the allottees after payment of 25% of the total premium of plot (after adjusting earnest money/registration amount).

5. As per the terms and condition of the allotment, the petitioner was promised to get possession by July 2017, but the same was not given to the petitioner. Aggrieved with the same, the petitioner approached Real Estate Regulatory Authority2 on 05.11.2017 and RERA vide order dated 27.02.2018 directed the respondent No. 3-UPSIDA for delivering the possession, however, no order was passed for the interest on the delayed period. Hence, the petitioner filed an appeal No. 100 of 2020 before the Real State Appellate Tribunal, Lucknow within time and after admission of appeal, Tribunal fixed date for hearing, but due to lockdown in Corona period, it was informed to the petitioner that the hearing would be conducted through Video conferencing. It is claimed that no link was provided in spite of several requests, hence, the petitioner could not appear. The matter kept pending before the RERA Appellate Authority.

6. On 03.09.2019, an office order was issued by the UPSIDA, whereby the allottees were given option if they want to quit from the project, they can take back their deposited money with 6 percent interest per annum, or in case they want to continue under the scheme they will have to pay the remaining premium amount and other charges as per the original allotment order.

7. It transpires that there was some issue between UPSIDA and the State Government and the State Government for some internal reason did not executed the Conveyance Deed in favour of UPSIDA, as a result, they were also not in position to further execute the Conveyance Deed and hand over possession to the allottees. It seems that ultimately the State Government executed the Conveyance Deed on 23.01.2021 in favour of UPSIDA, and hence the delay in executing the sale deed by UPSIDA in favour of the petitioner was not on account of respondent No. 3, but was on account of State Government.

8. It was somewhere in 2022, the Respondent No. 3 sent a letter informing that they were in position to execute the sale deed, but at the same time, they asked the petitioner to pay (14% - 2% =12%) interest on the balance amount from the date of allotment till the date of payment.

9. Aggrieved by the action that respondent no. 3 has not handed over the possession of land in time and thereafter, asking for heavy interest for the delayed period, petitioner instituted the present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India seeking for the following relief:-

"(i). issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding (a) UPSIDA to pay delay period interest on the amount paid (Rs. 29 lakhs), at the same rate which respondent no. 3 is charging from allottees in case of default, from July 2017 (promised date of possession) till the date of possession.

(b) Appellate Tribunal to hear the petitioner and decide the matter on merit.

(c) Appellate Tribunal to provide all the orders passed in the matter of petitioner and to provide video link for hearing.

(ii). issue any other suitable writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

(iii). Award cost of the writ petition in favour of petitioner.

(iv) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus for directing respondent no. 3 to provide possession of plot no. B-440.

(v) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing of order dated 08.06.2022 upto payment of interest of Rs. 535967 + Rs. 53552 & GST of Rs. 64762.50."

ARGUMENTS OF THE PETITIONER

10. Shri Pankaj Jaiswal, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that while entertaining the present writ petition, the Court had taken a serious view and given show cause to the respondent as to why the possession of the plot has not been delivered to the petitioner so far and why this Court should not direct for payment of exemplary compensation to the petitioner for the said default. Order dated 08.07.2022 passed by the coordinate Bench is reproduced herein under:-

"The petitioner claims to have deposited Rs. 29 lacs so far under the allotment order issued in her favour by the erstwhile owner, i.e., the U.P.S.I.D.C. (now U.P.S.I.D.A.). The total amount payable under the allotment was a sum of Rs. 36 lacs approximately. The petitioner was entitled to possession of the plot upon deposit of 25 percent of the premium amount, whereas she has deposited almost 80 percent of the amount, still possession has not been delivered to her so far. On the other hand, the respondents have imposed interest upon the petitioner in respect of the remaining amount.

We call upon respondent no.3 to show cause as to why possession of the plot has not been delivered to the petitioner so far and why this Court should not direct for payment of exemplary compensation to the petitioner for the said default and also recommend for action being taken against the person responsible for the delay.

Sri Ashish Agarwal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no.3 shall communicate the instant order to the respondent for due compliance.

List as fresh on 22.7.2022."

11. He further submitted that after filing of the present writ petition UPSIDA had taken a decision on 08th June, 2022, which was received by the petitioner on 17.06.2022 and thereafter the same has been brought before this Court by way of amendment application. UPSIDA vide letter dated 08th June, 2022 called upon the petitioner to complete the formalities for execution of lease deed. The letter requires the petitioner to deposit balance premium amount of Rs. 7,56,452/- and interest amounting to Rs. 5,35,967/- as well as lease rent and GST @ 18% apart from certain other charges.

12. The petitioner submits that she is ready and willing to take possession of the plot and will also pay the balance amount at the time of execution of sale deed.

13. The submission of the petitioner is that the respondent no. 3 cannot put the petitioner to double loss, in as much as, firstly the possession of land was not handed over to her in time and secondly the Authority is penalising her by asking for heavy interest for delayed payment.

14. The petitioner submitted that the Respondent No. 3 cannot take benefit of their own fault. It came to light that the Respondent No. 3 did not have the "Conveyance Deed" for the land which was allotted to the petitioner, hence, they were not in position to execute the deed. It is not open for the UPSIDA to charge heavy interest rate for a period for which they were on the fault.

ARGUMENT OF RESPONDENT NO. 3.

15. Mr. H.N. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Ashish Agarwal learned counsel for the Respondent No. 3 submits that UPSIDA has floated a scheme of plot allotment in the year 2017 and the plot was allotted to the petitioner as per the allotment condition. The petitioner was supposed to pay 25% of the total premium, in lieu thereof, the petitioner had paid 80% of the said amount within a month. Due to of some internal problem between UPSIDA and the State Government, the "Conveyance Deed" could not be executed earlier. It was only on 23.01.2021 the "Convenience Deed" was executed in favour of the UPSIDA. However, it was on 03.09.2019 when UPSIDA had issued an order, whereby an option was given, if the allottees want to withdraw the money the same will be returned to them with 6% interest per annum after deducting the processing charges and the second option was for those who would like to continue in the project and are ready to wait, would pay the allotment premium along with interest as stated in the allotment letter.

16. Shri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel has placed reliance on judgment passed by the Division Bench of this Court on 17.02.2023 in the matter of Rajaram Maurya vs. State of U.P. and 3 others3 and submitted that this Court had allowed the UPSIDA to repay the entire deposits along with interest at the rate of 8% per month which was subsequently reduced to 6% by the Supreme Court vide judgement and order dated 04.07.2023 in the matter of U.P. Industrial Development Authority vs. Raja Ram Maurya4, hence the petitioner can withdraw the said amount alongwith 6% interest.

17. Learned Senior Counsel submitted that on the basis of the said office order, the petitioner opted to continue under the scheme and as such is liable to pay interest on the remaining amount and hence an interest is being charged @ 12 % per annum and accordingly, the respondent on 08.06.2022 called upon the petitioner to deposit the remaining outstanding premium amount which was Rs. 7,56,452/- along with interest of Rs. 5,35,967/- which comes out to Rs. 12,92,419/- and once this amount is deposited, then the respondent No. 3-UPSIDA would hand over the possession and execute the sale deed in favour of the petitioner.

18. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 further submitted that the petitioner is bound to pay the interest as per the provisions of Sections 55, 56 and 73 of the Contract Act.

ISSUES BEFORE THE COURT

19. Heard the submission advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

20. The issue that thus arises for consideration in the instant petition is whether UPSIDA, which is State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India, is acting in a fair manner. Admittedly, in the advertisement, there was no disclosure that UPSIDA did not have "Conveyance Deed" in its favour and that its title was still inchoate. A very relevant information was thus withheld from the public at large. This had resulted in large number of persons applying under the scheme unaware of the defect in the title of UPSIDA. Again, it kept accepting money without apprising the applicants of the defects in its title. It also failed to deliver possession even after receipt of more than 25 % of the premium amount, which is complete breach of the obligation under the allotment letter.

21. The other question which arises is whether in the above background facts, UPSIDA can charge interest from the allottees on the balance premium amount even when they had defaulted in delivering of possession in terms of the allotment letter. The petitioner has been deprived of use and enjoyment of the plot, to which she was entitled to, as soon as she deposited 25 percent of the total amount. Alternatively, even if, UPSIDA was entitled to realize interest on the remaining amount, what should be proper compensation to be awarded to the petitioner.

22. By the order dated 22.07.2022, this Court has framed the basic issues which are as follows :

(i) Whether UPSIDA, which is State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India is acting in a fair manner while accepting the money without disclosing the actual condition of the title?

(ii) Whether UPSIDA has failed to deliver the possession even after receipt of 25% of premium amount in complete breach of the obligation under the allotment letter?

(iii) Whether there is justification of charging the interest on the balance amount inspite of failing to deliver the possession on deposit of 80% premium through letter dated 08.06.2022 when the UPSIDA itself is in default in delivering the possession in terms of allotment letter ?

(iv) Whether alternatively, even if, UPSIDA was entitled to realize interest on the remaining amount, what should be proper compensation to be awarded to the petitioner?

ANALYSIS BY THIS COURT

23. This Court vide order dated 22.07.2022, has observed that:-

"Before we proceed to decide these larger issues, we give one opportunity to the Chief Executive Officer of U.P.S.I.D.A. to revisit the entire matter and file his personal affidavit on all the aspects noted above."

24. Thereafter, personal affidavit of C.E.O., UPSIDA was filed on 03.08.2022, however, contrary to the order dated 22.07.2022 Respondent No. 3 did not revisit the entire matter and in response to the 3rd Issue, the C.E.O. in his personal affidavit stated that parties are bound with the agreement and hence they are liable to pay the interest, even if there was delay in executing the conveyance deed.

25. The UPSIDA has taken a decision not to charge penal interest and since the petitioner has deposited 80% of the Premium amount, hence, 2% rebate would be given on the contractual rate of interest and only demanded interest of Rs. 4,64,406/- on the balance amount @ 12% per annum (14% - 2% = 12%).

26. Yet another personal affidavit was filed on 15.09.2022 by C.E.O.-respondent no. 3 of UPSIDA and it was brought to the notice that the UPSIDA on 01.08.2019, in it's 33rd meeting, has taken a decision to grant opportunity to the allottees to take money back with interest at the rate of 6%. However, no decision was taken on Issue no. 3, on the issue of charging of interest on the balance amount.

27. Thereafter, the respondent No. 3-UPSIDA filed another affidavit, wherein, they took a stand that despite having deposited entire cost of the land to the State Government, the State Government failed to execute the "Conveyance Deed" in favour of the UPSIDA, as a result, respondent No. 3 could not hand over the possession to the allottees or executed the sale deed in their favour.

28. The allotment letter dated 18.02.2017 by which a plot of 200 Sq. Meter was allotted in favour of the petitioner and the petitioner was supposed to pay 25% of the premium amount of the plot, clearly stipulates that after payment of 25% of the premium amount, the respondent No. 3 was supposed to hand over the possession and execute the lease deed. However, in instant case the petitioner who is 75 years old lady had deposited 80% of the total premium amount, but inspite of that neither the sale deed was executed nor the possession of the plot was given by UPSIDA.

29. In the affidavit of UPSIDA it has been admitted that because of some internal dispute between UPSIDA and State Government, the "Conveyance Deed" for the said land was not executed by the State Government till 25.01.2021.

30. Though an option of exit was given to the petitioner, but she chose to stay in the project, and tacitly agreed to adhere the terms of the allotment letter.

31. Therefore, the argument raised by Respondent No. 3 that the instant issue is covered by judgment of Division Bench passed in Writ -C No. 32291 of 2022 is incorrect, as in that case the plot allotted was in low lying area and the allottee wanted a change to a different and better plots, however the facts of that case was different from this case. It was not the case in that scheme, that UPSIDA had no title to pass on to the allottees. Since the issue raised in Writ-C No. 32291 of 2022 is different from the instant writ petition, hence the judgment passed by the Division Bench in that case is not applicable herein and distinguishable on facts.

ISSUE OF WHETHER ONE CAN TAKE ADVANTAGE OF ITS OWN FAULT

32. In this case, now the question before us is as to whether the respondent no. 3 can take advantage of their own fault as they were not even in a position to hand over the possession. However they are charging the interest for the period in which infact respondent no. 3 was in default.

33. As per the doctrine of "commodum ex inijuria sua nemo habere debet", it is settled law that no party can take advantage of their own fault. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of M.K. Shah Engineers and Contractors vs. State of M.P.5 has held as follows:-

"17. No one can be permitted to take advantage of one's own wrong……..A closer scrutiny of clause 3.3.29 clearly suggests that the parties intended to enter into an arbitration agreement for deciding all the questions and disputes arising between them through arbitration and thereby excluding the jurisdiction of ordinary civil courts. Such reference to arbitration is required to be preceded by a decision of the Superintending Engineer and a challenge to such decision within 28 days by the party feeling aggrieved therewith. The steps preceding the coming into Operating of the arbitration clause though essential are capable of being waived and if one party has by its own conduct or the conduct of its officials, disabled such preceding steps being taken, it will be deemed that the procedural prerequisites were waived. The party at fault cannot be permitted to set up the bar of non-performance of prerequisite obligation so as to exclude the applicability and Operating of the arbitration clause." (emphasis supplied)

34. In Mrutunjay Pani v. Narmada Bala Sasmal6, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:

"5…….The same principle is comprised in the Latin maxim commodum ex injuria sue nemo habere debet, that is, convenience cannot accrue to a party from his own wrong. To put it in other words, no one can be allowed to benefit from his own wrongful act."

35. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Kusheshwar Prasad Singh vs. State of Bihar and others7 has held as follows:-

*"12. ……..The appellant is right in contending that final statement statement ought to have been issued immediately or in any case within "reasonable time". The authority cannot neglect to do that which the law mandates and requires doing. By not issuing consequential final settlement under Section 11(1) of the Act, the authority had failed to discharge its statutory duty. Obviously, therefore, the appellant is justified in urging that such d*efault in discharge of statutory duty by the respondents under the Act cannot prejudice him. To that extent, therefore, the grievance of the appellant is well founded.

13. ……..The appellant, therefore, is right in contending that the authorities cannot be allowed to take undue advantage of their own default in failure to act in accordance with law and initiate fresh proceedings.

X X X X

16. It is settled principle of law that a man cannot be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-performance he has occasioned. To put it differently, "a wrongdoer ought not to be permitted to make a profit out of his own wrong."

(emphasis supplied)

36. In Broom's Legal Maxims (10th Edn.), p.191 it has been stated as follows:-

"It is a maxim of law, recognised and established, that no man shall take advantage of his own wrong; and this maxim, which is based on elementary principles, is fully recognised in courts of law and of equity, and, indeed, admits of illustration from every branch of legal procedure."

37. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Nirmala Anand vs. Advent Corporation (Pvt.) Ltd. And others8 has held that the respondents cannot take advantage of their own wrong and that would amount to unfair advantage.

38. Recently Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Municipal Committee Katra & Ors vs. Ashwani Kumar9, has also considered that no one can be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is a sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-performance he has occasioned. A wrong doer ought not to be permitted to make profit out of his own wrong. Relevant para nos. 18 and 19 of the judgement are being reproduced herein for ready reference:-

"18. The situation at hand is squarely covered by the latin maxim 'nullus commodum capere potest de injuria sua propria', which means that no man can take advantage of his own wrong. This principle was applied by this Court in the case of Union of India v. Maj. Gen. Madan Lal Yadav, (1996) 4 SCC 127 observing as below: -

"28. ...In this behalf, the maxim nullus commodum capere potest de injuria sua propria — meaning no man can take advantage of his own wrong — squarely stands in the way of avoidance by the respondent and he is estopped to plead bar of limitation contained in Section 123(2). In Broom's Legal Maxim (10th Edn.) at p. 191 it is stated:

"... it is a maxim of law, recognised and established, that no man shall take advantage of his own wrong; and this maxim, which is based on elementary principles, is fully recognised in courts of law and of equity, and, indeed, admits of illustration from every branch of legal procedure."

The reasonableness of the rule being manifest, we proceed at once to show its application by reference to decided cases. It was noted therein that a man shall not take advantage of his own wrong to gain the favourable interpretation of the law. In support thereof, the author has placed reliance on another maxim frustra legis auxilium invocat quaerit qui in legem committit. He relies on Perry v. Fitzhowe [(1846) 8 QB 757 : 15 LJ QB 239] . At p. 192, it is stated that if a man be bound to appear on a certain day, and before that day the obligee puts him in prison, the bond is void. At p. 193, it is stated that "it is moreover a sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-performance he has occasioned". At p. 195, it is further stated that "a wrong doer ought not to be permitted to make a profit out of his own wrong". At p. 199 it is observed that "the rule applies to the extent of undoing the advantage gained where that can be done and not to the extent of taking away a right previously possessed".

19. It is beyond cavil of doubt that no one can be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is a sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-performance he has occasioned. To put it differently, 'a wrong doer ought not to be permitted to make profit out of his own wrong'. The conduct of the respondent-writ petitioner is fully covered by the aforesaid proposition.

39. Hon'ble Supreme Court in catena of judgments starting right from M.K. Shah Engineers (supra), Mrutunjay Pani (supra), Kusheshwar Prasad Singh (supra), Nirmala Anand (supra) and Municipal Committee Katra (supra) has throughout held that the authorities cannot be allowed to take undue advantage of their own default in failure to act in accordance with law within a reasonable time.

40. In the present case, the undisputed fact remains that the respondent no. 3-UPSIDA allocated the plot to the petitioner without holding proper title, resulting in a delay of nearly four years to acquire the title. This delay was obviously not attributable to the petitioner but solely due to the actions and internal issues of respondent no. 3. Therefore, respondent no. 3 cannot take advantage of the delay or default that they themselves caused and ask for interest to be paid for that period.

CONCLUSION

41. The only bone of contention before the Court is whether the UPSIDA is entitled to levy interest on the remaining balance due from the petitioner during the period in which the delay was attributable to UPSIDA itself. According to the terms of the allotment letter, the petitioner was required to pay 25% of the total premium amount within 30 days of the allotment, following which UPSIDA was obligated to execute the lease deed in favour of the allottee. In this instance, despite the petitioner having paid 80% of the premium amount, UPSIDA failed to execute the "Conveyance Deed" or hand over possession until January 25, 2021, due to internal issues within UPSIDA. Consequently, it is unjustifiable for UPSIDA to impose an interest rate of 14%, later reduced to 12%, for the period of delay, which is solely attributable to UPSIDA, caused by its own actions. The 14% interest rate was originally stipulated for instances where the allottee opted for installment payments which the petitioner did not opt for. In the interest of justice, there cannot be a discrepancy in the rate of interest applied. If UPSIDA offers a 6% interest rate to individuals, for withdrawing from the agreement, in all fairness, it cannot charge 14% or 12% interest from those who remain committed to the agreement. Moreover, there is no provision in the allotment letter for charging interest if the default is on UPSIDA's part.

42. A party cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate" at the same time. This rule is applied to do equity, however, it must not be applied in a manner as to violate the principles of right and good conscience. Therefore, UPSIDA cannot take unjust benefit from its own delay and must rectify the interest rate accordingly.

43. Regarding the interest on the 80% premium amount paid by the petitioner, this matter is currently pending before the RERA Appellate Authority. The petitioner is entitled to pursue the issue for interest or damages for the period during which the payment was made, and the property could not be enjoyed by her. This aspect remains open for adjudication, and we are not addressing it in this judgement.

DIRECTIONS BY THE COURT

44. In view of the aforementioned considerations, it is evident that the respondents cannot capitalize on their own defaults to the detriment of the petitioner. The established legal principle that no party should get benefit for their own wrong applies in the present case. Accordingly, respondent No.3, UPSIDA, is directed to correct the unjust imposition of interest and to comply with appropriate legal standards. They may only charge interest @ 6% on the outstanding amount. Upon the petitioner paying the outstanding amount along with 6% interest rate for the period from the date of allotment of plot, respondent no.3 is obligated to execute the lease deed and complete all other formalities within 2 weeks thereafter.

45. With the above direction, the instant writ petition is disposed of.

46. No order as to cost.

A. Public Law – Rejection of Tender – Interpretation of tender document - Scope of writ jurisdiction with regard to interpretation of the tender documents and interference by the Court is required to be minimal and only when this Court finds an extremely arbitrary action or a malafide action, the Court would interfere. (Para 6)

In the present case, Hon'ble Court did not find any malafide intention by the authorities. Furthermore, the interpretation being taken by the respondent authorities appeared to be a reasonable one, and therefore, this Court did not replace the said interpretation with its own opinion. (Para 7) (E-4)

Present petition challenges order of rejection of technical bid, dated 12.06.2024 and order rejecting appeal against the rejection, dated 25.07.2024.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J. & Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Vakalatnama filed by Shri Ashish Mishra on behalf of respondent No. 3 is taken on record.

2. Heard Shri Manu Khare appearing on behalf of the petitioner, Shri Vaibhav Tripathi on behalf of respondent Nos. 1 and 2 and Shri Ashish Mishra, on behalf of respondent No. 3.

3. This is an application under Article 226 of Constitution of India, wherein the petitioner is aggrieved by rejection of its technical bid by the respondents vide order dated June 12, 2024. Subsequent to filing of the writ petition, the petitioner was also provided with a letter dated July 25, 2024 whereby the appeal against the rejection of its tender was also rejected. The relevant part of the order is delineated below:

"As per clause 1.3.12 (page no. 24 of 344) of tender document,

Right of DFCCIL to Deal with Tenders:- 1.3.12(b): "The authority for the acceptance of the tender will rest with the DFCCIL. It shall not be obligatory on the said authority to accept the lowest tender or any other tender and no tenderer(s) shall demand any explanation for the cause of rejection this/their tender nor the DFCCIL undertake to assign reasons for declining to consider or reject any particular tender or tenders".

In the view of above, DFCCIL is not bound to give detailed explanation about rejection of tenderers. However, considering importance of your firm and better future prospect of your firm, sincerity and better transparency, your satisfaction, unersigned would like to inform that, your offer did not had offer letter complete i.e. form-1 as per para 1.3.2(b) nor having any supporting document regarding experience to carryout electrical work in terms of clause 1.5.2 of tender document.

Hence, your offer was not found in order as per tender conditions for above floated tender & accordingly your offer was rejected by DFCCIL. Your EMD is going to returned shortly.

This is for kind information please."

4. Counsel on behalf of the petitioner has submitted that as per Clause 1.5.2 of the tender documents, it was required only to provide the name of the Associate Electrical Contractor and was not required to provide the legally enforceable agreement duly signed by the Associate Electrical Contractor nor was it required to provide the experience of the Associate Electrical Contractor at the time of submission of the same. This argument has been negated by counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent authorities who submit that by a corrigendum issued on March 28, 2024 certain queries of the bidders were answered by the respondents. The relevant extract of the same is provided below:

Query of Bidder	DFCCIL reply
…… …….…..	…… ….. …

Please clarify: i. Whether MOU with associated other contractor's (Lift/AC/FIRE) is to submitted with bidding documents or at the time of start of relevant work.	…… ... (i) All instruction already given in the Bid document under Article 3, obligations of the contractors and all required documents to be submitted with bidding documents only.

5. Counsel on behalf of respondents has also relied upon the judgment of Division Bench of Allahabad High Court in Rhetoric Technologies Pvt. Ltd. Through Authorised Representative and another vs. State of U.P. Through Principal Secretary Transport Sectt. and others, 2023 SCC OnLine All 50, to submit that interpretation of the bid document and corrigendum issued therein would have to be as per the author of the bid documents and the courts are not to interpret the same under normal circumstances.

6. After hearing the counsel appearing on behalf of the parties and perusing the relevant documents, we are of the view that scope of writ jurisdiction with regard to interpretation of the tender documents and interference by the Court is required to be minimal and only when this Court finds an extremely arbitrary action or a malafide action, the Court would interfere. Paragraphs No. 18 and 26 of judgement in Rhetoric Technologies Pvt. Ltd. (supra) are delineated below:

"18. In Municipal Corporation Ujjain and Another V. B.V.G. India Ltd and others*, 2018 5 SCC 462, the Supreme Court had observed that the High Court should not ordinarily interfere with the judgement of expert consultants on the issue of technical qualifications of a bidder when the consultant had taken into consideration various factors including basis of non-performance of the bidder. It is not open to the Court to independently evaluate technical bids and financial bids of the parties as an Appellate Authority for coming to its own conclusion in as much as unless thresholds of malafide intention to favour someone or bias, arbitrariness, irrationality or perversity are met. The Court observed that if the decision is taken purely in public interest, the Courts ordinarily should exercise judicial restraint.*

26. The learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State Respondents has placed reliance upon judgement rendered by the Supreme Court in N.G. Projects Ltd versus Vinod Kumar Jain and others 2022 (6) SCC 127; and paragraphs 13, 14, 15 and 23 thereof. The Supreme Court observed that the owner or the employer of a project, having authored the tender documents, is the best person to understand and appreciate its requirements and interpret its documents. With regard to the interpretation of terms of the contract and the question as to whether a term of the contract is essential or not is to be viewed from the perspective of the employer and by the employer. The Courts should not use a magnifying glass while scanning the tenders and make every small mistake appear like a big blunder. In fact, the Courts must give "fair play in the joints" to the Government and Public Sector Undertakings in matters of contract. The Courts must also not interfere where such interference would cause unnecessary loss to the public exchequer and while entertaining the writ petition and/or granting the stay which may ultimately delay the execution of public projects, it must be remembered that it might seriously impede the execution of the projects and disable the State and or its agencies/instrumentalities from discharging their Constitutional and legal obligation towards the citizens. It was observed by the Supreme Court that the High Court should be extremely careful and circumspect in exercise of the discretion while entertaining such petitions and/or while granting stay in such matters. The Writ Court should refrain itself from imposing its decision over the decision of the employer as to whether or not to accept the bid of a tender. The Court does not have the expertise to examine the terms and conditions of the present economic activities of the State and this limitation should be kept in view. The Courts should be even more reluctant in interfering with the contracts involving technical issues as there is a requirement of the necessary expertise to adjudicate upon such issues. The Court should only examine as to whether the decision making process is after complying with the procedure contemplated by the tender conditions. If the Court finds that there is a total arbitrariness or that the tender has been granted in a malafide manner, the Court should relegate the parties to seek damages for the wrongful exclusion rather than to injunct the execution of the contract. The injunction or interference in the tender leads to additional cost on the State and is also against public interest. Any contract of public service should not be interfered with lightly and in any case, there should not be any interim order derailing the entire process of the services meant for the larger public good."

7. In the present case, we are unable to assist the petitioner as we do not find any malafide intention by the authorities. Further more, the interpretation being taken by the respondent authorities appears to be a reasonable one, and therefore, this Court would not replace the said interpretation with its own opinion.

8. In view of above, we do not find any reason to interfere in the orders passed by the Authorities.

9. The writ petition is dismissed.

A. Service Law – Jurisdiction - Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 - Section 10(1)(d) r/w 2(a) - Court or Tribunal would have the jurisdiction if the parties resided within its jurisdiction or if the subject matter of the dispute substantially arose within its jurisdiction. (Para 6)

The jurisdiction of a Tribunal would lie at the place where the cause of action had arisen and if a particular workman had been transferred to a particular place then the jurisdiction would be at the transferred place. (Para 8)

When the petitioner was transferred out from Agra to Bedar (Karnataka) on 5.9.2002 and when his services were terminated for his deeds at Bedar (Karnataka) then definitely, even if the termination order was served in Uttar Pradesh, no cause of action would arise in Uttar Pradesh. The territorial jurisdiction would lie with the Industrial Tribunal at Karnataka. In the instant case, the Court finds that the Tribunal had found that the termination had taken place in Karnataka and just because the order was served in Uttar Pradesh the jurisdiction would not lie with the Tribunal at Uttar Pradesh. So far as the argument raised by the petitioner that the Tribunal could not go behind the reference is concerned, suffice it to say that definitely a Tribunal had no power/authority/jurisdiction to go behind the reference but when the matter went to the root of the case i.e. whether the reference itself was not made by the appropriate government then the Tribunal could have very well looked into the question of jurisdiction. (Para 15)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Present petition order dated 19.11.2012, where the respondent no. 2 i.e. the Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal-IV, Agra, passed an order holding that it had no jurisdiction to decide the case as the termination had taken place in Bedar (Karnataka).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.)

1. The petitioner was appointed on the post of medical representative in the company known as M/s Tamilnadu Dada Pharmaceutical Limited. The service of the petitioner was confirmed on the post of Medical Representative on 28.10.1991 in the Agra region.

2. Thereafter, the company M/s Tamilnadu Dada Pharmaceutical Industries Limited was merged in the company known as M/s Sun Pharmaceutical Industries Limited and the petitioner became an employee of the company into which the employer company had merged i.e. he became an employee of M/s Sun Pharmaceutical Industries Limited.

3. On 5.9.2002, the petitioner was transferred to Bedar (Karnataka). On 16.11.2002, as luck would have it, the respondent no. 3 the Employer Company, terminated the services of the petitioner. Aggrieved thereafter, the petitioner raised an industrial dispute which was referred by the Government of Uttar Pradesh on 23.3.2006. The reference was to following effect:

"क्या सेवायोजकों द्वारा श्री विनोद कुमार सिंह, मेडिकल रिप्रेजेन्टेटिव की सेवायें दिनांक 16.11.2002 से समाप्त किया जाना उचित तथा/अथवा वैधानिक है? यदि नहीं, तो संबंधित श्रमिक क्या हितलाभ/उपशम पाने का अधिकारी है, एवं अन्य किन विवरणों सहित।"

4. The respondent no. 3 raised the question of jurisdiction with regard to the reference before the Tribunal at Uttar Pradesh and on 19.11.2012, the respondent no. 2 i.e. the Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal-IV, Agra, passed an order holding that it had no jurisdiction to decide the case as the termination had taken place in Bedar(Karnataka).

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner Ms. Bushra Maryam has submitted that the respondent no. 2, the Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal - IV, Agra, could not have gone behind the reference and for this purpose, learned counsel for the petitioner, has relied upon a judgement of the Supreme Court reported in 1999 LawSuit(SC) 1310 : National Engineering Industries Ltd. vs. State of Rajasthan and others. This citation can also be found in 2000 (1) SCC 371. In this judgement, she has specifically relied upon paragraphs no. 26 and 28 and, therefore they are being reproduced here as under:

"26. There can be many splinter groups each forming a separate trade union. Under Section 4 of the Trade Unions Act, 1926 any seven or more members of a trade union can get the trade union registered under that Act. If every trade union having few members is to go on raising a dispute and the State Government making reference again and again the very purpose of settlement is defeated. Once there is a representative union, which in the present case, is the Labour Union, it is difficult to see the role of the Workers' Union. If there are number of trade unions registered under the Trade Unions Act, 1926 not entitled to be registered as representative unions and they raise disputes, industrial peace would be a far cry. Under Section 2(0000)9 of the Rajasthan Act 'representative union' means a union for the time being registered as a representative union under the Rajasthan Act (Rajasthan Act XXXIV of 1950). Under Section 9-D1010 of the aforesaid Rajasthan Act any Union which has for the whole of the period of at least three months during the period of six months immediately preceding the calendar month in which it so applies under this section a membership of not less than fifteen per cent of the total number of workmen employed in unit of an industry may apply in the prescribed form to the Registrar for registration as a Representative Union. Then under Section 9-FI111 registration of a representative union can be cancelled on various grounds mentioned therein and one of such grounds is if, after holding such an inquiry, if any, as the Registrar deems fit he is satisfied that the registered union is being conducted not bona fide in the interest of the workmen but in the interest of the employers to the prejudice of the interest of the workmen. We have already quoted Section 9-E as to how a representative union is to be registered. Proviso to that Section makes it clear that if there are two or more unions fulfilling the criteria laid down in Section 9-D and apply for registration then the union having the largest membership of the employees has to be registered. As to what is representative union is not defined in the Act but in common parlance it would mean that it represents all the workers. It is not the case of the Workers' Union that registration of the Labour Union is liable to be cancelled on any ground whatsoever. Notice given by Workers' Union under sub-section (2) of Section 19 of the Act is obviously invalid as it did not represent majority of the persons bound by the settlement nor it is a representative union. In this view of the matter it is not necessary for us to consider what were the demands raised by the Workers' Union in its character which were not covered by the tripartite settlement.

9. 2(0000) 'Representative Union' means a Union for the time being registered as a representative Union under the Act.

10. 9-D. Application for registration- Any Union which has for the whole of the period of at least three months during the period of six months immediately preceding the calendar month in which it so applies under this section a membership of not less than fifteen per cent of the total number of workmen employed in unit of an industry may apply in the prescribed form to the Registrar of registration as Representative Union.

11. "9-F. Cancellation of registration- The Registrar shall cancel the registration of a Union-

(a) if, after holding such an inquiry, if any, as he deems fit he is satisfied-

(i)....

(ii)....

(iii) that the registered Union is being conducted not bona fide in the interests of the workmen but in the interest of employers to the prejudice of the interests of workmen; or (iv)....

(b) If its registration under the Indian Trade Unions Act, 1926 (Central Act XVI of 1926) is cancelled.

28. Industrial Tribunal is the creation statute and it gets jurisdiction on the basis of reference. It cannot go into the question on validity of the reference. Question before the High Court was one of jurisdiction which it failed to consider. A tripartite settlement has been arrived at among the management, Labour Union and the Staff Union. When such a settlement is arrived at it is a package deal. In such a deal some demands may be left out. It is not that demands, which are left out, should be specifically mentioned in the settlement. It is not the contention of Workers' Union that tripartite settlement is in any way mala fide. lt has been contended by the Workers' Union that the settlement was not arrived at during the conciliation proceedings under Section 12 of the Act and as such not binding on the members of the Workers' Union. This contention is without any basis as the recitals to the tripartite settlement clearly show that the settlement was arrived at during the conciliation proceedings.

6. Further, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a judgement of the Supreme Court reported in 1962 (4) FLR 444 which was a dispute between Indian Cable Co. Ltd and Its workmen. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon this judgement and submitted that a Court or Tribunal would have the jurisdiction if the parties resided within its jurisdiction or if the subject matter of the dispute substantially arose within its jurisdiction.

7. Still further, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a judgement passed in Lalbhai Tricumlal Mills Ltd. vs. Dhunubhai Motilal Vin and Ors. reported in AIR 1955 Bom 463 and has specifically relied upon the judgement for the proposition as to what would be the jurisdiction of a Labour Court.

8. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3, in reply, has submitted that the jurisdiction of a Tribunal would lie at the place where the cause of action had arisen and if a particular workman had been transferred to a particular place then the jurisdiction would be at the transferred place. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a judgement dated 5.8.2008 passed in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 7530 of 1996 (Ratnesh Mishra vs. Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal (I), Allahabad and others) and has submitted that the law was settled with regard to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal and that the jurisdiction would lie at the place where the cause of action had arisen i.e. the place where the person had been transferred and was working.

9. Learned counsel for the respondent has also relied upon a judgement of this High Court dated 5.2.1971 passed in Civil Misc. Writ No. 8341 of 1971 (General Manager, North-eastern Railway, Gorakhpur and others vs. Jamait Ram Khatnani and others) and has submitted that the jurisdiction would be in the Tribunal which has jurisdiction over the territorial area in which the workman was working. Similar is the law which has been laid down in a judgement of another learned Single Judge dated 3.9.2014 passed in Writ - C No. 453331 of 2008 (Salora International Ltd. vs. Prescribed Authority (Payment of Wages Act) and others.

10. Still further, learned counsel for the respondents relied upon a judgement reported in 1979 (3) SCC 792 : (Pottery Mazdoor Panchayat vs. Perfect Pottery Co. Ltd. And another) and in this judgement, he relied upon specifically paragraphs no. 11 and 16 which are being reproduced here as under:-

"11. Having heard a closely thought out argument made by Mr Gupta on behalf of the appellant, we are of the opinion that the High Court is right in its view on the first question. The very terms of the references show that the point of dispute between the parties was not the fact of the closure of its business by the respondent but the propriety and justification of the respondent's decision to close down the business. That is why the references were expressed to say whether the proposed closure of the business was proper and justified. In other words, by the references, the Tribunals were not called upon by the Government to adjudicate upon the question as to whether there was in fact a closure of business or whether under the pretence of closing the business the workers were locked out by the management. The references being limited to the narrow question as to whether the closure was proper and justified, the Tribunals by the very terms of the references, had no jurisdiction to go behind the fact of closure and inquire into the question whether the business was in fact closed down by the management.

16. We are, therefore, of the view that the High Court was right in coming to the conclusion that the two Tribunals had no jurisdiction to go behind the references and inquire into the question whether the closure of business, which was in fact effected, was decided upon for reasons which were proper and justifiable. The propriety of or justification for the closure of a business, in fact and truly effected, cannot raise an industrial dispute as contemplated by the State and Central Acts.

11. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 has relied upon 1962 FLR 444 : Indian Cable Co. Ltd vs. Its workmen, which has also been relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner, and has submitted that a Court or Tribunal would have the jurisdiction if the parties reside within the jurisdiction or if the subject matter of the dispute substantially arose within its jurisdiction.

12. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 has also relied upon a judgement of the Full Bench of the Patna High Court in Paritosh Kumar Pal v. State of Bihar and Ors. reported in 1984 Lab. IC 1254 (FB) in which he specifically relied upon paragraphs no. 24, 25, 26 and 30 and has submitted that wherever the cause of action would arise the jurisdiction would lie.

13. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 stated that if a Company had business all over the country then also the cause of action to a particular jurisdiction would arise only if the cause of action arose within its territorial jurisdiction and the reference in a case under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, could be made under Section 10(1)(d) read with 2(a) by the Government which was the proper Government under the statute.

14. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 has also submitted that no cause of action could arise to a person if the order by which he was aggrieved was served at the place where he was residing after termination of his services. For this purpose, learned counsel for the respondent relied upon 2005 (1) UPLBEC 118 : Ravindra Kumar vs. District Magistrate, Agra and others.

15. Having heard Ms. Bushra Maryam, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri H.N. Singh, Senior Counsel, assisted by Ms. Seema Agrawal, learned counsel for the respondent no. 3, this Court is of the view that when the petitioner was transferred out from Agra to Bedar(Karnataka) on 5.9.2002 and when his services were terminated for his deeds at Bedar (Karnataka) then definitely, even if the termination order was served in Uttar Pradesh, no cause of action would arise in Uttar Pradesh. The territorial jurisdiction would lie with the Industrial Tribunal at Karnataka. In the instant case, the Court finds that the Tribunal had found that the termination had taken place in Karnataka and just because the order was served in Uttar Pradesh the jurisdiction would not lie with the Tribunal at Uttar Pradesh. So far as the argument raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the Tribunal could not go behind the reference is concerned, suffice it to say that definitely a Tribunal had no power/authority/ jurisdiction to go behind the reference but when the matter went to the root of the case i.e. whether the reference itself was not made by the appropriate government then the Tribunal could have very well looked into the question of jurisdiction.

16. Under such circumstances, the writ petition being devoid of merit is being dismissed. No interference is warranted in the order dated 19.11.2012 passed by the respondent no. 2, the Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal – IV, Agra.

17. The writ petition is, accordingly, dismissed.

THE HON'BLE ALOK MATHUR, J.

Writ - C No. 24199 of 2020

M/S Mishra Automobiles ...Petitioner
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Akhilesh Kumar Kalra, Shreya Chaudhary

Counsel for the Respondent:
A.S.G., Manish Jauhari

A. Marketing and Dealership Law – Weights and Measures – Cancellation of license - Marketing Dealership Guideline, 2012: Clause 5.1.4 - Mere presence of foreign elements does not ipso facto show intention unless there is evidence to show that the foreign components are capable of or in fact affecting the fair dispensation of fuel.

Provision 5.1.4 of MDG Guidelines is substantially penal in nature and its essential ingredients, prima facie, consist of:

1. The finding of the foreign objects in the dispensing unit, which is only a ground for inquiry and inspection.
2. Intention of manipulating the delivery.

In the present case, there is no evidence w.r.t. the second necessary ingredient, which is 'intention of manipulating the delivery' and also the inquiry fell short of returning any finding as to show any such manipulation. Therefore, the petitioner cannot be said to have violated 5.1.4. of the MDG Guidelines. (Para 17)

Firstly, it is not the case of the respondent Oil Company that there was any shortfall of the delivery, coupled with the fact that even the OEM has never reported, the result of the foreign body attached to the pulsar card and secondly, the benefit of doubt of the seal being intact during the time of inspection has to be given to the petitioner as the foreign component cannot be inserted without breaking the seal of the dispensing unit. Therefore, reading the inspection report dated 05.05.2017 wherein, it has clearly been found that the delivery was found to be correct, coupled with the fact that the seals were broken in the presence of the inspecting team leads to have irrebuttable conclusion that the seals were intact and there was no short supply of the fuel and consequently, in the aforesaid circumstances, it cannot be concluded that there was intention to manipulate the delivery, and hence any violation of Clause 5.4.1. of the MDG Guidelines. (Para 18)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Present petition assails the order of the Dispute Resolution Panel dated 10.02.2020 as well as order of cancellation dated 21.06.2017.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Aadya Antya, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Manish Jauhari, learned counsel on behalf of respondents no.3 to 5.

2. The petitioner is an authorized dealer of the Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. since 1990 and has been operating a retail outlet. He is licensed dealer of Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. and selling Petroleum products from the retail outlet at Sector - G, Aliganj, Lucknow. It has further been stated that the retail outlet has four dispensing units, two of which have been installed by Gilbarco and Tatsno and the third Dispensing Unit has been installed by M/s Midco and fourth unit has been installed by L&T Company. It has been submitted by counsel for the petitioner that on 29.04.2017 around 7:00 PM, an inspection team had inspected the applicant's retail outlet after taking permission from Weights & Measures Department and the delivery of petrol was found to be proper and further inspection was carried out after breaking the seal installed by the Weights & Measures Department and two pulsar cards were removed from the dispensing units and were taken by the inspecting team and sent to the Original Equipment Manufacturer (hereinafter referred to as "OEM") for seeking the report. It is stated that the OEM, namely, M/s Midco submitted the report on 11.05.2017, which is as under: :-

(1) Foreign components were found on the pulsar cards. These foreign components do not belong to Midco standard components.

(2) Three points (JP1, JP2 and JP3) in the pulsar cards PCBs are shortened by using additional wire.

3. On receiving the said information that the pulsar cards had foreign components, the matter was duly considered by the respondents Oil Company and the petitioner was subjected to a show cause notice on 20.05.2017. A copy of the report submitted by M/s Midco was annexed along with the show cause notice. Apart from the said report, the respondent Oil Company had also sought a clarification from OEM as to whether mere finding of foreign components of the pulsar card would tantamount to manipulation in the delivery. It is only in response to the query of the respondent Oil company that on 15.05.2017 the OEM stated that "any tampering/additional fitting in pulsar will tantamount to manipulation of delivery.

4. The petitioner duly replied to the show cause notice denying the allegations made against him and stated that the delivery of petrol dispensed from the retail outlet were checked during the inspection and was found to be correct and no irregularities or tampering were found in the dispensing unit. It was further stated that the dispensing unit which was inspected had seal intact and accordingly submitted that there was no evidence of tampering of the dispensing unit by the licensee and also that the quantity of petrol dispensed from units was also not short which finding is also mentioned in the inspection report, accordingly, denied the said allegations.

5. Considering the response of the petitioner, by means of order dated 21.06.2017, the Chief Divisional Retails Sales Manager, Lucknow Division Office rejected the response of the petitioner and cancelled his retail license.

6. It was stated that as per report of the OEM, Foreign component was found in the pulsar cards and the additional fittings tantamount to manipulation of delivery and consequently, order for cancellation was passed. The petitioner being aggrieved by the order of cancellation dated 21.06.2017, had preferred an appeal before the Dispute Resolution Panel which also did not find favour and dismissed the appeal of the petitioner.

7. The present writ petition has been preferred by the petitioner assailing the order of the Dispute Resolution Panel dated 10.02.2020 as well as the order of cancellation dated 21.06.2017.

8. Counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the impugned orders passed by the respondents are illegal and arbitrary inasmuch as the petrol outlet of the petitioner is running since 1990 without any complaint. He has further submitted that on the date of the inspection, the seals of the dispensing units were found to be intact and the dispensing units had been dispensing the exact quantity of the petroleum products, but merely because the pulsar cards which were attached inside the dispensing unit were reported to have certain foreign objects attached to it and consequently, merely on account of the report of the OEM, it has been held that the petitioner has violated Clause 5.1.4 of the Marketing Dealership Guideline, 2012 (hereinafter referred to as "MDG") and merely on the basis of said assumption the license of the petitioner has been cancelled. He had submitted that there was no material available with the respondents to have come to a conclusion that there was firstly tampering with the dispensing unit by the petitioner nor is there any evidence of short supply of the diesel or petrol from the dispensing units and consequently, the proceedings initiated by the respondents as well as subsequent cancellation and rejection of his appeal are illegal and arbitrary and without any application of mind and consequently, deserves interference by this Court in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

9. Counsel for the respondent, on the other hand, has vehemently opposed the writ petition. He has not disputed the facts of the case but submits that merely because the report of the OEM indicates that foreign body was found in the pulsar cards is sufficient in itself to invite proceedings for cancellation of the retail license of the petitioner in exercise of power under Clause 5.1.4 of the MDG. He further submits that due opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner inasmuch as all the offending materials as well as opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner prior to cancellation and also that he had exercised his right of filing an appeal where all the contentions raised by the petitioner was duly considered and consequently, submits that there is no reason for this Court to interfere in the present case where the licensee has been found to have manipulated the pulsar cards which in ordinary course of nature would tantamount to interfering with the supply of the dispensing unit.

10. I have heard the counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. The facts as narrated above are not in dispute inasmuch as the dispensing unit of the petitioner were duly inspected by the joint team, including officials of the respondent Oil Company on 29.04.2017. It is not in dispute that the seals affixed by the Weights & Measures Department were found to be intact and also that according to the petitioner, the supply from the dispensing unit was also found to be normal. The pulsar cards were subsequently sent to the OEM for the report inasmuch as the pulsar cards are installed by the OEM and second hand pulsar cards are installed in the machines, which have been removed from early dispensing units installed in other retail outlets. They are rectified and all the rectifications and soldering marks on the pulsar cards are supposed to be duly monitored and profiled by OEM and the photographs are kept by them. Whenever subsequently, a pulsar card is sent for inspection, they compare the last photograph taken from the pulsar card from which they determine as to whether any fresh soldering marks or any foreign component has been attached to the pulsar cards. The Oil Company on its behalf relies totally on the report of the OEM to determine whether there has been manipulation in the pulsar cards and also that whether such a manipulation would result in short supply of the oil.

12. In the present case, the OEM submitted the report on 11.05.2017 and only stated that the foreign component was found in the pulsar cards and these foreign components do not belong to the OEM. There was no findings return as to the nature of the foreign components or as to whether the foreign components could have resulted in short supply of the petroleum products. It is in these circumstances, it seems that the respondent Oil Company itself was not satisfied with the OEM report and sought a clarification especially in this regard as to whether the foreign components attached to the pulsar cards would result in short supply of petroleum products dispensed from the said unit and whether the said manipulation could result in short delivery. It is on seeking of the said clarifications, the OEM had reported that any tampering / additional fitting in the pulsar cards will tantamount to manipulation of delivery.

13. From the aforesaid, it is clear that the OEM had merely reported the finding of a foreign object on the pulsar cards. Even in the previous report dated 11.05.2017 their finding was limited only to the findings of foreign component in the pulsar card and even when subsequent clarification was sought by the respondent Oil Company, they merely stated that such an additional component would tantamount to manipulation of delivery. To consider as to whether the findings of the OEM, as stated above, would amount to violation of Clause 5.1.4 of the MDG Guidelines, it is necessary to quote the said rule itself which reads as under:

"5.1.4 ADDITIONAL / UNAUTHORIZED FITTINGS / GEARS FOUND IN DISPENSING UNITS / TAMPERING WITH DISPENSING UNIT

Any mechanism / fittings / gear found fitted in the dispensing unit with the intention of manipulating the delivery.

Removal, replacement / manipulation of any part of the Dispensing Unit including microprocessor chip / electronic parts / OEM software will be deemed as tampering of the dispensing unit.

In case of this irregularity sales from the concerned dispensing unit to be suspended, DU sealed. Samples to be drawn of all the products and send to lab for testing."

14. From the aforesaid provision, it is clear that when any mechanisms, fitting, gear found fitted in dispensing unit with the intention of manipulation of delivery would amount to invite proceedings under the said sections and lead to cancellation of the license. Therefore, from a bare reading of Clause 5.1.4 of the MDG Guidelines, it is clear that any mechanism or fitting in the dispensing unit should result in manipulation of delivery or such additional fitting should at least the capable of manipulating the delivery. There is no dispute with regard to the fact that the foreign component was in fact found on the pulsar cards but the dispute in the present case is only with regard to the fact that as to whether discovery of a foreign component on the pulsar card would automatically lead to the conclusion that same has been installed with an intention of manipulation of delivery. In the present case, the peculiar facts are that seals of the dispensing units were intact at the time inspection. The foreign component found in the pulsar card has been reported by the OEM. Thee is no clear finding that such foreign component would led to the short supply of diesel in its original report dated 11.05.2017 or in subsequent clarification issued on 17.05.2017.

15. To return a finding with regard to the intention of manipulating the delivery, the basic fact which has to be established that the installation of the foreign component had in fact led to manipulating the delivery meaning thereby that on installation of foreign component on the pulsar cards, the dispensing unit had dispensed lesser quantity of fuel than it was supposed to dispense.

16. We do not agree with the submission of the counsel for the respondent that mere finding of the foreign component of the pulsar cards is sufficient in itself to come to a conclusion that the same has been done with an intention to manipulate the delivery. In case there is manipulation in delivery meaning thereby short supply of the fuel dispensed from the dispensing unit is a question of fact and can not be assumed. Only when it is established that the dispensing unit had in fact dispensed lesser quantity of fuel, coupled with the fact that foreign component was found in the pulsar card, can a person be held responsible for violating provisions of 5.1.4 of the MDG Guidelines and consequential cancellation of his license can be done. Apart from finding a foreign component on the Pulsar Cards there should have been categorical finding with regard to the intention to manipulate the delivery.

17. On perusal of the relevant provision i.e. 5.1.4 of MDG Guidelines, it is found to be substantially penal in nature and its essential ingredients, prima facie, consist of:

(1) The finding of the foreign objects in the dispensing unit, which is only a ground for inquiry and inspection.

(2) Intention of manipulating the delivery.

Mere presence of foreign elements does not ipso facto show intention unless there is evidence to show that the foreign components are capable of or in fact affecting the fair dispensation of fuel.

In the present case, there is no evidence with regard to the second necessary ingredient, which is 'intention of manipulating the delivery' and also the inquiry fell short of returning any finding as to show any such manipulation. Therefore, the petitioner cannot be said to have violated 5.1.4 of the MDG Guidelines.

18. In the aforesaid circumstances, firstly, it is not the case of the respondent Oil Company that there was any shortfall of the delivery, coupled with the fact that even the OEM has never reported, the result of the foreign body attached to the pulsar card and secondly, the benefit of doubt of the seal being intact during the time of inspection has to be given to the petitioner as the foreign component cannot be inserted without breaking the seal of the dispensing unit. Counsel for the respondent also could not confirm as to whether the foreign component can be inserted on pulsar card without breaking the seals. Therefore, reading the inspection report dated 05.05.2017 wherein in paragraph 2, it has clearly been found that the delivery was found to be correct, coupled with the fact that in paragraph-5, it has been stated that seals were broken in presence of the inspecting team leads to have irrebuttable conclusion that the seals were intact and there was no short supply of the fuel and consequently, in the aforesaid circumstances, it cannot be concluded that there was intention to manipulate the delivery, and hence any violation of Clause 5.4.1. of the MDG Guidelines.

19. In light of the above, this Court impugned orders of cancellation as well as the appeal are arbitrary and accordingly set aside. The writ petition stands allowed.

20. Consequences to follow.

Writ - C No. 25324 of 2023

C/M, Shri Shanker Inter College, Mathura & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Rahul Sahai, Sri Saumitra Anand

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Namit Srivastava, Ms. Parul Srivastava, Sri Prabhakar Awasthi

A. Societies Law – Societies Registration Act, 1860 - Section 4-B, 25(2) - An Authorized Controller not appointed u/Clause 7, but otherwise, will not be empowered to hold the elections and any elections held by such an Authorized Controller would be in violation of the Scheme of Administration.

Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration (Scheme) of the Institution provides that elections for constituting the Committee of Management (Committee) of the Institution and to elect its office bearers are to be held one month before the term of the existing Committee expires and in case elections are not held within the prescribed time the Regional Joint Director of Education (Regional J.D.), on the recommendations of the D.I.O.S., may appoint an Authorized Controller who shall expeditiously hold the elections to constitute the Committee and to elect its office bearers. (Para 22)

In the present case, the Authorized Controller was not appointed u/Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration. The appointment was not on the recommendations of the D.I.O.S. or for the reason that the elections of the Committee of Management and its office bearers had not been held within the time prescribed in the Scheme of Administration. The appointment of the Authorized Controller was a consequence of the interim order dated 07.08.2006 passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006. The appointment was only an interim arrangement which came to an end when Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 was dismissed by this Court vide its order dated 08.05.2012, albeit on the ground that the petition had become infructuous. The appointment of an Authorized Controller as a consequence of an interim order passed by this Court would not metamorphose into an appointment u/Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration and empower him to hold elections excluding the elected Committee of Management merely because the Authorized Controller continued to function even after Writ-

C No. 42354 of 2006 was dismissed vide order dated 8.5.2012. (Para 23)

B. The Committee of Management whose term has expired is not prohibited from holding elections to constitute a fresh Committee of Management if no Authorized Controller has been appointed u/clause 7 of the Scheme. (Para 24)

The Authorized Controller functioning in the Institution was not empowered to hold the elections, and the elections held by the petitioners on 02.01.2022 cannot be invalidated merely on the ground that the term of the Committee of Management which held the elections, had expired. (Para 25)

C. The elections of a Committee of Management of an Institution governed by Act, 1921 are not held by the Assistant Registrar u/s 25(2) of the Act, 1860 and any such elections would be contrary to the Scheme of Administration and illegal. The order of the Court cannot be read as suggesting an illegality. The order of the Court has to be interpreted and read as directing the Assistant Registrar to hold the elections of the governing body of the Society and not of the Committee of Management of the Institution. (Para 26)

D. Section 4-B(3) of the Act, 1860 requires that the list of members of the general body of the Society filed with the Registrar shall be signed by two office bearers and two executive members of the Society.

Section 4-B was incorporated in Act 1860 through the Societies Registration (Uttar Pradesh Amendment) Act, 2011. In view of Section 5(b) of the Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act, 1904 the Amendment Act came in operation on the date it was published in Official Gazette, i.e., on 09.10.2013. The list of 67 members claimed by petitioner No. 2 to be the valid list of members of the General Body of the Society and on which the elections dated 02.01.2022 were held was accepted by the Deputy D.M. vide his order dated 08.03.2013, i.e., before Section 4-B came in operation.

In view of Section 4-B(3), the list could have been filed for registration u/s 4-B after the elections were held. The elections to elect the governing body of the Society were held on 19.05.2019 u/s 25(2) of the Act, 1860 and the list of elected office bearers of the Society, which included the petitioner No. 2 as Manager, was registered on 06.01.2022. The list of 67 members of the General Body of the Society as certified by order dated 08.03.2013 of the Deputy D.M., could have been submitted before the concerned Registrar for registration u/s 4-B of the Act, 1860 after fulfilling the requirement of Section 4-B(3) and thus after 06.01.2022.

The elections to constitute the Committee of Management of the Institution and also to elect its office bearers were held on 02.01.2022. Further, u/s 4-B (1) and (2) of the Act, 1860 the list of members of the general body of the Society is to be filed with the Registrar either at the time of registration of the Society or at the time of renewal of the Society or when there is any change in the list of members on account of induction, removal, registration or death of any member, the modified list shall be filed with the Registrar within one month from the date of change. It is not the case of respondent No. 5 or the Regional Level Committee that the situation in the present case was covered either by Section 4-B(1) or Section 4-B(2) of the Act, 1860. Apparently, the elections cannot be rejected on the ground that the list of members on which the elections were held was not registered u/s 4-B of the Act, 1860. (Para 28)

The list of 67 members of the General Body of the Society as produced by the petitioner was accepted by the Deputy D.M. vide his order dated 08.03.2013. It is also evident from the letter dated 19.08.2013 that an attested copy of the list of 67 members of the General Body of the Society was sent by the Deputy D. M. to the Deputy Registrar. It was on the basis of the said list that elections of the governing body of the Society were held and the said elections were recognized by the Registrar and the list of elected office bearers was registered vide order dated 06.01.2022.

E. The Regional Level Committee could not have rejected the claim of the petitioner on the ground that the said list was not available in the office of the Registrar and had not been supplied to the Regional Level Committee.

In case the said list is not on record and not at present either in the office of the Deputy D.M. or in the office of the Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, the contents of the said list can be decided only on evidence to be led by the interested parties in any litigation instituted for the said purpose before the appropriate court of fact. The fact that the list was accepted by the Deputy D.M. vide his order dated 08.03.2013 cannot be denied. (Para 29)

F. While deciding any dispute regarding elections of the Committee of Management, the Regional Level Committee only, prima facie, decides the validity of the elections. While exercising its power u/s 16-A(7), the Regional Level Committee only enquires as to whether the parties claiming elections of the Committee of Management or its office bearers are not rank trespassers trying to take over the Committee of Management. The Regional Level Committee does not decide the validity of the elections as a court. The order of the Regional Level Committee is not final and is subject to orders passed by a court.

In the present case, the petitioners claim to have been elected in the elections dated 09.04.2003, which was accepted by the then education authorities. The General Body of the Society elects the Committee of Management of the Institution. The elections of the governing body of the Society by the same General Body which participated in the elections dated 02.01.2022 has been acknowledged and recognized by the Deputy Registrar vide his order dated 06.01.2022. The writ petition challenging the order dated 06.01.2022 passed by the Deputy Registrar is still pending and no interim orders have been passed in the said writ petition. The claim of the petitioners regarding the elections dated 02.01.2022 was, prima facie, established and could not have been rejected by the Regional Level Committee. (Para 30)

The order dated 03.06.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee rejecting the elections dated 02.01.2022 set up by the petitioner is contrary to law. The D.I.O.S. is directed to ensure that petitioner No. 2 as Manager of the Committee of Management of the Institution is handed over the charge of the Institution within 15 from today. (Para 31, 34)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Present petition challenges the order dated 03.06.2023, passed by the Regional Level Committee and the consequential order dated 17.06.2023, passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Salil Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Shri Saumitra Anand, Advocate, representing the petitioners, Standing Counsel representing respondent Nos. 1 to 4 and Shri Prabhakar Awasthi, Advocate, representing respondent No. 5 were heard on 13.3.2024 when the judgement in the case was reserved.

2. Shri Shanker Vidyalaya Shiksha Samiti, Palso, District-Mathura (hereinafter referred to as, 'Society') is a Society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1860') and runs Shri Shanker Inter College, Palso, Mathura (hereinafter referred to as, 'Institution'), which is a recognized Institution as defined under the Uttar Pradesh Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1921') and is governed by the Act and Regulations made thereunder. The Institution is also within the grant-in-aid list of the State Government and is also governed by The Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1971').

3. A joint reading of the bye-laws of the Society and the Scheme of Administration of the Institution shows that the Committee of Management of the Institution is elected by the members of the general body of the Society from amongst themselves. The office bearers of the Committee of Management of the Institution are elected by the elected members of the Committee of Management from amongst themselves. The term of the Committee of Management is five years and Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration provides that the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution and its office bearers are to be held one month before the term of the existing Committee of Management expires. The Scheme of Administration further provides that in case the elections of the Committee of Management and its office bearers are not held within the time prescribed, the Regional Joint Director of Education may, on the recommendations of the District Inspector of Schools (hereinafter referred to as, 'D.I.O.S.'), appoint an Authorized Controller in the Institution and the Authorized Controller shall, as soon as possible, hold the elections of the Committee of Management. Clause 22 of the Scheme of Administration, under the heading Emergency Provisions, empowers the State Government to appoint, on the recommendations of either the Society or the Director of Secondary Education, an Administrator in the Institution and on the appointment of such Administrator, the Committee of Management of the Institution shall stand suspended. Clause 22 further provides that the Administrator can dissolve the Committee of Management of the Institution and remove its office bearers. Clause 22 (7) and (8) provide that the State Government can any time remove the Administrator appointed by it or appoint another Administrator and in case the Administrator is removed or his term expires and no successor to such Administrator is appointed, the Committee of Management shall stand restored.

4. The dispute in the present petition relates to the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution and the genesis of the dispute is in the rival elections set up in 2003.

5. At this stage, it would be relevant to note that the dispute between the petitioner No. 2 and respondent No. 5 is also regarding the valid list of members of the general body of the Society. The petitioner No. 2 claims that the list of 67 members of the general body submitted by him before the relevant authority is the valid list while the respondent No. 5 claims that the list submitted by him containing 126 members is the valid list of members of the general body. The different lists submitted by the parties do not contain the name of the other party, i.e., the list submitted by respondent No. 5 does not contain the name of petitioner No. 2 and the list submitted by petitioner No. 2 does not contain the name of respondent No. 5. In other words, the petitioner denies that respondent No. 5 is a member of the general body of the Society and similarly the respondent No. 5 also denies that petitioner No. 2 is a member of the general body of the Society.

6. In 2003 two rival claims were set up by the petitioner and respondent No. 5 claiming themselves to be the validly elected Manager of the Committee of Management of the Institution. Respondent No. 5 claimed that the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution and its office bearers were held on 3.4.2003 in which he was elected as Manager while petitioner No. 2 claimed that the elections were held on 9.4.2003 in which petitioner No. 2 was elected as Manager. The respondent No. 5 and the petitioner submitted their claims before the D.I.O.S. for attestation of their signatures as Manager. As rival claims were set up, the dispute was referred to the Regional Level Committee which, vide its order dated 26.8.2003, recognized the elections dated 9.4.2023 set up by petitioner No. 2 and consequently the D.I.O.S. vide his order dated 30.8.2023 attested the signatures of petitioner No. 2 as the Manager. The orders dated 26.8.2003 and 30.8.2003 were challenged by respondent No. 5 through Writ Petition No. 44781 of 2003, which was allowed by this Court vide its order dated 8.11.2005. By its order dated 8.11.2005, the Court remanded back the matter to the Regional Level Committee for a fresh decision on merits and also directed that till any decision is taken by the Regional Level Committee, status quo with regard to the management of the Institution as existing on the date of the order shall continue. The Regional Level Committee reconsidered the matter and vide its order dated 30.5.2006 again accepted the claim of the petitioner. The order dated 30.5.2006 passed by the Regional Level Committee was again challenged by the respondent No. 5 through Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006. In Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006, this Court vide its order dated 7.8.2006 stayed the operation of the order dated 30.5.2006 passed by the Regional Level Committee and further directed that a person appointed by the Regional Joint Director of Education, Agra shall manage the affairs of the Institution.

7. Meanwhile, elections to elect the governing body of the Society and its office bearers was also held and the petitioner No. 2 was elected as the Secretary/Manager of the governing body of the Society. The Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, District-Mathura vide his order dated 25.4.2006 registered the list of elected office bearers of the Society. The order dated 25.4.2006 was challenged by respondent No. 5 through Writ-C No. 24940 of 2006. Writ-C No. 24940 of 2006 was dismissed by this Court vide order dated 5.5.2006 on ground of availability of alternative remedy of filing a civil suit. Consequently, Original Suit No. 781 of 2006 was instituted by respondent No. 5 for a decree declaring the order dated 25.4.2006 to be null and void and also for a decree declaring that the list of 67 members claimed by petitioner No. 2 to be the valid list of members of the general body of the Society was not a valid list of members.

8. In 2012, Writ-C No. 21161 of 2012 was filed in this Court seeking a writ of mandamus commanding the authorities to hold the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution. With the consent of the counsel for the parties the petition was disposed of by order dated 8.5.2012. In its order dated 8.5.2012, the Court directed that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of the area where the Institution was situated shall determine the electoral college on the parameters of Section 15 of the Act, 1860 and thereafter in exercise of authority vested under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860 the Assistant Registrar shall hold the elections of the Committee of Management within next two months and thereafter the Committee of Management so elected shall be handed over charge. On the same date, vide its order dated 8.5.2012, this Court dismissed Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 as infructuous on the ground that the tenure of the Committee of Management of the Institution had come to an end. Relevant extracts from the order dated 8.5.2012 passed in Writ-C No. 21161 of 2012 and Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 are reproduced below :-

"Parties to the dispute have agreed that in order to settle the dispute, no reliance would be placed on the order of the Assistant Registrar passed on earlier occasion, and both the parties to the dispute have requested that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of the area concerned, wherein the institution in question is situated be asked to hold the elections of the Committee of Management. The parties have also agreed that writ petition No.42354 of 2006 be decided together, by dismissing the same as having rendered infructuous, as tenure of the Committee of Management, dispute of which is involved therein, has run out, and membership issue is to be decided afresh without being influenced by earlier proceedings.

Consequently, writ petition No.42354 of 2006 is dismissed as infructuous by a separate order of the date, and writ petition 21161 of 2012 is disposed of with direction that Sub-Divisional Magistrate of the area concerned where institution in question is situated, shall determine the electoral college on the parameters of Section 15 of the Societies Registration Act, 1860 and thereafter on the strength of electoral college so determined in exercise of authority vested under Section 25 (2) of the said Act elections of the Committee of Management shall be held by the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, within next two months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order, and thereafter the Committee of Management so elected shall be handed over charge."

Order date :- 8.5.2012"

Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006

"Present writ petition has been filed by Jagdish Prasad Jain, claiming himself Manager of Sri Shankar Inter College, Palson, Mathura, questioning the validity of decision dated 30.05.2006, wherein Regional Committee had proceeded to accord approval to the elections dated 09.03.2003 and refused to accord approval to the elections dated 03.04.2003. On presentation of writ petition, an interim order had been passed, and at present, this is accepted position that tenure of the said Committee of Management has come to an end, rendering the present writ petition as infructuous.

Consequently, present writ petition is dismissed as infructuous.

Order date :- 8.5.2012".

9. In compliance of the order dated 8.5.2012 passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 21161 of 2012, the Deputy District Magistrate passed an order dated 8.3.2013 determining the electoral college of the Society in which he accepted the list of 67 members submitted by the petitioner and rejected the list of 126 members submitted by respondent No. 5. The order dated 8.3.2013 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate was challenged by respondent No. 5 through Writ-C No. 23300 of 2013 which was dismissed by this Court vide its order dated 26.4.2013. In its order dated 26.4.2013 this Court noted that respondent No. 5 had already instituted Original Suit No. 781 of 2008 challenging the order dated 25.4.2006 passed by the concerned Registrar recognizing the elections of the petitioner as the Manager of the governing body of the Society and, therefore, the respondent had the remedy to also challenge in the pending suit the determination of the electoral college by the Deputy District Magistrate. The relevant extract of the order dated 26.4.2013 passed by this Court dismissing Writ-C No. 23300 of 2013 is reproduced below :-

"From paragraphs 15 and 16 of the present writ petition it is apparently clear that the petitioner has already filed Civil Suit No. 781 of 2008 in terms of the order passed by the High Court dated 05.05.2006 in Writ Petition No. 24940 of 2006, wherein the issue of membership and right of Devendra Singh to be a member of the society are under consideration.

Under the order impugned the Prescribed Authority has determined the electoral college for the purposes of holding the elections of the society as well as of the Committee of Management of the institution. Petitioners are not satisfied.

In my opinion the petitioners are at liberty to seek such further relief in the pending suit against the determination of the electoral college, as may be necessary.

It goes without saying that the order passed under the Societies Registration Act be it by the Assistant Registrar or the Prescribed Authority, are always subject to the orders to be passed in the civil suit. If the petitioner makes appropriate application it shall be considered at the earliest possible by the Civil Court.

Writ petition is dismissed with the observations made."

10. Consequently, the respondent No. 5 amended his plaint instituting Original Suit No. 781 of 2008 seeking further relief to declare that the order dated 8.3.2013 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate, Mathura was null and void and further the list of 67 members submitted by petitioner No. 2 and accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate in his order dated 8.3.2013 was not a valid list of the members of the general body of the Society. It has been stated in the writ petition, and the said fact has not been denied in the counter affidavit, that Original Suit No. 781 of 2008 was dismissed by the trial court for want of prosecution vide order dated 7.9.2021 and no restoration application has been filed for recalling the order dated 7.9.2021 and for restoring the suit to its original number.

11. In the meantime, as a consequence of the order dated 8.3.2013 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate, proceedings to elect the governing body of the Society were started. A letter dated 19.8.2013 was sent by the Deputy District Magistrate, Mathura to Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Agra annexing the attested photo copy of the list of members. On the receipt of the said list the Deputy Registrar passed an order dated 28.1.2019 for holding the elections under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860. The order dated 28.1.2019 was again challenged by respondent No. 5 in this Court through Writ-C No. 14869 of 2019 in which this Court vide its order dated 29.4.2019 has sought information as to whether any list of members finalized under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 was available with the Registrar of the Societies. Writ-C No. 14869 of 2019 is still pending before this Court.

12. It has been stated in the writ petition that the elections to elect the governing body of the Society and its office bearers were held under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860 on 19.5.2019 in which the petitioner No. 2 was elected as Manager/Secretary of the governing body of the Society. The list of elected office bearers of the Society submitted by petitioner No. 2 as a consequence of the elections held on 19.5.2019 has been registered by the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, District-Agra vide his order dated 6.1.2022 and a certificate dated 25.11.2021 has been issued at the instance of petitioner No. 2 renewing the registration of the Society for a period of five years w.e.f. 13.7.2020. It has been stated in the writ petition that the order dated 6.1.2022 passed by the Deputy Registrar has been challenged in this Court through Writ-C No. 14288 of 2022 by an individual claiming himself to be a life member of the governing body of the Society and the said writ petition is pending in this Court, but no interim order has been passed in the same.

13. In the meantime, elections to constitute the Committee of Management of the Institution and also to elect its office bearers were also held by petitioner No. 2 on 2.1.2022 in which the petitioner No. 2 was elected as manager. The necessary documents regarding elections were submitted by petitioner No. 2 before the D.I.O.S, Mathura for getting his signatures attested as Manager. The D.I.O.S. vide his order dated 28.2.2022 attested the signatures of the petitioner as Manager of the Committee of Management subject to final decision in Writ-C No. 14869 of 2019.

14. Aggrieved by the order dated 28.2.2022 passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura, the respondent No. 5 filed a representation dated 27.4.2022 before the Regional Level Committee pleading that the elections held on 2.1.2022 as claimed by petitioner No. 2 were contrary to the orders dated 8.5.2012 passed in Writ-C No. 21161 of 2012 and in Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 and the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution could have been held only by the Authorized Controller who was appointed as a consequence of the interim order dated 7.8.2006 passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 and was managing the affairs of the Institution even after dismissal of the writ petition by this Court vide its order dated 8.5.2012. The representation filed by respondent No. 5 was not decided by the Regional Level Committee, therefore, the respondent No. 5 filed Writ-C No. 30199 of 2022 complaining against the delay by the Regional Level Committee in deciding his representation and this Court vide its order dated 31.10.2022 directed the Regional Level Committee, Agra Region, District-Agra to pass appropriate orders on the representation of respondent No. 5. It was clarified in the order dated 31.10.2022 that this Court had not expressed any opinion either regarding the jurisdiction of the Regional Level Committee to entertain the representation of the petitioner or regarding the merits of the claim made by the petitioner which had to be decided by the Regional Level Committee.

15. The Regional Level Committee by its order dated 3.6.2023 decided the representation of respondent No. 5 and set aside the order dated 28.2.2022 passed by the D.I.O.S. whereby the D.I.O.S had attested the signatures of petitioner No. 2. In its order dated 3.6.2023, the Regional Level Committee has derecognized the elections dated 2.1.2022 and has also rejected the claim of the petitioner on the basis of the aforesaid elections. In its order dated 3.6.2023, the Regional Level Committee has rejected the elections dated 2.1.2022 on the ground that the elections were contrary to law because they were held by a Committee of Management whose term had expired, and an Authorized Controller had been appointed and was functioning in the Institution and, also because the elections were not held in accordance with the order dated 8.5.2012 passed by this Court in Writ Petition No. 21161 of 2012. The Regional Level Committee has reasoned that in accordance with the order dated 8.5.2012, the elections were to be held by the Assistant Registrar. In its order dated 3.6.2013, the Regional Level Committee has also taken note of different correspondences by the Assistant Registrar which indicate that no list of members of the society has been registered under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 and that no list of 67 members of the Society was appended to the order dated 8.3.2023 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate.

16. Consequential order dated 17.6.2023 has been passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura directing that the Authorized Controller previously appointed in the Institution shall manage the affairs of the Institution.

17. The order dated 3.6.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee and the consequential order dated 17.6.2023 passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura have been challenged in the present writ petition.

18. A counter affidavit has been filed by respondent No. 5 to support his contention that the list of 67 members of the Society claimed by petitioner No. 2 to be the valid list was a not a valid list of members and the election held on the basis of the aforesaid list was not a valid election. In his counter affidavit, the respondent no. 5 has annexed different documents showing correspondences between State officers, especially between the Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, District-Agra and the Regional Joint Director of Education, Agra Region, District-Agra, and also a letter to the respondent by the Deputy Registrar which reveal that the original copy of the list of 67 members claimed by petitioner No. 2 and declared as valid list by the Deputy District Magistrate in his order dated 8.3.2013 was not available in the office of the Deputy Registrar and no such list had been registered under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860. The letter states that no certified copy of list of members of the general body of the Society was supplied to the office of the Deputy Registrar alongwith the order dated 8.3.2013 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate. On the basis of the aforesaid correspondences it has been pleaded in the counter affidavit that the claim of the petitioner regarding the elections dated 2.1.2022 was false and the elections allegedly electing the petitioner as Manager of the Committee of Management of the Institution were not held on the list of members certified or accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate in his order dated 8.3.2013.

19. Challenging the order dated 3.6.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee and the consequential order dated 17.6.2023 passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura, the counsel for the petitioner has argued that the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution and its office bearers can not be challenged by a sole member therefore the representation of respondent No. 5 was not maintainable. It was argued that for the aforesaid reason the order dated 3.6.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee is without jurisdiction. It was further argued that the appointment of Authorized Controller came to an end after the order dated 8.5.2012 passed by the Court dismissing Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 and consequently the Committee of Management of the Institution elected in 2003 and recognized by order dated 30.5.2006 stood revived and the said Committee was empowered to hold and conduct the elections and the Authorized Controller could not have held the elections. It was argued that the Regional Level Committee has erred in rejecting the elections on the ground that they were held by a Committee of Management whose term had expired. It was argued that challenge by respondent No. 5 to the order dated 8.3.2013 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate had been rejected by this Court and Original Suit No. 781 of 2008 challenging the order dated 8.3.2013 has also been dismissed for non-prosecution. It was argued that the order dated 8.3.2013 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate has not been stayed by any court and, therefore, the elections on the basis of the list accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate can not be set aside or rejected. It was argued that the list of members of the general body of the Society accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate vide his order dated 8.3.2013 was not required to be registered under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 and could not have been so registered as on the relevant date Section 4-B was not incorporated in the Act, 1860. It was argued that in its order dated 3.6.2023, the Regional Level Committee has misread the order dated 8.5.2012 passed in Writ Petition No. 21161 of 2012 while concluding that the elections set up by the petitioner was not held in accordance with the aforesaid order. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the order dated 3.6.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee rejecting the elections dated 2.1.2022 on the ground that the term of the Committee of Management of the Institution which held the elections had expired and elections were not held in accordance with the order dated 8.5.2012 passed in Writ-C No. 21161 of 2012 is contrary to law. It was argued that the order dated 3.6.2003 passed by the Regional Level Committee and the consequential order dated 17.6.2023 passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura are liable to be quashed. In support of his contention, the counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the following judgements of this Court :-

(A) Navin Kumar Singh Vs. D.I.O.S Budaun and Others 1997(1) AWC-76,

(B) Committee of Management, Shri Gandhi Inter College Vs. Deputy Director of Education, 1989 (87) ALJ-214,

20. Rebutting the argument of the counsel for the petitioner, the counsel for respondent No. 5 has supported the order dated 3.6.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee and the reasons given in the same. It was argued that no list of valid members of the general body of the Society has been registered by the concerned Registrar under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 and, therefore, the elections held on 2.1.2022 were illegal and have been rightly rejected by the Regional Level Committee. It was argued that an Authorized Controller was appointed in the Institution and was functioning as such on 2.1.2022 on which date there was no elected Committee of Management functioning or managing the affairs of the Institution. It was argued that, in accordance with Clause 7 of the Scheme of the Administration, the elections of the Committee of Management and its office bearers had to be held by the Authorized Controller. It was argued that the elections dated 2.1.2022 claimed by the petitioners were not held in accordance with the order dated 8.5.2012 passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 and for the aforesaid reasons, the order dated 3.6.2023, rejecting the elections set up by the petitioner, was according to law. It was further argued that the term of the Committee of Management allegedly elected on 9.4.2003 and initially recognized by the Regional Level Committee on 26.8.2003 had obviously expired by 2.1.2022 and, therefore, by virtue of Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration the said Committee of Management was not authorized to hold the elections and the elections had to be held by the Authorized Controller. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, there is no illegality in the order dated 3.6.2023 and the petition lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed. In support of his contention the counsel for the respondent has relied on the judgement of this Court delivered in Committee of Management, Gramin Vikas Inter College and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2011 (3) ESC 1859 (All).

21. I have considered the submissions of the counsel for the parties.

22. Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration of the Institution provides that elections for constituting the Committee of Management of the Institution and to elect its office bearers are to be held one month before the term of the existing Committee of Management expires and in case elections are not held within the prescribed time the Regional Joint Director of Education, on the recommendations of the D.I.O.S., may appoint an Authorized Controller who shall expeditiously hold the elections to constitute the Committee of Management and to elect its office bearers. Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration only enables the Regional Joint Director of Education to appoint, on the recommendations of the D.I.O.S., an Authorized Controller in the Institution. It is not obligatory for the D.I.O.S. to recommend to the Joint Director for appointment of an Authorized Controller and it is also not obligatory for the Joint Director to appoint an Authorized Controller if such a recommendation is made by the D.I.O.S. However, if an Authorized Controller is appointed under Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration, it is only he who would have the power to hold the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution and its office bearers. An Authorized Controller not appointed under Clause 7, but otherwise, will not be empowered to hold the elections and any elections held by such an Authorized Controller would be in violation of the Scheme of Administration.

23. In the present case, the Authorized Controller was not appointed under Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration. The appointment was not on the recommendations of the D.I.O.S. or for the reason that the elections of the Committee of Management and its office bearers had not been held within the time prescribed in the Scheme of Administration. The appointment of the Authorized Controller was a consequence of the interim order order dated 7.8.2006 passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006. The appointment was only an interim arrangement which came to an end when Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 was dismissed by this Court vide its order dated 8.5.2012, albeit on the ground that the petition had become infructuous. The appointment of an Authorized Controller as a consequence of an interim order passed by this Court would not metamorphose into an appointment under Clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration and empower him to hold elections excluding the elected Committee of Management merely because the Authorized Controller continued to function even after Writ-C No. 42354 of 2006 was dismissed vide order dated 8.5.2012.

24. An anomalous situation may develop if the proposition that the Committee of Management whose term had expired can not hold the elections to constitute a fresh Committee of Management and the elections can be held only by an Authorized Controller, is accepted. The State authorities may not appoint any Authorized Controller in the Institution, as it is not obligatory on them to appoint an Authorized Controller even after the term of the Committee of Management has expired, therefore, no elections to constitute a fresh Committee of Management will ever be held in the said Institution. For the said reason, the Committee of Management whose term has expired is not prohibited from holding elections to constitute a fresh Committee of Management if no Authorized Controller has been appointed under clause 7 of the Scheme of Administration.

25. In view of the aforesaid, the Authorized Controller functioning in the Institution was not empowered to hold the elections, and the elections held by the petitioners on 2.1.2022 can not be invalidated merely on the ground that the term of the Committee of Management which held the elections, had expired. For the said reasons, the opinion of the Regional Level Committee that the elections held on 2.1.2022 can not be recognized because they were held by a Committee of Management whose term had expired is contrary to law.

26. The opinion of the Regional Level Committee that the elections of the Committee of Management of the Institution had to be held by the Assistant Registrar in accordance with the orders of the Court is also not correct. A reading of the order dated 8.5.2012 passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 21161 of 2012 shows that it refers to Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860. The elections of a Committee of Management of an Institution governed by Act, 1921 are not held by the Assistant Registrar under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860 and any such elections would be contrary to the Scheme of Administration and illegal. The order of the Court can not be read as suggesting an illegality. The order of the Court has to be interpreted and read as directing the Assistant Registrar to hold the elections of the governing body of the Society and not of the Committee of Management of the Institution.

27. A reading of the order dated 3.6.2023 shows that the Regional Level Committee has rejected the elections dated 2.1.2022 also on the ground that the list of members of the general body of the Society which was also the electoral college for the elections dated 2.1.2022 had not been registered under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860. The said opinion is also not in accordance with law for reasons given subsequently.

28. Section 4-B(3) of the Act, 1860 requires that the list of members of the general body of the Society filed with the Registrar shall be signed by two office bearers and two executive members of the Society. Section 4-B was incorporated in Act 1860 through the Societies Registration (Uttar Pradesh Amendment) Act, 2011. The Amendment Act, 2011 does not itself specify the date from which it shall come in operation. The Amendment Act received the assent of the President on September 28, 2013 and was published in the Uttar Pradesh Gazette on 9th October, 2013. In view of Section 5(b) of the Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act, 1904 the Amendment Act came in operation on the date it was published in Official Gazette, i.e., on 9th October, 2013. The list of 67 members claimed by petitioner No. 2 to be the valid list of members of the General Body of the Society and on which the elections dated 2.1.2022 were held was accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate vide his order dated 8.3.2013, i.e., before Section 4-B came in operation. In view of Section 4-B(3), the list could have been filed for registration under Section 4-B after the elections were held. The elections to elect the governing body of the Society were held on 19.5.2019 under Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860 and the list of elected office bearers of the Society, which included the petitioner No. 2 as Manager, was registered on 6.1.2022. The list of 67 members of the General Body of the Society as certified by order dated 8.3.2013 of the Deputy District Magistrate, could have been submitted before the concerned Registrar for registration under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860 after fulfilling the requirement of Section 4-B(3) and thus after 6.1.2022. The elections to constitute the Committee of Management of the Institution and also to elect its office bearers were held on 2.1.2022. Further, under Section 4-B (1) and (2) of the Act, 1860 the list of members of the general body of the Society is to be filed with the Registar either at the time of registration of the Society or at the time of renewal of the Society or when there is any change in the list of members on account of induction, removal, registration or death of any member, the modified list shall be filed with the Registrar within one month from the date of change. It is not the case of respondent No. 5 or the Regional Level Committee that the situation in the present case was covered either by Section 4-B(1) or Section 4-B(2) of the Act, 1860. Apparently, the elections can not be rejected on the ground that the list of members on which the elections were held was not registered under Section 4-B of the Act, 1860.

29. The list of 67 members of the General Body of the Society as produced by the petitioner was accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate vide his order dated 8.3.2013. The fact that the list produced by petitioner No. 2 was accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate is also admitted by respondent No. 5 as would be evident from his conduct in instituting Writ-C No. 23300 of 2013 challenging the order dated 8.3.2013. The respondent No. 5 also amended his plaint in Original Suit No. 781 of 2006 praying for a declaration that the order dated 8.3.2013 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate was null and void and the list of 67 members of the General Body submitted by petitioner No. 2 and accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate was not a valid list of members of the General Body. It is also evident from the letter dated 19.8.2013 of the Deputy District Magistrate addressed to the Deputy Registrar that an attested copy of the list of 67 members of the General Body of the Society was sent by the Deputy District Magistrate to the Deputy Registrar. It was on the basis of the said list that elections of the governing body of the Society were held and the said elections were recognized by the Registrar and the list of elected office bearers was registered vide order dated 6.1.2022. The order dated 6.1.2022 has been challenged in Writ-C No. 14288 of 2022 which is still pending and no interim order has been passed in the said writ petition. In case the said list is not on record and not at present either in the office of the Deputy District Magistrate or in the office of the Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, the contents of the said list can be decided only on evidence to be led by the interested parties in any litigation instituted for the said purpose before the appropriate court of fact. The fact that the list was accepted by the Deputy District Magistrate vide his order dated 8.3.2013 can not be denied. The Regional Level Committee could not have rejected the claim of the petitioner on the ground that the said list was not available in the office of the Registrar and had not been supplied to the Regional Level Committee.

30. While deciding any dispute regarding elections of the Committee of Management, the Regional Level Committee only, prima facie, decides the validity of the elections. While exercising its power under Section 16-A(7), the Regional Level Committee only enquires as to whether the parties claiming elections of the Committee of Management or its office bearers are not rank trespassers trying to take over the Committee of Management. The Regional Level Committee does not decide the validity of the elections as a court. The order of the Regional Level Committee is not final and is subject to orders passed by a court. In the present case, the petitioners claim to have been elected in the elections dated 9.4.2003, which was accepted by the then education authorities vide their different orders referred in the earlier paragraphs of the judgement. The said orders were challenged in this Court but have not been set aside. The General Body of the Society elects the Committee of Management of the Institution. The elections of the governing body of the Society by the same General Body which participated in the elections dated 2.1.2022 has been acknowledged and recognized by the Deputy Registrar vide his order dated 6.1.2022. The writ petition challenging the order dated 6.1.2022 passed by the Deputy Registrar is still pending and no interim orders have been passed in the said writ petition. The claim of the petitioners regarding the elections dated 2.1.2022 was, prima facie, established and could not have been rejected by the Regional Level Committee.

