Petition Dismissed. (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is directed against an order passed by Mr. Vinay Singh, Additional District Judge, Court No.21, Kanpur Nagar, allowing Misc. Civil Appeal No.103 of 2023 and setting aside the ad interim injunction dated 19.09.2023, granted by the learned Additional Civil Judge (Jr. Div.), Court No.8, Kanpur Nagar in O.S. No.1341 of 2023.

2. The petitioners are the plaintiffs of O.S. No.1341 of 2023, whereas the sole defendant-respondent to this petition is their mother. The property in dispute, that is the suit property, is agricultural land, wherein both the plaintiff-petitioners (for short, 'the plaintiffs') and the defendant-respondent (for short, 'the defendant') hold shares as they claim. The suit property is admittedly undivided. The details of this property are given at the foot of the plaint, giving rise to the suit, whereas in paragraph Nos.2 and 3, the plaintiffs disclose their shares in the suit property and that of the defendant. The cause of action, which the plaintiffs set forth in the plaint, is that the defendant, who is a co-sharer of the plaintiffs and their mother, under the influence of the plaintiffs' sister, Anita Mishra and her husband, with whom, the defendant resides, has transferred an area of 155.33 square yards (125.69 square meters) of land out of *Khasra No.*164, Khata No.00298, admeasuring a total of 0.3160 hectare, situate at Village Hora Bangar, Tehsil, Pargana and District Kanpur Nagar, vide registered sale deed dated 17.09.2019 in favour of one Rajesh and another Deepak. It is also pleaded that the plaintiffs and the defendant together, out of the same plot, sold off an area of 75.25 square meters vide registered sale deed dated 04.07.2017, but the defendant, in connivance with the plaintiffs' sister, Anit Mishra, has misappropriated the sale consideration. The plaintiffs plead that the defendant has no right to transfer her share in the suit property, which is unpartitioned, unless it is partitioned in accordance with law with the precise shares of parties determined.

3. It is also their case that the defendant has offered for sale the suit property jointly owned by the plaintiffs and the defendant, leading to a broker entering upon the said property and attempting to lay a foundation thereon. It is the plaintiffs' case that upon resistance by them, he picked up an altercation, compelling them to report the matter to the Police. Saying that the entire suit property is the joint holding of the plaintiffs and the defendant, the plaintiffs' case is that the defendant has no right to transfer her share without a partition being effected. It is on the foot of this case and cause of action that the plaintiffs have claimed the following reliefs (translated into English from Hindi):

"A. that by a decree of permanent injunction in the plaintiffs' favour and against the defendant, the Court may restrain the defendant from transferring land comprising Khata No.00071, Khasra No.101, admeasuring 0.7270 hectare; Khata No.00141, Khasra No.59, 0.2030 hectare, situate at Village Hora Bangar, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar; Khata No.00298, Khasra No.162, 0.3160 hectare, situate at Village Hora Bangar, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar; Khata No.00072, Khasra No.99, 0.1020 hectare; Khata No.00137, Khasra Nos.206, 208, 205, 216, 217, 218, 219, 0.4300 hectare, 0.1230 hectare, 0.4710 hectare, 0.1430 hectare, 0.3280 hectare, 0.2770 hectare, 0.5740 hectare; Khata No.00138, Khasra No.176, area 0.3940 hectare, situate at Village Hora Kachhar, Pargana, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar; Khata No.00211, Khasra No.79, 0.4530 hectare situate at Village Hora Kachhar, Pargana, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar, as per boundaries given at the foot of the plaint or any part thereof in favour of any third party by way of sale, will, hiba, agreement etc.

B. The Court, by a declaration, may declare the plaintiffs' co-sharers in possession of a 1/4th share in Khata No.00071, Khasra No.101, admeasuring 0.7270 hectare; Khata No. 00141, Khasra No.59, 0.2030 hectare, situate at Village Hora Bangar, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar; Khata No.00298, Khasra No.162, 0.3160 hectare, situate at Village Hora Bangar, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar; Khata No.00072, Khasra No.99, 0.1020 hectare; Khata No.00137, Khasra No.206, 208, 205, 216, 217, 218, 219, admeasuring 0.4300 hectare, 0.1230 hectare, 0.4710 hectare, 0.1430 hectare, 0.3280 hectare, 0.2770 hectare, 0.5740 hectare; Khata No. 00138, Khasra No.176, 0.3940 hectare, situate at Village Hora Kachhar, Pargana, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar; and in the rest of the plots, the plaintiffs be declared owners of a half share and the defendant and other co-sharers owners of the other half share; and further, in Khata No.00211, Khasra No.79, admeasuring 0.4530 hectare, situate at Village Hora Kachhar, Pargana, Tehsil and District Kanpur Nagar, the plaintiffs and the defendant be declared owners of a 1/3rd share each in 1/2 of the said land."

4. Along with the suit, the plaintiffs made an application for temporary injunction, expressing an apprehension that the defendant without a partition was intending to sell off her undivided share to third parties, which would prejudice the plaintiffs' interest and snatch away their sole source of livelihood, all at the instance of the plaintiffs' sister and the defendant's daughter, Anita Mishra. The plaintiffs claimed a temporary injunction to the effect that the defendant be restrained from transferring the suit property or any part thereof in favour of any third, either by sale, will, hiba or agreement pending suit.

5. The learned Trial Judge, before whom the temporary injunction application came up on 19.09.2023, upon perusing the plaint, the application for temporary injunction and the affidavit together with papers filed in support, found it to be a case where the interest of the plaintiffs was required to be protected by an ad interim injunction and that it would be defeated by the delay in issuing notice to the other side. The learned Judge, therefore, issued notice returnable on 19.10.2023 and ordered both parties until the said date to maintain status quo and forbear from transferring the suit property in favour of any third party.

6. The defendant appealed this order to the learned District Judge, giving rise to Misc. Civil Appeal No.103 of 2023 on the file of the learned District Judge. The Misc. Appeal came up for determination before the Additional District Judge, Court No.21, Kanpur Nagar on 09.01.2024, who by the order impugned, set aside the ad interim injunction dated 19.09.2023 passed by the Trial Judge, leaving him free to decide the temporary injunction application on merits within 15 days.

7. Aggrieved by the said order, this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution has been instituted by the plaintiffs.

8. Heard Mr. Nisheeth Yadav, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs and Mr. Abhishek Tandon, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Anurag Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the sole defendant.

9. The learned Judge has found the suit instituted before the Court to be barred by the provisions of Section 206 (2) read with Item No.16 of the Second Schedule to the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 (for short, 'the Revenue Code'). In addition, the learned Judge has held that there is no law, which may give right to a co-sharer to prevent another co-sharer of his to alienate his undivided share. The learned Judge in the Court of appeal has opined that the plaintiffs acknowledge the defendant's share in the suit property, and, therefore, if they had to sue, it had to be for partition. The learned Judge has found upon the plaintiffs' case that the relief which they seek that the defendant may not transfer her share in the suit property unless partitioned, is not countenanced by law. It is also opined by the learned Judge in the Court of appeal that where the Court has no jurisdiction to grant a permanent injunction, a temporary injunction cannot be granted. It is on the basis of all this reasoning that the learned Judge in the Court of appeal has set aside the order of temporary injunction granted by the Trial Judge.

10. A bare reading of the plaint, in particular the relief, shows that the plaintiffs admit the defendant to be a co-sharer in the suit property along with them. The foremost question, therefore, is if the plaintiffs can seek any injunction forbearing the defendant from transferring her unpartitioned share in the suit property. It is on first principle that a co-sharer, who has an unpartitioned share, is always free to sell or otherwise assign it to a third party. It is true that the owner of a share cannot transfer any particular portion of the property without a partition by metes and bounds. It is not the plaintiffs' case that the defendant has effected a transfer by metes and bounds of a particular portion of the suit property commensurate to her share. It is also not the plaintiffs' case that the defendant has transferred or is proceeding to transfer more than her share in the suit property in favour of third parties. There is absolutely no right inhering in the co-sharer of a property to prevent another co-sharer by the Court's injunction from transferring that other's unpartitioned share. In a case like the present one, the defendant's transferee would not be entitled to possession, or so to speak khas possession, over any portion of the suit property. He would become the owner of the share or the area of land transferred, which such transferee can, like the defendant or any other co-sharer, seek partition of through a suit instituted for the purpose. In no event, the plaintiffs would, therefore, be entitled to an injunction of the kind they claim, seeking to restrain the defendant, a co-sharer in the suit property from transferring her unpartitioned share in favour of a third party.

11. Likewise, the other relief, which they seek, is as misconceived as the first. It is a declaration, which the plaintiffs seek of their own share and that of the defendant in the different khatas of the suit property. Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 (for short, 'the Act of 1963') reads:

"34. Discretion of court as to declaration of status or right.—Any person entitled to any legal character, or to any right as to any property, may institute a suit against any person denying, or interested to deny, his title to such character or right, and the court may in its discretion make therein a declaration that he is so entitled, and the plaintiff need not in such suit ask for any further relief:

Provided that no court shall make any such declaration where the plaintiff, being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so.

Explanation.—A trustee of property is a "person interested to deny" a title adverse to the title of some one who is not inexistence, and for whom, if in existence, he would be a trustee."

12. All that the proviso to Section 34 of the Act of 1963 intends to provide is that where substantial relief of a particular kind is envisaged by law, provided in law or necessary, a bare declaration cannot be granted. It would be an absurdity to imagine about a plaintiff seeking a declaration that the defendant owes him a particular sum of money, say 'X' and nothing more. That kind of a declaration can never be granted. The proviso to Section 34 would bar such a declaration and oblige the plaintiff to sue for recovery of money or accounts or other substantial relief, appropriate to the cause of action. Likewise, a plaintiff, who is out of possession and seeks to recover it from the defendant, who denies the plaintiff's title, must sue for the relief of recovery of possession. It is another matter that if the plaintiff's title in a case like that is thickly and arguably disputed, the plaintiff in certain cases may be obliged to seek a declaration together with the relief of possession. A classical case of this kind would be if the plaintiff, the owner of the land says that he has been dispossessed by the State or an instrumentality of the State from his land that he owns, without the State acquiring it in accordance with law. In such a case, perhaps the plaintiff need seek a declaration together with a consequential decree for recovery of possession. In none of these cases, however, the plaintiff can just seek a declaration of his title even with an injunction. Like the first illustration, about the claim for money, the plaintiff cannot be permitted to sue for declaration that the defendant owes him a liquidated sum of money, say 'X', together with a consequential mandatory injunction against the defendant, directing him to pay the money owed. These kind of reliefs would be absolutely barred by the proviso to Section 34 of the Act of 1963.

13. A declaration is a general relief, which is neither to be sought nor granted in a case where there are other substantive reliefs known to law. A suit for rendition of accounts would involve the plaintiff asking for a decree for accounts, and likewise, in a case where the money owed to the plaintiff is secured by a mortgage, a decree for foreclosure or sale of the mortgaged property. A plaintiff, who has a cause of action against a co-sharer in an undivided estate, is obliged by law to sue for the relief of partition, specifically pleading the share that he claims. The Court would then try the suit and pass a preliminary decree for partition, declaring the share of parties. The preliminary decree in a suit for partition is in fact a declaration of the parties' share, which includes the plaintiff and all other co-sharers. After the preliminary decree for partition is passed, it is open to the plaintiff to apply for the preparation of a final decree, where according to the shares of parties and the myriad factors that are relevant, the Court would pass a suitable final decree for partition, demarcating and delivering khas possession of the plaintiff's share in the suit property.

14. Of course, it would also be open to the defendant or defendants, whose shares are declared by the preliminary decree to likewise apply for a final decree, partitioning their share by metes and bounds upon payment of requisite court fee. In the nature of the remedy open to a co-sharer, division of holdings, as it is now called under Section 116 of the Revenue Code, partition is the only remedy that is permitted by law. Until partition takes place by metes and bounds with the passing of a final decree, none of the co-sharers can forbear the other from transferring his/ her undivided or unpartitioned interest in the suit property in favour of a third party.

15. Seen from this vantage, the relief, which the plaintiffs seek, can never be granted even if all the allegations in the plaint at the trial are proved to the hilt.

16. There is another facet of the matter, which the learned Additional District Judge has considered and about which too, he has drawn the correct conclusions. The suit property is revenue paying land and the relief, which the plaintiffs seek, is clearly governed by the provisions of Section 206 read with Item 16 of the Second Schedule. Section 206 of the Revenue Code reads:

"206. Jurisdiction of civil Courts and revenue courts.– (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, but subject to the provisions of this Code, no Civil Court shall entertain any suit, application or proceeding to obtain a decision or order on any matter which the State Government, the Board, any Revenue Court or revenue Officer is, by or under this Code, empowered to determine, decide or dispose of.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions of sub-section (1), and save as otherwise expressly provided by or under this Code-

(a) no Civil Court shall exercise jurisdiction over any of the matters specified in the Second Schedule; and

(b) no Court other than the revenue Court or the revenue officer specified in column 3 of the Third Schedule shall entertain any suit, application or proceeding specified in column 2 thereof.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Code, an objection that a Court or officer mentioned in sub-section (2)(b) had or had no jurisdiction with respect to any suit, application or proceeding, shall not be entertained by any appellate, revisional or executing Court, unless the objection was taken before the Court or officer of the first instance, at the earliest opportunity, and in all cases where issues are settled at or before such settlement, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice."

17. The Second Schedule to the Revenue Code is extracted below:

"SECOND SCHEDULE
(See Sections 206 (2)(a))
Matters excluded from the jurisdiction of the Civil Court

1	Any question regarding the determination of boundaries or fixing of boundary marks.
2	Any claim to question a decision determining abadi made by the Collector.
3	Any claim to have any entry made in any revenue records or to have any such entry omitted, amended or substituted.
4	Any question regarding the assessment, remission or suspension of land revenue or rent.
5	Any claim connected with or arising out of the collection by the State Government or the enforcement by such Government of any process for the recovery of land revenue or any sum recoverable as an arrear of land revenue under this Code or any other law for the time being in force.
6	Any claim against the vesting of any property in the State Government, Gram Panchayat or other local authority under this Code.
7	Any question relating to the levy or imposition of the fine, cost, expense, charge, penalty or compensation under this Code.
8	Any question regarding reinstatement of a bhumidhar or asami wrongfully ejected or dispossessed from any land.
9	Any claim to compel the performance of any duty imposed by this Code on any revenue officer appointed under this Code.
10	Any question, relating to division, creation, amalgamation, abolition or readjustment of revenue areas and Lekhpal's circles under Chapter II.
11	Any question relating to the allotment of land referred to in section 64 or section 125 or cancellation of such allotment.
12	Any claim to question a direction issued by the Collector under section 71
13	Any claim to question the delivery of possession over any land and part thereof referred to in section 124, or the eviction of any person under section 134 or section 201.
14	Any claim to question the validity of any order made by the State Government under Chapter XI.
15	Any claim regarding possession over any land.
16	Any claim to establish the rights of a co-tenure holder in respect of any land.

18. Item No.16 in the Second Schedule of the Revenue Code clearly speaks of "any claim to establish the rights of a co-tenure holder in respect of any land". Land is defined under Section 4(14) of the Revenue Code, which reads:

"4. Definition.-In this Code.– .....

(14) 'land', except in Chapters VII and VIII and sections 80, 81 and section 136, means land held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture;"

19. There is no quarrel by the plaintiffs that the suit property is land within the meaning of Section 4(14) of the Revenue Code, which is used for agriculture and recorded as such. It is after all held by the plaintiffs and the defendant for purposes connected with agriculture. If then that is the plaintiffs' case, a suit by them to establish their right as co-tenure holders against the defendant, would clearly be in the teeth of Item No.16 of the Second Schedule to the Revenue Code read with Section 206 (2) (a). The plaintiffs' relief, howsoever quaintly drafted, does not take it out of mischief of Section 206 (2) (a) read with Item No.16 of the Second Schedule to the Revenue Code. The jurisdiction to try a suit of this kind would, therefore, on a bare reading of the plaint, lie exclusively in the Revenue Court. If the plaintiffs were to seek any meaningful relief, they would have to seek a decree for division of their holdings/ the suit property, which again would be exclusively cognizable by the Revenue Court under Section 116 of the Revenue Code. As the relief stands, if at all it can be granted, it is by the Revenue Court and not the Civil Court. Quite apart, the terms, in which the relief has been sought, read together with the cause of action involved in this suit, the relief can never be granted by any Court, as remarked earlier for the reasons indicated.

20. In the considered opinion of this Court, therefore, the learned Additional District Judge was absolutely right in setting aside the ad interim injunction granted by the Trial Court. No exception can be taken to the impugned order by the plaintiffs, which must in our opinion be unhesitatingly upheld.

21. In the result, this petition fails and is dismissed with costs of Rs.10,000/-.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for State-respondents as well as learned counsel for Gaon Sabha.

2. In view of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case and the order proposed to be passed hereunder, this Court proceeds to decide the instant writ petition finally, with the consent of learned counsel for the parties who are present in the Court, without calling for their respective affidavits.

3. The petitioner is aggrieved with the order dated 31.05.2024 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation (in brevity 'D.D.C.') whereby revision filed on behalf of the petitioner, arising out of proceeding under Section 9-B of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (in brevity 'U.P.C.H. Act'), has been dismissed on the ground of maintainability.

4. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record, it is manifested that the question involved in the instant writ petition lies in a narrow compass as to whether revision under section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act filed by the petitioner assailing the order passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation (in brevity 'S.O.C.') under Section 9-B(3) of U.P.C.H. Act is maintainable or not. D.D.C. has held that order passed by S.O.C. under section 9-B(3) of U.P.C.H. Act is final order on the merits of case, thus, revision against said order is not maintainable.

5. Section 9-B of U.P.C.H. Act denotes the provision wherein any person aggrieved with the statement of principles prepared under Section 8-A of U.P.C.H. Act has legal right to challenge the same by moving an objection under Section 9-B(1) of U.P.C.H. Act. Sub section 2 discuss the situation where no objection has been filed against the statement of principles, however, the Consolidation Officer on his own wisdom, in case, comes to conclusion that there is need to examine the correctness of statement of principles, he shall make local inspection of the unit and pass appropriate order after due notice to the Consolidation Committee. Section 9-B(3) of U.P.C.H. Act gives statutory right to the aggrieved person to file an appeal against the order passed under sub section 1 and 2 of Section 9-B. For ready reference Section 9-B of U.P.C.H. Act is quoted herein below :-

"9-B. Disposal of objections on the Statement of Principles.-

(1) Where objections have been filed against the Statement of Principles under Section 9, the Assistant Consolidation Officer shall, after affording opportunity of being heard to the parties concerned and after taking into consideration the views of the Consolidation Committee, submit his report to the Consolidation Officer, who shall dispose of the objections in the manner prescribed.

(2) Where no objections have been filed against the Statement of Principles within the time provided therefor under Section 9, the Consolidation Officer shall, with a view to examining its correctness, make local inspection of the unit, after giving due notice to the Consolidation Committee, and may thereafter make such modifications or alterations in the Statement of Principles as he may consider necessary.

(3) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Consolidation Officer under sub-section (1), or sub-section (2), may, within 21 days of the date of the order, file an appeal before the Settlement Officer, Consolidation, whose decision, except as otherwise provided by or under this Act, shall be final.

(4) The Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer, Consolidation, shall, before deciding an objection or an appeal, make local inspection of the unit after giving due notice to the parties concerned and the Consolidation Committee.)"

6. Language employed under sub section 3 of Section 9-B unequivocally enunciates that the order passed by the appellate court shall be final "except as otherwise provided by or under this Act". The D.D.C., in his own wisdom, has misread and misinterpreted the aforesaid phrased and comes to conclusion that order passed by the S.O.C. became final and aggrieved person has no option to resort to the remedy of filing revision under section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act.

7. The phrase "except as otherwise provided by or under this Act" indicates that order passed by S.O.C. is generally final, however, same is subject to any exceptions or further recourse that may be specified within the Act itself or under any rules, regulations, or notifications issued under the Act. Thus, this finality is not absolute and this section effectively provides an exception. The U.P.C.H. Act includes provisions that allow for further recourse or exceptions to this finality; specifically as enunciated under section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act. Needless to say that similar phrase has been used by the legislation under Section 11 (1), where provision of filing an appeal arising out of proceeding under Section 9-A of U.P.C.H. Act has been given, and under Section 21(2) of U.P.C.H. Act which enunciates resorting to remedy of filing an appeal assailing the order passed under section 21 (1) of U.P.C.H. Act. Intention of legislation in all these sections is abundantly clear that order passed by the S.O.C. in appeal may be assailed in the revisional jurisdiction of the D.D.C. who has been entrusted ample power to examine the correctness, legality or proprietory of any order includes the power to examine any finding, whether of fact or law, returned by the Consolidation Officer or the S.O.C., and also includes the power to re-appreciate any oral or documentary evidence, as enunciated under Explanation 3 to Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act. Needless to say that the Assistant Consolidation Officer, Consolidation Officer and the S.O.C. are subordinate to the D.D.C./Director of Consolidation, as enunciated under Explanation 1 to Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act. Thus, the remedy to file a revision is a right of the litigant which is provided under the Statute and the same cannot be curtailed by any authority on his own whims. It appears that the D.D.C. has failed to understand the phrase "except as otherwise provided by or under this Act" which means that the litigant can resort to the remedy in case same is available under the Act and the rules or regulations made there in.

8. In this conspectus, as above, I am of the considered view that the D.D.C. has failed to exercise his revisional jurisdiction so vested in him by law. He has misread and misinterpreted the provision as enunciated under Section 9-B(3) of U.P.C.H. Act on his own whims and against the very intention of the legislation. As such, instant writ petition succeeds and is allowed. Order dated 31.05.2024 passed by the D.D.C. is hereby quashed. Revision no.0008 of 2024 filed on behalf of Bhoora Singh (petitioner herein) is restored to its original number and the parties are relegated before the D.D.C. to get the revision decided afresh on merits. It is expected that the D.D.C. shall decide the revision in accordance with law, expeditiously, preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prashant Shukla and Sri Prateek Tiwari, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the applicant Chandra Raj @ Chandra and Sri Vivek Gupta holding brief of Sri Arshad Siddiqui, learned Counsel for the complainant. Sri Anuj Dayal, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the accused applicants Isha and Shanti as well as Sri Abhinav Srivastava, learned Counsel for the complainant. Sri Nikhil Singh, learned AGA-I for the State in both the cases.

2. As common issues and objections have been raised in the abovesaid bail applications, I intend to decide both the applications by means of this common order.

3. For the sake of brevity, the facts in brief as emerge from Bail Application No.8192 of 2024 are that an FIR No. 300 of 2024, under Sections 328, 376-D, 506 IPC read with Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act at Police Station Bachhrawan, District Raebareli was lodged against all the accused named in the FIR including the applicant. Subsequently, a charge-sheet was filed, in which, the applicant was charged for an offence under Sections 328, 376D, 506 IPC only and was not charged under Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act. The applicant, Chandra Raj preferred a bail application, which came to be dismissed by the Special Court constituted under the provisions of The Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (In short "SC/ST Act") vide order dated 05.06.2024, against which, the present bail application before this Court under Section 439 of Cr.P.C. has been filed. In Bail Application No.8751 of 2024, the FIR No.233 of 2024, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 307, 302, 504, 506, 34 IPC at Police Station Raunahi, District Ayodhya. Subsequently, it appears that sections of SC/ST Act was also added, however, as against the applicants, Isha and Shanti only charges under IPC was framed and not under SC/ST Act. The applicants filed a bail applications before the Special Court seeking bail under the sections of IPC, which came to be rejected vide orders dated 25.07.2024 and 19.07.2024 by the same Special Court, against which, the Bail Application No.8751 of 2024 has been filed under Section 439 of Cr.P.C. seeking enlargement on bail.

4. While arguing the bail applications filed under Sections 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (In short "Cr.P.C.") read with Section 483 of The Bharatiya Nyaya Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, it is argued by the Counsel for the applicants that on the facts of the case, the applicants have not been charged under the SC/ST Act and have been charged only for the offences under India Penal Code (IPC), as such, the bail application can be heard and decided by this Court.

5. A preliminary objection was raised by the Counsel for the informant and the learned A.G.A. that in terms of the mandate of Section 14-A(2) of the SC/ST Act, the present bail application is not maintainable under Section 439 of Cr.P.C. and the applicants, if so desire, can avail the specific remedy of appeal prescribed under Section 14-A(2) of the said Act. The said preliminary objections are advanced in both the cases by the learned Counsel for the complainants and learned A.G.A.

6. Sri Prashant Shukla, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the applicant, Chandra Raj @ Chandra argues that in view of the specific judgment on this point in case of Pramod vs State of U.P. (Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.2447 of 2024), this exact objections were considered by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court and the bail application was held to be maintainable under Section 439 of Cr.P.C. mainly on the ground that in the criminal cases, in which the accused are not charge-sheeted under SC/ST Act are liable to be processed under the provisions of Cr.P.C. even if the offences are being tried by the Special Court established under the SC/ST Act and the Court proceeded to decide the bail application, vide order dated 01.03.2024. In the light of the said, it is proposed to be argued that the bail application is maintainable under Section 439 of Cr.P.C.

7. He further argues that while enacting the SC/ST Act, there is no specific bar to the invocation of Section 439 of Cr.P.C., and no bar under Section 18 to apply for bail is provided when the offences under SC/ST Act are prima facie not made out as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Prathvi Raj Chauhan vs Union of India and others; (2020) 4 SCC 727. Person not implicated under the SC/ST Act should not be made to suffer all the stringent provisions of the Act only because of the joint trial. There is no specific provision under the SC/ST Act for joint trial or the application of Cr.P.C. as contained in all other acts. He draws my attention to Section 14 of the SC/ST Act, which prescribed for constitution of Special Courts. He also draws my attention to similar enactment, wherein, Special Court has been prescribed to be constituted, namely, The Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (In short "PC Act"), The Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 (In short "PML Act") and The Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances, Act, 1985.

8. Sri Prashant Shukla argues that in the said enactments, there is a specific enactment enabling the Special Courts constituted under the said Acts to hear the offences under IPC apart from the offences under the said Acts as prescribed under Section 43(2) of the PML Act and Section 4 (3) of the PC Act. He argues that while enacting the SC/ST Act, specific provisions such as those contained in sub-Section (2) of Section 43 of the PML Act and sub-Section (3) of Section 4 of PC Act are missing and as such, the Special Court would not have the jurisdiction to try the offences not arising under the SC/ST Act as such, the restrictions placed by means of Section 14-A(2) of SC/ST Act would also not be applicable and the applicant is at liberty to avail the remedy of bail conferred upon the higher court by virtue of Section 439 of Cr.P.C. He places reliance on the following judgments:

"(i). Prathvi Raj Chauhan vs Union of India and others; (2020) 4 SCC 727;

(ii). Gyanendra Maurya vs Union of India through Secy Ministry Social Justice and Empowerment and others; 2023 SCC OnLine All 46;

(iii). Teja vs State of U.P. (Criminal Appeal No.3603 of 2019) along with other criminal appeal, decided on 27.09.2019;

(vii) Ami Chand vs State of Himachal Pradesh; 2020 SCC OnLine HP 1840."

9. Sri Anuj Dayal, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the applicants, Isha and Shanti mainly adopts the arguments as advanced by Sri Prashant Shukla and states that the Special Court can only try the offences, which are prescribed as offence under the said Special Act and nothing beyond that.

10. On the other hand, Sri Vivek Gupta, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the complainant of Bail Application No.8192 of 2024 argues that Section 14-A(2), is an enactment which is at variance with the Cr.P.C. and it provides for an appellate forum against any order passed by the Special Court. He argues that in the present case admittedly the bail application filed by the applicant was rejected by the Special Court constituted under Section 14 of the SC/ST Act and once an appellate remedy is prescribed, the normal recourse which is available under Section 439 of Cr.P.C., cannot be resorted to. My attention was also drawn on the Full Bench decision of this Court in the case of Ghulam Rasool Khan and others vs State of U.P. and others; 2022 (8) ADJ 691, wherein specific question "whether keeping in view the judgment of Rohit (supra), an aggrieved person will have two remedies available of preferring an appeal under the provisions of Section 14-A of the Act, 1989 as well as a bail application under the provisions of Section 439 of the Cr.P.C.?", was considered and was answered by the Full Bench holding that only an appeal would lie.

11. Considering the submissions made at the Bar and considering the defence of language used in the statute of the SC/ST Act and the other statutes such as PC Act, PML Act etc. wherein there are similar provisions, it is noteworthy to note the said sections. Section 14 of SC/ST Act reads as under:

"14. Special Court and Exclusive Special Court.--(1) For the purpose of providing for speedy trial, the State Government shall, with the concurrence of the Chief Justice of the High Court, by notification in the Official Gazette, establish an Exclusive Special Court for one or more Districts:

Provided that in Districts where less number of cases under this Act is recorded, the State Government shall, with the concurrence of the Chief Justice of the High Court, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify for such Districts, the Court of Session to be a Special Court to try the offences under this Act:

Provided further that the Courts so established or specified shall have power to directly take cognizance of offences under this Act.

(2) It shall be the duty of the State Government to establish adequate number of Courts to ensure that cases under this Act are disposed of within a period of two months, as far as possible.

(3) In every trial in the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court, the proceedings shall be continued from day-to-day until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court finds the adjournment of the same beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded in writing:

Provided that when the trial relates to an offence under this Act, the trial shall, as far as possible, be completed within a period of two months from the date of filing of the charge sheet."

12. Section 43 of the PML Act reads as under:

"43. Special Courts.—(1) The Central Government, in consultation with the Chief Justice of the High Court, shall, for trial of offence punishable under section 4, by notification, designate one or more Courts of Session as Special Court or Special Courts or such area or areas or for such case or class or group of cases as may be specified in the notification.*

Explanation.—In this sub-section, "High Court" means the High Court of the State in which a Sessions Court designated as Special Court was functioning immediately before such designation.

(2) While trying an offence under this Act, a Special Court shall also try an offence, other than an offence referred to in sub-section (1), with which the accused may, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), be charged at the same trial."

13. Section 4 of the PC Act also reads as under:

"4. Cases triable by special Judges. - (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), or in any other law for the time being in force, the offences specified in sub-section (1) of section 3 shall be tried by special Judges only.*

(2) Every offence specified in sub-section (1) of section 3 shall be tried by the special Judge for the area within which it was committed, or, as the case may be, by the special Judge appointed for the case, or, where there are more special Judges than one for such area, by such one of them as may be specified in this behalf by the Central Government.

(3) When trying any case, a special Judge may also try any offence, other than an offence specified in section 3, with which the accused may, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), be charged at the same trial.

[(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, the trial of an offence shall be held, as far as practicable, on day-to-day basis and an endeavour shall be made to ensure that the said trial is concluded within a period of two years:

Provided that where the trial is not concluded within the said period, the special Judge shall record the reasons for not having done so:

Provided further that the said period may be extended by such further period, for reasons to be recorded in writing but not exceeding six months at a time; so, however, that the said period together with such extended period shall not exceed ordinarily four years in aggregate.] [Substituted by Act No. 16 of 2018, dated 26.7.2018.]"

14. At this instance, although not cited by any of the Counsel, it is essential to note a similar provisions for constitution of Special Courts under Section 30-B of The Mines and Minerals (Development and regulation) Act, 1957 (hereinafter referred to as "the MMDR Act"), which is as under:

"[30B. Constitution of Special Courts.—(1) The State Government may, for the purposes of providing speedy trial of offences for contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1) or sub-section (1A) of section 4, constitute, by notification, as many Special Courts as may be necessary for such area or areas, as may be specified in the notification.*

(2) A Special Court shall consist of a Judge who shall be appointed by the State Government with the concurrence of the High Court.

(3) A person shall not be qualified for appointment as a judge of a Special Court unless he is or has been a District and Sessions Judge.

(4) Any person aggrieved by the order of the Special Court may prefer an appeal to the High Court within a period of sixty days from the date of such order."

15. On a plain reading of the statutory provisions prescribed for constituting the Special Courts, for the furtherance of aims and objects of the special enactment, it is to be noticed that the language used in Section 14 of the SC/ST Act is similar to the language used for constitution of Special Courts under Section 30-B of the MMDR Act. Although, it has not been argued by both the Counsel, it is also essential to notice the mandate of Sections 220 and 223 of the Cr.P.C., which are quoted below:

"220. Trial for more than one offence.—(1) If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.*

(2) When a person charged with one or more offences of criminal breach of trust or dishonest misappropriation of property as provided in sub-section (2) of section 212 or in sub-section (1) of section 219, is accused of committing, for the purpose of facilitating or concealing the commission of that offence or those offences, one or more offences of falsification of accounts, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

(3) If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, each of such offences.

(4) If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself or themselves constitute an offence, constitute when combined a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with, and tried at one trial for the offence constituted by such acts when combined, and for any offence constituted by any one, or more, of such acts.

(5) Nothing contained in this section shall affect section 71 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

223. What persons may be charged jointly.—The following persons may be charged and tried together, namely:—*

(a) persons accused of the same offence committed in the course of the same transaction;

(b) persons accused of an offence and persons accused of abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence;

(c) persons accused of more than one offence of the same kind, within the meaning of section 219 committed by them jointly within the period of twelve months;

(d) persons accused of different offences committed in the course of the same transaction;

(e) persons accused of an offence which includes theft, extortion, cheating, or criminal misappropriation, and persons accused of receiving or retaining, or assisting in the disposal or concealment of, property possession of which is alleged to have been transferred by any such offence committed by the first-named persons, or of abetment of or attempting to commit any such last-named offence;

(f) persons accused of offences under sections 411 and 414 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or either of those sections in respect of stolen property the possession of which has been transferred by one offence;

(g) persons accused of any offence under Chapter XII of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) relating to counterfeit coin and persons accused of any other offence under the said Chapter relating to the same coin, or of abetment of or attempting to commit any such offence; and the provisions contained in the former part of this Chapter shall, so far as may be, apply to all such charges:

Provided that where a number of persons are charged with separate offences and such persons do not fall within any of the categories specified in this section, the Magistrate [or Court of Session] may, if such persons by an application in writing, so desire, and if he (or it) is satisfied that such persons would not be prejudicially affected thereby, and it is expedient so to do, try all such persons together.

16. Section 30B of MMDR Act, which is pari materia to the provisions of Section 14 of the SC/ST Act, came up for interpretation before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pradeep S. Wodeyar vs State of Karnataka; (2021) 19 SCC 62, wherein, a similar argument was raised with regard to the power of Special Court to try for the offences under IPC. It was specifically argued in para 59, which is as under:

"59. The appellant had raised a contention that even if the Special Judge had the power to take cognizance of the offence, he could only have taken cognizance of offences under the MMDR Act and could not have taken cognizance (and conduct trial) of the offences under the provisions of IPC. For this purpose, the counsel for the appellant referred to Section 30-B(1) of the MMDR Act which states that the State Government may for providing speedy trial of offences under Section 4(1) or Section 4(1-A) of the MMDR Act constitute Special Courts. Section 30-B(1) reads as follows:

"30-B. Constitution of Special Courts.—(1) The State Government may, for the purposes of providing speedy trial of offences for contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1) or sub-section (1-A) of Section 4, constitute, by notification, as many Special Courts as may be necessary for such area or areas, as may be specified in the notification."

17. In furtherance of the aforesaid submissions before the Hon'ble Supreme Court attention was drawn to the provisions

Section 4(3) of the PC Act, Section 14(1) of NI Act and Section 28(2) of POCSO Act and it was argued that in the said enactments, there existed specific provisions for trying the offences under IPC also, no such provisions was prescribed under Section 30-B of the MMDR Act. The submission recorded by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 61 of the said judgment Pradeep S. Wodeyar (supra) reads as under:

"61. It is contended by the appellant that the Special Court established under a statute can try offences under IPC (or any offence other than the offences under the statute) only if expressly provided. To buttress this argument, Section 4(3) of the PC Act, Section 14(1) of the NIA Act, and Section 28(2) of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 ("the Pocso Act") were referred to. All the three provisions expressly provide the Special Court with the power to try offences other than those offences specified in the Act. Section 4(3) of the PC Act reads as follows:

"4. (3) When trying any case, a Special Judge may also try any offence, other than an offence specified in Section 3, with which the accused may, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), be charged at the same trial."

(emphasis supplied)

Section 14 of the NIA Act read as follows:

"14. Powers of Special Courts with respect to other offences.—(1) When trying any offence, a Special Court may also try any other offence with which the accused may, under the Code be charged, at the same trial if the offence is connected with such other offence.*

(2) If, in the course of any trial under this Act of any offence, it is found that the accused person has committed any other offence under this Act or under any other law, the Special Court may convict such person of such other offence and pass any sentence or award punishment authorised by this Act or, as the case may be, under such other law." (emphasis supplied)

Section 28(2) of the Pocso Act provides the following:

"28. (2) While trying an offence under this Act, a Special Court shall also try an offence other than the offence referred to in sub-section (1), with which the accused may, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) be charged at the same trial."

(emphasis supplied)"

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court extensively dealt with the said submissions and also considered the mandate of Section 220 of Cr.P.C., which was specifically not an offence under the MMDR Act like in the present case and decided the issue as under:

"C.4.2. Joint trial and implied repeal

69. The general rule of construction is that there is a presumption against a repeal by implication because the legislature has full knowledge of the existing law on the subject-matter while enacting a law. When a repealing provision is not specifically mentioned in the subsequent statute, there is a presumption that the intention of the legislature was not to repeal the provision. The burden to prove that the subsequent enactment has impliedly repealed the provision of an earlier enactment is on the party asserting the argument. This presumption against implied repeal is rebutted if the provision(s) of the subsequent Act are so inconsistent and repugnant with the provision(s) of the earlier statute that the two provisions cannot "stand together". [Harshad S. Mehta v. State of Maharashtra, (2001) 8 SCC 257 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1447; Justice G.P. Singh, Principles of Statutory Interpretation (14th Edn. LexisNexis 2016) 737-738] Therefore, the test to be applied for the construction of implied repeal is as follows :

Whether the subsequent statute (or provision in the subsequent statute) is inconsistent and repugnant with the earlier statute (or provision in the earlier statute) such that both the statutes (or provisions) cannot stand together. [Also see, State of Orissa v. M.A. Tulloch & Company, 1963 SCC OnLine SC 18 : AIR 1964 SC 1284; Syndicate Bank v. Prabha D. Naik, (2001) 4 SCC 713; State of M.P. v. Kedia Leather & Liquor Ltd., (2003) 7 SCC 389 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1642; Lal Shah Baba Dargah Trust v. Magnum Developers, (2015) 17 SCC 65 : (2017) 5 SCC (Civ) 412;] The test when applied in the context of this case is whether Section 30-B of the MMDR Act is inconsistent and repugnant to Section 220CrPC that both the provisions cannot go hand in hand.

72. One of the contentions raised by the counsel for the appellant in Harshad S. Mehta case [Harshad S. Mehta v. State of Maharashtra, (2001) 8 SCC 257 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1447] was that similar earlier enactments have expressly granted the power to grant pardon to the Special Court constituted under the Act and that when the legislature has deliberately omitted the inclusion of the provision, it would mean that the power was not intended to be granted. The counsel contended that the Special Court under the Act consists of a Judge of the High Court, while Section 306 for the purpose of the provision only enumerates categories of Magistrates. The Bench observed that an express provision needs to be made in the subsequent specific statute only when wider powers or no powers are intended to be given : (Harshad S. Mehta case [Harshad S. Mehta v. State of Maharashtra, (2001) 8 SCC 257 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1447] , SCC p. 276, para 38)

"38. It is understandable that if powers wider than the one contemplated by the Code are intended to be conferred, a provision to that effect will have to be made. It does not follow therefrom that in an altogether different statute, if no special provision is made, an inference can be drawn that even where the powers under the Code and not wide powers were intended to be conferred, save and except where it is so stated specifically, the effect of omission would be that the Special Court will not have even similar powers as are exercised by the ordinary criminal courts under the Code."

75. The Judicial Magistrate First Class is invested with the authority to try offences under Sections 409 and 420IPC. On the other hand, the Sessions Judge is appointed as a Special Judge for the purposes of the MMDR Act. If the offences under the MMDR Act and IPC are tried together by the Special Judge, there arises no anomaly, for it is not a case where a Judge placed lower in the hierarchy has been artificially vested with the power to try the offences under both the MMDR Act and the Code. Additionally, if the offences are tried separately by different fora though they arise out of the same transaction, there would be a multiplicity of proceedings and wastage of judicial time, and may result in contradictory judgments. It is a settled principle of law that a construction that permits hardship, inconvenience, injustice, absurdity and anomaly must be avoided. Section 30-B of the MMDR Act and Section 220 CrPC can be harmoniously construed and such a construction furthers justice. Therefore, Section 30-B cannot be held to impliedly repeal the application of Section 220CrPC to the proceedings before the Special Court."

19. As the pari materia provisions contained in Section 30-B of the MMDR Act along with other provisions contained in the said Act has already been interpreted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the said case Pradeep S. Wodeyar (supra) and the conclusions to that effect are recorded in para 108 to the following effect:

"D. The conclusion

108.1. The Special Court does not have, in the absence of a specific provision to that effect, the power to take cognizance of an offence under the MMDR Act without the case being committed to it by the Magistrate under Section 209CrPC. The order of the Special Judge dated 30-12-2015 taking cognizance is therefore irregular.

108.2. The objective of Section 465 is to prevent the delay in the commencement and completion of trial. Section 465CrPC is applicable to interlocutory orders such as an order taking cognizance and summons order as well. Therefore, even if the order taking cognizance is irregular, it would not vitiate the proceedings in view of Section 465CrPC.

108.3. The decision in Gangula Ashok [Gangula Ashok v. State of A.P., (2000) 2 SCC 504 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 488] was distinguished in Rattiram [Rattiram v. State of M.P., (2012) 4 SCC 516 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 481] based on the stage of trial. This differentiation based on the stage of trial must be read with reference to Section 465(2)CrPC. Section 465(2) does not indicate that it only covers challenges to pre-trial orders after the conclusion of the trial. The cardinal principle that guides Section 465(2)CrPC is that the challenge to an irregular order must be urged at the earliest. While determining if there was a failure of justice, the courts ought to address it with reference to the stage of challenge, the seriousness of the offence and the apparent intention to prolong proceedings, among others.

108.4. In the instant case, the cognizance order was challenged by the appellant two years after cognizance was taken. No reason was given to explain the inordinate delay. Moreover, in view of the diminished role of the committal court under Section 209 of the Code of 1973 as compared to the role of the committal court under the erstwhile Code of 1898, the gradation of irregularity in a cognizance order made in Sections 460 and 461 and the seriousness of the offence, no failure of justice has been demonstrated.

108.5. It is a settled principle of law that cognizance is taken of the offence and not the offender. However, the cognizance order indicates that the Special Judge has perused all the relevant material relating to the case before cognizance was taken. The change in the form of the order would not alter its effect. Therefore, no "failure of justice" under Section 465CrPC is proved. This irregularity would thus not vitiate the proceedings in view of Section 465CrPC.

108.6. The Special Court has the power to take cognizance of offences under the MMDR Act and conduct a joint trial with other offences if permissible under Section 220CrPC. There is no express provision in the MMDR Act which indicates that Section 220CrPC does not apply to proceedings under the MMDR Act.

108.7. Section 30-B of the MMDR Act does not impliedly repeal Section 220CrPC. Both the provisions can be read harmoniously and such an interpretation furthers justice and prevents hardship since it prevents a multiplicity of proceedings.

108.8. Since cognizance was taken by the Special Judge based on a police report and not a private complaint, it is not obligatory for the Special Judge to issue a fully reasoned order if it otherwise appears that the Special Judge has applied his mind to the material.

108.9. A combined reading of the Notifications dated 29-5-2014 and 21-1-2014 indicate that the Sub-Inspector of Lokayukta is an authorised person for the purpose of Section 22 of the MMDR Act. The FIR that was filed to overcome the bar under Section 22 has been signed by the Sub-Inspector of Lokayukta Police and the information was given by the SIT. Therefore, the respondent has complied with Section 22CrPC.

108.10. The question of whether A-1 was in charge of and responsible for the affairs of the company during the commission of the alleged offence as required under the proviso to Section 23(1) of the MMDR Act is a matter for trial. There appears to be a prima facie case against A-1, which is sufficient to arraign him as an accused at this stage."

20. There appears no reason for this Court to take a view as canvassed by Sri Prashant Shukla and Sri Anuj Dayal, learned Advocates, as such, on the foundation of the interpretation of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pradeep S. Wodeyar (supra), I have no hesitation in holding that the Sessions Court/ Special Courts constituted under the SC/ST Act is duly and well empowered to consider the offences against the accused even under IPC. Once the Special Court constituted under the Act is empowered to take cognizance and to try offences together, all the rigors of the SC/ST Act would apply and keeping in view the Full Bench decision of this Court in the case of Ghulam Rasool Khan (supra), an appeal would be maintainable against an order rejecting the bail application by the Special Court, thus, the present bail applications filed under Sections 439 of Cr.P.C. deserve to be rejected.

21. Accordingly, both the bail applications are hereby rejected giving liberty to the applicants to file an appeal under Section 14-A (2) of the SC/ST Act, if so advised.

22. I am not dealing with the judgments cited by the learned Counsel in view of the specific interpretation of the Hon'ble Supreme court in the case of Pradeep S. Wodeyar (supra) interpreting a pari materia provisions which aspect was neither raised nor considered in any of the referred judgments as such the bail applications are rejected with the liberty recorded above.

23. Office is directed to provide certified copies of the bail rejection orders and the first information reports on moving appropriate applications by the Counsel for the applicants.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J.)

1. Present criminal appeal, under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C., has been preferred before this Court, on behalf of appellant, Sunil, challenging the judgement and order dated 29.11.2006, passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Bulandshahar, Sessions Trial No.972 of 2006 (State Versus Sunil) in Case Crime No.117 of 2006, u/s 452 and 449 I.P.C., Police Station Khurja, District Bulandshahar, wherein the accused/appellant has been convicted under Sections 302 and 449 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C., and to serve out seven years imprisonment with fine of Rs.3,000/- for the offence punishable under Section 449 I.P.C. In default of payment of fine, the appellant was directed to undergo additional simple imprisonment of one year for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. and six months' additional simple imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 449 I.P.C. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. Succinctly, the prosecution story, as projected in F.I.R., undisputed facts and other material on record, is that on 15.07.2006 at about 9.30 p.m. complainant Vinod Kumar s/o Natthi Singh, R/o Mobarikpur, Police Station Khurja Dehat, District Bulandshahar, presented a Tehrir, scribed by Jai Prakash Singh and signed by the complainant, in Police Station Khurja, in respect of an incident, alleged to have occurred on 15.07.2006 at about 7.30 p.m., unravelling therein the fact that on the fateful day he had gone to Khurja at about 3.00 p.m. to collect his wages. At about 7.30, in the evening, when he returned at his home, he saw that Sunil s/o Badam Singh, hailing from Village Bagrai Khurd, after flinging his wife Kunti Devi, down on the ground, inside the house, was inflicting blows on her head and face, with a brick. His co-villagers Heera Lal and Ved Ram are brothers-in-law of the father of Sunil. Hence he used to visit their house frequently. Sunil had done to death his wife Kunti, by causing injuries on her head and face. On her shriek and wailing, Devkaran, Sukhdeo and several others, of his vicinity gathered on the spot. Looking to the gathering of people and his insipid position, the accused- Sunil disappeared from the place of occurrence, giving a push to the complainant. There was no animus and animosity between Sunil, as well as with his family members and complainant. Sunil had struck severely with brick on the head and face of his deceased wife Kunti Devi on account of some abrupt wrangling over some issue.

3. On the basis of aforesaid Tehrir (Ext. Ka-1), Criminal Case Crime No. 117 of 2006 under Section 304 and 452 I.P.C. was registered at the Police Station Khurja Dehat, against accused Sunil. The entries were drawn in Kaimi G.D. No. 39 dated 15.07.2006, at 21.30 hours and simultaneously Chik F.I.R. (Ext. Ka-12), was prepared. Initially the investigation was entrusted to Sub Inspector, Daya Chand Satsangi.

4. Thus, the investigation set into motion. The Investigating Officer proceeded to place of occurrence in association with Station Officer, Karan Singh Chauhan, C- Iqbal Khan, C- Suresh Pal, etc. He recorded statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and prepared site-plan. After nominating the witnesses, the Investigating Officer launched the inquest proceeding, of the dead body of the deceased, at about 9.30 p.m. on the same day. In the opinion of panches, the deceased Kunti Devi died due to the injuries sustained by her. It is also mentioned in the inquest report that the deceased had a pregnancy of eight months. However, they opined that in order to ascertain the real cause of death, postmortem may be got done. The Investigating Officer subscribed to the opinion of the inquest witnesses. Therefore, the Investigating Officer prepared formal papers, photo lash, report to the R.I., request for postmortem to Chief Medical Officer and challan lash. Corpse of the deceased was wrapped in cloth and sealed. Specimen of the seal was also prepared. The dead body was handed over to C- Iqbal Khan and C- Suresh Pal along with papers, to take it to the mortuary at District Hospital, where autopsy of the dead body of deceased Kunti Devi was conducted by Dr. B.P. Singh Kalyani on 16.01.2006 at about 4.00 p.m.

5. The Investigating Officer collected blood saturated brick, plain and blood stained earth from the place of occurrence in the presence of witnesses Manoj Kumar, Shyam Shanker Sharma and Station Officer Ratan Lal Sharma, which were kept in a polythene bag in separate boxes and sealed. He also prepared the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-8) of the same over which signature of the witnesses were obtained. A bloodstained underwear (Ext. Ka-10) was also taken into possession by the Investigating Offer which were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for chemical examination.

6. The accused-appellant was arrested on 19.07.2006 at 18.05 hours from Old G.T. Road, Bichhona Curve. After due investigation and collection of credible and clinching material and evidence showing the complicity of the accused-appellant submitted charge-sheet under Sections 304 and 452 LPC. against accused Sunil, in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bulandshahar, who took the cognizance of the case. Since the case was exclusively triable by the court of sessions, learned Chief Judicial Magistrate vide his order dated 31.08.2006, committed it to the Court of Sessions, wherein it was registered as Sessions Trial No.972 of 2006, Learned sessions judge in turn, transferred it to the court of Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Bulandshahar for trial.

7. Learned trial court, after hearing both the parties, framed charges against the accused / appellant Sunil under Sections 302 and 449 I.P.C. The accused/ appellant renounced the charges, pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. During the course of trial, the prosecution in order to appreciate the charges levelled against the accused-appellant examined following witnesses in ocular evidence:

11. After conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the accused was afforded an opportunity under Section 313 for offering his explanation/rebuttal of the prosecution evidence/charges against him. His statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded in question-answer form. In his statement he denied his presence on the spot, on the day of occurrence. He also denied the prosecution allegations and charges. He negated and renounced prosecution evidence as wrong.

12. Accused/ appellant did not adduce any defence evidence, oral or documentary.

13. Learned trial court, after examining the entire material on record, testimonies of the witnesses, undisputed facts scrutinized and evaluating it, came to the conclusion that there is a complete chain of the evidence, showing the complicity of the accused-appellant in commission of the crime conducted that prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubts, convicted the accused/ appellant, accordingly, under Sections 302 and 499 1.P.C. and sentenced him as stated above, vide its judgement and order dated 29.11.2006. Felt aggrieved, accused-appellant preferred the present appeal.

14. We have heard Sri Ashok Kumar Tripathi, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant, learned A.G.A. for the State, in extenso and have been taken through the entire material on record.

15. Learned counsel for the appellant assailed the impugned judgement of conviction and sentence on various grounds and advanced several arguments in this respect. Let us examine analyse and scrutinize the contentions, advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant on the touch stone of the evidence adduced by the prosecution, the undisputed facts and circumstances and entire material on record of the case. This opens door for us to enter into the prosecution evidence on record.

16. Prosecution in substantiation of its case, examined PW- 1 Dr. B.P. Singh Kalyani, who deposed that on 16.07.2006, during his posting in the District Hospital Bulandshahr, he had conducted the autopsy of the body of deceased Smt. Kunti, at about 4.00 a.m., which was brought by the C-1265 Suresh Pal and C-224 Iqbal Khan. The said corpse was identified by them.

(I)- External Examination: The deceased was an average built lady, aged about 22 years. Eyes of the deceased were closed. There was no injury on the breasts, hip waist, thighs and vagina. Rigor mortis passed in upper limb extremities, but present in the lower limbs of her person. There was no injury on the brests, hip, waist, thighs and vagina. Brain membrane and brain were torn. She died one day before the postmortem.

Ante-mortem Injuries: During dissection the doctor found the following ante-mortem injuries on the person of the deceased:-

(i)- Lacerated wound 5.00 c.m. x 2.00 c.m. x bone deep on right side of head. 5 c.m. above right ear. On exploration haematoma present underlying. Parietal bone was found fractured.

(ii)- Lacerated wound 4 c.m. x 1.5 c.m. x bone deep on left side head. 8 c.m. above left ear.

On exploration frontal bone on right side found fractured.

(iv)- Lacerated wound 1 c.m. x 1 c.m. x muscle deep on front and middle part of no se.

(v)- Lacerated wound 4 c.m. x 2 c.m. buccal cavity deep on right side of face just below r ight angle of mouth. Mandible on right side was found fractured.

(II)- Internal Examination: On internal examination of the body of deceased about 60 ml. blood present in cardinal cavity. About 200 grams semi digested food was found in the stomach. Doctor also observed that deceased Kunti was gravid. Her uterus was 36 cm. in length carrying a mail foetus in the womb. He further proved that there was possibility of causing these injuries by inflicting with brick and were sufficient to cause her death. Doctor proved autopsy report as Ext. Ka-14, by stating that it is in his writing and signature. Doctor further averred that two slides of vaginal smears were collected to ascertain the presence of spermatozoa. He found 13 items on the dead body of the deceased, which were handed over to the police personnel, who brought the dead body, the slides were also sent to P.S. concerned for pathological examination. Generally, these injuries were sufficient to cause death of the victim and these were possible to come on 15.07.2006 at about 7.30 p.m.

(III)- Cause of death:- Doctor has opined that death of the deceased Kunti was caused due to shock and haemorrhage, as a result of ante mortem injuries and excessive bleeding.

17. PW- 1 Dr. B.P. Singh Kalyani, has averred in his cross examination that all the injuries suffered by the victim were in the form of lacerated wound and could not be caused by hitting her with danda etc. All the injuries were caused by hard and blunt object. These injuries could not be received on felling down of the victim. However, the head injury could be received, if the victim falls on the floor, but such a number of injuries cannot be received as a result of fall on the earth. The doctor negated the suggestion by saying that if there is a fight between two persons, it is not possible to get these injuries, even in a scuffle. These injuries can also not be received if someone fling the victim by fastening his/ her holding him by his waist. These injuries can be inflicted by a single man. Injuries of the victim were one day old. The doctor further denied the suggestion that these injuries were not caused by one person, in stead three or four persons caused the injuries. There was no mark of injury over other parts of the dead body, except on the face and head. These injuries are not possible to be self inflicted.

18. PW- 2 Vinod Kumar is the complainant of the incident and husband of the deceased Kunti Devi. In his examination-in-chief he deposed that Sunil is the resident of village Bagrai, which is 15-16 km. away from his village. His two Bua (father's sister) are married in his village. The house of one is situated in front of his house. Sunil used to visit his Bua frequently. A hand-pipe is installed in his house. Neighbouring people used to take water from it. About three and half months ago he went for his work at about 3.00 p.m. in the noon to Khurja and returned at about 7.30 p.m. therefrom. On entering in his house, he saw that in his room near the bed, Sunil had thrown his wife on the ground and was crushing her head with a brick, sitting on the top of her. He made shriek, but Sunil pushed him aside and ran away from there. On shrill and shriek, his co-villegers Shukdev and Devkaran reached on the spot. They also saw Sunil coming out from his house. He chased Sunil, but passing through the houses of Harveer and Kunwer Pal, jumping over the wall, he escaped and could not be arrested. His wife died on the spot. Then he got scribed a tehrir of the incident by dictating it to Jay Prakash, and signed. He proved the written scribe as Ext. Ka- 1. At the time of incident his wife was gravid of 7 months. On the fateful evening, he had gone to Khurja to take his due wages from Rajkumar. The house of Hiralal, Fufa of Sunil is situated in front of his house. 2-4 days before the incident, there happened to be a dispute between his wife and wife of Hiralal regarding taking of water from the hand pump. On the day of the incident, Hiralal's daughter Renu came to our house, for bathing, but she restrained her to do so. Renu had made a complaint of it, in her house. Sunil was staying with uncle Hiralal for last 7-8 days, of the occurrence. Sunil murdered his wife on the issue of using hand pump. The witness has also been put under cross-examination.

19. PW- 3 Sukhdev has averred that he know accused Sunil. He is the son of the brother-in-law, of his co-villeger Hira Lal and Ved Ram. One of his father's sister (bua) is married to Hira Lal and other is married to Ved Ram. Vinod is his real nephew. Vinod and his wife Kunti were residing together in the house, Vinod's father had already expired. His mother had gone to her maika and his only brother resides in his sasural at Gram Kile. Vinod has a sister also, who is already married. On the fateful day, Vinod and his wife were alone in their house. Sunil used to visit his Fufa's house frequently. Vinod had no child. Incident had taken place about three and half month earlier. It was 7.30 p.m. On hearing shriek and lamentation, he reached towards the house of Vinod. He saw Sunil, pushing Vinod, was coming out of his house. He saw Sunil coming out through gallery of his house. He jumped in the house of Kunwer Pal and fled away, towards the village Bichaula. His hands were ensanguine with blood. Two-three days before the incident, there was an altercation between Kunti and Sunil's aunt Kamlesh, over the use of hand pipe, which is situated in the house of Vinod. On the day of occurrence Renu D/o Heera Lal had gone to take bath on the hand pipe, to which Kunti opposed. At the relevant time, Sunil murdered Kunti on this issue. Sun was setting but it was not complete sunset and there was sufficient visibility at that time. The witness was thoroughly cross examined also by the defence.

20. PW-4 Constable Suresh Pal has stated on oath that on 15.07.2006 he was posted at the police station Khurja Dehat. On that day he reached at the house of Vinod kumar, where the dead body of the deceased Kunti was lying, alongwith S.I. D.C. Satsangi, C- Iqbal Khan, S.O. Karan Singh Chauhan and other Police personnels. S.I. D.C. Satsangi conducted the Inquest proceeding of the dead body of the deceased Kunti, at about 23.50 p.m. He prepared the other papers also. The dead body of the deceased Kunti was wrapped in a cloth and sealed. He prepared specification of the seal also. The sealed dead body was handed over to him and C-Iqbal khan with direction that no one should be allowed to touch or disturb the dead body, till the postmortem proceeding are over, which we adhered to. After the postmortem, the dead body was handed over to the family member of the deceased Kunti and sealed bundle of the cloths and two envelops, one containing two slides and one P.M. Report given by the doctor to them, were submitted at the police station.

21. In his cross examination the witness deposed that he was called to the police station at about 09.30 p.m. C-Iqbal Khan was present there. Both of them reached the police station through their cycles and set out for the place of occurrence, they entered their departure (Ravangi) in G.D. also. It took about 45 minutes to reach there. 2–4 family member of the deceased Kunti and 2-4 other people, were present near the dead body. Panchayatnama of the corpse was prepared in his presence, over which five witnesses put their signature as panch. They brought the dead body of Kunti, through tractor trolley up to Khurja and from there through tempo, and reached at the mortuary. He do not remember the name of the owner of the tractor. The dead body was not flicked anywhere, while being carried one tractor or the tempo. The road was plain and smooth.

22. PW-5 S.I. Daya Chand Satsangi, is investigating officer. He has stated that on 15.07.2006 instant Criminal Case No. 117/2006 under sections 304, 452 IPC was registered at the police station Khurja dehat and he was entrusted the investigation of the case. He recorded the statement of witnesses and proceeded to the place of occurrence, i.e. house of Vinod, situate in the village Mubarikpur, through Jeep along with H.M. Subhash Channdra Verma, S.O. Karan Singh Chauhan, C- Iqbal Kahn, C- Suresh Pal and other police personnels. They saw the dead body of deceased Kunti lying on the floor in a room. He nominated witnesses of inquest (Panches) and launched inquest proceedings of the corpse of deceased Kunti Devi and prepared the report in the presence of witnesses and obtained their signatures on the inquest report. He proved inquest report as Ext. Ka- 2. In the opinion of the witnesses deceased died due to injuries on the face and head, but to ascertain real cause, post-mortem be got done. He also subscribed to the opinion of witnesses. So, he prepared challan lash, letter to R.I., letter to C.M.O., photo lash sealed the dead body and the specimen seal was prepared, and body was handed over along with the papers to C- Suresh Pal and C- Iqbal khan, to take it to mortuary. They were instructed that no one should be accorded opportunity to touch and disturb the sealed dead body, till the postmortem was over. The witness proved inquest report as Ext Ka-2. Challan lash as Ext Ka- 3. Letter to R.I. as Ext. Ka- 4, request to C.M.O. as Ext. Ka- 5, Photo lash as Ext. Ka- 6. The witnesses stated that he collected plain and blood stained earth, which was sealed in two separate boxes in the presence of the witnesses and prepared memo for the same in his writing and signature, singnatures of witness were also obtained. He proved it as Ext. Ka- 7. He also collected a blood saturated bricks from the spot which was sealed and recovery memo for the same was prepared by him in his hand-writing and signature of the witnesses were obtained over it. He proved the memo as Ext. Ka- 8. On 16.07.2006 he also recorded the statement of tehrir scribe Jay Prakash and prepared site plan at the instance of the complainant. He proved site plan as Ext. Ka- 9. He also recorded the statement of Harviri and on her instance collected a blood stained underwear from the place where the accused had jumped over the wall. The recovery memo for the same was prepared in the presence of the witnesses in his hand-writing and signature. He proved it as Ext. Ka- 10. On 19.07.2006 he arrested accused Sunil at about 18.05 hours and recovered a country-made pistol from him. For which separate criminal case was registered against him. On 29.07.2006 he received two slides, sent by the autopsy surgeon, sent for test. The report of the same was received from the lab after photological examination. He also recorded the statement of C- Suresh Pal and C- Iqbal Khan and the statements of the inquest report. After completion of the investigation he submitted a charge-sheet against the accused Sunil in his writing and signature. The witness proved the charge-sheet as Ext. Ka- 11. The witness also identified the brick which he has collected from near the dead body on 15.07.2006 and also proved it as the material Ext. 1 to 7. I.O. was also put to several queries in his cross-examination.

23. PW-6 H.C. 19 Subhas Chandra is the police personnel who on 15.11.2006 has registered Case Crime No. 117/2006, under Section 452, 304 I.P.C. against accused Sunil, on the basis of the tehrir Ext. Ka- 1 of complainant Vinod Kumar and drawn chik and entries in kaimi G.D. No. 39 at 9.30 p.m. dated 15.07.2006 in his writing and signature. He proved chik FIR as Ext. Ka- 12 and kaimi G.D. as Ext. Ka- 13.

24. In his cross-examination PW- 6 has stated that complainant came along with Shyam Sunder, Manoj and Jay Prakash to the police station to lodge FIR. At that time S.I. D.C. Satsangi was present at and he made his signature on chik. He has written Section 304, 452 I.P.C. on the chik. The copy of the same were given to I.O. who proceeded for the spot immediately, when he returned, he was not on duty. He do not know when I.O. returned at the police station. He has not sent any special report because there is no need to send special report regarding the occurrence under Section 304 I.P.C. He do not know that paper of the tehrir is taken from a note book or not. On 15.07.2006 no FIR was registered about any cognizable offence prior or afterward to this case. He declined the suggestion that he registered the case after I.O. returned from investigation.

25. Learned Amicus Curiae, appearing for the appellant, has assiduously argued that in the present case FIR is ante timed and has been lodged after a long deliberation and confabulation. So it is the creature of afterthought, which shrouded the veracity and probity of prosecution story in serious doubt. Learned A.G.A. dispelled the contention of the learned counsel for the appellant. In view of the rival submissions of the parties it is pertinent to have an bird's eye view of legal scenario, in this behalf.

26. In Jay Prakash Singh Vs. State of Bihar and Anr. (2012) 4 SCC 379, it is held by the Hon'ble Apex Court:-

"12. The FIR in a criminal case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence though may not be substantive piece of evidence. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR in respect of the commission of an offence is to obtain early information regarding the circumstances in which the crime was committed, the names of the actual culprits and the part played by them as well as the names of the eyewitnesses present at the scene of occurrence. If there is a delay in lodging the FIR, it loses the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of colored version, exaggerated account or concocted story as a result of large number of consultations / deliberations. Undoubtedly, the promptness in lodging the FIR is an assurance regarding truth of the informant's version. A promptly lodged FIR reflects the first hand account of what has actually happened, and who was responsible for the offence in question."

27. We may refer with profit a passage from State Of Himachal Pradesh vs Gian Chand, AIR 2001 S.C. 2075, also:-

"Delay in lodging the FIR cannot be used as a ritualistic formula for doubting the prosecution case and discarding the same solely on the ground of delay in lodging the first information report. Delay has the effect of putting the Court in its guard to search if any explanation has been offered for the delay, and if offered, whether it is satisfactory or not. If the prosecution fails to satisfactorily explain the delay and there is possibility of embellishment in prosecution version on account of such delay, the delay would be fatal to the prosecution. However, if the delay is explained to the satisfaction of the court, the delay cannot by itself be a ground for disbelieving and discarding the entire prosecution case."

28. In Om Prakash vs State Of Haryana 2014 Cr. L.J.2567 (SC),followed in Mange Ram vs State Of Haryana And Ors, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that :-

That apart, it is settled in law that mere delay in lodging the first information report cannot by itself be regarded as fatal to the prosecution case. True it is, the court has a duty to take notice of the delay and examine the same in the backdrop of the factual score, whether there has been any acceptable explanation offered by the prosecution and whether the same deserves acceptation being satisfactory, but when delay is satisfactorily explained, no adverse inference is to be drawn. It is to be seen whether there has been possibility of embellishment in the prosecution version on account of such delay. These principles have been stated in Meharaj Singh v. State of U.P. (1994) 5 SCC 188, State of H.P. v. Gian Chand (2001) 6 SCC 71, Ramdas and others v. State of Maharashtra (2007) 2 SCC 170, Kilakkatha Parambath Sasi and others v. State of Kerala (2011) 4 SCC 552 and Kanhaiya Lal and others v. State of Rajasthan (2013) 5 SCC 655.

29. In, Meharaj Singh (supra) the Apex court has enunciated some checks about the ante timed FIR. One of the checks pointed out is regarding the receipt of the copy of FIR by the local Magistrate. If it is sent late it will give rise to an inference that FIR is not lodged within reasonable time. Further sending of the copy of the FIR with the dead body for autopsy along with inquest report, will lead the inference that FIR is in time. The absence of those details indicate the facts that the prosecution story was still in an embryo state and it has come to be recorded later on, after due deliberation and consultation. Maharaj Singh (Supra) has been followed by the Apex Court in Mohammad Muslim Vs. State of U.P. 2023 live law (SC) 489 also.

30. In, Ram Das and others vs State of Maharastra 2007 (2) SCC 170 the Apex Court has observed the law as under:-

"In the ultimate analysis, what is the effect of delay in lodging the report with the police is a matter of appreciation of evidence, and the court must consider the delay in the background of the facts and circumstances of each case. Different cases have different facts and it is the totality of evidence and the impact that it has on the mind of the court that is important. No strait jacket formula can be evolved in such matters, and each case must rest on its own facts. It is settled law that however similar the circumstances, facts in one case cannot be used as a precedent to determine the conclusion on the facts in another. (See AIR 1956 SC 216 : Pandurang and others vs. State of Hyderabad). Thus mere delay in lodging of the report may not by itself be fatal to the case of the prosecution, but the delay has to be considered in the background of the facts and circumstances in each case and appreciation of evidence by the court of fact."

31. Hon'ble Supreme Court has reiterated the same principle in Latesh alias Dadu Baburao Kerleka vs. State of Maharashtra 2018 AIR SC 659. The Apex Court has observed as follows:-

"The value to be attached to the FIR depends upon facts and circumstances of each case. When a person gives a statement to the police officer, basing on which the FIR is registered. The capacity of reproducing the things differs from person to person. Some people may have the ability to reproduce the things as it is, some may lack the ability to do so. Some times in the state of shock, they may miss the important details, because people tend to react differently when they come across a violent act. Merely because the names of the accused are not stated and their names are not specified in the FIR that may not be a ground to doubt the contents of the FIR and the case of the prosecution cannot be thrown out on this count."

32. Thus, law is well settled that even if there is delay in lodging of FIR but delay stands well explained, then it would have absolutely no adverse effect on the case of prosecution. Even if the delay remain unexplained, the case of prosecution cannot be thrown away out rightly on this score alone, but in that case a duty is cast upon the court to scrutinize prosecution evidence with extra care and caution and then to reach the conclusion.

33. In present case, as per tehrir (Ext Ka-1) and chik FIR (Ext Ka-12), the incident is alleged to have taken place on 15.07.2006 at about 07.30 p.m. Complainant Vinod Kumar gave the tehrir about the incident at the police station on 15.07.2006 at 21.30 p.m., which has been entered in Kaimi GD (Ext. Ka-13), No. 39, dated 15.07.2006 at 21.30 p.m. and the Case Crime No. 117 of 2006 was registered against accused Sunil under sections 452 and 304 IPC. The distance between the Police Station and place of occurrence situated in village Mubarikpur, is 17 Kms. towards south. Thus, there is a delay of about 2 hours in lodging of FIR. Keeping in view the nature of the crime occurred, prima facie, two hours delay in the circumstances of the case did not appear to be inordinate delay in lodging the FIR, rather it is too prompt to lodge it. However, referring to the statement of PW- 6 H.C. 19 Subhash Chandra, learned counsel for the appellant has urged that there is a serious doubt that FIR has been lodged on the day of occurrence i.e. on 15.07.2006 so it is ante time. Learned A.G.A. has refuted the contention of the learned counsel appearing for the appellant.

34. In view of the rival contentions of learned counsels for the parties following facts may be mentioned:-

(i)- PW- 6 H.C. 19 Subhash Chandra has deposed that he received the tehrir on 15.04.2006 and drawn the chik Ext. Ka- 12, on the same day at 21.30 hours in his hand-writing and signature and registered Case Crime No. 117/06, under Sections 452, 304 I.P.C. In his cross-examination he verified that he draw the chik Ext. Ka- 12 at the time when tehrir was given by the complainant. Thus, according to PW- 6 he received the tehrir Ext. Ka- 1 on 15.04.2006 and registered the criminal case against the accused on the same day. It indicate that FIR was prepared ante dated.

(ii)- PW- 6 H.C. 19 Subhash Chandra has admitted that the case against the accused was registered under Section 304, 452 I.P.C. but he has not sent the special report of the case to the higher authorities, because it was not a case of cognizable nature. It may be observed that offence u/s 304 I.P.C. has been categories as cognizable offences in Cr.P.C. Sending of special report of such grievous cases to higher authorities promptly, may prove a safeguard that FIR was lodged without unreasonable delay. Omission of such an action on the part of the Police, cast doubt about the fact that FIR was lodged ante time.

(iii)- FIR is alleged to have been sent by the police station to Local Magistrate, having jurisdiction, for perusal and necessary information. As per rules, it should be sent to the CJM, having local jurisdiction, within 24 hours of the lodging of the FIR. In this case although chik FIR has been sent to CJM but on what date it was sent, is not mentioned therein, CJM has seen it Ext. Ka- 12 but marked no date or time below his signature. This non-compliance of the mandatory provision of law, also indicates doubt about the prompt lodging of FIR in the case.

(iv)- PW- 1 Dr. B.P. Singh Kalyani has nowhere mentioned in his post-mortem report, Ext. Ka- 14, Case No., papers sent to him by the police and sections of the crime in Indian Penal Code and other descriptions of the matter. It further indicates that FIR was not in existence till the post-mortem was over.

(v)- This apart, the evidence on record will also suggest that FIR has been prepared after due deliberations and concoction. So it is the result of afterthought leaving ample time to twist and turn the real facts. For instance, PW-3 Sukhdev has admitted in his cross-examination that Jay Prakash, who is his son, scribed the tehrir Ext. Ka- 1. At the time of scribing tehrir, four-six persons were present there. Report was prepared with the deliberation and advice of all them. Scriber, Jay Prakash has not been examined by the prosecution, for the reasons best known to it. Thus, an adverse inference may be drawn against prosecution that FIR in the case is the result of deliberation and a result of an afterthought.

(vi)- Another highlighted circumstance requires mention here. The P.M.R. reveals the fact, admitted by PW- 1 Vinod Kumar, that his wife was gravid of eight months. Admittedly complainant had no issue at the relevant time of incident. In such a situation it was more important to rescue his wife, but he has not mentioned the fact that his wife was gravid of eight months, either in the tehrir nor in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to I.O. Why such an important fact is not mentioned there, is not explained. It was for the first time he admitted this fact in his deposition in the court, which seems to be a kind of improvement in his statement and cast doubt about the truthfulness of his testimony and also about the FIR.

35. In view of the above discussion FIR in this case appears to be ante timed, but it would not be safe to throw over board the entire prosecution case on this score only.

36. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued that the entire prosecution story is the product of fabrication with an oblique object of wreaking vengeance. Witnesses produced by the prosecution are partisan, inimical to the appellants and interested witnesses and not independent witness. They are unreliable witnesses and as such no credence can be attached to their testimony and their deposition is not reliable and deserves to be discarded. Learned A.G.A. refuted the contention of the learned counsel for the appellant. He submitted that ordinarily a close relative would not spare the real culprit who has caused the death and implicate an innocent person. It will be beneficial to discuss law on the issue and evaluation of testimonies prosecution witnesses.

37. In case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Smt. Kalki and Anr. (1981) 2 SCC 752 the Hon'ble Supreme Court distinguished between the “related” and “interested” witness. It held that ‘Related' witness is not equivalent to 'interested' witness. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in a decree of a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of the case, cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the present case the witnesses produced have nothing to gain if the appellant is convicted or acquittal. There is not even an iota of evidence that any of these witnesses will get some benefit out of litigation between complainant and the accused. They are eye witnesses. So, they are not interested witnesses.

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

39. In a three Judges Bench of the Supreme Court of India in Hari Obula Reddy Vs. State of A.P. (1981) 3 SCC 675 observed as under:-

"13. ...it is well settled that interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. Even partisanship by itself is not a valid ground for discrediting or rejecting sworn testimony. Nor can it be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon."

40. Again, in S. Sudershan Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P (2006) 10 SCC 163, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"12. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interests of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyze evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

15. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh case in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the Members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses."

41. It is well known that there may be three kinds of witnesses:-

(i) Wholly reliable,
(ii) Wholly unreliable,
(iii) Partly reliable and partly unreliable,

There is no problem to evaluate testimony of wholly reliable or wholly unreliable witnesses, but it is different to deal with the witness, who are partly reliable and partly unreliable. The court has to be very careful in evaluation of such kind of witnesses.

"22. In our considered opinion, the "sterling witness" should be of a very high quality and calibre whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross-examination of any length and howsoever strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as the sequence of it. Such a version should have co- relation with each and every one of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other such similar tests to be applied, can it be held that such a witness can be called as a "sterling witness" whose version can be accepted by the court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged."

simply because the witnesses were relatives of the deceased. The only caveat is that the evidence of relative witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution.

44. It is germane to point out here that admittedly at the time of occurrence, 10-12 people had gethered at the spot according to PW- 3 Sukhdev there were Gajay Singh, Devi Singh and Devi Ram, had reached at the place of occurrence at the time of incident. However, prosecution has examined only two witnesses of facts. PW-2 Vinod Kumar, who is the complainant of the case and husband of the deceased Smt. Kunti Devi and PW- 3 Sukhdev who is the uncle of Vinod Kumar, so they are related witnesses. One may call them interested witness. However, they claimed to be eye witnesses. As per law discussed above, therefore, their testimony be scrutinized and evaluated with extra care and caution and then their credibility and reliability be weighed.

Presence of the examined witnesses at the place of occurrence

45. Now it is pertinent to see that whether the prosecution witnesses were present at the scene of occurrence at the relevant time. Following facts give the impression that the witnesses were not present the scene of occurrence and they have not seen the actual incident committing by the accused / appellant.

(i)- PW-1 Vinod Kumar has stated in his examination that he is a mason. On the fateful day at about 3.00 p.m. he had gone to Khurja to take his due wages from Rajkumar, when he returned at his home, by bicycle, at about 7.30, p.m. he saw the occurrence. Khurja is about four and half k.m. from his village. It takes half an hour to reach there from his residence. In Khurja he went to the office of Rajkumar, which is situated about 10 km. from his village. He halted in the office of Rajkumar and had made conversation/ discussion with him, as he wanted to get constructed some building by him. After sometime at about 6.05 p.m., he returned from Khurja. There is a big question mark regarding the truthfulness of his statement. In the facts of the case, is it really possible for him to return to his house in the nick of the time mentioned by him through bicycle and could witness the occurrence at 07.30 p.m.

(ii) On reaching at his house, he saw that in his room, near the bed Sunil flinged his wife Kunti Devi down on the ground and was sitting over top of her, crushing her head and face with a brick. He tried to apprehend him and made shrieks, but he pushed him aside and ran away therefrom. In his cross-examination he has stated that when he returned from Khurja it was 7.30 p.m. He saw that his dead wife's feet and back were towards the door of the room. On his reaching at the spot, Sunil pushed him aside and fled away. He chased, but could not apprehended him. It was a little dark at 7.30 p.m. He also stated that his house is pakka. There is no pakka floor in his room. There is a gate in the the gallery, which remains closed and open also. There is a room, kitchen, yard and a gallery in his house. The room exist in front of the main road and towards gallery.

(iii) In the backdrop of the circumstances and the statement of PW- 1 Vinod Kumar it is clear that at the time of occurrence in fact he was not present at the spot. When he reached at 7.30 p.m. on the scene of occurrence, he saw accused sitting over the top of his wife, flinging her down on the ground and crushing her head and face by a brick. On his reaching, accused pushed him away and ran away from the place of occurrence. As per site plan Ext Ka-9 one could reach in the bed room of the deceased from, main gate through the gallery. In the process of reaching in the room some noise was bound to happen/ occur, providing sufficient time to the accused to make his escape good, which in fact the culprit did. This witness might have seen him running away but possibly could not see accused / appellant committing gruesome murder of the deceased Kunti Devi. It may be mentioned that PW-3 Sukhdev saw accused fleeing with ensanguine hands. If PW- 1 Vinod Kumar, who is the husband of the deceased has reached at the place of occurrence and saw accused committing the crime, he would have strived to save and rescued the deceased, from the ire of the accused. and in that process he was bound to receive some blood stains on his clothes/ person. But no such blood stains were found on his clothes or person by the investigating officer and no cloth of the complainant was recovered and taken into possession for examination by I.O.

(iv) The P.M.R. Ext Ka-14 reveals the fact, admitted by PW- 1 Vinod Kumar, that his wife was gravid of eight months. Admittedly complainant had no issue at the relevant time of incident. In such a situation it was more important to rescue his wife. But he has not mentioned this fact either in tehrir Ext Ka-1 or in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Why such an important fact is not mentioned there, is not explained. It was for the first time he admitted this fact in his deposition in the court, which seems to be a kind of improvement in his statement and cast doubt about truthfulness on the veracity of his testimony. Had he been present at the scene of occurrence he would have desperately tried to rescue his wife. But strangely there in no such attempt made by the PW-2. IO has not found any blood stain on his cloth or even a scratch of injury on his body. This further indicate that PW-2 was not present on the scene of occurrence and he has not actually witnessed accused appellant committing the crime.

(v) It is also note worthy that in FIR it is mentioned that the accused was crushing his wife on face and head with brick. There is no mention of the fact that accused was sitting over the top of the deceased and committing the crime. It is for the first time in his deposition he introduced this facts. It may be observed that the deceased was gravid of eight months at the time of occurrence, so it was an important fact, as it may be dangerous to life of the deceased in itself. Therefore, it should have been mentioned in FIR. On adding this fact by way of improvement in his deposition, an inference may be drawn about his absence, at the time of occurrence.

(vi) The incident took place at the time of at 07.30 p.m. in the bedroom situated in side the house of the complainant. Admittedly at that time it was partially dark. No source of light is mentioned in the room. In the absence of any light, a complete darkness in the room may be presumed. In such a condition, it is difficult to witness the culprit committing the crime. That too when he is said to have swiftly fled away. This fact also indicate that there was no possibility for PW-3 to see the incident of crime.

(vii)- PW-3 Shukhdev has very clearly admitted in his cross examination that on hearing wail and shriek he reached towards the house of Vinod Kumar. He saw Sunil fleeing through gallery in the house of Vinod Kumar. He ran towards south. Thus, the witness has admitted that he has not seen Sunil committing the crime. Thus, the credibility of his testimony is not reliable at all.

46. On the basis of the above discussion, it may be inferred that PW- 2 Vinod Kumar and PW-3 Shukhdev, were not present at the spot, at the relevant time of occurrence and they are not the eye witnesses. Their presence on the spot at the time of incident is highly doubtful. Therefore, their testimony is not credible and reliable. It is to be discarded accordingly.

47. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has argued that no motive has been imputed to the appellant and it has failed to adduce any evidence to establish motive for the commission of offence. Learned A.G.A. has refuted the argument by saying that the appellant committed the crime owing to a dispute over the use the hand-pump, where Renu the daughter Heera Lal, had gone to take bath, before the incident and to which deceased Kunti Devi had prevented her. This caused ire and anger to the accused appellant and he committed the incident.

48. It is a established canon of law of criminal justice that motive is sine qua none of a criminal act. It is an important element of committing a crime. In, a plethora of cases including in Badam Singh vs State Of Madhya Pradesh 2004 CRILJ 22 the Apex Court has observed –

"20……...Even though existence of motive loses significance when there is reliable ocular testimony, in a case where the ocular testimony appears to be suspect the existence or absence of motive acquires some significance regarding the probability of the prosecution case....."

49. Thus, Where there is direct and credible evidence, motive occupies a back seat. However, where the ocular testimony appears to be suspected the existence or absence of motive, acquires some significance. In the present case there is no direct evidence. Even presence of so called eye witnesses, is doubtful. Therefore motive assumes some importance. Appellant is said to have committed the crime because of dispute between the deceased and Kamlesh, wife of his neighbor Heera Lal. Its is alleged that there is a hand pipe in the courtyard of the deceased house from where people used to take water. Renu daughter of neighbor of the complainant, Heera Lal, went to take bath on the hand pipe 2-3 days before the incident. Deceased Kunti restrained her. Renu had complained of it, in her house. Heera Lal is Phufa of Sunil and he was residing with Heera Lal for last 7-8 days, Sunil, out of ire and anguish, committed the alleged crime. However the motive attributed for committing the crime by Sunil does not inspire confidence, because firstly, there is no evidence, regarding the said motive, on record. So it is not proved. Secondly if prosecution story, regarding motive, is accepted, even then restraining Renu from taking bath, on the hand pipe would cause much ire and anguish to Heera Lal against the deceased and there is a remote possibility that it would cause such ire and anguish to prompt the appellant to commit the crime who is an out sider and on a short visit at the house of Heera Lal. Prosecution could have brought Heera Lal in the witness box to establish existance of any motive towards appellant. Thus, prosecution has failed to establish any motive of committing the crime to the accused/ appellant and this further renders the prosecution case doubtful.

50. The learned Amicus Curiae for appellant has submitted that prosecution did not obtain any report from FSL regarding the material Exhibit-1, the brick, which appellant is alleged to have used in the commission of crime. PW-5 S.I. Daya Chand Satsangi, the I.O. of the case, has stated that he has collected a blood saturated piece of brick which is alleged to have been used by the appellant Sunil, in commision of the crime to crush the head and face of the deceased. There is a memo of recovery, Ext Ka-8, duly proved by PW-5 I.O. Daya Chand Satsangi, on record. But there is no evidence that the same was sent to FSL for Chemical examination, to ensure blood of human body and that too of the deceased Kunti Devi on the blood saturated piece of brick. Thus, the prosecution has miserably failed to establish its story that appellant had crushed the head and face of deceased Kunti Devi by brick. It renders the prosecution story wholly doubtful and untrustworthy.

51. Besides, there are several contradictions and discrepancies in the statement of the prosecution witnesses, which shake the very edifice of prosecution version but the same is not of much significance or material or prejudicial to appellant which could be mentioned here.

52. In the light of prolix and verbose discussion made herein above and also regard being had to the entire fact and circumstances of the case, we are of the considered opinion that findings arrived at the trial court is perverse and erroneous. There is no eye witnesses of the occurrence. Therefore it is a case of circumstantial evidence, which requires that there should be a complete chain of evidence pointing towards guilt of the appellant that deceased was inflicted serious injuries with brick, by the accused / appellant. Prosecution has not examined any independent witness, despite their availability and presence at the spot, to corroborate, testimonies of PW-2 Vinod Kumar and PW-3 Shukhdev. In view of non-presence of PW-2 and PW-3 on the spot at the relevant time, of occurrence witnessing the actual incident, non-examination of independent witnesses is fatal to the prosecution case. The absence of any such witness the entire prosecution story is disproved. The chain of evidence of the circumstances is not complete in toto. It conclusively, fails to establish that appellant is the only perpetrator of dreadful crime. The learned Trial Judge misevaluated and misappreciated the entire evidence in convicting and sentencing the appellant in aforesaid crime. The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn is not fully established. Prosecution has failed to show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the appellant. Thus prosecution has miserably failed to establish the allegations beyond reasonable doubt, pointing unerringly towards the guilt of the appellant. The learned trial court has not appreciated the prosecution evidence in right perspective and has illegally recorded the finding of conviction against the appellant which we reversed.

53. Resultantly, the judgment and order of learned trial court is set aside and appeal is allowed. Appellant is on bail. He need not surrender. His bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

54. Let the trial court record be remitted back immediately, for necessary compliance.

1. This appeal is directed against judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 8.1.2021, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge (Court No.2)/ Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Mahoba in Special Case No.29 of 2009 (State Vs. Arun Mishra), arising out of Case Crime No.1596 of 2008, Police Station Kulpahar, District Mahoba, whereby the accused appellant Arun Mishra has been convicted and sentenced to rigorous life imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs.20,000/- under Section 376 IPC read with Section 3(2)5 SC/ST Act and on failure to deposit fine to undergo additional simple imprisonment for two months.

2. Informant in the present case belongs to scheduled caste and is a resident of Village Rikhwaha, Police Station Kulpahar, District Mahoba. Accused appellant was a Watcher in the forest and had engaged several ladies and gents of the village for afforestation work at Badarwara. Informant and his wife (victim) were also engaged in the project. On 12.9.2008 the plantation work on one side got over but some of the trees were still left to be planted by the informant's wife for which the accused detained the victim. Other ladies were allowed to go. At about 12.00 in the afternoon when the victim was going towards other ladies, she was grabbed by the accused appellant, who laid her on the ground and by extending threat subjected her to sexual assault. Informant's wife (victim) out of fear did not inform other ladies, but on her way back to home she told about the incident to her brother-in-law (Jeth) namely, Ganpat (not produced). On reaching home she informed of the incident to informant but due to threats it was not discussed. Two days later accused threatened informant's wife to give him her silver belly chain (half-peti) or else he would kill the entire family. Under threat the victim gave her silver belly chain to the accused without telling it to her husband. When the informant came to know of the incident, he asked the accused to return the silver belly chain or else he would report the incident. On this the accused returned the silver belly chain. The informant accordingly has come to lodge the report. The report was not lodged earlier due to threat. The written report has been made on 23.9.2008 by the informant Pyarelal (PW-1). The report was scribed by Dashrath Kumar, Advocate (PW-5). On the basis of the above information, in respect of the offence committed on 12.9.2008 at 12.00 in the afternoon, the FIR got lodged on 23.9.2008 at 20.30 hours, under Sections 376, 506 IPC read with Section 3(1)(XII) of SC/ST Act, at Police Station Kulpahar, District Mahoba.

3. The victim was medically examined at 2.00 pm on 24.9.2008 at District Hospital, Mahoba, wherein no internal or external injury was found on any part of her body. No injury was found on the private parts of the victim, either. Two slides of vaginal smear were prepared and sent for pathological report. The report of the Pathologist shows no signs of dead or live spermatozoa. Statement of witnesses were recorded in the matter, whereafter a chargesheet came to be submitted against the accused appellant on 6.10.2008 under Section 497 IPC and 3(1)(XII) SC/ST Act. Cognizance was taken in the matter and the case was committed to the court of Additional Sessions Judge (Court No.2), Mahoba as Special Case No.29 of 2009 (State Vs. Arun Mishra). Charges were framed on 27.9.2010 and also on 2.3.2020 under the aforesaid sections as also under Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act. The accused denied the accusation and demanded trial.

4. During the course of trial, documentary evidence have been adduced by the prosecution in the form of FIR as Ex.Ka-7; written report as Ex.Ka-1; injury report as Ex.Ka-4, injury report as Ex.Ka-5; supplementary report as Ex.Ka-6; chargesheet as Ex.Ka-3; and site plan with Index as Ex.Ka-2.

5. In addition to above, during the course of trial, informant has appeared as PW-1 and has supported the prosecution case. He has alleged that his wife was sexually assaulted on account of threat extended to her. None was present at the place of occurrence. Informant did not come out of house for two days as the accused kept roaming nearby his house armed with an axe. Two days later when the informant had gone to Kulpahar the accused extended threats and took his wife's silver belly chain (Half-peti). Accused was a Watcher in the Forest Department. On return when the informant came to know of it, he asked the accused to return the silver belly chain (Half-peti) or else he would report the matter. The accused then returned the silver belly chain (Half-peti). The informant alleges that he kept visiting the police station for lodging the report regarding rape but the same was not lodged. Informant then took Ashok Baudh and Dashrath, Advocate with him only whereafter the report was lodged after it was scribed by Dashrath, Advocate, on his dictation. The witness has proved the written report (PW-1). The victim was medically examined at Mahoba.

6. In the cross-examination, PW-1 has stated that he does not know the value of the silver belly chain, and that the victim had not worn the ornament while going to work. When the ornament was not returned by the accused, he came to Dashrath Vakeel. By the time he came to Dashrath, Advocate, the silver ornament was already returned. PW-1 claimed that the silver belly chain was given to the accused without informing him. Accused had not taken the silver belly chain from his house. It (silver belly chain) was also not given to the accused at the Jungle rather it was given near the well. No body was present when the ornament was given to the accused. PW-1 has admitted that he felt extremely annoyed when he came to know that accused has taken his wife's silver belly chain. His report was not lodged initially by the police and only when he came with Advocate Dashrath and Ashok Baudh to the police station that his report was lodged. Informant was not aware that Ashok Baudh was the District President of the Ruling Party. Ashok Baudh is also a relative of the witness. His signatures were obtained on the written report. On coming out of Police Station, Dashrath, Advocate had not informed him that accused will be arrested or sent to jail. The silver ornament was not produced in court. Accused is a Government Servant working in the Forest Department.

7. PW-1 during cross examination admitted that on the asking of accused he had gone for work alongwith his wife to the forest. Accused never withheld the wages of informant or his wife. Informant and his wife were never thrown out of work by the accused. Rape was not committed in his presence. None, except his wife, was present at the place of occurrence. Informant was told about the incident of rape prior to taking of silver belly chain by the accused appellant. Though it is alleged that the informant had visited the concerned authorities on the next day but his report was not lodged. The complaint typed for the purpose, however, was not produced. It was also not given to the Investigating Officer. He has denied the suggestion that due to non-providing of work a false police report was lodged alongwith Dashrath, Advocate and Ashok Baudh. On the date of incident Maan Singh was working with the victim in the garden. PW-1 was working in the garden for the last 5-6 days. He was not having his meal with his wife. On the fateful day also, he told his wife that he shall work only up-till lunch, and that he did so. He had his meal separately while his wife had her meal separately. He left without informing his wife that he is leaving for home. PW-1 had informed the scribe of report that silver ornament was returned two days earlier and he cannot explain why this fact was not mentioned in the written report. He also stated that such statement was made by him to the Investigating Officer also and he cannot explain why such facts are not mentioned in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

8. Victim was produced during trial as PW-2. She has supported the prosecution case. It was 12.00 O'clock in the afternoon when she was planting trees in the nursery. Two trees were left to be planted. Accused appellant instructed her to plant remaining two trees and sent all the other ladies working in the nursery. Worker Maan Singh remained at the nursery. PW-2 informed that she is going to deliver meal (breads) to her husband. After delivering meals she returned for work. By the time she returned, Maan Singh had also left. Victim thereafter was also going towards other ladies when accused grabbed her near Purwaria, and pushed her. She tried to escape but she was again grabbed by the accused, who committed sexual assault upon her. Accused had put clothe in her mouth, so she could not scream. Nobody was present there. On return she informed about the incident to her brother-in-law (Jeth) Ganpat and later told about the incident to her husband. Two days thereafter the accused took her silver belly chain. The report was lodged by her husband two days later.

9. In the cross-examination, PW-2 stated that her husband was the only male member working there. Prior to plantation in the nursery she had not gone for work anywhere else. On the date of incident her husband was not present. She had given meal to her husband 10 minutes prior to the interval. As soon as PW-2 gave the meal to her husband he told her that he was not having his meal there, although prior to the incident he used to have his meal with her. She used to go for work with her husband and return together. She had seen her husband leaving from the place of work. She did not inform accused appellant that her husband would not return for work after 12.00 O'clock. She asserted that accused was with him for half an hour and committed rape once.

10. In her further cross-examination, PW-2 stated that while returning on the date of incident she met Ganpat and told him about the incident. PW-2 has denied the suggestion that she was seen with the accused by Ganpat. Two days later her silver ornament had been taken by the accused. She used to obey the accused as he would threaten her with an axe. Accused never threatened her in presence of her husband. Silver belly chain was taken by the accused by threatening her with axe. She told her husband about giving of silver ornament two days later. Her husband told that he would now have to go to Dashrath, Advocate. When she informed the Advocate about taking of silver belly chain then the Advocate said that he would lodge such report against the accused that he would have to go to jail. The silver ornament was returned after lodging of the report. The silver ornament has now been sold by her husband and the same is not with her now.

11. PW-3, Brijmohan Singh was the Investigating Officer of the case and has proved the police papers. He recorded the statement of various person and had filed the chargesheet. The victim had not disclosed him about receiving of threat by showing axe. He had recorded the statement of Ganpat, who did not tell him that the incident was disclosed to him by the victim, rather he came to know of it after lodging of case from uncle Mukundi. Upon investigation he did not find any evidence of rape upon the victim.

12. PW-4 is Dr. Rashmi Sharma. She medically examined the victim on 24.9.2008 at 2.00 pm. She has proved the pathology report, wherein no semen has been found. She found no signs of physical assault or coercion.

13. PW-5 is Advocate Dashrath Kumar who has scribed the written report. He has stated that informant came to him and told him about rape on his wife by the accused, as well as threats by the accused to the victim. He has stated that written report has been prepared by him. In the cross-examination PW-5 has stated that he is working as Advocate from prior to 2008. He has admitted that the written report was lodged after deliberation and consultation. He has denied the suggestion that report has been written on his own and not on the instructions of the informant.

14. PW-6 is Kalka Prasad Richhariya, who was working as Helper in the forest department. He has denied the prosecution case and has been declared hostile. Constable Roop Singh has been produced as PW-7 and has proved the chick FIR and GD entry.

15. The above evidence of prosecution has been confronted to the accused for recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused has alleged the evidence to be false. He has stated that the FIR contents are false and have been prepared by an Advocate purposively. The defence has produced Maan Singh as DW-1, who has stated that on 12.9.2008 he was working with the victim and the informant, and that no such incident of rape was committed by the accused. In the cross-examination, DW-1 has admitted that he has been asked to give evidence by the accused. He has denied having given any statement to police that the accused and the victim were having close terms and used to crack jokes etc., or that physical relations were performed by them.

16. On the basis of above evidence led by the parties, during the trial, the court of sessions has convicted and sentenced the accused appellant for the offence under Section 376 IPC read with Section 3(2)(5) SC/ST Act. The accused, however, has been acquitted of the charges levelled under Section 497 IPC read with Section 3(1)(XII) SC/ST Act. Aggrieved by the said judgment of conviction and sentence the accused appellant has preferred the present appeal.

17. Learned counsel for the appellant argues that the accused appellant has been falsely implicated in the present case on the persuasion of PW-5, who scribed a false written report, on his own, just to secure return of silver belly chain. He submits that FIR has been lodged after consultation and deliberation. Learned counsel further argues that the reason of discord between the parties was giving of silver belly chain to the accused, by the victim, for its safe custody. It is also highlighted that in fact the husband of victim later sold it to someone and the victim has thus lost it for all times to come. Argument is that since silver belly chain was given to the accused for its safe custody, without the knowledge of the husband and as soon as he came to know of it a false report has been lodged in order to secure its return. The FIR has been lodged with false allegation of rape, whereas no such offence was actually committed. It is submitted that weight of evidence has been completely discarded and misconstrued by the court of sessions while convicting and sentencing the accused appellant. Learned counsel also argues that there is no corroboration of the testimony of victim and the very statement of victim clearly shows that the incident was something else but has rather been made out a case of rape for ulterior reasons.

18. Sri Sanjay Tripathi, learned counsel for the informant and learned AGA appearing for the State, however, submit that the evidence on record clearly proves the commissioning of offence and in such circumstances, the finding returned by the court of sessions merits no interference and the appeal merits rejection.

19. We have heard Sri Sushil Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Sanjay Tripathi, learned counsel for the informant and Ms. Archana Singh, learned AGA for the State and have perused the materials brought on record.

20. The prosecution case emanates on the written report of the informant, which has been scribed by PW-5. The written report is dated 23.9.2008 in respect of the incident of 12.9.2008 at 12.00 in the afternoon. The report is thus lodged after eleven days of the incident. The written report is essentially in two parts. The first part relates to committing of rape by the accused on the informant's wife at around 12.00 in the afternoon, which fact was allegedly disclosed by the victim to her brother-in-law Ganpat on the date of incident itself. However, on account of threats extended by the accused, no FIR was lodged on that day. The second part of the written report relates to threats being extended by the accused for taking silver belly chain from the informant's wife and taking such ornament from the victim without the knowledge of the informant; demand for return of silver ornament by the informant and the actual return of the ornament by the accused to the informant. Delay in filing of the FIR is sought to be explained by contending that out of fear the report was not lodged earlier.

21. So far as the first part of the incident is concerned, it is admitted on record that there is no independent eye-witness account of it. As such offences are otherwise done in seclusion it is hard to find an independent witness of the crime. It is from surrounding circumstances, medical evidence and the version of victim that the offence can be proved. Testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 would go to show that the informant and the victim, both, were working in the plantation work undertaken by the forest department. They used to come together for work and would go back together. However, on the date of incident i.e. 12.9.2008, the informant returned from work at around 12.00 O'clock and did not return for work in the later half of the day. The victim claims that she gave meal to her husband around lunch time but instead of having it there, the informant returned taking his meal with him. Other workers engaged at the plantation also left. The victim, nevertheless, was detained at the plantation nursery since few trees were yet to be planted by her. Maan Singh was the only person left behind, who also left a little later. It is the prosecution case that while victim was leaving towards other ladies she was grabbed by the accused and raped on the strength of threats. This part of the prosecution case is based entirely upon the statement of victim herself.

22. What transpires from the record is that while the incident of rape was committed by the accused appellant on the victim, yet the victim did not report the incident to anyone. According to the prosecution the victim informed of the incident of rape to Ganpat (victim's jeth) while returning from work. Ganpat is not produced in evidence. No reasons are explained as to why Ganpat was not produced. Ganpat is not even shown a witness in the chargesheet. In this regard the testimony of the Investigating Officer assumes significance. He has stated that during the investigation statement of Ganpat was recorded, who clearly stated that the victim never informed him about rape, and that such fact came to his notice on the disclosure of Mukundi uncle. This part of the testimony of the Investigating Officer is reproduced hereinafter:-

"मैने साक्षी गनपत जो पीड़िता का चचेरा जेठ है का ब्यान अंकित किया था। उसने पीड़िता द्वारा घटना के बारे में कोई बात बताने का बयान नहीं दिया था, बल्कि यह बयान दिया था कि बलात्कार की घटना के बारे में मुकदमा लिखाने के बाद मुकुन्दी चाचा ने मुझे बताया था।"

23. Informant moreover has alleged that prior to the incident of taking silver belly chain by the accused appellant from his wife, he was already informed of the offence of rape. He claims that an application was got prepared to report the incident and he had also gone to the police station to lodge it but the report was not lodged. PW-1 has specifically stated that he came to the police station on the very next day when his wife told him about the incident of rape. However, neither any written report has been produced, nor its copy has been furnished to the investigating officer. It is somewhat surprising that the act of rape was not reported by the victim to anyone including her own husband on the date of incident or soon thereafter. This is so as the incident was not reported. Though it is the case of PW-1 that the incident was informed to him by the victim but out of fear he did not report it to anyone. The fact that for more than ten days no report was lodged of rape creates doubt on the prosecution case when no plausible explanation is offered for the long delay.

24. As already noticed, the specific case of the prosecution is that the incident was reported on the date of incident itself by the victim to Ganpat, but there is no evidence on record to prove it, inasmuch as, Ganpat is not produced. We have already noticed the statement of I.O., as per which, no such statement was given by Ganpat to the I.O. We, therefore, find that the prosecution evidence is lacking on the point of disclosure of incident of rape upon the victim to Ganpat. It is also not clear as to when the incident of rape was reported by the victim to her husband. The victim is a married lady and if an act of rape is committed upon her the natural conduct of the victim would be to report it either to the police or at least to some member of the family or in whom she reposes confidence. No evidence is led on this count.

25. The second part of the prosecution story with regard to giving of silver belly chain to the accused by the victim remains shrouded in mystery. We are at a loss to understand as to why the lady gave her silver belly chain to the accused two days after she was raped by him. This silver belly chain is neither produced, nor exhibited during trial.

26. It is admitted to PW-2 (victim) that she did not give silver belly chain to the accused in the forest. She also says that the silver belly chain was not given by her to the accused at her house, rather case of the victim is that she gave it to the accused near the well. Statement of victim, in this regard, reads as under:-

"घटना वाले दिन के दो दिन बाद अपनी चाँदी की पेटी अभि० को दे दी थी मैने स्वयं नहीं दी थी बल्कि उसने धमकी देकर ले ली थी। अभियुक्त मुझे जिस बात के लिये धमकी देता था मैं उसकी वह बात कर देती थी क्योंकि कुल्हाड़ी दिखाता था। अभियुक्त मुझे इस तरह की धमकी अकेले में देता था पति के सामने नहीं देता था। अभियुक्त मुझे केवल कुल्हाड़ी दिखाता रहता था मारता नहीं था। अभियुक्त ने मुझे कुल्हाड़ी दिखाकर कमर की पेटी ले ली थी।"

27. So far as the accused threatening the victim with axe is concerned, the Investigating Officer in his statement has clearly stated that the victim made no such disclosure to him about accused having extended threats of axe. This part of the testimony of PW-2 is a clear improvement over what was disclosed by her to the I.O. during investigation.

28. We also find from the testimony of PW-2 that threats were extended to her by the accused only when she was alone. We find this part of the version of PW-2 to be somewhat strange inasmuch as the consistent prosecution case is that large number of ladies were employed for plantation at the nursery wherein the husband of the victim was also employed. It is not clear as to when and how the victim was alone with the accused at other times such that the accused could threaten her when such large number of workers were engaged at the place of occurrence. The incident of 12.09.2008 is otherwise reported to be an isolated incident when the victim was alone with the accused. There is no evidence of the prosecution that on other occasions also the victim was alone with the accused. In such circumstances the version of the victim of having received threats from the accused appellant and on account of such threats silver belly chain being given to the accused remains unexplained.

29. The evidence on record is primarily on the second part of the allegation contained in the written report i.e. giving of silver belly chain by the victim to the accused. PW-1 has clearly stated that his wife gave silver belly chain to the accused without his knowledge. He got enraged on coming to know of it and had even gone to lodge a report which was not registered. It was thereafter that the informant had gone to the Dashrath vakeel and Ashok Bouddha. Ashok Boudhha was the District President of the Ruling Party. The version of PW-1, in that regard, is relevant and is reproduced hereinafter:-

"जब अभियुक्त ने मेरी पत्नी की चांदी को पेटी नहीं लोटाई तो मैं दशरथ वकील के पास आया था। और उनसे यह बताया था कि अरुण मिश्रा ने मेरी पत्नी की पेटी ले ली थी और वापस कर दी थी। दशरथ वकील साहब के पास जब शिकायत करने गया था तब मेरी चाँदी की हाफ पेटी वापस हो चुकी थी। पत्नी ने मुझे बिना बताये पेटी अरुण मिश्रा को दे दी थी। इसके पहले मेरी पत्नी ने मुझे विना बताये किसी अन्य को कोई जेवर नहीं दिया। अरुण मिश्रा ने मेरी पत्नी से घर आकर पेटी नहीं ली थी। मेरी पत्नी ने पेटी जंगल में नहीं दी थी बल्कि हमारे कुआँ पर दी थी। पेटी देते समय गांव का कोई आदमी मौजूद नहीं था। यह सही है कि जब मेरी पत्नी से अरुण मिश्रा ने पेटी ले ली है तो मुझे बहुत तेज गुस्सा आ गया था। मैं पेटी की शिकायत करने थाने नहीं गया था रिपोर्ट करने गया था। दरोगा जी मेरी थाने में कई बार जाने के बाद भी रिपोर्ट नहीं लिखी। फिर मैं परेशान होकर दशरथ वकील व अशोक बौद्ध को लेकर थाने आया था। मुझे नहीं मालूम कि जब पार्टी सत्ता में थी तब वह पार्टी के जिलाध्यक्ष थे। आशोक वौद्ध हमारे दूर के रिश्तेदार है। अशोक बौद्ध व दशरथ वकील जब थाने पहुंचे तब मेरी रिपोर्ट लिखी गई।"

30. Version of PW-2 is on similar lines and is reproduced as under:-

"मैने अपने पति को कमर की पेटी देने के दो तीन बाद यह बताया था कि मैने अभियुक्त को अपने कमर की पेटी दे दी है। इस पर मेरे पति ने कहा कि अब श्री दशरथ वकील साहब के यहाँ चलना पड़ेगा। इस पर जब मैने वकील साहब को बताया कि अभि० हमारी चाँदी की पेटी ले गया है तो उन्होने कहा कि अब हम ऐसी रिपोर्ट लिखायेंगे कि अभियुक्त को जेल जाना पड़ेगा। वकील साहब ने यह नहीं कहा था कि तुम्हे पुलिस के सामने यह कहना पड़ेगा कि अभियुक्त ने मेरे साथ बुरा काम किया है बल्कि सही बात यह है कि अभियुक्त ने मेरे साथ बुरा काम किया है। मेरे द्वारा अभियुक्त के ऊपर उक्त कार्यवाही करने पर चाँदी की पेटी लौटा दी है।"

31. The Investigating Officer in his cross-examination had admitted that he found no proof of any rape having been committed on the victim by the accused. This specific statement of the Investigating Officer reads as under:-

"सभी गवाहो के बयानात व घटनास्थल के निरीक्षण आदि के उपरान्त तमामी विवेचना से मैनें पीड़िता के साथ बलात्कार होने का तथ्य मैने नहीं पाया था।"

32. We have already noticed that PW-5, who is the scribe of the written report has clearly admitted that the written report to lodge the FIR was prepared after due deliberation and consultation.

33. Upon evaluation of the evidence on record, we do find substance in the argument of the defence that in fact the victim had given silver belly chain to the accused appellant for its safe custody, without the knowledge and consent of her husband. When this fact came to the knowledge of the informant-husband, he got annoyed and with the intent of securing return of the silver belly chain a written report was prepared under the advise of an advocate so as to compel the accused appellant to return the silver belly chain. The statement of the victim is categorical in this regard. In her deposition she has clearly stated that when the advocate was informed that accused has taken her silver belly chain, he assured that he would lodge such report in the matter that the accused will have to go to Jail. She has stated that after the proceedings were initiated against the accused appellant, the silver belly chain has been returned by the accused to the victim. In the further deposition the victim says that the ornament has been sold by her husband. Her version, in that regard, is extracted hereinafter:-

"मैने जब अभियुक्त को चाँदी की पेटी दी तो मुझे किसी भी व्यक्ति ने यह पेटी देते नहीं देखा था। उसने धमकी देकर पेटी ली थी। इस घटना के बाद अब मेरा पति कहीं मजदूरी करने नहीं जाने देता है। मेरी उक्त चांदी की पेटी अब मेरे पास नहीं है मेरे पति ने बेच डाली है। यह कहना गलत है कि मेरे साथ अभियुक्त ने कोई घटना न की हो। मैने लालच वश यह झूठा मुकदमा दर्ज करा दिया हो।"

34. Upon analysis of the evidence brought on record in the present case, we are persuaded to accept the defence argument that prosecution has not succeeded in establishing the allegation of rape against the accused appellant and the accused appellant is entitled to benefit of doubt, inasmuch as, various aspects relating to prosecution case remains unexplained. For the sake of convenience these aspects are reiterated as under:-

"(i) there is no independent corroboration of the version of victim regarding rape and her testimony is inconsistent with the weight of evidence on record. Though rape was alleged on 12.9.2008 at about 12.00 in the afternoon, but the report has been lodged after 11 days without any explanation of the unusual delay;

(ii) the prosecution case that victim informed of rape to Ganpat is not proved as Ganpat is not produced in evidence, moreover the Investigation Officer states that Ganpat made no such disclosure to him during investigation, rather Ganpat came to know of the incident after the report was lodged;

(iii) there is no disclosure as to when the victim informed of the incident of rape to her husband. The version of PW-1 that such fact was disclosed to him by the victim is inconsistent with the version of victim (PW-2), who specifically asserts that the incident of rape was disclosed by her to Ganpat and it was later only that the husband was informed;

(iv) medical report shows existence of no injuries or even scratch marks, etc., on the body of the deceased;

(v) the version of victim that she was threatened with an axe is a clear improvement from her previous version as per the Investigating Officer;

(vi) the allegation of rape is made only after the second incident of giving silver belly chain to the accused appellant by the victim;

(vii) statement of PW-2 and PW-5 clearly reveals that the report was lodged on the basis of advise of the lawyer who assured that accused would now have to go to Jail."

35. On a cumulative assessment of the evidence on record it cannot be ruled out that the allegation of rape was introduced in the written report, on the basis of deliberation and consultation with the advocate, only with the intent to secure the return of silver belly chain to the victim. This is particularly so, as the informant admits that incident of rape was reported to him earlier but the report was lodged with the police only after the victim gave silver belly chain to the accused. In the absence of any credible explanation of delay in reporting of the incident coupled with the inherent contradiction in the prosecution case, as noticed above, we are inclined to hold that the defence is entitled to benefit of doubt in the matter.

36. We have also perused the judgment of trial court in which the aspects relating to contradictory and inconsistent version of the victim and informant have been clearly overlooked. The fact that there was no corroboration of the victim's allegation regarding rape coupled with the fact that rape was not reported and it was only later that such incident was alleged in order to secure the return of silver belly chain has been overlooked.

37. We further find that though the Court of Sessions has convicted and sentenced the accused appellant under Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Act, but there is absolutely no evidence on record to show that the offence of rape was committed on the victim on account of her caste identity. Not a single word is uttered by any of the prosecution witnesses nor any other evidence is adduced by the prosecution to establish that the offence was committed upon the victim, by the accused appellant on account of her caste identity. In the absence of any evidence worth the name the offence under Section 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act is clearly not made out against the accused-appellant. Even otherwise, once we come to the conclusion that offence of rape itself is not established beyond reasonable doubt the conviction and sentence of the accused appellant under Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Act becomes impermissible.

38. In what manner an offence under Section 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act can be established has been dealt with by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Patan Jamal Vali Vs. The State of Andhra Pradesh, reported in (2021) 16 SCC 225. In para 62 to 64 of the report, the Supreme Court has clearly laid down that the prosecution must prove that the offence was committed on account of caste identity of the victim by the accused appellant, which are reproduced hereinafter:-

"62. The issue as to whether the offence was committed against a person on the ground that such person is a member of an SC or ST or such property belongs to such member is to be established by the prosecution on the basis of the evidence at the trial. We agree with the Sessions Judge that the prosecution's case would not fail merely because PW 1 did not mention in her statement to the police that the offence was committed against her daughter because she was a Scheduled Caste woman. However, there is no separate evidence led by the prosecution to show that the accused committed the offence on the basis of the caste identity of PW 2. While it would be reasonable to presume that the accused knew the caste of PW 2 since village communities are tightly knit and the accused was also an acquaintance of PW 2's family, the knowledge by itself cannot be said to be the basis of the commission of offence, having regard to the language of Section 3(2)(v) as it stood at the time when the offence in the present case was committed. As we have discussed above, due to the intersectional nature of oppression PW 2 faces, it becomes difficult to establish what led to the commission of offence — whether it was her caste, gender or disability. This highlights the limitation of a provision where causation of a wrongful act arises from a single ground or what we refer to as the single axis model.

63. It is pertinent to mention that Section 3(2)(v) was amended by the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015, which came into effect on 26-1-2016. The words "on the ground of" under Section 3(2)(v) have been substituted with "knowing that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe". This has decreased the threshold of proving that a crime was committed on the basis of the caste identity to a threshold where mere knowledge is sufficient to sustain a conviction. Section 8 which deals with presumptions as to offences was also amended to include clause (c) to provide that if the accused was acquainted with the victim or his family, the court shall presume that the accused was aware of the caste or tribal identity of the victim unless proved otherwise. The amended Section 8 reads as follows:

"8. Presumption as to offences.— In a prosecution for an offence under this Chapter, if it is proved that—

(a) the accused rendered any financial assistance in relation to the offences committed by a person accused of, or reasonably suspected of, committing, an offence under this Chapter, the Special Court shall presume, unless the contrary is proved, that such person had abetted the offence;

(b) a group of persons committed an offence under this Chapter and if it is proved that the offence committed was a sequel to any existing dispute regarding land or any other matter, it shall be presumed that the offence was committed in furtherance of the common intention or in prosecution of the common object.

(c) the accused was having personal knowledge of the victim or his family, the Court shall presume that the accused was aware of the caste or tribal identity of the victim, unless the contrary is proved."

64. The Parliament Standing Committee Report on Atrocities Against Women and Children has observed that, "high acquittal rate motivates and boosts the confidence of dominant and powerful communities for continued perpetration" and recommends inclusion of provisions of the SC & ST Act while registering cases of gendered violence against women from the SC & ST communities. However, as we have noted, one of the ways in which offences against SC & ST women fall through the cracks is due to the evidentiary burden that becomes almost impossible to meet in cases of intersectional oppression. This is especially the case when courts tend to read the requirement of "on the ground" under Section 3(2)(v) as "only on the ground of". The current regime under the SC & ST Act, post the amendment, has facilitated the conduct of an intersectional analysis under the Act by replacing the causation requirement under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act with a knowledge requirement making the regime sensitive to the kind of evidence that is likely to be generated in cases such as these."

39. There is no evidence on record to show that the offence of rape was committed by the accused appellant on account of the caste identity of the victim. In the absence of any evidence in that regard, we hold that the offence under Section 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act is not made out against the accused appellant. The conviction and sentence of the accused appellant under Section 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act is, therefore, reversed.

40. Consequently, the present appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgement and order of conviction and sentence dated dated 8.1.2021, passed in Special Case No.29 of 2009 (State Vs. Arun Mishra), is set aside. The appellant Arun Mishra shall be released from Jail, forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

Appeal is allowed. (E-11)

List of Cases cited:

Patan Jamal Vali Vs the St. of Adhara Pradesh – (2021 vil. 16 SCC 225).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

2. This appeal is filed under Section 449 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Cr.P.C.) against the judgment and order dated 25.01.2006 passed by the court of learned Additional Session Judge, Hardoi.

3. Learned counsel for appellants has submitted that the appellants stood as sureties for the accused in Criminal Case No. 199/97. Upon the accused's failure to appear in court, the surety amount of Rs. 10,000/- was ordered to be forfeited. The learned Additional Session Judge, Hardoi, issued a recovery warrant for the said amount through the order dated 25/01/2006, rejecting the appellants' application for reconsideration

4. Learned counsel for appellants has further submitted that as soon as the appellants received the information about the abscond of the accused, they made their best efforts to surrender the accused before the court.

5. Learned counsel for appellants has further submitted that the order dated 25/01/2006 passed by the learned Additional Session Judge, Hardoi, is unjustified both in law and in fact.

6. Learned counsel for appellants has further submitted that the learned court below failed to appreciate the relevant facts of the case, leading to the issuance of the recovery warrant against the appellants. The liability of the surety ended when the accused, Mahendra, surrendered before the concerned court on 16.11.2005 at District Jail Hardoi.

7. Learned counsel for appellants has further submitted that the appellants made several efforts to produce the accused before the court but were unable to do so due to his illness and ongoing treatment at various places. The learned Additional Session Judge did not adequately consider these facts and wrongly rejected the application filed by the appellants.

8. Learned AGA submitted that the purpose of Section 446 Cr.P.C. is to ensure compliance with court orders and secure the presence of the accused. The attachment of property serves as a deterrent against non-compliance and a mechanism to enforce the surety's obligation.

9. The learned AGA Submitted that the order of the learned Additional Session Judge, Hardoi, stating that the surety amount was forfeited due to the appellants' failure to produce the accused as required.The government maintains that the recovery proceedings for the surety amount are in accordance with the law and should be upheld.

10. Learned AGA further submitted that the trial court took the correct approach in rejecting the appellants' application, considering the procedural requirement for enforcing surety obligations and ensuring justice is upheld. The trial court exercised discretion based on the existing circumstances, and there was no manifest error in its decision-making process.

11. I have heard the learned counsel for the appellants and the learned AGA for the State.

12. In light of the arguments presented and the facts established, it is evident that the appellants acted diligently to comply with their surety obligations and took all possible steps to ensure the presence of the accused before the court.

13. The court finds that the appellants made sincere efforts to produce the accused before the court, as evidenced by their actions and attempts to locate him despite his illness and treatment. The surrender of the accused, Mahendra, before the concerned court on 16.11.2005, effectively ended the liability of the surety.

14. The accused, Mahendra, surrendered before the concerned court on 16.11.2005 at District Jail Hardoi. This surrender is a critical event that should have been duly considered by the lower court. The surrender of the accused effectively ended the liability of the sureties, as their primary obligation was to ensure the accused's appearance in court.

15. Section 446 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Cr.P.C.) deals with the forfeiture of bonds given by individuals (sureties) in criminal proceedings, particularly when there is a failure to comply with the conditions of the bond. This section outlines the procedure for handling situations where a surety bond is forfeited, including the consequences and recovery methods. a detailed explanation:

Section 446 Cr.P.C.

"When a bond is forfeited under this Code, the Court may, in its discretion, issue a warrant for the recovery of the penalty or may, after giving the surety an opportunity of being heard, order the surety to pay the penalty or show cause why it should not be paid. If the surety fails to show cause or fails to pay the penalty, the Court may proceed to recover the penalty as if it were a fine imposed under this Code."

Scope: Section 446 applies to bonds taken under the Cr.P.C. for ensuring appearance in court or compliance with other conditions. It comes into play when a surety bond is forfeited, which typically occurs if the conditions of the bond are not met.

Court's Discretionary Powers:

Issuing a Warrant: The court has the discretion to issue a warrant for the recovery of the forfeited penalty. This means that if a bond is forfeited, the court can take active steps to recover the penalty amount from the surety.

Opportunity to Be Heard: Before taking any recovery action, the court must give the surety an opportunity to be heard. This ensures that the surety can explain any reasons for their failure to comply with the bond conditions or present any mitigating circumstances.

Show Cause or Order to Pay :

Show Cause: The court may also require the surety to show cause why the penalty should not be paid. This means the surety must provide reasons or evidence as to why they should not be held financially liable for the forfeiture.

Order for Payment: The court may order the surety to pay the forfeited penalty. This order will be issued after considering the surety's explanation and the circumstances surrounding the forfeiture.

Procedure: If the surety fails to show a valid cause or does not pay the penalty, the court can proceed to recover the penalty as if it were a fine imposed under the Cr.P.C. This means that the court can use standard methods for recovering fines to collect the forfeited amount.

Enforcement: The recovery process can include various methods such as attachment of property or other enforcement measures available under the law.

When a bond is forfeited, the court must follow the procedures outlined in Section 446. This includes issuing a warrant for recovery if necessary, giving the surety a chance to explain their non-compliance, and then proceeding with recovery if the surety fails to provide a valid cause.

16. The appellants faced unforeseen circumstances due to the accused illness, which prevented them from producing him in court within the stipulated time. These circumstances were beyond the control of the appellants. The appellants provided detailed explanations and evidence of their efforts, including medical reports and treatment records, which were not sufficiently considered by the learned Additional Session Judge.

17. The appellants submitted an application to the concerned court, explaining the reasons for their inability to produce the accused and requesting relief from the forfeiture of the surety amount. The learned Additional Session Judge, however, did not adequately consider these explanations and circumstances, resulting in an unjust order against the appellants.

18. In the interest of justice and fair play, it is crucial to recognize that the appellants have complied with their obligations and have made sincere efforts to correct the situation. The continued attachment of their property is disproportionate to the intended purpose of ensuring compliance.

Justice is not merely the application of law but a reflection of its spirit, which seeks to balance legal mandates with human realities. In this case, we confront the tension between strict adherence to procedural requirements and the equitable treatment of individuals who act in good faith.

19. In the present matter, the appellants took all possible steps to rectify the situation after the accused failure to appear. They demonstrated their commitment by bringing the accused before the court as soon as practically possible. This action reflects their sincere intention to uphold their surety obligations and the liability of the surety ended when the accused, Mahendra, surrendered before the concerned court on 16.11.2005 at District Jail Hardoi.

20. Based on the above analysis, it is evident that the order dated 25.01.2006 passed by the learned Additional Session Judge, Hardoi, was not justified either in law or on the facts of the case. The appellants made sincere and diligent efforts to fulfill their obligations as sureties, and the unforeseen circumstances of the accused's illness and subsequent surrender were beyond their control.

21. In light of the appellants' genuine efforts and the eventual surrender of the accused, the continuation of the recovery proceedings for the surety amount of Rs. 10,000/- is found to be unjust and lacking proper legal authority.

22. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed and the impugned order dated 25.01.2006 passed by the learned Additional Session Judge, Hardoi is hereby set aside and reversed. The appellants are relieved from the obligation to pay the forfeited amount. The appellants are discharged from their obligations as sureties in this case.

23. A certified copy of the order be also sent to the court concerned for compliance.

24. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned for necessary compliance.

25. Lower court record, if any, shall also be sent back to the district court concerned.

8- मौखिक साक्ष्य में बादी मुकदमा शनि कुमार को अभियोजन साक्षी सं0-1. चश्मदीद गवाह श्रीमती अंजू अभियोजन साक्षी सं०-2, वादी के पिता इल्मे अभियोजन साक्षी सं०-3, चिकित्सीय रिपोर्ट देने वाली डा० नमृता अभियोजन साक्षी सं०-4, पोस्टमार्टम करने वाले डा० डी०के० शर्मा अभियोजन साक्षी सं०-5, एफआईआर लेखक शर्मिम जहां अभियोजन साक्षी सं०-6, एस०आई० विनोद कुमार अभियोजन साक्षी सं0-7, विवेचक संतोष कुमार सिंह अभियोजन साक्षी सं०-8 को परीक्षित किया गया।

9- अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 1 वादी मुकदमा ने मुख्य परीक्षा में सशपथ कथन किया है कि वह बाल्मिकी अनुसूचित जाति का है। अभियुक्त अंकित पूनिया जाट बिरादरी का है और उसी के गांव का है। दिनांक 29.10.2017 की रात्रि 11:30 बजे की घटना है उसकी दादी फुल्लो देवी उम्र करीब 100 वर्ष बीमारी के कारण बेहोशी की हालत में रजाई ओढकर धर के बरामदे में चारपाई पर सोई थी। वह अपनी पत्नी अंजू के साथ बरामदे के साथ बने कमरे में लेटा था। उसके पिता ऐलन सिंह जो कुछ ऊंचा सुनते हैं, बरामदे में लेटे थे। दादी के कराहने की आवाज सुनकर वह अपनी पत्नी के साथ बरामदे में गया तो उन्होने बल्ब की रोशनी में देखा कि हाजिर अदालत अंकित पूनिया उसकी दादी के ऊपर लेटा हुआ संभोग कर रहा था। उसकी दादी 15-20 दिन से बीमारी की हालत में नीचे का कपड़ा नहीं पहनती थी क्योंकि लेटे रहने के कारण उनकी पीठ पर घाव हो गये थे। उसने शोर मचाते हुए अपने पिता के साथ अंकित पूनिया को पकड लिया। जब वह अपनी दादी को देखने लगा तो उसी समय अंकित पूनिया धमकी देते हुए कि इसका तो उसने काम कर दिया है उसे भी नहीं छोडेगा, धक्का मुक्की

10- अभियोजन साक्षी सं0-2 श्रीमती अंजू ने मुख्य परीक्षा में सशपथ कथन किया है कि उसकी ददिया सास फुल्लो देवी की उम्र करीब 100 वर्ष थी जो काफी बीमार व वृद्ध थीं। दिनांक 29.10.2017 की रात्रि लगभग 11:00-11:30 बजे की घटना है। उसकी ददिया सास बरामदे में लेटी थीं जो अर्द्धबेहोशी की हालत में थीं और कराह रही थीं। उसके ससुर ऐलन सिंह बरामदे में ही लेटे थे। वह अपने पति के साथ बरामदे के पीछे बने कमरे में लेटी थी। वह अपनी ददिया सास के कराहने व ससुर के चीखने की आवाज सुनकर अपने पति के साथ बरामदे में गयी तो बल्ब की रोशनी में देखा कि हाजिर अदालत मुल्जिम, जो गैर अनुसूचित जाति का है, और उसी के गांव का है, उसकी ददिया सास के ऊपर लेटा हुआ बलात्कार कर रहा था। उसकी ददिया सास बीमारी के कारण नीचे कोई कपडा नहीं पहनती थी। अंकित पूनिया भी नग्न अवस्था में था। मौके पर अंकित पूनिया को उसके पति व ससुर ने पकड लिया था लेकिन ददिया सास की हालत खराब थी। जब उसके पति दादी को देखने लगे तो धक्का-मुक्की देते हुए यह कहते हुए कि इसका तो मैने काम कर दिया है उनको भी नहीं छोड़ेगा व जान से मारने की धमकी देते हुए गिरते पडते भाग गया। वह नशे की हालत में था। अंकित पूनिया ने हमारी जाति को जानते हुए ददिया सास के साथ बलात्कार किया है। उसके पति ने एम्बूलेंस बुलाई थी। वह एम्बूलेंस में ददिया सास को लेकर अपने पति के साथ थाने गयी। थाने में तहरीर दी और उसके बाद पुलिस वालों के साथ पी०एल० शर्मा अस्पताल आये थे जहां उसकी ददिया सास का चिकित्सीय परीक्षण हुआ था। दौरान इलाज सुबह के समय उसकी ददिया सास की मृत्यु हो गयी।

अभियोजन अधिकारी की प्रार्थना पर न्यायालय द्वारा इस गवाह को पक्षद्रोही घोषित किया गया।

12. अभियोजन साक्षी स०-4 डा. नम्रता, हाल तैनाती पीएचसी रोहटा सम्बद्ध 6 पीएसी. 12- मेरठ ने मुख्य परीक्षा में सशपथ कथन किया है कि घटना वाली रात दिनांक 30.10.2017 को वह डीडब्लू-एच मेरठ में तैनात थी उस दिन समय लगभग तीन बजे एएम (रात) म०का० 2683 सीमा थाना जानी मेरठ श्रीमती फुल्लो देवी पत्नी हिम्मत सिंह निवासी ग्राम रघुनाथपुर को मैडिकल परीक्षण हेतु लेकर आयी थीं। श्रीमती फुल्लो उस समय अर्द्ध मूच्छित थीं। होश हवास में नहीं थीं एवं बोलने व जवाब देने में असमर्थ थीं। उनकी तरफ से उनके बेटे की बहू लक्ष्मी व उनके पोते की बहु अंजू ने बातें बताई। श्रीमती फुल्लो के बांये गाल पर एक काला तिल था। अंजू व लक्ष्मी ने बताया कि दिनांक 29.10.2017 की रात्रि 11 बजे उनके घर पर लडका अंकित घुस आया था और उसने बरामदे में लेटी फुल्लो देवी, जो एक महीने से पूर्ण रूप से बिस्तर पर है, के साथ पूर्ण नग्न अवस्था में यौन संबंध करते देखा। यह घटना अपनी मां के पास बरामदे में सोये इलम सिंह ने देखी थी और अंकित को नग्न अवस्था में पकड़ा था। श्रीमती फुल्लो देवी के एक महीने से बिस्तर पर लेटे रहने से उनको 'बैडसोर" था। पीडिता के कोई चोट के निशान नही मिले थे। पीड़िता ने सिर्फ शर्ट पहनी थी। नीचे कुछ नहीं पहना था। लेटी रहती थीं। पल्स 80 प्रति मिनट थी। बी.पी. 100-70 था। सांस 18 प्रति मिनट थी। पीड़िता के शरीर पर कोई बाह्य चोट नही थी। कोई कपडा सुरक्षित रखने हेतु नही लिया था। उसने परीक्षण के दौरान एक वैजायनिल स्लाईड दो वैजायनिल स्लैब व उएमएल ब्लड चार बंडल में सील करके सर्वे मोहर के साथ आयी कांस्टेबल को सौंप दिया था। चार सील बंद लिफाफे महिला कां० सीमा को सौंप दिये थे। गवाह को कागज संख्या 63/1 ता 63/9 दिखाये गये जिन पर गवाह ने अपने हस्ताक्षरों की पहचान की और बताया कि यह मैडिकल उसके ही हस्तलेख में है। गवाह ने मैडिकल रिपोर्ट प्रदर्श क-3 को साबित किया है।

13- पीडब्लू-5 डा. डी० के०शर्मा ने मुख्य परीक्षा में सशपथ कथन किया है कि उनके द्वारा दिनांक 30.10.2017 को समय करीब 3:30 पीएम हाल सी 2683 सीमा सोलंकी और थाना जानी द्वारा सीपी 359 सर्वेश कुमार थाना जानी द्वारा श्रीमती फुल्लो देवी पत्नी स्व० हिम्मत सिंह, उम्र करीब 100 बर्ष महिला निवासी ग्राम रघुनाथपुर थाना जानी मेरठ का शव पोस्ट मार्टम हेतु लाया गया जिसकी पहचान सनी कुमार व सचिन (पोते) द्वारा की गयी। मृतका का शव पैरों को छोडकर सारा अकड़ा हुआ था। मृतका के शरीर पर पीछे कमर के निचले हिस्से में और पीछे नितम्ब पर संक्रमित बैड सोल थे। जिसका साइज 30 सेमी X 22 सेमी था। फेफडे दोनो साईड के सक्रमित थे। उनकी राय में मृतका की मृत्यु का समय लगभग आधे से एक दिन पहले का था। मृत्यु

सैप्टिक सीमिया शॉक से हुई। टीम में डा० रिचा देशवाल लेडी मैडिकल आफिसर सीएचसी परीक्षितगढ, मेरठ, में तैनात थी। कोई बाहरी चोट जबरदस्ती का प्रमाण नहीं था। मृतका के दो वेजाइनल स्मीयर स्लाइड बनाई जो फोरेन्सिक विभाग भेजी। गवाह द्वारा पोस्टमार्टम रिपोर्ट प्रदर्श क-5 व फोटो नाश प्रदर्श क 6 को साबित किया गया है।

14- अभियोजन साक्षी सं0-6 कां0 2401 शर्मिन जहां अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 7 एस०आई० विनोद कुमार तथा अभियोजन साक्षी सं० ४ संतोष कुमार सिंह औपचारिक साक्षी हैं जिन्होंने अपने-अपने द्वारा की गयी कार्यवाही के संबंध में बयान दिया है तथा आवश्यक फर्व प्रदर्श आदि को साबित किया है।

15- अभियोजन साक्ष्य सम्पन्न होने के उपरांत अभियुक्त का बयान अन्तर्गत धारा 313 द०प्र०सं० अंकित किया गया जिसमें उसने घटना को गलत बताया और गलत विवेचना कर झूठा आरोप पत्र प्रेषित करने का कथन किया। उसने कश्थन किया कि सरकार से मिलने वाले मृतक आश्रितों के पैसे के कारण झूठा फंसाया है। बादी सनी कुमार ने पैसे के लेन देन के कारण रंजिशन आपराधिक षडयंत्र कर उसे झूठा फंसाया है। अभियुक्त को प्रतिरक्षा साक्ष्य का अवसर दिया गया किन्तु उसके द्वारा प्रतिरक्षा साक्ष्य नहीं दिया गया।

17- अपीलार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि वादी मुकदमा ने अभियुक्त से सुअर पालने हेतु एक लाख रूपये उधार लिये थे. जिसको वह अदा नहीं कर रहा था, उक्त उधार की रकम को वापस न देने के उद्देश्य से तथा सरकार से मिलने वाली आर्थिक सहायता पाने के लिए अभियुक्त गलत एवं कपोलकल्पित कहानी बनाकर झूठा फंसाया गया है तथा वादी द्वारा अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट लिखकर दोहरा लाभ अर्जित किया है। इस फर्जी एफ०आई०आर० लिखाने से बादी जहाँ एक ओर उधार की रकम वापस करने से बचा वहीं दूसरी ओर सरकार से भी आर्थिक सहायता प्राप्त की जिसे उसने अपने बयानों में स्वीकार किया है। अभियोजन साक्षी तं० 1 वादी ने अपने बयानों में यह भी स्वीकार किया है कि वह घटना के समय अपनी पत्नी के साथ गाजियाबाद में रह रहा था, इसलिए वह चश्मदीद गवाह नहीं हो सकता, इस प्रकार अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 1 एवं अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 2 के बयान पर विश्वास नहीं किया जा सकता। अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 3 ने न्यायालय में सशपथ बयान दिया है कि उसके सामने कोई घटना नहीं हुयी, न ही उसे जानकारी है। कोई स्वतंत्र गवाह पेश नहीं किया गया। घटना रात्रि के समय की है और अभियुक्त को कपड़ा छोड़कर भागने का कथन किया गया है, लेकिन वादी के द्वारा वहां से कोई

18- विद्वान अपर शासकीय अधिवक्ता ने अपीलार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता के तर्को का प्रबल विरोध करते हुए तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि अभियुक्त द्वारा रात्रि के समय गृह भेदने कर वृद्ध व बीमार पीडिता से बलात्कार किया गया, यह जानते हुए कि वह अनुसूचित जाति की महिला है। बलात्कार करने के बाद पकडे जाने पर जान से मारने की धमकी दी और इसी जघन्य कृत्य के कारण पीडिता फुल्लो देवी की मृत्यु हुई जो कि हत्या की कोटि में अभियुक्त के कृत्य के कारण आयेगी। गवाहान ने घटना को बखूबी साबित किया है। अभियुक्त घटना के समय नशे में धुत था। अभियोजन पक्ष द्वारा मामले को संदेह से परे साबित किया गया है। इस आधार पर यह अपील निरस्त किए जाने योग्य है तथा विद्वान विशेष न्यायाधीश / एस०सी० एस०टी० ऐक्ट द्वारा पारित प्रश्नगत निर्णय दि० 19-11-2020 पुष्ट किए जाने योग्य है।

19- उभय पक्ष के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं के तों को सुनने तथा साक्ष्य का परिशीलन करने के उपरान्त न्यायालय का अभिमत है कि :-

"चूंकि घटना यादी के घर के अंदर बरामदे में हुई तथा घर के अंदर दुष्कर्म अथवा बलात्कार करने की नीयत से अभियुक्त घर में घु में घुसा था। घटना रात्रि के समय की है। ऐसे में अभियुक्त के द्वारा रात्री पृच्छन्न गृह अतिचार या रात्रि गृहमेदन का अपराध अन्तर्गत धारा 458 भा०दं०सं० सन्देह से परे साबित होता है।

जहां तक धारा 376 भा०दं० सं० का प्रश्न है, गवाह पी०डब्लू०-1 व पी०डब्लू०-2 द्वारा मौके अभियुक्त युक्त को नग्न अवस्था में पीडिता के उपर लेटा पर सम्भोग करने की स्थिति में देखा। पीडिता पहले से ही बैडसोर के कारण नीचे से नग्न अवस्था में थी। मेडिकल रिपोर्ट में दर्ज बयान के आधार पर भी पीडिता सिर्फ टी-शर्ट पहने वैडसोर के कारण नीचे कुछ नहीं पहनी थी। पीड़िता के कोई बाहरी चोट या जबरदस्ती बलात्कार करने के निशान नहीं है। विधि विज्ञान प्रयोगशाला की रिपोर्ट कागज संख्या 37क के अनुसार शर्ट पर रक्त पाया गया था। वैजइनल स्मीयर स्लाइड पैन्ट टी-शर्ट पेनाईल स्मीयर स्लाइड बक्कल स्मीयर स्लाइड पर कोई रक्त नहीं मिला। किसी वस्तु पर शुक्राणु या वीर्य नहीं पाया गया और ना ही पीडिता की मेडिकल रिपोर्ट में गुप्तांग पर कोई बाहरी चोट के लक्षण मिले। अभियुक्त द्वारा पेनेट्रेशन किये जाने का कोई साक्ष्य या लक्षण नहीं पाया गया। बल्कि वह संभोग कर प्रयत्न कर रहा था। चूंकि अभियुक्त बलात्कार करने का प्रयत्न में था. जिसे गवाहान द्वारा साबित किया गया है। अतः अभियुक्त द्वारा अपराध अन्तगत धारा 376/511 भा०दं०सं० बलात्कार करने का प्रयास करना साबित होता है।

अभियुक्त द्वारा पीड़िता से दिनांक 29-10-2017 की रात्रि 10.30 बजे बलात्कार करने का प्रयत्न किया गया वह अत्यन्त वृद्ध बीमार 100 वर्षीय महिला थी। बैड्सोर से पीड़ित थी। अभियुक्त का उक्त कृत्य से मृतका को इतना सदमा लगा कि उस सदमे के कारण उसकी मृत्यु हो गयी। बीमारी व वृद्ध अवस्था में उसके साथ बलात्कार का प्रयास किया गया, ऐसा सदमा उसके लिये मृत्यु कारित करने के लिए पर्याप्त था। अभियुक्त के उक्त कृत्य से ही उसी रात में मृतका की मृत्यु हो गयी। अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध धारा 302 मा०८०वि० का अपराध सन्देह से परे साबित होता है।"

(ख) इस न्यायालय का अभिमत है कि अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 2 वादी की पत्नी है तथा वह अपने को चश्मदीद साक्षी कह रही है. उसने अपनी जिरह में बयान दिया है कि "अभियुक्त नग्न अवस्था में ही भाग गया था. हमने अभियुक्त को कपड़े पहनने का मौका नहीं दिया था, यह बात सही है कि मेरे घर से अभियुक्त का कोई कपड़ा, सामान, जूते चप्पल आदि न ही हमारे द्वारा बरामद किया गया और न ही पुलिस द्वारा बरामद किया गया" वहीं पर यह कहना सनीचीन प्रतीत होता है कि यदि अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 2 के इस कथन को मान भी लिया जाय कि अभियुक्त नग्न अवस्था में ही भाग गया था उसे कपड़े पहनने का मौका नहीं दिया गया, तो उसके कपड़े आदि घटनास्थल से ही क्यों नहीं बरामद किये गये, इस तथ्य से अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 2 का कथन असत्य हो जाता है। इस अभियोजन साक्षी ने प्रतिपरीक्षा में यह भी कहा है कि "इस घटना का कोई अड़ोसी-पड़ोसी गवाह नहीं है" यह तथ्य अपने आप में भ्रामक है कि वादी व उसके परिवार वालों के शोर पर अभियुक्त के भागने पर अड़ोस-पड़ोस के किसी व्यक्ति के आने का किसी भी साक्षी ने जिक नहीं किया है। विचारण न्यायालय ने स्वयं भी यह अभिमत व्यक्त किया है कि वैजइनल स्मीयर स्लाइड पैन्ट टी-शर्ट पेनाईल स्मीयर स्लाइड बक्कल स्मीयर स्लाइड पर कोई रक्त नहीं मिला। किसी वस्तु पर शुक्राणु या वीर्य नहीं प्राया गया और ना ही पीडिता की मेडिकल रिपोर्ट में गुप्तांग पर कोई बाहरी चोट के लक्षण मिले। अभियुक्त द्वारा पेनेट्रेशन किये जानें का कोई साक्ष्य या लक्षण नहीं पाया गया। अभियोजन साक्षियों के बयान से विचारण न्यायालय की यह अवधारणा गलत है कि अभियुक्त बलात्कार करने के प्रयत्न में था. इसलिए अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध धारा 376/511 भा०दं०वि० बलात्कार करने का प्रयास करना साबित नहीं होता है।

(घ) - विधि विज्ञान प्रयोगशाला को प्रेषित 6 वस्तु प्रदर्शों की जाँच के उपरान्त विधि विज्ञान प्रयोगशाला ने आख्या दिया है कि बस्तु (1) से (6) पर शुकाणु अथवा वीर्य नहीं पाया गया

(च) अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 5 डा० डी०के० शर्मा, जिन्होंने मृतका का शव विच्छेदन किया है के बयान के अनुसार " बैड सोल के अलावा मृतका के शरीर पर कोई नारी चोट के निशान नहीं थे और न ही अन्दरूनी चोट थी व निशान थे मृतका की मृत्यु सेप्टिक सीनर व वृद्धा अवस्था के कारण मृत्यु हुयी है।"

(छ)- चूँकि डाक्टर ने मृतका की मृत्यु सेप्टिक सीमर से होना कहा है. इसलिए इस स्तर पर "सैप्टिक सीमिया शॉक" की परिभाषा पर विचार किया जाना आवश्यक है, जो निम्नवत् हैः-

"Septic shock is a potentially fatal medical condition that occurs when sepsis, which is organ injury or damage in response to infection, leads to dangerously low blood pressure and abnormalities in cellular metabolism. The Third International Consensus Definitions for Sepsis and Septic Shock (Sepsis-3) defines septic shock as a subset of sepsis in which particularly profound circulatory, cellular, and metabolic abnormalities are associated with a greater risk of mortality than with sepsis alone. Patients with septic shock can be clinically identified by requiring a vasopressor to maintain a mean arterial pressure of 65 mm Hg or greater and having serum lactate level greater than 2 mmol/L (>18 mg/ dL) in the absence of hypovolemia. This combination is associated with hospital mortality rates greater than 40%.

The primary infection is most commonly caused by bacteria, but also may be by fungi, viruses or parasites. It may be located in any part of the body, but most commonly in the lungs, brain, urinary tract, skin or abdominal organs.[2] It can cause multiple organ dysfunction syndrome (formerly known as multiple organ failure) and death. [3]

Frequently, people with septic shock are cared for in intensive care units. It most commonly affects children, immunocompromised individuals, and the elderly, as their immune systems cannot deal with infection as effectively as those of healthy adults. The mortality rate from septic shock is approximately 25-50%

Causes

Septic shock is a result of a systemic response to infection or multiple infectious causes. The precipitating infections that may lead to septic shock if severe enough include but are not limited to appendicitis, pneumonia, bacteremia, diverticulitis, pyelonephritis, meningitis, pancreatitis, necrotizing fasciitus, MRSA and mesenteric ischemia. [4][5]

According to the earlier definitions of sepsis updated in 2001,[6] sepsis is a constellation of symptoms secondary to an infection that manifests as disruptions in heart rate, respiratory rate, temperature, and white blood cell count. If sepsis worsens to the point of end-organ dysfunction (kidney failure, liver dysfunction, altered mental status, or heart damage), then the condition is called severe sepsis. Once severe sepsis worsens to the point where blood pressure can no longer be maintained with intravenous fluids alone, then the criterion has been met for septic shock."

(झ)- उपरोक्त व्याख्या के प्रकाश में यह तथ्य विश्वसनीय है कि अभियुक्त को वादी ने सरकार से मिलने वाले मृतक आश्रितों को पैसों के कारण झूठा फंसाया गया तथा वादी सनी कुमार ने अभियुक्त से लिए गए पैसों के कारण रंजिशन आपराधिक षड्यंत्र करके झूठा फंसाया गया है. क्योंकि अभियोजन साक्षी सं० 1 ने अपनी प्रतिपरीक्षा में यह स्वीकार किया है कि "मेरी दादी फुल्लो देवी की मृत्यु के पश्चात् तीनों भाई को मेरे पापा व उनके दोनों भाइयों को सरकार से सबा आठ लाख रूपये मिले थे।"

(३०)- इस मामले में यह तथ्य भी विचारणीय है कि किसी भी साक्षी ने कहीं पर भी मृतका को जातिसूचक शब्दों का प्रयोग नहीं किया है. ऐसी स्थिति में अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध एस०सी०/एस०टी० ऐक्ट का कोई अपराध गठित नहीं होता है।

20- इस प्रकार अभियुक्त अंकित पूनिया के विरूद्ध :-

(1) धारा 302 भा०दं०वि० का अपराध गठित नहीं होता है चूंकि चिकित्सक के अनुसार मृतका की मृत्यु का कारण "सेप्टिक सीमर" पाया गया है। इस आधार पर अवर न्यायालय द्वारा अभियुक्त को धारा 302 भा०८०वि० में की गयी दोष-सिद्धि का निर्णय खण्डित किया जाता है।

(2) धारा 376/511 भा०दं०वि० का अपराध गठित नहीं होता है कि चूंकि मृतका की मृत्यु पूर्व परीक्षण करने वाले चिकित्सक द्वारा यह आख्या दी गयी है कि "No External injury Present at the time of Examination" तथा चिकित्सक ने अन्त में अपना अभिमत व्यक्त किया है कि "No Sign of Force being used sexual assault can not be ruled out." इस आधार पर अवर न्यायालय द्वारा अभियुक्त को धारा 376/511 भा०दं०वि० में की गयी दोष-सिद्धि का निर्णय खण्डित किया जाता है।

(3) अभियोजन साक्षीगण इस बात को भी साबित करने में असफल रहे हैं कि अभियुक्त रात्रि के समय घर के अन्दर दुष्कर्म अथवा बलात्कार करने की नीयत से घर के अन्दर घुसा इसलिए अभियुक्त द्वारा रात्रो पृच्छन्न गृह अतिचार या रात्रि गृहभेदन का अपराध अन्तर्गत धारा 458 भा०द०वि० का भी अपराध सन्देह से परे साबित नहीं होता है।

Appeals are dismissed. (E-11)

Viram @ Virma Vs The St. of M.P. (2022 vol. 1 SCC 341), (Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.

Hon'ble Dr. Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Heard Sri Daya Shankar, learned counsel for the appellant-informant, Sri Jyoti Bhushan, learned counsel for the accused appellant and learned AGA for the State.

2. Delay in filing the government appeal is explained to the satisfaction of the Court. Delay is, accordingly, condoned. Application for condonation of delay stands allowed.

3. These appeals are by the informant as well as the State challenging the judgment of acquittal dated 26.5.2022, passed by the court below in Special Sessions Trial No.23 of 2014 (State Vs. Praveen Kumar Yadav), arising out of Case Crime No.07 of 2014, under Sections 376, 511 IPC and Section 3/4 POCSO Act, Police Station Jahanaganj, District Azamgarh.

4. The informant in the present case has made a written report stating that he is a resident of Village Sukhpur Police Station Jiyanpur, District Azamgarh. He had returned on 20.1.2014 from his in-laws place at Jahanaganj in the evening. At about 9.00 PM when the victim (informant's daughter) aged six years had gone to offer tea to the driver, the driver attempted rape on her. The daughter informed this fact to her mother. With these allegations the FIR came to be registered as Case Crime No.07 of 2014 under Section 376, 511 IPC. The statement of the victim was recorded on 31.1.2014 in which she has claimed that her father asked her to give tea to the driver. When the victim offered tea the accused asked her to kiss her and when she refused the accused started beating her. On her screaming victim's father came and rescued her. The victim has been medically examined in which no external or internal injuries have been found on the victim. It has also come in the pathological report that no spermatozoa is seen in the vaginal slides. The hymen of the victim was also found intact. The age of the victim has been found to be seven years. It is thereafter that the charge-sheet was submitted in the matter and ultimately trial commenced when the accused denied the charges framed against him by the Court.

5. The informant has appeared as PW-1 and has supported the prosecution case. He has alleged that the accused was his driver for the last about one year. He has denied the suggestion that there was a dispute between him and the driver on account of non-payment of his salary. He has admitted that knowledge of this incident was received by him from is wife.

6. The victim has been produced as PW-2. She has although alleged that after she refused to accept the request of the accused to kiss her the accused gagged her mouth and thereafter started 'intercourse'. The victim moreover stated that she does not understand meaning of word 'intercourse'. She further stated that she said before the Court what was told to her by her father.

7. PW-3 and PW-4 are formal police witnesses and not much turn on their testimony.

8. PW-5 is Dr. Madhu Yadav, who had examined the victim. She has proved the medical report in which no spermatozoa was found on the vaginal smear of the victim and victim's hymen was found fully intact. The doctor has opined that there was no signs of rape on the victim. No external or internal injuries are found on the victim.

9. The material produced in evidence, by the prosecution, were confronted to the accused, who stated that he has been falsely implicated.

10. Trial court on the basis of aforesaid evidence has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

11. Challenging the judgement of acquittal, learned counsel for the informant as well as learned AGA submits that as the victim is aged six years some inconsistencies in her version ought to be ignored. It is also argued that minor contradictions in the testimony of witnesses are liable to be ignored, particulary when victim is a six year old girl. Learned counsel for the informant further argues that the judgment of acquittal, in such circumstances, ought not to be sustained.

12. Learned counsel appearing for the accused appellant, however, submits that the evidence has been appropriately evaluated by the Court of Sessions and it has rightly come to the conclusion that prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt. He further argues that just because the victim is a minor it would not mean that accused has to be convicted even if there is no convincing evidence to implicate him.

13. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and have perused the materials on record including the trial court record and the judgment of acquittal.

14. Facts relating to the present case has already been noticed above and need not be repeated.

15. First and foremost it is to be noticed that the victim in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has stated that she had gone to deliver tea to the accused on the instructions of her father. It is also the version of the victim that the accused asked her to kiss her and when she refused the accused started assaulting him. The victim has also stated that when she screamed her father came and rescued. This part of the testimony of the victim nowhere alleges that any attempt was made to rape her. Moreover we have examined the testimony of the victim and do not find it convincing and reliable as it is the admitted case of the prosecution that the father of the victim was not present when the incident occurred. Once that be so, it is difficult to conceive as to how the father could have come to the victim's rescue on hearing her scream. The father in his statement has categorically admitted that he was not even present and it was only when he received information from his wife that he arrived at the place of occurrence. The other contradictions which have been noticed by the Court of Sessions for acquitting the accused is the fact that there is a material improvement in the version of the victim at the stage of trial viz-a-viz her previous statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. In the statement of the victim made before the Court the victim alleges that she was raped, while in her statement before the Magistrate no such claim was made. The victim has though alleged that accused committed intercourse with her but has admitted that she does not know what is meant by intercourse. The victim has also categorically stated that her statement is based on the instructions of her father. The version of the victim regarding committing of rape upon her is thus a clear improvement from what was stated by her in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. The medical evidence otherwise shows no external or internal injuries on the victim and the hymen of the victim was found intact.

16. In the facts of the case, we are of the opinion that the specific case of the eye-witnesses is completely belied by the medical evidence on record. In our opinion, the material contradiction in the medical evidence viz-a-viz the eye-witness account clearly creates a doubt on the prosecution case.

17. Hon'ble Supreme Court has dealt with a similar issue in Viram @ Virma Vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh, reported in (2022) 1 SCC 341, wherein in Para 13, the Court has observed as under:-

"13. The oral evidence discloses that there was an indiscriminate attack by the accused on the deceased and the other injured eye-witnesses. As found by the Courts below, there is a contradiction between the oral testimony of the witnesses and the medical evidence. In Amar Singh v. State of Punjab (supra), this Court examined the point relating to inconsistencies between the oral evidence and the medical opinion. The medical report submitted therein established that there were only contusions, abrasions and fractures, but there was no incised wound on the left knee of the deceased as alleged by a witness. Therefore, the evidence of the witness was found to be totally inconsistent with the medical evidence and that would be sufficient to discredit the entire prosecution case."

18. We have already observed that the ocular version of the incident is irreconcilable with the medical evidence on record and the inconsistency remains unexplained by the prosecution. Once that be so, it cannot be said that prosecution has succeeded in proving its case beyond reasonable doubt. Consequently, the applicant is entitled to get the benefit of doubt.

19. The trial court having noticed the aforesaid contradictions has found the prosecution case not be credible or reliable and, consequently, the accused has been acquitted of the charges levelled against him.

20. Though learned counsels submits that the evidence has not been examined in correct perspective but we fail to find any substance in such argument. The evidence clearly shows that neither the victim is credible nor is reliable nor the medical evidence on record supports her allegation.

21. The major contradictions in the version of the victim viz-a-viz her father as well as material improvements in her version from what was stated earlier under Section 164 Cr.P.C. also remains unexplained. We are, therefore, in agreement with the view taken by the Court of Sessions that the prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt. Once that be so we find that there is no occasion for this Court to interfere with the judgment of acquittal passed by the court below.

22. The view taken by the court below is clearly a permissible view, in the facts of the case, and just because a different view could be taken would ordinarily not be a ground for this Court to interfere with the order of acquittal. In such circumstances we find that neither any triable issue is raised before us in these appeals nor any perversity is shown, which may persuade this Court to interfere in these appeals.

23. The appeals lack merits and are, consequently, dismissed.

(Para – 40, 41, 42, 43, 45)

Appeals are allowed. (E-11)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. This criminal appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 24.2.2018, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/Court No.1, Pilibhit in Sessions Trial No.8 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No.622 of 2015, under Sections 376(2)(f), 376(2)(n) IPC and 5/6 POCSO Act, Police Station Newriya, District Pilibhit; whereby the appellant Babu Ram has been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment under Section 5/6 POCSO Act alongwith fine of Rs.10,000/-; sentenced to ten years rigorous imprisonment under Section 376(2)(f) IPC alongwith fine of Rs.10,000/-; sentenced to ten years rigorous imprisonment under Section 376(2)(n) IPC alongwith fine of Rs.10,000/-. In default of payment of fine to undergo one year additional imprisonment in all above sections. All the sentences are directed to run concurrently.

2. In the present case the first informant is the step-brother of victim, namely Sandeep (PW-2). He intimated the Incharge of Police Station Neoria, District Pilibhit that his father died several years ago. After death of his father his mother Smt. Somwati started living with the accused appellant Babu Ram and out of their union a daughter was born who is around 18 years of age (the victim). Smt. Somwati, biological mother of informant and victim died when the victim was only about a year and a half old. The victim is residing with her father Babu Ram (the accused). About five years back accused Babu Ram remarried a Bengali lady. Informant alleged in his written report (Ex.Ka.3) that for the last about one year the accused appellant Babu Ram has been sexually exploiting the victim and after she got fed up, the victim informed of it to him and also to his cousin Jagdish (s/o Ram Awtar). The victim also informed them that about ten days ago the accused appellant also committed rape on her sister. The contents of the information were incorporated in the general diary and the First Information Report came to be registered in the matter on 2.6.2015, being Case Crime No. 622 of 2015. Victim was medically examined and her statement under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 3.6.2015. The victim stated before the Magistrate that her father Babu Ram has been establishing physical relations with her for the last one year and on her refusal she was threatened. This has continued for a year. Victim further asserted that she informed her travails to her brother (PW-2) since her mother had already died. In her statement to the Investigating Officer the victim informed that she got the report filed through her step-brother Sandeep (PW-2) and cousin Jagdish (not produced).

3. Victim was medically examined on 3.6.2015. The doctor opined that the victim was 14-15 years of age and thus a minor. No external or internal injuries were found on the victim. Victim's hymen was found old torn. Vaginal slides were prepared but in the pathological report no live or dead spermatozoa was found. After conclusion of investigation the charge-sheet was submitted by the police in the matter on 11.7.2015. The Magistrate took cognizance of the charge-sheet and referred the matter to the Court of Sessions where it got registered as Sessions Trial No. 8 of 2015. The concerned court has charged the accused appellant of offence under Section 376(2)(f), 376(2)(n) IPC and 5/6 POCSO Act. The charges were read out to the accused on 14.9.2015, who denied the accusations and demanded trial.

4. Before we proceed further with the facts of the case we may place on record that on the previous occasion a direction was issued by us to inquire about the status and well-being of the victim. Learned AGA has produced a report from the concerned police station stating that the victim is already married with three children and is happily settled. Further details of the victim and her family or its composition is withheld to protect the identity and privacy of the victim.

5. At the stage of trial the prosecution has produced following documentary evidence:-

"1. FIR dt. 2.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.6
2. Written Report dt. 2.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.3
3. Statement u/s 164 Cr.P.C. dt. 3.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.2
4. Statement of victim Km. Kranti as Ex.Ka.1
5. Medical report dt.3.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.5
6. Medical report dt. 3.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.12
7. X-ray Report dt. 3.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.4
8. Medical examination report dt. 3.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.13
9.Supplementary Report dt. 25.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.14"

6. The victim has been produced as PW-1 at the trial. She has supported the prosecution case with regard to sexual assault on her by the accused appellant for nearly thirteen months. She has also proved her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. Victim further stated that on her refusal to submit to sexual advances of accused she was threatened with dire consequences.

7. In the cross-examination the victim has informed that she had come to the Court with her brother (PW-2). The victim further stated that her mother was murdered by the accused appellant. She got this information from her step-brother Sandeep and her sister. She treats informant as her brother since their mother is common i.e. Smt. Somwati. The victim has denied the suggestion that she has falsely deposed against her father on the persuasion of the informant. She has further alleged that when her mother died the victim was one to one and a half years of age and she has been brought up by the accused appellant and his family members.

8. In her further cross-examination the victim stated that the act of sexual assault upon her was performed for the first time about ten months back but she does not remember the date, time or place when/where the offence was first committed on her. According to the victim she lived with her grandparents in a house with thatched roof while her father lived in a different house with his family. PW-2 Sandeep lived close to the house of her grandparents. Her grandfather is very weak and could hardly move. Her grandparents and father dissuaded her from interacting or speaking to the informant. She had come to depose in the Court with the informant (PW-2).

9. Victim in her deposition has explained the incident of 2.6.2015. On that date the accused had come to the grandparents house while returning from work and asked for a glass of water from the victim. The victim although said that she is getting water but did not give water to the accused. It is thereafter that she was punched on her back by the accused appellant. It is then that the informant and his cousin Jagdish intervened; saved the victim; assaulted the accused and handed him over to police after tying his hand and feet. She indicated her wish to be with her brother and not to stay with her father. Victim has stated that she understands the meaning of rape. She has denied the suggestion that accused appellant did not commit any rape upon her or that she had framed him to take revenge from the accused appellant for murdering her mother.

10. Informant Sandeep has been produced as PW-2. He has fully supported the prosecution case and has also proved the written report which was exhibited as Ka-3. In the cross-examination also PW-2 supported the prosecution case. He has alleged that accused Babu Ram is his stepfather and at the time of his marriage with her mother he was about 8-10 years old. His mother died when victim was about a year old. PW-2 in the cross-examination has alleged that after death of his mother he stayed for sometime at his nansar (maternal grandfather's house). He has no enmity with the accused Babu Ram nor did he suspect the accused appellant of murdering his mother. He was not aware that accused Babu Ram was got jailed by his maternal uncle. He came to the house 4-5 years after the death of his mother. He rarely got a chance to talk to the victim as the accused Babu Ram and his parents discouraged her to do so. The house of victim's grandfather has a thatched roof with no boundary. It is for the first time on the date of making written report to the police that the victim informed him about rape upon her by the accused. On the date of incident the victim came to his house in the afternoon and informed his cousin Jagdish about her rape by the accused. He came to know about it for the first time at about 5.00 PM when he returned from his in-laws house at Shivpuria. Victim returned to her home thereafter. The act of victim's refusal to give water and her beating was seen by him from beneath the tree infront of the house. Victim rushed to Sandeep whereafter he only apprehended the accused for giving him to the police after he confessed. The report was lodged by the informant alongwith Jagdish and the victim. PW-2 has clearly stated that he would keep the victim with him till she is married. PW-2 has denied the suggestion that due to enmity on account of murder of his mother by the accused that he has falsely implicated the accused.

11. PW-3 is Dr. Jagdish Prasad, Radiologist, who conducted x-ray on the victim and has proved the x-ray report. He has also proved the medical report dated 3.6.2015. In his opinion evidence of rape was not ascertainable from the ultrasound report.

12. PW-4 is lady constable Preeti, who has proved the G.D. report. She had taken the victim for her medical examination.

13. PW-5 is the Investigating Officer SI Awadhesh Singh. He has proved the arrest of the accused at 8.20 hours on 3.6.2015. FIR was registered at about quarter to 12.00 in the night on 3.6.2015. This witness has denied the suggestion that he arrested the accused from his residence. Accused did not enjoy any good reputation. He visited the house of the accused and found that he was residing with the second wife of accused. Parents of the accused lived in the village.

14. PW-6 is Dr. Mahavir Singh, Pathologist. He has proved the medical paper Ex.Ka.12 in which no dead or live spermatozoa was found.

15. Dr. Smt. Anjali Singh has been produced as PW-7. He has proved the medical report Ex.Ka.13. She found the victim's hymen to be old torn. Two vaginal slides were prepared of the victim. In her opinion the age of the victim was 14-15 years. Victim came at about 2.00 in the night for medical examination. However, no injuries of any kind were found on the victim and the hymen could be ruptured for any other reasons like cycling, playing or injury. As per the doctor in case of sexual assault some signs ought to have been come on the body of the victim. This was not the case here. She could only comment upon fresh sexual assault and not about sexual assault continued for the last one year.

16. On the basis of above evidence the prosecution got the statement of accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. On being confronted with the prosecution evidence the accused appellant has stated that false case has been lodged against him and the prosecution evidence is not reliable.

17. Sheel Kunwar (mother of accused appellant) aged about 70 years has been produced as DW-1. She stated that when the accused returned from work he asked for water but when the victim did not offer him water to drink the accused got angry and slapped the victim. It is thereafter that the cousins of victim assaulted the accused Babu Ram and took him to the police station where he was formally arrested. She has stated that despite best effort she could not ascertain the whereabouts of the victim. Even after the death of her grandfather the victim did not visit the family. The second wife of the accused appellant and their child have been chased away from the house by the witnesses.

18. Chameli Devi has been produced as DW-2. She has stated that the victim was living with her grandmother and on account of the incident in which the accused slapped his daughter for not offering him water victim's cousin assaulted the accused and got him arrested. DW-2 happens to be the sister of the accused appellant.

19. Trial court on the basis of the above evidence has come to the conclusion that prosecution has established its case against the accused appellant and has consequently convicted the accused appellant, as per above and sentenced him to life imprisonment.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the accused appellant has been falsely implicated at the instance of PW-2 as he bore a grudge against the accused appellant on account of the misplaced belief that his mother was killed by the accused appellant. It is argued that the victim was staying in the house with the grandparents and the allegation that she was raped for a year without anyone coming to know of it or the victim not informing about it to anyone is improbable. The accused appellant was otherwise married and his wife was also living with her child in the house with the thatched roof. Site plan has been relied upon to state that parties lived in hutments close to each other and it appears improbable that a young girl would be raped for so long without anyone coming to know of it or the victim making complaint to anyone. Argument is that the accused appellant has been framed since it is impossible to believe that the victim was continuously raped for almost one year without anybody coming to know of it or anyone seeing the incident. No exact date, time or place of the act of sexual assault has otherwise been specified by the victim.

21. Alternatively, it is submitted that the accused appellant has already undergone incarceration of more than ten years nine months and since he has otherwise no criminal history, the appellant is entitled to be released on the sentence already undergone by him. Learned counsel also argues that no reasons have been assigned by the trial Judge to award maximum sentence, in the facts of the present case.

22. We have heard Sri Jitendra Pal Singh, learned counsel for the accused appellant, Sri J.P. Singh, learned AGA for the State and have perused the records including the trial court records.

23. The evidence on record reveals that the victim is unmarried daughter of the accused appellant. Prosecution case is that she was sexually assaulted by her own father for almost a year. The primary evidence of the prosecution is the statement of the victim, who has supported the prosecution case as per which she was sexually assaulted by the accused appellant for almost thirteen months, whereafter complaint was made by the victim to her step-brother Sandeep. The manner in which the incident is alleged to have taken place needs careful analysis in light of the evidence on record.

24. The victim as well as PW-2 both are consistent in saying that on 2.6.2015 accused appellant came to the house of victim's grandparents while returning from work and demanded a glass of water from the victim. The victim however did not give water to drink to the accused appellant. Accused appellant thereafter punched the victim on her back. It is thereafter that PW-2 alongwith his cousin Jagdish came and physically assaulted the accused appellant whereafter he was taken to the police. The incident of sexual assault has not taken place on 2.6.2015. It was apparently the act of accused appellant slapping his daughter (victim) which was the reason for accused appellant to be physically assaulted and then taken to police or the police arresting him. The immediate cause of raising protest against the accused appellant was, therefore, the act of victim being slapped/punched by the accused appellant.

25. Now coming to the allegation of sexual assault by the accused appellant, on his own daughter, the victim's consistent version is that she was sexually assaulted for the last about 13 months. The victim on specific inquiry, however, has not specified the date, time or place when she was first subjected to sexual assault. She has also not disclosed as to when and how the accused appellant sexually abused her. There is just a general allegation that for almost 13 months she was sexually assaulted by the accused on the threat that she would be harmed. For this entire 13 months the victim, however, has not made any complaint to anyone.

26. The prosecution witnesses specifically state that the victim was staying with her grandparents. Accused appellant lived in a different house with his wife and child. These houses were in close proximity. Site plan indicates that family of other brothers of accused also lived close by. Step-brother of the victim, namely Sandeep also lived nearby. Victim therefore had access to the step-brother and other relatives including her grandparents but admittedly none was informed about her rape nor anyone ever saw the incident or came to know of it. The victim has not even alleged that she told anyone about her sexual exploitation.

27. We have also perused site plan which shows that the house of the accused appellant consisted of one thatched roof with a door while another room had no doors. Outside these two rooms is a platform. Adjoining this house there is a little open space belonging to the brother of the accused appellant and, thereafter lies the thatched rooms belonging to other family members. There is absolutely no evidence of any other persons, who may have been informed by the victim during this entire period of 13 months that she was being sexually assaulted by her own father. Wife of accused appellant admittedly lives close by. Accused appellant Babu Ram also has a child with her second wife (victim's stepmother). It looks rather strange that a young girl was raped for almost 13 months in her own house by her father without anyone coming to know of it or the daughter informing anyone about it. In the entire statement of the victim there is no disclosure that she ever informed anyone of her travails and it was only on the date when she was slapped by her father for not providing him water that she informed about her rape to her stepbrother and his cousin. The victim in her statement has explained the family composition as also the place where she lived in following words:-

''बाबूराम के परिवार में कौन-कौन रहता है मुझे मालूम है। एक परिवार में मैं, दादी, व बाबा रहते हैं। जब मैं रहती थी तब मैंने देखा कि मेरे बाबा बहुत बीमार हालत में थे चल फिर नहीं सकते थे बहुत कम चलते थे। बाबूराम व उसकी पत्नी और बच्चा यह सब अलग मकान में एक परिवार में रहते हैं। शेष भाई अपने-अपने मकान में रहते हैं। संदीप का मकान दादी बाबा के मकान के पास में है। संदीप आंगन में से नहीं निकलते है। बाउण्ड्री टूटी हुयी है। कोई दीवाल नहीं है। इनके घर में छप्पर पड़ा हुआ है। बाबा मेरे छप्पर में रहते हैं। मैं भी उनके साथ छप्पर में ही रहती हूँ। संदीप से बात करने को मेरे पिताजी, दादी, सब लोग मना करते थे। कभी-कभी इस सबसे नजर बचाकर मैं संदीप से बात करती थी। अगर कोई देखता था तो डांटता भी था। आज मेरे साथ मेरा भाई संदीप, मोटरसाईकिल से मुझे लेकर आया है।''

28. The above statement shows that apart from accused appellant Babu Ram and his wife and children the other family members of the family including the grandparents and stepbrother Sandeep were living in close vicinity. There is no reason disclosed as to why the victim never informed anyone about the unbecoming acts of the accused appellant. The victim has also explained the manner in which the incident actually occurred.

