Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 447 - Prevention of Damage of Public Property Act, 1984-section 2/3-challenge to –summoning order-demarcation of land-the petitioners claimed ownership of Gata No. 437, which they purchased through registered sale deeds, while the State alleged that they had encroached on the adjacent public land i.e. Gata no. 436-Held, the court determined that the issue was fundamentally a civil land dispute not a criminal matter-the demarcation of land, ordered by the court, could not be completed due to the lack of fixed boundary points-The prosecution failed to prove any intent to commit criminal offence, a requirement for a conviction u/s 447 IPC. (Para 1 to 22) (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Renu Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant as well as learned AGA for the State.

2. Instant petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been preferred for quashing of the F.I.R. and consequential criminal proceedings with the following prayer:-

"Wherefore, it is most respectfully prayed that for the reasons mentioned in the accompanying petition this Hon'ble Court may very kindly be pleased to set-aside the impugned order dated 23.06.2022 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-V, Lucknow, in case No. 82783 of 2022 in First Information Report No. 0631 of 2018 under Section 447 I.P.C. and 2/3 Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 at the police station-Ashiyana, District-Lucknow.

It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to quash the chargesheet No.1 dated 29.06.2020 in First Information Report No. 0631 of 2018 under Section 447 I.P.C. and 2/3 Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 at the police station-Ashiyana, District-Lucknow.

It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to quash the entire proceedings of Case No. 82783 of 2022 State Vs. Shrawan Sachan and Ors. arises out from First Information Report No. 0631 of 2018 under Section 447 I.P.C. and 2/3 Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, at the police station-Ashiyana, District-Lucknow pending in the court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-V, Lucknow"

3. It is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that impugned order dated 23.06.2022 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-V, Lucknow in case No. 82783 of 2022 in First Information Report No. 0631 of 2018 under Section 447 I.P.C. and 2/3 Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 at the police station-Ashiyana, District-Lucknow is a non speaking, unreasoned and cryptic order. The Court has taken cognizance of charge-sheet and summoned the accused on the basis of charge-sheet submitted by Investigating Officer on 19.06.2020 under Section 447 I.P.C. and 2/3 of Prevention of Damage of Public Property Act, 1984 with respect to Gata No. 436 measuring area 0.635 hectare situated in village Aurangabad Jagir, Tehsil Sarojni Nagar, Police Station-Ashiyana, District-Lucknow. Investigating Officer without investigating the matter at all submitted charge-sheet arbitrarily under Section 447 I.P.C. Gata No. 437-Sa of village Aurangabad Jageer, Sarojini Nagar, Lucknow consist of total area of 20 Biswa. Out of total 20 Biswa of Gata No. 437-Sa, the petitioner No. 2 purchased 10 Biswa through registered sale deed dated 02.06.2003 and reamining 10 Biswa land of Gata No. 437-Sa was purchased by the petitioner No. 3 through registered sale-deed dated 23.05.2006 and the name of petitioner No. 2 and 3 were also mutated in the revenue records. It is further submitted that petitioners have never raised any construction over any part of Gata No. 436 situated in Village Aurangabad and they are in peaceful possession of Khasra No. 437-Sa and constructed four rooms, one Kitchen, Two Latrines and Bathrooms and one Gate and also started living with effect from the year 2009. Tehsildar, Lucknow Nagar Nigam issued a notice dated 02.07.2007 regarding the encroachment over land of Khasra No. 436. Immediately after the service of notice, petitioner No. 2 submitted the reply on 16.07.2007. After the lapse of about 8 years, when the petitioners were on their work and were not present over the aforesaid property, opposite party No. 4 demolished the part of the construction of the petitioners with the help of officials. Petitioner, thereafter, approached the Hon'ble High Court by filing Writ Petition No. 7423 (M/B)/2015 Akhilesh Kumar Sachan and Ors. Vs. State of U.P. After hearing the matter at length, Hon'ble Court directed ?petitioners are permitted to apply for demarcation and directed that if the said application is made, the demarcation shall be carried out in accordance with law expeditiously preferably within period of one month from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order?. It is next contended that petitioners along with certified copy of the order dated 18.08.2015 applied for demarcation in the office of Commissioner on 18.08.2015, thereafter, the Additional Commissioner, Lucknow Nagar Nigam issued a letter dated 04.09.2015 to apply for demarcation of land in question in the Court of Deputy Collector Sarojini Nagar, Lucknow. When the petitioners moved an application dated 15.09.2015 before the Commissioner, it was replied that the land in question comes within the territorial limit of Municipal Authorities, therefore demarcation was also done by Nagar Nigam, Lucknow. Thereafter, the petitioner filed contempt petition dated 2271(C) of 2015 but demarcation could not take place because of non-availaibility of fixed point the demarcation of plot is not possible. The Tehsildar, Shri Rajesh Kumar Srivastava appeared before the Hon'ble Court in contempt proceedings and stated that because of non-availability of fixed point, demarcation of land is not possible by traditional method of demarcation. Finally the contempt petition was disposed of with a note that petitioner are directed to apply for demarcation in terms of order issued by Writ Court dated 18.08.2018 within a period of three months. Opposite parties instead of demarcating the lands lodged F.I.R. against the petitioner. It is also submitted that the informant was itself part of committee who was assigned the work of demarcation and he was well aware of the fact that demarcation of the land is not possible. It is also submitted that it is civil dispute which has been given the colour of criminality. It is further contended by learned counsel for the applicant that he has purchased Khasra No. 437 and he is very well in possession of Khasra No. 437 and he has nothing to do with Khasra No. 436. When the petitioners came to know about the said F.I.R. they provided all the documents of Court proceedings to Investigating Officer including copy of the judgments but Investigating Officer without taking into account the said orders, arbitrarily filed charge-sheet against petitioners. Learned trial court had taken cognizance on 23.06.2022 without application of mind and without looking into the fact whether any material is available against the petitioners for cognizance. Hence, it is prayed to quash the impugned order dated 23.06.2022.

4. Learned AGA for the State submitted that petitioners encroached Gata No. 436 in the garb of Gata No. 437 and the Gata No. 436 is public land, therefore, charge-sheet is filed with due care and Court has taken cognizance well on the basis of evidence collected during the investigation.

5. I have heard the rival submissions advanced on behalf of the parties and perused the entire material brought on record. The questions arises as to whether the land in dispute belonged to applicants or they had illegally encroached upon the land vested in Gram Sabha. It can be adjudicated by Revenue Court itself, if it is found that petitioners have encroached public land then the proper proceedings for eviction of the unauthorized occupants can be undertaken under Section 67 of the Revenue Code 2006. The short cut procedure should not be adopted to dis-possess the petitioner without applying due procedure of law.

6. The Sub-Divisional Officer is empowered to take action on the information received from Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti or other authority or Lekhpal concerned about such illegal occupation or damage or mis-appropriation of Gram Sabha land. In any case, any person is found in illegal possession of such land in contravention of provisions of Revenue Code, The Sub-Divisional Officer has to issue notice to the person concerned to show cause as to :- (I) why compensation for damage, misappropriation or wrongful occupation specified in the notice be not recovered from him? (ii) why he should not be evicted from such land?

7. The person to whom such a notice is issued under sub-Section (2) of Section 67 of the Code, can submit his reply disclosing his right or entitlement or nature of occupation over the land in question, thereafter the Sub-Divisional Officer should pass a reasoned order. The amount of compensation for damage or misappropriation of the property or for wrongful occupation, as the case may be, recovered from such person as arrears of land revenue. Under sub-Section (4) of Section 67, the Officer is empowered to discharge the notice if he forms an opinion that the person showing cause is not guilty of causing the damage or misappropriation or wrongful occupation of the property in question. Any person aggrieved by the order of Sub-Divisional Officer may prefer an appeal to the Collector within thirty days from the date of such order. The procedure for undertaking the procedure under Section 67 of the Revenue Code, thus, is complete in itself and does not leave any scope for any further computation of damage for wrongful occupation, damage caused or misappropriation of Gram Sabha land.

8. Section 210 of Revenue Code confers supervisory power on Board or Commissioner to call for the record of any proceedings decided by Sub-Divisional Officer in which no appeal lies for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit. The nature of eviction proceedings under Section 67 of Revenue Code, 2006 is however, summary in nature. The rights of parties claimed, if gives rise to a dispute requiring adjudication on the question of fact, a suit for declaration has to be instituted against such person. Gram Sabha may institute a suit under Section 145 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 for declaration of its right or to seek any further relief.

9. As far as criminal proceeding for illegal encroachment, damage or trespass over the land belonging to Gram Sabha is concerned, the same can be undertaken but it would be subject to the adjudication of rights of parties over the land in dispute as the said determination can be done only by the revenue Court. As far as the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 is concerned, the same has been enacted with the specific purpose. The statement of objects and reasons of the said Act shows that it was enacted with a view to curb acts of vandalism and damages to public property including destruction and damage caused during riots and public commotion. A need was felt to strengthen the law to enable the authorities to deal with cases of damage to public property. The ?Public Property? as defined under Section 2(b) of P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 means any property, whether immovable or movable (including any machinery) which is owned by or under possession or under the control of the Central or State Government or any local authority or any Corporation or any institution established by the Central Provincial or State Act or its undertaking.

10. Section 3 of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 provided that anyone who commits mischief by doing any act in respect of any ?public property? including the nature referred in sub-Section(2) in the said Section shall be punished with imprisonment and a fine depending upon the nature of the property as per sub-Section (1) and sub-Section (2) of Section 3 of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984. Section 4 provides punishment for an act of ?Mischief? causing damage to public property by fire or explosive substance.

11. The provisions oblige a person found guilty of commission of offence to pay the damage or loss caused to the public property. This Act, thus, covers the specific area of damage or loss or destruction to the public properties and recovery of such damages from a person who is found guilty of such damage.

12. In Re. Destruction of Public and Private Properties, In Re vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and others1. Taking a serious note of various instances where there was a large scale destruction of public and private properties in the name of agitations, bandhs, hartals and the like, suo motu proceedings had been initiated by the Apex Court and two committees were appointed to give suggestions on strengthening of the legal provisions of P.D.P.P. Act to effectively deal with such instances. The recommendations of two committees were considered and it was observed that the suggestions were extremely important and they constitute sufficient guidelines which need to be adopted. It was left open to the appropriate authorities to take effective steps for their implementation.

13. In a recent decision in Kodungallur Film Society and another vs. Union of India and others2, relief was sought to issue a mandamus to the appropriate authorities to strictly follow and implement the guidelines formulated by the Apex Court "Destruction of Public & Private Properties In re:", with regard to measures to be taken to prevent destruction of public and private properties in mass protests and demonstrations and also regarding the modalities of fixing liability and recovering compensation for damages caused to public and private properties during such demonstration and protests.

14. It was acknowledged in Kodungallur Film Society2 that the recommendations of the Committee noted in the said judgment travesed the length and breadth of the issue at hand and, if implemented in their entirety, would go a long way in removing the bane of violence caused against persons and property.

15. As far as implementation of the said recommendations, the Union had advised the States to follow the same in its letter and spirit. Issuing directions to implement recommendations made by the Apex Court in both the above decisions. Direction was issued in Kodungallur Film Society2 to both the Central and the State Government to do the same at the earliest.

16. In compliance thereof, the State of U.P. notified the "Uttar Pradesh Recovery of Damages to Public and Private Property Rules, 2020", framed with a view to provide for recovery of damages to public and private property during hartal, bundh, riots, public commotion, protests etc. in respect of the property and imposition of fine. The said 'Rules' provide for constitution of the claims tribunal to investigate the damages caused and to award compensation related thereto.

17. The area which is covered by the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 is, thus, confined to the destruction or damage to the 'public property' within the meaning of Section 2(b) of the Act during the course of riots or public demonstrations (commotion). The said provisions, in the considered opinion of the Court, cannot be invoked for lodging the criminal complaint or the first information report on the allegations of damage or loss caused to the Gram Sabha land by illegal encroachment against a person permanently residing in the village or a tenure holder of any land in the village in question.

18. In the said set of circumstances, the inherent dispute is whether the construction were raised by petitioner in Gata no. 437-Sa or Gata No. 436 which can be decided very well by demarcation proceedings. Demarcation of the land was directed by this Court itself, and the Committee of seven members reported that the land in dispute is now thickly populated and no fixed point can be ascertained, therefore, at this stage, it is not possible to conduct demarcation proceedings. It is the duty of State to demarcate and show that the disputed land on which construction is raised belongs to State before lodging the F.I.R. against a person stating that he had encroached public land. First of all, State should show that it is public land. There is no dispute over the fact that land of Gata No. 436 belongs to State, however, Gata no. 437 containing 20 Biswa of land was purchased by petitioner No. 2 and 3. The construction, as per the petitioner, is raised only on gata No. 437. If State wants to proceed to lodge F.I.R. on the ground that construction was raised on Gata No. 436, prima facie, there must be demarcation

19. So far as allegation of criminal offence under Section 447 I.P.C. is concerned, prosecution has to prove and the Court has to return a finding on the fact that trespassing was committed with one of the intent enumerated in Section 441 I.P.C. Prosecution has not only to allege but also to prove that entry of unlawful occupation must be with the intention to commit an offence or to intimidate, insult or annoy any person in possession of property. Every trespass by itself is not criminal. In the absence of such finding conviction under Section 447 cannot be sustained.

20. Offence under Section 447 I.P.C. is compoundable by Magistrate it is to be tried summarily. Even if there is there is no trespass, an accused may lay a bonafide claim and right in the land in question, then too, offence under Section 447 I.P.C. cannot be charged against accused. If the petitioners are bonafide purchasers of the land in dispute and in possession State has right to dispossess him by proving that it is the part of Gata No. 436 but State cannot take action against the citizen. Mere trespassing without intention to intimidate, insult or annoy is not sufficient to constitute offence under Section 447 of the I.P.C.

21. Here in the case at hand, petitioners specifically established their right that they are bona fide purchaser, hence, the lodging of F.I.R. for demolishing the construction of petitioner is unfair. Information lodged F.I.R. without disclosing the fact that demarcation proceedings were directed by this Court and the Committee of seven members failed to demarcate, even charge-sheet does not disclose the appreciation of any particular material on record against the petitioners. The order of taking cognizance passed by the Magistrate is also passed in a cursory manner, even without mentioning the contents of case diary, hence, the criminal action proposed against the accused is a result of inadvertent taking of cognizance. In view of the discussions as above, F.I.R., charge-sheet and the criminal proceedings initiated against the applicants vide order dated 23.06.2022 in case crime No. 82783 of 2022 in First Information Report No. 0631 of 2018 under Section 447 I.P.C. and 2/3 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, Police Station-Ashiyana, District-Lucknow pending the Court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-V, Lucknow deserves to be set-aside.

22. In view of the discussions as above, impugned order dated 23.06.2022 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-V, Lucknow, in case No. 82783 of 2022 in First Information Report No. 0631 of 2018 under Section 447 I.P.C. and 2/3 Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, Police Station-Ashiyana, District-Lucknow is hereby set-aside and instant petition is hereby allowed.

Harveen Kaur: AIR 2017 SC 4417 and further order passed by the Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal Defective No. 392 of 2019: Shalini Massey Vs. Neeraj Samuel Dass decided on 07.01.2020. Paragraph Nos. 19 and 20 of Amardeep Singh (Supra) are reproduced hereinunder:-

"19. Applying the above to the present situation, we are of the view that where the court dealing with a matter is satisfied that a case is made out to waive the statutory period under Section 13-B(2), it can do so after considering the following:

(i) the statutory period of six months specified in Section 13-B(2), in addition to the statutory period of one year under Section 13-B(1) of separation of parties is already over before the first motion itself;

(ii) all efforts for mediation/conciliation including efforts in terms of Order 32-A Rule 3 CPC/Section 23(2) of the Act/Section 9 of the Family Courts Act to reunite the parties have failed and there is no likelihood of success in that direction by any further efforts;

(iii) the parties have genuinely settled their differences including alimony, custody of child or any other pending issues between the parties;

(iv) the waiting period will only prolong their agony.

The waiver application can be filed one week after the first motion giving reasons for the prayer for waiver. If the above conditions are satisfied, the waiver of the waiting period for the second motion will be in the discretion of the court concerned.

20. Since we are of the view that the period mentioned in Section 13-B(2) is not mandatory but directory, it will be open to the court to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case where there is no possibility of parties resuming cohabitation and there are chances of alternative rehabilitation."

8. Further, this Court has been pleased to observe in paragraph No.12 in the case of Shalini Massey (Supra) which is reproduced hereinunder:-

"12. The provisions contained in Section 10A of the Divorce Act, 1869, are, in substance, a verbatim reproduction of the provisions contained in Section 13B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 and Section 28 of the Special Marriage Act, 1954. The only substantial difference is that, instead of the period of one year mentioned in Section 13B(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 and Section 28(1) of the Special Marriage Act, 1954, a period of two years of separate residence is provided under Section 10A(1) of the Divorce Act, 1869. The beneficiaries under the abovementioned provisions of different statutes are persons who want divorce by mutual consent and who file joint petition for that relief. There can be no discrimination among them on the ground of religion. Divorce by mutual consent is a secular concept. When the Apex Court has declared the law that the "cooling off period" of six months provided under Section 13B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is not mandatory but directory and such period can be allowed to be waived by the court on satisfaction of certain conditions, denying that benefit to persons who are governed by the Divorce Act, 1869 would amount to unjust discrimination. Therefore, we are of the considered opinion that the dictum laid down by the Apex Court in Amardeep Singh (supra) is applicable to a petition for divorce filed under Section 10A of the Divorce Act, 1869 and on satisfaction of the conditions laid down in that decision, the Family Court can waive the period of six months stipulated under Section 10A(2) of that Act.

In view of the foregoing discussion, we find that but for the difference in period provided for making the second motion, the provisions of Section 13B (1) of Act of 1955 and 28 (1) of the Act of 1954 and 10A (1) of the Act, the aforesaid provisions are verbatim reproduction of each other. Since the Hon'ble Apex Court while considering the question whether the minimum period of six months stipulated u/s 13B (2) of Act of 1955 in the case of Amardeep Singh v. Harveen Kaur reported in AIR 2017 SC 4417, for a motion for passing decree of divorce on the basis of mutual consent is mandatory or directory and whether such period can be relaxed in exceptional situations or circumstances, held that the period mentioned in Section 13B (2) of Act of 1955 is not mandatory but directory and it will be open to the Court to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case where there is no possibility of parties resuming cohabitation and there are chances of alternative rehabilitation.

We have no hesitation in holding that the view taken by the Kerala High Court in the case of TOMY JOSEPH (supra) that the dictum laid down by the Apex Court in Amardeep Singh (supra) is applicable to a petition for divorce filed u/s 10A of the Act and on satisfaction of the conditions laid down in that decision, the Family Court can waive the period of six months stipulated u/s 10A (2) of the Act."

9. Learned A.G.A. for the State has also made an agreement with the proposal made by learned counsel for the respective parties and she further submits that no useful purpose would be served if the proceedings of the instant case go on further before the learned trial court, therefore, the same may be quashed by this Hon'ble Court.

10. Learned counsel for the parties have drawn the attention of this Court and placed reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in support of their case.

(i) B.S. Joshi Vs. State of Haryana & Others 2003 (4) ACC 675.

(ii) Gian Ssingh Vs. State of Punjab 2012 (10) SCC 303.

(iii) Dimpey Gujral And Others Vs. Union Territory Through Administrator 2013 (11) SCC 697.

(iv) Narendra Singh And Others Vs. State of Punjab And Others 2014 (6) SCC 466.

(v) Yogendra Yadav And Others Vs. State of Jharkhand 2014 (9) SCC 653.

11. Summarizing the ratio of all the above cases the latest judgment pronounced by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur & Ors. Vs. State of Gujarat & Anr,; reported in (2017) 9 SCC 641 and in paragraph no.16, the Hon'ble Apex Court has summarized the broad principles with regard to exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in the case of compromise/settlement between the parties which emerges from precedent of the subjects as follows:-

i. "Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognizes and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court.

ii.The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

iii. In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;

iv. While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;

v. The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;

vi. In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are truly speaking not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;

vii. As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;

viii. Criminal cases involving offences which arises from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

ix. In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

x. There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (viii) and (ix) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

12. The Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:-(i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Haryana Vs. Bhajanlal, 1992 SCC (Crl.)426, (iii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (Crl.)192 and (iv) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.) 283.

13. From the aforesaid decisions the Apex Court has settled the legal position for quashing of the proceedings at the initial stage. The test to be applied by the court is to whether uncontroverted allegation as made prima facie establishes the offence and the chances of ultimate conviction is bleak and no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing criminal proceedings to be continued. In S.W. Palankattkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

14. With the assistance of the aforesaid guidelines, keeping in view the nature and gravity and the severity of the offence which are more particularly is private dispute and differences and a petition under Section 13(B) of the Hindu Marriage Act has already been filed for mutual divorce, it deems proper and meet to the ends of justice, the proceeding of the instant case be quashed by this Court.

15. Keeping in view the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above referred judgment and in view of the statement/compromise made by the parties and the observation made above, the entire proceedings of charge sheet dated 30.12.2020, cognizance and summoning order dated 27.07.2021 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow in Case No.26775 of 2021 (State of U.P. Vs. Anuj Pandey), arising out of Complaint dated 08.06.2020 filed by Respondent No.2, under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow pending in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow are hereby quashed so far as it relates to the instant applicant.

16. Learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow is also directed to decide the decree of divorce filed by the parties under Section 13(B) of the Hindu Marriage Act within two months from the date of filing of certified copy of this judgment before it by diluting the period of motions in view of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Amardeep Singh (Supra) and Division Bench of this Court in the case of Shalini Massey (Supra).

17. With the aforesaid directions, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. stands allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. The instant application has been moved on behalf of the applicant with a prayer to quash the order dated 16.05.2023 passed by Learned Additional Civil Judge (C.D.) Fast/ACJM. Ambedkar Nagar in Criminal Misc. Case No. 1223/2023 vide Crime No. 12/2020, U/s 2/3 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, Police Station Maharuwa, District- Ambedkar Nagar, on the application of applicant under Section 239 Cr.P.C and further be pleased to discharge the applicant.

2. Heard Sri Neeranjan Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Ashok Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A.-1 for the State.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the complainant-Lekhpal of the village concerned had lodged an F.I.R. dated 02.02.2020 bearing No. 12/2020 U/s 3/4 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, Police Station Maharuwa against the applicant and 6 other persons stating therein that the alleged accused persons with the intention of grasping the public property kept the "puaal" straw on Gata No. 625 which is recorded as "chak marg" in Revenue record.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants further submitted that the applicant was minor at the time of lodging of F.I.R. and the alleged allegation leveled against the applicant by the Complainant is false and fabricated. The true fact is that the applicant did not intend to grasp any public utility land but had kept the straw (Puaal) over the said Gata on temporary basis as the other co-accused has also put the same and all the (Puaal) Straw has been removed and the said Gata was being used by the villagers and other people since long year back.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the Investigating Officer conducted the investigation in a very mechanical and arbitrary manner and filed the charge-sheet on 04.10.2020 against the applicant under Section 2/3 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act and strucked off the Section 3/4 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the applicant had earlier filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in which this Hon'ble Court and vide order dated 23.02.2023 the applicant to move discharge application through counsel.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the thereafter the applicant moved discharge application before the court of learned Additional Civil judge (C.D) Fast/ACJM. Ambedkar Nagar and the concerned court vide order dated 16.05.2023 rejected the discharge application without considering the material evidence on record.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the applicant was selected in the Indian Army under Agniveer scheme vide selection list year 2023 but he was not allowed to join due to very fact of FIR being lodged against him without any case of criminal nature made out against him.

9. Learned A.G.A. for the State controverts the submissions of learned counsel for applicant on the ground that this is not a stage where minute and meticulous exercise with regard to the appreciation of evidence may be done and truthfulness of the allegations could only be tested in a criminal trial and, therefore, the application is misconceived and liable to be dismissed.

10. After considering the argument advance by learned counsel for the parties, this Court is of the view that the relevant provision of the Act be dealt with, which are quoted here as under:

Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984

Section 2. Definitions.--In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,--

(a) "mischief" shall have the same meaning as in section 425 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860);

(b) "public property" means any property, whether immovable or movable (including any machinery) which is owned by, or in the possession of, or under the control of--

(i) the Central Government; or

(ii) any State Government; or

(iii) any local authority; or

(iv) any corporation established by, or under, a Central, Provincial or State Act; or

(v) any company as defined in section 617 of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956); or

(vi) any institution, concern or undertaking which the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf:

Provided that the Central Government shall not specify any institution, concern or undertaking under this sub-clause unless such institution, concern or undertaking is financed wholly or substantially by funds provided directly or indirectly by the Central Government or by one or more State Governments, or partly by the Central Government and partly by one or more State Governments.

Section 3. Mischief causing damage to public property

S 3. Mischief causing damage to public property.—(1) Whoever commits mischief by doing any act in respect of any public property, other than public property of the nature referred to in sub-section (2), shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to five years and with fine.

(2) Whoever commits mischief by doing any act in respect of any public property being—

(a) any building, installation or other property used in connection with the production, distribution or supply of water, light, power or energy;

(b) any oil installations;

(c) any sewage works;

(d) any mine or factory;

(e) any means of public transportation or of tele-communications, or any building, installation or other property used in connection therewith, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months, but which may extend to five years and with fine:

Provided that the court may, for reasons to be recorded in its judgment, award a sentence of imprisonment for a term of less than six months.

The "Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984" is legislation aimed at preventing vandalism and damage to public property in India. It defines key terms like "mischief" and "public property" and outlines penalties for those who commit acts of mischief causing damage to such property.

The "Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984" is legislation aimed at preventing vandalism and damage to public property in India. It defines key terms like "mischief" and "public property" and outlines penalties for those who commit acts of mischief causing damage to such property.

According to the Act, "mischief" is defined in alignment with Section 425 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC), which generally refers to intentionally causing damage to property. "Public property" encompasses various forms of property owned or controlled by governmental bodies, corporations, or specified institutions, and includes both immovable and movable assets.

Section 3 of the Act specifies the offense related to mischief causing damage to public property. It delineates two categories of public property: general public property and specific types of property critical to infrastructure such as water, power, telecommunications, and transportation systems. The punishment for these offenses varies based on the type of property damaged, with more severe penalties for damage to critical infrastructure."

11. Object and idea of enacting the Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act, 1984 is to curb acts of vandalism and damage to public property including destruction and damage caused during riots and public commotion. A need was felt to strengthen the law to enable the authorities to deal with cases of damage to public property. The “public property” as defined under Section 2(b) of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 means any property, whether immovable or movable (including any machinery) which is owned by or in possession of or under the control of the Central or State Government or any local authority or any Corporation or any institution established by the Central, Provincial or State Act or its undertaking. Section 3 of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 provides that anyone who commits mischief by doing any act in respect of any ‘public property’ including the nature referred in subsection (2) in the said section shall be punished with imprisonment and a fine depending upon the nature of the property as per sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) of Section 3 of the P.D.P.P. Act, 1984. The P.D.P.P. Act, 1984 .

12. The Act was enacted to empower authorities to effectively address cases of damage to public property, especially during riots or public disturbances. Its aim is to deter acts of vandalism and protect public assets essential for the functioning of society.

The court is explaining that the Prevention of Damage to Public Property (PDPP) Act, 1984, only applies to situations where public property is damaged or destroyed during riots or public demonstrations. This means if there's damage to things like government buildings or infrastructure during these events, the PDPP Act can be used to address it.

So, if there's no actual damage or loss related to Gram Sabha land or any other village land due to illegal encroachment by someone living in the village or holding land there temporarily and remove encroachment after the notice, without causing damage or decreasing the land's value of the property, then the PDPP Act wouldn't be applicable.
In essence, if someone occupies land unlawfully temporary but doesn't cause any harm or decrease in value to the land, the PDPP Act doesn't come into play. This means that the Act is primarily concerned with instances where there is actual damage to public property or where the value of the property is diminished due to unlawful Occupation.

13. In Re. Destruction of Public and Private Properties, In Re vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, 2009 (5) SCC 212. Taking a serious note of various instances where there was a large scale destruction of public and private properties in the name of agitations, bandhs, hartals and the like, suo motu proceedings had been initiated by the Apex Court and two committees were appointed to give suggestions on strengthening of the legal provisions of P.D.P.P. Act to effectively deal with such instances. The recommendation of two committees were considered and it was observed that the suggestions were extremely important and they constitute sufficient guidelines which need to be adopted. It was left open to the appropriate authorities to take effective steps for their implementation.

14. In a recent decision in Kodungallur Film Society and another vs. Union of India and others, 2018 (10) SCC 713, the relief was sought to issue a mandamus to the appropriate authorities to strictly follow and implement the guidelines formulated by the Apex Court "Destruction of Public & Private Properties In re:", with regard to measures to be taken to prevent destruction of public and private properties in mass protests and demonstrations and also regarding the modalities of fixing liability and recovering compensation for damages caused to public and private properties during such demonstration and protests.

15. It was acknowledged in Kodungallur Film Society (supra) that the recommendations of the Committee noted in the said judgment traversed the length and breadth of the issue at hand and, if implemented in their entirely, would go a long way in removing the bane of violence caused against persons and property. As far as implementation of the said recommendations, the Union had advised the States to follow the same in its letter and spirit. Issuing directions to implement recommendations made by the Apex Court in both the above decisions. Direction was issued in Kodungallur Film Society to both the Central and the State Government to do the same at the earliest.

16. From the aforesaid it is clear that the underline purpose and idea of enacting the Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act, 1984 is to provide benefits to those persons or to take a suitable remedial action to prevent the destruction of public and private properties in mass protest, demonstration, hartal, agitation and in this damage to the public and private properties, pursuant to the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Kodungallur Film Society (supra) the State Governments were granted liberty to form a committee to carry out and implement the recommendations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above decision. Accordingly, the State of Uttar Pradesh too has notified "Uttar Pradesh Recovery of Damages to Public and Private Property Rules, 2020" with a view to provide for recovery of damages to public and private property during hartal, bundh, riots, public commotion, protests etc. in regard to property and imposition of fine. The said Rules provides for constitution f the claims tribunal to investigate the damages caused and to award compensation related thereto.

17. The judgment in the case of Munshi Lal and Another (supra), relied upon after noticing the provisions of the PDPP Act, has taken the view that as far as criminal proceedings for illegal encroachment, damage or trespass over the land belonging to Gram Sabha is concerned, the same can be undertaken but it would be subject to the adjudication of rights of the parties over the land in dispute as the said determination can be done only by the revenue court. In so far as the observation made in the decision that the Act covers the specific area relating to any act of vandalism including the destruction or damage during any riots or public demonstration in the name of agitations, bandhs, hartals and the like, is concerned, reference may be had to a recent decision by a Division Bench of this Court in Devnath Yadav vs. State of U.P. and three Others, which was a case where an FIR under Section 2/3/5 of the PDPP Act, in respect of encroachment over the Gaon Sabha land, had been sought to be challenged. The Division Bench upon considering the legal position held that the judgment in the case of Munshi Lal and Another was distinguishable and made the following observations :-

"in the case of Munshi Lal (supra), we find that, proceeded on the premise that Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 was enacted to curb vandalism and damage to pubic property.

Statement of Objects and Reasons reads as follows-

"With a view to curb acts of vandalism and damage to public property, including destruction and damage caused during riots and public commotion, a need was felt to strengthen the law to enable the authorities to deal effectively with cases of damage to public property."

18. Now coming to yet another aspect of the issue, learned counsel for the applicants in order to buttress their contention have drawn attention of the Court to the provisions of Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code which speaks about the power to prevent damages, misappropriation and wrongful occupation of Gram Panchayat property:-

(i) Where any property entrusted or deemed to be entrusted under the provisions of this Code to a Gram Panchayat or other local authority is damaged or misappropriated, or where any Gram Panchayat or other authority is entitled to take possession of any land under the provisions of this Code and such land is occupied otherwise than in accordance with the said provisions, the Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti or other authority or the Lekhpal concerned, as the case may be, shall inform the Assistant Collector concerned in the manner prescribed.

(ii) Where from the information received under sub-section (i) or otherwise, the Assistant Collector is satisfied that any property referred to in sub-section (i) has been damaged or misappropriated, or any person is in occupation of any land referred to in that sub-section in contravention of the provisions of this Code, he shall issue notice to the person concerned to show cause why compensation for damage, misappropriation or wrongful occupation not exceeding the amount specified in the notice be not recovered from him and why he should not be evicted from such land.

(iii) If the person to whom a notice has been issued under sub-section (ii) fails to show cause within the time specified in the notice or within such extended time as the Assistant Collector may allow in this behalf, or if the cause shown is found to be insufficient, the Assistant Collector may direct that such person shall be evicted from the land, and may, for that purpose, use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary, and may direct that the amount of compensation for damage or misappropriation of the property or for wrongful occupation as the case may be, be recovered from such person as arrears of land revenue.

(iv) If the Assistant Collector is of opinion that the person showing cause is not guilty of causing the damage or misappropriation or wrongful occupation referred to in the notice under sub-section (ii), he shall discharge the notice.

(v) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Assistant Collector under Sub-section (iii) or Sub-Section (iv), may within thirty days from the date of such order, prefer an appeal to the Collector.

(vi) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provisions of this Code, and subject to the provisions of this section every order of the Sub-Divisional Officer under this section shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (5) be final.

(vii) The procedure to be followed in any action taken under this section shall be such as may be prescribed.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this section, the word "land" shall include the trees and building standing thereon."

19. Further, under Rule 67(1) of U.P. Revenue Code, 2016, it is incumbent upon the Assistant Collector to make an inquiry as he deems proper and obtain further information regarding the following issues :

(a) full description of damage or misappropriation caused or the wrongful occupation made with details of village, plot number, area, boundary, property damaged or misappropriated and market value thereof;

(b) full address along with parentage of the person responsible for such damage, misappropriation or wrongful occupation;

(c) period of wrongful occupation, damage or misappropriation and class of soil of the plots involved;

(d) value of the property damaged or misappropriated calculated at the circle rate fixed by the Collector and the amount sought to be recovered as damages."

20. Thus, from the above it is clear that as per the U.P. Revenue Code, it is the Assistant Collector of the area who is the authority concerned to act a pivotal role in demarcation and holding and declaring the land in dispute is encroached by the applicants. The Investigating Officer of criminal cases is not even remotedly connected to conduct this exercise. The entire procedure has been laid down in Section 67(2) that only after getting a reply from the alleged encroacher, the Assistant Commissioner/Sub Divisional Officer has to pass an order giving reasons for not exceeding the explanation, if so offered by the person concerned. The eviction from the land in dispute can only be recorded after disposal of the explanation offered by the person concerned keeping in line with the cardinal principle of natural justice by passing a well reasoned and speaking order while disposing of the said explanation. The Act is itself contained the amount of compensation of damage or misappropriation of the property or for wrongful occupation, as the case may be and may be recovered from such person as arrears of land revenue. Section 210 of the Revenue Code, 2006 confers supervisory power on the Board or the Commissioner to call for the record of any proceeding decided by the subordinate revenue court in which no appeal lies for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed in such suit or proceeding.

21. A careful reading of the provisions of the Revenue Code, 2006, thus, makes it clear that the proceeding for causing damage to the public property can be undertaken against any person who is in wrongful occupation of the same or causes damage or misappropriations to the said property. The nature of eviction proceeding under Section 67 of the Revenue Code, 2006, is, however, summary in nature. The rights of the parties claimed, if gives rise to a dispute requiring adjudication on the questions of fact, a suit for declaration has to be instituted against such person. The Gram Sabha may institute a suit under Section 145 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 for declaration of its right or to seek any further relief. In case of institution of such a suit, a temporary injunction may be granted by the Court concerned to prevent wastage, damage or alienation of the suit property. The Revenue Code, 2006 is a Special enactment providing for the law relating to the 'land' defined under Section 4(14) of the Code.

22. Thus, this Court comes to the conclusion that if a person is using public property for a temporary period without causing damage or altering its nature or structure or and remove after the notice serve, the temporary nature of the occupation may suggest that there was no intention to unlawfully grab public property related to the prevention of damage to public property Act. Such laws typically aim to prevent intentional or negligent harm to public assets or resources. As long as the use is temporary, non-destructive, and does not pose any risk to the property or public safety, its may not to be considered a violation of law related to the prevention of damage to public property.

23. The court is explaining that the Prevention of Damage to Public Property (PDPP) Act, 1984, only applies to situations where public property is damaged or destroyed during riots or public demonstrations. This means if there's damage to things like government buildings or infrastructure during these events, the PDPP Act can be used to address it. So, if there's no actual damage or loss related to Gram Sabha land or any other village land due to illegal encroachment by someone living in the village or holding land there temporarily, without causing damage or decreasing the land's value, then the PDPP Act wouldn't be applicable. In essence, if someone occupies land unlawfully but doesn't cause any harm or decrease in value to the land, the PDPP Act doesn't come into play. This means that the Act is primarily concerned with instances where there is actual damage to public property or where the value of the property is diminished due to unlawful activities.

24. Thus, prima facie it appears that the learned trial court has failed to appreciate the materials available on record and has committed manifest illegality while passing the impugned order while rejecting the discharge application and the same is passed without considering the evidence produced by the applicants, which is unsustainable in the eyes of law. Thus, this Court allow this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and quash the order dated 16.05.2023 passed by Learned Additional Civil Judge (C.D.) Fast/ACJM. Ambedkar Nagar in Criminal Mise. Case No. 1223/2023 vide Crime No. 12/2020, U/s 2/3 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, Police Station Maharuwa, District- Ambedkar Nagar as well as further proceeding is also quashed.

25. Accordingly, this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed and the impugned order dated 16.05.2023 passed by Learned Additional Civil Judge (C.D.) Fast/ACJM. Ambedkar Nagar in Criminal Mise. Case No. 1223/2023 vide Crime No. 12/2020, U/s 2/3 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, Police Station Maharuwa, District- Ambedkar Nagar as well as entire criminal proceedings of Criminal Mise. Case No. 1223/2023 vide Crime No. 12/2020, U/s 2/3 of Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, Police Station Maharuwa, District- Ambedkar Nagar, pending before the court of Additional Civil Judge (C.D.) Fast/ACJM. Ambedkar Nagar are hereby quashed.

26. Let a copy of this judgment and order be sent to the trial court for necessary compliance.

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 482-Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881-Section 138-Challenge to-summoning order-the applicant had issued two cheque which were dishonored due to insufficient funds-a demand notice was sent to the applicant, which went unanswered, leading to the initiation of legal action under NI Act-The summoning order issued by the Magistrate did not adequately consider the necessary legal conditions u/s 138 and 142 of the Act, such as timely presentation of the cheque, issuance of demand notice, and filing of the complaint within the prescribed period-Thus, the failure to reflect these conditions in the summoning order was deemed a significant procedural lapse-The High court set aside the impugned summoning order.(Para 1 to 18)

B. For a court to take cognizance of an offense u/s 138 of the Act it must strictly adhere to the procedural requirements outlined in sections 138 and 142 of the act. (i) the cheque must be presented to the bank within its period of validity. (ii) the payee or holder must issue a written demand notice to the drawer within 30 days of receiving information about the cheques dishonor. (iii) if the drawer of the cheque fails to make payment within 15 days of receiving the demand notice, the complaint must be filed within one month from the expiration of this 15 day period. Failure to reflect these conditions in the summoning order renders it procedurally defective. (Para 11)

2. Kodungallur Film Scty. & anr. Vs U.O.I. & ors. (2018) 10 SCC 713

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Arbind Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed for quashing of entire proceeding as well as summoning order dated 22.11.2023 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Second, Jaunpur in Complaint Case No.13185 of 2023 (Jay Prakash Upadhyay Vs. Rakesh Upadhyay), under Section 138 of N.I. Act, Police Station Sujanganj, District Jaunpur, pending in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Second, Jaunpur.

3. Facts giving rise to the present case are that the opposite party no.2 had filed a complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act against the applicant with the allegation that the complainant and the present applicant were good friends and the applicant was involved in property dealing. He assured the complainant to provide him with land. For that purpose, Rs.20,00,000/- (Rupees Twenty Lac) was taken by the opposite party no.2 as advance, but subsequently, the applicant did not execute the sale deed of the land despite repeated requests of the complainant. The applicant issued two cheques for each Rs.10,00,000/- (Ten Lac) on 02.03.2023. When the complainant presented those cheques in his account maintaining in Baroda U.P. Gramin Bank, the same was returned because of insufficiency of fund in the applicant's account. After that, despite repeated request applicant has not paid the cheque amount.

After that, the complainant sent demand notice through registered post on 29.03.2023 to the present applicant, but despite receiving the same cheque, the amount was not paid by the applicant. In support of his complaint, opposite party no.2 had also filed a receipt of registered post dated 29.03.2023 as well as the account ledger report issued by Baroda U.P. Gramin Bank regarding the account of opposite party no.2 showing the bouncing of cheque on 02.03.2023. Learned Magistrate, after that, had issued a summons to the applicant by order dated 22.11.2023, which is impugned in the present application.

4. Contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that the impugned summoning order is bad in the eyes of the law because the cognizance for the offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act can be taken only after satisfying the condition mentioned under Section 142 N.I. Act, which requires a complaint should be made within one month from the date of arising of the cause of action, and 15 days' notice of demand should also be made within 30 days after receiving information from the bank regarding dishonour of cheque, but in the present case learned Magistrate had not discussed anything.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that the issue raised by learned counsel for the applicant is his defence and disputed question of fact that can be decided during trial.

6. Considering the submission above of learned counsel for the parties and from the perusal of the record, the sole legal question arises: which condition authorizes the concerned Court to take cognizance of the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act. Section 138 N.I. Act prescribed when the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act deemed to be committed. For reference, under Section 138 N.I. Act is being quoted as under:-

"138. Dishonour of cheque for insufficiency, etc., of funds in the account.—

Where any cheque drawn by a person on an account maintained by him with a banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability, is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with that bank, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence and shall, without prejudice to any other provisions of this Act, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may be extended to two years, or with fine which may extend to twice the amount of the cheque, or with both:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply unless —

(a) the cheque has been presented to the bank within a period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity, whichever is earlier;

(b) the payee or the holder, in due course of the cheque, as the case may be, makes a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice in writing to the drawer of the cheque [within thirty days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid; and

(c) the drawer of such cheque fails to make the payment of the said amount of money to the payee or, as the case may be, to the holder in due course of the cheque, within fifteen days of the receipt of the said notice.

Explanation.—

For the purposes of this section, "debt or other liability" means a legally enforceable debt or other liability."

7. From the perusal of Section 138 N.I. Act, it is clear that for the maintainability of a complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act after dishonour of cheque following conditions must be satisfied:-

(I) The cheque has been presented within a period of its validity.

(II) After receiving the information from the bank regarding the return of the cheque, the payee or holder, in due course of the cheque, makes a demand of the cheque amount in writing within a period of 30 days.

(III) The cheque Drawer failed to pay the cheque amount to the cheque drawee within 15 days from the date of receiving the above notice.

8. Similarly, Section 142 N.I. Act prescribes the condition which authorizes a Court to take cognizance under Section 138 N.I. Act. For reference, Section 142 of N.I. Act is quoted as under:-

"Section 142 Cognizance of offences.

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974),

(a) no court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under section 138 except upon a complaint, in writing, made by the payee or, as the case may be, the holder in due course of the cheque;

(b) such complaint is made within one month of the date on which the cause of action arises under clause (c) of the proviso to section 138:

(c) no court inferior to that of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Judicial Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence punishable under section 138.

(2) The offence under section 138 shall be inquired into and tried only by a court within whose local jurisdiction,--

(a) if the cheque is delivered for collection through an account, the branch of the bank where the payee or holder in due course, as the case may be, maintains the account, is situated;

(b) if the cheque is presented for payment by the payee or holder in due course, otherwise through an account, the branch of the drawee bank where the drawer maintains the account, is situated."

9. From the perusal of Section 142 N.I. Act, it is clear that certain conditions must be fulfilled despite anything contained in Cr.P.C.. Only then can the Court take cognizance of the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act. These conditions are as follows:-

(I) A complaint must be filed in writing by a payee or holder in due course of the cheque.

(II) Such complaint must be made within one month from the expiry of 15 days after receiving the notice for demand by the drawer of the cheque, and only the Judicial Magistrate of Ist Class to try the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act.

(III) Only that Court will have jurisdiction to entertain a complaint where the payee or holder in due course maintains his account when the cheque in question was delivered for collection through his account.

10. It is also clear from Section 142 N.I. Act that the procedure under this section will prevail over the procedure in the criminal procedure code. In the ordinary course, when any complaint is filed under Section 200 Cr.P.C., the Magistrate, after perusal of the complaint and statement recorded under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., makes his opinion that prima facie case regarding a particular offence is made out, but in the case of an offence under Section 138 N.I. Act summons cannot be issued by taking cognizance unless certain conditions are fulfilled, as mentioned in Section 142 N.I. Act as well as in the proviso of Section 138 N.I. Act.

11. From the above analysis, it is clear that while taking cognizance under Section 142 N.I. Act regarding offence under Section 138 N.I. Act, Courts must satisfy the fulfillment of primary conditions before issuing summons and fulfillment of these conditions must be mentioned in the summoning order itself. These necessary conditions are being summarised as follows:-

(I) Cheque must be presented to the bank during its validity.

(II) The payee or holder, in due course, must give a written notice within 30 days to the cheque drawer after receiving information from the bank regarding the return of the cheque.

(III) The drawer of the cheque fails to make payment of the cheque amount despite the expiration of 15 days from the date of receiving the written notice sent by the payee or holder in due course.

(IV) The complaint must be filed within one month after the expiry of 15 days from receiving the written notice from the payee or holder in due course of cheque.

(V) If the complaint is filed beyond one month from the date of cause of action (the expiry of 15 days from receiving the notice by the cheque drawer) and the Court condones the delay. This order must be reflected in the summoning order itself.

(VI) If no date of service of demand notice is mentioned in the complaint, the Court can presume service as per the law laid down by this Court in the case of Rajendra vs. State of U.P. and another in Application U/S 482 No.45953 of 2023.

(VII) Apart from the above conditions, the cheque number and date, date of sending the notice and mode of sending the notice must also be mentioned in the summoning order.

12. The above-mentioned guidelines are being issued, considering the facts that taking advantage of technical lacuna in the summoning orders, dishonest drawers of cheques get interim order from High Court and thereafter proceedings under the N.I. Act remain kept pending for number of years though the Hon'ble Apex Court specifically directed in the case of In Re: Expeditious Trial of Cases under Section 138 of N.I. Act, 1881 in Suo Motu Writ Petition (Crl.) No.2 of 2020, that trial under Section 138 N.I. Act should be concluded expeditiously.

13. Hon'ble Apex Court, in the case of Kusum Ingots and Alloys Ltd. Vs. Pennar Peterson Securities Ltd. and others, reported in 2000 (2) SCC 745 had also observed that before taking cognizance under Section 138 N.I. Act, conditions mentioned in paragraph No. 10 must be satisfied. Paragraph no.10 of the above judgment is being quoted as under:-

"10. On a reading of the provisions of Section 138 of the NI Act, it is clear that the ingredients which are to be satisfied for making out a case under the provision are :

1. a person must have drawn a cheque on an account maintained by him in a bank for payment of a certain amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge of any debt or other liability;

2. that cheque has been presented to the bank within a period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity, whichever is earlier;

3. that cheque is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of the account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with the bank;

4. the payee or the holder, in due course of the cheque, makes a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice in writing to the drawer of the cheque within 15 days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid;

5. the drawer of such cheque fails to make payment of the said amount of money to the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque within 15 days of the receipt of the said notice;"

14. It would be appropriate to mention here that this Court, in the case of Rajendra Vs. State of U.P. and another in Application U/S 482 No.45953 of 2023 by judgment dated 25.01.2024 has already held that written notice mentioned under Section 138 N.I. Act includes notice through e-mail or Whatsapp. Paragraph Nos.10 & 18 of judgment mentioned above is quoted as under:-

"10. The above judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court was delivered in the year 2008 considering the efficiency of service of the post office at that time. Even Hon'ble Apex Court has not presumed that 30 days will always be counted for service of notice if the same is sent through registered post and is not returned. Now, almost 15 years have passed, much water has flown under the bridge and delivery of letters through the postal department has become so fast that presuming 30 days for service delivery for the registered post does not appear correct. Even the Order 5 Rule 9(5) of C.P.C. provides presumption for delivery of service of summons through registered post, if not received back within 30 days from the date of issuance of summons cannot be equated with the present service of notice under N.I. Act because giving of notice cannot be equated with the service of notice under N.I. Act, and if such pleas are allowed, then dishonest drawer of the cheque may get an unnecessary advantage, especially when drawer of the cheque did not denied the receiving of statutory notice.

18. In the present time of digitalization and computerisation, delivery of post has become so fast that the Court can presume that a correctly addressed registered post has been served upon the addressee within a maximum period of 10 days if the date of service is not mentioned in the complaint. After the initiation of the online post tracking system, it is too easy to know the date of delivery of the registered post. In the ordinary course of business, the registered letter is delivered within 3 to 10 days if correctly addressed. Therefore, this Court holds that if no date of service has been mentioned in the complaint, then the Court can presume under Section 114 of the Evidence Act and Section 27 of the General Clause Act that notice would have been served within ten days from the date of its dispatch. Though it is always open to the drawer of the cheque to take the plea during trial, the notice was never served upon him."

15. In the present case, from the perusal of the summoning order dated 22.11.2023, it is explicit that the conditions mentioned above were not discussed as the cheque number, date of the notice, mode of service of notice, and fulfilment of the necessary conditions were not mentioned.

16. Impugned order ex-facie suffers from infirmity and, therefore, deserves to be set aside.

17. In view of the above, the order dated 22.11.2023 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-II, Jaunpur, is hereby set aside. The learned Magistrate is directed to pass a fresh order in light of the observation made above within one month from the date of receiving a copy of this order.

18. With the observation mentioned above, the present application is allowed.

19. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to circulate a copy of this order to all District Judges of the State of Uttar Pradesh; they will further apprise their subordinate Judicial Officers that the essential ingredients that must be reflected in the summoning order passed for the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act.

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 482 –Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 147, 308, 323, 504 & 506-Challenge to-summoning order-FIR registered based on complaint, followed by a police investigation that led to a Closure Report-the closure report was challenged by a protest petition, which the magistrate treated as a complaint, leading to the summoning of the applicants for trial-The court observed that there were discrepancies and lack of sufficient evidence to support the complaint-The court set aside the lower court's order and the case back for fresh decision.(Para 1 to 15)

B. Issuing a summoning order in a criminal case is a serious judicial function and cannot be done mechanically. The order must reflect a thorough evaluation of the material on record. When a protest petition is filed against a police closure report, the magistrate must ensure that the petition satisfies the requirements of a complaint u/s 2(d) CrPC. The magistrate must carefully consider whether the allegations in the protest petition , supported by evidence, are sufficient to take cognizance of offence u/s 190(1)(a) CrPC. Simply treating a protest petition as a complaint without scrutiny violates procedural law.(Para 10, 12, 13)

1. Heard Sri Raghuvansh Misra, learned counsel for the applicants, learned A.G.A. for the State of U.P. and Sri Prashant Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2.

2. Perused the record.

3. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the order dated 25.01.2023 as well as the summoning order dated 26.05.2023 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat in Complaint Case No.803 of 2023 (Manju Shukla vs. Shishupal Singh Katiyar) under Sections 147, 308, 323, 504, 506 IPC, (Case Crime No.58 of 2022), Police Station Gajner, District Kanpur Dehat as well as the entire proceedings of the aforesaid complaint case pending in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat against the applicants.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the opposite party no.2 Smt. Manju Shukla moved an application dated 25.03.2022 under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. on the basis of which a First Information Report dated 02.04.2022 was registered as Case Crime No. 58 of 2022, under Sections 147, 308, 323, 504 IPC, Police Station Gajner, District Kanpur Dehat alleging that on 15.03.2022 her two sons Gopal Shukla and Ram Shukla were going to their fields on a motorcycle and were ambushed by the applicants near the house of village Pradhan Rekha Singh (wife of applicant no.1 Shishupal Singh). Shishupal Singh hit an axe on the head of Gopal Shukla and Ram Shukla was assaulted with sticks. Upon hearing about the incident, her other two sons Govind Shukla and Chhotu Shukla went to rescue the injured and found them lying unconscious. At the place of occurrence, a Milk Dairy was situated owned by Bhanu Pratap Singh, whose employee, namely, Shubham Shukla fired with a country made pistol of 315 bore causing injury to Akanshu.

5. On 15.03.2022, Gopal Shukla was medically examined at District Hospital, Kanpur Dehat. A lacerated wound of 6x5 cm was found on the head with irregular margins and complaint of pain in right thumb. All the injuries were found to be simple in nature. A CT Scan of the head of Gopal Shukla was conducted on 15.03.2022 and soft tissue scalp injury was noted with no intra-cranial abnormality. The injured was discharged in a satisfactory condition on 17.03.2022.

6. After the registration of the FIR, the investigation was conducted and the Closure Report/Final Report dated 26.04.2022 under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. was prepared and submitted before the concerned Court. Against the said Closure Report/Final Report the opposite party no. 2 moved a protest petition which was treated as a complaint case vide order dated 25.01.2023 passed by Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 2, Kanpur Dehat and after examining upon oath the complainant and the witnesses under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat vide order dated 26.05.2023 summoned the accused/applicants to face trial.

7. Learned counsel for the applicants have assailed the aforesaid order dated 25.01.2023 passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 2, Kanpur Dehat and order dated 26.05.2023 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat on following grounds :-

(i) The impugned orders have been passed without application of mind.

(ii) The learned Trial Court committed a manifest error in treating the protest petition as a complaint case and rejected the Closure Report/Final Report without adverting to the material collected during investigation and followed the procedure of complaint case mechanically.

(iii) The opposite party No. 2 Smt. Manju Shukla, in order to settle the score and to mount pressure for compromise against the cross case, i.e. FIR bearing Case Crime No. 47 of 2022, under Sections 34/307, 323, 504 IPC at Police Station Gajner, District Kanpur Dehat, lodged the impugned criminal proceedings against the applicants.

(iv) Injured Ram Shukla was though alleged to have been assaulted but no medical report was produced.

(v) The independent eye-witness Jaipal Singh, in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. stated that while Gopal Shukla was fleeing from the spot, his legs went inside the drain and his head hit at the wall which resulted in head injury.

(vi) That no offence as alleged took place and the injuries were not to be grievous to attract punishment under Section 308 IPC.

8. It was thus submitted that as no such incident took place as alleged, therefore after conclusion of investigation, a Final Report/Closure Report dated 26.04.2022 was submitted. But the learned Trial Court without application of mind had rejected the Final Report/Closure Report. The Protest Petition moved by the opposite party no.2 was treated as a complaint case and the accused/applicants have been summoned to face trial without any reasoned and speaking order and, therefore, it is liable to be set-side. The learned Trial Court recorded a wrong finding which was not based on the material recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., therefore, the findings recorded by the Trial Court was perverse and was liable to be set-aside.

9. Learned counsel for the applicants in support of his submissions has relied upon the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. And Another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate and others, (1998) 5 Supreme Court Cases 749, wherein it has been observed that:

"Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. Magistrate has to carefully scrutinize the evidence on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

10. Per contra, learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 vehemently opposed the above submissions of the learned counsel for the applicants and submitted that there is no illegality or perversity in the order impugned. The learned Trial Court on the basis of the material under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. has rightly summoned the applicants to face trial.

11. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and upon perusal of the record it transpires that the learned Trial Court has not applied its judicial mind while passing the impugned summoning order. The impugned order contains the substance of the examination of the complainant Smt. Manju Shukla on oath recorded under section 200 Cr.P.C., who is not an eye witness of the incident. There is no whisper of statement on oath of Gopal Shukla and Ramji Shukla two injured examined on oath who were the material witnesses. There is no description about the nature of injuries inflicted to the injured Gopal though from the perusal of the records, it transpires that it was simple in nature caused by hard and blunt object. The alleged injured witness Ramji Shukla was not even medically examined. There are certain other noticeable discrepancies. It appears that as an afterthought, the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. has been moved after a delay of about 10 days on the basis of false and fabricated injury report to mount pressure and to settle the score in the cross case, i.e., Case Crime No. 47 of 2022, under Sections 34, 307, 323, 504 IPC, P.S. Gajner, District Kanpur Dehat, which was registered prior in point of time. The said injuries can be fabricated. After the investigation, the Police adverted to the filing of Closure Report/Final Report. However, the learned Trial Court without application of mind rejected the said Final Report and on the basis of the protest petition of opposite party No. 2 summoned the applicants to face trial in a cursory manner by taking cognizance obviously under section 190(1)(a) of the Cr.P.C. and proceeded against the applicants by issuing process under Sections 147, 308, 323, 504 and 506 IPC. Therefore, the summoning order is bad in the eyes of law.

12. At this juncture, it is imperative to quote paragraph-9 of the judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Mukhtar Zaidi vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another, 2024 SCC Online SC 553, which reads as under:

"44. We may also notice that in Veerappa v. Bhimareddappa [Veerappa v. Bhimareddappa, 2001 SCC OnLine Kar 447 : 2002 Cri LJ 2150] , the High Court of Karnataka observed as follows: (SCC OnLine Kar para 9)

"9. From the above, the position that emerges is this: Where initially the complainant has not filed any complaint before the Magistrate under Section 200 CrPC, but, has approached the police only and where the police after investigation have filed the 'B' report, if the complainant wants to protest, he is thereby inviting the Magistrate to take cognizance under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC on a complaint. If it were to be so, the Protest Petition that he files shall have to satisfy the requirements of a complaint as defined in Section 2(d) CrPC, and that should contain facts that constitute offence, for which, the learned Magistrate is taking cognizance under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC. Instead, if it is to be simply styled as a Protest Petition without containing all those necessary particulars that a normal complaint has to contain, then, it cannot be construed as a complaint for the purpose of proceeding under Section 200 CrPC."

13. In the same sequel, it is necessary to cite the observations of Hon'ble the Apex Court in Mahmood UI Rehmand vs. Khazir Mohd. Tund (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124, which reads as under:

" That the cognizance of an offence on complaint is taken for the purpose of issuing process to the accused. Since it is a process of taking judicial notice of certain facts which constitute an offence, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint, when considered alongwith the statement recorded or the inquiry conducted thereon, would constitute violation of law so as to call a person to appear before the criminal court. It is not a mechanical process or matter of course to set in motion the process of criminal law against a person in a serious matter."

14. This Court is of the considered opinion that the mandate of provisions of Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. has been clearly violated. Learned Trial Court should have carefully scrutinized the complete material to find out the truthfulness of allegations and the basis of prima facie satisfaction before summoning the applicants at the time of recording of preliminary evidence. Thus, the orders impugned dated 25.01.2023 and 26.05.2023 are not tenable.

15. Consequently, the present Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed.

16. The order dated 25.01.2023 passed by Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 2, Kanpur Dehat and the summoning order dated 26.05.2023 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat in Complaint Case No.803 of 2023 (Manju Shukla vs. Shishupal Singh Katiyar) under Sections 147, 308, 323, 504, 506 IPC, (Case Crime No.58 of 2022), Police Station Gajner, District Kanpur Dehat, are hereby set-aside.

17. The matter is hereby remitted back to the Court concerned to pass a fresh order within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order in the light of the observations made herein above.

8. Sushila Aggarwal Vs St. (NCT of Delhi) (2020) 5 SCC 1

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vivek Shandilya, learned Senior counsel assisted by Mr Vaibhav Shandilya, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr Ajay Sengar, learned counsel for the informant, Mr R. K. Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for the State and perused the record.

2. The applicant seeks anticipatory bail in Complaint Case No. 03 of 2023,under Sections 363, 376(3) IPC and Section of POCSO Act, 2012, P.S. Kuthaundh, District Jalaun, during the pendency of trial.

3. At the outset, learned AGA for the State raised preliminary objection that sub-section (4) of Section 438 of Cr.P.C, explicitly excludes the application of the provision relating to pre-arrest bail in relation to any case involving the arrest of any person on accusation of having committed an offence under subsection (3) of Section 376 IPC as such the application for pre-arrest bail is not maintainable.

4. Section 438 of the Cr.P.C. provides for issuing directions for granting bail to a person apprehending arrest. The amendment [Code of Criminal Procedure Amendment Act, 2018] introduced to Section 438 (4)] reads as follows:

"438(4). Nothing in this section shall apply to any case involving the arrest of any person on accusation of having committed an offence under sub-section (3) of Section 376 or Section 376-AB or Section 376-DA or Section 376-DB of the Indian Penal Code."

5. In reply to the said argument, learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the new section (438 Cr.P.C.) inserted in the State of Uttar Prdesh vide Uttar Pradesh Act No. 4 of 2019, (assented by the President on June 1, 2019), does not exclude the person seeking pre-arrest bail for an offence committed under Section 376 (3) IPC. Section 438(6) reads as follows:-

438 (6) Provision of this section shall not be applicable-

(a) to the offences arising out of,--

(i) the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967;

(ii) the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985;

(iii) the Official Secret Act, 1923;

(iv) the Uttar Prdesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986.

(b) in the offences, in which death sentence can be awarded.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has further drawn attention of the court towards Article 254(2) of the Constitution of India to contend that in case of repugnancy, if any, between the State Act and Central Legislation on a subject in the concurrent list, would stand cured if the State Act receives the assent of the President under Article 245(2) of the Constitution of India and such repugnancy cannot therefore be a ground to invalidate the State Act. It is further submitted that the whole purpose of the Article 254(2) is to protect the State enactment when it ran contrary to the central legislation. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the cases of Hoechst Pharmaceauticals Ltd Vs State of Bihar, 1983 4 SCC 45; and C.S. Gopalakrishnan Etc Vs The State of Tamil Nadu and others, 2023 LiveLaw (SC) 413.

7. Article 254 of the Constitution of India provides for the method of resolving conflicts between a law made by Parliament and a law made by the Legislature of a State with respect to a matter falling in the Concurrent List and it reads:

"254 (1) If any provision of a law made by the Legislature of a State is repugnant to any provision of a law made by Parliament which Parliament is competent enact, or to any provision of an existing law with respect to one of the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List, then, subject to the provisions of clause (2), the law made by Parliament, whether passed before or after the law made by the Legislature of such State, or, as the case may be, the existing law shall prevail and the law made by the Legislature of the State shall, to the extent of the repugnancy, be void.

(2) Where a law made by the Legislature of a State with respect to one of the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List contains any provision repugnant to the provisions of an earlier law made by Parliament or an existing law with respect to that matter, then, the law so made by the Legislature of such State shall if it has been reserved for the consideration of the President and has received his assent, prevail in that State.

Provided that nothing in this clause shall prevent Parliament from enacting at any time any law with respect to the same matter including a law adding to, amending, varying or repealing the law so made by the Legislature of the State."

8. In the case of M. Karunanidhi VS Union of India, AIr 1979 SC 898, the Supreme Court has laid down certain guidelines with respect to matters in the concurrent list:

1. Where the provisions of a Central Act and a State Act in the Concurrent List are fully inconsistent and are absolutely irreconcilable, the Central Act will prevail and the State Act will become void in view of the repugnancy.

2. Where however a law passed by the State comes into collision with a law passed by Parliament on an Entry in the Concurrent List, the State Act shall prevail to the extent of the repugnancy and the provisions of the Central Act would become void provided the State Act has been passed in accordance with clause (2) of Article 254.

3. Where a law passed by the State Legislature while being substantially within the scope of the entries in the State List entrenches upon any of the Entries in the Central List the constitutionality of the law may be upheld by invoking the doctrine of pith and substance if on an analysis of the provisions of the Act it appears that by and large the law falls within the four corners of the State List an entrenchment, if any, is purely incidental or inconsequential.

4. Where, however, a law made by the State Legislature on a subject covered by the Concurrent List is inconsistent with and repugnant to a previous law made by Parliament, then such a law can be protected by obtaining the assent of the President under Article 254(2) of the Constitution. The result of obtaining the assent of the President would be that so far as the State Act is concerned, it will prevail in the State and overrule the provisions of the Central Act in their applicability to the State only. Such a state of affairs will exist only until Parliament may at any time make a law adding to, or amending, varying or repealing the law made by the State Legislature under the proviso to Article 254.

9. In the case of Hoechst Pharmaceauticals Ltd (supra), wherein under paragraph no. 66, it has been held has under:-

" Article 254 of the Constitution makes provision first, as to what would happen in the case of conflict between a Central and State law with regard to the subjects enumerated in the Concurrent List, and secondly, for resolving such conflict. Article 254(1) enunciates the normal rule that in the event of a conflict between a Union and a State law in the concurrent field, the former prevails over the latter. Cl. (1) lays down that if a State law relating to a concurrent subject is 'repugnant' to a Union law relating to that subject, then, whether the Union law is prior or later in time, the Union law will prevail and the State law shall, to the extent of such repugnancy, be void. To the general rule laid down in cl. (1), cl. (2) engrafts an exception, viz., that if the President assents to a State law which has been reserved for his consideration, it will prevail notwithstanding its repugnancy to an earlier law of the Union, both laws dealing with a concurrent subject. In such a case, the Central Act will give way to the State Act only to the extent of inconsistency between the two, and no more. In short, the result of obtaining the assent of the President to a State Act which is inconsistent with a previous Union law relating to a concurrent subject would be that the State Act will prevail in that State and override the provisions of the Central Act in their applicability to that State only. The predominance of the State law may however be taken away if Parliament legislates under the proviso to cl. (2). The proviso to Article 254(2) empowers the Union Parliament to repeal or amend a repugnant State law, either directly, or by itself enacting a law repugnant to the State law with respect to the 'same matter'. Even though the subsequent law made by Parliament does not expressly repeal a State law, even then, the State law will become void as soon as the subsequent law of Parliament creating repugnancy is made. A State law would be repugnant to the Union law when there is direct conflict between the two laws. Such repugnancy may also arise where both laws operate in the same field and the two cannot possibly stand together."

10. Learned counsel for the applicant has, however, further contended that there is no absolute bar for the grant of bail, if a prima facie case of commission of the offences mentioned therein is not made out against the applicant. Reliance was placed on the three-Judge Bench decision of the Apex Court in Prathvi Raj Chauhan v. Union of India and Others [(2020) 4 SCC 727.

11. Learned AGA has further drawn the attention of the Court to the Code of Criminal Procedure (Uttar Pradesh Amendment) Act, 2022, which aims to include offences under Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act (POCSO) and offences relating to rape enumerated in Sections 376, 376-A, 376-AB, 376-B, 376-C,376-D, 376-DA, 376-DB, 376-E of the IPC in the exceptions to the provision of anticipatory bail. To the contrary, learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the said bill is still pending for assent of the President and as such has no legal sanctity as yet.

12. In the light of the above quoted provisions and after having considered the arguments of the respective parties, the argument of the learned counsel for the applicant that the state amendment would prevail over the Central Act find force as there is no bar to exclude the application of the provision relating to pre-arrest bail in relation to any case involving the arrest of any person on accusation of having committed an offence under subsection (3) of Section 376 IPC in view of the amendment in the State of UP under Section 438 Cr.P.C. as amended vide UP Act No. 04 of 2019, as such the application for pre-arrest bail would be equally maintainable.

13. Moreover, it is no doubt true that the provision of pre-arrest bail enshrined in Section 438 of Cr.P.C. is conceptualised under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, which relates to personal liberty. The law presumes an accused to be innocent till his guilt is proven. As a presumably innocent person, he is entitled to all the fundamental rights, including the right to liberty guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. In Sushila Aggarwal v. State (NCT of Delhi) and Another (AIR 2020 SC 831), the Apex Court held that the provision for pe-arrest bail was specifically enacted as a measure of protection against arbitrary arrests and humiliation by the police, which Parliament itself recognised as a widespread malaise on the part of the police and inasmuch as the denial of bail would amount to deprivation of personal liberty, the court should lean against the imposition of unnecessary restrictions on the scope of Section 438 Cr.P.C.. In Bhadresh Bipinbhai Sheth v. State of Gujarat (AIR 2015 SC 3090), the Apex Court held that the provision of pre-arrest bail enshrined in Section 438 of Cr.P.C calls for liberal interpretation in the light of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. In Hema Mishra v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others [(2014) 4 SCC 453], the Apex Court emphasised the mandate of a constitutional court to protect the liberty of a person from being put in jeopardy on account of baseless charges. It was held that a writ court is even empowered to grant pre-arrest bail despite a statutory bar imposed against the grant of such relief.

14. Now the merits of the case.

15. As per case of prosecution, on 14.10.2022, while minor daughter of the informant, who is said to be a student of high school, had gone to school at 8 in the morning, the applicant is said to have reached the college and seduced her daughter and took her to Som Plaza Guest house and kept her locked in a room for two hours and did wrong things by molesting the delicate parts of her body. It is also alleged that even prior to this, the applicant also molested her daughter many times and on complaint to applicant's family but of no avail.

16. Learned counsel for the applicant has contended that the applicant is innocent of the offences alleged against him and he has been falsely implicated in the case. The counsel further submitted that no materials are on record to connect the applicant with the alleged crime; hence, he is entitled to get pre-arrest bail. It is further submitted that in the present case, the FIR was filed by the informant in relation to the incident that happened with his minor daughter, in which the final report was presented in the court by the Investigating Officer at earlier point of time. It is further submitted that thereafter a protest petition was filed by the informant on which the order to register it as a complaint was passed on 20.06.2023. After this, the statement of the informant was recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and his witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C. and on the basis of evidence, the applicant was summoned by the court in the said crime on 03.11.2023. It is further stated that thereafter the applicant approached this Court by filing application u/s 482 No. 43276 of 2023 to quash the said summoning order, which came to be disposed of vide order dated 16.12.2023 with a direction to the applicant to appear and apply for bail before the court below within three weeks.

17. It is further contended by learned counsel for the applicant that relying on the statement of the victim said to have been recorded under Sections 161 & 164 Cr.P.C. as well as the medical report, the incident was found to be untrue by the Investigating Officer and hence no offence under Section 376(3) IPC is made against the applicant. It is further submitted that the victim in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has not stated about rape but later on after nine months of the incident she has given her statement under Section 202 Cr.P.C. and changed her statement that she was raped by the applicant. The victim in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has herself admitted that she is 16 years of age and the applicant is aged about 17 years nine months. The applicant has no criminal history. It is further submitted that the entire allegation against the applicant is false and concocted. There is no credible evidence against him. The applicant undertakes to co-operate during proceedings before the Court below and trial and he would appear as and when required by the Court. It has been stated that in case, the applicant is granted anticipatory bail, he shall not misuse the liberty of bail and will co-operate during proceedings before the Court below and would obey all conditions of bail.

18. Learned counsel for the informant as well as learned AGA has opposed the prayer for bail and submitted that the evidence on record reveals that the accusation made against the applicant therein is very serious in nature.

19. On due consideration to the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the applicant as well as learned A.G.A. and considering the nature of accusations and antecedents of the applicant, the applicant is liable to be enlarged on anticipatory bail in view of the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Sushila Aggarwal Vs. State (NCT of Delhi), (2020) 5 SCC 1. The future contingencies regarding the anticipatory bail being granted to applicant shall also be taken care of as per the aforesaid judgment of the Apex Court.

20. In view of the above, the anticipatory bail application of the applicants is allowed.

21. Let the accused-applicant-Krishna be released forthwith in the aforesaid complaint case on anticipatory bail till the conclusion of trial on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the trial court concerned with the following conditions:-

1. The applicant shall not leave India during the currency of trial without prior permission from the concerned trial Court.

2. The applicant shall surrender his passport, if any, to the concerned trial Court forthwith. His passport will remain in custody of the concerned trial Court.

3. That the applicant shall not, directly or indirectly, make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade them from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer;

4. The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence and the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law to ensure presence of the applicants.

5. In case, the applicant misuses the liberty of bail, the trial Court concerned may take appropriate action in accordance with law and judgment of Apex Court in the case of Sushila Aggarwal and others Vs State (NCT of Delhi) and another, (2020) 5 SCC 1.

6. The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court default of this condition is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of his bail and proceed against them in accordance with law.

7. The trial court would make every endeavor to conclude the trial of the case within a period of six months in accordance with law.

22. With the aforesaid directions, this application stands disposed of finally.

List of Cases cited:

Mohindhr Singh Gill & anr. Vs Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi & ors., (1978) 1 SCC 405

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsels for the petitioners and Sri Shailendra Kumar Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Vivek Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. Notices to the concerned respondents other than the State are hereby dispensed with.

3. Core legal issues are common in all bunch of the writ petitions, hence, the members of Bar were invited to address and all these writ petitions are decided by common Judgment and order.

4. Chronic cases are brought before this Court by way of the bunch of the writ petitions wherein the petitioners have assailed their respective orders of rejection of regularisation, which were passed by the Committee headed by the Joint Director of Education of respective regions.

5. The crux of the issue is that the petitioners were appointed either under the Second Removal of Difficulties Order framed under the Act No.5 of 1982 or under unamended Section 18 of Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education (Service Selection Boards) Act, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act 1982'. Subsequently, vide the UP Act No.7 of 2016, a new Section 33-G is inserted with effect from 22.3.2016, thus, it was incumbent upon the Regional Level Committee to thoroughly examine the case of the petitioners but it's contended that the Regional Level Committees, ignoring the provisions of law and without ensuring the records of each and every petitioners from the committee of management concerned, passed the orders.

6. Section 33-G is extracted as under:-

"33-G (1) Any teacher, other than the Principal or the Head Master, who-

(a) was appointed by promotion or by direct recruitment in the lecturer's grade or trained graduate grade on or after August 7, 1993 but not later than January 25, 1999 against a short term vacancy in accordance with paragraph 2 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) order,

1981 as amended from time to time, and such vacancy was subsequently converted into a substantive vacancy;

(b) was appointed by promotion or by direct recruitment on or after August 7, 1993, but not later than December 30, 2000 on adhoc basis against substantive vacancy in accordance with Section 18, in the Lecturer grade or Trained Graduate grade;

(c) possesses the qualifications prescribed under, or is exempted from such qualification in accordance with, the provisions of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921;

(d) has been continuously serving the institution from the date of such appointment up to the date of the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board (Amendment) Act, 2016:

(e) has been found suitable for appointment in a substantive capacity by the Selection Committee referred to in clause (a) of sub-section (2) of Section 33-C in accordance with the procedure prescribed under clause (b) of the said sub-section;

Shall be given substantive appointments by the Management.

(2)(a) The names of the teachers shall be recommended for substantive appointment in order of seniority as determined from the date of their appointment;

(b) if two or more such teachers are appointed on the same date, the teacher who is elder in age shall be recommended first.

(3) Every teacher appointed in a substantive capacity under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be on probation from the date of such substantive appointment.

(4) A teacher who is not found suitable under sub- section (1) and a teacher who is not eligible to get a substantive appointment under the said sub-section shall cease to hold the appointment on such date as the State Government may by order specify.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be contrued to entitled any teacher to substantive appointment if on the date of the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board (Amendment Act), 2016 such vacancy had already been filed or selection for such vacancy has already been made in accordance with this Act.

(6) The services of the adhoc teachers and the teachers who have been appointed against short term vacancies shall be regularised from the date of commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board (Amendment Act), 2016.

(7) Reservation Rules shall be followed in regularization of adhoc teachers and teachers who are appointed against short term vacancies.

(8) Adhoc teachers, who have not been appointed either in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981 or in accordance with Section 18 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 and are otherwise getting salary only on the basis of interim/Final orders of the court shall not be entitled for regularization."

7. While promulgating the aforesaid provisions, two important conditions were provided for regularisation; firstly that any teacher, other than the principal or headmaster appointed by promotion or by direct recruitment in the lecturers grade or trained graduate grade, on or after 7.8.1993, but not later than 25.1.1999, and secondly, appointed on a short term Vacancy in accordance with paragraph 2 of Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, which was subsequently converted into a substantive vacancy. The various committees of management all over the Uttar Pradesh, looking into the shortage of teachers for imparting education, appointed teachers in their institutes and once the financial concurrence was not granted by the District Inspector of Schools concerned, time and again, such appointed teachers approached the Hon'ble High Court, wherein, interim orders were passed while directing the District Inspector of Schools to pay salary and as a result, they were getting the salary since almost last more than two decades.

8. It is worth to notice that the provisions contained under section 33-G of the Act 1982, is a beneficiary scheme launched by the State Government looking into the plight of the teachers who were serving for more than two decades and their service conditions were not regulated as there was no statutory provisions. It has long been held that in our constitutional scheme, the State is a welfare State and action of State must transpire that decision taken by the State be fair, reasonable, transparent and justifiable. So far as the present case is concerned, it is the pious duty of the respondent authorities to examine that the teachers, who are serving for a long period of time, whether falls under the mandate of section 33-G of the Act 1982, and for such consideration, two sources have pivotal role to get it decided as those are having factual information; firstly, the committee of management of the institution concerned and secondly, the District Inspector of Schools.

9. When this Court examines the impugned orders in the bunch of writ petitions, it is apparent that it has been noted by the Regional Level Committee in all the impugned orders that 'उपरोक्त वर्णित विन्दुओं से सम्बन्धित वांछित पत्रजात न तो जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक, प्रतापगढ़ द्वारा दिया गया और न ही प्रबन्धतंत्र द्वारा ही प्रस्तुत किया गया।'

10. From perusal of the aforesaid observations, it is crystal clear that the records with respect to the appointment of the petitioners were not placed before the Regional Level Committee. This Court does not enter into the reasons that who is responsible for not furnishing the documents but the fact remains that the Regional Level Committee has taken decision without the records. Further the Regional Level Committee has also not given any reason that as to when and how the District Inspector of Schools and the committee of management concerned were directed to produce the record in the connected writ petitions whereas the aforesaid observations has been made in a cyclostyle manner, in all the connected writ petitions, which in fact indicates that the Regional Level Committee was ignorant to the importance ofthe records which could only be availed from the authority abovesaid.

11. This Court has also taken note of the fact that the opportunity of personal hearing to the concerned petitioners/ affected teachers have also not been accorded so as to sub-serve the compliance of the rules of principles of natural justice. The matter, which is in hand to decide, is not on the premises that there is no regularisation rules prevailing but petitioners have been deprived of their valuable rights without ensuring the due opportunity of hearing and further prior coming to the conclusion, the records were not procured from the committee of management as well as the District Inspector of Schools concerned.

12. The State counsel during the course of his argument has also failed to substantiate that with what manner the Regional Level Committee sought for the records from the committee of management and from the District Inspector of Schools, however, the District Inspector of Schools himself is the member of the Regional Level Committee.

13. From perusal of the orders of Regional Level Committee, it is evident that the District Inspector of Schools concerned is one of the members and further there is provision under the UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act 1921') that if a committee of management is violating any instruction or direction of the educational authority, the same can be forced by invoking the provisions prescribed under the Act, 1921, but it is nowhere mentioned in the orders that either the District Inspector of Schools or the committee of management concerned have ever called upon or forced to submit the relevant documents with respect to the appointments or whatsoever the records were required for the purpose of considering the regularisation of such teachers/petitioners.

14. This Court is also of the considered opinion that an employee should not be deprived of any benefit or the provisions of law only because of the fact that some error has been committed by the employer including the State and if it is so, the same must be rectified. So far as the present petitioners are concerned, their appointments were made under certain exigencies and the grave requirements for imparting education, wherein the State machinery was totally failed to make appointment of teachers, which is the paramount duty of a welfare State. The petitioners were appointed in the educational institutions, which are in the remote areas of the Province and those are fulfilling the aim and object of the constitutional scheme, thereby imparting education, which is the fundamental right.

15. In fact, the State, while looking into the aforesaid Act No.7 of 1982 while inserting provision 33-G, provided that those teachers other than principal or headmaster, appointed by promotion or direct recruitment, after 7.8.1993, but not later than 30.12.2000, shall be given substantive appointment, but the impugned orders clearly show that Regional Level Committee without the reports of the Committee of Management and District Inspector of Schools, has passed the orders, which in fact failed the very purpose of prescribing the scheme under section 33-G of the Act 1982. The orders passed by the Regional Level Committee are in a very cursory manner and without ensuring the records from the committee of management and the District Inspector of Schools concerned, which cannot be approved of.

16. Earlier also, the matter came up for consideration before this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 103 of 2023 wherein the controversy is settled while providing that it is the duty and responsibility of the State authorities to consider and adjudge the suitability of the teachers for substantive appointment under Section 33-G of the Act 1982 and their continuation in the ad hoc capacity in the institution concerned is subject to only such consideration. Further, the order passed in the aforesaid special appeal has also been affirmed in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.13023 of 2023, vide order dated 17.7.2023. Thus, there remains no dispute so far as the consideration of the petitioners/ teachers under section 33-G of the Act 1982, is concerned.

17. So for as the issue with respect to ignoring the opportunity to the committee of management and calling for the record are concerned, this Court is not unmindful to the rules of principles of natural justice which is not a mere legal formality but the same constitutes substantive obligation which should reflect in the decision making process of an adjudicating authority. This rule is guaranteed against arbitrary action in all the proceedings, namely, judicial, quasi-judicial and administrative. The fundamental principle enshrined in the Indian jurisprudence; audi alteram partem, which means a person affected by administrative, judicial or quasi-judicial action must be heard before a decision is taken and, thus, in this view of the matter, the issue involved in all these petitions, have become more relevant and needs to be rectified in the light of the abovesaid principle.

18. I have also gone through the master counter affidavit filed in leading writ petition from which it is evident that there is no specific reason assigned regarding non-availability of the record which was incumbent upon the committee of management to furnish before the Regional Level Committee, however, the same could have been ensured by the Regional Level Committee.

19. It's so long settled that every order either administrative or judicial must stand on its own legs. The constitutional Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Mohindhr Singh Gill and another Vs. Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi and ohters, (1978) 1 SCC 405, has very categorically held as under.

"8. The second equally relevant matter is that when a statutory functionary makes an order based on certain grounds, its validity must be judged by the reasons so mentioned and cannot be supplemented by fresh reasons in the shape of affidavit or otherwise. Otherwise, an order bad in the beginning may, by the time it comes to court on account of a challenge, get validated by additional grounds later brought out. We may here draw attention to the observations of Bose, J. in Gordhandas Bhanji[2]:

"Public orders, publicly made, in exercise of a statutory authority cannot be construed in the light of explanations subsequently given by the officer making the order of what he meant, or of what was in his mind, or what he intended to do. Public orders made by public authorities are meant to have public effect and are intended to affect the actings and conduct of those to whom they are addressed and must be construed objectively with reference to the language used in the order itself."

Orders are not like old wine becoming better as they grow older."

20. In view of the above submissions and discussions, it emerges that the orders impugned in all the writ petitions have been passed in a cyclostyle manner and without ensuring the records from the committee of management and the District Inspector of Schools and, therefore, those assail infirmity and erroneousness.

21. Thus, all the writ petitions succeeds and are allowed.

22. Resultantly, the impugned orders passed by the Regional Level Committee headed by the Chairman, namely, Regional Joint Director of Education concerned, in all the respective writ petitions are hereby quashed.

23. All the matters are relegated back to the Regional Level Committees concerned to pass order afresh within a period of three months, after calling the records from the committee of management as well as the District Inspectors of Schools concerned and subsequently verifying those records and consulting with the committee of management, and while affording opportunity of hearing to the teachers concerned, if so required. The scheme provided under Section 33-G of the Act, 1982 shall strictly be adhered to.

24. In addition, it is further provided that the petitioners of all the writ petitions are entitled to continue in service and shall be paid salary without any further break. It is further directed that the petitioner as well as the manager of the committee of management shall ensure their presence and would co-operate with the Regional Level Committee, as and when required.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjay Kumar Verma, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned AGA-I for the State respondents and Sri Kuldeep Singh Parmar, learned counsel for respondent no. 2.

2. The present petition has been filed seeking to assail the order dated 18.08.2022 passed by Judicial Magistrate, Ghatampur, Kanpur Dehat in Case No. 474 of 2019 (Mashroof Raza alias Sonu Khatoon Vs. Waseem Ahmad and others), under Section 12 of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 20051, and the subsequent order dated 03.10.2023 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Kanpur Dehat in Criminal Revision No. 76 of 2022 (Saleem Ahmad vs. State of U.P. and another), whereby the earlier order has been affirmed.

3. The facts of the case as reflected from the pleadings in the petition indicate that an application dated 21.12.2019 was moved by the respondent no. 3 seeking an amendment in the relief clause of an earlier application dated 03.08.2019 which had been filed under Section 12 of the D.V. Act. The application seeking amendment sought deletion of a part of the relief clause, stating that due to an inadvertent typographical error, maintenance had been sought for 'the minor son', whereas the applicant did not have any minor son.

4. The petitioner herein, who is the father of the husband of the respondent no. 3 (applicant in D.V. Case), raised objections to the amendment application by contending that no such amendment was permissible in a criminal proceeding.

5. Learned Magistrate passed an order dated 18.08.2022 allowing the application dated 21.02.2019 seeking amendment, and observing that the said application be read along with the main application, fixed a date for passing of further order.

6. Aggrieved against the aforesaid order, the petitioner preferred a revision, which has been rejected by an order dated 03.10.2023, wherein the revisional court has held that proceedings under the D.V. Act are quasi civil in nature, and accordingly, amendments to pleadings were permissible.

7. The order passed by the learned Magistrate on the amendment application and the subsequent revisional order, are sought to be assailed by means of the present petition.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has sought to challenge the orders passed by the learned Magistrate and the revisional court by referring to the factual aspects of the case and the defence which is to be set up on behalf of the petitioner to contest the proceedings.

9. Learned AGA-I appearing for the State respondents and also the counsel appearing for the respondent no. 3 have supported the orders passed by the learned Magistrate and also the revisional court by submitting that proceedings under D.V. Act are essentially of a civil nature and in a situation where amendment is necessary, the Court concerned would have power to allow such amendments.

10. It is submitted that the amendment sought in the present case was to correct an inadvertent typographical error, and the objections which were sought to be raised by the petitioner herein were solely with a view to delay the proceedings, and the said objections have been rightly turned down by the learned Magistrate.

11. The question which, thus, falls for consideration in the present case is with regard to the extent of the powers of amendment of pleadings exerciseable in proceedings under the D.V. Act.

12. The proceedings under the D.V. Act, in the instant case, were initiated pursuant to an application filed under Section 12 wherein the reliefs sought are referable to the provisions under Sections 18, 19, 20 and 22 of the said Act.

13. The genesis of the D.V. Act is traceable to the General Recommendation No. XII (1989) made by the United Nations Committee on Convention of Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), in terms of which it was recommended that the State parties, should act to protect women against violence of any kind especially, that occurring within the family. The Vienna Accord of 1994 and the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action (1995), acknowledged that domestic violence was a human rights issue and a serious deterrent to development.

14. The Protection from Domestic Violence Bill, 2002 upon being tabled in the Lok Sabha was referred to a Standing Committee of the Ministry of Human Resource Development in the Rajya Sabha. The Committee submitted its 124th Report on the Bill (2002), wherein it was stated that the proposed legislation was aimed at "providing a remedy under the civil law which is intended to preserve the family and at the same time provide protection to victims of domestic violence."

15. The object of the Act was to bridge the gap between the existing procedures in civil and criminal law by providing a civil remedy for a complaint of domestic violence without disrupting the harmony in the family. This is also clear from the following extract from the Report of the Standing Committee:

" ...the existing civil, personal or criminal laws leave certain gaps in addressing the issue of Domestic Violence. Under criminal law, if a husband perpetrates violence on his wife, she may file a complaint under Section-498 A of IPC. Similarly, under the civil law, if there is disharmony in a family and the husband and wife cannot live together, any one of them may file a suit for separation followed by divorce. However, the present Bill addresses such situation where there is some disharmony in the family but the situation has not yet reached a stage where either separation or divorce proceeding has become inevitable and the aggrieved woman also for some reasons does not want to initiate criminal proceedings against her perpetrator. Therefore, the Bill seeks to give the aggrieved woman an alternative avenue whereby she can insulate herself from violence without being deprived of the basic necessities of life and without disintegrating her family."

16. The D.V. Act was enacted as a law (Act 43 of 2006) with the purpose of providing a remedy in civil law for the protection of women from being victims of domestic violence and to protect the occurrence of domestic violence in society. The enactment of law was made keeping in view the rights guaranteed under Articles 14, 15 and 21 of the Constitution and to provide for a remedy in the civil law which is intended to protect the women from being victims of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in the society. The scheme of the Act envisages that the order to be passed by the Magistrate, and a complaint by the aggrieved person, would be of a civil nature, and if the said order is violated, it would assume the character of criminality. The legislative intent of the enactment, is reflected in the statement of objects and reasons of the Act, which reads as follows:

"STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS"

Domestic violence is undoubtedly a human Right issue and serious deterrent to development. The Vienna Accord of 1994 and the Beijing Declaration and the Platform for Action (1995) have acknowledged this. The United Nations Committee on Convention on Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) in its General Recommendation NO. XII (1989) has recommended that State parties should act to protect women against violence of any kind especially the occurring within the family.

2. The phenomenon of domestic violence is widely prevalent but has remained largely invisible in the public domain. Presently, where a woman is subjected to cruelty by her husband or his relatives, it is an offence under section 498A of the Indian Penal Code. The civil law does not however address this phenomenon in its entirety.

3. It is, therefore, proposed to enact a law keeping in view the rights guaranteed under articles 14,15 and 21 of the Constitution to provide for a remedy under the civil law which is intended to protect the woman from being victims of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in the society.

4. The Bill, inter alia, seeks to provide for the following:-

(i) It covers those women who are or have been in a relationship with the abuser where both parties have lived together in a shared household and are related by consanguinity, marriage or through a relationship in the nature of marriage or adoption. In addition, relationships with family members living together as a joint family are also included. Even those women who are sisters, widows, mothers, single women, or living with the abuser are entitled to legal protection under the proposed legislation. However, whereas the Bill enables the wife or the female living in a relationship in the nature of marriage to file a complaint under the proposed enactment against any relative of the husband or the male partner, it does not enable any female relative of the husband or the male partner to file a complaint against the wife or the female partner.

(ii) It defines the expression "domestic violence" to include actual abuse or threat or abuse that is physical, sexual, verbal, emotional or economic. Harassment by way of unlawful dowry demands to the woman or her relatives would also be covered under this definition.

(iii) It provides for the rights of women to secure housing. It also provides for the right of a woman to reside in her matrimonial home or shared household, whether or not she has any title or rights in such home or household. This right is secured by a residence order, which is passed by the Magistrate.

(iv) It empowers the Magistrate to pass protection orders in favour of the aggrieved person to prevent the respondent from aiding or committing an act of domestic violence or any other specified act, entering a workplace or any other place frequented by the aggrieved person, attempting the communicate with her, isolating any assets used by both the parties and causing violence to the aggrieved person, her relatives or others who provide her assistance from the domestic violence.

(v) It provides for appointment of Protection Officers and registration of non-governmental organisations as service providers for providing assistance to the aggrieved person with respect to her medical examination, obtaining legal aid, safe shelter, etc."

17. An 'aggrieved person' is defined under Section 2(a) of the D.V. Act to mean any woman who is, or has been, in a domestic relationship with the respondent and who alleges to have been subjected to any Act of domestic violence by the respondent. It is noticeable that the grievance of the 'aggrieved person' under the D.V. Act, is to be considered against a 'respondent' as defined under Section 2(q) of the Act. The grievances which may be raised and the reliefs that may be sought under the D.V. Act, are not to be in the nature of a formal accusation as in a criminal case, and the person against whom the relief is sought, is therefore not referred to as an accused.

18. The procedure for obtaining orders of reliefs are provided under Chapter IX of the D.V. Act, and in terms thereof the various reliefs that can be granted are as follows: (i) protection orders under Section 18; (ii) residence order under Section 19; (iii) monetary reliefs under Section 20; (iv) custody orders under Section 21; and (v) compensation orders under Section 22.

19. Amongst the various reliefs that may be claimed under the D.V. Act, it is only the breach of a protection order, or of an interim protection order by the respondent, that is held to be an offence in terms of Section 31 with a penalty specified, and in terms of Section 32, the said offence is cognizable and non-bailable.

20. The proceedings before a magistrate, which are to commence with filing of an application under Section 12, seeking various kinds of reliefs, provided for, under Chapter IX, are essentially of a civil nature, and it is only upon breach of a protection order, or of an interim protection order, that the said proceedings get transformed into criminal proceedings.

21. The breach of protection order or of an interim protection order, is held to be an offence under Section 31(1), and Section 31(2) uses the expression 'accused' only when an offence i.e., a breach of a protection order or of an interim protection order is alleged to have been committed.

22. It would be seen that criminality under Section 31 is attached only to breach of a protection order under Section 18, or of an interim protection order under Section 23 order, or under Section 33 for failure of a Protection Officer to discharge his duties without sufficient cause.

23. The question as to whether the reliefs envisaged under Chapter IX of the D.V. Act are of a civil nature, was examined in Kunapareddy Alias Nookala Shanka

Balaji Vs. Kunapareddy Swarna Kumari and Another, wherein after considering the purpose of the enactment and its scheme, it was held that the order that is to be passed by the Magistrate on a complaint by the aggrieved person, would be of a civil nature, and it is only when the said order is violated that it assumes the character of criminality. The observations made in the judgment, in this regard, are as follows:

"12. In fact, the very purpose of enacting the DV Act was to provide for a remedy which is an amalgamation of civil rights of the complainant i.e. aggrieved person. Intention was to protect women against violence of any kind, especially that occurring within the family as the civil law does not address this phenomenon in its entirety. It is treated as an offence under Section 498-A of the Penal Code, 1860. The purpose of enacting the law was to provide a remedy in the civil law for the protection of women from being victims of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in the society. It is for this reason, that the scheme of the Act provides that in the first instance, the order that would be passed by the Magistrate, on a complaint by the aggrieved person, would be of a civil nature and if the said order is violated, it assumes the character of criminality.....

13. Procedure for obtaining order of reliefs is stipulated in Chapter IV of the DV Act which comprises Sections 12 to 29. Under Section 12 an application can be made to the Magistrate by the aggrieved person or Protection Officer or any other person on behalf of the aggrieved person. The Magistrate is empowered, under Section 18, to pass protection order. Section 19 of the DV Act authorises the Magistrate to pass residence order which may include restraining the respondent from dispossessing or disturbing the possession of the aggrieved person or directing the respondent to remove himself from the shared household or even restraining the respondent or his relatives from entering the portion of the shared household in which the aggrieved person resides, etc. Monetary reliefs which can be granted by the Magistrate under Section 20 of the DV Act includes giving of the relief in respect of the loss of earnings, the medical expenses, the loss caused due to destruction, damage or removal of any property from the control of the aggrieved person and the maintenance for the aggrieved person as well as her children, if any. Custody can be decided by the Magistrate which was granted under Section 21 of the DV Act. Section 22 empowers the Magistrate to grant compensation and damages for the injuries, including mental torture and emotional distress, caused by the domestic violence committed by the appellant. All the aforesaid reliefs that can be granted by the Magistrate are of civil nature. Section 23 vests the Magistrate with the power to grant interim ex parte orders. It is, thus, clear that various kinds of reliefs which can be obtained by the aggrieved person are of civil nature. At the same time, when there is a breach of such orders passed by the Magistrate, Section 31 terms such a breach to be a punishable offence."

24. The procedure to be followed by the court in 'proceedings' under the D.V. Act, is prescribed under Section 28 of the Act. Sub-section (1) of Section 28, while drawing a distinction between 'proceedings' under Sections 12, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23, and 'offences' under Section 31, states that that they would be governed by the provisions of the Cr.P.C. For ease of reference, Section 28 of the D.V. Act is being extracted below:

"Procedure.--(1) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, all proceedings under sections 12, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23 and offences under section 31 shall be governed by the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. (2 of 1974).

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall prevent the court from laying down its own procedure for disposal of an application under section 12 or under sub-section (2) of section 23."

25. It is noticeable that Section 28(1) commences with the expression "save as otherwise provided by this Act", the effect of which would be to exclude the application of the Code in areas where the procedure has been expressly provided under the D.V. Act or under the Protection of Women from the Domestic Violence Rules, 20063.

26. It is further noticeable that Section 28(2) begins with a non obstante clause which empowers the court to lay down its own procedure for disposal of an application under Section 12 or under Section 23(2).

27. The aforesaid may be seen as exceptions to the general rule with regard to the applicability of the provisions of the Cr.P.C. to proceedings under the D.V. Act.

28. The 'Statement of Objects and Reasons' of the enactment is clearly indicative that the legislature was conscious that in a situation where a woman is subjected to cruelty by her husband or her relatives, it would be an offence under Section 498 A of I.P.C.; however, the civil law does not address the phenomena in its entirety. The legislation, was, accordingly, brought in place, keeping in view the rights guaranteed under Articles 14, 15 and 16 of the Constitution and to provide for a remedy under the civil law intended to protect a woman from being victim of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in society.

29. The procedure set out under the D.V. Act and the D.V. Rules, is sufficiently indicative of a conscious deviation from the manner in which a criminal court proceeds to take cognizance, issue process and try the accused under the provisions of the Cr.P.C. It is only in case of a breach of a protection order or of an interim protection order, passed under the provisions of the D.V. Act, that an element of criminality is sought to be attached. At the stage of the proceedings related to an application under Section 12, the applicability of the Cr.P.C., would be seen to be circumscribed by the provisions under Section 28 of the D.V. Act.

30. The question as to whether a proceeding is civil or not, was examined in State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Mukhtar Singh and it was stated thus:

"Whether a proceeding is civil or not depends, in my opinion, on the nature of the subject-matter of the proceeding and its object, and not on the mode adopted or the forum provided for the enforcement of the right. The expression "civil rights" in a broad sense comprises the entire bundle of private rights that a human being or any person recognises by law as a juristic entity might, as such, possess under law and for the recognition, declaration or enforcement of which law makes a provision."

31. The test to be applied for examining the character of a proceeding before a Court or authority, and the distinction between a 'civil proceeding' and a 'criminal proceeding', was formulated by a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in SAL Narayan Row Vs. Ishwarlal Bhagwandas, and it was held as follows:

"8. .....The expression "civil proceeding" is not defined in the Constitution, nor in the General Clauses Act. The expression in our judgment covers all proceedings in which a party asserts the existence of a civil right conferred by the civil law or by statute, and claims relief for breach thereof. A criminal proceeding on the other hand is ordinarily one in which if carried to its conclusion it may result in the imposition of sentences such as death, imprisonment, fine or forfeiture of property. It also includes proceedings in which in the larger interest of the State, orders to prevent apprehended breach of the peace, orders to bind down persons who are a danger to the maintenance of peace and order, or orders aimed at preventing vagrancy are contemplated to be passed.

".....The character of the proceeding, in our judgment, depends not upon the nature of the tribunal which is invested with authority to grant relief, but upon the nature of the right violated and the appropriate relief which may be claimed. A civil proceeding is therefore one in which a person seeks to enforce by appropriate, relief the alleged infringement of his civil rights against another person or the State, and which if the claim is proved would result in the declaration express or implied of the right claimed and relief such as payment of debt, damages, compensation, delivery of specific property, enforcement of personal rights, determination of status etc."

32. The distinction between a 'civil proceeding' and a 'criminal proceeding', and the test to be applied for the purpose was reiterated in Ram Kishan Fauji Vs. State of Haryana and Others. It was observed as follows:

31. "..... As far as criminal proceeding is concerned, it clearly stipulates that a criminal proceeding is ordinarily one which, if carried to its conclusion, may result in imposition of (i) sentence, and (ii) it can take within its ambit the larger interest of the State, orders to prevent apprehended breach of peace and orders to bind down persons who are a danger to the maintenance of peace and order. The Court has ruled that the character of the proceeding does not depend upon the nature of the tribunal which is invested with the authority to grant relief but upon the nature of the right violated and the appropriate relief which may be claimed."

33. The question as to whether the nature of proceedings under the various provisions of the D.V. Act, would be of a civil or criminal nature, was clarified in Kunapareddy Alias Nookala Shanka Balaji Vs. Kunapareddy Swarna Kumari and Another, wherein referring to Section 28, it was observed that in respect of a petition filed under Sections 18 and 20, though proceedings are to be governed by the Cr.P.C., such proceedings, undisputedly; would be predominantly of a civil nature. It was also observed that all the reliefs stipulated under Chapter IV of the D.V. Act, which comprises Sections 12 to 29 and can be granted by a Magistrate, are of a civil nature. The observations made in the judgment, are as follows:

against violence of any kind, especially that occurring within the family as the civil law does not address this phenomenon in its entirety. It is treated as an offence under Section 498-A of the Penal Code, 1860. The purpose of enacting the law was to provide a remedy in the civil law for the protection of women from being victims of domestic violence and to prevent the occurrence of domestic violence in the society. It is for this reason, that the scheme of the Act provides that in the first instance, the order that would be passed by the Magistrate, on a complaint by the aggrieved person, would be of a civil nature and if the said order is violated, it assumes the character of criminality....."

13. Procedure for obtaining order of reliefs is stipulated in Chapter IV of the DV Act which comprises Sections 12 to 29. Under Section 12 an application can be made to the Magistrate by the aggrieved person or Protection Officer or any other person on behalf of the aggrieved person. The Magistrate is empowered, under Section 18, to pass protection order. Section 19 of the DV Act authorises the Magistrate to pass residence order which may include restraining the respondent from dispossessing or disturbing the possession of the aggrieved person or directing the respondent to remove himself from the shared household or even restraining the respondent or his relatives from entering the portion of the shared household in which the aggrieved person resides, etc. Monetary reliefs which can be granted by the Magistrate under Section 20 of the DV Act includes giving of the relief in respect of the loss of earnings, the medical expenses, the loss caused due to destruction, damage or removal of any property from the control of the aggrieved person and the maintenance for the aggrieved person as well as her children, if any. Custody can be decided by the Magistrate which was granted under Section 21 of the DV Act. Section 22 empowers the Magistrate to grant compensation and damages for the injuries, including mental torture and emotional distress, caused by the domestic violence committed by the appellant. All the aforesaid reliefs that can be granted by the Magistrate are of civil nature. Section 23 vests the Magistrate with the power to grant interim ex parte orders. It is, thus, clear that various kinds of reliefs which can be obtained by the aggrieved person are of civil nature. At the same time, when there is a breach of such orders passed by the Magistrate, Section 31 terms such a breach to be a punishable offence.

14. In the aforesaid scenario, merely because Section 28 of the DV Act provides for that the proceedings under some of the provisions including Sections 18 and 20 are essentially of civil nature.....

34. The nature of proceedings instituted upon an application under Section 12 of the D.V. Act, and whether the filing of such application can be equated to lodging of a complaint or initiation of prosecution, was examined in a recent decision in Kamatchi Vs. Lakshmi Narayanan and clarifying the law on the subject it was held that the Magistrate after hearing the parties and considering the material on record, may pass an appropriate order under Section 12, and only thereafter, the breach of such order would constitute an offence as provided under Section 31; at the time when the application under Section 12 is preferred, no offence is committed as per the terms of the provisions of the D.V. Act.

35. There is a marked distinction between a 'complaint' contemplated under the D.V. Act and the D.V. Rules, and a 'complaint' under the Cr.P.C.. A complaint under Rule 2(b) of the D.V. Rules, has been defined as an allegation made orally or in writing by any person to a Protection Officer, whereas a complaint under Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. is any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate with a view to taking action under Cr.P.C. that some person whether known or known has committed an offence. The Magistrate dealing with an application under Section 12 is not called upon to take action for the commission of an offence; hence what is contemplated is not a complaint but an application to a Magistrate as set out in Rule 6(1) of the D.V. Rules. The filing of an application under Section 12 of the D.V. Act, can, therefore, not be equated to the lodging of complaint or initiation of prosecution as contemplated under the provisions of the Cr.P.C.

36. The question as to whether an amendment would be permissible in a criminal complaint or a petition filed under the provisions of Cr.P.C., was examined in S.R. Sukumar Vs. S. Sunaad Raghuram, and laying down principles for the purpose it was held that although there was no specific provision in the Cr.P.C. to permit amendment of a complaint or a petition, if the amendment sought to be made related to a simple infirmity, which was curable by means of a formal amendment and by allowing such amendment no prejudice would be caused to other side, the court may permit such amendment to be made. Referring to and earlier decision in U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Modi Distillery it was observed as follows:

"18. Insofar as merits of the contention regarding allowing of amendment application is concerned, it is true that there is no specific provision in the Code to amend either a complaint or a petition filed under the provisions of the Code, but the courts have held that the petitions seeking such amendment to correct curable infirmities can be allowed even in respect of complaints. In U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Modi Distillery wherein the name of the company was wrongly mentioned in the complaint, that is, instead of Modi Industries Ltd. the name of the company was mentioned as Modi Distillery and the name was sought to be amended. In such factual background, this Court has held as follows:

"6. ...The learned Single Judge has focussed his attention only on the technical flaw in the complaint and has failed to comprehend that the flaw had occurred due to the recalcitrant attitude of Modi Distillery and furthermore the infirmity is one which could be easily removed by having the matter remitted to the Chief Judicial Magistrate with a direction to call upon the appellant to make the formal amendments to the averments contained in Para 2 of the complaint so as to make the controlling company of the industrial unit figure as the accused concerned in the complaint. All that has to be done is the making of a formal application for amendment by the appellant for leave to amend by substituting the name of Modi Industries Limited, the company owning the industrial unit, in place of Modi Distillery. ... Furthermore, the legal infirmity is of such a nature which could be easily cured."

19. What is discernible from U.P. Pollution Control Board case is that an easily curable legal infirmity could be cured by means of a formal application for amendment. If the amendment sought to be made relates to a simple infirmity which is curable by means of a formal amendment and by allowing such amendment, no prejudice could be caused to the other side, notwithstanding the fact that there is no enabling provision in the Code for entertaining such amendment, the court may permit such an amendment to be made. On the contrary, if the amendment sought to be made in the complaint does not relate either to a curable infirmity or the same cannot be corrected by a formal amendment or if there is likelihood of prejudice to the other side, then the court shall not allow such amendment in the complaint.

20. In the instant case, the amendment application was filed on 24-5-2007 to carry out the amendment by adding Paras 11(a) and 11(b). Though, the proposed amendment was not a formal amendment, but a substantial one, the Magistrate allowed the amendment application mainly on the ground that no cognizance was taken of the complaint before the disposal of amendment application. Firstly, the Magistrate was yet to apply the judicial mind to the contents of the complaint and had not taken cognizance of the matter. Secondly, since summons was yet to be ordered to be issued to the accused, no prejudice would be caused to the accused. Thirdly, the amendment did not change the original nature of the complaint being one for defamation. Fourthly, the publication of poem Khalnayakaru being in the nature of subsequent event created a new cause of action in favour of the respondent which could have been prosecuted by the respondent by filing a separate complaint and therefore, to avoid multiplicity of proceedings, the trial court allowed the amendment application. Considering these factors which weighed in the mind of the courts below, in our view, the High Court rightly declined to interfere with the order passed by the Magistrate allowing the amendment application and the impugned order does not suffer from any serious infirmity warranting interference in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution."