31. For the aforesaid reasons, the order dated 3.6.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee rejecting the elections dated 2.1.2022 set up by the petitioner is contrary to law.

32. In light of the reasons given above, and because I have considered the order passed by the Regional Level Committee on merits, I have not considered the submission of the counsel for the petitioner regarding maintainability of the representation submitted by respondent No. 5 before the Regional Level Committee as the same is not required.

33. For the aforesaid reasons, the order dated 3.6.2023 passed by the Regional Level Committee and the consequential order dated 17.6.2023 passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura are contrary to law and are liable to be quashed and are hereby quashed. The order dated 28.2.2022 passed by the D.I.O.S., Mathura is restored.

34. The D.I.O.S. is directed to ensure that petitioner No. 2 as Manager of the Committee of Management of the Institution is handed over the charge of the Institution within fifteen days from today.

35. With the aforesaid directions, the writ petition is allowed.

36. Let this order be communicated to the District Inspector of Schools, Mathura by the Registrar (Compliance) within one week from today.

THE HON'BLE CHANDRA KUMAR RAI, J.

Writ - C No. 33663 of 2007

The U.P.S.R.T.C. ...Petitioner
Versus
Hari Shankar Verma ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Vivek Mishra, Ayush Mishra, Mukesh Kumar Singh, Ramanuj Pandey, Sunil Kumar Misra

Counsel for the Respondent:
Dinesh Chandra Srivastava, Dr. Rajesh Kumar Srivasta, Lalit Kumar, S.C.

A. Labour Law – U.P. Industrial Dispute Act,1947 - Section 17-B - Mere quotation of wrong provision of interim order will not make the interim order redundant. An order passed by competent court, interim or final, has to be abided without any reservation and if such order is violated, the Court may refuse the party violating such order to hear him on merit. (Para 16)

There is no dispute about the fact that Labour Court vide impugned award reinstated the respondent No. 1 in service with 50% of back wages and other allowances from the date of dismissal of service upto the date of reinstatement in service withholding two annual increments permanently. There is also no dispute about the fact that this Court has passed the conditional interim order dated 26-07-2007 but petitioner has not reinstated the respondent No. 1 who ultimately expired on 3-09-2015. Writ petition filed by petitioner is liable to be dismissed due to non-compliance of the condition mentioned in the interim order. There is also no dispute about the fact that petitioner has filed modification application on 18-03-2021 in respect to the interim order dated 26- 07-2007 and 23-02-2021. (Para 13, 16)

There is no illegality in the impugned award. (Para 15)

Considering the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the writ petition is dismissed with following direction:

i. Petitioner shall release the arrears of 50% of back wages of deceased-respondent No. 1 in favour of respondent No. 1/ 1 to 1/ 4 from the date of termination (11-04-1991) to the date of passing of interim order dated 26-07-2007 within period of two months from today.

ii. Petitioner shall release the arrears of full wages of deceased-respondent No. 1 from the date of passing of interim order dated 26-07-2007 till the date of his death (3- 09-2015) within period of 3 months from today.

iii. In case of non-payment of arrears of wages in aforementioned period, the petitioner shall pay interest to the respondent Nos. 1/1 to1/4 at the rate of 6% per annum on the aforementioned amount. (Para 17)

3. U.P. State Road Transport Corporation & anr. Vs Mohan Singh & ors., Writ Petition No. 6444 of 2010, judgment dated 17.05.2023 (Para 10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Sunil Kumar Mishra, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Dr. Rajesh Kumar Srivastava, learned Counsel for respondent No. 1/1 to 1/4.

2. Brief facts of the case are that respondent No.1 was appointed on the post of Conductor in the petitioner/Corporation in the year 1980. On 12-11-1988, respondent No. 1 was driving bus number USY-8753 on Khurja-Haridwar route. The bus was checked and 12 passengers were alleged to be found traveling without ticket and in the checking made on 25-03-1989 in the aforementioned bus and 4 passengers were again alleged to be found traveling without ticket. In disciplinary proceeding, charge sheet was issued to respondent No.1 and reply was submitted by respondent No.1. The Disciplinary Authority/ Regional Manager vide order dated 14-04-1991 passed the order of removal of service of respondent No.1. An industrial dispute raised by respondent No.1 was referred for adjudication vide reference order dated 23-08-1993 as to whether the order of removal of service of respondent No.1/Hari Shankar Verma Conductor dated 11-04-1991 is just and legal. The aforementioned reference was registered as Adjudication Case No.462 of 1993 before Labour Court (Ist) U.P. Lohia Nagar, Ghaziabad. Petitioner/ employer and respondent No.1 filed their written statement as well as oral and documentary evidences in support of their cases. Vide award dated 1-12-2006 as published on 23-02-2007 reinstated the respondent No.1 in service with 50% of back wages and other allowances from the date of dismissal of service upto date of reinstatement in service withholding two annual increments permanently. Hence this writ petition on behalf of petitioner for following relief.

"(i) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned award/judgment and order dated 21.03.2007 (Annexure 5 to the writ petition) in Adjudication Case No.462 of 1993 passed by labour CourtI Ghaziabad."

3. This court vide interim order dated 26-07-2007 entertained the matter and stayed the execution of the impugned award dated 1-12-2006 provided petitioner ensure compliance of section 17-B of the U.P. Industrial Dispute Act.

4. During pendency of the writ petition, respondent No. 1/Hari Shankar Verma has expired on 3-9-2015 accordingly, two sons, widow and a daughter have been substituted as respondent Nos. 1/1 to 1/4 respectively in the writ petition.

5. A counter affidavit along with application for vacation of interim order was filed on behalf of respondent No.1/1 to 1/4 to the writ petition stating specifically in paragraph No. 21 of the counter affidavit that deceased respondent No.1 has filed an application for his joining in the corporation in pursuance of the impugned award of labour court as well as interim order dated 26-07-2007 passed by this court in the instant writ petition. The copy of application for joining filed by deceased-respondent No.1 before employer along with affidavit stating that deceased-respondent No.1 was not in any employment is annexed as Annexure No. CA-1 to the counter affidavit dated 2-12-2015.

6. No rejoinder affidavit has been filed on behalf of petitioner to the counter affidavit dated 2-12-2015.

7. This court dismissed the instant writ petition for non-prosecution on 25-10-2017 but on restoration application of the petitioner the order dated 25-10-2017 was recalled vide order dated 27-05-2019.

8. This court on 23-02-2021 passed another order which runs as follows.

"This Court while entertaining the petition on 26.7.2007 has passed the following order:

"Petitioner is permitted to implead Labour Court-I, U.P. Ghaziabad through Presiding Officer as respondent no.2 during the course of the day.

Learned Standing Counsel represents respondent no.2 Sri D.C. Srivastava, Advocaate has accepted notice on behalf of respondent no.1. They pray for and are granted three weeks time to file counter affidavit. Rejoinder affidavit may be filed within a week thereafter.

List on 18th September, 2007.

It is contended that the workman was employed as Conductor in U.P. State Road Transport Corporation, Ghaziabad and on two occasions he was caught carrying bus with passengers, who were travelling without ticket. After departmental proceedings, his service were brought to an end. Orders passed by the employers in that regard have been set aside under the impugned award on hyper technical ground without referring to departmental proceedings, and were pleaded before the Labour Court.

Petitioner has made out a prima facie case for grant of an interim order.

Till the next date of listing execution of the impugned award dated 1st December, 2006 passed in Adjudication Case No.462 of 1993 shall remain stayed provided the petitioner to ensure compliance of Section 17-B of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act."

Nothing has been brought on record as to whether Section 17-B of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act has been complied with by the petitioner or not.

Learned counsel for the petitioner at this stage seeks time to file affidavit regarding compliance of the order of this Court.

List this case on 24.3.2021 to enable Regional Manager, UPSRTC to file an affidavit showing compliance of Section 17-B of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act.

It is made clear that in the event of non compliance of the order dated 26.7.2007, the Court would take serious view of the matter.

List this case on 18.3.2021."

9. In pursuance of the order dated 23-2-2021, petitioner/Employer filed a Civil Miscellaneous Modification Application No. 14 of 2021 dated 18-03-2021 for modification of the interim order dated 26-07-2007 as well as affidavit of compliance of the order dated 23-02-2021. Respondent No. 1/1 to 1/4 have filed their counter affidavit to the modification application as well as compliance affidavit filed by petitioner/Employer.

10. Learned Counsel for the petitioner/Corporation submitted that respondent No.1 was habitual in carrying the passenger without ticket but Labour Court has illegally ordered for reinstatement with 50% of back wages. He further submitted that respondent No. 1 was held guilty in the disciplinary proceeding for carrying passengers without ticket but Labour Court has illegally held that Respondent No. 1 is to be reinstated in service. He further submitted that Labour Court has failed to consider the oral and documentary evidence adduced by the parties in support of their cases. He placed following two judgments passed by this Court in support of his argument.

1. Writ C No. 32426 of 2019

Tufani Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others

With

Writ C No. 15450 of 2019

M/S Hindalco Industries Limited Vs. State of U.P. and 3 others

Judgment dated 18-01-2024

2. Writ Petition No. 6444 of 2010

U.P. State Road Transport Corporation and another Vs. Mohan Singh and others

Judgment dated 17-05-2023.

11. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent No. 1/1 to 1/4 submitted that respondent No. 1 was performing his duty as conductor in the U.P. Roadways since 1980. He submitted that domestic inquiry was conducted against the respondent No. 1 in illegal and arbitrary manner accordingly, punishment imposed against the respondent No. 1 was also illegal. He submitted that Labour Court has rightly exercised his jurisdiction for reinstatement in service with 50% of back wages, withholding two annual increments permanently. He submitted that in spite of the conditional interim order of this Court, petitioner has not reinstated the respondent No.1 since 26-07-2007 and respondent No.1 has expired also on 3-09-2015, as such writ petition filed by petitioner is liable to be dismissed with costs. He further submitted that deceased-respondent No. 1 tried his best for joining in pursuance of the impugned award but petitioner have not reinstated the deceased-respondent No. 1 in spite of the interim order passed by this Court in the instant petition filed by petitioner himself. He submitted that Labour Court has passed the impugned award in just and proper manner, as such there is no illegality in the impugned award even on merit.

12. I have considered the argument advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

13. There is no dispute about the fact that Labour Court vide impugned award reinstated the respondent No. 1 in service with 50% of back wages and other allowances from the date of dismissal of service upto the date of reinstatement in service withholding two annual increments permanently. There is also no dispute about the fact that this Court has passed the conditional interim order dated 26-07-2007 but petitioner has not reinstated the respondent No. 1 who ultimately expired on 3-09-2015. There is also no dispute about the fact that petitioner has filed modification application on 18-03-2021 in respect to the interim order dated 26-07-2007 and 23-02-2021.

14. The perusal of the relevant finding of fact recorded by Labour Court while passing the impugned award will be necessary which is as under:

15. Perusal of the finding of fact recorded by Labour Court as quoted above fully demonstrate that there is no illegality in the impugned award.

16. It is also material that in spite of the interim order dated 26-07-2007 passed by this Court in the instant petition filed by petitioner themselves, the petitioner has not reinstated the respondent No. 1 in service and respondent No. 1 has expired on 3-9-2015, as such, writ petition filed by petitioner is also liable to be dismissed due to non-compliance of the condition mentioned in the interim order. Mere quotation of wrong provision of interim order will not make the interim order redundant. Hon. Apex Court in case reported in (2007) 8 SCC 449 Prestige Ltd. v. State Bank of India has held that an order passed by competent court, interim or final, has to be abided without any reservation and if such order is violated, the Court may refuse the party violating such order to hear him on merit.

17. Considering the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case to the effect that respondent No. 1 was not reinstated in service in spite of the interim order dated 26-07-2007 passed in the instant petition and ultimately respondent No. 1 has expired on 3-09-2015, the writ petition is dismissed with following direction:

(i). Petitioner shall release the arrears of 50% of back wages of deceased-respondent No. 1 in favour of respondent No. 1/ 1 to 1/ 4 from the date of termination (11-04-1991) to the date of passing of interim order dated 26-07-2007 within period of two months from today.

(ii). Petitioner shall release the arrears of full wages of deceased-respondent No. 1 from the date of passing of interim order dated 26-07-2007 till the date of his death (3-09-2015) within period of 3 months from today.

(iii). In case of non-payment of arrears of wages in aforementioned period, the petitioner shall pay interest to the respondent Nos. 1/1 to1/4 at the rate of 6% per annum on the aforementioned amount.

A. Labour Law – Retrenchment/ Termination - U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 - Section 6-N - It is settled law that the burden of proof of the existence of a particular fact lies on the person who makes a positive averments about its existence. It is always easier to prove a positive fact than to prove a negative fact. Therefore, once the employee shows that he was not employed, the onus lies on the employer to specifically plead and prove that the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same or substantially similar emoluments. (Para 13)

Ordinarily, an employee or workman whose services are terminated and who is desirous of getting back wages is required to either plead or at least make a statement before the adjudicating authority or the Court of first instance that he/she was not gainfully employed or was employed on lesser wages. If the employer wants to avoid payment of full back wages, then it has to plead and also lead cogent evidence to prove that the employee/workman was gainfully employed and was getting wages equal to the wages he/she was drawing prior to the termination of service.

The perusal of finding of facts recorded by the Labour Court on all the issues fully demonstrates that respondent No.2/workman was appointed in the petitioner-department and worked up to 28.9.1998. And further demonstrate that petitioner-department is Industry and there was relation of employer and employee between the petitioner and respondent No.2/workman who has worked for more than 240 days in the Calendar Year, as such, the services cannot be terminated without compliance of the provisions contained under U.P. Industrial Disputes Act. Respondent No.2/workman was not in any gainful employment after termination of his service, as such, the Labour Court has rightly reinstated the petitioner in service and awarded 50% of the backwages from the date of termination till the date of reinstatement of service. (Para 13)

Writ petition dismissed. Awarded arrears of 50% of backwages. (E-4)

Present petition challenges award dated 30.10.2015, published on 05.4.2016, passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Meerut.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Prabhakar Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel for the petitioner/ State and Ms. Bushra Maryam, learned counsel assisted by Mr. Baquer Mehdi, learned counsel for respondent no.2.

2. Brief facts of the case are that respondent no.2 raised the industrial dispute which was referred for adjudication vide reference order dated 16.1.2006 with respect to termination of service of respondent no.2/ workman with effect from 29.9.1998. The aforementioned reference was registered as adjudication case No. 205/ 2006. Respondent no.2/ workman filed his written statement (Paper No. 5-A) stating that he was working on the post of Chowkidar in department of petitioner since 1986 and worked up to 28.9.1998. It was also stated in the written statement that with effect from 29.9.1998, the service of the petitioner was orally terminated without complying the provisions of Section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. It was also mentioned in the written statement that respondent no.2 had worked for more than 240 days in a calendar year. Petitioner/ employer had also filed his written statement (Paper No. 9-A) stating that department is a Government department and provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act are not applicable. It was also stated in the written statement that respondent no.2/ workman had never been employed in the department and there was no master and servant relationship between them. It was also stated that there was no question of termination of service of respondent no.2 with effect from 29.9.1998 as he never worked in the department. Respondent no.2/ workman filed his reply to the written statement of the petitioner/ employer. Respondent no.1/ Labour Court considering the evidence on record decided the dispute vide award dated 30.10.2015 which was published on 5.4.2016 by which respondent no.2/ workman was reinstated in service and 50% of the backwages was awarded from the date of termination of service till the date of reinstatement. Hence this writ petition on behalf of the petitioner for the following relief:-

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned award dated 30.10.2015 published on 05.4.2016 (Annexure No.1 to the writ petition) passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Meerut (respondent No.1)"

3. This Court vide order dated 9.8.2016 entertained the matter and granted interim protection to the effect that effect and operation of the impugned award dated 30.10.2015 shall be kept in abeyance provided petitioner reinstates the respondent no.2 within period of one month from today and continues to pay current wages as per law. On 4.10.2016, this Court granted one month further time to learned counsel for the respondents to file counter affidavit and extended the interim order.

4. In pursuance of the aforementioned order dated 9.8.2016 and 4.10.2016, the parties have exchanged their affidavit.

5. Learned Standing Counsel for the State/ petitioner submitted that respondent no.2 had never worked in the petitioner- department therefore there was no question for retrenchment/ termination of service of respondent no.2. He further submitted that there was no relation of employer and employee between Department and respondent no.2, as such, provisions of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 are not applicable in the matter. He further submitted that Madhya Ganga Canal Construction Division and Development is department of State Government and is not an industry, as such, the impugned award is wholly illegal. He further submitted that Labour Court has placed reliance on the document which were filed by workman although the same were not proved by his evidence, as such, the award is illegal. He further submitted that impugned award has been passed in violation of principle of natural justice. He further submitted that Labour Court has shifted the burden of proof upon the petitioner to prove that respondent no.2/ workman is not an employee of the petitioner. He further submitted that no adverse inference can be drawn against the employer on his failure to produce the documents in his possession. He submitted that Labour Court relying on the question of 240 days continousworking has passed the impugned award recording finding that there is violation of Section 6-N of the Industrial Disputes Act which is not in accordance with law. He further submitted that in any case, the award for 50% of the back wages to the respondent no.2/ workman is against the ratio of law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Assistant Engineer Rajasthan Development Corporation Vs. Geetam Singh 2013 STPL 84 SC. He further submitted that petitioner- Department is a Government Department, as such, the reinstatement of the workman is not proper rather in any case, compensation can be awarded in favour of respondent no.2/ workman. He further placed reliance upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 2004 (8) SCC 161 Rajasthan State Ganga Nagar as Mills Ltd. Vs. State of Rajasthan and Another in support of his argument. He further placed another judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court dated 26.3.1997 passed in SLP (C) No. 7957 of 1996 Himanshu Kumar Vidhyarthi and Others Vs. State of Bihar and Others in order to demonstrate that department of the Government cannot be treated to be industry when appointment are regulated by the statutory rules. He finally submitted that writ petition be allowed and impugned award be set aside.

6. On the other hand, Ms. Bushra Maryan assisted by Mr. Baquer Mehdi, learned counsel for respondent no.2 submitted that respondent no.2/ workman was working as chowkidar in the petitoner-department since 1986 and worked up to 28.9.1998. She further submitted that Labour Court has rightly decided the dispute reinstating the petitioner in service with 50% of the backwages. She further submitted that petitioner/ Irrigation Department is an industry, as such, there is no illegality in the impugned award. She further submitted that respondent no.2/ workman have filed an application before the Labour Court for summoning certain documents from the petitioner- Department but the same were not produced by the petitioner-Department accordingly Labour Court has rightly drawn the adverse inference against the petitioner- Department. She further submitted that Labour Court has summoned the attendance register and payment register from the petitioner- Department which they failed to produce. She submitted that order sheet before the Labour Court was signed by respondent no.2/ workman as well as employer, as such, it cannot be argued that impugned award has been passed in violation of principles of natural justice. She further submitted that Labour Court has no power to review the award passed on merit hence the review application filed by petitioner- Department was not maintainable, as such, the same was rightly rejected by the Labour Court. She submitted that issues framed by Labour Court has rightly been decided in favour of respondent no.2/ workman on the basis of oral and documentary evidences adduced by the respondent no.2/ workman. She placed three compilation the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court as well as of this Court on the point as to whether the Irrigation Department is an industry or not, as to whether the adverse inference will be withdrawn for non-production of material documents as well as on the point of awarding backwages which are as under:-

i). Whether Irrigation department is an industry or not ?

1. The Bangalore Water Supply & Sewerage Board etc. v/s A. Rajappa and others etc.

2. Des Raj and others v/s State of Punjab and others

3. State of U.P., through Executive Engineer, Nichali Ganga Nahar, Phoolpur, Kanpur v/s The Labour Court (II), U.P. Kanpur and another

4. State of U.P. Through Executive Engineer, Tubewell Division-I, Bareilly v/s Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Bareilly and another

5. State of U.P. Through Principal Secretary, Irrigation, Lucknow and others v/s Labour Court, Gorakhpur, U.P. and another

6. Eng.-In-Chief Irrigation Dept., Lucknow and others v/s Shiv Nath" ii). Whether adverse inference will be withdrawn for non-production of documents ?

"i). [(2006) 1 UPLBEC 213] R.M. Yellatti v/s The Assistant Executive Engineer

ii). (AIR 1953 Sup. Court 225 (Vol. 40 C.N. 54) Hiralal and others v/s Badkulal and others

6.[2019 LawSuit(SC) 1506] Jayantibhai Raojibhai Patel v/s Municipal Council, Narkhed & Ors.

7. [2022 (175) FLR 544] Armed Forces Ex Officers Multi Services Co-Operative Society Ltd. v/s Rashtriya Mazdoor Sangh (Intuc)

7. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that industrial dispute raised by respondent No.2 was referred for adjudication vide order dated 16.1.2006 with respect to termination of service of respondent No.2 w.e.f. 29.9.1998. There is also no dispute about the fact that Labour Court vide impugned award dated 30.10.2015 as published on 5.4.2016 reinstated the respondent No.2 with 50% of the backwages from the date of termination till the date of reinstatement in service.

9. The point of determination which are involved in the writ petition are as follows :-

i) Whether irrigation department is Industry or not ?

ii) Whether respondent No.2/ workman was appointed on the post of Chowkidar in the petitioner department and worked for more than 240 days in a calendar year ?

iii) Whether respondent No.2/workman was in employment anywhere else during the period of termination to the date of reinstatement ?

iv) To what relief respondent No.2/Workman will be entitled ?

10. In order to decide the point of determination No. i) as to whether the irrigation department is industry or not, the perusal of ratio of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as by this Court which has been cited by learned counsel for respondent No.2 are relevant.

The perusal of paragraph Nos.21, 22, 23, 24 & 25 of the judgment rendered in Engineer-in-Chief Irrigation Department, Lucknow and Others vs. Shiv Nath; 2024 (181) FLR 239 will be relevant which are as under :-

"21. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Des Raj Etc. Vs. State of Punjab and others reported in MANU/SC/0124/1988MANU/SC/0124/1988 : AIR 1988 SC had considered the tests laid down in various earlier judgments of the Apex Court itself, culminating in the judgment in Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board Vs. A. Rajappa and others, reported in MANU/SC/0257/1978MANU/SC/0257/1978 : 1978:INSC:41 : 1978(2) SCC 213 and thereafter had arrived at a conclusion that the Irrigation Department falls within the definition of Industry within the meaning of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act. It was held that the view taken down in Des Raj's case was the better in point of law and hence it is the view in Des Raj's case which was directed to be followed. Once it was so held and also that the work of the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab and the material placed before the Supreme Court including the written submissions filed on behalf of the concerned petitioners that the irrigation department of the State of Maharashtra was discharging the same or similar functions as the Irrigation Department of the State of Punjab, it was held that the projects of the Irrigation Department or work connected with that of the State of Maharashtra, on the same tests as applied by the Apex Court in Des Raj's case would fall within the definition of an industry for the purpose of Section 2(j) of the I.D. Act.

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Executive Engineer, State of Karnataka Vs. K. Somasetty had relied upon the case of Union of India Vs. Jai Narain Singh, MANU/SC/1530/1995MANU/SC/1530/1995 : (1995) Supp 4 672, to hold that Irrigation Department is not an "Industry". No reasons were ascribed for coming to the said conclusion, as has also observed by the Bombay High Court in the case of Special Land Acquisition Officer Vs. Municipal Corporation, MANU/ MH/0304/ 1988MANU/ MH/0304/1988 : AIR 1988 Bom 9 and relied upon the case of Des Raj. This Court is in agreement with the said observations on this count and hence hold that the Irrigation Department is an "Industry" within the meaning of Section 2(f) of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

23. It is noticed that undisputedly, the workmen has worked along with petitioner from from 15.07.1986 to 31.12.1991 and according to the muster roll produced by him before the Industrial Tribunal, he had worked for 332 days in 1991. There is no denial of the fact that the provisions of Section 6(N) of Industrial Disputes Act were not complied with by the petitioner inasmuch as neither notice was given to him nor salary in lieu of notice and consequently there was gross violation of provisions of Section 6(N).

24. In view of above discussions, the contention of the State to the effect that Irrigation Department does not fall within the definition of "Industry" or that provisions of Act of 1947 are not applicable, does not have any force and is hereby rejected. Even, the Labour Court, in the impugned award has also given the same interpretation after relying upon the judgments in the case of Des Raj and etc. (supra) and other authorities. I do not find any error in the view taken by Tribunal necessitating interference by this Court under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

25. The writ petition is bereft of merits and is accordingly dismissed."

The Labour Court has also decided this issue holding that Irrigation Department is an industry.

Considering the aforementioned facts and circumstances, the point of determination No.1 is answered that Irrigation Department is an industry.

11. In order to consider the point of determination No. ii), the perusal of finding of facts recorded by the Labour Court while passing the impugned award will be relevant which is as under :-

The perusal of finding of fact recorded by Labour Court as to whether respondent No.2/workman was appointed in the petitioner department and worked for more than 240 days in Calendar Year is fully proved. Accordingly, point of determination No. ii) is answered in favour of respondent No.2 that he was appointed in the petitioner - department and worked for more than 240 days in a Calendar Year.

12. In order to consider the point of determination No.iii), the perusal of finding of fact recorded by the Labour Court will be also relevant which is as under : -

इस प्रकरण में सम्बन्धित कर्मकार की ओर से यह तर्क दिया गया कि वह सेवा समाप्ति के बाद से आज तक बेरोजगार है और उसने अपने को सेवा में रखने के लिए काफी प्रयास किये लेकिन उसे नौकरी नहीं मिली सेवायोजकों की ओर से लिखित कथन में इस तथ्य का प्रतिकार नहीं किया गया तथा प्रकरण में सम्बन्धित कर्मकार राजकुमार का बयान 23-सी० अंकित किया गया तथा उसने अपने बयान में कहा है कि मैं सेवा समाप्ति की तिथि से आजतक बेरोजगार हूँ और मेने नौकरी ढूंढने की कोशिश की लेकिन मुझे नौकरी नहीं मिली तथा

The perusal of the finding recorded by the Labour Court, as quoted above, fully demonstrate that respondent No.2/workman was not in any gainful employment from the date of termination till the date of reinstatement. Accordingly the point of determination No.iii) is answered that respondent No.2/workman was not in any gainful employment during the period of termination of service till the reinstatement.

13. In order to consider the point of determination No.iv), the perusal of finding of facts recorded by the Labour Court on all the issues fully demonstrates that respondent No.2/workman was appointed in the petitioner-department and worked up to 28.9.1998. The perusal of the finding of fact further demonstrate that petitioner-department is Industry and there was relation of employer and employee between the petitioner and respondent No.2/workman who has worked for more than 240 days in the Calendar Year, as such, the services cannot be terminated without compliance of the provisions contained under U.P. Industrial Disputes Act. The finding of fact further demonstrates that respondent No.2/workman was not in any gainful employment after termination of his service, as such, the Labour Court has rightly reinstated the petitioner in service and awarded 50% of the backwages from the date of termination till the date of reinstatement of service.

On the point of awarding the backwages, the ratio of law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Deepali Gundu Surwase (Supra) as cited by learned counsel for respondent No.2/workman will be relevant for perusal which is as under :-

"33. The propositions which can be culled out from the aforementioned judgments are:

i) In cases of wrongful termination of service, reinstatement with continuity of service and back wages is the normal rule.

ii) The aforesaid rule is subject to the rider that while deciding the issue of back wages, the adjudicating authority or the Court may take into consideration the length of service of the employee/workman, the nature of misconduct, if any, found proved against the employee/workman, the financial condition of the employer and similar other factors.

iii) Ordinarily, an employee or workman whose services are terminated and who is desirous of getting back wages is required to either plead or at least make a statement before the adjudicating authority or the Court of first instance that he/she was not gainfully employed or was employed on lesser wages. If the employer wants to avoid payment of full back wages, then it has to plead and also lead cogent evidence to prove that the employee/workman was gainfully employed and was getting wages equal to the wages he/she was drawing prior to the termination of service. This is so because it is settled law that the burden of proof of the existence of a particular fact lies on the person who makes a positive averments about its existence. It is always easier to prove a positive fact than to prove a negative fact. Therefore, once the employee shows that he was not employed, the onus lies on the employer to specifically plead and prove that the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same or substantially similar emoluments.

iv) The cases in which the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal exercises power under Section 11-A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and finds that even though the enquiry held against the employee/workman is consistent with the rules of natural justice and / or certified standing orders, if any, but holds that the punishment was disproportionate to the misconduct found proved, then it will have the discretion not to award full back wages. However, if the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal finds that the employee or workman is not at all guilty of any misconduct or that the employer had foisted a false charge, then there will be ample justification for award of full back wages.

v) The cases in which the competent Court or Tribunal finds that the employer has acted in gross violation of the statutory provisions and/or the principles of natural justice or is guilty of victimizing the employee or workman, then the concerned Court or Tribunal will be fully justified in directing payment of full back wages. In such cases, the superior Courts should not exercise power under Article 226 or 136 of the Constitution and interfere with the award passed by the Labour Court, etc., merely because there is a possibility of forming a different opinion on the entitlement of the employee/workman to get full back wages or the employer's obligation to pay the same. The Courts must always be kept in view that in the cases of wrongful / illegal termination of service, the wrongdoer is the employer and sufferer is the employee/workman and there is no justification to give premium to the employer of his wrongdoings by relieving him of the burden to pay to the employee/workman his dues in the form of full back wages.

vi) In a number of cases, the superior Courts have interfered with the award of the primary adjudicatory authority on the premise that finalization of litigation has taken long time ignoring that in majority of cases the parties are not responsible for such delays. Lack of infrastructure and manpower is the principal cause for delay in the disposal of cases. For this the litigants cannot be blamed or penalised. It would amount to grave injustice to an employee or workman if he is denied back wages simply because there is long lapse of time between the termination of his service and finality given to the order of reinstatement. The Courts should bear in mind that in most of these cases, the employer is in an advantageous position vis-a-vis the employee or workman. He can avail the services of best legal brain for prolonging the agony of the sufferer, i.e., the employee or workman, who can ill afford the luxury of spending money on a lawyer with certain amount of fame. Therefore, in such cases it would be prudent to adopt the course suggested in Hindustan Tin Works Private Limited v. Employees of Hindustan Tin Works Private Limited (supra).

vii) The observation made in J.K. Synthetics Ltd. v. K.P. Agrawal (supra) that on reinstatement the employee/workman cannot claim continuity of service as of right is contrary to the ratio of the judgments of three Judge Benches referred to hereinabove and cannot be treated as good law. This part of the judgment is also against the very concept of reinstatement of an employee/workman.

The perusal of another judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Allahabad Bank (Supra) in which the earlier case of the Apex Court in Deepali Gundu Surwase (Supra) was also considered will be relevant which is as under :-

"36. Therefore, even applying the ratio laid down in various decisions, we do not think that the employee could be granted anything more than what the High Court has awarded.

37. As we have pointed out at the beginning, the total period of service rendered by the Officer-employee before his dismissal from service, was about 15 years, from 1974 to 1989 and he attained the age of superannuation in February, 2013, meaning thereby that he was out of employment for 24 years. The High Court has taken this factor into consideration for limiting the back wages only to 50% and we find that the High Court has actually struck a balance. We do not wish to upset this balance. Therefore, the Special Leave Petition of the Officer-employee is also liable to be dismissed.

38. Accordingly, both the Special Leave Petitions are dismissed, no costs."

The point of determination No.iv) is answered accordingly that grant of 50% of the backwages from the date of termination of service till the date of reinstatement is just and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case.

14. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, no interference is required against the impugned award dated 30.10.2015, as published on 5.4.2016, passed by respondent No.1. The writ petition is dismissed and petitioner - department is directed to release the arrears of 50% of the backwages within period of two months from today, otherwise, interest @ 6% per annum will be charged against the petitioner for delayed payment of awarded amount to respondent No.2/workman. The payment which has been made to the respondent no.2/ workman in compliance of interim order dated 14.9.2017 passed in connected Writ C No. 42879 of 2017 shall be adjusted by the authorities while making payment to respondent no.2 under this order.

15. No order as to costs.

C/M Madarsa Ehle Sunnat Sirajul Uloom Sultanpur ...Petitioner

Versus

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Dr. L.P. Misra, G.M. Kamil

Counsel for the Respondent:
C.S.C., Ausaf Ahmad Khan, M.B. Singh

A. Societies Law – U.P. Societies Registration Act, 1860 - Section 3(2)(Ka) and (kha) - 12-D sub Clause 2 - The amendments made in the Act vide Act No. 52/75 are prospective in nature. Prior to the date of amendment Section 12-D (1) or section 12 of the Act do not in any way confer a power upon the Assistant Registrar to cancel the registration, which has been granted to a society in the same name prior to the date of enforcement of S.3(2)(a) under U.P. Act No. 52/75.

There was no restriction under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 prohibiting the registration of a new society, in the year 1973 with the same name vis-a-vis the name of the society, which was earlier registered in the year 1964, Therefore, there was no occasion for the Assistant Registrar to exercise the power u/s 12-D (1) of the Act of 1860 for cancelling the registration of the petitioner society on the pretext that there was restriction for registration of a society in the same name and style as that of an earlier registered society. (Para 18)

The amended statutory provisions of 3(2)(a) have no application in the facts of the present case and as a consequent thereto to the orders passed by the Assistant Registrar dated 12.3.1992 and that of passed by the Commissioner dated 7.4.1993 cannot be legally sustained. (Para 19)

B. Power to refuse the registration of the society cannot be enlarged to the extent so as to confer a power upon the Registrar to cancel the registration of the society with the same name. No incidental power can be culled out from the provisions of Section 3 as were applicable in the year 1973, nor any inherent power can be read from any other provisions of the Societies Registration Act, 1860. (Para 20)

Apart from certain special statutes which entitle companies or persons to the exclusive use of a name or a mark, such as the Companies Act or the Trade Marks Act, a man has no exclusive proprietary rights in a fancy name or title, and normally and principally, it is in relation to the user of a name associated with a certain businesses or trading concern or some profession that the Court affords protection and grants an injunction restraining the adoption and use of such a name by another when the Court is satisfied that damage has been caused or there is tangible risk or possibility of a damage resulting from confusion caused in the public mind or in other words by reason of the public being deceived by the use of such name. (Para 21)

C. Only Courts of law have been conferred a power to grant an injunction restraining the adoption and use of the same name when the Court is satisfied that damage has been caused or there is tangible risk or, possibility of a damage resulting from confusion caused in public mind, or the public being deceived by the use of the identical name and style.

It is established beyond doubt that it is for the respondents to have initiated suitable Civil Injunction Proceedings, if they had any apprehension of misuse of the name of the respondent by the subsequent society being registered. The claim, if any, so pleaded would be adjudged by the Civil Court, on the basis of evidence led and the extent of damage/loss, which may be caused. However, they cannot be permitted to invoke the authority of the Registrar himself to cancel the registration. (Para 22)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Dr. L.P. Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, Shri S.K. Khare, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondent nos. 1 to 4 and perused the material available on record.

2. It has been submitted by learned counsel for petitioner that one society under the name of "Edara Madarsa Ahle-Sunnat Sirajul-Uloom Latifiya, Nihalgarh, Post Jagdishpur, District Sultanpur" was registered on 08.08.1973 but its registration was not renewed subsequently and also that no educational institution was run by the said society.

3. It is not in dispute that the Manager of the aforesaid society along with certain other members had moved an application for registration of another society under the name & style of "Madarsa Ahle-Sunnat Sirajul-Uloom Latifiya, which was duly registered on 17.10.1974. The subsequent society had a similar name as the previous society except that the word "Edara" was not included in the name of the subsequent society, which is the petitioner's society. Educational institutions were established by the petitioner-society and recognition was also granted to them on 17.6.1977 and even permanent recognition was granted by the State of U.P. for the purpose of grant-in-aid on 06.08.1979.

4. It is the aforesaid circumstances that respondent no. 5 made a complaint on 12.5.2009 to the Deputy Registrar, Firms Societies and Chits, U.P. Faizabad stating that the name of the petitioner-society was the same as the previous society, namely, "Edara Madarsa Ahle-Sunnat Sirajul-Uloom Latifiya" and accordingly, sought cancellation of its registration. It is on the complaint made by respondent no. 5 that proceedings under Section 12-D sub Clause 2 of the U.P. Societies Registration, Act, 1860 were instituted and the petitioner society was put under notice seeking the response to the complaint made by respondent no. 5. The petitioner had duly opposed the averments made in the complaint and submitted that the previous society, namely, "Madarsa Ahle-Sunnat Sirajul-Uloom Latifiya, was a defunct society, inasmuch as, its registration was never renewed after 1975 till the year 2009. In any view of the matter, the previous society was not running any institution and even otherwise, it is stated that the name of the petitioner society was materially different from the name of the previous society, inasmuch as the word "Edara" was not included in the name of the petitioner-society.

5. The Deputy Registrar by means of order dated 28.08.2009 was of the view that the same person was responsible for registering the previous society on 30.7.1973 while second society was also registered on the application given by Mohd. Hanif Azmi, who was the Manager and he was aware of the similarity in the said name and he had concealed the fact about the registration of the first society and due to the said fact, it was found that there was violation of Section 3 (2) (Ka) and (Kha) of the Societies Registration, Act, 1860 and accordingly, cancelled the registration of the petitioner-society while exercising its power under Section 12-D (1) (C) of the U.P. Societies Registration Act, 1860.

6. Being aggrieved by the aforesaid order, the petitioner had filed an appeal before the Commissioner, Faizabad Division, Faizabad, which was also rejected by means of order dated 13.01.2010 upholding the order of the Deputy Registrar, against which, the present writ petition has been filed.

7. Learned counsel for petitioner has firstly submitted that the Deputy Registrar as well as the Commissioner had wrongly invoked the powers under Section 3 (2) (Ka) & (Kha) of the Societies Registration Act to cancel the registration of the society of the petitioner institution. He submits that the provisions of Section 3 (2) were incorporated by the legislature and came into effect only on 10.10.1975 by the amending Act No. 52/75 while undoubtedly the petitioner society was registered previously on 17.10.1974. Accordingly, at the relevant time, the statutory bar of Section 3 (2) of the Act of 1860 was not available and accordingly, it was submitted that the Deputy Registrar has exceeded its jurisdiction and passed illegal and arbitrary order while cancelling the registration of the petitioner.

8. He has further submitted that even considering the provisions of 3 (2) (Ka) & (Kha) of the Act of 1860, it would be clear that statutory bar is only with regard to registration of the second society whose name is identical with that of any other society previously registered under the Act. In this regard, he submits that there is no doubt that the previous society had the word "Edara" included in the said name while the petitioner society does not include the word "Edara" and consequently, the name of petitioner society is not identical and accordingly, the bar created under Section 3 (2) (b) of the Act of 1860 would not be available to the authorities to cancel the registration of the petitioner. It has also been submitted that since the date of registration, the society is getting its renewal whenever required continuously.

9. Learned Standing Counsel on the other hand has opposed the writ petition but could not dispute the facts of the said case.

10. This Court has considered the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

11. It is noticed that one society by the name of "Edara Madarsa Ahle-Sunnat Sirajul-Uloom Latifiya" was duly registered on 8.8.1973 and the same person had moved a subsequent application on 15.10.1974 for registration of the petitioner society which was registered on 17.10.1974 by the name of "Madarsa Ahle-Sunnat Sirajul-Uloom Latifiya". The Societies Registration Act, 1860 was amended in Uttar Pradesh by the Act of 52/75 effective from 10.10.1975 specifically modifying Section 3 regarding the registration process for societies. The amendment clarifies that there was no restriction for registration of the society with an identical name to another previously registered society as of 1973.

12. The issue before this Court is as to whether the order dated 28.08.2009 passed by the Deputy Registrar, Firms Societies and Chits, U.P. Faizabad as well as order passed by the Commissioner, Faizabad Division, Faizabad dated 13.01.2010 cancelling the registration of the petitioner society were legally sustainable?

13. It has also been submitted on behalf of the petitioner that the orders passed by the Deputy Registrar and by the Commissioner proceeded on misconception of fact as well as law, inasmuch as, at the time when the new society was registered in the similar name and style as that of the earlier society, there was no restriction for the second society to be registered with the similar or identical name and style as of the earlier society. The restriction in this regard has been brought about by the amendment to Section 3 (2) (a) which has been added by the Act of 52/75 with effect from 10.10.1975. It is therefore, submitted that there was no illegality or infirmity in the registration of the new society in the similar name and style as of the earlier society, which was registered on 8.8.1973.

14. On behalf of the respondents, it has been fairly submitted that at the time of registration of the petitioner society, there was no restriction in registration of two societies with the same name and style. The amendment in this regard has been enforced by the Act No. 52/75. It has also been submitted that there is an inherent power/ jurisdiction refuse to recognize the registration of the society in the same name and style, inasmuch as, the same would necessarily lead to confusion and would seriously prejudice the activities of the earlier society and therefore, under the said inherent power, the Deputy Registrar has also power to cancel the registration granted to the subsequent society in the same name and style that as of the earlier society, which was registered on 8.8.1973.

15. For the purposes of appreciating the controversy, it would be relevant to refer the provisions of Section 3 of the Societies Registration, Act, 1860, as were applicable in the year 1973, which are quoted here-in-below:-

"3. Registration and fees.--Upon such memorandum and certified copy being filed, the Registrar shall certify under his hand that the society is registered under this Act, There shall be paid to the Registrar for every such registration a fee of fifty rupees or such smaller fee as (the State Government) may, from time to time, direct ; and all fees so paid shall be accounted for to (the State Government)".

16. Reference may also be had to the provisions of Section 3 as were amended in the State of Uttar Pradesh vide Act No. 52/75 and the said amendments were enforced w.e.f. 10.10.1975. The said amended Section 3 in the State of U.P. reads as follows :

"In its application to the State of Uttar Pradesh, for Section 3, substitute the following section, namely :

"3. (1) Upon such memorandum and certified copy being filed along with particulars of the address of the Society's office which shall be in registered address, by the Secretary of the Society on behalf of the persons subscribing to the memorandum, the Registrar shall certify under his hand that the society is registered under this Act. There shall be paid to the Registrar for every such registration a fee of one hundred rupees (or such smaller fee as the State Government may notify in respect of any class of societies) :

Provided that the Registrar may, in his discretion, issue public notice or issue notice to such persons as he thinks fit inviting objections, if any, against the proposed registration and consider all objections that may be received by him before registering the society.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in Sub-section (1) the Registrar shall refuse to register a society, if after giving it an opportunity of showing cause against such refusal, he is satisfied that—

(a) the name of the society is identical with that if any other society previously registered under this Act;

(b) the name of the society sought to be registered uses any of the words, namely, 'union', 'State', 'Land Mortgage', 'Land Development', 'Co-operative Gandhi', 'Reserve Bank' or any words expressing or implying the sanction, approval or patronage of the Central or any State Government or any word which suggests or is calculated to suggest any connection with any local authority or any corporation or body constituted by or under any law for the time being in force or is such as is otherwise likely to deceive the public or the members of any other society previously registered under this Act."

17. From the aforesaid amendment, it is apparently clear that in the year 1973 there was absolutely no restriction under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 with regard to the registration of a society with identical name and style as that of other society previously registered.

18. In view of the aforesaid, there was no restriction under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 prohibiting the registration of a new society, in the year 1973 with the same name vis-a-vis the name of the society, which was earlier registered in the year 1964, Therefore, there was no occasion for the Assistant Registrar to exercise the power under Section 12-D (1) of the Societies Registration Act, 1860 for cancelling the registration of the petitioner society on the pretext that there was restriction for registration of a society in the same name and style as that of an earlier registered society. The amendments made in the Act vide Act No. 52/75 are prospective in nature. Prior to the date of aforesaid amendment Section 12-D (1) or section 12 of the Act do not in any way confer a power upon the Assistant Registrar to cancel the registration, which has been granted to a society in the same name prior to the date of enforcement of section 3 (2) (a) under U.P. Act No. 52/75.

19. In the opinion of the Court, the aforesaid amended statutory provisions of 3 (2) (a) have no application in the facts of the present case and as a consequent thereto to the orders passed by the Assistant Registrar dated 12.3.1992 and that of passed by the Commissioner dated 7.4.1993 cannot be legally sustained.

20. At this stage it would be appropriate to consider to the contention raised by the petitioner with regard to the inherent power of the Assistant Registrar to refuse the registration to a society by the same name coupled with the incidental power to cancel the registration of a society, if granted, by him in the same name. In the opinion of the Court, no such incidental power can be culled out from the provisions of Section 3 as were applicable in the year 1973, nor any such inherent power can be read from any other provisions of the Societies Registration Act, 1860. Power to refuse the registration of the society cannot be enlarged to the extent so as to confer a power upon the Registrar to cancel the registration of the society with the same name.

21. It is true that apart from certain special statutes which entitle companies or persons to the exclusive use of a name or a mark, such as the Companies Act or the Trade Marks Act, a man has no exclusive proprietary rights in a fancy name or title, and normally and principally, it is in relation to the user of a name associated with a certain businesses or trading concern or some profession that the Court affords protection and grants an injunction restraining the adoption and use of such a name by another when the Court is satisfied that damage has been caused or there is tangible risk or possibility of a damage resulting from confusion caused in the public mind or in other words by reason of the public being deceived by the use of such name."

22. It is, thus, clear that only Courts of law have been conferred a power to grant an injunction restraining the adoption and use of the same name when the Court is satisfied that damage has been caused or there is tangible risk or, possibility of a damage resulting from confusion caused in public mind, or the public being deceived by the use of the identical name and style. This power to grant injunction against the use of same name and style as recognised by the Courts of law is based upon a cause established by the plaintiff of likelihood damage/confusion to be caused in the mind of the public. Thus, it is established beyond doubt that it is for the respondents to have initiated suitable Civil Injunction Proceedings, if they had any apprehension of misuse of the name of the respondent by the subsequent society being registered. The claim, if any, so pleaded would be adjudged by the Civil Court, on the basis of evidence led and the extent of damage/loss, which may be caused. However, they cannot be permitted to invoke the authority of the Registrar himself to cancel the registration.

23. In such circumstances, order dated 28.08.2009 passed by the Deputy Registrar, Firms Societies and Chits, U.P. Faizabad as well as order dated 13.01.2010 passed by the Commissioner, Faizabad Division, Faizabad, cannot be legally sustained and are, hereby, quashed.

24. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed.

4. Rakesh Kumar Sharma Vs St. of U.P. & anr., 2007 ADJ 478

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vipin Kumar Mishra, learned Counsel for the applicants and Shri Arvind Kumar Tripathi, learned A.G.A.-I for the State respondent.

2. The applicants by invoking the inherent powers of this Court under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.') have challenged the summoning order dated 07.12.2013 passed by Judicial Magistrate-III, Faizabad in Case No.1197/2012, State Vs. Ram Ajore & others, arising out of N.C.R. No. 85 of 2008, under Sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Gosainganj, District Faizabad as well as the impugned charge sheet dated 10.04.2012, submitted in N.C.R. No.85/2008, under Sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. along with the entire proceedings of Case No.1197/2012.

3. Briefly stating, the story put forth by the prosecution is that as the complainant was on his way to his house from the field he was abused by the applicants and one Ram Ajore with fists and kicks in front of the house of Hari Ram. Further it has been alleged that the complainant was threatened and even when his wife came to save him, she was also beaten by them which led to the lodging of N.C.R. No. 85 of 2008 on 03.09.2008 under Sections 323, 504 and 506 I.P.C.

4. Although, learned Counsel for the applicants has disputed the aforesaid facts and claimed that the applicants as well as opposite party no.2/complainant belonged to the same village, there was partibandi and the story put forth is concocted and false. However, the fulcrum of the argument of the learned Counsel for the applicants are two fold; firstly, he has argued that Explanation appended to Section 2(d) of Cr.P.C. provided that a report made by the police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint and the Investigating Officer, who has made the said report, shall be deemed to be a complainant and as such the same ought to have been proceeded as per procedure laid down for treating the same as a complaint and no cognizance could have been taken on the said report treating the same as a police report as has been sought to be done in the impugned summoning order dated 07.12.2013. The second leg of argument addressed by the learned Counsel for the applicants is relating to limitation for taking cognizance by the Magistrate in view of Section 468 of Cr.P.C. According to learned Counsel, admittedly, the Investigating Officer has filed a report and a cognizance of the same has been taken by the learned Magistrate after expiry of more than three and a half (3½) years for an offence which prescribes the minimum punishment of one year. Thus, according to him, the said cognizance is clearly barred by limitation under Section 468 Cr.P.C. and the present impugned summoning order as well as the entire proceedings is bad in law specially when there is no compliance or application of Section 473 Cr.P.C. relating to explanation for condoning the delay.

5. It has been pointed out by learned Counsel for the applicants that while entertaining the present application, the entire proceedings in Case No.1197/2012 was stayed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 14.02.2014.

6. Learned Additional Government Advocate, on the other hand, opposed the submissions made by the learned Counsel for the applicants.

7. Having heard the learned Counsel for the parties and gone through the record available before this Court, this Court finds that charge-sheet in N.C.R. No. 85 of 2008 has been filed by the Investigating Officer under Sections 323, 504 and 506 I.P.C. So far as the offence under Section 323 I.P.C. is concerned, maximum punishment that could be awarded for the offence is one year and fine up to Rs.1000/-, whereas for the offence under Sections 504 and 506 I.P.C. is concerned, the maximum punishment awarded is of two years respectively.

8. First & foremost, it has to be understood that cognizance indicates the point when a Court takes judicial notice of an offence with a view to initiating process in respect of the offence. Cognizance is entirely different from initiation of proceedings, rather it is the condition precedent to the initiation of proceedings by the Court. Cognizance is taken of the case and not of a person. Under Section 190 of Cr.P.C., it is the application of mind to the averments in the complaint that constitute cognizance. The stage of process is not relevant for the purpose of computing limitation under Section 468 of Cr.P.C.

9. It is not disputed that the offences under Sections 323, 504 and 506 I.P.C. are non-cognizable, hence in view of the Explanation to Section 2 (d) of Cr.P.C. a case could not proceed as a State case and it has to proceed as a complaint case. That Explanation of 2(d) of Cr.P.C. reads as under :-

> "Explanation.—A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint, and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant."

10. Thus, in view of the said explanation, charge-sheet submitted by the Investigating Officer, after investigation, disclosing commission of non-cognizable offence is to be deemed to be a complaint and a police officer, who submitted the report, has to be deemed to be a complainant. In other words, the charge sheet submitted by the police in a non-cognizable offence shall be treated to be a complaint and the procedure prescribed for claiming a complaint case shall be applicable to the case.

11. In the present case, the learned Magistrate, instead of treated the charge sheet submitted by the Investigating Officer as a complaint, took cognizance of it as a State case by the impugned summoning order dated 07.12.2013, which is not permissible under law.

12. Further issuance of process of summons is not an empty formality. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M/S. Pepsi Foods Ltd. & Anr vs Special Judicial Magistrate & Ors. : 1998 (5) SCC 749 has held that summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set in motion as a matter of course for alleged offence. It would be apt to take note of para 28 of the aforesaid judgment, which reads as thus :-

> "28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. it is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

13. In the present case, this Court finds that the learned Magistrate did not even care to note that as to whether the offences, for which the charge-sheet has been filed by the police, is as to whether cognizable or not, so to expect that there had been any application of mind would be a misnomer. Apparently, the summoning order dated 07.12.2013 seems to have been issued in a routine manner, which cannot withstand the parameters of Sections 203/204 of Cr.P.C. and is liable to be set aside.

14. Further, there is another aspect of the matter. At this stage, it would be apt to refer to the provisions of Sections 468, 469 and 473 Cr.P.C., which read thus:-

> "468. Bar to taking cognizance after lapse of the period of limitation.—
>
> (1) Except as otherwise provided elsewhere in this Code, no Court shall take cognizance of an offence of the category specified in sub-section (2), after the expiry of the period of limitation.
>
> (2) The period of limitation shall be- (a) six months, if the offence is punishable with fine only;
> 1. Provisions of this Chapter shall not apply to certain economic offences, see the Economic Offences (Inapplicability of Limitation) Act, 1974 (12 of 1974), s. 2 and Sch. 191(b) one year, if the offence is punishable with imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year; (c) three years, if the offence is punishable with imprisonment for a term exceeding one year but not exceeding three years. [(3) For the purposes of this section, the period of limitation, in relation to offences which may be tried together, shall be determined with reference to the offence which is punishable with the more severe punishment or, as the case may be, the most severe punishment.]

469. Commencement of the period of limitation*.—(1) The period of limitation, in relation to an offender, shall commenc—*

(a) on the date of the offence; or (b) where the commission of the offence was not known to the person aggrieved by the offence or to any police officer, the first day on which such offence comes to the knowledge of such person or to any police officer, whichever is earlier; or (c) where it is not known by whom the offence was committed, the first day on which the identity of the offender is known to the person aggrieved by the offence or to the police officer making investigation into the offence, whichever is earlier.

(2) In computing the said period, the day from which such period is to be computed shall be excluded;

473. Extension of period of limitation in certain cases*— Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing provisions of this Chapter, any Court may take cognizance of an offence after the expiry of the period of limitation, if it is satisfied on the facts and in the circumstances of the case that the delay has been properly explained or that it is necessary so to do in the interests of justice."*

15. Section 468 Cr.P.C. clearly mandates that no Court shall take cognizance of an offence after the period of limitation of three years if the offence is punishable with imprisonment for a term exceeding one year, but not exceeding three years. Further, Section 469 Cr.P.C. also makes it amply clear that the period of limitation, in relation to an offender shall commence on the date of the offence.

16. In the present case, the date of offence of reporting of N.C.R. is of 03.09.2008 and the impugned charge sheet has been filed on 10.04.2012 and the learned Magistrate has issued the summons on 07.12.2013. Apparently, the charge sheet itself has been filed after more than three and a half (3½) years from the date of N.C.R. and since the said charge sheet ought to have been construed as a complaint and the investigating officer to be a complainant in view of Explanation of Section 2(d) of Cr.P.C., therefore, taking a cognizance of offence after three and a half (3½) years by the learned Magistrate is barred by limitation as per Section 468 (2)(c) of Cr.P.C.. Further, it is neither case of the parties that any application under Section 473 Cr.P.C. has been filed or that the learned Magistrate has passed any order under Section 473 Cr.P.C. justifying the issuance of the impugned summoning order dated 07.12.2013.

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarah Mathew Vs. Inst., Cardio Vascular Diseases & Ors., 2014 (1) SCC 721 had an occasion to consider the scope and ambit of Sections 468 and 473 Cr.P.C. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under :-

> "In view of the above, we hold that for the purpose of computing the period of limitation under Section 468 of the Cr.P.C. the relevant date is the date of filing of the complaint or the date of institution of prosecution and not the date on which the Magistrate takes cognizance. We further hold that Bharat Kale which is followed in Japani Sahoo lays down the correct law. Krishna Pillai will have to be restricted to its own facts and it is not the authority for deciding the question as to what is the relevant date for the purpose of computing the period of limitation under Section 468 of the Cr.P.C."

18. A similar view has been take by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of P.K. Choudhury Vs. Commander, 48 Brtf (Gref), 2008 SCC Online SC 510. The relevant paragraph of the decision reads as under :-

> "As an option to get the appellant tried in a ordinary criminal court had been exercised by the respondent, there cannot be any doubt whatsoever that all the pre-requisites therefor in regard to the period of limitation as also the necessity to obtain the order of sanction were required to be complied with.
> A Court of law cannot take cognizance of an offence, if it is barred by limitation. Delay in filing a complaint petition therefore has to be condoned. If the delay is not condoned, the court will have no jurisdiction to take cognizance. Similarly unless it is held that a sanction was not required to be obtained, the court's jurisdiction will be barred."

19. Even in the case of Rakesh Kumar Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and another, 2007 ADJ 478 specifically para nos.5 and 6, a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court has considered the matter wherein FIR was lodged under Section 307 I.P.C., but subsequently charge sheet was submitted under Section 504 I.P.C. The Court concluded that it should not be proceeded as a police case which is barred under the Explanation of Section 2(d) of Cr.P.C. The relevant para nos. 5 and 6 are reproduced hereinafter :-

> "5. He submitted that in the present case originally the F.I.R. was lodged under Section 307 I.P.C., but after investigation the Investigating Officer came to the conclusion that no offence under Section 307 I.P.C. was made out and only a case under Section 504 I.P.C. was made out against the applicant and so a charge-sheet under Section 504 I.P.C. was submitted against the applicant. He contended that in view of the aforesaid Explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. the case could not proceed as a police case in respect of an offence punishable under Section 504 I.P.C. because the offence under Section 504 I.P.C. is non-cognizable and so the case could proceed only as a complaint case in view of the aforesaid Explanation.

6. The above contention of the learned Counsel for the applicant is correct. I, therefore, allow this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to this extent that the cognizance taken by the Magistrate in the case on the basis of the report of the police for the offence punishable under Section 504 I.P.C. and the orders passed by him for issuing warrant against the applicant are hereby quashed. The Magistrate shall not proceed with the case as a State case but he shall proceed with it as a complaint case as provided in the Explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. and he shall follow the procedure prescribed for hearing of a complaint case."

20. In view of the settled law, the learned Magistrate-III, Faizabad ought to had not proceeded on the police report without applying judicial mind inasmuch as all the offences as mentioned in the N.C.R. as non-cognizable and proper course of the action for the Magistrate was to treat the matter as complaint under the provisions as enshrined under Explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. Further the Magistrate could not have taken cognizance of the offence after three years from the date of offence as the offences alleged under Sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. are punishable with maximum sentence of one year and two years respectively. Further perusal of the impugned order shows that the learned Judicial Magistrate-III had no occasion to condone the delay in terms of Section 473 Cr.P.C. before taking cognizance, therefore, the impugned order is without jurisdiction.

21. This being the position, this Court is of the considered view that the instant application deserves to be allowed.

22. Consequently, the summoning order dated 07.12.2013, passed by Judicial Magistrate-III, Faizabad in Case No.1197/2012, State Vs. Ram Ajore & others, under Sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Gosainganj, District Faizabad and all other consequential proceedings emanating therefrom are quashed.

23. The application is allowed.

Criminal Law –Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 147, 279, 323, 427, 504 & 506 - The Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 3(1)(r) and (s) -alleged road rage incident lacked evidence of intentional caste-based abuse- investigation was cursory, with no evidence of prior acquaintance-no intent to insult based on caste-no independent witnesses were examined- charge sheet and proceedings quashed- application allowed. (Paras 10,11 and 12)

HELD:
Above referred statement does not disclose that applicants were prior acquainted or they got knowledge during occurrence that complainant and co-passenger belongs to SC/ST that there was an intention to insult them being SC/ST, therefore, basic ingredients of Section 3(1)(Da)(Dha) of SC/ST Act are absolutely missing. (para 10)

The Investigating Officer has in a very cursory and casual manner investigated the case without ascertaining that basic ingredients of Section 3(1)(Da)(Dha) of SC/ST Act was prima facie made out or not. (Para 11)

In view of above, Court also takes note that it was case of road rage and there was no injury report placed on record. Court also takes note that source of name of applicants as referred in statement were independent persons allegedly present at the place of occurrence, however, none of independent witness was examined during investigation which also indicates that investigation was conducted in a very cursory manner. No attempt was taken for conducting identification parade. (Para 12)

Application allowed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. These applications are heard qua to surviving applicants. They are aggrieved by impugned charge sheet dated 27.06.2019 as well as entire proceedings of SST No. 34/2019 (State vs. Faheem and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 204/2019 under Sections 147, 279, 323, 427, 504, 506 IPC and 3(1)(r) and (s) of SC/ST Act, Police Station- Jalaun, District- Jalaun, pending before Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Jalaun at Orai.

2. Trial Court took cognizance of offence on 27.11.2019 and applicants were summoned by order of date though above referred both orders are not specifically challenged though it might fall within 'further entire proceedings'.

3. S/Sri Mohd. Shahibe Alam Khan and Wahid Jamal, learned advocates for applicants have submitted that it was a case of road rage. Complainant has alleged that he was driving an ALTO car along with co-passenger and there was traffic jam during which applicant (Faheem) who was driving Tavera without looking at rear side, reversed his Tavera and hit the ALTO car on its front side and when it was objected, said Faheem called other applicants and not only assaulted complainant and co-passenger but also damaged his car and hurled caste abuses as well.

4. This Court has passed following order on 04.02.2020 -:

> "The applicant, by means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., has invoked the inherent jurisdiction of this Court with prayer to quash the charge sheet No. 01 of 2019, dated 27.06.2019 as well as entire proceeding of S.S.T. No. 34 of 2019 (State Versus Faheem and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 204 of 2019, under Sections 147, 279, 323, 427, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3(1) Da, Dha SC/ST Act, Police Station Jalaun, District Jalaun.

Heard learned counsel for applicant, learned A.G.A. for State and perused the record.

Ms. Divya Ojha, Advocate, holding brief of Sri Vijay Singh Sengar, learned counsel for applicant argued that from the very perusal of first information report, it is apparent that no abuse or assault is with intention to assault or abuse because of being a member of scheduled caste or scheduled tribe community. It was a case of road rage, wherein no such question arises. Moreso, complainant himself has written in its F.I.R. that he was not aware of accused persons, rather upon making query from the persons present thereat, he could gather the name of driver and other accused persons, leaving behind 7 to 8 others, involved in it. Thereafter, no identification parade for fixation of identity by Investigating Officer was conducted and applicant has been implicated and charge sheeted, as above, for his no fault.

The matter requires hearing on merit.

Learned A.G.A. has accepted notice on behalf of opposite party No. 1.

Issue notice to opposite party No. 2 returnable at an early date.

Steps be taken within ten days.

Opposite party no. 2 may file counter affidavit within four weeks. Learned A.G.A. may also file counter affidavit within the same period. Rejoinder affidavit, if any, may be filed within two weeks thereafter.

List in the week commencing 13th April, 2020.

Till the next date of listing, no coercive action shall be taken against the applicant in the above mentioned case."

5. Learned advocates for applicants have submitted that applicants have no prior acquaintance with complainant and co-passenger travelling in ALTO, therefore, there was no chance that he could know their caste, as such, basic ingredients of Section 3(1)(Da)(Dha) of SC/ST Act are not made out since there is a requirement that there must be intentionally insult, however, such intention was absolutely missing since the applicants had no knowledge that complainant and his co-passenger belongs to SC/ST.

6. Learned advocates have further submitted that name of applicants were disclosed allegedly on basis of information given by independent person, however, none of independent witnesses was examined during investigation. The I.O. has also not able to ascertain names of 7-8 unknown persons and that complainant and his associate was not legally medical examined.

7. Aforesaid submissions were opposed by Sri R.K. Mishra, learned AGA for State that investigation was conducted in a fair manner. Statement of complainant was recorded who has supported the prosecution case though it has not been denied that no independent witness was examined despite occurrence was allegedly took place in public place and name of applicants were also disclosed by public as well as that there was no evidence that applicants were prior acquainted with complainant and co-passenger and applicants knew that they belong to SC/ST. No identification parade was conducted for identification of assailants.

8. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

9. I have carefully perused statement of the complainant and for reference, same is quoted below -:

"26.4.2019/ बयान वादी .....बदरियाफत श्री राजेश आनन्द उम्र 40 वर्ष पुत्र श्री नानक चन्द वर्मा नि० मु० शिवपुरी उरई थाना कोतवाली उरई जिला जालौन मो० नं0 9515153139 ने पूछने पर प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट का समर्थन करते हुए बताया कि दिनांक 25.4.19 को रात्रि करीब 11.30 मिनट पर माधौगढ अपने पेट्रोल टैंक से अपनी गाडी आल्टो कार नं० यूपी 92के-0263 से उरई जा रहा था कि कोंच चौराहे पर सडक निर्माण की वजह से जाम लगा हुआ था मेरे सामने यू०पी० 77एस-3115 तवेरा गाडी खडी थी जिसके चालक ने गाडी जगह मिलने पर गाडी बैक किया व सामने से मेरी गाडी में टक्कर मार दी तो मैने उससे कहा कि आप को इतनी बडी गाडी नहीं दिखाई दे रही है। जिस पर उसने जाति सूचक शब्दो में गाली गलौच देना शुरू कर दिया मैने कहा कि गाली क्यो दे रहे हो तो बोला अभी बताता हूँ और फोन करके अपनी साथी 1-नौशाद पुत्र स्व० शाकिर 2-नसीम पुत्र हकीम उल्ला 3-आमिर पुत्र हकीम उल्ला 4-रियाज पुत्र मुन्ना 5-सारूख पुत्र नाकिर 6-सरताज नाऊ 7-7-8 लोग नाम पता अज्ञात लोगो को बुलाकर मेरे व मेरे साथी शीबू पुत्र सलीम के साथ गाडी से खींचकर मारपीट करने लगे व मेरे गाडी के दाहिने साईड के गेट के दोनो व पीछे का शीशा ईटा मारकर तोड दिये व जाते समय बोले अगर कही बताया तो जान से मार देगे उक्त लोगो के जाने के बाद मैने आस पास के लोगो से पता किया तो पता चला कि गाडी का चालक फहीन,व उसके साथी नौसाद पुत्र स्व० शाकिर, नसीम व आमिर पुत्रगण हकीम उल्ला, रियाज पुत्र मुन्ना, साहरूख पुत्र नाकिर, सरताज नाऊ व सात आठ लोगो और थे जिनके नाम पता नहीं जानते जिन्हे सामने आने पर पहचान सकता हूँ। इन सभी लोगो ने ही मेरे गाडी के शीशे ईटो से तोडे व मेरे साथ के साथ मारपीट की जिससे कपडे भी फट गये मै कोरी जाति का हूँ। मेरे द्वारा घटना की रिपोर्ट दिनांक 26.04.2019 को थाना कोतवाली जालौन में दर्ज करा दी गयी है। यही मेरा बयान है।"

10. Above referred statement does not disclose that applicants were prior acquainted or they got knowledge during occurrence that complainant and co-passenger belongs to SC/ST that there was an intention to insult them being SC/ST, therefore, basic ingredients of Section 3(1)(Da)(Dha) of SC/ST Act are absolutely missing.

11. The Investigating Officer has in a very cursory and casual manner investigated the case without ascertaining that basic ingredients of Section 3(1)(Da)(Dha) of SC/ST Act was prima facie made out or not.

12. In view of above, Court also takes note that it was case of road rage and there was no injury report placed on record. Court also takes note that source of name of applicants as referred in statement were independent persons allegedly present at the place of occurrence, however, none of independent witness was examined during investigation which also indicates that investigation was conducted in a very cursory manner. No attempt was taken for conducting identification parade.

13. In aforesaid circumstances, this Court finds that present is a fit case where inherent powers of this Court could be invoked, hence, impugned charge sheet dated 27.06.2019 arising out of Case Crime No. 204/2019 under Sections 147, 279, 323, 427, 504, 506 IPC and 3(1)(r) and (s) of SC/ST Act, Police Station- Jalaun, District- Jalaun as well as further proceedings of SST No. 34/2019 (State vs. Faheem and others) including cognizance and summoning order pending before Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Jalaun at Orai are hereby quashed.

14. Application is, accordingly, allowed.

1. Heard Sri A. M. Tripathi and Sri Yugal Kishor Tripathi, learned counsel for the applicants, and Sri S. P. Tiwari, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Anand Prakash Singh, learned counsel for opposite party No. 2.

2. By means of the present application u/s 482 CrPC, the applicants have assailed the order dated 23.05.2024, passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Pratapgarh (in short 'trial court'), in Sessions Trial No. 486 of 2019 (State Vs. Ashraf and Ors), arising out of Case Crime No. 306 of 2018, under Section 147, 148, 149, 302, IPC, Police Station- Antu, District- Pratapgarh. The order under challenge dated 23.05.2024 has been passed by the trial court in exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC.

3. Brief facts of the case are to the effect that an F.I.R. was lodged by the informant/eye-witness/opposite party No. 2 namely Chandan Singh (PW-1) on 14.08.2018, which was registered as Case Crime No. 306 of 2018, under Section 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC. As per the allegations levelled in the F.I.R., the deceased, father of the opposite party No. 2, was assaulted by Asad Ali @ Munna, Bablu, Mahroj, Awadhesh Kumar, and an unknown person. The deceased namely Harishchandra Singh succumbed to the gunshot injury. As per the F.I.R., the incident is of 14.08.2018 at about 09:00 a.m..

4. After the aforesaid, the Investigating Officer (in short "I.O.") carried out the investigation and the I.O., after due investigation, submitted the charge sheet against Ashraf, Imran Khan, Kalam, Segu @ Mujib and Irfan under Section 302, & 120-B IPC.

5. The trial court, taking note of the evidence available on record, framed the charges against the above named accused persons, in relation to which the charge sheet prepared on 30.11.2018 was submitted by the I.O. and additional charge sheet prepared on 03.02.2019 was also submitted and on thereafter the charges were framed on 22.03.2021/23.03.2021, as appears from the impugned order dated 23.05.2024, and upon denial of charges, the accused namely Ashraf, Imran Khan, Kalam, Segu @ Mujib and Irfan were put to trial.

6. Before the trial court, the statement(s) of Chandan Singh (PW-1)/informant/eye witness/opposite party No. 2, Suneel Ranjak (PW-2), Vahid Khan (PW-3), Dhirendra Yadav (PW-4) and Anuj Singh (PW-5) were recorded.

7. On the basis of the evidence/ statements of above-named witnesses, an application under Section 319 CrPC dated 12.01.2024 was preferred from the side of the prosecution.

8. The trial court, after considering the evidence/ statement of informant/eye witness/opposite party No. 2 namely Chandan Singh, allowed the application under Section 319 CrPC dated 12.01.2024 vide order dated 23.05.2024, under challenge, and summoned the accused namely Asad Ali @ Munna, Akhtar Ali @ Bablu, Mahroj and Awadh Kumar Mishra to face the trial under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 IPC, in regard to whom the I.O. had submitted the report dated 11.09.2018 under Section 169 Cr.P.C.. The relevant portion of the order 23.05.2024 is extracted herein-under:

> "3. Heard and perused the records. First information report in this case i.e. case crime no. 306/2018 was lodged on 14.08.2018 at 11.05 by informant Chandan against accused persons Asad Ali @ Munna, Akhtar Ali @ Bablu, Mahroj and Awadh Kumar Mishra and one unknown with the averment that on 14.08.2018 at about 9 A.M. informant and his father Harish Chandra had come to Chaukhad Pure Anti by motorcycle and when they were returning by making some payment to Raju Pradhan and when they reached near Chaukhad Pure Anti primary school then suddenly assailants came on two motor cycle and they sho: at the father of the informant and caused his death and after that assailants left the scene. Informant has also narrated in the first information report that there is one case pending in the court against accused Asad ali for attempting to murder of the father of the informant and in that case Asad ali was pressurizing the father of informant to compromise and when father of the informant did not get ready to compromise then the named accused persons have committed this offence. After the registration of the F.I.R. this case was investigated and investigating officer submitted report u/s 169 Cr.P.C. against accused persons Asad Ali @Munna, Bablu, Mahroj and Awadh Kumar Mishra in the first information report and submitted charge sheet against accused persons Asraf, Imran Khan, Kalam, Sebu @ Mujeeb and Irfaan u/s 302, 120B, P.S. Antoo, district Pratapgarh.

4. After submission of the charge sheet against above named accused persons learned Special Judge SC/ST Act, Pratapgarh framed charges against them on 02.02.2021/23.03.2021 and proceeded for trial. During trial prosecution examined informant Chandan Singh as PW-1, witness Suneel Ranjak PW-2, Vahid Khan PW-3, Dhirendra Yadav PW-4, Anuj Singh PW-5 and on the basis of the evidence of these witnesses moved an application dated 12.01.2024 u/s 319 Cr.P.C. Informant PW-1 Chandan Singh has given statement in his examination-in-chief that accused persons Awadh Kumar, Asad ali, Mahroj and Bablu are the real culprits and they have committed the offence of the murder of the informant's father. Witness PW-1 has named the accused persons, above named, in his examination in chief and has given the testimony that the accused persons Awadh Kumar, Bablu, Mahroj and Asad, came at the place of incident and they open fired there and Asad Ali shot dead the father of the informant in his chest and by that way committed the offence of murder with the assistance of the other co-accused persons. At the time of the incidence Awadh Kumar and Asad ali fired at the father of the informant and their bullet hit the father of the informant and accused persons Bablu and Mahroj were there on their motorcycle and they were intimidating the others for not to come near them and after commission of the crime all the accused persons fled away on their motorcycles. Thus PW-1 has supported its Tehreer in his evidence. PW-1 has been cross-examined in length by the accused persons but he has not made otherwise statement in his cross-examination which could disown

5. Section 319 Cr.P.C. provides as under:-

319. Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence.- (1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

6. Section 319 provides the trial court, if evidence against any person whose name is not included in the charge sheet comes before the court, may summon that person as accused to face the trial. In the case in hand the proposed accused persons named in the application u/s 319 Cr.P.C. are named in the first information report and informant is the eye-witness of the case. As per the prosecution case informant was accompanied with his father on motorcycle and the proposed accused persons murdered the father of the informant by firing fire arms at him.

7. It is well entrenched law that for summoning a person u/s 319 Cr.P.C. as accused court has to consider two points, firstly that whether the prima facie evidence against that person is of graver nature then framing of the charge or not and secondly whether the material available on records, if not rebutted, then whether those material will be sufficient to convict the persons.

8. Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab [(2014) 3 SCC 92] that for summoning a persons u/s 319 Cr.P.C. the nature of the evidence should be of greater quality than what is required for framing of the charge and secondly court has to consider that whether the quality of the evidence is such that if not rebutted then the accused might be convicted only on the basis of those evidences.

9. Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in Labhuji Amritji Thakor and ors. Vs. State of Gujarat [Crl. Appeal no. 1349/23018 decided on 13.11.2018] that for summoning a person u/s 319 Cr.P.C. court must be satisfied that there must be an evidence on the record which is, if unrebutted, sufficient to convict the accused persons.

10. Hon'ble Supreme Court has recently held in Juhur and ors. Vs. Kareem and ors. [Crl. Appeal no. 549/2023 decided on 21.02.2023] that for summoning a person as accused u/s 319 Cr.P.C. court has to consider on the evidence on the records only on that basis court has to decide that whether the proposed accused can be summoned as accused in the case or not.

11. In the case in hand informant has named the proposed accused persons in the first information report and has given the trustworthy evidence before the court in his examination in chief and in the cross-examination that the proposed accused persons are the real culprits and they have committed the murder of the father of the informant.

12. At this stage the evidence of PW-1 is such that if the evidence of PW-1 is not rebutted by the proposed accused persons that will be sufficient to convict proposed accused persons, the informant is the eye-witness of this case and it has also been brought on the record that another case of attempt to murder of the father of the informant was already pending against the proposed accused Asad Ali at the time of incident. Thus, the eye account of the whole case has been candidly laid down by the informant before the court and the motive for the offence is also associated against proposed accused person Asad Ali. The other co-accused Awadh, Bablu and Mahroj were present at the place of incidence at the time of the commission of the crime and they also have actively participated in the commission of the crime.

Hence on the basis of above discussions court is satisfied that proposed accused persons Asad Ali @ Munna, Akhtar Ali @ Bablu, Mahroj and Awadh Kumar Mishra should be summoned for the trial u/s 147,148,149,302 I.P.C.

ORDER

Hence application u/s 319 Cr.P.C. dated 12.01.2024 is allowed. Proposed accused persons Asad Ali @ Munna, Akhtar Ali @ Bablu, Mahroj and Awadh Kumar Mishra are hereby summoned as accused u/s 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial u/s 147, 148, 149, 302 I.P.C.

It is to be noted here that the trial of these newly summoned accused persons named above shall be conducted separately under another case number and they will not be tried with the S.T. 486/2019 as this S.T. has proceeded far away and if these newly accused will be clubbed with the old case then the already running S.T. 486/2019 will retreat back to its initial stage and that will cause the delay of justice to the accused persons whose trial is going on under S.T. 486/2019.

The newly summoned accused persons Asad Ali @ Munna, Akhtar Ali @ Bablu, Mahroj and Awadh Kumar Mishra are directed to appear before the court on 04.06.2024. Office is directed to separate records for them and issue summon against them."

9. A perusal of the above extracted/ quoted portion of the order under challenge dated 23.05.2024 reflects that the trial court for the purposes of summoning the accused, named above, considered and relied upon the evidence/ statements of eye witness/PW-1 made before the it and also the contents of the F.I.R. lodged by this witness.

10. In the aforesaid background of the case, the present application has been filed.

11. Challenging the order dated 23.05.2024, Sri Tripathi, learned counsel for the applicants, in nutshell, made following submissions:

(i) As per the story narrated in the F.I.R., the informant and deceased both were on the same motorcycle and this story was improved by PW-1 while making the statement before the trial court as according to the statement before the trial court the deceased and informant/PW-1 were on different motorcycles and while passing the order under challenge dated 23.05.2024 on an application preferred by the prosecution under Section 319 CrPC, the trial court has not considered this aspect of the case.

(ii) The I.O. after due investigation collected the evidence i.e. CCTV footage, the certificate/letter from the company, attendance sheet and Call Detail Report (C.D.R.) and based upon the same, the I.O. was of the view that the applicants were not present at the place/ situs of crime and therefore the I.O. submitted the report in terms of Section 169 CrPC exonerating the applicants and all these evidence were ignored by the trial court while passing the order dated 23.05.2024 on an application preferred under Section 319 CrPC. Thus, the trial court erred in fact and law both.

(iii) According to the judgment(s) of the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab, reported in (2014) 3 SCC 92, and Brijendra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan, reported in (2017) 7 SCC 706, the trial court should record its subjective satisfaction while passing the order under Section 319 CrPC and the trial court is under obligation to take note of evidence which includes the entire evidence collected by the I.O. during investigation.

(iv) PW-5 is the real brother of Chandan Singh (PW-1/informant-eye witness) and thus he is an interested witness and his testimony should be considered in terms of the principles settled by the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard and further PW-5 appears to be a planted witness and his presence at the place of crime, as he indicated before the trial court while making statement, is doubtful because as per his statement recorded during the course of investigation in terms of Section 161 CrPC, he was informed on phone and thereafter he reached the place/ situs of crime.

12. The relevant para(s) of the affidavit filed in support of application, under consideration, referred in regard to the aforesaid, are reproduced herein-under:

"13. That thereafter, the investigating officer, during investigation recorded the necessary information at that time, post mortem conducted, the several applications/tehrir has been prepared by the complainant, due to which the matter required proper investigation. A copy of relevant C.D. parcha is being annexed herewith as Annexure No.8, to this petition.

14. That the investigating officer also recorded the statement of alleged eye witness namely Mohd. Mahfooz son of Koshib and alleged eye witness Mohd. Rizwan son of Altaf, they have given proper statement to the investigating officer. A copy of statements of eye witness namely Mohd. Mahfooz and Mohd. Rizwan are being collectively annexed herewith as Annexure No.9, to this petition.

15. That the investigating officer, during the investigation has come to the knowledge that one accused Imran Khan son of Rizwan, who is in jail in Crime No.324/2019 and Crime No. 326/2018 and has full knowledge about the alleged occurrence, then the investigating officer recorded his statement in jail and disclosed the correct prosecution story and arrested one co-accused Ashraf son of Mohd. Azeez, who has giving their statement on 20.08.2018. A copy of statement of Imran Khan and statement of co-accused Ashraf are being annexed herewith as Annexure No.10 and 11, to this petition.

16. That thereafter, the investigating officer reached the correct facts of the alleged occurrence and fairly examine the statement of co-accused Ashraf and found correct then also recorded the statement of further witnesses.

17. That the investigating officer also recorded the statement of witness namely Mohd. Aslam son of Mohd. Habib and Arif Ali son of Safeek and also recorded the statement of independent witness Dhirendra Yadav and Shrawan Kumar Pandey and Mahfooz Khan, in which they are clearly stated that the applicants/petitioners are falsely implicated in the matter and they have not committed any crime. The copy of statement of witnesses namely Mohd. Aslam, Arif Ali and indepedent witnesses namley Dhirendra Yadav and Shrawan Kumar Pandey and Mahfooz Khan are being collectively annexed herewith as Annexure No.12, to this petition.

18. That thereafter investigating officer come to the conclusion at the time of alleged occurrence, the petitioners are not present, they are falsely implicated in the present case, due to old enmity, then he further recorded the statement of witnesses namely Rafeek Ahmad son of Taufeek, Arif Ali son of Safeek and Ubedullah son of Abibullah and Ahmad Ali son of Nazab Ali and Mohd. Aslam son of Mohd. Habib and Rafeek Ahmad son of Abdul Hameed, in which they are clearly given their statement that the petitioners/applicants are falsely implicated due to village party bandi and old enmity. The copy of statement of witnesses namely Rafeek Ahmad son of Taufeek, Arif Ali son of Safeek and Ubedullah son of Abibullah and Ahmad Ali son of Nazab Ali and Mohd. Aslam son of Mohd. Habib and Rafeek Ahmad son of Abdul Hameed are being collectively annexed herewith as Annexure No.13, to this petition.

19. That thereafter, the investigating officer visited the house of applicant Asad Ali @ Munna and recorded the statement of his wife Qamrul Nisha and wife of Babloo, Rehana Bano and daughter Sama Parveen, in which, they are clearly stated that at the time of alleged occurrence, the petitioner no.3 Mafroz present in Gurgaon city, then the investigating officer collect the CCTV footage from Gurgaon city and also taking evidence from company Manager, in which the petitioner no.3 doing job at Gurgaon.

The aforesaid facts mentioned in CD parcha No.11 and CD No.28. A copy of CD parcha No.11 and CD parcha no.28 alongwith letter-pad of the company with attendance sheet and CCTV footage are being collectively annexed herewith as Annexure No.14, to this petition.

20. That the investigating officer during the investigation collected the call details at the time of alleged occurrence of all concerned persons, in which it has been found the location and details of applicants are different from the alleged occurrence place. A copy of report of P.S. Antu alongwith call details parcha and details of location are being collectively annexed herewith as Annexure No.15, to this petition.

21. That the investigating officer during investigation found that the four persons namely Asad Ali @ Munna, Bablu @ Akhtar Ali, Mafroz son of Asad Ali and Awadhesh Kumar Mishra falsely implicated in the alleged occurrence, in which the Asad Ali @ Munna is in jail, then he sent report to concerned Magistrate, under section 169 Cr.P.C. on 11.09.2018. A copy of report dated 11.09.2018 is being annexed herewith as Annexure No.16, to this petition.

22. That on the basis of report dated 11.09.2018, under section 169 Cr.P.C., the petitioner no.1 Asad Ali @ Munna falsely implicated, then the concerned Magistrate accepted the report and passed released order on 11.09.2018. A copy of release order dated 11.09.2018 is being annexed herewith Annexure No.17, to this petition.

23. That thereafter, the investigating officer prepared the charge-sheet against the accused persons namely Ashraf, Imran Khan and Kalam on 30.11.2018, under section 302, 120-B IPC. A copy of charge-sheet dated 30.11.2018 is being annexed herewith as Annexure No.18, to this petition.

24. That the investigating officer filed supplementary charge-sheet against two accused persons namely Shebu @ Mujeeb Ahmad and Irfan on 03.02.2019. Thereafter the investigating officer completed the investigation on 07.12.2020 by CD Parcha No.12, in which, no allegations against the petitioners. A copy of supplementary charge-sheet and CD Parcha No.12 are being collectively annexed herewith as Annexure No.19, to this petition.

33. That the investigating officer by perusal of CCTV footage certificate issued by the concerned company and by perusal of the call details and location and also considering the statement of eye witnesses submitted the charge-sheet, in which the name of the petitioners were not found at the time of occurrence and the matter proceed for trial.

34. That the opp. party no.2 with the malafide intention, only harass the petitioners after taking legal advice due to old enmity and village party bandi moved application under section 319 Cr.P.C., despite the facts the P.W.2 namely Sunil Razzak, P.W.3 namely Wahid Khan and P.W.4 namely Dhirendra Yadav not supported the version of the prosecution and the charge-sheet submitted by the investigating officer in fair and proper manner."

13. Opposing the present application, learned A.G.A. Shri S. P. Tiwari and Shri Anand Prakash Singh, Advocate, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 stated that the trial court has not committed any illegality or irregularity in passing the order under Section 319 CrPC. It is stated that the trial court in terms of the various pronouncements on the issue is under obligation to consider the evidence led before it and not the evidence collected by the investigating officer during investigation. In the instant case, the trial court took note of the contents of the F.I.R. and the evidence/ statement of PW-1, an informant and eye-witness, and after considering the statement of PW-1 and contents of F.I.R., the trial court observed that if the evidence/ statement of PW-1 is not rebutted, then it would be a case of conviction, which is the requirement of law, and accordingly, no interference in the order under challenge dated 23.05.2024 is required by this Court. It would be apt to indicate that the cause of death is gunshot injury and this is not in issue.

14. Considered the aforesaid and perused the record.

15. Before proceedings, on merits of the case, it would be apt to indicate that the principles related to dealing with an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. or exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. have already been settled in various pronouncements by the Hon'ble Apex Court and accordingly, this Court is not inclined to refer the judgments passed by this Court.

16. In the case of Hardeep Singh (supra), the Hon’ble Apex Court on the issue involved herein observed as under:

“105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 CrPC. In Section 319 CrPC the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 CrPC to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

Subsequently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Brijendra Singh (supra) considered the expression 'evidence' and after considering the language couched under Section 319 Cr.P.C. as also the expression 'evidence', the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"13. In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh case may be recapitulated: power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised by the trial court at any stage during the trial i.e. before the conclusion of trial, to summon any person as an accused and face the trial in the ongoing case, once the trial court finds that there is some "evidence" against such a person on the basis of which evidence it can be gathered that he appears to be guilty of the offence. The "evidence" herein means the material that is brought before the court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the IO at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 CrPC. No doubt, such evidence that has surfaced in examination-in-chief, without cross-examination of witnesses, can also be taken into consideration. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the court under Section 319 CrPC and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom charge-sheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity.