''जिस दिन बाबूराम को पकड़ने वाली घटना हुयी थी वह दिन व तारीख व समय याद नहीं है। शाम का समय था। बाबूराम काम पर से लौटकर आये थे और दादी के यहां बाबा को देखने के लिए बैठे थे पानी बाबूराम ने पीने के लिए मांगा था तो मैंने कहा कि अभी लेकर आती हूँ लेकिन दिया नहीं तब उन्होंने मेरे पीठ पर एक घूंसा मारा था। तभी संदीप, जगदीश व घर वाले सब आ गये और बाबूराम को मारने लगे और मुझे अपने घर ले गये और बाबूराम को पुलिस बुलाकर पकड़वा दिया और इन सभी लोगों ने बाबूराम को बांधकर डाल दिया। जिससे यह भाग न जाये। यह पूरी घटना मैनें अपनी आंखो से देखी थी और पुलिस बाबूराम को पकड़ कर ले गयी यह भी मैंने देखा था।''

29. Apart from the oral testimony of the victim herself there is no other corroborative piece of evidence to support the allegation of sexual assault upon the victim. None of the family members who were living in the close vicinity has supported the allegation nor is it anyone's case that any untoward incident was reported by anyone during the last one year.

30. The medical evidence on record has also been examined by us. Three doctors have been examined namely, PW-3, PW-6 and PW-7. In the opinion of the doctors as well as medical examination report no external or internal injuries have been found on the victim. Though the hymen of the victim was found old torn but in the opinion of the doctor there could be various reasons for it. Statement of doctor Smt. Anjali Singh in this regard is relevant and is reproduced hereinafter:-

''पीड़िता बाह्य व आंतरिक परीक्षण मेरे द्वारा किया गया था। पीड़िता शरीर पर बाह्य चोट का कोई भी निशान मौजूद नहीं था और न ही आंतरिक शरीर पर ही कोई निशान मौजूद था। हाइमन पुराना फटा हुआ था। हाइमन किसी भी प्रकार से फट सकता है जैसे साईकिलींग, कोई चोट या खेल कूद से भी फट सकता है। अगर कोई assault हुआ होता तो शरीर पर कोई न कोई निशान होता। लेकिन इस केस में ऐसा कुछ नहीं था।''

31. Even in the pathological report no dead or live spermatozoa has been found. In such circumstances, the only testimony which remains on record to support the prosecution case is the version of the victim herself.

32. Moreover, although the victim alleged that her sister was also raped by the accused appellant about ten days back but no evidence in that regard has been produced.

33. Law with regard to evidentiary value of the victim of sexual assault is well settled. The testimony of a victim is equated to that of an injured witness and is entitled to great weight. Ordinarily allegation of sexual assault has to be viewed with concern and the testimony of a victim is entitled to much weight. However, the testimony of the victim of sexual assault has also to be viewed in the surrounding facts and circumstances so as to consider as to whether she could be treated as a sterling witness such that the conviction of accused could be based only on her statement.

34. When the evidence in the present case is carefully noticed we find that there is a strong motive for the victim to falsely implicate her father. Admittedly, the victim was told by her step-brother (informant) that their mother was killed by the accused appellant. The victim has been specific in alleging so in her deposition. The basis of such information is the disclosure made by the informant (PW-2) and her sister who admittedly has not been produced in evidence.

35. Informant Sandeep was born from the union of the mother of victim, namely Smt. Sonwati and one Parmeshwar Dayal. Smt. Sonwati died when the victim was around a year old. PW-2 was living with her mother and accused appellant Babu Ram. There is no evidence on record to indicate as to how the mother of the informant and the victim Smt. Sonwati died. In this regard statement of the victim assumes significance. Victim has clearly stated in her cross-examination that she was told about the murder of her mother by informant Sandeep and her sister. She has also categorically alleged that she came to know from Sandeep and her sister that it was accused appellant Babu Ram, who had murdered her mother. This is clearly reflected from the following statement of the victim:-

''मुझे मेरी मां की हत्या के सम्बंध संदीप व मेरी दीदी ने बताया था। मुझे इन्ही के द्वारा जानकारी हुयी कि मेरी माँ को बाबूराम ने मारा था। संदीप की माँ व मेरी माँ एक ही थी। इस रिश्ते से मैं संदीप को अपना भाई मानती हूँ।''

36. The above statement of the victim clearly indicates that the victim had a belief that her mother was done to death by the accused appellant. No evidence, however, has been brought on record to even remotely suggest that Smt. Sonwati was killed by accused appellant Babu Ram.

37. On the aspect of alleged murder of victim's mother by the accused appellant the prosecution evidence is full of contradictions. As against PW-1, PW-2 in his cross-examination has categorically stated that he has no enmity with accused Babu Ram and he does not bear any enmity against him for having killed his mother. Following passages from the statement of PW-2 is relevant and is reproduced:-

''मेरी व बाबूराम की कोई रंजिश नहीं है। मुझे यह भी शक नहीं है कि बाबू राम ने मेरी माँ को मार डाला है। मुझे नहीं पता कि मेरे मामा ने बाबूराम को जेल भिजवाया है। मैं अपनी माँ के मरने के 4-5 साल के बाद अपने घर आ गया था।''

38. Statement of PW-2 and PW-1 contradicts each other on the role of accused appellant in murdering their mother Smt. Sonwati. While the victim says that she was informed by informant (PW-2) and her sister about the accused appellant having murdered her mother, PW-2 (brother of the victim) clearly disowns any such belief of accused appellant having killed his mother. Elder sister of victim has not been produced and it is only PW-2 who has been produced in evidence by the prosecution. Though the question as to who killed Smt. Sonwati may not be directly in question before us, but the accusations in that regard against the accused appellant and its denial by the informant lends credence to the defence version that the victim bore a grudge against the accused appellant. This fact would be relevant as it may constitute the basis for false implication of the accused appellant.

39. In the facts of the case we are inclined to doubt the statement of PW-2 that he did not doubt the accused appellant of having killed his mother. The reason for it is that the victim specifically states that she was informed about the murder of her mother by the accused appellant by PW-2 and there is no reason for the victim to lie on this count. It appears that PW-2 bore a grudge against the accused appellant on account of his belief that the accused appellant had killed his mother and that is why a distance was maintained by the family members from PW-2. Victim and PW-2 both have stated that they were not allowed to interact. It is only on the date of incident i.e. 2.6.2015 that the victim told PW-2 about her rape. It is on this day that accused appellant was assaulted, apprehended and handed over to the police by PW-2. Prior to it no complaint was ever made by the victim about her rape to anyone.

40. It is quite natural for a young girl to carry a grudge against her own father if she harbours a firm belief that her mother was killed by him. This feeling can be strong enough to convince her to justify levelling of false accusation also so that the guilty father be punished for his act. During the course of trial specific suggestion has been given both to PW-1 and PW-2 by the defence that it was to avenge the enmity with the accused appellant on account of his having murdered their mother that the victim has made false allegation against the accused appellant.

41. Upon careful perusal and analysis of the evidence on record we do find a distinct possibility of the victim having framed her father to avenge the murder of her mother by him, particularly when such facts were told to her by the informant Sandeep. The evidence, further shows that all family members discouraged the victim from interacting with the informant. It appears that the informant did carry this belief that her mother was done to death by the accused appellant and he did told the victim about it. However, at the trial he has completely backtracked on this accusation so as to resist any plea of false implication. Nevertheless, the testimony does show that the victim and PW-2 both harboured a belief that her mother was murdered by the accused appellant. In such circumstances, we are not inclined to place the testimony of the victim in the category of wholly reliable witness such that no corroboration of her testimony would be warranted.

42. Once the testimony of victim is placed in the category of partially reliable and partially unreliable we would be required to look for corroboration of the victim's accusation in other evidence on record. Upon a careful evaluation of the evidence we find that there is no corroboration of the victim's accusation except the version of PW-2, who himself is not an eye-witness and his testimony is also based upon the information furnished to him by PW-1.

43. In the facts of the case, it is apparent that accused appellant has already undergone incarceration of more than ten years, nine months with remission. In light of the discussions aforesaid, we are inclined to hold that the defence has succeeded in creating a doubt on the prosecution case of rape for 13 months upon the victim and, therefore, the accused appellant is entitled to benefit of doubt.

44. So far as judgment of conviction and sentence passed by the court of Sessions is concerned, we find that the trial court although has noticed the evidence on record but has completely omitted to consider the import of the victim's accusation of his father in having murdered her mother. The possibility of false implication of the accused appellant on account of such enmity has been completely overlooked. The fact that the accused appellant otherwise has no criminal history; there is no evidence of his sexual perversion otherwise reported in the past; the accused appellant was already married and it will be difficult to conceive that the act of sexual assault for almost a year may go unnoticed or without a grievance being raised to anyone seems improbable; the immediate provocation was the slapping/punching of the victim by accused appellant for not providing water which enraged the informant who assaulted and apprehended the accused and got him arrested etc. have been overlooked. In that view of the matter, we are not persuaded to accept the reasoning assigned by the court of Sessions in convicting and sentencing the accused appellant, who has already undergone incarceration of more than ten years in jail.

45. Resultantly, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order dated 24.2.2018, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/Court No.1, Pilibhit in Sessions Trial No.8 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No.622 of 2015, under Sections 376(2)(f), 376(2)(n) IPC and 5/6 POCSO Act, Police Station Newriya, District Pilibhit is set aside.

46. The accused-appellant, who is reported to be in jail, shall be released, forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of Section 437A Cr.P.C.

Appeal is allowed. (E-11)

List of Cases cited:

1. St. of Raj. Vs Parmanand & anr.(2014 vol. 2 SCC (cri) 5630,

2. Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja Vs St. of Guj. (2010 vol. 2 EFR 755),

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. The case is taken up in the revised call.

2. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

3. This appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 01.12.2006 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge / Fast Track Court No.1, Raebareli in S.T. No.25/1998, Police Station Sareni, District Raebareli, convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 20 of N.D.P.S. Act for three years rigorous imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs.10,000/- with default stipulation.

4. The prosecution story, in brief, as disclosed in the first information report, is that while the S.H.O. Rameshwar Singh alongwith other police personnel were searching accused of other case, they saw four persons on a jeep who were unloading some sacs. The police personnel caught them and asked the accused whether he want to get searched by a gazetted officer or police may make a search upon him. The accused consented that police may make search upon him. On being searched, ganja as well as liquor bottles were recovered from the accused persons. On the basis of aforesaid incident, Case Crime No.60 of 1997 and 61 of 1997, under Section 60 of Excise Act and Section 8/20 of N.D.P.S. Act and Case Crime No.62 of 1997, under Section 18/20 of N.D.P.S. Act was registered at Police Station Sareni, District Raebareli.

5. Investigation was handed over to the Sub Inspector, who in turn got the sample chemically examined and received a report. He took the statements of witnesses of recovery and prepared the site plan and on finding sufficient evidence, he filed charge sheet against the accused in the Court.

6. The accused-appellant was charged for offence u/s 8/20 N.D.P.S. Act; to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed for trial.

7. In support of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined P.W.-1 Sub Inspector Janardan Prasad, P.W.-2

Inspector Rishi Kumar, P.W.-3 Constable Shivnand and P.W.-4 Constable Ramautar Shukla.

8. Formal proof of prosecution papers have been admitted by the accused.

9. Appellant was examined under Section 313 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, (in short 'Code') wherein he stated that he had been falsely implicated due to enmity. No witness in defence were accused by the accused persons.

10. Learned trial Court, after going through the evidence available on record as well as after due hearing the learned counsel for both the parties, convicted and sentenced the appellant under Section 20 of N.D.P.S. Act for three years rigorous imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs.10,000/- with default stipulation.

11. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and order, the appellant has filed this appeal.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that Section 50 of the N.D.P.S. Act is a mandatory provision. The arresting officer has not complied with that provision. As such, the recovery is illegal which vitiates the trial. Learned counsel further submitted that the alleged place of recovery is public place but no effort to invite the public witness at the time of recovery was made by the police party. Learned trial Court without proper appreciation of the evidence available on record has illegally convicted the appellant vide impugned judgment and order which is liable to be set aside as the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In support of his argument learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja Vs. State of Gujarat, 2010 (2) EFR 755 and State of Rajasthan Vs. Parmanand and another, (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 563.

13. Learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the submission of learned counsel for the appellant and submitted that there is no illegality in the impugned judgment and order as it is settled provision of law that only on the solitary testimony of witness, conviction can be maintained and statement of police witness cannot be rejected on the ground that he is a police witness. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that impugned judgment and order, passed by trial Court, is well reasoned, well discussed and appeal is liable to be dismissed.

14. After considering the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of record, this Court finds that the prosecution case is based on oral testimony of police personnel. It is settled principle of law that only on account of the fact that prosecution case is based on testimony of police witness, it cannot be thrown out, if the evidence of such witness is wholly reliable.

15. Severe punishment has been provided in the N.D.P.S. Act to check the misuse of this Act by the police personnel or officers and certain safeguards particularly Section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act has been incorporated in this Act that search of the suspected person must be done before the Magistrate or Gazetted Officer. Similarly Section 55 and 57 of N.D.P.S. Act provides that seized contraband article be kept by Station House Officer in safe custody and report of arrest and seizure be sent immediately to immediate Superior Officer within 48 hours.

16. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja Vs. State of Gujarat, 2010 (2) EFR 755, while discussing the importance and relevancy of section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act, in para-22, has opined as under:-

"22. In view of the foregoing discussion, we are of the firm opinion that the object with which right under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act, by way of a safeguard, has been conferred on the suspect, viz. to check the misuse of power, to avoid harm to innocent persons and to minimise the allegations of planting or foisting of false cases by the law enforcement agencies, it would be imperative on the part of the empowered officer to apprise the person intended to be searched of his right to be searched before a gazetted officer or a Magistrate. We have no hesitation in holding that in so far as the obligation of the authorised officer under sub-section (1) of Section 50 of the NDPS Act is concerned, it is mandatory and requires a strict compliance. Failure to comply with the provision would render the recovery of the illicit article suspect and vitiate the conviction if the same is recorded only on the basis of the recovery of the illicit article from the person of the accused during such search. Thereafter, the suspect may or may not choose to exercise the right provided to him under the said provision. As observed in Re Presidential Poll (1974) 2 SCC 33, it is the duty of the courts to get at the real intention of the Legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the provision to be construed. "The key to the opening of every law is the reason and spirit of the law, it is the animus imponentis, the intention of the law maker expressed in the law itself, taken as a whole." We are of the opinion that the concept of "substantial compliance" with the requirement of Section 50 of the NDPS Act introduced and read into the mandate of the said Section in Joseph Fernandez (supra) and Prabha Shankar Dubey (supra) is neither borne out from the language of sub-section (1) of Section 50 nor it is in consonance with the dictum laid down in Baldev Singh's case (supra). Needless to add that the question whether or not the procedure prescribed has been followed and the requirement of Section 50 had been met, is a matter of trial. It would neither be possible nor feasible to lay down any absolute formula in that behalf. We also feel that though Section 50 gives an option to the empowered officer to take such person (suspect) either before the nearest gazetted officer or the Magistrate but in order to impart authenticity, transparency and creditworthiness to the entire proceedings, in the first instance, an endeavour should be to produce the suspect before the nearest Magistrate, who enjoys more confidence of the common man compared to any other officer. It would not only add legitimacy to the search proceedings, it may verily strengthen the prosecution as well."

17. Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan Vs. Parmanand and another, (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 563, again in paragraph-17, has opined as under:-

"In our opinion, a joint communication of the right available under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act to the accused would frustrate the very purport of Section 50. Communication of the said right to the person who is about to be searched is not an empty formality. It has a purpose. Most of the offences under the NDPS Act carry stringent punishment and, therefore, the prescribed procedure has to be meticulously followed. These are minimum safeguards available to an accused against the possibility of false involvement. The communication of this right has to be clear, unambiguous and individual. The accused must be made aware of the existence of such a right. This right would be of little significance if the beneficiary thereof is not able to exercise it for want of knowledge about its existence. A joint communication of the right may not be clear or unequivocal. It may create confusion. It may result in diluting the right. We are, therefore, of the view that the accused must be individually informed that under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act, he has a right to be searched before a nearest gazetted officer or before a nearest Magistrate. Similar view taken by the Punjab & Haryana High Court in Paramjit Singh and the Bombay High Court in Dharamveer Lekhram Sharma meets with our approval."

18. Admittedly, the prosecution has not produced other independent eye-witnesses of the alleged recovery and even no explanation has been offered by the prosecution for their non-production. All the witnesses are police personnel. Non-production of independent eye witness is serious lacuna which has made the prosecution case very doubtful.

19. In addition to above, admittedly the appellant, prior to his search, was not produced before any Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, whereas according to prosecution before his search the police personnel were informed by the appellant that he was carrying the ganza. Prosecution has also not produced any written consent of the appellant for his search. From perusal of testimony of prosecution witnesses, it does not transpire that any efforts were made by them to produce the appellant before any Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, as required by Section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act, in view of law laid down by Apex Court in Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja (Supra).

20. Further, it is also pertinent to note at this juncture that not only the manner in which the appellant was searched, is doubtful, the prosecution has also not prosecuted the case seriously, knowing that severe punishment has been provided in N.D.P.S. Act. It produced only four witnesses i.e P.W.-1 Sub Inspector Janardan Prasad, P.W.-2 Inspector Rishi Kumar, P.W.-3 Constable Shivnand and P.W.-4 Constable Ramautar Shukla and withheld other witness without any justification.

21. In the light of above discussion, it is clear that the prosecution has failed to prove the mandatory compliance of Section 50 N.D.P.S. Act. In absence of compliance of mandatory provision of Section 50 N.D.P.S Act, the prosecution case, based on testimony of police personnel i.e. P.W.-1 Sub Inspector Janardan Prasad, P.W.-2 Inspector Rishi Kumar, P.W.-3 Constable Shivnand and P.W.-4 Constable Ramautar Shukla, whose statements are not wholly reliable, cannot be held as proved beyond reasonable doubt in view of the other illegalities and material irregularity committed by the witnesses as discussed above.

22. Thus this Court is of the view that prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellant. The trial Court has not properly discussed the evidence produced by the prosecution and has passed the impugned judgment and order against the settled principle of law including provisions of N.D.P.S. Act. This Court, therefore, unable to uphold the conviction and sentence of the appellant. The appellant is entitled to be acquitted. The impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside and accordingly, appeal is liable to be allowed.

23. In view of the above, impugned judgment and order dated 01.12.2006 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge / Fast Track Court No.1, Raebareli in S.T. No.25/1998, Police Station Sareni, District Raebareli, is set aside and reversed and accused/appellant, namely, Sohan Lal is acquitted of the charges levelled against him. Consequently, the appeal is allowed. His personal bond and surety bonds are canceled and sureties are discharged.

24. Let a copy of this judgment alongwith the lower court record be sent immediately to the Trial Court concerned for necessary compliance.

25. No order as to the costs.

Criminal Appeal No. 3149 of 2004

Saleem @ Sambha ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Mohd. Naushad Siddiqui

Counsel for the Respondents:
Govt. Advocate

A. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code,1860 -- Culpable Homicide & Murder - S. 299 Culpable Homicide - S. 300 Murder - S. 300 "culpable homicide amounting to murder", punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. - "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" punishable under Section 304 I.P.C. - 'Culpable Homicide' is the genus and 'Murder' is its species. All 'Murders' are 'Culpable Homicides' but all 'Culpable Homicides' are not 'Murders' – 'Intention' and 'Knowledge' - Distinction between the two expressions - Legislature has used two different terminologies 'Intention' and 'Knowledge' and separate punishments are provided for acts committed with intent to cause bodily injury likely to cause death and for acts committed with knowledge that the act is likely to cause death without the intent to cause such bodily injury - Knowledge is awareness of the consequences of the act – Knowledge of the consequences resulting from an act is different from the intention that such consequences should result – When intention is not proved, the offence will be culpable homicide if the doer of the act causes death with knowledge that his act is likely to cause death - Intention - Requisite intention must be proved by the prosecution. It must be proved that the accused, by doing the act, intended to cause death, or had the aim of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death – Intention is inferred from the circumstances of the case, considering the nature of the weapon, part of the body injured, extent of the injury, degree of force used, manner of attack, and the circumstances preceding and attending the attack – (Para 57, 58, 60, 65, 67).

B. Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code – Sections 302, 304 – Murder & Culpable Homicide Not Amounting to Murder –

Section 304 Part- I or Section 304 Part- II - Appellant and the deceased were in the same business of selling meat and had cordial relations, with no prior enmity. Dispute arose over an amount of Rs. 50/- owed by the deceased. On the day of the incident, the appellant called the deceased to settle the matter and, during a conversation, in a moment of provocation, stabbed the deceased with a chhuri. Held - Weapon of assault chhuri is a common item which could be found in dwelling houses, specially where selling of meat is the business. incident had occurred without any premeditation and on trivial matter i.e. dispute regarding meager amount of Rs.50/-. It could not be inferred that appellant had a pre-planned intention to kill the deceased. none of the clauses of Section 300 I.P.C. are attracted as intention of the appellants to cause death was not proved. Offence committed by the appellant would fall within the meaning of "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" under Section 304 I.P.C. - Intention was to pressurize by brandishing the chhuri and not to cause bodily injuries. Only one blow. In sudden provocation, the single blow proved fatal. Considering the intention of appellant, mode of occurrence and weapon used, nature of injury, act falls within the province of Section 304 Part- II I.P.C. Appellant not guilty of murder punishable under Section 302 IPC but he is guilty of committing homicide not amounting to murder an offence which is punishable under Section 304 Part II IPC (Para 69, 70, 71)

C. Criminal Law - Indian Evidence Act, S. 3 - 'Related' witness - 'interested' witness - Relative witness - 'Related' witness is not equivalent to 'interested' witness. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in a decree of a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of the case, cannot be said to be 'interested'. If evidence of an eye-witness, is found truthful, it can not be discarded simply because the witnesses were relatives of the deceased. The only caveat is that the evidence of relative witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. A relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyze evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible. (Para 30, 31, 36)

D. In the instant case all the witnesses were related witnesses of the deceased. Therefore, their evidence was viewed with extra caution. All witnesses narrated the prosecution story in a very intrinsic and a natural way. PW-1, PW-2, PW-3, and PW-4 firmly St.d that the appellant and the deceased were engaged in a meat-selling business, and a financial dispute of ₹50 led to the fatal altercation. The evidence established that the appellant took the deceased to settle accounts, where he was stabbed. The prosecution's case was corroborated by multiple witnesses, who saw the appellant stabbing the deceased and fleeing while brandishing the weapon. No evidence at all on record that these witnesses are inimical to the appellant which could prompt them to rope him in the said crime. (Para 38)

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J.)

1. The instant criminal appeal, under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C. emanates out of the judgment and order dated 18.5.2004, passed by Additional District & Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 4, Kanpur Nagar, in Sessions Trial No. 178 of 2001, State Vs. Saleem alias Sambha, (Case Crime No. 11/2001, P.S. Ghatampur, Kanpur Nagar), whereby the learned trial court, convicted the accused/ appellant Saleem alias Sambha under Section 302 IPC and sentenced him for life imprisonment, with a fine of Rs. 3,000/-. In case of default, appellant was directed to undergo an additional imprisonment for a period of six months.

2. Bereft of unnecessary details, the prosecution case, as culled out from the First Information Report (FIR), undisputed facts and other material on record, is that the informant Lukman s/o Usman, R/o of Mohalla- Hafizpur, town- Ghatampur, police station- Ghatampur, District Kanpur Nagar, presented a tehrir (Ext Ka-1), on 17.01.2001 at about 12.45 p.m. in the police station Ghatampur, about the incident happened on 1701.2001 at about 11.30 a.m., scribing therein that his maternal uncle (Mama) Aziz and Saleem alias Sambha s/o Habib both R/o Mohalla Hafizpur, Town- Ghatampur, District-Kanpur Nagar, were engaged in the business of selling meat (gosht) some times separately and some times jointly with each other. Saleem alias Sambha alleged that Aziz owed Rs. 50/- to him but Aziz denied it. On 17.01.2001 at about 11.30 a.m., Saleem alias Sambha called Aziz from his house and had taken him to the house of Balia s/o Badkan to settle the account. The complainant Lukman, along-with Faheem s/o Late Saleem and Saeed s/o Majeed, followed them. Saleem alias Sambha and Aziz went inside the house of Balia and started talking about the disputed transactions, while the persons accompanying them, remained standing outside the door of Balia's house. Both the parties were disputing over the accounts, meanwhile Saleem alias Sambha stabbed Aziz in his abdomen with a chhuri (dagger), with an intention to kill him. On hearing shrill and shriek, persons, standing outside, entered into the house of Balia and saw accused Saleem alias Sambha coming outside brandishing blood soaked dagger in his hand. He threatened them also. They chased Saleem alias Sambha, but he managed his escape good. Injured Aziz was taken to the government hospital at Ghatampur for treatment, where he succumbed to his injury.

3. On the basis of the aforesaid tehrir a case crime no.11 of 2001 under Section 302 IPC was registered at Police Station Ghatampur, District Kanpur Dehat (now Kanpur Nagar) against Saleem alias Sambha. Entries were drawn in Kaimi G.D. (Ext. Ka-9) and the chik FIR (Ext. Ka-3) at about 12:45 on 17.01.2001. The investigation was entrusted to S.H.O. R.K. Sharma.

4. Thus, the investigation started rolling. I.O. reached at the place of occurrence and visited at C.H.C., Ghatampur along with police party, where corpse of the deceased Aziz was kept. S. I. Sarvesh Kumar launched inquest proceeding after nominating Mohd. Arif, Mohd. Rafiq, Mohd. Usman, Shahbaz Quresi and Devi Prasad the witnesses, on 17.11.2001 at about 12.45 pm. The panchan remarked that there is a blood plum injury on the left side of the chest near pelvis region. The panches opined that the cause of death is the injury inflicted upon deceased Aziz, nevertheless in order to ascertain the real cause of death, the postmortem may be conducted. S.I. Sarvesh Singh also subscribed the opinion of the panches. Therefore, he prepared a request letter to this effect to the CMO and send the wrapped and sealed corpse of Aziz through C- Brijnandan Singh and C- Rajesh Kumar, along with copy of inquest report (Ext. Ka- 10), reference slip to CMO (Ext. Ka-11), Sample of seal (Ext. Ka-12), Challan lash (Ext. Ka-14), Letter to the R.I. (Ext. Ka-15) to Mortuary for autopsy. The postmortem of the deceased was conducted by Dr. M.K. Jain (PW- 5) on 18.01.2001 at 12.00 O' clock.

5. On 17.01.2001 I.O. proceeded at place of occurrence and recorded the statement of the witnesses under section 161 I.P.C. and collected blood soaked and plain pieces of bricks, in the presence of witnesses from the place of occurrence. He also prepared recovery memo (Ext. Ka- 7) for the same. He prepared site plan of place of occurrence (Ext. Ka- 6), at the instance of the complainant and other witnesses and site plan of place of recovery of weapon of assault (Ext. Ka- 8) in the presence of witnesses. I.O. collected other relevant evidences also.

6. I.O. was in search of the accused, however, he surrendered on 25.01.2001 in the court of CMM. Thereafter with the leave of the court I.O. recorded the statement of the accused on 29.01.2001 in jail, wherein he confessed his guilt and stated that he can get recovered the weapon of assault, from the place, where he had hidden it. Hence I.O. prayed and was granted 24 hours police custody remand for the purpose of recovery by the court. Pursuant to the leave of the court, on 01.02.2001 at about 8.00 am in the morning, the accused was taken in police custody and as per disclosure of accused, proceeded to the place, where he had hidden the said weapon. He himself walked towards a place in shrubs standing on Bhadras road and took out a dried blood stained on its front, chhuri in the presence of the witnesses and handed over to I.O. The recovery memo (Ext Ka-5) for the same was prepared by the I.O, in his hand-writing and signatures, over which signatures of the witnesses were also obtained. I.O. also prepared site plan (Ext Ka-8) of the place of recovery. Chhuri recovered and other materials was sent for forensic examination. The FSL report of which was received and is part of the record as Ext Ka-16.

7. Investigating officer after due investigation and collecting credible and clinching material and evidence showing the complicity of the accused appellant submitted charge sheet under Section 302

I.P.C. against the accused Saleem alias Sambha, in the court of learned CJM, Kanpur Dehat, who took the cognizance of the case. It bring us to view the prosecution evidence.

17. PW- 1 Lukman who, claimed to be an eye witness. He is informant of the incident. He deposed that the incident took place on 17.01.2001 at 11.30 a.m. He was sitting on the spot. His maternal uncle, Aziz s/o late Abdul Karim and Saleem alias Sambha used to sell meat in Ghatampur. Aziz was indebted Rs. 50/- of Saleem alias Sambha. Aziz was taken to the house of Baliya s/o Badkan for settlement of account. He, Faheem and Saeed, also followed them. Aziz and Saleem alias Sambha went inside the house of Baliya for settling the accounts. The other persons remained standing talking outside the door of Baliya. During talk about the dispute, Saleem alias Sambha stabbed a knife in the stomach of Aziz, with an intention to kill him. He was chased, but could not be found. He took his injured uncle to Government hospital Ghatampur, where he was declared dead. Corpse of the deceased Saleem was kept in the Government hospital. He got a tehrir scribed by journalist Siraji on his dictation which was signed by him in urdu, he proved the tehrir as Ext. Ka.1. 18. PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem has deposed that it was a chilly cold weather. The incident took place on 17th January, 2001. The deceased Aziz was his real uncle (chacha). He was engaged in business of meat (gosht) selling in partnership with accused Saleem alias Sambha. Saleem claimed that Aziz owed Rs.50/- to him. His uncle denied his claim and expressed his willingness and readiness to settle the account and make payment, if he owes any amount towards Saleem alias Sambha. The incident took place in the house of Badkan, who is the father of Sadiq and Baliya and where the deceased was taken for settling the accounts. His uncle Aziz and Saleem alias Sambha had gone inside the house of Badkan, while they remained standing in front of the door of the house. As the accounts were being settled, suddenly vulgar dialogues started between Aziz and Saleem. We asked them for peaceful settlement of accounts. Meanwhile, Saleem alias Sambha took out a chhuri and stabbed in the abdomen of his uncle Aziz. They tried to catch hold of Saleem alias Sambha, he brandished the chhuri to kill us too, rushed towards the door, and came out brandishing chhuri in his hand. They took injured Aziz to the hospital. The doctor stated that it is a police case and asked to first lodge the report. Meanwhile, doctor examined injured Aziz and declared him dead. The report of this incident was lodged by Lukman. The police had done paper work regarding dead body of deceased in the hospital itself. The Sub-Inspector had recorded his statement with regard to the incident. The witness identified the accused/ appellant present in the court, saying he is Salim alias Sambha, who had killed his uncle Aziz. The said witness was also thoroughly cross examined.

19. PW- 3 Saeed has averred in his examination that the deceased Aziz was his elder uncle (bade baap). He was runing the business of sale of meat severely and sometimes jointly in partnership with the accused Saleem alias Sambha. The incident occurred 10-12 days before 26 January 2001. The incident occurred around 11:30 in the day. The incident took place in the house of Baliya and Sadiq. Saleem alias Sambha called Aziz and asked him to settle the account. When these people were going, he, Faheem and Lukman followed them. All of them remained standing at the door of Sadiq. Saleem alias Sambha and Aziz went inside the house. Saleem alias Sambha asked for payment of Rs. 50/-, Aziz assured that he will give the amount by tomorrow. During the course of dialogue, Saleem alias Sambha stabbed Aziz with chhuri with intention to eliminate him. He took out the chhuri and threatened us, saying that he would kill anyone who spoke. They tried to catch him, but he made his escape good. Saleem alias Sambha ran away towards Kallu's hotel and could not be arrested. They took Aziz to the hospital where he expired. The police report of the incident was lodged by Lukman. A sub-inspector had interrogated and recorded his statement regarding the incident. The witness identified accused present in the court room stating that he is the Saleem alias Sambha, who stabbed Aziz. The witness was cross-examined, in extenso.

20. P.W.4, Sadiq has averred that the incident occurred around 11:30 AM, one year and nine months ago. He is well acquainted with Saleem and Aziz. They used to do the business of meat (gosht) in partnership. Saleem alias Sambha and Aziz had an accounting dispute between them for a paltry sum of only Rs. 50/-, over which they quarreled. Aziz had indebted Rs. 50/- to Saleem alias Sambha. His house is very big and he was present in his house at the time of incident. The incident had occurred outside his house on the road, made up of bricks. He came outside on hearing the screaming. Saleem alias Sambha was holding a dagger (Churi) in his hand. He stabbed it, in the abdomen of Aziz. When they challenged him, he ran away towards the Kallu's hotel. Then, they took Aziz to the police chowki, where they were asked to take him to the police station. By that time Aziz was already dead. When the incident occurred, he was in the Verandah (Daalan) of his house. The witness further deposed that Baliya is his brother, both of them lived together. It is not true that the incident occurred inside his house and later on the deceased and Saleem alias Sambha came outside. He also stated that he was taking meal inside his house at the time of occurrence. I.O. has recorded his statement in this regard. Witness was thoroughly cross examined also.

21. P.W.5 Dr M.K. Jain has deposed that during his posting as Surgeon on 18.01.2001 at K. P. M. Hospital, he conducted postmortem of the dead body of the deceased Aziz, brought by C-1260 Rajesh Kumar Pandey and C- 2007 Brij Nandan Singh of P. S. Ghatampur, at about 12.00 noon. During autopsy he found the following injuries:-

(I)-External Examination:- The deceased was a man of average height and built. His mouth was half opened and eyes were closed. Rigor- mortis was present in both hands and legs.

(II)- Ante-mortem injuries - During the course of autopsy postmaortem surgeon found following ante-mortem injuries on the person on the deceased-

Lacerated and perforating wounds 3 cm x 1.5 cm x abdominal cavity deep and the same was present on the upper side of the abdomen below the ribs towards the left side in a 10 O'clock position, 9 cm above the umbilicus.

22. PW- 5 Dr. M.K. Jain deposed in his cross-examination that there was only one visible injury on the body of the deceased. The wound's margin were sharp. He marked it as incised wound. He did not marked in PMR if the margins of the wound margins were pointing, inward or outward. He could not say whether blood was oozing out from the dead body at the time of post-mortem because it was in a supine position. Such injuries could be caused to a person lying down or in a sitting position. The direction of attack was unclear as the wound was deep and perforating. The rupture of the spleen below the wound, indicate its direction almost vertical. He could not tell about the length, width and thickness (size) of the weapon, with which the deceased was inflicted the said injury but that weapon must be sharp edged and its end should be pointed. He denied the suggestion that the said injury could be caused to the victim skinning a buffalo and that weapon slipped from his hand and by the slip of the dagger which skinning the buffalo.

He further stated that carbon copy of the GD was prepared in the same process with original. He proved Chick FIR as Ext Ka-3 and kaimi GD as Ext ka -4.

24. In his cross-examination PW- 6 further stated that Lukman reached in the police station at 12.45 P.M. to lodge the FIR. The tehrir was scribed by Shiraji and signed by Lukman. It took half an hour lodging the FIR. SHO was informed about the incident, who reached on the spot.

25. P.W.7, S.I. Maharaj Singh Tomar, is the I.O. and one of the formal witnesses, who deposed that he recorded the statement of the accused Saleem alias Sambha. On 01.02.2001 he took accused Saleem alias Sambha in police custody remand in expectation of recovery of weapon of assault used in the crime No. 11/ 2001. He set out from the P.S. in the jeep, along with SHO R.K. Sharma, SI Ramendra Kumar Singh, C- Pawan Kumar, C- Sunil Kumar jeep driver Abdul Rahman, at the place disclosed by the accused. Accused Saleem alias Sambha in presence of the witnesses Kalaam and Umar Siddqui got recovered chhuri and hand over the same to him. The Chhuri was recovered at the pointing out of the accused at around 8 o'clock, which was wrapped in a news paper and sealed at the spot in the presence of the witnesses. Accused Salim Alias Sambha stated that he had murdered Aziz with this weapon only. This witness has proved recovery memo of knife as Ext Ka-5 as well as recovered knife as material Ext-1.

Kanpur as Ex Ka-15.

29. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant audaciously argued that witnesses produced by the prosecution are partisan, inimical to the appellants and interested witnesses and not independent witness. They are unreliable witnesses and as such no credence can be attached to their testimony and their deposition is not reliable and deserves to be discarded. Learned A.G.A. refuted the contention of the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant. He submitted that ordinarily a closed relative would not spare the real culprit who has caused the death and implicate an innocent person. It will be beneficial to discuss law on the issue and evaluation of testimonies such witnesses.

30. In case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Smt. Kalki and Anr. (1981) 2 SCC 752 the Hon'ble Supreme Court distinguished between the related and interested witness. It held that ‘Related' witness is not equivalent to 'interested' witness. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in a decree of a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of the case, cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the present case the witnesses produced have nothing to gain if the appellant is convicted or acquittal. There is not even an iota of evidence that any of these witnesses will get some benefit out of litigation between complainant and the accused. They are eye witnesses. So, they are not interested witnesses.

31. The aforesaid submission of the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant that prosecution witnesses are partisan and inimical to appellant, was thoroughly considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Daleep Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1953 SC 364 and enunciated the following principles:-

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

32. In a three Judges Bench of the Supreme Court of India in Hari Obula Reddy Vs. State of A.P. (1981) 3 SCC 675 observed as under:-

"13. ...it is well settled that interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. Even partisanship by itself is not a valid ground for discrediting or rejecting sworn testimony. Nor can it be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon."

33. Again, in S. Sudershan Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P (2006) 10 SCC 163, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"12. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interests of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyze evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

15. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh case in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the Members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses."

34. It is well known that there may be three kinds of witnesses:-

(i) Wholly reliable,

(ii) Wholly unreliable,

(iii) Partly reliable and partly unreliable,

There is no problem to evaluate testimony of wholly reliable or wholly unreliable witnesses, but it is different to deal with the witness, who are partly reliable and partly unreliable. The court has to be very careful in evaluation of such kind of witnesses.

"22. In our considered opinion, the "sterling witness" should be of a very high quality and calibre whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross-examination of any length and howsoever strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as the sequence of it. Such a version should have co- relation with each and every one of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other such similar tests to be applied, can it be held that such a witness can be called as a "sterling witness" whose version can be accepted by the court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged."

36. Thus, Hon'ble Apex Court in its enumerable decisions has categorically held that if evidence of an eye-witness, is found truthful, it can not be discarded simply because the witnesses were relatives of the deceased. The only caveat is that the evidence of relative witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution.

37. It is germane to point out here that prosecution in the present case has examined as many as 9 witnesses in support of its version. Out of which four are the witnesses of facts and rest are formal witnesses. PW-1 Lukman is the complainant of the incident and nephew of the deceased Aziz. Thus, admittedly deceased Aziz is the maternal uncle of PW-1 Lukman. PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem is also nephew of the deceased. It is also undisputed that deceased Aziz was real elder uncle (bade baap) of PW- 3 Saeed. PW- 4 Sadiq has admitted that deceased Aziz was his relative and brother. He also admitted that witnesses, Lukman, Mohd. Faheem and Saeed are his nephews and relatives. Thus, all these witnesses are related witnesses of the deceased Aziz. Therefore, their evidence be viewed with extra caution to reach on conclusion regarding their reliability and credibility.

38. At this juncture it may also be pointed out that a close scrutiny of the testimonies of these witnesses spontaneously bring us to conclusion that they have narrated the prosecution story in a very intrinsic and a natural way. All these witnesses, PW- 1 Lukman, PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem, PW- 3 Saeed and PW- 4 Sadiq have, without exception, stated that deceased Aziz and the appellant were engaged in business of selling meat and there was a dispute of Rs. 50/- between them. Appellant Saleem alias Sambha claimed that Aziz owe Rs. 50/- to him, while Aziz has disputed it. In his cross examination. PW-2 Faheem has stated that after the incident Aziz was lying writhing in agony pooled in blood. He asked to carry him to the hospital subsequently, apprehend Saleem alias Sambha first and then carry. He saw Saleem alias Sambha in the courtyard of the house of Sadiq. This conversation indicates that it was Saleem alias Sambha who had stabbed the deceased Aziz. He denied the suggestion that he had taken Rs. 40,000/- from the Saleem alias Sambha and to avoid payment of the amount, he is falsely deposing. It may be pointed out that it is just a suggestion in defence to the witness but it has not been proved by him by any cogent evidence. PW- 1 Lukman, PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem and PW- 3 Saeed have also supported prosecution story firmly that on 17.01.2001 at about 11.30 a.m. appellant Saleem alias Sambha had called upon and taken deceased Aziz to settle the account at the house of Balia and Sadiq sons of Badkan. Father and sons reside jointly in one house. They also followed them to the house of Balia. These witnesses further corroborated the prosecution story by stating that the deceased Aziz and appellant Saleem alias Sambha went inside the house of Balia, while they remained standing out at the fornt the door of the house. During course of conversation regarding settlement of the accounts, they over heard screaming consequent thereto they also entered into the house and saw that Saleem alias Sambha has stabbed Aziz with a chhuri and thereafter scaring the witnesses by brandishing it left the house. PW- 1 Lukman and PW- 2 Faheem tried to catch hold of the appellant Saleem alias Sambha but he threatened them and managed his escape good. Thereafter injured Aziz was carried to hospital, where he died. PW- 1 Lukman lodged the FIR. PW- 4 Sadiq has supported prosecution version to a great extent. He substantiated all the facts stated above by the witnesses except the actual place of occurrence. According to him he was present in his house at the time of incident and was taking meal. On hearing the shrieks he came out of his house and saw Saleem alias Sambha holding a blood soaked chhuri in his hand. Saleem has stabbed the chhuri in the stomach of Aziz. They chased him up to hotel of Kallu, thereafter they carried injured Aziz to the police outpost. He died on the way. Thus, all these witnesses were present at the scene of occurrence during the incident and they are the eye witnesses. There is no evidence at all on record that these witnesses are inimical to the appellant which could prompt them to rope him in the said crime. It is also to be mentioned that nothing was elicited from their examination which could be beneficial to the appellant version of the defence. It is also not out of place to mention that even defence witness DW- 1 Rakesh Kumar, though half heartedly, has supported the prosecution case that deceased Aziz was stabbed by Sadiq and Balia but he could not see as to who stabbed Aziz. In fact he has not seen anyone stabbing Aziz. He deposed that he has given the earlier statement of Sadiq assaulting deceased by knife without understanding its true import Aziz. Thus, the defence witness is so contradictory in his statement that by no stretch of imagination could be said to have supported the defence version at all.

39. DW- 1 Rakesh Kumar has narrated the defence version in his deposition. Negating defence version he deposed that on 17.01.2001 at about 11.30 a.m. he heard screaming in the house of Balia and Sadiq. At the relevant time he was passing through from where he saw that Saziq stabbed Aziz with chhuri. Aziz had illicit relation with the wife of Sadiq Ayesha. Large number of persons had gathered at the place of occurrence. In his cross-examination he stated that at about 11.30 a.m. he was taking tea at the hotel of Kallu, he heard the shrieks near the house of Balia. He has not witnessed the murder of Aziz. Aziz was beaten by Sadiq and Balia. They were quarreling outside the courtyard in the house of Balia which was visible. Many people gathered there and tried to pacify them inside the house. He has not seen the act of stabbing Aziz by anyone in the house of Balia.

40. Appellant in his defence has stated that deceased Aziz had gone to the house of Sadiq. Aziz had illicit relationship with the wife of Sadiq. At the relevant time Sadiq and Balia also reached there. Seeing Aziz present there, they started beating him. Sadiq had stabbed him in his abdomen and killed him. When he reached, he saw that Aziz was injured, while Sadiq and Balia were present there. They screamed, that Saleem had killed Aziz. They also chased Sadiq and later called the family members of Aziz and blamed him to be the assailant. It may be mentioned that defence has not led any inspiring evidence to prove this version of defence. Assuming this defence version as true, he should have cross examined PW- 4 Sadiq on this point, but no such suggestion was put to him, to strengthen the hypothesis of the defence case. The defence has not put any suggestion to prosecution witnesses to inspire confidence regarding the defence version in this regard. In this way the defence version is not tenable and it do not inspire over confidence and is liable to be discarded outrightly.

41. The learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant urged that there is no independent witness to support the prosecution version, while admittedly several persons were present at the scene of occurrence. It creates serious doubt about the truthfulness and probity of the prosecution version. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the arguments. In this behalf it may be mentioned that it is established cannon of law of evidence that it is the quality, not the quantity of evidence, which matters to prove a case. The prosecution has examined eye witnesses of the occurrence who were present at the place of occurrence. It has also produced all relevant formal witnesses which in no way affects the prosecution case adversely. It is also established law that if eye witnesses successfully proves the prosecution version and testimonies of these witnesses are reliable, then non-production of any independent witness will not in any way affect the prosecution case adversely.

42. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has argued that in the present case FIR is delayed, ante timed and is the result of embellishment which as a creature of afterthought. However, learned A.G.A. dispelled the contention of the learned Amicus Curae. It is pertinent to discuss, in brief, the legal scenario in this behalf. A Division Bench of Allahabad High Court in Bhurey Singh Vs. State of U.P. 2008 (4) ALJ 772 Alld. has referred the Apex Court in Maharaj Singh Vs. State of U.P. (1994) 5 SCC 188 some checks about the ante timed FIR. One of the checks pointed out is regarding the receipt of the copy of FIR by the local Magistrate. If it is sent late it will give rise to an inference that FIR is not lodged within reasonable time. Further if sending FIR with the dead body, its inference is noted in the inquest report will lead that FIR is within time. The absence of those details indicating the facts that the prosecution story was still in an embryo state and it has come to be recorded later on, after due deliberation and consultation. Maharaj Singh (Supra) has been followed by the Apex Court in Mohammad Muslim Vs. State of U.P. 2023 live law (SC) 489 also. In the present case witnesses of prosecution PW- 1 complainant Lukman, PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem, PW- 3 Saeed and PW- 4 Sadiq in their deposition have stated that the incident has occured on 17.01.2001 at about 11.30 a.m. Chik FIR Ext. Ka- 3 and PW- 6 C.P. Kameshwer Mishra and PW- 8 I.O. Inspector vigilance R.K. Sharma have stated that FIR has been registered at 12.45 p.m. (noon). The distance of the police station concerned from the place of occurrence is about 1 km. Thus, it took about 1.15 hours to get registered the FIR. The incident pertains to the murder. PW- 2 Faheem has stated in his cross-examination that after the incident Aziz was brought to the hospital where they were told that it is a police case, so lodge the FIR first. Hence, they came to the P.S. concerned and lodged the FIR meanwhile injured Aziz was declared dead in the hospital. Amongst all these facts and circumstances of the case, it is natural to take 1.15 hours to get FIR registered and there is no unreasonable delay in lodging the FIR. Thus, FIR in the matter is prompt and there is no possibility of manipulating and twisting the real facts. It cannot be termed afterthought. Therefore arguments put forth by the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant, has no substance and is liable to be discarded.

43. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has contended that prosecution has miserably failed to fix the place of occurrence, which renders prosecution case incredible and unreliable. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed this contention of the appellant and argued that the incident occurred inside the house of the Balia. As per FIR, PW- 1 Lukman, PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem and PW- 3 Saeed, the incident in question occurred in the courtyard of the house of Sadiq while PW- 4 Sadiq has averred that incident had occurred outside his house on the road in front of the door of his house. All the prosecution witnesses live in the vicinity of each other, so they are well acquainted with each other. PW- 1 Lukman, PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem, PW- 3 Saeed have stated in their examination that there was a dispute of Rs. 50/- between the deceased Aziz and the accused appellant Saleem alias Sambha. On the fateful day Saleem alias Sambha called deceased Aziz and took him in the house of Badkan to settle the account. Both of them went inside the house of Badkan (which is also the house of PW- 4 Sadiq) and started conversing about the settlement of the account. All of sudden Saleem alias Sambha stabbed a dagger in the abdomen of the Aziz. The witnesses who followed Aziz and Saleem alias Sambha while they were proceeding towards the house of Sadiq, stayed outside and Saleem alias Sambha and Aziz went inside the house. Thus, according to these witnesses incident occurred in side the house of the Badkan. However, PW- 4 Sadiq has stated in his examination that at the time of the incident he was present in his house and taking meal. He also stated that on hearing the scream, he came out of his house where he saw Aziz lying injured. Saleem alias Sambha had stabbed him with a chhuri and he saw Saleem alias Sambha fleeing from the spot. In view of the consistent statement of prosecution witnesses PW- 1 Lukman, PW- 2 Mohd. Faheem, PW- 3 Saeed that the incident occurred inside the house of Balia. We are of the opinion that the incident actually occurred inside the house. It appears that PW- 4 Sadiq, either did not witness the occurrence or he was not present on the spot at the time of incident. In their cross-examination Pws has stated that on hearing the shriek inside the house of Sadiq they reached inside the house and tried to lay injured Aziz on a cot and brought him outside the house. Thus, incident of stabbing occurred inside the house of Sadiq and after receiving fatal injury they brought deceased Aziz out of house on the road, in front of the door of the house of Sadiq. Thus, it is established that initially the place of occurrence was the courtyard inside the house of Sadiq. Similar case has been set up by PW- 8 I.O. R.K. Sharma who has rightly depicted the place of occurrence inside the house of Balia in the site map, which he has proved as Ext. Ka- 6 in his statement.

44. In this regard it has also been argued by the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant that if the incident had occurred in the courtyard of the house of Balia some blood must have been recovered there but the I.O. has not collected any blood stained soil, from the said place. To the contrary he is shown to have collected blood stained bricks while the floor of the yard was not made of bricks. Learned A.G.A. has refuted this argument.

45. It may be mentioned in this regard that there is no satisfactory evidence on record that the blood soaked bricks were collected by I.O. from which place, either from road side or from the courtyard of the house of Balia. It may also be a discrepancy in the statement of I.O. that he has not clarified the position in this regard in his statement. Therefore, it does not mean that incident has not occurred inside the house of Balia and thus the appellant cannot be given any benefit of such lapses/ mistake of the I.O. Thus, the argument that prosecution has not fixed the place of occurrence and hence its case is doubtful, is not acceptable.

46. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has also argued that the questionable recovery of chhuri (dagger) by the accused appellant further makes prosecution case doubtful. The recovery is false and there is no independent witness of such recovery. Learned A.G.A. has refuted the argument and urged that the recovery of the weapon of assault is at the instance of the appellant, in the presence of the witnesses, which itself indicate involvement of the appellant in the crime. In this behalf it may be pointed out that according to PW- 8 I.O. inspector vigilance R.K. Sharma the appellant surrendered before the court on 25.01.2001 thereafter with the leave of the court he recorded the statement of the accused on 29.01.2001 wherein he has stated that he can got recovered the chhuri by which he has committed the crime. So his police custody remand was prayed and granted, in expectation of recovery of weapon of assault. On 01.02.2001 weapon of assault, chhuri was recovered at the pointing of the appellant from the standing shrubs on the road side of Bhadras on Musa Nagar Road Chungi. In this connection, recovery memo Ext. Ka- 5 was prepared by PW- 7 S.I. Maharaj Singh Tomar over which the signature of the witnesses, I.O. R.K. Sharma, S.I. Ramendra Kumar, C- Pawar Kumar, C- Sunil Kumar were obtained. Thus, the recovery was made in the presence of the witnesses. This weapon of assault material Ext-1 was sent to FSL for chemical examination. FSL report Ext Ka-16 which is on record, reveals that there were stains of human blood on the Churri (dagger) which clearly establish to that the accused appellant used the recovered chhuri (dagger) in commission of the crime. All the prosecution witnesses substantiate the fact that chhuri was used as weapon of assault by the accused appellant in causing the fatal injury to the deceased Aziz. The mode of recovery also indicates that it was only the accused appellant also be involved in the said crime.

47. PW-8, I.O., Inspector vigilance R.K. Sharma has further stated that after committing the crime accused appellant fled away from the scene of occurrence. He tried to arrest the appellant accused and conducted raids at various places to ensure his arrest but failed to arrest him, consequently the appellant surrendered on 25.01.2001 before the court of CJM, concerned. His conduct of fleeing away, just after the incident is relevant under section -8 Indian Evidence Act 1872. This facts strengthens the presumption that he did so, to evade his arrest from the police as incident has been caused by the accused / appellant alone.

48. It has been further submitted that there are material and serious inconsistencies and discrepancies in respect of the place of occurrence, weapon used and the blows inflicted upon the injured. There is some discrepancy in the prosecution version as pointed out by the witnesses that the deceased was wearing 'T-shirt' and 'Tahmad', whereas in inquest there is description of 'Baniyan' and 'Tahmad' on his person. Some witnesses had stated that after committing the crime Saleem alias Sambha, entered into the house of Sabhapati, whereas other witnesses had stated that after committing the incident, accused ran away towards the hotel of Kallu, P.W.- 4 Sadiq has stated that accused fled from the scene of occurrence brandishing chhuri (dagger) towards Kallu's hotel. This creates serious doubts about the truthfulness of the prosecution version and the appellant, who has no criminal history and has falsely been implicated. However, in our opinion these are not such discrepancies and inconsistencies, which could affect prosecution case adversely. Thus there is no material contradictions in the statement of the prosecution witnesses.

49. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has also contended that there is no motive for appellant to commit such a gruesome murder for trivial issue of dues of Rs. 50/- only. If it was the motive it was the weakest kind of motive. Learned A.G.A. disputed the contention of Amicus Curiae. It deems pertinent to point out that the incident has occurred in the broad day light and in the presence of several witnesses. All the prosecution witnesses including the witness of the defence has stated that the appellant and deceased Aziz were engaged in the business of selling of meat (gosht), some times jointly and some time severally. Saleem alias Sambha alleged that Aziz owed Rs. 50/- to him but Aziz denied it. On the fateful day, Saleem alias Sambha called Aziz from his house and taken him to the house of Balia s/o Badkan to settle the dispute. PW- 1 Lukman, PW- 2 Faheem s/o Late Saleem and PW-3 Saeed, followed them. Saleem alias Sambha and Aziz went inside the house of Balia and started conversing about the disputed transactions, while the persons accompanying them, remained standing outside the door of Balia's house. Both the parties were quarrelling over the statement of accounts in the house, meanwhile Saleem alias Sambha stabbed Aziz in his abdomen with a churi (dagger), with an intention to kill him. On hearing shrill and shrieks, persons, standing outside, entered into the house of Balia and saw accused Saleem alias Sambha, coming out of the house, brandishing blood soaked dagger in his hand. He even extended threats to them, who chased Saleem alias Sambha, but he managed his escape good. The injured Aziz was taken to the government hospital at Ghatampur for treatment, where he succumbed to his injury. PW-1 Lukaman, PW-2 Faheem, PW-3, Saeed have supported this prosecution case in their testimonies. Even PW-4 Sadiq has supported prosecution version except to the extent that the incident had occurred outside his house while all other witnesses stated that it occurred inside in the courtyard of the house of the Sadiq but as has been discussed herein above there is a suspicion about the presence of Sadiq on the spot witnessing the incident. There is no corroborative evidence to support the statement of the defence witness DW-1 Rakesh kumar who had no information/ knowledge about the illicit relation of the wife of Sadiq with deceased Aziz. Nevertheless he also supported prosecution case regarding the dispute of Rs. 50/- between the parties and going to the place of occurrence and causing the death of the deceased Aziz by the appellant Saleem alias Sambha.

50. It has also been contended by the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant that that the appellant has wrongly been convicted under Section 302 IPC whereas as per prosecution story it can easily be inferred that the case would fall under Section 304 Part- II of the I.P.C., as it is said that only a single blow of the knife was given. In support of his contention, he has invited our attention towards the decision rendered in the case of Stalin V/s The State Through The Inspector Of Police, AIR 2020 SC 718. He has further placed reliance upon the case of Mahesh Balmiki alias Munna V/s State Of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1999 SC 3338. In the case of Mahesh Balmiki, the Court observed as under:-

"Adverting to the contention of a single blow, it may be pointed out that there is no principle that in all cases of single blow Section 302 I.P.C. is not attracted. Single blow may, in some cases, entail conviction under Section 302 I.P.C., in some cases under Section 304 I.P.C and in some other cases under Section 326 I.P.C. The question with regard to the nature of offence has to be determined on the facts and in the circumstances of each case. The nature of the injury-(A), whether it is on the vital or non-vital part of the body, the weapon used, the circumstances in which the injury is caused, and the manner in which the injury is inflicted, are all relevant factors, which may go to determine the required intention or knowledge of the offender and the offence committed by him. In the instant case.

51. Concluding, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has submitted that the alleged incident took place on 17.1.2001 and since then 23 long years has elapsed and still he is suffering continuous mental agony. In these circumstances, while not disputing the conviction, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant submitted that ends of justice would be met, if the appellant is sentenced to the period already under gone by him.

52. Refuting the said assertion of the learned Amicus Curiae, the State Counsel argued that the findings of guilt recorded by the Trial Court are based on proper appreciation of evidence on record. T`he prosecution has examined the most natural witnesses of the case, whose presence at the time of occurrence can not be doubted. Credibility of the witness has to be judged in view of the facts and circumstances of every case and the trial judge strictly scrutinized their evidence with utmost care. He next averred that minor discrepancies on the part of investigating officer could not be a justification for discarding the accusation against the appellant. Prosecution witnesses have proved prosecution case beyond all shadow of doubts. The prosecution has successfully been able to prove the date, time and place of occurrence. The appellant has not been able to prove by any evidence that he has falsely been implicated in the case and as such the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

53. Learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellants has next submitted that there was absolutely no intention on the part of the appellant to have caused death of deceased Aziz, nor to cause any bodily injury to the him. He further submitted that considering the manner in which the incident had occurred and the role attributed to the appellant, the present case does not travel beyond the scope of the offence u/s 304 Part- II I.P.C. i.e. causing injuries with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause death. He has further submitted that the conviction of the appellants u/s 302 IPC is a result of misappreciation of evidence on record. At the most the appellant can be convicted for the offence u/s 304 Part II of IPC.

54. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt from the evidence adduced during the course of trial both intention and knowledge could be attributed to the appellant in causing the death of Aziz and, therefore, the trial court has rightly convicted the appellant under Section 302 I.P.C., which order do not require any interference.

55. Having considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and having gone through the material available on record, the only question that now falls for our consideration is that whether the conviction of the appellant would fall within the scope of Section 300 IPC or it is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable u/s under Section 304 Part I or Part II of IPC.

56. We have already gone through the evidence adduced by the prosecution and the genesis of the occurrence and the role attributed to the appellant herein. During the course of autopsy of the dead body of the deceased P.W.-5- Dr. M.K. Jain has found only one ante-mortem injury in the form of lacerated and perforating wounds 3 cm x 1.5 cm x abdominal cavity deep and the same was present below the ribs towards the left side in a 10 O'clock position, 9 cm above the umbilicus. Prosecution witnesses have stated that there was no other injury on the body of the deceased. Thus, this is a case of single blow.

57. Sections 299 and 300 of the IPC deal with the definition of 'culpable homicide' and 'murder', respectively. In terms of Section 299, 'culpable homicide' is described as an act of causing death-

(i) with the intention of causing death or

(ii) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or

(iii) with the knowledge that such an act is likely to cause death.

A bare perusal of this provision, reveal that it emphasises on the expression 'intention' while the latter upon 'knowledge'. Both these are positive mental attitudes, however, of different degrees. The mental element in 'culpable homicide', that is, the mental attitude towards the consequences of conduct is one of intention and knowledge. Once an offence is caused in any of the three stated manners, noted-above, it would be 'culpable homicide'. Section 300 IPC, however, deals with 'murder', although there is no clear definition of 'murder' in Section 300 of the IPC. In Rampal Singh vs. State of U.P., (2012) 8 SCC 289 it has been held by this Court, 'culpable homicide' is the genus and 'murder' is its species and all 'murders' are 'culpable homicides' but all 'culpable homicides' are not 'murders'.

58. The Court must address itself to the question of mens rea. If Clause thirdly of Section 300 is to be applied, the assailant must intend the particular injury inflicted on the deceased. This ingredient could rarely be proved by direct evidence. Inevitably, it is a matter of inference to be drawn from the proved circumstances of the case. The court must necessarily have regard to the nature of the weapon used, part of the body injured, extent of the injury, degree of force used in causing the injury, the manner of attack, the circumstances preceding and attendant on the attack.

59. When single injury is inflicted by the accused results in the death of the victim, no inference, as a general principle, can be drawn that the accused did not have the intention to cause the death or that particular injury which resulted in the death of the victim. Whether an accused had the required guilty intention or not, is a question of fact which has to be determined on the facts of each case.

60. Thus, while defining the offence of culpable homicide and murder, the framers of the IPC laid down that the requisite intention or knowledge must be imputed to the accused when he committed the act which caused the death in order to hold him guilty for the offence of culpable homicide or murder as the case may be. The framers of the IPC designedly used the two words 'intention' and 'knowledge', and it must be taken that the framers intended to draw a distinction between these two expressions. The knowledge of the consequences which may result in the doing of an act is not the same thing as the intention that such consequences should ensue. Except in cases where mens rea is not required in order to prove that a person had certain knowledge, he "must have been aware that certain specified harmful consequences would or could follow."

61. The phraseology of Sections 299 and 300 respectively of the IPC leaves no manner of doubt that under these Sections when it is said that a particular act in order to be punishable be done with such intention, the requisite intention must be proved by the prosecution. It must be proved that the accused aimed or desired that his act should lead to such and such consequences. For example, when under Section 299 it is said "whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death" it must be proved that the accused by doing the act,intended to bring about the particular consequence, that is, causing of death. Similarly, when it is said that "whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death" it must be proved that the accused had the aim of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death.

62. The word "intent" is derived from the word archery or 'aim'. The "act" attempted to must be with "intention" of killing a man. Intention, is a state of mind, can never be precisely proved by direct evidence as a fact; it can only be deduced or inferred from other facts which are proved. The intention may be proved by res gestae, by acts or events previous or subsequent to the incident or occurrence, on admission. Intention of a person cannot be proved by direct evidence but is to be deduced from the facts and circumstances of a case.

63. In the case of Smt. Mathri v. State of Punjab, AIR 1964 SC 986, at page 990, Das Gupta J. has explained the concept of the word 'intent'. The relevant observations are made by referring to the observations made by Batty J. in the decision Bhagwant vs. Kedari, I.L.R. 25 Bombay 202 as under:-

"The word "intent" by its etymology, seems to have metaphorical allusion to archery, and implies "aim" and thus connotes not a casual or merely possible result-foreseen perhaps as a not improbable incident, but not desired-but rather connotes the one object for which the effort is made-and thus has reference to what has been called the dominant motive, without which, the action would not have been taken."

64. In the case of Basdev vs. State of Pepsu, AIR 1956 SC 488, at page 490, the following observations have been made by Chadrasekhara Aiyar J.:-

"6. ... Of course, we have to distinguish between motive, intention and knowledge. Motive is something which prompts a man to form an intention and knowledge is an awareness of the consequences of the act. In many cases intention and knowledge merge into each other and mean the same thing more or less and intention can be presumed from knowledge. The demarcating line between knowledge and intention is no doubt thin but it is not difficult to perceive that they connote different things. Even in some English decisions, the three ideas are used interchangeably and this had led to a certain amount of confusion."

65. Bearing in mind the test suggested in the aforesaid decisions and historical background that our legislature has used two different terminologies 'intent' and 'knowledge' and separate punishments are provided for an act committed with an intent to cause bodily injury, which is likely to cause death and for an act committed with a knowledge that his act is likely to cause death without intent to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, it would be proper to hold that 'intent' and 'knowledge' cannot be equated with each other. They connote different things. Sometimes, if the consequence is so apparent, it may happen that from the knowledge, intent may be presumed. But it will not mean that 'intent' and 'knowledge' are the same. 'Knowledge' will be only one of the circumstances to be taken into consideration while determining or inferring the requisite intent.

66. In another case Pulicherla Nagaraju @ Nagaraja Reddy vs State of A.P, 2006 (11) SCC 444, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down various relevant circumstances from which the intention could be gathered. Some relevant considerations are the following:-

(i) The nature of the weapon used,

(ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot,

(iii) whether the blow is aimed at the vital part of the body,

(iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury,

(v)whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight,

(vi) whether the incident occurred by chance or whether there was any premeditation,

(vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger,

(viii) whether there was a grave or sudden provocation and if so, the cause for such provocation,

(ix) whether it was heat of passion,

(x) whether a person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel manner,

(xi)whether the accused persons has dealt a single blow or several blows.

67. Thus, requirements of law with regard to intention may be satisfied for holding an offence of culpable homicide. It is also necessary to prove specific intentions Even when such intention is not proved, the offence will be culpable homicide, if the doer of the act causes the death with the knowledge that he is likely by his such act cause death, i.e., with the knowledge that the result of his act may be such as may result in death.

68. Now we recapitulate the facts and circumstances of the case. It is an admitted case of prosecution that deceased and the appellant were engaged in business of selling meat. Their relations were cordial as PW- 2 has stated that Saleem alias Sambha has never threatened the deceased. During the course the business there arose a dispute between them, when appellant demanded his due amount Rs. 50/- which the deceased owed towards him. The deceased asked the appellant to settle the account between them and if there is any amount due upon him, he is ready to pay. On the fateful day Saleem alias Sambha called the victim and taken him to the house of Balia to settle the disputed account. It is important to note that both the parties are in relation to each other and their residences are in the same town and vicinity, to each other. They had simillar business also and generally belong to the same profession and community. Prosecution witnesses stated that there was no enmity of any kind, between them and there was not even a remote possibility that the dispute between them could result in the commission of murder by appellant but something has occurred between them during the course of conversation and in the spur of moment and sudden provocation, appellant stabbed ‘chhuri’ in the abdomen of the deceased. The weapon of assault chhuri is a common item which could be found in dwelling houses, specially where selling of meat is the business. In these circumstances it could not be inferred that appellant had a pre-planned intention to kill the deceased Aziz and from the mode of occurrence it could not be inferred that the appellant had knowledge that by his act of stabbing the deceased would receive such an injury which would likely culminate in the death of the deceased.

69. Thus, from the aforesaid discussion, we are of the view that none of the clauses of Section 300 I.P.C. are attracted as intention of the appellants to cause death or such bodily injury which he knew would cause the death of the other person or sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, is not proved. Resultantly, we are of the opinion that the appellants had not committed an offence within the meaning of Section 300 IPC, i.e., "culpable homicide amounting to murder", punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. The incident had occurred without any premeditation and on trivial matter i.e. dispute regarding meager amount of Rs.50/-. Thus, the offence committed by the appellant would fall within the meaning of "culpable homicide not amounting to murder" under Section 304 I.P.C.

70. Now the next question would be as to whether the appellant would be guilty in Part-I or Part-II of Section 304 IPC The intention probably was to pressurize by brandishing the chhuri and not to cause bodily injuries. Otherwise there would have been more than one blow, which would have surely done away with the deceased. However, in sudden provocation, the single blow proved fatal. Considering all the facts and circumstances of the case intention of appellant gathered, mode of occurrence and weapon used, nature of injury, his act falls within the province of Section 304 Part- II I.P.C.

71. In view of the foregoing discussion, we are of the opinion that the appellant is not guilty of murder punishable under Section 302 IPC but he is guilty of committing homicide not amounting to murder an offence which is punishable under Section 304 Part II IPC, we partially accept this appeal and alter the offence from that of Section 302 IPC to one under Section 304 Part II of the Indian Penal Code.

72. In the light of prolix and verbose discussions made herein above and also regard being had to the entire facts and circumstances of the case and re-appreciation of the entire evidence, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has proved its allegations beyond reasonable doubts, pointing unerringly the guilt of the accused / appellant, punishable under section 304 Part- II IPC. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the instant case, we find that the sentence of 10 years' rigorous imprisonment would serve the ends of justice adequately for the offence of which the appellant has been held guilty.

73. We, therefore, award a sentence of 10 years' rigorous imprisonment to the appellant Saleem alias Sambha. The judgment under appeal is modified and the appeal is allowed in part, accordingly.

74. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur is directed to take appellant Saleem alias Sambha in custody in the aforesaid case and send him to jail to serve out the remaining sentence awarded to him.

75. Let a copy of the judgment and order be sent to the trial court concerned for necessary compliance. The trial court record be remitted back within fifteen days. The compliance report shall be communicated to this court in a further period of two weeks, thereafter.

Criminal Appeal No. 4577 of 2005

Smt. Kaushalya ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Satyendra Narayan Singh, Girdhar Prasad Tripathi, Jagdish Prasad Mishra, P.K. Singh, Ravi Agarwal, Shishir Prakash, Swetashwa Agrawal

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate, Onkar Singh

A. Criminal Law - Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 3 - Testimony of Interested witness - A witness is normally to be considered independent unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. If on scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon. If evidence of an eye-witness, is found truthful, it can not be discarded simply because the witnesses were relatives of the deceased. The only caveat is that the evidence of relative witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In the instant case, prosecution examined seven witnesses, including PW-1 (informant and elder brother of the deceased), independent witnesses PW-2 and PW-3, who had no motive to falsely implicate the appellant. Medical and formal witnesses PW-4 to PW-7 supported the prosecution's case. Defence failed to prove any enmity between the witnesses and the appellant. Evidence of PW-1, PW-2, and PW-3 was credible. (Para 45, 46)

B. Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 134 - No particular number of witnesses is required for the proof of any fact. Evidence must be weighed, not counted. In the instant case, prosecution examined two eyewitnesses, PW-2 and PW-3, who testified that the appellant gave sugar-coated cardamom to the deceased children. PW-7, the Investigating Officer, recovered pieces of newspaper from the crime scene in which the sugar-coated cardamom had been wrapped. Forensic examination of the cardamom and the viscera of the deceased, sent to the forensic laboratory, confirmed the administration of Aluminum Phosphide to the children. However, the accused argued that the prosecution had not examined key witnesses mentioned in the charge sheet, nor had it explained why these witnesses were not examined. Held: Prosecution's established the case beyond reasonable doubt. Although several witnesses were named in the charge sheet, the law does not require the multiplication of witnesses. Absence of some witnesses in the trial does not adversely affect the prosecution's case. If the incident had occurred differently, as suggested by the defense, the accused could have examined the omitted witnesses as defense witnesses, but he chose not to do so (Para 48)

C. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -Section 364 - Power to examine the accused - It is settled proposition of law that St.ments or answers given by accused is not substantive piece of evidence and it is not sole base for convicting the accused. St.ments of accused can be used for proper appreciation of evidence to accept or reject it. Non-examination of accused under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. does not vitiate the entire proceedings or case of prosecution. Accused can make good of the same even at appellate stage. Mere defective/ improper examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is no ground for setting aside the conviction of the accused, unless it has resulted in prejudice to the accused. (Para 55, 56)

D. Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - S. 302, 304 Part-I, S. 328 - In the instant case PW-2 and PW-3 eyewitnesses, had seen the acused giving sugar coated cardamom seeds to the children. In forensic chemical examination, elaichi danas were having elements of aluminum phosphide, as a result of which, three innocent children died. Accused appellant did not have any strong motive and animosity, but has acted in a sudden emotion without pre-concerted plan. She has a knowledge that if someone take aluminum posphide he might be dead. Hence, the accused-appellant convicted and sentenced under Section 304 Part-I of IPC and 328 I.P.C. Trial court has not imposed the fine in either of the Sections, which is integral part of the sentence under those sections. Accused appellant served about 26 years of the sentence awarded. Accused was directed to be released for the period already undergone u/s 304 Part-I of IPC and a fine of Rs.2,00,000/-, which will go to the to their father. Conviction and sentence awarded u/s 328 IPC shall remain intact with the modification that she will further pay a fine of Rs.1,00,000/-. In case of default, she will serve six months additional imprisonment. (Para 73)

1. The present appeal has been oscillating before this Court from the year 2005, the accused appellant Smt. Kaushalya has been convicted u/s 302, 328 IPC and sentenced to life imprisonment. Swinging of the appeal years together due to procedural technicalities and change of counsel is only a device to narrow down the advancement of fair justice, which cannot be gainsay to a person who has been gasping with life in jail. Since the accused appellant has been incarcerating in jail from 2004, and paper book has been prepared way back in the year 2022, therefore, this appeal cannot be permitted to remain hanging on any technicality. The basic objective of concluding a trial is to protect the life and liberty of a person, serving a sentence in jail. The life and liberty of the accused cannot be downsized on the score of any technicality or negation of counsel to address the Court.

2. The instant appeal has been preferred on behalf of the appellant Smt. Kaushalya, u/s 374(2) Cr.P.C., assailing the judgment and order dated 05.09.2005, passed by the learned Special Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffar Nagar, in Sessions Trial No.1040 of 2004 (State versus Narendra and Another), arising out of Case Crime No. 81 of 2004, Police station Rtan Puri, District-Muzaffar Nagar, under Sections 302, 328 Indian Penal Code 1860 (in short, further referred as IPC), whereby the accused appellant Smt. Kaushalya was convicted for the offence under Sections 302, 328 IPC, and sentenced for the offence punishable under sections 302 IPC to undergo life imprisonment and for the offence punishable under section 328 IPC to serve out ten years rigorous imprisonment. Both sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. The genesis of prosecution story, as emanates from record, in a narrow compass, is that on 27.06.2004 at about 12.05 p.m. Pramod Kumar father of the deceased, informed to the P. S. Ratan Puri that he went to his field alongwith his three children daughter Annu aged about 11 years, and sons Shivam aged about 8 years and Satyam aged about 4 years, He sent the children to fetch water from government hand-pipe located in the vicinity to harijan temple, near chak road. When returned, they fell unconscious and fainted. He informed about the incident to his elder brother Prem, who alongwith Ram Niwas taken the children to hospital of Dr. Narendra Tyagi at khetauli where he declared Shivam and Satyam to have been brought dead and later Annu also died. This information was enterd in the G.D. No.16 at 12.05 p.m. dated 27.06.2004 at police station Ratan Puri. On the basis of this information SHO went on the spot, inquest proceedings were conducted and the deceased children were sent for autopsy.

4. On 28.06.2004, at about 08.00 a.m. informant Prem gave a tehrir, scribed by Rakesh Kumar Sharma, reiterating above facts and divulging some additional facts, against Narendra (since deceased) and the accused/appellant Smt. Kaushalya, (wife of Narendra), at Police Station Ratan Puri, in respect of the incident occurred on 27.6.2004 at about 9.30 a.m. divulging therein that on 27.6.2004, Pramod Kumar, elder brother of complainant Prem, had gone to his field at about 7.30 a.m. on a Buggi along with his daughter Annu aged about 11 years, and sons Shivam aged about 8 years and Satyam aged about 4 years. Pramod Kumar had sent his children to fetch water from government hand pump, situated in the proximity of Harijan Temple. When his children were coming back taking water and reached near the Chakroad, the accused Narendra (since deceased) and his wife Kaushalya (the appellant) hailing to Brahman community supplied them devotional offering (prasad) in the shape of cardamom seeds, coated with sugar (Ilaychi Dana) wrapped in a pieces of newspaper. At that crucial moment, Krishna Pal s/o Shiv Ram and Praveen s/o Deep Chand who were going to their fields via Chakroad, had seen appellant supplying the devotional offering (Prasad) to those children. The children lost their consciousness and fainted in the field. Pramod informed him about the incident. They had taken the children to nursing home of Dr. Narendra Kumar Tyagi, located at Khatuli. where doctor declared them dead. The children of Pramod died on account of devouring poisonous devotional offering (Prasad) given by Narendra (since deceased) and Smt. Kaushalya (present appellant). The said incident/ fact had come in his notice on the information given by the witnesses.

5. On the basis of the aforementioned tehrir Ext. Ka-1, Case Crime No.81 of 2004 under Sections 302/328 IPC was registered against the accused i.e. present appellant Smt. Kaushalya and her husband Narendra (since deceased). Particulars of the same were drawn in Kaimi G.D. No. 12, Ext. According to the opinion of the witnesses of the inquest, the death of those children happened on account of devouring of poisonous stuff. I.O. subscribed to the opinion of the panchan (witnesses). Panchnamas (Inquest reports) of the deceased children were duly prepared on 27.6.2004 and signatures of witnesses were obtained over the inquest reports.

7. After carrying out the necessary formalities, inclusive of handing over of letter to C.M.O, Photo Lash, Lash Challan etc, dead bodies of children duly wrapped in the cloth and sealed and then were taken to the mortuary for autopsy. The documents with regard to autopsy of the deceased children were handed over to constable 165 Ram Beer and constable 73 Chatar Pal. The post mortem of the deceased children namely Annu aged about 11 years, Shivam aged about 8 years and Satyam aged about 4 years was conducted on 27.6.2004 at about 10.00 p.m. onward at District Hospital Muzaffar Nagar by Dr. Yogendra Tirkha ad postmortem reports of all the three deceased children Ext Ka-3, Ka-4, Ka-5 were prepared by the autopsy surgeon.

The said incriminating material was taken into possession by the police and recovery memo of the same was prepared. 15. The accused/appellant has examined DW-1 Abdul Haq, in ocular defence evidence.

16. The learned trial court, after examining the entire material on record, scrutinizing testimonies of the prosecution witnesses and also evaluating the oral and documentary evidence, came to the conclusion that there is a complete chain of evidence showing the complicity of the accused appellant in the commission of said crime and the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubts, pointing the guilt against the accused person including, appellant, Smt. Kaushalya under Sections 302 and 328 I.P.C, and sentenced her as stated herein above. Felt aggrieved, the appellant preferred the present criminal appeal.

17. We have heard Sri Arvind Kumar Mishra as well as Giridhar Prasad Tripathi, learned counsel appearing on behalf of appellant and Sri Onkar Singh and Sri Arun Kumar Pandey, learned counsels appearing on behalf of complainant, and learned AGA representing the State, in extenso and taken through entire record.

18. Learned counsel for the appellant assailed the impugned judgment of conviction and sentence on various grounds and advanced several arguments in this respect. He submitted that accused/ appellant has been falsely roped in the case. I.O. has involved him in the instant case on basis of presumptions. The impugned judgment and order of the learned trial court is against the facts, law and weight of evidence on record. Learned trial court completely misread, misappreciated and miscrutinized the evidence on record and had sentenced appellant too severely.

19. Learned counsel for the appellant further argued that the appellant is a lady and is languishing in jail merely on the dint of suspicion. There on material inconsistencies and discrepancies in the prosecution version. There are blatant and glaring contradiction between the statement and witnesses of the prosecution had made improvements in their deposition and had narrated the manner of incident in such a way which cannot be perceived by ordinary course of diligence and prudence. There is material inconsistency in the postmortem reports. The investigation was also done in a pedantic and lackadaisical manner with the oblique motive of implicating the appellant on the undue pressure of witnesses of fact. The recovery of incriminating articles on the pointing of accused appellant is also highly untrustworthy and dubious. There is no material from the side of the prosecution to evince that the accused appellant had harbored any vengeance against the complainant Pramod as a consequence of which she had given poisonous devotional offerings, mixed with aluminum phosphide to his three children. The witnesses of fact are kith and kin of complainant and have supported the prosecution case fabricating a false story. The presence of the prosecution witnesses at the place of occurrence was highly doubtful and do not really commend any acceptance for their testimony. Tangible materials were elicited from the evidence of the prosecution witnesses in cross examination by which their testimony is not found to be trustworthy. The chain of evidence and circumstances is also not complete, so as to conclusively establish that the accused/appellant is the actual perpetrator of dreadful crime. Some unknown miscreants who were nurturing animus and grudge against him, succeeded in their venomous and filthy design of eliminating his children by offering cardamom mixed with aluminum phosphide. The accused/appellant had no animus against the complainant and his children, whereby she had taken drastic step of offering cardamom with aluminum phosphide to them . The prosecution could also not prove any motive against the accused/appellant which actuated her to take such a drastic step of ruining her own life. In a gruesome cases where witnesses of fact are expected to give an account of true version, there is always probability of tutoring them because of influence of interested and partisan persons. There is no independent and impartial witness to support the prosecution version. The prosecution has failed to show that in all human probability, the act must have been done by the accused appellant. The conviction and sentence awarded to the accused/appellant under Sections 302/328 IPC is not sustainable and the impugned order dated 05.09.2005 may be set aside and the accused appellant may be set at liberty. It is also to be noted that the chain of facts and circumstances pointing towards the guilt of the accused appellant is not complete. The defence witness had given his statement in a very fair and impartial manner on the basis of which the entire prosecution story rests. The prosecution has failed to prove the guilt beyond reasonable doubt.

20. Per contra, learned AGA has opposed the contention raised by the learned counsel for the appellant contending that there is no embellishment in the prosecution version. The children died on account of devouring the devotional offerings (Prasad) mixed with aluminium phosphide. The prosecution witness has narrated entire incident in a very intrinsic and natural way. It is a case of homicidal death. The incident has taken place in broad day light at the public place in the presence of the witnesses, who supported the prosecution version in examination-in-chief as well as cross examination. There is a chain of evidence to demonstrate that deceased children were supplied cardamom mixed with aluminum phosphide, as a result of which, they fainted and ultimately succumbed to their injuries. The supplying of cardamom mixed with aluminum phosphide is sufficient to demonstrate that the accused-appellant had already nurtured animus and grudge to eleminate the victims. The accused-appellant was taken into custody and confessed to her guilt. The incriminating materials were recovered on her pointing out. In case, there is any variation or omission in the examination will not dismantle the entire prosecution version and will absolve the accused appellant from the guilt. The non-examination of any witness, who was illustrated in the list of charge-sheet will also not destroy the prosecution version in entirety.

21. In order to prove their case, parties have adduced the evidence. Let us examine, analyse and scrutinize the contentions, advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A, on anvil of the evidence adduced by them, the undisputed facts and circumstances and entire material on record. This opens door for us to enter into the prosecution evidence on record.

22. The prosecution has examined P.W.-1 Prem s/o Rajaram, who has deposed that present incident had occurred on

27.06.2004, He was present at his house. His younger brother Pramod in the company of his three children namely Annu aged about 11 years, Shivam aged about 8 years and Satyam aged about 4 years, had gone in a Buggi at his field at about 7.30 a.m. Pramod had sent his children to fetch water from the hand-pump located near the temple of Harijans. When they were returning towards the field, taking water in a container and appeared on the chakroad in front of road, Narendra (now deceased) and his wife Kaushalya (present appellant) gave cardamom to those children in a pieces of newspaper. Krishan Pal and Parveen alias Pravindra, hailing to the same village, were going towards their field had witnessed the process of handing over of devotional offer to those children. After devouring the devotional offering, those children had fallen fainted and withered. On information, the complainant, his brother Pramod and younger brother Ram Niwas, as well as, his son Sunil arranged to carry and admit those children in the nursing home of Dr. Narendra Kumar Tyagi, located at Khatauli. All the three children namely Annu aged about 11 years, Shivam aged about 8 years and Satyam aged about 4 years were declared dead by the doctor. Subsequent thereto, those children were brought at home. On 28.06.2004, when children were taken to bury, then Kishan Pal and Parveen disclosed that Narendra and Kaushalya had supplied cardamom to those children before him. On 28.06.2004 he had given information to the Police Station Ratanpuri through a written tehrir, scribed by Rakesh Kumar Sharma and duly signed by him, with respect to that incident. The said written report was duly marked as Ext. Ka-1. He had given application before the District Magistrate concerned on 27.04.2004 for autopsy deceased children because the doctors of the hospital were not conducting the post mortem. He had also proved the application exhibited as Ka-6/1. During the course of cross examination of PW- 1 this fact surfaced that Raj Pal and Kishan Pal s/o Sheo Raj were hailing from the same lineage and were witness of that incident. Praveen alias Pravindra s/o Daulat Ram was also hailing to the same pedigree and was also witness of the incident. The brother of Praveen was Om Prakash and the son of Om Prakash was Aadesh. He was also a witness of the incident. The complainant and Pramod were living in the same house. The house of Kishan Pal was located at a distance of 60 yards. The field where Pramod was working was in his possession. There was a demarcation line between the field of Praveen and Pramod. The field of Kishan Pal was located in the south east of the field of Pramod. The field of Shriniwas was located towards west. There was a distance of about 180 yards from the field of Pramod towards south path of temple. The house of the culprit was situated at a distance of 200 yards from temple. There were 8-9 houses in between. There was no school in the vicinity of offenders. He was informed by the children about the incident. At the place of occurrence, Pramod, Ram Niwas Sunil and a number of persons of the locality were present. Unconscious children were lying on the chakroad running towards the field of Pramod. Those children who were taken to Khatauli in unconscious condition were brought back at about 11.45 a.m. in dead condition. Pramod, Ram Niwas and Sunil had gone at the hospital in a motor cycle. The full particular of the complainant was noted by the doctor. Two children were declared brought dead. One child who was in an unconscious condition was being treated and during treatment he died. Pramod had gone at the police station from Khatauli. Aadesh Kumar had also gone to Khatauli. Pramod had comeback to village in between 15-20 minutes after arrival of complainant. It was about 12.15 (noon) and the police personnel had also come with Pramod. He had not seen Praveen and Kishan Pal at the place of occurrence. When the corpse of children was brought from Khatauli, he did not see them. There was a gathering on the arrival of police personnel. The police personnel stayed in the village about 3'1/2 to 4 hours. In the meantime, he did not see Praveen and Krishna Pal. He could not recollect as to whether any person from the family of Praveen was present there. The daughter in law of Krishna Pal was present. Rajpal, Tejpal, daughter in law and his son were present there. The complainant and Pramod had accompanied to the police personnel who were carrying the corpse of those children. Praveen and Kishan Pal came across to the complainant on the next day at about 4 to 5 'O'clock, when the corpse of those children were to be buried. After autopsy the corpse of those children came in the village at about 1'1/2 to 2 'O'clock. Praveen and Kishan Pal and other people of village did not come at the night. There was distance of 14 to 15 house from the house of Praveen and 6-7 house from the house of Kishan Pal. Kishan Pal and Praveen did not come across to him on 27.06.2004. After burying the corpse of those children, the report was got written by Rakesh. Praveen and Kishan Pal were not present at the moment of getting the report lodged. The message was sent to relatives on telephone and Rakesh had come on the same night. Rajpal and Attar Singh had gone at the police station with the complainant. The house of the offenders was situated at a distance of 200 to 250 yards. This fact was not incorporated in the first information report that Kaushalya and her husband were playing the skill of black magic (Tantrik). This fact was divulged by him in his statement. The house of Sripat was located at a distance of 50-60 yard. The house of Sivani s/o Preetam was situated at a distance of 300 yards. Srikrishna and Siwani were also playing the skill of hocus pocus but they were not distributing the devotional offering. The complainant or his relative never approached the miscreants for the purpose of black magic. Narendra had got a case registered against complainant and Krishna Pal with respect to mar peet in which he was sent to jail and was released on bail. The said incident had occurred prior to 6-7 years. There has not been any property dispute between complainant and Narendra. He was not aware with respect to any legal proceeding between Deep Chand and Praveen. The police personnel arrived at the village in a span of 1-2 hours after registration of report. The team of police remained in the village at about 10-11 hours. The police personnel had gone at the place of occurrence. The police personnel came back at his house from the place of occurrence. The police personnel remained present at the field about 5 to 7 minutes. The devotional offering was not distributed to the village folk by the person who were getting the black magic done. He supported the prosecution version and the defence could not derive anything to belie the prosecution case. He narrated the prosecution story in a most natural way. He denied that he had lodged the first information report against them on account of grudge and animus. The narration of facts with respect to happening of said incident perpetrated by the accused leaves no shadow of doubt to suspect their conduct.

23. In authentication of its stand, the prosecution has examined P.W.-2 Krishna Pal who has averred that he was well familiar with the accused Narendra and his wife Kaushalya. They are resident of same village. He was also well conversant with Satyam aged about 4 years, Shivam aged about 8 years and Km. Annu aged about 11 years, offspring of Pramod. The progeny of Pramod namely Satyam, Shivam and Km. Annu died of about 1'1/2 years back. On the fateful day of occurrence, the P.W.2 Krishnapal and Praveen hailing to the same village were going towards their field. It was about 9.30 a.m. when the aforesaid children reached in the proximity of Chak road, P.W.2 Krishna Pal and Praveen were also going towards that chakroad. Narendra (accused) tore a piece of paper and supplied to Kaushalya (now appellant). In the piece of newspaper, cardamom was placed. The said children began to devour the cardamom before them. The children proceeded towards their field and P.W.2 Krishna Pal and Praveen proceeded towards their fields. P.W.2 Krishna Pal came back from his field at the evening, it was informed by his wife that three children of Pramod had expired. The last rites of the children was held next day morning.

24. It was divulged by P.W.2 Krishna Pal to Prem at the crematory ground that the accused had supplied devotional offering (Prasad) to those children. He had given the description of the adjoining area. There is a chakroad towards east abutting the field of Pramod. The field of Praveen is located towards east of chakroad. The field of P.W.2 Krishna Pal was not located towards south of the field of Pramod. The field of Ram Niwas and Vinod was located. The field of P.W.2 Krishna Pal was located towards east-south. The sugarcane crop was standing in the field of Praven at that point of time. The tubewell was installed in the direction of north-west of the field of Pramod. The tubewell was standing towards the corner of field and Chakroad. The field of Sriniwas was located towards west of Pramod. Sriniwas did not have any other field except that one. P.W.2 Krishna Pal had about 75 Bigha land and Praveen had about 20-22 bigha land adjoining to each other towards south. Pramod had about 8-9 Bigha land. P.W.2 Krishna Pal did not have any information what Pramod was doing in his field. In the field of Pramod, the crop of sugarcane was existing and the height of sugarcane was upto knee. P.W.2 Krishna Pal had seen Pramod. Pramod was working with shovel in his field. P.W.2 Krishna Pal was looking after his bottle gourd (Lauki). P.W.2 Krishna Pal was not aware with respect to functioning of Praveen. He could not see Pramod and Praveen from his field. His house was situated at a distance of 5-6 house. The house of Rajpal and Tejpal was situated in the vicinity of his house. P.W.2 Krishna Pal remained present at night in his house. During cross-examination, it has come in light that accused Narendra had lodged a report against P.W.2 Krishna Pal, Tejpal, Sudhir, Rajpal and Prem in the year 1999 with respect to marpit. In that case, P.W.2 Krishna Pal was released on bail. He has proved his presence in his field at the crucial moment of incident. He supported the prosecution case and has unfolded the incident without any embellishment.

25. In corroboration of occurrence, the prosecution has also examined P.W.-3 Parvindra Sharma who has averred that he was well conversant with accused Narendra and his wife Kaushalya. On 27.06.2004 he along with Kishan Pal was going towards their fields at about 9.30 a.m. Annu aged about 11 years, Shivam aged about 8 years and Satyam aged about 4 years, the children of Pramod, were going towards their field taking water in a container.

He returned from his field in the evening. His wife informed him that three children of Pramod had expired. P.W.3 Parvindra Sharma immediately went at the house of Pramod. There was none at his house. The ladies were lamenting and bewailing. He told the fact supplying cardamom to those children after their last cremation, to Prem at about 6-6:30 a.m. Narendra and his wife were playing black magic. In his cross-examination, the witness stated that those children had met him at the turning point of chakroad leading to road. He is at a distance of 200 metres. He had gone to remove the shrubs from his field. Pramod was present and was doing some work in his field at a distance of 60 paces from Tubewell. The field of Kishan Pal was also located towards south to his field. The field of Vinod and Ram Niwas was located towards south to the field of Pramod. This fact was brought in the notice of Station Officer concerned that Narendra was playing black magic and in case Station Officer concened did not mention it in his statement, he could not be held responsible for it. He made his best to prove the prosecution case and the defence could not elicit anything to belie it. The defence had not been able to cull out any aberration or deviation in the prosecution to create any suspicion about its genesis rather P.W.3 had fully proved his presence on the fateful day of occurrence and divulged the shape of incident in a very intrinsic and natural manner.

26. In corroboration of the prosecution case P.W.-4 Dr. Narendra Kumar Tyagi was examined, who has deposed that he had set up a Nursing Home in Kasba-Khtauli, which has got its popularity in the name and style of Tyagi Nursing Home. P.W.4 Dr. Narendra Kumar Tyagi had presented relevant OPD Register in which at the serial numbers 2457 name of Shivam, at 2458 Satyam and 2459 name of Annu respectively was mentioned. He proved that this material was exhibited as Ex. Ka-2/1. It was also proved that those children were brought by Ram Niwas. The children were drenched in excreta and urine. He proved the OPD Register and after tallying from original represented photo copy registered and proved it Ext. Ka-2/1. There was clear mention with respect to admission of Shivam, Satyam and Annu in Tyagi Nursing Home in the OPD register. Defence could not draw any benefit to create suspicion in prosecution story.

27. The prosecution has examined PW- 5 Dr. Yogendra Tirkha, who conducted autopsy of the deceased children. He has stated that he was posted as Physician in District Hospital Muzaffar Nagar on 27.06.2004. Both accused persons were kept at the police station at 18:50 'O'clock. On 30.06.2004, constable Ramveer Singh was given incriminating materials collected from the place of occurrence with respect to the said incident in six containers inclusive of viscera pertaining to deceased Annu, Shivam and Satyam for chemical analysis. This material aspect was also entered in the Case Diary. On 04.07.2004, the statement of Smt. Poonam w/o Pramod Kumar and the witnesses of fact namely Suneel, Praveen was entered in the Case Diary. On 10.07.2004, the statement of Dr. Narendra Kumar Tyagi was recorded. After carrying out the investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted the charge-sheet against the accused appellant and Narendra. In the court of Learned CJM. The witness duly proved the charge sheet as Ext. Ka-25. Viscera preserved was sent to forensic laboratory Agra.

32. The viscera report of the forensic laboratory Agra with respect to absorption of aluminum phosphide in the cardamom as a devotional offering, was obtained and proved as Ext. Ka- 26.

33. In Viscera report following facts were found:-

Aluminum phosphide is a highly toxic stuff, which causes profound shock, myocarditis and multi-organ failure leading to death. The defence could not draw any material to belie the prosecution case, rather there has been consistent material in support of prosecution pointing towards the guilt of accused persons.

34. During the course of interrogation in the trial, opportunity was given to the appellant to put his defence and explanation in rebuttal of the charges leveled against her.

35. The defence had produced D.W.1 Abdul Haq, Assistant Record Keeper, Muzaffar Nagar. He had produced the daily activities register. Police Station Ratnapuri. According to Daily Activities Register, on 27.06.2004, Constable Dharmpal Singh was entrusted the work of surveillance of Police Station. The said constable was not sent anywhere on 27.06.2004. In Report No.16 at 18:05 hours, it is incorporated that Constable Dharmpal Singh was entrusted the work of serving summon to Ram Manohar, in Government Hospital, Muzaffar Nagar. That summon dated 30.06.2004 was issued from the A.D.J., Court No.1. Thereafter, there was no mention of any return of Constable Dharam Pal Singh on 27.06.2004. According to Daily Activities Register dated 28.06.2004, the return of Constable Dharmpal Singh was entered in Report No.11 at about 7:45 a.m. There was no mention in Daily Activities Register with regard to further departure of Constable Dharmpal Singh on 28.06.2004. According to Daily Activities Register dated 27.06.2004, in Report No.16 at about 12:05 'O'clock, there is mention of written information of Pramod Kumar. The said information was copied in G.D. There is also mention of departure of D.S. Verma, Station Officer in the said G.D., with police personnel, but there was no mention of return of D.S. Verma, Station Officer in the G.D. dated 27.06.2004. He did not lend support to G.D. dated 27.04.2004 and 28.04.2008. It was disclosed by him that G.D. was in the supervision of Surendra Kumar Sharma, Record Keeper, S.S.P. Office. In his absence, D.W.-1 Abdul Haq used to look after his work. There is cutting in G.D. Report No.22 at about 22:30 hours on 27.06.2004. D.W.-1 Abdul Haq could not mention the duty hour of Constable Dharmpal Singh on 27.06.2004. There was also overwriting in G.D. dated 27.06.2004 bearing Report No.6, site plan bearing Serial No.15. There was no signature on the cutting. D.W.-1 Abdul Haq could not disclose the name of person, who had put signature on G.D. dated 28.06.2004 bearing Report No.11 at about 7:45 hours. He disowned that he had given this statement in collusion with accused persons. There had been some aberration and deviation in the statement of defence witness Abdul Haq, who had created some suspicion with respect to verity and probity of prosecution story.

36. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that appellant has been falsely roped in the case, as complainant had grudge anguish and animosity against her. Learned A.G.A. refuted the contention of the appellant and submitted that there was no enmity of complainant against the appellant. In this behalf, it may be mentioned that it is axiomatic that enmity is a double edged weapon. On the one hand, it may be instrumental to rope the accused in a false case, at the same time it may be the real cause of the incident too. Therefore, benefit of the enmity may go to either of the parties, depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. The moot point is whether at the time of incident there existed any enmity between complainant and the appellant.

37. PW-1 Prem has stated in his testimony that accused Narendra has lodged a criminal case against him and Krishna Pal regarding an incident of marpeet, 6-7 years ago in the year 1999 before the present incident. PW-2 Krishna Pal has corroborated the statement of PW-1. However, both the witnesses denied lodging of any FIR against the appellant-accused and testifying out of jealousy. PW-3 has stated that Narendra has never lodged any report against him. There is no land dispute between Narendra and him. However, a lis is pending between his Tau and Narendra, but he has no concerned with his Tau. Learned counsel for the appellant has tried to show that the appellant has been falsely implicated due to incident between the complainant and the appellant. The complained incident related to simple marpeet. The said incident is about 6-7 years old to the present incident. Even if, taken it to be true, the burden of proving this facts lies upon the appellant that she was roped due to that enmity, but appellant failed to discharge her burden in this behalf. It is common knowledge that in villages some disputes arise on trivial pretext amongst the rustic villagers. But they are solved due to lapse of time suo motu. In the present case, the said incident of small marpeet, has occurred 6-7 years prior to the present incident. Even FIR has not been lodged of that incident by either of the parties. Therefore, it could not be said to be of such a nature, which could be the reason to rope appellant falsely, leaving the real culprit. Therefore, the argument of learned counsel for the appellant pertaining to enmity is not tenable.

38. Learned counsel for the appellant has audaciously urged that there was no motive for the appellant to commit the aforesaid crime. The prosecution could also not prove any motive against the accused/appellant which actuated her to take such a drastic step of ruining her own life. In a gruesome cases where witnesses of fact are expected to give an account of true version, there is always probability of tutoring them because of influence of interested and partisan persons. Learned A.G.A. has refuted this argument of the learned counsel for the appellant. He went on arguing that accused-appellant had strong motive of eliminating to the children as she was well aware that aluminum phosphide is highly toxic inorganic compound and can cause irritation of the nose, mouth, throat and lungs leading to death of the consumer. The testimony of the witnesses is trust worthy and reliable. No explanation has been given by the accused appellant as to how and in what manner the victims died of devouring devotional offerings. The evidence led by the prosecution witnesses is consistent with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused appellant. There is no other hypothesis except the guilt of the accused appellant. Mere conviction and sentence as well as incarceration of the accused/ appellant will not assuage or mitigate the severity and barbarity of offence wherein innocent children have died of in a grotesque and ruthless manner. The death of the minor children in such a planned manner shook the heart of the general folk. The appellant has failed to bring on record any material as to why she was implicated leaving to the actual culprit. It has also been argued by learned AGA that even in case there is no motive but prosecution case is proved by eye witness account of credible and reliable evidence, motive looses its importance. He relied upon Ramasheesh vs, Jagdish Singh 2005 A.I.A.R. 62 in support of his argument.

39. In view of the above submissions of learned counsels for the parties it may be mentioned that every criminal trial is a voyage of discovery in which nectar in the form of quest is churned and gleaned from the fathomless ocean. A duty is cast on the Presiding Officer to explore every avenue in order to discover the truth and advance the cause of justice.

(I) In present case incident has taken place in broad day light, in open place. PW- 2 Krishna Pal, PW- 3 Pravindra Sharma and PW- 7 D.N. Verma has proved the prosecution case by there cognate, credible and trustworthy evidence. In Ramasheesh (supra) and in a plethora of other cases Hon'ble Apex court has held that were prosecution case is proved by a eye witness upon of relible and credible evidence, motive looses its importance and occupies the backseat.

(II) Besides, PW- 1 Prem, PW- 2 Krishna Pal and PW- 3 Pravindra Sharma has clearly stated in their statement that accused/ appellant who hails from Brahman Community are engaged in black magic activities for personal gains. There are many other people in the village who are engaged in the same activities. Such people used to do these activities adopting tantra mantra (occult) techniques in favour of their clients. Appellant might have been actuated to commit the incident in order to do favour of some client or even for herself, for she knew the consequences of taking aluminum phosphide and there is clear evidence that supplying the poison in sugar coated cardamom to the innocent teen-aged children without showing any humanitarian attitude.

(III) Learned counsel for the appellant has contended that appellant is not engaged in necromancy activities and there is no reference in FIR of this fact and the same disclosed by the witnesses for the first time in their deposition in the Court. It is nothing but afterthout improvement in the prosecution version. Learned AGA opposed this contention. In this behalf it may be mentioned that it is well settled that FIR is not an encyclopedia, where in each and every minutes detail of incident be mentioned. In a case where three minor innocent children have died in a family, it is not expected that the complainant will think the things in technical manner or with a view to involved criminal litigation in a criminal court. All the three witnesses of facts have vividly deposed that appellant are engaged in occult activities. Although appellant in her statement under section 313 Cr.P.C has taken a defence that she has not distributed prasad. However, she has not adduced any evidence in corroboration of her statement. Distribution of such kind of devotional offering (prasad) to innocent victims might be a technique to impress upon their clients.

(IV) As it will be further discussed hereinafter that the prosecution has successfully proved by direct and credible evidence, its case, against the appellant. Hon'ble Apex court in a catena of decisions have observed that where in a criminal trial prosecution has established it case by direct and credible evidence, motive looses its importance and occupies backseat. In the present case also prosecution has established its version by credible and trustworthy evidence,therefore, motive looses its importance. Besides, there is a strong motive to commit the crime in view of occult activities of the appellant. therefore, motive is diluted and did not affects the prosecution case by any means.

40. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued that witnesses produced by the prosecution are partisan, inimical to the appellants and interested and not independent witness. They are unreliable and as such no credence can be attached to their testimony and their deposition is not reliable. Hence, their evidence deserves to be discarded. Learned A.G.A. refuted the contention of the learned counsel for the appellant. He submitted that ordinarily a closed relative would not spare the real culprit who has caused the death and implicate an innocent person. It will be beneficial to have a bird's eye view of the law on the issue and evaluation of testimonies of such witnesses.

41. The aforesaid submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that prosecution witnesses are partisan and inimical to appellant, was thoroughly considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Daleep Singh Vs. State of Punjab reported in AIR 1953 SC 364 and enunciated the following principles:-

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

42. In a three Judges Bench of the Supreme Court of India in Hari Obula Reddy Vs. State of A.P. reported in (1981) 3 SCC 675 observed as under:-

"13. ...it is well settled that interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. Even partisanship by itself is not a valid ground for discrediting or rejecting sworn testimony. Nor can it be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon."

43. Again, in S. Sudershan Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P reported in (2006) 10 SCC 163, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"12. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interests of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution

version. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyze evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

15. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh case in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the Members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses."

44. It is well known that there may be three kinds of witnesses:-

(I) Wholly reliable,

(ii) Wholly unreliable, and

(iii) Partly reliable and partly unreliable,

There is no problem to evaluate testimony of wholly reliable or wholly unreliable witnesses, but it is different to deal with the witness, who are partly reliable and partly unreliable. The court has to be very careful in evaluation of such kind of witnesses.

45. Thus, Hon'ble Apex Court in its enumerable decisions has categorically held that if evidence of an eye-witness, is found truthful, it can not be discarded simply because the witnesses were relatives of the deceased. The only caveat is that the evidence of relative witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution.

46. It is germane to point out here that the prosecution has examined as many as seven witnesses in support of its version. Out of which PW-1 informant Prem, is the elder brother of the Pramod, whose deceased children has fallen prey of the incident and Tau of the deceased children. Although, he is not an eye-witness of the incident, but on receiving the information about the diabolic and faint state of health of the deceased children, he reached at the spot and was instrumental in taking the deceased children for medical treatment to Tyagi Nurshing Home at Khetauli and informing police for afterward proceedings and inquest, postmortem and cremation of the deceased children PW-2 Krishna Pal and PW-3 Ravindra Sharma are public witnesses of facts. PW-4 Dr. Narendra Kumar Tyagi and PW-5 Dr. Yogendra Tirkha are the witness of medical treatment and post-mortem. PW-6 is the head moharrir and formal witness, while PW-7 S.H.O. D.N. Verma is the Investigating Officer. Thus, PW-4 to PW-7 are formal witnesses. PW-2 and PW-3 are independent witnesses, so there is no possibility for them to implicate the appellant falsely. As discussed herein above, defence has not been able to point out any such enmity of PW-1 informant Prem, PW-2 Krishna Pal and PW-3 Ravindra Sharma, against appellant which could be considered a cause of false implication of the appellant. Therefore, their evidence could not be said to be devoid of credence and could not be discarded. Nevertheless, in view of the law discussed above they should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution.

47. Learned counsel for the appellant has urged that first information report in this case is inordinately delayed and ante-timed. It is the result of embellishment which is a creation of after thought. The incident in the case alleged to have occurred on 27.06.2004 at 09:30 a.m., while its FIR has been lodged on 28.06.2004 at 08:00 a.m. the distance of the place of occurrence from the police station is about six kilometers only. The prosecution has not furnished any satisfactory explanation of this delay. Learned A.G.A has dispelled the contention of the appellant, and argued that it was a case of day light murder of two teenaged brothers and a sister. After taking the sugar coated cardamom seeds (elaichi dana) all the three children reached in the sugarcane field, where their father Pramod was working. They lost their consciousness and fainted in the field. Pramod informed to his elder brother Prem about their condition, then Prem and Ram Niwas reached there and taken them to the hospital of doctor Narendra Kumar Tyagi, for treatment. By then two of the children were found already dead, while the third one died after some time. Pramod father of the deceased children informed to the police station concerned. The perusal of the record shows that his information was entered in to the General Diary No.16, 12:05 p.m. dated 27.06.2004, Police Station Ratan Puri. The carbon copy of this G.D. is on record. PW-7 Investigating Officer D.N. Verma has proved its entry in G.D. by uttering that he has entered the scribed information given by Pramod Kumar on 27.06.2004 at about 12:05 p.m., in this G.D. He has further stated that on the basis of the information he proceeded to the place of occurrence i.e. the house of Pramod kumar, where the corpses of the children were lying and under his supervision the inquest proceeding were conducted, over which, signatures of the witnesses were obtained. He proved the inquest reports as Ext. Ka-7, 12 & 17 respectively. After completion of inquest proceedings, Photo Lash, Chitthi C.M.O., Chitthi R.I., Challan Lash, were prepared and the dead bodies of the children were wrapped in clothes and sealed. The witness proved these papers as Ext. Ka.-7, Ka.-8, Ka.-9, Ka.-10 and Ext. Ka.-11. Ext. Ka.-12 to Ext. Ka.-16 and Ext. Ka.-17 to Ext. Ka.-21. The dead bodies were sent to the district hospital for the postmortem. All the proceedings were completed on 27.06.2004 on the basis of information entered in to above stated G.D. No.16 by PW-6. From the facts and the circumstances of the case it emanates that the crime has been committed in a very brutal and diabolical manner shaking the conscience and heart of public at large. Naturally the entire family of the deceased children would be engulfed in utter disturbance and sorrow. Nevertheless, the investigation continued through out and further on-wards when on 28.06.2004 the written tehrir was presented by the complainant Prem, wherein he disclosed the names of the accused also. Thus, there was no time and opportunity to torn and twist the facts of the case and to lodge the F.I.R. with complete details disclosing the name of real culprits as furnished by the eye witnesses PW-2 and PW-3. Thus, the delay in lodging the FIR in a formal way is self-explanatory and it did not adversely affect the prosecution case.

48. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that prosecution has not examined prime witnesses mentioned in charge sheet, nor has it explained as to why theses witnesses has not been examined. On this count adverse inference may be drawn against the truthfulness of the prosecution case. Learned A.G.A. has repelled the contention of the learned counsel for the appellant. In a very illustrating judgment Vadivelu Thevar v.

State of Madras AIR 1957 SC 614, the Apex Court has held as under:-

11. ".The contention that in a murder case, the court should insist upon plurality of witnesses, is much too broadly stated. The Indian Legislature has not insisted on laying down any such exceptions to the general rule recognized in Section. 134 which by laying down that "no particular number of witnesses shall, in any case, be required for the proof of any fact" has enshrined the well recognized maxim that "Evidence has to be weighed and not counted." It is not seldom that a crime has been committed in the presence of only one witness, leaving aside those cases which are not of uncommon occurrence, where determination of guilt depends entirely on circumstantial evidence. If the Legislature were to insist upon plurality of witnesses, cases where the testimony of a single witness only could be available in proof of the crime, would go unpunished. ."

The prosecution having examined two eye witnesses, of the incident PW-2 Krishan Pal PW-3 Parvindar Sharma, who have witnessed appellant giving sugar coated cardamom to the deceased children. PW-7 I.O. D.N. Verma has recovered the pieces of news paper in which sugar coated cardamon in wrapped and supplied to the deceased children from the place of occurrence and from the dressing table of the appellant. Above all the cardamom and Viscera of the deceased sent to the forensic laboratory Agra has confirmed administering of Aluminum phosphide to the children. In these circumstances prosecution case established beyond reasonable doubts, Although several names of the witnesses are mentioned in the charge sheet but the law as discussed above there was no necessity of multiplying the number of witnesses and no adverse inference could be drawn against the prosecution merely on the ground that some of the witnesses mentioned in the charge sheet has not examined. If the incident had not taken place as suggested by the prosecution but had happened in a different manner, there was no impediment in the way of the accused-respondents to examine the aforesaid left out witnesses as defence witnesses, but they did not chose to do so.

Having given our careful consideration to the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties, we are of the opinion that only on the basis of the non examination of the left of the witnesses discarding the prosecution case are also unsustainable in law.

49. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the learned trial court has not been afforded the opportunity to be heard on the sentencing as it is mandatory under Section 235(2) Cr.P.C. Learned AGA had vehemently opposed this argument. He submitted that a perusal of the impugned judgment and order dated 05.09.2005 itself exhibit that ample opportunity was accorded to the appellant to present her case on sentencing. The perusal of the impugned judgment also reveal that she had utilized the opportunity and presented her case on the point of the sentencing before the learned trial pronounced final verdict. In corroboration of this facts following relevant extract from the judgment is reproduced here under :-

Thus, we fined that the argument the learned counsel for the appellant is devoid of force.

50. Learned counsel for the appellant has also contended that there is no reference of the statement of the appellant under section 313 Cr.P.C. which indicated learned trial court has passed the impugned judgment in a hurry with out taking care of the defence case. Learned AGA audaciously opposed the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant and submitted that statement of the appellant was recorded on every point of evidence which goes against the appellant, in a marathan exercise in question and answer forms and appellant has answered each question voluntarily. So it is ridiculous that no mention of the statement 313 Cr. P.C. has been taken while pronouncing the impugned judgment.

51. In view of the rival contentions of the learned counsels for the parties on the issue raised herein above, it will be beneficial have an bird eye view of the provision of section 313 Cr.P.C which reads as under:-

"Section 313. Power to examine the accused:-

(1) In every inquiry or trial, for the purpose of enabling the accused personally to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him, the Court—

(a) may at any stage, without previously warning the accused put such questions to him as the Court considers necessary;

(b) shall, after the witnesses for the prosecution have been examined and before he is called on for his defence, question him generally on the case:

Provided that in a summons-case, where the Court has dispensed with the personal attendance of the accused, it may also dispense with his examination under clause (b).

(2) No oath shall be administered to the accused when he is examined under sub-section (1).

(3) The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment by refusing to answer such questions, or by giving false answers to them.

(4) The answers given by the accused may be taken into consideration in such inquiry or trial, and put in evidence for or against him in any other inquiry into, or trial for, any other offence which such answers may tend to show he has committed.

[(5) The Court may take help of Prosecutor and Defence Counsel in preparing relevant questions which are to be put to the accused and the Court may permit filing of written statement by the accused as sufficient compliance of this section.]"

52. Thus, Section 313 Cr.P.C. envisages the power of the trial court to examine the accused to explain the evidence against the accused. It is fundamental principle of natural justice is that no one should be condemned unheard. It provides an opportunity to the accused to enable him to explain the facts and circumstances of the case and adduced evidence against him. If the lower court fail to give an opportunity to him, he is entitled to ask appellate court to place him in the same position as he would have been in, had he been asked. However it is the discretion of the court to question at any stage of the trial.

53. It was held by Honorable Supreme Court in the case of Raj Kumar Singh @ Raju @ Batya Vs State Of Rajasthan reported in AIR 2013 SC 3150, in para no.25 that :-

"In a criminal trial, the purpose of examining the accused person under Section 313 Cr.P.C., is to meet the requirement of the principles of natural justice i.e. audi alterum partem. This means that the accused may be asked to furnish some explanation as regards the incriminating circumstances associated with him, and the court must take note of such explanation. In a case of circumstantial evidence, the same is essential to decide whether or not the chain of circumstances is complete. No matter how weak the evidence of the prosecution may be, it is the duty of the court to examine the accused, and to seek his explanation as regards the incriminating material that has surfaced against him. The circumstances which are not put to the accused in his examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C., cannot be used against him and have to be excluded from consideration."

54. The purpose, procedure and consequences of examination of accused in 313 examination was discussed elaborately by Apex Court in Sanatan Naskar & Anr vs State Of West Bengal reported in AIR 2010 SC 3507:-

" ....The answers by an accused under Section 313 of the Cr.PC are of relevance for finding out the truth and examining the veracity of the case of the prosecution. The scope of Section 313 of the Cr.PC is wide and is not a mere formality. Let us examine the essential features of this section and the principles of law as enunciated by judgments, which are the guiding factors for proper application and consequences which shall flow from the provisions of Section 313 of the Cr.PC. As already noticed, the object of recording the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Cr.PC is to put all incriminating evidence to the accused so as to provide him an opportunity to explain such incriminating circumstances appearing against him in the evidence of the prosecution. At the same time, also permit him to put forward his own version or reasons, if he so chooses, in relation to his involvement or otherwise in the crime. The Court has been empowered to examine the accused but only after the prosecution evidence has been concluded. It is a mandatory obligation upon the Court and, besides ensuring the compliance thereof, the Court has to keep in mind that the accused gets a fair chance to explain his conduct. The option lies with the accused to maintain silence coupled with simplicitor denial or, in the alternative, to explain his version and reasons, for his alleged involvement in the other party to cross-examine him. However, if the statements made are false, the Court is entitled to draw adverse inferences and pass consequential orders, as may be called for, in accordance with law. The primary purpose is to establish a direct dialogue between the Court and the accused and to put every important incriminating piece of evidence to the accused and grant him an opportunity to answer and explain. Once such a statement is recorded, the next question that has to be considered by the Court is to what extent and consequences such statement can be used during the enquiry and the trial. Over the period of time, the Courts have explained this concept and now it has attained, more or less, certainty in the field of criminal jurisprudence. The statement of the accused can be used to test the veracity of the exculpatory of the admission, if any, 54.made by the accused. It can be taken into consideration in any enquiry or trial but still it is not strictly evidence in the case. The provisions of Section 313 (4) of Cr.P.C. explicitly provides that the answers given by the accused may be taken into consideration in such inquiry or trial and put in evidence for or against the accused in any other inquiry into or trial for, any other offence for which such answers may tend to show he has committed. In other words, the use is permissible as per the provisions of the Code but has its own limitations. The Courts may rely on a portion of the statement of the accused and find him guilty in consideration of the other evidence against him led by the prosecution, however, such statements made under this Section should not be considered in isolation but in conjunction with evidence adduced by the prosecution. Another important caution that Courts have declared in the pronouncements is that conviction of the accused cannot be based merely on the statement made under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. as it cannot be regarded as a substantive piece of evidence."

55. In Mohan Singh Vs. Prem Singh reported in 2002 SC 3582, Dehal Singh Vs. State Of H.P. reported in AIR 2010 SC 3594, State of M.P. Vs. Ramesh reported in (2011) 4 SCC 786, Rajkumar Singh alias Raju Vs. State of Rajasthan reported in AIR 2013 SC 3150 and in a plethora of cases, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that it is settled proposition of law that statements or answers given by accused is not substantive piece of evidence and it is not sole base for convicting the accused. The statements of accused can be used for proper appreciation of evidence to accept or reject it.

56. Non-examination of accused under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. does not vitiate the entire proceedings or case of prosecution. Accused can make good of the same even at appellate stage. It is not sole base for eviction unless accused shown miscarriage of justice. In State (Delhi Administration) Vs. Dharampal reported in AIR 2001 SC 2924, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"Thus it is to be seen that where an omission, to bring the attention of the accused to an inculpatory material has occurred that does not ipso facto vitiate the proceedings. The accused must show that failure of justice was occasioned by such omission. Further, in the event of an inculpatory material not having been put to the accused, the appellate Court can always make good that lapse by calling upon the counsel for the accused to show what explanation the accused has as regards the circumstances established against the accused but not put to him…"

57. In Gyan Chand and Others Vs. State of Haryana reported in AIR 2013 SC 3395, plea to non-compliance of the provisions of Section 313 Cr.P.C. was taken for the first time before the Supreme Court. But there was no material showing as to what prejudice has been caused to the accused persons, if facts of conscious possession was not put to them. Thus the court held that the trial was not vitiated for non compliance of the provisions of Section 313 Cr.P.C. Mere defective/ improper examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is no ground for setting aside the conviction of the accused, unless it has resulted in prejudice to the accused. Unless the examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is done in a perverse way, there cannot be any prejudice to the accused. See SC Bahri v. State of Bihar; AIR 1994 SC 2420, Shobhit Chamar v. State of Bihar; AIR 1998 SC 1693.

58. The law mandates every incriminating evidence should be put to the accused separately. Section 313 Cr.P.C. is based on the fundamental principle of fairness. The attention of the accused must specifically be brought to inculpatory pieces of evidence to give him an opportunity to offer an explanation, if he chooses to do so. Therefore, the court is under a legal obligation to put the incriminating circumstances before the accused and solicit his response. This provision is mandatory in nature and casts an imperative duty on the court and confers a corresponding right on the accused to have an opportunity to offer an explanation for such incriminatory material appearing against him. Trial judge should taken care that questions of an inquisitorial nature should be put an accused, simply because statements given by accused under this section is not sole base for conviction, presiding officer cannot be treat it as formality as it carries much importance in appreciation of evidence.

59. It is germane to point out that the learned trial court has put, as many as 17 questions to the appellant regarding each and every incriminating evidence, against her and thus, affording opportunity to her to answer and explain her stand and to put her defence case. She has shown her ignorance about the death of the deceased children in answer to question no.1. She negated giving any prasad to the deceased children. In answer to question no.2, 3, 4, 5 she denied committing any crime, in answer to question no.6, she told the report against her to be false, in answer to question no.7, she stated to have prepared of the forged document, in answer to question no.8, 9, 10, she showed her ignorance and in answer to question no.11, she told the report against her is false, for the rest of the question, she answer that witnesses Prem Pal, Krishna Pal and Praveen is giving false evidence, in answer to question no.16, she stated that she has been implicated due to enmity and in answer to question no.17, when she was asked, she denied to give any prasad to deceased children. Thus, she has explained and answered each and every evidence incriminating her. Her statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is well discussed by the trial court as well as in the present decision. In the impugned judgment her statement duly considered by the learned trial judge, in the impugned judgment and order at page no.2. Not only this learned trial court has given her opportunity to examine D.W.-1 Abdul Haq as to strengthen her defence. Thus, we are of the considered opinion that no prejudice has been caused in respect of her statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. She was afforded adequate opportunity to be heard and to explain her defence case. She has utilise opportunity to lead the defence evidence. Consequently, the argument of learned counsel for the appellant contains no force.

60. The accused-appellant had strong motive of eliminating to the children as she was well aware that aluminum phosphide is highly toxic inorganic compound and can cause irritation of the nose, mouth, throat and lungs leading to death of the consumer. The testimony of the witnesses is trust worthy and reliable. No explanation has been given by the accused appellant as to how and in what manner the victims died of devouring devotional offerings. The evidence led by the prosecution witnesses is consistent with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused appellant. There is no other hypothesis except the guilt of the accused appellant. Mere conviction and sentence as well as incarceration of the accused appellant will not assuage or mitigate the severity and barbarity of offence wherein innocent children have died of in a grotesque and ruthless manner. The death of the minor children in such a planned manner shook the heart of the general folk. The appellant has failed to bring on record any material as to why she was implicated leaving to the actual culprit. The learned Trial Judge has passed the order of conviction and sentence after appreciating the entire evidence on record and has rightly arrived at the conclusion that it was the accused appellant who committed the serious offence of taking away the life of these innocent children hence the judgment and order passed by the learned Special Judge deserves to be sustained and upheld. The testimony of prosecution witnesses can not be discarded merely because of their relationship or slight aberration and deviation in their testimony. Every criminal trial is a voyage of discovery in which nectar in the form of quest is churned and gleaned from the fathomless ocean. A duty is cast on the Presiding Officer to explore every avenue in order to discover the truth and advance the cause of justice.

61. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that considering the manner in which the incident had occurred and the role attributed to the appellant, the present case does not travel beyond the scope of the offence u/s 304 Part II IPC, causing injuries with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause death. He has further submitted that the conviction of the appellants u/s 302 IPC is a result of misappreciation of evidence on record. At the most the appellant can be convicted for the offence u/s 304 Part II of IPC.

62. Having considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and having gone through the material available on record the question is whether the conviction of the appellant will fall within the scope of Section 300 of I.P.C. or it is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of I.P.C. These provisions invokes the concept of motive, intention and knowledge.

63. Sections 299 and 300 of the IPC deal with the definition of 'culpable homicide' and 'murder', respectively. In terms of Section 299, 'culpable homicide' is described as an act of causing death-

(i) with the intention of causing death or

(ii) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or

(iii) with the knowledge that such an act is likely to cause death.

A bare perusal of this provision, reveal that it emphasises on the expression 'intention' while the latter upon 'knowledge'. Both these are positive mental attitudes, however, of different degrees. The mental element in 'culpable homicide', that is, the mental attitude towards the consequences of conduct is one of intention and knowledge. Once an offence is caused in any of the three stated manners, noted-above, it would be 'culpable homicide'. Section 300 IPC, however, deals with 'murder', although there is no clear definition of 'murder' in Section 300 of IPC.

64. In Rampal Singh vs. State of U.P. reported in (2012) 8 SCC 289 it has been held by this Court, 'culpable homicide' is the genus and 'murder' is its species and all 'murders' are 'culpable homicides' but all 'culpable homicides' are not 'murders'.

65. In another case Pulicherla Nagaraju @ Nagaraja Reddy vs State of A.P. reported in 2006 (11) SCC 444, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down various relevant circumstances from which the intention could be gathered. Some relevant considerations are the following :-

(i) The nature of the weapon used,

(ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot,

(iii) whether the blow is aimed at the vital part of the body,

(iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury,

(v)whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight,

(vi) whether the incident occurred by chance or whether there was any premeditation,

(vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger,

(viii) whether there was a grave or sudden provocation and if so, the cause for such provocation,

(ix) whether it was heat of passion,

(x) whether a person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel manner,

(xi)whether the accused persons has dealt a single blow or several blows.

66. Thus, requirements of law with regard to intention may be satisfied for holding an offence of culpable homicide. It is also necessary to prove specific intentions Even when such intention is not proved, the offence will be culpable homicide, if the doer of the act causes the death with the knowledge that he is likely by his such act cause death i.e. with the knowledge that the result of his act may be such as may result in death.

67. Having regard to the overall facts and circumstances of the case and discussions of the evidence and material on record, there is no manner of doubt about the complicity of the accused appellant in offering cardamom to those children as a result of which they succumbed to injuries after some hours. The witnesses were cross examined by the defence but no contradiction could be elicited so as to discard the version regarding the involvement of the accused appellant in committing such a brutal and inhumane act of taking away the life of innocent children. The medical evidence, post mortem report as well as the chemical analyst report, adduced by prosecution relating to offering of cardamom to the children stood fully proved. The prosecution story will not stand demolished for the fault of the investigating officer. The trial court had assessed and analyzed the entire evidence and defence of the accused appellant on the yardstick of its reliability and trustworthiness and has rightly reached at the conclusion that the appellant is the real perpetrator of the crime of offering cardamom to the children mixed with aluminum phosphide. There is clear and categorical evidence to establish and prove the accusations of offering cardamom mixed with aluminum phosphide. There is no reason to ignore such solitary evidence so as to absolve the perpetrator of such grotesque crime.

68. After scrutinizing the entire materials on record and the evidence led by prosecution, it emanates that there is no reason to implicate the accused appellant falsely leaving the actual culprit. Nothing tangible could be elicited from the evidence of the witnesses in cross examination by which the prosecution version could be doubted or discarded. If courts are to insist on plurality of witnesses in proof of any fact, it will be directly encouraging subornation of witnesses. If the situation and circumstance arise that there is only a single person available to give evidence in support of the prosecution version, the court naturally has to weigh carefully and cautiously such a testimony and if the court is satisfied that the evidence is trustworthy, reliable and free from all taints and flaws, then a duty is cast upon the court to act upon such testimony. In case, the witness is not found to be reliable and there are some circumstances which may show that credibility is shaken by adverse circumstance, then the court will not insist upon such evidence. It is a platitude to elaborate here that it is the quality and not the plurality of witnesses who are required to prove the testimony. The dispensation of justice would be affected and hampered if number of witnesses are to be insisted upon.

69. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that there are material inconsistencies and contradictions in the statement of prosecution witnesses and the investigation has not been fairly conducted. Learned A.G.A. refuted the said argument. It is well settled principle of law that accused appellant cannot be given benefit of laches in investigation or non-material contradictions and inconsistencies in the prosecution witnesses. In Ram Bali Vs. State of U.P. 2004 A.I.A.R. Crl. 417 the Apex Court has held that failure or negligence or omission on the part of I.O. is not fatal to the prosecution case, in case testionmony of eyewitnesses corroborated by medical evidence fully establishes the prosecution version. In the present case, appellant has failed to point out any material negligence or omission in the investigation, on the basis of prosecution version could be discarded.

70. In the light of prolix and verbose discussions made herein above and also regard being had to the entire facts and circumstances of the case, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has proved its allegations beyond reasonable doubt pointing unerringly guilt of the accused appellant.

71. Now, we recapitulate the facts and circumstances of the case. PW-2 Krishna Pal and PW-3 Pravindra Sharma, who are eye-witnesses, had seen the appellant giving sugar coated cardamom seeds in paper which was enquired by PW-7 Investigating Officer D.N. Verma. In forensic chemical examination, elaichi danas were having elements of aluminum phosphide, as a result of which, three innocent children died. Thus, looking to the nature of allegations, the materials on record and also manner of executing the crime, it appears that the accused appellant did not have any strong motive and animosity, as a result of which, she has given devotional offerings mixed with aluminum posphide. The accused appellant has acted in a sudden emotion without pre-concerted plan. She might have no immediate intention to cause death of the deceased children but she has a knowledge that if someone take aluminum posphide he might be dead. Hence, the accused-appellant deserves to be convicted and sentenced under Section 304 Part-I of IPC. The judgment and order dated 05.09.2005 passed by learned Special Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffar Nagar is modified to the extent of awarding the conviction and sentence under Section 304 Part-I of IPC only. The conviction and sentence awarded under Section 328 IPC shall remain intact.

72. Accused-appellant is in actual incarceration for last about 20 years and about 6 years remission earned. Thus, she has served about 26 years of the sentence awarded.

73. Resultantly, the instant criminal appeal is partly allowed to the extent that the appellant is convicted under Sections 304 Part-I and 328 I.P.C. So far as the quantum of sentence is concerned, learned trial court has not imposed the fine in either of the Sections, which is integral part of the sentence under these sections. It will serve the ends of justice, if she is released for the period already undergone under Section 304 Part-I of IPC and a fine of Rs.2,00,000/-, which will go to the to their father. In case, he is not alive, the amount will go to their surviving mother or their legal heirs, as compensation. In case of default, she will serve one year's additional imprisonment. The conviction and sentence awarded under Section 328 IPC shall remain intact with the modification that she will further pay a fine of Rs.1,00,000/-, which will go to the to the father of the deceased. In case, he is not alive, the amount will go to their surviving mother or to their legal heirs, as compensation. In case of default, she will serve six months additional imprisonment.

74. Certify the judgment to the trial court to incorporate entry of the result of this appeal in the relevant register. The compliance be reported to this court within fifteen days.

75. Trial court record be sent back.

Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code,1860 - Section 376 - Rape - Failure to Prove Guilt Beyond Reasonable Doubt - Acquittal - Parents of the victim (PW-1 & PW-2) were not present at the time of the incident and did not support the prosecution's case regarding the commission of rape by the accused upon their minor daughter. Both were declared hostile. No eyewitness came forward to establish that the accused was seen committing the offence or was apprehended at the spot. Although the Investigating Officer stated that villagers apprehended the accused at the scene, there was no independent witness to confirm his arrest. Prosecution relied on medical evidence, which established that the 4-5-year-old victim was subjected to sexual assault. Medical report revealed swelling on the vulva, a ruptured hymen with irregular margins, tenderness, and bleeding from the private part. However, no evidence connected those findings to the accused appellant. Held: The prosecution failed to prove the accused's complicity in the offence beyond a reasonable doubt. Conviction set aside. Appeal allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. This appeal is directed against judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 21.9.2013, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Azamgarh in Session Trial No.560 of 2011 (State Vs. Mohd. Hamid), arising out of Case Crime No.306 of 2011, Police Station Mubaraqpur, District Azamgarh, whereby the accused appellant Mohd. Hamid has been convicted and sentenced to rigorous life imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs.20,000/- under Section 376 IPC and on failure to deposit fine to undergo additional imprisonment for two years.

2. Victim in the present case is a four year old girl, who has been subjected to rape. Victim's father has lodged the written report saying that he is a resident of Village Gajahara, Police Station Mubaraqpur, District Azamgarh. On the date of incident, i.e. 15.8.2011 when the informant returned from work at about 3.00 he came to know that his wife had gone to get cow dung cake from the neighbourhood and in between the accused entered the house and sexually assaulted the victim. On arrival of the informant's wife she raised an alarm whereafter the accused fled and was apprehended by the villagers. The victim was bleeding from her private parts and was brought with the informant for lodging the report. It is with this allegation that the First Information Report came to be registered as Case Crime No.306 of 2011 under Section 376 IPC at 4.30 PM on the date of incident. The Investigating Officer proceeded with the investigation and collected the clothes worn by the victim and the same was exhibited during trial as Ex.Ka.2. The accused was also arrested on the same day and his jeans pant was recovered vide Ex.Ka.6 on the same day. The victim was examined at the District Women Hospital, Azamgarh on the date of incident itself and following injuries were found on the victim:-

"Both vulva swelling and bluish colour.
Hymen tear and irregular margin.
Tenderness present.
Altered color blood present.
Vagina: Inter tip of finger."

3. A supplementary medical report was also produced which shows that the victim's hymen contained tear with margins irregular and tenderness was present. There was also swelling in both the vulva. The age of the victim was determined as five years. Vaginal slides were also prepared of the victim but no spermatozoa was seen on it. The cloths worn by the victim as also the jeans worn by the accused were sent for scientific examination to the Forensic Science Laboratory at Varanasi. The report is on record according to which no blood or semen was found on the jeans worn by the accused. However, on the underwear and cloths of the victim, blood and semen both were found.

4. On the basis of material collected during the course of investigation charge-sheet came to be submitted against the accused appellant Mohd. Hamid by the Investigating Officer. The concerned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions Judge, Azamgarh where charges were framed against the accused on 3.11.2011. Charges were explained to the accused, who denied his implication and demanded trial.

5. During the course of trial, documentary evidence have been adduced by the prosecution in the form of FIR as Ex.Ka-3; written report as Ex.Ka-1; recovery memo of Frock & Chaddhi as Ex.Ka-2, recovery memo of Jeens Pant as Ex.Ka-6; medical report as Ex.Ka-9; supplementary report as Ex.Ka-7; pathology report as Ex.Ka-8; X-ray report as Ex.Ka-10; FSL report as Ex.Ka-13; chargesheet as Ex.Ka-11; and site plan with Index as Ex.Ka-5.

6. PW-1 is the informant, who in his examination-in-chief, conducted on 29.3.2012, supported the prosecution case, as per which while his wife had gone to collect cow dung cake from the neighbourhood the accused entered the house and committed rape upon the victim. He also proved the written report in the examination-in-chief. The cross-examination, however, was not conducted on that date and was deferred on the application of the accused. The cross-examination of PW-1 was then held on 17.7.2012, when PW-1 turned hostile and has disowned his previous statement. On the request of the State Counsel, the informant was, consequently, declared hostile by the court concerned. In the cross-examination PW-1 stated that he got the written report prepared on the disclosure of the villagers and that neither he himself saw the incident. He did not disclose the name of persons from whom he got information of the incident, either.

7. PW-2 is the mother of the victim, who during her examination-in-chief itself did not support the prosecution case and turned hostile. She has also disowned her statement given to the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Similarly, PW-3, who is a neighbour, also turned hostile at the stage examination-in-chief itself. The victim was produced as PW-4 but the court found that she was not mature enough to give her statement. Masoom Ali was produced as PW-5, who is a witness of recovery of clothes of the victim. This witness has also turned hostile and has not supported the recovery of clothes of the victim.

8. PW-6 is Dr. Lalmani, who had medically examined the victim. In her deposition the doctor has supported the medical evidence brought on record during trial, according to which the victim was aged about 5 years and her hymen was ruptured. The margins were irregular and tenderness was present. In her opinion the colour of blood was different and the incident apparently was not fresh. She further stated that in the vaginal slides prepared of the victim, no semen or spermatozoa was found.

9. PW-7 is Head Constable Anil Kumar Mishra, who has proved the GD and other police papers. PW-8 is Shailendra Tripathi, who had conducted the investigation in the matter. He has supported the prosecution case, according to which the accused was apprehended by the villagers and his trousers (jeans) was recovered and was sent for scientific evaluation. He has denied the suggestion that investigation has been done by him sitting in his office. PW-9 is the Station House Officer, who has supported the prosecution case, according to which the accused was apprehended by the villagers. He has stated that informant was not present at the time when the accused was apprehended by the villagers.

10. The above evidence produced during trial by the prosecution has been confronted to the accused, who has stated that the report lodged against him is false and evidence is fabricated. He has also stated that due to village enmity on account of election of Pradhan, he has been falsely implicated. The above evidence has been evaluated by the court of session, who ultimately has convicted and sentenced the accused appellant, as per above.

11. Challenging the judgment of conviction and sentence, learned counsel for the appellant argues that there is absolutely no evidence on record to connect the accused appellant with the commissioning of offence and the contrary finding of the court below is wholly perverse. Learned counsel also submits that neither any injury has been found on the accused nor any blood or semen has been found on his clothes and even his arrest at the spot has not been proved. Submission is that merely because prosecution has established that injuries existed on the victim, it would not necessarily follow that the offence of rape was committed by the accused appellant or that his implication is substantiated on the basis of admissible evidence. It is further urged that even though there is no evidence against the accused appellant, yet he is incarcerated in jail since the year 2011, and thus the period of incarceration undergone by the accused appellant is nearly 13 years, by now. Submission is that accused appellant is entitled to be acquitted.

12. Learned AGA, on the other hand, opposes the argument of the appellant's counsel and submits that medical evidence on record clearly proves the commissioning of offence and since there was none else present at the place of occurrence, therefore, the accused appellant has rightly been convicted and sentenced by the court below. It is also submitted that sexual assault on a four year old minor girl is a serious offence, and therefore, the sentence of life is appropriate, considering the gravity of offence.

13. We have heard Sri Ashutosh Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri G.P. Singh, learned AGA for the State and have perused the material brought on record.

14. The evidence led by the prosecution would go to show that the informant was himself not present at the place of occurrence when the incident occurred. The informant (PW-1) in the written report as also in his deposition has clearly admitted that he had gone out and it was only on his return that he came to know that accused had committed rape upon his daughter. The informant, therefore, is not an eye-witness. The other prosecution witness of fact is the wife of the informant, who also was not present when the incident occurred. The assertions in the written report and the testimony of PW-1 clearly go to show that the informant's wife had gone to get cow dung cake from the neighbourhood and by the time she returned, the incident of rape was committed upon her daughter. It is also the prosecution case that the accused was apprehended near the spot by the villagers, once they saw the accused fleeing from the place of occurrence after subjecting the four year old minor girl to rape. The incident of rape has been proved by the prosecution on the strength of the medical report, which is on record. The injury report of the victim clearly goes to show that the victim had been subjected to sexual assault. The testimony of doctor supports the prosecution allegation of rape, inasmuch as the doctor found that there was swelling on the vulva of the victim and the hymen was ruptured. Margins were irregular. Tenderness was also present. Although the doctor in the cross-examination has stated that no semen was found on the vaginal smear prepared of the victim but she has clearly ruled out the possibility of such injury having been caused accidentally, by the insertion of pointed object or on account of fall of the victim etc. as was suggested by the defence. The FIR allegations otherwise are to the effect that victim was found bleeding from her private part. The medical examination of the victim has been conducted on the date of incident and the same has been clearly proved. From the medical evidence, which is supported by the statement of the doctor, it is abundantly clear that 4-5 year old minor victim has been subjected to sexual assault. The finding of the sessions court holding that the prosecution has proved the occurrence of rape is, therefore, sustained.

15. This takes us to the central part of the prosecution case, which is the implication of the accused appellant as being perpetrator of the aforesaid crime of rape on a minor girl. The prosecution heavily relies upon the testimony of witnesses of fact, all of whom have turned hostile. Admittedly PW-1 and PW-2, who are the parents of the victim, were not present at the time of incident, and they have not supported the prosecution case regarding commissioning of rape by the accused upon minor daughter and they are declared hostile. It is, therefore, apparent that there is no oral testimony of any witness, who implicates the accused appellant of committing rape upon the victim. The only other prosecution evidence is the medical evidence and the scientific evidence. The medical evidence on record has been carefully examined by us and we find that there is nothing in it to connect it with the accused appellant. The accused appellant has not been medically examined and there is no medical report of the accused on record. The only recovery made from the accused is of his trousers (jeans) on which neither there is any blood found nor there are any traces of semen etc. No individual has come forward from the side of the prosecution to prove the fact that the accused was seen committing the offence or he was soon apprehended by them. Though the Investigating Officer states that accused was apprehended on the spot by the villagers, but that statement in itself would not be sufficient to connect the accused appellant with the commissioning of offence. Moreover, there is no arrest memo on record to prove the fact that the accused was arrested on the spot, nor there is any independent witness of arrest of the appellant.

16. We have carefully perused the available records, but from its perusal we have not been able to find any credible evidence produced by the prosecution, on the basis of which we may reasonably come to the conclusion that it was the accused appellant who had committed sexual assault upon the victim. So far as the judgment of conviction and sentence is concerned, we find that the trial court has placed reliance upon the testimony of PW-2, wherein she has supported the prosecution case with regard to apprehending of accused on the spot. Apart from it, there is absolutely no other evidence, which has been referred to or relied upon by the trial court to implicate the accused appellant. The statement of PW-2 has been perused by us, wherein she has alleged that the villagers had apprehended the accused but she does not known whether the accused was rightly apprehended by the villagers or not. We find that this evidence in itself would not be sufficient to sustain the finding that prosecution has established its case of arrest of the accused appellant, on the spot, soon after committing rape, beyond reasonable doubt.

17. In the facts of the case, we find that accused appellant otherwise has undergone incarceration of nearly 13 years. Upon analysis of the evidence on record, we are, therefore, persuaded to accept the argument of appellant's counsel that the prosecution has failed to establish the complicity of the accused appellant in committing the offence, beyond reasonable doubt. The accused appellant, accordingly, is held entitled to benefit of doubt.

18. Consequently, the present appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgement and order of conviction and sentence dated dated 21.9.2013, passed in Session Trial No.560 of 2011 (State Vs. Mohd. Hamid) is set aside. The appellant Mohd. Hamid shall be released from Jail, forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 304 - Culpable homicide not amounting to murder - Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 3 - Unexplained contradiction in the ocular testimony and the medical evidence - In the instant case witnesses of fact alleged that deceased was badly beaten with fists and kicks and later his head was banged on the wall and that the deceased died due to such beating. Held : Since the deceased was a minor child of six years, any serious beating on him, leading to his death, was bound to carry some apparent signs of injury and were expected to be observed in the postmortem report. Neither any injury was found on the head nor any signs of injury were shown on the face or forehead of the deceased. Medical evidence showed cause of death to be throttling with hyoid bone fractured but the two witnesses of fact do not allege anywhere that the deceased was throttled. It raised questions about the correctness of the ocular version. Contradiction, remained unexplained. Material contradiction in the medical evidence viz-a-viz the eye-witness created a doubt on the prosecution case - Accused was granted the benefit of doubt.(Para 35, 37)

Viram @ Virma Vs The St. of M. P., reported in (2022) 1 SCC 341

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. This criminal appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 4.2.2020, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Mathura in Sessions Trial No. 477 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 188 of 2015, under Section 304(1) IPC, Police Station – Refinery, District – Mathura; whereby the appellant Rajendra Yogi has been convicted under section 304(1) IPC and sentenced to life imprisonment along with fine of Rs.1,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo one year additional imprisonment.

2. Informant Kushalpal Singh (PW-1) is the son of Ramesh Chandra (PW-4) and is resident of Village Sirsa, Police Station Farah, District Mathura. His mother-in-law Smt. Meenakshi (PW-2) lives in a rented house in Giriraj Vatika owned by Radhaballabh. On 18.5.2015, on receiving information of death of the deceased the informant came and was told by his brother-in-law that on 17.5.2015 Dharmendra (deceased) had taken bread/food from a neighbour aunt and when the father Rajendra Singh (accused appellant) came to know of it, he mercilessly beat Dharmendra due to which, he fainted. When accused appellant saw Dharmendra in the morning, he fled. The neighbour aunt informed that Dharmendra has died and, therefore, he has come to lodge the report. With these contents the first information report came to be lodged in Case Crime No. 188 of 2015, under Section 304 IPC in Police Station Refinery, District Mathura at 12:30 hours in the afternoon on 18.5.2015.

3. Investigation proceeded in the matter and the investigating officer recovered a bloodstained bed-sheet from the bed where deceased was sleeping. Inquest followed and concluded at 3.30 pm. The witnesses of inquest including Ramesh Chandra (PW-4) observed bloodstains on the nose and face of the deceased. In the opinion of the inquest witnesses, deceased died on account of beating as a result of which various injuries were caused to him on his face and head. However, in order to ascertain the correct cause of death, it was resolved that postmortem be conducted. The body was accordingly sealed and sent to mortuary for postmortem.

4. Postmortem on the dead body has been conducted by Dr. K.K. Mathur (PW-7). Cause of death is ascertained as asphyxia due to throttling. Hyoid bone of the deceased was found fractured. Lungs were found congested. Apart from multiple small abrasion on both sides of the neck, there are no other signs of injury on the deceased. The relevant observations made in the postmortem report of the deceased conducted at 5.30 pm on 18.5.2015 are as under:-

"Name of deceased – Dharmendra
Age – 6 years/male
Body – Average body built
Postmortem Changes – Rigor mortis all over body
Skull – Brain Congested
Orbital, Neck, Mouth, Tongue and Pharynx – Filled with blood & blood clots
Hyoid Bone – Hyoid Bone Fractured
Lungs – Lungs congested
Stomach – Stomach contain 100 ml of pasty fluid.
Liver, Spleen, Kidney – congested
Time since dead – About 1/2 day back Cause of death – Asphyxia due to throttling
Antemortem Injuries – Multiple Small Abrasion, Both side front of neck."

5. Age of the deceased has been determined as 6 years. Statement of witnesses was recorded whereafter charge-sheet came to be filed against the accused appellant under Section 304 IPC.

6. The concerned magistrate took cognizance of the charge-sheet and referred the matter to the Court of Sessions, where it was registered as Sessions Trial No. 477 of 2015. The charges were explained to the accused of committing offence under Section 304 IPC, who pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The trial commenced in which the prosecution has adduced following documentary evidence:-

"1. FIR dated 18.05.2015 as Ex.Ka.4
2. Written Report dated 18.05.2015 as Ex.Ka.1
3 Recovery Memo of blanket of the deceased as Ex.Ka. 3
4. Postmortem Report dated 18.5.2015 as Ex.Ka.6
5. Panchayatnama dated 18.5.2015 as Ex.Ka.2
6. Chargesheet dated 1.6.2015 as Ex.Ka.15"

8. The prosecution has also adduced oral testimony of Kushalpal Singh (PW-1), Smt. Meenakshi (PW-2), Jitendra (PW-3), Ramesh Chandra (PW-4), Ajeet Singh (PW-5), Manoj Kumar (PW-6), Dr. K.K. Mathura (PW-7) Suresh Chandra Yadav (PW-8).

9. PW-1 Kushalpal Singh who is the first informant has supported the prosecution case, according to which the accused mercilessly beat the deceased after he came to know that the deceased had taken bread/food from a neighbour aunt. Informant came to know of the incident from Jitendra (PW-3), who is real brother of the deceased. Jitendra also was beaten but he hide himself in the toilet and slept there throughout the night and only in the morning he came out. He found his brother bleeding from the nose and face and that there were various signs of injury on the face and head of the deceased. After having caused the death of the deceased, the accused apparently left him lying naked on the bed by covering him with a bed-sheet. Jitendra was also locked from outside. When Jitendra asked for help from inside the house, it was the neighbour aunt, who opened the door and found the deceased to have died.

10. It appears that the accused appellant had not engaged any counsel and the learned Sessions Judge had provided him the services of an amicus curiae. In the cross-examination, PW-1 has stated that the deceased was his brother-in-law. His father-in-law had already died. His mother-in-law (PW-2) had two daughters and two sons from her first husband. After death of her first husband, she solemnized marriage with accused Rajendra, with whom she had no child. PW-1 has stated that he does not know the name of the neighbour aunt. He had come to the place of occurrence at about 11.00 in the morning and found the police present at the spot. He has stated that he has not seen the incident himself and the basis of his statement is the information given to him by Jitendra (PW-3).

11. PW-2 Smt. Meenakshi is the mother of the deceased and is aged about 32 years. She worked as a labour. Her husband Surendra Singh had died about three and half years back. She had five children with Surendra Singh consisting of three daughters and two sons. The youngest daughter has already died due to illness. Two elder daughters were already married. Jitendra and Dharmendra were her two sons. She remarried accused Rajendra and was living with him in a rented house in Giriraj Vatika. The house was of Radhaballabh. She has stated that on 17.5.2015, she had gone for some personal work to her village leaving the two sons with her husband Rajendra. On account of urgent work, she stayed in the village at night. She tried to telephone Rajendra but his phone was continuously switched off. She called the son of landlord namely Prakash, who informed that her six years old son was badly beaten by the accused as a result of which he died. Since the witness PW-2 was at Teekamgarh, Madhya Pradesh, she immediately rushed and arrived at Mathura on 19.5.2015. She came to know that her son was already cremated by the police and the informant.

12. In the cross-examination, PW-2 admitted that she came to know of the incident on 18.5.2015 evening and she left Teekamgarh at about 11.00 in the night so as to arrive at Mathura on 19.5.2015 at 8.00 am. She was informed about the entire incident by Jitendra (PW-3). She has further stated that neither deceased was assaulted in her presence, nor her other son was locked in latrine.

13. Sheet-anchor of the prosecution case is PW-3 Jitendra, inasmuch as, it is on his information that the FIR has been lodged. He is 12 years of age and on the basis of questions posed to him, the court of sessions has held that he is capable of giving statement before the court. He has supported the prosecution case, as per which, her mother had gone to village to collect money from the farm and he alongwith his younger brother were at home alongwith accused, to whom he called Papa. Deceased Dharmendra had taken food from a neighbour aunt and informed the accused appellant that since he already had his food, as such, he may cook food for himself and Jitendra. On this, the accused got annoyed and beat Dharmendra with fists and kicks and banged his head on the wall. Accused appellant had a knife in his hand and had locked him in the toilet. Accused also knocked on the toilet and threatened that he would kill Jitendra too. The witness was instructed not to raise any alarm. Thereafter the accused fled by locking the door from outside. PW-3 then raised an alarm whereafter the neighbour aunt came and opened the door and found his brother dead. The incident of beating occurred at about 10.00-10:30 in the night. The witness on coming out made a telephone call to the police on helpline no.100 and also informed his brother-in-law (Jija) Kushalpal. Kushalpal alongwith his family then arrived. Deceased was cremated by the witness.

14. In the cross-examination, PW-3 has stated that the deceased had not taken food from the neighbour aunt in the presence of accused, nor had he eaten food in his presence and before locking the witness in the toilet the accused had beaten the deceased. Accused initially slapped the deceased and thereafter beat him with fists and kicks and banged his head on the wall. The door was opened later by the neighbour aunt. He could see from the space below the door. He had called neighbour aunt from inside the toilet. He could not open the toilet door as it was locked from outside. Ration distributor in the neighbourhood informed the Police about the incident by dialing no. 100. He had not himself telephoned the police. Accused had also beaten the deceased 2-3 weeks before when his mother was not there. He has then explained the manner in which informant came and the report was lodged with the police. He was taken out of the toilet at about 9-10 am by the neighbour aunt. He was locked in the toilet at about 10.30 in the night by the accused. This witness has denied the suggestion that only because of differences between his mother and accused that he is making a false statement against the accused and that he has not himself seen the incident.

15. PW-4 is Ramesh Chandra, who is a inquest witness and proved the inquest report. PW-5 is Ajeet Singh, who is the computer operator and has proved the GD Report. Manoj Kumar has been produced as PW-6, who was also a tenant in the other part of the house where PW-2 and her family lived. He has stated that the deceased had taken food from his wife Smt. Madhu and being annoyed by this act the accused had beaten the deceased and PW-3 at about 12.00 in the night. He had seen the incident from the window. He also heard the deceased weeping. There was light inside the house. Jitendra (PW-3) was seen by him standing frightened. PW-6 has stated that accused banged the head of the deceased on wall whereafter he fainted and later the witness came to know that he has died.

16. In the cross-examination, PW-6 has claimed that he saw the incident in which the accused had beaten the deceased to death. At the time of incident, he did not know the name of two children. He used to call the deceased as Chhotu. At the time of incident there was no light. There was open space in front of the room. He is a tempo driver and returned home at about 8.00 pm. His statement was not recorded by the I.O. with regard to the incident occurred at about 12.00-12.30 the previous night. He alleged that accused while was being beating, the other son Jitendra (PW-3) had locked himself inside the toilet. He has stated that accused kept beating the deceased almost for one and half hours. He made no attempts to save the child. His wife also made no attempt in that regard. Witness has stated that he was not aware that the accused would kill the boy.

Deceased was earlier slapped and he could hear noise coming from inside of the house. He had not seen the deceased being banged on the wall by the accused. This witness has denied the suggestion that due to close association with the mother of the deceased, he is making false deposition.

17. PW-7 is Dr. K. K. Mathur, who has conducted the postmortem. He has clearly stated that there were no signs of any beating or injury on the deceased except the abrasions on both sides of the neck. The doctor has clearly stated that there was no sign of any injury on the forehead or face of the deceased. Specific statement of the doctor in that regard is as under:-

"मृतक के सिर पर माथे पर और चेहरे पर किसी भी प्रकार की कोई जाहिरा चोटे नही थी। मृतक की गर्दन मे दोनो तरफ और सामने और दोनो वगलो पर खुर्सट के निशान थे।"

18. PW-8 is retired Sub-Inspector Suresh Chandra Yadav, who was the Investigating Officer of the case and has proved the police papers. As per him, the deceased had multiple marks of injury on his face and he was bleeding from his face and nose. In the cross-examination, the I.O. has stated that he does not know the name of the neighbour aunt from whom the deceased had taken food which became the cause for the deceased to be beaten by the accused. Name of the lady aunt has also not been mentioned in the case diary. He has denied the suggestion that the deceased died for some other reason and accused has been falsely implicated.

19. The accused has been confronted with the evidence led by the prosecution against him during trial so as to record his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused has stated that allegation against him that he had beaten the deceased, which became the cause of his death, is false. He claimed to be innocent. He has specifically stated that neither he beat Dharmendra, nor had any concern with it. He has claimed that he had no concern with the two children or their mother. He has denied that he stayed with PW-2. In reply to Question No. 11 the accused has stated that possibly it was the neighbour aunt, who had beaten the child as a result of which he sustained injuries and PW-6 Manoj Kumar has misled everybody and a false story has been cooked up to implicate him.

20. Trial Court on the basis of aforesaid evidence led by the prosecution has found the charges levelled against the accused-appellant under Section 304 I.P.C. to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and has consequently convicted the accused and sentenced him to life imprisonment.

21. Aggrieved by the conviction of the accused-appellant under Section 304 I.P.C., the accused appellant is before this Court in the present appeal.

22. Sri Subhash Chandra Raghav, learned counsel for the appellant strenuously urged that this is a case of false implication, inasmuch as, the consistent case of the prosecution is that the deceased was assaulted by the accused appellant, due to such injuries caused by fists and kicks the deceased died. It is argued that the entire prosecution story stands belied by the postmortem report in which absolutely no signs of any injury on the face, forehead or other part of the body has been noticed on the deceased, nor such injuries were the cause of death. It is submitted that the cause of death is throttling and the injuries on the body of the deceased are only suggestive of death being caused by throttling. It is alleged that none of the two witnesses of fact namely PW-3 and PW-6 have even remotely alleged that the accused appellant had throttled the deceased to death. It is also submitted that non-existence of injury on the face, forehead or nose clearly proves that the witnesses of fact have actually not seen the incident and the actual cause of death is something else. Submission is that the finding of the trial court that accused appellant had caused homicidal death of deceased by causing injuries on him are contrary to the weight of evidence on record and, therefore, the finding of guilt and consequential sentence is unsustainable. Learned counsel has placed reliance upon the judgment of the trial court to show that the findings contained therein are wholly perverse, inasmuch as, the court of sessions has ignored the specific argument raised on behalf of the defence during trial that the injuries on the deceased are inconsistent with the ocular testimony and, therefore, the finding of guilt is unsustainable.

23. Learned A.G.A. on the other hand has supported the finding of guilt recorded by the court of sessions and has argued that the conviction and sentence of the accused appellant suffers from no infirmity and, therefore, does not warrant any interference.

24. We have heard the counsel for the parties and perused the materials on record including the original records of the trial court.

25. The prosecution case is that while mother of the minor deceased had gone to her village at Teekamgarh, Madhya Pradesh leaving her two sons Dharmendra (deceased) and Jitendra (PW-3) in the care and custody of the accused appellant that the accused appellant committed the murder of the deceased after he had taken food/bread from a neighbour aunt.

26. Evidence on record has been carefully scanned by us. It transpires that the witnesses of fact produced by the prosecution fall into two distinct categories. The informant Kushalpal Singh is married to the elder sister of the deceased. He has lodged the FIR on the basis of the facts disclosed to him by the brother of the deceased namely Jitendra (PW-3). Source of information about the actual incident in which death of the deceased was caused is based on hearsay. Similarly, PW-2 is the mother of the deceased, who also was not present at the time of incident. She has neither seen the incident, nor was even present at the place of occurrence. Her source of information is the disclosure made by PW-3 Jitendra and PW-6 Manoj Kumar, who happens to be the neighbour and was living in other part of the house on rent. These two witnesses of fact, therefore, do not throw much light on the prosecution case about the manner in which the incident occurred. Their testimony, therefore, is not much helpful for the prosecution case.

27. PW-3 is the eye-witness and his disclosure forms the basis of statement of PW-1 and PW-2. PW-3 is the elder brother of the deceased. This witness has categorically supported the prosecution case that the deceased had taken bread/food from the neighbour aunt and later this fact was disclosed by him to the accused on which he got infuriated. As per PW-3, the accused appellant slapped Dharmendra and thereafter beat him by fists and kicks and ultimately pushed him to the wall as a result his head banged on the wall on account of which Dharmendra fainted. PW-

3 then comes up with a conflicting version regarding his being locked inside the toilet. At one stage, he claims that he locked himself in the toilet while at other places he claims that he was locked in the toilet, by the accused appellant. There are also two versions of PW-3, as to how, he came out of the toilet. One version is that he came out of the toilet in the morning and on seeing his brother dead raised an alarm whereafter the neighbour aunt came from outside after opening the door of the house which was bolted from outside. The other version of PW-3 is that he raised alarm in the morning from inside the toilet whereafter the neighbour aunt came from outside and brought him out of the toilet.

28. The above inconsistent version of PW-3 has not been explained by the prosecution. This is particularly so as PW-3 clearly states that the accused appellant knocked the toilet door and had threatened that he would kill him too. This version suggests that PW-3 had locked himself from inside as a result of which he was saved since the accused appellant could not enter the toilet and, therefore, could get no access to PW-3. If that was so, the statement of PW-3 that he was brought out of the toilet by neighbour aunt since the toilet door was closed from outside remains unexplained.

29. In the facts of the present case, we find that the neighbour aunt was an important witness of the incident, inasmuch as, it was she who gave bread/food to the deceased; brought out PW-3 from the toilet on hearing his alarm; was the first to open the gate and enter the house where the incident had occurred. However, for reasons unknown the neighbour aunt has neither been interrogated by the I.O., nor has been produced as a witness, even during the course of trial. This is a serious lapse on part of the prosecution. The neighbour aunt had a crucial role in the entire incident and was possibly the best person to have reported the manner in which the entire incident occurred. Her non-production, therefore, has weakened the prosecution case.

30. Coming next to the testimony of PW-3 it transpires that the accused on coming to know that the deceased had consumed bread/food mercilessly beat the deceased. PW-3 has alleged that initially Dharmendra was slapped, then he was beaten by fists and kicks and lastly his head was banged on the wall whereafter the deceased Dharmendra became unconscious and was later found dead. This version of PW-3 is similar to what is stated by other prosecution witness of fact namely Manoj Kumar (PW-6). The version of Dharmendra having been beaten by the accused appellant finds support from the inquest in which the witnesses of inquest have observed signs of injury on the face and forehead of the deceased. It is alleged that there were hematoma (neelgu marks) and other signs of injury on the face and forehead of the deceased.

31. Curiously, when the postmortem was conducted on the same day just two hours after the inquest, at 5.30 pm., except for some abrasions on the neck the doctor has found no injury on the face or forehead of the deceased. The hyoid bone of deceased was also found fractured. This dichotomy between the ocular testimony and the medical evidence on record remains wholly unexplained. In the event deceased was beaten by the accused such that the deceased died due to such beating some apparent signs of injury marks were expected to be observed in the postmortem report. The fact that absolutely no marks of injury are shown on the face and forehead of the deceased in the postmortem report raises questions about the correctness of the ocular version of PW-3 and PW-6.

32. The medical evidence in the form of postmortem report as well as testimony of autopsy surgeon categorically narrates that the deceased died on account of throttling. Ligature mark is present on the neck of the deceased. There is absolutely no explanation forthcoming in the testimony of any of the prosecution witnesses of fact suggesting that the accused appellant had throttled the deceased. PW-3 has been consistent in saying that he saw the entire incident. PW-6 also says that he substantially saw the incident. None of these two witnesses even remotely suggest that Dharmendra was throttled or that the accused had strangulated him to death. The cause of death as per postmortem report and the opinion of autopsy surgeon is at crossroads with the oral testimony of the witnesses of fact. This apparent contradiction in the version of prosecution case remains wholly unexplained.

33. We have perused the judgment of the trial court and it is observed that this dichotomy between the oral testimony of witnesses and the medical evidence was specifically highlighted before the court of sessions on behalf of the appellant. The submission has been noticed by the trial judge in following words:-

"दौरान बहस बचाव पक्ष की ओर से तर्क प्रस्तुत किया गया कि जिस प्रकार की मारपीट अभियोजन साक्षियों द्वारा कहा जा रहा है उस प्रकार की कोई भी चोटें मृतक के शरीर पर नहीं हैं यह भी उल्लिखित किया गया कि सिर को दीवार से मारे जाने की बात कही गयी है परन्तु सिर पर कोई भी चोट नहीं पायी गयी। इस सम्बन्ध में साक्षी पी०डब्लू० 7 डा० के० के० माथुर की जिरह की ओर ध्यानाकृष्ट कराया गया जिन्होने अपनी जिरह में स्वीकार किया है कि मृतक के सिर, माथे और चेहरे पर किसी प्रकार की कोई जाहिरा चोट नहीं थी।"

34. The above contention has been rejected by the trial judge observing as under:-

"प्रश्न उठता है कि क्या इस साक्षी के साक्ष्य के आधार पर अभियोजन कथानक को संदिग्ध माना जायेगा। इसका उत्तर कदाचित नकारात्मक है क्योंकि यह आवश्यक नहीं है कि जिस प्रकार का साक्ष्य अभियोजन के मौखिक / चक्षुदर्शी साक्षी पेश करें उसी प्रकार की चोट मृतक के शरीर पर शवविच्छेदन करने वाले चिकित्सक के द्वारा पायी जायें। कई बार अभियोजन साक्षी उत्साह में और डरवश घटना को थोड़ा बढ़ाकर न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रस्तुत करते हैं वहीं दूसरी ओर चिकित्सक के द्वारा जो भी साक्ष्य न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रस्तुत की जाती है, वह साक्ष्य विशेषज्ञ साक्ष्य तो होती है परन्तु उनकी साक्ष्य मात्र एक राय पर आधारित होती है इसलिए दोनों ही साक्ष्यों का सम्यक् विश्लेषण किया जाये तो स्पष्ट है कि ऐसे मामले जिसमें एक छह वर्षीय बालक को मारापीटा गया हो और जिसकी हायड बोन फ्रेक्चर पायी गयी हो उसमें चिकित्सीय साक्ष्य के प्रकाश में जो मौखिक साक्ष्य पेश की गयी है, उसको अस्वीकार नहीं किया जा सकता। इस सम्बन्ध मे न्यायिक नजीर उ.प्र. राज्य बनाम हरवंश सहाय 1998 (37) ए.सी.सी. 14 सुप्रीम कोर्ट का उल्लेख करना न्यायालय समीचीन पाता है जिसमें माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा उपरोक्त सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित किया गया है कि चिकित्सीय आख्या के प्रकाश में मौखिक साक्ष्य को अस्वीकार नहीं किया जा सकता।"

35. We are not impressed by the reasoning assigned by the trial judge to reject the defence version regarding contradiction in the ocular testimony and the medical evidence. In the facts of the case, we are of the opinion that the specific case of the eye-witnesses is completely belied by the medical evidence on record. Witnesses of fact alleged that deceased Dharmendra was badly beaten with fists and kicks and later his head was banged on the wall but neither any injury is found on the head nor any signs of injury are shown on the face or forehead of the deceased.

Since the deceased was a minor child of six years, any serious beating on him, leading to his death, is bound to carry some signs of injury. This is not the case as per the medical evidence. The contradiction, therefore, remains unexplained. Similarly, medical evidence shows cause of death to be throttling with hyoid bone fractured but the two witnesses of fact do not allege anywhere that the deceased was throttled. This contradiction also remains unexplained. In our opinion, the material contradiction in the medical evidence viz-a-viz the eye-witness account clearly creates a doubt on the prosecution case. We do not subscribe to the view taken by the Sessions Court that these are aspects which could be overlooked.

"13. The oral evidence discloses that there was an indiscriminate attack by the accused on the deceased and the other injured eye-witnesses. As found by the Courts below, there is a contradiction between the oral testimony of the witnesses and the medical evidence. In Amar Singh v. State of Punjab (supra), this Court examined the point relating to inconsistencies between the oral evidence and the medical opinion. The medical report submitted therein established that there were only contusions, abrasions and fractures, but there was no incised wound on the left knee of the deceased as alleged by a witness. Therefore, the evidence of the witness was found to be totally inconsistent with the medical evidence and that would be sufficient to discredit the entire prosecution case"

37. We have already observed that the ocular version of the incident is irreconcilable with the medical evidence on record and the inconsistency remains unexplained by the prosecution. Once that be so, it cannot be said that prosecution has succeeded in proving its case beyond reasonable doubt. Consequently, the applicant is entitled to get the benefit of doubt.

38. For the discussions and deliberations held above, we find that the prosecution has not been able to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt. The conviction and consequential sentence awarded by the Court of Sessions, therefore, cannot be sustained. The appeal consequently succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order dated 4.2.2020, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Mathura in Sessions Trial No. 477 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 188 of 2015, under Section 304(1) IPC, Police Station – Refinery, District – Mathura, is set aside.

39. The accused-appellant Rajendra Yogi shall be set to liberty, forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of Section 437A Cr.P.C.

Criminal Appeal No. 5306 of 2002

Heera ...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Sri Rajiv Gupta, Sri Shyam Babu Vaish

Counsel for the Respondents:
D.G.A.

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 376 - Rape - Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 3 - Appreciation of evidence - One of the witnesses of fact stated that he saw the accused-appellant running towards the forest while buttoning up his pant, and the victim was lying bleeding. Medical examination of the victim was conducted within six and a half hours of the time of the incident. In the medical examination of the victim, no bleeding or injury, etc., was found. Neither any redness was seen, nor any swelling was noticed by the doctor in the private part of the victim, and her hymen was found intact. Medical report stated that the vagina admits the tip of the finger. Supplementary report stated that no spermatozoa was seen. Held: At the tender age of six years, if the victim is subjected to rape, some sort of injury is bound to occur. Had there been any bleeding, the doctor would not have opined that the vagina admits the tip of the finger. Opinion of the doctor that no rape was committed was completely ignored by the trial court. Victim merely shook her neck while answering the questions put to her. Possibility of the minor victim having been tortured to shake her neck instead of giving an oral reply cannot be ruled out, particularly as a girl of 5-6 years may ably answer the questions put to her. Statements of witnesses of fact, as well as the victim, do not corroborate with the medical evidence. Prosecution failed to prove the charges of rape. (Para 17, 22, 24)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Justice Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. By means of the instant appeal, the accused-appellant Heera is assailing the judgment and order of conviction dated 24.10.2002 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track) Court Room No. 16, District Bulandshahr in Sessions Trial No. 122 of 2002 (State Vs. Heera) arising out of Case Crime No. 107 of 2001 whereby the accused-appellant has been sentenced under Section 376 I.P.C. to undergo for life imprisonment along with fine of Rs. 1000/- and in default in payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment of two years.

2. The prosecution case emanates on the written report of the informant (exhibit ka-1), as per which, on 31.03.2001 when the informant had gone for work and his wife Smt. Heera Devi had gone to jungle to bring the fodder and his daughter aged about 04 years was alone in the house, while playing she went out of the house to look for her mother, at about 06:00 P.M., when the accused-appellant enticed her away and took her to the wheat field of Isthtiaq Haji and committed rape upon her. On hearing her cry, Gurcharan Singh son of Mohar Singh and Durga Prasad son of Moti Ram rushed towards the spot and saw that the accused-appellant had forcefully pressed the victim and was committing rape upon her. As soon as Gurucharan Singh and Durga Prasad reached, the accused appellant ran away towards the forest. The trouser (Pajami) of the victim was brought down and was soaked with blood and the victim was lying unconscious. The informant and his wife rushed to the place of occurrence and brought back the victim. Upon such report, the F.I.R. came to be lodged on 31.03.2001 in Case Crime No. 107 of 2001, under Section 376 I.P.C. at Police Station Jahangirabad, District Bulandshahr. The matter was entrusted for investigation to the Investigating Officer and the victim was medically examined on 01.04.2001 at about 12:30 A.M. Thereafter statements of the witnesses including that of the victim were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. The Investigating Officer, after collecting evidence, culminated the investigation in submission of charge sheet against the accused-appellant under Section 376 I.P.C. upon which cognizance was taken on 11.06.2001 by the concerned Magistrate. The case was committed to the Court of Sessions and the case was registered as Sessions Trial No. 122 of 2002 (State Vs. Heera). Charge was framed under Section 376 I.P.C., against the accused-appellant. The accused-appellant denied the charges and demanded trial. Consequently, the trial commenced.

3. During trial, the prosecution has relied upon following documentary evidence:-

"(i) Written report (Ex. Ka-1).
(ii) Medico Legal Examination Report (Ex. Ka-2).
(iii) Supplementary Medical Report (Ex. Ka-3).
(iv) Recovery memo of "Pajami" G.D.entry (Ex. Ka-4)

4. From the side of prosecution, as many as six prosecution witnesses appeared before the trial Court. The P.W.1 is the informant Vinnami, P.W.2 Durga Prasad, P.W. 3 is victim, P.W.4 Gurcharan Singh, P.W.5 Dr. Anita Dutta and P.W.6 S.I. Ram Ji Lal, whereas no defence witness was adduced.

5. The informant-P.W.1 has clearly supported the prosecution case and has repeated the F.I.R. version. In his cross-examination, it borne out that he did not go to the place of occurrence and he saw the victim unconscious at his house.

6. P.W.2 Durga Prasad, one of the witnesses of fact has stated that he alongwith Gurcharan were going towards the jungle and as he reached near the wheat field of Ishtiaq, he heard cry, on which he went to that side where he saw that the accused-appellant ran towards forest buttoning up his pant and the victim was lying bleeding.

7. P.W.3 is the victim, who answered to the questions merely by shaking her neck. The testimony of the P.W.3 as has been recorded before the trial Court, is as under:-

नामः- "Victim" गवाह सवालो का जबाव हाँ ना में गर्दन हिला कर देती है।

8. Another witness of fact, P.W.4 Gurcharan Singh also adduced his testimony before the trial, who has reiterated the similar version as has been stated by P.W.2.