37. The aforesaid authorities lead to the conclusion that even in criminal cases governed by the Cr.P.C., the court is not powerless and may allow amendment in appropriate cases, which may be in situations where an amendment seeks to introduce facts based on subsequent events, or to avoid multiplicity of the proceedings. An amendment may also be permissible if it relates to a simple infirmity which is curable by means of a formal amendment and in allowing such amendment no prejudice is likely to be caused to the other side.

38. There would, thus, be no complete or absolute bar in seeking amendment even in complaints before criminal courts which are governed by Cr.P.C., although the power to allow such amendment would have to be exercised with due caution and sparingly, in appropriate circumstances.

39. The question as to whether a court dealing with an application filed under the D.V. Act has the power to allow amendments to the application originally filed, was also examined in the Kunapareddy (supra) case and after considering the provision contained under sub-section (2) of Section 28, which empowers the court to lay down its procedure for disposal of an application filed under Section 12 or under Section 23, it was held that the court is not powerless in this regard and may allow amendments in appropriate cases. This would be in situations where the amendment becomes necessary, in view of the subsequent events or to avoid multiplicity of litigation. It was observed as follows:

"16. ....It cannot be said that the court dealing with the application under the DV Act has no power and/or jurisdiction to allow the amendment of the said application. If the amendment becomes necessary in view of subsequent events (escalation of prices in the instant case) or to avoid multiplicity of litigation, court will have the power to permit such an amendment. It is said that procedure is the handmaid of justice and is to come to the aid of the justice rather than defeating it. It is nobody's case that Respondent 1 was not entitled to file another application claiming the reliefs which she sought to include in the pending application by way of amendment. If that be so, we see no reason, why the applicant be not allowed to incorporate this amendment in the pending application rather than filing a separate application.....

17. What we are emphasising is that even in criminal cases governed by the Code, the Court is not powerless and may allow amendment in appropriate cases. One of the circumstances where such an amendment is to be allowed is to avoid the multiplicity of the proceedings. The argument of the learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, that there is no power of amendment has to be negated.

18. In this context, provisions of Sub-Section(2) of Section 28 of the DV Act gain significance. Whereas proceedings under certain sections of the DV Act as specified in sub-Section (1) of Section 28 are to be governed by the Code, the Legislature at the same time incorporated the provisions like sub-Section(2) as well which empowers the Court to lay down its own procedure for disposal of the application under Section 12 or Section 23(2) of the DV Act. This provision has been incorporated by the Legislature keeping a definite purpose in mind. Under Section 12, an application can be made to a Magistrate by an aggrieved person or a Protection Officer or any other person on behalf of the aggrieved person to claim one or more reliefs under the said Act. Section 23 deals with the power of the Magistrate to grant interim and ex-parte orders and sub-Section (2) of Section 23 is a special provision carved out in this behalf which is as follows:

"23. (2).If the Magistrate is satisfied that an application prima facie discloses that the respondent is committing, or has committed an act of domestic violence or that there is a likelihood that the respondent may commit an act of domestic violence, he may grant an ex parte order on the basis of the affidavit in such form, as may be prescribed, of the aggrieved person under section 18, section 19. section 20, section 21 or, as the case may be, section 22 against the respondent."

19. The reliefs that can be granted by the final order or by an interim order, have already been pointed out above wherein it is noticed that most of these reliefs are of civil nature. If the power to amend the complaint/application, etc. is not read into the aforesaid provision, the very purpose which the Act attempts to subserve itself may be defeated in many cases."

40. The proceedings before the Magistrate relating to reliefs claimed under Chapter IV of the D.V. Act, having been held essentially to be of a civil nature, the power to amend the complaint/application would have to be read in relevant statutory provisions, as a necessary concomitant.

41. Having regard to the aforesaid, the contention sought to be raised on behalf of the petitioner that the Magistrate before whom the application under Section 12 of the D.V. Act, was pending, did not have the jurisdiction or the power to allow the application seeking amendment in the relief clause of the original application, cannot be legally sustained.

42. The order passed by the learned Magistrate allowing the amendment application, and the subsequent order of affirmation by the revisional court, cannot be said to suffer from any illegality, which may warrant interference by this Court, in exercise of its supervisory power, under Article 227 of the Constitution.

43. The petition thus fails and is accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ankit Srivastava, learned Counsel for the applicant, Shri Rajeev Kumar Verma, learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party and perused the entire material placed on record.

2. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed on behalf of the applicant,namely-Sagar Jotwani seeking quashing of the charge sheet dated 24.12.2017 submitted in Case Crime No.487/2017 before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 and summoning order dated 13.09.2018 passed by Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow in Criminal Case No.54326/2018 whereby cognizance has been taken and the applicant has been summoned under Section 370(5) I.P.C. and Section 79 of Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 and bailable warrant dated 15.03.2019 passed in the aforesaid case against the applicant.

3. Learned Counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant is Sole Proprietor of the proprietorship known as 'Kumar Dalmoth Factory.' having its registered address at Annaura Gaon, Amausi Road, Lucknow. He further submits that being the proprietor of the aforesaid proprietorship, the applicant had no direct role to play in the appointment/ selection of the non-managerial staff.

4. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that the officials of the factory in order to engage the workers contacted one Yashpal Singh alias Papu, the said Yashpal Singh who happens to be a labour thekedar thereafter sent some 10-15 boys in the factory of the applicant.

5. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that when the officials of the factory asked about the particulars & the ids of the labours in order to ascertain the whereabouts of the labours & also about their age, the said Yashpal Singh informed that he is having the ids of the labours & gave an affidavit to the effect that he shall provide the same whenever it is needed. Meanwhile on 04.8.2017 an inspection was carried out & it was alleged that 16 boys were found in the aforesaid factory that were employed as labour & were not adults.

6. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that an FIR was also lodged at Police Station Sarojini Nagar District Lucknow under Section 370(5) IPC & Section & under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015. He further submits that subsequently an investigation was conducted however without there being any independent or cogent evidence the investigation agency submitted the Charge Sheet dated 05.8.2017 in Case Crime No. 487/2017 before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate Lucknow under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015.

7. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that there is absolutely no evidence against the applicant so as to say that he has committed any offence under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015. Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 is reproduced hereinunder:

"S.79 Exploitation of a child employee.

Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, whoever ostensibly engages a child and keeps him in bondage for the purpose of employment or withholds his earnings or uses such earning for his own purposes shall be punishable with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to five years and shall also be liable to fine of one lakh rupees.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section, the term "employment" shall also include selling goods and services, and entertainment in public places for economic gain."

8. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that there is no evidence so as to say that the applicant has engaged a child and kept him in bondage for the purpose of employment or has withheld his earnings or used such earning for his own purposes. However learned Trail Court without appreciating the material evidences on record & without appreciating the scope of Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 took cognizance of the offences under Section 370(5) IPC & under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 and summoned the applicant vide order dated 13.8.2019.

9. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that the learned trial court has summoned the applicant under Section 370(5) IPC & under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 whereas the charge sheet was submitted only under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care And Protection Of Children Act, 2015 but while passing the order dated 13.9.2018 no reason has been recorded by the learned Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate Lucknow.

10. Learned Counsel for the applicant further submits that moreover the aforesaid impugned order dated 13.09.2018 is neither speaking one nor has any reason been assigned by the learned trial court. Admittedly it is a fairly settled principle of law that the reason is the life of law. It is that filament that injects soul to the order, absence of analysis not only evinces non application of mind but mummifies the core spirit of the order. However the perusal of the aforesaid order would reveal to the Hon'ble Court that the impugned order is a non speaking one and is also un-reasoned one.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State-opposite party has vehemently opposed the contentions made by learned Counsel for the applicant and submits that there was ample evidence against the applicant, who was present at the railway crossing at the time of incident and the police party in a very cautious manner nabbed him red handed, while he was creating nuisance in a public place and was passing obscene comments on the girls and ladies. Thereafter, the police has thoroughly conducted the inquiry against the applicant and has filed a charge sheet against him considering the material on record, thus, he submits that the trial court has correctly took the cognizance of the charge sheet and has rightly summoned the applicant to face trial in the aforesaid case. He further submits that no interference by this Court is required in the matter and the present application being devoid of merit and substance is liable to rejected.

12. I have heard learned Counsel for the parties.

13. On careful perusal of averments made in this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. as well as after hearing the learned Counsel for the parties, the factual matrix discloses that the opposite party No.2 alongwith his other associates lodged an F.I.R. against the applicant alleging therein that the applicant was running a factory in which sixteen minor boys were working as laborers but it has been alleged by learned Counsel for the applicant that the applicant has nothing to do with the employment of non managerial staff, thus, he has no concern with the minor boys who were allegedly deployed in his factory. Further, there also appears force in the argument of learned Counsel for the applicant that the officials of the factory in order to engage the workers contacted one Yashpal Singh alias Papu, the said Yashpal Singh who happens to be a labour thekedar sent 10-15 boys in the factory of the applicant and when the officials of the factory asked about the particulars & the ids of the labours in order to ascertain the whereabouts of the labours & also about their age, the said Yashpal Singh informed that he is having the ids of the labours & gave an affidavit to the effect that he shall provide the same whenever it is needed. Meanwhile on 04.8.2017 an inspection was carried out & it was alleged that 16 boys were found in the aforesaid factory that were employed as labour & were not adults, there also appears force in the argument of learned Counsel for the applicant that there is absolutely no evidence against the applicant so as to say that he has committed any offence under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015. Further, the trial court has failed to appreciate the fact that while filing the charge sheet, the Investigating officer has failed to comply with the mandatory provisions of criminal law and has passed the impugned summoning order 13.09.2018, which is nothing but an abuse of process of law.

14. Further the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case Inder Mohan Goswami v. State of Uttaranchal (2007)12 SCC 1 has held that it would be relevant to keep into mind the scope and ambit of section 482 Cr.PC and circumstances under which the extra ordinary power of the court inherent therein as provisioned in the said section of the Cr.P.C. can be exercised, para 23 is being quoted here under:-

"23. This court in a number of cases has laid down the scope and ambit of courts powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. Every High Court has inherent power to act ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice, for the administration of which alone it exists, or to prevent abuse of the process of the court. Inherent power under section 482 Cr.P.C. can be exercised:

(i) to give effect to an order under the Code;

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and

(iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice."

15. Further Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India in the case of Lalankumar Singh and Others vs. State of Maharashtra reported in 2022 SCC Online SC 1383 has specifically held in paragraph No.38 that the order of issuance of process is not an empty formality. The Magistrate is required to apply his mind as to whether sufficient ground for proceeding exists in the case or not. Paragraph No.38 of Lalankumar Singh and Others (supra) is being quoted hereunder:-

"38. The order of issuance of process is not an empty formality. The Magistrate is required to apply his mind as to whether sufficient ground for proceeding exists in the case or not. The formation of such an opinion is required to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reasons are given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is a prima facie case against the accused. No doubt, that the order need not contain detailed reasons. A reference in this respect could be made to the judgment of this Court in the case of Sunil Bharti Mittal v. Central Bureau of Investigation, which reads thus:

"51. On the other hand, Section 204 of the Code deals with the issue of process, if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. This section relates to commencement of a criminal proceeding. If the Magistrate taking cognizance of a case (it may be the Magistrate receiving the complaint or to whom it has been transferred under Section 192), upon a consideration of the materials before him (i.e. the complaint, examination of the complainant and his witnesses, if present, or report of inquiry, if any), thinks that there is a prima facie case for proceeding in respect of an offence, he shall issue process against the accused.

52. A wide discretion has been given as to grant or refusal of process and it must be judicially exercised. A person ought not to be dragged into court merely because a complaint has been filed. If a prima facie case has been made out, the Magistrate ought to issue process and it cannot be refused merely because he thinks that it is unlikely to result in a conviction.

53. However, the words "sufficient ground for proceeding" appearing in Section 204 are of immense importance. It is these words which amply suggest that an opinion is to be formed only after due application of mind that there is sufficient basis for proceeding against the said accused and formation of such an opinion is to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reason is given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is prima facie case against the accused, though the order need not contain detailed reasons. A fortiori, the order would be bad in law if the reason given turns out to be ex facie incorrect.""

16. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Judicial Magistrate reported in (1998) 5 SCC 749 has been pleased to observe paragraph No.28, which is reproduced hereinunder:-

"28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. The Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

17. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Mehmood UL Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda and Others reported in (2015) 12 SCC 420 has been pleased to observe paragraph No.20, which is reproduced hereinunder:-

"20. The extensive reference to the case law would clearly show that cognizance of an offence on complaint is taken for the purpose of issuing process to the accused. Since it is a process of taking judicial notice of certain facts which constitute an offence, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the inquiry conducted thereon, would constitute violation of law so as to call a person to appear before the criminal court. It is not a mechanical process or matter of course. As held by this Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. [Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Judicial Magistrate, (1998) 5 SCC 749 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1400] to set in motion the process of criminal law against a person is a serious matter."

18. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India has provided guidelines in case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal reported in 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 for the exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. which is extraordinary power and used separately in following conditions:-

"102.(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused."

(2) where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the F.I.R. do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code;

(3) where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or 'complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused;

(4) where the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code;

(5) where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused;

(6) where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party;

(7) where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

19. Further the Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:- (i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (Crl.)192, (iii) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.) 283 and (iv) Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2021 SC 1918.

20. In S.W. Palankattkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

21. Thus, in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court and in light of the observations and discussions made above and keeping view the facts and circumstances of the case, and from the perusal of the record, the impugned charge sheet dated 24.12.2017 submitted in Case Crime No.487/2017 before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 and summoning order dated 13.09.2018 passed by Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow in Criminal Case No.54326/2018 whereby cognizance has been taken and the applicant has been summoned under Section 370(5) I.P.C. and Section 79 of Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 and bailable warrant dated 15.03.2019 passed in the aforesaid case against the applicant.

22. Accordingly, the impugned charge sheet dated 24.12.2017 submitted in Case Crime No.487/2017 before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow under Section 79 of the Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 and summoning order dated 13.09.2018 passed by Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow in Criminal Case No.54326/2018 whereby cognizance has been taken and the applicant has been summoned under Section 370(5) I.P.C. and Section 79 of Juvenile Justice Care and Protection of Children Act, 2015 and bailable warrant dated 15.03.2019 passed in the aforesaid case against the applicant are hereby set aside and reversed.

23. For the reasons discussed above, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in respect of the instant applicant, namely-Sagar Jotwani.

informant discloses that any member of the public was present and the incident occurred-Thus, the provision of section 3(1)(r) of the SC/ST Act would not be attracted-proceedings in respect of offence under SC/ST Act is quashed and other offences proceedings may go on (Para 1 to 11)

The application is partly allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikram D. Chauhan, J.)

1. List has been revised.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned AGA for the State. No one is present on behalf of the opposite party no. 2.

3. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by applicants for quashing the S.St. No. 36 of 2018 (State Versus Arun Singh and others) Case Crime No. 447 of 2017, under sections 147, 452, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3(1)(r) SC/ST Act, Police Station Nagara, District Ballia, pending in the court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 2, Ballia as well as charge sheet dated 03.01.2018 arising out of Case Crime No. 447 of 2017, under sections 147, 452, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3(1)(r) SC/ST Act, Police Station Nagara, District Ballia.

4. At the very outset, learned counsel for the applicants submits that the applicants are pressing 482 application in respect of the offence under section SC/ST Act. In respect of the other offences the applicants are not putting any challenge to the charge sheet at this stage.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicants that initially an F.I.R. was lodged on 15.11.2017 under sections 147, 452, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3(1)(r) of SC/ST Act at Police Station Nagara, District Ballia with the allegations that the nominated accused persons who are seven in number including the applicants have entered into the house of the informant and have stated caste based remark and have also assaulted the informant and his family members. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that as per F.I.R. it is alleged that the accused persons have entered into the house of the informant and thereafter have made caste based remark. On the aforesaid basis, the applicants are proceeded under section 3(1)(r) of the SC/ST Act for an offence intentionally insulting or intimidating with intent to humiliate a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe in any place within public view.

6. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the offence was committed in the house of the informant which is not the public place nor the same was in the public view. In this respect, learned counsel for the applicants has drawn the attention of this Court to the site plan annexed alongwith the supplementary affidavit as well as the statement of the informant recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. He submits that once the words uttered was not in public view nor it was in public place then provisions of section 3(1) (r) of SC/ST Act would not be attracted.

7. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the 482 application, however, he could not dispute the fact that the incident is alleged to have occurred in the house of the informant. He could not further dispute the fact that the incident has not occurred in public view.

8. It is to be seen that in the present case as per prosecution case it is alleged that the accused persons including the applicants have entered into the house of the informant and have stated caste based remark and have assaulted. The present 482 application is only confined to the allegations under section 3(1)(r) of the SC/ST Act. The site plan filed by the learned counsel for the applicants would indicate that the place of incident is the house of the informant which is not a public place or public view. A perusal of the statement of the informant under section 161 Cr.P.C. as well as the F.I.R. would further demonstrate that there was no member of the public in the house where the alleged incident is said to have been taken place. As per the provision of Section 3(1)(r) of SC/ST Act is quoted herein below:

"Section 3(1)(r) intentionally insults or intimidates with intent to humiliate a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe in any place within public view."

9. One of the essential ingredients for an offence under section 3(1)(r) of SC/ST Act is that the offence ought to have been committed in public view.

10. In the present case, the offence is not committed in public view nor the offence has been committed at public place. In the statement of the informant it has not been stated that any member of the public was present and the incident has occurred. Once the offence has not taken place in public view the provisions of section 3(1)(r) of the SC/ST Act would not be attracted and as such the same cannot be proceeded with.

11. In view of the facts and circumstances, the present 482 application is partly allowed. The Criminal proceedings against the applicants in Case Crime No. 447 of 2017 in respect of offence under sections 3(1)(r) SC/ST Act is hereby quashed. However, in respect of other offences the proceedings may go on and be brought to its logical conclusion, in accordance with law.

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Sections 482 & 125-application for maintenance filed by wife and daughter which was dismissed for want of prosecution-recall was filed which was allowed by the court below-The applicant challenged the impugned order stating that the same cannot be recalled or modified in view of the section 362 CrPc-The apex court considered in the case of Sanjeev kapoor that the proceeding of section 125 crpc is quasi criminal in nature and observed that bar of section 362 Crpc does not apply-Order passed u/s 125 CrPc may be final or interim, can be recalled or altered u/s 127 CrPC-a bar of section 362 CrPC is not applicable in such cases.(Para 1 to 17)

3. Badshah Vs Sou. Urmila Badshah Godse & anr. (2014) 1 SCC 188.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Rejoinder affidavit filed today is taken on record.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Sri Sunil Kumar Kushwaha, learned AGA for the State.

3. The present application has been filed for the following relief:

"It is, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to allow the present application and quashed the order and judgment dated 25.01.2019 in recall/restoration application no.164 of 2017 whereby has recall/restore ex-parte order dated 23.11.2017 passed by the learned trial court in Case No.336 of 2016 (Smt. Bindu Devi & Others Vs. Rajkumar), u/s 125 Cr.P.C., pending in the court of the Chief Judge, Family Court, Azamgarh."

4. Facts giving rise to the present case are that opposite parties, nos.2 and 3, are the wife and daughter of the applicant, respectively. The application for maintenance u/s 125 Cr.P.C. filed by opposite parties, nos.2 and 3, was dismissed for want of prosecution on 23.11.2017. Against that order, opposite parties, nos.2 and 3 filed a recall application, which was allowed by the court below by the impugned order dated 25.01.2019. This impugned order is under challenge in the present case.

5. Contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that the impugned order is erroneous as once an order has been passed in criminal proceeding dismissing the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. for want of prosecution, then same cannot be recalled or modified in view of the bar of Section 362 Cr.P.C. In support of his contention, the counsel of the applicant relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of State Rep. by D.S.P., S.B.C.I.D., Chennai Vs. K.V. Rajendran and Ors in Criminal Appeal No.1389 of 2008. In this judgment, the Apex Court observed that the bar of section 362 Cr. P.C. also applies to the inherent power under section 482 Cr.P.C.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for opposite parties, nos.2 and 3 as well as learned AGA have submitted that Section-362 Cr.P.C. provides that save as otherwise provided by the Cr.P.C. or any other law, no court shall alter or review its judgement or final order disposing of the case. Therefore, it is clear that an exception has been provided in Section-362 Cr.P.C., itself and that exception has been mentioned in Section-127 Cr.P.C. which permits the court to alter or change any order passed u/s 125 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the court below is correct in recalling the order dated 23.11.2017 and restoring the case at its original number. In support of his contention, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Sanjeev Kapoor Vs. Chandana Kapoor & Others reported in AIR 2020 SC 1064. In that judgement, the Apex Court observed that even after passing the order u/s 125 Cr.P.C., Magistrate or the court concerned will not become functus officio and it has jurisdiction to cancel or modify the order passed u/s 125 Cr.P.C.

7. After hearing the rival contention of learned counsel for the parties, and on the perusal of record, it appears that the application filed by the opposite parties, nos.2 and 3 against the applicant seeking maintenance u/s 125 Cr.P.C. was dismissed for want of prosecution on 23.11.2017 and on the recall application filed by the opposite parties, nos.2 and 3, the order dated 23.11.2017 was recalled and matter was restored to its original place by the impugned order dated 25.01.2019. In the impugned order, the court below has observed that in the proceeding of 125 Cr.P.C., if the case was dismissed for want of prosecution, the same can be recalled under Section-126(3) Cr.P.C. where the court has all power to make such order as the circumstances require.

8. So far as the bar u/s 362 Cr.P.C. is concerned, the bar has been imposed to recall or modify the final order by Section-362 Cr.P.C. after signing the same. It is clear from Section-362 Cr.P.C. that unless otherwise provided by the code or any other law, final judgement or order cannot be recalled or reviewed after signing the same. For ready reference, Section-362 Cr.P.C. is being quoted as under:

"362. Court not to alter judgment - Save as otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court, when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error."

9. From perusal of the above section, it is clear that if any provision is provided under Cr.P.C., which permits the recall or alter the judgement or final order, then the bar u/s 362 Cr.P.C. will not apply. It is provided u/s 126(3) Cr.P.C. that the court dealing with Section-125 Cr.P.C. shall have power to make such order as may be just and proper. After that, Section-127 Cr.P.C. provides that the court which has passed an order for maintenance u/s 125 Cr.P.C. including the order of interim maintenance has jurisdiction to make such alteration as required. Sections-125, 126 and 127 Cr.P.C. are being quoted as under:

"125. Order for maintenance of wives, children and parents.?(1) If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain?

(a) his wife, unable to maintain herself, or

(b) his legitimate or illegitimate minor child, whether married or not, unable to maintain itself, or

(c) his legitimate or illegitimate child (not being a married daughter) who has attained majority, where such child is, by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury unable to maintain itself, or

(d) his father or mother, unable to maintain himself or herself,

a Magistrate of the first class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, at such monthly rate, as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided that the Magistrate may order the father of a minor female child referred to in clause (b) to make such allowance, until she attains her majority, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the husband of such minor female child, if married, is not possessed of sufficient means:

Provided further that the Magistrate may, during the pendency of the proceeding regarding monthly allowance for the maintenance under this sub-section, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the interim maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, and the expenses of such proceeding which the Magistrate considers reasonable, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided also that an application for the monthly allowance for the interim maintenance and expenses for proceeding under the second proviso shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within sixty days from the date of the service of notice of the application to such person.

(b) "wife" includes a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband and has not remarried.

(2) Any such allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses for proceeding shall be payable from the date of the order, or, if so ordered, from the date of the application for maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be.

(3) If any person so ordered fails without sufficient cause to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole or any part of each month's [allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be,] remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made:

Provided that no warrant shall be issued for the recovery of any amount due under this section unless application be made to the Court to levy such amount within a period of one year from the date on which it became due:

Provided further that if such person offers to maintain his wife on condition of her living with him, and she refuses to live with him, such Magistrate may consider any grounds of refusal stated by her, and may make an order under this section notwithstanding such offer, if he is satisfied that there is just ground for so doing.

Explanation.-If a husband has contracted marriage with another woman or keeps a mistress, it shall be considered to be just ground for his wife's refusal to live with him.

(4) No wife shall be entitled to receive an [allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be,] from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery, or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

(5) On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order.

126. Procedure.-(1) Proceedings under Section 125 may be taken against any person in any district?*

(a) where he is, or

(b) where he or his wife resides, or

(c) where he last resided with his wife, or as the case may be, with the mother of the illegitimate child.

(2) All evidence in such proceedings shall be taken in the presence of the person against whom an order for payment of maintenance is proposed to be made, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in the presence of his pleader, and shall be recorded in the manner prescribed for summons-cases:

Provided that if the Magistrate is satisfied that the person against whom an order for payment of maintenance is proposed to be made is wilfully avoiding service, or wilfully neglecting to attend the Court, the Magistrate may proceed to hear and determine the case ex parte and any order so made may be set aside for good cause shown on an application made within three months from the date thereof subject to such terms including terms as to payment of costs to the opposite party as the Magistrate may think just and proper.

(3) The Court in dealing with applications under Section 125 shall have power to make such order as to costs as may be just.

127. Alteration in allowance.-(1) On proof of a change in the circumstances of any person, receiving, under Section 125 a monthly allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance, or ordered under the same section to pay a monthly allowance for the maintenance, or interim maintenance, to his wife, child, father or mother, as the case may be, the Magistrate may make such alteration, as he thinks fit, in the allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance, as the case may be.

(2) Where it appears to the Magistrate that, in consequence of any decision of a competent civil court, any order made under Section 125 should be cancelled or varied, he shall cancel the order or, as the case may be, vary the same accordingly.

(3) Where any order has been made under Section 125 in favour of a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband, the Magistrate shall, if he is satisfied that?

(a) the woman has, after the date of such divorce, remarried, cancel such order as from the date of her remarriage;

(b) the woman has been divorced by her husband and that she has received, whether before or after the date of the said order, the whole of the sum which, under any customary or personal law applicable to the parties, was payable on such divorce, cancel such order,?

(i) in the case where such sum was paid before such order, from the date on which such order was made,

(ii) in any other case, from the date of expiry of the period, if any, for which maintenance has been actually paid by the husband to the woman;

(c) the woman has obtained a divorce from her husband and that she had voluntarily surrendered her rights to [maintenance or interim maintenance, as the case may be,] after her divorce, cancel the order from the date thereof.

(4) At the time of making any decree for the recovery of any maintenance or dowry by any person, to whom a [monthly allowance for the maintenance and interim maintenance or any of them has been ordered] to be paid under Section 125, the civil court shall take into account the sum which has been paid to, or recovered by, such person [as monthly allowance for the maintenance and interim maintenance or any of them, as the case may be, in pursuance of] the said order."

10. From perusal of Sections-125 Cr.P.C., 126 Cr.P.C. and 127 Cr.P.C., it is clear that Section-125 Cr.P.C. is social justice legislation which orders for the maintenance of wives, children and parents and the legislature has provided in Sections-125(5) Cr.P.C., 126 Cr.P.C. as well as Section-127 Cr.P.C., certain conditions on fulfilling of which, order passed u/s 125 Cr.P.C. can be recalled or modified.

11. In Section-125 Cr.P.C. using of expression "as the Magistrate from time to time direct", the use of expression from time to time has purpose and meaning. It clearly contemplates that the order passed u/s 125(1) Cr.P.C., the Magistrate may have to exercise jurisdiction from time to time. The above legislative scheme indicates that Magistrate does not become functus officio after passing of the order u/s 125 Cr.P.C.

12. The Apex Court in the case of Badshah Vs. Sou. Urmila Badshah Godse and another reported in (2014) 1 SCC 188 has considered the interpretation of Section-125 Cr.P.C. In paragraph nos.13.3 to 18 of the judgement of Badshah (supra), following guidelines have been laid down:

"13.3.Thirdly, in such cases, purposive interpretation needs to be given to the provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. While dealing with the application of a destitute wife or hapless children or parents under this provision, the Court is dealing with the marginalised sections of the society. The purpose is to achieve "social justice" which is the constitutional vision, enshrined in the Preamble of the Constitution of India. The Preamble to the Constitution of India clearly signals that we have chosen the democratic path under the rule of law to achieve the goal of securing for all its citizens, justice, liberty, equality and fraternity. It specifically highlights achieving their social justice. Therefore, it becomes the bounden duty of the courts to advance the cause of the social justice. While giving interpretation to a particular provision, the court is supposed to bridge the gap between the law and society.

14. Of late, in this very direction, it is emphasised that the courts have to adopt different approaches in "social justice adjudication", which is also known as "social context adjudication" as mere "adversarial approach" may not be very appropriate.

There are number of social justice legislations giving special protection and benefits to vulnerable groups in the society. Prof. Madhava Menon describes it eloquently:

"It is, therefore, respectfully submitted that 'social context judging' is essentially the application of equality jurisprudence as evolved by Parliament and the Supreme Court in myriad situations presented before courts where unequal parties are pitted in adversarial proceedings and where courts are called upon to dispense equal justice.

Apart from the social-economic inequalities accentuating the disabilities of the poor in an unequal fight, the adversarial process itself operates to the disadvantage of the weaker party. In such a situation, the Judge has to be not only sensitive to the inequalities of parties involved but also positively inclined to the weaker party if the imbalance were not to result in miscarriage of justice. This result is achieved by what we call social context judging or social justice adjudication."

15. The provision of maintenance would definitely fall in this category which aims at empowering the destitute and achieving social justice or equality and dignity of the individual. While dealing with cases under this provision, drift in the approach from "adversarial" litigation to social context adjudication is the need of the hour.

16. The law regulates relationships between people. It prescribes patterns of behaviour. It reflects the values of society. The role of the court is to understand the purpose of law in society and to help the law achieve its purpose. But the law of a society is a living organism. It is based on a given factual and social reality that is constantly changing. Sometimes change in law precedes societal change and is even intended to stimulate it. In most cases, however, a change in law is the result of a change in social reality. Indeed, when social reality changes, the law must change too. Just as change in social reality is the law of life, responsiveness to change in social reality is the life of the law. It can be said that the history of law is the history of adapting the law to society's changing needs. In both constitutional and statutory interpretation, the court is supposed to exercise discretion in determining the proper relationship between the subjective and objective purposes of the law.

17. Cardozo acknowledges in his classic "- no system of jus scriptum has been able to escape the need of it." and he elaborates:

"It is true that codes and statutes do not render the Judge superfluous, nor his work perfunctory and mechanical. There are gaps to be filled. ? There are hardships and wrongs to be mitigated if not avoided. Interpretation is often spoken of as if it were nothing but the search and the discovery of a meaning which, however obscure and latent, had nonetheless a real and ascertainable pre-existence in the legislator's mind. The process is, indeed, that at times, but it is often something more. The ascertainment of intention may be the least of a Judge's troubles in ascribing meaning to a statute. ? Says Gray in his lectures:

"The fact is that the difficulties of so-called interpretation arise when the legislature has had no meaning at all; when the question which is raised on the statute never occurred to it; when what the Judges have to do is, not to determine that the legislature did mean on a point which was present to its mind, but to guess what it would have intended on a point not present to its mind, if the point had been present.""

18. The court as the interpreter of law is supposed to supply omissions, correct uncertainties, and harmonise results with justice through a method of free decision ? libre recherch scientifique i.e. "free scientific research". We are of the opinion that there is a non-rebuttable presumption that the legislature while making a provision like Section 125 Cr.P.C., to fulfil its constitutional duty in good faith, had always intended to give relief to the woman becoming "wife" under such circumstances. This approach is particularly needed while deciding the issues relating to gender justice. We already have examples of exemplary efforts in this regard.

Journey from Shah Bano to Shabana Bano guaranteeing maintenance rights to Muslim women is a classical example.

13. Considering the legislative purposes behind Section- 125 Cr.P.C., which is quasi-criminal in nature, the Apex Court considered in the case of Sanjeev Kapoor (supra) the issue of applicability of Section-362 Cr.P.C. in the proceeding of Section-125 Cr.P.C. and observed that bar of Section-362 Cr.P.C. does not apply to the order passed u/s 125 Cr.P.C. Paragraphs nos.25, 26 and 27 of the judgement mentioned above are being quoted as under:

"25. The above legislative scheme indicates that the Magistrate does not become functus officio after passing an order under Section 125 Cr.P.C., as and when the occasion arises the Magistrate exercises the jurisdiction from time to time. By Section 125(5) Cr.P.C., the Magistrate is expressly empowered to cancel an order passed under Section 125(1) Cr.P.C. on fulfilment of certain conditions.

26.Section 127 Cr.P.C. also discloses the legislative intendment where the Magistrate is empowered to alter an order passed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. Sub-section (2) of Section 127 Cr.P.C. also empowers the Magistrate to cancel or vary an order under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The legislative scheme as delineated by Sections 125 and 127 Cr.P.C. as noted above clearly enumerated the circumstances and incidents provided in the Code of Criminal Procedure where the court passing a judgment or final order disposing of the case can alter or review the same. The embargo as contained in Section 362 is, thus, clearly relaxed in the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. as indicated above.

27.The submissions which have been pressed by the learned counsel for the appellant were founded only on embargo of Section 362 and when embargo of Section 362 is expressly relaxed in the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C., we are not persuaded to accept the submission of the counsel for the appellant that the Family Court was not entitled to set aside and cancel its order dated 6-5-2017 in the facts and circumstances of the present case."

14. From the above legal position, it is clear that the order passed u/s 125 Cr.P.C. may be final or interim, can be recalled or altered u/s 127 Cr.P.C. Therefore, it falls in the category of exceptional cases mentioned in Section-362 Cr.P.C. Hence, a bar of Section 362 Cr.P.C. is not applicable in such cases.

15. The Judgment relied upon by the applicant's counsel does not apply in the present case.

16. In view of the above, this Court does not find any illegality in the impugned order passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Azamgarh.

17. Accordingly, the present application is rejected.

18. Considering the fact that application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. has been pending since 2016, therefore, Principal Judge, Family Court, Azamgarh, is directed to conclude the proceeding u/s 125 Cr.P.C., expeditiously, preferably within a period of one year, without giving any unnecessary adjournment to any of the parties.

Chandaus, District Aligarh arising out of Case Crime No.0079 of 2023, under Sections 306, 323, 498-A IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, 1961, P.S. Chandaus, District Aligarh including charge sheet dated 12.8.2023 bearing no.175 of 2023 as well as cognizance and summoning order dated 29.1.2024 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, District Aligarh.

3. It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that applicant is husband and charge sheet has been filed against applicant under Sections 304-B, 323, 498-A IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, 1961. The marriage of the applicant took place with the deceased on 4.12.2022. As per prosecution case, at the time of marriage dowry was given to the applicant and family members and, thereafter, harassment was extended to the deceased for further dowry and in this respect, on 5.1.2023 when the informant along with family members went to the house of applicant, demand of dowry was reiterated and car was being demanded. Subsequently, as per allegation, the wife was thrown out of the house and thereafter, the demand was also made and as a result of same on 6.4.2023 deceased wife has committed suicide.

3-A. It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that present criminal proceedings are abuse of process of law as the conduct of wife was not proper as a result of same, the father of informant on 30.12.2022 has written a letter admitting mistake of the deceased and assuring the applicant of non repetition of the same in future. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that conduct of deceased wife being not fair an agreement was entered into between husband and wife, which is at page 115 of the paper book.

3-B. It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that independent witness have also given statement that there was dispute between husband and wife on account of the fact that wife was interested in some another person and as a result of same, there was friction in the marriage and marriage was not consummated. It is submitted that although statement of independent witnesses, who were resident of same locality, have been recorded in case diary, however, while submitting charge sheet the aforesaid statement has not been considered. It is submitted that Investigating Officer is required to conduct fair investigation independently and cannot be partisan to the investigation. In this respect, learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgement of Supreme Court in Babubhai and others Vs. State of Gujarat and others; 2010 0 Supreme (SC) 782. It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that as per Regulation 107 of Police Regulation, it is the duty of the Investigating Officer to conduct investigation fairly and to consider the defence raised by the applicant at the time of investigation. In this respect, it is submitted that complaint was also made to the Senior Superintendent of Police, which is at page 147 of the paper book , which is part of case diary according to learned counsel for the applicant.

3-C. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that the charge sheet has been submitted by considering the statement of informant. On the aforesaid basis, learned counsel for the applicant submits that the present criminal proceedings are not tenable under law. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that the wife has committed suicide at her parental home and she has not committed suicide at the place of applicant and as such, criminal proceedings are liable to be quashed. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that wife has not committed suicide on account of harassment for demand of dowry, as has been claimed by the prosecution.

4. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has opposed the application and submits that the wife has died within seven years of marriage and the death is unnatural. It is submitted that the defence raised by applicant cannot be considered at this stage. It is further submitted by learned counsel for opposite party no.2 that there was no agreement entered into between the parties and the letter which is at page 112 of the paper book is not admitted. It is submitted by learned counsel for opposite party no.2 that on account of harassment by applicant for demand of dowry, the daughter of informant has committed suicide and applicant is liable to be proceeded in accordance with law. It is also submitted that once the statement of witnesses of informant has been recorded, who have supported the prosecution case, then there was no other option for the Investigation Officer except to proceed to submit charge sheet and court concerned had not committed any error in taking cognizance in pursuance of charge sheet submitted by Investigating Officer.

5. It is to be seen that in the present case, applicant, who is husband was married to the deceased on 4.12.2022. The wife has committed suicide on 6.4.2023. The applicant claimed that wife was having an affair with another person and as such, she was not interested in marriage and marriage was not consummated. In this respect, learned counsel for the applicant has placed before this Court the letter dated 30.12.2022, which is at page 112 of the paper book to submit that informant had admitted the mistake of deceased. It is to be seen that learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the agreement entered into between husband and wife, which is at page 115 of the paper book. The agreement is dated 30.12.2022. On the strength of aforesaid, it has been stated before this Court that once parties have agreed upon mistake of deceased then subsequently lodging of criminal proceeding is not tenable.

6. It is to be seen that documents placed before this Court being letter dated 30.12.2022 and agreement dated 30.12.2022, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has not admitted the aforesaid documents. The aforesaid documents are, therefore, at present a disputed documents, which are required to be proved by the applicant at the stage of trial. At this stage, the aforesaid documents are mere defence raised by the applicant, which is to be considered at proper stage by the court concerned. The jurisdiction of Section 482 Cr.P.C. cannot be exercised to hold mini trial at this stage.

7. So far as argument of learned counsel for the applicant that independent witnesses whose statements were recorded have not been considered while submitting charge sheet is concerned, the same is to be seen by court concerned. A perusal of statement of informant would demonstrate that there is allegation with regard to demand of dowry against applicant and even specific statement has been recorded in statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The independent witnesses relied upon by the applicant are the resident of the same area, who have stated that there was a dispute between husband and wife, however, with regard to transaction of demand of dowry, it is not the case that they were the witnesses to any such transaction. Once the informant has given specific statement that there was demand of dowry, there was no occasion for the Investigating Officer to have not relied upon the statement of informant.

8. The third submission of learned counsel for the applicant is that the wife has committed suicide in her parental home. No site plan has been filed along with application.

9. The effect whether the wife has died on account of behaviour of applicant or solely on her own will, it is to be seen at the time of evidence. At this stage such issue cannot be considered. It can be a case where wife goes back to her parental home being harassed, she commits suicide at her parental home although the possibility may be remote, however, in application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., such issue cannot be looked into. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is devoid of merits and is liable to be rejected.

10. Accordingly, the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is rejected.

Appeal U/S 37 of Arbitration & Conciliation Act 1996 No. 257 of 2024

Sh. Dharmveer Tyagi & Ors.
...Defendants/Appellants
Versus
Competent Authority Dfcc Special Land Acquisition Joint Officer Organization & Ors. ...Plaintiffs/Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Shivam Shukla, Sri Sushil Kumar Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- Section 37 - the appeal was filed beyond 120 days-the discretionary power is only to be exercised when sufficient cause is made out and compelling reasons are provided for condonation of delay-the appellants have had a lackadaisical and nonchalant approach to the entire issue and even after giving benefit of section 14 of the Limitation Act, section 34 application would have remained time barred-the issue with regard to filing an appeal u/s 37 of the Act is no longer res integra as the same has been settled by the Supreme Court in various judgment.(Para 1 to 12)

B. The usage of the phrase "but not thereafter" in section 34(3) the Act is of immense significance. This seemingly innocuous phrase underscores the legislature's intent to impose a strict and non-negotiable deadline for challenging arbitral awards, precluding the courts from exercising any discretion in granting additional time beyond what is specified in section 34(3) of the Act. (Para 7,8)

The application is dismissed. (E-6)

3. Esha Agarwal & ors. Vs Ram Niranjan Ruia MANU/ WB/0021/2023

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sushil Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the appellants.

2. This is an appeal filed against an order dated March 22, 2024 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Saharanpur in an application filed under Section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Application Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act") whereby the said application was dismissed as time barred.

3. Acquisition of the land of the appellants was carried out in the year 2015 and thereafter an arbitration award was passed by the learned Arbitrator/Commissioner, Saharanpur on March 15, 2018. Subsequently, on November 21, 2019, the appellants filed a writ petition before this Court bearing Writ-C No.4985 of 2020. This writ petition was disposed of by this Court on February 20, 2020 with the following direction:

"Upon perusal of the averments made in the writ petition and the documents appended thereto, it transpires that the petitioners are challenging the validity of the award made under Section 20F(6) of The Railways Act, 1989.

In our opinion, the remedy if any, available to the petitioners against the impugned award is to file an objection under Section 34 of the Indian Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996.

Subject to aforesaid observations, writ petition stands disposed of."

4. Upon being reverted by this Court, the appellants filed an application under Section 34 of the Act before the court of Additional District Judge on July 13, 2020. Learned Additional District Judge, after granting hearing to the appellants, passed a detailed order taking into consideration the submissions made by the appellants and dismissed the said application on the ground that the application was beyond 120 days and, Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Limitation Act') would not apply. Accordingly, the learned Additional District Judge dismissed the application under Section 34 of the Act as time barred. Relevant portion of the judgment is extracted herein:

"15. That in this case, the impugned order was passed by Ld. Arbitrator/Commissioner, Saharanpur on 15.03.2018 and it is the case of the applicants that they went to the Hon'ble High Court against that order and filed writ petition, but it is not mentioned on what date that writ petition was filed before the Hon'ble High Court. The Court can condone the time spent before the Hon'ble High Court while pursuing writ petition as per Section 14 of the Limitation Act. However, in this case, as the applicants have not mentioned when they have filed the writ petition before the Hon'ble High Court and therefore, it is not possible to calculate the time spent by the applicants before the Hon'ble High Court. Even though, the writ petition was disposed off on 20.02.2020 and the present application filed by the applicants before this Court on 13.07.2020 i.e. after five months from the date of order of the Hon'ble Allahabad High Court, when the writ petition of the applicants were disposed off. Though, the applicants have mentioned that certain times were taken for getting certified copy of the order, but the applicants were already aware about the impugned order and also went to the Hon'ble High Court against that order. Thus, the applicants cannot take the advantage of its own mistake. Admittedly, in this case the objection was filed beyond 120 days and therefore, the present application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act is not maintainable and the same is liable to be dismissed.

The present application of the applicants under Section 5 read with Section 34(3) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 is hereby dismissed.

The file be consigned to the record room."

5. Upon a perusal of the order passed by the learned Additional District Judge, it appears that the appellants did not inform the Court of the date of the filing of the writ petition before the High Court. This factual matrix has, however, been addressed before this Court and it appears that the writ petition was filed on November 21, 2019. As the order was passed by the learned Arbitrator/Commissioner on March 15, 2018, it is clear that the writ petition was filed after a period of eighteen months. Subsequently, after dismissal of the writ petition on February 20, 2020, the arbitration application was filed once again after the delay of five months, that is, on July 17, 2020.

6. Section 34 of the Act delineates the procedural contours governing recourse against the arbitral awards. Central to this section is the stipulation regarding the timeline within which an application for setting aside an arbitral award must be made. Section 34(3) of the Act unequivocally mandates that such an application cannot be made after three months from the date on which the party received the arbitral award or, if a request under Section 33 of the Act was made, from the date on which such request was disposed of by the arbitral tribunal. Section 34(3) of the Act also provides that the courts may allow an application filed under Section 34 of the Act within a further period of thirty days, but not thereafter. This temporal constrain is not merely a procedural formality but embodies crucial legal principles essential for maintaining the integrity, efficiency, and finality of the arbitral process. The imposition of a strict timeline serves to promote legal certainty, preserve the integrity of the arbitral process, and safeguard against dilatory tactics employed by parties dissatisfied with arbitral outcomes. By setting a clear deadline for challenging arbitral awards, parties are compelled to act promptly, ensuring that awards are either upheld or set aside within a reasonable time frame.

7. The usage of the phrase "but not thereafter" in Section 34(3) of the Act is of immense significance. This seemingly innocuous phrase underscores the legislature's intent to impose a strict and non-negotiable deadline for challenging arbitral awards, precluding the courts from exercising any discretion in granting additional time beyond what is specified in Section 34(3) of the Act.

8. The language of Section 34(3) of the Act is clear and unambiguous, leaving no room for discretionary interpretation. This language reflects a deliberate policy decision to impose a rigid temporal constraint, emphasizing the importance of adherence to statutory timelines in the arbitration regime. Allowing indefinite delays in challenging awards would undermine the efficiency and credibility of arbitration, eroding trust in the process and detracting from its efficacy as a viable alternative to traditional litigation.

9. In Union of India -v- Popular Construction Co. reported in (2001) 8 SCC 470, the Hon'ble Supreme Court propounded that Section 5 of the Limitation Act would not apply to applications made under Section 34 of the Act and the time period prescribed by Section 34(3) of the Act is absolute and unextendible. Relevant paragraphs are extracted herein:

"12. As far as the language of Section 34 of the 1996 Act is concerned, the crucial words are "but not thereafter" used in the proviso to sub-section (3). In our opinion, this phrase would amount to an express exclusion within the meaning of Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act, and would therefore bar the application of Section 5 of that Act. Parliament did not need to go further. To hold that the court could entertain an application to set aside the award beyond the extended period under the proviso, would render the phrase "but not thereafter" wholly otiose. No principle of interpretation would justify such a result.

13. Apart from the language, "express exclusion" may follow from the scheme and object of the special or local law:

"[E]ven in a case where the special law does not exclude the provisions of Sections 4 to 24 of the Limitation Act by an express reference, it would nonetheless be open to the court to examine whether and to what extent the nature of those provisions or the nature of the subject-matter and scheme of the special law exclude their operation." [(1974) 2 SCC 133] (SCC p. 146, para 17)

14. Here the history and scheme of the 1996 Act support the conclusion that the time-limit prescribed under Section 34 to challenge an award is absolute and unextendible by court under Section 5 of the Limitation Act. The Arbitration and Conciliation Bill, 1995 which preceded the 1996 Act stated as one of its main objectives the need "to minimise the supervisory role of courts in the arbitral process" [Para 4(v) of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996] . This objective has found expression in Section 5 of the Act which prescribes the extent of judicial intervention in no uncertain terms:

"5. Extent of judicial intervention.—Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, in matters governed by this Part, no judicial authority shall intervene except where so provided in this Part."

15. The "Part" referred to in Section 5 is Part I of the 1996 Act which deals with domestic arbitrations. Section 34 is contained in Part I and is therefore subject to the sweep of the prohibition contained in Section 5 of the 1996 Act.

16. Furthermore, Section 34(1) itself provides that recourse to a court against an arbitral award may be made only by an application for setting aside such award "in accordance with" sub-section (2) and sub-section (3). Sub-section (2) relates to grounds for setting aside an award and is not relevant for our purposes. But an application filed beyond the period mentioned in Section 34, sub-section (3) would not be an application "in accordance with" that sub-section. Consequently by virtue of Section 34(1), recourse to the court against an arbitral award cannot be made beyond the period prescribed. The importance of the period fixed under Section 34 is emphasised by the provisions of Section 36 which provide that "where the time for making an application to set aside the arbitral award under Section 34 has expired ... the award shall be enforced under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 in the same manner as if it were a decree of the court". This is a significant departure from the provisions of the Arbitration Act, 1940. Under the 1940 Act, after the time to set aside the award expired, the court was required to "proceed to pronounce judgment according to the award, and upon the judgment so pronounced a decree shall follow" (Section 17). Now the consequence of the time expiring under Section 34 of the 1996 Act is that the award becomes immediately enforceable without any further act of the court. If there were any residual doubt on the interpretation of the language used in Section 34, the scheme of the 1996 Act would resolve the issue in favour of curtailment of the court's powers by the exclusion of the operation of Section 5 of the Limitation Act."

10. Referring to it's judgment in Popular Construction Co. (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhimashankar Sahakari Sakkare Karkhane Niyamita -v- Walchandnagar Industries Limited (WIL) reported in (2023) 8 SCC 453 held that Limitation Act will apply to the Act except where it has been specifically excluded:

"54. Now, so far as the submission on behalf of the appellant that the Limitation Act shall not be applicable to the proceedings under the Arbitration Act is concerned, the aforesaid has no substance. Section 43(1) of the Arbitration Act specifically provides that the Limitation Act, 1963 shall apply to arbitrations as it applies to proceeding in Court. However, as observed and held by this Court in Assam Urban [Assam Urban Water Supply & Sewerage Board v. Subash Projects & Mktg. Ltd., (2012) 2 SCC 624 : (2012) 1 SCC (Civ) 831] , the Limitation Act, 1963 shall be applicable to the matters of arbitration covered by the 1996 Act save and except to the extent its applicability has been excluded by virtue of express provision contained in Section 34(3) of the Arbitration Act.

55. In Popular Construction Co. [Union of India v. Popular Construction Co., (2001) 8 SCC 470] , when Section 5 of the Limitation Act was pressed into service to proceedings under Section 34 of the Arbitration Act for setting aside the arbitral award, this Court has observed that the Arbitration Act being a special law and provides a period of limitation different from that prescribed under the Limitation Act, the period of limitation prescribed under the Arbitration Act shall prevail and shall be applicable and to that extent the Limitation Act shall be excluded. That, thereafter, it is observed and held that application challenging an award filed beyond period mentioned in Section 34(3) of the Arbitration Act would not be an application "in accordance with" sub-section (3) as required under Section 34(1) of the Arbitration Act."

11. In Esha Agarwal and Ors. -v- Ram Niranjan Ruia reported in MANU/WB/0021/2023, I had dealt with the question of limitation under Section 34(3) of the Act as follows:

"6. The question of limitation takes centre stage in the present application and needs to be adjudicated upon first and foremost. With respect to limitation for filing a challenge to an arbitral award, Section 34(3) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 provides that an application under the section cannot be made after 'three months have elapsed from the date on which the party making that application had received the arbitral award'. The courts can condone the delay within a further period of thirty days, provided sufficient cause is present, but not 'thereafter'. I believe the term 'thereafter' used in the section does not need any further interpretation. A plain reading of the said section and the proviso makes it as clear as the sky on a summer morning that courts cannot condone a delay beyond the extendable period of thirty days provided in the section.

7. It is necessary at this point to make reference to the recent decision of the apex court in Mahindra and Mahindra Financial Services Limited v. Maheshbhai Tinabhai Rathod And Others reported in MANU/SC/1338/2021 : (2022) 4 SCC 162 wherein the restricted scope of the courts' power to condone the delay in case of an application under Section 34 was reiterated by the Supreme Court. Relevant portions have been extracted below-

9. The scope available for condonation of delay being self-contained in the proviso to Section 34(3) and Section 5 of the Limitation Act not being applicable has been taken note by this Court in its earlier decisions, which we may note. In Union of India v. Popular Construction Co. [Union of India v. Popular Construction Co., MANU/SC/0613/2001 : (2001) 8 SCC 470] it has been held as hereunder:

"12. As far as the language of Section 34 of the 1996 Act is concerned, the crucial words are "but not thereafter" used in the proviso to sub-section (3). In our opinion, this phrase would amount to an express exclusion within the meaning of Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act, and would therefore bar the application of Section 5 of that Act. Parliament did not need to go further. To hold that the court could entertain an application to set aside the award beyond the extended period under the proviso, would render the phrase "but not thereafter" wholly otiose. No principle of interpretation would justify such a result.

14. Here the history and scheme of the 1996 Act support the conclusion that the time-limit prescribed under Section 34 to challenge an award is absolute and unextendible by court under Section 5 of the Limitation Act. The Arbitration and Conciliation Bill, 1995 which preceded the 1996 Act stated as one of its main objectives the need "to minimise the supervisory role of courts in the arbitral process" [Para 4(v) of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996.]. This objective has found expression in Section 5 of the Act which prescribes the extent of judicial intervention in no uncertain terms:

16. This is a significant departure from the provisions of the Arbitration Act, 1940. Under the 1940 Act, after the time to set aside the award expired, the court was required to "proceed to pronounce judgment according to the award, and upon the judgment so pronounced a decree shall follow" (Section 17). Now the consequence of the time expiring under Section 34 of the 1996 Act is that the award becomes immediately enforceable without any further act of the court. If there were any residual doubt on the interpretation of the language used in Section 34, the scheme of the 1996 Act would resolve the issue in favour of curtailment of the court's powers by the exclusion of the operation of Section 5 of the Limitation Act.'

8. While I express my sympathy towards the petitioner, my judicial hands are curtailed by the law, as mentioned above. There is no runway of merit for the present application to land on. The present application has been filed forty-two days after the prescribed period of limitation under the Act, and given that the court has the power to condone a delay of only up to thirty days, the present application fails and is bound to be sacrificed at the altar of limitation."

12. From the above factual matrix, it is clear that the appellants have had a lackadaisical and nonchalant approach to the entire affair and even after giving the benefit of Section 14 of the Limitation Act, Section 34 application would have remained time barred.

13. Before I part with this judgement, it is essential to underscore the importance of adhering to statutory timelines especially within the context of arbitration. Unlike traditional litigation, where cases may languish in the court system for years, arbitration offers parties a streamlined and expeditious mechanism for resolving disputes. Central to the efficacy of arbitration is the timely administration of proceedings, which necessitates adherence to prescribed timelines at every stage of the arbitral process. Delay in challenging arbitral awards can prejudice the rights for the parties involved, particularly the party seeking to enforce the award. When disputes are resolved expeditiously, parties can obtain closure and move forward with their lives, rather than being mired in prolonged legal battles. Moreover, timely resolution reduces the burden on the court system, allowing courts to focus their resources on cases that require judicial intervention.

14. In light of the aforesaid, I find no reason to interfere with the order passed by the learned Additional District Judge under Section 34 of the Act dismissing the application as time barred.

15. Accordingly, the instant appeal is dismissed.

A. Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996-Section 37-the appeal was filed with a delay of 393 days-the discretionary power is only to be exercised when sufficient cause is made out and compelling reasons are provided for condonation of delay-counsel for the appellants was suffering from serious illness, the appeal could not be filed within time, this explanation is not sufficient-the issue with regard to filing an appeal u/s 37 of the Act is no longer res integra as the same has been settled by the Supreme Court in various judgment.(Para 1 to 12)

B. The expression "sufficient cause" under section 5 of the Limitation Act is not elastic enough to cover long delays and merely because sufficient cause has been made out, there is no right to have such delay condoned. The Apex court held that only short delays, can be condoned only by way of an exception and not by the way of rule, and that too only when the party acted in a bonafide manner and not negligently.(Para 7)

The application is rejected. (E-6)

Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application No.1 of 2024

1. Heard counsel appearing on behalf of the applicants/appellants and Mr. Pranjal Mehrotra with Mr. Ashish Kumar Gupta, counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent.

2. This is an appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') arising out of an order passed under Section 34 of the Act.

3. There is an inordinate delay of 393 days in filing this appeal under Section 37 of the Act.

4. In M/s N.V. International v. State of Asam and others reported in 2020 (2) SCC 109 [Coram:- Rohinton Fali Nariman and S. Ravindra Bhat, JJ.] and Government of Maharashtra (Water Resources Department) Represented by Executive Engineer v. M/s Borse Brothers Engineers & Contractors Pvt. Ltd. reported in (2021) 6 SCC 460 [Coram :- Rohinton Fali Nariman, B.R. Gavai and Hrishikesh Roy, JJ.], the Supreme Court has stated that such a delay in filing an appeal under Section 37 of the Act cannot be allowed.

5. The issue with regard to filing an appeal under Section 37 of the Act is no longer res integra as the same has been settled by the Supreme Court. One may rely on the judgement in M/s N.V. International

"4. We may only add that what we have done in the aforesaid judgment is to add to the period of 90 days, which is provided by statute for filing of appeals under Section 37 of the Arbitration Act, a grace period of 30 days under Section 5 of the Limitation Act by following Lachmeshwar Prasad Shukul and Others (supra), as also having regard to the object of speedy resolution of all arbitral disputes which was uppermost in the minds of the framers of the 1996 Act, and which has been strengthened from time to time by amendments made thereto. The present delay being beyond 120 days is not liable, therefore, to be condoned."

6. Furthermore, paragraph 61 of the judgement in Government of Maharashtra (Water Resources Department) Represented by Executive Engineer (Supra) is required to be looked into. The said paragraph is delineated below:-

"61. Given the aforesaid and the object of speedy disposal sought to be achieved both under the Arbitration Act and the Commercial Courts Act, for appeals filed under section 37 of the Arbitration Act that are governed by Articles 116 and 117 of the Limitation Act or section 13(1A) of the Commercial Courts Act, a delay beyond 90 days, 30 days or 60 days, respectively, is to be condoned by way of exception and not by way of rule. In a fit case in which a party has otherwise acted bona fide and not in a negligent manner, a short delay beyond such period can, in the discretion of the court, be condoned, always bearing in mind that the other side of the picture is that the opposite party may have acquired both in equity and justice, what may now be lost by the first party's inaction, negligence or laches."

7. A coordinate Bench of this Court in National Highway Authority of India Vs. Smt. Sampata Devi and others reported in 2023 (12) ADJ 787 [Coram:- Om Prakash Shukla, J.], in similar facts and circumstances, discussed in great detail a catena of judgements of the Supreme Court and has come to the following conclusion:-

"(44) In view of the authoritative Judgments of the Apex Court in M/s Borse Brothers Engineers & Contractors (supra), it must be held that an appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 should be filed within 60 days from the date of the order as per Section 13(1A) of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015. However, in those rare cases where the specified value is for a sum less than INR 3,00,000.00 then the appeal under Section 37 would be governed by Articles 116 and 117 of the Schedule of the Limitation Act, as the case may be.

(45) Further, Section 5 of the Limitation Act will apply to the appeals filed under Section 37 of the Act, 1996 and in holding the said applicability, the Apex Court noted with affirmative that Section 13(1A) of the Commercial Courts Act does not contain any provision akin to section 34(3) of the Arbitration Act, 1996 and merely provides for a limitation period of 60 days from the date of the judgment or order appealed against, without going into whether delay beyond this period can or cannot be condoned.

(46) Further, the expression 'sufficient cause' under Section 5 of the Limitation Act is not elastic enough to cover long delays and merely because sufficient cause has been made out, there is no right to have such delay condoned. The Apex Court further held that only short delays, can be condoned only by way of an exception and not by the way of rule, and that too only when the party acted in a bona fide manner and not negligently.

(47) Since, in the present bunch of appeals, the impugned order passed by the Additional District Judge, Barabanki under Section 34 of the Act, 1996 has been sought to be challenged by NHAI by filing a belated appeal under Section 37 of the Act, 1996 beyond the permissible 60 days without any "sufficient cause", the above-captioned appeals are held to be time barred."

8. The Supreme Court very recently in Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.31248 of 2018 titled as Pathapati Subba Reddy (Died) By L.Rs. and others v. The Special Deputy Collector (LA) [Coram:- Bela M. Trivedi and Pankaj Mithal, JJ.] decided on April 8, 2024, has dealt extensively with the law of limitation and after considering various judgements of the Supreme Court, has laid down certain principles to be followed while applying the law of limitation. The relevant paragraph is delineated below:-

"26. On a harmonious consideration of the provisions of the law, as aforesaid, and the law laid down by this Court, it is evident that:

(i) Law of limitation is based upon public policy that there should be an end to litigation by forfeiting the right to remedy rather than the right itself;

(ii) A right or the remedy that has not been exercised or availed of for a long time must come to an end or cease to exist after a fixed period of time;

(iii) The provisions of the Limitation Act have to be construed differently, such as Section 3 has to be construed in a strict sense whereas Section 5 has to be construed liberally;

(iv) In order to advance substantial justice, though liberal approach, justice-oriented approach or cause of substantial justice may be kept in mind but the same cannot be used to defeat the substantial law of limitation contained in Section 3 of the Limitation Act;

(v) Courts are empowered to exercise discretion to condone the delay if sufficient cause had been explained, but that exercise of power is discretionary in nature and may not be exercised even if sufficient cause is established for various factors such as, where there is inordinate delay, negligence and want of due diligence;

(vi) Merely some persons obtained relief in similar matter, it does not mean that others are also entitled to the same benefit if the court is not satisfied with the cause shown for the delay in filing the appeal;

(vii) Merits of the case are not required to be considered in condoning the delay; and

(viii) Delay condonation application has to be decided on the parameters laid down for condoning the delay and condoning the delay for the reason that the conditions have been imposed, tantamounts to disregarding the statutory provision."

9. In fact, the Supreme Court while upholding the judgement of the High Court went on to say that just because other persons have been granted relief in other matters that by itself would not be a ground for condoning the delay. The Supreme Court has deprecated the practice of taking lenient view and stated that just because the Courts, on earlier occasions, had taken lenient view would not entitle the appellants as a matter of right to be entitled to condonation of delay where no proper explanation was provided by the them. The relevant paragraphs are delineated below:-

"30. The aforesaid decisions would not cut any ice as imposition of conditions are not warranted when sufficient cause has not been shown for condoning the delay. Secondly, delay is not liable to be condoned merely because some persons have been granted relief on the facts of their own case. Condonation of delay in such circumstances is in violation of the legislative intent or the express provision of the statute. Condoning of the delay merely for the reason that the claimants have been deprived of the interest for the delay without holding that they had made out a case for condoning the delay is not a correct approach, particularly when both the above decisions have been rendered in ignorance of the earlier pronouncement in the case of Basawaraj (supra).

31. Learned counsel for the petitioners next submitted on the basis of additional documents that in connection with the land acquisition in some other Special Leave Petitions, delay was condoned taking a lenient view and the compensation was enhanced with the rider that the claimants shall not be entitled for statutory benefits for the period of delay in approaching this Court or the High Court. The said orders do not clearly spell out the facts and the reasons explaining the delay in filing the appeal(s) but the fact remains that the delay was condoned by taking too liberal an approach and putting conditions which have not been approved of by this Court itself. In the absence of the facts for getting the delay condoned in the referred cases, vis-a-vis, the facts of this case, it cannot be said that the facts or the reasons of getting the delay condoned are identical or similar. Therefore, we are unable to exercise our discretionary power of condoning the delay in filing the appeal on parity with the above order(s)."

10. Upon a perusal of the above judgements, it is clear that the Arbitration Act being a legislation for speedy redressal, the delay in filing the appeal can only be allowed if the appellants make out a very strong case and explains the reasons for delay. In the present case, the reasons provided for condonation of delay are without assigning any specific reasons for the delay. No documents have been provided for the reasons given in the said affidavit. Furthermore, the only ground that has been taken for condonation of delay is that as the counsel for the appellants was suffering from serious illness, the appeal could not be filed within time. This explanation does not cut any ice whatsoever as the law of limitation as explained in the judgments above and elaborated in the judgment in Pathapati Subba Reddy (Died) By L.Rs. and others (supra) penned by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal, J. is that the discretionary power is only to be exercised when sufficient cause is made out and compelling reasons are provided for condonation of delay. In the present case, one does not find any such reason provided which would enable this Court to condone the delay. In fact, it is crystal clear that the appellants have acted in a lackadaisical manner. It is clear that this appeal has been filed with a delay of 393 days. The filing of this appeal is a mere attempt to cloak the laissez faire attitude taken by the appellants.

11. In the light of the above, the delay condonation application is rejected.

Appeal

12. Since the delay condonation application has been rejected, consequently, the appeal is dismissed as barred by limitation.

A. Criminal Lawr-Constitution of India, 1950-Article 226-Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 145-The grandfather of the petitioner instituted a proceeding u/s 145 Crpc against his own real son before SDM Chunar whereby a preliminary order attaching property was passed-the dispute which may cause breach of peach continued but the SDM dropped the proceeding-the property was handed over to a Supurdgar and he died before the first round of litigation –it was the duty of the SDM to appoint any other person in place of deceased supurdgar but that step was never taken, instead, the heirs of supurdgar kept taking care of the property and this is too glaring and gross negligence on the part of the SDM concerned-The rights and duties of supurdgar cannot devolve upon the heirs of a supurdgar-Hence, impugned orders are set aside and the court concerned is directed to open the proceeding u/s 145 CrPC and direct for substitution of legal representative.(Para 1 to 15)

B. Where a piquant situation arises, in matters where a party has died during the pendency of proceeding u/s 145 Crpc and a serious dispute arises as to who is the legal heir, the Magistrate concerned cannot refuse to exercise its jurisdiction, just because he has no power to decide as to who is the 'heir' of the deceased or just because the matter of inheritance is fiercely fought in a civil court. The purpose of the proceedings which may be pending between the parties in a civil court or a revenue court. Definitely, the SDM is not empowered to decide the question of inheritance however, he can always be implead a legal representative to continue the proceedings with a larger interest of the parties and the society in mind.(Para 11)

1. Heard Sri Ram Lakhan Deobanshi and Sri Shailendra Kumar Singh, learned counsels for the petitioner, Sri Anil Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for private respondent no.4 and Sri R.K. Gupta, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Written submissions/arguments filed on behalf of the petitioner and the private respondent no.4, are taken on record.

3. This criminal miscellaneous writ petition has been filed by petitioner Rajeshwar Singh against respondent no.4

Tez Bali and three others with a prayer as below:

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari calling for the records of the case and quashing the impugned orders dated 3.1.2006 and 6.3.2006 passed by the respondent nos. 3 and 2 respectively (Annexure nos. 7 and 9 to the writ petition)"

4. The facts relevant for the controversy are:

• The grandfather (late Parmananda) of the petitioner Rajeshwar Singh instituted a proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. against his own real son before the S.D.M Chunar, whereby a preliminary order, attaching the property was passed on 04.03.1972.

• A criminal reference no. 13 of 1973 was made to the civil court, under section 146 Cr.P.C. and the civil court passed an order dated 03.05.1974, holding that grandfather of the petitioner, late Parmanand has been in possession over the plots in question, on the date of passing of preliminary order. Challenging the aforesaid order of 03.05.1974, the respondent no.4 Tejbali s/o Parmanand preferred a writ petition before this Court.

• During the pendency of aforesaid writ petition Parmanand died therefore, the writ petition no. 2690 of 1974 was dismissed on 20.11.1996 and interim order was discharged.

• In aforesaid order, the High Court made it clear that it will be open to the petitioner to raise a question about the desirability of continuing the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C., before the Magistrate concerned.

• Respondent no.4- Tejbali filed an application before the S.D.M., with a prayer that the disputed property may be released in his favour till the mutation proceeding pending before the Commissioner, Varanasi gets decided.

• The instant petitioner Rajeshwar Singh objected to aforesaid application filed by Tejbali, submitting that at the time when proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. was initiated, his father Dayaram and grandfather Parmanand were in possession and therefore after their death, the property had come into his possession.

• The court of S.D.M. Marihan, Mirzapur, by its order dated 11.04.2001, de-attached the disputed property and released the same in favour of Tejbali and the petitioner s/o Lt. Dayaram, subject to final decision by Addl. Commissioner, Varanasi Zone and dropped the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C.

• The instant petitioner as well as the instant respondent no.4 challenged the aforesaid order (dated 11.04.2001) by filing two separate criminal revisions i.e. criminal revision no. 142 of 2001 by the petitioner and criminal revision no. 98 of 2001 by the respondent no.4.

• Both the revisions were decided by a common order dated 16.07.2004, observing that only civil court could have decided the fact as to who were the heirs of the deceased, therefore, the order of the Magistrate deciding shares of the parties and releasing the disputed property in their favour, is an order passed beyond jurisdiction. The order was set aside and matter was remanded for decision afresh.

• The S.D.M. passed a fresh order on 03.01.2006, whereby he set aside the attachment, dropped the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. and released the property in favour of respondent no.4-Tejbali.

• Challenging the aforesaid order passed by the S.D.M., the petitioner filed a criminal revision no. 15 of 2006, which was rejected by Addl. Sessions Judge, Mirzapur vide its order dated 06.03.2006. Now, the petitioner is before this Court invoking writ jurisdiction, challenging the two orders dated 03.01.2006 and 06.03.2006.

5. The grounds taken by the petitioner in nutshell are; that it was wrong on the part of the court concerned to have given a finding that the petitioner could not have challenged the order as he was not a party in the proceedings and therefore, the revision was not maintainable and secondly, it was a misconceived and misplaced finding that the matter of heirship of late Dayaram could only be decided by a civil court. It is submitted on behalf of the petitioner that respondent no.4 filed a civil suit surreptitiously in his name and in the name of father of the petitioner, with the pleading that they were in joint possession of the property Arazi no. 232 and prayed for decree of permanent injunction. That civil suit no. 446 of 1981 abated on the basis of an application moved by defendant, submitting that Dayaram had died and his heirs have not been substituted. In a civil appeal he was allowed to prosecute the suit further. The argument of the petitioner is that Lt. Parmanand has been in possession of the property and the property had been wrongly handed over to a receiver, though, the petitioner has been in possession. The petitioner has been cultivating the same after death of the supurdgar and therefore, the orders passed by the courts below are illegal and arbitrary. They could not have delivered the property to respondent no.4, solely on the ground that after death of Parmanand, his son i.e. respondent no.4 was the only surviving party to the proceeding. The contention is that the learned court ignored the express provisions of law under section 145(7) Cr.P.C., in which it is clearly provided that if any party to the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C., dies, all the persons claiming to be his heirs, shall be substituted. The impugned orders dated 03.01.2006 and 06.03.2006 suffer from manifest error of law. The courts below were wrong in holding that because the respondent no.4 was sole surviving party and the claim of heirship/inheritance was pending adjudication before the revenue court, hence property could have only be released in favour of respondent no.4.

Furthermore by means of supplementary affidavit, it has been contended by the petitioner, that the courts below gave away possession of entire property belonging to Parmanand, to respondent no.4, however, being the only son of late Dayaram, petitioner's name stood entered in revenue record. He obviously inherited the property belonging to his father Dayaram, therefore, he is entitled to succeed to the property of Parmanand, in addition to Tejbali.

6. The main objections raised by the respondent are:- first that petitioner is neither a recorded owner nor was ever in possession of the property, since the very beginning. Neither he nor his father were party to proceeding under section 145 CrP.C. and that he had no concern with the instant dispute. The mutation proceedings are still pending. The proceedings before the civil court as well as the revenue court are also pending hence, in view of judgment of Apex Court in Ram Sumer Puri Mahant Vs. State of U.P. and Amresh Tiwari Vs. Lata Prasad Dubey, the proceedings under section 145 Cr.P.C. are not maintainable. The petitioner is a stranger to proceedings under section 145 Cr.P.C., hence, there is no justification in reopening the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. He has no locus standi to question the legality of the impugned orders. Secondly that the issue regarding death of father of the petitioner is pending adjudication hence, the controversy cannot be decided, before that issue is decided by a competent court. This court has no power to go into the questions of facts under article 226 of the Constitution of India, therefore, the petition may be dismissed with cost.

7. Before I take up the arguments as advanced by the rival side, some of the facts on which there is no controversy may be reiterated. The litigation under section 145 Cr.P.C. began between Parmanand and his real son Tejbali in the year 1972. The S.D.M. Chunar passed a preliminary order under section 145 Cr.P.C. and also directed attachment of the property in dispute. The attached property was given in possession of one Kripa Singh s/o Raghunath in the capacity of a Supurdgar. Admittedly, at that time all the disputed property in question was recorded in the name of Parmanand. As a question of de facto possession arose between father and son, the S.D.M, referred the matter to the civil court. The civil court gave its decision on 03.05.1974, holding that Parmanand has been in possession since two months before the dispute arose. On the basis of the judgment given by the civil court in the reference by the S.D.M., the land was directed to be released in his favour of Parmanand, however, Tajbali s/o of Parmanand preferred a writ petition and the order of S.D.M. dated 03.05.1974 (releasing the land in favour of Parmanand), was stayed meanwhile. During the pendency of the writ proceeding before the High Court, Parmanand (the respondent no.3) died therefore, the interim order was vacated and the writ dismissed as having become infructuous, in view of death of only contesting party Parmanand (the respondent therein). It may importantly be noted that Parmanand had died in 1978 and the writ was dismissed by an order passed on 20.11.1996 and further it may also be noted that the High Court made an observation that Tajbali may raise the question of desirability of continuing the proceeding before the Magistrate concerned. There is no controversy as regard the fact that Tejbali and Dayaram both are sons of Parmanand. There has been a dispute whether Dayaram has died or has gone on pilgrimage. The instant petitioner is son of aforesaid Dayaram. The litigation which began between Parmanand and his real son Tejbali, now passed on to between Tejbali and the instant petitioner Rajeshwar Singh s/o Dayaram, on death of Parmanand. There is no plea from any of the sides that the sons of deceased Parmanand were ever divested of their rights, which might have devolved on them on the death of their father. In the year 1997 and probably in the light of observation made by the High Court as regard desirability of the continuance of proceedings under section 145 Cr.P.C., Tejbali admittedly applied before the S.D.M. for release of property in his favour, saying that the property has been mutated in his name and his brother Dayaram's name in revenue paper and as Dayaram is on pilgrimage, therefore, taking advantage of this fact, his son Rajeshwar has wrongly got his name mutated in place of his father on false pretext of death of his father. Further it was submitted in the application given by Tejbali that the question of mutation and revenue entry in the name of Rajeshwar, in place of his father on the basis of inheritance, is subjudice before the court of Commissioner.

8. These contentions were vehemently opposed on behalf of Rajeshwar, saying that Tejbali (his uncle), on the basis of false, manipulated and twisted facts and especially concealing the fact that Dayaram has actually died, without impleading him i.e. Rajeshwar, his son as party, is trying to obtain order of release of property in his favour. The matter went before the S.D.M. again in the light of above submissions of both the sides and the S.D.M. passed an order on 11.04.2001 whereby he directed that the disputed property be released in favour of Tejbali and Dayaram both, mainly on the basis that there is no dispute that initially the property was in ownership and possession of Parmanand, now deceased and therefore Tejbali and Dayaram, both being his legal heirs and Rajeshwar who is undisputedly son of Dayaram, is entitled to have possession, It may be noted at this very juncture that the S.D.M. took a view that share in the property belonging to Dayaram, shall obviously go to his son and not to his brother Tejbali. It may also be noted that this kind of reasoning, observation and finding did not find favour with the court of revision. The court of revision passed an order on 16.07.2004 and remanded the matter for fresh hearing. Importantly, the order of remand was passed mainly on the premise that Rajeshwar was never a party in the litigation, therefore, the question of releasing it in his favour did not arise. And further that only Parmanand was found in possession of the property therefore, it could have been released in his favour only, had he been alive And as he has actually died and further the question of inheritance is sub judice before a competent court, hence till that issue is decided, the S.D.M. could not have released the property in favour of Rajeshwar.

9. In nutshell, following undisputed facts emerge that Parmanand, who is grandfather of the present petitioner Rajeshwar and father of respondent no.4, died in 1978, during the pendency of proceedings under section 145 Cr.P.C. (which was initiated at his behest against his real son Tejbali only) At that time, his other son Dayaram was not in picture, for the reason that he had either died or was not traceable. The writ proceeding before the High Court in which Parmanand and one of his sons Tejbali was party, was dismissed as having become infructuous because of his death. It may be noted that the fact that his other son being missing or having gone on pilgrimage and not traceable for any reason or had died was never brought before the courts concerned in any manner. The main contention of the petitioner is that these facts were deliberately not brought before the courts as respondent no.4-Tejbali his uncle wanted that all the property should be released in his possession only.

10. The provisions of section 145(7) Cr.P.C. which appear relevant in the circumstances of this case, are being reproduced as below:

"7. When any party to any such proceeding dies, the Magistrate may cause the legal representative of the deceased party to be made a party to the proceeding and shall thereupon continue the inquiry, and if any question arises as to who the legal representative of a deceased party for the purposes of such proceeding is, all persons claiming to be representatives of the deceased party shall be made parties thereto."

The provision says that the proceeding under section 145 may continue by the legal representatives of the deceased party and further that where any question arises as to who is the legal representatives of the deceased party, all persons claiming to be his representatives shall be impleaded. There is no denial of the fact that Rajeshwar

Singh is the real son of Dayaram. The question of inheritance went before the other forum just because a question was raised by Tejbali that till Dayaram is alive his son Rajeshwar cannot claim property. On the other hand, Rajeshwar always claimed that his father has actually died therefore, his share of property naturally devolved on him and that therefore, he should have been impleaded in the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. and that he is entitled for release of at least his share in the property in his favour.

In view of above factual position, the impugned orders dated 03.01.2006, and 06.03.2006 cannot stand as whole of the property has been released in possession of his uncle Tejbali. He has been illegally deprived of his property. In the light of above arguments further contention of the petitioner is that in revenue records, the entry in his name exists. The order of mutation, though was challenged by Tejbali is still in force. And meanwhile, civil death of Dayaram has also been declared by the civil court.

11. The forceful contention of the petitioner is that it was wrong for assuming that property in question could only be delivered to Tejbali just because the only other party had died. The provisions of section 145 (7) Cr.P.C. were not followed. Respondent no.4 never brought this fact into knowledge of the SDM or any other court, (in which the other litigations proceeded) that he had a real brother Dayaram, who inherited half of the share, on death of Parmanand. It is argued that irrespective of the fact that Dayaram had died or was missing or was on pilgrimage, at least his real brother had no right over Dayaram's share. I find force in this argument. Another very important fact is that the purpose of proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. or attachment under section 146 Cr.P.C. is nothing but to prevent and avoid breach of peace and to maintain law and order for the purpose of keeping peace in the society at large. The provisions of section 145 and 146 Cr.P.C. are preventive in nature. The purpose is to prevent any ugly occurrence because of disputes over land and water. The executive has been entrusted with responsibility to take measures where a dispute between two private parties may give rise to an incident which may disrupt the peace to which society at large is entitled. Provisions of section 145(7) have been introduced for the purpose that in case, threat of breach of peace continues, even when a party has died, the proceeding may be continued by impleading the legal representatives of the warring parties. Definitely and undisputedly when legal representatives are to be impleaded for continuance of proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C., the Magistrate is not to decide who is actually the legal heir of the deceased. The only thing is to be decided is who are to be substituted as his legal representative. I find it very important to point out that there is a difference between the legal heirs and legal representatives. The word "legal representative" has not been defined in Cr.P.C. In my opinion when a question arises as who is the legal representative of a party, same meaning should be attached as has been defined in Civil Procedure Code. The word 'legal heir' and 'legal representative' are not interchangeable and are not exactly the same, as is very clear from the definition itself. In my opinion, where a piquant situation arises, in matters where a party has died during the pendency of proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. and a serious dispute arises as to who is the legal heir, the Magistrate concerned cannot refuse to exercise its jurisdiction, just because he has no power to decide as to who is the 'heir' of the deceased or just because the matter of inheritance is fiercely fought in a civil court. The purpose of the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. is significantly different from the proceedings which may be pending between the parties in a civil court or a revenue court. Definitely, the S.D.M. is not empowered to decide the question of inheritance however, he can always implead a legal representative to continue the proceedings with a larger interest of the parties and the society in mind.

12. It is very interesting to note that probably the dispute, which may cause breach of peace continued but the S.D.M. dropped the proceeding. Another thing which has escaped attention at almost all the stages of litigation is that the property was handed over to a Supurdgar and admittedly he died before the very first round of litigation under section 145 Cr.P.C., came to be finally concluded. In my opinion, it was duty of the S.D.M. to appoint any other person in place of deceased supurdgar but that step was never taken, instead, the heirs of supurdgar kept taking care of the property and this is too glaring and gross negligence on the part of the S.D.M. concerned. The rights and duties of supurdgar cannot devolve upon the heirs of a supurdgar.

13. In view of the above facts and circumstances, I find that this matter needs indulgence of this Court in exercise of powers under article 226 of Constitution of India. Hence, the impugned orders dated 03.01.2006 and 06.03.2006 are hereby set aside and the court concerned is directed to open the proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C., and direct for substitution of legal representative. Further he/she shall decide the question of desirability of its continuance, in the light of the purpose of the initiation of the proceedings under section 145 Cr.P.C. which is to prevent breach of peace. And in case the court is of opinion that there is no need to continue the same as no longer apprehension of breach of peace existed, it shall decide the matter of delivery of possession in accordance with law.

14. The impugned orders dated 03.01.2006 and 06.03.2006 are hereby set aside. The matter is remanded to the court concerned for decision afresh in the light of observations made in the body of this order.

15. Accordingly, this petition is disposed of.

C. Jurisprudence – Doctrine of Precedent – Binding precedent, Persuasive precedent, Original precedent and Declaratory precedent explained – Binding precedents are also known as authoritative precedents. These precedents are bound to be followed by a lower court or other equivalent courts once a judgment is made whether they approve it or not – Persuasive precedents include decisions taken by an inferior court that a higher court or any other court is not obliged to follow. It depends on the court to decide whether to consider it or not – An original precedent are those judgements where the court has never taken a decision in a case and it has to use its own discretion to reach to a conclusion – A declaratory precedent is application of existing precedent in a particular case. A declaratory precedent involves declaring an existing law and putting into practice, hence it does not help in creating new law. (Para 25)

(In Re:- Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. Cause shown in the affidavit filed in support of the instant application is to the satisfaction of the Court.

3. Accordingly, the delay in filing the instant appeal stands condoned and delay condonation application is allowed.

(Order on Memo of Appeal)

4. The instant intra-court Special Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred to as the "Rules, 1952") is being preferred by the appellant-respondent challenging the legality and validity of the judgment and order dated 21.12.2023 passed by the writ Court in WRIT - A No. - 21105 of 2023 (Geeta Rani Vs. The State of U.P. and 5 Others), wherein, learned Single Judge while accepting the ratio has essentially premised its judgment on the basis of the mandate given by a Coordinate Bench of this Court vide its judgment and order dated 22.10.2020 passed in SERVICE SINGLE No.- 14796 of 2020 (Dharmendra Singh Vs. State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Home, Lko. & Ors.) and accorded a last opportunity to the respondent-petitioner to clear the physical efficiency test within a period of 30 days and even if she fails, suitable appointment on compassionate basis shall be accorded to her.

5. Before hearing the rival submissions of the parties, it would be in the fitness of things to reproduce the order dated 21.12.2023 passed by learned Single Judge:-

"Petitioner applied for compassionate appointment on account of her husband late Man Singh dying in harness while working as Head Constable with Civil Police on 02.02.2021 however, while his application was entertained for the post of Sub-Inspector and was directed for the physical efficiency test, he could complete running in excess of 3 seconds to the scheduled time which was prescribed as 16 minutes for 2.4 kms.

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in respect of 3 seconds of delay there should be taken a sympathetic consideration because in many of service rules that provide for compassionate appointment relaxations are offered. He submits that in matters of compassionate appointment, the authorities ought to have taken pragmatic view as these rules are exception to the general rules of recruitment to show compassion towards the bereaved family as sole earning member has met premature death leaving liability behind. However, he submits that given an opportunity, may be as a last one, she would be again participating in the physical efficiency test and if this time she fails, she will not be setting up any further claim for the post and then can be offered any suitable appointment on compassionate basis.

Learned counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon an order of a coordinate Bench of this Court at Lucknow Bench in Service Single No.- 14796 of 2020 decided on 22nd October, 2020.

Learned Standing Counsel submits that the police force requires certain level of physical efficiency and any compromise to the same would not be in the interest in the police force which is involved in policing like civil administration as and when requires qua security of the people. However, he does not dispute that one direction has been issued in a case but submits, that cannot be taken as a binding precedent. He though submits that second opportunity as such could be offered in the discretion of this Court only as he does not dispute that the rules of compassionate appointment are exceptional to the general rules, however, reiterates the principle that there is no vested right to get a post of choice by way of compassionate appointment.

Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and their arguments raised across the bar, considering the fact that the petitioner has been seeking a compassionate appointment and for which he was directed for physical efficiency test and has just exceeded three seconds to the scheduled time prescribed for running of a candidate as per the rules, the Court takes pragmatic view and directs that one last opportunity may be given to the petitioner to participate in the physical efficiency test.

It is, however, made clear that this will be a last opportunity and no further opportunity will be offered to the petitioner and in the event petitioner fails, she may be offered suitable appointment on compassionate basis.

The above exercise of physical efficiency test will be done within a period of 30 days from the the date of production of certified copy of this order.

With the aforesaid observations and directions, this petition stands disposed of."

FACTS

6. From the perusal of the record, it transpires that husband of the petitioner namely, Man Singh died in harness while working as Head Constable in Civil Police on 02.02.2021. Thereafter, on account of unfortunate demise of her husband, the petitioner applied for compassionate appointment and her application was entertained by the police department for the post of Sub-Inspector and she was asked to undergo the physical efficiency test. However, the petitioner could not complete the running within the stipulated time as fixed by the Police department. Consequently, she has approached to this Court to consider her claim qua the compassionate appointment under the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness. Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as the "the Rules, 1974") for the post of Sub-Inspector as per her qualification by filing Writ A No.2105 of 2023, wherein, the learned Single Judge taking sympathetic view accorded a last opportunity to the respondent-petitioner to clear the physical efficiency test and entitled her for a suitable appointment on compassionate basis in case she fails to qualify in the physical efficiency test.

ARGUMENTS ON BEHALF OF APPELLANT-STATE

7. Mr. Fuzail Ahmad Ansari, learned Standing Counsel for the appellant-State vehemently submitted that the order passed by the learned Single Judge cannot sustain on the ground that claim of the respondent-petitioner was to be considered under the Rules, 1974 and as per the procedure prescribed in the disciplined force, the respondent-petitioner must undergo Physical Efficiency Test, Medical Test etc. In continuance to the same, he submitted that the respondent-petitioner could not be appointed as Sub-Inspector under the Rules, 1974 as she could not fulfill the minimum eligibility criteria, which is prescribed as such, for the Physical Efficiency Test. He submitted that there is no provision under the Rules, 1974 and the Government Order for according further opportunity or chance for completion of physical efficiency test. It has been argued that the respondent-petitioner has appeared in the physical examination out of her own freewill and without any objection and qua the same he has also placed reliance upon the declaration form dated 31.12.2022 filled up by the respondent-petitioner for the physical test. The relevant conditions contained in the aforesaid declaration form is reproduced hereinunder:-

8. In this backdrop, learned Standing Counsel for the appellant-State submitted that once the respondent-petitioner participated in the physical examination without any objection and that too, out of her own freewill and failed therein, then she could not turn around and ask for second chance.

9. Learned Standing Counsel has further placed reliance upon the Clause 2 (5) of the Government Order dated 18.09.2015, which clearly provides that only one chance will be offered to the applicants, who are inclined to be appointed under the compassionate appointment. The aforesaid G.O. dated 18.09.2015 was not under challenge before the learned Single Judge. Hence, learned Single Judge erred in law in according the second chance to the petitioner, which is, in fact, not available to the candidates claiming compassionate appointment.

10. Learned Standing Counsel for the appellant-State in support of his submission has further placed reliance upon the judgment and order dated 05.10.2021 passed by Hon'ble the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.6003 of 2021 (The State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors. Vs. Premlata) reported in AIR 2021 SC 4984 and submitted that, in fact, the petitioner was not liable to be offered the post of Sub-Inspector, which is higher post than the post of Head Constable on which her husband was admittedly discharging his duties and hence, she could have been offered the post of Constable or any other post lower than that. In this regard, he has also relied upon the interpretation given by the Hon'ble Apex Court to the term "suitable post" under Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974. The relevant portion of the aforesaid order is reproduced hereinunder:-

"10.1 Applying the law laid down by this court in the aforesaid decisions and considering the observations made hereinabove and the object and purpose for which the appointment on compassionate ground is provided, the submissions on behalf of the respondent and the interpretation by the Division Bench of the High Court on Rule 5 of Rules 1974, is required to be considered.

10.2 The Division Bench of the High Court in the present case has interpreted Rule 5 of Rules 1974 and has held that 'suitable post' under Rule 5 of the Rules 1974 would mean any post suitable to the qualification of the candidate irrespective of the post held by the deceased employee. The aforesaid interpretation by the Division Bench of the High Court is just opposite to the object and purpose of granting the appointment on compassionate ground. 'Suitable post' has to be considered, considering status/post held by the deceased employee and the educational qualification/eligibility criteria is required to be considered, considering the post held by the deceased employee and the suitability of the post is required to be considered vis a vis the post held by the deceased employee, otherwise there shall be no difference/distinction between the appointment on compassionate ground and the regular appointment. In a given case it may happen that the dependent of the deceased employee who has applied for appointment on compassionate ground is having the educational qualification of Class II or Class I post and the deceased employee was working on the post of Class/Grade IV and/or lower than the post applied, in that case the dependent/applicant cannot seek the appointment on compassionate ground on the higher post than what was held by the deceased employee as a matter of right, on the ground that he/she is eligible fulfilling the eligibility criteria of such higher post. The aforesaid shall be contrary to the object and purpose of grant of appointment on compassionate ground which as observed hereinabove is to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis on the death of the bread earner. As observed above, appointment on compassionate ground is provided out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that some source of livelihood is provided and family would be able to make both ends meet.

11. In view of the above and for the reasons stated above, the Division Bench of the High Court has misinterpreted and misconstrued Rule 5 of the Rules 1974 and in observing and holding that the 'suitable post' under Rule

5 of the Dying In Harness Rules 1974 would mean any post suitable to the qualification of the candidate and the appointment on compassionate ground is to be offered considering the educational qualification of the dependent. As observed hereinabove such an interpretation would defeat the object and purpose of appointment on compassionate ground."

11. To elaborate his submissions he has placed reliance upon the judgment and order dated 02.08.2022 passed by Hon'ble the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.-5038 of 2022 (Suneel Kumar Vs. State of U.P. & Ors.) reported in AIR 2022 SC 5416. The relevant portion of the aforesaid order is reproduced hereinunder:-

"10. At the same time, as far as the question relating to the entitlement as it were of the appellant to be considered to the post of Gram Panchayat Officer is concerned, it is without doubt a post borne in Class-III. The father of the appellant was working as a Sweeper borne in Class-IV post. We have noticed the view taken by this Court in Premlata (supra). In other words, the law as declared is to the effect that the words "suitable employment" in Rule 5 must be understood with reference to the post held by the deceased employee. The superior qualification held by a dependent cannot determine the scope of the words "suitable employment".

11. It is clear that the Annexure P-1 does not represent statutory Rules. We do not think we should be persuaded to take a different view as things stand. We cannot eclipse the dimension that the whole purport of the scheme of compassionate appointment is to reach immediate relief to the bereaved family. In such circumstances, the meaning placed on the words "suitable employment" bearing in mind the post held by the deceased employee cannot be said to be an unreasonable or incorrect view."

12. Learned Standing Counsel has also placed reliance upon the judgment and order dated 04.03.2022 passed by a Division Bench of this Court in SPECIAL APPEAL No.- 363 of 2019 (State of U.P. and 2 Others Vs. Ashif Ali) which also dealt with a similar issue of providing second chance to a candidate claiming compassionate appointment. The relevant portion of the aforesaid order is reproduced hereinunder:-

"15. Consequently, we find that the learned Single Judge was not justified in directing the appellants to conduct a fresh physical efficiency test of the writ petitioner and consider his claim for compassionate appointment afresh particularly in view of the fact that the Rules and Government Orders governing the issue do not permit any second attempt to a candidate who has failed the physical test in the first attempt. The appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 30.8.2018 passed by the learned Single Judge allowing the writ petition with cost is set aside. The writ petition stands dismissed."

13. Referring to the order passed by the learned Single Judge, he submitted that the learned Single Judge while considering the matter has heavily relied upon the ratio laid down by another Single Bench in an order dated 22.10.2020 passed in Service Single No. - 14796 of 2020 (Dharmendra Singh Vs. State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Home, Lko. & Ors.) which itself contained that it will not be treated as "a precedent". The same is extracted hereinunder:-

"On 06.10.2020 the following order was passed by this court. Today Shri Ranvijay Singh Additional Chief Counsel has informed the court on the basis of instructions that in the physical endurance test a distance of 4.8 k.m. was to be run by the petitioner in 30 minutes but he completed same in 30.01 minutes i.e. he overshot the time limit only by one second. This is precisely the case of the petitioner that he should be given one more opportunity considering the fact that he is being considered for appointment on compassionate basis.

Considering the fact of the case as the petitioner exceeded the time limit only by one second, ends of justice require that he be given one more opportunity by the opposite parties to undergo the physical endurance test. It should be conducted within two weeks of receipt of this order, based on which the candidature of the petitioner for compassionate appointment shall be considered. This order shall not be treated as a precedent as it has been passed in peculiar of facts of the present case.

Petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms."

(emphasis supplied)

14. He further submitted that the aforesaid order dated 22.10.2020 passed by the learned Single Judge was assailed by the State in the intra-court appeal i.e. SPECIAL APPEAL DEFECTIVE No. -84 of 2021 (State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Home Lko. & Ors. Vs. Dharmendra Singh), wherein the Division Bench of this Court has proceeded to observe that the order passed by learned Single Judge was based upon equity and not to be treated as a precedent, even though, the order passed by learned Single Judge was affirmed and the Special Appeal was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 11.2.2021. Thereafter, against the appellate order, the State Government has preferred a Special Leave to Appeal before the Hon'ble Apex Court being Special Leave to Appeal (C) No(s). 7554/2021 (State of U.P. & Ors. Vs. Dharmendra Singh), wherein, Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to dismiss the same making an observation to the effect that issue of law shall remain open and the judgment of the Division Bench shall not be operated as a precedent. The order passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court is reproduced hereinunder:-

"Having regard to the facts and circumstances of this case, we do not deem it necessary to interfere with the impugned judgment and order in exercise of the power under Article 136 of the Constitution of India.

The special leave petition, is accordingly, dismissed.

We, however, make it absolutely clear that the issue of law shall remain open and the judgment of the Division Bench shall not operate as a precedent."

(emphasis supplied)

15. Learned Standing Counsel has also drawn our attention to the order dated 21.11.2023 passed by learned Single Judge in WRIT - A No.19265 of 2023 (Anil Kumar and 2 Others Vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others), wherein, learned Single Judge has disposed of the writ petition extending the benefit to the petitioners, therein, under Clause 2(5) of the Government Order dated 18.09.2015. The aforesaid order is reproduced hereinunder:-

"1. Heard Sri Vijay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Standing Counsel.

2.Petitioner sought appointment on compassionate ground as Constable as he is intermediate qualified. However, in the

he could not qualify in the Physical Efficiency Test.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that he is entitled to the benefit as given by this Court in the case of Jitendra Singh and another vs. State of U.P. and 3 others, Writ A No. 16436 of 2022.

4. Learned Standing Counsel submits that in the above regard he has obtained instructions and in view of the provisions as contained under the Government Order dated 18.09.2015 petitioner can be adjusted against any other post, if he applies afresh within three months. The provision as contained in para 5 of the instructions is reproduced hereunder:

"5. यह कि प्रश्नगत भर्ती शासनादेश दिनांकितः 18.09.2015 के प्रावधानों के अन्तर्गत संपन्न की गयी थी, जिसके प्रस्तर-2(5) में निम्नवत हैः-

"किसी भी पद पर मृत पुलिस कर्मी के आश्रित के रूप में भर्ती हेतु किसी भी अभ्यर्थी को नियमानुसार एक ही अवसर प्रदान किया जायेगा, अगर वह इस हेतु प्रदान किये गये अवसर में किसी भी कारण से उस पद के लिए निर्धारित प्रक्रियानुसार सेवायोजन पाने में असफल रहता है, तो उसे किसी निम्न पद पर सेवायोजन हेतु ऑफर दिया जायेगा और वह यदि 03 माह के अन्दर अन्य किसी पद पर सेवायोजन हेतु आवेदन नहीं करता है, तो यह समझा जायेगा कि वह पुलिस विभाग में किसी भी पद पर सेवायोजन पाने का इच्छुक नहीं है।"

5. In view of the above, it is hereby provided that since the petitioner has failed in physical efficiency test for the post of Constable, it will remain open for the petitioners to apply afresh for any other post in the police department which may be offered to him as per their eligibility.

6. It is accordingly provided that in the event petitioners make an application within four weeks from today, the same shall be considered and disposed of in the light of provisions as contained under the Government Order dated 18.09.2015 and quoted herein above. Petitioners, if held entitled for any other post, the same shall be offered within 30 days from the date of decision to be taken by the authority.

7. With the aforesaid observations and directions, this petition stands disposed of."

ARGUMENTS ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENT-PETITIONER

16. Learned counsel for the respondent-petitioner vehemently opposed the instant appeal and submitted that learned Single Judge has rightly passed the order on equity and essentially in respect of only 3 seconds of delay, the authorities must take sympathetic consideration, especially in the backdrop that the matter relates to compassionate employment and as such, the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

17. The learned counsel for the respondent-petitioner has drawn our attention to the judgement of Dharmendra Singh (supra) and submitted that the learned Single Judge has exercised his equity jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and as such, relying upon the same ratio the learned Single Judge has committed no error in exercising equity in favour of the respondent-petitioner and granting another opportunity to her in the present case.

ANALYSIS

18. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record and have carefully considered the judgements cited by the learned Advocates.

19. The present matter relates to compassionate appointment in a disciplined force i.e. police force and under the relevant provisions of the Rules, no relaxation in physical examination is accorded even to the direct recruitees and if they do not complete the race in the specific time, they are not selected hence no relaxation is available or to be extended qua the candidate seeking compassionate appointment, who even have a subsequent chance to claim the next lower post within the three months. In the present matter, admittedly, the admit card was issued by the State-appellant for physical test, which took place on 04.01.2024 and she had participated in the physical examination without any objection, compulsion or duress and with her own consent and freewill, which is crystal clear from the declaration form dated 31.12.2022 filled by her. In such admitted situation, in case, she failed in physical efficiency test then under the compassionate employment, she could not ask for a second chance to undergo the physical efficiency test again.

20. Surprisingly, in the present matter, the husband of the petitioner was working as Head Constable and she was allowed to participate for an appointment under the compassionate employment on the higher post to which her husband was holding i.e. on the post of Sub Inspector. The said offer could not be accorded to the petitioner-respondent in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Premlata (supra) and Suneel Kumar (supra). Even on this score she was not eligible to be appointed as Sub-Inspector. Moreover, she failed in the physical efficiency test.

21. No such provision could be placed by the counsel for the respondent-petitioner before us, which contemplates for providing another chance to clear the physical efficiency test. Whereas, in another matter, the learned Single Judge, on the similar facts, has already disposed of the matter in the light of the Clause 2(5) of the the Government Order dated 18.09.2015. For ready reference, the aforesaid Clause 2(5) of the G.O. dated 18.09.2015 is reproduced hereinunder:-

"किसी भी पद पर मृत पुलिस कर्मी के आश्रित के रूप में भर्ती हेतु किसी भी अभ्यर्थी को नियमानुसार एक ही अवसर प्रदान किया जायेगा, अगर वह इस हेतु प्रदान किये गये अवसर में किसी भी कारण से, उस पद के लिए निर्धारित प्रक्रियानुसार सेवायोजन पाने में असफल रहता है, तो उसे किसी निम्न पद पर सेवायोजन हेतु ऑफर दिया जायेगा और वह यदि 03 माह के अन्दर अन्य किसी पद पर सेवायोजन हेतु आवेदन नहीं करता है, तो यह समझा जायेगा कि वह पुलिस विभाग में किसी भी पद पर सेवायोजन पाने का इच्छुक नहीं है।"

22. It is not in dispute that the judgement relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent-petitioner in the case of Dharmendra Kumar (supra) itself contained that it shall not be treated as a precedent. Although the Special Appeal and the Special Leave Petition filed by the State were dismissed but while dismissing the SLP the Apex Court also made it absolutely clear that the issue of law shall remain open and the judgement of the Division Bench shall not operate as a precedent.

23. In the opinion of the Court, the orders passed by the writ court, appellate court and the Apex Court in the case of Dharmendra Kumar (supra) is not binding precedent. It would be apt to have a glance of definition of "precedent":-

"As per Black's law dictionary, 'precedent' means an adjudged case or decision of a court of justice, considered as furnishing an example or authority for an identical or similar case afterwards arising or a similar question of law."

Salmond: -Precedent is, ?in a loose sense, it includes merely reported case law which may be cited & followed by courts.? In a strict sense, that case law which not only has a great binding authority but must also be followed.

Keeton: - Judicial precedent is a judicial decision to which authority has in some measure been attached.

24. The origin of the term 'precedent' is from a Latin term called 'stare decisis' which became the doctrine of legal precedent. The term 'stare decisis' refer to courts looking at similar or historical case as a guide to take a judgement in future, it means to stand by the decided cases. This doctrine is mentioned in the Article 141 of the Constitution. It is used in all courts and in all legal issues. The doctrine of precedent is expressly incorporated in India by Article 141 of the Constitution of India, 1950. Article 141 provides that the decisions of the Supreme Court are binding on all courts within the territory of India. Although there is no express provision, but by convention the decisions of a High Court are binding on all lower courts within the territorial jurisdiction of that High Court. Similarly, a decision of a higher Bench, is binding on the lower Bench.

25. With the evolution of law, the concept of precedent gained new dimensions and it came to be classified as 'binding precedents', 'persuasive precedent', 'original precedent' and 'declaratory precedent'. Binding precedents are also known as authoritative precedents. These precedents are bound to be followed by a lower court or other equivalent courts once a judgment is made whether they approve it or not. Persuasive precedents include decisions taken by an inferior court that a higher court or any other court is not obliged to follow. It depends on the court to decide whether to consider it or not. An original precedent are those judgements where the court has never taken a decision in a case and it has to use its own discretion to reach to a conclusion. A declaratory precedent is application of existing precedent in a particular case. A declaratory precedent involves declaring an existing law and putting into practice, hence it does not help in creating new law.

CONCLUSION

26. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we are of the opinion that the learned Single Judge committed an error in law in following the ratio of an order, passed by another Bench of same strength which itself contained that the order shall not be treated as 'precedent'.

27. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble the Apex Court in Premlata (supra) and Suneel Kumar (supra), the petitioner was not liable to be offered the post of Sub Inspector. Moreover, once having failed the physical efficiency test, no second chance for qualifying the same could have been offered to a candidate claiming compassionate appointment. As such, the order impugned cannot be sustained and accordingly, the same is set aside.

OBSERVATIONS OF THE COURT

28. Before parting, this Court deems it fit to observe that the appointment under the compassionate scheme is not meant to be an alternate source of recruitment. It is essentially to reach immediate succor to a bereaved family. In other words, the sudden passing away of a government servant creates a financial vacuum and it is to lend a helping hand to the genuinely needed members of the bereaved family that an appointment is provided. It is never meant to be a source of conferring any status or an alternate mode of recruitment.

ORDER BY THE COURT

29. In view of the above, it is provided that as the respondent-petitioner has failed to qualify in the physical examination for the post of Sub-Inspector, it will remain open for her to apply afresh seeking compassionate appointment on any other suitable post in the Department, which may be offered to her as per her eligibility and suitability. It is also provided that in the event the respondent-petitioner makes any such application within four weeks from today, the same shall be considered and disposed of in view of the observations made hereinabove as well as taking into account the Government Order dated 18.09.2015 within next three weeks. If the petitioner is considered entitled for any other post by the department, the same shall be offered to her within a period of 30 days' from the date of decision to be taken by the authority.

30. With the aforesaid observations, the instant special appeal stands disposed of.

31. There shall be no order as to costs.

Writ petition allowed in part. (E-1)

List of Cases cited:

1. Ashok Kumar & ors.Vs St. of U.P. & ors.; 2019 SCC OnLine All 7333

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 30.01.2023 passed by the Special Executive Officer (Personnel), Greater NOIDA, District Gautam Budh Nagar, directing the petitioners to be sent back to the Service Provider with immediate effect.

2. According to the petitioners, they are holders of Diploma in Civil Engineering and engaged on different dates on posts of Technical Supervisors by the Greater New Okhla Industrial Development Authority (for short, 'the Greater NOIDA'). The details of the petitioners' engagement with the Greater NOIDA as Technical Supervisors, now called Assistant Managers, are detailed by the petitioners in the following terms:

Sl. No.	Name	Designation	Father's Name	Qualification	Working Period	Total Year
1	Om Veer	Assistant Manager	Bachchu Singh	Diploma Civil Engineering	2007-2023	17
2	Dharmendra Verma	Assistant Manager	Prem Kumar	Diploma Civil Engineering	2004-2023	19
3	Naveen Kumar	Assistant Manager	Shamsher Singh	Diploma Civil Engineering	1999-2023	23
4	Mohit Chaudhary	Assistant Manager	Tej Pal Singh	Diploma Civil Engineering	2013-2023	10
5	Indra Dev Chhokar	Assistant Manager	Chandra Pal	Diploma Civil Engineering	2002-2023	20

3. The aforesaid tabular depiction of facts relating to the five petitioners is pleaded in paragraph No.11 of the writ petition. A Government Order, bearing No. 717/36-5-2020-8(26)/2020 dated 18.08.2020 has been issued saying that in accordance with another Government Order dated 18.12.2019 issued by the Department of Personnel in various Departments of the Government of Uttar Pradesh and its subordinate Establishments, there would be hiring of manpower through outsourcing, and for the purpose, a website developed by the Government of India, called Government e-Marketplace or GeM Portal would have to be utilized. The Greater NOIDA adopted the Government Order dated 18.08.2020 in their 120th Board Meeting held on 09.09.2020. In a subsequent meeting of the Greater NOIDA Board, that is to say, 122nd Meeting held on 22.06.2021, it was resolved that manpower would be procured through the GeM Portal against vacant posts, regarding which requisition had already been sent to the Subordinate Service Public Services Commission and the Public Service Commission. The procurement would, thus, be done by means of outsourcing through Placement Agencies.