14. When we translate the aforesaid principles with their application to the facts of this case, we gather an impression that the trial court acted in a casual and cavalier manner in passing the summoning order against the appellants. The appellants were named in the FIR. Investigation was carried out by the police. On the basis of material collected during investigation, which has been referred to by us above, the IO found that these appellants were in Jaipur city when the incident took place in Kanaur, at a distance of 175 km. The complainant and others who supported the version in the FIR regarding alleged presence of the appellants at the place of incident had also made statements under Section 161 CrPC to the same effect. Notwithstanding the same, the police investigation revealed that the statements of these persons regarding the presence of the appellants at the place of occurrence was doubtful and did not inspire confidence, in view of the documentary and other evidence collected during the investigation, which depicted another story and clinchingly showed that the appellants' plea of alibi was correct.

15. This record was before the trial court. Notwithstanding the same, the trial court went by the depositions of the complainant and some other persons in their examination-in-chief, with no other material to support their so-called verbal/ocular version. Thus, the "evidence" recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which were already there under Section 161 CrPC recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where a plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty-bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the revision petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing the agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny."

17. In the case of Rajesh and Others Vs. State of Haryana, reported in (2019) 6 SCC 368, the Hon'ble Apex Court considered the observations made in the cases of Hardeep Singh (surpa) and Brijendra Singh (supra) as also the expression 'evidence' and also various other pronouncements on the issues related to summoning the accused in exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C., which is apparent from the following portion of the report:

"3.5. Relying upon the decision of this Court in Brijendra Singh v. State of Rajasthan [Brijendra Singh v. State of Rajasthan, (2017) 7 SCC 706 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 144] , it is vehemently submitted by Shri Basant, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants that, as observed by this Court, merely on the basis of the deposition of the complainant and some other persons, with no other material to support their so-called verbal/ocular version, no person can be arrayed as an accused in exercise of powers under Section 319 CrPC. It is submitted by the learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants that, as observed by this Court in the aforesaid decision, such an "evidence" recorded during the trial is nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 CrPC recorded at the time of investigation of the case. Relying upon the aforesaid decision, it is vehemently submitted by the learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants that, in any case, the learned Magistrate was bound to look into the evidence collected by the investigating officer during investigation which suggested that the accused were not present at the time of commission of the offence. It is submitted that, in the present case, the learned Magistrate on the applications submitted by the SHO in fact discharged the appellant-accused herein and allowed the applications submitted by the SHO in which it was categorically stated that the appellants are innocent and that they were not present at the time of the incident. It is submitted that therefore the High Court has erred in dismissing the revision petition and confirming the order passed by the learned Magistrate in summoning the appellant-accused herein to face the trial for the offences under Sections 148, 149, 323, 324, 325, 302, 307 and 506 IPC, which was passed in exercise of powers under Section 319 CrPC.

6. While considering the aforesaid question/issue, few decisions of this Court are required to be referred to and considered.

6.1. The first decision which is required to be considered is a decision of the Constitution Bench of this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] which has been consistently followed by this Court in subsequent decisions.

6.2. In Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , this Court had the occasion to consider in detail the scope and ambit of the powers of the Magistrate under Section 319 CrPC the object and purpose of Section 319 CrPC, etc. In the said case, the following five questions fell for consideration before this Court : (SCC p. 112, para 6)

"6. ... 6.1.(i) What is the stage at which power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised?

6.2.(ii) Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) CrPC could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?

6.3.(iii) Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) CrPC has been used in a comprehensive sense and includes the evidence collected during investigation or the word "evidence" is limited to the evidence recorded during trial?

6.4.(iv) What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 CrPC to arraign an accused? Whether the power under Section 319(1) CrPC can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood be convicted?

6.5.(v) Does the power under Section 319 CrPC extend to persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR but not charged or who have been discharged?"

6.3. While considering the aforesaid questions, this Court observed and held as under : (Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , SCC pp. 114-17, 123 & 125-26, paras 12-14, 17-19, 22, 47 & 53-56)

"12. Section 319 CrPC springs out of the doctrine judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted) and this doctrine must be used as a beacon light while explaining the ambit and the spirit underlying the enactment of Section 319 CrPC.

13. It is the duty of the court to do justice by punishing the real culprit. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The question remains under what circumstances and at what stage should the court exercise its power as contemplated in Section 319 CrPC?

14. The submissions that were raised before us covered a very wide canvas and the learned counsel have taken us through various provisions of CrPC and the judgments that have been relied on for the said purpose. The controversy centres around the stage at which such powers can be invoked by the court and the material on the basis whereof such powers can be exercised.

17. Section 319 CrPC allows the court to proceed against any person who is not an accused in a case before it. Thus, the person against whom summons are issued in exercise of such powers, has to necessarily not be an accused already facing trial. He can either be a person named in Column 2 of the charge-sheet filed under Section 173 CrPC or a person whose name has been disclosed in any material before the court that is to be considered for the purpose of trying the offence, but not investigated. He has to be a person whose complicity may be indicated and connected with the commission of the offence.

18. The legislature cannot be presumed to have imagined all the circumstances and, therefore, it is the duty of the court to give full effect to the words used by the legislature so as to encompass any situation which the court may have to tackle while proceeding to try an offence and not allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot-free by being not arraigned in the trial in spite of the possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the documents presented by the prosecution.

19. The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence.

22. In our opinion, Section 319 CrPC is an enabling provision empowering the court to take appropriate steps for proceeding against any person not being an accused for also having committed the offence under trial.

***

47. Since after the filing of the charge-sheet, the court reaches the stage of inquiry and as soon as the court frames the charges, the trial commences, and therefore, the power under Section 319(1) CrPC can be exercised at any time after the charge-sheet is filed and before the pronouncement of judgment, except during the stage of Sections 207/208 CrPC, committal, etc. which is only a pre-trial stage, intended to put the process into motion. This stage cannot be said to be a judicial step in the true sense for it only requires an application of mind rather than a judicial application of mind. At this pre-trial stage, the Magistrate is required to perform acts in the nature of administrative work rather than judicial such as ensuring compliance with Sections 207 and 208 CrPC, and committing the matter if it is exclusively triable by the Sessions Court. Therefore, it would be legitimate for us to conclude that the Magistrate at the stage of Sections 207 to 209 CrPC is forbidden, by express provision of Section 319 CrPC, to apply his mind to the merits of the case and determine as to whether any accused needs to be added or subtracted to face trial before the Court of Session.

53. It is thus aptly clear that until and unless the case reaches the stage of inquiry or trial by the court, the power under Section 319 CrPC cannot be exercised. ...

54. In our opinion, the stage of inquiry does not contemplate any evidence in its strict legal sense, nor could the legislature have contemplated this inasmuch as the stage for evidence has not yet arrived. The only material that the court has before it is the material collected by the prosecution and the court at this stage prima facie can apply its mind to find out as to whether a person, who can be an accused, has been erroneously omitted from being arraigned or has been deliberately excluded by the prosecuting agencies. This is all the more necessary in order to ensure that the investigating and the prosecuting agencies have acted fairly in bringing before the court those persons who deserve to be tried and to prevent any person from being deliberately shielded when they ought to have been tried. This is necessary to usher faith in the judicial system whereby the court should be empowered to exercise such powers even at the stage of inquiry and it is for this reason that the legislature has consciously used separate terms, namely, inquiry or trial in Section 319 CrPC.

55. Accordingly, we hold that the court can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC only after the trial proceeds and commences with the recording of the evidence and also in exceptional circumstances as explained hereinabove.

56. ... What is essential for the purpose of the section is that there should appear some evidence against a person not proceeded against and the stage of the proceedings is irrelevant. Where the complainant is circumspect in proceeding against several persons, but the court is of the opinion that there appears to be some evidence pointing to the complicity of some other persons as well, Section 319 CrPC acts as an empowering provision enabling the court/Magistrate to initiate proceedings against such other persons. The purpose of Section 319 CrPC is to do complete justice and to ensure that persons who ought to have been tried as well are also tried. Therefore, there does not appear to be any difficulty in invoking powers of Section 319 CrPC at the stage of trial in a complaint case when the evidence of the complainant as well as his witnesses are being recorded."

6.4. While answering Question (iii), namely, whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) CrPC has been used in a comprehensive sense and includes the evidence collected during investigation or the word "evidence" is limited to the evidence recorded during trial, this Court, in the aforesaid decision has observed and held as under : (Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , SCC pp. 126-27 & 131-32, paras 58-59, 78 & 82-85)

"58. To answer the questions and to resolve the impediment that is being faced by the trial courts in exercising of powers under Section 319 CrPC, the issue has to be investigated by examining the circumstances which give rise to a situation for the court to invoke such powers. The circumstances that lead to such inference being drawn up by the court for summoning a person arise out of the availability of the facts and material that come up before the court and are made the basis for summoning such a person as an accomplice to the offence alleged to have been committed. The material should disclose the complicity of the person in the commission of the offence which has to be the material that appears from the evidence during the course of any inquiry into or trial of offence. The words as used in Section 319 CrPC indicate that the material has to be "where ... it appears from the evidence" before the court.

59. Before we answer this issue, let us examine the meaning of the word "evidence". According to Section 3 of the Evidence Act, "evidence" means and includes:

'(1) all statements which the court permits or requires to be made before it by witnesses, in relation to matters of fact under inquiry; such statements are called oral evidence;

(2) all documents including electronic records produced for the inspection of the court; such documents are called documentary evidence.'

78. It is, therefore, clear that the word "evidence" in Section 319 CrPC means only such evidence as is made before the court, in relation to statements, and as produced before the court, in relation to documents. It is only such evidence that can be taken into account by the Magistrate or the court to decide whether the power under Section 319 CrPC is to be exercised and not on the basis of material collected during the investigation.

82. This pre-trial stage is a stage where no adjudication on the evidence of the offences involved takes place and therefore, after the material along with the charge-sheet has been brought before the court, the same can be inquired into in order to effectively proceed with framing of charges. After the charges are framed, the prosecution is asked to lead evidence and till that is done, there is no evidence available in the strict legal sense of Section 3 of the Evidence Act. The actual trial of the offence by bringing the accused before the court has still not begun. What is available is the material that has been submitted before the court along with the charge-sheet. In such situation, the court only has the preparatory material that has been placed before the court for its consideration in order to proceed with the trial by framing of charges.

83. It is, therefore, not any material that can be utilised, rather it is that material after cognizance is taken by a court, that is available to it while making an inquiry into or trying an offence, that the court can utilise or take into consideration for supporting reasons to summon any person on the basis of evidence adduced before the court, who may be on the basis of such material, treated to be an accomplice in the commission of the offence. The inference that can be drawn is that material which is not exactly evidence recorded before the court, but is a material collected by the court, can be utilised to corroborate evidence already recorded for the purpose of summoning any other person, other than the accused. ...

84. The word "evidence" therefore has to be understood in its wider sense both at the stage of trial and, as discussed earlier, even at the stage of inquiry, as used under Section 319 CrPC. The court, therefore, should be understood to have the power to proceed against any person after summoning him on the basis of any such material as brought forth before it. The duty and obligation of the court becomes more onerous to invoke such powers cautiously on such material after evidence has been led during trial.

85. In view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn hereinabove, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 CrPC. The "evidence" is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial."

6.5. While answering Question (ii), namely, whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) CrPC means as arising in examination-in-chief or also together with cross-examination, in the aforesaid decision, this Court has observed and held as under : (Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , SCC pp. 132-34, paras 86-92)

"86. The second question referred to herein is in relation to the word "evidence" as used under Section 319 CrPC, which leaves no room for doubt that the evidence as understood under Section 3 of the Evidence Act is the statement of the witnesses that are recorded during trial and the documentary evidence in accordance with the Evidence Act, which also includes the document and material evidence in the Evidence Act. Such evidence begins with the statement of the prosecution witnesses, therefore, is evidence which includes the statement during examination-in-chief. In Rakesh [Rakesh v. State of Haryana, (2001) 6 SCC 248 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1090] , it was held that : (SCC p. 252, para 10)

'10. ... It is true that finally at the time of trial the accused is to be given an opportunity to cross-examine the witness to test its truthfulness. But that stage would not arise while exercising the court's power under Section 319 CrPC. Once the deposition is recorded, no doubt there being no cross-examination, it would be a prima facie material which would enable the Sessions Court to decide whether powers under Section 319 should be exercised or not.'

87. In Ranjit Singh [Ranjit Singh v. State of Punjab, (1998) 7 SCC 149 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1554] , this Court held that : (SCC p. 156, para 20)

'20. ... it is not necessary for the court to wait until the entire evidence is collected for exercising the said powers.'

88. In Mohd. Shafi [Mohd. Shafi v. Mohd. Rafiq, (2007) 14 SCC 544 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 889] , it was held that the prerequisite for exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC is the satisfaction of the court to proceed against a person who is not an accused but against whom evidence occurs, for which the court can even wait till the cross-examination is over and that there would be no illegality in doing so. A similar view has been taken by a two-Judge Bench in Harbhajan Singh v. State of Punjab [Harbhajan Singh v. State of Punjab, (2009) 13 SCC 608 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 1135] . This Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2009) 16 SCC 785 : (2010) 2 SCC (Cri) 355] seems to have misread the judgment in Mohd. Shafi [Mohd. Shafi v. Mohd. Rafiq, (2007) 14 SCC 544 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 889] , as it construed that the said judgment laid down that for the exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC, the court has to necessarily wait till the witness is cross-examined and on complete appreciation of evidence, come to the conclusion whether there is a need to proceed under Section 319 CrPC.

89. We have given our thoughtful consideration to the diverse views expressed in the aforementioned cases. Once examination-in-chief is conducted, the statement becomes part of the record. It is evidence as per law and in the true sense, for at best, it may be rebuttable. An evidence being rebutted or controverted becomes a matter of consideration, relevance and belief, which is the stage of judgment by the court. Yet it is evidence and it is material on the basis whereof the court can come to a prima facie opinion as to complicity of some other person who may be connected with the offence.

90. As held in Mohd. Shafi [Mohd. Shafi v. Mohd. Rafiq, (2007) 14 SCC 544 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 889] and Harbhajan Singh [Harbhajan Singh v. State of Punjab, (2009) 13 SCC 608 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 1135] , all that is required for the exercise of the power under Section 319 CrPC is that, it must appear to the court that some other person also who is not facing the trial, may also have been involved in the offence. The prerequisite for the exercise of this power is similar to the prima facie view which the Magistrate must come to in order to take cognizance of the offence. Therefore, no straitjacket formula can and should be laid with respect to conditions precedent for arriving at such an opinion and, if the Magistrate/court is convinced even on the basis of evidence appearing in examination-in-chief, it can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC and can proceed against such other person(s). It is essential to note that the section also uses the words "such person could be tried" instead of should be tried. Hence, what is required is not to have a mini-trial at this stage by having examination and cross-examination and thereafter rendering a decision on the overt act of such person sought to be added. In fact, it is this mini-trial that would affect the right of the person sought to be arraigned as an accused rather than not having any cross-examination at all, for in light of sub-section (4) of Section 319 CrPC, the person would be entitled to a fresh trial where he would have all the rights including the right to cross-examine prosecution witnesses and examine defence witnesses and advance his arguments upon the same. Therefore, even on the basis of examination-in-chief, the court or the Magistrate can proceed against a person as long as the court is satisfied that the evidence appearing against such person is such that it prima facie necessitates bringing such person to face trial. In fact, examination-in-chief untested by cross-examination, undoubtedly in itself, is an evidence.

91. Further, in our opinion, there does not seem to be any logic behind waiting till the cross-examination of the witness is over. It is to be kept in mind that at the time of exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC, the person sought to be arraigned as an accused, is in no way participating in the trial. Even if the cross-examination is to be taken into consideration, the person sought to be arraigned as an accused cannot cross-examine the witness(es) prior to passing of an order under Section 319 CrPC, as such a procedure is not contemplated by CrPC. Secondly, invariably the State would not oppose or object to naming of more persons as an accused as it would only help the prosecution in completing the chain of evidence, unless the witness(es) is obliterating the role of persons already facing trial. More so, Section 299 CrPC enables the court to record evidence in absence of the accused in the circumstances mentioned therein.

92. Thus, in view of the above, we hold that power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised at the stage of completion of examination-in-chief and the court does not need to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination for it is the satisfaction of the court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the court, in respect of complicity of some other person(s), not facing the trial in the offence."

(emphasis in original)

6.6. While answering Question (iv), namely, what is the degree of satisfaction required for invoking the power under Section 319 CrPC, this Court after considering various earlier decisions on the point, has observed and held as under : (Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , SCC p. 138, paras 105-06)

105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 CrPC. In Section 319 CrPC the purpose of providing if 'it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence' is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 CrPC to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

6.7. While answering Question (v), namely, in what situations can the power under Section 319 CrPC be exercised : named in the FIR, but not charge-sheeted or has been discharged, this Court has observed and held as under : (Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , SCC pp. 139 & 141, paras 112 & 116)

"112. However, there is a great difference with regard to a person who has been discharged. A person who has been discharged stands on a different footing than a person who was never subjected to investigation or if subjected to, but not charge-sheeted. Such a person has stood the stage of inquiry before the court and upon judicial examination of the material collected during investigation, the court had come to the conclusion that there is not even a prima facie case to proceed against such person. Generally, the stage of evidence in trial is merely proving the material collected during investigation and therefore, there is not much change as regards the material existing against the person so discharged. Therefore, there must exist compelling circumstances to exercise such power. The court should keep in mind that the witness when giving evidence against the person so discharged, is not doing so merely to seek revenge or is naming him at the behest of someone or for such other extraneous considerations. The court has to be circumspect in treating such evidence and try to separate the chaff from the grain. If after such careful examination of the evidence, the court is of the opinion that there does exist evidence to proceed against the person so discharged, it may take steps but only in accordance with Section 398 CrPC without resorting to the provision of Section 319 CrPC directly.

116. Thus, it is evident that power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised against a person not subjected to investigation, or a person placed in Column 2 of the charge-sheet and against whom cognizance had not been taken, or a person who has been discharged. However, concerning a person who has been discharged, no proceedings can be commenced against him directly under Section 319 CrPC without taking recourse to provisions of Section 300(5) read with Section 398 CrPC."

6.8. Considering the law laid down by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] and the observations and findings referred to and reproduced hereinabove, it emerges that (i) the Court can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned and the Court need not wait till the cross-examination of such a witness and the Court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination; and (ii) a person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 CrPC, provided from the evidence (may be on the basis of the evidence collected in the form of statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned), it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial.

6.9. In S. Mohammed Ispahani v. Yogendra Chandak [S. Mohammed Ispahani v. Yogendra Chandak, (2017) 16 SCC 226 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 138] , SCC para 35, this Court has observed and held as under : (SCC p. 243)

"35. It needs to be highlighted that when a person is named in the FIR by the complainant, but police, after investigation, finds no role of that particular person and files the charge-sheet without implicating him, the Court is not powerless, and at the stage of summoning, if the trial court finds that a particular person should be summoned as accused, even though not named in the charge-sheet, it can do so. At that stage, chance is given to the complainant also to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet. Once that stage has gone, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 CrPC. However, this section gets triggered when during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused."

6.10. Thus, even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 CrPC and even those persons named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

7. Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decisions to the facts of the case on hand, we are of the opinion that, in the facts and circumstances of the case, neither the learned trial court nor the High Court have committed any error in summoning the appellants herein to face the trial along with other co-accused. As observed hereinabove, the appellants herein were also named in the FIR. However, they were not shown as accused in the challan/charge-sheet. As observed hereinabove, nothing is on record whether at any point of time the complainant was given an opportunity to submit the protest application against non-filing of the charge-sheet against the appellants. In the deposition before the Court, PW 1 and PW 2 have specifically stated against the appellants herein and the specific role is attributed to the appellant-accused herein. Thus, the statement of PW 1 and PW 2 before the Court can be said to be "evidence" during the trial and, therefore, on the basis of the same and as held by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , the persons against whom no charge-sheet is filed can be summoned to face the trial. Therefore, we are of the opinion that no error has been committed by the courts below to summon the appellants herein to face the trial in exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC."

18. In the case of Manjeet Singh Vs. State of Haryana & Ors., reported in (2021) 18 SCC 321, after considering the various pronouncements on issues related to exercising the powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. including the judgments passed in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) and Brijendra Singh (supra), concluded as under:

"15. The ratio of the aforesaid decisions on the scope and ambit of the powers of the court under Section 319CrPC can be summarised as under:

15.1. That while exercising the powers under Section 319CrPC and to summon the persons not charge-sheeted, the entire effort is not to allow the real perpetrator of an offence to get away unpunished.

15.2. For the empowerment of the courts to ensure that the criminal administration of justice works properly.

15.3. The law has been properly codified and modified by the legislature under CrPC indicating as to how the courts should proceed to ultimately find out the truth so that the innocent does not get punished but at the same time, the guilty are brought to book under the law.

15.4. To discharge duty of the court to find out the real truth and to ensure that the guilty does not go unpunished.

15.5. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial.

15.6. Section 319CrPC allows the court to proceed against any person who is not an accused in a case before it.

15.7. The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency.

15.8. Section 319CrPC is an enabling provision empowering the court to take appropriate steps for proceeding against any person not being an accused for also having committed the offence under trial.

15.9. The power under Section 319(1)CrPC can be exercised at any stage after the charge-sheet is filed and before the pronouncement of judgment, except during the stage of Sections 207/208CrPC, committal, etc. which is only a pre-trial stage intended to put the process into motion.

15.10. The court can exercise the power under Section 319CrPC only after the trial proceeds and commences with the recording of the evidence.

15.11. The word "evidence" in Section 319CrPC means only such evidence as is made before the court, in relation to statements, and as produced before the court, in relation to documents.

15.12. It is only such evidence that can be taken into account by the Magistrate or the court to decide whether the power under Section 319CrPC is to be exercised and not on the basis of material collected during the investigation.

15.13. If the Magistrate/court is convinced even on the basis of evidence appearing in examination-in-chief, it can exercise the power under Section 319CrPC and can proceed against such other person(s).

15.14. That if the Magistrate/court is convinced even on the basis of evidence appearing in examination-in-chief, powers under Section 319CrPC can be exercised.

15.15. That power under Section 319CrPC can be exercised even at the stage of completion of examination-in-chief and the court need not to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination.

15.16. Even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319CrPC and even those persons named in FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial, provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused (may be in the form of examination-in-chief of the prosecution witnesses).

15.17. While exercising the powers under Section 319CrPC the court is not required and/or justified in appreciating the deposition/evidence of the prosecution witnesses on merits which is required to be done during the trial.

16. Applying the law laid down in the aforesaid decisions to the facts of the case on hand we are of the opinion that the learned trial court as well as the High Court have materially erred in dismissing the application under Section 319CrPC and refusing to summon the private respondents herein to face the trial in exercising the powers under Section 319CrPC. It is required to be noted that in FIR No. 477 all the private respondents herein who are sought to be arraigned as additional accused were specifically named with specific role attributed to them. It is specifically mentioned that while they were returning back, Mahindra XUV bearing no. HR 40A 4352 was standing on the road which belongs to Sartaj Singh and Sukhpal. Tejpal, Parab Saran Singh, Preet Samrat and Sartaj were standing. Parab Sharan was having lathi in his hand, Tejpal was having a gandasi, Sukhpal was having a danda, Sartaj was having a revolver and Preet Singh was sitting in the jeep. It is specifically mentioned in the FIR that all the aforesaid persons with common intention parked the Mahindra XUV HR 40A 4352 in a manner which blocks the entire road and they were armed with the weapons.

17. Despite the above specific allegations, when the charge-sheet/final report came to be filed only two persons came to be charge-sheeted and the private respondents herein, though named in the FIR, were put/kept in Column 2. It is the case on behalf of the private respondents herein that four different DSPs inquired into the matter and thereafter when no evidence was found against them the private respondents herein were put in Column 2 and therefore the same is to be given much weightage rather than considering/believing the examination-in-chief of the appellant herein. Heavy reliance is placed on Brijendra Singh [Brijendra Singh v. State of Rajasthan, (2017) 7 SCC 706 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 144] .

18. However none of DSPs and/or their reports, if any, are part of the charge-sheet. None of the DSPs are shown as witnesses. None of the DSPs are investigating officer. Even on considering the final report/charge-sheet as a whole there does not appear to be any consideration on the specific allegations qua the accused, the private respondents herein, who are kept in Column 2. Entire discussion in the charge-sheet/final report is against Sartaj Singh only.

19. So far as the private respondents are concerned only thing which is stated is:"During the investigation of the present case, Shri Baljinder Singh, HPS, DSP Assandh and Shri Kushalpal, HPS, DSP Indri found accused Tejpal Singh, Sukhpal Singh, sons of Gurdev Singh, Parab Sharan Singh and Preet Samrat Singh sons of Mohan Sarup Singh caste Jat Sikh, residents of Bandrala innocent and accordingly Sections 148, 149 and 341IPC were deleted in the case and they were kept in Column 2, whereas challan against accused Sartaj has been presented in the Court."

20. Now thereafter when in the examination-in-chief the appellant herein — victim — injured eyewitness has specifically named the private respondents herein with specific role attributed to them, the learned trial court as well as the High Court ought to have summoned the private respondents herein to face the trial. At this stage it is required to be noted that so far as the appellant herein is concerned he is an injured eyewitness. As observed by this Court in State of M.P. v. Mansingh [State of M.P. v. Mansingh, (2003) 10 SCC 414 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 390] (para 9); Abdul Sayeed v. State of M.P. [Abdul Sayeed v. State of M.P., (2010) 10 SCC 259 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1262] ; State of U.P. v. Naresh [State of U.P. v. Naresh, (2011) 4 SCC 324 : (2011) 2 SCC (Cri) 216] , the evidence of an injured eyewitness has greater evidential value and unless compelling reasons exist, their statements are not to be discarded lightly. As observed hereinabove while exercising the powers under Section 319CrPC the court has not to wait till the cross-examination and on the basis of the examination-in-chief of a witness if a case is made out, a person can be summoned to face the trial under Section 319CrPC.

21. Now so far as the reasoning given by the High Court while dismissing the revision application and confirming the order passed by the learned trial court dismissing the application under Section 319CrPC is concerned, the High Court itself has observed that PW 1 Manjeet Singh is the injured witness and therefore his presence cannot be doubted as he has received firearm injuries along with the deceased. However, thereafter the High Court has observed that the statement of Manjeet Singh indicates over implication and that no injury has been attributed to either of the respondents except that they were armed with weapons and the injuries concerned are attributed only to Sartaj Singh, even for the sake of arguments if someone was present with Sartaj Singh it cannot be said that they had any common intention or there was meeting of mind or knew that Sartaj would be firing. The aforesaid reasonings are not sustainable at all.

22. At the stage of exercising the powers under Section 319CrPC, the court is not required to appreciate and/or enter on the merits of the allegations of the case. The High Court has lost sight of the fact that the allegations against all the accused persons right from the very beginning were for the offences under Sections 302, 307, 341, 148 & 149IPC. The High Court has failed to appreciate the fact that for attracting the offence under Section 149IPC only forming part of unlawful assembly is sufficient and the individual role and/or overt act is immaterial. Therefore, the reasoning given by the High Court that no injury has been attributed to either of the respondents except that they were armed with weapons and therefore, they cannot be added as accused is unsustainable. The learned trial court and the High Court have failed to exercise the jurisdiction and/or powers while exercising the powers under Section 319CrPC.

23. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the private respondents that though a common judgment and order was passed by the High Court in Satkar Singh v. State of Haryana [CRR No. 3238 of 2018 reported as Manjeet Singh v. State of Haryana, 2020 SCC OnLine P&H 2782 sub nom Satkar Singh v. State of Haryana] at that stage the appellant herein did not prefer appeal against the impugned judgment and order passed by the High Court in Manjeet Singh v. State of Haryana [Manjeet Singh v. State of Haryana, 2020 SCC OnLine P&H 2782 [Ed. : This also disposed of CRR No. 3238 of 2018 by a common judgment and order]] and therefore this Court may not exercise the powers under Article 136 of the Constitution is concerned the aforesaid has no substance. Once it is found that the learned trial court as well as the High Court ought to have summoned the private respondents herein as additional accused, belated filing of the appeal or not filing the appeal at a relevant time when this Court considered the very judgment and order in Satkar Singh v. State of Haryana [CRR No. 3238 of 2018 reported as Manjeet Singh v. State of Haryana, 2020 SCC OnLine P&H 2782 sub nom Satkar Singh v. State of Haryana] cannot be a ground not to direct to summon the private respondents herein when this Court has found that a prima facie case is made out against the private respondents herein and they are to be summoned to face the trial.

24. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the private respondents that though in the charge-sheet the private respondents herein were put in Column 2 at that stage the complainant side did not file any protest application is concerned, the same has been specifically dealt with by this Court in Rajesh [Rajesh v. State of Haryana, (2019) 6 SCC 368 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 801] . This Court in the aforesaid decision has specifically observed that even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well as who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319CrPC.

25. Similarly, the submission on behalf of the private respondents herein that after the impugned judgment and order passed by the High Court there is much progress in the trial and therefore at this stage power under Section 319CrPC may not be exercised is concerned, the aforesaid has no substance and cannot be accepted. As per the settled proposition of law and as observed by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , the powers under Section 319CrPC can be exercised at any stage before the final conclusion of the trial. Even otherwise it is required to be noted that at the time when the application under Section 319CrPC was given only one witness was examined and examination-in-chief of PW 1 was recorded and while the cross-examination of PW 1 was going on, application under Section 319CrPC was given which came to be rejected by the learned trial court. The order passed by the learned trial court is held to be unsustainable. If the learned trial court would have summoned the private respondents herein at that stage such a situation would not have arisen. Be that as it may, as observed herein powers under Section 319CrPC can be exercised at any stage from commencing of the trial and recording of evidence/deposition and before the conclusion of the trial at any stage.

26. In view of the above and for the reasons stated above, the impugned judgment and order [Manjeet Singh v. State of Haryana, 2020 SCC OnLine P&H 2782 [Ed. : This also disposed of CRR No. 3238 of 2018 by a common judgment and order]] passed by the High Court and that of the learned trial court dismissing the application under Section 319CrPC submitted on behalf of the complainant to summon the private respondents herein as additional accused are unsustainable and deserve to be quashed and set aside and are accordingly quashed and set aside. Consequently the application submitted on behalf of the complainant to summon the private respondents herein is hereby allowed and the learned trial court is directed to summon the private respondents herein to face the trial arising out of FIR No. 477 dated 27-7-2016 in Sessions Case No. 362 of 2016 for the offences punishable under Sections 302, 307, 341, 148 & 149IPC."

19. The Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sukhpal Singh Khaira Vs. State of Punjab, reported in (2023) 1 SCC 289, decided on 05.12.2022, answered the questions on the subject in issue in following paras which read as under:

"38. For all the reasons stated above, we answer the questions referred as hereunder:

39.(I) Whether the trial court has the power Under Section 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure for summoning additional Accused when the trial with respect to other co-Accused has ended and the judgment of conviction rendered on the same date before pronouncing the summoning order?

The power Under Section 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure is to be invoked and exercised before the pronouncement of the order of sentence where there is a judgment of conviction of the Accused. In the case of acquittal, the power should be exercised before the order of acquittal is pronounced. Hence, the summoning order has to precede the conclusion of trial by imposition of sentence in the case of conviction. If the order is passed on the same day, it will have to be examined on the facts and circumstances of each case and if such summoning order is passed either after the order of acquittal or imposing sentence in the case of conviction, the same will not be sustainable.

40.(II) Whether the trial court has the power Under Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure for summoning additional Accused when the trial in respect of certain other absconding Accused (whose presence is subsequently secured) is ongoing/pending, having been bifurcated from the main trial?

The trial court has the power to summon additional Accused when the trial is proceeded in respect of the absconding Accused after securing his presence, subject to the evidence recorded in the split up (bifurcated) trial pointing to the involvement of the Accused sought to be summoned. But the evidence recorded in the main concluded trial cannot be the basis of the summoning order if such power has not been exercised in the main trial till its conclusion.

41.(III) What are the guidelines that the competent court must follow while exercising power Under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure?"

41.1. If the competent court finds evidence or if application Under Section 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure is filed regarding involvement of any other person in committing the offence based on evidence recorded at any stage in the trial before passing of the order on acquittal or sentence, it shall pause the trial at that stage.

41.2. The Court shall thereupon first decide the need or otherwise to summon the additional Accused and pass orders thereon.

41.3. If the decision of the court is to exercise the power Under Section 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure and summon the Accused, such summoning order shall be passed before proceeding further with the trial in the main case.

41.4. If the summoning order of additional Accused is passed, depending on the stage at which it is passed, the Court shall also apply its mind to the fact as to whether such summoned Accused is to be tried along with the other Accused or separately.

41.5. If the decision is for joint trial, the fresh trial shall be commenced only after securing the presence of the summoned Accused.

41.6. If the decision is that the summoned Accused can be tried separately, on such order being made, there will be no impediment for the Court to continue and conclude the trial against the Accused who were being proceeded with.

41.7. If the proceeding paused as in (i) above is in a case where the Accused who were tried are to be acquitted and the decision is that the summoned Accused can be tried afresh separately, there will be no impediment to pass the judgment of acquittal in the main case.

41.8. If the power is not invoked or exercised in the main trial till its conclusion and if there is a split-up (bifurcated) case, the power Under Section 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure can be invoked or exercised only if there is evidence to that effect, pointing to the involvement of the additional Accused to be summoned in the split up (bifurcated) trial.

41.9. If, after arguments are heard and the case is reserved for judgment the occasion arises for the Court to invoke and exercise the power Under Section 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure, the appropriate course for the court is to set it down for re-hearing.

41.10. On setting it down for re-hearing, the above laid down procedure to decide about summoning; holding of joint trial or otherwise shall be decided and proceeded with accordingly.

41.11. Even in such a case, at that stage, if the decision is to summon additional Accused and hold a joint trial the trial shall be conducted afresh and de novo proceedings be held.

41.12. If, in that circumstance, the decision is to hold a separate trial in case of the summoned Accused as indicated earlier;

(a) The main case may be decided by pronouncing the conviction and sentence and then proceed afresh against summoned Accused.

(b) In the case of acquittal the order shall be passed to that effect in the main case and then proceed afresh against summoned Accused."

20. After the aforesaid judgment, the issue was again considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Yashodhan Singh and Others Vs. State of U. P. and Others, reported in (2023) LiveLaw (SC) 576 : 2023 INSC 652.

21. It would be apt to indicate that before this Court at Allahabad, Yashodhan Singh and Others preferred a Criminal Revision No. 4235 of 2022 (Yashodhan Singh and 6 Others Vs. State of U. P. and Others) challenging the order passed by the trial court in exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The order was challenged, in nutshell, on the ground that the trial court did not considered the evidence collected by the I.O. during investigation based upon which the I.O.

exonerated them. In this case also, the reliance was placed on the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Brijendra Singh (supra). This Court dismissed the petition vide order dated 03.01.2023.

22. The order dated 03.01.2023 was assailed by Yashodhan Singh and Others before the Hon'ble Apex Court. Before the Hon'ble Apex Court also, the reliance was placed on the judgment of Brijendra Singh (supra).

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court considered the various pronouncements including the judgment passed in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra), Brijendra Singh (supra), Sukhpal Singh Khair (supra) and Jogendra and Others Vs. State of Bihar and Anr., reported in (2015) 9 SCC 244, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that opportunity to the proposed accused is required, and thereafter dismissed appeal filed by Yashodhan Singh and Others. State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 159 : AIR 2013 SC 3018] , the Constitution Bench has already held that after committal, cognizance of an offence can be taken against a person not named as an accused but against whom materials are available from the papers filed by the police after completion of the investigation. Such cognizance can be taken under Section 193CrPC and the Sessions Judge need not wait till "evidence" under Section 319CrPC becomes available for summoning an additional accused.*
> 117.2. Section 319CrPC, significantly, uses two expressions that have to be taken note of i.e. (1)

inquiry (2) trial. As a trial commences after framing of charge, an inquiry can only be understood to be a pre-trial inquiry. Inquiries under Sections 200, 201, 202CrPC, and under Section 398CrPC are species of the inquiry contemplated by Section 319CrPC. Materials coming before the court in course of such inquiries can be used for corroboration of the evidence recorded in the court after the trial commences, for the exercise of power under Section 319CrPC, and also to add an accused whose name has been shown in Column 2 of the charge-sheet.

117.3. In view of the above position the word "evidence" in Section 319CrPC has to be broadly understood and not literally i.e. as evidence brought during a trial. Question (ii)—Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1)CrPC could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?

Answer

117.4. Considering the fact that under Section 319CrPC a person against whom material is disclosed is only summoned to face the trial and in such an event under Section 319(4)CrPC the proceeding against such person is to commence from the stage of taking of cognizance, the court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination.

Question (iv)—What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319CrPC to arraign an accused? Whether the power under Section 319(1)CrPC can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood be convicted?

Answer

117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b)CrPC the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319CrPC would be the same as for framing a charge [Ed. : The conclusion of law as stated in para 106, p. 138 c-d, may be compared:"Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction". See also especially in para 100 at p. 136 f-g.] . The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different.

Question (v)—Does the power under Section 319CrPC extend to persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR but not charge-sheeted or who have been discharged?

Answer

117.6. A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319CrPC provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial. However, insofar as an accused who has been discharged is concerned the requirement of Sections 300 and 398CrPC has to be complied with before he can be summoned afresh."

22.2. While answering the questions aforesaid, this Court observed in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] that if the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The entire effort, therefore, is not to allow the real perpetrator of an offence to get away unpunished. It is with the said object in mind that a constructive and purposive interpretation should be adopted that advances the cause of justice and does not dilute the intention of the statute conferring powers on the court to carry out the avowed object and purpose to try the person to the satisfaction of the court as an accomplice in the commission of the offence that is the subject-matter of trial. It was pertinently observed by this Court that the desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence.

22.3. While distinguishing a trial from an enquiry, it was observed by this Court that trial follows an inquiry and the purpose of the trial is to fasten the responsibility upon a person on the basis of facts presented and evidence led. Emphasising on the word "course" used in Section 319CrPC, it was observed that the said power can be invoked under the said provision against any person from the initial stage of inquiry by the court up to the stage of conclusion of the trial. Since after the filing of the charge-sheet, the court reaches the stage of inquiry and as soon as the court frames the charges, the trial commences. Thus, the power under Section 319(1)CrPC can be exercised at any time after the charge-sheet is filed before the pronouncement of judgment, except during the stage of Sections 207/208CrPC, committal, etc.

22.4. Elaborating the nuances of Section 319CrPC, it was further observed in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] that what is essential for the purpose of Section 319CrPC is that there should appear some evidence against a person not proceeded against; the stage of the proceedings is irrelevant. Section 319CrPC is an empowering provision particularly where the complainant is circumspect in proceeding against several persons, but the court is of the opinion that there appears to be some evidence pointing to the complicity of some other persons as well.

22.5. It was further observed that circumstances which lead to the inference being drawn up by the court for summoning a person under Section 319 arise out of the availability of the facts and material that come up before the court. The material should disclose complicity of the person in the commission of the offence which has to be the material that appears from the evidence during the course of any inquiry into or trial of offence.

22.6. It was also observed by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] that apart from evidence in the strict legal sense recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319CrPC. Holding that the expression "evidence" must be given a broad meaning, it was observed that material which is not exactly evidence recorded before the court, but is a material collected by the court, can be utilised to corroborate evidence already recorded for the purpose of summoning any other person, other than the accused. Such material would be supportive in nature to facilitate the exposition of any other accomplice whose complicity in the offence may have been suppressed or had escaped the notice of the court. Therefore, any material brought before the court even prior to the trial can be read within the meaning of the expression "evidence" for the purpose of Section 319CrPC. While considering the evidence that emanates during the trial, it was observed by this Court that evidence recorded by way of examination-in-chief and which is untested by cross-examination is nevertheless evidence which can be considered by the court for the exercise of power under Section 319CrPC so long as, it would appear to the court that some other person who is not facing the trial, may also have been involved in the offence.

22.7. Further, Section 319CrPC also uses the words "such person could be tried", which means not to have a mini-trial at the stage of Section 319CrPC by having examination and cross-examination and thereafter coming to a prima facie conclusion on the overt act of such person sought to be added. Such a mini-trial will affect the right of the person sought to be arraigned as an accused rather than not having any cross-examination at all. As under Section 319(4)CrPC, such a person has the right to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses and examine the defence witnesses and advance his arguments. It was further observed that the power under Section 319CrPC can be exercised even after completion of examination-in-chief and the court does not have to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination, for it is the satisfaction of the court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the court, in respect of complicity of some other persons, not facing the trial in the offence.

22.8. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. Therefore, such satisfaction is sine qua non for exercise of power under Section 319CrPC. Ultimately, the exercise of power is for the trial of such persons summoned together with the accused already on trial and not for conviction with the accused. Therefore, at that stage, the court need not form any definite opinion as to the guilt of the accused.

22.9. This Court further observed that the difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Hence, the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and the accused summoned subsequently during the course of trial is different.

22.10. It was further observed by this Court that a person, whose name does not appear even in the FIR or in the charge-sheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the main part of the charge-sheet but in Column 2 and has not been summoned as an accused in exercise of the powers under Section 193CrPC can still be summoned by the court, provided the court is satisfied that the conditions provided in the said statutory provisions stand fulfilled. However, a person who has already been discharged stands on a different footing than a person who was never subjected to investigation or if subjected to, but not charge-sheeted. Such a person has stood the stage of inquiry before the court and upon judicial examination of the material collected during investigation, the court had come to the conclusion that there is not even a prima facie case to proceed against such person. Therefore, the court must keep in mind that the witness when giving evidence against the person so discharged, is not doing so merely to seek revenge or is naming him at the behest of someone or for such other extraneous considerations.

22.11. This Court further observed that it has to be circumspect in treating such evidence and try to separate the chaff from the grain. If after such careful examination of the evidence, the court is of the opinion that there does exist evidence to proceed against the person so discharged, it may take steps but only in accordance with Section 398CrPC without resorting to the provision of Section 319CrPC directly. Section 398CrPC is in the nature of a revisional power which can be exercised only by the High Court or the Sessions Judge, as the case may be. However, a person discharged can also be arraigned again as an accused but only after an inquiry as contemplated by Sections 300(5) and 398CrPC. If during or after such inquiry, there appears to be an evidence against such person, power under Section 319CrPC can be exercised.

23. From the aforesaid observations of the Constitution Bench of this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86], it is noted that an inquiry is contemplated as against a person who has been discharged prior to the commencement of the trial in terms of Section 227CrPC as extracted above but on an inquiry, if it appears that there is evidence against such a discharged person, then power under Section 319CrPC can be exercised against such a discharged person. This clearly would mean that when a person who is not discharged but is to be summoned as per Section 319CrPC on the basis of satisfaction derived by the court on the evidence on record, no inquiry or hearing is contemplated. This would clearly indicate that principle of natural justice and an opportunity of hearing a person summoned under 319 CrPC are not at all contemplated. Such a right of inquiry would accrue only to a person who is already discharged in the very same proceeding prior to the commencement of the trial. This is different from holding that a person who has been summoned as per Section 319CrPC has a right of being heard in accordance with the principles of natural justice before being added as an accused to be tried along with other accused.

24. Further, when a person is summoned as an accused under Section 319CrPC which is based on the satisfaction recorded by the trial court on the evidence that has emerged during the course of trial so as to try the person summoned as an accused along with the other accused, the summoned accused cannot seek discharge. It is necessary to state that discharge as contemplated under Section 227CrPC is at a stage prior to the commencement of the trial and immediately after framing of charge but when power is exercised under Section 319CrPC to summon a person to be added as an accused in the trial to be tried along with other accused, such a person cannot seek discharge as the court would have exercised the power under Section 319CrPC based on a satisfaction derived from the evidence that has emerged during the evidence recorded in the course of trial and such satisfaction is of a higher degree than the satisfaction which is derived by the court at the time of framing of charge.

25. The learned Senior Counsel Shri S. Nagamuthu strenuously contended that a person summoned in exercise of power under Section 319CrPC must be given an opportunity of being heard before being added as an accused to the trial to be tried along with the other accused and that such person must have an opportunity of filing an application seeking discharge. The same are clearly not envisaged in view of the judgment in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] and hence the said contentions are rejected.

26. Moreover, there is no finality attached to Section 319CrPC. It only indicates commencement of trial qua the added accused. The rationale is that a person need not be heard before being added on or arrayed as an accused. Reference to and reliance placed upon opportunity of hearing to a complainant in the form of protest petition when a closure report is filed is wholly misplaced because there is finality in a closure report; therefore the complainant is given an opportunity.

27. In Sukhpal Singh Khaira [Sukhpal Singh Khaira v. State of Punjab, (2023) 1 SCC 289 : (2023) 1 SCC (Cri) 454] , a Constitution Bench of this Court of which one of us was a member (Nagarathna, J.), adumbrated on the meaning of the expression "conclusion of trial" in the context of Section 319 read with other allied sections of CrPC and after referring to several decisions of this Court including Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] answered the question referred to as under : (Sukhpal Singh Khaira case [Sukhpal Singh Khaira v. State of Punjab, (2023) 1 SCC 289 : (2023) 1 SCC (Cri) 454] , SCC pp. 311-13, paras 39-41)

24. Reverting to the present case. Upon due consideration of the facts of the case indicated in earlier part of this judgment and the observations made in the judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court, referred above, this Court is of the view that the applicants have no case and no interference by this Court in the order dated 23.05.2024 passed by the trial Court in exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is required. It is for the following reasons:

(i) The case of the applicants is based upon the 'evidence' collected by the I.O. during investigation.

(ii) On the aforesaid, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) in para 78 observed that "the word "evidence" in Section 319 CrPC means only such evidence as is made before the court, in relation to statements, and as produced before the court, in relation to documents. It is only such evidence that can be taken into account by the Magistrate or the court to decide whether the power under Section 319 CrPC is to be exercised and not on the basis of material collected during the investigation". and thereafter in para 85 it has been observed that "in view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn hereinabove, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 CrPC. The "evidence" is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial." and subsequently, in the case of Rajesh and Others (supra) in para 6.8 held that "Considering the law laid down by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] and the observations and findings referred to and reproduced hereinabove, it emerges that (i) the Court can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned and the Court need not wait till the cross-examination of such a witness and the Court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination; and (ii) a person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 CrPC, provided from the evidence (may be on the basis of the evidence collected in the form of statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned), it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial." and thereafter, in the case of Manjeet Singh (supra) observed as under:

> "15.11. The word "evidence" in Section 319 CrPC means only such evidence as is made before the court, in relation to statements, and as produced before the court, in relation to documents.
>
> 15.12. It is only such evidence that can be taken into account by the Magistrate or the court to decide whether the power under Section 319 CrPC is to be exercised and not on the basis of material collected during the investigation."

(iii) Thus, in view of above, the trial Court has not committed any illegality in not considering the evidence collected by the I.O. during investigation.

(iv) The CCTV footage, the certificate/letter from the company, attendance sheet and Call Detail Report (C.D.R.), the basis of opinion of the I.O. that the applicants were not present at the place of crime and therefore submitted the report in terms of Section 169 Cr.P.C., were rightly not considered by the trial Court in view of aforesaid as also for the reason that the same have not yet been exhibited before the trial Court. It is in view of the fact that in this regard, there is no pleading.

(v) The order dated 23.05.2024, in issue, of the trial Court is based upon the testimony/statement of Chandan Singh (PW-1), an eye witness and informant, as also the contents of the F.I.R. dated 14.08.2018, the basis of pending Session Trial No. 486 of 2019, and as such the submissions for causing interference in the order dated 23.05.2024 on the basis of testimony/statement of other witnesses have no force.

(vi) As per the contents of the F.I.R. dated 14.08.2018 lodged by Chandan Singh (PW-1), the PW-1 was present at the place of crime i.e. near Chaukhad Pure Anti Primay School and accused persons namely Asad Ali @ Munna, Bablu, Mahroj and Awadhesh Kumar (all the applicants herein) came there on two motorcycles and they opened fire and on account of gun shot injuries Harish Chandra, father of PW-1, expired and this witness namely Chandan Singh (PW-1), an informant and eye witness, in his examination-in-chief, with some improvement (which could not be considered at this stage in view of settled proposition that an FIR is not an encyclopedia disclosing all facts and details relating to offense and FIR is not even considered to be a substantive piece of evidence and can be only used to corroborate or contradict the informant's evidence in Court as also that while exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC the court is not required and/or justified in appreciating the deposition/evidence of the prosecution witnesses on merits which is required to be done during the trial), reiterated the story narrated in the F.I.R. dated 14.08.2018 and in cross-examination also remained intact in this regard. This witness PW-1 in the FIR as also before the Court, after commencement of the trial, in his statement in regard to Asad Ali @ Munna (applicant no. 1 herein) indicated the motive to commit the offense. According to PW-1, in examination-in-chief as also in cross-examination, the accused/applicants opened the fire and caused fire arm injuries. The injuries indicated in post-mortem are extracted herein-under:

"1) Fire arm injury L/w size about 1x1 cm deep to bone present on right arm pit 8 cm lateral from right nipple, wounds margin are inverted and tattoing seen size about 1x1 cm.

2) Fire arm injury L/W size about .5 x .5 cm deep to bone 5 cm below from the previous wound, wound margin are inverted & tattaing seen around the wound.

3) Fire arm injury L/W size about 1 x 1 cm deep to bone present on posterolateral side of right side arm wound margin are inverted, blacknening and tattoing seen around the wound size about 1.5 x 1.5cm.

4) L/W size about 1.5 x 1.5 cm deep to bone present on postero medial side of right arm, wound margin are everted.

5) Fire arm injury L/W size about 1 x 1 cm deep to bone 7 cm below the left clavicle wound margin are inverted. Blacknening and taking seen around the wound size about 1.5 x 1.5 cm.

6) L/W size about 1.2 x 1.2 cm deep to bone 18 cm lateral to left nipple wound margines are everted. As per x-ray shows 2 bullets and one pellet, 1st bullet found at right side of 1st lumber ventebra and 2nd bullet found at left kidney

(vii) So far, the requirement of recording satisfaction while exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is concerned, in view of above said, this Court is of the view that on this aspect of the case as also the order dated 23.05.2024 is not liable to be interfered by this Court as the trial Court to the view of this Court has recorded its satisfaction as would appear from the following para of the impugned order:

"At this stage the evidence of PW-1 is such that if the evidence of PW-1 is not rebutted by the proposed accused persons that will be sufficient to convict proposed accused persons, the informant is the eye-witness of this case and it has also been brought on the record that another case of attempt to murder of the father of the informant was already pending against the proposed accused Asad Ali at the time of incident. Thus, the eye account of the whole case has been candidly laid down by the informant before the court and the motive for the offence is also associated against proposed accused person Asad Ali. The other co-accused Awadh, Bablu and Mahroj were present at the place of incidence at the time of the commission of the crime and they also have actively participated in the commission of the crime.

(viii) The discrepancies, as alleged, that as per FIR the informant/eye-witness/PW-1 namely Chandan Singh and dead Harish Chandra were on one motorcycle and as per statement of PW-1 before the trial Court that both were on different motorcycles, is a subject matter of trial. It is for the reason that as per settled view "while exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC the court is not required and/or justified in appreciating the deposition/evidence of the prosecution witnesses on merits which is required to be done during the trial."

25. For the reasons recorded herein-above, this Court finds no force in the application. It is accordingly rejected.

26. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

Counsel for the Respondent:
Aditya Gupta, Aditya Malviya, G.A., Harshit Gupta

Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 323, 504, 506 419 & 420 - applicant sold property based on a General Power of Attorney (GPA) that was later revoked by her brother-allegations of cheating and dishonest inducement were not substantiated-no evidence of dishonest intent at the time of executing the GPA or thereafter-disputes over the distribution of sale proceeds should be resolved through civil proceedings, not criminal-summoning order and criminal proceedings quashed- Application allowed. (Paras 8, 15, 20 and 22)

HELD:
Learned counsel for both parties have interpreted relevant clause of said GPA in their favour, however, no much resistance was made at the behest of counsel for complainant that even prima facie on basis of material before Magistrate concerned, no case is made out under Sections 323, 506 IPC. (Para 8)

There is no material on record that share of proceeds was handed over to complainant and his brothers. Counsel for both parties have interpreted clauses of GPA in their favour and as already observed the interpretation of GPA can be done only in civil proceedings on basis of evidence and not in criminal proceedings. It has already been observed earlier that on basis of contents of complaint and statements even prima facie no ingredients of offence under Sections 323, 506 IPC are made out. Therefore, only consideration left is, whether on basis of material available and rival submissions ingredients of Section 420 IPC are made out or not as well as whether requisite reasons were assigned while passing impugned summoning order as required under Section 204 Cr.P.C. (Para 15)

As referred above, Section 420 IPC provides cheating and dishonest inducement of property. Therefore, the allegation would have substance only when the complainant had put a case that applicant has dishonestly induced three brothers to execute GPA. Subsequent dishonest, if any, would depend on basis of clauses of GPA. Since on face of it there is ambiguity on the issue of share of proceeds of sale deeds, therefore, for said purpose civil remedy is appropriate remedy. In this regard para 38 of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in C. Subbiah alias Kadambur Jayaraj & ors. Vs Superintendent of Police & ors., 2024 SCC OnLine SC 935 is relevant and the same is reproduced hereinafter….(Para 20)

In view of above, impugned order dated 16.01.2024 passed under Section 204 Cr.P.C. also does not take note of clauses of GPA and in a very cursory manner only on ground that proceeds of sale deeds were not shared to applicant, applicant was summoned under Section 420 IPC also. Therefore, as discussed above, ingredients of Section 420 IPC were not made out as well as ingredients of Section 323, 506 IPC are also not made out. (Para 22)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shashi Kant Shukla, learned counsel for applicant, learned AGA for State and Sri Aditya Gupta, Advocate for Opposite Party No. 2.

2. In the present case there are few undisputed facts that applicant is the sister of complainant. She has two other brothers also. Complainant and his two brothers have executed a registered General Power of Attorney (hereinafter referred to as "GPA") on 05.07.2021 in favour of present applicant to sale out share of scheduled property situate in Uttarakhand. Relevant Clause 10 of GPA is reproduced hereinafter:

> "10. To sell our share in the said Scheduled Property in whole or in parts, to any person(s), to execute proper sale deed(s), to present the same for registration, before the concerned Sub-Registrar of Assurances, to admit the execution thereof, to receive sale consideration by cheque/ demand draft/ RTGS/ bank transfer in her name or in our names and to handover the possession to the purchaser(s) on site and to issue receipt thereof."

3. Further, undisputedly applicant has sold some part of scheduled properties by different sale deeds. Later on only complainant has executed a registered cancellation deed of GPA on 21.12.2021. It is also not under much dispute that even thereafter on basis of GPA applicant had sold some part of scheduled property by different sale deeds (from 30.11.2021 to 30.12.2021 as many as five sale deeds were executed on basis of GPA). It is the case of applicant that as soon as she came to know about cancellation of GPA she does not further execute any sale deed on basis of said GPA.

4. In aforesaid circumstances, only complainant, and not his two other brothers, filed a criminal complaint against applicant under Sections 323, 504, 506 419, 420 IPC on 19.04.2023. Relevant paragraphs of complaint are mentioned hereinafter:

6. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Prayagraj vide impugned order dated 16.01.2024 summoned present applicant to face trial under Sections 323, 506, 420 IPC. Relevant part of impugned order is reproduced hereinafter:

"From perusal of documents, it transpires that a General Power of Attorney was executed by the complainant and his two brothers in favour of Vandana Malwiya on 08.07.2021 authorising her to execute sale deeds and receive consideration in her name or in the name of the brothers. This General Power of Attorney was cancelled by the complainant on 21.12.2021. The complainant has also filed copies of various sale deeds executed by Vandana Malwiya after the cancellation of the General Power of Attorney stating that the General Power of Attorney has not been revoked by its executants. The complainant has stated that he has not been given his share of the consideration by Vandana Malwiya and filed his bank statements in support thereof. A bare perusal of the bank statements show that no money was received from Vandana Malwiya. The complainant has also stated that Vandana Malwiya had threatened him and also beat him.

The evidence produced on record prima facie suggest that Vandana Malwiya had committed cognizable offences u/s 420, 323, 506 IPC. Hence, sufficient grounds exist to summon the accused.

Order

Vandana Malwiya is summoned u/s 420, 323, 506 IPC in complaint case no. 928/2023. The complainant shall take appropriate steps within 10 days. The office shall thereafter issue process. Fix 27.02.2024."

7. The reasons assigned to summon applicant in aforesaid impugned order was that according to GPA share of proceeds of sale deeds was required to be given to applicant as well as his two brothers, however, with dishonest intention applicant though executed number of sale deeds but has not handed over share of proceeds thereof to complainant and his brothers.

8. Learned counsel for both parties have interpreted relevant clause of said GPA in their favour, however, no much resistance was made at the behest of counsel for complainant that even prima facie on basis of material before Magistrate concerned, no case is made out under Sections 323, 506 IPC.

9. So far as offence under Section 420 IPC is concerned, said Section is quoted hereinafter:

"420. Cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property*.—Whoever cheats and thereby dishonestly induces the person deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to make, alter or destroy the whole or any part of a valuable security, or anything which is signed or sealed, and which is capable of being converted into a valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."*

10. Learned counsel for applicant submits that GPA was executed by three brothers including complainant in favour of their sister, i.e., applicant. In entire complaint or statements recorded before Magistrate, no allegation was made that GPA was itself executed on dishonest inducement of applicant. Even the GPA was revoked only by complainant and not by his two other brothers. Even other two brothers have not produced as witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C.

11. Learned counsel for applicant further submits that only allegation made in complaint as well as in the statements is that the proceeds of sale deeds were usurped by applicant and its due share was not given to complainant as well as his two brothers. However, for that relevant clauses of GPA has to be interpreted but the same can be done in civil suit and not in criminal proceedings.

12. Learned counsel appearing for complainant has referred the contents of complaint as well as statements that despite a specific clause in GPA due share of complainant from proceeds of various sale deeds was not handed over, thus the applicant has committed an offence of cheating. He also refers the details of different sale deeds executed by applicant on basis of GPA and total proceed thereof was around Rs. 7 crores. Various notices were issued to applicant, however, terms of GPA were violated with dishonest intention.

13. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

14. Undisputed facts have already been referred above that complainant and his two brothers have executed a GPA in favour of applicant, i.e., their sister, to sell out the scheduled property. Applicant has executed various sale deeds on basis of GPA even after its revocation at the behest of complainant.

15. There is no material on record that share of proceeds was handed over to complainant and his brothers. Counsel for both parties have interpreted clauses of GPA in their favour and as already observed the interpretation of GPA can be done only in civil proceedings on basis of evidence and not in criminal proceedings. It has already been observed earlier that on basis of contents of complaint and statements even prima facie no ingredients of offence under Sections 323, 506 IPC are made out. Therefore, only consideration left is, whether on basis of material available and rival submissions ingredients of Section 420 IPC are made out or not as well as whether requisite reasons were assigned while passing impugned summoning order as required under Section 204 Cr.P.C.

16. It has already been referred above that there is no allegation against applicant that she has induced complainant and his two brothers with dishonest intention to execute a registered GPA in her favour. Therefore, only consideration left is, whether after GPA was executed and on basis of it various sale deeds were executed by applicant, she with an dishonest intention, does not part away due share of complainant and his two brothers from proceeds of sale deeds.

17. In this regard contents of revocation of deed of GPA executed by complainant on 21.12.2021 would be relevant and relevant part thereof is mentioned hereinafter:

> "विदित हो कि किन्ही अपरिहार्य कारणों से मुझ मुकिर का तालमेल अपनी सगी बहन मुख्तारआम श्रीमती वन्दना मालवीय पत्नी श्री प्रियदर्शन मालवीय पुत्री स्व० प्रहलाद नारायण मालवीय से नहीं बन पा रहा है जिस कारण मैं मुकिर सम्पत्ति उपरोक्त में निहित अपने हक व हिस्से के बाबत किसी प्रकार को कोई अधिकार अपनी सगी बहन मुख्तारआम श्रीमती वन्दना मालवीय पत्नी श्री प्रियदर्शन मालवीय पुत्री स्व० प्रहलाद नारायण मालवीय को नहीं देना चाहता हूँ इसलिए मैं मुकिर पंजीकृत मुख्तारआम दिनांकित 08.07.2021ई० के तहत सम्पत्ति उपरोक्त में निहित अपने हक व हिस्से के बाबत अपनी सगी बहन मुख्तारआम श्रीमती वन्दना मालवीय पत्नी श्री प्रियदर्शन मालवीय पुत्री स्व० प्रहलाद नारायण मालवीय को दिये गये समस्त अधिकार जरिये इस मुख्तारनामा निरस्तीकरण निरस्त करता हूँ।"

18. Aforesaid reasons assigned for revocation of GPA does not indicate that reason for it was the dishonest intention developed with applicant after sale deeds were executed for not sharing the due share, if any, from proceeds of sale deeds to complainant and his brothers. Therefore, even till date of revocation of GPA, i.e., 21.12.2021, there was no allegation of dishonest intention of applicant. The criminal complaint was filed on 19.04.2023, i.e., after a substantial period of about two and half years and appears to be only due to reason to put pressure on applicant supposedly on ground that negotiations were failed. Complainant has not challenged any sale deed or has not filed any civil suit so that clauses of GPA, now revoked, can be interpreted on basis of rival submissions.

19. At this stage, I have carefully perused the statement of complainant recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. that it talks about assurance only and nothing has been mentioned about any clauses of GPA that it was provided therein that proceeds of sale deeds have to be shared amongst the complainant and his brothers.

20. As referred above, Section 420 IPC provides cheating and dishonest inducement of property. Therefore, the allegation would have substance only when the complainant had put a case that applicant has dishonestly induced three brothers to execute GPA. Subsequent dishonest, if any, would depend on basis of clauses of GPA. Since on face of it there is ambiguity on the issue of share of proceeds of sale deeds, therefore, for said purpose civil remedy is appropriate remedy. In this regard para 38 of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in C. Subbiah alias Kadambur Jayaraj and Others vs. Superintendent of Police and Others, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 935 is relevant and the same is reproduced hereinafter:

> "38. It is thus clear that from the complaint, there is no such allegation therein which can persuade the Court to hold that the intention of the accused appellants was to defraud the complainant right from the inception of the transactions. The accused appellants have unquestionably, passed on some plots as well as part profits from the land deals to the complainant but the dispute is regarding the quantification of profits and full satisfaction of the share claimed by the complainant proportional to the investments made by him."

21. In aforesaid circumstances, this Court is of the considered opinion that complainant has failed to make out a case even prima facie that applicant has dishonestly induced complainant and his brothers to execute GPA or even thereafter. Even otherwise, at the stage of revocation of GPA, at the behest of applicant, there was no reference of any dishonest intention. The only grievance left with complainant is that proceeds of sale deeds were not shared. However, for that an interpretation of clauses of GPA would be required, which cannot be done in criminal proceedings and for that civil remedy appears to be the best remedy.

22. In view of above, impugned order dated 16.01.2024 passed under Section 204 Cr.P.C. also does not take note of clauses of GPA and in a very cursory manner only on ground that proceeds of sale deeds were not shared to applicant, applicant was summoned under Section 420 IPC also. Therefore, as discussed above, ingredients of Section 420 IPC were not made out as well as ingredients of Section 323, 506 IPC are also not made out.

23. In the result, application is allowed. Impugned summoning order dated 16.01.2024 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No. 7, Prayagraj in Complaint Case No. 628 of 2023 (Pankaj Malviya vs. Smt. Vandana Malviya), under Sections 420, 323, 506 IPC, Police Station George Town, District Allahabad as well as further proceedings thereof are also hereby quashed.

THE HON'BLE RAJAN ROY, J.

Election Petition No. 3 of 2024

Maneka Sanjay Gandhi ...Petitioner
Versus
Rambhual Nishad & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Prashant Singh Atal, Amit Jaiswal Ojus Law, Dr. Pooja Singh, Vijay Vikram Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:

Civil Law– The Representation of People Act, 1951 - Sections 81 & 86 -Code of Civil Procedure,1908 - Order VII Rule 11 (d) - Election petition-petitioner challenged the election of the returned candidate-Sultanpur Lok Sabha Constituency- of - election petition filed beyond the 45-day limit prescribed by Section 81 of the Representation of People Act, 1951- Section 86 mandates dismissal of petitions not complying with Section 81- no provision allows for condonation of delay- petition found to be time-barred- dismissed. (Paras 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10 and 16)

HELD:
Hon'ble the Supreme Court opined in the said case that the applicability of the provisions of the Limitation Act by virtue of Section 29 (2) thereof is to be judged not from the terms of the limitation Act but by the provisions of the Act relating to filing of election petition and their trial to ascertain as to wherein it is complete code in itself which does not admit application of any provisions of the Limitation Act mentioned in Section 29 (2) of that Act. (para 9)

Referring to various earlier decisions of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India including those wherein it has been held that the Act 1951 was a complete Code and also taking into consideration various amendments made by the Legislature in the said Act, especially Section 81 thereof, and the earlier existing Section 85 which empowered the Election Commission in its discretion to condone the delay in presentation of the election petition and also taking into consideration the decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Charan Lal Sahu Vs Nand Kishor Bhatt; 1973 (2) SCC 530 wherein it had been held that there is no question of any common law right to challenge an election as such any discretion to condone the delay in presentation of the petition or to absolve the petitioner from payment of security for costs can only be provided under the statute governing election disputes and if no such discretion was conferred in respect of any of these matters none can be exercised under any general law or any principles of equity and if for non-compliance of the provisions of Section 82 and 117 which is mandatory, the election petition has to be dismissed under Section 86 (1) of the Act 1951, presentation of election petition within the period prescribed in Section 81 of the Act 1951 would be equally mandatory, non-compliance of which visits the penalty of the petition being dismissed, it was held, for all the reasons mentioned, therein that provisions of Section 5 of the Limitation Act do not govern the filing of election petitions or their trial. (Para 10)

From the aforesaid discussion it is apparent that the Limitation Act, 1963, especially Section 5 thereof, is not applicable to election petitions. In fact, the applicability appears to be specifically excluded in view of the provision of Section 86 (1) of the Act 1951 which makes it mandatory for the High Court/ Election Judge to dismiss the election petition if it is not in conformity with the provision of Section 81 of the Act 1951. Petition dismissed. (E-14)

20. Election Petition No. 7 of 2022 (Sheshmani Nath Tripathi (S.N. Tripathi In Short) Vs Shri Dinesh Rawat, The Returned Candidate

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Siddharth Luthra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Prashant Singh Atal, Mr. Amit Jaiswal, Dr. Pooja Singh and Mr. Vijay Vikram Singh for the election-petitioner.

2. This Election Petition has been filed by the petitioner-Maneka Sanjay Gandhi challenging election of the returned candidate-Rambhual Nishad as Member of Parliament from Sultanpur 38-Lok Sabha constituency and that the same be declared as null and void and be set aside.

3. It is admitted case of the petitioner herein that the returned candidate was elected on 04.06.2024 and the result of was declared on 06.06.2024. This election petition has been filed on 27.07.2024.

4. As per Section 81 of the Representation of People Act, 1951 (hereinafter referred as 'Act 1951') such an election petition can be filed within 45 days from, but not earlier than the date of election of the returned candidate or if there are more than one returned candidate at the election and dates of their election are different, the later of those two dates.

5. The election petition has apparently been filed beyond the period of 45 days prescribed in Section 81 of the Act 1951. Section 86 of the Act 1951 provides that the High Court shall dismiss an election petition which does not comply with the provision of Section 81 or Section 82 or Section 117 of the Act 1951.

6. Apparently, Section 86 (1) of the Act 1951 referred hereinabove is mandatory and in the event an election petition is filed beyond the period of 45 days prescribed in Section 81 of the Act 1951 the High Court does not have any option but to dismiss the election petition in view of provision contained in Section 86 (1) of the Act 1951. There is no provision under the Act 1951 which permits condonation of such delay and extension of the limitation proscribed in Section 81 of the Act 1951 on any ground.

7. On being confronted, Mr. Luthra who joined the proceedings through Video Conferencing and argued the election petition submitted that the law has evolved and now Section 33-A has been added in the Act 1951 which requires a disclosure by the candidate about the criminal cases against him. The said provision gives a corresponding right to the elector etc. to information with regard to the person whom he is required to vote for. This right, according to him, is in fact part of the constitutional right as held in various decisions and in this context he relied upon decisions of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Vidyacharan Shukla vs. Khubchand Baghel and others; (1964) 6 SCR 129, Hukumdev Narain Yadav vs. Lalit narain Mishra; (1974) 2 SCC 133, Hari Shanker Tripathi vs. Shiv Harsh and Others; (1976) 1 SCC 897, Mangu Ram vs. Municipal Corporation of Delhi; (1976) 1 SCC 392, Bengal Chemists & Druggists Assn. vs. Kalyan Chowdhury; (2018) 3 SCC 41, Krishnamoorthy vs. Sivakumar and others; (2015) 3 SCC 467, Union of India vs. Assn. for Democratic Reforms and another; (2002) 5 SCC 294, People's Union for Civil Liberties (PUCL) and another vs. Union of India and another; (2003) 4 SCC 399, Lily Thomas vs. Union of India and others; (2013) 7 SCC 653, Resurgence India vs. Election Commission of India and another; (2014) 14 SCC 189, Public Interest Foundation and others vs. Union of India and another; (2019) 3 SCC 224, N. Balakrishnan vs. M. Krishnamurthy;

(1998) 7 SCC 123 and Gopal Sardar vs. Karuna Sardar; (2004) 4 SCC 252. Relying upon the same, he also contended that much water has flown down the river and the law has evolved immensely since the decision in the case of Hukumdev Narain Yadav (supra) and the said decision as also the later decisions following it had not taken into consideration the insertion of Section 33-A in the Act 1951 and its impact. His submission was that the returned candidate had not disclosed four criminal cases pending against him and had submitted a false affidavit. It was also his submission that limitation should not legalize such illegal non-disclosures, as, ultimately the election was to the Parliament of India and considering the consequences on the functioning of the polity this by itself should be a ground for entertaining the election petition and for this Court to decide the same on merits.

8. The issue which has arisen in this election petition is no longer res integra. A three Judge Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Hukumdev Narain Yadav (supra) had the occasion to consider the same. Question of applicability of Section 5 of the Limitation Act to an election petition was specifically an issue before the Supreme Court in the said case, apart from other issues involved. It is, therefore, fruitful to refer to relevant extracts of the said judgment, especially as the Supreme Court also considered the provision of Section 86 (2) of the Act 1951 and its impact on the election petition in the said context. It held as under:

> "16. In K. Venkateswara Rao and Anr. v. Bekkam Narasimha Reddi & Ors.; AIR 1969 SC 872 to which we shall refer more fully later, Vidyacharan Shukla's case (supra) was attempted to be pressed into service, but this Court repelled it and observed at pp. 688-689:
>
> "In our view, the situation now obtaining in an appeal to this Court from an order of the High Court is entirely different. There is no section in the Act as it now stands which equates an order made by the High Court under Section 98 or Section 99 to a decree passed by a Civil court subordinate to the High Court. An appeal being a creature of a statute, the rights conferred on the appellant must be found within the four corners of the Act. Sub-Section (2) of the present Section 116-A expressly gives this Court the discretion and authority to entertain an appeal after the expiry of the period of thirty days. No right is however given to the High Court to entertain an election petition which does not comply with the provisions of Section 81, Section 82 or Section 117."
>
> 17. Though Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act has been made applicable to appeals both under the Act as well as under the Code of Criminal Procedure, no case has been brought to our notice where Section 29(2) has been made applicable to an election petition filed under Section 81 of the Act by virtue of which either Sections 4, 5 or 12 of the Limitation Act has been attracted. Even assuming that where a period of limitation has not been fixed for election petitions in the Schedule to the Limitation Act which is different from that fixed under Section 81 of the Act, Section

29 (2) would be attracted, and what we have to determine is whether the provisions of this section are expressly excluded in the case of an election petition. It is contended before us that the words "expressly excluded" would mean that there must be an express reference made in the special or local law to the specific provisions of the Limitation Act of which the operation is to be excluded. As usual the meaning given in the Dictionary has been relied upon, but what we have to see is whether the scheme of the special law, that is in this case the Act, and the nature of the remedy provided therein are such that the Legislature intended it to be a complete code by itself which alone should govern the several matters provided by it. If on an examination of the relevant provisions it is clear that the provisions of the Limitation Act are necessarily excluded, then the benefits conferred therein cannot be called in aid to supplement the provisions of the Act. In our view, even in a case where the special law does not exclude the provisions of Sections 4 to 24 of the Limitation Act by an express reference, it would nonetheless be open to the Court to examine whether and to what extent the nature of those provisions or the nature of the subject-matter and scheme of the special law exclude their operation. The provisions of Section 3 of the Limitation Act that a suit instituted, appeal preferred and application made after the prescribed period shall be dismissed are provided for in Section 86 of the Act which gives a peremptory command that the High Court shall dismiss an election petition which does not comply with the provisions of Sections 81, 82 or 117. It will be seen that Section 81 is not the only section mentioned in Section 86, and if the Limitation Act were to apply to an election petition under Section 81 it should equally apply to Sections 82 and 117 because under Section 86 the High Court cannot say that by an application of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, Section 81 is complied with while no such benefit is available in dismissing an application for non-compliance with the provisions of Sections 82 and 117 of the Act, or alternatively if the provisions of the Limitation Act do not apply to Section 82 and Section 117 of the Act, it cannot be said that they apply to s. 81. Again, s. 6 of the Limitation Act which provides for the extension of the period of limitation till after the disability in the case of a person who is either a minor or insane or an idiot is inapplicable to, an election petition. Similarly, Sections. 7 to 24 are in terms inapplicable to the proceedings under the Act, particularly in respect of the filing of election petitions and their trial."

9. Hon'ble the Supreme Court opined in the said case that the applicability of the provisions of the Limitation Act by virtue of Section 29 (2) thereof is to be judged not from the terms of the limitation Act but by the provisions of the Act relating to filing of election petition and their trial to ascertain as to wherein it is complete code in itself which does not admit application of any provisions of the Limitation Act mentioned in Section 29 (2) of that Act.

10. Referring to various earlier decisions of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India including those wherein it has been held that the Act 1951 was a complete Code and also taking into consideration various amendments made by the Legislature in the said Act, especially Section 81 thereof, and the earlier existing Section 85 which empowered the Election Commission in its discretion to condone the delay in presentation of the election petition and also taking into consideration the decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Charan Lal Sahu vs. Nand Kishor Bhatt; 1973 (2) SCC 530 wherein it had been held that there is no question of any common law right to challenge an election as such any discretion to condone the delay in presentation of the petition or to absolve the petitioner from payment of security for costs can only be provided under the statute governing election disputes and if no such discretion was conferred in respect of any of these matters none can be exercised under any general law or any principles of equity and if for non compliance of the provisions of Section 82 and 117 which is mandatory, the election petition has to be dismissed under Section 86 (1) of the Act 1951, presentation of election petition within the period prescribed in Section 81 of the Act 1951 would be equally mandatory, non-compliance of which visits the penalty of the petition being dismissed, it was held, for all the reasons mentioned, therein that provisions of Section 5 of the Limitation Act do not govern the filing of election petitions or their trial.

11. It also considered the plea that if the petitions were to be dismissed allegation of serious corrupt practices cannot be inquired into and purity of the elections cannot be maintained and found the answer to this plea in the judgment of Justice G.K. Mitter in K. Venkateswara Rao and Anr. v. Bekkam Narasimha Reddi & Ors.; AIR 1969 SC 872 wherein his Lordship opined that this is however a matter which can be set right only by the Legislature. It is worthy of note that although the Act has been amended on several occasions, a provision like Section 86(1) as it now stands has always been on the statute book but whereas in the Act of 1951 the discretion was given to the Election Commission, to entertain a petition beyond the period fixed if it was satisfied as to the cause for delay no such saving clause is to be found now. The legislature in its wisdom has made the observance of certain formalities and provisions obligatory and failure in that respect can only be visited with a dismissal of the petition.

12. Their Lordships also took into consideration that since the decision in K. Venkateswara Rao (supra) decided in August, 1968, though the Parliament has made certain amendments in the Act 1969, it has not considered it necessary to amend the Act to confer, on persons challenging the election, benefits similar to those available to them under the proviso to the repealed Section 85 of the Act 1951, for, as it did not want delays to occur in the disposal of election petitions as in the past. Under the repealed Section 85 there was a provision for condonation of delay in filing election petition but there is no such provision in the Act 1951 existing as of now.

13. It is not out of place to mention that in Hukumdev Narain Yadav (supra), Hon'ble the Supreme Court also considered the constitution bench judgment in the case of Vidyacharan Shukla (supra).

14. Hukumdev Narain Yadav (supra) has been followed in various later decisions such as 1976 (1) SCC 897 (Harishankar Tripathi vs. Shiv Harsh and others); 2018 (9) SCC 808 (Suman Devi vs. Manisha Devi and others).

15. Another three Judge Bench of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Lachhman Das Arora vs. Ganeshi Lal and others; 1999 (8) SCC 532 construed the provisions of Section 81 (1) of the Act 1951 and has held as under:

> "7. On its plain reading, Section 81(1) lays down that an election petition calling in question any election may be presented on one or more of the grounds specified in sub-section (1) of Section 100 and Section 101 of the Act to the High Court by any candidate at such election or by an elector within forty-five days from, but not earlier than, the date of election of the returned candidate, or if there are more than one returned candidate at the election and the dates of their election are different, the later of those two dates. The Act is a special code providing a period of limitation for filing of an election petition. No period for filing of an election petition is prescribed under the Indian Limitation Act. The Act insofar as it relates to presentation and trial of election disputes is a complete code and a special law. The scheme of the special law shows that the provisions of Sections 4 to 24 of the Indian Limitation Act do not apply. If an election petition is not filed within the prescribed period of forty-five days, Section 86(1) of the Act, which provides that the High Court shall dismiss an election petition which does not comply with the provisions of Section 81 or Section 82 or Section 117, is straightaway attracted."

This decision has been followed in the subsequent decision in Suman Devi (supra).

16. From the aforesaid discussion it is apparent that the Limitation Act, 1963, especially Section 5 thereof, is not applicable to election petitions. In fact, the applicability appears to be specifically excluded in view of the provision of Section 86 (1) of the Act 1951 which makes it mandatory for the High Court/Election Judge to dismiss the election petition if it is not in conformity with the provision of Section 81 of the Act 1951.

17. It is not out of place to mention that the High Court while hearing an election petition operates as an Authority under Article 329 (b) of the Constitution of India whose jurisdiction is circumscribed by the statutory provisions contained in the Act 1951. The legal position in this regard has been settled by a three Judge Bench in the case of Thampanoor Ravi vs. Charupara Ravi and Others; (1999) 8 SCC 74. The said judgment has been followed by a Division Bench of this Court on a reference made by a learned Single Judge in the context of an election petition bearing Election Petition No. 7 of 2022 (Sheshmani Nath Tripathi (S.N. Tripathi In Short) vs. Shri Dinesh Rawat, The Returned Candidate. The High Court while hearing an election petition does not function as a Constitutional Court per se nor does it have extraordinary constitutional or inherent powers as has been held in Thampanoor Ravi (supra) and the Division Bench of this Court in Sheshmani Nath Tripathi (supra), therefore, the contention of Mr. Luthra that the violation of constitutional right to right to information should be considered is not acceptable. Unless and until the election petition is maintainable and is not barred by limitation, the merits of the matter cannot be considered. In fact such a plea has already been considered in Hukumdev Narain Yadav (supra) with reference to opinion of Justice Mitter in K. Venkateswara Rao's case as already referred earlier.

18. For all these reasons, this election petition being barred by Section 81 read with Section 86 of the Act 1951 and Order VII Rule 11(d) of the Code of Civil Procedure is liable to be dismissed. It is accordingly dismissed.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE NALIN KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

Government Appeal No. 387 of 2024

State ...Appellant
Versus
Shivakant Bajpai ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Alok Ranjan Mishra

Counsel for the Respondent:
Manjul Mishra

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 378(3) - The Railways Act, 1989 - Sections 154 & 174 - Appeal against acquittal- allegedly damaging a railway boom lock post with a truck- lack of corroborative evidence for the alleged extra-judicial confession- Section 25 Indian Evidence Act-Section 313 CrPC- need for independent corroboration of such confessions- trial court's acquittal was justified- States's prayer to leave for appeal refused- Appeal dismissed. (Paras 7 to 12, 20, 24, 26, 29, 31 and 32)

HELD:
Considering the oral and documentary evidence on record adduced by the prosecution, the trial court opined that out of the four witnesses examined by the prosecution, PW-1 is the only witness who had seen the occurrence and rest of the witnesses are formal witnesses. Discussing the averments made by PW-1 in his evidence, the trial court has quoted the relevant statements made by him wherein he states that during investigation no identification parade of the accused was conducted by the Investigating Officer and the driver, who fled away after the incident, is not identifiable by him even today. (para 20)

The confession allegedly made by the accused respondent falls within the category of 'extra judicial confession' and the law on the subject has been clarified by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a catena of decisions and the principle that emerges out as essence from the various decisions is that the extra judicial confession can be accepted and can be made the basis of conviction if it passes the test of credibility and such confession should inspire confidence and the Court must find out whether there are other cogent circumstances on record to corroborate it. (Para 24)

of the vehicle, who is said to have taken the accused respondent with him to disclose the fact that he was the person who was driving the offending vehicle at the time of the incident, was not chosen to be produced as a witness by the prosecution and hence from the very inception the alleged confession made by the accused respondent falls under the shadow of suspicion. In these circumstances it appears that only to show the good work, the R.P.F. officials falsely roped the accused respondent in this case. Hence, the alleged extra judicial confession, which is not supported by any cogent independent evidence, loses its importance and its credibility becomes doubtful in the case like this. (Para 26)

The learned trial Court has given logical and plausible findings in the impugned judgement and has rightly concluded that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The judgment and order of the trial court under judicious scrutiny is just and proper and carries no perversity therein, hence it does not warrant any interference by this Court. The reasoning adopted by the learned Trial Judge is based upon proper application of judicial mind. No illegality or infirmity is found in the impugned judgment and order and it needs no interference by this Court in exercise of its power under Section 378 CrPC. (Para 31)

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

Ref : Criminal Misc. Application (Leave to Appeal)

1. The present government appeal under Section 378 (3) CrPC has been filed against the impugned judgement and order dated 25.4.2023 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Northern Railway, Bareilly in Criminal Case No. 592 of 2013, arising out of Case Crime No.101 of 2013 under Sections 154 and 174 of the Railways Act, 1989, Police Station R.P.F. Post Shahjahanpur, Moradabad Division, Northern Railway whereby accused-respondent was acquitted.

2. Heard Shri Alok Ranjan Mishra, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Government of India at length. None is present for the accused-respondent.

3. The prosecution story, in nutshell, is that boom lock post of the Railway Department was broken by a Truck bearing Registration No. UP26-9171 being driven by its driver in a rash and negligent manner and the driver of the said Truck fled away from the place of occurrence but the Truck was taken into possession by the police. F.I.R. as Case Crime No.101 of 2013 under Sections 154 and 174 of the Railways Act, 1989 was lodged. After investigation, the police report was submitted to the court for trial. Copies of necessary papers were given to the accused and his statement under Section 251 CrPC was recorded wherein he denied the incident. Trial started and during trial, the prosecution produced as many as four prosecution witnesses. In addition to this, the prosecution has also produced number of documents, which were duly exhibited and proved during trial. Accused respondent in his statement recorded under Section 313 CrPC denied the factum of incident and the truthfulness of prosecution evidence. The learned Magistrate after thrashing the evidence and critically analysing them has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to establish the case beyond reasonable doubt and, therefore, the accused Shiva Kant Bajpayee was set at liberty and was acquitted.

4. Aggrieved with the said judgement and order, the instant Government Appeal under Section 378 (3) Cr.P.C. on behalf of the State through D.S.C./ R.P.F. Moradabad Division / appellant has been filed.

5. Learned Counsel appearing for the appellant State submitted that in this case the appellant had confessed his guilt before the officer of R.P.F. conducting an enquiry and the said confession is not hit by the provisions of Section 25 Evidence Act, as the officer of R.P.F. does not fall into the category of 'Investigating Officer' and his status is not the same as it is in a case of Police Officer investigating the case and hence his confession made before the officer of the R.P.F. is admissible in evidence and his confessional statement in this case cannot be excluded from the category of 'evidence'. It is further submitted that since the trial court totally ignored the confessional statement made by the accused himself, which was fully admissible in evidence, the findings of acquittal of the accused respondent is illegal and not sustainable. It is also submitted that on the basis of other oral and documentary evidence on record the prosecution has established and proved its case beyond reasonable doubt but the trial court failed to appreciate the evidence in its true perspective and acquitted the accused respondent by wrong appreciation of the evidence available on record. Findings recorded by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order are illegal and perverse warranting interference by this Court.

6. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the appellant - State placed reliance upon a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Balakishan A. Devidayal vs. State of Maharashtra, (1980) 4 SCC 600 and a decision of this Court in State vs. Shivendra Pratap Singh, 1979 SCC Online All 377.

7. Since it is a an appeal against the acquittal, it will be relevant to note the principles of law laid down by the Apex Court with regard to the appreciation of evidence and approach to be adopted while dealing with an appeal against acquittal.