9. P.W.5 is Dr. Anita Dutta, who had examined the victim. The doctor has proved the medical reports. Relying upon the medical papers, the doctor has stated that there are no external or internal injury on the victim and her hymen is intact. The possibility of rape has not been supported by the doctor. P.W.6 is the Sub-Inspector Ramji Lal who is formal witnesses and has supported the prosecution case, on the basis of evidence collected during the investigation.

10. The accused-appellant has been confronted with the material evidence adduced against him during the trial. His statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. came to be recorded wherein he stated that he has been falsely implicated and that the evidence adduced is not reliable.

11. On the basis of the above material produced during the trial, the Court of Sessions has come to the conclusion that the guilt of the accused appellant has clearly been established beyond reasonable doubt and consequently, the accused-appellant has been convicted and sentenced as per the law.

12. Challenging the impugned judgement and order of conviction and sentence against the accused appellant, Sri Shyam Babu Vaish, learned counsel for the accused-appellant, submits that the Court of Sessions has erred in recording the finding of conviction and sentence against the appellant inasmuch as the testimony of witnesses are not reliable and that the accused-appellant has been falsely implicated. He further submits that the victim did not sustain any internal or external injury and the medical examination as well as supplementary medical report do not corroborate with the prosecution version. Learned counsel further argued that perverse findings has been recorded by the trial Court. Thus, the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside.

13. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that offence has been committed by the accused-appellant and the learned trial Court, after considering the evidence available on record, recorded the findings of conviction and has sentenced the accused-appellant to undergo life imprisonment, therefore there is no illegality or perversity in the judgement and order of conviction passed by the trial Court and thus the impugned judgement and order of conviction does not call for any interference by this Court.

14. We have heard Sri Shyam Babu Vaish learned counsel for the accused-appellant, Sri Pankaj Kumar Tripathi, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record including the original record of the trial Court.

15. The learned trial Court while recording the findings of conviction has observed though hymen is found intact but according to the medical jurisprudence, in the case of girl of less than 12 years, hymen is posteriorly situated, which restricts the gender (penis) to come in contact with hymen thus it is natural that the hymen would be intact even after the commission of offence alleged furthermore, genital injuries are such that the same cannot be examined without giving anesthesia. The learned trial Court considering the testimony of witnesses of fact i.e. P.W. 2 Durga Prasad and P.W.4 Guru Charan Singh has observed that their statements corroborate each other and they are natural witnesses. Apart from the aforesaid statements, learned trial Court also considered the testimony of the victim, who appeared before the trial Court as P.W.3. After considering the evidence adduced before the trial Court, the learned trial Court has convicted and awarded sentence to the accused-appellant for life imprisonment along with fine.

16. Before discussing the findings of conviction recorded by the trial Court, it is necessary to perused Section 375 I.P.C. in which "Rape" has been defined which reads as under:-

375. Rape-- A man is said to commit "rape": if he—

(a) penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a women or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(b) inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of a women or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or

(c) manipulates any part of the body of a women so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of the body of such women or make to do so any other person; or

(d) applies his mouth to the vagina, anus, urethra of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person.

17. The statement of the victim recorded before the trial Court as P.W.2 shows that merely she has shaken her neck while answering the questions put to her, which not entirely reliable. The possibility of minor victim having been tortured to shake her neck instead of giving oral reply cannot be ruled out particularly as a girl of 5-6 years may ably answer the questions put to her. There is nothing on record to suggest that victim was incapacitated or could not speak. The witness of fact P.W. 2 Durga Prasad has stated before the trial Court that he rushed towards the direction from where the sound of cry was coming and on seeing him, the accused-appellant ran away towards the forest buttoning his pant and the victim was lying bleeding. Similar version was also stated by P.W. 4 Gurucharan. In the medical examination of the victim no bleeding or injury etc. is however found.

18. So far as statements of witnesses of fact are concerned, it is crystal clear after seeing them, the accused-appellant ran away towards the forest buttoning his pant but it has not been specifically stated that the accused-appellant was seen committing rape upon the victim. "Rape" has been defined under Section 375 I.P.C. which specifically states that (a) penetrates his penis, to any extent, into the vagina, mouth, urethra or anus of a women or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or (b) inserts, to any extent, any object or a part of the body, not being the penis, into the vagina, the urethra or anus of a women or makes her to do so with him or any other person; or (c) manipulates any part of the body of a women so as to cause penetration into the vagina, urethra, anus or any part of the body of such women or make to do so any other person; or (d) applies his mouth to the vagina, anus, urethra of a woman or makes her to do so with him or any other person, whereas no such ingredients of Section 375 I.P.C. has been found in the statement of the witnesses of fact.

19. So far as testimony of P.W.2 victim is concerned, it is necessary to take note of the fact that she has merely shaken her neck while answering the question put to her. There is much inconsistencies in the prosecution version and the cross examination of the victim. While the FIR speaks of the incident to have taken place at 6.00 P.M. and the victim was allegedly taken back home by the informant and his wife, the victim in her cross examination has stated that she went back home alone and it was day time. The Apex Court in the matter of Dola alias Dlagobinda Pradhan and another Vs. State of Odisha reported in 2018 (18) SCC 695 has reversed the concurrent conviction in somewhat similar circumstances observing that the testimony of the victim is full of inconsistencies and does not find support with the medical evidence.

20. Now coming to the finding recorded by the learned trial Court with regard to the medical evidence. In the instant case, the incident is said to have taken place on 31.03.2001 at about 18:00 hours, whereas the medical examination of the victim was conducted on 01.04.2001 at about 12:30 A.M. i.e. within 06:30 hours from the time of incident. The medical examination report of the victim is as under:-

"Certified that I have examined Km. "X" d/o Vinami resident of Village Jalilpur P.S.Jahangirabad B/I Constable CP NO. 99 Rajendra Sharma P.S. Jahangirabad, District Bulandshahr at 12:30 A.M. on 01.04.2001.

M.I. Colour of iris of eyes is black.

G.E. She is fully conscious and alert at the time of examination. Breast not developed. Axillary and public hairs not present.

No mark of injury on her body.

Height-97 c.m. weight 15 kg., Teeth 10/10 (milk teeth)

Internal Examination No mark of injury on her private parts including lower abdomen and inner part of both the thights.

Vagina admits tip of the finger. Hymen intact.

Vagina smear made and sent to pathologist for HPE to District Hospital Bulandshahr.

Referred to Radiologist X-ray department, District Hospital Bulandshahr for X-Ray elbow and wrist joint (including carpal bones) for age."

21. Pursuant to the recommendation made by Medical Officer K.M.G., Bulandshahr for X-Ray as well as pathological examination before the Radiologist, the victim was examined, after her examination, the supplementary report was prepared on 12.04.2001, which reads as under:-

"Supplementary report of "X" daughter of Vinami resident of Jalilpur, P.S. Jahangirabad, District Bulandshahr.

X-Ray Report No. 1543-44 dated 03.04.2001.

X-Ray Rt. Wrist AP view No. 1543 shows appearance of 4 carpal bones. Capitate, Hamate cumeform and lunate distal end of radius appeared but styloid of ulna not appeared.

X-Ray Rt. Elbow joint No. 1544:- Head of radius not appeared. Medial epicondyle of humerus appeared.

Lateral epicondyle not appeared.

Pathology Report No. 23 of 2001 dated 03.04.2001.

No spermatozoa seen in the supplied smear.

Conclusion (1) Her age is about 5-6 years.

(2) No opinion about rape can be given"

22. So far as bleeding of victim is concerned, the medical report states that the vagina admits tip of the finger and also the fact that supplementary report shows that no spermatozoa was seen and therefore, no medical evidence of rape is on record. The medical examination of the victim was conducted within six and half hours of the time of incident and had there been any such bleeding, the doctor would not have opined that vagina admits tip of the finger. The opinion of the doctor that no rape has been committed has been completely ignored by the trial Court. Thus the testimony of P.W.2 and P.W.4 do not find support from the medical evidence.

23. Although in Sadashiv Ramrao Hadbe Vs. State of Maharastra, 2007 (1) SCC (Cri.) 161 the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the sole testimony of prosecutrix is sustainable if it inspires the confidence of the Court but if the version given by the prosecutrix is not supported by the medical evidence or the whole surrounding circumstances are highly improbable and belie the case set up by the prosecutrix, the Court shall not act on the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix. The paragraph no. 9 of the aforesaid judgement reads as under:-

"9. It is true that in a rape case the accused could be convicted on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if it is capable of inspiring of confidence in the mind of the court. If the version given by the prosecutrix is unsupported by any medical evidence or the whole surrounding circumstances are highly improbable and belie the case set up by the prosecutrix, the court shall not act on the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix. The courts shall be extremely careful in accepting the sole testimony of the prosecutrix when the entire case is improbable and unlikely to happen."

24. We have given our thoughtful consideration to the evidence on record as has been discussed in the preceding paragraph and also the arguments submitted by the learned counsel for the parties. We find that the statements of witnesses of fact as well as the victim do not corroborate with the medical evidence. The medical examination of the victim was conducted within six and a half hours. The specific case of the prosecution is that sexual assault was committed upon the victim. In our assessment at the tender age of six years if the victim is subjected to rape some sort of injury is bound to occur and be reflected in the medical papers or the testimony of doctor. The fact that neither any redishness was seen nor any swelling was noticed by the doctor in the private part of the victim and her hymen was found intact, coupled with the fact that there are contradictions in the manner in which the offence was observed by the witnesses, we are of the considered opinion that the prosecution has failed to prove the charges of rape levelled against him and accused is entitled to benefit of doubt.

25. In view of the discussions and deliberations held, this criminal appeal succeeds and is allowed. The conviction and sentence of the accused appellant Heera vide judgment and order dated 24.10.2002 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track) Court Room No. 16, District Bulandshahr in Sessions Trial No. 122 of 2002 (State Vs. Heera) arising out of Case Crime No. 107 of 2001 under Section 376 I.P.C. Police Station Jahangirabad, District Bulandshahr, is set aside.

26. The accused-appellant shall be released forthwith unless he is wanted in any other case subject to compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

27. The trial Court record along with the copy of this order be transmitted to the court concerned forthwith.

Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 32 - Dying Declaration - Admissibility of Dying Declaration - Sole ground for conviction of the appellants was the Dying Declaration Held : Court held that in the instant case Dying Declaration cannot be relied upon. Dying Declaration had two endorsements of the doctor one at the top and one at the bottom. At both places, there was seal of E.M.O., S.N.M. Hospital with initial of the Doctor but the name of the doctor was not mentioned in both the endorsement. On the top and bottom of the Dying Declaration doctor has used the word "Dying Declaration" instead of "Statement" show that those endorsements were made subsequently when the deceased died and that is why the term "Dying Declaration" was used instead of "Statement". Doctor has stated that the victim was fully conscious and can give her Dying Declaration. On the bottom, again the doctor stated that during recording of the Dying Declaration she was conscious. In ordinary course, the doctor gives an opinion that the victim is in the fit state of mind to get her statement recorded. In both the endorsements, the Doctor has not given any opinion that the victim was in a fit state of mind to get her statement recorded and it is only stated that she is conscious to give her dying declaration. In the absence of any specific opinion by the doctor that the victim is in fit mental state to give the statement, the Dying Declaration become highly suspicious. Doctor has not recorded his satisfaction by asking some preliminary questions that the victim was in a fit mental condition to make her statement. There was no endorsement by doctor that after recording the dying declaration, he has read over the same to the victim and after understanding the same, she has put her thumb impression.Doctor who made the endorsement was not examined, even his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was not recorded. There was no corroboration by any family members i.e. PW-1 to PW6 that PW-10 had recorded the Dying Declaration naming the accused. In the Dying Declaration, nothing was recorded that on account of demand of dowry or maltreatment or that the victim was subjected to cruelty due to which her husband by pouring kerosene oil has lit the fire. No motive was attributed to the accused. Even in Dying Declaration, no motive was attributed. Dying Declaration was doubtful and was not reliable and benefit of doubt was given to the accused. 8. The police prepared a Panchayatnama in which it was decided that the post-mortem of the dead body should be conducted. Thereafter, the post-mortem of the victim, who died, on 01.03.2012 was conducted. Thereafter, the final report was submitted against three accused persons namely, appellant-husband Dilawar Singh, brother-in-law- Jagat Singh and father-in-law-Virendra Singh. The case was committed to the Court of Sessions. The Additional Sessions Judge, Firozabad framed the charges against the appellants under Sections 498A, 304B of I.P.C. and in alternative framed the charge under Section 302 read with Section 506 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of D.P. बहिन की शादी आज से करीब 3 साल पहले दिलावर सिंह s/o वीरेन्द्र सिंह के साथ हिन्दू रीति रिवाज के साथ हुई थी। हम लोगो ने अपनी बहिन शशि की शादी हैसियत के मुताबिक की थी।

मै अपनी बहिन के यहां ससुराल में गया था। मेरी बहिन ससुराल में खुश थी। उसने मुझे कभी भी दहेज की मांग की बात नहीं बताई थी।

मेरी बहिन ने मुझे कभी भी नहीं बताया कि मेरे पति दहेज में 50 हजार और स्पैलन्डर की मांग करते थे।

जलने की सूचना मिली थी। तब मै सरकारी अस्पताल फि.बाद गया। जहां मोरचरी में देखा था। वहां पर उसके पति दिलावर, जेठ विजय सिंह, ससुर वीरेन्द्र सिंह, देवर जगत सिंह और उनकी मां बहिन सभी अस्पताल में मौजूद थे। और गांव के आसपास के लोग भी मौजूद थे। वहां पर मुझे बताया था कि तुम्हारी बहिन खाना बनाते में जल गई है। क्योंकि मै अपनी बहिन की ससुराल में जाता था। इसलिए मुझे गांव वाले जानते थे।

16. PW-7- Rambeer Singh, H.C.P. stated that he received a complaint from PW-1, on which he registered a chik FIR, Ex.Ka.3. In cross-examination, he stated that he did not investigate the place of occurrence on 03.03.2012 as he came to know that the victim and her husband- Dilawar Singh, both were admitted in the District Hospital, Firozabad and later on, both of them were referred to PGI Safai. In cross-examination, this witness stated as under:

" इसकी मुझे अस्पताल पर जानकारी हुई थी कि पीडित व उसका पति दिलावर दोनो जिला अस्पताल फिरोजाबाद भर्ती हुऐ थे जिनकी डाक्टरी रिपोर्ट की नकल मेरे द्वारा सीडी में किया गया था। जब तक मैने विवेचना की तब तक कोई चश्मदीद साक्ष्य मुझे प्राप्त नही हुआ था। मृतिका के पिता रामवीर सिंह ने मुझे थाने पर व्यान दिया था कि "मेरी लड़की शशि की सास लौग श्री, ससुर विजय सिंह अस्पताल से रैफर करा कर सैफई अस्पताल ले गये और मै साथ मे था।"

This witness also stated that he did not record the statement of the victim.

18. PW-9- Dr. K.S. Bhadoria stated that on 01.03.2012, he was posted in District Hospital, Etawah and has conducted the post-mortem of Shashi, wife of Dilawar Singh, who died in R.I.M.S. Safai Hospital. As per the post-mortem, following injuries were found:

मृतका की मृत्यु, मृत्यु पूर्व जलने के कारण शॉक से हुई थी।"

In cross-examination, he stated that the burn injuries were on the front portion of the body and on the back side, the burn injuries were less.

19. PW-10- Nanhe Ram, Tehsildar stated that he had gone to the hospital for recording the Dying Declaration of victim- Shashi. He proved the statement as Ex.Ka.7. In cross-examination, he stated that the memo vide which he was directed to record the statement, is not on record. He further stated that he did not record the statement of the doctor on dying declaration and, on the dying declaration, there is seal of S.N.M. Hospital but name of doctor is not mentioned. He pleaded ignorance, how he has recorded the age of the deceased as 25 years. He further stated that the word 'Gharwalon' referred to the in-laws but the word in-laws (Sasuralwalon) is not mentioned in dying declaration. He also stated that in the dying declaration, the deceased did not mention about the demand of dowry or maltreatment. He further stated that on the G.D., his name and designation are not mentioned and he has only put his initials. He further stated that with regard to the contradiction, he has not sought any clarification from the deceased and denied a suggestion that he did not record the dying declaration by personally visiting the hospital.

20. PW-11- Inspector Upendra Nath Rai, I.O. stated that he prepared the Panchayatnama which was signed by him and the Tehsildar. In cross-examination, he stated that he has not seen the victim in the hospital and has recorded the same as per the information given by the Tehsildar. He denied the suggestion that neither he nor the Tehsildar has visited the hospital and prepared the documents while sitting in Tehsil office.

21. PW-12- Asha Ram Yadav, Retired S.P. stated that he has partly conducted the investigation after 15.04.2012 and recorded certain CDs. He stated that he has arrested all the three accused persons vide C.D. No. 12 and thereafter, he added the offence under Section 304B of I.P.C. In cross-examination, this witness stated that he had not seen the dying declaration and has only seen the statement of his previous I.O. He further stated that one of the accused Vijay Singh was not found involved and his name was dropped.

22. PW-13- Dr. Mukesh Kumar who conducted the medico-legal-examination of deceased- Shashi in Govt. Hospital, Firozabad, stated that the deceased when brought to the hospital, was in semi-conscious condition and had suffered burn injury and smell of kerosene oil was emitting from the body. Thereafter, he sent an information to the police station vide Ex.Ka.9. This witness stated that on the same day at about 9:40 PM, he had examined Dilawar Singh s/o Virendra Singh who was also admitted in hospital and in examination, he found that Dilawar had suffered burn injuries on his neck, chest, both hands towards the palm and on the back side of the palm. The hairs on the hand were burnt and he was also sustained injuries due to fire from kerosene oil. He was also admitted in hospital. His MLR was proved as Ex.Ka.10.

In cross-examination, he stated that Shashi was admitted by her brother-in-law Vijay. Vijay has also brought Dilawar to the hospital. Both were brought to the hospital at about same time and he first treated Shashi and then Dilawar. Shashi and Dilawar have sustained 80% and 50% burn injury respectively. Both were emitting smell of kerosene oil.

23. Shri Krishna (PW-14), the Tehsildar, stated that on receiving the information, he went to the Mortuary of P.G.I. Saifai and dictated the Panchayatnama to S.I. Upendra Rai. Five persons namely, Rambir, Satendra, Santveer, Padam Singh and Mahesh Chand were appointed as panchs. Panchayatnama (Ex.Ka-2) was prepared under his signature. He also proved the signatures of other persons from Ex.Ka-11 to Ka-14. In cross examination, this witness stated that he had no knowledge whether at the time when Panchayatnama was prepared, the F.I.R. was registered or not. He further stated that he cannot explain the cuttings and overwriting on the Panchayatnama, however, the cuttings were due to inadvertent mistakes.

24. On conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and all the incriminating evidence was put to them.

Accused-Dilawar Singh denied all the evidence led against him and in reply to question No.15 regarding giving his explanation, he stated that he is innocent and has been falsely implicated in this case.

Similar is the statement of Jagat Singh and Virendra Singh who stated that the Dying Declaration is artificial and no family witnesses has supported or proved the occurrence.

25. Thereafter, the Trial Court held the appellants guilty of offence punishable under Sections 498A, Section 304B of IPC and Section ¾ of Dowry Prohibition Act.

26. The paper book is ready. The Trial Court record is received and re-appreciated with the assistance of learned counsel for the appellant as well as learned Amicus Curiae appointed by the Court and learned A.G.A. for the State.

27. Learned Amicus Curiae has argued that none of the prosecution witnesses of facts have supported the prosecution version. It is submitted that all the witnesses were declared hostile. It is further argued that even PW-1 has disowned his statement made in Ex.Ka-1, forming basis of Chik F.I.R. (Ex.Ka-3) and stated that it was dictated by the Investigating Officer himself.

28. Learned counsel further argued that all the witnesses of facts i.e. PW-1 to PW-7, who are the father, mother, two real brothers, paternal uncle (mediator of marriage), sister-in-law (wife of one of the brothers) have not supported the prosecution version so much so that they all have stated that the victim was never maltreated in her matrimonial home as neither there was any demand of dowry nor she was subjected to any cruelty.

29. It is next argued that PW-1 has stated that his daughter was of feeble mind and while cooking food, she sustained burn injuries and died. This witness stated that when he had gone to meet his daughter, this fact was stated by her. This witness also stated that both families i.e. family of deceased and her in-laws have attended the funeral of his daughter.

30. Counsel has further argued that PW-3, real brother of the deceased, has stated that his sister was very arrogant and developed irritable behaviour. She died as she sustained burn injuries while cooking food. He also denied the allegation of demand of dowry by the accused side.

31. It is next argued that PW-5, the mediator, has also stated that the deceased never complained of demand of dowry from her in-laws.

32. It is argued that PW-6, the other brother of the deceased, has stated that her sister was mentally disturbed as she could not bear a child and, therefore, she has committed suicide. This witness also stated that her in-laws used to treat her in a proper manner. Counsel for the appellant has thus argued that in the absence of any witness of fact supporting the prosecution version, no legal evidence has come on record to convict the appellants.

33. It is next argued that as per the statement of PW-9, the doctor who conducted the postmortem and PW-13, the doctor who initially treated the victim, have stated that the deceased received burn injuries on the front side of her body which suggest that she sustained burn injuries accidentally while cooking food. Thus, it is argued that if someone poured the kerosene oil on her, the same would be spread over the entire body causing injury on all parts of the body.

34. Counsel next argued that the Trial Court has not taken into consideration the fact that even the appellant-husband had tried to douse the accidental fire in which, he himself got burn injuries to the extent of 50% on his body. Counsel has referred to the statement of PW-13, the doctor who has stated that the deceased sustained 80% burn injuries whereas the appellant-husband sustained 50% burn injuries, which are on the front side of his neck, chest and both hands. This witness further stated that accused-Dilawar Singh was also smelling kerosene oil. It is argued that in fact the appellant has tried to douse the accidental fire and in that process, he also sustained burn injuries on front side of his body including both of his hands, neck and chest.

35. Counsel has next argued that PW-13 has further stated that both the victims i.e. the deceased and Dilawar Singh were brought to the hospital at the same time by the elder brother of Dilawar Singh namely Vijay which also prove that the deceased suffered burn injuries in accidental fire while cooking food.

36. Counsel has next argued that the conviction of the appellants is solely based on the Dying Declaration which has not been proved in accordance with law.

37. It is argued that Nanheram (PW-10), the Executive Magistrate, who recorded the Dying Declaration has stated that he has received the information for recording the Dying Declaration through a memo but the memo was never produced on record as admitted by this witness.

38. It is also argued that this witness has admitted that he did not record in the Dying Declaration whether it was recorded in emergency ward or in general ward. This witness further stated that the statement of the Doctor, in whose presence he recorded the Dying Declaration, was not recorded in the Dying Declaration. It is further argued that this witness stated that there is only seal of E.M.O., S.N.M Hospital and there is short signature on the Dying Declaration.

39. Counsel argued that in the Dying Declaration, it is stated that the victim recorded the words "Gharwalon" and not "Sasuralwaon" i.e. her in-laws. It is also argued that in the Dying Declaration, there is no averment recorded that the deceased had stated that there was any demand of dowry or maltreatment on account of demand of dowry as admitted by PW-10. It is argued that in fact the Dying Declaration was not recorded by this witness while visiting to the hospital.

40. It is also argued that neither the Executive Magistrate recorded his satisfaction about mental condition of victim by asking preliminary questions nor the doctor made a specific endorsement that the victim is in a fit condition of mind to make statement.

41. It is also argued that the endorsement of doctor on the top and bottom of Dying Declaration that victim can record her "Dying Declaration" is in fact recorded after death of victim as in ordinary course doctor should have declared that victim can give statement and not Dying Declaration. The word dying declaration on both the endorsements reflect that it was added later on, after the death of victim.

42. Learned counsel submits that the Doctor who gave a certificate that the deceased was fully conscious and can give her statement, never appeared as a witness and PW-10 has admitted that his name is also not mentioned as he has only put his signature over the seal of the hospital. It is also argued that it has not come on record that right thumb impression which was taken by the Executive Officer, was not having any burn injuries as no such endorsement was made by the doctor.

43. Counsel has next argued that even from the Dying Declaration, on the face value, did not make out that appellant has committed the offence as the deceased has stated that she had no knowledge who had lit the fire and when her husband exhorted to lit the fire, the deceased stated that he may do so.

44. Counsel submits that the manner in which the Dying Declaration was recorded showing the mental state of victim does not reflect that she was fully conscious and was making the statement voluntarily.

45. Counsel has next argued that as per the the statement of PW-1, the marriage of deceased with appellant-Dilawar Singh was performed two years prior to the incident however, during intervening period of two years, there was no complaint lodged by the victim regarding any demand of dowry or maltreatment or physical abuse by the accused side.

46. It is further argued that none of the witnesses of Panchayatnama namely Rambir, Satendra, Santveer, Padam Singh and Mahesh Chand were examined as witness to prove the allegations made in the F.I.R.

47. It is thus argued that the prosecution has failed to prove the charge beyond doubt.

48. In reply, learned A.G.A. for the State has argued that the informant while appearing as witness has supported the prosecution, however, during cross examination he has taken the side of accused persons because of some compromise.

49. Learned A.G.A. has further argued that the Dying Declaration has been recorded in accordance with law and has been duly proved by the Executive Magistrate (PW-10) who has recorded the same. It is also argued that before recording the Dying Declaration, the opinion of the doctor was taken that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to record the statement and, therefore, the Dying Declaration has been proved in accordance with law and prayed for dismissal of the appeal.

50. In reply, learned counsel for the appellant has cited the judgments of the Supreme Court. In Dattatraya Vs. State of Maharashtra, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 223, the Supreme Court has held as under :

"21. The act of the appellant is not premeditated, but is a result of sudden fight and quarrel in the heat of passion. Therefore, we convert the findings of Section 302 to that of 304 Part-II, as we are of the opinion that though the appellant had knowledge that such an act can result in the death of the deceased, but there was no intention to kill the deceased. Therefore, this is an offence which would come under Part-II not under Part-I of Section 304 of the IPC.

22. On almost similar facts, (as are present in the case at hand), this Court had converted the findings of Section 302 to that of Section 304 Part II IPC. The case of which reference is being made here is Kalu Ram v. State of Rajasthan (2000) 10 SCC 324. The appellant who had been convicted under Section 302 IPC for causing death of his wife by pouring kerosene on her and then setting her on fire was convicted by the Trial Court under Section 302, which was upheld by the High Court. The facts of the case are as follows:-

23. In the above case, the appellant who in an inebriated state was pressurizing his wife to part with some ornaments so that he could buy some more liquor. On her refusal he poured kerosene on her and set her on fire by lighting a matchstick. But then he also tried to pour water on her to save her. This Court was thus of the opinion that:

"7. Very probably he would not have anticipated that the act done by him would have escalated to such a proportion that she might die. If he had ever intended her to die he would not have alerted his senses to bring water in an effort to rescue her. We are inclined to think that all that the accused thought of was to inflict burns to her and to frighten her but unfortunately the situation slipped out of his control and it went to the fatal extent. He would not have intended to inflict the injuries which she sustained on account of his act. Therefore we are persuaded to bring down the offence from first degree murder to culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

8. We therefore alter the conviction from Section 302 IPC to Section 304 Part II IPC."

24. The facts of the present case, as we have already discussed above, by and large reflect the same situation, nature of crime as well as the act of the accused and the consequences of his action. We are inclined to accept the arguments raised by the learned senior counsel for the appellant, Mr. Sudhanshu S. Choudhari that under the present circumstances it would indeed be a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder as given in Section 304 Part II in as much as, though the accused had knowledge of the consequences of the act he was committing, yet there was no intention to cause death.

25. The appeal is partly allowed. We convert the findings of Section 302 to that of Section 304 Part II of IPC and sentence the accused to 10 years of R.I. To this extent the findings given by the trial court and High Court will stand modified. We have also been informed that the appellant has already undergone incarceration for more than 10 years. Therefore, he shall be released forthwith from the jail, unless he is required in some other offence."

51. Counsel for the appellant has also relied upon the decision in Shambhubhai Kalabhai Raval vs. State of Gujarat, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1420, wherein the Supreme Court has held as under :

"6. There are other factors on the basis which we can say that the dying declaration is not free from a serious doubt. The said reasons are as under:- (i) The dying declaration itself does not bear the endorsement of the doctor regarding the fitness of the deceased to make a statement; (ii) A panchnama (Exhibit '29') was recorded around 10:10 P.M. on 31.07.1994, which records that the deceased was barely able to tell her name and she stated that she could not speak. The alleged dying declaration was recorded between 09:45 P.M. to 10:00 P.M.; (iii) Even the police personnel, who recorded the panchnama has stated that the deceased was not in a position to speak; and (iv) PW5 - Dr. Rajendra, who examined the deceased stated in the cross-examination that when he asked the deceased about the cause of burn injuries, she disclosed that she poured kerosene on herself. But she gave no reason why she did the act.

7. These factors taken together create a serious doubt about the correctness of the dying declaration.

Therefore, the dying declaration will have to be kept out of consideration. In any case, 5 the dying declaration is not of that sterling quality on which the conviction can be based in absence of any other evidence. Therefore, the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the appellant beyond a reasonable doubt. The appeal succeeds and the impugned orders are quashed and set aside. The appellant is acquitted."

52. Counsel for the appellant has also relied upon the decision in Umakant and another Vs. State of Chhatishgarh, (2014) 7 SCC 405 wherein the Supreme Court has held as under :

"22. The legal position about the admissibility of a dying declaration is settled by this Court in several judgments. This Court in Atbir v. Government of NCT of Delhi- 2010 (9) SCC 1, taking into consideration the earlier judgments of this Court in Paniben v. State of Gujarat - 1992 (2) SCC 474 and another judgment of this Court in Panneerselvam v. State of Tamilnadu - 2008 (17) SCC 190 has given certain guidelines while considering a dying declaration:

"(i). Dying declaration can be the sole basis of conviction if it inspires full confidence of the Court.

(ii). The Court should be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind at the time of making the statement and that it was not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination.

(iii). Where the Court is satisfied that the declaration is true and voluntary, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration.

(iv). It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborative. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence.

(v). Where the dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence.

(vi). A dying declaration which suffers from infirmities, such as the deceased was unconscious and could never make any statement cannot form the basis of conviction.

(vii). Merely because a dying declaration does not contain all the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected.

(viii). Even if it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded."

9. When the eye-witness affirms that the deceased was not in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, medical opinion cannot prevail.

10. If after careful scrutiny the Court is satisfied that it is free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration.

23. In the light of the above legal position that governs the consideration of a dying declaration, the factual matrix has to be scrutinised. As already extracted above, in the dying declaration Ex.P-13, the deceased stated before the Magistrate that the appellants demanded dowry and that the appellants set fire to her and she asked her brother-in- law to rescue her, but he had chosen not to do so, and further on hearing her cries, the neighbours came and extinguished the fire and admitted her in the hospital. After she was admitted in the hospital, her parents came and she informed them about the incident. The deceased is said to have stated that when she was pregnant she was beaten up by the accused and because of which the child died in the womb. At that time, she had taken treatment in Revival Hospital]. This statement is found in Ex.P-23, FIR written by K.B. Singh (P.W.23), and not in Ex.P13 dying declaration.

24. When we look at the dying declaration, it is not inspiring confidence in the mind of this Court and throws serious doubt that the same is a product of tutoring by the family members of the deceased for the reason that, the sister of the deceased who was present when the deceased was admitted in the hospital had signed in Ex.P-2 wherein it is stated that it was an accident and nobody has burnt the deceased, but later she turned around and stated that unless she signed on that, they were told that the deceased would not be treated, and the High Court has taken this fact into consideration, whereas in the dying declaration, the deceased has stated that when her parents came to the hospital on 06.08.2003, she informed to the parents for the first time and she had not mentioned that she informed her sister or anybody before that, but according to the sister of the deceased, on 02.08.2003, she was aware of this, which shows that the evidence of the witness is not reliable and clouded with doubt.

53. Counsel for the appellant has relied upon the the decision in Kanti Lal vs. State of Rajasthan, (2009) 12 SCC 498 wherein the the Supreme Court with reference to the admissibility of the Dying Declaration has held as under :

32. It is well settled that one of the important tests of the credibility of the dying declaration is that the person, who recorded it, must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind. For placing implicit reliance on dying declaration, the court must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to narrate the correct facts of occurrence. If the capacity of the maker of the statement to narrate the facts is found to be impaired, such dying declaration should be rejected, as it is highly unsafe to place reliance on it. The dying declaration should be voluntary and should not be prompted and physical as well as mental fitness of the maker is to be proved by the prosecution.

33. In the present case, as noticed above DW 2 has not taken any certificate from the doctor to prove that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to give statement nor he has recorded any endorsement to that effect on the alleged dying declaration (Ext. D-4). Another factor which impairs the credibility of the alleged dying declaration (Ext. D-4) and belies the statement of DW 2 was that, according to Dr. Vasudev, dying declaration was recorded by the reader of the Tahsildar and not by DW 2.

34. It is also proved on record that DW 2 did not ask preliminary questions from the deceased before the dying declaration allegedly made by her was recorded and this fact also created doubt about the correctness and truthfulness of the dying declaration. It is also the evidence of DW 2 that after recording the alleged statement of the deceased, he did not seal the dying declaration and the unsealed document was handed over to the Station House Officer. DW 2 has not produced on record the original copy of the "tehreer" submitted to him by a constable requesting him to visit the hospital for recording the alleged dying declaration of the deceased, and a carbon copy whereof was produced by him during his cross-examination.

35. A categorical refusal of putting her signature or thumb impression on the alleged dying declaration (Ext. D-4) by PW 6 Bhanvri (the mother of the deceased) would further go to prove that the alleged dying declaration was not at all recorded by DW 2 in the room of the hospital where the deceased was lying before she died.

36. The abovestated facts and circumstances would prove that the alleged dying declaration, on which much reliance has been placed by the defence, cannot be said to be an admissible and reliable document. The fact that the alleged dying declaration (Ext. D-4) did not bear endorsement of DW 2 to the effect that it was read over and explained to the deceased, also created a doubt on its credibility and truthfulness.

37. The trial court as well as the High Court both have concurrently and, in our considered view, have rightly rejected the genuineness and credibility of the alleged dying declaration to prove the defence version that the deceased made the said statement to DW 2 and she died because of accidental death. We agree with the findings and reasoning of the courts below that the alleged dying declaration (Ext. D-4) suffers from a number of basic infirmities and such dying declaration cannot be found admissible and accepted as a genuine document.

38. Ms Aishwarya, learned counsel, has relied upon the judgment of this Court in Gaffar Badshaha Pathan v. State of Maharashtra [(2004) 10 SCC 589 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 2037] to contend that it is one thing for an accused to attack a dying declaration in a case where the prosecution seeks to rely on a dying declaration against an accused but it is altogether different where an accused relies upon a dying declaration in support of the defence of accidental death. In such case, the burden on the accused is much lighter.

39. In the present case, according to the learned counsel, A-1 and A-3 have established beyond reasonable doubt that the statement of the deceased was recorded by DW 2 with bona fide intention and without putting any pressure upon the deceased and therefore, the document has to be accepted as an admissible and reliable document to indicate that the deceased died due to accidental fire.

40. We have gone through the abovecited judgment in Gaffar Badshaha Pathan [(2004) 10 SCC 589 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 2037] . In that case, this Court while dealing with the dying declaration produced on record held as under: (SCC p. 590f-h)

"It is one thing for an accused to attack a dying declaration in a case where the prosecution seeks to rely on a dying declaration against an accused but it is altogether different where an accused relies upon a dying declaration in support of the defence of accidental death. The burden on the accused is much lighter. He has only to prove reasonable probability. The High Court erred in holding that the recording of the dying declaration and story stated therein apparently appears to be false and concocted. ... the fact whether the dying declaration is false and concocted has to be established by the prosecution. It is not for the accused to prove conclusively that the dying declaration was correct and the story therein was not concocted."

41. In Ghurphekan v. State of U.P. [(1972) 3 SCC 361 : 1972 SCC (Cri) 531] this Court while dealing with the case which entirely rested on dying declaration of the deceased held as under: (SCC p. 362)

"(i) A dying declaration, recorded within a few hours after the incident, when it bore the endorsement of the doctor, that the victim was at that time in 'proper senses' to be able to give the statement and where the evidence of the recording Magistrate showed no flaw in taking it down, there is no reason to reject it.

(ii) Where the dying declaration had two weaknesses, namely, it did not mention the name of one of the witnesses present at the spot and it did not account for the injuries on the persons of the attacking party, it cannot be rejected on those omissions only, if otherwise it could be shown to be true in other respects, by other satisfactory evidence.

(iii) Where the circumstantial evidence negatived the alternative case set up by the defence and the investigating officer's evidence about the place of incident, the medical officer's evidence in support of the prosecution about the manner of the occurrence of the incident, and the explanation of some witnesses for their presence at the spot, are consistent with the dying statement and the circumstantial evidence; the dying declaration possesses acceptability in spite of any weaknesses pointed out by the defence."

42. In Kans Raj v. State of Punjab [(2000) 5 SCC 207 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 935] this Court held (SCC p. 218, para 11) that the statement of a person "as to any of the circumstances ... which resulted in his death" must have some close and proximate relation with the actual occurrence and proximity would depend upon the circumstances of each case for the purpose of admissibility of such statement as dying declaration under Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act, 1872.

43. In Kamalakar Nandram Bhavsar v. State of Maharashtra [(2004) 10 SCC 192 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 495] this Court on scrutiny of the evidence on record found that the victim of dowry death/bride burning had suffered burn injuries to the extent of 94-95% could not have made dying declaration as stated by the doctor during the cross-examination that a dying declaration was made by the victim when she was in hospital. The alleged dying declaration was admitted in evidence at the behest of the defence by the trial court supportive to the defence of the accused. On the facts of the case, this Court observed that the source of production of dying declaration was neither mentioned in the trial court's judgment nor was there any evidence to prove the said document. In these circumstances, this Court held that the High Court had rightly rejected the said dying declaration.

44. In the present case, as noticed in the earlier part of the judgment A-1 and A-3 have not proved on record the source of production of the dying declaration by DW 2 who after recording the statement of the deceased was duty bound to hand over the alleged dying declaration under a sealed cover to the prosecuting agency. In this case, the origin and source of the alleged dying declaration produced by DW 2 at the time of his examination as a defence witness is highly doubtful and such document cannot be accepted as genuine and truthful document in support of the defence of A-1 and A-3.

45. In State (Delhi Admn.) v. Laxman Kumar [(1985) 4 SCC 476 : 1986 SCC (Cri) 2] this Court while dealing with a case of bride burning on the basis of dying declaration, held as follows: (SCC pp. 488 & 490, paras 21 & 25)

"21. ... A dying declaration enjoys almost a sacrosanct status as a piece of evidence as it comes from [the] mouth of a person who is about to die and at that stage of life he is not likely to make a false statement. ...

25. ... Ordinarily, a document as valuable as a dying declaration is supposed to be foolproof and is to incorporate the particulars which it is supposed to contain."

Further, it is held that: (Laxman Kumar case [(1985) 4 SCC 476 : 1986 SCC (Cri) 2] , SCC p. 492, para 28)

"28. ... unless the dying declaration is in question and answer form it is very difficult to know to what extent the answers have been suggested by questions put. What is necessary is that the exact statement made by the deceased should be available to the court."

It is also said that if the doctor happened to be present at the time of recording of the dying declaration and he had heard the statement made by the deceased, he would ordinarily endorse that the statement had been made to his hearing and had been recorded in his presence. The endorsement as made is indicative of the position that a statement had been recorded and the same was being attested by the doctor.

46. In the present case, these basic principles are ignored by DW 2 at the time of recording of the alleged dying declaration of the deceased. As noticed above, the doctor has not made any endorsement on the dying declaration to state that it was recorded in his presence and attested by him. The mother of the deceased refused to put her thumb impression on the said document. Thus, the judgment cited above cannot strengthen the defence of A-1 and A-3 that the dying declaration, Ext. D-4 had been recorded by DW 2 by observing the principles laid down in the above-said case.

47. The prosecution in support of the charge of dowry death has produced and relied upon the testimony of PW 5 Parasmal, father; PW 6 Bhanvri, mother and PW 8 Mahender Kumar, "mama" (mother's brother) of the deceased. Before we proceed to deal with and consider the evidence of the prosecution on the question of dowry death, we may consider the ratio of the law laid down in the cases relied upon before us.

48. In Pawan Kumar v. State of Haryana [(1998) 3 SCC 309 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 740] this Court held that: (SCC p. 314, para 6)

"6. ... The ingredients necessary for the application of Section 304-B are:(a) When the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury, or

(b) occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances,

(c) and the aforesaid two facts spring within 7 years of girl's marriage,

(d) and soon before her death, she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relative,

(e) this is in connection with the demand of dowry."

49. In Hira Lal v. State (Govt. of NCT), Delhi [(2003) 8 SCC 80 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 2016] this Court reiterated that the essential ingredients to attract application under Section 304-B are that: (SCC p. 81b-c)

"(i) the death of a woman should be caused by burns or bodily injury or otherwise than under a normal circumstance, (ii) such a death should have occurred within seven years of her marriage, (iii) she must have been subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband, (iv) such cruelty or harassment should be for or in connection with demand of dowry, and (v) such cruelty or harassment is shown to have been meted out to the woman soon before her death."

Further it is said that the presumption under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act, 1872 is a presumption of law.

"... On proof of the essentials mentioned therein, it becomes obligatory on the court to raise a presumption that the accused caused the dowry death. The essentials required to be proved for raising the said presumption are that (i) the question before the court must be whether the accused has committed the dowry death of the woman, (ii) the woman was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relatives, (iii) such cruelty or harassment was for or in connection with any demand for dowry, and (iv) such cruelty or harassment was soon before her death." (Hira Lal case [(2003) 8 SCC 80 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 2016] , SCC p. 81c-d)

50. Again, in Kamesh Panjiyar v. State of Bihar [(2005) 2 SCC 388 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 511] , Ram Badan Sharma v. State of Bihar [(2006) 10 SCC 115 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 166] , Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra [(2006) 10 SCC 681 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 80] , Kailashv. State of M.P. [(2006) 12 SCC 667 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 359] and Appasaheb v. State of Maharashtra [(2007) 9 SCC 721 : (2007) 3 SCC (Cri) 468] this Court reiterated and reasserted the settled principles laid down in Hira Lal case [(2003) 8 SCC 80 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 2016] ."

54. After hearing the counsel for the parties, we find merit in the present appeal for the following reasons :

A. None of the witnesses of fact i.e. PW-1, father-informant, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-6, the real brothers of the deceased, has supported the prosecution version. Though PW-1 in chief examination has stated on the line of the F.I.R., however, in cross examination he has disowned his statement in Ex. Ka-1 forming basis of Chik F.I.R. (Ex.Ka-3) and has rather gone to the extent of saying that his daughter was of a feeble mind and sustained accidental burn injuries while cooking food. He further stated that when he had gone to the hospital, his daughter told him that while cooking food, she sustained burn injuries. This witness also stated that in the cremation of his daughter, his family and the family of accused side were present and there was no demand of dowry.

The two real brothers of the deceased have also stated that there was no demand of dowry and victim was happy in her matrimonial house. PW-3 has stated that her sister has developed irritable habit and was headstrong stubborn person. She sustained burn injuries while cooking food. Even PW-6, the other brother of the deceased, has not supported the prosecution version and rather stated that her sister was disturbed on account of non conceiving a child and committed suicide though her in-laws were treating her in a nice manner. Similar is the statement of PW-2, the mother of the deceased. She has also not supported the prosecution version. PW-4, who is the wife of PW-3, has also stated that the deceased died due to accidental burn injuries. One independent witness i.e. PW-5 who is the mediator in the marriage has also not supported the prosecution version.

All the prosecution witnesses i.e. PW-1 to PW-6 have even denied having made any statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the police and, therefore, none of them have supported the prosecution version.

B. The sole ground for conviction of the appellants as held by the Trial Court is the Dying Declaration which was recorded by PW-10, an Executive Magistrate. However, in the light of the decisions in Dattatrya's Case, Shambhubhai Kalabhai Raval's Case, Umakant's Case and Kanti Lal's Case (Supra), we find that the Dying Declaration cannot be relied upon for the following reasons :

(i) PW-1, father of the deceased, stated in cross examination that when he visited, his daughter told him that her father-in-law and brother-in-law (devar) exhorted to pour ker osene oil on her. Her brother-in-law, Vijay, against whom the police did not submit challan, poured kerosene oil and her husband lit the fire whereas her father-in-law and brother-in-law, Jeet Singh, were standing there. In contrast to the statement of PW-1, in the Dying Declaration, the victim stated that "Gharwale" exhorted and asked Dilawar to light the fire and her husband poured kerosene oil but she did not know who lit the fire. Her husband came after consuming liquor and then said that he was going somewhere and threatened to put her on fire. Upon which, the victim stated that he may do so and then her husband lit the fire.

The two versions given by PW-1 and in the Dying Declaration are quite contradictory.

(ii) In the Dying Declaration recorded by PW-10 has two endorsements of the doctor one at the top and one at the bottom. At both places, there is seal of E.M.O., S.N.M. Hospital with initial of the Doctor but, the name of the doctor is not mentioned in both the endorsement. The doctor has stated that the victim-Shashi is fully conscious and can give her Dying Declaration. On the bottom, again the doctor stated that during recording of the Dying Declaration she was conscious. It is surprising that the doctor has given such endorsement that the victim can give her Dying Declaration though in ordinary course, the doctor gives an opinion that the victim is in the fit state of mind to get her statement recorded. This raises serious suspicion that the endorsement on the top and bottom of the Dying Declaration where the doctor has used the word "Dying Declaration" instead of "Statement" show that these endorsements were made subsequently when the deceased died and that is why the term "Dying Declaration" has been used instead of "Statement". In both the endorsements, the Doctor has not given any opinion that the victim was in a fit state of mind to get her statement recorded and it is only stated that she is conscious to give her dying declaration. Therefore, in the absence of any specific opinion by the doctor that the victim is in fit mental state to give the statement, the Dying Declaration become highly suspicious.

(iii) In the light of the decisions referred to above, PW-10 has not recorded his satisfaction by asking some preliminary questions that the victim was in a fit mental condition to make her statement specially when the doctor who made the endorsement was not examined. Even his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was not recorded.

(iv) There is no corroboration by any family members i.e. PW-1 to PW-6 that PW-10 had recorded the Dying Declaration naming the accused.

(v) In the Dying Declaration, nothing is recorded that on account of demand of dowry or maltreatment or that the victim was subjected to cruelty due to which her husband by pouring kerosene oil has lit the fire.

(vi) A careful perusal of statements of PW-1 to PW-6, the witnesses of facts, show that no motive is attributed to the accused. Even in Dying Declaration, no motive is attributed.

(vii) There is no witness on Dying Declaration though it has come in evidence that the father, mother, and brothers of deceased were present at the spot.

(viii) There is no endorsement by PW-10 that after recording the dying declaration, he has read over the same to the victim and after understanding the same, she has put her thumb impression.

Therefore, the Dying Declaration is doubtful and is not reliable and benefit of doubt has to be given to the accused.

C. As per the statement of the doctor who treated both the victims i.e. deceased-Shashi and Accused-Dilawar Singh, both the victims had sustained burn injuries. As per his statement, victim-Shashi sustained burn injuries on the front portion of her body and there were few injuries on the back side of her body which suggest that she sustained burn injuries in accidental fire. Similarly, appellant-Dilawar Singh has sustained burn injuries on the front side of his body i.e. neck, chest and both the hands which also suggest that while dousing the fire, he sustained the burn injuries.

D. It has come in the statement of PW-1, father of the victim and PW3 & 6, the two real brothers of the victim-deceased, that the victim was arrogant and short tempered and she was mentally disturbed for not bearing a child. PW-6 has gone to the extent that she has committed suicide on that account which supports the defence version that the deceased died due to accidental fire.

55. In view of the above, the present appeal is allowed and the appellants are acquitted of the charges. As noticed above, one of the appellants namely Jagat Singh has died.

Appellant-Dilawar Singh was never granted bail and as of today he has undergone more than 12 years and 5 months of actual sentence. Appellant-Virendra Singh who was awarded 10 years of rigorous imprisonment has also undergone substantive sentence as he was granted bail by this Court.

56. Accordingly, judgment of conviction and order of sentence is set aside. Bail bond of accused Virendra is discharged. Appellant Dilawar Singh be released from the custody forthwith if he is not required in any other case.

57. The Trial Court's record be remitted back.

58. Mr. Arun Kumar Singh (A/A 1906/2012), learned Amicus Curiae, appointed by the Court be paid his fee by the High Court Legal Services Committee.

यह कहना गलत है कि मेरे पिता जी बदमाशों से कीमती सामान गिरोगाठ के रूप में रख लिया हो उनके द्वारा पैसा देने के बावजूद सामान वापस न किया गया हो इसी कारण बदमाशों के द्वारा मेरे पिता जी के हत्या अंधेरे में अज्ञात समय में चोट पहुंचायी हो।

यह कहना भी गलत है कि मेरे पिता जी ने घटना के एक साल पहले व्यवसाय के लिए 50 हजार रूपया मुल्जिम अम्बिका सोनी से लिया हो समय पर पैसा न दे पाने पर अम्बिका सोनी व उसके लड़कों से कहा सुनी हुयी हो जिसमें आप व आपके घर वालों ने बरवाद करने की धमकी दिया हो। इसी रंजिश के कारण आपने बदमाशों के द्वारा की गयी घटना में अम्बिका सोनी व उसके लड़को को मुल्जिम बना दिया हो।''

In further cross examination by other co-accused, this witness stated as under :

"मैंने रिपोर्ट प्रदर्श क-1 में यह नहीं लिखाया था कि पप्पू सोनी व विमल सोनी आ गये। मैंने प्रदर्श क-1 में पप्पू सोनी व विमल सोनी ने मेरे पिताजी के हाथ पैर पकड़ लिये नहीं लिखाया था। दरोगा जी ने मुझसे एक बार बयान लिया था घटना के 4 दिन बाद लगभग लिया था। मैंने दरोगा जी को अपने बयान में यह बताया था कि पप्पू सोनी व विमल सोनी ने मेरे पिता जी के हाथ पैर पकड़ लिये। यदि उन्होंने मेरे बयान में लिखा न होता तो मैं इसका कोई कारण नहीं बता सकता। मैं पप्पू सोनी को घटना के पहले से नाम व शक्ल से अच्छी तरह पहचानता

पप्पू सोनी मुल्जिम ने या उसके परिवारीजन ने कभी भी सोनारी अथवा किसी अन्य प्रकार की दूकान नहीं किया। पप्पू सोनी के बाबा का नाम विष्णु लाल है और अभी जिन्दा है। विष्णुलाल के भाई ज्ञानेन्द्र को नहीं जानता। यह कितने भाई है मैं यह भी नहीं जानता। विष्णुलाल के दो लड़के करन सोनी व राजू सोनी को जानता हूँ बाकी को नहीं जानता। मैं अपने गांव के विपिन, विमल पुत्रगण अम्बिका प्रसाद व अम्बिका प्रसाद पुत्र सीताराम को जानता हूँ। जिस मुकदमे में मैं आज गवाही दे रहा हूँ। उसमें विमल व अम्बिका उपरोक्त मुल्जिम है। मुझे नहीं मालूम कि ज्ञानेन्द्र कुमार उपरोक्त ने विपिन, विमल व अम्बिका के विरूद्ध चोरी का मुकदमा थाना थरियांव में लिखाया या नहीं मुझे नहीं मालूम। उस मुकदमें में उक्त विपिन बगैरह के विरूद्ध मुल्जिम पप्पू सोनी के बाबा विष्णुलाल ने अदालत में गवाही दिया या नहीं।"

हो गयी। दरोगा जी ने घटना के सम्बन्ध में पूंछतांछ किया था।''

He was also doing the business on credit basis and was also doing business of jewellery. Himanshu Soni and Ambika Soni are exclusively doing the work of jewellery. His father never informed that Raj Bahadur had taken money from his father and he was not returning the same. He further stated that his statement was recorded by the police after 3-4 days.

In further cross examination, he stated that when they took their father to the hospital, his clothes were not bloodstained though he had picked up his father in injured condition and took him in an Ambulance which was called by some person of the village. In cross examination by other accused Pappu Singh, this witness stated as under :

"इस मुकदमें के सम्बन्ध में पुलिस ने मेरा दो बार लिया। पहली बार बयान घटना के तीन चार दिन बाद घर पर बयान लिया था। पहली बार बयान में मैने विवेचक को "नामजद मुल्जिमों के साथ पप्पू सोनी के आने की बात व विमल सोनी व पप्पू सोनी ने पिता जी के पैर पकड़ लिया" मैंने विवेचक को यह भी बता दिया था कि "जब हिमांशु सोनी व नन्दू सिंह मार रहे थे उस समय भी पप्पू सोनी व विमल सोनी पिता जी के पैर पकड़ थे।" मैंने दरोगाजी को उस बयान में यह भी बता दिया था कि "नामजद मुल्जिमानों के साथ पप्पू सोनी व विमल सोनी गाली गलौज करते हुए व जान से मारने की धमकी देते हुए भाग गये" अगर उक्त बाते मेरे बयान में न लिखी हो तो मैं कोई कारण नहीं बता सकता।

मैंने दरोगा जी को यह बयान दोबारा वाले बयान में नहीं बतायी कि "यह सब पप्पू सोनी पुत्र करन सोनी नि० हसवा थाना थरियांव के शह पर (कहने पर) किये" यदि उन्होनें मेरे बयान में लिखा हो तो मैं इसका कोई कारण नहीं बता सकता।

विमल सोनी का नाम दूसरे वाले बयान में घटना करने के सम्बन्ध में बताया था। यदि उन्होंने न लिखा हो तो मैं कोई कारण नहीं बता सकता।

मैंने अपने दूसरे वाले बयान में यह बयान नहीं दिया था कि "विमल मेरे परिवार का है मेरी जानकारी में इसका कोई रोल लेना देना नहीं है। विमल सोनी निर्दोष है" उन्होनें मेरे बयान में कैसे लिख लिया मैं कोई कारण नहीं बता सकता।

पप्पू सोनी ने मेरी जानकारी में कभी भी सोनारी की दूकान या बर्तन की दूकान या अन्य दूकान नहीं किया है।

घटना के दो तीन दिन बाद जानकारी हुयी कि मेरे भाई ने पिता जी के साथ हुयी घटना की एफ०आई०आर० लिखायी है। यह बात मेरे भाई राकेश ने मुझे बताया था। मैंने राकेश से एफ०आई०आर० की नकल नहीं मांगी और न उन्होंने मुझे दिखायी। इसलिये मुझे उस समय तक किन किन के खिलाफ एफ०आई०आर० लिखायी गयी जानकारी नहीं थी। एफ०आई०आर० लिखाने के हफ्ते भर बाद मुझे इस बात की जानकारी हुयी कि एफ०आई०आर० केवल चार लोगों के खिलाफ मेरे भाई ने लिखायी है। इस जानकारी के बाद मैंने पुलिस अधिकारी व थाने में इस सम्बन्ध की कोई दरखास्त नहीं दिया। दरख्वास्त न देने का मैं कोई कारण नहीं बता सकता।

मेरी जानकारी में नहीं है कि इस घटना के पहले से पप्पू सोनी व अम्बिका सोनी के परिवार से रंजिश थी और मुकदमें बाजी थी। यह बात सही है कि पप्पू सोनी से इस घटना के पहले मेरी या मेरे परिवार के किसी सदस्य से कोई रंजिश नहीं थी। मैं अपने भाईयों का कहना मानता हूँ।''

यह समय मैंने सी०डी० में नहीं लिखा। उस दिन मैंने विवेचना कितने बजे समाप्त किया। का उल्लेख सी०डी० में नहीं किया। दिनाँक 2/4/2014 को मैंने राकेश कुमार पुत्र अमरनाथ, रमेश पुत्र अमरनाथ, उमेश कुमार सोनी पुत्र अमरनाथ, राजकुमार पुत्र राज बहादुर सोनी व राजबहादुर पुत्र जगदेव सोनी गवाहान के बयानात लिये यह बात सही है की उक्त गवाहन ने अपने उक्त बयानों में नामजद मुल्जिमानों के अलावा अन्य किसी मुल्जिम या पप्पू सोनी पुत्र शिवसरन? सोनी द्वारा घटना करने की बात व घटना में शामिल होने की बात नहीं बताई। राजू पुत्र अमरनाथ का बयान मैंने 6-4-14 को लिया। तब उसने मुझे पप्पू सिह पुत्र करन सिंह का नाम बताया था। मैंने राजू पुत्र अमरनाथ से यह नहीं पूंछा की पप्पू सिंह पुत्र करन सिंह कहा के रहने वाले है इनका क्या पता है।

राजेश कुमार पुत्र अमरनाथ का मजीद बयान मैंने 03/4/14 को लिया था। इस गवाह ने मुझसे यह बताया था। की विमल व पप्पू के बारे में घटना के समय जानकारी नहीं हो पाई थी। अब मुझे जानकारी हुई है। तब मैंने प्रार्थना पत्र दिया है। मैंने इस गवाह से यह नहीं पूछा की आपको किन लोगों ने इनके बारे में दी। और यह जानकारी आपको कब मिली। सम्बन्ध में मैने प्रश्न पूछना आवश्यक नहीं समझा। दिनांक 03-4-14 को मैंने कोई अन्य 27 अभियुक्तगण की अपराध करने में बढ़ोत्तरी नहीं किया।''

"ये सही है कि वादी के ही तहरीर के आधार पर पर चिक काटी गयी थी। इस तहरीर में वादी ने "इस पर अम्बिका, पम्मू, नन्दू ने मेरे पिता का हाथ पैर पकड़ लिये। तथा हिमांशू सोनी अपने हाथ में लिये चापड से मेरे पिता के सर, जबड़े, आँख, गला पर जान से मारने की नियत से हमला शुरू कर दिया।" ये सही है कि वादी ने अपनी तहरीर में नन्दू मुल्जिम को वादी के पिता को चाकू से मारने की बात नहीं लिखी केवल हाथ पैर पकड़ने की बात वादी ने तहरीर में लिखी है ये तहरीर वादी ने दिनांक 28-3-2014 को थाने में दी थी। वादी का राकेश कुमार सोनी है। वादी का बयान मैंने दो बार लिखा। एक दिनांक 02-4-14 को लिखा तथा दूसरा 03-4-14 को लिखा। मैंने वादी से उसके पहले बयान दिनांक 02-4-2014 को इस बात के बताने पर मुल्जिम नन्दू ने घटना के समय अपने हाथ में लिये चाकू से वादी के पिता को मारना बताया। जबकि उसने नन्दू द्वारा घटना में चाकू का इस्तेमाल अपनी तहरीर में नहीं लिखा था। इसका स्पष्टीकरण मैंने उसके बयान लेते समय वादी से नहीं पूंछा। वादी ने चाकू वाली बात साक्षीओं के बताने के आधार पर अपने बयान में बताई थी। क्यों कि वादी घटना के समय वादी से 161 के बयान में चाकू वाली बात आने के बाद मैंने उससे यह स्पष्टीकरण नहीं लिया की आपने चाकू वाली बात एफ०आई०आर० में क्यों नहीं लिखायी। चोटहिल की मृत्यु के सम्बन्ध में जब तक मैं विवेचक रहा उसकी मृत्यु की जानकारी नहीं हुई।"

''इस मुकदमें के चोटहिल अमरनाथ की मृत्यु दिनांक 04-4-14 को हुई। इस मुकदमे की तफतीश मेरे पास दिनांक 28-3-14 से 06-4-14 तक रहीं। ये सही है की मैंने केस डायरी में इस बात का अंकन नहीं किया की ये तफ्तीश मुझसे क्यों की गयी। मैंने वादी राकेश कुमार का बयान दुबारा 03-4-14 को लिया। मैंने दिनांक 3-4-14 के वादी के दूसरे बयान में भी मुल्जिम नन्दू द्वारा घटना में चाकू का प्रयोग करने की बात बताने की बात के बाद मैंने गवाह से तहरीर में नन्दू द्वारा चाकू का स्तेमाल की न लिखे होने का कारण जरूरी नहीं समझे। यह कहना गलत है कि नन्दू मुल्जिम द्वारा घटना में चाकू के इस्तेमाल? की मेरे स्वयं के दिमाग के उपज रहीं।

This witness further stated that Amarnath died on 4.4.2014 and investigation remained with PW-6 from 28.3.2014 to 6.4.2014. He further stated that he recorded the statement of Rakesh Kumar. However, he did not deem it proper to mention the knife used by the accused Nandu. He denied suggestion that use of knife by Nandu was, in fact, introduced by himself. On a specific question whether informant Rakesh has said in his statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. that he has seen the occurrence from his own eyes. This witness replied that informant informant did not tell this fact clearly either in first or in second statement. He further stated that two recoveries i.e. Ex. Ka-1 and 2 were made till the time the investigation remained with him but he did not send it for forensic examination. He has not made entry regarding case diary in respect of dispositing of the property in the police Malkhana. He stated that in Ex. Ka-13, there is over writing on the month of date 2.4.2014 and has not done his initial signature. In the recovery memo Ex. Ka-13 again there is cutting regarding mattress and he has not put his initial signature. There is another over writing regarding Chhote Lal Patel where the date is changed and thus he denied that he has prepared this document in collusion with the informant side.

PW-6, in further cross examination by other accused stated as under :-

''घटना की सूचना मिलने पर मै घटना स्थल पर दिनांक 27.03.2014 को समय शाम 6.45 बजे पहुंचा था। तक प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दर्ज नहीं हुई थी। मौ के पर पहुंचने के सम्बन्ध में मेरे द्वारा उक्त बात का कोई उल्लेख जी०डी० पर नहीं किया। मेरे द्वारा उच्च अधिकारियों को घटना के सम्बन्ध में सूचना दी गयी। मेरे द्वारा मौके से लौटकर उच्च अधिकारियों को सूचना दी गयी कि अमरनाथ को चाकू से मारा गया है जो गम्भीर रूप से घायाल था जिसे इलाज के लिए अस्पताल ले जाया गया है। उसे किसने मारा है इस बात की मेरे द्वारा उच्च अधिकारियों को कोई सूचना नहीं दी गयी थी। इसके बाद मैं प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट अंकित होने के पश्चात् दिनांक 02.04.2014 को घटना स्थल पर गया था। फिर कहा कि दिनांक 29.03.2014 को मौकाये वारदात मैं कितने बजे पहुंचा था इस समय याद नहीं है। पहुंचने के समय का मैने केस डायरी में उल्लेख नहीं किया है। यह बात सही है कि पहले वाली सूचना अज्ञात व्यक्ति के द्वारा जो मिली थी उसके आधार पर जब मैं मौके पर पहुंचा था उसका समय मुझे याद है किन्तु विवेचना ग्रहण करने के पश्चात् जब मै प्रथम बार घटना स्थल पर पहुंचा तो उसका समय मुझे याद नहीं है। विवेचना ग्रहण के पश्चात् जब मैं पहली बार घटना स्थल पर पहुंचा तो मैं और मेरे साथ मात्र दो सिपाही थे और इसके अलवा अन्य कोई नहीं था। घटना स्थल पर कार्यवाही करने के पश्चात् हम तीनों लोग वापस चौकी आ गये थे।

आला कतल (चापड) बरामद होने वाला स्थान खुला स्थान है। और उस खुले स्थान पर ईंट रखे थे और वह जगह आम रास्ते से लगा हुआ तथा अभियुक्त के घर के बगल में है। लगभग पांच हजार ईंटें थी जो चट्टे के रूप में थीं। यह चापड (आला कतल) लगभग सौ ईंटें हटाने के पश्चात् मिला था। बरामद आला कतल ईटों के पूरवी उत्तरी कोने से बरामद हुआ था। मुझे इस समय याद नहीं है कि आला कतल जिन ईंटों पर रखा था उन ईंटों पर खून लगा था या नहीं। मैने बरामदगी वाले मौके से कोई ईंटा ऐसा बरामद नहीं किया जिस पर खून लगा रहा हो। मुझे मुल्जिम ने यह बताया था कि यह आला कतल मार कर भागते समय यहां पर छिपा दिया था। मुल्जिम को गिरफ्तार करने के बाद उसे मारा पीटा नहीं था उसने प्रेम से जुल्म इकबाल कर लिया था। पकड़ने के तुरन्त बाद अभियुक्त ने मुझे प्रेम से घटना के सम्बन्ध में जुर्म इकबाल करते हुए बता दिया था। इसके पूर्व अभियुक्त पुलिस से बचता हुआ फरार घूम रहा था। आला कतल बरामद करने के बाद थाने ले गये थे। थाने पहुंचने पर हम लोगों में से तथा मेरा हमराह सिपाही व मुल्जिम था। थाने ले जाने के बाद जी०डी० में तस्करा किया और बरामदगी सम्बन्धी लिखा पढ़ी किया।

घटना स्थल के सामने रास्ता उत्तर दक्षिण को गया है। घटना स्थल वाले मकान पर बैंक है। जिस पर कर्मचारी व चौकीदार रहते है। घटना स्थल के अगल बगल आस पास जितने भी मकानात है सभी रिहायसी है। जिनमें लोग रहते हैं। जब मैं पहली बार सूचना पर घटना स्थल पर पहुंचा था तो आस पास के रहने वाले लोग घटना स्थल पर मिले थे। मेरे बहुत पूंछने के बाद भी किसी ने घटना के बारे में मुझे कोई जानकारी नहीं दी थी। घटना स्थल पर परिवार के लोग भी रहे होंगे लेकिन मुझे घटना के सम्बन्ध किसी ने कोई जानकारी नहीं दी थी। प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दर्ज होने के पश्चात् घटना करने वालों के बारे में मुझे जानकारी प्राप्त हुई इसके पहले मुझे इस सम्बन्ध में कोई जानकारी नहीं प्राप्त हुई थी।''

13. PW-7, Kesh Pal Singh, Sub Inspector, stated that on receiving the information regarding the death of Amarnath on 4.4.2014, he visited the hospital and prepared the Panchayatnama which is Ex. Ka-16. Thereafter, the dead body was sent for postmortem to the Chief Medical Officer by taking photograph of the dead body and the same is Ex. Ka-17 to Ex. Ka-20. In cross examination, this witness stated that in the Panchyatnama, two witnesses Raju and Umesh are the son of the deceased Amarnath. In the Panchyatnama these two persons did not state that Amnarnath died due to injury caused by knife and Chapad. He admits that at the time of Panchyatnama there is over writing and there is no initial signature. He denied the suggestion that Panchayatnama and other documents were anti timed.

14. CW-1, Dr. Shashi Kumar Gulati from Regency Hospital, Kanpur stated that deceased Amarnath was admitted on 28.3.2014 by his son Rakesh Kumar. Dr. Jayant Verma, Neuro Surgen, operated the deceased on 30.3.2014 and thereafter CW-1 Dr. Shashi Kumar Gulati also conducted second operation. He proved hospital record as Ex. Ka-8. In cross examination, he stated that the injured was operated by CW-2, Neuro Surgen on 30.3.2014 and thereafter he conducted the operation. The injured has again gained consciousness and this fact has been mentioned at Sl No. 53, A/6 of the hospital record, which is signed by his son and one Raju.

15. CW-2, Dr. Jayant Verma, Neuro Surgen, Regdency Hospital, Kanpur stated that on 30.3.2014 he operated on head of the injured Amarnath and proved the hospital record as Ex.Ka-8. In cross examination, this witness stated as under :-

" दि० 28-3-2014 के लगभग 12 बजे चोटहिल अमरनाथ को भर्ती किया गया था। मेरे द्वारा चोटहिल के सर का आपरेशन किया गया था। मेरे द्वारा दाखिल किये गये चिकित्सीय प्रपत्रों में यह उल्लेख नहीं आया कि किसके द्वारा चोट पहुंचायी गयी है। मात्र इस बात का उल्लेख आया कि कुछ लोगों द्वारा चोटहिल को चोट पहुंचायी गयी। मेरे द्वारा चोटहिल के आपरेशन करने के पश्चात दिनांक 29-3-2014 को होश में आ गया था। मेरे द्वारा लाये गये प्रपत्रों में ऐसा कोई उल्लेख नहीं है कि पुलिस को पहले या बाद में सूचना दी गयी हो। मेरे द्वारा दाखिल प्रपत्रो के अवलोकन के पश्चात चोटहिल के सिर, आंख (चेहरा) के अलावा चोटहिल के शरीर पर और कोई चोट का उल्लेख नहीं है।"

16. Thereafter, the statement of the witness under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded and incriminating evidence was put to them. This witness stated that an anti time case is recorded implicating the accused persons falsely. Regarding question No. 14, which was made to Himanshu Soni, he has stated as under :-

"प्र०नं0-14 आपने सभी गवाहों के बयान सुने इस सम्बन्ध में आपको क्या कहना है ?

उत्तर- पी०डब्लू० 1 व 2 उधार पैसा लेन-देन के विवाद के कारण झूठी साक्ष्य व शेष सरकारी गवाह होने के कारण।

प्र०नं० 15 आपके विरूद्ध मुकदमा क्यों चला ?

उत्तर- उधार पैसों के लेन-देन के विवाद के कारण।

प्र०नं0-16 क्या आपको सफाई देनी है?

प्र०नं-17 क्या आपको कुछ और कहना है ?

मैंने पचास हजार रु० मृतक को उधार दिया था किन्तु कई बार माँगने के बावजूद भी उसने रूपये वापस नहीं किए इसी पर कहा सुनी हुई थी। जब अज्ञात बदमाशों द्वारा मृतक को मार दिया गया तो मृतक के लड़कों ने पुलिस से साजिश करके यह मुकदमा कराया।"

17. Ambika Prasad in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. also stated on same line and regarding question no. 14 to 17, he also stated that on account of money dispute by PW-1 and PW-2, they have been falsely implicated. The deceased had taken rupees fifty thousand as a loan but it was not returned and some unknown persons have killed him but they have been nominated falsely in this case. Pummu Soni, in reply, stated that due to party conviction in the village, he has been falsely implicated in this case by the police though he has not committed any offence and rather he has told enmity with Ambika Prasad.

18. Nandu, in his statement, further stated that due to party conviction he has been falsely implicated and he has no role in committing offence.

19. Thereafter, the accused side led their evidence. DW-1, Indrasjeet Singh an independent witness was produced who stated as under :-

''सशपथ बयान किया - दिनांक 27-3-14 को मैं अपनी दुकान में था उस समय शाम के 6-1/2 बजे थे। अमरनाथ की दुकान की तरफ से शोर सुनाई दिया कि दौड़ो बदमाश आ गये है मार रहे हैं शोर सुनकर मैं तुरन्त ललकारते हुये अमरनाथ की दुकान पहुंचा जब मैं अमरनाथ की दुकान पहुंचा तो बदमाशान अमरनाथ को चुटहिल हालत में छोड़कर भाग गये थे। मैंने अमर नाथ से पूंछा कि तुम्हे किन लोगों ने मारा है कि उसने बताया कि अंधेरे की वजह से मारने वालों को मैं पहचान नहीं पाया हूँ। जो लोग अमरनाथ को मार रहे थे वो लोग मेरे गांव हस्वा के नहीं थे। जैसे ही मैं अमरनाथ के पास पहुंचा वैसे ही 10-15 लोग गांव के और आ गये थे जिनमें उनके लड़के राकेश कुमार सोनी, उमेश कुमार सोनी व रमेश कुमार सोनी भी आ गये थे। इसके बाद अमरनाथ के लड़के अमरनाथ को एम्बोलेन्स से लादकर अस्पताल ले गये थे। गवाहान ने हाजिर अदालत मुल्जिमान को देखकर कहा यह लोग नहीं थे। अमरनाथ को मारने में यह लोग नहीं थे। मुल्जिमान हाजिर अदालत हिमांशू सोनी, नन्दू सिंह, अम्बिका सोनी, पप्पू सोनी, पम्मू सोनी, अमरनाथ को मारने वालो में नहीं थे। मुल्जिमान हाजिर अदालत मेरे गांव के है और मैं घटना के पहले से जानता पहचानता हूँ।''

20. In cross examination by the Public Prosecutor, he stated that he did not know whether any Chapad was used or not. He met the police after the incident and informed about the same to the police, but police did not record his statement.

21. Trial Court thereafter vide its judgment of conviction and order of sentence convicted and sentenced the appellants as discussed above. Being aggrieved by the impugned judgment, the appellants have filed four separate appeals.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant has made the following submissions:

A. It is argued that both PW-1 and PW-2 are the sons of deceased and apart from them there is no other witness of fact. It is argued that both of them are interested witnesses and it has come in their statement that the place of incidence was a public place and lot of people were there, however, no independent witness was examined by the prosecution. It is also submitted that one of the neighbour- Indrajeet Singh was also present but he was also not examined as a prosecution witness though he was examined as a defence witnesses.

B. It is next argued that there is a delay in lodging the FIR. It is submitted that the FIR has been lodged after due consultation and consideration. As per the prosecution witnesses, the information regarding the incident was given immediately to the police but the FIR was lodged on the next date at around 4:00 PM. The counsel submits that the incident took place on 27.03.2014 at about 6:30 PM and PW-1 has given the complaint to the police Ex.Ka-1 in which he has named persons, namely, Himanshu Soni, Ambika Soni and Pammu Soni and subsequently by giving another undated complaint, two more accused namely, Vimal Soni and Nandu Singh were introduced.

C. It is argued that there is a lot of variation in the two complaints i.e. Ex.Ka-1 which formed the basis of the chik FIR is Ex.Ka-3 and the undated subsequent complaint is Ex.Ka-2 as it is stated by PW-1 that later on he came to know from witnesses that two more persons Vimal Soni and Nandu Soni were also there and Nandu Soni gave knife injuries to his father. Learned counsel submits that the subsequent complaint Ex.Ka-2 was introduced just to bring the injuries sustained by deceased Amarnath to corroborate with knife injuries and at the first instance, it is stated that Himanshu Soni caused injury with a chapad (an instrument used for cutting meat). Learned counsel submits that no date has come on record regarding the second complaint which is totally an after thought and is made just to fill up the lacunae of the prosecution evidence.

D. It is next argued that prosecution has failed to prove motive as it is stated that on account of opening a jewellery shop, the accused side attacked the victim- Amarnath with a motive that he is trying to influence the customer of the accused side. Learned counsel submits that it has come in the statement of PW-1 that his family had three shops of utensils in village- Haswa, one shop was at home which was managed by his mother, the second shop was in the market which his brother Raju was managing the affairs and third shop was near Bank of Baroda where the incident took place and his father was managing the same. Learned counsel submits that the prosecution has failed to prove that the informant side had any shop of jewellery, for which the motive is attributed that accused side felt offended that the deceased was trying to influence their customers in the business of jewellery shop.

E. Learned counsel submits that the only evidence which has come against the appellant is that as per PW-2, his father’s maternal uncle's son one Raj Bahadur was also doing a business of utensil shop and in the same he was also doing the work of sale purchase of jewellery, however, Raj Bahadur was never examined as prosecution witness to support the fact. It is argued that even PW-2 has not stated so in his statement and therefore, the motive is not proved. Learned counsel further argued that it has come in the statement of PW-1 that the deceased Amarnath was doing the work of pledging the goods of people by giving loan and on that rivalry, some unknown persons has committed the offence. It is also argued that PW-1 was confronted with his statement made to the police where he stated that in Ex.Ka-3, he has not mentioned the name of Pappu Soni and he cannot tell if the I.O. has not so recorded in his statement under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. Learned counsel argued that this witness in cross-examination admitted that in his statement, the I.O. has not recorded about catching hold of the hands and feet of his father by the accused person and he cannot tell the reason.

F. Learned counsel next argued that PW-1 is not at all an eye witness as it is a clear from the facts that 'firstly' in the complaint Ex.Ka-1, he has nowhere stated that the incident took place in front of his eyes and rather he has stated that he reached there after the incident. 'Secondly', in the second complaint Ex.Ka-3 this witness stated that later on he came to know that from the witnesses that in the incident Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni were also involved. Though he has admitted that all the accused persons are of his village, and he knew them previously and therefore, this witness has not seen the incident. 'Thirdly', it has come in the statement of PW-6-I.O. that during his investigation when he recorded the statement of PW-1, he did not clearly record that PW-1 has witnessed the incident and 'fourthly', that PW-1 has given undated supplementary complaint, the language of which suggest that he is not an eye witness and trial court has not look into this aspect of evidence.

G. Learned counsel has next argued that the statement of PW-2 is also not trust worthy as this witness has also stated that at the time of incidence, he along with Rakesh and Ramesh were sitting on their shop and his father was sitting on his utensil shop. Learned counsel submits that the description given by this witness that Ambika Soni challenged that Amarnath should be killed as he is trying to influence his customers, upon this, Ambika Soni and Pammu Soni caught hold of hands of his father, Vimal Soni and Pappu Soni caught hold of the feet of his father and Himanshu Soni and Nandu Soni with their chopper and knife caused him injuries do not corroborate the F.I.R. version.

H. Learned counsel has also laid much emphasis that PW-2 stated that when his father raised the voice, they ran towards him from their shop and saw the incident. Learned counsels submits that this part of the statement suggest that they also reached at the spot after the incident took place. Learned counsel has next submitted that Raj Kumar, the maternal uncle's son of his father was doing the business of utensil and jewellery, however, he was never examined though he was a witness of inquest report and witness to Ex.Ka-2, the second complaint.

I. It is also submitted that this witness has clearly stated that this statement was recorded after 3-4 days of the incident just to introduce him as an eye witness. Learned counsel has raised another point to argue that PW-2 was not present at the spot as he has stated that his father was critically injured and was bleeding, he picked up his father and took him in the ambulance from where he was taken to hospital. However, he stated that his clothes were not blood stained and therefore, his presence is doubtful. Learned counsel has further argued that this witness stated that his second statement was recorded after the one and a half month by the police, just to cover the entire lacunae in the evidence.

J. It is next argued that there is variation in the occular version and the medical version of the prosecution. Learned counsel submits that as per PW-1 and PW-2 immediately after the incident on 27.03.2014, they took their father in an ambulance to Sadar Hospital where they reached about 8:00 PM. From the hospital, his father was referred to Krishna Hospital, Kanpur but there was no proper medical facilities and therefore, he was taken to Regency Hospital, Kanpur. It is argued that neither the doctor at Sadar Hospital nor Krishna Hospital conducted the medico-legal-examination and there is no M.L.C. on record as the deceased died on 04.04.2014, after the gap of seven days. Learned counsel has referred to the statement of PW-3 Dr. Ratnesh Prabhakar who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased and reported the injuries as reproduced above, out of which, the injuries nos. 1 to 8 were reported as stitched wounds and therefore, this doctor has nowhere stated that at the time of conducting the post-mortem he had opened the stitches to find out the nature of weapon used and nature of injuries sustained by the victim and he has given a clear opinion that it is not possible to tell whether injuries nos. 1 to 8 which are stitched wounds were caused by a sharp edged weapon. This witness further stated that injuries nos. 9 to 11 can be caused with a Kundalya i.e. a blunt weapon which as per PW-1 and PW-2 was not used by the accused.

K. Learned counsel submits that even when the injured witness was admitted in the Regency Hospital on 28.03.2014, no MLR was prepared by the said hospital as it has come in the statement of two treating doctors, CW-1 and CW-2. With reference to CW-2, it is argued that this witness has stated that he operated upon the head of the victim on 28.03.2014 being a neurosurgeon and produced the hospital record as Ex.Ka-8 in which he admitted that nothing is opined how the injuries were caused. With reference to CW-1, doctor who conducted the second operation after CW-2 has also stated that he cannot tell the nature of weapon used. The argument is raised that both CW-1 and CW-2 have stated that post operation, the injured victim Amarnath had gained senses and he suffered injuries on head, eye and face.

L. It is argued that the medical evidence nowhere suggest that either the chapad or the knife was used for committing the offence. Learned counsel submits that CW-2 has stated that in his medical record it has come that the victim has gained consciousness after the operation, however, neither his statement was recorded nor the police tried to find out the manner in which the offence was committed as accused were already named in the F.I.R. falsely.

M. It is next argued that as per the FSL report, the articles sent for examination were a blood stained piece of mattress, a simple piece of mattress, a pair of sleeper and one chapad. As per the report of FSL, the human blood was found at Ex.1 i.e. blood stained mattress and at S. No. Ex.2 and Ex.3, a pair of sleeper and the chapad disintegrated blood was found and therefore its source could not be ascertained. Learned counsel submits that even this part of the evidence do not suggest that the chopper allegedly recovered from Himanshu Soni was used in the offence. It is argued that the second weapon of offence i.e. knife was neither recovered nor sent to the FSL for examination.

N. Learned counsel for the appellants has laid much emphasis on the fact that the second complaint (Exhibit Ka-2) is given with due consideration and to fill-up the lacunas regarding the injuries. It is argued that in this complaint, PW-1-informant (Rakesh Kumar Soni) stated that he came to know from the witnesses that in the incident, Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni were also involved and that his father was given grievous injuries with Chapad and knife.

O. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that this complaint was witnessed by Ram Bahadur, Ram Kumar and Raj Kumar, however none of the three witnesses were the source of information to PW-1 for adding two accused namely, Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni were never examined by the prosecution.

P. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that it has come in the statement of both the Investigating Officers i.e. S.H.O. Subh Narayan Singh (PW-5) as well as IO Chhotelal Patel (PW-6) that Vimal Soni was not present at spot. PW-5 has stated in cross examination that during his investigation, the informant-Rakesh Kumar Soni (PW-1) told him that Vimal Soni belongs to his famly and he was not present at the spot. This witness also stated that the informant did not tell him while recording the FIR that Ambika Soni, Pammu Soni and Nandu Singh caught hold hands of his father and also not recorded that Nandu Singh gave knife blow to the deceased. It is stated that Umesh Kumar who is also an eye witness and son of the deceased, also did not disclose that Nandu Singh gave knife blow to the deceased though Umesh is also a witness of Panchayatnama.

Q. Similarly, IO Chhotelal Patel (PW-6), the second Investigating Officer who recovered the Chapad from accused Himanshu Soni after his arrest stated that recovery was effected in presence of two persons, namely, Raj Kumar Soni and Rakesh Kumar Soni, however both these persons were not examined as an independent witness to prove the recovery and therefore, the recovery is not proved in terms of Section 27 of Evidence Act. This witness further stated that on 2.4.2014, he has recorded the statement of PW-1, PW-2 and other witnesses including Raj Kumar and Raj Bahadur but they did not state about any other accused except those named in the FIR, including Pappu Soni and only on 6.4.2014, PW-1 named Pappu Soni.

R. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that there is substantive improvement in this regard as the deceased died on 4.4.2014 and later on, Pappu Soni was named on 6.4.2014.

S. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that though Exhibit Ka-2, the second complaint is undated, however, PW-6 has stated that on 3.4.2014 i.e. after about seven days of incident, Rakesh Kumar Soni (PW-1) told him that at the time of incident, he could not get information regarding involvement of Vimal Soni and Pappu Soni and on coming to know this fact he has given the complaint. However, on that date, he did not nominate the aforesaid two persons in the case, this also suggests that in order to cover-up the second complaint, PW-6 has given its date as 3.4.2014 and if he received the same then he has prepared fake proceeding dated 6.4.2014 as he added the name on 6.4.2014 after death of the victim. This witness stated that neither in the complaint nor the FIR, the informant stated that Nandu Singh gave knife blow to his father and only on 3.4.2014 when he gave the second complaint, this information came on record and, therefore, Nandu Singh has been falsely implicated.

T. Learned counsel for the appellants further submits that the articles which were recovered i.e. Exhibit Ka-1 & Ka-2 as well as Chapad remained in long custody of PW-6 as it is clearly admitted by him in cross examination and the police sent the same to the Forensic Science Lab after a period of two months which again raises suspicion about the recovery effected in this regard.

U. A reference is drawn to recovery memo (Exhibit Ka-13) where the date was changed from 2.3.2013 to 2.4.2013 without any initial signatures and there are other cuttings also on the same regarding the recoveries and on the cutting and overwriting there is no initial signature and, therefore, it is apparent that this documents is manipulated by the Investigating Officer.

V. Learned counsel for the appellant next argued that both PW-1 & PW-2 are not the eye witnesses and the FIR is delayed by one day and was registered with due deliberation as PW-3 has stated that on receiving information on the date of incident i.e. 27.3.2014 at 6:45 p.m., he reached at the spot and till that time, no FIR was registered. However, he has given the information to the Higher Police Official that Amarnath is seriously injured and he has sent him to the hospital. However, who gave him injuries was not reported to the Higher Police Official. This witness stated that thereafter for the first time, he went to the spot on 2.4.2014, after the FIR was registered.

W. It is next argued that the delay in lodging the FIR itself reflects that it has been registered with a due deliberation of nominating the accused persons otherwise when PW-6 has reached at the spot immediately after the incident at about 6:45 PM where the incident took place at about 6-6:30 PM, he must have enquired from the people of the vicinity as to who had committed the offence but name of the accused never surfaced there and then.

X. It is next argued that one Indrajeet Singh who is having a house where the incident took place appeared as DW-1 and has stated that immediately after the incident when he reached at the spot, he met the victim who was in sense but he did not name the accused persons as assailants. This witness has further stated that police has reached at the spot at that time and he met the police and he told about the incident but the statement was not recorded.

Y. Learned counsel for the appellant next argued that some unknown miscreants have caused the injuries and on his asking, Amarnath, victim told him that due to dark, he could not identified them and even 10-15 people of the village also gathered there. It is next contended that this independent witness was intentionally not examined by the prosecution who has given vital informations as the police immediately after the incident reached at the spot as stated by PW-6 that (i) Amarnath was in senses and (ii) he did not tell and rather stated that he could not identify the assailants, (iii) that the accused persons did not cause injury to Amarnath as he knew all of them well as they belongs to his village. It is thus, submitted that from the statement of DW-1 also, it is proved that PW-1 & PW-2 are not eye witnesses and they reached at the spot later on.

Z. Learned counsel for the appellant next argued that Raj Bahadur, the cousin of deceased-Amarnath who was a witness to the Panchayatnama, the recovery memo Exhibit Ka-13 and as per both PW-1 & PW-2 was doing business of jewellery whom the motive is attributed for causing the injury to Amarnath was not examined to prove this fact. Even two other witnesses, namely, Ram Kumar and Ram Bahadur whose names surfaced in investigation and who are witness to the second complaint (Exhibit Ka-A-2) were not examined as witness to prove the guilt of the appellants.

AA. Sri Rajiv Lochan, learned counsel for the appellant-Ambika Soni, who as per prosecution version caught hold the deceased has additionally argued that at the first instance in the FIR, it is not stated that which assailants caught hold of the hands of the victim and which assailants caught hold of the feet of the victim. It is also argued that in the first complaint as well as chik FIR , name of Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni was not there and in the first complaint as well as chik FIR, no knife was attributed to Nandu Singh.

AB. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that in order to co relate, the injury sustained by the victim, later on 3.4.2014 as per PW-6, the complaint Ex-Ka-2 was given which was undated and the reason for not mentioning a date, on the same was to create presumption that it was given promptly though PW-6 has stated that only on 3.4.2014, PW-1 for the first time named Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni. However, on that date, neither his statement was recorded nor the two accused were added in the FIR and only on 6.4.2014 i.e., after death of victim on 4.4.2014, their names were added in collusion with the complainant / informant's side.

AC. Learned counsel for appellant further submits that it has come in the statement of both the Investigating Officers, PW-5 & PW-6, that during investigation, on verification and as per the statement of PW-1 itself that the subsequently named accused-Vimal Soni belongs to his family and he was not present at the spot, his name was dropped during the police investigation and no charge sheet was presented against him.

AD. Learned counsel for appellant submits that presence of Nandu at the spot is highly doubtful as he is only a friend of other accused and at the first instance, role was attributed to him was that he had caught hold the hands of his father whereas in the second statement Ex-Ka-3 on 6.4.2014, he was assigned role of giving knife blow after due deliberation, by the informant's side.

AE. Counsel has also argued that there is delay of 22 hours in registration of the F.I.R. which is not explained by the prosecution though it has come in the statement of PW-6 that after 15-20 minutes of the incident, he has reached at the spot but did not report name of any assailants to the higher Police Officials which suggests that the incident was committed by unknown persons as the victim was in the business of pledging the articles of the persons in public by giving money and if the money was not returned, he used to seize the same and, therefore, on that account, he was assaulted by unknown persons otherwise, immediately when PW-6, the Investigating Officer, reached at the spot, he could get the name of the appellants as many persons of the vicinity including DW-1, Inderjeet, came there who has deposed that victim-Amarnath told him that he could not see who were the assailants.

AF. It is next argued that naming of accused Nandu Singh by giving second complaint (Ex.Ka-2) is otherwise barred as PW-1 has stated that he came to know about this fact from the witnesses, therefore, Ex.Ka-2 was given on the basis of hearsay evidence which is not admissible.

AG. It is submitted that in Ex. Ka-2, three persons, Ram Bahadur, Raj Kumar and Raj Bahadur were cited as witnesses upon whose information PW-1 stated that he had nominated Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni as additional accused as well as introduced one new weapon of offence i.e. knife. However, none of the three witnesses were examined by the prosecution to prove this aspect of the evidence.

AH. It is next argued that in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. all the accused have stated that they have been falsely implicated as deceased owed Rs.50,000/- to them and they have not committed the offence.

AI. It is thus submitted that PW-1 and PW-2 are not the eye-witnesses of the incident; 'secondly', there is consistent improvement in the prosecution version; 'thirdly', the F.I.R. was registered after a delay of about 22 hours with due deliberations; 'fourthly', the police did not believe the version of the informant and dropped the proceedings against Vimal Soni who was named in the second complaint (Ex.Ka-2); 'fifthly', in the F.I.R., there is no mention of causing injury with a knife; 'sixthly', the second complaint (Ex.Ka-2) is undated and is given with due deliberations to corroborate the weapon of offence with the injuries of the victim; 'seventhly', no blood staines were found on the clothes worn by PW-1 and PW-2 though they have stated that they had lifted their injured father and took him to the hospital in ambulance and lastly, as per DW-1, injured-Amarnath was in senses but he did not name the accused person as assailants.

23. In reply, learned counsel for the informant and learned A.G.A. for the State have argued that prosecution has discharged the burden as both the PWs are the eye-witnesses and their reliability and presence at the spot cannot be disputed being the sons of the victim as they have stated that they were also present at the shop abutting the shop of the victim where incident took place.

It is also argued that upon pointing out of Himanshu Soni, weapon of offence, Chapad, was recovered which was concealed under heap of bricks and was sent for forensic examination and it was opined that humon blood was found on the same.

It is also argued that the delay in registration of the F.I.R. was due to the fact that both PW-1 and PW-2 took their father to Sadar Hospital and from there, they took him to Krishna Hospital, Kanpur, from there, he was referred to Regency Hospital on the next date i.e. 28.3.2014 and was immediately operated upon for his head injuries by Doctor, CW-1 and CW-2. Therefore, both PW-1 and PW-2 were busy in taking care of his injured father and the delay is duly explained.

It is argued that statement of PW-2 is also a reliable witness as he has described the manner in which all the assailants caused injuries to his father.

Counsel submits that the second complaint (Ex.Ka-2) was given later on because PW-1 was purtured on seeing the injured condition of his father and by giving a reason that he later on came to know from the witnesses about the name of Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni, he has given a natural version to the police.

It is also argued that motive is proved as it has come in the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 that on one of the shops, they were also doing business of jewellery on which the appellants felt offended that deceased-Amarnath was trying to influence their settled customers.

It is also submitted that statement of DW-1, Inderjeet Singh, is not trustworthy as immediately after the incident, the injured became unconscious and he was taken to the hospital. It is submitted that the condition of the injured was so critical that the Sadar Hospital referred him to the Krishna Hospital, Kanpur, even Krishna Hospital on finding that they did not have appropriate medical facilities, referred the victim to the bigger hospital i.e. Regency Hospital for giving proper treatment.

Learned A.G.A. for the State has argued that there was no occasion to conduct the medico legal examination at the first two hospitals and they did not admit victim and rather referred him immediately to the bigger hospital and, therefore, mere fact that the medico legal report is not on record, do not raise any suspicion about the prosecution version.

It is also argued that independent witness did not come forward as they did not want to depose against other inhabitants of the village in order to avoid any enmity.

Learned A.G.A. has further submitted that if the weapon of offence was not sent to the Forensic Science Lab for a period of two month, no fault can be found with prosecution version as it was duty of the Investigating Officer to send the same immediately.

It is also argued that upon the confession of Himansu Soni recorded by PW-6, he got recovered the weapon of offence which was having blood stains and was sent to F.S.L. for examination.

24. In reply, counsel for the appellant reiterated the argument raised earlier and submitted that delay in sending the weapon of offence for forensic examination is unexplained by the Investigating Officer, the absence of medico legal examination got conducted by Regency Hospital where victim remained admitted from 28.3.2014 till 4.5.2014 when he died and in view of the statement of both the treating doctors i.e. C.W.1 and C.W.2 who have stated that they cannot tell about the nature of the weapon used in commission of offence, the prosecution version is doubtful. It is also submitted that substantive improvements were made by the prosecution, part of which, were disbelieved by the Trial Court.

25. After hearing counsel for the parties and on going through the Trial Court's Record as well as the paper book and on re-appreciation of the entire evidence, we record our finding as under :

A. The argument raised by the counsel for the appellant that PW-1 and

PW-2 being sons of the deceased are interested witnesses and no independent witness was examined by the prosecution, has some force as on a careful perusal of the evidence, we find that Rakesh Kumar, PW-1/Informant is not en eye-witness and is only an informant for the following reasons:

(i) In the complaint given to the police at the first instance, this witness has not specifically stated that he witnessed the incident rather stated that when the accused came armed with weapons and attacked his father, his brothers, Ramesh Kumar and Umesh Kumar, reached at the spot and saw the incident.

(ii) Even in cross examination of PW-6, it has come that during his investigation, it could not be ascertained that PW-1 was in fact a witness of fact and has seen the incident. On a specific question asked to him whether Ramesh Kumar PW-1, in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. stated that he witnessed the incident, the specific reply by PW-6 was that informant did not tell specifically these facts in his statement.

(iii) PW-1 when gave the second complaint (Ex.Ka-2), clearly stated that at the time of incident, he could not get the correct information and later on, he came to know from the witnesses that in the incident, two more accused namely, Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni, were also there, this also reflect that he has not witnessed the incident.

In cross examination, PW-1 has stated that in his first complaint (Ex.Ka-1), he has not stated that Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni caught hold of hand and feet of his father and stated so in the second statement made to the Investigating Officer after four days.

(iv) In the second complaint, he had named three witnesses i.e. Ram Bahadur, Ram Kumar and Raj Kumar. Out of which, Raj Bahadur was also a witness to Panchayatnama. As per PW-1, Raj Bahadur was his father's first cousin and was doing business of jewellery, however, this witness was never examined to say that PW-1 has witnessed the occurrence.

(v) In cross examination PW-1 admitted that he know Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni personally by face and, therefore, by not naming them at first instance and rather putting a new story in second undated complaint Ex.Ka-2 that other witness told him their name afterwards, the second complaint was given with due deliberation as PW-1 has not witnessed the incident.

However, we uphold the finding recorded by the Trial Court that Umesh Kumar, PW-2, is an eye-witness as per FIR. Though, he has also made improvement on the line of second complaint(Ex-Ka-2). PW-2 has made a statement that on the date of incident i.e. 27.03.2014, at about 6.30 PM, he along with his brother-Rakesh and Ramesh were sitting on their jewellery shop and his father was on the utensils shop. He has given the description of the accused persons who came to the shop, out of which, Nandu Singh was carrying knife and Himansu Soni was carrying a chapad, rest of the accused were empty handed. Ambika Soni exhorted to kill his father-Amarnath as he was influencing their customers in the business of jewellery. Ambika Soni and Pammu Soni caught hold of the hands of his father, Vimal Soni and Pappu Soni caught hold of feet of his father and Himanshu Soni and Nandu Singh, with their respective weapons i.e. chapad and knife, caused injuries. When his father raised the voice, PW-2 along with others, reached the spot and saw the incident.

In cross examination, this witness stated that he has told the Investigating Officer that along with the accused named in the F.I.R., Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni also came. However, he cannot not tell if this fact was not recorded in his statement. This witness stated that even when his second statement was recorded, after one and a half months, he again disclosed this fact but cannot tell the reason, why the Investigating Officer has not recorded the same.

He further stated that he has not made statement that since Vimal Soni is from his family and as per his information, Vimal Soni had no role and is innocent. He pleaded ignorance how the statement was recorded. He also stated that as per his information, Pappu Soni was not in the business of either jewellery or utensils. This witness faced lengthy cross examination but his deposition could not be shattered by the defence except the improvements as admitted by him. Therefore, his statement is partly reliable qua the FIR version.

B. Next argument raised by counsel for the appellant that there is delay in lodging the F.I.R. which has been registered after due consultation and consideration, is also without force as it has been explained both by PW-1 and PW-2 that immediately after the incident, they took their father to Sadar Hospital, from there, they took him to Krishna Hopsital, Kanpur where, due to lack of medical facility, he was referred to Regency Hospital, Kanpur and immediately on the next day, the victim was operated upon by a Neuro Surgeon i.e. CW-2. Therefore, both the witnesses have stated that they were taking care of their father who was in dire need of medical assistance and only after that, they recorded the Chik F.I.R. and, therefore, the delay is explained.

Argument raised by counsel for the appellant that it has come in the statement of PW-6 that on receiving the information of the incident, he reached the spot after 15-20 minutes and thereafter, he did not send any report about the names of the accused, is a normal course as a police officer on a receiving an information of cognizable of offence is bound to reach at the spot. This witness has stated that only after Chik F.I.R. was recorded in which name of the accused surfaced, he started the investigation. Therefore, the delay is properly explained by the prosecution.

C. The next ground raised by counsel for the appellant that motive is not proved as prosecution has failed to prove that the informant side was running the business of jewellery, is also not correct as it has come in the statement of both PW-1 and PW-2 that his father's cousin Raj Bahadur was also having a utensils shop and was doing the business of jewellery. It has come in their statements that Raj Bahadur was brought by their father to village-Haswa and his father helped him in opening the shop reflect that business of jewellery undertaken by Raj Bahadur, was also the family business of the informant side.

D. Next argument raised by the counsel for the appellant that statement of PW-1 and PW-2 were recorded after 3-4 days of the incident is also not raising doubt on the prosecution version as it has come that the deceased died on 4.4.2014 during his treatment at Regency Hospital, Kanpur. Therefore, mere fact that the statement was recorded after 3-4 days do not raise suspicion on the prosecution version.

E. Another argument raised by counsel for the appellant that no M.L.C. of the injured was done either at Sadar Hospital or at Krishna Hospital, is also without any merit as it is a case of the prosecution that the injured was taken to the Sadar Hospital, from there, he was referred to Krishna Hospital and, thereafter, he was referred to Regency Hospital where he got admitted. Since both Sadar Hospital and Krishna Hospital did not provide any medical assistance except first aid, no M.L.C. was conducted.

F. Next argument raised by the counsel for the appellant that the injuries sustained by the victim are neither proved nor are reciprocating the weapon of offence attributed to the appellants, Himansu and Nandu Singh as it has come in the statement of PW-3, the Doctor who conducted the postmortem that the injury Nos.1 to 8 were stitched wound and injury Nos. 9 to 11 were caused by a blunt weapon. The argument of the counsel that the doctor while conducting postmortem did not open the stitches to find out the nature of the weapon of offence used is without any substance. PW-3 has stated that injuries were sustained by a sharp edged weapon and stitches are normally given to a victim when he suffers incised wound and, therefore, no benefit can be granted to the accused on this aspect.

G. Counsel for the appellant has next argued that it has come in the statement of CW-1 and CW-2, the two treating doctors of Regency Hospital, that after first operation of brain was conducted by CW-2, a Neuro Surgeon, the victim gained consciousness and when the second operation was conducted by CW-1, he again gained consciousness. However, the defence failed to cross examine both these witnesses on the point whether the injured was fit to make statement as both the Doctors have nowhere stated that after getting consciousness, the victim was fit to make statements about the incident.

Therefore, we find force in the argument raised by the counsel for the informant and learned A.G.A. that looking into the nature of the injuries, the victim became unconscious at the spot and even thereafter as per postmortem, he died due to coma because of the injuries sustained by him and, therefore, the accused failed to prove that the victim after the incident, at any time, was fit to make statement.

H. The next argument raised by the counsel for the appellant that as per the F.S.L. Report, three articles were sent i.e. a bloodstained piece of mattress, a plain piece of mattress, a pair of slippers and one chapad. It is argued that at Ex.1, the bloodstained mattress, at Ex.2 & 3, pair of slippers and chapad was having disintegrated blood, therefore, the source could not be ascertained. It has come in the statement of PW-6 that the articles were sent for F.S.L. examination after two months and, therefore, F.S.L report did not prove that the chapad was having human blood.

However, the defence side could not dispute that the Chapad was recovered from appellant-Himansu Soni in presence of the witnesses as proved by the Investigating Officer (PW-5) and it was the same Chapad which was sent for examination to Forensic Science Lab, therefore, the recovery of chapad from the appellant-Himanshu Soni is duly proved.

I. Argument raised by the counsel for the appellant that a neighbour of the deceased namely, Indrajeet Singh, appeared as DW-1 and deposed that after the incident, he reached the spot and met the victim who stated that he could not identify the accused due to dark, did not support the defence version in any manner as prior to his examination, no application was given to any higher police official that this witness had gone to the place of incident, after the incident took place and he be cited as witness.

J. Next argument raised by counsel for the appellant that Raj Bahadur who is the cousin of deceased Amarnath and as per the prosecution was doing the business of jewellery, which was the motive attributed for the commission of offence, was not examined as a witness to prove this fact. However, since this witness was not cited an eye witness, mere his non-examination do not raise dent on the prosecution version.

K. The next defence set up by the accused cited that the deceased was in the business of providing loan to the people by pledging their valuable articles like jewellery and would forfeit the same, if the amount is not paid and due to that reason, some unknown persons have caused the murder of deceased Amarnath, is not proved by leading any cogent evidence and putting this defence to the witnesses of fact. Even the argument raised by counsel for the appellant that both, PW-1 & PW-2 have admitted that they were having three shops of utensils, one managed by their mother, one by the witnesses and the third by the father, deceased Amarnath where the incident took place and there is no shop of jewellery is not correct because the prosecution version as specifically stated by PW-2 is that he was present at the shop of jewellery run by his brother Rakesh and Ramesh when the accused persons came and attacked his deceased father and, therefore, there is no force in the arguments raised by counsel for the appellant that prosecution has failed to prove that the family of the deceased was not in the business of jewellery.

26. In view of the finding recorded by the trial court holding the appellants-Himanshu Soni, Ambika Sonia and Pammu Soni guilty of primary offence under Section 302 of I.P.C., is upheld.

27. However, we find merits so far accused Nandu Singh and Pappu Soni concerned for the following reasons:

A. So far the accused Nandu Singh is concerned he was not assigned any injury in the first information report submitted to the police by PW-1. He was subsequently assigned a knife blow in an undated complaint Ex.Ka.1 just to introduce a sharp edge weapon like knife which was attributed to him, in order to co-relate the injuries nos. 1 to 8 sustained by the victim. However, the prosecution has failed to prove when this complaint Ex.Ka.2 was given, though the I.O.- PW-6 stated that after the death of the victim Amarnath on 04.04.2013, he took cognizance of the complaint on 06.04.2013 wherein two new accused persons namely Vimal Soni and Pappu Soni were introduced.

B. No recovery of knife was effected from Nandu Singh as stated in the second version of the complaint which as per the PW-6 was given somewhere on 03.04.2013 or 06.04.2013. Though in the intervening period PW-6 has recorded the statement of PW-2 as stated by him that after 3-4 days, the statement was recorded by I.O.

Therefore, the second version wherein, a knife was attributed to Nandu Singh is not proved as PW-5 in cross examination admitted that in case diary after registration of FIR he did not mention that Nandu Singh gave knife blow. He further stated that even PW-2 in his statement did not state that Nandu Singh gave knife blow to deceased.

C. Even otherwise, for the first time PW-1- informant has stated that from the witnesses, he came to know that in the incident Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni were also involved. In this complaint, three persons namely, Ram Kumar, Ram Bahadur and Raj Kumar were nominated as the witnesses, however, none of them was examined to prove this fact that they had given this information to PW-1 that Nandu Singh has caused injuries with a knife or Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni are also accused.

D. Even otherwise, Nandu Singh is not a person from the family of the Ambika Soni who as per the prosecution version, had a motive to attack the victim Amarnath. The motive attributed is that since Amarnath was in the business of jewellery and was influencing the customers of the accused side, therefore, the accused caused him injuries. However, nothing has come on record that Nandu Singh was either a servant of the accused person or had any motive to attack the victim. Even otherwise Nandu Singh in the first version Ex.Ka.1 Nandu Singh was only attributed that he had caught hold of the hand and feet of his father whereas while appearing in court PW-1 and PW-2 made improvements by saying that Nandu Singh caused injury with a knife, a version which was not given in the FIR. Therefore, the presence of Nandu Singh at the spot is highly doubtful especially when a new version has been introduced in the undated complaint Ex.Ka.2 that one of the weapon of offence was knife which was never recovered from appellant-Nandu Singh during the investigation. Therefore, we find that accused Nandu Singh is entitled to benefit of doubt.

E. We have also found that the prosecution has failed to prove the case against Pappu Soni, another accused who was introduced for the first time in the second complaint is Ex.Ka.2. It has come in the statement of PW-6 and PW-7, the two Investigating Officers that during investigation, they recorded the statement of both PW-1 and PW-2 that second named person in this complaint Ex.Ka.2, Vimal Soni was found to be innocent as both PW-1 and PW-2 stated that he is their relative and was not present at the spot. The police did not submit the challan against Vimal Soni. Therefore, once partly the version in the second complaint Ex.Ka.2 was found to be an afterthought, as the prosecution has not been able to prove when Ex.Ka.2 was given as it is undated but as per PW-6, either on 03.04.2014 or 06.04.2014 complaint was given and he took cognizance of the same only on 06.04.2014 when the deceased has died. However, PW-6 in cross examination admitted that informant did not record in his statement that Nandu Singh gave knife blow and only stated that he caught hold of hands and feet of his father. He further deposed that he recorded statement of Rakesh Kumar, Ramesh Kumar, Umesh Soni all sons of deceased Amarnath and Raj Bahadur on 2.4.2014 but none of them named Pappu Soni. Therefore, the presence of Pappu Soni is also doubtful.

F. It is also relevant that in this complaint PW-1- informant has stated that he came to know from witnesses that Pappu Soni and Vimal Soni were also present. However, none of the three witnesses i.e. Ram Kumar, Ram Bahadur and Raj Kumar were examined to support this version. It has come in the statement of both PW-1 and PW-2 that Raj Bahadur was first cousin of deceased and was doing the business of jewellery. This witness is also a witness of Panchayatnama and had taken the victim to hospital and despite the fact that he is cited as an eye witness, he was never examined by the prosecution.

G. Both PW-1 and PW-2 have admitted in cross examination that Pappu Soni is not doing business of jewellery and therefore, the motive against him is also not proved. Morever PW-1 also admitted that he personally knew Pappu Soni by face but he was not named in First Information Report.

H. As held above in para 25(A) that PW-1 is only an informant of the incident and he is not an eye witness, for the reasons recorded above, therefore, Ex.Ka.2 is based on hearsay wherein, Pappu Soni along with Vimal Soni were introduced for the first time and in view of the fact that there is no date on Ex.Ka.2, it was given intentionally at later stage. Therefore, there is nothing to believe the version given in second complaint Ex.Ka.2 as part of it is already disbelieved by the police during the investigation as no charge-sheet was presented against Vimal Soni. In view of above by giving benefit of doubt, we also acquit accused Pappu Soni.

28. In view of the finding recorded above, we dismissed the appeal filed by accused Himanshu Soni, Ambika Soni and Pammu Soni by upholding their conviction in terms of the impugned judgment of conviction dated 27.09.2018 and order of sentence dated 27.09.2018. However, we acquit accused Nandu Singh and Pappu Soni by giving benefit of doubt.

29. As per the trial court judgment, Nandu Singh was never granted bail and he is in custody since 2014. He will be released forthwith if he is not required in any other case. Accused Pappu Soni was on bail and was taken in custody at the time of passing of the impugned judgment. He is also directed to be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

30. With the aforesaid modification, Criminal Appeal No.5954 of 2018 & Criminal Appeal No.5924 of 2018 are dismissed and Criminal Appeal No.6012 of 2018 & Criminal Appeal No.6457 of 2018 are allowed.

31. Trial court records be transmitted back forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. The present appeal has been filed against the common judgement and order dated 06.11.2009 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No.201 of 2008, arising out of Case Crime No.444 of 2007, thereby convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment with fine of Rs.2,000/- and in default of payment of fine, to further undergo one year additional imprisonment and further in Sessions Trial No.189 of 2008, arising out of Case Crime No.478 of 2007, under Section 25/4 Arms Act, thereby convicting and sentencing the appellant for one year imprisonment with fine of Rs.500/- and in default of payment of fine, to further undergo one year additional imprisonment. However, both the sentences shall run concurrently.

2. As per the prosecution case, the complainant, Raj Mohammad lodged a report mentioning therein that his maternal uncle, Mohd. Raees Ahmad S/o Rafeeq Ahmad used to live in his house and he was going to attend the Namaz on 26.07.2007 at 5.30 AM. The accused-appellant, Mahmood Ali assaulted his maternal uncle by knife in front of Power-loom factory. His maternal uncle made alarm and fell down. The accused-appellant ran away from the place by hurling knife. It is alleged that accused-appellant had brought a lady, namely, Parveen who had gone to some other place after living with him for 5-6 months. The accused-appellant had developed enmity with Mohd. Raees Ahmad believing that Mohd. Raees Ahmad helped Parveen, who left the house of the accused-appellant. The complainant, Mohd. Alam S/o Bundhu and other neighbours had seen the accused-appellant assaulting his maternal uncle. The complainant had taken his maternal uncle to the Government Hospital, but he died before reaching the hospital.

3. On the basis of written Tehrir FIR was lodged in Case Crime No.444 of 2007, under Section 302 IPC and after recovery of the knife, second FIR was lodged in Case Crime No.478 of 2007 under Section 25/4 Arms Act. Inquest was conducted and thereafter the dead body was sent for post-mortem. The cases were investigated by the Investigating Officer, who after completion of enquiry, filed two separate charge sheets; one under Sections 302 IPC and the other under Section 25/4 Arms Act against the accused-appellant. The cases were committed to the court of sessions. Both the cases were tried together. Charges were framed against the accused-appellant under Section 302 IPC and Section 25/4 Arms Act. The accused-appellant denied the charges and pleaded for trial.

4. The prosecution to prove its case, produced the following eight witnesses:-

P.W.-1 Raj Mohammad
P.W.-2 S.I. Sayeed Ahmad
P.W.-3 Nayeem
P.W.-4 Inayat Ali
P.W.-5 S.I. Reshampal Singh
P.W.-6 Rajmani Rakesh
P.W.-7 Sanjay Tyagi
P.W.-8 Dr. Ramendra Singh

5. 19 exhibits were also produced by the prosecution to prove its case.

6. The accused-appellant was confronted under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and he deposed before the court that he was falsely implicated In the case. He also produced D.W.-1, Smt. Parveen to support his case.

7. The trial court after examining the witnesses and adducing the evidence on record, convicted the accused-appellant as mentioned above. Hence, the present appeal has been filed.

8. P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad was examined before the trial court and he deposed the same facts in his examination-in-chief as has been narrated in the FIR. In the cross-examination, he deposed that the FIR was not written by him and he only made signature. He had not seen the incident because he was not present at the place of occurrence. He lodged the report at the behest of the neighbours. He reached to the place of occurrence after half an hour of the incident and he took his maternal uncle to the hospital.

9. P.W.-2, Sayeed Ahmad was examined before the court and he deposed that he was posted as Sub-Inspector on 26.07.2007 in the police station. He took the custody of the dead body of Mohd. Raees Ahmad and conducted the inquest report at 8.45 AM. He further deposed that Chik FIR was signed by Constable Sonveer Singh, who was posted along with him and he had written the report.

10. P.W.-3, Nayeem S/o Nizamuddin was examined by the trial court and he deposed that blood stained, concrete was collected by the Investigating Officer before him and the collected items were kept in two sealed boxes. In cross-examination, he deposed that on 26.07.2007, he was working at his place and he did not sign on the inquest and he did not give any statement.

11. P.W.-4, Inayat Ali S/o Bunaid was examined before the trial court and deposed that he had come to Hapur and stayed at Bashir Ki Sarai. On the next day, he woke up in the morning and went for Namaz and as soon as he reached to the house of Mohd. Raees Ahmad, he saw that accused-appellant was stabbing Mohd. Raees Ahmad. He wanted to catch him, but he ran away from the place of occurrence. He further deposed that Karamat Ali was also present along with him. He further deposed that he and Karamat Ali found accused-appellant on 03.08.2007 near Chungi at Meerut. Two police men were standing there and he told them that accused-appellant committed murder of his brother and he was identified by them before the police. Accused-appellant confessed before the police that he had killed Mohd. Raees Ahmad with knife. He also confessed that knife was thrown by him at Power-loom factory. The accused-appellant was taken to the place, where the knife was thrown. He took out the knife and confessed that the same knife was used for assaulting the deceased. The recovery memo was prepared and the knife was kept in a sealed cover.

12. In cross-examination, P.W.-4 Inayat Ali deposed that he and Karamat Ali have got their houses side by side. He deposed that he had come to Hapur in the evening and went to the house of his brother Raees Bhai. Mohd. Raees Ahmad used to live alone in a rented house. He further deposed that Bhashir met him. He woke up at 5.30 AM and without taking bath, he had gone to attend the Namaz. Karamat Ali was also sleeping beside him. The Mosque is situated half kilometre from place of Sarai. After Namaz, he came back and thereafter went to the house of his brother Mohd. Raees Ahmad. The house of his brother was situated 1 Km. away from the Mosque. He took 5-6 minutes time to reach to the house of his brother from the Mosque and as soon as he reached to the house of his brother, he saw that accused-appellant was stabbing his brother with knife and at that time, the landlord and residents of the locality came to the place of occurrence. He further deposed that the place of occurrence is just 10-15 meters away from the house of Mohd. Raees Ahmad. He also deposed that accused-appellant stabbed three times to the deceased. He deposed in the cross-examination that he had no idea that Karamat Ali was unconscious. He and Karamat Ali went to the police station at 11 AM. The report was lodged by him. He deposed that knife was recovered in his presence and the residents of the locality were also present. After incident, police did not record the statement and his statement was recorded on 03.08.2007.

13. P.W.-5, Sub-Inspector Resham Singh was examined before the trial court and he deposed that he investigated the case and during investigation, he recorded the statement of the FIR Scriber, Constable Shabi Akhtar Zaidi, Rajmani Rakesh, Station House Officer along with the statement of the accused-appellant. He proved the documents and also deposed that it was not correct to say that knife was not recovered.

14. P.W.-6 Rajmani Rakesh, Station House Officer, Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad was also examined by the trial court and he deposed that Case Crime No.444 of 2007, under Section 302 IPC was registered in his presence. He recorded the statement of witnesses Karamat Ali and Inayat Ali on 04.08.2007. He also conducted the inquest and sent the recovered articles to forensic lab to get report. He also identified Ext.Kha-19 pertaining to the recovery items, which were sent for the forensic report. He also deposed that forensic report pertaining to knife was not known to him.

15. P.W.-7, Sanjay Tyagi S/o Raj Veer Singh was examined by the trial court and he deposed that on 26.07.2007, he had gone to Hapur to his relatives house and he went to meet the deceased Mohd. Raees Ahmad at 5.30 AM and as soon as he reached to the place of Power-loom factory, he saw that one short height person was stabbing Mohd. Raees Ahmad. Later on, he came to know the name of the accused-appellant. After hearing alarm, Karamat Ali, Inayat Ali and many people reached to the place of occurrence and the accused-appellant ran away by hurling the knife. The deceased was taken to the hospital in injured state, however, he died before reaching to the hospital.

16. In cross-examination, P.W.-7, Sanjay Tyagi deposed that before he could reach to the place of occurrence, all the persons present at the place of occurrence took Mohd. Raees Ahmad to the hospital. He did not go to the hospital along with people who had carried the deceased. He went back to Kotwali City from the place of occurrence.

17. P.W.-8 Dr. Rajendra Singh was examined by the trial court and he deposed that he conducted the proceedings of the post-mortem of the deceased. The body was brought by Constables Jaiveer Singh and Sanjay Singh. He conducted the post-mortem of the deceased, which indicates three following injuries on his body:-

2. Incised wound 7 cm x 2.5 cm x cavity deep right side front of chest chest just adjacent to right nipple

3. Incised wound 4 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep on left thigh. 10 cm .. left knee joint."

18. P.W.-8 Dr. Rajendra Singh deposed before the court that the deceased died due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. He also deposed that the injuries could have been caused by knife. He also opined that the deceased could have died due to the injuries caused at 5.30 AM.

19. Sri Krishna Kumar, learned amicus curiae appearing for the accused-appellant has made the following submissions:-

20. Learned amicus curiae has submitted that after looking to the FIR, it is evident that the FIR was lodged on 26.07.2007 by Head Constable Sohan Veer Singh, but he was not examined, rather P.W.-2 S.I. Saheed Ahmad was examined, who stated that Sohan Veer Singh was posted along with him and he identified his signature. It is submitted that P.W.-2 Saheed Ahmad cannot identify the signature of Sohan Veer Singh.

21. Learned amicus curiae has further submitted that Case Crime No.478 of 2007, under Section 25/4 Arms Act, Police Statin Hapur Nagar, District Ghaziabad (Ext Ka-11) was lodged by Shabi Akhtar Zaidi, who is the FIR scriber, but he did not come in the witness box as a prosecution witness to prove the aforesaid FIR. No one on behalf of the police proved the FIR lodged by Shabi Akhtar Zaidi. He has also submitted that FIR is suspicious because unless the same is proved, it is not a peace of evidence.

22. Recovery Memo pertaining to blood stained soil dated 26.07.2007 (Ext.Ka-9) was also not proved as per the Forensic Science Laboratory report dated 29.09.2007 (Ext.Ka-18). It is evident that the blood stains were found disintegrated, therefore, the origin of blood stains could not be determined. It is also not ascertained as to whether the blood stains was pertaining to human being or animal. In Recovery Memo, two witnesses are mentioned, namely, Naeem S/o Nizamuddin and Maulana Anwar S/o Maulana Akhtar. In cross-examination, Naeem denied the version of the examination-in-Chief stating that on 26.06.2007, he was on his duty and did not sign the inquest report.

23. In Recovery Memo dated 03.08.2007 (Ext.Ka-10), Inayat Ali S/o Buniyad Ali and Karamat Ali S/o Murad Ali are mentioned as witnesses, who are cousin brothers of the deceased, Mohd. Raees Ahmad. As per law, both the witnesses of recovery memo should be independent witnesses, but in the present case both the witnesses are not independent witnesses and they are relatives of the deceased.

24. The discovered knife as per the provisions of Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act is not proved. In the Forensic Science Laboratory report dated 29.07.2007 (Ext.Ka-18), it is mentioned that seal of the bundle with knife was not matched with the specimen, due to which the bundle containing knife was returned to the office of the Senior Superintendent of Police, Ghaziabad without test. It is thus clear that the weapon used, i.e. knife was not proved by the Forensic Science Laboratory. P.W.-6, Rajmani Rakesh, Investigating Officer, in his cross-examination on being asked that what report was obtained from the Forensic Science Laboratory, he deposed that he had no knowledge about it. It is thus clear that the knife as alleged to be used in the crime, was not tested by the Forensic Science Laboratory for the reason that it was not matching with the recovery item.

25. The site plan shows that the accused-appellant was standing with knife and committed murder of the deceased Mohd. Raees Ahmad in front of Bright Rajshahi Public School. It means as per the site plan, the place of occurrence of the incident was Bright Rajshahi Public School, but as per the FIR version, the place of occurrence of the incident was in front of Power-loom factory. The site plan indicates that the accused-appellant was seen by witness stabbing the deceased by knife. P.W.-6 Rajmani Rakesh, Investigating Officer, did not mention the house of the accused-appellant in the site plan. Thus, the site plan was not proved by P.W.-6.

26. P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad has not supported the prosecution case, but he was neither cross-examined by the prosecution nor was declared hostile. It has been submitted that as per the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Javed Masood and another Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2010) 3 SCC 538, the statement given by P.W.-1 is not binding and cannot be relied upon.

27. It has been submitted by the learned amicus curiae that P.W.4, Inayat Ali and P.W.-7, Sanjay Tyagi are chance witnesses. P.W.-4, Inayat Ali is brother of the deceased and P.W.-7, Sanjay Tyagi is resident of near village of the deceased, but surprisingly their names were not mentioned in the FIR as witnesses. The FIR was also not lodged by any of them, rather it was lodged by P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad. P.W.-4, Inayat Ali in his cross-examination gave contradictory statement and deposed that when he reached to the house of the accused-appellant, he saw that accused-appellant was stabbing the deceased with knife, meaning thereby the place of occurrence was the house of the accused-appellant, but as per the FIR version, the place of occurrence of the incident was Power-loom factory. P.W.-4, Inayat Ali further gave statement that the deceased was living alone in a rented house for the last six years, but as per the FIR version, he was living in the house of P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad. P.W.-4, Inayat Ali in his cross-examination stated that Karamat Ali and other persons of the locality reached to the police Station at 11 AM and thereafter the report was lodged. This statement was also contradictory to the version of the FIR because the FIR was lodged by P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad at 7.45 AM.

28. P.W.-7, Sanjay Tyagi is a chance witness. He has admitted that he was having good relations with the deceased, Mohd. Raees Ahmad, who was resident of his near village. He had given contradictory statement in his cross-examination. It is settled law that if the chance witnesses are relatives or friends and they are giving contradictory statements, their statements cannot be reliable and credible in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Harjinder Singh @ Bhola Vs. State of Punjab, (2004) 11 SCC 253.

29. D.W.-1, Parveen, wife of the accused-appellant, was also examined before the court and she deposed that she had not left her husband's house, rather she was living with him. Thus, the motive assigned in the present case is also demolished.

(xi) In support of his contention, learned amicus curiae for the accused-appellant has placed reliance on the following judgements:-

Shahaja @ Shahajan Ismail Mohd. Shaikh Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2022) 6 SCC 553;

Harjinder Singh @ Bhola Vs. State of Punjab (2004) 11 SCC 253; and

Javed Masood and another Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2010) 3 SCC 538

30. Sri Gyan Narayan Kanaujiya, learned AGA-I, learned AGA while rebutting the arguments of learned amicus curiae for the appellant has submitted that P.Ws.4 and 7, who are the fact witnesses, have proved their case along with formal witnesses, who were examined by the trial court. He has further submitted that knife and the blood stained concrete have been examined by the trial court and the trial court has recorded a finding that the aforesaid exhibits indicate that the deceased was done to death by the accused-appellant. The accused-appellant had assaulted the deceased by using knife in presence of P.Ws.4 and 7. Once the ocular witnesses have deposed that the deceased was assaulted by the accused-appellant by knife in their presence, there is no reason to disbelieve the prosecution case. He has also submitted that motive is established in this case as the accused-appellant believed that deceased Mohd. Raees Ahmad helped Parveen, wife of the accused-appellant, who left the house of the accused-appellant. It is submitted that due to the aforesaid motive, the accused-appellant had enmity with the deceased and he committed the murder to fulfil his motive. It is also submitted that the injuries were caused by knife, which is admitted by the doctor. There is no doubt in the manner of assault because the injuries are corresponding with the prosecution case as mentioned in the FIR as well as in the statement of the witnesses before the trial court. It is further submitted that since the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt, therefore, the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

31. In support of his contention, learned AGA has placed reliance on the following judgement:-

State through the Inspector of Police Vs. Laly @ Manikandan and another etc., 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 851: AIR 2022 SC 5034

32. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and the submissions made by them and perused the record.

33. The record reveals that P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad has not supported the prosecution case in the cross-examination, he deposed before the court that the report was not written by him, rather he made signature on it. He did not seen the incident and he was not present at the place of occurrence. He lodged the report at the behest of the neighbours and did not give statement to the police. He further deposed that he reached to the place of occurrence after half an hour and his maternal uncle was taken to the hospital. After looking to the statement of the P.W.-1 and the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Javed Masood (supra), it is evident that P.W.-1 has not supported the prosecution case. The relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid case are extracted herein below:-

"13. In the present case the prosecution never declared PWs 6,18, 29 and 30 "hostile". Their evidence did not support the prosecution. Instead, it supported the defence. There is nothing in law that precludes the defence to rely on their evidence. This court in Mukhtiar Ahmed Ansari vs. State (NCTof Delhi) (2005) 5 SCC 258 observed:

"30. A similar question came up for consideration before this Court in Raja Ram v. State of Rajasthan, (2005) 5 SCC 272. In that case, the evidence of the Doctor who was examined as a prosecution witness showed that the deceased was being told by one K that she should implicate the accused or else she might have to face prosecution. The Doctor was not declared "hostile". The High Court, however, convicted the accused. This Court held that it was open to the defence to rely on the evidence of the Doctor and it was binding on the prosecution.

31. In the present case, evidence of PW1 Ved Prakash Goel destroyed the genesis of the prosecution that he had given his Maruti car to police in which police had gone to Bahai Temple and apprehended the accused. When Goel did not support that case, accused can rely on that evidence."

34. The recovery of blood stains dated 26.07.2007 (Ext. Ka-9) was also not proved before the trial court. As per the Forensic Science Laboratory report dated 29.09.2007 (Ext. Ka-18), the blood stains were disintegrated; thus, the origin of blood stains could not be determined whether it was pertaining to human being or animal. P.W.-4, Inayat Ali stated before the court that he was not present at the time of the inquest of the blood stains and he was doing his duty in office. Thus, it is clear that recovery of blood stains was also not proved by the prosecution.

35. After going through the record, we find that the knife was recovered on 03.08.2007 (Ext. Ka-10) and there are two witnesses of the inquest i.e. Inayat Ali and Karamat Ali, who are cousin brothers of the deceased, Mohd. Raees Ahmad and they are not the independent witnesses. The discovered knife was not proved as per the provisions of Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act because the Forensic Science Laboratory report dated 29.09.2007 (Ext. Ka-18) indicates that seal of the bundle with knife was not matching with the specimen seal, therefore, the Forensic Science Laboratory had returned back the bundle of knife to the office of the Senior Superintendent of Police, Ghaziabad without examination. It is thus clear that the knife as alleged to be used in the crime, has not been examined by the Forensic Science Laboratory on the ground that seal of the recovered knife was not matching with the specimen.

36. We further find that as per the site plan (Ext. Ka-15), accused-appellant was standing with knife and committed murder of the deceased in front of Bright Rajshahi Public School. It means that as per the site plan, the place of occurrence of the incident was in front of the Bright Rajshahi Public School, but as per the FIR version, the place of occurrence of the incident was in front of the Power-loom factory. P.W.-6, Rajmani Rakesh, Investigating Officer, did not mention the house of the accused-appellant in the site plan. Thus, the site plan is also not proved by P.W.-6.

37. After examination, we further find that P.W.4, Inayagt Ali and P.W.-7, Sanjay Tyagi are the chance witness. P.W.-4, Inayat Ali is the brother of the deceased, Mohd. Raees Ahmad and he has given contradictory statements. He deposed before the court that when he reached to the house of the accused-appellant, he was stabbing his brother Raees Ahmad by knife. After looking to his statement, it is evident that the place of occurrence of the incident was the house of the accused-appellant, but as per the FIR version, place of occurrence of the incident was the Power-loom factory. He made statement in his cross-examination on 24.03.2009 that the deceased was living alone in a rented room for the last six years, but as per the FIR version, he was living in the house of P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad. He further stated in his cross-examination that he and other persons of the locality reached to the police station at 11 AM and thereafter FIR was lodged by him. This is another contradictory statement because the FIR was lodged at 7.45 AM by P.W.-1, Raj Mohammad. It is surprising to note that the incident took place on 26.07.2007 and P.W.-4, Inayat Ali, brother of the deceased and claims to be the witness, did not lodge the FIR. His name was also not mentioned in the FIR as witness; thus his presence is highly doubtful.

38. P.W.-7, Sanjay Tyagi, who is chance witness and the resident of the near village of the deceased, has given contradictory statements before the court. He is friend of the deceased and belongs to nearby village, which is admitted in cross-examination. He did not identify the accused-appellant and deposed that a short height person was stabbing the deceased. Therefore, statements of P.Ws.4 and 7 appear to be incredible in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Harjinder Singh @ Bhola (supra). The relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid case are extracted herein below:-

"6. P.Ws. 3 and 4, apart from being close relatives of the deceased, happen to be the chance witnesses. It looks as though the assailants were all the while waiting for P.Ws. 3 and 4 to reach the spot and witness the incident. Of course, for the mere reason that they are chance witnesses, their evidence cannot be discarded if we find assurance from the prosecution evidence pointing to the guilt of the accused. We, however, feel that their evidence should have been more carefully analysed and evaluated, which the High Court failed to do.

7. Right from the origin of the prosecution story, we find a number of irreconcilable versions and contradictions on certain material aspects which throw any amount of doubt on the veracity of the evidence tendered by P.Ws. 3 and 4. According to the version of the mother of the deceased (P.W.6), the accused persons took the deceased with them at about 5 p.m. This fact was brought to the notice of her husband when he returned home at about 7 p.m. This is what P.W.3 also says. P.W.3 stated that he left for Jorahan Village at about 7.30 p.m. to find his son. He met P.W.4 (Ranjit Singh) there and both of them searched, but could not find his son. They returned to Ranguwal after 9 p.m. While on the way, they saw the incident near the Primary School. But we have the evidence of P.W.5 (Granthi of the Gurudwara of Village Jorahan) according to whom, he at the instance of P.W.3 made the announcement over the loud-speaker before sunset about the missing person Gurpreet Singh. P.W.4 also states that P.W.3 met him before sunset. As it was the peak winter month of January, the sunset should have been at about 5.30 p.m. This version of P.Ws. 5 and 4 does not, therefore, fit into the version of P.Ws. 3 and 6 that they became apprehensive of the safety of the deceased at about 7 p.m. and thereafter P.W.3 left the house at 7.30 p.m. in search of his missing son.

14. The foregoing discussion leads us to conclude that the Trial Court and the High Court did not consider certain material aspects apparent from the evidence and there was almost a mechanical acceptance of the evidence of the two chance witnesses whose evidence should have been evaluated with greater care and caution. As pointed out by this Court in Satbir Vs. Surat Singh & Anr. [1997 (4) SCC 192], a "cautious and close scrutiny" of the evidence of chance witnesses should inform the approach of the Court. In these circumstances, this Court need not feel bound to accept the findings. The overall picture we get on a critical examination of the prosecution evidence is that PWs 3 & 4 were introduced as eye-witnesses only after the dead body was found."

39. We find that the scriber of Case Crime No.478 of 2007, under Section 25/4 Arms Act, namely, Shabi Akhtar Zaidi was not examined by the trial court. No police personnel was examined to prove the said FIR by the trial court. The discovered knife was returned by the Forensic Science Laboratory on the ground that seal of the bundle of knife was not matched with the recovered knife. Thus, the weapon used in the crime is also not proved.

40. After recording the aforesaid conclusions, which are based on the evidence adduced on record, we find that the finding recorded by the trial court in convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant is against the record and is perverse. Thus, the impugned judgement and order of the trial court suffers from infirmity and it deserves to be set aside.

41. Appeal is accordingly allowed and the impugned judgement and order dated 06.11.2009 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No.201 of 2008, arising out of Case Crime No.444 of 2007 convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant for life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC and in Sessions Trial No.189 of 2008, arising out of Case Crime No.478 of 2007, convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant for one year rigorous imprisonment under Section 25/4 Arms Act is hereby set aside and the accused-appellant is acquitted from all the charges.

42. Accused-appellant is in jail. He shall be released forthwith unless wanted in any other case.

43. Before parting, we appreciate Sri Krishna Kumar, learned amicus curiae, who has thoroughly and meticulously prepared the case. We are impressed with the arguments advanced by him. We direct the State Legal Services Authority to pay Rs.15,000/- (Rupees Fifteen Thousand) to Sri Krishna Kumar, learned amicus curiae as honorarium for his valuable assistance in disposal of this appeal. The honorarium will paid to him within fifteen days. Office is directed to send a copy of this judgement and order to the State Legal Services Authority for necessary compliance.

44. Let lower court record be sent back forthwith along with a copy of this judgement and order for compliance.

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 482-Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 323, 452, 504 & 506-summoning order-handling of rival NCRs-filing of chargesheet-Subsequent criminal complaint-the present case revolves around the legal representation and procedural handling of rival NCRs (Non Cognizable Reports) and subsequent criminal complaints under IPC-It examines the court discretion in summoning the accused under additional sections of the IPC based on the evidence presented in both the NCRs and the subsequent complaint-It underscores the importance of due process in handling complaints when initial investigations may not fully address all potential charges, specifically highlighting the court's authority to summon the accused under more severe charges if warranted by the evidence-multiple proceedings on same set of facts could not be proceeded further and it could be quashed if they are filed with malafide intention- Hence, impugned order set aside.(Para 1 to 15)

B. Legal error committed by the trial court is that despite being aware that an NCR was already lodged. No police report was summoned to ascertain outcome of NCR and facts thereof only on ground that some set of allegations, both NCR/FIR and criminal complaint was filed, itself would not be a malafide approach rather the court has to look into attending circumstances to ascertain whether it was a creature of malafide which is not evident in the present case.(Para 13, 14)

The application is allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. In present case, it is not in dispute that in regard to alleged occurrence took place on 13.03.2021, rival NCR were lodged.

2. It is further not in dispute that in cross NCR filed by applicants, after investigation, since it was found that a cognizable offence took place, therefore, a charge sheet was filed under Sections 323, 325, 504 IPC wherein cognizance was taken and opposite party no.2 and others were summoned.

3. It is further not in dispute that in the NCR filed by complainant herein, a charge sheet was filed only under Sections 323, 504 IPC on 18.03.2021 whereon vide order dated 03.04.2023, in terms of Section 2(d) Cr.P.C., the charge sheet was considered to be a complaint case and present applicants were summoned and that order was not challenged at the instance of either party.

4. After filing of charge sheet as referred above for non-cognizable offence, complainant being felt aggrieved that no charge sheet was filed under Section 452 and 506 IPC i.e. cognizable offence, filed a criminal complaint on 01.10.2022 for same occurrence allegedly occurred on 13.03.2021. In the application, he has disclosed about NCR and for reference, relevant paragraph is mentioned below -:

"प्रार्थी द्वारा थाना जफराबाद में दिये गये प्रार्थना पत्र पर रपट दर्ज न करके संक्षेप में एन०सी०आर०सं० 43/2021 धारा 323, 504 आई०पी०सी० दर्ज कर लिये। उपरोक्त सभी मुल्जिमानों द्वारा घर में घुसकर मारने वाली बात व जान से मारने की धमकी देने वाली बात नहीं लिखा। प्रार्थी मजबूर होकर पूरी घटना की रिपोर्ट जरिये रजिस्टर्ड डाक दिनांक 24/03/2021 श्रीमान् पुलिस अधीक्षक महोदय जौनपुर को दिया फिर भी पुलिस द्वारा आज तक कोई कार्यवाही नहीं की गयी थाना जफराबाद की पुलिस प्रार्थी के मामले में मुल्जिमानो को बचा रही है पूरी रपट प्रार्थी की नहीं लिखी इसलिए प्रार्थी श्रीमान जी के समक्ष परिवाद पत्र प्रस्तुत कर रहा है न्यायहित में मुल्जिमान उपरोक्त को जुर्म दफात उपरोक्त में तलब कर वाद विचारण दण्डित किया जाना आवश्यक है।

5. Aforesaid complaint was considered as a complaint case. Trial Court after considering statements recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. summoned present applicants by impugned order dated 26.04.2024 under Sections 323, 452, 504, 506 IPC. For reference, said order in its entirety is quoted below -:

अतः पत्रावली पर इस स्तर पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य के आधार पर विषक्षीगण प्रेमनाथ मिश्र, सचिन उर्फ सचिन्द मिश्र व सुशीला देवी के विरुद्ध प्रथम दृष्ट्या अंतर्गत धारा 323,452,504,506 आई.पी.सी. का अपराध गठित होना प्रतीत होता है। ऐसे में विपक्षीगण / अभियुक्तगण उक्त धाराओं में तलब किये जाने योग्य है।"

6. Sri Deepak Upadhyay, learned counsel for applicants has heavily placed reliance on Krishna Lal Chawla and another vs. State of U.P. and another, (2021) 5 SCC 435 that on similar set of facts as well as on similar set of allegations, proceedings arising out of police report as well as proceedings of complaint case could not proceed together if they are instituting by misleading the Court and abusing its process of law only with a view to harass the helpless litigants and relevant paragraphs thereof are quoted below -:

"23. As aforesaid, the trial courts and the Magistrates have an important role in curbing this injustice. They are the first lines of defence for both the integrity of the criminal justice system, and the harassed and distraught litigant. We are of the considered opinion that the trial courts have the power to not merely decide on acquittal or conviction of the accused person after the trial, but also the duty to nip frivolous litigations in the bud even before they reach the stage of trial by discharging the accused in fit cases. This would not only save judicial time that comes at the cost of public money, but would also protect the right to liberty that every person is entitled to under Article 21 of the Constitution. In this context, the trial Judges have as much, if not more, responsibility in safeguarding the fundamental rights of the citizens of India as the highest court of this land.

24. As recorded by us above, the present controversy poses a typical example of frivolous litigants abusing court process to achieve their mischievous ends. In the case before us, the Magistrate was aware of the significant delay in the filing of private complaint by Respondent 2, and of the material improvements from the earlier NCR No. 158 of 2012 which were made in the private complaint. It was incumbent on the Magistrate to examine any possibility of abuse of process of the court, make further enquiries, and dismiss the frivolous complaint at the outset after judicial application of mind.

25. However, this was not done — the Magistrate issued process against the appellants by order dated 4-4-2019, and this controversy has now reached this Court for disposal.

26. It is a settled canon of law that this Court has inherent powers to prevent the abuse of its own processes, that this Court shall not suffer a litigant utilising the institution of justice for unjust means. Thus, it would be only proper for this Court to deny any relief to a litigant who attempts to pollute the stream of justice by coming to it with his unclean hands. Similarly, a litigant pursuing frivolous and vexatious proceedings cannot claim unlimited right upon court time and public money to achieve his ends.

27. This Court's inherent powers under Article 142 of the Constitution to do "complete justice" empowers us to give preference to equity and a justice-oriented approach over the strict rigours of procedural law (State of Punjab v. Rafiq Masih [State of Punjab v. Rafiq Masih, (2014) 8 SCC 883 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 657 : (2014) 6 SCC (Cri) 154 : (2014) 3 SCC (L&S) 134]). This Court has used this inherent power to quash criminal proceedings where the proceedings are instituted with an oblique motive, or on manufactured evidence (Monica Kumar v. State of U.P. [Monica Kumar v. State of U.P., (2008) 8 SCC 781 : (2008) 3 SCC (Cri) 649]). Other decisions have held that inherent powers of High Courts provided in Section 482 CrPC may be utilised to quash criminal proceedings instituted after great delay, or with vengeful or mala fide motives. (Sirajul v. State of U.P. [Sirajul v. State of U.P., (2015) 9 SCC 201 : (2015) 3 SCC (Cri) 749] ; State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426 : AIR 1992 SC 604] .) Thus, it is the constitutional duty of this Court to quash criminal proceedings that were instituted by misleading the court and abusing its processes of law, only with a view to harass the hapless litigants.

28. In this Court's quest for complete justice, and to bring peace between the parties, who are fighting various litigations since 2006, we exercise our powers under Article 142 to quash all the litigations between the parties arising out of this incident."

7. Sri Vijay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for opposite party-2 has not able to dispute above referred legal position, however, he has submitted that in case any proceeding has to be quashed that criminal proceeding arising out of a charge sheet, since Magistrate has, after considering statements recorded u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., to summon the applicants under Sections 323, 504, 506 and 452 IPC. Otherwise, Magistrate could follow procedure prescribed under Section 210 Cr.P.C. i.e. procedure to follow when there is a complaint case and police investigation in respect of the same offence.

8. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

9. It is not much in dispute that on basis of alleged occurrence, complainant has first filed an NCR wherein after investigation, charge sheet was filed for non-cognizable offence and trial Court considered it to be a complaint case under Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. and summons were issued to applicants for offence u/s 323 and 504 IPC.

10. After charge sheet was filed and before summons were issued, complainant has filed a criminal complaint disclosing facts of NCR that applicants have committed cognizable offence and trial Court vide impugned order, after considering statement u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. has summoned the applicants for offence u/s 323, 504, 506 and 452 IPC.

11. Court takes note of Krishna Lal Chawla (supra) that multiple proceedings on same set of facts could not be proceeded further and it could be quashed if they are attended with malafide and initiated only to harass accused persons.

12. In present case, there is no argument on behalf of learned counsel for applicants that impugned passed u/s 204 Cr.P.C. itself is illegal as no requisite reason was assigned that there are sufficient grounds to proceed against applicants as well as that it was not based on material available on record i.e. complaint, statement recorded u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. Relevant part of impugned order has already been quoted in preceding paragraph.

13. In the present case, complainant has specifically stated about lodging of NCR in the complaint and essentially it was reason to file complaint since no FIR was lodged. The applicants have not brought on record before trial Court about factum of filing charge sheet for non-cognizable offence in pursuance of NCR and that it was treated as a complaint case under Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. The conduct of complainant was bonafide and has no malice as he has come up with clean hands.

14. Legal error committed by trial Court is that despite being aware that an NCR was already lodged. No police report was summoned to ascertain outcome of NCR and facts thereof only on ground that on some set of allegations, both NCR/FIR and criminal complaint was filed, itself would not be a malafide approach rather the Court has to look into attending circumstances to ascertain whether it was a creature of malafide which is not evident in present case.

15. In aforesaid circumstances, this Court is of considered opinion that above referred impugned order becomes illegal and accordingly, impugned order dated 26.04.2024 passed in Case No. 105/2022 (Ajay vs. Prem Nath and others) u/s 323, 504, 506, 452 IPC, Police Station-Zafrabad, District- Jaunpur, pending before ACJM-II, Jaunpur is set aside and matter is remitted back to concerned trial Court to pass a fresh order after taking note of factum about charge sheet filed in NCR lodged by complainant on non-cognizable offence and order passed under Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. as well as while passing fresh order, concerned Court would also take note of Krishna Lal Chawla (supra) after hearing the complainant.

16. Application stands disposed of with above observations.

17. Registrar (Compliance) to take steps.

1. The Court proceed to decide present case, i.e., an objection with regard to jurisdiction of an application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C., in the background that Supreme Court in a judgment passed about four and half decades ago, has observed that provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. is a measure of social justice and specially enacted to protect women and children and falls within the constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution. (See, Captain Ramesh Chander Kaushal vs. Mrs. Veena Kuashal and others, AIR 1978 SC 1807)

प्रार्थनापत्र 13-ख निरस्त किया जाता है। पत्रावली वास्ते प्रतिवाद पत्र दिनांक 02.03.2023 को पेश हो ।.

7. Sri Mohammad Fateh, learned counsel for applicant, has placed reliance on a judgment passed by High Court of Madhya Pradesh at Gwalior in Nirman Sagar vs. Smt. Monika Sagar Chaudhari and another (Criminal Revision No. 3060 of 2021), decided on 01.04.2022 that in terms of Section 126 Cr.P.C. the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. can be initiated in any district where he or his wife resides or where he last resided with her wife or as the case may be with the mother of the illegitimate child and further held that word ?reside? would not include a casual stay or a flying visit to a particular place.

8. Above submissions are vehemently opposed by Sri Mohd. Zubair, learned counsel appearing for Opposite Party No. 2 and he placed reliance on Captain Ramesh Chander Kaushal (supra) that since provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. are of welfare legislation, therefore, the issue of jurisdiction be also considered in a liberal manner.

9. On merit, learned counsel for Opposite Party No. 2 submits that Trial Court has considered that Bareilly is permanent residence of complainant where she is frequently visiting and only for the purpose of job she stays at Delhi though he has not disputed that an application under Section 12 of Act, 2005 was filed at Delhi.

10. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

11. Aforesaid fact with regard to filing of application under Section 12 of Act, 2005 at Delhi as well as complainant resides at Delhi for the purpose of job, is not under dispute. It is also not under much dispute that complainants parents are permanent resident of Bareilly. Marriage was also solemnized at Bareilly. Therefore, it cannot be much disputed that complainant is visiting at her permanent residence frequently. As such, it cannot be said that visit to Bareilly was a casual stay or a flying visit. Permanent address of complainant at Bareilly would fall within the contour of reside.

12. The other argument of learned counsel for applicant is that since application under Section 12 of Act, 2005 was filed by complainant at Delhi, therefore, she is now not permitted to file any application at Bareilly. However, if this argument is accepted, the very purpose of Section 125 Cr.P.C., which is already referred as a welfare legislation, would be frustrated. Therefore, this Court by invoking inherent power under Section 482

Cr.P.C. cannot become a tool to frustrate the very object of Section 125 Cr.P.C. merely on objection of jurisdiction. The Court cannot ignore that it is not much disputed that complainants parents are permanent resident of Bareilly and she has frequent visit thereat.

13. The facts of present case are distinguishable from the facts of judgment cited by learned counsel for applicant in Nirman Sagar (supra). Section 126 Cr.P.C. provides that proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. may be taken against any person in any district where he is residing or where he or his wife resides. Therefore, if wife resides at Bareilly, she can file complaint under Section 125 Cr.P.C. at Bareilly also. It is upto the complainant to chose the place of jurisdiction and in the present case complainant has chosen to file complaint at Bareilly.

14. In aforesaid circumstances, I do not find that there is any ground to interfere with impugned order whereby objection with regard to jurisdiction was rejected.

15. The application is accordingly rejected.

2. Before proceeding, it would be apt to rectify that in the order dated 28.08.2024 inadvertently name of "Shri Pradeep Kumar Shukla, Advocate" has been indicated as counsel for opposite party no. 2, which is rectified and same would read as "Shri Digvijay Nath Dubey, Advocate".

3. The present application has been filed by the applicant namely Navneet Bhadauria seeking following main relief:

"to allow the present Application filed under section 528 Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita 2024 (BNSS) corresponding to Section 482 Cr.P.C exercising the inherent powers to give effect to the provisions of the Code and quash the impugned order dated 21/8/2024 passed by Learned Court of ACJM I Court No. 25 Lucknow and direct and permit applicant so as to furnish the bonds under section 88 Cr.P.C to the satisfaction of the Learned Trial Court in FIR No. 0363/2021 Case No. 80697/2022 U/s 323,504,506,420,467,468,471 IPC PS Vibhuti Khand Lucknow in the interest of justice."

4. Brief facts of the case, which are relevant for the purposes of disposal of the application under consideration, are as under:

(i) An FIR was lodged as Case Crime No. 363 of 2021 under Sections 147, 323, 504, 506, 406, 420 at Police Station - Vibhuti Khand District - Lucknow by opposite party no.2/Deepak Sharma against Anand Kumar Singh @ Baba Trikaldarshi, Rajeev Lochal Paliwal, Navneet Bhadauria (applicant herein), Vijay Pal Prapati and one unknown.

(ii) After the aforesaid, the investigation was carried out and upon completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer (in short "I.O.") submitted the charge-sheet dated 01.06.2022 under Sections 323, 504, 506, 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 which was submitted before the Court concerned on 19.07.2022.

(iii) Thereafter, the Court concerned took cognizance upon the charge-sheet on 19.07.2022 and summons were issued to the accused indicated in the charge-sheet named above.

(iv) It appears that in pursuance to the summons, the applicant did not appear before the Court.

(v) Thereafter, the Bailable Warrant was issued on 10.10.2022 and despite the order related to issuance of the Bailable Warrant, the applicant did not appear before the trial Court and ultimately on 15.10.2022, the trial Court issued the Non-Bailable Warrant.

(vi) For the purposes of interference in the pending criminal proceedings, the applicant approached this Court by means of APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 6754 of 2022. This Court, after considering the facts and circumstances of the case vide order dated 26.09.2022, declined to interfere in the pending criminal proceedings and disposed of the said application preferred by the applicant/Navneet Bhadauria under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure (in short "Cr.P.C.") with liberty to the applicant to prefer an application seeking anticipatory bail or regular bail. The relevant portion of order dated 26.09.2022 reads as under:

"In view of the aforesaid case law, this Court has adverted to the entire record of the case.

The submissions made by the applicant's learned counsel call for adjudication on pure questions of fact which may be adequately adjudicated upon only by the trial court and while doing so even the submissions made on points of law can also be more appropriately gone into by the trial court in this case. This Court does not deem it proper, and therefore cannot be persuaded to have a pre-trial before the actual trial begins. A threadbare discussion of various facts and circumstances, as they emerge from the allegations made against the accused, is being purposely avoided by the Court for the reason, lest the same might cause any prejudice to either side during trial. Therefore, I do not find any justification to quash the proceedings against the applicants as the case does not fall in any of the categories recognized by the Apex Court which may justify their quashing.

Accordingly, the prayer for quashing the same is refused as I do not see any illegality, impropriety and incorrectness in the proceedings under challenge. There is no abuse of court's process either.

However, it is provided that if the applicant appears before the court below and applies for grant of anticipatory bail / bail, the court below shall consider and decide the same expeditiously on the basis of material available before it in accordance with law having regard to the fact that whether the offences under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. are made out against the present applicant in the facts of this case and on the basis of material collected during investigation.

With the aforesaid observations, the instant application is finally disposed of."

(vii) Prior to issuance of Bailable Warrant and Non- Bailable Warrant, as stated, the applicant preferred an anticipatory bail application under Section 438 Cr.P.C. before this Court registered as CRIMINAL MISC ANTICIPATORY BAIL APPLICATION U/S 438 CR.P.C. No. 1841 of 2022. This Court, after considering the facts and circumstances of the case including the interim protection granted by Division Bench of this Court vide order dated 10.08.2021 passed in Misc. Bench No. 17201 of 2021 (Rajeev Lochan Paliwal & Anr. Vs. State of U.P.), allowed the anticipatory bail application preferred by the applicant/Navneet Bhaduaria vide order dated 18.11.2022. The relevant portion of the order dated 18.11.2022 reads as under:

"8. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, I find that as per prosecution case, first time co-accused Anand Kumar Singh @ Baba Trikaldarshi with dishonest intention by luring the complainant insisted him to invest money in mining business in U.P. and thereafter, he introduced the complainant to Vijay Pal Prajapati (Proprietor of "M/s V.P. Construction"), who was also in his collusion. Subsequently, on their inducement and assurance, complainant believing their words as true, invested money in question in good faith in the mining business along with M/s V.P. Construction. Applicant is neither partner of Vijay Pal Prajapati nor investor in the mining business in question. There is no business deal between the complainant and present applicant-Navneet Singh Bhadauria and he is also not party in the aforesaid agreements dated 05.12.2020. The applicant is not liable to return any amount in question to the complainant. The applicant has no criminal antecedent to his credit. Learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the complainant could not point out any material on record to establish the specific act of forgery or fabrication of any document on the part of present applicant-Navneet Singh Bhadauria. Tender was also not allotted to the applicant. This Court is of the view that in order to constitute the offence under Section 420 I.P.C., there must be element of deception and a person is said to deceive another by "Suggestio falsi" (suggesting false) or "Supressio very" (suppressing the truth) or both intentionally induces another to believe a thing to be true which he knows to be false or does not believe to be true. Under the facts of this case, I find that the co-accused Anand Kumar Singh @ Baba Trikaldarshi and Vijay Pal Prajapati (Proprietor of M/s V.P. Construction) are the main culprit in this case and the case of the present applicant Navneet Singh Bhadauria is distinguishable from them and stands on better footing than that of co-accused Rajeev Lochan Paliwal, who has been granted anticipatory bail by the co-ordinate Bench as noted above. The incident which is alleged to have taken place on 09.03.2021 as alleged in F.I.R. is a disputed question of fact and can be seen by the trial Court. I also find that non-bailable warrant dated 15.10.2022 was issued during pendency of anticipatory bail application of the applicant before the concerned Court below, which was filed in compliance of above order dated 26.09.2022. So far as judgments relied upon by the counsel for the complainant is concerned, this Court is of the view that the same is distinguishable on the facts of this case. It is well settled that every case turns on its own facts. Even one additional or different fact may make a big difference between the conclusion in two cases, because even a single significant detail may alter the entire aspect.

9. In view of the above analysis of the case, looking to the overall facts and circumstances of the case, submissions of learned counsel for the parties, reasonable apprehension of arrest of the applicant, taking into consideration the gravity of offence in the light of nature of accusation so far as against the present applicant is concerned which is distinguishable from the case of Anand Kumar Singh @ Baba Trikaldarshi and Vijay Pal Prajapati and there being no possibility of his fleeing from justice as well as reasons noted above, this Court is of the view that prima facie the applicant has made out a case for granting anticipatory bail during trial."

(viii) After the aforesaid, an application seeking cancellation of bail registered as CRIMINAL MISC. BAIL CANCELLATION APPLICATION No. -37 of 2024 was preferred by Deepak Sharma. This Court took note of the fact indicated in the said application as also the submissions advanced by learend counsel for the applicant (opposite party no. 2 herein) and thereafter vide order dated 05.07.2024, the application seeking cancellation of bail was allowed. The order dated 05.07.2024 reads as under:

"Heard Mr. Digvijay Nath Dubey, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Virendra, learned A.G.A. representing the State and Mr. Chandan Srivastava, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 through video conferencing.

The instant application has been moved by the applicant - Deepak Sharma with a prayer to cancel the anticipatory bail granted vide order of this Court dated 18.11.2022 to opposite party no. 2-Navneet Bhadauria mainly on the ground of violation of condition no.1 of anticipatory bail order dated 18.11.2022, which reads as under :

"(i) That the applicant shall cooperate in the expeditious disposal of the trial and shall regularly attend the court on each dates unless inevitable.

(ii) xxxx

(iii) xxxx

(iv) xxxx"

The only submission of Mr. Digvijay Nath Dubey, learned counsel for the applicant is that opposite party no. 2 is not cooperating with expeditious disposal of trial. Referring the order-sheet of the trial Court, he submits that on 16.06.2023, 28.06.2023, 27.07.2023, 10.08.2023, 21.08.2023, 17.11.2023, 18.01.2024 and 29.01.2024, opposite party no. 2 did not personally appear before the trial Court and moved exemption applications through his counsel in a casual manner.

On the other hand, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 does not dispute the said fact of moving exemption applications, however, he submits that opposite party no. 2 was appearing before the trial Court on the aforesaid dates through his counsel, therefore, it cannot be said that he is not cooperating with expeditious disposal of trial.

Having heard submission of learned counsel for the parties and perusing the record, I find that it is not in dispute that on several dates as noted above, opposite party no. 2 did not appear in person and moved applications through his counsel for exemption of his appearance. Record also shows that case is running at a slow pace on account of delaying tactics adopted by accused persons by adopting different modus operandi. Opposite party no. 2 despite granting time vide order dated 17.05.2024 did not file counter affidavit. This Court is also of the view that despite granting anticipatory bail to opposite party no. 2, his non-appearance in person before the trial Court and frequently moving exemption applications on the dates fixed amount to his non-cooperation with the expeditious disposal of the trial.

In view of the above, order dated 18.11.2022 granting anticipatory bail to opposite party no. 2-Navneet Bhadauria is hereby cancelled. Opposite party no. 2 is directed to surrender before the trial Court forthwith.

Accordingly, instant anticipatory bail cancellation application succeeds and is allowed.

This order be communicated to the concerned trial Court for information."

(ix) Being aggrieved by the order dated 05.07.2024, quoted above, the applicant approached the Hon'ble Apex Court by preferring Special Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No. 9752 of 2024. This appeal was taken up on 29.07.2024 and the Hon'ble Apex Court, after due consideration, dismissed the appeal. The order dated 29.07.2024 dismissing the appeal filed by the applicant challenging the order dated 05.07.2024, whereby the application seeking cancellation of bail filed by Deepak Sharma (opposite party no.2 herein) was allowed, reads as under:

"Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned judgment and order.

The special leave petition is, accordingly, dismissed.

Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of."

(x) After dismissal of the special leave to appeal by the Hon'ble Apex Court vide order dated 29.07.2024, whereby the order cancelling the anticipatory bail was affirmed, the applicant approached the trial Court by preferring application(s) under Section 88 Cr.P.C. (Section 91 Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (in short "BNSS") and Section 70 Cr.P.C. (Section 72 BNSS) with a prayer to accept the bond. Both these applications have been rejected by the order under challenge dated 21.08.2024.

(xi) The aforesaid application(s), as stated, were preferred in the light of judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Tarsem Lal Vs. Directorate of Enforcement Jalandhar Zonal Office reported in (2024) 7 SCC 61. The relevant portion of the judgment passed in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra):

"33. Now, we summarise our conclusions as under:

33.1. Once a complaint under Section 44(1)(b) PMLA is filed, it will be governed by Sections 200 to 205Cr.P.C. as none of the said provisions are inconsistent with any of the provisions of PMLA;

33.2. If the accused was not arrested by ED till filing of the complaint, while taking cognizance on a complaint under Section 44(1)(b), as a normal rule, the court should issue a summons to the accused and not a warrant. Even in a case where the accused is on bail, a summons must be issued;

33.3. After a summons is issued under Section 204Cr.P.C. on taking cognizance of the offence punishable under Section 4 PMLA on a complaint, if the accused appears before the Special Court pursuant to the summons, he shall not be treated as if he is in custody. Therefore, it is not necessary for him to apply for bail. However, the Special Court can direct the accused to furnish bond in terms of Section 88Cr.P.C.;

33.4. In a case where the accused appears pursuant to a summons before the Special Court, on a sufficient cause being shown, the Special Court can grant exemption from personal appearance to the accused by exercising power under Section 205Cr.P.C.;

33.5. If the accused does not appear after a summons is served or does not appear on a subsequent date, the Special Court will be well within its powers to issue a warrant in terms of Section 70Cr.P.C.. Initially, the Special Court should issue a bailable warrant. If it is not possible to effect service of the bailable warrant, then the recourse can be taken to issue a non-bailable warrant;

33.6. A bond furnished according to Section 88 is only an undertaking by an accused who is not in custody to appear before the court on the date fixed. Thus, an order accepting bonds under Section 88 from the accused does not amount to a grant of bail;

33.7. In a case where the accused has furnished bonds under Section 88Cr.P.C., if he fails to appear on subsequent dates, the Special Court has the powers under Section 89 read with Section 70Cr.P.C. to issue a warrant directing that the accused shall be arrested and produced before the Special Court; if such a warrant is issued, it will always be open for the accused to apply for cancellation of the warrant by giving an undertaking to the Special Court to appear before the said court on all the dates fixed by it. While cancelling the warrant, the court can always take an undertaking from the accused to appear before the court on every date unless appearance is specifically exempted. When ED has not taken the custody of the accused during the investigation, usually, the Special Court will exercise the power of cancellation of the warrant without insisting on taking the accused in custody provided an undertaking is furnished by the accused to appear regularly before the court. When the Special Court deals with an application for cancellation of a warrant, the Special Court is not dealing with an application for bail. Hence, Section 45(1) will have no application to such an application;

33.8. When an accused appears pursuant to a summons, the Special Court is empowered to take bonds under Section 88Cr.P.C. in a given case. However, it is not mandatory in every case to direct furnishing of bonds. However, if a warrant of arrest has been issued on account of non-appearance or proceedings under Section 82 and/or Section 83Cr.P.C. have been issued against an accused, he cannot be let off by taking a bond under Section 88Cr.P.C., and the accused will have to apply for cancellation of the warrant;

33.9. After cognizance is taken of the offence punishable under Section 4 PMLA based on a complaint under Section 44(1)(b), ED and its officers are powerless to exercise power under Section 19 to arrest a person shown as an accused in the complaint; and

33.10. If ED wants custody of the accused who appears after service of summons for conducting further investigation in the same offence, ED will have to seek custody of the accused by applying to the Special Court. After hearing the accused, the Special Court must pass an order on the application by recording brief reasons. While hearing such an application, the court may permit custody only if it is satisfied that custodial interrogation at that stage is required, even though the accused was never arrested under Section 19. However, when ED wants to conduct a further investigation concerning the same offence, it may arrest a person not shown as an accused in the complaint already filed under Section 44(1)(b), provided the requirements of Section 19 are fulfilled."

5. In the aforesaid background of the case, the present application has been filed seeking main relief, quoted above.

6. Impeaching the order dated 21.08.2024 as also seeking relief in terms of Section 88 Cr.P.C., learned counsel for the applicant states that the case of the applicant is squarely covered by the judgement passed in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra). The trial Court by not granting the relief as per the observation made in this judgment erred in fact and law both.

7. It is also stated that the trial Court by means of the impugned order rejected the application under Section 70 Cr.P.C. (Section 72 BNSS) and has not decided the application under Section 88 Cr.P.C. (Section 91 BNSS).

8. In support of his submissions aforesaid, reliance has been placed on para 33 of the judgment passed in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra), quoted above.

9. Shri S. P. Tiwari, learned A.G.A. for the State of U.P. and Shri Digvijay Nath Dubey, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 opposed the prayer sought by the applicant. The submissions advanced by the side opposite are as under:

(i) The applicant, in the facts and circumstances of the case, is not entitled to the benefit of the judgment passed in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra).

(ii) The applicant, in fact, is avoiding the proceedings pending before the trial Court.

(iii) The applicant was summoned by the trial Court but the applicant avoided the proceedings, therefore, the Bailable Warrant was issued on 10.10.2022 and despite this, the applicant failed to take benefit of various pronouncements including the pronouncement passed in Satender Kumar Antil versus Central Bureau of Investigation and another, (2022) 10 S.C.R. 351 : (2022) 10 SCC 51 and therefore, under compelling circumstances after so many dates, the trial Court issued the Non -Bailable Warrant on 15.10.2022.

(iv) The applicant also approached this Court by by means of APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 6754 of 2022, which was disposed of vide order dated 26.09.2022 and no protection was granted to the applicant.

(v) The applicant thereafter preferred an anticipatory bail application under Section 438 Cr.P.C. before this Court registered as CRIMINAL MISC ANTICIPATORY BAIL APPLICATION U/S 438 CR.P.C. No. - 1841 of 2022 which was allowed vide order dated 18.11.2022 and subsequently, the anticipatory bail application was cancelled vide order dated 05.07.2024 affirmed by the Hon'ble Apex Court vide order dated 29.07.2024.

(vi) In terms of order dated 05.07.2024 passed by this Court, whereby the bail of the applicant was cancelled, the applicant was/in under obligation to surrender/submit himself to the Court's jurisdiction, direction or control.

(vii) In the instant case, after the order dated 05.07.2024, the applicant failed to appear before the Court concerned and thereafter on account of non appearance of the applicant, in compliance of order dated 22.07.2024 passed by the trial Court the Non-Bailable Warrant was issued and taking note of all the relevant facts as also the conduct of the applicant, the trial Court passed the order dated 21.08.2024, whereby rejected both the applications preferred by the applicant.

(viii) It is not mandatory for the trial Court to enlarge the applicant on bail in terms of Section 88 Cr.P.C..

(ix) In the Tarsem Lal (Supra) the summons were issued and thereafter on account on non-appearance the warrants were issued and thereafter, the application seeking anticipatory bail before the Special Court was rejected and thereafter the High Court also rejected the prayer seeking anticipatory bail and thereafter, the appellant approached the Hon'ble Apex Court and the interim protection was granted by the Hon'ble Apex Court and subsequently, the Hon'ble Apex Court concluded in para 33, quoted above, referred by learned counsel for the applicant.

(x) In the instant case, from the record it is apparent that after order of granting bail dated 18.11.2022, the applicant did not appear on 16.06.2023, 28.06.2023, 27.07.2023, 10.08.2023, 21.08.2023, 17.11.2023, 18.01.2024 and 29.01.2024 and taking note of the conduct of the applicant, this Court cancelled the anticipatory bail application and it appears that conduct of the applicant was also considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court and therefore the special leave to appeal preferred by the applicant was dismissed vide order dated 29.07.2024 without granting the benefit of the judgment passed in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra).

10. In view of above facts, the benefits of the principles settled in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra) would not be available to the applicant.

11. In response, learned counsel for the applicant states that after the order dated 18.11.2022, the bail bond was accepted on 20.01.2023 and after production of order of this Court dated 05.07.2024 on 23.07.2024, the trial Court, on 22.07.2024, directed the Office to proceed in terms of the earlier order and in compliance thereof, Non Bailable Warrant was issued.

12. It would be apt to indicate that at this stage that from the aforesaid it is apparent that Non-Bailable Warrant was issued before preferring the application(s), which have been rejected by the impugned order dated 21.08.2024.

13. Considered the aforesaid and perused the records.

14. Upon due consideration of the facts of the present case, this Court is of the view that no interfere is required in the composite order dated 21.08.2024, impugned herein, whereby two application(s) i.e. application under Section 70 Cr.P.C./Section 72 BNSS and application under Section 88 Cr.P.C./Section 91 BNSS have been rejected. It is for the following reasons:

(i) The order dated 21.08.2024 is in two parts, as it decides two applications, referred above.

(ii) This Court feels it appropriate to first consider the second part of the order dated 21.08.2024, which relates to the application under Section 88 Cr.P.C./Section 91 BNSS. The same reads as under:

"जहां तक प्रार्थी/अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया द्वारा प्रस्तुत प्रार्थनापत्र अंतर्गत धारा 88 दं.प्र.सं. का प्रश्न है, अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया का उक्त प्रार्थनापत्र अभियुक्त की व्यक्तिगत अनुपस्थिति, उसके विरुद्ध जारी एन.बी.डब्लू, तथा माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांकित 05.07.2024 के आलोक में स्वीकार होने योग्य नहीं है"

(iii) From the above extracted part of the order dated 21.08.2024, it is apparent that the Trial Court rejected the application of the application preferred under Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS on the ground that the applicant was not present before the Trial Court and also that the applicant did not surrender himself to the jurisdiction of the concerned court in terms of order dated 05.07.2024 of this Court, affirmed by the Hon'ble Apex Court vide order dated 29.07.2924.

(iv) For seeking benefit of Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS, the concerned has to appear/ surrender before the concerned court and the same is evident from said provisions. The same are as under:-

"Section 88 Cr.P.C.

Power to take bond for appearance - When any person for whose appearance or arrest the officer presiding in any Court is empowered to issue a summons or warrant, is present in such Court, such officer may require such person to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for his appearance in such Court, or any other Court to which the case may be transferred for trial."

"Section 91 BNSS

Power to take bond or bail bond for appearance - When any person for whose appearance or arrest the officer presiding in any Court is empowered to issue a summons or warrant, is present in such Court, such officer may require such person to execute a bond or bail bond for his appearance in such Court, or any other Court to which the case may be transferred for trial."

(v) Section 88 Cr.P.C. was also considered by a Division Bench of this Court and upon due consideration, the Division Bench of this Court at Allahabad in the case of Babu Lal and Others Vs. Smt Momina Begum passed in Criminal Misc. Application No. 8810 of 1989 on 23.03.2006, observed as under :-

"Now coming to the question as to whether the cases where section 88 is applicable, can the Officer presiding a Court may require a person to execute bond, who is not present in the Court can be answered, by a simple reading of Section 88 which clearly mention the word " is present in such Court". In order to apply Section 88 Cr.P.C., therefore, presence of a person is necessary before the Court. The purpose of asking him to execute bond with or without surety is to ensure his presence/appearance in such Court or any other Court to which the cases may be transferred for trial. In the absence of such person even Section 88 Cr.P.C. would have no application. This view has been taken by an Hon'ble Single Judge of this Court in Mukesh Kumar Versus State of U.P. and others, 2000 Crl.L.J.1694 and after referring to the observations made in para-10 of the judgment in Vishwa Nath Jiloka and others Versus Munsif Lower Criminal Court, Bahraich and others, reported in 1989 AWC 1235 the Hon'ble Single Judge has taken a view that the aforesaid observation does not lay down that the bail application should be disposed of without appearance of the accused in person. The provisions of Section 88 Cr.P.C. also requires taking of the bonds, if a person is present in the Court and, therefore, no order for taking of the bonds can be passed, unless the accused appears in person. We agree with the aforesaid view."

(vi) Para 33 of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra), which includes Sub-Para 33.3, 33.5, 33.7 and 33.8 also indicates that for seeking benefit under Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS, the accused has to appear in person before the concerned court.

(vii) The benefit of Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS would only be available if the accused on his/her own volition appears before the court concerned, and in the instant case the benefit of Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS would not be available to the applicant as prior to moving the application in the said provision(s) the Non-Bailable Warrant was issued for the purposes of appearance of the applicant. In this regard reference can be made to Para 33.8 of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra). It would be apt to indicate here that on account of non-appearance before the court in terms of order dated 25.07.2024, an order was passed on 22.07.2024 and in compliance thereof, the Non Bailable Warrant was issued, fixing 07.08.2024 and prior to the same, the applications, in issue, i.e. Application under Section 70 Cr.P.C./ Section 72 BNSS and Application under Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS, were not preferred by the applicant.