4. It was also resolved that Assistant Managers, whose services had been hired through Placement Agencies or Service Providers, would be given the right to write measurement books only, if the concerned Assistant Manager holds necessary qualifications in engineering, as prescribed by the State Government and have further rendered satisfactory service for a period of five years with the Greater NOIDA regularly. In order to implement the resolution of the Greater NOIDA Board dated 22.06.2021 for engagement of Assistant Managers through outsourcing from the GeM Portal, an administrative decision was taken to fill up these posts through Service Providers. A detailed proposal was drawn up, for which the necessary administrative and financial approval was given by the Chief Executive Officer, Greater NOIDA on 18.07.2021. Before that was done, on 14.07.2021, the Greater NOIDA sent a report to the State Government, carrying details of vacancy in different Departments and permission was sought to fill up these vacancies through Manpower Supply Agencies or Service Providers.

5. Once all these decisions were taken by the Greater NOIDA, a tender notice dated 31.07.2021 was published inviting bids from Manpower Supply Agencies/ Service Providers. Different Agencies submitted their tenders and it is the petitioners' case that the tender of one M/s. Madhav Associates, G-36, Sector-5, Daurala, NOIDA, District Gautam Budh Nagar was accepted on 13.09.2021. The bid was accepted for provision 117 employees by M/s. Madhav Associates. For the 117 posts to be filled up through a Service Provider, the want was shown on the Sewa Niyojan Portal of the Employment Office. Against the 117 vacancies, 339 candidates applied on the Sewa Niyojan Portal. The aforesaid list was forwarded by the Service Provider M/s. Madhav Associates to the Establishment Department, where after scrutiny, the Personnel Department consented to intimate candidates, calling them for interview. M/s. Madhav Associates sent information to candidates to participate in the interview conducted by officers of different Departments of the Greater NOIDA. These intimations were sent on the petitioners' mail on 03.12.2021. On receipt of intimation from Outsourcing Agency/ Service Provider M/s. Madhav Associates, the petitioners and the other candidates participated in the interview conducted by the Greater NOIDA. The attendance record of the candidates was maintained.

6. On 28.02.2022, the Senior Manager (Technical) called a report about Technical Supervisors, who have been working for them for more than five years. The Senior Manager (Project) submitted reports dated 26.04.2022 and 01.04.2022 to the Senior Manager (Technical), Greater NOIDA, indicating the qualifications, designation and the period of work of different personnel, who had worked as Technical Supervisors with the Greater NOIDA. The said reports included the names of all the petitioners. On the basis of the aforesaid reports, the Additional Chief Executive Officer, Greater NOIDA finalized the names of Junior Engineers (Civil) to be recruited, but showing them deployed through the Placement Agency/ Service Provider M/s. Madhav Associates vide order dated 04.05.2022. On 20.06.2022, the Additional Chief Executive Officer issued an office order, directing placement of the petitioners as Junior Engineers/ Assistant Managers (Civil). On 06.01.2023, a complaint was laid against the Placement Agency/ Service Provider M/s. Madhav Associates and another Service Provide M/s. Radha Krishna. An inquiry was conducted into the matter by a Two-Member Committee, comprising of Greater NOIDA officials. The report, that was submitted, pointed out that M/s. Madhav Associates provided 36 employees against the 117 posts and in that hiring, the prescribed procedure was not adopted. It is further pointed out that out of the 36 employees provided by M/s. Madhav Associates, 30 were newly engaged hands whereas 6 were experienced hands, working with the Greater NOIDA, amongst whom the five petitioners are included. The other Placement Agency, M/s. Radha Krishna Service Provider had provided 200 employees, out of whom 187 were old hands and 13 new recruits.

7. Now, by the order impugned dated 30.01.2023 passed by the Special Executive Officer (Personnel), Greater NOIDA, 36 hands engaged through M/s. Madhav Associates have been directed to be returned to the Service Provider, which in effect terminates their services with the Greater NOIDA. This includes the 6 existing contractual employees now hired through M/s. Madhav Associates. It includes the petitioners.

8. It is pointed out that one Arvind Kumar, whose services were discontinued on the basis of the inquiry report dated 06.01.2023, submitted an application to the Additional Chief Executive Officer, Greater NOIDA, requesting that he may be permitted to continue in service. By an order dated 03.02.2023, the Additional Chief Executive Officer accepted Arvind Kumar's application and he was permitted to continue in service. Arvind Kumar's application and the note-sheet accepting the petitioners' applications by the Additional Chief Executive Officer, Greater NOIDA dated 01.02.2023 and 03.02.2023, respectively, are both annexed as Annexure Nos. SA-1 to the second supplementary affidavit filed on the petitioners' behalf.

9. The petitioners' further case is that Greater NOIDA invited bids through the GeM Portal for engagement of employees on various posts, including those of the petitioners. In this regard, a copy of the tender notice dated 27.01.2023 is annexed as Annexure No. SA-5 to the second supplementary affidavit. It is also the petitioners' case that the Greater NOIDA has engaged 10 retired employees on different posts, which show existing vacancy and availability of work. The petitioners plead a case of discrimination and arbitrariness on the Greater NOIDA's part in disengaging them, inasmuch as services of persons, junior to them, have been retained and other freshmen have been hired. They have also questioned the policy of keeping sanctioned posts vacant and taking work for years through outsourced employees. They have pleaded a case that outsourcing is a camouflage to pursue a policy of pick and choose. They have attempted to substantiate it by pleadings and materials, including their supplementaries.

10. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the Greater NOIDA. The stand taken in the counter affidavit is that the post of a Junior Engineer, on which the petitioners were earlier not working and had now been engaged through a Service Provider, is a post that is under the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Development Authority Centralized Services governed by the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Development Authorities Centralized Service Rules, 2018. The said posts have already been advertised for regular selection by the Subordinate Selection Board. In the circumstances, for a period of six months or till duly selected Junior Engineers join, the Greater NOIDA Board by its Resolution No.122/10 dated 22.06.2021 had taken a decision to engage through outsourcing. Thus, this engagement is by way of a stop gap arrangement for a period of six months and not beyond. The sanctioned fund is also for a period of six months to pay for these engagements. It is also pleaded that the petitioners were earlier working on the post of Technical Supervisors and not Junior Engineers. They have applied afresh through outsourcing and were engaged as Junior Engineers, and have never worked as Junior Engineers prior to their recruitment through the Service Provider.

11. It is further pleaded on behalf of the respondents that there is no provision for engagement of Junior Engineers beyond six months, and, therefore, it is not correct to say that the Board have granted permission for appointment vide resolution dated 22.06.2021 for a period of six months or till regularly selected candidates join. The number of posts of Executive Engineers, Assistant Engineers (Civil), Assistant Engineers (Electrical), Junior Engineers (Civil), Junior Engineers (Electrical), have been requisitioned to the Subordinate Service Commission, where selections are pending. In the meantime, to meet the exigencies of work, the Board by their resolution dated 22.06.2021 provided for engagement of hands through outsourcing of manpower by bidding on the GeM Portal.

12. It is pointed out that in the present case, an interim order was passed on 14.03.2023, directing the respondents to continue taking work from the petitioners, as they were doing earlier. However, on the respondents' appeal, the Division, has vacated the order dated 14.03.2023 vide an order dated 06.04.2023, directing the present writ petition to be heard on merits.

13. It is pleaded that there is no relationship of master and servant between the petitioners and the Greater NOIDA, and their services have been hired on contract through a Service Provider. The applicability of the Government Order dated 18.08.2020 has also been pleaded to in paragraph No.17 of the counter affidavit to say that it does not extend any protection of employment to the workforce that is engaged. About the complaints, it is said that the complaints related to favouritism, pick and choose in the engagement of the workforce through Service Providers, where a detailed inquiry was conducted and the complaint found substantiated. It is particularly pleaded that when the term of six months has already expired, for which which the petitioners' services were hired in a stop gap arrangement, they have been returned to the Placement Agency.

14. Heard Mr. Uma Nath Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioners, Ms. Anjali Upadhya, learned Counsel on behalf of respondent Nos. 2 and 3 and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State.

15. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court finds that it is true that the petitioners were engaged over a long period of time in the capacity of Work Supervisors, as the Greater NOIDA says, or Assistant Managers, as the petitioners say, directly by the Greater NOIDA. They have worked for varying period of time for 17-23 years. The shortest period for which the fourth petitioner, Mohit Chaudhary has worked with the Greater NOIDA is 10 years. Naveen Kumar was engaged in the year 1999 and Om Veer in the year 2007. There were no Service Provider back then. Therefore, the arrangement now brought about to show that the petitioners have been hired through an Outsourcing Agency or a Service Provider, does somewhat appear to be a camouflage. The explanation that has been given by the Greater NOIDA that the service of a Junior Engineer is now part of a centralized service, already notified to the Subordinate Service Board, is plausible to the extent that a Junior Engineer can no longer be recruited or even if permitted to work on an ad hoc arrangement, cannot be regularized on that post. It may also be true that the decision taken by the Board to hire through Service Providers, may have been a pro tem arrangement so far as posts of Junior Engineers were concerned, till regularly selected candidates were available, but the fact cannot be denied that the petitioners were working as Work Supervisors for long periods of time with the Greater NOIDA. To show them to have been recruited through a Service Provider, does not appear to be forthright action, particularly so, as the mechanism of hiring hands through Service Providers, has clearly followed a policy of retaining old hands for felicity of work, which the petitioners, and many others like them, as old hands, are proficient in.

16. The remarks of the Division Bench, while vacating the interim order, upon which much emphasis has been placed by the learned Counsel for the respondents, are not very relevant, because those are confined to the interim matter. All that their Lordships of the Division Bench held was that the interim order, that was earlier passed by this Court, amounted to grant of final relief. It has no bearing on the merits of the parties' case at the hearing. This position of the law has been clarified by the Division Bench in the concluding part of the order dated 06.04.2023. No further allusion, therefore, need be made to it.

17. The position appear to be undisputed that 187 old employees, who were engaged through the other Service Provider M/s. Radha Krishna, have been retained, whereas services of the petitioners have been dispensed with. There is no pleading to indicate if the employees, whose services have been retained are of the same class or cadre as the petitioners' or different from them. They are apparently junior to the petitioners, but to what cadre they belong, is not shown. So far as one of the employee Arvind Kumar, whose services have been extended later on by the Additional Chief Executive Officer, Greater NOIDA on his application, is concerned, it is apparent that he is a news writer, the holder of a completely different post. Very different consideration may apply in his case. Also, the petitioners were holding positions, other than Junior Engineers, as the Greater NOIDA themselves say. They were Work Supervisors earlier. It is not the Greater NOIDA's case that this post has become part of a centralized service. Junior Engineers too, it is not shown, have already been recruited on a regular basis and the work that they have to do, would have to be undertaken through someone. Given the nature of a Junior Engineer's job, unless regularly selected staff of the Centralized Service are available, their work cannot be left unattended by the Greater NOIDA. It would apparently have to be handed over to someone, who would be a freshman. This would involve hiring of fresh hands replacing the petitioners for no ostensible reason.

18. The mention of inquiry, that was held into the recruitment, would be relevant only to the extent that the Service Providers hired fresh hands. There cannot be any case about favouritism in relation to the petitioners, who have track records for 10-23 years with the Greater NOIDA. This Court does not mean to say that we intend to thrust upon the Greater NOIDA the petitioners to be hired as employees, but at the same time, the Greater NOIDA, being an establishment of the State, ought not to pick and choose, throwing out able and experienced hands and replacing them by fresh hands for no ostensible and reason individuate to each case. It is precisely this what they have done here. By one stroke of pen, they have thrown out all the five petitioners and another old hand along with a new staffer under the garb of returning them to the Service Provider. The truth of the matter is their services were never secured through a Service Provider. Rather, they were placed in the Service Provider's lap to effect a change of label and dub them as workers, whose services have come through a Service Provider. The petitioners had been on the Greater NOIDA's roll directly, may be as contractual employees, over periods of time, spreading from 10-23 years.

19. In these circumstances, dispensation of the petitioners' services in the fashion, that has been done through the order impugned, appears to be unreasonable, arbitrary and discriminatory.

"3. Briefly, the petitioners-appellants (who are 27 in number), claim they had been engaged by GNOIDA through various placement agencies to work on different posts, inter alia Draughtsman Grade-II, Architectural Assistant, Assistant Grade-II, Supervisor, Water Tester/Supervisor, Programmer Grade-II, Accountant Grade-II, Personal Assistant, Manager II/Management Training, Manager-I(Planning). The date of engagement of different petitioners ranges from November, 1993 to February, 2011. However, all petitioners-appellants claim to be continuously engaged from the date of their first joining though, the placement agency through whom they were engaged by GNOIDA have changed over the years. As to the nature of work performed by them, it was further claimed to be permanent in nature. In such facts, the present petitioners-appellants had earlier filed Writ A No. 61127 of 2012 (Ashok Kumar v. State of U.P.). It was disposed of vide order dated 26.11.2012 directing the Chief Executive Officer of GNOIDA to take a proper decision on the representation made by the petitioners-appellants to claim regularization in service of GNOIDA. By order dated 08.07.2013 passed by the Chief Executive Officer of GNOIDA, the aforesaid representation was rejected. It was reasoned, GNOIDA had not engaged any of the petitioners-appellants as contractual workmen but that the said authority had awarded works contract to different contractors against payment. For execution of the work thus awarded, the contractors had engaged the petitioners-appellants and, therefore, there was no master-servant relationship between any of the petitioners-appellants and GNOIDA. Payment was also claimed to have been made by the GNOIDA to the individual contractors and by those contractors to the petitioners-appellants. In absence of letters of appointment, the designation given to the petitioners-appellants by the GNOIDA was explained on grounds of convenience. The case of the petitioners-appellants was also distinguished from 27 other persons to whom relief of regularization had been granted upon their dispute being finally decided by the Supreme Court. The same was described as one time measure adopted by GNOIDA. Further, it was reasoned that the petitioners-appellants could have gained employment only by applying against sanctioned posts as and when the same had been advertised, if they fulfilled the eligibility conditions for the same."

21. The petitioners in the writ petition, that was in appeal before the Division Bench, had claimed quashing of a similar order and a further direction to regularize the petitioners in service. Here, the petitioners have sought a direction to restrain the respondents from interfering in their work as Assistant Managers (Civil) and to pay them salary every month. The learned Single Judge had dismissed the petition. The Division Bench, at the time of admission of the appeal, formulated three questions, which read:

"(1) Whether appellant-petitioners are deemed to be contractual employees of the Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority in view of the fact that they are in employment of it from the period more than a decade irrespective of the fact that their Service Provider was changed?

(2) Whether continuance of the appellants-workmen on daily rate basis/contractual basis through Service Providers, with their change time-to-time amount to an unfair labour practices as per Clause (x) of the Schedule V of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947?

(3) Whether under U.P. Industrial Development Authority Centralized Service Rules, 2018, the Chief Executive Officer of the respondent authority is empowered to make regularization of the services of the appellant-petitioners?"

22. After considering all issues raised, including that, that it was essentially a matter of contract and a writ petition did not lie, their Lordships of the Division Bench held that the defence about the petitioners serving on contract through Service Providers, appears to be hollow, and in a case like this, to cure patent injustice by State Authorities, a writ under Article 226 of the Constitution would issue. The matter was remitted to the Greater NOIDA, as the petitioners had claimed regularization on the basis of Government Orders, antedating the centralization of services. Here, that question may not be involved and the rights of the petitioners are limited to continue in service as Junior Engineers (Civil) till regularly selected candidates join, or to continue in service on posts that they occupied earlier, which may not be part of the centralized service. Be that as it may, the three questions formulated were answered by the Division Bench in the following manner in Ashok Kumar:

"22. .... Also, in view of the fact that the order of admission formulated three questions, it is considered appropriate to answer the same. Thus, Question No. 1 is answered partly in the affirmative, i.e. the petitioners-appellants are deemed contractual employees of GNOIDA. As to the length of their service, the matter is being remitted to respondent No 1 for passing appropriate orders within a period of three months from today. Question No. 2 is answered thus: the GNOIDA has apparently set up a false plea of having engaged the petitioners-appellants through works contractors. In view of the discussion made above, that arrangement is held to be a device to escape the liability of law. On Question No. 3, we are of the opinion that though the right of the petitioners-appellants to be regularized arose under the Government Order dated dated 24.02.2016, how ever, in view of the subsequent centralization of the services, the appropriate decision is to be made by respondent No. 1 on behalf of the State."

23. The answer to the second question is relevant to the issue here, inasmuch as the plea of engagement through Service Providers here too appears to be without basis as we have already held. We have not reasoned to reach that conclusion on lines that their Lordships of the Division Bench did by looking into the absence of service contracts with the Service Providers. We have drawn that inference from the fact that it is not disputed that the petitioners worked as Technical Supervisors, sometimes called Assistant Managers, for long periods of time before the Government Order dated 18.08.2020 was introduced and a mechanism for engagement of hiring hands through Service Providers became available to the Greater NOIDA.

24. It is noticed that though for the posts of Junior Engineers (Civil), which the petitioners held, it is the Greater NOIDA's case that these are now part of the centralized service and requisition has been sent to the Subordinate Staff Selection Board, but there is no indication, if for the present, all the posts of Junior Engineers, or even some have been filled up through recruitment done by the Staff Selection Commission, and, secondly, it is not shown if the petitioners holding as they were, positions of Work Supervisors earlier, still have the said work to do in the respondents Establishment. If that work is available, it is also not shown why the petitioners have been shunted out, as we have already observed, in an unceremonious manner, after being retained for long periods of time, without any case being pleaded against one or the other petitioners, that may have suddenly rendered all, some or one of them, unfit to be retained in service. This appears to be an impulsive and arbitrary decision, that cannot be termed reasonable at least on the existing material placed before the Court.

25. In the circumstances, this petition succeeds and is allowed in part. The impugned order dated 30.01.2023 passed by the Special Executive Officer (Personnel), Greater NOIDA, District Gautam Budh Nagar, is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the Chief Executive Officer and the Special Executive Officer (Personnel), Greater NOIDA, to re-consider the petitioners' case for a re-engagement on the posts of Civil Engineer (Civil), if regularly selected candidates by the Commission have already not joined or on the post of a Work Supervisor, or other suitable posts, on which they have served in past, in accordance with law, bearing in mind the remarks in this judgment. The aforesaid order shall be passed within four weeks of the date of receipt of a copy of this order by the Chief Executive Officer, Greater NOIDA and the Special Executive Officer (Personnel), Greater NOIDA.

26. Let a copy of this order be communicated each to Chief Executive Officer, Greater NOIDA and the Special Executive Officer (Personnel), Greater NOIDA by the Registrar (Compliance).

27. There shall be no order as to costs.

Writ petition allowed in part. (E-1)

List of Cases cited:

1. Sushil Kumar Pandey Vs St. of U.P. & ors.; 2010 (7) ADJ 617 (DB)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order passed by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Firozabad dated 16.12.2013, directing inter alia that the petitioner, the Headmaster of Junior High School, Bhitari, Block Narkhi, District Firozabad, be relieved of his duties forthwith having superannuated, a First Information Report lodged against him and the payment of his retiral dues stopped until salary paid to him in excess beyond the age of his superannuation is recovered.

2. On 10.02.2014, when this petition came up for admission, this Court, while issuing a notice of motion to the other side, passed an interim order in the following terms:

"It is directed that the recovery sought to be made against the petitioner in pursuance of the impugned order dated 16.12.2013 shall remain stayed till the next date of listing.

Sri Radha Kant Ojha very fairly requests that for the time being subject to the outcome of this writ petition the petitioner may at least be allowed provisional pension taking his date of retirement to be 30.6.2012 for his livelihood. Respondents do not have any objection to this proposal. It is further directed that treating the date of retirement of the petitioner to be 30.6.2012, as determined by the respondents themselves in the impugned order, the petitioner will be entitled to provisional pension treating 30.6.2012 to be his date of retirement, which will however be subject to final outcome of the writ petition."

3. A counter affidavit dated 06.05.2014 was filed on behalf of respondent No.4, to which the petitioner filed a rejoinder on 05.05.2016.

4. Pending the writ petition, the sole petitioner, Vidya Sagar passed away on 28.08.2023. An application for substitution was made on behalf of his widow, Smt. Bitto Devi. It was allowed vide order 23.11.2023 and she was brought on record as petitioner No.1/1. This petition was admitted to hearing on 23.11.2023 as well, which proceeded forthwith. During hearing on 23.11.2023, this Court thought it fit to direct the Secretary, Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P., Prayagraj to file an affidavit, certifying the date of birth of Vidya Sagar son of Ram Sahay, the original petitioner, the year and the college that he had appeared from in the Board Examination and the roll number assigned to him, which were mentioned in the order, directing the Secretary. The Secretary was also cautioned about the fact that the original records may be required to be produced in Court and the affidavit, therefore, that he would file, must indicate the particulars of the records that he has relied upon. The matter was, accordingly, adjourned for further hearing to 30.11.2023. On 30.11.2023, an affidavit along with an application to accept it on record was filed on behalf of the Secretary, Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P., Prayagraj. The tabulation chart in original was produced on behalf of the Uttar Pradesh Board of High School and Intermediate Education (for short, 'the Board') by Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, relating to the High School Examination of the year 1968 conducted by the Board. This Court went through the tabulation chart and recorded in our order of 30.11.2023 that at Sr. No. R/367/12, the roll number mentioned is 104055 and the name of the candidate is Vidya Sagar. His date of birth entered there is 21.01.1950 and his father's name is Ram Sahay. It is further recorded in our order of 30.11.2023 that upon a comparison with the petitioner's records, it is evident that the original tabulation chart produced by the Board relates to the petitioner and the particulars are referable to him. The affidavit too carries a copy of the tabulation chart, which was accepted on record. The hearing concluded on 30.11.2023 and judgment was reserved.

5. Heard Mr. Sujeet Kumar Rai, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State.

6. The facts giving rise to this writ petition are these:

The petitioner appeared in the High School Examination conducted by the Board in the year 1968, appearing therein from the M.G.M. Intermediate College, Jalesar, Etah. He passed the said examination in the 2nd division. The petitioner then sat his Intermediate Examination from the same Board in the year 1970 and passed it. He earned his degree of Bachelor of Arts in the year 1972.

The petitioner earned his certificate in Teachers Basic Training Course in the year 1975, issued by the Department of Education, Government of U.P.

7. The petitioner was appointed as an Assistant Teacher, Primary School vide order dated 20.03.1985. He joined service as an Assistant Teacher. It is the petitioner's case that in the High School certificate issued to the petitioner, his date of birth mentioned is 21.01.1955. When the petitioner was appointed as aforesaid, he produced his original testimonials, including his High School certificate, on the basis of which he was permitted to join. The petitioner's work and conduct was without blemish and he never earned an adverse remark or entry in his career. He was promoted as Assistant Teacher, Junior High School in the year 2003 and then as Headmaster in the year 2011. According to the petitioner, his date of birth entered in his service-book is 21.01.1955, and, therefore, he had to retire in the year 2016. The petitioner's elder brother, Ramesh Chand son of Ram Sahay, who is older by 8 years, was assisting the petitioner's father in all matters relating to the petitioner's education etc. The petitioner's father was a farmer, unaware of many such matters. He had entrusted them to his elder son, Ramesh Chand. It was Ramesh Chand, who got the petitioner admitted to the institution, M.G.M. Inter College, Jalesar, Etah and disclosed his date of birth, that later on came to be entered in his High School certificate. The petitioner says that he had full faith in the bona fides of his brother and whatever was entered, he accepted it to be true. In all subsequent educational record, the entry remained consistent and also in his service-book.

8. The petitioner's brother was well aware of his date of birth furnished at the time of his admission. He moved a complaint on the Tehsil Diwas to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Firozabad on 01.10.2013, saying that the petitioner's date of birth is 21.01.1950 and yet he was continuing in service beyond the age of 62 years, reckoned on the basis of a date other than his actual date of birth. It was alleged that this continuance in service was on the basis of a forged document. Appropriate action in the matter was requested.

9. The aforesaid complaint was made by Ramesh Chand on the basis of a report dated 29.07.2013 given by the Principal of the M.G.M. College, Jalesar, Etah. It was a date of birth certificate, which said that, according to the school records, the date of birth of the petitioner, who was a scholar in the College and appeared in the Board Examination of 1968 under Roll No.104055, was 21.01.1950. The certificate mentions that the said date of birth was verified on the basis of the list of marks maintained with the College. Some inspection of records were done in the office of the Board, where it was found that the petitioner's date of birth recorded there was indeed 21.01.1950.

10. The petitioner was then served with the impugned order, holding that, according to the records of the Board, his date of birth was 21.01.1950, on the foot of which the petitioner would superannuate on 30.06.2012. He had forged his certificates and continued in service. The said order, which is impugned herein, directed the petitioner's immediate retirement from service, the lodging of an FIR and withholding of his post retiral benefits, until such time that salary paid to him beyond the date of his superannuation was recovered.

11. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been instituted.

12. The stand taken in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Firozabad is that the petitioner committed forgery in his High School certificate and secured service playing fraud on the respondents.

13. In the rejoinder affidavit, the said stand is denied and the petitioner says that he has got appointment on the basis of a genuine High School certificate and has not committed any forgery. He has a right to continue according to the date of birth mentioned on his High School certificate, which is 21.01.1955, and not 21.01.1950.

14. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court finds that it is difficult to accept the petitioner's case. The petitioner's date of birth is indeed 21.01.1950, and not 19.01.1955. We have perused the original record, that is to say, the tabulation chart mentioned in the earlier part of the judgment. It clear evidences that the petitioner's date of birth entered in the records of the Board is 21.01.1950; not 21.01.1955. How then his date of birth on his High School certificate issued by the same Board, came to be mentioned as 21.01.1955, is a matter for the petitioner to explain. There could be some shadow of doubt that the date of birth mentioned on the High School certificate was the product of a mistake, for the correction of which there is a provision in the regulations of the Board, but that possibility appears to be remote, considering the elaborate process through which certificates of matriculation issued by the Board passed, even in the day when the petitioner's certificate was issued. There would be a number of cross-checks before the entries were finalized. This need not detain us if the mistaken entry on the document, upon which the petitioner places reliance is the result of a mistake or forgery, given the fact that the petitioner has not only been removed from office by the order impugned, but is also no more in the mortal world. What is important now is how his rights, if any, would enure to the benefit of his widow.

15. Taking matters for the worst that the petitioner indeed relied on a High School certificate that is genuine, but got an entry there about his date of birth that was manipulated or forged, and on that basis served some extra years, the question is: Can the salary received by the petitioner for the extra years he served, be recovered from his estate in the hands of his widow? We think that it could not have been recovered even from the petitioner. In Sushil Kumar Pandey v. State of U.P. and others, 2010 (7) ADJ 617 (DB), the writ petitioner had secured a compassionate appointment on the basis of a case that his father was a permanent employee in the Irrigation Department, holding the post of a Seenchpal. He disappeared on 01.08.1981 and was never seen or heard of by anyone, who would have naturally heard of him, if alive. A case of presumption of civil death was pleaded and the petitioner succeeded in securing compassionate appointment under the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974. Later on, it was revealed that the petitioner's father was a temporary employee, who could not be presumed dead for the purpose of conferring benefits upon his dependents. He was in fact terminated from service after due notice on 07.06.1983. It was also found that the petitioner's father had written a letter to the Department on 10.06.1983, where he had expressed his inability to work any further on account of his domestic problems and health etc. The Court held that the petitioner's appointment was rightfully terminated as it was the result of a fraud. There was no basis to the claim and, therefore, no right. The learned Single Judge, who had upheld the order determining the petitioner's services by the respondents, was affirmed. The Court found it to be a case of fraud and did not permit the writ petitioner-appellant to retain its benefit. However, so far as recovery of the entire salary for the period that the disentitled employee had worked, the Court prohibited it and limited the recovery to all emoluments paid to him, except the minimum pay scale admissible for the post held by the writ petitioner-appellant in that case. The prohibition from recovering the entire salary, amongst others, was founded on the principle of prohibiting begar enshrined in Article 23 of the Constitution. In Sushil Kumar Pandey (supra), it was observed by the Division Bench:

"23. ..... Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, it is undeniably true that fraud has been played in obtaining the appointment by the appellant and it is also true that the said fraud would have remained undetected if the mother of the appellant had not applied for family pension. During this period more than 10 years had elapsed and the authorities continued to take work from the appellant and for the services rendered he was remunerated by salary. Now after 10 years of service as the appellant has been dismissed, in such a case, the recovery of entire salary from the person would be too severe for the acts and omission on his part but also the omission and negligence on the part of the authorities in granting appointment to the appellant, which in the facts of the case cannot be ruled out. Even otherwise Article 23 of the Constitution of India prohibits taking of 'Begar'. The State-respondents having taken work from the appellant (Sushil Kumar Pandey) for more then 10 years before the fraud was detected, cannot be permitted to ask for refund of the entire salary paid to him as it would amount to taking of 'Begar' which the Constitution of India strictly prohibits.

24. Be that as it may, we can also not shut our eyes to the fact that the salary and other service benefits extended to the appellant was result of a fraud committed by him as held by the learned Single Judge. Therefore, being in respectful agreement with the judgment of the Hon'ble Judge, but keeping in view the provisions of Article 23 of the Constitution of India, we are of the view that it would meet the ends of justice if the order of the learned Single Judge is modified to the extent that instead of recovering entire salary paid to the appellant, it is directed that the authorities concerned will be entitled to recover all the amount paid to the appellant from the public exchequer during the period that he was in service except the minimum of the pay scale admissible to the post held by the appellant. It is further directed that the authorities are also at liberty to proceed against the appellant or any other person or employee found to have been involved in the commission of the aforesaid fraud in any manner as may be permissible in law."

16. Here, the case is not one of proven fraud. If the petitioner had been alive, may be an inquiry further into the matter, would have unravelled the truth. He is no longer there to answer. It is quite possible that notwithstanding the faith in the accuracy of certificates generally issued by the Board, the entry there might indeed have been the result of a mistake. Nothing much can be said about it either way except to hold it in the realm of doubt, if it was indeed fraud or a mistake after all, committed by the Board's office. What is sure is that the deceased

Vidya Sagar's date of birth was in fact 21.01.1950 and not 21.01.1955. Therefore, the deceased did work beyond his entitlement to serve as he would have attained the age of superannuation going by the age of 62 years in the year 2012. Here, he worked up to the date of the impugned order dated 16.12.2013. We are also of opinion that even if he had to retire in the year 2012, there would be some extended service for him on account of the rule of session benefit etc.

17. Be that as it may, the fact is that the deceased Vidya Sagar rendered service up to 16.12.2013 and received his monthly salary. His entitlement to salary would only be up to the date of his superannuation in accordance with the rule applicable, but to recover the salary paid from him or his estate, would indeed be taking begar, under the circumstances that we have noticed.

18. Added to it is the fact that the recovery, if any, now directed, would have to be made from his estate in hands of his widow. It would be highly inequitable to direct that and the extension of this equity is not contrary to the law also.

19. Therefore, this Court holds that no recovery shall be made from the petitioner, the deceased Vidya Sagar's widow or his estate in her hands, including the deceased's post retiral benefits. Of course, the deceased's post retiral benefits shall be finalized according to his date of superannuation worked out on the basis of his date of birth being 21.01.1950. The petitioner would be entitled to sanction of a final family pension worked out on that basis and so also gratuity and other post retiral benefits, to which she is entitled as the deceased's widow for the services rendered by him. All these benefits and a finally determined family pension, shall be paid to the petitioner within a period of six weeks of the date of receipt of a copy of this order by respondent Nos.3 and 4. The impugned order dated 16.12.2013 passed by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Firozabad is quashed to the extent it directs recovery alone. This writ petition succeeds and allowed in part in terms of the orders above made.

20. There shall be no order as to costs.

21. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the Additional Director of Education (Basic), Agra Region, Agra and the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Firozabad by the Registrar (Compliance).

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ-A No. 12902 of 2023

Dhananjay Mishra & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Service Law – Retirement – Merger of District Rural Development Agency (DRDA) with Government Department – Earlier the petitioners were appointed on the post of Clerk under the Gandak Project, who were absorbed in DRDA in pursuance of GO dated 18.07.2016 – Authority denied pensionary benefit – Validity challenged – Petitioner claimed the pensionary benefits under GO dated 26.04.1991 as well as the parity with those employees, who were directly absorbed in Govt. Department – Entitlement – Held, GO dated 18.07.2016 does not introduce an arrangement of compulsion. It gives employees of the DRDA the election to accept absorption into government service in the Department of Rural Development, subject to conditions mentioned in the Government Order. One of the conditions is that the employees absorbed into the DRDA, who elect to join the Department of Rural Development, would be treated upon absorption as a dying cadre and governed by the New Pension Scheme, 2005 – The petitioners acquiesced to their absorption in the DRDA despite the fact that similarly situate persons were quickly moved away and absorbed in Government Departments. Now, being treated, whether rightly or mistakenly, as directly appointed employees of the DRDA, when absorbed in government service much later in the day in terms of the Government Order dated 18.07.2016, which again the petitioners, as already said, accepted with open eyes, they cannot be allowed to turn around and fall back upon their original rights as retrenched employees of the Gandak Project, entitled to absorption in a Government Department directly; not as directly appointed employees of the DRDA. (Para 19 and 22)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 28.02.2020 passed by the Commissioner, Rural Development, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, rejecting the petitioners' claim for the provision of pension contribution and leave encashment contribution in order to enable the said petitioners to claim retirement pension and leave encashment.

2. Heard Mr. K.D. Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioners and Ms. Monika Arya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State.

3. The first petitioner, Dhananjay Mishra and the second petitioner, Ramesh Chandra Rai, are the two petitioners, who have instituted this writ petition. The facts of their cases are different and this Court would, therefore, venture to set them out separately, at least so far as these are different.

Facts relating the first petitioner Dhananjay Mishra's case

4. Dhananjay Mishra, petitioner No.1, was initially appointed a Junior Clerk on 12.02.1980 with a Soil Conservation Project in District Gorakhpur, called the Gandak Project. He was transferred and posted to District Deoria under the same project. By an order dated 31.10.1988 passed by the Deputy Director, Gandak Project, Padrauna, District Deoria, the first petitioner was confirmed as a Senior Clerk w.e.f. 01.12.1982. It is the first petitioner's case that while confirming him in service, there was a mention in the letter of confirmation to the effect that from the date of confirmation, the employee will be entitled to pension in accordance with Civil Service Regulations, and service rendered prior to confirmation, would be included for the purpose of reckoning the qualifying service.

5. The Gandak Project in the State was abolished and employees thereof, who were surplus, were required to be absorbed in Government Departments, putting certain conditions to it. These conditions inter alia were that the benefit of absorption would be available to employees appointed prior to 01.10.1986, and further, about the applicability of rules relating to government servants with regard to general provident fund, leave encashment, pension etc., with effect from the date of appointment of an employee absorbed, in a particular Government Department. This arrangement was made vide Government dated 26.04.1991. The Government Order dated 26.04.1991 made provision for the absorption of surplus employees of the abolished Gandak Project, in various Departments of the Government. However, according to the first petitioner, for reasons best known to the respondents, he was absorbed not in any Government Department, but in the District Rural Development Agency (for short, 'DRDA') by the Chief Development Officer/ Executive Director, DRDA, Mau vide order dated 05.05.1990. About the DRDA, it is said by Mishra that they were a registered society, registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860. It was an Establishment of the Government. The Chief Development Officer of the District was its Executive Director at the District Headquarters. This Establishment was set up to implement the Rural Development Programme of the Government. The DRDA was a society, as already said, but completely under the control of the State Government. There were no rules framed governing service conditions of employees of the DRDA. Therefore, a circular dated 17.03.1994 was issued by the Government, mentioning therein that the service conditions of employees, not provided in the circular, would be governed by such rules, regulations and orders, as apply ordinarily to serving government servants.

6. It is the first petitioner's case that though a surplus employee of the Gandak Project, he was not absorbed in a Government Department, but in the DRDA. Deduction towards GPF and Group Insurance was not being made from his salary and that of other employees as well. Therefore, the first petitioner and similarly circumstanced employees, raised their grievance before the Joint Development Commissioner, Gorakhpur, who forwarded their claim with regard to deposit of contribution/ deduction from their salary towards G.P.F. and Group Insurance vide his memo dated 11.01.1991 to the Additional District Magistrate (Projects), Siddharth Nagar. The first petitioner admittedly retired from service on 28.02.2017 upon attaining the age of superannuation. His notice of retirement dated 25.01.2017 shows that he retired as an employee of the DRDA. He was never absorbed in service of any Department of the Government.

7. The first petitioner earlier moved this Court vide Writ-A No.20234 of 2019, seeking grant of pension and leave encashment, referring to orders in this behalf passed by the respondents. In the counter affidavit filed to the aforesaid writ petition, the Commissioner, Rural Development, Lucknow filed a copy of the order dated 28.02.2020, by which the first petitioner's claim for pension and leave encashment was rejected by the Commissioner, Rural Development. He then moved an application in the aforesaid writ petition for withdrawal with liberty to file a fresh petition. The first petitioner, after withdrawing the said writ petition vide order dated 31.07.2023 with liberty, instituted the present writ petition along with the second petitioner.

Facts relating to the second petitioner, Ramesh Chandra Rai

8. The second petitioner, Ramesh Chandra Rai, was initially appointed as a Junior Clerk under the Gandak Project in the office of the Assistant Soil Conservation Officer, Gorakhpur in the pay scale of Rs.200-5-250. Upon completion of satisfactory service, Rai was confirmed/ regularized on the said post by the Assistant Soil Conservation Officer, Gandak Project, Gorakhpur on 30.09.1982. With ten years' satisfactory service complete, Rai was extended the benefit of selection grade by the Soil Conservation Officer, Gandak Project, Sishwa Bazar, Maharajganj on 20.03.1990. When the Gandak Project was abolished and the employees declared surplus, a list was drawn up for absorption in other Departments of the Government in terms of the Government Order dated 06.02.1990. The Joint Development Commissioner, Gorakhpur issued subsequent orders in compliance with the order dated 06.02.1990 on 02.04.1990, asking the District Magistrate of the district concerned to absorb surplus employees of Gandak Project on equivalent posts in the Districts of Mau, Maharajganj and Siddharth Nagar. Some of the surplus employees of the Gandak Project were absorbed in the office of the District Development Officer, Maharajganj, the DRDA, Maharajganj, the District Development Officer, Mau, the DRDA, Mau and the District Development Officer, Siddharth Nagar, where as per orders issued by the Government, the absorption had to be made in a Government Department.

9. It is pointed out that some of the surplus employees of the abolished project, like Gomtilal Srivastava, Ram Adhar and Ram Awadh Verma, who were absorbed in the DRDA, Maharajganj, were again absorbed in a Government Department, to wit, the District Development Office, Maharajganj, whereas the second petitioner, who was absorbed in the DRDA, Mau and posted as a Junior Accounts Clerk on a vacant post in the National Rural Employment Programme, sanctioned by the Government, is still continuing with the DRDA, Mau, instead of being absorbed in a Government Department, for which he is entitled under the law after merger of the DRDA with the Department of the Rural Development, Government of Uttar Pradesh.

10. It is the second petitioner's case that under the Government Order dated 26.04.1991, employees of the Gandak Project, after absorption, would be entitled to benefits of GPF, leave encashment, pension etc., as admissible to government servants from the date of absorption. The Commissioner, Rural Development, Lucknow, however, issued an order dated 01.02.2002 with regard to the payment of leave encashment to employees of the DRDA, though it was said that they were not entitled to pension and gratuity, like other government servants.

11. The second petitioner after joining the DRDA, Mau on 01.06.1990 was posted as the Junior Accounts Clerk in the National Rural Employment Programme of the Government, where he held the post of an Accounts Clerk. It is asserted that there he was a government servant as clarified on 08.11.1993, by whom the second petitioner himself has not clarified. Subsequently, he was sent back to the DRDA, Mau. After merger of the DRDA with the Department of Rural Development, on a representation made by the second petitioner, as also the first petitioner, to treat them as government servant with effect from the date of absorption from 05.05.1990, it was forwarded by the Project Director to the Commissioner, Rural Development, Lucknow on 24.09.2016. Acting on the said recommendation, the Commissioner, Rural Development called for a detailed report with regard to the services of both the petitioners on 11.11.2016. Accordingly, the Chief Development Officer submitted a detailed report to the Commissioner, Rural Development on 18.11.2016, giving the details about the relevant Government Orders with regard to continuity of service as a government servant. After the report submitted to the Commissioner, Rural Development, a clarification was sought about the deduction of GPF and Group Insurance from the Joint Development Commissioner, Gorakhpur. The Joint Development Commissioner, Gorakhpur submitted a detailed report dated 31.05.2017 along with relevant Government Orders on the second petitioner's claim with regard to consideration of his services as that of a government servant from the date of joining. After necessary instructions, the Commissioner, Rural Development forwarded the claim of the second petitioner to the Government on 10.08.2017 to the effect that in view of the relevant Government Orders, surplus employees of the Gandak Project were required to be absorbed in a Government Department with all benefits available to government servants. The Government, in response to the recommendations made by the Commissioner, Rural Development, issued a direction to the Commissioner, Rural Development to the effect that the claim relates to a Class-III employee, for which the Commissioner, Rural Development is competent to decide. He ought to decide the second petitioner's claim and in case of necessity, advice from the Government may be sought. The said communication from the Government is one dated 26.09.2017, addressed to the Commissioner, Rural Development, to determine the second petitioner's claim with regard to continuity and benefit of government service from the date of absorption i.e. 05.05.1990.

12. The second petitioner's case is that after merger, the Commissioner, Rural Development, again sent a letter to the Joint Secretary, Rural Development, giving details about absorption of employees and relevant Government Orders along with letters for absorption issued with regard to other employees, who were absorbed by a common order, along with petitioner No.2 in the DRDA, Maharajganj. He sought directions from the Government in the matter.

13. It is the second petitioner's further case that ignoring recommendations made to the Commissioner, Rural Development by the Chief Development Officer, DRDA, Mau, as also the report of the Joint Development Commissioner, Gorakhpur dated 31.05.2017, the Secretary, Rural Development illegally declined the second petitioner's claim by an order dated 16.06.2020. The second petitioner challenged the order dated 16.06.2020 by means of Writ-A No.733 of 2021 before this Court. Pending the aforesaid writ petition, the second petitioner too retired on 31.01.2022. He says that the pensionary benefits claimed by the petitioners have been declined by the order impugned dated 28.02.2020 on irrelevant considerations, ignoring the orders issued by the Government with regard to absorption in a Government Department for employees of the petitioners' class and the recommendations made in this regard.

Facts common to the petitioners

14. The State Government took a decision to merge the DRDA with the Department of Rural Development, and, accordingly, issued a Government Order dated 18.07.2016. After merger, the new pension scheme was made applicable to employees of the Department, including those, who were absorbed in service of the DRDA, ignoring their past services. It is the petitioners' case that the order of merger provides that the new pension scheme would be applicable to employees directly appointed to the DRDA. Therefore, the Government Order dated 18.07.2016 would not cover the petitioners' case in terms of the conditions mentioned there. The petitioners say that the Government Order dated 26.04.1991 has not been superseded or modified, and, therefore, in terms of the Government Order dated 26.04.1991 read with the Government Order for merger dated 18.07.2016, the benefit of GPF, leave encashment, pension etc., available to a government servant would have to be extended to every surplus employee of the Gandak Project. According to the petitioners, the order to merge the DRDA into the Department of Rural Development would entitle them to the benefit admissible to a government servant, once merged in the Department. The petitioners have to be treated to be employees of the Government in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation, Patiala and another v. S.K. Sharma and others, (2016) 9 SCC 206.

15. It is the petitioners' case that, according to the Government Order dated 06.02.1990, surplus employees of the Gandak Project were required to be absorbed in Government Departments by the order dated 02.04.1990, including the petitioners, Ram Awadh Verma and Gomtilal Srivastava, besides Udai Prakash Srivastava and others, all of whom were also entitled to be absorbed in a Government Department. Ram Awadh Verma and Gomtilal Srivastava who were absorbed in the DRDA, were subsequently posted in the District Development Office, Maharajganj, a Government Department, and are being paid all benefits due to a government servant. At the same time, the petitioners' claim is not being considered, though they hold parity with these men, without any distinguishing features. It is also the petitioners' case that the fact being brought to the notice of the Commissioner, Rural Development, he sought information in regard to the other similarly circumstanced persons from the Chief Development Officer, Maharajganj on 02.11.2017. His inquiry was about the status of Ram Awadh Verma and Gomtilal Srivastava, who were subsequently posted in a Government Department. The Chief Development Officer, Maharajganj submitted a report on 09.11.2017 providing a copy of the order dated 22.01.1994, by which the two men last mentioned were absorbed in government service, that is to say, the Department of Rural Development. Therefore, it is the petitioners' case that in the face of this report, being available to the Commissioner, Rural Development with regard to absorption of similarly situate employees as the petitioners in the DRDA and their re-settlement by a fresh order and absorption in a Government Department, he chose to ignore the same and rejected the petitioner's case by the impugned order.

16. The petitioners' case is that apart from all others like them, who were entitled to absorption in a Government Department vide order dated 22.01.1994, but absorbed with the DRDA, were soon absorbed in a Government Department, rectifying the mistake committed by the respondents. The petitioners have, therefore, been discriminated against. It is also the petitioners' case that they have been paid GPF and Group Insurance, which is not admissible to employees of the DRDA, as employees of the said Agency are paid CPF etc. The benefit of GPF and Group Insurance is admissible to government servants alone, as the petitioners say. The petitioners blame it on the respondents about first absorbing them in the DRDA and then taking them to have become part of the Department of Rural Development, upon merger of the DRDA, not entitled to post retiral benefits, owing to length of their service, whereas similarly circumstanced employees, upon being retrenched from the Gandak Project, were quickly rectified about the mistake of posting them with the DRDA and were instead absorbed in a Government Department. The petitioners claim hostile discrimination on this ground.

17. This petition was heard on the basis of a personal affidavit filed by the Secretary to the Rural Development, to which a rejoinder has been filed.

18. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, where both the petitioners have retired from service, the first petitioner much before this petition was filed, what we find is that the petitioners have been absorbed in service of the Government in the Department of Rural Development, pursuant to the Government Order dated 18.07.2016. The Government Order dated 18.07.2016 reads:

19. A perusal of the said Government Order shows, no doubt, that it applies to direct recruits to the DRDA, allowed absorption in government service in the Department of Rural Development, subject to the conditions mentioned in the said Government Order. It does appear to be a case where the petitioners would not be governed by the terms of the said order, because they are not direct recruits to the DRDA. They are employees, who were absorbed in the DRDA upon abolition of the Gandak Project, as retrenched employees. Strictly speaking, therefore, it is not just that the Government Order dated 18.07.2016 would not govern the petitioners, but they would not be eligible under it to be absorbed in government service. Nevertheless, for whatever reason they were absorbed under the said order in the Department of Rural Development, the Government Order dated 18.07.2016 does not introduce an arrangement of compulsion. It gives employees of the DRDA the election to accept absorption into government service in the Department of Rural Development, subject to conditions mentioned in the Government Order. One of the conditions is that the employees absorbed into the DRDA, who elect to join the Department of Rural Development, would be treated upon absorption as a dying cadre and governed by the New Pension Scheme, 2005. They would not be entitled to any benefit from retrospective date before their absorption, which implies the benefit of terms of service earlier rendered by them under the DRDA, including the benefit of GPF, Pension etc.

20. It is clearly stipulated in the Government Order under reference that if it is not acceptable to any employee of the DRDA to join on the terms mentioned in the Government Order of 18.07.2016, it is open to him to continue with the society, that is to say, the DRDA. It is true that in terms of the Government Order, the petitioners were not eligible to be absorbed in the Department of Rural Development, as already said, but when offered, they elected to accept it. They joined government service and whatever was the remainder of their tenure, they served and retired. The first petitioner retired very shortly into service in the Department of the Rural Development and the second petitioner continued up to the year 2022. Once the petitioners accepted absorption subject to terms carried in the Government Order dated 18.07.2016 with open eyes and rendered service in the Department of Rural Development, drawing salary and then retired, it is now not open to them to say that the terms of the Government Order dated 18.07.2016, particularly the condition about being governed by the New Pension Scheme would not apply to them.

21. It is true that the petitioners had rights quite independent of the of the Government Order dated 18.07.2016 and they have raised a plea of discrimination in the petition, where similarly situate employees of the Gandak Project were mistakenly placed with the DRDA and then quickly absorbed into government service. If the petitioners had to enforce their right to be absorbed in government service, upon dissolution of the Gandak Project, directly and not being placed with the DRDA, a Government run Society, they had to raise that claim early in the year 1990 in terms of the Government Order dated 02.04.1990, or for that matter, the order dated 26.04.1991.

22. The petitioners acquiesced to their absorption in the DRDA despite the fact that similarly situate persons were quickly moved away and absorbed in Government Departments. Now, being treated, whether rightly or mistakenly, as directly appointed employees of the DRDA, when absorbed in government service much later in the day in terms of the Government Order dated 18.07.2016, which again the petitioners, as already said, accepted with open eyes, they cannot be allowed to turn around and fall back upon their original rights as retrenched employees of the Gandak Project, entitled to absorption in a Government Department directly; not as directly appointed employees of the DRDA. By doing that, the petitioners cannot be permitted to approbate and reprobate.

23. The Court is in respectful agreement with the views expressed in Zila Gram Vikas Abhikaran Seva Nivrat Karamchari Kalyan Samiti through its Secretary and another v. State of U.P. and others, 2023:AHC-LKO:35044.

24. In the circumstances, this Court is not inclined to interfere with the impugned order.

25. This petition fails and is dismissed.

26. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Service Law – Pension – Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme – Petitioner worked as temporary peon from 1989 till the date of termination in 1994 – After Labour Court's order of reinSt.ment dated 14.06.2005 in favour of petitioner and during pendency of writ petition arising out of reinSt.ment, the tripartite settlement was implemented and after when writ petition was not pressed, the petitioner was absorbed in service on 09.10.2012 under the tripartite settlement and confirmed on 13.04.2013 – Appointment letter dated 09.10.2012 provide the term of post retiral benefit – Effect – Pension under Old Pension Scheme claimed – Entitlement – Held, the petitioner accepted his post retiral benefits in terms these were offered, particularly funds under the Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme is beyond cavil – High Court declined to interfere holding that the acceptance of the terms of the appointment letter by the petitioner placed him under the regime of the Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme. (Para 19, 25 and 26)

B. Constitutional Law – Fundamental right – Right of pension – Waiver of right – Not taking steps for enforcement of right within reasonable time – Effect – Held, while fundamental rights, it is true, cannot be waived, it is not the law that the principle of laches do not operate to defeat at least some of them. A plea of discrimination or arbitrariness has to be raised and enforced within a reasonable time. An unreasonable delay would certainly bring in laches. (Para 19)

1. This writ petition has been instituted by the petitioner, a retired Peon of the Bank of Baroda, praying that a mandamus be issued, ordering the respondents to consider the petitioner covered by the Old Pension Scheme and sanction him pension forthwith w.e.f. 01.08.2023. A further direction is sought to the effect that the respondents pay the petitioner regular monthly pension as also arrears worked out with effect from 01.08.2023, along with interest at such rate as this Court may determine, until realization. The petitioner prays that a further direction be issued, ordering the respondents not to treat the petitioner covered by the newly defined Contributory Pension Scheme, which is applicable to the persons appointed subsequent to 01.04.2010.

2. The petitioner's case is that he was a temporary Peon employed with the Govindganj Branch of the Bank of Baroda in District Shahjahanpur, falling under the Bank's Shahjahanpur Region. This was the petitioner's status with the Bank in the month of November, 1989. He continued to function in the capacity of a temporary Peon till 19.11.1994, when his services were terminated. He raised an industrial dispute, when conciliation proceedings failed. The Central Government, by an order dated 07.01.1997, referred the dispute between the petitioner and his employer to the Central Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court-II, Delhi. The reference was in terms if the action of the Management in terminating the petitioner's services w.e.f. 19.11.1994 was just and legal, and if not, what relief the petitioner was entitled to. The reference was registered on the file of the Central Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court-II, New Delhi as Case No.08 of 1997. The Presiding Officer, Central Government Industrial Tribunal-cum- Labour Court-II, New Delhi made an award dated 14.06.2005, answering the reference in the petitioner's favour and holding termination of his services illegal. A direction was issued to reinstate the petitioner in service with 50% back wages w.e.f. 19.11.1994.

3. The validity of the award dated 14.06.2005 was challenged by the respondent, Bank of Baroda by instituting Writ-C No. 73449 of 2005 before this Court. In the aforesaid writ petition, an interim stay order was granted on 01.12.2005 in terms that the award was stayed subject to the condition that the Bank would reinstate the petitioner within one month and ensure payment of wages at par with his counterparts. In compliance with the aforesaid interim order, the petitioner was reinstated in service subject to the outcome of Writ-C No. 73449 of 2005. The petitioner continued to function in terms of the said interim order. As the petitioner says, a Memorandum of Settlement was arrived at between the Management of the Bank of Baroda and its Workmen on 18.03.2008 before the Deputy Chief Labour Commissioner (Central), Mumbai with regard to absorption of Causal/ Temporary Peons/ Sweepers. The settlement that was arrived at was circulated by the General Manager (Human Resource & Marketing), along with a circular letter dated 24.03.2008. The Memorandum of Settlement under the tripartite settlement dated 18.03.2008 conferred right to absorption upon Casual/ Temporary Peon/ Sweepers in accordance with the stipulation carried in the settlement. The absorption that was agreed upon under the tripartite settlement was to be implemented in a phased manner.

4. The first phase comprised such Causal/ Temporary Peons/ Sweepers, who had worked between 01.01.1982 and 31.12.1989 or between 01.01.1990 and 31.12.1990 for 90 days or more and were still working. Absorption for this category of workmen was to be completed on or before 30.06.2008. The second phase of the absorption, that was contemplated, related to Causal/Temporary Peons/ Sweepers, who had worked for 240 days or more over a period of 12 months consecutively between 01.01.1991 and 29.02.1996 and were still working. These absorptions were to be implemented during the financial year 2008-09. The third category of employees, who were to be absorbed in terms of the settlement, comprised Causal/ Temporary Peons/ Sweepers, who had worked for 240 days or more over a period of 12 months consecutively between 01.03.1996 and 28.07.2007 and were still working. This class of employees were to be absorbed during the financial year 2009-10.

5. It is the petitioner's case that in terms of a Memorandum of Settlement, the entire exercise for absorption had to be completed on or before 31.03.2010; not later. It is also the petitioner's case that even though the petitioner was covered by the said settlement, no order of absorption was passed immediately with regard to the petitioner on account of pendency of the writ petition before this Court. The writ petition that the Bank had filed against the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court's award continued to remain pending and dismissed as not pressed on 17.08.2012.

6. What the petitioner says is that after the writ petition was not pressed, an order dated 09.10.2012 was issued by the respondent Bank, absorbing the petitioner in service as a Peon. He was placed initially on probation for a period of six months. The petitioner has said that the order dated 09.10.2012 refers to an undertaking dated 21.12.2011, “obtained” in pursuance to the communication of the respondent Bank dated 24.10.2011, but a copy of the undertaking was not immediately available with the petitioner. By a subsequent order dated 13.04.2013, the petitioner was confirmed in service. The petitioner discharged his duties with the respondent Bank until attaining the age of superannuation. He retired from service on 31.07.2023. It is the petitioner's case that despite retirement, he was not sanctioned any pension, though he is entitled to it under the Bank of Baroda (Employees) Pension Regulations, 1995. Under the bipartite Settlement dated 27.04.2010 entered into between the Banking Association and the Employees' Organization, the newly defined Contributory Pension Scheme was introduced in the Banks with regard to employees joining service of the Bank on or before 01.04.2010. The newly defined Contributory Pension Scheme was identical to the Contributory Pension Scheme, introduced by the Central Government, with regard to their employees, effective from 01.01.2004.

7. The petitioner says that according to the respondent Bank and their officials, the petitioner is not governed by the Old Pension Scheme, his date of absorption being subsequent to 01.04.2010; he is governed by the newly defined Contributory Pension Scheme. It is on this account that the petitioner has not been sanctioned pension. The petitioner says that this action is discriminatory and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. He is not a new appointee and the entitlement of the petitioner for absorption in regular service has come into effect much prior to 01.04.2010, specifically on 16.03.2008, the date on which the settlement for absorption stood notified. The delay that the respondents did in implementing the settlement, cannot place the petitioner on the wrong side of the cut-off date.

8. A notice of motion was issued on 12.09.2023, after which parties exchanged affidavits. This petition was admitted to hearing on 09.11.2023, which proceeded forthwith. It was adjourned for further hearing to 24.11.2023. On 24.11.2023, hearing concluded and judgment reserved.

9. Heard Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Mohd. Yaseen, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Ashok Kumar Lal, learned Counsel appearing for respondent Nos. 2 to 6. No one appears on behalf of respondent No.1, the Union of India.

10. In the counter affidavit put in on behalf of the Bank, represented by respondent Nos.2 to 6, the facts regarding the industrial dispute are admitted as also the Bank approaching this Court against the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court's award. The petitioner's reinstatement also is not denied and those facts are not very relevant either. What is relevant is the respondents' case that a settlement was arrived at between the Bank of Baroda and its workmen on 18.03.2008, the tripartite settlement. In terms of this settlement, the petitioner's case was not considered for regularization, but left over because the writ petition was pending. Therefore, the petitioner approached the Bank that his case may be considered in terms of the settlement instead of the award impugned by the Bank. The Deputy General Manager (HRM & ADMN) vide letter dated 24.10.2011, addressed to the General Manager, Bank of Baroda, U.P. and Uttarakhand Zone, Lucknow issued guidance with regard to the petitioner's absorption. It is carried in a letter dated 24.10.2011, a copy of which is annexed as Annexure No. CA-1. The letter aforesaid, in its material part, carries the following directions relating to the petitioner:

"In respect of Mr. Lal Bahadur following action may be taken:

1. workman will agree and undertake in writing not to claim any back wages or other past benefits;

2. his absorption shall be with prospective date after completion of the prescribed formalities;

3. he shall not raise any dispute/ claim/ litigation against the Bank pertaining to this matter in future;

4. Thereafter, a joint consent application shall be filed before the High Court of Allahabad, not to pursue the case further."

11. Acting on the said letter, an affidavit dared 21.12.2011 was filed by the petitioner before the Deputy General Manager, Bank of Baroda, Regional Office Haldwani. The affidavit dated 21.12.2011, that was filed, reads:

12. It is also pleaded that the petitioner accepted the Contributory Provident Fund Scheme, as he has opted for all his retirement benefits in terms, details of which are mentioned in paragraph No.20 of the counter affidavit. It is also pleaded that the appointment order issued to the petitioner on 09.10.2012 specifically stipulates, amongst terms and conditions, that these, if acceptable, the petitioner may signify his acceptance in writing. The petitioner accepted the stipulation in the appointment order, which shows that in accordance with Clause 3 of the tripartite settlement dated 18.03.2008, the Bank was appointing him as a Peon in the Subordinate Staff Cadre on the stage of basic pay of Rs.5850/- per month, besides dearness allowance. It is pleaded that this appointment was accepted without demur by the petitioner, who served until his superannuation. The letter of appointment carries a stipulation that the petitioner would be eligible for Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme, as pleaded in paragraph No.26 of the counter affidavit. It is also averred that the petitioner accepted all terms and conditions, after which the Bank withdrew the pending writ petition relating to the old industrial dispute in terms of a joint application moved by both parties.

13. In the rejoinder affidavit, it has been emphasized that what cannot be lost sight of is the fact that the petitioner and every employee, who was to be regularized in terms of the tripartite settlement in all its three phases, had to be done on or before 31.03.2010. The petitioner, therefore, had a right to be regularized before the said date and not discriminated against. It is also submitted that by accepting the letter of appointment, the petitioner cannot be deemed to have waived his right to receive pension under the Old Pension Scheme, to which he is otherwise entitled. It is pleaded that the right to receive pension is a fundamental right and there can be no waiver of a fundamental right.

14. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties and going through the records, though it does appear that the petitioner might have been overwhelmed into accepting the terms and conditions dictated by the Bank, but the fact remains that he has elected voluntarily to accept the position evidenced by a series of transactions. He was serving the Bank as a Peon, retained dehors the rules, in terms of the award passed by the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, New Delhi and the interim orders of this Court made in the writ petition. No doubt, he was entitled to enforce the terms of the tripartite settlement and claim regularization with reference to a date that could not have gone beyond 31.03.2010. But, he never did enforce his claim to that effect. We also think that there was no justification for the respondents not to consider the petitioner's claim for regularization under the tripartite settlement on ground that arising out of an award of the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, relating to termination of his temporary service, a writ petition was pending before this Court.

15. The pendency of a writ petition arising out of a different set of facts and cause of action between parties would, in no way, permit the Bank to act in a step-motherly fashion and discriminate against the petitioner in the matter of regularization, in terms of the tripartite settlement. If the respondents did not do that, it was the petitioner's obligation to seek enforcement of his rights in some manner. He had to seek enforcement of his rights under the tripartite settlement, and not sit back in lethargy or inaction until past 31.03.2010. Thereafter too, what the petitioner seems to have done is that he accepted an illegal fiat from the Deputy General Manager (HRM & ADMN) of the Bank of Baroda, who dictated conditions, on the basis of which he could be regularized, in his memo dated 24.10.2011 addressed to the General Manager, Bank of Baroda, U.P. and Uttarakhand Zone.

16. We have no hesitation in observing that the Deputy General Manager was highhanded in his approach in dictating terms to the petitioner carried in his letter dated 24.10.2011. In fact, he had no business to impose any terms at all. He had simply to carry out what was agreed between parties in terms of the tripartite settlement and within the scheduled time. The reference in the letter dated 24.10.2011, issued by the Deputy General Manager (HRM & ADMN), Bank of Baroda, imposing conditions upon the petitioner for his regularization in terms of the tripartite settlement on ground of pendency of a writ petition before this Court, is a very undesirable conduct. The culture of looking down and frowning upon litigation, amongst establishments of the State or Private Corporates, is something which does not augur well for the society. After all, litigation is constitutional and legal means for an employee to seek redressal of his grievances against his employer. An employer, who frowns upon an employee litigating, may, in fact, be committing criminal contempt.

17. All this apart, however, the petitioner's inaction in promptly enforcing his rights, that we have noticed, cannot be ignored. Much contrary to it, it was followed by the positive act of furnishing an affidavit to the Bank dated 21.12.2011, acceding to all terms that they imposed. A careful perusal of the terms indicated in the letter dated 24.10.2011 issued by the Deputy General Manager (HRM & ADMN) and the affidavit would show that the terms there are not very faithfully incorporated in the affidavit. But, that does not matter. What matters is the appointment letter dated 09.10.2012, which the petitioner accepted without demur. The letter of appointment dated 09.10.2012 grants the petitioner fresh appointment as a Peon in the Subordinate Staff Cadre on the basic pay, placing him on probation for a period of six months. It carries in bold letters the terms of post retiral benefits, to which the petitioner would be entitled upon retirement. These read:

"Apart from the gratuity, provident fund permissible as per the rules of the Bank as may be amended from time to time, you will be eligible for Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme."

18. The petitioner accepted these conditions with open eyes and joined service in terms of the letter of appointment dated 09.10.2012. He completed his probation and all his service with the Bank from 09.10.2012, in terms of the said letter of appointment, until 31.07.2023. Till the petitioner superannuated, no grievance was ever raised by him during all this period of time about the unfair treatment given to him by the Bank, in not regularizing his services in terms of the tripartite settlement before 31.03.2010. The petitioner also did not protest, as already said, the terms of his post retiral benefits stipulated in the letter of appointment. In the counter affidavit, the respondents have taken a stand in paragraph No.20, which shows how the petitioner accepted his post retiral benefits immediately upon his retirement on 31.07.2023. Paragraph No.20 of the counter affidavit reads:

"20. That, the contents of paragraph No. 26 of the writ petition are not correct as stated hence denied. It is respectfully submitted that petitioner was retired on 31.07.2023 and was paid his gratuity amount of Rs. 3,29,945/- and was also paid his leave encashment amount amounting to Rs. 2,45,319/- on 01.08.2023 and further on his request 60% of the NPS amount was credited to his account no. 22370100012912 amounting to Rs.4,70,177.39 on 14.08.2023. It is respectfully submitted petitioner has opted Pension Fund Manager-SBI Life Insurance Company Ltd., for the annuity of his rest 40% Corpus amount for which the documentation process his (sic) carried out by the PFM and the same will be released shortly."

19. The fact that the petitioner accepted his post retiral benefits in terms these were offered, particularly funds under the Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme is beyond cavil. Decisions consistent with that Contributory Pension Scheme were taken by accepting 60% of the funds on 14.08.2023 and for the balance 40%, investment in the Pension Fund Manager-SBI Life Insurance Company Ltd. for an annuity was accepted. These actions show active acceptance on the petitioner's part of the Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme. After having retired and done all this, the petitioner presented this writ petition, claiming to agitate his rights under the tripartite settlement, entitling him to regularization from an earlier point of time, which if done, would entitle the petitioner to the Old Pension Scheme. The Old Pension Scheme is one mode of post retiral benefits, may be more advantageous to the employee, and the other is the Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme, that has been enforced in the Bank w.e.f. 01.04.2010. The Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme has its own kind of model, which does not wipe out retirement funds altogether. Therefore, if an employee, under whatever circumstances, has acted in the manner the petitioner has done, it cannot be said that he has waived his fundamental right to receive pension. It is only that, that he has elected one of the alternative courses. At the same time, while fundamental rights, it is true, cannot be waived, it is not the law that the principle of laches do not operate to defeat at least some of them. A plea of discrimination or arbitrariness has to be raised and enforced within a reasonable time. An unreasonable delay would certainly bring in laches. That is also the case here. The time for the petitioner to have enforced his rights, we have already spoken of elaborately. It was all open to the petitioner after the tripartite settlement was notified, but he never acted in time. Instead, he has chosen to bring this petition, highly belated, after his retirement.

20. The very ingenious submission advanced on behalf of the petitioner that he came to know about what were the terms of his post retiral benefits when he actually retired, cannot be accepted, considering the bold terms and conditions about it mentioned in his letter of appointment. The assertion in paragraph No.23 of the writ petition that the undertaking dated 21.12.2011, referred to in the appointment letter dated 09.10.2012 pursuant to the communication of the respondent Bank dated 24.10.2011, is not immediately available with the petitioner, is really a camouflage for truth, which the petitioner knew all along. He knew what undertaking he had furnished to the Bank in order to secure the letter of appointment dated 09.10.2012. Reliance has been placed on behalf of the petitioner upon the decision of this Court in Bageshwari Prasad Srivastava and others v. State of U.P. and others, 2022:AHC:167978, which too was a case of denial of benefit under the Old Pension Scheme, because the appointment was made after the cut-off date, which was 01.04.2005 in that case. In Bageshwari Prasad Srivastava (supra), it was held:

"The above ground cited by the State is nothing but a pretense, in the facts of the present case. While there can be no dispute to the reason, if on true appraisal of facts it were to be concluded that the petitioners were born in the cadre on or after 01.4.2005. Here, upon direction issued by the writ Court on 29.4.1999 in Writ Petition No. 17195 of 1995 a right accrued to the petitioners to be absorbed on Class-III and Class-IV posts. Though, challenge was raised to that order by first filing Special Appeal and then by carrying the matter to the Supreme Court in Special Leave Petition, it is not the case of the State respondents that any stay order was passed in their favour at any stage, in any proceeding. Even then it cannot be denied that the Special Leave Petition came to be dismissed on 18.3.2002 well before the cut off date i.e. 31.3.2005. The State respondents did not act in accordance with law and did not comply with the direction to absorb the petitioners. They allowed almost three years to pass before the appointment letters came to be issued under threat of contempt proceedings. It is also not the case of the State respondent that there was any defect in the claim made by the petitioners or there were some delay caused by the conduct of the petitioners as may deprive them to any relief, now claimed.

Once the State respondents are found to have delayed the proceedings, in entirety, they cannot be permitted to wriggle out of the consequence of delay. In fact, sufficient discretion has already been exercised in favour of the State respondents inasmuch as upon showing compliance by issuance of appointment letters to the petitioners, the contempt proceedings appear to have been dropped, at that stage.

In view of the above, in the peculiar facts of the present case, it is found the right to be absorbed arose to the petitioners not on 09.4.2005 when the appointment letters came to be issued but on 29.4.1999 when the writ Court issued a positive direction in that regard. In any case, that right got vested on 18.3.2002 when the Special Leave Petition filed by the State against the decision of the Intra Court Appeal No. 540 of 1999 (dated 19.11.2001) came to be dismissed. Three years was much more than the time actually required to give effect to the order of the Supreme Court. Accordingly, the petitioners must be treated to have been absorbed, notionally on 18.3.2002. Hence, they are entitled to pension under Old Pension Scheme."

21. On appeal, the decision in Bageshwari Prasad Srivastava was upheld by the Division Bench in State of U.P. and others v. Late Bageshwari Prasad Srivastava and others, 2023:AHC:69329-DB in terms of the following remarks:

"No doubt, the appointment letter of the petitioners is dated 9.04.2005 and they joined in pursuance thereof on or before 20.04.2005, but it is an admitted fact on record that the direction of the Writ Court for absorption of the respondents against Class III and IV posts was issued on 29.04.1999. The special appeal filed by the State Government was dismissed on 29.11.2001 followed by dismissal of the SLP on 18.03.2002. The State Government had no justifiable reason with it to withhold the absorption and issuance of appointment letters to the respondents. The respondents were compelled to initiate contempt proceedings against the State and whereafter, appointment letters were issued to them on 9.04.2005. In the aforesaid background, the learned Single Judge has rightly held that the stand taken by the State for denying the benefit of old pension scheme to the respondents did not merit acceptance as valuable right to being appointed accrued in their favour atleast after dismissal of the SLP. The learned Single Judge has rightly directed the State to treat the respondents to have been absorbed in service notionally on 18.03.2002, the date on which the issue relating to their absorption in Government Service was finally settled by the Supreme Court."

22. So far as the principle in Bageshwari Prasad Srivastava is concerned, it is evidently very different. That was a case where pursuant to the mandamus issued by a learned Judge of this Court on 29.04.1999, the right to be absorbed in favour of the petitioners on Class-III and IV posts stood crystallized on 29.04.1999. It was the respondents themselves, who, by invoking appellate procedures and without the benefit of a stay order had postponed compliance with the mandamus issued by the learned Judge in the writ petition earlier filed by the petitioners relating to their right to be absorbed in service. They implemented the mandamus after losing up to the Supreme Court and upon facing contempt action. By that time, they pushed matters beyond the cut-off date, when the Old Pension Scheme went out of currency. It was on those facts that the Court held that the rights of the petitioners to pension could not be judged with reference to the right when they were actually appointed. They had to be traced back to an earlier point of time when the Old Pension Scheme was still in force.

23. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a decision of mine in Nirupama Malviya v. State of U.P. and others, 2023 (11) ADJ 524. That again was a case where the petitioner had been selected by the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board for a Lecturer's post in Economics and put in the panel of selected candidates, that was published and notified on 01.12.2004 by the Secretary to the Selection Board. She was allotted a college at Meerut, where she was not allowed to join. The petitioner made efforts with the District Inspector of Schools, Meerut, but was not successful. She was turned away. She sent an application again to the Secretary of the Selection Board on 27.01.2005, requesting that she may be allotted some institution in District Allahabad or Lucknow. It was at this stage that the State Government introduced the Contributory Pension Scheme on 28.03.2005 instead of Pension-cum-General Provident Fund Scheme. The Contributory Pension Scheme was introduced for new recruitments made after 01.04.2005, in terms of the Government Order dated 28.03.2005. The petitioner was then allotted the Janta Girls Inter College, Lucknow. She was not allowed to join there too. The reason assigned by the college at Lucknow was that there was a stay order passed by the Lucknow Bench of this Court in favour of the teacher, who was functioning on the post.

24. The District Inspector of Schools, Lucknow addressed a memo dated 20.10.2005 to the Secretary of the Selection Board, apprising him of the inability shown by the Janta Inter College, Lucknow to appoint the petitioner. The petitioner moved this Court by way of Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 74936 of 2005 for an appropriate direction to the Selection Board and the Authorities to ensure her placement. It was dismissed on account of lack of territorial jurisdiction. She then instituted a writ petition before the Lucknow Bench for enforcement of her rights. The Lucknow Bench, vide order 21.04.2006 passed in Writ Petition No.3371 (S/S) of 2006, directed the Secretary of the Selection Board to ensure an appointment for the petitioner in any other institution, within a month. It was in compliance with the said direction that the petitioner was issued an appointment letter dated 01.08.2006, appointing her with the Zila Panchayat Balika Inter College, Gyanpur, Bhadohi. She joined the college on 02.08.2006. It was in the background of all these facts that I held in Nirupama Malviya (supra):

"14. It is not the subject-matter of the controversy here, if the District Inspector of Schools was in error or the Board in carrying out the Board's allocation in favour of the petitioner, first made on 1.12.2004. The crux of the matter is that the petitioner's right stands crystallized, when the college was allocated by the Selection Board, and she reported to the concerned college, where it is presumed that the District Inspector of Schools would have issued necessary directions to the concerned college. The District Inspector of Schools did report back to the Board, which shows that he issued the necessary direction to appoint. If he did not, that too would be inaction on the part of the District Inspector of Schools.

15. Now, it would be a great travesty of justice if the petitioner is made to suffer either on account of the inaction or lethargy of the Selection Board, or the District Inspector of Schools or their callousness in selecting the appropriate institution to place the petitioner while allocating. If the institution, where the petitioner was first allocated, had not resisted her appointment or the District Inspector of Schools had enforced it, she would have joined well before the cut-off date under the Government Order dated 28th March, 2005, introducing a new pension scheme. The petitioner's rights cannot turn upon mere fortune dependent upon a chance of her date of joining being placed on the right side of the cut-off date. A crystallized right under the statute must move on surer ground about time when it comes into effect. It cannot be made dependent upon inaction or lethargy of Authorities about enforcement, or on the correctness of their choice to realize that right for the petitioner.

16. This Court is, therefore, of opinion that the petitioner would be entitled to trace her rights, as already said, either to the date when the allocation order was issued on 1.12.2004 or at any time before 25.1.2005, when the District Inspector of Schools, Meerut referred the matter to the Secretary of the Selection Board to allocate another college in same district or another district for the petitioner. The petitioner's right would, therefore, be traceable to a point of time, well before the cut-off date; not after it, when, in fact, she succeeded in securing an appointment letter from the allocated college after failing on two occasions, resisted by managements."

25. The learned Counsel for the petitioner also pressed in aid the decision of this Court in Mahesh Narayan and others v. State of U.P. and others, 2020 (4) ADJ 172, which I have relied upon in Nirupama Malviya, but that too was a case of inaction by the respondents that delayed the petitioner in securing appointment before the cut-off date came for enforcement of the Contributory Pension Scheme. It was not at all a case, like the present one, where there has not only been utter inaction on the petitioner's part to enforce his rights, but also positive acts of election, accepting the terms of the appointment letter, that placed the petitioner under the regime of the Defined Contributory Retirement Benefit Scheme.

26. In the considered opinion of this Court, no case for interference, therefore, is made out.

27. This writ petition fails and is dismissed.

28. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Service Law – U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1991 – Rules 20, 21, 23 & 24 – Appeal against punishment – Scope – Jurisdiction of appellate authority – Re-appreciation of evidence – Permissibility – Whether Pradeep Kumar Asthana's case hold good law – Held, the appellate authority has been given complete jurisdiction to re-appeciate the entire evidence available in the file of the disciplinary proceedings and thereafter to nullify, reduce, affirm and enhance the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority – Once the appellate authority has power to re-appreciate the entire evidence and entire evidence is available before it, it would not be in the fitness of things to remit the matter to disciplinary authority but it would be appropriate for the appellate authority to re-appreciate evidence available on record and after recording reasons to sustain the order passed by the disciplinary authority – Division Bench held the ratio laid down in Pradeep Kumar Asthana's case erroneous. (Para 18, 21 and 26)

B. Service Law – Disciplinary proceeding – Civil Procedure Code, 1908, extent of applicability – Held, the provisions made in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 are not stricto sensu applicable in the disciplinary matters of the police officers as they are governed by the provisions made in the Rules of 1991, but the texture of appellate jurisdiction and the scope of the appellate authority can easily be understood if the provisions made in the Rules of 1991 are seen in the light of the aforesaid provisions made in the Code of Civil Procedure – The scope of the appellate authority under the Rules of of 1991 is almost identical to that of the scope available with the appellate court in terms of Section 107 of the Code of Civil Procedure – The provisions made in the Rules of 1991 itself provide that the powers of the appellate authority and the powers of the disciplinary authority are co-extensive. (Para 25)

Division bench decided the issue framed by Single Judge and remitted the matter. (E-1)

1. Heard Sri Ishir Shripat, Advocate holding brief of Ms. Atipriya Gautam, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner along with Sri Laxmikant Trigunait and Sri Irfan Ahmad Malik, learned counsels appearing on behalf of the petitioner in the connected writ petitions, Sri Sushil Kumar Pal, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, Sri Pramod Kumar Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, Sri Ram Swaroop Umrao, learned Standing Counsel and Sri Girish Chand Tiwari, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State.

2. Petitioner through this writ petition has assailed the order dated 02.04.2022 passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh whereby punishment of 'censure' has been imposed against him. Petitioner through this writ petition has also challenged the order dated 07.07.2022 whereby appeal filed against punishment order dated 2.04.2022 has been rejected and further order dated 13.09.2022 whereby revision filed by the petitioner has been dismissed.

3. This writ petition was earlier heard by a learned Single Judge of this Court and the order dated 1.12.2022 has been passed whereby learned Single Judge expressed his respectful disagreement with the ratio of a judgement and order dated 03.01.2022 rendered by another learned Single Judge of this Court in Writ-A No. 18299 of 2021 (Pradeep Kumar Asthana Vs. State of U.P. and others) and thereby had framed the issue and requested Hon'ble The Chief Justice of this Court to constitute a larger Bench for deciding the said issue.

4. Learned Single Judge vide his order dated 1.12.2022 passed in Writ-A No. 18438 of 2022 had framed the following issue to be decided by the larger Bench:-

"Whether the power of the appellate authority under the U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 are confined to the powers of the judicial review or the appellate authority can exercise the original powers and take a decision which are in the domain of the disciplinary authority while exercising the appellate powers?"

5. Pursuant to the aforesaid order dated 1.12.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge, Hon'ble the Chief Justice of this Court has constituted this Division Bench for deciding the aforesaid issue framed by the learned Single Judge.

6. Brief facts culled out from the writ petition are that the petitioner while posted as Constable in the Traffic Police at District Aligarh in the year 2021 was prima facie found to have committed misconduct therefore, preliminary inquiry was conducted in the matter and thereafter disciplinary authority i.e. the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh issued a show-cause notice under Rule 14(2) of the U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as 'Rules of 1991') whereby petitioner was required to submit his reply explaining therein as to why minor punishment of 'censure' as provided under Rule 4 of the Rules of 1991 may not be imposed against him. Petitioner submitted his reply to the show-cause notice on 04.03.2022 wherein he took various grounds to prove his innocence. Ultimately disciplinary authority i.e. the Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh passed the order on 02.04.2022 wherein it has been recorded that the explanation given by the petitioner is not satisfactory and he could not give any such fact in his reply which is worth consideration and thereby minor punishment of 'censure' has been imposed against the petitioner.

7. Petitioner challenged the punishment order dated 02.04.2022 by filing appeal under Rule 20 of the Rules of 1991 and he took the ground in appeal that the Disciplinary Authority has not considered his reply to the show-cause notice and the punishment order is absolutely unreasoned and non-speaking. The appellate authority, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Rule 20 of the Rules of 1991 considered the entire evidence and also considered the reply submitted by the petitioner to the show-cause notice dated 16.02.2022 and thereby, has passed speaking and reasoned order on 07.07.2022 whereby he has affirmed the punishment order dated 02.04.2022 passed by the disciplinary authority and has rejected the appeal. Thereafter petitioner challenged the punishment order dated 02.04.2022 and appellate order dated 07.07.2022 by filing revision under Rule 23 of the Rules of 1991 and the said revision has also been dismissed.

8. Petitioner in this writ petition has challenged the punishment order dated 02.04.2022 primarily on the ground that his reply to the show-cause notice dated 16.02.2022 had not been considered at all while imposing the minor punishment of 'censure' against him and once reply submitted by the petitioner has not been considered and reasons to prove the misconduct were not recorded, the punishment order cannot sustain in the eyes of law. Petitioner has challenged the appellate order dated 07.07.2022 primarily on the ground that the appellate authority in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction cannot rectify the errors of the punishment order and thus, the appellate authority while considering the reply submitted by the petitioner to the show-cause notice dated 16.02.2022 and appreciating the evidence on record, had committed a manifest error and therefore the appellate order dated 07.07.2022 is unsustainable in the eyes of law.

9. Petitioner in support of his case relied on the judgement and order dated 03.01.2022 rendered by the learned Single Judge of this Court in Writ-A No. 18299 of 2021 (Pradeep Kumar Asthana Vs. State of U.P. and Others) wherein it has been held that if in the punishment order, reasons for imposing punishment have not been recorded, then the appellate authority cannot record the reasons on its own and thereby affirm the punishment order passed by the disciplinary authority.

10. Learned Single Judge while hearing this writ petition considered the provisions of Rule 20, 21, 23 and 24 of the Rules of 1991 and thereby came to the conclusion that the appellate authority can adjudicate on the issues which are in the domain of the original disciplinary authority as while considering the appeal, the appellate authority has to examine the entire record available in the file of the disciplinary proceedings and has to consider the case on the basis of material available on record. Thus learned Single Judge has expressed his respectful disagreement with the ratio of the decision rendered in the case of Pradeep Kumar Asthana (Supra) and by framing the issue for adjudication has referred the matter to be decided by a larger Bench.

11. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has submitted that the disciplinary authority is under an obligation to consider the reply submitted by the delinquent employee to the show-cause notice and thereafter reasons, in support of the mis-conduct, are required to be recorded and only thereafter punishment can be imposed whereas in the matter of petitioner, punishment order dated 02.04.2022 is absolutely silent vis-a-vis the explanation submitted by the petitioner and also it does not contain any reason to prove the misconduct therefore, the punishment order cannot sustain in the eyes of law.

12. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has argued that once the disciplinary authority has not considered the explanation given by the delinquent employee to the show-cause notice and has not given any reason in the punishment order for imposing punishment then the appellate authority in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction cannot consider the reply given by the delinquent employee to the show-cause notice and cannot provide reasons in support of punishment and thereby to affirm the punishment order passed by the disciplinary authority. It has further been argued that the appellate authority has to test the punishment order on its own merits and cannot rectify the mistakes committed by the disciplinary authority while passing the punishment order whereas in the present case punishment order on its face is an unreasoned order and has been passed without considering the reply submitted by the petitioner therefore, the same cannot be cured and affirmed by the appellate authority in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, accordingly the appellate order dated 07.07.2022 cannot sustain in the eyes of law.

13. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in support of his case has relied on the judgements rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Union of India and Others Vs. Mohan Lal Kapoor AIR 1974 SC 87, Raj Kishore Jha Vs. State of Bihar and Others (2003) 11 SCC 519, Assistant Commissioner, Commercial Tax Department Works Contract and Lease, Kota Vs. Shukla and brothers (2010) 4 SCC 785 and has argued that the disciplinary authority can pass punishment order only after recording reasons as only from reasons assigned in the order, it can be inferred that the disciplinary authority has applied its mind to reach the conclusion in the form of punishment and once disciplinary authority has failed to record reasons in the punishment order, that defect cannot be cured by the appellate authority while deciding the appeal against the punishment order.

14. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents has contended that from bare perusal of the provisions made in the Rules of 1991, it is patently manifest that the scope of the appeal is the same as of the original proceedings giving rise to the punishment order and therefore appellate authority can appreciate the entire evidence available in the file of the disciplinary proceedings and thereby can provide reasons to support the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority. It has further been contended that in the cases where disciplinary authority has not considered the explanation submitted by the delinquent employee to the show cause notice in detail, the appellate authority while hearing the appeal can consider the said explanation and record reasons to support the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority and thereby can affirm the original punishment order.

15. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has argued that from a bare perusal of the provisions made in the Rules of 1991, it is patently manifest that powers of the appellate authority are not confined only to the powers of judicial review rather the appellate authority can exercise the original powers and can take a decision which is in the domain of the disciplinary authority and in the present case, the appellate authority had considered the reply submitted by the petitioner to the show-cause notice and had also given reasons to support the punishment imposed against the petitioner and thereby had affirmed the punishment order dated 02.04.2022 which is well within the powers of appellate authority.

16. We have given our thoughtful consideration to the rival arguments advanced by the learned counsels appearing for the parties. Before proceeding to consider the issue framed by learned Single Judge, it is apt to have a brief look over the provisions made in Rule 20, 21, 23 and 24 of the Rules of 1991, therefore, they are extracted as under:

"Rule 20. Appeals- (1) Every Police Officer, against whom an order of punishment mentioned in sub-clauses (i) to (iii) of Clause (a) and sub-clauses (i) to (iv) of Clause (b) of Rule 4 shall be entitled to prefer an appeal against the order of such punishment to the authority mentioned below:

(a) to the Police Officer who is the immediate jurisdictional superior authority to the Police Officer who passed the order of punishment;

(b) to the Director-General of Police who may either decide the appeal himself or nominate any Additional-Director General for deciding it;

(c) to the State Government against the order passed under Clause (b).

(2) No appeal shall lie against an order inflicting any of the petty punishments enumerated in sub-rules (2) and (3) of Rule 4.

(3) Every officer desiring to prefer an appeal shall do so separately.

(4) Every appeal, preferred under these rules shall contain all materials, statements, arguments relied on by the Police Officers preferring the appeal, and shall be complete in itself, but shall not contain disrespectful or improper language. Every appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of final order which is the subject of appeal.

(5) Every appeal, whether the appellant is still in service of Government or not, shall be submitted through the Superintendent of Police of the district or in the case of Police Officers not employed in district work through the head of the office to which the appellant belongs or belonged.

(6) An appeal will not be entertained unless it is preferred within three months from the date on which the Police Officer concerned was informed of the order of punishment.

Provided that appellate authority may, at his discretion, for good cause shown extended the said period up to six months.

(7) It the appeal preferred does not comply with the provisions of sub-rule (4) the appellate authority may require the appellant to comply with the provisions of the said sub-rule within one month of the notice of such order to him and if the appellant fails to make the above compliance, the appellate authority may dispose of the appeal in the manner as it deems fit.

(8) The Director-General or an Inspector-General may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, either on his own motion or on request from an appellate authority before whom the appeal is pending transfer the same to any other officer of corresponding rank.

21. Submission of documents with appeal. (1) When the appellate authority admits the appeal and sends for the records all the papers should be submitted which were considered by the officer against whose order the appeal is made including the character roll and service roll of the officer punished.

(2) Copies of orders passed in appeal which are furnished to the Superintendent of Police by the appellate authority shall invariably be accompanied with the departmental punishment file and shall be submitted therewith when the record is called for.

Rule 23-Revision- (1) An officer whose appeal has been rejected by an authority subordinate to the Government is entitled to submit an application for revision to the superior authority next to the authority which has rejected his appeal within three months from the date of rejection of appeal as mentioned below:

(a) to the Police Officer who is the immediate jurisdictional superior authority to the Police Officer who passed the appellate order.;

(b) to the Director-General of Police who may either decide the revision himself or nominate any Additional Director General for deciding it.

(c) to the State Government against the order passed under Clause (b).

On such an application, the powers of revision may be exercised only when, consequent of flagrant irregularity, there appears to have been material injustice or miscarriage of justice.

Provided that the revising authority may on its own motion call for the examine the records of any order passed in appeal against which no revision has been preferred under this rule for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of such order or as to the regularity of such procedure and pass such order with respect thereto as it may think fit;

Provided further that no order under the first proviso shall be made except after giving the person effected a reasonable opportunity of being heard in the matter.

(2) The procedure prescribed for appeal applies also to application for revision. An application for revision of an order rejecting an appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of the original order as well as the order of appellate authority.

24. Enhancement of punishment - A punishment may be enhanced by -*

(a) an appellate authority on appeal; or

(b) any authority superior to the authority to whom an application will lie, in exercise of revisionary powers:

Provided that before enhancing the punishment such authority shall call upon the officer punished, to show cause why his punishment should not be so enhanced, and that an order by such authority so enhancing a punishment shall be deemed to be an original order of punishment."

17. We find that Rule 20(4) of the Rules of 1991 provides that every appeal must contain all materials, statements and arguments relied on by the police office preferring the appeal. Rule 21 of the Rules of 1991 further provides that when the appellate authority admits the appeal and sends for records, all the papers should be submitted which were considered by the officer against whose order appeal is made including character roll and service roll of the officer punished. Thus it is patently manifest that the rule provides that the entire material available in the file of the disciplinary proceedings against the delinquent employee must be placed before the appellate authority for its consideration. We further find that Rule 24 (a) categorically provides that appellate authority has power to enhance the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority therefore, it is manifest that the appellate authority can appreciate the entire evidence and if ultimately reaches to the conclusion that lesser punishment has been awarded by the disciplinary authority, it can enhance the punishment after issuing a show-cause notice and after considering the reply of the delinquent employee. Proviso appended to Rule 24 further provides that the order passed by the appellate authority so enhancing the punishment shall be deemed to be an original order of punishment.

18. Thus from a conjoint reading of the Rule 20, 21 and 24 of the Rules of 1991, we find that the appellate authority has been given complete jurisdiction to re-appeciate the entire evidence available in the file of the disciplinary proceedings and thereafter to nullify, reduce, affirm and enhance the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority, This conclusion drawn by us finds support from the provisions made by the legislature in Rule 23(1) which provides remedy of revision and puts restriction that the revisional power may be exercised where in consequence of flagrant irregularity, there appears to have been material injustice or miscarriage of justice.

19. We find that legislature in its wisdom has put conditions/restrictions for the exercise of revisional jurisdiction under Rule 23 of the Rules of 1991 whereas there are no such restrictions in respect of the exercise of appellate jurisdiction as contemplated under Rule 20, 21 and 24 of the Rules of 1991. Even otherwise, we find that all along it has been settled proposition of law that in the disciplinary matters once the delinquent employee files an appeal then the appellate authority can re-appreciate the entire evidence available on record and after recording its satisfaction, can nullify, reduce, affirm or enhance the punishment awarded by the disciplinary authority.

20. Now we proceed to consider as to whether reasons are required to be recorded while taking decision by the quasi judicial authorities. We find that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in catena of judgements including the judgements, relied on by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, has categorically held that quasi judicial authorities are required to record reasons to reach out the conclusion in the order but in the matters of disciplinary proceedings against an employee, the appellate authority has the same scope to re-appreciate the evidence on record as the disciplinary authority had, therefore, if the reasons for imposing punishment have not been recorded by the disciplinary authority and ultimately appellate authority while considering the appeal against the punishment order finds that there is sufficient evidence on record to sustain the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority then the appellate authority would have two options i.e. either to remit the matter to the disciplinary authority for passing a fresh order or to pass order imposing the same punishment after considering the reply submitted by the delinquent employee to the show-cause notice and after recording reasons to support the punishment.

21. We also find that it is also a well settled proposition of law through catena of judgements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that once the appellate authority has power to re-appreciate the entire evidence and entire evidence is available before it, it would not be in the fitness of things to remit the matter to disciplinary authority but it would be appropriate for the appellate authority to re-appreciate evidence available on record and after recording reasons to sustain the order passed by the disciplinary authority.

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in its judgment rendered in the case of B.C. Chaturvedi Vs. Union of India and others, (1995) 6 SCC 749 has categorically held that in the disciplinary matters, the disciplinary authority is the sole judge of the facts and where appeal is presented against the punishment order, the appellate authority has co-extensive power to re-appreciate the evidence and the nature of punishment i.e. appellate authority can re-appreciate the evidence available on record and thereafter on the basis of its own reasons can nullify, reduce, affirm or enhance the punishment imposed against the delinquent employee. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of B.C. Chaturvedi (supra) are extracted as under:

"12. Judicial review is not an appeal from a decision but a review of the manner in which the decision is made. Power of judicial review is meant to ensure that the individual receives fair treatment and not to ensure that the conclusion which the authority reaches is necessarily correct in the eye of the court. When an inquiry is conducted on charges of misconduct by a public servant, the Court/Tribunal is concerned to determine whether the inquiry was held by a competent officer or whether rules of natural justice are complied with. Whether the findings or conclusions are based on some evidence, the authority entrusted with the power to hold inquiry has jurisdiction, power and authority to reach a finding of fact or conclusion. But that finding must be based on some evidence. Neither the technical rules of Evidence Act nor proof of fact or evidence as defined therein, apply to disciplinary proceeding. When the authority accepts that evidence and conclusion receives support therefrom, the disciplinary authority is entitled to hold that the delinquent officer is guilty of the charge. The Court/Tribunal in its power of judicial review does not act as appellate authority to reappreciate the evidence and to arrive at its own independent findings on the evidence. The Court/Tribunal may interfere where the authority held the proceedings against the delinquent officer in a manner inconsistent with the rules of natural justice or in violation of statutory rules prescribing the mode of inquiry or where the conclusion or finding reached by the disciplinary authority is based on no evidence. If the conclusion or finding be such as no reasonable person would have ever reached, the Court/Tribunal may interfere with the conclusion or the finding, and mould the relief so as to make it appropriate to the facts of each case.

13. The disciplinary authority is the sole judge of facts. Where appeal is presented, the appellate authority has coextensive power to reappreciate the evidence or the nature of punishment. In a disciplinary inquiry, the strict proof of legal evidence and findings on that evidence are not relevant. Adequacy of evidence or reliability of evidence cannot be permitted to be canvassed before Court//Tribunal. In Union of India v. H.C. Goel, this Court held at p-728 that if the conclusion, upon consideration of the evidence reached by the disciplinary authority, is perverse or suffers from patent error on the face of the record or based on no evidence at all, a writ of certiorari could be issued."

23. The Hon'ble Supreme Court vide its judgment rendered in the case of State Bank of Bikaner and Jaipur Vs. Nemi Chand Nalwaya, (2011) 4 SCC 584 has again considered the difference in the power of judicial review with the courts and the scope of appellate authority in the disciplinary matters and has held that the scope of the judicial review with the courts in the disciplinary matters is very limited whereas the appellate authority while deciding the appeal can re-appreciate the entire evidence available in the file of the disciplinary proceedings and thereafter by recording reasons can nullify, reduce, affirm or enhance the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority. The relevant paragraph of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State Bank of Bikaner and Jaipur (supra) is extracted as under:

"7. It is now well settled that the courts will not act as an appellate court and reassess the evidence led in the domestic enquiry, nor interfere on the ground that another view is possible on the material on record. If the enquiry has been fairly and properly held and the findings are based on evidence, the question of adequacy of the evidence or the reliable nature of the evidence will not be grounds for interfering with the findings in departmental enquiries. Therefore, courts will not interfere with findings of fact recorded in departmental enquiries, except where such findings are based on no evidence or where they are clearly perverse. The test to find out perversity is to see whether a tribunal acting reasonably could have arrived at such conclusion or finding, on the material on record. The courts will however interfere with the findings in disciplinary matters, if principles of natural justice or statutory regulations have been violated or if the order is found to be arbitrary, capricious, mala fide or based on extraneous considerations. (vide B. C. Chaturvedi vs. Union of India, Union of India vs. G. Gunayuthan, Bank of India vs. Degala Suryanarayana and High Court of Judicature at Bombay vs. Shahsi Kant S Patil.)"

24. Now we proceed to consider the provisions made in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 in respect of the scope of the appellate jurisdiction. For ready reference, Sections 96 and 107 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 are extracted as under:

"96. Appeal from original decree .- (1) Save where otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie from every decree passed by any Court exercising original jurisdiction to the Court authorized to hear appeals from the decisions of such Court

(2) An appeal may lie from an original decree passed ex parte.

(3)No appeal shall lie from a decree passed by the Court with the consent of parties.

(4) No appeal shall lie, except on a question of law, from a decree in any suit of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the original suit does not exceed [ten thousand rupees.]

x x x x x x x x x x x

107. Powers of appellate Court .- (1) Subject to such conditions and limitations as may be prescribed, an Appellate Court shall have power-

(a) to determine a case finally;

(b)to remand a case;

(c)to frame issues and refer them for trial;

(d)to take additional evidence or to require such evidence to be taken.

(2) Subject as aforesaid, the Appellate Court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed by the Code on Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted therein."

25. We find that Section 107(2) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 provides that subject to sub-clause (i), the appellate court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed by the Code on courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted therein. We are conscious of the fact that provisions made in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 are not stricto sensu applicable in the disciplinary matters of the police officers as they are governed by the provisions made in the Rules of 1991 but the texture of appellate jurisdiction and the scope of the appellate authority can easily be understood if the provisions made in the Rules of 1991 are seen in the light of the aforesaid provisions made in the Code of Civil Procedure. We are of the view that the scope of the appellate authority under the Rules of of 1991 is almost identical to that of the scope available with the appellate court in terms of Section 107 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The provisions made in the Rules of 1991 itself provide that the powers of the appellate authority and the powers of the disciplinary authority are co-extensive and the appellate authority possesses jurisdiction to re-appreciate the entire evidence available on record and thereafter by recording reasons can nullify, reduce, affirm or enhance the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority.

26. We are also of the view that by now, it is well settled proposition of law that powers of the appellate authority in the matters of disciplinary proceedings are much wider than the powers of judicial review as the appellate authority is empowered to appreciate entire evidence available on record and thereafter to nullify, reduce, affirm and enhance the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority. We find that learned Single Judge while rendering the judgement and order dated 03.01.2022 in Writ-A No. 18299 of 2022, Pradeep Kumar Asthana Vs. State of U.P. and others has not considered the scope of the appellate jurisdiction as provided under the Rules of 1991 and thereby has erroneously held that in the context of penalty awarded, it may never be open to the disciplinary authority to award penalty and leave it open to the appellate and higher authority to consider if there exists any reason to award such penalty.

27. Since the appellate authority enjoys the same power to appreciate the entire evidence available on record and thereafter to record findings in support of the punishment as is available to the disciplinary authority therefore, if the appellate authority finds that reasons are missing in the punishment order but there is enough evidence on record to support the awarded punishment, then definitely the appellate authority after considering the reply submitted by the delinquent employee to the show-cause notice can record reasons and thereby can affirm the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority.

28. In view of the aforesaid reasons, our answer to the issue framed by learned Single Judge is as under:

"The powers of the appellate authority under the U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 are not confined only to the powers of judicial review rather the appellate authority in exercise of appellate powers can re-appreciate the entire evidence available on record and take decision akin to the powers available in the domain of the disciplinary authority.

29. Let this writ petition be placed before the learned Single Judge for deciding the matter.

Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908) - Order 1 Rule 10 – Proper and Necessary Parties – The Waqf in question was a Waqf-Al-Aulad (private Waqf for the settlor's descendants). The then Mutawalli, Abdul Jalil Faridi, who was also a beneficiary, knew his two sisters, among others, were direct beneficiaries. However, he moved application to delist properties from the Waqf Board's register without impleading the beneficiaries in the proceedings. Held : The revisionists, being direct beneficiaries and known to the Mutawalli, were necessary parties.. Revisionists presence before the Waqf Tribunal was both necessary and imperative as it affected the character and composition of waqf property which was the corpus of the waqf and was for the benefit of the beneficiaries. (Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. The instant revision has been preferred under Section 83 (9) of the Waqf Act, 1995 being aggrieved by the order dated 04.07.2018 passed by the Uttar Pradesh Waqf Tribunal in Waqf Case no. 37 of 2018, as a consequence, several properties belonging to Waqf No. 42-A, Lucknow have been de-listed from the register of Waqf.

2. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the instant revision, certain facts giving rise to the instant revision are being noted hereinafter:-

3. Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi and his brother Lt. Mohd. Rafey Faridi both sons of Late Khan Bahadur Maulvi Mohammad Abdul Haq Saheb created a Walf-Alal-Nafs and Alal-Aulad to be (known as Waqf Faridi) by a Waqf deed dated 09.11.1945 and two properties were dedicated to the Waqf Faridi; (i) House No. 91, Dr. Moti Lal Bose Road, Machli Mohal, P.S. Hazratgarnj, Lucknow (ii) Faridi Building situated on Nazool Plot No. 14 near Maqbara Amzad Ali Shah, Hazratganj, Lucknow.

4. Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi was the first mutawalli of the Waqf and the waqf deed provided that the income of the waqf would be shared amongst the wakifs from generation to generation in equal amounts. The Waqf deed further stipulated that the income from any of the properties if was less than the amount required for its upkeep and other necessary expenses then the same could be sold to purchase a better property subject to the condition that on the purchase of the new property, the same would also be dedicated to the Waqf.

5. At this stage, it will be relevant to reproduce certain recitals of the Waqf deed:-

Section (1): The present Waqf shall be called 'Waqf Fareedi' and this Waqf is created for purposes of residence and sustenance of the persons endowing the Waqf mentioned in Section (4) on the following conditions. In the event of discontinuance of the progeny of the persons endowing the Waqf mentioned in the aforementioned Section, the income of the Waqf property, in accordance with the conditions mentioned in the present document, will be spent, on relatives and orphans and poors' education for those not having means and other beneficial causes, respectively.

Section 3: (a): It will be incumbent upon every Mutawalli to keep a regular nccounts of the present Waqf and give details of account to cach of the beneficiaries of the Waqf. It will be incumbent upon any Mutawalli that according to the desire of beneficiaries of the Waqf, satisfy them by showing them the accounts of the Waqf.

(b): If at any time the Mutawalli does not keep accounts, or without any strong and reasonable cause does not pay the income from Wagf property at any appropriate time, to the beneficiaries of the Waqf and necessity of filing of a suit arises, or commits such an omission in the management of the property. or he knowingly commits any act or acts on account of which there is a decrease in the profits of the property or commits express or implied dishonesty or misappropriates then the beneficiaries of the Waqf may jointly or severally will have a right to present a petition before the Authorised Officer get the Mutawalli removed and in his place any other person may be a Mutawalli according to the procedure and intention of the present document to discharge the duties of Mutawalliship.

Section 4 (a): The income of the Waqf property detailed below shall be spent on the repairs of the dilapidated and fallen buildings and payment of every kind of tax and other expenditures which are necessary for conservation of the Waqf property. The amount left after deduction of necessary disbursement and expenditure above mentioned will remain at the disposal of us executants, generations after generations, womb to womb and the said amount shall be distributed equally between we executants. This equal distribution shall remain operative with the progenies of we executants, that is to say half the income will be given to the progeny of me, the first executant and the other half to me the second executant.

(j): The beneficiaries of the Waqf will not have the right to transfer, directly or indirectly in any form, the profit which has been given to him in accordance with the conditions of the present document to any person who is not in the progeny of we executants or the sons of the brothers of deceased aforementioned, with or without any consideration. But, the progeny of we executants and the sons of the brothers of the deceased aforementioned can transfer amongst themselves the rights to profits with or without consideration. And if, Allah forbid, any person transfers the profit in violation of the conditions in the present documents, then that transfer with respect to the Waqf property shall be deemed to be illegal and void, and it will be incumbent on the Mutawalli of the Waqf to refuse to implement the same, and if the Mutawalli of the Waqf in disregard to the conditions of the present Section acts on such a transfer then he would be personally responsible for returning of that amount which he had spent in disregard to the conditions in the present Section and the other parties to the profit will have a right to recover that amount from the said Mutawalli and give to the person entitled amongst themselves.

Section (6): If the income of a property out of the Waqf properties mentioned below becomes less than the necessary expenses above mentioned or by selling it, more profit is possible by buying another property then the Mutawalli at that time will have a right to sell that property aforesaid in accordance with the prevalent law and to buy another property but in this situation the property purchased shall be deemed to be a Waqf property and the conditions of the present document shall be promulgated and enforced on the same.

Section (7): In case the Waqf property is extinguished fully or partly on account of promulgation of a law in force at that time, it would be necessary to abide by Section (6) mentioned above.

6. Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi taking recourse to Clause 6 of the Waqf deed sought permission from the District Judge on 30th April, 1960 and sold part of the waqf property situate at 91, Moti Lal Bose Road by means of a deed dated 04.05.1960 in favour of Sunni Central Board of Waqf for a sale consideration of Rs. 61,307/-

7. Since in terms of Clause 6 upon sale of the waqf property, the proceeds were to be applied for the benefit of the waqf, accordingly, Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi, the mutawalli, purchased plot No. 3 at 23/B Ashok Marg (erstwhile known as 3-B Outram Road) through a sale deed dated 04.08.1961. Another property bearing Plot No. 3/1 Mohalla- Karbala, Alamgir, Ram Teerth Marg (Erstwhile known as New Berry Road), Narahi, Lucknow was purchased from the Sunni Central Board of Waqf by means of sale deed dated 31.10.1961 as such now the waqf had four properties namely (i) part of house no. 91, Dr. Moti Lal Bose Road (ii) Faridi Building, Hazratganj (iii) Plot No. 3, 23-B Outram Road (iv) lease hold plot measuring 15811 square feet at 3/1 New Berry Road, Lucknow.

8. The first mutawalli Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi died on 19.05.1974 and his son who also shared the same name as his father Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi, he became the mutawalli (for the sake of clarity, the first mutawalli has been referred to as Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi whereas upon his death his son has been referred to as Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi).

9. Abdul Jalil Faridi filed an affidavit before the Waqf Board for inclusion of the two properties purchased by the Waqf namely Plot No. 3, 23-B Outram road and the lease hold rights in plot no. 3/1 New berry road, Lucknow as the said two properties were acquired from the funds generated by selling part of the waqf property by Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi, upon which clause 6 of the Waqf deed was applicable.

10. It is also relevant to note that Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi after having taken over as the mutawalli of the waqf got a new lease executed in his own name in respect of the property situate at New Berry Road, Lucknow. Later Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi entered into an agreement to sell in respect of the plot bearing No. 3/1 New Berry road, Lucknow, through one Sri Mustafa Khan, to sell the property in favour of Sri Keshav Gurnani and in order to take the proceedings to its logical conclusion also received sale consideration in installments.

11. He also made an application dated 08.05.2017 before the Waqf Board seeking the permission of the Board to de-list/remove the plot No. 3/1 New Berry Road, Lucknow and the property bearing No. 23-B, Outram Road (now known as Ashok Marg, Lucknow) from the register of waqf properties.