8. In Jafarudheen and others vs. State of Kerala, 2022 SCC Online SC 495, reiterating the principle on the subject the Hon’ble Apex Court reminded to the Courts as extracted below:

> “25. While dealing with an appeal against acquittal by invoking Section 378 of the Cr.PC, the Appellate Court has to consider whether the Trial Court's view can be termed as a possible one, particularly when evidence on record has been analyzed. The reason is that an order of acquittal adds up to the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused. Thus, the Appellate Court has to be relatively slow in reversing the order of the Trial Court rendering acquittal. Therefore, the presumption in favour of the accused does not get weakened but only strengthened. Such a double presumption that enures in favour of the accused has to be disturbed only by thorough scrutiny on the accepted legal parameters."

9. In Mohan alias Srinivas alias Seena alias Tailor Seena vs. State of Karnataka, (2022) 12 SCC 619, the Hon'ble Apex Court held as hereunder:

"20. Section 378 CrPC enables the State to prefer an appeal against an order of acquittal Section 384 CrPC speaks of the powers that can be exercised by the Appellate Court. When the trial court renders its decision by acquitting the accused, presumption of innocence gathers strength before the Appellate Court. As a consequence, the onus on the prosecution becomes more burdensome as there is a double presumption of innocence. Certainly, the Court of first instance has its own advantages in delivering its verdict, which is to see the witnesses in person while they depose The Appellate Court is expected to involve itself in a deeper, studied scrutiny of not only the evidence before it, but is duty bound to satisfy itself whether the decision of the trial court is both possible and plausible view When two views are possible, the one taken by the trial court in a case of acquittal is to be followed on the touchstone of liberty along with the advantage of having seen the witnesses. Article 21 of the Constitution of India also aids the accused after acquittal in a certain way, though not absolute. Suffice it is to state that the Appellate Court shall remind itself of the role required to play, while dealing with a case of an acquittal.

10. In Atley v. State of U.P., 1955 Cri. LJ 1653, the approach of the appellate court while considering a judgment of acquittal was discussed and it was observed that unless the appellate court comes to the conclusion that the judgment of the acquittal was perverse, it could not set aside the same.

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Bannareddy v. State of Karnataka, (2018) 5 SCC 790, has considered the power and jurisdiction of the High Court while interfering in an appeal against acquittal and held as under :

"26. The High Court should not have re-appreciated the evidence in its entirety, especially when there existed no grave infirmity in the findings of the trial Court. There exists no justification behind setting aside the order of acquittal passed by the trial Court, especially when the prosecution case suffers from several contradictions and infirmities".

12. In Ramesh Babulal Doshi vs. State of Gujarat, (1996) 9 SCC 225, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed vis-a-vis the powers of an appellate court while dealing with a judgment of acquittal and held like this :

> "7. While sitting in judgment over an acquittal the appellate court is first required to seek an answer to the question whether the findings of the trial court are palpably wrong, manifestly erroneous or demonstrably unsustainable. If the appellate court answers the above question in the negative the order of acquittal is not to be disturbed. Conversely, if the appellate court holds, for reasons to be recorded, that the order of acquittal cannot at all be sustained in view of any of the above infirmities it can then and then only reappraise the evidence to arrive at its own conclusions."

13. In the light of the submissions made by learned counsel for the appellant / State, I have carefully gone through the evidence available on record, analysis and appreciation thereof and conclusion arrived at by the trial court in the impugned judgment and order dated 25.4.2023.

14. It is a case where boom lock post of the Railway Department was hit by a Truck being driven by its driver in a rash and negligent manner and the driver of the said Truck fled away from the place of occurrence and subsequently the registered owner of the said Truck Vijay Kumar Singh brought him in person to the outpost Sitapur, where he is said to have admitted his guilt.

15. PW-1-Mahesh Prasad - Gateman/ kantewala is the eye witness of this case but this witness has admitted before the trial court that the driver of the ruck fled away from the spot and he cannot identify him even if he comes before him. He has fairly conceded that during investigation no identification parade of the accused was conducted by the Investigating Officer and even today he is unable to identify the truck driver.

16. PW-2 - S.K. Vidhyarthi / S.S.E. Signal is the Railway Officer, who made a joint inspection of the place of occurrence alongwith R.P.F. police officials. He is a formal witness, who proves memo of recovery of the truck Ext. ka-1, inspection report Ext. ka-3, site plan Ext. ka-4 but at the same time on the basis of documentary evidence he also establishes the factum of collusion of the Truck with the boom lock post.

17. PW-3 S.I. Akhilesh Kumar Yadav working in R.P.F. though has made some statements regarding the facts of this case but as a matter of fact he is not an eye witness of the incident and is a formal witness and his evidence on the facts of the incident is an outcome what he received from the gate-man. F.I.R. of this case was lodged against unknown driver. This witness himself has enquired into the matter. He proves the registration G.D. Ext. ka-5 and corroborates the evidence of PW-2 by identifying his own signatures on Ext. ka-1, Ext. ka-3 and Ext. ka-4. He also proves the fact that one person alongwith the owner of the offending vehicle Vijay Kumar Singh came to the outpost on 28.2.2013 and confessed his quilt as to he himself was driving the offending vehicle at the time when it collided with the boom lock post. He further states that subsequently, the accused was arrested and memo of arrest was prepared which is Ext. ka-6. This witness further proves copy of G.D. as Ext. ka-7, the confessional statement of the offending driver recorded in the presence of owner of the vehicle Vijay Kumar Singh as Ext. ka-8. The statement of Vijay Kumar Singh has also been proved by this witness as Ext. ka-9. After technical inspection, the offending vehicle was given in the supurdgi of the owner thereof and the memo thereof has been proved as Ext. ka-10 by this witness. After completing the investigation, a complaint was submitted to the Court which has also been proved by him as Ext. ka-11. Further he has fairly conceded that after taking the accused into custody, no identification of the accused was performed by the gate man Mahesh Prasad.

18. PW-4 - Constable Vipin Kumar Sharma is also said to be a witness of fact but a perusal of his deposition shows that he is not an eye witness of the incident but he came to the spot after the incident took place. He has identified his signatures over Ext.ka-1 and Ext. ka-6.

19. The genuineness of technical inspection report in respect of the offending vehicle has been admitted by the learned counsel for defence, which is Ext. ka-12.

20. Considering the oral and documentary evidence on record adduced by the prosecution, the trial court opined that out of the four witnesses examined by the prosecution, PW-1 is the only witness who had seen the occurrence and rest of the witnesses are formal witnesses. Discussing the averments made by PW-1 in his evidence, the trial court has quoted the relevant statements made by him wherein he states that during investigation no identification parade of the accused was conducted by the Investigating Officer and the driver, who fled away after the incident, is not identifiable by him even today.

21. In these circumstances even if the documentary evidence produced by the prosecution is taken to be genuine, the Court cannot shut its eyes to the fact that in the statement under Section 313 CrPC a total denial to the incident is found on the part of the accused respondent. He has averred that he never collided with the railway gate by driving any Truck nor committed any offence, as alleged. The trial court in these circumstances has opined that the statements of the accused respondent and the owner of the vehicle, allegedly recorded by the R.P.F. official, which are produced in evidence as Ext. ka-8 and Ext. ka-9 respectively require corroboration by some other evidence. Even if the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellant is taken to be true that a confessional statement was recorded by the driver before the R.P.F. official which is admissible in evidence, the question arises as to whether the accused is liable to be convicted only on the basis of his alleged confession made before the R.P.F. official or any further special sparking test was needed to prove the guilt of the accused. To take a statement of an accused as an admissible piece of evidence is one thing but whether this evidence has been corroborated by some other cogent piece of evidence before being acted upon is a quite different thing, particularly in a situation where in his statement under Section 313 CrPC rendered before the Court of law, the accused claims his innocence and states the same in his statement under Section 251 CrPC as well and thereby categorically denies as to he, in any way, was the author of the crime. The prosecution was under obligation to prove by any cogent corroborative piece of evidence that the accused respondent had confessed his guilt before the R.P.F. official.

22. So far as the decisions relied upon by the learned State Counsel appearing for the appellant-State are concerned, in Balakishan A. Devidayal case (supra), it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court as under :

> "58……in the light of the above discussion, it is clear that an officer of the RPF conducting an enquiry under Section 8 (1) of, the 1966 Act has not. been invested will all the powers of an officer-in-charge of a police station making an Investigation under Chapter XIV of the Code. Particularly, he has no power to initiate prosecution by filing a charge-sheet before the Magistrate concerned under Section 173 of the Code, which his been held to be the clinching attribute of an investigating 'police officer'. Thus, judged by the test laid down in Badku Jyoti Savant's case, which has been consistently adopted in the subsequent, decisions noticed above, Inspector Kakade of the RPF could not be deemed to be a 'police officer, within the meaning of Section 25 of the Evidence Act, and therefore, any confessional or incriminating statement recorded by him in the course of an inquiry under Section 8 (1) of the 1966 Act, cannot be excluded from evidence under the said section.

23. In State vs. Shivendra Pratap Singh case (supra) this Court held as under :

> "4……The main point to be decided in this appeal therefore, is whether the confessional statement Ex Ka-17 is hit under Section 162 Cr.P.C. The learned Assistant Government Advocate has placed reliance on the case of State v Durga Prasad, AIR 1974 SC 2136 in which it was held that the enquiry under Sec. 8 (i) of the Railway Property (Unlawful Possession) Act, 1966 by an officer of the Railway Protection Force cannot be deemed to be an investigation for the purposes of Sec. 162 Cr.P.C. In that case the officer of the R. P. F. making enquiry had obtained the signatures of the witnesses on their statements and the argument was that he had committed flagrant violation of Sec. 162 Cr.P.C. and the entire trial was vitiated because those statements had been brought on the record and had been put to the witnesses in the examination-in-chief. Hon'ble Supreme Court held, overruling the decision of the High Court that the trial was not vitiated even though such- statements signed by the witnesses had been brought on the record. The order of acquittal was set aside and the order of conviction recorded by the Sessions Judge was restored. This decision is dated 28-3-74 while the learned Magistrate had decided the present case on 11-7-73 when this decision was not available. In that judgment their Lordships referred to the earlier decision in the case of Radhu Joti Savant v. State, AIR 1966 SC 1746. It was a case under the Central Excise and Customs Act. The provisions of Section 21 (i)

(ii) of that Act and the provisions of Sec. 8 (i) and (ii) of the Railway Property (Unlawful Possession) Act were held to be identical in material respects. In the earlier decision it was held that the confession made by an accused before the Central Excise Officer was not hit under Section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act as it would not be deemed to have been recorded under Section 162 CrPC. By referring to the earlier decision of 1966 their Lordships made it abundantly clear that the same principles would apply to a confessional statement made under R. P. (U. P.) Act even though they were not actually considering confessional statement. They were only considering the statements of witnesses recorded by the enquiry officer after obtaining their signatures. In the light of this decision of the Hon. Supreme Court there can be no doubt that the view taken by the learned Magistrate on the point of Section 162 CrPC is erroneous ami the confessional statement (paper no. A-6) Ex. 17 cannot be hit by Sec. 162 CrPC."

24. The confession allegedly made by the accused respondent falls within the category of 'extra judicial confession' and the law on the subject has been clarified by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a catena of decisions and the principle that emerges out as essence from the various decisions is that the extra judicial confession can be accepted and can be made the basis of conviction if it passes the test of credibility and such confession should inspire confidence and the Court must find out whether there are other cogent circumstances on record to corroborate it.

25. In Subramanya vs. State of Karnataka, (2023) 11 Supreme Court Cases 255, the Hon'ble Apex Court explaining the law on the subject held as under :

"54. Extra judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence and the court must ensure that the same inspires confidence and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. It is considered to be a weak piece of evidence as it can be easily procured whenever direct evidence is not available. In order to accept extra judicial confession, it must be voluntary and must inspire confidence. If the court is satisfied that the extra judicial confession is voluntary, it can be acted upon to base the conviction."

"55. Considering the admissibility and evidentiary value of extra judicial confession, after referring to various judgments, in Sahadevan and Another v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2012) 6 SCC 403, this Court held as under:-

"15.1. In Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab [1995 Supp (4) SCC 259 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 59] this Court stated the principle that: (SCC p. 265, para 10)

"10. An extra-judicial confession by its very nature is rather a weak type of evidence and requires appreciation with a great deal of care and caution. Where an extra-judicial confession is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, its credibility becomes doubtful and it loses its importance."

26. This Court cannot lose sight of the fact that in this case the alleged extra judicial confession made by the accused respondent is surrounded by suspicious circumstances because the owner of the vehicle, who is said to have taken the accused respondent with him to disclose the fact that he was the person who was driving the offending vehicle at the time of the incident, was not chosen to be produced as a witness by the prosecution and hence from the very inception the alleged confession made by the accused respondent falls under the shadow of suspicion. In these circumstances it appears that only to show the good work, the R.P.F. officials falsely roped the accused respondent in this case. Hence, the alleged extra judicial confession, which is not supported by any cogent independent evidence, loses its importance and its credibility becomes doubtful in the case like this.

27. The observation made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pakkirisamy vs. State of T.N. (1997) 8 SCC 158 is relevant in the circumstances of this case, which is as under :

"8..... It is well settled that it is a rule of caution where the court would generally look for an independent reliable corroboration before placing any reliance upon such extra-judicial confession."

28. The evidence of R.P.F. officials as prosecution witnesses to prove the extra judicial confession allegedly made by the accused / respondent cannot be taken as a reliable piece of evidence as none of the witnesses has seen him committing the crime. When the accused himself denies of any of the confessional statements made before R.P.F. officials by him and the owner of the vehicle, who is said to have taken the accused with him to the R.P.F Officers, has not come forward to depose the aforesaid fact before the trial court, the accused could not be convicted on the basis of the testimony of highly interested witnesses and in this way the prosecution lacks an independent reliable corroboration of the so-called extra judicial confession made by the accused.

29. This Court also takes cognizance of this fact that the prosecution evidence was not explicitly clear that the so-called extra judicial confession made by the accused respondent was voluntarily and true and made in a fit state of mind and in the event of such omission made on the part of the prosecution to prove the aforesaid factum of confession by some corroborative reliable piece of evidence, the extra judicial confession cannot be relied upon by this Court. In fact the confession made by an accused requires to be proved like any other fact. It is a weak type of evidence and although there is no absolute rule that it can never be the basis of a conviction but ordinarily such confession should be corroborated by some other material evidence to enable the Court to satisfy itself in regard to voluntariness and truthfulness of the confession and the corroborative evidence thereof.

30. Moreover, this fact cannot be lost sight of that Vijay Kumar Singh, the owner of the vehicle, was not produced by the prosecution as a witness to prove his statement which was given by him before the R.P.F. officials. For want of such substantial evidence, the trial court correctly found that the accused respondent is entitled to get benefit of doubt. The trial court has elaborately discussed the oral and documentary evidence on record and reached the right conclusion and committed no mistake in recording the acquittal of the accused respondent.

31. The learned trial Court has given logical and plausible findings in the impugned judgement and has rightly concluded that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The judgment and order of the trial court under judicious scrutiny is just and proper and carries no perversity therein, hence it does not warrant any interference by this Court. The reasoning adopted by the learned Trial Judge is based upon proper application of judicial mind. No illegality or infirmity is found in the impugned judgment and order and it needs no interference by this Court in exercise of its power under Section 378 CrPC.

32. Thus, the application moved by the appellant - State to grant leave to appeal for the reasons discussed here-in-above is not liable to be allowed and the said prayer is refused.

Re : Government Appeal

1. Since the application for grant of leave to appeal has been disallowed, the government appeal is also not liable to be admitted and same is dismissed at this stage.

2. This Court is thankful to learned Advocate and Mr. Akash Verma, Research Associate of this Court for ably assisting the Court.

A. Chronicle of facts-Shri Krishna is believed to have been born at Katra Keshav Dev, Mathura, over 5000 years ago- A temple at this site was historically constructed and reconstructed by various Hindu rulers, including Shri Brajnabha (great-grandson of Shri Krishna), Chandragupta Vikramaditya, and Raja Veer Singh Bundela- temple was demolished multiple times by invaders like Mahmud Ghaznavi, Sikandar Lodi, and Aurangzeb, the latter constructing a mosque (Shahi Idgah) over the temple ruins in 1670- In 1815, Raja Patnimal purchased the 13.37 acres of Katra Keshav Dev land in a public auction conducted by the British-His legal heirs-maintained ownership, affirmed through multiple suits and decrees till 1935- In 1951, Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi Trust was created by industrialist Jugal Kishore Birla- In 1964, Sewa Sansthan, a distinct entity with no legal claim over the land, filed Civil Suit No. 43/1967 against the Trust Shahi Idgah- A compromise decree was passed on 20.07.1973 and 07.11.1974 in favour of maintaining status quo between the structures, allegedly without authority from the lawful trust- Multiple suits and appeals followed questioning the validity of this compromise, its legality, and its binding effect. (Para 13)

C. Scope of Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC-cause of action-bundle of facts-plaintiffs must prove to succeed- facts pleaded in the plaint reveal cause of action as averred in their plaints- defence of the defendant or the written St.ment filed on their behalf need not be considered- only the averments made in the plaint are to be considered at the time of the disposal of such application- prima facie it appears that a valid cause of action arose to the plaintiffs to institute suits. (paras 170, 172, 178 and 179)

HELD:

A cause of action is a bundle of facts, which the plaintiffs must prove, to succeed in their suits. A cause of action is constituted on the basis of various facts averred in the plaint. (para 170)

Perusal of the respective plaints, as a whole, goes to show that the historical background of the matter, averments made in the plaints about the title, ownership and possession of Raja Patnimal of Benaras and his legal heirs over the property of Katra Keshav Dev measuring 13.37 acres, several rounds of subsequent litigations establishing the title and possession of suit property in their favour, the execution of sale deed in favour of Mahamana Pandit Madan Mohan Malviya & ors., creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust by Late Sri Jugal Kishore Birla, institution of Suit No.43 of 1967 by Sewa Sansthan, the compromise dated 12.10.1968 entered into between the parties, construction of superstructure known as 'Shahi Idgah Masjid' by the defendants, and execution of certain documents from time to time which are brought on record by plaintiffs, are bundle of facts which indicate that the plaintiffs have a cause of action to institute present suits. All these peculiar facts and circumstances constitute a cause of action as averred in their respective plaints. (Para 172)

It is a settled law that the defense of the defendant or the written St.ment filed on their behalf need not be considered and only the averments made in the plaint are to be considered at the time of the disposal of such application. (Para 178)

I am of the considered view that after perusal of the plaints, as a whole and meaningfully, documentary evidence brought on record and oral arguments advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties, prima facie it appears that a valid cause of action arose to the plaintiffs to institute the suits. At this stage, it cannot be assumed that the plaints do not disclose a cause of action as agitated by the learned Counsel for the defendants. (Para 179)

D. Bar under the Limitation Act, 1963-Articles 58 and 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963-relief of declaration can be sought within three years-averments made in the plaint disclose illusory cause of action-date of knowledge-question of limitation is directly related to the cause of action-cause of action, being the mixed question of fact and law-can be examined on the basis of evidence led by parties during trial- e plea of limitation can be decided based on the pleadings of the parties after framing an issue under Order VI Rule 13 of the CPC-mixed question fact and law-on the question of limitation, the plaints cannot be rejected at the threshold. (paras 180,189, 190, 191, 194 and 195)

HELD:

The aforesaid recital about the name of the trust and description of the property of Katra Keshav Dev clearly shows that Suit No. 43 of 1967 was filed by concealing the true facts by its plaintiffs. Sewa Sansthan was not the owner and was not in possession of the property of Katra Keshav DeVs It misrepresented itself as the owner and Zamindar and in possession of entire area of 13.37 acres land known as Katra Keshav DeVs Further the property was endowed to the Janmabhoomi Trust and not to Sewa Sansthan by the trust deed dated 09.03.1951. The property endowed to the Janmabhoomi

Trust was mentioned in the trust deed by metes and bounds. (Para 189)

Conclusively, Suit No. 43 of 1967 was not filed by its plaintiffs by disclosing their true identity and their status qua the property. Since the property of Katra Keshav Dev was endowed to the Janmabhoomi Trust and it was never transferred or vested in Sewa Sansthan, therefore, the plaintiffs in the said suit had no right or authority, either to file the suit or to enter into the compromise dated 12.10.1968 and to concede two bighas land of the temple to the defendants. (Para 190)

In the case in hand, the question of limitation is directly related to the cause of action. The cause of action, being the mixed question of fact and law, as averred in the plaints can only fuller and finally be examined on the basis of the evidence led by the parties during the trial. (Para 191)

The plea of limitation can be decided based on the pleadings of the parties after framing an issue under Order VI Rule 13 of the CPC. On the basis of the chain of events as averred in the plaints, at this stage, when the maintainability of the suit is challenged by the defendants, the question of limitation cannot be determined without framing an issue and taking the evidence of the parties. Since the question of limitation is a mixed question of fact and law, therefore, on the question of limitation, the plaints cannot be rejected at the threshold. (para 194)

E. Bar under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC- Suit No. 43 of 1967 was filed in 1967- compromise was entered on 12.10.1968- title and the possession of Shahi Masjid Idgah were settled on the basis of the terms of such compromise- provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC would apply- decree is challenged by any of the parties already arrayed in the suit-plaintiffs not party to the suit in which compromise was reached- e plaintiffs are strangers to the proceedings in Suit No.43 of 1967- express bar imposed under the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC does not apply. (paras 196, 200 and 202)

HELD:

The provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC would apply where the decree is challenged by any of the parties already arrayed in the suit. Had the compromise dated 12.10.1968 been challenged by the parties to Suit No.43 of 1967, the subsequent suit brought by the parties to that suit would have been barred by the provisions under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC. (para 200)

Since the plaintiffs are strangers to the proceedings in Suit No.43 of 1967, therefore, the express bar imposed under the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC does not apply. Hence, I am of the view that the suits of the plaintiffs are not barred by the provisions contained under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC. (Para 202)

F. Bar under the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991-Sections, 3, 4, 6 and 7 of Act of 1991- Act of 1991 does not define religious character- 'religious character of the place of worship' has to be determined-for applicability of the Act of 1991- averments made in the plaint-documents filed on behalf of the plaintiffs in support of their plaints-determinative factor to decide religious character of the property- religious character of the property can only be determined- basis of the facts and circumstances of the case-basis of the evidence to be led by the parties during the trial- Section 4(3)(a) of Act of 1991 expressly bars the applicability of the provision of sub-Section (1) and (2) of Section 4- any place of worship, which is an ancient and historical monument or an archaeological site or remains covered by the Act of 1958 or any other law for the time being in force- principle of 'first in existence' or 'prior in existence' is the determinative factor for deciding the applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1991- 'once a temple, always a temple' is a judicially recognized principle of law- determination of the religious character of the suit property is a mixed question of fact and law- religious character of the property has to be determined after framing of the issues on the basis of the pleadings of the parties- suits of the plaintiffs do not appear to be barred under any provision of the Act of 1991. (paras 217, 218, 219, 220, 224 , 225, 226, 227, 228, 23, 232 and 233)

HELD:

The Act of 1991 does not define 'religious character'. To attract the provisions of this Act, the 'religious character of the place of worship' has to be determined. This Act does not bar determination of question of fact as to the religious character of a particular place of worship by the Court. The religious character of the place of worship is the determinative factor for deciding the applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1991 over a property. (Para 217)

The averments made in the plaint as well as the documents filed on behalf of the plaintiffs in support of their plaints can also be a determinative factor to decide the religious character of the property. The sale deed dated 08.02.1944, executed by Rai Krishna Das and Rai Anand Krishna in favour of Mahamana Pt. Madan Mohan Malviya & ors.and, the trust deed dated 09.03.1951, creating a trust in the name of Shree Krishna Janmbhoomi Trust by late Jugal Kishore Birla to construct a lofty temple over the property can be taken into consideration during the trial to determine the religious character of the suit property. The documents relating to Suit No. 43 of 1967, the compromise dated 12.10.1968 entered into between the parties in the aforesaid suit, entry in revenue records, facts relating to historical backgrounds as referred to hereinbefore, certain notifications, information obtained through RTI by the plaintiffs, entries in the records of Municipal Corp. of Mathura and Vrindavan are brought on record by the plaintiffs in their respective suits. All these documents are related to the suit property and are in support of the subsequent developments which had taken place from time to time. These documentary evidence can be taken into consideration for determination of the religious character of the property and are subject to evidence led by the parties during the trial. (Para 218)

The religious character of the property can only be determined on the basis of the facts and circumstances of the case and on the basis of the evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. There is a rival claim of the parties about the nature and use of the suit property. The defendants claim it to be a mosque, while the plaintiffs claim that since time immemorial, the property has been worshipped as a temple of Lord Shree Krishna. (Para 220)

Section 4(3)(a) of Act of 1991 expressly bars the applicability of the provision of sub-Section (1) and (2) of Section 4, to any place of worship, which is an ancient and historical monument or an archaeological site or remains covered by the Act of 1958 or any other law for the time being in force. (Para 224)

This Court finds substance in the argument of the plaintiffs that the principle of 'first in existence' or 'prior in existence' is the determinative factor for deciding the applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1991. The arguments of learned Senior Counsel, Sri C. S. Vaidyanathan, that 'once a temple, always a temple' is a judicially recognized principle of law and learned Counsel, Sri Satyaveer Singh, that 'resolution always stays alive' (संकल्प ह मेशा जिंदा रहता है, और यह क भी मेरता नहींहै) are also indicative of the religious character of the property as temple. (Para 228)

The Court also find substance in the argument that the provisions contained in Section 39(2) of the Act of 1958 and entries made in Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India are important aspects to be considered as one of the factors with regard to non-applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1991 over the suit property at this stage. (para 231)

In view of the above discussion, this Court is of the opinion that under the facts and circumstances of the case, the determination of the religious character of the suit property is a mixed question of fact and law. The religious character of the property has to be determined after framing of the issues on the basis of the pleadings of the parties, and after taking documentary and oral evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. (Para 232)

This Court is also of the opinion that on the basis of the averments made in the plaints and the documents brought on record and further considering the arguments advanced on behalf of the rival parties, at this stage, the suits of the plaintiffs do not appear to be barred under any provision of the Act of 1991. (Para 233)

G. Bar under the Waqf Act, 1995-Sections 3(r), 4, 5 of the Act, 1995- defendants have not brought on record any information to corroborate- suit property was ever called as 'Idgah Masjid Aalmgiri'- defendants defined as a trust and not waqf- during several rounds of litigation- nowhere it was pleaded that the suit property was a waqf property-notification dated 25.02.1994- at this stage it cannot be assumed that the suit property was notified as a 'waqf property' under this Notification- amendment in Section 6 of the Act of 1995, for substituting the phrase 'any person interested therein' with 'any person aggrieved' is prospective in nature and is effective from 01.11.2013-Waqf Tribunal has no jurisdiction to decide these suits- suits are not barred under any provision of the Act of 1995. (paras 244, 246, 247, 248, 256, 257, 261, 262, 263 and 264)

HELD:

The defendants have not brought on record any information to corroborate that the suit property was ever called as 'Idgah Masjid Aalmgiri'. Almost all the plaints have described the defendants to be a trust and not as waqf. Even in their application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, the defendants have not mentioned the waqf number. (para 246)

The present superstructure came into existence on the basis of the compromise dated 12.10.1968. It is also to be taken into consideration that during several rounds of litigation, prior to institution of Suit No. 43 of 1967 nowhere it was pleaded that the suit property was a waqf property. (para 247)

In view of the foregoing observation and the averments made in the plaint, prima facie, it appears that the Notification dated 25.02.1944 does not relate to the suit property. Thus, at this stage it cannot be assumed that the suit property was notified as a 'waqf property' under this Notification. (Para 248)

In view of the above, it appears that the Waqf Tribunal has no jurisdiction to decide the issues involved in the present suits. Since, there is no admission on the part of the plaintiffs that the suit property is a waqf property, therefore, question of jurisdiction does not arise at this stage. (Para 261)

Documentary evidence corroborating the averments made in plaints are brought on record by the plaintiffs. Whereas, except for the Notification dated 25.02.1944, no other evidence is filed by the defendants. The evidence filed by the plaintiffs and the notification filed by the defendants are subject to evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. (Para 262)

It is also to be noted that the sale deed dated 8.2.1944 and trust deed dated 9.3.1951 are more than 30 years old documents. Therefore, as per Section 90 of the Evidence Act, 1872, their genuineness may be presumed, unless rebutted by the defendants. (Para 263)

In view of the above, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, averments made in the plaint and the legal proposition referred by the rival parties, it cannot be assumed that the suit property is a waqf property. All the facts and circumstances of the case are subject to appreciation of oral and documentary evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. Therefore, at this stage I am of the view that the suits are not barred under any provision of the Act of 1995. (Para 264)

H. Bar under the Specific Relief Act, 1963- no relief of possession sought- Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963-perusal of plaints- plaintiffs nowhere have admitted lawful possession of the defendants over the suit property- plaintiffs claim that they were in possession since time immemorial- defendants claim the existence of the mosque only from 1669, when Aurangzeb constructed the mosque over the suit property- constructive possession of the deity over the land from the time immemorial- legality and validity of the compromise dated 12.10.1968 are questions of fact that can only be proved by the evidence to be led during the trial-

(paras 268, 270, 271, 273, 274 and 275)

HELD:

Perusal of the plaints goes to show that the plaintiffs nowhere have admitted lawful possession of the defendants over the suit property. It is the case of the plaintiffs that pursuant to illegal, fraudulent and void ab initio compromise dated 12.10.1968, two bigha land, within the area of Katra Keshav Dev, which was a part of the temple, was conceded to the defendant. Suit No. 43 of 1967 was filed on the basis of fraud and misrepresentation. Therefore, the decree was also based on fraud and misrepresentation. It was obtained to defeat the interest of the deity. Hence, any illegal construction carried out pursuant to the compromise dated 12.10.1968 is not admitted to the plaintiffs. (Para 268)

As per the averments made in the plaints, the plaintiffs claim that they were in possession since time immemorial and mere demolition of the temple by the intruders, did not result in their ouster as they contined to be in possession over the suit property from time to time and from regime to regime. The defendants claim the existence of the mosque only from 1669, when Aurangzeb constructed the mosque over the suit property. (para 270)

It is to be taken into consideration that Aurangzeb did not construct the mosque on the vacant land. It is the case of the plaintiffs that Aurangzeb partially demolished the temple and constructed a superstructure, which is called as Shahi Masjid Idgah. The defendants did not claim their possession prior to 1669. In contrast, the plaintiffs have averred in their respective plaints that Brijnabha, the great grandson of Lord Shree Krishna constructed a temple at Katra Keshav Dev 5000 years ago. (Para 271)

The plaintiffs have claimed the relief for cancellation of judgement and decree dated 20.07.1973 and judgment and decree dated 07.11.1974 passed in Suit No. 43 of 1967. Therefore, it cannot be assumed that the plaintiffs have admitted the lawful possession of the defendants over the suit property. (para 272)

The constructive possession of the deity over the land from the time immemorial and the legality and validity of the compromise dated 12.10.1968 are questions of fact that can only be proved by the evidence to be led during the trial. The question that the suits of the plaintiffs are barred by Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act,1963 can only be decided after framing a proper issues on the basis of the pleadings of the parties during the trial after taking and appreciating evidence led by the parties. What relief can and can not be granted has to be decided by this Court on the basis of the pleadings and evidence available on record. Beside this, the plaintiffs have claimed several reliefs such as cancellation, declaration, mandatory injunction as well as for possession which are subject to evidence to be led during the trial. The question whether the suit is barred by Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act,1963 cannot be decided at this stage without taking and appreciating the evidence of the parties to be led during the trial. (Para 273)

In view of the foregoing discussions, in my opinion, it appears that the suits of the plaintiffs are not barred by provisions of Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act,1963. (para 274)

On reading of the plaints as a whole and in a meaningful manner, perusal of the material placed on records, consideration of the arguments advanced by the rival parties, and settled legal propositions, I conclude that the plaints in all the suits of the plaintiffs disclose a cause of action and they do not appear to be barred by any provisions of the Waqf Act, 1995; the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991; the Specific Relief Act, 1963; the

Limitation Act, 1963 and Order XIII Rule 3A of the Code of Civil Procedure Code, 1908. (Para 275)

2. Original Suits No.1 to 18 of 2023, which were filed by respective plaintiffs before the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mathura, stand transferred to this Court, pursuant to order dated 26.05.2023 passed by this Court in Transfer Application (Civil) No.88 of 2023 (Bhagwan Shrikrishna Virajman and 7 Others vs. U.P Sunni Central Waqf Board and 3 Others).

3. Original Suits No.17 and 18 of 2023, stand transferred to this Court, pursuant to order dated 16.11.2023 passed in Original Suit No.1 of 2023 on the basis of the report submitted by the District Judge, Mathura.

4. Vide order dated 06.10.2023 passed by Hon'ble the Chief Justice, Allahabad High Court, these suits were nominated to this Bench.

5. Committee of Management, Trust Alleged Shahi Masjid Idgah1 and U.P. Sunni Central Waqf Board2, arrayed as defendants in OSUT No.1 of 2023 (Bhagwan Shrikrishna Virajman At Katra Keshav Dev Khewat No. 255 and 7 Others vs. U.P. Sunni Central Waqf Board And 3 Others), have filed applications (numbered as A-17, A-18 and A-37) under Order VII Rule 11 (d) read with Section 151 of the Civil Procedure Code, 19083 inter alia, praying to reject the plaints as suit filed by the plaintiffs is barred by the provisions of various statutes.

6. During the pendency of the above applications, an application under Order XXVI Rules 9 and 10 read with Section 151 of the CPC was moved on behalf of the plaintiffs in OSUT No.1 of 2023 for appointment of a panel of three advocates as commission, seeking the following relief:-

> "A. Appoint a commission consisting of three advocates with direction to submit report in the light of the averment made in the suit and in this application and that entire commission proceeding be photographed and video-graphed and the report be submitted in the time provided by the Hon'ble Court;
>
> B. Police protection may be directed to be provided by the District administration and to maintain law and order situation during the survey proceeding."

7. The matter was heard by this Court on the following issues:-

> a. Whether an application for rejection of plaint should be decided prior to the application for appointment of a commission.
> b. Application for appointment of commission under Order XXVI Rules 9 and 10 of the CPC. (Application No.130 C)

8. This Court, vide its order dated 14.12.2023, concluded that an application for appointment of commission can be decided first in order and, therefore, allowed such application. It was also observed that the modalities and composition of the commission would be decided after hearing learned Counsel for the parties for such purpose.

9. Aggrieved by this order, the Committee filed a Special Leave petition No.481/2024: Committee of Management, Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah Vs Bhagwan Shrikrishna Virajman & Ors. Following orders were passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court:

> "Legal issues arise for consideration including the question in the light of judgment passed by this Court in Civil Appeal No.9695 of 2013 titled "Asma Lateef & Anr. vs. Shabbir Ahmad & Ors."
>
> The proceedings before the High Court will continue. However, the Commission will not be executed till the next date of hearing."

10. Thus, the proceedings in respective suits were taken up. OSUT No. 01, 02, 04, 05, 06, 07, 08, 09, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, and 18, were consolidated by this Court under Order IV-A of the CPC, vide its order dated 11.01.2024. OSUT No.01 of 2023 was made as leading case. OSUT No.03, 10, and 17 were not consolidated.

11. The Committee and the Waqf Board, arrayed as defendants in respective suits, filed applications under Order VII Rule 11(d), read with Section 151 of CPC in most of the cases and in some cases, applications under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, read with Section 151 of the CPC, which are numbered as A-17, A-18, A-37 in OSUT No.1 of 2023; C-57 and C-69 in OSUT No.2 of 2023; C-20 and C-45 in OSUT No.4 of 2023; 14-Ka and A-14 in OSUT No.5 of 2023; A-20, A-30 and A-32 in OSUT No.6 of 2023; A-16 and A-39 in OSUT No.7 of 2023; A-21, A-22 and C-23 in OSUT No.9 of 2023; A-9 in OSUT No.11 of 2023; C-30 and C-49 in OSUT No.12 of 2023; C-36 and A-46 in OSUT No.13 of 2023; C-18 and C-23 in OSUT No.14 of 2023; C-12 and C-22 in OSUT No.15 of 2023; A-7, A-17 and A-18 in OSUT No.16 of 2023; A-14 in OSUT No.17 of 2023; and A-7 in OSUT No.18 of 2023).

The aforesaid applications, include the applications moved in the Court of Civil Judge, Senior Division, Mathura.

12. It is averred in the applications that the plaint is liable to be rejected since it does not disclose any cause of action and the suits of the plaintiffs are barred under certain statutes.

13. For proper appreciation of facts to decide the maintainability of suits under Order VII Rule 11 read with Section 151 of CPC, it would be germane to summarize the facts set out by the plaintiffs in their respective plaints. They are as under: -

> i. Lord Shree Krishna is the incarnation of Lord Vishnu. He took birth in human form on the day of Ashtami, Krishna Paksha in Bhadrapad month about 5132 years ago during Dwaparyug in the prison (Karagaar) at Mathura in Virishni Kingdom ruled by King Kans. The place was known as 'Katra Keshav Dev'. Hindu devotees have been worshipping the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna for a considerably long time. The property of Katra Keshav Dev is vested in the deity Lord Shree Krishna for thousands of years. The birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna is a religious and cultural heritage of India. Crores of Hindu devotees have been worshipping Lord Shree Krishna across the world for thousands of years. The devotees feel the divine presence of Lord Shree Krishna at Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi, Mathura. They receive the bounty and blessings of Lord Shree Krishna by offering their prayers.

ii. Shri Brajnabha, the great grandson of Lord Shree Krishna constructed the first temple at the Janamsthan (the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna) about 5000 years ago. It was demolished by Muslim invaders and was rebuilt and renovated by Hindu devotees from time to time. In 400 A.D., Chandra Gupta Vikramaditya renovated it by raising a glorious temple to commemorate Lord Shree Krishna.

iii. In 1017, intruder Mahmood Ghaznavi demolished this tem- ple. During the reign of Maharaja Vijayapal Deva, ruler of Mathura, in 1150 A.D., a Hindu Jatt namely, Jajjan @ Jujj Singh renovated and constructed the temple. This temple was again de-molished by intruder Sikander Lodhi during his reign from 1489 to 1517 A.D.

iv. During the reign of Raja Veer Singh Bundela of Orchha in 1618, a 250 feet high temple was constructed with financial outlay of Rs.33 lakhs. A fortified boundary was also raised around the temple.

v. In 1669-70, Aurangzeb, the Mughal ruler, partially demolished the temple and forcibly constructed a lofty mosque which was named as 'Idgah Mosque'. Idols of the temples were brought to Agra and buried under the steps of Begum Shahi Mosque to be continually trodden upon. The recital of such demolition finds place in paras 95-96 of the book titled "Massir-i-Alamgiri" by the scribe of Aurangzeb, Saqi Mustad Khan which are quoted here:-

"During this month of Ramzam (1080 A.H./13th January – 11st February 1670) abounding in miracles, the Emperor, as the promoter of justice and over thrower of mischief, as a knower of truth and destroyer of operation, as the zephyr of the garden of victory and the reviver of the faith of the Prophet, issued orders for the demolition of the temple situated in Mathura, famous as the Dehra of Keshao Rai."

"In a short time, by the great exertions of his officers, the destruction of this strong foundation of infidelity was accomplished.

The idols, large and small, set with costly jewels, which had been set up in the temple, were brought to Agra, and buried under the steps of the mosque of the Begam Sahib, in order to be constantly trodden upon. The name of Mathura was changed to Islamabad."

vi. Jadunath Sarkar, a renowned Indian Historian authored "Historical Essays" wherein he wrote:-

"the richly jeweled deities were taken to Agra, where they were placed beneath the footsteps leading to the Nawab Begum Sahib's (Jahanara's) mosque so they could be trampled under the feet of Muslims. At that time, the name of Mathura was also changed to Islamabad for having destroyed the very foundation of deity worship. ... The grandest shrine of Mathura, i.e. Kesav Rai's Mandir, built at the cost of Rs.33 lacs by the Bundela Raja Birsingh Dev, was razed to the ground and reduced to rubbles in January, 1670, a huge mosque built on the site. The idols were brought to Agra and buried under the footsteps of Jahanara's mosque that they might be constantly trodden on by the Muslims going into pray."

vii. The excerpt from the book 'Anecdotes of Aurangzeb' by Shri Jadunath Sarkar, reads thus:-

"Meanwhile, Aurangzeb had begun to give free play to his religious bigotry. In April, 1669, he ordered the Provincial Governors to destroy the Mandirs and Schools of Brahmins ... And to utterly put down the teaching and religions practices of the infidels. The wandering Hindu Saint Udhav Bairagi was confined in Police lock up. The Vishwanath Mandir at Benares was pull down in September 1669."

viii. After winning the battle of Govardhan, Marathas became the rulers of the entire area of Agra and Mathura. They removed the structure of the Mosque and restored/renovated the temple at the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna at Katra Keshav Dev. The entire land of Agra and Mathura was declared as nazool land.

ix. In 1803, the East India Company conquered the areas of Mathura and Agra by defeating the Marathas and the became the ruler of this area. The land of Agra and Mathura continued to be treated as nazool land.

x. In 1815, the land measuring 13.37 acres of Katra Keshav Dev was put for an auction sale by the British Government. Raja Patnimal of Benaras purchased the land and acquired the possession and ownership of the land. Thereafter, several cases were filed by the Muslims questioning the auction sale, ownership, and possession of Raja Patnimal, but all were dismissed.

xi. In the settlement map of 1860, the above property was described as Katra Keshav Dev.

xii. In different Court proceedings, six decrees were passed in favour of Raja Narsingh Das, the descendant of Raja Patnimal in respect of the above property. Civil Suit No. 76 of 1920 was filed by the Muslims claiming that plaintiffs were not in possession. It was held that the disputed land did not belong to the Mosque and the Hindu defendants were rebuilding the temple on such land. The suit was dismissed.

Against this judgment and order, First Appeal No.236 of 1921 was also dismissed.

xiii. Rai Kishan Das, the heir of Raja Patnimal, instituted Civil Suit No. 517 of 1928. The ownership and the possession of the plaintiff were decided in their favour. Second Appeal No.691 of 1932 was decided by this Court on 02.12.1935. Raja Patnimal and his heirs were affirmed to be the rightful owners of the property. It was also held that Muslims had no right over any part of the suit property.

xiv. Rai Kishan Das and Rai Anand Krishna, executed sale deed dated 08.02.1944 of the land situated in Katra Keshav Dev in favour of Mahamana Pandit Madan Mohan Malviya, Goswami Ganesh Dutt and Bhikenlal Ji Aattrey for a consideration of Rs. 13,400/-, which was paid by Sri Jugal Kishore Birla. Thus, the title and possession were transferred to the purchasers.

xv. Civil Suit No. 4 of 1946 was filed on behalf of the Committee against Mahamana Pandit Madan Mohan Malviya and others, questioning the validity of the sale deed dated 08.02.1944, inter alia, claiming the right of 'pre-emption'. The suit was dismissed based on a compromise directing that the judgment dated 02.12.1935 passed by this Court in Second Appeal No. 691 of 1932, would be binding upon the parties.

xvi. Shri Jugal Kishore Birla, to fulfill his pledge and to construct a lofty and glorious temple at the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna situated in the Katra Keshav Dev, created a trust in the name of 'Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi Trust'[4] on 21.02.1951 through a registered trust deed dated 09.03.1951. The entire property was dedicated and vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust. It was also decided that the Janmabhoomi Trust would impart spiritual and religious education. Movable and immovable property of the Janmabhoomi Trust shall be used only for the Janmabhoomi Trust and no person will have any personal interest. The Janmabhoomi Trust property would not be sold or pledged.

xvii. Unfortunately, the Janmabhoomi Trust failed to perform its duty to secure, preserve and protect the Janmabhoomi Trust property. It became defunct in 1958.

xviii. A society known as 'Shree Krishna Janamsthan Sewa Sangh'[5] was formed on 01.05.1958. After 1977, the word 'Sangh' was substituted with 'Sansthan'. Sewa Sansthan was a separate entity from the Janmabhoomi Trust. It had no power or jurisdiction to act on behalf of the Janmabhoomi Trust. The property vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust was never transferred, entrusted, vested, dedicated or given in any manner to Sewa Sansthan.

xix. Several other litigations filed by Intezamia Committee of Masjid and other Muslims, claiming their title over various portions of Katra Keshav Dev were dismissed, including subsequent appeals.

xx. The Committee and other Muslims filed Civil Suit no. 361 of 1959 against the plaintiffs, alleging that certain properties entered in the assessment register of the water tax of Municipality of Mathura have been purchased by them through different sale deeds in 1955 from certain Muslims residing in Katra Keshav Dev. They used to refer it as Katra Idgah. All the suits were dismissed and it was held that Trust Masjid Idgah was not the owner of the property and had no right to execute the sale deed.

xxi. Some Muslims were residing in Katra Keshav Dev. They raised sheds (chapper) and other temporary construction. The Hindu authority at that time revoked their license and directed them to remove the material and to deliver the possession.

xxii. Civil Suit No.210 of 1964 was filed in the Court of Munsif, Mathura on 16.05.1964 titled as 'Shree Krishna Janamsthan Seva Sangh, Mathura also known as Shree Krishna Janambhumi Trust Mathura and ors. v. Trust Masjid Idgah under the alleged Committee of Management and ors.' Shri Bhagwan Das Bhargava verified the plaint in the capacity of Joint Secretary of the plaintiff.

xxiii. The plaint of the aforesaid suit was returned to the plaintiff on 06.09.1967 for its presentation before a competent Court. In turn, it was filed in the Court of Civil Judge, Mathura, and was registered as Suit No. 43 of 1967 'Shree Krishna Janamsthan Seva Sangh, Mathura also known as Shree Krishna Janambhumi Trust Mathura and ors. v. Trust Masjid Idgah under the alleged Committee of Management and ors.'

xxiv. In the above suit, it was averred that the plaintiffs were the owner, Zamindar and in possession of the entire Khewat no. 255, area of the 13.37 acres known as Katra Keshav Dev. They were regularly paying taxes. The execution of sale deed dated 08.02.1944 in favour of Mahamana Pt. Madan Moham Malviya and others was admitted. It was averred that Seth Jugal Kishore Birla created a trust known as 'Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi Trust' but it was wrongly averred that this trust was registerd in the name of 'Shri Krishan Janamsthan Sewa Sangh'. Further, it was also wrongly averred that Shri Jugal Kishore Birla endowed the entire rights and interests in the property through a trust deed dated 21.02.1951 to the plaintiffs of that suit.

xxv. In the aforesaid suit, the following relief was claimed:-

"That a decree for possession of the land after removal of the super-structures detailed below, and more particulars delineated in the site plan hereto, be passed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants, and the defendants be given time as may be fixed by the court for the removal of the superstructures and in case they failed to remove the superstructures the same may be ordered to be removed in execution proceedings through the Court Amin."

xxvi. In the above suit, a fraudulent and illegal compromise was entered into between Sewa Sansthan and the Committee, under the alleged permission of the Waqf Board. The compromise was filed on 12.10.1968. The suit was decided vide judgment and decree dated 20.07.1973 and 07.11.1974 in terms of the compromise. The terms of the compromise deed were as follows:

(i) There was dispute between Shri Krishna Janamsthan Seva Sangh and Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah and certain Muslims Ghosi etc. who claimed to be tenants of trust Shahi Masjid or licensee and many civil and criminal cases were pending.

(ii) The defendant has obtained permission of the Waqf Board communicated through express letter No.2876/43 (Two Thousand Seventy Six/Forty Three) - C-VAD-DHARA dated 9.9.1968 (Nine Nine Nineteen Sixty Eight) and the meeting dated 8.10.1968 (Eight Ten Nineteen Sixty Eight) they have adopted the agreement and authorized to Mohammad Shahmir Masih and Abdul Gaffar Advocate to represent them.

(iii) The Northern and Southern wall of the "Kachhi Kurshi" of the Idgah be extended on the East upto the Railway line by Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah.

(iv) The Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah shall get vacated the inhabitant Muslim Ghosis, etc. outside the wall on North and South side and deliver to Shri Janmsthan Sewa Sangh and will have no concern with its ownership and it will deemed to be the property of first party. Shree Krishna Janmsthan Sewa Sangh will have no concern with the ownership of the land within the Northern walls and it will be deemed to be the property of second party.

(v) That the land on the Western-Northern Corner of "Kachchi Kursi" of Idgah is of Shree Krishna Janmsthan Sewa Sangh and has been shown by A, B, C, D in the plan, and Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah will rectangularise its "Kachchi Kursi" and it will be deemed to be its property.

(vi) By 15th (Fifteen) October, 1968 (Nineteen Sixty Eight) Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah will remove the rubble of stairs on Southern side which is subject of the litigation, and Shree Krishna Janmsthan Sewa Sangh will have possession over that land.

(vii) After getting possession of houses Ghosis, Muslim inhabitants etc. outside the Northern and Southern walls the possession will be delivered to Shree Krishna Janmsthan Sewa Sangh by Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah by 15th (Fifteen) October, 1968 (Nineteen Sixty Eight) and only thereafter it will construct the walls etc. Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah will not affix any door, window, or grill in these walls or the walls of "Kachchi Kursi" towards the Shree Krishna Janmsthan Sewa Sangh and neither it will open any drain or water outlet toward Shree Krishna Janmsthan Sewa Sangh. Similarly, Shree Krishna Janmsthan Sewa Sangh will also not do any such work.

(viii) Shri Krishna Janmsthan Seva Sangh, will at its own cost, divert the water of the outlets of Idgah on the Western side, towards the Shri Krishna Janmsthan Seva Sangh on the "Kachchi Kursi" of Idgah, by fixing pipes at its own cost and thereafter by constructing a masonry drain at its own cost reach the water towards the East upto Eastern door of the Masjid upto the edge of the "Kachchi Kursi". Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah will have no objection in fixing the pipes in the walls of Masjid Idgah. Representative of Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah will accompany during completion of this work and his advise will be accepted.

(ix) Shri Krishna Janmsthan Seva Sangh after acquisition, will deliver, to Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah, the land which will fall in front of the Idgah inside the North and South walls, from the railway land which Shri Krishna Jansthan Seva Sangh is getting acquired; and it will be deemed to be the property of Second Party.

(x) The land in front of the "Kachchi Kursi" towards East shown by E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L and A, B, C, D on the Western-North corner, which Shri Krishna Janmsthan Sevasangh has relinquished in favour of Trust Shahi Masjid Idgah; has been shown by oblique lines in the annexed plan.

(xi) Both the parties shall file compromise in accordance with this Agreement, in all the cases pending on behalf of both the parties, after fulfillment of all the conditions of the Agreement.

(xii) That in case any party does not adhere to the conditions of this Agreement; both the parties will have a right to have it enforced through Court of law or whatever manner it may possible. The other party will have no objection to it and will not be entitled to object."

xxvii. Sewa Sansthan had no power or authority to file Suit No.43 of 1967 since it had no proprietary or ownership right in the property of Katra Keshav Dev. The suit was not filed by or on behalf of the Janmabhoomi Trust. It was neither the plaintiff nor the defendant in the said suit. Thus, the compromise entered into between Sewa Sansthan and the Committee is illegal and void ab initio. The Janmabhoomi Trust was not a party to the compromise dated 12.10.1968. Thus, the terms of compromise dated 12.10.1968 are not binding upon the deity and the devotees.

xxviii. The true fact will come out before the Court after excavation that the Karagaar of Kans, where the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna lies beneath the constructions raised by the Committee. The Committee and xxix. The Committee or any other member of Muslim community, do not derive any right, title or interest and cannot continue in possession based on illegal, fraudulent and void ab initio compromise dated 12.10.1968.

xxx. The compromise dated 12.10.1968 entered between Sewa Sansthan and the Committee and the decree passed in Civil Suit No.43 of 1967, is null and void for the reasons below:

a. Sewa Sansthan and the Janmabhoomi Trust are separate legal entities. Sewa Sansthan had no right, interest, power whatsoever over suit property. The Janmabhoomi Trust is the owner of the entire property of Katra Keshav Dev by virtue of trust deed dated 09.03.1951.

b. The suit was not filed by the Janmabhoomi Trust.

c. Creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust by Late Jugal Kishore Birla, the entrustment of the entire property vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust, dismissal of suits filed by the Muslims claiming ownership and possession by the Civil Court and the decree operating in favor of the Hindus, have been admitted in the suit.

d. Sewa Sansthan conceded the property to the Committee beyond the scope of this suit. Both the parties knew that Sewa Sansthan was not the owner of the property and could not enter into a compromise.

e. No compromise could be entered beyond the scope of the decree passed by this Court in Second Appeal No.691 of 1932. The terms of the decree dated 02.12.1935 have been violated.

f. The Janmabhoomi Trust was non-functional, and the compromise had been fraudulently entered to defeat the rights of the deity.

g. The Committee and Sewa Sansthan played fraud upon the Court.

xxxi. The construction raised by the defendants pursuant to the said compromise over the suit property is liable to be removed and possession of the same has to be handed over to the plaintiffs.

xxxii. An application was filed for leave to institute suit under Section 92 of the CPC before the learned District Judge, Mathura, inter alia, praying to remove defendants no. 1 to 6 from trusteeship, for direction to furnish accounts of trust properties, to set up a scheme for carrying out the object of the trust and to dissolve Sewa Sansthan. This application was rejected vide judgment and order dated 06.05.1994 passed by the then learned District Judge.

xxxiii. First Appeal No.199 of 1996 was also dismissed on 23.09.1997 by this Court, holding that the entire property of Katra Keshav Dev vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust. Sewa Sansthan was not the trustee of the trust property. It cannot represent the Janmabhoomi Trust. Trustees were not made parties and the application under Section 92 of the CPC was, thus, not maintainable.

xxxiv. On the basis of the above observations, it was held that the Waqf Board, the Committee or any member of Muslim Community have no right and interest in the property situated in the Katra Keshav Dev.

xxxv. The chain of historical developments, execution of sale deed, trust deed, and legal proceedings since 1618 upto the decision of First Appeal No.199 of 1996 by this Court, are matter of record.

xxxvi. No part of the property situated in Katra Keshav Dev is a waqf property. Neither any Muslim nor body/trust/society/board of the Muslims ever claimed any part of it as a waqf property. It was never claimed that the property of Katra Keshav Dev has been registered and notified in the official gazette under the U.P. Waqf Act, 1936, the U.P. Waqf Act, 1960, the Wakf Act, 1923, the Central Wakf Act, 1954 or under Section 5 of the Waqf Act, 1995. Therefore, the construction in question within the property, cannot be a mosque. The members of the Committee have encroached upon the land of the deity. Therefore, they cannot claim any right over the land against the true owner. The defendants cannot have any right over the property in question based on adverse possession.

xxxvii. The provisions of the Places of Worship (Special Provision) Act, 19916, do not apply in this case.

xxxviii. The deity, Lord Shree Krishna Virajman, is the owner and in possession of the entire land of Katra Keshav Dev. The deity is recorded as the owner in the municipal record of Mathura Vrindavan Nagar Nigam and not Masjid Idgah. All the taxes are being paid on behalf of the deity and not by the Committee.

xxxix. A superstructure has been raised which is being called as alleged ‘Shahi Masjid Idgah’ in pursuance of an illegal compromise dated 12.10.1968. The deity is in symbolic possession of the land encroached by defendants no.1 and 2.

xl. Since there was no Shebait, pujari or manager to protect the interest of deity, therefore, no one took care of the land and property of the deity at Katra Keshav Dev. Sewa Sansthan captured the property of the Janmabhoomi Trust and worked against the interest of the deity. They had no power or authority to concede approximately two bighas of land of Katra Keshav Dev to the Committee. Thus, Sewa Sansthan betrayed the deity and devotees.

xli. The deity is a perpetual minor. Since 1958, the Janmabhoomi Trust, which was responsible for looking after the interest of the deity, became non-functional, therefore, cause of action is accruing every day. When the plaintiffs went to Mathura for darshan of Lord Shree Krishna, they were shocked to see that a mosque was standing over the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna. The plaintiffs and other members met with the members of the Committee and asked them to remove the construction raised by them over the temple and its land. They were shown a copy of the compromise dated 12.10.1968 qua Suit No.43 of 1967 which was filed after the approval of the Waqf Board. They refused to remove the construction so raised.

xlii. The plaintiffs sent a notice under Section 89 of the Waqf Act, 19957 to the Waqf Board, which was duly served upon them, but no reply was given by the Waqf Board.

xliii. The Committee, its supporters, workers and members of the Muslim community are not allowing the members of the Hindu community to enter the premises for darshan and pooja of Lord Shree Krishna. The right of plaintiffs and other devotees is being continuously frustrated, as their right guaranteed under Article 25 of the Constitution of India, is being violated. The right to religion conferred by Article 25 of the Constitution of India is subject to morality, public order or health. Therefore, the State or any citizen cannot be permitted to promote anything immoral, affecting public order or the sentiments of the spiritual life of a citizen.

xliv. The cause of action is accruing against the wrong committed by the defendants every day. It further accrued when plaintiffs came to know about the compromise dated 12.10.1968 and the decree passed by the Civil Court. The cause of action further arose after the expiry of two months' notice when no action was taken by the Waqf board for removal of encroachment from the land in question, and it is accruing every day.

Reliefs claimed by the plaintiffs in the respective plaints:

14. The plaintiffs instituted respective suits, seeking, inter alia, relief of cancellation of judgment and decree, declaration, mandatory and prohibitory injunction and handing over the vacant possession of the suit property to the plaintiffs by removing the existing superstructure. The reliefs claimed by plaintiffs are enumerated hereunder: -

(a) Decree the suit in favour of plaintiffs and against the defendants canceling the judgment and decree dated 20.07.1973 and judgment and decree dated 07.11.1974 and passed in Civil Suit No. 43 of 1967 by Civil Judge, Mathura;

(b) Declare that the judgment and decree dated 20.07.1973, judgment and decree dated 07.11.1974 passed in Civil Suit No.43 of 1967 by Civil Judge, Mathura is not binding on the plaintiffs;

(c) Decree the suit for declaration, that land measuring 13.37 acres of Katra Keshav Dev vests in the deity Lord Shree Krishna Virajman;

(d) Decree the suit for mandatory injunction in favour of the plaintiffs and against the defendants no.1 and 2 directing them to remove the construction raised by them encroaching upon the land within the area of Katra Keshav Dev City Mathura and to handover vacant possession to Shri Krishna Janmbhoomi Trust within the time provided by the Hon'ble Court;

(e) Decree the suit for prohibitory injunction restraining defendants no.1 and 2, their workers, supporters, men, attorneys and every person acting under them from entering into premises of 13.37 acres land at Katra Keshav Dev City and District Mathura;

15. In OSUT No.17 of 2023: Bhagwan Sri Krishna (Thakur Keshav Ji Mahraj) Virajman at Shree Krishna Janam Bhoomi & others vs. Anjuman Islamia Committee of Shahi Masjid, which is not consolidated with other suits, the following relief is claimed:

A. A declaration that the entire premises of Shri Krishna Janam Bhumi at Mathura, as described and delineated by red color boundaries in Schedule "A" belongs to the Plaintiff Deities be passed in favour of the Plaintiffs and against the Defendants including the entire Muslim Community of Mathura; and

B. A perpetual Injunction against the Defendants including muslim community of Mathura prohibiting them from interfering with, or raising any objection to, or placing any obstruction in the construction of the new Temple building at Shri Krishan Janmabhoomi, Mathura after demolishing and removing the existing buildings and superstructures etc. situate thereat, in so far as it may be necessary or expedient to do so for the said purpose be granted; and

C. By means of Permanent Prohibitory Injunction in favour of the Plaintiff and against defendant no. 1 to 6, their followers, men, workers, supporters and any other person acting under them including the entire Muslim Community of Mathura be restrained from entering the suit property; and

D. By means of Permanent Prohibitory injunction in favour of the Plaintiffs and against the defendant no. 1 to 6, their followers, men, workers, supporters and any other person acting under them including the entire Muslim Community of Mathura be restrained from interfering peaceful performance of Puja and other rituals and worship of Deity by devotees of Lord Shri Krishna at the superstructure and the structure beneath thereof; and

E. Cost of the suit against such defendants who object to the grant of relief to the plaintiffs; and

F. Any other relief to which the plaintiffs may be found entitled."

16. Copy of following documents are filed by the plaintiffs in their respective plaints:-

(a) Sale deed dated 08.02.1944 executed by Rai Krishan Das and Rai Anand

Krishan in favour of Pandit Mahamana Madan Mohan Malviya and others.

(b) Trust deed dated 09.03.1951 relating to the Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi Trust created by Late Shri Jugal Kishore Birla.

(c) Plaint related to Suit No. 43 of 1967 (Shree Krishna Janamb hoomi Seva Sangh, Mathura also known as Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi Trust Mathura and ors. v. Trust Masjid Idgah)

(d) Compromise deed dated 12.10.1968 in Suit No. 43 of 1967.

(e) Decree in Suit No. 43 of 1967.

(f) Khewat Chausala relating to Khewat No. 255.

(g) Electricity bill of the premise.

(h) Municipal record of the premise.

(i) Information obtained in R.T.I Act, 2005.

17. The Committee and the Waqf Board, have filed applications under Order VII Rule 11(d) read with Section 151 of the CPC, inter alia, praying to reject the plaints, as the suits filed by the plaintiffs are barred under provisions of the following Statutes:-

i. Sections 3, 4, 6, and 7 of the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991;

ii. Section 58 of the Limitation Act, 1963;

iii. Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963;

iv. Sections 6, 85, and 108-A of the Waqf Act, 1995; and

v. Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC.

Arguments by the defendants' Counsel:

(i) Scope under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC:

18. Mrs. Tasneem Ahmadi, learned Counsel submitted that under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, the plaints are liable to be rejected because they do not disclose any cause of action and suits of the plaintiffs are barred by aforementioned statutes.

19. Learned Counsel submitted that the plaints do not disclose a reliable cause of action. An illusory cause of action is created by the plaintiffs. The plaints' averments are vague and are not supported by any cogent material. Duty is cast upon the Court to determine whether the plaint discloses a cause of action by scrutinizing the averments made in the plaint. The plaint must be read meaningfully. To decide the application for rejection of plaint, the defense taken by the defendants in their written statements is not required to be considered. Moreover, the defendants cannot be asked to file written statements.

20. It is further submitted that the remedy under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC is an independent and a special remedy. The Court is empowered to summarily dismiss a suit at the threshold without proceeding to record evidence and conducting a trial on the basis of evidence adduced, if it is satisfied that action should be terminated on any of the grounds contained in the provisions. If any of the conditions enumerated in the provision is satisfied, it would be necessary to put an end to the sham litigation, so that further judicial time of the Court is not wasted.

21. Learned Counsel further argued that the whole purpose of conferment of such power is to ensure that a litigation which is meaningless and bound to prove abortive should not be permitted to occupy the time of the Court and exercise the mind of the respondents.

22. In support of her contentions that written statement is not required to be filed by the defendants prior to application for rejection of the plaint, Mrs. Ahmadi placed reliance upon the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of R K Roja vs. U S Rayudu (2016) 14 SCC 275. The relevant paragraph is extracted here under: -

> "5. Once an application is filed under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC, the court has to dispose of the same before proceeding with the trial. There is no point or sense in proceeding with the trial of the case, in case the plaint (election petition in the present case) is only to be rejected at the threshold. Therefore, the defendant is entitled to file the application for rejection before filing his written statement*. In case the application is rejected, the defendant is entitled to file his written statement thereafter."*
>

Learned Counsel also placed reliance upon Dahiben v. Arvindbhai Kalyanji Bhanusali, (2020) 7 SCC 366, wherein it was observed as under:-

> "23.15. The provision of Order 7 Rule 11 is mandatory in nature*. It states that the plaint "shall" be rejected if any of the grounds specified in clauses (a) to (e) are made out.* If the court finds that the plaint does not disclose a cause of action, or that the suit is barred by any law, the court has no option, but to reject the plaint."
>
> (Emphasis supplied)

In addition to above, reliance is also placed on the following decisions:-

a) Azhar Hussain vs. Rajiv Gandhi, AIR 1986 SC 1253

b) Saleem Bhai vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2003 SC 759

c) T. Arivandadam vs. T.V. Satyapal, AIR 1977 SC 2421

d) Umesh Chandra Saxena vs. Administrator General and others, AIR 1999 ALL. 109

e) Archana Kanaujia vs. Pooja Educational and Social Development Trust and others, 2021 ILR 10 ALL. 576.

(ii) Bar under the Limitation Act, 1963:

23. It is vehemently argued on behalf of the defendants that the suits of the plaintiffs are barred by certain provisions of the Limitation Act,1963. The terms of the compromise dated 12.10.1968 were such that it led to visible physical changes on the ground which were carried out between 1968 and 1974 and could not have been hidden from the plaintiffs. The decree was drawn up in Suit No.43 of 1967. It was agreed between the parties to the suit that the northern and southern walls of 'Kachchi Kursi' of the Idgah be extended on the east up to the railway line by the Committee. Further, it was also agreed that the plaintiffs will divert the water of the outlet of Idgah on western side towards Sewa Sansthan on the Kachchi Kursi by fixing pipes and thereafter, by constructing a masonry drain, flow the water towards the eastern door of the Masjid up to the edge of Kachchi Kursi. These changes were visible and the plaintiffs cannot claim ignorance about the compromise which they would have known of, by exercise of reasonable diligence therefore, the cause of action, if any, would have arisen at that time. However, present suits have been filed after a span of almost 50 years.

24. It is further contended that the prayer seeking declaration that decree dated 20.07.1973 and 07.11.1974, be not binding on the plaintiffs for alleged certain reasons, is also hit by the provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963. The prayer seeking a declaration that the compromise is null and void, is also barred by the Limitation Act,1963.

25. Learned Counsel for the defendants placed reliance upon the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dahiben case (supra). Relevant paragraphs are extracted hereunder:

"4. The Limitation Act, 1963 prescribes a time-limit for the institution of all suits, appeals, and applications. Section 2 (j) defines the expression "period of limitation" to mean the period of limitation prescribed in the Schedule for suits, appeals or applications. Section 3 lays down that every suit instituted after the prescribed period, shall be dismissed even though limitation may not have been set up as a defense. If a suit is not covered by any specific article, then it would fall within the residuary article.

26. Articles 58 and 59 of the Schedule to the 1963 Act, prescribe the period of limitation for filing a suit where a declaration is sought, or cancellation of an instrument, or rescission of a contract, which reads as under:

Description of suit	Period of limitation	Time from which period begins to run
58. To obtain any other declaration.	Three years	When the right to sue first accrues
59. To cancel or set aside an instrument or decree or for the rescission of a contract.	Three years	When the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the instrument or decree cancelled or set aside or the contract rescinded first become known to him."

The period of limitation prescribed under Articles 58 and 59 of the 1963 Act is three years, which commences from the date when the right to sue first accrues."

26. Reliance is also placed on the decision rendered in the case of M Satyanayaran Murthy Died vs. K Ramalinga Swami Naidu Died, by the Andhra Pradesh High Court in Second Appeal No.1023 of 2005. The relevant paragraphs are extracted herein below:

"25. The general principle, which also manifest itself in Section 17 of the Limitation Act, is that every person is presumed to know his own legal right and title in the property and if he does not take care of his own right and title to the property, the time for filing the suit based on such a right of title to the property is not prevented from running against him. The provisions of Section 17(1) embody fundamental principles of justice and equity viz., that a party should not be penalized for failing to adopt legal proceedings when the facts or the documents have been willfully concealed from him and also that a party who had acted fraudulently should not be given the benefit of limitation running in its favour by virtue of such frauds. However, it is important to remember that Section 17 does not defer the starting point of limitation, because the defendant has committed a fraud. Section 17 does not encompass all kinds of frauds, but specific situations covered by clause (a) to (d) to Section 17 (1) of Limitation Act. Section 17 1(b) and (d) encompass only that fundamental documents or acts of concealment of documents which have the effect of suppressing knowledge entitling the party to pursue his legal remedy. Once a party becomes aware of antecedents facts necessary to pursue legal proceedings, the period of limitation commences*. Therefore, in the event that plaintiff makes out a case that falls within any one or more of four clauses to sub section 1 to section 17 of Limitation Act, the period of Limitation for filing the suit shall not began to run until the plaintiff or applicant has discovered the fraud/ mistake or could with reasonable diligence have discovered it or if the document is concealed till the plaintiff has the means of producing the concealed document or compelling its production a fortiori.*

26. Diligence is a word of common parlance means attention, carefulness and persistence in efforts of doing something*. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Chander Kanta Bansal Vs. Rajinder Singh Anand case in reference to proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code defined diligence as according to Oxford Dictionary, the work diligence means careful and persistent application or effort."*

(iii) Bar under the Specific Relief Act, 1963:

27. Learned Counsel for the defendants submitted that the challenge to the compromise in Suit No. 43 of 1967 is hit by the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC. The said challenge admits the factum of the possession of the Committee over Shahi Masjid Idgah. The plaintiffs did not seek the relief of possession, therefore, the suit is barred by the proviso of Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act,1963. The plaintiffs are not in possession of the suit property. The plaintiffs have filed the suit seeking reliefs for declaration and injunction only and have not sought a decree of possession. Mere declaration of title is not enough. Plaintiffs have to seek delivery of possession. Since no relief for delivery of possession is claimed, therefore, relief of injunction cannot be granted. The ancillary relief claimed by the plaintiffs does not fall under the provisions of Sections 5 and 6 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963. The plaintiffs must have sued for recovery of possession. It is also submitted that since the Committee is in possession over the suit property, therefore, further relief would be recovery of possession and suit for declaration of title is not maintainable.

28. Learned Counsel placed reliance on the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Ram Saran and others vs. Ganga Devi, AIR 1972 SC 2685. The relied upon para is quoted as under :-

> "4. … … ... The plaintiffs have not sought possession of those properties. They merely claimed a declaration that they are the owners of the suit properties. Hence the suit is not maintainable*. In these circumstances, it is not necessary to go into the other contention that the suit is barred by limitation."*
>
> (Emphasis Supplied)

Reliance is also placed on Vasantha (Dead) through LRs vs. Rajlakshmi @ Rajam (Dead) through LRs, 2024 SCC Online SC 132. The attention of the Court is drawn to the following paragraphs:

> "51. … … ... in Vinay Krishna v. Keshav Chandra (2-Judge Bench), this Court while considering Section 42 of the erstwhile Specific Relief Act, 1877 to be pari materia with Section 34 of SRA, 1963 observed that the plaintiff's not being in possession of the property in that case ought to have amended the plaint for the relief of recovery of possession in view of the bar included by the proviso.
>
> 52. This position has been followed by this Court in Union of India v. Ibrahim Uddin (2-Judge Bench), elaborated the position of a suit filed without the consequential relief. It was observed:
>
> "55. The section provides that courts have discretion as to declaration of status or right, however, it carves out an exception that a court shall not make any such declaration of status or right where the complainant, being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so.
>
> 56. In Ram Saran v. Ganga Devi [(1973) 2 SCC 60] this Court had categorically held that the suit seeking for declaration of title of ownership but where possession is not sought, is hit by the proviso of Section of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 and, thus, not maintainable. In Vinay Krishna v. Keshav Chandra [1993 Supp (3) SCC 129] this Court dealt with a similar issue where the plaintiff was not in exclusive possession of property and had filed a suit seeking declaration of title of ownership. Similar view has been reiterated observing that the suit was not maintainable, if barred by the proviso to Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act. (See also Gian Kaur v. Raghubir Singh [(2011) 4 SCC 567)

57. In view of the above, the law becomes crystal clear that it is not permissible to claim the relief of declaration without seeking consequential relief."

(Emphasis Supplied)

(iv) Bar under the Waqf Act, 1995:

29. It is argued that the suit property, which is a waqf property, is a matter of public record. The jurisdiction of the Civil Court is barred under certain provisions of the Act of 1995. According to Section 6, the suit may be instituted before the Waqf Tribunal. Given the provisions contained in Section 85, the jurisdiction of Civil Court, Revenue Court and any other authority in respect of any dispute, question or other matter relating to any waqf, waqf property or other matter is barred. Such dispute shall be determined by the Waqf Tribunal. It is further submitted that Section 108-A of the Act of 1995 overrides any other law for the time being in force.

30. The learned Counsel placed heavy reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Rashid Wali Beg vs. Farid Pindari (2022) 4 SCC 414, and submitted that the jurisdiction to decide every dispute in relation to a waqf property lies only with the Waqf Tribunal and not with the Civil Court. Relevant paragraphs are extracted as under:-

"42. A conjoint reading of Sections 6, 7 and 85 would show that the bar of jurisdiction of Civil Court contained in Section 6(5) and Section 7(2) is confined to Chapter II, but the bar of jurisdiction under Section 85 is all pervasive. This can be seen from the following distinguishing features:

42.1. Section 6(5) bars the institution or commencement of a suit or other legal proceeding in a court "in relation to any question referred to in sub-section (1)". Sub-section (1) of Section 6 speaks only about two questions, namely, whether a particular property specified as a waqf property in the list of waqfs is a waqf property or not and whether a waqf is Shia waqf or Sunni waqf.

42.2. Section 7(2) bars any court, tribunal or other authority from staying any proceeding before the Waqf Tribunal, in respect of a waqf, on the only ground of pendency of any suit, application or appeal or other proceeding. Section 7(2) specifically relates to the proceedings under Section 7 and not to any other proceeding. This is clear by the use of the words, "no proceeding under this Section". Section 7(1) again deals only with two questions, namely, whether a particular property specified as waqf property in the list of waqfs is a waqf property or not and whether a waqf specified in the list is a Shia waqf or Sunni waqf. Therefore, the bar under Section 7(2) is also confined only to these two questions, on account of the use of the words, "no proceeding under this Section".

42.3. While Sections 6(1) and 7(1) speak only about two questions which are germane to the matters covered by Chapter II of the Act alone, Section 85 speaks: (i) about any dispute, question or other matter relating to any waqf or waqf property and (ii) about "other matter which is required by or under this Act to be determined by a Tribunal".

42.4. A major distinguishing feature between Sections 6(1) and 7(1) on the one hand and Section 83 on the other hand is that the dispute, question or other matter referred to in Sections 6 and 7 are confined only to what is included in the list of waqfs prepared under Section 4 and published under Section 5. The words "specified ... in the list of waqfs" found in Sections 6(1) and 7(1), are conspicuous by their absence in Section 83(1). Therefore, it is clear that Sections 6 and 7 speak only about two categories of cases, but Section 83 covers the entire gamut of possible disputes in relation to any waqf or waqf property."

45. Interestingly, the basis of the decision in Ramesh Gobindram [Ramesh Gobindram v. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, (2010) 8 SCC 726 : (2010) 3 SCC (Civ) 553] was removed through an amendment under Act 27 of 2013. As we have stated elsewhere, Ramesh Gobindram [Ramesh Gobindram v. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf,] sought to address the question whether a Waqf Tribunal was competent to entertain and adjudicate upon disputes regarding eviction of persons in occupation of what are admittedly waqf properties. Since this Court answered the question in the negative, Section 83(1) was amended by Act 27 of 2013 to include the words, "eviction of tenant or determination of rights and obligations of the lessor and lessee of such property".

47. The upshot of the above discussion is that the basis of Ramesh Gobindram [Ramesh Gobindram v. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf] now stands removed through Amendment Act 27 of 2013. In fact, when Ramesh Gobindram [Ramesh Gobindram v. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf] was decided, Sections 6(1) and 7(1) enabled only three categories of persons to approach the Waqf Tribunal for relief. They are, (i) the Board; (ii) the mutawalli of the waqf; or (iii) any person interested therein. However, the Explanation under Section 6(1) clarified that the expression "any person interested therein" shall include every person, who, though not interested in the waqf, is interested in the property. But by Act 27 of 2013 the words, "any person interested" were substituted by the words, "any person aggrieved", meaning thereby that even a non-Muslim is entitled to invoke the jurisdiction of the Tribunal. Due to the substitution of the words "any person aggrieved", Act 27 of 2013 has deleted the Explanation under 6(1). This amendment has also addressed the concern expressed in Ramesh Gobindram [Ramesh Gobindram v. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, (2010) 8 SCC 726 : (2010) 3 SCC (Civ) 553] (in para 21 of the SCC report) whether a non-Muslim could be put to jeopardy by the bar of jurisdiction, merely because the property is included in the list of waqfs. We must point out at this stage that the Explanation under sub-section (1) of Section 6, as it stood at the time when Ramesh Gobindram [Ramesh Gobindram v. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf] was decided, already took care of this contingency, but was omitted to be brought to the notice of this Court."

Reliance is also placed on the judgment of Board of Waqf West Bengal vs. Anis Fatima Begum, (2010) 14 SCC 588. The relied upon paragraphs are reproduced hereunder:-

"7. The dispute in the present case relates to a wakf. In our opinion, all matters pertaining to wakfs should be filed in the first instance before the Wakf Tribunal constituted under Section 83 of the Wakf Act, 1995 and should not be entertained by the civil court or by the High Court straightaway under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It may be mentioned that the Wakf Act, 1995 is a recent parliamentary statute which has constituted a Special Tribunal for deciding disputes relating to wakfs*. The obvious purpose of constituting such a Tribunal was that a lot of cases relating to wakfs were being filed in the courts in India and they were occupying a lot of time of all the courts in the country which resulted in increase in pendency of cases in the courts. Hence, a Special Tribunal has been constituted for deciding such matters.*

… … ...

10. Thus, the Wakf Tribunal can decide all disputes, questions or other matters relating to a wakf or wakf property. The words "any dispute, question or other matters relating to a wakf or wakf property" are, in our opinion, words of very wide connotation. Any dispute, question or other matters whatsoever and in whatever manner which arises relating to a wakf or wakf property can be decided by the Wakf Tribunal.

… … ...

11. Under Section 83(5) of the Wakf Act, 1995 the Tribunal has all powers of the civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, and hence it has also powers under Order 39 Rules 1, 2 and 2-A of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 to grant temporary injunctions and enforce such injunctions. Hence, a full-fledged remedy is available to any party if there is any dispute, question or other matter relating to a wakf or wakf property."

(v) Bar under the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991:

31. Mrs. Tasneem Ahmadi, learned Counsel, submitted that the relief claimed in the present suit, inter alia, seeks removal of the Shahi Idgah Mosque and handing over of vacant possession of the same to the Janmabhoomi Trust thereby, converting a religious place for offering prayers by the Muslim community to one for offering prayers to Lord Shree Krishna. The same is barred by the spirit of the legislation expressed through the preamble as well the provisions contained in Sections 3, 4, 6 and 7 of the Act of 1991 which bars the conversion of places of worship as they existed on 15th August, 1947.

32. It is submitted that it is an admission on the part of the plaintiffs, as averred in their plaints, that Shahi Idgah Mosque was constructed by Aurangzeb, therefore, the 'religious character' of the place of worship as mosque is evident. On the basis of the terms of the compromise, the suit property was a mosque even on the date of the compromise, therefore, the provisions of the Act of 1991 are squarely applicable.

33. Learned Counsel referred to certain paragraphs of the plaints of the respective original suits and submitted that the existence of the mosque is admitted from 1669-70. The mosque has been in existence ever since. It is also an admitted fact that the property was used as a mosque. In Notification No.1465/1133M dated 25.11.1920, issued by Lt. Governor, United Province and Notification No. UP1669-M1133 dated 27.12.1920, existence of the mosque is recognized. It is also admitted that the Committee was in possession of the suit property. The place on which the mosque was in existence, was continuously utilized and is still being utilized as a mosque.

34. Learned Counsel for the defendants further submitted that since the Ancient Monument Preservation Act, 19048 was repealed by Section 39 of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Sites and Remains Act, 19589, therefore, declaring the suit property as a protected monument is insignificant.

35. Sri Afzal Ahmad, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Waqf Board submitted that the object to legislate the Act of 1991 was that the legislation did not want to open a Pandora's box. It was the intention of the legislation that communal peace and harmony should be maintained between the communities in the country. Every inch of this country is a pious land, and every dispute would amount to the opening up of Pandora's box.

(vi) Bar under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC:

36. Mrs. Ahmadi submitted that Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC expressly imposes a bar that no suit shall lie to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which, the decree is based, was not lawful. The compromise was entered on 12.10.1968 in Suit No. 43 of 1967. The suit was decided vide judgment and decree, dated 20.07.1973 and judgment and decree, dated 07.11.1974. In the compromise deed, the title and the possession of Shahi Masjid Idgah were decided on the basis of the compromise arrived between the parties to the suit.

37. Mr. Afzal Ahmad, learned Counsel submitted that the plaint is cleverly drafted by the plaintiffs. The defendants, Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi Trust, Mathura and Shree Krishna Janamsthan Sewa Sansthan, are in collusion with the plaintiffs. So far as the sanctity of the compromise dated 12.10.1968 is concerned, respected personalities have joined as plaintiffs to Suit No. 43 of 1967. They put their signatures on the compromise deed. Therefore, it cannot be assumed that the compromise is based on fraud and misrepresentation.

38. He further submitted that an Idgah is not a Masjid. There are different kinds of mosques in which, prayer is offered by Muslims. The suit property is a waqf property which is duly registered by Mutwalli. It was created by an unregistered deed 400 years ago. At that time, the Act of 1995 was not enacted. Therefore, the property was not registered as a waqf. The Government Gazette of United Province dated 26.02.1944 lists the suit property at Sl. No. 43 as 'Idgah Masjid Aalmgiri'. Names of mutwalli were entered as Abdulla Khan, Fathe Nusrat, Salimulla etc.

ARGUMENTS BY THE PLAINTIFFS:

(i) Scope under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC:

39. Learned Counsel for the plaintiffs Sri Vishnu Shankar Jain submitted that it is well established that the plaint can be rejected at the threshold under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, only when it appears to the Court that the averments made in the plaint are barred by any law or do not disclose any cause of action. He further submitted that the case of the plaintiffs is not barred under any law as alleged by the learned Counsel for the defendants.

40. He submitted that the plaintiff 'Bhagwan Shree Krishna Virajman' is a perpetual minor. Plaintiff no.2 is 'Asthan', Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi, which itself is a deity, being the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna. It can exercise every right available to a juridical person. It has every right to protect and to recover its lost property through Shebait. If the Shebait is negligent, it can file a suit in the Court of law through the next friend. The present suit is filed by the deity and Asthan to recover their lost property.

41. It is submitted that the place of birth of Lord Shree Krishna lies beneath the present structure raised by the Committee. Lord Shree Krishna was born in the Karaagar of Kans. The entire area is known as Katra Keshav Dev. Under the Hindu law, property once registered in the deity, shall continue to be vested in deity.

42. He took the Court through the chronological events leading up to the institution of the present suit, which are as summarized in para 13 of this order.

43. Further, it is contended:-

43.1 That Sewa Sansthan had no authority to file Suit No.43 of 1967. Sewa Sansthan had no right, authority or propriety to enter into compromise with the Committee and to concede two bigha land of the property of the Janmabhoomi Trust to the defendants. The property vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust was never transferred, dedicated, vested or entrusted to Sewa Sansthan. Suit No.43 of 1967 was filed by Sewa Sansthan, misrepresenting itself to be competent to file the suit, concealing the facts and committing fraud with the Court.

The compromise dated 12.10.1968 is, therefore, fraudulent, illegal and void ab initio. Plaintiffs/idol/deity were neither party to Suit No.43 of 1967, nor to the compromise dated 12.10.1968, therefore, it is not binding upon the plaintiffs/idol/deity. Pursuant to the said compromise, a superstructure was raised, and certain physical changes were carried out by the defendants over the property.

43.2 That the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna lies beneath the illegal superstructure which is a sacred place for Hindu devotees. The Hindu devotees are offering prayer, aarti and other ritual ceremonies on regular basis since time immemorial. Before partial demolition of the temple in 1669-70 by the Mughal Ruler Aurangzeb, a temple of Lord Shree Krishna was existing over the suit property since time immemorial. Before 1669-70, no mosque was existing.

43.3 That in the garb of the alleged compromise, the defendants have illegally encroached upon the land of the temple of Lord Shree Krishna. The plaintiffs have every right to offer worship and carry out religious activities in the temple of Lord Shree Krishna. In several rounds of litigation, it was categorically held that the suit property lies in Katra Keshav Dev measuring 13.37 acre and there was a temple of Lord Shree Krishna since time immemorial.

43.4 That when the plaintiffs visited Mathura for darshan of Lord Shree Krishna on the given dates in their respective plaints, they became aware about the existence of the so called super structure known as Shahi Masjid Idgah on the sacred birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna, for the first time. Upon further enquiry, they came to know about the compromise, dated 12.10.1968 entered between the parties to Suit No. 43 of 1967 pursuant to which the superstructure was raised by the defendants.

44. He further submitted that there are historical events which took place between 1618 and 1951. The Court can take judicial notice of some references made in the historical books which corroborate the averments made in the plaint by the plaintiffs. All these facts and circumstances indicate that a valid cause of action arose before the plaintiffs to file present suits.

45. To buttress his arguments, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs placed reliance upon various decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court, enumerated as under:-

a) Saleem Bhai vs State of Maharastra; 2003(1) SCC 557

b) P.V. Gururaj Reddy vs P. Neeradha Reddy and Others; 2015(8) SCC 331

c) Kuldeep Singh Pathania vs Bikram Singh Jaryal; 2017 (5) SCC 347

d) Shaukathussain Mohammed Patel vs Khatunben Mohammedbhai Polara; 2019(10) SCC 226

e) Mayar (H.K.) Ltd. & Ors. Vs Owners & Parties, vs Parties, Vessel M.V. Fortune Express & Ors. 2006(3) SCC 100

f) Kamla and Others vs K.T. Eshwara Sa and Others 2008 (12) SCC 661

g) Srihari Hanumdas Totala vs Hemant Vithal Kamath 2021 (9) SCC 99

46. Learned Counsel for the plaintiffs relied upon the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Saleem Bhai (supra), which are extracted as under:-

> "9. A perusal of Order 7 Rule 11 CPC makes it clear that the relevant facts which need to be looked into for deciding an application there under are the averments in the plaint. The trial court can exercise the power under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC at any stage of the suit — before registering the plaint or after issuing summons to the defendant at any time before the conclusion of the trial. For the purposes of deciding an application under clauses (a) and (d) of Rule 11 of Order 7 CPC, the averments in the plaint are germane; the pleas taken by the defendant in the written statement would be wholly irrelevant at that stage, therefore, a direction to file the written statement without deciding the application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC cannot but be procedural irregularity touching the exercise of jurisdiction by the trial court. The order, therefore, suffers from non-exercising of the jurisdiction vested in the Court as well as procedural irregularity. The High Court, however, did not advert to these aspects."