(viii) In view of the aforesaid, the Trial Court, in the instant case, has not committed any error in rejecting the application of the applicant under Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS as the applicant was not present in person before the court concerned.

(ix) Non-compliance of the order dated 05.07.2024, affirmed by the Hon'ble Apex Court vide order dated 29.07.2024, is apparent from the record.

(x) The applicant without submitting/surrendering himself to the jurisdiction of the court, preferred an application for recall of the Non-Bailable Warrant under Section 70 Cr.P.C./ Section 72 BNSS.

(xi) Now coming to the first part of the order impugned. First part of the impugned order dated 21.08.2024 deals with the rejection of the application preferred by the applicant under Section 70 Cr.P.C./ Section 72 BNSS. For ready reference, the relevant portion of the order dated 21.08.2024 is extracted hereunder:-

"पत्रावली के अवलोकन से विदित है कि यह पत्रावली माननीय मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट महोदय के आदेश दिनांकित 31.07.2024 के अनुक्रम हस्तांतरित होकर इस न्यायालय में प्राप्त हुई। पत्रावली के अवलोकन पर यह पाया गया कि अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया को प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में माननीय उच्थ न्यायालय से दिनांक 18.11.2022 को अधिन जमानत प्रदान की गयी थी, जिसके उपरान्त माननीय उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा अपने आदेश दिनांकित 05.07.2024 द्वारा अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया को अग्रिम जमानत, उसके न्यायालय में व्यक्तिगत रूप से उपस्थित न होने तथा प्रायः जरिए अधिवक्ता हाजिरीमाफी प्रस्तुत करने तथा विचारण में सहयोग न करने तथा विचारण को विलंबित करने का प्रयास करने के आधार पर निरस्त करते हुए अभियुक्त को अविलंब विचारण न्यायालय के समक्ष आत्मसमर्पण करने हेतु आदेशित किया गया।, तदोपरांत अभियुक्त उपरोक्त द्वारा माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय में उक्त आदेश के विरुद्ध एक SLP दाखिल की गयी, जिसे माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा अपने आदेश दिनांकित 29.07.2024 द्वारा निरस्त कर दिया गया। माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश के उपरांत भी जब अभियुक्त द्वारा इस न्यायालय में आत्मसमर्पण नहीं किया गया, तब पूर्व पीठासीन अधिकारी द्वारा दिनांक 22.07.2024 को पत्रावली पर यह अंकन करते हुए कि अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया के विरुद्ध पूर्व आदेशानुसार यथोचित आदेशिका जारी हो, अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया के विरुद्ध एन.बी.डब्लू. जारी कर दिया तथा दिनांक 17.08.2024 की तिथि पत्रावली में नियत कर दी गयी। न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांकित 22.07.2024 के उपरांत अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया द्वारा न्यायालय में आत्मसमर्पण न करते हुए प्रार्थनापत्र अंतर्गत धारा 70 (2) दं.प्र.सं. प्रस्तुत करते हुए यह आपत्ति की है कि पूर्व पीठासीन अधिकारी द्वारा अपने आदेश दिनांकित 22.07.2024 में शब्द पूर्व आदेशानुसार प्रयोग किया है, जो कि तकनीकी रूप से गलत है। यदि अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया की ओर से की गयी आपत्ति को सही भी मान लिया जाए तो भी यह ध्यान देने योग्य है कि पूर्व पीठासीन अधिकारी द्वारा अपने आदेश दिनांकित 22.07.2024 में स्पष्ट रूप से यह अंकन करते हुए कि माननीय उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया की अग्रिम जमानत निरस्त कर दी गयी है, उसके विरुद्ध एन.बी.डब्लू. जारी किया था। यहां ध्यान देने योग्य यह भी है कि माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांकित 05.07.2024 तथा माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांकित 29.07.2024 तथा इस न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांकित 22.07.2024 के बावजूद अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया द्वारा न्यायालय में व्यक्तिगत रूप से उपस्थित न होते हुए जरिए अधिवक्ता न्यायालय में प्रार्थनापत्र अंतर्गत धारा 70 (2) दं.प्र.सं. प्रस्तुत करते हुए तकनीकी आधार पर, उसके विरुद्ध जारी एन.बी.डब्लू. को निरस्त करने की प्रार्थना की गयी है। न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांकित 22.07.2024 के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि न्यायालय द्वारा उक्त आदेश में माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश का अंकन करते हुए अभियुक्त उपरोक्त के विरुद्ध एन.बी. डब्लू, जारी किया गया है। वर्तमान में पत्रावली आरोप विरचन के स्तर पर नियत है। अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया के अतिरिक्त अन्य सभी अभियुक्त न्यायालय में व्यक्तिगत रूप से उपस्थित आ रहे हैं। अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया की अनुपस्थिति के कारण वाद के निस्तारण में विलंब हो रहा है। अभियुक्त नवनीत भदौरिया द्वारा विचारण में सहयोग न करते हुए तथा न्यायालय में उपस्थित न होते हुए जरिए अधिवक्ता तकनीकी आधार पर प्रार्थनापत्र अंतर्गत धारा 70 (2) दं.प्र.सं. प्रस्तुत किया गया है। आदेश दिनांकित 22.07.2024 के अवलोकन तथा अभियुक्त उपरोक्त के आचरण के दृष्टिगत तथा माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांकित 05.07.2024 के आलोक में प्रार्थी / अभियुक्त का प्रार्थनापत्र अंतर्गत धारा 70 (2) दं.प्र.सं. स्वीकार होने योग्य नहीं है।"

(xii) From a perusal of the aforesaid part of the order dated 21.08.2024, which relates to rejection of Application under Section 70 Cr.P.C./ Section 72 BNSS, it is apparent that the Trial Court, upon due consideration of the facts of the case, particularly the conduct of the applicant, rejected the said application.

(xiii) In regard to the conduct of the applicant, it is apparent from the record that anticipatory bail was granted by this Court vide order dated 18.11.2022 and thereafter the order dated 18.11.2022 granting anticipatory bail was cancelled by this Court vide order dated 05.07.2024. This order was passed after taking note of the fact that the applicant did not appear personally on 16.06.2023, 28.06.2023, 27.07.2023, 10.08.2023, 21.08.2023, 17.11.2023, 18.01.2024 and 29.01.2024.

(xiv) While cancelling the bail, this Court specifically ordered that "opposite party No. 2 is directed to surrender before the Trial Court forthwith." The expression 'surrender' means appearance personally before the concerned court.

(xv) In this case, the applicant challenging the order dated 05.07.2024 approached the Hon'ble Apex Court and the Hon'ble Apex Court, considering the conduct of the applicant, declined to interfere in the matter and dismissed the Special Leave Petition (SLP) vide order dated 29.07.2024 that too without providing the benefit of the judgment passed in the case of Tarsem Lal (Supra).

(xvi) Despite the aforesaid, the applicant again avoided the court proceedings and without making him personally present before the court concerned preferred two applications i.e. Application under Section 70 Cr.P.C./ Section 72 BNSS and Application under Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS, in relation to which, this Court has already observed herein-above that the Trial Court has not committed any error in rejecting the prayer seeking benefit of Section 88 Cr.P.C./ Section 91 BNSS.

(xvii) From the aforesaid, it is clear that the applicant does not want to co-operate with the trial and is avoiding the proceedings on one pretext and other by moving applications, referred above.

(xviii) Thus, this Court finds that the Trial Court has not committed any error in rejecting the application of the applicant preferred under Section 70 Cr.P.C./ Section 72 BNSS seeking recall of Non-Bailable Warrant.

15. For the reasons aforesaid, this Court is not inclined to interfere in the impugned order dated 21.08.2024. The instant application is accordingly rejected. Costs made easy.

3. 4. Learned counsel for applicants submits that since there was a dispute between husband and wife, name of child was changed in the documents firstly as ?Maisha Faizan? and thereafter as ?Aisha Naaz? though she was earlier known as ?Aisha Faizan? and her Aadhar Card and Passport were also issued in the name of ?Aisha Faizan?. Learned counsel further submits that aforesaid act would not constitute above referred offences. There is absolutely no evidence or statement that other co-accused have hatched a conspiracy or acted in furtherance of their common intention and learned counsel placed certain documents in support of his submissions.

5. Aforesaid submissions are opposed by learned counsel appearing for Opposite Party No. 2 that name of his daughter was changed without his consent. Documents placed at the time of admission in school were forged and correct documents, i.e., Aadhar Card and Passport were not placed. Name of Opposite Party No. 2 was also not disclosed in school only with an intention that he may not have any contact with his child and even he was not allowed to enter into school to place correct documents.

6. In order to appreciate rival submissions, I have carefully perused the statement of Opposite Party No. 2 recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and for reference the same is reproduced hereinafter:

"बयान अंतर्गत धारा-200 द०प्र०सं०

दिनांक: 18/07/2023

नाम: फैजान पुत्र मोहम्मद इकबाल, उम्र 35 वर्ष, निवासी लोहामंडी, थाना लोहामंडी, व्यवसाय फैब्रिकेशन।

सशपथ बयान करता हूँ कि मेरी शादी नाजिया से दिनांक 15.01.2016 को हुई थी। दिनांक 28.10.2019 से अलग रही है। नाजिया ने मेरी खिलाफ एक मुदकाम दहेज का किया हुआ है। नाजिया का अफेयर ही एक मोहित चौधरी से उसी के साथ दिल्ली रह रही है। मेरी एक बेटी है बेटी नाना नानी के पास रहती है। मेरी बेटी का एडमिशन फ्यूचर किंड स्कूल सैक्टर-3 में करया। स्कूल में गया तो पता चला कि आयशा फेजान नाम की लड़की नहीं पढ़ती है। पिता के नाम पर अब्दुल माजिद रखा गया था। बेटी का मायशा नाम कर दिया। उसकी उम्र 6.5 वर्ष है। पिता का नाम भी बदल दिया। माता का नाम भी बदल दिया। उसके भाई के नाम भी बदल दिया। वह मेरे साथ रहना नहीं चाहती है। मुझे मेरी बेटी से मिलने नहीं देते है। मेरे पास कई साक्ष्य मौजूद है। मैं यही चाहता हूँ कि उसके विरूद्ध कानूनी कार्यवाही की जाये।"

7. Aforesaid statement is absolutely silent that Applicants-2, 3 and 4 have committed any offence of criminal conspiracy or they have acted in furtherance of their common intention and since they have been summoned only with the aid of Section 120B/34 IPC, therefore, summoning order is bad in law qua to Applicants-2, 3 and 4.

8. Now the Court proceed to consider, whether offences under Sections 467, 468, 471 IPC are made out against Applicant-1 or not. These Sections are reproduced hereinafter:

"467. Forgery of valuable security, will, etc.?Whoever forges a document which purports to be a valuable security or a will, or an authority to adopt a son, or which purports to give authority to any person to make or transfer any valuable security, or to receive the principal, interest or dividends thereon, or to receive or deliver any money, movable property, or valuable security, or any document purporting to be an acquittance or receipt acknowledging the payment of money, or an acquittance or receipt for the delivery of any movable property or valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment for life, or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.

468. Forgery for purpose of cheating.?Whoever commits forgery, intending that the document or electronic record forged shall be used for the purpose of cheating, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

471. Using as genuine a forged document or electronic record.?Whoever fraudulently or dishonestly uses as genuine any document or electronic record which he knows or has reason to believe to be a forged document or electronic record, shall be punished in the same manner as if he had forged such document or electronic record."

9. Section 471 IPC describes a crime if a forged document is used as a genuine. However, in entire documents filed by Opposite Party No. 2 before Trial Court, there is no such document which was forged and later on was used as genuine. The documents filed before school are not available on record, therefore, no offence is made out under Section 471 IPC.

10. Section 467 IPC describes a crime if a document is forged and as referred above, there is no document on record which was forged. It is not on record, whether Aadhar Card or Passport were forged or not. Even particulars of Aadhar Card can be changed since a procedure has been prescribed under Aadhar Act.

11. So far as Section 468 IPC is concerned, it relates to forgery for the purpose of cheating and as referred above since no forgery has been pointed out on basis of any document, since even prima facie, no offences (referred above) are made out under Section 468 IPC also.

12. In aforesaid circumstances, this Court is of the considered opinion that there is no sufficient material to proceed, therefore, no offence is made out against Applicant-1 also.

13. In the result, application is allowed. Impugned summoning order dated 21.11.2023 and non-bailable warrant dated 26.02.2024 as well as entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 201/2023 (Mohd. Faizan vs. Nazia Majid and others), under Sections 467, 468, 471, 120B/34 IPC, Police Station Sikandrra, District Agra, are hereby quashed.

14. However, this order will not come in the way, if Opposite Party No. 2 places record before school authorities to include his name as father of child, as till date no divorce has been taken place. Otherwise also, name of father will remain in record till it has been disowned in a legal way. It is also observed that in case Opposite Party No. 2 approaches the school to meet with Principal, for this purpose he will be allowed and school records may be corrected and for that Applicant-1 will also cooperate since it would be beneficial for welfare of child.

15. A copy of this order be sent to Principal, Kinder Academy, M-49A, Ground Floor, Near Mother Dairy, Malviya Nagar, New Delhi.

16. Registrar (Compliance) to take steps.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kunal Ravi Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Fuzail Ahmad Ansari, learned Standing Counsel for the State-appellants and Sri Anil Kumar Mehrotra, learned counsel for respondent no.1-petitioner.

2. The instant intra-court Special Appeal under Chapter VIII, Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred as the 'Rules, 1952') has been preferred against judgment and order dated 21.08.2023 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ A No.11040 of 2020 (Amar Singh vs. State of U.P. and others). For ready reference, the operative portion of the judgment and order dated 21.08.2023 is reproduced as under:-

"……65. Having gone through the authorities cited by the learned counsel appearing for the respective parties, I am of the view that the propositions as discussed in those judgments are not contradictory to each other.

66. The principle of law is well settled that interference by the High Court or Tribunal in the judicial exercise of power would not extend to appreciating the evidence and coming to a different conclusion than what Domestic Tribunal has already arrived at but the question is as to whether this decision making process was sound and was not vitiated and that a man of ordinary prudence would have arrived at a decision/ conclusion which could be said to be a rational one on the material available. It is a case where the department failed to present any evidence whatsoever in support of the charge that petitioner circulated the message to defame the Government.

67. In the case of Union of India v. Sardar Bahadur: (1972) 4 SCC 618, the Court held very clearly that any statement made in a criminal trial would have been said to be admissible had the persons who gave the statement were produced by the department before the Inquiry Officer to be cross-examined by the delinquent employee and having failed to do so the department could not have complained of the Inquiry Officer not appreciating the same.

68. Coming to the authorities cited by learned counsel for the petitioner first in the case of Wednesbury Corporation (supra) I find that in the said case the court of appeal has held that it is entitled to investigate the action of local authority in order to find out whether it had taken relevant material into consideration while arriving at a finding or conversely refused to take into account or neglected it even though available. The court, therefore, held that the answer to the question if goes to the authority or in other words like in the present case, one can conclude that authority's action is within the four corners of the matter which they ought to consider but even such a decision if tested on the IQ of a reasonable man and the Court concludes that such a reasonable man could not come to such a conclusion, the Court would still interfere. So not only decision taking process even the conclusion arrived at for the decision is open to judicial review.

69. In the case of Gohil Vishvaraj Hanubhai (supra) the Court discussed in detailed the Wednesbury unreasonableness on the point of power of judicial review. The Court held that the irrationality of a decision making power would account to akin of 'Wednesbury unreasonableness'. In support of this, the view taken by Lord Diplock was reiterated and it was observed that the decision should be so outrageous in its defiance of logic or accepted moral standards that given an application of mind by a reasonable man, it may not be approved of.

70. In the present case I find that second charge was not at all proved by the Inquiry Officer. The first charge was proved partly only and that too on the ground that petitioner had himself made an admission, fair enough, that while trying to delete the message he got the same forwarded in whatsapp group by wrongly touching the icon. This also happened in the midnight hours, therefore, applying the definition of misconduct given in Strout's dictionary (supra) there was nothing to demonstrate that the petitioner did it intentionally. It was a case where petitioner did delete the message in the midnight hoursbefore anybody could have read it, however, by way of precaution he messaged other whatsapp group members to delete the message wrongly got sent by him. The department would have been justified in bringing home the charge, had it produced the persons who might have read the message or shown to others or had complained against the petitioner. That being not the case, the charge itself did not stand proved and, therefore, punishment of dismissal from service is held to be shockingly disproportionate. Fact position admitted on record is that petitioner had made a fair admission and upon the said fair admission the department sets up an inquiry and did not find a single employee or the member of the group message who were the employees to have read the message before it was deleted in the midnight hours. This being the admitted factual position, I do not see petitioner to deserve such a harsh punishment of dismissal from service. In my considered view, in the absence of evidence as to circulation of message to pollute mind of people towards the government, the government should have appreciated his courage to show admission and should have warned him to be careful in future.

71. Coming to the argument advanced by learned Additional Advocate General that admission is the best piece of evidence and delinquent employee having admitted that he had forwarded the message, nothing more required to bring home the charge, I find that admission was only to the extent that he got the message forwarded due to inadvertence as he was trying to delete the same and further I find that admission was also that petitioner had asked everyone to delete the message. So admission was as to the inadvertent mistake and not as to the intention to forward the message to defame the Chief Minister or his government. Eventually he wanted and honestly attempted to delete the questionable message. The admission is to be read contextually and not in isolation and so in my considered view there was no admission as to the charge levelled against the petitioner.

72. The principles as discussed in authorities cited by learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Additional Advocate General herein this above judgment, I find that the order of dismissal deserves interference.

73. Thus the second argument as to quantum of punishment being shockingly disproportionate to the guilt proved though partly also holds merit and impugned order deserves to be quashed.

74. In view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 7th September, 2020 is hereby quashed. Petitioner shall be reinstated in service and shall be entitled to all consequential benefits.

75. The matter is remitted to the extent that the respondent authority may impose any minor punishment in its discretion taking into consideration that admission of the petitioner and his fairness in reporting to the Government that he got objectionable message forwarded in the whatsapp group in the midnight hours mistakenly and deleted the same within 2-3 minutes and messaged others in whatsapp group to delete the message and also the fact that there was no evidence available that the message was got circulated and was read by members of the whatsapp group or any other member on his mobile through whatsapp message. He can only be just issued with a warning for his such conduct if otherwise his career has been blotless but for this solitary incident.

76. Appropriate order shall be passed by the State Government within 30 days from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

77. Cost made easy."

FACTUAL MATRIX OF THE CASE

3. Respondent no.1-writ petitioner was appointed on 05.02.2001 on the post of Personal Assistant in U.P. Secretariat, Lucknow on being selected by U.P. Public Service Commission 1. His services were governed by the U.P. Secretariat Personal Assistant Service Rules, 2001 2, U.P. Government Servants Conduct Rules, 1956 3 and U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 4. Respondent no.1-petitioner claimed that he had received an objectionable Whatsapp message, which he was trying to delete but inadvertently it got forwarded to the Whatsapp group of Additional Private Secretary Cadre. Having realized his mistake, he immediately deleted the said message from the group. Thereafter, respondent no.1-petitioner for his inadvertent mistake, on his own accord, tendered an unconditional apology to the State Functionaries of the Government of U.P. with an assurance that no such mistake will be made by him in future.

4. On his application, wherein he has tendered unconditional apology, the Secretary, Administration initiated a disciplinary proceedings against him under the Rules, 1999. In the disciplinary enquiry the charge sheet was served upon respondent no.1-petitioner, to which he gave a reply. On 25.12.2019, the disciplinary authority sent a proposal to the Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Secretariat, Administration with the recommendation to end the departmental proceedings against the respondent no.1-petitioner giving him warning not to repeat such act in future. The matter was placed before the Chief Secretary, who did not agree with the said proposal. Thereafter, a different proposal was placed to the Hon'ble Chief Minister by the Chief Secretary seeking his consent on two proposed alternate punishment against the petitioner (respondent no.1 herein), i.e. the first proposal was "award punishment of censure entry and revert him on the grade of basic salary" and second proposal was "removal from service which does not disqualify from future employment".

5. Hon'ble Chief Minister (as Minister concerned) had accorded approval on 24.02.2020 on second proposal i.e. removal from service of respondent no.1-petitioner, which does not disqualify him from future employment. Consequently, the order dated 7.9.2020 was passed, whereby the services of respondent no.1-petitioner was dispensed with. However, dismissal would not disqualify him from future employment.

6. Aggrieved with the said dismissal order, the respondent no.1-petitioner had invoked the writ jurisdiction by preferring Writ-A No.11040 of 2020 (Amar Singh vs. State of U.P. and others) precisely on the ground that the entire procedure so adopted during disciplinary proceeding was dehors the procedure prescribed under the relevant service rules, with the following reliefs:-

"(A) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 07.09.2020 passed by respondent no.2.

(B) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding and directing the respondents to not interfere in the working of the petitioner as Additional Private Secretary in the Department of Secretariat Administration, Section-2 (Establishment), Government of U.P. Lucknow and pay his regular salary month to month."

7. In the writ proceeding, it was pressed by the State-respondents that the petitioner therein had admitted to have circulated the Whatsapp message. It was further argued that the termination order does not dis-entitle the petitioner (respondent no.1 herein) from seeking appointment elsewhere, so there was nothing illegal, which would call for interference by the writ Court.

8. After hearing the parties, learned Single Judge vide judgment and order dated 21.08.2023 had allowed the writ petition and held that the alleged enquiry was in gross violation of principle of natural justice and the procedure, which was adopted during the enquiry was also dehors the Rules. Accordingly, the impugned order of dismissal from service was struck down. It was also opined that the quantum of punishment was shockingly disproportionate to the guilt proved though partly holds merit. Learned Single Judge had set aside the termination order and directed for reinstatement of petitioner in service along with all consequential benefits. Further the matter was remitted with observation that the respondent authority may impose any minor punishment in its discretion taking into consideration the admission of the petitioner and his fairness in reporting to the Government that he got objectionable message, forwarded in the whatsapp group.

9. Aggrieved with the judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge, the State-appellants have preferred the instant intra Court appeal.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF STATE-APPELLANTS

10. The basic ground taken in the instant appeal is that the dispute pertains to District Lucknow as the respondent no.1-petitioner was employed as Addl. Private Secretary in the Department of Secretariat Administration, Section 2 (Establishment), Civil Secretariat, Lucknow; entire disciplinary proceedings were initiated and culminated at Lucknow and consequently the order dated 7.9.2020 (impugned in the writ petition) was passed by the Authority constituted at Lucknow namely Addl. Chief Secretary, Department of Secretariat Administration, Section-2 (Establishment), Government of U.P., Lucknow.

11. Sri Kunal Ravi Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Fuzail Ahmad Ansari, learned Standing Counsel have vehemently submitted that the aforementioned facts are sufficient enough to highlight the fact that no cause of action arose at Prayagraj, which could confer jurisdiction to the Allahabad High Court to entertain the writ petition. All cause of action falls within the territorial jurisdiction of Lucknow Bench of this Court. As such the judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge is without jurisdiction and liable to be set aside. Learned Standing Counsel submitted that the respondent no.1-petitioner had heavily relied upon paragraph 67 of the writ petition, wherein it is averred that part cause of action arose at Prayagraj as the U.P. Public Service Commission, Allahabad (respondent no.4 in the writ petition) had consented for imposition of punishment upon the respondent no.1-petitioner as per Rule 16 of Rules, 1999. He submitted that the claim set up by the respondent no.1-petitioner for pressing the relief at Allahabad High Court as part cause of action arose at Prayagraj is wholly incorrect. He submitted that Rule 16 of Rules, 1999 is similar to Article 320 (3) (c) of the Constitution of India. Rule 16 of the Rules, 1999 and Article 320 (3) (c) of the Constitution of India refers to consultation with the Public Service Commission in all disciplinary matters. In such a situation, it is to be seen merely as a consultation. It would not give any legal right to the person with regard to jurisdiction.

12. He submitted that the said question is no longer res integra and the Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. Manbodhan Lal Srivastava 5 has held that Article 320 (3) does not afford the public servant any cause of action, which would confer any rights on the public servant so as to enable him to relief under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The Apex Court had categorically held that "it is not a right which can be recognized and enforced by a writ". He has also placed reliance upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in Ram Gopal Chaturvedi v. State of M.P.6, wherein three Judges Bench had approved the ratio laid down in Manbodhan Lal Srivastava (Supra) and reiterated that the consultation with the Commission did not confer any right on the public servant. Similar view has also been taken by the Apex Court in Union of India v. T.V. Patel 7, which also approved that Article 320 (3) (c) does not confer any right upon the public servant to challenge the same. In the said case, the consultation was done from the Public Service Commission and upon advice of the Commission, the final order was passed. Shri Ansari submitted that even in the said case, Hon'ble Apex Court unequivocally approved the ratio laid down in Manbodhan Lal Srivastava (Supra) and held that no cause of action arose to the public servant upon consultation from the Commission.

13. Shri Ansari, learned Standing Counsel, in this backdrop, submitted that consultation or the lack of same with the Public Service Commission does not confer any cause of action upon the public servant so as to confer him any right to challenge the same in writ jurisdiction. Even otherwise, the respondent no.1-petitioner did not challenge the advice given by the Commission inspite of the fact that the same has been reiterated while passing the punishment order. Safely it can be argued that the advice of the Commission merged with the final punishment order, which was passed at Lucknow. He further assertively argued that every fact pleaded in the writ petition would not constitute a cause of action at Allahabad. The fact, which is enumerated in para 67 of the writ petition would have no bearing on the lis and that so does not give cause of action so as to confer territorial jurisdiction upon the Court concerned. In support of his submissions, he has placed reliance upon the Full Bench judgment of this Court in Manish Kumar Mishra v. Union of India & Ors.8, wherein similar question was considered and it was held as follows:-

"....59. The expression "cause of action" has been defined in Halsbury's Laws of England19, as follows:-

"20. Cause of action. "Cause of action" has been defined as meaning simply a factual situation, the existence of which entitles one person to obtain from the court a remedy against another person. The phrase has been held from earliest time to include every fact which is material to be proved to entitle the plaintiff to succeed, and every fact which a defendant would have a right to traverse. "Cause of action" has also been taken to mean that a particular act on the part of the defendant which gives the plaintiff his cause of complaint, or the subject-matter of grievance founding the action, not merely the technical cause of action.

The same facts or the same transaction or event may give rise to more than one effective cause of action.

A cause of action arises wholly or in part within a certain local area where all or some of the material facts which the plaintiff has to prove in order to succeed arise within that area."

14. Shri Ansari, learned Standing Counsel stated that the writ petition was filed for a writ of certiorari against the order passed by Addl. Chief Secretary, Department of Secretariat (Administration) situated at Lucknow and the writ petition was entertained at Allahabad and was finally decided. He submitted that since there was no order as contemplated by second proviso to Article 14 of the U. P. High Courts (Amalgamation) Order 1948, hence writ petition pertaining to jurisdiction of Lucknow Bench of this Court could neither have been entertained much less decided by this Court. In support of the submissions, he has relied upon Full Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Nirmal Dass Kathuria v. State Transport (Appellate) Tribunal, U. P., Lucknow 9, wherein five questions were referred for the opinion of the Full Bench, which for ready reference are reproduced as under–

"1. Can a case falling within the jurisdiction of the Lucknow Bench of this Court be presented at Allahabad ?

2.Can the Judges sitting at Allahabad summarily dismiss a case presented at Allahabad pertaining to the jurisdiction of the Lucknow Bench.

3.Can a case pertaining to the jurisdiction of the Lucknow Bench, presented and entertained at Allahabad, be decided finally by the judges sitting at Allahabad, without there being an order as contemplated by the second proviso to Article 14 of the U. P. High Courts (Amalgamation) Order, 1948 ?

4.What is the meaning of the expression "in respect of cases arising in such areas in Oudh" used in the first provision to Article 14of the High Courts (Amalgamation) Order, 1948 ? Has this expression reference to the place where the case originated or to the place of sitting of the last court or authority whose decree or order is being challenged in the proceeding before the High Court ?

5.Whether this writ petition can be entertained and heard by the Judges sitting at Lucknow ?"

15. He submitted that the Full Bench by majority answered the question nos.1, 2 and 3, which are relevant for the present matter, as follows :

"Question no. 1. A case falling within the jurisdiction of the Judges at Lucknow should be presented at Lucknow and not at Allahabad".

"Question No. 2. However, if such a case is presented at Allahabad the Judges at Allahabad cannot summarily dismiss it only for that reason. The case should be returned for filing before the Judges at Lucknow, and where the case has been mistakenly or inadvertently entertained at Allahabad a direction should be made to the High Court office to transmit the papers of the case to Lucknow."

"Question No. 3. A case pertaining the jurisdiction of the Judges at Lucknow and presented before the Judges at Allahabad cannot be decided by the Judges at Allahabad in the absence of an order contemplated by the second proviso to Article 14 of the of the U. P. High Courts (Amalgamation) Order, 1948."

16. He submitted that the findings given by the Full Bench of this Court on aforesaid three questions have been affirmed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Nasiruddin Vs. State Transport Appellate Tribunal 10. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the said case had observed as under :

"37. To sum up, our conclusions are as follows. First, there is no permanent seat of the High Court at Allahabad. The seats at Allahabad and at Lucknow may be changed in accordance with the provisions of the Order. Second, the Chief Justice of the High Court has no power to increase or decrease the areas in Oudh from time to time. The areas in Oudh have been determined once by the Chief Justice and, therefore, there is no scope for changing the areas. Third, the Chief Justice has power under the second proviso to paragraph 14 of the Order to direct in his discretion that any case or class of cases arising in Oudh areas shall be heard at Allahabad. Any case or class of cases are those which are instituted at Lucknow. The interpretation given by the High Court that the word "heard" confers powers on the Chief Justice to order that any case or class of cases arising in Oudh area shall be instituted or filed at Allahabad instead of Lucknow is wrong. The word "heard" means that cases which have already been instituted or filed at Lucknow may in the discretion of the Chief Justice under the second proviso to paragraph 14 of the Order be directed to be heard at Allahabad. Fourth, the expression "cause of action" with regard to a civil matter means that it should be left to the litigant to institute cases at Lucknow Bench or at Allahabad Bench according to the cause of action arising wholly or in part within either of the areas. If the case of action arises wholly within Oudh areas then the Lucknow Bench will have jurisdiction. Similarly, if the cause of action arises wholly outside the specified areas in Oudh then Allahabad will have jurisdiction. If the cause of action in part arises in the specified Oudh areas and part of the cause of action arises outside the specified areas, it will be open to the litigant to frame the case appropriately to attract the jurisdiction either at Lucknow or at Allahabad. Fifth, a criminal case arises where the offence has been committed or otherwise as provided in the Criminal Procedure Code. That will attract the jurisdiction of the Court at Allahabad or Lucknow. In some cases depending on the facts and the provision regarding jurisdiction, it may arise in either place."

"38. Applications under Article 226 will similarly lie either at Lucknow or at Allahabad as the applicant will allege that the whole of cause of action or part of the cause of action arose at Lucknow within the specified areas of Oudh or part of the cause of action arose at a place outside the specified Oudh area."

"39. The answers given by the High Court to the first three questions are correct save as modified by our conclusions aforesaid."

"40. The answer given by the High Court to the fourth question is set aside. The meaning of cases arising in Oudh areas will be found by appropriate courts in the light of this judgment."

"41. The answer to the fifth question is discharged. The matters are sent back to the High Court for disposal in accordance with this judgment."

17. Shri Ansari, learned Standing Counsel submitted that admittedly, in the present case, the entire cause of action falls within the territorial jurisdiction of Lucknow Bench of this Court as the dispute pertains to territorial jurisdiction of Lucknow Bench. It cannot even remotely be said that the part cause of action arose at Allahabad so as to confer jurisdiction upon this Court to entertain and decide the petition.

18. Reliance, in this regard, has also been placed on the judgment in Rashtriya Chinni Mills Adhikari Parishad, Lucknow v. State of U.P. & Ors.11. Emphasis has been given on paragraph 16 of the said judgment, which for ready reference, is reproduced as under:-

"Mr. Satish Chandra, learned senior advocate appearing for the appellant has contended that even on the reasoning of the Division Bench judgment itself the conclusions reached by the Bench are erroneous. We see force in the contention. The Division Bench of the High Court in Ram Rakh Vyas vs. Union of India AIR 1977 Rajasthan 243 (the judgment delivered by A.P. Sen , J. as the learned Judge then was), came to the conclusion that the words "arising in " in the context, mean "pertaining to the districts of" or "arising from". It is not disputed that in the present case the order/notification and the advertisement were issued by the State Government at Lucknow. Without there being an order/notification by the Government there could be no cause of action at all. The petitioner got aggrieved only from the order/notification which "arose" from Lucknow. The grievance of the petitioner "arose" at Lucknow which is within the Oudh area and as such on the plain reading of the relevant provisions of clause 14 of the Amalgamation Order, the Bench at Lucknow had the jurisdiction to deal with the matter."

19. He has also placed reliance on the judgment in Universal Insulators and Ceramics Ltd. v. Official Liquidator, High Court, Allahabad 12. He has relied upon paragraph 140 of the said judgment, which for ready reference, is reproduced as under:-

"140. In the present case, this issue is not at all involved, hence, we do not find that judgment in Dr. Manju Verma (supra) takes us any further on the question with which we are concerned. We, therefore, answer question (2) holding that since jurisdiction of cases to be entertained at Lucknow and Allahabad are distinct and exclusive over demarcated territories, it renders an order passed by Judges sitting at a place in a matter over which they have no jurisdiction, as nullity."

20. He further elaborated that even in case, the approval of the Commission dated 21.08.2020 would have been assailed at the initial stage while pressing the writ petition even that could not have conferred a territorial jurisdiction in favour of the petitioner to press the relief before this Court as the advice of the Commission is not mandatory and it does not give cause of action to the employee concerned. The reliance has also been placed on the judgment passed by the Division Bench of the Bombay High Court in the case of Union of India through Secretary, Ministry of Railways, Railway Board, Rail Bhawan, New Delhi and others vs. Dr. A.W. Umrdkar 13, paragraphs-6 and 7 of the same are being reproduced herein as under :

"6. The only point falls for consideration is about non-supply of advice sought from UPSC by the respondent. In this regard, the appellant would urge that, there is no legal requirement of supplying the copy of UPSC advice before passing the order of punishment. It is brought to our notice that the copy of advice was provided by the Department at the time of serving punishment order. In support of said submission the appellant has relied on the decision of Karnataka High Court in the case of The Secretary, Ministry of Railways, New Delhi v. Sh. Norman David Fernandez and anr. (Writ Petition No. 15852 of 1998) decided on 27.08.2001. In said case, while deciding similar issue, the Division Bench of Karnataka High Court held that obtaining advice from UPSC under Article 320(3)(c) is not mandatory requirement. Coincidentally, the said petition was also relating to Railway Board based on similar Rules. Besides that, the petitioner relied on the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India v. T.V. Patel 2007 Lawsuit(SC)466. In said case, it is ruled that non-supply of copy of advice tendered by UPSC before passing final order does not afford the rights nor gives cause of action to the employee. The Hon'ble Supreme Court by referring it's earlier decision in the case of State of U.P. v. Manbodhan Lal Srivastava 1958 SCR 533 ruled that, order of punishment passed without looking to the consultation report of UPSC is valid. In other words, supply of consultation report to the delinquent is not a mandatory requirement.

7 Reverting to the impugned order we find that non-supply of UPSC consultation report was sole ground for allowing the Original Application. In view of the law laid by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as view taken by the Karnataka High Court the issue is no longer res integra. There is no legal requirement to furnish the copy of consultation report as the UPSC to the employee."

21. He has also placed reliance upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in Union of India and others vs. T.V. Patel (Supra), for ready reference paragraphs-14 and 17 of which are also reproduced herein under:

"14. A Constitution Bench of this Court in the case of State of U.P. v. Manbodhan Lal Srivastava Manu/SC/0123/1957: (1958)IILLJ273SC, considered the question as to whether the consultation of the Commission under Article 320(3)(c) is mandatory and binding on the appropriate authority.

17. In view of the law settled by the Constitution Bench of this Court in the case of Srivastava (supra) we hold that the provisions of Article 320(3)(c) of the Constitution of India are not mandatory and they do not confer any rights on the public servant so that the absence of consultation or any irregularity in consultation process or furnishing a copy of the advice tendered by the UPSC, if any, does not afford the delinquent government servant a cause of action in a court of law." (Emphasis supplied)

22. Reliance has also been placed upon Full Bench decision of this Court in Manish Kumar Mishra and others vs. Union of India and others (Supra), of which paragraphs 11, 12, 20 and 21 for ready reference are being reproduced herein as under:

"11. From the above, it is evident that there can never be an encyclopedic exposition as to what would constitute cause of action in a case. The decisions of the Full Bench and the Division Benches of this Court and the Apex Court should not be read to exhaustively enunciate as to when and how the Court should determine in a case that the cause of action, wholly or in part, has arisen within its territorial limits. Peculiar facts in the context of the subject matter of the litigation, and relief claimed are the only guiding factors for the learned Judge(s) to decide. It is to be entirely left at the discretion of the Judge(s) considering the petition to ascertain whether the cause of action did exist entitling the petitioner to approach the High Court concerned.

12. Each and every fact pleaded in the writ petition cannot by itself constitute a cause of action. Facts which have no bearing on the lis or the dispute involved in the case, do not give rise to a cause of action so as to confer territorial jurisdiction on the Court concerned. In view of the expression used in clause (2) of Article 226 of the Constitution, even if a small fraction of cause of action accrues within the jurisdiction of the Court, the Court will have jurisdiction in the matter. Integral facts pleaded must have nexus or relevance with the lis so as to constitute a cause of action.

20. 'Cause of action' implies a right to sue. The material facts which are imperative for the suitor to allege and prove constitutes the cause of action. It has been interpreted to mean that every fact which would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove, if traversed, in order to support his right to the judgment of the Court. The question as to whether the Court has territorial jurisdiction to entertain a writ petition, has to be decided on the basis of averments in the petition, truth or otherwise thereof, however, would be immaterial.

21. As cause of action is the bundle of facts to examine the issue of jurisdiction it is necessary that one of the interlinked fact must have occurred in a place where the case has been instituted. All necessary facts must form an integral part of the cause of action. The fact must have direct relevance in the lis involved. It is not that every fact pleaded can give rise to a cause of action so as to confer jurisdiction on the Court in whose territorial jurisdiction it has occurred."

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENT NO.1- PETITIONER

23. Sri Anil Kumar Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing for respondent no.1/petitioner submitted that no such objection of territorial jurisdiction was taken before the Single Judge, and hence, it is not open for the State-appellant to raise such objection at this stage. He further submitted that cause of action has arisen within the territorial jurisdiction of this Court, inasmuch as, opinion of the Commission was mandatory and had been availed, since the Commission falls within the territorial jurisdiction of the writ court and the Commission was made party and notice was also served upon them. No objection at that point of time was taken by the State or the Commission, even though the matter was heard considerably for long time. To buttress this argument, he has placed reliance on a judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Sneh Lata Goel vs. Pushplata and others 14. The relevant portion of the judgment are quoted below for ready reference :

"Section 21 CPC makes it clear that an objection to the want of territorial jurisdiction does not travel to the root of or to the inherent lack of jurisdiction of a civil court to entertain the suit. Hence, it has to be raised before the court of first instance at the earliest opportunity, and in all cases where issues are settled, on or before such settlement. Moreover, it is only where there is a consequent failure of justice that an objection as to the place of suing can be entertained. Both these conditions have to be satisfied.

Where the defect in jurisdiction is of kind which falls within Section 21 CPC or Section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act, 1887, an objection to jurisdiction cannot be raised except in the manner and subject to the conditions mentioned thereunder. The judgment in Kiran Singh, AIR 1954 SC 340, on which reliance was placed by the respondent, holds that an objection to territorial jurisdiction and pecuniary jurisdiction is different from an objection to jurisdiction over the subject-matter. An objection to the want of territorial jurisdiction does not travel to the root of or to the inherent lack of jurisdiction of a civil court to entertain the suit."

24. He has further placed reliance on the judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Om Prakash Agarwal vs. Vishan Dayal Rajput and Anr.15, wherein it has been held that objection as to the place of suing should be taken by the party concerned in the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and the objection to this effect shall not be allowed by the Appellate or Revisional Court.

25. He further stated that the ground of jurisdiction has been well taken up in para 67 of the writ petition, which is quoted below:-

"That it is also relevant to mention here that, in the instant case, the opinion of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission was sought and Uttar Pradesh Pubic Service Commission took contrary view to the findings of the enquiry officer, relying on which, the disciplinary authority took the decision to award major penalty of dismissal from service. Thus, it was the incumbent upon the State Government to have supplied a copy of the advice of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission to the petitioner by way of show cause notice and the petitioner ought to have been given an opportunity to meet the proposed punishment. However, the aforesaid procedure has not been followed in the instant case resulting in violation of the principle of natural justice. The aforesaid contention of the petitioner draws force from a judgment and order dated 18.01.2016 passed by a division bench of this Hon'ble Court in the writ petition no.992 (M/B) of 2010 (Amar Kumar vs. Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow and Ors) and judgment and order passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S.N. Narul vs. Union of India and others reported in (2011) 4 SCC 591 and in the case of Union of India and others vs. S.K. Kapoor reported in (2011) 4 SCC 589."

26. To the aforesaid, the State gave reply in para 63 of the counter affidavit, wherein it was stated as follows:-

"That the contents of para 67 of the writ petition are not admitted, hence denied. In reply thereto it is submitted that a detailed and proper reply of the same has already been given in the preceding paras of this affidavit."

27. Learned counsel for the respondent no.1-petitioner further submitted that the opinion of the Commission is mandatory and in case of non supply of copy of the opinion of the Commission, the order would be unsustainable, since the Commission is in Allahabad, hence cause of action had also arisen in Allahabad, and hence, the writ court had the territorial jurisdiction to hear and decide the matter.

28. He further submitted that Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of M/s Kusum Ingots and Alloys Ltd. vs. Union of India and another 16 has held that keeping in view of the expression used in Article 226 (2) of the Constitution of India indisputably even a small fraction of cause of action accrues within the jurisdiction of the High Court, the High Court will have jurisdiction in the matter. The same view has been taken by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Shanti Devi vs. Union of India 17.

29. Since, the Commission is in Allahabad and opinion of the Commission was sought before removal/dismissal of respondent no.1-petitioner from service, hence, part of cause of action is said to have arisen in Allahabad which falls within the jurisdiction of this Court, where the writ petition was preferred and decided.

30. Learned counsel for the respondent no.1-petitioner has further placed reliance on a judgments passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Amar Kumar vs. Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow and ors.18, Union of India and ors. vs. S.K. Kapoor 19 and S.N. Narula vs. Union of India and ors.20

REJOINDER SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF STATE- APPELLANTS QUA BELATED OBJECTION WITH REGARD TO JURISDICTION AT APPELLATE STAGE

31. Shri Ansari, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the issue with regard to jurisdiction of the Court to entertain the writ petition escaped from being raised before the learned Single Judge. The issue with regard to jurisdiction of the Court has been raised as Grounds 8 and 9 of the present special appeal. It is submitted that the appellant is entitled to raise the question of jurisdiction of the Court concerned even at the appellate stage, if not taken earlier, as the same goes to the root of the matter. It is submitted that the conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and it can neither be conferred with the consent of the parties nor by a superior court. If the Court did not have jurisdiction to entertain a matter and went on to pass an order, then the same would amount to a nullity. Such a question of jurisdiction can be raised at any point of time. Reliance in this regard has been placed on the judgment in Jagmittar Singh Bhagat v. Dir. Health Services, Haryana & Ors.21, wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court held, "Indisputably, it is a settled legal proposition that conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and it can neither be conferred with the consent of the parties nor by a superior Court, and if the Court passes a decree having no jurisdiction over the matter, it would amount to nullity as the matter goes to the roots of the cause. Such an issue can be raised at any stage of the proceedings."

32. He further submitted that even though the objection with regard to jurisdiction was not taken before learned Single Judge, the same would not give jurisdiction to entertain the writ petition and pass orders on it. Such an order would be without jurisdiction. He has relied upon the judgment in Pioneer Traders & Ors. v. Chief Controller of Imports and Exports Pondicherry 22, wherein the Supreme Court held, "Where an authority whether judicial or quasi-judicial has in law no jurisdiction to make an order the omission by a party to raise before the authority the relevant facts for deciding that question cannot clothe it with jurisdiction."

33. He submitted that the High Court in Universal Insulators and Ceramics Ltd. (Supra) clearly held that a belated objection to the jurisdiction would have no effect when the Court did not have any jurisdiction over the matter. It was further held that mere delay in raising objections will not validate the order, since, the order lacks patent jurisdiction. The Allahabad High Court did not have any jurisdiction to entertain the writ petition at Allahabad and, therefore, the order was without jurisdiction amounting to a nullity. Such a question of jurisdiction can be raised at any point of time. Since the appeal is the continuation of the writ petition, the said objection can be raised in the appellate forum.

ANALYSIS BY THE COURT

34. Heard rival submissions, perused the record and respectfully considered the judgments cited at Bar.

35. In the present matter, learned counsel for the State-appellants, during the course of hearing, have specifically submitted that they are pressing mainly on the ground qua territorial jurisdiction of the writ Court.

36. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Jagmittar Singh Bhagat v. Dir. Health Services, Haryana & Ors. (Supra) has held that indisputably it is a settled legal proposition that conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and it can neither be conferred with the consent of the parties nor by a superior Court, and if the Court passes a decree having no jurisdiction over the matter, it would amount to nullity as the matter goes to the root of the cause. Such an issue can be raised at any stage of the proceedings. The relevant para 7 of the said judgment is reproduced as under:-

"7. Indisputably, it is a settled legal proposition that conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and it can neither be conferred with the consent of the parties nor by a superior Court, and if the Court passes a decree having no jurisdiction over the matter, it would amount to nullity as the matter goes to the roots of the cause. Such an issue can be raised at any stage of the proceedings. The finding of a Court or Tribunal becomes irrelevant and unenforceable/ inexecutable once the forum is found to have no jurisdiction. Similarly, if a Court/Tribunal inherently lacks jurisdiction, acquiescence of party equally should not be permitted to perpetuate and perpetrate, defeating the legislative animation. The Court cannot derive jurisdiction apart from the Statute. In such eventuality the doctrine of waiver also does not apply. (Vide: United Commercial Bank Ltd. v. Their Workmen, AIR 1951 SC 230; Smt. Nai Bahu v. Lal Ramnarayan & Ors., AIR 1978 SC 22; Natraj Studios (P) Ltd. v. Navrang Studios & Anr., AIR 1981 SC 537; and Kondiba Dagadu Kadam v. Savitribai Sopan Gujar & Ors., AIR 1999 SC 2213).”

37. Hon’ble the Supreme Court in Pioneer Traders & Ors. v. Chief Controller of Imports and Exports Pondicherry (Supra) has held that where an authority whether judicial or quasi-judicial has in law no jurisdiction to make an order, the omission by a party to raise before the authority the relevant facts for deciding that question cannot clothe it with jurisdiction. Relevant para 38 of the said judgment is reproduced as under:-

“38. These facts can however make no difference to the position in law that if in fact the importations were made on the basis of contracts concluded before November 1, 1954, the Sea Customs Act would not apply and the Collector or the Central Board of Revenue would have no jurisdiction to make any order of confiscation or penalty. Where an authority whether judicial or quasi- judicial has in law no jurisdiction to make an order the omission by a party to raise before the authority the relevant facts for deciding that question cannot clothe it with jurisdiction.”

38. In Universal Insulators and Ceramics Ltd. (Supra), this Court has held that mere delay in raising objection will not validate the order, since the order lacks patent jurisdiction. The relevant paragraphs 140, 141 & 145 of the said judgment are reproduced as under:-

“140. In the present case, this issue is not at all involved, hence, we do not find that judgment in Dr. Manju Verma (supra) takes us any further on the question with which we are concerned. We, therefore, answer question (2) holding that since jurisdiction of cases to be entertained at Lucknow and Allahabad are distinct and exclusive over demarcated territories, it renders an order passed by Judges sitting at a place in a matter over which they have no jurisdiction, as nullity.

141. In this very context and answering question (2), we think that even question (3) can be considered simultaneously as to whether objection as to territorial jurisdiction can be raised after a long time i.e. after eight years in the case in hand, and whether appellant's objection should be declined by applying principle of Section 21 C.P.C. that such objection was not raised earlier.

145. When we look at aforesaid judgment and apply it to facts of present case, on the one hand, it appears that it is a simple case of objection relating to territorial jurisdiction, but we find that here objection is in respect of subject-matter also. Cases relating to winding up, upto the stage of Section 439 of Act, 1956, arisen in the area within jurisdiction of Judges sitting at Lucknow, are not within jurisdiction of Judges at Allahabad. Therefore, Judges sitting at Allahabad lack jurisdiction on subject-matter also since, after proceeding under Section 439 of Act, 1956, Judges at Allahabad will have jurisdiction but not earlier thereto. Therefore, winding up matter in the present case involves want of jurisdiction on subject-matter also to Judges sitting at Allahabad, hence, order under appeal, in our view, is without jurisdiction and cannot be sustained. In such a situation, belated objection will make no effect.”

39. In this backdrop, we find that if the Court lacks inherent jurisdiction, merely participation of the other party does not amount to any acquiescence to the jurisdiction of the Court. We also find that the consultation with the Public Service Commission does not afford the petitioner a cause of action to prefer the writ petition at Allahabad.

40. At this stage, it is relevant to refer to the U.P. High Courts (Amalgamation) Order, 1948 23. In 1948, Governor General in exercise of powers under Section 229 of G.I. Act, 1935 issued Amalgamation Order published in Gazette of Govt. of India (Extraordinary) dated 19.07.1948. It provided that it shall come into force from the date of publication i.e. 19.07.1948. In Article/Clause 2, it defines two terms i.e. "appointed day" and "existing High Courts" and same read as under :

"2.(1) In this order-

"appointed day" means the twenty-sixth day of July, 1948; and "existing High Courts" means the High Courts referred to in Section 219 of the Act, as the High Court in Allahabad and the Chief Court in Oudh.

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies for the interpretation of this Order as it applies for the interpretation of an Act of Parliament."

(emphasis added)

41. Article/Clause 3 of U. P. High Courts (Amalgamation) Order, 1948, provided that from appointed day i.e. 26.07.1948, High Court in Allahabad and Chief Court in Oudh/Avadh shall be amalgamated and shall constitute one High Court in the name of "High Court of Judicature at Allahabad", In subsequent part of Order, 1948 it has been referred as "New High Court". Article/Clause (3) is reproduced hereinunder :

"3. As from the appointed day, the High Court in Allahabad and the Chief Court in Oudh shall be amalgamated and shall constitute one High Court by the name of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as "the new High Court")."

(emphasis added)

42. All the existing Judges, whether Permanent or Additional and Acting Judges in the existing High Court, became Judges in the same capacity of "New High Court". Article/Clause 5 provided that the person who, immediately before appointed day, is the Chief Justice of High Court in Allahabad shall be the Chief Justice of "New High Court", meaning thereby Chief Justice of High Court in Allahabad became Chief Justice of Amalgamated High Court i.e. "New High Court". Article/Clause 5 (2) provided the order of other Judges i.e. Chief Judge of High Court in Oudh/Avadh, Puisne Judges of High Court in Allahabad and Puisne Judges of Chief Court in Oudh/Avadh and additional and acting Judges. It says that firstly, the former Chief Judge of High Court in Oudh/Avadh and former Puisne Judges of the High Court in Allahabad, shall be placed according to the priority of their respective appointments in their capacity and thereafter, former Puisne Judges of Chief Court in Oudh/Avadh according to the priority of their respective appointments shall be placed.

43. Then comes Article/Clause 14 of Order, 1948, which prescribes for sitting of "New High Court" and it reads as under :

"14. The new High Court and the Judges and Division Courts thereof, shall sit at Allahabad or at such other places in the United Provinces as the Chief Justice may, with the approval of the Governor of the United Provinces, appoint :

Provided that unless Governor of the United Provinces with the concurrence of the Chief Justice, otherwise directs, such Judges of the new High Court, not less than two in nubmer, as the Chief Justice, may, from time to time nominate, shall sit at Lucknow, in order to exercise in respect of cases arising in such areas in Oudh, as the Chief Justice may direct, the jurisdiction and power for the time being vested in the new High Court.

Provided further that the Chief Justice may in his discretion order that any case or class of cases arising in the said areas shall be heard at Allahabad."

(emphasis added)

44. We also find that the findings given by the Full Bench of this Court in Nirmal Dass Kathuria v. State Transport (Appellate) Tribunal, U.P., Lucknow (Supra) qua the jurisdiction of the High Court have been affirmed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Nasiruddin (Supra). The relevant paragraphs of the said judgment have already been quoted earlier.

CONCLUSION

45. In view of the above discussion and settled law on the subject, we find that the dispute in the writ petition clearly falls within the territorial jurisdiction of the Lucknow Bench of this Court. We are of the considered opinion that the writ petition was wrongly entertained and decided by the writ Court. Therefore, the impugned judgment passed by learned Single Judge is liable to be set aside and the same is accordingly set aside.

46. The special appeal is accordingly allowed with liberty to respondent no.1-petitioner to file the writ petition, if so advised, at Lucknow Bench of this Court for appropriate remedy.

A. Special Law- Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952-Ch.VIII, Rule 5-The appellant challenged the dismissal of his writ petition which had sought relief from a disciplinary punishment imposed in 2013-the appellant failed to provide explanation for the delay of 9 years in filing appeal-For an appeal to be considered the party must provide a sufficient and credible explanation for any delay in filing-In this case, the court held that an appellant cannot simply shift blame to their counsel without adequate proof-The court emphasized that a failure to monitor the status of the case, especially when information is publicly available, weakens the justification for delay-Thus, the court reaffirmed that the exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 is discretionary-while the limitation act does not strictly apply to the writ petitions courts have developed the doctrine of laches to prevent unreasonable delays in seeking judicial remedies-The court emphasized that sufficient cause must be shown to condone delays, regardless of their length.(Para 1 to 17)

The petition is dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Bhansali, C.J.

1. Heard Sri Shrikant Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Pratul Kumar Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The instant special appeal has been filed against the order dated 13.12.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.8305 of 2022 (Chandra Prakash Tiwari Vs. State of U.P. & others) whereby the writ petition filed by the appellant was dismissed noticing that the order impugned in the writ petition was of the year 2013 and no cogent explanation was given by the appellant for filing the writ petition after nine years.

3. Learned Single Judge also noticed that there was sufficient material on the basis of which the impugned order of punishment had been passed after affording an opportunity of hearing hence it declined to interfere in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

4. The instant appeal is also accompanied by an application seeking condonation of delay of 583 days bearing I.A.No.1 of 2024.

5. Submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that his erstwhile counsel Sri Ranjit Singh had assured the appellant of filing his special appeal against the judgment of the learned Single Judge and since 30.01.2023 he kept informing the appellant that his appeal had been filed and would be taken up soon after the Holi Vacation. Thereafter similar response was given by his counsel that his appeal would be taken up in the forthcoming month and this went on through the entire year of 2023 and even till the month of May 2024. It is only thereafter the appellant suspected that perhaps his counsel was not guiding him appropriately and he then made a complaint against his erstwhile counsel and engaged the present counsel who has filed the instant appeal and in the aforesaid context it has been urged that the delay in filing the appeal be condoned.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant has further urged that the impugned order of punishment which was affirmed by the Appellate Authority is bad as it does not meet the basic standard of compliance with the principles of natural justice; inasmuch as the orders are without any reason, hence were liable to be set aside but this aspect has not been taken note of by the learned Single Judge while dismissing the writ petition. Accordingly, the instant appeal be heard on merits.

7. The Court has considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and from the perusal of the material on record, it appears that the reason as indicated by the appellant for seeking condonation of delay of 583 days is not adequately explained as the blame has been put on the counsel allegedly engaged by the appellant who kept giving him incorrect information regarding filing of the special appeal.

8. The explanation does not inspire confidence for more than one reason.

Firstly, the present appellant has been engaged in several litigation and he is not new to it. He had filed three writ petitions since 2017 and it cannot be assumed that he did not know about the legal requirements and that he could not gain information of the status of his case which otherwise is available in public domain and could be ascertained easily from the website of the Court.

Secondly, in this affidavit seeking condonation of delay, it has not been disclosed on which date the appellant had got his affidavit sworn at the time when he had handed over the papers to his erstwhile counsel. Had there been some truth to his alleged allegation then he could have indicated the date he got his affidavit sworn in the first instance as without it his special appeal could not have been filed by his erstwhile counsel.

Thirdly, it appears that deliberate allegations have been levelled against his erstwhile counsel only to cover the period of delay. In paragraph-12 of the affidavit seeking condonation of delay, it has been stated that the appellant had made a complaint against the said counsel with the Bar council but from the perusal of the complaint which has been brought on record as Annexure-A-1, there is no detail of the said counsel mentioned in the said complaint as neither his address nor his enrollment number or his mobile number has been mentioned. Moreover, it has not been indicated as to how the complaint was sent to the Bar Council as there is no postal receipt nor any receiving is on record nor any update or status of the complaint has been mentioned which clearly indicates that the said complaint is merely an eye-wash and has been deliberately introduced for seeking condonation of delay. The alleged complaint made against his lawyer being bereft of necessary details does not inspire confidence.

Fourthly, there is another reason why the explanation as tendered by the appellant does not inspire confidence and that is the fact that the appellant himself has been in the police service and it cannot be said that he is not well versed with the court proceedings especially when he had already filed three petitions earlier relating to his service matter and has also been involved in certain criminal cases where he has been acquitted. Hence the explanation as tendered does not appear to be bonafide.

9. Significantly, for seeking condonation of delay it is not the length of delay which is material but the sufficiency of cause. A long delay if sufficiently explained can be condoned whereas in case if the cause shown is not sufficient then even a short delay may not be condoned. In the instant case, the cause shown for the aforesaid reason does not inspire confidence to persuade this Court to condone the delay of 583 days.

10. Another fact which is reflected from the record is the that the appellant had filed his writ petition assailing the order of the year 2013 in the month of December 2022 almost after nine years and in the entire petition, there is not a single whisper regarding the latches.

11. There is a difference between a matter being barred by limitation and the petition which suffers from the vice of latches. In a writ petition the provisions of the Limitation Act do not apply, however, the Courts have evolved the concept of latches to ensure that a person who approaches the Court must do so promptly while invoking the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India.

12. A writ court exercises powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, which is a purely discretionary. Thus, the issue of latches assumes significance as it guides the Court to determine whether the 'lis' before it deserves the indulgence in order to exercise its discretion in befitting matters. This is quite different from a proceedings which is governed by the Limitation Act and in terms of Section 3 of the Limitation Act, even if at all, a party does not raise the issue of limitation yet it is incumbent upon the Court to look into this aspect.

13. In the aforesaid circumstances, though the issue of limitation is not attracted to a writ petition but taking an overall scenario, the Court would be well justified in refusing to entertain a petition on the ground of latches. This has been noticed by the Apex Court in Printers Mysore Ltd. Vs. M.A. Rasheed and others (2004) 4 SCC 460 and Northern India Glass Industries Vs. Jaswant Singh and others AIR 2003 SC 234.

14. This aspect has been taken note of by the learned Single Judge while dismissing the petition as it did not find any cogent reason for interfering with the order of punishment and that too after nine years.

15. The two decisions cited by the learned counsel for the appellant in C/M Distt Cooperative Bank Ltd. Vs. U.P. Cooperative Institutional Service Board & another, 2019 SCC OnLine All 4646 and Constable (Civil Police) Sandeep Kumar Vs. U.P. Public Service Tribunal, Lko & others, MANU/UP/2268/2023 are of no consequence at this stage as the delay in filing the appeal is under consideration and only if the delay is condoned and the latches in filing the petition is found satisfactory only then the merits can be examined.

16. In light of the aforesaid discussions, this Court does not find that there is any adequate explanation tendered to seek condonation of delay in filing this appeal and moreover the petition itself suffered from latches as the petition was filed after nine years.

17. In light of the aforesaid, this Court does not find any palpable error committed by the learned Single Judge in exercise of its jurisdiction while dismissing the writ petition. Accordingly, the application for condonation of delay is dismissed and consequently appeal too is dismissed. Costs are made easy.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Manoj Kumar Mishra, and Shri Shivam Sharma, the learned counsels for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondent No.1-State of U.P. and Shri Gaurav Mehrotra, the learned counsel appearing for the respondent No.2- High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

2. By means of the instant writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has challenged validity of an Office Memorandum dated 29.11.2021 issued by the State Government, whereby the petitioner has been retired prematurely. The petitioner has also challenged the validity of the recommendation for his compulsory retirement made by the High court, which was communicated through a letter dated 26.11.2021.

3. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that the petitioner was appointed as an Additional Munsif in U.P. Judicial Services in the year 2003. In the year 2008, he was promoted to a post of Civil Judge (Senior Division). In the year 2010-2011, he was given adverse remarks in his Annual Confidential Report and his integrity was not certified as there were oral complaints against him regarding dishonesty and corruption. The petitioner was placed under suspension vide order dated 04.10.2013. A disciplinary inquiry was instituted against him and in the inquiry report dated 11.02.2014, he was exonerated of all the charges. Accordingly, the petitioner was reinstated in service by means of an order dated 16.04.2014 with full salary and allowances for the period of suspension.

4. The petitioner submitted a representation against the adverse remarks made in the Annual Confidential Report for the year 2009-10 and 2010-11, which were rejected. The petitioner filed Writ-A No.40376 of 2016 before this Court sitting at Allahabad challenging the adverse remarks made in his Annual Confidential Report and the said writ petition is still pending.

5. On 22.03.2017, the petitioner was appointed as Secretary, District Legal Services Authority, Mahoba. On 17.06.2017, the petitioner submitted a representation to the Registrar General of this Court stating that the District Judge was depriving him of the facilities to which he was entitled and that he was being neglected by the District Judge. He further stated in the aforesaid representation that he is suffering from Diabetes and some eye disease for the past 10 years due to which his vision was being affected and he had to undergo a surgical operation in P.G.I., Lucknow in October, 2016. By the aforesaid representation dated 17.06.2017, the petitioner had requested that he be transferred to some other district.

6. Thereafter, the District Judge again made some adverse remarks against the petitioner in the Annual Confidential Report for the period 2017-18 wherein the District Judge remarked that the petitioner's integrity is doubtful. For the year 2018-19 also, the District Judge remarked that the petitioner's integrity is doubtful and several other adverse remarks were made against the petitioner.

7. On the basis of the aforesaid Annual Confidential Report, a departmental inquiry was set-up against the petitioner and he was placed under suspension by means of an order dated 01.04.2019. A charge-sheet was issued to him on 22.07.2019. An inquiry report was submitted on 10.07.2020, whereby the petitioner was exonerated of all the charges.

8. A vigilance inquiry was also instituted against the petitioner and in the report submitted by the Special Officer (Vigilance) of this Court, it was found that the petitioner indulged in non-cooperative activities by not organizing legal literacy camps in the month of June, 2017 and that he indulged in an act of indiscipline by not receiving a D.O. letter issued by the District and Session Judge and by using reckless and derogatory language against the District and Session Judge, Mahoba in his explanation submitted to the latter. The Administrative Committee of the High Court issued a warning to the petitioner to remain vigilant in future and the matter was dropped.

9. On 14.09.2020, the petitioner submitted a representation against the Annual Confidential Report recorded by the Administrative Judge, Mahoba against him for the year 2017-18 to the Administrative Committee of this Court and he submitted an additional representation for the same purpose on 28.09.2020. The Administrative Committee ordered that the overall performance of the Officer for the year 2017-18 be assessed 'Average' and has found that there was nothing in the representation which may warrant interference regarding integrity recorded by the Hon'ble Administrative Judge. Thus, the petitioner's representation was partially allowed to the extent mentioned above.

10. Thereafter, the petitioner has been retired prematurely by means of the impugned order dated 29.11.2024 in furtherance of recommendation made by this Court.

11. The petitioner has himself given the following information in para-30 of the writ petition. Which reads as under:-

"30. That the ACR of THE last ten years, the adverse remarks for three years, and the disciplinary proceeding for the years in which the adverse ACRs have been made are reproduced herein in a tabulated form as follows:-

12. The respondent No.2 – the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad has filed a counter affidavit and a copy of the relevant excerpts of minutes of the meetings of Screening Committee held on 11.06.2020 and 15.06.2020 have been annexed therewith. The Screening Committee has taken into consideration the facts that disposal of old cases by the petitioner was not satisfactory during the year 2009-2010 because 1964 civil suits were pending out of which 678 cases were old cases but the petitioner decided only 3 contested cases. Out of 224 regular execution cases, the petitioner decided only 6 contested matters and out of 16 small causes execution cases, he decided only one contested case. Some complaints were made against the petitioner by members of the Bar. The District Judge had made adverse remarks in the Annual Confidential Report for the year 2009-10 and the petitioner's representation against those remarks had been rejected by the Representation Committee as also by the Administrative Committee. In the year 2010-11, the District Judge has recorded in the Annual Confidential Report that several complaints of dishonesty and corruption had been received against the petitioner and, therefore, his integrity was not certified. His private character was also not good. He used to pass injunction orders without sufficient grounds, on pick and choose basis. He was not amenable to the advice of the District Judge. He did not enjoy a good reputation and he was troublesome in judicial administration. The petitioner's representation against the aforesaid remarks had been rejected by the Administrative Judge, who affirmed the remarks made by the District Judge.

13. In the year 2012-13, it was recorded by the District Judge that a complaint had been received against the petitioner, regarding which an inquiry was being made by the High Court. The petitioner did not decide a single execution case during the year and he has no interest in disposal of execution cases. His judgments were not sound and appreciation of evidence was not good. Disposal of work was not adequate. The petitioner had submitted his works done statement with wrong entries, regarding which a D.O. letter was issued to him but he again submitted the statement with another wrong entry. The petitioner has no control over the office. He had made only two inspections during the year, which were not effective. There was a general complaint that he was not punctual in sitting on the dais. He was not amenable to the advice of the District Judge. His overall assessment was made as 'Average'. The District Judge rejected the petitioner's representation against the aforesaid entries. The Representation Committee also rejected the petitioner's representation finding it sans merit and it was affirmed by the Administrative Committee vide its resolution dated 03.07.2019.

14. In the year 2017-2018, the District Judge remarked that the petitioner's integrity is doubtful. He was in-disciplined and non-cooperative. He was habitual of not attending the office without any information. His character adversely affects the discharge of his official duties. In his reply dated 06.07.2017, the petitioner has used reckless and defamatory language against the District Judge. His overall assessment was found to be poor.

15. In the year 2018-19, the District Judge has remarked that the petitioner's integrity is doubtful. He is not fair and impartial in dealing with the public and the Bar. His private character is such as lowers him in the estimation of the public and adversely affects the discharge of his official duties. In some instances, his judgments are not proper on facts and law, though some judgment are good also. His overall assessment was made as 'Average'. The District Judge further remarked that the petitioner was habitual of passing indiscreet orders on applications under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., for which he had been warned on judicial side. The petitioner's representation made against the aforesaid adverse remarks was rejected by the Administrative Judge.

16. A Vigilance inquiry had been initiated against the petitioner on complaints of misconduct and on consideration of the inquiry report, the Administrative Committee of this Court has warned the petitioner to remain vigilant in future.

17. The Screening Committee has also taken into consideration the fact that the District Judge, Mahoba had submitted a letter dated 22.12.2018 complaining about the work, conduct and integrity of the petitioner and the then Administrative Judge, Mahoba, finding the allegations to be serious in nature, had recommended the petitioner's suspension and a vigilance inquiry was set-up against him and the Administrative Committee had placed him under suspension.

18. While assailing the validity of the aforesaid order retiring the petitioner prematurely, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the Screening Committee has not taken into consideration the fact that the petitioner has been exonerated of all the charges in both the departmental inquiries set-up against the petitioner and that the Committee has recommended premature retirement of the petitioner without consideration of the relevant material.

19. The provisions for compulsory retirement is contained in Rule 56(j) of the Fundamental Rules, which reads as under: -

"56(j) Notwithstanding anything contained in this rule, the Appropriate Authority shall, if it is of the opinion that it is in the public interest so to do, have the absolute right to retire any Government servant by giving him notice of not less than three months in writing or three months" pay and allowances in lieu of such notice;

(i) If he is, in Group A or Group B service or post in a substantive, quasi-permanent or temporary capacity and had entered Government service before attaining the age of 35 years, after he has attained the age of 50 years;

(ii) in any other case after he has attained the age of fifty- five years."

20. The submissions of the learned Counsel for the parties were heard on and judgment had been reserved on 21.08.2024. On 23.08.2024 Sri. Manoj Kumar Mishra, the learned Counsel for the petitioner has supplied written submissions alongwith a compilation of six judgments and we proceed to deal with all of those. The first judgment is in the cases of Madan Mohan Choudhary v. State of Bihar: (1999) 3 SCC 396 and the learned Counsel for the petitioner has referred to the following passages: -

"26. From the scheme of the Constitution, as set out above, it will be seen that though the officers of the subordinate judiciary are basically and essentially government servants, their whole service is placed under the control of the High Court and the Governor cannot make any appointment or take any disciplinary action including action for removal or compulsory retirement unless the High Court is "consulted" as required by the constitutional impact of both the Articles 233 and 234 and the "control" of the High Court indicated in Article 235.

27. The word "consult" in its ordinary meaning means "to ask advice" or "to take counsel". The Governor is thus a "consultor" and the High Court is the "consultee" which is treated as an expert body in all matters of service including appointments, disciplinary action, compulsory retirement etc. relating to State Judicial Services. Since the Governor cannot act on his own unless he has consulted the High Court, the Constitution has conferred upon the High Court a sacred and noble duty to give the best of advice or opinion to the Governor; an advice tendered after due deliberation and after taking into consideration all the relevant material and record relating to the problem on which consultation is made or advice is sought by the Governor. It is, therefore, essentially a matter of trust and confidence between the Governor and the High Court. The High Court cannot act arbitrarily in giving its opinion to the Governor or else it will be a betrayal of that trust. If the advice is not supportable by any material on record and is arbitrary in character, it may not have any binding value.

28. It has already been pointed out by this Court in Registrar, High Court of Madras v. R. Rajiah (1988) 3 SCC 211 that though the High Court, in its administrative jurisdiction, has the power to recommend compulsory retirement of a member of the Judicial Service in accordance with the Rules framed in that regard, it cannot act arbitrarily and there has to be material to come to a decision that the officer has outlived his utility. It was also pointed out in this case that the High Court while exercising its power of control over the subordinate judiciary is under a constitutional obligation to guide and protect judicial officers from being harassed or annoyed by trifling complaints relating to judicial orders so that the officers may discharge their duties honestly and independently, unconcerned by the ill-conceived or motivated complaints made by unscrupulous lawyers and litigants.

21. There can be no dispute against the aforesaid proposition of law and none of the principles laid down in the aforesaid case have been violated in the present case. In Madan Mohan Choudhary (Supra) the adverse remarks for the years 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94 were not recorded in the "normal course" but were recorded "at one go" and that too when the Standing Committee of the High Court had already formed an opinion to compulsorily retire the appellant from service. These remarks which were recorded in the character roll of the appellant "at one go" and were communicated to the appellant on 29-11-1996 were considered by the Full Court on 30-11-1996 which approved the proposal of compulsorily retiring the appellant from service. The appellant had been categorised as 'B' plus in 1990. There was no categorisation for the next three years and when the action for compulsory retirement of the appellant was initiated by the High Court on the ground that he had granted anticipatory bail in a case under Section 307 IPC, categorisation for 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94 was done "at one go". The Hon'ble Supreme Court found it to be unreasonable and not fair. Moreover, the compulsory retirement was ordered in 1996 and the appellant's categorisation for 1994-95 and 1995-96 was not indicated in the original service record placed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. It is on account of these abnormalities coupled with other strange circumstances of this case that the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the categorisation of the appellant as a 'C' Class Officer for the years 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94 could not have been legally taken into consideration and the impugned action of compulsorily retiring the appellant from service was arbitrary in the sense that no reasonable person could have come to the conclusion that the appellant had outlived his utility as a judicial officer and had become dead wood which had to be chopped off. The aforesaid observations made in light of the peculiar facts of that case will not apply to the facts of the present case.

22. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has next relied upon a judgment in the case of High Court of Punjab & Haryana v. Ishwar Chand Jain: (1999) 4 SCC 579. In that case, the Inspecting Judge had graded the officer as "B+Good" for the year 1984-85 but the Full Court modified the same to "C-Below average". In an earlier appeal filed by the Officer, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had restored the grading of the Officer in his ACR as "B+Good", but there was no indication of this in the precis prepared by the Registry which certainly would have misled many of the Judges of the Full Court. There was no ACR recorded for the years 1992-93, 1993-94, 1994-95 and for nine months of 1995-96 when the Full Court met on 12.12.1995. In its earlier meeting on 22.09.1995 the Full Court had it recorded ACR for the year 1991-92 grading the Officer as "C-Integrity doubtful" by relying upon an inspection report prepared by the Inspecting Judge on 25.02.1992. There was no material to justify as to why the inspection report of February 1992 was considered by the Full Court in September 1995 and why there could be no inspection from that year till holding of the Full Court meeting. Inspection note by the Inspecting Judge gives an impression that he inspected the Court of the Officer and visited the bar room before he gave his report, whereas in fact the Inspecting Judge had inspected the Court of the Officer only in March 1992. The Inspecting Judge had noted that there were some complaints which formed the subject-matter of the disciplinary proceedings against him, which the Hon'ble Supreme Court found incorrect, as on the date of the inspection report no disciplinary proceedings were pending against the Officer. There were no particulars of the complaints whether these were in writing or oral and if these related to the judicial work performed by the officer. The Hon'ble Supreme Court found that the inspection note was certainly flawed and it could not have formed the basis for the Full Court to record that integrity of the officer was doubtful and to grade him 'C'. The Inspecting Judge had taken charge of the District only on 21.11.1991 and within three months, i.e., on 25.02.1992, he gave his inspection report. Therefore, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the ACR for the year 1991-92 was to be kept aside. There were only four ACRs, which were for the years 1983-84 (B-Average/Satisfactory), 1984-85 (B+Good), 1988-89 (B-Satisfactory) and 1989-90 [(B+(Good)]. On the basis of these ACRs the recommendation of the High Court could not be justified. Further, the Officer was retired while under suspension. The Hon'ble Supreme Court was of the view that the action of the High Court in retiring the Officer was based on the allegation of misconduct, which was the subject-matter of the enquiry before a Judge of the High Court and which was the basis for recording of adverse remarks by the High Court in ACR of the officer for the year 1991-92. The order of compulsorily retiring the Officer though innocuously worded, was in fact an order of his removal from service. This case was also decided in view of the peculiar factual background of the case, which is in no way similar to the facts of the present case.

23. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has next relied upon a judgment in the case of R.K. Singh v. State of U.P.: 1991 Supp (2) SCC 126, which was an appeal directed against the order denying Selection Grade to the appellant on the ground that he had been awarded two adverse entries for the years 1980-81 and 1982-83. During the pendency of the appeal before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the appellant's representation against the adverse entries was allowed and the entries were expunged from his service record and the State Government granted Selection Grade to the appellant with effect from the date he takes over charge. In these circumstances, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that once the adverse entries awarded to the appellant were expunged, the appellant was entitled to Selection Grade with effect from the date on which he became eligible for grant of Selection Grade. We fail to appreciate as to how this case is relevant for adjudication of the controversy involved in the present case and we are constrained to observe that citing irrelevant judgments does not serve any purpose and it only results in wastage of the time, which the Judges could otherwise have utilized for some better purpose.

24. The next judgment forming part of the compilation is of Nand Kumar Verma v. State of Jharkhand: (2012) 3 SCC 580, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court the High Court had selectively taken into consideration the service record for certain years only. There were discrepancies in the ACRs relied upon by the High Court and the copies of the ACRs which had been provided to the Officer by the High Court under the Right to Information Act, 2005. From a comparison of the two, the Hon'ble Supreme Court concluded that the High Court had not faithfully extracted the contents of the ACRs. This case was also decided keeping in view the peculiar facts of the matter, which are in no manner similar to the facts of the present case.

25. The next judgment placed in the compilation is State of Gujarat v. Umedbhai M. Patel, AIR 2001 SC 1109 = (2001) 3 SCC 314. In that case, the Hon'ble Supreme Court summarized the law relating to compulsory retirement in the following words: -

"(i) Whenever the services of a public servant are no longer useful to the general administration, the officer can be compulsorily retired for the sake of public interest.

(ii) Ordinarily, the order of compulsory retirement is not to be treated as a punishment coming under Article 311 of the Constitution.

(iii) For better administration, it is necessary to chop off dead wood, but the order of compulsory retirement can be passed after having due regard to the entire service record of the officer.

(iv) Any adverse entries made in the confidential record shall be taken note of and be given due weightage in passing such order.

(v) Even uncommunicated entries in the confidential record can also be taken into consideration.

(vi) The order of compulsory retirement shall not be passed as a short cut to avoid departmental enquiry when such course is more desirable.

(vii) If the officer was given a promotion despite adverse entries made in the confidential record, that is a fact in favour of the officer.

(viii) Compulsory retirement shall not be imposed as a punitive measure.

26. In Umedbhai M. Patel (Supra), there were absolutely no adverse entries in the respondent's confidential record. He had successfully crossed the efficiency bar at the age of 50 as well as at 55. He was placed under suspension on 22.05.1986 pending disciplinary proceedings. The enquiry was not completed within a reasonable time and without waiting for conclusion of the enquiry, the authorities decided to dispense with the services of the respondent merely on the basis of the allegations which had not been proved. Even the Review Committee did not recommend the compulsory retirement of the respondent. The respondent had only less than two years to retire from service. The High Court had quashed the order of compulsory retirement and the Hon'ble Supreme Court affirmed the order of the High Court holding that in the absence of any adverse entries in his service record to support the order of compulsory retirement, the order of compulsory retirement was passed for extraneous reasons.

27. The last judgment placed in the compilation is a judgment rendered by a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Avinash Chandra Tripathi Vs. State of U.P. and Ors.: 2018 (7) ADJ 582, in which the Bench found that the entire service record of the petitioner was unblemished, the Administrative Committee had decided to drop action on the basis of the vigilance enquiry report and the enquiry report in the disciplinary proceeding the petitioner against were not found proved. There was nothing on record to suggest that the general reputation of the petitioner was tainted or not good. In view of these facts, this Court found that the order of compulsory retirement had been passed without appreciating the material on record correctly and properly, and consequently, we the order of compulsory retirement was quashed. In the present case, the Screening Committee has considered the service record of the petitioner for the years 2009-10 to 2018-19 and it is not that his service record was unblemished.

28. While dealing with a challenge made to an order of compulsory retirement of a Judicial Officer, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held in Ram Murti Yadav v. State of U.P. and Another: (2020) 1 SCC 801, that:-

"14. It has to be kept in mind that a person seeking justice, has the first exposure to the justice delivery system at the level of subordinate judiciary, and thus a sense of injustice can have serious repercussions not only on that individual but can have its fall out in the society as well. It is therefore absolutely necessary that the ordinary litigant must have complete faith at this level and no impression can be afforded to be given to a litigant which may even create a perception to the contrary as the consequences can be very damaging. The standard or yardstick for judging the conduct of the judicial officer therefore has necessarily to be strict*. Having said so, we must also observe that it is not every inadvertent flaw or error that will make a judicial officer culpable. The State Judicial Academies undoubtedly has a stellar role to perform in this regard. A bona fide error may need correction and counseling. But a conduct which creates a perception beyond the ordinary cannot be countenanced. For a trained legal mind, a judicial order speaks for itself."*

(Emphasis added)

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held in Ram Murti Yadav (Supra) that: -

"6….The scope for judicial review of an order of compulsory retirement based on the subjective satisfaction of the employer is extremely narrow and restricted. Only if it is found to be based on arbitrary or capricious grounds, vitiated by malafides, overlooks relevant materials, could there be limited scope for interference. The court, in judicial review, cannot sit in judgment over the same as an Appellate Authority. Principles of natural justice have no application in a case of compulsory retirement."

30. When we examine the facts of the present case in light of the law laid down in the cases mentioned above, we find that there have been several complaints of corruption and dishonesty against the petitioner ranging from the years 2009-10 to 2018-19. The overall assessment of the petitioner has been made as 'Average' for five years during the aforesaid period. His integrity has not been certified for the year 2010-11 and it has been found to be doubtful for the year 2017-18 and the year 2018-19. Although the Screening Committee has also recorded that the petitioner was placed under suspension and an inquiry was set-up against him, the mere non-mention of petitioner's exoneration in disciplinary inquiry would not affect the legality of the order to retire the petitioner prematurely as had the petitioner been found guilty in the inquiry, proceedings would have been initiated for his punishment. Compulsory retirement is not a punishment and an employee is retired compulsorily only when no case for his punishment is made out, but when keeping in view his overall performance, it is found that he is not suitable for being continued in service, although he is not guilty of any misconduct calling for his punishment.

31. In the present case, the Screening Committee has recommended compulsory retirement of the petitioner keeping in view his overall service record for the period 2009-10 to 2018-19, which has been referred to in the earlier part of this judgment. There appears to be no illegality committed in making a recommendation for the petitioner's compulsory retirement and in acceptance of the recommendation by the State Government by passing an order for the petitioner's premature compulsory retirement.

32. The writ petition lacks merit and the same is hereby dismissed.

(Order on the Writ Petitions)

1. Heard Ms. Megha Pandey, learned counsel for the writ petitioner in re: Satya Prakash (supra), Shri R.P.S. Chauhan, learned Additional C.S.C. for the State-respondents and Shri Pawan Kumar Nigam, learned counsel for newly impleaded opposite party no. 4 i.e., Smt. Rinki.

2. Shri Nigam has argued the second writ petition in re: Smt. Rinki (supra) on behalf of the petitioner, Shri R.P.S. Chauhan, learned Additional C.S.C. and Smt. Megha Pandey, learned counsel for newly impleaded opposite party no. 4 i.e., Satya Prakash.

3. In the writ petition in re: Satya Prakash (supra), the following prayer has been sought which reads as under:

"1. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to consider and grant compassionate appointment to the petitioner under the Scheme of U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants (Dying in Harness) Rules, 1974 as amended up-to- date.

2. Issue any other suitable order or direction, in the nature to which this Hon'ble Court deems just and proper in favour of the petitioner.

3. Allow the writ petition with cost."

4. In writ petition in re: Smt. Rinki (supra), the following prayer has been sought which reads as under:

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the opposite parties to make appointment of the petitioner on suitable post in the office of opposite party Nos. 2 & 3 on the basis of on compensate ground under dying in harness Rule 1972.

(ii) Issue any other Writ, Order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case.

(iii) Award the cost of the Petition in favor of the petitioner."

5. At the very outset, learned Standing Counsel has drawn attention of this Court towards the letter dated 30.10.2023 passed by the Executive Engineer (Indo-Nepal Border), Public Works Department, Lakhimpur Kheri, U.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'opposite party no.3' in short) addressing to Smt. Rinki apprising that since both the aforesaid writ petitions are pending before this Hon'ble High Court, therefore, any decision in the present matter may be taken after final disposal of the aforesaid writ petitions. The aforesaid letter is taken on record.

6. Learned counsel for the parties in both the writ petitions have agreed to club the writ petitions together and decide the same by the common order and, therefore, both the writ petitions are being decided finally by the common order.

7. Ms. Megha Pandey has precisely apprised the brief facts of the case that the petitioner Satya Prakash was the real younger brother of the deceased employee namely, Late Chandra Prakash who was serving on the post of Personal Assistant in the Public Works Department under the opposite party no.3 and he died in harness on 27.8.2022. At the time of the death of his brother, Late Chandra Prakash, his old aged parents and the petitioner Satya Prakash were dependent upon him. The petitioner Satya Prakash is unmarried and unemployed. Besides the petitioner Satya Prakash, there are three sisters of Late Chandra Prakash, out of them one has got married and two sisters are still unmarried, therefore, in the entire family, there were total five persons including the petitioner Satya Prakash were dependent upon the deceased employee Late Chandra Prakash.

8. Ms. Megha Pandey has further stated that the petitioner Satya Prakash is a graduate and is eligible for the benefit of the compassionate appointment under the U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servant (Dying in Harness) Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as "Dying in Harness Rules, 1974") as he fulfills all required qualifications to get the benefit of the compassionate appointment.

9. Ms. Megha Pandey has drawn attention of the Court towards the supplementary affidavit filed on 27.07.2023 enclosing therewith a copy of the interim settlement agreement entered into between Late Chandra Prakash and his wife, Smt. Rinki. The perusal thereof reveals that though Late Chandra Prakash was married to Smt. Rinki on 15.12.2013 but their matrimonial relationship was not well, therefore, they were living separately and Smt. Rinki Pandey has filed some cases against him.

10. She has further stated that a writ bearing Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 16472 of 2020 was filed by the said Late Chandra Prakash and the matter was referred to the Mediation & Conciliation Centre of the Court at Allahabad on 05.01.2021. The interim settlement was entered into between the parties on 20.04.2022, on which date Late Chandra Prakash produced the demand draft of Rs. 1,50,000/- dated 11.4.2022 in favour of his wife, Smt. Rinki Pandey before the Mediation Centre and also produced a demand draft of Rs. 30,000/- dated 02.05.2022 and both the demand drafts (total Rs. 1,80,000/-) have been handed over to the wife, i.e., Smt. Rinki Pandey who acknowledged the receipt of the same. Thereafter, the parties have filed mutual divorce petition before the court concerned on the condition that the husband Chandra Prakash shall pay Rs. 3,60,000/- against one time settlement and the aforesaid amount would be given to Smt. Rinki Pandey in two installments. That amount was consisting the streedhan also. The mediators were informed that the parties filed mutual divorce petition bearing No. 767 of 2022, under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act before the Principal Judge, Family Court, Allahabad. She has further submitted that during the pendency of the mediation proceedings, the husband Chandra Prakash died on 27.08.2022, therefore, the remaining amount of Rs. 1,80,000/- could not be paid.

11. Though Smt. Rinki, as per the learned counsel, was willing to take divorce from her husband after receiving the aforesaid amount of Rs. 1,80,000/- but after the death of her husband, Chandra Prakash on 27.08.2022, she changed her mind saying that she does not want to receive any money under the settlement but wishes to obtain compassionate appointment against the death of her estranged husband, Chandra Prakash.

12. Notably, the FIR bearing Case Crime No. 133 of 2020, under section 498A, 323, 504, 506 IPC & Section 3 /4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station- Mahila Thana, District- Prayagraj was lodged by Smt. Rinki, wherein the charge-sheet has been filed against all family members of Chandra Prakash (since deceased). Hence, the Application U/S 482 No. 36791 of 2022 (Vidhya Devi and 7 others vs. State of U.P. and another) has been filed before this Court at Allahabad, wherein the interim orders have been granted. Two orders dated 10.02.2023 and 24.02.2023 thereof are relevant, therefore, those orders are being reproduced herein under respectively:

"1. Upon hearing at some length, it transpires, the matter had earlier been referred to mediation on 5.1.2021. Settlement was reached between the opposite party no. 2 and Chandra Prakash (son of applicant nos. 1 and 2) with respect to matrimonial discord between those parties.

2. Perusal of the settlement reached, reveals, those parties had agreed to dissolve their marriage. Sri Chandra Prakash was required to pay Rs. 3,60,000/- to the opposite party no. 2. Against that, Rs. 1,80,000/- was paid out to her during mediation proceedings. The balance was to be paid upon successful completion of divorce proceedings.

3. During the pendency of the divorce proceedings, the said Chandra Prakash died on 27.08.2022. Thereafter, the opposite party no. 2 appears to have changed her mind such that she does not want to receive any money under the settlement but wishes to obtain compassionate appointment against the death of her estranged husband, Chandra Prakash. While the Court may not make any opinion as to the conduct offered by the opposite party no. 2, (as she continued to live separately from the present applicants and yet claims entitlement to compassionate appointment), plainly she may not resile from the settlement reached.

4. Accordingly, put up on 24.2.2023 in top ten cases.

5. On that date, the opposite party no. 2 may show cause why the present application may not be allowed in terms of the settlement dated 4.5.2022 against Rs. 1,80,000/- already paid to her.

6. Interim order, granted earlier, is extended till the next date of listing.

7. It is also left open to the opposite party no. 2 to reconsider her position and file appropriate affidavit with respect to balance amount under the settlement deed.

XXX

"Heard learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Babu Lal Ram, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has filed an affidavit today in Court, which is taken on record.

This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the charge sheet dated 23.12.2020 as well as summoning order dated 1.9.2022 issued against the applicants in Case No.34 of 2021, State Vs. Chandra Prakash and others, arising out of Case Crime No.133 of 2020, under Sections 498A, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3/4 D.P. Act, Police Station Mahila Thana, District Prayagraj pending in the court of Additional Sessions Judge (J.D.), Allahabad.

It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicants that a settlement was arrived at before the Mediation Centre of this Court on 4.5.2022 between the husband and wife. A sum of Rs.3,60,000/- was required to be paid by the applicants to the opposite party no.2, out of which, a sum of Rs.1,80,000/- was paid earlier and now today a demand draft of Rs.1,80,000/- has been handed over to the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 by the learned counsel for the applicants.

He submits that during pendency of the criminal proceedings, the husband has died and now the family members of the husband of opposite party no.2 are facing the criminal proceedings.

Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submits that even though the husband has died, the opposite party will honour the settlement and has received the remaining amount of Rs.1,80,000/- by demand draft today. He submits that earlier also the husband has paid a sum of Rs.1,80,000/-. Therefore, the complete amount as per the settlement dated 4.5.2022 before the Mediation Centre of this Court has been received by the opposite party no.2. He further submits that now the opposite party no.2 has no objection in case the criminal proceedings are put to end and the present criminal proceedings were quashed. He has also filed an affidavit to this effect before this Court today.

Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the compromise has already been entered between the parties on 4.5.2022 before Allahabad High Court Mediation and Conciliation Centre, therefore, the present case be finally decided.

Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has not disputed the facts as stated by learned counsel for the applicants. He further contended that opposite party no.2 does not want to proceed with the criminal case against the applicants and the same may be quashed.

Learned AGA does not dispute the fact that parties have entered into settlement. It is further submitted that he would have no objection in case criminal proceedings are put to an end. He further submits that in view of settlement there is virtually no chance of any conviction being recorded in the criminal proceedings.

Having examined the matter in its totality, this Court is of the view that the criminal proceedings in the present case had essentially been an outcome of a matrimonial dispute; and there are no such over bearing circumstances for which the applicants ought to be prosecuted even after the parties has entered into a settlement. Needless to observe that with the present stand of the parties in terms of their settlement, there is practically no chance of recording conviction, even if the case under the F.I.R. in question is put to trial. In other words, entire exercise of trial would only be an exercise in futility. On the contrary, looking to the nature of dispute and the fact that the disputants, being the close relatives, have compromised and want to proceed peacefully ahead, it would be in the interest of justice that criminal proceedings in question are quashed.

It would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and the wrongdoer and to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that the criminal case is put to an end.

In view of the fact that the parties do not want to pursue the case any further as stated by them and the fact that matter has been mutually settled between the parties in view of the compromise arrived at, no useful purpose would be served in proceeding with the matter further.

Thus, in view of the well settled principles of law as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Parbatbhai Aahir Vs. State of Gujarat (2017) 9 SCC 641, Gian Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2012) 10 SCC 303 and State of M.P. Vs. Laxmi Narayan, (2019) 5 SCC 688, the proceedings of the aforesaid case is hereby quashed.

The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is, accordingly, allowed."

13. By means of the aforesaid order dated 10.02.2023, this Court called the opposite party No.2, Smt. Rinki to show cause why the present application may not be allowed in terms of the settlement dated 04.05.2022 against Rs. 1,80,000/- already paid to her. Further, by means of the order dated 24.02.2023 (supra), the aforesaid Application U/S 482 has been allowed by this Court considering the fact that the demand draft of Rs. 1,80,000/- has been handed over to the opposite party no. 2 and also considering the affidavit of Smt. Rinki wherein she has stated that she is not willing to contest the aforesaid case, therefore, any appropriate order may be passed on the basis of compromise settlement entered into between the parties. In such affidavit, she had admitted that pursuant to the settlement agreement, she has received the entire amount. The aforesaid affidavit is on record along with the supplementary affidavit which goes to show that the in her affidavit, Smt. Rinki has stated herself as Rinki, D/o- Surendra Kumar and has not stated as wife of Late Chandra Prakash. This Court by means of the aforesaid order dated 24.02.2023, quashed the entire criminal proceedings in view of the settled proposition of the law laid down in catena of cases referring those cases.

14. Therefore, Ms. Megha Pandey has stated when Smt. Rinki was not living with her late husband for quite long time and pursuant to the settlement agreement, she received the entire amount and filed an affidavit before this Court saying that she is satisfied with the compromise. Further, she is not living with the family members of her late husband, then she may not claim the compassionate appointment under the Dying in Harness Rules, 1974.

15. In support of her contentions, Ms. Megha Pandey has placed reliance on the judgement and order dated 14.03.2008 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Mumtaz Yunus Mulani vs. State of Maharashtra & others; the judgement and order dated 13.09.2021 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in re: The Director of Treasuries in Karnataka & Another vs. Somyashree as well as the judgement of the Division Bench of this Court vide judgement and order dated 22.11.2016 in re: Special Appeal No. 758 of 2015 (Mudita vs. State of U.P. and another) and has submitted that the main consideration to provide the compassionate appointment would be the 'factum of dependency' of the family of the deceased employee, not the relation and in the present case, the entire family is dependent upon the petitioner Satya Prakash, who is the real younger brother of the deceased employee, is unmarried and unemployed and the entire family of his elder brother would be benefited, if he is given any appropriate appointment under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974.

16. The relevant para nos. 7, 8 and 8.1 of the judgement in re: The Director of Treasuries in Karnataka (supra) are being reproduced herein under:

" 7. While considering the submissions made on behalf of the rival parties a recent decision of this Court in the case of N.C. Santhosh (Supra) on the appointment on compassionate ground is required to be referred to. After considering catena of decisions of this Court on appointment on compassionate grounds it is observed and held that appointment to any public post in the service of the State has to be made on the basis of principles in accordance with Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India and the compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule. It is further observed that the dependent of the deceased Government employee are made eligible by virtue of the policy on compassionate appointment and they must fulfill the norms laid down by the State's policy. It is further observed and held that the norms prevailing on the date of the consideration of the application should be the basis for consideration of claim of compassionate appointment. A dependent of a government employee, in the absence of any vested right accruing on the death of the government employee, can only demand consideration of his/her application. It is further observed he/she is, however, entitled to seek consideration in accordance with the norms as applicable on the day of death of the Government employee. The law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decision on grant of appointment on compassionate ground can be summarized as under:

(i) that the compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule;

(ii) that no aspirant has a right to compassionate appointment;

(iii) the appointment to any public post in the service of the State has to be made on the basis of the principle in accordance with Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India;

(iv) appointment on compassionate ground can be made only on fulfilling the norms laid down by the State's policy and/or satisfaction of the eligibility criteria as per the policy;

(v) the norms prevailing on the date of the consideration of the application should be the basis for consideration of claim for compassionate appointment.

8. Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decision to the facts of the case on hand, we are of the opinion that as such the High Court has gone beyond Rule 2 and Rule 3 of the Rules, 1996 by directing the appellants to consider the application of the respondent herein for appointment on compassionate ground as 'divorced daughter'. Rule 2 and Rule 3 of the Rules, 1996 read as under:

"2. Definitions:- (1) In these rules, unless the context otherwise requires:-

(a) "Dependent of a deceased Government servant" means-

(i) in the case of deceased male Government servant, his widow, son, (unmarried daughter and widowed daughter) who were dependent upon him; and were living with him; and

(ii) in the case of a deceased female Government servant, her widower, son, (unmarried daughter and widowed daughter) who were dependent upon her and were living with her;

(iii) 'family' in relation to a deceased Government servant means his or her spouse and their son, (unmarried daughter and widowed daughter) who were living with him.

(2) Words and expressions used but not defined shall have the same meaning assigned to them in the Karnataka Civil Services (General Recruitment) Rules, 1977."

6. The eligibility on the death of a female employee is in terms of Rule 3(2)(ii) of the Karnataka Civil Services (Appointment on Compassionate Grounds) Rules, 1996, which reads as follows:

Rule 3(2)(ii):- '(ii) in the case of the deceased female Government servant;

(a) a son;

(b) an unmarried daughter, if the son is not eligible or for any valid reason he is not willing to accept the appointment;

(c) the widower, if the son and daughter are not eligible or for any valid reason they are not willing to accept the appointment.

(d) a widowed daughter, if the widower, son and unmarried daughter are not eligible or for any valid reason they are not willing to accept the appointment.

8.1 From the aforesaid rules it can be seen that only 'unmarried daughter' and 'widowed daughter' who were dependent upon the deceased female Government servant at the time of her death and living with her can be said to be 'dependent' of a deceased Government servant and that 'an unmarried daughter' and 'widowed daughter' only can be said to be eligible for appointment on compassionate ground in the case of death of the female Government servant. Rule 2 and Rule 3 reproduced hereinabove do not include 'divorced daughter' as eligible for appointment on compassionate ground and even as 'dependent'. As observed hereinabove and even as held by this Court in the case of N.C. Santhosh (Supra), the norms prevailing on the date of consideration of the application should be the basis of consideration of claim for compassionate appointment. The word 'divorced daughter' has been added subsequently by Amendment, 2021. Therefore, at the relevant time when the deceased employee died and when the original writ petitioner – respondent herein made an application for appointment on compassionate ground the 'divorced daughter' were not eligible for appointment on compassionate ground and the 'divorced daughter' was not within the definition of 'dependent.' 8.2 Apart from the above one additional aspect needs to be noticed, which the High Court has failed to consider. It is to be noted that the deceased employee died on 25.03.2012. The respondent herein – original writ petitioner at that time was a married daughter. Her marriage was subsisting on the date of the death of the deceased i.e. on 25.03.2012. Immediately on the death of the deceased employee, the respondent initiated the divorced proceedings under Section 13B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 on 12.09.2012 for decree of divorce by mutual consent. By Judgment dated 20.03.2013, the Learned Principal Civil Judge, Mandya granted the decree of divorce by mutual consent. That immediately on the very next day i.e. on 21.03.2013, the respondent herein on the basis of the decree of divorce by mutual consent applied for appointment on compassionate ground. The aforesaid chronology of dates and events would suggest that only for the purpose of getting appointment on compassionate ground the decree of divorce by mutual consent has been obtained. Otherwise, as a married daughter she was not entitled to the appointment on compassionate ground. Therefore, looking to the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, otherwise also the High Court ought not to have directed the appellants to consider the application of the respondent herein for appointment on compassionate ground as 'divorced daughter'. This is one additional ground to reject the application of the respondent for appointment on compassionate ground. 8.3 Even otherwise, it is required to be noted that at the time when the deceased employee died on 25.03.2012 the marriage between the respondent and her husband was subsisting. Therefore, at the time when the deceased employee died she was a married daughter and therefore, also cannot be said to be 'dependent' as defined under Rule 2 of the Rules 1996. Therefore, even if it is assumed that the 'divorced daughter' may fall in the same class of 'unmarried daughter' and 'widowed daughter' in that case also the date on which the deceased employee died she – respondent herein was not the 'divorced daughter' as she obtained the divorce by mutual consent subsequent to the death of the deceased employee. Therefore, also the respondent shall not be eligible for the appointment on compassionate ground on the death of her mother and deceased employee."

17. Ms. Megha Pandey has stated that in view of the definition of the dependent of the deceased government servant, it is the petitioner Satya Prakash, not Smt. Rinki (supra) who has been living separately for quite long time and would not be able to look after the family members of the deceased employee, therefore, instead of Smt. Rinki (supra), the petitioner Satya Prakash may be given any suitable appointment as per his qualification under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974.

18. Shri Pawan Kumar Nigam has, however, tried to justify the claim of the petitioner Smt. Rinki by submitting that she is the wife of the deceased employee and decree of divorce could not be granted to the parties, therefore, for all practical and legal purposes, she would be treated as wife of the late employee and she may be given an appointment under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974.

19. On being confronted Shri Nigam on the point that since Smt. Rinki (supra) has been living separately from her husband; she lodged the FIR against him and his entire family; the issue went in litigation before this Court; the issue referred to the Mediation Centre; pursuant to the interim settlement after receiving the amount of Rs. 1,80,000/-, she filed the mutual divorce petition before the Family Court concerned; in a petition filed against the charge-sheet, she filed an affidavit saying that she does not wish to contest that case as she has received the entire amount in terms of the settlement agreement; in her affidavit, she has not stated herself as a wife of the late employee, rather has indicated her father's name, then as to how she would be able to look after the family members of the late employee, who were dependent upon the late employee, he could not defend the aforesaid facts, rather he has admitted all the aforesaid facts and circumstances.

20. Therefore, the aforesaid submissions of Shri Pawan Kumar Nigam may be treated as his submissions in the petition of Smt. Rinki (supra) and the submissions of Ms. Megha Pandey may be considered as her submissions on behalf of the petitioner Satya Prakash who is opposite party no. 4 in the writ petition of Smt. Rinki (supra).

21. Shri R.P.S. Chauhan learned Additional C.S.C. has fairly stated that the authority concerned has given undertaking that he will pass appropriate orders in compliance of the order being passed by this Court in the aforesaid writ petitions as the letter to this effect dated 03.10.2023 has already been issued to Smt. Rinki (supra).

22. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on the record as well as the decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Mumtaz Yunus Mulani (supra), The Director of Treasuries in Karnataka (supra) and the judgement of the Division Bench of this Court in re: Mudita (supra), I am of the considered opinion that the Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 is a beneficial legislation and any suitable appointment on the compassionate ground under the said Rules is provided to a person who would be able to look after the entire family of the deceased employee as the deceased employee was the only bread earner of the family. The purpose of providing compassionate appointment to any suitable person under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 is that the person would look after the entire family who was dependent upon the late employee and the specific undertaking to that effect would be taken from such employee to the effect that he will look after the entire family of the late employee in a same manner the late employee was looking after them.

23. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, it is clear that the relation of Smt. Rinki was not cordial with her husband Late Chandra Prakash (since deceased) from the very beginning and she lodged the FIR against him and his entire family having lived separately and pursuant to the orders being passed by this Court, she participated in the mediation proceedings and pursuant to settlement agreement entered into between the parties, she received a sum of Rs. 3,60,000/- as agreed by the parties and, thereafter filed an affidavit before this court saying that she does not want to pursue the criminal proceedings against the family members of her husband and in such affidavit, even she has not indicated herself as wife of the late employee, rather has stated the name of her father giving the address of her father as place of her living, therefore, she may not be provided a suitable appointment under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 for the reason that she would not be able to look after the family members of her late husband. To the contrary, the younger brother of late employee namely, Satya Prakash (supra) is bachelor and unemployed graduate and has been living with the family of the late employee and looking after them by his meagre means, therefore, he would be the appropriate person to whom any suitable appointment may be offered under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974.

24. In view of the facts and circumstances of the issue in question, the compassionate appointment under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 should be offered to Satya Prakash (supra) not to Smt. Rinki (supra).

25. Accordingly, the writ petition with regard to the petitioner Satya Prakash is allowed and the writ petition with regard to the petitioner Smt. Rinki is dismissed.

26. The opposite party no. 4 is directed to pass an appropriate order providing a suitable appointment under Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 to Satya Prakash (supra) with expedition, preferably, within a period of six weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order so that he could look after the entire family of the deceased employee namely, Chandra Prakash.

27. No order as to costs.

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-The petitioner, a Head Assistant in the Tourism Department challenged the rejection of her promotion to the post of Administrative Officer-The denial was based on the entries in her Annual Confidential Report (ACR) for the past five years, which were deemed insufficient for promotion as they were classified as "Good" or "Satisfactory" instead of "Very Good" or "Outstanding"-The petitioner contended that these entries were never communicated to her-The court referring the Supreme Court precedents such as Dev Dutt Vs U.O.I. & Rukshana Shaheen Khan Vs U.O.I. held that uncommunicated ACR entries cannot be used to deny promotion as it violates Article 14 of the Constitution- any adverse or below-benchmark entry must be communicated to the employee in a timely manner to ensure transparency and fairness in the employment decision-Thus, the Court quashed the impugned order directing the Director general of Tourism to make a fresh decision.

The petition is allowed. (E-6)

2. Rukshana Shaheen Khan Vs U.O.I.(2018)AIR SC (Supp) 1252

3. R.K Jibanlata Devi Vs H.C. of Manipur thru its Reg. Gen.(2023) AIR SC 1190

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashutosh Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sudhir Kumar Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. At the very outset, learned counsel for the petitioner has requested that he may be permitted to delete the name of opposite party No.5 from the array of opposite parties.

3. Considering the aforesaid request, learned counsel for the petitioner is permitted to delete the name of opposite party No.5 from array of the opposite parties, during the course of day.

4. By means of this writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs:-

"(i) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 01.12.2023 by which the right to claim of the petitioner for the promotion on the post of Administrative Officer has arbitrarily rejected by the opposite parties, contained as Annexure No.1 to this writ petition.

(ii) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to promote the petitioner on the post of Administrative Officer from the date which the junior to the petitioner has been promoted on the said post."

5. Though, for the impugned order dated 01.12.2023 the counter affidavit may be called from he opposite parties but there is an error apparent on the impugned order dated 01.12.2023 itself. By perusing the letter dated 19.03.2024 (Annexure No.8) whereby the information has been provided to the petitioner by the Public Information Officer, Tourism Department, U.P., Lucknow indicating her entries for the last five years as those entries have never been communicated to the petitioner on or before 19.03.2024 (supra), therefore, this writ petition is being decided, with the consent of learned counsel for the parties, at the admission stage. The perusal of the impugned order reveals that the petitioner, who is serving on the post of Head Assistant, could not be promoted on the post of Administrative Officer for the reason that her Annual Confidential Report in the Character Roll for the last five years are not Very Good or Outstanding, rather those entries are either Good or Satisfactory.

6. After knowing the aforesaid impugned order dated 01.12.2023, the petitioner preferred a representation under Right to Information Act on 21.02.2024 and on such representation she has been provided her Annual Confidential Report for the last five years vide letter dated 19.03.2024 (supra) whereby she could know that her entry for the year 2017-2018 is satisfactory and her entries with effect from 2018-2019, 2019-2020, 2020-2021 and 2021-2022 are Good.

7. Therefore, this is a case where on the basis of un-communicated entries in the Annual Confidential Report she could not promoted on the next post of Administrative Officer. So the question before this Court is as to whether the promotion of an employee may be denied on the basis of un-communicated entries. The aforesaid question has been answered by the Apex Court in catena of cases and now the issue is not more res-integra.

8. At the very outset, I would consider the dictum of Apex Court rendered in the case in re: Dev Dutt vs. Union of India and others reported in (2008) 8 SCC 725 whereby the Apex Court has answered the aforesaid question categorically holding that on the basis of un-communicated entries in the Annual Confidential Report the promotion of an employee may not be denied. The relevant paras-9 & 41 are being reproduced here-in-below:-

"9. In the present case the bench mark (i.e. the essential requirement) laid down by the authorities for promotion to the post of Superintending Engineer was that the candidate should have 'very good' entry for the last five years. Thus in this situation the 'good' entry in fact is an adverse entry because it eliminates the candidate from being considered for promotion. Thus, nomenclature is not relevant, it is the effect which the entry is having which determines whether it is an adverse entry or not. It is thus the rigours of the entry which is important, not the phraseology. The grant of a `good' entry is of no satisfaction to the incumbent if it in fact makes him ineligible for promotion or has an adverse effect on his chances.

41. In our opinion, non-communication of entries in the Annual Confidential Report of a public servant, whether he is in civil, judicial, police or any other service (other than the military), certainly has civil consequences because it may affect his chances for promotion or get other benefits (as already discussed above). Hence, such non-communication would be arbitrary, and as such violative of Article 14 of the Constitution."

9. The Apex Court in another case i.e. Rukshana Shaheen Khan vs. Union of India reported in AIR 2018 SC (Supp) 1252 has also held that uncommunicated and adverse ACRs cannot be relied upon in the process. The relevant para-2 reads as under:-

"2. In view of the decision of this Court in Sukhdev Singh v. Union of India and others, reported in (2013) 9 SCC 556: (AIR 2013 SC 2741), there cannot be any dispute on this aspect. This Court has settled the law that uncommunicated and adverse ACRs cannot be relied upon in the process."

10. In the recent judgment rendered in the case in re: R.K. Jibanlata Devi vs. High Court of Manipur through its Registrar General reported in AIR 2023 SC 1190 the similar view has been taken by the Apex Court.

11. Learned Standing Counsel has, however, tried to defend the order dated 01.12.2023 but in the light of letter dated 19.03.2024 (Annexure No.8) whereby the petitioner has been communicated the entries of Annual Confidential Report for the last five years, he could not defend the impugned order.

12. Accordingly, the instant writ petition is allowed.

13. The impugned order dated 01.12.2023 (Annexure No.1) is hereby set aside/ quashed. The opposite party No.2 i.e. the Director General (Mahanideshak) Tourism Directorate, U.P., Lucknow is directed to ignore the uncommunicated entries and take a fresh decision for the petitioner, strictly in accordance with law, and before taking appropriate decision the petitioner shall be afforded an opportunity of hearing.

14. No order as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Kailash Singh Kushwaha, the learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Pradeepta Kumar Shahi, the learned counsel for the State of U.P. and Shri R. K. Ojha Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Rohit Singh Advocate, the learned counsel for the opposite party No.5.

2. The petitioner Mayashankar has filed Writ A No.5106 of 2023 challenging a proposal dated 30.12.2022 forwarded by the opposite party No.5 - Joint Director of Education, Varanasi Region, Varanasi to the opposite party No.2 - Additional Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., Prayagraj, for transferring the opposite party No.6 - Nityanand Mishra to the post of Principal, Bharat Sewak Samaj Inter College, Hathiyar, Varanasi and he has prayed for being permitted to continue as Ad-hoc Principal of the aforesaid College till joining of a candidate recommended by the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board. By way of amendment in the writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for quashing of an order dated 16.05.2023 passed by the Additional Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., Prayagraj, rejecting the petitioner's representation submitted against the aforesaid transfer order.

3. Writ A No.10109 of 2024 has been filed by the petitioner challenging validity of an order dated 28.06.2024 passed by the Director of Education (Secondary), U.P. transferring the opposite party No.5-Nityanand Mishra (opposite party No.6 in Writ A No.5106 of 2023) from the post of Principal, Raj Kumar Higher Secondary School, Kubernath, Kushinagar, to the post of Principal, Bharat Sewak Samaj Inter College, Hathiyar, Varanasi in furtherance of a proposal made by the Joint Director of Education, Varanasi, which is under Challenge in Writ A No.5106 of 2023.

4. As the controversy involved in both the writ petitions revolves around the same set of facts and involves similar grounds of challenge and defence, both the writ petitions are being decided by a common judgment.

5. Briefly stated, the facts pleaded in the writ petitions are that the petitioner - Maya Shanker is the senior most teacher working in Bharat Sewak Samaj Inter College, Hathiyar, Varanasi (herein referred to as 'the College'). After retirement of Principal of the College Dr. Dinesh Chaubey, the Committee of Management of the College had resolved on 30.03.2018 to appoint the petitioner as Officiating Principal of the College. His signatures were attested by the District Inspector of Schools. On 07.07.2018, the Committee of Management of the College had sent a requisition for the post of Principal of the College to the District Inspector of Schools. The District Inspector of Schools had approved the petitioner's appointment as Officiating Principal of the College and had granted financial sanction by means of an order dated 19.09.2018.

6. On 07.06.2019, the Secretary, U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board had issued a circular to all the District Inspector of Schools in the State informing that the procedure for receiving requisitions for vacant posts had been changed and with effect from 01.07.2019, requisitions would be accepted only through Online Requisition Portal and through no other mode. Guidelines for sending requisitions through Online Requisition Portal were attached to this circular. Thereafter, a requisition through Online Requisition Portal was also made for the post of Principal of the College on 11.12.2021.

7. On 30.12.2022, the Joint Director of Education forwarded an application submitted by Sri Nityanand Mishra, Principal, Raj Kumar Higher Secondary School, Kubersthan, Kushinagar to the post of Principal of the College in question stating that in furtherance of an application submitted by Sri Nityanand Mishra, the District Inspector of Schools has forwarded the documents wherein it was mentioned that a requisition for the post of Principal of the College has been sent to U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board but the post has not been advertised. The transfer application of Sri Nityanand Mishra has been forwarded by Principal of both the Colleges, the District Inspector of Schools of both the Districts and the Joint Director of Education, VIIth Division, Gorakhpur. The Joint Director of Education stated in the letter dated 30.12.2022 that it is provided in the Government Order dated 27.01.2020 that although the transfers will be made online, in special circumstances, the Government will have power to make transfer through offline method. This proposal of the Joint Director of Education has been challenged by the petitioner in Writ A No. 5106 of 2023.

8. On 19.04.2023, this Court had passed an order in Writ A No.5106 of 2023 stating that as the matter was pending before the Additional Director of Education, it would be appropriate that he should hear the petitioner also in the matter of request of transfer of the opposite party No.6.

9. In compliance of the order dated 19.04.2023 passed in Writ A No.5106 of 2023, the Additional Director of Education (Secondary) passed an order dated 16.5.2023 rejecting the petitioner's representation against transfer of Nityanand Mishra, which order has been challenged by making amendment in Writ A No.5106 of 2023 and on 22.05.2023, this Court had passed an interim order directing that the post of Principal of the College shall not be filled by transfer and it can only be filled by regular selection by the Board.

10. The opposite party No. 6 had filed Special Appeal No.462 of 2023 against the interim order dated 22.05.2023, which was dismissed by means of an order dated 06.07.2023.

11. On 12.06.2024, a Government Order was issued regarding transfer of Principals and Teachers of non Government aided secondary schools and it inter alia provided that while making offline transfers, it will be ascertained that the transfer order does not violate any order passed by this Court. On 14.06.2024, the Director of Education (Secondary) issued a circular directing all the Regional Joint Directors of Education (Secondary) and all District Inspector of Schools to comply with the aforesaid Government Order dated 12.06.2024.

12. On 28.06.2024, the Deputy Director of Education (Secondary-III) passed an order transferring the opposite party No.6 from Raj Kumar Higher Secondary School, Kubernath to the College in question at Varanasi, which order has been challenged in Writ-A No.10109 of 2024 mainly on the ground that this transfer order was passed during continuance of the interim order dated 22.05.2023 passed by this Court in Writ-A No.5106 of 2023 as also in violation of the conditions of the Government Order dated 12.06.2024 and that it would result in dislodging the petitioner, without a regularly selected candidate having been appointed on the post in question.

13. On 16.07.2024., an order was passed in Writ A No.10109 of 2024 wherein it was stated that:-

"5. It is clearly stated in last but one paragraph of the aforesaid order that the post of Principal of the institution where the petitioner is working as Officiating Principal shall not be filled-up by any transfer except by mode of regular selection by the Board.

6. It is argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the transfer of the opposite party no.5 from Kushinagar to the institution where the petitioner is working as Officiating Principal is per se illegal and is in complete violation of the order passed by this Court in Writ-A No. 5106 of 2023, which is quoted above.

7. In this view of the matter, the opposite party no.2-Addtional Director of Education (Secondary), U.P. Prayagraj, is directed to file his personal affidavit explaining that why the contempt proceeding shall not be initiated against him.

8. The aforesaid affidavit be filed within a period of three days from today."

14. After passing of the aforesaid order, the Additional Director of Education (Secondary) passed an order on the same date i.e. 16.07.2024 staying operation of the order dated 28.06.2024 whereby the opposite party No.6 had been transferred to the post of Principal of the College and making it subject to final outcome of Writ A No.5106 of 2023 and this order dated 16.07.2024 was brought on record along with a personal affidavit of Additional Director of Education (Secondary) U.P., Prayagraj filed before this Court.

15. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of Sri. Nityanand Mishra-opposite party No.6 in Writ A No.5106 of 2023, by his son Akhilesh Kumar Mishra, inter alia stating that Nityanand Mishra had met with a major road accident on 31.05.2022, in which he sustained grievous injuries in his spine, due to which he became unable to stand on his legs and to move on his own, as he has lost sensation in both his lower limbs. He requires wheelchair assistance for his daily routines and the Doctors have advised that his treatment / rehabilitation may stretch for a considerably long period, during which he would require proper care and treatment with the help of his family members. Wife of Sri. Nityanand Mishra is a permanent Assistant Teacher (L.T. Grade) posted at Varanasi. Sri. Nityanand Mishra is facing extreme difficulty in living alone at Kushinagar, away from his family members who reside at Varanasi, because of his aforesaid physical condition. The State as well as Sri Nityanand Mishra have stated in their counter affidavits that the Government Order dated 27.01.2020 issued regarding transfers of Principal and Teachers of Government aided Institutions inter alia provides that the post on which a Teacher is seeking transfer, should not have been Advertised by U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board or U.P. Education Service Selection Commission although a requisition regarding the post might have been sent.

16. In the rejoinder affidavit filed by the petitioner, the aforesaid averments made regarding the physical condition of Sri. Nityanand Mishra due to the injuries suffered by in an accident have not been disputed.

17. The Additional Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., Prayagraj has taken into consideration the pleas taken by all the parties concerned in the impugned order dated 16.05.2023 and he has noted that an offline requisition for the post of Principal of the College was sent on 19.07.2019 and again an online requisition was sent on 11.12.2021. The Selection Board had published a list of 141 posts requisitioned in the year 2021-22, which requisitions were cancelled for various reasons. Bharat Sewak Samaj Inter College, Varanasi is mentioned at serial No.139 of the list and the reason for cancellation of the requisition is mentioned that the post in question had already been requisitioned in the year 2019-20.

18. On 11.01.2020, Secretary, U. P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board had sent a letter addressed to all the District Inspector of Schools stating that as a long period of time had elapsed since online requisitions were received during the year 2019-20 and 2021-22. Therefore, to avoid any kind of disputes, it was decided to verify the online requisitions, for which purpose the requisition portal was being opened for the period 11.01.2023 to 16.01.2023. One of the points to be verified was whether the post has been filled by way of promotion or was proposed to be filled by transfer. Requisition for the post in question was cancelled on this ground. The Regional Joint Director of Education informed through his letter dated 22.02.2023 that the requisition has not been verified as it was proposed to be filled by way of promotion.

19. The Additional Director of Education rejected the representation by stating that the petitioner was given charge of Officiating Principal till a regularly selected candidate joins the post. In the cases of Prashant Kumar Katiyar and Hari Pal Singh, this Court had held that posts which have been requisitioned, cannot be filled by any other manner but requisition of the post in question has already been cancelled and, therefore, the facts of case are different from the facts of the cases of Prashant Kumar Katiyar and Hari Pal Singh.

20. In Prashant Kumar Katiyar Vs. State of U.P. and Others 2013 (1) ADJ 523, a Full Bench of this Court has held that: -

"The claim of a dependant as per the third proviso to Section 16 of the 1982 Act read with Regulations 101 to 107 of Chapter III of the Regulations framed under the 1921 Act can be considered for compassionate appointment on the post of an Assistant Teacher (TGT grade) against a vacancy that has been notified for being filled up by direct recruitment under the 1982 Act read with the 1998 Rules framed thereunder upto the stage of the last date for receipt of application forms under the advertisement, but not thereafter till the selections are completed by the Board followed by appointments under the provisions aforesaid."

21. Following the decision of the Full Bench in Prashant Kumar Katiyar (Supra), a Division Bench of this Court held in Hari Pal Singh versus State of U.P.: (2016) 6 All LJ 203, that: -

"The ratio of the Full Bench in the case of Prashant Kumar Katiyar (supra) in paragraphs 38, 39, 40 and 41 has clearly concluded that the power of the Management or the District Inspector of Schools or even the authority which is to give effect to any transfer cannot proceed to adopt any other mode of recruitment after the steps taken for determination and notification as per Rule 11 of the 1998 Rules. It has also been held that the alteration of any such determination is not permissible and cannot be reversed. This has been reiterated in paragraph - 39 of the decision. Not only this in paragraph - 40, the Full Bench also obliges the Committee and the District Inspector of Schools to fulfill their obligations as per Rule 11 for determination and intimation of vacancies. The ratio therefore of the Full Bench read with the aforesaid Rules is clearly to the effect that the authorities, who are obliged to fill up the vacancies occurring in the year of recruitment, have to mandatorily perform their function of determining and notifying the vacancy. The failure by the Management or the District Inspector of Schools to act as per Rule 11 of the 1998 Rules would therefore not generate a right in favour of any person to seek transfer or even in the Committee of Management to defeat the very purpose of Rule 11 of determining or intimating the vacancies to the Selection Board for direct recruitment. The Committee of Management no doubt has the right to select the mode of recruitment when it has to be filled up directly in the event it has an option from a candidate seeking transfer.

However, this conscious decision of the Committee of Management to adopt a particular mode has to be taken within the time frame as provided under Rule 11 of the 1998 Rules. If the Committee of Management is allowed to violate the time schedule, then it would be allowing the Committee of Management to have a free play to choose to determine it's mode of recruitment at any time which is not the purpose of the Rules. For that matter, under Sub-Rule (4) of Rule 11, the District Inspector of Schools is also obliged to take a decision as per the specifications of the time schedule provided in Rule 11 itself for the Committee as well as for the District Inspector of Schools. This compliance has to be adhered to keeping in view the year of recruitment and also the eligibility of the candidate including his qualification as on the first day of the year of recruitment which would be the 1st of July of the year in question. However, any failure on their part would not extend the right of the Management to any stage beyond that for adopting the mode of appointment by way of transfer."

22. The learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the proposal for transfer of the opposite party No.6 as well as his transfer has been made after the post in question has been requisitioned and, therefore, the transfer order is illegal and is liable to be quashed.

23. Per contra, the learned counsel for the opposite parties have submitted that subsequent to passing of the judgments in Prashant Kumar Katiyar and Hari Pal Singh, the U. P. Education Services Selection Commission Act, 2023 (U. P. Act No. 15 of 2023) has been enacted with effect from 17.10.2023. Section 31 (1) has repealed the Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission Act, 1980, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Service Selection Board Act, 1982 and the Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2019.

24. With the repeal of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Service Selection Board Act, 1982, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 1998, which were framed under the aforesaid Act, also stood repealed.

25. U. P. Education Services Selection Commission Rules, 2023 have been framed under the U. P. Education Services Selection Commission Act, 2023.

26. Chapter V of the U. P. Education Services Selection Commission Rules, 2023 deals with the procedure of recruitment and Rule 28 falling in Chapter V of the aforesaid Rules provides that the appointing authority or the management or the authorized officer shall ascertain the number of vacancies as per the provisions contained in Section 10 (1) of the Act and shall notify the vacancies through the Director (Higher Education) or Director (Secondary Education) or Director (Basic Education) or Director (Training and Employment) or Director General, Atal Awasiya Vidyalaya, as the case may be, to the Commission in the manner prescribed by the Rules.

27. Rule 28 (5) of the U. P. Education Services Selection Commission Rules, 2023 provides that the vacancies which have been notified, shall not be filled by a solitary transfer; provided that if a solitary transfer is necessary in special circumstances, as far as possible, it shall be brought to the notice of the Commission, expeditiously and the post falling vacant due to the solitary transfer shall be included in the notified posts and this vacancy will also be covered by the same selection process. After commencement of the selection process, no solitary transfer will be made under any circumstance.

28. As the Rules in force at the time when the case of Hari Pal Singh (Supra) was decided do not exist any more, the ratio laid down in the aforesaid case would not apply to the present case, where the Rules in force are different from the Rules those were in force at the time of decision of Hari Pal Singh's case.

29. In view of the foregoing discussion, I am of the considered view that under the U. P. Education Services Selection Commission Rules, 2023, there is no absolute prohibition against filling up a vacant post of Principal by transfer after a requisition for filling up the vacancy has been sent, provided the selection process has not commenced. Therefore, there is no illegality in transfer of Sri. Nityanand Mishra from the post of Principal, Raj Kumar Higher Secondary School, Kubernath, Kushinagar, to the post of Principal, Bharat Sewak Samaj Inter College, Hathiyar, Varanasi.

30. Both the Writ Petitions lack merit and the same are dismissed. It is needless to say that as a result of dismissal of the Writ Petitions, the interim orders passed in the Writ Petitions stand discharged.

A. Service Law-Constitution of India, 1950-Article 226-petitioner challenged that transfer order issued during the election notification period, claiming it violated the Model Code of Conduct-The transfer was executed without prior approval from the State Election Commission, which is mandatory during such periods-Held, that any transfer order issued without approval during the election notification period is null and void-The court quashed the impugned transfer order, reinstated the petitioner to his original post, and directed the State Election Commission to seek an explanation from the District Panchayat Raj Officer for the violation of the Model Code of Conduct.(Para 1 to 13)

The petition is allowed. (E-6)

List of Cases cited:

R.K. Mittal Vs St.of U.P. & anr..(2004) SCC Online All 1772.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard.

2. This Court has passed order dated 31.07.2024, which reads as under:-

"1. Heard Sri S.M. Singh Royekwar, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Sandeep Sharma, learned Standing Counsel for the State and Sri Anindra Shastri, learned counsel for the opposite party No.8.

2. Sri Yoyekwar, learned counsel for the petitioner has assailed the impugned transfer order dated 20.07.2024 (Annexure No.1), passed by the District Panchayat Raj Officer, Gonda, whereby the petitioner who is serving on the post of Assistant Development Officer (Panchayat), has been transferred from Vikas Khand Wazirganj to Vikas Khand Mujehna, District-Gonda on the ground that the State Election Commission has notified election of Panchayat on 15.07.2024 (Annexure No.2) and election for Block Wazirganj is to be conducted pursuant to the election notification.

3. As per Sri Royekwar, after the notification having been issued by the State Election Commission, the administrative authority cannot transfer an employee from one place to another place even in the same district without taking prior permission from the State Election Commission.

4. On being confronted learned counsel for the State Election Commission as to whether any permission/ approval has been given transferring the petitioner and the same query has been put from Sri Sandeep Sharma learned counsel for the State as to whether the authority concerned has taken consent from the Election Commission, both the counsels appearing for the opposite parties have requested that some short time may be given them to seek specific instructions on that point.

5. List/ put up this case on 02.08.2024 as fresh. On that date, this matter may be taken up immediately after fresh cases.

6. Till the next date of listing, the status-quo as on today i.e. 31.07.2024, shall be maintained."

3. Sri S.M. Singh Royekwar, learned counsel for the petitioner, has filed supplementary affidavit enclosing true copy of the Model Code of Conduct issued by the Election Commission, the same is taken on record.

4. Learned counsel for the State Election Commission and learned Standing Counsel, both, have stated that before issuing the impugned transfer order dated 20.07.2024 no approval/ permission has been taken from the State Election Commission.

5. Sri S.M. Singh Royekwar has drawn attention of this Court towards para-6 (Ka) of the Model Code of Conduct, which categorically provides that during the currency period of election notification, no employee of the area would be transferred/ appointed/promoted and if such transfer etc. is necessary on account of compelling circumstances, prior permission/ approval from the State Election Commission would be required.

6. Sri Royekwar has drawn attention of this Court towards the decision of the Division Bench of this Court in re; R.K. Mittal Vs. State of U.P. and another, 2004 SCC OnLine All 1772, wherein the Division Bench has observed that transfer of an employee whose services are required in the election process for conducting the election smoothly, such exercise shall be regulated by the Election Commission in order to conduct the election free and fair; relevant para-23 thereof reads as under:-

"23. Transfer of the employees whose services are required in the electioneering process, may be restrained/regulated by the Election Commission in order to conduct the election free and fair, for the reason that a political party in power, may post the officers of its liking at a particular place for a definite purpose of some unlawful gain in the election and in order to curb such a situation/possibility, it may be necessary for the Election Commission to issue such kind of direction, and once such a direction is issued, it requires strict adherence. It is not that every direction issued by the Commission requires observance religiously but where the direction is being issued to ensure free and fair election, all other authorities are under obligation to give strict adherence to the same."

7. Therefore, Sri Royekwar has submitted that since no prior permission/ approval has been taken transferring the petitioner from one place to another place during the currency period of election notification, the impugned transfer order would be illegal, arbitrary and uncalled for, therefore, the same is liable to be quashed. He has further submitted that if the aforesaid transfer order has been executed and any person has submitted joining at the transferred place, even then such joining would be quashed for the reason that such transfer order would be non-est and void ab-initio.

8. Learned Standing Counsel has submitted that opposite party no.7 has submitted joining pursuant to the impugned transfer order dated 20.07.2024.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record and also the decision of the Division Bench of this Court in re; R.K. Mittal (supra), I am of the considered opinion that if during the currency period of election notification, any transfer order has been passed without seeking prior approval or permission from the Election Commission, that order would be non est in the eyes of law and therefore, it would be treated as if no transfer order has been passed, thus, the execution thereof, if any, would be meaningless. If on account of the fact that one person has submitted his joining at the transferred place pursuant to the illegal and unwarranted transfer order during the currency period of election notification, then the very purpose of issuing election notification and the Model Code of Conduct would be frustrated.

10. Therefore, the impugned transfer order dated 20.07.2024 is hereby set aside/ quashed.

11. The District Panchayat Raj Officer, Gonda is directed to permit the petitioner to serve at Vikas Khand Wazirganj where he was serving before passing the impugned transfer order dated 20.07.2024 and opposite party no.7 shall be permitted to discharge his duties at Vikas Khand Mujehna where he was serving before the impugned order of transfer.

12. Not only the above, since this is an admitted fact that the District Panchayat Raj Officer, Gonda has passed the transfer order during the currency period of election notification without seeking prior permission or approval from the State Election Commission, therefore, the State Election Commission may seek explanation from the District Panchayat Raj Officer, Gonda to the effect that as to how he has issued the transfer order in violation of the Model Code of Conduct.

13. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed.

14. No order as to costs.

1. याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री अशोक कुमार श्रीवास्तव, विपक्षी संख्या-1, 2 एवं 3 की तरफ से विद्वान स्थायी अधिवक्ता श्री सौरभ, विपक्षी संख्या-4 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री शेष कुमार श्रीवास्तव तथा विपक्षी संख्या-5 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री विनोद कुमार सिंह को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

2. भारतीय संविधान के अनुच्छेद 226 के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत इस रिट याचिका द्वारा याचिकाकर्ता ने विपक्षी संख्या-5 द्वारा श्री दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय के प्रधानाचार्य के पद धारित करने के विरुद्ध एक अधिकार पृच्छा रिट निर्गत किये जाने की प्रार्थना की है तथा साथ ही याचिकाकर्ता ने यह भी अनुतोष माँगा है कि विपक्षी संख्या 1, 2 तथा 6 विपक्षी संख्या-5 को उपरोक्त पद का वेतन न दें।

3. दिनांक 30.04.2024 को पारित आदेश में इस न्यायालय ने यह अंकित किया था कि क्या सम्पूर्णानन्द संस्कृत विश्वविद्यालय से सम्बद्ध दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय के प्रधानाचार्य का पद अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट निर्गत करने के उद्देश्य से लोकपद माना जाएगा तथा सभी पक्षकारों के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं से इस प्रश्न पर निर्णयज विधियाँ प्रस्तुत करने को कहा था। किसी भी विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने इस बिन्दु पर कोई विधि प्रस्तुत नहीं की।

4. प्रदीप कुमार वर्मा तथा अन्य बनाम भारत संघः 2018 (11) ए.डी.जे. 203 के निर्णय में इस न्यायालय की एक खण्डपीठ ने अवधारित किया कि इलाहाबाद विश्वविद्यालय से सम्बद्ध चौधरी महादेव प्रसाद महाविद्यालय, इलाहाबाद के प्रधानाचार्य का पद विश्वविद्यालय अनुदान आयोग अधिनियम, 1956 के प्राविधानों से आच्छादित है तथा यह एक लोक पद है, जिसके संबंध में अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट जारी की जा सकती है।

5. प्रबंधन बोर्ड, दयानंद कॉलेज ऑफ लॉ, कानपुर नगर बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्यः 2001) (1), ए.डब्ल्यू.सी. 190 इलाहाबाद (2001) 1 यू.पी.एल.बी.ई.सी. 440 में इस न्यायालय की एक खण्डपीठ ने यह निर्णीत किया कि दयानन्द कालेज ऑफ लॉ के प्रधानाचार्य का पद अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट के उद्देश्य से एक लोक पद है।

6. सम्पूर्णानन्द संस्कृत विश्वविद्यालय, उ०प्र० राज्य विश्वविद्यालय अधिनियम, 1973 (राष्ट्रपति अधिनियम संख्या-10 सन् 1973) से आच्छादित है तथा दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय, जो उक्त विश्वविद्यालय से सम्बद्ध है, भी उपरोक्त अधिनियम से आच्छादित है। अतः दयानन्द कॉलेज ऑफ लॉ तथा प्रदीप कुमार वर्मा के उपरोक्त निर्णयों के अनुसार दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय के प्रधानाचार्य का पद एक लोक पद है और उक्त पद के सम्बन्ध में अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट याचिका पोषणीय है।

7. याचिकाकर्ता का कथन है कि विपक्षी संख्या 5 ने वर्ष 1982 में सम्पूर्णानन्द संस्कृत विश्वविद्यालय द्वारा दी गयी शास्त्री की उपाधि के आधार पर सहायक अध्यापक के पद पर नियुक्ति प्राप्त की थी, जबकि उसकी उपाधि कूटरचित है। उसका कथन है कि दिनांक 10.07.2020 को शिक्षा निदेशक (माध्यमिक) उ०प्र० ने समस्त जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षकों को शासनादेश दिनांक 08.07.2020 के क्रम में प्रमाणपत्रों की जाँच कराए जाने का निर्देश दिया था, किन्तु विपक्षी संख्या-5 के प्रमाणपत्रों की जाँच नहीं की गयी तथा याचिकाकर्ता एवं अन्य लोगों द्वारा

8. शासनादेश दिनांक 08.07.2020 तथा शिक्षा निदेशक माध्यमिक का पत्र दिनांक 10.07.2020 में समस्त राजकीय माध्यमिक विद्यालयों, अशासकीय सहायता प्राप्त माध्यमिक एवं संस्कृत माध्यमिक विद्यालयों में कार्यरत समस्त शिक्षकों के संबंध में है तथा संस्कृत महाविद्यालय के संबंध में नहीं है।

9. मात्र जाँच की कार्यवाही न होने से विपक्षी संख्या 5 द्वारा योग्यता धारित न करने की कोई निश्चित अवधारणा नहीं की जा सकती है।

10. भारती रेड्डी बनाम कर्नाटक राज्य तथा अन्यः (2018) 6 सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसेज 162 में माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय ने कहा कि जब तक विवादित प्रमाणपत्र सक्षम अधिकारी द्वारा निरस्त अथवा अवैध घोषित नहीं कर दिये जाते, अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट निर्गत नहीं की जा सकती है, क्योंकि अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट मात्र अविवादित तथ्यों के आधार पर ही निर्गत की जा सकती है।

11. यद्यपि अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट याचिका के संबंध में याचिका प्रस्तुत करने की अधिकारिता का प्रश्न कोई विशेष महत्व नहीं रखता है तब भी यह अनिवार्य है कि इस न्यायालय द्वारा भारतीय संविधान के अनुच्छेद 226 के अंतर्गत प्रदत्त शक्तियों के अंतर्गत कोई रिट प्राप्त करने के लिए याचिका स्वच्छ हाथों से तथा समस्त संगत तथ्यों का खुलासा करते हुए की जानी चाहिए।

12. याचिकाकर्ता ने रिट याचिका में अपने को एक समाजसेवी होने का कथन किया है तथा उसने कहा है कि इस प्रकरण में उसका कोई निजी हित सम्मिलित नहीं है। रिट याचिका में यह भी कहा गया है कि विपक्षी संख्या 5 बिना पद के लिए अर्हता रखते हुए नियुक्त हो गया था और याचिकाकर्ता को अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट प्रस्तुत करने का अधिकार है।

13. रिट याचिका में याचिकाकर्ता के समाज सेवी होने के अतिरिक्त उसके द्वारा किये गये किसी कार्य का कोई कथन नहीं किया गया है, जबकि विपक्षी संख्या-5 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने न्यायालय को सूचित किया कि याचिकाकर्ता श्री दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय में मानदेय के आधार पर संस्कृत शिक्षक के पद पर कार्यरत था। दिनांक 13.05.2024 को उप-निरीक्षक, संस्कृत पाठशालायें मेरठ क्षेत्र, मेरठ द्वारा विद्यालय का आकस्मिक निरीक्षण किया गया, जिसमें यह पाया गया कि याचिकाकर्ता दिनांक 17.04.2024 से बिना किसी सूचना के अनुपस्थित चल रहा था।

निरीक्षक महोदय के आदेशानुसार महाविद्यालय के प्राचार्य ने दिनांक 14.05.2024 के द्वारा याचिकाकर्ता से स्पष्टीकरण माँगा, किन्तु उसने कोई स्पष्टीकरण नहीं दिया तथा इस कारण से दिनांक 27.05.2024 के आदेश से याचिकाकर्ता को संस्कृत शिक्षक पद से हटा दिया गया।

14. उपरोक्त तथ्यों से यह स्पष्ट है कि याचिकाकर्ता रिट याचिका प्रस्तुत करने के संबंध में शपथपत्र तैयार करने के दिनांक अर्थात् 18.04.2024 को एवं रिट याचिका प्रस्तुत करने के दिनांक 26.04.2024 को श्री दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय में संस्कृत शिक्षक के पद पर कार्यरत था, जिस विद्यालय के प्रधानाचार्य के विरुद्ध उसने यह अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट प्रस्तुत की है।

17. विपक्षी संख्या-5 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने न्यायालय को सूचित किया कि विपक्षी संख्या- 5 दिनांक 30.06.2024 को सेवानिवृत्त हो चुका है तथा अब वह प्रधानाचार्य श्री दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय का पद धारित नहीं कर रहा है एवं रिट याचिका सारहीन हो गयी है।

18. इस प्रारम्भिक आपत्ति के उत्तर में याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने कथन किया कि यदि विपक्षी संख्या-5 की नियुक्ति अवैध थी, तो उसकी सेवानिवृत्ति के उपरान्त भी यह न्यायालय उसकी नियुक्ति की वैधता का परीक्षण करने में सक्षम है तथा यदि न्यायालय यह पाता है कि

विपक्षी संख्या 5 ने बिना किसी विधिक अधिकार के अपनी मूल नियुक्ति से सेवानिवृत्ति तक पद धारित किया, तो उसको उसकी सेवा के संबंध में भुगतान की गयी समस्त धनराशि की वसूली का आदेश पारित किया जाए। याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने यह भी तर्क दिया कि यह रिट याचिका दिनांक 26.04.2024 को प्रस्तुत कर दी गयी थी, जिस तिथि को विपक्षी संख्या 5 प्रधानाचार्य दादू बलराम संस्कृत महाविद्यालय के पद पर कार्यरत था तथा इस न्यायालय में याचिका लंबित रहने के दौरान विपक्षी संख्या 5 के सेवानिवृत्त हो जाने के कारण याचिका सारहीन नहीं हो सकती है।

19. जबकि विपक्षी संख्या 5 महाविद्यालय के प्रधानाचार्य के पद से सेवानिवृत्त हो चुका था तथा अब वह किसी पद को धारित नहीं करता है, अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट जारी करके विपक्षी संख्या-5 को पद से हटाये जाने की संभावना समाप्त हो चुकी है। याचिकाकर्ता द्वारा माँगा गया द्वितीय अनुतोष, कि बिपक्षी संख्या-1, 2 तथा 6, विपक्षी संख्या-5 के वेतन का भुगतान रोक दें, भी सारहीन हो गया है क्योंकि सेवानृिवत्त होने के उपरान्त विपक्षी संख्या-5 वेतन पाने का अधिकारी नहीं बचा है।

20. जहाँ तक याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का तर्क कि विपक्षी संख्या-5 को किये गये समस्त भुगतान की वसूली की जानी चाहिए तथा उसकी पेंशन का भुगतान रोक देना चाहिए, विपक्षी संख्या-5 के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने सूचित किया कि विपक्षी संख्या 5 की नियुक्ति दिनांक 01.07.1982 को हुई थी तथा चालीस वर्ष की सेवा पूर्ण करने के उपरान्त वह दिनांक 30.06.2024 को सेवानिवृत्त हुए हैं। जब विपक्षी संख्या-5 की सेवायें चालीस वर्षों तक ली गयीं और इसके विरुद्ध लगभग 30 वर्ष 10 माह तक किसी ने किसी प्रकार की कोई आपत्ति भी नहीं की, तो इस स्तर पर विपक्षी संख्या-5 की सेवानिवृत्ति के उपरान्त उसको दिये गये वेतन तथा अन्य लाभों की वसूली न तो किसी न्यायिक सिद्धांत से समर्थित होगी और न ही न्यायसाम्य (इक्विटी) के सिद्धांत से समर्थित होगी।

21. सेंट्रल इलेक्ट्रिसिटी सप्लाई यूटिलिटी ऑफ उड़ीसा बनाम धोबेई साहू तथा अन्य, (2014), सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसेज़ 161 के निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने अवधारित किया कि अधिकार पृच्छा की रिट द्वारा सम्बन्धित व्यक्ति को पद पर कार्यरत रहते हुए किये गये वेतन भुगतान की वसूली नहीं की जा सकती है। इस रिट द्वारा मात्र यह घोषणा की जा सकती है कि व्यक्ति बिना विधिक अधिकार के पद पर है, जिस घोषणा के उपरान्त व्यक्ति पद नहीं रहेगा, किन्तु जब तक उसने पद पर

22. अतः उपरोक्त समीक्षा के आलोक में रिट याचिका निरस्त की जाती है।

List of Cases cited:

St. of Punj. & ors. Vs Rafiq Masih (White Washer) & ors.(2015) 4 SCC 334.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pranav Mishra and Sri Ratnesh Singh, learned counsels for the petitioner and Sri Sandeep Sharma, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. By means of this writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs:-

"(i) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari thereby quashing the impugned order dated 29.04.2023 passed by the opposite party No.3 (as contained in Annexure No.1) to the writ petition.

(ii) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to refund the amount deducted from the post of retiral dues of the petitioner without any diminution to his emoluments."

3. The precise contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner retired from the post of Follower, which is a Class-IV post, on 30.06.2022 while serving at Sitapur. The petitioner is aggrieved from the order dated 29.04.2023 passed by the Superintendent of Police, District-Sitapur indicating therein that the petitioner retired on 30.06.2022 and on 30.07.2022 the Finance Controller of the Police Department found that the petitioner was paid some excess amount to the tune of Rs.5,38,674/- while providing him the benefit of revised pay-scale. This order further reads that the total amount regarding commutation of pension is

Rs.7,94,490/- and after deducting a sum of Rs.5,38,674/- he would be paid Rs.2,55,816/-.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has stated that in the aforesaid manner after declaring a sum of Rs.5,38,674/- as excess amount that amount has been deducted from the commutation of pension which is not permissible under the law as no amount can be recoverable from the amount of commutation of pension.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted with vehemence that at the time of providing the benefit of revised pay-scale when he was in service, no undertaking was received from the petitioner inasmuch as if any undertaking was received from him that would have been indicated in the impugned order. He has further submitted that before deducting the amount in question from commutation of pension no opportunity of hearing has been provided to the petitioner inasmuch as if any opportunity was afforded to the petitioner, it would have been indicated in the impugned order itself, but both the aforesaid legal requirements are missing in the impugned order. Besides, learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards para-18 of the dictum of Apex Court rendered in the case in re: State of Punjab and others v. Rafiq Masih (White Washer) and others, (2015) 4 SCC 334, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"18. It is not possible to postulate all situations of hardship which would govern employees on the issue of recovery, where payments have mistakenly been made by the employer, in excess of their entitlement. Be that as it may, based on the decisions referred to here-in-above, we may, as a ready reference, summarise the following few situations, wherein recoveries by the employers, would be impermissible in law:

(i) Recovery from the employees belonging to Class-III and Class-IV service (or Group C and Group D service).

(ii) Recovery from the retired employees, or the employees who are due to retire within one year, of the order of recovery.

(iii) Recovery from the employees, when the excess payment has been made for a period in excess of five years, before the order of recovery is issued.

(iv) Recovery in cases where an employee has wrongfully been required to discharge duties of a higher post, and has been paid accordingly, even though he should have rightfully been required to work against an inferior post.

(v) In any other case, where the court arrives at the conclusion, that recovery if made from the employee, would be iniquitous or harsh or arbitrary to such an extent, as would far outweigh the equitable balance of the employer's right to recover."

6. On the basis of aforesaid background, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the Apex Court has held that no recovery in the name of excess amount may be executed against employee who is Class-III or Class-IV employee after his retirement and in the present case, admittedly, the petitioner retired on 30.06.2022 while serving on Class-IV post and the impugned recovery has been executed on 29.04.2023, therefore, the aforesaid impugned order is not only illegal, aribtrary and violative of principles of natural justice but the same is in utter disregard to the dictum of Apex

Court rendered in re: Rafiq Masih (supra) also.

7. Sri Sandeep Sharma, learned Standing Counsel has requested for sometime to seek complete written instructions in the matter, but on being confronted on the point that neither any reference of undertaking at the time of granting the benefit of revised pay-scale has been indicated in the impugned order nor the reference of an opportunity of hearing has been indicated in the order, Sri Sharma has stated that though both the aforesaid things must have been indicated in the impugned order by the Competent Authority but the same have not been indicated in the impugned order so if he is given some reasonable time he may seek complete instructions on that points too.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record, though the request of Sri Sandeep Sharma for seeking sometime to seek instructions is a reasonable request but if there is any mistake apparent on the face of record which makes the impugned order non est and uncalled for in the eyes of law then no purpose would be served to provide any time to seek instructions from the Competent Authority, therefore, the aforesaid request of Sri Sharma is declined.

9. The present petitioner retired from Class-IV post on 30.06.2022 and if any excess amount was paid to him while providing him the benefit of revised pay-scale when he was in service, any undertaking could have been taken from him and if such undertaking was taken from the petitioner the specific recital to that effect must have been indicated in the impugned order but no such undertaking was taken from the petitioner. Further, if after almost 11 months from the retirement of the petitioner any recovery is to be undertaken, at least one opportunity of hearing should have been afforded to the petitioner issuing show cause but no such opportunity has been provided to the petitioner, therefore, the impugned order is violative of principles of natural justice and for that reason the impugned order where the civil consequences are involved, would not sustain in the eyes of law. If any explanation or show cause notice was issued to the petitioner, the recital to that effect must have been indicated in the impugned order but since no such indication is there then it can be presumed that no such opportunity of hearing has been provided to the petitioner before executing the recovery from him.

10. This is a trite law that no recovery of any kind whatsoever in the name of excess amount being paid can be executed or deducted from the amount of commutation of pension, therefore, on that ground alone the impugned order dated 29.04.2023 vitiates.

11. Lastly, when the Apex Court in the case in re: Rafiq Masih (supra) has settled the legal proposition to the effect that no recovery in the name of excess payment would be undertaken from Class-III or Class-IV employees at the fag end of retirement and after the retirement then such recovery may not be executed from the petitioner who retired from Class-IV post. Therefore, the impugned order is in utter disregard to the direction being issued by the Apex Court.

12. In view of the above, the impugned order dated 29.04.2023 (Annexure No.1) passed by the Superintendent of Police, District-Sitapur is hereby quashed being illegal, arbitrary, violative of principles of natural justice and being violative of directions of Apex Court issued in the case in re: Rafiq Masih (supra).

13. The Competent Authorities, who may be the Superintendent of Police, District-Sitapur or the Finance Controller of the Police Department, U.P., Lucknow, are directed to refund a sum of Rs.5,38,674/-, which has been deducted from the amount of commutation of pension, to the petitioner forthwith, preferable within a period of one month from the date of production of a certified copy of this order, failing which, the petitioner would be entitled for interest on delayed payment of such amount at the rate of 10% per annum.

14. Accordingly, the instant writ petition is allowed.

15. No order as to cost.

Grade teacher promoted to lecturer-he was exonerated by the Joint Director of Education from charges of irregular salary payments and procedural lapses in admissions to the NCC-Despite this , the DIOS refused to hand over the charge of Officiating Principal-The court held that suspension should be based on strong prima facie evidence of serious misconduct-The administrative decision of the DIOS was found to be illogical and arbitrary-Suspension orders should not be issued arbitrarily or with malice-The court held that if an employee has been exonerated of specific charges, issuing a suspension order based on the same charges or without sufficient legal grounds constitutes "malice in law"-The administrative actions must be fair reasonable, and supported by valid reasons, as per the legal precedent in U.O.I. (Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Gautam Baghel, the learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Gaya Prasad Singh, the learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State-opposite parties no.1 to 4, 7 and 8, Sri Indra Raj Singh, the learned counsel for the opposite party no.6.

2. The opposite party no.5 - Manoj Kumar Mishra is the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh who has been impleaded in his personal capacity as allegations of malice have been levelled against him.

3. By means of the instant writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the petitioner has challenged the validity of an order dated 10.04.2024, passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh, whereby he has declined to hand over the charge of Officiating Principal of S. K. P. Inter College, Jokhara, Azamgarh (which will hereinafter be referred to as 'the college') to the petitioner till a decision in this regard is taken by the Director of Education (Secondary Education), U.P. The petitioner has also challenged the validity of an order dated 24.07.2024, passed by the opposite party no.7 - Authorized Controller of the college / District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh, whereby the petitioner has been placed under suspension.

4. Briefly stated, the facts of the case are that the petitioner was appointed as L.T. Grade teacher in S. K. P Inter College, Azamgarh in the year 1993 with the approval of District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh. The petitioner's services were regularized by means of an order dated 27.06.2001. The petitioner was promoted on the aforesaid post of Lecturer (Zoology) on ad-hoc basis by means of an order dated 26.07.1999, passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh, which was confirmed by the Joint Director of Education by means of an order dated 27.09.2001. The senior most Lecturer who was working as ad-hoc Principal of the college resigned on 16.08.2022 and the petitioner was made Officiating Principal of the college and his signatures were attested by the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh 01.09.2022.

5. On 10.07.2023 the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh issued a circular directing all the Managers/Principals of aided intermediate colleges to give updates of the pending writ petitions filed by the employees of the colleges. Upon issuance of the aforesaid circular the petitioner verified the status of the pending court cases, whereupon it came to light that one Ram Sahai Maurya, a Class-IV employee of the college, had filed Writ-A No.25304 of 2001, in which this court had passed an interim order dated 13.07.2001 directing payment of salary to the petitioner, but the writ petition was dismissed for want of prosecution on 20.04.2018. On 26.07.2023 the petitioner issued a notice to the aforesaid employee asking about the status of his pending case and a similar notice was issued by the Authorized Controller on 27.07.2023.

6. On 03.08.2023, the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh issued a show cause notice to the petitioner as to why the aforesaid Class-IV employee was paid salary after dismissal of his writ petition and on 04.08.2023 the authorized controller issued a similar notice to the petitioner.

7. The petitioner submitted a reply to the aforesaid notice stating that he got knowledge of dismissal of the writ petition only after holding an enquiry in pursuance of the circular dated 10.07.2023 issued by the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh. He further stated that he had assumed the charge of the post of Principal on 01.09.2022 only and he was never informed about the dismissal of the writ petition on 20.04.2018.

8. On 29.08.2023 the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh passed an order reverting the petitioner to the post of Lecturer on the ground of payment of salary to a Class-IV employee after dismissal of the writ petition and also certain irregularities committed in making admissions to NCC, which ground was not mentioned in the show cause notice.

9. The petitioner challenged the aforesaid order by filing Writ-A No.15234 of 2023 which was disposed off by means of an order dated 12.10.2023 granting liberty to the petitioner to prefer a comprehensive representation to the Joint Director of Education, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh, who would decide the same.

10. The Joint Director of Education has decided the petitioner's representation by means of an order dated 01.04.2024, whereby the petitioner was exonerated of both the charges and the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh/Authorized Controller, S. K. P. Intermediate College, Azamgarh was directed to ensure further action in this regard. After passing of the aforesaid order the petitioner was reinstated in service.

11. On 10.04.2024, the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh passed another order stating that the matter of promotion of the petitioner on the post of Lecturer (Zoology) was pending consideration of Director of Education (Secondary) and therefore he cannot be given charge of the post of Principal. The petitioner has filed this writ petition on 02.05.2024 challenging the validity of aforesaid order dated 10.04.2024.

12. On 22.05.2024, this court had passed the following order:

"1. The District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh will file his affidavit within three days next clearly stating as to who is the senior most Lecturer as on date functioning with the SKP Intermediate College, Azamgarh.

2. The position about the seniority of Lecturers working with the said Institution will be indicated as on date and not on the basis of conjectures for the future as to what may happen once the Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., Prayagraj decides the issue of seniority.

3. Lay as fresh on 28.05.2024 along with a report regarding status of pleadings.

4. By that time, respondent nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 may file a counter affidavit on whose behalf Mr. Saurabh, learned Standing Counsel accepts notice.

5. Let this order be communicated to the Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., Prayagraj through the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Allahabad and the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh and the Joint Director of Education (Secondary), Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh through the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Azamgarh by the Registrar (Compliance) within 72 hours."

13. The purport of the aforesaid order was that the senior most Lecturer of the college is entitled to give charge of the post of Principal of the college.

14. After this Court had passed the aforesaid order dated 22.05.2024, the authorized controller has passed an order dated 24.07.2024 placing the petitioner under suspension and the petitioner has challenged validity of this order also by way of amendment in the Writ Petition. After placing the petitioner under suspension the opposite party no.6 has been given charge of the post of Officiating Principal of the College.

15. The petitioner has challenged the validity of the suspension order by making amendments in the writ petition and it has been submitted that the suspension order has been passed maliciously to deprive the petitioner of the benefit of the order dated 01.04.2024, passed by the Joint Director of Education absolving the petitioner of the charges levelled against him and directing necessary consequences to follow.

16. The learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that in compliance of the earlier order dated 12.10.2023, passed by this Court in Writ A No.15234 of 2023, the Joint Director of Education has already passed a detailed order dated 01.04.2024, whereby the petitioner has been exonerated of the charge of making wrongful payment of salary of a Class-IV post employee after dismissal of his writ petition for want of prosecution and also for certain irregularities committed in making admissions to NCC and he has directed the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh/Authorized Controller, S.K.P. Intermediate College, Azamgarh to ensure further action in furtherance of the aforesaid decision of the Joint Director of Education.

17. The basis of the statement made by the District Inspector of Schools in his letter dated 10.04.2024 that the matter of the petitioner's promotion on the post of Lecturer (Zoology) was pending consideration of Director of Education (Secondary) and therefore he cannot be given charge of the post of Principal, is a report dated 16.12.2023 sent by the Joint Director of Education, Azamgarh Division, Azamgarh to the Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., wherein the Joint Director of Education has stated that the petitioner was promoted from the post of Assistant Teacher to the post of Lecturer on ad-hoc basis on 26.07.1999 and he ought to have first been regularized in L.T. Grade and thereafter his seniority ought to have been fixed and his promotion should have been considered. The aforesaid letter further states that the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh had himself decided to promote the petitioner on ad-hoc basis to the post of Lecturer and the Regional Level Committee had regularized his services on 27.06.2001 and thereafter he was promoted to the post of Lecturer (Zoology) on 27.09.2001. Therefore, the promotion of the petitioner to the post of Lecturer made on 27.09.2001 was as per Rules. The Joint Director stated that the Director of Education may take an appropriate decision in this regard. The Director of Education has not taken any decision contrary to the stand of the Joint Director that the petitioner's promotion was made as per Rules.

18. In these circumstances, the action of the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh in declining to hand over charge of the post of Officiating Principal to the petitioner on the pretext that the matter of the petitioner's promotion to the post of Lecturer (Zoology) is pending consideration of Director Education (Secondary), is apparently unreasonable and unsustainable in law. When the Joint Director of Education has recorded in the aforesaid letter dated 16.12.2023 that the promotion of the petitioner was made on 27.09.2001 as per Rules and the Director of Education has not taken a decision contrary to it, the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh, who is subordinate to the Joint Director, cannot take a decision contrary to the aforesaid finding recorded by the Joint Director of Education that the promotion of the petitioner was made in accordance with Rules and he cannot refuse to obey the directions of the Joint Director of Education.

19. The subsequent suspension order dated 24.07.2024 passed during pendency of this petition on charges including the charges from which the petitioner already stands absolved by an order passed by the Joint Director of Education, smacks of malice against the petitioner as this order would result in the petitioner being deprived of benefit of the order dated 01.04.2024, passed by the Joint Director of Education.

20. The learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India and another Vs. Ashok Kumar Aggarwal: (2013) 16 SCC 147, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as follows: -

"21. The power of suspension should not be exercised in an arbitrary manner and without any reasonable ground or as vindictive misuse of power. Suspension should be made only in a case where there is a strong prima facie case against the delinquent employee and the allegations involving moral turpitude, grave misconduct or indiscipline or refusal to carry out the orders of superior authority are there, or there is a strong prima facie case against him, if proved, would ordinarily result in reduction in rank, removal or dismissal from service. The authority should also take into account all the available material as to whether in a given case, it is advisable to allow the delinquent to continue to perform his duties in the office or his retention in office is likely to hamper or frustrate the inquiry.

22. In view of the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that suspension order can be passed by the competent authority considering the gravity of the alleged misconduct i.e. serious act of omission or commission and the nature of evidence available. It cannot be actuated by mala fide, arbitrariness, or for ulterior purpose. Effect on public interest due to the employee's continuation in office is also a relevant and determining factor. The facts of each case have to be taken into consideration as no formula of universal application can be laid down in this regard. However, suspension order should be passed only where there is a strong prima facie case against the delinquent, and if the charges stand proved, would ordinarily warrant imposition of major punishment i.e. removal or dismissal from service, or reduction in rank etc.

23. In Jayrajbhai Jayantibhai Patel v. Anilbhai Nathubhai Patel & Ors., (2006) 8 SCC 200, this Court explained:

"18. Having regard to it all, it is manifest that the power of judicial review may not be exercised unless the administrative decision is illogical or suffers from procedural impropriety or it shocks the conscience of the court in the sense that it is in defiance of logic or moral standards but no standardised formula, universally applicable to all cases, can be evolved. Each case has to be considered on its own facts, depending upon the authority that exercises the power, the source, the nature or scope of power and the indelible effects it generates in the operation of law or affects the individual or society. Though judicial restraint, albeit self-recognised, is the order of the day, yet an administrative decision or action which is based on wholly irrelevant considerations or material; or excludes from consideration the relevant material; or it is so absurd that no reasonable person could have arrived at it on the given material, may be struck down. In other words, when a court is satisfied that there is an abuse or misuse of power, and its jurisdiction is invoked, it is incumbent on the court to intervene. It is nevertheless, trite that the scope of judicial review is limited to the deficiency in the decision-making process and not the decision."

55. The aforesaid facts make it crystal clear that it is a clear cut case of legal malice. The aspect of the legal malice was considered by this Court in Kalabharati Advertising v. Hemant Vimalnath Narichania & Ors., AIR 2010 SC 3745, observing:

"25. The State is under obligation to act fairly without ill will or malice— in fact or in law. "Legal malice" or "malice in law" means something done without lawful excuse. It is an act done wrongfully and wilfully without reasonable or probable cause, and not necessarily an act done from ill feeling and spite. It is a deliberate act in disregard to the rights of others. Where malice is attributed to the State, it can never be a case of personal ill will or spite on the part of the State. It is an act which is taken with an oblique or indirect object. It means exercise of statutory power for "purposes foreign to those for which it is in law intended". It means conscious violation of the law to the prejudice of another, a depraved inclination on the part of the authority to disregard the rights of others, which intent is manifested by its injurious acts.

26. Passing an order for an unauthorised purpose constitutes malice in law."

21. Per contra, the learned counsel for the opposite party no.6 has submitted that besides the two charges of which the petitioner has been absolved, eight other charges have been levelled against him, including the charge of misbehaviour with superior officer and he has relied upon a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of L. K. Verma Vs. H.M.T. Ltd.: (2006) 2 SCC 269, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that verbal abuse can be sufficient for inflicting punishment of dismissal. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has referred to an earlier decision in the case of Hombe Gowda Edn. Trust and another Vs. State of Karnataka and others: (2005) 10 SCALE 307, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that indiscipline in an educational institution should not be tolerated.

22. There can be no dispute to the aforesaid proposition of law and this Court has to examine the facts and circumstances of the case in light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases mentioned above so as to ascertain whether the actions of the DI,O,S< suffer from legal malice or whether the petitioner appears to have committees a serious misconduct warranting his suspension.

23. The petitioner was first imputed with the allegation of making payment of salary to Ram Sahai Maurya, a Class-IV employee after dismissal of his writ petition. Ram Sahai Maurya had filed Writ-A No.25304 of 2001, in which this court had passed an interim order dated 13.07.2001 directing payment of salary to the petitioner. The writ petition was dismissed for want of prosecution on 20.04.2018. The petitioner had taken charge of the post of Principal on 01.09.2022. There is nothing on record that the fact of dismissal of the Writ Petition filed by Ram Sahai Maurya had been brought to the knowledge of the petitioner or any other authority and this fact came to light only after the petitioner enquired into the matter in compliance of the circular dated 10.07.2023 issued by the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh directing all the Managers/Principals of aided intermediate colleges to give updates of the pending writ petitions filed by the employees of the colleges. There is no allegation that the petitioner had paid salary to Sri. Ram Sahay Maurya after the fact of dismissal of his Writ Petition had come to light.

24. Thereafter charge of the post of Officiating Principal was taken away while adding another charge of committing irregularities in making admissions to NCC and charge of the post of Officiating Principal of the college was handed over to the opposite party no. 6.

25. The Joint Director Education had absolved the petitioner of both the aforesaid charges by means of his order dated 01.04.2024 and he had directed the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh/authorized controller to ensure necessary action, but the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh declined to hand over the charge of the post of Officiating Principal to the petitioner by misquoting a report dated 16.12.2023 sent by the Joint Director to the Director Education wherein the Joint Director of Education has categorically stated that the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh had himself decided to promote the petitioner on ad-hoc basis to the post of Lecturer and the Regional Level Committee had regularized his services on 27.06.2001 and thereafter he was promoted to the post of Lecturer (Zoology) on 27.09.2001 and that the promotion of the petitioner to the post of Lecturer made on 27.09.2001 was as per Rules. The Joint Director stated that the Director of Education may take an appropriate decision in this regard. The Director of Education has not taken any decision contrary to the stand of the Joint Director that the petitioner's promotion was made as per Rules. Therefore, the act of District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh in declined to hand over the charge of the post of Officiating Principal to the petitioner and instead handing over charge of the post to the opposite party no. 6, is apparently unreasonable and unsustainable in law.

26. Apparently, the D.I.O.S. has passed the suspension order dated 24.07.2024 during pendency of this writ petition to deprive the petitioner of the benefit of order dated 01.04.2024, passed by the Joint Director of Education and to illegally permit the opposite party no.6 to continue to hold the aforesaid post.

27. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned orders suffer from malice in law for which there is no necessity of issuing notice to the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh in his personal capacity when he has already filed a counter affidavit sworn by himself. The malice in law is different from malice in fact, which allegation necessitates opportunity of personal hearing to the authority against whom malice in fact is alleged.

28. In view of the foregoing discussion, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 10.04.2024, passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh declining to hand over the charge of the post of Officiating Principal to the petitioner and the order dated 24.07.2024, passed by the authorized controller of the college placing the petitioner under suspension are hereby quashed. All the opposite parties are directed to ensure that the petitioner is given charge of the post of Officiating Principal of the college forthwith.

29. So far as the fresh charges levelled against the petitioner are concerned, the opposite parties will be at liberty to hold an enquiry strictly in accordance with law, after giving adequate opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

22. Ritesh Tewari & anr. Vs St. of U.P. & ors., AIR 2010 SC 3823)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Alok Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Prashant Singh Atal, learned Chief Standing Counsel-I for the State-opposite parties.

2. By means of this petition, the petitioner has prayed following reliefs:-

"(i) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned orders dated 30.8.2006, 2/6.2.2008 and 28.12.2019 as contained as Annexure Nos. 1, 2 & 3 respectively to this writ petition.

(ii) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to pass appropriate order for restoring the pay scale of petitioner, which would have been applicable to the petitioner in absence of impugned order dated 30.8.2006 and thereafter pay regular salary accordingly.

(iii) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the respondents to pay arrears of salary after restoring it to the level it would have been in absence of impugned order dated 30.8.2006.

(iv) to pass such other order or direction, which this Hon'ble Court deems it fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

(vii) to allow the writ petition with costs in favour of the petitioner."

3. By means of the instant writ petition, the petitioner is challenging the validity of the punishment order dated 30.08.2006, passed by the opposite party no.3 i.e. Collector/District Magistrate, Sitapur, whereby major punishment of reversion of the petitioner to the initial/basic pay of his substantive post of Stenographer was passed without following the prescribed procedure contained in statutory Rules, i.e. U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 1999"). The petitioner is also challenging the validity of the order dated 2/6.02.2008, passed by the Appellate Authority i.e. opposite party no.2 as well as the order dated 28.12.2019, passed by opposite party no.2 in the statutory revision filed by the petitioner inasmuch as both the orders were mechanically passed in violation of the Rules, 1999 as well as without application of mind, hence not tenable in law.

4. The petitioner was appointed on the post of Typist in the office of Tehsildar, Biswan, District- Sitapur through direct appointment on 23.06.1987. Meanwhile, another direct recruitment was advertised on the post of Stenographer in which the petitioner qualified the written examination of shorthand and typing and got substantive appointment of Stenographer in the office of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Sidhauli, Sitapur on 18.03.1993 and his services were confirmed as such on 04.02.1998. As per the date of birth, the petitioner retired from service on 30.06.2024.

5. The precise contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the impugned punishment order has been passed on the basis of illegal departmental inquiry whereby the departmental inquiry has been conducted and concluded without fixing date, time and place for oral inquiry and without giving any opportunity to the petitioner to adduce his evidence/witnesses. Attention has been drawn towards Annexure No.12 of the writ petition, which is the findings of the inquiry report, which is undated, however, the same has been served upon the petitioner on 25.07.2006 alongwith show cause notice. The findings of the Inquiry Officer clearly reveals that the charge sheet was served upon the petitioner on 22.05.2006 and the petitioner submitted his defence reply to the show cause notice on 12.06.2006. Thereafter, without fixing any date, time and place for oral inquiry, the petitioner was called for personal hearing on 14.07.2006 and on the basis of aforesaid exercise, the inquiry has been concluded.

6. On being confronted the learned Standing Counsel as to whether oral inquiry has been conducted or not, learned Standing Counsel has fairly submitted that no oral inquiry has been conducted.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also stated that the aforesaid fact has not been disputed in the counter affidavit inasmuch as the recital to this effect has been given in paragraphs no.12, 13 & 14 of the writ petition and those paragraphs have not been denied in the counter affidavit vide paragraphs no.13, 14 & 15. In para-14 of the writ petition, it has been categorically indicated that none of the submissions of defence reply has been considered by the Inquiry Officer and the aforesaid fact has not been disputed in the counter affidavit properly.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record, the precise question for consideration before this Court is that as to whether any inquiry report, which has been prepared without conducting the departmental inquiry strictly in accordance with law, by fixing date, time and place for oral inquiry, would sustain in the eyes of law, particularly in view of the fact that on the basis of aforesaid inquiry report, major punishment has been awarded to the delinquent employee/ petitioner. If the inquiry report would not sustain in the eyes of law, as to whether the punishment order, appellate order and revisional order would sustain in the eyes of law? Undisputedly, the departmental inquiry has been conducted and concluded in violation of Rule 7 (vii) & (viii) of the Rules, 1999, which reads as under:-

"7. (vii) Where the charged Government servant denies the charges the Inquiry Officer shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge- sheet and record their oral evidence in presence of the charged- Government servant who shall be given opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses. After recording the aforesaid evidences, the Inquiry Officer shall call and record the oral evidence which the charged Government servant desired in his written statement to be produced in his defence:

Provided that the Inquiry Officer may for reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness.

7. (viii) The Inquiry Officer may summon any witnesses to give evidence or require any person to produce documents before him in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Departmental Inquiries (Enforcement of Attendance of witnesses and Production of Documents) Act, 1976."

9. I had occasion to deal the identical issue in re; Roop Narain Pandey Vs. U.P. Cooperative Institutional Service Board and Others, [2019 (37) LCD 978] and considering the relevant decisions of the Apex Court, I allowed the aforesaid writ petition; paragraphs no.13 to 25 thereof are being reproduced herein below:-

"13. In the case of Meenglas Tea Estate v. The workmen, AIR 1963 SC 1719, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that it is an elementary principle that a person who is required to answer a charge must know not only the accusation but also the testimony by which the accusation is supported. He must be given a fair chance to hear the evidence in support of the charge and to put such relevant questions by way to cross-examination as he desires. Then he must be given a chance to rebut the evidence led against him. This is the barest requirement of an enquiry of this character and this requirement must be substantially fulfilled before the result of the enquiry can be accepted.