12. This application was rejected by the Waqf Board by means of order dated 27.02.2018. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi assailed the said order by filing case No. 37 of 2018 before the Waqf Tribunal. The Waqf Tribunal after hearing Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi and the Waqf Board who were the only two parties before the Waqf Tribunal allowed the said petition noticing that the two properties for which Mr. Abdul Jalil Faridi had sought de-listing/removal from the register of Waqf were lease hold properties and since there was no permanent dedication, hence, the same could not be treated to be Waqf property and the Waqf Tribunal relying upon a decision of this Court directed that the two properties could not be waqf properties. Once, the said order was passed by the Waqf Tribunal dated 04.07.2018, Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi got the lease hold rights converted into free hold. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi also executed his will dated 09.04.2018 and upon his death on 18.10.2018, in terms of his will the two properties i.e. bearing No. 23-B Ashok Marg and Plot No. 3/1 Ram Teerath Marg were bequeathed to his three daughters and the will also provided that Ms. Anush Khan would be the mutawalli of the Faridi Waqf.

13. Soon after the death of Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi, his three daughters transferred plot no. 3/1 New Berry Road to M/s Syks Infratech Pvt. Ltd. It is thereafter the present revisionist have filed the instant revision assailing the order dated 04.07.2018 passed by the Waqf Tribunal by filing this revision.

14. Sri Dhruv Mathur, learned counsel for the revisionist has assailed the order impugned passed by the Waqf Tribunal primarily on the ground that the proceedings before the Waqf Tribunal were collusive in nature. It is urged that the revisionist nos. 1 and 2 are the sisters of late Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi and daughters of Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi (the first mutawalli) and as such they were the beneficiaries of the waqf and without impleading them in proceedings before the Waqf Tribunal, such an order could not have been passed which has the effect of removing the properties from the register of Waqf and ultimately permit the mutawalli to dissipate the property of waqf to his personal benefit.

15. It is further urged that Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi (the brother of the revisionist) throughout his lifetime had treated the said properties as waqf and belonging to Waqf Faridi. However, his actions of scheming to sell the waqf properties for his personal benefit were contradictory to his status of a mutawalli, whose primary role was to ensure that the property dedicated to the waqf was perpetuated and protected.

16. It is further submitted that Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi knowing fully well that the properties at Ashok Marg road and Ram Teerath Marg road were both Waqf properties and in a surreptitious manner, he got a lease executed in his personal name, which was legally not permissible, as he was trying to create a title in himself, adverse to the interest of the Waqf while he was discharging his obligations as a Mutawalli. Hence, in a fraudulent manner, he devised a methodology to transfer the property for which he used the judicial forum of the Waqf Tribunal to seek a seal of judicial acceptability and for it he only impleaded the Waqf Board and deliberately ignored to implead the necessary parties i.e. the beneficiaries and procured the order impugned behind the back of the revisionists.

17. The revisionist being the beneficiaries have a direct interest in the well being of the Waqf as well as in the upkeep of the Waqf properties and they have ample right and interest to maintain the revision.

18. Sri Mathur, learned counsel further urges that from the bare perusal of the waqf deed of 1945, it was clear that if any of the waqf properties were sold then the funds generated therefrom would be utilized for the benefit of the waqf and as such the property procured from such funds would also be treated as a waqf property and could not be transferred.

19. It is submitted that once Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi after seeking permission from the District Judge on 13th April, 1960 sold part of the waqf property situate at 91, Dr. Moti Lal Bose Road, the funds generated from the said sale was utilized by Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi in procuring the property at 23-B Ashok Marg and Ram Teerath Marg, hence, by virtue of Clause 6 of the Waqf deed and the said properties too were waqf properties.

20. Once, the said properties were waqf property and the brother of the revisionist i.e. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi also treated the same as Waqf property, thus, he could not have acted adverse to the interest of the waqf by moving an application seeking to de-list the property from the register of the waqf.

21. It is further pointed out that the Waqf Board before whom, at the first instance, an application was moved, though, did not pass any order de-listing the properties from the register of waqf. However, it paved the way for Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi to approach the Waqf Tribunal wherein by merely impleading the Waqf Board who did not oppose the claim rather gave in to the prayer made by Abdul Jalil Faridi and facilitated the passing of the order impugned dated 04.07.2018.

22. It is also urged that the Waqf Board was duly aware of the fact that the part of the property of the Waqf Faridi which was sold by Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi to the Waqf Board itself and from the said sale proceeds received, two properties were created which was in the notice of the Waqf Board including as per the stipulations contained in Clause 6 of the Waqf deed of 1945, hence, in such circumstances, it was apparent that the proceedings before the Waqf Tribunal was nothing but a process to scrub and cleanse the illegal act of Abdul Jalil Faridi.

23. It is also submitted that the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Muslim Waqf Act, 1960 defines a waqf and the waqf property. The provisions contained in the Waqf Act, 1995 are a little different especially the definition of the word 'waqf'. It is also submitted that the reliance placed by the Waqf Tribunal on the decision of this Court in Mst. Peeran Vs. Hafiz Mohammad Ishaq: AIR 1966 Alld. 201 which has been followed in a subsequent decision of this Court in Abhishek Shukla Vs. High Court of Judicature; AIR 2018; Alld 32 do not help the case and the dictum therein has been incorrectly applied by the Waqf Tribunal, accordingly, the premise upon which the order has been passed by the Waqf Tribunal is erroneous.

24. It has further been submitted by Sri Mathur that since the property of the waqf was Nazool, hence, its disposition would not be in terms of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 rather it being a grant and was governed by the Government Grants Act, 1895. It is also urged that Section 2 of the Government Grants Act, 1895 clearly indicates that the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 will not apply to Government Grants, thus, the manner in which the Waqf property has been transferred is clearly fraudulent.

25. Lastly, it has been urged that various documents filed in the instant revision would indicate the fraudulent activities of Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi and the course he adopted to transfer the Waqf property fraudulently in itself renders all acts as a nullity including the deed which the daughters of Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi have executed in favour of M/s SYKS Infratech Pvt. Ltd. Any order which is effectuated by fraud, misrepresentation and concealment of fact is necessarily rendered void and if the order dated 04.07.2018 is held as such then all consequential acts including execution of the deed in favour of M/s Syks Infratech Pvt. Ltd. also falls and the property which has been illegally sold needs to be reverted back and be declared as property and part of Waqf Faridi.

26. Sri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Syed Aftab Ahmad, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 3 has questioned the submissions made by learned counsel for the revisionist primarily on the ground that the instant revision has been preferred under Section 83 (9) of the Wakf Act of 1995. It is submitted that the scope of a revision in terms of the aforesaid section is very narrow. The thrust of the submission is that the present revisionists were not a party before the Waqf Tribunal. The revisionist allege themselves to be the beneficiaries of the Waqf but since the time of its creation in the year 1945 till the initiation of proceedings of this revision, the revisionists did not claim any right as a beneficiary and as such they were neither the necessary nor proper parties before the Waqf Tribunal, hence, they have no right to maintain the above revision.

27. It is also urged by the learned Senior Counsel that the order dated 27.02.2018 passed by the Waqf Board has not been challenged by the revisionists. In absence of any challenge to the order dated 27.02.2018 passed by the Waqf Board, the order passed by the Waqf Tribunal dated 04.07.2018 could not be challenged since the genesis is the order dated 27.02.2018. In the said circumstances, the revisionists ought to have filed an appropriate application before the Waqf Tribunal itself rather than rushing to this Court. Even otherwise, the revisionists have filed large number of documents with the revision and the revisionists have raised controversial questions which are pure questions of fact which require evidence and it cannot be seen or adjudicated by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction.

28. It is further submitted by Sri Seth that admittedly the two properties, the subject matter of controversy i.e. one at Ashok Marg and the other at New Berry Road, were both Nazool properties and it is the State which has absolute title to such properties. Upon the expiry of the period of lease, the said two properties came into the hands of the State. It is further urged that the lease of Ashok Marg property expired on 31.03.1991 whereas the lease relating to the New Berry Road property expired on 27.03.1999. Even assuming if the said properties were of the Waqf, even then at best the Waqf had only a limited interest therein. As soon as the term of the respective lease came to an end, they ceased to be Waqf properties.

29. It is also urged that in any case, as per the definition of the word 'waqf' as contained in the Wakf Act, 1995, it is necessary that the property is dedicated to the waqf permanently. In case if the settlor did not have exclusive right to dedicate the property to the Waqf permanently, in such a situation, a Waqf cannot be created as it lacks the necessary ingredient of permanent dedication. It is further urged that this is the issue which has been considered by this Court in Mst. Peeran (supra) and reiterated in Abhishek Shukla (supra). The case of Abhishek Shukla (supra) has been affirmed by the Apex Court in SLP No. 3085 of 2018 (Waqf Maszid Vs. High Court) by means of order dated 13.03.2023, hence, it cannot be said that the order passed by the Waqf Tribunal was bad.

30. It has also been pointed out that actually there is a fallout between the revisionists and the private respondents nos. 2 to 4. The revisionists also sought to transfer some part of the property and at that point of time, there was no protest raised by the revisionist. It is only at a later stage when there appears to be some disagreement regarding the sharing of the funds that the aforesaid dispute has been raised and for all the aforesaid reasons, the revision is not maintainable and deserves to be dismissed.

31. Sri Seth, learned Senior counsel has relied upon the following decisions in support of his submissions.

(i) Vidya Varuthi Thirtha Vs. Balusami Ayyar and Others; 1921 SCC Online PC 58

(ii) Ahmed G.H. Ariff and Others Vs. Commissioner of Wealth Tax, Calcutta; (1969) 2 SCC 471

32. Sri Pritish Kumar, learned counsel has opposed the aforesaid revision on behalf of M/s Syks Infratech Pvt. Ltd, the respondent no. 5 and it is urged by that the respondent no. 5 is a bonafide purchaser for valuable consideration. It is submitted that the respondent no. 5 had purchased the property for a valuable sale consideration which was paid to the private respondent nos. 2 to 4. On the date of the execution of the said deed dated 24.12.2018, admittedly, the said property was not a waqf property. Any dispute between the revisionists on one hand and the private respondent nos. 2 to 4 is primarily between the beneficiaries of the Waqf inter se, however, the same cannot affect the right, title and interest of the respondent no. 5, inasmuch as, the deed executed in favour of respondent no. 5 has not been challenged before any court of law and still continues to subsist.

33. It is further submitted that in so far as the contention made by Sri Seth, learned Senior Counsel for the respondent no. 3 regarding the status of a lease hold property and whether such property could have been dedicated to a Waqf stands answered by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Abhishek Shukla (supra) and in such circumstances, the property could not be treated to be a waqf property, hence, transferring the same by the respondent nos. 2 to 4 in favour of the respondent no. 5 cannot be said to be effectuated by any misrepresentation or fraud and to that extent the rights of the respondent no. 5 continues to be good and for the aforesaid reasons, the revision deserves to be dismissed.

34. Sri Farhan Habib, learned counsel who has appeared on behalf of the Waqf Board has merely adopted the submissions of the learned Senior Counsel Sri Sudeep Seth and did not make any independent submissions.

35. The Court has heard the learned counsel for the parties and also perused the material on record.

36. The question that arises for adjudication before this Court is; (i) whether the instant revision is maintainable at the behest of the revisionists who were not parties before the Waqf Tribunal; (ii) Whether the lease hold property could be Waqfed or in the given facts and circumstances, upon the expiry of the lease period, the Waqf was extinguished and as such the Waqf Tribunal was justified in passing the impugned order dated 04.07.2018.

37. This Court proposes to take up the issue no. (i) first since in case if it is held that the revisionists were necessary and proper parties then they are to be given an opportunity to contest and considering the fact that the documents which have been filed by the revisionists before this Court, apparently, were not before the Waqf Tribunal and in such circumstances the said documents would have to be considered in context with the defence of the revisionists. Hence, in case if the answer to question no. (i) is in the affirmative then necessarily the matter will have to be remanded for a decision afresh and in case if the answer to question no. (i) is in the negative then the Court shall proceed to consider the issue no. (ii) as noticed above irrespective of the documents filed by the revisionists.

38. In order to answer the first question, it will be relevant to notice certain facts which are not in dispute. A Waqf was created in the year 1945 by Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi and his brother Lt. Mohd. Rafey Faridi. The Waqf deed has been brought on record and the relevant clauses have already been reproduced hereinabove first:-

39. Clause 6 of the said Waqf deed clearly indicates that in case if with the prior permission any part of the waqf property is sold, then the proceeds generated therefrom shall be utilized for the Waqf and the same would also be treated to be a Waqf property.

40. The record would further indicate that the revisionists have filed a letter which has been written by Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi addressed to the Waqf Board dated 08th August, 1975 requesting the Waqf Board to incorporate the property situate at Ram Teerath Marg to be incorporated as part of Waqf Faridi. Another letter dated 31.07.1975 written by Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi and addressed to the Waqf Board seeking permission of the Board for raising a loan from the LIC and for the said purpose permission to mortgage the said property as collateral was sought. Another letter dated 27th May, 1991 followed by a letter dated 27th July, 1991, 20th September, 1991 indicating that Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi always treated the said property as Waqf property. The very fact that the Waqf was a dedication for the beneficiaries of the creator of the Waqf (settlor) which includes the present revisionists who are the daughters of Dr. Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi and after his death his son Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi became the mutawalli and the present revisionists being his sisters were the beneficiaries.

41. The concept of proper and necessary parties has been enshrined in Order 1 Rule 10 C.P.C. and with the aid of the decisions of the Apex Court, the said provision has been explained as under:-

42. In Ramesh Hirachand Kundanmal v. Municipal Corpn. of Greater Bombay, (1992) 2 SCC 524, the Apex Court has held as under:-

5. It was argued that the Court cannot direct addition of parties against the wishes of the plaintiff who cannot be compelled to proceed against a person against whom he does not claim any relief. Plaintiff is no doubt dominus litis and is not bound to sue every possible adverse claimant in the same suit. He may choose to implead only those persons as defendants against whom he wishes to proceed though under Order 1 Rule 3, to avoid multiplicity of suit and needless expenses all persons against whom the right to relief is alleged to exist may be joined as defendants. However, the Court may at any stage of the suit direct addition of parties. A party can be joined as defendant even though the plaintiff does not think that he has any cause of action against him. Rule 10 specifically provides that it is open to the Court to add at any stage of the suit a necessary party or a person whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court to effectually and completely adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit.

6. Sub-rule (2) of Rule 10 gives a wide discretion to the Court to meet every case of defect of parties and is not affected by the inaction of the plaintiff to bring the necessary parties on record. The question of impleadment of a party has to be decided on the touchstone of Order 1 Rule 10 which provides that only a necessary or a proper party may be added. A necessary party is one without whom no order can be made effectively. A proper party is one in whose absence an effective order can be made but whose presence is necessary for a complete and final decision on the question involved in the proceeding. The addition of parties is generally not a question of initial jurisdiction of the Court but of a judicial discretion which has to be exercised in view of all the facts and circumstances of a particular case.

8. The case really turns on the true construction of the rule in particular the meaning of the words "whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit". The Court is empowered to join a person whose presence is necessary for the prescribed purpose and cannot under the rule direct the addition of a person whose presence is not necessary for that purpose. If the inter-vener has a cause of action against the plaintiff relating to the subject matter of the existing action, the Court has power to join the intervener so as to give effect to the primary object of the order which is to avoid multiplicity of actions.

43. In Mumbai International Airport (P) Ltd. v. Regency Convention Centre & Hotels (P) Ltd., (2010) 7 SCC 417, the Apex Court has observed as under:-

"13. The general rule in regard to impleadment of parties is that the plaintiff in a suit, being dominus litis, may choose the persons against whom he wishes to litigate and cannot be compelled to sue a person against whom he does not seek any relief. Consequently, a person who is not a party has no right to be impleaded against the wishes of the plaintiff. But this general rule is subject to the provisions of Order 1 Rule 10(2) of the Code of Civil Procedure ("the Code", for short), which provides for impleadment of proper or necessary parties. The said sub-rule is extracted below:

"10. (2) Court may strike out or add parties.—The court may at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may appear to the court to be just, order that the name of any party improperly joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, be struck out, and that the name of any person who ought to have been joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, or whose presence before the court may be necessary in order to enable the court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit, be added."

14. The said provision makes it clear that a court may, at any stage of the proceedings (including suits for specific performance), either upon or even without any application, and on such terms as may appear to it to be just, direct that any of the following persons may be added as a party: (a) any person who ought to have been joined as plaintiff or defendant, but not added; or (b) any person whose presence before the court may be necessary in order to enable the court to effectively and completely adjudicate upon and settle the questions involved in the suit. In short, the court is given the discretion to add as a party, any person who is found to be a necessary party or proper party.

15. A "necessary party" is a person who ought to have been joined as a party and in whose absence no effective decree could be passed at all by the court. If a "necessary party" is not impleaded, the suit itself is liable to be dismissed. A "proper party" is a party who, though not a necessary party, is a person whose presence would enable the court to completely, effectively and adequately adjudicate upon all matters in dispute in the suit, though he need not be a person in favour of or against whom the decree is to be made. If a person is not found to be a proper or necessary party, the court has no jurisdiction to implead him, against the wishes of the plaintiff. The fact that a person is likely to secure a right/interest in a suit property, after the suit is decided against the plaintiff, will not make such person a necessary party or a proper party to the suit for specific performance."

44. In Baluram V. P.Chellathangam; (2015) 13 SCC 579, the issue before the Apex Court was regarding the right of impleadment of a beneficiary viz a viz a Trust and this is similar to the issue involved in the instant case. The Apex Court has held as under:-

"12. After due consideration of the rival submissions, we are of the view that the High Court erred in interfering with the order of the trial court impleading the appellant as a party defendant. Admittedly, the appellant is a beneficiary of the Trust and under the provisions of the Trusts Act, the trustee has to act reasonably in exercise of his right of alienation under the terms of the trust deed. The appellant cannot thus be treated as a stranger. No doubt, it may be permissible for the appellant to file a separate suit, as suggested by Respondent 1, but the beneficiary could certainly be held to be a proper party. There is no valid reason to decline his prayer to be impleaded as a party to avoid multiplicity of proceedings. Order 1 Rule 10(2) CPC enables the court to add a necessary or proper party so as to "effectually and completely adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit".

"13. The general rule in regard to impleadment of parties is that the plaintiff in a suit, being dominus litis, may choose the persons against whom he wishes to litigate and cannot be compelled to sue a person against whom he does not seek any relief. Consequently, a person who is not a party has no right to be impleaded against the wishes of the plaintiff. But this general rule is subject to the provisions of Order 1 Rule 10(2) of the Code of Civil Procedure ('the Code', for short), which provides for impleadment of proper or necessary parties. The said sub-rule is extracted below:

10. (2)Court may strike out or add parties.—The court may at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may appear to the court to be just, order that the name of any party improperly joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, be struck out, and that the name of any person who ought to have been joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, or whose presence before the court may be necessary in order to enable the court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit, be added.'

14. The said provision makes it clear that a court may, at any stage of the proceedings (including suits for specific performance), either upon or even without any application, and on such terms as may appear to it to be just, direct that any of the following persons may be added as a party: (a) any person who ought to have been joined as plaintiff or defendant, but not added; or (b) any person whose presence before the court may be necessary in order to enable the court to effectively and completely adjudicate upon and settle the questions involved in the suit. In short, the court is given the discretion to add as a party, any person who is found to be a necessary party or proper party.

15. A 'necessary party' is a person who ought to have been joined as a party and in whose absence no effective decree could be passed at all by the court. If a 'necessary party' is not impleaded, the suit itself is liable to be dismissed. A 'proper party' is a party who, though not a necessary party, is a person whose presence would enable the court to completely, effectively and adequately adjudicate upon all matters in dispute in the suit, though he need not be a person in favour of or against whom the decree is to be made. If a person is not found to be a proper or necessary party, the court has no jurisdiction to implead him, against the wishes of the plaintiff. The fact that a person is likely to secure a right/interest in a suit property, after the suit is decided against the plaintiff, will not make such person a necessary party or a proper party to the suit for specific performance.

19. Referring to suits for specific performance, this Court in Kasturi [Kasturi v. Iyyamperumal, (2005) 6 SCC 733 : AIR 2005 SC 2813] , held that the following persons are to be considered as necessary parties: (i) the parties to the contract which is sought to be enforced or their legal representatives; (ii) a transferee of the property which is the subject-matter of the contract. This Court also explained that a person who has a direct interest in the subject-matter of the suit for specific performance of an agreement of sale may be impleaded as a proper party on his application under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC. This Court concluded that a purchaser of the suit property subsequent to the suit agreement would be a necessary party as he would be affected if he had purchased it with or without notice of the contract, but a person who claims a title adverse to that of the defendant vendor will not be a necessary party.

22. Let us consider the scope and ambit of Order 1 Rule 10(2) CPC regarding striking out or adding parties. The said sub-rule is not about the right of a non-party to be impleaded as a party, but about the judicial discretion of the court to strike out or add parties at any stage of a proceeding. The discretion under the sub-rule can be exercised either suo motu or on the application of the plaintiff or the defendant, or on an application of a person who is not a party to the suit. The court can strike out any party who is improperly joined. The court can add anyone as a plaintiff or as a defendant if it finds that he is a necessary party or proper party. Such deletion or addition can be without any conditions or subject to such terms as the court deems fit to impose. In exercising its judicial discretion under Order 1 Rule 10(2) of the Code, the court will of course act according to reason and fair play and not according to whims and caprice."

45. Applying the principles as culled out from the aforesaid decisions, it would be clear that in so far as the present dispute is concerned, where a mutawalli was seeking the permission to de-list certain properties from the register of Waqf then in such a case, at least those parties who, in the knowledge of the mutawalli, were the direct beneficiaries and would be affected ought to have been impleaded in the proceedings before the Tribunal. The Waqf Board, though, was a necessary and a proper party to the said proceedings but it could not exclude the revisionists who were the beneficiaries and their identity was very well known to the then mutawalli, moreso where it was a Waqf-Al-Aulad, (a private Waqf for the benefit of the descendants of the settlor) and the then mutawalli himself was its beneficiary and he had full knowledge of the fact that his two sisters, amongst others, were in the category of direct beneficiaries. The least he could do was to have impleaded them as a party as in this sort of dispute which was before the Waqf Tribunal, their presence was both necessary and imperative as it affected the character and composition of waqf property which was the corpus of the waqf and was for the benefit of the beneficiaries.

46. The factual matrix which unfolds indicates that the Mutawalli Abdul Jalil Faridi had moved an application before the Waqf Tribunal seeking de-listing the properties from the Waqf Board from the register of Waqfs maintained by the Waqf Board. The documents which have been filed before the Waqf Tribunal were selective in the sense that Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi did not bring on record all those letters which have been mentioned hereinabove by which Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi himself had sought the permission from the Waqf Board to mortgage the property to incorporate the property in the Waqf Register as well as seeking permission to raise residential flats over the Waqf property.

47. There are certain documents which have been filed by the revisionists to submit that Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi was in a habit of maintaining a diary/a journal wherein he had recorded sequence of events and facts which indicates the mindset that the Waqf property was being transferred for which unscrupulous means were being adopted.

48. Though, the said documents are not admitted to the respondents nor they were before the Waqf Tribunal but without commenting on the said documents on merits regarding their admissibility and relevancy, suffice to state that they do appear to have some bearing on the controversy.

49. Moreover, the said documents do require proof but the very fact that the documents which have been brought on record by the revisionists along with their affidavit in support of the application for interim relief filed along with the revision and with the rejoinder affidavit relate to the controversy in question and could have thrown light over the controversy raging between the parties.

50. Before proceeding further, it will be worthwhile to notice certain decisions of the Apex Court as to the effect of not bringing on record the complete documents or selective disclosure or concealment of facts which are relevant to the controversy and known to the party. The Apex Court in S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu Vs. Jagannath; 1994 1 SCC 1 has held as under:-

"5. The High Court, in our view, fell into patent error. The short question before the High Court was whether in the facts and circumstances of this case, Jagannath obtained the preliminary decree by playing fraud on the court. The High Court, however, went haywire and made observations which are wholly perverse. We do not agree with the High Court that "there is no legal duty cast upon the plaintiff to come to court with a true case and prove it by true evidence". The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan-dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation."

53. Again in Indian Bank V. Satyam Fibres (India) Pvt. Ltd. (1996) 5 SCC 550, the Apex Court in para 20, 22 and 23 has held as under:-

"20. By filing letter No. 2775 of 26-8-1991 along with the review petition and contending that the other letter, namely, letter No. 2776 of the even date, was never written or issued by the respondent, the appellant, in fact, raised the plea before the Commission that its judgment dated 16-11-1993, which was based on letter No. 2776, was obtained by the respondent by practising fraud not only on the appellant but on the Commission too as letter No. 2776 dated 26-8-1991 was forged by the respondent for the purpose of this case. This plea could not have been legally ignored by the Commission which needs to be reminded that the authorities, be they constitutional, statutory or administrative, (and particularly those who have to decide a lis) possess the power to recall their judgments or orders if they are obtained by fraud as fraud and justice never dwell together (Fraus et jus nunquam cohabitant). It has been repeatedly said that fraud and deceit defend or excuse no man (Fraus et dolus nemini patrocinari debent).

22. The judiciary in India also possesses inherent power, specially under Section 151 CPC, to recall its judgment or order if it is obtained by fraud on court. In the case of fraud on a party to the suit or proceedings, the court may direct the affected party to file a separate suit for setting aside the decree obtained by fraud. Inherent powers are powers which are resident in all courts, especially of superior jurisdiction. These powers spring not from legislation but from the nature and the constitution of the tribunals or courts themselves so as to enable them to maintain their dignity, secure obedience to its process and rules, protect its officers from indignity and wrong and to punish unseemly behaviour. This power is necessary for the orderly administration of the court's business.

23. Since fraud affects the solemnity, regularity and orderliness of the proceedings of the court and also amounts to an abuse of the process of court, the courts have been held to have inherent power to set aside an order obtained by fraud practised upon that court. Similarly, where the court is misled by a party or the court itself commits a mistake which prejudices a party, the court has the inherent power to recall its order. (See:Benoy Krishna Mukerjeev.Mohanlal Goenka[AIR 1950 Cal 287] ;Gajanand Sha v. Dayanand Thakur [AIR 1943 Pat 127 : ILR 21 Pat 838] ; Krishnakumar v. Jawand Singh [AIR 1947 Nag 236 : ILR 1947 Nag 190] ;Devendra Nath Sarkar v. Ram Rachpal Singh [ILR (1926) 1 Luck 341 : AIR 1926 Oudh 315] ;Saiyed Mohd. Raza v.Ram Saroop [ILR (1929) 4 Luck 562 : AIR 1929 Oudh 385 (FB)] ; Bankey Behari Lal v. Abdul Rahman [ILR (1932) 7 Luck 350 : AIR 1932 Oudh 63] ; Lekshmi Amma Chacki Amm v. Mammen Mammen [1955 Ker LT 459] .) The court has also the inherent power to set aside a sale brought about by fraud practised upon the court (Ishwar Mahton v. Sitaram Kumar [AIR 1954 Pat 450]) or to set aside the order recording compromise obtained by fraud. (Bindeshwari Pd. Chaudhary v. Debendra Pd. Singh [AIR 1958 Pat 618 : 1958 BLJR 651] ; Tara Bai v.V.S. Krishnaswamy Rao [AIR 1985 Kant 270 : ILR 1985 Kant 2930] .)"

51. Similarly, the Apex Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Rajendra Singh; (2000) 3 SCC 581 in paras 15 and 16 has held as under:-

"15. It is unrealistic to expect the appellant Company to resist a claim at the first instance on the basis of the fraud because the appellant Company had at that stage no knowledge about the fraud allegedly played by the claimants. If the Insurance Company comes to know of any dubious concoction having been made with the sinister object of extracting a claim for compensation, and if by that time the award was already passed, it would not be possible for the Company to file a statutory appeal against the award. Not only because of the bar of limitation to file the appeal but the consideration of the appeal even if the delay could be condoned, would be limited to the issues formulated from the pleadings made till then.

16. Therefore, we have no doubt that the remedy to move for recalling the order on the basis of the newly-discovered facts amounting to fraud of high degree, cannot be foreclosed in such a situation. No court or tribunal can be regarded as powerless to recall its own order if it is convinced that the order was wangled through fraud or misrepresentation of such a dimension as would affect the very basis of the claim."

52. Again in K.D. Sharma v. Steel Authority of India Limited; ((2008) 12 SCC 481, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"34. The jurisdiction of the Supreme Court under Article 32 and of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is extraordinary, equitable and discretionary. Prerogative writs mentioned therein are issued for doing substantial justice. It is, therefore, of utmost necessity that the petitioner approaching the Writ Court must come with clean hands, put forward all the facts before the Court without concealing or suppressing anything and seek an appropriate relief. If there is no candid disclosure of relevant and material facts or the petitioner is guilty of misleading the Court, his petition may be dismissed at the threshold without considering the merits of the claim.

35. The underlying object has been succinctly stated by Scrutton, L.J., in the leading case of R.V. Kensington Income Tax Commissioners, [1917] 1 K.B. 486 : 86 LJ KB 257 : 116 LT 136 in the following words:

"...it has been for many years the rule of the Court, and one which it is of the greatest importance to maintain, that when an applicant comes to the Court to obtain relief on an ex parte statement he should make a full and fair disclosure of all the material facts-it says facts, not law. He must not misstate the law if he can help it; the Court is supposed to know the law. But it knows nothing about the facts, and the applicant must state fully and fairly the facts; and the penalty by which the Court enforces that obligation is that if it finds out that the facts have not been fully and fairly stated to it the Court will set aside any action which it has taken on the faith of the imperfect statement".(emphasis supplied)

36. A prerogative remedy is not a matter of course. While exercising extraordinary power a Writ Court would certainly bear in mind the conduct of the party who invokes the jurisdiction of the Court. If the applicant makes a false statement or suppresses material fact or attempts to mislead the Court, the Court may dismiss the action on that ground alone and may refuse to enter into the merits of the case by stating "We will not listen to your application because of what you have done". The rule has been evolved in larger public interest to deter unscrupulous litigants from abusing the process of Court by deceiving it.

37. In Kensington Income Tax Commissioner, Viscount Reading, C.J. observed:

"…Where an ex parte application has been made to this Court for a rule nisi or other process, if the Court comes to the conclusion that the affidavit in support of the applicant was not candid and did not fairly state the facts, the Court ought, for its own protection and to prevent an abuse of its process, to refuse to proceed any further with the examination of the merits. This is a power inherent in the Court, but one which should only be used in cases which bring conviction to the mind of the Court that it has been deceived. Before coming to this conclusion a careful examination will be made of the facts as they are and as they have been stated in the applicant's affidavit, and everything will be heard that can be urged to influence the view of the Court when it reads the affidavit and knows the true facts. But if the result of this examination and hearing is to leave no doubt that this Court has been deceived, then it will refuse to hear anything further from the applicant in a proceeding which has only been set in motion by means of a misleading affidavit". (emphasis supplied)

38. The above principles have been accepted in our legal system also. As per settled law, the party who invokes the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 32 or of a High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is supposed to be truthful, frank and open. He must disclose all material facts without any reservation even if they are against him. He cannot be allowed to play 'hide and seek' or to 'pick and choose' the facts he likes to disclose and to suppress (keep back) or not to disclose (conceal) other facts. The very basis of the writ jurisdiction rests in disclosure of true and complete (correct) facts. If material facts are suppressed or distorted, the very functioning of Writ Courts and exercise would become impossible. The petitioner must disclose all the facts having a bearing on the relief sought without any qualification. This is because, "the Court knows law but not facts"."

53. In A.V. Papayya Sastry v. Government of A.P., (2007) 4 SCC 221 the Apex Court has observed as under:

"21. Now, it is well settled principle of law that if any judgment or order is obtained by fraud, it cannot be said to be a judgment or order in law. Before three centuries, Chief Justice Edward Coke proclaimed; "Fraud avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal".

22. It is thus settled proposition of law that a judgment, decree or order obtained by playing fraud on the Court, Tribunal or Authority is a nullity and non est in the eye of law. Such a judgment, decree or order by the first Court or by the final Court has to be treated as nullity by every Court, superior or inferior. It can be challenged in any Court, at any time, in appeal, revision, writ or even in collateral proceedings.

23. In the leading case of Lazarus Estates Ltd. v. Beasley, (1956) 1 All ER 341 : [1956] 1 Q.B. 702 : [1956] 2 WLR 502, Lord Denning observed:

"No judgment of a court, no order of a Minister, can be allowed to stand, if it has been obtained by fraud."

24. In Duchess of Kingstone, Smith's Leading Cases, 13th Edn., p.644, explaining the nature of fraud, de Grey, C.J. stated that though a judgment would be res judicata and not impeachable from within, it might be impeachable from without. In other words, though it is not permissible to show that the court was 'mistaken', it might be shown that it was 'misled'. There is an essential distinction between mistake and trickery. The clear implication of the distinction is that an action to set aside a judgment cannot be brought on the ground that it has been decided wrongly, namely, that on the merits, the decision was one which should not have been rendered, but it can be set aside, if the court was imposed upon or tricked into giving the judgment.

25. It has been said; Fraud and justice never dwell together (fraus et jus nunquam cohabitant); or fraud and deceit ought to benefit none (fraus et dolus nemini patrocinari debent).

26. Fraud may be defined as an act of deliberate deception with the design of securing some unfair or undeserved benefit by taking undue advantage of another. In fraud one gains at the loss of another. Even most solemn proceedings stand vitiated if they are actuated by fraud. Fraud is thus an extrinsic collateral act which vitiates all judicial acts, whether in rem or in personam. The principle of 'finality of litigation' cannot be stretched to the extent of an absurdity that it can be utilized as an engine of oppression by dishonest and fraudulent litigants.

27. In S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (dead) by LRs. v. Jagannath (dead) by LRs., (1994) 1 SCC 1 : JT (1994) 6 SC 331, this Court had an occasion to consider the doctrine of fraud and the effect thereof on the judgment obtained by a party. In that case, one A by a registered deed, relinquished all his rights in the suit property in favour of C who sold the property to B. Without disclosing that fact, A filed a suit for possession against B and obtained preliminary decree. During the pendency of an application for final decree, B came to know about the fact of release deed by A in favour of C. He, therefore, contended that the decree was obtained by playing fraud on the court and was a nullity. The trial court upheld the contention and dismissed the application. The High Court, however, set aside the order of the trial court, observing that "there was no legal duty cast upon the plaintiff to come to court with a true case and prove it by true evidence". B approached this Court.

28. Allowing the appeal, setting aside the judgment of the High Court and describing the observations of the High Court as 'wholly perverse', Kuldip Singh, J. stated:

"The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean-hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan-dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal-gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation". (emphasis supplied)

29. The Court proceeded to state:

"A litigant, who approaches the court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would he guilty of playing fraud on the court as well as on the opposite party".

30. The Court concluded:

"The principle of 'finality of litigation' cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants".

54. In Ram Chandra Singh v. Savitri Devi, (2003) 8 SCC 319 the Apex Court has held as under:

"15. Commission of fraud on court and suppression of material facts are the core issues involved in these matters. Fraud as is well-known vitiates every solemn act. Fraud and justice never dwells together.

16. Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by word or letter.

17. It is also well settled that misrepresentation itself amounts to fraud. Indeed, innocent misrepresentations may also give reason to claim relief against fraud.

18. A fraudulent misrepresentation is called deceit and consists in leading a man into damage by willfully or recklessly causing him to believe and act on falsehood. It is a fraud in law if a party makes representations which he knows to be false, and injury ensues therefrom although the motive from which the representations proceeded may not have been bad.

19. In Derry v. Peek, [L.R.] 14 App. Cas. 337, it was held:

In an 'action of deceit the plaintiff must prove actual fraud. Fraud is proved when it is shown that a false representation has been made knowingly, or without belief in its truth, or recklessly, without caring whether it be true or false.

A false statement, made through carelessness and without reasonable ground for believing it to be true, may be evidence of fraud but does not necessarily amount to fraud. Such a statement, if made in the honest belief that it is true, is not fraudulent and does not render the person make it liable to an action of deceit."

20. In Kerr on Fraud and Mistake, at page 23, it is stated:

"The true and only sound principle to be derived from the cases represented by Slim v. Croucher is this : that a representation is fraudulent not only when the person making it knows it to be false, but also when, as Jessel, M.R., pointed out, he ought to have known, or must be taken to have known, that it was false. This is a sound and intelligible principle, and is, moreover, not inconsistent with Derry v. Peek. A false statement which a person ought to have known was false, and which he must therefore be taken to have known was false, cannot be said to be honestly believed in. "A consideration of the grounds of belief", said Lord Herschell, "is no doubt an important aid in ascertaining whether the belief was really entertained. A man's mere assertion that he believed the statement he made to be true is not accepted as conclusive proof that he did so."

21. In Bigelow on Fraudulent Conveyances at page 1, it is stated:

"If on the facts the average man would have intended wrong, that is enough."

It was further opined:

"This conception of fraud (and since it is not the writer's, he may speak of it without diffidence), steadily kept in view, will render the administration of the law less difficult, or rather will make its administration more effective. Further, not to enlarge upon the last matter, it will do away with much of the prevalent confusion in regard to 'moral' fraud, a confusion which, in addition to other things, often causes lawyers to take refuge behind such convenient and indeed useful but often obscure language as 'fraud upon the law'. What is fraud upon the law? Fraud can be committed only against a being capable of rights, and 'fraud upon the law' darkens counsel. What is really aimed at in most cases by this obscure contrast between moral fraud and fraud upon the law, is a contrast between fraud in the individual's intention to commit the wrong and fraud as seen in the obvious tendency of the act in question."

22. Recently this Court by an order dated 3rd September, 2003 in Ram Preeti Yadav v. U.P. Board of High School & Intermediate Education reported in (2003) 8 SCC 311 : JT 2003 Supp (1) SC 25 held:

"Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by words or letter. Although negligence is not fraud but it can be evidence on fraud. (See Derry v. Peek, [L.R.] 14 App. Cas. 337) In Lazarus Estate v. Berly, [1971] 2 WLR 1149 the Court of Appeal stated the law thus:

"I cannot accede to this argument for a moment "no Court in this land will allow a person to keep an advantage which he has obtained by fraud. No judgment of a Court, no order of a Minister, can be allowed to stand if it has been obtained by fraud. Fraud unravels everything". The Court is careful not to find fraud unless it is distinctly pleaded and proved; but once it is proved it vitiates judgments, contracts and all transactions whatsoever."

In S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu v. Jagannath, (1994) 1 SCC 1 this Court stated that fraud avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal."

23. An act of fraud on court is always viewed seriously. A collusion or conspiracy with a view to deprive the rights of the others in relation to a property would render the transaction void ab initio. Fraud and deception are synonymous.

24. In Arlidge & Parry on Fraud, it is stated at page 21:

"Indeed, the word sometime appears to be virtually synonymous wit "deception", as in the offence (now repealed) of obtaining credit by fraud. It is true that in this context "fraud" included certain kind of conduct which did not amount to false pretences, since the definition referred to an obtaining of credit "under false pretences, or by means of any other fraud". In Jones, for example, a man who ordered a meal without pointing out that he had no money was held to be guilty of obtaining credit by fraud but not of obtaining the meal by false pretences : his conduct, though fraudulent, did not amount to a false pretence. Similarly it has been suggested that a charge of conspiracy to defraud may be used where a "false front" has been presented to the public (e.g. a business appears to be reputable and creditworthy when in fact it is neither) but there has been nothing so concrete as a false pretence. However, the concept of deception (as defined in the Theft Act, 1968) is broader than that of a false pretence in that (inter alia) it includes a misrepresentation as to the defendant's intentions; both Jones and the "false front" could now be treated as cases of obtaining property by deception."

25. Although in a given case a deception may not amount to fraud, fraud is anathema to all equitable principles and any affair tainted with fraud cannot be perpetuated or saved by the application f any equitable doctrine including resjudicata.

26. In Shrisht Dhawan v. Shaw Brothers, (1992) 1 SCC 534 : AIR 1992 SC 1555], it has been held that:

"Fraud and collusion vitiate even the most solemn proceedings in any civilized system of jurisprudence. It is a concept descriptive of human conduct."

27. In S.P. Chengalvaraya v. Jagannath [(1994) 1 SCC 1] this Court in no uncertain terms observed:

"…The principles of "finality of litigation" cannot be passed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The Courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the Court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not process of the Court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person whose case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the Court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation…. A fraud is an act of deliberate deception with the design of security something by taking unfair advantage of another. It is a deception in order to gain by another's loss. It is a cheating intended to get an advantage… A litigant, who approaches the Court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him, which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would be guilty of playing fraud on the Court as well as on the opposite party."

28. In Indian Bank v. Satyam Fibers (India) Pvt. Ltd. [(1996) 5 SCC 550], this Court after referring to Lazarus Estates (supra) cases observed that 'since fraud affects the solemnity, regularity and orderliness of the proceedings of the Court it also amounts to an abuse of the process of the Court, that the Courts have inherent power to set aside an order obtained by practising fraud upon the Court, and that where the Court is misled by a party or the Court itself commits a mistake which prejudices a party, the Court has the inherent power to recall its order".

It was further held:

"The judiciary in India also possesses inherent power, specially under Section 151 CPC, to recall its judgment or order if it is obtained by fraud on Court. In the case of fraud on a party to the suit or proceedings, the Court may direct the affected party to file a separate suit for setting aside the decree obtained by fraud. Inherent powers are powers, which are resident in all Courts, especially of superior jurisdiction. These powers spring not from legislation but from the nature and the constitution of the tribunals or Courts themselves so as to enable them to maintain their dignity, secure obedience to its process and rules, protect its officers from indignity and wrong and to punish unseemly behaviour. This power is necessary for the orderly administration of the Court's business."

29. In Chittaranjan Das v. Durgapore Project Limited, 99 CWN 897, it has been held:

"Suppression of a material document which affects the condition of service of the petitioner, would amount to fraud in such matters. Even the principles of natural justice are not required to be complied within such a situation.

It is now well known that a fraud vitiates all solemn acts. Thus, even if the date of birth of the petitioner had been recorded in the service returns on the basis of the certificate produced by the petitioner, the same is not sacrosanct nor the respondent company would be bound thereby."

55. Apparently, had the revisionist been impleaded and were granted an opportunity to contest and the aforesaid documents would have been placed on record of the Tribunal then at least its impact could have been noticed and assessed by the Tribunal after hearing the concerned parties while giving its verdict, however, this Court finds that in absence of the revisionist who were not impleaded and they could not raise their defence nor could produce the relevant documents before the Waqf Tribunal, hence, they have been deprived of an opportunity to contest as they were both necessary and proper parties.

56. It is no doubt true that the scope of revision is not as wide as rights exercised by an Appellate Authority but the fact remains that even while exercising the powers of revision in terms of Section 83 (9) of the Waqf Act, 1995, the Court has the power to see the legality and proprietary of the order impugned and in order to ascertain the same, this Court in the aforesaid facts and circumstances finds that there are number of issues which require consideration; (i) Whether in terms of Clause 6, the subsequently purchased properties were waqf property or not; (ii) whether a lease hold property could be made the subject matter of a waqf (iii) whether the mutawalli who by his conduct has been treating a particular property as a waqf and later takes recourse to certain acts which is adverse to his status of a mutawalli viz.a.viz. the Waqf and its effect; (iv) whether the free hold deed got executed by the mutawalli in his personal name and thereafter the said property was sold to the respondent no. 5, what rights would accrue to the respondent no. 5 is also an issue to be considered; (v) whether the respondent no. 5 was a bonafide purchaser for valuable consideration and whether his rights are protected in terms of Section 44 of the Transfer of Property Act; (vi) whether the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act viz.a.viz, the provisions contained in the Government Grants Act, 1885 are applicable; (vii) whether Mohd. Abdul Jalil Faridi could have bequeathed the waqf properties by way of a will and could have made his daughter a mutawalli by a testamentary disposition to the exclusion of his sisters as per their personal law is also an issue which requires consideration; (viii) whether the decisions of this Court in Mst. Peeran and Abhishek Shukla (supra) would have an impact in the given facts and circumstances of this case.

57. The issues as noticed above could have been adjudicated had the persons having right and interest in the waqf would have been impleaded. Unfortunately, the revisionists were not impleaded as a party and even the Waqf Board while filing its response before the Waqf Tribunal did not raise a relevant defence but a formal written statement filed which was nothing but an eye-wash and in such circumstances, this Court is of the clear opinion that the presence of the revisionists before the Waqf Tribunal was necessary and imperative.

58. Having arrived at the aforesaid conclusion that the presence of the present revisionists before the Waqf Tribunal was imperative and it was further necessary to have given an opportunity of hearing to the revisionists as the matter involved deeper questions as noticed above which required adjudication. Hence, in the aforesaid circumstances, the impugned order dated 04.07.2018 is set aside. The petition no. 37 of 2018 before the Waqf Tribunal shall stand restored. The parties shall appear before the Tribunal on 01st July, 2024 and the revisionist shall be entitled to move an formal application for impleadment along with their written statements and documents in case if such an application is moved, the same shall be allowed. The parties shall be permitted to lead evidence on the issue emerging from their pleadings including the issues noticed by this Court and after affording full opportunity of hearing to the parties, but without granting an unnecessary adjournments, the Waqf Tribunal shall hear the matter afresh and pass appropriate orders in accordance with law by a reasoned and a speaking order.

59. It is made clear that this Court has only allowed the revision on question no. (i) i.e. the revisionists were necessary and proper parties and they have been deprived of an opportunity to contest and the question no. (ii) is left open to be decided on merits after due contest, hence, any observation made by this Court may not be taken as an expression of opinion on merits of the matter. The parties shall be at liberty of raising all pleas open to them in law including on the issue of admissibility and relevancy of documents filed by the respective parties which shall be decided by the Tribunal in accordance with law.

60. Accordingly, the revision is allowed in the aforesaid terms. Costs are made easy.

THE HON'BLE RAJNISH KUMAR, J.

Second Appeal No. 66 of 1992

Smt. Saroj Jaiswal ...Appellant
Versus
L.I.C. Of India Branch Sitapur ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Avadhesh Kumar

Counsel for the Respondent:
P.K. Khare, Raj Kumar Singh

Insurance - Insurance Claim and Double Accident Benefit - Accidental Death - Drowning In the instant case, deceased had a life insurance policy with a double accident benefit. After his death, his legal heir (the appellant) received ₹21,103.40 as a full and final settlement of the policy amount without protest. Subsequently, the appellant filed a Regular Suit seeking additional double accident benefit, claiming the death was due to accidental drowning. Doctor stated in his evidence that he had not examined the body of the deceased to determine the cause of death. Held :- Court held that death on account of drowning cannot be determined merely by observation and the external condition of the body; it can only be ascertained by an internal examination of the body. It could not be proved that the deceased died on account of drowning as an accidental death. Therefore, the plaintiff-appellant was not entitled for double amount of policy in terms of insurance policy. (Para 16)

Dismissed. (E-5)

List of Cases cited:

Kodali Purnachandra Rao & anr. Vs The Public Prosecutor, Andhra Pradesh; (1975) 2 SCC 570

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Avadhesh Kumar, learned counsel for the appellant. None appeared on behalf of the respondent even in the revised list.

2. This second appeal has been filed under Section 100 of the Civil Procedure Code against the judgment and decree dated 28.09.1991 passed by the District Judge, Sitapur in Civil Appeal No.57 of 1991; Life Insurance Corporation of India Vs. Smt. Saroj Jaiswal by means of which the appeal has been allowed and the judgment and decree appealed against has been set-aside and the suit of the plaintiff-appellant has been dismissed with cost through out.

3. The facts, giving rise to this appeal, are that the plaintiff-appellant filed a suit for the recovery of Rs.20,000/- with interest at the rate of eighteen per cent per annum towards the amount of policy and Rs.548.60 paise towards the excess premium paid and Rs.2500/- towards the accidental interest on the ground that late Vijay Singh had taken a policy on 28.12.1977 from the defendant-respondent, which was a policy for double accident benefit. The plaintiff-appellant was nominee in the said policy. Late Vijay Singh accidentally died by drowning in the river at Gopal Ghat on 14.05.1984, therefore the plaintiff-appellant put a claim and she was paid Rs.21,103.40 paise i.e. the amount of policy but the double accident benefit has not been given, whereas since the policy was for double accident benefit, therefore the appellant is liable to be paid a further sum of Rs.20,000/-, which has not been paid despite demands alongwith other claims.

4. The defendant-respondent contested the suit. It was not denied that the policy was not taken by the deceased Late Vijay Singh on 28.12.1977 for Rs.20,000/-, which was a double accident benefit policy i.e. in case of death by accident, the double amount was to be paid. However it was pleaded that late Vijay Singh had not died on account of an accident. The defendant-respondent had demanded the documents in proof of death by accident, which were not furnished, therefore the amount of policy was paid which was accepted by the plaintiff-appellant towards full and final payment of the final claim under the policy and for this reason also the plaintiff-appellant is not entitled to any further amount.

5. Learned trial court, after exchange of pleadings, framing of necessary issues and evidence adduced by the parties, allowed the suit holding the plaintiff-appellant entitled the double the amount according to the policy. It was also held that the amount of Rs.21,103.40 paise has not been received towards full and final settlement. Accordingly, the suit was decreed by means of judgment and decree dated 19.07.1991 for Rs.20,000/- with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum. However, the suit was dismissed for Rs.548.60 for the excess premium paid and Rs.2500/- as interest. Aggrieved by the part of the decree, the defendant-respondent preferred Civil Appeal No.57 of 1991, which was allowed by the District Judge, Sitapur by means of the judgment and order dated 28.09.1991 setting aside the judgment and decree appealed against and dismissed the suit of the plaintiff-appellant. Hence this second appeal has been filed.

6. The following substantial questions of law have been formulated in this appeal:-

"1. Whether on the basis of medical attendant certificate issued by the doctor and the evidence adduced before the tribunal, the deceased can be held to be died on account of drowning as an accidental death and the appellants are entitled for double amount of policy in terms of insurance policy ?

2. Whether acceptance of the original amount of policy with full and final satisfaction will amount to relinquishment of the double amount of policy.?"

7. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that late Vijay Singh had taken a policy for double accident benefit. He had died accidentally on account of drowning, a certificate in regard to which was given by the family doctor of the plaintiff-appellant, who was also a panel doctor of the defendant-respond i.e. Life Insurance Corporation of India, therefore the plaintiff-appellant is entitled for the amount of Rs.20,000/- towards the double benefit and other claims as claimed by him in the suit filed by him. However the same has wrongly and illegally been denied to him. He further submitted that the trial court, after considering the pleadings of the parties and evidence adduced before it, had rightly and in accordance with law decreed the suit and directed to make the payment of Rs.20,000/- alongwith interest at the rate of six per cent per annum. However the appellate court wrongly and illegally, without considering that a panel doctor of the defendant-respondent corporation has given a certificate of accidental death of late Vijay Singh by drowning, which was also proved by him by oral evidence, allowed the appeal and dismissed the suit, which could not have been done.

8. He further submitted that merely because the plaintiff-appellant had accepted Rs.21,103.40 paise in full and final satisfaction of claim, it could not be said that the claim for double amount on the basis of double accident policy is not maintainable because the said amount was accepted as the plaintiff-appellant was entitled for the same and it can not be said that the appellant is not entitled for the double amount on the basis of double accident policy.

9. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant and perused the records.

10. Late Vijay Singh had taken a policy of Rs.20,000/- on 28.12.1977, which was a policy for double accident benefit. He had died on 14.05.1984, therefore the claim was put forth by the plaintiff-appellant and she was paid the amount of policy i.e. Rs.21,103.40 paise, which was accepted by plaintiff-appellant towards full and final payment without any protest. Thereafter the appellant claimed the benefit of the double accident policy and filed a Regular Suit No.258 of 1987 claiming the same. After exchange of pleadings, four issues were framed by the trial court; (1) As to whether the plaintiff is entitled to receive the amount in dispute, (2) As to whether the plaintiff-appellant is entitled for any interest, if so, on what rate, (3) As to whether the plaintiff would be stopped from receiving the claim of double accident benefit, since she has received towards the full and final settlement as mentioned in paragraph- 18 of the written statement and (4) The plaintiff is entitled for which relief.

11. The trial court partly allowed the suit and decreed for double accident benefit of Rs.20,000/- but dismissed for rest of the relief. Being aggrieved, the respondent filed civil appeal, which has been allowed and the judgment and decree passed by the trial court has been set-aside and the suit of the appellant has been dismissed. Hence the instant second appeal has been filed, in which the aforesaid substantial questions of law have been formulated.

12. In view of above and the first substantial question law formulated by this Court, this Court has to consider as to whether the appellant is entitled to double amount of the accident benefit of the policy, treating the death of late Vijay Singh as a result of the accident. The plaintiff-appellant preferred the claim alleging that the death was caused due to drowning and it was accidental death. On her application the defendant-respondent demanded the inquest report and postmortem report to prove the accident, which was not submitted, therefore the claim of the plaintiff-appellant for double accident benefit was not accepted. The plaintiff-appellant has claimed that the death was result of drowning and therefore she is entitled to double of the amount of the policy, therefore she had to prove that the insured late Vijay Singh had died by accident of drowning. The plaintiff-appellant to prove her claim got herself examined as PW-1 and Dr. Laxmi Narain Agarwal as PW-2, who after examining the deceased had issued the medical attendant certificate, which was filed before the trial court to prove that the death was due to drowning.

13. PW-2 had issued the medical attendant certificate, which was placed on record as paper no.15 Ga-1/7. He admitted in his cross-examination that he is family doctor of the plaintiff-appellant, therefore he was called to examine the deceased after he was taken out of water and he found him dead. However no certificate was given by him on that day i.e. 14.05.1984 and it was given by him subsequently on 25.07.1984. In the certificate he has not mentioned any symptom or condition to show that the death was on account of drowning. He also stated in his cross-examination that certificate was issued by him regarding the death and not for the reason of the death. He also stated that he did not examine the dead body with a view to find the cause of death, therefore admittedly he had not examined the cause of death, therefore it can not be disputed that he had mentioned the cause of death on the information given by the appellant.

14. The medical attendant certificate (paper no.15 Ga-1/7) is on a proforma of the Life Insurance Corporation of India. Clause-5-(a) of the certificate is 'what was the exact cause of death? (Besides defining the deceased or other cause or death in such terms as you consider appropriate, kindly add the distinotive technical name)'. Sub clause (b) is 'was it ascertained by examination after death or inferred from symptom and appearance during life.' Sub clause (g) is 'Did you attend him during the whole of it's course? If not, state during what period?' Against the sub clause (a), the PW-2 has given the primary cause "Drowning" and secondary cause 'nil', whereas as per sub-clause (a) of clause-5 the distinotive technical name was also to be added but the same has not been given. It is obvious because PW-2 had not examined the body of deceased to know the reason of death, therefore he has rightly not given. Against the sub-clause (b), PW-2 mentioned 'accidental drowning case' but it has not been disclosed in terms of sub-clause (b) as to whether it was ascertained by the examination after death or inferred from symptoms and appearance and what was symptoms and appearance. Against sub-clause (g), PW-2 mentioned 'yes, just after taking out of water, I was consulted', therefore admittedly PW-2 was consulted after the body was out of water. Therefore, admittedly PW-2 was consulted and had seen the dead body after taking out of the water. When the evidence of PW-2 as disclosed above is considered in the light of the observations made in the medical attendant certificate, this Court finds that the PW-2 could not prove that the death of insured person was as a result of the drowning.

15. The first appellate court, after considering the evidence of PW-2, has recorded a finding that his statement does not prove that the death of the insured person was as a result of the drowning. The appellate court has further recorded that the respondent i.e. the plaintiff-appellant has not produced any evidence to prove this fact, no postmortem report was produced, no person who might have seen the insured person drowning has been examined and from the circumstances it is not established that the death was the result of drowning.

16. The death on account of drowning can not be determined merely by observance and the external condition of the body. The doctor has also stated in his evidence that he has not examined the body of the deceased to know the reason of death. The reason of death has also not been given by the doctor, which could also not have been given without internal examination of the body which could reveal symptoms which may indicate with certainty as to whether the death was from drowning or from unlawful violence or any other reason before the body was immersed in water. If the body was immersed in water after some violence with the body or any other reason for the death it can not be said that the death was accidental on account of drowning.

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Kodali Purnachandra Rao and Another Vs. The Public Prosecutor, Andhra Pradesh; (1975) 2 SCC 570, has held that medical jurists have warned that in the case of a dead body found floating in water, the medical man from a mere observance of the external condition of the body should not jump to the conclusion that the death was from drowning and it can be ascertained only by internal examination of the body. The relevant paragraph- 42 is extracted here-in-below:-

"42. Medical jurists have warned that in the case of a deadbody found floating in water, the medical man from a mere observance of the external condition of the body should not jump to the conclusion that the death was from drowning. Only internal examination of the body can reveal symptoms which may indicate with certainty as to whether the death was from drowning or from. unlawful violence before the body was immersed in water. That is what Taylor the renowned medical jurist, has said on the point:

When a deadbody is thrown into the water. and has remained there sometimes water. fine particles of sand, mud. weeds etc. may pass through the windpipe into the large air-tubes. In these circumstances, however, water rarely penetrates into the smaller bronchi and alveoli as it may by aspiration, and even the amount which passes through the glottis is small. If immersed after death the water is found only in the larger air-tubes and is unaccompanied by mucous froth. Water with suspended matters can penetrate even to the distant air-tubes in the very smallest quantity even when not actively inhaled by respiratory efforts during life The quality, or nature of the suspended matter may be of critical importance.

When decomposition is advanced the lungs may be so putrefied as to preclude any opinion as to drowning but the demonstration of diatoms in distant parts of the body inaccessible except to circulatory blood, provides strong evidence of immersion in life-if not of death from drowning." (emphasis supplied)

17. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the appellate court and as discussed above it could not be proved that the deceased died on account of drowning as an accidental death, therefore the plaintiff-appellant is not entitled for double amount of policy in terms of insurance policy.

18. The plaintiff-appellant received Rs.21,103.40 paise and issued a receipt towards the full and final payment and discharged the claim and demands under the above mentioned policy of the insured. It has not been alleged that the receipt has been signed without knowing the contents. The plaintiff-appellant has signed the receipt in English and it appears that she had signed after fully knowing it. The plaintiff-appellant has also received the amount without reserving any right towards full and final satisfaction of the claim under the policy. The first appellate court, after examining the pleadings, evidence and receipt given by the plaintiff-appellant, has recorded a finding that the respondent i.e. the plaintiff-appellant has signed the receipt in English and it appears that the respondent new English and signed the receipt knowing as to what is written in it. The appellate court, considering the case laws relied by the plaintiff-appellant also, has recorded a finding that the respondent i.e. the plaintiff-appellant without reserving any right has accepted Rs.21,103.40 in full and final satisfaction of the claim under the policy therefore the claim for double of the amount is not maintainable. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the appellate court. Accordingly, this Court is of the view that the acceptance of the amount of policy with full and final satisfaction will amount to relinquishment of the double amount of policy.

19. In view of above and considering the over all facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that on the basis of medical attendant certificate issued by the doctor and the evidence adduced before the trial court, it could not be proved that the death of the deceased was as a result of drowning as an accidental death, therefore the plaintiff-appellant is not entitled for double amount of policy in terms of insurance policy. The plaintiff-appellant has also accepted the original amount of policy i.e. Rs.21,103.40 paise towards full and final satisfaction without reserving any right, which will amount to relinquishment of double amount of policy. The aforesaid substantial questions of law formulated in this appeal are answered accordingly. Thus, this second appeal is misconceived and devoid of any merit, which is liable to be dismissed.

20. The second appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE RAJNISH KUMAR, J.

Second Appeal No. 352 of 2003

Hriday Ram & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Paras Nath & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Bajrang Bahadur Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
Ved Prakash Yadav

U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 - Section 9 - Private wells, trees in abadi, and buildings are to be settled with the existing owners or occupiers thereof - Sahan - Sahan refers to land appurtenant to a house that is beneficial to it. If such land has been used by the owners prior to the abolition of Zamindari, it would be deemed to be settled with them under Section 9 of the said Act - Suit for Permanent Injunction - Appellants filed suit for permanent injunction claiming that the land in dispute is their Sahan and appurtenant land to their house, which has been settled with them. Held - Admittedly, the land in dispute faces the respondents' house and is on its northeastern side, not the appellants', as indicated by the Commissioner in his report. Appellants have their Sahan in front of their houses on the northern side. Therefore, the land in dispute cannot be said to be appurtenant land of the appellants' houses and is not settled with them under Section 9 of the Act of 1950 (Para 16).

Civil Procedure Code, S. 96 - First Appeal - First appellate court agreeing with the view of the trial court need not restate the effect of the evidence or reiterate the reasons given by the trial court; expression of general agreement with reasons given by the court, decision of which is under appeal, would ordinarily suffice. (Para 20)

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Bajrang Bahadur Singh, learned counsel for the appellants and Shri Ved Prakash Yadav, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This Second Appeal under Section 100 of the Civil Procedure Code 1908 has been filed for setting aside the judgment and decree dated 30.09.2003, passed by the Additional District Judge/Special Judge, E.C.Act, Court Room No.8, Sultanpur in Civil Appeal No.5 of 1998; Hriday Ram and others Versus Ram Kuber and others and the judgment and decree dated 11.11.1997 passed by the Civil Judge,(Jr.Div.), North, Sultanpur in Regular Suit No.949 of 1993; Hriday Ram and others Versus Ram Kuber and others.

3. This appeal was admitted to decide the following substantial questions of law:-

"1. Whether, the report of the Commissioner indicating that disputed abadi falls facing the house of the defendant, will it deprive the plaintiff appellant to use the abadi land as it was used by the common members of the family?

2. Whether, the claim based on the joint property and there is admission of the defendant that three Bhitoor and Ghhor are in existence, the courts below could reject such admission of the defendant without arising (which should be assigning) any cogent reason whatsoever?

3. Whether, the judgment of the learned appellate court is justifiable as he has said that there is no need to re-examine the evidence although the trial court has misread the evidence of D.W.2 who has given evidence with regard to jointness of the property?

4. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the land in dispute was being used commonly by the plaintiffs-appellants (here-in-after referred as appellants) and the defendants/respondents (here-in-after referred as the respondents) since the time of their ancestors. It is coming from the common ancestors of the parties Bakhtawar. The partition had taken place between the two sons of Bakhtawar i.e. the predecessor-in-interest of the parties Buddhu and Shiv Raj except the land in dispute. The respondents tried to make construction on the land in dispute, therefore the appellants had to file the suit for permanent injunction for restraining the respondents from making any construction on the land in dispute or removing the Ghhor, Condore and Kharhi etc. of the appellants or cut the trees and Banskot etc. without partition. He further submitted that the joint ness of the property was not disputed by D.W.2, but the learned Trial court has misread the same and learned Appellate court without considering the same dismissed the appeal. The courts below have also failed to consider that there is admission of the respondents that three Bhithoor and Ghhor exists on the land in dispute. He further submitted that merely because the land in dispute is facing the house of the defendants does not deprive the appellants from using as his abadi because it was being used by their common members of family. On the basis of above learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the trial court as well as the appellate court have committed grave miscarriage of justice by recording erroneous and perverse findings without considering the evidence on record correctly and dismissed the suit as well as the appeal, therefore the same are liable to be set aside.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents does not dispute regarding their ancestors Buddhu and Shiv Raj. However he submitted that they are in possession on their properties since the time of their ancestors and the question of partition does not arise. The land in dispute was a pond situated on the north-eastern side of the house of the respondents which was filled in by the respondents and they are in possession of the said land since prior to abolition of Zamindari. Thus they have got the right and entitlement over that land in dipsute under Section 7-AA of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1950 (here-in-after referred as the Act of 1950) and it is settled with them on abolition of Zamindari under Section 9 of the said Act. On the basis of above learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the trial court as well as the appellate court have rightly and in accordance with law considered the evidence and material on record and dismissed the suit as well as the appeal filed by the appellants. There is no illegality or error in the impugned judgments and decrees passed by the courts below, which may call for any interference by this court. The appeal is misconceived and lacks merit, which is liable to be dismissed with cost.

6. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

7. The Suit for permanent injunction was filed by the appellants claiming joint-ness of the land in dispute between the appellants and the respondents. The appellants claim that the land in dispute was a common Abadi of both the parties. They use to utilize it as their Sahan for Ghoor, Kandore, Kharahi etc. Their grainery (Khalihan) also used to be on the said land. However for the last 12 years their grainery (Khalihans) used to be on separate lands. Both the parties have Banskot, trees of Mango, Jamun, Goolar, Seesam, Babul etc. on the land in dispute. The Plaintiff No.1 and 2 have 1/4th share each and defendants No.1, 2 and 3 have 1/6th share each in the land in dispute. There is no partition in regard to the land in dispute between the parties. However it has been admitted that the properties of the parties were coming from the common ancestor Bakhtawar and the partition had taken place between the sons of Bakhtawar i.e. Buddhu and Shiv Raj and thereafter the parties are in possession on their portions. The following pedigree has been given:-

8. The respondents have filed written statement denying all the averments made in the plaint. They have also stated that the site plan given in the plaint is without any scale and against the position on spot. It was also stated that the position of house has also wrongly been shown. It has also been stated that the defendants had a door on the northern side of their house since the beginning and their Sahan is on the northern side and in the said appurtenant land there is Khalihan and Sariya. Their houses are separate since the time of their ancestors Buddhu and Shiv Raj. There is passage between both the houses. It has also been denied that there was any common residence of their family or fooding of their fathers Buddhu and Shiv Raj, therefore the question of partition does not arise. Their Abadi is separate since the beginning. It has also been stated that the respondents have filled the pond on the north-eastern side of their house and they are using it for keeping their animals and various purposes of agriculture and keeping Kolhu Gulaur, Ghoor and Khalihan since prior to abolition of Zamindari, thus the same is settled with them under Section 9 of the Act of 1950. The land in dispute is their Sahan and appurtenant land to their house, which is settled with them.

9. After exchange of pleadings seven issues were framed by the trial court. Considering the pleadings of the parties and the evidence on record the trial court dismissed the suit holding that the plaintiffs have failed to prove from their evidence that the land in dispute is in the joint ownership and possession of the plaintiffs and defendants, rather it has been found that the defendants are the exclusive owner and in possession of the land in dispute. The land in dispute as per site plan given by the appellants in their plaint and the Commissioner Report is on the north-eastern side of the house of respondents. The house of the appellants is on the western side of the house of the respondents and there is a passage between their houses.

10. The P.W.1, in his statement on oath, has admitted that the partition had taken place between Buddhu and Shiv Raj during their life time and their houses, agricultural fields and fooding had separated. The trial court has recorded a finding that it is apparent from the Khasra Abadi Ext.1 that since 1935 or prior to that their houses were partitioned. The respondents have also given the evidence that they are in possession and are owner of the land in dispute and the appellants are on their part since the time of Buddhu and Shiv Raj as they had separate properties. They have denied the joint-ness of property. In any case it is not in dispute that the parties are in possession and owner of their properties since the time of Buddhu and Shiv Raj.

11. In view of above, even if the contention of appellants is taken to be correct that the parties had joint properties and the partition had taken place between Buddhu and Shiv Raj in their life time then the question arises as to when all the properties were divided, as to why the land in dispute was not divided between them. Learned counsel for the appellants also failed to give any explanation to this despite repeated queries made by the court. Therefore the contention of the appellants that the land in dispute was also a joint property of the parties is misconceived and not tenable.

12. Now the question arises as to whether the land in dispute, which falls on the north-eastern side of the house of the respondents can be said to be appurtenant land of the appellants, which may have settled with them under Section 9 of the Act of 1950. It is settled law that the land appurtenant to the house which is beneficial for house is called the appurtenant land i.e. Sahan and if the same is being used by them since prior to abolition of Zamindari, it would be deemed to be settled with them under Section 9 of the said Act.

13. The appurtenant land is a land which may be used for the purpose of use of the building. The Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the 'appurtenance' in the case of Maharaj Singh Versus State of U.P. and others; (1976) 1 SCC 155 and has held that the 'appurtenance' is dependence of the building on what appertains to it for its use as a building. The relevant paragraphs 27 and 28 are extracted here-in-below:-

"27. "Appurtenance', in relation to a dwelling, or to a school, college .... includes all land occupied therewith and used for the purpose thereof (Words and Phrases Legally Defined---Butterworths, 2nd edn).

"The word 'appurtenances' has a distinct and definite meaning ....Prima facie it imports nothing more than what is strictly appertaining to the subject-matter of the devise or grant, and which would, in truth, pass without being specially mentioned:Ordinarily, what is necessary for the enjoyment and has been used for the purpose of the building, such as easements, alone will be appurtenant. Therefore, what is necessary for the enjoy- ment of the building is alone covered by the expression 'appurtenance'. If some other purpose was being fulfilled by the building and the lands, it is not possible to contend that those lands are covered by the expression 'appurte- nances'. Indeed 'it is settled by the earliest authority, repeated without contradiction to the latest, that land cannot be appurtenant to land. The word 'appurtenances' includes all the incorporeal hereditaments attached to the land granted or demised, such as rights of way, of common ...but it does not include lands in addition to that granted'. (Words and Phrase, supra).

28. In short, the touchstone of 'appurtenance' is dependence of the building on what appertains to it for its use as a building. Obviously, the hat, bazar or mela is not an appurtenance to the building. The law thus leads to the clear conclusion that even if the buildings were used and enjoyed in the past with the whole stretch of vacant space for a hat or mela, the land is not appurtenant to the prin- cipal subject granted by s. 9, viz., buildings. This conclustion is inevitable, although the contrary argument may be ingenious. What the High Court has grant- ed, viz., 5 yards of surrounding space, is sound in law although based on guess- work in fact. The appeal fails and is dismissed but, in the circumstances, without costs. "

14. As per own case of the appellants and the site plan appended to the plaint, the Sahan of the appellants is in the northern side of their house. The land in dispute is on the north-eastern side of the house of the respondents. The trial court has recorded a finding on the basis of evidence of P.W.1 at page 5 that the location of the land in dispute is the same as has been given by the Commissioner in the site plan prepared by him, according to which the land in dispute is situated on the north-eastern side of the house of the appellants and respondents and in view of the evidence adduced by the appellants that they filled the pond in front of their house and using the same as Sahan land, Buddhu i.e. predecessor-in-interest of the appellants would have filled the land in front of his house in place of the north-eastern side of the respondents. The trial court has also recorded a finding that P.W.1 has stated in his evidence that their Khalihan is still in the land in dispute, whereas in the plaint they have stated that it is not for the last 12 years. As per evidence of the P.W.1, the land in dispute is adjacent to the house of Baijnath and P.W.2 has admitted in his evidence that it is at a distance of 1-2 Latha of the house of Baijnath. Therefore evidence of P.W.1 cannot be believed in absence of any evidence in regard to joint ownership of property- in-dispute and the evidence of P.W.1 is not supported by the documentary evidence. The evidence of P.W.2 has not been found to be believable in regard to filling of the land in dispute by Buddhu and Shiv Raj jointly because as per his age he would have been 5-7 years of age in 1952 and as per their claim the land in dispute must have been filled prior to that.

15. So far as the admission of defendants in regard of Bithoor and Ghoor on the land in dispute is concerned, merely because the D.W1 and D.W.2 have admitted the existence of three Bithore and Ghoor etc. on the land in dispute it cannot be said to be admission on their part in regard to joint-ness of property because it has been admitted by the parties that the partition has taken place among the defendants themselves, who were five brothers and it may be on account of partition among themselves. A plea was also taken by the appellants that they have no other land except the land in dispute for their Sahan land, whereas P.W.1 has admitted that their father had taken the house etc. of Kanhaiya after giving premium to the Zamindar and Kanhaiya had left the village. It has also been admitted by him in his evidence on oath by P.W.1 that the house and land of Kanhaiya was on the east of his house, therefore the contention in this regard is also misconceived and not tenable.

16. The trial court has recorded the findings on the basis of pleadings, evidence and material on record and the land in dispute, which is situated on the north-eastern side of the house of the parties is not appurtenant to the house of the appellants. Admittedly the land in dispute is facing the house of the respondents and is in it's north-eastern side and not the house of the appellants, which has also been indicated by the Commissioner in his report. The appellants have their Sahan in front of their houses on the northern side. Therefore the land in dispute cannot be said to be appurtenant land of the houses of the appellants, and settled with them under Section 9 of Act of 1950.

17. The appellate court has recorded the findings on the basis of arguments, pleadings and evidence on record and after recording that the P.W. 1 has admitted that the partition had taken place during life time of Buddhu and Shiv Raj, therefore it is very astonishing as to why the partition of the land-in-dispute had not taken place and the same continued for such a long period as a joint property. The appellate court has further recorded a finding that the Khasra of the Abadi was prepared in 1935 in which all the properties of Buddhu and Shiv Raj have been shown separately in their names and if the land in dispute would have been a joint property then the same would have been recorded as such, whereas no properties are recorded as their joint property. The claim of the appellants that prior to consolidation they had no land in front of their house except the land in dispute, is also not sustainable in view of admission of P.W.1 that they had taken property of one Kanhaiya after paying the premium. The Appellate court has also recorded a finding that the land-in- dispute is not in front of the house of the appellants, rather it is in front of the house of the respondents, therefore it is not believable and also not obvious that the plaintiffs would have filled the pond in front of the house of the respondents in place of in front of their house. The appellate court has also recorded a finding on the basis of Khasra that the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants Buddhu had other properties also in addition to the house and the appellants have admitted that they are residing in the house of Buddhu and their Khalihan is not on the land in dispute for the last 12 years, therefore after recording a finding that in this way the contention of the appellants does not seem to be true, held that the trial court has minutely analyzed all the evidences in accordance with law and the appellate court is in agreement with the same, therefore the same is not required to be rebutted.

18. This court is of the view that after recording the relevant findings, if the appellate court has recorded it's agreement with the findings recorded by the trial court and reasons given for recording such findings, there is no illegality or error in it. Learned counsel for the appellant has also failed to show any illegality or perversity in the findings recorded by the trial court.

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Girja Nandini Devi Versus Bijendra Narain Choudhury; AIR 1967 SC 1124, has held that Expression of general agreement with reasons given by the Court decision of which is under appeal would ordinarily suffice.

20. The aforesaid view was reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Santosh Hazari Versus Purushottam Tiwari; (2001) 3 SCC 179 holding that the appellate court agreeing with the view of the trial court need not restate the effect of the evidence or reiterate the reasons given by the trial court; expression of general agreement with reasons given by the court, decision of which is under appeal, would ordinarily suffice.

21. The aforesaid judgments have been followed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of G.Amalorpavam and others Versus R.C.Diocese of Madurai and others; (2006) 3 SCC 224. The relevant paragraphs 10 to 12 are extracted here-in-below:-

"10. At this juncture it would be relevant to note what this Court said in Girja Nandini Devi v. Bijendra Narain Choudhury [(1967) 1 SCR 93 : AIR 1967 SC 1124] . In AIR para 12 it was noted as follows : (SCR p. 101 F-G)

"It is not the duty of the appellate court when it agrees with the view of the trial court on the evidence either to restate the effect of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial court. Expression of general agreement with reasons given by the Court decision of which is under appeal would ordinarily suffice."

11. The view was reiterated in Santosh Hazari v. Purushottam Tiwari;[(2001) 3 SCC 179] . In para 15 it was held with reference to Girja Nandini Devi case [(1967) 1 SCR 93 : AIR 1967 SC 1124] as follows : (SCC pp. 188-89)

"The appellate court has jurisdiction to reverse or affirm the findings of the trial court. First appeal is a valuable right of the parties and unless restricted by law, the whole case is therein open for rehearing both on questions of fact and law. The judgment of the appellate court must, therefore, reflect its conscious application of mind and record findings supported by reasons, on all the issues arising along with the contentions put forth, and pressed by the parties for decision of the appellate court. The task of an appellate court affirming the findings of the trial court is an easier one. The appellate court agreeing with the view of the trial court need not restate the effect of the evidence or reiterate the reasons given by the trial court; expression of general agreement with reasons given by the court, decision of which is under appeal, would ordinarily suffice (see Girja Nandini Devi v. Bijendra Narain Choudhury [(1967) 1 SCR 93 : AIR 1967 SC 1124]). We would, however, like to sound a note of caution. Expression of general agreement with the findings recorded in the judgment under appeal should not be a device or camouflage adopted by the appellate court for shirking the duty cast on it. While writing a judgment of reversal the appellate court must remain conscious of two principles. Firstly, the findings of fact based on conflicting evidence arrived at by the trial court must weigh with the appellate court, more so when the findings are based on oral evidence recorded by the same Presiding Judge who authors the judgment. This certainly does not mean that when an appeal lies on facts, the appellate court is not competent to reverse a finding of fact arrived at by the trial Judge. As a matter of law if the appraisal of the evidence by the trial court suffers from a material irregularity or is based on inadmissible evidence or on conjectures and surmises, the appellate court is entitled to interfere with the finding of fact. (See Madhusudan Das v. Narayanibai [(1983) 1 SCC 35 : AIR 1983 SC 114] .) The rule is—and it is nothing more than a rule of practice—that when there is conflict of oral evidence of the parties on any matter in issue and the decision hinges upon the credibility of witnesses, then unless there is some special feature about the evidence of a particular witness which has escaped the trial Judge's notice or there is a sufficient balance of improbability to displace his opinion as to where the credibility lies, the appellate court should not interfere with the finding of the trial Judge on a question of fact. (See Sarju Pershad v. Jwaleshwari Pratap Narain Singh [1950 SCC 714 : 1950 SCR 781 : AIR 1951 SC 120] .) Secondly, while reversing a finding of fact the appellate court must come into close quarters with the reasoning assigned by the trial court and then assign its own reasons for arriving at a different finding. This would satisfy the court hearing a further appeal that the first appellate court had discharged the duty expected of it. We need only remind the first appellate courts of the additional obligation cast on them by the scheme of the present Section 100 substituted in the Code. The first appellate court continues, as before, to be a final court of facts; pure findings of fact remain immune from challenge before the High Court in second appeal. Now the first appellate court is also a final court of law in the sense that its decision on a question of law even if erroneous may not be vulnerable before the High Court in second appeal because the jurisdiction of the High Court has now ceased to be available to correct the errors of law or the erroneous findings of the first appellate court even on questions of law unless such question of law be a substantial one."

12. It has been categorically recorded by the High Court that the first appellate court had considered the evidence led on behalf of the parties and has given findings to come to the conclusions arrived at. It noted that the lower appellate court had independently considered the evidence and had given different findings on the issues framed by the trial court and on the basis of the arguments which were advanced before it. It was further noted that there was detailed discussion giving reasons for affirming the order of the trial court. Learned counsel for the appellants had urged that the suit filed by the plaintiff was not maintainable as the plaintiff was the diocese represented by its procurator. It was submitted that the plaintiff is not entitled to any relief as was prayed for in the suit. This point was not urged before the High Court and, therefore, it would not consider necessary to go into that aspect. Judged in the background of legal principles set out above, the judgment of the High Court does not suffer from any infirmity."

22. In view of above and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case this court is of the view that the trial court has rightly and in accordance with law considered and recorded findings on the basis of pleadings and evidence adduced before it including the evidence of D.W.2. The impugned judgment and decrees passed by the trial court as well as the appellate court have rightly been passed in accordance with law, which does not suffer from any illegality or error. Thus the substantial questions of law framed in this appeal are answered accordingly. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds and it is liable to be dismissed.

23. The Second Appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to cost.

A. Service Law – Assured Career Progression (ACP) – GO dated 05.11.2014 – Petitioner was retired from service on 31.10.2019, a day before, when he was entitled to his third ACP on 01.11.2019 – Third ACP sought for – Entitlement – Parity with increment claimed – Held, an increment is part of a government servant's pay. It is an accretion to the pay that is earned during the course of employment over the period of one year, subject to good behaviour of the government servant concerned – By contrast, to what an increment is, ACP is very different. It is not something provided in the routine, though it does come as an accretion to the emoluments payable at specified intervals. ACP is a device that has been invented by the Government, as the policy maker, to deal with the problem of stagnation of government employees – If a government servant, who has already retired from service and becomes entitled to his ACP, a day after his retirement, he too has no right to it – The principle, governing the grant of notional increment in a case where increment falls due, a day after retirement, would not apply to the case of grant of ACP. (Para 9, 10 and 11)

There being inaction in the matter of award of the third ACP, the petitioner represented the matter both to the Chief Engineer, Minor Irrigation, Department of Irrigation, Government of U.P., Lucknow and the Executive Engineer, Minor Irrigation Wing, Hapur, but to no avail. The petitioner buttresses his claim to the third ACP at the end of the 26 years of satisfactory service, relying upon a Government Order dated 05.11.2014. There is a mention of this order in paragraph No.10 of the writ petition, but no copy thereof has been annexed.

Executive Engineer, Minor Irrigation Wing, Hapur, requiring them to show cause by their separate affidavits within a week why the petitioner's third ACP had not been granted. In compliance, the Chief Engineer and the Executive Engineer, respondent Nos.2 and 3, respectively, filed their affidavits, both dated 22.11.2023. These affidavits have been treated as counter affidavits. The petitioner has not filed a rejoinder. On the 24th of November, 2023, parties having exchanged pleadings, this petition was admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

4. Heard Mr. Rampyare Lal Srivastava, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Pramod Kumar Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents.

5. In the affidavit filed on behalf of the Chief Engineer, Minor Irrigation, Department of Irrigation, Government of U.P., Lucknow, the relevant facts brought out are that the petitioner was appointed an Assistant Boring Technician on 17.02.1986 by the Chief Development Officer, Meerut vide his order dated 12.02.1986. The Executive Engineer, Minor Irrigation Division, Meerut, by his order dated 30.06.1995, granted a notional promotion to the petitioner on the post of a Boring Technician w.e.f. 01.11.1993. The Executive Engineer, Minor Irrigation Division, Meerut, by an order of 8th May, 2002, granted an additional increment to the petitioner upon completion of 8 years of regular satisfactory service on the post of a Boring Technician. This benefit was extended w.e.f. 01.11.2001. According to the Chief Engineer, in accordance with the Government Order dated 01.10.2009, the petitioner was extended the pay scale of Rs.5000-150-8000/- w.e.f. 01.11.2007 vide order dated 27.12.2007 passed by the the Executive Engineer, Minor Irrigation Division, Meerut on completing 14 years' regular satisfactory service. It was vide order dated 10.09.2012, the Executive Engineer, Minor Irrigation Division, Meerut granted the second ACP to the petitioner, relating to the post of a Boring Technician in the grade pay of Rs.4600/-. This was granted to the petitioner w.e.f. 01.11.2009 on completing 16 years of regular service.

6. It is pointed out that the petitioner has come up with a grievance that certain records show that five Junior Engineers, whose details are given in the writ petition, have been granted the benefit of the third ACP on 01.11.2019. It is the respondents' case that out of the five Junior Engineers, three, that is to say, Om Prakash Singh, Brajpal Singh and Vinod Kumar Sharma, retired on 31.10.2020, 31.07.2021 and 31.03.2023, respectively. The two others, to wit, Mehak Singh and Tejpal Singh, are scheduled to retire on 30.11.2025 and 31.12.2025, respectively. They are still in service. Thus, the benefit of the third ACP, to each of the above mentioned five Junior Engineers, has been granted on account of each of them being in service on the date when the benefit was given. It is next averred on behalf of the respondents that the benefit of the third ACP was due to the petitioner on 01.11.2019, but he retired from service on 31.10.2019. It is for the said reason that benefit of the third ACP could not be extended to him.

7. The learned Counsel for the petitioner, however, argues that the principle applicable in case of increment, that is earned during the entire year and becomes payable on the following day after retirement, is granted notionally to the retiring employee for the purpose of determining his post retiral benefits, should also be extended to the case of award of the ACP. He submits that it is not disputed that the petitioner would have been entitled to his third ACP on 01.11.2019, but he retired from service on 31.10.2019. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the authority of the Supreme Court in The Director (Admn. and HR) KPTCL and others v. C.P. Mundinamani and others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 401 in support of his contention.

8. The learned Counsel for the respondents has, however, argued that the grant of an ACP is entirely different from earning of increments and the principle in C.P. Mundinamani (supra) would not apply to the case of award of ACP at all. The principle in C.P. Mundinamani regarding payment of annual increment to an employee, who had earned it throughout the year, but retires from service on the succeeding day, when it becomes payable, holding him entitled to it notionally, has been laid down by the Supreme Court thus:

"20. Similar view has also been expressed by different High Courts, namely, the Gujarat High Court, the Madhya Pradesh High Court, the Orissa High Court and the Madras High Court. As observed hereinabove, to interpret Regulation 40(1) of the Regulations in the manner in which the appellants have understood and/or interpretated would lead to arbitrariness and denying a government servant the benefit of annual increment which he has already earned while rendering specified period of service with good conduct and efficiently in the last preceding year. It would be punishing a person for no fault of him. As observed hereinabove, the increment can be withheld only by way of punishment or he has not performed the duty efficiently. Any interpretation which would lead to arbitrariness and/or unreasonableness should be avoided. If the interpretation as suggested on behalf of the appellants and the view taken by the Full Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court is accepted, in that case it would tantamount to denying a government servant the annual increment which he has earned for the services he has rendered over a year subject to his good behaviour. The entitlement to receive increment therefore crystallises when the government servant completes requisite length of service with good conduct and becomes payable on the succeeding day. In the present case the word "accrue" should be understood liberally and would mean payable on the succeeding day. Any contrary view would lead to arbitrariness and unreasonableness and denying a government servant legitimate one annual increment though he is entitled to for rendering the services over a year with good behaviour and efficiently and therefore, such a narrow interpretation should be avoided. We are in complete agreement with the view taken by the Madras High Court in the case of P. Ayyamperumal (supra); the Delhi High Court in the case of Gopal Singh (supra); the Allahabad High Court in the case of Nand Vijay Singh (supra); the Madhya Pradesh High Court in the case of Yogendra Singh Bhadauria (supra); the Orissa High Court in the case of AFR Arun Kumar Biswal (supra); and the Gujarat High Court in the case of Takhatsinh Udesinh Songara (supra). We do not approve the contrary view taken by the Full Bench of the Andhra Pradesh High Court in the case of Principal Accountant-General, Andhra Pradesh (supra) and the decisions of the Kerala High Court in the case of Union of India v. Pavithran (O.P.(CAT) No.

111/2020 decided on 22.11.2022) and the Himachal Pradesh High Court in the case of Hari Prakash v. State of Himachal Pradesh (CWP No. 2503/2016 decided on 06.11.2020)."

9. An increment by its nature is generically different from ACP. An increment is part of a government servant's pay. It is an accretion to the pay that is earned during the course of employment over the period of one year, subject to good behaviour of the government servant concerned. An increment is a routine accretion, that accrues on regular interval, of which a government servant may be deprived in certain contingencies, such as the imposition of a minor punishment. Therefore, if a government servant works throughout the year, completing the period of time entitling him to increment but retires on the day it would actually be added to his salary, the principle of notionally granting that increment has been evolved by Courts, so as to eschew arbitrariness. If merely for the reason that a government servant retires on the day, when the increment would have been added to his salary, if he were in service, but is deprived of it due to retirement though he has already earned it over the period of time of one year, until the day preceding his retirement, he has been held entitled to it notionally by preponderant authority in the High Courts, and, of course, the final approval of this view by the Supreme Court.

10. By contrast, to what an increment is, ACP is very different. It is not something provided in the routine, though it does come as an accretion to the emoluments payable at specified intervals. ACP is a device that has been invented by the Government, as the policy maker, to deal with the problem of stagnation of government employees. There are many cadres and posts in government service, where there are no promotional avenues. It is to remove stagnation that the benefit of ACP is given at specified intervals in three instances. It is a substitute for promotion, or so to speak, a kind of promotion itself. The essence of ACP, therefore, is stagnation of a government employee on a particular post with no avenues of promotion that entitles him to it at the end of a particular period of time. In the nature of things, therefore, a government servant, who retires from service, even a day before he becomes entitled to his next ACP, would not be entitled to it. We think that the test about entitlement to an ACP lies in the fact if on the date a government servant demands it, would he be entitled to a consideration for promotion. Therefore, a government servant, who has already become entitled to promotion, say a few weeks or days before his retirement from service and is wrongfully denied consideration, may enforce his right to be notionally considered for promotion. Such a government servant may also enforce his right to receive his ACP, if it is a case of stagnation and he is entitled to it under the rules.

11. Let us take the case of a government servant, who says that under the rules he would be entitled to promotion on the date following his retirement. Would he be entitled to enforce his right in a Court against the employers to consider his case for promotion, albeit notionally. This Court is of opinion that the answer is an obvious no. If a government servant, who has already retired from service and becomes entitled to his ACP, a day after his retirement, he too has no right to it. The right to be considered for promotion under the rules has to be judged for a government servant, who is still in harness when the right accrues. Else, there is no such right. No authorities, apart from those relating to the grant of notional increments in the matter of annual increments, were brought to this Court's notice during the course of arguments and we do not think that the principle, governing the grant of notional increment in a case where increment falls due, a day after retirement, would apply to the case of grant of ACP.

12. In this view of the matter, there is no force in this petition. It fails and is dismissed.

13. There shall be no order as to costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 09.05.2024

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.

Second Appeal No. 340 of 2024

Kammo Since Deceased & Ors.
...Appellants
Versus
Shahmim Ahmad & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Ajay Kumar Sharma

Counsel for the Respondents:
Utpal Chatterji

A. Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - ORDER VIII, Rule 4, 5 - Evasive denial in Written statement - Order 8 Rule 4 of C.P.C. mandates that defendants must make specific denials. Order 8 Rule 5 of C.P.C. mandates that every allegation of fact in the plaint should be denied specifically or by necessary implication, and if it is not done, the said allegation shall be treated as admitted. In the instant case, the Defendant challenged the impugned judgment on the ground that, as per the waqf deed, the male descendant shall be appointed as Mutawalli, and as Usman was elder to plaintiff no. 2, therefore, Usman could only be appointed as Mutawalli. Court found that it was stated in paragraph no. 1 of the plaint that plaintiff no. 2 was the Mutawalli of plaintiff no. 1. In reply to the aforesaid assertion in the plaint, defendants in paragraph no. 1 of the written statement have made a bald denial. Court was of the view that such denial does not come within the periphery of denial as contemplated under Order 8 Rule 4 of C.P.C. Court was of the view that the denial about the appointment of plaintiff no. 2 as Mutawalli was only an evasive denial, inasmuch as if the defendants were disputing the appointment and competence of plaintiff no. 2 to act as Mutawalli of plaintiff no. 1, the defendants should have specifically pleaded the grounds on which they alleged that plaintiff no. 2 could not be appointed as Mutawalli. (Para 32, 33, 34)

B. Waqf Act, 1995, S. 83 - Jurisdiction - Appellant argued that an amendment in Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995 was incorporated by Act No. 27 of 2013, and sub-section 1 of Section 83 was substituted, and after the amendment, the civil appeal preferred by the plaintiff stood abated, and the remedy of the plaintiff was to file a fresh suit before the Waqf Tribunal. The question of jurisdiction was not raised by the defendants before the court below. However, since the question of jurisdiction raised by the appellant was a pure question of law, therefore, the Court proceeded to consider the same. The amendment was incorporated w.e.f. 01.11.2003. Civil court decided the lis between the parties on 06.08.2011 by dismissing the suit and an appeal was filed by the plaintiff/ respondents. Parties participated in the suit voluntarily, and the suit was decided by the competent court. Appeal is a continuation of the suit, but the appeal should always lie to a higher forum. Since the amending act is silent about the forum of appeal in cases where the suit had been decided by the competent civil court before the incorporation of the amendment in the Waqf Act, therefore, the First Appellate Court was the competent court to decide the appeal, and the objection of jurisdiction raised in the appeal was held to be devoid of merit. (44, 45)

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Sharma, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Utpal Chatterji, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The present appeal has been preferred by the defendants/appellants challenging the judgement and decree dated 03.02.2024 passed by the First Appellate Court i.e. Additional District Judge, Court No.20 Meerut in Civil Appeal No.163 of 2011 whereby he has allowed the civil appeal preferred by the plaintiffs/respondents.

3. The brief facts of the case are that plaintiff no.1 is the waqf in the name of Waqful Aulad Kayam Karda of which plaintiff no.2-Shamim Ahmad is the Mutawalli. As per the plaint case, defendants/appellants (hereinafter referred to as "defendants") are the tenants of a land of about 100 yards described at the foot of the plaint. The rent of the land was Rs.5 per month and the registered rent deed dated 18.05.1972 was executed between the plaintiff and defendant no.1 through Mutawalli Suleman (as he then was), who was the elder brother of plaintiff no.2.

4. It is further pleaded that defendant no.1 stopped paying the rent Since July 2002, and he sublet the suit property to Naseem (defendant no.4), Saleem (defendant no.3) and Anees (defendant no.2) without the consent of plaintiff, and subletting of the suit property by defendant no.1 to defendant nos.2 to 4 violated terms and conditions of the rent deed dated 18.05.1972.

5. The plaintiff gave a registered notice dated 25.08.2008 under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act to the defendants through the registered post which was served upon them. Another notice dated 25.08.2008 was separately given to defendant nos.2 to 4 asking them to vacate the suit property. The aforesaid notice was replied to by the defendants by stating false and incorrect facts in their reply.

6. In the aforesaid backdrop, the plaintiff prayed for the following relief:-

"14- यह कि वादीगण अदालत मजाज से दर्ज जैल दादरसी पाने के अधिकारी है:-

अ- यह कि बसदूरे डिग्री अदालत हाजा दखल वाकई वव कामिल बाद बेदखली प्रतिवादीगण 1 ता 4 आराजी जेरे मलवा हाल नं०-46 व साबिका नम्बर 89 वाके मौहल्ला चोक बजरया, मकबरा अब्बू धोसीयान, मेरठ जिसका हदूदर्बा वाद पत्र के अन्त में दे रखा है महदूदा जैल का कब्जा बजरिये अमीन अदालत वादीगण को दिलाया जावे।

ब- यह कि मुबलिग 178/-रूपये बावत किराया वादीगण की प्रतिवादी नं०-1 से दिलाया जावे।

स- यह कि वासलात मुबलिग 1140/-रूपये दिनांक 26-9-08 से 2-11-08 तक तीस रूपया योमिया प्रतिवादीगण से दिलाया जावे।

द- यह कि वाद का कुल खर्चा वादीगण को प्रतिवादी नं०-1 से दिलाया जावे।

ध- यह कि अदालत की राय में जो भी अन्य प्रतिकार बेहतर हो वह वादीगण को विरुद्ध प्रतिवादीगण दिलाये जावे।"

7. The suit was contested by the defendants denying the averments of the plaint contending inter-alia that they have attempted to pay rent by sending the rent to plaintiff, but the plaintiff refused to accept it. It is also pleaded that there is no breach of the terms and conditions of the rent deed. Accordingly, the defendants pleaded that the suit was based on incorrect facts and deserved to be dismissed.

8. The Trial Court framed as many as eight issues. Issue no.1 on which the finding has been assailed by the appellant is relevant and is reproduced below:

"1. क्या विवादित मालवा नंबर 46 हाल व साबिका नंबर 89 घोसीयान मकबरा अब्बू चौक मेरठ वादी सं०1 की संपत्ति है तथा वादी सं० 2 वादी सं०1 का मुतवल्ली, मुन्तजिम एवं मुनाफाखोर है?"

9. The Trial Court considered the waqf deed and after analysing the stipulations in the waqf deed, it concluded that according to the waqf deed, the male lenient descendant shall be appointed as Mutawalli. It found that the waqf was created by Dr. Gulam Haidar and after the death of Dr. Gulam Haidar, his eldest son Suleman, the next male lenient descendant was appointed as Mutawalli. The Trial Court further recorded a finding that plaintiff no. 2-Shamim Ahmad was the youngest brother among the three sons of Dr Gulam Haidar namely, Suleman, Usman and Shamim Ahmad, and Usman was next in line being younger to Suleman and elder to plaintiff no.2-Shamim Ahmad after the death of Suleman should have been appointed as Mutawalli, therefore, plaintiff no.2 could not have been appointed as Mutawalli. Thus, plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli of plaintiff no.1 was not competent to institute the suit for eviction. Consequently, the Trial Court dismissed the suit.

10. The plaintiff/respondent being aggrieved by the order of the Trial Court preferred civil appeal before the First Appellate Court which was allowed by the First Appellate Court and the suit of the plaintiff was decreed.

11. The First Appellate Court held that the finding of the Trial Court that plaintiff no.2 could not have been appointed as Mutawalli as after the death of Suleman, Usman being younger to Suleman and elder to plaintiff no.2 should have been appointed as Mutawalli is erroneous and illegal.

12. In recording the aforesaid finding, the First Appellate Court noticed that Usman was present during the recording of the testimony of plaintiff no.2-Shamim Ahmad, and he did not raise any objection to the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli.

13. The First Appellate Court after considering and appreciating in detail the testimony of plaintiff no.2 and considering the fact that Usman was present at the time of recording the testimony of plaintiff no.2 and he did not raise any objection about the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli of the waqf held that the Trial Court erred in law and committed manifest illegality in holding that plaintiff no.2 could not have been appointed as Mutawalli, and he was not competent to institute the suit. The First Appellate Court also considered the other issue and found substance in the submission of the plaintiff and consequently, it allowed the appeal and decreed the suit.

14. Challenging the judgement and decree passed by the First Appellate Court, learned counsel for the appellant has raised twofold submissions; he submits that finding of the First Appellate Court that plaintiff no.2 was Mutawalli of the waqf and he was competent to institute the suit is perverse and illegal inasmuch as the First Appellate Court has misinterpreted the waqf deed in concluding that plaintiff no.2 could be appointed as Mutawalli. He submits that as per the waqf deed, the male lenient descendant shall be appointed as Mutawalli and it is admitted on record that Usman was next in line after Suleman inasmuch as Usman was younger to Suleman and elder to plaintiff no.2, therefore, Usman could only be appointed as Mutawalli, and appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli was illegal and in violation of the waqf deed.

15. He further contends that it is evident from the resolution of the Waqf Board dated 27.04.2010 appointing plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli, that plaintiff no.2 was not the Mutawalli on the date of institution of suit, and therefore, he was not competent to institute the suit. Accordingly, it is contended that the finding of the First Appellate Court in this regard is erroneous, and the question of law which arises for consideration in the present case is "whether the First Appellate Court has committed manifest illegality in reversing the finding of the Trial Court with regard to the fact that plaintiff no.2 could not be appointed as Mutawalli and was not competent to institute the suit."

16. He further submits that an amendment in Section 83 of the Waqf Act, 1995 has been incorporated by Act No.27 of 2013 and sub-section 1 of Section 83 has been substituted by the said Act, and after this amendment, the civil appeal preferred by the plaintiff stood abated, and the remedy of the plaintiff was to file a fresh suit before the Waqf Tribunal.

17. In rebuttal to the aforesaid submission, Sri Utpal Chatterji, learned counsel for the respondents has contended that there is no pleading in the written statement about the fact that the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli was in contravention of the waqf deed. It is submitted that the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli has not been assailed by the defendants in the written statement, and no specific plea has been set up in this regard, therefore, in the absence of any pleading challenging the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli, the Trial Court could not have gone into the question of the validity of appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli nor any evidence could have been led on the said point in absence of any pleading challenging the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli in the written statement, therefore, the Trial Court has committed manifest illegality in holding that plaintiff no.2 could not have been appointed as Mutawalli. He submits that the law is settled that in the absence of any pleading, the evidence cannot be read and in this respect, he has relied upon the two judgments of Apex Court in the cases of Executive Officer, Arulmigu Chokkanatha Swamy Koil Trust, Virudhunagar Vs. Chandran and Others (2017) 3 SCC 702 & Kashi Nath (Dead) Through LRS. Vs. Jaganath (2003) 8 SCC 740.

18. He further submits that the First Appellate Court has recorded a categorical finding that Usman was present during the recording of the testimony of plaintiff no.2, and he did not raise any objection nor appeared as a witness disputing the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli. He submits that the said finding has not been assailed by the defendants in the present appeal and in such view of the fact, no substantial question of law arises in the appeal calling upon the Court to invoke the power under Section 100 of C.P.C.

19. It is also submitted by Sri Utpal Chatterji, learned counsel for the respondents that the plaintiff/respondent has not disputed the validity of the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli even in their reply to the notice of the plaintiff.

20. So far as the question whether the First Appellate Court has jurisdiction to hear the appeal after amendment in Section 83(1) of the Waqf Act, he submits that the said issue was not raised by the plaintiff before the Trial Court as well as First Appellate Court and no issue was framed on this point, and therefore, the same cannot be raised the for the first time in the second appeal.

21. In the alternative, he submits that amendment in Section 83(1) of the Waqf Act was incorporated by Act No.27 of 2013 w.e.f. 01.11.2013 whereas the suit was decided by the Trial Court on 06.08.2011, therefore, lis between the parties has been decided by the competent civil court before the amendment was incorporated in Section 83(1) of the Waqf Act, and the appeal shall lie to a higher forum against the judgement and decree of the Trial Court, therefore, the submission of learned counsel for the appellant in respect of the competence of First Appellate Court in deciding the appeal is devoid of merit. He submits that the First Appeal before the First Appellate Court was maintainable being the higher court and the Waqf Act is silent in respect of the cases which have already been decided by the competent civil court before amendment in Section 83(1), and in such view of the fact, the First Appellate Court was competent to hear the appeal.

22. He has placed reliance upon the Preamble of the amending act which states that the Waqf (Amendment) Act, 2013 shall come into force on the date it was notified by the Central Government, and the amending act does not specify that it shall come into operation retrospectively, therefore, the act would operate prospectively, and proceeding pending before the competent Civil Court before amendment shall continue with the Civil Court and thus, for this reason also, the submission of learned counsel for the appellant with regard to jurisdiction of First Appellate Court is misconceived.

23. In rebuttal to the contention of learned counsel for the respondents that no specific plea has been raised by the defendants in the written statement disputing the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli, learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance upon paragraph no.1 of the written statement of the defendants to contend that the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli has been denied by the defendants specifically, and the Trial Court framed the issue on this point, and no objection was raised by the plaintiff in respect to framing of such issue by the Trial Court and thus, the plaintiff was aware of the issue involved in the suit and object of the pleading is to communicate the other side to know the case of the party so that he or she may be in a position to reply the same, therefore, the submission of learned counsel for the respondents that no specific plea has been raised by the defendants disputing the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli is without substance. In this respect, he has placed reliance upon two judgments of the Apex Court in the cases of Bhagwati Prasad Vs. Chandramaul 1966 AIR (SC) 735 & Ram Sarup Gupta (Dead) by L.Rs. Vs, Bishun Narain Inter College and Others 1987 (2) SCC 555.

24. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

25. The specific case of the plaintiff was that plaintiff no.1 is the waqf and plaintiff no.2 is the Mutawalli. It is not disputed that the defendants are the tenants. The only issue which is being raised and contented by the learned counsel for the appellant is that the suit was not instituted by a competent person inasmuch as plaintiff no.2 was not appointed Mutawalli as per the waqf deed inasmuch as the male lenient descendent shall be appointed as Mutawalli as per the waqf deed. Thus, after the death of Suleman (the then Mutawalli), his next brother Usman could have been appointed as Mutawalli and not the youngest brother plaintiff no.2.

26. The reading of the waqf deed discloses that it provides that only male lenient descendent shall be appointed as Mutawalli, and there is no stipulation in the waqf deed which expressly or impliedly stipulates that the next male lenient descendant in line shall be appointed as Mutawalli. The waqf deed is silent in this regard, and learned counsel for the appellant could not place any stipulation in the waqf deed which expressly or impliedly discloses the intention of the creator of the waqf that after the death of Mutawalli, the next male lenient descendant in line shall be appointed as Mutawalli.

27. In the present case, the First Appellate Court has recorded a categorical finding that Usman, who was the next male lenient descendant after Suleman, was present in the court at the time of recording of the testimony of plaintiff no.2 and he did not raise any objection with regard to the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli. The relevant finding of the First Appellate Court is reproduced herein below:-

''सुलेमान और शमीम अहमद के बीच का भाई उस्मन है। इस जिरह से यह भी स्पष्ट हो जाता है कि उस्मान ने प्रत्यर्थी कम्मू से किराये की मांग नहीं किया। यहां तक उस्मान भी जिरह के समय न्यायालय में उपस्थित था। सुलेमान का देहान्त 2003 में हो गया है। पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य से यह स्पष्ट नहीं हो पा रहा है कि खलीलउर्रहमान का सुलेमान से क्या संबंध है। वक्फनामा के अनुसार ज्येष्ठ की मृत्यु के बाद उससे छोटा मुतवल्ली होगा, इस प्रकार सुलेमान की मृत्यु के बाद वक्फ की संपत्ति का मुतवल्ली उस्मान को होना चाहिए। उस्मान ने वादी संख्या 2 के मुतवल्ली होने के दावे को प्रश्नगत किया हो ऐसा कोई साक्ष्य नहीं आया है। इस वाद में प्रतिपरीक्षा के समय उस्मान की उपस्थिति और शमीम के मुतवल्ली होने के कथन को आक्षेपित न करना, उस्मान की ओर से शमीम अहमद की मुतवल्ली होने के बावत मौनानुकूलता दर्शित करता है।''

28. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that plaintiff no.2 was not competent to institute the suit as he was appointed Mutawalli by the Board of plaintiff no.1 in the year 2010 is concerned, the resolution dated 27.04.2010 of Waqf Board of the plaintiff no.1 establishes the fact that plaintiff-waqf had no objection to the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli, and the said letter implies that the Board of plaintiff no.1 has ratified the action of the plaintiff no.2 in instituting the suit.

29. At this stage, it is also relevant to consider the submission of learned counsel for the respondents that no specific denial has been made by the defendants in the written statement disputing the validity of the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli.

30. The learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance upon paragraph no.1 of the written statement to contend that in paragraph no.1 of the written statement, defendants have denied the contents of paragraph no.1 of the plaint. To appreciate the said argument, it would be useful to have a glance at paragraph no.1 of the plaint and paragraph no.1 of the written statement of defendant nos.1 to 4 which are reproduced herein below:-

Paragraph no.1 of the plaint:-

"1-यह कि आराजी मुतादावीया जिसकी तफसील अर्जी दावे के आखिर में दी है वादी नं०-1 की सम्पत्ति है और वादी नं०-2 वादी नं०-1 का मुत्तावल्ली, मुनतजिम व मुनाफा खोर है। वादी नं०-2 वादी नं०-1 की जायदाद की देखभाल व इन्तजाम करता है और वादी नं०-2 को कानूनी तोर पर और वक्फ नामे में दी गई शराईत की रोशनी में वादी नं०-1 की जानिब से दावा दायर करने का पूरा हक है।

Paragraph no.1 of the written statement of defendant nos.1 to 4:-

1- यह की बात पत्र की धारा 1 का कथन ज्ञान न होने के कारण स्वीकार नहीं है। वादी अपने कथन को कठोर साक्ष्य से प्रमाणति करे।"

31. It is stated in paragraph no.1 of the plaint that plaintiff no.2 is Mutawalli of plaintiff no.1.

32. In reply to the aforesaid assertion in the plaint, defendants in paragraph no.1 of the written statement have made a bald denial. There is no specific denial in the written statement with regard to the fact that plaintiff no.2 has not been appointed as Mutawalli as per the waqf deed and his appointment was dehors the waqf deed.