47. Reliance has also been placed upon the decision of the Supreme Court rendered in the case of P.V. Gururaj Reddy (supra). Relevant paragraph is extracted here in below:

> "5. Rejection of the plaint under Order 7 Rule 11 of CPC is a drastic power conferred in the court to terminate a civil action at the threshold. The conditions precedent to the exercise of power under Order 7 Rule 11, therefore, are stringent and have been consistently held to be so by the Court. It is the averments in the plaint that have to be read as a whole to find out whether it discloses a cause of action or whether the suit is barred under any law. At the stage of exercise of power under Order 7 Rule 11, the stand of the defendants in the written statement or in the application for rejection of the plaint is wholly immaterial. It is only if the averments in the plaint ex facie do not disclose a cause of action or on a reading thereof the suit appears to be barred under any law the plaint can be rejected. In all other situations, the claims will have to be adjudicated in the course of the trial."
>

48. Sri Anil K Airi, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Hare Ram Tripathi, submitted that to decide the application for rejection of plaint under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, no amount of evidence is to be taken into consideration. The written statement of the defendants should not be considered. Whenever an application for rejection of plaint is allowed, the plaintiff becomes remedy less.

49. It is further contended that in the present suits, the title is not under challenge. The area of 13.37 acres is also not under challenge. It is not disputed that the entire property was vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust by Late Jugal Kishore Birla. The title of the plaintiffs over the suit property is established. Since the title is not disputed by the defendants, it has attained finality in favour of the plaintiffs.

50. It was also argued that the facts and circumstances averred in the plaint relate to certain historical developments, execution of documents as well as the cause of action that arose to the plaintiffs. All these essential questions are to be decided during the trial on the basis of the evidence led by the parties. The Court has to take judicial notice of certain facts. Therefore, at this stage, when an application for rejection of plaint is being heard, the above essential ingredients cannot be decided.

51. Sri Rahul Sahai, learned Senior Counsel submitted that while exercising the power under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, the Court has to act with utmost caution. Rejection of plaint, at the threshold, entails very serious consequences for the plaintiffs, therefore, this power has to be exercised in exceptional circumstances. The Court has to be absolutely sure that on a meaningful reading of the plaint, it does not make out any case. The exercise of this power would not be justified merely because the averments made in the pleadings are highly improbable or which may be difficult to believe.

52. He further submitted that the trial is a rule and the benefit, if any, will go in favour of the plaintiffs. The plaint discloses a valid cause of action on the basis of the facts averred in the plaint. The facts which constitute the cause of action are always subject to evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. Merely on the basis of oral arguments, it cannot be assumed that the cause of action is illusory and the plaint is cleverly drafted.

53. Sri Sahai, placed reliance upon the judgment rendered in M/s Crescent Petroleum Limited vs. M V Monchegorsk and another, AIR (2000) BOM 161. The relevant paragraph is reproduced here under-

> 19 ".....It is settled law that the plaint can be rejected as disclosing no cause of action if the Court finds that it is plain and obvious that the case put forward is unarguable. In my view the phrase "does not disclose a cause of action" has to be very narrowly construed. Rejection of the plaint at the threshold entails very serious consequences for the plaintiff. This power has, therefore, to be used in exceptional circumstances. The Court has to be absolutely sure that on a meaningful reading of the plaint it does not make out any case. The plaint can only be rejected where it does not disclose a cause of action or where the suit appears from the statements made in the plaint to be barred by any provision of the law. While exercising the power of rejecting the plaint, the Court has to act without most caution. This power ought to be used only when the Court is absolutely sure that the plaintiff does not have an arguable case at all. The exercise of this power though arising in civil procedure, can be said to belong to the realm of criminal jurisprudence and any benefit of the doubt must go to the plaintiff, whose plaint is to be branded as an abuse of the process of the Court, This jurisdiction ought to be very sparingly exercised and only in very exceptional cases. The exercise of this power would not be Justified merely because the story told in the pleadings was highly improbable or which may be difficult to believe."

(Emphasis Supplied)

54. Sri Saurabh Tiwari, learned Counsel submitted that the disputed question cannot be decided at the time of consideration of an application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC. No amount of evidence or merit of the controversy can be considered at this stage.

55. Sri Satyaveer Singh, learned Counsel, submitted that the provision under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC are to be read with the provision of Order XIV Rule 2 of the CPC. The factual and legal aspects of the matter can only be decided by framing issues based on the evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. Further, the registered sale deed, dated 8.2.1944, executed by the descendant of Raja Patnimal in favour of Mahamana Pandit Madan Mohan Malviya and others, and the trust deed dated 09.03.1951 are still in existence. These documents are neither challenged before nor declared null and void by any competent Court of law. These documents are 30 years old. Therefore, the genuineness of the document is to be presumed under Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. This presumption is unrebutted, since no contrary documentary evidence has been adduced by the defendants. He referred to the trust deed as 'a document of resolution (Sankalp)'. The resolution can never be changed. The resolution always stays alive (संकल्प हमेशा जिंदा रहता है, और यह कभी मरता नहीं है).

56. Learned Senior Counsel, Sri C. S. Vaidyanathan, assisted by Sri Ajay Kumar Singh, submitted that while deciding the application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, only the averments of the plaint are material and can be taken into consideration. The plaint has to be construed as it stands without addition or subtraction of words or change of its apparent grammatical sense. The pleadings in the plaint have to be taken as correct at their face value in its entirety. It is a trite law that the plaint has to be read as a whole, particular plea cannot be considered in silos.

57. He placed reliance on the decisions rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Popat and Kotecha Property vs. State Bank of India Staff Association, (2005) 7 SCC 510 and C Natarajan vs. Aashim Bhai, (2007) 14 SCC 183.

58. He further submitted that at the stage of deciding an application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, the averments made in the written statement, or the case of the defendants do not have to be considered at all.

59. Sri Vinay Sharma, learned Counsel as well as Sri Ashutosh Pandey (one of the plaintiffs in person) submitted that so far as the applicability of the judgment of Asma Latif & Anr. Vs Shabbir Ahmad & ors, Civil Appeal No. 9695 of 2013 is concerned, it does not support the argument of the defendants. Relevant paragraph is extracted as under:-

> "39. Although not directly arising in the present case, we also wish to observe that the question of jurisdiction would assume importance even at the stage a court considers the question of grant of interim relief. Where interim relief is claimed in a suit before a civil court and the party to be affected by grant of such relief, or any other party to the suit, raises a point of maintainability thereof or that it is barred by law and also contends on that basis that interim relief should not to be granted, grant of relief in whatever form, if at all, ought to be preceded by formation and recording of at least a prima facie satisfaction that the suit is maintainable or that it is not barred by law. Such a satisfaction resting on appreciation of the averments in the plaint, the application for interim relief and the written objection thereto, as well as the relevant law that is cited in support of the objection, would be a part of the court's reasoning of a prima facie case having been set up for interim relief, that the balance of convenience is in favour of the grant and non-grant would cause irreparable harm and prejudice. It would be inappropriate for a court to abstain from recording its prima facie satisfaction on the question of maintainability, yet, proceed to grant protection pro tem on the assumption that the question of maintainability has to be decided as a preliminary issue under Rule 2 of Order XIV, CPC. That could amount to an improper exercise of power. If the court is of the opinion at the stage of hearing the application for interim relief that the suit is barred by law or is otherwise not maintainable, it cannot dismiss it without framing a preliminary issue after the written statement is filed but can most certainly assign such opinion for refusing interim relief. However, if an extraordinary situation arises where it could take time to decide the point of maintainability of the suit and non-grant of protection pro tem pending such decision could lead to irreversible consequences*, the court may proceed to make an appropriate order in the manner indicated above justifying the course of action it adopts. In other words, such an order may be passed, if at all required, to avoid irreparable harm or injury or undue hardship to the party claiming the relief and/or to ensure that the proceedings are not rendered infructuous by reason of non-interference by the court."*

(ii) Bar under the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991:

60. Sri C S Vaidyanathan, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Ajay Kumar Singh, contended that the provisions of the Act of 1991 are not applicable since the temple of Lord Shree Krishna was existing over the suit property for the last 5000 years. The property had always been treated as the temple of Lord Shree

Krishna. Regular puja, aarti and other religious rituals were performed by the Hindu devotees. Merely demolition by intruders and converting the property into an alleged Mosque or Idgah does not adversely affect the religious character of the place of worship as a temple. Learned Senior Counsel impressed that 'once a temple, always a temple' is a judicially recognized principle of law and therefore, the religious character of the deity cannot be lost even by destruction. He placed reliance on the following observation made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of M. Siddiq v. Suresh Das (2020) 1 SCC 1 (Ayodhya Case). The extract of the relevant paragraphs are reproduced here under :-

> "148. The idol constitutes the embodiment or expression of the pious purpose upon which legal personality is conferred. The destruction of the idol does not result in the termination of the pious purpose and consequently the endowment. Even where the idol is destroyed, or the presence of the idol itself is intermittent or entirely absent, the legal personality created by the endowment continues to subsist.
>
> "154....The idol, as a representation or a "compendious expression" of the pious purpose (now the artificial legal person) is a site of legal relations. This is also in consonance with the understanding that even where an idol is destroyed, the endowment does not come to an end. Being the physical manifestation of the pious purpose, even where the idol is submerged, not in existence temporarily, or destroyed by forces of nature, the pious purpose recognised to be a legal person continues to exist."
>
> (Emphasis Supplied)

61. Learned Senior Counsel further argued that Section 2 (b) and (c) of the Act of 1991 define 'conversion' and 'place of worship' respectively. The 'religious character' is not defined in the Act of 1991. It is the Court who has to find out from the facts and circumstances of each case as to the religious character of the place of worship. The religious character has never changed, and the property of Katra Keshav Dev is the birth place of Lord Shree Krishna 'Keshav Dev'. Raising of alleged Mosque does not change the religious character of the temple.

62. Learned Counsel Shri Vishnu Shankar Jain, submitted that foreign invaders, Sikandar Lodhi and Mahmood Gaznavi, during their reign, demolished the temple of Lord Shree Krishna. The Mughal ruler Aurangzeb, in 1669, constructed a superstructure that was named as Mosque after the partial demolition of the temple of Lord Shree Krishna. Several Hindu signs, like, 'Sheshnag', 'sacred lotus flower' etc., exist in the suit property. Hindu rulers always worshipped and paid homage to the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna, which lies beneath the present structure. Every inch of Katra Keshav Dev is devoted to Lord Shree Krishna and to the Hindu community. The property is being continuously used for prayer, offering puja, aarti and performing other religious activities. The religious character of a temple is not destroyed by performing any other mode of worship.

63. He explained that the provisions of the Act of 1991 will apply to the religious buildings such as temple, mosque, church or gurudwara. To attract the provisions of the Act of 1991, the 'religious character' of the place of worship has to be determined. The Act of 1991 does not bar the determination of question of fact as to the religious character of a particular place of worship. The plaintiffs have every right to establish the religious character of the subject building which is a question of fact. The religious character of the suit property shall be determined on the basis of the oral, documentary, scientific and expert evidence to be led by the plaintiffs during the trial. The plaintiffs would prove that the suit property is a Hindu temple and the entire property of Katra Keshav Dev is vested in the deity.

64. It is also submitted that on the contrary, Muslims are required to prove the existence of the mosque over the suit property to determine the religious character as a Mosque, and that a valid waqf was created by a Wakif being the owner of the property. It is also to be proved that the property was dedicated to a waqf and a valid waqf deed was executed relating to the suit property.

65. It is vehemently argued by Shri Jain that the principles of 'first in existence' or 'prior in existence' is of paramount consideration for determining the right to worship at a particular place where two communities claim the right to worship. He further contended that Section 4 of the Act of 1991 declares that the religious character of a place of worship as existing on 15th Day of August 1947 shall continue to be the same as it existed on that day. The religious character of a place of worship is the determinative factor for deciding the applicability of Section 4 of the Act of 1991. The religious character of the place in question is Hindu. There are various Hindu deities like 'Sheshnag', 'sacred lotus flower' etc., on the property in dispute. The entire property of Katra Keshav Dev measuring 13.37 acres vests in the deity 'Bhagwan Shree Krishna Virajman'.

66. Shri Satyaveer Singh, learned Counsel submitted that the illegal construction of superstructure in the place of temple and the construction carried out pursuant to illegal and fraudulent compromise dated 12.10.1968 cannot be termed as admission on the part of the plaintiffs. There is a factual dispute about the demolition of temple of Lord Shree Krishna from time to time and raising of the superstructure by the defendants which exists even today. The fact that the compromise dated 12.10.1968 is illegal, without authority and void ab initio has to be decided on the basis of the evidence to be led by the parties during the trial.

67. He further submitted that the character of the suit property has always remained as birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna and did not change despite construction of illegal superstructure on it. The entire suit property is in symbolic possession of the plaintiffs. The devotees are worshipping, performing pooja and arti, treating the superstructure as 'Garbh Grah', the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna. Aarti is being performed five times a day. Devotees are performing 'parikrama' around composite and compounded property, therefore, the religious character of the suit property is a temple. In view of the rival claim of the parties about the nature and usage of the property, religious character needs to be determined by evidence to be led by parties during the trial. It cannot be decided at this stage and the plaint cannot be rejected.

68. Reliance is placed on the judgments of U.P. Sunni Waqf Board vs Ancient Idol of Swayambhoo Lord Vishveshwar & Ors., 2023 AHC 239874 and Anjuman Intezamia Masjid vs Rakhi Singh, 2023 SCC Online All 208.

69. Sri Ashutosh Pandey, one of the plaintiffs appearing in person, submitted that near the eastern side of the superstructure, an old well which is called 'Krishna Koop' is existing since time immemorial. The Hindu devotees visit this place to perform 'Mundan Ceremony' of their children. It is believed that their children will be blessed with the divine of Lord Shree Krishna. 'Pooja' and 'Aarti' are also being performed regularly at this place. Every year, after the Holi festival, the Hindu devotees perform 'Basoda Puja' at the 'Krishna Koop'. On the festival of 'Janamashtami', millions of Hindu devotees assemble at the site to offer worship. They perform 'puja 'and 'aarti' at a large scale, facing the alleged illegal super structure believing it as 'Garbh Graha' of Lord Shree Krishna.

70. Sri Hari Shankar Jain, learned Counsel assisted by Shri Prabhash Pandey, vehemently argued that Section 4(3)(a) of the Act of 1991 provides that the provisions of Sub sections (1) and (2) will not apply to any place of worship which is an ancient and historical monument or an archaeological site, or remains covered by the Act of 1958 or any other law for the time being in force. Section 3 of the Act of 1904, provides that the Central Government by notification in the official gazette would declare an ancient monument to be a protected monument. The Lieutenant Governor, United Province, Agra and Oudh, vide its Notification Number 1465/1133-M, dated 25th November, 1920 declared the place of the temple at Katra Keshav Dev, an ancient monument as a protected monument. The notification reads thus:

> "In exercise of the powers conferred by Section 3, sub-section (1) of the Ancient Monuments Preservation Act (VII of 1904), his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the United Province of Agra and Oudh is hereby pleased to declare the Under mentioned ancient Monument to be protected monuments within the meaning of the Act and to direct that no one shall destroy, remove, alter or efface in any manner or build on or near the site of monuments without having first obtained permission from the Government or its authorized officers.
> 2. Any objection to the above proposal received in writing by the Local Government within one month from the date of this notification will be taken into consideration.

Sl. No.	Name and description of monument	District	Locality
37	The portion of Katra mound which are not in the position of nazul tenants on	Muttra	Kosi on Muttra and Bharatpur road, 9 miles from Muttra.

	which formerly stood a temple of Keshav Deva which was dismantled and the site was utilized for the mosque of Aurangzeb .

71. He further submitted that the State of U.P. enacted 'The U.P. Ancient and Historical Monuments, and Archaeological Sites and Remains Act, 1956'10. The State of Uttar Pradesh, exercising its power under Section 3 of State Act, adopted the Act of 1904. Section 3 of the State Act of 1956 provides thus:

> "3. The provisions of the ancient Monuments Preservation Act,1904, as set out in Schedule I with the modifications mentioned in Schedule II, are hereby re-enacted and shall apply and be always deemed to have applied to ancient and historical monuments and archaeological sites and remains in Uttar Pradesh."

72. On the basis of the above, he contended that the provisions of the Act of 1904 were made applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh. Therefore, by this enactment, the Act of 1904 was adopted, reinforced, borrowed and implemented. Since a notification was issued in the year 1920, and the property was declared as a protected monument, therefore, the alleged notification issued in 1944 has no force.

73. The Public Works Department, State of U.P. issued Notification No. 1669/1133M dated 27.12.1920, wherein at Sr. No. 37, temple at Katra Keshav Dev, which is the subject property in this case, is mentioned, therefore, the temple situated at Katra Keshav Dev was confirmed to be a 'protected monument of national importance'.

74. He then contended that the notification issued on 25.11.1920 by the Lt. Governor, United Province is enforceable and applicable in the present case. The temple situated at Katra Keshav Dev was declared as national monument as well as a protected monument by the United Province and thereafter, by the State Government. Given the above, the subject building is covered by notification dated 25.11.1920, therefore, the provisions of Act of 1991 would not be applicable.

75. During the argument, Shri Jain filed 'List of Monuments of National Importance in Uttar Pradesh'. In this list, at Serial No. 219, the similar entry finds place which is quoted in the notification dated 25.11.1920. The same is reproduced below:

Sl. No.	Name of Monument/ Site	Locality	District
219	Portions of Katra Mound which are not in the possession of Nazul tenants on which	Mathura	Mathura formerly stood a temple of Keshavadeva which was dismantled and the site utilized for the mosque of Aurangzeb.

76. It is emphasised that the matters relating to ancient historical monuments and archaeological sites have been distributed among three lists under the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India. List I-Union List of Seventh Schedule, at Entry No.67, mentions ancient and historical monuments and records, and archaeological sites and remains, to be of national importance. List II-State List, Entry No.12 mentions libraries, museums and other similar institutions controlled or financed by the State; ancient and historical monuments and records other than those declared by or under law made by Parliament to be of national importance. Similarly, Entry no.40 of List-III, Concurrent List mentions archaeological sites and remains other than those declared by or under law made by Parliament to be of national importance.

77. efuting the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for defendants that the Act of 1904 was repealed by Section 39 of the Act of 1958, Shri Jain vehemently argued that the Act of 1904 was never repealed. He referred to Section 39(2) of the Act of 1958, which reads thus:-

> "The Ancient Monuments Preservation Act, 1904, shall cease to have effect in relation to ancient and historical monuments and archaeological sites and remains declared by or under this Act to be of national importance, except as respect to things done or omitted to be done before the commencement of this Act".

78. Shri Jain placed reliance upon the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in the case of Archaeological Survey of India vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and others, (2014) 12 SCC 34. Relevant paragraph is extracted here under:-

> "48. It is to be noted that the 1958 Act was enacted for the preservation of ancient and historical monuments and archaeological sites. Vide Section 39, the 1958 Act repealed the Ancient and Historical Monuments and Archaeological Sites and Remains (Declaration of National Importance) Act, 1951 and Section 126 of the States Reorganisation Act, 1956. The enactment is a comprehensive legislation dealing with the meaning of "ancient monuments" and "owner" in Sections 2(a) and 2(g) respectively. Under Section 2(j) "protected monument" means any monument which is declared to be of national importance under the 1958 Act. Section 3 specifically declared certain ancient monuments to be deemed to be of national importance which were so declared under the previous enactment of 1951. Further Section 4 of the Act empowered the Central Government to declare certain monuments to be of national importance. Section 9 provides that if any owner fails or refuses to enter into an agreement under Section 6 for maintenance, the Central Government may make an order on any or all matters covered under Section 6(2) of the Act and the same shall be binding on the owner. It is thus to be noted that the 1958 Act replaced the 1951 Act and covered only the ancient monuments which were declared to be of national importance. Since the Central Government has not declared the said Bade Baba Temple to be an ancient monument vide the 1913 and 1914 Notifications under the 1904 Act, and nor was it declared to be of national importance even under the 1951 Act, the same fell outside the purview of the 1958 Act as well."

(Emphasis Supplied)

79. It is vehemently argued that the application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC is not maintainable since the property was declared as 'protected monument of national importance'. He submitted that till date State ASI /Central ASI is the custodian of the property.

80. It is further argued that it is specifically averred in the respective plaints that even though destruction and restoration of the temple took place, there was no dispute on the property being the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna till 1669. The dispute commenced in 1669, when the Mughal ruler Aurangzeb ordered his men to demolish the majestic temple and replaced it with a superstructure which was named as 'Shahi Idgah Masjid'. This fact indicates that before the demolition of the temple by Aurangzeb, the temple of Lord Shree Krishna was in existence. The religious character of the suit property was that of a Hindu Temple prior to its demolition.

81. Heavy reliance is placed on U P Sunni Central Waqf Board vs. Ancient Idol of Swayambhu Lord Vishweshwar, 2023 SCC Online Allahabad 2760. This Court observed that:

"161. Another point canvassed by plaintiffs' counsel to the non-applicability of Section 3, 4(1) and 4(2) is on the basis of non obstante clause contained in Sub-Section (3) of Section 4, that Section 4 (1) and 4(2) will not apply to any conversion of place effected before such commencement by acquiescence. The bar contained in Section 3, 4 (1) and 4 (2) is negatived by Sub-Section (3) (d) of Section 4, as the forcible act of Mughal Emperor in demolishing part of temple, and thereafter raising illegal construction would not affect the maintainability of suit.

162. The Act of 1991 is not an absolute bar upon the parties approaching the courts after its enforcement seeking their right as to place of worship or defining religious character of any place of worship. Sub-Section (3) of Section 4 enumerates certain cases in which the parties can approach the court for redressal of their grievance. Sub-Section (3)(d) is one of those case, where conversion has taken place much before the commencement of the Act and a party had not approached the court, the acquiescence or silence would not bar the action of such party.

163. As "religious character" has not been defined under the Act, and the place cannot have dual religious character at the same time, one of a temple or of a mosque, which are adverse to each other. Either the place is a temple or a mosque*.*

167. Thus, I find that religious character of the disputed place as it existed on 15.08.1947 is to be determined by documentary as well as oral evidence led by both the parties. Unless and until the court adjudicates, the disputed place of worship cannot be called as a temple or mosque.

184. The Act does not define "religious character", and only "conversion" and "place of worship" have been defined under the Act. What will be the religious character of the disputed place can only be arrived by the competent Court after the evidences are led by the parties to the suit*. It is a disputed question of fact, as only part and partial relief has been claimed of entire Gyanvapi compound which comprises of settlement plot Nos.9130, 9131 and 9132.*

185. Either the Gyanvapi Compound has a Hindu religious character or a Muslim religious character. It can't have dual character at the same time. The religious character has to be ascertained by the Court considering pleadings of the parties, and evidences led in support of pleadings. No conclusion can be reached on the basis of framing of preliminary issue of law. The Act only bars conversion of place of worship, but it does not define or lays down any procedure for determining the religious character of place of worship that existed on 15.08.1947."

(Emphasis Supplied)

82. Learned Counsel for the plaintiffs next contended that merely by asserting that a particular property is a mosque, will not deprive the Hindus from exercising their right over the religious place which is being worshipped for ages as a sacred place, as the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna. He further submitted that if a statue of Hindu idol is placed inside the mosque, it shall not become a temple. Similarly, if Namaz is offered inside the temple, it will not become a mosque. It is submitted that the religious character of the property shall remain the same for which, it was constructed.

83. It is also contended that pursuant to an illegal and void ab initio compromise, the superstructure came into existence in 1968, whereas the Janmabhoomi Trust was created prior to this erection. Therefore, none of the provisions of the Act of 1991 would apply. The creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust is a matter of fact which would be proved by the evidence during the trial.

84. It is then contended that the plaintiffs have right under Article 25 of the Constitution of India, to regain, hold and manage the property belonging to and possessed by the deity Lord Shree Krishna Virajman, measuring 13.37 acres in Katra Keshav Dev. Under the Hindu Law property once vested in the deity shall continue to be the deity's property. The property vested in the deity is never lost and it can be regained and re-established whenever it is freed, found or recovered from the clutches of invaders, ultras or hoodlums.

85. No mosque was in existence at the time of the auction sale in 1815. A small, dilapidated structure was existing at the corner of Katra Keshav Dev which was called a mosque by Muslims. On the basis of the compromise dated 12.10.1968, a superstructure was raised which is being called as Shahi Masjid Idgah. The deity is the owner and in symbolic possession over the land encroached by defendants no.1 and 2. Sewa Sansthan acted against the interest of the deity and without any power or authority, conceded two bighas land of Katra Keshav Dev to the Committee.

(iii) Bar under the Waqf Act, 1995:

86. Sri C. S. Vaidyanathan, learned Senior Counsel, made a straightforward argument that in the present matter, no question relating to the waqf, waqf property or any issue regarding which, the Waqf Tribunal has jurisdiction, arises. Moreover, if at all any such question arises, that cannot be decided at this stage. The provisions of Act of 1995 are not applicable to any property of Hindu or any religion other than Muslim. Jurisdiction of Civil Court is not barred under the Act of 1995 where the dispute involves a question over which, the Waqf Tribunal does not have jurisdiction to decide. He vehemently argued that the Waqf Tribunal cannot decide a question relating to the nature of the property because of a settled judicial principle 'once a temple, always a temple'. Question as to whether the temple/deity's land is capable of being taken by force, the perpetual character of deity as minor and its consequences, can only be decided by the Civil Court.

87. Learned Senior Counsel submitted that so far as the notification containing the list of waqf of 1944 is concerned, it does not provide any specification of the property such as its area, survey number, description etc. The portion of the suit property which is alleged to be a waqf property, is not identifiable. In the said notification, the details are referred as 'Mutawalli' and not 'Waqif'. All these disputed issues are subject to evidence to be led during the trial. Therefore, it cannot be decided at this stage.

88. He argued that no survey was conducted and the procedure as contemplated under Section 6 of the U. P. Muslim Waqf Act, 1960 was not followed. Therefore, it cannot be said that the suit property was ever notified as a waqf property. The disputed property has never been known as 'Idgah Masjid Aalmgiri', therefore, it appears that the notification of 1944 relates to some other property and not the suit property.

89. Shri Hari Shankar Jain, learned Counsel submitted that as per Section 1(2) of the Waqf (Amendment) Act, 2013, it is provided that it shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification, in the official gazette appoint. The said amendment was made effective from 01.11.2013. By way of the said amendment in Section 6 of the Act of 1995, the words 'any person interested' were substituted with the words 'any person aggrieved'. Similarly, in Section 7 of the Act of 1995, the words 'or any person interested', were substituted with 'or any person aggrieved.'

90. Shri Jain, advanced his arguments that this amendment is prospective in nature. He relied upon the judgment of Assistant Excise Commissioner, Kottayam and Ors. Vs Esthopian Cherian & another, 2021 (10) SCC 210 and, submitted that there is a profusion of judicial authority on the proposition that a rule or law cannot be considered as retrospective unless it expresses a clear manifest intention to the contrary. It is an established rule that unless a contrary intention appears, legislation is presumed not to be intended to have retrospective operation. The law passed today cannot apply to the events of the past.

91. Shri Jain further submitted that in view of the amended provisions and the judgment referred above, the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for the defendants that any aggrieved person should approach the Waqf Tribunal for settlement of a dispute about the waqf property cannot be accepted. He further submitted that the suit property, which is situated in Katra Keshav Dev Virajman measuring 13.37 acres, was never a waqf property. The property was never dedicated to a waqf. No aukaf was appointed. No deed was ever executed to entrust the property to any kind of waqf. The entire land of Katra Keshav Dev is vested in the deity, which is being managed by the Janmabhoomi Trust. The defendants have to prove that a valid waqf was created by the Waqif, who had the ownership of the property, and is claimed to be a Mosque.

92. It is further submitted that since a notification was issued in the year 1920 and the property was declared as protected monument, therefore, the alleged notification issued in 1944 has no force. The said notification is ultra vires because the Act of 1904 was a Central Act. Notification issued by U.P. Government cannot have any adverse effect on the notification issued under the Central Act in the year 1904. Therefore, alleged notification dated 26.2.1944, is void ab initio, ultra vires and has no force.

93. Sri Vishnu Shanker Jain, learned Counsel contended that in the Hindu Law, the property in question is a place where Bhagwan Vishnu took 'Avtar' as Lord Krishna. He is a "Swayambhu" deity and the place where the Lord descended is Asthan. Therefore, both are worshipped by the Hindu devotees. No person of Muslim community is the owner of any inch of the land of Katra Keshav Dev, including the suit property. Only the owner of the property can dedicate the property to create a valid waqf. Under the Muslim Law, there must be unconditional and permanent dedication of the property to the Allah by a waqf deed.

94. To buttress his arguments, learned Counsel relied upon Most Rev. P.M.A. Metropolitan v. Moran Mar Marthoma, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 286. The relevant paragraph reads as under:

> "89. The conclusions thus reached are:
>
> 1. (a) The civil courts have jurisdiction to entertain the suits for violation of fundamental rights guaranteed under Articles 25 and 26 of the Constitution of India and suits.

(b) The expression 'civil nature' used in Section 9 of the Civil Procedure Code is wider than even civil proceedings, and thus extends to such religious matters which have civil consequence.

(c) Section 9 is very wide. In absence of any ecclesiastical courts any religious dispute is cognizable, except in very rare cases where the declaration sought may be what constitutes religious rite.

2. Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991 does not debar those cases where declaration is sought for a period prior to the Act came into force or for enforcement of right which was recognised before coming into force of the Act.

(Emphasis Supplied)

95. Sri Jain vehemently argued that it is specifically averred in the plaint that no part of the property of Katra Keshav Dev is a waqf property. Neither any Muslim, nor body, trust, society, board of Muslims had ever claimed any part of Katra Keshav Dev as a waqf property. The Committee or any Muslim party has never claimed that the property of Katra Keshav Dev had been registered and notified in the official gazette as a waqf property under the Muslim Waqfs Act, 1936, the U. P. Muslim Waqf Act, 1960, the Mussalman Wakf Act, 1923, the Wakf Act, 1954 or under Section 5 of Act of 1995. The defendants did not file any document or notification issued under any of the above enactments along with the application.

96. Sri Anil Kumar Singh, learned Senior Counsel, appearing for the plaintiffs, submitted that the suit property was never dedicated to auqaf. Neither notice was issued, nor any inquiry was conducted with the owner of the property, 'Bhagwan Shree Krishna Lala Virajman', the deity. No preliminary survey of auqaf was carried out. No report after such survey and inquiry is available. The report must necessarily include nature, object of each waqf and the gross income of the said property. It is specifically averred that in the year 1669-70, during the month of Ramadan, Aurangzeb, the Mughal ruler illegally encroached upon the temple which was constructed by Raja Veer Singh Bundela and started using it as a Mosque. Therefore, no waqf was created since the temple was illegally encroached upon. It cannot be said that the suit property is a waqf property.

97. Learned Counsel relied upon the provisions contained in Section 4 of the Act of 1995 and submitted that for the purpose of preliminary survey of auqaf, the State Government by a notification in the official gazette may appoint for the State a Survey Commissioner of auqaf. The Survey Commissioner, shall after making inquiry submit its report about the existence of auqaf to the State Government. Such report shall contain the nature and object of the waqf, gross income of the property, amount of land revenue, cess, rates and taxes payable, remuneration of Mutawalli, and expenses incurred in the realization of the income.

98. He further submitted that neither the auqaf was ever appointed for the management of the suit property nor a survey was conducted. The recommendations of the survey were never forwarded to or examined by the Waqf Board. The State Government never issued any notification declaring the suit property to be a waqf property as required under Section 5 of the Act of 1995.

99. He further submitted that the Act of 1995 is not applicable to non-Muslim or non-Islamic people and on the properties belonging to them. The property which belongs to the deity of any non-Islamic religion, can never be a waqf property. Apart from Islamic property, any religious property belonging to any class of assets, land, building, tenancies, tax can never be a waqf property.

100. Mrs. Reena N. Singh, learned Counsel, submitted that the ingredients of a waqf as provided under Section 3(r) of the Act of 1995 are not fulfilled to indicate that the suit property is a waqf property. No property exists in the name of any Mosque/Idgah as waqf in the revenue records. Therefore, no waqf or any waqf deed is in existence. Information under the Right To Information Act, 2005 was obtained from Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar Mathura. It is reported that there is no entry in the revenue records relating to any property named as 'Shahi Idgah'. Further, it was reported that in Khasra/Khewat, the name of Shahi Idgah Masjid does not find place. In Khasra no.825, in the column 'Abadi' the name of the owner as 'Sri Thakur Krishna Janmabhoomi Khewat 255' is entered. This report establishes that in the revenue records, names of Shahi Idgah and Mosque do not exist.

101. It is further submitted that in the report card of Shahi Masjid Idgah with 'WAQF ID UP-510057' the column of 'Name of the document (s)/certificate (s)' submitted in registration of Waqf is found to be blank. The column 'inspection done' indicates 'No'. This information is available on the website of Waqf Asset Management System (WAMSI). Since mandatory requirements as provided under Sections 4 and 5 of the Act of 1995 were not completed, it cannot be assumed that the suit property is a waqf property.

102. It is contended that so far as the nomination made at Serial No. 43 in the list of Sunni Aukaf, annexed with the Notification of 1944, is concerned, the nature of the waqf property is mentioned as Idgah and Mosque. The nature of both the entities of Idgah and Mosque are different. It is also submitted that the United Province Muslim Waqf Act, 1936 was repealed by U.P. Muslim Waqf Act, 1960. This Act was then repealed by the U.P. (Second) Repealing Act, 2021, therefore, the Waqf List of 1944 is non-est.

103. Learned Counsel relied upon the judgment of Salem Muslim Burial Ground Protection Committee Versus State of Tamil Nadu and Ors, Civil Appeal Nos. 7467-7470 of 2014. The relevant paragraph is quoted hereunder:-

> "32. A plain reading of the provisions of the above two Acts would reveal that the notification under Section 5 of both the Acts declaring the list of the wakfs shall only be published after completion of the process as laid down under Section 4 of the above Acts, which provides for two surveys, settlement of disputes arising thereto and the submission of the report to the State Government and to the Board. Therefore, conducting of the surveys before declaring a property a waqf property is a sine qua non. In the case at hand, there is no material or evidence on record that before issuing notification under Section 5 of the 16 Waqf Act, 1954, any procedure or the survey was conducted as contemplated by Section 4 of the Act. In the absence of such a material, the mere issuance of the notification under Section 5 of the Act would not constitute a valid wakf in respect of the suit land. Therefore, the notification dated 29.04.1959 is not a conclusive proof of the fact that the suit land is a wakf property. It is for this reason probably that the appellant Committee had never pressed the said notification into service up till 1999."

104. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Punjab Waqf Board Vs. Sham Singh Harika, (2019) 4 SCC 688. She further added that before issuance of notification under Section 5 (2) of the Act of 1995, a notice to person affected is necessary to be issued by the Waqf Board and, if no such notice is issued, any notification so issued is not binding. The suit property is vested in the name of Hindu deity, therefore, it cannot be converted into a waqf property.

105. Sri Vinay Sharma, learned Counsel submitted that so far as the question as to whether the property is a waqf property is concerned, this question cannot be decided at this stage. Since as per the provision of Act of 1995 certain legal requirements are to be followed to declare a property to be a waqf property, therefore, this fact can only be decided on the basis of the evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. No evidence is brought on record by the defendants that any survey was conducted under Section 4 of the Act of 1995 and that the State Government issued a notification declaring the suit property to be a waqf property.

106. Shri Ashutosh Pandey, one of the plaintiffs, appearing in person, submitted that no document of title is brought on record by the defendants. The electricity bill is also being paid by the plaintiffs. An FIR under Section 135 of the Electricity Act, 2003 was lodged against the defendants regarding theft of electricity on the suit property and a fine was also imposed upon them. The possession of the defendants over the property in issue is not admitted by the plaintiffs. The Hindu devotees are offering prayers at 'Krishan Koop' situated in the Idgah Campus. The defendants failed to show from where they have derived the property. He further submitted that the cause of action, the question of title and possession, the legality of the compromise decree and the construction raised pursuant to alleged compromise are questions of fact, which can only be adjudicated upon by leading oral and documentary evidence by the parties after framing of issues.

107. It is also submitted that the subject property in no way, is a waqf property because no waqf was ever created and no waqf deed was executed showing the dedication of the said property to the Almighty. The Waqf Board is arrayed as defendant because they had accorded permission to the defendant, the Committee, to enter into fraudulent and illegal compromise dated 12.10.1968. The provisions of Sections 6, 85 and 108-A of the Act of 1995 or any other provision of this Act do not apply to the suit property. There are historical, religious, traveller accounts and other evidence to prove that the subject property was a temple commonly known as temple of Keshav Dev.

(iv) Bar under the Limitation Act,1963:

108. Sri Vishnu Shankar Jain, learned Counsel contended that the suit is not barred by any provisions of the Limitation Act,1963. It is specifically averred that the cause of action is accruing every day. When the plaintiffs visited Mathura for the darshan of Lord Shree Krishna, on the dates as mentioned in their respective plaints, they were shocked to see that a mosque was standing over the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna. The plaintiffs and other members met the members of the Committee and asked them to remove the illegal construction raised by them over the temple land. They were handed over a copy of the compromise dated 12.10.1968 qua Suit No. 43 of 1967. The Waqf Board refused to remove the construction raised by them. Thereafter, the plaintiffs sent a notice under Section 89 of the Act of 1995 to the Waqf Board which was duly served upon them but no reply was received.

109. He then contended that the cause of action is accruing against the wrongs committed by the defendants every day. It further accrued when plaintiffs came to know about the compromise dated 12.10.1968 and the decree passed by the Civil Court. Further, the cause of action arose after the expiry of 2 months' notice when no action was taken by the Waqf Board for removal of encroachment on the suit property. Therefore, the period of limitation would run from the date of knowledge as contemplated in Article 59 of the Limitation Act,1963. Part IV of the Limitation Act,1963 deals with suits relating to decrees and instruments. Article 59 deals with the description of suit to cancel or set aside an instrument or decree or for the rescission of a contract. The period of limitation is three years. The time from which the period of limitation begins to run is when the facts entitling the plaintiffs to have the instrument or decree canceled or set aside or the contract rescinded first became known to them.

110. Shri Jain laid emphasis upon these provisions and vehemently argued that the plaintiffs filed the suits within the period of limitation from the date of knowledge about the illegal construction raised by the defendants as well when they came to know about the void-ab-initio and fraudulent compromise entered into between Sewa Sansthan and the Committee in 1968.

111. Shri Rahul Sahai, learned Senior Counsel, submitted that the provisions of Sections 56, 58, 59, 64, 65 and 113 of the Limitation Act, 1963 are not applicable. When the plaintiffs visited the suit property on a given date as mentioned in the clause of accrual of cause of action, first time they came to know that defendants no. 1 and 2, had illegally and unlawfully, encroached upon the land of the deity on the basis of compromise dated 12.10.1968. They are offering Namaz on this place. The plaintiffs came to know about the fact that the Janmabhoomi Trust was negligent in protecting the suit property. Immediately thereafter, when the prayer to remove the said illegal structure was turned down by defendants no. 1 and 2, they filed the present suit within the period of limitation. The present suit is a title suit and not a suit for conversion of the property.

112. He placed reliance upon the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in the case of Daya Singh & another vs. Gurudev Singh (dead) by LRS & ors., (2010) 2 SCC 194. The question before the Hon'ble Apex Court was whether the suit was barred by Section 58 of Limitation Act, 1963 since the parties entered into the compromise in 1972 and the suit was filed on 21.8.1990. The Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under :-

> "16. Keeping these principles in mind, let us consider the admitted facts of the case. In Para 16 of the plaint, it has been clearly averred that the right to sue accrued when such right was infringed by the defendants about a week back when the plaintiffs had for the first time come to know about the wrong entries in the record-of-rights and when the defendants had refused to admit the claim of the plaintiffs. Admittedly, the suit was filed on 21-8-1990. According to the averments made by the plaintiffs in their plaint, as noted herein-above, if this statement is accepted, the question of holding that the suit was barred by limitation could not arise at all. Accordingly, we are of the view that the right to sue accrued when a clear and unequivocal threat to infringe that right by the defendants when they refused to admit the claim of the appellants i.e. only seven days before filing of the suit. Therefore, we are of the view that within three years from the date of infringement as noted in Para 16 of the plaint, the suit was filed. Therefore, the suit which was filed for declaration on 21-8-1990, in our view, cannot be held to be barred by limitation.
> 17. Therefore, the courts below including the High Court had proceeded entirely on a wrong footing that the cause of action arose on the date of entering into the compromise and, therefore, the suit was barred by limitation; whether or not the compromise decree was acted upon and whether delivery of possession had taken place has to be decided by the trial court before it could come to a proper conclusion that the suit was barred by limitation.
>
> 18. In this view of the matter, we do not find any ground to agree with the findings of the High Court that the suit was barred by time because of its filing after 18 years of entering into the compromise. The question of filing the suit before the right accrued to them by compromise could not arise until and unless infringement of that right was noticed by one of the parties*. The High Court in the impugned judgment, in our view, had fallen in grave error in holding that the suit was barred by time and had ignored to appreciate that the rights of the appellants to have the revenue record accrued first arose in 1990 when the appellants came to know about the wrong entry and the respondents failed to join the appellants in getting it corrected. In our view, the High Court was not justified in holding that mere existence of a wrong entry in the revenue records does not, in law, give rise to a cause of action within the meaning of Article 58 of the Act. No other point was urged* before us by the learned counsel for the parties."

113. Learned Senior Counsel Shri Anil Kumar Airi, assisted by Shri Hare Ram Tripathi, vehemently argued that Article 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963 provides a period of limitation of three years to cancel or to set aside an instrument or decree or for the rescission of a contract. It is specifically averred in the plaint that the cause of action further accrued on 16.01.2020 when the plaintiffs came to know about the compromise dated 12.10.1968 and decree passed thereon, by the Civil Court. The relief is not barred by the Limitation Act, 1963 as period of limitation starts from the date of knowledge as provided under Article 59 Part IV of the Limitation Act, 1963. The plaintiffs have also prayed a decree of declaration to the effect that decree dated 20.07.1973 and 07.11.1974 passed in Civil Suit No. 43 of 1967 by Ld. Civil Judge, Mathura are not binding on the plaintiffs.

114. Sri Vinay Sharma, learned Counsel, submitted that the provisions of Sections 56, 58, 59, 64, 65 and 113 of the Limitation Act, 1963 are not applicable to the plaintiffs because when the plaintiffs visited the suit property, first time, they came to know that defendants no. 1 and 2 had illegally and unlawfully, encroached upon the land of the deity on the basis of compromise dated 12.10.1968. The question of limitation cannot be decided at the stage of disposal of application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC.

(v) Bar under the Specific Relief Act, 1963:

115. Shri C. S. Vaidyanathan, learned Senior Counsel, contended that the disputed property is dedicated to the temple and the idol is in constructive possession at all times. The deity/idol has possession and title over the property, therefore, the suit for mandatory injunction is not barred by any provision of the Specific Relief Act, 1963.

116. It is next contended on behalf of the plaintiffs that it is alleged by the defendants that plaintiffs have simply filed the suits for declaration and injunction without seeking relief for possession, as defendant, the Committee, is in possession. On this count, it is submitted that the construction in question has been valued and proper Court fees has been paid. It is one of the reliefs claimed by the plaintiffs that the suit of the plaintiffs be decreed against the defendants directing them to remove the illegal construction raised by them encroaching upon the land within the area of Katra Keshav Dev, Mathura and to hand over vacant possession to the Janmabhoomi Trust within the time provided by the Court. Therefore, the suits are not barred under any provision of the Specific Relief Act, 1963.

117. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in the case of A.A. Gopalakrishnan v. Cochin Devaswom Board, (2007) 7 SCC 482. The Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"10. The properties of deities, temples and Devaswom Boards, require to be protected and safeguarded by their trustees/archakas/shebaits/employees. Instances are many where persons entrusted with the duty of managing and safeguarding the properties of temples, deities and Devaswom Boards have usurped and misappropriated such properties by setting up false claims of ownership or tenancy, or adverse possession. This is possible only with the passive or active collusion of the authorities concerned. Such acts of "fences eating the crops" should be dealt with sternly. The Government, members or trustees of boards/trusts, and devotees should be vigilant to prevent any such usurpation or encroachment. It is also the duty of courts to protect and safeguard the properties of religious and charitable institutions from wrongful claims or misappropriation."

(Emphasis Supplied)

118. It is next contended that the plaintiffs never admitted lawful possession of the defendants over the suit property. It is the case of the plaintiffs that pursuant to illegal, fraudulent and void ab initio compromise dated 12.10.1968 two bigha land within the area of Katra Keshav Dev, which was always a part of the temple, was conceded to the Committee. Since all the constructions were illegally raised pursuant to the aforesaid illegal compromise, therefore, it would not be prudent to say that the possession of the defendants over the property is admitted to the plaintiffs.

119. It is also submitted that since the subject building is a protected monument, therefore, the decree dated 7.11.1974, based on compromise, is null and void, non-est and inoperative. Thus, no question for any person to seek relief of possession arises at all.

(vi) Bar under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC:

120. Sri Vishnu Shanker Jain, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs, while referring to the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC submitted that the provisions apply where a compromise has been entered into between competent parties. Sewa Sansthan did not have any right to file Suit No.43 of 1967 and to enter into any compromise relating to the property of the deity with anyone. He contended that it is the case of the plaintiffs that Rai Krishan Das and Rai Anand Krishan, the heirs of Raja Patnimal executed registered sale deed on 8.2.1944 for a consideration of Rs.13,400/- in favour of Mahamana Pt. Madan Mohan Malviya and two others. Said consideration was paid by Late Jugal Kishore Birla. The title and the possession of 13.37 acres land of Katra Keshav Dev was transferred to them. Sri Jugal Kishore Birla had taken a pledge to construct a glorious temple at Katra Keshav Dev, glorifying the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna. He created the Janmabhoomi Trust on 21.2.1951. The Trust Deed was registered on 9.3.1951. He dedicated the entire land of Katra Keshav Dev to the deity Lord Shree Krishna Virajman. Thus, the entire land situated in Katra Keshav Dev was dedicated, vested and transferred to the Janmabhoomi Trust. No trustee had individual right over this property. Unfortunately, the Janmabhoomi Trust failed to perform its duty to secure, preserve and protect the Janmabhoomi Trust property. The Janmabhoomi Trust has been defunct since 1958.

121. Sri Jain, further submitted that since the entire property of Katra Keshav Dev vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust, Sewa Sansthan was not the owner and in possession over the suit property. Therefore, it had no right or authority to enter into compromise dated 12.10.1968 in Civil Suit No.43 of 1967 with the Committee. The decree passed in Civil Suit No.43 of 1967 based on illegal compromise is null and void ab initio. It was well within the knowledge of Sewa Sansthan and the Committee that Sewa Sansthan was not the owner of the property of Katra Keshav Dev and not competent to enter into a compromise. Thus, they committed fraud and misrepresented before the Court.

122. It is further submitted that the Janmabhoomi Trust and the deity were not parties to Suit No. 43 of 1967 as well as to the compromise dated 12.10.1967. No Shebait or next friend to the deity was appointed to protect the interest of the idol. Sewa Sansthan is a separate legal entity from the Janmabhoomi Trust. Suit No.43 of 1967 was filed by Sewa Santhan and not by the Janmabhoomi Trust. Sewa Sansthan had no authority over the property to concede valuable property to the Committee. The compromise was entered into between the parties to defeat the interest of the deity. Since the plaintiffs are strangers to the proceedings of Suit No.43 of 1967, therefore, the provisions contained under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC do not apply. The decree dated 7.11.1974 is not binding upon the plaintiffs. The present suits filed by the plaintiffs, as next friend of the deity Lord Shree Krishna Virajman, are not barred under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC.

123. Sri Jain further contended that an application under Section 92 of the CPC was filed in the Court of District Judge, Mathura on 7.5.1993, titled as Lord Shree Krishna vs. Vamdeo Ji Maharaj (Chairman), Shree Krishna Janamsthan Sewa Sangh Mathura. A permission was sought to institute a suit, with a prayer to remove defendants no.1 to 6 of the said suit from the trusteeship, for direction to furnish the account of the trust property, to set up a scheme for carrying out the object of the trust and to dissolve Sewa Sansthan. The said application was rejected, vide order dated 06.05.1994. Against this, First Appeal No.199 of 1996 was dismissed by this Court, vide its judgment and order dated 23.02.1997. It held that the entire property of Katra Keshav Dev measuring 13.37 acres had vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust and that Raja Patnimal was the owner of the property. The entire property of Katra Keshav Dev was purchased by Mahamana Pt Madan Mohan Malviya, Goswami Ganesh Dutt and Professor Bhikhanlal Attrrey through registered sale deed executed on 8.2.1944. They became the owner and in possession of the said property. It was also held that Sewa Sansthan was not the trustee of the Janmabhoomi Trust property, therefore, it could not represent the Janmabhoomi Trust. Since the trustees were not made parties, therefore, application under Section 92 of the CPC was found to be not maintainable.

124. It is further contended that in Suit No.43 of 1967, it was admitted that the entire property was vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust by virtue of trust deed executed on 21.02.1951. Late Jugal Kishore Birla had created the Janmabhoomi Trust. The civil suit filed by certain Muslims claiming ownership and possession over the suit property had been dismissed by the Civil Court and the decree was operating in favour of Hindus.

125. To buttress his argument, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs placed reliance upon the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Indian Bank vs. Satyam Fibbers (India) Pvt. Ltd., 1996 (5) SCC

550. Relevant paragraph is extracted as under:

> "30. Forgery and fraud are essentially matters of evidence which could be proved as a fact by direct evidence or by inferences drawn from proved facts."

126. He also relied upon the judgment in A V Papayya Sastry and others vs. Govt of A.P. and others, 2007 (4) SCC 221, where it has been held that:

> "22. It is thus settled proposition of law that a judgment, decree or order obtained by playing fraud on the court, tribunal or authority is a nullity and non est in the eye of the law. Such a judgment, decree or order—by the first court or by the final court—has to be treated as nullity by every court, superior or inferior. It can be challenged in any court, at any time, in appeal, revision, writ or even in collateral proceedings."

>
> "The principle of 'finality of litigation' cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants."

127. Reliance is thereafter, placed upon the decision rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Chandro Devi vs. Union of India, 2017 (9) SCC 469. Relevant paragraph is extracted here under:-

> "6…….There can be no dispute with the proposition that if there is fraud, which leads to passing of a judgment, then fraud vitiates all actions taken consequent to such fraud and this would mean that the judgment would be set aside. However, before setting aside the judgment, we must come to the conclusion that the action was fraudulent."

128. Learned Counsel also placed reliance upon a decision in Bilkis Yakub Rasool v. Union of India and Others, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 25, wherein it has been held that:-

> "194. Further, fraud can be established when a false representation has been made (i) knowingly, or (ii) without belief in its truth, or (iii), recklessly, being careless about whether it be true or false. While suppression of a material document would amount to a fraud on the Court, suppression of material facts vital to the decision to be rendered by a court of law is equally serious. Thus, once it is held that there was a fraud in judicial proceedings all advantages gained as a result of it have to be withdrawn. In such an eventuality, doctrine of res judicata or doctrine of binding precedent would not be attracted since an order obtained by fraud is non est in the eye of law."

(Emphasis Supplied)

129. It is further submitted that the plaintiffs are seeking decree of declaration to the effect that the judgments and decree, dated 20.7.1973 and 7.11.1974 are not binding on the plaintiffs. The provisions under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC are applicable on such decree which is passed on the basis of compromise between the parties to the suit and it has validly been entered between two competent parties. Therefore, the plaint is not liable to be rejected under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC.

130. Learned Counsel placed reliance upon the decision of this Court in Srimati Suraj Kumari vs. District Judge Mirzapur & Ors., AIR 1991 Alld 75. It is observed that:-

"22. The petitioner's second submission regarding the applicability of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the Code of Civil Procedure is misconceived. The provision is confined only to the parties to the suit. The said provision is not applicable to a stranger to the said compromise decree. A suit by stranger to set aside the compromise decree, which affects his rights is not barred by the said provision. Order XXIII Rule 3A of the Code cannot be read dehors its earlier provision of the same chapter. The said provision is only a part of the entire chapter of Order XXIII of the Code which prescribes provisions or withdrawals and adjustment of the suit. Order XXIII Rule 3 of the Code provides for a situation where the parties have arrived at a compromise. Order XXIII Rule 3 & Rule 3A of the Code as added by Amending Act No. 104 of 1976 read together, makes it clear that a party to the suit is debarred from filing suit for setting aside compromise decree on the ground of being unlawful. Such a party has remedy by moving appropriate application before the Court concerned which has passed the compromise decree."

(Emphasis Supplied)

131. He further relied upon a judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in A.A. Gopalakrishnan v. Cochin Devaswom Board, (2007) 7 SCC 482 : 2007 SCC OnLine SC 914:-

"Order 23 Rule 3 CPC deals with compromise of suits. Rule 3-A provides that no suit shall lie to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based was not lawful. We are of the considered view that the bar contained in Rule 3-A will not come in the way of the High Court examining the validity of a compromise decree, when allegations of fraud/collusion are made against a statutory authority which entered into such compromise. While it is true that decrees of civil courts which have attained finality should not be interfered with lightly, challenge to such compromise decrees by an aggrieved devotee, who was not a party to the suit, cannot be rejected, where fraud/collusion on the part of officers of a statutory board is made out."

(Emphasis Supplied)

132. It is submitted that the judgment and decree passed on the basis of the compromise between the parties in Suit No.43 of 1967 is challenged in the present suits. As per the provisions contained in Order XXIII and Rule 3A of the CPC, no suit shall lie to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which, the decree is based was not lawful. Since the plaintiffs were not parties to the suit, the compromise dated 12.10.1968, is not binding upon them. The provision of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC do not apply.

133. Sri Anil Kumar Airi, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Hare Ram Tripathi, submitted that the title of Raja Patnimal over the property is undisputed. The area of the property situated at Katra Keshav Dev, measuring 13.37 acres, is also not challenged. It is submitted that the averments made in the plaint about historical development, execution of sale deed in favour of Mahamana Pt. Madan Mohan Malviya and two others and creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust, are based on the documentary evidence.

134. It is next submitted that according to the provisions contained in Sections 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 there is a presumption about the genuineness of the documents, the dedication of the property and execution of the registered trust deed about the suit property. Therefore, Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC cannot wash out the claim of the plaintiffs. In 1951, the Janmabhoomi Trust was created and its creation cannot be challenged because it was a public trust. Once a trust, always a trust. The Court is always the protector of the rights and the existence of a perpetual minor. Once the property was vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust, no one could have filed a suit or taken any action against it.

135. The compromise decree was obtained on the basis of fraud and misrepresentation and as the plaintiffs were not the parties either in Original Suit No.43 of 1967 or in the illegal compromise, therefore, it can be challenged by the plaintiffs through present proceedings. The suits of the plaintiffs are not barred under the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC. The compromise dated 12.10.1968 entered into between Sewa Sansthan and the Committee and decree passed in Civil Suit No.43 of 1967 are not binding on the devotees of 'Bhagwan Shree Krishan'. The parties to Suit No.43 of 1963, with a view to defeat the interest of deity and devotees, fraudulently entered into compromise on 12.10.1968. The present suit is filed by plaintiffs as next friend of deity of Lord Shree Krishna, which is not barred under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC.

136. Learned Counsel for the plaintiffs in the remaining suits adopted the arguments made on behalf of the plaintiffs in their respective cases.

REPLY BY LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENDANTS.

137. Learned Counsel for the defendants, in reply, submitted that the Act of 1991 bars conversion of places of worship as they existed on 15.08.1947. The preamble of the aforesaid Act is quoted thus:

> "An act to prohibit conversion of any place of worship and to provide for the maintenance of the religious character of any place of worship as it existed on the 15th day of August,1947, and for matters connected there with or incidental thereto."

138. It is further submitted that the argument of the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs that the provisions of the Act of 1904 are applicable over the suit property, cannot be accepted as there is no mention of the said Act of 1904 in the Act of 1991. The present suit admits continuous possession and use of the mosque by the Committee and the said mosque is in existence even today. The terms of the compromise are admitted in the suit and the existence of mosque prior to 1968 and continuing as such after the compromise is admitted. The notification of Public Works Department of 1920 also indicates that a mosque was in existence at the time of issuance of such notification. It establishes that the site has been utilized as a mosque prior to 1920 and continues to be so, till today. Therefore, the bar under the Act of 1991 and the Limitation Act,1963 shall apply.

139. She further submitted that the Act of 1904 ceased to have effects, therefore, its provisions are not applicable and the suit property is a waqf property. The suit property (Mosque) has been notified under the list annexed with the notification of 1944 as a waqf property, therefore, the suit is barred by the provisions of the Act of 1995. The plaintiffs have arrayed Waqf Board as a defendant, thus treating the suit property as a waqf property.

140. She further submitted that it is averred in the respective plaints that the mosque was built by Aurangzeb in 1669-70. It is also averred that after partial demolition of the pre-existing temple, at the site, a superstructure was raised which was named as 'Shahi Idgah Masjid'. Thus, the religious character of disputed property as Idgah Mosque has been admitted by the plaintiffs. Therefore, it is not required to determine the religious character of the structure by leading evidence. The possession of the defendant over the said mosque on the date of filing of the suits is admitted. It is also admitted in the plaint that the mosque existed prior to and after independence. By way of the present suits, plaintiffs are asking for a change of the said religious character by converting an existing mosque into a temple. It is also admitted by the plaintiffs that judgment dated 2.12.1935 held that Kacchi Kursi was to be treated as a part of Masjid.

141. It is then contended that the argument raised by the plaintiffs that the religious character is not defined in the Act of 1991 and the religious character of the structure is to be determined by leading evidence, is fallacious. The religious character of a place stands determined by nomenclature defined in Section 2 (c) of the Act of 1991.

142. It is submitted that the reliance placed on the judgment of Anjuman Intezamia Masjid vs. Rakhi Singh, (supra) is incorrect as the said judgment is not applicable to the present case.

143. Insofar as the argument made on behalf of the plaintiffs that the bar under Section 4(1) and (2) is negated by sub-section (3) (d) is concerned, it is submitted that Section 4(3)(d) of the Act of 1991 protects all the conversions that may have taken place by acquiescence thereby making it clear that such conversion will not be tested on the touchstone of religious character of the said place of worship as existed on 15.8.1947.

144. The existence of compromise entered into between the parties to Suit No.43 of 1967 is averred by the plaintiffs in their respective plaints. The decree was passed in accordance with the compromise entered into between the parties and the suit was decreed, vide its judgment and orders dated 20.07.1973 and 07.11.1974. Certain modification/constructions were carried out pursuant to that compromise. These constructions were carried out in 1968 and were within the knowledge of the plaintiffs since they have made specific averments in their plaints. Basis the averments made in the plaint, it is an admission on the part of the plaintiffs that they were ousted in 1968, thus the cause of action would commence from the date of such ouster. The alleged ouster in 1669-70 would not give the plaintiffs continuous cause of action as the alleged wrongful act of encroachment was complete on the date of ouster.

145. The plaintiffs have no continuing cause of action and their rights were extinguished at the time of alleged encroachment and raising of superstructure. In spite of having knowledge of visual changes carried out at the suit property, the plaintiffs did not take any action for more than 50 years. The changes made by the defendants were complete in nature and, therefore, it cannot be said that the plaintiffs had no cause of action since 1968.

146. Gazette Notification dated 26.2.1944, along with the list of Aukaf under the United Province Muslim Act, 1936 indicate subject matter mosque as a waqf property. Therefore, changing of religious character of mosque to that of a temple would be barred by the Act of 1991. No mixed question of fact and law arises in view of the said admission and documents placed on record.

147. There is no pleading regarding the Act of 1904 or the Act of 1958 in the plaints. The plaintiffs have not been able to show any notification under the Act of 1958 issued by the Central Government in respect of Idgah Mosque therefore, the said Act is not applicable.

148. It is further submitted that the judgment in Archaeological Survey of India Vs. State of M.P. & Ors. (supra), relied upon by the plaintiffs is not applicable. Reliance is placed on the following observation:

> "In order to attract the applicability of 1958 Act, declaration in respect of a monument has to be made by the Central Government under Section 4 of 1958 Act. Section 4 of the 1958 Act, provides that where the Central Government is of the opinion that any ancient monument or archaeological site and remains not included in Section 3 is of national importance, it may, by notification in the Official Gazette, give two months' notice of its intention to declare such monument to be of national importance".

149. It is further submitted that the judgment of U P Sunni Central Waqf Board vs. Ancient Idol of Swayambhu Lord Visheshwar, 2023 SCC Online Allahabad 2760, is not applicable. It is nowhere observed in this judgment that the applicability of the Act of 1991 requires a trial.

150. Learned Counsel submitted that there is no pleading of fraud and misrepresentation regarding compromise dated 12.10.1968 in the plaints. Section 17 of the Limitation Act, 1963 provides that limitation will not stop running if the plaintiffs could have discovered the fraud with a reasonable diligence. Therefore, the cause of action is not, as alleged in plaint, continuing on the date of filing of the suit. The limitation would run from 1968 and the plaints are thus, barred by the Limitation Act,1963.

151. Learned Counsel relied upon the judgment of Balkrishna Savalram Pujari & others vs. Shri Dhyaneshwar Maharashtra Sansthan & others AIR 1959 SC 78. Reliance is placed on the following paragraphs:

> "… … ... If the wrongful act causes an injury which is complete, there is no continuing wrong even though the damage resulting from the act may continue. … … …
>
> ... ... ... .Thus considered it is difficult to hold that the trustees' act in denying altogether the alleged rights of the Guravs as hereditary worshipers and in claiming and obtaining possession from them by their suit in 1922 was a continuing wrong. ... ...
>
> ... ... ...Can it be said that, after the appellants were evicted from the temple in execution of the said decree, the continuance of their dispossession was due to a recurring act of tort committed by the trustees from moment to moment? As soon as the decree was passed and the appellants were dispossessed in execution proceedings, their rights had been completely injured, and though their dispossession continued, it cannot be said that the trustees were committing wrongful acts or acts of tort from moment to moment so as to give the appellants a cause of action de die in diem… … ...where the wrongful act complained of amounts to ouster, the resulting injury to the right is complete at the date of the ouster and so there would be no scope for the application of 23 in such a case… … ..."
>
> (Emphasis Supplied)

Further, reliance is placed on Khair Mohammad and others vs. Jannat & ors, AIR 1940 Lah 359 . The following paragraph is referred – > "… … ... Where the injury complained of is complete on a certain date, there is no "continuing wrong" even though the damage caused by that injury might continue.

>
> In such a case the cause of action to the person injured arises, once and for all, at the time when the injury is inflicted, and the fact that the effects of the injury are felt by the aggrieved person on subsequent occasions, intermittently or even continuously, does not make the injury a "continuing wrong" so as to give him a fresh cause of action on each such occasion. … … …"

(Emphasis Supplied)

The judgment of Mosque, & ors vs. Shiromani Gurudwara Prabandhak Committee, AIR 1938 Lah 369 is also referred. Reliance is placed on the following paragraph:

> "… … … In this aspect of the question, the defendants' refusal to allow the Mahomedans to pray on the site of the mosque could not constitute a "continuing wrong" within the meaning of Section 23 of the Lim. Act. For when all rights of Mahomedans in the mosque were extinguished and the Sikhs became the owners of the building, the "right to pray" in the mosque was also extinguished and in refusing that right to the plaintiffs the defendants cannot be held to be guilty of any wrong, much less a "continuing" one … … …"

152. It is submitted that in the above referred judgment, it is observed that, if the wrongful act causes an injury which is complete, there is no continuing wrong even though the damage resulting from the act may continue. The cause of action regarding visiting of temple is illusionary to avoid bar of limitation, while it is admitted in the plaint that Aurangzeb had constructed the mosque in 1669.

153. Since the plaintiffs claim themselves to be the next friend of the deity and the Asthan as well the devotees and worshippers of Lord Shree Krishna, an irresistible inference is drawn that the plaintiffs would be visiting Mathura regularly to worship Lord Shree Krishna. But they abstained themselves from raising any grievance against the admitted physical changes that were carried out to the suit property since 1968.

154. Insofar as the submission on behalf of the plaintiffs that the deity/idol is a perpetual minor and is thus not bound by limitation is concerned, it is submitted that such analogy has been negated by the Supreme Court in M. Siddique vs. Mahant Suresh Das, (supra) (Ayodhya Judgment). Reliance is placed on the following observation :-

> "544. The analysis of the legal position on the applicability of the law on perpetual minority by S.U. Khan, J. commends itself. Based on the judicial precedents analysed above, it is an established position that a deity cannot on the ground of being a perpetual minor stand exempted from the application of the Limitation Act. The submission which was urged by Mr C.S. Vaidyanathan is contrary to the jurisprudence of close to a century on the issue. We follow the line of precedents emanating from the Privy Council, this Court and several High Courts noted earlier. The applicability of the law of limitation cannot be ruled out on the basis of the theory of perpetual minority."
> (Emphasis Supplied)

155. With respect to the argument advanced by the plaintiffs that 'Asthan

Shree Krishan Janmabhoomi Katra Keshav Dev Khewat No. 255 in Mauja Mathura Bazar, city and district Mathura' is a juristic person, therefore, it would not be hit by the bar of limitation. Mrs. Ahmadi rebutted that it is illegally claimed to be 'Asthan'. The said proposition that Asthan is a juristic person has also been negated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in M. Siddiq vs. Mahant Suresh Das (supra) (Ayodhya Case). Reliance is placed on the following observations –

> "249. It is for all the reasons highlighted above that the law has till today yet to accept the conferral of legal personality on immovable property. Religiosity has moved hearts and minds. The Court cannot adopt a position that accords primacy to the faith and belief of a single religion as the basis to confer both judicial insulation as well as primacy over the legal system as a whole. From Shahid Gunj to Ayodhya, in a country like ours where contesting claims over property by religious communities are inevitable, our courts cannot reduce questions of title, which fall firmly within the secular domain and outside the rubric of religion, to a question of which community's faith is stronger.
> 250. On a consideration of all the factors outlined above, it is thus held that the second plaintiff in Suit No. 5 — "Asthan Shri Ram Janam Bhumi" is not a juristic person."
>
> (Emphasis Supplied)

156. It is submitted that only if Shebait is minor, he can avail the benefit of exemption from the Limitation Act, 1963. The learned Counsel relied upon the judgment of M. Siddiq vs. Mahendra Suresh Das, 2020 (1) SCC 1 and referred to the following paragraph:-

> "It is established position that a deity cannot on the ground of being a perpetual minor stand exempted from the application of the Limitation Act,1963. The applicability of law of limitation cannot be ruled out on the basis of the theory of perpetual minority, therefore, no mixed question of fact and law arises as the law lays down that deity is bound by limitation."
>
> (Emphasis Supplied)

157. She further rebutted that the judgments relied upon on behalf of the plaintiffs in the case of Popat and Kotecha vs. State Bank of India Staff Association, (2005) 7 SCC 510 and Deity Sri Pabuji Maharaj vs. Board of Revenue, 2023 SCC OnLine Raj 1690 are not applicable.

158. It is submitted that there is no pleading regarding the U.P. Muslim Waqf Act, 1936 in the plaints. Section 112 of the Act of 1995 saves all action taken under the Waqf Act, 1954 and Section 69 (2) of the Waqf Act, 1954 saves all action taken under the State Acts, including the U.P. Muslim Waqf Act, 1936. It is also submitted that it is wrong to say that in view of notification of 1920 issued under the Act of 1904, the structure could not have been notified as a waqf property in 1944. Now, in 2023, the plaintiffs are raising a dispute that structure is not a waqf property. The submission of the plaintiff that the property is vested in the name of deity/idol and cannot be converted into a waqf property is a dispute, which is covered under Section 85 of the Act of 1995. The plaintiffs being 'person aggrieved' have to approach the Waqf Tribunal as the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is barred. The same will be governed by the law in present, i.e. the Act of 1995 along with its amendments of 2013, since the suit was filed after the commencement of the said Act. No mixed question of law or fact arises.

159. It is submitted that the judgment of Board of Muslim Waqf Vs. Radha Krishan,1979 SCC (2) 468 is not applicable in the present case as it relates to the Waqf Act, 1954. The words 'any person interested' have been replaced with 'any person aggrieved' in the Act of 1995. The judgment of Rashid Wali Beg vs. Farid Pindari & Ors. (supra) has interpreted Section 85 of the Act of 1995. The judgment of Ramesh Govind Ram vs. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf (supra) is no more a good law since its basis was removed by the Waqf (Amendment) Act, 2013. The judgment of UP Sunni Central Waqf Board Vs. Ancient Idol of Swayambhoo Lord Vishweshwar (supra), is not applicable in the present case. The judgment of Most. Rev. P.M.A. Metropolitan vs. Moran Mar Marthoma (supra) is not applicable since only a part of minority judgment is referred and the part of majority judgment has not been referred.

160. It is submitted that as per the provision contained in Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC, no suit shall lie, to set aside the decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based was not lawful. If the compromise entered in 1968 is to be set aside, it can only be done by filing an application in the same proceeding seeking a relief of setting aside or modification of the decree. No exception is incorporated in the provisions contained in Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC regarding those who are not parties to the compromise being able to maintain a suit to challenge the same. Therefore, the suit is barred under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC.

161. It is submitted that the reliance placed on the judgment of Rejeev Gupta (supra) is misplaced. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Triloki Nath Singh vs Anirudh Singh, Civil Appeal No. 3961 of 2010, held that a stranger to the compromise cannot challenge the same under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC. Reliance is placed on the following paragraph:-

> "16. By introducing the amendment to the Civil Procedure Code (Amendment 1976) w.e.f. 1st February, 1977, the legislature has brought into force Rule 3A to order XXIII, which creates bar to institute the suit to set aside the decree on the ground that the compromise on which decree is based was not lawful. The purpose of effecting a compromise between the parties is to put an end to the various disputes pending before the Court of competent jurisdiction once and for all.
> 22….Merely because the appellant was not party to the compromise decree in the facts of the present case, will be of no avail to the appellant, much less give him a cause of action to question the validity of the compromise decree passed by the High Court by way of substantive suit before the Civil Court to declare it as fraudulent, illegal and not binding on him. Assuming, he could agitate about the validity of the compromise entered into by the parties to the partition suit, it is only the High Court, who had accepted the compromise and passed decree on that basis, could examine the same and no other court under proviso to Rule 3 of Order 23 CPC."

(Emphasis Supplied)

162. Learned Counsel referred to proviso to Section 34 of Specific Relief Act, 1963 and submitted that so far the relief of possession is concerned, it is claimed for issuance of mandatory injunction against the defendants. The suits are not for recovery of possession under Sections 5 and 6 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 therefore, the same are barred by proviso to Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 and deserve to be rejected as admittedly, the plaintiffs have not claimed 'further relief' as contemplated therein. The relief of injunction cannot be regarded as further relief. Reliance is placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Vasantha Vs. Rajalakshmi (supra).

163. It is submitted that the reference given by learned Counsel Mrs. Reena N Singh, on behalf of the plaintiffs to the judgments Shyamlal Ranjan Mukherjee vs. Nirmal Ranjan Mukherjee, Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 56447 of 2003, Shriomani Gurudwara Prabandhak Committee vs. Somnath Das, Devkinandan vs Murlidhar, 1957 AIR 133, State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Pujari Utthan Avam Kalyan Samiti, CA No. 4850/2021, Mukundji Maharaj vs Parshottam Lal Ji, AIR 1957 ALL 77, K Santhel Kumar vs Principal Secretary to Government, W.P. No.18190/ 2021, Salim D Agboatwala & Ors. vs Shamalji Oddhavaji Thakkar & Ors., AIR 2021 SC 502, Salim Muslim Burial Ground Protection Committee vs Tamil Nadu & Ors., (supra) and Swami Atmanand vs Ram Krishna Tapovanam, AIR 2005 SC 2392, is misplaced since the observations made by the Court in each of the aforesaid cases are not applicable to the present case.

164. It is also submitted that so far as the entries in municipal and revenue records are concerned, they are immaterial since revenue records are only for financial purposes to collect the revenue and are not the proof of the title.

Determination:

165. Having heard the learned Counsel for the parties, after perusing the material available on record and the submissions made by both the sides, I now proceed to dispose of the applications moved by the defendants.

(i) Scope of Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC:

166. Mrs. Ahmadi, learned Counsel for the defendants argued that the plaints do not disclose a reliable cause of action. To decide an application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, the averments made in the plaints are to be scrutinized by the Court to arrive at a conclusion that the plaintiffs have a valid cause of action. For this purpose, the plaint is to be read meaningfully and the defense taken by the defendants is not required to be considered. The Court is fully empowered to dismiss the suit summarily at the threshold without conducting a trial, if the Court is satisfied that the plaint is liable to be rejected. The provisions contained in Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC are mandatory in nature. If on a meaningful reading of the plaint, the Court finds that any ground specified in clauses (a) to (e) is made out, the Court is bound to reject the plaint.

167. On the other hand, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs submitted that the power under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC should be exercised sparingly and cautiously by the Court. The plaint can only be rejected when it appears to the Court that the averments made in the plaint do not disclose a cause of action or are barred by any law. The plaint has to be construed as it stands without any addition or subtraction of words or its apparent grammatical sense. The pleadings in the plaint have to be taken as correct value in its entirety. It is also submitted that the averments made in the plaint have to be read as a whole. On the basis of the averments made in the plaint, in all other situations, the claim should be adjudicated during the course of the trial. When an application for rejection of the plaint is allowed, the plaintiff becomes remediless. Rejection of the plaint at the threshold entails very serious consequence for the plaintiffs, therefore, this power should be exercised in exceptional circumstances only. The facts, which constitute a cause of action, are always subject to the evidence to be led by the plaintiffs during the trial.

168. During their arguments, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs took this Court through historical developments, subsequent rounds of litigations and events leading to cause of action giving rise to present suits.

169. It would be imperative to quote provisions contained in Order VII Rule 11 and Section 151 of the CPC as under:

> Order VII Rule 11 – Rejection of Plaint*.—The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:*
>
> (a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;
>
> (b) where the relief claimed is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to cor rect the valuation within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;
>
> (c) where the relief claimed is properly valued but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;
>
> (d) where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law;
>
> (e) where it is not filed in duplicate;
>
> (f) where the plaintiff fails to comply with the provisions of Rule 9;
>
> Provided that the time fixed by the Court for the correction of the valuation or supplying of the requisite stamp-papers shall not be extended unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, is satisfied that the plaintiff was prevented by any cause of an exceptional nature from correcting the valuation or supplying the requisite stamp-papers, as the case may be, within the time fixed by the Court and that refusal to extend such time would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff.

Section 151 of the CPC provides:-

151. Saving of inherent powers of Court. —Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or otherwise affect the inherent power of the Court to make such orders as may be necessary for the ends of justice or to prevent abuse of the process of the Court.

170. A cause of action is a bundle of facts, which the plaintiffs must prove, to succeed in their suits. A cause of action is constituted on the basis of various facts averred in the plaint.

171. It is one of the arguments of the plaintiffs that in the present suits, the title is not under challenge. The area of the property situated in Katra Keshav Dev, measuring 13.37 acres, is also not under challenge. It is not disputed that the entire property was vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust by late Shri Jugal Kishore Birla. The title of the plaintiffs over the suit property, is established.

172. Perusal of the respective plaints, as a whole, goes to show that the historical background of the matter, averments made in the plaints about the title, ownership and possession of Raja Patnimal of Benaras and his legal heirs over the property of Katra Keshav Dev measuring 13.37 acres, several rounds of subsequent litigations establishing the title and possession of suit property in their favour, the execution of sale deed in favour of Mahamana Pandit Madan Mohan Malviya and others, creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust by Late Sri Jugal Kishore Birla, institution of Suit No.43 of 1967 by Sewa Sansthan, the compromise dated 12.10.1968 entered into between the parties, construction of superstructure known as 'Shahi Idgah Masjid' by the defendants, and execution of certain documents from time to time which are brought on record by plaintiffs, are bundle of facts which indicate that the plaintiffs have a cause of action to institute present suits. All these peculiar facts and circumstances constitute a cause of action as averred in their respective plaints.

173. Pertinent to note that certain documents are filed by the plaintiffs in support of their averments in the plaint such as the sale deed dated 08.02.1944, the trust deed dated 09.03.1951, revenue and municipal records, electricity bills, documents related to several rounds of litigation, notice. The cause of action, averments made in the plaints, as well as the execution of the document are always subject to evidence to be led by the parties during the trial.

174. In Church of Christ Charitable Trust & Educational Charitable Society v. Ponniamman Educational Trust, (2012) 8 SCC 706, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

"13. While scrutinising the plaint averments, it is the bounden duty of the trial court to ascertain the materials for cause of action. The cause of action is a bundle of facts which taken with the law applicable to them gives the plaintiff the right to relief against the defendant. Every fact which is necessary for the plaintiff to prove to enable him to get a decree should be set out in clear terms. It is worthwhile to find out the meaning of the words cause of action. A cause of action must include some act done by the defendant since in the absence of such an act no cause of action can possibly accrue."

(Emphasis Supplied)

175. In A.B.C. Laminart (P) Ltd. v. A.P. Agencies, (1989) 2 SCC 163, it was observed by the Hon'ble Apex Court:-

"12. A cause of action means every fact, which if traversed, it would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove in order to support his right to a judgment of the Court. In other words, it is a bundle of facts which taken with the law applicable to them gives the plaintiff a right to relief against the defendant. It must include some act done by the defendant since in the absence of such an act no cause of action can possibly accrue. It is not limited to the actual infringement of the right sued on but includes all the material facts on which it is founded. It does not comprise evidence necessary to prove such facts, but every fact necessary for the plaintiff to prove to enable him to obtain a decree. Everything which if not proved would give the defendant a right to immediate judgment must be part of the cause of action. But it has no relation whatever to the defence which may be set up by the defendant nor does it depend upon the character of the relief prayed for by the plaintiff."

(Emphasis Supplied)

176. In Srihari Hanumdas Totala v. Hemant Vithal Kamath (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that:-

"17. Order 7 Rule 11(d) CPC provides that the plaint shall be rejected "where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law". Hence, in order to decide whether the suit is barred by any law, it is the statement in the plaint which will have to be construed. The Court while deciding such an application must have due regard only to the statements in the plaint. Whether the suit is barred by any law must be determined from the statements in the plaint and it is not open to decide the issue on the basis of any other material including the written statement in the case.

177. In Popat and Kotecha Property v. State Bank of India Staff Assn., (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that:-

"10. Clause (d) of Order 7 Rule 7 speaks of suit, as appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law. Disputed questions cannot be decided at the time of considering an application filed under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC. Clause (d) of Rule 11 of Order 7 applies in those cases only where the statement made by the plaintiff in the plaint, without any doubt or dispute shows that the suit is barred by any law in force.

1. Rule 11 of Order 7 lays down an independent remedy made available to the defendant to challenge the maintainability of the suit itself, irrespective of his right to contest the same on merits. The law ostensibly does not contemplate at any stage when the objections can be raised, and also does not say in express terms about the filing of a written statement. Instead, the word "shall" is used clearly implying thereby that it casts a duty on the court to perform its obligations in rejecting the plaint when the same is hit by any of the infirmities provided in the four clauses of Rule 11, even without intervention of the defendant. In any event, rejection of the plaint under Rule 11 does not preclude the plaintiffs from presenting a fresh plaint in terms of Rule 13."

(Emphasis Supplied)

178. It is a settled law that the defense of the defendant or the written statement filed on their behalf need not be considered and only the averments made in the plaint are to be considered at the time of the disposal of such application.

179. I am of the considered view that after perusal of the plaints, as a whole and meaningfully, documentary evidence brought on record and oral arguments advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties, prima facie it appears that a valid cause of action arose to the plaintiffs to institue the suits. At this stage, it cannot be assumed that the plaints do not disclose a cause of action as agitated by the learned Counsel for the defendants.

(ii) Bar under the Limitation Act, 1963:

180. Learned Counsel for the defendants vehemently argued that the suits of the plaintiffs are barred under certain provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963. The existence of the mosque constructed by Aurangzeb is an admission on the part of the plaintiffs since 1669-70 as averred in the plaint. Ever since, the property is being utilized as a Mosque and Namaz is being offered regularly. It is also contended that pursuant to the compromise dated 12.10.1968, certain visible physical changes were carried out at the spot which were well within the knowledge of the plaintiffs. Therefore, the cause of action, if any, had arisen between 1968 to 1974. It is also asserted that these physical developments could not have been hidden from the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs cannot claim ignorance about the compromise which they could have known by exercise of reasonable diligence. The relief seeking declaration that the decree dated 20.07.1973 and 07.11.1974 be not binding upon the plaintiffs for certain alleged reasons is also hit by the Limitation Act,1963. Articles 58 and 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963 provide period of limitation as three years to obtain any declaration and to cancel or set aside an instrument or decree or for the rescission of a contract. Whereas, present suits are instituted by the plaintiffs after a span of more than 50 years.

181. It is also contended that the averments made in the plaints disclose an illusory cause of action, created by the plaintiffs. The plaint is cleverly drafted. It is averred by the plaintiffs that on a particular date, they visited the property for darshan of Lord Shree Krishna at Mathura. They were shocked to see that a mosque was standing there. They requested the members of the Committee to remove the construction over temple land. They were shown the copy of compromise dated 12.10.1968. The defendants refused to remove the construction. The chain of events, as pleaded in the plaints, amounts to creation of an illusory cause of action. Further, no cogent evidence has been brought on record to support such illusory cause of action.

182. Learned Counsel for the plaintiffs refuted the arguments advanced by the learned Counsel for the defendant and submitted that they came to know about superstructure for the first time, when they visited Mathura for darshan of Lord Shree Krishna. It was only then that they came to know for the first time about the alleged illegal and fraudulent compromise dated 12.10.1968. The Waqf Board had illegally accorded permission to the Committee to enter into fraudulent and void ab initio compromise. The plaintiffs sent a notice under Section 89 of the Act of 1995, which was duly served upon them. It is also submitted that continuing wrong and cause of action is accruing everyday against the wrongs committed by the defendants. Therefore, the period of limitation would begin from the date of knowledge about the facts mentioned above.

183. The relevant provisions contained in Articles 58 and 59 of the Limitation Act, 1963 are extracted as under:-

"Part III – Suits relating to declarations.

58	To obtain any other declaration	Three years	*When the right to sue first accrues

Part IV- Suits relating to decrees and instruments.

59.	To cancel or set aside an instrument or decree or for the rescission of a contract.	Three years	*When the facts entitling the plaintiff to have the instrument or decree cancelled or set aside or the contract rescinded first become known to him."

184. Based on the pleadings averred in the respective plaints, it appears that the plaintiffs came to know for the first time about the existence of the superstructure constructed by the defendants at the property of Katra Keshav Dev when they visited Mathura for darshan of Lord Shree Krishna on the given date as mentioned in the clause of the cause of action in their respective plaints. It was only then, they came to know about the alleged and fraudulent compromise dated 12.10.1968. Thereafter, they requested the defendants to remove the superstructure, but the defendants refused to do so. The refusal by the defendants to remove the superstructure is also one of the facts relating to the accrual of cause of action to the plaintiffs.

185. The compromise dated 12.10.1968 is also challenged by the plaintiffs, inter alia, on the grounds that Sewa Sansthan had no authority to file Suit No.43 of 1967. It misrepresented itself to be the owner and in possession over the property of Katra Keshav Dev. Perusal of the plaint of Suit No. 43 of 1967 (Shree Krishna Janamsthan Seva Sangh, Mathura also known as Shree Krishna Janambhumi Trust Mathura and ors. v. Trust Masjid Idgah under the alleged Committee of Management and ors.) goes to show that Sewa Sansthan misrepresented the fact and averred that the Janmabhoomi Trust was registered as Shri Krishna Janamsthan Sewa Sangh and the entire property of Katra Keshav Dev was endowed to the said trust.

186. It is also averred by the plaintiffs of the present suit, that the suit property, which was dedicated to the Janmabhoomi Trust, was never vested or transferred to Sewa Sansthan after the Janmabhoomi Trust became defunct in 1958. The Janmabhoomi Trust was always in existence and the property of Katra Keshav Dev always remained to be vested in it. Sewa Sansthan had no authority to concede the land vested in the deity to the defendants pursuant to the alleged illegal, fraudulent and void ab initio compromise.

187. A plain reading of the plaint of Suit No.43 of 1967 supports the arguments of the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs. The suit was titled as Shri Krishna Janamasthan Sewa Sangh, Mathura also known as Shri Krishna Janambhumi Trust, Mathura v. Trust Masjid Idgah and Ors. It would be imperative to reproduce the relevant paragraphs of the plaint of Suit No. 43 of 1967, which read thus:

> "1. That the plaintiff is the owner and Zamindar and in possession of entire Khewat No. 255 present, which is Khewat No. 291 old, present area 13.37 acre known as Katra Keshavdeo situated in Mauza Mathura Bangar which was included in Nagla Mallpura.
> 4. That Seth Jugal Kishore Birla created a Trust known as Shri Krishna Janambhumi Trust which has been registered under Act XXI of 1860 in the name of Shri KRISHNA JANAMSTHAN SEWA SANGH and the names of President and other office holders and members of the Sangh are given above along with the name of the Plaintiff and the said Seth Jugal Kishore Birla endowed the entire rights and interests in the aforesaid property by the Trust Deed dated 21.2.1951 to the Plaintiff."