14. In State of U.P. v. C. S. Sharma, AIR 1968 SC 158, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that omission to give opportunity to the officer to produce his witnesses and lead evidence in his defence vitiates the proceedings. The Court also held that in the enquiry witnesses have to be examined in support of the allegations, and opportunity has to be given to the delinquent to cross-examine these witnesses and to lead evidence in his defence.

15. In Punjab National Bank v. A.I.P.N.B.E. Federation, AIR 1960 SC 160, (vide para 66), the Hon'ble Apex Court held that in such enquiries evidence must be recorded in the presence of the charge-sheeted employee and he must be given an opportunity to rebut the said evidence. The same view was taken in A.C.C. Ltd. v. Their Workmen, (1963) II LLJ. 396, and in Tata

Oil Mills Co. Ltd. v. Their Workmen, (1963) II LLJ. 78 (SC).

16. In S.C. Girotra v. United Commercial Bank, 1995 Supp. (3) SCC 212, the Hon'ble Apex Court set aside a dismissal order which was passed without giving employee an opportunity of cross-examination.

17. This Court in Subhas Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541 has held as under:-

"In our opinion after the petitioner replied to the charge-sheet a date should have been fixed for the enquiry and the petitioner should have been intimated the date, time and place of the enquiry and on that date the oral and documentary evidence against the petitioner should have been led in his presence and he should have been given an opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses against him and also he should have been given an opportunity to produce his own witnesses and evidence. If the petitioner in response to this intimation had failed to appear for the enquiry then an ex parte enquiry should have been held but the petitioner's service should have not been terminated without holding an enquiry. In the present case it appears that no regular enquiry was held at all. All that was done that after receipt of the petitioner's reply to the charge-sheet he was given a show-cause notice and thereafter the dismissal order was passed. In our opinion this was not the correct legal procedure and there was violation of the rules of natural justice. Since no date for enquiry was fixed nor any enquiry held in which evidence was led in our opinion the impugned order is clearly violative of natural justice."

18. In the State of Uttar Pradesh v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, reported in (2010) 2 SCC 772, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that:-

"An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/ disciplinary authority/ Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents.

When a departmental enquiry is conducted against the government servant it cannot be treated as a casual exercise. The enquiry proceedings also cannot be conducted with a closed mind. The inquiry officer has to be wholly unbiased. The rules of natural justice are required to be observed to ensure not only that justice is done but is manifestly seen to be done. The object of rules of natural justice is to ensure that a government servant is treated fairly in proceedings which may culminate in imposition of punishment including dismissal/removal from service."

19. Similar view was taken by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank, (2009) 2 SCC 570 as under:-

"Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

20. In another case in Subhash Chandra Gupta v. State of U.P., 2012 (1) UPLBEC 166, the Division Bench of this Court after survey of law on this issue observed as under:

"It is well settled that when the statute provides to do a thing in a particular manner that thing has to be done in that very manner. We are of the considered opinion that any punishment awarded on the basis of an enquiry not conducted in accordance with the enquiry rules meant for that very purposes is unsustainable in the eye of law. We are further of the view that the procedure prescribed under the inquiry rules for imposing major penalty is mandatory in nature and unless those procedures are followed, any out come inferred thereon will be of no avail unless the charges are so glaring and unrefutable which does not require any proof. The view taken by us find support from the judgement of the Apex Court in State of U.P. & another Vs. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831 as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541.

21. A Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2008 (3) ESC 1667 held that non holding of oral inquiry is a serious flaw which can vitiate the order of disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment has observed as under:-

" 10..... Non holding of oral inquiry in such a case, is a serious matter and goes to the root of the case.

11. A Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541, considering the question as to whether holding of an oral inquiry is necessary or not, held that if no oral inquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee. The aforesaid view was reiterated in Subash Chandra Sharma Vs. U.P.Cooperative Spinning Mills & others, 2001 (2) U.P.L.B.E.C. 1475 and Laturi Singh Vs U.P.Public Service Tribunal & others, Writ Petition No. 12939 of 2001, decided on 06.05.2005."

22. Even if the employee refuses to participate in the enquiry the employer cannot straightaway dismiss him, but he must hold and ex-parte enquiry where evidence must be led vide Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348, Uma Shankar v. Registrar, 1992 (65) FLR 674 (All).

23. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mahesh Narain Gupta v. State of U.P. and others, (2011) 2 ILR 570 has held as under:-

"At this stage, we are to observe that in the disciplinary proceedings against a delinquent, the department is just like a plaintiff and initial burden lies on the department to prove the charges which can certainly be proved only by collecting some oral evidence or documentary evidence, in presence and notice charged employee. Even if the department is to rely its own record/document which are already available, then also the enquiry officer by looking into them and by assigning his own reason after analysis, will have to record a finding that hose documents are sufficient enough to prove the charges.

24. In no case, approach of the Enquiry Officer that as no reply has been submitted, the charge will have to be automatically proved can be approved. This will be erroneous. It has been repeatedly said that disciplinary authority has a right to proceed against delinquent employee in exparte manner but some evidence will have to be collected and justification to sustain the charges will have to be stated in detail. The approach of the enquiry officer of automatic prove of charges on account of non filing of reply is clearly misconceived and erroneous. This is against the principle of natural justice, fair play, fair hearing and, thus, enquiry officer has to be cautioned in this respect.

25. Recently the entire law on the subject has been reviewed and reiterated in Chamoli District Co-operative Bank Ltd. Vs. Raghunath Singh Rana and others, AIR 2016 SC 2510 and the Hon'ble Apex Court has culled out certain principles as under:

"i) The enquiries must be conducted bona fide and care must be taken to see that the enquiries do not become empty formalities.

ii) If an officer is a witness to any of the incidents which is the subject matter of the enquiry or if the enquiry was initiated on a report of an officer, then in all fairness he should not be the Enquiry Officer. If the said position becomes known after the appointment of the Enquiry Officer, during the enquiry, steps should be taken to see that the task of holding an enquiry is assigned to some other officer.

(iii) In an enquiry, the employer/department should take steps first to lead evidence against the workman/delinquent charged and give an opportunity to him to cross-examine the witnesses of the employer. Only thereafter, the workman/delinquent be asked whether he wants to lead any evidence and asked to give any explanation about the evidence led against him.

(iv) On receipt of the enquiry report, before proceeding further, it is incumbent on the part of the disciplinary/punishing authority to supply a copy of the enquiry report and all connected materials relied on by the enquiry officer to enable him to offer his views, if any."

10. In view of what has been considered above and also in view of the settled proposition of law by the Apex Court, I am of the view that the findings of the Inquiry Officer/ inquiry report is liable to be set aside/ quashed inasmuch as the departmental inquiry has been conducted and concluded without fixing date, time and place for oral inquiry and without affording ample opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. Since the very foundation of the impugned order dated 30.08.2006 passed pursuant to the defective inquiry report is not liable to be sustained in the eyes of law, therefore, the impugned punishment order dated 30.08.2006 is liable to be set aside/ quashed. Consequently, the impugned appellate order and revisional order dated 2/6.02.2008 and 28.12.2019 are also liable to be set aside/ quashed on the basis of maxim "sublato fundamento cadit opus", which means that if the very foundation of any structure goes, the superstructure erected thereon would also fall.

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; State of Punjab Vs. Davinder Pal Singh Bhullar and others connected with Sumedh Singh Saini Vs. Davinder Pal

Singh Bhullar and others, (2011) 14 SCC 770, has considered the aforesaid maxim in paras-107 to 111, which are being reproduced here-in-below:-

"107. It is a settled legal proposition that if initial action is not in consonance with law, all subsequent and consequential proceedings would fall through for the reason that illegality strikes at the root of the order. In such a fact-situation, the legal maxim "sublato fundamento cadit opus" meaning thereby that foundation being removed, structure/work falls, comes into play and applies on all scores in the present case.

108. In Badrinath v. State of Tamil Nadu & others, AIR 2000 SC 3243; and State of Kerala v. Puthenkavu N.S.S. Karayogam & Anr,, (2001) 10 SCC 191, this Court observed that once the basis of a proceeding is gone, all consequential acts, actions, orders would fall to the ground automatically and this principle is applicable to judicial, quasi-judicial and administrative proceedings equally.

109. Similarly in Mangal Prasad Tamoli (dead) by Lrs. v. Narvadeshwar Mishra (dead) by Lrs. & Ors., (2005) 3 SCC 422, this Court held that if an order at the initial stage is bad in law, then all further proceedings, consequent thereto, will be non est and have to be necessarily set aside.

110. In C. Albert Morris v. K. Chandrasekaran & Ors, (2006) 1 SCC 228, this Court held that a right in law exists only and only when it has a lawful origin. (See also: Upen Chandra Gogoi vs. State of Assam & Ors.,, (1998) 3 SCC 381; Satchidananda Misra v. State of Orissa & Ors.,, (2004) 8 SCC 599; Regional Manager, SBI v. Rakesh Kumar Tewari,, (2006) 1 SCC 530; and Ritesh Tewari & Anr. v. State of U.P. & Ors., AIR 2010 SC 3823).

111. Thus, in view of the above, we are of the considered opinion that the orders impugned being a nullity, cannot be sustained. As a consequence, subsequent proceedings/ orders/ FIR/ investigation stand automatically vitiated and are liable to be declared non est."

12. In view of the aforesaid dictums of the Apex Court considered above, I am of the considered opinion that since impugned punishment order dated 30.08.2006 passed on the basis of defective inquiry report is nullity in the eyes of law, therefore, it cannot be sustained, so its consequential orders i.e. appellate order and revisional order stand automatically vitiated and are liable to be declared non-est in view of the legal maxim "sublato fundamento cadit opus".

13. Accordingly, the impugned orders dated 30.08.2006, 2/6.02.2008 and 28.12.2019 as contained in Annexure Nos.1, 2 & 3 to the writ petition respectively are hereby quashed.

14. Opposite parties are directed to pass consequential orders ignoring the impugned punishment order dated 30.08.2006 as well as the appellate order and the revisional order.

15. Since the punishment orders have been quashed only for the reason that the Inquiry Officer had conducted the defective inquiry violating the relevant provisions of Rule 7 of the Rules, 1999, therefore, liberty is given to the competent authority to conduct de-novo proceedings/ inquiry against the petitioner but the petitioner has already retired during the pendency of this writ petition, therefore, such exercise may be undertaken, if it is so desired, by adopting legal recourse of Regulation 351-A of the Civil Service Regulations.

16. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed.

17. No order as to costs.

3. Uttam Chand Rawat Vs St. of U.P. & ors . , (2021) 9 ADJ 304

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Kumar Rai - the learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Saurabh, the learned Standing Counsel representing the opposite party no. 1 – the State of U.P., Sri Rohit Pandey - the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 - Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam Technical University, U.P. and Sri. Diptiman Singh, the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 3 - Raj Kumar Goel Institute of Technology, Ghaziabad.

2. By means of the instant writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has challenged validity of termination of his service as Assistant Workshop Superintendent, Department of Mechanical Engineering in Raj Kumar Goel Institute of Technology, Ghaziabad.

3. It has been pleaded in the Writ Petition that the petitioner was appointed as an Assistant Workshop Superintendent in the Department of Mechanical Engineering by means of an appointment order dated 23.08.2007. He worked on the aforesaid post till 30.06.2021, on which date he was removed from service by an oral order. The petitioner has stated in the Writ Petition that the institution has given three months salary to him amounting to Rs.1,23,883/-.

4. The petitioner has further stated in the Writ Petition that he approached the Director of the Institute for his reinstatement in service but the Director did not pay any heed to his requests. However, no document has been annexed in support of this contention.

5. On 08.05.2024, this Court had passed an order directing the Director, Raj Kumar Goel Institute of Technology, Ghaziabad to produce the order terminating the petitioner's services, along with his personal affidavit. On 27.05.2024, the Director, Raj Kumar Goel Institute of Technology, Ghaziabad had filed his personal affidavit inter alia stating that the petitioner had submitted his resignation from the post of Workshop Superintendent on 14.07.2021 and he had requested that his entire arrears of salary and gratuity etc. be paid within the month of July, 2021. By another letter dated 14.07.2022, he had demanded experience certificate. The petitioner's resignation was accepted on the same day. The petitioner was paid his dues through five cheques for different amounts – (1) Rs.45,022/-, (2) Rs.6,753/-, (3) Rs.6,753/-, (4) Rs.45,022/- and (5) Rs.20,333/- totaling to Rs. Rs.1,23,883/- on 30.07.2021, which were received by the petitioner on the same date. On 18.08.2022, another cheque for Rs.1,71,188/- was given to the petitioner as full and final payment towards his gratuity. On 18.08.2022, the petitioner had given an affidavit stating that he had received all his dues and he had no claims left against the institute.

6. After filing of a personal affidavit of the Director of the college bringing on record the aforesaid facts which have not been disclosed in the writ petition, the petitioner has filed an application for amendment of the writ petition seeking to incorporate a payer for quashing of his resignation letter dated 14.07.2021 alleging that the resignation letter is forged and fabricated and that he has not received any amount of gratuity, and that he has received some amount towards the salary and arrears of salary only.

7. The learned counsel for the opposite parties did not oppose the amendment application filed by the petitioner and, accordingly, the amendment application has been allowed. The learned Counsel for the opposite parties said that no counter affidavit was required in the case.

8. The learned counsel for the opposite parties have raised a preliminary objection that the petitioner was working in a private college under a private contract of service and his services are not governed by any statutory provision. Therefore, the writ petition filed in respect of termination of service under a private non-statutory contract would not be maintainable. The second submission of the learned counsel for the opposite parties is that the petitioner has not been terminated and he had himself resigned from the service, which resignation was accepted, all the dues of the petitioner were paid and the petitioner had accepted the dues and it is after about three years since he resigned from service, that he has filed the writ petition claiming that his services has been terminated orally. The learned counsel for the opposite parties have submitted that the petitioner has not approached this Court with clean hands and the writ petition has been filed by concealment of relevant facts as also by misstatements made by the petitioner.

9. The learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on a judgment rendered by a Division Bench of this Court in C/M Pratibha Inter College, Barabanki through Manager & Anr. v. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Department of Secondary Education, U.P. Govt, Special Appeal No. 115 of 2024, decided on 03.07.2024, Neutral Citation: 2024 AHCLKO 45575.

10. Pratibha Inter College is a college governed by provisions of Intermediate Education Act and regulations framed thereunder, which specifically contain a provision for the employees of private unaided intermediate colleges. The petitioner was employed in an Engineering College affiliated to Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam Technical University and, therefore, the judgment in the case of Pratibha Inter College would not apply to petitioner, whose services are not governed by any statutory provisions.

11. In Pratibha Inter College (supra), the Division Bench has referred to a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of St. Mary's Education Society & Anr. v. Rajendra Prasad Bhargava & Ors: (2023) 4 SCC 498, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as follows:-

"75. We may sum up our final conclusions as under:

75.1. An application under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable against a person or a body discharging public duties or public functions. The public duty cast may be either statutory or otherwise and where it is otherwise, the body or the person must be shown to owe that duty or obligation to the public involving the public law element. Similarly, for ascertaining the discharge of public function, it must be established that the body or the person was seeking to achieve the same for the collective benefit of the public or a section of it and the authority to do so must be accepted by the public.

75.2. Even if it be assumed that an educational institution is imparting public duty, the act complained of must have a direct nexus with the discharge of public duty. It is indisputably a public law action which confers a right upon the aggrieved to invoke the extraordinary writ jurisdiction under Article 226 for a prerogative writ. Individual wrongs or breach of mutual contracts without having any public element as its integral part cannot be rectified through a writ petition under Article 226. Wherever Courts have intervened in their exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226, either the service conditions were regulated by the statutory provisions or the employer had the status of "State" within the expansive definition under Article 12 or it was found that the action complained of has public law element.

75.3. It must be consequently held that while a body may be discharging a public function or performing a public duty and thus its actions becoming amenable to judicial review by a constitutional court, its employees would not have the right to invoke the powers of the High Court conferred by Article 226 in respect of matter relating to service where they are not governed or controlled by the statutory provisions. An educational institution may perform myriad functions touching various facets of public life and in the societal sphere. While such of those functions as would fall within the domain of a "public function" or "public duty" be undisputedly open to challenge and scrutiny under Article 226 of the Constitution, the actions or decisions taken solely within the confines of an ordinary contract of service, having no statutory force or backing, cannot be recognised as being amenable to challenge under Article 226 of the Constitution. In the absence of the service conditions being controlled or governed by statutory provisions, the matter would remain in the realm of an ordinary contract of service.

75.4. Even if it be perceived that imparting education by private unaided school is a public duty within the expanded expression of the term, an employee of a non-teaching staff engaged by the school for the purpose of its administration or internal management is only an agency created by it. It is immaterial whether "A" or "B" is employed by school to discharge that duty. In any case, the terms of employment of contract between a school and non-teaching staff cannot and should not be construed to be an inseparable part of the obligation to impart education. This is particularly in respect to the disciplinary proceedings that may be initiated against a particular employee. It is only where the removal of an employee of non-teaching staff is regulated by some statutory provisions, its violation by the employer in contravention of law may be interfered with by the Court. But such interference will be on the ground of breach of law and not on the basis of interference in discharge of public duty.

75.5. From the pleadings in the original writ petition, it is apparent that no element of any public law is agitated or otherwise made out. In other words, the action challenged has no public element and writ of mandamus cannot be issued as the action was essentially of a private character."

12. The learned counsel for the opposite parties has placed reliance on a judgment rendered by Full Bench of this Court in Uttam Chand Rawat v. State of U.P. & 7 Ors: (2021) 9 ADJ 304, wherein the Full Bench has dealt with the following question:-

"(i) Whether the element of public function and public duty inherent in the enterprise that an educational institution undertakes, conditions of service of teachers, whose functions are a sine qua non to the discharge of that public function or duty, can be regarded as governed by the private law of contract and with no remedy available under Article 226 of the Constitution"

After referring to numerous precedents on the point, the Full Bench answered the aforesaid question as follows:-

"(1) The remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would be available against an authority or a person only when twin tests are satisfied. The authority or the person should not only discharge public function or public duty but the action challenged therein should fall in the domain of public law. The writ petition would not be maintainable against an authority or person even if it is discharging public function/public duty, if the controversy pertains to the private law such as a dispute arising out of contract or under the common law."

13. The service contract of the petitioner with Raj Kumar Goel Institute of Technology is also a private contract of service having no statutory force or backing and, therefore, any rights arising out of that contract or denial thereof would not be amenable to challenge under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

14. Although by way of amendment the petitioner has alleged that the resignation is forged but this plea has only been raised after the Director of the Institute had filed his personal affidavit bringing on record the fact that the petitioner has resigned from service and he has received his dues. The petitioner has concealed this fact by filing the writ petition that he has already received all his service related dues after termination of his service. The aforesaid plea incorporated by way of amendment after the fact of resignation made by the petitioner and receipt of entire dues was brought on record, appears to be afterthought. Besides, it seeks to raise the disputed questions of fact, which could be gone into by this Court in exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

15. Even after amending the writ petition, the petitioner has not incorporated any pea in the writ petition explaining the receipt of entire service dues by him in the year 2022 and non disclosure thereof in the writ petition. The aforesaid conduct of the petitioner in not approaching this Court with clean hands and in concealing certain relevant and material facts from this Court, also disentitles the petitioner from seeking any relief from this Court in exercise of its extraordinary discretionary writ jurisdiction.

16. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court is of the considered view that the writ petition is without any merit and the same is dismissed as such.

4. Salahuddin Ansari Vs St. of U.P. & ors., 2008(3) ESC 1667

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ashutosh Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri O.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Shushil Kumar Rao, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. Shri O.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate states that disciplinary proceedings had started prior to retirement and there is no defect in the order imposing penalty after retirement.

3. The petitioner Sunder Lal was a Warehouse Assistant of the U.P. State Warehousing Corporation. He has filed this petition challenging the order of removal from service on the ground that the entire domestic enquiry in the matter of disciplinary proceedings instituted against him was flawed one as the procedures prescribed under relevant Regulations, 1966 were not followed. Petitioner was served with a charge-sheet on 26.05.2014 to which he submitted his reply on 14.07.2014. An enquiry report was submitted on 16.07.2015 and the impugned decision was taken on 24.10.2016 on the basis of the enquiry report. Thus, according to the charge-sheet, petitioner was not able to discharge his duties properly and hence it amounted to misconduct. Resultantly, the order was passed by the Managing Director directing for recovery of Rs 27,21,930.26/- from the salary and other dues to which the petitioner was entitled in law.

4. The submission advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that petitioner was charge sheeted by holding a regular disciplinary proceedings and hence, the Disciplinary Authority was under obligation of law to conclude the entire proceedings as per the procedure prescribed. He submits that when the departmental enquiry was being conducted, petitioner was not given any opportunity to participate in the enquiry as no date and time was fixed, nor any place was decided to hold enquiry so as to permit petitioner due participation. It is thus argued that in the absence of any opportunity being afforded to the petitioner to participate in the enquiry, the entire enquiry was ex-parte and so was the report.

5. He further submits that neither the Enquiry Officer considered his reply submitted in the charge-sheet, nor Disciplinary Authority while passing the order considered the reply given by the petitioner in response to the notice issued to him. It is also contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner that enquiry could not have been continued after the petitioner had attained the age of superannuation, in the absence of provisions to that effect under the relevant regulations.

6. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon Regulation 16(3) of the Regulations, 1966. He has also placed reliance upon the judgement of the Division Bench of this Court in case of Shyam Narain Gaur vs. State of U.P. and 2 Others, which was also in respect of the employ of the Warehousing Corporation. He has also placed reliance upon Radhey Kant Khare vs. U.P. Co-Operative Sugar 2003 (1) AWC 704. Learned counsel has also placed reliance upon the judgement of the Supreme Court in the matter of Managing Director Ecil Hyderabad etc. vs B. Karunakar etc., (1993) 4 SCC 727.

7. Per Contra, it is argued by Shri O.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate appearing for respondnet-Warehousing Corporation that it is not a strict rule to provide oral participation to the employee and the opportunity of cross-examination in the event the documents relied upon are not disputed. However, he could not dispute the principle laid down by the Constitution Bench in the case of Salahuddin Ansari Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2008(3) ESC 1667 and Division Bench of this Court in the case of Shyam Narain Gaur (Supra) wherein, identicals, facts and circumstances, order of punishment and the enquiry report was quashed and matters were remitted to be proceeded from the stage of charge-sheet. He further states that if the enquiry had already been initiated prior to retirement, then there was nothing bad in terms of procedure and law to continue with the enquiry and resultant punishment.

8. It is an argument now raised by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner that since petitioner has retired, so the matter should not be remitted to be enquired into afresh for the reason that regulations do not permit for continuation of disciplinary proceedings after retirement. He has placed reliance upon the Chapter IV of the Regulations, 1966 which deals with the conduct of the employees and imposition of penalties and the procedure prescribed for.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the records, I find that a specific plea has been taken in paragraph Nos. 9 and 10 of the writ petition to the effect that no date, time and place was fixed for holding oral enquiry. Thus, it is pleaded specifically in these paragraphs that the petitioner had no opportunity to participate in the enquiry and to get himself orally examined and cross-examined by the departmental witnesses.

10. Paragraph Nos. 9 and 10 of the writ petition run as under:

"9. That thereafter the enquiry officer without fixing any date, time and place for holding of enquiry, without giving any opportunity to cross examine the witnesses, and acting in breach of principle of natural justice submitted his enquiry report dated 16.7.2015 to the disciplinary authority for further action, holding the petitioner guilty of the charges. A copy of the enquiry report dated 16.7.2015 is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure no. 3 to this writ petition.

10. That it is notable that the enquiry officer did not conduct any enquiry in the matter and did not issue any notice fixing a date time and place for holding the enquiry to the petitioner and straight away submitted his enquiry report holding the petitioner guilty of the charges."

11. From the perusal of the aforesaid pleadings, it clearly transpires that no date, time and place was fixed for oral enquiry. The petitioner was not afforded any opportunity to participate in the enquiry and it has also not been specifically denied. Here it is necessary to refer to Regulation 16(3) of the Regulation, 1966 applicable to the employees of the corporation. Regulation 16(3) is reproduced hereunder:

"3) No punishment other than that specified in sub-para (1) (a), (1) (b) or (1) (c) shall be imposed on any employee without formal charges being framed against him and without giving him an opportunity for tendering an explaination in writing and cross examining the witnesses against him, if any, and of producing evidence in defence;

Provided that punishment to an employee on deputation from the Central Government, a State Government or a Government Institution shall be imposed only in accordance with the procedure and rules laid down in this behalf in his parent service."

12. From a bare reading of the aforesaid regulations, it is clear that only punishment prescribed under Sub-Rule (1)(b) and (1)(c) can be imposed without holding a formal enquiry, but in the matter of other punishments, a formal enquiry was must. Rule 16(1)(a) to 16(1)(g) that provides for recovery runs as under"

"(a) fine

(b) censure

(c) postponement or stoppage o increments or promotion,

(d) reduction to a lower post in his permanent class or to a lower stage in his incremental scale,

(e) recovery from pay, security deposit or otherwise of the whole or part of the pecuniary loss caused to the Corporation by the employee,

(f) removal,

(g) dismissal,

Provided that the penalty of fine shall be imposed on employees of class III only."

13. Thus, it is clear that for imposing a penalty in the nature of recovery, it is necessary to hold a regular formal enquiry and to give opportunity to the delinquent employee not only to offer explanation in writing but to cross-examine the witnesses against him, if any, and also to produce evidence in defence. This opportunity, having been denied by the respondents while conducting enquiry will certainly render the enquiry a flawed enquiry for want of compliance of prescribed procedure.

14. Besides the above, I further notice that the petitioner's reply in the enquiry report has just been referred to and there is no discussion as to why the reply made could not be relied upon. The finding is based upon documentary evidence which were produced before the enquiry Officer in the absence of the petitioner. Thus, the findings returned in the enquiry report are certainly ex-parte. This report has been relied upon by the Managing Director in arriving at a conclusion that the petitioner was rightly held guilty but the aspect of non-compliance of the regulations as far as procedure for holding formal enquiry for imposing penalty of recovery, was not taken care of.

15. The Division Bench judgment cited before me in the case of Shyam Narain Gaur (supra) is of the same establishment in which also oral enquiry was not held. The Court took an exception of this procedure and remitted the matter thus:

"The records indicate that upon issuance of the charge-sheet, the petitioner submitted a detailed reply and it is only after the submission of the reply filed by the petitioner that the Enquiry Officer has submitted his report. Apart from the fact that no evidence was led by the department to prove the charges, the Enquiry Officer has not even considered the reply filed by the petitioner and only a casual observation has been made that evidence was not led by the petitioner to disprove the charges. It was for the department to have proved the charges by leading proper evidence but that was not done. This apart, even the reply submitted by the petitioner has not been considered. It is on the basis of the enquiry report that the punishment has been imposed upon the petitioner. In fact, it transpires that the charge-sheet was served on the petitioner on 26 May 2014. The petitioner submitted a reply on 14 July 2014 and the Enquiry Officer has submitted a report on 16 July 2014 within two days of the submission of the reply.

The Appellate Authority has failed to examine this aspect and, therefore, the order passed on 27 February 2016 to reject the appeal filed by the petitioner cannot also be sustained. The orders are, accordingly, set aside. It shall, however, be open to the respondents to conduct a fresh enquiry from the stage of submission of the charge-sheet and the reply filed by the petitioner, if it is permissible under the Regulations, in accordance with law."

16. Shri O.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate though has contended that the Government Servant Rules provide for imposition of penalty even after the retirement if the proceedings had been initiated prior to the retirement. However, he could not cite any provision of law under which disciplinary proceedings could have been continued even after the retirement. Even if it is taken to be presumable that if employee has been subjected to the disciplinary proceedings then it can be brought to its logical end even if the employee has retired but nothing has been shown that such a rule has been adopted by the Warehousing Corporation. In the given facts and circumstances when the petitioner is no more employee of the Warehousing Corporation, it would not be appropriate now to order him to face the departmental enquiry. An employee ceases to be an employee the moment he attains age of superannuation. The matter has remained ofcourse, sub-judice before this Court but this does not mean that the department will get an opportunity to re-enquire the matter.

17. In such special facts and circumstances of the case, I, therefore, reject the argument of Shri O.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate that the matter can be remitted to be enquired afresh.

18. In view of the above the order impugned dated 24.10.2016 is hereby quashed. Consequences to follow.

19. This writ petition stands allowed accordingly.

20. There will, however, be no order as to cost.

3. St. Mary's Education Society Vs Rajendra Prasad Bhargava, (2023) 4 SCC 498

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri. Santosh Kumar Giri Advocate, the learned Counsel for the petitioner, who has submitted that the petitioner is working as a P.R.T. teacher in Army Public School, Bareilly Cantt., Bareilly and she is seeking a direction for continuance her service as such and for regularization her services.

2. It has been pleaded in the writ Petition that the petitioner was appointed on the post of P.R.T. teacher in Army Public School, Bareilly Cantt., Bareilly on contractual basis on 19.08.2010/18.07.2010 initially for a period of two years. On 16.07.2012, the petitioner was again appointed for a period of three years from 26.07.2012 to 25.07.2015. On 11.08.2015, she was appointed afresh for a period of three years. Another contract of service was executed on 14.08.2018 for three years and thereafter another contract of service was executed on 20.07.2018 for the period up to 19.07.2021.

3. Lastly, the petitioner was issued an appointment letter dated 27.09.2021 appointing her for a fixed tenure from 04.10.2021 to 31.03.2024. On 08.01.2024, the petitioner was sent an intimated that her service contract will expire on 31.03.2024 and she can appear for fresh selection. The petitioner had participated in the fresh selection process and a letter dated 18.03.2024 issued by the Principal of the School calling the petitioner for interview, has been annexed with the Writ Petition. It appears that the petitioner remained unsuccessful in selection and thereafter she has filed the Writ Petition seeking continuance and regularization of her service after termination thereof.

4. It has been pleaded that Army Public School is governed by Army Welfare Educational Society, New Delhi, Indian Army, Government of India, Ministry of Defence. The aforesaid pleading is incorrect as in Army Welfare Education Society v. Sunil Kumar Sharma, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 1683 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that Army Welfare Educational Society is a purely unaided private society established for the purpose of imparting education to the children of the army personnel including the widows and ex-servicemen.

5. Para 17 of the Writ Petition contains the following pleadings: -

"17. That the service of the petition are entitled to be regularized on the subject post as a P.R.T. Teacher in view of the long standing teaching and working experience of 25 years as a P.R.T. Teacher in Army Public School, Bareilly Cantonment, District Bareilly at par with other permanent teachers in view of Supreme Court Judgment dated : 26.09.2023.

A true copy of the judgment dated : 26.09.2023 passed by Hon'ble Apex Court is being filed herewith and marked as ANNEXURE-14 to this writ petition."

6. As per the pleadings made in other paragraphs of the Writ Petition, the petitioner was initially appointed on 19.08.2010/18.07.2010 and she has worked for a total of 14 years under five different contract of service and the period of her last contract of service expired on 31.03.2024. The averment made in para 17 of the Writ petition that the petitioner has long standing teaching and working experience of 25 years as a P.R.T. Teacher in Army Public School, Bareilly Cantonment, District Bareilly, is false on the face of the record.

7. The entire Writ Petition has been signed by Shammi Kumar, - the husband of the petitioner, who has filed his affidavit in support of the Writ Petition.

8. The procedure to be followed for filing of cases in this High Court is provided in the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, Chapter I whereof deals with Preliminary matters. Rule 7 of Chapter I of the Allahabad High Court Rules provides that: -

"7. Date :- (i) Every application, petition objection or memorandum of appeal, presented in Court, shall be signed on every page by the applicant, the petitioner*, the objector or the appellant, as the case may be, or by an advocate appearing on his behalf and shall be dated."*

9. The petitioner has not signed the Writ Petition to take personal responsibility of the false averments made therein.

10. Without the Writ Petition having been signed by the petitioner herself, the Writ Petition ought not to have been accepted by the Registry of this Court and at least the Stamp Reporting Section ought to have pointed out this defect in the Writ Petition. The officials of the Stamp Reporting Section are advised to be careful in future and to examine whether the Writ Petitions comply with the provisions contained in Rule 7 of Chapter I of the Allahabad High Court Rules.

11. However, as the Writ Petition has come up before the Court and submissions on its admission have been heard, I proceed to examine the admissibility of the Writ Petition on the basis of the averments contained in it.

12. The document referred to in paragraph 17 of the Writ Petition as "the judgment dated 26.09.2023 passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court is in fact an interlocutory order passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in S.L.P. (Civil) No. 7994 of 2022 titled Urmila Chauhan versus The Chairman Army Public School and others, which provides as follows: -

"6. We have perused the documents that have been filed by the respondent-School. Nothing adverse to the petitioner is revealed in the summary of the ACRs for the years 2009-2010 to 2016-2017. In fact, the petitioner was recommended for being appointed as a regular teacher as is apparent from the noting sheets of the respondent – school filed with the additional documents. However subsequently, the Chairman of the respondent-School advised that the matter be put up for consideration later on.

7. We are of the opinion that in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, it is a fit case where the respondent-School ought to reconsider appointing the petitioner on the subject post as a regular teacher. We therefore, direct the Competent Authority of the respondent School to reconsider the petitioner's case for regularization to the subject post within six weeks from today, keeping in mind the aspects referred to hereinabove and file an affidavit immediately thereafter."

13. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has placed an interlocutory order terming it as a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Although the learned Counsel for the petition did not inform the Court about the final decision of Urmila Chauhan's case, the aforesaid S.L.P. has been decided by means of an order dated 19.01.2024, in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that: -

"6. In the peculiar facts of the instant case and particularly keeping in mind the fact that the management of the respondent-School has been shifting stands from time to time, sometimes placing on record its appreciation for the work done by the appellant and on other occasions, pointing out that she was not up to the mark, it is deemed appropriate to set aside the impugned judgment dated 30th 2 March, 2022, whereunder the directions issued by the learned Single Judge to regularize the appellant in service has been held to be unsustainable. As a consequence, the judgment dated 04th May, 2021 passed by the learned Single Judge is restored with a modification that since the appellant has not been discharging her duties from 04th May, 2021 till now, she will not be entitled to any back wages for the said period. However, her continuity of service and other consequential benefits shall not be adversely affected."

14. Therefore, it is clear that the case of Urmila Chauhan (Supra) was decided without going into the question of maintainability of the Writ Petition filed against Army Public School and it was decided in view of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case where the petitioner was recommended for being appointed as a regular teacher as is apparent from the noting sheets of the respondent – school filed with the additional documents. However subsequently, the Chairman of the respondent-School advised that the matter be put up for consideration later on and the management of the respondent-School has been shifting stands from time to time.

15. The question of maintainability of a Writ Petition under Article 226 against Army Welfare Society, which runs and manages Army Public Schools, has been decided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Army Welfare Education Society v. Sunil Kumar Sharma, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 1683, wherein the Hon'ble supreme Court has framed and decided the following two questions of law:—

"a. Whether the appellant Army Welfare Education Society is a "State" within Article 12 of the Constitution of India so as to make a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution maintainable against it? In other words, whether a service dispute in the private realm involving a private educational institution and its employees can be adjudicated upon in a writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution?

b. Even if it is assumed that the appellant Army Welfare Education Society is a body performing public duty amenable to writ jurisdiction, whether all its decisions are subject to judicial review or only those decisions which have public law element therein can be judicially reviewed under the writ jurisdiction?"

16. The Hon'ble Supreme Court relied upon a precedent in the case of St. Mary's Education Society v. Rajendra Prasad Bhargava: (2023) 4 SCC 498, in which the following two questions fell for the consideration of the Court:—

"(a) Whether a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is maintainable against a private unaided minority institution?

(b) Whether a service dispute in the private realm involving a private educational institution and its employee can be adjudicated in a writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution? In other words, even if a body performing public duty is amenable to writ jurisdiction, are all its decisions subject to judicial review or only those decisions which have public element therein can be judicially reviewed under the writ jurisdiction?"

17. The final conclusion drawn in St. Mary's Education Society (Supra) is reproduced hereinbelow:—

75.1. An application under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable against a person or a body discharging public duties or public functions. The public duty cast may be either statutory or otherwise and where it is otherwise, the body or the person must be shown to owe that duty or obligation to the public involving the public law element. Similarly, for ascertaining the discharge of public function, it must be established that the body or the person was seeking to achieve the same for the collective benefit of the public or a section of it and the authority to do so must be accepted by the public.

75.3. It must be consequently held that while a body may be discharging a public function or performing a public duty and thus its actions becoming amenable to judicial review by a constitutional court, its employees would not have the right to invoke the powers of the High Court conferred by Article 226 in respect of matter relating to service where they are not governed or controlled by the statutory provisions*. An educational institution may perform myriad functions touching various facets of public life and in the societal sphere. While such of those functions as would fall within the domain of a "public function" or "public duty" be undisputedly open to challenge and scrutiny under Article 226 of the Constitution,* the actions or decisions taken solely within the confines of an ordinary contract of service, having no statutory force or backing, cannot be recognised as being amenable to challenge under Article 226 of the Constitution*. In the absence of the service conditions being controlled or governed by statutory provisions, the matter would remain in the realm of an ordinary contract of service.*

75.4. Even if it be perceived that imparting education by private unaided school is a public duty within the expanded expression of the term, an employee of a non-teaching staff engaged by the school for the purpose of its administration or internal management is only an agency created by it. It is immaterial whether "A" or "B" is employed by school to discharge that duty. In any case, the terms of employment of contract between a school and non-teaching staff cannot and should not be construed to be an inseparable part of the obligation to impart education. This is particularly in respect to the disciplinary proceedings that may be initiated against a particular employee. It is only where the removal of an employee of non-teaching staff is regulated by some statutory provisions, its violation by the employer in contravention of law may be interfered with by the Court. But such interference will be on the ground of breach of law and not on the basis of interference in discharge of public duty.

75.5. From the pleadings in the original writ petition, it is apparent that no element of any public law is agitated or otherwise made out. In other words, the action challenged has no public element and writ of mandamus cannot be issued as the action was essentially of a private character.

76. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we hold that the learned Single Judge of the High Court was justified in taking the view that the original writ application filed by Respondent 1 herein under Article 226 of the Constitution is not maintainable. The appeal court could be said to have committed an error in taking a contrary view."

(Emphasis added)

18. After quoting the aforesaid law laid down in St. Mary's case, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held in Army Welfare Education Society v. Sunil Kumar Sharma that: -

"42. In view of the aforesaid, nothing more is required to be discussed in the present appeals. We are of the view that the High Court committed an egregious error in entertaining the writ petition filed by the respondents herein holding that the appellant society is a "State" within Article 12 of the Constitution. Undoubtedly, the school run by the Appellant Society imparts education. Imparting education involves public duty and therefore public law element could also be said to be involved. However, the relationship between the respondents herein and the appellant society is that of an employee and a private employer arising out of a private contract. If there is a breach of a covenant of a private contract, the same does not touch any public law element. The school cannot be said to be discharging any public duty in connection with the employment of the respondents."

19. In view of the aforesaid pronouncement of law by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the Writ Petition filed by the petitioner seeking continuance and regularization of her contractual service in Army Public School after termination thereof due to efflux of contract period, is not maintainable and it is dismissed as such at the admission stage itself.

(A) Service Law - The U.P. List of Cases cited:

1. Rajendra Patel Vs St. of U.P. & anr., AIR 2015 All 161 (FB)

2. Nirbhay Kumar Vs U.P. Public Service Commission, (Special Appeal No.- 541 of 2014

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Thakur Prasad Dubey, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sanjay Kumar Om, learned counsel for the U.P. Public Service Commission.

2. Petitioner before this Court has been an applicant against the advertisement issued for the post of Assistant Private Secretary in U.P. Secretariat advertised by the U.P. Public Service Commission on 19th September, 2023. It was prescribed under the advertisement that soon after submitting the online application, the printout of the hard copy of the said application shall be drawn by the petitioner and shall submit all the requisite documents regarding essential qualification on or before 5th April, 2024. It was further noticed under the advertisement that beyond the prescribed date no application will be entertained.

3. It is an admitted case of the petitioner that he could not submit the offline application form along with documents but he submits that since it was a sheer mistake inadvertently committed and since he had qualified the preliminary examination his candidature ought not to have been cancelled.

4. Per contra, it is submitted by learned counsel appearing for the U.P. Public Service Commission that under the advertisement there was a clear condition stipulated that till 5:00 pm on 5th April, 2024 the hard copy of the application should be submitted along with documents and if it were not submitted/ deposited in the office of Public Service Commission, then no further time will be allowed and no application shall be entertained subsequently.

5. Sri Om has argued that it is settled legal position that if a candidate fails to submit either application or requisite documents up to the last date prescribed under the advertisement, no further opportunity can be afforded to such candidate and for such negligence, may be due to inadvertence, subsequently application at the instance of such candidate cannot be allowed. He has also placed reliance upon the Full Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Rajendra Patel v. State of U.P. and another, AIR 2015 All 161 (FB), where a candidate failed to submit the offline form within the prescribed period. In the said judgment the Court has very categorically held that once the conditions stipulated under the advertisement are not fulfilled the department cannot be held liable for the same and candidate will have to suffer.

6. I have perused the records and find it to be an admitted position that petitioner in his knowledge failed to submit offline applications along with requisite documents to U.P. Public Service Commission till 5:00 of the last date i.e. 5th April, 2024. The Full Bench of this Court in the case of Rajendra Patel (supra) was constituted to decide following reference:

"Where the Commission requires the submission of an online application as well as the submission of a hard copy of the application together with all the requisite documents by a prescribed last date and candidates are placed on notice that the candidature of an applicant who has failed to complete all the prescribed stages by the last date would be rejected, would it be a correct position in law to hold that the Commission is bound to entertain the application though the hard copy together with the documents was received after the last date prescribed merely on the ground that the documents had been dispatched before the last date of the receipt of the application."

7. Holding the judgment of Division Bench in the case of Nirbhay Kumar v. U.P. Public Service Commission (Special Appeal No.- 541 of 2014 decided on 30th May, 2014) not to be laying down correct law, the Full Bench (supra) making observations upon the principles of law on the point, concluded thus:

"Even on merits, we are not inclined to accept the correctness of the principle which has been laid down in Nirbhay Kumar (supra) that the submission of a hard copy of the application together with the accompanying documents is merely an act of confirmation of the application. The view which has found acceptance in Nirbhay Kumar (supra) would, in our view, dislocate the examination process and would render the process which is conducted by the Commission in a perpetual state of uncertainty. We are, with respect, in agreement with the view which was expressed by the Division Bench in Raj Narayan Singh (supra) decided on 18 February 2015.

Reliance was also sought to be placed on a judgment of the Supreme Court in Dolly Chhanda Vs Chairman, JEE. In Dolly Chhanda (supra), the Supreme Court has observed that the general rule is that while applying for any course of study or post, a person must possess the eligibility qualification on the last date fixed for such purpose either in the admission brochure or in the application form, as the case may be, unless there is an express provision to the contrary. The Supreme Court held that there could be no relaxation in the matter of holding the requisite eligibility qualification by the date fixed. However, depending upon the facts of the case, there can be some relaxation in the matter of submitting proof and it may not be proper to apply a rigid principle which may pertain to the domain of procedure. Hence, every infraction of the rule relating to submission of proof need not necessarily result in the rejection of the candidature. These principles which have been laid down are not in dispute and they cannot be. However, the issue in the present case is whether the submission of a hard copy by the specified date together with all the documents was merely a matter of procedure. To accept the submission of the petitioner would, as we have held earlier, result in a situation where a candidate would be entitled to assert that despite the stipulated last date and a prescribed consequence of invalidation which has been drawn to the notice of the candidates, the Commission would be bound to scrutinise applications which are received together with the hard copies beyond the prescribed date. This, in our view, would not be permissible. We may also note that in a judgment in Secretary, UP Public Service Commission Vs S Krishna Chaitanya', the Supreme Court has held that the Commission cannot be directed to declare the final results when the application form of a candidate had not been received within the prescribed period.

For these reasons, we hold that where the Commission requires the submission of a hard copy of the online application together with all accompanying documents by a prescribed last date and has clearly placed the candidates on notice of the fact that an application which is submitted beyond the last date together with the prescribed documents would result in the invalidation of the candidature, the condition which has been imposed by the Commission would have to be scrupulously observed. It would not be open to the Court to hold that notwithstanding such a clear condition, an application which has not been received by the last date should be entertained. The Commission has given an option to candidates of submitting their applications in the hard copy by either of the two modes, namely by registered post or by personal delivery. A candidate who has opted for one of the two modes, is required to comply with the condition that all the requisite four stages are completed within the time stipulated."

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner could not cite any authority disputing the proposition of law as discussed in the aforesaid Full Bench judgment of this Court.

9. In view of the above settled legal position, I do not find any justification to grant indulgence in the matter.

10. Petition fails and is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Dr. L.P. Misra and Mrs. Nandini Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Shiv Ganesh Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondent.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner seeks to challenge the order dated 25.7.2006, passed by the respondent No.4 (Superintendent of Police, Sitapur). He has prayed as under :-

"(i) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 25-07-2006 (Annexure No. 1) issued by opposite party No. 4/ 5.

(ii) To issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to accept the joining of the petitioner submitted on 29-06-94 and issue Identity Card, Proper dresses and requirements and treat the petitioner to be appointed as U.P. (iii) To issue a writ order or direction in nature of mandamus commanding the opposite party No. 4 /5 S.P. (vi) To issue any other writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court deems fit and proper in the nature of the case may also be passed in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents."

3. Facts in brief are that in pursuance to an advertisement issued in the year 1994 for selection and appointment of Constables, the petitioner offered his candidature and appeared at Sitapur Center for consideration of his candidature vide Registration No.1897 on the date fixed. He was found short by 1 cm than the required measurement in the category of expanded chest. He made a representation to the State Government and a letter dated 15.06.1994 was issued by the State Government addressed to the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow for getting his physical measurement done and to send report to the State Government. This letter is Annexure-3 to the writ petition.

Consequent upon the communication dated 15.06.1994, a copy of which was also endorsed to the petitioner, the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow conducted a physical standard examination of the petitioner and reported that his chest on expansion was 88 cm which was more than the prescribed norms.

On receipt of the certification as made by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow, the State Government proceeded to issue an order dated 17.06.1994 (Annexure-5) directing the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur to take steps to appoint the petitioner against reserved category of Dependents of Freedom Fighter and Sports as he was found eligible as per physical fitness certificate issued by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow.

4. On receipt of the State Government's communication dated 17.06.1994, the then Superintendent of Police, Sitapur wrote a letter dated 19.06.1994 that the petitioner was found unfit in the physical verification and the physical verification made by the Chief Medical Officer had no relevance. Thereafter, the State Government issued a detailed letter dated 28.06.1994 addressed to the Director General of Police, U.P. at Lucknow and Additional Director General of Police, U.P., Police Headquarter at Allahabad, stating that the physical examination of the petitioner was done by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow on reference being made by the State Government and the same was done in accordance with the relevant rules prescribed for medical examination. The petitioner was a good player of Judo game and was grandson of freedom fighter and therefore, the State Government has taken a conscious decision that he should be appointed as a Constable. In this government order stands specifically mentioned that in peculiar facts and circumstances, a conscious decision has been taken by the State Government to relax all the rules and after selection the petitioner be sent for receiving training and the said letter shall not be treated as precedence for any other matter. The detailed government order is on record as Annexure-7 to the writ petition.

5. After issuance of the government order dated 28.06.1994, the petitioner submitted his joining report before the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur on 29.06.1994 after annexing a copy of the government order dated 28.06.1994. Another letter dated 27.11.1994 was issued by the State Government addressed to the Director General of Police, U.P., Lucknow that the relaxation from the prescribed procedure for recruitment of Constable was consciously granted by the State Government and there should not be raised any dispute and the selection and appointment of the petitioner as Constable be ensured. This document is on record as Annexure-9 to the writ petition.

Nothing was done and again the State Government issued a letter dated 22.03.2003 addressed to the Director General of Police, U.P., Lucknow and Additional Director General, U.P., H.Q. Allahabad, clearly stating that despite the directions having been issued in the government order dated 28.06.1994, negligence was shown by the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur and a compliance report be sent to the State Government.

The Inspector General of Police (Establishment), U.P. thereafter wrote a letter dated 31.03.2003 addressed to S.P., Sitapur that the compliance of the government order dated 28.06.1994 be communicated. This document is contained as Annexure-11 to the writ petition. Even then no action was taken by Superintendent of Police, Sitapur.

6. The petitioner being aggrieved against the inaction on the part of the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur preferred Writ Petition No.6143 of 2003 and vide judgment and order dated 14.10.2003 (Annexure-12) this Court required the petitioner to make a detailed representation before the State Government and required the State Government to take a reasoned decision within a period of 3 months from the date of such representation.

7. It appears that the representation made thereafter by the petitioner was processed and the Deputy Inspector General of Police (Establishment), U.P. Police H.Q., Allahabad wrote a letter dated 21.12.2003 communicating to the State Government that the appointment of the petitioner as a member of discipline force i.e. Police force would not be in the interest of Police Force and in the public interest and after due consideration of such a report, the State Government wrote back to Deputy Inspector General of Police (Establishment), U.P. Police H.Q., Allahabad that in view of government's letter dated 27.11.1994 and Police Headquarter's letter dated 31.03.2003, the report dated 25.12.2003 was not proper and in compliance of the judgment dated 14.10.2003 passed by this Court, proper and appropriate recommendations be made available to the State Government. The letter dated 21.05.2004 so written by the State Government is on record as Annexure-13 of the writ petition.

8. The record of the writ petition further reveals that no decision was taken within the time stipulated in the judgment and order dated 14.10.2003 passed by this Court in Writ Petition No.6143 of 2003 and the petitioner filed a Contempt Petition marked as Criminal Miscellaneous Case No.1722 (C) of 2004 and a notice was issued on the said contempt petition by this Court on 07.10.2004. After taking cognizance on contempt for non-compliance of the judgment dated 14.10.2003, the State Government passed an order dated 25.11.2004 (Annexure-15) rejecting the petitioner's representation and further cancelling the government orders dated 28.06.1994 and 27.11.1994 with immediate effect.

9. The petitioner filed Writ Petition No.1423 (S/S) of 2005 before this Court challenging the order dated 25.11.2004 passed by the State Government and the said writ petition was allowed vide judgment and order dated 21.02.2005, a copy of which is on record of the writ petition as Annexure-16. The operative portion of the judgment dated 21.02.2005 reads as under :-

"Consequently, the impugned order dated 25.11.2004/ Annexure 1 to the Writ Petition cannot be sustained and liable to be set aside.

In the result, the impugned order dated 25.11.2004/Annexure 1 to the writ petition passed by Secretary/Respondent no. 2 is hereby set aside, with a direction to the Petitioner to file additional Representation (if any) and a certified copy of this order before Principal Secretary/Respondent no. 1 to requisition the relevant record from the Secretary in question who shall decide the representation of the petitioner by passing order containing reasons, disclosing application of mind, in accordance with law and on the basis of material on record before it. Decision shall be taken by the respondent no. 1 within four weeks of the receipt of a certified copy of this order and its decision shall be communicated to the petitioner forthwith."

10. The petitioner communicated the certified copy of the judgment and order dated 21.02.2005 passed by this Court in Writ Petition No.1423 of 2005 and the State Government issued an order dated 08.04.2005, rejecting the representation of the petitioner on the premise that such representations were already rejected by the State Government. This order is annexed as Annexure-17 to the writ petition.

11. The petitioner preferred Writ Petition No.4331 (S/S) of 2005, challenging the order dated 08.04.2005, issued by the State Government, which was allowed by this Court vide judgment and order dated 12.04.2006. the relevant portion of the order is as under :-

"A numerous documents annexures-2 to 7 to the writ petition clearly indicate that the petitioner was recommended for appointment and training by the higher authorities but the appointing authority appears to be biased with the petitioner, hence did not appoint the petitioner ignoring the orders of the State Government and thus the petitioner is being harassed by the appointing authority.

In these circumstances the writ petition is allowed. The order dated 8.4.2005 passed by the State Government (annexure-1 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed and a writ of mandamus is issued to opposite party no.9, Superintendent of Police, Sitapur to consider the case of the petitioner for appointment in light of the observations made above within a period of two months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before him."

12. After passing of the judgment and order dated 12.04.2006, the impugned order dated 25.07.2006 was passed by the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur which stands challenged in the present writ petition.

13. The record of the writ petition further reveals that after filing of the writ petition, the petitioner filed a contempt petition marked as Criminal Miscellaneous Case No. 2633 (C) of 2006 (Brijesh Kumar Pandey Vs. Sri Dawa Sherpa and others) on the ground that the order dated 25.07.2006, which stands impugned in the present writ petition was passed by the alleged contemnor in utter derogation of the directions issued by the writ court vide judgment and order dated 12.04.2006 passed in Writ Petition No. 4331 (S/S) of 2005. In exercise of the contempt jurisdiction, the Contempt Court passed an order dated 11.10.2007, requiring the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur to remain present in person before the Court on 12.10.2007 along with complete records from the Secretariat.

14. On 12.10.2007 the matter was examined by the Contempt Court in depth and it was observed that the case in hand was one of those glaring cases which depicts how the Government machinery can harass an individual by taking resort to passing of file from one table to the other and referring the matter time and again to its various hands with no relief to an individual, apparently on account of non-fulfillment of demands of a petty clerk. The Government officers have not been bold and fair enough to take a stand and to take an appropriate decision.

15. After relevant considerations including the contents of the judgment and order dated 12.04.2006 passed by the writ court, the Contempt Court, as evident from the order dated 20.12.2007 (Annexure-4 to the petitioner's rejoinder affidavit dated 23.11.2021), required all the District Superintendents of Police, Sitapur who have remained posted during the last 13 years to be present before the Court for taking the charge. The contents of the order dated 20.12.2007 are quoted in verbatim under:-

"This is one of those glaring cases which depicts how the Government machinery can harass an individual by taking resort to passing of file from one table to the other and referring the matter time and again to its various hands with no relief to an individual, apparently on account of non-fulfillment of demands of a petty clerk. The Government Officers have not been bold and fair enough to take a stand and to take an appropriate decision. This contempt application was filed alleging willful disobedience and non-compliance of the judgment of this Court dated 12.04.2006 passed in Writ Petition No. 4331 (S/S) of 2005.

The applicant had appeared in the test for selection to the post of constable in Civil Police in the year 1993-94. On account of certain objections that the applicant did not fulfill the required standard of physical fitness, he was not selected. The applicant represented before the Hon'ble Governor of the State. He was re-examined by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow, who gave him a fitness certificate, certifying that the applicant fulfilled the requirements of physical fitness. Thereafter the Hon'ble Governor recommended that the applicant should be selected. The State Government issued an order dated 28.6.1994, addressed to the Director General of Police and also to the Additional Director General of Police Headquarters annexing the recommendation of the Hon'ble Governor relaxing eligibility condition for selection, and directing that the applicant may be selected/ appointed and may be sent for training immediately. The said letter Issued by the Government also provides that the decision taken in the case of the applicant would not be treated as a precedent in future.

The directions of the State Government was not being complied with whereupon a second letter dated 27.11.1994 was issued by the State Government, this time signed by the Joint Secretary and addressed to the Director General of Police to appoint the petitioner as Constable in Civil Police and to send him for training without any delay. The applicant kept running from pillar to post but was not given the appointment. The State Government again on 22.3.2003 reiterated its stand and called for a report from the Director General of Police and also the Additional Director General of Police, Headquarters. Subsequently the Inspector General (Establishment) vide letter dated 31.3.2003 wrote to the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur directing him to take necessary action in accordance with law and to get the Government Order implemented.

When no orders were passed for the appointment of the petitioner he filed a writ petition before this Court, being Writ Petition No.6143 of 2003. The said writ petition was disposed of vide order dated 14.10.2003 directing the State Government to pass an appropriate reasoned order in the matter of the petitioner within a period of three months. Again when no action was taken the applicant filed a Contempt Application being Criminal Misc. Case No. 1722 (C) of 2004. Thereafter it appears that an order was passed on 25.11.2004. The applicant challenged the said order by means of Writ Petition No.1423 (S/S) of 2005. The said writ petition was allowed vide order dated 21.2.2005 and the order dated 25.11.2004 was quashed on the ground that it was non-speaking order and has been passed without application of mind, in contravention to the directions contained in the earlier order of this Court dated 14.10.2003. It was further directed that the Principal Secretary shall decide the representation of the petitioner by a reasoned order after application of mind on the basis of the material on record before it.

The State Government passed an order dated 8.4.2005 again rejecting the claim of the applicant. Against the said order the petitioner filed another writ petition being Writ Petition No. 4331 of 2005. The said writ petition was again allowed vide judgment dated 12.4.2006. This time the Court categorically held that the applicant has been recommended for appointment and training by the higher authorities but the appointing authority was biased with the petitioner and, therefore, did not appoint him ignoring the orders of the State Government. This time while allowing the writ petition the Court quashed the order of the State Government dated 8.4.2005 and issued a writ of mandamus to the respondent no.7 in the writ petition, i.e. Superintendent of Police, Sitapur to consider the case of the petitioner for appointment in the light of the observations made in the judgment within a period of two months.The judgment of this Court dated 12.4.2006 is quoted as under :-

By means of this writ petition the petitioner prays for quashing of the order impugned dated 8.04.05 by the State Govt. rejecting the petitioner's representation dated 25.2.05 for appointment as Police Constable as contained in Annexure to the writ petition.

The petitioner appeared before Superintendent of Police, Sitapur for appointment on the post of Constable but he was declared unfit. He approached the State Government, who directed the Chief Medical Officer of Lucknow for physical measurement and medical examination, who found fit in all respects and issued a certificate to that effect. The State Government was pleased to issue the direction on 28.06.94, 27.11.94 and again on 22.03.2003 for appointment and training of the petitioner, even then respondent no.9 did not comply with the aforesaid direction, hence the petitioner filed the Writ Petition No. 6143 (S/S) of 2003, which was disposed of with a direction to the respondents to decide the representation of the petitioner within three months. This order was also not complied with in right perspective. Thereafter another writ petition no. 1423 (S/S) of 2005 was filed by the petitioner which was allowed on 21.02.2005 setting aside the office memorandum dated 25.11.2004. But even then nothing was done hence the petitioner filed a contempt petition no. 835

(C) of 2005. Consequently feeling aggrieved with the petitioner and another office memorandum dated 8.04.2005 impugned in this writ petition has been issued, saying that the relaxation was done in the year 1994 of which no documents are available in the Govt. Office hence no comments could be made on the Govt. Orders dated 28.06.94 and 27.11.94.

A numerous documents annexures- 2 to 7 to the writ petition clearly indicate that the petitioner was recommended for appointment and training by the higher authorities but the appointing authority appears to be biased with the petitioner, hence did not appoint the petitioner ignoring the orders of the State Government and thus the petitioner is being harassed by the appointing authority.

In these circumstances the writ petition is allowed. The order dated 8.4.2005 passed by the State Government (annexure-1 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed and a writ of mandamus is issued to opposite party no.9, Superintendent of Police, Sitapur to consider the case of the petitioner for appointment in light of the observations made above within a period of two months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before him."

The petitioner submitted certified copy of the judgment dated 12.4.2006 before the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur along with the covering letter dated 21.4.2006. Superintendent of Police, Sitapur thereafter instead of passing appropriate order again referred the matter to the State Government vide letter dated 5.5.2006 seeking further directions from the State Government, instead of complying with the directions of this Court. This Court had already held in the judgment dated 12.4.2006 that despite the specific directions of the State Government, the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur has been delaying the matter and not complying with the same deliberately in order to harass the applicant. Yet again the same story was repeated. After waiting for sufficient time the applicant filed the present Contempt Application for punishing the opposite parties.

As the time passed on and as the Officers were transferred and new incumbent joined, impleadment applications were filed which have been allowed. The present incumbent Sri V.K. Dohare on the post of Superintendent of Police, Sitapur has also filed his affidavit in reply, to which a rejoinder affidavit has also been filed by the applicant. During the course of hearing on the previous date, a detailed order was passed and the original record available in the office of the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur and the U.P. Secretariat at Lucknow with regard to the applicant's matter were summoned and were produced before the Court. They have also been perused by the Court.

I have heard learned counsel for the applicant and also Sri Lalit Shukla, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel on behalf of the respondents.

It has been submitted on behalf of the applicant that he is being harassed for the last 13 years only on account of a clerk in the office of the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur, dealing with the file of the applicant. According to the applicant this person has been continuing on the post for the last more than 15 years and has been dealing with the file of the applicant right from the beginning. He had made certain demands, which were not fulfilled by the applicant and, therefore, out of annoyance he has been harassing the applicant on account of malice. Right from 1994 the said clerk has been handling the file and has been making reports and notings which are not consistent with the record. The said clerk has also been impleaded in this Contempt application and notices were also issued to him. He has not filled any reply.

Having perused the record and also having gone through the affidavit filed by the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur in my opinion it would not be necessary to go into the question as to whether the Opp-party no. 4 Ibbadul Hag is guilty of manipulating with the record or not but disobedience is quite apparent and, therefore, for the reasons stated hereinafter in my opinion it is a case in which prima facie willful disobedience and non-compliance of the directions of this Court is established and the Opp-party must face charges for committing contempt of this Court.

From the original record it is apparent that the applicant had been pursuing the matter right from the beginning with the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur as also the State Government. On record is available the various letters written by the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur time and again right from 1994, and again in 1999 asking for clarification and directions. From the record of office of Superintendent of Police, Sitapur, it also appears that there are certain missing links as if certain correspondence was not produced before the court and some correspondence had been removed from the record. Further from the record of the State Government what appears is that that the State Government has not taken a stand that the orders issued on 28.06.1994 and 17.11.1994 were forged or fictitious. Even the subsequent letters issued by the State Government 22.03.2003 and 05.07.2005 which clearly mention that no further direction is required from the State Government and the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur may after obtaining legal opinion comply with the directions of the High Court. Despite such specific clear cut orders what compelled the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur to again write in May 2006 seeking further opinion of the State Government is not only a clear disobedience of the direction of this Court and of the State Government but shows the jugglery of the Government officers in not doing what they do not want to do and somehow or the other trying to scuttle the matter.

Along with the counter affidavit of the Sri V.K. Dohara, the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur dated 06.09.2007 is annexed an order dated 23.08.2007 rejecting the claim and representation of the applicant. This is again in contravention of the directions of this Court, which did not require him to test correctness of the Government orders but only required him to pass appropriate order for appointment in accordance with law. The liberty given to pass appropriate orders in accordance with law was not to test the correctness of the Government order or the recommendation to appoint the petitioner but this Court had only required the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur to pass orders for appointment in terms of the Government order. He had no business to again test as to whether the appointment could be issued or not.

Normally if an order was passed after a direction of this Court, it would be open to the applicant to challenge the same before the Writ Court submitted on behalf of the State Officers but in the present case what the Court notices is that despite the Court holding in the judgment dated 12.04.2006 that the Appointing Authority was biased and was not issuing the appointment letter ignoring the order of the State Government and thereby harassing the applicant, it is writ large that Superintendent Of Police, Sitapur is definitely harassing the applicant and not issuing the appointment order.

It is a fit case in my opinion in which suitable action should be taken not only against the present Superintendent of Police, Sitapur but also against the previous Officers posted as Superintendent of Police, Sitapur for substantial period and who have delayed the matter time and again, may be at the pretext or at the instance or at the false and incomplete reporting of the clerk Ibbadul Hag, Opp-party no. 4. The applicant has been running from pillar to post for the last 13 years. Officers who have harassed him will have to suitably compensate him.

List this matter on 22nd January, 2008 for framing of charges. The Opp-party no. 1, 4 and 5 shall remain present on the said date before the Court even if they have been transferred from Sitapur wherever they may be posted.

Let a copy of this order be sent to the Director General of Police, U.P. to ensure presence of the Opp-party nos. 1, 4 and 5 on the next date.

16. Even after passing of such an order dated 20.12.2007, the opposite parties of the writ petition continued to drag their feet contemptuously and the judgment and order dated 12.4.2006 passed in Writ Petition No.4331 (S/S) of 2005 was not complied with in its letter and spirit and even the contents of the order dated 20.12.2007, as quoted hereinabove, were not shown the due regard, it is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner.

However, after a lapse of about six years from the order dated 20.12.2007, the petitioner was appointed as Constable on May 26, 2013, a copy of which is filed as Annexure-1 to the rejoinder affidavit.

17. In view of the facts narrated above, submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner in challenge to the impugned order dated 25.07.2006 passed by Superintendent of Police, Sitapur is that the order has not only been passed illegally and arbitrarily, but patently suffers from perversity inasmuch as that the premise of the impugned order is that the government order dated 17.06.1994, 28.06.1994 and 27.11.1994 were cancelled by the State Government vide order dated 25.11.2004, ignoring the roaringally speaking circumstance that the government order dated 25.11.2004 stood already set aside by the High Court vide judgment and order dated 21.02.2005, passed in Writ Petition No.1423 (S/S) of 2005.

18. It is further submitted that once the order dated 25.11.2004, passed by the State Government, cancelling the earlier government orders was quashed and set aside by this Court, the necessary corollary is that the government orders dated 17.06.1994, 28.06.1994 and 27.11.1994 stood automatically revived and passing of the impugned order on the basis of the government order dated 25.11.2004 is nothing but a perverse approach for the reasons best known to the author of the impugned order.

The second reason assigned in passing the impugned order is that the petitioner did not complete the prescribed eligibility and did not complete the requisite examinations for which there were no provisions of relaxation. It is submitted that this reasoning is again not only arbitrary and perverse but audacious in nature for more than one reason.

It is submitted that in the year 1994 when the advertisement dated 31.03.1994 was issued, there were no statutory rules governing the recruitment of Constables in the State of U.P. and the recruitment, training and appointment as Constables used to be governed by the U.P. Police Regulations framed under the Police Act, 1861, an Act enacted with the assent of the Governor General of India and amended from time to time by various amending Acts. Paragraphs 409 to 415 of the U.P. Police Regulations read as under:-

"409. Enlistments of constables for the Armed and Civil Police.- Enlistments of constables for the Armed and Civil Police will be made by Superintendents. No man who is less than 18 or more than 23 years old may be enlisted (or re-enlisted). In the case of candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, the upper age-limit shall be greater by five years. Chaukidars of approved character and qualifications may be drafted into the Pradeshik Police up to the age of 30 years. Military pensioners may be enlisted as Constables in the Armed Police provided they are not more than 35 years of age. After appointment, they may draw their pay as members of the Police Force in addition to their Military pension subject to usual rules in this respect. The enlistment should be notified to the Controller of Military Accounts.

Ex-soldiers who are neither reservists nor pensioners may be enlisted as ordinary recruits both in Civil and Armed Police provided they are not more than 35 years of age. The Director-General of Police will exercise powers of granting relaxation from the minimum / maximum age-limit only where in the interest of fair dealing or in the public interest, it is considered necessary under Notification No. 1129(5)/II-175-39, dated 4th July, 1941. In districts where recruiting is bad, Superintendent may apply to the Recruiting Staff Officer for pensioners or ex-soldiers other than reservists, Indian Armjed reservists and members of the Indian Territorial Force may not be enlisted in any branch of the Police Force, and no member of the Police Force (including clerical staff) is permitted to join the Indian Territorial Force or the Auxiliary Force, India.

410. Rules for ex-soldiers, who are enlisted as constable in U.P. Police.- On their enlistment as constable in the Uttar Pradesh Police the exsoldiers of the following classes are entitled to count their previous military service for increments in the time-scale of pay of constables : (1) Ex-soldiers of the combatant units of the Indian Armed Forces, and (2) Ex-soldiers of the combatant units of the late I.S.F. and non-I.S.F. Provided that the military service of a military pensioner or gratuitant will not count for incremental pay if he continues to draw his pension, or unless he refunds any bonus or service gratuity that he may have received in lieu of pension or since discharge from military service in monthly instalments not exceeding thirty-six. The question of re-fixation of pay of such ex-military personnel will be considered only after the entire amount of the bonus/service gratuity has been refunded in full by them. The revised pay will, however, be allowed to them with retrospective effect, i.e., form the date of enlistment in the Police Force. Appendix XXVIII of Army Regulations, India, Volume II, should be consulted as regards the branches of military service which fall in the category of non-combatant services. The cases of men with previous service in units not mentioned in that appendix should be referred to the Inspector-General of Police for orders at* the time of enlistment unless governed by rulings already generally notified. Indian Army Reservists whose military service was pensionable under military rules and who before they have earned a pension under such rules in respect of their military service are appointed after discharge from the reserve to the Police Force of Uttar Pradesh may, at the discretion of the Inspector-General, whether their military service included service, with the colours in addition to serve in the Reserve or was service in the Reserve alone, be permitted to count for increment of pay in the Police Force the whole of their service with the colours, if any, and half of their service with the Reserve, subject to the condition that they first refund any gratuity which they may have reserved in respect of their military service.

411. Physical requirement for a recruit.- No recruit shall be enlisted whose chest measurements is less than 34 inches expanded with a minimum expansion of 2 inches and whose height is less than 5 feet 9 inches. To this rule there are the following exceptions : (a) A recruit between 18 and 20 years of age who shown signs of growing, may be enlisted if his height is not less than 5 feet 5 inches and if his expanded chest is not less than 32 inches with a minimum expansion of 2 inches, provided that the Civil Surgeon certified that he is under 20 years of age, and that he is likely to attain standard measurements. (b) In the case of hillmen, the height may be not less than 5 feet 4 inches. (c) In the case of Tribal candidates, the chest measurement must not be less than 34" expanded with a minimum expansion of 2" and the height must not be less than 5'3".

Note.- (i) As far as possible tall and well-built men should be enlisted in the Police as constable as physical appearance and personality are important factors for efficient discharge of their duties.

(ii) Persons with bow legs, irrespective of the degree of bow present, shall not be recruited. Slight curvature of legs, is , however, to be treated as normal and should not lead to unnecessary rejections.

412. Medical examination of a recruit.- Before a candidate for recruitment is sent to the Civil Surgeon for medical examination his height and chest measurements must be accurately taken before the reserve inspector. The candidate must be measured round his bare chest with his arms raised. No candidate shall be enlisted without a health certificate in Form No. 29 signed by the Civil Surgeon on the district. Every candidate must also, before he is enlisted, sign an agreement in the following form : I……son of……..of village……thana ……district …… agree to undertake that on being enlisted as a candidate in the Uttar Pradesh Police Force, I will serve for two years in the said Uttar Pradesh Police, from the date of joining the force, unless I am discharged or dismissed or certified by a Civil Surgeon to be unfit for such service. If I resign before the expiry of the said two years I undertake and agree to forfeit a sum to be calculated according to the following rates: (a) Up to 3 months' service Re. 1 for each completed month of service; (b)Over three months but not exceeding six months' service Rs.12 for each completed month of service subject to a maximum of Rs.10; (c) Over six months' but not exceeding one year's service Rs.3 for each completed month of service subject to maximum of Rs.25; (d)After one year's but within two years' service Rs.4 for each completed month of service subject to maximum of Rs.50.

413. Register of candidates for recruitment.- A register of candidates for recruitment shall be kept in every district (Form No. 355). Whenever a candidate is sent for examination to the Civil Surgeon the register will be sent with him, all the columns having been filled up except columns, 8, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. The Civil Surgeon will fill up columns 8 and 13. If the candidate is declared to be unfit the entry should be struck out with red ink.

414. All enrolled candidates furnish a certificate of having seen successfully vaccinated.- All candidates shall, as a necessary condition of their being enrolled, either furnish a certificate of having been successfully vaccinated, except in the event of their having had small-pox; or submit to be vaccinated by the Civil Surgeon; in the latter case, if the Civil Surgeon be not able to perform the operation at once, the recruit will be sent to him for the purpose on the first available opportunity, a memorandum being kept of all such recruits with a column showing the subsequent date of vaccination. Any member of the subordinate police service may be required to submit to re-vaccination when the Civil Surgeon of his district considers necessary. (The second clause will apply only to men enlisted or appointed after 18th July, 1930).

415. All recruits must possess the minimum physical qualifications.- All recruits must possess the minimum physical qualifications, be medically fit and of good character. In selecting candidates for enlistment, Superintendents of Police will accept those who are considered to be most suitable for Police Service. For the Civil Police, the candidate must have passed VIII class examination (Junior High School) or an equivalent examination recognized by Government for recruitment to the posts and services under Government and for the Armed Police the candidate must have passed VI Class examination or an equivalent examination recognized by Government. For both Civil and Armed Police, the candidates must also possess a working knowledge of Hindi. Any person including one of Nepalese origin, who is a citizen of India, shall be eligible for recruitment to the services and posts under the rule-making control of Governor. Provided that in the case of a person of Nepalese origin the orders of Inspector-General of Police must first be obtained before such a person is considered for recruitment. When reporting cases to be Inspector-General of Police full details duly verified as to caste, resident, etc. must be intimated along with reasons for recommending the case. Note.- The revised sub-paragraph shall be deemed to have come into effect from March 21, 1959. Full publicity as regards the time and place of selection and the qualifications required should be given through tahsils Schools, Colleges, Panchayats, etc. before recruitment is started by the Superintendent of Police."

19. Paragraph 409 of the Police Regulations provides that no one who is less than 18 or more than 23 years shall be enlisted but with relaxation of 5 years in case of candidate belonging to Scheduled Caste. Paragraph 410 deals with the certain preferences in regard to candidates having rendered some military services which is not relevant for the purposes of the present case. Paragraph 411 further provides that a recruit should have chest not less than 34 inches expanded with a minimum expansion of 2 inches and whose height is less than 5 feet 9 inches. This further contains certain exceptions to the extent that a recruit between 18 to 20 years of age showing signs of growing may be enlisted if his/ her height is less than 5 feet 5 inches and if his expanded chest is not less than 32 inches with a minimum expansion of 2 inches provided that the Civil Surgeon certified that he is under 20 years of age and that he is likely to attain standard measurement. There are certain other exceptions mentioned in Para 411 which are not relevant for the purposes of the present case.

20. Paragraph 412 which has got an important bearing in the present case provides that before a candidate for recruitment is sent to the Civil Surgeon, now Chief Medical Officer, for medical examination, his height and chest measurement must be accurately taken before the Reserve Inspector (R.I.). The candidate must be measured round his bare chest with his anus raised. This paragraph further envisages that no candidate was to be enlisted as recruit without a health certificate signed by the Civil Surgeon.

21. Paragraph 413 provides that a register of candidate for recruitment shall be maintained at the district level and the register so maintained shall be sent to the Civil Surgeon while referring the candidate for recruitment for physical measurement.

22. Undisputedly, on the date of physical measurement before the Reserve Inspector, the petitioner was of about 19 years of age in the age group of 18-20 years. In the writ petition the petitioner has specifically pleaded in Paragraphs 4 to 16 that when he was non-suited at the stage of physical fitness verification before the Reserve Inspector (R.I.) on the alleged ground of his expansion of chest being less than 1 cm from the prescribed measurement, he moved an application on 14.06.1994 itself before the then Superintendent of Police, Sitapur Sri Rajesh Pratap Singh, requesting for his physical measurement and verification by Chief Medical Officer, Sitapur in accordance with the provisions of Chapter-XXIX, Para 411(i)(a) of Police Regulations and when his request was not accepted and the petitioner was non-suited without being referred to Chief Medical Officer, Sitapur, then a representation was made by the petitioner before His Excellency, the Governor of U.P. and the Government order was issued requiring Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow for medical fitness measurement and, undisputedly, as per report submitted by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow chest of the petitioner was found more than the required measurement. In these paragraphs it has also specifically been mentioned that some hush money was being demanded and as the petitioner did not pay hush money, his case was not referred for physical measurement to the Chief Medical Officer, Sitapur in utter derogation to the prescription made in Para 411 of the Police Regulations.

23. It is submitted that the averments made in paragraphs 4 and 5 of the writ petition have not specifically been denied by the respondents while replying such paragraphs in Para 6 of the counter affidavit. It has nowhere been stated in the counter affidavit that any hush money was not demanded from the petitioner nor any reason has been stated in the counter affidavit to indicate as to why after physical measurement before the Reserve Inspector, the petitioner was not sent to the Chief Medical Officer as provided under Para 412 of the Police Regulations.

24. That being the situation if the State Government referred the petitioner for physical verification to the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow and there he was found fit, it cannot at all be said that the petitioner was not eligible. It is no body's case that except the chest measurement even at the stage of physical standard verification at the level of Reserve Inspector, the petitioner was short of any other eligibility criteria. The counter affidavit is also totally silent on non-eligibility of the petitioner except the chest measurement being found short by 1 cm which was found incorrect as per medical certification given by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow. Paragraphs 409 to 415 of the Police Regulations nowhere provide for any other eligibility and, needless to say, no other recruitment process stood statutorily prescribed for recruitment/enlistment as Constable.

In view of all these, it cannot be said at all that the petitioner lacked eligibility in any manner for the purpose of enlistment as a recruit for the post of Constable and accordingly for being sent to training. Not only this, the government order specifically granted relaxation to the petitioner and directed for his selection as Constable in the category of Sportsman of eminence and in the category of dependent of freedom fighters. Thus, it is altogether fallacious to plead that the petitioner was not eligible for appointment.

25. A perusal of the judgment dated 12.04.2005 passed in Writ Petition No. 4331 (S/S) of 2005 makes it abundantly clear that a positive finding has been recorded that directions were issued by the higher authorities but the appointing authority was biased with the petitioner and by ignoring the orders passed by the State Government, the petitioner has been harassed by the appointing authority. The judgment dated 12.04.2006 further reveals that the directions were issued for consideration of appointment of the petitioner as Constable in the light of the observations made in the judgment.

26. In view of the aforesaid provisions contained under the U.P. Police Regulations in regard to recruitment of Constables, it was imperative that after the physical measurement at the level of Reserve Inspector (R.I.), the recruits belonging to the age group of 18-20 years, were to be referred to the Chief Medical Officer of the concerned district which was not done despite a specific demand having been made by the petitioner in that regard. In these circumstances, when the petitioner approached the State Government and the orders were passed for physical measurements of the petitioner by Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow, no exception could be taken by a Police Officer supposed to work under the control and supervision of the State Government.

27. However, apart from what has been stated hereinabove, all this matter cannot be re-agitated in the present writ petition in the face of the terms of the judgment and order dated 12.04.2006 passed by this Hon'ble Court in Writ Petition No. 4331 (S/S) of 2005, wherein a positive finding has been remitted that numerous documents contained in the writ petition clearly indicate that the petitioner was recommended for appointment and training by the higher authorities but the appointing authority appears to be biased with the petitioner and that the petitioner was being subjected to harassment by the appointing authority. Otherwise also, neither the impugned order nor the counter affidavit alleges about the requirement of any other examination. It is also worth mentioning that while giving appointment as Constable in the year 2013, the petitioner has not been required to undergo any other examination and there is also no complaint about his efficient functioning as a member of Police Force.

28. It was the order dated 08.04.2005 which was impugned in the Writ Petition No. 4331 (S/S) of 2005 and the statement as made in the present writ petition for appointment of the petitioner as Constable could cause an outrage was nowhere taken as a ground for rejection of representation of the petitioner vide order dated 04.07.2005 which was set aside by this Court as aforesaid.

29. On behalf of the respondents as a last limb of argument it has been argued that the orders dated 15.06.1994, 17.06.1994. 28.06.1994, 27.11.1994 and 22.03.2003 as also the government order dated 21.05.2004 were forged and a First Information Report dated 18.01.2008 was lodged against the father of the petitioner Sri Ram Naresh Pandey who was a Section Officer in the Home (Police), Section-10 in U.P. Civil Secretariat during the period of issuance of the aforesaid Government orders.

30. Lastly, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon two judgments, which are as under :-

(i) Union of India & others Vs. Pritilata Nanda [(2010) 11 Supreme Court Cases 674]. Relevant paragraph-23.

(ii) Union of India Vs. Mohan Singh Rathore & another [(1996) 10 Supreme Court Cases 469]. Relevant paragraphs-7 and 33.

31. On the other hand, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel made statement that the government orders issued by the State Government, as referred above were cancelled, therefore, the benefit granted to the petitioner on the basis of aforesaid government orders is not available to the petitioner and has wrongly been granted by the authorities. He further submitted that in paragraph-4 of the supplementary counter affidavit, he has taken the entire ground of non-availability of the benefit of government order referred hereinabove. It is further submitted that the impugned order is just and valid and does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality.

He next submitted that Special Appeal (Defective) No.38 of 2008 has already been filed against the judgment and order dated 12.4.2006, passed in Writ Petition No.4331 (S/S) of 2005, which is still pending and has not been decided. On the basis of the said facts, he made his submission that till the matter is sub-judice before the High Court, no benefit can be granted to the petitioner.

32. In view of what has been submitted by learned counsel for the parties, ground taken in the impugned order as also in the counter affidavit, as raised during the course of argument on behalf of the respondents, are wholly unsustainable and deserve an outright rejection.

33. Learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon a judgment in the case of Union of India & others Vs. Pritilata Nanda (Supra), relevant paragraph-23 is being quoted below :-

"23. In the result, the appeal is dismissed. However, the operative part of the impugned order is modified in the following terms:

(1) The concerned competent authority of the South Eastern Railway shall, within a period of two weeks from today, issue order appointing the respondent on a Class III post. The appointment of the respondent shall be made effective from the date person placed at Sl. Nos.12 in the merit list was appointed. The pay of the respondent shall be notionally fixed with effect from that date and she shall be given actual monetary benefits with effect from 5.9.2008 i.e., the date specified in the order passed by the High Court.

(2) The pay of the respondent shall also be fixed in the revised pay scales introduced from time to time and she be paid arrears within a period of four months.

(3) The seniority of the respondent among Class III employees shall be fixed by placing her below the person who was placed at Sl. No.10 in the merit list.

(4) If during the intervening period, any person junior to the respondent has been promoted on the next higher post, then her candidature shall also be considered for promotion and on being found suitable, she shall be promoted with effect from the date any of her junior was promoted and she be given all consequential benefits.

(5) The General Manager, South Eastern Railway is directed to ensure that the respondent is not victimised by being posted in a remote area.

(6) Since the respondent has been deprived of her rights for almost 21 years, we direct the appellants to pay her cost of Rs.3,00,000/-. The amount of cost shall be paid within 2 months from today."

He also placed reliance upon the judgment in the case of Union of India Vs. Mohan Singh Rathore & another (Supra). Relevant paragraph-7 is being quoted below :-

"However, the question is: what would be the relief that could be granted to the respondent. It is seen that the State Government did not forward the "no deterioration certificate" in relation to the respondent and after the retirement of the respondent the State Government had written a letter to the Union of India on February 21, 1989 stating as he was "well deserving" candidate. Nothing had prevented the State Government to send the "no deterioration certificate" of the respondent along with certificates in relation to other candidates when he was due to retire. It is seen that they forwarded the select list on April 11, 1988 to the Government of India and the respondent was due to retire on May 31, 1988. When such was thee incumbency nothing would have prevented the State Government from forwarding the letter. Consequently, the respondent had to lose the chance for being appointed to the IPS Cadre though he was found suitable and approved by the UPSC. Under these circumstances, we think that appropriate direction would be that the Union of India may include his name in the appointment notification dated October 4, 1988 as a select list candidate and give him order of appointment letter. Consequently, the respondent would be entitled to all the retiremental benefits on that basis."

34. In the back-drop of the facts and circumstances of the case, it is more than apparent on the face of the record that the plea of all such government orders being forged one or being not genuine was never raised in the three round of litigation which took place between the parties before filing of the present writ petition, namely, Writ Petition No. 6143 of 2003 decided vide order dated 14.10.2003, Writ Petition No. 1423 (S/S) of 2005 decided vide judgment and order dated 21.02.2005 wherein government order dated 25.11.2004 cancelling the earlier Government order was set aside and the Writ petition No. 4331 (S/S) of 2005 decided vide judgment and order dated 12.04.2006. In none of these writ petitions the plea as raised during the course of arguments on behalf of the respondents was ever raised. Not only this, in the detailed counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondents, no such allegation in the present writ petition has also been made. Besides, such an allegation appears to be a subterfuge of avoiding the adherence of the government orders as also the terms of the judgment dated 12.04.2006 passed in Writ Petition No. 4331 (S/S) of 2005 and that too, after passing of a detailed order dated 20.12.2007 passed by this Court in exercise of the contempt jurisdiction in Criminal Miscellaneous Case No. 2633 (C) of 2006 as quoted hereinabove.

35. In the backdrop of what has been seen and discussed hereinabove, it is now apposite to see as to what relief should be granted to the petitioner, who has prayed for issuance of direction, as quoted hereinabove. In view of the submission advanced, the Court is of the opinion that there could be no doubt that non-enlistment of the petitioner as a recruit Constable in the year 1994 when the other recruits of the same recruitment were enlisted and sent for training as Constable is wholly illegal, arbitrary, capricious and malicious, more particularly, in view of the judgment dated 12.04.2006, passed in Writ Petition No.4331 (S/S) of 2005 and the judgment dated 21.02.2005, passed by this Court in Writ Petition No.1423 of 2005.

36. On due consideration of overall facts and circumstances of the case, the Court is of the view that the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and are liable to be set aside. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 25.07.2006 is hereby set aside.

37. In view of peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, respondents are directed to pay a cost of Rs.3,00,000/- (Rupees Three Lakhs Only) to the petitioner within three months from today. However, the petitioner be treated in service as Constable from the date from which the selectees of 1994 recruits of district Sitapur as Constable have been appointed as Constables with all consequential benefits of continuance in service, fixation of pay, seniority and promotion etc.

It is further provided that pay of the petitioner should be fixed, calculated and refixed on the basis of revised scale of pay as made from time to time. Consequent to fixation, calculation and re-fixation as aforesaid, the petitioner be paid arrears of salary w.e.f. 12.04.2006, the date of judgment of this Court in Writ Petition No.4331 (S/S) of 2005. The petitioner be also given promotions against the quota of promotion to the next higher posts from the date, the Constable recruited after 1994 have been promoted.

38. With the aforesaid observation and direction, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

A. Service law – Transfer – UP St. Electricity Reforms Transfer Scheme, 2000 – Clause 6 (10) – Transfers, general in nature – Executive Officers and and Executive Assistant in Purvanchal Electricity Distribution Cooperation Ltd. were transferred from one zone to another zone – Transfer order merely mentions the designation of the employees transferred and the name of offices from where they have been transferred to another zone – Legality challenged – Earlier Circular dated 11.09.2018, which did not permit transfer of an employee from one circle to another circle, was later on superseded vide circular dated 03.06.2019 and 22.07.2023 – Subsequent circulars were not challenged – Effect – Held, if the letter issued on 22.07.2023 enforcing the transfer policy 2019-2020 is not questioned then this Court cannot go into the question of legality of such transfer policy – It was not necessary for corporation to have framed any statutory rules or regulations and the corporation, therefore, could do so by way of issuing executive instructions. It is not the case of petitioners that in the previous establishment when it was known as U.P. St. Electricity Board the employees were not transferable, if the employees were transferable then within the DISCOM the distribution company, I see no justification to hold that transfers inter circle is bad. (Para 31, 35 and 39)

B. Constitution of India – Article 226 – Writ – Judicial Review – Transfer matter – Scope of interference – Held, scope of judicial review in matters of transfer is very Ltd. as the transfer has been held to be incident of service and those who are working on transferable post can of course, be transferred. (Para 42)

Writ disposed of. (E-1)

1. Heard Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Vikas

Upadhyay, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Vinay Bhushan Upadhyay, learned counsel for the petitioner in connected petition being Writ - A No.- 9702 of 2024, Sri Shivam Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner in connected petition being Writ - A No.- 10495 of 2024, Sri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel for the petitioner in connected petition being Writ - A No.- 10096 of 2024, Sri Abhishek Srivastava, learned counsel for the corporation, Sri Adarsh Bhushan, learned counsel for the Managing Director, Purvanchal Vidyut Nitaran Nigam Ltd. Varanasi and Sri Manoj Kumar Sriavastava, learned counsel for the Chief Engineer, Prayagraj.

2. In all these connected petitions different transfer orders have been challenged but more or less the grounds are the same for assailing the transfer orders. Hence all the petitions are being heard to be decided by a common judgment.

3. The petition being Writ – A No.- 10189 of 2024 is taken to be leading petition for reference purposes.

4. Petitioners before this Court in Writ – A No.- 10189 of 2024 are employees working in the Purvanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam, Ltd, a Distribution and Supply of the Electricity Company (DISCOM) with the headquarters at Varanasi.

5. The petitioners, who are 8 in numbers are aggrieved by the transfer order dated 28th June, 2024, whereby they have been transferred from their current place of posting to new zone falling in different districts named in the transferred order.

6. It is worth mentioning that petitioner No.- 1 Anupam Srivastava working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Prayagraj to Varanasi zone, petitioner No.- 2 Sanjay Kumar Pandey working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Prayagraj to Mirzapur zone, petitioner No.- 3 Ugrasen Singh working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Kaushambi to Varanasi zone, petitioner No.- 4 Nitin Narayan Srivastava working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Gorakhpur to Azamgarh zone, petitioner No.- 5 Abhishek Gupta working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Prayagraj to Varanasi zone, petitioner No.- 6 Hitesh Bhatnagar working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Prayagraj to Varanasi zone, petitioner No.- 7 Ranjeet Kumar Yadav working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Prayagraj to Varanasi zone and petitioner No.- 8 Ram Prakash working as Executive Assistant has been transferred from Azamgarh to Gorakhpur zone.

7. In writ petition being Writ – A No.- 9702 of 2024 petitioner Rahul Kumar working as Executive Officer has been transferred from Varanasi to Maharajganj, which is in Gorakhpur zone under the transfer order dated 28th June, 2024.

8. In writ petition being Writ – A No.- 10495 of 2024, petitioner Ganga Prasad Jaisawal working as Executive Officer has been transferred from Prayagraj to new allotted Circle/ EDC Fatehpur.

9. In writ petition being Writ – A No.0 10096 of 2024 the petitioner Arun Kumar Singh working as Executive Engineer has been transferred from District Supply Division Varanasi to the office of Chief Engineer Distribution, Basti Circle, Basti vide transfer order dated 21st June, 2024.

10. The orders of transfer have been challenged basically on three grounds:

(i). Transfer policy of the year 2019-2020 was an annual transfer policy which is no more in existence and merely by a circular letter issued on 22nd July, 2023, such a transfer policy cannot be re-enforced, nor such a circular letter can grant extension to an annual transfer policy of a particular year for subsequent years;

(ii). Transfer is one of the conditions of service and with U.P. Electricity Reforms Transfer Scheme, 2000 coming into force, the corporation was required to frame statutory rules, failing which the old U.P. State Electricity Board Rules will be applicable as the existing service conditions of the Board were to apply mutatis mutandis vide clause 6 (10) of the U.P. Electricity Reforms Transfer Scheme, 2000. Circular letter of the year 2023 having no statutory force cannot be put into service to transfer employees from one circle to another circle and the circular letter issued at the instance of Chairman on 11th September, 2018 only shall have a binding force and;

(iii). Without there being a DISCOM based general policy governing service conditions of its employees including their transfer and adjustments from one circle to another circle, the whimsical transfers are not based upon any administrative exigency or in public interest but for arbitrary exercise of power as many employees from one department got transferred to an inferior department loosing their seniority etc. which was acknowledged by the DISCOM itself in its letter dated 18th July, 2024 which has been brought on record as Annexure SA-2 to the supplementary affidavit.

11. Advancing his argument Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate has vehemently urged that these companies were formed in the year 2000 and the Corporation has remained idle in the matter qua framing of rules/ regulations and now when the administrative requirements and public interest has compelled them to make transfers of employees as it is alleged, may be for working at their home districts or at any place for substantially a very long period of time that the transfer orders got issued arbitrarily. He has argued that many employees going by their substantive date of appointment stood transferred to a place where in terms of substantive date of appointment junior persons are working on a higher posts, to their utter embarrassment.

12. Sri Trivedi has submitted that this raises administrative issues also because at times for non- availability of vacancies, an Executive Assistant is not promoted in a circle whereas in another circle a much junior due to availability of vacancy got promoted as Executive Officer and there is hardly any chemistry seen in the working of a senior person by virtue of a substantive appointment with a higher officer who is otherwise junior due to date of initial appointment.

13. In support of his argument Sri Trivedi has relied upon various provisions of the Scheme, 2000 and Regulation, 1970. He has submitted that seniority is circle-wise and it is also admitted in the circular letter issued dated 8th September, 2018 and there has been no quarrel about a fact that these transfers, may be for administrative compulsions/ public interest, from one circle to another circle within the DISCOM have not only resulted in serious unrest amongst the employees but has been prejudicial to the public interest as well.

14. Sri Trivedi has argued that ultimately DISCOM has to maintain supply/ distribution of electricity Board domestic and industrial, so smooth functioning of various circles and divisions in different zones have to be ensured to serve the public interest.

15. In the petition filed by Sri Rahul Kumar one more argument has been advanced that two officers got transferred at one place itself, namely Gorakhpur zone-II, ADC, Maharajganj.

16. One more argument has been advanced in the petition of Ganga Prasad Jaiswal that in effect status of an employee will change with the transfer of the employee and that employee will get new birth in a new circle or zone with the transfer and, therefore, he is liable to be placed at the bottom of seniority in that circle.

17. All the learned Advocates have adopted the arguments of Sri Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate in their respective petitions.

18. Meeting the argument Sri Abhishek Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for the corporation and Sri Adarsh Bhushan, learned counsel appearing for the Purvanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd. have submitted that once the corporation has ensured that seniority would stand protected in the cadre to which the employees belong, there cannot be any issue.

19. It is submitted that petitioners cannot deny that they are all working on transferable posts and their apprehension that if they would be transferred, they would be working under a junior person looking to the date of substantive appointment, is not substantiated by any pleadings raised in any of the writ petitions.

20. It has been argued by learned counsel for the corporation that the document that has been filed as Annexure – SA-2 itself clarifies that no employee would be transferred from one office to another office which is lower in order. Thus, an employee working in the office of Chief Engineer would be transferred to the office Chief Engineer and likewise the employee working in the office of superintending engineer, executive engineer will be transferred under the similar rank of officers. It is also argued that even if the argument is accepted that the seniority is prepared circle wise, then protection of seniority in that circle itself is an example of vigilant approach of corporation in ensuring that as and when the vacancy arises in that circle such an employee because of his transfer does not get prejudiced by losing any chance of promotion in his original circle or division, as the case may be.

21. It is argued that corrections that have taken place by virtue of the order dated 18th July, 2024 would go on to demonstrate that whenever any error comes to the knowledge of corporation any arbitrariness in the matter of transfer or where the employees' interest is seriously getting prejudiced, the matter would always be examined by the competent authority upon the representation being made. It is argued that on a mere apprehension a writ petition should not be entertained. The grounds raised to challenge the order or the argument so advanced must be substantiated by appropriate pleadings. It is argued that none of the petitioners has been able to aver in any of the paragraphs in any of the writ petitions, as to under which employee they are going to be junior or anyone of them is going to be junior.

22. It is submitted that officer of the same rank would be sitting in office where they are transferred and even though seniority stands protected in the original circle but the DISCOM will ensure that no discrimination is meted out in the treatment of the employees of another circle or division or zone, as the case may be after they join the transferred place.

23. On the question of policy of transfer it has been argued by Sri Srivastava as well as Sri Bhushan, learned Advocates appearing for the respective respondents that Managing Directors of the corporation are fully empowered to formulate policy and no statutory scheme is required to be floated. They have argued that it is a company now and, therefore, no statute is required to regulate its transfer policy. They have also urged that transfer being an incident of service depending upon the administrative exigencies and public interest, by administrative orders or circulars such policy of previous years can always be extended and enforced in subsequent years. They submit that there is no bar for an employee not to be transferred either under the previous Act prior to coming into force of Scheme, 2000 or even by virtue of any subsequent circulars or executive orders issued at the instance of the corporation.

24. It is vehemently urged by learned counsel for the respondents that U.P. Electricity Reforms Transfer Scheme, 2000 was brought into force to transform the erstwhile U.P. State Electricity Board into a power corporation for the purposes of distribution of power and supply of electricity. Thus, U.P. Power Corporation came into existence and five companies, namely, Purvanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd., Dakshinachal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd.,Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd., Pashchimanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd. and0 Kanpur Electricity Supply Company, came to be incorporated and registered under the Companies Act, 1956. It is argued that companies are always governed by its own by laws and standing orders and relations framed by it or adopted by it and there is no requirement of any statute to be passed by the State Legislature.

25. It is further submitted that the controversy in the above regard is no more res integra in view of the Division Bench judgement of this Court in the case of Rajeev Kumar Jauhari v. State of U.P. and others, 2007 (2) AWC 1726, wherein the U.P. Rajya Vidyut Utpadan Nigam Ltd. Absorption Regulation, 2006 were challenged and the Court very categorically held that with the transfer of statutory body to non statutory body like company registered under the Companies Act, 1956 in the present case would certainly deprive the employees of protection under the Statute and now the service conditions would stand governed under the ordinary law of contract.

26. It is thus argued that in terms of the contract law, it is always for the corporation to issue circulars to facilitate transfer of its employees from one place to another place in administrative exigencies and public interest. It is also submitted that in the cases in hand employees have been working for a number of years to say 5 to 10 years or more at one place and that is why the transfers have been effected.

27. Sri Manoj Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for the Executive Engineer/ Superintendent Engineer, Purvanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd., Varanasi has adopted the arguments advanced by Sri Abhishek Srivastava and Sri Adarsh Bhushan, learned counsel for the U.P. Power Corporation and Managing Director Eastern DISCOM.

28. Learned counsel for the respondents have also relied upon the judgment of a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Ashutosh Kumar Singh v. Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation and others in Writ – A No.- 11856 of 2022 and have heavily relied upon paragraphs 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 & 11 of the judgment which runs as under:

"(6) Learned counsel for the Respondents, on the other hand, have referred to the Regulations of 1970, which are still applicable to employees of the Corporation but subject to some Amendments/Modifications/ Clarifications as and when required. He has referred to the Definitions Clause and Regulations-3 (9) where Establishment has been defined as Ministerial Establishment in the office of the Chief Engineer and other Subordinate Offices under the Board. He has also referred to the sources of recruitment in the office of the Chief Engineer, in Circle Office and Divisional Office and he says that Office Assistant is the re-designation of the original Clerical post by the name of Routine Grade Clerk. All Routine Grade Clerks are directly recruited in various offices of the Chief Engineer, Circle offices, and the Divisional Offices but their seniority is maintained as per the date of their substantive appointment and when their promotions are due, the seniority of incumbents shall be determined from the date of their substantive appointment in their own class or cadre. The Cadre remaining the same and the seniority being determined only on the basis of date of substantive appointment, the petitioner shall not be affected adversely by being transferred to Maharajganj Circle.

(7) Learned counsel for the petitioner has pointed out that the letter sent by the Managing Director of U.P. Power Corporation Limited on 11.09.2018 shall be deemed to have been suppressed by the Transfer Policy dated 03.06.2019 issued by the Board of Directors of the Power Corporation Limited.

(8) Learned counsel for the Respondents has referred to Paragraph-3 (ii) of the Transfer Policy wherein the maximum tenure of Grade-III employees in a particular Office/Circle/ District is mentioned. It has been mentioned therein that such Clerical staff shall be allowed to function for a maximum period of three years on one Office table and for a maximum period of six years in such office and that they shall be transferred to some other Tehsil in the same District after six years. The maximum period of posting in one District shall be 10 years, thereafter the incumbent shall be transferred to the Adjoining/Nearby District. In the case of the petitioner he has been working in Gorakhpur for the past more than ten years with effect from 2011 to 2022 and he has been transferred to the adjoining District of Mahanagar. It has also been mentioned that in the said Paragraph-3 (ii) of the Transfer Policy that on transfer, such Clerical staff shall not be affected in terms of their seniority which shall be maintained as per the lien they exercise in their original office.

(9) This Court has considered the interim order granted in Writ-A No.16454 of 2019 as aforesaid where learned Senior counsel for the petitioners had argued that the appointments for each class of posts is made at three distinct levels i.e. the Office of the Chief Engineer, Circle Office and Divisional Office and employees from one unit if they are transferred to another unit, would stand to loose their seniority and shall be adversely affected in their chances of promotion. It was also argued by the learned counsel for the petitioners therein that the Rules have not been amended and therefore, it would not be open for the employees of one Division/Circle to be transferred to another Division/Circle, as their seniority and chances of promotion would be justified.

(10) Such arguments were made by the learned Senior counsel only on the basis of Regulations and the interim order was passed at a time when there were no instructions received from the Corporation, at the stage of admission of the writ petition. Such benefit of interim order as prayed for by the learned counsel for the petitioner can be given to him in terms of judgments of the Supreme Court in the case of Vishnu Traders Vs. State of Haryana reported in 1995 (Supp 1) SCC 461. However, if a writ petition is being decided finally an interim order cannot be treated as binding. Now that instructions have been received from the Corporation and arguments have been made by the learned counsel for the Respondents on the basis of very Regulations that were relied upon at the time of passing of the interim order dated 05.12.2019, the matter can be decided by this Court.

(11) This Court finds that the Regulations of 1970 were made applicable to the employees of the Power Corporation subject to Clarification/ Modification etc. as required on conversion of the Board to a Government Company. The Power Corporation is now governed by the Board of Directors which has issued a transfer policy wherein taking into account the fact that the Clerical employees have been posted in a Circle Office/Divisional offices for long periods of time and they needed to be transferred a provision has been made that they shall be transferred to the adjoining and nearby places without affecting their seniority. Even otherwise as per the Regulation of the 1970, seniority is maintained as per the Cadre and Establishment is defined under the Regulations itself."

29. It is argued that the coordinate Bench having upheld the transfer policy issued by the Board of Directors, same would amount to a binding judicial precedent for another coordinate Bench. However, it is submitted that they are not averse to an order being passed for consideration of representations of different petitioners, if they make or have already made.

30. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

31. Looking to the transfer order as for instance in the leading petition I find that these transfers are general in nature as by one common order dated 28th June, 2004 a large number of employees have been transferred from one zone to another zone. The petitioners have been transferred like for instance from Azamgarh zone to Varanasi zone or from Prayagraj zone to Varanasi zone and likewise. The transfer order mentions the designation of the employees transferred and the name of offices from where they have been transferred to another zone.

32. It is not specified in the order that they are being transferred to report in a particular office. They have to report to the zonal headquarter from there they will be assigned duty for a particular department or a circle or division obviously as Sri Srivastava has submitted that in accordance with the letter dated 18th July, 2024 brought on record by means of supplementary affidavit.

33. From the order of transfer it cannot be inferred that petitioners have been transferred to a post and under the officers, who are junior to them, nor there is any specific pleadings raised in any of the paragraphs of the petition. The pleadings are basically indicative of violation of clause 6 (10) of the U.P. State Electricity Reforms Transfer Scheme, 2000 and the Regulation, 1970. The details as have been given vide paragraphs 8 to 15 of the petitioner only demonstrate to the extent that these employees were appointed in a particular year and have been discharging their duties as such. I, therefore, find substance in the submission advanced by learned counsel for the respondents that pleadings are lacking to substantiate the grounds and the arguments advanced that petitioners' seniority are going to be compromised if transfer orders are sustained.

34. Reliance has been placed upon the circular dated 11th September, 2018 to show that employees cannot be transferred from one circle to another circle and this circular, according to Mr. Trivedi, is still in force. This argument of Mr. Trivedi, if accepted, it will run counter to two of his own arguments: firstly, that the transfer policy 2020 would not be enforced and carried forward by any executive instructions or circular unless and until a new policy is enforced; and secondly, if there is no statutory transfer policy or statutory circular which can be given effect to in view of the relevant regulations in the Scheme 2000 then the circular dated 11th November, 2018 could be relied upon.

35. It is an admitted position on record that circular letter dated 11th September, 2018 stood superseded by the circular letter dated 3rd June, 2019 and then by another circular letter dated 22nd July, 2023. The petitioners cannot argue that circular letters or instructions issued on behalf of the corporation would not have any binding force in view of the scheme of 2000 and no circular letter can enforce a previous transfer policy while at the same time rely upon the similar circular letter 2018 which also does not have any statutory force. However, it is also worth noticing that none of the circular letters are challenged in this petition and in the connected petitions. If the letter issued on 22nd July, 2023 enforcing the transfer policy 2019-2020 is not questioned then this Court cannot go into the question of legality of such transfer policy, more specially in the circumstances when a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Ashutosh Kumar Singh (supra) had upheld the transfer policy. Vide paragraph 11 of the judgment the Court had held thus:

"(11) This Court finds that the Regulations of 1970 were made applicable to the employees of the Power Corporation subject to Clarification/ Modification etc. as required on conversion of the Board to a Government Company. The Power Corporation is now governed by the Board of Directors which has issued a transfer policy wherein taking into account the fact that the Clerical employees have been posted in a Circle Office/Divisional offices for long periods of time and they needed to be transferred a provision has been made that they shall be transferred to the adjoining and nearby places without affecting their seniority. Even otherwise as per the Regulation of the 1970, seniority is maintained as per the Cadre and Establishment is defined under the Regulations itself."

36. Besides above, in view of the Division Bench judgment of this Court upholding the Scheme, 2000 and directing that there was no requirement for the company registered under Companies Act, 1956 to have any statutory regulations, every instructions issued on administrative side by a competent authority in its behalf shall have a binding force. It is a contract of employment now between the employees of the corporation and corporation registered under the Companies Act, 1956 and, therefore, corporation is well within its right to issue necessary executive instructions to govern the day to day transfer or otherwise annual transfers. The Division Bench of this Court vide paragraph 32 in the case of Rajeev Kumar Jauhari (supra) had held thus:

"32. Sri Khare lastly sought to argue that Section 23(7) of the Reforms Act, 1999 read with Clause 3 (10) of the Transfer Scheme, 2000 use the word 'Regulation' and therefore, UPRVUNL can only change the condition of service by framing statutory Regulations and not the Regulations, which are non statutory In our view, this submission is to be noted for rejection only. UPRVUNL is not a statutory body, but a Company registered under the Companies Act. It is not disputed that the employment and contract of the petitioners which was earlier with a statutory autonomous body, namely, UPSEB, stood transferred to UPRVUNL and now it is UPRVUNL, who is empowered to determine the conditions of service of its employees. The manner in which such provision can be made would be governed by the Article of Association of such Company and when the Company itself is not statutory, to expect such company to frame statutory Regulations for governing its employees is wholly untenable. The effect of transfer of service from statutory body to a non statutory bod), namely, a company registered under the Company Act, would deprive the statutory protection available to the employees and now the matter would be governed by ordinary law of contract. Normally, the transfer of contract involves the consent of the employees also, but in the present case, the petitioner's contract has been transferred to UPRVUNL by statute itself and, therefore, the employees have no role and their consent is not required. The only rider on the power of transferee employer is that the service condition whenever changed would not be less beneficial and will not deprive past benefits accrued to the transferred employees before transfer, that is, to the extent provided under Section 23(7) of the Reforms Act, 1999. The protection under Section 23(7) neither continue the status of the transferred employee with the new companies as statutory nor otherwise has any other role except to prevent employer from exercising its ordinary powers available in Common Law, which would be contrary to the protection given under Section 23(7) of the Reforms Act, 1999. For all other purposes, the transferee company is free to formulate its policies and enter into contract or lay down terms and conditions of its employees in the manner, it find best suited for the efficient functioning of the company. Merely for the reason that the State Government is 100% share holder of the company does not identify the company itself with the State Government. In Shrikant v. Vasant Rao , the Court held in para 24 that in the matter of a company where the entire share capital is held by the State Government, yet it cannot be identified with the State Government and is always entitled to act and proceed in a manner a company function. This principle was recognized as long back as in 1970 also by a Constitution Bench in R.C. Cooper v. Union of India , and at page 584, the Apex Court held- "A company registered under the Companies Act is a legal person, separate and distinct from its individual members. Property of the Company is not the property of the shareholders. A shareholder has merely an interest in the Company arising under its Article of Association measured by a sum of money for the purpose of liability, and by a share in the profit."

37. Now testing the arguments of Mr. Trivedi on the touchstone of clause 6(10) of the U.P. State Electricity Reforms Transfer Scheme, 2000, I find that the object behind the enforcement of the Scheme, 2000 was transformation of U.P. State Electricity Board into a power corporation and likewise transfer of property, assets, rights and liabilities of the State Government as a consequence of transfer of vesting or re-vesting of the properties. It is as a sequel to that objective that the scheme was provided and titled as transfer scheme. In no manner it can be taken as a scheme for transferring employees within the corporation or within the company. Transfer is just an incident of service which can be done in administrative exigency or in public interest by the authorities vested with the power to do so. The word 'Transferee' that has come to be referred to in paragraph 6(10) means that corporation shall frame regulations governing the conditions of service of persons.

38. Employees in the present case earlier were employees of the U.P. State Electricity Board which was State own board and with the floating of the Scheme, 2000 they stood transferred to the company. It is in that context that it was provided that the transferee company shall frame regulations. Now the transferee company since did not frame regulations then as per clause 6(10) the existing service condition of the board were made to apply mutatis mutandis. The relevant provision of clause 6(9) (10) & (11) of the Scheme, 2000 floated by virtue of U.P. State Electricity Reforms Transfer Scheme, 2000 is reproduced hereunder:

"6(9). The transfer of personnel to the Transferee shall be subject to any orders that may be passed by the courts or Tribunals in any of the proceedings pending on the date of the transfer.

(10). Subject to the provisions of the Act and this Scheme, the Transferee shall frame regulations governing the conditions of service of personnel transferred to the transferee under this Scheme and till such time, the existing service conditions of the Board shall mutatis mutandis apply.

(11). In respect of all statutory and other schemes and employment related matters including the provident fund, gratuity fund, person and any other superannuation fund or any other special fund created or existing for the benefit of the personnel, the relevant Transferee shall stand substituted for the Board for all purposes and all the rights, powers and obligations of the Board in relation to any and all such matters shall become those of the Transferee concerned and the services of the personnel shall be treated as having been continuous for the purpose of the application of this sub-clause.

39. In view of the above Division Bench judgment, it was not necessary for corporation to have framed any statutory rules or regulations and the corporation, therefore, could do so by way of issuing executive instructions. It is not the case of petitioners that in the previous establishment when it was known as U.P. State Electricity Board the employees were not transferable, if the employees were transferable then within the DISCOM the distribution company, I see no justification to hold that transfers inter circle is bad.

40. In the case of SK Nausad Rahaman & others v. Union of India and others (2022) 12 SCC 1, Supreme Court has observed that executive instructions embodied in the office memorandum issued by the department would have binding force unless and until they are violative of any statutory rules concerning the subject matter. The Court has held that it is only in the event of a conflict between the executive instructions and the rules that the rules would prevail, otherwise the executive instructions will have the same force as of a statutory rule. Since the Division Bench of this Court has already held that the service rules of employee of corporation would stand governed under the contract of law and there are no regulations framed governing the transfer of the employees of the corporation within the DISCOM or even otherwise, the executive instructions issued from time to time by the corporation will have a binding force.

41. It has been repeatedly held by this Court and Supreme Court as well that transfer is an incident of service. A transfer order cannot be taken to have varied conditions of service to the disadvantage of employee. In the case of B. Varadha Rao v. State of Karnataka and others (1986) 4 SCC 131, the Supreme Court referring to an earlier judgment had observed that "The observation that transfer is also an implied condition of service is just an observation in passing. It certainly cannot be relied upon in support of the contention that an order of transfer ipso facto varies to the disadvantage of a government servant, any of his conditions of service making the impugned order appealable under Rule 19(1)(a) of the Rules."

42. Even otherwise the scope of judicial review in matters of transfer is very limited as the transfer has been held to be incident of service and those who are working on transferable post can of course, be transferred. In the case of Abani Kanta Ray v. State of Orissa and others, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 169, Supreme Court has observed that "a court would not ordinarily interfere with the order of transfer unless and until it is found to be arbitrary and vitiated by mala fides or there is infraction of any professed norm or principle governing the transfer". This view has been taken by Supreme Court relying upon its earlier judgment in the case of N.K. Singh v. Union of India (1994) 6 SCC 98.

43. In the case of Shilpi Bose (Mrs) and others v. State of Bihar and others, 1991 Supp (2) SCC 659, the Court while setting aside the order of Patna High Court which had allowed the petition of certain displaced persons on account of transfer being effected, held that except in the event of violation of any statutory rule or mala fides, Court should not interfere with the transfer order made in public interest or for administrative reasons. Vide paragraph 4 the Court has held thus:

"4. In our opinion, the Courts should not interfere with a transfer Order which are made in public interest and for administrative reasons unless the transfer Orders are made in violation of any mandatory statutory Rule or on the ground of malafide. A Government servant holding a transferable post has no vested right to remain posted at one place or the other, he is liable to be transferred from one place to the other. Transfer Orders issued by the competent authority do not violate any of his legal rights. Even if a transfer Order is passed in violation of executive instructions or Orders, the Courts ordinarily should not interfere with the Order instead affected party should approach the higher authorities in the Department. If the Courts continue to interfere with day-to-day transfer Orders issued by the Government and its subordinate authorities, there will be complete chaos in the Administration which would not be conducive to public interest. The High Court over looked these aspects in interfering with the transfer Orders."

44. Recently in the case of SK. Nausad Rahaman and others v. Union of India and others (2022) 12 SCC 1, Supreme Court has held that the transfer being an incident of service no employee who is working on a transferable post cannot have a fundamental right or vested right to claim a particular place or station or posting of choice. The Court relied upon its earlier judgment in the case of Union of India v. S.L. Abbas (1993) 4 SCC 357, wherein vide paragraph 7 the Court has held thus:

"Who should be transferred where, is a matter for the appropriate authority to decide. Unless the order of transfer is vitiated by mala fides or is made in violation of any statutory provisions, the Court cannot interfere with it. While ordering the transfer, there is no doubt, the authority must keep in mind the guidelines issued by the Government on the subject. Similarly, if a person makes any representation with respect to his transfer, the appropriate authority must consider the same having regard to the exigencies of administration. The guidelines say that as far as possible, husband and the wife must be posted at the same place. The said guideline, however does not confer upon the government employee a legally enforceable right."

45. I may hasten to add here that transfer though is permissible within the distribution company but in no circumstances, seniority of employees should be compromised nor, the employees can be directed to be posted in an inferior office to the one they have been serving at, from where they are sought to be transferred. Thus, if an employee is working in the office of Chief Engineer, he should be transferred in the office of Chief Engineer. Likewise employees working in the office of Superintendent Engineer or Executive Engineer should be transferred to the office of Superintendent Engineer or Executive Engineer only.

46. While it is true that promotions are made unit wise like for instance office of Chief Engineer, Circle and Division as per the availability of vacancy and the feeding cadre for certain posts can be inter-circle or inter-division but this cannot be said to be a good ground to quash the transfer order merely because an employee has been transferred to a place where a higher officer in rank was junior in terms of length of service to the transferred employee while he was in his cadre. A person higher in rank will remain higher in rank because he/ she is promoted in a particular circle for availability of posts and fulfilling eligibility criterion whereas an employee working in another circle in the same cadre may not have been promoted for want of vacancy even though his length of service more in number of years.

47. I may also observe that interim order relied upon by Mr. Trivedi in the matter of Rajeev Mishra and 19 others has been rightly distinguished by a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Ashutosh Kumar Singh (supra) and, therefore, in my considered view, it is of no help to the petitioners.

48. So far as the arguments advanced that two persons have been given posting at one place like both the persons have stood transferred to Maharajganj Division or Azamgarh Division, suffice it to observe that every zone has a large number of divisions and unless and until pleadings are there to the effect that posts are not existing, such arguments are not acceptable and, therefore, deserves rejection.

49. These all petitions are since lacking in pleadings as to the grounds raised and the argument advanced that they would become junior to the officers of their own cadre, no presumption can be raised that the transfer orders are in any manner going to prejudice them in the event they go and join at their respective transferred places. Hence, I decline to interfere with the transfer orders challenged in all these petitions.

50. All the petitioners have already been relieved so they first go and report their joining to the place of transfer and if they have still their grievance, liberty is granted to them to make representation before the competent authority within two weeks of their joining and once any such representation is made by any of the petitioners or by all the petitioners before the competent authority then such representations should be disposed of within a further period of two weeks.

51. U.P. Power Corporation as well as the different DISCOMs will have to ensure that no employee upon transfer from one place to another place is made junior to an employee of his cadre. I may here again refer to paragraph 6 of the judgment in the case of Ashutosh Kumar Singh (supra), wherein it was observed thus:

"(6) Learned counsel for the Respondents, on the other hand, have referred to the Regulations of 1970, which are still applicable to employees of the Corporation but subject to some Amendments/Modifications/ Clarifications as and when required. He has referred to the Definitions Clause and Regulations-3 (9) where Establishment has been defined as Ministerial Establishment in the office of the Chief Engineer and other Subordinate Offices under the Board. He has also referred to the sources of recruitment in the office of the Chief Engineer, in Circle Office and Divisional Office and he says that Office Assistant is the re-designation of the original Clerical post by the name of Routine Grade Clerk. All Routine Grade Clerks are directly recruited in various offices of the Chief Engineer, Circle offices, and the Divisional Offices but their seniority is maintained as per the date of their substantive appointment and when their promotions are due, the seniority of incumbents shall be determined from the date of their substantive appointment in their own class or cadre. The Cadre remaining the same and the seniority being determined only on the basis of date of substantive appointment, the petitioner shall not be affected adversely by being transferred to Maharajganj Circle."

52. Before parting with the case, I may observe here that once the distribution company, say for instance as in the instant case, namely Purvanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam Ltd., if transferring its employees from one circle to another circle, from one zone to another zone and from one division to another division then it should also have a general recruitment policy and a DISCOM based seniority list. Appropriate regulation should be framed by U.P. Corporation to create a DISCOM based cadre, whether of Chief Engineer, Superintendent Engineer, Executive Engineer or clerical cadre. This will not only remove the discontent amongst the employees but will also not give chance to any apprehension of a person getting junior to another person working in higher rank but junior in length of service. It will also facilitate the adjustment of the persons against the existing vacancies and will make the transfer more convenient and acceptable to the employees.

53. It is expected that the U.P. Power Corporation will frame necessary regulations to create a DISCOM based cadre strength of its employees and seniority. It is better that it is done at the earliest.

54. With these above observations and directions, these petitions stand disposed of.

Order On Impleadment Application No. 02 of 2024.

1. पक्षकार बनने के प्रार्थना में कहा गया है कि प्रार्थी संख्या 1 वर्ष 2021 से 2022 तक विद्यालय का संचालन करने वाली समिति का सचिव था तथा प्रार्थी संख्या 2 व 3 समिति की साधारण सभा के सदस्य है तथा इस कारण से प्रार्थीगण इस प्रकरण में आवश्यक पक्षकार है। पक्षकार बनने के समर्थन में विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री के०एस० कुशवाहा ने प्रबंध समिति, जनता इंटर कॉलेज व अन्य बनाम बनाम उ०प्र० राज्य व दो अन्य (2017 (8) AD) 473) का आश्रय लिया, जिसमें कहा गया कि संस्था की साधारण सभा के सदस्य को प्रबंध समिति अथवा साधिकार नियंत्रक की अकर्मण्यता के कारण प्रतिकूल रूप से प्रभावित होने नहीं दिया जा सकता, क्योंकि इससे संस्था में शिक्षा की गुणवत्ता प्रभावित होगी।

2. जनता इंटर कॉलेज के उपरोक्त प्रकरण में विद्यालय की प्रबंध समिति को अवक्रमित करके साधिकार नियंत्रक नियुक्त कर दिया गया था तथा इस तथ्यात्मक परिप्रेक्ष्य में न्यायालय ने उपरोक्त टिप्पणी करते हुए भी यह अवधारित नहीं किया था कि संस्था के समस्त सदस्य रिट याचिका में आवश्यक पक्षकार होंगे। जनता इंटर कॉलेज के निर्णय में न्यायालय ने यह भी अवधारित किया कि प्रबंध समिति की एक

वैधानिक पृष्ठभूमि है तथा साधारण सभा के सदस्यों के संबंध में यह नहीं कहा जा सकता कि वह संस्था के प्रबंध समिति से असबंद्ध व्यक्ति है। इस आधार पर ऐसा कोई नियम नहीं माना जा सकता है कि साधारण सभा के सदस्य इस न्यायालय में रिट याचिका प्रस्तुत नहीं कर सकते है।

3. माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय की उपरोक्त टिप्पणी संस्था के प्रबंधन विवाद के संबंध में की थी तथा यह कहा था कि ऐसे विवादों में साधारण सभा के सदस्य इस न्यायालय में रिट याचिका योजित कर सकते है। प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में प्रबंधन से संबंधित कोई विवाद नहीं है तथा इस कारण से मात्र संस्था के साधारण सभा के सदस्य होने तथा भूतपूर्व सचिव होने के कारण प्रार्थीगण आवश्यक पक्षकार नहीं बन जाते है। श्री कुशवाहा ने एक अन्य निर्णय सलाउद्दीन बनाम उ०प्र० राज्य व 5 अन्य (विशेष अपील संख्या 266 सन 2015. Neutral Citation No. 2015:AHC:62538-DB) में पारित निर्णय दिनांक 01.05.2015 का आश्रय लिया, जिसमें शिकायतकर्ता ने अपने ही छोटे भाई के सहायक अध्यापक के पद पर नियुक्ति की वैधता को चुनौती देते हुए एक शिकायत प्रस्तुत की थी तथा उक्त शिकायत पर जांच किये जाने के अनुरोध के साथ एक रिट याचिका प्रस्तुत की थी। इस न्यायालय की एकल पीठ ने रिट याचिका यह कहते हुए निरस्त कर दी कि यह याचिका भाइयों में निजी विवादों से प्रेरित होकर प्रस्तुत की गयी थी, इसलिए पोषणीय नहीं है। विशेष अपील में एकल पीठ के निर्णय को अपास्त करते हुए इस न्यायालय की खण्डपीठ ने कहा कि अपीलार्थी की शिकायत पर विपक्षी के विरूद्ध कार्यवाही संस्थित हुई थी, जबकि शिकायत के तथ्य न्यायालय के समक्ष रखे जा चुके थे, न्यायालय को उसकी तरफ ध्यान अवश्य देना चाहिए था, क्योंकि शिकायत एक लोकपद के संबंध में थी, जिसमें लोकधन का व्यय सम्मिलित है।

4. प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में ऐसा नहीं है कि न्यायालय शिकायत के आधार पर हुई कार्यवाही का परीक्षण नहीं कर रहा है और राज्य सरकार तथा मदरसा शिक्षा परिषद के साथ ही मदरसे की प्रबंध समिति भी याचिका का विरोध करने को तत्पर है। ऐसी परिस्थिति में शिकायतकर्ता तथा प्रबंध समिति के सदस्य व भूतपूर्व सचिव इस याचिका में आवश्यक पक्षकार नहीं है, क्योंकि ऐसा नहीं है कि उनकी अनुपस्थिति में याचिका का निर्णय संभव नहीं है।

5. तद्नुसार, पक्षकार बनने का प्रार्थना पत्र निरस्त किया जाता है।

Order On Impleadment Application No. 03 of 2024.

1. सैफीउल्लाह खान के द्वारा प्रस्तुत पक्षकार बनने के प्रार्थना पत्र पर श्री श्री प्रकाश उपाध्याय को सुना।

2. श्री सैफीउल्लाह खान द्वारा प्रार्थना पत्र के साथ प्रस्तुत शपथ पत्र में मात्र इतना कहा गया है कि वे इस प्रकरण में आवश्यक पक्षकार है तथा वे किसी प्रकार आवश्यक पक्षकार है, इस संबंध में न ही कोई कथन किया और न ही कोई तर्क किया है।

3. तद्नुसार, पक्षकार बनने का प्रार्थना पत्र निरस्त किया जाता है।

Order On Writ Petition.

1. भारतीय संविधान के अनुच्छेद 226 के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत इस रिट याचिका के द्वारा याचिकाकर्ता ने निरीक्षक/निबंधक, मदरसा शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा पारित कार्यालय आदेश दिनांक 10.06.2024 की वैधता को चुनौती दी है, जिसके द्वारा याचिकाकर्ता की आलिया (सहायक अध्यापक) पद पर दिनांक 01.08.1995 को हुई नियुक्ति को अनियमित / अविधिक / अमान्य घोषित कर दिया है तथा दिनांक 01.03.2024 को याचिकाकर्ता को प्रधानाचार्य के पद पर कार्य करने के लिए प्रदान की गयी वित्तीय सहमति को भी तत्काल प्रभाव से वापस ले लिया गया है।

2. दिनांक 01.07.1995 को आलिया (सहायक अध्यापक) के पद के लिए एक विज्ञप्ति प्रकाशित हुई, जिसके आधार पर याचिकाकर्ता को दिनांक 25.07.1995 को नियुक्ति प्रदान की गयी। याचिकाकर्ता ने दिनांक 01.08.1995 को सेवा में योगदान दिया तथा दिनांक 09.09.1995 को निरीक्षक ने याचिकाकर्ता के नियुक्ति को अनुमोदन प्रदान कर दिया। लगभग 28 वर्ष की सेवा पूर्ण करने के उपरांत याचिकाकर्ता को कार्यवाहक प्रधानाचार्य के रूप में दिनांक 22.09.2024 को नियुक्ति किया गया तथा दिनांक 01.03.2024 निबंधक / निरीक्षक ने कार्यवाहक प्रधानाचार्य के रूप में याचिकाकर्ता की नियुक्ति का अनुमोदन किया। माह मई 2024 में यह कहते हुए याचिकाकर्ता के विरूद्ध शिकायत की गयी कि उसने वर्ष 1993 में फ़ाज़िल की कक्षा में संस्थागत विद्यार्थी के रूप में जनपद आजमगढ़ में रहकर अध्ययन कार्य किया है, जबकि उसी अविधि में उनके द्वारा जनपद मीरजापुर में वर्ष 1992 से 1994 तक फ़ौकानिया की कक्षाओं में शिक्षण कार्य किया गया है।

3. याचिकाकर्ता ने दिनांक 24.05.2024 को अपना स्पष्टीकरण निबंधक/निरीक्षक, उ०प्र० मदरसा शिक्षा परिषद को दिया, जिसमें उसने कहा कि वर्ष 1992 से 1994 में फ़ाज़िल परीक्षा में सम्मिलित होने हेतु सिर्फ 90 दिवस की उपस्थिति का प्राविधान था। उक्त अवधि में मीरजापुर में सहायक अध्यापक फ़ौकानिया में शिक्षण कार्य करते हुए बीच-बीच में अवकाश लेकर वाछिंत दिवस की उपस्थिति से ज्यादा दिवस की

उपस्थिति के साथ उसने फ़ाज़िल का अध्ययन कर लिया तथा परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण कर ली। याचिकाकर्ता ने यह भी कहा कि उसकी परीक्षा परिणाम को निरस्त या अमान्य नहीं घोषित किया गया है तथा बुद्धिनाथ चौधरी व अन्य बनाम अबाही कुमार व अन्य (2001 (3) एस.एस.सी. सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसेज 328) के निर्णय में अवधारित किया गया है कि लंबी अवधि के पश्चात् किसी कर्मचारी के अनुभव प्रमाण पत्र में त्रुटि के कारण, उसकी नियुक्ति निरस्त नहीं की जा सकती है। प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में भी याचिकाकर्ता के विरूद्ध लगभग 31 वर्षों की सेवा के बाद आपत्ति उठायी गयी, जिसका कोई औचित्य नहीं है।

4. दिनांक 10.06.2024 को पारित आलोच्य आदेश द्वारा उ०प्र० मदरसा शिक्षा परिषक के निरीक्षक/निबंधक ने याचिकाकर्ता के स्पष्टीकरण को अस्वीकार करते हुए एक नया आधार जोड़ते हुए उसकी नियुक्ति को अमान्य घोषित किया कि उक्त मदरसा की प्रबंध समिति को विवादित मानकर दिनांक 26.03.1990 को इस न्यायालय ने प्रकरण को सक्षम अधिकारी को संदर्भित कर दिया था तथा तत्समय मदरसे में वैध प्रबंध समिति नहीं थी। आलोच्य आदेश में याचिकाकर्ता की नियुक्ति को निरस्त किये जाने को कहा गया उपरोक्त आधार, याचिकाकर्ता को पहले से सूचित नहीं किया गया था तथा । एक ही अवधि में फौकानिया की पढ़ाई तथा शिक्षण कार्य अलग-अलग जनपदों में करने के बारे में याचिकाकर्ता द्वारा दिया गया स्पष्टीकरण, कि उक्त पाठ्यक्रम के लिए मात्र 90 दिवस की उपस्थिति अनिवार्य थी, जो उपस्थिति उसने शिक्षण कार्य से अवकाश लेकर पूरी कर ली थी, को निरीक्षक/निबंधक ने अपने आदेश में अंकित नहीं किया है तथा इस पर अपना कोई मत व्यक्त नहीं किया है।

5. उपरोक्त आधारों से यह स्पष्ट है कि आलोच्य आदेश दिनांक 10.06.2024 याचिकाकर्ता को सुनवाई का समुचित अवसर दिये बिना तथा उसके स्पष्टीकरण को ध्यान में रखते हुए उस पर कोई कारण दिये बिना पारित किया गया है तथा इसके कारण से यह आदेश विधि में संधार्य नहीं है।

6. उक्त समीक्षा के आलोच्य में रिट याचिका स्वीकार की जाती है। निरीक्षक /निबंधक, उ०प्र० मदरसा शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा पारित आलोच्य आदेश दिनांक 10.06.2024, जिसके द्वारा याचिकाकर्ता की वर्ष 1995 में हुई आलिया के पद पर नियुक्ति तथा वर्ष 2024 में प्रधानाचार्य के पद पर नियुक्ति को निरस्त कर दिया गया है, को अपास्त किया जाता है। याचिकाकर्ता को आलोच्य आदेश के अपास्त करने के परिणामस्वरूप याचिकाकर्ता को निरतंर सेवा में माना जाएगा तथा उसके आधार पर उसे

देय समस्त लाभ यथा वेतन आदि नियमानुसार प्रदान किये जाएंगे।

7. निरीक्षक/निबंधक, उ०प्र० मदरसा शिक्षा परिषद, याचिकाकर्ता को सुनवाई का समुचित अवसर देते हुए उसके विरूद्ध पुनः कार्यवाही संस्थित करने को स्वंतंत्र होंगे।

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Girish Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Ravindra Singh, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. Petitioner Surendra Nath Pandey, worked as a Seasonal Clerk with the 4th respondent continuously ever since his initial appointment made in the year 1990 until he attained the age of superannuation on 31.08.2009.

3. In the present petition, petitioner is aggrieved by the order passed by the disciplinary authority, namely, the Secretary of District Cane Services Authority, Kushinagar dated 31.01.2015 whereunder he has been held guilty of loss to the society for his alleged misconduct, embezzlement and resistant and further not to count the period he has been under suspension towards his post retirement dues. Petitioner is also aggrieved by the order passed by the Regional Cane Services Authority/ Deputy Cane Commissioner, Deoria.

4. The submission advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that petitioner being a Seasonal employee of the society and having continuously worked as Seasonal Clerk is entitled to post retirement dues admissible to such employees under the U.P. Cooperative Societies Services Regulation, 1975. He has placed reliance upon the relevant Regulations 27 and 28 of the Service Regulations in support of his argument that if the disciplinary proceedings drawn in respect of Seasonal Clerks are not concluded in the same season, then such proceedings would be taken to have been dropped. He argues that once the proceedings are deemed to be dropped under the relevant Regulations, the respondent could not have reopened the issue after five years of his retirement.

5. Briefly stated facts of the case are that petitioner was placed under suspension on 09.10.1999 on the basis of a report of the Police Superintendent, Kushinagar dated 13.10.1997 asking him to furnish explanations regarding certain charges of utilizing the property of the society for personal benefits. It transpires that the petitioner failed to submit any reply and so the proceedings drawn remained pending. Petitioner was subsequently reinstated revoking the suspension order on 15.02.2001 holding that the disciplinary proceedings will not be adversely affected and will continue. It transpires that some report was submitted upon which the resolution was adopted by the society inflicting punishment and so the consequential order came to be passed by the Secretary of the District Cane Services Authority, Kushinagar on 31.01.2015. Petitioner's appeal was dismissed on merits on the ground that petitioner was found guilty in the enquiry report submitted by specially constituted committee.

6. Countering the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Ravindra Singh, learned Advocate appearing for the respondents No. 3 and 4 submits that the order dated 15.02.2001 to reinstate the petitioner itself provided that disciplinary proceeding, already going on, will not get adversely affected and he submits that the charges were serious and it was not once but the previous conduct of the petitioner also showed that even in the past he was suspended and faced charges. It is argued by Mr. Ravindra Singh, that the society was fully justified in adopting resolution on the basis of report submitted by the Enquiry Committee dated 27.01.2001, however, Shri Singh could not offer any explanation as to what transpired for the society in taking action after delay of 13 years from the date of presentation of enquiry report.

7. Having heard learned counsel for respective parties and having perused the records, I find it to be an admitted position on the part of the respondent that petitioner after was placed under suspension in the year 1999, disciplinary proceedings instituted was not concluded either in the year 1999 or in the subsequent year 2000. It has though come on record that some enquiry report was submitted on 27.01.2001 but what exactly was the report is not discussed in the order impugned. All that is discussed is that the resolution was adopted by the society in relation to the disciplinary proceedings going on against the petitioner in its meeting held 30.12.2014 and in view of the unanimous resolution so adopted the petitioner was liable to be inflicted with punishment as has been inflicted upon him.

8. In order to appreciate the argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, I have carefully gone through the relevant provisions as contained under Regulation 27 and 28 of the U.P. Cooperative Society Service Regulation that governed the Seasonal Clerks. The relevant Regulations are reproduced hereunder:

"27.Disciplinary proceedings;- In the event of a complaint against any member of the seasonal staff, the secretary of the union shall make a preliminary enquiry and if he is satisfied that a prima facie case is established against the person concerned he shall intimate the same to him in the form of charges and call for his explanation to be submitted within a specified time. The secretary of the union shall examine records and submit his final report along with definite recommendation to the District Authority for passing final order in the case. In case the explanation is not received within the specified time the secretary shall submit his final report to the District Authority, on the basis of material already on the file. These proceedings shall be of a summary nature and the secretary should not take more than a month to complete the same. the District Authority should also arrange to dispose of the case within one month of the receipt of the final report from the secretary. In case of default on the part of secretary of the cane union or District Authority as the case may be is not completing the disciplinary proceedings against a seasonal staff by the end of crushing season, the same shall be deemed to have been automatically dropped.

28. The procedure narrated in regulation No. 27 shall not apply where the person concerned has absconded or is continuously absent from duty for a week or where for other reasons it is impracticable to communicate with him. In such cases the Secretary shall submit his final report to the Committee of Management stating the reasons for not following the procedure laid down in regulation No. 27 together with his views and recommendation based on record available for passing final orders in the case."

9. From a bare reading of Regulation 27 and the language in which provision has been couched, it can safely be concluded that the proceedings against the Seasonal Clerks by the competent authority are summary in nature and soon after issuing notices and receiving the reply the Secretary should complete the proceedings within one month. The Disciplinary Authority is also placed under obligation to dispose of such cases within one month of the receipt of the final report from the Secretary and it is also provided that if proceedings are not completed as prescribed for, then the enquiry proceedings shall be deemed to be automatically dropped. Mr. Singh during the course of his argument admitted very fairly that disciplinary proceedings are to be concluded within the crushing season in which the seasonal clerk is employed and has been served with the notice to submit explanation. In my considered view the mandate of Regulation 27 would be whether the reply is submitted by delinquent employee or not, the final report of enquiry has to be submitted and action has to be taken within a period of one month. Once the Disciplinary Authority has received the report, it should take decision within a further period of one month. The only exceptional circumstance is where a delinquent employee concerned has absconded or has remained absent from duty for a week or for other reason.

10. Applying the aforesaid provision to the case in hand, I find that petitioner having been placed under suspension by respondents on 09.10.1999, there had been no occasion to treat him to be an absconded person, nor it is the case of the respondent that he never reported for duty. The only fact was that petitioner never submitted reply to the notice dated 09.10.1999. The respondent reinstated the petitioner on 15.02.2001. In my considered view in the light of the relevant provisions of Regulation 27 the disciplinary proceedings initiated against the petitioner on 09.10.1999 would be taken to have been dropped by the end of the year 1999 or within one month or 2 months thereafter or at the most till the end of then cane crushing season.

11. Even if one is to assume that with the order dated 15.02.2001, the disciplinary proceeding was revived afresh as contemplated in the order revoking suspension of petitioner, the said proceeding could at the most be taken to have lasted in any case, by the end of the year 2001. In no circumstances such proceeding could have been dragged for awaiting the enquiry report. Still further, once the petitioner had retired and ceased to be employee of the society no fresh enquiry could have been set up on 28.10.2013 by constituting a new committee for the alleged loss caused to the society during the period 97-98. Neither the Regulations provide for any disciplinary proceeding to be drawn beyond the period of two months of its initiation, nor does it provide for continuation of proceedings afresh after retirement. Petitioner having retired in the year 2009 to be specific on 31.08.2009, the initiation of proceedings by constituting enquiry committee on 28.10.2013 was not only de hors the procedure prescribed but was also null and void for want of lawful authority under Regulations. It is a settled legal position that if very institution of enquiry or setting up of disciplinary proceeding is void for want of lawful authority then any such consequential action pursuant to such enquiry and consequential enquiry report is liable to be held as null and void. In Sharif-Ud-Din V. Abdul Gani Lone, (1980) 1 SCC 403 the Court held:

"In order to find out the true character of the legislation, the court has to ascertain the object which the provision of law in question is to sub-serve and its design and the context in which it is enacted. If the object of the law is required to be defeated by non-compliance with it, it has to be regarded as mandatory... Whenever the statute provides that a particular act is to be done in a particular manner and also lays down that the failure to compliance with the said requirement leads to a specific consequence, it would be difficult to hold that the requirement is not mandatory and the specified consequence should not follow."

12. This above view has been reiterated by Supreme Court in Krishna Rai (dead) through legal representative and others Vs. Banaras Hindu University (2022) 8 Supreme Court Cases 713. Even the Court referred to its earlier judgment in Tata Chemicals Ltd. V. Commr. of Customs (2015) 11 SCC 628 where it was held:-

"there can be no estoppel against law. If the law requires something to be done in a particular manner, then it must be done in that manner, and if it is not done in that manner, then it would have no existence in the eyes of the law."

13. It is a well known maxim "sublato fundamento cadit opus" meaning, the foundation being removed, the structure falls. In the case of Badrinath V Govt of Tamil Nadu and others (2000) 8 Supreme Court Cases 395 it has been held vide paragraph 27 thus:

"27. This flows from the general principle applicable to "consequential orders". Once the basis of a proceeding is gone, may be at a later point of meantime-like the recommendation of the State and by the UPSC and the action taken thereon-would fall to the ground. This principle of consequential order which is applicable to judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings is equally applicable to administrative orders. In other words, where an order is passed by an authority and its validity is being reconsidered by a superior authority (like the Governor and this case) and if before the superior authority has given its decision, some further action has been taken on the basis of the initial order of the primary authority, then such further action will fall to the ground the moment the superior authority has set aside the primary order."

14. Thus, lack of permission and lawful authority will always make the very first step defective so the entire edifice will have no base to survive. In the case in hand since very proceeding could not have been initiated beyond the crushing season, matter ought to have been put at rest. Initiation of a proceeding beyond the scope of provision and continuation of proceedings for several years and that too after retirement of a seasonal employee, was totally an unwarrant action and so final order of punishment is liable to be held null and void and is so held as well.

15. The appellate authority having not discussed all these points in the order impugned and passed the order simply affirming the order of the District Cane Services Authority, the appellate authority's order passed by Commissioner as Chairman of the Regional Cane Service Authority dated 30.10.2015 is held to be equally bad and unsustainable. Thus, both the impugned orders dated 31.1.2015 passed by the District Can Service Authority, Kushinagar and that of the appellate authority namely Chairman the Regional Cane Service Authority, Deoria dated 30.10.2015 are hereby quashed.

16. Petitioner is held entitled to all post retirement dues as admissible in law. Entire dues shall be paid to the petitioner by the competent within two months from the date of presentation of certified copy of this order. Since termination/ removal order has been held to be absolutely null and void for want of lawful authority petitioner is also held entitled to interest at the rate of 8% from the date of superannuation till the actual payment is made of post retirement dues. It is also provided that in case post retirement dues as admissible in law are not paid within the prescribed period as directed hereinabove, petitioner shall be entitled to additional interest at the rate of 12% upon the expiry of two months' period till the actual payment is made.

Counsel for the Petitioners:
C.S.C.

Counsel for the Respondents:

(A) Civil Law – Constitution of India,1950 – Article 226 – UP Public Service (Tribunal) Act, 1976 - Sections 4, 4-A, 4-(1), 4(5), 4(6), 5, 5(1)(b), 5(1)(b)(i) & 5(1)(b)(ii) – The Limitation Act, 1963 - Section – 3, Article 173 - Writ Petition filed by claimant – challenging the order of Tribunal – order of punishment of year 2007 – departmental Appeal filed in year 2008 – Revision of year 2008 is Pending – Claimant moved a Legal Notice in year 2014 U/s 4(6) of the Act, 1976 – as revision was still pending claimant filed Claim petition before Tribunal in year 2014 – which was dismissed on the ground of limitation – court finds that, provision of limitation for filing a reference is contained in Section 5(1)(b) and not in section 4(6) – Clause (i) & (ii) of Section 5(1) (b) provide a limitation for filing a reference in case where a final order has been passed - no limitation has been proscribed for a case where no final order has been passed – Limitation will starts only on an order being passed on appeal etc., if no orders have been passed and such appeal etc. remain pending , then, it cannot be said that limitation has started - held, court cannot read into the provision something which is not mentioned therein by the legislation. (para – 22, 23, 24, 27)

(B) Civil Law – Constitution of India – Article 226 – UP Public Service (Tribunal) Act, 1976 - Sections 4, 4-A, 4-(1), 4(5), 4(6), 5, 5(1)(b), 5(1)(b)(i) & 5(1)(b)(ii) – The Limitation Act, 1963 - Section – 3, Article 173 - Writ Petition filed by state – challenging the order of Tribunal – claim petition filed in year 2015 challenging the order of punishment of year 2006 – departmental Appeal was filed in year 2006 – but same was still pending as same was not forwarded to the State Govt. at relevant time – claimant moved a Legal Notice in year 2015 U/s 4(6) of the Act, 1976 – claimant filed Claim petition in year 2015 – Tribunal allowed the petition – State takes plea that, claim petition was hopelessly barred by limitation – court observed that, why should State or its Authorities raise such objections when they have themselves not decided the appeal, revision etc. within a reasonable time – held, to avoid such a situation as has arisen in this case, the Appellate or Revisional or other Authority as may have been empowered to take a decision on appeal etc. prescribed in the Service Rules should do so expeditiously and if any time period is prescribed in the Service Rules itself, the same be adhered, if it is not prescribed, then, the period mentioned in the proviso to section 4(6) should be taken as a guiding principle and final order should be passed in all such pending proceedings within six months of its initiation by the public servant - Executive and the Legislature should look into this aspect a nd make appropriate provision in the Act, 1976 making it mandatory for the Appellate or Revisional Authorities etc. to pass final orders in such proceedings within reasonable time - till this done, plea of Limitation was not seen by the tribunal and it erred in deciding the claim petition on merits – hence, plea of State is thus rejected, but, on merits, looking into the gravity of the charge which has been found proved, the punishment order did not require any interference – writ petition dismissed. (Para –30, 31, 32, 33, 36)

Writ petitions dismissed. (E-11)

List of Cases cited:

1. Samarjeet Singh Vs State of UP & ors. (2006 (3) AWC 2750),

2. Mahendra Pratap Rai Vs St. of U.P. & ors. (1986 (4) LCD 209).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Both these writ petitions involve similar facts and common issues, therefore, they have been heard together and are being decided by a common judgment.

2. Heard Shri Rakesh Kumar along with Shri Shiv Kumar Soni and Shri Ravi Shanker Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Anand Kumar Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent- State in Writ - A No. 16773 of 2019. In connected Writ-A No.15076 of 2021, none has appeared on behalf of the respondent while learned Standing Counsel has argued on behalf of the State.

3. As regards Writ – A No. 16773 of 2019 we find that the petitioner, who was claimant in Claim Petition No. 232 of 2014 before the Tribunal, was visited with a punishment order of 27.10.2007. He filed an Appeal which was decided on 25.10.2008. He thereafter filed a Revision on 22.12.2008. He ultimately gave a legal notice on 02.01.2014 as is referable under the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976 and on failure to pass any order in the revision, the said Claim Petition was filed in the year 2014, which has been dismissed, albeit on merits on 29.01.2019. The petitioner- Ram Babu's counsel contended that there is no limitation prescribed for giving a legal notice under the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976 and that the State can not take advantage of its own negligence and lapse in not passing any order in Appeal. When no limitation has been prescribed it is not open for this Court to prescribe any limitation in the matter and that in the facts of the case, the claim petition was not barred by limitation. He further contended that the dismissal of the claim petition on merits is erroneous on various grounds as taken in the writ petition, therefore, it is liable to be set-aside. The contention of respondent- State counsel in this writ petition is that the petitioner-claimant could not have slept over the matter for more than 8 years to give notice under the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976. He should have given such notice immediately on expiry of period of six months envisaged therein and thereafter, should have filed the claim petition within one year of expiry of the period of one month which was not done, therefore, the claim petition was barred by limitation. A specific objection in this regard was taken by the State in the written statement in para 3, 4.14 and other paragraphs of the written statement, but, the same have not even been referred much less considered by the Tribunal. He submitted that without considering the question of limitation the Tribunal, has dismissed the claim petition on merits, therefore, the State does not have any grievance with regard to the merits of the dismissal of the claim petition but has raised the said plea of limitation in response to the claim of the petitioner in this writ petition which should also be taken consideration.

4. Writ- A No. 15076 of 2021 (Writ Petition No. 15076 (S/B) of 2021) has been filed by the State of U.P. challenging the judgment and order dated 03.04.2019 passed by the U.P. Public Services Tribunal in Claim Petition No. 1714 of 2015. Claim Petition no. 1714 of 2015 was filed by the respondent-claimant in the year 2015 challenging an order of punishment dated 13.01.2006 with consequential reliefs. The respondent-claimant it appears preferred an Appeal against the said punishment order on 10.04.2006, but, the same could not be forwarded to the State Government at the relevant time and could not be decided. On 26.08.2015 the respondent-claimant gave a legal notice, referable, as claimed, to proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976 and, thereafter, as the Appeal was not decided within one month he filed Claim Petition No. 1714 of 2015 challenging the punishment order dated 13.01.2006. The claim petition was admitted on 17.03.2016 subject to point of limitation which was involved. It was ultimately allowed on 03.04.2019. The main ground of challenge by the State in this writ petition is that claim petition was hopelessly barred by limitation and a specific objection was taken in this regard in the written statement filed before the Tribunal, but, ignoring the same and without deciding the question of limitation, the merits of the claim petition has been considered and the same has been allowed which is against the provisions of the U.P. Public Services (Tribunal) Act, 1976 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 1976') and the law on the subject. It is alleged by the State Counsel that the Tribunal while deciding the claim petition has noticed the objections on the point of limitation and the provisions of the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976, however, it has opined that natural justice requires a decision on merit. The submission is that the Tribunal is not a Court of extraordinary jurisdiction, but, a Tribunal of limited jurisdiction, whose powers are circumscribed by the Act, 1976. The Limitation Act, 1963 (hereinafter to as 'the Act, 1963') is applicable to its proceedings, therefore, the Tribunal was obliged to consider and decide the objection on the point of limitation which was specifically taken in the written statement filed before it. Even if, it had not been taken, the Tribunal was obliged to do so in view of Section 3 of the Act, 1963 and in not doing so, the Tribunal has usurped the Jurisdiction which it did not have, as, limitation involves a point of jurisdiction and a such objection was taken at the first opportunity. Nobody appeared to argue on behalf of respondent in this writ petition.

5. We have also heard Shri Asit Kumar Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate and Shri Gaurav Mehrotra, whose assistance we had requested considering the interpretation of the provisions of U.P. Public Services (Tribunal) Act, 1976 and the question of limitation involved herein.

6. We had passed a detailed order on 01.10.2021 in Writ - A No. 15076 of 2021 staying the impugned judgment and also noting the points for consideration.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the records the first and foremost point is the period of limitation prescribed for filing a reference or claim petition before the Tribunal and the manner of its determination/ calculation, in a case, where, though, an appeal, revision etc. has been preferred by the public servant but no order has been passed thereon. This issue not only has far reaching consequences in the two cases at hand, but, even otherwise, has immense importance with respect to other proceedings before the Tribunal and determination of point of limitation in the context of reference/claim petitions being filed before it.

8. The U.P. Pubic Services (Tribunal) Act, 1976 was enacted to provide for the constitution of Tribunals to adjudicate dispute in respect of matters relate to employment of all public servant of State.

9. Section 4 of the Act, 1976 reads as under:-

"4. Reference of claim of Tribunal.- (1) Subject to the other provision of this Act, a person who is or has been a public servant and is aggrieved by an the order pertaining to a service matter within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal, may make a reference of claim to the Tribunal for the redressal of his grievance.

Explanation: For the purpose of this sub-section "order" means an order or omission or in-action of the State Government or a local authority or any other corporation or company referred to in clause (b) of section 2 or of an officer, committee or other body or agency of the State Government or such local authority or Corporation or company:

Provided that no reference shall, subject to the terms of any contract, be made in respect of a claim arising out of the transfer of a public servant;

Provided further that in the case of the death of a public servant, his legal representative and where there are two or more such representative, all of them jointly, may make a reference to the 'Tribunal for payment of salary' allowances, gratuity, provident fund, pension and other pecuniary benefits relating to service due to such public servant.

(2) Every reference under sub-section (1) shall be in such form and be a accompanied by such documents or other evidence and by such fee in respect of the filling of such reference and by such other fees for the service or execution of processes, as may be prescribed.

(3) On receipt of a reference under sub-section (1), the Tribunal shall, if satisfied after such inquiry as it may deem necessary that the reference is fit for adjudication or trial by it, admit such reference and where the Tribunal is not so satisfied, it shall summarily reject the reference after recording its reasons.

(4) Where a reference has been admitted by the Tribunal under sub-section (3), every proceeding under the relevant service rules or regulation or any contract as to redressal of grievances in relation to the subject mater of such reference pending immediately before such admission shall abate, and save as otherwise directed by the Tribunal, no appeal or representation in relation to such matter shall thereafter be entertained under such rules, regulations or contract.

(5) The Tribunal shall not ordinarily admit a reference unless it is satisfied that the public servant has availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules, regulations or contract as to redressal of grievances.

(6) For the purposes of sub-section (5) a public servant shall be deemed to have availed of all the remedies available to him if a final order has been made by the State Government, an authority or officer thereof or other person competent to pass such order under such rules or regulations or contract rejecting any appeal preferred or representation made by such public servant in connection with the grievance:

Provided that where no final order is made by the State Government, authority, officer or other person competent to pass such order with regard to the appeal preferred or representation made by such public servant within six months from the date on which such appeal was preferred or representation was made, the public servant may, by a written notice by registered post, require such competent authority to pass the order and if the order is not passed within one month of the service of such notice, the public servant shall be deemed to have availed of all the remedies available to him.

(7) For the purposes of sub-section (5) and(6) any remedy available to the public servant by way of submission of a memorial to the Governor or to any other functionary shall not be deemed to be one of the remedies, which are available unless the public servant had elected to submit such memorial."

10. Section 4-A deals with hearing of reference by the Tribunal which is not very relevant for our purpose.

11. Section 5 deals with powers and procedure of the Tribunal. Some of its provisions are relevant which are Section 5(1) and (2) which read as under:-

"(1) (a) The Tribunal shall not be bound by the procedure laid down in the code of civil procedure, 1908, or the rules of evidence contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, but shall be guided by the principles of natural justice, and subject to the provisions of this section and of any rules made under section 7, the Tribunal shall have power to regulate its own procedure (including the fixing of places and times of its sittings and deciding whether to sit in public or in private :

[Provided that where, in respect of the subject matter of a reference, a competent court has already passed a decree or order or issued a writ or direction, and such decree, order, writ or direction has become final, the principal of res judicial shall apply;

(b) The provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 shall mutatis mutandis apply to reference under section 4 as if a reference were a suit filed in civil court so, however, that:-

(i) Notwithstanding the period of limitation prescribed in the Schedule to the said Act, the period of limitation for such reference shall be one year;

(ii) In computing the period of limitation the period beginning with the date on which the public servant makes a representation or prefers an appeal, revision or any other petition (not being a memorial to the Governor), in accordance with the rules or orders regulating his conditions of service, and ending with the date on which such public servant has knowledge of the final order passed on such representation, appeal, revision or petition, as the case may be, shall be excluded:

Provided that any reference for which the period of limitation prescribed by the Limitation Act, 1963 is more than one year, a reference under section 4 may be made within the period prescribed by that Act, or within one year next after the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Tribunals) (Amendment) Act, 1985, shall affect any reference made before and pending at the commencement of the said Act.

Provided further that nothing in this clause as substituted by the Uttar Pradesh Public Service (Tribunals) (Amendment) Act, 1985, Shall affect any reference made before and pending at the commencement of the said Act.

(2) The Tribunal shall decide every reference expeditiously and ordinarily, every case shall be decided by it on the basis of perusal of documents and representations, and of [oral or written argument]3, if any."

12. Section 4 deals with reference of a claim to Tribunal. The reference is in respect of an order pertaining to a service matter within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal, for the redressal of grievance by a public servant. The word "order" used in Section 4(1) has been explained in its Explanation to mean - an order or omission or inaction of the State Government or a local authority etc.

13. Sub-section (5) of Section 4 provides that the Tribunal shall not ordinarily admit a reference unless it is satisfied that the public servant has availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules, regulations or contract as to redressal of grievance. The word "ordinarily" used therein is indicative of the fact that in given circumstances for valid and justifiable reason a reference can be admitted, even if, the remedies referred therein have not been availed, which may be in cases requiring immediate intervention, especially, at the interim stage.

14. Sub-Section (6) of Section 4 says that for the purpose of Sub-section (5) of Section 4 a public servant shall be deemed to have availed all the remedies available to him if a final order has been made by the State Government, an authority or officer thereof or person competent to pass such order under the rules etc. rejecting any appeal preferred or representation made by a public servant in connection with the grievance.

15. Proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4 is relevant for our purposes, as, it deals with a situation where no final order is made by the State Government etc. within six months from the date on which such appeal was preferred or representation was made. In such a situation the public servant may by written notice by registered post require such competent authority to pass the order and if the order is not passed within one month of such notice, the public servant shall be deemed to have availed all the remedies available to him. In the main provision contained in Sub-section (5) of Section 4, the words "shall be deemed to have availed all the remedies if a final order has been made" have been used whereas in the proviso to the word "may by written notice by registered post" has been used in the context of expiry of a period of six months from the date of preferring such appeal or representation where no orders have been passed.

16. As is evident from Section 5(1)(b), the provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 are applicable mutatis mutandis to a reference under Section 4 of the Act, 1976, as if, it was a suit filed in a Civil Court, meaning thereby, the Limitation Act, 1963 is applicable, as it applies to a Suit. This of course is subject to Clause (i) and (ii) and the proviso to Section 5(1)(b).

The period of limitation for filing such reference is one year and as a period of limitation has been prescribed for the said purpose, therefore, Article 137 of the Schedule to the Act, 1963, does not apply for determining limitation in filing a claim or reference. Clause (ii) of Section 5(1)(b) excludes the period beginning with the date on which the public servant makes a representation or prefers an appeal, revision or any other petition (not being memorial to the Governor), in accordance with the rules and orders regulating his conditions of service, and ending on the date on which knowledge of any such final order passed on such representation, appeal, revision or petition, as the case may be, was acquired by the public servant, in computing the period of limitation for filing reference, which is one year.

17. A Co-ordinate Bench of this Court has rendered a decision reported in 2006 (3) AWC 2750 in Writ Petition No. 942 (S/B) of 2002; Samarjeet Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Ors., on 09.09.2005 which is relevant. It was a case where an order of punishment was passed against the petitioner- Samarjeet Singh on 05.06.1987. Against which he preferred a statutory appeal on 30.06.1987. The appeal remained pending despite several reminders being made i.e. no final orders were passed. He filed a claim petition in the year 2000 claiming it to be within limitation on the ground that the appeal had not been decided. The State took a defence that the claim petition was barred by limitation which was one year. The Tribunal vide order dated 14.03.2002 dismissed the claim petition at the admission stage as being barred by limitation. The Tribunal noticed the fact that though the appeal had been preferred on 15.06.1987 reminders were sent up to 21.08.2000 and legal notice of 30 days was given on 30.06.2000 i.e. notice envisaged in the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976. In spite of it, no final orders were passed. The Tribunal while rejecting the claim petition was persuaded by the fact that even if the petitioner had filed appeal on 30.06.1987 the limitation expired after 12 months while the petitioner sent a reminder dated 21.08.2000 which itself was given after 13 years. It relied upon a decision of a learned Single Judge of this Court rendered in the case of Mahendra Pratap Rai Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in (1986) 4 LCD 209 to dismiss the claim petition as barred by limitation.

18. The Division of the High Court did not find the reasoning given by the Tribunal, sustainable. It opined that in the case at hand, the appeal had been filed within time, therefore, the dictum in Mahendra Pratap Rai's case (supra) did not apply. Moreover, according to it, for computing the period of limitation for filing a claim petition the Tribunal had to see the date when the cause of action first accrued and all such subsequent dates when the cause of action again accrued. This was simply for computing the period of limitation i.e. whether the claim petition is within time or not. Section 5 of the Limitation Act prescribed period of limitation and also the manner or procedure when an employee could approach the Tribunal without actually exhausting the departmental remedy. The Division Bench considered the provisions of Section 4(5) and (6) as also its proviso and held that the proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4 of the Act, 1976 would not be relevant for extending the period of limitation as the proviso has been made for giving liberty to an employee/public servant to approach the Service Tribunal even without awaiting for decision on the statutory appeal or representation and thus, removes the bar as imposed by Sub-section 5 of Section 4 of the Act, 1976. The period of limitation would start right from the date when the cause of action first accrued that is the date of order of dismissal and it would again accrue when statutory appeal or representation, under the Rules, are decided. If the appeal or representation are decided after 2, 3, 4 and 5 years etc. the limitation for filing the claim petition shall be computed from the date of passing of the order in such appeal or representation. It can not be said that if the appeal or representation had been decided after one year or more, the claim petition will stand barred by limitation, merely because the claimant did not avail the liberty of coming to the Tribunal in terms of proviso to Sub-section 4 of Section 6 of the Act, 1976. According to the Co-ordinate Bench, Sub-section 5 and proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4 of the Act, 1976 did not control the provisions of Section 5(1)(b)(i) and (ii) of the Act, 1976.

19. Para 10 to 22 of the judgment rendered in the case of Samarjeet Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in 2006 (3) AWC 2750 read as under:-

"10. For computing the period of limitation for filing a claim petition the Tribunal has to see the date when the cause of action first accrued and all such subsequent dates when the cause of action again accrued. This is simply for computing the period of limitation, i.e., whether the petition is within time or not. Section 5 of the Act prescribes period of limitation and also the manner or procedure when an employee could approach the Tribunal without actually exhausting the departmental remedy.

11. Sub-section (5) of Section 4 of the Act provides that the Tribunal shall not ordinarily admit a reference unless it is satisfied that the public servant has availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules, regulations or contract as to redressal of grievance. Subsection (6) of Section 4 of the Act says that for the purposes of Sub-section (5) a public servant shall be deemed to have availed of all the remedies available to him if a final order has been made by the State Government, an authority or officer thereof or other person competent to pass such order under such rules or regulations or contract rejecting any appeal preferred or representation made by such public servant in connection with the grievance.

12. Proviso to Sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act says that where no final order is made by the State Government, authority, officer or other person competent to pass such order with regard to the appeal preferred or representation made by such public servant within six months from the date on which such appeal was preferred or representation was made, the public servant may, by a written notice by registered post, require such competent authority to pass the order and if the order is not passed within one month of the service of such notice, the public servant shall be deemed to have availed of all the remedies available to him.

13. Aforesaid Sub-section (5) of Section 4 of the Act requires exhaustion of all departmental remedies available to public servant before approaching the Tribunal and for giving effect to the said provision the Tribunal is supposed to examine, for entertaining the claim petition, whether the employee has availed of or not all available departmental remedies. Even then discretion lies with the Tribunal to entertain the petition though public servant might have not exhausted departmental remedies. It is clear that Subsection (5) of Section 4 of the Act puts restriction upon the Tribunal by saying that it shall not 'ordinarily' admit a reference unless it is satisfied that the public servant has availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules, regulations or contract as to redressal of grievances.

14. An employee cannot be prohibited from approaching the Court/Tribunal for any indefinite period because of the administrative or otherwise inaction on the part of authority/officer concerned in deciding the statutory appeal or revision, and, therefore, proviso to Sub-section (6) of Section 4 was added. Thus, proviso to Subsection (6) of Section 4 of the Act allows to entertain the claim petition, where no final order is made by the State Government, authority, officer or other person competent to pass such order with regard to the appeal preferred or representation made by such public servant within six months from the date on which such appeal was preferred or representation was made, where the public servant, by a written notice by registered post, requires such competent authority to pass the order and if the order is not passed within one month of the service of such notice also by the appointing authority, the employee gets a liberty to approach the Tribunal, with the legal presumption that he had' availed of all departmental remedies in terms of Subsection (5) of Section 4 of the Act, and, therefore, his claim petition can be entertained.

15. This proviso to Sub-section (6) of Section 4 would not be relevant for extending the period of limitation as the proviso has been made for giving liberty to an employee/public servant to approach the service Tribunal even without awaiting for a decision on the statutory appeal or representation and thus it removes the bar as imposed by Sub-section (5) of Section 4 of the Act.

16. The period of limitation would start right from the date when the cause of action first accrued, i.e., the date of order of dismissal and it would again accrue when statutory appeal or representation, under the rules, are decided. If the appeal or representation are decided after two, three, four and five years, etc. the limitation for filing the claim petition shall be computed from the date of passing of the order in such appeal or representation. It cannot be said that if the appeal or revision has been decided after one year or more, the claim petition will stand barred by limitation, merely because the claimant did not avail the liberty of coming to the Tribunal in terms of proviso to Sub-section (4) of Section 6.

17. Sub-section (5) and proviso to Sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act do not control the provisions of Section 5(1)(b) (i) and (ii) of the Act. Sub-clause (b)(i) and (ii) of Section 5(1) of the Act says that the provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 shall mutatis mutandis apply to reference under Section 4 of the Act as if a reference were a suit filed in civil court so, however, that : (i) notwithstanding the period of limitation prescribed in the Schedule to the said Act, the period of limitation for such reference shall be one year and (ii) in computing the period of limitation the period beginning with the date on which the public servant makes a representation or prefers an appeal, revision or any other petition (not being a memorial to the Governor), in accordance with the rules or orders regulating his conditions of service, and ending with the date on which such public servant has knowledge of the final order passed on such representation, appeal revision or petition, as the case may be shall be excluded.

18. The aforesaid provision provides that any reference for which the period of limitation prescribed by the Limitation Act, 1963 is more than one year, a reference under Section 4 of the Act may be made within the period prescribed by that Act, or within one year next after the commencement of the U.P. Public Services (Tribunals) (Amendment) Act, 1985 whichever period expires earlier. The aforesaid provisions make it clear that while computing the period of limitation, the period of limitation starts from the date on which the public servant makes a representation or prefers an appeal, revision or any other petition and comes to an end when he acquires knowledge of the final order passed. All such period thus has to be excluded while computing limitation. In case final order is passed after one year or two years or so on and so forth, the limitation would be counted from the date of passing of the original order and by excluding the entire period commencing from the date of making the appeal or representation, if provided under rules, and the date when the final orders passed on such appeal or representation come within his knowledge.

19. In the instant case, the Tribunal was swayed by the provisions of Sub-section (5) of Section 4 and proviso to Sub-section (6) of Section 4 where the right to approach the Tribunal has been given after availing all the remedies available to a public servant under the relevant service rules and the circumstances and the procedure when a public servant can approach the Tribunal, during the pendency of the appeal or revision.

20. In the absence of a final order having been passed by the appellate authority it cannot be said that the claim petition would be barred by limitation if the claimant does not avail the liberty given in the provision aforesaid. If statutory appeals or representations are kept pending for years together and no order is passed within six months from the date on which such appeal was preferred or representation was made, the Tribunal ought not to reject the claim petition, on the ground that the public servant should have given a written notice by registered post, requiring such competent authority to pass the order within 30 days, and thus has not filed the claim petition within the limitation prescribed.

21. In a case wherein the appeal or revision remains unattended for any period beyond six months or one year, the only requirement could be that such a claimant gives the required notice as given in proviso to Sub-section (6) of Section 4 and thereafter to approach the Tribunal whether thereafter, the appeal or revision is decided or not, but this requirement of giving notice in a matter which has been kept pending for years together by the appellate authority, if is not complied with by the complainant, the Tribunal may not dismiss the claim petition summarily but may give an opportunity to the claimant to give a notice as required within a given time and defer the hearing for such period or the Tribunal, or as per the facts of the case, may entertain the petition even without any such notice being given by the public servant as the rule of exhaustion of departmental remedies is itself discretionary in terms of subsection (5) of Section 4, wherein it has been said that 'ordinarily' the Tribunal would not entertain the petition, unless departmental remedy stands exhausted.

22. Failure on the part of the appellate authority or the authority who is to decide the representation, in discharging their statutory legal obligations cannot defeat the right of a claimant to vindicate his rights by approaching the Tribunal nor can be frustrated."

20. Of course it was a case where a final order had been passed in the appeal after several years, therefore, giving a second cause of action to the public servant to approach the Court and the case at hand and the issue before us is slightly different on facts in the sense that no final orders have been passed even after 8 or 9 years, but, the reasoning given by the Co-ordinate Bench in Samarjeet singh's case (supra) is relevant and applies to the case at hand also.

21. We agree with the enunciation of law by a Co-ordinate Bench in the case of Samarjeet Singh (supra) in the context of Section 5(1)(b) and the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976 where it has been held that the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976 does not qualify the prescription of limitation in Section 5(1)(b) clause (i) and (ii) thereof.

22. The provision of limitation for filing a reference is contained in Section 5(1)(b) and not Section 4(6). Section 5(1)(b) clause (i) and (ii) provide a limitation for filing a reference in a case where a final order has been passed in an appeal, revision or representation prescribed in the relevant service rules i.e. the remedies prescribed under the relevant services rules. No limitation has been prescribed for a case where, though, the remedy has been availed in accordance with law/Rules no final orders have been passed. The language of Clause (ii) of Section 5(1)(b) itself suggests that as long as the appeal or representation etc., which has been filed as per Rules/orders, remains pending, limitation does not start/commence nor does it expire. It starts/commences when an order is passed on such appeal etc. and will expire on completion of one year from the date of knowledge to the public servant regarding such order.

23. As regards the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976 the said proviso is relevant only in the context of Section 4(5) which provides that ordinarily the tribunal shall not entertain a reference unless all the remedies prescribed in the service rules have been availed, therefore, envisaging a situation, where, though, the remedy has been availed no final order has been passed, the proviso to Section 4(6) has been added, according to which, in the event no final order has been passed on such appeal or representation etc., a discretion/liberty has been given to the public servant to approach the tribunal after giving one month notice in writing by registered post. Such notice has to be after expiry of the period of six months from the date of filing such appeal, revision or representation as may be prescribed in the service rules. The use of the word 'may' in the proviso to Sub-section (5) of Section 4, as distinct from the use of the word 'shall' in Sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act, 1976, makes it clear that the Legislature's intention is to confer a discretion upon the public servant under the proviso, if he so chooses, to approach the Tribunal on expiry of a period of six months after giving one month notice, in the event, even thereafter, no final order is passed, but, this proviso can not be understood and interpreted to qualify the provisions contained in Section 5 (1)(b) Clause (i) and (ii), which do not prescribe any such limitation for filing a reference in a case where no final orders are passed in an appeal, representation, revision etc. preferred before the competent authority in accordance with the Rules wherein such remedy is prescribed, nor can it be construed as providing any limitation for filing a claim before the Tribunal.