33. This Court is of the view that such denial does not come within the periphery of denial as contemplated under Order 8 Rule 4 of C.P.C. which mandates that defendants must make specific denial. Order 8 Rule 5 of C.P.C. mandates that every allegation of the fact in the plaint should be denied specifically or by necessary implication, and if it is not done so, the said allegation shall be treated to be admitted.

34. If paragraph no.1 of the written statement, reproduced above, is read in the light of the mandate of Order 8 Rule 4 and Order 8 Rule 5 of C.P.C., the Court is of the view that denial about the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli is only an evasive denial inasmuch as if the defendants were disputing the appointment and competence of plaintiff no.2 to act as Mutawalli of plaintiff no.1, the defendants should have specifically pleaded the grounds on which they alleged that the plaintiff no.2 could not be appointed as Mutawalli.

35. Though it is true that in the present case, the Trial Court has framed the issue in respect to appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli, but in the absence of any specific denial in the written statement, the Trial Court did not need to frame an issue regarding the validity of the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli. The Trial Court also could not consider the evidence of the plaintiff in respect of the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli in the absence of any specific pleading by the defendants in the written statement denying the fact that the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli is in contravention to the waqf deed. On the aforesaid proposition of law, it would be useful to have a glance at the judgements of Apex Court namely, Executive Officer (supra) & Kashi Nath (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents.

36. In the case of Executive Officer (supra), the Apex Court affirmed the finding of the Trial Court where the Trial Court discarded the sale deed dated 29.07.1974 in respect of the title of one Padmanabhan in the absence of any pleading claiming title based on sale deed dated 29.07.1974. The Apex Court held "The evidence, with regard to which there is no pleading, has rightly been discarded by the trial court. Unless there is a pleading, especially with regard to the source of title, the defendant of a suit has no opportunity to rebut such pleading. Thus, evidence with regard to which there is no pleading cannot be relied upon by the plaintiff for setting up his title in a suit."

37. The Apex Court in the case of Kashi Nath (supra) in paragraph no.17 has held as under:-

"17. From the judgments of the trial court, first appellate court and the High Court it is clear that there was no consistency so far as the claim regarding the adoption is concerned, particularly as to who and at what point of time it was made. The High Court has taken great pains to extract the relevant variations to indicate as to how it cut at the very root of plaintiff's claim. As noted by the Privy Council in Siddik Mohd. Shah v. Saran AIR 1930 PC 57 (1) and Trojan and Co. v. Rm. N.N. Nagappa Chetiar AIR 1953 SC 235 when the evidence is not in line with the pleadings and is at variance with it and as in this case, in virtual self-contradiction, adverse inference has to be drawn and the evidence cannot be looked into or relied upon. Additionally, as rightly submitted, the conclusion whether there was adoption is essentially one of fact merely depending upon pure appreciation of the evidence on record. This position has been stated in several decisions of this Court; e.g., Rajendra Kumar v. Kalyan (2000) 8 SCC 99 and Raushan Devi v. Ramji Sah (2002 10 SCC 205. Consequently, no exception could be taken to the well-merited findings concurrently recorded by the courts below, with which the High Court also rightly declined to interfere on the facts and circumstances of this case."

38. So far as the judgements relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant are concerned, though, it is no doubt true that the law is settled that the object of the pleading is to communicate the other party the case set up by a party and the Court should be liberal in interpreting the pleadings, and considerations of form cannot override the considerations of substance while ascertaining whether the pleadings though may not be happily worded but are sufficient and communicates the case of parties to other party. To ascertain the said issue, the Court has to apply a test whether, in the facts, the parties did not know what matter was in issue at the trial and had no opportunity to lead evidence in respect of it.

39. If the Court applies the aforesaid principles in the present case in finding out whether paragraph no.1 of the written statement communicates the case of the defendants about the challenge of appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli, this Court is of the view that the answer is 'No' for the reasons given below.

40. The challenge has been laid by the defendants to the appointment of plaintiff no.2 on the ground that under the waqf deed, only the next in line male lenient descendant shall be appointed as Mutawalli. The written statement is bereft of the basic and essential pleadings of the fact as to which clause of the waqf deed was violated in appointing plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli, and the most essential fact which ought to have been pleaded by the defendants that it is only Usman being next male lenient descendant in line after Suleman (the then Mutawalli) could have been appointed as Mutawalli and not the plaintiff no.2 who is younger to Usman.

41. In such view of the fact, this Court is of the view that judgements relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant are not applicable in the facts of the present case inasmuch as if the principles laid down in those judgements are applied in the facts of the present case, it cannot be said by any stretch of imagination that the pleading in the written statement in paragraph no.1 are sufficient and communicate the grounds on which the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli has been assailed.

42. During the argument, learned counsel for the respondents has produced a copy of notice paper no.13Ka/1, and perusal of the same reveals that the defendant has not challenged the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli in reply to the notice of the plaintiff. The defendant has admitted the fact that the suit property was taken on rent by a registered rent note dated 18.05.1972. It is stated that construction was raised by defendants from their sources and the lease in favour of the defendant was perpetual. The reply of the defendant to the notice of the plaintiff reflects that the defendant did not raise any objection to the appointment of plaintiff no.2 as Mutawalli and the competence of plaintiff no.2 to serve such notice upon the defendant.

43. Now coming to the question of jurisdiction in the present case. It is not in dispute that the question of jurisdiction was not raised by the defendants before the court below. However, since the question of jurisdiction raised by the appellant is a pure question of law, therefore, this Court proceeds to consider the same.

44. In the present case, the amendment has been incorporated by Act No.27 of 2013 w.e.f 01.11.2003. Admittedly, the civil court decided the lis between the parties on 06..08.2011 by dismissing the suit. So before the amending act came into force, the Trial Court had already concluded the suit and an appeal had been filed by the plaintiff/respondents. The parties have participated in the suit voluntarily and the suit has been decided by the competent court. The appeal is the continuation of the suit, but the appeal should always lie to a higher forum.

45. Since the amending act is silent about the forum of appeal in cases where the suit had been decided by the competent civil court before incorporation of amendment in the Waqf Act , therefore, the First Appellate Court was competent court to decide the appeal, and the objection of jurisdiction raised in the appeal is devoid of merit.

46. Thus, for the reasons given above, no substantial question of law arises in the present appeal which needs to be answered by this Court. Consequently, the appeal lacks merit and is hereby dismissed with no order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.

Dinesh Chandra ...Appellant
Versus
Santosh Kumar @ Hari Prakash & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Pankaj Agarwal, Vishakha Pande

Counsel for the Respondents:
Rama Shanker Mishra

A. Specific Relief Act, 1963 -Section 19 (1)(b) - Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S. 3 "a person is said to have notice" - S. 3, Explanation I.—Where any transaction relating to immovable property is required by law to be and has been effected by a registered instrument, any person acquiring such property shall be deemed to have notice of such instrument as from the date of registration, provided that - (1) the instrument has been registered and its registration completed in the manner prescribed by the Indian Registration Act, 1908, (2) the instrument has been duly entered in books kept u/s 51 of that Act, and (3) the particulars regarding the transaction to which the instrument relates have been correctly entered in the indexes kept under section 55 of that Act. Unless the three conditions enumerated in the first proviso to Explanation-I are complied with and established on record, so that after the due registration of the instrument, the entries have been made as contemplated under Sections 51 and 55 of the Registration Act, no benefit of the expression "a person is said to have notice" in the interpretation clause defined in Section 3 of the Act, 1882, can be extended to a party, that on registration of an instrument, a person is supposed to have notice about such fact. (Para 28)

B. The Plaintiff/Appellant instituted a suit for specific performance of contract with regard to three registered agreements to sell. It was pleaded that the defendant 1st set illegally executed a sale deed in favour of the defendant 2nd set in respect of the suit property. Defendant 2nd set pleaded that they are bona fide purchasers of the suit property for value and that they had no knowledge about the execution of any agreement to sell. Held: Pleading in the plaint is silent in respect of the compliance of condition nos. 2 and 3 enumerated in the First Proviso to Explanation-I. Fulfilment of the above three conditions is necessary to seek the benefit of Explanation-I to the expression "a person is said to have notice". (Para 27)

C. Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S. 3 "a person is said to have notice" – S. 3 Explanation II - Any person acquiring any immovable property shall be deemed to have notice of the title, if any, of any person who is, for the time being, in actual possession thereof. Held: To claim the benefit of Explanation II, the plaintiff must demonstrate that he is in possession of the suit property. In the present case, the Subordinate Courts have returned a finding that the plaintiff is not in possession of the suit property. Therefore, the plaintiff cannot claim the benefit of Explanation II. (Para 31)

Dismissed. (E-5)

List of Cases cited:

Ram Niwas (Dead) through LRS. Vs Bano (Smt.) & ors., (2000) 6 SCC 685

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and the learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The plaintiff/appellant has preferred the present Second Appeal challenging the judgement and decree dated 12.02.1986 passed by the Additional Civil Judge, Shahjahanpur in Original Suit No.130 of 1984 and judgement and decree dated 03.04.2024 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.43, Shahjahanpur dismissing the appeal of the plaintiff/appellant.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the plaintiff instituted a suit for specific performance of contract with regard to three agreements to sell dated 24.08.1983, 14.12.1983 & 06.01.1984 in respect to the suit property described in the plaint against the respondent nos.1 & 2 (defendant nos. 1 & 2) and respondent nos. 3 to 7 (defendants no. 3 to 7). For convenience, the plaintiff/appellant is referred to as 'plaintiff' and respondents no.1 & 2 are referred to as 'defendant 1st set' and respondents no.3 to 7 are referred to as 'defendant 2nd set'.

4. The plaintiff instituted the suit on the ground that three agreements to sell dated 24.08.1983, 14.12.1983 & 06.01.1984 executed between him and defendant 1st set were duly registered in the office of Sub-Registrar, Shahjahanpur. The plaintiff pleaded that he was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, but the defendant 1st set failed to perform their part of contract. It is further pleaded that the defendant 1st set illegally executed the sale deed dated 06.01.1984 in favour of the defendant 2nd set in respect to the suit property, which gave the plaintiff cause of action to institute the suit for the above relief.

5. The suit was contested by the defendant 1st set by filing a written statement denying the allegations made in the plaint. The defendant 2nd set also filed a written statement denying the averments in the plaint. The defendant 2nd set further pleaded that they are bonafide purchasers of the suit property for value and they had no knowledge about the execution of any agreement to sell, therefore, the suit for specific performance against them deserves to be dismissed.

6. The Trial Court framed as many as nine issues. However, the Trial Court on the issue of "whether the agreement to sell was validly executed" held that the three agreements to sell were duly executed by the defendant 1st set in favour of the plaintiff. The Trial Court framed issue no.8 "whether the defendant 2nd set had any knowledge about the three agreements to sell and the defendant 2nd set are bonafide purchasers".

7. The Trial Court in detail considered the testimony of PW1(Dinesh Chandra), PW2 (Puttu Lal) & PW3 (Rajendra Prasad) and recorded a finding that though PW1 had stated that the defendant 2nd set had knowledge about the agreement to sell, however, PW2 and PW3 stated that they don't know whether any information about agreements to sell was given to the defendant 2nd set. The Trial Court further considered the testimony of DW2 (Siya Ram) who categorically deposed that the defendant 2nd set did not know of the execution of the agreement to sell. The Trial Court further noted that no documentary evidence was filed on record which could establish that the defendant 2nd set had knowledge about the execution of agreements to sell between the plaintiff and defendant 1st set.

8. The Trial Court further noted the argument of the learned counsel for the defendant 2nd set and stated that since the sale deed was executed by the defendant 1st set in their favour within one month from the date of execution of the agreement to sell, and it takes about a month in making relevant entries in the registration office regarding the execution of any agreement to sell in respect of any property or creation of any charge over the property, and since no entry showing execution of any agreement to sell in respect of said property was recorded in the records of the Registrar Office as contemplated under law, therefore, the defendant 2nd set could not collect any document or information about the alleged agreement to sell from the Office of Registrar.

9. The Trial Court after noticing the above facts held that the defendant 2nd set are bonafide purchasers for value, and they had no knowledge about the execution of agreements to sell. Consequently, the Trial Court concluded that the relief of specific performance of contract cannot be granted in the facts of the present case. After recording the above finding, the Trial Court denied the relief of the execution of the sale deed in pursuance of three agreements to sell. However, the Trial Court granted the relief of refund of earnest money paid by the plaintiff to the defendant 1st set under the agreements to sell.

10. The Trial Court further considered in detail the judgement of Original Suit No.429 of 1984 instituted by the defendant 2nd set against the defendant 1st set and the plaintiff, and also the fact that after the sale deed was executed in favour of the defendant 2nd set, the names of defendants 2nd set have been recorded in the rights of record. Consequently, it concluded that the defendant 1st set and plaintiff is not in possession of the suit property.

11. Feeling aggrieved by the judgement of the Trial Court, the plaintiff preferred Civil Appeal No.36 of 1986. The First Appellate Court affirmed the finding of the Trial Court on the issue that the agreements to sell executed between the plaintiff and defendant 1st set were valid. The First Appellate Court while considering the issue whether the defendant 2nd set are bonafide purchasers considered in detail the evidence on record and also the judgement of the Trial Court in Original Suit No.429 of 1984 instituted by the defendant 2nd set against the defendant 1st set and the plaintiff for mandatory injunction, which was decreed by the Trial Court, and has attained finality since it was neither assailed by the defendant 1st set nor by the plaintiff.

12. The First Appellate Court on appreciation of evidence on record found that the defendant 2nd set are bonafide purchasers for the value, and therefore, they are entitled to the benefit of Section 19 (b) of the Specific Relief Act. Consequently, it dismissed the appeal and affirmed the judgement of the Trial Court.

13. Challenging the aforesaid judgment, learned counsel for the appellant has contended that the Subordinate Courts have erred in law in dismissing the suit inasmuch as once a finding has been recorded by the Subordinate Courts that the agreements to sell were validly executed, this implies that due notice of the agreement to sell is to everybody, and Subordinate Courts have failed to consider “Interpretation Clause” in Section 3 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (hereinafter referred to as “Act, 1882”). The learned counsel for the appellant laid emphasis on “a person is said to have notice” in 'Interpretation Clause' to contend that in view of Explanation-I to the expression “a person is said to have notice", it shall be deemed that after the registration of agreement to sell as per law, everyone has notice about execution of the agreement to sell and burden of proof was upon the defendant 2nd set to establish that they had no knowledge or information about the three agreements to sell. It is submitted that in the instant case, since the defendant 2nd set had failed to discharge their burden of proving that they had no knowledge or information about the agreement to sell, therefore, the Subordinate Courts have erred in law in dismissing the suit. In this respect, learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Ram Niwas (Dead) through LRS. Vs. Bano (Smt.) and Others, (2000) 6 SCC 685.

14. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents would contend that defendant 2nd set are entitled to the benefit and protection of Section 19 (b) of the Specific Relief Act inasmuch as defendant 2nd set are bonafide purchasers for value. It is submitted that the defendant 2nd set had proved by leading cogent evidence that they had no knowledge or information about the execution of the agreement to sell, and the Subordinate Courts have recorded categorical findings after appreciating the evidence on record that the defendant 2nd set had no knowledge about execution of the three agreements to sell, consequently, the Subordinate Courts returned a finding that the defendant 2nd set are bonafide purchasers having no knowledge or information about the execution of the three agreements to sell. It is contended that the finding returned by the Subordinate Courts on the aforesaid issue is a finding of fact.

15. It is further contended that the expression "a person is said to have notice" referred to in Section 3 of the Act, 1882 is not attracted in the instant case inasmuch as there is no pleading in the plaint that after execution of the agreement, the conditions enumerated in First Proviso to the Explanation-I to the expression "a person is said to have notice" had been complied with. Accordingly, he submits that the benefit of the expression "a person is said to have notice" in Section 3 of the Transfer of Property Act cannot be extended to the plaintiff.

16. He further placed reliance upon explanation II to the expression "a person is said to have notice" in Section 3 of the Act, 1882 and submits that in the instant case, it is proved on record that the plaintiff was not in possession over the suit property and defendant 2nd set are in possession of the suit property, and in such view of the fact, expression "a person is said to have notice" as quoted in Section 3 of the Act, 1882 is not attracted in the present case. Accordingly, he submits that the finding returned by both the Subordinate Courts are finding of fact and no substantial question of law arises in the present second appeal which calls for the invocation of the power of this Court under Section 100 of C.P.C.

17. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties.

18. So far as the question whether the three agreements to sell were duly executed or not, there is no dispute about the fact that three agreements to sell in favour of the plaintiff were duly executed by the defendant 1st set given the finding returned by the Trial Court as well as Appellate Court in this regard.

19. The sole question which invites the attention of this Court is whether the defendant 2nd set are the bonafide purchasers for value without knowledge to entitle them to protection provided under Section 19 (1) (b) of the Specific Performance Act. The Trial Court in this respect considered the testimony of PW1, and also the testimony of PW2 and PW3 and found that though PW1 had stated that defendant 2nd set knew about the execution of agreements to sell, however, PW2 and PW3 had stated that they did not give any information about the three agreements to sell to the defendant 2nd set.

20. The Trial Court further noticed that DW2 (Siya Ram) had stated in his testimony that he did not know of the execution of agreements to sell. The Trial Court further considered the fact that the sale deed had been executed in favour of the defendant 2nd set within one month from the date of execution of the agreements to sell, and since necessary entries were not made in the Office of Registrar, therefore, defendant 2nd set could not obtain any information or relevant document from the Office of Registrar about the execution of the agreements to sell in respect of the suit property. Consequently, it held that the defendant 2nd set are bonafide purchasers of the suit property and are entitled to the protection provided under Section 19 (1) (b) of the Specific Relief Act.

21. The Appellate Court also considered in detail the testimony of the witnesses led by the plaintiff as well as defendants and also the judgement of the Trial Court in Original Suit No.429 of 1984 instituted by the defendant 2nd set against the plaintiff and defendant 1st set for mandatory injunction, which was decreed by the Trial Court in favour of the defendant 2nd set and has attained finality since no appeal was preferred against the judgement and decree of the Trial Court in Original Suit No. 429 of 1984 either by the plaintiff or by the defendant 1st set. After appreciating the aforesaid facts and evidence on record, the Appellate Court found that the plaintiff was not in possession of the suit property.

22. The Appellate Court also considered the fact that after the execution of the sale deed in favour of the defendant 2nd set, their names have been mutated in the rights of record and they are in possession of the suit property. The first Appellate Court held that the appellant could not demonstrate that the finding of the Trial Court with respect to the possession was perverse or against the record.

23. Now, before proceeding as to "whether the plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of expression "a person is said to have notice" referred in interpretation clause (3) of the Act, 1882, it would be apt to reproduce the same:-

"a person is said to have notice" of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when but for wilful abstention from an enquiry or search which he ought to have made or gross negligence, he would have known it.

Explanation I.—Where any transaction relating to immovable property is required by law to be and has been effected by a registered instrument, any person acquiring such property or any part of, or share or interest in, such property shall be deemed to have notice of such instrument as from the date of registration or, where the property is not all situated in one sub-district, or where the registered instrument has been registered under sub-section (2) of Section

30 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (XVI of 1908), from the earliest date on which any memorandum of such registered instrument has been filed by any Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district any part of the property which is being acquired, or of the property wherein a share or interest is being acquired, is situated:

Provided that—

(1) the instrument has been registered and its registration completed in the manner prescribed by the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (XVI of 1908) and the rules made thereunder,

(2) the instrument or memorandum has been duly entered or filed, as the case may be, in books kept under Section 51 of that Act, and

(3) the particulars regarding the transaction to which the instrument relates have been correctly entered in the indexes kept under Section 55 of that Act.

Explanation II- Any person acquiring any immoveable property or any share or interest in any such property shall be deemed to have notice of the title, if any, of any person who is for the time being in actual possession thereof.

Explanation III.—A person shall be deemed to have had notice of any fact if his agent acquires notice thereof whilst acting on his behalf in the course of business to which that fact is material:

Provided that, if the agent fraudulently conceals the fact, the principal shall not be charged with notice thereof as against any person who was a party to or otherwise cognizant of the fraud."

24. Reading of the said expression in the "Interpretation Clause" reveals that a person is supposed to have notice of a fact when he actually knows the fact or though he ought to have known this fact, but because of his wilful abstention from an enquiry or search which he ought to have made, or gross negligence, he could not acquire the knowledge of such fact. The said expression explains that in case a transaction relating to immovable property is required by law to be and has been effected by a registered instrument, any person acquiring such property subsequently is supposed to have notice of such instrument from the date of its registration.

25. Learned counsel for the appellant has laid emphasis upon the Explanation-I to submit that in the instant case, the transaction of agreements to sell has been effected by the registered document, and therefore, the defendant 2nd set who acquired the said property is supposed to have notice of the three agreements to sell from the date of its registration.

26. It is pertinent to note that Explanation-I is attracted only when the conditions stipulated in First Proviso to the Explanation-I are complied with, which are:-

(1) the instrument has been registered and its registration has been completed in the manner prescribed by the Indian Registration Act, 1908 and the rules made thereunder;

(2) the instrument or memorandum has been duly entered or filed, as the case may be in books kept under Section 51 of that Act and

(3) the particulars regarding the transaction to which the instrument relates have been correctly entered in the indexes kept under Section 55 of that Act.

27. In the present case, the first condition enumerated in the proviso i.e. registration of agreement to sell has been completed in the manner provided by the Registration Act and the Rules framed thereunder are complied with. Condition nos.2 and 3 enumerated in First Proviso are not fulfilled in the instant case as is evident from the perusal of the plaint since the Plaint reveals that the pleading in the plaint is silent in respect to the compliance of condition nos. 2 and 3 enumerated in the First Proviso to Explanation-I. Fulfilment of the above three conditions is necessary to seek the benefit of Explanation-I to the expression "a person is said to have notice". In other words, to seek the benefit of the expression "a person is said to have a notice", the plaintiff has to establish that the above three conditions enumerated in the proviso to Explanation-I have been fully complied with.

28. There is no pleading in the plaint that the instrument or memorandum had been duly entered and filed in the books kept under Section 51 of the Registration Act, and particulars of the transaction to which the instrument relates have been correctly entered in the indexes kept under Section 55 of the Registration Act. Unless three conditions enumerated in the First proviso to Explanation-I are complied with and established on record that after the due registration of the instrument, the entries have been made as contemplated under Sections 51 and 55 of the Registration Act, no benefit of the expression "a person is said to have notice" in the interpretation clause defined in Section 3 of the Act 1882, in the opinion of the Court, can be extended to a party that on registration of an instrument, a person is supposed to have notice about such fact. Thus, for the aforesaid reason, the submission of the counsel for the appellant regarding Explanation -I to the expression "a person is said to have notice" is devoid of merits and is rejected.

29. At this stage, it would also be apposite to consider Explanation-II to the expression "a person is said to have notice" which states that any person acquiring any immovable property or any share or interest in any such property shall be deemed to have notice or title, if any, of a person who is for the time being in actual possession.

30. At this stage, it would be appropriate to consider the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ram Niwas (Supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant. Relevant Paragraphs No. 7 to 9 of the said judgement are reproduced below:

"7. Thus, it is seen that a statutory presumption of "notice" arises against any person who acquires any immovable property or any share or interest therein of the title, if any, of the person who is for the time being in actual possession thereof.

8. The principle of constructive notice of any title which a tenant in actual possession may have, was laid down by Lord Eldon in Daniels Vs. Davison (Ves at P.254). The learned Law Lord observed:

"Upon one point in this cause there is considerable authority for the opinion I hold; that, where there is a tenant in possession under a lease or an agreement, a person, purchasing part of the estate, must be bound to inquire, on what terms that person is in possession."

9. That principle has been followed by various High Courts in India. (See : Faki Ibrahim vs. Faki Gulam Mohidin, AIR 1921 Bombay 459; Mahadeo vs. S.B.Kesarkar, AIR 1972 Bombay 100; Tiloke Chand Surana vs. J.B.Beattie & Co., AIR 1926 Calcutta 204; Parthasarathy Aiyer vs. M. Subbaraya Gramany, AIR 1924 Madras 67 and Mummidi Reddi Papannagiri Yella Reddi vs. Salla Subbi Reddi, AIR 1954 A.P. 20).”

31. Since to claim the benefit of Explanation-II, the plaintiff has to demonstrate that he is in possession of the suit property whereas in the present case, the Subordinate Courts have returned the finding based upon the appreciation of evidence on record that the plaintiff is not in possession over the suit property and the counsel for the appellant could not demonstrate that finding on the issue of possession by the Subordinate courts is perverse or against the record, therefore, the plaintiff cannot claim the benefit of Explanation-II. In such view of the fact, the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Ram Niwas (Supra) is not applicable in the facts of the present case.

32. Since, the Subordinate Courts have returned the finding that the defendant 2nd set are the bonafide purchasers for the value without knowledge and are in possession of the suit property, and the finding in this respect are finding of fact based upon proper appreciation of fact on record, therefore, this Court is of the view that the judgement and decree passed by the courts below are based upon sound principles of law and do not call for any interference by this Court.

33. Since no substantial question of law arises in the present appeal, therefore, the appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly dismissed with no order as to costs.

Second Appeal No. 352 of 2024

Jamia Urdu Aligarh Regd ...Appellant
Versus
Jamia Urdu Sanstha & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Pradeep Kumar Upadhyay

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Sections 61, 62, 63, 64 & 65 - Proof of Document by Secondary Evidence - S. 61 provides that the contents of a document may be proved either by primary evidence or secondary evidence. S. 64 mandates that a document must be proved by primary evidence, except in the circumstances mentioned in S. 65 of the Act. To take benefit of S. 65, a party must establish that it could not produce the primary evidence for bona fide reasons. In this case, original sale deed was not produced before the lower court; only a certified copy of the sale deed was filed i.e. secondary evidence. Plaintiff did not laid any factual foundation in the plaint or filed an application seeking leave of the Court to prove the sale deed by secondary evidence, citing the absence of primary evidence (i.e., the original sale deed). Held: The plaintiff failed to provide a factual foundation justifying the non-production of primary evidence; therefore, the certified copy of the sale deed, being secondary evidence, could not be admitted as evidence. (Para 22)

B. Civil Law - Limitation Act, S. 3: The question of limitation is a pure question of law. If it is evident from the pleadings that the suit is barred by limitation, and there is no need to examine any question of fact to conclude that the suit is barred, the Court has jurisdiction u/s 3 of the Limitation Act to address the issue of limitation, even if the defendant has not raised a plea of limitation or if no issue regarding limitation has been framed. In the present case, plaintiff alleged that the first and second defendants colluded to fraudulently execute the sale deed dated 27.12.2001. Plaintiff instituted the suit in 2010, approximately nine years after the sale deed's execution. However, the plaintiff did not state the date on which he acquired knowledge of the execution of the sale deed. To circumvent the issue of limitation, plaintiff deliberately did not seek the cancellation of the sale deed; instead, he prayed for a decree of permanent injunction to restrain the second defendant from interfering with his possession of the suit property. Held: Despite the issue of limitation not being raised before the Trial Court and the First Appellate Court, the High Court addressed it in the second appeal. The limitation for filing a suit for cancellation of a sale deed is three years; thus, the suit was barred by limitation and rejected since the question of limitation is a pure question of law. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant.

2. The present appeal has been preferred by the plaintiff/appellant challenging the judgement and decree dated 05.03.2024 passed by the First Appellate Court i.e. Additional District Judge, Court No.14, Aligarh in Civil Appeal No.34 of 2017 as well as judgement and order dated 13.01.2017 passed by the Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No.2, Aligarh in Original Suit No.914 of 2010.

3. The case of the plaintiff/appellant (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiff') is that the plaintiff is a registered educational institution having Registration No.625/1983-84 (Renewal No.551/1995) under the Societies Registration Act, 1860, and Smt. Saba Khan is the Registrar of the said institution who is competent to verify and sign the plaint. As per the plaintiff's case, the plaintiff purchased a piece of land measuring 1250.07 square yards out of Khasara No.539 situated at Dhorra Muafi, Pargana & Tehsil Koil, District Aligarh as detailed in Schedule-A at serial no.1 by registered sale deed dated 31.03.1997 executed in pursuance of registered agreement to sale dated 06.03.1997 for a sale consideration of Rs.10,62,500/-.

4. The plaintiff purchased another piece of land measuring 1250.07 square yards abutting the said land towards the southern side of the above land as detailed in Schedule-A at serial No.2 out of Khara No.539 situated at Dhorra Muafi, Pargana & Tehsil Koil, District Aligarh by another sale deed dated 31.03.1997 executed in pursuance to agreement to sell dated 06.03.1997. It is further stated that on 01.06.2010, respondent nos.1 & 2 (defendant first set) and respondent no.3 (defendant second set) (hereinafter referred to as defendant first set and defendant second set) came on the spot and tried to take forcible possession over 111 square yards land out of total land purchased by the plaintiff by the two sale deeds detailed above to raise illegal construction.

5. The further case of the plaintiff is that after getting the knowledge of the sale deed dated 27.12.2001, the plaintiff applied for the certified copy of the said sale deed on 02.06.2010 which was made available to the plaintiff on 05.06.2010. The plaintiff came to know for the first time about the contents of the sale deed and also the fraud and misrepresentation played by the defendant's first set and the defendant's second set in collusion with each other in getting the sale deed dated 27.12.2001 executed.

6. It is further stated that the defendant first set in collusion with the defendant second set created a fake institution in the name of 'Jamia Urdu Sanstha' which is akin to the name of the plaintiff's institution to usurp the property detailed in Schedule-A and to use the registration number of the plaintiff i.e. Jamia Urdu Aligarh. It is further stated that a fraudulent power of attorney was executed on 28.09.2001 in respect of the property of Schedule-A in favour of defendant no.2 (Imran Sabir) who as attorney holder of Jamia Urdu Sanstha, transferred the plot measuring 111 square yards out of Khasra No.539 to the defendant second set detailed at the foot of the plaint as Schedule-B by sale deed dated 27.12.2001.

7. The plaintiff has prayed for the following relief in the aforesaid backdrop:-

(A). That a decree for declaration be passed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants. It be declared that the alleged sale deed dated 27.12.2001 alleged to be executed by defendant No.1 through defendant No.2 as attorney holder in favour of defendant IInd Set with regard to the property in question as detailed at the foot of the plaint in Schedule 'B' registered in Bahi No.1 Zild No.3236 on pages 505 to 512 at No.221 registered on 10.1.2002 in the office of the sub-Registrar, Koil, Aligarh and the information to this effect be sent to the office of the sub-Registrar, Koil, Aligarh.

(B). That a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction be passed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants, the defendants their agents, servants, subordinates, relatives and associates be restrained from taking forcible possession and raising illegal construction over the property in question and also restrain from transferring, alienating and disposing off the property in question as detailed at the foot of the plaint in Schedule 'B' or otherwise in any manner whatsoever.

(C). Cost of the suit be awarded to the plaintiff and against the defendants.

(D). Any other relief or reliefs which may be just and proper be also granted to the plaintiff and against the defendants which may be beneficial to the plaintiff in the circumscribes of the case as also in the opinion of the Hon'ble Court."

8. It appears that the defendant did not appear to contest the suit and the Trial Court proceeded ex-parte. The Trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. परिशिष्ट अ में वर्णित सम्पत्ति का स्वामित्व वादी में निहित है।

2. सम्पत्ति विवादित जिसे वादपत्र के परिशिष्ट ब में वर्णित किया गया है वह परिशिष्ट अ में वर्णित सम्पत्ति का भाग है।

3. सबा खान वादी जामियां उर्दू की रजिस्ट्रार है।

4. प्रतिवादी संख्या-1 एक फर्जी संस्था है जिसने वादी की पंजीकरण संख्या का कपट के द्वारा दुरुपयोग करते हुये बैनामा लिखाया है। ‘‘

9. The Trial Court held that the plaintiff despite having been granted several times did not produce evidence to establish its title over the suit property. The Trial Court further recorded a finding that the plaintiff had filed the true copy of the sale deeds dated 31.03.1997 and 04.06.1997 which had been executed by Nahida Nijami and Jamal Nijami in favour of Jamia Urdu Shiksha Sanstha. The Trial Court while considering the issue whether the scheduled property described in Schedule-B in the plaint is also a part of the property of Schedule-A held that since it is admitted that after the purchase of the land, no construction had been raised, therefore perusal of the boundaries in respect of plot described in Schedule-A and Schedule-B discloses that boundaries of the plot of Schedule-A are not the same which have been shown as boundaries of Schedule-B. The Trial Court further held that the plaintiff failed to establish that the total area of Khasra No.539 was 2500.14 square yards. Accordingly, it concluded that the property described in Schedule B is not part of the property of Schedule A.

10. The Trial Court further held that the plaintiff had failed to establish that defendant no.1-Jamia Urdu Sanstha and plaintiff-Jamia Urdu Aligarh (Registered) are two different societies and Saba Khan was the Registrar of the society of Jamia Urdu Aligarh. The said finding has been returned by the Trial Court on the ground that the plaintiff did not adduce any evidence to establish that the plaintiff and defendant no.1-Jamia Urdu Sanstha are two different societies and Saba Khan was the Registrar of the plaintiff's society. Consequently, the Trial Court found that the plaintiff had failed to prove its case and accordingly, the Trial Court dismissed the suit.

11. The plaintiff being aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the Trial Court preferred a civil appeal which was also dismissed by the First Appellate Court by recording a finding that the plaintiff did not adduce any evidence regarding registration of the society of the plaintiff nor did it produce the constitution of the society. The First Appellate Court further noted that it is evident from the sale deed dated 04.06.1997 that the name of Jamia Urdu Shiksha Sanstha is recorded in the sale deed dated 04.06.1997 whereas the plaintiff in the suit has named itself as 'Jamia Urdu (Registered)'.

12. The First Appellate Court further noted that the plaintiff did not adduce any documentary evidence to establish under what name the plaintiff's society has been registered. Accordingly, it concluded that the name of the plaintiff-Jamia Urdu (Registered) is different from the name mentioned in the sale deed dated 04.06.1997 paper no.32Ga/10 namely Jamia Urdu Shiksha Sanstha. Accordingly, the First Appellate Court concluded that since there was difference in the name of the society, therefore the plaintiff ought to have filed the necessary evidence to establish that the society of the plaintiff is the valid society. The First Appellate Court also found that the plaintiff did not adduce any evidence to prove its title, therefore, the Trial Court has not committed any illegality in dismissing the suit.

13. Challenging the above two orders, learned counsel for the appellant has contended that the finding of the Trial Court, as well as the First Appellate Court, is perverse inasmuch as the plaintiff has filed the certified copy of the sale deed which is secondary evidence and being a public document was liable to be read in evidence, therefore, the Trial Court, as well as First Appellate Court, has erred in law in concluding that the plaintiff had failed to establish its title over the suit property. In support of his submission, he has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Appaiya Vs. Andimuthu @ Thangapandi & Others 2024 (1) JCLR 99 (SC).

14. I have considered the submission advanced by learned counsel for the appellant and perused the record.

15. The suit has been filed by Jamia Urdu Aligarh (Registered) through its Registrar Smt. Saba Khan. The case of the plaintiff is that the plaintiff's society is the registered society under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 and is running an educational institution. The plaintiff for playground, purchased the suit property by two sale deeds dated 31.03.1997 out of Khasara No.539 situated at Dhorra Muafi, Pargana & Tehsil Koil, District Aligarh.

16. According to the plaintiff, the defendant first set- Jamia Urdu Sanstha is a fake society, and it has no authority to grant power of attorney to the defendant's second set-Imran Sabir, therefore, the sale deed executed by the defendant's first set in favour of defendant second set in respect to 111 square yard was illegal. The plaintiff in the aforesaid backdrop had prayed for the relief, extracted above.

17. It is admitted on record that original sale deeds were not filed on record and only the certified copy of the sale dee dated 31.03.1997 has been filed on record which is secondary evidence.

18. Section 61 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1872') provides that the contents of a document may be proved either by primary evidence or secondary evidence.

19. Section 62 of the Act, 1872 deals with primary evidence and Section 63 of the said Act defines secondary evidence.

20. Section 64 of the Act, 1872 provides that a document must be proved by primary evidence except in cases hereinafter mentioned i.e. the circumstances mentioned in Section 65 of the Act, 1872. Section 65 of the Act, 1872 is reproduced herein below:-

"Section 65. Cases in which secondary evidence relating to documents may be given.- Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition or contents of a document in the following cases:-

(a)When the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power-of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved, or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court, or of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66, such person does not produce it;

(b)when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest;

(c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time;

(d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily movable;

(e) when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74;

(f) when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, or by any other law in force in [India] to be given in evidence;

(g) when the originals consists of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection.

In cases (a), (c) and (d), any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible.

In case (b), the written admission is admissible.

In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible.

In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents."

21. In the instant case admittedly, primary evidence i.e. original sale deed was not produced before the court below. As per Section 64 of the Act, 1872, a document must be proved by primary evidence except in cases which have been enumerated in Section 65 of the Act, 1872.

22. In the present case, no factual foundation has been laid by the plaintiff in the plaint or by filing any application seeking leave of the Court to prove the sale deed by secondary evidence on the ground that they do not have the primary evidence i.e. original sale deed. The law is settled that to take the benefit of Section 65 of the Act, 1872, the party has to establish that for bona fide reasons, it could not produce the primary evidence. In the present case, the plaintiff did not lay any factual foundation giving reasons for not producing the primary evidence, therefore, the certified copy of the sale deed being secondary evidence could not be read in evidence.

23. In this respect, it would be beneficial to have a glance at a few judgements of the Apex Court where the Apex Court has elaborated the preconditions for proving a fact by secondary evidence.

24. The Apex Court in the case of H.Siddiqui (Dead) by LRS. Vs. A. Ramalingam (2011) 4 SCC 240 in paragraph 12 has held as under:-

"12. The provisions of Section 65 of the 1872 Act provide for permitting the parties to adduce secondary evidence. However, such a course is subject to a large number of limitations. In a case where original documents are not produced at any time, nor has any factual foundation been laid for giving secondary evidence, it is not permissible for the court to allow a party to adduce secondary evidence. Thus, secondary evidence relating to the contents of a document is inadmissible, until the non-production of the original is accounted for, to bring it within one or other of the cases provided for in the section. The secondary evidence must be authenticated by foundational evidence that the alleged copy is a true copy of the original. Mere admission of a document in evidence does not amount to its proof. Therefore, the documentary evidence is required to be proved by law. The court has an obligation to decide the question of the admissibility of a document in secondary evidence before making endorsement thereon. (Vide Roman Catholic Mission v. State of Madras AIR 1966 SC 1457; State of Rajasthan v. Khemraj (2000) 9 SCC 241, LIC v. Ram Pal Singh Bisen (2010) 4 SCC 491 and M. Chandra v. M. Thangamuthu (2010) 9 SCC 712).”

25. In the case of Rakesh Mohindra Vs. Anita Beri and Others (2016) 16 SCC 483, the Apex Court again reiterated that if a party desires to give secondary evidence, it has to lay down the factual foundation that despite best effort, it is not able to produce primary evidence for the reason beyond its control. Paragraphs nos. 15 & 20 of the said judgement are reproduced herein below:-

“15. The preconditions for leading secondary evidence are that such original documents could not be produced by the party that relied upon such documents in spite of best efforts, unable to produce the same which is beyond their control. The party sought to produce secondary evidence must establish for the non-production of primary evidence. Unless, it is established that the original document is lost or destroyed or is being deliberately withheld by the party in respect of that document sought to be used, secondary evidence in respect of that document cannot accepted.”

20. It is well settled that if a party wishes to lead secondary evidence, the court is obliged to examine the probative value of the document produced in the court or their contents and decide the question of admissibility of a document in secondary evidence. At the same time, the party has to lay down the factual foundation to establish the right to give secondary evidence where the original document cannot be produced. It is equally well settled that neither mere admission of a document in evidence amounts to its proof nor mere making of an exhibit of a document dispense with its proof, which is otherwise required to be done in accordance with law.”

26. In this respect, it would be apt to reproduce paragraphs nos.11, 13, 14 & 17 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Jagmail Singh and Another Vs. Karamjit Singh and Others (2020) 5 SCC 178:-

“11. A perusal of Section 65 makes it clear that secondary evidence may be given with regard to existence, condition or the contents of a document when the original is shown or appears to be in possession or power against whom the document is sought to be produced, or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the court, or of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after notice mentioned in Section 66 such person does not produce it. It is a settled position of law that for secondary evidence to be admitted foundational evidence has to be given being the reasons as to why the original evidence has not been furnished.

13. In the matter of Rakesh Mohindra v. Anita Beri (2016) 16 SCC 483 this Court has observed as under:-

14. It is trite that under the Evidence Act, 1872 facts have to be established by primary evidence and secondary evidence is only an exception to the rule for which foundational facts have to be established to account for the existence of the primary evidence. In the case of H. Siddiqui v. A. Ramalingam (2011) 4 SCC 420, this Court reiterated that where original documents are not produced without a plausible reason and factual foundation for laying secondary evidence not established it is not permissible for the court to allow a party to adduce secondary evidence.

17. Needless to observe that merely the admission in evidence and making exhibit of a document does not prove it automatically unless the same has been proved in accordance with the law."

27. In the case of Appaiya (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant, the Apex Court after considering the various provisions of The Indian Evidence Act, 1872 namely, Sections 61 to 65, Section 74, Section 77, Section 79 and Section 57 (5) of the Registration Act held that the High Court has erred in holding that Exhibit A-1 sale deed dated 27.08.1928 could not be admitted in evidence. The case of Appaiya (supra) is distinguishable and the law postulated in the said case is not applicable in the facts of the present case inasmuch as in the case of Appaiya (supra), the issue before the Apex Court was not that the precondition to prove a document by secondary evidence has been complied with or not whereas in the present case, it is evident from the record that the precondition to prove the sale deed dated 27.12.2001 by secondary evidence has not been complied with inasmuch as plaintiff did not lay any factual foundation establishing that despite its best effort, it could not give primary evidence.

28. Further, this Court may note that the First Appeal Court has recorded a categorical finding that the plaintiff has failed to establish its title by producing cogent evidence. The First Appellate Court also recorded a finding of fact that no evidence had been adduced by the plaintiff to establish that Smt. Saba Khan was the Registrar of the plaintiff's society. The First Appellate Court further held that the sale deed dated 31.03.1997 registered on 04.06.1997 reveals that the sale deed was executed by one 'Jamia Urdu Shiksha Sanstha' whereas the plaintiff is Jamia Urdu (Registered) and it failed to establish that they are the same and there is no difference between plaintiff and Jamia Urdu Shiksha Sanstha. The aforesaid finding returned by the First Appellate Court is a finding of fact, and learned counsel for the appellant did not assail the said finding.

29. It is further pertinent to note that the suit has been filed on the ground that the sale deed dated 27.12.2001 executed by the defendant's first set in favour of the defendant's second set was without authority.

30. The suit was instituted in the year 2010 and there is no pleading in the plaint as to the date on which the plaintiff acquired the knowledge about the execution of the sale deed dated 27.12.2001. Paragraphs No.5 & 6 of the plaint are reproduced hereinbelow:-

"5. That on 1.6.10 the defendants in collusion with each other came on spot and tried to take forcible possession with a view to raise illegal construction over 111 square yards land out of total land 2500.14 square yards aforesaid but they could not get success in their illegal design due to the resistance made by the plaintiff and its employees. However the defendants and their associates clearly alarmed and threatened that they will take forcible possession over 111 square yard land as detailed at the foot of the plaint in Schedule 'B' which is the subject matter in the instant suit and will raise illegal construction and further threatened to transfer, alienate and dispose off the same at any opportune moment.

6. That after getting the knowledge of the said sale deed dated 27.12.2001 the plaintiff applied for obtaining the certified copy of the same on 2.6.2010 which could be available to the plaintiff on 5.6.2010 then the plaintiff for the first time came to know about the contents of the same and also about the fraud, cheating, and misrepresentation committed by the defendants in collusion with each other in obtaining the said sale deed dated 27.12.2001 which is absolutely fraudulent, fictitious, fabricated and forged document which deserves to be declared as null and void on following grounds:-

(A). That the defendants in collusion with each other planned to usurp and swallow up the property of Schedule 'A' of the plaintiff, for that purposes the defendants in collusion with each other collusively, maliciously, fraudulently and fictitiously created a fake institution Jamia Urdu Sanstha and connected the registration No. of the plaintiff i.e. Jamia Urdu, Aligarh and its the then Registrar who is no more in the mortal world without any right and authority executed a General Power of Attorney dated 28.9.01 with regard to the property of Schedule 'A' in favour of defendant No.2 who as attorney holder of Jamia Urdu Sanstha transferred, alienated and disposed of a plot measuring 111 square yards out of Khasra No.539 (out of the land of the plaintiff of Schedule 'A') situated at Dhorra Maufi, Pargana & Tehsil Koil, District Aligarh as detailed at the foot of the plaint in Schedule 'B' by virtue of registered sale deed dated 27.12.2001 for a total sale consideration of Rs.80,000.00/-. The said plot has been transferred out of the land of the plaintiff of Schedule 'A' of which the defendants have no right and authority to do the same in any manner whatsoever.

(B). That the then Registrar Anwar Syeed had no right and authority appointed the general power of attorney holder dated 28.09.01 in favour of defendant No.2 nor defendants Ist Set or the then Registrar of Jamia Urdu, Aligarh or Jamia Urdu Sanstha Aligarh had any right and authority to transfer, alienate or dispose off the land in question or its part to defendants Ist Set in any manner whatsoever more particularly when the institutional property (plaintiff's property) could/cannot be transferred, alienated or disposed off in any manner whatsoever.

(C). That defendant IInd Set never acquired any right, title or interest in the property of Schedule 'B' on the basis of fictitious and forged sale deed dated 27.12.2001. Furthermore, she never became the owner nor got possession over the same.

(D). That the transaction of the sale deed dated 27.12.2001 is absolutely a fake and imposter transaction which does not carry any weight in the eye of law nor the same is recognized under any law.

(E). That no amount of sale consideration ever passed under the said alleged sale deed nor any amount is deposited in the account of the plaintiff.

(F). That the said alleged sale deed never acted upon either on spot or on record.

(G). That the alleged sale deed dated 27.12.2001 is outcome of collusion and connivance of scribe, witnesses, employees of the office of Sub-Registrar, Koil, Aligarh and also of the defendants."

31. The plaintiff to circumvent the question of limitation deliberately did not seek the cancellation of the sale deed dated 27.12.2001 inasmuch as the plaintiff to seek the cancellation of the sale deed had to establish that the suit had been filed within three years from the date it acquired knowledge of the execution of sale deed whereas in the present case, the plaintiff did not state the date of knowledge of the sale deed.

32. The plaintiff has not assailed the sale deed dated 27.12.2001 and surreptitiously, prayed for a decree of permanent injunction restraining the defendant second set from interfering with the possession of suit property.

33. This Court is conscious of the fact that this issue was not raised before the Trial Court and the First Appellate Court, therefore, this Court may not deal with the said issue in the second appeal, but the law is settled that the question of limitation is a pure question of law, and if it is manifest from the pleading that the suit is barred by limitation, and no question of fact is to be gone into to conclude that the suit is barred by limitation, the Court under Section 3 of the Limitation Act has jurisdiction to look into the question of limitation, even if no plea of limitation has been set up by the defendant or no issue is framed regarding limitation. In such an event, the suit deserves to be rejected since the question of limitation is a pure question of law.

34. In this respect, it would be apt to reproduce paragraph 5 of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Narne Rama Murthy Vs. Ravula Somasundaram and Others (2005) 6 SCC 614:-

"5. We also see no substance in the contention that the suit was barred by limitation and that the courts below should have decided the question of limitation. When limitation is the pure question of law and from the pleadings itself it becomes apparent that a suit is barred by limitation, then, of course, it is the duty of the court to decide limitation at the outset even in the absence of a plea. However, in cases where the question of limitation is a mixed question of fact and law and the suit does not appear to be barred by limitation on the face of it, then the facts necessary to prove limitation must be pleaded, an issue raised and then proved. In this case the question of limitation is intricately linked with the question whether the agreement to sell was entered into on behalf of all and whether possession was on behalf of all. It is also linked with the plea of adverse possession. Once on facts it has been found that the purchase was on behalf of all and that the possession was on behalf of all, then, in the absence of any open, hostile and overt act, there can be no adverse possession and the suit would also not be barred by limitation. The only hostile act which could be shown was the advertisement issued in 1989. The suit filed almost immediately thereafter."

35. In the present case, the plaintiff has not stated the date on which he acquired the knowledge of the execution of the sale deed dated 27.12.2001. The limitation for filing a suit for cancellation of the sale deed is three years. The suit was instituted in the year 2010 about 9 years after the date of execution of the sale deed. The facts in the present case demonstrate that the plaintiff deliberately did not pray for the cancellation of the sale deed since the limitation for filing a suit for cancellation of the sale deed is three years whereas in the present case, the suit has been instituted after about 9 years from the date of execution of sale deed. From the pleading in the plaint, it is evident that the suit is barred by limitation and the question of limitation in the instant case is a pure question of law and not a mixed question of fact and law.

36. Therefore, this Court for the aforesaid reason is also of the view that the suit of the plaintiff is nothing but an abuse of the process of law since the plaintiff knew that it could not succeed in the suit being barred by limitation if it prays for cancellation of sale deed.

37. In such view of the fact, this court is of the view that no substantial question of law is involved in the present appeal which needs to be answered by this Court. Consequently, the appeal lacks merit and is hereby dismissed with a cost of Rs.25,000/-.

(Para 14)

B. Service Law – Selection – Requisite qualification – No date was fixed in the advertisement, on which a candidate may possess requisite qualification – Effect – Held, uncertainty of the date may also lead to a contrary consequence viz. even those candidates who do not have the qualifications in praesenti and are likely to acquire them at an uncertain future date, may apply for the posts thus swelling the number of applications. But a still worse consequence may follow, as it may leave open a scope for malpractices. The date of selection may be so fixed or manipulated as to entertain some applicants and reject others, arbitrarily – In the absence of a fixed date indicated in the advertisement/notification inviting applications with reference to which the requisite qualifications should be judged, the only certain date for the scrutiny of the qualifications will be the last date for making the applications. (Para 17)

Special Appeal dismissed. (E-1)

3. Dipitimayee Parida Vs St. of Orissa; 2008 (10) SCC 687

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J.
Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Aklank Kumar Jain, learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners and Sri Devesh Vikram, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Present Special Appeal has been preferred assailing the validity of the impugned judgment and order dated 12.03.2024 passed in Writ A No. 17951 of 2018 (Ratnesh Kumar and 3 others vs. State of U.P. and 5 others).

3. It appears from the record that "Jwala Prasad Tiwari Junior High School, Bhauti, Kanpur Nagar"1, is a recognised & aided Junior High School. The institution is governed by the provisions of U.P. Basic Education Act, 19722; the rules framed thereunder and the provisions of U.P. Junior High School (Payment of Salary to Teachers and other employees) Act, 19783. The District Basic Education Officer, Kanpur Nagar vide order dated 25.6.2011 had accorded approval for filling up four vacant posts of Assistant Teacher in the institution. The meeting of Selection Committee, which also consisted the nominee of District Basic Education Officer, was held on 15.12.2011, wherein appointment of petitioners was recommended for approval. Finally, the District Basic Education Officer, Kanpur Nagar vide order dated 12/13.3.2012 had accorded approval to the petitioners' appointment. Accordingly, the appointment letters were issued in favour of the petitioners on 13.3.2012 and they joined their services on 17.3.2012.

4. Once the petitioners were not paid their salary then they moved a representation before the respondent authorities on 26.10.2012. Finally, the District Basic Education Officer, Kanpur Nagar vide order dated 12.07.2018 had rejected the claim of the petitioners on the ground that they did not possess the Teachers Eligibility Test4, which is an essential qualification under the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 20095. The petitioners had filed the writ petition for quashing the aforesaid order dated 12.07.2018 and after hearing learned counsel for the parties, learned Single Judge vide impugned judgement and order dated 12.03.2024 has proceeded to dismiss the writ petition with following observations:-

"13. Learned counsel for respondents on the basis of above conclusion submitted that TET was an essential qualification w.e.f. from the date of notification dated 23.8.2010 issued by NCTE and admittedly in present case recruitment process was commenced later on, therefore, it was mandatory that petitioners must possess TET qualification at the time of selection, but admittedly they did not.

14. In Sarvesh Kumar Yadav (supra), co-ordinate Bench of this Court has not referred the above judgment passed by Full Bench though it was prior to it. It appears that it was not brought into the notice of co-ordinate bench, therefore, conclusion of it cannot be relied upon, therefore, in Shiv Kumar Sharma (supra), a Full Bench has categorically held that TET was an essential qualification in any recruitment process commenced after date of relevant notification i.e. 23.8.2010, therefore, no benefit could be granted to petitioners in regard to Clause 5 of subsequent notification issued by NCTE dated 29.7.2011.

15. In the aforesaid circumstances argument of learned Senior Counsel are unsustainable since they are contrary to the decision of Full Bench in Shiv Kumar Sharma (supra).

16. Accordingly, I do not find that petitioners have any legally sustainable claim as well as benefit of subsequent TET Examination could also not be granted.

17. There is no illegality in the impugned order.

18. Writ petition is accordingly dismissed."

5. Learned counsel for the appellants-petitioners in this backdrop submits that the selection of petitioners was held strictly in accordance with the Rules and their selection was also recommended for approval by the Selection Committee, which included the nominee of the District Basic Education Officer. Finally, the District Basic Education Officer vide order dated 12/13.3.2012 had accorded approval to the selection of the petitioners. The appellants were duly appointed on the post of Assistant Teachers in the institution on 13.3.2012 and they joined their services on 17.3.2012. At the time of appointment of the petitioners, the passing of TET as an essential qualification was not included in the U.P. Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 19786. The TET was introduced by Notification dated 23.8.2010 issued by National Council for Teachers Education7 in reference to Clause (N) of Section 2 of Act, 2009 and the Act, 2009 was made effective only from 1st of April, 2010.

6. It is submitted that the State of U.P. had framed Rules under the Act, 2009 and notified the same on 27th of July, 2011. The Government Order dated 5th of December, 2012 provided that under the Act, 2009 and Rules framed thereunder in 2011, the TET has been prescribed as an essential qualification for Teachers of Junior Basic and Senior Basic Schools. Under Section 23 (1) of the Act, 2009 it has been provided that all those Teachers, who did not possess the requisite TET qualification, were to obtain the said qualification within five years from the appointed date as notified by the Academic Authority i.e. N.C.T.E. The last date for obtaining such qualification was 31.03.2015. In the Government order dated 07th of September, 2011 a mention has merely been made that after the notification of the Act, 2009 there is need for holding TET. The standards for holding such tests have been prescribed and the U.P. Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad has been given the responsibility for holding such test.

7. It is the case of the petitioners also that the NCTE was notified as Academic Authority by the Central Government under the Act, 2009 and it issued its first notification prescribing the minimum eligibility qualification only on 23rd of August, 2010 and the said notification dated 23rd of August, 2010 was further amended on 29th of July, 2011 and guidelines for conducting the TET were issued by the State Government thereafter on 7th of September, 2011. It is also submitted that none of the Government orders relied upon by the District Basic Education Officer prohibited the appointment of teachers under the existing Rules. The Act, 2009 and the Rules framed thereunder by the State Government in the year 2011 could not have put the ban on selection of teachers to be held by various Junior High Schools for the vacancies arising in between the notification of the Act in 2009 upto the notification of amended Rules in 2011. As the teaching being an essential service, hence the selections of teachers could not be put on hold merely because of notification of the Act of 2009. It was, thus, clarified by the Government order dated 5th of December, 2012 that relaxation for obtaining the minimum TET qualification was extended upto 31st of March, 2015. Admittedly, the petitioner nos.3 and 4 had qualified TET in 2013-2014 respectively. The amendment in relevant Rules, 1978 prescribes TET as an essential qualification, which was notified only on 5.12.2012 i.e. subsequent to the commencement of the recruitment process of the petitioners and could not be given retrospective effect. Therefore, they are entitled for payment of their salary.

8. Per contra, Sri Devesh Vikram, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents has vehemently opposed the appeal and submits that the TET was an essential qualification with effect from the date of notification dated 23.08.2010 issued by the NCTE. Admittedly, in the present case the recruitment process was commenced later on and therefore, it was mandatory that the petitioners must possess TET qualification at the time of selection but admittedly they did not possess the TET qualification. 10. We have carefully gone through the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties as well as the records and find that while passing the impugned judgment and order dated 12.3.2024 the learned Single Judge has proceeded to consider the Full Bench judgement of this Court in Shiv Kumar Sharma vs. State of U.P. and Ors8 alongwith other connected cases, wherein, the Full Bench had framed following questions for consideration:-

"(a) What does the phrase "minimum qualifications" occurring in Section 23 (1) of the right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (the Act) mean - whether passing the 'Teacher's Eligibility Test', is a qualification for the purposes of Section 23 (1), and it insistence by the NCTE in the Notification dated 23.8.2010 is in consonance with the powers delegated to the NCTE under Section 23 (1) of the Act?

(b) Whether clause 3 (a) of the Notifications dated 23.8.2010 and 29.7.2011 issued by the NCTE under Section 23 (1) of the Act, permits persons coming under the ambit of that clause to not undergo the 'Teacher's Eligibility Test', before they are eligible for appointment as Assistant Teachers? What is the significance of the words "shall also be eligible for appointment for Class-I to V upto 1st January, 2012, provided he undergoes, after appointment an NCTE recognized six months special programme in elementary education"?

(c) Whether the opinion expressed by the Division Bench in Prabhakar Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2013 (1) ADJ 651 (DB), is correct in law?"

11. Finally, the Full Bench had answered all the above three questions with following observations:-

"The questions that have been therefore framed by us are answered as follows:-

1. The teacher eligibility test is an essential qualification that has to be possessed by every candidate who seeks appointment as a teacher of elementary education in Classes 1 to 5 as per the notification dated 23.8.2010 which notification is within the powers of the NCTE under Section 23(1) of the 2009 Act.

2. Clause 3(a) of the notification dated 23.8.2010 is an integral part of the notification and cannot be read in isolation so as to exempt such candidates who are described in the said clause to be possessed of qualifications from the teacher eligibility test.

3. We approve of the judgment of the division bench in Prabhakar Singh's case to the extent of laying down the interpretation of the commencement of recruitment process under Clause 5 of the notification dated 23.8.2010 but we disapprove and overrule the ratio of the said decision in relation to grant of exemption and relaxation from teacher eligibility test to the candidates referred to in Clause 3 (a) of the notification dated 23.8.2010, and consequently, hold that the teacher eligibility test is compulsory for all candidates referred to in Clause 1 and Clause 3 (a)."

12. We have also considered very carefully the contents of the impugned judgment and the case set up by the appellants-writ petitioners in context of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Rakesh Kumar Sharma Vs. Govt. of NCT of Delhi9, wherein the following observations have been made by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Paras 6, 16 and 17:-

"6. There can be no dispute to the settled legal proposition that the selection process commences on the date when applications are invited. Any person eligible on the last date of submission of the application has a right to be considered against the said vacancy provided he fulfils the requisite qualification.

16. In the instant case, the appellant did not possess the requisite qualification on the last date of submission of the application though he applied representing that he possessed the same. The letter of offer of appointment was issued to him which was provisional and conditional subject to the verification of educational qualification, i.e., eligibility, character verification etc. Clause 11 of the letter of offer of appointment dated 23.2.2009 made it clear that in case character is not certified or he did not possess the qualification, the services will be terminated. The legal proposition that emerges from the settled position of law as enumerated above is that the result of the examination does not relate back to the date of examination. A person would possess qualification only on the date of declaration of the result. Thus, in view of the above, no exception can be taken to the judgment of the High Court.

17. It also needs to be noted that like the present appellant there could be large number of candidates who were not eligible as per the requirement of rules/advertisement since they did not possess the required eligibility on the last date of submission of the application forms. Granting any benefit to the appellant would be violative of the doctrine of equality, a backbone of the fundamental rights under our Constitution. A large number of such candidates may not have applied considering themselves to be ineligible adhering to the statutory rules and the terms of the advertisement.

There is no obligation on the court to protect an illegal appointment. Extraordinary power of the court should be used only in an appropriate case to advance the cause of justice and not to defeat the rights of others or create arbitrariness. Usurpation of a post by an ineligible candidate in any circumstance is impermissible*. The process of verification and notice of termination in the instant case followed within a very short proximity of the appointment and was not delayed at all so as to even remotely give rise to an expectancy of continuance.*

The appeal is devoid of any merit and does not present special features warranting any interference by this court. The appeal is accordingly dismissed." (Emphasis supplied)

13. In the case of Dipitimayee Parida Vs. State of Orissa10 Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"16. Even otherwise, ordinarily the qualification or extra qualification laid down for the recruitment should be considered as on the last date for filing of the application. This has been so held in Rekha Chaturvedi v. University of Rajasthan [1993 Supp (3) SCC 168 : 1993 SCC (L&S) 951 : (1993) 25 ATC 234] stating: (SCC p. 175, para 10):

"10. The contention that the required qualifications of the candidates should be examined with reference to the date of selection and not with reference to the last date for making applications has only to be stated to be rejected*. The date of selection is invariably uncertain. In the absence of knowledge of such date the candidates who apply for the posts would be unable to state whether they are qualified for the posts in question or not, if they are yet to acquire the qualifications.* Unless the advertisement mentions a fixed date with reference to which the qualifications are to be judged, whether the said date is of selection or otherwise, it would not be possible for the candidates who do not possess the requisite qualifications in praesenti even to make applications for the posts. The uncertainty of the date may also lead to a contrary consequence viz. even those candidates who do not have the qualifications in praesenti and are likely to acquire them at an uncertain future date, may apply for the posts thus swelling the number of applications. But a still worse consequence may follow, in that it may leave open a scope for malpractices. The date of selection may be so fixed or manipulated as to entertain some applicants and reject others, arbitrarily. Hence, in the absence of a fixed date indicated in the advertisement/notification inviting applications with reference to which the requisite qualifications should be judged, the only certain date for the scrutiny of the qualifications will be the last date for making the applications." (Emphasis supplied)

14. We find that the TET was an essential qualification with effect from the date of notification dated 23.8.2010 issued by NCTE. Admittedly, in the present case, the recruitment process had commenced later on and therefore, it was mandatory that the petitioners must possess TET qualification at the time of selection, which they did not possess. In Shiv Kumar Sharma (supra), the Full Bench has categorically held that TET was an essential qualification in any recruitment process commenced after date of relevant notification i.e. 23.8.2010, therefore no benefit could be granted to the petitioners in regard to Clause-5 of subsequent notification issued by the NCTE dated 29.7.2011.

15. Learned Single Judge, while considering the claim set-up by the appellants-petitioners has considered that TET was essential qualification with effect from the date of notification dated 23.08.2010 issued by the NCTE. In the present case, the recruitment process commenced later on. Admittedly, at the time of initiation of the recruitment process, even on the last date of submission of the form, the appellants-petitioners were not inhering the essential qualification of TET. Therefore, in such circumstances, by no stretch of imagination, the said provision can be relaxed, as it is already answered by the Full Bench in Shiv Kumar Sharma's case (supra). Therefore, there is no infirmity in the order passed by the learned Single Judge, which warrant any interference in this intra court appeal.

16. In the case of Rakesh Kumar Sharma (supra), the applicant did not possess the requisite qualification on the last date of submission of the application, though he applied, representing himself that he possessed the same and the provisional/conditional letter of offer of appointment was issued to him. Clause 11 of the letter of offer of appointment dated 23.2.2009 made it clear that in case character is not certified or he did not possess the qualification, the services will be terminated. Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the result of the examination does not relate back to the date of examination. Like the present appellant there could be large number of candidates, who were not eligible as per the requirement of rules/advertisement since they did not possess the required eligibility on the last date of submission of the application forms. Granting any benefit to the appellant would be violative of the doctrine of equality.

17. In Dipitimayee Parida (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that unless the advertisement mentions a fixed date with reference to which the qualifications are to be judged, whether the said date is of selection or otherwise, it would not be possible for the candidates, who do not possess the requisite qualifications in praesenti even to make applications for the posts. The uncertainty of the date may also lead to a contrary consequence viz. even those candidates who do not have the qualifications in praesenti and are likely to acquire them at an uncertain future date, may apply for the posts thus swelling the number of applications. But a still worse consequence may follow, as it may leave open a scope for malpractices. The date of selection may be so fixed or manipulated as to entertain some applicants and reject others, arbitrarily. Hence, in the absence of a fixed date indicated in the advertisement/ notification inviting applications with reference to which the requisite qualifications should be judged, the only certain date for the scrutiny of the qualifications will be the last date for making the applications.

18. In view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Rakesh Kumar Sharma (supra) and Dipitimayee Parida (supra), we find that the instant appeal lacks merit and is hereby dismissed.

(Para 7 and 12)

List of Cases cited:

1. Dr. Jai Prakash Narayan Singh Vs St. of U.P.; 2014 (3) SCC 1644

2. Smt. P. Grover Vs St. of Hary. & anr.; AIR 1983 SC 1060

3. Secy.- Cum-Chief Engineer, Chandigarh Vs Hari Om Sharma & ors.; AIR 1998 SC 2909

4. St. of Punj. & anr. Vs Dharam Pal; (2017) 9 SCC 395

(Delivered by Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. Heard Mr. C.B. Yadav, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Chhaya Gupta, learned counsel for the respondents no.2 to 5 and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this writ petition, the petitioner has made the following prayer:-

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to provide the salary to the petitioner to the post of Head Mistress w.e.f. 17.02.1988 of the college in question namely Zila Pachayat Kanya Uchchatar Madhyamik Vidyalaya Mauaima Allahabad, with all consequential benefits, forthwith.

(ii) .....
(iii) ...."

3. Brief facts of the case are that the Zila Pachayat Kanya Uchchatar Madhyamik Vidyalaya situated at Mauaima, Allahabad is a recognized institution under the Provision of Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Act, 1972 (U.P. Act No.34/17) and U.P. Basic Education (Teacher) Service Rules, 1981. The petitioner was appointed as an Assistant Teacher in pursuance of the appointment letter dated 27.09.1982 issued by the competent authority. Thereafter, the petitioner joined her services on 01.10.1982 and since then, she was discharging her services without any break or complaint. Since on 25.01.1988, one Madhu Rani Srivastava, who was discharging her duties as permanent Headmistress, expired. Thereafter, the petitioner was discharging her duties as in-charge Headmaster from 15.02.1988 and since then, the petitioner was discharging her duties as Headmistress. Thereafter, the petitioner got superannuated on 31.07.2017, but the payment has not been made to the petitioner for the post of Headmistress. Hence, the present writ petition.

4. Sri C.B. Yadav, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner has submitted that since 1988 to till 2017, the petitioner discharged her duties diligently as Officiating Headmistress, which has not been denied by the respondents. He has further submitted that there is neither any complaint against the petitioner nor any material has been brought on record to show that the petitioner did not possess due qualification for being appointed as Headmistress, but all the more, salary for the post of Headmistress has not been paid to the petitioner. He next submitted that the petitioner was only paid salary for the post of Assistant Teacher instead of for the post of Headmistress. He prays for allowing the present writ petition and issuance of mandamus.

5. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the petitioner was not duly appointed as Headmistress, therefore, the salary for the post of Headmistress cannot be disbursed to her. He has further submitted that the petitioner was duty bound to discharge her duties as Headmistress till absence of any regular appointed Headmaster/Headmistress, therefore, the petitioner was rightly paid the salary for the post of Assistant Teacher. He prays for dismissal of this writ petition.

6. After hearing the parties, the Court has perused the records.

7. Admittedly, it is not in dispute that the petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher and thereafter, the post of Headmaster fell vacant on 25.01.1988 on account of death of One Madhu Rani Srivastava. Thereafter, from 17.02.1988, the petitioner was discharging her duties as Headmistress without any break, compliant or interruption. In the counter affidavit, it has specifically been accepted that the petitioner was discharging her services as in-charge Headmistress. It is not the the case of the respondents that the petitioner does not possess the required qualification to be appointed as Headmistress in the institution in question, therefore, the petitioner cannot be permitted to suffer from any inaction of the respondents for not appointing regular Headmaster. On the one hand, the petitioner was discharged her duties continuously as Headmistress without pay for the said post, on the other hand, she was only paid salary of the post of Assistant Teacher. It is not in dispute that the petitioner discharged her services as Headmistress in the institution in question for more than 29 years.

8. This Court in the case of Dr. Jai Prakash Narayan Singh Vs. State of U.P., (Civil Misc Writ Petition No 23627 of 2014), reported in 2014 (3) SCC 1644, the Full Bench of this Court, after considering the various judgments, has held that while discharging as Officiating Principal, the Principal would be entitled for salary of the said post. The relevant paragraph no.57-A of the said judgment is quoted as below:-

"57 ……

(i) ……

(ii) An officiating principal appointed under the Statutes of the University, which are pari materia to the provisions of Statute 10-B of the First Statutes would be entitled to claim the payment of salary in the regular grade of principal for the period during which he or she has worked until a regularly selected candidate has been appointed and has assumed charge of the office."

9. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Smt. P. Grover Vs State of Haryana and Anr, AIR 1983 Supreme Court 1060, has held that the petitioner was discharging her duties as Basic Education Officer on an acting basis, and therefore, she is entitled for the salary of such higher post.

10. Similarly, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Secy.- Cum-Chief Engineer, Chandigarh Vs. Hari Om Sharma & Ors., AIR 1998 Supreme Court 2909 has held that if a person is promoted to the higher post or put to officiate on that post, or stop-gap arrangement is made to place him on higher post, entitle for higher salary.

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Punjab and Anr. Vs. Dharam Pal, (2017) 9 SCC 395, after considering the above referred two judgments, has held that the petitioner is entitled to the benefit of pay-scale for higher officiating post.

12. In view of the facts as stated above as well as law down by the Full Bench of this Court and various judgments passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court, the petitioner is entitled for higher salary even for ad-hoc basis on the post of Headmistress.

13. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed.

14. A mandamus is issued in favour of the petitioner for payment of arrears of salary along with all consequential benefits with effect from 17.02.1988 till date, she discharged her duties as Headmistress in the institution in question, within a period of one month from the date of production of certified copy of this order before the concerned respondent.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition has been instituted praying that a mandamus be issued to the Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, Magahar, District Sant Kabir Nagar to grant the petitioner his pension and other post retiral benefits.

2. The petitioner was appointed a Tax Moharrir on 01.04.1989 by the Nagar Panchayat, Magahar, District Sant Kabir Nagar (for short, 'the Nagar Panchayat'), when it was a notified area, on a daily-wage of Rs.30/- per day. The petitioner joined with the Nagar Panchayat, the day he was appointed. The case of the petitioner is that, according to the Government Orders dated 08.01.1992 and 03.02.1992, the petitioner was entitled to be regularized. He draws the Court's attention to the Government Order dated 08.01.1992, which provides that employees working on daily-wages, who have been appointed before 11.10.1989 and completed three years of continuous service with 240 days in each calendar year, are entitled to be regularized in service.

3. It is the petitioner's case that the Government Order aforesaid provides that those who have not completed three years' service, their services will not be terminated and they would be absorved in future as regular employees. The petitioner asserts that he has been in continuous employ of the Nagar Panchayat from the date of his appointment, to wit, 01.04.1989, until his retirement. Thus, the petitioner was entitled to be regularized pursuant to the Government Orders last mentioned, but was not. He represented his case with the Nagar Panchayat seeking regularization, but was paid no heed.

4. The petitioner points out that there were a number of permanent posts lying vacant with the Nagar Panchayat, but the petitioner, whenever he raised his claim to be regularized in service, was given verbal assurance and nothing more. He was told that he would be accommodated in future as there was no permanent vacancy available in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat. Two persons, however, were appointed in the Nagar Panchayat establishment by the then Officer-in-Charge, Nagar Panchayat, Basant Ram, the Sub-Divisional Officer, Khalilabad, then part of District Basti. The aforesaid illegal appointment, according to the petitioner, was made because the appointee was a true brother of one Ram Poojan Dubey, an employee of the Nagar Panchayat and other man appointed, was a true brother of the then Officer-in-Charge of the Nagar Panchayat, Basant Ram. Basant Ram, being the Appointing Authority, made both these illegal appointments. These appointments were to the petitioner's prejudice, whose claim for regularization was pending without consideration. It is pointed out that the services of the two men, who were inducted illegally, to wit, Jai Shankar Dubey and Ram Kewal, have been regularized as Clerks in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat w.e.f. 25.05.1992.

5. The petitioner and other similarly circumstanced employees represented against the above illegal appointments and regularization of the aforesaid employees, which led the Commissioner, Basti Division, Basti to address a letter to the Director, Local Bodies, bringing to the Director's notice the illegal appointments made in the Nagar Panchayat. It was reported that the appointments of Jai Shankar Dubey and Ram Kewal were contrary to Government Orders. There were various other illegalities that had fouled these appointments. Nothing in consequence happened and the petitioner represented again to the Commissioner, Basti Division to consider his case for regularization. The Commissioner found the petitioner's claim to be worthy, but nothing came of it.

6. In the circumstances, the petitioner filed Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.279 of 2000, claiming relief of regularization in service, based on the Government Orders introducing a regularization scheme. The aforesaid writ petition was dismissed by a learned Single Judge of this Court vide order dated 22.02.2011. The petitioner carried a special appeal to the Division Bench, being Special Appeal No.1837 of 2011. The said appeal, according to the petitioner, is still pending. In the meantime, the petitioner's services were regularized on 03.02.2011 and he is working regularly. The petitioner asserts that he has rendered more than 32 years of service with the Nagar Panchayat and regularized 9 years prior to his retirement.

7. The grievance of the petitioner is that he has served the Nagar Panchayat for 32 years, but not granted any retirement benefits. The petitioner claims that he has retired from service on 01.01.2021, a year and a half until time when this petition was instituted, but nothing towards his retirement benefits was paid despite repeat claims and representations. In substance, therefore, what the petitioner seeks is the reckoning of all his 32 years of service with the Nagar Panchayat for the purpose of grant of post retiral benefits. The respondents, on the other hand, say that he is disentitled because he has rendered only 9 years of regular service prior to his retirement, which is not qualifying service for the purpose of pension and other post retiral benefits.

8. A supplementary affidavit was filed by the petitioner, wherein it was averred that the petitioner has not been paid gratuity nor his group insurance or leave encashment. It is asserted that he has served for more than 30 years as a daily-wager, which is an appointment temporary in nature, whereafter he was regularized in the year 2011. He served for more than 9 years as a regular employee. He relies upon the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2019) 10 SCC 516 to submit that all his services continuously rendered in whatever capacity these might be have to be reckoned towards his qualifying service for the purpose of his entitlement to pension, gratuity, leave encashment, group insurance and other post retiral benefits.

9. On 08.08.2023, a notice of motion was issued to the Executive Officer of the Nagar Panchayat, asking him to show cause by filing a personal affidavit why the petitioner's post retiral benefits and pension have not been paid. A personal affidavit was filed by the Executive Officer of the Nagar Panchayat, which has been read by the Court as a counter affidavit. It does not say much about the petitioner's entitlement to pension and post retiral benefits. Instead, it says that a criminal case is pending against him at the instance of the Nagar Panchayat, being Case Crime No.64 of 2021, under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B IPC, P.S. Kotwali Khalilabad, District Sant Kabir Nagar and another Case Crime No.301 of 2021, under Section 409 IPC, P.S. Khalilabad, District Kabir Nagar. The petitioner had been arrested in the said cases.

10. So far as the entitlement of the petitioner to pension is concerned, all that the respondents, in the personal affidavit of the Executive Officer, say is that they undertake that in case anything is due in retiral benefits to the petitioner, the respondents are ready to pay the same without delay. It is also said that the petitioner has concealed facts regarding receipt of retiral dues, that have already been paid to him after scrutiny of his records.

11. A supplementary counter affidavit dated 29th October, 2023 has also been filed on behalf of the Nagar Panchayat by the Executive Officer. The stand taken in Paragraph No.3 of the supplementary counter affidavit is that the services rendered by the petitioner in the regular establishment, do not constitute qualifying service and for the said reason, the Nagar Panchayat did not provide other benefits to the petitioner. It is next averred in Paragraph No.5 of the supplementary counter affidavit that the Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Act, 2021 (for short, 'the Act of 2021') is applicable to employees of the State Government and not employees of Non-Centralized Services of the Nagar Panchayat. In substance, therefore, the respondents accept the position that the Act of 2021 does not apply to the petitioner's case. It is next averred in Paragraph No.6 that the principle in Prem Singh (supra) does not apply to the Nagar Panchayat.

12. On the pleadings of parties exchanged, this petition was admitted to hearing on 06.11.2023, which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

13. Heard Mr. Sandeep Maniji Bakhshi, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Vijay Kumar Dubey, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the President of the Nagar Panchayat and its Executive Officer and Mr. Dinesh Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, appearing on behalf of the State-respondents.

14. There are two issues, which are involved in this case. One is about the petitioner's entitlement to receive a retirement pension taking into account the entire period of his service, most of which was as a daily-wager, and the other is, if the petitioner is entitled to receipt of pension and gratuity pending the two criminal cases against him.

15. So far as the first issue is concerned, the regulations that apply regarding payment of retirement benefits to employees of Nagar Panchayats, Nagar Palikas, other than members of Centralized Services, are the Uttar Pradesh Nagar Palika Non Centralized Services Retirement Benefits Regulations, 1984 (for short, 'the Regulations of 1984'). Qualifying service has been defined in Regulation 2(m) with reference to Article 368 of the Civil Service Regulations. It is on the foot of that definition of qualifying service that the respondents here regard the period of service rendered by the petitioner on daily-wages as service, not entitling the petitioner to pension and related post retiral benefits. They rely upon the period of service rendered by the petitioner post regularization in service. This issue fell for consideration before me in Ram Sewak Yadav v. State of U.P. and others, Neutral Citation No. - 2024:AHC:17407, where it was held:

"13. Nevertheless, this Court leaves this issue open in the matter, inasmuch as this case may be decided effectively on a different point altogether. The principle laid down by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh can be said to be negated by the Act of 2021, in cases where the said Act applies. In the present case, it is common ground between parties that the Act of 2021 does not apply; rather, the entitlement of the petitioner is governed by the Regulations of 1984. It is true that the Act of 2021 would not affect the petitioner's rights, but the decision in Prem Singh was rendered in the context of Rule 3(8) of the Rules of 1961 and Regulation 370 of the Civil Services Regulations of U.P. in case of work-charged employees, who had worked for a long period of time, holding that non-consideration of long service in the work-charged establishment would be discriminatory in view of the note appended to Rule 3(8) of the Rules of 1961, which says that 'If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establish-ment or in a post paid from contingencies falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service'. This note appended to Rule 3(8) (supra) was regarded as creating a class without an intelligible differentia bearing nexus with the object of classification, and, therefore, discriminatory when compared to a case of continuous work-charged establishment. It was in the context of Rule 3(8) of the Rules of 1961 and Regulation 370 of the Civil Services Regulations of U.P. that continuous service in the work-charged establishment was held by their Lordships of the Supreme Court to entitle the employee to a reckoning of the work-charged period with service rendered in the regular establishment.

14. Regulation 2(m) of the Rules of 1984 reads:

"2. Definition.– …..

(m) "qualifying service" means service which qualified for pension, in accordance with the provisions of Article 368 of the Civil Service Regulations, as amended from time to time, excepting the following:

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment under the Municipal Board concerned;

(ii) periods of service in a work-charged establishment; and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies:

Provided that period of continued, temporary or officiating service under the Municipal Board concerned shall count as qualifying service if it is followed by confirmation on the same post or any other post without any interruption of service.

NOTE-If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment it will not constitute an interruption of service."

15. Now, the definition of 'qualifying service' in Regulation 2(m) of the Regulations of 1984 is almost cast in the same terms as that in Rule 3(8) of the Rules of 1961, that were read down by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh to hold that services rendered in the work-charged establishment would be treated as 'qualifying service' under the last mentioned Rules for the purpose of grant of pension. The principle in Prem Singh, to reckon continuous service in the work-charged establishment as 'qualifying service' under Rule 3(8) of the Rules of 1961, has been extended in its application to continuous service of any kind, such as those rendered on daily-wages or ad hoc basis, followed by regularization, on the same post and in the same capacity. These principles have been adopted, particularly, in case of long retention in service on daily-wages or ad hoc basis or work-charged establishment, followed by regularization. Without reference to much authority on this point, it would suffice to refer to a decision of this Court in Kallu Ali v. State of U.P. and others, 2022 (4) AWC 3840, a case relating to an employee of a Development Authority, who had worked for a long time on daily-wages and then regularized in service. The issue had arisen in Kallu Ali (supra) in the context of his qualifying service for the purpose of entitlement to pension. After a copious review of authority on the point in Kallu Ali, it was held:

"28. The authorities referred to herein above and those of this Court clearly hold that if an employee has discharged duties whether temporarily or as a daily wager or on ad hoc basis on a post for which requirement was there and services of such an employee have come to be regularized on the said post or in the same capacity, the period spent before regularization should be considered and added to pensionable services. The courts have not approved the act and conduct of the employer to deny pension to its employee if he has rendered a number of substantial year of continuous service in an establishment leading to his / her regularization if such an establishment holds a pensionable service. The State Government has been taken to be a model employer and a State being a welfare State, the courts have shown serious concern in the event an employee who has spent all his life in the service of such establishment, stands denied pension on his attaining the age of superannuation and being retired as such."

16. The line of decisions noticed in Kallu Ali and the extension of the principle to various classes of employees, who had worked outside the regular establishment followed by regularization, asking their service rendered dehors the rules to be reckoned for the purpose of their qualifying service, entitling them to pension etc., are all based on the principle in Prem Singh. In the opinion of this Court, this line of decisions would pose some difficulty in cases of employees of establishments of the State Government, to which the Act of 2021 applies and which, as said earlier, virtually upturns the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh. This would, however, not be the case about establishments, to which the Act of 2021 does not apply. It has already been noticed that there is no issue in this case that the Act of 2021 does not apply to the respondents. What, therefore, follows is that the law laid down in Prem Singh would govern the rights of employees in the respondents' establishment. The decisions that have followed and extended the principle in Prem Singh to classes of employees functioning dehors the rules followed by regularization for the purpose of reckoning their qualifying service, entitling them to pension, would squarely apply to the petitioner's case.

17. In the opinion of this Court, therefore, the petitioner is entitled to the reckoning of his services rendered on ad hoc basis w.e.f. 02.09.1988 until his regularization in service on 26.03.2006 for the purpose of determining his post retiral benefits.....”

16. To the clear understanding of this Court, therefore, the period of service rendered by the petitioner as a daily-wager and in the non-pensionable establishment, followed by regularization, has to be reckoned as qualifying service towards grant of pension and gratuity to the petitioner, besides whatever other retiral benefits are dependent upon qualifying service being rendered.

17. This takes us to the other issue, if on account of the two First Information Reports registered against the petitioner, the petitioner is not entitled to pension and gratuity. The position appears to be fairly well settled that if departmental proceedings or an inquiry by the Administrative Tribunal or judicial proceedings, which certainly include criminal trial, are pending against a government servant, a principle extendable to an employee of the Nagar Panchayat, regular and full pension and gratuity cannot be paid until conclusion of the trial, which are described as judicial proceedings. The payment of gratuity would have to await the conclusion of trial, and so far as pension is concerned, provisional pension is payable, which would be slightly less than the final pension to be sanctioned and paid. The other dues, of course, like provident fund, group insurance and leave encashment would be payable. This principle is well settled in view of the authority of the Full Bench of this Court in Shivgopal and others v. State of U.P. and others, 2019 (5) ADJ 441 (FB), a Bench decision of this Court in State of U.P. through Principal Secretary and others v. Mahanand Pandey and another, 2021 (6) All LJ 37 and a very recent decision of mine in Jagdhari v. State of U.P. and another, Neutral Citation No. - 2024:AHC:75212. The petitioner has certainly not been sanctioned any pension, provisional or final, nor has he been paid gratuity. This is because the respondents have disputed his right to receive pension and gratuity on account of the petitioner not having rendered qualifying service to the respondents' understanding. This reasoning of the respondents, we have not accepted, as already indicated. The petitioner is entitled to pension as well as gratuity, so far as his rights under the Regulations of 1984 go. It is not known to this Court if the two FIRs lodged against the petitioner have resulted in charge-sheets and matured into judicial proceedings, taking the shape of criminal trials, pending against the petitioner. If indeed in either of two FIRs registered against the petitioner, he has been charge-sheeted and the criminal trial, which has to be regarded as a judicial proceedings against him, is/ or pending, all that the petitioner can receive is his provisional pension. He will not receive gratuity.

18. The question of entitlement to the award of final pension and gratuity would have to be decided after conclusion of trial. At the same time, provisional pension in accordance with rules would have to be sanctioned for the petitioner and paid to him, to which he is entitled under the Regulations of 1984. So far as the other post retiral benefits, such as leave encashment, group insurance and GPF are concerned, it is not known to the petitioner, if these have been paid. The respondents have said somewhere that some of these benefits have been paid. If these have been paid, there is no further obligation. But if not, the petitioner would be entitled to the payment of each of these.

19. In the circumstances, this writ petition succeeds and allowed in part. The petitioner is held entitled to sanction of a retirement pension and gratuity, reckoning the entire period of his service with the respondents, including the period of his daily-wage service. However, if he is facing a criminal trial, he will, for the time being, be sanctioned and paid a provisional pension and not his gratuity. The sanction and payment of final pension and gratuity would be for the respondents to consider after conclusion of the pending criminal trial, if any. However, if no criminal trial is pending against the petitioner, final pension would have to be sanctioned for him forthwith and both pension and gratuity would become payable. The respondents will scrutinize the petitioner's records and if any other retiral dues, like leave encashment, group insurance and GPF, whatever be due under the rules, has not been paid, the same too shall be paid. The respondents shall be under a command to undertake the necessary reckoning and discharge their obligations to pay the petitioner his post retiral benefits, as above directed, within a period of one month of the receipt of this judgment.

Writ - A No. 14354 of 2023

Smt. Mannu Devi ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Love Lesh Kumar Verma

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Gopal Krishna Pandey

A. Service Law – Constitution of India – Article 14 & 16 – Termination – Post of Safai Karmchari – Appointment of petitioner was made on the post vacant due to resignation of her father-in-law – Father-in-law resigned with the condition that his daughter-in-law be given appointment – Permissibility – Held, every post in the establishment of the Nagar Palika has to be filled up in accordance with rules, conforming to Article 14 of the Constitution that give equal opportunity to all citizens. It would never be open to the Executive Officer to appoint a person, driven by considerations like personal favour, sympathy, acquaintance and the like – Appointment to public posts, as already said, has to follow a mechanism of recruitment known to law, which affords equal opportunity to all citizens. A retiring employee cannot virtually transfer his office to a member of his family, by nominating him/her to a public authority, whose employment he is demitting. An appointment of this kind is so thickly violative of the scheme of equality in public employment enshrined under Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. (Para 14 and 17)

B. Service Law – Constitution of India – Article 23 – Begar – Appointment was made dehors the rules – Salary paid towards the service, how far can be recovered – Held, since the petitioner, under the colour and by dint of whatever kind of appointment order, was issued in her favour on 15.12.1994, has rendered work as a Safai Karmachari for the Nagar Palika Parishad and then its successor Nagar Nigam, cannot be asked to pay back whatever she has drawn towards salary and other emoluments. If that were permitted, it would be making the petitioner render begar, something prohibited under Article 23 of the Constitution. Therefore, the respondents are not entitled to recover any emoluments from the petitioner for the work done by her. (Para 18)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 05.07.2023 passed by the Commissioner, Jhansi Division, Jhansi, dismissing the petitioner's appeal, arising out of an order dated 13.10.2022 passed by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Jhansi, terminating her services.

2. The petitioner was appointed a Class-IV employee, a Safai Karmchari, by the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Jhansi vide an order dated 15.12.1994. The petitioner was issued with a show cause notice dated 25.07.2022 by the Nagar Swasthya Adhikari, Nagar Nigam Jhansi, the Nagar Palika being upgraded to a Nagar Nigam since the petitioner's appointment, asking her to show cause regarding the validity of her appointment within seven days. The petitioner was asked to show cause about the validity of her appointment on ground that at the time of her appointment, she had suppressed the fact that her husband, Brij Mohan, was in government service. The other reason indicated was that she was appointed after her father-in-law, Chandu son of Ramjani, a Safai Karmchari, resigned his post and in the vacancy caused by his resignation, the petitioner was appointed, about which the petitioner did not have any legal right. The petitioner says that she has been working as a Class-IV employee regularly since the date she joined. She submitted her reply to the show cause on 25.07.2022.

3. It is the petitioner's case that there is no complaint or adverse material against her during the period of her service. A memo dated 17.09.2022 was issued to the petitioner by the Nagar Swasthya Adhikari, asking her to appear for the purpose of a personal hearing on 20.09.2022 at 11:00 a.m. and have her say in the matter of validity of her appointment. In compliance with the memo dated 17.09.2022, the petitioner submitted her reply on 20.09.2022. The Nagar Ayukt, vide order dated 13.10.2022, terminated the petitioner's services on ground that it was made dehors the rules, depriving her of all terminal benefits. The petitioner appealed the order to the Divisional Commissioner, but the appeal too was dismissed vide order dated 05.07.2023.

4. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been instituted under Article 226 of the Constitution.

5. This Court vide orders dated 29.08.2023, 04.10.2023 and 16.10.2023 required the Nagar Ayukt, the Collector of Jhansi, the Commissioner of the Division and the Secretary, Urban Development, Government of U.P., Lucknow, to show cause why damages may not be awarded to the petitioner for the invaluable loss of those years of her life, when the petitioner could have secured lawful public or private employment. These orders were passed on the foot of a prima facie opinion that the petitioner was appointed to a public post dehors the rules that did not confer any right upon her to continue in public employment. By very detailed orders, it was impressed upon the various respondents, who were asked to file their personal affidavits, that the then Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika and the incumbent, who was functioning as the Collector, also holding charge of the Administrator of the Nagar Palika at the relevant time, by display of an act of mercy and on a humanitarian ground, granted appointment to the petitioner, which could never have been done. This resulted in the petitioner being made to serve the Nagar Palika, subsequently the Nagar Nigam, in terms of an appointment that was void. This caused prima facie the petitioner to be rendered directionless in the advanced years of her life and deprived of all economic security. It was these factors, which required the respondents to show cause why damages may not be awarded to her for offering her a void appointment. The orders, that was passed by this Court on 29.08.2023, and, particularly, the one on 04.10.2023, required the Executive Officer of the Nagar Palika, Jhansi, which should be understood as a reference to the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Jhansi and the Divisional Commissioner, to file their affidavits indicating the present location and status of the Executive Officer of the Palika, who offered the petitioner this appointment and the Divisional Commissioner of Jhansi at the relevant time. The Divisional Commissioner in his affidavit, as well as the Nagar Ayukt in the one that he filed, informed the petitioner that the appointment was made by the Executive Officer at the relevant time under the directions of the Administrator of the ex-Nagar Palika.

6. The Commissioner of the Division in his affidavit said that the Collector of the District was functioning as the Administrator and it was he, who sanctioned the making of a void appointment in the petitioner's favour. The identity of the Commissioner at the relevant time was disclosed, because he was dead. The name of the Nagar Ayukt at the relevant time was disclosed, but not his whereabouts. Nothing was disclosed about the District Magistrate, who had shown the act of 'mercy and compassion' in offering a void appointment to the petitioner way back in the year 1994. This Court, therefore, asked the Secretary, Urban Development, Government of U.P. to show cause why suitable compensation be not awarded.

7. In the personal affidavits filed by the Secretary, the Commissioner of the Division, the Collector, Jhansi, which are there on record, the stand taken is that the petitioner has been paid, for whatever services she has rendered, and she cannot be paid any compensation or damages because there is no provision in the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916 or the U.P. Nagar

Nigam Mahapalika Adhiniyam, 1959 or the Rules/ Regulations framed thereunder or Government Orders to pay compensation after termination of her illegal and void appointment.

8. This explanation against the damages has been given in the personal affidavit of the District Magistrate, Jhansi dated 03.11.2023. There is an identically worded explanation in an identically worded affidavit submitted by Ajay Kumar Shukla, Secretary, Urban Development, Government of U.P., Lucknow given in Paragraph No.13 of his affidavit dated 06.11.2023. There is also an identical explanation, though expressed in slightly different words, in the personal affidavit filed by the Divisional Commissioner, Jhansi. It reads:

"It is further most respectfully submitted here that the service rules, that are applicable in the case of petitioner, or any other rules for the time being in force, do not provide for awarding of any such compensation to any person and thus in absence of any such provision in the relevant rules the deponent's hands are tied, even though the deponent has full sympathies with the petitioner and the Hon'ble Court has been very considerate in taking such view in favour of the petitioner."

9. There was an earlier round of personal affidavits, one filed by the Nagar Swasthya Adhikari, respondent No.4, dated 13.09.2023; an affidavit dated 12.09.2023 filed by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Jhansi; and, an affidavit dated 13.10.2023 filed by the Divisional Commissioner, Jhansi. There is another personal affidavit filed by the Nagar Ayukt dated 13.10.2023. Apart from these affidavits, there is a short counter affidavit dated 06.11.2023 filed by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Jhansi and another counter affidavit dated 07.09.2023 filed by the Divisional Commissioner. There is a solitary rejoinder by the petitioner dated 27.09.2023, answering the counter affidavit dated 07.09.2023 filed by the Divisional Commissioner. This makes for all the pleadings that were exchanged between parties in compliance of the various orders that this Court passed from time to time, already detailed. The parties having exchanged all these affidavits by 06.11.2023, on the said date, it was admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

10. Heard Mr. Love Lesh Kumar Verma, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Mr. Suresh Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing and Mr. Vishal Tandon, learned State Law Officer, all appearing on behalf of respondents Nos.1, 2, 3 and 6, and Mr. Gopal Krishna Pandey, learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondent Nos.3 and 5, the Nagar Ayukt and the Nagar Swasthya Adhikari, Jhansi.

11. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court is of opinion that the petitioner was indeed retained in service by the ex-Nagar Palika, Jhansi, now represented by the Nagar Nigam, through an order of appointment, that is void ab initio. The order of appointment dated 15.12.1994 passed by the Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Jhansi, reads:

"पत्रांक दिनांक

12. A reading of the said appointment order ex facie shows the most serious kind of malfeasance and misuse of authority in public office by the then Executive Officer of the Nagar Nigam and the Collector of Jhansi, who was functioning as the Administrator of the Palika. It shows that a Safai Karmachari, Chandu son of Ramjani had chosen to submit his resignation from service, described as 'voluntary' because of health reasons supported by a medical certificate from the Chief Medical Officer, but subject to a condition that his daughter-in-law, Smt. Mannu, the petitioner be given service in the Nagar Palika on the post vacated by Chandu. The order of appointment recites that the Collector/ Administrator, upon looking to the record showing mercy and on humanitarian grounds, had granted permission to Smt. Mannu wife of Brij Mohan, the petitioner, to be appointed to the Palika service. The order of appointment further says that the 'voluntary' resignation submitted by Chandu, Safai Karmachari is accepted from the date of the order. It was further directed that Chandu would have to deposit two months' salary with the Nagar Palika in accordance with rules. The order then goes on to say that on the post vacated by Chandu, Smt. Mannu, the petitioner is appointed a Safai Karmachari on a temporary basis in the pay scale as admissible.

13. The petitioner's appointment letter has to be read not only as the source of her right to hold the post of a Safai Karmachari with the Nagar Nigam, but also regarded as true for everything recorded therein. After all, the respondents do not disown the date of appointment and say that the Executive Officer has issued it. What they say is that the appointment, that it purports to make in favour of the petitioner, is absolutely illegal, dehors the rules, and, therefore, void. The Nagar Palika, that is the predecessor body of the Nagar Nigam, was like the Nigam, a statutory body. It was governed by the Act of 1916 and the rules framed thereunder. Sections 71, 74 and 75 of the Act of 1916 read:

"71. Power of Municipality to determine permanent staff.- Except as provided by Sections 57, 66, 58 and 70, and subject to any general or special directions as the State Government may, from time to time, issue a Municipality may, by special, resolution, determine what servants are required for the discharge of the duties of the Municipality and [their qualifications and conditions of service.

74. Appointment and dismissal of permanent superior staff.- Subject to the provisions of Sections 57 to 73, servants on posts in the non-centralised service, carrying scale of pay equal to or higher than the lowest scale of pay admissible to the clerical staff, shall be appointed and may be dismissed, removed or otherwise punished, or the services of a probationer may be terminated, by the President, subject to the right of appeal, except in the case of the termination of the service of a probationer, to such authority within such time and in such manner as may be prescribed :

Provided that appointments on the posts of Tax Superintendent, Assistant Tax Superintendents, Inspectors, Head Clerks, Sectional Head Clerks, Sectional Accountants, Doctors, Vaids, Hakims and Municipal Fire Station Officers, shall be subject to the approval of the Municipality.

75. Appointment of permanent inferior staff.- Except as otherwise provided, the Executive Officer shall appoint servants carrying scales of pay lower than the lowest scale of pay referred to in Section 74 :

Provided that in the case there is no Executive Officer, the said appointment shall be made by the President.

14. The power to appoint inferior staff, as it is called by the Act of 1916, vests in the Executive Officer. The scheme of the Act of 1916, like any other public body, that is an instrumentality of the State, constituted, governed and regulated by statute, did not provide for appointment to a regular post in its establishment, according to whim and caprice of its officers, even the Appointing Authority. Every post in the establishment of the Nagar Palika has to be filled up in accordance with rules, conforming to Article 14 of the Constitution that give equal opportunity to all citizens. It would never be open to the Executive Officer to appoint a person, driven by considerations like personal favour, sympathy, acquaintance and the like. The same would hold true about the power or authority of a person placed in higher charge of a Nagar Palika like the Administrator thereof, when under the Act of 1916, the Municipal Board could be superseded and an Administrator appointed by the Collector or the Collector himself discharged those functions.

15. This Court believes from a reading of the letter of appointment issued in favour of the petitioner that it was issued by the Executive Officer with the leave and permission of the Administrator of the Nagar Palika, who was the Collector of the District at the relevant time. An attempt has been made by the incumbent Collector to bail out his predecessor by acknowledging that it was not possible to appoint the petitioner at all the way she was appointed by the Executive Officer, but wants this Court to doubt that the appointment was granted by the Executive Officer with the Collector's permission. About this issue, it is averred in paragraph No.6 of the affidavit filed by the incumbent Collector of the District dated 06.11.2023:

"6. ..... It is further reflects from the perusal of the aforesaid order that the erstwhile Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Jhansi referred to some approval allegedly was given by the erstwhile District Magistrate/ Administrator and in pursuance thereof granted appointment to the petitioner on the post of safai karmchari that fell vacant due to resignation/ voluntary retirement of her father in law....."

16. This Court is convinced that the erstwhile Collector would have proven to be a robust support for the Executive Officer to pass a shockingly illegal order of the kind that he did while appointing the petitioner in terms of the order of appointment dated 15.12.1994. The reason is that an employee or an officer of any organization is also a citizen of the country and Indian citizens over generations have mystical faith, utterly ill-found, in the omnipotence of the Collector of the District. A reading of the appointment order dated 15.12.1994 shows that the Executive Officer has referred to the Collector's permission to appoint the petitioner in place of her father-in-law, who resigned on account of ill-health, adopting a merciful and humanitarian approach. The employment of these words show the Executive Officer's veneration for the Collector's authority, in the foreshadow of which he passed an absurdly illegal and utterly void order, appointing the petitioner to a post of the Nagar Palika establishment, borne on the public exchequer. The petitioner's father-in-law, being unwell, could have resigned his position alright, but never put a condition that his daughter-in-law be appointed in his place.

17. Appointment to public posts, as already said, has to follow a mechanism of recruitment known to law, which affords equal opportunity to all citizens. A retiring employee cannot virtually transfer his office to a member of his family, by nominating him/ her to a public authority, whose employment he is demitting. An appointment of this kind is so thickly violative of the scheme of equality in public employment enshrined under Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution, that the appointment made in the petitioner's favour must be held void. The order of termination from service that has been passed, it is lamentable has come too late. Lamentable it is both for the petitioner and the Nagar Palika, now represented by their successor Nagar Nigam. It is so for the petitioner because the order of appointment has allowed her to live a whole life in a sand castle, which has met its logical end in the impugned order of termination. It is bad for the Nagar Palika and their successor Nagar Nigam because an employee, who was never appointed at all to the post of a sweeper in their establishment, has functioned and drawn salary borne on the State Exchequer.

18. The petitioner cannot be permitted to continue on a post, to which she has never been appointed under the rules. At the same time, since the petitioner, under the colour and by dint of whatever kind of appointment order, was issued in her favour on 15.12.1994, has rendered work as a Safai Karmachari for the Nagar Palika Parishad and then its successor Nagar Nigam, cannot be asked to pay back whatever she has drawn towards salary and other emoluments. If that were permitted, it would be making the petitioner render begar, something prohibited under Article 23 of the Constitution. Therefore, the respondents are not entitled to recover any emoluments from the petitioner for the work done by her. The petitioner, on the other hand, is not entitled to continue in the respondent Nagar Nigam's harness any further.

19. In the considered opinion of this Court, therefore, the impugned order does not call for any interference by this Court in the exercise of our jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

20. Subject to the remarks, forbearing the respondents from recovering any emoluments already paid to the petitioner, this petition fails and is dismissed.

21. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Integrated Goods and Services Tax Act (IGST Act), 2017 - Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (CGST Act) - E-Way Bill - Penalty - mens rea - Minor error in documentation - Under Rule 138 (A) (b) of the CGST Rules, the person in charge of a conveyance must carry a copy of the E-Way Bill in physical form or the E-Way Bill number in electronic form. The presence of mens rea for evasion of tax is a sine qua non for imposing a penalty. A minor error in documentation cannot be a valid ground for passing penalty orders by the authorities.

B. In this case, the truck was detained because the goods were being transported without an E-Way Bill. The petitioner downloaded the E-Way Bill on 21.05.2019 at 08:38 AM, and the interception occurred at 08:52 AM, indicating that the E-Way Bill was downloaded before the interception. Although the driver could not provide a hard copy, he informed the respondent No. 2 about the E-Way Bill number. The authorities failed to verify the E-Way Bill number on the GST portal. The respondents argued that the absence of a hard copy constituted a violation. However, since the E-Way Bill was downloaded prior to interception, and the driver communicated the E-Way Bill number, respondent No. 2 was unjustified in imposing the penalty. The only violation was technical, as the E-Way Bill was not physically present. Moreover, the invoice matched the goods in the vehicle, indicating no mens rea for tax evasion. The issuance of the show cause notice and penalty order on the same day shows that the petitioner was not given an opportunity to respond, violating principles of natural justice. (Para 8, 13)

ii. In the show cause notice issued to the petitioner, a time limit of 7 days was mentioned to submit the reply but without waiting for 7 days and without giving an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, the respondent No. 2 illegaly passed the penalty order.

iii. The minor mistake in documentation was without any fraudulent intent or gross negligence and the same was later on rectified by downloading the E-Way Bill. This minor mistake of the petitioner is protected under Section 126 (1) of the CGST Act.

iv. As provided under rule 138 (A) (b) of the CGST Rules, the person incharge of a conveyance shall carry a copy of the E-Way Bill in physical form or E-Way bill number in electronic form. In the present case, although the driver of the vehicle could not provide a hard copy of the E-Way Bill to the respondent No. 2, yet he informed the respondent No. 2 about the E-Way bill number.

v. Since the E-Way Bill was downloaded prior to the interception of the goods and the driver of the vehicle informed the respondent No. 2 about the E-Way Bill number, the respondent No. 2 was not justified in passing the penalty order.

CONTENTIONS OF THE RESPONDENTS

4. Learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents has made the following submissions:

i. At the time of interception, the vehicle in question was in transit without there being the mandatory E-Way Bill which is a clear violation of the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as 'the UPGST Act').

ii. The proceedings under Section 129 (1) of the UPGST Act were initiated in view of the aforesaid anomaly.

iii. The proceedings initiated under Section 129(1) & 129(3) of the UPGST Act were just, proper and in accordance with the law.

iv. The penalty imposed and the entire proceedings were in consonance with the Rules and Law, particularly highlighting the necessity of E-Way Bills during transportation.

v. The appellate authority made a decision after due consideration of facts and materials, and thus upheld the penalty order.

ANALYSSIS AND CONCLUSION

5. I have heard the counsel appearing for the parties and perused the material on record.

6. In the present case, the pivotal question pertains to the compliance of E-Way bill as requried under the provisions of the CGST/UPGST Act and related rules. The petitioner contends that compliance was timely achieved, while the respondents argued that the absence of an E-Way bill during transit constituted a violation.

7. The crux of the dispute lies in the interpretation of statutory provisions regarding E-Way bill, the presumption of tax evasion in its absence, and the procedural fairness in penalty imposition.

8. It is clear from the perusal of the record that the show cause notice and the penalty order both were issued on the same day, which indicates that no opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner to submit his reply which is a gross violation of the principles of natural justice.

9. Upon a perusal of the E-Way Bill downloaded by the petitioner, it is clear that even though the driver could not produce the hard copy of the E-Way Bill before the respondent No. 2, yet it was downloaded prior to the interception of the vehicle.

10. This Court had dealt with a similar issue in case of M/S. Hindustan Herbal Cosmetics V. State Of U.P. And 2 Others (WRIT TAX No. - 1400 of 2019 decided on January 2, 2024) wherein it has been held that presence of mens rea for evasion of tax is a sine qua non for imposition of penalty. The Court further emphasized that a minor error in the documentation can not be a valid ground for passing of the penalty orders by the authorities. Relevant paragraph of the judgment is delineated below:

"8. Upon perusal of the judgments, the principle that emerges is that presence of mens rea for evasion of tax is a sine qua non for imposition of penalty. A typographical error in the e-way bill without any further material to substantiate the intention to evade tax should not and cannot lead to imposition of penalty. In the case of M/s. Varun Beverages Limited (supra) there was a typographical error in the e-way bill of 4 letters (HR – 73). In the present case, instead of '5332', '3552' was incorrectly entered into the e-way bill which clearly appears to be a typographical error. In certain cases where lapses by the dealers are major, it may be deemed that there is an intention to evade tax but not so in every case. Typically when the error is a minor error of the nature found in this particular case, I am of the view that imposition of penalty under Section 129 of the Act is without jurisdiction and illegal in law."