188. Copy of the trust deed dated 21.02.1951, by which the Janmabhoomi Trust was created, is also brought on record by the plaintiffs. Perusal of this document reveals that the trust was created in the name of 'Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi Trust' and not as 'Shri Krishna Janamsthan Sewa Sangh'. The description of the property of Katra Keshav Dev endowed to the Janmabhoomi Trust is referred in the trust deed as:

> "3. इस ट्रस्ट की संपत्ति कटरा केशव देव अथवा श्री कृष्ण जन्मभूमि होगी । जिसका क्षेत्रफल 13.37 एकड़ है, जो मथुरा के पश्चिमी भाग में स्थित है, जिसके पूर्व बॉम्बे वडोदरा सेंट्रल इंडिया रेलवे लाइन, पश्चिम केशव देव नाम का वर्तमान मंदिर, उत्तर नजूल जमीन और दक्षिण उफतादा जमीन व कच्चा रास्ता है ।"
>
> "3. The property of this trust will be Katra Keshav Dev or Shree Krishna's birthplace, whose area is 13.37 acres, which is situated in the western part of Mathura, east of which is Bombay Vadodara Central India Railway Line, west is the existing temple named Keshav Dev, north is Nazool land and south is Uftada land and kutcha road."

189. The aforesaid recital about the name of the trust and description of the property of Katra Keshav Dev clearly shows that Suit No. 43 of 1967 was filed by concealing the true facts by its plaintiffs. Sewa Sansthan was not the owner and was not in possession of the property of Katra Keshav Dev. It misrepresented itself as the owner and Zamindar and in possession of entire area of 13.37 acres land known as Katra Keshav Dev. Further the property was endowed to the Janmabhoomi Trust and not to Sewa Sansthan by the trust deed dated 09.03.1951. The property endowed to the Janmabhoomi Trust was mentioned in the trust deed by metes and bounds.

190. Conclusively, Suit No. 43 of 1967 was not filed by its plaintiffs by disclosing their true identity and their status qua the property. Since the property of Katra Keshav Dev was endowed to the Janmabhoomi Trust and it was never transferred or vested in Sewa Sansthan, therefore, the plaintiffs in the said suit had no right or authority, either to file the suit or to enter into the compromise dated 12.10.1968 and to concede two bighas land of the temple to the defendants.

191. In the case in hand, the question of limitation is directly related to the cause of action. The cause of action, being the mixed question of fact and law, as averred in the plaints can only fuller and finally be examined on the basis of the evidence led by the parties during the trial.

192. In the case of Thankamma George vs Lilly Thomas and Another, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 1673, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that:-

"15.1 The words "when the right to sue first accrues" have been interpreted and held by this Court in Smt. Neelam Kumari v. U.P. Financial Corporation. The starting point for the limitation in the case of setting aside sale deeds has two limbs: the date of execution and the date of knowledge. There is no difficulty in applying the period of limitation expiring three years from the date of execution, provided that the Appellant had knowledge of Ex. A-5 on the date of registration and the right to sue first accrued...."

193. In Saranpal Kaur Anand v. Praduman Singh Chandhok, (2022) 8 SCC 401, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that:-

"... ... ...14. The word "diligence" read with the word "reasonable" in the context of Section 17(1) of the Limitation Act is subjective and relative, and would depend upon circumstances of which the actor called upon to act reasonably, knows or ought to know. Vague clues or hints may not matter. Whether the plaintiff/applicant had the means to know the fraud is a relevant consideration. It is manifest that Section 17(1) of the Limitation Act does not protect a party at fault for failure to exercise reasonable diligence when the circumstances demand such exercise and on exercise of which the plaintiff/applicant could have discovered the fraud. When the time starts ticking subsequent events will not stop the limitation. The time starts running from the date of knowledge of the fraud/mistake; or the plaintiff/applicant when required to exercise reasonable diligence could have first known or discovered the fraud or mistake. In case of a concealed document, the period of limitation will begin to run when the plaintiff/applicant had the means of producing the concealed document or compelling its production."

(Emphasis Supplied)

194. The plea of limitation can be decided based on the pleadings of the parties after framing an issue under Order VI Rule 13 of the CPC. On the basis of the chain of events as averred in the plaints, at this stage, when the maintainability of the suit is challenged by the defendants, the question of limitation cannot be determined without framing an issue and taking the evidence of the parties. Since the question of limitation is a mixed question of fact and law, therefore, on the question of limitation, the plaints cannot be rejected at the threshold.

195. In view of the foregoing discussions, I am of the considered opinion that the suits of the plaintiffs are not barred under any provisions of Limitation Act, 1963.

(iii) Bar under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC:

196. It is submitted on behalf of the defendants that insofar as the bar under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC is concerned, Suit No. 43 of 1967 was filed in 1967. The compromise was entered on 12.10.1968. The title and the possession of Shahi Masjid Idgah were settled on the basis of the terms of such compromise. Therefore, challenge to the compromise can be made in the same proceedings and not by filing present suits. The provisions contained under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC imposes an express bar to such proceedings.

197. Per contra, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs have submitted that the deity/idol/Asthan was not impleaded as party either to Suit No.43 of 1967 or in the compromise dated 12.10.1968. Since the diety is a perpetual minor, no permission from a competent Court was obtained to file Suit no.43 of 1967, as the next friend of the deity or to enter into the compromise dated 12.10.1968. The Court is always a custodian of the interest and welfare of the deity. The entire proceedings of Suit No. 43 of 1967 and the construction raised pursuant to the compromise dated 12.10.1968 are based on fraud and misrepresentation and, therefore, they are illegal and void ab initio. The plaintiffs have also claimed the relief to declare the judgment and decree dated 20.07.1973, and judgment and decree dated 07.11.1974 passed in Civil Suit No.43 of 1967, to be not binding on the plaintiffs.

198. Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC provides thus:

"3A. Bar to suit. - No suit shall lie to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based was not lawful."

199. Perusal of the trust deed dated 09.03.1951, created by Late Shri Jugal Kishore Birla in the name of the Janmabhoomi Trust reveals that the entire property of Katra Keshav Dev, measuring 13.37 acres, was dedicated and vested in the Janmabhoomi Trust. One of the objectives to create Janmabhoomi Trust was to construct a glorious temple of Lord Shree Krishna at his birthplace. Suit No.43 of 1967 was filed subsequent to the creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust. Similarly, perusal of the copy of the plaint relating to Suit No. 43 of 1967 as well as the compromise deed dated 12.10.1968 demonstrates that the Janmabhoomi Trust and deity/ idol were not arrayed as parties to the suit. To represent and to protect the interest of the idol, being a perpetual minor, no shebait or next friend was appointed by the Court. It is not disputed that the deity is a perpetual minor. The Court is always a custodian of the rights and the interest of a perpetual minor. Sewa Sansthan is a distinct legal entity from the Janmabhoomi Trust. No documentary evidence is brought on record, which may indicate that the property of the Janmabhoomi Trust was transferred, dedicated, or vested to Sewa Sansthan.

200. The provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC would apply where the decree is challenged by any of the parties already arrayed in the suit. Had the compromise dated 12.10.1968 been challenged by the parties to Suit No.43 of 1967, the subsequent suit brought by the parties to that suit would have been barred by the provisions under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC.

201. In Srimati Suraj Kumari Vs. District Judge Mirzapur and others (supra), this Court observed that:-

> "The provision is confined only to the parties to the suit. The said provision is not applicable to a stranger to the said compromise decree. A suit by stranger to set aside the compromise decree, which affects his right is not barred by the said provision. Order XXIII Rule 3A of the Code cannot be read de horse its earlier provision of the same chapter*……..Order XXIII Rule 3 & Rule 3A of the Code added by amending Act No. 104 of 1976 read together, makes it clear that a party to the suit is debarred from filing suit for setting aside compromise decree on the ground of being unlawful.* Such a party has remedy by moving appropriate application before the court concerned which is passed the compromise decree."
>
> (Emphasis Supplied)

202. Since the plaintiffs are strangers to the proceedings in Suit No.43 of 1967, therefore, the express bar imposed under the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC does not apply. Hence, I am of the view that the suits of the plaintiffs are not barred by the provisions contained under Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC.

(iv) Bar under the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991:

203. Mrs. Tasneem Ahmadi, learned Counsel for the defendants, submitted that the suits of the plaintiffs are barred under Sections 3, 4, 6 and 7 of the Act of 1991. As per the averments made in the respective plaints, it is an admission that Shahi Idgah Mosque was constructed by Aurangzeb in 1669-70 and it is existing since then. The property continues to be utilized as a mosque even today. The suit property was a mosque on the date of compromise as per the terms therein. Even under Notification No. 1465/1133M dated 25.11.1920 issued by Lieutenant Governor, United Province and Notification No.1669-M1133 dated 27.12.1920, the existence of mosque was recognized. It is noted in the aforesaid notification dated 25.11.1920 that the site is utilized for the mosque of Aurangzeb. Thus, the religious character of the property is evident to be a mosque on the basis of the aforesaid notification as well as the admission of the plaintiffs in their plaints. The religious character is to be determined on the basis of nomenclature of the place of worship. The possession and utilization of the property as mosque by Muslims indicate the religious character of the suit property. Therefore, no mixed question of fact and law is involved.

204. It is also submitted that the relief claimed by the plaintiffs, inter alia, seeking removal of the Shahi Idgah Mosque and handing over the vacant possession to the Janmabhoomi Trust amounts to conversion of a religious place for offering prayers by the Muslim community to one for offering prayer by the Hindu devotees.

205. Per contra, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs averred that the temple of Lord Shree Krishna was in existence since 5000 years. Regular puja, aarti and other religious rituals are being performed there. The religious character of the property was always a temple. 'Once a temple always a temple' is a judicially recognized principle of law. Mere demolition of the temple by intruders from time to time and raising constructions over the property as a mosque does not change the religious character of the property. Unlawful possession of the defendant over the property can never be treated to be an admission.

206. It is also submitted that the religious character is not defined in the Act of 1991. The determination of the religious character of the suit property shall be proved on the basis of oral, documentary, scientific and experts' evidence to be led during the trial. The birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna lies beneath the present structure. Every inch of the land of Katra Keshav Dev is devoted to Lord Shree Krishna and the Hindu community. Historical background and subsequent developments about the suit property are reiterated.

207. It is also submitted that near the eastern side of the superstructure, an old well which is called as 'Krishna Koop' is existing since time immemorial. This place is visited by the Hindu devotees to perform Mundan ceremony of their children. Puja, aarti and other religious rituals are also being performed by them. After the festival of Holi, 'Basoda puja' at 'Krishna Koop' is performed every year.

208. It is also submitted that the provisions of the Act of 1991 are not applicable to any place of worship, which is an ancient and historical monument or an archaeological site or remains covered by the Act of 1958. Section 3 of the Act of 1904 provides that the Central Government, by notification in the official gazette, may declare an ancient monument to be a protected monument. In Notification No. 1465/1133-M, dated 25.11.1920, Lt. Governor, United Province, Agra and Oudh declared the place of the temple at Katra Keshav as a 'protected monument'.

209. The aforesaid notification reads thus:

> "In exercise of the powers conferred by Section 3, sub-section (1) of the Ancient Monuments Preservation Act (VII of 1904), his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the United Province of Agra and Oudh is hereby pleased to declare the Under mentioned ancient Monument to be protected monuments within the meaning of the Act and to direct that no one shall destroy, remove, alter or efface in any manner or build on or near the site of monuments without having first obtained permission from the Government or its authorized officers.
>
> 2. Any objection to the above proposal received in writing by the Local Government within one month from the date of this notification will be taken into consideration.

Sr. No	Name and description of monument	District	Locality
37.	The portion of Katra mound which are not in the position of nazul tenants on which formerly stood a temple of Keshav Deva which was dismantled and the site was utilized for the mosque of Aurangzeb.	Muttra	Kosi on Muttra and Bharatpur road, 9 miles from Muttra.

210. Thus, Notification dated 25.11.1920, demarcated the portion of Katra mound as protected monument. It is worthwhile to note that the said notification records that the temple of Keshav Dev existed there and was dismantled to be utilized as a mosque of Aurangzeb. Further, Notification No.1669/1133-M dated 27.12.1920, issued by Lt. Governor, United Province under Section 3(3) of the Act of 1904, declared this area to be 'protected monument of national importance'.

211. The preamble of the Act of 1991, reads thus:

> "An Act to prohibit conversion of any place of worship and to provide for the maintenance of the religious character of any place worship as it existed on the 15th Day of August, 1947, and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto".

212. Sections 3, 4, 6 and 7 of the Act of 1991 provide thus:

> "3. Bar of conversion of places of worship. No person shall convert any place of worship of any religious denomination or any section thereof into a place of worship of a different section of the same religious denomination or of* a different religious denomination or any section thereof.

4. Declaration as to the religious character of certain places of worship and bar of jurisdiction of courts, etc.

(1) It is hereby declared that the religious character of a place of worship existing on the 15th day of August, 1947 shall continue to be the same as existed on that day.

(2) If, on the commencement of this Act, any suit, appeal or other proceeding with respect to the conversion of the religious character of any place of worship, existing on the 15th day of August, 1947, is pending before any court, tribunal or other authority, the same shall abate, and no suit, appeal or other proceeding with respect to any such matter shall lie on or after such commencement in any court, tribunal or other authority: Provided that if any suit, appeal or other proceeding, instituted or filed on the ground that conversion has taken place in the religious character of any such place after the 15th day of August, 1947, is pending on the commencement of this Act, such suit, appeal or other proceeding shall be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1).

(3) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) shall apply to,

(a) any place of worship referred to in the said sub- sections which is an ancient and historical monument or an archaeological site or remains covered by the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Sites and Remains Act, 1958 (24 of 1958.) or any other law for the time being in force;

(b) any suit, appeal or other proceeding, with respect to any matter referred to in sub-section (2), finally decided, settled or disposed of by a court, tribunal or other authority before the commencement of this Act;

(c) any dispute with respect to any such matter settled by the parties amongst themselves before such commencement;

(d) any conversion of any such place effected before such commencement by acquiescence;

(e) any conversion of any such place effected before such commencement which is not liable to be challenged in any court, tribunal or other authority being barred by limitation under any law for the time being in force.

6. Punishment for contravention of section 3.

6. (1) Punishment for contravention of section 3. Whoever contravenes the provisions of section 3 shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine.

(2) Whoever attempts to commit any offence punishable under sub- section (1) or to cause such offence to be committed and in such attempt does any act towards the commission of the offence shall be punishable with the punishment provided for the offence.

(3) Whoever abets, or is a party to a criminal conspiracy to commit, an offence punishable under sub-section (1) shall, whether such offence be or be not committed in consequence of such abetment or in pursuance of such criminal conspiracy, and notwithstanding anything contained in section 116 of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860.) be punishable with the punishment provided for the offence.

7. Act to override other enactments. The provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force or any instrument having effect by virtue of any law other than this Act."*

213. Section 2(b) of the Act of 1991 defines 'conversion' as :-

(b) "conversion", with its grammatical variations, includes alteration or change of whatever nature;

214. Section 3 of the Act of 1991 bars conversion of the place of worship of any religious denomination or any section thereof into a place of worship of a different section of the same religious denomination or of a different religious denomination or any section thereof.

215. Section 4 provides declaration as to the religious character of certain places of worship which existed on 15th day of August, 1947 and bars jurisdiction of the Court.

216. Section 2(c) of the Act of 1991 defines the phrase 'place of worship' to mean a Temple, Mosque, Gurudwara, Church, Monastery or any other place of public religious worship of any religious denomination or any section thereof, by whatever name called.

217. The Act of 1991 does not define 'religious character'. To attract the provisions of this Act, the 'religious character of the place of worship' has to be determined. This Act does not bar determination of question of fact as to the religious character of a particular place of worship by the Court. The religious character of the place of worship is the determinative factor for deciding the applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1991 over a property.

218. The averments made in the plaint as well as the documents filed on behalf of the plaintiffs in support of their plaints can also be a determinative factor to decide the religious character of the property. The sale deed dated 08.02.1944, executed by Rai Krishna Das and Rai Anand Krishna in favour of Mahamana Pt. Madan Mohan Malviya and others and, the trust deed dated 09.03.1951, creating a trust in the name of Shree Krishna Janmbhoomi Trust by late Jugal Kishore Birla to construct a lofty temple over the property can be taken into consideration during the trial to determine the religious character of the suit property. The documents relating to Suit No. 43 of 1967, the compromise dated 12.10.1968 entered into between the parties in the aforesaid suit, entry in revenue records, facts relating to historical backgrounds as referred to hereinbefore, certain notifications, information obtained through RTI by the plaintiffs, entries in the records of Municipal Corporation of Mathura and Vrindavan are brought on record by the plaintiffs in their respective suits. All these documents are related to the suit property and are in support of the subsequent developments which had taken place from time to time. These documentary evidence can be taken into consideration for determination of the religious character of the property and are subject to evidence led by the parties during the trial.

219. Besides this, excerpts from the historical books, as referred to by the plaintiffs in their plaints, historical essays authored by Sri Jadunath Sarkar, 'Anecdotes of Aurangzeb' and description made by the scribe of Aurangzeb named Saqi Mustad Khan in his book "Massir-i-Alamgiri", seem to be significant literature, which can also be a determinative factor about the religious character of the property.

220. The religious character of the property can only be determined on the basis of the facts and circumstances of the case and on the basis of the evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. There is a rival claim of the parties about the nature and use of the suit property. The defendants claim it to be a mosque, while the plaintiffs claim that since time immemorial, the property has been worshipped as a temple of Lord Shree Krishna.

221. In the present proceedings, the question of religious character is a mixed question of facts and law. This Court is of the opinion that the religious character of the suit property cannot be determined, at this stage. It can only be decided by framing issues on the basis of the pleadings of the parties and after taking oral and documentary evidence to be led during the trial.

222. So far as the arguments of the learned Counsel for the defendants are concerned, it is an admission by the plaintiffs that the suit property is a mosque constructed by Aurangzeb in 1669-70, which is utilized as a mosque ever since and that there is an admission of possession of the defendants over the suit property, the averments made in the respective plaints by the plaintiffs shall also be taken into consideration for determination of the religious character of the suit property.

223. It is averred by the plaintiffs that Shri Brajnabha, the great grandson of Lord Shree Krishna constructed the first temple of Lord Shree Krishna at the Janamasthan about 5000 years ago. Thereafter, it was rebuilt, renovated, demolished from time to time, but the religious character of the property remained as temple. The Hindu devotees continued to offer worship and prayer since then. The historical background and subsequent developments, including several rounds of litigation, which ended in favour of Hindu devotees, holding their title and possession, creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust, performing 'Basoda Puja' at the 'Krishna Koop' to the eastern side of the superstructure, assembly of millions of Hindu devotees everyday to offer prayer and aarti and other religious activities carried out at the birthplace of Lord Shree Krishna, treating it as Garbh Grah, prima facie, indicate about the religious character of the property as a Hindu temple.

224. Section 4(3)(a) of Act of 1991 expressly bars the applicability of the provision of sub-Section (1) and (2) of Section 4, to any place of worship, which is an ancient and historical monument or an archaeological site or remains covered by the Act of 1958 or any other law for the time being in force.

225. Notification No.1465/1133 under the Act of 1904 is brought on record by the plaintiffs. Vide this notification, the portion of Katra mound on which, formerly stood a temple of Keshav Dev which was dismantled and the site is utilized for the mosque of Aurangzeb is declared as ancient monument to be a protected monument. It was further notified that no one shall destroy, remove, alter, or efface, in any manner, or build near the site of monument without any permission obtained from the Government or its Authorized Officer.

226. Prima facie, this notification indicates that in 1920, the property which was an ancient monument was declared to be a protected monument. During the arguments, a list of monuments of national importance of Uttar Pradesh was also brought on record. Serial no.219 of such list referrs to "the portion of Katra mound, which are not in the possession of Nazul tenants on which, formerly stood a temple of Keshav Dev which was dismantled and the site utilized for the mosque of Aurangzeb". Therefore, the bar imposed under section 4(3)(a) of the Act of 1991 for non-applicability of the provisions of the Act, appears to be squarely applicable to the suit property.

227. The above notification indicates the existence of a temple of Keshav Dev prior to its demolition. After the demolition, the site was utilized as the mosque of Aurangzeb. The demolition of the temple of Lord Shree Krishna, during the regime of Aurangzeb, is pleaded by the plaintiffs. It is also to be noted that the defendants did not say anything about the existence of mosque prior to 1669-70, whereas it is the case of the plaintiffs that Sri Brijnabha, the great grandson of Lord Shree Krishna constructed a magnificent temple at the site of Katra Keshav Dev 5000 years ago. Further, the trust deed dated 9.3.1951 clearly corroborates the existence of the temple of Lord Shree Krishna on the property at the time of the creation of the Janmabhoomi Trust.

228. This Court finds substance in the argument of the plaintiffs that the principle of 'first in existence' or 'prior in existence' is the determinative factor for deciding the applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1991. The arguments of learned Senior Counsel, Sri C. S. Vaidyanathan, that 'once a temple, always a temple' is a judicially recognized principle of law and learned Counsel, Sri Satyaveer Singh, that 'resolution always stays alive' (संकल्प हमेशा जिंदा रहता है, और यह कभी मरता नहीं है) are also indicative of the religious character of the property as temple.

229. In U.P. Sunni Central Waqf Board Vs. Ancient Idol of Swayambhoo Lord Vishweshwar, (supra), a Coordinate Bench of this Court observed about the applicability of the Act of 1991, to a place of worship. The relevant paragraphs are extracted here as under:

> 161. Another point canvassed by plaintiffs' counsel to the non-applicability of Section 3, 4 (1) and 4 (2) is on the basis of non obstante clause contained in Sub-Section (3) of Section 4, that Section 4 (1) and 4(2) will not apply to any conversion of place effected before such commencement by acquiescence. The bar contained in Section 3, 4 (1) and 4 (2) is negatived by Sub-Section (3) (d) of Section 4, as the forcible act of Mughal Emperor in demolishing part of temple, and thereafter raising illegal construction would not affect the maintainability of suit.

162. The Act of 1991 is not an absolute bar upon the parties approaching the courts after its enforcement seeking their right as to place of worship or defining religious character of any place of worship. Sub-Section (3) of Section 4 enumerates certain cases in which the parties can approach the court for redressal of their grievance. Sub-Section (3)(d) is one of those case, where conversion has taken place much before the commencement of the Act and a party had not approached the court, the acquiescence or silence would not bar the action of such party.

163. As "religious character" has not been defined under the Act, and the place cannot have dual religious character at the same time, one of a temple or of a mosque, which are adverse to each other. Either the place is a temple or a mosque.

167. Thus, I find that religious character of the disputed place as it existed on 15.08.1947 is to be determined by documentary as well as oral evidence led by both the parties. Unless and until the court adjudicates, the disputed place of worship cannot be called as a temple or mosque.

184. The Act does not define "religious character", and only "conversion" and "place of worship" have been defined under the Act. What will be the religious character of the disputed place can only be arrived by the competent Court after the evidences are led by the parties to the suit. It is a disputed question of fact, as only part and partial relief has been claimed of entire Gyanvapi compound which comprises of settlement plot Nos.9130, 9131 and 9132.

185. Either the Gyanvapi Compound has a Hindu religious character or a Muslim religious character. It can't have dual character at the same time. The religious character has to be ascertained by the Court considering pleadings of the parties, and evidences led in support of pleadings. No conclusion can be reached on the basis of framing of preliminary issue of law. The Act only bars conversion of place of worship, but it does not define or lays down any procedure for determining the religious character of place of worship that existed on 15.08.1947. "

230. Refuting the arguments made on behalf of the defendants that the Act of 1904 was repealed by Section 39 of the Act of 1958, Sri Hari Shanker Jain, learned Counsel submitted that the Act of 1904 was never repealed in view of the provision contained in Section 39(2) of the Act of 1958, which reads thus:

"The Ancient Monuments Preservation Act, 1904, shall cease to have effect in relation to ancient and historical monuments and archaeological sites and remains declared by or under this Act to be of national importance, except as respect to things done or omitted to be done before the commencement of this Act."

(Emphasis supplied)

231. The Court also find sybstance in the argument that the provisions contained in Section 39(2) of the Act of 1958 and entries made in Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India are important aspects to be considered as one of the factors with regard to non-applicability of the provisions of the Act of 1991 over the suit property at this stage.

232. In view of the above discussion, this Court is of the opinion that under the facts and circumstances of the case, the determination of the religious character of the suit property is a mixed question of fact and law. The religious character of the property has to be determined after framing of the issues on the basis of the pleadings of the parties,and after taking documentary and oral evidence to be led by the parties during the trial.

233. This Court is also of the opinion that on the basis of the averments made in the plaints and the documents brought on record and further considering the arguments advanced on behalf of the rival parties, at this stage, the suits of the plaintiffs do not appear to be barred under any provision of the Act of 1991.

(v) Bar under the Waqf Act, 1995:

234. Learned Counsel for the defendants advanced her arguments in two folds. Firstly, the suit property is a waqf property and secondly, being the waqf property, the suits of the plaintiffs are barred under Sections 6, 85 and 108-A of the Act of 1995.

235. During the arguments, learned Counsel filed the copy of Supplement to the Government Gazette Notification dated 26.02.1944, Part VIII, issued by the Secretary, Sunni Central Board of Waqfs, United Provinces, Lucknow. This notification contains list of Sunni Waqf, to which according to the report of the Commissioner of Waqf, the provision of U.P. Muslim Waqfs Act XIII of 1936 applies. The relevant entry from such list is reproduced hereunder:-

Sr. No.	Name of Waqif	Name Present Waqf Mutavalli	Nature of Waqf property
43	Eidgah Masjid Aalmgiri	Abdulla Khan & Fathe Nusrat & Salimulla etc.Deeg Darwaja Dist. Mathura	Eidgah & Masjid etc.

236. On the basis of the aforesaid notification, the learned Counsel vehemently argued that the suit property was notified by the United Province on 26.02.1944 as a waqf property. Names of Mutawalli Abdulla Khan, Fathe Nusrat, Salimulla etc. are mentioned therein. This notification deals with the suit property.

237. It is further contended that according to the provision contained in Section 85 of the Act of 1995, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court, Revenue Court and any other authority in respect of any disputed question or other matter relating to any waqf, waqf property or other matter shall be determined by the Waqf Tribunal. Section 108-A of the Act of 1995, overrides any other law for the time being in force. To bolster her arguments learned Counsel referred to paragraphs no. 42, 45 and 47 of the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rashid Wali Beg vs. Farid Pindari (supra).

238. Per contra, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs rebutted the claim and submitted on behalf of the plaintiffs that the suit property is not a waqf property. The Waqf Tribunal cannot decide a question relating to the nature of the property. Since the suit property is a temple of Lord Shree Krishna since time immemorial, the character of the deity as perpetual minor and its consequence can only be decided by this Court. The above referred notification does not contain any specification of the property such as its area, survey number, description, boundaries, identification etc. It is also submitted that the suit property was never known as 'Idgah Masjid Aalmgiri' and therefore, this notification does not deal with the suit property. All these questions require leading and appreciation of evidence and this issue cannot be decided at this stage.

239. It is also argued on behalf of the plaintiffs that the suit property was never dedicated to 'Aukaf'. Neither a notice was issued nor any inquiry was conducted with the owner of the property, i.e. the deity. Since, no survey was conducted, therefore, no report of such survey was available. The property was always a temple, therefore, it could not be dedicated or vested in a waqf. The temple of Lord Shree Krishna, existing on the land of Katra Keshav Dev, was illegally and forcibly demolished and encroached upon, under the orders of Aurangzeb. Subsequently, a mosque was constructed over the land of the temple. Under these circumstances, the suit property cannot be notified as a waqf property by the above notification. Mandatory compliance with Sections 4, 5 & 6 of the Act of 1995 was not made to constitute a valid waqf. The averments made in the plaint also indicate that suit property was always a place of worship for the Hindu devotees. No entry as 'Shahi Masjid Idgah' was made in the revenue or in municipal records.

240. It is further contended that this notification cannot be considered to be a conclusive proof to demonstrate that the suit property was notified as a waqf property. Particulars of the waqf are not disclosed. The State Government never issued any notification on the basis of the report of the Waqf Board. The U.P. Muslim Act, 1936 was repealed by the U.P. Muslim Waqfs Act, 1960 which was thereafter, repealed by the U.P. (Second) Repealing Act, 2021. Therefore, the waqf list of 1944 is non-est. Whether a property is a waqf property or not, it cannot be decided at this stage without taking the evidence of the parties.

241. The definition of 'Waqf' is provided under Section 3(r) of the Act of 1995. Relevant provisions of the Act of 1995 are extracted hereunder:-

3(r) 'Waqf' means the permanent dedication by any person, of any movable or immovable property for any purpose recognised by the Muslim law as pious, religious or charitable and includes—

(i) a waqf by user but such waqf shall not cease to be a waqf by reason only of the user having ceased irrespective of the period of such cesser;

(ii) a Shamlat Patti, Shamlat Deh, JumlaMalkkan or by any other name entered in a revenue record;

(iii) "grants", including mashrat-ul-khidmat for any purpose recognised by the Muslim law as pious, religious or charitable; and

(iv) a waqf-alal-aulad to the extent to which the property is dedicated for any purpose recognised by Muslim law as pious, religious or charitable, provided when the line of succession fails, the income of the waqf shall be spent for education, development, welfare and such other purposes as recognised by Muslim law, and "waqif" means any person making such dedication;

242. Sections 4 and 5 of the Act of 1995, lay down the procedure for construction of a Waqf. which read thus :-

4. Preliminary survey of auqaf.—

(1) The State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint for the State a Survey Commissioner of Auqaf and as many Additional or Assistant Survey Commissioners of Auqaf as may be necessary for the purpose of making a survey ofauqaf in the State.

(1A) Every State Government shall maintain a list of auqaf referred to in sub-section (1) and the survey of auqaf shall be completed within a period of one year from the date of commencement of the Wakf (Amendment) Act, 2013 (27 of 2013), in case such survey was not done before the commencement of the Wakf (Amendment) Act, 2013:

Provided that where no Survey Commissioner of Waqf has been appointed, a Survey Commissioner for auqaf shall be appointed within three months from the date of such commencement.

(2) All Additional and Assistant Survey Commissioner of Auqaf shall perform their functions under this Act under the general supervision and control of the Survey Commissioner of Auqaf.

(3) The Survey Commissioner shall, after making such inquiry as he may consider necessary, submit his report, in respect of auqaf existing at the date of the commencement of this Act in the State or any part thereof, to the State Government containing the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the number ofauqaf in the State showing the Shia auqaf and Sunniauqafseparately;

(b) the nature and objects of each waqf;

(c) the gross income of the property comprised in each waqf;

(d) the amount of land revenue, cesses, rates and taxes payable in respect of each waqf;

(e) the expenses incurred in the realisation of the income and the pay or other remuneration of the mutawalli of each waqf; and

(f) such other particulars relating to each waqf as may be prescribed.

(4) The Survey Commissioner shall, while making any inquiry, have the same powers as are vested in a civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) in respect of the following matters, namely:—

(a) summoning and examining any witness;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of any document;

(c) requisitioning any public record from any court or office;

(d) issuing commissions for the examination of any witness or accounts;

(e) making any local inspection or local investigation;

(f) such other matters as may be prescribed.

(5) If, during any such inquiry, any dispute arises as to whether a particular waqf is a Shia waqf or Sunni Waqf and there are clear indications in the deed of waqf as to its nature, the dispute shall be decided on the basis of such deed.

(6) The State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, direct the Survey Commissioner to make a second or subsequent survey of waqf properties in the State and the provisions of sub-sections (2), (3), (4) and (5) shall apply to such survey as they apply to a survey directed under sub-section (1):

Provided that no such second or subsequent survey shall be made until the expiry of a period of ten years from the date on which the report in relation to the immediately previous survey was submitted under sub-section (3)

Provided further that the waqf properties already notified shall not be reviewed again in subsequent survey except where the status of such property has been changed in accordance with the provisions of any law.

5. Publication of list of auqaf.—

(1) On receipt of a report under sub-section (3) of section 4, the State Government shall forward a copy of the same to the Board.

(2) The Board shall examine the report forwarded to it under sub-section (1) and fordward it back to the Government within a period of six months for publication in the Official Gazette a list of Sunni auqaf or Shiaauqaf in the State, whether in existence at the commencement of this Act or coming into existence thereafter, to which the report relates, and containing such other particulars as may be prescribed.

(3) The revenue authorities shall—

(i) include the list of auqaf referred to in sub-section (2), while updating the land records; and

(ii) take into consideration the list of auqaf referred to in sub-section (2), while deciding mutation in the land records.

(4) The State Government shall maintain a record of the lists published under sub-section (2) from time to time.

243. Suffice to mention here that if it is assumed that under the notification of 1944, the suit property was notified as a waqf property, then the dispute should have been filed before the Waqf Tribunal in 1964. Institution of Suit No. 43 of 1967 before the Civil Court regarding the property of Katra Keshav Dev and its decision on the basis of the compromise dated 12.10.1968, prima facie, indicate that the property notified as waqf property under the above notification was not the suit property.

244. Perusal of the plaint of Suit No. 43 of 1967 goes to show that the suit was filed against several defendants including 'Trust Masjid Idgah under the alleged Committee of Management consisting of defendants no. 2 to 12 situated at Deeg Darwaza, Mathura'. The suit was filed on 16.05.1964. It clearly shows that the status of Masjid Idgah was addressed as 'trust' and not as a 'waqf property'. If the suit property was notified as waqf property by the notification dated 26.02.1944, the waqf should have been arrayed as one of the defendants.

245. It would not be out of place to mention here that in the present suits, the Waqf board is arrayed as one of the defendant merely because challenge lies to compromise dated 12.10.1968 which was entered by the Committee pursuant to permission accorded by the Waqf board and not because the suit property is admitted to be a waqf property.

246. The defendants have not brought on record any information to corroborate that the suit property was ever called as 'Idgah Masjid Aalmgiri'. Almost all the plaints have described the defendants to be a trust and not as waqf. Even in their application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC, the defendants have not mentioned the waqf number.

247. The present superstructure came into existence on the basis of the compromise dated 12.10.1968. It is also to be taken into consideration that during several rounds of litigation, prior to institution of Suit No. 43 of 1967 nowhere it was pleaded that the suit property was a waqf property.

248. In view of the foregoing observation and the averments made in the plaint, prima facie, it appears that the Notification dated 25.02.1944 does not relate to the suit property. Thus, at this stage it cannot be assumed that the suit property was notified as a 'waqf property' under this Notification.

249. Now I proceed to take up the question of jurisdiction of this Court as raised by learned Counsel for the defendants.

250. The relevant provisions of the Act of 1995 are quoted here as under:-

6. Disputes regarding auqaf.— (1) If any question arises whether a particular property specified as waqf property in the list of auqaf is waqf property or not or whether a waqf specified in such list is a Shia waqf or Sunni waqf, the Board or the mutawalli of the waqf or any person aggrieved may institute a suit in a Tribunal for the decision of the question and the decision of the Tribunal in respect of such matter shall be final:

Provided that no such suit shall be entertained by the Tribunal after the expiry of one year from the date of the publication of the list of auqaf:

Provided further that no suit shall be instituted before the Tribunal in respect of such properties notified in a second or subsequent survey pursuant to the provisions contained in sub-section (6) of section.

... ...

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), no proceeding under this Act in respect of any waqf shall be stayed by reason only of the pendency of any such suit or of any appeal or other proceeding arising out of such suit.

(3) The Survey Commissioner shall not be made a party to any suit under sub-section (1) and no suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against him in respect of anything which is in good faith done or intended to be done in pursuance of this Act or any rules made thereunder.

(4) The list of auqaf shall, unless it is modified in pursuance of a decision of the Tribunal under sub-section (1), be final and conclusive.

(5) On and from the commencement of this Act in a State, no suit or other legal proceeding shall be instituted or commenced in a court in that State in relation to any question referred to in sub-section (1).

...

85. Bar of jurisdiction of civil courts.—No suit or other legal proceeding shall lie in any civil court, revenue court and any other authority in respect of any dispute, question or other matter relating to any waqf, waqf property or other matter which is required by or under this Act to be determined by a Tribunal.*

...

108-A. Act to have overriding effect.—The provisions of this Act shall have overriding effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any instrument having effect by virtue of any law other than this Act.*

251. The learned Counsel for defendants heavily relied upon the judgement of Rashid Wali Beg vs Farid Pindari (supra) and submitted that the jurisdiction to decide every dispute in relation to a waqf property lies only with the Waqf Tribunal and not with the Civil Court.

252. On the contrary, the plaintiffs in their plaint have averred that the suit property has always been a Hindu property. Evidently, the plaintiffs have nowhere acknowledged the existence of any waqf.

253. To fully appreciate the decision rendered in the case Rashid Wali Beg (supra), by the Hon'ble Apex Court, it would be appropriate to extract the relevant paragraphs which read thus :-

4. The case of the first respondent herein-plaintiff was that the suit property originally belonged to one Mirza Abid Ali Beg; that during his lifetime he created a Waqf-al-Aulad; that during his lifetime, Mirza Abid Ali Beg was the mutawalli; that after his lifetime, his elder daughter became the mutawalli; that thereafter, the younger daughter Smt Afzal Jahan Begum became the mutawalli; that the said Afzal Jahan Begum was the grandmother of the plaintiff; that the father of the plaintiff led a wayward life, forcing the grandmother to deliver possession of the property to the plaintiff, authorising him to maintain the properties and utilise the income thereof for the maintenance of the family; that after taking possession, the plaintiff constructed shops on the land and let them out to tenants; that after sometime, the grandmother of the plaintiff appointed the father of the plaintiff as the mutawalli; that there were criminal proceedings between the plaintiff and his father; that on 18-12-2010, the defendants brought building materials and started digging foundation in the land behind the shops, at the instigation of the father of the plaintiff; that though the plaintiff gave a police complaint, they were indifferent, emboldening the defendants to raise a boundary wall in a portion of the land and that, therefore, the plaintiff was constrained to file a suit for mandatory and perpetual injunction.

5. After entering appearance in the suit, the appellant herein who was the first defendant, filed a written statement admitting the existence of the waqf and waqf property. Thereafter, he took out an application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC for rejection of plaint, on the simple ground that the civil court has no jurisdiction to try a suit relating to what is admittedly a waqf property. The said application was allowed by the Civil Judge, Senior Division, Malihabad and the suit was dismissed.

8. Therefore, the only question that arises for our consideration in this appeal is as to whether a suit for permanent injunction in respect of a waqf property is maintainable in a civil court or not."

254. In the above case, it is evident that a written statement admitting the existence of waqf and the waqf property preceded the application under Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC. Therefore, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the only question that arose for their consideration was whether a suit for permanent injunction in respect of a waqf property is maintainable in a Civil Court.

255. After taking into consideration the entire legislative history, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that:-

"32. A cumulative reading of Sections 86, 89 and 90 would show that the bar of jurisdiction under Section 85 is not total and omnipotent and that there may be cases which could still be entertained by civil courts. In fact, Section 93 which prohibits the mutawalli from entering into a compromise with the opposite party in any suit, also refers to "court". Section 93 reads as follows:

"93. Bar to compromise of suits by or against mutawallis.— No suit or proceeding in any court by or against the mutawalli of a waqf relating to title to waqf property or the rights of the mutawalli shall be compromised without the sanction of the Board."

34. In view of the language employed in Sections 83 and 85, coupled with the reference to civil courts in Sections 86, 90 and 93, it appears that the question of bar of jurisdiction of the civil court, has been left by the lawmakers to the vagaries of judicial opinion and this has given rise to conflicting decisions, to some of which, we shall now turn our attention.

57. Thus the Act itself has created some confusion, leaving the rest to the courts to compound the conundrum. Sadly, the Amendment Act 27 of 2013 also did not address the problem fully."

(Emphasis Supplied)

256. Thus, the Hon'ble Apex Court came to a conclusion that there is no absolute bar on the jurisdiction of the Civil Court given the language employed in Section 83 and 85 read with Section 86, 90 and 93 of the Act. Therefore, at this stage, it cannot be concluded that the judgement of Rashid Wali Beg (supra) is applicable to the facts and circumstances of the present case.

257. This Court finds substance in the arguments made by the learned Counsel Sri Hari Shanker Jain that amendment in Section 6 of the Act of 1995, for substituting the phrase 'any person interested therein' with 'any person aggrieved' is prospective in nature and is effective from 01.11.2013.

258. Reliance is placed by the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs on Radha Kishan case (supra) which is a Full Bench decision rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court. The relevant paragraphs are extracted herein below:

> "32. In the present case, the Respondents 1 and 2 who are non-Muslims, contended that they are outside the scope of sub-section (1) of Section 6, and consequently, they have no right to file the suit contemplated by that sub-section and, therefore, the list of wakfs published by the Board of Wakfs under sub-section (2) of Section 5 cannot be final and conclusive against them under sub-section (4) of Section 6. It was urged that Respondents 1 and 2 were wholly outside the purview of sub-section (1) of Section 6 and they must, therefore, necessarily fall outside the scope of the enquiry envisaged by sub-section (1) of Section 4, as the provisions contained in Sections 4, 5 and 6 form part of an integrated scheme. The question that arises for consideration, therefore, is as to who are the parties that could be taken to be concerned in a proceeding under sub-section (1) of Section 6 of the Act, and whether the list published under sub-section (2) of Section 5 declaring certain property to be wakf property, would bind a person who is neither a mutawalli nor a person interested in the wakf.
>
> 33. The answer to these questions must turn on the true meaning and construction of the word "therein" in the expression "any person interested therein" appearing in sub-section (1) of Section 6. In order to understand the meaning of the word "therein" in our view, it is necessary to refer to the preceding words 'the Board or the mutawalli of the wakf'. The word 'therein' must necessarily refer to the "wakf" which immediately precedes it. It cannot refer to the "wakf property". Sub-section (1) of Section 6 enumerates the persons who can file suits and also the questions in respect of which such suits can be filed. In enumerating the persons who are empowered to file suits under this provision, only the Board, the mutawalli of the wakf, and "any person interested therein", thereby necessarily meaning any person interested in the waqf, are listed. It should be borne in mind that the Act deals with wakfs, its institutions and its properties. It would, therefore, be logical and reasonable to infer that its provisions empower only those who are interested in the wakfs, to institute suits.

39. It follows that where a stranger who is a non-Muslim and is in possession of a certain property his right, title and interest therein cannot be put in jeopardy merely because the property is included in the list. Such a person is not required to file a suit for a declaration of his title within a period of one year. The special rule of limitation laid down in proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 6 is not applicable to him. In other words, the list published by the Board of Wakfs under sub-section (2) of Section 5 can be challenged by him by filing a suit for declaration of title even after the expiry of the period of one year, if the necessity of filing such suit arises".

(Emphasis Supplied)

259. In Salim Muslim Burial Ground Protection Committee vs. State of Tamilnadu and others (supra), it is observed that:

" 32. A plain reading of the provisions of the above two Acts would reveal that the notification under Section 5 of both the Acts declaring the list of the wakfs shall only be published after completion of the process as laid down under Section 4 of the above Acts, which provides for two surveys, settlement of disputes arising thereto and the submission of the report to the State Government and to the Board. Therefore, conducting of the surveys before declaring a property a wakf property is a sine qua non. In the case at hand, there is no material or evidence on record that before issuing notification under Section 5 of the Wakf Act, 1954, any procedure or the survey was conducted as contemplated by Section 4 of the Act. In the absence of such a material, the mere issuance of the notification under Section 5 of the Act would not constitute a valid wakf in respect of the suit land. Therefore, the notification dated 29.04.1959 is not a conclusive proof of the fact that the suit land is a wakf property. It is for this reason probably that the appellant Committee had never pressed the said notification into service up till 1999".

(Emphasis Supplied)

260. In Punjab Waqf Board vs. Shyam Singh Harika (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that:

"28. This Court noticed in the aforesaid judgment that there is a cleavage in the judicial opinion expressed on the question of jurisdiction of the Wakf Tribunal by the different High Courts in the country. High Courts have taken the view that jurisdiction of the Wakf Tribunal is wide enough to entertain and adjudicate upon all kinds of disputes which relate to any wakf property

"24. … A plain reading of the above would show that the civil court's jurisdiction is excluded only in cases where the matter in dispute is required under the Act to be determined by the Tribunal. The words "which is required by or under this Act to be determined by a Tribunal" holds the key to the question whether or not all disputes concerning the wakf or wakf property stand excluded from the jurisdiction of the civil court.

28. Section 85 of the Act clearly bars jurisdiction of the civil courts to entertain any suit or proceedings in relation to orders passed by or proceedings that may be commenced before the Tribunal. It follows that although Section 85 is wider than what is contained in Sections 6 and 7 of the Act, the exclusion of jurisdiction of the civil courts even under Section 85 is not absolute. It is limited only to matters that are required by the Act to be determined by a Tribunal. So long as the dispute or question raised before the civil court does not fall within the four corners of the powers vested in the Tribunal, the jurisdiction of the former to entertain a suit or proceedings in relation to any such question cannot be said to be barred."

... ...

33. After the judgment of this Court in Ramesh Gobindram [Ramesh Gobindram v. Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, (2010) 8 SCC 726 : there are several two-Judge judgments of this Court either following Ramesh Gobindram judgment or distinguishing the same on one or other reasons. This Court in Bhanwar Lal v. Rajasthan Board of Muslim Wakf elaborately noticed the judgment of Ramesh Gobindram case. This Court ultimately in the facts of that case held that since the suit was filed much before the enforcement of the Act i.e. 1-1-1996, in view of the dictum laid down in Sardar Khan v. Syed Najmul Hasan, (2007) 10 SCC 727] , the civil court where the suit was filed shall continue to have jurisdiction. In para 30 following has been laid down:-

"30. The suit is for cancellation of sale deed, rent and for possession as well as rendition of accounts and for removal of trustees. However, pleadings in the suit are not filed before us and, therefore, the exact nature of relief claimed as well as the averments made in the plaint or written statements are not known to us. We are making these remarks for the reason that some of the reliefs claimed in the suit appeared to be falling within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal whereas for other reliefs the civil court would be competent. Going by the ratio of Ramesh Gobindram, suit for possession and rent is to be tried by the civil court. However, the suit pertaining to removal of trustees and rendition of accounts would fall within the domain of the Tribunal. Insofar as relief of cancellation of sale deed is concerned this is to be tried by the civil court for the reason that it is not covered by Section 6 or 7 of the Act whereby any jurisdiction is conferred upon the Tribunal to decide such an issue. Moreover, relief of possession, which can be given by the civil court, depends upon the question as to whether the sale deed is valid or not. Thus, the issues of sale deed and possession are inextricably mixed with each other. We have made these observations to clarify the legal position. Insofar as the present case is concerned, since the suit was filed much before the Act came into force, going by the dicta laid down in Sardar Khan case, it is the civil court where the suit was filed will continue to have the jurisdiction over the issue and the civil court would be competent to decide the same."

(Emphasis Supplied)

261. In view of the above, it appears that the Waqf Tribunal has no jurisdiction to decide the issues involved in the present suits. Since, there is no admission on the part of the plaintiffs that the suit property is a waqf property, therefore, question of jurisdiction does not arise at this stage.

262. Documentary evidence corroborating the averments made in plaints are brought on record by the plaintiffs. Whereas, except for the Notification dated 25.02.1944, no other evidence is filed by the defendants. The evidence filed by the plaintiffs and the notification filed by the defendants are subject to evidence to be led by the parties during the trial.

263. It is also to be noted that the sale deed dated 8.2.1944 and trust deed dated 9.3.1951 are more than 30 years old documents. Therefore, as per Section 90 of the Evidence Act, 1872, their genuineness may be presumed, unless rebutted by the defendants.

264. In view of the above, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, averments made in the plaint and the legal proposition referred by the rival parties, it cannot be assumed that the suit property is a waqf property. All the facts and circumstances of the case are subject to appreciation of oral and documentary evidence to be led by the parties during the trial. Therefore, at this stage I am of the view that the suits are not barred under any provision of the Act of 1995.

(vi) Bar under the Specific Relief Act, 1963:

265. Mrs. Tasneem Ahmadi, learned Counsel for the defendants submitted that the suits of the plaintiffs are barred by Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963. The plaintiffs did not seek the relief of possession in their plaints. It is an admission on part of the plaintiffs they are not in possession over the suit property. Present suits have been filed for granting a decree for declaration and injunction. Mere declaration of title is not enough. Since no relief for delivery of possession is sought, therefore, relief of injunction cannot be granted. The ancillary relief claimed by the plaintiffs does not fall under the provisions of Sections 5 and 6 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963.

266. Per contra, it is submitted on behalf of the plaintiffs that the suit property is a temple and idol is in constructive possession at all times. The plaintiffs have claimed relief that the suits of the plaintiffs be decreed against the defendants directing them to remove the illegal constructions raised by them, encroaching upon the land within the area of Katra Keshav Dev, Mathura and to hand over vacant possession to the Janmabhoomi Trust within the time provided by the Court.

267. Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 provides that:-

34. Discretion of court as to declaration of status or right.

'Any person entitled to any legal character, or to any right as to any property, may institute a suit against any person denying, or interested to deny, his title to such character or right, and the court may in its discretion make therein a declaration that he is so entitled, and the plaintiff need not in such suit ask for any further relief:

Provided that no court shall make any such declaration where the plaintiff, being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so."

268. Perusal of the plaints goes to show that the plaintiffs nowhere have admitted lawful possession of the defendants over the suit property. It is the case of the plaintiffs that pursuant to illegal, fraudulent and void ab initio compromise dated 12.10.1968, two bigha land, within the area of Katra Keshav Dev, which was a part of the temple, was conceded to the defendant. Suit No. 43 of 1967 was filed on the basis of fraud and misrepresentation. Therefore, the decree was also based on fraud and misrepresentation. It was obtained to defeat the interest of the deity. Hence, any illegal construction carried out pursuant to the compromise dated 12.10.1968 is not admitted to the plaintiffs.

269. Perusal of the relief clauses of the respective plaints reveals that the relief of decree of mandatory injunction is claimed by the plaintiffs. It is also claimed that the defendants be directed to remove the constructions raised by them as shown in the site plan within the area of Katra Keshav Dev, Mathura and to hand over vacant possession to the Janmabhoomi Trust. Applicable Court fee is also paid by the plaintiffs for this relief.

270. As per the averments made in the plaints, the plaintiffs claim that they were in possession since time immemorial and mere demolition of the temple by the intruders, did not result in their ouster as they contined to be in possession over the suit property from time to time and from regime to regime. The defendants claim the existence of the mosque only from 1669, when Aurangzeb constructed the mosque over the suit property.

271. It is to be taken into consideration that Aurangzeb did not construct the mosque on the vacant land. It is the case of the plaintiffs that Aurangzeb partially demolished the temple and constructed a superstructure, which is called as Shahi Masjid Idgah. The defendants did not claim their possession prior to 1669. In contrast, the plaintiffs have averred in their respective plaints that Brijnabha, the great grandson of Lord Shree Krishna constructed a temple at Katra Keshav Dev 5000 years ago.

272. The plaintiffs have claimed the relief for cancellation of judgement and decree dated 20.07.1973 and judgment and decree dated 07.11.1974 passed in Suit No. 43 of 1967. Therefore, it cannot be assumed that the plaintiffs have admitted the lawful possession of the defendants over the suit property.

273. The constructive possession of the deity over the land from the time immemorial and the legality and validity of the compromise dated 12.10.1968 are questions of fact that can only be proved by the evidence to be led during the trial. The question that the suits of the plaintiffs are barred by Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act,1963 can only be decided after framing a proper issues on the basis of the pleadings of the parties during the trial after taking and appreciating evidence led by the parties. What relief can and can not be granted has to be decided by this Court on the basis of the pleadings and evidence available on record. Beside this, the plaintiffs have claimed several reliefs such as cancellation, declaration, mandatory injunction as well as for possession which are subject to evidence to be led during the trial. The question whether the suit is barred by Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act,1963 cannot be decided at this stage without taking and appreciating the evidence of the parties to be led during the trial.

274. In view of the foregoing discussions, in my opinion, it appears that the suits of the plaintiffs are not barred by provisions of Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act,1963.

Conclusion:

275. On reading of the plaints as a whole and in a meaningful manner, perusal of the material placed on records, consideration of the arguments advanced by the rival parties, and settled legal propositions, I conclude that the plaints in all the suits of the plaintiffs disclose a cause of action and they do not appear to be barred by any provisions of the Waqf Act, 1995; the Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991; the Specific Relief Act, 1963; the Limitation Act, 1963 and Order XIII Rule 3A of the Code of Civil Procedure Code, 1908.

276. Therefore, the applications for rejection of plaints moved by defendants no.1 and 2 in respective suits, numbered as A-17, A-18 and A-37 in OSUT No.01 of 2023; C-57 and C-69 in OSUT No.02 of 2023; C-20 and C-45 in OSUT No.04 of 2023; 14-Ka and A-14 in OSUT No.05 of 2023; A-20, A-30 and A-32 in OSUT No.06 of 2023; A-16 and A-39 in OSUT No.07 of 2023; A-21, A-22 and C-23 in OSUT No.09 of 2023; A-9 in OSUT No.11 of 2023; C-30 and C-49 in OSUT No.12 of 2023; C-36 and A-46 in OSUT No.13 of 2023; C-18 and C-23 in OSUT No.14 of 2023; C-12 and C-22 in OSUT No.15 of 2023; A-7, A-17 and A-18 in OSUT No.16 of 2023; A-14 in OSUT No.17 of 2023; and A-7 in OSUT No.18 of 2023, are liable to be rejected.

277. Accordingly, all the aforesaid applications are hereby rejected.

278. Valuable assistance rendered by my Research Associate, Ms Varnika Srivastava, is appreciated.

279. Put up on 12.8.2024 at 2:00 pm, for issues.

(Paras 22, 23, 26, 27 and 28)

HELD:

The bone of contention is whether it was open for the St. Government to have made the fifth respondent regular on 18.07.2006 post enforcement of the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officer Service Rules, 2004 on the face of the provisions contained under Rule 3(k) of Rules, 2004. Evidently, at the time when the fifth respondent was appointed as Engineer on ad hoc basis on 17.10.1992 against the temporary post created of Engineer on 30.03.1992, there were no statutory rules in force, meaning thereby, that the selections and the condition of services were to be governed by Government Orders issued from time to time. Apparently, the posts which were temporary in nature for a Ltd. period till 28.02.1993 vide Government Order dated 30.03.1992 was made permanent on 14.10.1998 which stands recited in the Government Order dated 06.11.1998. The fifth respondent prior to the enforcement of the 2004 Rules was made regular on 29.11.2000. Though the Rule 3(h) defines member of service, a person substantively appointed under the rules or the rules or orders in force prior to commencement of the rules to the post in the cadre of the service and Rule 3(k), substantive appointment means an appointment not being an ad hoc appointment on the post in the cadre of the service made after selection in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by the executive instructions issued by the Government. However, the same would not in any manner whatsoever invalidate any proceedings or action taken by the St. Government while conferring benefit particularly when the 2004 rules came into effect from 12.07.2004. (Para 22)

A Division Bench of this Court in the case of Anil Kumar Verma Vs U.P. St. Industrial Development Corp. Ltd. 2014 (8) ADJ 152 had exercised its jurisdiction while issuing a writ of quo warranto setting aside the appointment/promotion of a Chief Engineer in U.P. St. Industrial Development Corp.. (Para 27)

Nevertheless we are of the firm opinion that the selection, appointment and promotion of the fifth respondent on the post of Engineer, Deputy Director, Superintending Engineer and Additional Charge as Chief Engineer is in consonance and conformity with the Statutory Rules and the Government Orders issued from time to time and the writ petitioner has miserably failed to show any illegality committed by the respondents.(Para 28)

Petition dismissed. (E-14)

1. Heard Shri Rakesh Pandey, Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Umesh Vats, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Manish Goyal, learned AAG and Shri A.K. Goyal, learned counsel for the State-Respondents as well as Shri Shobit Mohan Shukla and Shri Shashi Prakash Rai, learned counsel for Respondent No. 5.

2. A joint statement has been made by the learned counsels for the rival parties that the pleadings have been exchanged and they do not propose to file any further affidavits and the writ petition be decided at the fresh stage. With the consent of the parties, the writ petition is being decided at the first stage.

Facts:

3. The fact of the case as discernible from the record are that the State Government in order to review the functioning of the Zila Panchayat and to strengthen them issued a Government Order dated 30.03.1992 constituting "Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell" for reviewing and monitoring the financial and physical achievements of Zila Parishads and Zila Panchayats of the State of Uttar Pradesh. In order to man the Monitoring Cell, several posts were created namely, three post of Deputy Director, two posts of Engineer, two posts of Karya Adhikari, two posts of Senior Clerk, three post of Stenographer and one post of Peon. Since the Monitoring Cell was newly born thus post which stood sanctioned was temporary for the period till 28.02.1993. In order to regulate the procedure for the selections of the incumbents who were to man the newly created post, the State Government issued an office order dated 01.04.1992. As regards, the posts of engineer which were two in number is concerned, the same was to be filled through a selection committee constituted by the State Government from the eligible candidates who had the qualification of Bachelor of Engineering (Civil). The fifth respondent after being subjected to the selections conducted by the selection committee was issued an appointment order dated 17.10.1992 appointing him on the post of Engineer (Civil) on ad hoc basis in the pay scale of Rs. 2200-75-2800 EB 100-4000.

4. Pleadings reveal that the proceedings were initiated for making the temporary post as permanent, on 14.10.1998 with the concurrence Governor of the State of Uttar Pradesh, an order came to be issued according approval for making the temporary posts which stood created by virtue of the Government order dated 30.03.1992 as permanent. Thereafter on 29.11.2000, an office order came to be issued by the Deputy Secretary, Panchayati Raj Anubhag-II, Uttar Pradesh, U.P. Government wherein the fifth respondent along with 9 others were made regular. In the meantime in exercise of the powers conferred by proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India, the Rules by the name of "Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officers Service Rules, 2004" (in short 'Rule 2004') came to be enacted which was gazetted on 12.07.2004, Rule 5 of the said Rules provided for recruitment, according to which, the post of Deputy Director was to be filled up 33-1/2 % by promotion through the selection committee from amongst substantively appointed engineer who had completed eight years of service as such on the first day of the recruitment, 33-1/2 % by promotion through selection committee from amongst substantively appointed Karya Adhikari who had completed 8 years of service as such on the first day of recruitment and 33-1/2% by promotion through the selection committee from amongst substantively appointed medical officers who have completed eight years of service on the first day of recruitment. As regards, the post of engineer, the same was to be filled up by direct recruitment through Commission. On 18.07.2006 an order came to be passed by the Principal Secretary/ Chief Secretary Panchayati Raj Civil Secretariat, U.P. Lucknow whereby the fifth respondent services was made regular while substituting the word "ad hoc" as recited in the order dated 17.10.1992 as 'regular'. On 25.02.2013, an order came to be passed by the Principal Secretary/ Additional Chief Secretary Panchayati Raj Civil Secretariat, U.P. Lucknow whereby the fifth respondent was accorded promotion on the post of Deputy Director in the pay scale of Rs. 15600-33100 GP 6600.

5. On 10.04.2023, the State Government in exercise of the powers conferred under Rule 4 (1) of the Rules, 2004 proceeded to restructure the cadres while converting the post of Deputy Director (Technical) to the post of Executive Engineer (Civil) and two post of Medical Officer and one post of Deputy Director, Medical Officer was surrendered and in its place, one post of Superintending Engineer (Civil) and one post of Chief Engineer (Level-II) was created. On 30.06.2023, the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officers (first Amendment) Service Rules, 2023 (in short 'Amendment Rules, 2023') came to be notified amending the 2004 Rules, whereby one post of Chief Engineer (Civil), one post of Superintending Engineer (Civil), two post of Executive Engineer (Civil) one post of Deputy Director (Karya Adhikari), two post of Engineer and two post of Karya Adhikari was created. Rule 5 also stood amended whereby for recruitment on the post of Executive Engineer (Civil), the same was to be made by promotion through selection committee amongst substantively appointed Engineer of Zilla Panchayat Monitoring Cell who have completed at least 7 years of service as such on the first day of recruitment, Superintending Engineering (civil) by promotion through selection committee from amongst substantively appointed Executive Engineer of Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officers Cadre who have completed total 15 years of substantive service on the first day of the year of recruitment including minimum 6 years of service as Executive Engineer followed by Chief Engineer (Level-II), by promotion through selection committee from amongst substantively appointed Superintending Engineer on the first day of selection year who have completed a total of 25 years of substantive service Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officers Cadre. The fifth respondent thereafter by virtue of an order dated 14.07.2023 was promoted on the post of Superintending Engineer (Civil) in the pay scale of Rs. 1,23,100-2,15,900 (Pay Matrix Level 13) on probation till 31.08.2024 followed by an order on the same day whereby he was assigned additional charge of Chief Engineer (Civil) (Level-II) without any monetary benefits. The fifth respondent is stated to superannuate on 31.08.2024.

6. The writ petitioner herein who claims to be elected as a member of Zila Panchayat, Etawah and continuing since July, 2021 has filed the present Public Interest Litigation (Writ of Quo Warranto) seeking following reliefs:

> "A. Issue writ, order or direction in the nature of Quo Warranto to declare the appointment of respondent No.5 Shri Arvind Kumar Rai as Deputy Director, Superintending Engineer & Chief Engineer in the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell, Lucknow as void ab initio.
>
> B. Issue any other appropriate writ, direction and order directing the respondents to recover from respondent No.5 Shri Arvind Kumar Rai all consequential benefits of the post with retrospective effect that have been extended to him by virtue of his illegal appointments on the post of Deputy Director, Superintending Engineer and Chief Engineer in the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell, Cell, Lucknow.
>
> C. Issue a writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem just and proper in the nature and circumstances of the case.
>
> D. To award the cost of the writ petition."

7. The present writ petition was entertained on 15.05.2024 while issuing notice to the fifth respondent and seeking response from the respondents.

8. A counter affidavit has been filed by the State official respondents as well as the Respondent No. 5 and supplementary counter affidavit has also been filed to which rejoinder affidavits have been filed.

Argument of learned counsels for the writ petitioner

9. Shri Rakesh Pandey, Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Umesh Vats, learned counsel for the writ petitioner has sought to argue that the appointment of fifth respondent, Arvind Kumar Rai as Deputy Director, Superintending Engineer & Chief Engineer in the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell, Lucknow is void ab initio inasmuch as the entire selection criteria has been tailored in order to confer undue benefits upon him. Elaborating the said submission, it is being sought to be argued that the appointment of the fifth respondent on the post of Engineer in the Monitoring Cell was on Ad hoc basis that too against a temporary post which was to be in existence till 28.02.1993 from the issuance of the Government order dated 30.03.1992. It is submitted that in the year 2004, the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officers Service Rules, 2004 came to be enforced and in view of Rule 3(k), the appointment of the fifth respondent by no stretch of imagination can be said to be legal as appointment was made on ad hoc basis and thus there was no question of making him regular on 18.07.2006. It is also contended that once the fifth respondent was made regular on the post of Engineer (civil) on 18.07.2006 then, 8 years of substantive service was required for being promoted on the post of Deputy Director whereas on 25.02.2013 when the fifth respondent granted promotion on the post of Deputy Director, he did not have 8 years of substantive service. It is also submitted that on 10.04.2023, an office order came to be issued for restructuring of the cadre strength of various posts but there was no post sanctioned as Deputy Director (Technical) while converting the same as Executive Engineer (Civil) giving a room to the fifth respondent thus, it is a classic example of undue favouritism. It is also the submission of learned Senior Counsel for the writ petitioner that Rules were amended in order to confer undue benefit to the fifth respondent whereby the post of Superintending Engineer (Civil) and post of Chief Engineer (Civil) was created and thereafter promotion was accorded to the fifth respondent on 14.07.2023 on the post of Superintending Engineer (Civil) and in order to perpetuate illegality, a dedicated avenue of promotion was created in favour of the fifth respondent while giving him the additional charge of Chief Engineer (Civil) Level-II in order to promote him on regular basis while dispensing with the minimum working as Superintending Engineer (Civil) while making it 25 years of substantive service in the Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officers Cadre. In nutshell, the submission is that at different stages manoeuvring and manipulating has been done in order to give unjust benefits to the fifth respondent as the Rules have been framed in order to suit the circumstances which would be in favour of the fifth respondent. During the course of the argument, a document has been forwarded to the Court dated 23.08.2024 whereby charge has been handed over to the fifth respondent on the post of Chief Engineer (Civil) (Level II).

11. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgement in the case of Gambhirdan K. Gadhvi v. State of Gujarat, 2022 (5) SCC 179, Professor (Dr.) Sreejith P.S. v. Dr. Rajasree M.S., 2022 (4) SCT 711 and the judgment in the case of Premchandran Keezhoth and Ors. v. The Chancellor Kannur University and Ors., AIR 2024 SC 135 so as to contend that a writ of quo warranto is maintainable, in case, the appointment is void ab initio and a person who is usurping the post has no authority under law to hold the same. It is, therefore, prayed that the writ petition be allowed in toto and appointment of the fifth respondent be set aside.

Argument of the learned counsel for the respondent

12. Countering the submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner, Shri Manish Goyal, learned AAG assisted by Shri A.K. Goyal for the State-respondents has sought to argue that the Public Interest Litigation couched as writ of quo warranto is not maintainable since the fifth respondent does not hold a public office. It is also submitted that the present writ petition is actuated by malicious intent other than bona fide, particularly, in view of the fact that the writ petitioner as per his own saying is the member of the Zila Panchayat, Etawah and being aggrieved against the monitoring being done with regard to the affairs of the Zila Panchayat it became a basis for filing of the present writ petition. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgement in the case of B. Srinivasa Reddy v. Karnataka Urban Water Supply & Drainage Board Employees' Assn. And Others, 2006 (11) SCC 731, Central Electricity Supply Utility of Odisha v. Dhobei Sahoo and Others, 2014 (1) SCC 161 and Arun Kumar Agrawal v. Union of India and Others, 2014 (2) 609 so as to contend that the present proceedings are not maintainable at the behest of the writ petitioner. On merits, it has been submitted that the entire pleadings set forth in the writ petition at the instance of the writ petitioner, centres around favouritism and manoeuvring in order to give undue benefits to the fifth respondent, however, the records explicitly depicts that the Monitoring Cell stood created on administrative exigency on 30.03.1992 whereby besides the post of Engineer various other posts were created followed by the modalities, according to which, selections were to be made for various posts on 01.04.1992 and in the line with the same, the fifth respondent after being subjected to selection committee was accorded appointment on the post of Engineer on ad hoc basis on 17.10.1992 and on 14.10.1998, the temporary post stood converted into regular and on 06.11.1998, a Government order also came to be issued in that regard pursuant whereto on 29.11.2000, the fifth respondent along with others were made regular and post enactment of the 2004 Rules after completing 8 years of service as Engineer, the fifth respondent was promoted on the post of Deputy Director on 25.02.2013.

13. Owing to the need for cadre restructuring which is permissible in view of Rule 4(1) of the 2004, Rules, the cadre restructuring was done whereby consequent to the surrendering of certain post, the post of Executive Engineer, Superintending Engineer (Civil) and Chief Engineer Level-II was created and after the enforcement of Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell, Gazetted Officers (First Amendment), Rules 2023, the fifth respondent was granted promotion post completion of 6 years of service as Executive Engineer on the post of Superintending Engineer (civil) on 14.07.2023 and since he was senior-most on the post on completion of 25 years of substantive service in the Monitoring Cell, he was assigned the additional charge of Chief Engineer Level II without any monetary benefits.

14. Submission is that in absence of challenge to the Statutory Rules/ Government Order/ Appointment and promotion orders issued in favour of the fifth respondent, the writ petitioner cannot succeed, particularly, when the orders and the Rules are intra vires and within the competence of the State Government issued in administrative exigencies which is unquestionable.

15 . Additionally, it has been argued that the fifth respondent is to superannuate on 31.08.2024 and it is not a case wherein the writ petitioner was not aware about the movement of the fifth respondent as he being the member of the Zila Panchayat since 2021 cannot be said to be ignorant in this regard.

16. Lastly, it has been contended that it is the domain and the province of the State Government to create avenues from promotion and to accord placement and once it is not the case of the writ petitioner that the fifth respondent does not possess eligibility/ qualification then the entire challenge sans merit. Therefore, the writ petition be dismissed.

Argument of learned counsel for respondent No. 5

17. Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla along with Sri Shashi Prakash Rai, have adopted the arguments of learned AAG while adding that there is no illegality in selection, appointment and promotion of the fifth respondent on the post of Engineer, Deputy Director, Superintending Engineer and Chief Engineer (Level-II). It is also submitted that whatever benefits have been extended to the fifth respondent they are as per the statutory rules and the Government Orders issued from time to time and in absence of challenge to the same, the writ petitioner is not entitled for any relief.

18. Before delving into the tenability of the arguments of the rival parties, it would be apposite to quote the Government Order/office order and the statutory rules:

Analysis

19. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record carefully.

20. The facts are not in issue. It is not in dispute that the Monitoring Cell came to be created by virtue of the Government Order dated 30.03.1992 for reviewing the financial and the physical achievements and to have control over the Zila Panchayat. It is also not in dispute that several posts stood created including the post of Deputy Director (three in number) and Engineer (two in number) respectively. In order to regulate the procedure according to which selections are to be made for various posts an office order came to be issued on 01.04.1992 with respect to various posts including Engineer (two posts) to be filled through selection committee amongst the candidates who have to their credit their Bachelor of Engineering (Civil).

21. Records reveal that the fifth respondent faced the selection Committee and he was accorded appointment on the post of Engineer on ad hoc basis in the pay scale of Rs. 2200-75-2800-ev-100-4000. On 14.10.1998, the State Government declared the post which were to be made temporary pursuant to the Government Order dated 30.03.1992 to be regular and a Government Order also came to be issued on 06.11.1998. On 29.11.2000, the fifth respondent was made regular along with the others on the post of Engineer thereafter, the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cells Gazetted Officer Service Rules, 2004 came to be gazetted on 12.07.2004. A consequential order was passed in favour of the fifth respondent on 18.07.2006 whereby the word "ad hoc basis" was substituted with the word ‘regular’ implying that the fifth respondent was made regular.

22. The bone of contention is whether it was open for the State Government to have made the fifth respondent regular on 18.07.2006 post enforcement of the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officer Service Rules, 2004 on the face of the provisions contained under Rule 3(k) of Rules, 2004. Evidently, at the time when the fifth respondent was appointed as Engineer on ad hoc basis on 17.10.1992 against the temporary post created of Engineer on 30.03.1992, there were no statutory rules in force, meaning thereby, that the selections and the condition of services were to be governed by Government Orders issued from time to time. Apparently, the posts which were temporary in nature for a limited period till 28.02.1993 vide Government Order dated 30.03.1992 was made permanent on 14.10.1998 which stands recited in the Government Order dated 06.11.1998. The fifth respondent prior to the enforcement of the 2004 Rules was made regular on 29.11.2000. Though the Rule 3(h) defines member of service, a person substantively appointed under the rules or the rules or orders in force prior to commencement of the rules to the post in the cadre of the service and Rule 3(k), substantive appointment means an appointment not being an ad hoc appointment on the post in the cadre of the service made after selection in accordance with the procedure prescribed for the time being by the executive instructions issued by the Government. However, the same would not in any manner whatsoever invalidate any proceedings or action taken by the State Government while conferring benefit particularly when the 2004 rules came into effect from 12.07.2004.

23. To put it otherwise, the law does not contemplate vacuum as in case, there is no statutory rules then the Government Orders would govern the condition of the services. As regards the challenge raised to the promotion of the fifth respondent on the post of Deputy Director is concerned, the same is meritless inasmuch once the appointment of the fifth respondent on the post of Engineer followed by according regular status has not been questioned, then the benefits which will flow from Rule 5(1) of the 2004 Rules, for promotion on the post of Deputy Director after completing 8 years of service as Engineer. The entire challenge has been based upon the fact that the fifth respondent was accorded regular status on 18.07.2006 and, thus, he did not complete 8 years of substantive service while being accorded promotion as Deputy Director on 25.02.2013. The said argument is fallacious as the fifth respondent was accorded regular status on 29.11.2000 and the said document was not placed on record with the writ petition, however, it stood available on record only by means of a counter affidavit filed by the State-respondents treating the date 29.11.2000 as the date of regular status accorded to the fifth respondent, the natural consequences would be that in view of Rule 5(1) of the 2004 rules the fifth respondent becomes eligible for being promoted as Deputy Director.

24. With regard to the submissions advanced on behalf of the writ petitioner that the promotion accorded to the fifth respondent on the post of Superintendent Engineer (Civil) is tailor made just in order to give undue benefits while framing the rules to suit him is also thoroughly misplaced particularly when the State Government in terms of Rule 4 of the 2004 rules is competent to re-structure the cadre while varying the cadre strength of different post. It is not necessary that Rules are to be framed, however, the same can be done through administrative Orders as the same is an exigency which is required as and when the same stands occasioned. On 10.04.2023 an office order came to be issued by the State Government whereby for the various posts Executive Engineer and Chief Engineer Level-II cadre re-structuring was done whereby the post of Deputy Director (Technical) was converted into the post of Executive Engineer (Civil) and two posts of Medical Officer and one post of Deputy Director, Medical Officer was surrendered and in its place a post of Superintendent Engineer (Civil) and Chief Engineer (Level-II) was created. Since the fifth respondent had to his credit substantive service of more than 15 years as an Executive Engineer of the Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officer cadre and out of which 6 years as Executive Engineer, the fifth respondent was accorded promotion as Superintendent Engineer (Civil) on 14.07.2003 and thereafter accorded additional charge as Chief Engineer (Level-II) without monetary benefits in the wake of the fact that he had 25 years of substantive service in Zila Panchayat Monitoring Cell Gazetted Officer as per the amendments made in the Amendment Rules, 2023. Neither the 2004 rules nor the 2023 amendment rules have been questioned in the present writ petition. Nonetheless this Court is not required to intervene and come to the rescue of the writ petitioner particularly when there is no challenge to the competency of the State Government in issuing Government Orders and the statutory rules in question.

25. As regards the contention raised on behalf of the writ petitioner that the office order dated 10.04.2023 speaks of the post of Deputy Director (Technical) which is not a sanctioned post is concerned, the same is also of no merit particularly when the factum of the creation of the post of Deputy Director (Technical) stood noticed in the proceedings initiated by the writ petitioner questioning the promotion of one Sri Praveen Kumar in Writ Petition No. 3966(S/B) of 2016 (Arvind Kumar Rai Vs. State of U.P. decided on 04.10.2016 against which review is also stood dismissed on 29.11.2018. This Court does not find it appropriate to delve into the said issue particularly when the issue regarding the appointment of the fifth respondent and claim for promotion as Deputy Director stood noticed in the said writ petition.

26. So far as the contention raised by the learned counsel for the respondents that the present proceedings which have been titled as public interest litigation couched as writ of quo warranto is not maintainable as the fifth respondent does not hold a public office suffice it to say that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Renu and others Vs. District and Sessions Judge, Tis Hazari Courts, Delhi and another reported in 2020 (14) SCC 50 wherein the following was observed.-

> "Where any such appointments are made, they can be challenged in the court of law. The quo warranto proceeding affords a judicial remedy by which any person, who holds an independent substantive public office or franchise or liberty, is called upon to show by what right he holds the said office, franchise or liberty, so that his title to it may be duly determined, and in case the finding is that the holder of the office has no title, he would be ousted from that office by judicial order. In other words, the procedure of quo warranto gives the judiciary a weapon to control the executive from making appointment to public office against law and to protect a citizen from being deprived of public office to which he has a right. These proceedings also tend to protect the public from usurpers of public office who might be allowed to continue either with the connivance of the executive or by reason of its apathy. It will, thus, be seen that before a person can effectively claim a writ of quo warrant, he has to satisfy the court that the office in question is a public office and is held by a usurper without legal authority, and that inevitably would lead to an enquiry as to whether the appointment of the alleged usurper has been made in accordance with law or not. For issuance of writ of quo warranto, the Court has to satisfy that the appointment is contrary to the statutory rules and the person holding the post has no right to hold it. (Vide University of Mysore v. C.D. Govinda Rao, Kumar Padma Prasad v. Union of India, B.R. Kapur v. State of T.N., Mor Modern Coop. Transport Society Ltd. v. State of Haryana, Arun Singh v. State of Bihar, Hari BanshLal v. Sahodar Prasad Mahto and Central Electricity Supply Utility of Odisha v. Dhobei Sahoo."

27 A Division Bench of this Court in the case of Anil Kumar Verma Vs. U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation Ltd. 2014 (8) ADJ 152 had exercised its jurisdiction while issuing a writ of quo warranto setting aside the appointment/promotion of a Chief Engineer in U.P. State Industrial Development Corporation.

28. Nevertheless we are of the firm opinion that the selection, appointment and promotion of the fifth respondent on the post of Engineer, Deputy Director, Superintending Engineer and Additional Charge as Chief Engineer is in consonance and conformity with the Statutory Rules and the Government Orders issued from time to time and the writ petitioner has miserably failed to show any illegality committed by the respondents.

29. Accordingly, the writ petition being devoid of merits is liable to be dismissed and is dismissed.

THE HON'BLE SHEKHAR B. SARAF, J.

Sale/Trade Tax Revision No. 274 of 2018
With other connected cases

The Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. Lucknow ...Revisionist
Versus
M/S Emami Ltd. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Mr. Manish Goyal, Addl. A.G. assisted by Mr. Bipin Kumar Pandey, Addl. C.S.C.

Counsel for the Respondent:
Mr. S.K. Bagaria, Sr. Advocate assisted by Mr. Kumar Ajit Singh & Mr. Rahul Agarwal

A. Tax Law – Classification – The Uttar Pradesh Value Added Tax Act, 2008- Section 58 - All the revision petitions involve the common question of law as to whether, under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Commercial Tax Tribunal was legally justified in holding that Boro-Plus Antiseptic Cream (hereinafter referred to as the 'BPAC') is a medicated ointment and covered under entry no. 41 of Schedule II Part (A).

There is a stark difference between chargeability and exemption. It is to be noted that in the event of chargeability, the interpretation favouring the Assessee needs to be adopted, while in the case of exemption, the position is the opposite. If two views are possible in interpreting a charging section, the one favouring the Assessee needs to be adopted. (Para 24, 27)

The onus to prove the chargeability of a particular item in a provision other than the provision chosen by the Assessee falls squarely on the revenue. The burden of proof shifts on the Revenue to show a particular item is taxable in the manner claimed by them. (Para 25, 28)

In present case, the revenue's argument that the inclusion of medicated ointment as a drug and cosmetic under Entry 41 of Schedule 11 of the Act is an exemption is completely misplaced. It is to be noted that whether BPAC falls within Entry 41 is in relation to chargeability in a particular schedule and not that of an exemption. It is trite law that an item would be classified as a residuary item only when it does not fall in any other classification. In the present case, using tools of interpretation, the Tribunal has categorically held that BPAC would fall within Entry 41 of Schedule II. The burden of proof was upon the revenue to indicate that the said classification made by the Tribunal was absolutely incorrect and without any basis in law. (Para 28)

In legal and administrative proceedings, the burden of proof is a fundamental principle that ensures fairness. When the Revenue seeks to reclassify goods, it must provide evidence that substantiates its position. Here, the Department's inability to produce any evidence suggests either a lack of basis for their claim or a failure in their administrative processes. Thereby, the Department's claim for reclassification lacks credibility and cannot be upheld. (Para 29)

B. Marketing or advertising cannot dictate tax classification. Objective assessment is placed over subjective interpretation. It is not on the basis of what the petitioner advertises to attract customers that its liability to pay duty under a particular tariff item be fastened. The same can only be set on the facts and the circumstances and determination on the basis of those facts and circumstances as disclosed by the records. (Para 35)

In the present case, the Revenue's argument that the Respondent itself markets BPAC as an 'antiseptic cream' is not a sound argument. Marketing or advertising of a product, while influential in shaping consumer perceptions and driving sales, cannot and should not determine the classification of a product for taxing purposes. Taxation laws and regulations have been designed to categorise products based on their intrinsic properties, intended use, and the benefits they provide rather than the promotional strategies employed by manufacturers. Advertising, by nature, is aimed at emphasising certain attributes of a product to attract consumers, which may include both factual information and marketing hyperbole. Thereby, relying on advertising alone to classify a product would lead to inconsistent and potentially misleading tax categorisations, as marketing strategies can vary widely between companies and over time.

The Respondent successfully demonstrated before the authorities that BPAC is fundamentally a medicated ointment. This conclusion was reached through detailed evidence that relied upon the composition, properties, and therapeutic benefits of BPAC. This left no room for doubt about BPAC's classification as a medicated ointment, which is essential for its appropriate tax treatment under Entry 41. These details go on to establish BPAC as a medicated ointment because they offer a factual basis for its classification, independent of any advertising claims. (Para 21, 34)

C. Scope of revisional jurisdiction - The scope of revisional jurisdictional, is primarily focused on questions of law, jurisdictional errors, or procedural irregularities. The High Court, in a revision petition, must refrain from engaging in a de novo inquiry into factual matters already adjudicated upon by the Tribunal unless compelling grounds warranting such intervention are made. It is well settled that the Tribunal is the last fact-finding body and that this Court, in revision, would not go into an enquiry with regard to the factual aspects that have been decided by the Tribunal. In the exercise of revisional jurisdiction, the High Court has a Ltd. mandate, which is confined to only the questions of law and not the questions of fact. (Para 39, 40, 42)

The concept of perversity in legal contexts refers to a situation where a decision or finding is so unreasonable or contrary to the evidence that no reasonable person could have arrived at it. When dealing with administrative and judicial reviews, including tax and regulatory matters, perversity is a crucial ground upon which decisions can be challenged or revised. However, for perversity to be successfully invoked, certain legal thresholds and evidentiary standards must be met. Here, the Revenue has not articulated any specific grounds of perversity in its pleadings or submissions. (Para 43)

D. Simply disagreeing with the Tribunal's decision without substantiating such disagreement with concrete evidence or legal arguments does not meet the threshold for invoking perversity. Perversity would require demonstrating that the Tribunal's findings were not based on a rational assessment of the evidence or that they ignored relevant legal principles or material facts. Neither was any evidence produced by the Department before the assessing officer, Commissioner, Commercial Tax and the Tribunal nor was any evidence produced before this Court to controvert the evidence produced by the respondents. (Para 43)

E. Importance of interpreting legislative provisions as a whole, ensuring that both inclusive and exclusive clauses are harmonised. This aspect in particular is indispensable when it comes to understanding 20 Entry 41, where the conjunction "but" introduces an exception, which specifically includes medicated ointments regardless of the exclusion of other similar products. (Para 9)

F. Words and Phrases – (1) "but" - The conjunction "but" serves as an important tool to ensure certain items remain within the regulatory framework despite general exclusions. In the instant case, Entry 41 delineates the scope of products classified under drugs and medicines, specifically excluding certain items such as medicated soap, shampoo, antiseptic cream, face cream, massage cream, eye gel, and hair oil. However, it explicitly includes "medicated ointments", among other items like vaccines, syringes, and dressings. A careful construction of Entry 41 showcases a deliberate legislative intent to classify products based on their medicinal properties and usage, establishing that specific therapeutic items are included for beneficial tax treatment. The clear separation of excluded and included items brings out the distinct nature and purpose of the products, with "medicated ointments" being recognised for their essential therapeutic roles. (Para 10)

The term "but" is used to place forward an exception to the preceding exclusions, implying that although several items have been excluded, medicated ointments are specifically included here. "But", in Entry 41, is parallel with terms like "expect", "nevertheless", and "however," which indicate an exception to the list of exclusions preceding the same. (Para 11, 12)

(2) Principle of noscitur a sociis - This expression simply means that "the meaning of a word is to be judged by the company it keeps." This principle suggests that the meaning of a word is known from the accompanying words, implying that the context provided by surrounding terms can clarify ambiguous expressions. In Entry 41, the inclusion of items like medicated soaps, shampoos, face creams, and massage creams, all of which are cosmetics and toilet preparations, provides a clear context for interpreting "antiseptic cream." This interpretation ensures consistency and avoids any arbitrary or inconsistent classification that might arise from interpreting "antiseptic cream" in isolation. (Para 13)

Taking into consideration on the above rules of interpretation, specifically in relation to taxing statutes, it can be St.d that even though antiseptic creams are excluded from Entry 41, medicated ointments would be included due to the use of the word "but". The word "but" is a clear indication that the legislature intended to include, as an exception, medical ointment, even though certain medicated ointments may be categorised as antiseptic creams. If a product is more than just an antiseptic cream and qualifies as a medicated ointment, it will be included in Entry 41. (Para 15)

Present revision petitions have been preferred by The Commissioner, Commercial Tax (hereinafter referred to as the 'Revisionist') u/s 58 of the U.P.V.A.T., 2008 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') against the orders dated June 8, 2018, October 8, 2018, October 8, 2018, July 17, 2020, November 1, 2022, and April 28, 2023, passed by the Commercial Tax Tribunal, U.P., Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as the 'Tribunal').

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. The instant revision petitions have been preferred by The Commissioner, Commercial Tax (hereinafter referred to as the 'Revisionist') under Section 58 of the Uttar Pradesh Value Added Tax, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') against the orders dated June 8, 2018, October 8, 2018, October 8, 2018, July 17, 2020, November 1, 2022, and April 28, 2023, passed by the Commercial Tax Tribunal, U.P., Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as the 'Tribunal'). All the revision petitions involve the common question of law as to whether, under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Commercial Tax Tribunal was legally justified in holding that Boro-Plus Antiseptic Cream (hereinafter referred to as the 'BPAC') is a medicated ointment and covered under entry no. 41 of Schedule II Part (A).