24. There is nothing in Section 5(1)(b) to even suggest that proviso to Section 4(6) prescribes any such limitation for the said purpose and the latter should be read into Section 5(1)(b). We see no reason to do so. We see no reason to prescribe a limitation in a case where no final orders are passed, firstly for the reason, the Legislature has not provided any such limitation. If at all, Clause (iii) of Section 5(1)(b) is indicative that if appeal etc. is filed as per Rules/under, then, limitation will start only on an order being passed thereon. If no orders have been passed and such appeal etc. remains pending, then, it can not be said that limitation has started. If the Legislature intended that proviso to Section 4(6) should come into play and it should prescribe a limitation for such cases, then, it would have specifically mentioned it, which it has not. The purpose and scope of the proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4 has already been discussed above. Secondly, why should the State or its Authorities who function as Appellate, revisional or competent authority to pass a final order in such appellate, revisional or other proceedings, should be allowed to take advantage and raise such objections when they have themselves not decided the appeal, revision etc. within a reasonable time. In the aforesaid scenario, it is not open for the State to raise such objections before the Tribunal. There is another reason which persuades us, as was considered in the case of Samarjeet Singh (supra). What if, the appeal, revision etc. remains pending for more than a year may be several years and no notice is given by the public servant under the proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4 but, ultimately, final orders are passed therein. In that eventuality, the said final order will give a cause of action to the public servant aggrieved by such order to file a reference and limitation will have to be calculated on the basis of the date the said final order came to his knowledge. This will be in view of Clause (ii) of Section 5(1)(b) of the Act, 1976, therefore, proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4 can not be understood as laying down any limitation for filing a claim petition where no orders have been passed on the appeal etc. referred above.

25. Further, the Legislature has not prescribed any limitation for giving of such notice as envisaged in the proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4, after expiry of six months of filing appeal etc. It merely says that written notice may be given by registered post by a public servant if no final orders have been passed within six months of submission of appeal etc. by him. It does not prescribe any outer time limit for giving such notice. Moreover, we have already held, as has the Co-ordinate Bench, that the said provision merely gives a choice to the Public Servant to give such notice which is not mandatory nor does this provisions prescribe a limitation for filing a Claim Petition. We have already discussed the object of the said provisions earlier.

26. Moreover, we can not prescribe a limitation for giving a written notice and treat it as starting point of limitation for filing a claim petition, as, the Legislature in its wisdom has not provided the same in the proviso to Section 4(6). We can not supply a causus omissus. The law is settled in this regard.

27. Even if we prescribe a reasonable period within which the notice envisaged in the proviso to Sub-section 6 of Section 4 is to be given it will not serve any purpose and the said provision does not qualify Section 5(1)(b). We can not possibly treat such reasonable period as a limitation for filing a claim petition, non adherence to which would lead to a claim being barred by limitation as, firstly it would be beyond the scope and object of the said proviso as discussed, secondly it would be against the scheme of the act and would amount to prescribing a limitation period which the legislature has not provided and would amount to doing injury to section 5(1)(b) which in fact is the provision containing a prescription for filing a claim petition. We can not read into the provision something which is not mentioned therein by the legislature.

28. It would also be highly incongruous to say that if a final order is passed in an appeal etc. after several years it will give a cause of action to a public servant to approach the Tribunal by filing a reference/claim petition by computing the limitation from the date of knowledge of such final order, but, in the event no final order is passed, then, in view of the proviso to Section 4(6) if the written notice is not given or it is given after say one year or some other reasonable period, then, the reference/claim petition would be barred by limitation.

29. The legal position is as discussed hereinabove, meaning thereby, if an appeal, revision etc. i.e. a remedy prescribed in the Rules has been preferred by the public servant before the competent authority as per Rules, as long as no final orders have been passed in such remedies/proceedings, the said period will have to be excluded while computing limitation for filing a reference under Section 5(1)(b) of the Act, 1976. This is in keeping with the intent of the Legislature and the Scheme of the Act, 1976 existing as of now. We answer the question framed by us earlier, accordingly to avoid or prevent such a situation as discussed above.

30. To avoid or prevent such a situation as has arisen in this case in our opinion the Appellate or Revisional or such other Authorities as may have been empowered to take a decision on appeal etc. prescribed in the Service Rules should do so expeditiously. If any time period is prescribed in the service rules itself, the same should be adhered. If it is not prescribed, then, the period mentioned in the proviso to Section 4(6) of the Act, 1976 should be taken as a guiding principle and final order should be passed in all such proceedings within six months of its initiation by the public servant. This will allay a situation of complication where a public servant may approach the Tribunal several years after passing of the final order of punishment etc. by giving a notice as referred in the proviso to Section 4(6) claiming pendency of the appellate/revisional etc. proceedings, and limitation based thereon.

31. Another possible solution is that the Executive and the Legislature should look into this aspect and make appropriate provisions in the Act, 1976 making it mandatory for the Appellate or Revisional Authorities etc. to pass final orders in such proceedings within the reasonable time say six months, unless there are exceptional circumstances, such as, any legal impediment in the form of stay of proceedings by the orders of any Court or higher forum and in the event final orders are not passed in proceedings within six months and, a further a prescription can be made by the Legislature requiring the public servant to give notice in writing as envisaged in the proviso to Section 4(6) within a specified time to decide the appeal and if the same is not decided, then, on expiry of the period of one month's notice or such period as may be deemed fit by the Legislature, the period of limitation for filing a reference would start, meaning thereby, the public servant would, thereafter, be obliged to file the reference/claim petition before the Tribunal within the limitation prescribed from such date, the limitation at present being one year. This will remove any scope for stale litigation and avoid the complications referred hereinabove. It is, however, for the Executive and the Legislature to look into this aspect of the matter and to do the needful. After all, it is the State which may in given cases suffer more than the public servant on account of filing of claims after several years. Therefore, we expect the State and through it the Legislature to take a call in the matter at the earliest and address the malady appropriately and effectively. We expect that the Executive shall look into the matter at the earliest say within six months and needful shall be done.

32. Till this is done the legal position is as discussed earlier.

33. In view of the above discussions so far as the contention of State counsel in Writ - A No. 16773 of 2019 that plea of limitation was not seen by the Tribunal and it erred in deciding the claim petition on merits, no doubt it ought to have considered the point of limitation but, as we have ourselves considered this issue, we do not find the plea of limitation to be tenable in this case, as, admittedly, after passing of the appellate order by the Appellate Authority on 25.10.2008 the petitioner/claimant filed a revision before the Revisional Authority on 22.12.2008 which is referable to the provision of punishment and Appeal Rules, 1991 and it is not the case of the State Authorities that said revision had not been preferred or was barred by any limitation prescribed in the Service Rules. In view of the discussion on the legal position referred earlier and our consideration thereon, as the revision filed by the petitioner/claimant in Writ- A No. 16773 of 2019, as, prescribed in Service Rules, 1991, remained pending, he gave one month's notice on 02.01.2014 and even thereafter, the Revisional Authority did not pass any final order, therefore, he filed the petition within one year of expiry of such period of one month, as such, it can not be said that the claim petition was barred by limitation prescribed under Section 5 of the Act, 1976. The plea of the State is thus rejected. On merits of the issues involved in the said writ petition we do not find any substance in the grounds raised by the petitioner while challenging the judgment of the Tribunal. The Tribunal has categorically noticed the statement of the petitioner- claimant rather his admission that he was absent from duty from 10.30 to 01.46 on the fateful day on the pretext of having lunch albeit as claimed by the petitioner after informing his superior Shri Ram Tirath Tripathi. The Tribunal has held that on account of absence of the petitioner-claimant, the accused Sonu was able to escape from the jail premises. We have perused the statement of the petitioner-claimant as recorded in the inquiry proceedings, extract of which is annexed as CA-1 which has not been denied, wherein, he has admitted the said fact. We have also perused the response of Ram Tirath Tripathi to the question posed by the petitioner-claimant, wherein, Shri Tripathi has denied that the petitioner-claimant had left the premises after seeking permission from him. Even otherwise, it is highly unacceptable and unreasonable that a person would go to have lunch from 10.30 to 01.46. In these circumstances, looking into the gravity of the charge which has been found to be proved, the punishment order did not require any interference and the Tribunal has rightly dismissed the claim petition of the petitioner on merits. No such procedural irregularity/ illegality has been pointed out which could persuade us to interfere with the punishment order nor for that matter with the order dated 26.11.2008 passed by the Disciplinary Authority regarding forfeiture of remaining salary for the period the petitioner-claimant remained under suspension. Neither the punishment order nor the appellate order can be said to be an unseasoned or non speaking order. We do not find any error in the judgment of the Tribunal, therefore, we dismiss the writ petition on merits.

34. As regards Writ- A No. 15076 of 2021 filed by the State we have gone through our earlier order dated 01.10.2021 on the question of limitation. We have already discussed this issue in the preceding paragraphs and the reasoning given will apply in this case also. In view of the discussion already made, this is not a fit case for interference on the point of limitation as it is the Appellate Authority who did not pass an order in the appeal within a reasonable time, therefore, after giving a legal notice the claim petition was filed as already referred while discussing the facts of this case. In view of the earlier discussion the claim petition of the respondent can not be said to be beyond limitation. The Tribunal has decided the claim petition on merits. The contention of the State in this regard is rejected. This apart, we find that the Tribunal while passing the impugned judgment has referred to a Division Bench judgment of this Court delivered on 04.03.2011 in Writ Petition No. 11921(S/B) of 2009. On merits of the case, the Tribunal has allowed the claim petition on the ground that the charge sheet was issued to the respondent-claimant for imposition of major punishment i.e. a regular inquiry was initiated under Rule 7 of the Rules, 1999, therefore, merely because ultimately a minor punishment has been imposed does not mean that non furnishing of inquiry report to the respondent-claimant could be condoned or justified. We are in agreement with the reasoning given by the Tribunal. The proceedings having been initiated for imposition of a major punishment, a regular inquiry for imposition of such punishment having been held, and an inquiry report having been submitted, it was incumbent upon the Disciplinary Authority to have confronted the respondent-claimant with the finding in the inquiry report and with an opportunity to him to challenge the same, but, this was not done and ultimately punishment of censure was awarded based on such report. We can not loose sight of the fact that the punishment order was passed way back on 13.01.2006. We are now in 2024. The claim petition reveals that the respondent- claimant was about 58 years of age at the time of filing of the claim petition in 2015, therefore, he must have retired in 2017. The claim petition was decided on 03.04.2019. Thus, the writ petition itself was filed after almost two and half years of passing of the judgment by the Tribunal, a fact which escaped notice of this Bench while entertaining the writ petition on 01.10.2021 and staying the operation of the impugned judgment of the Tribunal. Considering the aforesaid we do not find it a fit case for interference in exercise of our extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We, accordingly, dismiss the writ petition.

35. Let a copy of this judgment be sent by Shri Nishant Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel to Legal Remembrancer, U.P. for necessary and appropriate action.

(A) Service Law - Challenge to Withdrawal of Family Pension -where a provision has been enacted or notified which is in the nature of a beneficial provision, widest amplitude is required to be given to such provision for it to achieve the object for which it was notified - Giving a narrow meaning to a beneficial provision even where two results are possible, would naturally defeat the very object for which such a beneficial provision has been enacted. (Para -28)

(B) The principles of statutory construction - Words occurring in statutes of liberal import such as 'social welfare legislation and human rights' legislation are not to be put in Procrustean beds or shrunk to Lilliputian dimensions - Provisions of a beneficial legislation have to be construed with a purpose-oriented approach - exemption clauses in beneficial or social welfare legislations should be given strict construction. (Para - 29)

(C) Doctrine of fairness - when a literal reading of the provision giving retrospective effect does not produce absurdity or anomaly, the same would not be construed to be only prospective - When a law is enacted for the benefit of the community as a whole, even in the absence of a provision, the statute may be held to be retrospective in nature. (Para - 35)

(D) Principles of natural justice - must be followed before taking actions that (i) Affect civil rights (ii) Have adverse consequences (iii) Deprive livelihood - Distinction between quasi-judicial and administrative orders is thin - Reasonable opportunity to present case is essential - Procedures must be just, fair, and reasonable - Right to livelihood is part of right to life (Article 21). (Para - 39)

Petitioner challenges an order withdrawing her family pension - granted earlier due to her husband's death in service in 1977 - pension was initially denied but granted after a writ petition in 2007 - it was withdrawn following another writ petition (Phoolmati Devi) and a judgment (Chandrawati Devi). (Para - 1 to 14)

1. Heard Mr. Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for petitioner, Mr. Pradeep Kumar Pandey, learned State Counsel for opposite parties no. 1 & 2, Mr. Ran Vijay Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no. 3 and Mr. S.S. Rajawat, learned counsel for opposite parties no. 4 & 5.

2. Petition has been filed challenging order dated 11.05.2016 whereby family pension granted earlier to petitioner vide order dated 03.09.2007 was withdrawn. It is submitted that petitioner's husband late Sudhakar Pandey was employed as Assistant Teacher in Primary School concerned on 16.12.1973 and passed away while in service on 10.01.1977 having rendered service of just about three years.

3. Since petitioner was not granted benefit of family pension, she filed Writ Petition No. 6068 (S/S) of 2004 which was disposed of vide order dated 07.12.2007 directing the concerned authority to consider and decide petitioner's claim for grant of family pension. It is in pursuance thereof that family pension was granted to petitioner vide order dated 03.09.2007. It is submitted that in the meantime one Smt. Phoolmati Devi who was similarly situated as petitioner filed Writ Petition No. 5993 (S/S) of 2015 claiming family pension. The said petition was disposed of vide order dated 12.10.2015 however, indicating the submission of learned counsel for parties that family pension has been granted to other persons as well though they were not covered by the Family Pension Scheme vide Government order dated 17.12.1965. The Director Basic Education was therefore directed to hold an inquiry into the matter and pass appropriate orders and take necessary action where the pension payment orders had been wrongly issued and payments had been made.

4. It is in pursuance of the aforesaid directions that the impugned order has been passed withdrawing family pension to a number of such dependents who had been granted family pension in pursuance of Government order dated 17.12.1965.

5. Learned counsel for petitioner has submitted that earlier a triple benefit scheme was notified by the State Government on 17.12.1965 and as per Clause 24 thereof, it was provided that family pension would be granted for a period of 10 years to the family of an employee who dies either while in service or after retirement upon completion of not less than 20 years of qualifying service. It is submitted that subsequently the State Government issued another Government order dated 31.03.1982 whereby a new scheme for family pension was introduced. The said scheme came into effect from 01.10.1981 in which substantive change made was in paragraph 3 (ka) whereby it was provided that in case of such employees who passed away while in service after rendering even only one year of continuous service, the dependents thereof would be entitled for family pension.

6. It is further submitted that by means of subsequent order dated 06.06.1984, issued by the State Government, the aforesaid notification was made applicable even in those cases where the employee had passed away prior to 01.10.1981.

7. It is therefore submitted that once Government order dated 31.03.1982 has been made retrospective in operation even upon those employees who passed away prior to 01.10.1981, it is the notification dated 31.03.1982 which would be applicable upon petitioner and since her case would be covered by paragraph 3 (ka), petitioner is entitled for grant of family pension.

8. It is further submitted that the impugned order has been passed in the light of judgment rendered in the Case of Chandrawati Devi (Smt.) versus State of U.P. and another reported in (2010) 3 UPLBEC 2520 whereby grant of such pensionary benefits was rejected.

9. It is submitted that even in the case of Smt. Phoolmati Devi (supra), directions have been issued on the basis of the aforesaid judgment in the case of Chandrawati Devi (Smt.) (supra) but the aspect that aforesaid judgment of Chandrawati Devi (Smt.) (supra) had been overruled by Division Bench of this Court in the case of State of U.P. and others versus Smt. Shyam Kali and another reported in 2011 SCC OnLine All 50 has been completely lost sight of.

10. It is submitted that the scheme being beneficial in nature, widest amplitude is required to be given to the provisions thereof.

11. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite parties have refuted submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner with the submission that since petitioner's husband passed away in January, 1977, the case of petitioner would be covered by Clause 24 of Government order dated 17.12.1965. It is submitted that although Government order dated 31.03.1982 has been made retrospective in nature by means of order dated 16.06.1984 but the condition indicated therein is that even for respective application of Government order dated 31.03.1982, the employee or his dependents should otherwise have been eligible for such grant of family pension. It is therefore submitted that since it is Government order dated 17.12.1965 which would be applicable upon petitioner and petitioner not being covered under paragraph 24 thereof, the retrospective application of Government order dated 31.03.1982 would not benefit the petitioner.

12. It is also submitted that neither in Government order dated 31.03.1982 nor even in the order dated 16.06.1984 has the earlier Government order dated 17.12.1965 been rescinded or superseded and would therefore continue to govern such cases where death of the employee has occasioned prior to 01.10.1981.

13. Upon consideration of submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of material on record, the factual aspects as indicated hereinabove are admitted.

14. The only question requiring adjudication in this petition would therefore be whether by operation of order dated 16.06.1984, would petitioner be entitled for grant of family pension in terms of Government order dated 31.03.1982 or Government order dated 17.12.1965?

15. With regard to aforesaid question, it is quite evident that had the order dated 16.06.1984 not been issued by the State Government, Government order dated 31.03.1982 would not have been retrospective and would necessarily have applied only to those employees who passed away after 01.10.1981 and in such a situation, petitioner would necessarily have been governed by Government order dated 17.12.1965.

16. However, a perusal of order dated 16.06.1984 clearly indicates that in view of confusion arising with regard to retrospective applicability of Government Order dated 31.08.1982, the State Government has taken a conscious decision for implementation of Government Order dated 31.03.1982 to those employees who passed away even prior to 01.10.1981. It is the construction of the wordings 'यदि प्रधानाध्यापक के दायित्व को अन्यथा पारिवारिक पेंशन देय हो' as indicated in Government Order dated 16.06.1984, which is creating a hurdle in grant of Family Pension to petitioner.

17. It is the stated case of opposite parties that aforesaid wordings can be construed only to mean that persons such as petitioner would be entitled to grant of Family Pension only in case they were otherwise eligible for such benefit and since it is only Government Order dated 17.12.1965 which is applicable upon petitioner, the otherwise eligibility of petitioner has to be seen only in terms of Government Order dated 17.12.1965 and since petitioner was ineligible for grant of Family Pension in terms of aforesaid Government Order, retrospective applicability of the subsequent Government Order dated 31.03.1982 would be inconsequential.

18. Upon consideration of the wordings of Government Order dated 16.06.1984, it is quite evident that retrospective applicability of Government Order dated 31.03.1982 has been made subject to employee or his dependents being otherwise eligible for grant of such benefits.

19. It is quite evident that Government Order dated 31.03.1982 has not rescinded the earlier Government Order dated 17.12.1965. Nonetheless, it is also evident from a perusal of Government Orders dated 31.03.1982 and 16.06.1984 that the State Government was conveyed a quandary regarding applicability of Family Pension Scheme to persons who were not coming within purview of the same in view of extant Government Orders and service conditions.

20. Government Order dated 16.06.1984 has clearly adverted to such a quandary whereafter it indicates that State Government has taken a conscious decision for retrospective applicability of Government Order dated 31.03.1982. It is noticeable that Government Order dated 31.03.1982 has been made retrospective in its entirety and not with regard to any particular portion thereof.

21. The provisions of Clause 24 of Government Order dated 17.12.1965 relied upon by opposite parties are as follows:-

"24. (1) A family pension not exceeding the amount specified in sub-rule (2) below may be granted for a period of 10 years to the family of an employee who dies either while still in service or after retirement, after completion of not less than twenty year of qualifying service:

Provided that the period of payment of family pension shall in no case extend beyond a period of five years from the date on which the deceased employee would have attained the age of superannuation.

Note. (In case where the qualifying service is less than the prescribed minimum the deficiency should not be condoned"

22. It is relevant that Government Order dated 31.03.1982 in paragraph 3 thereof, has done away with the minimum prescribed service period of 20 years and has in fact indicated that dependents of deceased employees would be entitled for grant of Family Pension where the employee has rendered at least one year's continuous service.

23. Relevant portion of the order is as follows:-

"(क) परिवार पेंशन सेवा में रहते हुये या सेवानिवृत्त के बाद मृत्यु होने पर उस दशा में अनुमन्य होगी जब सेवा निवृत्ति के बाद मृत्यु होने की दशा में शिक्षक मृत्यु के समय कोई प्रतिकर अशक्तता सेवा निवृत्ति या अधिवर्ष पेंशन पा रहा हो या पा रहा होता और सेवाकाल में मृत्यु हो जाने की दशा में यदि उसने कम से कम एक वर्ष की लगातार सेवा जिसमें भत्ता रहित छुट्टी की अवधि, ड्यूटी के रूप में न माना गया निलम्बन तथा 20 वर्ष की आयु से पहले की गयी अवधि सम्मिलित नहीं है पूरी कर ली हो।"

24. Paragraph 4 of aforesaid Government Order dated 31.03.1982 reads as follows:-

"(4) सेवारत रहते हुये मृत्यु हो जाने की दशा में यदि मृतक ने कम से कम सात वर्ष की अधिक सेवा प्रदान की हो तो मृत्यु की तिथि के बाद की तिथि से प्रारम्भिक सात वर्ष या उस तिथि तक उसे जीवित रहने की दशा में 65 वर्ष की आयु प्राप्त कर ली होती, जो भी पहले समाप्त हो, पारिवारिक पेंशन मूल वेतन की आधी अथवा इस योजना के अधीन अन्यथा देय धनराशि का दुगुना, जो भी कम हो के बराबर होगी।"

25. Upon a conjoint reading of paragraph 3 (ka) and paragraph 4 thereof, it is evident that while eligibility for grant of Family Pension has been made available to such employees who have rendered at least one year's continuous service, paragraph 4 pertains to the methods and procedure regarding calculation for grant of such benefits.

26. Thus, it is quite evident that a material change was effected by State Government by notification of Government Order dated 31.03.1982 by bringing down the eligibility of service from twenty years to one year.

27. So far as the case of petitioner is concerned, since petitioner's husband passed away in January, 1977, evidently petitioner's case was required to be seen in light of Government Order dated 17.12.1965 but it is only due to subsequent Government Order dated 16.06.1984 when Government Order dated 31.03.1982 has been made retrospective in application that her case may be required to be seen in that context.

28. It is settled law that where a provision has been enacted or notified which is in the nature of a beneficial provision, widest amplitude is required to be given to such provision for it to achieve the object for which it was notified. Giving a narrow meaning to a beneficial provision even where two results are possible, would naturally defeat the very object for which such a beneficial provision has been enacted.

29. Regarding such a proposition, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of K.H. Nazar versus Mathew K. Jacob and others reported in (2020) 14 SCC 126 has held as follows:-

"11. Provisions of a beneficial legislation have to be construed with a purpose-oriented approach. The Act should receive a liberal construction to promote its objects. Also, literal construction of the provisions of a beneficial legislation has to be avoided. It is the court's duty to discern the intention of the legislature in making the law. Once such an intention is ascertained, the statute should receive a purposeful or functional interpretation.

12. In the words of O. Chinnappa Reddy, J., the principles of statutory construction of beneficial legislation are as follows: (Workmen case SCC p. 76, para 4)

"4. The principles of statutory construction are well settled. Words occurring in statutes of liberal import such as 'social welfare legislation and human rights' legislation are not to be put in Procrustean beds or shrunk to Lilliputian dimensions. In construing these legislations the imposture of literal construction must be avoided and the prodigality of its misapplication must be recognised and reduced. Judges ought to be more concerned with the "colour", the "content" and the "context" of such statutes (we have borrowed the words from Lord Wilberforce's opinion in Prenn v. Simmonds. In the same opinion Lord Wilberforce pointed out that law is not to be left behind in some island of literal interpretation but is to enquire beyond the language, unisolated from the matrix of facts in which they are set; the law is not to be interpreted purely on internal linguistic considerations. In one of the cases cited before us, that is, Surendra Kumar Verma v. Central Govt. Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, we had occasion to say: (Surendra Kumar Verma case, SCC p. 447, para 6)

'6. ... Semantic luxuries are misplaced in the interpretation of "bread and butter" statutes. Welfare statues must, of necessity, receive a board interpretation. Where legislation is designed to give relief against certain kinds of mischief, the court is not to make inroads by making etymological excursions.' "

13. While interpreting a statute, the problem or mischief that the statute was designed to remedy should first be identified and then a construction that suppresses the problem and advances the remedy should be adopted. It is settled law that exemption clauses in beneficial or social welfare legislations should be given strict construction. It was observed in

Shivram A. Shiroor v. Radhabai Shantram Kowshik that the exclusionary provisions in a beneficial legislation should be construed strictly so as to give a wide amplitude to the principal object of the legislation and to prevent its evasion on deceptive grounds. Similarly, in Minister Administering the Crown Lands Act v. NSW Aboriginal Land Council, Kirby, J. held that the principle of providing purposive construction to beneficial legislations mandates that exceptions in such legislations should be construed narrowly."

30. The aspect of interpretation of a particular provision as to whether it is to be given a restrictive or a wider meaning has also been considered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of X. versus Principal Secretary, Health and Family Welfare Department, Government of NCT of Delhi and another reported in (2023) 9 SCC 433. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment are as under :-

"31. The cardinal principle of the construction of statutes is to identify the intention of the legislature and the true legal meaning of the enactment. The intention of the legislature is derived by considering the meaning of the words used in the statute, with a view to understanding the purpose or object of the enactment, the mischief, and its corresponding remedy that the enactment is designed to actualise. Ordinarily, the language used by the legislature is indicative of legislative intent. In Kanai Lal Sur v. Paramnidhi Sadhukhan, Gajendragadkar, J. (as the learned Chief Justice then was) opined that "the first and primary rule of construction is that the intention of the legislature must be found in the words used by the legislature itself". But when the words are capable of bearing two or more constructions, they should be construed in light of the object and purpose of the enactment. The purposive construction of the provision must be "illumined by the goal, though guided by the word". Aharon Barak opines that in certain circumstances this may indicate giving "an unusual and exceptional meaning" to the language and words used.

34. In Principles of Statutory Interpretation by Justice G.P. Singh, it is stated that a statute must be read in its context when attempting to interpret its purpose. Context includes reading the statute as a whole, referring to the previous state of law, the general scope of the statute, surrounding circumstances and the mischief that it was intended to remedy. The treatise explains that:

"For ascertaining the purpose of a statute one is not restricted to the internal aid furnished by the statute itself, although the text of the statute taken as a whole is the most important material for ascertaining both the aspects of "intention". Without intending to lay down a precise and exhaustive list of external aids, Lord Somervell has stated: "The mischief against which the statute is directed and, perhaps though to an undefined extent the surrounding circumstances can be considered. Other statutes in pari materia and the state of the law at the time are admissible." These external aids are also brought in by widening the concept of "context" " as including not only other enacting provisions of the same statute, but its Preamble, the existing state of the law, other statutes in pari materia, and the mischief which the statute was intended to remedy". In the words of Chinnappa Reddy, J.:"Interpretation must depend on the text and the context. They are the bases of interpretation. One may well say if the text is the texture, context is what gives colour. Neither can be ignored. Both are important. That interpretation is best which makes the textual interpretation match the contextual. A statute is best interpreted when we know why it was enacted."

35. The rule of purposive interpretation was first articulated in Heydon case in the following terms: (ER p. 638)

"...for the sure and true interpretation of all statutes in general (be they penal or beneficial, restrictive or enlarging of the common law), four things are to be discerned and considered:

1st. What was the common law before the making of the Act.

2nd. What was the mischief and defect for which the common law did not provide.

3rd. What remedy Parliament hath resolved and appointed to cure the disease of the commonwealth.

And, 4th. The true reason of the remedy; and then the office of all the Judges is always to make such construction as shall suppress the mischief, and advance the remedy, and to suppress subtle inventions and evasions for continuance of the mischief, and pro privato commodo, and to add force and life to the cure and remedy, according to the true intent of the makers of the Act, pro bono publico."

7. A catena of decisions emanating from this Court, including Kerala Fishermen's Welfare Fund Board v. Fancy Food, Bharat Singh v. New Delhi Tuberculosis Centre, Bombay Anand Bhavan Restaurant v. ESI Corpn., Union of India v. Prabhakaran Vijaya Kumar, settle the proposition that progressive and beneficial legislation must be interpreted in favour of the beneficiaries when it is possible to take two views of a legal provision."

31. From examination of law enunciated in paragraph 35 of the judgment therefore the aspect required to be examined is the law prior to notification of the Government orders at the defect which was sought to be rectified. In the present case, the law prior to notification of the Government Order dated 16.06.1984 clearly excluded the families of all such persons from family pension, who had passed away prior to rendering 20 years of service. The defect therein clearly was with regard to grant of such beneficial provision to families of those persons who passed away prior to rendering such stipulated 20 years of service. The said aspect is clearly indicated in the Government Order and it is this defect which has been sought to be removed in order to protect the livelihood of families who sole bread earner has passed away suddenly even prior to rendering the stipulated years of service.

32. Upon applicability of aforesaid judgments in present facts and circumstances of the case, it is quite evident that in case Government Order dated 16.06.1984 is considered to have a retrospective applicability of Government Order dated 31.03.1982 only in cases where the employee or his dependents are eligible in terms of Government Order dated 17.12.1965, would give a very restrictive meaning to such a clause and would defeat the very purpose for which Government Order dated 16.06.1984 had been issued since it would exclude from its purview all such persons who have passed away in service without rendering 20 years of service.

33. It is axiomatic that death of a person is a fortuitous circumstance and is not in any individual's hands. There may be cases as in the present case where benefit of a beneficial provision such as Family Pension could not be availed of due to sudden death of the sole bread earner prior to rendering 20 years of service. It is in such circumstances where the sole bread earner has passed away that the provision of Family Pension has been notified so as the dependents of such sole bread earner are not deprived of their livelihood.

34. It is the object and purpose of grant of such a beneficial provision which is required to be considered in the light so as to give maximum benefit of the same.

35. The aspect of retrospectivity of the Government Orders dated 31.03.1982 and 16.06.1984 can be examined in the light of judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vijay versus State of Maharastra and others reported in (2006) 6 SCC 289 wherein the following had been held:-

"12. The appellant was elected in terms of the provisions of a statute. The right to be elected was created by a statute and, thus, can be taken away by a statute. It is now well settled that when a literal reading of the provision giving retrospective effect does not produce absurdity or anomaly, the same would not be construed to be only prospective. The negation is not a rigid rule and varies with the intention and purport of the legislature, but to apply it in such a case is a doctrine of fairness. When a law is enacted for the benefit of the community as a whole, even in the absence of a provision, the statute may be held to be retrospective in nature. The appellant does not and cannot question the competence of the legislature in this behalf."

36. In view of aforesaid, in the considered opinion of this Court, Government Order dated 16.06.1984 cannot be made restrictive once it has itself applied Government Order dated 31.03.1982 retrospectively in its entirety.

37. It is also quite evident that judgment rendered in the case of Chandrawati Devi (Smt.) (supra) has thereafter been overruled in Smt. Shyam Kali (supra) and was an aspect which was not brought to the notice of coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Phoolmati Devi (supra), which was the genesis of entire exercise resulting in passing of the impugned order.

38. A perusal of impugned order also does not indicate any consideration of aforesaid aspects particularly the retrospective application of Government Order dated 31.03.1982 by means of subsequent Government Order dated 16.06.2084. The impugned order also does not indicate any show cause notice having been given to petitioner prior to passing of such an order withdrawing a right which had already vested in petitioner.

39. The aspect of adhering to principles of natural justice prior to passing of an order having adverse civil consequences or taking away a right vested has been dealt with by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of D.K. Yadav versus J.M.A. Industries Ltd. reported in (1993) 3 SCC 259. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment are as under :-

"7. The principal question is whether the impugned action is violative of principles of natural justice. In A.K. Kraipak v. Union of India a Constitution Bench of this Court held that the distinction between quasi-judicial and administrative order has gradually become thin. Now it is totally eclipsed and obliterated. The aim of the rule of natural justice is to secure justice or to put it negatively to prevent miscarriage of justice. These rules operate in the area not covered by law validly made or expressly excluded as held in Col. J.N. Sinha v. Union of India. It is settled law that certified standing orders have statutory force which do not expressly exclude the application of the principles of natural justice. Conversely the Act made exceptions for the application of principles of natural justice by necessary implication from specific provisions in the Act like Sections 25-F; 25-FF; 25-FFF etc. The need for temporary hands to cope with sudden and temporary spurt of work demands appointment temporarily to a service of such temporary workmen to meet such exigencies and as soon as the work or service is completed, the need to dispense with the services may arise. In that situation, on compliance with the provisions of Section 25-F resort could be had to retrench the employees in conformity therewith. Particular statute or statutory rules or orders having statutory flavour may also exclude the application of the principles of natural justice expressly or by necessary implication. In other respects the principles of natural justice would apply unless the employer should justify its exclusion on given special and exceptional exigencies.

8. The cardinal point that has to be borne in mind, in every case, is whether the person concerned should have a reasonable opportunity of presenting his case and the authority should act fairly, justly, reasonably and impartially. It is not so much to act judicially but is to act fairly, namely, the procedure adopted must be just, fair and reasonable in the particular circumstances of the case. In other words application of the principles of natural justice that no man should be condemned unheard intends to prevent the authority from acting arbitrarily affecting the rights of the concerned person.

11. The law must therefore be now taken to be well-settled that procedure prescribed for depriving a person of livelihood must meet the challenge of Article 14 and such law would be liable to be tested on the anvil of Article 14 and the procedure prescribed by a statute or statutory rule or rules or orders affecting the civil rights or result in civil consequences would have to answer the requirement of Article 14. So it must be right, just and fair and not arbitrary, fanciful or oppressive. There can be no distinction between a quasi-judicial function and an administrative function for the purpose of principles of natural justice. The aim of both administrative inquiry as well as the quasi-judicial inquiry is to arrive at a just decision and if a rule of natural justice is calculated to secure justice or to put it negatively, to prevent miscarriage of justice, it is difficult to see why it should be applicable only to quasi-judicial inquiry and not to administrative inquiry. It must logically apply to both.

14. It is thus well-settled law that right to life enshrined under Article 21 of the Constitution would include right to livelihood. The order of termination of the service of an employee/workman visits with civil consequences of jeopardising not only his/her livelihood but also career and livelihood of dependents. Therefore, before taking any action putting an end to the tenure of an employee/workman fair play requires that reasonable opportunity to put forth his case is given and domestic inquiry conducted complying with the principles of natural justice. In D.T.C. v. D.T.C. Mazdoor Congress the Constitution Bench, per majority, held that termination of the service of a workman giving one month's notice or pay in lieu thereof without inquiry offended Article 14. The order terminating the service of the employees was set aside."

40. For aforesaid consideration and discussions, impugned order dated 11.05.2016 is hereby quashed by issuance of a writ in the nature of Certiorari. A further writ in the nature of Mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to ensure payment of Family Pension to petitioner as provided vide order dated 03.09.2007 and in continuation thereof. Actual payment thereof and regular payment thereafter shall be ensured within a period of eight weeks from the date a certified copy of this order is served upon opposite party no.2.

41. Resultantly, the petition succeeds and is allowed. Parties to bear their own costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ujjawal Satsangi Advocate, learned counsel for the petitioners in Writ A No.8507 of 2024 and he is holding brief of Shri Kartikeya Saran, learned counsel for the petitioners in Writ A Nos.38333 of 2016, 40833 of 2016, 44315 of 2016 & 51565 of 2016 and Smt. Archana Tyagi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents.

2. All the aforesaid five writ petitions have been filed by the petitioners, who are working as Guest Lecturer in various Government Industrial Training Institutes in the State of U.P. and who are aggrieved by non-regularization of their services.

3. Writ-A No.38333 of 2016 has been filed by four petitioners challenging the validity of an order dated 24.05.2016 passed by the Secretary, Vocational Education and Skill Development Department, Government of U.P., rejecting their claim for regularization of their services as Guest Lecturers in Government Industrial Training Institutes.

4. Writ-A No.40833 of 2016 has been filed by ten petitioners challenging the validity of a similar order dated 13.06.2016, rejecting claim of regularization of the petitioners' services as Guest Lecturers in Government Industrial Training Institutes.

5. Writ A No.44315 of 2016 has been filed by 16 petitioners challenging validity of orders dated 24.5.2016 and 23.06.2016 passed by the Secretary, Vocational Education and Skill Development Department, State of U.P., rejecting their claim for regularization.

6. Writ-A No.51565 of 2016 and Writ A No.8507 of 2024 have been filed by 15 petitioners and 8 petitioners respectively, praying for regularization of their services as they have not been considered for regularization and no orders in this regard has been passed.

7. As common questions are involved in all the writ petitions, the writ petitions are being decided by a common judgment.

8. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that various posts of Instructors were lying vacant in various Government Industrial Training Institutes and, therefore, the Government had launched a Prashikshan Mitra Scheme for appointing Prashikshan Mitra for performing the duties of Instructors in Government Industrial Training Institutes by issuing a Government Order dated 30.08.2000, which provided that Prashikshan Mitra shall be appointed in Government Industrial Training Institutes upon payment of a remuneration of Rs.100/- per day. The Scheme would be for the financial year 2000-2001 whereafter the Scheme will come to an end automatically.

9. After completion of the Scheme period i.e. 2000-2001, another Government Order dated 30.05.2001 was issued providing for appointment of Guest Speakers in Government Industrial Training Institutes to perform the duties of Instructors as the posts of Instructors were lying vacant. This Government Order provided that the Guest Lecturers will be appointed for the period 2001-2002.

10. Even after expiry of the scheme, the petitioners continued to work as Guest Speakers in Government Industrial Training Institutes and performed the duties of Instructors thereof. The remuneration being paid to the petitioners was subsequently enhanced to Rs.300/- per day. It is the case of the petitioners that besides their educational duties relatable to the post of Instructors, they are assigned administrative duties also like other regular teachers of Government Industrial Training Institutes.

11. On 24.02.2016, a Government Order was issued for regularization of persons working in Government Departments, Autonomous Institutions, Public Sector Undertakings/Corporations, Local Bodies Development Authorities and District Panchayats, who were working since 31.03.1996 on daily wages/work charge and contract basis and who held the minimum eligibility qualification for the post in question, on available vacancies and in case of non-availability of vacancies, on supernumerary posts.

12. The Government Order dated 24.02.2016 has been replaced by the "The Uttar Pradesh Regularization of Persons Working On Daily Wages or On Work Charge or On Contract in Government Departments On Group-C and Group-D posts (Outside The Purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission) Rules, 2016" (hereinafter referred to as Rules of 2016). The exclusion Clause in the Rules of 2016 is Clause 2, which provides that:-

"2. These rules shall not apply for regularisation of :

(i) Seasonal Collection Ameen/Seasonal Peon;

(ii) Persons/Persons engaged/employed/deployed for seasonal works in Horticulture Department, Agriculture Department, Agriculture Education Department and such similar Departments;

(iii) Person/Persons engaged/employed/deployed on consolidated pay/ fixed honorarium in the schemes/projects of State Government or Government of India sponsored programmes;

(iv) Person/Persons engaged/employed/deployed as Home Guard Volunteer and Prantiya Rakshak Dal Volunteer;

(v) Person/Persons engaged/employed/deployed as Shiksha Mitra and Kisan Mitra;

(vi) Person/Persons engaged/employed/deployed under MNREGA Scheme (Rural Development Department);

(vii) Person/Persons engaged/employed/deployed in Anganbadi Kendra (Women and Child Welfare Department);

(viii) Person/Persons engaged/employed/deployed as Asha Bahu (Medical, Health and Family Welfare Department);

(ix) Such person/persons or group of persons as notified by the State Government from time to time."

13. The petitioners applied for their regularization, some of which claims have been rejected by different orders passed in their cases which are under challenge in three writ petitions. Their claim has been rejected on the same ground that the petitioners are not covered by the Government Order dated 24.02.2016 and, therefore, their services cannot be regularized.

14. The impugned order states that the Government Order dated 24.02.2016 is not applicable to Guest Lecturers and, therefore, the petitioners are not covered by the provisions of the aforesaid Government Order dated 24.02.2016. The Government Order dated 24.02.2016 excludes persons working as Seasonal Collection Ameen / Seasonal Anu Sewak in Horticulture Department / Agriculture Department / Agriculture Education Department for carrying of seasonal works, persons engaged in MNREGA / Anganwadi work / Asha Bahu / Home Guard Volunteers / P.R.D. Volunteers / Shiksha Mitra / Kisan Mitra or persons engaged on payment of honorarium or other basis under any Scheme of the Central Government / State Government and the exclusion cause does not make any reference to persons working as Guest Lecturers.

15. In the counter affidavit, the respondents have stated that the services of Guest Speakers were being availed as a time being arrangement according to the provisions of U. P. Government Industrial Training Institute (Instructors) Service Rules, 2014 and they were not entitled to work on the post of Instructors. The Guest Lecturers were appointed to work till regularly appointed Instructors joined the post.

16. The stand of the respondents in the counter affidavit is that the Government Order dated 24.02.2016 was issued regarding daily wager / work charge employees and Contractual Employees only and Prashikshan Mitra are excluded from the purview of Government Order dated 24.02.2016 by virtue of the provision contained in Clause 3 of the aforesaid Government Order.

17. Smt. Archana Tyagi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has further submitted that similar claims were raised before this Court sitting at Lucknow by filing numerous writ petitions, the leading case being Writ Petition No.6565 (S/S) of 2001 and all the writ petitions were dismissed by means of a judgment and order dated 05.03.2003, whereby the claim of regularization of persons working as Guest Speakers in Government Industrial Training Institutes was rejected. Submission of learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel is that the aforesaid order passed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court is binding on this Court.

18. Another judgment and order dated 10.01.2008 was passed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court sitting at Lucknow in Writ Petition No.5676 (S/S) of 2007 and other connected matters holding that Guest Speakers cannot stop the regularly selected candidates from joining on their post but they can be allowed to work on vacant posts till regular selection is made.

19. The petitioners were engaged as Guest Speakers on daily wage basis and, therefore, they are daily wage employees. The petitioners can only be excluded from the purview of the Government Order dated 24.02.2016, if they fall in any of the categories mentioned in the exclusion Clause No.3 of the aforesaid Government Order but the petitioners do not fall in any such category. Therefore, the contention of the respondents that the Guest Speakers are not covered by the aforesaid Government Order, is not correct.

20. So far as the judgment dated 05.03.2003 passed in Writ Petition No.6565 (S/S) of 2001 and other connected matters is considered, those writ petitions were dismissed for the following reasons:-

"For regularization, it is essential for the petitioners to establish that they have a right for regularization in service under any Rule, which provides regularization of such appointees who have been engaged under a particular scheme for a particular period. Learned counsel for the petitioner has not been able to show any such Rule which provides for regularization of such appointees. The State Government has also not framed any such scheme where the Guest Speakers, who are working under the Scheme of 2000-2001, are entitled for regularization. In the absence of any such Scheme of the State Government and also in the absence of any such statutory rule for regularization, which may be applicable to the petitioners and the like Guest Speakers, the petitioners cannot claim regularization on the post of Instructor."

21. After passing of the aforesaid judgment in the year 2003, the State Government has issued the Government Order dated 24.02.2016 for regularization of services of persons working in Government Departments, Autonomous Bodies, Public Sector Undertakings / Corporation, Local Bodies, Development Authorities and District Panchayats and thereafter the Government has framed the Rules of 2016. Therefore, the ground on which the earlier writ petitions were dismissed in the year 2003, i.e. the petitioner has not been able to show any such Rule which provides for regularization of such appointees, has ceased to exist after issuance of the Government Order dated 24.02.2016 and now their claim cannot be rejected on the basis of the judgment dated 05.03.2003 passed in Writ Petition No.6565 (S/S) of 2001 and it has to be considered in light of the Rules of 2016.

22. From the aforesaid averments made in the counter affidavit, it appears that the respondents admit that the Guest Lecturers were appointed to perform the duties of Instructor according to the provisions contained in U.P. Government Industrial Training Institute (Instructors) Service Rules, 2014.

23. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that Rule 2 (iii) of the Rules of 2016 provides that the rules shall not apply for regularization of persons/persons engaged/employed/ deployed on consolidated pay/ fixed honorarium in the Schemes/projects of State Government or Government of India sponsored programmes.

24. In this regard, it is apparent from the record that initially by means of an order dated 30.08.2000, the State Government had launched Prashikshan Mitra Scheme under which the petitioners were appointed as Prashikshan Mitra, which Scheme was for a period of one year only i.e. 2000-2001 and it came to end thereafter. Then the State Government issued another Government Order dated 30.05.2001 for engagement of Guest Lecturers for a period of one year. This Scheme of engagement of Guest Lecturers was extended by means of a Government Order dated 10.05.2002 to the period ending on 30.06.2002. Thereafter this Scheme has not been extended. Therefore, when the petitioners are not working under any Scheme since 01.07.2002 and they do not fall within the exception carved out within Rule 2 (iii) of Rules of 2016.

25. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court is of the considered view that the petitioners claim for being considered for regularization of their services under the Government Order dated 24.2.2016 / the Rules of 2016 has wrongly been rejected on the ground that they are not covered by the Government Order. The petitioners are entitled to be considered for being regularized under the provisions of Government Order dated 24.2.2016 / the Rules of 2016.

26. Accordingly, all the writ petitions bearing Writ- A No.38333 of 2016, Writ- A No.40833 of 2016, Writ-A No.44315 of 2016, Writ- A No.51565 of 2016 and Writ- A No.8507 of 2024 are hereby allowed.

27. The impugned order dated 24.05.2016 in Writ A No.38333 of 2016, order dated 13.6.2016 in Writ-A No.40833 of 2016 and orders dated 24.5.2016 and 23.06.2016 in Writ- A No.8507 of 2024 passed by the Secretary, Vocational Education and Skill Development Department, State of U.P. are unsustainable in law and are hereby quashed.

28. A mandamus is issued to the respondent No.1- Secretary, Vocational Education and Skill Development, State of U.P. to pass fresh orders regarding regularization of services of the petitioners, after taking into consideration the merit of the claim of each individual petitioner, within a period of three months from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order. Till a final order is passed in the matter, the petitioners shall be allowed to continue to remain in service and will be paid their salaries regularly.

List of Cases cited:

M/s Triveni Engineering & Industries Ltd Vs Commissioner Trade Tax, (Sales/Trade Tax Revision No. 1496 of 2004)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned counsel for petitioner as well as Sri Sanjay Sarin, learned Standing Counsel for respondents.

2. By means of present revision, the revisionist has challenged the judgment of the Full Bench of the Commercial Tax Tribunal dated 25.02.2021 passed in Appeal No. 01 of 2021 whereby they have upheld the opinion / decision of the Commercial Tax Tribunal, Uttar Pradesh dated 18.08.2021 wherein it was held that revisionist is not entitled for the benefit of Notification issued by the State of U.P. dated 10.08.2017 wherein the industrial units registered under the U.P. G.S.T. Act, 2017 were entitled for concessional rate of tax on the price of diesel which is used in the process of manufacture of taxable goods against a certificate prescribed by the Commissioner.

3. It has been submitted by learned counsel for revisionist that revisionist is under the U.P. G.S.T. Act and is engaged in manufacture of sugar by its unit at Balrampur, Uttar Pradesh. It is stated that for the purpose of manufacture of sugar, the sugar-cane is purchased from the farmers which are brought by them to the cane purchase centre established within the reserved area or assigned area. From the cane purchase centres the sugarcane is transported by the revisionist industrial unit to the factory premises where it is crushed and ultimately results in manufacture of sugar and also other byproducts.

4. The controversy pertains to the purchase of diesel at concessional rate of tax as per Notification of the State Government dated 10.08.2017 where the concession could not be availed by the revisionist due to want of certificate of the Commissioner as prescribed therein.

5. The petitioner being aggrieved by non-issuance of the certificate by the Commissioner had invoked the provisions of Section 59 of U.P. Value Added Tax (VAT) Act and referred the dispute to the Commissioner stating that they were fully entitled and eligible for being granted permission for purchase on concessional rate of tax of diesel but merely for want of a certificate by the Commissioner they were deprived of the same and consequently prayed that they should be declared to be eligible under the Notification dated 10.08.2017 entitling them to purchase diesel on concessional rate of tax.

6. The Commissioner by his opinion/order dated 04.12.2020 has rejected the application of the revisionist on two grounds. Firstly, that the crushing process starts only when the sugarcane reaches the factory premises and in the present controversy the petitioner is seeking purchase on concessional rate of tax on diesel for its transportation from the cane purchase centre to the factory premises. He was of the view that no aspect of 'manufacturer' is involved in transportation of sugarcane from cane purchase centre to the factory premises.

7. The second reason for rejecting the prayer of the revisionist was that with regard to transport from the cane purchase centre to the factory premises, the State Government in any case is covered by a Notification dated 07.12.2019 wherein the petitioner and the other Sugar Industries has been granted 42 paisa per quintal per kilometer rebate on the price of the sugarcane which is deducted from the farmer and accordingly, he was of the view that double benefit would accrue to the revisionist in case they were also given the benefit of the Notification dated 10.08.2017.

8. The revisionist being aggrieved by the order dated 04.12.2020 has preferred an appeal before the Commercial Tax Tribunal. The Commercial Tax by means of impugned judgment dated 25.02.2021 also upheld the order of the Commissioner, Commercial Tax dated 04.12.2020 against which the present revision has been filed.

9. The Commercial Tax Tribunal has also affirmed the opinion/order rendered by the Commissioner while rejecting the appeal preferred by the revisionist.

10. Learned counsel for revisionist has submitted that the first issue is pertaining to as to whether the process of manufacturing commences from Cane Purchase Centre or after the sugarcane reaches the factory premises is no longer in res-integra and a Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of M/s Triveni Engineering & Industries Ltd Vs. Commissioner Trade Tax, (Sales/Trade Tax Revision No. 1496 of 2004) has extensively dealt this aspect, as under:-

"6. The term used in Section 8(3)(b) of Act, 1956 is "for use by him in manufacture or processing of goods for sale", which are relevant for the purpose of present case since other items mentioned therein are not admittedly attracted. The question would be whether the two activities, in respect whereto revenue has found assessee guilty of violation, the purpose, for use of which, diesel was allowed to be purchased against Form-C, is one authorised or not.

7. In order to understand, it would be appropriate first to examine as to what is the actual way in which assessee claim aforesaid two activities to constitute part of manufacture and processing of goods.

8. The assessee deals in manufacture and sale of sugar for which sugarcane is the basic raw material. The sugarcane is produced by individual farmers. Sugarcane constitutes basic raw material for the assessee for manufacturing sugar. However, supply and purchase of sugarcane from farmers is not free, inasmuch as, it is controlled by statute and in Uttar Pradesh, it is regulated by U.P.Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply & Purchase) Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as "Sugarcane Supply and Purchase Act, 1953").

9. A sugar factory cannot purchase sugarcane from any farmer at its own volition but it is bound to purchase sugarcane only from such farmers, who are within a reserved area declared by Cane Commissioner for the purpose of a particular sugar factory, or assigned to it. For the purpose of sale and purchase of sugarcane in reserved or assigned area, State Government is empowered to regulate it vide Section 16 of Sugarcane Supply and Purchase Act, 1953. In this regard, it has framed rules namely U.P.Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply & Purchase) Rules, 1954 (hereinafter referred to as "Sugarcane Supply and Purchase Rules, 1954"). The factory owner is required to specify cane purchase centres throughout reserved area/assigned area so that farmers may not be required to transport sugarcane for long distance and factory owner himself would purchase sugarcane at those purchase centres and thereafter transport to its factory for its use. At purchase centres, factory owner is also obliged to provide weighment facilities and adequate labour for loading and unloading cane at such purchase centres. This is evident from Rules 38, 38-A and 39 of Sugarcane Supply and Purchase Rules, 1954. The sugarcane purchased by factory owner at purchase centres therefore, become property of factory owner at such purchase centres and therefrom, it has to be transported by him upto the pithead in the factory for the purpose of its crushing.

10. It is not disputed by learned Standing Counsel that if the sugarcane if stored in factory premises itself, at some place, since a very large quantity thereof would be required continuously, and, if it is transported from that storage point to the pithead for crushing purpose, such transportation would form part of manufacture. In that view, I do not find why transportation of sugarcane from purchase centres to factory premises should be excluded from the term "manufacture of sugar". Nothing has been shown to this Court so as to pursue to take a different view in the matter.

11. The term "manufacture" has varied meanings and has got various sheds. It has to be considered in the context of item, which is up for consideration. General understanding of term "manufacture" is that it means bringing into existence a new substance. The word "manufacture" implies a change but every change in the raw material is not manufacture.

12. In CST Vs. Lal Kunwa Stone Crusher (P.) Ltd., (2000) 118 STC 287 (SC) the Court said that definition of the word "manufacture" makes it clear that every activity in relation to goods not only alter the same but also processing the same has also been included.

13. The term "manufacture" includes any process or part of process for making, altering, ornamenting, finishing, taking, labelling or otherwise drawing or tapping with a view to sell or distribute in the context of a drug. The "manufacture" involves series of processes and includes any process incidental or ancillary to the completion of a manufactured product as held in Union of India Vs. Ahmedabad Electricity Co. Ltd., (2003) 11 SCC 129.

14. In the context of mining of ore, the Court in Chowgule & Co. Pvt. Ltd. and Anr. Vs. Union of India & Ors., AIR 1981 SC 1014 said:

"Where a dealer is engaged both in mining operation as also in processing the mined ore for sale, the two processes being interdependent, it would be essential for carrying on the operation of processing that the ore should be carried from the mining site mined ore for sale, the two processes being inter-dependent, it would be essential for carrying on the operation of processing that the ore should be carried from the mining site where the mining operation comes to end to the place where the processing is carried on and that would clearly be an integral part of the operation of processing and if any machinery, vehicles, barges and other items of goods are used for carrying the ore from the mining site to the place of processing, they would clearly be goods used in processing of ore for sale. It is obvious that, in the present case, the mining of ore is done by the assessee with a view to processing the mined ore through the Mechanical Ore Handling Plant at the Marmagoa harbour and the entire operation of mining ore and processing the mined ore is one integrated process of which transportation of the mined ore from the mining site to the Marmagoa harbour is an essential part and, in the circumstances, it is difficult to see how the machinery, vehicles, barges and other items of goods used for transporting the mined ore from the mining site to the Marmagoa harbour can be excluded from consideration on the ground that they are not goods used in processing of ore for sale. The decision of this Court in Indian Copper Corporation case (supra) is directly in point and completely supports this conclusion which we are inclined to reach on principle. The assessee in that case was a company which mined copper and iron ore from its own mines, transported the ore to its factory and manufactured finished products from the ore for sale."

(emphasis added)

15. In J.K. Cotton Spinning & Weaving Mills Co. Ltd. v. Sales Tax Officer, Kanpur and Anr., 1965 (1) SCR 900, the Court said that if a process or activity was so integrally related to the manufactured goods so that without that process or activity, manufacture may, even if theoretically possible, be commercially inexpedient, goods intended for use in the process or activity would qualify.

16. In the present case, sugarcane in its entirety cannot be purchased by sugar factory at its factory premises and under law, it is bound to purchase from the farmers at cane purchase centres. For manufacturing of sugar, crushing of surgarcane is an integral part and for that purpose, sugarcane has to be transported from its place of storage or where it has been purchased to the point of crushing pit where it has to be off loaded for crushing. To my mind, this is integrally connected part of process of manufacturing of sugar and therefore diesel purchased against Form-C if used for cane procurement from centres to factory, it would not amount to violation of purpose for which the said diesel was purchased. The question no.1, therefore, is answered accordingly."

11. According to the aforesaid judgment, undoubtedly, the transportation of sugarcane from the Cane Purchase Centre to the Factory Premises is included in the term 'manufacture' of sugar and the Tribunal has not correctly appreciated the controversy and has clearly erred in law.

12. It has further been submitted that the said judgment has become final and the State did not challenge the same before Hon'ble the Supreme Court

13. The second question which arises for consideration is with regard to the benefit obtained by the revisionist under the Notification dated 07.12.2019 which according to the State Advised Price, the revisionist was also given 42 paisa per quintal per kilometer to a limit of Rs. 8.35 p per quintal for transportation of the sugarcane from the Cane Purchase Centre to the Factory Premises.

14. In this regard, it has been submitted that the said amount as prescribed in the Notification dated 07.12.2019 pertains to transportation of sugarcane and it is clearly not in relation to the purchase of diesel for transportation of sugar which two things are distinguishable and separate.

15. It was further vehemently submitted that Notification to benefit of which is being sought by the petitioner dated 10.08.2017 is applicable all across the board to all the manufacturing units which fulfill conditions prescribed therein, namely, that the beneficiary industrial unit should be engaged in manufacture of taxable goods under the U.P. G.S.T. Act and for the said manufacture they are required to obtain a certificate from the Commissioner, subsequent to which they will be entitled to purchase diesel at the concessional rate of tax. It has been submitted that the Notification dated 07.12.2019 and 10.08.2017 have been passed by the State of U.P. which was fully aware of the benefits being granted to the industrial units. The beneficial piece of legislation or policy seeking to promote industrialization which itself does not provide for any restriction or limitations in its application to any particular segment or the industries given by the State Government has to be liberally construed keeping in view the object for such grant of subsidies or benefits to the industrial units.

16. Sri Sanjay Sarin, learned Standing Counsel for the State has opposed the revision. He has submitted that there is no infirmity in the order passed by the Commissioner, Commercial Tax as well as Commercial Tax Tribunal wherein it has denied the benefit to the revisionist of the Notification dated 10.08.2017 where it was found that the revisionist is already taking benefit of concessional rate of tax as provided for by the State Government in its Notification dated 07.12.2019 and they cannot be given a benefit of transpiration of sugarcane from the Cane Purchase Centre to Factory Premises, once the same benefit has already been obtained by the revisionist.

17. The benefit granted by Notification dated 07.12.2019 clearly confines to the industrial units who are engaged in manufacture of sugar after purchasing sugarcane from the farmers where benefits of transportation from the Cane Purchase Centre to the Factory Gate was provided, while by Notification dated 10.08.2017. Benefit for concessional rate of tax was provided to all the industrial units for the purpose of manufacture of taxable goods. Clearly even if the revisionist has received benefit under the Notification dated 07.12.2019 he cannot be denied the benefits under Notification dated 10.08.2017 inasmuch as there is no provision for excluding the revisionist for being granted benefit under the said Notification, and no such restrictions could be placed before us.

18. Had it been the intention of the Government to deny the benefit of the Notification dated 10.08.2017 in light of the fact that the sugar industrial units are already obtaining benefits under Notification dated 07.12.2019, the said facts would have been clearly mentioned in the Notification dated 10.08.2017. In absence of any restrictive clause in the Notification dated 10.08.2017, the Tribunal as well as the Commissioner, Commercial Tax had erred in interpreting and restricting the interpretation of the Notification dated 10.08.2017 in its application to the sugar manufacturing units.

19. In light of the aforesaid discussions, this Court is of the considered view that Commissioner, Commercial Tax as well as Commercial Tax Tribunal both have erred in interpreting the provisions of Notification dated 10.08.2017, according this Court is of the considered view that the revisionist clearly falls within the ambit of provisions contained in the aforesaid notification and was entitled to the benefit for purchase of diesel at the concessional rate of tax as prescribed therein.

20. In light of the above, the revision is allowed. The impugned orders dated 04.12.2020 and 25.02.2021 are set aside.

6. Original Suit No. 4 of 2021; St. of West Bengal Vs U.O.I.decided on 10.07.2024 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shantanu along with Sri Raj Kumar Dhama, learned counsel for revisionist and Sri Punit Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for opposite party.

2. Present civil revision has been filed seeking following relief:-

"It is, therefore, Most Respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to stay the effect and operation of the impugned Judgment and Order dated 12.03.2024 passed by the Learned Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Court No. 9, Meerut in Original Suit No. 1100 of 2023 (Smt. Meetu vs. Kushank Paruthi) allowing the Application No. 46 Ga filed by the defendant/respondent under Order 7 Rule 11 of C.P.C.; during the pendency of the present revision before this Hon'ble Court, otherwise the revisionist shall suffer irreparable loss and injury."

3. At the very outset, Sri Punit Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for opposite party has raised preliminary objection and submitted that against the impugned order, there is remedy to file appeal under the provisions of The Court-fees Act, 1870 (hereinafter referred to as ' Act, 1870').

4. Sri Shantanu, learned counsel for revisionist has objected the submission made by learned counsel for opposite party and submitted that present revision has been filed against the order passed upon the application filed under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC, therefore, there is no occasion for the revisionist to file appeal and revision is the remedy provided under the law.

5. On merits, he submitted that Original Suit No. 1100 of 2023 has been filed before learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Meerut under sections 34 & 38 of Specific Relief Act, 1963 to declare void alleged fraudulent Will deed dated 26.03.2021 registered on 20.02.2023 executed by Late Naresh Kumar Paruthi husband of revisionist Smt. Neetu Paruthi. Further, for seeking declaratory decree and permanent injunction in half share of the revisionist in the property belonging to Late Sri Naresh Kumar Partuthi after his death. After filing of suit, application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC has been filed by defendant, which was partly allowed with direction to plaintiff to deposit court fee.

6. He next submitted that so far as deficiency of stamp fee is concerned, it may not be decided upon the application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC rather issue is required to be framed after submission of written submissions and should have been decided along with other issues so framed.

7. He firmly submitted that as present suit has been filed to declare the Will deed void and not for cancellation of the same, therefore, no court fee is required and only court fees of Rs. 200/- as paid by the plaintiff is sufficient. He next submitted that similar issue was before the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the matter of Pramila Tiwari vs. Anil Kumar Mishra and 4 others; Neutral Citation.- 2024:AHC:85067-DB as to whether provisions of compulsory registration of Will is prospective or retrospective and the Court has held that registration of Will is not required in State of Uttar Pradesh. Based upon said judgment, learned counsel for revisionist submitted that once the registration of Will is not necessary, it shall not required to be cancelled and only declaration of void is sufficient.

8. He further submitted that while deciding the application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC, only plaint is required to be seen and no defence may be considered by the Court. Here in present case, Court has considered the defence so raised by defendant in application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC, therefore, order is bad and liable to be set aside.

9. Per contra, Sri Punit Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for opposite party firmly submitted that after filing of suit, once the issue of court fees is raised, it is required to be decided first and then Court may proceed to decide the remaining issues, so framed. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the matter of State of U.P. vs. Mahant Shiva Nand Giri and others (Civil Revision No. 599 of 1988).

10. He next submitted that in case Will deed having money value, its cancellation or declaring the said void is having same meaning and effect. Once a Will deed is put-forth for execution either registered or unregistered, it shall be treated an instrument having money value and court fees is required to be paid. In support of his contention, he placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the matter Kailash Chand vs. Vth A.C.J., Meerut and others (Case No. F.A.F.O. No. 344 of 1997), Rajni Swami vs. Shakuntala Sharma (Case No. : F.A.F.O. No. 1480 of 2009) and Sudha Sharma vs. Shashi Bala Sharma (Case No. : F.A.F.O. No. 3382 of 2011). He also pointed out that in light of Section 7 Sub-Section iv(a) of Act, 1870, it is very clear that either suit is for cancellation or adjudging it to void, in both eventuality, court fee is required, therefore, argument raised by learned counsel for revisionist is having no force.

11. He further submitted that so far as last argument of counsel for revisionist about the consideration of plaint only, while deciding application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC is concerned, there is no dispute on this point. It has to be decided only from the plaint and it is required on the part of Court concerned to test the plaint on the principles of Order VII Rule 11 of CPC even if no application is filed. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of State of West Bengal vs. Union of India passed in Original Suit No.4 of 2021, delivered on 10.07.2024.

12. I have considered rival submissions made by learned counsels for parties and perused the records as well as judgments cited above.

13. So far as preliminary objection is concerned, this Court is of the view that as the revisionist has challenged the impugned order based upon the application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC, therefore, revision is maintainable and even otherwise alternative remedy is not the absolute bar. Therefore, Court is proceeded to decided the case on merits.

14. The defendant-respondent has filed application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC, which was partly allowed in light of Order VII Rule 11 (c) of CPC, which is quoted below:-

"11. Rejection of plaint.- The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:-

(c) where the relief claimed is properly valued but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;"

15. From the perusal of Order VII Rule 11 (c) of CPC, it is apparently clear that in case it is found that the relief claimed is under valued, Court may provide liberty to correct valuation within the time and in case of failure, plaint may be rejected. In the present case, Court while partly allowing the application has granted time to remove deficiency of stamp.

16. First issue is as to whether the valuation of plaint has to be seen at the first instance or after framing the issue on this point. Law is very much clear that once the objection is raised about insufficiency of Court fee, it is required on the part of Court to decide the same first and then proceed to decide other issues.

17. The very same view has been taken by this Court in the matter of Mahant Shiva Nand Giri (Supra). Relevant paragraph No. 12 is quoted below:-

"12. Sub-section (4) of Section 6 gives aright to the defendant to raise an objection about insufficiency of the court fee. Before proceeding with the suit, the court is bound to dispose of the said objection. If the defendant fails to raise any such objection or if he raised but failed to satisfy the court then the field of objection gets occupied by Section 6(3). It requires an objection to be filed by an officer mentioned in Section 24-A of the Act."

18. The second issue raised by learned counsel for petitioner about the filing of suit for void and not for cancellation, therefore, no court fee is required is also squarely covered itself from section 7 sub-section iv(a) of Act, 1870, which clearly says that either suit is for cancellation or adjudging it to void, in both eventuality, court fee is required, therefore, there is no confusion in the statute. For ready reference, Section 7 sub-section iv(a) of Act, 1870 is being quoted below:-

"For cancellation or adjudging void instruments and decrees.- (iv-A) In suit for or involving cancellation of or adjudging void or voidable a decree for money or other property having a market value, or an instrument securing money or other property having such value"

19. Apart that, this issue has also been considered by Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Rajni Swami (Supra). Relevant paragraph is quoted below:-

"5. The question is whether a Will can be regarded as a legal document which makes any property secure or safe. Section 2(h) of the Indian Succession Act, defines a Will as a "legal declaration of the intention of the testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death. "It is well known that during the life-time of the executant, the Will is ambulatory. It could be revoked by him at his will. Accordingly, a Will does not secure any property during the lifetime of the executant. Section 7(iv-A) does not require that an instrument should secure money or property having money value from the moment of its birth. It seems to us that whether an instrument secures money or property having money value within the meaning of Section 7(iv-A) is to be decided with reference to the date of the institution of the suit. It is to be seen whether a particular instrument secures on the date of the institution of the suit money or property having money value. This reference necessarily follows from a collocational reading of this Section with Section 39 of the Specific Relief Act. If this is so, as we think, then there is little doubt that on the date of the institution of the suit in this case the Will did secure property. Ganga Prasad the testator had died, and after his death the Will became irrevocable. Upon his death his estate would be disposed of in accordance with his directions in the Will. Accordingly it can be said that on the death of the testator the Will secures money or property having money value. We, therefore, hold that the court-fee paid on the plaint and the memorandum of appeal is insufficient. The amount of deficiency mentioned in the office report should now be paid by the plaintiff within three months.

15. We have considered the law. It is our duty to fit the law into the fact to come to a definite finding. There is a big gap between the declaration simplicitor and relief in the garb of declaration. If a person makes a prayer to declare right, title or interest of a property in his favour then it can be construed as declaration simplicitor but when a plaintiff seeks any declaration to disentitle others" right into a property, such type of circumvent prayer cannot be treated to be declaration simplicitor. In other words, he is not asking any relief for himself but want to prevent his opponent from enjoying fruit of the property. Therefore, such type of relief is virtually in the nature of injunction at first with the nomenclature of the "declaration." Therefore, it is required for the Court to go into the real nature of dispute arising out of the plaint to ascertain the cause and incidental cause which helps it. A Will is execution of document of a testator to give his property to a person of his choice. Such Will will be enforceable only after the death of the testator. In some of the States of India, grant of probate by the appropriate court of law on the Will is compulsory and some of the State it is optional. In the State of U.P., obtain probate on the Will is optional, therefore, as soon as the testator dies and Will comes into light, it operates as a valuable instrument in favour of the person in whose favour property is devolved by such Will. If such person seeks a probate before the Court by filing it, no question of ad valorem court-fee will be applicable but it will be paid as soon as Court will grant such probate in his favour. In the present case, the defendant-respondent never approached to the Court to obtain a probate but enjoying the property as successor under the Will. Now, if such Will is declared by the Court as null and void, right of the person in the property or properties under the Will, will be extinguished. Therefore, the principle of securing property under the Will will be attracted. Therefore, under no stretch of imagination we can hold and say that the suit can be entertained on the basis of the fixed court-fees."

20. Again, in the matter of Kailash Chand (Supra), Court has taken similar view. Relevant paragraph is quoted below:-

"19. We have already held above that so long as the will has not become operative on account of death of the testator, the will is not a document or an instrument securing property having money value but once the testator dies and a suit is filed after the death of the testator, that will become an instrument securing the property having money value. As in the instant case, admittedly the suit has been filed long after the death of the testator, the will has become operative and, therefore, the will is an instrument or document securing property having money value. Since Section 7 (IVA) (U. P. Amendment) specifically provides for payment of court fee in case where the suit is for or involving cancellation or adjudging void or voidable an instrument securing property having money value. Article 17 (iii) of Schedule II of the Court Fees Act shall not be applicable. In our view, therefore, there is no error in the order passed by the trial court.

20. Consequently the appeal fails and is hereby dismissed. We, however, make no order as to costs."

21. In the matter of Sudha Sharma (Supra), Court has taken similar view. Relevant paragraph is quoted below:-

"10. Now as regards the argument of learned counsel for the appellant with regard to applicability of Article 17(iii) Court Fees Act is concerned, it would be useful to quote para-10 of the report of Kailash Chand's case (supra), which is reproduced as under:

10. On a bare perusal of Article 17(iii), it would appear that this Article shall be applicable in cases where the plaintiff seeks to obtain a declaratory decree without any consequential relief and there is no other provision under the Act for payment of fee relating to relief claimed. The question is whether in case where a decree declaring the will as null and void is sought, there is any provision under the Court Fees Act to cover the question of payment of Court Fees on the relief of such declaration. In case the answer to the question is that there is no other provision under the Act in case of a suit involving cancellation or adjudging/declaring void or voidable a will on the question of payment of Court fees, then Article 17(iii) of Schedule II of the Court Fees shall be applicable and if such relief is covered by any other provisions of the Court Fees Act, then provisions of Article 17 (iii) of Schedule II will not be applicable. Careful reading of Section 7(iv-A) makes it abundantly clear that it also covers suits for or involving cancellation or adjudging/declaring null and void decree for money or an instrument securing money or other property having such value. The question, therefore, is whether a will would be treated as an instrument securing money or other property having such value. This question specifically arose before the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Bishnu Shri v. Smt. Suraj Mukhi and others, AIR 1966 All 563 (supra). The Majority view of the Court after considering the provisions of Indian Succession Act and the Court Fees Act was that the word 'instrument' in Section 7(iv-A) includes formal or legal documents in writing. It is sufficiently broad to include wills also. In para 7 the Court held that:

The question is whether a will can be regarded as a legal document which makes any property secure or safe. Section 2(h) of the Indian Succession Act define a will as a "legal declaration of the intention of the testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death. It is well known that during the life-time of the executant, the will Is ambulatory. It could be revoked by him at his will. Accordingly a will does not secure any property during the lifetime of the executant. Section 7(iv-A) does not require that an instrument should secure money or property having money value from the moment of its birth. It seems to us that whether an Instrument secures money or property having money value within the meaning of Section 7(iv-A) is to be decided with reference to the date of the institution of the suit. It is to be seen whether particular instrument secures on the date of the institution of the suit money or property having money value. This reference necessarily follows from a collocational reading of this section with Section 39 of the Specific Relief Act. If this is so we think, then there is little doubt that on the date of the institution of the suit in this case the will did secure property. The Court further held that:

“the word "securing" is the present participle from of verb "to secure". It has got various meanings (Words and Phrases) (Permanent Edition), Vol. 38 page 45-8) "Secures" as used in a contract whereby a vendor agrees to execute a conveyance thereof as soon as the vendee secures the payment of purchase money, means not a payment in money but the giving by the vendees of something by means whereof payment at some future time can be procured or compelled (Ibid), Webster defines "secures" to mean "to make certain" "to put beyond hazard". To secure" is to make safe, to put beyond hazard of losing or of not receiving, as to secure a debt by a mortgage; it also means to get safely in possession, to obtain to acquire certainly, as to secure an inheritance or a price [Ibid 459].”

22. Now coming to the present case. The facts are akin to the facts of judgment reproduced here-in above. In the present case too, alleged Will deed was executed on 26.03.2021 by the husband of revisionist and also registered on 20.02.2023 and to declare the void, present suit has been filed restraining others to claim any right over the half of the property referred in Will deed. Certainly, a suit has been preferred after death of testator, therefore, in the light of Section 7 (iv-a) of Act, 1870, it is having money value and court fee is liable to be paid.

23. Another issue was as to whether while deciding the application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC, defence was taken care of by the Magistrate or not. From the perusal of application as well as impugned order, it is apparently clear that so far as defence is involved, the court has not accepted the same, but partly allowed the application only on the ground of insufficiency of court fee, which is strictly in accordance with Order VII Rule 11(C) of CPC. Therefore, I found no infirmity in the impugned order on this point also.

24. Not only this, even if there is no application under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC, it is required on the part of Court to see the ingredients of Order VII Rule 11 of CPC and if it is found, plaint may be rejected.

25. Apex Court has also taken similar view in the matter of State of West Bengal (Supra),. Relevant paragraph is quoted below:-

"26. In view of the word 'shall' used in the provisions, a duty is cast on the court to examine as to whether the plaint is hit by any of the infirmities provided in the six clauses of Order VII Rule 11 of the CPC. A duty is cast on the court to reject the plaint even without the intervention of the defendant. Reference in this respect could be made to the judgment of this Court in the case of Sopan Sukhdeo Sable (supra)."

26. Therefore, in the light of law as well as facts discussed here-in above, I found no infirmity or illegality in the impugned order.

27. Writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Shankar Bhatnagar, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Tarun Agarwal, learned counsel for the opposite party No. 1.

2. Present revision has been filed with the following prayer:

"Hon'ble court may pleased to allowed this revision and set aside the judgment and order dated 16.05.2024 and its formal order dated 11.05.2024 passed by Civil Judge(S.D.), Aligarh in O.S. No. 308 of 2023 Ikram Khan Vs. Smt. Amreena and ors. With costs throughout and may further be pleased to pass any other order or orders, grant any other relief or reliefs and give directions which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances on the following amongst other grounds."

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that opposite party No. 1-plaintiff has filed Original Suit No. 308 of 2023 and from the perusal of the aforesaid plaint, no cause of action is made out against revisionist-defendant No. 5 IInd set, therefore, revisionist-defendant has filed application under Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC to reject the plaint, which was dismissed vide impugned order dated 16.05.2024. He firmly submitted that once it is undisputed from the plaint that not a single word has been written against the revisionist-defendant, therefore, it is required for the court to reject the plaint, so far as it relates to revisionist-defendant. He next submitted that application under Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC has been filed on the ground that no cause of action has arose for filing of suit against revisionist-defendant and on this ground alone, plaint is liable to be rejected, but the court below has not returned any finding on this point and dismissed the application under Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC by the order impugned. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant has placed reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the matter of I.T.C. Limited Vs. Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal and others: AIR 1998 SC 634, judgment of Calcutta High Court in the matter of Nandalal N. Verma And Co. Ltd. Vs. Alliance Mills(Leasee) Pvt. 4. Per contra, Sri Tarun Agarwal, learned counsel for the opposite party No. 1 vehemently opposed the submission so made by the learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant and submitted that first of all application under Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC has not been filed for rejecting the plaint only in respect of revisionist-defendant, but it is for rejection of the whole plaint. He also pointed out that plaint may not be rejected in particular for one of the defendants only, either the plaint may be rejected as a whole or may not be rejected at all. In support of his contention, he placed reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Apex court in the matters of Madhav Prasad Aggarwal & Anr. Vs. Axis Bank Ltd. & Anr.: 2019 0 Supreme(SC) 870, Sejal Glass Ltd. vs. Navilan Merchants Pvt. Ltd.: 2017 0 Supreme(SC) 1029, judgment of Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in the matter of Balwant Singh Vs. The State Bank of India and others: AIR 1976 PUNJAB & HARYANA 316 FULL BENCH.

5. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record as well as judgments relied upon.

6. From the perusal of the plaint, it is found that there is no allegations against the revisionist-defendant (Punjab National Bank) and in light of there being no allegation, revisionist has filed application under Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC to reject the plaint. For ready reference Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC is being quoted hereinbelow:

"11. Rejection of plaint.— The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:—

(a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;"

7. Learned Judge while deciding the application has rejected the same on the ground that from the perusal of the plaint, there appears to be cause of action against the revisionist-defendant and rejected the application vide order dated 16.05.2024. In the impugned order, court has not returned any finding as to whether, in case there is no cause of action against the revisionist-defendant set as shown in the plaint, as to how plaint would continue.

8. To decide this issue as the facts are undisputed, I have also gone through judgments relied upon the by the learned counsel for the parties.

9. Learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of I.T.C. Limited(Supra). Relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment is being quoted hereinbelow:

"29. For the aforesaid reasons, we hold that there is no cause of action even from the plaint allegations, against the appellant. Appeal allowed and the plaint if rejected under Order 7, Rule 11(a) as against the appellant-5th defendant. Appeal is allowed accordingly to that extent. There will be no order as to costs."

10. In the aforesaid case, bank has filed a suit with the allegation of fraud upon the defendant No. 5. Against the said suit, defendant No. 5 has filed application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC to reject the suit as there is no fraud played by him, which was dismissed. Against that, appeal was preferred before the DRAT, which was dismissed and writ petition filed against that order has also been dismissed. The matter went up to Apex Court and the Apex Court has considered that no fraud as alleged has been played by the defendant No. 5 and accordingly rejected the plaint so far as it relates to defendant No. 5.

11. In fact this was not the issue before the Apex Court that as to whether plaint as a whole or in particular may be rejected or not and Apex Court based upon facts of the case as rejected the plaint so far as it related to defendant No. 5.

12. Learned counsel for the opposite party No. 1 has also placed reliance upon the judgments of full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in the matter of Balwant Singh(Supra) in which the issue was as to whether a plaint does not disclose a cause of action in respect of the part of the claim against some of the defendants is liable to be rejected in its entirety. Relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment is being quoted hereinbelow:

"4. The short question that requires determination in this case is, whether a plaint which does not disclose a cause of action in respect of the part of the claim against some of the defendants is liable to be rejected in its entirety.

11. As a result of the above discussion, I hold that the plea raised by the petitioner is untenable and the contrary view is neither sound nor just and is not warranted by the language of the statute. Consequently, my answer to the question posed is that the provisions of Order 7, Rule 11 (a) of the Code of Civil Procedure, would be attracted only in a case where by reason of the plea that a plaint does not disclose a cause of action, the plaintiff is to be wholly non-suited, but this rule would have no applicability to cases where a plaint discloses & cause of action in respect of the part of the claim against some of the defendants, as in that event the names of the defendants against whom there is no cause of action or the suit is barred by law, have to be struck off and the suit has to proceed against the remaining defendants. The case would now go back to the learned Single Judge for disposal on merits."

13. After considering the law as well as judgments, it was held by the Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court that the plaint does not discloses the cause of action and the plaintiff is to be wholly non suited, but in case a plaint discloses a cause of action in respect of part of claim against five defendants in that event, the names of defendants against whom there is no cause of action may be struck of.

14. In 2017 the same issue came before the Apex Court in the matter of Sejal Glass Ltd.(Supra). In this case, the facts of the case are deposed in paragraph 4 of the judgment and the same is being quoted hereinbelow:

"4. An application dated 08.07.2016 was filed by the Defendant(s) under Order VII Rule 11 stating that the plaint disclosed no cause of action. By the impugned judgment dated 07.09.2016, it has been held that the plaint is to be bifurcated - it discloses no cause of action against the Directors i.e. Defendant Nos. 2 to 4 but the suit is to continue against the Defendant No.1-Company. It has further been held that the defendant, in any case, is barred from filing a written statement in the suit as he has taken inordinate time to do so."

15. In the aforesaid case, Apex Court after considering the provisions in detail has replied in its paragraph 10, 11 & 13. The Court has taken a very clear cut view that plaint as a whole must be rejected and not in part. Paragraph 10, 11 & 13 are being quoted hereinbelow:

"10. We are afraid that this is a misreading of the Madras High Court judgment. It was only on the peculiar facts of that case that want of Section 80 CPC against one defendant led to the rejection of the plaint as a whole, as no cause of action would remain against the other defendants. This cannot elevate itself into a rule of law, that once a part of a plaint cannot proceed, the other part also cannot proceed, and the plaint as a whole must be rejected under Order VII Rule 11. In all such cases, if the plaint survives against certain defendants and/or properties, Order VII Rule 11 will have no application at all, and the suit as a whole must then proceed to trial.

11. If only a portion of the plaint, as opposed to the plaint as a whole is to be struck out, Order VI Rule 16 of the CPC would apply. Order VI Rule 16 states as follows:-

"16. Striking out pleadings.- The Court may at any stage of the proceedings order to be struck out or amended any matter in any pleading-

a) which may be unnecessary, scandalous, frivolous or vexatious, or

b) which may tend to prejudice, embarrass or delay the fair trial of the suit, or

c) which is otherwise an abuse of the process of the Court."

It is clear that Order VI Rule 16 would not apply in the facts of the present case. There is no plea or averment to the effect that, as against the Directors, pleadings should be struck out on the ground that they are unnecessary, scandalous, frivolous, vexatious or that they may otherwise tend to prejudice, embarrass or delay the fair trial of the suit or that it is otherwise an abuse of the process of the Court.

13. The Court is vested with a discretion under this order to deal with an issue of law, which it may try as a preliminary issue if it relates to the jurisdiction of the Court, or is a bar to the suit created for the time being in force. Obviously, this provision would apply after issues are struck i.e. after a written statement is filed. This provision again cannot come to the rescue of learned counsel for the respondent."

16. From the perusal of the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of Sejal Glass Ltd.(Supra) it is absolutely clear that in case there is no cause of action against one defendant, but plaint survives against certain defendants, application under Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC would have no application and suit as a whole must have been then proceeded to trial. The Apex Court is of the view that in such facts, where there is no other cause of action against one of the defendants, but there is cause of action against other defendants, application under Order VII Rule 11 is not maintainable and suit shall proceed.

17. Again the similar matter was before the Apex Court in the matter of Madhav Prasad Aggarwal(Supra) and the Court has clearly held that plaint is to be rejected as a whole and not in part. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:

"11. We do not deem it necessary to elaborate on all other arguments as we are inclined to accept the objection of the appellant(s) that the relief of rejection of plaint in exercise of powers under Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC cannot be pursued only in respect of one of the defendant(s). In other words, the plaint has to be rejected as a whole or not at all, in exercise of power Order 7 Rule 11 (d) of CPC. Indeed, the learned Single Judge rejected this objection raised by the appellant(s) by relying on the decision of the Division Bench of the same High Court. However, we find that the decision of this Court in the case of Sejal Glass Limited(supra) is directly on the point. In that case, an application was filed by the defendant(s) under Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC stating that the plaint disclosed no cause of action. The civil court held that the plaint is to be bifurcated as it did not disclose any cause of action against the director's defendant(s) 2 to 4 therein. On that basis, the High Court had opined that the suit can continue against defendant No.1company alone. The question considered by this Court was whether such a course is open to the civil court in exercise of powers under Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC. The Court answered the said question in the negative by adverting to several decisions on the point which had consistently held that the plaint can either be rejected as a whole or not at all. The Court held that it is not permissible to reject plaint qua any particular portion of a plaint including against some of the defendant(s) and continue the same against the others. In no uncertain terms the Court has held that if the plaint survives against certain defendant(s) and/or properties, Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC will have no application at all, and the suit as a whole must then proceed to trial."

13. Indubitably, the plaint can and must be rejected in exerciseof powers under Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC on account of noncompliance of mandatory requirements or being replete with any institutional deficiency at the time of presentation of the plaint, ascribable to clauses (a) to (f) of Rule 11 of Order 7 of CPC. In other words, the plaint as presented must proceed as a whole or can be rejected as a whole but not in part. In that sense, the relief claimed by respondent No.1 in the notice of motion(s) which commended to the High Court, is clearly a jurisdictional error. The fact that one or some of the reliefs claimed against respondent No.1 in the concerned suit is barred by Section 34 of 2002 Act or otherwise, such objection can be raised by invoking other remedies including under Order 6 Rule 16 of CPC at the appropriate stage. That can be considered by the Court on its own merits and in accordance with law. Although, the High Court has examined those matters in the impugned judgment the same, in our opinion, should stand effaced and we order accordingly.

15. A fortiori, these appeals must succeed on the sole ground that the principal relief claimed in the notice of motion filed by respondent No.1 to reject the plaint only qua the said respondent and which commended to the High Court, is replete with jurisdictional error. Such a relief "cannot be entertained" in exercise of power under Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC. That power is limited to rejection of the plaint as a whole or not at all.

18. Apex Court in the matter of Madhav Prasad Aggarwal(Supra) following the judgment in Sejal Glass Ltd.(Supra) has taken the very same view. In fact, the firm view taken by the Apex Court in Sejal Glass Ltd.(Supra) has been reiterated in this judgment and the Court has taken the view that in such eventuality, suit will proceed and it cannot be rejected in part only for one defendant.

19. Now, coming to the the facts of the present case. It is undisputed that in the plaint filed by the plaintiff-opposite party No. 1, there is cause of action against other defendants, i.e. defendant Nos. 1 to 4 Ist set, therefore, by the application under Order VII Rule 11(a) CPC filed by the revisionist-defendant No. 5 IInd set, plaint cannot be rejected and the plaint shall proceed as a whole, because it would injustice to the plaintiff so far as the plaint relates to claim against defendants Ist set i.e. defendant Nos. 1 to 4.

20. Now, there is one more legal issue as to whether revisionist-defendant is having any remedy available under the law or not, in case there is no allegation against him in the plaint.

21. I have perused the Order I Rule 10 CPC that will come in the rescue of revisionist-defendant, which is being quoted hereinbelow:

"10. Suit in name of wrong plaintiff.—(1) Where a suit has been instituted in the name of the wrong person as plaintiff or where it is doubtful whether it has been instituted in the name of the right plaintiff, the Court may at any stage of the suit, if satisfied that the suit has been instituted through a bona fide mistake, and that it is necessary for the determination of the real matter in dispute so to do, order any other person to be substituted or added as plaintiff upon such terms as the Court thinks just.

(2) Court may strike out or add parties.—The Court may at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may appear to the Court to be just, order that the name of any party improperly joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, be struck out, and that the name of any person who ought to have been joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, or whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit, be added

22. Order I Rule 10(2) CPC provides that court may at any stage of the proceedings either upon or without the application of either party may strike out name, in case any party is joined improperly, whether it is plaintiff or the defendant. Meaning thereby that revisionist-defendant is having remedy to move application to strike out its name from the array of defendants in Original Suit No. 308 of 2023 as its name has been joined improperly as neither there is any cause of action shown nor relief has been claimed against the revisionist-defendant.

23. Therefore, in view of the law discussed as above, I find no illegality or infirmity in the impugned order dated 16.05.2024.

24. Petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

25. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Radhika Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Shri Neerav Chitravanshi, learned counsel for the opposite party assisted by Shri Kushagra Dikshit, learned Advocate at length.

2. Order dated 1.11.2023 vide which charges have been framed, notices gist of the matter. The said order is extracted hereinbelow:

1. Heard Ms. Radhika Singh, learned Advocate for the applicant along with Sri Anand Prakash Sinha, learned Advocate and Shri Neerav Chitravanshi, learned counsel for the opposite party assisted by Shri Kushagra Dikshit, learned Advocate.

2. The present contempt application under Section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 has been filed alleging willful and deliberate disobedience of judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 passed by a Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No.9525 (MB) of 2013 whereby the following direction was issued:

"A perusal of Annexure SA-3 annexed with the supplementary affidavit dated 31.3.2015 shows that in response to the notice dated 3.11.2014, the petitioner preferred written objection to the Assessing Officer bringing to his notice the pendency of the aforesaid writ petition and also apprising him that Section 127 was not even remotely attracted. Therefore, it was incumbent upon the opposite party No.2 to have waited for the outcome of the writ petition, but he proceeded with the matter which shows prejudicial and impartial attitude of the authority. It may be noted that transparency and fairness is the essence of the state action. Therefore, the authorities are expected to proceed in disciplined manner without creating any doubt in the mind of the asseessees. As averred above, it was the duty of the Assessing Officer to have referred the question of jurisdiction to the Chief Commissioner or the Commissioner as the case may be under sub-section (2) of Section 124 of the Act and not doing so, this vitiated the further proceedings.

Here, there is complete departure from the settled procedure. It comes out from the record that when the petitioner refused to submit to the jurisdiction of the said Assessing Officer at Lucknow, the authority/respondent No.2 proceeded ex parte and dispatched a demand of almost Rs.52 lacs. At the cost of repetition, we would like to mention that in the notice dated 11.9.2013, which is computer generated clearly reveals that the Delhi address of the petitioner was scored out and in handwriting, the local address has been added. Therefore, it is incorrect to say that the Delhi Address was not in the knowledge of the respondents and we find force in the submissions of the petitioner that local address was inserted deliberately to create jurisdiction, which, in fact, legally was not vested with the opposite party No.2. Therefore, the opposite party No.2 exceeded its jurisdiction, which not only vitiates the impugned show cause notice but the entire proceedings. In these circumstances, the entire proceedings being ab initio illegal, without jurisdiction and in violation of Section 143 (1) (a) of the Income-tax Act.

For the reasons aforesaid, the writ petition is allowed and the impugned notice dated 11.9.2013 is quashed. As the notice notice has already been quashed, consequential orders, if any, are also quashed. "

3. This Court had, after after several hearings, passed an order dated 22.09.2022 putting the respondent-contemnor to notice as to why the charge should not be framed against him for having willfully flouting the order dated 31.03.2015 passed by the writ Court. After hearing the counsel for the parties at length and examining the pleadings of the parties, an order dated 16.12.2022 was passed by this Court disposing of the contempt application and a fine of Rs.25000/- was awarded and the opposite party/ contemnor was ordered to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of one week. Thereafter, vide an order dated 17.01.2022 now the matter has to be heard afresh.

4. Ms. Radhika Singh, learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the order dated 31.03.2015 passed by the writ Court had clearly provided that the jurisdiction to assess the applicant at Lucknow is conspicuously absent in the income tax authority at Lucknow and that the petitioner can only be assessed by the assessing authority at New Delhi. She next submitted that the writ petition had been filed when notices for a manual scrutiny for the assessment year 2012-13 had been received by the applicant and the assessing officer at Lucknow that is the respondent-contemnor did not pay any heed to the objection of jurisdiction taken by the applicant and proceeded with the assessment proceedings threaten to complete the same by 30.03.2015.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that as per the official records of the income tax also the applicant is an assessee of income tax at New Delhi and therefore, the computer-generated notice records the New Delhi address of the assessee. She next submitted that scoring out the New Delhi address and sending the notice at Lucknow address was an act of fraud.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the opposite party-contemnor proceeded with the assessment despite the filing of the writ petition and passed an order of assessment which was also assailed by amending the writ petition and the writ Court quashed the order of assessment. Despite the said order having been quashed, the respondent-contemnor did not withdraw the demand which continued to be displayed on the income tax web portal for about 7 years and 7 months and it was only after it was pointed out before this Court during the hearing of the application that the outstanding demand on the web portal had been causing grave humiliation to the applicant who was being treated as a defaulter of income tax by financial institution and the credit worthiness of the applicant had also been seriously impacted which had deprived the applicant in several ways.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that even after the writ Court had clearly provided in the judgment and order dated 31.03.201 that the tax authority at Lucknow had no jurisdiction to assess the applicant, the same officer i.e. the opposite party-Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow revived the notice dated 20.09.2014 which has been issued for manual scrutiny for the succeeding assessment year 2013-14 was revived and a notice dated 24.06.2015 was sent to applicant at his New Delhi address and again on 15.03.2016 another notice was issued to the applicant threatening to make an exparte assessment pursuant to earlier notices sent in respect to the assessment year 2012-13.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that written representations were made to the opposite party pointing out that he did not have the jurisdiction to assess the applicant in view of the orders passed by the writ Court on 31.03.2015, but the applicant was told that the order of the writ Court was being appealed against before the Supreme Court and hence, the opposite party was not bound to comply with the order of the writ Court. Learned counsel for the applicant thus submitted that the opposite party is guilty for willful and deliberate contempt as he was fully aware of the impact of the order dated 31.03.2015 passed by the writ Court and had refused to ensure compliance on the ground that the special leave petition was to be filed before the Supreme Court and in furtherance of the said deliberation the opposite party did not withdraw the demand which had been generated in furtherance of the order of assessment made by him although the said order had been set aside by the writ Court vide the order dated 31.03.2015.

9. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party submitted that as the Department had taken decision to file a special leave petition against the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015, the opposite party did not commit any illegality in not complying with the order dated 31.03.2015. He pointed out that in paragraph 23 of the counter affidavit, this aspect had clearly been mentioned and only because the special leave petition was not filed would not mean that the opposite party had willfully and deliberately violated the order dated 31.03.2015.

10. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the order dated 31.03.2015 had been passed in the writ petition filed by the applicant assailing the assessment for the assessment year 2012-13 and as such, the order dated 31.03.2015 would have no application in the succeeding financial year 2013-14. He also pointed out that earlier in respect of the assessment year 2011-12 the applicant had preferred writ petition No.1848 of 2014 which had been dismissed vide an order dated 27.03.2014. This Court in the aforesaid writ petition has held that main place of profession of the applicant would be at Lucknow for the assessment year 2011-12 and accordingly, the assessing officer had rightly exercised power under Section 142 of the Act. Learned counsel next submitted that every assessment year for the purpose of income tax is different and since the order dated 31.03.2015 had been passed in respect of assessment year 2012-13 it would have no application in respect of the assessment year 2013-14.

11. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the opposite party was not responsible for withdrawing the demand from the web portal of the income tax and in any case after the same had been pointed out clearing the hearing of the contempt petition the opposite party was instrumental in getting the demand reflected on the web portal withdrawn by the present assessing officer and as of now the demand stands withdrawn on 22.11.2022 and the said order dated 22.11.2022 has been placed on record with the supplementary affidavit of Mr. Harish Gidwani filed on 5.12.2022 and indicates that the same was being withdrawn in compliance of the orders dated 31.03.2015 passed in writ petition No.9525(MB) of 2013.

12. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that upon to the jurisdiction being raised by the applicant, sufficient opportunity had been given by the opposite party and on 15.03.2016 the opposite party had given further opportunity to the applicant indicating that no application for transfer of jurisdiction had been received by the opposite party and the applicant had not invoked Section 127 by moving the competent authority to transfer the case to some other assessing officer and no application was made by the applicant to transfer his case to New Delhi.

13. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the opposite party was the assessing officer as the PAN database was showing his jurisdiction in assessment year 2013-14 against which no order or direction had been passed by this Court in the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 passed in Writ Petition No.9525 (MB) of 2013. Learned counsel next submitted that the initial notice for the assessment year 2013-14 had been given by the opposite party on 20.9.2014 and the applicant had not filed any objection within 30 days of the issuance of the said notice as is required under Section 124 (3) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and hence, the notice was valid and the assessment made for the assessment year 2013-14 cannot be faulted.

14. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that new notice issued was also valid as per para-6 of the AST Instruction no.115 of Directorate of Income Tax, Systems, New Delhi circulated vide letter F.No.DIT(S)-II/CASS/2014 dated 02.08.2013 which categorically says that in all cases under compulsory scrutiny, notice under Section 143(2) will be generated from the system only by the officer having PAN in his/ her jurisdiction.

15. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that in order to get the jurisdiction changed, an order under Section 127 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 issued by the competent authority is required which was not complied with by the applicant and as the objections were filed beyond 30 days, the same was not considered by this Court in writ petition No.1848 (MB) of 2014 and the same was dismissed and it has been denied that for the assessment year 2011-12 the applicant was assessed at New Delhi.

16. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that after he passing of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015, the opposite party has never proceeded against the applicant for the assessment year 2012-13 and the merely changing the principal place of profession or residential address in PAN does not automatically change the jurisdiction of the assessment officer. He next submitted that while passing the assessment order for the assessment year 2013-14 the assessing officer had given opportunity to the applicant during course of the assessment proceedings to provide any such letter or application for transfer of jurisdiction, but no reply was submitted by him. He again submitted that the opposite party has not violated the directions given by this Court vide judgment and order dated 31.3.2015 and no further proceedings for assessment year 2012-13 was initiated by the opposite party is found to have inadvertently violated the orders of this Court, then he renders unconditional apology to this Court.

17. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

18. On its perusal, it is found that the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 passed by the writ Court in Writ Petition No.9525 (MB) of 2013 is unambiguous and clear and is not confined to any particular year but lays down the jurisdiction of the authority in accordance with the provisions contained in the Income Tax Act, 1961. The Divisional Bench also considered the effect of Sections 124 and 127 of the Act and has clearly recorded that in case any objection being raised in respect of the jurisdiction of the assessing officer as has been done in the present case when the applicant had referred the pending writ petition after the issuance of the first notice dated 20.09.2014, the opposite party should have awaited the decision of the writ Court and in any case as the income tax authorities are expected to proceed in disciplined manner without creating any doubt in the minds of the assessee's, it was the duty of the assessing officer (opposite party) to have referred the question of jurisdiction to the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner as the case may be under Section 124(2) of the Act, 1961 and not doing so renders the action of the opposite party illegal.

18. As regards the demand on the income tax portal pursuant to assessment made by the opposite party, I find that the assessment order for the assessment year 2012-13 was passed on 30.03.2015 during the pendency of the writ petition and on the very next day the writ Court had passed the order on 31.03.2015. The demand generated pursuant to the assessment order was only after 31.03.2015 and had been generated by the opposite party who had assessed the applicant. The opposite party, therefore, knowing that judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 had been passed generated the demand. He, thus, acted in contempt of the judgment and order dated 31.3.2015.

19. The submission made by the learned counsel for the applicant that the writ Court vide the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 had decided the question of jurisdiction and not of any particular assessment year and also that each year assessment being different has no application in cases where the jurisdiction prima facie appears to be correct as this Court finds that the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 is not confined to any particular assessment year and has generally recorded that the income tax authority at Lucknow does not have jurisdiction over the applicant who is assessed at New Delhi. This Court, is therefore, of the prima facie view that the opposite party is guilty of contempt of the orders dated 31.03.2015 passed by the writ Court and the opposite party does not the jurisdiction or authority to interpret the orders passed by this Court by putting in words which are not contained in the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 appears to be willful and deliberate.

20. Considering in totalities of facts and circumstances of the case, following charges are being framed and the applicant is required to appear in person and answer the charge of contempt on the next date of listing:

"(i) Why the opposite party-contemnor, Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow be not punished for willfully flouting the order dated 31.03.2015 passed in Writ Petition (MB) No.9525 of 2013 and proceeded with the assessment year 2013-14 when the writ Court had recorded that the Tax Authority at Lucknow do not have jurisdiction to assess the petitioner at Lucknow and passed an assessment order.

(ii) Why the opposite party-contemnor, Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow be not punished for willfully flouting the order of writ Court dated 31.03.2015 passed in Writ Petition (MB) No.9525 of 2013 that local address was inserted deliberately to create jurisdiction, which, in fact, legally was not vested with the opposite party i.e. the present contemnor.

(iii) Why the opposite party-contemnor, Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow be not punished for the reason that the outstanding amount was not deleted from the web portal for several years which amounts to deliberate and willful disobedience of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015."

21. List this contempt application on 21.11.2023 to enable learned counsel for the opposite party-contemnor to make submission on the charges so framed."

3. Ms. Radhika Singh, learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the applicant changed his place of business in the assessment year 2011-12 from Lucknow to New Delhi on account of harassment being meted by the Income Tax Authorities at Lucknow, the applicant having businesses at Lucknow as well as New Delhi.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the change in the official records were incorporated only in the assessment year 2012-13 and a note to the said effect was made in the official records of the Income Tax Department and the address of the applicant was shown as that of New Delhi.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that as after change of business, for assessment year 2011-12 an assessment was made at Lucknow, the same was challenged but the writ petition was dismissed as by the time the assessment was made, the official records had not been corrected incorporating the place of business of the applicant as New Delhi. The Income Tax Department having recorded the change in the PAN database, an application for review was preferred which is pending disposal before this Hon'ble Court.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that a manual notice for scrutiny in respect of the returns of income fired for the assessment for the assessment year 2011-12 was issued by the respondent on 13.09.2013. The address in the official communication which was recorded as that of New Delhi, but is cut out by hand and replaced by the Lucknow address.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the applicant against the manual scrutiny notice for the assessment year 2011-12 was made a representation informing the opposite party-contemnor that he did not have jurisdiction to proceed with the assessment of the applicant on account of the place of business having been transferred from Lucknow to New Delhi, where the return of income had been filed by the applicant. The Delhi address of the applicant had been duly incorporated in official records of the Income Tax Department.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that as the opposite party-contemnor refused to stay his hands and continued with the scrutiny proceedings despite categoric objection of the applicant regarding jurisdiction, a writ petition no.9525 (MB) of 2013 was filed seeking quashing of the order/ notice dated 11.09.2013 which was allowed vide the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the writ Court held that after change of business from Lucknow to New Delhi, the Income Tax Authorities at Lucknow did not have the jurisdiction to assess the applicant at Lucknow. It was also recorded that in case the opposite party-contemnor had any doubt, all that he could have done was to refer the matter to the Chief Commissioner of Income Tax for a decision on the question of jurisdiction but could not have proceeded with the assessment. Sections 124 and 127 were specifically referred to and it was finally laid at rest that there was no jurisdiction with the Income Tax Authorities at Lucknow.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that during the pendency of the writ petition, an ex-parte assessment had been made pursuant to the order dated 11.09.2013 assuming jurisdiction at Lucknow. The said order was also set aside by the writ Court vide the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015. After the rendering of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015, the opposite party-contemnor issued a notice dated 24.06.2015 recording the PAN number of the applicant and the address as D 127 East of Kailash, New Delhi manually selecting the applicant for scrutiny for the assessment year 2013-14, the return of income in respect of which had already been filed at New Delhi.

11. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that response to the said notice was submitted by the applicant on 5.7.2015 giving reference of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 passed in Writ Petition No.9525 (MB) of 2015 categorically pointing out that the opposite party-contemnor did not have the jurisdiction to select the applicant for manual scrutiny of a return of income already filed at New Delhi and that the issuance of the notice was extraneous and brazenly contemptuous.

12. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that after the submission of the response dated 15.07.2015 the opposite party-contemnor maintained a cryptic silence and on 15.03.2016 issued another manually prepared notice and not a notice taken out from the official records in which reference to the notice dated 24.06.2015 was made but the address of the applicant was altered by the opposite party-contemnor from New Delhi to that of Lucknow, contrary to the official records and against the same PAN number. Seven day's time was granted by him to respond to the notice issued without jurisdiction and in violation of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015.

13. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that opposite party-contemnor obstinately responded that he was not bound by orders passed by the High Court and he will get it set aside by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and a SLP is being filed. This assertion is contained in paragraph 7 of the instant contempt application preferred on 28.03.2016. Response has been given in paragraph 23 of the opposite party's counter affidavit dated 18.5.2016 containing a changed stand that a proposal for filing a special leave petition has been submitted duly recommended by the contempt authority before Supreme Court. No SLP was actually filed. The respondent contemnor has filed a false affidavit.

14. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the assessment order was made ex parte and the opposite party-contemnor did not refrain from proceeding with the scrutiny assessment in violation of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015. In the counter affidavit, the correctness of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 has been disputed and submissions contrary to the finding recorded by the Division Bench of this Hon'ble Court in the said judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 have been made. Sections 124 and 127 of the Income Tax Act have deliberately been misread contrary to the finding recorded by the Division Bench in the order dated 31.03.2015.

15. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that noticeably no remorse has been expressed and no apology has been tendered. It has been alleged that in case it is found to be inadvertent mistake, the opposite party-contemnor tenders an apology, making it clear that if this Hon'ble Court finds that the mistake was not inadvertent but was deliberate and wilful, no apology for the same is being tendered.

16. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that several affidavit have been filed thereafter to justify the contumacious action by reference to extraneous material which had not been considered or were not in existence at the time of committing contempt by scrutinizing the assessment filed at Delhi after selecting the applicant's case for manual scrutiny. In the meantime the opposite party-contemnor had allowed the demand which had been set aside by this Hon'ble Court to be displayed on the income tax portal showing the applicant as a defaulter and thus causing deliberate harm to the reputation of the applicant.

17. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the demand was taken down from the portal by the opposite party-contemnor only after it was pointed out to this Hon'ble Court in November, 2023 that in blatant contempt of the order dated 31.03.2015 the default had been displayed on the official portal of the Income Tax Department by the opposite party. The default was continued to be shown for a period of about 7 years and 7 months.

18. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that after several hearings in the present contempt petition, it was found that the action of the opposite party-contemnor in violating the judgment and order dated 31.05.2015 was deliberate and willful, charges were framed in the order dated 1.11.2023. She next submitted that an affidavit has been filed in response to the charges framed against the opposite party-contemnor and the same submissions have been repeated as were made on several hearings before the framing of the charge.

19. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that emphasis was laid that the PAN database indicated the address of the applicant as that of Lucknow and as such the opposite party-contemnor had selected the applicant's case for scrutiny. This is factually incorrect. The address in the database had been changed.

20. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that notice issued by the opposite party-contemnor himself on 24.06.2015 to the applicant is at his Delhi address calling for information for scrutiny pertaining to the return filed at New Delhi for assessment year 2013-14 and with meticulous cleverness reference has been made only to the notice dated 16.03.2015 which is not an officially generated communication but a notice prepared by the opposite party-contemnor himself by replacing the Delhi address by the Lucknow address.

21. Learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the judgment and order rendered by this Hon'ble Court has primacy and the plea raised as an afterthought at a very late stage that the representation given by the applicant on July 5, 2015 had been referred to the CIT in January, 2016 is not quite correct. The respondent is not required to seek any directions of any authority and has to punctiliously and without any reservation follow the orders passed by the High Court. The CIT has not passed any orders contrary to the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 and the allegation to the contrary made by the respondent is factually incorrect. No such order of the CIT had been brought on record. The respondent is guilty of criminal contempt for having filed a false affidavit knowing it to be false.

22. In support of her submissions, learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance upon the following judgments:

(i) Sebastian M. Hongray v. Union of India; (1984)3 SCC 82

(ii) T.N. Godavarman Thirumulpad (102) through the Amicus Curiae v. Ashok Khot and another; (2006)5 SCC 1.

(iii) Patel Rajnikant Dhulalbai and another v. Patel Chandrkant Dhulabhai and others; (2008) 14 SCC 561

(iv) Civil Appeal No.4955 of 2022 titled 'Balwantbhai Somabhai Bhandari v. Hiralal Somabhai Contractor (Deceased) Rep. By LRS. and others', decided on Spetember 06,2023.

23. On the other hand, learned counsel for the opposite party submitted that the opposite party-contemnor has highest regard for the dignity and majesty of this Hon'ble Court and he could not even think of disobeying or violating the orders of this Hon'ble Court. It is most respectfully submitted that the opposite party-contemnor has not disobeyed or violated the judgment dated 31.03.2015 passed by the Hon'ble Court, in any manner and no further proceedings for the assessment year 2012-13 were undertaken by the deponent. However, if this Hon'ble Court considers any act of omission or commission of the deponent to be contempt of this Hon'ble Court, the deponent renders his unconditional and unequivocal apology for the same.

24. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the aforesaid contempt petition was filed in impleading the deponent in respect of the alleged contempt committed by him while he was posted as Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (2), Lucknow. In this regard, it is respectfully submitted that the deponent joined the post of Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Lucknow on 9.10.2014 and remained posted there till 09.06.2016 only. Thereafter, he was transferred from the said post and was posted as Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (Audit), Lucknow and was having no interference or authority regarding the work of his earlier post since he has already handed over the charge of DCIT(2), Lucknow. Further the applicant after serving with the Income Tax Department on different posts has ultimately superannuated from the Income Tax Department on 30.06.2023.

25. In regard to charge no.1, learned counsel for the opposite party while denying the charge so framed submitted that though the notice dated 20.09.2014 and 15.10.2014 u/s 143(2) were issued to the applicant for the assessment year 2013-14 much prior to the passing of the judgment dated 31.03.2015, but neither the applicant has made any challenge, nor raised any grievance against the said notice issued for the assessment year 2013-14 before this Hon'ble Court nor the Court has taken any cognizance in respect to the said notices which were for the assessment year 2013-14. Thus, the Hon'ble Court in its judgment dated 31.03.2015 was pleased not to consider or deal with either the notices issued for assessment year 2013-14 or the assessment of the assessment year 2013-14 in any manner.

26. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that there no violation of Hon'ble High Court's judgment dated 31.03.2015 as deponent has not proceeded against the applicant in any manner whatsoever for the assessment year 2012-13 as per the mandate of the judgment. The present contempt petition was filed for assessment year 2013-14. There was no objection to the notice on jurisdiction dated 20.9.2014 and 15.10.2014 raised by the applicant within 30 days of the issue of notice under Section 143(2) as required under the provisions of 124(3) of the Income Tax Act and these notices were not even assailed in the writ petition No.9525 of 2013.

27. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that no notice for assessment year 2013-14 was quashed by the Hon'ble Court in its judgment dated 31.03.2015. Further, there was not even any challenge made in the writ petition regarding notices issued for the assessment year 2013-14 which were issued more than six months before the passing of the judgment in writ petition no.9525 of 2013 on 31.03.2015. The applicant has not even objected to the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer within the mandatory period provided under Section 124(3) of the Income Tax Act, which is 30 days from the date of notice which was first issued to him on 20.9.2014.

28. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the applicant was requested to submit an application for transfer of jurisdiction u/s 127 of the Act during the course of hearing in the assessment year 2013-14 to which no reply was filed. There is no problem with the Department in transferring cases from one jurisdiction to another. But there is a procedure which when followed, the jurisdiction is transferred which procedure was never adopted for assessment year 2013-14. The said procedure was however, later on, adopted by the applicant for getting his case transferred from New Delhi to Lucknow in the year 2019.

The deponent after taking charge of the office of Deputy Commissioner, Range-2, Lucknow on 9.10.2014 issued notice under Section 143(2) in all cases as required by the statute. In the case of the applicant, notice u/s 143(2) for assessment year 2013-14 was issued by the undersigned on 15.10.2014 subsequent to the first notice issued on 20.09.2014 by his predecessor to which nobody attended which is apparent from the order sheet and the order itself. It is blatantly wrong that compliance was made on 26.09.2014 (six days after the date of notice).

29. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that no objection to the jurisdiction was filed within 30 days of the issue of notice u/s 143(2) dated 20.9.2014. However, the Assessing Officer/ deponent in good faith and gesture referred the matter to the Commissioner of Income Tax vide letter dated 5.1.2015 narrating the non-corporation of the applicant. It is wrongly claimed by the applicant that the matter was never referred to the Commissioner of Income Tax which was further transmitted to the Board. In view of this letter and subsequent letters written by his successor the case of the applicant was transferred u/s 127(2) vide order dated 21.09.2016. In compliance to the order u/s 127(2) the then Assessing Officer transferred the case records along with other miscellaneous records to the officer having jurisdiction in Delhi.

30. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that under the taxation law each assessment year is considered as an independent from the other and order passed for a year does not act as res judicata for the other year. In this reference, it is relevant to point out that even the proceedings for the year 2011-12 were challenged by the applicant by filing writ petition no.1848 of 2014. However, the Hon'ble Court after observing that since the applicant did not object to the jurisdiction within the statutory period of 30 days, the Assessing Officer has rightly exercised the jurisdiction and hence, demised the writ petition vide judgment dated 27.03.2014.

31. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that under the online system of filing of Income Tax Returns, online return for any assessment year can be filed from any corner of the entire country and a change of address in the PAN or even return filed online does not change the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer automatically from the PAN database, as alleged and therefore, since the jurisdiction to assess the applicant was not transferred in accordance with the provisions of the Act, the deponent was having the jurisdiction to asses the applicant for the assessment year 2013-14 even if he had filed his return with Delhi residential address. Even the acknowledgment of ITR for assessment year 2013-14 shows that it was filed under the jurisdiction of ACIT, Range-II, Lucknow. Further, since as per the PAN database the jurisdiction to the assess the applicant was with the deponent, therefore, he was supposed to perform his functions as per the provisions of the Act unless the jurisdiction was transferred as per Section 127 of the Act, which is not the case here.

Merely by change of address in the ITR or PAN would not automatically change the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer under the provisions of the Income Tax Act. Hence, in absence of any orders of the competent court or the higher Authorities transferring assessment, he had no other option except to pass the assessment order for assessment year 2013-14 on 22.03.2016 as per the provisions of the Act as the matter was time barring on 31.03.2016 in view of Section 153 of the I.T. Act, 1961 which he did and hence, has not in any manner disobeyed or violated the judgment of the Hon'ble Court.

32. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the respondent joined the office of DCIT, Range 2, Lucknow on 9.10.2014 and was functioning in accordance with the jurisdiction as conferred by the Central Board of Direct Taxes/ Higher Authorities in accordance with the provisions of Section 120(1) of Income Tax Act. The respondent does not have any power/ authority to transfer the jurisdiction of the case of the applicant on his own and has to perform the function of the Assessing Officer and make assessment as per the provisions of the Act within time frame as provided under Section 153 of the Income Tax Act. Further, as the limitation for passing of the order was expiring on 31.03.2016 and since there was no direction or order from higher authorities or any competent court either for transferring the jurisdiction of the applicant or directing the deponent/ respondent to not to pass final assessment order in the case of the applicant for assessment year 2013-14, there was no alternative left with the deponent, but to pass the order which would have been otherwise barred by limitation on 31.03.2016. Therefore, the deponent has merely performed his duties conferred upon him by virtue of the provisions of the Income Tax Act and has neither disobeyed nor violated, much less deliberately and willfully violated the judgment dated 31.03.2015 passed by this Hon'ble Court and thus, the charge so framed by this Hon'ble Court is libale to be dropped against the deponent.

33. In regard to charge no.II, learned counsel for the opposite party while denying the charge so framed, submitted that the local address on the alleged notice was never inserted by the deponent/ contemnor. He next submitted that the subject writ petition was filed against the notice dated 11.09.2013, allegedly in which address was inserted, issued for assessment year 2012-13 which was quashed by the Hon'ble Court vide judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 and proceedings held in pursuance to notice dated 11.09.2013 are related to the assessment year 2012-13. It is also denied that the applicant has striked off the Delhi address and inserted the local address.

34. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the deponent has not held any proceeding nor issued notice to the applicant for the assessment year 2012-13, so it is not correct to say that the deponent has inserted the local address to create the jurisdiction.

35. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the proceeding for assessment year 2013-14 were not the subject matter of any litigation and proceedings were already commenced even prior to the joining of the deponent on the post of DCIT, Range-II, Lucknow on 9.10.2014. The details already provided by the deponent for assessment year 2013-14 have been discussed in detail in reply to charge-I.

36. Learned counsel for the opposite party categorically denied that in any of notices issued to the applicant the deponent has deliberately inserted the local address after striking off any other address. It is submitted that since the deponent has issued notice as per the address available in the PAN records to proceed with the proceedings which were already commenced before the passing of the order by this Hon'ble Court. Moreover, the proceedings for assessment year 2013-14 were not subject-matter of writ petition no.9525 of 2013.

37. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the deponent has neither disobeyed nor violated much less deliberately and willfully violated, the judgment dated 31.03.2015 passed by this Hon'ble Court in any manner and thus, the charge so framed by this Hon'ble Court is liable to be dropped against the deponent.

38. In regard to charge no.III, learned counsel for the opposite party while denying the charge so framed, submitted that though the assessment order for assessment year 2012-13 in pursuance to initial notice dated 11.09.2013 was passed by the deponent on 25.03.2015 wherein a demand for Rs.51 lacs was raised through demand notice dated 25.03.2015. However, after the judgment of this Court dated 31.03.2015, the Court quashed the notice dated 11.09.2013 and consequential proceedings for assessment year 2012-13. The said demand was never pressed against the applicant and no fresh notice of demand was issued to the applicant after the judgment of this Court, nor was the demand adjusted from the refund for any subsequent assessment years.

39. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the deponent was transferred from the office of DCIT Range-II, Lucknow to DCIT, Lucknow in June, 2016 and was not at all related with the issuance of demand against the applicant or uploading it on web portal. He next submitted that the case of the applicant transferred u/s 127(2) vide order dated 21.09.2016. In compliance with the order u/s 127(2), the then Assessing Officer transferred the case records along with other miscellaneous records to the officer having jurisdiction in Delhi. As per the transfer Memo the case records of 2009-10, 2011-12, 2012-13, 2013-14 along with two writ petition folders for 2011-12 and 2012-13 were transferred.

40. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that part-B of this transfer memo shows the demands which were transferred from Lucknow, AO to Delhi AO. The arrears demands during these periods were kept in annual form as the digitization of arrears demands had not yet started. As per column (a), demands only in respect of assessment year 2011-12 and 2009-10 have been transferred. No demand has been transferred for 2012-13. The respondent was, therefore, in no way responsible for the demand being reflected in the portal in the year 2022 for assessment year 2012-13.

41. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that during this period, the demands were all in a manual state and no uploading or digitization of arrears demands was in vogue. Thus, the demand was not uploaded on the portal till 27.09.2016, the date when the case records were transferred to Delhi after the transfer of the respondent. It is also relevant to mention here that the opposite party-contemnor was transferred from the office of Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow in June, 2016 meaning that the demand was not uploaded in his tenure and as the records were transferred and the office in Lucknow could not do anything with any proceedings of the case since the case of the applicant was transferred from Lucknow to Delhi before the uploading of alleged demand on the web portal

42. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the issue about the reflection of demand on the web portal was raised for the first time by the applicant through his affidavit dated 10.11.2022 and though deponent was not dealing with the matter at that point of time, he immediately raised the issue with present officer on the post and got the same rectified, which was due to some technical error of office maintaining the portal and relevant document in this regard was also placed on record with his affidavit dated 5.12.2022.

43. Learned counsel for the opposite party next submitted that the deponent was a responsible officer of the Government and while performing his duties and responsibilities has retired from the services of the Government on 30.6.20213. The deponent has the highest regard for the order of this Court.

44. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the opposite parties relied upon following judgments:

(i) Sudhir Vasudeva v. M. George Ravishekaran reported in (2014)3 SCC 373

(ii) B.K. Kar v. The Chief Justice and His Companion Judges reported AIR 1961 SC367

(iii) Mrityunjoy Das and other v. Hasibur Rahaman and others reported in 2002(3)SCC 739

(iv) Dinesh Kumar Gupta v. Unite India Insurance Company Limited and others reported in (2010)12 SCC 770

(v) Ram Kishan v. Tarun Bajaj and others reported in 2014(16) SCC 204

(vi) Avishek Raja and others v. Sanjay Gupta reported in (2017)8 SCC 435

(vii) Principal Commissioner of Income Tax v. M/S I-Ven Interactive Ltd., Mumbai (Civil Appeal No.8132 of 2019)

(viii) In Re: P.C. Sen v. Unknown, AIR 1970 SC 1821.

(x) Commissioner of Income Tax v. Lalit Kumar Bardia reported in ITA 127 of 2006.

(xi) Commissioner of Income Tax v. M/s All India Children Care & Education, IAPL 89 of 2003

(xii) Commissioner of Income Tax v. Sohan Lal Sewa Ram Jaggi decided on 5 February, 2008.

45. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the parties.

46. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the parties are being quoted below:

(A) Judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the applicant:

i) Sebastian M. Hongray (Supra):

6. Civil contempt is punishable with imprisonment as well as fine. In a given case, the court may also penalise the party in contempt by ordering him to pay the costs of the application. (2) A fine can also be imposed upon the contemnor.

7. Now in the facts and circumstances of the case, we do not propose to impose imprisonment nor any amount as and by way of fine but keeping in view the torture, the agony and the mental oppression through which Mrs. C. Thingkhuila, wife of Shri C. Daniel and Mrs. C. Vangamla, wife of Shri C. Paul had to pass and they being the proper applicants, the formal application being by Sebastian M. Hongray, we direct that as a measure of exem- plary costs as is permissible in such cases, respondents Nos. 1 and 2 shall pay Rs 1 lac to each of the aforementioned two women within a period of four weeks from today.

8. A query was posed to the learned Attorney General about the further step to be taken. It was made clear that further adjourning the matter to enable the respondents to trace or locate the two missing persons is to shut the eyes to the reality and to pursue a mirage. As we are inclined to direct registration of an offence and an investigation, we express no opinion as to what fate has befallen to Shri C. Daniel and Shri C. Paul, the missing two persons in respect of whom the writ of habeas corpus was issued save and except saying that they have not met their tragic end in an encounter as is usually claimed and the only possible inference that can be drawn from circumstance already discussed is that both of them must have met an unnatural death. Prima facie, it would be an offence of murder. Who is individually or collectively the perpetrator of the crime or is responsible for their disappearance will have to be determined by a proper, thorough and responsible police investigation. It is not necessary to start casting a doubt on anyone or any particular person. But prima facie there is material on record to reach an affirmative conclusion that both Shri C. Daniel and Shri C. Paul are not alive and have met an unnatural death. And the Union of India cannot disown the responsibility in this behalf. If this inference is permissible which we consider reasonable in the facts and circumstances of the case, we direct that the Registrar (Judicial) shall forward all the papers of the case accompanied by a writ of mandamus to the Superintendent of Police, Ukhrul, Manipur State to be treated as information of a cognizable offence and to commence investigation as prescribed by the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

ii) T.N. Godavarman Thirumulpad (102) through the Amicus Curiae (supra):

5. Disobedience of this Court's order strikes at the very root of the rule of law on which the judicial system rests. The rule of law is the foundation of a democratic society. Judiciary is the guardian of the rule of law. Hence, it is not only the third pillar but also the central pillar of the democratic State. If the judiciary is to perform its duties and functions effectively and remain true to the spirit with which they are sacredly entrusted to it, the dignity and authority of the Courts have to be respected and protected at all costs. Otherwise, the very corner stone of our constitutional scheme will give way and with it will disappear the rule of law and the civilized life in the society. That is why it is imperative and invariable that Court's orders are to be followed and complied with.

7. On the basis of submissions made by learned Amicus Curiae, proceedings were initiated against them. It was highlighted by learned Amicus Curiae that the respondents have acted in brazen defiance of the orders of this Court and their conduct constitutes the contempt by way of (a) wilful dis- obedience of directions issued by this Court, (b) the manner in which contemnors have conducted themselves clearly tends to lower the authority of this Court and obstructs the administration of justice (c) as their conduct falls both under the definition of Civil contempt, as well as seeing dimensions of the matters, under criminal contempt.

20. In B.M. Bhattacharjee (Major General) v. Russel Estate Corpn. it was observed by this Court that "all of the officers of the Government must be presumed to know that under the constitutional scheme obtaining in this country, orders of the courts have to be obeyed implicitly and that orders of the apex court-for that matter any court-should not be trifled with".

21. Any country or society professing rule of law as its basic feature or characteristic does not distinguish between high or low, weak or mighty. Only monarchies and even some democracies have adopted the age old principle that the king cannot be sued in his own courts.

22. Professor Dicey's words in relation to England are equally applicable to any nation in the world. He said as follows:

"When we speak of the rule of law as a characteristic of our country, not only that with us no man is above the law but that every man, whatever be his rank or condition, is subject to the ordinary law of the realm and amenable to the jurisdiction of the ordinary tribunals. In England the idea of legal equality, or the universal subjection of all classes to one law administered by the ordinary courts, has been pushed to its utmost limit. With us every official, from Prime Minister down to a constable or a collector of taxes, is under the same responsibility for every act done with legal justification as any other citizen. The reports abound with cases in which officials have been brought before the courts, and made, in their personal capacity, liable to punishment, or to the payment of damages, for acts done in their official character but in excess of their lawful authority. A colonial governor, a secretary of State, a military officer, and all subordinates, though carrying out the commands of their official superiors, are as responsible for any act which the law does not authorize as is a private and unofficial person. (See Introduction to the Study of the Law of the Constitution, 10th Edn. 1965, pp. 193-194).

23. Respect should always be shown to the Court. If any party is aggrieved by the order which is in its opinion is wrong or against rules or implementation is neither practicable nor feasible, it should approach the Court. This had been done and this Court after consideration had rejected the I.A. long before.

26. It is thus crystal clear that the applications of those eligible for grant of licenses were required to be sent to CEC, who was then required to submit a report to this Court. Thereafter, this Court would have decided on the question of entitlement for license. The procedure mandated by this Court was not followed. Instead of that by their impugned actions, the contemnors permitted resumption of operations by the unit holders. There was absolutely no confusion or scope for entertaining doubt as claimed by the contemnors.

28. The explanations of the contemnors are clearly unacceptable. Mens rea is writ large.

29. The inevitable conclusion is that both the contemnors 1 and 2 deliberately flouted the orders of this Court in a brazen manner. It cannot be said by any stretch of imagination that there was no mens rea involved. The fact situation clearly shows to the contrary.

30. Learned counsel appearing for contemnor No.1 and 2 stated that they have tendered unconditional apology which should be accepted.

31. Apology is an act of contrition. Unless apology is offered at the earliest opportunity and in good grace, the apology is shorn of penitence and hence it is liable to be rejected. If the apology is offered at the time when the contemnor finds that the court is going to impose punishment it ceases to be an apology and becomes an act of a cringing coward.

32. Apology is not a weapon of defence to purge the guilty of their offence, nor is it intended to operate as universal panacea, but it is intended to be evidence of real contriteness. As was noted in L.D. Jaikwal v. State of U.P. (SCC p. 406, para 1)

"We are sorry to say we cannot subscribe to the 'slap-say sorry-and forget' school of thought in administration of contempt jurisprudence. Saying 'sorry' does not make the slapper taken the slap smart less upon the said hypocritical word being uttered. Apology shall not be paper apology and expression of sorrow should come from the heart and not from the pen. For it is one thing to 'say' sorry-it is another to 'feel' sorry.

33. Proceedings for contempt are essentially personal and punitive. This does not mean that it is not open to the Court, as a matter of law to make a finding of contempt against any official of the Government say Home Secretary or a Minister.

34. While contempt proceedings usually have these characteristics and contempt proceedings against a Government department or a minister in an official capacity would not be either personal or punitive (it would clearly not be appropriate to fine or sequest the assets of the Crown or a Government department or an officer of the Crown acting in his official capacity), this does not mean that a finding of contempt against a Government department or minister would be pointless. The very fact of making such a finding would vindicate the requirements of justice. In addition an order for costs could be made to underline the significance of a contempt. A purpose of the court's powers to make findings of contempt is to ensure the orders of the court are obeyed. This jurisdiction is required to be co-extensive with the courts' jurisdiction to make the orders which need the protection which the jurisdiction to make findings of contempt provides. In civil proceedings the court can now make orders (other than injunctions or for specific performance) against authorized Government departments or the Attorney General. On applications for judicial review orders can be made against ministers. In consequence such orders must be taken not to offend the theory that the Crown can supposedly do no wrong. Equally, if such orders are made and not obeyed, the body against whom the orders were made can be found guilty of contempt without offending that theory, which could be the only justifiable impediment against making a finding of contempt.

35. This is a case where not only right from the beginning attempt has been made to overreach the orders of this Court but also to draw red-herrings. Still worse is the accepted position of inserting a note in the official file with oblique motives. That makes the situation worse. In this case the contemnors deserve severe punishment. This will set an example for those who have propensity of dis-regarding the court's orders because of their money power, social status or posts held. Exemplary sentences are called for in respect of both the contemnors. Custodial sentence of one month simple imprisonment in each case would meet the ends of justice. It is to be noted that in Re: Sri Pravakar Behera (Suo Motu C.P. 301/2003 dated 19.12.2003) (2003 (10) SCALE 1126), this Court had imposed costs of Rs.50,000/- on a D.F.O. on the ground that renewal of license was not impermissible in cases where licenses were issued prior to this Court's order dated 4.3.1997. That was the case of an officer in the lower rung. Considering the high positions held by the contemnors more stringent punishment is called for, and, therefore, we are compressing custodial sentence.

iii) Patel Rajnikant Dhulabhai and another (supra):

58. The provisions of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 have also been invoked. Section 2 of the Act is a definition clause. Clause (a) enacts that contempt of court means `civil contempt or criminal contempt'. Clause (b) defines `civil contempt' thus;

2. (b) `civil contempt' means wilful disobedience to any judgement, decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a court or wilful breach of an undertaking given to a court.

Reading of the above clause makes it clear that the following conditions must be satisfied before a person can be held to have committed a civil contempt;

(i) there must be a judgment, decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a Court (or an undertaking given to a Court);

(ii) there must be disobedience to such judgment, decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a Court (or breach of undertaking given to a Court); and

(iii) such disobedience of judgment, decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a Court (or breach of undertaking) must be wilful.

59. Section 12 provides punishment for contempt of Court. The relevant part of the provision reads thus;

"12 - Punishment for contempt of court--(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act or in any other law, a contempt of court may be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or with both:

Provided that the accused may be discharged or the punishment awarded may be remitted on apology being made to the satisfaction of the court.

Explanation.--An apology shall not be rejected merely on the ground that it is qualified or conditional if the accused makes it bona fide.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, no court shall impose a sentence in excess of that specified in sub-section (1) for any Contempt either in respect of itself or of a court subordinate to it.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, where a person is found guilty of a civil contempt, the court , if it considers that a fine will not meet the ends of justice and that a sentence of imprisonment is necessary shall, instead of sentencing him to simple imprisonment, direct that he be detained in a civil prison for such period not exceeding six months as it may think fit.

60. In Ashok Paper Kamgar Union v. Dharam Godha & Ors., (2003) 11 SCC 1, this Court had an occasion to consider the concept of `wilful disobedience' of an order of the Court. It was stated that `wilful' means an act or omission which is done voluntarily and with the specific intent to do something the law forbids or with the specific intent to fail to do something the law requires to be done, that is to say, with bad purpose either to disobey or to disregard the law. According to the Court, it signifies the act done with evil intent or with a bad motive for the purpose. It was observed that the act or omission has to be judged having regard to the facts and circumstances of each case.

61. In Kapildeo Prasad Sah & Ors. v. State of Bihar & Ors., (1999) 7 SCC 569, it was held that for holding a person to have committed contempt, it must be shown that there was wilful disobedience of the judgment or order of the Court. But it was indicated that even negligence and carelessness may amount to contempt. It was further observed that issuance of notice for contempt of Court and power to punish are having far reaching consequences, and as such, they should be resorted to only when a clear case of wilful disobedience of the court's order is made out. A petitioner who complains breach of Court's order must allege deliberate or contumacious disobedience of the Court's order and if such allegation is proved, contempt can be said to have been made out, not otherwise. The Court noted that power to punish for contempt is intended to maintain effective legal system. It is exercised to prevent perversion of the course of justice.

62. In the celebrated decision of Attorney General v. Times Newspaper Ltd.; 1974 AC 273 : (1973) 3 All ER 54 : (1973) 3 WLR 298; Lord Diplock stated:

"There is an element of public policy in punishing civil contempt, since the administration of justice would be undermined if the order of any court of law could be disregarded with impunity."

63. In Anil Ratan Sarkar & Ors. v. Hirak Ghosh & Ors., (2002) 4 SCC 21, this Court held that the Contempt of Courts Act has been introduced in the statute-book for securing confidence of people in the administration of justice. If an order passed by a competent Court is clear and unambiguous and not capable of more than one interpretation, disobedience or breach of such order would amount to contempt of Court. There can be no laxity in such a situation because otherwise the Court orders would become the subject of mockery. Misunderstanding or own understanding of the Court's order would not be a permissible defence.

(iv) Balwantbhai Somabhai Bhandari (supra):

116. We may summarise our final conclusion as under:

(i) We hold that an assurance in the form of an undertaking given by a counsel/ advocate on behalf of his client to the court; the wilful breach or disobedience of the same would amount to "civil contempt" as defined under Section 2(b) of the Act, 1971.

(ii) There exists a distinction between an undertaking given to a party to the lis and the undertaking given to a court. The undertaking given to a court attracts the provisions of the Act, 1971 whereas an undertaking gvien to a party to the lis by way of an agreement of settlement or otherwise would not attract the provisions of the Act, 1971. In the facts of the present case, we hold that the undertaking was given to the High Court and to breach or disobedience would definitely attract the provisions of the Act, 1971.

(iii) Although the transfer of the suit property pendente lite may not be termed as void ab initio yet when the court is looking into such transfers in contempt proceedings the court can definitely declare such transactions to be void in order to maintain the majesty of law. Apart from punishing the contemnor, for his contumacious conduct, the majesty of law may demand that appropriate directions be issued by the court so that any advantage secured as a result of such contumacious conduct is completely nullified. This may include issue of directions either for reversal of the transactions by declaring such transactions to be void or passing appropriate directions to the concerned authorities to ensure that the contumacious conduct on the part of the cotemnor does not continue to ensure to the advantage of the contemnor or any one claiming under him

(iv) The beneficiaries of any contumacious transaction have no right or locus to be heard in the contempt proceedings on the ground that they are bona fide purchasers of the property for value without notice and therefore, are necessary parties. Contempt is between the court and the contemnor and no third party can involve itself into the same.

(v) The apology tendered should not be accepted as a matter of course and the course is not bound to accept the same. The apology may be unconditional, unqualified and bona fide, still if the conduct is serious, which has caused damage to the dignity of the institution, the same should not be accepted. There ought not to be a tendency by courts, to show compassion when disobedience of an undertaking or an order is with impunity and with total consciousness.

i) Sudhir Vasudeva (supra):-

19. The power vested in the High Courts as well as this Court to punish for contempt is a special and rare power available both under the Constitution as well as the Contempt of Courts Act. It is a drastic power which, if misdirected, could even curb the liberty of the individual charged with commission of contempt. The very nature of the power casts a sacred duty in the Courts to exercise the same with the greatest of care and caution. This is also necessary as, more often than not, adjudication of a contempt plea involves a process of self determination of the sweep, meaning and effect of the order in respect of which disobedience is alleged. Courts must not, therefore, travel beyond the four corners of the order which is alleged to have been flouted or enter into questions that have not been dealt with or decided in the judgment or the order violation of which is alleged. Only such directions which are explicit in a judgment or order or are plainly self evident ought to be taken into account for the purpose of consideration as to whether there has been any disobedience or willful violation of the same. Decided issues cannot be reopened; nor can the plea of equities be considered. The Courts must also ensure that while considering a contempt plea the power available to the Court in other corrective jurisdiction like review or appal is not trenched upon. No order or direction supplemental to what has been already expressed should be issued by the Court while exercising jurisdiction in the domain of the contempt law; such an exercise is more appropriate in other jurisdictions vested in the Court, as noticed above. The above principles would appear to be the cumulative outcome of the precedents cited at the Bar, namely, Jhareswar Prasad Paul v. Tarak Nath Ganguly, V.M. Manohar Coop. Society Ltd v. Gautam Goswami and Union of India v. Subedar Devassy PV.

ii) B.K Kar (supra):-

"Before a subordinate court can be found guilty of disobeying the order of the superior court and thus to have committed contempt of court, it is necessary to show that the disobedience was intentional. There is no room for inferring an intention to disobey an order unless the person charged had knowledge of the order. If what a subordinate court has done is in utter ignorance of an order of a superior court, it would clearly not amount to intentional disobedience of that court's order and would, therefore, not amount to a contempt of court at all. There may perhaps be a case where an order disobeyed could be reasonably construed in two ways and the subordinate court construed it in one of those ways but in a way different from that intended by the superior court. Surely, it cannot be said that disobedience of the order by the subordinate court was contempt of the superior court. There may possibly be a case where disobedience is accidental. If that is so, there would be no contempt. What is, therefore, necessary to establish in a case of this kind is that the subordinate court knew of the order of the High Court and that knowing the order it disobeyed it. The knowledge must, however, be obtained from a source which is either authorised or otherwise authentic. In the case before us it is not clear as to who the person who signed the application dated November 27, 1957 was because the signature is illegible. It was not countersigned by a pleader nor is there anything to show that it was presented in court by a pleader authorised to appear on behalf of the complainant. Furthermore, it was not accompanied by an affidavit. Therefore, there could be no guarantee for the truth of the facts stated there- The in. No doubt, it was accompanied by a telegram and even though it was addressed to a pleader there is nothing to indicate that he was authorised to appear for the complainant. Further it is not possible to say as to the capacity of the sender. Had the telegram been received from the court or from an advocate appearing on behalf of the complainant before the High Court and addressed either to the court or pleader for the complainant different considerations would have arisen and it may have been possible to take the view that the information contained therein had the stamp of authenticity. Of course, we do not want to lay it down here as law that every telegram purporting to be signed by an advocate or a pleader is per se guarantee of the truth of the facts stated therein and also of the fact that it was actually sent by the person whose name it bears. In order to assure the Court about these matters an affidavit from the party would be necessary. Upon the materials before us we are satisfied that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate was entitled to ignore the telegram as well as the application. We, therefore, hold that his refusal to act on the telegram did not amount to contempt of court. We may add that the fact that on receiving a copy of the High Court's order through the Additional District Magistrate not only were further proceedings stayed but a writ to redeliver possession was not permitted to issue. This would show clearly that there was no intention on the part either of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate or the second officer to disobey the order of the High Court. The conviction as also the fine of the appellant is erroneous and accordingly set aside."

iii. Mrityunjoy Das (supra):-

"Before however, proceeding with the matter any further it noted that exercise of powers under the Contempt of Courts Act shall have to be rather cautions and use of it rather sparingly after addressing itself to the true effect of the contemptuous conduct. The Court must otherwise come to a conclusion that the conduct complained of tentamounts to obstruction of justice which if allowed, would even permeat in our society (vide Murray & Co. v. Ashok Kr. Newatia & Anr.: 2000(2) SCC 367) this is a special jurisdiction conferred on to the law courts to punish an offender for his contemptuous conduct or obstruction to the majesty of law. It is in this context that the obsrvations of the this Court in Murrays case (supra) in which one of us (Banerjee,J.) was party needs to be noticed.

The other aspect of the matter ought also to be noticed at this juncture viz., the burden and standard of proof. The common English phrase he who asserts must prove has its due application in the matter of proof of the allegations said to be constituting the act of contempt. As regards the standard of proof, be it noted that a proceeding under the extra-ordinary jurisdiction of the Court in terms of the provisions of the Contempt of Court Act is quasi criminal, and as such, the standard of proof required is that of a criminal proceeding and the breach shall have to be established beyond reasonable doubt.The observations of Lord Denning in Re Bramblevale (1969 3 All ER 1062) lend support to the aforesaid. Lord Denning in Re Bramblevale stated:

A contempt of court is an offence of a criminal character. A man may be sent to prison for it,. It must be satisfactorily proved. To use the time- honoured phrase, it must be proved beyond all reasonable doubt. It is not proved by showing that, when the man was asked about it, he told lies. There must be some further evidence to incriminate him. Once some evidence is given, then his lies can be thrown into the scale against him. But there must be some other evidence. Where there are two equally consistent possibilities open to the Court, it is not right to hold that the offence is proved beyond reasonable doubt.

In this context, the observations of the Calcutta High Court in Archana Guha v. Ranjit Guha Neogi (1989 (II) CHN 252) in which one of us was a party (Banerjee,J.) seem to be rather apposite and we do lend credence to the same and thus record our concurrence therewith.

In The Aligarh Municipal Board and Others v. Ekka tonga Mazdoor Union and Others 970 (III) SCC 98), this Court in no uncertain term stated that in order to bring home a charge of contempt of court for disobeying orders of Courts, those who assert that the alleged contemners had knowledge of the order must prove this fact beyond reasonable doubt. This Court went on to observe that in case of doubt, the benefit ought to go to the person charged.

In a similar vein in V.G. Nigam and others V. Kedar Nath Gupta and another (1992 (4) SCC 697), this Court stated that it would be rather hazardous to impose sentence for contempt on the authorities in exercise of contempt jurisdiction on mere probabilities.

iv) Dinesh Kumar Gupta (supra):-

12. On a scrutiny of the sequence of events narrated herein before, we are clearly of the view in the first place that the contempt alleged against the appellant would not amount to a criminal contempt because the alleged contempt even if made out would clearly at the best be of a civil nature, which is evident from Section 2 of the Contempt of Courts Act 1971 which lays down as follows:

(a) "contempt of court" means civil contempt or criminal contempt;

(b) "civil contempt" means wilful disobedience to any judgment, decree, direction, order, writ or other process of a court or wilful breach of an undertaking given to a court;

(c) "criminal contempt" means the publication (whether by words, spoken or written, or by signs, or by visible representation, or otherwise) of any matter or the doing of any other act whatsoever which-

(i) scandalizes or tends to scandalize, or lowers or tends to lower the authority of, any court; or

(ii) prejudices, or interferes or tends to interfere with, the due course of any judicial proceeding; or

(iii) interferes or tends to interfere with, or obstructs or tends to obstruct, the administration of justice in any other manner;

On perusal of the aforesaid provision enumerated under Section 2 quoted hereinbefore, it can clearly be inferred that the initiation of contempt proceeding against the petitioner even as it stands, would not give rise to a proceeding for criminal contempt and in any event the alleged contempt cannot be stretched beyond civil contempt under the prevailing facts and circumstances of the case discussed hereinbefore. Nevertheless, it would not be correct on behalf of the appellant to contend that the learned single Judge was not authorised to initiate contempt proceeding against the appellant merely because he was sitting in a single Bench although he might have been in a position to notice whether the alleged action at the instance of any party or anyone else who obstructed the cause of justice, amounted to contempt of Court of a civil or criminalnature and yet would be precluded from intiating suo moto contempt proceedings. The Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 clearly postulates the existence of only the following preconditions before a person can be held to have committed civil contempt:

"(i) There must be a judgment or order or decree or direction or writ or other process of a court; or

(ii) The judgment etc. must be of the court and undertaking must have been given to a court;

(iii) There must be a disobedience to such judgment, etc. or breach of such undertaking;

(iv) The disobedience or breach, as the case may be, must be wilful."

Hence, it would not be right to contend that even though the learned Single Judge might have found material which persuaded him to form an opinion that a contempt has been committed, yet the learned Judge had no authority or jurisdiction to initiate a proceeding for contempt against the plerson who indulged in such action. Thus we find no substance in the plea which has been raised on behalf of the appellant on this court."

13. This now leads us to the next question and a more relevant one, as to whether a proceeding for contempt initiated against the appellant can be held to be sustainable merely on speculation, assumption and inference drawn from facts and circumstances of the instant case. In our considered opinion, the answer clearly has to be in the negative in view of the well-settled legal position reflected in a catena of decisions of this court that contempt of a civil nature can be held to have been made out only if there has been a wilful disobedience of the order and even though there may be disobedience, yet if the same does not reflect that it has been a conscious and wilful disobedience, a case for contempt cannot be held to have been made out. In fact, if an order is capable of more than one interpretation giving rise to variety of consequences, non-compliance of the same cannot be held to be wilful disobedience of the order so as to make out a case of contempt entailing the serious consequence including imposition of punishment. However, when the Courts are confronted with a question as to whether a given situation could be treated to be a case of wilful disobedience, or a case of a lame excuse, in order to subvert its compliance, howsoever articulate it may be, will obviously depend on the facts and circumstances of a particular case; but while deciding so, it would not be legally correct to be too speculative based on assumption as the Contempt of Courts Act 1971 clearly postulates and emphasizes that the ingredient of wilful disobedience must be there before anyone can be hauled up for the charge of contempt of a civil nature.

18. Besides this, it would also not be correct to overlook or ignore an important statutory ingredient of contempt of a civil nature given out u/s (b) of the Contempt of Courts Act 1971 that the disobedience to the order alleging contempt has to satisfy the test that it is a wilful disobedience to the order. Bearing this important factor in mind, it is relevant to note that a proceeding for civil contempt would not lie if the order alleged to have been disobeyed itself provides scope for reasonable or rational interpretation of an order or circumstance which is the factual position in the instant matter. It would equally not be correct to infer that a party although acting due to misapprehension of the correct legal position and in good faith without any motive to defeat or defy the order of the Court, should be viewed as a serious ground so as to give rise to a contempt proceeding.

19. To reinforce the aforesaid legal position further, it would be relevant and appropriate to take into consideration the settled legal position as reflected in the judgment and order delivered in the matter of Ahmad Ali Vs. Supdt., District Jail, AIR 1987 SC 1491 : Supp. SCC 556 that mere unintentional disobedience is not enough to hold anyone guilty of contempt and although, disobedience might have been established, absence of wilful disobedience on the part of the contemnor, will not hold him guilty unless the contempt involves a degree of fault or misconduct.

Thus, accidental or unintentional disobedience is not sufficient to justify one for holding guilty of contempt. It is further relevant to bear in mind the settled law on the law of contempt that casual or accidental or unintentional acts of disobedience under the circumstances which negate any suggestion of contumacy, would amount to a contempt in theory only and does not render the contemnor liable to punishment and this was the view expressed also in cases reported in AIR 1954 Patna 513, State of Bihar Vs. Rani Sonabati Kumari and AIR 1957 Patna 528, N. Bakshi Vs. O.K Ghosh.

v) Ram Kishan (supra):-

9. Contempt jurisdiction conferred onto the law courts power to punish an offender for his wilful disobedience/contumacious conduct or obstruction to the majesty of law, for the reason that respect and authority commanded by the courts of law are the greatest guarantee to an ordinary citizens that his rights shall be protected and the entire democratic fabric of the society will crumble down if the respect of the judiciary is undermined. Undoubtedly, the contempt jurisdiction is a powerful weapon in the hands of the courts of law but that by itself operates as a string of caution and unless, thus, otherwise satisfied beyond reasonable doubt, it would neither fair nor reasonable for the law courts to exercise jurisdiction under the Act. The proceedings are quasi-criminal in nature, and therefore, standard of proof required in these proceedings is beyond all reasonable doubt. It would rather be hazardous to impose sentence for contempt on the authorities in exercise of contempt jurisdiction on mere probabilities.

10. Thus, in order to punish a contemnor, it has to be established that disobedience of the order is 'wilful'. The word 'wilful' introduces a mental element and hence, requires looking into the mind of person/contemnor by gauging his actions, which is an indication of one's state of mind. 'Wilful' means knowingly intentional, conscious, calculated and deliberate with full knowledge of consequences flowing therefrom. It excludes casual, accidental, bonafide or unintentional acts or genuine inability. Wilful acts does not encompass involuntarily or negligent actions. The act has to be done with a "bad purpose or without justifiable excuse or stubbornly, obstinately or perversely". Wilful act is to be distinguished from an act done carelessly, thoughtlessly, heedlessly or inadvertently. It does not include any act done negligently or involuntarily. The deliberate conduct of a person means that he knows what he is doing and intends to do the same. Therefore, there has to be a calculated action with evil motive on his part. Even if there is a disobedience of an order, but such disobedience is the result of some compelling circumstances under which it was not possible for the contemnor to comply with the order, the contemnor cannot be punished. "Committal or sequestration will not be ordered unless contempt involves a degree of default or misconduct".

13. It is well settled principle of law that if two interpretations are possible, and if the action is not contumacious, a contempt proceeding would not be maintainable. The effect and purport of the order is to be taken into consideration and the same must be read in its entirety. Therefore, the element of willingness is an indispensable requirement to bring home the charge within the meaning of the Act.

vi) Avishek Raja and others (supra):-

19. The contours of power of the Court so far as commission of civil contempt is concerned have been elaborated upon in a number of pronouncements of this Court. Illustratively, reference may be made to the following observations in the case of Kapildeo Prasad Sah vs. State of Bihar "For holding the respondents to have committed contempt, civil contempt at that, it has to be shown that there has been wilful disobedience of the judgment or order of the Court. Power to punish for contempt is to be resorted to when there is clear violation of the Court's order.

Since notice of contempt and punishment for contempt is of far reaching consequence and these powers should be invoked only when a clear case of wilful disobedience of the court's order has been made out.Whether disobedience is wilful in a particular case depends on the facts and circumstances of that case. Judicial orders are to be properly understood and complied with. Even negligence and carelessness can amount to disobedience particularly when the attention of the person is drawn to the Court's orders and its implication.

Jurisdiction to punish for contempt exists to provide ultimate sanction against the person who refuses to comply with the order of the court or disregards the order continuously.

No person can defy the Court's order. Wilful would exclude casual, accidental, bona fide or unintentional acts or genuine inability to comply with the terms of the order. A petitioner who complains breach of Court's order must allege deliberate or contumacious disobedience of the Court's order." (Emphassis is supplied by us)

20. Similar is the view expressed by this Court in Ashok Paper Kamgar Union vs. Dharam Godha, Anil Kumar Shahi v. Professor Ram Sevak Yadav, Jhareswar Prasad Paul vs. Tarak Nath Ganguly, Union of India vs. Subedar Devassy PV, Bihar Finance Service House Construction Co-operative Society Ltd. vs. Gautam Goswami and Chhotu Ram vs. Urvashi Gulati. In view of the consistency in the opinions rendered therein, it will not be necessary to burden this order by any detailed reference to what has been held in the above cases except to reiterate that the standard of proof required to hold a person guilty of contempt would be the same as in a criminal proceeding and the breach alleged shall have to be established beyond all reasonable doubt [Chhotu Ram vs. Urvashi Gulati (supra)]. More recent in point of time is the view expressed by this Court in Noor Saba vs. Anoop Mishra wherein the scope of the contempt power in case of breach of a Court's order has been dealt with in paragraph 14 of the report in the following manner-

"To hold the respondents or anyone of them liable for contempt this Court has to arrive at a conclusion that the respondents have wilfully disobeyed the order of the Court. The exercise of contempt jurisdiction is summary in nature and an adjudication of the liability of the alleged contemnor for wilful disobedienceof the Court is normally made on admitted and undisputed facts. In the present case not only there has been a shift in the stand of the petitioner with regard to the basic facts on which commission of contempt has been alleged even the said new/ altered facts do not permit an adjudicationin consonance with the established principles of exercise of contempt jurisdiction so as to enable the Court to come to a conclusion that any of the respondents have wilfully disobeyed the order of this Court..." (Emphassis is supplied by us)

21. Similarly, in Sudhir Vasudeva vs. George Ravishekaran9 the issue has been dealt with in a manner which may be of relevance to the present case. Para 19 of the report is as follows.

"The power vested in the High Courts as well as this Court to punish for contempt is a special and rare power available both under the Constitution as well as the Contempt of Courts Act of 1971. It is a drastic power which, if misdirected, could even curb the liberty of the individual charged with commission of contempt. The very nature of the power casts a sacred duty in the Courts to exercise the same with the greatest of care and caution.

This is also necessary as, more often than not, adjudication of a contempt plea involves a process of self-determination of the sweep, meaning and effect of the order in respect of which disobedience is alleged. The Courts must not, therefore, travel beyond the four corners of the order which is 9 (2014) 3 SCC 373 24 alleged to have been flouted or enter into questions that have not been dealt with or decided in the judgment or the order violation of which is alleged. Only such directions which are explicit in a judgment or order or are plainly self-evident ought to be taken into account for the purpose of consideration as to whether there has been any disobedience or wilful violation of the same.

Decided issues cannot be reopened; nor can the plea of equities be considered. The Courts must also ensure that while considering a contempt plea the power available to the Court in other corrective jurisdictions like review or appeal is not trenched upon. No order or direction supplemental to what has been already expressed should be issued by the Court while exercising jurisdiction in the domain of the contempt law; such an exercise is more appropriate in other jurisdictions vested in the Court, as noticed above." (Emphassis is supplied by us)

vii) Principal Commissioner of Income Tax (supra):-

7. Now so far as the observations made by the High Court while concurring with the view of the learned Tribunal that merely by filing of return of income with the new address, it shall be enough for the assessee to discharge its legal responsibility for observing proper procedural steps as per the Companies Act and the Income Tax Act is concerned, we are of the opinion that mere mentioning of the new address in the return of income without specifically intimating the Assessing Officer with respect to change of address and without getting the PAN database changed, is not enough and sufficient. In absence of any specific intimation to the Assessing Officer with respect to change in address and/or change in the name of the assessee, the Assessing Officer would be justified in sending the notice at the available address mentioned in the PAN database of the assessee, more particularly when the return has been filed under E-Module scheme. It is required to be noted that notices under Section 143 (2) of the 1961 Act are issued on selection of case generated under automated system of the Department which picks up the address of the assessee from the database of the PAN. Therefore, the change of address in the database of PAN is must, in case of change in the name of the company and/or any change in the registered office or the corporate office and the same has to be intimated to the Registrar of Companies in the prescribed format (Form 18) and after completing with the said requirement, the assessee is required to approach the Department with the copy of the said document and the assessee is also required to make an application for change of address in the departmental database of PAN, which in the present case the assessee has failed to do so.

viii) In Re: P.C Sen v. Unknown(supra):-

5. Instead of making a frank statement before the Court, the Chief Minister was apparently advised to adopt grossly technical pleas. Counsel informed the Court that the Chief Minister did "not like to use any affidavit showing cause". Evidence was then led before the Court to prove that the offending speech was in fact broadcast by the Chief Minister on the All India Radio, Calcutta Station. After evidence was recorded in the Court about the speech broadcast by the Chief Minister he somewhat belatedly filed an affidavit on March 4, 1966, admitting that he had delivered the speech on the AH India Radio on the night of November 25, 1965, the contents of which were proved by the evidence of the Programme Director. It was also admitted that the Chief Minister had knowledge of the filing of the petition when he broadcast the speech and of the rule served upon the State Government. By the affidavit it was attempted to justify the speech, on the plea that the Chief Minister came to learn that certain persons had started publicly propagating the view that far from achieving the objects, the Order will not only reduce the supply of fluid milk in the area, but also displace numerous persons from their normal avocation resulting in unemployment for many, that the object of the propaganda was to criticise and ridicule the policy of the State Government in promulgating the Order, that the propaganda had misled certain sections of the people about the object, purpose and nature of the Order and the consequences thereof, particularly with regard to the position of supply of milk and the question of continued employment of the persons working in the sweetmeat shops in the area, that taking advantage of the situation, attempts were made to commence a political agitation against the State Government for having promulgated the Order, and in the circumstances and particularly with a view to preventing widespread agitation in connection with the Order, it was thought that it was the duty of the Chief Minister of the State to explain to the people the policy underlying and the reasons for promulgating the Order, that in making the speech his sole and only intention and purpose was to "remove the confusion and allay the fears, if any, from the minds of the people with regard to the purpose nature, object and effect of the promulgation of the Order", that he had no intention: whatsoever of either showing any disrespect to the Court or interfering in any manner with the due course of the administration of justice, nor did he anticipate that his speech could have any such effect, and that by broadcasting his speech he had committed no contempt of Court nor had he any intention of doing so.

6. Banerjee, J., after a detailed examination of the relevant law and the speech broadcast, held that the speech broadcast amounted to contempt of Court "in the sense that it was likely to have several baneful effects upon the petitioners" in Petition No. 369 of 1965, "upon their cause and upon others having a cause similar to that of the petitioners". The learned Judge accordingly recorded that "the Chief Minister cannot wholly escape the charge of having committed contempt of Court", since "the speech was contumacious in the sense that it was likely to have baneful effects upon the petitioners" in Petition No. 369 of 1965 "their cause, and upon persons having a similar cause and as such was likely to interfere with the administration of justice by the Court." The learned Judge, however, observed that "the contemner Mr. Sen should be let off with an expression of disapproval of his conduct and in the hope that the sort of indiscretion will not be repeated"

8. The law relating to contempt of Court is well settled. Any act done or writing published which is calculated to bring a Court or a Judge into contempt, or to lower his authority, or to interfere with the due course of justice or the lawful process of the Court, is a contempt of Court : R. v. Gray, [1900] 2 Q.B.D. 36 at p. 40. Contempt by speech or writing may be by scandalising the Court itself, or by abusing parties to actions, or by prejudicing mankind in favour of or against a party before the cause is heard. It is incumbent upon Courts of justice to preserve their proceedings from being misrepresented, for prejudicing the minds of the public against persons concerned as parties in causes before the cause is finally heard has pernicious consequences. Speeches or writings misrepresenting the proceedings of the Court or prejudicing the public for or against a party or involving reflections on parties to a proceeding amount to contempt. To make a speech tending to influence the result of a pending trial, whether civil or criminal is a grave contempt. Comments on pending proceedings, if emanating from the parties or their lawyers, are generally a more serious contempt than those coming from independent sources. The question in all cases of comment on pending proceedings is not whether the publication does interfere, but whether it tends to interfere, with the due course of justice. The question is not so much of the intention of the contemner as whether it is calculated to interfere with the administration of justice. As observed by the Judicial Committee in Debi Prasad Sharma and Ors. v. The King-Emperor , L.R. 70 I. A. 216 at p. 224:

"... the test applied by the ....Board which heard the reference was whether the words complained of were in the circumstances calculated to obstruct or interfere with the course of justice and the due administration of the law."

22. Ordinarily a Court will not initiate proceedings for commitment for contempt where there is a mere technical contempt. In Legal Remembrancer v. Matilal Ghose and Ors., I.L.R. 41 Cal. 173 it was observed by Jenkins, C.J., that proceedings for contempt should be initiated with utmost reserve and no court in the due discharge of its duty can afford to disregard them. It was also observed that jurisdiction to punish for contempt was arbitrary, unlimited and uncontrolled and should be exercised with the greatest caution : that this power merits this description will be realised when it is understood that there is no limit to the imprisonment that may be inflicted or the fine that may be imposed save the Court's unfettered discretion, and that the subject is protected by no right of general appeal. We may at once observe that since the enactment of the Contempt of Courts Act12 of 1926 and Act 32 of 1952 the power of the Court in imposing punishment for con tempt of court is not an uncontrolled or unlimited power, That, however does not justify the court in commencing proceedings without due caution and reserve. But Banerjee, J., who must be conversant with local conditions was of the view that action of the Chief Minister was likely to interfere with the course of justice for it was likely to have "baneful effects" upon the petitioners their cause and upon persons having a similar cause, and sitting in appeal we do not think that we can hold that he took an erroneous view of his power or of the tendency of the speech, which hs has chisraeterified as having "baneful effects". Banerjee, J., has ultimately treated the contempt as technical for he has not imposed any substantive sentence, not even a warning.He has merely expressed his displeasure. The speech was ex facie calculated to interfere with the administration of justice. In the circumstances the order of Banerjee, J., observing that the Chief Minister had acted improperly and expressing disapproval of the action does not call for any interference by this Court.

It is settled that an assessment year is a self-contained assessment period and a decision in one assessment year does not ordinarily operate as res judicata or estoppel in respect of the matters decided in another year. It is open to the Income-tax Officer to depart from the decision in another year since the assessment is final and conclusive between the parties only in relation to the assessment for a particular year for which it is made.

x. Commissioner of Income Tax v. Lalit Kumar Bardia (supra):-

20. Transfer of proceedings u/s 127 of the Act cannot be retrospective so as to confer jurisdiction on a person who does not have it. Section 127 of the Act does not empower the Authorities under the Act to confer jurisdiction on a person who does not have jurisdiction with retrospective effect. In fact, the explanation under Section 12 of the Act clearly provides that all the proceedings under the Act which are pending on the date of such order of transfer and all the proceedings which may be commenced after date of such order of transfer would stand transferred to the Assessing Officer to whom the case is transferred by Section 127(1) of the Act. This provision makes it clear that though transfer would come into effect from the date the order of Commissioner passed under Section 127(1) of the Act, the proceedings already commenced would not abate and continue with new Assessing Officer, who assumes charge consequent to transfer subject of course to the pending notices being within jurisdiction of the Officer issuing the notices. It is not a provision which validates without jurisdiction notice issued by an Income Tax Officer. If the submission of the Revenue on the above account is to be accepted, then an order which is without jurisdiction could be bestowed with jurisdiction by passing an order of transfer with retrospective effect. Section 127 of the Act does not validate notices/orders issued without jurisdiction, even if they are transferred to a new Officer by an Order under Section 127 of the Act.

xi. Commissioner of Income Tax v. M/s All India Children Care & Educational (supra):-

"The Apex Court has held, thus under Section 64(3) the question of determination as to the place of assessment only arises if an objection is taken of assessment only arises if an objection is taken by the assessee and the Income Tax officer has any doubts as to the matter. But the determination is to be by the Commissioner of Income Tax or the Central Board of Revenue. The Act does not "contemplate any other authority."

We find that similar kind of provision is contained in sub-section (4) of Section 124. In this view of the matter, it is the Commissioner, or where the question is one relating to areas within the jurisdiction of different Commissioners concerned, or if they are not in agreement by the Board lies. It necessarily excludes any other court or authority. Complete machinery for determination of place of assessment or the authority for assessment is provided for under Section 124."

xii) Commissioner of Income Tax v. Sohan Lal Sewa Ram Jaggi:-

6. We have given our anxious consideration to the various pleas of the learned counsel for the parties. From the facts above, we find that the notice under Section 143(2) of the Act had been served upon the assessee on 18-11-1995. The provisions of Sub section (3) of Section 124 of the Act are specific and clear that an assessee or any other person should have raised objection regarding jurisdiction within 30 days from the date of notice i.e. the service. In the present case, objection, if any, was raised only on 21-3-1996, which is much beyond the period of 30 days as provided in Sub Section (3) of Section 124 of the Act. It is well settled that there is no place for equity in tax laws. Whether the assessee is under a factual impression or has no knowledge of the order of transfer in a particular case and if he is to raise any objection regarding jurisdiction, he should do so within 30 days and not beyond that and the same having not been done in the present case, we are of the considered opinion that the Tribunal was not justified in annulling the assessment on this ground alone.

47. On perusal of the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the opposite party, it is evident that Courts must not travel beyond the four corners of the order which is alleged to have been flouted or enter into questions that have not been dealt with or decided in the judgment or the order violation of which is alleged. It is also evident that there may perhaps be a case where an order disobeyed could be reasonably construed in two ways and the subordinate court construed it in one of those ways but in a way different from that intended by the superior court. Surely, it cannot be said that disobedience of the order by the subordinate court was contempt of the superior court.

It is also evident that in order to bring home a charge of contempt of court for disobeying orders of Courts, those who assert that the alleged contemnor had knowledge of the order must prove this fact beyond reasonable doubt. This Court went on to observe that in case of doubt, the benefit ought to go to the person charged. It is also evident that accidental or unintentional disobedience is not sufficient to justify one for holding guilty of contempt. It is well settled principle of law that if two interpretations are possible, and if the action is not contumacious, a contempt proceedings would not be maintainable.

It is also evident that mere mentioning of the new address in return of income without specifically intimating the Assessing Officer with respect to change of address and without getting the PAN database changed, is not enough and sufficient. In absence of aforesaid, the Assessing Officer would be justified in sending the notice at the available address mentioned in the PAN database of the assessee, more particularly when the return has been filed under Emodule scheme. It is also evident that a Court will not initiate proceedings for commitment for contempt where there is a mere technical contempt.

It is also evident from perusal of the judgments that an assessment year is a self-contained assessment period and a decision in one assessment year does not ordinarily operate as res judicata or estoppel in respect of the matter decided in another year. It is also evident that if the submission of the revenue on the account is to be accepted, then an order which is without jurisdiction could be bestowed with jurisdiction by passing an order of transfer with retrospective effect.

It is also evident that the Apex Court has held thus under Section 64(3) the question of determination as to the place of assessment only arise if an objection is taken of assessment only arise if an objection is taken by the assessee and the Income Tax Officer has any doubts as to the matter. It is well settled that there is no place for equity in tax laws. Whether the assessee is under a factual impression or has no knowledge of the order of transfer in a particular case and if he is to raise any objection regarding jurisdiction, he should do so within 30 days and not beyond that.

48. Perusal of the material available on record shows that the present contempt application has been filed alleging willful and deliberate disobedience of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 passed by a Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No.9525(MB) of 2013, whereby notice issued to the petitioner-applicant for the assessment year 2012-13 dated 3.11.2014 was quashed on the ground of jurisdictional error and the opposite party was to delete all the outstanding amount from the web portal showing the dues to be paid. Vide order of this Court dated 28.09.2022, a show cause notice was issued to the opposite party- Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-2, Lucknow that why he should not be tried and punished under Section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 for willful and deliberate disobedience of the order dated 31.03.2015 passed in Writ Petition No.9525 (M/B) of 2013. In pursuance to the same, the opposite party filed his reply. This Court, while considering the conduct of the opposite party, has taken prima facie view that the opposite party is guilty of contempt of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 and vide order dated 1.11.2023, this Court has framed three charges against the opposite party-contemnor which is extracted hereinbelow:

"(i) Why the opposite party-contemnor, Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow be not punished for willfully flouting the order dated 31.032015 passed in Writ Petition (MB) No.9525 of 2013 and proceeded with the assessment year 2013-14 when the writ Court had recorded that the Tax Authority at Lucknow do not have jurisdiction to assess the petitioner at Lucknow and passed an assessment order.

(ii) Why the opposite party-contemnor, Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow be not punished for willfully flouting the order of writ Court dated 31.03.2015 passed in Writ Petition (MB) No.9525 of 2013 that local address was inserted deliberately to create jurisdiction, which, in fact, legally was not vested with the opposite party i.e. the present contemnor.

(iii) Why the opposite party-contemnor, Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-II, Lucknow be not punished for the reason that the outstanding amount was not deleted from the web portal for several years which amounts to deliberate and willful disobedience of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015."

49. Learned counsel for the opposite while denying the aforesaid charges reiterated the same submissions as have been advanced at the time of framing of charges which have been quoted in paragraph 2 of this judgment.

50. The submission made by the learned counsel for the applicant that the writ Court vide the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 had decided the question of jurisdiction and not of any particular assessment year and also that each year assessment being different has no application in cases where the jurisdiction prima facie appears to be correct as this Court finds that the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 is not confined to any particular assessment year and has generally recorded that the Income Tax Authority at Lucknow does not have jurisdiction over the applicant who is assessed at Delhi. This Court is therefore of the view that the opposite party is guilty of contempt of the order dated 31.03.2015 passed by the writ Court and the opposite party does not have the jurisdiction or authority to interpret the order passed by the Court by putting words which are not contained in the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 appears to be willful and deliberate.

51. It is not in dispute that notice issued to the applicant for the assessment year 2012-13 dated 3.11.2014 was quashed on the ground of jurisdictional as well as consequential orders were also directed to be set aside. Meaning thereby, the Assessing Officer has to take care that the entry existing on the web portal was to be deleted immediately after passing of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015 but deliberately and intentionally the outstanding of notice of assessment year 2011-12 became operation on the web portal till seven years and seven months which ruined the reputation of the applicant and this act of the Income Tax Authority was in deliberate and willful disobedience of the judgment and order dated 31.03.2015.

52. Here, in the present case, as per own admission of previous learned counsel for the opposite party, the outstanding amount was deleted from the web portal after seven months, although it is actually seven years and seven months which amounts deliberate and willful disobedience of the judgment and order dated 31.03.201 for which the opposite party is liable to be punished with imprisonment as well as fine.

53. It is also relevant to note that the present contempt application was disposed of vide judgment and order dated 16.12.2022 against which, a review application was filed and the order dated 16.12.2022 was recalled vide order dated 17.1.2023. Against the said order dated 17.01.2023, a special appeal was filed by the opposite party in which the Division Bench refrained from making any observation on the issue as to whether learned Contempt Judge does or does not have power of review and was dismissed the special appeal vide judgment and order dated 24.04.2023 on the ground that no cause of action has accrued to the appellant-opposite party to institute these proceedings.

54. The judgment and order passed by this Court has primacy and the plea raised at a very late stage that the representation given by the applicant on July 5, 2015 had been referred to the CIT in January, 2016 is not acceptable because after referring the representation, the opposite party neither sent any reminder in this regard and neither took any steps for obtaining a decision/ direction from the CIT nor any document in this regard has been produced before this Court till now so as to show his best efforts and regard towards the order of the Court.

55. The Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as this Court, on several occasions while considering the willful disobedience of the order, repeatedly held that willful and deliberate contempt must be punished both by the imprisonment and fine as it is absolutely imperative to uphold the dignity and majesty of a court of law.

56. In view of the above, the ratio of judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the opposite party is not applicable to the present facts and circumstances of the case as in all the decisions a definite finding has been recorded that in case the commission of contempt is willful and deliberate, the contemnor must be punished to uphold the dignity and majesty of a court of law.

57. In the judgment rendered in the case of Balwantbhai Somabhai Bhandari (supra) relied upon by learned counsel for the applicant, it has been held that on account of contempt no benefit can accrue to any beneficiary of the contempt. It has also been held that the apology tendered should not be accepted as a matter of course and the court is not bound to accept the same. The apology may be unconditional, unqualified and bonafide, still if the conduct is serious, which has caused damage to the dignity of the institution, the same should not be accepted. There ought not to be a tendency by courts, to show compassion when disobedience of an undertaking or an order is with impunity and will total consciousness.

58. In the celebrated decision of Attorney General v. Time Newspaper Ltd.; 1974 AC 273, the Hon'ble Court has held that there is an element of public policy in punishing civil contempt since the administration of justice would be undermined if the order of any court of law could be disregarded with impunity.

59. Civil contempt is punishable with imprisonment as well as fine. In a given case, the court may also penalise the party in contempt by order him to pay the costs of the application and a fine can also be imposed upon the contemnor.

60. Disobedience of this Court's order strikes at the very root of the rule of law on which the judicial system rests. The rule of law is the foundation of a democratic society. Judiciary is the guardian of the rule of law. Hence, it is not only the third pillar but also the central pillar of the democratic State. If the judiciary is to perform its duties and functions effectively and remain true to the spirit with which they are sacredly entrusted to it, the dignity and authority of the Courts have to be respected and protect at all costs. Otherwise, the very corner stone of our constitutional scheme will give way and with it will disappear the rule of law and the civilized life in the society. That is why it is imperative and invariable that Court's orders are to be followed and complied with.