11. This Court in case of Falguni Steels v. State of U.P. reported in (2024) 124 GSTR 10 has held that in a case where the E-Way Bill is downloaded and produced before passing of the penalty order by the authorities and no mens rea can be inferred from the act of the petitioner, there is no justification in passing of the penalty order by the authorities. Relevant paragraph of the judgment is quoted below:

"17. Once both the e-way bills were presented before passing of the penalty order, and all the documents including the tax invoices, were found to be in order, respondent No. 2 had no sound rationale to pass the impugned order dated February 20, 2019. A bare reading of the said order would show that the presence of the tax invoices, was recorded by respondent No. 2. Furthermore, respondent No. 2 also rejected the e-way bills which were generated post the detention of the goods, since the same in its opinion, was contrary to the provisions of the UPGST Act, 2017/CGST Act, 2017. Nowhere in the said impugned order, it has been recorded that there was any definite intention to evade tax. The essence of any penal imposition is intrinsically linked to the presence of mens rea, a facet conspicuously absent from the record. The order, therefore, stands vulnerable to challenge on the grounds of disproportionate punitive measures meted out in the absence of concrete evidence substantiating an intent to evade tax liabilities."

12. The law laid down in Falguni Steels (supra) was also followed by this Court in case of M/s Globe Panel Industries India Private Limited v. State Of U.P. And Others (Writ Tax No. - 141 of 2023 decided on February 5, 2024). Relevant paragraph of the judgment is extracted below:

"4. This Court in M/s Hindustan Herbal Cosmetics v. State of U.P. and Others (Writ Tax No.1400 of 2019 decided on January 2, 2024) and M/s Falguni Steels v. State of U.P. and Others (Writ Tax No.146 of 2023 decided on January 25, 2024) held that mens rea to evade tax is essential for imposition of penalty. The factual aspect in the present case did not indicate any intention whasoever to evade tax. Furthermore, the documents that have been relied upon by the petitioner have not been considered by the authorities. The authorities have dealt with the issue with regard to the expiry of the E-Way Bill and held that no explanaiton was offerred by the petitioner with regard to the fresh generation of the E-Way Bill, as the same had expired ten days before the detention. However, it is to be noted that the goods in the vehicle were for two e-Invoices and two E-Way Bills and only one E-Way Bill had expired. There is no dispute with regard to the consignor and consignee nor any dispute with regard to the description of the goods in the vehicle. In relation to the e-Invoices and the E-Way Bills, the authorities have not been able indicate any intention whatsoever on behalf of the petitioner to evade tax. Indubitably, there is a technical violation that has been committed by the petitioner. However, the authorities have not been able to indicate in any manner that the E-Way Bill had been used repeatedly nor have they made out any case with regard to an intention to evade tax by the petitioner. Accordingly, this Court is of the view that such a technical violation by itself without any intention to evade tax cannot lead to imposition of penalty under Section 129(3) of the Act. This view is fortified by a catena of judgments as indicated above."

13. In the facts and circumstances, it is clear that only violation is a technical one wherein E-Way Bill was not present in the vehicle. However, it is clear that the E-Way Bill had been downloaded prior to the interception of the vehicle. Furthermore, invoice and the E-Way Bill matched with the goods in the vehicle, and accordingly, one can infer that there was no mens rea for the evasion of tax.

14. In light of the above discussion, I am of the view that there was no intention to evade tax on the part of the petitioner. Further, respondent authorities failed to check the genuinness of the E-Way Bill number as informed by the driver from the GST portal and did not provide an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner which was against the principles of natural justice which strenghtens my view that the authorties did not act in accordance with the law.

15. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned orders dated January 4, 2020 and May 21, 2019 are hereby quashed and set aside.

16. The respondent authorities are directed to refund the amount of tax and penalty deposited by the petitioner within a period of four weeks from the date of this judgment.

3. Sudhir Kumar & ors. Vs Smt. Omwati & ors.; 2018 (6) AWC 6113

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit filed today is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Manas Bhargava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Manish Tandon, learned counsel for the contesting respondents.

3. Petitioner before this court claims to be in possession of the property in question by virtue of transfer of possession given to him by erstwhile tenant and is aggrieved by the order passed by the executing court rejecting his application being Paper No.- 4-C filed under Order XXI Rule 97 C.P.C.

4. Petitioner does dispute the title of decree holder in respect of the property in question but submits that manner in which his application is rejected is against the principle contained in the provisions of Order XXI Rule 97, 98, 99 and 100 C.P.C.

5. It is further contended by learned counsel for the petitioner that he has instituted a suit for permanent prohibitory injunction against the decree holder being O.S. No.- 1269 of 2023 in which he is enjoying temporary injunction order against decree holder and, therefore, so long as interim order is continuing, petitioner cannot be evicted by the executing court in satisfaction of the decree.

Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Jahid Khan and another v. Suresh Chand Jain and others, 2013 (6) ADJ 547 and in the case of Salik Ram Singh @ Salik Ram v. Additional District Judge, Court No.- 3, Gonda and others, 2022 (3) ADJ 380.

6. Per contra, Sri Manish Tandon, learned counsel for the respondent- decree holder submits that against the order of temporary injunction passed in the suit, the decree holder had preferred misc. Civil Appeal No.- 117 of 2023 which has now been finally disposed of on 15th May, 2024 rejecting 6-C application and setting aside the order dated 4th October, 2023 passed by the trial court. Thus, according to him, there is no more injunction operating in favour of the petitioner.

7. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the respondent that petitioner is a rank trespasser and has stepped into the shoes of tenant after the decree of eviction was passed. So, any transfer of possession even by executing an unregistered document is of no value and would stand hit by Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act. It is contended that if any amount has been paid by the petitioner to the erstwhile tenant of the answering respondent – decree holder, petitioner has a right to recover the same by instituting an appropriate suit but he cannot resist the recovery of possession of the premises as a lawful transferee of the property. He submits that if such unscrupulous elements are permitted to bank with the trespass activity, then there will be no end of litigation and it will become very easy to frustrate a lawful decree repeatedly.

8. In support of his argument learned counsel for the respondent has relied upon the judgment of a coordinate Bench in the case of Sudhir Kumar and others v. Smt. Omwati and others; 2018 (6) AWC 6113.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and their arguments raised across the bar and having noticed the pleadings raised before this Court as well as before the executing court, the admitted position comes out to be that answering respondent is the title holder of the suit property. It is also an admitted position that petitioner was nowhere in scene when the judgment and decree was passed by the trial court. As per his own pleadings he is a transferee of the property by a tenant who was ousted by the decree of eviction. There being no agreement between the landlord and the petitioner and the earlier sitting tenant faced with the decree of eviction, in my considered view, there could not have been any lawful transfer of premises in question by such tenant to a third party and if third party paid any amount of consideration to enter into possession by writing a note on a piece of paper, which in the present case is admittedly an unregistered document, his status is liable to be reduced to a trespasser.

10. It is settled law that no one can pass on a better title than what he has, so any such transfer of possession by a person holding it to be entitled to pass on a possession is liable to be rendered as unlawful and void. The petitioner did institute a suit in which ultimately he has lost injunction application at the stage of appeal. Pleadings as to possession are only to the effect that he is occupying the premises easementary. For a person to have lawful possession to resist a decree holder, the claim to be set up must be a genuine one. One has to show that he was a bona fide purchaser or person with bona fide possession of the property to resist the execution proceedings instituted by the decree holder. In the case of Sudhir Kumar (supra) the Court has dealt with this aspect of the matter referring Order XXI Rule 102 of C.P.C. The Court vide paragraph 6 has held thus:

"6. A perusal of the record shows that admittedly, Anant Ram had sold the property (which was subject- matter of agreement to sale) to the applicants/appellants on 10.6.1997. The Civil Appeal No. 66 of 1996 has been decided on 8.10.1999, meaning thereby that the disputed property has been sold during the pendency of Civil Appeal No. 66/1996, which is not permissible under law in wake of the bar created by the doctrine of lis pendens and also in view of Order XXI, Rule 102, C.P.C.

(1) Order XXI, Rule 102 of Civil Procedure Code runs as under:

"Rule not applicable to transferee pendente-lite.- Nothing in Rules 98 and 100 shall apply to resistance or obstruction in execution of a decree for the possession of immovable property by person to whom the judgment-debtor has transferred the property after the institution of the suit in which the decree was passed or to the dispossession of any such person."

(2) A bare perusal of the above cited provision leaves no room for any doubt that any pendente-lite transferee of the subject-matter of the decree will have no right and will not be entitled to offer any resistance or obstruction in delivery of possession to the decree-holder of the subject- matter of the decree, in execution of the decree. Accordingly, he would not be entitled to file objections under Order XXI, Rule 97 of the Civil Procedure Code. A further perusal of the provisions contained in Rule 102 would make it clear that no such defence would be available to such pendente-lite transferee that he was a bona-fide purchaser with consideration and without notice.

Rule 102 of Order XXI of the Civil Procedure Code, need to be necessarily read with the provision of Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882. For a ready reference Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 is reproduced hereinbelow :

"Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.-During the pendency in any court having authority within the limits of India excluding the State of Jammu and Kashmir or established beyond such limits by the Central Government of any suit or proceeding which is not collusive and. in which any right so immovable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred or otherwise dealt with by any party to the suit or proceeding so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order which may be made therein, except under the authority of the court and on such terms as it may impose.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section, the pendency of a suit or proceeding shall be deemed to commence from the date of the presentation of the plaint or the institution of the proceeding in a court of competent jurisdiction, and to continue until the suit or proceeding has been disposed of by a final decree or order, and complete satisfaction or discharge of such decree or order has been obtained, oƨ has become unobtainable by reason of the expiration of any period of limitation prescribed for the execution thereof by any law for the time being in force."

(3) A bare perusal of the provision contained in Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act would also make it clear that defence of being bona-fide purchaser with consideration and without notice are not available to pendente-lite transferee.

(4) Thus, the applicant- objector was not entitled or competent to resist or obstruct the delivery of the subject-matter of the decree to the decree-holder."

(Emphasis added)

11, Insofar as the judgment in the case of Jahid Khan (supra) is concerned, resistance or obstruction to possession of immovable property if set up by a person has to be adjudicated upon, suffice it to hold that there has to be given a harmonious construction of the different rules provided under Order XXI as Rule 98 to 101 C.P.C.

12. Some semblance of genuine right has to be found in the application itself moved by a person resisting recovery of possession in order to attract the principle of adjudication.

13. From a bare reading of various paragraphs of miscellaneous application filed under Order XXI Rule 97 C.P.C., the only pleading is that he was given possession with a tacit consent of the decree holder, otherwise every transaction was claimed between the petitioner and the erstwhile tenant. This application has been considered on merits and it has been held that petitioner was required earlier under order dated 2nd August, 2022 to produce the necessary documents but he failed to produce any document except an unregistered agreement and the tax receipts.

14. The Court has categorically recorded a finding that these documents do not give any conclusive proof of title to sustain possession of the petitioner so as to entitle him to resist recovery of possession.

The court sitting in revision has affirmed the order of the trial court and held that the court cannot go beyond the decree as the plea was taken that the court passing the decree had no jurisdiction to pass it.

15. I, therefore, do not find any error in the findings returned even by the court sitting in revision.

16. Insofar as the judgment in the case of Salik Ram (supra) is concerned, that case is in the setting of different facts and, therefore, distinguishable. It is to be borne in mind that merely because the provisions are there entitling a third party to resist the recovery of possession, does not mean that the court will embark upon an inquiry in every case in detail. The court as a matter of fact will have to look into the genuine case set up and if a third party fails to lead any evidence, this Court has no option but to hold him such a party who would be not entitled to any possession. Order XXI Rule 102 of C.P.C. is very much clear on the point.

17. Thus, petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. The instant application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been preferred by Mamta Kapoor and Anurag Kumar Gupta (hereinafter referred to as 'the Petitioners') against the order dated January 17, 2023 passed by the Presiding Officer, Commercial Court, Varanasi in Misc. (Civil) Suit No. 375/2022.

FACTS

2. I have laid down the factual matrix of the instant lis below:

a. Petitioners and Vinod Kumar Rai (hereinafter referred to as 'the Respondent') entered into a business agreement on July 7, 2022 for running, operating and managing Hotel Niveditta, situated at B-30/1-A-1-D, Assi, Varanasi (hereinafter referred to as 'the Hotel').

b. In pursuance of the aforesaid agreement, a total amount of Rs.30,00,000/- was to be paid by the Petitioners to the Respondent as security and the possession of the Hotel was to be taken over by the Petitioners. Thereafter, the Petitioners, approached the electricity department for verification of dues and to obtain appropriate electricity connection at the Hotel. The Petitioners were informed about the requirement of the installation of a separate transformer at the Hotel for electricity supply. The Petitioners informed the Respondent about the said requirement and asked them to apply or obtain the necessary certification from the electricity department.

c. However, disputes and differences arose between the parties and the Petitioners approached the Commercial Court, Varanasi.

d. The Commercial Court, Varanasi vide order dated January 17, 2023 refused to entertain the suit filed by the Petitioners on the ground that since the Hotel was not being used for trade or commerce, the dispute cannot be considered as falling within the ambit of Section 2(1)(c)(vii) of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as 'the CC Act').

e. Aggrieved by the aforesaid order dated January 17, 2023, the Petitioners have preferred the instant application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India before this Court.

Contentions By The Petitioners

3. Shri Ujjawal Satsangi, learned counsel appearing for the Petitioners has made the following submissions before this Court:

a. A perusal of the agreement between the parties would show that although the nomenclature used for referring it is "Rent Agreement" but the clauses therein refer to a business operation and management agreement.

b. Clause 4 of the agreement between the parties specifies that the Petitioners will be permitted to use the premises of the Hotel only for running a hotel and for no other purpose. Moreover, Clause 18 further clarifies that the Petitioners were prohibited from keeping the Hotel closed for over a period of 15 days. It was further provided therein that if the Petitioners keep the Hotel closed for more than 15 days, then the Respondent would have the right to take over the Hotel and only if the Petitioners, upon notice, agree to run the Hotel, the agreement will continue otherwise it would be deemed that the Petitioners are not interest in running the Hotel and as such the agreement will be terminated. A combined reading of all these clauses goes on to show that though the nomenclature used in the agreement dated July 7, 2021 is "tenancy/rent", the agreement is in the nature of operation and management of a hotel.

c. It is apparent from the perusal of the facts and circumstances that the dispute in the instant case relates to a commercial dispute under Section 2(1)(c) of the CC Act and therefore, the Commercial Court was required to register the suit as a proper suit and thereafter afford an opportunity to the Petitioners to argue on merits.

d. Rather than marking the suit as a Commercial Suit, as warranted under law, the Commercial Court, registered the suit as a Misc. Civil Case, which is an anomaly, and unrecognised under the eyes of law.

e. Commercial Court incorrectly applied the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ambalal Sarabhai Enterprises -v- KS Infraspace LLP reported in (2020) 15 SCC 585 to conclude that the Hotel was never used for trade and commerce and therefore the suit instituted by the Petitioners was unmaintainable.

f. A perusal of the agreement would show that it was for the operation and management of a hotel, along with its equipment and assets. Therefore, evidently, the Hotel was being used for trade and commerce.

g. In light of the aforesaid facts, it is expedient in the interest of justice that the impugned order dated January 17, 2023 passed by the Presiding Officer, Commercial Court, Varanasi in Misc. (Civil) Suit No. 375/2022, be set aside. The Petitioners have no other equally efficacious and alternative remedy, other than approaching this Court under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

Analysis and Conclusion

4. I have heard the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Petitioner and perused the materials on record.

5. Before dealing with the instant case on merits, this Court would like to put on record that despite several opportunities afforded to the Respondent, none appeared to argue on his behalf. The fate of the Petitioners cannot be left at the mercy of the Respondent who does not seem to be interested in the instant matter. The failure on part of the Respondent suggests a disregard for this Court's process and time. Therefore, this Court, despite the fact that no arguments have been made by the Respondent, has proceeded to adjudicate the instant case on merits.

6. The main issue in the instant case is that whether the Hotel was being used by the Petitioners for trade and commerce, and therefore, the Commercial Court erred in dismissing the suit filed by the Petitioners.

7. Since the definition of a commercial dispute is contained in Section 2(c) of the CC Act, I have extracted it below:

"2. Definitions.—(1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,—

(c) "commercial dispute" means a dispute arising out of—

(i) ordinary transactions of merchants, bankers, financiers and traders such as those relating to mercantile documents, including enforcement and interpretation of such documents;

(ii) export or import of merchandise or services;

(iii) issues relating to admiralty and maritime law;

(iv) transactions relating to aircraft, aircraft engines, aircraft equipment and helicopters, including sales, leasing and financing of the same;

(v) carriage of goods;

(vi) construction and infrastructure contracts, including tenders;

(vii) agreements relating to immovable property used exclusively in trade or commerce;

(viii) franchising agreements;

(ix) distribution and licensing agreements;

(x) management and consultancy agreements;

(xi) joint venture agreements;

(xii) shareholders agreements;

(xiii) subscription and investment agreements pertaining to the services industry including outsourcing services and financial services;

(xiv) mercantile agency and mercantile usage;

(xv) partnership agreements;

(xvi) technology development agreements;

(xvii) intellectual property rights relating to registered and unregistered trademarks, copyright, patent, design, domain names, geographical indications and semiconductor integrated circuits;

(xviii) agreements for sale of goods or provision of services;

(xix) exploitation of oil and gas reserves or other natural resources including electromagnetic spectrum;

(xx) insurance and re-insurance;

(xxi) contracts of agency relating to any of the above; and (xxii) such other commercial disputes as may be notified by the Central Government.

Explanation.—A commercial dispute shall not cease to be a commercial dispute merely because—

(a) it also involves action for recovery of immovable property or for realisation of monies out of immovable property given as security or involves any other relief pertaining to immovable property;

(b) one of the contracting parties is the State or any of its agencies or instrumentalities, or a private body carrying out public functions;"

(Emphasis Added)

8. Agreements relating to immovable property used exclusively in trade or commerce fall under the purview of "commercial disputes" as defined by Section 2(c)(vii) of the CC Act. This categorization highlights the specific nature of such agreements and their inherent connection to commercial activities. Immovable property in this context usually refers to land and buildings used solely for business purposes, such as offices, factories, warehouses, retail spaces, and other commercial establishments. These properties are distinct from residential or mixed-use properties, emphasizing their exclusive dedication to facilitating business operations.

9. Commercial disputes involving immovable property typically arise from agreements like lease contracts, sale agreements, joint development agreements, and mortgage arrangements. Lease agreements for commercial properties can lead to disputes over rent payments, lease renewals, property maintenance, and compliance with lease terms. For instance, conflicts may occur if a tenant defaults on rent or violates lease conditions, or if a landlord fails to provide agreed-upon services or attempts to unlawfully evict a tenant. Similarly, sale agreements for commercial properties can result in disputes concerning payment terms, transfer of property titles, and fulfilment of contractual obligations. Issues such as misrepresentation of property conditions, delays in possession, and breaches of contractual terms are common points of contention.

10. The expression "used" in Section 2(c)(vii) of the CC Act makes it clear that the immovable property must be actually used or being used for the purpose of "trade or commerce" and not "likely to be used" or "to be used". In legal parlance, "used" generally implies active and current utilization rather than hypothetical or intended future use. This interpretation aligns with the principle that a legislation is designed to address present conditions and real-world applications rather than speculative scenarios. Reference in this regard can be made to the judgment of the Gujarat High Court in Vasu Healthcare Private Limited -v- Gujarat Akruti TCG Biotech Limited & 1(S) reported in 2017 SCC OnLine Guj 724. Relevant paragraph is extracted herein:

"33. Therefore, if the dispute falls within any of the clause 2(c) the dispute can be said to be "commercial dispute" for which the Commercial Court would have jurisdiction. It is required to be noted that before the learned Commercial Court the original plaintiff relied upon section 2(c)(i), 2(c)(ii) and 2(c)(xx) of the Commercial Courts Act only. Learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the original plaintiff has candidly admitted and/or conceded that the case shall not fall within clause 2(c)(i); 2(c)(ii) or 2(c)(xx) of the Commercial Courts Act. It is required to be noted that before the learned Commercial Court it was never the case on behalf of the original plaintiff that case would fall within section 2(c)(vii) of the learned Commercial Court. Despite the above we have considered on merits whether even considering section 2(c)(vii) of the Commercial Courts Act, the dispute between the parties can be said to be "commercial dispute" within the definition of section 2(c) of the Commercial Courts Act or not? Considering section 2(c)(vii), "commercial dispute" means a dispute arising out of the agreements relating to immovable property used exclusively in trade or commerce. As observed hereinabove, at the time of filing of the suit and even so pleaded in the plaint, the immovable property/plots the agreements between the parties cannot be said to be agreements relating to immovable property used exclusively in trade or commerce. As per the agreement between the party after getting the plots on lease from the GIDC, the same was required to be thereafter developed by the original defendant No. 1 and after providing all infrastructural facilities and sub-plotting it, the same is required to be given to other persons like the original plaintiff. It is the case on behalf of the original plaintiff that as the original defendant No. 1 has failed to provide any infrastructural facilities and develop the plots and therefore, a civil suit for specific performance of the agreement has been filed. There are other alternative prayers also. Therefore, it cannot be said that the agreement is as such relating to immovable property used exclusively in trade or commerce. It is the case on behalf of the original plaintiff that as in clause (vii) of section 2(c), the pharseology used is not "actually used" or "being used" and therefore, even if at present the plot is not used and even if it is likely to be used even in future, in that case also, section 2(c)(vii) shall be applicable and therefore, the Commercial Court would have jurisdiction. The aforesaid has no substance. As per the cardinal principle of law while interpreting a particular statute or the provision, the literal and strict interpretation has to be applied. It may be noted that important words used in the relevant provisions are "immovable property used exclusively in trade or commerce*". If the submission on behalf of the original plaintiff is accepted in that case it would be adding something in the statute which is not there in the statute, which is not permissible. On plain reading of the relevant clause it is clear that the expression "used" must mean "actually used" or "being used". If the intention of the legislature was to expand the scope, in that case the phraseology used would have been different as for example, "likely to be used" or "to be used". The word "used" denotes "actually used" and it cannot be said to be either "ready for use" or "likely to be used"; or "to be used". Similar view has been taken by the Bombay High Court (Nagpur Bench) in the case of Dineshkumar Gulabchand Agrawal (Supra) and it is observed and held that the word "used" denotes "actually used" and not merely "ready for use". It is reported that SLP against the said decision has been dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court."*

11. The Delhi High Court in Jagmohan Behl -v- State Bank of Indore reported in 2017 SCC OnLine Del 10706 held that a harmonious reading of Section 2(c)(vii) of the CC Act would include all disputes arising out of an agreement relating to an immoveable property being used exclusively for trade and commerce, be it a dispute for realisation of money given in the form of security or any other relief pertaining to such an immoveable property. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

"9. In order to appreciate the controversy, we would first reproduce the relevant definition clause, i.e. 2(1)(c)(vii), as also the explanation thereto:—

"Definitions.-(1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires

(c) "commercial dispute" means a dispute arising out of-

(vii) agreements relating to immoveable property used exclusively in trade or commerce;

Explanation.-A commercial dispute shall not cease to be a commercial dispute merely because-

(a) It also involves action for recovery of immoveable property or for realisation of monies out of immoveable property given as security or involves any other relief pertaining to immoveable property;

(b) One of the contracting parties is the State or any of its agencies or instrumentalities, or a private body carrying out public functions;

10. The explanation in the present case has to be read as part and parcel of clause (vii), for the language of the explanation shows the purpose, and the construction consistent with the purpose which should be placed on the main provision. The main provision, therefore, has to be construed and read in the light of the explanation and accordingly the scope and ambit of sub-clause (vii) to clause(c), defining the expression "commercial dispute", has to be interpreted. The explanation harmonises and clears up any ambiguity or doubt when it comes to interpretation of the main provision. In S. Sundaran Pillai v. V.R. Pattabiraman (1985) 1 SCC 591, it was observed that explanation to a statutory provision can explain the meaning and intendment of the provision itself and also clear any obscurity and vagueness to clarify and make it consistent with the dominant object which the explanation seems to sub-serve. It fills up the gap. However, such explanation should not be construed so as to take away the statutory right with which any person under a statute has been clothed or to set at naught the working of the Act by becoming a hindrance in the interpretation of the same.

11. Clause (c) defines the "commercial dispute" in the Act to mean a dispute arising out of different sub-clauses. The expression "arising out of" in the context of clause (vii) refers to an agreement in relation to an immoveable property. The expressions "arising out of" and "in relation to immoveable property"1 have to be given their natural and general contours. These are wide and expansive expressions and are not to be given a narrow and restricted meaning. The expressions would include all matters relating to all agreements in connection with immoveable properties. The immoveable property should form the dominant purpose of the agreement out of which the dispute arises. There is another significant stipulation in clause (vii) relating to immoveable property, i.e., the property should be used exclusively in trade or commerce. The natural and grammatical meaning of clause (vii) is that all disputes arising out of agreements relating to immoveable property when the immoveable property is exclusively used for trade and commerce would qualify as a commercial dispute. The immoveable property must be used exclusively for trade or business and it is not material whether renting of immoveable property was the trade or business activity carried on by the landlord. Use of the property as for trade and business is determinative. Properties which are not exclusively used for trade or commerce would be excluded

12. The explanation stipulates that a commercial dispute shall not cease to be a commercial dispute merely because it involves recovery of immoveable property, or is for realisation of money out of immoveable property given as security or involves any other relief pertaining to immoveable property, and would be a commercial dispute as defined in sub-clause (vii) to clause (c). The expression "shall not cease", it could be asserted, has been used so as to not unnecessarily expand the ambit and scope of sub-clause (vii) to clause (c), albeit it is a clarificatory in nature. The expression seeks to clarify that the immoveable property should be exclusively used in trade or commerce, and when the said condition is satisfied, disputes arising out of agreements relating to immoveable property involving action for recovery of immoveable property, realization of money out of immoveable property given as security or any other relief pertaining to immoveable property would be a commercial dispute. The expression "any other relief pertaining to immoveable property" is significant and wide. The contours are broad and should not be made otiose while reading the explanation and sub-clause (vii) to clause (c) which defines the expression "commercial dispute". Any other interpretation would make the expression "any other relief pertaining to immoveable property" exclusively used in trade or commerce as nugatory and redundant.

13. Harmonious reading of the explanation with sub-clause (vii) to clause (c) would include all disputes arising out of agreements relating to immoveable property when used exclusively for trade and commerce, be it an action for recovery of immoveable property or realization of money given in the form of security or any other relief pertaining to immoveable property."

12. In Ambalal Sarabhai (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court propounded that a dispute relating to an immovable property if it falls under Section 2(1)(c)(vii) of the CC Act, would qualify as a commercial dispute. Relevant paragraph is extracted below:

"37. A dispute relating to immovable property per se may not be a commercial dispute. But it becomes a commercial dispute, if it falls under sub-clause (vii) of Section 2(1)(c) of the Act viz. "the agreements relating to immovable property used exclusively in trade or commerce". The words "used exclusively in trade or commerce" are to be interpreted purposefully. The word "used" denotes "actually used" and it cannot be either "ready for use" or "likely to be used" or "to be used". It should be "actually used". Such a wide interpretation would defeat the objects of the Act and the fast tracking procedure discussed above."

13. What emerges from a reading of the aforesaid judicial pronouncements is that, for a dispute arising out of an immovable property to be qualified as a commercial dispute, following conditions must be satisfied:-

a. For a dispute arising out of an immovable property to be qualified as a commercial dispute, an immovable property must be actually used or being used for the purpose of "trade or commerce" rather than being merely "likely to be used" or "to be used" This interpretation emphasizes the necessity for active and current utilization of the immovable property in commercial activities. The term "used" in Section 2(c)(vii) of the CC act excludes the notion of mere readiness or potential for future utilization.

b. The immovable property in question must be exclusively used for trade or commerce. Any other incidental or non-commercial use may disqualify the dispute from being categorized as a commercial dispute.

c. The question that whether a dispute arising out of an agreement relating to an immovable property would qualify as a commercial dispute would necessitate a contextual analysis, and consideration of the specific language and purpose of the contractual provisions of the agreement in question.

d. Commercial disputes encompass all relevant disputes arising from agreements relating to immovable property exclusively used for trade and commerce. This includes disputes for recovery of property, realization of money, or any other relief pertaining to commercial activities.

14. Coming to the factual matrix of the instant case at hand, it is apparent that the agreement between the Petitioners and the Respondent was exclusively for the business operation and management of the Hotel, which would make any dispute arising out of the said agreement fall within the definition of a commercial dispute. Disputes arising out of business operation and management agreements of immovable properties, such as hotels, resorts, office buildings, shopping centres, and other commercial real estate, fall within the definition of a commercial dispute as outlined in Section 2(c)(vii) of the CC Act.

15. However, the Commercial Court, Varanasi held that the Hotel was never "actually used" for the purposes of trade or commercial and dismissed the suit filed by the Petitioners. Relevant portion from the impugned order dated January 17, 2023 passed by the Commercial Court, Varanasi is extracted herein:

"उपरोक्त विवेचना से स्पष्ट होता है कि वादिनी द्वारा प्रस्तुत वाद में उल्लेखित परिसर संख्या उपरोक्त होटल का संचालन वाणिज्यिक विद्युत की आपूर्ति न होने के कारण व्यापार व वाणिज्यिक रूप से वास्तविक प्रयोग कभी नहीं किया गया तथा माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा ।उइंसंस ैंतंइींप म्दजमतचतपेमे स्पउपजमक के अन्तर्गत सुस्थापित विधि व्यवस्था के अनुसार वादिनी द्वारा प्रस्तुत वाद जो प्रकीर्ण सिविल वाद संख्या 375/2022 के रूप में दर्ज है की सुनवाई का क्षेत्राधिकार वाणिज्यिक न्यायालय वाराणसी को प्राप्त नहीं है तथा वादिनी का उपरोक्त प्रकीर्ण सिविल वाद तथा उसके साथ संलग्न वाद पत्र अस्वीकार किये जाने योग्य है।

प्रकीर्ण सिविल वाद संख्या 375/2022 ममता कपूर व अन्य बनाम विनोद कुमार राय वाणिज्यिक न्यायालय को सुनवाई का क्षेत्राधिकार न होने के कारण अस्वीकार किया जाता है। कार्यालय को निर्देशित किया जाता है कि वह वादिनी की सम्पूर्ण पत्रावली नियमानुसार वादिनी अथवा उसके अधिकृत व्यक्ति को वापस प्राप्त कराये।"

16. A perusal of the factual matrix of the instant case would show that the Commercial Court, Varanasi was not justified in dismissing the suit filed by the Petitioners which would warrant the exercise of this Court's powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. The Hotel was actually being used for trade and commerce, and the agreement between the parties was for the purpose of business management and operations exclusively. It is evident from the nature of the agreement that the primary purpose was to facilitate and manage commercial activities related to the Hotel. Therefore, the argument that the Hotel was not "actually used" for trade or commerce lacks merit, as the very purpose of the agreement was to engage in commercial activities related to the operation of the Hotel. The Commercial Court's narrow interpretation overlooks the broader commercial context of the agreement and fails to recognize the commercial nature of the dispute.

17. Accordingly, the impugned order dated January 17, 2023 is quashed and set aside with a direction upon the Commercial Court, Varanasi to hear the suit filed by the Petitioner on merits, expeditiously and preferably, within a period of 6 months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

18. With the above directions, the instant application is allowed. There shall be no order as to the costs.

Asian Resurfacing of Road Agency P. Ltd. & ors. Vs Central Bureau of Investigation (Criminal Appeal Nos. 1375-1376 of 2013)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sudeep Harkauli, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri I.P. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. Present petition has been filed with the following prayers:-

"(i) To direct the Rent Tribunal to decide the Rent Control Appeal No.56 of 2023 within a time bound period of 60 days as provided in the Act.

(II) To direct the Rent Tribunal to return the records of the case under Appeal No. 56 of 2023 and under all other similar appeals to the Rent Authority so that case can be adjudicated there, and to direct the Rent Tribunal not to unnecessary summons records of the cases pending before the Rent Authority or summon only copies of the record from Rent Authority if at all required giving specific reasons as to why the copy of the record is required/necessary for deciding the appeal.

(iii) To direct the Rent Tribunal to comply with the provisions of mandatory deposit of 50% of the amount as required under the Act."

3. Sri Sudeep Harkauli, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that after repealing of U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972, U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as Act, 2021) has been enacted and also U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Rules, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as Rules, 2021) framed thereunder. He next submitted that petitioner has filed an application under Section 10 of Act, 2021, which was numbered as Case No. 5808 of 2022. In the said case, order dated 16.9.2022 has been passed fixing the interim rent at the rate of Rs. 750/- per square feet. Thereafter, respondent has filed an application to recall the order dated 16.9.2022. He has also approached this Court by filing Writ-A No. 12100 of 2023, which was disposed of vide order dated 26.7.2023 with direction to decide the recall application within time bound period. In pursuance of the said order, recall application was heard and rejected

vide order dated 17.11.2023. Recall/review application has been filed against the fixation of interim rent and as such its rejection confirms the fixation of interim rent.

4. He next submitted that there is provision of appeal under Section 35 of Act, 2021 against the orders passed by the Rent Authority. Section 35 of Act, 2021 provides pre deposits of 50% of the payable amount and in the present case, 50% of the payable amount would be 50% of the interim rent fixed by the order dated 16.9.2022. Against the review/recall order, rent appeal no.56 of 2023 has been filed without deposit of aforesaid amount, which is against the provisions of Act, 2021. The said appeal was entertained, original record of Appellate Authority has been summoned by the Rent Tribunal. He firmly submitted that no appeal has been filed against the order of fixation of interim rent dated 16.9.2022 rather than it has been filed against the recall/review order dated 17.11.2023. He lastly submitted that order of fixation of interim rent dated 16.9.2022 has never been challenged.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that after summoning the original record, petitioner is not in a position to initiate execution application to execute the order of interim rent dated 16.9.2022. He next submitted that as provided in Section 33 (2) & 35(2) of Act, 2021, direction may be issued to Rent Tribunal to decide the appeal at the earliest clarifying that pendency of such appeal may not be a ground for staying of any execution proceedings, if filed. He further submitted that direction may also be issued to rent tribunal not to summon the original record and in case original record is required, only photocopy/scanned copy duly certified by the Rent Authority may be sent. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Asian Resurfacing of Road Agency P. Ltd. and Ors. Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation passed in Criminal Appeal Nos. 1375-1376 of 2013 decided on 25.4.2018. He lastly submitted that while challenging any order of interim maintenance or final eviction, direction may also be issued to Rent Tribunal to ensure the compliance of statutory provision of pre deposit of 50% of the payable amount as provided in Section 35 of 2021, Act.

6. Sri I.P. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State has not opposed and disputed the submission so made by the learned counsel for the petitioner. He also submitted that in the larger interest of justice, suitable direction may be issued to Rent Tribunal/Rent Authority to ensure the compliance of provision Act & Rules, 2021 in its spirit.

7. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Sri I.P. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record as well as judgment relied upon. The first issue is before this Court about the time in which appeal is to be decided, therefore, Section 33(2) & 35(2) of Act, 2021 are relevant, which are being quoted hereinbelow:-

"Section 33(2) The Rent Authority or Rent Tribunal, as the case may be, shall endeavour to dispose the case as expeditiously as possible, not exceeding a period of more than sixty days from the date of receipt of the application or appeal.

Provided that where any such application or appeal, as the case may be could not be disposed of withing the said period of sixty days, the Rent Authority or Rent Tribunal, as the case may be, shall record its reason in writing for not disposing of the application or appeal within that period.

Section 35(2) Upon filing an appeal under sub-section (1), the Rent Tribunal shall serve notice, along with a copy of memorandum of appeal to the respondent and fix a hearing not later than thirty days from the date of service of notice of appeal on the respondent and the appeal shall be disposed of within a period of sixty days from such date of service."*

8. From perusal of the aforesaid sections, it is apparently clear that in all eventuality applications/appeals have to be decided maximum within a period of 60 days from the date of filing. In case it is not decided within the same time, reasons has to be recorded in writing.

9. Second issue is about the summoning of original record from the Rent Authority. Similar issue was before the Apex Court in the matter of Asian Resurfacing (Supra) in which Apex Court has issued direction to trial Court to send the photocopy/scanned copy of the record after retaining the same. The said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. In view of judgment of three Judge Bench dated 28th March, 2018 and after considering the material on record. we do not find any ground to interfere with the order framing charge.

3. Accordingly, the trial Court is directed to proceed with the matter pending before it. All contentions of the parties are left open which may be gone into by the trial Court. Parties are directed to appear before the trial Court on 14th May, 2018.

4. To give effect to directions in judgement of this Court dated 28th March, 2018, noted above, we direct that wherever original record has been summoned by an appellate/revisional Court, photocopy/scanned copy of the same may be kept for its reference and original returned to the trial Courts forthwith.

5. We also direct that if in future the trial Court record is summoned, the trial Courts may send photocopy/scanned copy of the record and retain the original so that the proceedings are not held up. In cases where specifically original record is required by holding that photocopy will not serve the purpose, the appellate/revisional court may call for the record only for perusal and the same be returned while keeping a photocopy/scanned copy of the same.

6. A copy of this order be sent to all the High Courts."

10. From perusal of the aforesaid order, Apex Court has issued specific direction to trial Court to send the photocopy/scanned copy of the original record retaining the same so that the proceedings are not held up. Ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court in the matter of Asian Resurfacing (Supra) shall also be applicable in the present case. This Court cannot take different view, therefore, it is always on the part of Rent Authority to send photocopy/scanned copy after retaining the original records to Rent Tribunal, if summoned. A letter of certification may also be annexed alongwith photocopy/scanned copy of the record.

11. The third issued was before this Court for direction to deposit of 50% amount in terms of Section 35 of Act, 2021. Same is quoted hereinbelow:-

"35. Appeal to Rent Tribunal (1) Any person aggrieved by an order passed by the Rent Authority may prefer an appeal along with a certified copy of such order to the Rent Tribunal within the local limits of which the premises is situated, within a period of thirty days from the date of that order:

Provided that no appeal shall lie unless the appellant pre-deposits fifty percent of the entire payable amount under the impugned order of the Rent Authority.

(2) Upon filing an appeal under sub-section (1), the Rent Tribunal shall serve notice, along with a copy of memorandum of appeal to the respondent and fix a hearing not later than thirty days from the date of service of notice of appeal on the respondent and the appeal shall be disposed of within a period of sixty days from such date of service.

(3) Where the Rent Tribunal considers it necessary in the interest of arriving at a just and proper decision, it may allow filing of documents at any stage of the proceedings in appeal:

Provided that no such document shall be allowed more than once during the hearing.

(4) The Rent Tribunal may, in its discretion, pass such interlocutory order during the pendency of the appeal, as it may deem fit.

(5) While deciding the appeal, the Rent Tribunal may, after recording reasons therefor, confirm, set aside or modify the order passed by a Rent Authority."

12. From perusal of the same it is apparently, clear that there is no exception to skip away from pre deposit of 50% the entire payable amount under the impugned order of the rent authority at the time of filing of appeal. In case any order is under challenged having direction of payment of any amount, no appeal can be entertained against the said order without pre deposit of 50% amount as mandated in Section 35 of Act, 2021.

13. Filing of appeal against the review/recall order without pre deposit of 50% amount and thereafter summoning of original record by the Rent Tribunal withholding the execution proceedings is nothing, but misuse of process of law.

14. Therefore, under such facts and circumstances as well as law laid down by the Apex Court, the petition is disposed of with the following directions:-

(i) Rent Tribunal/Rent Authority is directed to decide the appeals/applications as the case may be, strictly within the time limit provided in Section 33(2) & 35(2) of Act, 2021 i.e. 60 days. In case same is not decided within the prescribed time, they shall record reasons in writing for the same.

(a) In light of aforesaid observations, present Rent Appeal No. 56 of 2023 shall also be decided in terms of Section 33(2) & 35(2) of Act, 2021.

(ii) In case of summoning record by the Rent Tribunal, Rent Authority shall send the photocopy/scanned copy of the same alongwith letter of certification retaining the original record for further proceedings in accordance with provisions of Act & Rules, 2021. Rent Tribunal is also directed to ensure the compliance of above noted direction and in case original record is send by the Rent Authority, Rent Tribunal, after retaining the photocopy/scanned copy of the same, shall send back the original record to Rent Authority maximum within a period of two weeks from the date of receiving the same.

(iii) Rent Tribunal is further directed not to entertain any appeal in contrary to provision of Section 35 of Act, 2021 without pre deposit of 50% of the amount payable under the order of Rent Authority. In case original order is not under challenged, only order of review/recall as discussed herein above is under challenge without deposit of 50% amount, original order shall not be treated under challenge and any interim order granted in appeal against review/recall order shall not be treated stay of original order. It would also be open for the applicant to initiate execution proceedings, if advised.

15. Registrar General is directed to circulate the copy of this order to all Rent Authority and Rent Tribunal of State of Uttar Pradesh for necessary compliance at the earliest.

1. Heard Sri Sujan Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned A.G.A.-I appearing for the State-respondent and Ms. Niharika Dubey, learned counsel appearing for the respondent no. 2.

2. The present petition has been filed seeking to assail the order dated 02.01.2023 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra in Misc. Case No. 2053 of 2022, under Section 125 Cr.P.C., arising out of Maintenance Case No. 783 of 2014 (Smt. Hema and another Vs. Dhirendra Pratap Singh).

3. The order dated 02.01.2023, which is subject matter of challenge in the present petition, was passed upon an application No. 3A filed by the petitioners seeking a recall of an earlier order dated 29.10.2022 and to restore the case to its original number.

4. The aforesaid application was dismissed by the Principal Judge, Family Court stating that after dismissal of an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C., no application seeking restoration of the case was entertainable. It was also observed that the petitioner could file a second application under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

5. Attention of the Court has been drawn to the factual aspects of the case by pointing out that the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. were instituted by filing a maintenance petition on 05.09.2014, which was allowed ex-parte by an order dated 08.09.2016, in terms whereof an amount of Rs. 10,000/- per month had been awarded in favour of the petitioner no. 1, and an amount of Rs. 2,000/- in favour of the petitioner no. 2.

6. It is stated that the aforesaid ex parte order was recalled by a subsequent order dated 26.11.2018, upon an application by the respondent no. 2.

7. It is submitted that, on 29.10.2022, which was the date fixed in the case, the petitioner upon reaching the court was informed that the case had been taken up and an order had been passed dismissing the maintenance petition for non-prosecution. Immediately thereupon, on the same date, the petitioners are stated to have moved a restoration application seeking recall of the order. The restoration application was taken up, on 02.01.2023, and the same was dismissed.

8. Aggrieved by the aforesaid order, the present petition has been preferred.

9. Contention of the counsel for the petitioners is that there was no want of bona fides or lack of diligence on part of the petitioners and the conclusion drawn by the court to the contrary, is erroneous.

10. It is submitted that the restoration application having been moved, on the same date, the court concerned ought to have allowed the same, in the interest of justice.

11. As regards the conclusion drawn by the court concerned with regard to the restoration application being not entertainable, in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C., it is urged that same would not be legally sustainable. To support the aforesaid submission, reliance, in this regard, has been placed on decisions in Kusum Devi Vs. Ram Chandra Maurya[1]; Kehari Singh Vs. State of U.P.[2]; Jagmohan Arora Vs. Saroj Arora[3]; Suhird Kamra Vs. Neeta and Another[4] and Sanjeev Kapoor Vs. Chandana Kapoor and Others[5].

12. Counsel appearing for the respondent no. 2 has sought to contend that the petitioners having moved a second application seeking maintenance, which is pending, there would be no plausible reason for them to seek restoration of the earlier application.

13. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioners has drawn attention of the Court to the specific assertion in the petition wherein the petitioners have undertaken that in the event of the earlier maintenance petition being restored to its original number, the petitioners would withdraw the second application filed for the purpose.

14. The principal question, which falls for consideration, is as to whether, in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C., upon an order having been made, the court concerned can be held to be functus officio for the purposes of entertaining an application seeking recall, and that any application which has been moved for recall of an order rejecting the maintenance petition for non-prosecution, would amount alteration of the judgment so as to barred by Section 362 Cr.P.C.

15. For ease of reference, the provisions contained under Sections 125(1), 125(5) and 127 Cr.P.C. relating to orders for maintenance of wives, children and parents, under Chapter-IX of the Cr.P.C. are being extracted below:-

"125. Order for maintenance of wives, children and parents. – (1) if any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain–

(a) his wife, unable to maintain herself, or

(b) his legitimate or illegitimate minor child, whether married or not, unable to maintain itself, or

(c) his legitimate or illegitimate child (not being a married daughter) who has attained majority, where such child is, by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury unable to maintain itself, or

(d) his father or mother, unable to maintain himself or herself,

a Magistrate of the first class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, at such monthly rate, as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided that the Magistrate may order the father of a minor female child referred to in clause (b) to make such allowance, until she attains her majority, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the husband of such minor female child, if married, is not possessed of sufficient means:

Provided further that the Magistrate may, during the pendency of the proceeding regarding monthly allowance for the maintenance under this sub-section, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the interim maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, and the expenses of such proceeding which the Magistrate considers reasonable, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided also that an application for monthly allowance for the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding under the second proviso shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within sixty days from the date of the service of the notice of the application to such person.

Explanation. – For the purposes of this Chapter, –

(a) "minor" means a person who, under the provisions of the Indian Majority Act, 1875 (9 of 1875) is deemed not to have attained his majority;

(b) "wife" includes a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband and has not remarried.

(5) On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order.

127. Alteration in allowance. – (1) On proof of a change in the circumstances of any person, receiving, under section 125 a monthly allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance, or ordered under the same section to pay a monthly allowance for the maintenance, or interim maintenance, to his wife, child, father or mother, as the case may be, the Magistrate may make such alteration, as he thinks fit, in the allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance, as the case may be.

(2) Where it appears to the Magistrate that, in consequence of any decision of a competent civil court, any order made under section 125 should be cancelled or varied, he shall cancel the order or, as the case may be, vary the same accordingly.

(3) Where any order has been made under Section 125 in favour of a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband, the Magistrate shall, if he is satisfied that –

(a) the woman has, after the date of such divorce, remarried, cancel such order as from the date of her remarriage.

(b) the woman has been divorced by her husband and that she has received, whether before or after the date of the said order, the whole of the sum which, under any customary or personal law applicable to the parties, was payable on such divorce, cancel such order –

(i) in the case where such sum was paid before such order, from the date on which such order was made,

(ii) in any other case, from the date of expiry of the period, if any, for which maintenance has been actually paid by the husband to the woman;

(c) the woman has obtained a divorce from her husband and that she had voluntarily surrendered her rights to maintenance or interim maintenance, as the case may be after her divorce, cancel the order from the date thereof.

(4) At the time of making any decree for the recovery of any maintenance or dowry by any person, to whom monthly allowance for the maintenance and interim maintenance or any of them has been ordered to be paid under section 125, the civil court shall take into account that sum which has been paid to, or recovered by, such person as monthly allowance for the maintenance and interim maintenance or any of them, as the case may be, in pursuance of the said."

16. Section 362 of the Cr.P.C., which creates an embargo on the court not to alter the judgment, would also be required to be adverted, and the same is reproduced below:-

"Section 362.Court not to alter judgement.- Save as otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court, when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error."

17. Section 125(1) Cr.P.C. which empowers the Magistrate to pass an order for maintenance of wives, children and parents, uses the expression 'as the Magistrate may from time to time direct', which is indicative that while passing an order under Section 125(1) Cr.P.C., the Magistrate may have to exercise jurisdiction, as required, from time to time

18. Section 127(1) Cr.P.C. contains a provision relating to alteration in allowance, and in terms thereof, the Magistrate is empowered to alter an order passed under Section 125. In terms of sub section (2) of Section 127, the Magistrate is empowered to cancel or vary the order passed under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

19. The legislative scheme contained under Section 125 and 127 Cr.P.C., referred to above, indicates that that while making an order for maintenance under Section 125(1) Cr.P.C., the Magistrate may be required to exercise jurisdiction, from time to time, upon fulfillment of the conditions specified thereunder. Section 127 Cr.P.C. contemplates situations wherein the Magistrate may pass an order cancelling or varying the earlier order made under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

20. The aforementioned provisions under Sections 125(1) and 127 Cr.P.C., which empower the Magistrate to exercise jurisdiction for passing of orders from time to time, as the occasion requires, and also varying or cancelling the order, would go to show that as per the legislative scheme contained under Sections 125 and 127 Cr.P.C., the Magistrate after passing of the judgment or final order, in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C., cannot be said to have become functus officio.

21. This brings us to the question as to whether the embargo contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C. prohibiting the court to alter or review its judgment or final order disposing of the case, would be applicable to an order of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

22. In Sanjeev Kapoor Vs. Chandana Kapoor and others[6], after examining the legislative scheme as delineated by Sections 125 and 127 Cr.P.C., and the express provisions where an order passed thereunder can be cancelled or altered, it was held that the embargo as contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C. is relaxed in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The observations made in the judgment, in this regard, are as follows:

"25. In Section 125 CrPC the expression used is "as the Magistrate may from time to time direct". The use of the expression "from time to time" has purpose and meaning. It clearly contemplates that with regard to the order passed under Section 125(1) CrPC, the Magistrate may have to exercise jurisdiction from time to time. Use of the expression "from time to time" is in exercise of jurisdiction of the Magistrate in a particular case. Advanced Law Lexicon by P. Ramanatha Aiyar, 3rd Edn. defines "time to time" as follows:

"Time to time. As occasion arises."

26. The above legislative scheme indicates that the Magistrate does not become functus officio after passing an order under Section 125 CrPC, as and when the occasion arises the Magistrate exercises the jurisdiction from time to time. By Section 125(5) CrPC, the Magistrate is expressly empowered to cancel an order passed under Section 125(1) CrPC on fulfilment of certain conditions.

27. Section 127 CrPC also discloses the legislative intendment where the Magistrate is empowered to alter an order passed under Section 125 CrPC. Sub-section (2) of Section 127 CrPC also empowers the Magistrate to cancel or vary an order under Section 125. The legislative scheme as delineated by Sections 125 and 127 CrPC as noted above clearly enumerated the circumstances and incidents provided in the Code of Criminal Procedure where the court passing a judgment or final order disposing of the case can alter or review the same. The embargo as contained in Section 362 is, thus, clearly relaxed in the proceedings under Section 125 CrPC as indicated above."

23. The scope of Section 362 Cr.P.C. was also considered, and it was held that the rigour contained in the section, is relaxed in two conditions, that is to say, where power to alter or review a judgment or final order is provided either; (i) by the Code of Criminal Procedure itself, or (ii) any other law for the time being in force. As regards the embargo put on the criminal court to alter or review its judgment, it was observed that the same is with a purpose and object. Referring to the earlier decisions in Sankatha Singh v. State of U.P.[7], Sooraj Devi vs. Pyare Lal[8], Simrikhia v. Dolley Mukherjee[9], Hari Singh v. Harbhajan Singh Bajwa[10], State v. K.V. Rajendran[11], Mahua Biswas v. Swagata Biswas[12]; and the law summarized therein, it was observed that criminal justice delivery system does not clothe criminal courts with power to alter or review a judgment or final order disposing of a case except to correct the clerical or arithmetical errors.

24. In order to examine the extent to which the rigour of the embargo as contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C., would be relaxed in the context of the powers to be exercised in proceedings relating to passing of maintenance orders under Section 125 Cr.P.C., it would be necessary to take a view of the legislative scheme contained in Sections 125 to 127 Cr.P.C.

25. The scope of the legislation relating to maintenance under Section 125

Cr.P.C. and its social objective was examined in Badshah v. Urmila Badshah Godse[13] and applying the principle of purposive interpretation, it was held that in the context of a 'social justice legislation', the Court must give effect to that construction, which would be responsible for smooth functioning of the system for which the statute had been enacted. It was observed as follows:

"13.3. ... in such cases, purposive interpretation needs to be given to the provisions of Section 125 Cr.P.C. While dealing with the application of a destitute wife or hapless children or parents under this provision, the Court is dealing with the marginalised sections of the society. The purpose is to achieve "social justice" which is the constitutional vision, enshrined in the Preamble of the Constitution of India. The Preamble to the Constitution of India clearly signals that we have chosen the democratic path under the rule of law to achieve the goal of securing for all its citizens, justice, liberty, equality and fraternity. It specifically highlights achieving their social justice. Therefore, it becomes the bounden duty of the courts to advance the cause of the social justice. While giving interpretation to a particular provision, the court is supposed to bridge the gap between the law and society.

14. Of late, in this very direction, it is emphasised that the courts have to adopt different approaches in "social justice adjudication", which is also known as "social context adjudication" as mere "adversarial approach" may not be very appropriate. There are number of social justice legislations giving special protection and benefits to vulnerable groups in the society. Prof. Madhava Menon describes it eloquently:

'It is, therefore, respectfully submitted that “social context judging” is essentially the application of equality jurisprudence as evolved by Parliament and the Supreme Court in myriad situations presented before courts where unequal parties are pitted in adversarial proceedings and where courts are called upon to dispense equal justice. Apart from the social-economic inequalities accentuating the disabilities of the poor in an unequal fight, the adversarial process itself operates to the disadvantage of the weaker party. In such a situation, the Judge has to be not only sensitive to the inequalities of parties involved but also positively inclined to the weaker party if the imbalance were not to result in miscarriage of justice. This result is achieved by what we call social context judging or social justice adjudication.'14

15. The provision of maintenance would definitely fall in this category which aims at empowering the destitute and achieving social justice or equality and dignity of the individual. While dealing with cases under this provision, drift in the approach from "adversarial" litigation to social context adjudication is the need of the hour.”

26. The role and duty of Court, in the context of change in law with change in society, was explained, and referring to the observations made by Benjamin N. Cardozo[15], and also the observations made in Gray's Lectures on 'The Nature and Sources of the Law[16], the following observations were made:-

16. The law regulates relationships between people. It prescribes patterns of behaviour. It reflects the values of society. The role of the court is to understand the purpose of law in society and to help the law achieve its purpose. But the law of a society is a living organism. It is based on a given factual and social reality that is constantly changing. Sometimes change in law precedes societal change and is even intended to stimulate it. In most cases, however, a change in law is the result of a change in social reality. Indeed, when social reality changes, the law must change too. Just as change in social reality is the law of life, responsiveness to change in social reality is the life of the law. It can be said that the history of law is the history of adapting the law to society's changing needs. In both constitutional and statutory interpretation, the court is supposed to exercise discretion in determining the proper relationship between the subjective and objective purposes of the law.

17. Cardozo acknowledges in his classic

'… no system of jus scriptum has been able to escape the need of it.'

and he elaborates:

'It is true that codes and statutes do not render the Judge superfluous, nor his work perfunctory and mechanical. There are gaps to be filled. … There are hardships and wrongs to be mitigated if not avoided. Interpretation is often spoken of as if it were nothing but the search and the discovery of a meaning which, however obscure and latent, had nonetheless a real and ascertainable pre-existence in the legislator's mind. The process is, indeed, that at times, but it is often something more. The ascertainment of intention may be the least of a Judge's troubles in ascribing meaning to a statute. …

Says Gray in his lectures:

"The fact is that the difficulties of so-called interpretation arise when the legislature has had no meaning at all; when the question which is raised on the statute never occurred to it; when what the Judges have to do is, not to determine that the legislature did mean on a point which was present to its mind, but to guess what it would have intended on a point not present to its mind, if the point had been present." '

18. The court as the interpreter of law is supposed to supply omissions, correct uncertainties, and harmonise results with justice through a method of free decision — libre recherché scientifique i.e. "free scientific research". We are of the opinion that there is a non-rebuttable presumption that the legislature while making a provision like Section 125 Cr.P.C., to fulfil its constitutional duty in good faith, had always intended to give relief to the woman becoming "wife" under such circumstances. This approach is particularly needed while deciding the issues relating to gender justice."

27. The proposition that for construing an enactment effort should be made to give effect to the legislative purpose, has been consistently followed. In this regard, reference may be had to the decision in R (on the application of Quintavalle) Vs. Secretary of State for Health[17], wherein the following observations were made:-

"8. The basic task of the Court is to ascertain and give effect to the true meaning of what Parliament has said in the enactment to be construed. ... Every statute other than a pure consolidating statute is, after all, enacted to make some change, or address some problem, or remove some blemish, or effect some improvement in the national life. The Court's task, within the permissible bounds of interpretation, is to give effect to Parliament's purpose. So the controversial provisions should be read in the context of the statute as a whole, and the statute as a whole should be read in the historical context of the situation which led to its enactment."

28. Similar observations were made in Stock Vs. Frank Jones (Tipton) Ltd.18, wherein wherein referring to the rule in Hydon's case, it was held as follows:-

"Words and phrases of the English language have an extraordinary range of meaning. This has been a rich resource in English poetry (which makes fruitful use of the resonances, overtones and ambiguities), but it has a concomitant disadvantage in English law (which seeks unambiguous precision, with the aim that every citizen shall know, as exactly as possible, where he stands under the law). The first way says Lord Blackburn, of eliminating legally irrelevant meanings is to look to the statutory objective. This is the well-known canon of construction . . . which goes by the name of "the rule in Heydon's Case" (1584) 3 Co. Rep. 7b. (Nowadays we speak of the "purposive" or "functional" construction of a statute.)"

29. The provisions with regard to grant of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. and the duty of the husband towards the wife in regard thereof, came up for consideration in the case of Bhuwan Mohan Singh vs. Meena & others19, and referring to the earlier decisions in Smt. Dukhtar Jahan v. Mohammed Farooq[20], Vimala (K.) v. Veeraswamy (K.)[21] and Kirtikant D. Vadodaria v. State of Gujarat[22] it was held that the proceedings are summary in nature and they intend to provide a speedy remedy and achieve a social purpose. The observations made in the judgement in this regard are as follows :-

"7. We are obliged to reiterate the principle of law how a proceeding under Section 125 of the Code has to be dealt with by the court, and what is the duty of a Family Court after establishment of such courts by the Family Courts Act 1984. In Smt. Dukhtar Jahan v. Mohammed Farooq (1987) 1 SCC 624, the Court opined that: (SCC p. 631, para 16)

"16. .....Proceedings under Section 125 of the Code, it must be remembered, are of a summary nature and are intended to enable destitute wives and children, the latter whether they are legitimate or illegitimate, to get maintenance in a speedy manner."

8. A three-Judge Bench in Vimala (K.) v. Veeraswamy (K.) (1991) 2 SCC 375, while discussing about the basic purpose under Section 125 of the Code, opined that: (SCC p. 378, para 3)

"3. Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife.

9. A two-Judge Bench in Kirtikant D. Vadodaria v. State of Gujarat (1996) 4 SCC 479, while adverting to the dominant purpose behind Section 125 of the Code, ruled that: (SCC p. 489, para 15)

"15. ... While dealing with the ambit and scope of the provision contained in Section 125 of the Code, it has to be borne in mind that the dominant and primary object is to give social justice to the woman, child and infirm parents etc. and to prevent destitution and vagrancy by compelling those who can support those who are unable to support themselves but have a moral claim for support. The provisions in Section 125 provide a speedy remedy to those women, children and destitute parents who are in distress. The provisions in Section 125 are intended to achieve this special purpose. The dominant purpose behind the benevolent provisions contained in Section 125 clearly is that the wife, child and parents should not be left in a helpless state of distress, destitution and starvation."

30. The principle of applying a liberal construction to a remedial legislation such as the one above, has been emphasised in the Construction of Statues by Crawford[23] in the following terms:-

"...Remedial statutes, that is, those which supply defects, and abridge superfluities, in the former law, should be given a liberal construction, in order to effectuate the purposes of the legislature, or to advance the remedy intended, or to accomplish the object sought, and all matters fairly within the scope of such a statute be included, even though outside the letter, if within its spirit or reason."

31. To a similar effect is the observation made by Blackstone in Construction and Interpretation of Laws[24], which is as under:-

"It may also be stated generally that the courts are more disposed to relax the severity of this rule (which is really a rule of strict construction) in the case of statutes obviously remedial in their nature or designed to effect a beneficent purpose."

32. In the context of 'beneficial construction' as a principle of interpretation, it has been observed in Maxwell on The Interpretation of Statutes[25], as follows:-

"...where they are faced with a choice between a wide meaning which caries out what appears to have been the object of the legislature more fully, and a narrow meaning which carries it out less fully or not at all, they will often choose the former. Beneficial construction is a tendency, rather than a rule."

33. The principle of applying a liberal construction to a beneficial legislation having a social welfare purpose was reiterated in the case of Allahabad Bank & Anr. Vs. All India Allahabad Bank Retired Employees Association[26], and it was observed as follows:-

"16. ...Remedial statutes, in contradistinction to penal statutes, are known as welfare, beneficent or social justice oriented legislations. Such welfare statutes always receive a liberal construction. They are required to be so construed so as to secure the relief contemplated by the statute. It is well settled and needs no restatement at our hands that labour and welfare legislation have to be broadly and liberally construed having due regard to the Directive Principles of State Policy. The Act with which we are concerned for the present is undoubtedly one such welfare oriented legislation meant to confer certain benefits upon the employees working in various establishments in the country."

34. Reference may also be had to the case of Bharat Singh Vs. Management of New Delhi Tuberculosis Centre, New Delhi & Ors.[27], where purposive interpretation safeguarding the rights of have-nots was preferred to a literal construction in interpreting a welfare legislation, and it was held as follows:-

"11. ...the court has to evolve the concept of purposive interpretation which has found acceptance whenever a progressive social beneficial legislation is under review. We share the view that where the words of a statute are plain and unambiguous effect must be given to them. Plain words have to be accepted as such but where the intention of the legislature is not clear from the words or where two constructions are possible, it is the court's duty to discern the intention in the context of the background in which a particular Section is enacted. Once such an intention is ascertained the courts have necessarily to give the statute a purposeful or a functional interpretation. Now, it is trite to say that acts aimed at social amelioration giving benefits for the have-nots should receive liberal construction. It is always the duty of the court to give such a construction to a statute as would promote the purpose or object of the Act. A construction that promotes the purpose of the legislation should be preferred to a literal construction. A construction which would defeat the rights of the have-nots and the underdog and which would lead to injustice should always be avoided..."

35. The Court's function, in view of the foregoing discussion, would thus be to construe the words used in an enactment, so far as possible, in a way which best gives effect to the purpose of the enactment.

36. Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 contains provisions for making orders for maintenance of wives, children and parents. The subject matter of the provisions contained under the chapter though essentially of a civil nature, the justification for their inclusion in the Cr.P.C., is to provide a more speedy and economical remedy than that available in civil courts for the benefit of the persons specified therein.

37. The proceedings for maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. are of a summary nature and the purpose and object of the same is to provide immediate relief to the applicant.

38. The legislative scheme contained under Sections 125 to 127 Cr.P.C. being in the nature of a benevolent provision having a social purpose with the primary object to ensure social justice to the wife, child and parents, who are unable to support themselves so as to prevent destitution and vagrancy, the provisions contained therein have to be interpreted in a beneficent way so as to subserve the object of the enactment rather that to negate it.

39. The embargo under Section 362 Cr.P.C., when read in the context of the provisions of Sections 125-127 Cr.P.C., would have to be understood in a manner so as to advance the social object of the legislation rather than to whittle it down. It may be noticed that the embargo put by Section 302 on the court to alter or review its judgment or final order disposing of the case, is subject to certain exceptions contained therein. The legislature, was, perhaps conscious that there may arise situations where altering or reviewing of a judgment would be contemplated under the provisions of the Code itself or any other law for time being in force, which is perhaps the reason that the exceptions to the general embargo, have been engrafted in the section itself.

40. In a situation where there is possibility of adopting differing constructions of a statutory provision, the duty of the court, applying the principle of purposive construction, would be to give effect to that construction which would advance the object for which the enactment has been made rather than to adopt that construction which would reduce the legislation to a futility.

41. It is beyond question, the duty of courts, in construing statutes, to give effect to the intent of the law makers and to seek for that intent in every way. The object and interpretation of construction of statutes is to ascertain the meaning of the legislation and to ensure that the provisions are interpreted so as to subserve that intent. There is a general presumption that an enactment has to be given a purposive interpretation with a construction that best gives effect to the purpose of the enactment.

42. The provision relating to orders for maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C., being in the nature of a 'social justice legislation', the role and duty of the Courts, in the said context, would be to understand the purpose of the enactment and to help the law achieve its objective.

43. Taking into the view the social objective of the legislative scheme with regard to grant of orders for maintenance, under Chapter IX of the Cr.P.C., and applying the principle of purposive construction, the provisions contained under Sections 125-127 when read in conjunction with Section 362, would lead to the conclusion that the embargo contained under Section 362, is expressly relaxed in proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

44. The embargo contained in Section 362 having been held to be relaxed in proceedings under Section 125 and the court having not become functus officio after passing of the final order, the recall application which had been filed seeking restoration of the case, could not have been rejected by assigning a reason that the Court was not empowered to entertain the same.

45. The order dated 02.01.2023 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra in Misc. Case No. 2053 of 2022, in Maintenance Case No. 783 of 2014, is therefore unsustainable, and is, accordingly, set aside.

46. The matter is remitted to the court concerned for passing of a fresh order on the recall application, in the light of the observations made above.

47. The court concerned would be expected to make an endeavour to dispose of the recall/restoration application as expeditiously as possible.

48. The petition stands allowed to the extent as indicated above.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Bhuvnesh Kr. Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Sushil Kr. Chaturvedi, learned counsel for opposite party No.2 and Sri Rajeev Kr. Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application has been filed seeking quashing of entire proceeding of Complaint Case No. 14 of 2018 (Smt. Manju Sharma vs. Jitendra Mangala), u/s 138 N.I. Act, P.S. Tajganj, District Agra, pending before the Additional Court No.1, Agra as well as summoning order dated 1.9.2018.

3. The factual matrix giving rise to the present case are that the complaint was filed by opposite party No.2 against the applicant u/s 138 N.I. Act. In the aforesaid complaint, it was mentioned that cheque was issued by M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd., but only the present applicant who is the proprietor of the company M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd. was impleaded as accused. The court below after perusal of the record, summoned the present applicant by summoning order dated 1.9.2018 and by way of present application, the proceeding of aforesaid complaint case is under challenge.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that it is undisputed that the cheque in question was issued on behalf of the company M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd., but while filing the impugned complaint, the company in question was not impleaded as accused. Therefore, the proceeding cannot be proceeded against the accused who is the proprietor of the company who is vicariously liable only when the company is impleaded as a party in the complaint. Therefore, the impugned complaint is barred by Section 141 N.I. Act. Learned counsel for the applicant also argued that in case paragraphs No. 6 of 13 of Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi and another; (2019) 3 SCC 797, Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the complaint, in absence of the company, is defective and at this stage company cannot be arrayed. Therefore, fresh complaint is also barred because fresh notice is required to be given to the company which is necessary for arising of the cause of action.

5. per contra learned counsel for opposite party No.2 and learned A.G.A. submitted that the cheque in question was issued on behalf of the company by the applicant, therefore, he is personally liable, therefore, there is no illegality in the summoning order and the impugned proceeding.

6. Considering the rival submissions of the parties and on perusal of the record, it appears that the cheque in question was issued on behalf of the company M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd. to opposite party No.2, but while filing the impugned complaint, opposite party No.2 did not implead the company as accused which is the basic requirement u/s 141 N.I. Act.

7. The Apex Court also in the cases of Aneeta Hada vs. M/S God Father Travels and Tours Pvt. Ltd.; (2012) 5 SCC 661, Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi and another; (2019) 3 SCC 797, Dilip Hariramani vs. Bank of Baroda; 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 457 as well as N. Harihara Krishnan vs. J. Thomas 2018 (3) SCC 663 observed that without impleading the body corporate which includes the company itself, proceeding u/s 141 N.I. Act cannot be proceeded.

8. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the applicant that fresh complaint after impleading the company is also barred because Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi (supra) has observed that in absence of notice of demand, being served on the company, the company cannot be arrayed as accused, is concerned, in the case of Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi (supra) the issue was whether on objection raised by the accused that company was not impeaded as party in the complaint filed for dishonoring of the cheque on behalf of the company but the High Court has permitted to implead the company and Hon'ble Court observed that as the statutory demand notice was not issued to the company, therefore, at this stage company cannot be proceeded by impleading the same in the complaint. Paragraphs No. 6, 11 & 13 of the Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi (supra) are being quoted as under:-

"6. The judgment of the High Court has been questioned on two grounds. The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant submits that firstly, the appellant could not be prosecuted without the company being named as an accused. The cheque was issued by the company and was signed by the appellant as its Director. Secondly, it was urged that the observation of the High Court that the company can now be proceeded against in the complaint is misconceived. The learned counsel submitted that the offence under Section 138 is complete only upon the issuance of a notice of demand and the failure of payment within the prescribed period. In absence of compliance with the requirements of Section 138, it is asserted, the direction of the High Court that the company could be impleaded/arraigned at this stage is erroneous.

11. In the present case, the record before the Court indicates that the cheque was drawn by the appellant for Lakshmi Cement and Ceramics Industries Ltd., as its Director. A notice of demand was served only on the appellant. The complaint was lodged only against the appellant without arraigning the company as an accused.

13. In the absence of the company being arraigned as an accused, a complaint against the appellant was therefore not maintainable. The appellant had signed the cheque as a Director of the company and for and on its behalf. Moreover, in the absence of a notice of demand being served on the company and without compliance with the proviso to Section 138, the High Court was in error in holding that the company could now be arraigned as an accused."

9. In the case of Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi (supra) drawer of the cheque during the pendency of the proceeding before the Apex Court also deposited the entire cheque amount showing his bona fide which was also directed to be paid to the complainant at the time of disposal of the case. However, in the present case situation is totally different. In the impugned complaint, the applicant was not impleaded in his personal capacity but was impleaded as proprietor of the company M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd. and notice was also served upon the company M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd. through the applicant, being its proprietor/executive director. It is not in dispute that the applicant is active director of the company in question as per the allegation of the complaint and also involved in its day to day business. Therefore, notice upon the applicant, being director of the company, will be deemed to be notice upon the company itself.

10. Therefore, facts of the Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi (supra) are different from the present case. Therefore, ratio of Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi (supra) will not be applied in the present case. Even otherwise, the applicant can raise all his defence during trial.

11. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of NEPC Micon Ltd. vs. Magma Leasing Ltd.; 1999 (4) SCC 253, observed that it is the duty of court to interpret Section 138 N.I. Act consistent with the legislature intent and purpose so as to suppress the mischief and advance the remedy. Therefore, second complaint by impleading the company is not barred for bouncing of the cheque in question issued by the company M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd.

12. Even otherwise, the drawer of the cheque in the case of Himanshu vs. B. Shivamurthi (supra) deposited the cheque amount before Hon'ble Supreme Court, showing his bone fide. However, in the present case order sheet shows that though the complaint was filed in the year 2018, the applicant as well as his company tried their best to avoid facing trial, despite issuance of summons and bailable warrant, therefore, such type of drawer of cheque should not be allowed to take benefit of technicality at the cost of justice.

13. In view of the above legal position, the present complaint is not maintainable as the company M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd. was not impleaded as a party. In view of the above, the proceeding of Complaint Case No. 14 of 2018 (Smt.

Manju Sharma vs. Jitendra Mangala), u/s 138 N.I. Act, P.S. Tajganj, District Agra is hereby quashed.

14. Accordingly, the application is allowed.

15. However, opposite party No.2 is permitted to filed fresh complaint by impleading the company, namely, M/s Prerana Construction Pvt. Ltd., within a period of one month.

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482-Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881-Section 138-quashing of entire proceedings-in the present case on the basis of the complaint, statement documents, cognizance was taken by the earlier court not having jurisdiction, which was subsequently transferred to the judicial magistrate, orai-section 460(e) Crpc provides that if the cognizance of an offence is taken erroneously in good faith under Clause (a) of Section 190(1) of Crpc by a court not having jurisdiction, even then same will not vitiate the proceeding-Therefore the transferee court will continue to proceed from that stage instead of hearing the complaint afresh.(Para 1 to 17)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mohd. Shamim, learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Ajay Sengar, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Sri Uday Bhan, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the entire proceedings of Complaint No. 40 of 2024 (Old Complaint no.5095/2019 and Complaint No.427 of 2021) (Smt. Iksharajey Versus Indraveer Singh and Another), under Section-138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 1881'), Police Station-Kotwali Orai, District-Jalaun, pending in the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun, as well as impugned order dated 01.02.2024.

3. The contention of learned counsel for the applicants is that the cheque in question was presented in the account of opposite party no.2 in State Bank of India, Jalaun, but the complaint was filed at Orai. Thereafter, the applicants moved an application before the learned Sessions

Judge, who by order dated 03.01.2024, transferred the case from Orai to Jalaun on the ground that the Court at Jalaun had jurisdiction as per Section-142(2) of the Act, 1881. After transferring this case to Jalaun, the applicants moved an application before the Court concerned, requesting that cognizance be taken by the Court at Orai, which was not competent to take cognizance. Therefore, a fresh proceeding of cognizance may be initiated, but the Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun, rejected that application.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant relied upon the judgment of Apex Court passed in the case of Yogesh Upadhyay and another Vs. Atlanta Limited, 2023 SCC Online SC 170, in which it is observed that when the cognizance was taken by the Court, which has no jurisdiction, then the amendment made in Section 142 of N.I. Act in pursuance of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Dashrath Rupsingh Rathod Vs. State of Maharashtra, [(2014) 9 SCC 129], the complainant should be transferred to the Court with jurisdiction as per the amended provision.

5. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has submitted that even if the cognizance was taken by the Court having no jurisdiction is a bona fide mistake, then transferring the same to the Court having jurisdiction will not make the cognizance illegal and the transferee Court which will proceed further from the stage of enquiry or trial. Learned counsel also submits that as per sub-clause (2) of Section 142 of N.I. Act, an offence under Section 138 N.I. Act can be inquired into and tried only by a Court within whose local jurisdiction the cheque was presented for collection and bounced.

6. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has also relied upon the judgment of Madras High Court passed in Criminal Appeal No.398 of 2011, V. Velu, S/o. Vedappan Vs. Chennakrishnan, S/o. Venkataraman, in which Apex Court observed that if the cognizance was taken in good faith by the Court not having jurisdiction, the cognizance order could not be set aside because such irregularity will not vitiate the proceedings.

7. After hearing the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and on the perusal of the record, it appears that the impugned complaint was earlier filed before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai, who, after perusal of the complaint as well as a statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and also the documents on record, summoned the applicants. After that, on the applicant's application, that complaint was transferred to the Judicial Magistrate, Orai, District Jalaun, by the District Judge, Jalaun at Orai, by order dated 03.01.2024. After transferring the impugned complaint before the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Orai, District Jalaun, applicant no.1 filed an application on 01.02.2024 praying that the earlier summoning order passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai was without jurisdiction. Therefore, the complaint should be heard again on merit, and a fresh summoning order may be passed, but that application was rejected by an order dated 01.02.2024.

8. Sub-sections (2) of Section 142 and 142-A of N.I. Act was introduced w.e.f. 15.06.2015. As per Section 142 sub-section (2), an offence under Section 138 N.I. Act can be inquired and tried by the Court within whose local jurisdiction the Branch of Bank where the holder in due course was maintaining the account, in which cheque was presented for collection. Section 142-A N.I. Act provides that all cases under Section 138 N.I. Act shall be deemed to be transferred to the Court having jurisdiction under Section 142 (2) N.I. Act. Section 142 sub-section (2) as well as Section 142-A of N.I. Act are being quoted as under :-

"142. Cognizance of offences.—

(2) The offence under Section 138 shall be inquired into and tried only by a court within whose local jurisdiction,—

(a) if the cheque is delivered for collection through an account, the branch of the bank where the payee or holder in due course, as the case may be, maintains the account, is situated; or

(b) if the cheque is presented for payment by the payee or holder in due course, otherwise through an account, the branch of the drawee bank where the drawer maintains the account, is situated.

Explanation.—For the purposes of Clause (a), where a cheque is delivered for collection at any branch of the bank of the payee or holder in due course, then, the cheque shall be deemed to have been delivered to the branch of the bank in which the payee or holder in due course, as the case may be, maintains the account.

Section 142A. Validation for transfer of pending cases.—

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any judgment, decree, order or direction of any court, all cases transferred to the Court having jurisdiction under sub-section (2) of section 142, as amended by the Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Ordinance, 2015 (ord. 6 of 2015), shall be deemed to have been transferred under this Act, as if that sub-section had been in force at all material times.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (2) of section 142 or sub-section (1), where the payee or the holder in due course, as the case may be, has filed a complaint against the drawer of a cheque in the Court having jurisdiction under sub-section (2) of section 142 or the case has been transferred to that Court under sub-section (1) and such complaint is pending in that Court, all subsequent complaints arising out of section 138 against the same drawer shall be filed before the same Court irrespective of whether those cheques were delivered for collection or presented for payment within the territorial jurisdiction of that Court.

(3) If, on the date of the commencement of the Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Act, 2015, more than one prosecution filed by the same payee or holder in due course, as the case may be, against the same drawer of cheques is pending before different courts, upon the said fact having been brought to the notice of the Court, such Court shall transfer the case to the Court having jurisdiction under sub-section (2) of section 142, as amended by the Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Ordinance, 2015 (ord. 6 of 2015), before which the first case was filed and is pending, as if that sub-section had been in force at all material times."

9. Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no.22 of Dashrath Rupsingh Rathod (supra), observed that in the complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act, where the accused has been summoned and appeared by a Court that has no jurisdiction over that complaint, will be transferred to the Court having jurisdiction. The competent Court will proceed, and all other complaints, including that complaint where the accused has not been properly served, shall be returned to that complaint for filing in proper Court. Paragraph no.22 is being quoted as under:-

"22. We are quite alive to the magnitude of the impact that the present decision shall have to possibly lakhs of cases pending in various courts spanning across the country. One approach could be to declare that this judgment will have only prospective pertinence i.e. applicability to complaints that may be filed after this pronouncement. However, keeping in perspective the hardship that this will continue to bear on alleged respondent-accused who may have to travel long distances in conducting their defence, and also mindful of the legal implications of proceedings being permitted to continue in a court devoid of jurisdiction, this recourse in entirety does not commend itself to us. Consequent on considerable consideration we think it expedient to direct that only those cases where, post the summoning and appearance of the alleged accused, the recording of evidence has commenced as envisaged in Section 145(2) of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, will proceeding continue at that place. To clarify, regardless of whether evidence has been led before the Magistrate at the pre-summoning stage, either by affidavit or by oral statement, the complaint will be maintainable only at the place where the cheque stands dishonoured. To obviate and eradicate any legal complications, the category of complaint cases where proceedings have gone to the stage of Section 145(2) or beyond shall be deemed to have been transferred by us from the Court ordinarily possessing territorial jurisdiction, as now clarified, to the Court where it is presently pending. All other complaints (obviously including those where the respondent-accused has not been properly served) shall be returned to the complainant for filing in the proper Court, in consonance with our exposition of the law. If such complaints are filed/refiled within thirty days of their return, they shall be deemed to have been filed within the time prescribed by law, unless the initial or prior filing was itself time-barred."

10. After the judgment of Dashrath Rupsingh Rathod (supra), an amendment was made in Section 142 by adding Section 142 (2) and Section 142A was inserted by the amendment of the year 2015 in the Negotiable Instruments Act. As per the new Section 142 (2), the jurisdiction to inquire and try was given to that Court where the cheque was delivered for collection through an account.

11. The issue of jurisdiction under 142 N.I. Act was again considered in the case of Bridgestone India Private Limited vs. Inderpal Singh, (2016) 2 SCC 75. In this judgment, the Apex Court observed that an amendment was made in Section 142, sub-section (2), and Section 142-A of N.I. Act will have a retrospective effect, therefore, if the complaint is not filed in the Court, which has no jurisdiction as per Section 142(2) N.I. Act, that complaint would be transferred to the Court having jurisdiction. Paragraph nos. 13, 14 and 15 of Bridgestone India Private Limited (supra) are being quoted as under:-

"13. A perusal of the amended Section 142(2), extracted above, leaves no room for any doubt, specially in view of the Explanation thereunder, that with reference to an offence under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, the place where a cheque is delivered for collection i.e. the branch of the bank of the payee or holder in due course, where the drawee maintains an account, would be determinative of the place of territorial jurisdiction.

14. It is, however, imperative for the present controversy, that the appellant overcomes the legal position declared by this Court, as well as, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Insofar as the instant aspect of the matter is concerned, a reference may be made to Section 4 of the Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Second Ordinance, 2015, whereby Section 142-A was inserted into the Negotiable Instruments Act. A perusal of sub-section (1) thereof leaves no room for any doubt, that insofar as the offence under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act is concerned, on the issue of jurisdiction, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, would have to give way to the provisions of the instant enactment on account of the non obstante clause in sub-section (1) of Section 142-A. Likewise, any judgment, decree, order or direction issued by a court would have no effect insofar as the territorial jurisdiction for initiating proceedings under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act is concerned. In the above view of the matter, we are satisfied that the judgment rendered by this Court in Dashrath Rupsingh Rathod case [Dashrath Rupsingh Rathod v. State of Maharashtra, (2014) 9 SCC 129 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 676 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 673] would also not non-suit the appellant for the relief claimed.

15. We are in complete agreement with the contention advanced at the hands of the learned counsel for the appellant. We are satisfied, that Section 142(2)(a), amended through the Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Second Ordinance, 2015, vests jurisdiction for initiating proceedings for the offence under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, inter alia, in the territorial jurisdiction of the court, where the cheque is delivered for collection (through an account of the branch of the bank where the payee or holder in due course maintains an account). We are also satisfied, based on Section 142-A(1) to the effect, that the judgment rendered by this Court in Dashrath Rupsingh Rathod case [Dashrath Rupsingh Rathod v. State of Maharashtra, (2014) 9 SCC 129 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 676 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 673] , would not stand in the way of the appellant, insofar as the territorial jurisdiction for initiating proceedings emerging from the dishonour of the cheque in the present case arises."

12. Hon'ble Apex court in the case of Yogesh Upadhyay and another (supra), after relying upon the judgement of Bridgestone India Private Limited (supra), has been observed that even the Supreme Court can exercise power under Section 406 Cr.P.C., to transfer the cases pending in the Court which has not had jurisdiction to the Court having territorial jurisdiction and also other complaints filed in different Courts to the Court where the first complaint was filed or transferred in the Court having territorial jurisdiction as per Section 142 sub-section (2) of N.I. Act.

13. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the applicants that if the cognizance was taken by a Court that does not have jurisdiction, then after transferring it to the Court having jurisdiction, the Court will have to hear the complaint afresh and has to pass fresh summoning order is concerned, to decide this issue Sections 460, 461 and 462 of Cr.P.C. are relevant, which are being quoted as under:-

"460. Irregularities which do not vitiate proceedings.—If any Magistrate not empowered by law to do any of the following things, namely:—

(a) to issue a search-warrant under Section 94;

(b) to order, under Section 155, the police to investigate an offence;

(c) to hold an inquest under Section 176;

(d) to issue process under Section 187, for the apprehension of a person within his local jurisdiction who has committed an offence outside the limits of such jurisdiction;

(e) to take cognizance of an offence under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) of Section 190;

(f) to make over a case under sub-section (2) of Section 192;

(g) to tender a pardon under Section 306;

(h) to recall a case and try it himself under Section 410; or

(i) to sell property under Section 458 or Section 459, erroneously in good faith does that thing, his proceedings shall not be set aside merely on the ground of his not being so empowered.

461. Irregularities which vitiate proceedings.—If any Magistrate, not being empowered by law in this behalf, does any of the following things, namely:—

(a) attaches and sells property under Section 83;

(b) issues a search-warrant for a document, parcel or other thing in the custody of a postal or telegraph authority;

(c) demands security to keep the peace;

(d) demands security for good behaviour;

(e) discharges a person lawfully bound to be of good behaviour;

(f) cancels a bond to keep the peace;

(g) makes an order for maintenance;

(h) makes an order under Section 133 as to a local nuisance;

(i) prohibits, under Section 143, the repetition or continuance of a public nuisance;

(j) makes an order under Part C or Part D of Chapter X;

(k) takes cognizance of an offence under clause (c) of sub-section (1) of Section 190;

(l) tries an offender;

(m) tries an offender summarily;

(n) passes a sentence, under Section 325, on proceedings recorded by another Magistrate;

(o) decides an appeal;

(p) calls, under Section 397, for proceedings; or

(q) revises an order passed under Section 446, his proceedings shall be void.

462. Proceedings in wrong place.—No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceedings in the course of which it was arrived at or passed, took place in a wrong sessions division, district, sub-division or other local area, unless it appears that such error has in fact occasioned a failure of justice."

14. From a perusal of Section 460 Cr.P.C., it is clear that Section 460 (e) Cr.P.C. provides that if the cognizance of an offence is taken erroneously in good faith under Clause (a) of Section 190 (1) of Cr.P.C. by a Court not having jurisdiction, even then same will not vitiate the proceeding. Again, Section 462 Cr.P.C. also prescribes that no finding, sentence or order of Criminal Court will be set aside only on the ground that inquiry, trial or other proceedings have been arrived at in the wrong Court unless an error has the effect of causing failure of justice.

15. In the present case, on the basis of the complaint, statement and documents on record, cognizance was taken by the earlier Court not having jurisdiction, which was subsequently transferred to the Judicial Magistrate, Orai; this will not in any way occasion a failure of justice to the applicant because transferee court itself has to consider the same complaint and document and pass order on the basis of prima facie satisfaction. Section 461 (k) Cr.P.C. further provides that if the cognizance is taken by a Court which is not competent under Section 190(1)(c) Cr.P.C., only then the cognizance will vitiate the proceeding. However, in the present case, cognizance was taken under Section 190 (1) (a) Cr.P.C., not under Section 190(1)(c) Cr.P.C. Therefore, cognizance will not be vitiated under Section 461 (k) of Cr.P.C.

16. In the present case, the earlier Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai, after taking evidence on an affidavit under Section 145 N.I. Act summoned the accused persons. Subsequently, accused persons, including applicant no.1, appeared before the Court below. Therefore, in view of the above legal position, the transferee Court will continue to proceed from that stage instead of hearing the complaint afresh.

17. In view of the above, there is no illegality in the impugned order dated 01.02.2024. Therefore, the present application is dismissed.

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 482 & 125-the applicant challenged the maintenance order granted to his estranged wife and their two minor daughters-the applicant invoking a DNA test report, contended that he was not the biological father of one of the daughters-The court, however, dismissed the applicant's plea for a fresh DNA test and rejected the quashing of the lower court's orders-the court found that the applicant's plea for a DNA test was primarily an attempt to avoid paying maintenance-court directed the applicant to clear any outstanding payments within one month and continue making regular payments henceforth.(Para 1 to 33)

B. Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act presumes the legitimacy of a child born during a valid marriage unless non-access between the spouses is proven. Bald and unsubstantiated allegations of adultery, without any concrete evidence of non-access, are sufficient to rebut the presumption of legitimacy.(Para 17 to 32)

The application is dismissed. (E-6)

[1] Heard Sri Manish Tiwari, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ausim Luthra and Sri Manu Srivastava, learned counsels for the applicant, Sri Hari Om Rai and Sri Hardev Prajapati, learned counsel for the private opposite party, learned A.G.A. for the State of U.P. at length and perused the records.

Since, the pleadings have been exchanged between the parties and the matter is ripe for final submissions. Keeping in view that the applicant/revisionist are the one and the same person Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain and the gravamen of both the proceedings are almost akin and similar and therefore, for the sake of brevity and convenience, the Court after clubbing both the proceedings, is proposing to proceed and decide by the common judgment.

[2] In the application under section 482 Cr.P.C filed on 24.02.2023, the applicant is Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain who has made Smt. Shazia Parveen his wife, Km. Aleena and her sister Km. Adeeba through her legal guardian Smt. Shazia Parveen as opposite party nos.2, 3 and 4 respectively with the following prayer :-

"Application under section 482 Cr.P.C. and quash the order dated 20.01.2023 passed by learned IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Kasganj, in Criminal Appeal No.19 of 2022 (Dr. Ifraq Husan Vs. Smt. Shazia Parveen), Police station-Sector Ganjdundwara, District-Kasganj under section 125 Cr.P.C.
It is further necessary and expedient in the interest of justice that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to order for a fresh DNA test of the applicant and the respondent no.3 and 4 during the pendency of the present Criminal Misc. Application Under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before this Hon'ble Court."

[3] On 20.02.2023, yet another Criminal Revision was filed invoking the power under section 397/401 Cr.P.C. by the same Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain making aforesaid persons who are his wife and two daughters as respondent nos. 2 to 4 assailing the legality and validity of the orders dated 07.04.2022 passed by learned Gram Nyayalay, Patiali, Kasganj while deciding the case no.100 of 2019 under section 125 Cr.P.C. so preferred by Smt. Shazia Parveen against her husband Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain claiming maintenance by the impugned order, learned Magistrate has awarded desired amount as maintenance to his wife and daughters and when the same was challenged in Criminal Appeal No.19 of 2022 (Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain Vs. Smt. Shazia Parveen), learned IIIrd, Additional Sessions Judge dismissed the criminal revision preferred by the revisionist Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain vide impugned judgment and order dated 30.01.2023.

The prayer sought is as follows :-

"That in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, of the present case, it is expedient in the interest of justice that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to allow this Criminal Revision and set-aside the order dated 07.04.2022, passed by learned Gram Nyayalaya, Patiali, Kasganj in Case No.100 of 2019(Smt. Shazia Parveen and others Vs. Dr. Ifraq) under section 125 Cr.P.C. and also the order dated 30.1.2023 passed by III Additional Sessions Judge, Kasganj in Criminal Appeal No.19 of 2022 Police station-Dundwara, District-Kasganj.

It is further necessary and expedient in the interest of justice that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to stay the effect and operation of order dated 07.04.2022 passed by learned Gram Nyayalaya, Patiali, Kasganj in case no.100 of 2019 (Smt. Shazia Parveen and others Vs. Dr. Ifraq) under section 125 Cr.P.C. and also the order dated 30.1.2023 passed by III Additional Sessions Judge, Kasganj in Criminal Appeal No.19 of 2022 Police station-Dundwara, District-Kasganj during the pendency of the present Criminal Revision before this Hon'ble Court."

[4] Before dissecting the facts and grounds of the case, it is essential and imperative to introduce the parties and the background of the case so as to understand the controversy involved and its better appreciation.

The applicant Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain is the husband of Smt. Shazia Parveen (opposite party no.2) and father of opposite party nos.3 and 4 who are the minor daughters of the aforesaid couple during subsistence of their marriage.

The marriage of Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain and Smt. Shazia Parveen was solemnized as per Muslim rites and customs on 12.11.2013. This married couple and their inter se relationship lasted up to the year 2017 and thereafter, she started residing with her parents on account of maltreatment received by her from her own husband and in-laws, as a result of scanty dowry.

[5] On 09.07.2019, she insisted to be maintained by her husband and therefore, the proceeding under section 125 Cr.P.C. was initiated against her husband claiming maintenance for herself and for her two minor daughters. After institution of the proceedings, learned trial Judge on 04.12.2019, have passed an ex-parte judgment and order against her husband fixing certain amount of monthly maintenance. It is asserted by the husband that this ex parte order was passed behind his back and without having any knowledge.

Left with no other option, an Application under section 126(2) Cr.P.C. was moved by the applicant, that as soon as he came to know about the proceedings, he moved a recall application and the said application was eventually allowed at the cost of Rs.5,000/- in favour of the private respondents.

[6] While aforesaid proceeding was pending before Gram Nyayalaya, Patiali, Kasganj, father-Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain surreptitiously and without any knowledge or consent has taken the samples of her daughter to ascertain the paternity of those minor girls and has obtained a DNA report from DNA Labs India Genetic Research and Development Centre, Hyderabad on 15.10.2018. This indeed was shocking that the applicant, taking advantage of his profession as a doctor, has managed to extract sample of two minor daughters aged about 5 years and 7 years respectively. The underline idea for this exercise was to anyhow avoid maintenance of two young girls, if it is found that applicant is not their father. The said report was filed by means of an Application No.43B dated 17.12.2021 and the learned Magistrate vide order dated 02.03.2022 have passed an order, directing that the said DNA Report from DNA Labs India Genetic Research and Development Centre, Hyderabad be kept on record and the objections were invited from the wife.

[7] Despite of the fact that the sufficient material were placed before learned Gram Nyayalaya, Patiali, Kasganj, learned Magistrate on 07.04.2022 pleased to allow the amount of maintenance to all the three namely Smt. Shazia Parveen from the date of filing of application for Rs.4,000/- and from the date of order for Rs.10,000, Km. Aleena from the date of application for Rs.3,000/- and from the date of order for Rs.5,000/-, Km. Adeeba from the date of application for Rs.3,000/- and from the date of order for Rs.5,000/-.

[8] Dissatisfied by the aforesaid judgment, Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain has preferred Criminal Appeal No.19 of 2022 before the Sessions Judge Court No.3, Kasganj against judgment and order dated 07.04.2022 and also an application 21B moved under section 391 Cr.P.C. during the pendency of the same seeking a DNA analysis of his minor daughters, opposite party nos.3 and 4.

[9] The said appeal was rejected by the learned Sessions Judge by a well reasoned order on 30.01.2023 and the prayer for collecting the additional evidence in the shape of ordering the DNA profiling of her daughters.

[10] The aforesaid are the bare skeleton undisputed facts and thus, the Court is proposing to decide by the common judgment after clubbing both the proceedings.

[11] As it is evident from the name, the applicant/revisionist-Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain is a medical practitioner. From the pleadings, it has come out that the applicant Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain got married with opposite party no.2 on 12.11.2013. It is alleged that after the marriage, she was subjected to dowry related harassment and there was demand of Rs.5 lacs and motorcycle from the opposite party no.2 or her family members and on this score, she was constant target of humiliation, innuendos and sometimes, she was subjected to physical assault upon her by her husband and in-laws. Even though, she has given birth to two baby daughters on the different occasions. Giving birth to two daughters have escalated the miseries upon her, as such eventually in the year 2017, she was driven out/left from her marital place.

[12] As mentioned above, she has initiated the proceeding under section 125 Cr.P.C on 14.12.2019 and the same was ex-parte allowed in favour of opposite party no.2. However, the said order was recalled in exercise of power under section 126(2) Cr.P.C. imposing cost of Rs.5,000/-.

[13] On 18.01.2021, husband has filed detailed objection stating therein that the opposite party no.2 has left the marital home because the applicant was unable to fulfil her exorbitant demands and her demand for separate living. It is alleged that the applicant has divorced her as she was involved in extra-marital relationship with a boy Saleem. Not only this, applicant-Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain is not a biological father of one of the girl relying upon the so-called DNA report dated 15.10.2018.

[14] After getting convinced, the applicant-Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain using his medical skills, in a clandestine fashion, has taken out the sample from his minor daughter Km. Aleena claiming that he is not his biological father and sent the said sample for the DNA profiling. The sample were sent to DNA LABS India Genetic Research and Development Centre, Hyderabad on 15.10.2018 and the said result of the DNA profiling is as follows :-

"The alleged father is excluded as the biological father of the tested child. Based on testing results obtained from analysis of the DNA loci listed, the probability of Paternity is 0." meaning thereby the applicant is not a biological father of the aforesaid girl.

The applicant wanted to bring on record the DNA report and other co-related documents in the proceedings. Accordingly, the aforesaid application was taken on record. However, time was granted to opposite party no.2 to file its rebuttal by the next date fixed.

[15] The said DNA report from Hyderabad Lab was filed by the applicant before the learned Magistrate and vide order dated 02.03.2022, the said report was taken on record by the order of the concerned Magistrate by the application no.43B.

Thus, the entire tussle is to direct the opposite party no.2, 3 and 4 to give its samples by the order of the Court so that the paternity of the girl may be established.

Section 391 of Cr.P.C. and its applicability

The Court has an occasion to peruse the provisions of Section 391 of Cr.P.C. which reads thus :-

"391. Appellate Court may take further evidence or direct it to be taken.—(1) In dealing with any appeal under this Chapter, the Appellate Court, if it thinks additional evidence to be necessary, shall record its reasons and may either take such evidence itself, or direct it to be taken by a Magistrate, or when the Appellate Court is a High Court, by a Court of Session or a Magistrate.

(2) When the additional evidence is taken by the Court of Session or the Magistrate, it or he shall certify such evidence to the Appellate Court, and such Court shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the appeal.

(3) The accused or his pleader shall have the right to be present when the additional evidence is taken.

(4) The taking of evidence under this section shall be subject to the provisions of Chapter XXIII, as if it were an inquiry."

[16] On a plain reading of the aforesaid provision, it empowers the Appellate Court to take further evidence or direct it to be taken. The catch expression of this provision is "…..the Appellate Court, if it thinks additional evidence to be necessary, shall record its reasons and ……..." .

While elaborating the aforesaid expression, it is evident that it is the complete and undiluted judicial discretion of the Appellate Court that such additional evidence is necessary. It is not, either of the contesting parties may pre-empt or suggest that the additional evidence is required in this case. As it is evident from the expression itself that in the event, the Appellate Court so feels or decides to have additional evidence, he shall record its reason for doing so and then only ask for the additional evidence. In the judgment of Rambhau and another Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in 2001 4 SCC 759, it is said that there is available a very wide discretion in the matter of obtaining additional evidence in terms of Section 391 Cr.P.C. But this additional evidence cannot and ought not to be received in such a way so as to cause any prejudice to the accused. It is not a disguise for a retrial or to change the nature of the case against the accused. The order must not ordinarily be made if the prosecution has had a fair opportunity and has not availed of it. However, it is the concept of justice which ought to prevail and in the event, the same dictates exercise of power as conferred by the Code, there ought not to be any hesitation in that regard. Section 391 Cr.P.C. was introduced in the statute-Book for the purpose of making it available to the Court, not to fill up any gap in the prosecution case but to oversee that the concept of justice does not suffer." Needless to mention here that it is exclusive domain of Appellate Court to have or not to have such additional evidence. None of the parties before him can compel the Appellate Court to give directions in this regard.

[17] Any insistence by the appellant would be construed that he is stepping in the shoes of the Appellate Court or usurping the powers of the Appellate Court to give a direction to the Appellate Court so that a DNA profiling of two young daughters may be done as the applicant is under some unfounded impression ? that he is not their biological father. The Appellate Court should not have exercised this power to clear off the perception of appellant exercising his powers under section 391 Cr.P.C. This is not a true import of Section 391 Cr.P.C. as it is evident from the aforesaid observation by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rambhau's case (supra) and the learned Magistrate and learned Appellate Court has rightly rejected the application under section 391 Cr.P.C.

As mentioned above, when the matter was pending before the Gram Nyayalaya, Patiali, Kasganj, the applicant using his profession, has managed to take out a blood samples of his own blood and blood of his daughter Aleena and sent it to DNA Labs India as it is evident from its report, that by the order of Dr.Ifraq, this DNA report entitling "Personal Piece of Mind Paternity Test" was conducted to establish as to whether the applicant is biological father of a girl or not and after holding the so-called test by the DNA Labs India, has given its report "The allged father is excluded as the biological father of the tested child. Based on testing results obtained from analysis of the DNA loci listed, the probability of Paternity is 0".

Since, the said report was conducted by the order of applicant-Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain and not at the behest of any judicial order and therefore, no importance could be attached to the said application and that is the reason behind requesting the Appellate Court to exercise its power under section 391 Cr.P.C. to hold a DNA profiling of his daughter-Aleena.

[18] Per contra, Sri Hari Om Rai, learned counsel for the respondent has drawn the attention of the Court to Section 112 of Evidence Act, which reads thus :-

112. Birth during marriage, conclusive proof of legitimacy.

"The fact that any person was born during the continuance of a valid marriage between his mother and any man, or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is the legitimate son of that man, unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten."

The aforesaid provision of Evidence Act is in two parts. (i) a person was born during the continuation of valid marriage between his mother and any man or within 280 days after its dissolution, and the mother is remained unmarried, then it shall be a conclusive proof that he is a legitimate son of that man ;(ii) Unless it can be shown that the parties to their marriage has no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten.

The Section is based on the principles that when a particular relationship such as marriage, is shown to exist, then its continuation must prima facie be presumed under the section of fact that any person was born :-

(I) During the continuation of valid marriage between the mother and any man

OR

(ii) Within 280 days of its dissolution and the mother remain unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is legitimate son of that man unless the parties had no access to each other at any time when he could have begotten.

The evidence that a child is born during wedlock is sufficient to establish its legitimacy and shift the burden of proof to the parties seeking to establish the contrary.

The presumption under this Section is conclusive presumption of law which can be displaced only by the proof of non access between the parties to the marriage at a time when according to the ordinary course of nature, husband could have been the father of the child. This expression conclusive proof " is used in the section means proof as lay down under section 4 of the Indian Evidence Act. Access and non-access connote existence and non-existence of opportunities for marital intercourse.

It is the principle of law that "Odiosa et inhonesta non sunt in lege prae sumenda" (Nothing odious or dishonourable will be presumed by the law). So the law presumes against vice and immorality. One of the strongest illustrations of the principle, is the presumption in favour of legitimacy of children in a civilized society. But, where illegitimacy seems as common as marriage and legitimacy, a presumption of legitimacy cannot be drawn and legitimacy or illegitimacy will have to be proved like any other fact in issue."

The provision of Section 112 of Indian Evidence Act is based on principles. Peter est quem nuptiae demonstrant*(father is one whom marriage indicates). When child was born during valid marriage, it is a conclusive proof of its legitimacy unless strong and cogent evidence is led to prove otherwise.*

[19] By dissecting the aforesaid provision of Section 112 of Evidence Act, it reveals that :

(a) During the continuation of a valid marriage between his mother and any man

(b) Within 280 days after its dissolution, the mother remain unmarried ;

(c) Unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other

[20] The presumption as to paternity in this section only arises in connection with the offspring of the married couple. The section applies to legitimacy of children of a married person only, On the birth of child during marriage, the presumption of legitimacy is conclusive no matter how soon the birth occurs after the marriage.

The section does not lay down the maximum period of gestation and therefore, does not bar the proof of legitimacy of a child born more than 280 days after dissolution of marriage, the affect of section being nearly that no presumption in favour of legitimacy is raised and question must be decided simply upon the evidence for and against legitimacy. A person born within 280 days after the death of his father, is presumably legitimate son when a person claims under this section, to be a son of deceased person, he must prove that he was born within 280 days after the death of his father.

Under this section, child born in a wedlock, should be treated as a child of the person who was, at the time of his birth, the husband of mother unless it is shown that he had no access to the mother at the time of its conception. Quite irrespective of the question whether the mother was married woman or not at the time of conception, where the wife was pregnant on the date of marriage and the husband had no access to the wife before the marriage, there was no question of calling aid the presumption under Section 112 of Evidence Act. By "having no access" is meant having no opportunity of sexual intercourse and in order to displace the conclusive presumption, it must be shown that no such opportunity occurred down to a point of time so near to the birth as to render paternity impossible. To rebut the legal presumption under this Section, it is for those, who dispute the paternity of a child, to prove non-access of the husband to his wife during the period when with respect to the date of its birth, it must, in ordinary course of nature, have been begotten. Mere fact that husband and wife were residing separately in the close proximity of the distances, is not a sufficient proof of non-access.

[21] The Supreme Court observed that the presumption which under section 112 of Evidence Act contemplates, is conclusive presumption of law which can be displaced only by the proof that the particular fact mentioned in the Section, namely, non-access between the parties to the marriage at the time when according to ordinary course of nature, the husband could have been the father of the child. Non-access can be established not merely by positive or the direct evidence, it can be proved undoubtedly like any other fact by evidence, either direct or circumstantial which is relevant to the issue, though as presumption of legitimacy is highly favoured by the law, it is necessary that proof of non-access is clear and satisfactory. The non-access would include incapability of access on account of impotency, want of virility or masculinity because of immature age or other physical incompetency.

Sri Manish Tiwary, learned counsel for the applicant while buttressing his contention, has relied upon the following citations in his favour :-

(i) Nand Lal Wasudeo Badwaik Vs. Lata Nandlal Badwaik and another reported in (2014) 2 SCC 576 ;

(ii) Deepanwita Roy Vs. Ronobroto Roy reported in (2015) 1 SCC 365;

(iii) Priyanka Janardhan Patil Vs. Janardhan Raghunath Patil reported in 2022 SCC Online SC 1047 ;

[22] Let us examine the aforesaid cases one by one. In paragraph no.14, in Nand Lal Wasudeo Badwaik case, the Hon'ble Apex Court, in no uncertain terms, have clearly spelled out that a child born during the continuation of a valid marriage, shall be conclusive proof that a child is a legitimate child of a man to whom the lady giving birth as married. The provision makes legitimacy of a child to be a conclusive proof if the condition aforesaid are satisfied. It can be denied only if it is shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when the child could have begotten. Paragraph no.16, 17 and 18 of the aforesaid judgment deserves special by the Court, which is quoted hereinbelow :-

16. As stated earlier, the DNA test is an accurate test and on that basis it is clear that the appellant is not the biological father of the girl child. However, at the same time, the condition precedent for invocation of Section 112 of the Evidence Act has been established and no finding with regard to the plea of the husband that he had no access to his wife at the time when the child could have been begotten has been recorded. Admittedly, the child has been born during the continuance of a valid marriage. Therefore, the provisions of Section 112 of the Evidence Act conclusively prove that Respondent 2 is the daughter of the appellant. At the same time, the DNA test reports, based on scientific analysis, in no uncertain terms suggest that the appellant is not the biological father. In such circumstances, which would give way to the other is a complex question posed before us.

17. We may remember that Section 112 of the Evidence Act was enacted at a time when the modern scientific advancement and DNA test were not even in contemplation of the legislature. The result of DNA test is said to be scientifically accurate. Although Section 112 raises a presumption of conclusive proof on satisfaction of the conditions enumerated therein but the same is rebuttable. The presumption may afford legitimate means of arriving at an affirmative legal conclusion. While the truth or fact is known, in our opinion, there is no need or room for any presumption. Where there is evidence to the contrary, the presumption is rebuttable and must yield to proof. The interest of justice is best served by ascertaining the truth and the court should be furnished with the best available science and may not be left to bank upon presumptions, unless science has no answer to the facts in issue. In our opinion, when there is a conflict between a conclusive proof envisaged under law and a proof based on scientific advancement accepted by the world community to be correct, the latter must prevail over the former.