2. As the issue involved in all the revision petitions is common, the said petitions are being decided by a common order.

3. The factual matrix in all the revision applications is also similar. Accordingly, I have outlined the factual matrix of only one case (STRE No. 274 of 2018) below:

a. The instant revision petition pertains to the rate of tax to be levied on the sale of BPAC.

b. The Assessing Authority in the instant case had levied tax on BPAC at the rate of 14% after categorising it as an 'unclassified item'.

c. Being aggrieved by the aforesaid assessment order passed by the Assessing Authority, M/s Emami Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the 'Respondent') preferred an appeal before the First Appellate Authority which was dismissed vide order dated July 26, 2016.

d. The Respondent then filed an appeal before the Tribunal which was allowed vide order dated June 8, 2018. The Tribunal held that BPAC falls within the category of 'medicated ointment' and hence is liable to be taxed at the rate of 5% under the heading 'drugs and medicines' in Entry 41 Schedule II.

e. Hence, the instant revision petition has been preferred by the Revisionist against the order dated June 8, 2018, passed by the Tribunal.

CONTENTIONS BY THE REVISIONIST

4. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Revisionist has made the following submissions:

a. BPAC has been sold by the Respondent for a long time, and prior to 2018, it has always been assessed as a cosmetic by this Court. Reliance is placed upon the judgments of this Court in M/s. Balaji Agency -v- Commissioner of Sales Tax, U.P. reported in 1994 (19)-STJ-150, M/s. Paras Pharmaceuticals Limited -v- Commissioner, Trade Tax, U.P. Lucknow reported in 2007-NTN-(Vol-33)-313, and Commissioner Commercial Taxes U.P. -v- Singhal Bros. Hathras, reported in 2006 (43) STR 579.

b. The instant matter relates to the assessment year 2012-13. With effect from October 11, 2012, antiseptic cream has been excluded from the entry of 'drug and medicines' in Entry 41 Schedule II. Therefore, it is liable to be classified and taxed as an 'unclassified item'.

c. This Court on a previous occasion has held that BPAC is a medicament. The commodity is being sold by the Respondent as an antiseptic cream and the legislature has excluded antiseptic cream from the category of 'drugs and medicines'.

d. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. -v- Assistant Commissioner (CT) INT LTU Secunderabad Division, Hyderabad and Anr. reported in 2017 (106) VST 97 has held that the goods referred to in an 'exclusion clause' are to be excluded from the ambit of that entry. Furthermore, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Commissioner of Central Excise, Nagpur -v- Sri Baidyanath Ayurved Bhawan Ltd., reported in 2009 (12) SCC 419, has held that a specific entry must prevail over a general entry.

e. In the instant case, BPAC has been specifically excluded from Entry No. 41 and hence it is liable to be taxed as an 'unclassified item'.

f. Efforts of the Respondent are to reduce the rate of tax by arguing that BPAC is to be classified as a 'medicated ointment'. However, the Respondent itself sells BPAC as an antiseptic cream and advertises the same on electronic media as an antiseptic cream.

g. The respondent has specifically advertised that "Millions of users believe in Boroplus- India's number one antiseptic cream…". According to the respondent, the fact that BPAC is a 'medicated ointment' is not advertised or mentioned.

h. The Tribunal has wrongly concluded that the authorities below have ignored the contents mentioned in the drug licence and have decided the classification of BPAC based on the prescription on the packet.

i. Common parlance has always been accepted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court for the determination of nature and character of goods. BPAC is being purchased by the consumers for its regular use without any prescription of the doctor. Consumers never use it to cure any disease. On the other hand, a 'medicated ointment' is always used for an ailment and its use comes to the end when the ailment comes to the end. Hence, BPAC cannot be held to be a 'medicated ointment'.

j. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in CTT -v- Kartos International Ltd. reported in 2011 NTN (Vol 146) 17 has held that classification of any commodity cannot be made on its scientific and technical meaning. It is only the common parlance meaning of the commodity which should be taken into consideration for the purpose of determining the tax liability.

k. The Tribunal has held that if the Revenue wants to classify any product in a particular entry, the burden of proof lies with the Revenue. This observation is against the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Commissioner of Customs (Import) Mumbai -v- M/s. Dilip Kumar and Company and Ors., reported in 2018 (9) SCC 1, wherein it was propounded that if any exemption or reduction is claimed, the burden shifts on the Assessee to prove the basis for claiming the said exemption or reduction. Therefore, the burden of proof falls on the Respondent in the instant case.

l. Once the legislature had consciously excluded antiseptic cream from the category of 'drugs and medicines' then the fact that the commodity has been manufactured after obtaining a drug license does not matter. Consumers purchase a good after looking at its use and consumption, not the conditions mentioned in the drug license.

m. The First Appellate Authority has rightly pointed out that survey report has been obtained by the Respondent on his own from a little local area despite the fact that BPAC is sold throughout the State. At the time of survey, no information was given to the Department.

n. In Heinz India Pvt. Ltd. -v- State of Kerala and Ors. reported in (2017) 104 VST 292 (Ker), the Kerala High Court has held that since medicated talcum powder has been included in the category of cosmetic, it is to be taxed as a cosmetic and not as a medicine although it is a medicated talcum powder.

o. This Court in M/s. Hamdard Waqf Laboratories -v- Commissioner of Commercial Tax reported in 2018 NTN (67) 160 has held that at the time of determining the rate of tax, common parlance test as well as trade understanding and popular meaning of goods is a determining factor.

p. The High Court of Rajasthan in M/s. Johnson and Johnson Ltd. -v- Commercial Tax Officer reported in (2017) 105 VST 227 has held that for the purpose of levy of tax under sales tax law or value added tax law, classification under central excise is not binding nor the manufacturing of goods under drug license is binding.

q. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Baidyanath Ayurved (supra) held that 'Baidyanath Dant Manjan' is liable to be taxed as an unclassified item even though the same was manufactured under a drug license issued by the competent authority.

r. In the instant case, antiseptic cream has been excluded from the schedule and hence the same is liable for taxation as an 'unclassified item'.

s. Once the product that is 'antiseptic cream' stood excluded from Part-A of Schedule – II and did not fall either in Schedule – I or Schedule – III or Schedule – IV or in any other entry of Schedule – II in either Part-A or Part-B, the product 'antiseptic cream' was thus classified under Schedule – V in terms of Section 4(1)(d) of the Act by the Revenue.

t. There is a clear diversion made by the legislature which is for a definitive purpose. The classification entry was amended in terms of Section 4 of the Act whereby 'antiseptic cream' was specifically excluded. The Revisionist discharged its burden by placing on record the fact that there has been amendment in the schedule and this fact was duly noted by the Assessing Officer, Appellate Authority and the Tribunal. The Revisionist has established that it has taken the product out from the ambit of a particular classification. The burden of the Revisionist thus stood discharged, and therefore, all the authorities cited by the Respondent to the effect that the Revisionist did not discharge its burden of classification are of no relevance.

u. It is also necessary to note that exclusion is of a specific product that is 'antiseptic cream' which is not being considered by the legislature as a drug or medicine. 'Antiseptic cream' is a specialised entry, which has been excluded from the entry of drugs and medicines and hence it cannot be included in the general entry of medicated ointment. 'Medicated ointment' is a term of general import whereas the term 'antiseptic cream' is very specific. The term of general import then will give way to the term of specific import. Tested on the touchstone of the principle 'generalia specialibus non derogant', 'antiseptic cream' will prevail over the general term 'medicated ointment' and under the circumstances the whole entry is to be read and cannot be dissected in the manner the Respondent wants it to be read. Therefore, drugs and medicines exclude 'antiseptic cream' even though there are other medicated ointments on the market that may be included under drug or a medicine.

v. It is a settled principle of law that no word of legislature can be made otiose through judicial interpretation. If the legislature has employed a certain term it is to be given its due meaning and the entry has to be read plainly as it stands. The cardinal principle of interpretation is that words are to be given their clear and plain meaning as they stand in the statute.

w. If the Respondent's argument is accepted then the term 'antiseptic cream' will become redundant as it will be included in 'medicated ointment'. Under the circumstances, applying the principles of interpretation, Entry 41 of Part-A of Schedule-II of the Act is to be read as it stands and 'antiseptic cream' stands excluded from Entry 41 even though it includes other medicated ointments. Reliance is placed upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Balram Kumawat -v- Union of India and Ors. reported in (2003) 7 SCC 628, M.T. Khan and Ors. -v- Govt. of A.P. and Ors. reported in (2004) 2 SCC 267, Union of India and Anr. -v- Hansoli Devi and Ors. reported in (2002) 7 SCC 273, and State of Gujarat -v- Patel Ramjibhai Dana reported in (1979) (3) SCC 347 and the judgment of the Privy Council in Quebec Railway, Light Heat and Power Co. Ltd. -v- Vandry and Ors. reported in AIR (1920) PC 181.

x. In the instant case, the Respondent is claiming to be classified under Part-A of Schedule-II of the Act and is claiming to be covered under Entry-41 whereas it stands already classified under Schedule-V of the Act. As a consequence, the Respondent is claiming to be entitled to pay a reduced rate of tax by taking aid of the fact that it falls under a different head. Where the Assessee claims to pay a lower rate of tax, the burden falls on the Assessee to establish that they are liable to pay a lower rate of tax under a different head. Therefore, the primary burden is to be discharged by the Respondent in the instant case and not by the Revenue.

y. The Respondent never put to challenge the amendment introduced by the notification dated October 10, 2012 by filing a separate writ petition. Therefore, the notification dated October 10, 2012 by which the amendment was made by the state legislature remains operative and is binding on the Respondent.

z. There is a difference between exemption and classification. Under Section 7 of the Act, the provisions for exemption are contained and the goods that stand exempted find due mention in Schedule – I of the Act. Classification and exemptions are two different aspects but when it comes to exemption and payment of reduced rate of tax, the principles applicable would be the same namely the burden will be on Assessee to claim payment at a reduced rate of tax. Reliance is placed on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Commissioner of Customs (Import), Mumbai -v- Dilip Kumar and Company and Ors. (supra), Triveni Glass Limited -v- Commissioner of Trade Tax, U.P. reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1295, Heinz India Limited -v- State of Kerala reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 561, and Commissioner of Central Excise -v- Shree Baidyanath Ayurved Bhawan (supra).

aa. The order passed by the Tribunal suffers from perversity in as much as it relies upon extraneous material and does not take into consideration any material as prescribed under the law. Hence the finding holding BPAC to be an ointment is perverse.

ab. BPAC fails to qualify as an Ayurvedic drug and also fails to qualify as a patented or proprietary medicine. In light of the non-consideration of the same, the order of the Tribunal is rendered perverse.

ac. Instead of considering compliance with the requirements prescribed by law for a product to qualify as an Ayurvedic Drug or a patented or proprietary medicine, the Tribunal has instead erroneously relied upon extraneous and irrelevant material that was produced by the Respondent to support its claim.

ad. When the statute itself provided for authoritative texts that were to be relied upon along with the requirements that were to be satisfied by the Assessee, the Tribunal was bound to analyse the claim of the Respondent strictly in accordance with these statutory requirements.

ae. The Tribunal was bound by Article 144 of the Constitution of India and while applying the twin test it was supposed to consider the authoritative texts relating to Ayurvedic Drug or Ayurvedic proprietary medicine. The said principle could not have been deviated from by the Commercial Tax Tribunal. Reliance in this regard is placed upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kantaru Rajeevaru (Sabarimala Temple Review – 5J) -v- Indian Young Lawyers Assn. reported in (2020) 2 SCC 1, Spencer & Co. Ltd. -v- Vishwadarshan Distributors (P) Ltd. reported in (1995) 1 SCC 259, and State of Karnataka -v- State of T.N. reported in (2016) 10 SCC 617.

af. The core issue is that whether from the evidence that was led by the Respondent with respect to BPAC, the formulation was antiseptic or not. There is no discussion by the Tribunal of the formulation of an antiseptic. For qualifying as a drug or medicine it is antiseptic quality or its properties that are to be considered as relevant factors. The vehicle to carry antiseptic property or quality will be irrelevant. It is a well-known fact that all ointments are creams but all creams are not ointments. However, no finding in this regard has been returned by nor any evidence has been led before the Tribunal. For common parlance, 'antiseptic' is not understood as medicine.

ag. The proper approach in the instant case would be to remand the matter and give opportunity to both the parties to bring fresh material on record and to lead evidence so that proper conclusion may be drawn by the Tribunal. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of the High Court of Uttarakhand in Cadbury India Ltd. -v- Commissioner, Commercial Tax, Uttarakhand reported in 2019(65) GSTR-283 wherein in a nearly identical situation, the High Court of Uttarakhand had remanded the matter to the tribunal.

ah. In view of the aforesaid contentions, the instant Revision is prayed to be allowed.

CONTENTIONS BY THE RESPONDENT

5. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the Respondent has made the following submissions:

a. BPAC is manufactured by the respondent under Ayurvedic system of medicine under a drug license issued by the Drug Licensing Authority under the provisions of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Drugs Act') and the Drugs Rules, 1945 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Drugs Rules').

b. All raw materials used in the manufacture of BPAC are mentioned in the authoritative books on Ayurvedic system of medicine specified in the 1st schedule to the Drugs Act. In the Drug License, details of all ingredients along with their medicinal properties and names of authoritative Ayurvedic books are mentioned.

c. The composition and packing of BPAC was also approved by the designated statutory authority which administers and regulates the Drugs Act. The Drug License inter alia mentioned the following:

"Product Name: Boroplus Healthy Skin Antiseptic Cream

(For External Use only)

Category: Ointment – Ayurvedic Medicine

Ayurvedic Raw Materials, their botanical names, quantities Curing/medicinal properties of each raw material

Book Reference (name and page number of concerned authoritative book)

Direction of Use"

d. On the tubes/packs of BPAC, the product name Boroplus Healthy Skin Antiseptic Cream is mentioned. It is further declared as under:

"Ayurvedic Medicine Ointment. FOR EXTERNAL USE ONLY"

"A preventive, curative and healing Ayurvedic ointment for dry skin diseases, cuts, scratches, minor burns, wounds, cold sores, chapped skin, furuncle, impetigo and intertrigo."

e. The label also contains the pictorial illustration of various medicinal uses of the product viz., moisturises the skin, cures minor cuts and wounds, protects skin from dryness, heals cracked foot, softens chapped skin and lips and prevents nappy rash.

f. By the amendment dated October 11, 2012, antiseptic cream was excluded from drugs and medicines but medicated ointment was included. Thus, the entry made a distinction between antiseptic cream and medicated ointment. The Tribunal considered meaning of both the said expressions and held that from the evidence it was clear that antiseptic cream and medicated ointment have different characteristics. In the drug licence also, BPAC was categorised as "ointment – Ayurvedic medicine".

g. As per the expert evidence of Shri Loknath Pramanik (formerly Additional Director, Drugs Control and Member, Pharmacist Council of India), BPAC is "an ointment with approximately 67% oil ingredient and 10% water content and the balance being active ingredients and excipients. Moreover, BPAC is occlusive in nature which is the property of an ointment". As per various authoritative publications such as British Pharmacopoeia, International Journal of Pharmaceutics, Remington's Pharmaceutical Manufacturing (Part V) and other publications cream and ointment are two different items. Comparatively, in cream the quantity of water is much more whereas in ointment the quantity of water is much less as compared to the quantity of oil. Due to this reason, cream spreads easily on the skin and skin absorbs the same quickly and easily. As against this, ointment is a greasy product and does not spread on the skin easily nor is it absorbed easily by the skin.

h. As per the drug licence of BPAC, the quantity of oil is much more than the quantity of water and it has been specifically categorised as "ointment". It has already been established in the earlier proceedings that BPAC is a medicine having all the required drugs and properties of medicine. Consequently, the said product is a "medicated ointment" and is classifiable under Entry 41.

i. The findings about nature and characteristics of BPAC were given by the Additional Commissioner (Appeal) and the Tribunal relied on undisputed and uncontroverted documents and evidence produced by the Respondent. The Revenue did not produce any evidence whatsoever to the contrary. The Tribunal's findings in the order dated June 8, 2018 and in other orders following the said order, were pure findings of fact and these were given on appreciation of documents and evidence on record and the same does not give rise to any question of law so as to warrant interference of this Court under Section 58 of the Act. Reliance is placed on the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Collector of Customs v. Swastic Woollens (P) Ltd. reported in 1988 Supp SCC 796.

j. Entry 41 excludes 7 named items, that is, medicated soap, shampoo, antiseptic cream, face cream, massage cream, eye jell and hair oil. Immediately after such exclusion, the entry says "but including …….medicated ointments". The said entry 41 has to be read as a whole and no part thereof can be rendered meaningless or otiose. The entry after excluding some items, uses the conjunction "but" and then specifically includes "medicated ointments". On plain and unambiguous language, the entry provides that irrespective of exclusions, medicated ointment is included. The expression "but" is synonymous with "except" or "nevertheless" and is by way of exception to what has gone before. It clearly indicates that what follows the said expression is an exception to that which has gone before. Consequently, on a plain reading of the entry itself, medicated ointment is specifically covered and "taken in" under the said Entry 41. This construction also follows from the normal dictionary meanings of the expression "but" which are "nevertheless, however, except, with the exception of, excepting that, yet, still" etc. Reliance is placed upon the judgement of the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sardar Gurmej Singh versus Sardar Pratap Singh Kairon reported in AIR 1960 SC 122.

k. Drugs and medicines may be of hundreds of types and varieties. These may also be available in various forms for external use and application. Such drugs and medicines have not been excluded from Entry 41. On the other hand, medicated ointment is specifically covered by the entry. It was never the intention in amending Entry 41 to exclude any drugs and medicines simply due to their being in the form of an ointment. The expression "medicated ointment" is not qualified and it covers all types and varieties of medicated ointments. Nothing is excluded from the scope and ambit of "medicated ointment". If the goods are medicated ointment, these may have various medicinal properties and some of these may be antiseptic in nature but due to any such reason, these do not cease to be "medicated ointment". No such limitation or restriction can be imposed on the expression "medicated ointment" used in Entry 41. The entry cannot be amended or recast by the Departmental authorities.

l. Without prejudice to the aforesaid, it is submitted that in any case, the expression antiseptic cream in the said exclusion category in Entry 41 is to be read ejusdem generis with other excluded items such as medicated soaps or shampoo or antiseptic cream or face cream or massage cream etc. which are all primarily cosmetics and toilet preparations. The principles of ejusdem generis as well as noscitur a sociis squarely apply to the said exclusion clause which comprises different items mentioned above in which a common thread is running through all such excluded items, namely, that these are primarily cosmetics and toilet preparations. In support of this submission reliance is placed on the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rohit Pulp and Paper Mills vs CCE reported in (1990) 3 SCC 447.

m. The dispute in the instant case relates to classification of goods for the purposes of applying the rate of tax. It is not a case of any exemption from tax or interpretation of any exemption notification. As per the Respondent, BPAC is classifiable under Entry 41 of Schedule II whereas according to the Department it is classifiable under the residuary entry as unclassified item under Schedule V. Both the said schedules carry different rates of tax. Classification is a matter of chargeability. If the Department intends to classify the goods differently than that claimed by the Assessee, burden of proof is squarely upon the Department. In the instant case, in support of its submissions about the goods being covered by Entry 41, voluminous evidence was produced by the Respondent and nothing was controverted by the Department by producing any evidence. The Department did not produce any evidence at all and the burden of proof was not discharged by it. Reliance is placed upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in HPL Chemicals Ltd. -v- CCE reported in (2006) 5 SCC 208, State of MP -v- Marico Industries reported in (2016) 14 SCC 103, Hindustan Ferrodo -v- CCE reported in (1997) 2 SCC 677, and Union of India -v- Garware Nylons reported in (1996) 10 SCC 413.

n. Notifications issued under provisions fixing rate of tax are not exemption notifications but are charging provision and this legal position is also covered by the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Commissioner, Trade Tax, UP -v- National Cereal reported in (2005) 3 SCC 366.

o. Strictly without prejudice to the aforesaid, even assuming that two views are possible relating to classification of BPAC, since it is a matter of chargeability, the view favourable to the Assessee is to be applied. The position is however different in relation to interpretation of exemption notifications which is not the position in the present case. This principle of law was recently reiterated by the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Commissioner of Customs -v- Dilip Kumar & Co. reported in (2018) 9 SCC 1.

p. Principles relating to classification of Ayurvedic drugs and medicines are well settled by the judgements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The twin tests are as to whether the commodity is known as a medicament in common parlance and as to whether the ingredients used in the product are mentioned in the authoritative Ayurvedic books. Both the said tests are satisfied in respect of BPAC. In support of common parlance test, the respondent produced a whole lot of documents and evidence including certificates and affidavits from medical shops, Ayurvedic doctors, dermatologists, hospitals and dispensaries, consumers, survey reports, clinical trial reports, communications from Government of India, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare. The respondent also produced writings on the tube and packing of the said product clearly declaring it to be Ayurvedic medicated ointment. Therapeutic and curative properties of the goods are clear from the drug license and other materials mentioned including the certificates and affidavits of doctors and medical practitioners. All the ingredients of the product are mentioned in authoritative Ayurvedic books mentioned in the Schedule I to the Drugs Act. It is also well settled that the factors such as there being no requirement of a prescription or availability of the goods across the counter in the shops or percentage of active ingredients are not material.

q. The goods have always been marketed by the respondent as medicament and by emphasising the medicinal properties. On each tube and pack, the goods are described as "Ayurvedic medicine - ointment", and their healing, curative and prophylactic properties and details of the ailments for which it can be used are mentioned. It is clearly declared that it is "a preventive, curative and healing Ayurvedic ointment" for various diseases and ailments, as mentioned on the tube. Voluminous evidence was produced in support of the submission that in common parlance, BPAC is treated, regarded and dealt with as a medicament.

r. As per the respondent, tax cannot be levied by the revisionist merely on the basis of the suggestive aspect of the picture found in the label. Reliance has been placed on the judgement of the Bombay High Court in the case of M/s Blue Star -v- UOI reported in 1980 (6) ELT 280, where it was held that it is not on the basis of what the petitioner advertises to attract customers that its liability to pay duty under a particular tariff item be fastened. The same can only be set on the facts and the circumstances, and determination on the basis of those facts and circumstances as disclosed by the records.

s. The proposition that specific entry will prevail over general entry is not in dispute. However, no such issue arises in the instant case. In the instant case, there is no competition between a specific entry and a general entry. On the other hand, even though the goods are covered by Entry 41 by specific inclusion, the Revenue seeks to classify the goods under residual entry in Schedule V of the Act. Thus, the issue is that when there is a specific entry covering the goods, whether the residual entry can at all be invoked and the legal position in this regard is well settled by the judgements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

t. In light of the aforesaid, the instant revision petition needs to be dismissed by this Court.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

6. I have heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties and perused the materials on record.

7. First and foremost, the issue lies at the centre of the instant dispute is with regard to the statutory interpretation of Entry 41 to Schedule II of the Act.

8. Entry 41, as effective from October 11, 2012, reads as follows:

> "Drugs and Medicines excluding medicated soap, shampoo, antiseptic cream*, face cream, massage cream, eye jel and hair oil* but including vaccines, syringes and dressings, medicated ointments*, light liquid paraffin of IP grade; Chooran; sugar pills for medicinal use in homeopathy; human blood components; C.A.P.D. Fluid; Cyclosporin."*

9. In the case of Sardar Gurmej Singh (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court shed light on the importance of interpreting legislative provisions as a whole, ensuring that both inclusive and exclusive clauses are harmonised. This aspect in particular is indispensable when it comes to understanding Entry 41, where the conjunction "but" introduces an exception, which specifically includes medicated ointments regardless of the exclusion of other similar products. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

> "5. It is an elementary rule that construction of a section is to be made of all the parts together and not of one part only by itself, and that phrases are to be construed according to the rules of grammar. So construed the meaning of the clause is fairly clear. The genus is the "revenue officer", and the "including" and "excluding" clauses connected by the conjunction "but" show that the village accountants are included in the group of revenue officers, but the other village officers are excluded therefrom. If X includes A but excludes B, it may simply mean that X takes in A but ejects B. It is not necessary in this case to consider whether the inclusive definition enlarges the meaning of the words "revenue officers", or makes them explicit and clear viz. that the enumerated officers are within the fold of "revenue officers"; for in either construction the village accountants would be revenue officers. But we cannot accept the argument that what is excluded was not part of that from which it is excluded, and that lambardars were not revenue officers and yet had to be excluded by way of abundant caution. If so, it follows that the village officers, who included lambardars, were excluded from the group of revenue officers, with the result that they are freed from the disqualification imposed by the provisions of the said clause."

10. The Supreme Court in Sardar Gurmej Singh (supra) further stated that the use of the conjunction "but" serves as an important tool to ensure certain items remain within the regulatory framework despite general exclusions. In the instant case, Entry 41 delineates the scope of products classified under drugs and medicines, specifically excluding certain items such as medicated soap, shampoo, antiseptic cream, face cream, massage cream, eye gel, and hair oil. However, it explicitly includes "medicated ointments", among other items like vaccines, syringes, and dressings. A careful construction of Entry 41 showcases a deliberate legislative intent to classify products based on their medicinal properties and usage, establishing that specific therapeutic items are included for beneficial tax treatment. The clear separation of excluded and included items brings out the distinct nature and purpose of the products, with "medicated ointments" being recognised for their essential therapeutic roles.

11. It is important to understand that the conjunction "but" has been used in Entry 41 not only because of a mere linguistic choice but because it is a vital factor with regard to delineating inclusions and exclusions within the same legislative framework. The term "but" is used to place forward an exception to the preceding exclusions, implying that although several items have been excluded, medicated ointments are specifically included here. This construction in particular makes it evident that the exclusion of antiseptic creams does not unintentionally exclude products with similar applications but different compositions and therapeutic intents, such as medicated ointments.

12. The term "but" has played an important role in legislative language wherein it has introduced exceptions and elucidated the scope of regulatory provisions. "But", in Entry 41, is parallel with terms like "expect", "nevertheless", and "however," which indicate an exception to the list of exclusions preceding the same. This usage is in consonance with standard dictionary meanings and legal interpretations, assuring that what follows the conjunction has been intentionally included despite previous exclusions. Accordingly, the inclusion of medicated ointments is a deliberate and clear legislative choice, ensuring these products are not inadvertently excluded due to their therapeutic importance. The Tribunal's reading of Entry 41 is in tandem with this interpretation, thereby recognising the specific inclusion of medicated ointments as a critical aspect of the entry, providing them with the appropriate tax treatment and regulatory recognition. The Tribunal, in the impugned judgement, held that BPAC's composition and medicinal properties merit its inclusion under medicated ointments.

13. Reference can also be made to the principle of noscitur a sociis. This principle suggests that the meaning of a word is known from the accompanying words, implying that the context provided by surrounding terms can clarify ambiguous expressions. In Entry 41, the inclusion of items like medicated soaps, shampoos, face creams, and massage creams, all of which are cosmetics and toilet preparations, provides a clear context for interpreting "antiseptic cream." This interpretation ensures consistency and avoids any arbitrary or inconsistent classification that might arise from interpreting "antiseptic cream" in isolation.

14. The principle of noscitur a sociis in the context of taxing statutes was explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rohit Pulp (supra). Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

> "12. The principle of statutory interpretation by which a generic word receives a limited interpretation by reason of its context is well established. In the context with which we are concerned, we can legitimately draw upon the "noscitur a sociis" principle. This expression simply means that "the meaning of a word is to be judged by the company it keeps." Gajendragadkar, J. explained the scope of the rule in State of Bombay v. Hosptial Mazdoor Sabha [(1960) 2 SCR 866 : AIR 1960 SC 610 : (1960) 1 LLJ 251] in the following words: (SCR pp. 873-74)
> "This rule, according to Maxwell, means that, when two or more words which are susceptible of analogous meaning are coupled together they are understood to be used in their cognate sense. They take as it were their colour from each other, that is, the more general is restricted to a sense analogous to a less general. The same rule is thus interpreted in "Words and Phrases" (Vol. XIV, p.

207): "Associated words take their meaning from one another under the doctrine of noscitur a sociis, the philosophy of which is that the meaning of a doubtful word may be ascertained by reference to the meaning of words associated with it; such doctrine is broader than the maxim ejusdem generis". In fact the latter maxim "is only an illustration or specific application of the broader maxim noscitur a sociis". The argument is that certain essential features of attributes are invariably associated with the words "business and trade" as understood in the popular and conventional sense, and it is the colour of these attributes which is taken by the other words used in the definition though their normal import may be much wider. We are not impressed by this argument. It must be borne in mind that noscitur a sociis is merely a rule of construction and it cannot prevail in cases where it is clear that the wider words have been deliberately used in order to make the scope of the defined word correspondingly wider. It is only where the intention of the legislature in associating wider words with words of narrower significance is doubtful, or otherwise not clear that the present rule of construction can be usefully applied. It can also be applied where the meaning of the words of wider import is doubtful; but, where the object of the legislature in using wider words is clear and free of ambiguity, the rule of construction in question cannot be pressed into service."

This principle has been applied in a number of contexts in judicial decisions where the court is clear in its mind that the larger meaning of the word in question could not have been intended in the context in which it has been used. The cases are too numerous to need discussion here. It should be sufficient to refer to one of them by way of illustration. In Rainbow Steels Ltd. v. CST [(1981) 2 SCC 141 : 1981 SCC (Tax) 90] this Court had to understand the meaning of the word 'old' in the context of an entry in a taxing traffic which read thus:

"Old, discarded, unserviceable or obsolete machinery, stores or vehicles including waste products....."

Though the tariff item started with the use of the wide word 'old', the court came to the conclusion that "in order to fall within the expression 'old machinery' occurring in the entry, the machinery must be old machinery in the sense that it has become non-functional or non-usable". In other words, not the mere age of the machinery, which would be relevant in the wider sense, but the condition of the machinery analogous to that indicated by the words following it, was considered relevant for the purposes of the statute."

15. By reading "antiseptic cream" in similar lines with other excluded items like medicated soaps, shampoos, face creams, and massage creams, it is obvious that these items share a common characteristic as cosmetics and toilet preparations. Taking into consideration on the above rules of interpretation, specifically in relation to taxing statutes, I am of the view that even though antiseptic creams are excluded from Entry 41, medicated ointments would be included due to the use of the word "but". The word "but" is a clear indication that the legislature intended to include, as an exception, medical ointment, even though certain medicated ointments may be categorised as antiseptic creams. If a product is more than just an antiseptic cream and qualifies as a medicated ointment, it will be included in Entry 41.

16. The issue that now requires to be answered is whether BPAC is to be classified as a medicated ointment or not. The Tribunal, in all its wisdom, after examining relevant evidence and the difference between antiseptic creams and medicated ointments, came to the conclusion that BPAC falls under the ambit of 'medicated ointment', which would qualify it for claiming the benefit of exclusion under Entry 41. The relevant portion is extracted below:

> "From the above description it is evident that on the basis of 'base' and 'vehicle', cream and ointments are two separate things. According to the available material, oil quantity is more than water in ointment, whereas oil is less than water in cream. This is why cream easily spreads on skin and skin easily absorbs cream, whereas ointment is greasy and sticky and hard to spread on skin. Ointment is not absorbed by skin easily. In the license, issued to the appellant, the disputed product Boroplus antiseptic cream is placed in the category of ointment. If we look at ingredients of the product mentioned in the drug license, it shows that oil is more than water in the disputed product.
> Therefore, from the above evidence and material it is established that Boroplus antiseptic cream manufactured by appellant firm is an 'Ointment'. Since it has already been established that the disputed product contains medicinal properties; hence, it falls in the category of "medicated ointment" and is included in the SI. No. 41 of Schedule 2 Part A and tax with additional tax @ 5% is payable on it."

17. It is clear from a perusal of the Tribunal's order that its findings were based on a meticulous examination of evidence presented before it, particularly focusing on the difference between antiseptic creams and medicated ointments. The differences between antiseptic creams and medicated ointments as highlighted by the Tribunal are discussed below:

a. Relying on Remington Part 5, Pharmaceutical Manufacturing Page 176 and British Pharmacopoeia 2012 Vol. – 3, The Tribunal outlined ointments are semisolid preparations for external application to the body and that therapeutically ointments function as protective and emollients for the skin but are used primarily as vehicles or basis for the topical application of medical substances. The Tribunal further highlighted that ointments are formulated to provide preparations that are immiscible, miscible or emulsifiable with the skin secretion. Furthermore, Hydrophobic ointments and water-emulsifying ointment are intended to be applied to the skin or certain mucous membranes for emollient protective, therapeutic or prophylactic purposes where a degree of occlusion is desired. Contrary to the same, The Tribunal highlighted relying on British Pharmacopoeia 2012 – 23 that creams are intended to be applied to the skin or certain mucous membranes for protective, therapeutic or prophylactic purposes especially where and occlusive effect is not necessary unlike ointments.

b. Relying on International Journal for Pharmaceutics, the Tribunal highlighted that a topical dose from the dermatological application which contains greater than 50% hydrocarbons, waxes, PEG as the vehicle and less than 20% water and volatiles is an ointment. On the other hand, an application which contains either less than 50% hydrocarbons waxes, PRG or more than 20% water on and volatiles is cream.

c. Further, based on the information contained on the website of a famous American pharma company Walgreens, the Tribunal pointed out that a cream is preparation of a medication for topical use on the skin with a water base whereas an ointment is a preparation of medication for topical use that contains oil base. It was also highlighted that ointments have a higher concentration of oil compared to cream."

18. As far as BPAC is concerned, the Tribunal placed reliance on the expert opinion of Shri. Loknath Pramanik who had served as Additional Director, Drugs Control, Government of West Bengal and the Member of Pharmacy Council of India and was on the date of Tribunal's judgment a technical consultant in regulatory matter of drugs and cosmetics:

"Thus, I would like to conclude that BPHSAC having >50% oil contains and <20% water content is an ointment with approx. 67% oil ingredients and 10% water content and balance active ingredients and excipients. Moreover, BPHSAC is occlusive in nature which is the property of an ointment. The drug license of the product is also granted under the category of ointment. The word "Ointment" is also clearly written on the level of the product."

19. BPAC has been marketed primarily as an antiseptic cream, emphasising its role in preventing and treating minor skin infections. However, if one were to take a closer look at its composition, it would reveal that the same contains multiple active ingredients typically found in medicated ointments. The key ingredients consist of neem, tulsi, and aloe vera. These possess various antimicrobial, anti-inflammatory, and healing properties, which are often leveraged in medicated treatments for various skin conditions. Not only are these ingredients antiseptic, but also therapeutic, thereby effectively addressing a broad spectrum of skin issues, including dryness, rashes, and minor burns. The presence of these medicinal components suggests that BPAC offers more than just antiseptic action; it provides a multi-faceted approach to skincare, aligning it more closely with the properties of medicated ointments.

20. Antiseptic creams, in general, are limited to preventing infections in minor cuts and scrapes. However, BPAC is advertised for a wide range of applications, including the treatment of dry skin, cracked heels, minor burns, and even as a daily moisturiser. This broad spectrum of uses is characteristic of medicated ointments, which are designed to treat specific skin conditions with therapeutic benefits. BPAC's ability to soothe, heal, and protect the skin from various ailments indicates its formulation is intended for more than just antiseptic purposes. By providing hydration, reducing inflammation, and promoting healing, BPAC functions similarly to medicated ointments that deal with chronic skin issues and overall skin health.

21. The Respondent successfully demonstrated before the authorities that BPAC is fundamentally a medicated ointment. This conclusion was reached through detailed evidence that relied upon the composition, properties, and therapeutic benefits of BPAC. The evidence presented included ingredient analysis, the proportion of oil versus water, and the medicinal properties of its components like neem, tulsi, and aloe vera. These ingredients are known for their antimicrobial, anti-inflammatory, and healing properties, thus establishing BPAC as a product with multiple therapeutic uses beyond mere antiseptic functions. This left no room for doubt about BPAC's classification as a medicated ointment, which is essential for its appropriate tax treatment under Entry 41.

22. The onus was on the Revenue to disprove the Respondent's claim and establish that BPAC is solely an antiseptic cream. To meet this burden, the Revisionist needed to provide compelling evidence that BPAC's primary and exclusive function was antiseptic in nature. This required a detailed analysis and presentation of the product's composition and therapeutic effects, demonstrating that any additional benefits were either negligible or ancillary to its antiseptic properties. However, the Revisionist failed to provide such evidence. The absence of contrary evidence from the Revisionist means that the Tribunal's findings, based on the Respondent's robust evidence, stand unchallenged and are not perverse. This failure underscores the critical importance of meeting the burden of proof in legal and regulatory disputes.

23. The Revenue's inability to produce evidence that exclusively supports BPAC's classification as an antiseptic cream significantly weakens its argument. In regulatory and tax disputes, the party challenging the existing classification must provide substantial evidence to support its claims. The Revenue's failure to do so in this case leaves the Respondent's evidence unrefuted and the Tribunal's findings intact.

24. In Dilip Kumar (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court highlighted the distinction between provisions relating to chargeability and exemption. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further espoused that even if two views are possible in interpreting a charging section, the one favouring the Assessee needs to be adopted. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

> "14. We may, here itself notice that the distinction in interpreting a taxing provision (charging provision) and in the matter of interpretation of exemption notification is too obvious to require any elaboration. Nonetheless, in a nutshell, we may mention that, as observed in Surendra Cotton Oil Mills case [Collector of Customs & Central Excise v. Surendra Cotton Oil Mills & Fertilizers Co., (2001) 1 SCC 578] , in the matter of interpretation of charging section of a taxation statute, strict rule of interpretation is mandatory and if there are two views possible in the matter of interpretation of a charging section, the one favourable to the Assessee need to be applied. There is, however, confusion in the matter of interpretation of exemption notification published under taxation statutes and in this area also, the decisions are galore [See: Sun Export Corpn. v. Collector of Customs, (1997) 6 SCC 564; CCE v. Abhi Chemicals and Pharmaceuticals (P) Ltd., (2005) 3 SCC 541; CCE v. Parle Exports (P) Ltd., (1989) 1 SCC 345 : 1989 SCC (Tax) 84; Commr. of Customs v. Konkan Synthetic Fibres, (2012) 6 SCC 339; Collector of Customs v. Swastic Woollens (P) Ltd., 1988 Supp SCC 796 : 1989 SCC (Tax) 67; Commr. of Customs v. Reliance Petroleum Ltd., (2008) 7 SCC 220.].

> 24. In construing penal statutes and taxation statutes, the Court has to apply strict rule of interpretation. The penal statute which tends to deprive a person of right to life and liberty has to be given strict interpretation or else many innocents might become victims of discretionary decision-making. Insofar as taxation statutes are concerned, Article 265 of the Constitution ["265. Taxes not to be imposed save by authority of law.—No tax shall be levied or collected except by authority of law."] prohibits the State from extracting tax from the citizens without authority of law. It is axiomatic that taxation statute has to be interpreted strictly because the State cannot at their whims and fancies burden the citizens without authority of law. In other words, when the competent Legislature mandates taxing certain persons/certain objects in certain circumstances, it cannot be expanded/interpreted to include those, which were not intended by the legislature."

25. In National Cereal (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that onus to proof chargeability under a different provision lies with the Revenue. Relevant paragraph is extracted below:

> "12. The notifications by which the rate of tax has been fixed in respect of foodgrains makes it clear that the definition of foodgrains in the notifications is wider than that in Section 14 of the Central Sales Tax Act, 1956. It must be remembered that the notifications are not exception notifications but contain charging provisions. As such the onus to prove that the malted barley does not fall within foodgrains or cereals was on the Revenue. They have failed to discharge the onus. Both the Tribunal and the High Court have concurrently found that malted barley is a foodgrain or cereal for the purposes of the three notifications for reasons that cannot be discarded as perverse. We therefore see no reason to interfere with their conclusion."

26. In Marico Industries (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the burden of proof shifts on the Revenue to show a particular item is taxable in the manner claimed by them. Relevant paragraph is extracted below:

> "25. The stand of the Assessee before the authorities was that it is not a chemical. It is not sold or used for that purpose. It is a starch manufactured by using Tapioca roots. The Revenue, per contra, without any material brought on record, put it in the category of a chemical. In Union of India v. Garware Nylons Ltd. [Union of India v. Garware Nylons Ltd., (1996) 10 SCC 413] it has been held that the burden of proof is on the Taxing Authorities to show that the particular case or item in question is taxable in the manner claimed by them. Elucidating further, the Court has held that there should be material to enter appropriate finding in that regard and the material may be either oral or documents and it is for the Taxing Authority to lay evidence in that behalf even before the first adjudicating authority. Revive instant starch is used while washing the clothes. In common parlance it is not regarded and treated as a chemical or a bleaching powder. If the very substance or product would have a chemical composition, then only it would make the said substance a chemical within the meaning of Entry 55. Needless to say, the purpose and use are to be taken note of. Common parlance test has to be applied. If the Revenue desired to establish it as a chemical, it was obligatory on its part to adduce the evidence. As is manifest, no evidence has been brought on record by the Revenue that it is a chemical. Therefore, it can safely be concluded that it is not a chemical."

27. The above three Supreme Court judgements clearly laid down the principle that there is a stark difference between chargeability and exemption. It is to be noted that in the event of chargeability, the interpretation favouring the Assessee needs to be adopted, while in the case of exemption, the position is the opposite.

28. The Supreme Court, in National Cereal's case (supra), has clearly held that the onus to prove the chargeability of a particular item in a provision other than the provision chosen by the Assessee falls squarely on the revenue. In our present case, the revenue's argument that the inclusion of medicated ointment as a drug and cosmetic under Entry 41 of Schedule 11 of the Act is an exemption is completely misplaced. It is to be noted that whether BPAC falls within Entry 41 is in relation to chargeability in a particular schedule and not that of an exemption. It is trite law that an item would be classified as a residuary item only when it does not fall in any other classification. In the present case, using tools of interpretation, the Tribunal has categorically held that BPAC would fall within Entry 41 of Schedule II. The burden of proof was upon the revenue to indicate that the said classification made by the Tribunal was absolutely incorrect and without any basis in law.

29. The failure of the Revenue to produce any evidence to support its claim of reclassification is crucial and to be noted. In legal and administrative proceedings, the burden of proof is a fundamental principle that ensures fairness. When the Revenue seeks to reclassify goods, it must provide evidence that substantiates its position. This evidence might include expert opinions, industry standards, or specific legislative provisions that justify the reclassification. Here, the Department's inability to produce any evidence suggests either a lack of basis for their claim or a failure in their administrative processes. Thereby, the Department's claim for reclassification lacks credibility and cannot be upheld.

30. The judgments relied upon by the Revenue do not advance its case in any manner. The judgment in Balaji Agency (supra) is notably outdated and pertained to a dealer where the decision was primarily based on the lack of evidence presented by the dealer. This is a critical point, as the absence of substantive evidence in Balaji Agency (supra) significantly undermines its applicability as a precedent for the instant case involving BPAC, wherein adequate evidence has been produced by the Respondent. Furthermore, the legal landscape concerning the classification of medicaments has evolved considerably since 1994, with several landmark judgments by the Hon'ble Supreme Court providing greater clarity and detailed guidelines on such classifications. These advancements in legal interpretation and the development of relevant jurisprudence were not available to this Court during the Balaji Agency case, rendering its findings irrelevant in the current context. The Tribunal's comprehensive review of the evidence regarding BPAC's composition, therapeutic properties, and intended use starkly contrasts with the scenario in the Balaji Agency, where the absence of evidence was a decisive factor. Therefore, relying on Balaji Agency to argue for BPAC's reclassification disregards the significant differences in the evidentiary records and the evolution of legal standards pertaining to the classification of medicinal products.

31. Similarly, the judgment in Paras Pharmaceuticals (supra) does not advance the Revenue's case also. Firstly, the judgment did not pertain to BPAC, and the specific facts and products involved in Paras Pharmaceuticals were distinct from those concerning BPAC. The relevance of legal precedents hinges on the similarity of facts and the specific legal issues addressed. In Paras Pharmaceuticals (supra), the decision was again influenced by a lack of evidence, a fact explicitly noted in the last two paragraphs of the judgment. This critical detail emphasises the limited applicability of Paras Pharmaceuticals as a precedent for the current dispute over BPAC's classification, where the Tribunal made its determination based on a well-documented evidentiary record presented by the Respondent.

32. In the judgements of M.T. Khan -v- Govt. of A.P. reported in (2004) 2 SCC 267, Union of India -v- Hansoli Devi reported in (2002) 7 SCC 273, State of Gujarat -v- Patel Ramjibhai Danabhai reported in (1979) 3 SCC 347, Quebec Railway, Light, Heat and Power Company Limited -v- Vandry reported in 1920 SCC OnLine PC 10 and Balram Kumawat -v- Union of India reported in (2003) 7 SCC 628, the facts stated therein are very different from those present in this case. The overarching rationale behind the judgments relied upon by the revisionist is to respect and implement the clear and unambiguous language of legislative texts, reflecting the intent of the lawmakers. The golden rule of literal interpretation serves as a foundational principle, ensuring that the judiciary does not overstep its role by reinterpreting or rewriting laws based on subjective perceptions of justice. It is also important to acknowledge the need for purposive interpretation in circumstances where a literal reading would thwart the legislative intent or lead to unreasonable outcomes. However, we are not joining issues with the same for these judgments do not help the revisionist and only reiterate the general principles.

33. In the judgements of Kantaru Rajeevaru (Sabarimala Temple Review-5 J.) -v- Indian Young Lawyers Assn. reported in (2020) 2 SCC 1, Spencer & Co. Ltd. -v- Vishwadarshan Distributors (P) Ltd. reported in (1995) 1 SCC 259 and State of Karnataka -v- State of T.N. reported in (2016) 10 SCC 617, the facts stated therein are very different from those present in this case. The main justification behind the judgments relied upon by the revisionist is that the Tribunal is bound by Article 144 of the Constitution of India and while applying the twin test it has to consider the authoritative text relating to Ayurvedic Drug or Ayurvedic proprietary medicine. The extensive scope of Article 144 of the Indian Constitution has been reiterated in the aforementioned judgements. Further, they have clarified that "authorities" encompass both judicial and non-judicial bodies, affecting any entity with power over citizens. Ultimately, an emphasis has been laid on the Supreme Court's role as the definitive constitutional interpreter, whose orders must be upheld by all authorities, reinforcing the rule of law. One need not join issue with the principles in the above judgements. However, it is to be noted that these principles do not in any manner assist the revisionist in deciding the present case, as the legal interpretation required in the present case is distinct and has been dealt with by me in the preceding paragraphs.

34. The Revenue's argument that the Respondent itself markets BPAC as an 'antiseptic cream' is not a sound argument. Marketing or advertising of a product, while influential in shaping consumer perceptions and driving sales, cannot and should not determine the classification of a product for taxing purposes. Taxation laws and regulations have been designed to categorise products based on their intrinsic properties, intended use, and the benefits they provide rather than the promotional strategies employed by manufacturers. Advertising, by nature, is aimed at emphasising certain attributes of a product to attract consumers, which may include both factual information and marketing hyperbole. Thereby, relying on advertising alone to classify a product would lead to inconsistent and potentially misleading tax categorisations, as marketing strategies can vary widely between companies and over time. To put forth an example, a product marketed as a beauty cream might have significant medicinal properties that qualify it as a medicament. However, if its classification were to be done solely on the marketing strategies, its true nature and intended therapeutic use could be overlooked. The detailed descriptions on the packaging, which highlight BPAC's healing, curative, and prophylactic properties, are important to consider because they provide concrete information about the product's intended use and medicinal value. These details go on to establish BPAC as a medicated ointment because they offer a factual basis for its classification, independent of any advertising claims.

35. The principle that marketing or advertising cannot dictate tax classification has been laid down in several cases that place objective assessment over subjective interpretation. In the case of M/s Blue Star -v- UOI (supra), the Bombay High Court was considering the classification of "walk-in coolers". The department had, in that case, classified the product to the detriment of the assessee. The Bench therein held that it is not on the basis of what the petitioner advertises to attract customers that its liability to pay duty under a particular tariff item be fastened. The Court stated that the same can only be set on the facts and the circumstances and determination on the basis of those facts and circumstances as disclosed by the records. The relevant paragraph is extracted below:

> "…In any event, what the petitioner may advertise by way of attracting customers can be no criterion for adjudicating upon the issue whether our duty is payable under a particular tariff item. In other words, payment of duty under a particular tariff item must depend upon the facts of the case and not on the advertisement gimmick of the advertiser. Thus, it is not on the basis of what the petitioner advertises to attract customers, can its liability to pay duty under a particular tariff item be fastened but on the facts and circumstances actually existing and on a determination whether on the basis of those facts and circumstances as disclosed by the record the case would fall within the provisions of Tariff Item No. 29A(1) or not…"

36. Similarly, the Custom, Excise and Gold Tribunal, Mumbai, in the case of Hindustan Unilever Ltd. -v- Collector of Central Excise, reported in 2000 (121) ELT 451 stated that advertisements are merely the manufacturer's tools for selling their products. The relevant paragraph is extracted as follows:

> "….Advertising is a potent weapon in the manufacturer's armoury. In the present days of consumerism, a wit has defined advertising as a craft of selling product (1) which is not worth buying (2) which the consumer does not want and (3) which he cannot afford to buy…"

37. Tax authorities and judicial bodies are tasked with ensuring that classifications reflect the true nature and function of products to maintain fairness and consistency in taxation. This approach prevents companies from manipulating tax liabilities through strategic advertising and ensures that products are taxed based on their actual use and benefits. In the case of BPAC, the extensive evidence provided by the respondent, which details the product's medicinal properties and its recognition as a therapeutic ointment in common parlance, sets its usage as a medicated ointment on stone. This is substantiated by the legal requirement that mandates products to be classified on the basis of their intrinsic characteristics and, thereby, removes any possibility of undue influence being used in marketing or advertising tactics whatsoever.

38. In the case of The State of Andhra Pradesh and Others -v- M/s Himani Limited and Others (TRC 166/2004), the Bench comprising of Hon'ble P. Sam Koshy and Hon'ble N. Tukaramji, JJ., dealt with a case wherein the petitioner had filed eleven tax revision cases, against the common order passed by the Sales Tax Appellate Tribunal, Hyderabad (STAT). The entire dispute primarily revolved around six products being manufactured and marketed by the two sister companies, namely M/s Himani Limited and M/s Emami Limited. The products in question were Navaratan Oil, Gold Turmeric Ayurvedic Cream, Nirog Dant Power Lal, Boroplus Antiseptic Cream, Boroplus Prickly Heat Powder, and Sonachandi Chavanprash. The issue that was put forth before the High Court of Telangana was whether the products would fall under Entry 36 or Entry 37 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act and Telangana Goods and Services Tax Act. If the products were to fall under the classification of cosmetics, then they would become leviable for GST at a rate of 20%. Otherwise, if the products were to be treated as drugs within Entry 37, then they would be leviable of duty at the rate of only 10%. Here, too, the Court had to deal with whether or not BPAC was to be considered a cosmetic or a medicated ointment. The Court, in its judgement, stated that the cream cannot be brought under the ambit of being a cosmetic simply because it can only be used for its medicinal value and is not otherwise capable of being used as a cosmetic or toiletry product. It is not a medicated good either because those, too, serve a purpose beyond their intended medicinal uses. The Court further added that BPAC is "preventive in nature and has curative and healing ayurvedic ointment", which is prescribed for several skin disorders. Thereby, the Court held that there was no reason that warranted their interference and upheld the judgement of the Sales Tax Appellate Tribunal, Hyderabad, dated March 31, 2004.

39. It is well settled that the Tribunal is the last fact-finding body and that this Court, in revision, would not go into an enquiry with regard to the factual aspects that have been decided by the Tribunal. In the exercise of revisional jurisdiction, the High Court has a limited mandate. The scope of revisional jurisdictional, is primarily focused on questions of law, jurisdictional errors, or procedural irregularities. The High Court, in a revision petition, must refrain from engaging in a de novo inquiry into factual matters already adjudicated upon by the Tribunal unless compelling grounds warranting such intervention are made.

40. The limited revisional jurisdiction under the Act is confined to only the questions of law and not the questions of fact. Section 58 of the Act has been extracted below:

> "58. Revision by High Court in special cases.—(1) Any person aggrieved by an order made under sub-section (7) or sub-section (8) of Section 57, other than an order under sub-section (4) of that section summarily disposing of the appeal, may, within ninety days from the date of service of such order, apply to the High Court for revision of such order on the ground that the case involves any question of law.
>
> (2) The application for revision under sub-section (1) shall precisely state the question of law involved in the case, and it shall be competent for the High Court to formulate the question of law or to allow any other question of law to be raised.
>
> (3) Where an application under this section is pending, the High Court may, on an application in this behalf, stay recovery of any disputed amount of tax, fee or penalty payable, or refund of any amount due under the order sought to be revised:
>
> Provided that no order for stay or recovery of such disputed amount shall remain in force for more than thirty days unless the applicant furnishes adequate security to the satisfaction of the Assessing Authority concerned.
>
> (4) The High Court shall, after hearing the parties to revision, decide the question, of law involved therein, and where as a result of such decision, the amount of tax, fee or penalty is required to be determined afresh, the High Court may send a copy of the decision to the Tribunal for fresh determination of the amount, and the Tribunal shall thereupon pass such orders as are necessary to dispose of the case in conformity with the said decision.
>
> (5) All applications for revision of orders passed under Section 57 in appeals arising out of the same cause of action in respect of an assessment year shall be heard and decided together:
>
> Provided that where any one or more of such applications have been heard and decided earlier, if the High Court, while hearing the remaining applications, considers that the earlier decision may be a legal impediment in giving relief in such remaining applications, it may recall such earlier decision and may thereafter proceed to hear and decide all the applications together.
>
> (6) The provisions of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963, shall mutatis mutandis, apply to every application, for revision under this section.
>
> Explanation.—For the purpose of this section, the expression "any person" includes the Commissioner and the State Government."

41. A Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Hindustan Petroleum

Corporation Limited -v- Dilbahar Singh, reported in (2014) 9 SCC 78, expounded on the scope of revisional jurisdiction. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

> "31. We are in full agreement with the view expressed in Sri Raja Lakshmi Dyeing Works [Sri Raja Lakshmi Dyeing Works v. Rangaswamy Chettiar, (1980) 4 SCC 259] that where both expressions "appeal" and "revision" are employed in a statute, obviously, the expression "revision" is meant to convey the idea of a much narrower jurisdiction than that conveyed by the expression "appeal". The use of two expressions "appeal" and "revision" when used in one statute conferring appellate power and revisional power, we think, is not without purpose and significance. Ordinarily, appellate jurisdiction involves a rehearing while it is not so in the case of revisional jurisdiction when the same statute provides the remedy by way of an "appeal" and so also of a "revision". If that were so, the revisional power would become coextensive with that of the trial court or the subordinate tribunal which is never the case. The classic statement in Dattonpant [Dattonpant Gopalvarao Devakate v. Vithalrao Maruthirao Janagaval, (1975) 2 SCC 246] that revisional power under the Rent Control Act may not be as narrow as the revisional power under Section 115 of the Code but, at the same time, it is not wide enough to make the High Court a second court of first appeal, commends to us and we approve the same. We are of the view that in the garb of revisional jurisdiction under the above three rent control statutes, the High Court is not conferred a status of second court of first appeal and the High Court should not enlarge the scope of revisional jurisdiction to that extent.
> 32. Insofar as the three-Judge Bench decision of this Court in Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] is concerned, it rightly observes that revisional power is subject to well-known limitations inherent in all the revisional jurisdictions and the matter essentially turns on the language of the statute investing the jurisdiction. We do not think that there can ever be objection to the above statement. The controversy centres round the following observation in Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] , "... that jurisdiction enables the court of revision, in appropriate cases, to examine the correctness of the findings of facts also…." It is suggested that by observing so, the three-Judge Bench in Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] has enabled the High Court to interfere with the findings of fact by reappreciating the evidence. We do not think that the three-Judge Bench has gone to that extent in Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] . The observation in Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3

SCC 131] that as the expression used conferring revisional jurisdiction is "legality and propriety", the High Court has wider jurisdiction obviously means that the power of revision vested in the High Court in the statute is wider than the power conferred on it under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure; it is not confined to the jurisdictional error alone. However, in dealing with the findings of fact, the examination of findings of fact by the High Court is limited to satisfy itself that the decision is "according to law". This is expressly stated in Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] . Whether or not a finding of fact recorded by the subordinate court/tribunal is according to law, is required to be seen on the touchstone whether such finding of fact is based on some legal evidence or it suffers from any illegality like misreading of the evidence or overlooking and ignoring the material evidence altogether or suffers from perversity or any such illegality or such finding has resulted in gross miscarriage of justice. Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] does not lay down as a proposition of law that the revisional power of the High Court under the Rent Control Act is as wide as that of the appellate court or the appellate authority or such power is coextensive with that of the appellate authority or that the concluded finding of fact recorded by the original authority or the appellate authority can be interfered with by the High Court by reappreciating evidence because Revisional Court/authority is not in agreement with the finding of fact recorded by the court/authority below. Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] does not exposit that the revisional power conferred upon the High Court is as wide as an appellate power to reappraise or reassess the evidence for coming to a different finding contrary to the finding recorded by the court/authority below. Rather, it emphasises that while examining the correctness of findings of fact, the Revisional Court is not the second court of first appeal. Ram Dass [Ram Dass v. Ishwar Chander, (1988) 3 SCC 131] does not cross the limits of Revisional Court as explained in Dattonpant [Dattonpant Gopalvarao Devakate v. Vithalrao Maruthirao Janagaval, (1975) 2 SCC 246] ."

(Emphasis added)

42. There is a presumption of finality attached to judgments and orders passed by Appellate Authorities and the High Courts should not lightly disturb such judgments unless there are compelling reasons to do so. Revisional jurisdiction is not intended to be a mechanism for relitigating cases or reopening settled matters. High Courts cannot ordinarily interfere with factual findings arrived at by lower courts or tribunals unless such findings are perverse, based on no evidence, or suffer from a manifest error of law. Revisional jurisdiction does not empower High Courts to reevaluate factual evidence or substitute their own findings for those of the lower courts or tribunals. Revisional jurisdiction is aimed at correcting jurisdictional errors and excesses of law.

43. The concept of perversity in legal contexts refers to a situation where a decision or finding is so unreasonable or contrary to the evidence that no reasonable person could have arrived at it. When dealing with administrative and judicial reviews, including tax and regulatory matters, perversity is a crucial ground upon which decisions can be challenged or revised. However, for perversity to be successfully invoked, certain legal thresholds and evidentiary standards must be met. Here, the Revenue has not articulated any specific grounds of perversity in its pleadings or submissions. Perversity would require demonstrating that the Tribunal's findings were not based on a rational assessment of the evidence or that they ignored relevant legal principles or material facts. Neither was any evidence produced by the Department before the assessing officer, Commissioner, Commercial Tax and the Tribunal nor was any evidence produced before this Court to controvert the evidence produced by the respondents. Simply disagreeing with the Tribunal's decision without substantiating such disagreement with concrete evidence or legal arguments does not meet the threshold for invoking perversity.

44. As a last-ditch effort, the Revenue had argued to remand the matter back to the Tribunal by placing reliance on the judgment in Cadbury India (supra). The judgement in Cadbury India (supra) was delivered in a scenario where adequate evidence was not led by the Assessee before the relevant tribunal. This context is highly important when making an attempt to understand why the decision in Cadbury India (supra) does not support the Revenue's case in the instant matter. In Cadbury India (supra), the lack of sufficient evidence presented by the Assessee necessitated further examination and led to the remanding of the case. The tribunal needed a more comprehensive evidentiary basis to make an informed decision about the classification of the goods in question. Consequently, the High Court's decision to remand the matter was appropriate in that context, aiming to ensure that all relevant facts and evidence were adequately considered. In the instant case, however, the Tribunal's decision was not made in a vacuum but was grounded in substantial and persuasive evidence that supported the classification of BPAC as a medicated ointment. The Respondent had established beyond doubt that BPAC is a medicated ointment, and no contrary evidence was presented by the Revisionist to challenge this classification effectively. The principles of judicial efficiency and finality also argue against remanding a matter when the evidence has been thoroughly considered and no new facts have emerged to challenge the established findings.

45. In light of the aforesaid, I find no reason to interfere with the findings of the Tribunal, and accordingly, the instant revision petitions are dismissed. The questions of law framed in all the revision petitions are answered in favour of the assessee and against the Revenue. There shall be no order as to the costs.

Criminal Law –Criminal Procedure Code,1973 - Section 125 - The Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 - Sections 18, 20,23 & 24 - Family Courts Act, 1984 - maintenance awarded under CrPC under challenge by both the parties- of - whether the daughter, having attained majority, was entitled to maintenance under Section 125 CrPC- an unmarried daughter is not entitled to maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. after attaining majority unless she is unable to maintain herself due to physical or mental abnormality- Family Court's order granting maintenance-upheld- Family Court has jurisdiction under both Section 125 Cr.P.C. and Section 20 of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956- which allows maintenance for an unmarried daughter until marriage- both revisions dismissed- future modification under Section 127 Cr.P.C.-in case of change of circumstances. (Paras 27, 29, 30, 34, 38, 39, 40, 44, 45, 46, 50 and 51)

HELD:
The first of the definition is general, applicable to one and all. According to this definition the provision for the five necessary wants is maintenance. These wants are food, clothing, residence, education, and medical attendance and treatment. This is a healthy concept of maintenance. The satisfaction of these wants is the minimum necessity of civilized homo sapiens, so that a man may not live, in the words of B. Mukherjee, J., "the life of a dog" (Kiran Bala Vs Bankim Chandra, AIR 1967 Cal 603, 605). (para 30)

Section 20(3) of Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 is nothing but recognition of principles of Hindu Law regarding maintenance of children and aged parents. Section 20(3) now makes it statutory obligation of a Hindu to maintain his or her daughter, who is unmarried and is unable to maintain herself out of her own earnings or other property. (Para 34)

Section 488 Cr.P.C. (old) Section 125 (new) sought to inhibit negligence of woman and children with intent to serve a social purpose. The provision provided for summary proceeding to enable a deserted wife or helpless child, legitimate or illegitimate, to get urgent relief. The laws are nothing but collective consciousness of community. It is in the interest of the community and social order that woman and child who are neglected be maintained and should be provided a forum to obtain urgent relief to enable them to sustain. (Para 38)

In Nanak Chand's case the question arose as to whether by virtue of Section 4 of Act, 1956, the provision of Section 488 Cr.P.C. shall be overridden. In the above case Supreme Court explained the provisions of Section 488 Cr.P.C. as well as Section 20 of the Act, 1956. Supreme Court held that there is no inconsistency between Section 488 Cr.P.C. and the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act and both can stand together. Supreme Court further held that Section 488 Cr.P.C. provides a summary remedy and is applicable to all persons belonging to all religions and has no relationship with the personal law of the parties. (Para 40)

After enactment of Family Courts Act, 1984, a Family Court shall also have the jurisdiction exercisable by a Magistrate of the First Class under Chapter IX of Cr.P.C. relating to order for maintenance of wife, children and parents. Family Courts shall have the jurisdiction only with respect to city or town whose population exceeds one million, where there is no Family Courts, proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. shall have to be before the Magistrate of the First Class. In an area where the Family Court is not established, a suit or proceedings for maintenance including the proceedings under Section 20 of the Act, 1956 shall only be before the District Court or any subordinate Civil Court. (Para 45)

There may be a case where the Family Court has jurisdiction to decide a case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as the suit under Section 20 of Act, 1956, in such eventuality, Family Court can exercise jurisdiction under both the Acts and in an appropriate case can grant maintenance to unmarried daughter even though she has become major enforcing her right under Section 20 of Act, 1956 so as to avoid multiplicity of proceedings.(Para 46)

In the present case, the order impugned has been passed by the family court exercising jurisdiction under Family Courts Act, 1984. The family court has jurisdiction for trying cases both under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as under Section 20 of the Act of 1956. (Para 50)

In case of Abhilasha Vs Parkash (supra), the Supreme Court has held that an unmarried daughter has right of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. till she attains majority or is covered by the exception as carved out in the Section 125 Cr.P.C. The Supreme Court, however, declined to interfere with the order impugned before the Supreme Court for the reason that the proceedings were in the aforesaid case before Judicial Magistrate First Class and not before family court. The Judicial Magistrate First Class has no jurisdiction to entertain an application under Section 20 of the Act of 1956. The Supreme Court also granted liberty to the appellants before the Supreme Court to take recourse Sub-clause (3) of Section 20 of the Act of 1956, if so advised, for claiming any maintenance against her father. (Para 51)

Both Revision Applications dismissed. (E-14)

1. Criminal Revision No. 83 of 2024 has been filed by husband/revisionist against the judgment and order dated 26.09.2023 passed by Principle Judge, Family Court, Hathras in Case No. 656 of 2009 (Smt. Urmila and another v. Awadhesh Singh) in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. granting maintenance of Rs. 25,000/- per month to the wife Smt. Urmila and Rs. 20,000/- per month to the daughter Km. Gauri Nandini from the date of order

2. Criminal Revision No. 5926 of 2023 has been filed by the wife and daughter against the judgment and order dated 26.09.2023 passed by Principle Judge, Family Court, Hathras in Case No. 656 of 2009 (Smt. Urmila and another v. Awadhesh Singh) in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. initiated by the wife and daughter for enhancement of the maintenance as awarded by the order dated 16.09.2023.

3. Since both the revisions are against the same order, they are being decided together.

4. Heard Sri Vishnu Bihari Tewari, learned counsel for the revisionist in Criminal Revision No. 83 of 2024 and for the opposite party in Criminal Revision No. 5926 of 2023 and Sri Ashwani Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the opposite party in Criminal Revision No. 83 of 2024 and for the revisionist in Criminal Revision No. 5926 of 2023.

5. Brief facts of the case are that an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. was filed by Smt. Urmila and Km. Gauri Nandini aged about 4 years under the guardianship of her mother Smt. Urmila against Awdhesh Kumar Singh for maintenance on 05.10.2009. As per the aforesaid application, Smt. Urmila was married to Awdhesh Kumar Singh on 26.01.1992 as per the Hindu Rites. After marriage, Smt. Urmila was treated badly by her husband and in-laws. After one and a half year of the marriage, husband Awdhesh Kumar Singh filed a divorce petition being Case No. 381 of 1993 under Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act. Couple was blessed with one daughter namely Km. Gauri Nandani - applicant No.2 in the original application. It was further alleged that Smt. Urmila and her daughter were ill treated by the husband and his family members and ultimately she was thrown out of her matrimonial home along with her daughter on 09.02.2009. It was also alleged that the husband Awdhesh Kumar Singh was a permanent lecturer in D.A.V. Degree College, Kanpur and was earning about Rs. 81,000/- per month at the time of making the application. The applicant - wife had no means to maintain herself and her daughter and therefore, a prayer was made to award maintenance from the date of being turned out from the matrimonial home to the tune of Rs. 35,000/- per month. This application was filed on 05.10.2009.

6. The application was contested by the husband by filing the written statement denying the averments made in the application except for the birth of daughter and that the husband was employed as lecturer in D.A.V. Degree College, Kanpur. It was stated in the objections that the wife and his family members used to pressurize the husband to live separately from his parents and wife treated the husband with cruelty and therefore, an application for divorce was filed by the husband. Allegations of cruelty were denied and it was also stated that the applicant is M.A. passed and was taking tutions and earning about Rs. 8,000/- per month. It was also stated that the applicant had left the matrimonial home on 10.01.2010 and she had taken all the jewellery along with her. It had also been stated in the objections that the husband had taken a policy of Rs. 4,00,000/- in the name of his daughter and the premium of

Rs. 18748/- was being paid by the father. After deduction of tax and G.P.F. carry home salary of the husband was Rs. 56,000/- per month. The objections were filed by the husband/revisionist on 09.07.2010.

7. The application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. was allowed by the Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 3, Hathras by its judgment and order dated 31.01.2013 awarding maintenance of Rs. 20,000/- per month to the wife and Rs. 10,000/- to the daughter. Against the order dated 31.01.2013, two revisions were were filed, one by the husband and other was by the wife. Both the revisions were allowed by the order dated 09.10.2013 passed by Additional Session Judge, Court No. 2, Hathras and order dated 31.01.2013 was set-aside and the matter was remanded for rehearing after providing opportunity of hearing to both the sides. The order dated 09.10.2013, was challenged by the wife and daughter Smt. Urmila and Km. Nandani before this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 25465 of 2013 (Smt. Urmila and another v. Awdhesh Kumar Singh). The writ petition so filed by Smt. Urmila was disposed of by this Court by order dated 17.02.2022 with a direction to the parties to appear before the trial court in compliance of order dated 09.10.2013 and trial court was directed to decide the matter expeditiously as early as possible in accordance with law without granting unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties preferably within a period of six months. It was also directed by the writ court that till final decision of the application, the respondent husband should pay month to month maintenance amount pursuant to the order passed by the trial court i.e. Rs. 30,000/- per month as had been ordered by this Court vide interim order dated 20.12.2013. It was also directed by this Court that the amount already paid by the respondent husband would also be adjusted in the final payment of the maintenance.

8. During pendency of application, an amendment was sought by the wife that maintenance amount be increased to Rs. 70,000/- for herself and Rs. 30,000/- for the daughter.

9. The application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. was allowed by the Principle Judge, Family Court, Hathras awarding Rs. 25,000/- per month to the wife and Rs. 20,000/- to the daughter as maintenance from the date of order, hence, the present revision.

10. Criminal Revision No. 5926 of 2023 has been filed by the wife and daughter for enhancement of the maintenance amount.

11. Since the facts and the order impugned is common in both the Criminal Revisions, this Court taking the Criminal Revision No. 83 of 2024 as the leading case.

12. It has been contended by the learned counsel for the revisionist, that the opposite party no. 3 Km. Gauri Nandini (daughter) was born on 25.06.2005 and had attained the age of majority on 25.06.2023 before the order impugned dated 26.09.2023. The court below had erred in law awarding maintenance to the daughter who was major on the date of order and was not entitled to maintenance in view of the provisions of the Section 125 Cr.P.C. Learned counsel for the revisionist relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in case of Abhilasha v. Parkash and others reported in 2020 CrLJ 4770 SC wherein the Supreme Court has held that unmarried daughter who has attained majority and is not suffering any mental or physical abnormality, is not entitled to claim maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

13. Learned counsel for the revisionist has also contended that as both the parties has not filed affidavit disclosing their assets and liability, the objective assessment of approximate amount to be awarded towards maintenance, is not possible and the amount awarded towards maintenance is excessive. In this regard, learned counsel for the revisionist has also relied upon the judgment and order passed by Supreme Court in Case of Rajnish v. Neha and others in Criminal Appeal No. 703 of 2020 (arising out of SLP(Crl) No. 950 of 2018) decided on 04.11.2020 and also repored in MANU/SC/0833/2020.

14. Before proceeding with the matter, it would be appropriate to look into the provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. as under:

"125. Order for maintenance of wives, children and parents.- (1) If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuse to maintain-

(a) his wife, unable to maintain herself, or

(b) his legitimate or illegitimate minor child, whether married or not, unable to maintain itself, or

(c) his legitimate or illegitimate child (not being a married daughter) who has attained majority, where such child is, by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury unable to maintain itself, or

(d) his father or mother, unable to maintain himself or herself,

A Magistrate of the first class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, at such monthly rate as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct;

Provided that the Magistrate may order the father of a minor female child referred to in clause (b) to make such allowance, until she attains her majority, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the husband of such minor female child, if married, is not possessed of sufficient means.

Provided further that the Magistrate may, during the pendency of the proceeding regarding monthly allowance for the maintenance under this Sub-Section, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the interim maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, and the expenses of such proceeding which the Magistrate considers reasonable, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct;

Provided also that an application for the monthly allowance for the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding under the second proviso shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within sixty days from the date of the service of notice of the application to such person.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this Chapter,-

(a) "minor" means a person who, under the provisions of the Indian Majority

Act, 1875 (9 of 1875) is deemed not to have attained his majority;

(b) "wife" includes a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband and has not remarried.

(2) Any such allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding shall be payable from the date of the order, or, if so ordered, from the date of the application for maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be.

(3) If any person so ordered fails without sufficient cause to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole, or any port of each month's allowance allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made;

Provided that no warrant shall be issued for the recovery of any amount due under this section unless application be made to the Court to levy such amount within a period of one year from the date on which it became due;

Provided further that if such person offers to maintain his wife on condition of her living with him, and she refuses to live with him, such Magistrate may consider any grounds of refusal stated by her, and may make an order under this section notwithstanding such offer, if he is satisfied that there is just ground for so doing.

Explanation.- If a husband has contracted marriage with another woman or keeps a mistress, it shall be considered to be just ground for his wife's refusal to live with him.

(4) No wife shall be entitled to receive an allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery, or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her, husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

(5) On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order."

15. There is no dispute that the opposite party no. 3 daughter was born on 25.06.2005 and has attained majority on 25.06.2023. The order impugned has been passed on 26.09.2023 awarding maintenance of Rs. 20,000/- from the date of order to the opposite party no. 3. Date of birth of opposite party no. 3 has not been denied by the opposite parties and from the perusal of the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. filed by the opposite parties on 05.10.2009, it is apparent that opposite party no. 3 has been alleged to aged about four years on 05.10.2009 which confirms the date of birth of the opposite party no. 3 and the fact that prior to passing of the order impugned, the opposite party no. 3 has attained majority.

16. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party wife and daughter contended that the trial court has rightly passed the order awarding maintenance to the wife and daughter. It has been further contended that this Court should not interfere in the order passed by the court below even if it comes to the conclusion that in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C., the court below could not have awarded maintenance to the daughter after she attained majority as the daughter is entitled for maintenance till she is married in view of the provisions contained in Section 20 of the Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 (herein after referred to as the Act of 1956). No exception should be taken to the judgment and order passed by the court below on combined reading of provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. and Sub clause (3) of Section 20 the Act of 1956. It is further contended since daughter is entitled for maintenance under the Act of 1956, no useful purpose would be served in setting aside the order passed by the court below and relegating the daughter to move an application under the provisions of Section 20 and Sub-clause (3) of Act of 1956 for the same relief which have already been granted in the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

17. Learned counsel for the respondent next contended that the maintenance awarded by the court below was on lower side as the revisionist/husband is employed as a permanent teacher in a degree college. It has been further contended that the court below erred in law in awarding maintenance from the date of order and it ought to have awarded maintenance from the date of application. Maintenance awarded to the wife and daughter be enhanced considering the income of the revisionist/husband.

18. Before considering the rival submissions of the parties, it will be useful to note the provisions of Act of 1956 regarding maintenance of wife and daughter.

19. Section 18 of the Act of 1956 contemplates maintenance of wife which is quoted as under:

18.Maintenance of wife.- (1) Subject to the provisions of this section, a Hindu wife, whether married before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be entitled to be maintained by her husband during her lifetime.

(2) A Hindu wife shall be entitled to live separately from her husband without forfeiting her claim to maintenance-

(a) if he is guilty of desertion, that is to say, of abandoning her without reasonable cause and without her consent or against her wish, or of willfully neglecting her;

(b) If he has treated her with such cruelty as to cause a reasonable apprehension in her mind that it will be harmful or injurious to live with her husband;

(c) if he is suffering from a virulent form of leprosy;

(d) if he has any other wife living;

(e) if he keeps a concubine in the same house in which his wife is living or habitually resides with a concubine elsewhere;

(f) if he has ceased to be a Hindu by conversion to another religion;

(g) if there is any other cause justifying her living separately.

(3) A Hindu wife shall not be entitled to separate residence and maintenance from her husband if she is unchaste or ceases to be a Hindu by conversion to another religion.

20. Section 20 of the Act of 1956 contemplates maintenance of children and aged parents and the same is quoted as under:

20. Maintenance of children and aged parents.- (1) Subject to the provisions of this section a Hindu is bound, during his or her lifetime, to maintain his or her legitimate or illegitimate children and his or her aged or infirm parents.

(2) A legitimate or illegitimate child may claim maintenance from his or her father or mother so long as the child is a minor.

(3) The obligation of a person to maintain his or her aged or infirm parent or a daughter who is unmarried extends in so far as the parent or the unmarried daughter, as the case may be, is unable to maintain himself or herself out of his own earning or other property.

21. Section 23 of the Act of 1956 provides for amount of maintenance and the same is quoted as under:

23. Amount of maintenance.- (1) It shall be in the discretion of the court to determine whether any, and if so what, maintenance shall be awarded under the provisions of this Act, and in doing so the court shall have due regard to the considerations set out in sub-section (2) or sub-section (3), as the case may be, so far as they are applicable.

(2) In determining the amount of maintenance, if any, to be awarded to a wife, children or aged or infirm parents under this Act, regard shall be had to-

(a) the position and status of the parties;

(b) the reasonable wants of the claimant;

(c) if the claimant is living separately, whether the claimant is justified in doing so;

(d) the value of the claimant's property and any income derived from such property, or from the claimant's own earning or from any other source;

(e) the number of persons entitled to maintenance under this Act.

(3) In determining the amount of maintenance, if any, to be awarded to a dependent under this Act, regard shall be had to-

(a) the net value of the estate of the deceased after providing for the payment of his debts;

(b) the provision, if any, made under a Will of the deceased in respect of the dependent;

(c) the degree of relationship between the two;

(d) the reasonable wants of the dependant;

(e) the pas relations between the dependant and the deceased;

(f) the value of the property of the dependent and any income derived from such property; or from his or her earning or from any other source;

(g) the number of dependents entitled to maintenance under this Act.

22. Section 24 of the Act of 1956 provides that no person is entitled to claim maintenance if he or she has ceased to be Hindu by conversion to any other religion.

23. Some persons are unable to earn their livelihood due to their tender years, old age, some mental drawback or some social inhibition. Law imposes in their interest the obligation of maintaining them on some other persons. In other words, these persons are given the right to obtain maintenance from some other persons.

24. Every legal system has fixed an age before attaining which no person is regarded competent to settle his legal status. On completing that age he is made sui juris, legally competent and free to take decisions about his status. The law takes upon its own shoulders the responsibility of safeguarding the interests on the court or an authority of State to carry out that responsibility.

25. The duty to maintain the dependents has been lent the sanction of religion. The Dayabhaga has quoted Manu:

"Maintenance of the group of dependants opens the way to heaven. If this group is troubled, it leads to hell. Therefore, efforts should be made to maintain it." भरणं पोष्यवर्गस्य प्रशस्तं स्वर्गसाधनम्। नरकं पीड़ने चास्य तस्मात् यत्नेन त भरेत्।। Manu in Dayabhaga, II:23. Not found in the Manusmriti.

26. In Classical Hindu Law prior to codification, a Hindu male was always held morally and legally liable to maintain his aged parents, a virtuous wife and infant child. Hindu Law always recognised the liability of father to maintain an unmarried daughter. In this context, we refer to paragraph 539 and 543 of Mulla- Hindu Law- 22nd Edition, which is as follows:

"539. Personal liability; liability of father, husband and son- A Hindu is under a legal obligation to maintain his wife, his minor sons, his unmarried daughters, and his aged parents whether he possesses any property or not. The obligation to maintain these relations is personal in character and arises from the very existence of the relation between the parties.

27. Under Hindu law the right to or the obligation of maintenance is founded on two grounds: relationship and property. A is entitled to get maintenance from B.

(a) If A has a particular kind of relationship with B. On this basis the minor son and unmarried daughter are entitled to maintenance from his or her father, aged parents from their son and the wife from her husband. It has been put in the mouth of Manu by the Mitakshara that a man should maintain his aged parents, chaste wife and minor son (i.e. child) even by doing a hundred such deeds which are not prescribed for him. वृद्धौ च माता पितरौ साध्वी भार्या सुतः शिशुः। अप्यकार्य शतं कृत्वा भर्तव्या मनूरब्रवीत्।। Quoted by Mit. On Yaj. I: 224. The word अकार्य has been translated as 'misdeeds'. (see Mayne's HINDU LAW

AND USAGE, 14th Edn., p. 1153, S. 722) it is submitted that the translation is not correct.

The word अकार्य does not mean misdeed- those action which are wrong or injurious to others. It means those actions which are not properly his act according to the Shastras as a member of a particular Varna or Ashrama etc. For example, if a Brahman is unable to make sufficient means for the support of his family or parents by the professions of a teacher or priest (which are prescribed for him as a Brahman), he can take to agriculture, business or service etc. (which are not prescribed for him).

(b) If B has any such property out of which A is entitled to get maintenance. If B is not possessed of that property, he has no duty to maintain A, although he may be possessed of immeasurable wealth. In fact, this is not the right unto B, this is the right unto the property which is charged with the maintenance of A and which is at present owned or managed or controlled by B. For example, a karta of a joint Hindu family is bound to maintain all the members of the joint family because he is the manager of the joint family property: He has no obligation to give maintenance out of his separate or personal property to those members on the ground of relationship.

28. During the British period, three Acts were passed which affected directly or indirectly the right to maintenance of a female Hindu.

(1) Hindu Widows' Remarriage Act, 1856. It provided that all rights and interests which a widow had in her husband's property by way of maintenance, ceased upon her remarriage (Dharmarajan v. Narayanan, (2001) 1 HLR 126 (Ker). This Act is repealed by the Hindu Widows' Remarriage (Repeal) Act, 1983.

(2) Hindu Women's Rights to Property Act, 1937. This Act conferred the right of inheritance upon the widow of a Hindu, his son's widow and his son's son's widow. Before that she had only the right to maintenance from those who inherited her husband's property, instead of the right of inheritance from her husband. The Act did not expressly abolish her right of maintenance but the effect of giving the right of inheritance to her was that her right to maintenance lost its basis. This Act did not extend to agricultural land (Hindu Women’s Right to Property Act, 1937, In re, AIR 1941 FC 72: 1941 FCR 72). She was, therefore, entitled to get maintenance from those who inherited the agricultural land from her husband. The Act is now repealed by the Hindu Succession Act, 1956 (HSA Section 31).

(3) Hindu Married Women's Right to Separate Residence and Maintenance Act, 1946. This Act gave a Hindu wife the right to live separately from her husband and also to get maintenance from him on certain grounds. The Act now stands repealed by the Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 (HAMA Section 29) because the provisions of that Act have been assimilated in Section 18 of the HAMA.

29. Sub section (b) of Section 3 of Act of 1956 defines maintenance which is as under:

“(a)….

(b) “maintenance” includes-

(i) in all cases, provision for food, clothing, residence, education and medical attendance and treatment;

(ii) in the case of an unmarried daughter also the reasonable expenses of and incident to her marriage;

(c) ……..”

30. The first of the definition is general, applicable to one and all. According to this definition the provision for the five necessary wants is maintenance. These wants are food, clothing, residence, education, and medical attendance and treatment. This is a healthy concept of maintenance. The satisfaction of these wants is the minimum necessity of civilized homo sapiens, so that a man may not live, in the words of B. Mukherjee, J., "the life of a dog" (Kiran Bala v. Bankim Chandra, AIR 1967 Cal 603, 605).

This definition of maintenance is more humane than the understanding of maintenance before it. Earlier provision for the satisfaction of three wants was considered sufficient as maintenance. For example, the Madras High Court has held in *Arunachala v. Anandayamm*al (AIR 1933 Mad 688: (1933) 56 Mad 913: 34 Cri LJ 950), that maintenance includes nothing more than appropriate food, clothing and lodging.

31. The inclusion of provision for education and medical assistance and treatment by Act of 1956 in definition of maintenance has definitely enlarged the concept of maintenance of other laws, personal and local, e.g. Section 125 Cr.P.C.

32. The second part of the definition of maintenance applies only to the case of an unmarried daughter. In addition to the provision for the necessary wants as mentioned above, her maintenance includes the reasonable expenses of and incident to her marriage.

33. Muslim Law also recognises the obligation of father to maintain his daughters until they are married. Referring to Mulla’s Principle of Mohammedan Law, Supreme Court in State of Haryana and Others Vs. Santra (Smt.), (2000) 5 SCC 182:(AIR 2000 SC 1888) in paragraph 40 held:-

“40. Similarly, under the Mohammedan Law, a father is bound to maintain his sons until they have attained the age of puberty. He is also bound to maintain his daughters until they are married. [See: Mulla's Principles of Mohammedan Law (19th Edn.) page 300].....”

34. Section 20(3) of Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 is nothing but recognition of principles of Hindu Law regarding maintenance of children and aged parents. Section 20(3) now makes it statutory obligation of a Hindu to maintain his or her daughter, who is unmarried and is unable to maintain herself out of her own earnings or other property.

35. Section 20 of Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 cast a statutory obligation on a Hindu to maintain his daughter who is unmarried and unable to maintain herself out of her own earnings or other property. As noted above, Hindu Law prior to enactment of Act, 1956 always obliged a Hindu to maintain unmarried daughter, who is unable to maintain herself. The obligation, which is cast on the father to maintain his unmarried daughter, can be enforced by her against her father, if she is unable to maintain herself by enforcing her right under Section 20.

36. The Act, 1956 was enacted to amend and codify the law relating to adoptions and maintenance among Hindus. A bare perusal of Section 125(1) Cr.P.C. as well as Section 20 of Act, 1956 indicates that whereas Section 125 Cr.P.C. limits the claim of maintenance of a child until he or she attains majority. By virtue of Section 125(1)(c), an unmarried daughter even though she has attained majority is entitled for maintenance, where such unmarried daughter is by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury is unable to maintain itself. The Scheme under Section 125(1) Cr.P.C., thus, contemplate that claim of maintenance by a daughter, who has attained majority is admissible only when by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury, she is unable to maintain herself.

37. In the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, Section 488 Cr.P.C. was the provision governing the maintenance of wife or legitimate or illegitimate child of any person. Section 488(1) Cr.P.C. provided:

"488(1). If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain his wife or his legitimate or illegitimate child unable to maintain itself, the District Magistrate, a Presidency Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, at such monthly rate, not exceeding five hundred rupees in the whole, as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate from time to time directs."