61. Considering in totalities of the facts and circumstances of the case as well as law-reports cited by learned counsel for the parties, this Court finds the charges framed vide order dated 1.11.2023 to be proved against the opposite party. This Court is also of the opinion that the action of the opposite party is not only contemptuous but is also malicious. He took care with the money of the applicant in spite of clear direction of this Court and there is no justifiable reason for the said action. If the action of Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired) is considered in the background by the allegations made against him, it was his purposeful act to harass the applicant in spite of order of the writ Court. Unnecessarily mens rea is not required to be proved in a case of contempt but in the present case the violation is willful, deliberate and coupled with intention and motive to harass the applicant.

62. For the reasons given above, this Court finds the opposite party- Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired) to be guilty under Section 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971.

63. On these facts, fine only would not meet the ends of justice because Mr.

Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired) was a senior officer, who was the custodian of assessing of the applicant and had committed a grossly reprehensible act and in case he is not punished, it would send down a wrong signal to other officials of Income Tax Department that even such unbusiness like conduct invites only a warning or fine, as Courts are flooded with matters, where orders are passed.

64. Accordingly, a fine of Rs.25,000/- along with simple imprisonment for a period of one week is awarded to the contemnor-Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired). In case of default, he would suffer one day's further simple imprisonment.

65. The contemnor-opposite party (Mr. Harish Gidwani, Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Range-2, Lucknow (now retired)) will surrender before the Senior Registrar of this Court 3.30p.m. on 9.8.2024 who will send him jail to serve out the sentence.

66. The Senior Registrar of this Court is directed to submit a report by 12.8.2024 to this Court in regard to compliance of the order.

67. Resultantly, the contempt application is finally disposed off.

68. All the pending applications, if any pending, are disposed of accordingly.

Order after deliver of Judgment:

(i) After delivery of judgment on 9.8.2024, Shri Neerav Chitravanshi, learned counsel for the opposite party assisted by Shri Kushagra Dikshit, learned Advocate requested that effect and operation of the judgment dated 9.8.2024 be extended for ten days.

(ii) Ms. Radhika Singh, learned counsel for the applicant has serious objection for extension of time for its applicability.

(iii) In view of the fact that the matter has been lingering since long, the prayer made by Shri Neerav Chitravanshi, learned counsel for the opposite party-contemnor for enforcement of judgment dated 9.8.2024 after ten days is rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J. & Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

1. Heard.

2. This is a first appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996.

3. On 10.05.2014, we had passed the following order :-

"1. This matter was earlier being heard by a Division Bench. However, in view of Notification dated 23.05.2022, the matter was placed before Single Judge Bench on 16.04.2024 and thereafter it continued to be listed before a Single Judge Bench but on 02.05.2024 following order was passed :-

"Shri Devendra Mohan Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that this First Appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996 having valuation of Rs.75,66,787/- filed before this court is cognizable by the Division Bench. It was going on before the Hon'ble Division Bench. However as per office report dated 16.04.2024 in view of Notification dated 23.05.2022, it has been put up before this Single Bench.

He submits that by means of Notification dated 23 May 2022, the Rule 2(ii)(b) of Chapter V and Rule 2(ii)(d) of Chapter V of the Allahabad High Court Rules has been amended and the valuation of Rs.50 lakh has been deleted. The instant appeal is covered under Rule 2(ii)(d) of Chapter V, for which the amendment has been made w.e.f.01.07.2022, therefore the appeal filed thereafter shall be covered by the said amendment and not the present appeal. Thus the submission is that this appeal has wrongly been sent by the office before this court, whereas it has not been directed by the Hon'ble Division Bench.

Shri Amit Chandra, Advocate holding brief of Shri P. Chakravarty, learned counsel for the respondents does not dispute that the appeal was filed before the Division Bench and the matter was in active consideration before the Division Bench and also does not dispute the contention of learned counsel for the appellant.

In view of above, let the matter be placed before the concerned Hon'ble Division Bench, who may consider it.

As prayed list in the next week. "

2. The learned Single Judge it appears has opined that as amendment of Rule 2(ii)(d) of Chapter V of the Allahabad High Court Rules vide Allahabad High Court (Amendment) Rules, 2022 dated 23.05.2022 has come into force on 01.07.2022, therefore, this will apply only to appeals filed after the said date i.e. after 01.07.2022 and not to pending appeals. This is how the matter has again come back to the Division Bench.

3. In our view, prima facie, the amendment is essentially procedural one.

4. Order reserved on this issue."

4. Thereafter we posted the matter again by the following order passed on 12.07.2022 :-

"(1) We had reserved our order on 10.05.2024.

(2) Having considered the matter as the Rule in question has been framed by Allahabad High Court, we would like to have the opinion of the High Court itself as to the object/ intent behind the amendment made in Rule 2(ii)(b) of Chapter V and Rule 2(ii)(d) of Chapter V of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, whether the amendments are intended to apply to pending proceedings also?

(3) Let Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned counsel for the High Court seek instructions and assist the Court on the next date.

(4) The appeal be listed on 18.07.2024 as first case of the day.

(5) Office to communicate this order to Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned counsel for the High Court."

5. Prior to the notification of the High Court dated 23.05.2022, Rule 2 (ii) (b) contained in Chapter-V of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 dealing with Jurisdiction of a Single Judge was to the effect as under :-

"Except as provided by these Rules or other law, the following cases shall be heard and disposed of by a Judge sitting alone, namely :

(i) .....,

(ii) (a) .....,

(ii) (b) a First Appeal instituted before or after the commencement of the U.P. Civil Laws Amendment Act of 2015 (U.P. Act No. 14 of 2015) from a decree in which value of the appeal for the purpose of jurisdiction does not exceed fifty lakh rupees;

(ii) (c).....,

(ii) (d) any other Civil Appeal in which the value of the appeal does not exceed fifty lakh rupees."

6. By the notification dated 23.05.2022, which has been kept on record, the words 'in which value of the appeal for the purpose of jurisdiction does not exceed fifty lakh rupees' were deleted in Clause (b) and (d) of Rule 2 (ii) of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 referred hereinabove. The provision in question is a procedural provision and we have to consider the effect of said deletion.

7. Today, Shri Gaurav Mehrotra informs the Court that the matter has been examined by the High Court at the competent level and according to the High Court the amendment referred in the aforesaid order is to have retrospective effect and this was the intent behind the amendment, as is evident from the discussion and the notings in the file preceding the said amendment. He has also relied upon the decision in the case(s) of (i) Om Prakash Agarwal since deceased through legal representatives and others Vs. Vishan Dayal Rajpoot and another, reported in (2019) 14 SCC 526, (ii) ECGC Limited Vs. Mokul Shriram EPC JV, I.A. No.99210 of 2021 in Civil Appeal No.1842 of 2021, (iii) Ultratech Cement Ltd. & another Vs. State of Rajasthan & others, (2021) 12 SCC 147, (iv) Manujendra Dutt Vs. Purnedu Prosad Roy Chowdhury & others, AIR 1967 SC 1419, (v) K. Kapen Chako Vs. Provident Investment Company (P) Ltd. (1977) 1 SCC 593, (vi) Sudhir G. Angur & others Vs. M. Sanjeev & others, (2006) 1 SCC 141, (vii) Hitendra Vishnu Thakur & others Vs. State of Maharashtra & others, (1994) 4 SCC 602, (viii) Mohd. Idris & others Vs. Sat Narain & others, AIR 1966 SC 1499, (ix) S. Sundaram Pillai & others Vs. V.R. Pattabiraman & others, (1985) SCC 591, which were considered at that time by the High Court while bringing the amendment.

8. We are also of the opinion that the provision in which the amendment has been made as referred hereinabove is a procedural provision, therefore, normally any amendment in such a provision even if it is a deletion it has a retrospective effect and applies to pending proceedings also. No appellant has any vested right to have his appeal heard by a Single Judge Bench. The only right is that the appeal be heard by the High Court whether it be heard by a Division Bench or by a Single Judge Bench is immaterial. This does not involve any change of forum also because the forum remains the same, which is the High Court. In either eventuality the next remedy would be before Hon'ble the Supreme Court and not before this Court. In taking this view, we are supported by the law enumerated and propounded in the precedents referred hereinabove.

9. For all these reasons, we hold that the amendment brought about by the notification dated 23.05.2022 in Rule 2(ii)(b) of Chapter V and Rule 2(ii)(d) of the same Chapter of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, by which the words fifty lakh rupees etc. have been deleted applies to pending appeals also except of course those appeals where under the statute which provides the remedy of appeal, it is to be heard by a Division Bench, in that case of course, the said Rules will not apply as there would be no question of pecuniary jurisdiction in maintaining such appeal.

10. Let the Registry take note of this order and list the appeal accordingly. As a consequence of the aforesaid, this appeal will now be heard by Single Judge Bench which may have been assigned such appeals.

11. List this appeal before the appropriate Bench on 09.09.2024.

1. By means of the instant appeal filed under Section 19 of the Family Courts Act, the appellant has challenged the validity of a judgment and decree dated 08.02.2022, passed by the First Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Hardoi, in Regular Suit No.607 of 2019: Apoorva Gupta versus Vandana Gupta, under Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

2. In response to a notice issued by this Court, the respondent had put in appearance by filing a Vakalatnama appointing three learned Advocates to represent her before this Court. The appeal was admitted by means of an order dated 13.01.2023 and the trial court's record was summoned. Thereafter the following order was passed on 07.08.2023:

"1. The appeal was mentioned by leaned counsel for the appellant. A written notice has also been served to learned counsel for the respondent namely Sri Ram Maurya.

2. Learned counsel for the respondent has failed to appear when the case was called out.

3. The case is ready for hearing.

4. List this matter for ex-parte hearing. Let a notice be sent to the respondent along-with a copy of this order about the date fixed.

5. List in the week commencing 21.8.2023."

3. The office has reported on 13.12.2023 that the notice issued to the respondent has been served through her mother, which is sufficient service, but she has not put in appearance before this court to oppose the appeal and, therefore, the appeal was heard ex-parte on 21.08.2024.

4. In the plaint filed on 06.08.2016 before the Principal Judge, Family Court, Hardoi, the plaintiff-appellant pleaded that the parties got married on 14.04.2012 at Hardoi. The defendant stated that she would not live in Mallawan town and will live at Delhi. The plaintiff kept her at Delhi for some time but when a proper arrangement for residence at Delhi could not be made, he kept the defendant at Mallawan with his parents. The defendant did not cooperate in performance of the house-hold chores and she went away with her father and she took away all her clothes and jewelry with her. The defendant had lodged a false criminal case against the plaintiff, his parents and both his sisters, in which the plaintiff and his family members were acquitted and accepting the defendant's condition that she will not go to Mallawan, the plaintiff started living with her at Delhi. For this reason, the plaintiff's parents severed their relations with the plaintiff and they deprived him of all the rights in their properties.

5. On 09.05.2014, the defendant went to live with her parents and she delivered a baby girl in a Nursing Home on 12.07.2014, in which the plaintiff rendered his full cooperation, but some quarrel took place there and the plaintiff was threatened and turned away and he was not involved in the ceremonies of his daughter. The plaintiff used to send money-orders for some time but later on the defendant declined to accept the same and she did not let the plaintiff meet his daughter.

6. The plaintiff further pleaded that false complaints were made by the defendant against him and the Women's Commission held mediation between the parties, but the defendant did not agree to live with the plaintiff or to let him meet his daughter. The defendant treated the plaintiff in a cruel manner, she did not cooperate in house-hold chores at Delhi, she indulged into quarrel and beatings almost on daily basis and she got the plaintiff threatened for his life by her brothers. The plaintiff also pleaded that the defendant was living separate from him for the past two years without any cause and she was threatening to entangle him in a false case.

7. The defendant filed a written statement in the suit denying the plaint allegations and she alleged that she was harassed for demanding dowry and the plaintiff left her at her father's residence on 09.05.2014 and since then he did not even inquire about her well being. The defendant stated that she was willing to perform her conjugal obligations.

8. The Family Court framed the following two issues: -

(1) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to get his marriage dissolved on the basis of averments made in the plaint?

(2) To what relief is the plaintiff entitled?.

9. The plaintiff examined himself as PW-1 by filing his affidavit as his examination-in-chief, wherein he reiterated the plaint averments. In his cross-examination, the plaintiff stated that on 24.06.2013, the defendant had lodged an F.I.R. under Sections 498-A, 323, 324, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Sections 3/4, Dowry Prohibition Act against the plaintiff, his parents and two sisters. He further stated that the defendant had deserted him without any reason for the past four years but as he had a threat of his life and property from the defendant, he did not want to live with her.

10. One Sanjay, who works in a shop situated near the plaintiff's house and who claims to know the parties very well, was examined as PW-2 and the plaintiff's father

Anup Kumar Gupta was examined as PW-3 and they also supported the plaintiff's version. The plaintiff's father stated in his cross-examination that the defendant's father has filed a case under Sections 452, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. in the year 2015 against him and the plaintiff.

11. The defendant examined herself as OPW-1 and she declined all the plaintiff's allegations and she further stated that although the plaintiff used to beat her, she does not have any life threat from him and she wants to live with the plaintiff.

12. The defendant's father Umesh Chandra Gupta was examined as OPW-2, who stated in his examination-in-chief that as a settlement had been arrived at during mediation, the dowry case was got closed by all the witnesses turning hostile. However, no written settlement was entered into between the parties. In his cross-examination. He stated that there was some old relationship between his family and the family of the plaintiff. He admitted that the plaintiff had sent some amount to the defendant through money-order, but without disclosing the amount, he said that it was a meager amount. He stated that he did not understand the meaning of the word 'hostile' used in his affidavit filed as his examination-in-chief.

13. In documentary evidence, the plaintiff filed a copy of the complaint no. 3337 of 2015 filed by the defendant's father against the plaintiff and his father under Section 452, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. in the Court of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hardoi, a copy of F.I.R. relating to Case Crime No. 343 of 2013 under Sections 452, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. filed by the plaintiff in Police Station Mallawan against the defendant's father and three other persons and a copy of the charge-sheet dated 29.07.2013 filed in respect of that F.I.R.

14. The Family Court dismissed the suit for divorce by means of the impugned judgment and decree dated 08.02.2022 holding that after the F.I.R. was lodged by the defendant, the parties had entered into a settlement and resumed cohabitation and, therefore, the occurrences that had taken place prior to it cannot be taken into consideration for adjudicating whether the defendant has treated the plaintiff with cruelty. Cases have been lodged against each other by persons of both the sides and, therefore, filing of a false case cannot be a ground for granting a decree of divorce. Minor differences in matrimonial relationships are normal and the same cannot be termed as cruelty.

15. Rejecting the claim of divorce on the ground of desertion, the Family Court held that the parties resided together happily as husband and wife till 12.07.2014, the plaintiff has not made any efforts for resuming cohabitation thereafter whereas the defendant has expressed willingness to resume cohabitation with the plaintiff and, therefore, the ground of desertion is not established.

16. The following points arise for determination in this appeal: - a) Whether the facts and circumstances of the case evidenced by the material available on record make out the grounds of cruelty and desertion?

b) Whether the judgment and decree passed by the Family Court dismissing the suit for divorce is sustainable in law?

17. In Rakesh Raman v. Kavita, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 497, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has explained the meaning of the word "cruelty" used in Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act in the following words: -

"18. Cruelty has not been defined under the Act. All the same, the context where it has been used, which is as a ground for dissolution of a marriage would show that it has to be seen as a 'human conduct' and 'behavior" in a matrimonial relationship. While dealing in the case of Samar Ghosh [Samar Ghosh v. Jaya Ghosh, (2007) 4 SCC 511] this Court opined that cruelty can be physical as well as mental:—

"46…If it is physical, it is a question of fact and degree. If it is mental, the enquiry must begin as to the nature of the cruel treatment and then as to the impact of such treatment on the mind of the spouse. Whether it caused reasonable apprehension that it would be harmful or injurious to live with the other, ultimately, is a matter of inference to be drawn by taking into account the nature of the conduct and its effect on the complaining spouse.

19. Cruelty can be even unintentional:—

…The absence of intention should not make any difference in the case, if by ordinary sense in human affairs, the act complained of could otherwise be regarded as cruelty. Intention is not a necessary element in cruelty. The relief to the party cannot be denied on the ground that there has been no deliberate or wilful ill-treatment."

20. This Court though did ultimately give certain illustrations of mental cruelty. Some of these are as follows:

(i) On consideration of complete matrimonial life of the parties, acute mental pain, agony and suffering as would not make possible for the parties to live with each other could come within the broad parameters of mental cruelty.

(xii) Unilateral decision of refusal to have intercourse for considerable period without there being any physical incapacity or valid reason may amount to mental cruelty.

(xiii) Unilateral decision of either husband or wife after marriage not to have child from the marriage may amount to cruelty.

(xiv) Where there has been a long period of continuous separation, it may fairly be concluded that the matrimonial bond is beyond repair. The marriage becomes a fiction though supported by a legal tie. By refusing to sever that tie, the law in such cases, does not serve the sanctity of marriage; on the contrary, it shows scant regard for the feelings and emotions of the parties. In such like situations, it may lead to mental cruelty." (Emphasis supplied by the Supreme Court)

18. The appellant holds decrees of Bachelor of Technology and Master of Business Administration and is working as a Software Engineer. He got married to the respondent on 14.04.2012. It is evidence from the material available on record that both the parties belong to reputed families. On 24.06.2013, the defendant had lodged an F.I.R. under Sections 498-A, 323, 324, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Sections 3/4, Dowry Prohibition Act against the plaintiff, his parents and two sisters and the plaintiff and his family members were acquitted in that case by means of a judgment and order dated 18.02.2014 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 5, Hardoi. Thereafter the parties resumed cohabitation, which could continue only for a brief period, as the respondent had left the appellant's house at Delhi on 09.05.2014 and she never returned to him. The appellant last met the respondent on 12.07.2014 at a nursing home where she had delivered a baby girl. On the last visit of the appellant, he was assaulted by the family members of the respondent and he had filed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. in this regard, which was registered as a complaint, the accused persons were summoned and bailable warrants were issued against them due to their non-appearance and the case is still pending. Since then, the respondent did not return to live with the appellant and there has not been any connect or communication between the parties. In his cross examination, the appellant stated that the parties resided together merely for about one year in all and that the respondent had deserted him for a period of about four years without any reason. The appellant also stated that he apprehends a life threat in living with the respondent and he had does not trust her.

19. The appellant had filed Writ Petition No. 12317 of 2017 for issuance of a Writ of Habeas Corpus for custody of his daughter and the matter was referred to mediation, but to no avail.

20. Now a period of more than a decade has elapsed since the parties started living separately. The respondent is not contesting the appeal in spite of service on notice having been issued by this Court twice. The first notice was issued on the application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal, in response to which she had appeared through Counsel, but she preferred not to file any objection. Thereafter the application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal was condoned and the appeal was admitted. When the respondent's Counsel did not appear before this Court, another notice was issued to the respondent on 07.08.2013, which was also served on her but she did not appear so as to give this Court an opportunity to make efforts for an amicable settlement between the parties. She has not come forward to oppose the pleas of the appellant.

21. When we examine the aforesaid facts in light of the law explained in Rakesh Raman (Supra), we find that the parties are living separate from each other for a period exceeding a decade and the appellant has not been able to meet his daughter even once during this period. These facts are sufficient to cause acute mental pain, agony and suffering to both the parties and it would make it impossible for the parties to live with each other, which would come within the broad parameters of mental cruelty. The long period of continuous separation of a decade establishes that the matrimonial bond is beyond repair. The marriage between the parties has become a fiction, though supported by a legal tie. In such situation, it leads to mental cruelty. Though the respondent's refusal to live with the appellant may be without any intention of inflicting cruelty upon him, it would not make any difference, as intention is not a necessary element in cruelty. The appellant cannot be denied relief on this ground. By refusing to severe the tie between the plaintiff and the defendant, the Family Court has not served the sanctity of marriage; on the contrary, it has shown disregard for the feelings and emotions of the parties, which are not affectionate towards each other. Therefore, we are of the considered view that the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case make out a case for grant of divorce on the ground of cruelty.

22. The term "desertion" has been explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Debananda Tamuli v. Kakumoni Kataky: (2022) 5 SCC 459, in the following words: -

"7. …The law consistently laid down by this Court is that desertion means the intentional abandonment of one spouse by the other without the consent of the other and without a reasonable cause. The deserted spouse must prove that there is a factum of separation and there is an intention on the part of deserting spouse to bring the cohabitation to a permanent end. In other words, there should be animus deserendi on the part of the deserting spouse. There must be an absence of consent on the part of the deserted spouse and the conduct of the deserted spouse should not give a reasonable cause to the deserting spouse to leave the matrimonial home.

8. The reasons for a dispute between husband and wife are always very complex. Every matrimonial dispute is different from another. Whether a case of desertion is established or not will depend on the peculiar facts of each case. It is a matter of drawing an inference based on the facts brought on record by way of evidence."

23. The respondent had left the appellant's house on 09.05.2014 and she did not return to live with him till date, i.e. for more than a decade. The respondent is not contesting the appeal, which shows that she has no interest in her relation with the appellant and which indicates that the respondent has abandoned the relationship between herself and the appellant and an animus deserendi on her part, which is sufficient to constitute desertion.

24. In view of the aforesaid facts, we are of the considered view that the respondent has deserted the appellant.

25. The aforesaid facts are sufficient for grant of a decree of divorce in favour of the plaintiff-appellant. The Family Court has erred in dismissing the plaintiff's suit for grant of divorce.

26. In view of the aforesaid discussion, our decision of the points involved in this appeal is as follows: -

a) The facts and circumstances of the case evidenced by the material available on record make out the grounds of cruelty and desertion.

b) The judgment and decree passed by the Family Court dismissing the suit for divorce is unsustainable in law.

27. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and decree dated 08.02.2022, passed by the First Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Hardoi, in Regular Suit No.607 of 2019: Apoorva Gupta Versus Vandana Gupta, under Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is set aside and the suit is decreed. A decree of divorce is granted in favour of the plaintiff dissolving his marriage with the defendant-respondent, which was solemnized on 14.04.2012.

28. Costs of the litigation made easy.

Prelude

(1) This is an appeal filed under Section 28 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 by the wife/appellant, challenging the judgment/ decree dated 31.07.2012 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Faizabad in Original Suit No. 44 of 1997: Raj Kumar alias Golu vs. Smt. Kajal Kiran alias Guddi and another, filed by the husband/respondent under Section 12 (Voidable marriages) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

(2) Vide judgment/decree dated 31.07.2012, the Principal Judge, Family Court, Faizabad, has allowed the Original Suit No. 44 of 1997 and has declared the marriage of the respondent/ husband with appellant/wife dated 26.04.1994 as void and ineffective.

Factual Matrix

(3) Shorn of unnecessary details, facts in brief, as borne out from the pleadings, are as under:-

I. On 26.04.1995, the marriage of the appellant was solemnized with respondent. Gauna took place subsequently and thereafter appellant and respondent lived as husband and wife at Faizabad. One Shri Rajendra Prasad Gupta, resident of Mohalla Gillat Bazar, Varanasi, came to the respondent's house on 28.04.1995 and told him as well as the respondent's father and mother that prior to marriage of the respondent with the appellant, the appellant had married him on 17.05.1990 in accordance with Hindu rites and rituals. Shri Gupta told him (respondent) that subsequently, the appellant developed illicit relationship with another man and as such she was not ready to come back to him. Consequently, his marriage with the appellant was dissolved in accordance with mutual understanding for which written agreement was also entered between them on 16.08.1992, which bears signature of the appellant and her father, and, thumb impression of her mother.

II. On verification, respondent found these facts to be correct. On being confronted, as per the respondent/plaintiff, the appellant/ defendant accepted these facts and also that they were concealed by her from the respondent/husband. This led to the filing of the Original Suit No. 256 of 1995 by the respondent under Section 12 of the Act, 1955 in the District Court on 11.07.1995.

III. The case of the plaintiff was that the defendant has committed a fraud on him by concealing the factum of her earlier marriage and alleged divorce from him, which was a material fact/circumstance regarding her marital status, therefore, he is entitled to relief as prayed on the ground of Section 12 (1) (c) of the Act, 1955. Defendant of the case denied these allegations and stated that these facts were disclosed to the plaintiff and his family members, who were well aware of the same, before marriage, but a cooked up story has been putforth only because the demand of dowry of the plaintiff etc. could not be met by the defendant and her family members.

IV. In the said suit, the Judge (Small Causes Court), Faizabad passed an order of interim maintenance on 22/24.01.1996. This order was put to challenge by the plaintiff by filing Civil Revision No. 23 of 1996, wherein an interim order was passed by the District Judge, Faizabad, staying the order of trial Court dated 22/24.01.1996. Ultimately, the revision was allowed on 05.12.1997, with the prima facie observation that divorce of the defendant from the first husband Shri Gupta was not proved, therefore, prima facie, she does not appear to be the wife of revisionist/plaintiff. Thereafter, the Family Court was constituted at Faizabad and on the file being transferred to it, the suit was renumbered as Original Suit No. 44 of 1997.

V. On the basis of the pleadings in the suit, the Family Court framed four issues as under :-

1. क्या प्रतिवादिनी व उसके परिवारीजन ने प्रतिवादिनी की तृतीय–पक्ष राजेन्द्र से सम्पन्न हुई ाादी के तथ्य से वादी व उसके परिवारीजनों से छिपा कर व प्रतिवादिनी को कुंवारी बताकर प्रतिवादिनी की ाादी, वादी के साथ कर दी, जैसा कि वाद–पत्र में कहा गया है, यदि हॉ तो प्रभाव ?

2. क्या प्रतिवादिनी ने किसी अन्य व्यक्ति के साथ अवैध ाारीरिक सम्बन्ध कायम किया, जैसा कि वाद–पत्र में कहा गया है ?

3. क्या वादी, प्रतिवादिनी से दहेज की मॉग करता है और उसके अदा न करने के कारण ही उसका परित्याग कर रखा है, जैसा कि प्रतिवाद–पत्र में कहा गया है ?

4. अनुतो ा।

VI. Parties led evidence before the trial Court on the issues framed.

VII. In support of his case, respondent/husband recorded his own deposition as P.W.1 and also filed documents viz. (i) affidavit sworn by the respondent/husband (marked as paper no. 174 Ga 2); and (ii) affidavit sworn by one Brijesh Kumar Singh (marked as paper no. 175 Ga 2).

VIII. Apart from it, the respondent/husband had also filed other documentary evidences i.e. (i) vide List 6-Ga-1, a photocopy of documents pertaining to marriage of the appellant with Rajendra Kumar Gupta, a photocopy of the agreement of dissolution of marriage/divorce between the defendant/ appellant and Rajendra Kumar Gupta, a copy of Registry notice sent by Raj Kumar (respondent) dated 17.06.1995; (ii) vide List-Ga-2, a copy of the certificate issued by Labour Inspector indicating the registration of shop dated 24.08.1981; (iii) vide List 32-Ga-2, an envelop of the marriage card of the plaintiff/ respondent and the defendant/appellant; (iv) vide List 176 Ga-1, 04 CDs (in seal cover) and 10 photographs; and (v) vide List 211-Ga-2, a copy of the order dated 22.10.2010 passed in Writ Petition No. 36 of 1998 by High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, Lucknow.

IX. On the other hand, the appellant/wife recorded her own deposition as D.W.1 and also filed one documentary evidence viz. original document for dissolution of marriage dated 16.08.1991 (marked as List-36 Ga 1).

X. The Family Court, after appraising the pleadings and evidence on record, decided issue no.1, as mentioned above, in affirmative in favour of the respondent/husband by recording a finding that there is no evidence either documentary or oral that prior to marriage of the appellant/defendant with the respondent/plaintiff, respondent had knowledge about earlier marriage of the appellant with Rajendra Kumar Gupta and the appellant/defendant has admitted the fact that earlier her marriage had been solemnized with Rajendra Kumar Gupta on 15.05.1990 and her marriage was thereafter dissolved as per local customs.

XI. So far as issue no.2, regarding illicit relationship of the appellant/wife is concerned, the Family Court has recorded a finding that though the respondent/husband had alleged that erstwhile husband of his wife (appellant) told him about her illicit relationship with some other person, but the respondent/husband did not produce the said Rajendra Kumar Gupta in the witness box, therefore, the respondent could not prove his allegation about illicit relationship of his wife and accordingly, issue no.2 was decided in the negative and in favour of appellant/defendant.

XII. So far as issue no.3 with regard to allegation of the appellant/wife about demand of dowry by her husband and that on account of non-fulfillment of the demand of dowry, her husband had abandoned her, is concerned, the Family Court found that letters available on record and marked as 33Ga 1/1 and 33 Ga 1/2, which were admitted by the appellant as written by her, did not mention the demand of dowry, therefore, allegations of appellant with regard to demand of dowry by the husband from her were found to be unreliable, as such, issue no.3 was decided in the negative, against the appellant/ defendant on the ground that there is no evidence regarding demand of dowry.

XIII. Based on its findings on the aforesaid three issues, the Family Court has proceeded to decide issue no.4 pertaining to relief and has opined that as the appellant/defendant has failed to prove that prior to her marriage with the respondent/plaintiff, she had disclosed to her husband/respondent about her earlier marriage with Rajendra Kumar Gupta and its dissolution, as such, issue no. 4 was decided in favour of the respondent/ husband. Consequently, the Family Court decreed the suit in favour of the respondent/husband and declared marriage of the appellant with the respondent void and ineffective by virtue of the impugned judgment/decree dated 31.07.2012.

XIV. It is the aforesaid judgment/decree dated 31.07.2012, which has been challenged in the present appeal by the appellant/wife.

Points of Determination

(4) Based upon the pleadings, evidence on record and the impugned judgment passed by the Trial Court, the following points for determination arise before us in this appeal:-

1. Whether the appellant-defendant has concealed the factum of her first marriage and alleged Divorce from the respondent-plaintiff, thereby committing a fraud as to a material fact/circumstance relating to her marital status, thereby entitling him to declaration under Section 12 (1) (c) of the Act, 1955 ?

2. Whether the Family court has erred on facts and law by passing the impugned judgment and decree by recording perverse and illegal findings?

Discussion & Analysis

(5) We have heard Smt. Bhavna Gupta and Shri Devraj Singh holding brief of Shri U.S. Sahai, learned Counsel representing the appellant/wife and Shri Vinod Kumar Srivastava holding brief of Shri Madan Gopal Mishra, learned Counsel representing the respondent and perused the records and the impugned judgment and decree.

(6) The main plank of the submissions made by the learned Counsel for the appellant/wife was that the only basis upon which the suit filed by the respondent-plaintiff was decreed is the statement of the respondent-plaintiff to the effect that the appellant had earlier married Rajendra Kumar Gupta but she did not disclose her marital status to the respondent-plaintiff prior to marriage and even thereafter, which were factually incorrect. It was contended by the learned Counsel for the appellant that prior to marriage of the appellant with the respondent, mother of the appellant/defendant gave full information regarding the first marriage of the appellant/ defendant as well as about dissolution of the said marriage by way of agreement dated 26.04.1995 and in order to satisfy themselves fully, the respondent/plaintiff and some of his relatives came to her house for seeing the appellant/defendant and thereafter they all met her family members and had stayed overnight and thereafter, on the next day, they had also made inquiries in the village and thereafter when they were fully satisfied, only then they had fixed the dates for tilak and marriage ceremony. Thus, his submission was that none of the grounds put forth by the respondent/plaintiff in the suit constitute a ground to declare the marriage of the appellant/defendant with the respondent/plaintiff as void and ineffective in terms of Section 12 (1) (c) of the Act, 1955 and even the suit filed by the respondent/plaintiff under Section 12 of the Act, 1955 is not maintainable since none of the pre-conditions were satisfied.

(7) Replying to the aforesaid contentions raised by the appellant, learned Counsel for the respondent argued that the evidence led by the respondent/plaintiff clearly establishes that prior to her marriage with the respondent/plaintiff, the appellant/defendant had never informed him regarding her previous marriage with Rajendra Kumar Gupta nor their dissolution of marriage through agreement. Learned Counsel taking us through the deposition of the respondent/plaintiff and the documents placed in the suit as well as testimony of the respondent/plaintiff, has contended that respondent/plaintiff was extensively cross-examined but on the point of knowledge of the previous marriage of the appellant with Rajendra Kumar Gupta, respondent/plaintiff was not cross-examined nor any attempt was made on her behalf to cross-examine further during pendency of the plaint, which, according to him, itself proves the fact that prior to marriage, appellant had not informed the respondent about the factum of her previous marriage with Rajendra Kumar Gupta. Moreso, burden of proof lay on the appellant/defendant to prove the fact that she had informed about her previous marriage to the plaintiff. Thus, the findings recorded by the learned Family Court are just and proper.

(8) To consider the rival arguments and in order to answer the aforesaid point for determination, it will be apposite to mention herein that Section 12 of the Act, 1955 speaks about voidable marriage, which reads as under :-

"Section 12. Voidable Marriage.- (1) Any marriage solemnised, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be voidable and may be annulled by a decree of nullity on any of the following grounds, namely:

(a) that the marriage has not been consummated owing to the impotence of the respondent; or

(b) that the marriage is in contravention of the condition specified in clause (ii) of section 5; or

(c) that the consent of the petitioner, or where the consent of the guardian in marriage of the petitioner was required under section 5 as it stood immediately before the commencement of the Child Marriage Restraint (Amendment) Act, 1978 (2 of 1978), the consent of such guardian was obtained by force or by fraud as to the nature of the ceremony or as to any material fact or circumstance concerning the respondent; or

(d) that the respondent was at the time of the marriage pregnant by some person other than the petitioner."

(9) A specific averment has been made in various paragraph of the plaint especially para-7 regarding the appellant/defendant not having disclosed to the respondent/plaintiff about her marriage. In paragraph-6, plaintiff has pleaded that before her bidai, the respondent/plaintiff inquired from the appellant about the factum of previous marriage, whereupon she firstly denied it but when the document relating to dissolution of her first marriage was shown to her, then, she admitted it and also stated that the said fact was concealed from him (plaintiff) so that her marriage could be solemnized.

(10) The defendants no. 1 to 3 in the suit that is the appellant/wife, her mother and father filed a joint written statement, wherein they admitted the factum of earlier marriage of the appellant with Rajendra Kumar Gupta but said Shri Gupta and his family members used to demand dowry, which could not be fulfilled, therefore, the marriage was dissolved on 16.08.1992. Most important, they have averred in para-18 that these facts were known to the respondent/plaintiff and his family members. They had inquired from villagers and only thereafter marriage was solemnized.

(11) Since, the respondent/husband had premised the present petition before the learned Family Court on the basis of fraud played on him concerning the appellant's previous marriage, it would be apt to understand the meaning and import of 'fraud' used in Section 12 (1) (c) of the Act, 1955.

(12) The term "Fraud" in the context of Section 12(1)(c) of the Act, 1955 was interpreted by the Hon'ble Bombay High Court in the case of Raghunath Gopal Daftardar vs Vijaya Raghunatha Gopal Daftarda : 1971 SCC OnLine Bom 52. It culled out a distinction between the term "fraud" as appearing in Section 17 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 and in Section 12 of Act, 1955 by observing that marriage under Hindu Law is treated as a 'Sanskara' or a sacrament and not a mere civil contract. The term "fraud" as used in the Act, 1955 is not a "fraud" in any general way and that every misrepresentation or concealment would not be fraudulent. If the consent given by parties is a real consent to the solemnization of marriage, then the same cannot be circumvented by alleging fraud. Similarly, in the case of Harbhajan Singh vs Shrimati Brij Balab : 1963 SCC OnLine Punj 139, it was observed that 'fraud' as a ground for annulment of marriage under the Hindu law is limited to those cases where the consent for marriage was obtained by some deception. Thus, under the Hindu Law, not every misrepresentation or concealment of a fact shall amount to "fraud" as envisaged under Section 12(1)(c) for annulment of a marriage. The fraud must be material as to the nature of ceremony or to any material fact or circumstance concerning the respondent and thus, at this point it is pertinent to consider what would tantamount to a material fact. The meaning of "material fact" or "circumstance concerning the respondent" is difficult to define with certainty. However, it would be reasonable to say that fact or circumstance which is of such a nature that it would be material or relevant to the consent for marriage would be a material fact or circumstance in terms of Section 12 (1) (c) of the Act, 1955. A fact, which if disclosed, would result in either of the parties not consenting to the marriage, would be a material fact. Such a material fact must be in respect of the person or the character of the person.

(13) A bare perusal of Section 12 of the Act, 1955 reveals that any marriage solemnized, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be voidable and may be annulled by a decree of nullity inter alia on the ground, if, (i) the consent of the petitioner is obtained by "force" or by "fraud"; (ii) such "force" or "fraud" must be as to the "nature of the ceremony" or as to "any material fact or circumstance" concerning the respondent.

(14) To prove his case, apart from the evidence led by respondent/plaintiff as P.W.1, he has also filed documents viz. (i) affidavit sworn by the respondent/husband (marked as paper no. 174 Ga 2); and (ii) affidavit sworn by one Brijesh Kumar Singh (marked as paper no. 175 Ga 2). Apart from it, the respondent/husband has also filed other documentary evidences i.e. (i) vide List 6-Ga-1, a photocopy of documents pertaining to marriage of the appellant with Rajendra Kumar Gupta, a photocopy of the agreement of dissolution of marriage/divorce between the defendant/ appellant and Rajendra Kumar Gupta, a copy of Registry notice sent by Raj Kumar (respondent) dated 17.06.1995; (ii) vide List-Ga-2, a copy of the certificate issued by Labour Inspector indicating the registration of shop dated 24.08.1981; (iii) vide List 32-Ga-2, an envelop of the marriage card of the plaintiff/ respondent and the defendant/appellant; (iv) vide List 176 Ga-1, 04 CDs (in seal cover) and 10 photographs; and (v) vide List 211-Ga-2, a copy of the order dated 22.10.2010 passed in Writ Petition No. 36 of 1998 by High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, Lucknow.

(15) In his lengthy statement, respondent/plaintiff (P.W.1) has explained all the details including the fact that how the appellant/defendant and her family members played fraud against him (P.W.1) and solemnized his marriage with the appellant. In his deposition, he (P.W.1) has stated that prior to his marriage with the appellant, he had no knowledge about previous marriage of the appellant with Rajendra Kumar Gupta nor anyone informed him in this regard. He came to know about it only on 28.04.1995. P.W.1 was extensively cross-examined by the appellant/defendant, however, on the point of having knowledge of previous marriage with Rajendra Kumar Gupta prior to his marriage with the appellant, P.W.1 was not cross-examined. The deposition of P.W.1 on this point has not been dislodged in his cross-examination by the appellant/ defendant.

(16) As it is the appellant/defendant who had asserted that they had disclosed the previous marriage, therefore, the burden lay on her to prove this assertion.

(17) The appellant/defendant was examined as D.W.1, wherein she admitted her marriage with Rajendra Kumar Gupta in the year 1990. She has stated that after marriage, she went along with Rajendra to his house at Varanasi and lived therein for two days along with him. She came back to her parents' house from the house of Rajendra after two days of the marriage and did not go back. She admitted the document/agreement relating to dissolution of marriage, however she has stated that these facts have been disclosed to the respondent and his family members prior to marriage and the agreement dissolving the marriage as per local customs had been given by her brother, who had arranged her marriage. She has also stated that she has disclosed the fact in detail when asked by respondent. She has also stated that no divorce had taken place with Rajendra Kumar Gupta through Court. She had not lived with Raj Kumar (respondent) since 1995.

(18) However, appellant did not produce her brother who could have proved as to whether he had handed over the agreement dated 16.08.1992 to respondent or his family members prior to marriage of his sister, if so, when. She has also not produced her father and mother for examination. Moreover, in cross-examination of P.W.1, no specific question or suggestion was given on her behalf that he had prior knowledge of appellant's first marriage or that the appellant and his family members had informed him about it. A cursory suggestion appears to have been given towards end of cross-examination that no fraud has been committed with him, but this is not sufficient.

(19) From the aforesaid testimonies of P.W.1 and D.W.1, two facts are clear; firstly the factum of previous marriage of the appellant was not in the knowledge of the respondent/plaintiff prior to his marriage nor anyone informed him or his family members in this regard; secondly, the factum of previous marriage of the appellant for the first time came to the notice of the respondent when previous husband of respondent, namely, Rajendra Kumar Gupta, came to the house of the plaintiff on 28.04.1995. Further, appellant has failed to prove her assertion that the factum of previous marriage was disclosed to the respondent/plaintiff and his family members and only thereafter marriage of the appellant was solemnized with the respondent. She has failed to discharge her burden in this regard. No evidence has been led on behalf of the appellant nor appellant has produced her mother or brother or father in the witness box to prove the said fact, though, it was she who asserted that her mother had informed the respondent/plaintiff regarding the first marriage with Rajendra Kumar Gupta. Having not done so, the learned Family Court has rightly drawn an adverse inference of the same. On this count, we hold that the appellant has failed to prove that prior to her marriage with the respondent/plaintiff, her mother or her family member or she herself informed the factum of previous marriage with Rajendra Kumar Gupta to the respondent.

(20) In the facts of the present case, it is decipherable that the factum of previous marriage of the appellant with Rajendra Kumar Gupta was a material fact concerning the wife (respondent) relating to her marital status, which was never disclosed to the husband (plaintiff), as such, the consent of the respondent for marriage with the appellant was obtained by fraud and deceipt thereby attracting Section 12 (1) (c) of the Act, 1955, therefore, he is entitled to a declaration as granted by the Family Court. Point No. 1 is answered accordingly.

(21) There is another aspect of the matter. The appellant/defendant has not been able to prove that there was any custom in her caste or locality for dissolution of marriage by a written agreement. No evidence has been led by her in this regard. She admits to her first marriage. There is no decree of divorce by any Court pertaining to her first marriage. If this reasoning is taken further, then, it will lead to the conclusion that the alleged second marriage apart from being violative of Section 12 (1) (c) is also a nullity during subsistence of the first marriage in view of Section 5 (i) of the Act, 1955, but we do not proceed on this line as the suit was under Section 12 of the Act, 1955 and not Section 11.

(22) The trial Court has considered all the evidence to which we have made a reference and has correctly arrived at its finding with regard to issues no. 1, 2, 3 and 4 and has rightly declared the marriage of the respondent/plaintiff with appellant/ defendant as null and void. There is no perversity in the judgment of the trial Court. The point no.2 for determination referred earlier is answered accordingly.

(23) The appeal is dismissed. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

The Appeal

1. The instant appeal has been filed by the defendant of Original Suit No. 974 of 2014 challenging the concurrent judgments and decrees whereby, respectively, the suit for specific performance of a registered agreement for sale dated 25.04.2014 filed by the plaintiffs-respondents, has been decreed and Civil Appeal filed against the said decision has been dismissed.

Plaint case

2. The plaintiffs-respondents filed the aforesaid suit on the basis of registered agreement for sale dated 25.04.2014 said to have been executed by the defendant-appellant agreeing to sell 500 Sq. yards of his Bhumidhari land bearing Arazi No. 129-A covered by Khata No. 179. It was stated that despite the agreement, sale deed was not executed by the defendant-appellant and when the plaintiff-respondents issued notice dated 29.09.2014 asking him to execute sale deed and, thereafter, presented themselves on 22.10.2014 before the Sub Registrar's office with remaining sum and miscellaneous expenses, the defendant-appellant did not appear for executing the sale deed and, hence, the suit was filed.

Defence

3. The defendant-appellant filed written statement stating that execution of agreement for sale was a fraudulent exercise, inasmuch as, the plaintiffs carried him to the Registrar's office for witnessing some sale deed but, under the garb of said act, an agreement was got executed. It was further pleaded that the land in dispute being co-owned by various persons and having not been partitioned so far, no necessity to execute the sale deed ever arose. Payment of part of sale consideration was also denied.

Defence case dislodged by both the courts

4. The trial court, after framing seven issues and after discussing oral and documentary evidence, decreed the suit by judgment dated 15.12.2022 granting a decree for specific performance of the agreement. Civil Appeal No. 3 of 2023 filed against the said decision has also been dismissed by the judgment and decree dated 14.03.2024.

Counsel heard

5. I have heard Shri Prem Prakash Chaudhary, learned counsel for the defendant-appellant and Shri Chandra Bhan Gupta, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents on the point of admission.

Submissions on behalf of appellant

6. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that suit could not be decreed for various reasons; first, that the statement contained at page No. 3 of the agreement for sale as regards cash payment of Rs.5,00,000/- (rupees five lac) by the plaintiffs to the defendant was not proved; secondly, the land forming subject matter of the agreement having not been a specific portion of the land co-owned by various co-sharers, no sale could be executed and, therefore, agreement becomes invalid; thirdly, the witnesses produced by the plaintiffs' side made inconsistent statements regarding payment of advance money; fourthly, bare affidavit filed by PW-1 would not be admissible in evidence unless it is acknowledged by him on appearing in witness box; fifthly, there was no evidence to prove payment of Rs.5,00,000/- before the Sub Registrar and, lastly, burden to prove that the agreement was validly executed would lay upon the plaintiffs, but the same has wrongly been shifted upon the defendant-appellant, who had termed execution of the agreement as a fraudulent act. In support of his submissions, reliance has been placed upon the judgement of Supreme Court in the case of Ameer Trading Corporation Ltd. Vs Shapoorji Data Processing Ltd, (2004) 1 SCC 702, particularly, paragraph No. 31 thereof and also judgment of this Court in Kishan Chand and others vs Dr. Kailash Chandra Gupta and others, 2010 (2) ADJ

666, particularly, paragraphs No. 37 and 38 thereof.

Submissions on behalf of respondents

7. Per contra, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents argues that the agreement for sale being a registered document, strong presumption exists as regards its validity, both on the point of execution as well as its contents and, hence, the plea of the defendant-appellant that the agreement was got executed fraudulently, cannot sustain. As regards payment of advance money, it is contended that the sum was received in presence of witnesses produced by the plaintiffs and the Sub-Registrar's endorsement made on the agreement is conclusive proof of such payment. Shri Gupta further submits that both the courts below have recorded pure findings of fact based upon oral and documentary evidence and the contention of the appellant that there was no proof of payment of advance money stands dislodged in view of non-putting a suggestion from PW-1 to that effect during the course of his cross-examination.

Analysis of rival contentions

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, I find that execution of agreement for sale was admitted by the defendant-appellant. Though, a plea was taken that the agreement was got executed under the garb of witnessing a sale deed, evidence to that effect was seriously lacking so as to dislodge validity of a registered document. It is not the case of the defendant-appellant that he was an illiterate person unable to understand the contents of a document or purpose for which it was being executed. Bare plea that the document was fraudulently got executed without any sufficient oral and documentary evidence to dislodge a registered document could not suffice dismissal of the suit. As regards payment of advance money of Rs. 5,00,000/- (rupees five lac), it is found that the Sub Registrar had made an endorsement on the registered agreement to the following effect: -

"निष्पादन लेखपत्र वाद सुनने व समझने मज़मून व प्राप्त धनराशि रु प्रलेखानुसार उक्त विक्रेता"

The recital as regards payment of Rs. 5,00,000/- is contained at internal page No. 3 of the agreement in the following words:

"स्टाम्प पत्र कीमती मुबलिग 20ए100ध. रुपये इस इकरारनामा के साथ में संलग्न हैं तफसील जरे ब्याना मुबलिग 5ए00ए000ध. रुपये फरीक अव्वल ने फरीक दोयम से नगद समय रजिस्ट्री इकरारनामा समक्ष गवाहान के प्राप्त कर लिए हैं।"

9. As regards plea of non-partition amongst co-sharers of the land, paragraph No. 26 of the written statement reads as follows:

"यह कि भूमि प्रतिवादी व उसके सहखातेदारों की है सहखातेदारों व प्रतिवादी के मध्य कोई विभाजन हुआ है ऐसी स्थिति में कोई आवश्यकता भूमि को विक्रय करने के अनुबन्ध की नहीं थी।"

As such, no plea was taken that for non-partition of property, the agreement would not be executable or sale deed cannot be executed, rather the statement was that no necessity arose to execute the agreement as there was no partition amongst co-sharers. This Court cannot read anything which was not pleaded before the courts below and, hence, the contention advanced against executability of the agreement or the sale deed on this score cannot be accepted.

10. As far as submission that bare affidavit would not be treated as evidence unless the witness appears in witness box and acknowledges filing of the affidavit, it is to be noted that after the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 was amended by Act No. 46 of 1999 w.e.f. 01.07.2002, examination-in-chief is done in the form of affidavits and cross-examination is done after the witness concerned appears in the witness box. In the instant case, both the plaintiffs filed their affidavits in examination-in-chief and their cross-examination would show that no suggestion was made on behalf of the defendant-appellant as regards filing or non-filing of the affidavit in examination-in-chief.

11. It would be apt to observe that whenever a witness appears for cross-examination, he answers only those questions, which are asked from him. That is why, putting of suggestion is of quite significance and if a particular relevant and significant suggestion is not made to the witness, his testimony cannot be discarded for not making a statement during cross-examination. In the present case, such suggestions are completely missing from cross-examination of both the P.Ws. Similar is the position with respect to payment of part of sale consideration. Therefore, when no specific suggestions were made on both the aforesaid counts, testimony of P.Ws. cannot be discarded, rather such circumstances would go against the defendant-appellant and, hence, argument advanced on that line also does not have any force.

12. Once execution of registered agreement is admitted to the defendant-appellant, endorsements made by Sub Registrar would be presumed to be correct under sections 58, 59 and 60 of Registration Act, 1908. Further, on a careful and complete reading of sections 91 and 92 of the Evidence Act, 1872 such a presumption qua contents of the written disposition of property as contained in the agreement could be rebutted, but in the instant case, this Court does not find anything on record sufficient to rebut the said presumption. Both the courts below have examined the pleadings of the parties and oral and documentary evidence led by them and have taken a view against the defendant-appellant. This Court, in exercise of second appellate jurisdiction, cannot upset the findings of fact recorded by the trial court and the first Appellate Court, unless shown apparently perverse.

13. The judgment of Apex Court in Ameer Trading Corporation Ltd. (supra), as cited form the appellant side had arisen out of civil suit filed in the year 2001 when Code of Civil Procedure had not been amended and the examination-in-chief was done when the witnesses used to appear in witness box and not by way of the affidavit. Paragraph 31 of the said judgment, as relied upon by learned counsel for the appellant, in fact, is quoted version of the judgment of Bombay High Court in F.D.C. Ltd. vs. Federation of Medical Representatives Association India (FMRAI) and others, AIR 2003 Bombay 371. The said paragraph deals with the provisions of Order XVIII C.P.C. as stated prior to C.P.C. Amendment Act 46 of 1999 and even State amendments made in the State of Uttar Pradesh were not considered as the matter had arisen from the State of Maharashtra. Though the view taken by the Bombay High Court was approved by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, considering the amended provisions of C.P.C. read with non-putting of suggestions during the course of cross-examination of P.Ws., oral testimony of the said witness cannot be dislodged and the appellant shall not get any benefit of the judgment in the case of Ameer Trading Corporation Ltd. (supra).

14. In the judgment of Kishan Chand (supra) relied upon from the appellant side, a co-ordinate Bench of this Court held the suit for specific performance of an agreement as barred by Section 22(2) of the Specific Relief Act read with Order II Rule 2 of Code of Civil Procedure on the ground that the plaintiffs had failed to identify the shares of alleged vendors, who had entered into an agreement. Here, it would be prudent to refer the said provision itself. Section 22, as stood before amendment made in the Act of 1963, reads as under:

"22. Power to grant relief for possession, partition, refund of earnest money, etc.—(1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), any person suing for the specific performance of a contract for the transfer of immovable property may, in an appropriate case, ask for—

(a) possession, or partition and separate possession, of the property, in addition to such performance; or

(b) any other relief to which he may be entitled, including the refund of any earnest money or deposit paid or made by him, in case his claim for specific performance is refused.

(2) No relief under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) shall be granted by the court unless it has been specifically claimed:

Provided that where the plaintiff has not claimed any such relief in the plaint, the court shall, at any stage of the proceeding, allow him to amend the plaint on such terms as may be just for including a claim for such relief.

(3) The power of the court to grant relief under clause (b) of sub-section (1) shall be without prejudice to its powers to award compensation under section 21."

15. A bare perusal of Section 22 would show that it does not refer to any bar against the suit for specific performance. The provision only says that no such relief would be granted, unless it has been specifically claimed. In the present case, such a question would not arise at all as neither any relief in terms of Section 22 (1) (a) of the Specific Relief Act was claimed nor has been granted by the courts below. Therefore, the argument that the suit was barred by Section 22 of the Act, does not have any force and, even otherwise, facts of the instant case are entirely different from those which formed subject matter of the discussion in Kishan Chand (supra). Further, in the instant case, neither any issue or point of determination was framed with regard to bar of suit under any said provision nor was there any pleading to that effect in the written statement except a bare statement that in view of non-partition amongst the co-sharers necessity to execute the agreement did not arise. Moreover, once the execution of agreement is admitted to the defendant-appellant, he cannot get advantage of any recital made therein, which would confer benefit upon him and be read against the plaintiff-respondents. Interestingly, the defendant-appellant never disclosed as to who were other co-sharers in the property forming subject matter of the agreement and, hence, even necessity to implead alleged co-sharers did not arise. The flaw in the agreement on that ground, if any, would be attributable to the defendant-appellant and in the facts of the case, it would not defeat the claim of the plaintiff-respondents in whose favour different areas of the concerned gata were agreed to be sold by the defendant-appellant himself. For all the aforesaid reasons, with due respect, the judgment in Kishan Chand (supra) is if no help to the defendant-appellant.

16. As regards interference by the High Court in second appellate jurisdiction, the Supreme Court has, in Kshitish Chandra Purkait vs Santosh Kumar Purkait, AIR 1997 SC 2517, held that raising of a new plea at the second appellate stage would not be proper and that would not give rise to a substantial question of law. In Bholaram v. Amirchand (1981) 2 SCC 414, a three Judges' Bench of Supreme Court reiterated the statement of law and set aside the judgment by which the High Court had upset the decisions of trial court and first appellate court by reappreciating the evidence.

17. In Kamti Devi (Smt.) and Anr. v. Poshi Ram (2001) 5 SCC 311, the Supreme Court came to the conclusion that the finding reached by the first appellate court cannot be interfered with in a second appeal as no substantial question of law would have flowed out of such a finding. In Thiagarajan v. Sri Venugopalaswamy B. Koil, (2004) 5 SCC 762, the Supreme Court has held that the High Court in its jurisdiction under Section 100 C.P.C. is not justified in interfering with the findings of fact and that it is the obligation of the courts of law to further clear intendment of the legislature and not frustrate it by excluding the same and where findings of fact by the lower appellate Court are based on evidence, the High Court in second appeal cannot substitute its own findings on reappreciation of evidence merely on the ground that another view was possible.

18. Similar view has been taken in Kondiba Dagadu Kadam vs Savitribai Sopan Gujar and others, (1999) 3 SCC 722 by observing that disturbance in findings of fact would be contrary to limitations imposed by section 100 C.P.C. The Supreme Court again reminded in Commissioner, Hindu Religious & Charitable Endowments vs. P. Shanmugama (2005) 9 SCC 232 that the High Court has no jurisdiction in second appeal to interfere with the findings of fact. The Apex Court, in State of Kerala v. Mohd. Kunhi (2005) 10 SCC 139 reiterated the same principle by observing that by such interference, the High Court would go beyond the scope of Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

19. In Madhavan Nair v. Bhaskar Pillai (2005) 10 SCC 553, the Supreme Court observed that even if the first appellate court commits an error in recording a finding of fact, that itself will not be a ground for the High Court to upset the same. In Harjeet Singh v. Amrik Singh (2005) 12 SCC 270, the Apex Court, with anguish, observed that the High Court had no jurisdiction to interfere with the findings of fact arrived at by the trial Court and the lower appellate Court regarding readiness and willingness to perform part of contract in its jurisdiction under Section 100 C.P.C.

20. The view taken in the aforesaid decisions has been reiterated by the Apex Court in Gurdev Kaur and others vs. Kaki and others, 2007 (1) SCC 546. In Dalip Singh vs. Bhupinder Kaur, 2018 (3) SCC 677, the Apex Court was dealing with a case arising out of suit for specific performance of an agreement for sale and set aside the judgement of High Court that had interfered with findings of fact.

Conclusion

21. In view of the above referred decisions of the Supreme Court it is clear that even when two views are possible, out of which one view has been taken by the courts after appreciating evidence on record, second Appellate Court would not substitute that view by its own view. Re-appreciation of evidence to arrive at a different conclusion is quite restricted in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 of Code of Civil Procedure and in the present case, finding on executability of the agreement, proof of its contents, question of readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff-respondents to get the sale deed executed, are pure findings of fact based upon the material available on record. This Court does not find any apparent perversity in the view taken by both the courts below so as to upset the impugned decisions.

22. No substantial question of law arises for consideration.

23. The second appeal has no force and is, accordingly, dismissed at the stage of admission itself.

Act, 1950 – Ss. 229-B and 331 – Suit of civil nature – Dispute pertaining to the cancellation of registered Will-deed in respect of agricultural land – Whether cognizable by Civil Court or Revenue court – Bar of Section 331 of the Act, 1950 – Applicability – Held, once a deed is challenged, the plaintiff need not be forced to seek a declaration of his title and, hence, bar of Section 331 of the Act of 1950 would not be attracted – Cancellation of the registered Will is, beyond doubt, the main relief as cause of action for the suit was the existence of Will itself – There is no provision under the Act of 1950 empowering a revenue court to cancel an instrument. Even Section 229-B does not contemplate any such provision whereunder an instrument of transfer or conferring testamentary succession can be expressly or impliedly cancelled – Suits for cancellation of a sale-deed or other instruments and documents are essentially suits of civil nature. As per section 9 of C.P.C., every suit of civil nature is cognizable by a civil court except its cognizance is expressly or impliedly barred. (Para 15, 23, 26, 31 and 32)

THE APPEAL

1. The instant second appeal at the instance of defendants of Original Suit No.523 of 1989 (Ram Autar Vs. Siyawati and others) has been filed challenging the concurrent judgments and decrees drawn by the trial court and the first appellate court whereby, respectively, suit for cancellation of a registered Will dated 20.03.1985 has been decreed and civil appeal arising out of the decree has been dismissed.

PLAINT CASE

2. As per the plaint case, one Harswaroop had two sons, namely, Ram Autar (plaintiff) and Mangoo (defendant no.2). One Siyawati wife of defendant no.2, was arrayed as defendant no.1. Harswaroop, aged 90 years, used to remain sick in his last days of life. His wife had already died and the plaintiff and defendant no.2 used to take care of their father. When Harswaroop fell seriously ill in March, 1985, the plaintiff and defendant no.2 took him to Modinagar and Meerut for treatment. Initially, Harswaroop got some relief but he again fell ill and, on 20.03.1985, defendant no.2 along with his brother-in-law Nand Kishore took Harswaroop for examination by a doctor at Modinagar. At that time, since the wife of plaintiff was ill, he could not accompany his father. Defendant no.2, in collusion with defendant no.1, i.e. his wife, and his brother-in-law Nand Kishore, took Harswaroop to Ghaziabad for treatment and on 20.03.1985 itself, a Will was obtained from Harswaroop in the name of defendant no.1, i.e. the wife of defendant no.2 pretending that the same was being executed in favour of both plaintiff and defendant no.2. Harswaroop died on 04.01.1989, however, plaintiff could not get any information about the Will but when the defendants, at the strength of the said Will, expressed their absolute ownership in respect of Khasra No.1007, the plaintiff got information about the Will and found it as having been fraudulently executed. A plea with regard to family settlement dated 17.01.1989 was also taken and cause of action for filing the suit was alleged as denial by the defendants to get the Will cancelled, threats extended in April, 1989 as regards possession over the property and on not accepting family settlement.

Defence in written statement

3. The defendants filed written statement pleading due execution of the Will. It was stated that the testator even till his death remained in all good senses and the Will was executed out of his free will. It was further stated that the plaintiff had never taken care of his father and even did not participate in his last rites. Bar of Section 331 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (for short 'the Act of 1950') was also pleaded with a further statement that name of the beneficiary, i.e. the defendant no.1, had already been mutated in the revenue records at the strength of Will.

TRIAL COURT'S JUDGMENT

4. The trial court decreed the suit on 04.11.1993. It found the execution of Will as a result of fraud and fabrication and also recorded that the original Will was neither filed before the Court nor proved in accordance with law. It, however, discarded family settlement relied upon by the plaintiff. As regards bar of Section 331, the trial court observed that since suit was filed seeking cancellation of Will and claiming injunction restraining dispossession and alienation, the civil court had jurisdiction to entertain and decide the suit.

FIRST APPELLATE COURT'S JUDGMENT

5. Aggrieved by the decision of the trial court, the defendants preferred Civil Appeal No.10 of 1993 (Mangoo Singh and others Vs. Ram Autar) that has been dismissed on 05.11.1996.

COUNSEL HEARD

6. I have heard Sri Triveni Shankar along with Sri Narendra Mohan & Sri Ramesh Chandra Tiwari, learned counsel for the defendant-appellants and Sri Kiran Kumar Arora, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent.

ADMISSION ORDER

7. The instant second appeal, though filed in the year 1996 when an order of status quo was also passed, it was admitted as late as on 05.10.2021 on the following substantial questions of law:-

"(1) Whether in a case where the plaintiff is not recorded in the revenue records of an agricultural holding, a suit for cancellation of a Will at the instance of such an unrecorded person is maintainable before the Civil Court ?

(2) Whether secondary evidence of a document (photostat copy) is admissible in a case, where the original is available and the two are at variance ?"

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF APPELLANTS

8. Sri Triveni Shankar, learned counsel for the defendant-appellants vehemently argued that the suit was barred by Section 331 of the Act, 1950, inasmuch as on the date of its institution, name of plaintiff-respondent was not recorded in the revenue records, whereas the name of beneficiary, i.e. defendant no.1 (Siyawati), stood recorded. He submits that the finding of both the courts below holding the suit as maintainable is incorrect, inasmuch bequeath by a bhumidhar is provided under Section 169 of the Act, 1950 and as per sub-section (3) of Section 169, if the Will is in writing and attested by two persons, the same is valid and any person who otherwise claims himself as bhumidhar, would have to seek a declaration under Section 229-B of the Act, 1950 and, therefore, it is the Court described in Second Schedule of the Act which would have jurisdiction to entertain such a claim rendering the suit as barred by Section 331. He, therefore, submits that first substantial question of law should be answered in favour of the appellants and the impugned judgments and decrees should be set aside. As regards question no.2, it is contended that the plaintiff-respondent relied upon a family settlement of 1989 bringing on record its photostat copy, which was inadmissible in evidence and, therefore, the suit was otherwise not liable to be decreed and, hence, the second question may also be answered in favour of the appellants. In support of his contention, learned counsel has placed reliance upon following authorities:-

(i) Shri Ram and another Vs. 1st Additional District Judge: AIR 2001 SC 1250;

(ii) Kamala Prasad Vs. Krishna Kant Pathak: 2007 (1) AWC 1 (SC);

(iii) Dr. Ram Prakash Gupta Vs. District Judge: 2010 (110) RD 613;

(iv) Mohan Lal Vs. Sri Ram and another: 2016 (3) AWC 2696;

(v) Ishwaragouda and others Vs. Mallikarjun Gowda and others: 20009 (1) AWC 1 (SC).

9. During the course of arguments, certified copy of a document paper No.37-Ka was placed before the Court and it was contended that it is the document dated 17.01.1989 that was termed as family settlement but it did not contain mention of Gata No.1007 about which the disputed Will had been executed, rather it contains description of other gatas and, even otherwise, the document being a photostat copy, it could not be relied upon. When the Court perused the original record of proceedings, it found that in the record of the trial court, original family settlement was indexed as paper No.37-Ka, however, it was not found on record but there was a photostat copy of the same document as paper No.38-Ga. What was placed before the Court was a certified copy of paper No.37-Ka, which was issued from Executing Court dealing with Execution Case No.11 of 2011. As per General Rules (Civil), no certified copy of a photostat copy can be issued by the office of the civil court. It, therefore, appears that paper No.37-Ka, in fact, was an original document forming part of the record of trial court but it is quite surprising as to how its certified copy was issued by the Executing Court. Though, it is true that the decree is executed by the court of first instance itself, this Court fails to understand as to how the original Paper No.37-Ka was taken out from the original record so as to form part of the record of execution proceedings which are said to be going on, whereas original record is with this Court. Probably, some skeleton file is being maintained by the Executing Court about which there is no illegality or irregularity. It is also permissible that any party to the proceedings can take back any original document from the record of the proceedings by moving application under the relevant Rules and there may also be a possibility that original Paper No.37-Ka, indexed on the file of the trial court, was taken away by the respondent. However, this Court does not want to indulge itself in the inquiry as to how original Paper No.37-Ka forms part of the record of execution proceedings and it proceeds to decide the matter in the light of questions framed by this Court.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENT

10. The contention of Sri K.K. Arora is that at no point of time the bar of Section 331 was specifically pressed by the defendants, although a vague plea was taken in the written statement but the trial court's judgment itself shows that the defendants did not press the alleged bar covered by issue No.4 on which the trial court recorded specific finding that the defendants had not produced any such evidence on the basis whereof it could be said that the civil court had no jurisdiction to try and decide the suit. He submits that in view of Section 331 (1-A), no such plea can be permitted to be raised before the second appellate court unless it was pressed before the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity. As regards maintainability of the suit before the civil court, it is vehemently argued that only civil court has power to cancel a Will and it is not a case where the plaintiff was claiming declaration of his bhumidhari rights in terms of Section 229-B but a case where a void document, i.e. the Will, was existing to the detriment of the right and interest of the plaintiff and since the revenue court has no jurisdiction to cancel an instrument, the suit was very much maintainable before the court. In support of his submission, Sri Arora places relied upon following judgments:-

(i) Ram Padarath and others Vs. Second Additional District Judge, Sultanpur: 1989 RD 21 (FB);

(ii) Chandrika Vs. Shivnath and others: 2016 (5) AWC 4874.

11. Shri Arora further submits that since both the courts below have discarded the family settlement for one reason or the other, he is not pressing his claim on that basis and, therefore, for deciding the instant appeal, the document dated 17.01.1989 may be kept aside and ignored and that he would stick to his claim for cancellation of Will and injunction on the basis of findings recorded by both the courts below in his favour. In view of the said submission of Sri Arora, question no.2 as regards admissibility of copy of family settlement becomes redundant and it is answered in the manner that decision in the instant appeal would not be dependent upon admissibility or inadmissibility of alleged family settlement dated 17.01.1989.

12. The moot question on which the instant appeal has been argued revolves around bar of Section 331 of the Act, 1950 and, therefore, the Court deals with the submissions of both the sides in the light of first question framed in the admission order.

ANALYSIS OF RIVAL CONTENTIONS

13. On perusal of original record, it is found that Will was executed on 20.03.1985 and was registered on 08.04.1985. Copy of Khatauni relating to 1393-F to 1398-F is on record as paper No.11-Ka. It contains description of various gatas, viz, 873, 874, 890, 1007, 1009, 1122 and 1204. The Khatauni reveals that pursuant to an order dated 25.03.1989 passed by Additional Tehsildar concerned, after expunging the name of testator Harswaroop, name of beneficiary Siyawati (defendant no.1) was entered on the basis of Will. Copy of this Khatauni was issued on 13.05.1989 and the suit in question was instituted on 18.05.1989, i.e. immediately after five days of issuance of copy of Khatauni. The name of beneficiary was, for the first time, recorded just two months prior to institution of suit, although the Will was executed four years prior in point of time.

14. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, this Court proceeds to elaborately deal with the question as regards maintainability of a suit for cancellation of Will with consequential/ ancillary relief of injunction in respect of an agricultural land.

15. The controversy regarding the jurisdiction of Civil Court and Revenue Court in entertaining a suit regarding agricultural land and also entertainability of the suit seeking cancellation of void instruments and documents has engaged attention of several benches of this Court over decades. Suits for cancellation of a sale-deed or other instruments and documents are essentially suits of civil nature. As per section 9 of C.P.C., every suit of civil nature is cognizable by a civil court except its cognizance is expressly or impliedly barred. In Abdul Waheed Khan Vs. Bhawani and others, 1968 RD 79: AIR 1966 SC 1718 settled principle was stated that it is for the party who seeks to oust the jurisdiction of civil court to establish his contention and that a statute ousting the jurisdiction of a civil court must be strictly construed.

16. Section 31 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 makes specific provision for cancellation of void as well as voidable instruments. Suits for cancellation of such documents being of civil nature are cognizable by a civil court and even otherwise suits claiming relief provided under Specific Relief Act are entertainable only by a civil court and no revenue court or any other court can entertain such a suit including for cancellation of an instrument or document. Section 31 of the Specific Relief Act reads as under:

Section 31. When cancellation may be ordered-

(1) Any person against whom a written instrument is void or voidable, and who has reasonable apprehension that such instrument, if left outstanding may cause him serious injury, may sue to have if adjudged void or voidable, and the court may, in its discretion, so adjudge it and order it to be delivered up and cancelled.

(2) If the instrument bas been registered under the Indian Registration Act 1908 (16 of 1908), the court shall also send a copy of its decree to the officer in whose office the instrument has been so registered and such officer shall note on the copy of the instrument contained in his books the facts of its cancellation."

17. Thus one, who has reasonable apprehension that any instrument, if left outstanding, may cause him serious injury, can approach a competent court of law to get it cancelled. Sub-section (2) of Section 31 casts a mandatory duty upon the court passing the decree to send a copy of the same to the registering officer, who is enjoined by law to make a note on the copy of such document regarding the order of its cancellation and, after such an endorsement is made, the document becomes legally ineffective and no benefit of the same can be derived by any one. If a certified copy of such a document is issued to anyone, it would obviously contain the note regarding its cancellation by a court of law.

18. So far as voidable documents like those obtained by practising coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, undue influence etc., are concerned, their legal effect cannot be put to an end without their cancellation. But a void document is not required to be cancelled necessarily. Its legal effect can be put to an end by declaring it to be void and granting some other relief instead of cancelling it. Once it is held to be void, it can be ignored by any court or authority being of no legal effect or consequence. A document executed without free consent or one which is without consideration or the object of which is unlawful or executed by a person not competent to contract like a minor or in excess of authority, would be a void document. In case it is in excess of authority, it would be void to that extent only. There is presumption of due registration of a document and correctness of the facts mentioned in the same, but the said presumption is not conclusive and can be dislodged. On the finding that a particular instrument or document was void because of any reason, it will be of no legal consequence and binding on any one without even its cancellation. But existence of such a document or instrument for a substantial period may cause injury to the person whose rights are affected by it and existence of such instrument may create complications giving rise to unnecessary litigations. But for those who are aware of any judgment holding a particular document or instrument to be void or are supposed to be aware of it, others can be misled by its existence if it does not contain any endorsement of its cancellation subsequent to a decision by any competent court of law.

19. The law relating to right, title and interest over the agricultural land is contained in the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, which is a complete Code by itself and the Schedule-II to it enumerates the suits etc., the cognizance of which is to be taken of by the revenue courts specified therein. The said Act being special Act, its provisions would prevail over the general law. The jurisdiction of Civil Court is ousted if the relief can be granted by the special court conferred with jurisdiction to grant such reliefs. In Section 331 of the Act which specifically ousts the jurisdiction of other courts in respect of all suits, applications etc., enumerated in Schedule II, the main emphasis is on the words cause of action and any relief. The said section reads as under:

Section 331- Cognizance of suits etc., under this Act-(1) Except as provided by or under this Act no court other than a court mentioned in column 4 of Schedule II shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (V of 1908), take cognizance of any suit, application or proceedings mentioned in column 3 thereof, or of a suit, application or proceedings based on a cause of action in respect of which any relief could be obtained by means of any such suit or application.

Provided that where a declaration has been made u/s 143 in respect of any holding or part thereof; the provisions of Schedule II in so far as they relate to suits, applications, or proceedings under Chapter VIII shall not apply to such holding or part thereof.

Explanation-If the cause of action is one in respect of which relief may be granted by the revenue court, it is immaterial that the relief asked for from the civil court may not be identical to that which the revenue court would have granted.

(1-A) Notwithstanding anything in Sub-section (1) an objection that a court mentioned in column 4 of Schedule II, or, as the case may be, a civil court, which bad no jurisdiction with respect to the suits, application or proceedings, smelted jurisdiction with respect thereto shall not be entertained by any appellate of revisional court unless the objection was taken in the court of first instance at the earliest possible opportunity and in all eases where issues are settled, at or before such settlement, and unless there has been consequent failure of justice.

20. Section 331 of the Act makes the phrase "cause of action" as pivotal point for determining the jurisdiction of civil or revenue court. The expression "cause of action" means every fact that would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove in order to support his right of judgment. It is the real "cause of action" which determines the jurisdiction of the court to entertain particular action notwithstanding the language used in the plaint or the relief claimed. The strength on which the plaintiff comes to the court does not depend upon the defence or relief claimed which could determine the forum for the entertainment of claim and grant of relief. It is the pith and substance which is to be seen. The expression "any relief" used in Section 331 of the Act is of too wide import and would not only mean the relief claimed but would also include any relief arising out of the cause of action which led the plaintiff to invoke the jurisdiction of a court of law. The word 'relief' is not part of cause of action nor the same is related to the defence set up in the case. The relief is a remedy which the court grants from the facts asserted and proved in an action.

21. A Full Bench of this Court, in the case of Ram Awalamb v. Jata Shanker 1968 AWR 731, observed that "where in a suit, from a perusal only of the relief claimed, one or more of them are ostensibly cognizable only by civil court and at least one relief is cognizable by the revenue court, further questions which arise are whether all the reliefs are based on the same cause of action and if so, (a) whether the main relief asked for on the basis of the cause of action is such as can be granted only by a revenue court or (b) whether any real or substantial relief, though it may not be identical with that claimed by the plaintiff could be granted by the revenue court. There can be no doubt that in all cases contemplated under (a) and (b) above, the jurisdiction shall vest in the revenue court and not in the civil court."

22. Section 331 of the Act, 1950, if read without Explanation, does not create any difficulty. Difficulty regarding jurisdiction arises when Explanation, which is an integral part of the section, is interpreted and applied to the facts of a particular case. It is well settled that the object of Explanation to any statutory provision is to understand the Act in the light of the Explanation which ordinarily does not enlarge scope of the original section which it explains, but only makes its meaning clear beyond dispute. The Explanation makes the things still more explicit and exists primarily removing doubts and dispute which may crop up in its absence. Section 331 of the Act along with Explanation cannot be read so as to oust the jurisdiction of civil court if the primary relief on the same cause of action can be granted by the civil court notwithstanding the fact that consequential relief or ancillary relief flowing out of the main relief, the grant of which also becomes necessary, can be granted by revenue court alone.

23. In the case of a void document said to have been executed by a plaintiff during his disability or by some one impersonating him or said to have been executed by his predecessor whom he succeeds, the relief of cancellation of the document is more appropriate relief for clearing the deck of title and burying deep any dispute or controversy on its basis in present or which may take place in future. The document, after its cancellation, would bear such an endorsement in Sub-Registrar's register and would be the basis for correction of any paper and revenue record. Section 31 of the Specific Relief Act itself prescribes as to who can seek relief of cancellation. A third person cannot file a suit for cancellation of a void document.

24. The controversy in issue was extensively dealt with by a Three Judges Full Bench of this Court in Ram Padarath (supra). The said judgment has been approved by Supreme Court in Smt. Bismillah Vs. Janeshwar Prasad: AIR 1990 SC 540. This Court in Chandrika (supra), after placing reliance upon judgments in Ram Padarath (supra) and Smt. Bismillah (supra), held that in view of Section 31 of the Act, 1963, a suit for cancellation of sale deed, void or voidable, is a suit of civil nature and can be filed before the Civil Court that has jurisdiction to try it under Section 9 CPC. Church of North India v. Lavajibhai Ratanjibhai, (2005) 10 SCC 760, held that a plea of bar to jurisdiction of a civil court must be considered having regard to the contentions raised in the plaint. For the said purpose, averments disclosing cause of action and the reliefs sought for therein must be considered in their entirety. The court may not be justified in determining the question, one way or the other, only having regard to the reliefs claimed dehors the factual averments made in the plaint. With a view to determine the question as regards exclusion of jurisdiction of the civil court in terms of the provisions of the Act, the court has to consider what, in substance, and not merely in form, is the nature of the claim made in the suit and the underlying object in seeking the real relief therein.

RECONSIDERATION OF SHRI RAM (SUPRA) AND KAMLA PRASAD (SUPRA) BY SUPREME COURT

25. This Court may gainfully refer to a somewhat recent decision of the Apex Court in the case of Narendra Kumar Mittal and others Vs. M/S Nupur Housing Development Pvt. Ltd. and another: 2019 (7) Supreme 157: 2019 (144) RD 785. The case before the Apex Court had arisen out of a suit for cancellation of sale deed dated 15.06.2006 in respect of an agricultural land filed before the civil court. A question arose before the Apex Court whether the decision of the District Court and High Court holding the civil suit as maintainable despite bar of Section 331 of the Act of 1950 was correct. The Supreme Court, after discussing the judgments of Ram

Padarath (supra), Shri Ram (supra) and Kamla Prasad (supra), held that the suit before the civil court was very much maintainable. It distinguished the decisions of the Supreme Court in the case of Shri Ram (supra) and Kamla Prasad (supra) in the following manner:-

"9. This Court in Shri Ram & Anr. v. Ist Addl. Distt. Judge & Ors., (2001) 3 SCC 24 considered the question relating to maintainability of a suit by a recorded tenure holder in possession for cancellation of the sale deed in favour of the respondents executed by some imposters. After noticing the aforesaid judgment of the Full Bench of Allahabad High Court, this Court held that where recorded tenure holder, having a prima facie title and in possession files suit in the Civil Court for cancellation of sale deed having been obtained on the ground of fraud or impersonation, it cannot be directed to file a suit for declaration in the Revenue Court, reason being that in such a case, prima facie, the title of the recorded tenure holder is not under cloud. He does not require declaration of his title to the land. However, if the plaintiff is required to seek a declaration of title, he has to approach the Revenue Court.

11. In Kamla Prasad & Ors. v. Kishna Kant Pathak & Ors., (2007) 4 SCC 213 relied on by the learned counsel for the appellant-second defendant, the plaintiff was the co-owner and not a recorded tenure holder. In the plaint, the plaintiff himself had stated that he was not the sole owner of the property and defendants 10 to 12 who were proforma defendants had also right, title and interest therein. He had also stated that though his name had appeared in the revenue record, defendants 10 to 12 also had a right in the property. In this factual background, this Court held that such a question can be decided by the Revenue Court in a suit instituted under Section 229-B of the Act. It was also held that the legality or otherwise of the insertion of names of purchasers in records of rights and deletion of the name of the plaintiff from such record can only be tested by Revenue Court, since names of the purchasers had already been entered into the record. This judgment has no application to the facts of the present case."

26. The Apex Court, while distinguishing the earlier decisions, was of the considered opinion that once a sale deed is challenged, the plaintiff need not be forced to seek a declaration of his title and, hence, bar of Section 331 of the Act of 1950 would not be attracted. Further, in view of the discussion made hereinabove, it can be safely understood that Schedule-II contained in U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 does not contemplate any suit for cancellation of a written instrument and the power vests only in a civil court.

27. As regards the judgments cited on behalf of the appellants, the Apex Court in Shri Ram (supra) also placed reliance upon Ram Padarath (supra) and its approval in Smt. Bismillah (supra). However, it was observed that where a recorded tenure holder having a prima facie title and in possession files suit in the civil court for cancellation of sale deed having obtained on the ground of fraud or impersonation, he cannot be directed to file a suit for cancellation in the revenue court as he does not require declaration of his title to the land but the position would be different where a person not being a recorded tenure holder seeks cancellation of sale deed by filing a suit in the civil court on the ground of fraud or impersonation. It was observed that in that case the plaintiff is required to seek a declaration of his title and, therefore, he may be directed to approach the revenue court as the sale deed being void has to be ignored for giving him relief for declaration and possession. In Kamla Prasad (supra), the Supreme Court placed reliance upon Shri Ram (supra). The Apex Court in, Narendra Kumar Mittal Shri Ram (supra) has already distinguished both the said judgments holding civil suit maintainable.

28. Dr. Ram Prakash Gupta (supra) was a case where the suit was instituted claiming a decree for declaration that a sale deed executed in favour of the plaintiff was valid. Another relief seeking declaration of title on the basis of a Will was also claimed. In that background of facts it was held that the suit was barred by Section 331 of the Act of 1950 as declaration of title can be granted by the revenue court. Mohan Lal (supra) was a case where a gift deed was challenged by the plaintiff on the ground that executant had no right to execute the same. The said plaintiff was not recorded tenure holder of the disputed agricultural land and placing reliance upon judgment in Shri Ram (supra), it was held that suit would lie before the revenue court. Not only the facts of that case are distinguishable, inasmuch as here the instrument, i.e. the Will, has been challenged on the ground of fraud, the said judgment is prior in point of time when the Apex Court re-considered the decisions in Ram Padarath (supra), Shri Ram (supra) and Kamla Prasad (supra) and held that suit for cancellation of an instrument shall lie before the civil court and Section 331 of the Act of 1950 would not create a bar against the suit.

29. Ishwaragouda (supra) was a case arising out of State of Karnataka where certain rights were claimed under the provisions of Karnataka Land Reforms Act and applications seeking declaration of cultivation title were filed before the Land Tribunal. Various proceedings were held inter-se parties, such as determination by Land Tribunal, the writ petition before the High Court, demarcation proceedings, an appeal before the Land Reforms Appellate Tribunal and, thereafter, a suit for declaration of title and possession in respect of the land before the civil court. In that background of facts, an issue had arisen as to whether the jurisdiction of the civil court was ousted in view of Section 133 of the Karnataka Land Reforms Act to decide whether an individual is a tenant or the joint family is tenant. Under such circumstances, after dealing with the provisions of Section 133, the Supreme Court found that the suit was barred as declaration of title was within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Land Tribunal. Not only the facts of the said case but also nature of the proceedings as well as provision of law under the concerned Reforms Act were entirely different from the facts of the present case and statutory provision applicable here in the State of U.P. Therefore, with due respect, the said judgment also has no application in the present case and, thus, appellants cannot get any help from it.

30. In order to test the appellants' argument based upon non-recorded tenure holder, in the instant case, status of defendant no.1 being a recorded tenure holder on the basis of the disputed Will has to be analyzed. As noted above, the disputed Will was executed in the year 1985 and the defendant no.1, i.e. the beneficiary of the Will, just immediately prior to institution of the suit in the year 1989, got her name mutated in the revenue records. The challenge came on the 5th day of obtaining certified coy of the Khatauni Paper No.11-C. It was not a case where since long prior to institution of the suit, the beneficiary was enjoying actual and physical possession as a recorded tenure holder in its true sense but was a case where the cause of action for institution of suit arose in very close proximity of entry in the revenue records on the basis of Will which was not in the knowledge of the plaintiff-respondent prior to obtaining certified copy of the Khatauni that contained reference of a mutation order of the Assistant Tehsildar passed on the basis of Will. Whatelse, except seeking cancellation of Will, could be done by the plaintiff under such circumstance. In the opinion of the Court, the suit for declaration of bhumidhari rights along with his real brother as a joint successor from their late father was not the necessity, inasmuch as it was the Will and consequential entry in the revenue records which was standing against the plaintiff in enjoyment of uninterrupted possession as a co-bhumidhar over the agricultural land. The plaintiff, therefore, was well within his rights to seek cancellation of the Will on available grounds, such as fraud, coercion or undue influence, etc.

31. As discussed above, unless the Will is cancelled by the civil court and, in terms of sub-section (2) of Section 31 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963, unless its intimation is sent to the Sub-Registrar concerned, the Will would remain alive for all theoretical and practical purposes causing injury to the person who would have succeeded rights on the basis of natural succession from his predecessor, here, late Harswaroop. Thus cancellation of the registered Will is, beyond doubt, the main relief as cause of action for the suit was the existence of Will itself. Mutation order, on its basis, directing recording of the name of the defendant therein is found to be a consequential action based on Will. So long as a registered instrument is not cancelled by civil court, revenue court will be bound to respect it and will not able to ignore it, as held by Full Bench of this Court in Ram Nath Vs. Munna, 1976 RD 220 (FB).

32. It is also emphasized here that there is no provision under the Act of 1950 empowering a revenue court to cancel an instrument. Even Section 229-B does not contemplate any such provision whereunder an instrument of transfer or conferring testamentary succession can be expressly or impliedly cancelled or that its intimation can be sent to the Sub-Registrar concerned for making an entry in the concerned records so that certified copy of such instrument, as and when issued, may contain remark of its cancellation. The Court is of the considered opinion that even if, while deciding a suit for declaration under Section 229-B in a given case, the revenue court comes to a conclusion that any instrument relied upon by the defendants is void or voidable and records a finding to that effect, the operative portion of the judgment of the revenue court would simply confer a declaration of ownership upon the concerned plaintiff, either exclusively or along with any other person but finding to that effect would not be sufficient to statutorily compel the Sub-Registrar concerned to make an entry of cancellation of the instrument in the concerned records.

33. In so far as the findings of courts below in the instant case that the Will was a result of fraud and undue influence etc, no argument was advanced by the appellants. Even otherwise, the Court finds that the analysis of oral and documentary evidence testing the Will of 1985 on the touchstone as to whether it was a result of fraud and whether it was surrounded by suspicious circumstances, as done by both the courts below, is covered by pure findings of fact based upon evidence and, hence, the same cannot be upset in second appellate jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC. In so far as the argument of appellant based upon sub-section (3) of Section 169 of Act of 1950, the Court finds that the said provision speaks of execution of Will and has no concern with the proceedings seeking cancellation thereof. Hence, the argument advanced on that line is of no significance.

34. As regards contention of Sri Arora that the plea under Section 331 having not been substantially raised before the courts below and, hence, it cannot be allowed to be raised here, the same is not acceptable in view of clear statement contained in the written statement regarding bar of the said provision and its discussion by both the courts below. However, in view of the above discussion, the said bar is not attracted in the facts and circumstances of the present case and it is held that both the courts below have rightly found civil suit to be maintainable.

35. Before concluding this judgment, it is apt to mention that learned counsel for the appellants filed a very brief written synopsis alongwith which the case laws cited by him were annexed and in the third point of the synopsis, it is mentioned that the courts below have wrongly accepted the case of the plaintiff as full owner of Khasra No.1007, because in case natural succession follows, the plaintiff and defendant being two sons of late Harswaroop, would become co-owners. Here what I notice from the record is that the trial court decreed the suit cancelling the Will dated 20.03.1985 (registered on 08.04.1985) and granting a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants from causing interference in plaintiff's possession over the land covered by Khasra No.1007. Issue No.2 framed as to whether the plaintiff-respondent is co-owner on the basis of succession, was decided in favour of the plaintiff-respondent holding him as co-bhumidhar in joint possession along with defendants as a consequence of cancellation of the aforesaid Will. Though, in the operative portion, it is mentioned that the defendants were restrained from interfering in the plaintiff's possession, in view of the finding on issue No.2, the possession of the plaintiff-respondent is certainly in the capacity of a co-bhumidhar based upon natural succession from his late father Harswaroop and not as the sole bhumidhar. Therefore, contrary contention raised by the appellants in this regard too is not acceptable.

36. For all the aforesaid reasons, the first question of law is answered in favour of the plaintiff-respondent and against the defendant-appellants and it is held that the suit for cancellation of the Will was very much maintainable before the civil court. Second question has already been held to be redundant in view of the discussion made above.

37. Consequently, the instant second appeal fails and is, accordingly, dismissed.

Counsel for the Appellants:

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri V. Sahai, Sri B. Dayal

A. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code,1908 – Section 100 – Substantial question of law – Non-concurrent finding – Benami transaction – Factors of determination – Erroneous finding by first appellate court – Scope of interference – Principle governing to declare a sale-deed as benami transaction discussed – Held, there was neither sufficient pleadings nor trustworthy evidence to hold the transaction as benami. Inter-se communication between two real brothers which does not infer anything regarding the transaction or any communication with third party would not confer owner ship upon Waziri Lal – Ingredient of real intention of parties is also absent. Payment of sale consideration by Waziri Lal is also not proved – Consequently, the conclusion drawn by first appellate court declaring the transaction as benami is found to be erroneous on factual and legal platform – There being no sufficient pleadings and evidence to hold the sale deed of 1942 as benami, the first appellate court has erred in reversing the decree drawn by the trial court. (Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Summons were duly published in daily newspaper Amar Ujala in compliance of order dated 09.12.2022. Compliance affidavit supported by original newspaper is on record. Service of notice upon respondent nos.1/1 and 1/2 is, therefore, held to be sufficient. No one has filed vakalatnama on their behalf.

2. Appeal is ripe for final hearing. The Court, therefore, proceeds to finally decide the appeal.

3. Heard Sri Anil Sharma, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ramesh Kumar, learned counsel for the defendant-appellants and perused the record.

4. The instant second appeal raises a challenge to the judgment and decree dated 06.04.1979 whereby, the first appellate court has set aside the judgment of the trial court and decreed the suit filed by the plaintiff-respondents for recovery of possession of immovable property and damages.

5. The relevant facts of the present case are that one Kuremal had three sons namely, Dwarika Prasad, Waziri Lal and Banke Lal. Dwarika Prasad had a daughter namely, Kamlawati, who was married to one Ram Narayan. This couple had three sons namely, Rama Shankar, Ravi Shankar and Rati Shankar. Waziri Lal, i.e. real brother of Dwarika Prasad, instituted Original Suit No.602 of 1970 against Kamlawati and her three sons claiming a decree for possession and damages in respect of immovable property described in the plaint. The basis of the claim was that there was a sale deed dated 09.07.1942 existing in the name of Dwarika Prasad, however it was Waziri Lal, who had actually purchased the property in the name of Dwarika Prasad and, therefore, plaintiff Waziri Lal had become owner of the same.

6. The Trial Court, after analyzing oral and documentary evidence led by the parties, arrived at a conclusion that plea of benami transaction could not be established and, consequently, dismissed the suit.

7. The decree has been reversed by the first appellate court and the issue no.1, which is germane to the controversy involved, was decided against the defendant-appellants holding that the sale deed of 1942 was a benami transaction. Consequently, the appellate court held Waziri Lal as true owner of the property and has drawn the decree against the defendant-appellants.

8. The instant second appeal was admitted by order dated 17.05.1979 on the grounds No.5, 8, 9 and 10 contained in the memo of appeal. The said grounds are quoted hereunder :

"5. Because it having been admitted to Wajiri Lal- plaintiff, that he did not know, who had written the letters purported to have been sent by Dwarika Prasad, Smt. Kamlawati and Sri Ram Narain to him, the said letters were not legally proved in this case and the learned lower appellate Court has wrongly placed reliance on the same.

8. Because the lower appellate court has completely misread the evidence on record to arrive at the conclusion that the sale deed in favour of Lal Dwarika Prasad was a Benami transaction.

9. Because the onus to prove that the property purchased in the name of Lal Dwarika Prasad was Benami was heavily on the plaintiff, who having failed to discharge the same, the finding of the lower appellate Court is erroneous.

10. Because documents on record substantially proved without any doubt that Wajiri Lal himself was not possessed of any means nor he had any source of income, from which he could have purchased the accommodation in dispute, inasmuch as it was not possible for him even to provide for the tuition fee for his son, who had to be taken out from the School for non-payment of the tuition fee. "

9. The submission of learned Senior Counsel is that not only necessary pleadings but also entire evidence led by the plaintiff-respondent was lacking in the sense that it was not stated in the plaint that sale consideration in relation to the sale deed of 1942 had been paid by the plaintiff. It is further contended that as far as evidence is concerned, the first appellate court discussed various letters on record and arrived at a conclusion that since no letter was written to Dwarika Prasad and one Vidyanand interacted with Waziri Lal by sending letters, it would be deemed that Dwarika Prasad was not the real owner of the property and, therefore, the transaction was a benami transaction. Statements of witnesses were also discussed by the appellate court.

10. Learned Senior Counsel has placed reliance upon the following judgments in support of his contention :

1. Bhim Singh (dead) by L.R.s and another v. Kan Singh, AIR 1980 Supreme Court 727.

2. V. Shankaranarayana Rao (D) by L.Rs. & Ors. v. Leelavathy (D) by L.Rs. & Ors., AIR 2007 Supreme Court 2637.

3. Diwakar Sahkari Krishi Samiti Ltd. and others v. State of U.P. and others, 1988 R.D. 208.

11. Placing reliance upon the aforesaid authorities, it is urged that the burden of proving the transfer as benami transaction lies on person who asserts such a transaction as benami and it has to be proved by him that the purchase money came from the person other than the person in whose favour the property is transferred.

12. Having heard learned counsel for the appellant, I find that there is no dispute that sale deed was in the name of Dwarika Prasad who was maternal grand father of defendant nos.2, 3 and 4 and father of defendant no.1. In order to arrive at a conclusion that the sale deed was a benami transaction, there should have been clear pleadings as well as trustworthy evidence to hold the transaction as such. What the court finds from the appellate judgment is that it has given much weightage to various letters on record. The Court has perused the original record of the proceedings. One letter was written by one Vidyanand to Waziri Lal as discussed by the first appellate court. Vidyanand was tenant in the shop in dispute. In the said letter, it is written that he was not aware of the fact as to whether Waziri Lal had or had not acquired rights over the property. Another letter is by one Ram Prakash, which was written to Waziri Lal but it also does not speak anything about ownership of the property. Few letters inter se Dwarika Prasad and Waziri Lal are also on record, however, the Court finds that both the said real brothers were just asking about well being of each other and from nowhere it can be inferred that there is any admission as regards payment of sale consideration by Waziri Lal to Dwarika Prasad in relation to sale deed of 1942. Therefore, the documentary evidence as regards payment of sale consideration is thoroughly lacking. As far as oral testimony of witnesses is concerned, the trial court arrived at a conclusion that except plaintiff, there is no witness was worth believing and the plaintiff being an interested witness, his statement would not make the transaction as benami. The first appellate Court has referred to the testimony of witnesses but the same does not appeal to this Court to arrive at a definite conclusion that sale deed of 1942 was a benami transaction.

13. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in Bhim Singh (supra) held that :

"Two kinds of benami transactions are generally recognized in India. Where a person buys a property with his own money but in the name of another person without any intention to benefit such other person, the transaction is called benami. In that case, the transferee holds the property for the benefit of the person who has contributed the purchase money, and he is the real owner. The second case which is loosely termed as a benami transaction is a case where a person who is the owner of the property executes a conveyance in favour of another without the intention of transferring the title to the property thereunder. In this case, the transferor continues to be the real owner. The difference between the two kinds of benami transactions referred to above lies in the fact that whereas in the former case, there is an operative transfer from the transfer to the transferee though the transferee holds the property for the benefit of the person who has contributed the purchase money, in the latter case, there is no operative transfer at all and the title rests with the transferor notwithstanding the execution of the conveyance. One common feature, however, in both these cases is that the real title is divorced from the ostensible title and they are vested in different persons. The question whether a transaction is a benami transaction or not mainly depends upon the intention of the person who has contributed the purchase money in the former case and upon the intention of the person who has executed the conveyance in the latter case."

14. The Apex Court in V. Shankaranarayana Rao (supra) held that :

"11. Principle on the basis whereof determination of the question as to whether a transaction is a benami one or not depends upon a large number of factors. Some of them had been noticed by this Court in Thakur Bhim Singh (Dead) By LRs and Another v. Thakur Kan Singh [(1980) 3 SCC 72] in the following terms:

"18. The principle governing the determination of the question whether a transfer is a benami transaction or not may be summed up thus: (1) the burden of showing that a transfer is a benami transaction lies on the person who asserts that it is such a transaction; (2) it is proved that the purchase money came from a person other than the person in whose favour the property is transferred, the purchase is prima facie assumed to be for the benefit of the person who supplied the purchase money, unless there is evidence to the contrary; (3) the true character of the transaction is governed by the intention of the person who has contributed the purchase money and (4) the question as to what his intention was has to be decided on the basis of the surrounding circumstances, the relationship of the parties, the motives governing their action in bringing about the transaction and their subsequent conduct, etc."

The said principle has been reiterated by this Court in Binapani Paul v. Pratima Ghosh & Ors. [2007 (6) SCALE 398] In the aforementioned judgments, this Court has inter alia emphasised on the fact that the role and / or the motive on the part of the person who had advanced the amount of consideration plays an important role in determination of the nature of transaction. The High Court unfortunately had not considered the question from the said angle. The High Court while pronouncing the impugned judgment had also not considered the effect and purport of the requisite ingredients for arriving at a decision as to whether the transaction in question is benami or not."

15. This Court, in Diwakar Sahkari Krishi Samiti Ltd. (supra) held that :

"It is well settled law that the source whence the purchase money came is by for the most important test for determining whether the sale standing in the name of one person is in reality for the benefit of another and unless it is established that the source of consideration came from the person other than the ostensible owner, the transaction cannot be held to be Benami transaction. Hence the payment of consideration is the real test for determining as to who is the real owner of the land in dispute. In Gangadara Ayyar and others v. Subramania Sastrigai and others, AIR 1949 FC 88, Mr. Justice

Mahajan laid down the following principle at page 92:-

"It is settled law that the onus of establishing that a transaction is Benami is on the plaintiff and it must be strictly made out. The decision of the Court cannot rest on mere suspicion but must rest on legal ground and legal testimony. In absence of evidence, the apparent title must prevail."

In Surasaibalini Devi v. Phanindra Mohan Majumdar, AIR 1965 SC 1364, their Lordships laid down on page 1372 that :

"We start with the position that the court will presume an ostensible title to be the real title unless a plaintiff who seeks to assert the contrary pleads and proves that the ostensible owner is not the real owner. In other words, the onus is on the person who alleges a transaction to be Benami to make it out. Of course, the source of the funds from which the purchase is made coupled with the manner of its enjoyment would be a very material fact or for establishing the proof of Benami but the mere proof of the source of purchase money would not finally establish the Benami nature of the defendants title. Even where the plaintiff purchases property with his own funds in the name of 'B' the surrounding circumstances, the mode of enjoyment might still indicate that it was intended to be a gift and it would then be a case of Benami notwithstanding that the purchase money did not proceed from the defendant."

In Jayadayal Poddar v. Bibi Hazra, (1974) 1 SCC 3, the Supreme Court observed thus:-

"It is well settled that the burden of proving that the particular sale is Benami and that the appellant purchaser is not the real purchaser always rests on the person asserting it to be so. The burden has to be strictly discharged by adducing the legal evidence of a definite character which would directly affect the proof of fact of Benami or establish circumstances unerringly and reasonably raising an inference of that fact. The essence of Benami is that the intention of the party of parties is concerned and not unoften such intention is shrouded in a thick veil which cannot be easily pierced through. But such difficulties do not relieve the person asserting the transaction to be Benami of any part of the serious onus that rests on him nor justify the acceptance of mere conjectures or surmises as a substitute for proof. The reason is that a deed is a solemn document prepared and executed after consideration and the person expressly shown as the purchaser or transferee in the deed starts with the initial presumption in his favour that the apparent state of affairs is the real state of affairs."

16. In view of the above discussion of facts and the law laid down by the Apex Court and this Court, I am of the firm opinion that there was neither sufficient pleadings nor trustworthy evidence to hold the transaction as benami. Inter- se-communication between two real brothers which does not infer anything regarding the transaction or any communication with third party would not confer owner ship upon Waziri Lal. Ingredient of real intention of parties is also absent. Payment of sale consideration by Waziri Lal is also not proved.

17. Consequently, the conclusion drawn by first appellate court declaring the transaction as benami is found to be erroneous on factual and legal platform. Accordingly, the questions of law framed by this Court, as above, are answered in favour of the appellants and it is held that there being no sufficient pleadings and evidence to hold the sale deed of 1942 as benami, the first appellate court has erred in reversing the decree drawn by the trial court. Consequently, the rights in the property of Dwarika Prasad would devolve upon his natural successors, who are the appellants before this Court.

18. In view of the above, the second appeal succeeds and is allowed.

19. The impugned judgment dated 06.04.1979 passed by the IV Additional District Judge, Bijnor in Civil Appeal No.363 of 1976 and the decree drawn on that basis is set aside.

20. Office is directed to send back the record of the courts below to District Judge, Bijnor for being preserved in accordance with General Rules (Civil).

4. Bank of Maharashtra Vs Race Shipping & Transport Co. Pvt. Ltd. & anr. (1995 3 SCC 257).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Hemant Pandey, learned standing counsel for the State-respondents and Shri Dilip Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for Gaon Sabha.

2. Under challenge is the order dated 23.06.2023 passed by the Board of Revenue whereby the revision preferred by the petitioner was dismissed upholding the order dated 04.12.2021 passed by the respondent no.3, as a consequence, in recall proceedings at the behest of State the principal order dated 31.07.2021 passed in favour of the petitioner has been stayed.

3. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the proceedings were initiated by the petitioner under Section 54 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act 1901. The said proceedings were contested by the State who had also filed their written objections and a copy thereof has been brought on record as annexure no.3. It is also submitted that the respondents were delaying the proceedings and as such the respondent no.3 by means of order dated 31.07.2021 allowed the application of the petitioner.

4. The State Authorities being aggrieved preferred an application for recall on 04.12.2021 which was also accompanied by an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963. On the said application, the respondent no.3 on the very same date i.e. 04.12.2021 entertained the application for recall and also as an interim measure passed an order dated 04.12.2021 staying the operation of the order dated 31.07.2021. The petitioner being aggrieved filed a revision before the Board of Revenue which has been dismissed noticing the fact that since the recall application is already seized by the respondent no.3, the petitioner would have ample opportunity to raise objection and contest the proceedings, hence it declined to interfere.

5. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is two fold:-(i) It is urged that once the respondents had already filed their written objections and later it did not participate to contest the proceedings, in such a situation, the orders have been passed on merits and therefore neither an application for recall or review would be maintainable and consequently the Authority had no jurisdiction to pass the order dated 04.12.2021. (ii) It is further urged that even otherwise if at all it may be considered that the application for recall could have been entertained but the fact remains that it was accompanied by an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and before condoning the delay, the Authority did not possess the jurisdiction to pass any order staying the operation of the principal orders dated 31.07.2021 which in affect amounts to entering into merits of the matter and allowing the petition by an interim order and thus for both the reasons aforesaid, the impugned order was bad.

6. Shri Hemant Pandey, learned counsel for the State has submitted that even though the State may have filed his objection but the fact remains that on the date of passing of the order dated 31.07.2021, the State was not heard and to that extent the order is ex parte which permits the State to move an application for recall.

7. He has further referred to Regulation 489 as contained in the U.P. Revenue Court Manual and has drawn the attention of the Court that the power to grant ad interim ex parte order vests with the authority and in such a case where the property of the State was at stake hence it was justified for the authority to have passed an order and the same cannot be faulted for want of jurisdiction.

8. It has also been urged that the matter is already pending before the authority concerned and it will be open for the petitioner to contest the case on merits and in any case since the petitioner has approached this Court against the order dated 04.12.2021, in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, such discretionary orders which do not impact the final rights of the parties may not be interfered with. Hence for the aforesaid reasons the petition is liable to fail.

9. The Court has heard the learned counsel for the parties and also perused the material on record.

10. In pursuance of the order dated 25.07.2023, the State was required to seek instructions as to whether they have participated in any proceedings and filed their objections especially as in the application for recall, the stand of the State appears to be that they were not properly served and the orders have been passed on merits behind the back of the State. This was contested by the petitioner as he had brought on record the copy of the objections filed by State in the proceedings as annexure no.3.

11. In this regard, as per written instructions, it could not be disputed that the objections were filed by the respondent State and this fact has also been taken note of by the respondent no.3 while passing the order dated 31.07.2021.

12. Taking note of the aforesaid, this Court finds that even though if the objections were on record but the fact which could not be disputed by the counsel for the petitioner is that on the given date when the principal order dated 31.07.2021 was passed, the State was not heard and to that extent the order naturally, having been passed in absence of the State Authorities, would be ex parte.

13. In so far as the application for recall is concerned, it cannot be said that the same was not maintainable; inasmuch as it is not an application for review since the law for entertaining an application for review is quite different and unless and until such powers of review are conferred on the authority by the statute itself, the said powers cannot be exercised by the authority.

14. However, in case of recall the authority does not enter into the merits and merely recalls the order, plainly, for the reason that the aggrieved party was not heard as it is against the principles of natural justice. The distinction between review and recall has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Asit Kumar Kar Vs. State of West Bengal (2009) 2 SCC 703 and the relevant portion reads as under:-

"6. There is a distinction between a petition under Article 32, a review petition and a recall petition. While in a review petition the Court considers on merits where there is an error apparent on the face of the record, in a recall petition the Court does not go into the merits but simply recalls an order which was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to an affected party.

7. We are treating this petition under Article 32 as a recall petition because the order passed in the decision in All Bengal Excise Licensees' Assn. V. Raghbendra Singh cancelling certain licences was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to the persons who had been granted licences. In these circumstances, we recall the directions in para 40 of the aforesaid judgment. However, if anybody has a grievance against the grant of licences or in the policy of the State Government, he will be at liberty to challenge it in appropriate proceedings before the appropriate court. The writ petitions are disposed of with these directions."

15. This has been followed subsequently by the Apex Court in Vishnu Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. (2011) 14 SCC 813.

16. In light of the aforesaid, it is clear that in so far as the order dated 31.07.2021 is concerned, the same was ex parte and an application for recall was apparently maintainable, hence the first submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner does not find favour with this Count.

17. Now the question arises as to whether the authority could have passed an order staying the operation of the order dated 31.07.2021. If the provisions of Regulation 489 of the U.P. Revenue Court Manual is seen, it does not bar the exercise of power for grant of interim order but at the same time what is noticeable is that it only relates to proceedings which are in order i.e. does not suffer from any disability such as being beyond limitation. Regulation 489 of the U.P. Revenue Court Manual reads as under:-

489. Ad interim ex parte order- (1) The court may, on the application of any party to a suit, appeal, revision, review or other proceeding and on such terms as it thinks fit, make an order for preservation of any land which is the subject matter of the suit, appeal, revision, review or other proceeding.

(2) The court shall in all cases, except where it appears that the object of making the order for preservation would be defeated by the delay, before making the order, direct notice of the application for the same to be given to the opposite party:

Provided that where it is proposed to make an order without giving notice of the application to the opposite party, the court shall record the reasons for its opinion that the object of making the order would be defeated by delay, and require the applicant-

(a) to deliver to the opposite party or to send to him by registered post/speed post immediately after the order has been made, a copy of the application for the order together with-

(i) a copy of the affidavit filed In support of the application;

(ii) a copy of the plaint, memo of appeal, memo of revision or other application on which the proceeding has been initiated; and

(iii) copies of documents on which the applicant relies; and

(b) to file, on the date on which the order is made or on the working day immediately following that day, an affidavit stating that the copies aforesaid have been so delivered or sent.

(3) If the condition mentioned in clause (b) of sub-para (2) of this para is complied with, the interlocutory order shall be vacated automatically. Not

(4) Where an order has been made under this para without giving notice to the opposite party, the court shall make an endeavour to finally dispose of application within thirty days from the date on which the order was made and where it is unable so to do it shall record its reasons for such inability.

18. Now if any proceedings are time barred and are accompanied by an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act in such a case the said Regulation cannot be pressed into service to suggest that even without issuing notice to the other party in whose favour certain rights have been crystallized because of an order which has not been assailed in time as prescribed by law and without condoning the delay the interim order could be passed.

19. It can be gainfully stated that if any suit, appeal, revision, review or other proceedings are filed beyond the prescribed period of limitation, legally speaking, the said proceedings are still born. Only once the delay is condoned only then the proceedings are resurrected to be considered on merits.

20. In this regard, a Division Bench decision of this Court where the issue of limitation vis a vis the right to enter into the merits of a proceeding before condoning the delay was considered in Ram Prakash Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others 2022 SCC OnLine All 107. The relevant paragraph 20 reads as under:-

"20 If any statute provides certain period for filing of appeal, an appeal filed beyond the time limit will certainly be not entertained. If the provisions of 1963 Act are applicable and party is entitled to seek condonation of delay in filing appeal, an application has to be filed specifying the grounds on which delay in filing the appeal is sought to be condoned. It is only after that the application is allowed, the appeal can be entertained and heard on merits. Before that the appeal cannot be taken up and considered on merits."

21. In the instant case, even before the notice on Section 5 of the Limitation Act was issued, the interim order has been passed by the Court. Even though it has been urged by the counsel for the State that merely the land of the State is protected but from the perusal of the order dated 04.12.2021 which is on record as annexure no.9 it would indicate that neither the authority has recorded any reasons for passing the order and moreover no finding has been recorded that in case the order of interim protection if not granted ex parte it would defeat the ends of justice and it was necessary in the given reasons for passing an ex parte order and without recording such reasons yet the operation of the order dated 31.07.2021 had been stayed.

22. At this stage it will be worthwhile to recall that even Regulation 489 of the U.P. Revenue Court Manual also envisages the recording of reasons before passing an interim order ex parte which has not been followed hence the agrument of the State based on Regulation 489 of the U.P. Revenue Court Manual cannot be sustained. Thus the order dated 04.12.2021 was bad as it was passed while the application of Section 5 of the Limitation Act was pending and no notice was issued thereon prior to passing of the order dated 04.12.2021 and even otherwise the order was bad for want of reasons.

23. The said order dated 04.12.2021 is also bad for another reason as by an interim order the final relief of recall has been indirectly granted. It is also now well settled that by an interim measure, no such order can be passed which has the effect of allowing the main relief (see Bank of Maharashtra Vs. Race Shipping & Transport Co. Pvt. Ltd. and another, (1995) 3 SCC 257). The relevant paragraphs reads as under:-

"9. Since the writ petition is still pending in the High Court and the question of maintainability of the writ petition has yet to be considered we do not propose to go into the said question. All that we wish to say at this stage is that the objections that have been raised by the appellant-Bank against the maintainability of the writ petition are not such that they may be disregarded as lacking in substance. This is a factor which has a bearing on the exercise of discretion by the court while passing the interim order in the writ petition.

10. By the interim order the High Court has directed the appellant-Bank to credit a sum of Rs.95,000 in the Current Account No.318 of Respondent 1. The High Court has recorded that respondent through their counsel had given an undertaking to bring back the amount if the Court so desires. The said interim order, in substance, grants the relief which the respondent would have been given at the final stage in the event of their writ petition being allowed by the High Court.

11. Time and again this Court has deprecated the practice of granting interim orders which practically give the principal relief sought in the petitioner for no better reason than that a prima facie case has been made out, without being concerned about the balance of convenience, the public interest and a host of other considerations."

24. There is another way to look at the issue since by means of order dated 04.12.2021, the operation of the principal order has been stayed at best if the intention was to protect the property it could have been protected but it was not appropriate to stay the operation of the order itself. This has not been considered by the Board of Revenue while passing the order even though the petitioner would have ample opportunity to contest the matter before the respondent no.3 but ignoring the aspect as discussed above relating to the fact that the application for recall was time barred and the interim order could not have been granted before condoning the delay as it affects the rights of the parties contesting the proceeding hence, the Board of Revenue has not exercised its jurisdiction as per law.

25. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances where the matter is already seized before the respondent no.3 and the application for condonation of delay alongwith the recall application is pending, this Court taking a holistic view and protecting the rights of the respective parties sets aside the order passed by the Board of Revenue and direct the petitioner to contest the proceedings before the respondent no.3 where he shall be permitted to file his objections to the recall application as well as to the application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963. The order dated 04.12.2021 whereby the operation of the order has been stayed is set aside. However, the parties shall maintain status quo and none of the parties shall change the nature or create any third party rights till the decision on the application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act. The petitioner shall co-operate in early hearing of the proceedings and so will the State and the court shall endeavour not only decide the application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 first thereafter take up the application for recall. In case if it finds favour in condoning the delay and the recall and if the proceedings are restored thereafter the proceedings itself may be decided after affording full opportunity of hearing to the parties but without granting any unnecessary adjournments on merits so that the proceedings can be culminated in a final order within a period of six months from the date, a copy of this order is placed before the authority concerned.

26. It is made clear that the Court has only touched the decision making process upon which the proceedings have been challenged, however, no expression of opinion on merits have been given by the Court on the respective rights and claims of the parties which shall be considered by the court concerned.

27. With the aforesaid, the petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms. Costs are made easy.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Noticing divergent views and finding it difficult to reconcile, the learned Single Judge vide order dated 03.02.2015 has referred the following questions to be answered by Larger Bench.-

"Whether workmen of Kisan Sahkari Chini Mill Ltd. whose services are governed by the Standing Order Covering The Condition of Employment of Workmen In Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories In U.P. can raise industrial dispute involving the provisions of U.P. Industrial Dispute Act, 1947 ?"

Facts

2. Broadly, the facts of the case are that Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd. (in short 'Sugar Mill') is engaged in the business of manufacturing of sugar by vacuum pan process and claims to have obtained a licence under the provisions of U.P. Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories Licensing Order, 1969 (in short 'Licensing Order 1969').

3. In exercise of the powers conferred under clause (3) of Article 348 of the Constitution of India read with clause (b) of Section 3 of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (in short 'U.P. I.D. Act, 1947'). The State of Uttar Pradesh framed Standing Orders regulating the Condition of Employment of Workmen in Vacuum Pan and Sugar Factories of Uttar Pradesh on 27.09.1988. Owing to demand for revision of the Standing Orders, revised Standing Orders Governing the Condition of the Employees and Workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in Uttar Pradesh came to be framed on 29.04.2022.

4. Dispute with regard to termination of the employment of the workmen resulted in reference under Section 4-K of the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 which in turn got registered as adjudication cases. Objections were preferred by the Sugar Mill taking a ground that since the Sugar Mills are governed under the provisions of U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 (in short 'Co-operative Act, 1965') read with U.P. Cooperative Societies Employees Service Regulations, 1975 (in short 'Regulations, 1975'), therefore, the adjudicating courts under the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 had no jurisdiction and authority to adjudicate the said disputes. The said objections came to be rejected by the Labour Courts holding that it had the competence to adjudicate the said disputes. Several writ petitions were filed before this Court, category 'A' against the order rejecting the objections raised by the Sugar Mill, category 'B' writ petition filed against the reference orders and category 'C' writ petition filed by the Workmen wherein challenge was raised to the order of the Labour Court holding that it had no jurisdiction to adjudicate the dispute since it falls under the provisions of the Co-operative Act, 1965.

5. On 29.08.2022, this Court appointed Amicus Curiae to assist the Court.

Arguments of Amicus Curiae

6. Sri Samir Sharma, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Diptiman Singh, Amicus Curiae, submitted that the Sugar Mills are though engaged in manufacture of Sugar like private sector Sugar Mills but there lies a slight distinction that in the case of the petitioner-Sugar Mill the manufacture of Sugar is by Vacuum Pan Process. For the said purpose, a statutory licence is to be obtained under the provisions of Licensing Order, 1969. It is also submitted that in the Sugar Mills in question, the works are being executed by the employees and the workmen. As regards, the condition of the services of the workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories are concerned they are governed by the Standing Orders notified on 27.09.1988 which stood revised on 29.04.2022. With respect to the employees their service conditions are governed under U.P. Cooperative Sugar Mills and Distilleries Employees Service Regulation, 2015 (in short 'Regulation, 2015). According to the Amicus Curiae, since the Standing Orders issued from time to time specifically deals with the condition of the services of the workmen and reference has been made in the Standing Orders for adjudication of the dispute relating to condition of services by the adjudicating forum under the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947, thus, the provisions of the Cooperative Act, 1965 and Regulations, 1975 would not apply. Argument is that the provisions of Cooperative Act, 1965 and the Regulations, 1975 have no application particularly when Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965 does not deal with the contingency of adjudication of the disputes regarding disciplinary action through arbitration. It is contended that the judgment in the case of Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Limited Vs. Additional Commissioner (2007) 11 SCC 756 would have no application in the facts of the case particularly when the dispute in the case of Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Limited (supra) was with regard to grant of ex gratia to the employees, whereas in the present case at hand the dispute is of termination of the engagement/employment which obviously comes within the realm of disciplinary action. It is, thus, submitted that once there happens to be specific Standing Orders occupying the field then the provisions of the Cooperative Act, 1965 would not be of any application and it is the adjudicating authority under U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 which is the only competent forum to decide such type of disputes.

7. Lastly, it has been argued that the judgment in the case of Ram Shankar Vaish Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court 2011 (131) FLR 391 lays correct law while holding that the Labour Court has the absolute and sole jurisdiction to adjudicate the case.

Arguments of the Counsel for Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd.

8. Sri Satyam Singh who appears for the Sugar Mills had sought to argue that in view of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Limited (supra), it is beyond shadow of doubt that it is only the provisions of Cooperative Act, 1965 which would apply in the disputes in question as the Cooperative Act, 1965 being a special enactment would prevail upon the general enactment and the Labour Court has no authority under law to adjudicate the said disputes.

9. Submission is that in view of Section 135 of the Cooperative Act, 1965, the provisions of U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 would not apply to the cooperative societies and once the Sugar Mills is a cooperative society then obviously the provisions of Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965 would apply and the matter being arbitrable the Labour Court would have no jurisdiction to adjudicate the said disputes. He seeks to rely upon the judgments in the case of (i) Brij Bhushan Singh and another Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2009(2) ADJ 314, decided on 19.12.2008, (ii) Cooperative Cane Development Union Limited Vs. State of U.P. and Others, Writ-C No. 23765 of 2005, decided on 18.04.2011, (iii) Farrukhabad Dugdh Utpadak Sahkari Sangh Ltd. Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Lko. & others, Writ-C No. 11386 of 1993, decided on 04.08.2011, (iv) Sunder Lal Vs. The L.S.R. Sahkari Samiti Ltd. & Others, Writ-A 42227 of 1992 decided on 29.11.2011, (v) Secretary Sadhan Sahakari Samiti Ltd. Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Faizabad and Another, Writ-C No. 11395 of 2017, decided on 04.04.2022, (vi) Pradeshik Cooperative Diary Federation Ltd. & another Vs. State of U.P. & Others, Writ-C No. 48700 of 2010, decided on 23.05.2012, (vii) Aliganj Kshetriya Sahakari Samiti Ltd. Bareilly Vs. Murali Lal Sharma & another, 2012 (135) FLR 536, decided on 23.07.2012, and (viii) Firozabad Dugdh Utpadak Sahkari Sangh Ltd. Vs. P.O., Labour Court, Agra & Others, Writ-C No. 25816 of 1999, decided on 31.07.2012.

Arguments of the counsel for Workmen

10. Sri Gopal Narayan, learned counsel for the workmen has supported the arguments of Amicus Curiae while adding that Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965 deals with the disputes which may be referred to arbitration as envisaged under clauses (a), (b), (c) and (d) of sub-section (1) and it is restricted to the disputes relating to constitution, management or business of cooperative society which excludes a dispute regarding disciplinary action taken against a paid servant. According to him, the dispute in the case in hand is of termination of the engagement/services which obviously falls within the category of disciplinary action as the termination has been an outcome of misconduct.

11. Submission is that a workman cannot be remediless as once Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965 does not contemplate any arbitration in the matter of the dispute regarding disciplinary action taken against a paid servant then the only recourse available to the workmen is to approach the competent forum under the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 in the wake of the clauses of the standing orders as applicable from time to time. It is submitted that the judgment in the case of Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Limited (supra) is distinguishable on the facts of the case and is not applicable as it relates to the dispute of ex gratia payment which nowhere falls under the category of dispute relating to disciplinary action.

Argument Advanced on behalf of State of Uttar Pradesh

12. Ms. Akanksha Sharma, learned Standing Counsel has also supported the argument of the learned Amicus Curiae while contending that the dispute in the case in hand is amenable to the adjudicating authority under the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947. She while relying upon the judgment in the case of Maharashtra State Cooperative Housing Finance Corporation Ltd. Vs. Prabhakar Sitaram Bhadange, (2017) 5 SCC 623 has contended that the dispute relatable to constitution, management or the business of the cooperative society would not take into its ambit the disputes regarding disciplinary actions taken against the paid servants, specifically when the said disputes have been ousted from being referred to arbitration. According to the learned Standing Counsel, the judgment in the case of Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Limited (supra) is distinguishable in the facts of the case.

13. Before we proceed to answer the questions framed by the learned Single Judge, it would be apposite to have a quick survey of the statutory provisions.-

U. P. SUGAR WAGE BOARD, 1991

"The Governor is pleased to order the publication of the following English translation of notification No. 556(HI)/XXXVI-2-115(HI)-89, dated January 31, 1991 for general information:

No. 556 (HI)/XXXVI-2-115 (HI)-89

Lucknow: Dated January 31, 1991

Whereas by its Resolution No. V-23030/1-85-750A, dated July 17, 1985, the Government of India decided to set up a third Wage Board for the Sugar Industry to consider question of further revision of the present wage structure in the industry and also to make incidental recommendations;

And, Whereas the report submitted by the said Wage Board was considered by the Government of India and by Resolution No. V-24014/21-89-WB, dated December 29, 1989, it accepted the recommendations of the said Wage Board with certain modifications:

And, Whereas the matter of implementation of the said Resolution of Government of India was considered at Tripartite Conference held in this State on 23rd October, 1989 in which the representatives of the employers namely, the U. P. Branch of the Indian Sugar Mill Association. Cooperative Sugar Federation and U.P. State Sugar Corporation and representatives of various workers' associations operating in the sugar Industry of U. P. were present;

And, Whereas by another Tripartite Conference held on 26th September, 1990 some of the unresolved matters were finally taken up bringing about unanimous accord between the employers and the workmen on the implementation of the recommendations of the said Wage Board:

And, Whereas in the opinion of State Government, it is necessary to implement the recommendations of the said Wage Board as accepted by Government of India for the maintenance of public order and supplies and services essential to the life of the community and for maintaining employment;

Now, Therefore, in exercise of the powers under sub-clause (b) of Section 3 of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (U.P. Act No. XXVIII of 1947), the Governor is pleased to make the following Order and to direct with reference to Section 19 of the said Act that notice of this Order shall be given by publication in the official Gazette.

"1. This order shall apply to-

(i) all the Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in this State;

(ii) all employees in the Vacuum Pan Sugar Industry falling within the definition of the term "workman" in the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as amended up to date."

Analysis:

14. Undisputedly, the sugar mills have been established under the provisions of the Cooperative Act, 1965. It is also not in dispute that the sugar mills are engaged in manufacturing of sugar through vacuum pan process and holds licences under the provisions of Licensing Order, 1969. In order to regulate the Conditions of the Employment of Workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories of Uttar Pradesh, Standing Orders have been issued wayback on 27.9.1988 which underwent revision on 29.04.2022. The moot question which has been referred to us and is to be answered is whether in the wake of the provisions contained under Cooperative Act, 1965 and the Regulations, 1975 framed thereunder, the provisions of U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 would apply or not.

15. Evidently, the Cooperative Act, 1965 was enacted in order to consolidate and amend the law relating to cooperative societies in Uttar Pradesh and received the assent of the President on 24.03.1966. As per Section 135, the provisions contained in the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 was made inapplicable to cooperative societies. However, on 30.12.1967 though the Cooperative Act, 1965 was enforced with effect from 26.01.1968 except Section 135. Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965 deals with settlement of dispute which contains a non obstante clause providing that the disputes relating to constitution, management or business of a cooperative society other than the dispute regarding disciplinary actions taken against a paid servant may be referred to Registrar for action in accordance with the provisions of the acts and the rules and no Court shall have jurisdiction to entertain any suit or other proceedings in respect of such dispute. In line with the Cooperative Act, 1965, Regulations 1975 came to be enforced. Sub-clause (ii) of Regulation 2 defines employee which means a person in whole-time servant of cooperative society, but does not include a casual worker employed on daily wage or a person part time service in society. Further, Chapter II deals with the strength of staff recruitment, appointment, probation, conformation, termination and retirement. With respect to the conditions of the employment of workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories of the State of Uttar Pradesh, Standing Orders was issued on 27.09.1988 under Section 3 in exercise of the powers under clause (b) of Section 3 of U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 which underwent revision on 29.04.2022. Apart from the same, 2015 Regulations came to be framed for regulating service conditions of the employee in the U.P. Cooperative Sugar Mills and Distilleries. In addition to the same, a notification was issued constituting U.P. Sugar Wage board known as U.P. Sugar Wage Board, 1991 regulating the coverage and wage structure of workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in the State of Uttar Pradesh and they were assigned the same definition which found place in the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as amended from time to time.

16. Interestingly, the workmen has not been defined either in the Regulation, 1975 or in the Regulation, 2015. What has been referred to and defined is employee. Conversely, the Standing Order defines workmen and the word 'workmen' has been used in various provisions either dealing with the classification of workmen, appointment, confirmation, termination etc. The word employee is not defined. Not only this in exercise of the powers under-sub-section (b) of Section 3 of the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947, the U.P. Sugar Wage Board, 1991 was constituted wherein its coverage was made to all the Vacuum Pan Sugar Industries in the State of Uttar Pradesh and Employees in the Vacuum Pan Sugar Industries falling within the definition of workmen in the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 as amended from time to time providing for wage structure. Bearing in mind the above noted statutory enactment, the provisions contained under Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965 is to be interpreted.

17. To put it otherwise, the only disputes relatable to constitution, management or business of a cooperative societies amongst the members, past members, persons claiming through members, past members, deceased members and the Committee of Management or an officer, agent or employee of the society including past officer, agent or employee or any officer or between the society or its committee or any past committee, any officer, agent or employee or any past officer etc., are only liable to be referred for settlement of dispute to arbitration.

18. In the case of R.C. Tiwari (supra) the appellant therein was dismissed from service for a proven misconduct, dispute was referred to the Registrar under the provisions of Section 55 of the M.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1960 wherein the dismissal was found to be valid and thereafter matter was referred to the Labour Court in view of the provisions contained under U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 which was held to be not maintainable. While interpreting the provisions of Section 55 of the M.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1960, the Apex Court held that the powers conferred under Section 55 to the Registrar was inclusive of determination of condition of employment in societies as the words "terms and conditions of employment" was employed in the said context.

19. The judgment in the case of R.C. Tiwari (supra) came to be relied upon and followed in the case of Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Ltd. (supra). In the said case, the dispute was of ex gratia payment to the employees while taking note of Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965, the Hon'ble Supreme Court came to the conclusion that the dispute of ex gratia payment was amenable to the adjudicating authority under the Cooperative Act, 1965 and not under the U.P. I.D. Act, 1947 as there was no restraint or bar in adjudication of the said dispute. The judgment in the case of Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Ltd. came to be followed in the decisions of this Court in (i) Brij Bhushan Singh and another (supra), (ii) Cooperative Cane Development Union Limited (supra), (iii) Farrukhabad Dugdh Utpadak Sahkari Sangh Ltd. (supra), (iv) Sunder Lal (supra), (v) Secretary Sadhan Sahakari Samiti Ltd. (supra), (vi) Pradeshik Cooperative Diary Federation Ltd. & another (supra), (vii) Aliganj Kshetriya Sahakari Samiti Ltd. Bareilly (supra) and (viii) Firozabad Dugdh Utpadak Sahkari Sangh Ltd. (supra).

20. The word 'business' employed in Section 91(1) of the Maharashtra Cooperative Societies Act, 1961 was interpreted by Hon'ble Apex Court in Deccan Merchants Co-operative Bank Ltd. Vs. M/s. Dalichand Jugraj Jain and Others, AIR 1969 SC 1320 Section 91(1) of the Maharashtra Cooperative Societies Act reads as under.-

"91. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, any dispute touching the constitution, elections of the office bearers, conduct of general meetings, management or business of a society shall be referred by any of the parties to the dispute, or by a federal society to which the society is affiliated, or by a creditor of the society, to the Registrar, if both the parties thereto are one or other of the following:

(a) a Society, its committee, any past committee, any past or present officer, any past or present agent, any past or present servant or nominee, heir or legal representative or any deceased officer, deceased agent or deceased servant of the society, or the liquidator of the society;

(b) a member, past member or a person claiming through a member, past member or a deceased member of a society, or a society which is a member of the society;

(c) a person, other than a member of the society, who has been granted a loan by the society, or with whom the society has or had transactions under the provisions of Section 45, and any person claiming through such a person;

(d) a surety of a member, past member or a deceased member, or a person other than a member who has been granted a loan by the society under Section 45, whether such a surety is or is not a member of the society;

(e) any other society, or the Liquidator of such a society.

It was held as under.-

"16. The principal questions which arise on the interpretation of Section 91 are two: (1) what is the meaning of the expression "touching the business of the society?" and (2) what is the meaning of the expression "a person claiming through a member" which occurs in Section 91 (1) (b)?

17. The answer depends on the words used in the Act. Although number of cases have been cited to us on similar expressions contained in various other Acts, both Indian and English, in the first instance, it is advisable to restrict the enquiry to the terms of the enactment itself, because the legislatures have been changing the words and expanding the scope of references to arbitrators or to the Registrars step by step. The sentence, namely, "notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force" clearly ousts the jurisdiction of Civil Courts if the dispute falls squarely within the ambit of Section 91 (1). Five kinds of disputes are mentioned in sub-sec. (1); first, disputes touching the constitution of a society; secondly, disputes touching election of the office-bearers of a society; thirdly, disputes touching the conduct of general meetings of a society; fourthly, disputes touching the management of a society; and fifthly, disputes touching the business of a society. It is clear that the word "business" in this context does not mean affairs of a society because election office-bearers, conduct of general meetings and management of a society would treated as affairs of a society. In this -section the word "business" has been used in a narrower sense and it means the actual trading or commercial or other similar business activity of the society which the society is authorised to enter under the Act and the Rules and its -laws.

18. The question arises whether the dispute touching the assets of a society would be a dispute touching the business of a society. This would depend on the nature of the society and the rules and bye-laws governing it. Ordinarily, if a society owns buildings and lets out parts of buildings which it does not require for its own purpose it cannot be said that letting out of those parts is a part of the business of the society. But it may be that it is the business of a society to construct and buy houses and let them out to its members. In that case letting out property may be part of its business. In this case, the society is a co-operative bank and ordinarily a co-operative bank cannot be said to be engaged in business when it lets out properties owned by it. Therefore, it seems to us that the present dispute between a tenant and a member of the bank in a building which has subsequently been acquired by the Bank cannot be said to be a dispute touching the business of the Bank, and the appeal should fail on this short ground."

21. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Co-operative Central Bank Ltd. and Others Vs. The Additional Industrial Tribunal, Andhra Pradesh and Others 1969 (2) SCC 43 had the occasion to consider the provisions of Section 61(1) of the Andhra Pradesh Cooperative Societies Act, 1964 akin to Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965, Section 61(1) reads as under:-

61. Disputes which may be referred to the Registrar:-

(1) Notwithstanding anything in any law for the time being in force, if any dispute touching the constitution, management or the business of a society, other than a dispute regarding disciplinary action taken by the society or its committee against a paid employee of the society, arises-

(a) among members, past members and persons claiming through members, pas past members and deceased members; or

(b) between a member, past member or person claiming through a member, past member or deceased member and the society, its committee or any officer, agent or employee of the society; or

(c) between the society or its committee and any past committee, any officer, agent or employee, or any past officer, past agent or past employee or the nominee, heir or legal representative of any deceased officer, deceased agent, or deceased employee of the society; or

(d) between the society and any other society, such dispute shall be referred to the Registrar for decision.

The following was observed.-

7. Applying these tests, we have no doubt at all that the dispute covered by the first issue referred to the Industrial Tribunal in the present cases could not possibly be referred for decision to the Registrar under Section 61 of the Act. The dispute related to alteration of a number of conditions of service of the workmen which relief could only be granted by an Industrial Tribunal dealing with an industrial dispute. The Registrar, it is clear from the provisions of the Act, could not possibly have granted the reliefs claimed under this issue because of the limitations placed on his powers in the Act itself. It is true that Section 61 by itself does not contain any clear indication that the Registrar cannot entertain a dispute relating to alteration of conditions of service of the employees of a registered society; but the meaning given to the expression "touching the business of the society, in our opinion, makes it very doubtful whether a dispute in respect of alteration of conditions of service can be held to be covered by this expression. Since the word "business" is equated with the actual trading or commercial or other similar business activity of the society, and since it has been held that it would be difficult to subscribe to the proposition that whatever the society does or is necessarily required to do for the purpose of carrying out its objects, such as laying down the conditions of service of its employees, can be said to be a part of its business, it would appear that a dispute relating to conditions of service of the workmen employed by the society cannot be held to be a dispute touching the business of the society. Further, the position is clarified by the provisions of sub-section (4) of Section 62 of the Act which limit the power to be exercised by the Registrar, when dealing with a dispute referred to him under Section 61, by a mandate that he shall decide the dispute in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules and bye-laws. On the face of it, the provisions of the Act, the rules and the bye-laws could not possibly permit the Registrar to change conditions of service of the workmen employed by the society. For the purpose of bringing facts to our notice in the present appeals, the rules framed by the Andhra Pradesh Government under the Act, and the bye-laws of one of the appellant Banks have been placed on the Paper-books of the appeals before us. It appears from them that the conditions of service of the employees of the Bank have all been laid down by framing special bye-laws. Most of the conditions of service, which the workmen want to be altered to their benefit, have thus been laid down by the by-laws, so that any alteration in those conditions of service will necessarily require a change in the bye-laws. Such a change could not possibly be directed by the Registrar when, under Section 62(4) of the Act, he is specifically required to decide the dispute referred to him in accordance with the provisions of the bye-laws. It may also be noticed that a dispute referred to the Registrar under Section 61 of the Act can even be transferred for disposal to a person who may have been invested by the Government with powers in that behalf, or may be referred for disposal to an arbitrator by the Registrar. Such person or arbitrator, when deciding the dispute, will also be governed by the mandate in Section 62(4) of the Act, so that he will also be bound to reject the claim of the workmen which is nothing else than a request for alteration of conditions of service contained in the bye-laws. It is thus clear that, in respect of the dispute relating to alteration of various conditions of service, the Registrar or other person dealing with it under Section 62 of the Act is not competent to grant the relief claimed by the workmen at all. On the principle laid down by this Court in the case of the Deccan Merchants Cooperative Bank Ltd., (supra), therefore, it must be held that this dispute is not a dispute covered by the provisions of Section 61 of the Act. Such a dispute is not contemplated to be dealt with under Section 62 of the Act and must, therefore, be held to be outside the scope of Section 61."

22. In Gujarat State Cooperative Land Development Bank Ltd. v. P.R. Mankad and Others (1979) 3 SCC 123, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was confronted with the issue of the termination of a supervisor and while interpreting the provisions contained under the Bombay Cooperative Societies Act, 1925 read with Gujarat Cooperative Societies Act, 1961, the following was observed.-

17. The relevant part of Section 54 of the Act of 1925, reads thus :

(1) (a) if any dispute touching the constitution or business of a Society arises between members or past members of the Society or persons claiming through a member or a past member or between members or past members or persons so claiming and any officer, agent or servant of the Society or its Committee, and any officer, agent, member or servant of the Society past or present, it shall be referred to the Regis- trar for decision by himself or his nominee. . .

18. The corresponding Section 96 of the Act of 1961 lays down:

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, any dispute touching the constitution, management or business of a Society shall be referred in the prescribed form . . . if the parties thereto are from amongst the following:-

(a) a Society, its Committee, any past Committee, any past or present officer, any past or present agent, any past or present servant or nominee, heir or legal representative of any deceased officer, deceased agent or deceased servant of the Society, or the Liquidator of the Society. . . .

22. As regards the first test, it is to be noted that the expression "any dispute" has not been defined in the Acts of 1925 and 1961. The term "dispute" means a controversy having both positive and negative aspects. It postulates the assertion of a claim by one party and its denial by the other. The word "any" prefixed to "dispute" may, at first glance, appear to give the expression "any dispute" a very wide amplitude covering all classes of disputes, whatever be their nature. But the context of these provisions, the object and scheme of the Acts of 1925/1961 show that the Legislature never intended to give such a wide scope to this expression. The related provisions and the scheme of the Acts unerringly indicate that the expression "any dispute" has been used in a narrower sense limited to contested claims of a civil nature, which could have been decided by civil or revenue courts, but for the provisions with regard to compulsory arbitration by the Registrar or his nominee, found in Section 54 of the Act of 1925, Section 96 of the Act of 1961. The first indication of this being the right construction, is discernible in sub-section (2) of Section 96 which states that when any question arises whether for the purposes of sub-section (1) a matter referred to for decision is a dispute or not, the question shall be considered by the Registrar, whose decision shall be final. This means it is incumbent on the Registrar to decide as a preliminary issue, whether the dispute is of a kind under sub-section (1) of Section 96 falling within his jurisdiction. If this preliminary issue is found in the negative, he will have no further jurisdiction to deal with the matter.

23. Recently in Maharashtra State Cooperative Housing Finance Corporation (supra) again the provisions of Section 91(1) of the Maharashtra Cooperative Societies Act, 1960 came to be explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court while observing as under:-

11. In the aforesaid conspectus, we have to examine as to whether this power which is available with the civil court to grant damages is now given to the Cooperative Court under Section 91 of the Act. We may also mention at this stage that some of the States have statutes which contain provisions regarding management and regulations of the cooperative society, where specific machinery under these State Cooperative Societies Acts is provided for resolution of employment disputes as well, between the cooperative societies and its employees, that too by excluding the applicability of the labour laws. No doubt, in such cases, the disputes between the cooperative societies and its employees, including the workmen, would be dealt with by such machinery and the general Act, like the Industrial Disputes Act, would not be applicable (see Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Ltd. v. Labour Commr.) and Dharappa v. Bijapur Coop. Milk Producers Societies Union Ltd.). Pertinently, in the instant case, Section 91 specifically excludes the disputes between the cooperative society as employer and its "workmen". Ultimately, the outcome depends upon the powers that are given to the Cooperative Court or the stipulated tribunal d created under such Acts. It is in this hue we have to find out as to whether Section 91 of the Act at hand empowers Cooperative Courts to decide such disputes.

12. A reading of the provisions of Section 91 would show that there are two essential requirements for conferment of exclusive jurisdiction on the Cooperative Court which need to be satisfied:

(i) The first requirement is that disputes should be "disputes touching" the constitution of the society or elections of committee or its officers or conduct of general meetings or management of the society, or business of the society; and

(ii) The second requirement is that such a dispute is to be referred to the Cooperative Court by "enumerated persons" as specified under subsection (1) of Section 91.

13. When we read the provision in the aforesaid manner, we arrive at a firm conclusion that service dispute between the employees of such cooperative society and the management of the society are not covered by the aforesaid g provision. The context in which the word "officers" is used is altogether different, namely, election of the committee or its officers. Thus, the word "officers" has reference to elections. It is in the same hue expression "officer" occurs second time as well.

19. The learned counsel for the respondent referred to the judgment of this Court in R.C. Tiwari v. M.P. State Coop. Mktg. Federation Ltd. However, a close scrutiny of the said judgment would reveal that the power of the Registrar to deal with the dispute of dismissal from service of the employee was recognised having regard to Section 55 of the M.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1960 which gave specific power to the Registrar to determine conditions of employment, working conditions and disciplinary actions taken by the society arising between the society and its employees. Therefore, that judgment would be of no help to the respondent.

20. It may be noted that the High Court, in the impugned judgment, has itself proceeded on the basis that if the dispute relates to reinstatement, the Cooperative Court will not have any jurisdiction. The main reason for conferring jurisdiction upon the Cooperative Court in the instant case is is that the Cooperative Court has replaced the civil court and, therefore, powers of the civil court are given to the Cooperative Court. However, the High Court erred in not further analysing the provisions of Section 91 of the Act which spells out the specific powers that are given to the Cooperative Court and those powers are of limited nature. Our aforesaid analysis leads to the conclusion that the disputes between the cooperative society and its employees are not covered by the said provision. We may hasten to add that if the provision is couched in a language to include such disputes (and we find such provisions in the Cooperative Societies Acts of certain States) and it is found that the Cooperative Society Act provides for complete machinery of redressal of grievances of the employees, then even the jurisdiction of the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal under the Industrial Disputes Act shall be barred having regard to the provisions of such a special statute vis-à-vis general statute like the Industrial Disputes Act (see Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Ltd.).

21. In Gujarat State Coop. Land Development Bank Ltd. v. P.R. Mankad, an employee working as Additional Supervisor was removed from service by giving one month's pay in lieu of notice under the Staff Regulations. He had issued a notice under the Bombay Industrial Relations Act, 1946, as he was an employee as defined under Section 2(13) of the said Act. One of the questions that was considered by this Court was whether a dispute raised by the said employee for setting aside his removal from service on the ground that it was an act of victimisation and for reinstatement in service with back wages was one "touching the management or business of the society", within the contemplation of the Cooperative Societies Act. This Court held that the expression "any dispute" referred to in Section 96 of the Gujarat Cooperative Societies Act, 1961 did not cover a dispute of the kind raised by the respondent employee against the Bank.

22. As a result, this appeal is allowed, the order[1] of the High Court is set aside and the Division Bench judgment[2], on which reliance is placed by the High Court in the impugned judgment, is overruled. As a consequence, it is held that the petition filed by the respondent before the Cooperative Court is not maintainable. It would, however, be open to the respondent to file a civil suit. Needless to mention, in such a civil suit filed by the respondent, he would be at liberty to file application under Section 14 of the Limitation Act, 1963 in order to save the limitation. No costs."

24. Applying the principles of law culled out in the above noted decisions an irresistible conclusion stands drawn that the dispute touching the business of the society cannot be intermingled with the dispute pertaining to employment and service matters as they are on a different footing. An additional fact also needs to be noticed that Section 70 of the Cooperative Act, 1965 excludes disputes regarding disciplinary action to be taken against the paid servant. Nonetheless the workmen are not remediless as once the service conditions does not fall under the Cooperative Act, 1965 then in view of the Standing Orders issued from time to time the workmen have a remedy to approach the Labour Courts having jurisdiction over the matter. The rule making authorities were conscious about the inter-play between the different statutory enactments and that is why a boundary was carved providing for different adjudicatory forums for the different classes of employees. The purport in the different statutory enactments itself is self indicative of the fact that the service conditions are to be governed differently under the different enactments.

25. In Bhavnagar University Vs. Palitana Sugar Mill (P) Ltd. (2003) 2 SCC 111, Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 59 held as under.-

59. A decision, as is well known, is an authority for which it is decided and not what can logically be deduced therefrom. It is also well settled that a little difference in facts or additional facts may make a lot of difference in the precedential value of a decision. [See Ram Rakhi v. Union of India, Delhi Admn. (NCT of Delhi) v. Manohar Lal, Haryana Financial Corpn. v. Jagdamba Oil Mills and Nalini Mahajan (Dr) v. Director of Income Tax (Investigation).]

26. The said decision came to be followed in the case of Escorts Ltd. v. Commissioner of Central Excise, Delhi-II, (2004) 8 SCC 335), the following was observed.-

8. Courts should not place reliance on decisions without discussing as to how the factual situation fits in with the fact situation of the decision on which reliance is placed. Observations of courts are neither to be read as Euclid's theorems nor as provisions of a statute and that too taken out of their context. These observations must be read in the context in which they appear to have been stated. Judgments of courts are not to be construed as statutes. To interpret words, phrases and provisions of a statute, it may become necessary for Judges to embark into lengthy discussions but the discussion is meant to explain and not to define. Judges interpret statutes, they do not interpret judgments. They interpret words of statutes; their words are not to be interpreted as statutes. In London Graving Dock Co. Ltd. v. Horton (AC at p. 761), Lord MacDermott observed: (All ER p. 14 C-D)

10. Circumstantial flexibility, one additional or different fact may make a world of difference between conclusions in two cases. Disposal of cases by blindly placing reliance on a decision is not proper."

27. In Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd. And another vs N.R. Vairamani And Another 2004 (8) SCC 579, a note of caution was flagged that the Court should not place reliance on the decisions without discussing as to show the factual situation fits in with the situation of the decision on which reliance is placed, it was held as under.-

"9. Courts should not place reliance on decisions without discussing as to how the factual situation fits in with the fact situation of the decision on which reliance is placed. Observations of courts are neither to be read as Euclid's theorems nor as provisions of a statute and that too taken out of their context. These observations must be read in the context in which they appear to have been stated. Judgments of courts are not to be construed as statutes. To interpret words, phrases and provisions of a statute, it may become necessary for judges to embark into lengthy discussions but the discussion is meant to explain and not to define. 28. The aforesaid principles of law came to be referred in the case of State of Orissa Vs. MD. Illiyas 2006 (1) SCC 275 and Mavilayi Service Cooperative Bank Ltd. & Others Vs. Commissioner of Income Tax, Calicut & another 2001 (7) SCC 90.

29. In view of the foregoing discussions the answer to the question referred to us is as follows.-

"Industrial Dispute under the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 can be raised by workmen of the Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd., whose service conditions are governed by Standing Orders covering the condition of employment of workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in Uttar Pradesh."

30. The legal corollary would be that the judgment in the cases of (i) Brij Bhushan Singh and another (supra), (ii) Cooperative Cane Development Union Limited (supra), (iii) Farrukhabad Dugdh Utpadak Sahkari Sangh Ltd. (supra), (iv) Sunder Lal (supra), (v) Secretary Sadhan Sahakari Samiti Ltd. (supra), (vi) Pradeshik Cooperative Diary Federation Ltd. & another (supra), (vii) Aliganj Kshetriya Sahakari Samiti Ltd. Bareilly (supra) and (viii) Firozabad Dugdh Utpadak Sahkari Sangh Ltd. (supra) holding that the Labour Court is bereft of jurisdiction to adjudicate the service disputes of the workmen in Vacuum Pan Sugar Factories in Uttar Pradesh governed by the Standing Orders covering the condition of employment of workmen is not a correct law.

31. Since we have answered the reference holding that the Labour Court has jurisdiction and competence to adjudicate the said disputes and this is the sole question involved in the writ petitions therefore, it would be a futile exercise to send the matters back to the learned Single Judge. Therefore, we ourselves have undertaken the task to decide the writ petitions.

32. Accordingly, the writ petitions are being decided in the following manner.-

(a) Category 'A' writ petitions (Writ-C Nos. 5577 of 2015, 5578 of 2015, 5580 of 2015, 5582 of 2015, 5583 of 2015, 5585 of 2015, 5586 of 2015, 5588 of 2015, 5590 of 2015, 5591 of 2015, 5593 of 2015, 5594 of 2015, 5597 of 2015, 5598 of 2015, 5599 of 2015) are dismissed.

(b) Category 'B' writ petition (Writ-C No. 2392 of 2009) is dismissed.

(c) Category 'C' writ petition (Writ-C No. 17065 of 2018) is allowed.

(d) The concerned Labour Court(s) shall proceed with the adjudication case(s) and proceed to pass award strictly in accordance with law with most expedition.

33. Before parting, we accord our appreciation to the able assistance rendered by the Amicus Curiae.

1. Heard Sri Jaideep Narain Mathur, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Amit Jaiswal, Sri S.K. Chaudhary, Sri Mudit Agarwal, Ms. Aishvarya Mathur and Sri Aditya Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners as well as Sri Rahul Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioners are unaided private Medical Colleges who are aggrieved by the inaction of the State Government as well of the Fee Regulatory Committee as constituted under the Uttar Pradesh Private Professional Educational Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006 *(hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 2006")*in enhancing the fee to be charged from the students for various medical courses run by the petitioner Institutions for the academic session 2024-25.

3. It has been submitted by Sri Jaideep Narain Mathur, Senior Advocate, appearing on behalf of the petitioner Institutions that with the object that the students should receive education of the highest grade in the field of medicine, the petitioner Medical Colleges have been established with the permission of the National Medical Commission. The Medical Colleges provide comprehensive facilities, faculties, and expert trained professionals for teaching, research and patient care. The petitioner Medical Colleges besides MBBS course offer various postgraduate and medical and allied courses in various clinical and non-clinical departments.

4. The admission to the petitioner Medical Colleges is done based on the National Eligibility Entrance Test (NEET) by the Director-General of Medical Education (DGME) through counseling.

5. The issue pertaining to the fee to be charged by the private medical colleges has been the subject of litigation for a very long time. The interest of the medical colleges who have created the infrastructure out of private funds and their desire to make certain profits resulting in higher fee directly militates with the interest of the students who have to be provided highest quality of education at affordable rates. The courts have consistently held that the private medical colleges cannot charge exorbitant capitation fee and the same have to be reasonably fixed. The balance was found in the case of P.A. Inamdar v. State of Maharashtra, (2005) 6 SCC 537, the relevant portion is quoted as under:-

"Capitation fees

140. Capitation fee cannot be permitted to be charged and no seat can be permitted to be appropriated by payment of capitation fee. "Profession" has to be distinguished from "business" or a mere "occupation". While in business, and to a certain extent in occupation, there is a profit motive, profession is primarily a service to society wherein earning is secondary or incidental. A student who gets a professional degree by payment of capitation fee, once qualified as a professional, is likely to aim more at earning rather than serving and that becomes a bane to society. The charging of capitation fee by unaided minority and non-minority institutions for professional courses is just not permissible. Similarly, profiteering is also not permissible. Despite the legal position, this Court cannot shut its eyes to the hard realities of commercialisation of education and evil practices being adopted by many institutions to earn large amounts for their private or selfish ends. If capitation fee and profiteering is to be checked, the method of admission has to be regulated so that the admissions are based on merit and transparency and the students are not exploited. It is permissible to regulate admission and fee structure for achieving the purpose just stated."

6. To regulate the fee charged by the private professional education institutions, the State of Uttar Pradesh has enacted The Uttar Pradesh Private Professional Educational Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006.

7. The Act of 2006 defines fee in Section 3 (d) as "all fees including tuition fee and development charges", while sub-clause (i) defines Private Professional Educational Institution as "a professional educational institution not established or maintained by the Central Government, the State Government or any public body", and sub-clause (o) defines Unaided Institution as "a private professional educational institution, not being an aided institution".

8. Chapter II of the Act of 2006 provides for the constitution of Fee Regulatory Committee while Section 4 provides for composition, qualification and functions of the Committee. The Committee shall be presided over by a person who is or who has been a Senior Administrative Officer of the State or Vice-Chancellor of a Central University or a State University or a Deemed to be University who shall be called the Chairman of the Committee and shall include two other Members having experience in matters of finance or administration.

9. Sub Section (8) of Section 4 of the Act, 2006 provides for determination of fee by the Committee which is as under: -

"(8) The Committee may require a private aided or unaided professional educational institution or, a deemed to be University or a private University to furnish, by a prescribed date, information as may be necessary for enabling the Committee to determine the fee as prescribed under section 10 of this Act that may be fixed by the institution in respect of each professional course, and the fee so determined shall be valid for such period as notified by the State Government."

10. The parameters to be considered by the Fee Regulatory Committee to determine the fees to be charged by the private aided or unaided professional education institution have been provided in Section 10 of the Act, 2006, which is as follows:-

"10.(1) The Committee shall determine, the fee to be charged by a private aided or unaided professional educational institution having regard to:- (i) the nature of the professional course, (ii) the available infrastructure, (iii) a reasonable surplus required for growth and development of the professional institution, (iv) the expenditure on administration and maintenance, (v) the expenditure on teaching and non teaching employees of the institution, (vi) any other relevant factor. (2) The Committee, shall give the institution an opportunity of being heard before fixing any fee:- Provided that no such fee, as may be fixed by the Committee, shall amount to profiteering or commercialization of education."

11. The Act of 2006 also provides for an appeal against the order of the Fee Regulatory Committee in the following terms:-

"11. The State Government shall appoint an Appellate Authority, headed by a person who has been a Judge of the High Court, before which a person or professional institution aggrieved by an order of the Committee may file an appeal, which a period of 30 days from the date of receipt of such an order."

12. To give effect to the provisions of the Act, 2006, the State has framed U.P. Private Professional Educational Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee Consideration Committee), Rules, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 2008"), by means of which composition of Committee has been fixed. According to Rule 3(1) of the Rules, 2008, Committee for admission and fee regulation has been constituted consisting of (a) Principal Secretary/Secretary to Government in the concerned Department as Chairman alongwith two other members who have experience in the matter of finance and administration.

13. Rule 5 of the Rules, 2008 further provides that any professional Institution being aggrieved by the order of the Fee Regulatory Committee can file an appeal before the appellate authority appointed under Section 11 of the Act, 2006, within a period of 30 days from the date of receipt of such an order.

14. Considering the facts of the present case it has been submitted that in exercise of power under the Act, 2006 read with Rules, 2008 the Fee Regulatory Committee had determined fee for the academic Session 2012-13 which was valid for three academic sessions and thereafter, fee determination was done in the year 2017 and was notified by means of Government Order dated 14.07.2017 for three academic sessions i.e. 2017-18, 2018-19 and 2019-20.

15. The Fee Regulatory Committee was again constituted by means of Government Order dated 13.10.2020 for fixing fee for academic session 2021-22 and according to the scheme provided for under the Act, 2006, proposals were invited alongwith relevant documents in prescribed format for fee determination vide letter dated 23.06.2021. After due consideration by the Fee Regulatory Committee the fee for MBBS, MD/MS was determined for the academic Session 2021-22 and the said fee structure was notified by Government Order dated 08.12.2021. It is relevant to note that as per aforesaid notification of the State Government dated 08.12.2021, the fee was notified only for academic session 2021-22.

16. In 2023, the Fee Regulatory Committee conducted its meetings on 26.09.2023, 27.06.2023 and 31.07.2023 and after considering the various documents and proposals, submitted by the Medical Colleges, it recommended to continue with the same fee structure, which was determined for academic session 2021-22, for academic session 2023-24.

17. For the academic session 2024-25, the Fee Regulatory Committee was constituted on 12.06.2024, but it seems that the Committee did not undertake the exercise as provided for under the Act, 2006 and neither did it make any recommendations to the State Government and in the aforesaid circumstances the State Government by means of impugned Government Order dated 11.07.2024, extended the fee structure as determined for academic session 2023-24 to the academic session 2024-25.

18. The petitioner Institutions have approached this Court by means of present writ petition challenging the notification dated 11.07.2024 and have further sought direction to the respondents to determine tuition fee and other fees on the basis of proposals and documents submitted by the Colleges for academic session 2024-25 in accordance with the Act of 2006. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioners that the respondents are bound to comply with the provisions of Act, 2006 and determine the fee structure after expiry of notification previously issued whereby the fee was determined by the Fee Regulatory Committee and notified by the State Government.

19. It was submitted that the Government Order dated 11.07.2024 is illegal and arbitrary inasmuch as it has been issued bereft of any recommendations by the Fee Regulatory Committee and in absence of any recommendation, the Government has no power or jurisdiction to issue any notification with regard to the fee structure and accordingly the impugned Government Order has been passed without any jurisdiction.

20. Lastly, it was submitted that there is no nexus between the last date for counseling and fixation of fee, as the respondents were under a mandate to determine the fee prior to commencement of counseling or start of academic session which they have failed to do and now they are seeking benefit of their own lapse. It was submitted that there is no provision either in the Act of 2006 or in the Rules of 2008 providing for determination of the fee prior to counseling. In response to the stand of the State Government and other respondents that there is not much time left before commencement of counseling, it has been submitted on behalf of the petitioner Institutions that they would be ready and willing to give an undertaking that the fee may be enhanced applying the rate of inflation on the fee determined for academic session 2021-22, which exercise can be concluded within a short time, and in any case before the commencement of counseling.

21. The respondents on the other hand have vehemently opposed the writ petition. A preliminary objection has been raised by them that the writ petition having been filed by an Association is not maintainable, in as much as the beneficiaries, if any would be the individual medical colleges and not the Association.

22. It has been submitted that the State Government by means of an order dated 11.07.2024, has decided to continue with the same fee structure as decided by Government Order dated 02.08.2023 for the academic session 2023-24. It was further stated that the said decision has been taken keeping in view the fact that counseling for the MDS course would commence much earlier than in the previous years and not much time is left before commencement of counseling, therefore the fee structure had to be notified so that the students are aware of the fee structure at the time of filing their choices of the Medical Colleges.

23. In the aforesaid circumstances it was submitted that the Government Order dated 11.07.2024 does not suffer from any illegality and the decision has been taken only in the interest of the students so that they do not suffer difficulty while filling up their choice of Institutions during PG Counseling and NEET UG Counseling.

24. It was further submitted that as per the provisions of Section 4(8) of the Act, 2006 it is prerogative of the State Government to extend the fee decided in any particular year to the next academic year, and therefore it was within the jurisdiction of the State Government to have passed the impugned Government Order.

25. It is further submitted by the respondents that the Fee Regulatory Committee was constituted by the Government order dated 12.06.2024 and is in the process to determine fee for five new Medical Colleges who will start the course in the academic session 2024-25. Since fee structure of five new Medical Colleges was not determined, they stand on completely different footing than the petitioner Institutions. It was further submitted that it not necessary that fee be determined every year nor there is any statutory provision providing for the same and accordingly, there is no illegality in continuing the same fee structure for subsequent years which was determined for the academic session 2021-22.

26. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

27. The question which falls for consideration before this court is whether the State Government can issue a notification in the exercise of its powers under section 4(8) of the Act of 2006 without there being any determination of fee by the Fee Regulatory Committee?

28. The issue pertaining to regulation of the fee chargeable from the students by the medical and other professional institutions has been subject matter of litigation before the Hon'ble Apex Court and in the case of P.A. Inamdar & Ors vs State Of Maharashtra & Ors, (2006)13 SCC 293 it was held that the Committee should be formed which would determine the fee to be charged by the professional institutes taking into account various aspects, in the following terms as stated in paragraph 68 of the said judgement:-

"B. FEES:

The Committee suggested by Islamic Academy and the procedure mentioned therein, appears to be the only safe method of ensuring that extortionate fees are not charged by the medical colleges. At the same time, it would be wrong to deny expenditure which the institution undertakes for ensuring excellence in education. Equally, a reasonable surplus should be permitted so that the fees charged cover the entire revenue expenditure and in addition leaves a reasonable surplus for future expansion. This alone would prevent the clandestine collection of capitation fees and would result in entrepreneurs investing in new medical colleges.

The Committee suggested by Islamic Academy appears to be the ideal one consisting of a chartered accountant, a representative of the MCI or AICTE as the case may be, with a retired judge of the High Court or the Supreme Court as the head.

The fee is to be fixed on the proposal of the institution supported by documents and the procedure of fee finalization should commence at least 6 months in advance of the commencement of the academic year."

29. The State of U.P with the object to provide for regulation of admission and fixation of fee in private professional education Institutions and the matters connected therewith enacted the Uttar Pradesh Private Professional Educational Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006 which provided for constitution of an admission and Fee Regulatory Committee. The procedure to be followed by the said Committee was provided for under section 4(8) according to which the Committee would require the private aided or unaided professional education Institution to furnish information regarding the nature of professional course, the availability of infrastructure, a reasonable surplus required for growth and development, expenditure on Administration and maintenance the expenditure on teaching and non-teaching employees of the institution etc. as provided in Section 10 of the Act of 2006.

30. Once the information is furnished by the institutions, the committee would proceed to determine the fee to be charged from the students, and such determination would be valid for such period as notified by the State Government.

31. With regard to the issue of maintainability it is noticed that the present writ petition has been filed by the U.P Unaided Medical and Allied Sciences College Welfare Association, Bareilly along with 17 Medical Colleges. The association has been made a petitioner as the individual medical colleges were in communication with the State Government under the umbrella of the Association. While even if the objections of the respondents are sustained, which are only with regard to the Association, it is noticed that 17 individual medical colleges have also joined as petitioners in the present writ petition, and these individual medical colleges have a common grievance against the respondents pertaining to the determination of fee for the academic session 2024-25 and hence there is no doubt that the petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would be maintainable at their behest, as undoubtedly they are the "aggrieved persons" seeking redressal against the purportedly illegal and arbitrary State action. According, the preliminary objection with regard to the maintainability of the writ petition is rejected.

32. The issue for consideration before this court is with regard to the fact as to whether the State Government can notify the fees in exercise of its powers under Section 4 (8) of the Act of 2006 without there being any determination by the Fee Regulatory Committee as has been done for the academic session 2024-25.

33. The answer to the aforesaid question can be found on prudent perusal of Section 4(8) and Section 10 of the Act of 2006, which confers the power and provides the procedure for determination of the fee. In sub-clause 8 of Section 4 the Fee Regulatory Committee after its constitution would require the institutions to furnish information as per Section 10 which may enable it to make determination of fee. The private aided or unaided professional education Institutions or private university etc. must furnish such information to the Committee as sought which is necessary for the Committee which has to "determine" the fee. Therefore, a bare perusal of the aforesaid provisions, clearly indicate that the responsibility of determination of fee has been given only to the Fee Regulatory Committee constituted under the said act. Once the fee has been determined, the State Government would have to notify the said fees and also the period for which such determination has been made.

34. The aforesaid interpretation is also fortified by reading of Section 10 of the Act of 2006 which clearly states that "committee shall determine the fee to be charged…", and therefore, only the Fee Regulatory Committee has been given the mandate to determine the fee. The State Government only has to notify such determination and also specify the period during which is that determination of fee shall remain valid. The recommendations of the Fee Regulatory Committee are binding of the State Government but are implementable on their being notified by the State Government.

35. This Court in the case of Indian Institute of Management and Engineering Society and Another vs State of UP and others, 2016 SCC Online All 3451 had an occasion to consider a similar controversy whereby the private technical Institutions had been directed to charge fee for the session 2016-17 as determined earlier by the Fee Regulatory Committee for session 2012-13. The State therein had also taken a similar plea stating that due to paucity of time the fee determined earlier would continue to be the fee for the session 2016-17 as no determination has been made by the Committee. The dispute which had engaged the attention of this Court was also to be resolved having regard to the provisions of the Act of 2006 and therefore the findings of the Court are germane for determination of the controversy in the instant case. This Court had allowed the writ petition in the following terms:-

"The learned counsel for the respondent would urge that in continuing the fee fixed earlier for 2016-17 is in keeping with the interest of the students. The argument on face value appears attractive, but tested in depth, appears shallow and lacks merit. The interest of the students is sub-served best by institutions of repute, imparting quality education of international standard. The students are prepared to pay more on placement in such institutions; if the argument that is sought to be advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent is accepted then a much lower fee would serve the student interest but unfortunately the State does not sponsor or assist financially in either setting up such private institutions or provide working capital. It is for these reasons the Apex Court held that fixation of fee should be left to the private institutions but should be monitored by a Committee so as to prohibit profiteering or from charging capitation fee; the role of the Committee is not that of a 'big brother' to force upon an institution fees determined three years earlier and compel the institution to run the courses at rates which makes it unworkable, therefore, seriously undermining quality instructions to the students. The cow cannot be milked for long without appropriately feeding it.

The cut of date fixed for admission would have no bearing, as admittedly the Committee failed to discharge its statutory duty cast upon it under the Act 2006 and Regulation 2015 framed thereunder. A writ would issue directing the Committee to discharge its legal duty. The conduct of the Committee has not only been casual as reflected from the record but also arbitrary which is deprecated. It is not open for the Committee to say that it would not discharge its statutory duty due to paucity of time.

In the facts of the present case, out of 24 institutions only 5 institutions had submitted their proposal and only three institutions have approached this Court for enhancement of their fee for session 2016-17. The other institutions which have not approached are either not having students in requisite number or infrastructure to cater the students, therefore, may have preferred to continue on the fee determined in 2013. The petitioner-Institution being a premium private institute has sought revision, therefore, it was incumbent upon the Committee to have addressed the issue of fee review.

In these circumstances, the impugned order dated 22 June 2016 passed by the third respondent-Special Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow cannot be sustained, accordingly, quashed.

The writ petition is allowed with the following directions:

(i) Committee shall fix the fee for session 2016-17 in respect of the Institutions before the Court, after hearing their representative;

(ii) Institutions undertake to submit their proposal before the Committee within one week from date i.e. by 29 August 2016;

(iii) Committee shall determine the fee for 2016-17 within four weeks thereafter i.e. by 26 September 2016;

(iv) The fee charged by the Institution for 2016-17 would be provisional fee subject to the final fee determined by the Committee;

(v) Upon enhancement, the arrears would be payable by the students in installment (half yearly/quarterly) depending upon the hike recommended by the Committee. Installment to be determined by the Committee.

(vi) Committee in future to discharge its statutory function in determination of fee well in advance."

36. We have perused a few of the previous Government Orders notifying the fee and found that, even the State Government has notified the fee after recommendations have been made by the Fee Regulatory Committee. They had followed this very procedure for the academic session 2011-12, which was preceded by recommendation of the Fee Regulatory Committee. By means of Government Order any 02/06/2016 decision was taken by the Fee Regulatory Committee to extend the fees previously fixed. For academic session 2021–22 the Constitution of the committee was notified on 08/12/2021. On 02/08/2023 the Government order was issued conveying the recommendations of the Fee Regulatory Committee extending the fee for academic session 2023-24. Therefore, the State has all along been issuing notifications conveying the recommendations of the Fee Regulatory Committee. It is for the academic session 2024-25 that the impugned notification has been issued by the State Government in absence of any recommendations having been made by the Fee Regulatory Committee. In paragraph 24 of the counter affidavit, it has been stated that the State Government by means of its order dated 11/07/2023 has decided to continue with the same fee structure as decided by GO dated 02/08/2023, therefore there is no doubt with regard to the fact that for the academic session 2024-25 the determination has been made by the State Government itself to continue with the fee structure decided previously. This decision in the considered opinion of this Court is illegal, arbitrary and contrary to provisions contained in the Act of 2006, where it has been provided that the power to determine the fee of the educational institutions vests only with the Fee Regulatory Committee and the role of the State Government is limited only to notifying such determination/decision as made by the Committee.

37. For the academic session 2024-25 the Fee Regulatory Committee has been constituted on 12/06/2024, and as per the statutory duty cast on it by the Act of 2006, it was under a duty to proceed to determination the fees following the procedure prescribed in the Act of 2006 read with rules of 2008. The counter affidavit has also been filed on behalf of Fee Regulatory Committee, but there is no mention about the stage of exercise which has been conducted by them towards determining the fee, while on the other hand it has been contended that the schedule for counseling of MBBS is to start shortly and therefore there is no time left to determine the fee and the State Government has decided to continue with the same fee structure as decided for previous years. It seems that the Fee

Regulatory Committee has failed to undertake the exercise after being duly constituted and has not made any recommendations determining the fee which is certainly a very serious lapse on its part resulting in deprivation of the enhanced fee which the petitioner institutions would have been legally and validly entitled to.

38. Once the Fee Regulatory Committee has been constituted, it has to proceed to determine the fee in accordance with law, and its mandate ends only when such determination has been made, or the State Government terminates its constitution. In the present case after being duly constituted by means of Government Order dated 12/06/2024, the committee has not forwarded its recommendations to the State Government for notification, nor is there any notification ending its mandate and therefore its mandate continues as neither of these contingencies have occurred.

39. The delay in the Constitution of the Fee Fixation Committee has been attributed to the General Elections in the country. It could not be demonstrated on behalf of the respondents that fixation of fee for educational institutions has any bearing on the elections, or there was any order of the Election Commission restraining the constitution of the said Committee, or further even if there was any confusion in this regard whether any permission was sought from the Election Commission. No plausible explanation in this regard is forthcoming from the respondents. Accordingly, there is no plausible reason for the delay in the constitution of the Committee which is deprecated in strongest terms.

40. Another issue that has been raised and contested by both the parties is with regard to the period during which the recommendations of the Fee Regulatory Committee would hold field, and whether such an exercise would have to be conducted annually.

41. Learned Additional Chief Standing counsel on behalf of the respondents has vehemently urged that this aspect of the matter has been concluded by the Supreme Court in the case of Islamic Academy of Education v. State of Karnataka, (2003) 6 SCC 697 where it was held:-

"161. Fees once fixed should not ordinarily be changed for a period of three years, unless there exists an extraordinary reason. The proposed fees, before indication in the prospectus issued for admission, have to be approved by the concerned authority/body set up. For this purpose the application should not be filed later than April of the preceding year of the relevant education session. The authority/body shall take the decision as regards fees chargeable latest by October of the year concerned, so that it can form part of the prospectus. No institution should charge any fee beyond the amount fixed and the fee charged shall be deposited in a nationalized bank. In other words, no employee or any other person employed by the management shall be entitled to take fees in cash from the students concerned directly. The statutory authority may consider the desirability of framing an appropriate regulation inter alia to the effect that in the event it is found that the management of a private unaided professional institution has accepted any amount other than the fees prescribed by the Committee, it may have to pay a penalty ten to fifteen times of the amount so collected and in a suitable case it may also lose its recognition or affiliation."

42. In this regard it is noticed that the directions of the Supreme Court in the case of Islamic Academy of Education v. State of Karnataka, (supra) with regard to the fee Committee hold field only till appropriate statutory regulations are made by the State Governments. This was clearly stated in paragraph 159 which is as follows: -

"159. With a view to ensure that an educational institution is kept within its bounds and does not indulge in profiteering or otherwise exploiting its students financially, it will be open to the statutory authorities and in their absence by the State to constitute an appropriate body, till appropriate statutory regulations are made in that behalf."