18. We must understand the distinction between a legal fiction and the presumption of a fact. Legal fiction assumes existence of a fact which may not really exist. However, a presumption of a fact depends on satisfaction of certain circumstances. Those circumstances logically would lead to the fact sought to be presumed. Section 112 of the Evidence Act does not create a legal fiction but provides for presumption.

[23] Adopting the aforesaid ratio of the aforesaid case of Nand Lal Wasudeo Badwaik, the case of Deepanwita Roy's(supra) was also decided. While deciding the case of Deepanwita Roy, the Court has adopted the reasoning in toto.

The Court has occasion to peruse the facts of the aforesaid case in which Lata Nand Lal Badwaik has filed an application under section 125 Cr.P.C. claiming maintenance for herself and his daughter inter alia alleging that she started living with her husband from 20.06.1996 and stayed with him for about two years and during that period, she got pregnant from the applicant. She was sent for delivery at her parent's place where she has given birth to a baby girl. However, this claim of the girl was resisted by her husband and also denied that the baby girl does not belong to him. According to her husband, he has got no physical relationship with his wife. The Court while allowing the maintenance at the rate of Rs.900/- to the wife and Rs.500/- to the daughter on 10.01.2011, passed an order and under the directions of the Court, the DNA test was carried out in which, it has come out that the appellant Nand Lal Badwaik is excluded to be the biological father of Neha Nand Lal Badwaik, baby girl. The Court has given direction to conduct her DNA test.

However, it is evident that comparing the facts of the present case, is entirely different from the aforesaid case as there is no order by any of the learned court below to go for any DNA test as there is no pleading of non-access by the husband/applicant with her wife Ms. Shazia.

[24] In the present case, as mentioned above, the prayer is to quash the order dated 20.01.2023 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Kasganj while deciding the Criminal Appeal No.19 of 2022 Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain Vs. Smt. Shazia Parveen, Police Section-Sector Ganjdundwara, Kaganj, under section 125 Cr.P.C. and also order for fresh DNA test of the applicant, respondent nos.2 to 4 in the present case.

The details of the present case has already been spelled out in the earlier part of the judgment which needs no repetition. However, it is clear that the marriage between the applicant and respondent no.2 was solemnized as per Muslim rites on 12.11.2013. On account of scanty dowry, she was subjected to cruel and inhuman treatment. Resultantly, she was compelled to leave the company of her husband in the year 2017. During the subsistence of the marriage, she gave birth to two baby girls namely Km. Aleena and Km. Adeeba. In paragraph no.12 of the petition, it has been mentioned that opposite party no.2 was leading adulterous life as counter allegation upon the chastity of his wife, and, therefore, in a most clandestine fashion without taking consent of opposite party no.2, Ms. Shazia Parveen or her daughter Km. Aleena, taken the relevant sample and sent for DNA Labs India Genetic Research and Development Centre, Hydrabad to check his paternity, while taking the advantage of his profession, and obtained the certificate that the applicant is not a biological father of opposite party no.3, Km. Aleena.

There is no order of the Court to conduct such test. The interesting feature of this case is that in the entire pleading of the case, there is not a whisper that the applicant has got no access to his wife during the subsistence of the marriage i.e. 12.11.2013 to 2017, the date of her desertion from the company of her husband. A bald allegation has been pasted upon his wife that she was leading adulterous life, is of no consequence. The requirement of the law is otherwise. It is the applicant, who has to establish that during the subsistence of marriage, he has got no access to his wife which has resulted to the birth of two baby girls. After she diserted the company of her husband, one fine morning, a brain wave attached the applicant and he has managed to take the samples in a surreptitious way without any information or consent and sent the aforesaid sample to the Centre. The report from the aforesaid DNA Centre is the base on which he wants to shun away from his responsibility of her father. As mentioned above, there is not a whisper in the entire pleadings that the applicant has got no access to his wife during this period.

[25] In a celebrated judgment in the case of Gautam Kundu vs. State of West Bengal AIR 1993 2295, Hon'ble the Apex Court has boiles down following conditions :-

(1) that courts in India cannot order blood test as matter of course;

(2) wherever applications are made for such prayers in order to have roving inquiry, the prayer for blood test cannot be entertained.

(3) There must be a strong primafacie case in that the husband must establish non-access in order to dispel the presumption arising under section 112 of the Evidence Act.

(4) The court must carefully examine as to what would be the consequence of ordering the blood test; whether it will have the effect of branding a child as a bastard and the mother as an unchaste woman.

(5) No one can be compelled to give sample of blood for analysis.

Examined in the light of the above, we find no difficulty in upholding the impugned order of the High Court, confirming the order of the Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Alipore in rejecting the application for blood test. We find the purpose of the application is nothing more than to avoid payment of maintenance, without making any ground whatever to have recourse to the test. Accordingly Criminal Appeal will stand dismissed. Cr, M.P.No. 2224/93 in S.L.P.(cr No. 2648/92 filed by Respondent No. 2 will stand allowed. She is permitted to withdraw the amount without furnishing any Security.

[26] Weighing the facts of the present case, with the aforesaid guidelines, it goes without saying that the base of the entire case, the said DNA report obtained by the applicant is nothing but a trash and cannot be relied upon. The DNA test cannot be ordered as a matter of course. There must be strong prima facie case that husband must establish non-access with his wife in order to dispel the presumption under section 112 of the Evidence Act and the Court has to weigh on an iron balance, far reaching implications and consequence ordering the blood test/DNA test, whether it will affect of branding a child as a bastard and the mother as unchaste woman. No one can be compelled to give sample of the blood for analysis. On these parameters, the applicant has failed to establish or even plead in his pleadings that he has got no access to his wife during subsistence of marriage from 12.11.2013 to the year 2017. Mere making a baseless and bald allegation that his wife is an unchaste woman, leading adulterous life, would have no consequence and would be construed that this crude attempt on his part, is nothing more than to avoid payment of maintenance to the kids.

[27] In the recent case of Aparna Ajinkya Firodia Vs. Ajinkya Arun Firodia reported in 2023 SCC Online SC 161, Hon'ble the Apex Court has examined this tricky legal question from the point of view of a young boy or girl and its adverse impact on the psyche of that boy, whose legitimacy is under challenge by none other than his own father. In this small world, where every information is one's finger tip, the child has to quest to find out his real father. He also has to cope up with confused state of mind whether a person to whom he considers his father is shunning away and anyhow wants to get rid of this relationship.

It is undeniable that the finding as to illegitimacy, if revealed in the DNA test, would at very least adversely effect the child's tender mind. It can cause not only confusion in the mind of the child but quest to find out who the real father is and a mixed feeling towards to a person who may have nurtured the child but is not a biological father. Not knowing who is one's father, would create a mental trauma in that child. One can imagine if after coming to know the identity of the biological father, what greater trauma and stress would impact on a young' s mind proceeding which are in realm have a real impact on not only child but also on the relationship between the mother and the child itself, which is otherwise sublime. It has been said that the parent of a child may have illegitimate relationship but a child borne out of such relationship cannot carry a stamp of illegitimacy on his forehead. As such, a child has no role to play in its birth. An innocent child cannot be traumatized and subjected to extreme stress and tension in order to discover its paternity and that is why Section 112 of the Evidence Act speaks about the conclusive presumption regarding the paternity of the child subjected to rebuttal as provided in the second part of the aforesaid Section. A child should not be lost in its search of paternity. The precious childhood and youth cannot be lost in quest to know one's paternity. Therefore, the wholesome object of Section 112 of Evidence Act which confers the legitimacy of the child born during the subsistence of valid marriage subjected to the same being rebutted by strong and cogent evidence and perceived. Children of today are citizens and the future of a nation. The confidence and happiness of a child who is showered with love and affection by both parents is totally distinct from that of a child who has no parents or has lost a parent and still worse, is that of a child whose paternity is in question without there being any cogent reason for the same. The plight of a child whose paternity and thus his legitimacy, is questioned would sink into a vortex of confusion which can be confounded if Courts are not cautious and responsible enough to exercise discretion in a most judicious and cautious manner. following paragraph are relevant for consideration of the present case which are as follows :-

"Indian Law has proceeded on the assumption that parents are persons who beget a child or who assume the legal obligations of parenthood through formal adoption of child. Under the Indian legal spectrum, a husband is strongly presumed to be the father of a child born to his wife. Thus, there is a strong presumption regarding the paternity of a child. This presumption can be overcome only by evidence precluding any procreative role of the husband, such as by showing that the husband and wife had no access to each other at the relevant time of possible conception. In the absence of proof of non-access, the law considers the husband's paternity to be conclusively established if they cohabited when the child was likely to have been conceived. By allowing rebuttal with proof, that the husband could not have been the biological father, the marital presumption was implicitly premised, in part, on a policy linking parenthood with biological reproduction and on an assumption about the probability of the husband's genetic contribution. The presumption protects social parentage over biological parentage. Scientific proof now makes it possible to know with virtual certainty whether a man is genetically related to a child. As a result, Courts are routinely confronted with husbands seeking to disavow their paternity based on newly acquired DNA evidence, notwithstanding them having long performed the social role of father to a child. The short question in the present appeal is as to how a Court can prevent the law's tidy assumptions linking paternity with matrimony, from collapsing, particularly when parties are routinely attempting to dislodge such presumptions by employing modern genetic profiling techniques."

[27] Further, questions surrounding paternity have a significant impact on the identity of a child. Routinely ordering DNA tests, particularly in cases where the issue of paternity is merely incidental to the controversy at hand, could, in some cases even contribute to a child suffering an identity crisis. It is also necessary to take into account that some children, although born during the subsistence of a marriage and on the desire and consent of the married couple to beget a child, may have been conceived through processes involving sperm donation, such as intrauterine insemination (IUI), in-vitro fertilisation (IVF). In such cases, a DNA test of the child, could lead to misleading results. The results may also cause a child to develop a sense of mistrust towards the parents, and frustration owing to the inability to search for their biological fathers.

Further, a child's quest to locate its biological father may compete with the right to anonymity of the sperm donor. Having regard to such factors, a parent may, in the best interests of the child, choose not to subject a child to a DNA test. It is also, antithetical to the fundamentals of the right to privacy to require a person to disclose, in the course of proceedings in rem, the medical procedures resorted to in order to conceive.

[28] Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding the aforesaid judgment, has declined to grant any permission to carry out desired DNA test of the boy Master 'X' on the ground that the case of respondent-husband is that if the DNA test is allowed, and the same reveals that he is not a biological father of Master 'X' as a corollary, it would be proved that appellant's wife committed adultery, we do not find favour with the approach suggested by the respondent husband to prove adultery on the following reasons:-

i. It is not in dispute that Master "X", the son stated to be born to the Appellant-wife from the wedlock, was born in the year 2013. DNA testing, cannot be used as a short cut to establish infidelity that might have occurred over a decade ago or subsequently after the birth of Master "X".

ii. In the circumstances of the present case, we are unable to accept that a DNA test would be the only way in which the truth of the matter can be established. The respondent-husband has categorically claimed that he is in possession of call recordings/transcripts and the daily diary of the appellant, which may be summoned in accordance with law to prove the infidelity of the appellant. Therefore, it seems to us that the respondent is in a position to attempt to make out a case based on such evidence, as to adultery/infidelity on the part of the appellant.

iii. No plea has been raised by the respondent-husband herein as to non-access in order to dislodge the presumption under Section 112 of the Evidence Act. Therefore, no prima-facie case has been made out by the respondent which would justify a direction to conduct a DNA test of Master "X".

iv. No adverse inference can be raised in the instant case regarding the legitimacy or paternity of Master "X" vis-Ã -vis the appellant herein, on her declining to subject Master "X" to a paternity test. Further, on the appellant declining to subject Master "X" to a paternity test, no adverse inference can be drawn as regards the alleged adultery on the part of the appellant herein can be raised. In our view, the allegation of adultery has to be proved by the respondent herein de hors the issue of paternity of Master "X".

[29] Imbibing and accepting the aforesaid reasoning in toto, this Court is also of the view that kids who were born during the subsistence of marriage in between 2013-17 and the applicant, at no point of time, have ever pleaded in his pleadings that he has got no access to cohabitate with his wife, then in order to facilitate the applicant, if DNA test is being ordered, and God forbid if the result goes otherwise that would lead to disastrous results, not only putting a question mark upon the life of a mother and the child who has got no say in this incident. The inter se relationship between the husband and the children would seriously be jeopardized and would lead to a picture where nobody would be a gainer. More particularly when there is no pleading regarding any non-access by the applicant in the company of the applicant.

In yet another judgment in the case of Ashok Kumar Vs. Raj Gupta and others reported in (2022) 1 SSC 20 while underlying the power and the duty of the Court to decide the case on such other evidence, adverse inference from the refusal to undergo DNA tests, held that in a circumstances where other evidences is available to prove or dispute the relationship, the Court should ordinarily refrain from ordering blood test like DNA test against the will of the party who is to be subjected to such test. It is burden upon the litigating party to prove his case adducing evidences in support of his plea and the Court cannot compel the party to prove his case in the manner suggested by the contesting parties subject to the drawing of adverse inference, if so warranted in the facts of the case. Whether the DNA test should be permitted on the child is to be analysed through the prism of the child and not through the prism of the parent. The child cannot be used as a pawn to show that the mother of the child was living in adultery. It is always open for the husband to prove by otherwise evidence, the adulterous conduct of his wife but the child's right to identity should not be allowed to sacrifice.

What comes out of the DNA test is the main product, is the paternity of the child which is subjected to a test. Incidently, the adulterous conduct of the wife also establishes as a by-product Though, the very same process. To say that the wife should allow the child to undergo the DNA test, to enable the husband to have a benefit of both product and the by-product or in alternative the wife should allow the husband to have a benefit of the byproduct by invoking Section 114 of the Evidence Act, if she denies not to subject child a DNA test, is really to leave the choice between the devil and the deep sea to the wife.

[30] In this piquant situation, where the wife and his child's dignity and honour is at stakes, the Court should doubly sure and should not pass an order in a routine way or rather exceptionally.

Even otherwise, in such a circumstances, if the DNA test is being carried out in a normal routine way, it would open the pandora's box for the unscrupulous husbands to challenge the paternity of their off springs. In fact, DNA test should be at the last resort. Its the liability of the husband to establish the fact that he has got no access to his wife or for any physical reason he is permanently incapacitated to cohabitate with his wife.

[31] The presumption of legitimacy of a child can only be displaced by strong preponderance of the evidence and not merely by balance of probabilities, but at the same time, the test of preponderance of probability is too light as that might expose many children to the peril of illegitimised. If a Court declares that husband is not a father of his wife's child, without tracing out his real father, the fall out on the child is ruinous apart from all the ignominy visiting his mother. The bastardised child when grows up would be socially ostracised and can easily fall into wayward life. Hence, by way of abundance caution as a matter of public policy, law cannot afford to allow such consequences befalling an innocent child on the strength of mere tilting of probability. Its corollary is the burden of plaintiff husband should be higher than standard of preponderance of probabilities. The standard of proof in such case must at least be of a degree in between two as to ensure that there was no possibility of child conceived to plaintiff husband.

Last but not the least Inayat Ali and ors. Vs State of Telangana in Criminal Appeal No.1569 of 2022 decided on 15.09.2022, it has been observed that merely because something is permissible under the law, cannot be directed as a matter of course to be performed particularly when a direction to that effect would be invasive to the physical anatomy of a person. Consequence thereof would not be confined to the question as to whether such an order would result in a testimonial compulsion but it encompass the right of privacy as well. Such direction would violate the privacy right of the person subjected to such test and could be prejudicial to the future of two children who were also sought to be brought within the ambit of trial Court's direction. Therefore, judgment and order of High Court was set-aside by the Hon'ble Apex Court.

[32] In the light of above discussion, where there is serious differences and disputes between the appellant and opposite party no.2 and they have decided to part with their relationship in the 2017 then, as mentioned above, in order to avoid the award of maintenance to the opposite party no.3 Ms. Aleena, this gimmickry in the shape of DNA Report, was conducted at the behest of the appellant who on his own in a clandestine fashion, taken out the samples and obtained a report from DNA Lab India, Hyderabad that he is not a biological father of the opposite party no.3. This test report as mentioned is simply a trash and cannot be relied upon nor any order for conducting a de novo DNA report could be ordered in the absence of any pleading regarding non-access of applicant with his wife-opposite party no.2 during last four years of subsistence of marriage. The Court would rather presume otherwise, unless the applicant must establish the fact either directly or by circumstances that his wife was unchaste woman, leading an adulterous life. Then, only if Court finds it necessary, may in exceptional circumstances, direct the DNA test. Making a bald and whimsical allegation upon the chastity of his wife, is not only derogatory but also an attempt to avoid to pay the maintenance amount.

Therefore, the Court is declined to grant any relief to the applicant- Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain to quash the order dated 20.01.2023 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Kasganj in Criminal Appeal No.19 of 2022 under section 125 Cr.P.C. or grant any fresh direction to hold a fresh DNA test of the applicant and respondent nos.3 and 4 for the reasons mentioned above. In addition to this, the prayer sought in the Criminal Revision 1090 of 2023 to set-aside the order dated 07.04.2022 passed by learned Gram Nyayalaya, Patiali, Kasganj in Case No.100 of 2019 Ms. Shazia Parveen Vs. Dr. Ifraq @ Mohammad Ifraq Husain and also the order dated 30.01.2023 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Kasganj cannot be granted for the reasons mentioned above. Both the petitions is devoid of merit and accordingly dismissed by instant composite judgment.

[33] It is further directed that applicant would clear off all the outstanding (if any) pursuant to above orders, within a period of one month from the production of certified copy of this judgment and the applicant shall keep on paying the amount, from the first fortnight of every month starting from 01.07.2024.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Raj Bahadur Verma, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the summoning order dated 07.02.2024 as well as entire proceeding of Complaint Case No.6594 of 2023 (Rahul Vs. Vijay Kumar), under Section 138 of N.I. Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Ghaziabad, pending in the court of learned Civil Judge (S.D.) F.T.C., Ghaziabad.

3. Opposite party no.2 had filed a complaint against applicant under Section 138 N.I. Act with the allegation that opposite party no.2 had given Rs.3,00,000/- on the request of applicant in the month of October, 2022, thereafter, just to repay that amount applicant issued a Cheque No.737727 dated 04.07.2023 of Rs.3,00,000/- from his account maintaining by him in Shivalika Mercantile Co-operative Bank Ltd. Branch Bhatiya Road, Ghaziabad, same was presented before the bank on 11.07.2023, but the same was returned by the bank on 12.07.2023 with the endorsement 'account closed'. Thereafter, opposite party no.2 sent registered notice on 09.08.2023 to the applicant demanding the payment of cheque amount within 15 days, but applicant has not paid any amount, therefore, the complaint was filed and statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. was also filed on affidavit and the learned Magistrate on the basis of material on record, summoned the applicant by order dated 07.02.2024 after condoning the delay in filing the complaint by order dated 08.11.2023 which is impugned in the present case.

4. Contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that the cheque in question was missing cheque for which the applicant has already filed a police report on 13.07.2022 and also filed complaint for stopping the payment, but the opposite party no.2 has misused the cheque and filed the complaint, therefore, the cheque cannot be said to be issued in discharge of any liability. The impugned proceeding deserves to be quahsed on this ground itself. Second contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that the cheque in question was returned by the bank with the endorsement 'account closed', not for insufficiency of fund, therefore, no liability under Section 138 of N.I. Act is attracted.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that the defence raised by learned counsel for the applicant are disputed question of fact, same can be decided during the trial and on this ground proceeding cannot be quashed.

6. After considering the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and on perusal of record, this Court is of the view, whether the cheque was missing cheque, this question is disputed question of fact, same can be decided during trial. Even otherwise police complaint regarding missing of cheque was not lodged as per the procedure but a simple application was submitted before S.H.O. of the concerned police station.

7. So far as the second contention of learned counsel for the applicant is concerned, the cheque has been bounced and returned by the bank with the endorsement of 'account closed'.

8. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Electronics Trade And Technology

Development Corporation, Ltd. Secunderabad Vs. Indian Technologists and Engineers (Electronics) Pvt. Ltd. and another, reported in 1996 (2) SCC 739, observed that if cheque is returned by the bank which was issued in discharge of any liability with the endorsement, (1) 'refer to the drawer of cheque' (2) 'instructions for stop payment' and (3) 'exceeds arrangements'. Even then same will amount to dishonour within the meaning of Section 138 N.I. Act., if the drawer of cheque fails to pay the cheque amount within 15 days from the receiving of demand notice. Paragraph no.5 of judgment passed in the case of Electronics Trade And Technology Development Corporation, Ltd. Secunderabad (supra) is being quoted as under:-

"5. It would thus be clear that when a cheque is drawn by a person on an account maintained by him with the banker for payment of any amount of money to another person out of the account for the discharge of the debt in whole or in part or other liability is returned by the bank with the endorsement like (1) in this case, ?refer to the drawer? (2) ?instructions for stoppage of payment? and stamped (3) ?exceeds arrangement?, it amounts to dishonour within the meaning of Section 138 of the Act. On issuance of the notice by the payee or the holder in due course after dishonour, to the drawer demanding payment within 15 days from the date of the receipt of such a notice, if he does not pay the same, the statutory presumption of dishonest intention, subject to any other liability, stands satisfied."

9. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of M/S. Modi Cements Ltd. Vs. Shri Kuchil Kumar Nandi reported in (1998) 3 SCC 249, observed that if the cheque is returned by the bank with the endorsement 'stop of payment', even then the liability under Section 138 N.I. Act will be attracted because of presumption of under Section 139 N.I. Act, when despite receiving the demand notice drawer of cheque fails to pay the cheque amount. Hon'ble the Apex Court also observed in that case if the reason for stop payment is excluded under Section 138 N.I. Act, then same would be contrary to the object of Section 138 and 139 of N.I. Act and that will make Section 138 N.I. Act a dead letter. Paragraph nos.16, 18, 20 and 21 of the judgement passed in the case of M/S. Modi Cements Ltd. (supra) are quoted as under:-

"16. We see great force in the above submission because once the cheque is issued by the drawer a presumption under Section 139 must follow and merely because the drawer issues a notice to the drawee or to the bank for stoppage of the payment it will not preclude an action under Section 138 of the Act by the drawee or the holder of a cheque in due course. The object of Chapter XVII, which is intituled as "Of Penalties in Case of Dishonour of Certain Cheques for Insufficiency of Funds in the Accounts" and contains Sections 138 to 142, is to promote the efficacy of banking operations and to ensure credibility in transacting business through cheques. It is for this reason we are of the considered view that the observations of this Court in Electronics Trade & Technology Development Corpn. Ltd. [(1996) 2 SCC 739 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 454] in para 6 to the effect "Suppose after the cheque is issued to the payee or to the holder in due course and before it is presented for encashment, notice is issued to him not to present the same for encashment and yet the payee or holder in due course presents the cheque to the bank for payment and when it is returned on instructions, Section 138 does not get attracted", does not fit in with the object and purpose for which the above chapter has been brought on the statute-book.

18. The aforesaid propositions in both these reported judgments, in our considered view, with great respect are contrary to the spirit and object of Sections 138 and 139 of the Act. If we are to accept this proposition it will make Section 138 a dead letter, for, by giving instructions to the bank to stop payment immediately after issuing a cheque against a debt or liability the drawer can easily get rid of the penal consequences notwithstanding the fact that a deemed offence was committed. Further the following observations in para 6 in Electronics Trade & Technology Development Corpn. Ltd. [(1996) 2 SCC 739 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 454] (SCC p. 742)

"Section 138 intended to prevent dishonesty on the part of the drawer of negotiable instrument to draw a cheque without sufficient funds in his account maintained by him in a bank and induce the payee or holder in due course to act upon it. Section 138 draws presumption that one commits the offence if he issues the cheque dishonestly" in our opinion, do not also lay down the law correctly.

20. On a careful reading of Section 138 of the Act, we are unable to subscribe to the view that Section 138 of the Act draws presumption of dishonesty against drawer of the cheque if he without sufficient funds to his credit in his bank account to honour the cheque issues the same and, therefore, this amounts to an offence under Section 138 of the Act. For the reasons stated hereinabove, we are unable to share the views expressed by this Court in the above two cases and we respectfully differ with the same regarding interpretation of Section 138 of the Act to the limited extent as indicated above.

21. It is needless to emphasize that the Court taking cognizance of the complaint under Section 138 of the Act is required to be satisfied as to whether a prima facie case is made out under the said provision. The drawer of the cheque undoubtedly gets an opportunity under Section 139 of the Act to rebut the presumption at the trial. It is for this reason we are of the considered opinion that the complaints of the appellant could not have been dismissed by the High Court at the threshold."

10. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of NEPC Micon Limited and others Vs. Magma Leasing Limited reported in 1999 (4) SCC 253, observed that if the cheque is returned by bank with the endorsement 'account closed', it would amount to returning the cheque unpaid because the amount of money standing in the account of drawer is insufficient to dishonour the cheque as required under Section 138 of N.I. Act, therefore, it would be sufficient for issuing process under Section 138 N.I. Act. Hon'ble Apex Court also observed that Section 138 of N.I. Act is a penal statute, therefore, it is the duty of Court to interpret it consistent with the legislative intend and purpose to promote efficacy of banking in commercial or contractual transaction. Paragraph nos.14 and 15 of the case of NEPC Micon Limited and others (supra) are quoted as under:-

"14. Lastly, we would refer to the decision by a three-Judge Bench of this Court in the case of Modi Cements Ltd. v. Kuchil Kumar Nandi [(1998) 3 SCC 249] dealing with a similar contention and interpreting Section 138 of the Act. In that case, the Court referred to the earlier decisions in the case of Electronics Trade and Technology Development Corpn. [Electronics Trade and Technology Development Corpn. Ltd. v. Indian Technologists & Engineers (Electronics) (P) Ltd., (1996) 2 SCC 739 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 454] and K.K. Sidharthan v. T.P. Praveena Chandran [(1996) 6 SCC 369 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 1340] and agreed that the legal proposition enunciated in the aforesaid decisions to the effect that if the cheque is dishonoured because of "stop payment" instruction to the bank, Section 138 would get attracted. It also amounts to dishonour of the cheque within the meaning of Section 138 when it is returned by the bank with the endorsement like (i) in this case, "referred to the drawer" (ii) "instructions for stoppage of payment" and stamped (iii) "exceeds arrangement". The Court observed that the object of bringing Section 138 on statute appears to be to inculcate faith in the efficacy of banking operations and credibility in transaction in business on negotiable instruments and to promote the efficacy of banking operations and to ensure credibility in transacting business through cheques. Thereafter, the Court disagreed with other views expressed in the aforesaid two cases and held that once the cheque is issued by the drawer a presumption under Section 139 must follow and merely because the drawer issues a notice to the drawee or to the bank for stoppage of the payment it will not preclude an action under Section 138 of the Act by the drawee or the holder of a cheque in due course. The Court further held that it will make Section 138 a dead letter if the contention that by giving instruction to the bank to stop payment immediately after issuing a cheque against the debt or liability, the drawer can easily get rid of the penal consequences notwithstanding the fact that deemed offence was committed. Finally, the Court held that Section 138 of the Act gets attracted only when the cheque is dishonoured.

15. In view of the aforesaid discussion we are of the opinion that even though Section 138 is a penal statute, it is the duty of the court to interpret it consistent with the legislative intent and purpose so as to suppress the mischief and advance the remedy. As stated above, Section 138 of the Act has created a contractual breach as an offence and the legislative purpose is to promote efficacy of banking and of ensuring that in commercial or contractual transactions cheques are not dishonoured and credibility in transacting business through cheques is maintained. The above interpretation would be in accordance with the principle of interpretation quoted above "brush away the cobweb varnish, and shew the transactions in their true light" (Wilmot, C.J.) or (by Maxwell) "to carry out effectively the breach of the statute, it must be so construed as to defeat all attempts to do, or avoid doing, in an indirect or circuitous manner that which it has prohibited". Hence, when the cheque is returned by a bank with an endorsement "account closed", it would amount to returning the cheque unpaid because "the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque" as envisaged in Section 138 of the Act."

11. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Laxmi Dyechem Vs. State of Gujarat reported in (2012) 13 SCC 375, observed that even if a cheque is returned by the bank with the endorsement 'signature differ' even that is sufficient to issue process for Section 138 N.I. Act because after dishonouring the cheque, drawer gets statutory notice giving him opportunity to arrange the payment of amount covered by cheque and it is only when the drawer despite getting opportunity on receiving said notice failed to make the payment within 15 days, proceeding under Section 138 N.I. Act is initiated.

Paragraph no.16.2 and 17 of the Laxmi Dyechem (supra) is being quoted as under:-

"16.2. There may indeed be situations where a mismatch between the signatories on the cheque drawn by the drawer and the specimen available with the bank may result in dishonour of the cheque even when the drawer never intended to invite such a dishonour. We are also conscious of the fact that an authorised signatory may in the ordinary course of business be replaced by a new signatory ending the earlier mandate to the bank. Dishonour on account of such changes that may occur in the course of ordinary business of a company, partnership or an individual may not constitute an offence by itself because such a dishonour in order to qualify for prosecution under Section 138 shall have to be preceded by a statutory notice where the drawer is called upon and has the opportunity to arrange the payment of the amount covered by the cheque. It is only when the drawer despite receipt of such a notice and despite the opportunity to make the payment within the time stipulated under the statute does not pay the amount that the dishonour would be considered a dishonour constituting an offence, hence punishable. Even in such cases, the question whether or not there was a lawfully recoverable debt or liability for discharge whereof the cheque was issued would be a matter that the trial court will examine having regard to the evidence adduced before it and keeping in view the statutory presumption that unless rebutted the cheque is presumed to have been issued for a valid consideration.

17. In the case at hand, the High Court relied upon a decision of this Court in Vinod Tanna case in support of its view. We have carefully gone through the said decision which relies upon the decision of this Court in Electronics Trade & Technology Development Corpn. Ltd. The view expressed by this Court in Electronics Trade & Technology Development Corpn. Ltd. that a dishonour of the cheque by the drawer after issue of a notice to the holder asking him not to present a cheque would not attract Section 138 has been specifically overruled in Modi Cements Ltd. case10. The net effect is that dishonour on the ground that the payment has been stopped, regardless whether such stoppage is with or without notice to the drawer, and regardless whether the stoppage of payment is on the ground that the amount lying in the account was not sufficient to meet the requirement of the cheque, would attract the provisions of Section 138."

12. From the above legal position, it is clear that if the cheque is dishonoured and returned with following endorsement, then it will be sufficient for prima facie case for issuing process under Section 138 N.I. Act:-

(i) case referred to drawer
(ii) instruction for stoppage of payment
(iii) exceeds arrangement
(iv) insufficient fund
(v) signature differed or mismatch
(vi) account closed

13. Though, despite the above mentioned endorsement by the bank for returning the cheque summoning the drawer of cheque under Section 138 N.I. Act is proper but presumption under Section 139 N.I. Act or disputing the above endorsement on the part of the bank can always be raised during trial but same cannot be ground for quashing the complaint proceeding at initial stage.

14. In the present case also, the cheque in question was returned by the bank with the endorsement 'account closed', therefore, in view of above legal position, there is no illegality in summoning the application under Section 138 N.I. Act. Therefore, the present application fails and accordingly dismissed.

THE HON'BLE ARVIND SINGH SANGWAN, J.
THE HON'BLE RAM MANOHAR NARAYAN MISHRA, J.

Capital Case No. 17 of 2021

Prem Singh Prajapati ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Smt. Aradhana Singh, Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Ananad Vikram Singh, G.A., Sri Vibhuti Narayan Singh

A. Capital case-Criminal Procedure Code,1973- Sections 374(2) & 366- Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 302, 201, 363 & 376AB - POCSO Act,2012 - section 5/6 - appellant challenged the conviction-a two year old girl was sexually assaulted by the appellant and later found dead in the pond-circumstantial evidence i.e. last seen, extra judicial confession and DNA report could not be proved by the prosecution-the forensic report shows that the biological evidence did not conclusively link the appellant to the crime, and the medical report indicates that the victim died of drowning-the appellant argues about insufficient evidence, inconsistencies in witness testimonies, some of whom turned hostile-Held, in view of the detailed finding recorded in the above case the appellant is entitled to get benefit of doubt.(Para 1 to 97)

B. Falsus in Uno, Falsus in Omnibus-The legal doctrine suggests that if a witness is found to have lied on one point, their entire testimony may be disregarded. In this case, witnesses like Akash Sharma and others provided inconsistent statements, raising questions about their reliability. The defense used this doctrine to challenge the credibility of key prosecution witnesses.

C. Proof beyond reasonable Doubt-In criminal cases, especially capital punishment cases, the standard of proof is "beyond reasonable doubt". Any reasonable doubt in the prosecution case must result in acquittal. The defense emphasized that the lack of direct evidence, the contradictions in witnesses statements, the absence of conclusive forensic proof, and the possibility of the child accidentally drowning raise reasonable doubts about the appellant's involvement.

D. Last seen Evidence-the last seen theory implies that the person last seen with the victim is presumed to be involved in the crime unless they can provide an explanation. The theory must be used with caution. In this case, witness, Akash Sharma claimed to have seen the accused with the victim near the pond. The defense questioned the credibility of this testimony, especially since the witness did not immediately report this to anyone and the police did not record this statement promptly.

E. Extra-Judicial confession-extra judicial confessions, if reliable, can be used as evidence. However, they need to be corroborated by other facts and circumstances. In this case, two witnesses, were supposed to have heard the accused confess to the crime, but both turned hostile and denied making such statements to the police.

The appeal is allowed. (E-6)

27. This witness further stated that he has seen the dead body of the victim and there was an injury mark on the neck and her intestines were coming of her private part. He has every believe that on 10.7.2020 at about 2:00 pm in the afternoon Prem Singh Prajapati has committed rape of the victim and in order to conceal his offence he threw her in the pond when she was unconscious and due to drowning, she died. In cross examination, he stated that the pond is spread over in 2 bighas of land. He further stated that in regard to the incident, he met the police at the time of preparation of Panchayatnama and thereafter in the evening and after that he never met the police. In cross examination by defence, he further stated that his father's name is Vivek Kumar Sharma, who has a brother by the name Neetu Sharma. Neetu Sharma has no other name. His grandfather's name is Atveer Sharma. Atveer Sharma has no child by the name of Arun Sharma and he do not know whether Neetu Sharma and Arun Sharma are the same person. When asked about a person standing in the court whether Neetu Sharma is father of Shivam Sharma, he said that he is uncle of his village relation. He denied that he has concealing the name of Arun Sharma deliberately. On a question why he did not stop Prem Singh Prajapati when he was carrying victim-K in his lap towards the pond and why he did not raise voice this witness stated that he was in a hurry. He stated that he was one of the Punch of the Panchyatnama alongwith Kunal, Shivam and Devendra Sharma. The opinion was written by Shvam. While preparing Panchayatnama, he has informed the police person present at the spot and he has seen Prem Singh Prajapati carrying victim-K towards the pond in a perturbed condition. This witness further stated that thereafter, the police picked up Prem Singh Prajapati and stated that this fact should not be told to anyone else. This witness stated that he has gone to Delhi during lockdown on a motorcycle and his mobile number is 7289060476. This witness pleaded ignorance that the missing news of the the victim was aired on TV and published in newspapers. He stated that at about 9:30 am, he reached the village and the dead body was recovered at about 11:00 am and when he reached home, his family members informed about missing of victim-K, but he did not inform to any villagers or police person that he has seen Prem Singh Prajapati, taking the victim in a perturbed condition towards the pond. On seeing the dead body in the pond, he informed the police about the aforesaid incident. On a specific question, he stated that he has informed this fact to the police but if the same is not recorded, he can not give any explanation. He further stated that he has not seen Prem Singh Prajapati throwing victim-K in the pond but has only seen him taking her towards pond in a perturbed condition. This fact was told to the Investigating Officer while recording his statement. In the end of cross examination, this witness stated that Neetu Sharma is real paternal uncle, Shivam Sharma is son of Neetu Sharma. Similarly, Ankur Sharma is also son of Neetu Sharma and is real brother of Shivam Sharma. With this relation, deceased 'K' was real grand daughter of my real paternal uncle. However, he has not denied the suggestion that he is making a false statement.

28. Sukh Ram Singh, Sub Inspector (PW-8) stated that on receiving information, he started investigation and reached at the spot and prepared the site plan. This witness her given complete details of the investigation about pasting posters and giving news by beat of drums and other modes and by following a dog squad inspection.

29. He prepared the memo of recovery of dead body. He prepared inquest report, Panchyatnama, which is Ex-Ka-4. Thereafter the other document regarding recovery of dead body, photograph of dead body, letter of CMO for postmortem were prepared which are Ex-KA- 5 to 9. He has also recorded statement of witness Naresh Kumar and Om Prakash in case diary, Site plan of the recovery of dead body was prepared which is Ex-Ka-10. After adding of section 302, 201, 376 IPC and 5(m)/6 of POCSO Act, the further investigation was handed over to the SHO. In further cross examination, he stated that he was present when the dog squad reached to search the victim. The clothes of the victim were kept before the dog squad for smelling and the dog squad led towards the forest area and did not enter anybody's house. This witness stated that the informant at the first instance did not inform him about any doubt. The dog squad could not find any success and thereafter nearby house of Shivam Sharma i.e. of Naresh Sharma and Om Prakash Sharma were also searched and other Gher were also searched. The pond from where the dead body was recovered were 6-8 feet deep and was fully filled with dirty water. The pond was open from all four sides and anybody can have access to the pond. He stated that the Gher of Kailash, Prem, Singh, Pushpendra and Vinod are open towards the pond and no door are fixed on the same. He further stated that on 11.7.2020 they searched for the victim towards the field abutting the forest. He further stated that Arun Sharma stated that the door of his Gher is remained open from about 2-2:30 pm. Victim-K has gone somewhere. He further stated that during his investigation, informant Shivam Sharma did not make any statement that after recovery of the dead body, Naresh and Om Prakash of the village informed him that Prem Singh Prajapati disclosed that after commuting rape of victim, in order to conceal his offence and thrown her in the village pond when she was unconscious. When he reached at the spot and Shivam and his father informed him about recovery of dead body on 12.7.2020, he has not recorded any statement of informant Shivam. He stated that the statement of Arun Sarma recorded was at 9-10 am on 12.7.2020, in which he has not informed that Om Prakash and Naresh had told him that Prem Singh has committed rape of victim-K and thrown her in a pond when she was unconscious.

30. On a specific question whether while preparing the inquest report, Akash Sharma has told that he has seen Prem Singh taking victim-K, carrying her in his lap in a perturbed condition towards the pond. This witness replied, may be he has informed. Again on a pointed question when he was asked whether statement of Akash Sharma was recorded, he stated that he had told computer operator whose name was Adesh, who typed statement of Akash Sharma, but he might had forgotten to write the same. Again on a specific question, whether he has recorded this fact in the Panchyatnama in writing this witness stated that there is no such column in the Panchayatnama where the statement of witness is recorded.

31. This witness further stated that he has for the first time stated in the court during cross examination that Aakash Sharma informed that he had seen the accused taking away the victim.

32. SHO Umesh Kumar Pandey (PW-9) stated that after adding of sections 302, 376 AB, 201 IPC and 5M/6 of the POCSO Act, the further investigation was carried out by him. On 13.07.2020, he along with Prem Singh came in his Gher. From a peg on the wall, Prem Singh gave a dirty white undershirt and stated that he was wearing the same and after washing it he has put it on the Peg. From the undershirt, three hairs were recovered. Then he identified the place where he committed wrong with the victim which was towards the Eastern side of the wall and was wet. He recovered a half sleeves shirt, a blue check lower with a mark Flying Machine and a dirty white coloured, towel clothes/Angosha on which the blood stains were visible were removed by Prem Singh from his body and were taken in possession. He was asked to wear other clothes. The sample of the earth was also taken. All the three hairs were kept in a plastic transparent bag and the clothes were kept in a separate sealed packet. The sample seal was prepared. The recovery memo was dictated to Senior Sub-Inspector-Shubash Singh who scribed the same and thereafter the witnesses signed on the same. On seeing the memo, he stated that it is the same which was exhibited as Ka-11 and was entered in the CD. He has also prepared the Naksha Nazri (site plant) which is Ex.Ka-12. After taking samples for DNA testing, the same was handed over to Head Moharir and he was directed that the DNA sample of the deceased and the accused be sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow immediately. Section 376 AB of IPC was added in place of Section 376 IPC. Thereafter, application for recording statement of accused under Section 164 CrPC was filed before the court on 15.7.2020. The accused was produced before the A.C.J.M., Bulandshahar but the accused refused to record his statement under Section 164 of Cr.P.C.. The DNA sample through Constable Sarfaraz was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow. The statements of other witnesses of Panchayatnama and the police officials who joined the investigation were recorded. The Forensic Science Laboratory was found closed due to Corona. Thereafter, again through Constable Kalraaj, the sample of DNA testing was sent to Lucknow on 19.7.2020. The postmortem report for taking expert opinion and the videography of the spot was sent to Additional Director Medical and Legal Expert, Lucknow. The report of Medical and Legal Expert was received through Constable Sarfraj on 21.7.2020 and, thereafter, Section 5M/6 of the POCSO Act were added. The copy of the same is Ex.Ka-13.

33. In cross examination, this witness stated that statement which was made by Akash Sharma is recorded in the Case Diary at No.9 dated 18.7.2020. Prem Singh was arrested on 13.7.2020 at 11:30 a.m. This witness stated that he has recorded the statement of Akash Sharma only once. He further stated that when he reached the Gher of Prem Singh, it was locked. From the house of Prem Singh, the passage leading to the pond is open and any person has free access. The lock was opened by Prem Singh, however, this fact of opening lock by Prem Singh is told in the court for the first time and it is not recorded in the Case Diary. He denied that arrest memo was not prepared at the spot. From the personal search of accused, no money or Matchbox or tobacco was recovered. In the room, there was a cot and a box. Counsel stated that the fact that the accused was asked to change the clothes inside the room, is also told before the court for the first time. He further stated that Akash Sharma did not inform him that he had seen accused taking away victim 'K' in his left towards pond. He denied that he admitted that Senior Police has come on the spot and under their pressure he had made Prem Singh as an accused. He further stated that till the time the proceedings of Inquest Report was completed, name of none of the accused came forward.

34. Sunil Soni (PW-10) stated that he was posted as a Clerk in the Police Station and has typed the Chik FIR on computer which is Ex.Ka-14. He also entered Rapat No. 44 dated 10.7.2020 at 19.07 p.m. and computerised copy of the GD (Ex. Ka-15). For recording FIR, Shivam Sharma had come on foot and after one hour, the copy of the same was given to him.

35. Thereafter the statement accused-Prem Singh was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and all the incriminating evidence was put to him. He stated that the informant has given a false statement that Om Prakash and Naresh has informed that the appellant has committed rape with the victim and has thrown her in the pond. With regard to the statement of Akash Sharma who had stated to the police on 10.7.2020 at about 2:00 p.m., he had seen Prem Singh carrying the victim towards the pond, is also a false statement. Regarding the police investigation, he stated that the entire proceeding has been done in the police station by making false recovery. On specific question while has has been tried in this case, the accused replied that on account of party faction in the village, he has been falsely implicated by the police to show that the case is quickly solved. The appellant has been implicated in the case on the basis of false fact. When he was asked to explain if anything, he wants to save in defence, accused stated that he has four young daughters and one son. He is a poor man and the police in order to so quickly solving the case, he has been falsely implicated. No defence evidence was laid. Thereafter, the Trial Court by impugned judgment of conviction held the appellant guilty of offence vide order of sentence, awarded him death sentence.

36. The present reference is sent by the Additional Sessions Judge for confirmation of death sentence.

37. Jail appeal is also filed.

38. Lower Court's record is received.

39. Paper books are prepared.

40. Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for appellant, Sri Vibhuti Narayan Mishra, learned counsel for informant and the learned AGA for State are heard and with their assistance, the entire Trial Court's record is scrutinized and reappreciated.

41. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the entire case is based on circumstantial evidence and the complete chain of circumstantial are not complete.

42. With regard to the last seen evidence, it is argued that as per the informant, the victim 'K' aged about two years went missing at about 2:00 p.m. on 10.7.2020. It is further stated that case of the informant that he alongwith his family members and many other persons of the village searches for the minor girl in the houses vicinity including the house of the appellant, however, she could not be traced. Thereafter, a complaint- Tahrir (Exhibit – Ka-A) was given to the police and at about 19:07 hours the chick FIR was registered under Section 363 IPC which is Exhibit-Ka-14.

43. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that in this complaint, no one was suspected. It is argued that while appearing as PW-1, the informant stated that when the dead body of the victim was recovered on 12.7.2020 at about 11:00 a.m., the police was informed which came at the spot, recovered the dead body and prepared the inquest report. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that at that time the victim was wearing all the clothes i.e. a maroon colour t-shirt, green colour nikar and blue colour sleepers. It is further argued that PW-1 stated that he was also a Punch in the inquest report and had signed along with other Punches. After the recovery of the dead body, Naresh and Om Prakash resident of village told him that Prem Singh Prajapati after committing rape with victim 'K', in order to conceal his crime and thrown her in unconscious condition in the pond situated in the back side of the house.

44. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the victim 'K' went missing on 10.7.2020 at about 2:00 p.m. and her dead body was recovered after two days on 12.7.2020 at about 11:30 to 12:00 a.m. and it is unbelievable that in the intervening period, Naresh Singh and Om Prakash did not informed PW-1 that the appellant has committed the offence.

45. Learned counsel has further argued that in cross examination of PW-2, grandfather of the victim that when they were searching for the missing child, Om Prakash, Naresh and Kailash reached immediately after the dead body of child was fond. It is submitted that in such eventuality, it is unbelievable that two witnesses did not inform the informant about role of the appellant.

46. Learned counsel further argued that the story cooked up by the prosecution of last seen from the statement of PW-7 Akash Sharma is totally unbelievable. This witness has stated that on 10.7.2020 at about 2:00 pm, he was coming back from his field to have his lunch at his house when he saw Prem Singh Prajapati in front of his Gher carrying victim-K in his lap and was going towards the pond in a perturbed condition. Thereafter, he informed nobody at his home and went to Delhi for some work and returned on 12.7.2020 and he got information that victim-K is missing and police are searching for her. This witness is a Punch of the Panchyatnama. However, he stated that at the time of Panchyatnama, he has not given aforesaid information regarding role of Prem Singh Prajapati to the police though he has stated that he informed it to the police but the police did not recorded it in his statement.

47. Learned counsel submits that this shows that this witness has cooked up a story of last seen against the appellant. It is also submitted that in the evening after the inquest report was complete, has met the police personnel, but he did not inform them about the incident.

48. Learned counsel further submitted that this witness is not giving correct statement by saying that during Corona he has gone to Delhi on 10.7.2020 and returned back on 12.7.2020 only when the dead body of the victim-K was recovered.

49. Learned counsel submits that this witness is also witness to the recovery of the dead body from the pond. He next submits that the witness intentionally tried to conceal his relationship with the victim as well as the informant by stating that he did not know what is the correct name of Neetu Sharma and denied that his real name is Arun Sharma i.e. PW-1. He even denied his relationship with PW-2 though in the cross examination, this witness clearly admitted that the father of this witness and grandfather of the victim-K are real brothers. Counsel submits that this witness tried to conceal this relationship as he was introduced as witness later on. It is also submitted that on a pointed question regarding informing the Investigating Officer that he has seen Prem Singh Prajapati carrying the victim-K and going towards the Pond in a perturbed condition, he stated that that 'yes' he has informed him but he don't know why this fact was not recorded by the Investigating Officer.

50. Learned counsel submits that this witness is not at all a reliable person.

51. With regard to extra judicial confession, it is argued that both the witnesses of extra judicial confession in clear and unequivocal terms have denied about this fact.

52. It is argued that PW-1 and PW-2 have stated that after the recovery of the dead body, PW-3, Om Prakash and PW-4 Naresh told them that accused Prem Singh Prajapati came to them and admitted his guilt and prayed for mercy. However, while appearing as PW-3, Om Prakash has clearly stated that on 10.7.2020, he came to know that victim aged about two and a half years went missing and he got this information at about 5:16 pm. He clearly stated that on 10.7.2020, he has not seen victim-K going in front of Gher of accused Prem Singh Prajapati and he has no knowledge how she has died. This witness was declared hostile and in cross examination by prosecutor, he further denied having made any such statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. to Investigating Officer from his mobile phone. He denied the suggestion that he and Naresh had seen the victim outside the house of the accused and they have also seen the accused was calling her from 4-5 feet behind. In further cross examination, he stated that neither he nor Naresh or Prem Singh Prajapati did inquire why he was calling victim-K on the date of the incident on which the accused confessed that he took the victim to her Gher and he committed the offence thereafter he pressed her mouth and she become unconscious, he threw her in the pond. This witness also stated that there was no enmity or dispute in the family of the informant and Prem Singh Prajapati. He further stated that police never recorded his statement in this regard. Similarly, statement of PW-4 Naresh, who also denied the incident as well as making a statement to the Investigating Officer on mobile phone regarding the confession made by accused Prem Singh Prajapati. Both the PW-3 and W-4 stated that they came to know that they are witness in the Court only when they received summons.

53. Learned counsel has argued that the statement of these two witnesses prove that PW-8 Akash Sharma is telling lie when he stated that on 10.7.2020, he had seen the accused carrying victim-K in his lap going towards village Pond, with regard to the same date and time, prosecution has set up a case that Om Prakash and Naresh have also seen the accused Prem Singh Prajapati carrying the victim and both these witness have clearly denied this fact.

54. Learned counsel submits that the evidence regarding last seen evidence as well as extra judicial confession are totally missing. It is further argued that name of PW-3, PW-4 or PW-7 were not disclosed appellant as suspect in the complaint which is Ex-KA, by the informant.

55. Learned counsel next argued that it has come in the statement of the prosecution witnesses including the Investigating Officer that the recovery of dead body is from open place, i.e. in a village Pond where the cattle house Anil, Kailash and Prem Singh Prajapati exist.

56. Learned counsel submits that except for the informant none of the witness have stated that they were barbed wire rather it is admitted that any person can have access to the Pond and, therefore, possibility of the minor victim sleeping into the pond can not be ruled out.

57. Learned counsel submits that in the subsequent statement, the informant gave name of three persons as suspect i.e. appellant Prem Singh Prajapati, one Pushpendra Pushi and Vinod though no was named in the first complaint i.e. Ex-KA-1. It is submitted that it has come in the statement of Investigating Officer PW-9 that immediately, all the three persons were arrested. However, nothing has come on the record in the charge sheet what happened to investigation regarding Pushpendra alias Pushi and Vinod. The counsel submits that even these two suspects were not cited as prosecution witness.

58. He next argued that FSL report submitted by the prosecution did not connect the appellant's biological DNA with that of the DNA of the victim K. It is argued that the certain articles were recovered from the possession / pointing out of the appellant, those are the under garments (Baniyan) which was washed and were allegedly worn by the appellant during the commission of the offence and three small hairs were also recovered from the undergarments (Baniyan) of the appellant. The FSL report submitted does not connect the applicant's DNA to that of the deceased and vice versa. The alleged biological strain of male origin found in the vaginal swab on slide and Vulval swab could only generate partial DNA profile and did not match with the DNA generated from the applicant. No DNA examination appears to have been conducted for the three hairs found on the vest (Baniyan).

59. Learned counsel submits that from the rest place of offence on the pointing out of the appellant 'moist earth' was recovered with faded blood stained alongwith half sleeve T-Shirt, Sleepers mark with mud , Gray Colour Towel.

60. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn reference to the F.S.L. Report which read as under :

61. Counsel has also referred to the opinion given by the State Medico Legal Cell, Lucknow which has given cause of death as Asphyxia due to drowning. The opinion given in this report reads as under :

"Opinion- In PMR the protrusion from vaginal orifice of momentum (intestine) proves the vulva and vaginal orifices were lacerated with peritoneum of the deceased. So the (digital) may be penile thrush cannot be excluded."

62. The next argument raised by the counsel for the appellant is that an ante time F.I.R. was lodged on 10.7.2020 at about 19.07 hrs. and name of the appellant was neither disclosed in the first Tehrir (complaint) or chick F.I.R. though it was reported that the victim is not traceable.

63. It is also submitted that during the Trial, both PW-1 and PW-2 stated that huge mob was present at the scene of occurrence along with many political persons and higher police officials including D.I.G and S.S.P. and, therefore, there was pressure on the Investigating Authority to workout the crime quickly and, in that process, the Investigating Officer has illegally named the appellant as accused.

64. It is also submitted that the statement of Akash Sharma (PW-7) is not reliable as this witness had stated that he had seen the deceased carrying the victim in his lap and going towards the pond in a perturbed condition. However, this witness, without verifying the same or informing it to the family of the victim, went to Delhi on the same day after having meal as per his depositions. Counsel submits that there is no explanation given by this witness why he had not disclosed the family of the victim about this fact immediately on 10.7.2020.

65. It is also submitted that PW-7 is not a witness of commission of rape or murder of the victim and he has been introduced just as a link of the circumstantial evidence through the subsequent story, by introducing Om Prakash (PW-3) and Naresh Kumar (PW-4), both the witnesses of extra judicial confession before whom the appellant allegedly confess the commission of crime, however, they have not supported the prosecution story. Counsel argued that all the three witnesses i.e. PW-7, PW-3 and PW-4, as per the prosecution version, had seen the victim in the company of the appellant on 10.7.2020 around the same time but, neither PW-7 has seen PW-3 & PW-4 at the spot at that time nor PW-3 or PW-4 have seen PW-7 at the spot.

66. Counsel submits that even the recovery effected from the appellants, at his pointing out, while he was in custody, did not corroborate the prosecution story and the recovery memo sent for forensic examination did not lead any incriminating discovery.

67. Counsel for the appellant has laid much emphasized on the fact that PW-7 for the first time in the Court has stated the fact that he had seen Prem Singh carrying victim 'K' in his lap and going towards a pond in perturbed condition.

68. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that this improvement cannot be made by the prosecution witness by stating a fact for first time in Court. A reference is drawn to Section 145 of Evidence Act, 1872 which read as under : -

"145. Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing*. – A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing, and relevant to matters in question, without such writing being shown to him, or being proved; but, if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him.*

69. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that since this witness has not made any previous statement before the police under section 161 Cr.P.C. upon which he can be cross examined, the making of such statement for the first time in the Court is not admissible.

A reference is also drawn to Sections 161 and 162 of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 which read as under :

"161. Examination of witnesses by police :-(1) Any police officer making an investigation under this Chapter, or any police officer not below such rank as the State Government may, by general or special order, prescribe in this behalf, acting on the requisition of such officer, may examine orally any person supposed to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case.

(2) Such person shall be bound to answer truly all questions relating to such case put to him by such officer, other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge or to a penalty or forfeiture.

(3) The police officer may reduce into writing any statement made to him in the course of an examination under this section; and if he does so, he shall make a separate and true record of the statement of each such person whose statement he records.

[Provided that statement made under this sub-section may also be recorded by audio-video electronic means.]

[Provided further that the statement of a woman against whom an offence under section 354, section 376A, section1 376AB, section 376B, section 376C, section 376D, section 376DA, section 376DB, section 376E or section 509 of The Indian Penal Code is alleged to have been committed or attempted, shall be recorded, by a woman police officer or any woman officer."

162. Statements to police not to be signed : Use of statements in evidence . -(1) No statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, "whether in a police diary or otherwise," or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made:*

Provided that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the Court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act , 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross-examination.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the provisions of clause (1) of section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); or to affect the provisions of section 27 of that Act.

Explanation.--An omission to state a fact or circumstance in the statement referred to in sub-section (1) may amount to contradiction if the same appears to be significant and otherwise relevant having regard to the context in which such omission occurs and whether any omission amounts to a contradiction in the particular context shall be a question of fact."

It is argued that in the absence of any statement of PW-7 recorded by the Investigating Officer in terms of Section 161 of Cr.P.C., PW-7 could not make such improvised statement for the first time while recoding his examination-in-chief.

70. It is also submitted that the prosecution version of extra judicial confession also stands falsified from the fact that if the appellant had made extra judicial confession of committing rape upon victim and throwing her in the pond, if came to the notice of the Investigating Agency, still dead body was not recovered on the pointing out of the appellant.

71. It is submitted that place of occurrence is a cattle house (gher of appellant) and there is no door either in front of this cattle house or on the back side leading to the pond and there is ample chance that any person may have access to scene of occurrence and commit offence as suggested to the prosecution witness. It is also submitted that there is no barbed wire or gate on the cattle house.

72. Counsel has lastly argued that appellant is a poor agricultural labour as admitted by the prosecution witnesses and the Investigating Officer. He has four daughters and a son. The eldest child was 9 years of age at the time of incident. Counsel submits that he was found to be an easy prey by the Investigating Agency in order to hush up the investigation under the pressure as political person and senior police officers were monitoring the investigation.

73. Counsel submits that it has come in prosecution evidence that three persons namely Pushpendra alias Pushi, Vinod and appellant were suspected, however, the entire investigation is silent that after the arrest of all the three persons what investigation was carried out with regard to other two persons and in what manner they were found to be innocent. Nothing has come on record as to what type of investigation was carried out against these two persons and, therefore, the appellant has been falsely implicated.

74. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that it is also provided under Section 162 Cr.P.C. that statement recorded by the Police under Section 161 Cr.P.C. can be used by the accused to contradict or confront such witness in the manner provided under Section 145 of Evidence Act, 1872. It is further submitted that even in case of PW-3 and PW-4, no statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded as it has come in the statement that Investigating Officer (PW-10) that he has only recorded the case diary on receiving a telephonic call from PW-3 and PW-4. Even no statement is recorded by using audio-video electronic means recording statement of i.e. PW-3 & PW-4 if they had given any information on mobile phone to Investigating Officer.

75. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that Section 172(3) of Cr.P.C. provides that neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for such case diary and, therefore, in the absence of any separate statement of PW-3, PW-4 & PW-7 recorded by the Investigating Officers under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the statement made by PW-7 by improving the facts cannot be read in evidence as the right of accused is prejudiced as he has no right to call for the case diary of the Police for confronting the witnesses.

76. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that though PW-10 has given an explanation that he has dictated the statement made by PW-7 to the typist named Adesh Panchang who prepared the same, had omitted to write it, the same is a mistake. Learned counsel submits that this typist named Adesh Panchang was never cited as a prosecution witness to explain it.

77. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that S.I. Sukhpal Singh (PW-8) stated that for the first time, he has said so in his cross examination in the Court that Akash Sharma told him that he had seen the accused carrying the victim and he has not stated so in examination-in-chief.

78. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the FIR is ante-timed as nothing has come on record that after registration of FIR on 10.7.2020, till recovery of dead body of the victim any investigation was carried out by the Police and in fact the FIR was registered only after the recovery of dead body on 12.7.2020.

79. In reply, learned AGA for State submits that as per the opinion given by State Medico Legal Cell, Lucknow with reference to the PMR, it has submitted that this opinion clearly show that the victim 'K' was subjected to rape. It is next contended that even the injuries as noticed in postmortem report also suggests that she was subjected to rape as PW-6, the doctor who conducted the postmortem has given a definite opinion that the possibility of the rape cannot be ruled out, however, the same will be ascertained on receiving the FSL report.

80. Learned counsel then referred to the FSL report wherein, it is opined that Exhibits -2 & 3 (of victim 'K') in the source of biological cerium, male allele is found but only partial DNA profile was generated and, therefore, it is not possible to give an opinion regarding matching of the same with the source (one Prem Singh).

81. Learned AGA for State has further argued that during the course of investigation, the police wanted to record the statement of accused under Section 164 Cr.P.C. but he has refused to give consent. A reference is also drawn to the last line of examination-in-chief of PW-3 where he has stated that accused should be punished. It is next argued that from the statement of PW-6, the doctor who conducted the postmortem, it has come that possibility of rape cannot be ruled out and the same was proved from the DNA result.

82. Learned AGA for State has further argued that it is a normal practices in State of Uttar Pradesh that the statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. are recorded in the case diary only. It is further argued that the recovery of dead body is just on the back side of the Gher (cattle House) of accused where the access can be made through his Gher. It is contended that after the arrest of the accused, upon his discloser, the clothes worn by him at the time of commission of offence were recovered and from the under shirt/ Baniyan, three hairs were recovered and as per FSL report, the same matched with the blood sample of the appellant.

83. Learned AGA for State has further submitted that the discloser can be either verbally or written or by gesture. It is submitted that Akash Sharma (PW-7) is a witness of recovery who is an independent witness.

84. Learned counsel appearing for informant has argued that the chain of circumstances is complete as from the statement of PW-7, the last seen evidence is proved and from the statements of PW-3 and PW-4, the extra judicial confession made by the appellant is followed by the recovery of clothes from him. It is also submitted that mere fact that Akash Sharma is a relative of the informant, is not a ground to discard his statement.

85. Learned counsel for the informant has further argued that it has come in the statement of PW-3 & PW-4 that before coming to Court, they had gone to meet an advocate of their village and thereafter they had come to record their statement. This shows that both these witnesses are won over by the accused.

86. In reply, learned counsel for appellant submits that from the statement of Investigating Officer it is clear that the pond has an open access for all and as per medical dictionary 'Allele' means as under:-

"An allele is one of two or more versions of DNA sequence (a single base or a segment of bases) at a given genomic location. An individual inherits two alleles, one from each parent, for any given genomic location where such variation exists. If the two alleles are the same, the individual is homozygous for that allele. If the alleles are different, the individual is heterozygous"

It is submitted that D.N.A. report nowhere prove the case of prosecution.

87. Learned counsel for appellant submits that in fact both PW-3 and PW-4 have stated that they came to know about, they being prosecution witness only when they received summons from the Court and, therefore, in ordinary course, if they met an advocate of their village to know about the case, no adverse inference can be drawn in this regard.

88. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the confession setup by the prosecution being a deficient evidence, if not proved cannot be used against the appellant.

89. It would be relevant to refer to certain judgment of Supreme Court of India on scientific investigation of DNA.

90. In Dharam Deo Yadav vs. State of U.P., 2014 (3) Apex Court Judgements (SC) 125, it is observed as under :

33. We are in this case concerned with the acceptability of the DNA report, the author of which (PW21) was the Chief of DNA Printing Lab, CDFD, Hyderabad. The qualifications or expertise of PW21 was never in doubt. The method he adopted for DNA testing was STR analysis. Post-mortem examination of the body remains (skeleton) of Diana was conducted by Dr. C.B. Tripathi, Professor and Head of Department of Forensic Medical I.M.S., B.H.U., Varanasi. For DNA analysis, one femur and one humerus bones were preserved so as to compare with blood samples of Allen Jack Routley. In cases where skeleton is left, the bones and teeth make a very important source of DNA. Teeth, as often noticed is an excellent source of DNA, as it forms a natural barrier against exogenous DNA contamination and are resistant to environmental assaults. The blood sample of the father of Diana was taken in accordance with the set up precept and procedure for DNA isolation test and the same was sent along with taken out femur and humerus bones of recovered skeleton to the Centre for D.N.A. Fingerprinting and Diagnostics (CDFD), Ministry of Science and Technology, Government of India, Hyderabad. PW21, as already indicated, conducted the DNA Isolation test on the basis of samples of blood of Routley and femur and humerus bones of skeleton and submitted his report dated 28.10.1998. DNA Fingerprinting analysis was carried out by STR analysis and on comparison of STR profile of Routley. When DNA profile of sample found at the scene of crime matches with DNA profile of the father, it can be concluded that both the samples are biologically the same.

34. The DNA stands for deoxyribonucleic acid, which is the biological blueprint of every life. DNA is made-up of a double standard structure consisting of a deoxyribose sugar and phosphate backbone, cross-linked with two types of nucleic acids referred to as adenine and guanine, purines and thymine and cytosine pyrimidines. The most important role of DNA profile is in the identification, such as an individual and his blood relations such as mother, father, brother, and so on. Successful identification of skeleton remains can also be performed by DNA profiling.

DNA usually can be obtained from any biological material such as blood, semen, saliva, hair, skin, bones, etc. The question as to whether DNA tests are virtually infallible may be a moot question, but the fact remains that such test has come to stay and is being used extensively in the investigation of crimes and the Court often accepts the views of the experts, especially when cases rest on circumstantial evidence. More than half a century, samples of human DNA began to be used in the criminal justice system. Of course, debate lingers over the safeguards that should be required in testing samples and in presenting the evidence in Court. DNA profile, however, is consistently held to be valid and reliable, but of course, it depends on the quality control and quality assurance procedures in the laboratory. Close relatives have more genes in common than individuals and various procedures have been proposed for dealing with a possibility that true source of forensic DNA is of close relative. So far as this case is concerned, the DNA sample got from the skeleton matched with the blood sample of the father of the deceased and all the sampling and testing have been done by experts whose scientific knowledge and experience have not been doubted in these proceedings. We have, therefore, no reason to discard the evidence of PW19, PW20 and PW21. Prosecution has, therefore, succeeded in showing that the skeleton recovered from the house of the accused was that of Diana daughter of Allen Jack Routley and it was none other than the accused, who had strangulated Diana to death and buried the dead body in his house.

91. Similar View is taken in Mukesh and Anr. Vs. State of NCT of Delhi, 2017 AIR (SC) 2161. The operative portion of the order read as under :

"443. Before considering the above findings of DNA analysis contained in tabular form, let me first refer to what is DNA, the infallibility of identification by DNA profiling and its accuracy with certainty. DNA – De- oxy-ribonucleic acid, which is found in the chromosomes of the cells of living beings, is the blueprint of an individual. DNA is the genetic blue print for life and is virtually contained in every cell. No two persons, except identical twins have ever had identical DNA. DNA profiling is an extremely accurate way to compare a suspect's DNA with crime scene specimens, victim's DNA on the blood-stained clothes of the accused or other articles recovered, DNA testing can make a virtually positive identification when the two samples match. A DNA finger print is identical for every part of the body, whether it is the blood, saliva, brain, kidney or foot on any part of the body. It cannot be changed; it will be identical no matter what is done to a body. Even relatively minute quantities of blood, saliva or semen at a crime scene or on clothes can yield sufficient material for analysis. The Experts opine that the identification is almost hundred per cent precise. Using this i.e. chemical structure of genetic information by generating DNA profile of the individual, identification of an individual is done like in the traditional method of identifying finger prints of offenders. Finger prints are only on the fingers and at times may be altered. Burning or cutting a finger can change the make of the finger print. But DNA cannot be changed for an individual no matter whatever happens to a body.

444. We may usefully refer to Advanced Law Lexicon, 3rd Edition Reprint 2009 by P. Ramanatha Aiyar which explains DNA as under:-

"DNA.- De-oxy-ribonucleic acid, the nucleoprotein of chromosomes. The double-helix structure in cell nuclei that carries the genetic information of most living organisms.

The material in a cell that makes up the genes and controls the cell. (Biological Term)

DNA finger printing*. A method of identification especially for evidentiary purposes by analyzing and comparing the DNA from tissue samples. (Merriam Webster)"*

In the same Law Lexicon, learned author refers to DNA identification as under:

DNA identification*. A method of comparing a person's deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) – a patterned chemical structure of genetic information – with the DNA in a biological specimen (such as blood, tissue, or hair) to determine if the person is the source of the specimen. – Also termed DNA finger printing; genetic finger printing (Black, 7th Edition, 1999)*

445. DNA evidence is now a predominant forensic technique for identifying criminals when biological tissues are left at the scene of crime or for identifying the source of blood found on any articles or clothes etc. recovered from the accused or from witnesses. DNA testing on samples such as saliva, skin, blood, hair or semen not only helps to convict the accused but also serves to exonerate. The sophisticated technology of DNA finger printing makes it possible to obtain conclusive results. Section 53A Cr.P.C. is added by the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2005. It provides for a detailed medical examination of accused for an offence of rape or attempt to commit rape by the registered medical practitioners employed in a hospital run by the Government or by a local authority or in the absence of such a practitioner within the radius of 16 kms. from the place where the offence has been committed by any other registered medical practitioner.

446. Observing that DNA is scientifically accurate and exact science and that the trial court was not justified in rejecting DNA report, in Santosh Kumar Singh v. State through CBI (2010) 9 SCC 747, the Court held as under:-

"65. We now come to the circumstance with regard to the comparison of the semen stains with the blood taken from the appellant. The trial court had found against the prosecution on this aspect. In this connection, we must emphasise that the court cannot substitute its own opinion for that of an expert, more particularly in a science such as DNA profiling which is a recent development.
66. Dr. Lalji Singh in his examination-in-chief deposed that he had been involved with the DNA technology ever since the year 1974 and he had returned to India from the UK in 1987 and joined CCMB, Hyderabad and had developed indigenous methods and techniques for DNA finger printing which were now being used in this country. We also see that the expertise and experience of Dr. Lalji Singh in his field has been recognised by this Court in Kamalanantha v. State of T.N. (2005) 5 SCC 194 We further notice that CW 1 Dr. G.V. Rao was a scientist of equal repute and he had in fact conducted the tests under the supervision of Dr. Lalji Singh. It was not even disputed before us during the course of arguments that these two scientists were persons of eminence and that the laboratory in question was also held in the highest esteem in India.

67. The statements of Dr. Lalji Singh and Dr. G.V. Rao reveal that the samples had been tested as per the procedure developed by the laboratory, that the samples were sufficient for the purposes of comparison and that there was no possibility of the samples having been contaminated or tampered with. The two scientists gave very comprehensive statements supported by documents that DNA of the semen stains on the swabs and slides and the underwear of the deceased and the blood samples of the appellant was from a single source and that source was the appellant.

68. It is significant that not a single question was put to PW Dr. Lalji Singh as to the accuracy of the methodology or the procedure followed for the DNA profiling. The trial court has referred to a large number of textbooks and has given adverse findings on the accuracy of the tests carried out in the present case. We are unable to accept these conclusions as the court has substituted its own opinion ignoring the complexity of the issue on a highly technical subject, more particularly as the questions raised by the court had not been put to the expert witnesses. In Bhagwan Das v. State of Rajasthan AIR 1957 SC 589 it has been held that it would be a dangerous doctrine to lay down that the report of an expert witness could be brushed aside by making reference to some text on that subject without such text being put to the expert.

71. We feel that the trial court was not justified in rejecting the DNA report, as nothing adverse could be pointed out against the two experts who had submitted it. We must, therefore, accept the DNA report as being scientifically accurate and an exact science as held by this Court in Kamti Devi v. Poshi Ram (2001) 5 SCC 311. In arriving at its conclusions the trial court was also influenced by the fact that the semen swabs and slides and the blood samples of the appellant had not been kept in proper custody and had been tampered with, as already indicated above. We are of the opinion that the trial court was in error on this score. We, accordingly, endorse the conclusions of the High Court on Circumstance 9." [emphasis added].

447. ……..xxx……..

448. DNA profile generated from the blood samples of accused Ram Singh matched with the DNA profile generated from the rectal swab of the victim. Blood as well as human spermatozoa was detected in the underwear of the accused Ram Singh (dead) and DNA profile generated therefrom was found to be female in origin, consistent with that of the victim. Likewise, the DNA profile generated from the breast swab of the victim was found consistent with the DNA profile of the accused Akshay."

92. In Ravi s/o of Ashok Ghumare Vs. State of Maharashtra, 2019 AIR (SC) 5170, the Supreme Court has observed as under :

"34. The unshakable scientific evidence which nails the appellant from all sides, is sought to be impeached on the premise that the method of DNA analysis "Y-STR" followed in the instant case is unreliable. It is suggested that the said method does not accurately identify the accused as the perpetrator; and unlike other methods say autosomal-STR analysis, it cannot distinguish between male members in the same lineage.

35. We are, however, not swayed by the submission. The globally acknowledged medical literature coupled with the statement of P.W.11 – Assistant Director, Forensic Science Laboratory leaves nothing mootable that in cases of sexual assualt, DNA of the victim and the perpetrator are often mixed. Traditional DNA analysis techniques like "autosomal- STR" are not possible in such cases. Y-STR method provides a unique way of isolating only the male DNA by comparing the Y-Chromosome which is found only in males. It is no longer a matter of scientific debate that Y-STR screening is manifestly useful for corroboration in sexual assault cases and it can be well used as excalpatory evidence and is extensively relied upon in various jurisdictions throughout the world. 1&2. Science and Researches have emphatically established that chances of degradation of the `Loci' in samples are lesser by this method and it can be more effective than other traditional methods of DNA analysis. Although Y-STR does not distinguish between the males of same lineage, it can, nevertheless, may be used as a strong circumstantial evidence to support the prosecution case. Y-STR techniques of DNA analysis are both regularly used in various jurisdictions for identification of offender in cases of sexual assault and also as a method to identify suspects in unsolved cases. Considering the perfect match of the samples and there being nothing to discredit the

2"Forensic DNA Evidence: Science and the Law", authored by Justice Ming W. Chin, Michael Chamberlain, A,y Roja, Lance Gima.

DNA analysis process, the probative value of the forensic report as well as the statement of P.W.11 are very high. Still further, it is not the case of the appellant that crime was committed by some other close relative of him. Importantly, no other person was found present in the house except the appellant.

36. There is thus overwhelming eye-witness account, circumstantial evidence, medical evidence and DNA analysis on record which conclusively proves that it is the appellant and he alone, who is guilty of committing the horrendous crime in this case. We, therefore, unhesitatingly uphold the conviction of the appellant."

93. In Manoj and others vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2022) SCC Online SC 677, the Supreme Court has observed as under :

"138. During the hearing, an article published by the Central Forensic Science Laboratory, Kolkata40 was relied upon. The relevant extracts of the article are reproduced below:

"Deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA} is genetic material present in the nuclei of cells of living organisms. An average human body is composed of about 100 trillion of cells. DNA is present in the nucleus of cell as double helix, supercoiled to form chromosomes along with Intercalated proteins. Twenty- three pairs of chromosomes present In each nucleated cells and an individual Inherits 23 chromosomes from mother and 23 from father transmitted through the ova and sperm respectively. At the time of each cell division, chromosomes replicate and one set goes to each daughter cell. All Information about Internal organisation, physical characteristics, and physiological functions of the body is encoded in DNA molecules in a language (sequence) of alphabets of four nucleotides or bases: Adenine (A), Guanine (G}, Thymine (T} and Cytosine (C) along with sugar- phosphate backbone. A human haploid cell contains 3 billion bases approx. All cells of the body have exactly same DNA but it varies from individual to Individual in the sequence of nucleotides. Mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA} found in large number of copies in the mitochondria is circular, double stranded, 16,569 base pair in length and shows maternal inheritance. It is particularly useful in the study of people related through the maternal line. Also being in large number of copies than nuclear DNA, it can be used in the analysis of degraded samples. Similarly, the Y chromosome shows paternal inheritance and is employed to trace the male lineage and resolve DNA from males in sexual assault mixtures. Only 0.1 % of DNA (about 3 million bases} differs from one person to another. Forensic DNA Scientists analyse only few variable regions to generate a DNA profile of an individual to compare with biological clue materials or control samples.

…… DNA Profiling Methodology DNA profile is generated from the body fluids, stains, and other biological specimen recovered from evidence and the results are compared with the results obtained from reference samples. Thus, a link among victim(s) and/or suspect(s) with one another or with crime scene can be established. DNA Profiling Is a complex process of analyses of some highly variable regions of DNA. The variable areas of DNA are termed Genetic Markers. The current genetic markers of choice for forensic purposes are Short Tandem Repeats (STRs). Analysis of a set of 15 STRs employing Automated DNA Sequencer gives a DNA Profile unique to an Individual (except monozygotic twin). Similarly, STRs present on Y chromosome (Y- STR) can also be used in sexual assault cases or determining paternal lineage. In cases of sexual assaults, Y-STRs are helpful in detection of male profile even in the presence of high level of female portion or in case of azoo11permic or vasectomized" male. Cases In which DNA had undergone environmental stress and biochemical degradation, min lSTRs can be used for over routine STR because of shorter amplicon size.

DNA Profiling is a complicated process and each sequential step involved in generating a profile can vary depending on the facilities available In the laboratory. The analysis principles, however, remain similar, which include:

1. isolation, purification & quantitation of DNA

2. amplification of selected genetic markers

3. visualising the fragments and genotyping

4. statistical analysis & interpretation.

In DNA analysis, variations in Hypervariable Region I & II (HVR I & II) are detected by sequencing and comparing results with control samples:….

Statistical Analysis

A typical DNA case involves comparison of evidence samples, such as semen from a rape, and known or reference samples, such as a blood sample from a suspect. Generally, there are three possible outcomes of profile comparison:

1) Match: If the DNA profiles obtained from the two samples are indistinguishable, they are said to have matched.

2) Exclusion: If the comparison of profiles shows differences, it can only be explained by the two samples originating from different sources.

3) Inconclusive: The data does not support a conclusion Of the three possible outcomes, only the "match" between samples needs to be supported by statistical calculation. Statistics attempt to provide meaning to the match. The match statistics are usually provided as an estimate of the Random Match Probability (RMP) or in other words, the frequency of the particular DNA profile in a population.

In case of paternity/maternity testing, exclusion at more than two loci is considered exclusion. An allowance of 1 or 2 loci possible mutations should be taken Into consideration while reporting a match. Paternity of Maternity Indices and Likelihood Ratios are calculated further to support the match.

Collection and Preservation of Evidence If DNA evidence is not properly documented, collected, packaged, and preserved, It will not meet the legal and scientific requirements for admissibility in. a court of law. Because extremely small samples of DNA can be used as evidence, greater attention to contamination issues is necessary while locating, collecting, and preserving DNA evidence can be contaminated when DNA from another source gets mixed with DNA relevant to the case. This can happen when someone sneezes or coughs over the evidence or touches his/her mouth, nose, or other part of the face and then touches area that may contain the DNA to be tested. The exhibits having biological specimen, which can establish link among victim(s), suspect(s), scene of crime for solving the case should be Identified, preserved, packed and sent for DNA Profiling."

139. In an earlier judgment, R v Dohoney & Adams the UK Court of Appeal laid down the following guidelines concerning the procedure for introducing DNA evidence in trials: (1) the scientist should adduce the evidence of the DNA comparisons together with his calculations of the random occurrence ratio; (2) whenever such evidence is to be adduced, the Crown (prosecution) should serve upon the defence details as to how the calculations have been carried out, which are sufficient for the defence to scrutinise the basis of the calculations; (3) the Forensic Science Service should make available to a defence expert, if requested, the databases upon which the calculations have been based.

140. The Law Commission of India in its report, observed as follows:

"DNA evidence involves comparison between genetic material thought to come from the person whose identity is in issue and a sample of genetic material from a known person. If the samples do not 'match', then this will prove a lack of identity between the known person and the person from whom the unknown sample originated. If the samples match, that does not mean the identity is conclusively proved. Rather, an expert will be able to derive from a database of DNA samples, an approximate number reflecting how often a similar DNA "profile" or "fingerprint" is found. It may be, for example, that the relevant profile is found in 1 person in every 100,000: This is described as the 'random occurrence ratio' (Phipson 1999).

Thus, DNA may be more useful for purposes of investigation but not for raising any presumption of identity in a court of law."

94. After hearing the counsel for the parties, we find that the finding recorded by the Trial Court at point 'A' regarding the age and identity of the deceased-victim 'K' is correct and same is upheld.

1. Nature of commission of Offence :- Similarly, the finding recorded by the Trial Court at point 'B' regarding the nature of commission of offence is also upheld that victim 'K' aged about 02 years was subjected to penetrative sexual assault. The Trial Court has recorded a finding that it is very unfortunate that the special Forensic Science Lab has though recorded a finding regarding presence of male allele yet due to partial generation of DNA profile, it is observed that it is not possible to match the same with source Ex-1 i.e. the blood sample of the accused. The Trial Court has also recorded that the Forensic Science Lab by not giving a definite report has escaped the official duty. We therefore, uphold the finding of the Trial Court that as per Postmortem Report (Ex.Ka.-7), the cause of death of victim-K was drowning in a pond after she was subjected to sexual assault.

At point 'C', (1) the Trial Court recorded a finding that on 10.7.2020, the Victim went missing and an F.I.R. was registered at 19.07 hrs, however, the name of the accused was not mentioned. Since the victim was a child of two years, the F.I.R. was registered under Section 363 IPC as a child of such a young and tender age cannot go missing on her own. Therefore, the Trial Court has rightly recorded this finding.

(2) Recovery of Dead body: The Trial Court has rightly recorded that the dead body was recovered on 12.7.2020 and thereafter, Inquest Report/Punchayatnama was done, videography was done and the dead body was sent for postmortem which was conducted on the same day at about 5.00 pm.

(3) Reliability of Prosecution Witnesses : The Trial Court has recorded that all the prosecution witnesses specially PW-3, PW-4 & PW-5, even if belongs to the same village and the same caste and community, their testimony cannot be disbelieved.

At point (4), the Trial Court recorded that even though the three witnesses namely, PW-3, PW-4, PW-5, were declared hostile, however the same does not affect the prosecution version is not the correct appreciation.

95. However, we do not agree with the finding recorded by the Trial Court regarding indictment of accused-appellant in commission of the offence.

96. We record our finding contrary to the finding recorded by the Trial Court for the following reasons:

1-A. Akash Sharma (PW-7) is the main witness on whom the defence has led much stress that this witness is not a reliable witness. In the opening part of his examination-in-chief, this witness, with regard to relationship with the informant (PW-1) and grand father of victim 'K'. PW-2 has clearly denied any relationship so much so to the extent that victim-K was in fact daughter of his real paternal uncle who is son of PW-2. However, at the fag end of the cross examination, this witness admitted that Arun Sharma (PW-2) is his real grand father and victim-K is daughter of Ankur Sharma and the grand daughter Atvir Sharma and thus she is his niece.

The reason for concealing the relationship with PW-1 and PW-2 is apparent on record as Firstly PW-7 has set up the evidence of last seen and stated that on 10.7.2020 at about 2.00 pm, he was coming back from his field to have lunch and when he reached out side the cattle shed (gher) of Prem Singh, he was carrying victim-K in his lap and in a perturbed condition was going towards the pond. The reason to conceal the relationship with PW-1 and PW-2 (his own grand father) is that PW-7 could not give any explanation that if he has seen the minor girl (his niece) aged two years in the lap of a stranger i.e. accused-Prem Singh who in a perturbed condition was carrying her towards the pond, he would have immediately responded to the situation. Since this story was cooked up later on, in order to avoid giving explanation to such situation, PW-7 concealed the relationship with PW-1 and PW-2.

Secondly, the subsequent part of statement of this witness is also not trustworthy when he states that thereafter he had lunch and went to Delhi for some work. It was Corona period at that time and this witness stated that he had gone to Delhi on motorcycle as lock of his rented house at Delhi was broken. He returned back on 12.7.2020 at about 9-10.00 AM i.e. the date when the dead body of the victim-K was recovered at 11.30 AM. It is unbelievable that from 10.7.2012 till 12.7.2020 this witness has no knowledge that his niece Victim-K is missing and not only senior police officials like D.I.G., S.S.P. but the whole village was searching for her, therefore, the first version of last seen evidence given by this witness becomes highly doubtful.

Thirdly, this witness states that he had seen the dead body of victim and informed PW-1 in this regard. Arun Sharma (PW-2) real uncle of PW-7 stated that he got this information from Akash Sharma (PW-7). Thereafter, PW-7 also was also a witness to the Panchayatnama/Inquest Report along with four other persons. In cross examination, this witness stated that he has informed the police after recovery of the dead body that on 10.7.2020, he had seen Prem Singh carrying victim-K towards the pond. However, he admitted that no such statement was recorded by the police and he cannot tell its reason. This also falsify the evidence of last seen set up by PW-7.

Fourthly, this witness further stated in examination-in-chief that he has every reason to believe that on 10.7.2020 at about 2.00 pm, Prem Singh committed rape with victim-K and to conceal his offence has thrown her in pond situated on the backside of his cattle shed (gher). Again at the cost of repetition, looking at the close relationship of this witness with PW-2 as well as victim-K, it is unbelievable that for a period of two days he was staying in Delhi and did not inform the aforesaid last seen evidence to anyone in the village including the informant.

It is worth noticing a perusal of the zimni order dated 26.08.2021 passed by the Trial Court shows an application was moved on behalf of defence to summon the call details regarding mobile phone of PW-7 and his location of the aforesaid three days. However, the said was declined by the Trial Judge on the ground that same has been filed at a very delayed stage.

This witness stated that even at the time of preparation of inquest report, he has informed the police about the last seen of victim-K with Prem Singh but the same was not recorded.

Fifthly, yet another reason to disbelieve the testimony of PW-7 is that he had stated that at about 2:00 pm on 10.7.2020 he had seen Prem Singh Prajapati carrying victim-K in his lap going towards the pond. This date and time coincide with the date and time set up by prosecution through two witnesses of extra judicial confession i.e. PW-3 Om Prakash and PW-4 , though both these witnesses were declared hostile and did not support prosecution version but the case as projected by the prosecution is that first PW-3 and PW-4 had seen victim K going on foot in front of Gher/cattle shed of Prem Singh Prajapati and the accused was seen following her 4-5 steps behind. The times set up by the prosecution of seeing victim K by PW7 and PW-3 and PW-4 coincides but all these witnesses have not seen each other at the relevant time which makes presence of PW-7 at the spot doubtful. Even PW-9 Umesh Kumar, the second Investigating Officer, in cross examination has clearly stated that Akash Sharma did not inform him that he had seen the accused carrying victim-K in his lap going towards the pond. Similar is deposition of PW-8 Sukh Ram Singh, Sub Inspector who also stated that for the first time in Court he has stated this fact, in cross examination that Akash Sharma had seen the accused taking the victim-K. The site plan/ Naksa Nazri prepared by the Investigating Officer as Exhibit Ka-3, Ka-10 & Ka-12 show that at point B where the dead body was recovered is more closer to the house of one Kailash which is situated on the western side of Gher of Prem Singh Prajapati.

Lastly, PW-8 – Sukh Ram Singh, Sub Inspector, for the first time, has set up a new version in the Court when in cross examination, to a specific question whether while preparing inquest report, Akash Sharma told him about the fact that Prem Singh Prajapati while in perturbed condition was taking victim-K towards pond, this witness replied may be so informed. Again on question if said information was given by Akash Sharma and his statement was recorded, PW-8 replied that I have told this to computer operator named as Adesh Panchang and maybe due to omission, he forgot to record the same. Another question asked to this witness was whether while preparing inquest report, the aforesaid factum of Prem Singh Prajapati carrying victim-K towards pond was recorded in Panchyatnama in writing, this witness replied that there is no such column in Panchayatnama to record it. Statement of PW-8 also makes it clear that, in fact, no such statement was made by PW-7 to him regarding role of the appelant otherwise this primary evidence would have been immediately taken notice and recorded in the statement of Akash Sharma. By mere saying that it is an omission on the part of computer operator Adesh Panchang is unbelievable as even the computer operator is not examined to explain the omission on his part. It has been held by the Supreme Court in Javed Shaukat Ali Qureshi vs. State of Gujarat, (2023) 9 SCC 164 while relying upon earlier judgment in Vadivelu Thevar Vs. State of Madras, 1957 0 AIR (SC) 614 that generally speaking, oral testimony of a witness can be classified into three categories namely (i) Wholly reliable; (ii) Wholly unreliable and (iii) Neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. Therefore, this Court finds that the statement of PW-7 is not at all reliable qua the evidence of last seen of accused with victim.

1-B. Credibility of PW-3 Om Prakash and PW-4 Naresh and PW-5- Rakesh Giri qua extra judicial confession of accused.

All these witnesses did not support the prosecution version to prove the extra judicial confession made by the accused/appellant before them as set up by the prosecution.

PW-3 clearly stated that he is resident of the same village and know Prem Singh Prajapati. He also stated that he knew and could identify the deceased victim-K, who is daughter of Ankur Sharma. He stated that in evening about 5:00 pm he came to know that victim-K has gone missing and clearly stated in examination-in-chief that on 10.7.2020, he had not seen victim-K in front of cattle shed/Gher of the accused and has no knowledge about the cause of her death. This witness was declared hostile and in cross examination by the public prosecutor, he stated that when senior police officers had come in search of the victim, he was present in the village and police inquired from him as well. He further stated that at the time of recovery of dead body on 12.7.2020, he was present at the spot, but police did not record his statement. The statement of this witness recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in case diary in original was confronted to him, but he denied the same. He even denied that from his mobile number, he has informed the SHO that on 10.7.2020 in front of Gher/Cattle shed of the accused, he met PW-4 Naresh and both of them had seen victim-K, aged 2 years, coming on foot and accused was calling him from 4-5 feet behind. This witness further denied that on 12.7.2020, PW-4 called him at his home and asked him that since they have seen Prem Singh Prajapati following victim-K at the date of offence, therefore, both of them should call accused and inquire from him why he was following victim-K. This witness further denied that Prem Singh Prajapati in front of him and PW-4 Naresh beg pardon touching their feet and by saying that he has committed wrong and he has called victim-K to play with a lamb and out of lust, he committed wrong with victim and when she cried, he pressed her mouth and she became unconscious and due to fear he had thrown her in the pond. This witness denied the suggestion that on mobile phone that he has given this information to the SHO.

This witness stated that there is no enmity in the family of the informant and the accused. In cross examination by the defence counsel, this witness stated that police never recorded his statement.

Similar is the statement of PW-4, who was also declared hostile are stated on the same line as stated by PW-3. This witness stated that about one month ago, he came to know that he is witness in the court when he received the summon from the Court. In cross examination by the public prosecutor again similar suggestion regarding giving information to the SHO from his mobile number and recording of his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in case diary was denied.

This witness further stated that victim-K did not come to his house on 10.7.2020 at about 11:00 am and about 1:00 pm his son Kunal dropped her at her home. Both these witness have stated that before coming to the Court they had met an advocate of their village and thereafter they come to depose in the Court. Trial court has taken adverse view of this fact that after due legal consultation they have not supported the prosecution version, whereas the suggestion given to them in this regard by the public prosecutor was denied rather both the witness stated that they came to know that they are witness in the Court when they received the summon from the Court, and therefore, meeting an advocate may be to find out the nature of case in which they have been summoned by the Court and no adverse inference can be drawn.

Apparently, neither in the examination-in-chief nor in cross examination by ADGC, regarding their statement recorded in the case diary purported to be statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., both the witness denied that they have made any such statement.

So far as the statement of PW-5-Rakesh Giri is concerned even this witness stated he has not seen Prem Singh playing with victim ‘K’ on 10.7.2020 and had no knowledge how she died. This witness was also declared hostile. In cross examination, he was confronted with the statement given to police, however he denied the same. He even denied suggestion that for not giving the statement, he had verbal altercation with the family of Arun Sharma. He even denied from his suggestion, he has given information to the Investigating Officers that on 10.7.2020 at about 2:00-2:30 p.m., when he had gone to thrown garbage near the house of Arun Sharma, he had seen Prem Singh Prajapati playing with Victim 'K' by carrying her in his lap. He also denied that he had stated to the police that Prem Singh has committed the offence. Even this witness stated that he had met a lawyer of his village and thereafter he has come to the Court. Therefore, this witness like PW-3 and PW-4 has also not supported the prosecution version of the last seen of Victim 'K' in the company of accused Prem Singh. At the cost of repetition again it is noticed that even the time given by the prosecution of last seen by this witness coincide with the time assigned to PW-3 & PW-4 but none of them has seen each other at the relevant time and place which also makes the prosecution case doubtful. Therefore, even no credibility can be given to PW-5.

A perusal of the statement of PW-9, the second Investigating Officer, who took the investigation after adding of section 5/6 of POCSO Act show that it is, nowhere stated that he recorded statement of both PW-3 and PW-4, either after inquiring this fact from them in person or by way of recording a separate statement. Even the suggestion given to PW-3 and PW-4 that from their mobile number they have given information to the Investigating Officer was also not so as stated by PW-8 and PW-9, the Investigating Officers. Therefore, prosecution in order to cover its case for not recording statement under Section 161Cr.P.C. gave suggestion to PW-3 and PW-4 that on the mobile phone of the Investigating Officer, they have stated the fact about seeing Prem Singh Prajapati on 10.7.2020 following victim-K or that on 12.7.2020 accused came to their house and made extra judicial confession. Therefore, Court find that no reliance can be placed on the statement of PW-3 and PW-4 and prosecution has failed to prove the evidence of last seen as well as the extra judicial confession of the appellant before PW-3 and PW-4.

So far the statement of PW-1 Shivam Sharma, the informant is concerned, this witness has only given information to the police regarding missing of his niece victim-K on 10.7.2020 on which Chick FIR was registered at 19:07 pm. This witness stated that after recovery of dead body PW-3 Om Prakash and PW-4 Naresh informed him that accused committed rape with victim-K and to conceal his offence had drawn her in the pond in her unconscious condition.

This witness in cross examination stated that on 12.7.2020, PW-7 Akash Sharma told him about recovery of the dead body. He further stated that accused ply a horse cart (Tanga) and has five minor children. He further stated that in the complaint, he has not given name of any accused and after recovery of dead body of victim, he named Prem Singh Prajapati, Pushpendra alias Pushi and Vinod as he has doubt on these three persons on 12.7.2020.

PW-2 Arun Sharma grandfather of victim-K gave description of cloth worn by the victim-K, who went missing at about 2:00 pm on 10.7.2020. After her dead body was recovered on 12.7.2020, he has raised doubt on Prem Singh Prajapati, Pushpendra alias Pushi and Vinod. This witness also stated that PW-3 and PW-4 told him that Prem Singh Prajapati by committing rape of victim-K had drowned her in pond. In cross examination, this witness stated that on the date of incident her grand daughter , victim-K, had gone in the house of PW-4 Naresh as his son Kunal aged about 7 years, took her at about 11:00 am and at about 1:00 pm thereby Kunal left his grand daughter back him. However, this witness has not stated this fact to the Investigating Officer in the said matter.

This witness stated that while doing search they have also searched the house of Prem Singh Prajapati – accused and people who were searching alongwith him included PW-3 Om Prakash and PW-4 Naresh on 10.7.2020.

This also show that PW-3 and PW-4 never made any such statement to the police i.e. PW-8 and PW-9 about last seen of the accused on that date. Further this witness stated that on 12.7.2020, he has informed the Investigating Officer that PW-3 Om Prakash and PW-4 Naresh told him about the offence committed by the accused, but the police did not record the same in his statement. All these facts show that PW-3 and PW-4 never informed either PW-1 and PW-2 or the police about involvement of accused Prem Singh Prajapati for that precise reason that they did not support prosecution version.

It has come in the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 that when they raised suspicion on three persons namely Pushpendra alias Pushi, accused Prem Singh Prajapati and one Vinod, police arrested all of them. However, PW-8 and PW-9 did not utter a single word in this regard about investigation carried out with regard to Pushpendra alias Pushi and Vinod. This show that amongst all the three named persons, appellant Prem Singh Prajapati, who was a poor person, as it has come in evidence that he ply a horse cart (Tanga) and has five minor children, was an easy pick by the police to solve the mystery of murder and hush up the investigation because it is admitted by all the witness that senior police officer and media have taken up the matter and even dog squad was called which went to the house of the accused Prem Singh Prajapati on the date of incident and ultimately led police party towards forest,but no clue could be find. It is also worth noticing that no statement of accused – appellant was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. for making any statement before the police admitting his guilt as it has come in the investigation of the Investigating Officer (PW-8) that the appellant has refused to make any such statement before the Court. However, no order of ACJM, Bulandshahr regarding this fact is proved on record. It is held in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1984 SC 1622, that in order to prove offence based on circumstantial evidence, the following conditions may be proved :

(152.) A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr. v. State of Maharashtra, 1973 2 SCC 793 where the following observations were made:

" Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be; and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say. they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

(153.) These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

In view of the judgment of Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra), this Court finds that prosecution has failed to prove the evidence of last seen as well as extra judicial confession from the statements of PW-3, PW-4 & PW-5. The statement of PW-7 is found to be totally unreliable. Further both PW-3 and PW-4, the two witnesses of alleged extra judicial confession made by the appellant- Prem Singh Prajapati confessing his guilt is also not proved as both these witnesses were also declared hostile and did not support the prosecution version despite lengthy cross examination by ADGC.

1-C. DNA Report - With regard to the DNA regard as reproduced above, in a very casual manner, the report is prepared that in EX-2 & 3 derived from biological serum of the victim in which allele was found, due to partial generation of DNA profile, it is not possible to match the same with blood sample of accused Prem Singh Prajapati through HID & Y-STR KIT was used. Similarly, from Ex-4 to 7 which are allele swab, oral swab, scalp hair and nails, partial DNA could be generated. Therefore, no decision could be taken regarding source 8 to 11, 17 and 18 of the accused person i.e. clothes, hairs, nail clippings, throats swab and all worth articles recovered from the spot. The report show that in DNA examination by Genetic Analyzer and Gene Mapper were used.

A perusal of zimni order of Trial Court would reveal that this DNA report was not even exhibited, as even the original of this report dated 3.11.2020 which is at Page-11 of the lower court's record do not bear any exhibit number. However, as per Section 293 of Cr.P.C. same can be read in evidence only if a right to rebut is given to accused.

PW- 8 & 9, Investigating Officers, in examination-in-chief have nowhere relied upon this report, therefore, putting up this report to the accused while recording statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., neither report was supplied to him nor opportunity was granted to him to cross examine the Investigating Officer. Question No. 13 in statement under Section 313 read as under : -

"Question No.13 : - The report of Forensic Science Lab, Lucknow along with SCD Document No.45A regarding blood sample, Vaginal Swab, Vulval Swab, anal swab, Nails, three hairs, nails, earth and clothes is filed in the Court, what you have to state about this report ; Answer- The report of the laboratory is prepared wrongly."

In view of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Dharam Deo Yadav's Case (Supra), Mukesh and Anr's Case (Supra), Ravi s/o Ashok Ghumare's Case (Supra) and in Manoj and others' Case (Supra), as no consistent DNA profile could be generated to match blood sample of accused with the vaginal swab, anal swab, oral swab, and vulval swab of the victim, and therefore, no reliance can be placed as DNA report as rightly held by the trial Court.

1-D. Role of Two Investigating Officers - So far the role of two Investigating Officers is concerned, it is apparent that PW-8, S.I. Sukhpal, the first Investigating Officer has given description of the investigation carried on 10.7.2020 and 11.7.2020 and after recovery of dead body on 12.7.2020 he stated that he recorded the statement of PW-7, Naresh in C.D. on 12.7.2020 and also of Om Prakash Sharma. In cross examination, this witness stated that when dog-squad was called, the dog did not enter into house of any person and rather led the team towards the forest area and was not successful. This witness stated even searches were conducted in the house of PW-3 and PW-4 as well. As noticed above, on a specific question whether Akash Sharma informed that he had seen Prem Singh carrying victim 'K' towards the pond in perturbed condition at the time of preparing Panchayatnama/ inquest report, this witness stated that may be so. In the second similar question, this witness stated that 'Yes' it was informed but he had told the computer operator- Adesh Panchang about this part of the statement but he omitted the write the same. When he was specifically asked whether in the Panchayatnama, this fact was added to which he stated that there no such provision. This witness also stated that for the first time in cross examination, he had stated that Akash Sharma told him about carrying deceased, therefore, as observed above, the statement of this witness with regard to information given to him by Akash Sharma which is not recorded in examination-in-chief and in cross examination, a vague explanation is given that he has informed computer operator- Adesh Panchang to type the same but he had omitted to do so which reflects that in fact no statement was made or if given, this Investigating Officer was so casual, unprofessional and unbelieving of responsible police officer that in the investigation that he even did not try to read the typed statement to and ensure that the correct facts are stated.

So far as PW-9, the second Investigating Officer, SHO-Umesh Kumar Pandey is concerned, he has recovered under shirt (banyan) which the accused had washed and hanged the same on a peg and from the said under shirt, three hairs were recovered and as per disclosure of the accused, the place where the offence was committed was near the wall and was wet. As noticed above, all the recoveries were subject to examination by FSL and no positive report regarding committing of rape by the appellant was found as per the DNA examination. This witness has also stated that when the accused was presented before A.C.J.M., Bulandshahar for recording his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., he refused however neither the application was moved before the A.C.J.M., Bulandsahr nor any such order of A.C.J.M, Bulandshahr is on record which also shows that this witness has conducted the investigation in a very casual and irresponsible manner.

Both PW-8 & PW-9 did not exhibit the FSL report in their statement in terms of Section 293 Cr.P.C. and, therefore, the accused had no right to cross examine both these witnesses on FSL report as admittedly the scriber of the FSL report was not examined because it did not support the prosecution version. No explanation has been given by both the Investigating Officers i.e. PW-8 & PW-9 when a specific statement is made by the PW-2 that he had named three persons i.e. Pushpendra @ Pushi, Vinod and appellant- Prem Singh as suspect and the police has arrested all the three persons however both these witnesses are silent about the investigation carried out qua the other two persons.

Learned counsel for the appellant has raised argument that since the case was monitored by the Senior Police Officer and there was a political pressure and even the media had highlighted the same, therefore, in order to hush up the investigation, the appellant being a poor person who used to ply Tanga was a soft target by the Investigating Officer to involve him in the case and conclude the investigation cannot be ruled out.

As per the prosecution version, PW-3, PW-4 & PW-5 have recorded their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. with the Investigating Officer by giving information through their mobile phones. Both the Investigating Officers (PW-8 & PW-9) did not record their statement by using audio video mode and rather recorded the same in the daily general diary in a casual manner. Thus, no separate statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded by making a face to face investigation from PW-3 and PW-4 and PW-5 which could be contradicted in their cross examination. Therefore, both the Investigating Officers did not follow the procedure under Section 161(3) Cr.P.C., Section 162 Cr.P.C., read with Section 145 of Evidence Act, 1872.

Though, the learned AGA for State has submitted that this is a standard procedure in the entire State of Uttar Pradesh that statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. are recoded in general diary only, however, no such instructions or notifications of the State Government contrary to the provision of Cr.P.C. is on record.

97. In view of the above, we hold that the finding recorded by the Trial Court that victim 'K' was subjected to penetrative sexual assault and was later on murdered is upheld. However, we find that three important links in the chain of circumstantial evidence i.e. last seen, extra judicial confession and DNA report could not be proved by the prosecution, in view of the detailed finding recorded above, to prove that the appellant-accused committed the offence and he is entitled to get benefit of doubt.

98. Therefore, the present appeal is allowed. The reference made by the Trial Court for confirmation of capital punishment is declined. The jail appeal filed by the accused appellant, Prem Singh Prajapati stands allowed. He is acquitted of the charges. He be released forthwith if not required in any other case on furnishing of requisite surety bonds.

99. The record and proceedings be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

A. Criminal Law-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Indian Penal Code, 1860-Section 302-challenge to-conviction-the three accused allegedly shot the deceased at his home in retaliation for his role in their prior arrest-the conviction of the appellants was primarily based on the eyewitness testimonies of the deceased's sons who claimed to have witnessed the shooting-the minor delay in filing of FIR was considered justified due to trauma of the witnesses and the distance between crime scene and the police station-on the basis of forensic evidence and cross-examination, only one accused fired fatal shots-no forensic evidence supported the involvement of other two accused in the actual shooting-Hence, the court partially allowed the appeal acquitting two accused for lack of evidence while affirming the conviction and sentence of one accused.(Para 1 to 33)

The appeal is partly allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. Present Criminal Appeal under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C. has been filed by the accused-appellants Hari Shanker, Lavkush and Radhey Lal against judgment of conviction dated 25.02.1989 and order of sentence dated 27.02.1989, passed by learned IInd Additional Sessions Judge, Lucknow in S.T. No.356 of 1987, arising out of Case Crime No.108 of 1987, under Section 302 I.P.C., Police Station Banthara, District Lucknow. By the impugned judgment and order, appellants have been convicted for the offence under Section 302 IPC and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life.

2. The factual matrix of the case is that, on 20.06.1987 the informant Om Prakash Yadav had given a written Tehrir at Police Station - Banthara, District Lucknow that today, i.e. on 20.06.1987, he was washing his hands and legs at the platform of the well, situated in front of his house. A cot was also lying near the well upon which his sister Shanti and younger brother Shri Prakash were sitting. His father Raja Ram Yadav was sitting at the Thakht (wooden plank) under the thatched roof, which is adjacent to the main gate of his house. At about 7.15 P.M., accused persons Hari Shanker, Lavkush and Radhey Lal reached near the well. Hari Shanker was carrying a gun, whereas Lavkush and Radhey Lal were carrying country made pistols in their hands. Hari Shanker exhorted, abused and threatened them and all the persons reached near his father and opened fire upon him by their gun and country made pistols. Having received the bullet injuries, his father cried and fell down on the ground from the Takht (wooden plank). He died on the spot. All the three accused persons giving threat to life ran away towards east. The occurrence was witnessed by Siddh Nath and other persons of the Village along with the informant, his brother and sister. Due to the fear of firearm, nobody could resist the accused persons. The informant further mentioned that earlier accused persons were named in the occurrence of loot, which took place at the house of Cheda Yadav and Ram Kishan Yadav, and the accused were having doubt that his father Raja Ram has named them in the above occurrence. As a matter of fact, before the present occurrence, the accused Hari Shanker and Lavkush were arrested by the police of Police Station Banthara for carrying illegal arms. In that arrest also, the accused were having doubt that they were caught by the police at the pointing out of his father. Due to the above enmity, they have killed him in above manner.

3. On the basis of the above complaint/Tehrir, an F.I.R. was lodged by the police of Police Station Banthara at 23.10 hours on 20.06.1987, vide Case Crime No.180/1987, under Section 302 IPC. The distance of the Police Station from the place of occurrence has been shown as 8.00 Kms.

4. After completion of the investigation of the case, Charge sheet, against all the three accused persons was filed in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, who committed the case to the Sessions Court. The trial court framed the charge under Section 302 IPC against all the three accused persons. The accused persons denied the charges and claimed for their trial.

5. On behalf of the prosecution, PW 1 Om Prakash, PW 2 Shri Prakash, PW 3 S.I. Krishna Pal, PW 4 Suresh Kumar, PW 5 Arjun Singh (second Investigating Officer), PW 6 Dr. V.N. Singh gave their oral evidence.

6. After completion of the prosecution evidence, accused persons recorded their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which they denied the commission of the offence. Further, they stated that they were falsely implicated in the case by the informant due to enmity. No oral evidence has been produced by the accused persons.

7. In the oral statement, PW 1 Om Prakash has reiterated the prosecution story, as mentioned in the F.I.R. Further, he has mentioned in his examination-in-chief that Hari Shanker and Lavkush shot fire at his father by gun as well as country made pistol.