38 . Section 488 Cr.P.C. (old) Section 125 (new) sought to inhibit negligence of woman and children with intent to serve a social purpose. The provision provided for summary proceeding to enable a deserted wife or helpless child, legitimate or illegitimate, to get urgent relief. The laws are nothing but collective consciousness of community. It is in the interest of the community and social order that woman and child who are neglected be maintained and should be provided a forum to obtain urgent relief to enable them to sustain.

39. Supreme Court in Nanank Chand Vs. Chandra Kishore Aggarwal and Others, (1969) 3 SCC 802 had occasion to consider the provision of Section 488 Cr.P.C., 1898 in reference to provisions of Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956, which provided for overriding effect of Act. Section 4 of the Act, 1956 is to the following effect:

"Section 4. Overriding effect of Act- Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act,-

(a) any text, rule or interpretation of Hindu law or any custom or usage as part of that law in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall cease to have effect with respect to any matter for which provision is made in this Act;

(b) any other law in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall cease to apply to Hindus in so far as it is inconsistent with any of the provisions contained in this Act."

40. In Nanak Chand's case the question arose as to whether by virtue of Section 4 of Act, 1956, the provision of Section 488 Cr.P.C. shall be overridden. In the above case Supreme Court explained the provisions of Section 488 Cr.P.C. as well as Section 20 of the Act, 1956. Supreme Court held that there is no inconsistency between Section 488 Cr.P.C. and the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act and both can stand together. Supreme Court further held that Section 488 Cr.P.C. provides a summary remedy and is applicable to all persons belonging to all religions and has no relationship with the personal law of the parties. Following was laid down in paragraph 4:

"4.....The learned Counsel says that Section 488 Cr.P.C., insofar as it provides for the grant of maintenance to a Hindu, is inconsistent with Chapter III of the Maintenance Act, and in particular, Section 20, which provides for maintenance to children. We are unable to see any inconsistency between the Maintenance Act and Section 488, Cr.P.C. Both can stand together. The Maintenance Act is an act to amend and codify the law relating to adoptions and maintenance among Hindus. The law was substantially similar before and nobody ever suggested that Hindu Law, as in force immediately before the commencement of this Act, insofar as it dealt with the maintenance of children, was in any way inconsistent with Section 488, Cr.P.C. The scope of the two laws is different. Section 488 provides a summary remedy and is applicable to all persons belonging to all religions and has no relationship with the personal law of the parties. Recently the question came before the Allahabad High Court in Ram Singh v. State, AIR 1963 All 355 , before the Calcutta High Court in Mahabir Agarwalla v. Gita Roy [1962] 2 Cr. L.J.528 and before the Patna High Court in Nalini Ranjan v. Kiran Rani, AIR 1965 Pat 442. The three High Courts have, in our view, correctly come to the conclusion that Section 4(b) of the Maintenance Act does not repeal or affect in any manner the provisions contained in Section 488, Cr.P.C."

41. Supreme Court in Yamunabai Anantrao Adhav Vs. Anantrao Shivram Adhav and Another, (1988) 1 SCC 530, held that personal law applicable to the parties cannot altogether be excluded from consideration in proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

42. In Yamunabai's case (supra), the question involved was as to whether a Hindu woman who is married after coming into force of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 to a Hindu male having a living lawfully wedded wife, can maintain an application for maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. Supreme Court in the above case held the marriage of Yamunabai to be null and void from its very inception. In the above context, Supreme Court referred to provision of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 to find out marital status. In paragraphs 5 and 6, following was laid down:

"5. It has been contended on behalf of the appellant that the term 'wife ' in Section 125 of the Code should be given a wider and extended meaning so as to include therein not only a lawfully wedded wife but also a woman married in fact by performance of necessary rites or following the procedure laid down under the law. Relying upon the decision of Supreme Court in Mohd. Ahmed khan v. Shah Bano Beghum, 1985 Cri LJ 875 it was argued that the personal law of the parties to a proceeding under Section 125 of the Code should be completely excluded from consideration. The relationship of husband and wife comes to an end on divorce, but a divorcee has been held to be entitled to the benefits of the section, it was urged, and therefore applying this approach a woman in the same position as the present appellant should be brought within the sweep of the section. We are afraid, the argument is not well founded. A divorcee is included within the section on account of Clause (b) of the Explanation. The position under the corresponding Section 488 of the code of 1898 was different. A divorcee could not avail of the summary remedy. The wife's right to maintenance depended upon the continuance of her married status. It was pointed out in Shah Bano's case that since that right could be defeated by the husband by divorcing her unilaterally under the Muslim Personal Law or by obtaining a decree of divorce under any other system of law, it was considered desirable to remove the hardship by extending the benefit of the provisions of the section to a divorced woman so long as she did not remarry, and that was achieved by including Clause (b) of the Explanation. Unfortunately for the appellant no corresponding provision was brought in so as to apply to her. The legislature decided to bestow the benefit of the Section even on an illegitimate child by express words but none are found to apply to a de facto wife where the marriage is void ab initio.

6. The attempt to exclude altogether the personal law applicable to the parties from consideration also has to be repelled. The section has been enacted in the interest of a wife, and one who intends to take benefit under Sub-section (1)(a) has to establish the necessary condition, namely, that she is the wife of the person concerned. This issue can be decided only by a reference to the law applicable to the parties. It is only where an applicant establishes her status on relationship with reference to the personal law that an application for maintenance can be maintained. Once the right under the section is established by proof of necessary conditions mentioned therein, it cannot be defeated by further reference to the personal law. The issue whether the section is attracted or not cannot be answered except by the reference to the appropriate law governing the parties. In our view the judgment in Shah Bano's case does not help the appellant.

It may be observed that for the purpose of extending the benefit of the section to a divorced woman and an illegitimate child the Parliament considered it necessary to include in the section specific provisions to that effect, but has not done so with respect to women not lawfully married."

43. It is to be noted that in the above case personal law was looked into to find out as to whether an application filed by the appellant Yamunabai claiming to be his wife was maintainable or not. Another judgment which needs to be noted is Kirtikant D. Vadodaria Vs. State of Gujarat and Another, (1996) 4 SCC 479. The question which came for consideration before Supreme Court Court was as to whether expression "mother" used in clause (d) of sub-section (1) of Section 125 Cr.P.C. includes stepmother. Supreme Court referring to Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as provision of Section 20 of Act, 1956 held that stepmother can claim maintenance from her stepson provided she is widow of her husband, if living, and also incapable of maintaining and supporting her.

44. The Calcutta High Court in case of Kiran Bala Saha plaintiff v. Bankim Chandra Saha defendant reported in AIR

1967 Calcutta 603 (V 54 C 128) has held that the Court should take notice of subsequent events that post suit events as they are called and to mould its relief so as to shorten litigation, preserve the rights of the parties and thus, best subserve the end of justice. In paragraph no. 22 of the judgment of Calcutta High Court has held as under:

"22……. The obvious answer to an approach as this appears to be that it is the duty of the Court, which still retains control of the judgment, to take notice of subsequent events, post-suit events as they are called, and to mould its decree so as to shorten litigation, preserve the rights of parties, and thus best subserve the ends of justice. What to say of the primary court, as mine is even a court of appeal is to take notice of facts which may have arisen subsequently, provided that such action causes no prejudice to either party. Here I see no prejudice, no possibility of prejudice even, to the defendant, because the facts I take notice of are all in the realm of admissions. The proposition I go by is supported by a crowd of decisions. To mention but a few, here are they: (1) Ram Ratan Sahu v. Mohant Sahu, (1907) 6 Cal LJ 74, (2) Ramyad Sahu v. Bin-deshwari Kumar Upadhay, (1907) 6 Cal LJ 102, (3) Rai Charan Mondal v. Biswanath Mondal. 20 Cal LJ 107 = (AIR 1915 Cal 103). (4) Annapurna Dasi v Sarat Chandra Bhatta-charjee , (5) Raja Kamala Ranjan Roy v. Baijnath Bajoria, (1949) 53 Cal WN 329, (6) Surinder Kumar v. Gian Chand 1958 SCA 412=(AIR) 1957 SC 875). On the contrary, if I do not take notice of such subsequent facts--and admitted facts at that--the result will be multiplicity of proceedings either in the shape of a fresh suit or a petition under Section 25 of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act 78 of 1956 for increase of the maintenance I grant. That augurs no good for either of the spouses."

45. After enactment of Family Courts Act, 1984, a Family Court shall also have the jurisdiction exercisable by a Magistrate of the First Class under Chapter IX of Cr.P.C. relating to order for maintenance of wife, children and parents. Family Courts shall have the jurisdiction only with respect to city or town whose population exceeds one million, where there is no Family Courts, proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. shall have to be before the Magistrate of the First Class. In an area where the Family Court is not established, a suit or proceedings for maintenance including the proceedings under Section 20 of the Act, 1956 shall only be before the District Court or any subordinate Civil Court.

46. There may be a case where the Family Court has jurisdiction to decide a case under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as the suit under Section 20 of Act, 1956, in such eventuality, Family Court can exercise jurisdiction under both the Acts and in an appropriate case can grant maintenance to unmarried daughter even though she has become major enforcing her right under Section 20 of Act, 1956 so as to avoid multiplicity of proceedings.

47. In case of Jagdish Jugtawat v. Manju Lata and others reported in (2002) 5 SCC 422, the facts of the case were that the respondent No.3 was a minor unmarried girl of the petitioner. The wife of the petitioner, i.e., mother of respondent No.3 filed an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. claiming maintenance @ Rs.500/- per month to each of the applicant, which was granted by the Family Court. A revision was filed before the High Court assailing the order contending that the respondent No.3, Kumari Rakhi was entitled to maintenance only till she attains majority and not thereafter. High Court although accepted the legal position that under Section 125 Cr.P.C., a minor daughter is entitled to maintenance from her parents only till she attains majority but declined to interfere with the orders passed by the Family Court taking the cue from Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act. The facts of the case and observations of the High Court have been made in the paragraph 2 of the judgment, which is to the following effect:-

"2. The Petitioner is the father of Kumari Rakhi, Respondent 3 herein, who is a minor unmarried girl. Considering the application filed under Section 125 of the Criminal Procedure Code by Respondent 1, wife of the Petitioner and mother of Respondent 3, claiming maintenance for herself and her two children, the Family Court by order dated 22.7.2000 granted maintenance @ Rs.500 per month to each of the Applicants. The Petitioner herein filed a revision petition before the High Court assailing the order of the Family Court on the ground, inter alia, that Respondent 3 was entitled to maintenance only till she attains majority and not thereafter. Considering the point the learned Single Judge of the High Court accepted, the legal position that under Section-125, CrPC, a minor daughter is entitled to maintenance from her parents only till she attains majority, but declined to interfere with the order passed by the Family Court taking the cue from Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act under which the right of maintenance is given to a minor daughter till her marriage. The learned Single Judge was persuaded to maintain the order of the Family Court with a view to avoid multiplicity of proceedings. The relevant portion of the judgment of the High Court is quoted here:

"Thus, in view of the above, though it cannot be said that the order impugned runs counter to the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the provisions of Section 125 CrPC are applicable irrespective of the personal law and it does not make any distinction whether the daughter claiming maintenance is a Hindu or a Muslim. However, taking an overall view of the matter, I, with all respect to the Hon'ble Court, am of the candid view that the provisions require literal interpretation and a daughter would cease to have the benefit of the provisions under Section 125 CrPC on attaining majority, though she would be entitled to claim the benefits further under the statute/personal law. But the Court is not inclined to interfere, as the order does not result in miscarriage of justice, rather interfering with the order would create great inconvenience to Respondent 3 as she would be forced to file another petition under sub-section (3) of Section 20 of the Act of 1956 for further maintenance etc. Thus, in order to avoid multiplicity of litigations, the order impugned does not warrant interference."

48. The question which came for consideration before Supreme Court in Jagdish Jugtawat's case has been noted in paragraph 3 of the judgment which is to the following effect:

"3. In view of the finding recorded and the observations made by the learned Single Judge of the High Court, the only question that arises for consideration is whether the order calls for interference. ....."

49. Supreme Court answered the question noticed in paragraph 3 as above in paragraph 4 in the following words:

"4. Applying the principle to the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, it is manifest that the right of a minor girl for maintenance from parents after attaining majority till her marriage is recognized in Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act. Therefore, no exception can be taken to the judgment/order passed by the learned Single Judge for maintaining the order passed by the Family Court which is based on a combined reading of Section 125, Code of Criminal Procedure and Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act. For the reasons aforestated we are of the view that on facts and in the circumstances of the case no interference with the impugned judgment order of the High Court is called for."

50. In the present case, the order impugned has been passed by the family court exercising jurisdiction under Family Courts Act, 1984. The family court has jurisdiction for trying cases both under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as under Section 20 of the Act of 1956.

51. In case of Abhilasha v. Parkash (supra), the Supreme Court has held that an unmarried daughter has right of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. till she attains majority or is covered by the exception as carved out in the Section 125 Cr.P.C. The Supreme Court, however, declined to interfere with the order impugned before the Supreme Court for the reason that the proceedings were in the aforesaid case before Judicial Magistrate First Class and not before family court. The Judicial Magistrate First Class has no jurisdiction to entertain an application under Section 20 of the Act of 1956. The Supreme Court also granted liberty to the appellants before the Supreme Court to take recourse Sub-clause (3) of Section 20 of the Act of 1956, if so advised, for claiming any maintenance against her father.

52. Since, in the present case, the order has been passed by the family court which has jurisdiction to entertain the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as well as application under Sub-clause (3) of Section 20 of Act of 1956, no purpose will be served in interfering with the revision and relegating the daughter to move a fresh application before the same court under different provision of law i.e. Section 20(3) of Act of 1956, and therefore, I am not inclined to interfere with the order and consequently, the revision No. 83 of 2023 fails and is dismissed.

53. So far as the revision No. 5926 of 2023 filed by the wife and daughter is concerned, the amount of maintenance awarded by the court below appears to be just as no new material was brought before this Court, requiring interference by this Court. Therefore, I am of the view that no interference is required with the order impugned at the behest of wife and daughter i.e. revisionist and consequently, revision No.5926 of 2023 is also dismissed. However, dismissal of this revision will not come in the way of revisionists to claim suitable modification of the order in view of the provisions of Section 127 Cr.P.C. or to get the amount of maintenance enhanced by moving an appropriate application before the Family Court under relevant provision of law, if so advised, on the subsequent facts, which may be brought to the knowledge of the court below.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Singh Sangwan, J.)

1. By this judgment, Criminal Misc. 5280 of 2023 as well as Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2140 of 2023 are decided as both the petitions arise out of same impugned First Information Report dated 21.11.2022 registered as Case Crime No. 486 of 2022 at Police Station – Sector 113, Commissionerate, Gautam Buddha Nagar, Uttar Pradesh under Sections 406, 409, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504 and 506 of IPC as well as the impugned order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddh Nagar dated 17.12.2022 directing to register the F.I.R.

2. It is worth noticing that these petitions are pending since 2023 and a coordinate Bench of this Court reserved the judgment on 25.7.2023. However, subsequently on 25.9.2023, the case was again relisted for arguments. Thereafter, the case was listed before another Bench and vide order dated 8.4.2024, the arrest of the petitioners was stayed. On 27.7.2024, again the case was listed before another Bench which passed an order of rescuel and as per the order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice dated 29.7.2024, this case is directed to be listed before this Bench.

3. Arguments were heard and judgment was reserved on 22.08.2024.

4. It is also worth noticing that though detailed petitions as well as detailed replies have been filed relying upon the number of documents and arguments were heard at length from both the sides, however, in view of the settled principle of law that a petition for quashing of F.I.R. is to be decided on the contents of the F.I.R., this judgment is based upon the documents relied upon by the informant as noticed in the impugned order dated 17.12.2022 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddh Nagar directing the police to register the F.I.R. as well as the contents of the F.I.R. and the affidavit filed by the informant in response to the quashing petitions.

5. Brief facts of the case are that the informant-M/s Abhi Compusoft Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as "informant company") filed a complaint under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddh Nagar. In the complaint, eight persons were nominated as accused who are referred to as A-1 to A-8 as per the memo of the parties in the complaint as well as name of the accused in the F.I.R. in the same sequence.

6. The complaint which forms basis of registration of the impugned F.I.R. reads as under :

सीआरपी०सी०ः-

श्रीमान जी,

निवेदन है कि मैं प्रार्थी हर्षित सिंह, पुत्र स्व० श्री अजीत सिंह, मैसर्स अभी कम्पूसाफ्ट प्रा०लि० का डायरेक्टर हूँ तथा फ्लैट संख्या-1001, आनन्द टावर, गृह प्रवेश सोसायटी, सेक्टर-77, नोएडा, जिला गौतमबुद्धनगर का निवासी हूँ। प्रार्थी की कम्पनी को मार्च-2017 में स्क्वायर इन्फ्रास्ट्रक्चर प्रा०लि० कम्पनी ने 85 प्रतिशत शेयर आवंटित किये तथा तथा 10 प्रतिशत शेयर प्रार्थी की कम्पनी के डायरेक्टर श्री अभिषेक यश त्यागी के परिचित स्टेलर ग्रुप के चेयरमैन श्री रवि. मोहन सेठी पुत्र नामालूम व अक्षय मोहन सेठी पुत्र रवि मोहन सेठी निवासी- ए-44, सेक्टर-17, नोएडा को भई आवंटित किये तथा 05 प्रतिशत शेयर कम्पनी के पूर्व निदेशक श्री विजय कुमार जैन एवं श्री अरिहन्त जैन के पास रहे। स्क्वायर इन्फ्रास्ट्रक्चर प्रा०लि० कम्पनी भू-खण्ड संख्या-11 व 12 क्षेत्रफल 10002.50 वर्ग मीटर, सेक्टर-127, नोएडा की आवंटी थी। स्क्वायर इन्फ्रास्ट्रक्चर प्रा०लि० कम्पनी के 85 प्रतिशत शेयर आवंटित होने के बाद उक्त वर्णित भू-खण्ड संख्या-11 व 12 क्षेत्रफल 10002.50 वर्ग मीटर, सेक्टर-127, नोएडा पर भी प्रार्थी की कम्पनी ने कब्जा ले लिया, तभी उक्त भू-खण्डों पर आफिस बिल्डिंग प्रोजेक्ट बनाने हेतु रवि मोहन सेठी व अक्षय मोहन सेठी द्वारा जाइन्ट वेन्चर के प्रस्ताव के साथ श्री अभिषेक यश त्यागी से मुलाकात की गयी। उन्होंने बताया कि उनके ग्रुप को इस कार्य में महारत हासिल है और उनके पार्टनर डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० एक्सप्रेस बिल्डिंग, थर्ड फ्लोर, 9-10, बहादुर शाह जफर मार्ग, नई दिल्ली-110002, से लोन भी मिल सकता है यदि उनकी कुछ शर्ते मान ली जायें। तभी डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० कम्पनी के अधिकृत प्रतिनिधि शिवाशीष चटर्जी पुत्र नामालूम, युवराज चाणक्य सिंह पुत्र नामालूम, विवेक गुप्ता पुत्र नामालूम व पुनिन्दर भाटिया पुत्र नामालूम ने साजिश करके रवि मोहन सेठी, अक्षय मोहन सेठी, हिमांशी माथुर के साथ मिली-भगत करके रवि मोहन सेठी एवं अक्षय मोहन सेठी के माध्यम से श्री अभिषेक यश त्यागी को यह विश्वास दिलाया कि यदि बैंकिंग के अधिकृत हस्ताक्षरी व मैसर्स स्क्वायर प्रा०लि० कम्पनी के बोर्ड मैनेजमेन्ट के समस्त अधिकार स्टेलर ग्रुप की मैसेर्स ओमेगा इन्फोविजन को दे दिये जायें, तो डी०एम०आई फाईनेन्स कम्पनी 55 करोड रूपये का लोन दे देगी, जिसकी वापसी का प्रबन्ध भी स्टेलर ग्रुप द्वारा किया जायेगा, प्रोजेक्ट के पहली फेज का निर्माण 18 माह में पूर्ण किया जायेगा, निर्माण के दौरान ही बड़ी-बड़ी कम्पनियों को चढ़वाने के एग्रीमेंट करवाने का बिजनस प्लान दिया गया तथा इस फेज की बिल्डिंग से ही 2 करोड़ रूपये प्रति माह की आमदनी का प्रलोभन भी दिया गया। श्री अभिषेक यश त्यागी ने इन लोगों की बात पर विश्वास कर लिया और स्टेलर ग्रुप की कम्पनी ओमेगा इन्फोविजन प्रा०लि० व स्क्वायर इन्फ्रास्ट्रक्चर प्रा०लि० के साथ दिनांक 23.05.2018 को शेयर होल्डर्स एग्रीमेन्ट निष्पादित किया, जिसमें प्रार्थी की कम्पनी ने स्टेलर ग्रुप की कम्पनी ओमेगा इन्फोविजन प्रा०लि० को उक्त भू-खण्ड पर बिल्डिंग बनाने हेतु डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० से लोन लेने की बातचीत प्रारम्भ करने एवं आगे की कार्यवाही करने हेतु अधिकृत किया, कम्पनी का मेनेजमेंट दिया तथा निर्माण के लिए कान्ट्रेक्टर तय करने का अधिकार दिया। इसी क्रम में रवि मोहन सेठी, अक्षय मोहन सेठी, हिमांशु, माथुर, अरविन्द कुमार सिं व डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० के अधिकृत प्रतिनिधियों शिवाशीष चटर्जी, युवराज चाणक्य सिंह, विवेक गुप्ता व पुनिन्दर भाटिया के आश्वासनो पर श्री अभिषेक यश त्यागी ने अपनी अभी कम्पूसाफ्ट प्रा०लि० कम्पनी के 85 प्रतिशत शेयर होल्डर होने के बावजूद भी 10 प्रतिशत शेयर होल्डर सेट्लर ग्रुप की कम्पनी ओमेगा इन्फोविजन प्रा०लि० के चेयरमैने रवि मोहन सेठी व निदेशक अक्षय मोहन सेठी के कहने पर हिमांशु माथुर व अरविन्द कुमार सिंह को स्क्वायर इन्फ्रास्ट्रक्चर प्रा०लि० के समस्त अधिकार दे दिये, तभी रवि मोहन सेठी, अक्ष्य मोहन सेठी, हिमांशु माथुर, अरविन्द कुमार सिंह व डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० के अधिकृत प्रतिनिधियों शिवाशीष चटर्जी, युवराज चाणक्य सिंह, विवेक गुप्ता व पुनिन्दर भाटिया ने एक फर्जी एवं कूटरचित दस्तावेज डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० कम्पनी का फाइनल सेंक्शन लेटर दिनांकित 02.05.2018 तैयार किया तथा एक फर्जी एवं कूटरचित वर्क आर्डर दिनांक 02.04.2018 की तिथि में तैयार करके मैसर्स की-स्टोन डवलपर्स प्रा०लि० को 53,55,70,000/- रूपये में बिल्डिंग बनाने का कान्ट्रेक्ट तय करके एक फर्जी एवं कूटरिचत पत्र जारी कर दिया, जिसकी जानकारी प्रार्थी को तब हुई जब इन लोगो ने एग्रीमेन्ट के अनुसार कार्य नही किया। स्टेलर ग्रुप के निदेशक रवि मोहन सेठी, अक्षय मोहन सेठी, हिमांशु माथुर व अरविन्द कुमार सिंह ने वर्ष 2018 में ही कोटेक महिन्द्रा बैंक, सेक्टर-16, नोएडा में खाता खोला तथा डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० कम्पनी से मार्च-2020 तक 58 करोड रूपये उक्त खाते में विभिन्न किस्तों में ट्रांसफर कराया तथा सितम्बर, अक्टूबर 2021 में भारत सरकार द्वारा कोविड-19 महामारी के दौरान शुरु की गयी ई०सी०एल०जी०एस० स्कीम (इमरजेन्सी क्रेडिट लाइन गारण्टी स्कीम) के तहत 09 करोड़ 80 लाख रूपये अतिरिक्त उक्त कोटेक महिन्द्रा बैंक खाते में डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० कम्पनी से ट्रांसफर करा लिये। उक्त

मोहन सेठी, अक्षय मोहन सेठी, हिमांशु माथुर व अरविन्द कुमार सिंह ने बिल्डिंग बनाने का कार्य पूरा नही किया, जो कि उनको 18 महीने में पूरा करना था तथा फर्जी कागजात तैयार करके नोएडा प्राधिकरण से कम्पलीशन प्रमाण – पत्र भी ले लिया तथा 67 करोड़ 80 लाख रूपये डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० से प्राप्त कर लिया। प्रार्थी को ज्ञात हुआ कि मैसर्स की-स्टोन डवलपर्स प्रा०लि० के एम०डी० रवि मोहन सेठी व डायरेक्टर हिमांशु माथुर ही हैं तथा हिमांशु माथुर व अक्षय मोहन सेठी सागर टेक्नोसिटी प्रा०लि० कम्पनी के डायरेक्टर हैं तथा सागर टेक्नोसिटी प्रा०लि० में स्टेलर ग्रुप व डी०एम०आई ग्रुप आपस में पार्टनर हैं। लोन की शर्तो के अनुसार मैसर्स की-स्टोन प्रा०लि० अथवा डी०एम०आई फाईनेन्स प्रा०लि० को लोन से प्राप्त धनराशि से कोई भी भुगतान नही किया जा सकता था परन्तु डी०एम०आई फाईनेन्स प्रा०लि० एवं स्टेलर ग्रुप के इन लोगों की मिलीभगत से यह घपला होता रहा। डी०एम०आई फाइनेन्स प्रा०लि० के प्रतिनिधि शिवाशीष चटर्जी, युवराज चाणक्य सिंह, विवेक गुप्ता, पुनिन्दर भाटिया, रवि मोहन सेठी, अक्षय मोहन सेठी, हिमांशु माथुर व अरविन्द कुमार सिंह ने साजिश करके फर्जी एवं कूटरचित दस्तावेज तैयार करके 67 करोड़ 80 लाख रूपये स्क्वायर इन्फ्रास्ट्रक्चर प्रा०लि० कम्पनी के खाते में ट्रांसफर करके गबन कर लिया है तथा एग्रीमेंटके अनुसार बिल्डिंग का कार्य पूरा नही किया है। इन लोगों की शुरु से ही बुरी नियत प्रार्थी की कम्पनी की जमीन हड़पने की थी और इनकी मिलीभगत के तहत रवि मोहन सेठी ने बिना लोन के डिफाल्ट हुऐ जमीन हड़पने के लिए अपनी ओर से ही अपने पार्टनर डी०एम०आई प्रा०लि० को पत्र लिख दिया जिससे इनकी मंशा साफ दिखाई पड़ती है। जब प्रार्थी ने दिनांक 05.11.2022 को इनसे कहा कि आपने 67 करोड़ 80 लाख रूपये कहां खर्च किये हैं, क्योंकि बिल्डिंग अभी अधूरी है, तो इन्होंने प्रार्थी को जाने से मारने व बुरा अंजाम भुगतने की धमकी दी, जिसकी सूचना प्रार्थी ने तुरन्त थाना हाजा पर दी, किन्तु उन्होंने कोई कार्यवाही नही की, जिससे प्रार्थी व उसके परिवार को जान माल का खतरा उत्पन्न हो गया है। प्रार्थी द्वारा श्रीमान पुलिस आयुक्त गौतमबुद्धनगर को भी एक प्रार्थना-पत्र रजिस्टर्ड डाक के माध्यम से प्रेषित किया गया, किन्तु उस पर भी कोई कार्यवाही नही की गई है। विवश होकर प्रार्थी माननीय न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रार्थना-पत्र प्रस्तुत कर रहा है।

अतः श्रीमान जी से विनम्र निवेदन है कि स्टेलर ग्रुप की कम्पनी ओमेगा इन्फोविजन प्रा०लि० के चेयरमैने रवि मोहन सेठी, अक्ष्य मोहन सेठी, हिमांशू माथुर, अरविन्द कुमार सिंह व डी०एम०आई फाईनेन्स कम्पनी के शिवाशीष चटर्जी, युवराज चाणक्य सिंह, विवेक गुप्ता व पुनिन्दर भाटिया के विरूद्ध फर्जी एवं कूटरचित दस्तावेज तैयार करके 67 करोड़ 80 लाख रूपये हड़पने व प्रार्थी को जान से मारने की धमकी देने के जुर्म में प्रार्थी की रिपोर्ट दर्ज कर कानूनी कार्यवाही करने की कृपा करें।

8. Two sets of petitioners i.e. A-1 to A-4 have filed Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5280 of 2023 and A-5 to A-8 have filed Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2140 of 2023. Counter affidavits on behalf of informant company are also filed. Both the parties have also submitted their written submissions.

9. Heard Sri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi learned Senior Advocate, Sri Dileep Kumar, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Vipul Ganda and Mr. Vinayak Mittal, learned counsel for the petitioners in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2140 of 2023 and Sri Manish Tiwari assisted by Ms. Himadri Batra, learned counsel for the petitioners in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5280 of 2023. We have also heard Mr. Swetashwa Agarwal and Sri Subir Lal, learned counsel for the informant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

10. Learned Senior counsel for the petitioners in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2140 of 2023 has argued that petitioner (A-5) is the Vice President of DMI Finance Private Limited (herein after referred to as 'DMI/lender company'). Petitioners (A-6 to A-8) are the Joint Managing Directors, Head of real estate of the lender company.

11. Learned Counsel for the petitioners in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5280 of 2023 has submitted that petitioner (A-1) is the Director of Omega Infovision Private Limited and Chairman of Stellar Group. Whereas petitioners (A-2 to A-4) are the are the former Directors of Square Infrastructure Private Limited (Borrower Company).

12. The undisputed facts as emerged from the F.I.R. are as under :

A. The informant company took over 85% shareholding of M/s Square Infrastructure Private Limited in the name of M/s Abhi Compusoft Private Limited. 10% shares were allotted to (A-1) who was Director, Omega Infovision Private Limited and Chairman of Stellar Group and remaining 5% shares remained with the former Directors of M/s Square Infrastructure Company Limited i.e. Arihant Jain and Vijay Kumar Jain. The Company- Square Infrastructure Private Limited was allotted plot No. 11 & 12 having area of 10002.50 sq. metres in Sector 127, NOIDA, Uttar Pradesh.

B. Informant company and the accused in their capacity of office bearers of their respective company came with a proposal of joint venture of construction for which, the DMI/lender company agreed to provide finance.

C. A work order dated 2.4.2018 was executed and M/s Keystone Developers Private Limited (Contractor Company) was allotted the work order and amount of Rs.53,55,70,000/- for construction of the building on the name of Square Infrastructure Private Limited (Borrower Company).

D. On 23.5.2018, a share holders agreement as relied upon by informant in the impugned order and F.I.R. was entered into between the parties for construction of building.

A sanction letter dated 2.5.2018 of DMI Finance was also executed between informant company and (A-1 to A-8) who also signed a formal agreement on 23.5.2018 and the aforesaid amount was transferred in favour of the borrower company. The work order was to be executed by the contractor company.

E. It is also an admitted case that during construction period, due to Covid 19, the government floated an Emergency Credit Line Guarantee Scheme (hereinafter referred to as 'ECLGS') and additional amount of Rs.9,80,00,000/- was transferred by DMI Finance in the account of the creditor company as per a subsequent loan agreement dated 28.06.2021 executed between the parties.

13. The F.I.R. has been registered on the following grounds :

(i) In premeditated conspiracy hatched by DMI/ Lender Company and the Contractor Company, the work order was awarded to their subsidiary company even before the formal loan agreement was signed with the informant company and undue benefit has been given to the creditor company.

(ii) Sanction letter dated 2.4.2018 is also a forged document as the work order has been allotted prior to the sanctioning of the loan.

(iii) The amount of loan under the agreement dated 23.5.2018 was transferred to Omega Infovision Priviate Limited which is a subsidiary of Stellar Group and the same is in violation of the clause in the loan agreement "End Use Restriction" which mandated that funds are to be used for the project construction and development only.

(iv) Despite transfer of additional funds by DMI Finance, no actual construction was performed at the project site and the additional amount was misappropriated by the lender company.

(v) Threats were extended to Directors of the informant company.

14. In view of the facts as noticed from the F.I.R. itself, the learned senior counsel for the petitioners (A-5 to A-8) has argued that the accused persons are in fact Managing Director/Directors of DMI Finance which has parted away huge amount of money to the creditor company and with a mala fide intention not to repay the loan, the present F.I.R. has been registered by the informant company though the construction has been completed and the completion certificate has been issued by NOIDA Development Authority and it is admitted case of the informant company that the possession of the plot was handed over to the informant company at the time of transfer of 85% shares as stated in the F.I.R. itself.

15. Reliance is placed upon the photograph of the projects wherein specific stand is taken by the petitioner that informant company itself is having its office on the entire seventh floor of the building which stands completed.

16. It is thus argued that the allegation in the F.I.R. that the amount financed by DMI Finance which belong to (A-5 to A-8) was never used for construction of the building which was still lying incomplete, is palpably wrong as the informant company has adopted a novel method not to repay the loan amount by invoking the criminal proceedings against the petitioners.

17. It is next argued that the second ground taken in the F.I.R. that the work order was issued prior to the sanctioning of the loan, do not not disclose commission of any offence as present F.I.R. has been registered only after completion of the construction. It is submitted that it is only after the work order was allotted, the cost of construction was estimated, and thereafter the loan got sanctioned with the consent of the informant company.

18. Learned counsel has referred to the sanction letter dated 2.4.2018 and agreement dated 23.5.2018 relied upon by the informant itself in the F.I.R. to submit that the same has been signed by the authorized representative of informant company as well. It is argued that once this agreement was acted upon between the parties and the construction was raised with the consent of the informant, the registration of the F.I.R. with the allegation that this agreement is an outcome of fraud, is patently wrong.

19. It is next argued that allegation that DMI Finance has sanctioned the loan on higher rate of interest i.e. 16% also does not constitute any offence as rate of interest was agreed on between the parties. It is submitted that the DMI Finance is a non banking finance company and the rate of interest was agreed between the parties under a written agreement for which, the informant has civil rights.

20. It is next argued that from the bare perusal of the F.I.R., no offence under Section 420 of IPC is made out as DMI Finance has only advanced loan which has to be repaid by the informant company, once the same has been utilized by the informant company and construction is completed. No offence under Sections 406 & 409 of IPC is made out.

21. It is also argued that even no offence under Sections 467, 468 & 471 of IPC is made out as allegation that the work order dated 2.4.2018 was issued by Square Infrastructure Private Limited to its subsidiary Stellar Group called M/s Keystone Developer as a contractor whereas shareholder agreement was executed on 23.5.2018 also do not constitute any such offence. The work order dated 2.4.2018 was within the knowledge of the informant company which executed the shareholder agreement on 23.5.2018.

22. It is submitted that after the construction has been completed, the informant company cannot raise an argument that work order dated 2.4.2018 is a forged document as completion certificate is admittedly issued by the Authority.

23. The Counsel further submits that offence under Section 504 & 506 of IPC are also not made out as there are general allegations of passing derogatory or insulting comments or extending threat to the informant and these allegations do not relate to (A-5 to A-8).

24. It is next argued that there is arbitration clause 11.1 in the loan agreement which is executed by the borrower company, guarantors, promoters as well as the DMI Finance. Clause 11.1 clearly provides that any dispute arising out of the agreement will be referred to sole arbitrator to be appointed by the lender company.

25. It is submitted that a purely commercial transaction is converted into criminal litigation just to put pressure on the petitioners.

26. Learned counsel has referred to the judgment of the Supreme Court in M.N.G. Bharateesh Reddy vs. Ramesh Rangnathan and another, (2022) 16 SCC 210 wherein the Supreme Court has held as under :

"12. The ingredients of the offence of cheating are spelt out in Section 415 of the IPC. Section 415 is extracted below:

"415. Cheating — Whoever, by deceiving any person, fraudulently or dishonestly induces the person so deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or intentionally induces the person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived, and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property, is said to "cheat". Explanation — A dishonest concealment of facts is a deception within the meaning of this section."

13. The ingredients of the offence under Section 415 emerge from a textual reading. Firstly, to constitute cheating, a person must deceive another. Secondly, by doing so the former must induce the person so deceived to :

(i) deliver any property to any person; or (ii) to consent that any person shall retain any property; or (iii) intentionally induce the person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived and such an act or omission must cause or be likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property.

14. Section 420 deals with cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property. It reads as follows:

"420. Cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property – Whoever cheats and thereby dishonestly induces the person deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to make, alter or destroy the whole or any part of a valuable security, or anything which is signed or sealed, and which is capable of being capable of converting into a valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."

15. In Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma v. State of Bihar4 , a two-judge bench of this Court interpreted sections 415 and 420 of IPC to hold that fraudulent or dishonest intention is a precondition to constitute the offence of cheating. The relevant extract from the judgment reads thus:

"14. On a reading of the section it is manifest that in the definition there are set forth two separate classes of acts which the person deceived may be induced to do. In the first place he may be induced fraudulently or dishonestly to deliver any property to any person. The second class of acts set forth in the section is the doing or omitting to do anything which the person deceived would not do or omit to do if he were not so deceived. In the first class of cases the inducing must be fraudulent or dishonest. In the second class of acts, the inducing must be intentional but not fraudulent or dishonest.

15. In determining the question it has to be kept in mind that the distinction between mere breach of contract and the offence of cheating is a fine one. It depends upon the intention of the accused at the time of inducement which may be judged by his subsequent conduct but for this subsequent 4 (2000) 4 SCC 168 4 conduct is not the sole test. Mere breach of contract cannot give rise to criminal prosecution for cheating unless fraudulent or dishonest intention is shown right at the beginning of the transaction, that is the time when the offence is said to have been committed. Therefore it is the intention which is the gist of the offence. To hold a person guilty of cheating it is necessary to show that he had fraudulent or dishonest intention at the time of making the promise. From his mere failure to keep up promise subsequently such a culpable intention right at the beginning, that is, when he made the promise cannot be presumed." (emphasis supplied)

16. In Dalip Kaur v. Jagnar Singh5 a two-judge bench of this Court held that a dispute arising out of a breach of contract would not amount to an offence of cheating under section 415 and 420. The relevant extract is as follows:

"9. The ingredients of Section 420 of the Penal Code are: "(i) Deception of any persons; (ii) Fraudulently or dishonestly inducing any person to deliver any property; or (iii) To consent that any person shall retain any property and finally intentionally inducing that person to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit."

10. The High Court, therefore, should have posed a question as to whether any act of inducement on the part of the appellant has been raised by the second respondent and whether the appellant had an intention to cheat him from the very inception. If the dispute between the parties was essentially a civil dispute resulting from a breach of contract on the part of the appellants by non-refunding the amount of advance the same would not constitute an offence of cheating. Similar is the legal position in respect of an offence of criminal breach of trust having regard to its definition contained in Section 405 of the Penal Code. (See Ajay Mitra v. State of M.P. [(2003) 3 SCC 11 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 703])" (emphasis supplied)

17. Applying the above principles, the ingredients of Sections 415 and 420 are not made out in the present case. The grievance of the first respondent arises from the termination of his services at the hospital. The allegations indicate that there was an improper billing in respect of the surgical services which were rendered by the complainant at the hospital. At the most, the allegations allude to a breach of terms of the Consultancy Agreement by the Appellant, which is essentially in the nature of a civil dispute.

18. The allegations in the complaint are conspicuous by the absence of any reference to the practice of any deception or dishonest intention on behalf of the Appellant. Likewise, there is no allegation that the complainant was as a consequence induced to deliver any property or to consent that any person shall retain any property or that he was deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would have not done or omitted to do if he was not so deceived. The conspicuous aspect of the complaint which needs to be emphasized is that the ingredients of the offence of cheating are absent in the averments as they stand.

19. Section 405 of the IPC deals with criminal breach of trust and reads as follows:

"405. Criminal breach of trust – Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made 5 (2009) 14 SCC 696 5 touching the discharge of such trust, or willfully suffers any other person so to do, commits "criminal breach of trust"." The offence of criminal breach of trust contains two ingredients: (i) entrusting any person with property, or with any dominion over property; and (ii) the person entrusted dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property to the detriment of the person who entrusted it.

20. In Anwar Chand Sab Nanadikar v. State of Karnataka6 a two-judge bench restated the essential ingredients of the offence of criminal breach of trust in the following words:

"7. The basic requirement to bring home the accusations under Section 405 are the requirements to prove conjointly (1) entrustment, and (2) whether the accused was actuated by the dishonest intention or not misappropriated it or converted it to his own use to the detriment of the persons who entrusted it. As the question of intention is not a matter of direct proof, certain broad tests are envisaged which would generally afford useful guidance in deciding whether in a particular case the accused had mens rea for the crime."

21. In Vijay Kumar Ghai v. State of West Bengal7 another two-judge bench held that entrustment of property is pivotal to constitute an offence under section 405 of the IPC. The relevant extract reads as follows:

"28. "Entrustment" of property under Section 405 of the Penal Code, 1860 is pivotal to constitute an offence under this. The words used are, "in any manner entrusted with property". So, it extends to entrustments of all kinds whether to clerks, servants, business partners or other persons, provided they are holding a position of "trust". A person who dishonestly misappropriates property entrusted to them contrary to the terms of an obligation imposed is liable for a criminal breach of trust and is punished under Section 406 of the Penal Code."

22. None of the ingredients of the offence of criminal breach of trust have been demonstrated on the allegations in the complaint as they stand. The first respondent alleges that the Appellant caused breach of trust by issuing grossly irregular bills, which adversely affected his professional fees. However, an alleged breach of the contractual terms does not ipso facto constitute the offence of the criminal breach of trust without there being a clear case of entrustment. No element of entrustment has been prima facie established based on the facts and circumstances of the present matter. Therefore, the ingredients of the offence of criminal breach of trust are ex facie not made out on the basis of the complaint as it stands."

27. Reliance has also been placed on the decision in Lalit Chaturvedi and Others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 171, wherein, the Supreme Court has held as under :

5. This Court, in a number of judgments, has pointed out the clear distinction between a civil wrong in the form of breach of contract, non-payment of money or disregard to and violation of the contractual terms; and a criminal offence under Sections 420 and 406 of the IPC. Repeated judgments of this Court, however, are somehow overlooked, and are not being applied and enforced. We will be referring to these judgments. The impugned judgment dismisses the application filed by the appellants under Section 482 of the Cr. P.C. on the ground of delay/laches and also the factum that the chargesheet had been filed on 12.12.2019. This ground and reason is also not valid.

6. In "Mohammed Ibrahim v. State of Bihar"4, this Court had referred to Section 420 of the IPC, to observe that in order to constitute an offence under the said section, the following ingredients are to be satisfied:—

"18. Let us now examine whether the ingredients of an offence of cheating are made out. The essential ingredients of the offence of "cheating" are as follows:

(i) deception of a person either by making a false or misleading representation or by dishonest concealment or by any other act or omission;

(ii) fraudulent or dishonest inducement of that person to either deliver any property or to consent to the retention thereof by any person or to intentionally induce that person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived; and

(iii) such act or omission causing or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property.

19. To constitute an offence under section 420, there should not only be cheating, but as a consequence of such cheating, the accused should have dishonestly induced the person deceived

(i) to deliver any property to any person, or

(ii) to make, alter or destroy wholly or in part a valuable security (or anything signed or sealed and which is capable of being converted into a valuable security)."

7. Similar elucidation by this Court in "V.Y. Jose v. State of Gujarat"5, explicitly states that a contractual dispute or breach of contract per se should not lead to initiation of a criminal proceeding. The ingredient of 'cheating', as defined under Section 415 of the IPC, is existence of a fraudulent or dishonest intention of making initial promise or representation thereof, from the very beginning of the formation of contract. Further, in the absence of the averments made in the complaint petition wherefrom the ingredients of the offence can be found out, the High Court should not hesitate to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr. P.C. Section 482 of the Cr. P.C. saves the inherent power of the High Court, as it serves a salutary purpose viz. a person should not undergo harassment of litigation for a number of years, when no criminal offence is made out. It is one thing to say that a case has been made out for trial and criminal proceedings should not be quashed, but another thing to say that a person must undergo a criminal trial despite the fact that no offence has been made out in the complaint. This Court in V.Y. Jose (supra) placed reliance on several earlier decisions in "Hira Lal Hari Lal Bhagwati v. CBI"6, "Indian Oil Corporation v. NEPC India Ltd."7, "Vir Prakash Sharma v. Anil Kumar Agarwal"8 and "All Cargo Movers (I) (P) Ltd. v. Dhanesh Badarmal Jain"9.

8. Having gone through the complaint, which was registered as an FIR and the assertions made therein, it is quite clear that respondent no. 2/complainant - Sanjay Garg's grievance is regarding failure of the appellants to pay the outstanding amount, in spite of the respondent no. 2/complainant - Sanjay Garg's repeated demands. The respondent no. 2/complainant - Sanjay Garg states that the supplies were made between the period 01.12.2015 and 06.08.2017. The appellants had made the payments from time to time of Rs. 3,76,40,553/- leaving a balance of Rs. 1,92,91,358/-.

9. We will assume that the assertions made in the complaint are correct, but even then, a criminal offence under Section 420 read with Section 415 of the IPC is not established in the absence of deception by making false and misleading representation, dishonest concealment or any other act or omission, or inducement of the complainant to deliver any property at the time of the contract(s) being entered. The ingredients to allege the offence are neither stated nor can be inferred from the averments. A prayer is made to the police for recovery of money from the appellants. The police is to investigate the allegations which discloses a criminal act. Police does not have the power and authority to recover money or act as a civil court for recovery of money.

10. The chargesheet also refers to Section 406 of the IPC, but without pointing out how the ingredients of said section are satisfied. No details and particulars are mentioned. There are decisions which hold that the same act or transaction cannot result in an offence of cheating and criminal breach of trust simultaneously.10 For the offence of cheating, dishonest intention must exist at the inception of the transaction, whereas, in case of criminal breach of trust there must exist a relationship between the parties whereby one party entrusts another with the property as per law, albeit dishonest intention comes later. In this case entrustment is missing, in fact it is not even alleged. It is a case of sale of goods. The chargesheet does refer to Section 506 of the IPC relying upon the averments in the complaint. However, no details and particulars are given, when and on which date and place the threats were given. Without the said details and particulars, it is apparent to us, that these allegations of threats etc. have been made only with an intent to activate police machinery for recovery of money.

11. It is for the respondent no. 2/complainant - Sanjay Garg to file a civil suit. Initiation of the criminal process for oblique purposes, is bad in law and amounts to abuse of process of law.

28. Counsel for petitioner has further relied upon the decision in Maksud Saiyed Vs. State of Gujarat and others, (2008) 5 SCC 668 wherein, the Supreme Court has held as under :

"13. Where a jurisdiction is exercised on a complaint petition filed in terms of Section 156(3) or Section 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the Magistrate is required to apply his mind. The Penal Code does not contain any provision for attaching vicarious liability on the part of the Managing Director or the Directors of the Company when the accused is the Company. The learned

Magistrate failed to pose unto himself the correct question viz. as to whether the complaint petition, even if given face value and taken to be correct in its entirety, would lead to the conclusion that the respondents herein were personally liable for any offence. The Bank is a body corporate. Vicarious liability of the Managing Director and Director would arise provided any provision exists in that behalf in the statute. Statutes indisputably must contain provision fixing such vicarious liabilities. Even for the said purpose, it is obligatory on the part of the complainant to make requisite allegations which would attract the provisions constituting vicarious liability.

14. It will bear repetition to state that throughout the complaint petition, no allegation had been made as against any of the respondents herein that they had anything to deal with personally either in discharge of their statutory or official duty. As indicated hereinbefore, in the prospectus, a bona fide mistake had been committed. The fact that such a mistake had been committed stands accepted. In any event, the statement that the matter was pending before DRT instead and place of the City Civil Court, Ahmedabad, per se, cannot be said to be defamatory as the fact that a suit was pending for recovery of the huge amount is neither denied nor disputed. Whether such a suit was maintainable and/or is ultimately to be decreed or disposed of is a question which has to be gone into in the suit itself. A criminal court cannot even take that factor into consideration. The High Court considered the matter at some great details. Having analysed the materials placed before it, it was held:

"... It was, therefore, stated that there was no suppression or concealment of any facts and it did not amount to criminal breach of trust and cheating on the part of the Bank as alleged by the complainant. The said export bills under L/C were negotiated by the Bank under the provisions of UCPDC 500 1995 Revision. The Bank has also informed vide its letter dated 8-2-2005 to M/s SBI Capital Markets Ltd. It was stated therein that the Bank has not concealed or suppressed any material fact against the interest of the public at large and investors in particular. The bona fide misdescription in setting out the nature of claim was unintentional. It was further stated that the material particulars like the amount of claim, date of filing and name of the Company was correctly mentioned. The misdescription did not materially influence/affect the decision of the investors/public...."

It was furthermore opined:

"It appears to the Court that the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate has not applied his mind while passing the order under Section 156(3) of the Criminal Procedure Code directing the police to investigate in the matter. The impugned order, on the face of it, reveals that he has not gone through the complaint. He has stated in the order that Accused 1 to 10 are Manager and Branch Manager of Dena Bank. As a matter of fact, Accused 1 was the Ex-Chairman and Managing Director of Dena Bank, and Accused 2 was the Executive Director. Accused 3 to 10 are Directors of Dena Bank. None of these persons are Managers or Branch Manager. Despite this, the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate has mentioned in his order that they are Managers or Branch Managers. With regard to the prospectus he has simply stated that the Bank has issued prospectus for its public issue and at p. 87 false informations were given so as to cause damage to the Company and to jeopardise the reputation of the Company.

Despite the fact that the litigations are pending before the civil court he has mentioned about non-returning of export bills, etc. On these facts he has passed order under Section 156(3) of the Criminal Procedure Code, directing PSI, Sayajiganj Police Station to make inquiry in the matter."

The approach of the High Court, with respect, is entirely correct. 15. This Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate [(1998) 5 SCC 749 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1400] held as under: (SCC p. 760, para 28)

"28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. The Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

The learned Magistrate, in our opinion, shall have kept the said principle in mind."

29. Counsel has lastly relied upon the decision in Thermax Limited and Others vs. K.M. Johny and others, (2011) 13 SCC 412 wherein the Supreme Court has held as under :

"49. The entire analysis of the complaints with reference to the principles enunciated above and the ingredients of Sections 405, 406, 420 read with Section 34 IPC clearly show that there was inordinate delay and laches, the complaint itself is inherently improbable and contains the flavour of civil nature and taking note of the closure of earlier three complaints that too after thorough investigation by the police, we are of the view that the Magistrate committed a grave error in calling for a report under Section 156(3) of the Code from the Crime Branch, Pune. In view of those infirmities and in the light of Section 482 of the Code, the High Court ought to have quashed those proceedings to safeguard the rights of the appellants. For these reasons, the order passed by the Judicial Magistrate, First Class, Pimpri in CC No. 12 of 2002 on 20-8-2007 and the judgment of the High Court dated 11-1-2008 [WP (Cri) No. 1622 of 2007 order dated 11-1-2008 (Bom)] in Criminal Writ Petition No. 1622 of 2007 are set aside. The complaint filed by Respondent 1 herein is quashed."

30. Learned counsel has also relied upon the decision in Priyanka Shrivastava and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Others, (2015) 6 SCC 287 wherein the Supreme Court has held as under :

"27. Regard being had to the aforesaid enunciation of law, it needs to be reiterated that the learned Magistrate has to remain vigilant with regard to the allegations made and the nature of allegations and not to issue directions without proper application of mind. He has also to bear in mind that sending the matter would be conducive to justice and then he may pass the requisite order. The present is a case where the accused persons are serving in high positions in the bank. We are absolutely conscious that the position does not matter, for nobody is above law. But, the learned Magistrate should take note of the allegations in entirety, the date of incident and whether any cognizable case is remotely made out. It is also to be noted that when a borrower of the financial institution covered under the SARFAESI Act, invokes the jurisdiction under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and also there is a separate procedure under the Recovery of Debts due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, an attitude of more care, caution and circumspection has to be adhered to.

28. Issuing a direction stating "as per the application" to lodge an FIR creates a very unhealthy situation in the society and also reflects the erroneous approach of the learned Magistrate. It also encourages the unscrupulous and unprincipled litigants, like the respondent no.3, namely, Prakash Kumar Bajaj, to take adventurous steps with courts to bring the financial institutions on their knees. As the factual exposition would reveal, he had prosecuted the earlier authorities and after the matter is dealt with by the High Court in a writ petition recording a settlement, he does not withdraw the criminal case and waits for some kind of situation where he can take vengeance as if he is the emperor of all he surveys. It is interesting to note that during the tenure of the appellant No.1, who is presently occupying the position of Vice-President, neither the loan was taken, nor the default was made, nor any action under the SARFAESI Act was taken. However, the action under the SARFAESI Act was taken on the second time at the instance of the present appellant No.1. We are only stating about the devilish design of the respondent No.3 to harass the appellants with the sole intent to avoid the payment of loan. When a citizen avails a loan from a financial institution, it is his obligation to pay back and not play truant or for that matter play possum. As we have noticed, he has been able to do such adventurous acts as he has the embedded conviction that he will not be taken to task because an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is a simple application to the court for issue of a direction to the investigating agency. We have been apprised that a carbon copy of a document is filed to show the compliance of Section 154(3), indicating it has been sent to the Superintendent of police concerned.

29. At this stage it is seemly to state that power under Section 156(3) warrants application of judicial mind. A court of law is involved. It is not the police taking steps at the stage of Section 154 of the code. A litigant at his own whim cannot invoke the authority of the Magistrate. A principled and really grieved citizen with clean hands must have free access to invoke the said power. It protects the citizens but when pervert litigations takes this route to harass their fellows citizens, efforts are to be made to scuttle and curb the same.

……..xx……..xxx……..xx

32. The present lis can be perceived from another angle. We are slightly surprised that the financial institution has been compelled to settle the dispute and we are also disposed to think that it has so happened because the complaint cases were filed. Such a situation should not happen.

33. At this juncture, we may fruitfully refer to Section 32 of the SARFAESI Act, which reads as follows :

"32. Protection of action taken in good faith.- No suit, prosecution or other legal proceedings shall lie against any secured creditor or any of his officers or manager exercising any of the rights of the secured creditor or borrower for anything done or omitted to be done in good faith under this Act."*

In the present case, we are obligated to say that learned Magistrate should have kept himself alive to the aforesaid provision before venturing into directing registration of the FIR under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. It is because the Parliament in its wisdom has made such a provision to protect the secured creditors or any of its officers, and needles to emphasize, the legislative mandate, has to be kept in mind."

31. It is argued that the accused A-5 to A-8 who are the office bearers of DMI Finance have been falsely roped in the F.I.R. just to put pressure on them and the Magistrate has passed the impugned order without application of judicial mind.

32. Learned counsel has also relied upon the decision in Babu Venkatesh and Others vs. State of Karnataka and others, (2022) 5 SCC 639 where in the Supreme Court while relying upon its earlier judgment in State of Haryana vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 355 has held as under :

18. It could thus be clearly seen that, the said complaint dated 10th September 2019, was filed almost after a period of two years from the date of institution of suits by the appellant Nos. 2 and 3, and almost after a period of one and a half year from the date on which written statement was filed by respondent No. 2.

19. It will be relevant to refer to the following observations of this court in the case of State of Haryana and Others v. Bhajan Lal and Others, which read thus.

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised:

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused. (4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.

103. We also give a note of caution to the effect that the power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; that the court will not be justified in embarking upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the court to act according to its whim or caprice."

20. It could thus be seen that, though this court has cautioned that, power to quash criminal proceedings should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases, it has specified certain category of cases wherein such power can be exercised for quashing proceedings.

21. We find that in the present case, though civil suits have been filed with regard to the same transactions and though they are contested by the respondent No. 2 by filing written statement, he has chosen to file complaint under Section 156 (3) of the Cr.P.C. after a period of one and half years from the date of filing of written statement with an ulterior motive of harassing the appellants. We find that, the present case fits in the category of No. 7, as mentioned in the case of State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal."

33. The Counsel has thus argued that the accused (A-5 to A-8) whose company, DMI Finance, has provided loan to the project has to recover back their loan amount and in fact the DMI Finance has filed a petition before the N.C.L.T., Delhi and on the very next date when the F.I.R. was registered, they withdrew the petition with right to revive the same as the informant company, in order to avoid its liability to repay the loan, has given the civil dispute a colour of criminal litigation.

34. Learned counsel for petitioners in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.5280 of 2023 has argued that on 4.4.2017, two directors of the informant company, namely Himanshu Mathur and Arvind Kumar Singh were brought on the board of M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. and on 31.1.2018, Deepak Malhortra was also inducted on the Board of the aforesaid company and, therefore, there were three directors / nominee of the informant company. It is submitted that the work order dated 2.4.2018 prepared in the name of M/s Keystone Developers Pvt. Ltd. company of accused (A-1 to A-4) and DMI Finance Pvt Ltd. was approached which is a Non Banking Finance Company for loan which was sanctioned on 2.5.2018 for Rs.55 Crores at the rate of 16% interest for construction of Phase-I.

35. Learned counsel laid emphasis upon this sanction letter dated 2.5.2018 was acknowledged by Deepak Malhotra of informant company as per a written declaration and, therefore, it does not lie in the mouth of the informant company that any misrepresentation or fraud is committed.

36. It is further argued that the loan agreement was signed on 23.5.2018 in conformity with sanction letter dated 2.5.2018 and Rs.55 Crore loan was disbursed to M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. by mortgaging the project land and on the personal guarantee of Akshay Sethi (A-2) and corporate guarantee of Stellar Ventures Pvt. Ltd. which is petitioner group's company and M/s Keystone Developers Pvt. Ltd. (contractor company, also a Petitioner's group company).

37. Learned counsel also laid emphasis that the loan agreement dated 23.5.2018 was duly signed by Deepak Malhotra on behalf of informant company as Promoter-2 and Abhishek Tyagi in personal capacity as Promoter-1 who is also director of the informant company and M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. also signed the loan as Promoter-3.

38. It is also argued that the additional loan in Emergency Credit Line Guarantee Scheme (ECLGS) of Government of India, during Covid-19 for Rs.9.80 Crore was taken from DMI Finance Pvt Ltd.and both informant company and borrower company signed the letters dated 28.6.2021 and second loan agreement dated 30th September, 2021 were signed by the informant company through Deepak Malhotra. It is submitted that Phase-I/ Tower-I was completed by M/s Keystone Developers Pvt. Ltd. and occupancy certificate was given by Noida Development Authority on 13.1.2022. The informant company is running its office on the 7th Floor in Tower-A since then and is in possession. It is further argued that the petitioners' company also infused additional funds of Rs.28.095 Crore to M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. in order to make payment of interest on the loan for the some time, however despite request petitioners' company refused to infuse any fund into M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. despite repeated letters.

39. It is further argued that since the informant company even on completion of Phase-I/ Tower-A did not repay the loan amount, DMI Finance Company issued notice of default and on 23.11.22 DMI Finance Company filed a application under Section 7 of IBC before NCLT, New Delhi for default in payment of Rs.2,91,17,377/- against SIPL and immediately thereafter the FIR was registered by the informant company. It is submitted that the mediation proceedings initiated by DMI Finance Company failed because the director of the informant company did not appear in the proceedings.

40. It is argued that the allegation that the official of DMI Finance (accused A-5 to A-8) have colluded or conspired with accused (A-1 to A-4) in preparing a fake and fraudulent sanction letter dated 2.5.2018, is palpably wrong and is a misleading the statement in the FIR as informant company acted upon this sanction letter and by using the said letter entered into a loan agreement on 23.5.2018 and actual amount of loan Rs.55 Crore was disbursed to SIPL. It is submitted that each and every page of sanction letter dated 2.5.2018 and the loan agreement dated 23.5.2018 is signed by the informant company through its director Deepak Malhotra.

41. It is next argued that the allegation in the FIR that the work order dated 2.4.2018 is fake and fraudulent work order is also a misleading and mischievous statement in the FIR as the informant company in the FIR has admitted that all the rights for constructions were given by the informant company to Omega Infovision Pvt. Ltd. under a shareholder agreement and the construction was executed at the spot and the completion certificate was issued and the informant company is running its office from Tower-A which is in possession of informant company and, therefore, the allegations in the FIR are apparently false.

42. It is also argued that there is no diversion or siphoning off of the fund as alleged in the FIR as the amount has been utilized for construction and occupancy certificate is already obtained by the informant company.

43. It is submitted that the allegation in the FIR that the account was opened in Kotak Mahendra Company in 2018 is factually incorrect as the account was opened in 2013 in ING Vysya Bank by previous directors and this bank merged with Kotak Mahindra Bank. Since the account was opened prior to March, 2017, the accused (A-1 to A-4) have no role.

44. Learned counsel argued that the allegation of threat or the intimidation to the informant – Harshit Singh are vague and or mere allegation without specifying any such action. He next argued that the shareholder agreement dated 23.5.2018 which is referred to in the FIR provides Clause 5.1 and 7.1 as under :-

"Clause 5.1 of the SHA, it is provided that OIPL through its nominees/ employees etc. shall have the exclusive right to undertake all development, construction, building, sale and leasing of the Project on behalf of SIPL, including appointment of any contractor etc. as it may deem fit.

Clause 7.1 it is specifically provided that the parties agree that the Company (SIPL) may avail loan facility from DMI Finance Pvt. Ltd. (DMI) in such terms and conditions including amount of the loan, interest rate, tenure etc. as may be mutually agreed between the Company (SIPL) and DMI for construction and development of the Project and Petitioners' company OIPL or its nominee/ employee shall have the unconditional right to negotiate the terms thereof on behalf of the Company ".

45. It is thus argued that the FIR has been registered in order to avoid repayment of loan by the informant company by adopting a novel method of converting the civil proceedings to the FIR.

46. The informant company has filed counter affidavit in both the petitions.

47. In the counter affidavit to the Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.2140 of 2023 (Puninder Bhatia and 3 others Vs. State of U.P. and others) the allegation levelled in the FIR are reiterated.

It is submitted that on 31.3.2017, the informant company acquired 85% shareholding of M/s Square Infrastructure

Pvt. Ltd. and 10% share was acquired by Omega Infovision Pvt. Ltd. of accused (A-1 to A-4) being a subsidiary of Stellar Group.

48. On 31.1.2018, one Deepak Malhotra was nominated as Director of M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. The allegation in the FIR that on 2.4.2014 a work order was issued in favour of M/s Keystone Developers Pvt. Ltd., though the shareholding agreement was formally signed by the company on 23.5.2018 and, therefore, the work order dated 2.4.2018 show that it was a premeditated plot of the accused persons in collusion with each other.

49. It is also submitted that on 2.5.2018, loan was sanctioned by DMI Finance Pvt Ltd. in favour of M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. and a loan agreement was signed on 23.5.2018 for a loan amount of Rs.55 Crores for construction of Phase-I of the Project. It is also submitted that Stellar Group of companies signed a deed of guarantee. Certain terms and conditions in clause of agreements are also detailed in the counter affidavit.

50. It is also submitted that the accused persons in collusion with the petitioner have siphoned off loan amount received under ECLGS to their subsidiary companies in violation of Clause 2.15 “End Use Restriction”.

51. In the counter affidavit to the Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.5280 of 2023 (Ravi Mohan and 3 Others Vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others), similar stand is taken. In written submissions, it is submitted on behalf of informant company that offence under Section 420 IPC is made out as (A-1 to A-4) has fraudulently misrepresented and induce the informant company having 85% of the shareholding to enter into a joint venture of construction of Phase I.

52. On such misrepresentation, informant company transferred the rights of management and banking etc. to the company of minority shareholders i.e. accused (A-1 to A-4) who came in possession of the land of the informant company.

53. It is next submitted that the offence under Section 406 & 409 IPC is made out as till October, 2020 the loan of Rs.55 Crores was disbursed out of which major amount was transferred to M/s Keystone Developers Pvt Ltd. against “end use restriction” of agreement.

54. The project was partly completed up to 30.6.2021. Thereafter, under ECLGS scheme of Government, accused (A-1 to A-4) acquired additional loan of Rs.9.8 crores in October, 2021 from DMI Finance Pvt Ltd. (accused A-5 to A-8). However, accused (A-1 to A-4) transferred the money to their subsidiary company in violation of loan conditions thereby committing breach of trust and misappropriation of public money.

55. It is submitted that the offence under Sections 467, 468 and 471 IPC is made out as the work order dated 2.4.2018 was executed by M/s Square Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. issuing the work to its subsidiary company of Stellar Group called M/s Keystone Developers Pvt Ltd. as contractor though there was no agreement between informant company and Omega Infovision Pvt. Ltd. till 23.5.2018 when a formal agreement was signed and thus the accused has forged the sanction letter of DMI Finance Pvt Ltd.

56. It is also argued that offence under Sections 504 and 506 IPC are made out as on 5.11.2022, the representative of Omega Infovision Pvt. Ltd. threatened and abused the director of informant company. It is also argued that the matter involves disputed facts which cannot be adjudicated in the writ jurisdiction regarding the plea of civil dispute.

57. It is submitted that since the fraud is committed by the accused, they cannot seek protection under the garb of a plea that it is a civil or commercial dispute.

58. Reliance is placed on the decision of Supreme Court in Priti Saraf Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) (2021) 16 SCC 142, the Supreme Court has observed as under :-

"31. In the instant case, on a careful reading of the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet, in our view, it cannot be said that the complaint does not disclose the commission of an offence. The ingredients of the offences under Sections 406 and 420 IPC cannot be said to be absent on the basis of the allegations in the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet. We would like to add that whether the allegations in the complaint are otherwise correct or not, has to be decided on the basis of the evidence to be led during the course of trial. Simply because there is a remedy provided for breach of contract or arbitral proceedings initiated at the instance of the appellants, that does not by itself clothe the court to come to a conclusion that civil remedy is the only remedy, and the initiation of criminal proceedings, in any manner, will be an abuse of the process of the court for exercising inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC for quashing such proceedings.

32. We have perused the pleadings of the parties, the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet and orders of the Courts below and have taken into consideration the material on record. After hearing learned counsel for the parties, we are satisfied that the issue involved in the matter under consideration is not a case in which the criminal trial should have been short-circuited. The High Court was not justified in quashing the criminal proceedings in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction. The High Court has primarily adverted on two circumstances, (i) that it was a case of termination of agreement to sell on account of an alleged breach of the contract and (ii) the fact that the arbitral proceedings have been initiated at the instance of the appellants. Both the alleged circumstances noticed by the High Court, in our view, are unsustainable in law. The facts narrated in the present complaint/FIR/charge-sheet indeed reveal the commercial transaction but that is hardly a reason for holding that the offence of cheating would elude from such transaction. In fact, many a times, offence of cheating is committed in the course of commercial transactions and the illustrations have been set out under Sections 415, 418 and 420 IPC".

59. Reliance is placed on the decision of Supreme Court in Court in Trisuns Chemical Industry Vs. Rajesh Agarwal and Others, (1999) 8 SCC 686, the Supreme Court has observed as under :-

"9. We are unable to appreciate the reasoning that the provision incorporated in the agreement for referring the disputes to arbitration is an effective substitute for a criminal prosecution when the disputed act is an offence. Arbitration is a remedy for affording reliefs to the party affected by breach of the agreement but the arbitrator cannot conduct a trial of any act which amounted to an offence albeit the same act may be connected with the discharge of any function under the agreement. Hence, those are not good reasons for the High Court to axe down the complaint at the threshold itself. The investigating agency should have had the freedom to go into the whole gamut of the allegations and to reach a conclusion of its own. Pre-emption of such investigation would be justified only in very extreme cases as indicated in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [1992 Supp (1) SCC 335]".

60. Reliance is also placed on the decision of Supreme Court in Court in Shri Krishna Agencies Vs. State of A.P., (2009) 1 SCC 69, wherein the Supreme Court has observed that criminal proceedings cannot be quashed solely because the dispute was referred to Arbitration and that Arbitration proceedings had taken place thereafter.

61. Learned A.G.A. has also addressed the arguments on similar line as raised by the counsel for the informant.

62. After hearing the counsel for the parties, as observed earlier, in view of the settled principle of law that while deciding a petition either under Section 482 of Cr.P.C. or under Section 226/227 of Constitution of India, the High Court cannot look into the defence documents set up by the accused persons and has to decide whether any offence are made out or not from the contents of the F.I.R., this Court has only relied upon contents of F.I.R., the four documents relied in the F.I.R. and the counter affidavit of the informant.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2140 of 2023

There is merit so far as Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2140 of 2023 is concerned for the following reasons :

A. From the bare perusal of the F.I.R., the case of the informant is that in March, 2017, the informant company i.e. M/s Abhi Compusoft Private Limited acquired 85% shares of Square Infrastructure Private Limited. The Square Infrastructure Private Limited was the owner of a plot in Sector 127, NOIDA, Uttar Pradesh and the possession was handed over to the informant company. Later on 2.4.2018, M/s Keystone Developers Private Limited was given the work to construct Phase-I of the project and in this regard, on 2.5.2018, DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) made an offer of providing loan. On 23.5.2018, a share holder's agreement was entered into between the accused side as well as the informant side. It is also admitted in the F.I.R. that as per the agreement, the DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) transferred a loan of Rs.55 Crores and construction was started. Later on, during Covid-19 period, under ECLGS Scheme of the Government, another amount of Rs.9.80 Crores was provided by DMI Finance in the company of the accused (A-1 to A-4). At the end of the F.I.R., it is stated that the construction is not completed and all the accused persons have committed the offence of misappropriation of the loan amount.

B. From the bare perusal of the F.I.R. and the documents relied upon by the informant in the F.I.R. itself, there is no allegation that DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) was part of any conspiracy as alleged by the informant. The case of DMI Finance is clear that on 2.5.2018 a loan sanction letter was issued which was acted upon by the informant company as a shareholder's formal agreement was executed on 23.5.2018 under the signatures of the informant company as well as the other accused and DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8), according to which, the DMI Finance transferred Rs.55 Crores in favour of companies of co-accused (A1 to A4) from 2018 onwards and additional amount of Rs.9.80 Crores as per the subsequent agreement in the year 2021. Thus, the DMI Finance has no role in the inter se dispute between the informant company and the companies of accused (A-1 to A-4) even from the bare perusal of the F.I.R.

C. It is a candid case of DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) that when the informant company failed to repay the instalments of loan, various recovery notices were given and a petition was filed before the N.C.L.T., Delhi and immediately thereafter, the present F.I.R. has been registered and thus, the said petition was withdrawn with liberty to revive. Thus, DMI Finance is taking its legal recourse for recovery of the loan amount.

D. The case set up by the other co-accused (A-1 to A4) is that their company has paid an amount of Rs. 28.09 crores for making payment of interest but despite request, the informant company has refused to infuse any fund towards M/s Square Infrastructure Private Limited (borrower company) which has to repay the loan to DMI Finance.

On specific Court query whether the informant company has repaid any amount towards loan to DMI Finance, learned counsel for the informant could not rebut the allegation of the petitioner. It is worth noticing that neither in the F.I.R. it is stated that the informant company is repaying the instalments of loan nor any such document is relied upon in the F.I.R. Even in the counter affidavit filed by the informant to the writ petitions filed by the accused (A-5 to A-8), there is no whisper about the repayment of loan by the informant company. Therefore, in view of the judgment in Priyanka Srivastava's Case (Supra), it is apparent that the informant company has roped in the officer bearers of DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) as a ploy and a novel method not to make repayments of loan, thereby, converting their civil liability into a criminal prosecution which is apparently mala fide.

It is admitted case of the informant company that in F.I.R. itself that DMI Finance has transferred loan amount of Rs.55 Crores with effect from 2018 onward and additional loan amounting Rs.9.80 Crores from 2021 onwards.

E. The case set up by accused (A-1 to A-4) is that the entire construction of Phase-I is completed and Tower-A is errected and completion certificate was issued by NOIDA Development Authority on 13.1.2022 and informant company is running its office from 7th Floor and is in possession of the property. Therefore, the registration of the F.I.R. in the year 2022 and prosecution of the accused (A-5 to A-8), after the completion of the project and taking over the possession, is nothing but misuse of process of law as the informant company wants to avoid repayment of loan.

F. It is worth noticing that when this petition was filed, on the request of both the parties, the matter was referred for mediation and admittedly, from the informant side, one of the directors initially attended the mediation proceedings but as he failed to appear subsequently, the mediation proceedings failed. This also reflect bent of mind of the informant company not to repay the loan amount.

G. From the bare perusal of the F.I.R., the ingredients of offence under Section 405 and 420 of IPC are not made out against the DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8). The allegations of extending threat relates to the office bearers of Omega Infovision Private Limited and not against the office bearers of DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) as per F.I.R. itself and, therefore, no offence under Section 504 and 506 of IPC is made out.

H. The two letters, the first sanction letter of DMI Finance dated 2.5.2018 and second, the shareholders' agreement dated 23.5.2018 can not be held to be forged document as informant itself has acted upon these documents after understanding contents and signing the same and have actually taken benefit, in terms of these two documents as loan amount of Rs. 55 Crores and Rs. 9.80 Crores was disbursed to the informant and the companies of accused (A-1 to A-4). Once the informant company itself has signed these documents and after acting upon the same has taken the huge amount of loan from DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8), the lodging of F.I.R. on the ground that these are forged documents is misuse of process of law and is a novel way to avoid repayment of loan by the informant company and, therefore, offence under Sections 467, 468 and 471 is not made out against the petitioners (A-5 to A-8) in view of the decisions in M.N.G. Bharateesh Reddy Case and Lalit Chaturvedi and Others' Case (Supra).

I. There is yet another aspect which the Chief Judicial Magistrate while passing the impugned order did not notice that the dispute is of civil nature and from 2018 to 2022 when the F.I.R. was registered, the informant itself was acting upon the same and taking loan installments from the DMI Finance and after four years, the present F.I.R. has been registered against the DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) as well as the other co-accused and, therefore, the impugned order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate directing registration of the F.I.R. against accused (A-5 to A-8) is not sustainable in the eyes of law in view of the judgment of Supreme Court in Thermax Limited and Others' Case (Supra).

J. In view of the Priyanka Shrivastava's Case (Supra), once the DMI Finance has resorted its remedy before the NCLT, New Delhi for recovery of the loan and even mediation proceedings have been initiated, converting those proceedings into criminal litigation at the instance of the informant who is the beneficiary of the loan agreement and has not repaid any amount of loan to DMI Finance, their prosecution is mala fide and not maintainable.

K. In view of the guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court in Bhajan Lal's Case (Supra), it is a fit case to quash the impugned F.I.R. and consequential proceedings against the petitioners (A-5 to A-8) as from the allegations made in the F.I.R., even taken on the face value and accepted in its entirety, no prima facie offence is made out. Even as per the uncontroverted allegations in the F.I.R., it is the informant company which is the defaulter of the loan amount provided by the DMI Finance vide the two agreements which has been relied upon by the informant in the F.I.R. itself. Therefore, the prosecution of the petitioners (A-5 to A-8) is apparently mala fide.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5280 of 2023

63. So far as petitioners (A-1 to A-4) in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5280 of 2023 are concerned, no case is made out for quashing qua them. As noticed above, the informant company and the companies of accused (A-1 to A-4), in a joint venture, have taken loan from DMI Finance and raised the construction. There are serious allegations of siphoning off of the funds by the accused (A-1 to A-4) in their subsidiary companies and extending threat to the Directors of the informant company and also forging some documents. Therefore, in view of the Bhajan Lal's Case (Supra), this Court finds that the F.I.R. qua accused A-1 to A-4 cannot be quashed at this stage as there are allegation which are disputed by accused (A-1 to A-4) on basis of defence documents which cannot be taken in consideration at this stage.

64. Accordingly, Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2140 of 2023 is allowed. The impugned order dated 17.12.2022 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddh Nagar directing to register the F.I.R. against the officer bearers of DMI Finance (A-5 to A-8) as well as the impugned F.I.R. i.e. Case Crime No. 486 of 2022 at Police Station – Sector 113, Commissionerate, Gautam Buddha Nagar, Uttar Pradesh under Sections 406, 409, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504 and 506 of IPC and all consequential proceedings qua accused (A-5 to A-8) namely Puninder Bhatia, Yuvraj Chankakya Singh, Vivek Gupta and Shivashish Chatterjee are hereby quashed.

65. The Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5280 of 2023 stands dismissed.

A. Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 363 & 366 - Writ petition-quashing of FIR - victim has not supported prosecution version in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C.-parties have married each other-consented physical relationship-victim is major as per ossification test report-Fir quashed-petition allowed. (paras 8 and 9)
HELD:
In view of the above discussion, we are of the considered view that from the first information report, no offence under Section 366 IPC is made out, in as much as, both the petitioners are major and petitioner no.1 had left her home with petitioner no.2 willingly and is living with him as a married woman. (para 8)

B. Filing of statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C.-while challenging FIR-practice deprecated-statement ought not be made available-till the filing of chargesheet-Investigating Officers directed not to supply copy of statements recorded u/s. 164 CrPC(now Section 183 BNSS) to any person during investigation. (Paras 13, 14 and 15)
Held:
This Court has noticed that in a number of cases, the statements recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. are being filed by the accused/petitioners before this Court while challenging FIR under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. This practice has been strictly deprecated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of 'State of Karnataka Vs

Shivam (2014) 8 SCC 913 as well as in A. Vs State of U.P. & anr.(2020) 10 SCC 505. Hon'ble Apex Court in the above-mentioned cases clearly observed that accused or any other person has no right to receive copy of statements recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. until cognizance is taken by the concerned court / Magistrate on chargesheet / police report filed u/s. 173 Cr.P.C. It was also observed by the Apex Court that immediately after recording statement u/s 164 Cr.P.C., copy of the same be given to Investigating Officer with specific direction that contents of such statement should not be disclosed to any person till chargesheet / police report u/s 173 Cr.P.C. is filed. (Para 13)

It is further directed that the Investigating Officers shall not supply copy of the statements recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. (now section 183 BNSS) to any person during investigation. (Para 15)

Petition allowed. (E-14)

1. Supplementary affidavit as well as compliance affidavit filed today are taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Vidya Sagar Rajbhar, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Ghanshyam Kumar, learned AGA-I for the State respondents and perused the record.

3. The present writ petition has been preferred with the prayer to quash the impugned First Information Report dated 27.6.2024, registered as Case Crime No. 0211 of 2022, under Sections 363, 366 IPC, P.S. Bardah, District Azamgarh and for a direction to the respondents not to arrest the petitioners in pursuance of impugned First Information Report.

4. Pursuant to the orders of this Court dated 24.7.2024 and 08.8.2024, learned A.G.A. has filed compliance affidavit annexing therewith copy of the statement of the victim/petitioner no.1 herein recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. and the case diary showing the ossification test report.

5. According to the statement of victim/petitioner no.1 herein recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. the victim has not supported the prosecution version and has categorically stated that she left her home willingly with Arvind, petitioner no.2 herein and they have married each other as well and there was consented physical relationship. As per the ossification test report, the victim is aged above 18 years and below 22 years.

6. Reliance has been placed by learned counsel for the petitioners on a judgement and order dated 5.12.2022 passed by this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 17046 of 2022 (Smt. Juli Kumari and another vs. State of UP and 2 others) to submit that under identical circumstances the petition was allowed and FIR therein was quashed.

7. The aforesaid order dated 5.12.2022 passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 17046 of 2022 (Smt. Juli Kumari and another vs. State of UP and 2 others) is quoted as under:

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned AGA.

Present writ petition has been preferred for quashing the FIR dated 25.10.2022 being Case Crime No.0475 of 2022 under Section 366 IPC, P.S. Saurikh, Distt. Kannauj and for a direction to respondents not to arrest the petitioners pursuant to aforesaid FIR.

Placing reliance on the Aadhar Card of the victim girl showing her date of birth as 1.1.2004, it is submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that the petitioner no.1 is a major girl aged about more than 18 years on the date of incident.

The present petition has been filed with the declaration, jointly by both the petitioners no.1 & 2 that the petitioner no.1 had left her paternal home out of her own sweet will and being a major girl, she is free to take her choice to perform marriage with the petitioner no.2.

The present petition, however, has been filed on the assertion that no offence under Section 366 IPC is made out as the petitioner no.1 is a major girl. The entire criminal case lodged by the respondent no.3 is nothing but an abuse of the process of the law.

Learned counsel for the petitioners has further contended that in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the impugned FIR is liable to be quashed in view of the Supreme Court's judgment in Kavita Chandrakant Lakhani vs. State of Maharashtra & Anr reported in AIR 2018 SC 2099, wherein it was held that to constitute an offence under Section 366 IPC, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove that the accused induced the complainant woman or compelled by force to go from any place, that such inducement was by deceitful means, that such abduction took place with the intent that the complainant may be seduced to illicit intercourse and/or that the accused knew it to be likely that the complainant may be seduced to illicit intercourse as a result of her abduction. Mere abduction does not bring an accused under the ambit of this penal section. So far as charge under Section 366 IPC is concerned, mere finding that a woman was abducted is not enough, it must further be proved that the accused abducted the woman with the intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled to marry any person or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse. Unless the prosecution proves that the abduction is for the purposes mentioned in Section 366 IPC, the Court cannot hold the accused guilty and punish him under Section 366 IPC.

As regards the age of the victim girl, as indicated in the Aadhar Card appended as Annexure No.2 to the writ petition, no dispute has been raised by learned AGA. It is, thus, clear that both the petitioners are major. The fact that the present writ petition has been filed with the declaration by the victim girl and that she is living voluntarily in the company of the petitioner no.2, is supported with the signature of the victim girl on the Vakalatnama. Once the age of the victim girl is not in dispute, the petitioners no.1 & 2 cannot be made accused for committing offence under Section 366 IPC as victim had left her home in order to live with the petitioner no.2.

We make it clear that the question in the present petition is not about the validity of marriage of two individuals i.e. petitioners no.1 & 2. Rather, the issue is about the life and liberty of two individuals in choosing a partner or their right to freedom of choice as to with whom they would like to live.

In view of the above discussion, we are of the considered view that from the first information report no offence under Section 366 IPC is made out, inasmuch as, both the petitioners are major and the petitioner no.1 has come up with the categorical stand that she had left her home with the petitioner no.2 willingly and is living with him as a married woman.

In view of the above, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The FIR dated 25.10.2022 being Case Crime No.0475 of 2022 under Section 366 IPC, P.S. Saurikh, Distt. Kannauj as well as all consequential proceedings are hereby quashed.

We, however, clarify that while deciding the present petition, we have not looked into the validity of marriage of the petitioners."

8. In view of the above discussion, we are of the considered view that from the first information report, no offence under Section 366 IPC is made out, in as much as, both the petitioners are major and petitioner no.1 had left her home with petitioner no.2 willingly and is living with him as a married woman.

9. In view of the above, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The First Information Report dated 27.6.2024, registered as Case Crime No. 0211 of 2022, under Sections 363, 366 IPC, P.S. Bardah, District Azamgarh as well as all consequential proceedings are hereby quashed.

10. We, however, clarify that while deciding the present petition, we have not looked into the validity of marriage of the petitioners.

11. Since this order has been passed in absence of respondent no. 4, she shall be at liberty to file a recall application for recalling of this order within six weeks, in case any false case has been represented before this Court.

12. This Court finds that in the supplementary affidavit filed today, learned counsel for the petitioners has annexed the copy of the statement recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. as well as the copy of the ossification test report.

13. This Court has noticed that in a number of cases, the statements recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. are being filed by the accused/petitioners before this Court while challenging FIR under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. This practice has been strictly deprecated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of 'State of Karnataka vs. Shivam (2014) 8 SCC 913 as well as in A. vs. State of U.P. and another (2020) 10 SCC 505. Hon'ble Apex Court in the above mentioned cases clearly observed that accused or any other person has no right to receive copy of statements recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. until cognizance is taken by the concerned court / Magistrate on chargesheet / police report filed u/s. 173 Cr.P.C. It was also observed by the Apex Court that immediately after recording statement u/s 164 Cr.P.C., copy of the same be given to Investigating Officer with specific direction that contents of such statement should not be disclosed to any person till chargesheet / police report u/s 173 Cr.P.C. is filed. Para 16 and 17 of 'A. vs. State of U.P.' (supra) is quoted as under :

"16. It was, thus, directed by this Court that a copy of the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 CrPC be handed over by the Judicial Magistrate concerned to the investigating officer with a specific direction that the contents of such statement under Section 164 CrPC should not be disclosed to any person till charge-sheet/report under Section 173 CrPC was filed.

17. The scheme of the relevant provisions of CrPC shows that after the conclusion of the investigation, an appropriate report under Section 173 CrPC is to be filed by the police giving information as required by Section 173. In terms of Section 190 CrPC, the Magistrate concerned may take cognizance of any offence inter alia upon a police report. At the stage of exercise of power under Section 190 CrPC, as laid down by this Court in a number of decisions, the notable being the decision in Bhagwant Singh v. State, the Magistrate may deem fit that the matter requires further investigation on certain aspects/issues and may pass appropriate direction. It is only after taking of the cognizance and issuance of process that the accused is entitled, in terms of Sections 207 and 208 CrPC, to copies of the documents referred to in the said provisions."

14. Therefore, this Court also strictly deprecates this practice of annexing the statement of the victim recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. by the accused-petitioners and further is of the view that concerned Magistrates / courts should not issue certified copies of the statement recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. as deprecated by the Hon'ble Apex Court to any person till cognizance is taken on the charge-sheet / police report. This Court also observes that even lower courts are issuing certified copies of the statements recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. (now section 183 BNSS) which is legally not permissible.

15. We, therefore, direct the Registrar General of this Court to bring this order in the knowledge of Hon'ble the Chief Justice so that if it is found appropriate, a circular may be issued to the District Courts of the State of U.P.

16. It is further directed that the Investigating Officers shall not supply copy of the statements recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. (now section 183 BNSS) to any person during investigation.

17. Copy of this order be sent to Director General of Police, U.P. by the Govt. Advocate who shall in turn circulate the same to all the police stations of the district for its compliance.