43. Considering the above, this Court is of the view that once the State of Uttar Pradesh has enacted the Act of 2006, then the provisions contained therein shall prevail. As already discussed above in detail regarding the provisions contained in Section 4(8) of the Act of 2006, the Fee Regulatory Committee has to call for relevant data and material from the educational institutions and determine the fee. The determination has to be notified by the State Government which has also to provide for "fee so determined to be valid for such period…..". Therefore, the validity of the determination made by the Fee Regulatory Committee shall hold field for the duration for which notification has been issued by the State Government. At this stage we would also like to make it clear that even the period of the validity of the fee fixed by the Fee Regulatory Committee must be made by the Committee and is not at the discretion of the Government. The Fee Regulatory Committee at the time of determining the fee can take into account such conditions and apply the principles for fixing the fee, which can extend its validity beyond an academic session or for 2 or more years. Accordingly, this Court is of the considered view that even the extension of the period for which the fee is determined is part of the process of "determination" of fee as per Section 4(8) read with Section 10 of the Act of 2006, which has to be done by the Fee Regulatory Committee. The State Government therefore is tasked only to notify the recommendations of the Committee with regard to the fee as well as the period of its validity.

44. Section 11 of the Act of 2006 provides for constitution of an appellate authority which is headed by a person who has been a Judge of the High Court, before whom a person or professional Institution aggrieved by the order of the committee may file an appeal within 30 days from the date of receipt of the order. Section 11 also makes it clear that only the order of the Committee, is appealable, which means that the quantum of fee fixed by the Committee as well as the validity of the period determination made by the Committee can be subjected to appeal before the appellate authority. There may be a situation where there may not be a dispute about the quantum of fee fixed, but with regard to the period of its validity as the Committee may fix a greater time frame like 3, 5 or 7 years for the validity of the fee against which an appeal can be preferred.

45. In the instant case the impugned order extending the period of the validity of the fee passed by the State Government cannot be subjected to appeal as only the decision of the Fee Regulatory Committee can be subjected to an appeal. It could not have been the intention of the legislature to have constituted an appellate authority only for hearing appeals against the quantum of determination of fee by the Committee and not against the period of its validity. This leads us to the irresistible conclusion that even the period of validity of the fees has to be recommended by the Committee as it amounts to determination of fee, and this part of the determination can also be appeal against before the appellate authority. Apart from the above, the other reason for coming to the said conclusion is that the Committee while determining the fee will have to consider such other relevant factors so that determination holds good for the duration of its validity, failing which the determination itself would be liable to rendered arbitrary.

46. The precipice of the aforesaid consideration would be that once the Fee Regulatory Committee has been notified it would proceed to embark on its mandate and call for the relevant material as provided in section 10 of the Act of 2006, and proceed to determine the fee for each institution, as the data for each institution would be different. The recommendations of the Committee would have to be notified by the State Government, and as per Section 4(8) and such notification would also indicate the period for which the determination of fee by the Committee would remain valid.

47. Once the period of validity of fee as notified by the State Government expires, the natural consequence would be the reconstitution of the Fee Regulatory Committee, which would conduct the exercise of determination of fee afresh, which would thereafter be notified by the Government prescribing the period for its validity and it would be a cyclic procedure. Therefore, the answer to the question as to whether determination of fee would be an annual exercise, is accordingly answered that the fresh determination of a would have to be made after the expiry of the validity of the previous fee fixed by the Committee. This procedure has been followed by the State Government itself and is evidenced by the previous exercise conducted for determination of fee for the session 2023-24 which was done on the recommendations of the Fee Regulatory Committee which had conducted its meeting on 26/06/2023, 27/06/2023 and 31/07/2023 and after giving due opportunity of hearing to the institutions and had made recommendations to continue with the same fee structure as determined for the session 2021-22. Even previously, in 2017 on the recommendations of the Fee Regulatory Committee, the State Government by means of Government order dated 14/07/2017, notified fee which was valid for 3 academic sessions that is 2017-18, 2018-19 and 2019-20. The said fee continued for the 3 academic sessions and the next determination was made only after the expiry of the period of its validity i.e for academic session 2020-21.

48. It is only for the session 2024-25 the State Government has notified the fee structure on its own, without reference to the recommendations of the Fee Regulatory Committee which in the considered opinion of this court is illegal and arbitrary and wholly without jurisdiction. Once the Fee Regulatory Committee has been constituted, it is deemed to have commenced its function to determine the fee, and the educational institutions as well as the State Government have no option except to wait for the recommendations of the committee, and neither the educational instructions can charge any enhanced fees, nor can the State Government notify the fee structure on its own without waiting for the recommendations of the fee committee.

49. Finally, the issue raised by the respondents deserve to be examined, that the counseling is to commence from 20/08/2024, and there is no time left to conduct the exercise for determination of fee as per the provisions contained in the Act of 2006 and therefore the State had issued the Government order for continuing the fee structure determined previously. In the peculiar facts, it was prayed that they may be allowed to continue with the fee structure as notified by the impugned order.

50. As per the facts narrated above, there is no dispute that firstly, the State Government was fully aware that the last fee determined by the Committee for professional educational institutions was notified for the academic session 2023-24 and therefore a fresh determination had to be made for the academic session 2024-25. Being in full knowledge of the aforesaid facts they chose to belatedly notify the constitution of the Fee Regulatory Committee only on 12/06/2024 knowing fully well that the counseling for various courses of medical education is to commence from July/August 2024. As per the averments made in the counter affidavit, 2-3 month's time is required for calling for the records, hearing and determining of fee. Merely because the State has slept over the matter despite fully knowing that the statutory provisions contained in the Act of 2006 must be implemented for the academic session 2024-25, cannot be a ground for not determining the fee for the said academic session. The State as well as the Committee were under a duty to determine the fee which it has clearly failed to perform, and it is for this very reason that the Constitutional Courts are required to interfere and see that the obligations placed upon the State by the legislature are complied with in letter and spirit. Similar argument of the State was also considered in paragraph 21 by the coordinate bench of this Court in the case of Indian Institute of Management and engineering Society(Supra) in following terms:-

"21. It is averred in the counter affidavit that the fee for the session 2016-17 could not have been determined by the Committee due to paucity of time. The fee, therefore, determined earlier (2013) would be the fee for session 2016-17. The delay has not been attributed to the institutions. Admittedly, five institutions responded, as against 24 Institutions, for fixing Standard Fee, however, the Committee was unable to determine the fee even in respect of the five institutions. Petitioner-Institution being aggrieved by non determination of fee has pleaded that it would not be possible, even considering the inflation, to run the Institution, maintain quality and pay higher salary to the teachers upon implementation of the 7th Pay Commission Report, therefore, the Institution would have to run at expenses less than their revenue, thus, eroding its surplus."

51. The aforesaid argument was considered and rejected in paragraph 31 in the following terms:-

"31. The cut of date fixed for admission would have no bearing, as admittedly the Committee failed to discharge its statutory duty cast upon it under the Act 2006 and Regulation 2015 framed thereunder. A writ would issue directing the Committee to discharge its legal duty. The conduct of the Committee has not only been casual as reflected from the record but also arbitrary which is deprecated. It is not open for the Committee to say that it would not discharge its statutory duty due to paucity of time."

52. This Court, not in very uncertain terms had clearly stated that the conduct of the Committee has not only been casual as reflected on record but also arbitrary, which is deprecated. Despite inviting such observations and comments from this court the State Government and the Fee Regulatory Committee have raised the same plea for being unable to determine the fee for the academic session 2024-25. It is also important to point out that this Court has been informed that the above judgment of this court has become final as no appeal was filed before the Supreme Court. Accordingly, there is no reason for this Court to take any other view of the matter than what has already been taken in the above case. The failure of the Fee Regulatory Committee to determine the fee in absence of any reasonable cause for not doing so, is writ large on the face of the record, and equally culpable is the State Government for not have learnt anything from the previous judgments despite harsh words like the "deprecated" having been used for them with regard to their conduct in similar circumstances.

53. Apart from the above, this Court is of the considered view that the petitioners have a legitimate expectation from the State Government as well as from the Fee Regulatory Committee to perform their duty as per the Act of 2006. It is not merely a hope or an expectation or an anticipation, but a legal duty cast upon them to have determined the fee for the academic session 2024-25, which statutory duty they have miserably failed to perform , and no explanation whatsoever is forth coming for the delay caused in determining the fee. It has recently been held by the Apex court in the case of Army Welfare Education Society New Delhi versus Sunil Kumar Sharma and others, 2024 SCC online 1683 as follows :-

"48. A reading of the aforesaid decisions brings forth the following features regarding the doctrine of legitimate expectation:

a. First, legitimate expectation must be based on a right as opposed to a mere hope, wish or anticipation;

b. Secondly, legitimate expectation must arise either from an express or implied promise; or a consistent past practice or custom followed by an authority in its dealings;

c. Thirdly, expectation which is based on sporadic or casual or random acts, or which is unreasonable, illogical or invalid cannot be treated as a legitimate expectation;

d. Fourthly, legitimate expectation operates in relation to both substantive and procedural matters;

e. Fifthly, legitimate expectation operates in the realm of public law, that is, a plea of legitimate action can be taken only when a public authority breaches a promise or deviates from a consistent past practice, without any reasonable basis.

f. Sixthly, a plea of legitimate expectation based on past practice can only be taken by someone who has dealings, or negotiations with a public authority. It cannot be invoked by a total stranger to the authority merely on the ground that the authority has a duty to act fairly generally.

49. The aforesaid features, although not exhaustive in nature, are sufficient to help us in deciding the applicability of the doctrine of legitimate expectation to the facts of the case at hand. It is clear that legitimate expectation, jurisprudentially, was a device created in order to maintain a check on arbitrariness in state action. It does not extend to and cannot govern the operation of contracts between private parties, wherein the doctrine of promissory estoppel holds the field."

54. In the present case the petitioners are seeking a direction to the State Government to comply with the provisions of the act of 2006, since despite Constitution of the Fee Regulatory Committee, and submission of all the documents, it has failed to make any recommendations determining the fee for the academic session 2024-25. The duty has been cast on the Committee by the Act of 2006, and consequently at the end of the validity of the previous notification the Committee has to make a fresh determination which it has failed to do, and consequently the petitioners have a legitimate expectation that the Committee will determine the fee as it is statutory required to do. The State Government on its part could not have issued the notification without such recommendation and therefore there is a complete failure of the machinery for determination of fees for the professional medical colleges requiring interference of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

55. In light of the above this Court is of the considered opinion that the State Government does not have jurisdiction to pass the impugned Government order dated 11/07/2024 without there being any recommendations of the fee regulatory committee and accordingly the same is quashed.

56. Writ petition is allowed with the following directions: -

a. The Fee Regulatory Committee shall proceed fix the fee for academic session 2024-25 in respect of the Institutions before this Court, in accordance with law.

b. The petitioner Institutions are required to submit all the documents and the proposal, if not already done, within one week from today i.e by 24.8.2024.

c. The Committee shall determine the fee for the academic session 2024-25 within 4 weeks thereafter i.e by 21.09.2024, it shall be open for the Committee to consider the request of the petitioner Institutions for enhancement of the fee in proportion to the rate of inflation on the fee determined for academic session 2021-22 as provided for in the order of this Court dated 14/08/2024.

d. At the time of counselling the students will be informed about the fees determined for academic session 2023-24, which would be the provisional fee subject to the final fee determined by the Committee.

e. Upon enhancement, the arrears would be payable by the students in instalments (half yearly/quarterly) depending upon the hike recommended by the Committee, which shall also determine the number of instalments to be paid by the students.

f. This Court while interpreting the provisions of the Act of 2006 in the case of Indian Institute of Management and Engineering Society and Another, 2016 SCC Online All 3451 had clearly stated that the Committee in future has to discharge its statutory function in determination of fee well in advance, and the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Islamic Academy (supra) had stated that the fee shall be determine 6 months in advance and despite the said directions the Committee has not determined the fee for the academic session 2024-25, despite the fact that the counselling is about to commence, which clearly amounts to defiance of the orders of this Court and hence they are liable to be proceeded for contempt, but after due consideration this Court is of the view that the end of justice in the present case would be met by directing the Chief Secretary, Government of U.P. to conduct an enquiry against the persons responsible for delay in constitution of the Fee Fixation Committee and also with regard to the failure of the Committee to make determination of fee as mandated by the Act of 2006. Let the enquiry be concluded within a period of 2 months, and a copy shall be forwarded to this Court through its Senior Registrar. We again caution the State Government as well as the Fee Fixation Committee to proceed to determine the fee well in advance for the next session failing which they shall be liable to be proceeded in contempt.

57. No order as to costs.

Writ disposed of. (E-1)

List of Cases cited:

1. Jhinka Devi Vs St. of U.P. & ors.; 2022 (7) ADJ 31

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shreeprakash Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri J. N. Maurya, learned Chief Standing Counsel appearing alongwith Sri Abhishek Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, for the State-respondents and Sri Arvind Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent No.5.

2. The present petition has been filed primarily seeking to assail the order dated 13.07.2023, passed by the respondent No. 3, the Naib Tehsildar, Panwadia, Tehsil Sadar, Rampur, in Case No. 35 of 2023, in proceedings under Section 34 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 20061, and the subsequent order dated 04.12.2023, passed by the respondent No. 2, the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Sadar, Rampur, in Case No. 3689 of 2023, an appeal under Section 35(2) of the Code, whereby the earlier order has been affirmed.

3. Counsel appearing for the State respondents and also the counsel appearing for the respondent No. 5, have raised an objection with regard to the entertainability of the writ petition by pointing out that the order passed in appeal, under Section 35(2) of the Code, would be subject to the statutory remedy of a revision under Section 210 of the Code.

4. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has sought to refute the aforesaid objection by seeking to urge that the remedy of a revision under Section 210 is available only in a situation where no appeal lies, and in the instant case since the petitioner is seeking to assail an order passed in an appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35, the remedy of revision would not be available.

5. The question which therefore arises for consideration in the present case is as to whether an order passed in an appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35 of the Code, would be subject to the remedy of a revision under Section 210 of the Code.

6. In order to appreciate the rival contentions, the relevant statutory provisions under the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, would be required to be adverted to.

7. The provisions with regard to mutation, as contained under Sections 33, 34 and 35 of the Code, are being extracted below:

"33. Mutation in cases of succession.—(1) Every person obtaining possession of any land by succession shall submit report of such succession to the Revenue Inspector of the circle in which the land is situate in such form as may be prescribed.

(2) On receipt of a report under sub-section (1) or on facts otherwise coming to his knowledge, the Revenue Inspector shall —

(a) if the case is not disputed, record such succession in the record of rights (Khatauni);

(b) in any other case, make such inquiry as may appear to him to be necessary and submit his report to the Tehsildar.

(3) Any person whose name has not been recorded by Revenue Inspector or who is aggrieved by the order passed by the Revenue Inspector under clause (a) or (b) of sub-section (2) may move an application before Tehsildar.

(4) The provisions of this section shall mutatis mutandis apply to every person admitted as a Bhumidhar with non-transferable rights or as an asami by the Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti in accordance with the provisions of this Code or any enactment repealed by it.

34. Duty to report in cases of transfer.—(1) Every person obtaining possession of any land by transfer, other than transfer referred to in sub-section (3) of Section 33 shall report such transfer, in the manner prescribed, to the Tehsildar of the Tahsil in which the land is situate.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, the word transfer includes a family settlement.

(2) State Government may fix a scale of fees for getting entry recorded in the record of rights on the basis of transfer. A fee in respect of any such entry shall be payable by the person in whose favour the entry is to be made.

35. Mutation in cases of succession or transfer.—(1) On the receipt of a report under Section 33 or Section 34, or upon facts otherwise coming to his knowledge, the Tahsildar shall issue a proclamation and make such inquiry as appears to be necessary and —

(a) if the case is not disputed, he shall direct the record of rights (Khatauni) to be amended accordingly;

(b) []

(c) if the case is disputed, he shall decide the dispute and direct, if necessary, the record of rights (khatauni) to be amended accordingly.

(2) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Tahsildar under sub-section (1) may prefer an appeal to the Sub-Divisional Officer within a period of thirty days from the date of such order."

8. The power to call for the records, conferred on the Board of Revenue2 or the Commissioner, in respect of any suit or proceedings decided by any subordinate revenue court, is provided for under Section 210 of the Code. Section 210 of the Code, as it originally stood, is as follows :-

"210 Power to call for the records.—The Board or the Commissioner may call for the record of any suit or proceeding decided by any sub-ordinate revenue court in which no appeal lies, or where an appeal lies but has not been preferred, for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit or proceeding; and if such subordinate court appears to have —

(a) exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or

(b) failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested; or

(c) acted in the exercise of such jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity;

the Board, or the Commissioner, as the case may be, may pass such order in the case as it or he thinks fit.

(2) If an application under this section has been moved by any person either to the Board or to the Commissioner, no further application by the same person shall be entertained by the other of them.

(3) No application under this section shall be entertained after the expiry of a period of thirty days from the date of the order sought to be revised or from the date of commencement of this Code, whichever is later."

9. The Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 was amended in terms of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code (Amendment) Act, 2016 [U.P. Act No. 4 of 2016]. The amendment made to Section 210 in the amending Act of 2016, was as follows :-

"162. Amendment of Section 210.— In Section 210 of the said Code—

(a) for the figures and words "210. The Board" the figures, brackets and words "210. (1) The Board" shall be substituted.

(b) in sub-section (1), the words and punctuation mark "or where an appeal lies but has not been preferred," shall be omitted;

(c) after sub-section (2) and before sub-section (3), the following explanation shall be inserted, namely —

Explanation.─ For the removal of doubt it is, hereby, declared that when an application under this section has been moved either to the Board or to the Commissioner, the application shall not be permitted to be withdrawn for the purpose of filing the application against the same order to the other of them.

(d) in sub-section (3), for the words "thirty days" the words "sixty days" shall be substituted."

10. The U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 was subject to further amendments made in terms of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code (Amendment) Act, 2019 [U.P. Act No. 7 of 2019], which was deemed to come into force on March 10, 2019.

11. There was some inconsistency in the Hindi version of the language of Section 210 inasmuch as the words used in sub-Section (1) where "कोई अपील नहीं हुई" as against the language in the English version which was "in which no appeal lies". The aforesaid inconsistency was removed by making suitable amendment in the Hindi version of Section 210 of the principal Act by providing as follows :-

"19. In Section 210 of the principal Act, in the Hindi version, in sub-section (1) for the words "कोई अपील नहीं हुई" the words "कोई अपील नहीं हो सकती" shall be substituted."

12. Section 210, consequent to the amendment made as per the terms of the U.P. Act No. VII of 2019, stands as under:

"210 Power to call for the records.-(1) The Board or the Commissioner may call for the record of any suit or proceeding decided by any sub-ordinate Revenue Court in which no appeal lies, for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit or proceeding, and if such subordinate Court appears to have —

(a) exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or

(b) failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested; or

(c) acted in the exercise of such jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity;

the Board, or the Commissioner, as the case may be, may pass such order in the case as it or he thinks fit.

(2) If an application under this section has been moved by any person either to the Board or to the Commissioner, no further application by the same person shall be entertained by the other of them.

Explanation.- For the removal of doubt it is, hereby, declared that when an application under this section has been moved either to the Board or to the Commissioner, the application shall not be permitted to be withdrawn for the purpose of filing the application against the same order to the other of them.

(3) No application under this section shall be entertained after the expiry of a period of sixty days from the date of the order sought to be revised or from the date of commencement of this Code, whichever is later."

13. The principal submission raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner, in regard to the question involved, is that the remedy of revision under Section 210 of the Code is available only in a case in which no appeal lies, and therefore since sub-section (2) of Section 35 provides for an appeal against an order of mutation passed under sub-section (1) thereof, there would be no further remedy of a revision available thereagainst under Section 210 of the Code. It is thus sought to be urged that the order passed in an appeal under Section 35(2), would be final with no statutory remedy being available against the said order.

14. Controverting the aforesaid submission, the learned Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents has submitted that the restriction contained under Section 210 providing for the remedy of a revision only in a case 'in which no appeal lies', would not be attracted since the question under consideration is in regard to the availability of the remedy of a revision against the order passed in appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35, against which no further appeal lies. To support this argument, reliance has been placed upon a recent decision of this Court, in the case of Jhinka Devi Vs. State of U.P. And 4 Others3

15. Attention of the Court has been drawn to the Third Schedule of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, to point out that in respect of proceedings relating to mutation cases under Section 35, the order of the Tehsildar exercising original jurisdiction is subject to an appeal before the Sub Divisional Officer, and there is no provision with regard to a further second appeal. It is therefore contended that since no further appeal lies against the appellate order of the Sub Divisional Officer under sub-section (2) of Section 35, the remedy of a statutory revision under Section 210, would not be barred.

16. Counsel appearing for the respondent No. 5 has also made his submissions on similar lines.

17. Rival contentions now fall for consideration.

18. Section 210, as it stands after the amendment brought about by the U.P. Act No. 4 of 2016, empowers the Board or the Commissioner to call for the record of any suit or proceedings decided by any subordinate revenue court 'in which no appeal lies' for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit or proceedings.

19. The Board or the Commissioner, may pass such order in the case as it thinks fit, if the subordinate court appears to have —

(a) exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or

(b) failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested; or

(c) acted in the exercise of such jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity.

20. It would therefore be seen that under Section 210, the Board or the Commissioner, may exercise the power to call for the record of any suit or proceedings decided by any subordinate revenue court, under the following conditions :-

(i) where no appeal lies; and

(ii) the subordinate court appears to have ─

(a) exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or

(b) failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested; or

(c) acted in the exercise of such jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity.

The Board or the Commissioner, as the case may be, may thereafter pass such order in the case as it or he thinks fit.

21. A plain reading of the aforesaid provisions may lead to a possible argument that the remedy of a revision under Section 210 being available only in a case where no appeal lies, the order passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, under sub-section (2) of Section 35, would not be revisable under Section 210 of the Code.

22. The aforesaid together with the argument regarding the order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer under sub-section (2) of Section 35, having a finality attached to it as regards mutation proceedings, would be required to be examined in the context of the provisions under Section 210 and the overall scheme of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.

23. Under the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, the expression 'Revenue Court', has been defined under Section 4(16), as meaning all or any of the following authorities, that is to say, the Board and all members thereof, Commissioners, Additional Commissioners, Collectors, Additional Collectors, Assistant Collectors, Settlement Officers, Assistant Settlement Officers, Record Officers, Assistant Record Officers, Tahsildar and Naib-Tahsildar.

24. The term "Revenue Officer" has been defined under Section 4 (17) of the Code to mean the Commissioner, an Additional Commissioner, the Collector, an Additional Collector, the Sub-Divisional Officer and Assistant Collector, Settlement Officer, an Assistant Settlement Officer, Record Officer, an Assistant Record Officer, the Tahsildar, Tahsildar (Judicial), the Naib-Tahsildar or the Revenue Inspector.

25. A conjoint reading of the definitions of the aforesaid terms "Revenue Court" and "Revenue Officer" would indicate that some persons who act as Revenue Courts also act as Revenue Officers ─ where a Revenue Officer deals with judicial matters in revenue, he acts as a Revenue Court, which is under the control and supervision of the Board of Revenue; on the other hand, where a Revenue Officer deals with non-judicial matters in revenue, he acts under the control and supervision of the State Government. The functions of the Revenue Officer regarding the land revenue administration may be classified as judicial and non-judicial depending on the nature of the functions being discharged.

26. Section 234 (1) (v) of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 (now repealed) empowered the State Government to define the matters or proceedings which were deemed to be judicial or non-judicial. In terms of the aforestated provision, para 911 of the Revenue Manual, provided for certain matters to be deemed to be judicial. This included cases relating to mutation in matters relating to succession or transfer under Sections 35 and 40 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901.

27. The Board of Revenue constituted under Section 7 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, as per Section 8 thereof, is to be the chief controlling authority in all matters relating to disposal of cases, appeals or revisions. The revisional jurisdiction is provided under Section 210 of the Code, and in terms thereof the Board or the Commissioner, as the case may be, would be empowered to exercise revisional jurisdiction by calling for the record of any suit or proceedings decided by any subordinate court, in which no appeal lies, for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit or proceedings, provided the conditions laid down under clause (a) or clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) of the section are satisfied. The language of the section is one of wide amplitude and embraces within its fold all cases decided by courts subordinate to the court.

28. Section 210 whereunder the Board or the Commissioner is empowered to call for the records of any suit or proceedings "decided" by any "subordinate revenue court", indicates the legislative intent that a revision would lie against judicial adjudications of suits and proceedings; administrative proceedings conducted by those very authorities being not within the purview of Section 210.

29. The Tehsildar exercising powers under Section 35, in cases of mutation, on the basis of succession or transfer, if the case is disputed, is empowered to 'decide the dispute' as per terms of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of Section 35, and the order passed by the Tehsildar, under sub-section (1) of Section 35, is subject to an appeal under sub-section (2), before the Sub Divisional Officer. The provisions contained under sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) of Section 35, leave no room for doubt that Tehsildar and also the Sub Divisional Officer exercising powers thereunder discharge judicial functions.

30. The Tehsildar while deciding a dispute regarding mutation in cases of succession or transfer, in exercise of powers under sub-section (1) of Section 35 of the Code, acts as a 'Revenue Court' within the meaning of Section 4(16) of the Code. The Sub Divisional Officer while deciding an appeal under sub-section (5), against an order passed by the Tehsildar under sub-section (1) also acts as a 'Revenue Court' and as such would be a Court subordinate to the Commissioner and subject to its revisional jurisdiction.

31. The revisional jurisdiction under Section 210, in order to subserve its purpose, would have to be seen not as a mere power but also a duty, which cannot be effectively discharged unless the Board or the Commissioner see to it that the subordinate revenue courts exercise their jurisdiction in accordance with law. The mere fact that there is no further appeal against the order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer in an appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35 cannot warrant an inference that the legislature intended in any way to limit or control the revisional jurisdiction conferred on the Commissioner, under Section 210 of the Code.

32. Section 210 is essentially a source of power for the Board of Revenue or the Commissioner to supervise the subordinate revenue courts. The jurisdiction conferred under Section 210 to revise the orders passed by the subordinate revenue courts would not be dependant on a motion being made by a party to the case inasmuch as the section confers power to exercise revisional jurisdiction independent of any such motion having been made. The revisional jurisdiction under section 210 is designed to confer a wide power on the Board or the Commissioner to call for records and supervise the correctness of the proceedings subject to certain conditions.

33. The order of the Sub Divisional Officer passed in exercise of powers under sub-section (2) of Section 35 is an order in appeal against the order of the Tehsildar passed under sub-section (1) of Section 35, and this order is not subject to any second appeal under the Code. This is further clear from a reading of the Third Schedule of the Code wherein in respect of the provisions contained under Section 35 relating to mutation cases the court of original jurisdiction has been specified in column 3 as the court of Tehsildar and the court of first appeal is mentioned in column 4 as the court of Sub Divisional Officer; further column 5 pertaining to the second appeal is left blank. This goes to show that against the order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer in appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35, against the order of the Tehsildar acting as a court of original jurisdiction under sub-section (2) of Section 35, there is no provision of a second appeal.

34. There being no provision under the Code for a second appeal against the order of the Sub Divisional Officer passed under sub-section (2) of Section 35, it can be said that against the order of the Sub Divisional Officer in appeal, no further appeal lies, and therefore the necessary condition for invocation of the powers of the Commissioner under Section 210 for calling the records and exercising revisional powers against the order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer in appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35, stands fulfilled.

35. Taking a similar view, this Court in the case of Jhinka Devi Vs. State of U.P. And 4 Others4, had held that an order passed in an appeal under Section 24(4) of the Revenue Code would be revisable under Section 210, and the finality attached to the said order would only be to the extent that there is no further appeal thereagainst.

36. A rule of construction, spoken of as, ex visceribus actus, helps in avoiding any inconsistency either within a section or between two different sections or provisions of the same statute. It essentially means that every part of a statute must be construed within its four corners and no provision should be interpreted in isolation.

37. Craies on Statute Law5 has explained the rule of ex visceribus actus by stating as follows :-

"...there is a general rule of construction applicable to all statutes alike, which is spoken of as construction ex visceribus actus— within the four corners of the Act. "The office of a good expositor of an Act of Parliament," said Coke in the Lincoln College Case6, "is to make construction on all parts together, and not of one part only by itself—Nemo enim aliquam partem recte intelligere potest antequam totum iterum atque iterum perlegerit." And again he says : It is the most natural and genuine exposition of a statute to construe one part of a statute by another part of the same statute, for that best expresseth the meaning of the makers.... and this exposition is ex visceribus actus."

38. It would therefore follow as a necessary consequence that the order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer in appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35, against which there is no further appeal, would be subject to the revisional powers of the Commissioner to be exercised under Section 210.

39. Having come to the aforesaid conclusion, the objection raised on behalf of the State respondents and also the respondent No. 5, with regard to the availability of a statutory remedy against the order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer in an appeal under sub-section (2) of Section 35 of the Code, is sustained.

40. The writ petition is not entertained for the reason of existence of an alternative statutory remedy.

41. The petition stands disposed of leaving it open to the petitioner to take recourse to the statutory alternative remedy.

6. यहाँ माननीय न्यायालय की निम्नांकित सम्मानित विधि व्यवस्था का उल्लेख करना उचित समझता हूँ।

इसी प्रकार तमिलनाडु राज्य बनाम सुरेश राजन एवं अन्य 2014 (84) ए० सी०सी० 656 के मामले में माननीय न्यायालय द्वारा यह अवधारित किया गया है कि उन्मोचन प्रार्थनापत्र के निस्तारण के प्रकरण में न्यायालय को इस उपधारणा के साथ अग्रसर होना चाहिए कि अभियोजन द्वारा प्रस्तुत सामग्री सत्य है। उन सामग्रियो एवं दस्तावेजों का जो अभियोजन द्वारा प्रस्तुत किये गये है इस दृष्टि से मूल्यांकन करना चाहिए कि क्या उनके उदभूत होने वाले तथ्यों से अभ्यारोपित आरोप के तथ्य उदघाटित होते है परन्तु इसके लिए उन सामग्रियों अथवा दस्तावेजो की गहनता से परीक्षण आवश्यक नहीं है, वरन उनसे प्रथमदृष्ट्या अपराध का प्रकटीकरण ही पर्याप्त है। विधि इस प्रक्रम पर लघु विचारण की अनुमति नहीं देती है।

7. इसी कम में यह भी सुस्थापित विधि है कि संज्ञान अपराध का किया जाता है, न कि अपराधी का। अतः आरोप विरचित करने के प्रकम पर कोई व्यक्तिगत अभियुक्त स्वयं के उन्मोंचन की अपेक्षा कर सकेगा, यदि वह दर्शित कर सकता है या कर सकती है की सामग्री अत्यान्तिक रूप से उस विशिष्ट अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध आरोप विरचित करने के लिए अपर्याप्त है। इस प्रकार आरोप विरचित करने के प्रक्रम पर ही दोष सिद्ध के प्रयोजन से सामग्री की पर्याप्तता की अपेक्षा नहीं की जाती है और उन्मोचिन का अनुरोध केवल तभी अनुज्ञात किया जाता है यदि न्यायालय यह पाता है कि सामग्री विचारण के प्रयोजन से पूर्णतया अपर्याप्त है। विधि की यह भी सुस्थापित प्रत्यास्थापना है कि जब

किसी अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध यहाँ तक कि ठोस संदेह उत्पन्न करने वाली सामग्री भी हो, तो न्यायालय उन्मोचन के अनुरोध को नामंजूर करने और विधि के अनुसार, सम्पूर्ण साक्ष्य को अभिलेख पर लाने के अभियोजन को अवसर प्रदान करने में न्यायोचित होगा, जिससे कि दोनों ही पक्षों के मामले पर विचारण की समाप्ति पर समुचित रूप से विचार किया जा सकेगा।"

6. Sri S.K. Shukla, Advocate holding brief of Sri Utsav, learned counsel for the applicants submits that initially the FIR was lodged under Sections 323, 324, 307 and 506 I.P.C. During investigation, injury report of injured persons were collected and on basis of it, Section 308 was also included. He further referred that in case Section 308 IPC has been included, then no charge could be framed under Section 307 IPC. Since, an opinion has been formed that it was a case where an act was undertaken with such intention or knowledge that he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting murder as mentioned in Section 308 IPC. Therefore, it could not be opined that the the said intention or knowledge was up to the extent that if he, by that act, caused death he would be guilty of murder. Learned counsel submitted that contours of Section 307 and 308 IPC are absolutely different

7. The above referred submissions are opposed by Sri Pushpendra Kumar, learned counsel for opposite party that at the stage of discharge, the learned Trial Court has to see whether there was more than prima facie case against the accused. At this stage, it could not be ascertained whether the evidence is sufficient that it would lead to conviction.

8. Heard learned counsel for both parties and perused the record.

9. In the aforesaid background, only contention which required consideration is whether in given facts, a charge under Section 307 IPC could be made out or not. There is substance in the argument of learned counsel for the applicants that contours of Section 307 IPC and 308 IPC are different. Under section 307 IPC, knowledge and intention is in regard to murder, whereas under Section 308 IPC, knowledge and intention is in regard to the culpable homicide not amounting to murder. It is also well settled as held by the Supreme Court in the case of State of Gujarat Vs. Dilipsinh Kishorsinh Rao, 2023 SCC OnLine 1294 that at the stage of consideration of a discharge application, the Court has to consider whether there is a more than prima facie case against the accused and not that, whether on basis of evidence, conviction could be made out or not. For reference, its para 14 being relevant is mentioned hereinafter :-

> "14. This Court in the aforesaid judgment has also laid down principles to be considered for exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 particularly in the context of prayer for quashing of charge framed under Section 228 Cr. P.C. is sought for as under:
> "27. Having discussed the scope of jurisdiction under these two provisions i.e. Section 397 and Section 482 of the Code and the fine line of jurisdictional distinction, now it will be appropriate for us to enlist the principles with reference to which the courts should exercise such jurisdiction. However, it is not only difficult but is inherently impossible to state with precision such principles. At best and upon objective analysis of various judgments of this Court, we are able to cull out some of the principles to be considered for proper exercise of jurisdiction, particularly, with regard to quashing of charge either in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 or Section 482 of the Code or together, as the case may be:

27.1. Though there are no limits of the powers of the Court under Section 482 of the Code but the more the power, the more due care and caution is to be exercised in invoking these powers. The power of quashing criminal proceedings, particularly, the charge framed in terms of Section 228 of the Code should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases.

27.2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

27.3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

27.9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction; the court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

27.13. Quashing of a charge is an exception to the rule of continuous prosecution. Where the offence is even broadly satisfied, the Court should be more inclined to permit continuation of prosecution rather than its quashing at that initial stage. The Court is not expected to marshal the records with a view to decide admissibility and reliability of the documents or records but is an opinion formed prima facie.""

11. The Court has carefully considered the contents of Section 307 and 308 IPC and, for reference, the same is reproduced hereinafter:

> "307. Attempt to murder—Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if hurt is caused to any person by such act, the offender shall be liable either to imprisonment for life, or to such punishment as is hereinbefore mentioned.

Attempts by life-convicts.—When any person offending under this section is under sentence of imprisonment for life, he may, if hurt is caused, be punished with death.

308. Attempt to commit culpable homicide—Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both; and, if hurt is caused to any person by such act, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both."

12. The Court is also of the considered opinion that the charge could be altered during trial at any time and at any stage before the judgment is passed. As such, even a charge under Section 307 is framed, the accused have still liberty to raise submission that, on basis of the evidence led before the learned Trial Court, no offence could be made out under Section 307 IPC.

13. Learned counsel for the applicants wants this Court to conduct a mini trial at this stage and to consider the statements recorded during investigation at length to give an opinion that in no circumstances, the charge under Section 307 IPC could be made out. However, in the given facts, such exercise could not be undertaken as on the bare perusal of the statements and considering the nature of the injuries caused to three injured persons as well as that the applicants have used firearm also. At this stage, it could not be held that there is absolutely no evidence that no offence is made out under Section 307 IPC. In this regard, statement of Doctor would also be relevant, who has supported the supplementary medical report as referred in impugned order that injuries were dangerous to life. No document is on record which could contradict it.

14. In the aforesaid circumstance, I do not find that there is any illegality in the impugned order. However, the applicants will have a liberty to raise all the legally permissible arguments at the appropriate stage that on the basis of the evidence, which is still to be led before the learned Trial Court, no offence is made out under Section 307 or 308 IPC.

15. Accordingly, application under Section 482, No.1685 of 2020 is rejected and order rejecting discharge application is upheld and consequently other matter under Article 227 bearing No.292 of 2021 is also rejected since it is against framing of charges i.e. a consequential order.

16. Taking note of the statement of Manya Tiwari the I.O. added Section 354-B read with Section 7/8 of POCSO Act and submitted the charge sheet.

17. In the aforesaid background of the case accused-applicant preferred an application under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. praying therein for re-investigation/further investigation. The grounds seeking prayer for re-investigation/further investigation, as appears from the record, are based upon the date of incident, time of incident, date of medical examination and date of lodging of FIR.

18. The Trial Court by the impugned order dated 21.06.2024 rejected the application of the accused-applicant and being aggrieved by the order dated 21.06.2024, present application has been filed. Relevant portion of the order dated 21.06.2024 reads as under:-

19. A perusal of above quoted portion of the impugned order dated 21.06.2024 indicates that the Trial Court rejected the application preferred under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. being not maintainable after filing of charge sheet.

20. Impeaching the impugned order dated 21.06.2024, Sri D.K.Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant submitted that as per observation of the Hon'ble Apex Court, Magistrate is empowered to pass an order for re-investigation/further investigation in exercise of power under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. even after submission of charge sheet and accordingly reasoning given by the Magistrate concerned while rejecting the application seeking re-investigation/further investigation under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. vide order dated 21.06.2024 is unsustainable in the eye of law and accordingly interference of this Court is required in the matter.

21. Reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the applicant on the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya and Others vs. State of Gujarat and Another; (2019) 17 SCC 1. Relevant para(s), referred, of the same are extracted hereinunder:-

"25. It is thus clear that the Magistrate's power under Section 156(3) CrPC is very wide, for it is this judicial authority that must be satisfied that a proper investigation by the police takes place. To ensure that a "proper investigation" takes place in the sense of a fair and just investigation by the police—which such Magistrate is to supervise—Article 21 of the Constitution of India mandates that all powers necessary, which may also be incidental or implied, are available to the Magistrate to ensure a proper investigation which, without doubt, would include the ordering of further investigation after a report is received by him under Section 173(2); and which power would continue to enure in such Magistrate at all stages of the criminal proceedings until the trial itself commences. Indeed, even textually, the "investigation" referred to in Section 156(1) CrPC would, as per the definition of "investigation" under Section 2(h), include all proceedings for collection of evidence conducted by a police officer; which would undoubtedly include proceedings by way of further investigation under Section 173(8) CrPC.

26. However, Shri Basant relied strongly on a three-Judge Bench judgment in Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy v. V. Narayana Reddy [Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy v.V. Narayana Reddy, (1976) 3 SCC 252 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 380] . This judgment, while deciding whether the first proviso to Section 202(1) CrPC was attracted on the facts of that case, held : (SCC p. 258, para 17)

"17. Section 156(3) occurs in Chapter XII, under the caption:'Information to the Police and their powers to investigate'; while Section 202 is in Chapter XV which bears the heading:'Of complaints to Magistrates'. The power to order police investigation under Section 156(3) is different from the power to direct investigation conferred by Section 202(1). The two operate in distinct spheres at different stages. The first is exercisable at the pre-cognizance stage, the second at the post-cognizance stage when the Magistrate is in seisin of the case. That is to say in the case of a complaint regarding the commission of a cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a). But if he once takes such cognizance and embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he is not competent to switch back to the pre-cognizance stage and avail of Section 156(3). It may be noted further that an order made under sub-section (3) of Section 156, is in the nature of a peremptory reminder or intimation to the police to exercise their plenary powers of investigation under Section 156(1). Such an investigation embraces the entire continuous process which begins with the collection of evidence under Section 156 and ends with a report or charge-sheet under Section 173. On the other hand, Section 202 comes in at a stage when some evidence has been collected by the Magistrate in proceedings under Chapter XV, but the same is deemed insufficient to take a decision as to the next step in the prescribed procedure. In such a situation, the Magistrate is empowered under Section 202 to direct, within the limits circumscribed by that section an investigation 'for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding'. Thus the object of an investigation under Section 202 is not to initiate a fresh case on police report but to assist the Magistrate in completing proceedings already instituted upon a complaint before him."

This judgment was then followed in Tula Ram v. Kishore Singh [Tula Ram v. Kishore Singh, (1977) 4 SCC 459 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 621] at paras 11 and 15.

27. Whereas it is true that Section 156(3) remains unchanged even after the 1973 Code has been brought into force, yet the 1973 Code has one very important addition, namely, Section 173(8), which did not exist under the 1898 Code. As we have noticed earlier in this judgment, Section 2(h) of the 1973 Criminal Procedure Code defines "investigation" in the same terms as the earlier definition contained in Section 2(l) of the 1898 Criminal Procedure Code with this difference — that "investigation" after the 1973 Code has come into force will now include all the proceedings under CrPC for collection of evidence conducted by a police officer. "All" would clearly include proceedings under Section 173(8) as well. Thus, when Section 156(3) states that a Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order "such an investigation", such Magistrate may also order further investigation under Section 173(8), regard being had to the definition of "investigation" contained in Section 2(h)."

22. At this stage, it would be appropriate to take note of some more para(s) of the judgment passed in the case of Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya (Supra), as the same would indicate that what was the issue and why the Hon'ble Apex Court directed to lodge the FIR and investigate the issue therein. The same are as under:-

"This case arises out of a first information report (hereinafter referred to as "FIR") that was lodged on 22-12-2009. The FIR is by one Nitinbhai Mangubhai Patel, power-of-attorney holder of Ramanbhai Bhagubhai Patel and Shankarbhai Bhagubhai Patel, who are allegedly residing at "UK or USA". The gravamen of the complaint made in the FIR is that one Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya is blackmailing these two gentlemen with respect to agricultural land which is just outside the city of Surat, Gujarat and which admeasures about 8296 sq m. The FIR alleges that Ramanbhai Patel and Shankarbhai Patel are absolute and independent owners of this land, having obtained it from one Bhikhabhai Khushalbhai and his wife Bhikiben Bhikhabhai in the year 1975. The FIR then narrates that because of a recent price hike of lands in the city of Surat, the heirs of Bhikhabhai and Bhikiben together with Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya and Manubhai Kurjibhai Malaviya have hatched a conspiracy in collusion with each other, and published a public notice under the caption "Beware of Land-grabbers" in a local newspaper on 7-6-2008. Sometime thereafter, Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya then contacted an intermediary, who in turn contacted Nitinbhai Patel (who lodged the FIR), whereby, according to Nitinbhai Patel, Vinubhai Malaviya demanded an amount of Rs 2.5 crores in order to "settle" disputes in respect of this land. It is alleged in the said FIR that apart from attempting to extort money from the said Nitinbhai Patel, the heirs of Bhikhabhai and Bhikiben together with Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya and Manubhai Kurjibhai Malaviya have used a fake and bogus "Satakhat" and power of attorney in respect of the said land, and had tried to grab this land from its lawful owners Ramanbhai and Shankarbhai Patel.

2. The background to the FIR is the fact that one Khushalbhai was the original tenant of agricultural land, bearing Revenue Survey No. 342, admeasuring 2 ac, 2 gunthas, situated at Puna (Mauje), Choriyasi (Tal), District Surat. Khushalbhai died, after which his son Bhikhabhai became tenant in his place. Bhikhabhai in turn died on 23-12-1984 and his wife Bhikiben died on 18-12-1999. A public notice dated 7-6-2008 was issued in Gujarat Mitra and Gujarat Darpan Dainik by the heirs of Bhikhabhai, stating that Ramanbhai and Shankarbhai Patel are landgrabbers, and are attempting to create third-party rights in the said property. This led to the legal heirs of Bhikhabhai, through their power-of-attorney holder, applying on 12-6-2008 to the Collector, Nanpura (Surat), to cancel revenue entries that were made way back in 1976.

3. Pursuant to the filing of the FIR, investigation was conducted by the police, which resulted in a charge-sheet dated 22-4-2010 being submitted to the Judicial Magistrate (First Class), Surat. On 23-4-2010, the said Magistrate took cognizance and issued summons to the accused regarding offences under Sections 420, 465, 467, 468, 471, 384 and 511 of the Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as "IPC"). Pursuant to the summons, the accused appeared before the said Magistrate. On 10-6-2011, an application (Ext. 28) was filed by Accused 1 Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya for further investigation under Section 173(8) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "CrPC") and another application (Ext. 29) for discharge. Likewise, on 14-6-2011, applications for further investigation (Ext. 31) and for discharge (Ext. 32) were filed by Accused 2 to 6. By an order dated 24-8-2011, the Magistrate dismissed the applications that were filed for further investigation (i.e. Exts. 28 and 31), stating that the facts sought to be placed by the applicants were in the nature of evidence of the defence that would be taken in the trial. Likewise, on 21-10-2011 the learned Magistrate also rejected the discharge applications that were made (i.e. Exts. 29 and 32).

4. Meanwhile, on 26-7-2011, Criminal Miscellaneous Application No. 816 of 2011 was moved by Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya and the other accused to register an FIR, or for the Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC into the facts stated in their applications. This was rejected by the learned Magistrate by an order dated 9-9-2011.

5. Separate criminal revision applications were filed before the Sessions Court, Surat, being Revision Applications Nos. 376 and 346 of 2011, insofar as the dismissal by the learned Magistrate of further investigation and the order rejecting registration of the FIR were concerned. Both these revision applications were decided by the learned Second Additional Sessions Judge, Surat by a common order dated 10-1-2012. By this order, the learned Second Additional Sessions Judge went into details of facts that were alleged in the application under Section 173(8) and found that a case had been made out for further investigation. Accordingly, he held:

"As per the abovereferred discussion, it can be seen that no effective investigation or discussions have been carried out in all these respect during the course of the investigation of the said offence and further, it is very noteworthy here that matters for which the prayers are made in these revision applications, all these matters are pertaining to the complaint of this case. Hence, it is very much necessary that for the purpose of carrying out a detailed and full investigation of this complaint, all these matters should also be investigated. But for the said purpose, it is not necessary that a separate complaint be registered and thereafter its investigation be carried out. But by covering this investigation also in the complaint of the present matter, if it is found out in such investigation that any offence was committed, then appropriate criminal proceedings can be initiated against such person."

6. Pursuant to this order, the investigation was handed over to Investigating Officer R.A. Munshi (hereinafter referred to as "IO Munshi") on 6-3-2012, who then submitted two further investigation reports—one within three days, dated 9-3-2012 and a second one dated 10-4-2012, in which the IO Munshi went into the facts mentioned in the Section 173(8) CrPC applications that were filed. On 13-6-2012, the original accused withdrew [Shantaben v. State of Gujarat, 2012 SCC OnLine Guj 6476] Special Criminal Application No. 727 of 2012 filed in the High Court, which was filed challenging the order by which the learned Revisional Court had confirmed the order rejecting the discharge applications, with liberty to move an appropriate application for discharge before the Magistrate. The High Court heard Criminal Revision Application No. 44 of 2012 together with Criminal Miscellaneous Application No. 1746 of 2012, and arrived [Nitinbhai Mangubhai Patel v. State of Gujarat, 2013 SCC OnLine Guj 8980] at the conclusion that, as a matter of law, the Magistrate does not possess any power to order further investigation after a charge-sheet is filed and cognizance is taken. The High Court further castigated IO Munshi, holding that the furnishing of interim investigation reports, not through a special Public Prosecutor and not to the Magistrate, but to the Additional Sessions Judge himself smacks of mala fides, as if IO Munshi wanted to oblige and/or favour the accused persons.

7. The High Court further found that the two interim investigation reports virtually acquitted the accused persons, and therefore, the High Court set aside the judgment of the learned Second Additional Sessions Judge dated 10-1-2012, and consequently, the two further interim investigation reports. So far as Criminal Revision Application No. 346 of 2011 (which was disposed of by the learned Second Additional Sessions Judge without considering merits, in light of its order in Criminal Revision Application No. 376 of 2011) was concerned, the High Court remanded the same for fresh consideration to the learned Second Additional Sessions Judge, who would then decide as to whether an FIR should be registered, insofar as the allegations contained in the applications for further investigation are concerned. Pursuant to the aforesaid remand, by judgment dated 23-4-2016, the learned Additional Sessions Judge has rejected the application under Section 156(3) CrPC on merits, against which Special Criminal Application No. 3085 of 2016 has been filed and is awaiting disposal. Several other proceedings that are pending between the parties have been pointed out to us, with which we have no immediate concern in this case.

8. Shri Dushyant Dave, learned Senior Advocate, appearing on behalf of the appellants, has forcefully argued, placing reliance on a number of provisions of CrPC, and a number of our judgments, that the High Court was wholly incorrect as a matter of law, in holding that post-cognizance a Magistrate would have no power to order further investigation into an offence. He read out in great detail the FIR dated 22-12-2009, the contents of the charge-sheet dated 22-4-2010, and relied heavily on a communication made by the Commissioner of Revenue, Gujarat to the Collector, Surat dated 15-3-2011. According to him, the contents of this communication would show that there is no doubt that further investigation ought to have been carried out on the facts of this case, in that, a huge fraud had been perpetrated on his clients by land grabbing mafia, and it would be a travesty of justice if the learned Second Additional Sessions Judge's judgment dated 10-1-2012 was not upheld. According to him, the High Court judgment was greatly influenced by the fact that : (1) IO Munshi submitted further interim investigation reports very quickly, and (2) had submitted these reports to the Additional Sessions Judge instead of the Magistrate; resulting in the throwing out of the baby with the bathwater. He therefore urged us to uphold the order of the Second Additional Sessions Judge who ordered further investigation, as that would lead to the truth of the matter in this case.

9. On the other hand, Shri Basant and Shri Navare, learned Senior Advocates appearing on behalf of the respondents, supported the judgments of the trial court and the High Court, stating that there is no doubt that without filing a cross-FIR, what was sought to be adduced is evidence which may perhaps amount to a defence in the trial to be conducted, which would be impermissible. They emphasised that at no stage had an application been moved to quash the proceedings, and obviously, a belated application made more than a year after cognizance had been taken, to obtain by way of further investigation facts which were wholly divorced from the FIR would be wholly outside the Magistrate's power under Section 173(8) CrPC. They relied upon several judgments, and particularly recent judgments of this Court, in order to show that post-cognizance and particularly after summons is issued to the accused, and the accused appears pursuant to such summons, the Magistrate has no suo motu power, nor can he be moved by the accused, for further investigation at this stage of the proceedings.

10. The question of law that therefore arises in this case is whether, after a charge-sheet is filed by the police, the Magistrate has the power to order further investigation, and if so, up to what stage of a criminal proceeding.

43. We now come to certain other judgments that were cited before us. King Emperor v. Khwaja Nazir Ahmad [King Emperor v. Khwaja Nazir Ahmad, 1944 SCC OnLine PC 29 : (1943-44) 71 IA 203 : AIR 1945 PC 18] , was strongly relied upon by Shri Basant for the proposition that unlike superior courts, Magistrates did not possess any inherent power under CrPC. Since we have grounded the power of the Magistrate to order further investigation until charges are framed under Section 156(3) read with Section 173(8) CrPC, no question as to a Magistrate exercising any inherent power under CrPC would arise in this case.

44.Union of India v. W.N. Chadha [Union of India v. W.N. Chadha, 1993 Supp (4) SCC 260 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 1171] , is a judgment which states that the accused has no right to participate in the investigation till process is issued to him, provided there is strict compliance with the requirements of fair investigation. Likewise, the judgments in Nagawwa v. V.S. Konjalgi [Nagawwa v. V.S. Konjalgi, (1976) 3 SCC 736 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 507] , Prabha Mathur v. Pramod Aggarwal [Prabha Mathur v. Pramod Aggarwal, (2008) 9 SCC 469 : (2008) 3 SCC (Cri) 787] , Narender G. Goel v. State of Maharashtra [Narender G. Goel v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 6 SCC 65 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 933] and Dinubhai Boghabhai Solanki v. State of Gujarat [Dinubhai Boghabhai Solanki v. State of Gujarat, (2014) 4 SCC 626 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 384] , which state that the accused has no right to be heard at the stage of investigation, has very little to do with the precise question before us. All these judgments are, therefore, distinguishable. Further, Babubhai v. State of Gujarat [Babubhai v. State of Gujarat, (2010) 12 SCC 254 : (2011) 1 SCC (Cri) 336] , is a judgment which distinguishes between further investigation and re-investigation, and holds that a superior court may, in order to prevent miscarriage of criminal justice if it considers necessary, direct investigation de novo, whereas a Magistrate's power is limited to ordering further investigation. Since the present case is not concerned with re-investigation, this judgment also cannot take us much further. Likewise,Romila Thapar v. Union of India [Romila Thapar v. Union of India, (2018) 10 SCC 753 : (2019) 1 SCC (Cri) 638] , held that an accused cannot ask to change an investigating agency, or to require that an investigation be done in a particular manner, including asking for a court-monitored investigation. This judgment also is far removed from the question that has been decided by us in the facts of this case.

45. When we come to the facts of this case, it is clear that the FIR dated 22-12-2009 is concerned with two criminal acts, namely, the preparing of fake and bogus "Satakhat" and power of attorney in respect of the agricultural land in question, and the demanding of an amount of Rs 2.5 crores as an attempt to extort money by the accused persons. The facts that are alleged in the application for further investigation are facts which pertain to revenue entries having been made in favour of Ramanbhai Bhagubhai Patel and Shankarbhai Bhagubhai Patel, and how their claim over the same land is false and bogus. Shri Basant is, therefore, right in submitting that the facts alleged in the applications for further investigation are really in the nature of a cross-FIR which has never been registered. In fact, the communication of the Commissioner of Revenue, Gujarat dated 15-3-2011 to the Collector, Surat—so strongly relied upon by Shri Dushyant Dave—bears this out. In this communication, the learned Commissioner doubts that a particular order dated 14-4-1976 passed by a revenue authority ever existed, and that by making an application in the name of the long since deceased Bhikhabhai Khushalbhai in 2010, for getting a copy of Form No. 3 would, prima facie, amount to a criminal offence. Further, the learned Commissioner goes on to state that Bhikiben (Bhikhabhai's widow), who had passed away in December 1999, could not possibly have made an application in the year 2000; which shows that her signature is also prima facie forged. Further, the said Ramanbhai and Shankarbhai Patel are at present 48 and 53 years old, and if they could be said to be in possession of the said agricultural land since 1934, they could be said to be in possession at a time when they were not yet born. Further, since these two gentlemen were abroad from the very beginning, it is stated that they could not possibly be farmers cultivating agricultural land. For these, and various other reasons, the Commissioner concluded:

"Thus, looking to all the aforesaid particulars, as per the submission made by the lady applicant, scam has been made in respect of her land by creating false bogus cases/resolutions/orders passed or by forging fake documents. Submission is made for initiating criminal proceedings against all those who are involved in such scam and whether there is substance in this matter or not? Thorough inquiry be made in that connection at your level. Till the real particulars in this matter are not becoming clear, it is appearing necessary to stop the NA permission/construction activities. Therefore, after making necessary proceedings in that regard, detailed report having basis of the proceedings done is to be immediately submitted to the undersigned and periodical information of the proceedings done in this matter also be given to the undersigned."

46. Given the allegations in the communication of 15-3-2011, we are of the view that this is not a case which calls for any further investigation into the facts alleged in the FIR lodged on 22-12-2009. Yet, having regard to what is stated by the learned Commissioner in the said letter, we are of the view that the police be directed to register an FIR qua these facts, which needs to be investigated by a senior police officer nominated by the Commissioner of Police concerned.

47. We, therefore, set aside the impugned High Court judgment [Nitinbhai Mangubhai Patel v. State of Gujarat, 2013 SCC OnLine Guj 8980] insofar as it states that post-cognizance the Magistrate is denuded of power to order further investigation. However, given that the facts stated in the application for further investigation have no direct bearing on the investigation conducted pursuant to the FIR dated 22-12-2009, we uphold the impugned High Court judgment insofar as it has set aside the judgment of the Second Additional Sessions Judge dated 10-1-2012 which had ordered further investigation, and also the consequential order setting aside the two additional interim reports of the IO Munshi. So far as Criminal Revision Application No. 346 of 2011 is concerned, we set aside the impugned High Court judgment which remanded the matter to the Revisional Court. Consequently, the judgment of the learned Additional Sessions Judge dated 23-4-2016 upon remand is also set aside, rendering Special Criminal Application No. 3085 of 2016 infructuous.

48. However, given the serious nature of the facts alleged in the communication of the Commissioner of Revenue dated 15-3-2011, we direct that the police register an FIR based on this letter within a period of one week from the date of this judgment. This FIR is to be enquired into by a senior police officer designated by the Commissioner of Police concerned, who is to furnish a police report pursuant to investigation within a period of three months from the date on which such officer is appointed to undertake such investigation. If such police report results in a prima facie case being made out, and if the Judicial Magistrate takes cognizance of such charge-sheet, charges will then be framed and trial held. In the meanwhile, the trial in FIR dated 22-12-2009, which has been stayed by this Court by an order dated 24-4-2019 [Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya v. State of Gujarat, (2019) 17 SCC 43] , will not be commenced until the police report is submitted in the FIR to be lodged by the police pursuant to this judgment. The learned Magistrate may then decide, in the event that cognizance is taken of the police report in the FIR to be filed, as to whether a joint trial should take place, or whether separate trials be conducted one after the other pursuant to both the FIRs."

23. Sri Mishra also stated that in fact no such incidents took place as alleged in the FIR and story of the prosecution is completely bogus and baseless which is apparent from the discrepancies regarding date and time of incident indicated by the informant and witnesses of fact particularly injured witnesses and as such in the instant case re-investigation/further investigation is required.

24. Based upon the supplementary affidavit, filed today, alongwith which some documents, indicated hereinbelow, have been brought on record.

(i) Copy of report dated 21.10.2023 (To show that charge sheet has been filed on 24.09.2023 but I.O. is saying that the investigation is going on and thus, case set up by the prosecution is false.);

(ii) Copies of the affidavits of Rajitram and Indradev Tiwari (To show that the case of the prosecution is false);

(iii) Copy of Tehreer and Copy of FIR lodged on the basis of Tehreer, which bears 24.07.2023 (To show that the case of the prosecution is false);

(iv) Copy of application under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. preferred by the applicant on 21.06.2024.

25. Sri Mishra submitted that a conjoint reading of all these documents and documents already referred, it is crystal clear that the case of the prosecution is completely false and as such re-investigation/further investigation is required in the matter. Prayer is to cause interference in the matter.

26. Sri S.P.Tiwari, learned AGA and Sri Rakesh Dwivedi, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 opposed the present application.

27. Sri S.P.Tiwari, learned AGA submitted that all the questions, as indicated by the accused-applicant in the present application as also by the learned counsel for the applicant, are questions of fact and can be considered by the Trial Court after recording of evidence with proper findings thereon.

28. He also stated that accused has no right to get an order for further investigation. In various pronouncements it has been observed in so many words that accused cannot be permitted to collect the evidence in his defense by seeking an order for further investigation of the case.

29. Considered the aforesaid submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

30. From a conjoint reading of the documents, indicated above, the facts which are borne out, are as under:-

(i) The FIR was lodged on 24.07.2023.

(ii) The FIR does not indicate the date of incident.

(iii) As per FIR, the incident is of 10:00 PM.

(iv) According to affidavit dated 10.10.2023 of Rajitram (Annexure No.SA- 2) on 23.07.2023 at about 09:00 PM some altercation took place between Devendra Tripathi and Pramod Tripathi.

(v) As per affidavit dated 10.10.2023 of Indradev Tiwari (Annexure No. SA-2) on 23.07.2023 at about 09:00 PM some altercation took place between Devendra Tripathi and Pramod Tripathi.

(vi) It is to be noted that Pramod Tripathi is the informant and Devendra Tripathi is one of the accused. Further, applicant (Vishal Tripathi S/o Devendra Tripathi) is also one of the accused.

(vii) The injured/informant Pramod Tiwari was medically examined at C.H.C.-Jalalpur, District-Ambedkar Nagar on 24.07.2023 at 02:10 PM and Doctor opined that all the injuries are simple in nature and can be caused by hard and blunt object except Injury No.4, which after X-ray on 25.07.2023 was opined as 'Fracture'.

(viii) Injured Sonika Tiwari was medically examined on 24.07.2023 at 03:19 PM at CHC-Jalapur, District-Ambedkar Nagar and Doctor opined that all injuries are simple in nature and can be caused by any hard and blunt object.

(ix) Injured Aditya Tiwari was examined on 24.07.2023 at 02:53 PM at CHC, Jalalpur, District-Ambedkar Nagar and Doctor has opined that all injuries are simple in nature and can be caused by any hard and blunt object except injury Nos. 1, 3 & 4.

(x) Injured Manya Tiwari was examined on 24.07.2023 at 02:32 PM at CHC, Jalalpur, District-Ambedkar Nagar and Doctor has opined that all injuries are simple in nature and can be caused by any hard and blunt object except injury No. 1, which after X-ray on 25.07.2023 was opined as 'Fracture'.

(xi) Injured Sonika Tiwari and Manya Tiwari in their statement(s) levelled specific allegations against the accused/applicant.

(xii) The trial Court vide order dated 21.06.2024, under challenge, rejected the application preferred by the accused applicant/(Vishal Tripathi S/o Devendra Tripathi) under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. being not maintainable.

31. From the facts aforesaid including the facts indicated on the basis of contents of affidavit(s) of Rajitram and Indradev Tiwari, it appears that some altercation took place between the parties in the night of 23.07.2023 i.e. between 09:00 PM and 10:00 PM on 23.07.2023 and thereafter the FIR was lodged on 24.07.2023 under Section 147, 323, 325, 427 & 452 IPC implicating Devendra Tripathi, Vishal Tripahti/(applicant) Rudra Tripathi, Aradhana Tripathi and Susheela and in the incident, injured namely Pramod Tiwari, Sonika Tiwari, Aditya Tiwari and Manya Tiwari sustained injuries, indicated in para(s) 8 to 13 of this judgment and thereafter based upon the statement(s) of Sonika Tiwari and Manya Tiwari, indicated in para(s) 14 and 15 of this judgment, Section 354-B IPC and Section 7/8 of POCSO Act were added and thereafter charge sheet was filed on 24.09.2023.

32. The applicant/(Vishal Tripathi), who is an accused and whose application dated 21.06.2024 under Section 173(8) Cr.P. C. with a prayer for re-investigation/further investigation has been rejected vide impugned order dated 21.06.2024, has approached this Court by means of present application for re-investigation/further investigation in the matter.

33. Accordingly, on the right of accused/applicant in regard to the prayer of re-investigation/further investigation, it would be apt refer relevant para(s) of the judgment passed by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Preeti Singh v. State of U.P., 2023 SCC OnLine All 1410 which are extracted hereinunder:-

"18. In the present case, the question is as to whether the accused person has any right or hearing at the investigation stage or to question the manner in which evidence is being collected by claiming a direction for fair investigation?

19. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India v. W.N. Chadha, 1993 Supp (4) SCC 260 has specifically held that under the scheme of Chapter XII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, there are various provisions under which no prior notice or opportunity of being heard is conferred as a matter of course to an accused person while the proceeding is in the stage of an investigation by a police officer. Chapter XII provides for "Information to the police and powers to investigate".

20. Relevant paragraphs of W.N. Chadha (supra) are quoted as under : -

"90. Under the scheme of Chapter XII of the Cr.P.C. there are various provisions under which no prior notice or opportunity of being heard is conferred as a matter of course to an accused person while the proceeding is in the stage of an investigation by a police officer.

91. In State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 this Court to which both of us (Ratnavel Pandian and K. Jayachandra Reddy, JJ.) were parties after making reference to the decision of the Privy Council in Emperor v. Khwaja Nazir Ahmad and the decision of this Court in State of Bihar v. J.A.C. Saldanha has pointed out that "…the field of investigation of any cognizable offence is exclusively within the domain of the investigating agencies over which the courts cannot have control and have no power to stifle or impinge upon the proceedings in the investigation so long as the investigation proceeds in compliance with the provisions relating to investigation…."

92. More so, the accused has no right to have any say as regards the manner and method of investigation. Save under certain exceptions under the entire scheme of the Code, the accused has no participation as a matter of right during the course of the investigation of a case instituted on a police report till the investigation culminates in filing of a final report under Section 173(2) of the Code or in a proceeding instituted otherwise than on a police report till the process is issued under Section 204 of the Code, as the case may be. Even in cases where cognizance of an offence is taken on a complaint notwithstanding that the said offence is triable by a Magistrate or triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions, the accused has no right to have participation till the process is issued. In case the issue of process is postponed as contemplated under Section 202 of the Code, the accused may attend the subsequent inquiry but cannot participate. There are various judicial pronouncements to this effect but we feel that it is not necessary to recapitulate those decisions. At the same time, we would like to point out that there are certain provisions under the Code empowering the Magistrate to give an opportunity of being heard under certain specified circumstances.

94. Under Section 235(2), in a trial before a Court of Sessions and under Section 248(2) in the trial of warrant cases, the accused as a matter of right, is to be given an opportunity of being heard. Unlike the above provisions which we have referred to above by way of illustration, the provisions relating to the investigation under Chapter XII do" not confer any right of prior notice and hearing to the accused and on the other hand they are silent in this respect.

95. It is relevant and significant to note that a police officer, in charge of a police station, or a police officer making an investigation can make and search or cause search to be made for the reasons to be recorded without any warrant from the Court or without giving the prior notice to any one or any opportunity of being heard. The basic objective of such a course is to preserve secrecy in the mode of investigation lest the valuable evidence to be unearthed will be either destroyed or lost. We think it unnecessary to make a detailed examination on this aspect except saying that an accused cannot claim any right of prior notice or opportunity of being heard inclusive of his arrest or search of his residence or seizure of any property in his possession connected with the crime unless otherwise provided under the law.

96. True, there are certain rights conferred on an accused to be enjoyed at certain stages under the CrPC - such as Section 50 whereunder the person arrested is to be informed of the grounds of his arrest and to his right of bail and under Section 57 dealing with person arrested not to be detained for more than 24 hours and under Section 167 dealing with the procedure if the investigation cannot be completed in 24 hours - which are all in conformity with the 'Right to Life' and 'Personal Liberty' enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution and the valuable safeguards ingrained in Article 22 of the Constitution for the protection of an arrestee or detenu in certain cases. But so long as an the investigating agency proceeds with his action or investigation in strict compliance with the statutory provisions relating to arrest or investigation of a criminal case and according to the procedure established by law, no one can make any legitimate grievance to stifle or to impinge upon the proceedings of arrest or detention during investigation as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of the Cr.P.C.

98. If prior notice and an opportunity of hearing are to be given to an accused in every criminal case before taking any action against him, such a procedure would frustrate the proceedings, obstruct the taking of prompt action as law demands, defeat the ends of justice and make the provisions of law relating to the investigation lifeless, absurd and self-defeating. Further, the scheme of the relevant statutory provisions relating to the procedure of investigation does not attract such a course in the absence of any statutory obligation to the contrary.

120. For all the aforesaid reasons we unhesitatingly set aside the order of the High Court quashing the letter rogatory dated 5/7th February, 1990 and the rectified letter rogatory dated 21/22nd August, 1990 issued in pursuance of the orders passed by the Special Judge. The respondent who is a named accused in the FIR has no locus standi at this stage to question the manner in which the evidence is to be collected. However, it is open for the respondent to challenge the admissibility and reliability of the evidence only at the stage of trial in case the investigation ends up in filing a final report under Section 173 of the Code indicating that an offence appears to have been committed."

(emphasis supplied)

21. Perusal of the abovequoted paragraphs would clearly indicate that Chapter XII Cr.P.C. provides for information to the police and powers to investigate and this chapter consists of Section 154 to 176, which covers the area from lodging of first information report in a cognizable case, information as to non-cognizable cases and investigation of such cases, police officer's power to investigate and submission of police report as well.

22. As already noticed, Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 90 of W.N. Chadha (supra) clearly held that under the scheme of Chapter XII Cr.P.C. there are various provisions under which no prior notice or opportunity of being heard is conferred as a matter of course to an accused person while the proceeding is in the stage of investigation by a police officer. It has also been observed that the field of investigation of any cognizable offence is exclusively within the domain of investigating agencies over which the courts cannot have control and have no power to stifle or impinge upon the proceedings in the investigation so long as the investigation proceeds in compliance with the provisions relating to investigation.

23. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Bihar v. J.A.C., (1980) 1 SCC 554 has also held that the accused has no right in regard to the manner and right of the fair investigation. The other exceptions, which are not relevant regarding complaint case etc., have also been noticed. Certain rights of the accused persons have also been noticed, which are all in conformity with the 'Right of Personal Life' and 'Personal Liberty' enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution of India and valuable safeguards ingrained in Article 22 of the Constitution for the protection of an arrestee or detenu in certain cases. It has also been observed that if prior notice of hearing are to be given to an accused in every criminal case before taking any action against him, such a procedure would frustrate the proceedings, obstruct the taking of prompt action as law relating to the investigation lifeless, absurd and self-defeating.

24. In W.N. Chadha (supra) the letter rogatory was under challenge before the High Court. While setting aside the order of the High Court letter rogatory dated 5/7the February, 1990 and the rectified letter rogatory dated 21st/22nd August, 1990 issued in pursuance of the orders passed by the Special Judge it was clearly held that the respondent, who is a named accused in the first information report has no locus standi at this stage to question the manner in which the evidence is to be collected, however, it was observed that it is open for the respondent to challenge the admissibility and reliability of the evidence only at the stage of trial in case the investigation ends up in filing a final report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. indicating that an offence appears to have been committed.

25. In the case of C.B.I. v. Rajesh Gandhi, (1996) 11 SCC 253 Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under : -

"There is no merit in the pleas raised by the first respondent either. The decision to investigate or the decision on the agency which should investigate, does not attract principles of natural justice. The accused cannot have a say in who should investigate the offences he is charged with. …."

(Emphasis supplied)

26. Thus, it is very much clear that at the stage of investigation the accused has no right to be heard and she cannot come forward to claim fair investigation only on the ground that according to her the matter has wrongly been handed over to the Crime Branch and simply for the reason that initially the petitioner was informant and subsequently she had been arrayed as accused in the first information report in question. From perusal of record of petition we do not find any ground worth withdrawing the investigation from the Crime Branch and to transfer the same to some other agency in view of the law as discussed hereinabove."

34. The judgments referred in the above quoted para(s) of the judgment passed in the case of Preeti Singh (Supra), on the issue of right of an accused at the stage of investigation have not been overruled in the judgment passed in the case of Vinubhai Haribhai Malaviya (Supra).

35. On the right of an accused, the Hon'ble Apex Court (Majority Decision) in the case of Romila Thapar vs. Union of India, (2018) 10 SCC 75, observed as under:-

19. Mr Mehta submits that even though the Court may have jurisdiction to examine all aspects of the matter, considering the fact that the investigation is at a nascent stage and is being done by senior police officials under the supervision of their superior officers up to the level of Commissioner of Police, it is not a case for grant of reliefs as prayed. The accused persons must take recourse to the remedy prescribed by law instead of directly approaching this Court under Article 32 of the Constitution and can get complete justice from the jurisdictional court. He submits that in criminal matters, interference in the garb of public interest litigation at the instance of strangers has always been discouraged and rejected by this Court. Further, the present petition is nothing but abuse of the process and as the named accused Varavara Rao, Sudha Bharadwaj and Gautam Navalakha have filed their respective petitions before the jurisdictional High Courts, which proceedings are pending for adjudication, the same persons have now filed affidavits before this Court for transposing them as petitioners and allowing them to adopt the prayer of the writ petitioners. They ought to elect their remedy to be pursued and in particular, before the jurisdictional courts. Therefore, this petition must be discouraged.

20. Mr Mehta submits that the modified relief claimed in the writ petition to release the accused persons is in the nature of habeas corpus which is not maintainable in respect of the arrest made during the ongoing investigation. He submits that no right can enure in favour of the accused to seek relief of investigation of the crime through an independent agency and for the same reason, even strangers to the offence under investigation or next friends of the accused, cannot be permitted to pursue such a relief in the guise of PIL. He submits that the foundation of the present writ petition is the perception of the writ petitioners (next friends) that the accused are innocent persons. He submits that that basis is tenuous. For, there are enough examples of persons having split personality. In a criminal case, the action is based on hard facts collected during the course of investigation and not on individual perception. He contends that the argument of the writ petitioners that liberty of the five named accused cannot be compromised on the basis of surmises and conjectures is wholly misplaced and can be repelled on the basis of the material gathered during the ongoing investigation indicating the complicity of each of them. He relies on Section 41 CrPC which enables the police to arrest any person against whom a "reasonable suspicion" exists that he has committed a cognizable offence. Therefore, the integrity of the investigating agency cannot be doubted as there is enough material against each of the accused. He further submits that the argument of the writ petitioners based on the circumstances pressed into service for a direction to change the investigating agency is completely against the cardinal criminal jurisprudence and such a relief is not available to persons already named as accused in a crime under investigation.

21. Mr Harish Salve, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the complainant at whose instance FIR No. 4 of 2018 came to be registered at Vishram Bagh Police Station (Pune City), submits that there is no absolute right, much less a fundamental right, to market ideas which transcend the line of unlawful activity. The Court must enquire into the fact as to whether the investigation is regarding such unlawful activity or merely to stifle dissenting political voice. If it is the former, the investigation must be allowed to proceed unhindered. In any case, the affected persons, namely, the named accused must take recourse to remedy prescribed by law before the jurisdictional court as it is not a case of unlawful detention or action taken by an unauthorised investigating agency. According to him, the Court must lean in favour of appointing a SIT or an independent investigating agency or court-monitored investigation only when the grievance made is one about the investigation being derailed or being influenced by some authority. In the present case, the grievance is limited to improper arrest of individuals without any legal evidence to indicate their complicity in the commission of any crime or the one registered in the form of FIR No. 4 of 2018. The allegation of motivated investigation is without any basis. No assertion is made by the writ petitioners or the named accused that the investigation by Pune City Police is mala fide in law. If the allegation is about mala fide in fact, then the material facts to substantiate such allegation, including naming of the person at whose instance it is being so done, ought to have been revealed. That is conspicuously absent in this case. According to the learned counsel, the reliefs claimed in the writ petition do not warrant any indulgence of this Court.

22. After the high-pitched and at times emotional arguments concluded, each side presenting his case with equal vehemence, we as Judges have had to sit back and ponder over as to who is right or whether there is a third side to the case. The petitioners have raised the issue of credibility of Pune Police investigating the crime and for attempting to stifle the dissenting voice of the human rights activists. The other side with equal vehemence argued that the action taken by Pune Police was in discharge of their statutory duty and was completely objective and independent. It was based on hard facts unravelled during the investigation of the crime in question, pointing towards the sinister ploy to destabilise the State and was not because of difference in ideologies, as is claimed by the so-called human rights activists.

23. After having given our anxious consideration to the rival submissions and upon perusing the pleadings and documents produced by both the sides, coupled with the fact that now four named accused have approached this Court and have asked for being transposed as writ petitioners, the following broad points may arise for our consideration:

23.1. (i) Should the investigating agency be changed at the behest of the named five accused?

23.2. (ii) If the answer to Point (i) is in the negative, can a prayer of the same nature be entertained at the behest of the next friend of the accused or in the garb of PIL?

23.3. (iii) If the answer to Questions (i) and/or (ii) above, is in the affirmative, have the petitioners made out a case for the relief of appointing Special Investigating Team or directing the court-monitored investigation by an independent investigating agency?

23.4. (iv) Can the accused person be released merely on the basis of the perception of his next friend (writ petitioners) that he is an innocent and law abiding person?

24. Turning to the first point, we are of the considered opinion that the issue is no more res integra. In Narmada Bai v. State of Gujarat [Narmada Bai v. State of Gujarat, (2011) 5 SCC 79 : (2011) 2 SCC (Cri) 526] , in para 64, this Court restated that it is trite law that the accused persons do not have a say in the matter of appointment of investigating agency. Further, the accused persons cannot choose as to which investigating agency must investigate the offence committed by them. Para 64 of this decision reads thus : (SCC p. 100)

"64. ... It is trite law that the accused persons do not have a say in the matter of appointment of an investigating agency. The accused persons cannot choose as to which investigating agency must investigate the alleged offence committed by them."

(emphasis supplied)

25. Again in Sanjiv Rajendra Bhatt v. Union of India [Sanjiv Rajendra Bhatt v. Union of India, (2016) 1 SCC 1 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 193 : (2016) 1 SCC (L&S) 1] , the Court restated that the accused had no right with reference to the manner of investigation or mode of prosecution. Para 68 of this judgment reads thus : (SCC p. 40)

68. The accused has no right with reference to the manner of investigation or mode of prosecution. Similar is the law laid down by this Court in Union of India v. W.N. Chadha [Union of India v. W.N. Chadha, 1993 Supp (4) SCC 260 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 1171] , Mayawati v. Union of India [Mayawati v. Union of India, (2012) 8 SCC 106 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 801] , Dinubhai Boghabhai Solanki v. State of Gujarat [Dinubhai Boghabhai Solanki v. State of Gujarat, (2014) 4 SCC 626 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 384] , CBI v. Rajesh Gandhi [CBI v. Rajesh Gandhi, (1996) 11 SCC 253 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 88] , CCI v. SAIL [CCI v. SAIL, (2010) 10 SCC 744] and Janata Dal v. H.S. Chowdhary [Janata Dal v. H.S. Chowdhary, (1991) 3 SCC 756 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 933] ."

26. Recently, a three-Judge Bench of this Court in E. Sivakumar v. Union of India [E. Sivakumar v. Union of India, (2018) 7 SCC 365 : (2018) 3 SCC (Cri) 49] , while dealing with the appeal preferred by the "accused" challenging the order [J. Anbazhagan v. Union of India, 2018 SCC OnLine Mad 1231 : (2018) 3 CTC 449] of the High Court directing investigation by CBI, in para 10 observed : (SCC pp. 370-71)

"10. As regards the second ground urged by the petitioner, we find that even this aspect has been duly considered in the impugned judgment [J. Anbazhagan v. Union of India, 2018 SCC OnLine Mad 1231 : (2018) 3 CTC 449] . In para 129 of the impugned judgment, reliance has been placed on Dinubhai Boghabhai Solanki v. State of Gujarat [Dinubhai Boghabhai Solanki v. State of Gujarat, (2014) 4 SCC 626 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 384] , wherein it has been held that in a writ petition seeking impartial investigation, the accused was not entitled to opportunity of hearing as a matter of course. Reliance has also been placed on Narender G. Goel v. State of Maharashtra [Narender G. Goel v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 6 SCC 65 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 933] , in particular, para 11 of the reported decision wherein the Court observed that it is well settled that the accused has no right to be heard at the stage of investigation. By entrusting the investigation to CBI which, as aforesaid, was imperative in the peculiar facts of the present case, the fact that the petitioner was not impleaded as a party in the writ petition or for that matter, was not heard, in our opinion, will be of no avail. That per se cannot be the basis to label the impugned judgment as a nullity."

27. This Court in Divine Retreat Centre v. State of Kerala [Divine Retreat Centre v. State of Kerala, (2008) 3 SCC 542 : (2008) 2 SCC (Cri) 9] , has enunciated that the High Court in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction cannot change the investigating officer in the midstream and appoint an investigating officer of its own choice to investigate into a crime on whatsoever basis. The Court made it amply clear that neither the accused nor the complainant or informant are entitled to choose their own investigating agency, to investigate the crime, in which they are interested. The Court then went on to clarify that the High Court in exercise of its power under Article 226 of the Constitution can always issue appropriate directions at the instance of the aggrieved person if the High Court is convinced that the power of investigation has been exercised by the investigating officer mala fide.

28. Be that as it may, it will be useful to advert to the exposition in State of W.B. v. Committee for Protection of Democratic Rights [State of W.B. v. Committee for Protection of Democratic Rights, (2010) 3 SCC 571 : (2010) 2 SCC (Cri) 401] . In para 70 of the said decision, the Constitution Bench observed thus : (SCC p. 602)

"70. Before parting with the case, we deem it necessary to emphasise that despite wide powers conferred by Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution, while passing any order, the courts must bear in mind certain self-imposed limitations on the exercise of these constitutional powers. The very plenitude of the power under the said Articles requires great caution in its exercise. Insofar as the question of issuing a direction to CBI to conduct investigation in a case is concerned, although no inflexible guidelines can be laid down to decide whether or not such power should be exercised but time and again it has been reiterated that such an order is not to be passed as a matter of routine or merely because a party has levelled some allegations against the local police. This extraordinary power must be exercised sparingly, cautiously and in exceptional situations where it becomes necessary to provide credibility and instil confidence in investigations or where the incident may have national and international ramifications or where such an order may be necessary for doing complete justice and enforcing the fundamental rights. Otherwise CBI would be flooded with a large number of cases and with limited resources, may find it difficult to properly investigate even serious cases and in the process lose its credibility and purpose with unsatisfactory investigations."

29. In the present case, except pointing out some circumstances to question the manner of arrest of the five named accused sans any legal evidence to link them with the crime under investigation, no specific material facts and particulars are found in the petition about mala fide exercise of power by the investigating officer. A vague and unsubstantiated assertion in that regard is not enough. Rather, averment in the petition as filed was to buttress the reliefs initially prayed for (mentioned in para 8 above) — regarding the manner in which arrest was made. Further, the plea of the petitioners of lack of evidence against the named accused (A-16 to A-20) has been seriously disputed by the investigating agency and have commended us to the material already gathered during the ongoing investigation which according to them indicates complicity of the said accused in the commission of crime. Upon perusal of the said material, we are of the considered opinion that it is not a case of arrest because of mere dissenting views expressed or difference in the political ideology of the named accused, but concerning their link with the members of the banned organisation and its activities. This is not the stage where the efficacy of the material or sufficiency thereof can be evaluated nor is it possible to enquire into whether the same is genuine or fabricated. We do not wish to dilate on this matter any further lest it would cause prejudice to the named accused and including the co-accused who are not before the Court. Admittedly, the named accused have already resorted to legal remedies before the jurisdictional court and the same are pending. If so, they can avail of such remedies as may be permissible in law before the jurisdictional courts at different stages during the investigation as well as the trial of the offence under investigation. During the investigation, when they would be produced before the court for obtaining remand by the police or by way of application for grant of bail, and if they are so advised, they can also opt for remedy of discharge at the appropriate stage or quashing of criminal case if there is no legal evidence, whatsoever, to indicate their complicity in the subject crime.

30. In view of the above, it is clear that the consistent view of this Court is that the accused cannot ask for changing the investigating agency or to do investigation in a particular manner including for court-monitored investigation. The first two modified reliefs claimed in the writ petition, if they were to be made by the accused themselves, the same would end up in being rejected. In the present case, the original writ petition was filed by the persons claiming to be the next friends of the accused concerned (A-16 to A-20). Amongst them, Sudha Bhardwaj (A-19), Varvara Rao (A-16), Arun Ferreira (A-18) and Vernon Gonsalves (A-17) have filed signed statements praying that the reliefs claimed in the subject writ petition be treated as their writ petition. That application deserves to be allowed as the accused themselves have chosen to approach this Court and also in the backdrop of the preliminary objection raised by the State that the writ petitioners were completely strangers to the offence under investigation and the writ petition at their instance was not maintainable. We would, therefore, assume that the writ petition is now pursued by the accused themselves and once they have become petitioners themselves, the question of next friend pursuing the remedy to espouse their cause cannot be countenanced. The next friend can continue to espouse the cause of the affected accused as long as the accused concerned is not in a position or incapacitated to take recourse to legal remedy and not otherwise."

36. In view of above, this Court has no hesitation to say that an accused has no right at the stage of investigation. Thus, the application under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. preferred by the accused, applicant herein, for re-investigation itself was not entertainable.

37. The subject matter in this case relates to re-investigation/further investigation, as prayed, in the instant application, and accordingly, it would be apt to refer expression "investigation" which is defined in Section 2(h) of Cr.P.C.:-

"investigation" includes all the proceedings under this Code for the collection of evidence conducted by a police officer or by any person (other than a Magistrate) who is authorised by a Magistrate in this behalf;"

38. Regarding expression "investigation", it would be appropriate to refer para(s) 53 to 55 of the judgment passed in the case of Kailash Vijayvargiya v. Rajlakshmi Chaudhuri, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 569, which are extracted hereinunder:-

"53. The Code vide Chapter XII, ranging from Section 154 to Section 176, deals with information to the Police and their power to investigate. Section 154 deals with the information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence and fiats the procedure to be adopted when prima facie commission of a cognizable offence is made out. Section 156 authorises a police officer in-charge of a Police station to investigate any cognizable offence without the order of a Magistrate. Sub-section (3) of Section 156 provides for any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 to order an investigation as mentioned in Section 156(1). In cases where a cognizable offence is suspected to have been committed, the officer in-charge of the Police station, after sending a report to the Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of such offence, is entitled under Section 157 to investigate the facts and circumstances of the case and also to take steps for discovery and arrest of the offender. Clauses (a) and (b) of the proviso to sub-section (1) to Section 157 give discretion to the officer in-charge not to investigate a case, when information of such offence is given against any person by name and the case is not of serious nature; or when it appears to the officer in-charge of the Police station that there is no sufficient ground for entering the investigation. In each of the cases mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) to the proviso to sub-section (1) to Section 157, the officer in-charge of the Police station has to file a report giving reasons for not complying with the requirements of sub-section (1) and in a case covered by clause (b) to the proviso, also notify the informant that he will not investigate the case or cause it to be investigated. Section 159 gives power to a Magistrate, on receiving such report of the officer in-charge, to either direct an investigation or if he thinks fit, proceed to hold a preliminary inquiry himself or through a Magistrate subordinate to him, or otherwise dispose of the case in the manner provided by the Code.

54. Sections 160 to 164 deal with the power of the Police to require attendance of witnesses, examination of witnesses, use of such statements in evidence, inducement for recording statement and recording of statements. Section 165 deals with the power of a Police officer to conduct search during investigation in the circumstances mentioned therein.

55. The power under the Code to investigate generally consists of following steps : (a) proceeding to the spot; (b) ascertainment of facts and circumstances of the case; (c) discovery and arrest of the suspected offender; (d) collection of evidence relating to commission of offence, which may consist of examination of various persons, including the person accused, and reduction of the statement into writing if the officer thinks fit; (e) the search of places of seizure of things considered necessary for investigation and to be produced for trial; and (f) formation of opinion as to whether on the material collected there is a case to place the accused before the Magistrate for trial and if so, taking the necessary steps by filing a chargesheet under Section 173."

39. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State vs. Hemendhra Reddy, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 515, observed as under:-

"35. Section 169 of the CrPC reads as under:

"169. Release of accused when evidence deficient.—*

If, upon an investigation under this Chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the police station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report, and to try the accused or commit him for trial."

36. The perusal of the aforesaid Section would reveal that the Investigating Officer is under an obligation to release such person, who is in custody on executing a bond with or without sureties, if evidence is not sufficient and/or there are no reasonable grounds of suspicion to forward such person to the Magistrate.

37. The plain reading of Section 169 of the CrPC, therefore, postulates that when the Investigating Officer reports his action to the learned Magistrate, it will not be a report, however it will be a report of his action either by the Investigating Officer or by the Officer in-charge of the police station.

38. Section 173 of the CrPC states about the steps to be taken by the Investigating Officer after the completion of the investigation. The Officer in-charge of the police station is required to forward the report under said Section to the Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence in prescribed form.

39. Section 173 of the CrPC reads thus:

"173. Report of police officer on completion of investigation.—

(1) Every investigation under this Chapter shall be completed without unnecessary delay.

(1A) The investigation in relation to an offence under sections 376, 376A, 376AB, 376B, 376C, 376D, 376DA, 376DB or 376E from the date on which the information was recorded by the officer in charge of the police station.

(2)(i) As soon as it is completed, the officer in charge of the police station shall forward to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report, a report in the form prescribed by the State Government, stating—

(a) the names of the parties;

(b) the nature of the information;

(c) the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case;

(d) whether any offence appears to have been committed and, if so, by whom;

(e) whether the accused has been arrested;

(f) whether he has been released on his bond and, if so, whether with or without sureties;

(g) whether he has been forwarded in custody under section 170.

(h) whether the report of medical examination of the woman has been attached where investigation relates to an offence under sections 376, 376A, 376AB, 376B, 376C, 376D, 376DA, 376DB or section 376E of the Penal Code, 1860 (45 of 1860).

(ii) The officer shall also communicate, in such manner as may be prescribed by the State Government, the action taken by him, to the person, if any, by whom the information relating to the commission of the offence was first given.

(3) Where a superior officer of police has been appointed under section 158, the report shall, in any case in which the State Government by general or special order so directs, be submitted through that officer, and he may, pending the orders of the Magistrate, direct the officer in charge of the police station to make further investigation.

(4) Whenever it appears from a report forwarded under this section that the accused has been released on his bond, the Magistrate shall make such order for the discharge of such bond or otherwise as he thinks fit.

(5) When such report is in respect of a case to which section 170 applies, the police officer shall forward to the Magistrate along with the report—

(a) all documents or relevant extracts thereof on which the prosecution proposes to rely other than those already sent to the Magistrate during investigation;

(b) the statements recorded under section 161 of all the persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses.

(6) If the police officer is of opinion that any part of any such statement is not relevant to the subject-matter of the proceedings or that its disclosure to the accused is not essential in the interests of justice and is inexpedient in the public interest, he shall indicate that part of the statement and append a note requesting the Magistrate to exclude that part from the copies to be granted to the accused and stating his reasons for making such request.

(7) Where the police officer investigating the case finds it convenient so to do, he may furnish to the accused copies of all or any of the documents referred to in sub-section (5).

(8) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to preclude further investigation in respect of an offence after a report under subsection (2) has been forwarded to the Magistrate and, where upon such investigation, the officer in charge of the police station obtains further evidence, oral or documentary, he shall forward to the Magistrate a further report or reports regarding such evidence in the form prescribed; and the provisions of subsections (2) to (6) shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to such report or reports as they apply in relation to a report forwarded under sub-section (2).''

(Emphasis supplied)

40. Thus, Section 169 of the CrPC is silent in making report to the Magistrate, however the Investigating Officer is under an obligation to submit its report to the Magistrate under Section 173 of the CrPC. Thus, though Section 169 of the CrPC does not contemplate making a report, it contemplates of obtaining a bond with or without sureties from the accused to appear if and when so required before the Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report and such report is contemplated under Section 173 of the CrPC. Clauses (d) and (f) of Section 173(2)(i) of the CrPC read as under:

"173(2)(i)

xxx

(d) whether any offence appears to have been committed and, if so, by whom;

xxx xxx

(f) whether he has been released on his bond and, if so, whether with or without sureties".

41. Section 173(8) of the CrPC deals with further investigation and supplementary report. In the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (for short, 'the Old Code'), there was no identical provision to that of Section 173(8) of the CrPC. The same is a newly added provision in the CrPC. It was added on the recommendation of the Law Commission in its 41st Report that the right of the police to make further investigation should be statutorily affirmed.

42. In the Old Code, there was no provision prescribing the procedure to be followed by the police for fresh investigation, when fresh facts came to light, upon the submission of the police report and subsequent to taking cognizance by the Magistrate. There was, also, no express provision prohibiting further investigation by the police.

43. The said omission was sought to be supplied for the first time by a two-Judge Bench of the Madras High Court as early as in 1919 in Divakar Singh v. A. Ramamurthi Naidu reported in AIR 1919 Mad 751, where it was observed that:

"Another contention is put forward that when a report of investigation has been sent in under Section 173 of the Cr PC, the police has no further powers of investigation, but this argument may be briefly met by the remark that the number of investigations into a crime is not limited by law and that when one has been completed another may be begun on further information received.".

44. After recognition of the right of the police to make repeated investigations under the Old Code in Divakar's case, a three-Judge Bench of this Court in H.N. Rishbud v. State of Delhi reported in AIR 1955 SC 196, held that:—

"It does not follow, however, that the invalidity of the investigation is to be completely ignored by the Court during trial. When the breach of such a mandatory provision is brought to the knowledge of the Court at a sufficiently early stage, the Court, while not declining cognizance, will have to take the necessary steps to get the illegality cured and the defect rectified, by ordering such reinvestigation as the circumstances of an individual case may call for. Such a course is not altogether outside the contemplation of the scheme of the Code as appears from Section 202 under which a Magistrate taking cognizance on a complaint can order investigation by the police. Nor can it be said that the adoption of such a course is outside the scope of the inherent powers of the Special Judge, who for purposes of procedure at the trial is virtually in the position of a Magistrate trying a warrant case."

45. Some High Courts were also of the view that with the submission of a chargesheet under Section 173, the power of the police to investigate into an offence comes to an end and the Magistrate's cognizance of the offence started. For instance, in State v. Mehar Singh reported in 1974 Cri LJ 970, a Full Bench of the High Court of Punjab and Haryana held that the police became functus officio once the Court took cognizance of an offence on the filing of a chargesheet by the police and thereafter, further investigation by the police was not permissible.

46. It was, however, observed that in light of the decision in H.N. Rishbud (supra), it would be open to the Magistrate to 'suspend cognizance' and direct the police to make further investigation into the case and submit a report.

47. The said inconsistency and incongruity in the judicial decisions was recognized by the Law Commission in its 41st Report (under Clause 14.23) and it was recommended that the right of the police to make further investigation should be statutorily affirmed. Accordingly, in the CrPC, Section 173(8), came to be introduced, which statutorily empowered the police to undertake further investigation after submission of the final report under Section 173(2) of the CrPC. Conspicuously, it still did not confer such powers on the Magistrate to direct further and/or fresh investigation after submission of the final report by the Police.

48. Section 173(8) of the CrPC may be fragmented or dissected as under:

(1) Further investigation can be done in respect of an offence wherein report under Section 173(2) has been forwarded to the Magistrate; and

(2) During further investigation, the officer-in-charge has power

(a) to obtain further evidence, oral or documentary,

(b) to forward to the Magistrate, a further report or reports regarding such evidence in the form prescribed,

(3) The provisions of sub sections (2) to (6) shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to such further report or reports.

49. Sub section (1) of Section 173 of the CrPC provides that every investigation by the police shall be completed without unnecessary delay and sub section (2) of Section 173 of the CrPC provides that as soon as such investigation is completed, the officer in charge of the police station shall forward to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report, a report in the form prescribed by the State Government.

50. Under sub section (2) of the Section 173 of the CrPC, a police report (chargesheet or Challan) is filed by the police after investigation is complete.

51. Sub section (8) of Section 173 of the CrPC, states that nothing in the section shall be deemed to preclude any further investigation in respect of an offence after a report under sub-section (2) has been forwarded to the Magistrate.

52. Thus, even where chargesheet or Challan has been filed by the police under sub section (2) of Section 173 of the CrPC, the police can undertake further investigation in respect of an offence under sub section (8) of Section 173 of the CrPC. (Reference : Article titled "Different Aspects of Section 173(8) of the CrPC" by D. Nageswara Rao, Prl. JCJ, Manthani.)

What is the meaning of the term "Further Investigation"?

53. In Rama Chaudhary v. State of Bihar reported in (2009) 6 SCC 346, this Court held that, "further investigation within the meaning of provision of Section 173(8) CrPC is additional; more; or supplemental. "Further investigation", therefore, is the continuation of the earlier investigation and not a fresh investigation or reinvestigation to be started ab initio wiping out the earlier investigation altogether."

What are the alternatives before a Magistrate when a "Final Report" is filed?

54. Wherever a final report forwarded by the Investigating Officer to a Magistrate under Section 173(2)(i) of the CrPC is placed before him, several situations may arise. The report may conclude that an offence appears to have been committed by a particular person and persons, and in such a case the Magistrate may either:

(1) accept the report and take cognizance of offence and issue process,

(2) may disagree with the report and drop the proceeding or may take cognizance on the basis of report/material submitted by the investigation officer,

(3) may direct further investigation under Section 156(3) and require police to make a report as per Section 173(8) of the CrPC.

(4) may treat the protest complaint as a complaint, and proceed under Sections 200 and 202 of the CrPC.

What is the prime consideration for "Further Investigation"?

55. As observed in Hasanbhai Valibhai Qureshi v. State of Gujarat reported in (2004) 5 SCC 347, the prime consideration for further investigation is to arrive at the truth and do real and substantial justice. The hands of investigating agency for further investigation should not be tied down on the ground of mere delay. In other words, the mere fact that there may be further delay in concluding the trial should not stand in the way of further investigation if that would help the court in arriving at the truth and do real and substantial and effective justice.

Difference between "Further Investigation" and "Re-investigation"

56. There is no doubt that "further investigation" and "re-investigation" stand altogether on a different footing. In Ramchandran v. R. Udhayakumar reported in (2008) 5 SCC 413, this Court has explained the fine distinction between the two relying on its earlier decision in K. Chandrasekhar v. State of Kerala reported in (1998) 5 SCC 223. We quote paras 7 and 8 as under:

"7. At this juncture it would be necessary to take note of Section 173 of the Code. From a plain reading of the above section it is evident that even after completion of investigation under sub-section (2) of Section 173 of the Code, the police has right to further investigate under sub-section (8), but not fresh investigation or reinvestigation. This was highlighted by this Court in K. Chandrasekhar v. State of Kerala [(1998) 5 SCC 223 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1291]. It was, inter alia, observed as follows : (SCC p. 237, para 24)

"24. The dictionary meaning of 'further' (when used as an adjective) is 'additional; more; supplemental'. 'Further' investigation therefore is the continuation of the earlier investigation and not a fresh investigation or reinvestigation to be started ab initio wiping out the earlier investigation altogether. In drawing this conclusion we have also drawn inspiration from the fact that sub-section (8) clearly envisages that on completion of further investigation the investigating agency has to forward to the Magistrate a 'further' report or reports—and not fresh report or reports—regarding the 'further' evidence obtained during such investigation."

8. In view of the position of law as indicated above, the directions of the High Court for reinvestigation or fresh investigation are clearly indefensible. We, therefore, direct that instead of fresh investigation there can be further investigation if required under Section 173(8) of the Code. The same can be done by CB CID as directed by the High Court."

Position of Law on the subject of "Further Investigation"

57. In King-Emperor v. Khwaja Nazir Ahmad, (1943-44) 71 IA 203 the Privy Council delineated the powers of the police to investigate. It was held thus:

"Just as it is essential that every one accused of a crime should have free access to a Court of justice, so that he may be duly acquitted if found not guilty of the offence with which he is charged, so it is of the utmost importance that the judiciary should not interfere with the police in matters which are within their province and into which the law imposes on them the duty of inquiry. In India, as has been shown, there is a statutory right on the part of the police to investigate the circumstances of an alleged cognizable crime without requiring any authority from the judicial authorities, and it would, as their Lordships think, be an unfortunate result if it should be held possible to interfere with those statutory rules by an exercise of the inherent jurisdiction of the Court. The functions of the judiciary and the police are complementary, not overlapping, and the combination of individual liberty with a due observance of law and order is only to be obtained by leaving each to exercise its own function, always, of course, subject to the right of the Courts to intervene in an appropriate case when moved under Section 491 of the Criminal Procedure Code to give directions in the nature of Habeas Corpus."

58. In Sri Bhagwan Samardha Sreepada Vallabha Venkata Vishwanandha Maharaj v. State of A.P. reported in (1999) 5 SCC 740, it was held in paras 10 and 11:

"10. Power of the police to conduct further investigation, after laying final report, is recognised under Section 173(8) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Even after the court took cognizance of any offence on the strength of the police report first submitted, it is open to the police to conduct further investigation. This has been so stated by this Court in Ram Lal Narang v. State (Delhi Admn.) [(1979) 2 SCC 322 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 479 : AIR 1979 SC 1791]. The only rider provided by the aforesaid decision is that it would be desirable that the police should inform the court and seek formal permission to make further investigation.

11. In such a situation the power of the court to direct the police to conduct further investigation cannot have any inhibition. There is nothing in Section 173(8) to suggest that the court is obliged to hear the accused before any such direction is made. Casting of any such obligation on the court would only result in encumbering the court with the burden of searching for all the potential accused to be afforded with the opportunity of being heard. As the law does not require it, we would not burden the Magistrate with such an obligation."

59. In Hemant Dhasmana v. Central Bureau of Investigation reported in (2001) 7 SCC 536, it was held:

"15. When the report is filed under the sub-section the Magistrate (in this case the Special Judge) has to deal with it by bestowing his judicial consideration. If the report is to the effect that the allegations in the original complaint were found true in the investigation, or that some other accused and/or some other offences were also detected, the court has to decide whether cognizance of the offences should be taken or not on the strength of that report. We do not think that it is necessary for us to vex our mind, in this case, regarding that aspect when the report points to the offences committed by some persons. But when the report is against the allegations contained in the complaint and concluded that no offence has been committed by any person, it is open to the court to accept the report after hearing the complainant at whose behest the investigation had commenced. If the court feels on a perusal of such a report that the alleged offences have in fact been committed by some persons the court has the power to ignore the contrary conclusions made by the investigating officer in the final report. Then it is open to the court to independently apply its mind to the facts emerging therefrom and it can even take cognizance of the offences which appear to it to have been committed, in exercise of its power under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code. The third option is the one adumbrated in Section 173(8) of the Code. ...

16. Although the said sub-section does not, in specific terms, mention about the powers of the court to order further investigation, the power of the police to conduct further investigation envisaged therein can be triggered into motion at the instance of the court. When any such order is passed by a court which has the jurisdiction to do so, it would not be a proper exercise of revisional powers to interfere therewith because the further investigation would only be for the ends of justice. ..."

60. In Union Public Service Commission v. S. Papaiah reported in (1997) 7 SCC 614, it was held in Para 13:

"The Magistrate could, thus in exercise of the powers under Section 173(8) CrPC direct the CBI to "further investigate" the case and collect further evidence keeping in view the objections raised by the appellant to the investigation and the "new" report to be submitted by the investigating officer would be governed by sub-sections (2) to (6) of Section 173 CrPC.".

61. This Court in Hasanbhai (supra) held thus:

"12. Sub-section (8) of Section 173 of the Code permits further investigation, and even dehors any direction from the court as such, it is open to the police to conduct proper investigation, even after the court took cognisance of any offence on the strength of a police report earlier submitted. All the more so, if as in this case, the Head of the Police Department also was not satisfied of the propriety or the manner and nature of investigation already conducted.

13. In Ram Lal Narang v. State (Delhi Admn.) [(1979) 2 SCC 322 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 479 : AIR 1979 SC 1791] it was observed by this Court that further investigation is not altogether ruled out merely because cognisance has been taken by the court. When defective investigation comes to light during course of trial, it may be cured by further investigation, if circumstances so permitted. It would ordinarily be desirable and all the more so in this case, that the police should inform the court and seek formal permission to make further investigation when fresh facts come to light instead of being silent over the matter keeping in view only the need for an early trial since an effective trial for real or actual offences found during course of proper investigation is as much relevant, desirable and necessary as an expeditious disposal of the matter by the courts. In view of the aforesaid position in law, if there is necessity for further investigation, the same can certainly be done as prescribed by law. The mere fact that there may be further delay in concluding the trial should not stand in the way of further investigation if that would help the court in arriving at the truth and do real and substantial as well as effective justice."

62. In Ram Lal Narang v. State (Delhi Administration) reported in (1979) 2 SCC 322, this Court held thus:

"21. As observed by us earlier, there was no provision in the CrPC, 1898 which, expressly or by necessary implication, barred the right of the police to further investigate after cognizance of the case had been taken by the Magistrate. Neither Section 173 nor Section 190 lead us to hold that the power of the police to further investigate was exhausted by the Magistrate taking cognizance of the offence. Practice, convenience and preponderance of authority, permitted repeated investigations on discovery of fresh facts. In our view, notwithstanding that a Magistrate had taken cognizance of the offence upon a police report submitted under Section 173 of the 1898 Code, the right of the police to further investigate was not exhausted and the police could exercise such right as often as necessary when fresh information came to light. Where the police desired to make a further investigation, the police could express their regard and respect for the court by seeking its formal permission to make further investigation."

63. In State of Andhra Pradesh v. A.S. Peter reported in (2008) 2 SCC 383, this Court held thus:

"9. Indisputably, the law does not mandate taking of prior permission from the Magistrate for further investigation. Carrying out of a further investigation even after filing of the charge-sheet is a statutory right of the police. A distinction also exists between further investigation and reinvestigation. Whereas reinvestigation without prior permission is necessarily forbidden, further investigation is not."

64. In Nirmal Singh Kahlon v. State of Punjab reported in (2009) 1 SCC 441, this Court held as follows:

"68. An order of further investigation in terms of Section 173(8) of the Code by the State in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 36 thereof stands on a different footing. The power of the investigating officer to make further investigation in exercise of its statutory jurisdiction under Section 173(8) of the Code and at the instance of the State having regard to Section 36 thereof read with Section 3 of the Police Act, 1861 should be considered in different contexts. Section 173(8) of the Code is an enabling provision. Only when cognizance of an offence is taken, the learned Magistrate may have some say. But, the restriction imposed by judicial legislation is merely for the purpose of upholding the independence and impartiality of the judiciary. It is one thing to say that the court will have supervisory jurisdiction to ensure a fair investigation, as has been observed by a Bench of this Court in Sakiri Vasu v. State of U.P. [(2008) 2 SCC 409 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 440], correctness whereof is open to question, but it is another thing to say that the investigating officer will have no jurisdiction whatsoever to make any further investigation without the express permission of the Magistrate."

65. In Vinay Tyagi (supra), it was held that "further investigation" in terms of Section 173(8) of the CrPC can be made in a situation where the investigating officer obtains further oral or documentary evidence after the final report has been filed before the Court. The report on such further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC can be termed as a supplementary report.

66. In Vinay Tyagi (supra), it was held that:

"40.2. A Magistrate has the power to direct "further investigation" after filing of a police report in terms of Section 173(6) of the Code.

x x x x x x x x x x

40.4. Neither the scheme of the Code nor any specific provision therein bars exercise of such jurisdiction by the Magistrate. The language of Section 173(2) cannot be construed so restrictively as to deprive the Magistrate of such powers particularly in face of the provisions of Section 156(3) and the language of Section 173(8) itself. In fact, such power would have to be read into the language of Section 173(8).

40.5. The Code is a procedural document, thus, it must receive a construction which would advance the cause of justice and legislative object sought to be achieved. It does not stand to reason that the legislature provided power of further investigation to the police even after filing a report, but intended to curtail the power of the court to the extent that even where the facts of the case and the ends of justice demand, the court can still not direct the investigating agency to conduct further investigation which it could do on its own.

40.6. It has been a procedure of propriety that the police has to seek permission of the court to continue "further investigation" and file supplementary charge-sheet. ..."

67. In Vinubhai (supra); a three-Judge Bench of this Court has endeavoured to lay at rest the controversy enveloping the evasive issue of further investigation directed by the Magistrate. This Court, speaking through Justice R.F. Nariman, has laid down at Para 38 that:

"To say that a fair and just investigation would lead to the conclusion that the police retain the power, subject, of course, to the Magistrate's nod under Section 173(8) to further investigate an offence till charges are framed, but that the supervisory jurisdiction of the Magistrate suddenly ceases midway through the pre-trial proceedings, would amount to a travesty of justice, as certain cases may cry out for further investigation so that an innocent person is not wrongly arraigned as an accused or that a prima facie guilty person is not so left out. There is no warrant for such a narrow and restrictive view of the powers of the Magistrate, particularly when such powers are traceable to Section 156(3) read with Section 156(1), Section 2(h) and Section 173(8) CrPC, as has been noticed hereinabove, and would be available at all stages of the progress of a criminal case before the trial actually commences. It would also be in the interest of justice that this power be exercised suo motu by the Magistrate himself, depending on the facts of each case. Whether further investigation should or should not be ordered is within the discretion of the learned Magistrate who will exercise such discretion on the facts of each case and in accordance with law." It was also clarified that, "The "investigation" spoken of in Section 156(3) would embrace the entire process, which begins with the collection of evidence and continues until charges are framed by the Court, at which stage the trial can be said to have begun.".

68. Thus, this Court, in conclusion, observed that, "when Section 156(3) states that a Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order "such an investigation", such Magistrate may also order further investigation under Section 173(8), regard being had to the definition of "investigation" contained in Section 2(h)."

69. Thus, in view of the law laid down by this Court in the various decisions cited hereinabove, it is well settled that sub section (8) of Section 173 of the CrPC permits further investigation, and even dehors any direction from the court, it is open to the police to conduct proper investigation, even after the court takes cognizance of any offence on the strength of a police report earlier submitted.

70. However, the question before this Court is whether sub section (8) of Section 173 of the CrPC permits further investigation after the Magistrate has accepted a final report (closure report) under sub section (2) of Section 173 of the CrPC. The contention raised on behalf of the accused persons is that acceptance of a closure report would terminate the proceedings finally so as to bar the investigating agency from carrying out any further investigation in connection with the offence.

71. The learned counsel appearing for the accused persons submitted that an order accepting the closure report under Section 190(1)(c) of the CrPC is a judicial order and not an administrative order. Relying on the decision of this Court in Kamlapati Trivedi v. State of West Bengal reported in (1980) 2 SCC 91, it was submitted that when a final report of the police is submitted to the Magistrate and the Magistrate passes an order (a) agreeing with the report of the police and filing proceedings; or (b) not agreeing with the police report and holding that the evidence is sufficient to justify the forwarding of the accused to the Magistrate and takes cognizance of the offence complained of, such order is a judicial order.

72. We are at one with the aforesaid submission canvassed on behalf of the accused persons. However, this is not going to make any difference. What is necessary to be examined is as to whether an order passed under Section 190(1) of the CrPC accepting a final report being a judicial order would bar further investigation by the police or the CBI as in the present case, in exercise of the statutory powers under chapter XII of the CrPC?

73. In State of Rajasthan v. Aruna Devi reported in (1995) 1 SCC 1, a complaint was filed in the Court of Munsif and Judicial Magistrate, First Class, Bilara, against the respondents under various sections of the IPC. The gravamen of the allegation was that the respondents had, in pursuance of a conspiracy, transferred some land on the strength of a special power of attorney bearing forged signature. The Magistrate, after perusal of the complaint, directed an investigation to be made as contemplated by Section 156(3) of the CrPC. A case was registered thereafter, by the police and a final report was submitted on 18.07.1981 stating that complaint was false. The report came to be accepted by the Magistrate on 23.09.1981. It, however, so happened that the Superintendent of Police had independently ordered further investigation on 24.09.1981 and a challan came to be filed by police against the respondents, inter alia, under Sections 420 and 467 of the IPC. The Magistrate took cognizance on 25.06.1984. A challenge was made to this act of the Magistrate before Sessions Judge, Jodhpur, who dismissed the revision. On further approach to the High Court, the revision was allowed and the order of cognizance was set aside. The State came in appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution.

74. This Court observed in paras 3 and 4 respectively as under:

3. A perusal of the impugned judgment of the High Court shows that it took the view that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction to take cognizance after the final report submitted by police had been once accepted. Shri Gupta, appearing for the appellant, contends that this view is erroneous in law inasmuch as Section 173(8) of the Code permits further investigation in respect of an offence after a report under sub-section (2) has been submitted. Sub-section (8) also visualises forwarding of another report to the Magistrate. Further investigation had thus legal sanction and if after such further investigation a report is submitted that an offence was committed, it would be open to the Magistrate to take cognizance of the same on his being satisfied in this regard.

4. Shri Francis for the respondents, however, contends that the order of the Magistrate taking cognizance pursuant to filing of further report amounted to entertaining second complaint which is not permissible in law. To substantiate the legal submission, we have been first referred to Pramatha Nath Taluqdar v. Saroj Ranjan Sarkar [1962 Supp (2) SCR 297 : AIR 1962 SC 876 : (1962) 1 Cri LJ 770], in which a three-Judge Bench of this Court dealt with this aspect. A perusal of the judgment of the majority shows that it took the view that dismissal of a complaint under Section 203 of the Code is no bar to the entertainment of a second complaint on the same facts; but the same could be done only in exceptional circumstances some of which have been illustrated in the judgment. Further observation in this regard is that a fresh complaint can be entertained, inter alia, when fresh evidence comes forward. In the present case, this is precisely what had happened, as on further investigation being made, fresh materials came to light which led to the filing of further report stating that a case had been made out.

75. The aforesaid decision of this Court has been rightly referred to and relied upon by the High Court in its first order dated 11.09.2014.

76. This Court in K. Chandrasekhar (supra) was considering a case, where on the complaint of a Police Inspector, a case was registered by the Kerala Police against the appellants therein for the offences punishable under Sections 3 and 4 respectively of the Official Secrets Act, 1923 read with Section 34 IPC on the allegation that in collusion with some Indians and foreigners they had committed acts prejudicial to the safety and sovereignty of India. During the investigation, certain other persons (appellants in accompanying appeals) were arrested. Thereafter, a DIG of Police, who was the head of the team conducting the investigation, recommended the case for being investigated by the CBI. Pursuant to such recommendation, the Government of Kerala by a notification dated 02.12.1994 accorded its consent under Section 6 of the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946 (for short, 'the Act') for further investigation of the case by the CBI. Accordingly, the CBI took up the investigation. After completion of the investigation, on 16.04.1996, the CBI filed its report in the final form under Section 173(2) of the CrPC, stating that the charges were not proved and were false. Accepting the report, the Magistrate discharged the accused-appellants. Thereafter, on 27.6.1996, the Government of Kerala issued a notification withdrawing the consent earlier given to the CBI to investigate the said case. The object of the said notification was to enable a reinvestigation of the case by a team of State Police Officers. By a mandatory notification dated 08.07.1996, the words "reinvestigation of the case" were substituted by the words "further investigation of the case". The State Government notification dated 27.6.1996 (as amended) was upheld by the High Court. This Court held that, from a plain reading of Section 173 of the CrPC, it is evident that even after submission of police report under sub section (2) on completion of investigation, the police has a right of "further" investigation under sub section (8), but not "fresh investigation" or "reinvestigation". The dictionary meaning of "further" (when used as an adjective) is "additional; more; supplemental". "Further" investigation, therefore, is the continuation of the earlier investigation and not a fresh investigation or reinvestigation to be started ab initio wiping out the earlier investigation altogether. The Court drew inspiration from the fact that sub section (8) clearly envisages that on completion of further investigation, the investigating agency has to forward to the Magistrate a "further" report or reports - and not fresh report or reports-regarding the "further" evidence obtained during such investigation. The Court held that once it is accepted that an investigation undertaken by CBI pursuant to a consent granted under Section 6 of the Act is to be completed, notwithstanding withdrawal of the consent, and that "further investigation" is a continuation of such investigation which culminates in a further police report under Section 173(8), it necessarily means that withdrawal of consent in the said case would not entitle the State Police to further investigate into the case. However, the Court further observed thus:"To put it differently, if any further investigation is to be made, it is the CBI alone which can do so, for it was entrusted to investigate into the case by the State Government." (Emphasis supplied). Thus, what was held by the Court was that after submission of report under Section 173(2) Cr. P.C. reinvestigation or fresh investigation is not permissible. However, it has been expressly observed that if any further investigation is to be made, it is the CBI alone which can do so. In other words, further investigation could be carried out, but that the same could be done by the CBI alone as it was entrusted to investigate into the case by the State Government and had carried out the investigation and submitted final report in connection therewith.

77. In S. Papaiah (supra) on a complaint made by the UPSC, investigation had been carried out by the CBI and final report was submitted under Section 173 of the CrPC before the Metropolitan Magistrate, before whom the first information report had been lodged, seeking closure of the case. The CBI in spite of the request made to it by the UPSC did not inform about the filing of the final report seeking closure of the case to the UPSC. The report was returned by the learned Metropolitan Magistrate as notice had not been issued to the complainant by the CBI though the CBI had asserted that it had informed the UPSC regarding the filing of the closure report. The final report was resubmitted by the CBI to the Court of the Metropolitan Magistrate along with a copy of the notice sent by the CBI to the UPSC. It appears that the report was again returned by the Metropolitan Magistrate seeking proof of service of notice on the de facto complainant. While the proceedings of submission of the final report were pending, the UPSC addressed a letter to the Director of CBI pointing out that the investigation had not been carried out properly and that the filing of the closure report was not justified. While the UPSC was awaiting further communication from the CBI in that behalf, the CBI resubmitted the closure report and the learned Metropolitan Magistrate accepted the final report submitted by the CBI and closed the file without any opportunity being provided to the UPSC to have its say. Upon receipt of communication of the order of the court accepting the closure report, the UPSC filed a petition before the learned Metropolitan Magistrate submitting that the complaint had not been properly investigated and that it had no notice about the acceptance of the final report. The Court rejected the petition of the UPSC observing that it had accepted the final report filed by the CBI on 16.03.1995, since the UPSC had not filed its objections to the acceptance of the final report and as such, it could not complain. The Court also opined that since an order accepting final report was a judicial order and not an administrative order, therefore, it had no power to review such an order passed by it "rightly or wrongly" and that the UPSC could file a revision petition seeking appropriate orders against the acceptance of the final report from the revisional court. The revision petition filed by the UPSC was dismissed by the revisional court. In appeal before this Court, it was held thus:

"13. The appellant brought the contents of communication dated 23.01.1995 to the notice of the learned Metropolitan Magistrate through its Miscellaneous Petition No. 2040 of 1995 seeking 'reinvestigation' but the learned Magistrate, rejected the petition vide order dated 4.11.1995, observing that 'rightly or wrongly that court had passed an order and it had no power to review the earlier order.' Here, again the learned Magistrate fell into an error. He was not required to 'review' his order. He could have ordered 'further investigation' into the case. It appears that the learned Metropolitan Magistrate overlooked the provisions of Section 173(8) which have been enacted to take care of such like situations also."

(Emphasis supplied)

78. After referring to the provisions of Section 173(8) of the CrPC, the Court observed that the Magistrate could, thus, in exercise of the powers under Section 173(8) of the CrPC, direct the CBI to "further investigate" the case and collect further evidence keeping in view the objections raised by the UPSC to the investigation and the "new" report to be submitted by the Investigating Officer would be governed by sub-sections (2) to (6) of Section 173 of the CrPC. The Court held that the learned Magistrate failed to exercise the jurisdiction vested in him by law and his order dated 04.11.1995 cannot be sustained.

79. In the light of the aforesaid decision of the Supreme Court, it appears that though the order passed by the learned Magistrate accepting a final report under Section 173 is a judicial order, there is no requirement for recalling, reviewing or quashing the said order for carrying out further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC. As held by this Court in the said decision, the provisions of Section 173(8) of the CrPC have been enacted to take care of such like situations also.

80. In N.P. Jharia v. State of M.P. reported in (2007) 7 SCC 358, proceedings had been initiated against the appellant therein in connection with possession of pecuniary resources disproportionate to his known sources of income. After investigation the Special Police Establishment (SPE) submitted a "final report" on 01.03.1990 informing the court that no offence was made out against the appellant. The final report was accepted by the Special Judge on 17.04.1990. But on 01.07.1992, the SPE submitted an application before the Special Judge, seeking permission for further investigation. The Special Judge permitted further investigation. Thereafter, the sanction for prosecution was obtained from the State Government on 01.03.1995. The chargesheet was filed in the court on 24.07.1995. On behalf of the appellant, it was urged that once the final report was submitted there is no scope for further investigation. The Court held that so far as further investigation was concerned in the background of Section 173(8) of the CrPC the plea was clearly untenable.

81. In Kari Choudhary v. Mst. Sita Devi reported in (2002) 1 SCC 714, FIR No. 135 was registered on the basis of a complaint lodged by Sita Devi and investigation was commenced thereafter. During investigation, the police found that the murder of the victim, Sugnia Devi was committed pursuant to a conspiracy hatched by her mother-in-law Sita Devi and her daughters-in-law besides the others. So, the police sent a report to the court on 30.11.1998 stating that the allegations in FIR No. 135 were false. The police continued with the investigation after informing the court that they had registered another FIR as FIR No. 208 of 1998. This Court, inter alia, held thus:

"11. Learned counsel adopted an alternative contention that once the proceedings initiated under FIR No. 135 ended in a final report the police had no authority to register a second FIR and number it as FIR No. 208. Of course the legal position is that there cannot be two FIRs against the same accused in respect of the same case. But when there are rival versions in respect of the same episode, they would normally take the shape of two different FIRs and investigation would be carried on under both of them by the same investigating agency. Even that apart, the report submitted to the court styling it as FIR No. 208 of 1998 need be considered as an information submitted to the court regarding the new discovery made by the police during the investigation that persons not named in FIR No. 135 are the real culprits. To quash the proceedings merely on the ground that final report had been laid in FIR No. 135 is, to say the least, too technical. The ultimate object of every investigation is to find out whether the offences alleged have been committed and, if so, who have committed it.

12. Even otherwise, the investigating agency is not precluded from further investigation in respect of an offence in spite of forwarding a report under sub-section (2) of section 173 of a previous occasion. This is clear from Section 173(8) of the Code."

(Emphasis supplied)

82. Thus, a conspectus of the aforesaid decisions of this Court rendered in cases where final reports (closure reports) had already been submitted and accepted makes the position of law very clear that even after the final report is laid before the Magistrate and is accepted, it is permissible for the investigating agency to carry out further investigation in the case. In other words, there is no bar against conducting further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC after the final report submitted under Section 173(2) of the CrPC has been accepted. It is also evident, that prior to carrying out a further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC, it is not necessary for the Magistrate to review or recall the order accepting the final report.

83. We may summarise our final conclusion as under:

(i) Even after the final report is laid before the Magistrate and is accepted, it is permissible for the investigating agency to carry out further investigation in the case. In other words, there is no bar against conducting further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC after the final report submitted under Section 173(2) of the CrPC has been accepted.

(ii) Prior to carrying out further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC it is not necessary that the order accepting the final report should be reviewed, recalled or quashed.

(iv) Further investigation is merely a continuation of the earlier investigation, hence it cannot be said that the accused are being subjected to investigation twice over. Moreover, investigation cannot be put at par with prosecution and punishment so as to fall within the ambit of Clause (2) of Article 20 of the Constitution. The principle of double jeopardy would, therefore, not be applicable to further investigation.

(v) There is nothing in the CrPC to suggest that the court is obliged to hear the accused while considering an application for further investigation under Section 173(8) of the CrPC."

40. Upon due consideration of the facts of the instant case, indicated above, as also the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in various pronouncements, referred above, this Court finds that in the instant case, request/prayer for re-investigation/further investigation by an accused, who is applicant in the instant case, is not liable to be acceded. It is for the following reasons:-

(i) In Para 36 of this judgment the Court has already observed regarding right of an accused at the stage of investigation, according to which, the accused has no right.

(ii) It appears that the I.O., after due investigation which includes collection of evidence, examination of various persons and reduction of statements into writing and thereafter considering the contents of the same including FIR, medical report(s) of injured(s) namely Pramod Tiwari, Manya Tiwari, Sonika Tiwari and Aditya Tiwari as also the statements of witnesses of fact, prepared the charge sheet and thereafter submitted it before the Court concerned.

(iii) The discrepancies related to date(s) and time, as indicated by the learned counsel for the applicant, would be considered by the trial Court at the stage of trial and the same are not required for seeking re-investigation/ further investigation so far as the present case is concerned. It is in view of the observation made in Para 24 of this judgment, wherein this Court after considering the facts including the facts based upon the various documents including the affidavit(s) of Sri Rajitram and Indradev Tiwari filed alongwith the supplementary affidavit by the applicant, observed that some altercation between two sides took place in the night of 23.07.2023 between 09:00 PM and 10:00 PM.

41. For the reasons aforesaid, this Court finds no force in the present application. It is accordingly dismissed.

Criminal Law-The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita,2023-Sections-126/135-Court cannot construe a section of statue with reference to that of another unless the latter is in pari materia with the former-when the law requires the Magistrate to apply his mind, then there has to be a due application of mind. The manner in which the notice has been issued, it clearly transpires that it has been prepared by some person of the office of the Sub Divisional Magistrate and thereafter he put his signatures and the notice has got issued. This practice is reprimanded. It is expected that the Sub Divisional Magistrate shall apply his mind as required in law before issuing notice under Section 130 of BNSS for taking appropriate action under Section 126/135 of BNSS-Printed format cannot be a satisfaction which is required under Section 130 of BNSS while issuing notice under Section 126/135 of BNSS. 5. APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3065 of 2019

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Prathama Singh, learned counsel for the applicants and learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application has been filed for the following main reliefs:-

> "Wherefore, it is most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to summon the record from opposite party no.2 and quash the impugned order/notice dated 27.07.2024 passed by opposite party no.2 viz. Sub Divisional Magistrate Sidhauli, District Sitapur as Annexure no. 1 to this petition.
>
> It is further prayed that till disposal of instant petition, further proceeding pending before learned Sub Divisional Magistrate Sidhauli District Sitapur be stayed in the interest of justice."

3. By means of the present application, a notice dated 27.07.2024 issued under Section 130 Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (in short "BNSS") by Sub Divisional Magistrate, Sidhauli, Sitapur.

4. It is stated that on account of apprehension that the applicants may cause breach of peace, a report dated 15.07.2024 was submitted by the S.H.O., Police Station- Sidhauli, District-Sitapur in the light of provisions indicated under Section 126/135 of BNSS.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the impugned notice dated 27.07.2024 is liable to be set aside because the same has been issued without application of mind as the concerned Magistrate has not recorded his opinion to the effect that their exists sufficient ground to take action under the provisions of Section 130 of BNSS and further that the same is a printed proforma.

6. She further submitted that a printed format cannot be a satisfaction which is required under Section 130 of BNSS while issuing notice under Section 126/135 of BNSS.

7. She has placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the Case of Siya Nand Tyagi v. State of U.P. reported in 1994 Cri. LJ 1298 and also the judgement of the Delhi High Court in the case of Tavindar Kumar and another v. State reported in 1990 Cri LJ 40.

8. This Court in Siya Nand Tyagi v. State of U.P. (supra) has clearly held thus:-

> "3. It is unfortunate that the requirement of Section 107 of the Code that the Executive Magistrate receiving information should be of the opinion that there are sufficient grounds for proceedings under the said section have become a dead letter and are always followed in its breach. It should be borne in mind that the proceedings Under Section 107 / 116 of the Code some times cause irreparable loss and unnecessary harassment to the public who run to the Court at the costs of their own vocations of life. Unless it is absolutely necessary proceedings Under Section 107/116, Cr. P.C. should not be resorted to experience tells that proceedings like the one under Section 107/116 of the Code are conducted in a most lethargic and lackadaisical manner by the learned Executive Magistrate causing harassment to public beyond measure.
>
> 4. 107 is aimed at a person who causes reasonable apprehension of conduct likely to lead to apprehension of breach of peace or a disturbance of public tranquillity. It is a preventive measure. Proceedings under Section 107/116 should not be transformed into persecution of innocent persons at the sweet will of the police or other persons acting mala fide.
>
> 5. In the case of Mohan Lal v. State of U.P., 1977 All Cri C 333 this Court observed:-
>
> "There are a series of decisions in which it has been held that the provisions contained in Section 111 of the Code are mandatory and that the non-compliance thereof vitiated the entire proceedings."
>
> 6. In the case of Madhu Limaye v. S. D. M. Mongyr, , the Apex Court, in para 36 of its judgment observed:

We have seen the provisions of Section 107. That section says that action is to be taken in the manner here-in-after provided and this clearly indicate that it is not open to a Magistrate in such a case to depart from the procedure to any substantial extent. This is very salutary because the liberty of the person is involved and the law is rightly solicitous that this liberty should only be curtaided according to its own procedure and not according to the whim of the Magistrate concerned. It behoves us, therefore, to emphasise the safeguards built into the procedure because from there will arise the consideration of the reasonableness of the restrictions in the interest of public order or in the interest of the general public."

In this very case the Apex Court went on the observe in para 37 "Since the person to be proceeded against has to show cause, it is but natural that he must know the grounds for apprehending a breach of the peace or disturbance of the public tranquillity at his hands. Although the section speaks of the `substance of the information' it does not mean the order should not be full. It may not repeat the information bodily but it must give proper notice of what has moved the Magistrate to take the action. This order is the foundation of the jurisdiction and the word 'substance' means the essence of the most important parts of the information."

7. In the present case the learned Sub-Divisional Magistrate has thrown the mandatory provisions of Section 111 of the Code to the winds and has prepared a printed pro forma. The learned Magistrate has also not recorded his opinion that there existed sufficient grounds to take action under the provisions of Section 107 of the Code."

9. In the judgment dated 04.05.2017 passed in Application U/S 482/378/407 No. 2927 of 2017(Dr. Mirza Shahab Shah vs. State Of U.P. & Ors.), this Court quashed the similar notice under Section 111 Cr.P.C., after considering the relevant provisions and judgments cited i.e. 2016 (1) U.P. Criminal Ruling page 483 and 2008 (3) U.P. Criminal Ruling page 496. The relevant portion of the judgment dated 04.05.2017 reads as under:-

"9. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that the notice issued to the applicant under Section 111 Cr.P.C. is absolutely without jurisdiction, as it does not fulfill the requirement of law. The learned counsel for the applicant has referred to a judgment of this Court reported in 2016 (1) U.P. Criminal Ruling page 483 and 2008 (3) U.P. Criminal Ruling page 496.

10. In both the aforesaid cases it has been held that passing of an order under Section 111 Cr.P.C. is not a mere formality. It should be clear on the face of the order that the order has been passed after application of judicial mind. If no substance of the information is mentioned in the order, the person against whom the order has been made, will remain ignorant of the material against him. The person to be proceeded against has to show cause, therefore, he must know the grounds for apprehending a breach of peace or disturbance at his hands. The preliminary order passed under Section 111 Cr.P.C. is the foundation of the jurisdiction and the words "substance" means, the essence of the information received by the Magistrate.

11. In the present case, a perusal of the notice issued to the applicant clearly reveals that no substance of the information received, is mentioned in the order or the notice. Even challani report sent by the police does not disclose, as to how the applicant, who is holding such an important post, would cause breach of peace. In these circumstances, I find that the learned City Magistrate has proceeded on a wrong assumption that the applicant is a person of such reputation that he may disturb law and order during the assembly elections. The learned Magistrate has not recorded his opinion that there exists sufficient grounds to take action against the applicant."

10. In similar circumstance the proceedings relating to Case No. 55 of 2019 (State vs. Pradeep Singh) under Section 111 Cr.P.C, Village- Rasoolabad, Police Station-Kaiserganj, District-Bahraich pending in the Court of Pargana Magistrate, Kaiserganj, District Bahraich was challenged by way of filing 482 Petition No. 3065 of 2019 and this Court allowed the same vide order dated 23.04.2019, which on reproduction reads as under:-

"This instant petition has been filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. challenging the entire proceedings relating to Case No. 55 of 2019 (State vs. Pradeep Singh) under Section 111 Cr.P.C. Village- Rasoolabad, Police Station Kaiserganj, District Bahraich pending in the Court of Pargana Magistrate, Kaiserganj, District Bahraich.

It is contended that Pargana Magistrate, Kaiserganj, District Bahraich has issued the impugned notice under Section 111 Cr.P.C. on the basis of the police report dated 03.03.2019 without application of judicial mind. It is alleged that impugned notice has been issued on typed format in cyclostyle manner. In the said typed format only the date and name of the police station has been filled in the gaps. It is further submitted that contrary to the provisions of Section 111 Cr.P.C., the Pargana Magistrate has not set forth the substance of the information received by him in the impugned notice which is mandatory in nature and non-compliance thereof vitiates the entire proceedings.

Learned AGA opposed the petition and has submitted that impugned proceedings under Section 111 Cr.P.C. are in accordance with law.

In this respect, learned counsel for the revisionist has relied on 2010 (2) JIC 36 (All) (LB) Rakesh Singh @ Rakesh Kumar Singh vs. State of UP. The relevant part of the judgment is reporduced as under:-

".....5. Learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance on the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Madhu Limaye v. Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Monghyr and others, reported in 1970 (3) SCC 746, Gopalanachari v. State of Kerala, reported in A.I.R. 1981 SC 674 1980 (Supp) S.C.C. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2002 (43) A.C.C. Page 627, Shiv Kant Tripathi v. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2005 (3) JIC 477 (All), Devendra Kumar v. 6. Chapter VIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 under the heading "security for keeping peace and for good behaviour" authorizes the Magistrate to take appropriate steps for preventing a person from committing breach of public peace.

7. Sections 110 and 111 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Act No.2 of 1974) are reproduced as under :-

"110. Security for good behaviour from habitual offenders.- When (an Executive Magistrate) receives information that there is within his local jurisdiction a person who-

(a) is by habit a robber, house-breaker, thief, or forger, or

(b) is by habit a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or

(c) habitually protects or harbours thieves, or aids in the concealment or disposal of stolen property, or

(d) habitually commits, or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of, the offence of kidnapping, abduction, extortion, cheating or mischief, or any offence punishable under Chapter II of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or under Section 489-A, Section 489-B, Section 489-C or Section 489-D of that Code, or

(e) habitually commits, or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of, offences, involving a breach of the peace, or

(f) habitually commits, or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of-

(I) any offence under one or more of the following Act, namely :-

(a) the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (23 of 1940);

(b) the Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1973 (46 of 1973) ;

(c) the Employees' Provident Fund (and Family Pension Fund) Act, 1952 (19 of 1952)

(d) the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954 (37 of 1954) ;

(e) the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 (10 of 1955) ;

(f) the Untouchability (Offences) Act, 1955 (22 of 1955);

(g) the Customs Act, 1962 (52 of 1962) ;

(h) the Foreigners Act, 1946 (3 of 1946) ; or

(ii) any offence punishable under any other law providing for the prevention of hoarding or profiteering or of adulteration of food or drugs or of corruption, or

(g) is so desperate and dangerous as to render his being at large without security hazardous to the community,

Such Magistrate may, in the manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period, not exceeding three years, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

111. Order to be made.- When a Magistrate acting under Section 107, Section 108, Section 109 or Section 110, deems it necessary to require any person to show cause under such section, he shall make an order in writing, setting forth the substance of the information received, the amount of the bond to be executed, the term for which it is to be in force, and the number, character and class of sureties (if any) required.

8. A bare perusal of provisions of Section 110 Cr.P.C. would reveal that the proceedings under Section 110 are taken to prevent committing such acts, a person as mentioned therein. The object of Section 110 is to afford protection to the public against a repetition of crimes against their person or property ; not a punishment of the offender for his past offences but securing good bahaviour for the future. The passing of preliminary order under section 111 Cr.P.C. is a condition precedent for taking further steps, no final order in proceeding can be passed without giving an opportunity to such person to show cause.

9. In the case of Gopalanachari (Supra), it was observed by Hon'ble the Apex Court "Law is what the law does, even as freedom is what freedom does. Going by that test, Section 110 cannot be permitted in our free Republic to pick up the homeless and the have-nots as it did when under British subjection because today to be poor is not a crime in this country. George Bernard Shaw, though ignorant of Section 110, did sardonically comment that "the greatest of evils and the worst of crimes is poverty."

10. Since Section 110 Cr.P.C. confers drastic powers, bind down suspected persons, but not proved to have committed any of the offences specified in various clauses, the power should be used with extreme caution and judicial discretion and strictly according to procedure laid down, so that it may not be used as an engine of oppressions, black-mail or private vengeance and the Magistrate should not be influenced by vague rumour or gossip.

11. In the case of Gopalanachari (Supra), Hon'ble the Apex Court observed in para -6 of the judgment as under :-

"The constitutional survival of Section 110 certainly depends on its obedience to Article 21, as this Court has expounded. Words of wide import, vague amplitude and far too generalised to be safe in the hands of the police cannot be constitutionalised in the context of Article 21 unless read down to be as a fair and reasonable legislation with reverence for human rights. A glance at Section 110 shows that only a narrow signification can be attached to the words in clauses (a) to (g), "by habit a robber.....", " by habit a receiver of stolen property .....", "habitually protects or harbours thieves.....", "habitually commits or attempts to commit or abets the commission of....." "is so desperate and dangerous as to render his being at large without security hazardous to the community." These expressions, when they become part of the preventive chapter with potential for deprivation of a man's personal freedom up to a period of three years, must be scrutinized by the court closely and anxiously. The poor are picked up or brought up, habitual witnesses swear away their freedom and courts ritualistically. commit them to prison and Article 21 is for them a freedom under total eclipse in practice. Courts are guardians of human rights. The common man looks upon the trial Court as the protector. The poor and the illiterate, who have hardly the capability to defend themselves, are nevertheless not 'non-persons', the trial Judges must remember. This Court in Hoskot case has laid down the law that a person in prison shall be given legal aid at the expense of the State by the court assigning counsel. In cases under Section 110 of the Code, the exercise is often an idle ritual deprived of reality although a man's liberty is at stake. We direct the Trial Magistrates to discharge their duties, when trying cases under Section 110, with great responsibility and whenever the counter-petitioner is a prisoner give him the facility of being defended by counsel now that Article 21 has been reinforced by Article 39- A. Otherwise the order to bind over will be bad and void. We have not the slightest doubt that expressions like 'by habit', 'habitual', 'desperate', 'dangerous', 'hazardous' cannot be flung in the face of a man with laxity of semantics. The court must insist on specificity of facts and be satisfied that one swallow does not make a summer and a consistent course of conduct convincing enough to draw the rigorous inference that by confirmed habit, which is second nature, the counter-petitioner is sure to commit the offences mentioned if he is not kept captive. Preventive sections privative of freedom, if incautiously proved by indolent judicial processes, may do deeper injury. They will have the effect of detention of one who has not been held guilty of a crime and carry with it the judicial imprimatur, to boot. To call a man dangerous is itself dangerous ; to call a man desperate is to affix a desperate adjective to stigmatize a person as hazardous to the community is itself a judicial hazard unless compulsive testimony carrying credence is abundantly available. A sociologist may pardonably take the view that it is the poor man, the man without political clout, the person without economic stamina, who in practice gets caught in the coils of Section 110 of the Code, although, we as court, cannot subscribe to any such proposition on mere assertion without copious substantiation. Even so, the court cannot be unmindful of social realities and be careful to require strict proof when personal liberty may possibly be the causality. After all, the judicial process must not fail functionally as the protector of personal liberty."

12. The powers under section 110 Cr.P.C. must be exercised after observing all the formalities required under the law. The Magistrate can apply his power only on convincing testimony that the person is clear and present danger to the society. It is for the prevention, not the punishment of the crime. The Magistrate has to exercise his discretion in judicious manner.

13. The passing of preliminary order under Section 111 Cr.P.C. is obligatory. An order under section 111 Cr.P.C. is a condition precedent for taking further steps in any proceedings under sections 107 - 110 Cr.P.C. The first thing that the Magistrate must do after receipt of the information referred to in Sections 107 - 110 Cr.P.C. is to apply his mind to such information and, if he is satisfied that there is ground for proceeding under this chapter, to pass an order in writing under section 111 Cr.P,C. The order under section 111 Cr.P.C. must be in a writing and broadly contain the elements (i) Substance of the information received under Sections 107 - 110 Cr.P.C. (as the case may be), (ii) Upon a consideration of such information he has formed the opinion that there is a likelihood of a breach of the peace and that it is necessary to proceed under the relevant sections (Sections 107 - 110 Cr.P.C. as the case may be). He is not bound to draw up an order under Section 111 Cr.P.C., merely because he has received a Police Report or other information, (iii) the amount of the bond to be executed, (iv) the term for which the bond is to remain in force, (v) The number, character and class of sureties required, in cases under Section 110 Cr.P.C., and, if so required, under Sections 107 - 109 Cr.P.C. On the other hand, the order under section 111 Cr.P.C. need not give - (i) the source of the information received, or supply a copy of the Police report (ii) the list of witnesses in support of the information or the order, (iii) the definite acts which the person intends to commit where the substance of the information is communicated, (iv) a reference to Section 111 Cr.P.C. itself, if the substantive section (107-110 Cr.P.C. as the case may be) is mentioned in the order, (v) the period of imprisonment to be suffered in default of execution of the bond, (vi) any extraneous matter.

14. In the case of Madhu Limaye (Supra), Hon'ble the Apex Court observed "Since the person to be proceeded against has to show cause, it is but natural that he must know the grounds for apprehending a breach of the peace or disturbance of the public tranquility at his hands. Although the section speaks of the 'substance' of the information it does not mean that the order should not be full. It may not repeat the information bodily but it must give proper notice of what has moved the Magistrate to take the action. This order is the foundation of the jurisdiction and the word 'substance' means the essence of the most important parts of the information."

15. From the perusal of the record, it transpires that the impugned notice under section 111 Cr.P.C. has been issued on a typed format in a cyclo styled manner and in the said typed format only the name, date and police station has been filled in the gaps and also the Pargana Magistrate did not set forth the substance of the information received by him in the impugned notice.

16. In the case of Madhu Limaye (Supra) it was held by Hon'ble the Apex Court that the person proceeded against show cause notice must be informed of the allegations made against him, by giving him the substance of the information so that he may meet such allegations.

17. The preliminary order contemplated under Section 111 Cr.P.C. is a judicial order and has to be prepared and drawn up cautiously and carefully in compliance with the provisions of section 111 Cr.P.C. and the order must contain reasons of the Magistrate satisfaction. The substance of the information is the matter upon which he has to show cause. If substance of information is not given in the order under Section 111 Cr.P.C. the person against whom the order has been made will remain in confusion. The extent of information which must be set forth depends in each case upon the circumstances of that case. The basic object of preliminary order being to give the person proceeded against an opportunity to meet the allegation made against him as well as nature of the order proposed."

In the present case also the impugned order has been passed on the printed format without recording any reasons and this shows total non application of judicial mind. The impugned order in view of the aforesaid judgment is not in accordance with law. The notice under Section 111 Cr.P.C. contains allegations on printed/cyclostyle proforma which indicates per-conceived notions hence, the impugned notice under challenge is void and proceedings against the petitioner is nullity and without jurisdiction as substance of information received as required is incomplete and ambiguous which vitiates the entire proceedings. Such notice is apparently abuse of process of law and the Pragana Magistrate has failed to comply with the mandatory requirements of Section 111 Cr.P.C. which vitiates the preliminary order as well as the consequential proceedings. The procedure followed by learned Magistrate is not in accordance with law.

Considering the aforesaid facts and law laid down by this Court as well as the Apex Court in the aforesaid cases, it is a fit case to invoke the powers of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

Consequently, the petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed and the entire proceedings relating to Case No. 55 of 2019 (State vs. Pradeep Singh) under Section 111 Cr.P.C. Village-Rasoolabad, Police Station Kaiserganj, District Bahraich pending in the Court of Pargana Magistrate, Kaiserganj, District Bahraich and the notice issued are quashed. However, learned Magistrate shall be at liberty to draw the fresh proceedings against the petitioner in accordance with the provisions of law."

11. Perused the impugned notice issued under Section 130 of BNSS and also considered the judgements placed before this Court.

12. For coming to the conclusion, it would be appropriate to take note of relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short "Cr.P.C.) (now repealed) and BNSS.

13. Chapter VIII (Security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour) of Cr.P.C. deals with preventive actions and Chapter IX (Security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour) of BNSS also deals with preventive action.

14. The relevant provisions related to the present case of Chapter VIII of Cr.P.C. are extracted herein-under:

(2) No proceedings shall be taken under this section against the editor, proprietor, printer or publisher of any publication registered under, and edited, printed and published in conformity with, the rules laid down in the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867 (25 of 1867), with

(See: Section 111 of Criminal Procedure Code 1973.)

16. From a conjoint reading of provision(s) of Cr.P.C. and BNSS, referred above, it is apparent that the same are similar/pari materia, except underlined portion(s) of the same. The underlined portion(s), in the aforesaid provision(s) have no bearing on the procedure to be followed while exercising the power under the said provision(s), which deals with preventive actions.

17. The rule of construction is well settled. A Court cannot construe a section of statue with reference to that of another unless the latter is in pari materia with the former.

18. Both the Acts, indicated above, are in pari materia i.e. statues dealing with the same subject matter or forming part of the same system, except the underlined portion(s). These underlined portion(s) do not play any role in determining the exercise of power under the said provision(s), which deals with preventive actions.

19. Thus, in view of above, the principles settled in the judgments, referred above, would also apply in relation to the proceedings related to the above referred provision(s) of BNSS.

20. Hence, any deviation from the established principles is not required.

21. In the considered opinion of the Court, when the law requires the Magistrate to apply his mind, then there has to be a due application of mind. The manner in which the notice has been issued, it clearly transpires that it has been prepared by some person of the office of the Sub Divisional Magistrate, (Sidhauli), Sitapur and thereafter he put his signatures and the notice has got issued. This practice is reprimanded. It is expected that the Sub Divisional Magistrate, (Sidhauli), Sitapur, shall apply his mind as required in law before issuing notice under Section 130 of BNSS for taking appropriate action under Section 126/135 of BNSS.

22. The notice/order appears to be on printed proforma and on a pointed query being made to the learned Additional Government Advocate, he could also not justify the notice.

23. Having considered the above including the observations made in the judgment(s) referred above as also that the impugned notice/order which appears to be a printed proforma, the notice/order dated 27.07.2024 issued by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, (Sidhauli), Sitapur, is hereby quashed.

24. Accordingly, present application is allowed.

25. Magistrate concerned shall be at liberty to issue a fresh notice/order under Sections 126/135 BNSS in accordance of law.

26. The Court records the assistance given by Ms. Urmish Shankar, Research Associate, attached with me in this judgment and finding out case laws applicable in the present case.

27. Office is directed to communicate this order to the Magistrate concerned forthwith.

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 482-Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 323, 427 & 504-summoning order-handling of rival NCRs-filing of chargesheet-Subsequent criminal complaint-the present case revolves around the legal representation and procedural handling of rival NCRs (Non Cognizable Reports) and subsequent criminal complaints under IPC-It examines the court discretion in summoning the accused under additional sections of the IPC based on the evidence presented in both the NCRs and the subsequent complaint-In this case, the learned Magistrate while passing an order u/s 204 CrPC was not aware about factum of filing of a charge sheet for non-cognizable offence in pursuance of an investigation conducted on NCR against 4 applicants and the same has not been disclosed in statements recorded u/s 202 CrPC-learned magistrate failed to take note of filing of NCR and its outcome - Hence, impugned order set aside-Matter remanded back to decide afresh.(Para 1 to 15)

B. Upon similar set of facts as well as on similar set of allegations, proceedings arising out of police report as well as proceedings of complaint case could not proceed together if they are instituting by misleading the court and abusing its process of law only with a view to harass the helpless litigants. However, in the present case, the conduct of complainant was bonafide and has no malice and he has come up with clean hands - complainant has specifically stated about lodging of NCR in the complaint and essentially it was the reason to file complaint since no FIR was lodged.(Para 11)

The application is disposed of. (E-6)

3. Prem Nath Mishra & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & anr. 2024: AHC: 124406

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. In the present case, on basis of alleged occurrence took place on 10.07.2016, complainant has lodged an NCR on 11.08.2016 i.e. about 1 month against Prakash, Manoj, Raja Babu and Bintu (applicants no. 1 to 3 and 6) for offence under Sections 323, 504, 427 IPC.

2. The complainant thereafter has filed an application under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. for investigation disclosing names of all six applicants and that they have committed offences under Sections 323, 504, 427 IPC wherein vide order dated 16.08.2016, a direction was passed for investigation. Consequently investigation was conducted on above referred NCR and a charge sheet was submitted on 03.01.2017 against above referred 4 applicants under Sections 323, 504, 427 IPC.

3. The trial Court considered above referred charge sheet as a complaint under provisions of Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. and summoned above referred 4 applicants under Sections 323, 504, 427 IPC vide order dated 18.03.2017.

4. Controversy involved in present case arose when before above referred charge sheet was filed on 03.01.2017, the complainant approached Court of a Magistrate by way of filing a criminal complaint on 17.09.2016 not only above referred 4 applicants but other two applicants (applicants no. 4 and 5) that they were involved in above referred occurrence allegedly took place on 10.07.2016 and have committed cognizable offence under Sections 452, 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC. In complaint, factor of filing NCR was disclosed with an allegation that correct facts and name of all assailants were not correctly recorded.

5. In aforesaid complaint, learned Magistrate recorded statement of complainant and witnesses respectively under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. (on 09.12.2016, 21.01.2017 and 17.07.2018) and thereafter vide order dated 16.11.2018 passed under Section 204 Cr.P.C. summoned all applicants to face trial for offence under Sections 452, 323, 504, 506, 427 IPC. It would be relevant to refer here that statement of complainant Nawab Singh and witness Kunwar Singh were earlier recorded by police during investigation of NCR but this fact was not disclosed in their subsequent statement recorded in criminal complaint case as well as they have disclosed involvement of only 4 applicants therein.

6. Applicants being aggrieved by above summoning order have filed a revision petition mainly on ground that on same occurrence, complainant has already filed an NCR wherein name of only 4 applicants were mentioned for committing non-cognizable offence, on which investigation was conducted and a charge sheet under non-cognizable offence against only 4 applicants was filed and which was treated as a complaint case and summons were issued. Aforesaid facts were suppressed at least during arguments and trial Court has also not taken endeavour to call a report on it and erroneously summoned the applicants.

7. In support of above grounds, Sri Rishi Bhushan Johari, Advocate holding brief of Sri Mayank Pratap Singh, learned counsel for applicants has placed reliance on Krishna Lal Chawla and others vs. State of U.P. and others, (2021) 5 SCC 435 and Kapil Agarwal and others vs. Sanjay Sharma and others, (2021) 5 SCC 524 that filing of multiple complaints for similar alleged occurrence by improving earlier version, would be considered as abuse of process of law.

8. Sri Dharmendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for opposite party-2 and learned AGA for State have not disputed aforesaid facts on basis of record but they submitted that there is no legal bar in lodging NCR and complaint case on same occurrence and in such event, procedure prescribed under Section 210 Cr.P.C. would be applicable.

9. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

10. As referred above, it is not disputed that on basis of same occurrence, two proceedings were initiated, one arising out of charge sheet filed on basis of non-cognizable report wherein after investigation, a charge sheet was filed for non-cognizable offence and proceedings were commenced as per Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. and another on basis of a complaint case wherein after statement recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. summons were issued against all applicants for committing cognizable offence.

11. Issue involved in present case has recently been considered by this Court in a judgment passed in the case of Prem Nath Mishra and others vs. State of U.P. and another, 2024:AHC:124406 and relevant paragraphs thereof being relevant are quoted below -:

> "6. Sri Deepak Upadhyay, learned counsel for applicants has heavily placed reliance on Krishna Lal Chawla and another vs. State of U.P. and another, (2021) 5 SCC 435 that on similar set of facts as well as on similar set of allegations, proceedings arising out of police report as well as proceedings of complaint case could not proceed together if they are instituting by misleading the Court and abusing its process of law only with a view to harass the helpless litigants and relevant paragraphs thereof are quoted below -:
>
> "23. As aforesaid, the trial courts and the Magistrates have an important role in curbing this injustice. They are the first lines of defence for both the integrity of the criminal justice system, and the harassed and distraught litigant. We are of the considered opinion that the trial courts have the power to not merely decide on acquittal or conviction of the accused person after the trial, but also the duty to nip frivolous litigations in the bud even before they reach the stage of trial by discharging the accused in fit cases. This would not only save judicial time that comes at the cost of public money, but would also protect the right to liberty that every person is entitled to under Article 21 of the Constitution. In this context, the trial Judges have as much, if not more, responsibility in safeguarding the fundamental rights of the citizens of India as the highest court of this land.
>
> 24. As recorded by us above, the present controversy poses a typical example of frivolous litigants abusing court process to achieve their mischievous ends. In the case before us, the Magistrate was aware of the significant delay in the filing of private complaint by Respondent 2, and of the material improvements from the earlier NCR No. 158 of 2012 which were made in the private complaint. It was incumbent on the Magistrate to examine any possibility of abuse of process of the court, make further enquiries, and dismiss the frivolous complaint at the outset after judicial application of mind.
>
> 25. However, this was not done — the Magistrate issued process against the appellants by order dated 4-4-2019, and this controversy has now reached this Court for disposal.
> 26. It is a settled canon of law that this Court has inherent powers to prevent the abuse of its own processes, that this Court shall not suffer a litigant utilising the institution of justice for unjust means. Thus, it would be only proper for this Court to deny any relief to a litigant who attempts to pollute the stream of justice by coming to it with his unclean hands. Similarly, a litigant pursuing frivolous and vexatious proceedings cannot claim unlimited right upon court time and public money to achieve his ends.

27. This Court's inherent powers under Article 142 of the Constitution to do "complete justice" empowers us to give preference to equity and a justice-oriented approach over the strict rigours of procedural law (State of Punjab v. Rafiq Masih [State of Punjab v. Rafiq Masih, (2014) 8 SCC 883 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 657 : (2014) 6 SCC (Cri) 154 : (2014) 3 SCC (L&S) 134]). This Court has used this inherent power to quash criminal proceedings where the proceedings are instituted with an oblique motive, or on manufactured evidence (Monica Kumar v. State of U.P. [Monica Kumar v. State of U.P., (2008) 8 SCC 781 : (2008) 3 SCC (Cri) 649]). Other decisions have held that inherent powers of High Courts provided in Section 482 CrPC may be utilised to quash criminal proceedings instituted after great delay, or with vengeful or mala fide motives. (Sirajul v. State of U.P. [Sirajul v. State of U.P., (2015) 9 SCC 201 : (2015) 3 SCC (Cri) 749] ; State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426 : AIR 1992 SC 604] .) Thus, it is the constitutional duty of this Court to quash criminal proceedings that were instituted by misleading the court and abusing its processes of law, only with a view to harass the hapless litigants.

28. In this Court's quest for complete justice, and to bring peace between the parties, who are fighting various litigations since 2006, we exercise our powers under Article 142 to quash all the litigations between the parties arising out of this incident."

9. It is not much in dispute that on basis of alleged occurrence, complainant has first filed an NCR wherein after investigation, charge sheet was filed for non-cognizable offence and trial Court considered it to be a complaint case under Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. and summons were issued to applicants for offence u/s 323 and 504 IPC.

10. After charge sheet was filed and before summons were issued, complainant has filed a criminal complaint disclosing facts of NCR that applicants have committed cognizable offence and trial Court vide impugned order, after considering statement u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. has summoned the applicants for offence u/s 323, 504, 506 and 452 IPC.

11. Court takes note of Krishna Lal Chawla (supra) that multiple proceedings on same set of facts could not be proceeded further and it could be quashed if they are attended with malafide and initiated only to harass accused persons.

12. In present case, there is no argument on behalf of learned counsel for applicants that impugned passed u/s 204 Cr.P.C. itself is illegal as no requisite reason was assigned that there are sufficient grounds to proceed against applicants as well as that it was not based on material available on record i.e. complaint, statement recorded u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. Relevant part of impugned order has already been quoted in preceding paragraph.

13. In the present case, complainant has specifically stated about lodging of NCR in the complaint and essentially it was reason to file complaint since no FIR was lodged. The applicants have not brought on record before trial Court about factum of filing charge sheet for non-cognizable offence in pursuance of NCR and that it was treated as a complaint case under Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. The conduct of complainant was bonafide and has no malice as he has come up with clean hands.

14. Legal error committed by trial Court is that despite being aware that an NCR was already lodged. No police report was summoned to ascertain outcome of NCR and facts thereof only on ground that on some set of allegations, both NCR/FIR and criminal complaint was filed, itself would not be a malafide approach rather the Court has to look into attending circumstances to ascertain whether it was a creature of malafide which is not evident in present case."

12. In present case also, the learned Magistrate while passing an order under Section 204 Cr.P.C. was not aware about factum of filing of a charge sheet for non-cognizable offence in pursuance of an investigation conducted on NCR against 4 applicants and same has not been disclosed in statements of witnesses recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C. though in the statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C., complainant has disclosed about fact of lodging NCR with a contention that it was not rightly recorded. The advocate who has argued for summoning has also not disclosed status, though prior to impugned order, four applicants were summoned in complaint case (under Section 2(d) Cr.P.C.), possibly learned counsel was not properly instructed. For reference, order passed under Section 204 Cr.P.C. on 16.11.2018 is quoted below -:

परिवाद की यह पत्रावली आदेश हेतु पेश हुई। पूर्व नियत दिनांक पर परिवादी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता को सुना जा चुका है, आदेश हेतु पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

परिवाद में तथ्य संक्षेप में इस प्रकार हैं कि दिनांक 10-07-2016 को समय करीब 11-00 बजे परिवादी अपने घर पर था कि तभी पडा◌ेसी प्रकाश परिवादी की पत्नी से गुपचुप तरीके से बात कर रहा था। प्रकाश से परिवादी ने पूछा कि तुम मेरी पत्नी से क्या बात कर रहे हो तो इतना सुनते ही प्रकाश उसे गन्दी गन्दी गालियों देते हुए चला गया और थोडी देर बाद समय 11-30 बजे प्रकाश अपने भाईयों मनोज, राजाबाबू, दीपक, वीरेन्द्र व बिन्दू के साथ एकराय मश्वरा होकर उसके घर में गन्दी गन्दी गालियों देते हुए घुस आया और लात मुक्कों, लाठी डण्डा व सरिया से मारपीट करने लगे। विपक्षीगण ने उसकी जेब से मोबाइल निकाल कर तोड दिया। चीख पुकार कुँवर चौधरी, तेजवीर आदि काफी लोग मौके पर आ गए, जिन्होंने घटना देखी और उसे बचाया। विपक्षीगण जान से मारने की धमकी देते हुए चले गए।

परिवादिनी ने अपने कथनों के समर्थन में स्वंय को तथा तारा 202 द०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत साक्षीगण कुमर चौधरी व श्यामवीर सिंह का मौखिक साक्ष्य अंकित कराया है।

प्रस्तुत मामले में परिवादिनी के द्वारा विपक्षीगण पर मुख्य रूप से घर में घुसकर गाली गलौच कर मारपीट करने व जान से मारने की धनकी देवे व जेब से मोवाइल निकालकर तोड देने का अभियोग लगाते हुए यह परिवाद प्रस्तुत किया है।

धारा 200 द०प्र०सं० के बयानों में परिवादिनी द्वारा यह कहा गया है कि विपक्षीगण प्रकाश, मनोज, राजाबाबू, दीपक, वीरेन्द्र व विन्दू के साथ एकराय मश्वरा होकर उसके घर में गन्दी गन्दी गालियां देते हुए घुस आए और लात मुक्का, लाठी डण्डा व

सरिया से मारपीट करने लगे। उसकी जेब से मोबाइल निकाल कर तोड दिया तथा लोगों के आने पर जान से मारने की धमकी देते हुए चले गए। इसी प्रकार के तथ्यों का उल्लेख परिनादी की ओर से परीक्षित साक्षीगण द्वारा अपने बयान अन्तर्गत धारा 202 द०प्र०सं० में भी किया गया है।

विपक्षीगण के विरूद्ध परिवादी की ओर से प्रस्तुत की गई साक्ष्य व साक्षीगण की साक्ष्य के विश्लेषण से विपक्षीगण प्रकाश, मनोज, राजाबाबू, दीपक, वीरेन्द्र व बिन्दू के विरूद्ध धारा 452, 323, 504, 506 व 427 भा०द०सं० का अपराध बनना प्रथम दृष्टया प्रतीत हो रहा है। तदानुसार अभियुक्तगण प्रकाश, मनोज, राजाबाबू, दीपक, वीरेन्द्र व बिन्टू उक्त अपराध में तलब किए जाने योग्य हैं।"

13. In present case, arguments were on legal issue and no argument was submitted that impugned order was legally incorrect on basis of statements recorded under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. and that there was no sufficient grounds to proceed.

14. The contents of above referred impugned order shows that learned Magistrate has absolutely not taken note of filing of NCR and its outcome as well as not taken step or endeavour to ascertain it. It is also apparent that before Revisional Court also, specific legal and factual issues were not properly raised.

15. Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C rejected. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

Oral Order:

1. In the present case few facts are not under disputed that complainant has initially lodged an FIR against present applicants, which was registered as Crime No. 0086 of 2020, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 342, 504, 307 I.P.C., Police Station Noorpur, District Bijnor.

2. In the aforesaid FIR investigation was conducted, however, a final report was submitted on 27.04.2020. The complainant thereof filed a Protest Petition, which was considered as a Criminal Complaint by an order dated 06.12.2022. Thereafter, statement of complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C. were recorded and present applicants were summoned under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 504 I.P.C. by impugned order dated 31.05.2023 passed under Section 204 Cr.P.C.

3. Learned counsel for applicants has mainly argued that impugned order was passed essentially on basis of a medical report of injured which has been extensively recorded and considered in the impugned order. His further argument is that the said medical report was not placed by complainant or witnesses during proceedings and was taken note possibly from document annexed with the charge sheet, which ought to not have done as it was alien to procedure prescribed for consideration of complaint case and to pass an order under Section 204 Cr.P.C.

4. It is further contended that even on basis of nature of injury, which is "Lacerated 2 x 2 cm right upper margin are inverted, blackening wound bone deep and tattooing are present and also blackening present. KUO. Opinion- above injury are KUO, Fresh and caused by fire arm," was not sufficient to summon the applicants under Section 307 I.P.C. as not only it was caused on non vital part, but was not dangerous to life also. It is on record that doctors, who examined injured as well as operated, were examined under Section 202 Cr.P.C. The relevant part of impugned order is reproduced hereinafter:-

"पत्रावली के अवलोकन से विदित है कि परिवादी द्वारा विपक्षीगण पर मुख्यतः यह आरोप किया गया कि जब वादी के चाचा अमरपाल खेत पर काम कर रहे थे, तब अभियुक्तगण ने वादी के चाचा अमरपाल को घेरकर गालियां देते हुए उन पर जान से मारने की नीयत से फायर किया, जिससे वे घायल हो गये। परिवादी द्वारा बयान अंतर्गत धारा 200 दं०प्र०सं० में घटना का समर्थन किया गया है। परिवादी साक्षी अमरपाल, जो कि प्रकरण का चुटैल भी है, उसके द्वारा स्वयं पर विपक्षीगण महेन्द्र, उदयराज, सनी, आकाश, देवेंद्र तथा ओमकार द्वारा तमंचे से फायर करना कहा गया है तथा दाहिने हाथ में गोली लगना कहा गया है। परिवादी साक्षी बरम सिंह द्वारा भी घटना का समर्थन किया गया है। परिवादी साक्षी डॉ. अजय धर्मेश द्वारा बयान अंतर्गत धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० में कहा गया कि अमरपाल सिंह का मेडिकल मेरे द्वारा दिनांक 19 मार्च 2020 को किया गया। मैं उस दिन प्राथमिक स्वास्थ्य केंद्र नूरपुर पर अपनी ड्यूटी पर मौजूद था। मजरूब के

मेडिकल रिपोर्ट के अवलोकन से दर्शित है कि मजरूब अमरपाल सिंह का मेडिकल पुलिस द्वारा दिनांक 19.03.2020 को समय 07:15 अपराह्न पर कराया गया है, जिसमें मजरूब अमरपाल सिंह को निम्नलिखित चोट दर्शायी गयी है:- Lacerated 2 x 2 cm right upper margin are inverted, blackeningwound bone deep and tattooing are present and also blackening present. 5. The above submissions are opposed by Sri Nagendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2, though on basis of material on record, he is not able to show that above referred medical report was either placed by complainant or witnesses during their statements recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. except in impugned order, the learned Trial Court has noted in impugned order that medical report, supplementary report and x-ray report was available on record. So far as nature of injury is concerned, it is the argument of learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 that aforesaid fire arm injury was caused when injured has tried to safe his life from a bullet aimed on him and it hit him on hand and by operation, number of pellets were taken out.

6. Heard Sri Rajnish Kumar Singh, Advocate holding brief of Sri Amit Rana, learned counsel for applicants, Sri Nagendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2, learned A.G.A. for State and perused the record.

7. The above referred facts are not under disputed that an FIR was lodged by complainant, which was investigated and finally a final report was submitted. Lateron a Protest Petition was filed by complainant, which was treated as a Complaint Case and thereafter statements were recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. and thereafter applicants were summoned by impugned order dated 31.05.2023, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 504 I.P.C.

8. In present case, complainant got examined Dr. Ajay Dharmesh and Dr. Naresh Johari, under Section 202 Cr.P.C., who have examined and operated the injured. नाम साक्षी- अमरपाल सिह पुत्र यादराम सिह उम्र लगभग 57 वर्ष नि० ग्राम पुरैना थाना नूरपुर जिला बिजनोर ने सशपथ बयान किया कि मेरा व मेरे गावं अनोध (Anodh) का खेत की मेढ को लेकर विवाद चल रहा था। दि० 19.3.20 को समय 6:30 बजे शाम में अपने दूसरे खेत पर काम कर रहा था तभी महेन्द्र पुत्र सुखबीर उदयराज पुत्र महेन्द्र सनी पुत्र अनोर आकाश पुत्र अनोद देवेन्द्र पुत्र सुखबीर तथा ओमकार पुत्र कुन्दन अपने हाथों में तमन्चे लेकर मेरे खेत पर आ गये और कहने लगे कि दो दिन पहले तूने हमारे अनोद कुमार के चोट पहुँचायी तो उस मुकदमें में कानून तुझे सजा सुनाने में काफी देर करेगा इसलिए हम तुझे आज ही सजा सुना देते हे। आज गोली मार देगें तुझे, और इतना कहते ही सभी मुल्जिमान ने एक राय होकर कहा कि सालो को जान से मार दो सनी पुत्र अनोद व आकाश पुत्र अनोद ने अपने हाथों मे लिये तमन्चों से मुझे जान से मारने की नीयत से तमन्चों से फायर कर दिये। ।

मै उक्त मुल्जिमानो के इरादे को भाप गया और एक तरफ को हटा गया जिससे मुलजिमानो द्वारा चलायी गयी गोली मेरे सीने मे न लग कर हाथ मे लग गयी और मै घायल अवस्था में ही लूडक गया।

गोलियों की आवाज सुनकर मेरा भतीजा लवनीश कुमार तथा नइम सिह और गांव के काफी लोग घटना स्थल पर पहुँच गये भीड़ को देखकर उक्त सभी मुलिजमान भाग गये तब मेरे परिजन व मौके पर पहुंचे भीड़ की मदद से मुझे तुरन्त अस्पताल ले जाया गया

जहा मेरी गम्भीर स्थिति को देखकर नूरपुर से सरकारी अस्पताल तिर्वा रेफर कर दिया मेरे परिवार वालें मुझे जिला अस्पताल बिजनौर में भर्ती कर दिया।

दि० 20.3.20 को मेरा एक्स-रे हुआ जिसमें मेरे गोली दाहिने हाथ की भुजा में गोली फसा होना बताया गया था जिनके आधार पर 23.3.20 को डाक्टर के द्वारा आपरेशन करके गोली निकाली तब जाकर मेरी जान बची है। मुल्जिमानों को पहले से जानता था मैने उन्हे ठीक से पहचान लिया था।

10. Under aforesaid circumstances, on basis of statement of injured as well as statement of doctors, at this stage, it is not under disputed that injured has suffered a fire arm injury at his right forearm and he was operated also wherein pellets were recovered. Nature of fire arm injury clearly indicate that it was fired from a close range.

11. The argument of learned counsel for applicants is that the learned Magistrate could not peruse material placed alongwith the charge sheet and in present case the document is a medical report. Though, he may be legally correct in regard to statements recorded under Sections 161 Cr.P.C. or 164 Cr.P.C. after Protest Petition was considered as a complaint but the Magistrate, who is conducting an investigation himself under the procedure as provided under Cr.P.C. for complaint case is not so handicapped that even it could not look the material annexed alongwith charge sheet, specifically a document, which could fall within fore corner of a 'public document' as deprived under Section 74 of Indian Evidence Act. It is not under disputed that medical report was placed on record during investigation, therefore, a medical report collected during investigation is a public document and contents thereof are not much in dispute. Learned Magistrate has perused the said document only in order to verify statement of injured as well as statement of doctors recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C., which was completely corroborated. Therefore, there was no legal error if the Magistrate has looked into the medical report annexed alongwith charge sheet, even while passing an order under Section 204 Cr.P.C. At one stage, learned Magistrate has referred that these documents were available on record (पत्रावली).

12. Now, only argument left for consideration is whether referred nature of injury is prima facie sufficient to summon applicants under Section 307 I.P.C. In this regard, contents of Section 307 I.P.C. would become relevant, wherein it has been stated that "whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder and in case if hurt is caused, he may be punished either to life imprisonment which may extent to ten years". In this regard, the statement of P.W.-3 (Dr. Ajay Dharmesh), P.W.-4 (Dr. Naresh Johari) as well as statement of injured P.W.-1 (Amarpal), which are part of earlier paragraph are relevant is also reproduced hereinafter:-

13. As referred above, injured has specifically stated that accused person have fired upon him aiming his chest, but since he step aside, he was hurt by fire arm on his hand and he immediately fallen down as well as the Court also takes note that P.W.-2 and P.W.-3, Doctors have also stated in their statements about nature of fire arm injury that there was a blackening, as such, it was shot from a close range. The doctors have also stated that medical report as well as supplementary report was handed over to Investigating Officer. At this stage, the Court is only considering where there are sufficient material grounds to proceed against applicants as required under Section 204 Cr.P.C. and is not conducting a mini trial whether conviction could be made out or not. Therefore, even considering statements referred above, even without looking into the medical report, nature of injury is absolutely clear that it was a fire arm injury, shot from a close range and after operation pellets were recovered.

14. In these circumstances, statement of injured become very relevant that it was aimed on his chest and therefore, essential ingredients of Section 307 I.P.C. are prima facie made out that has assailant at least knowledge that under such circumstances (i.e. when he aimed at chest of injured, if he by that act caused death he would be guilty of murder).