8. The witness PW 2 Shri Prakash has also reiterated the prosecution story as mentioned in the F.I.R. and supported the evidence of PW 1.So far as the occurrence of firing is concerned, he has mentioned in his examination-in-chief that first of all Hari Shanker shot fire at his father by his gun. Having received the injury of that bullet, his father fell down on floor from wooden plank (Takhat). He further stated that the accused Lavkush also shot fire at his father by his country made pistol. He has further stated in his cross-examination that the accused Lavkush and Hari Shanker shot total three fires at his father. As a result of fire, some pallets also struck onto the wall of his house and some pallets were scattered on the floor. Further, he has stated that Hari Shanker shot first fire at his father, who sustained the bullet injury on his chest. Hari Shanker also fired (third bullet) at his father. Further, he has stated that Hari Shanker shot two fires at his father. He also stated that the above fact was told by him to Investigating Officer, if he has not mentioned it in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he cannot say its reason.

9. PW 3, Krishna Pal has proved the proceedings of Inquest, Spot Memos, Recovery Memos of pallets and blood stained soil and clothes of deceased. He also proved the recovery memo of two empty cartridges of 12 bore from the place of occurrence.

10. PW 4, Suresh Kumar has proved the Chik F.I.R. as well as G.D. Entry.

11. Witness PW 5 Arjun Singh has proved the statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He has also proved the interrogation of the accused persons.

12. Dr. V.N. Singh deposed as PW 6. He has conducted the autopsy of the deceased on 22.06.1987. He has stated that deceased had received two firearm wounds, which were as under :-

(i) One firearm (wound of entrance) 4 C.M. X 3 C.M. X chest cavity deep, on left side of the chest of deceased, just below the nipple. At the place of wound, blackening, tatooing and charring was also present. The margins of wound were inverted and torn.

(ii) Firearm (wound of entry) 3 C.M. X 2.5 C.M. X abdominal cavity deep, towards right side of the back of the abdomen, at 6 'O' Clock position. Charring and tatooing were present at the place of wound. Its margins were inverted and raptured. He has also recovered 03 piece of wads and 20 small piece of pallets from left lunge and chest cavity of the deceased. He has also recovered two piece of wads and 36 small pallets from abdominal cavity, liver and intestine of deceased. Total 05 piece of wads and 56 piece of pallets were recovered from the body of the deceased Raja Ram Yadav.

The cause of death was mentioned as shock and hemorrhage, as a result of antemortem injuries. He has further opined that the above injuries may be caused by the fire from gun.

13. Learned trial court, after considering the facts and evidence as well as arguments of both the sides, convicted and sentenced all the named accused persons, under Section 302 I.P.C., which has been assailed by the accused/appellants in the present appeal.

14. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the trial court has wrongly assessed the evidence of prosecution. None was the eye witness of occurrence. The evidence of witness PW 1 and PW 2 is not reliable as they are related witnesses. The dead body was sent by police for post mortem with inordinate delay. There are discrepancies and exaggerations in the statement of prosecution witnesses. There was no proof of third fire. The Investigating Officer has not found any sign of bullet on the wall of the house of deceased. Witness PW 2 has specifically stated that deceased was hit by two bullets. It has been stated by the prosecution witnesses that Hari Shanker fired on deceased twice. From the spot, 02 empty cartridges of 12 Bore were found, which show that the deceased was hit by bullet fired by the gun. Learned trial court has mechanically assessed the evidence and convicted all the accused persons. The conviction as well as sentence of the accused persons is bad in the eye of law, hence, the order of conviction is liable to be set aside, and the appeal deserves to be allowed.

15. Learned A.G.A., replying the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the appellants, has submitted that eye witnesses of fact PW 1 and PW 2 have proved the prosecution case. They were present at their house at the time of occurrence and are eye witnesses of the occurrence. Their presence at their house is natural. The motive of the offence is proved as there was previous enmity between the assailants and the deceased. The evidence of prosecution has no contradiction on substantial points. The prosecution story is supported with the medical as well as the documentary evidence filed by the prosecution. There is no ground to implicate the accused persons falsely. The order of the trial court is just and proper. The appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

16. We have heard the arguments of both the sides and perused the record.

17. At the very outset, learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that there was delay in lodging the F.I.R. On the above point, the record shows that the date and time of occurrence has been shown in the First Information Report as approximately 7.15 P.M. on 26.06.1987 and the F.I.R. of the occurrence was lodged at police station on the same day at 11.10 P.M. The distance from the place of occurrence to the Police Station has been shown as 08 Kms. In his oral evidence Witness PW 1 has stated that after 4- 4 ½ hours of the occurrence, he had gone to Police Station to lodge the F.I.R. The above statement corroborates the timing as mentioned in the F.I.R. Further, he has stated that he had gone police station by foot and it took 1 ½ – 2 hours' time in reaching the police station. Witness PW 1 is the eldest son of the deceased Raja Ram Yadav. In the year 1987 he was about 20 years old. The occurrence of firing took place in his presence, naturally at that teen age the power of thinking of the informant must have been ceased to take appropriate decision quickly. He might be under fear that if he would go to police station by covering the distance of 8 Kms. in darkness of night he might be attacked by the accused persons on the way. Therefore, some time must have been passed in taking decision for going to police station for lodging the F.I.R. The entry of G.D. indicates that along with informant Prem Kumar Yadav, S/o Shri Gajram Yadav, Mihi Lal, S/o Bhoop Yadav also accompanied him to Police Station. Definitely along with other two persons he couraged to go to the Police Station. In the cross examination the informant has not stated anything contrary. The statement of witness PW 1 is supported by the statement of witness PW 2, who is the brother of the informant as well as eye witness of occurrence, he has stated that his brother Om Prakash had gone to the Police Station at about 8.00 P.M. There might be some difference in estimating time, which is natural. Witness PW 4 HCP Suresh Kumar has proved Chik F.I.R. and G.D. entry as well as timing of lodging F.I.R., which corroborates the statement of PW 1. The accused/appellants could not point out any contradiction in the cross examination of witness PW 4 on the above point. Hence, in absence of any proof otherwise or any discrepancy in the statement of witness, it cannot be said that F.I.R. has been lodged by informant with any inordinate delay.

18. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that no one was the eye witness of the occurrence and the occurrence took place in the darkness of night and there is no statement regarding the presence of light at the place of occurrence.

19. According to the F.I.R. the occurrence took place on 20.06.1987 at about 7.15 P.M. It was the month of June when in general till 7.30 P.M. the sky remains lighter. The accused persons were already known to the informant. No question has been asked from the accused side in the cross examination of the witnesses of fact regarding the absence of light or identification of the accused persons. Hence, the above objection of learned counsel for the appellants has no substance.

20. In the F.I.R. the witness PW 1 and PW 2 have shown their presence at the time of occurrence. The witness PW 1 has stated that on the date of occurrence, he had not gone to his work place. The reason for his absence from workplace has not been asked by the lawyer of defence in his cross examination. The witness PW 1 has also supported the statement of PW 2 by saying that at the time of occurrence Shri Prakash was also present there. He has rightly not shown presence of his other brothers Ram Prakash and Umesh as they were not present at the time of occurrence. The reason has been shown that his mother was suffering from Cholera and she had gone to the doctor with Sunder Lal, Raj Karan, Prem and Umesh. The going of four persons with informant's mother for treatment indicates that she might have been in critical condition due to Cholera. His father had not gone with his mother due to the reason that he had given fire to the dead body of informant's grand mother. As per the rituals and customs prevail in Hindu community, the person who gives fire to the dead body does not move anywhere from his house and passes his time for 10 days separately. Hence, it is apparent that PW 1 never tried to enhance the number of eye witnesses falsely. The above statement of PW 1 and PW 2 strengthens the credibility of their statements/evidence and makes their presence at the time of occurrence probable.

21. Further, witness PW 2 has also corroborated the statement of PW 1 and he has shown the presence of PW 1 along with him at the time of occurrence. Witness PW 2 has also stated that on the date of occurrence witness PW 1 had not gone to his service as he had complain of pain in his stomach. In his cross examination PW 1 also took the constant stand that he had not gone to place of his work on the date of occurrence. Therefore, in absence of specific reply in their cross examination otherwise as well as taking into consideration the positive assertion of witness PW 1 and 2, more particularly, in absence of any doubtful circumstance or evidence, it cannot be said that witness PW 1 and PW 2 were not present at his residence or were not eye witnesses of the occurrence.

22. Learned counsel for the appellants further argued that post mortem of deceased Raja Ram Yadav took place on 22.06.1987 at 1.00 P.M. It should have been done on 21.06.1987. The reason of delay has not been shown, such delay makes the prosecution story doubtful. On the above point the record indicates that the occurrence of murder took place at 7.15 P.M., F.I.R. was lodged at 11.10 P.M. Thereafter, the Investigating Officer has reached on the spot in the darkness of night. That is why the proceedings of inquest could not be started in night. The memo of inquest (Ext – Ka-2) indicates that on 21.06.1987 at about 6.00 A.M. the inquest proceeding was started which was completed by 7.45 A.M. on 21.06.1987. Thereafter, the collection of evidence on the spot, taking the statement of witnesses, wrapping of dead body in cloth and fixing seal on the dead body would have been consuming considerable time, then after that the S.I. arranged to bring the dead body to police station. The distance of mortuary has been shown as 24 Kms., accordingly it can be presumed that the day hours as well as the timing for conducting post mortem would have been over for that day. The Form-13 of police paper only shows that the dead body was sent to mortuary on 21.06.1987. The time of its arrival at mortuary has not been mentioned. Usually after sun set or in darkness of night the autopsy of the body is not done in mortuaries, except by specific order of district administration. In such a scenario, if the post mortem of the deceased took place on 22.06.1987, it cannot be said that the delay was manipulated for any doubtful reason. Witness PW 2 has stated in his evidence that he reached in about 3 – 3½ hours at Medical College along with dead body. Certainly after reaching at Medical College some time would have been elapsed in paper work for handing over and taking over the dead body for autopsy and in completing the above formalities the time for conducting the post mortem of the deceased would have passed. The witness PW 6 has also opined that the fatal injury would have been caused to the deceased at about 7.15 P.M. on 20.06.1987. Nothing has been cross examined by the counsel for the appellants with the above witness. Therefore, it cannot be said that the prosecution story has been falsely drafted with any manipulation or doubtful circumstance. If the autopsy of the deceased was started at 1.00 P.M. on 22.06.1987 it cannot itself prove that prosecution story is false.

23. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the witnesses of fact PW 1 and PW 2, both are sons of deceased. They are related witnesses. No independent witness has been examined by the prosecution. The person Sidhnath, S/o Shivdeen who has been alleged as the eye witness of the occurrence in the F.I.R. and is the neighbour of the informant, has not been produced in evidence, therefore, in the absence of any independent witness, the evidence of PW 1 and PW 2 as well as prosecution story cannot be relied upon. Apart from that, in the charge-sheet also, so many independent persons, namely, Ram Lal, Babu Lal, Radhey Lal, Parmeshwar, Shripal have been mentioned as the prosecution witnesses but none of them have been produced by the prosecution in support of the prosecution story.

24. In reply, learned A.G.A. has submitted that it is very common, particularly, in the rural areas, where most of the people are backward and illiterate. If any independent person had seen any criminal offence/occurrence, they would not prefer to give their evidence as witness. Generally they did not want to be enimical with the accused persons, who are known to them also. Our police enquiries are also not much friendly with such witnesses. In the present case, witnesses PW 1 and PW 2 have stated in their evidence that they were present at the time of occurrence. Both the persons are sons of the deceased and their presence at the place of occurrence is natural. Deceased was having other sons, namely, Ram Prakash and Umesh. The witness PW 1 fairly stated in his statement that at the time of occurrence they were not present at the place of occurrence. Both the witnesses, PW 1 and PW 2, have described the occurrence properly. There is no substantial discrepancy in their evidence. If the witnesses are narrating the occurrence truly, some discrepancies are bound to occur and exaggerations in their statements are also natural.

25. (i) In the case of Marwadi Kishor Parmanand and another Vs. State of Gujarat, (1994) 4 SCC 549, it has been held in paragraph 31 as under :-

"31.The evidence of a witness deposing about a fact has to be appreciated in a realistic manner having due regard to all the surrounding facts and circumstances prevailing at or about the time of occurrence of an incident. Some contradictions and omissions even in the evidence of a witness who was actually present and had seen the occurrence are bound to occur even in the natural course. It is a sound rule to be observed that where the facts stated by an eyewitness substantially conform to and are consistent on material points from the facts stated earlier to the police either in FIR or case diary statements and are also consistent in all material details as well as on vital points there would be no justification or any valid reason for the court to view his evidence with suspicion or cast any doubt on such evidence. In the present case as discussed above we find that the solitary witness Ranchhodbhai, PW 1 is a wholly reliable witness and his evidence in itself, without any further corroboration is enough to sustain the conviction of the two appellants for the crime they are charged with, but we find that the evidence of the sole eyewitness Ranchhodbhai finds corroboration on material aspects from the evidence of Jayantilal PW 6, Makkar PW 8, Dr Nathani PW 10, Dr Avasia PW 11, Dr Joshi PW 12 and the Head Constable Moolchand PW 18. Thus the corroboration is also not lacking in the present case and there was hardly any ground or any possibility of taking the view which is unfortunately taken by the learned trial Judge. In our considered opinion the trial court clearly fell in serious error in rejecting the truthful version made by the sole eyewitness PW 1 whose evidence does not suffer from any infirmities, much less the unwarranted criticism made by the trial court. The High Court was therefore, in exercise of its powers under Section 378 and 386, Criminal Procedure Code, fully justified to reverse the erroneous findings recorded by the trial court. We find ourselves wholly in agreement with the view taken by the High Court and the conclusions recorded by it. Consequently the appeal deserves to be dismissed."

(ii) In the case of Jai Shree Yadav Vs. State of U.P., 2004 SAR (Criminal) Supreme Court, the Apex Court has held in paragraph 21 as under :-

"21.It is also true that PW1 was not available to the Police for nearly 10 days after the incident but the explanation given by this witness is quite plausible that his family was afraid for his safety hence he went to his in-laws' place and remained there and it is only when things settled down he decided to come out and give a statement to the Police. The possibility of his fear of retaliation is supported by the evidence of PW-8 I.O. who stated that there was tension in the village and at the time of funeral of the deceased he had to make Police bandobust which indicates the possibility of PW-1's apprehension and his consequent non-availability to the investigating agency. There is one other aspect of this case which will have to be borne in mind while considering the evidence of PW-1. His name has been mentioned in the FIR as a person who was present at the time the incident took place. It is also stated in the FIR that in the said incident PW-1 was injured. We have already noticed that the prosecution has established that this complaint was filed in the Salempur Police Station at 5.30 p.m. If really this witness was not present at the time of incident in question we do not think PW-3 would have included his name without even knowing the whereabouts of this witness on that day and by attributing an imaginary injury to him. In his examination in chief this witness has clearly narrated the incident involving the named accused persons as also the overt acts attributed to them. Of course in the cross examination the defence has brought out that this person is closely connected with deceased Abid Ali therefore a suggestion was made that he was deposing falsely. This suggestion has been denied by the appellant. In the cross examination defence has brought about certain omissions, contradictions and improvements in the evidence of this witness. These shortcomings in the evidence of this witness will have to be considered in the background of the fact that this witness was subjected to nearly 217 questions over a period of 14 months i.e. his cross examination starting on 14.8.1994 and ending on 28.11.1995. Both the courts below have taken judicial notice of this fact, not only in regard to this witness but in regard to other witnesses also and have come to the concurrent conclusion that when a witness is subjected to such lengthy arduous cross examination over a lengthy period of time there is always a possibility of the witnesses committing mistakes which can be termed as omissions, improvements and contradictions therefore those infirmities will have to be appreciated in the back ground of ground realities which makes the witness confused because of the filibustering tactics of the cross examining Counsel."

(iii) In the case of Kaki Ramesh and others Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 1994 SCC (Cri) 1214, the Apex Court has held that it is well established rule that exaggerations, embellishments and inconsistencies on the fringe do not make witnesses unreliable.

26. As per law, the family members as well as interested witnesses are also competent witnesses for giving evidence.

(i) It has been held by Apex Court in the case of Gajoo v. State of Uttarakhand, 2013 CRI.L.J. 88 (SC), in paragraph 15 as under :-

"15. Once, the presence of PW2 and PW3 is shown to be natural, then to doubt their statement would not be a correct approach in law. It has unequivocally come on record through various witnesses, including PW4, that there was a 'Satyanarayan Katha' at the house of Chetu Ram which was attended by various villagers. It was on their way back at midnight when PW2 and PW3 had seen the occurrence in dark with the help of the torches that they were carrying. The mere fact that PW2 happens to be related to PW1 and to the deceased, would not result in doubting the statement of these witnesses which otherwise have credence, are reliable and are duly corroborated by other evidence. In such cases, it is only the members of the family who come forward to depose. Once it is established that their depositions do not suffer from material contradictions, are trustworthy and in consonance with the above-stated principles, the Courts would not be justified in overlooking such valuable piece of evidence."

(ii) In the case of Brahma Giri Vs. State of U.P., [2004 (2) JIC 723 (All)] it has been held that evidentiary value of testimony of the interested witness/statement of family member of the deceased is not to be rejected on the ground of his relation with victim. However, Court is required to scrutinized his statement with care.

(iii) In the case of Narendra and others Vs. State of U.P., [2006 (56) ACC 288], a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court has held in paragraph 18 as under :-

"18.We have considered the submission and in our opinion there is no substance in this submission. It is a settled position that there is no proposition in law that relatives are to be treated as untruthful witness, just because the witnesses are related to the deceased would be no ground to discard their testimony, if otherwise their testimony inspires confidence. Being relatives, it would be their endeavour to see that the real culprits are punished and normally they would not implicate wrong person in the crime, so as to allow the real culprits to escape unpunished. The submission of the non-examination of other witnesses is concerned, mere failure to examine all the witnesses who may have witnessed the occurrence will not result in outright rejection of the prosecution case if the witnesses examined by the prosecution are found to be truthful and reliable. Moreover, we cannot ignore the reality that many eye-witnesses shy away from giving evidence for obvious reasons. In the case of Ravi v. State, 1988 (25) ACC 168 (SC), it has been observed that "It is settled by a catena of cases by this Court that the evidence of eye-witnesses cannot be rejected merely because they are related. In such a situation, the evidence of PW 2 in the present case, there is no strong motive or ill will on the part of PW 2 to exonerate the real person who caused the injuries to her son and to implicate the accused."

(iv) In the case of Hardev Singh, etc. Vs. Harbhej Singh and others, 1996 (4) Crimes 216 (SC), the Apex Court has in paragraph 16 has held as under :-

"16.Coming to the finding as regards the non-examination of independent eye witnesses who saw the incident in question we must hasten to add that it is completely erroneous and unmerited. The prosecution has examined Hardev Singh (P.W. 2) and an injured witness Suba Singh (P.W. 3), although some other villagers did come at the place of incident but in our opinion merely because other independent witnesses were not examined could not be a ground to discredit the evidence of these two eye witnesses. This Court time and again has emphasised that the evidence of close relations who testified the facts relating to the occurrence be not rejected merely on the ground that they happened to be the relatives. All that this Court has ruled is that the evidence of such witnesses be scrutinised very carefully. We have very carefully gone through the evidence of Hardev Singh (P.W. 2) and Suba Singh (P.W. 3) who were consistent in their evidence as regards the details of assault caused by the respondents (accused). Both the witnesses have given minute details in regard to the weapons used by each of the accused and the manner in which they have assaulted Harbhajan Singh in front of the house of Chanan Singh. They also stated that A-1 fired from his gun at Harbhajan Singh causing him bleeding injuries. They further stated that the second shot fired by A-1 missed the target. It is true that the medical evidence does indicate two gun shot injuries. In the facts and circumstances of the case non explanation of the gun shot injury No.6 by these two eye witnesses would neither dilute their evidence nor their presence could be doubted. It is the positive case of both the witnesses that Harbhajan Singh had come to the house of Chanan Singh to help him in the construction work. There is nothing in their evidence which can persuade us to disbelieve the story narrated as regards the assault on Harbhajan Singh. Coming to the assault on Baldev Singh caused by the respondents (accused), Hardev Singh (P.W.

2) and Suba Singh (P.W. 3) had stated that Baldev Singh, on noticing that the respondents (accused) were coming towards him, left the driver's seat and went to the trolley to escape himself from the probably attack by the accused. Harbhej Singh (A-1) gave a lalkara and thereupon Amrik Singh (A-3) climbed up the trolley and chopped off the leg of Baldev Singh with gandasa. Gurmej Singh (A-4) also climbed up the trolley and gave 2-3 blows on his left arm from the sharp side of gandasa. Mohan Singh (A-5) also gave a gandasa blow from the sharp side on his chest. After inflicting injuries to Baldev Singh the accused fled away. Both these witnesses were searchingly cross-examined by the defence but there is hardly any material brought on record to discredit their evidence. The evidence of both these witnesses in our considered view unmistakably proves that the respondents (accused) who were the members of the unlawful assembly having a common object to cause the murders of Harbhajan Singh and Baldev Singh did cause such bodily injuries to them as a result thereof they met with homicidal deaths."

(v) In the case of Seeman alias Veeranam Vs. State by Inspector of Police, 2005 CRI.L.J. 2618 (SC), the Apex Court in paragraph 4 has held as under :-

"4. It is now well settled that the evidence of witness cannot be discarded merely on the ground that he is a related witness or the sole witness, or both, if otherwise the same is found credible. The witness could be a relative but that does not mean to reject his statement in totality. In such a case, it is the paramount duty of the court to be more careful in the matter of scrutiny of evidence of the interested witness, and if, on such scrutiny it is found that the evidence on record of such interested sole witness is worth credence, the same would not be discarded merely on the ground that the witness is an interested witness. Caution is to be applied by the court while scrutinizing the evidence of the interested sole witness. The prosecution's non-production of one independent witness who has been named in the FIR by itself cannot be taken to be a circumstance to discredit the evidence of the interested witness and disbelieve the prosecution case. It is well settled that it is the quality of the evidence and not the quantity of the evidence which is required to be judged by the court to place credence on the statement."

(vi) In the case of Nachhattar Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 1998 SCC (Cri) 949*, the Apex Court in paragraphs 3 and 4 has held as under :-*

"3. The High Court has held that both Daya Singh and Kulwant Singh were present in the house at the time of the incident. Their presence in their own house at that time was quite natural. If they were present in their house then obviously they could have seen the assault on their mother by the appellant. Both the courts below have thought it proper to accept their evidence and we see no reason to differ from the finding recorded in that behalf.

4. The contention raised on behalf of the appellant was that the witnesses could not have been in their house at the time when the incident took place. It was late evening time and therefore their returning to the house from their shop at that time cannot be regarded as unnatural or improbable. As we are of the view that the High Court was right in confirming the conviction of the appellant on the basis of the evidence of the two eye witnesses, this appeal has to be dismissed."

(vii) In the case of Sher Singh and another Vs. State of Haryana, 1994 CRI.L.J. 1980 (SC), the Apex Court has held in paragraph 5 as under :-

"5. Merely because PWs 2 and 3 are related to the deceased, that by itself is not a ground to reject their evidence. As a matter of fact PW 2 would be the last person to implicate somebody falsely. It is to be noted that he went to the village, informed his parents and rushed to the police station which is 19 kilometres away and gave the report without any delay."

(viii) In the case of State of U.P. Vs. Sheo Sanehi, [2005 (52) ACC 113], the Apex Court in paragraph 16 has held as under :-

"16. So far as PWs 3 and 4 are concerned, PW 3 is nephew of deceased Devi Din whereas PW 4 is widow of the said deceased, as such they are natural witnesses and their presence at the alleged place of occurrence cannot be doubted. The names of these two witnesses were disclosed in the First Information Report itself and they supported the prosecution case in all material particulars in their statements made before the police as well as in Court and no infirmity could be pointed out in their evidence, excepting that they were related to the deceased persons and inimical to the accused. It is well-settled that merely because a witness is related to the prosecution party and inimical to the accused persons, his evidence cannot be discarded if the same is otherwise trustworthy. In the case on hand, we do not find any infirmity whatsoever in the evidence of PWs 1, 3 and 4, as such it is not possible to disbelieve them, especially in view of the fact that their evidence is supported by medical evidence as well as objective findings of the investigating officer, but the High Court has committed a serious error in discarding their testimonies on this score."

27. In the case in hand, we have considered the evidence of PW 1 and PW 2 thoroughly. They have been cross examined by the counsel for the appellants at length, but in their cross examination too, no such fact came on surface which may lead to some other story or fact. Hence, it cannot be said that in absence of any independent witness the prosecution story has not been proved.

On the above point, the Apex Court, in the case of Amar Singh Vs. Balwinder Singh and others, 2003 (46) ACC 619 (SC), in paragraph 15, has held as under :-

"15. Another reason given by the High Court for acquitting the accused - respondents is that two other injured witnesses, namely, Kashmira Singh and Pritam Singh and one Ramesh, whose name was mentioned in the FIR, were not examined. Shri Ashwani Kumar, learned senior counsel appearing for the accused-respondents has vehemently urged that the purpose of a criminal trial is not to support the prosecution theory but to investigate the offence and to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused and the duty of the public prosecutor is to represent the administration of justice and therefore the testimony of all the available eye witnesses should be before the Court and in support of this contention he has placed reliance on State of U.P. & Anr. v. Jaggo alias Jagdish & Ors., AIR 1971 SC 1586. It is true that the witnesses essential to the unfolding of the narrative on which the prosecution is based must be called by the prosecution, whether effect of their testimony is for or against the case of the prosecution. However, that does not mean that everyone who has witnessed the occurrence, whatever their number be, must be examined as a witness. The prosecution in the present case had examined three eye-witnesses who were all injured witnesses. The mere fact that Kashmira Singh and Pritam Singh were not examined cannot lead to an inference that the prosecution case was not correct. The aforesaid two witnesses had been given up by the prosecution on the ground that they had been won over by the accused. These two persons are not family members of the first informant Amar Singh and it is quite likely that they did not want to get involved in any dispute between the first informant and his sons on the one hand and the accused on the other hand as they had no interest in the land belonging to Jangir Dass Sadh which was being earlier cultivated by Gurdial Singh, father of A-1 and A-2 but had been taken an year earlier by the first informant Amar Singh. The contention raised by learned counsel fails to take notice of Section 134 of the Evidence Act which provides that no particular number of witnesses shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact. A similar contention has been repelled by this Court in a very illustrating judgment in Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras, AIR 1957 SC 614 and it will be useful to take note of para 11 of the report, which reads as under :

".....The contention that in a murder case, the court should insist upon plurality of witnesses, is much too broadly stated. The Indian Legislature has not insisted on laying down any such exceptions to the general rule recognised in S.134, which by laying down that "no particular number of witnesses shall, in any case, be required for the proof of any fact" has enshrined the well recognised maxim that "Evidence has to be weighed and not counted." It is not seldom that a crime has been committed in the presence of only one witness, leaving aside those cases which are not of uncommon occurrence, where determination of guilt depends entirely on circumstantial evidence. If the Legislature were to insist upon plurality of witnesses, cases where the testimony of a single witness only could be available in proof of the crime, would go unpunished."

28. Section 134 of the Evidence Act says that no particular number of witnesses in any case are required for proving any fact. If two eye witnesses prove the prosecution case properly, it is sufficient to establish the F.I.R. version. In the present case, PW 1 and PW 2 have been found reliable and credible.

29. So far as the complicity of the appellants in the occurrence is concerned, it has been mentioned in the F.I.R. that all the three accused persons, namely, Hari Shanker, Lavkush and Radhey Lal were carrying firearms in their hands. Hari Shanker was carrying gun and rest of the accused persons were having country made pistols in their hands. All the three accused persons shot fire at his father. In his examination-in-chief the witness PW 1 has stated that Hari Shanker and Lavkush fired upon his father by their gun and country made pistol respectively and having received injury his father fell down. This witness has not taken the name of third accused Radhey Lal. Witness PW 1 has further stated in his cross examination that when the accused opened fire at his father, the face of his father was towards east side. As his father received the firearm injury, he fell down from the wooden plank and thereafter another fire was shot at him by the accused. This part of statement of PW 1 is supported by Post Mortem Report, which shows one wound of entry on chest at left side. After receiving this injury his father fell down from wooden plank, in that turning the injured fell down on floor, from back side of the body, thereafter the second fire hit his abdomen towards right side. Further, PW 1 has stated that the accused persons fired three bullets but one bullet hit the wall of his house. Witness PW 2 has also stated in his examination-in-chief that first fire was shot by Hari Shanker at his father by the gun and when he fell down on floor from plank Lavkush fired at him by country made pistol. This witness PW 2 in his cross examination has stated that accused Radhey Lal was standing near him. He had told this fact to Darogaji. In this way PW 1 and PW 2 both have not assigned any role of Radhey Lal to fire at his father.

30. The witness PW 2 further stated that as the accused persons came at his house, accused Lavkush and Hari Shanker went towards his father. He further stated that he has not given the statement to Darogaji that all the three persons had shot fire at his father. He does not know how this statement was written in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by Investigating Officer. He further stated that Lavkush and Hari Shanker had shot total three fires at his father out of which one hit the wall. In this way although there is some exaggeration in the F.I.R. as well as examination-in-chief of the witness that all the three accused persons shot fire at the victim, yet on perusal of his cross-examination and the post mortem report, it is found that his father had received only two firearm injuries. The witness further stated that one bullet hit the wall of his house but during investigation no sign or bullet mark has been noted by the Investigating Officer while making spot inspection, hence, the story of firing by all the three accused persons is not liable to be believed. Witness PW 2 has specifically mentioned in his cross-examination that accused Radhey Lal has not fired at his father. Witness PW 1 has stated that accused shot two fires at his father from very short distance. This fact stands proved by the post mortem report where in both the firearm injuries blackening, charring and tatooing was found present on the wounds. Witness PW 2 in his cross examination at page 7 has stated that Hari Shanker has shot first fire by his gun at his father, which hit the chest of his father. He has further stated that the third bullet was also fired by Hari Shanker. Further he has stated that he had told Darogaji that Hari Shanker had shot two fires at his father. During the spot inspection, the Sub Inspector found two empty cartridges of 12 bore. In general the 12 bore cartridges are used in gun and in country made pistols the offenders usually use 32 bore cartridges.

The bore is measured by the internal diameter in inches or by the number of lead balls of the size precisely fitting the barrel, which can be made from one lb. of lead. The most commonly it is 12 bore used in gun having bore diameter 0.729 inches.

The wad which has been found from the dead body of deceased Raja Ram Yadav is generally present in the shotgun cartridges, which may be made of both the cardboard and stout paper (air cushion) or plastic. The wad is impregnated with grease, which lubricates the wad.

31. Both the witnesses PW 1 and PW 2 have stated that one bullet shot (fire by Lavkush) hit the wall of his house but no sign of such bullet mark was found during the spot inspection as well as no empty cartridges of 32 bore has been found from the place of occurrence. The witness PW 6 has found two wounds of entry in the autopsy of the victim Raja Ram Yadav, for which he had opined that the injury has been caused by gun. Therefore, it is proved that only appellant Hari Shanker had fired two bullets from his gun at deceased Raja Ram Yadav. In absence of any sign of fire by country made pistol, we do not find involvement of appellants Lavkush and Radhey Lal in the offence. Thus, while convicting accused/appellants Lavkush and Radhey Lal, the learned trial court has failed to assess the evidence properly which are available on record.

32. The formal witnesses PW 3 to PW 6 have proved the documentary evidence of prosecution and in their cross examination no otherwise fact or circumstance has been found which is adverse to prosecution story. Hence, the appeal is liable to be allowed partly.

33. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed. The judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by learned trial court in respect of both the appellants, namely, accused/appellants - Lavkush and Radhey Lal is set aside. They are on bail. They need not surrender. Their sureties are discharged.

34. So far as the appeal on behalf of accused/appellant Hari Shanker is concerned, the same is dismissed. The conviction and sentence order passed by the learned trial court against the appellant - Hari Shanker is affirmed. Appellant - Hari Shanker is on bail. He shall surrender before the trial court concerned immediately to serve out the sentence. In case the appellant Hari Shanker fails to surrender before the trial court concerned, the trial court concerned shall issue N.B.W. against the appellant Hari Shanker. If appellant Hari Shanker appears or brought before the trial court concerned, he shall be sent to jail for serving out the sentence as awarded by the trial court.

35. Let a copy of this judgment along with the trial court record be sent to the trial court concerned for necessary compliance.

No.457 of 2010 arising out of case crime no.155 of 2010, under section 302 IPC and Section 30 of the Arms Act, police station-Jalalabad, District-Shahjahanpur thereafter convicting and sentencing the appellant under section 302 IPC with life imprisonment and fine of Rs.50,000/-, under section 30 of the Arms Act for six months rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.2,000/- and in default of fine, one month additional imprisonment was awarded to the appellant.

FACTS OF THE CASE :

[4] Before coming to the merit of the case, it is relevant to give a bird's eye view to the factual aspect of the issue. As surfaced from the FIR, (I) informant is Ashok Kumar Dubey s/o Ramswaroop, for the incident of 02.03.2010 at 18:00 hours in the evening, the FIR came into existence on the same day at 23:30 hours. The distance from the place of occurrence to the police station is hardly three furlong (603.50 mtr.) ;(ii) the FIR was lodged against the appellant Dr. J.N. Mishra ; Seema(wife of the appellant), Nidhi(daughter of the appellant and wife of the deceased) and one unknown person ; (iii) As per the allegations made in the FIR, informant's son Sudhanshu (25 years) got married with daughter of the appellant Nidhi. As per the allegation, the appellant wanted to make Sudhanshu as his 'ghar-jamai' to look after his nursing home but as per the social norms and traditions, Sudhanshu declined this offer of his father-in-law and on this score, there was deep rooted discord and differences between them; (iv) In order to resolve this tangle, 'panchayat' was convened on 02.03.2010 around six in the evening at the clinic of the appellant Dr. J.N. Mishra at Jalalabad whereby the informant, his wife Pushpa and his son-Sudhanshu went to the clinic where the appellant, his wife-Seema and his daughter-Nidhi and one unknown person were present. All of a sudden during heated altercation, the host/accused-apellant started hurling filthy abuses and thereafter on the exhortation made by Nidhi, wife of the deceased, the appellant and unknown person pumped fires upon his son-in-law Sudhanshu, who died on the spot. Anyhow, the informant and his wife Pushpa could save his life and lodged the present FIR at 11:30 p.m. after the delay of 5.30 hrs.

[5] After lodging of the FIR, Investigating Officer of the case has taken dead body of Sudhanshu(deceased) for the post mortem and after having thorough investigation into the matter, submitted the report under section 173(2) Cr.P.C. against the appellant Dr. J.N. Mishra alone, dropping the name of other co-accused persons of the FIR. The said charge sheet was submitted under section 302 IPC and Section 30 of the Arms Act only against accused/appellant. Consequently, learned Magistrate took the cognizance of the offences and being cognizable offence, committed to the court of sessions for trial.

[6] Learned trial Court on 26.07.2010 has framed the charges against the appellant under section 302 IPC and since, there is recovery of licensee rifle of 315 bore having no.93 AB 1985 and therefore, Section 30 of the Arms Act was added among the charges which were duly explained to the appellant to which the appellant denied from the charges and insisted to be tried.

[7] The prosecution, in order to establish the case, produced seven witnesses of fact as well as formal witnesses, out of which Ashok Kumar Dwivedi as PW-1, Pushpa@Pushpalata as PW-2, Nawab as PW-3, Dr. Suresh Kumar Vashisth as PW-4, S.I. Vinay Pal Singh as PW-5, S.S.I. Surendra Singh as PW-6, and Constable 962 C.P. Jakir Hussain as PW-7 were produced. Besides above, 16 different documents were also produced by the prosecution during trial which were duly proved and were exhibited during trial.

[8] Soon after the prosecution witnesses were over, statements under section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded of the accused in which he has denied every allegations of the FIR and the story of the prosecution and has submitted that, he has been falsely implicated in the present case. He further submitted that he has got no son and the deceased-Sudhanshu, who was his son-in-law, was insisting to transfer his newly raised clinic in his name and when appellant denied to do so, then in order to eliminate the appellant, Sudhanshu pointed his tamancha over his father-in-law(appellant). In order to defend the accused-appellant, the gunner of the appellant fired upon Sudhanshu, killing his own son-in-law. He further stated that Sudhanshu was his son-in-law and was unemployed. He was having all sorts of bad habits including drinking. Taking into account the holistic view of the matter and strained relationship between them, accused appellant was apprehensive about his own safety and that is why he engaged a private shadow-gunner whose name was Harpal@Babba. On the date of incident, it was next day of Holi and his son-in-law came to the clinic of the appellant and took out his tamancha, extended threat to eliminate the accused/appellant. Sensing imminent danger and threat upon the life of his master, his shadow gunner fired from his rifle eliminating Sudhanshu. At the relevant time, neither wife of the appellant nor his daughter Nidhi as alleged in the FIR was allegedly present over the place of occurrence. Sudhanshu came to him all alone. After the incident, police personally informed the parent of the deceased, then they came to Jalalabad and lodged the FIR. It was further revealed that his shadow gunner Harpal@Babba died naturally during trial. In order to establish the case, defence has also produced one Ram Nath Pandey as DW-1.

[9] We have requested learned counsel for the appellant to provide his written arguments and counsel for the appellant has provided date and events, moot points for the determination of the present appeal and citations on which they want to rely upon. Learned counsel for the appellant, during the course of arguments, have hammered his submissions upon two following points :-

(i) That the FIR was delayed by 5:30 hours, meaning thereby for the incident of 6 p.m. in the evening, the FIR was lodged at 11:30 p.m. where the police station is hardly three furlong (603.50 mtr) away from the place of occurrence and there is no justifiable reason coming forward to explain this inordinate delay.

(ii) The alleged killing of son-in-law Sudhanshu was in exercise of power of right of self-defence and the deceased was carrying tamancha in his hand after extending threats to the appellant, which has created sufficient amount of apprehension in the mind of the appellant regarding his life and the fire was opened in exercise of power to right of self-defence.

The question as to whether while exercising his right of self-defence, the accused/appellant or his shadow-gunner have crossed his limits while exercising his powers?

[10] Before appreciating and analysing the judgment impugned by the learned trial Court, it is mandatory to overview the testimonies of the witnesses of fact, so as to appreciate the controversy involved in its correct perspective.

DELAYED FIR :

[11] It is admitted by PW-1 and PW-2 in their respective testimonies, that for the incident of 6 p.m. on 02.03.2010, the FIR was registered at 23:30 hours where the police station is hardly three Furlong (603.50 mtr.) away from the place of occurrence. Learned trial Court, while dealing with this issue at Page-16 of the judgment, has given undue advantage and importance to the informant that after the incident, he was literally frightened and shaken that he could not lodge the FIR within reasonable time. Though, the police station is not very far from the place of occurrence. But learned trial Court has given undue weightage to the explanation given by the informant that after the incident, instead of rushing to either doctor or police station after the incident, he has taken his wife Pushpa to bus station and sent her to Farrukhabad with the instruction to inform his family members about alleged shootout and only after few persons came from Farrukhabad to Jagdishpur, then only he/informant got the FIR lodged at 11:30 p.m. through Om Kiran, the scribe.

[12] At page-2 of the cross-examination, informant stated that he was deeply frightened to see the murder of his son right in front of his eyes. He stated that in this firing transaction, he and his wife has not obtained a single scratch over them. After the incident, he came to his son, turned his dead body and thereafter, taken her wife to bus station to get her boarded in the bus and started waiting for the persons to come from Farrukhabad. He stated that "घटना के बाद मैंने अपनी पत्नी को फर्रुखाबाद की बस में बैठा दिया था उस बस का नंबर मुझे याद नहीं है उस यात्रा की टिकट मेरी पत्नी ने ली थी मैंने नहीं ली थी" This seems to be most unnatural conduct on the part of the parent, whose son was allegedly murdered by the accused-appellant/his body guard right in front of their eyes, as claimed in the FIR.

[13] From the aforesaid analysis, it is clear that the present FIR was registered after unexplained delay of 5:30 hours where the police station is hardly three furlong (603.50 mtr.) from the place of occurrence as stressed by learned counsel for the appellant. Yet another connected aspect of the issue is that, 02.03.2010 was the next day of Holi and it was six in the evening, Surendra Singh, S.S.I. was S.H.O. police station-Jalalabad on the date of incident. However, he was put before the court as PW-6 and was cross-examined, where he has stated that "घटना वाला दिन होली का दूसरा दिन था गश्त व् पिकेट चल रही थी थाने से घटना स्थल की दूरी करीब तीन फ़र्लांग की है मृतक सुधांशु का मोबाइल नंबर मैंने लिखा था घटना की सूचना मुझे 15 मिनट के अंदर नहीं मिली थी बल्कि वादी ने आकर दी थी मेरे थाने जलालाबाद में वायरलेस है कोतवाली फतेहगढ़ में वायरलेस है"

On conjoint reading of both the statements, it is clear that it was the next day of Holi and incident is at 6 p.m in the evening where it is claimed that the police party was on the picket to maintain public peace and order. This serious incident has taken place within a range of three furlong (603.50 mtr.) from the place of occurrence and the police party remain oblivious of this serious shoot out in the evening at 6 and it is the informant who has given this information after 5:30 hours, which itself castes serious question mark upon the way and manner this shoot out have taken place and thereafter FIR was lodged after inordinate delay. The conduct of the informant, as mentioned in their cross-examination that after shoot out, he has only turned the dead body of his son and rushed to the bus station to sent his wife to Farrukhabad instead of going to the doctor or to the police station. All this aspect of the issue are most unnatural and against normal human behaviour.

RIGHT OF PRIVATE DEFENCE :

[14] The second aspect of the issue is as to whether this shoot out was as a result of exercising the right of private defence by the accused appellant and the injuries sustained by the deceased-Sudhanshu ? After the death of Sudhanshu, deady body was sent by the police for autopsy. Dr. Suresh Kumar Vashisth, PW-4 who conducted the autopsy on 03.03.2010 at 1:30 p.m. has submitted that (i) there was a gun shot injury of 0.9 cm x 0.8 cm x embedded under the chest below the right shoulder of 15 cm. The margins were inverted and blackening and tattooing were present, (ii) gun shot wound of exit of 1.5 cm x 1 cm which corresponded to the injury no.1 from the back side of the shoulder of 15 cm below. Both the injuries were through and through, (iii) wound of entry of 1 cm x 0.8 cm x inside the stomach which is embedded inside the right buttock. Around both the wound, there was blackening and scotching, suggestive of the fact that fire over the deceased was from the close proximity, say about 2-3 meters. As a result of second gun shot injury, deceased's right pelvic girdle was found fractured. The brain was paled, third rib was fractured, both the lobs of lungs were scattered. The heart was empty and within plural cavity, there was two ltrs. of blood present and the cause of injury was excessive blood loss. The doctor also took out one metallic bullet inside the stomach which was sealed and handed over to the police personally.

[15] At this juncture, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the recovery of the metallic bullet attains significance. Since, there is no resistance of bone inside the stomach, full metallic bullet was recovered but when the said bullet was sent to the F.S.L. examination, the F.S.L. examination report in its report dated 04.09.2010 the expert opined that the said bullet was engraved with the sign 'E B-1' when compared with rifle no.AB-93-1985. It cannot be compared as peculiar feature of the bullet recovered from inside the body were completely missing. It is also mentioned in the F.S.L. report that the alleged recovered bullet 'E B-1' was in mutilated and incomplete one. It is shocking that the doctor has handed over the complete bullet in a sealed cover but the Investigating Officer of the case is sending bullet which is incomplete and mutilated one. Thus, under the circumstances, the expert has expressed his inability to give any opinion with regard to the operation by that rifle. This is classic example which put grave question mark about the standard of investigation and the working of the police. This is a million dollar question and it is the police who has to give explanation for this deep rooted incompetence which has given benefit to the defence.

Exercise of right of private defence and its applicability in the present case [16] Before coming to the aspect of the issue, it is imperative that as many as three named and one unknown person were made accused in the present case and the police after holding thorough investigation, have dropped the name of two named accused persons namely Ms. Seema and Nidhi and one unknown person from the charge sheet. It is admitted fact that, the deceased Sudhanshu got married with Nidhi and specific role has been attributed to her i.e. of exhortation to his father/accused. The appellant/accused has given deadly blow upon the deceased, who was her husband. PW-6, Surendra Singh, S.H.O, was entrusted with the investigation, asked his subordinate Shri Ram Lakhan Singh to assess the authenticity of this allegation against Nidhi Mishra as she was entrusted with positive role. Sri Ram Lakhan Singh went to Aligarh and after collecting sufficient material from various quarters, submitted that on the date and time of the incident, she was at Aligarh preparing for her B.A.M.S. examination from Aligarh University. Therefore, after being satisfied, the police has dropped the name of Nidhi Mishra from the charge sheet. It is stated that these non-charge sheeted named accused persons were never tried by the prosecution to summon them in exercise of power under section 319 Cr.P.C.

[17] Now, coming to the real issue which has resulted into this unfortunate incident. The informant Ashok Kumar Dubey has casted positive story that on the eve of convening 'panchayat' to resolve the deep rooted discord between his son and appellant/accused, after the exhortation made by Nidhi Mishra, his father/unknown person has given fire upon his own son-in-law. This was serious allegation given by the counter part of the appellant upon his own samdhi and daughter-in-law. Whereas PW-3, Nawab in his testimony, has changed the entire texture of the case. The interesting feature is that PW-3 has not been declared Hostile by the Court. In his testimony, PW-3, Nawab, in no uncertain terms, have revealed that on 03.03.2010 right in front of his eyes, the police has taken out one tamancha and 2-3 live cartridges and blood soaked earth was also taken from the place of occurrence. PW-3 put a signature over the recovery of 315 bore tamancha and the cartridge by the police from the place of occurrence.

He further stated that he and the appellant enjoys the common wall in between two shops. At that relevant point of time, he came to the clinic of the appellant. Tamancha was loaded one and at the relevant time, neither the informant nor his wife Smt. Pushpa was present in the clinic. The accused appellant is having one Nursing home. The deceased often abused his own father-in-law on phone and was insisting to transfer the property(nursing home) in his name and this was the sole bone of contention between them. As soon as he came to the clinic, the deceased pointed out tamancha upon his father-in-law, the appellant. It is the body guard/gunner who has given first blow upon Sudhanshu(deceased) apprehending threat to his master/appellant and the second fire was given, when Sudhanshu again tried to eliminate his father-in-law by fixing his target. This testimony of Nawab assumes extreme importance as he is independent witness of the incident as prosecution witnesses. He stated in his cross-examination that :

''अभियुक्त जगदीश नारायण मिश्रा की दूकान मेरे पड़ोस में है |मैं घटना के समय अपनी दुकान पर था इस तमंचा में एक कारतूस लगा हुआ था |घटना के समय मृतक के पिता अशोक कुमार व माता श्रीमती पुष्पा दुकान पर मौजूद नहीं थे| मुल्जिम का नर्सिंग होम बरेली जलालाबाद रोड पर नया निर्मित है मृतक अभियुक्त से फ़ोन पर गली गलोच करता था व नर्सिंग होम वाली सम्पति व अन्य सम्पति अपने नाम हस्तानांतरण के लिए कहता था इसी बात का विवाद था | दूकान पर मुल्जिम के अंगरक्षक हरिपाल उर्फ़ बब्बा व दो तीन लोग मौजूद थे |अंगरक्षक ने ही मृतक सुधांशु पर फायर किया था |दूसरा फायर घूमकर सुधांशु ने फिर करना चाहा तो अंगरक्षक ने दूसरा फायर फिर सुधांशु पर किया |उस समय सीमा व निधि दूकान पर मौजूद नहीं थे''

[18] From the place of occurrence, the police has recovered one 315 bore country made pistol from the right hand of Sudhanshu(deceased) and two live cartridges. The natural query is that, if somebody is going to have 'panchayat' to resolve the tangle, why anybody would carry weapon with him? Moreover, when the son-in-law is going to meet his own father-in-law and why the father-in-law would kill his own son-in-law, making her daughter widow unless and until something very serious is expecting to occur for the life and security of father-in-law/appellant himself.

This issue has to be resolved from the testimonies of the various witnesses. There are two parallel stories (i) Father-in-law has eliminated his own son-in-law on the exhortation made by her own daughter Nidhi Mishra as the deceased has declined the offer to become ghar-jamai. (I) There is shoot out between accused/appellant and the deceased son-in-law as he came to meet the accused-appellant with different design with weapon in his possession, to eliminate his own father-in-law for the sake of his property. Thus, Right of Private Defence is now claimed by the appellant-accused.

[19] Per contra, counter theory has been narrated by the accused/appellant that it is the son-in-law who became greedy and asking his father-in-law to transfer his entire property including clinic in his name which was declined by his father-in-law. On this score, there was a long drawn bad breath and differences between the father-in-law and son-in-law. Infuriated by this, son-in-law Sudhanshu came on the fateful day with tamancha of 315 bore and pointed on his own father-in-law which resulted into gunning down of his own son-in-law Sudhanshu in exercise of power of right to private defence by accused/appellant. The police has recovered the said tamancha and prepared its recovery memo. In the "Inquest report" too, there is reference of alleged tamancha of 315 bore and its specifications. Thus, it cannot be said that this tamancha was planted one. PW-3, Nawab in his testimony and thereafter formal witnesses have supported this angle of the case.

[20] Learned counsel for the appellant has strenuously argued that this unfortunate incident has taken place in exercise of power of right of private defence and has pointed out following relevant sections of IPC in connection with present case which reads thus :-

The private defence is defined in Section 96 of IPC which says nothing is offence which is done in exercise of right of private defence. Section 97 of IPC provides that right to private defence of the body and the property which reads thus :-

"97. Right of private defence of the body and of property.—

Every person has a right, subject to the restrictions contained in section 99, to defend—(First)— His own body, and the body of any other person, against any offence affecting the human body;(Secondly)— The property, whether movable or immovable, of himself or of any other person, against any act which is an offence falling under the definition of theft, robbery, mischief or criminal trespass, or which is an attempt to commit theft, robbery, mischief or criminal trespass."

Section 100 of IPC provides that when the right of private defence of body extends of causing death. Section 100 of IPC is quoted hereinbelow :-

"The right of private defence of the body extends, under the restrictions mentioned in the last preceding section, to the voluntary causing of death or of any other harm to the assailant, if the offence which occasions the exercise of the right be of any of the descriptions hereinafter enumerated, namely:

1. Such an assault as may reasonably cause the apprehension that death will otherwise be the consequence of such assault;

2. Such an assault as may reasonably cause the apprehension that grievous hurt will otherwise be the consequence of such assault;

3. An assault with the intention of committing rape;

4. An assault with the intention of gratifying unnatural lust;

5. An assault with the intention of kidnapping or abducting;

6. An assault with the intention of wrongfully confining a person, under circumstances which may reasonably cause him to apprehend that he will be unable to have recourse to the public authorities for his release.

7. An act of throwing or administering acid or an attempt to throw or administer acid which may reasonably cause the apprehension that grievous hurt will otherwise be the consequence of such act."

Section 102 IPC is quoted hereinbelow :-

"The right of private defence of the body commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension of danger to the body arises from an attempt or threat to commit the offence though the offence may not have been committed; and it continues as long as such apprehension of danger to the body continues."

[21] In addition to this, learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Periyasamy Vs. State reported in (2024) SCC Online SC 314. The Hon'ble

Apex Court while dealing with the above aspect of the issue have referred the 'Right of Private Defence' in paragraph no.18 of the above judgment which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"The principle is best captured in the following words found in Russel on Crime, 11th Edition Vol.I

"... a man is justified in resisting by force anyone who manifestly intends and endeavours by violence or surprise to commit a known felony against either his person, habitation or property. In these cases, he is not obliged to retreat, and may not merely resist the attack where he stands but may indeed pursue his adversary until the danger is ended and if in a conflict between them he happens to kill his attacker, such killing is justifiable".

[22] Though, the Right of Private Defence is nowhere defined in the IPC. It would depend on the circumstances of each case that such right is available or not, is determined within the said boundaries only. No test in abstract can be laid down for determining whether the person legitimately acted in private defence. The law only provides that a person claiming such right bears the onus to prove the legitimacy of his action done in furtherance thereof and it is not the Court to presume the presence of such circumstance or the truth in such plea being taken.

[23] In another judgment in the case of Darshan Singh Vs. State of Punjab and another, reported in (2010) 2 Supreme Court Cases 333 Hon'ble the Apex Court has mentioned the following principles regarding Right of Private Defence :-

" 3. The following principles of right to private defence emerge :-

(i) Self-preservation is the basic human instinct and is duly recognized by the criminal jurisprudence of all civilized countries. All free, democratic and civilized countries recognize the right of private defence within certain reasonable limits.

(ii) The right of private defence is available only to one who is suddenly confronted with the necessity of averting an impending danger and not of selfcreation.

(iii) A mere reasonable apprehension is enough to put the right of self defence into operation. In other words, it is not necessary that there should be an actual commission of the offence in order to give rise to the right of private defence. It is enough if the accused apprehended that such an offence is contemplated and it is likely to be committed if the right of private defence is not exercised.

(iv) The right of private defence commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension arises and it is co-terminus with the duration of such apprehension.

(v) It is unrealistic to expect a person under assault to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude.

(vi) In private defence the force used by the accused ought not to be wholly disproportionate or much greater than necessary for protection of the person or property.

(vii) Even if the accused does not plead self-defence, it is open to consider such a plea if the same arises from the material on record.

(viii) The accused need not prove the existenc-e-Of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt.

(ix) The IPC confers the right of private defence only when that unlawful or wrongful act is an offence.

(x) A person who is in imminent and reasonable danger of losing his life or limb may in exercise of self defence inflict any harm even extending to death on his assailant either when the assault is attempted or directly threatened."

[24] Now moot question for determination are in two fold (I) whether action of assault on the part of accused appellant was in exercise of right of private defence ? (ii) Whether he has exceeded his limits in exercise of private defence by giving successive fires upon the deceased ?

[25] From the aforesaid postulates propounded by Hon'ble Apex Court, it is mere reasonable apprehension in the mind of the accused is sufficient to put a right of self-defence into operation. In other words, it is not necessary that there should be an actual commission of the offence in order to give Right of Private Defence. It is enough that if accused apprehends that such an offence is contemplated and it is every likely to be committed if Right of Private Defence is not exercised. The Right of Private Defence commences as soon as reasonable apprehension arises and it is co-terminus with the duration of such apprehension. It is unrealistic to expect a person under the assault to modulate his defence step by step with arithmetical exactitude. In this regard, there is yet another judgment relied by learned counsel for the appellant that in the case of James Martin Vs. State of Kerala reported in 2004 Supreme Court Cases (Cri) 487 , paragraph no.18 of which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"Situations have to be judged from the subjective point of view of the accused concerned in the surrounding excitement and confusion of the moment, confronted with a situation of peril and not by any microscopic and pedantic scrutiny. In adjudging the question as to whether more force than was necessary was used in the prevailing circumstances on the spot it would be inappropriate, as held by this Court, to adopt tests by detached objectivity which would be so natural in a Court room, or that which would seem absolutely necessary to a perfectly cool bystander. The person facing a reasonable apprehension of threat to himself cannot be expected to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude of only that much which is required in the thinking of a man in ordinary times or under normal circumstances."

[26] In this regard, the conditions formulated in Darshan Singh's case (supra) is of great importance. Similarly, in the case of James Martin (supra), it was observed by Hon'ble the Apex Court that, 'situations have to be judged from the subjective point of view of the accused concerned in the surrounding, excitement and confusion of moment confronted with a situation of peril and not by any microscopic and pedantic scrutiny. In adjudging the question as to whether more force then was necessary used in the prevailing circumstances on the spot, it would be inappropriate as held by the court to adopt test by detached objectivity which would be so natural in a court room, or that would seem absolutely necessary to a perfect cool bystander.

A person facing a reasonable apprehension of threat to himself cannot be expected to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude of only that much which is required in the thinking of a man in ordinary times or under normal circumstances.

[27] Learned counsel for the appellant has drawn the attention of the Court to the recent judgment in the case of Ex. CT. Mahadev Vs. The Direction General, B.S.F and ors. Reported in 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 551 , paragraph no.21 of which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"21. To sum up, the right of private defence is necessarily a defensive right which is available only when the circumstances so justify it. The circumstances are those that have been elaborated in the IPC. Such a right would be available to the accused when he or his property is faced with a danger and there is little scope of the State machinery coming to his aid. At the same time, the courts must keep in mind that the extent of the violence used by the accused for defending himself or his property should be in proportion to the injury apprehended. This is not to say that a step to step analysis of the injury that was apprehended and the violence used is required to be undertaken by the Court; nor is it feasible to prescribe specific parameters for determining whether the steps taken by the accused to invoke private self-defence and the extent of force used by him was proper or not. The Court's assessment would be guided by several circumstances including the position on the spot at the relevant point in time, the nature of apprehension in the mind of the accused, the kind of situation that the accused was seeking to ward off, the confusion created by the situation that had suddenly cropped up resulting the in knee jerk reaction of the accused, the nature of the overt acts of the party who had threatened the accused resulting in his resorting to immediate defensive action, etc. The underlying factor should be that such an act of private defence should have been done in good faith and without malice. "

Learned counsel for the appellant has further drawn the attention of the Court to the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dharam Vs. State of Haryana reported in (2007) 15 SCC 241, paragraph no.61 of which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"18. Thus, the basic principle underlying the doctrine of the right of private defence is that when an individual or his property is faced with a danger and immediate aid from the State machinery is not readily available, that individual is entitled to protect himself and his property. That being so, the necessary corollary is that the violence which the citizen defending himself or his property is entitled to use must not be unduly disproportionate to the injury which is sought to be averted or which is reasonably apprehended and should not exceed its legitimate purpose. We may, however, hasten to add that the means and the force a threatened person adopts at the spur of the moment to ward off the danger and to save himself or his property cannot be weighed in golden scales. It is neither possible nor prudent to lay down abstract parameters which can be applied to determine as to whether the means and force adopted by the threatened person was proper or not. Answer to such a question depends upon a host of factors like the prevailing circumstances at the spot, his feelings at the relevant time, the confusion and the excitement depending on the nature of assault on him, etc. Nonetheless, the exercise of the right of private defence can never be vindictive or malicious. It would be repugnant to the very concept of private defence."

is the human psyche at the spur of moment which reacts to ward of the danger and to save himself, which is basic human instinct. It cannot be weighed on any golden scale or with any mathematical precision. It differs from person to person, situation to situation and no steel jacket or airthematical formula could be propounded to meet out such a situation. At the time, the accused has to see how his life could be saved from such a grim situation, when his opponent has fixed his target towards him or trying to liquidate him from the close proximity. Anything could happen at any time. It is neither possible or prudent to laid down the abstract parameters which can be applied to determine as to what means or force could be used by person under calamity. He could flee away from the site or he became aggressor. Answer to such type of question depends upon the host of factors, like prevailing circumstance at the spot, his feeling at relevant time, the confusion and the excitement depending upon the nature of assault upon him etc. If we judge the action of appellant that, it is clear cut case of the prosecution that appellant has exceeded his limits while exercising his valuable right of private defence by giving successive fires upon the deceased, ensuring his death. But, if we examine the testimony of PW-3, Nawab, who in no uncertain terms states that the deceased even after receiving first gun shot upon his person again aimed at the appellant by his tamancha from a close proximity. This scenario could be well visualized and appreciated that the appellant in exercise of his right of private defence commences as soon as reasonable apprehension arises and co-terminus with that duration that reasonable apprehension lasts. There cannot be steel jacket formula that while exercising this right, only single shot is good enough. But, fact remains that this exercise of right of private defence can never be vindictive or malicious, as it would be repugnant to very concept of private defence.

[29] Under the circumstances, let us examine the facts of the present case and speculate the circumstances hypothetically in which the appellant/accused was placed. He was pitted against his own son-in-law/deceased with illegal tamancha in his hand and was standing right in front of him in the close proximity. There was heated altercation which had already taken place and both of them are against each other standing nearby. It could be anybody's call. The shadow/gunner has given first fire upon appellant causing serious injury over his vital part. The aggressor again turned and fixed the target over the accused person, the second shot was fired upon him causing his death, as it is clearly indicated in the deposition of PW-3, Nawab in his cross-examination, in which he stated that :

"दूकान पर मुल्जिम के अंगरक्षक हरिपाल उर्फ़ बब्बा व दो तीन लोग मौजूद थे |अंगरक्षक ने ही मृतक सुधांशु पर फायर किया था |दूसरा फायर घूमकर सुधांशु ने फिर करना चाहा तो अंगरक्षक ने दूसरा फायर फिर सुधांशु पर किया |उस समय सीमा व निधि दूकान पर मौजूद नहीं थे"

It is true that no fire was made by the deceased upon the appellant, but it has given rise to a serious apprehension in the mind of appellant/shadow gunner, that if no action is taken by them in next few seconds, it is just possible that deceased may kill the appellant. The decision has to be taken within spur of moment or rather fraction of seconds.

[30] It is almost settled by the various pronouncement by the Hon'ble Apex Court that the situation has to be judged from subjective satisfaction of the individual accused. No father-in-law would eliminate his own son-in-law making his own daughter widow, unless and until he is put under the serious and extra-ordinary peril in which his own survival is under immense threat and severe danger. If the deceased is carrying the tamancha in his hand, going for the alleged panchayat, this by itself is surprising that he was expecting something untoward may happen in which he may use the weapon. Exactly, the same thing happened, when he put his tamancha fixing the target upon his own father-in-law, then in that situation, it could be anybody's call. Even after having the first gun shot, he again turned up and fixed the target again giving more than reasonable apprehension to the accused, that again there is chance to be eliminated. Under these circumstances, second/successive shot was fired upon the deceased in order to save the appellant's life. Thus, by no stretch of imagination, it could be termed that second shot was vindictive or driven by some malice. In fact, the accused appellant is now looser from both the sides. He might be killed by the deceased who is his son-in-law or even after killing the deceased, though, the appellant has saved himself, but has made his daughter widow as argued by Sri Hajela, learned counsel for the appellant.

[31] Learned A.G.A. as well as counsels for the informant submits that, this is nothing but a cold blooded murder by the accused/appellant, who brutally killed his own son-in-law by giving successive fires upon him to ensue his death. Assuming for the sake of argument that the deceased was carrying country made 315 bore tamancha in his hand, but not a single shot was fired by him. It is not the question of firing by the tamancha, but it has given sufficient apprehension in the mind of appellant, that he would be murdered, if he does not exercise his valuable right of private defence.

[32] Per contra, learned counsel for the complainant as well as learned A.G.A. have referred the judgment in the case of Jangir Singh Vs. State of Punjab in Criminal Appeal no.2499 of 2009 decided on 31.10.2018, paragraph no.12 of which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"The law on this aspect of causing disproportionate harm and exceeding right to private defence is amply clear. In cases of disproportionate harm leading to death of the aggressor, sentence under section 304 part-I is the appropriate sentence."

[33] There is yet another judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Gopal and another Vs. State of Rajasthan reported in (2013) 2 Supreme Court Cases 188, paragraph no.17 of which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"Regarding the plea of private defence, it is useful to refer a decision of this Court in V. Subramani & Anr. Vs. State of T.N. (2005) 10 SCC 358. The following principles and conclusion are relevant:

"11. The only question which needs to be considered is the alleged exercise of right of private defence. Section 96 IPC provides that nothing is an offence which is done in the exercise of the right of private defence. The section does not define the expression "right of private defence". It merely indicates that nothing is an offence which is done in the exercise of such right. Whether in a particular set of circumstances, a person legitimately acted in the exercise of the right of private defence is a question of fact to be determined on the facts and circumstances of each case. No test in the abstract for determining such a question can be laid down. In determining this question of fact, the court must consider all the surrounding circumstances. It is not necessary for the accused to plead in so many words that he acted in self-defence. If the circumstances show that the right of private defence was legitimately exercised, it is open to the court to consider such a plea. In a given case the court can consider it even if the accused has not taken it, if the same is available to be considered from the material on record. Under Section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short "the Evidence Act"), the burden of proof is on the accused, who sets up the plea of self-defence, and, in the absence of proof, it is not possible for the court to presume the truth of the plea of self-defence. The court shall presume the absence of such circumstances. It is for the accused to place necessary material on record either by himself adducing positive evidence or by eliciting necessary facts from the witnesses examined for the prosecution. An accused taking the plea of the right of private defence is not necessarily required to call evidence; he can establish his plea by reference to circumstances transpiring from the prosecution evidence itself. The question in such a case would be a question of assessing the true effect of the prosecution evidence, and not a question of the accused discharging any burden. Where the right of private defence is pleaded, the defence must be a reasonable and probable version satisfying the court that the harm caused by the accused was necessary for either warding off the attack or for forestalling the further reasonable apprehension from the side of the accused. The burden of establishing the plea of self-defence is on the accused and the burden stands discharged by showing preponderance of probabilities in favour of that plea on the basis of the material on record. (See Munshi Ram v. Delhi Admn. (1968) 2 SCR 455, State of Gujarat v. Bai Fatima,(1975) 2 SCC 7, State of U.P. v. Mohd. Musheer Khan, (1977) 3 SCC 562, and Mohinder Pal Jolly v. State of Punjab,(1979) 3 SCC 30.) Sections 100 to 101 define the extent of the right of private defence of body. If a person has a right of private defence of body under Section 97, that right extends under Section 100 to causing death if there is reasonable apprehension that death or grievous hurt would be the consequence of the assault. The oft-quoted observation of this Court in Salim Zia v. State of U.P.,(1979) 2 SCC 648 runs as follows: (SCC p. 654, para 9) "It is true that the burden on an accused person to establish the plea of self-defence is not as onerous as the one which lies on the prosecution and that while the prosecution is required to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, the accused need not establish the plea to the hilt and may discharge his onus by establishing a mere preponderance of probabilities either by laying basis for that plea in the cross-examination of prosecution witnesses or by adducing defence evidence." The accused need not prove the existence of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt. It is enough for him to show as in a civil case that the preponderance of probabilities is in favour of his plea."

[34] The accused appellant in his 313 Cr.P.C. statement, in his last reply stated that his son-in-law(deceased) came to his clinic and challenged him by putting under the threat of tamancha and his bodyguard fired upon him. The injured deceased even after having one gun shot injury again revived and turned and tried to fix his target then only the second fire was fired.

The DW-1, Sri Ram Nath Pandey in his testimony stated that he went to appellant's clinic to fetch medicines where there were few patients and the accused appellant along with his private body guard were present. His son-in-law came and started hurling filthy abuses. The deceased was interested in property(clinic) to transfer in his name. He further stated, :

''सुधांशु कोई फायर नहीं कर पाया था केवल ताना था डॉक्टर साहब के अंगरक्षक हरपाल उर्फ़ बब्बन ने सुधांशु के गोली मार दी सुधांशु को मैं पहले से जनता था की वह डॉक्टर साहब के दामाद है"

Learned counsels for the complainant underline that the deceased had only fixed his target but did not fire. I am unable to accept this argument of counsels for the informant. As mentioned above, it is subjective satisfaction of the accused as to how he cope with the situation. No mathematical formula could suffice the objective. It is the reasonable apprehension which counts.

[35] After hearing learned counsels for the contesting parties and the authorities cited by them, the Court has occasion to analyse the submissions and the legal pronouncement in this regard. As rightly pointed out by Hon'ble the Apex Court that there cannot be golden parameters or arithmetical formula to judge that the force used by the aggressor is excessive or beyond the limits. As mentioned, neither it is prudent nor desirable to lay down any abstract parameters to determine as to whether the means and force adopted by threatened person was proper or not ? The answer to this query depends upon the host of the factors aggressor's own psyche, his own temperament and behaviour, his own feeling at the relevant time, the confusion and the excitement depending upon the nature of assault upon him. The weapon carried by the aggressor and he is in near proximity, all these factors has to be counted while deciding that the appellant has transgressed his limit of right of private defence or not. Whether he has any vindictive or malicious idea in eliminating the deceased ? As mentioned above, the inter se relationship between the appellant and deceased was quite delicate. The appellant's own life and the future life of his daughter was at stakes and spur of moment, he has to take the call. In this situation, he has chosen to save his life after, subjectively satisfying himself and thereafter decided to kill his own son-in-law. As rightly pointed out by Sri Hajela that the appellant is looser from both the sides and as such, we are of the opinion that the power and force used by the appellant while eliminating his son-in-law, is not excessive or beyond the limits and he has acted in exercising the right of private defence.

[36] Thus, from the aforesaid discussion, we are unable to accept the findings and the conclusion recorded by learned Additional Session Judge, Court No.2, Shahjahanpur in deciding the S.T. No.457 of 2010 arising out of case crime no.155 of 2010 under section 302 IPC and Section 30 of the Arms Act, police station-Jalalabad, District-Shahjahanpur convicting the appellant and sentencing for life imprisonment under section 302 IPC and fine of Rs.50,000/- and under section 30 of the Arms Act for six months rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.2,000/-.

[37] The present appeal stands ALLOWED. The judgment and order dated 07.05.2013 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Shahjahanpur in S.T. No.457 of 2010 arising out of case crime no.155 of 2010 is hereby set-aside. The appellant is on bail. He need not to surrender but his sureties are discharged and the appellant is set at liberty forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

4. The prosecution case in brief is that the informant Digvijay Singh, son of Harivansh Singh, resident of Village Patti Khemanrai, Police Station Gahmar, District-Ghazipur, lodged an FIR at police station concerned on 25.4.2013, by presenting a written report (Ext.Ka1) with averment that on 25.4.2013 in the evening, his elder brother Ajay Singh, who was posted in Bengal Engineering (Army), Pune, as Hawaldar, informant, his father and uncle Shiv Shanker Singh were conversing in compound of the house, at around 20:15 hours, accused Dhruvjeet Singh arrived there with his four sons Rakesh Singh, Santosh Singh, Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh and exhorted his sons to kill informant's side as they have increased their attitude. Thereupon, the four sons of Dhruvjeet opened fire on Ajay Singh, the elder brother of informant, indiscriminately, which hit him on chest and right hand and he fell down being seriously injured in pool of blood. The informant ran to save him but accused Vimlesh Singh hit him on his right ear by butt of his firearm. When Shiv Shanker Singh, the uncle of informant, ran to save the informant, Akhilesh Singh and Santosh Singh lifted him and dashed him on the ground. They assaulted him brutally by hockey sticks, which were lying nearby the place of incident. The assailants fled away towards east by their two motorcycles after flashing their firearms. A panic and pall of horror prevailed in the locality due to this daring act of the accused persons and the people of locality got panicked and closed the windows and doors of their house being scared by the incident. The informant rushed to police station for lodging the FIR with the injured, his elder brother namely, Ajay Singh.

5. The FIR (Ext.Ka-1) was lodged on 25.4.2013, at 20:40 hours against five named accused persons under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 504, 506 IPC and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act and a case was registered at police station vide relevant GD entry at the same time under said sections. S.O. Ram Nihor Singh (PW-11) took over investigation of the case himself on the date of lodging of the FIR and recorded statement of the informant and author of FIR. The injured was unconscious as he had suffered several firearm shots. He got the dead body kept in the mortuary of the hospital from where death memo was sent to police station Kotwali. He also got medico legal examination of the informant conducted and mention its description in case diary. He sustained three injuries. He came back to police station and on account of death of the injured Ajay Singh and simple injuries of the witnesses, Section 302 and 323 IPC were added vide GD Report No.37, time 23:45 hours, dated 25.4.2013. He visited the place of incident alongwith the informant on 26.4.2013 and conducted spot inspection at the pointing out of the informant. He prepared site plan of the place of incident on which Ext.Ka-19 is marked.

22. He further stated that he had taken into possession four number of empty cartridges of .32 bore, two live cartridges of .32 bore, one live cartridge of 12 bore related to present case from the place of occurrence, in presence of witnesses Harihar Singh and Janardan Singh. He sealed the cartridges on the spot after preparing the specimen seal. He has also prepared a recovery memo of these empty and live cartridges in presence of the witnesses in his hand writing and signature and also obtained signature of witnesses thereon. He proved the recovery meme as Ext.Ka20 by his evidence. He also prepared an inventory of blood stained and plain earth taken from the place of occurrence, which bears his signature as well as signature of witnesses on which Ext.Ka21 and Ka-22 is marked. The witness also proved seizure memo of two broken hockey sticks, total in four number of pieces, which bears signature of the witness and other witnesses, on which Ext.Ka-23 has been marked. The witness has also stated that on 28.4.2013, the investigation was taken over by S.I. Himendra Singh, due to his proceeding on leave. He tried to arrest accused Rakesh Singh from Delhi as he was posted there in Army. He again resumed investigation of the case after his arrival from leave on 6.5.2013. He received an information regarding surrender of accused Santosh Singh, Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh in the Court as accused Rakesh Singh had already been arrested. He recorded statement of these three accused persons at District Jail, Ghazipur with permission of the Court. On 6.5.2013, he obtained police custody remand of accused Rakesh Singh and on 7.5.2013, at his pointing out during police custody remand a motorcycle TVS Apache (Black Color), bearing Registration No. UP61J-9907 and one countrymade pistol of 7.65 bore was recovered in the vicinity of pump canal situated eastward of village Gahmar in presence of witnesses Sanjay Singh and Manoj Kumar. He prepared recovery memo under his hand writing and signature and obtained signature of witnesses thereon, Ext.Ka-12 is marked on this paper. He sealed this countrymade pistol in a clothe and prepared sample seal thereof. He prepared site plan of place of recovery of 7.65 bore firearm, which is marked as Ext.Ka-24. He also recorded statement of accused Rakesh Singh in Parcha No.11-A of case diary on same day. On 1.5.2013, he obtained police custody remand of accused Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh and took them out from the jail for effecting the recoveries. On that day, one countrymade pistol of 0.12 bore was recovered on pointing out of accused Santosh Singh and he prepared its recovery memo under his writing and signature, on which Ext.Ka-13 is marked. This recovery was effected 100 meters eastward of said pump canal in Village Gahmar in presence of public witnesses namely Harendra and Satrudhan. He sealed the recovered firearm on the spot and prepared its specimen seal. He also prepared site plan of place of recovery on which Ext.Ka-25 is marked. He recovered a countrymade pistol of 0.32 bore used in the offence at the instance of accused Vimlesh Singh and prepared its recovery memo in his signature and writing in present of same witnesses on which Ext.Ka-15 is marked. He prepared site plan of place of recovery as one countrymade pistol was recovered at pointing out of accused Vimlesh on which Ext.Ka-26 is marked. Thereafter, he recovered one countrymade pistol of .315 bore in the vicinity of said pump canal on pointing out of accused Akhilesh Singh and took the same in his possession and prepared it recovery memo and sealed the firearm on the spot after preparing sample seal, Ext.Ka14 is marked on said recovery memo. The witness proved site plan of recovery memo of this firearm as Ext.Ka27 during his evidence. After effecting the recoveries, he produced three accused persons before jail and they were again taken into jail custody. He recorded statement of panch witnesses and other witnesses on 16.5.2013, 28.5.2013, 10.6.2013 and after finding sufficient evidence against accused persons for their prosecution, filed a chargesheet against all the four named accused persons under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307, 504, 506 IPC and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act, on which Ext.Ka-28 is marked. The witness produced two small boxes containing blood stained and plain soil collected from place of incident before the Court on which material Ext.1, 2 and 3 was marked. He produced firearms allegedly recovered at the pointing out of accused persons separately before the Court, which was kept in sealed cover and were received back after ballistic examination, which are described as .12 bore countrymade pistol (ME-6), one countrymade pistol 7.65 mm (.32 bore) (ME-7), one pistol of 7.65 mm (ME-8) and one countrymade pistol (katta) (ME-9) .315 bore before the Court. He also produced two empty cartridges of .12 bore recovered from the place of incident, on which Material Ext.10 was marked. He also produced two empty cartridges and two bullets on which T.C.-5 and T.C.-6 was marked and proved the same as ME-11 and ME-12 was marked on the envelop. He produced two bullets and two empty cartridges kept in another envelop as ME-13 and ME-14. He produced one live cartridge of .12 bore Shaktiman before the Court recovered from the place of incident as ME-15 and four empty cartridges recovered from the spot and kept in an envelope on which E.C.-1, 2, 3 and 4 was marked and proved the same as ME-17 and ME-18 was marked on envelope. He also produced one lead slug and two wads (plastic) recovered from the dead body as ME-23 and two wad pieces as ME-24. He also proved extracts of G.D. dated 27.4.2013, report No. 9 time 7:15 AM, being in his hand writing and signature by comparing the same with the original as Ext.Ka-26. He proved inquest report of deceased Ajay Singh, authored by S.I. Deena Nath Dubey, as secondary evidence, on which Ext.Ka-3 is marked. The witness proved report of forensic science laboratory with regard to ballistic examination of firearms recovered in the case as Ext.Ka-33, Ka-34, Ka-35 and Ka-36 by his evidence. The witness stated that during spot inspection of place of incident he had not found any motorcycle or bicycle. He proved the police forms prepared by S.I. Deenanath Dubey, the author of inquest report in his absence as Ext.Ka-27 to Ka-30, regarding whom he stated that he had worked with him at police Station Gahmar at the time of incident and was acquainted with his writing and signature. In inquest report (Ext.Ka-3), no crime number is mentioned. In inquest report, it is not shown as to with which police station the case relates. There is overwriting at the beginning of the inquest proceeding in regard to date. The author of inquest report had not stated that any report was lodged at any police station with regard to said dead body. He prepared site plan at the pointing out of informant. House of informant is one storey, which is surrounded by a boundary wall towards north and westwards. A pitch road situates in the eastern and northern side of this boundary and is adjacent to the boundary wall. The accused were about two meters away from the deceased at the time of incident. Apart from the body of the deceased, he had not found any sign of firearm shot at any place during investigation. He was not apprised of the source of light during the incident. He had shown an electric poll in site plan but there is no mention of installation of any bulb or burning of light on the said place. He had not mention number of empty and live cartridges found on the place of incident in description of inspection of place of incident. He prepare site plan firstly and then recovery memo of cartridges. This case was registered in his presence. On the basis of recovery of an empty cartridge and live cartridges, he believes that the cartridges of 32 bore and 12 bore were used in the offence. He received bullet recovered from the body of the deceased in sealed cover and had not inspected the same by opening the seal. He sent the same for ballistic examination to Forensic Science Laboratory in sealed cover. He effected recovery of firearms from four accused persons namely Rakesh Kumar Singh, Santosh Singh, Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh by obtaining police custody remand from the Court. The witness denied the defence suggestion that in tool box of the motorcycle recovered at the pointing out of accused, it was not possible to keep firearm (ME-8). He did not find any cartridge or empty at the time of recovery of ME-8 and a motorcycle was also recovered at the pointing out of accused Vimlesh and from its tool box, a countrymade pistol of 32 bore was recovered. The lock of motorcycle as well as of its tool box were found opened. There also is overwriting in timing of recovery on Ext.Ka-14 and Ka-15. He deposited the motorcycles and firearms recovered at the pointing out of accused persons at the police station. Section 302 and 323 IPC were added in penal sections vide GD report No.37, time 23:45 hours, dated 25.4.2013, after death of injured Ajay Singh because there were injured persons also and Section 323 IPC was left in chik FIR due to inadvertence. According to GD report No.9, time 17:15 AM, dated 27.4.2013, he recovered four empty cartridges and three live cartridges from the place of occurrence, as shown in the recovery memo. The case property produced before the Court does not consist of broken pieces of hockey sticks. He has proved two live and two empty cartridges and one bullet by his evidence, which are marked as Material Ext.10 to 17. He was not present at the time of inquest proceeding.

23. After conclusion of prosecution evidence, statement of accused persons have been recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which they have stated that the witnesses have falsely testified against them and the FIR is ante timed. PW-2, Shiv Shanker Singh also testified falsely as he is uncle of the informant. PW-3, Doctor Mohd. Jamil Ahmad, has prepared false injury report of Digvijay Singh and PW-5 has also prepared false injury report of Shiv Shanker Singh. PW-8, Dr. Pragati Kumar, who is also author of postmortem report, has also give false statement. PW-9, Constable Anand Rao has given false evidence under influence of his higher officers. All the police actions are wrongly carried out under influence of the informant. The witnesses have testified falsely against them. The investigation is tainted and result of undue influence of the informant.

24. Accused persons filed their written statement under Section 233 (2) Cr.P.C., wherein the accused Dhruvjeet Singh has stated that the injury reports of informant Digvijay Singh and his uncle Shiv Shanker Singh are fake and forged. In fact, they had not received any injury in the incident. The deceased was shot at by unknown persons and the witnesses were not present at that time. The accused and his sons are wrongly implicated in the case due to enmity and village partibandi. He had not met the deceased in the market on the fateful day, in fact, the accused and his sons are implicated in the case at the behest of Arvind Singh and his son Amrendra Singh @ Kishan Singh, who is posted in Army in view of his enmity with the accused persons on account of a case under Section 307 IPC instituted by accused Vimlesh Singh. Kishan Singh was companion and helper of deceased Ajay Singh. The informant, deceased and Kishan Singh were exerting pressure on accused persons to strike a compromise in said case of Section 307 IPC and on refusal of accused side to compromise that case, they harboured animosity with the accused persons and when Ajay Singh was shot at by unknown persons, the accused and his sons were roped in the case falsely. Similar written statements have been given by the other accused persons. Accused Vimlesh Singh has stated that Ajay Singh was killed in the darkness of night and the informant and Shiv Shanker Singh have assumed themselves as witness by procuring the injury reports, in which fake injuries are shown. All the four accused persons have denied to have made any recovery of vehicle or weapon of offence on their pointing out. Accused Rakesh Singh also stated that the weapon attributed to him cannot fit in the tool box of the motorcycle alleged to have been recovered on his pointing out.

25. The accused persons examined D.W.-1, Nagina Singh, in defence evidence, who stated that informant Digvijay Singh is his neighbour. He heard sound of firing in his shahen three years prior to his evidence before the Court. He rushed to the spot. It was 8:00 PM and there was no light in the village at that time. There was darkness. When he reached there, other people had also arrived there. He had seen Dhruvjeet Singh and his sons there. Ajay Singh was lying on the ground and had sustained firearm injury. He had not seen any other person present there having received firearm shot. He had not seen the persons who had shot the deceased as the assailants as they had already left the place. People who were there could not see the assailants. In cross-examination by the informant, this witness has stated that when he reached on the spot some people told him that Harihar and Ramveer Singh had shot the injured. He had not conversed with Dhruvjeet Singh and his sons in this matter. When he reached the spot, he had seen Dhruvjeet Singh and his four sons standing there. Uma Shanker Singh his a relative of Dhruvjeet Singh but he is not of same lineage, to which Dhruvjeet Singh belong. He entered in the hatha (compound) of Digvijay Singh from northern gate. This is wrong to say that he has falsely testified in the Court being cousin of Dhruvjeet Singh.

26. Feeling aggrieved by the jdugement and order of learned trial court, by which the appellants have been convicted for said charges and sentenced, as stated herein above, filed present criminal appeal under Section 374 Cr.P.C. before this Court.

27. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the judgement and order passed by the learned trial court is illegal and bad in the eye of law. Learned trial court has miserably failed to appreciate the evidence on record in proper perspective and in fact has misread the evidence appearing on record. Thus, the learned trial court has recorded conviction of the appellants and sentenced them without considering the full facts and circumstances of the case. The weapon of offence allegedly recovered at the pointing out of accused persons during their police custody remand did not match with the empty cartridges allegedly recovered by the Investigating Officer from the place of incident, which also belies the complicity of accused persons in the offence. No specific role has been attributed to accused Dhruvjeet Singh in the offence except the allegation of exhorting his sons to attack the informant's side. Nevertheless, he has also been convicted and sentenced in the same manner like his sons, who are attributed role of firing. In fact, entire prosecution version is manufactured and none of the accused persons have been involved in present murder case. The investigation is perfunctory and full of discrepancies. There is no consistency in the version of alleged eye-witnesses. In FIR no motive has been attributed to accused persons for committing the offence. However, in evidence this fact is developed in statement of witnesses that some altercation took place on the fateful day between accused Dhruvjeet Singh and the deceased in Gahmar market as the deceased had borrowed the motorcycle of his co-vi Arvind Singh, for visiting the marked in connection with some necessary purchasing as marriage of his cousin Archana Singh was scheduled on 29.4.2013 and Tilak Ceremony had already been performed. Dhruvjeet Singh got furious to this and he met the deceased in Gahmar market on that day in the evening and abused as well as threatened because he was inimical to Arvind Singh from whom deceased had borrowed motorcycle. This is hardly believable that a person would get the other, who is his co-villager, killed only on account of this weak motive that the deceased had borrowed motorcycle for carrying out some purchasing from a person with whom the accused side was inimical.

28. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the learned trial court failed to consider many anomalies in prosecution evidence. As per the prosecution story, a countrymade pistol of .315 bore has been recovered from the pointing out of appellant No.2 Akhilesh Singh but the empty cartridge of .315 bore has not been recovered from the place of occurrence and as per the recovery memo dated 26.4.2013, prepared by Investigating Officer (Ext.Ka-20), the empty cartridge of .32 bore had been found at the place of occurrence alongwith two live cartridge of .32 bore and one live cartridge of 12 bore. The appellants are not having any prior criminal history. They have been falsely implicated in the case. The appellant Rakesh Kumar Singh and Akhilesh Singh have undergone about 11 years of actual imprisonment in this case and appellant Vimlesh and Santosh have undergone about 8 years of actual imprisonment in this case.

29. Per contra, learned AGA appearing for the State submitted that the appellants have been convicted and sentenced by learned trial court on the basis of credible, cogent and ample evidence, which appeared on the record. All the facts, circumstances and evidence produced before the Court below were duly considered by the learned trial court while passing the impugned order, which is just, legal and proper and has been passed strictly in accordance with law after coming to the conclusion that the accused appellants committed the offence in question and which is proved beyond all reasonable doubt. This is a case of gruesome murder of an Army personnel who had visited his native place on leave to participate in marriage ceremony of his cousin. There was enmity between Kishan Singh and his father Arvind Singh and accused Vimlesh Singh. Accused Vimlesh Singh had lodged an FIR under Section 307 IPC against Kishan Singh and others and due to this criminal litigation, the accused side got enraged to find out the proximity of deceased with Arvind Singh and Kishan Singh. The appeals are devoid of merits and deserves to be dismissed.

30. The prosecution case in nutshell which prosecution side claims to have proved on the basis of oral evidence, medical evidence and also by scientific evidence produced from Forensic Science Laboratory is that the informant Digvijay Singh (PW-1) lodged an FIR at police station Gahmar on 25.4.2013 at 20:40 hours by producing a written report (Ext.Ka-1) with averment that his elder brother Ajay Singh works in Bengal Engineering (Army), Pune on the post of Hawaldar. On 25.4.2013, the informant, his father Harivansh Singh, his uncle Shiv Shanker Singh (PW-2) and his brother Ajay Singh were talking together in the boundary of their house at 8:15 PM, the accused Dhruvjeet Singh appeared alongwith his four sons namely Rakesh Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh and exhorted his sons to kill informant's side whereupon his sons opened fire indiscriminately on informant's side wherein his elder brother Ajay Singh suffered firearm injuries on his chest and right hand he fell down in pool of blood. The informant ran to save him but Vimlesh Singh attacked him by butt of his firearm on his right ear which caused him injury. His uncle Shiv Shanker Singh also ran to save him but Akhilesh Singh and Santosh Singh, threw him on the ground and assaulted him by hockey sticks, which were lying nearby, badly. Thereafter, assailants fled away by two motorcycles towards east. The incident caused panic and terror in the locality (mohalla) and people shut their windows and doors having been scared. The informant stated during trial as PW-1 that after happening of the incident, he carried injured Ajay Singh to police Station by a motorcycle from the place of incident, which was driven by him and his brother Sanjay Singh was sitting on back side of the motorcycle. He moved for police station just after the 5 to 7 minutes of the incident. Any other person had not accompanied them. They stayed at police station for 10 minutes and they narrated the incident to Darogaji and thereafter they filed a written report of the incident. The reached police station at around 8:24 hours. They moved to District Hospital, Ghazipur alongwith injured Ajay Singh by a vehicle arranged by Darogaji and reached hospital at about 9:30 PM. They were also accompanied by Darogaji and two constables. His brother Sanjay Singh and some other persons also reached at District Hospital by another vehicle. Injured Ajay Singh died during journey or on his arrival at hospital in the night. This death is recorded in Police Station Kotwali Ghazipur on 22:10 hours (10:10 PM) on 25.4.2013. The case was initially lodged under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 504, 506 IPC and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act and after receiving death memo from the hospital, Section 302/323 IPC was added in penal section vide GD No.37, time 23:45 hours on 25.4.2013. The inquest on dead body of deceased was carried out by Kotwali police on 26.4.2013 between 11:00 AM to 12:13 PM and postmortem examination was done on same day at 2:00 PM, wherein five firearm injuries were detected, out of which two injuries were wound of entry and two injuries were wound of exit and one firearm injury on chest was not having corresponding exit wound. One metallic bullet 1cm X 1cm cylindrical in shape and 2 wads piece was recovered, which was stucked between intestine. PW-8, Dr. Pragat Kumar, who is author of postmortem report opined the cause of death as haemorrhagic shock as a result of antemortem firearm injuries. Medico legal examination of injuries of informant Digvijay Singh (PW-1) was conducted at District Hospital, Ghazipur on 25.4.2013, at 10:40 PM, in which three lacerated wound were detected on different parts of right ear, which were found fresh in duration and were of simple nature. Injury report of injured Shiv Shaker Singh (Ext.Ka-4) reveals that his medico legal examination was conducted on 26.4.2013 at CSC, Bhadaura, Ghazipur at 10:00 AM and four contusions were found on head, shoulder, forearm and face. These injuries were also found simple and their duration was one day old. Thus, the injury reports of injured Digvijay and Shiv Shanker Singh correspond to the date and time of death of deceased propounded in prosecution version.

31. Prosecution has examined the aforesaid injured witnesses namely Digvijay Singh and Shiv Shanker Singh, who are brother and uncle of the deceased in support of prosecution version as eye-witnesses. We are not inclined to subscribe the defence suggestion that as the injuries of PW-1 and PW-2 were found simple in their medico legal examination, these could be manufactured or manipulated in injury report. This fact is noticeable that medico legal examination of Digvijay Singh (PW-1) and Shiv Shanker Singh (PW-2) has been conducted on injured memo (chitthi majroobi) issued by Ram Nihor Mishra (PW-11) under his signature, in which injuries of these injured are also corroborated the injuries mentioned in medico legal injury report prepared by Dr. Jamil Ahmad (PW3) and Dr. Naresh Prashad Chaudhari (PW-5), respectively. Although, no independent witness has been produced in support of prosecution version, yet the place of occurrence is established by evidence of eye-witnesses as Investigating Officer as compound of the house of the informant and deceased. The family members are inmates of the house and being injured witness also could be the natural witnesses and their presence cannot be doubted. This fact has also emerged during evidence that on fateful day deceased Ajay Singh had visited market for purchasing some goods as marriage of his cousin Archna Singh, who is daughter of his uncle and injured Shiv Shanker Singh, was fixed on 29.4.2013. He had borrowed motorcycle of one Arvind Singh of his mohalla for this purpose and this infuriated Dhruvjeet Singh as he thought that he was increasing proximity with Arvind Singh, to whom latter was having enmity due to previous litigation. The witnesses have also deposed that prior to the incident on same day Dhruvjeet Singh abused and assaulted the deceased in Gahmar market being enraged due to the fact that the deceased had borrowed motorcycle of his enemy (Arvind Singh). Although, this fact has not been mentioned in FIR and has surfaced in sworn testimony of the witnesses before the Court yet the case being based on direct evidence of eye-witnesses, non introduction of motive in FIR itself will not be damaging to prosecution case, as the defence has nowhere suggested that there were no inimical relations between Arvind Singh and accused side. This fact has also emerged during evidence and has not been denied by defence that Kishan Singh, who is also a defence personnel, was accused in a criminal case lodged against him at the instance of accused Vimlesh Singh for attempt to commit murder. Kishan Singh had also come on leave at the time of this incident. Kishan Singh belong to caste of the informant and he admitted that they were having normal relationship. The PW-1 has also stated that he was four brothers in all, out of whom one Sanjay Singh had died during trial and the other Ajay Singh is deceased in this case. He has only one surviving brother namely Dhananjay Singh. Deceased visited his native place by taking leave of 4-5 days prior to the incident. Dhananjay Singh was also working somewhere else and he was not present on the date of incident. Informant has stated that he was working in Vodafone at Sultanpur at the time of incident and he came to his village two days prior to the incident. His father Harivansh Singh was also an ex-serviceman, who worked for sometime after retirement in Power House, Singrauli. There was only one motorcycle in his house, which was taken in the name of his brother Dhananjay Singh. Deceased went back to home on fateful day around 8:00 PM. The informant also came back to home at around 7:45 PM. He had gone on feet in the village and came back to home. The main exit of his house is towards north and a pathway is adjacent to his exit. The accused Dhruvjeet Singh was blessed with five sons, out of whom four are accused in the case and fifth is Toofani. Accused Rakesh was also serving in Army and come to his native place on leave. Toofani was on his duty at the time of incident. Thus, the investigation in the case was carried out by PW-11, S.H.O. Ram Nihor Mishra. The witnesses have also stated that Harivansh Singh, the father of deceased, was present on the spot but he was physically invalid and could hardly pursue his daily chores.

32. So far as the sufficiency of motive is concerned, there may be force in defence argument that the motive introduced in prosecution evidence is not so strong as to drive the accused persons to commit a heinous offence like murder. Learned counsel for the appellant contended that only due to the fact that the deceased had borrowed motorcycle of a person with whom accused side was on inimical terms will not be a driving force for the accused side to kill the deceased. The law is well settled that in a case based on direct evidence of eye-witnesses, absence or insufficiency of motive loses its significance to much extent. Hon'ble Apex Court in recent judgement of Shankar vs. State of Maharashtra, passed on 15.3.2023 in Criminal Appeal No.954 of 2011, observed that is is also settled law that the motive loses all its importance in a case where direct evidence of eye-witnesses is available.

33. In Shivaji Chintappa Patil vs The State Of Maharashtra also Apex Court held that "Though in a case of direct evidence, motive would not be relevant, in a case of circumstantial evidence, motive plays an important link to complete the chain of circumstances. In the present case, the motive introduced in evidence of witnesses has been proved by evidence and the case being based on direct evidence, we are not inclined to explore the sufficiency of motive introduced and proved in prosecution evidence."

34. FIR in present case has been lodged with utmost promptitude as the date and time of occurrence shown in FIR as well as in evidence of prosecution witnesses is shown as 25.4.2013, at 20:15 hours and the FIR has been lodged within half an hour of the incident. In Chik FIR (Ext.Ka-4), the distance of police station from place of occurrence is shown as 1 kms only due to the fact that FIR has been lodged with utmost promptness, it cannot be treated as ante time as contended during submissions of appellant's counsel. There is nothing on record which could form basis to arrive at an inference that the FIR is ante time. There is an endorsement in heading of original copy of FIR (Ext.Ka-4) that vide GD report No.37, time 23:45 hours, dated 25.4.2013, Section 302/323 IPC is added. Therefore, we do no interpolation in FIR. The prosecution case can not be doubted only due to the certain facts which are later on introduced in evidence of eye-witnesses are missing in FIR. These facts does not form part of the incident as such. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ashabai Machindra Adhagale vs State Of Maharashtra & Ors, AIR 2009 SC 1973, held that it is well settled that a first information report is not an encyclopaedia which must disclose all facts and details relating to the offence reported.

35. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, in FIR itself, it is stated that the occurrence took place within the four corners of the house of the informant where he was sitting with his brother deceased Ajay Singh, uncle Shiv Shankar Singh and father Harivansh Singh and accused persons arrived there suddenly, who are appellants before this Court, opened fire causing fatal injuries to deceased Ajay Singh at 8:15 PM, who later succumbed to injuries within few hours of the incident at District Hospital, Ghazipur for his hospitalization. The place of occurrence is also proved by evidence of PW-11, S.H.O. Ram Nihor Mishra, who has proved site plan/sketch map of the place of occurrence prepared on pointing out of the informant and marked as Ext.Ka-19 by the evidence of Investigating Officer. The place of occurrence is shown in the site plan as 'sehan' of the informant where injured was shot at. The Investigating Officer also took into possession four pieces of two hockey sticks from the place of occurrence and collected four empty cartridge shells and one .12 bore live cartridge, two live cartridges .32 bore and took these in his possession. The suggestion has been given to PW-2 from defence side during cross-examination that Ajay Singh was shot at in the darkness of night by some unknown person and no such occurrence as propounded by prosecution occurred. Eye-witnesses have stated in their evidence that deceased sustained three firearm shots in the incident. PW-2 has clarified during cross-examination that the deceased suffered firearm shots while standing and thereafter he fell down. He was east facing when the occurrence took place. He was shot at by the pistol and katta (countrymade pistol). The place of occurrence shown and proved by prosecution in the case also finds support from evidence of DW-1, Nagina Singh, who stated in his examination-in-chief that firearm was shot in the sehan of Digvijay Singh (PW-1). He rushed to the place on hearing sound of firearm shot at that time. It was 8:00 PM. There was no light in the village. Some other persons also reached there. Dhruvjeet Singh and his all the sons present there. Ajay Singh was lying on the ground having suffered firearm shot. He could not see the assailants as they had run away. In cross-examination on behalf of the informant, he stated that deceased was carried to hospital by a Bolero Jeep on arrival of police. He heard that Harihar Singh and Ram Briksh Singh had shot the deceased on the place of incident. Had some other persons would have shot the deceased, the informant, who is real brother, must have named them in his written report (Ext.Ka-1). Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. Naresh, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 324, held as under:-

"The evidence of an injured witness must be given due weightage being a stamped witness, thus, his presence cannot be doubted. Thus, the testimony of an injured witness is accorded a special status in law. The witness would not like or want to let his actual assailant go unpunished merely to implicate a third person falsely for the commission of the offence."

36. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dalip Singh And Others vs State Of Punjab, AIR 1953 SUPREME COURT 364, held as under:

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause' for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalisation. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

The aforesaid dictum of Supreme Court was followed in case of Bur Singh vs. State of Punjab, AIR 2009 SC 157.

37. Even from evidence of DW-1, the place of occurrence is proved and statement of DW-1 lends support to prosecution case to some extent as he stated that he found accused persons on place of incident soon after the incident. Thus, in present case of direct evidence based on eye-witnesses examined on behalf of the prosecution, the evidence of defence witness can be used for limited purpose only for lending assurance to the conclusion already drawn on the basis of evidence of eye-witnesses regarding presence of all the accused persons on the place at the time of incident. Even DW-1 has stated that he visited the sehan of the informant at around 8:00 PM, which is the time of incident in prosecution version.

38. Hon'ble Apex Court in Jarnail Singh vs. State of Punjab, (1996) 1 SCC 527, observed that in "criminal cases the burden of proving the guilt of the accused beyond all reasonable doubts always rests on the prosecution and, therefore, if it fails to adduce satisfactory and reliable evidence to discharge that burden it cannot fall back upon the evidence adduced by the accused persons in support of their defence to rest its case solely thereupon. In the instant case, however, we find that the learned Courts below made use of the evidence of D.W.5 only for lending assurance to the conclusions already drawn by the learned Courts on the basis of the evidence of P.Ws 4 and 6. Such a course is legally and legitimately permissible, for D.W.5 was subjected to cross-examination - and in fact cross-examined - at the instance of the appellants after being cross examined by the Public Prosecutor. That the appellant could not elicit any answer in his favour thereby would not alter the position as regards the admissibility. relevancy or worth of the evidence of the above witness."

39. We find no force in submissions of learned counsel for the appellants that as the injuries of PW-1 and PW-2 were of simple in nature and they did not suffer any firearm injury during the incident, their presence on the spot is doubted. The witnesses have stated that prior to some time of the incident, some altercation took place between accused Dhruvjeet Singh and deceased in the market with regard to borrowing of motorcycle by the deceased from his enemy namely, Arvind Singh. The indignation of the accused side was on account of conduct of the deceased and this could have driven them to target the deceased and the informant and his uncle were assaulted only when they intervened to save the deceased. There was no intention of the accused persons to kill or cause fatal injuries to witnesses, thus, only due to the fact that the witnesses have not sustained any serious injury which would dangerous to life or some firearm injury, it cannot be inferred that they were not present on the spot and they had not seen the occurrence.

40. From perusal of record and evidence of PW-11, the Investigating Officer of the case, it appears that named accused Rakesh Singh was arrested in New Delhi from his place of posting as he was also an Army personnel. The Investigating Officer filed a report before his Superior Officer for seeking permission to arrest him and after completion of formalities, he was arrested on 1.5.2013 and was produced before the Court from where he was remanded to custody in present case on 3.5.2013. After his arrest, the Investigating Officer sought the police custody remand for recovery of motorcycle and pistol used in commission of the offence. Similarly, other accused persons, who are projected as assailants in the case namely, Vimlesh Singh, Akhilesh Singh and Santosh Singh surrendered before the Court. The Investigating Officer recorded their statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. in jail and sought their police custody remand for recovery of weapon used in the commission of offence, which was allowed by the court of CJM, Ghazipur vide order dated 10.5.2013. The Investigating Officer recovered one motorcycle TVS Apache (black color), by which the appellant Rakesh Singh and his brother Santosh Singh fled after commission of the offence and concealed the same in dense shrubs lying nearby pump canal towards east of village Gahmar and one country made pistol of 7.65 bore used in the commission of offence was recovered from its tool box in presence of public witnesses namely Sanjay Singh and Manoj Kumar Singh. The Investigating Officer has proved the recovery memo of this motorcycle and firearm by his evidence on which Ext.Ka-12 has been marked. Similarly, the Investigating Officer recovered a motorcycle CBZ during police custody remand of accused Vimlesh Kumar Singh at the pointing out of said Vimlesh Kumar Singh, which was also concealed in the same locality from where the weapon of offence and one motorcycle used in the commission of offence was recovered at the instance of accused Rakesh Singh on 7.5.2013. Accused Vimlesh Kumar Singh inserted his right hand in the tool box of said motorcycle and took out a countrymade pistol of 32 bore and handed over the same to the Investigating Officer. This motorcycle is alleged to have been used by Vimlesh Kumar Singh and his brother Akhilesh Singh while fleeing away from the village after commission of the offence. The Investigating Officer proved this recovery memo as Ext.Ka-15. The Investigating Officer also recovered a countrymade pistol of 315 bore on pointing out of accused Akhilesh Singh after obtaining his police custody remand vide order dated 10.5.2013 of learned CJM, Ghazipur, on 11.5.2013, which was also recovered from the same locality. Thus, one TVS Apache motorcycle and pistol of 7.65 mm bore, which is said to be countrymade has been recovered on the pointing out of accused Rakesh Singh on 7.5.2013 and three firearms are recovered on 11.5.2013 at the pointing out of other accused persons on 11.5.2013 during their police custody remand. The recovery memos are proved by the Investigating Officer during his evidence before the Court. These recoveries are preceded by the statement of concerned accused persons recorded in case diary under Section 161 Cr.P.C. However, the Investigating Officer has admitted that he has not recorded separate disclosure statements of the accused persons for effecting recovery of the weapons of offence and the vehicles used by the accused persons for making good their escape after commission of offence. The Investigating Officer has also proved the seizure memo of four empty cartridges of 32 bore and two live cartridges of 32 bore and one live cartridge of 12 bore from the place of occurrence at the time of his local inspection in the morning of 26.5.2013 as Ext.Ka-20. The Investigating Officer has also proved the memo of taking into possession of four pieces of hockey sticks recovered from the place of occurrence as Ext.Ka-23.

41. If we look into postmortem report of the deceased, we find that deceased suffered five firearm injuries on his person, out of which injury No.2 is exit wound of injury no.1 and injury no.5 is exit wound of injury no.4. Injury No.3, which is detected on chest of the deceased is not having any corresponding exit wound and for that reason, one cylindrical metallic bullet of 1cm X 1cm was recovered between his intestine during postmortem examination on dead body of the deceased. This was wound of entry of 1.2cm X 1.1cm. Its margin was inverted. This injury caused damage to intestine and kidney of the deceased. Injury no.1, which is firearm injury 1cm X 1cm in circular shape on chest of the deceased and Injury No.2 is wound of exit of 2.0cm X 2.1cm at left side of back of chest. Injury no.4 is firearm injury of 09cm X 09.cm on right arm and injury no.5 was found on knee of right arm, which is wound of exit. Thus, this fact has been proved by evidence of eye-witnesses and medical evidence that the deceased had received three firearm injuries in the incident, which proved fatal and he succumbed to the injuries within few hours of receiving the same. This fact also emerged in evidence that profuse bleeding occurred from the wounds which expedited the death.

42. The prosecution evidence with regard to place of occurrence is also fortified by the report of forensic science laboratory dated 8.7.2013, in which it is stated that in sealed boxes having plain earth and blood stained earth, large part of Item No.1 (mitti khoonaluda) blood stains were found. Four pistols purportedly recovered from accused persons on their pointing out alongwith four number of empty cartridges of 7.65 mm KF, two live cartridges of 7.65 mm KF and one live cartridge of .12 bore, shown in recovery memo Ext.Ka-20 and one led slug (ball shot), and two number of wads (plastic) were sent for ballistic examination through Cricle Officer, Zamania, District Ghazipur to forensic science laboratory, Mahanagar Lucknow. The ballistic expert in his report (Ext.Ka-33) dated 27.5.2017 has stated that the disputed 7.65 mm cartridges marked as EC-1 to EC-4 (recovered from place of occurrence as empty cartridges) were found to have been shot by pistol marked as 3/25 of 2015. This pistol is shown to have been recovered from accused Rakesh Singh. Let slug (ball shot) marked as B-1 connected with PM No.186/2013 was used in 12 bore standard cartridge used in smooth barrel firearm and wads (tikli) marked as W-1 and W-2 are part of .12 bore cartridge. This shows that all the four used cartridges recovered from place of occurrence by Investigating Officer on 26.4.2013 got matched with firearm of 7.65 mm pistol, which is alleged to have been recovered from accused Rakesh Singh. One led slug (ball shot) recovered during post mortem examination of deceased from seat of his injury No.3 was part of standard cartridge of 12 bore. Similarly. The plastic wads recovered from seat of injury No.2 were also part of 12 bore cartridge as shown in ballistic expert's report. As no other empty cartridge was recovered from place of occurrence during investigation and all the empties recovered there from matched with the gun recovered on pointing out of accused Rakesh Singh, the firearms recovered on pointing out of other accused persons could not be matched by any empty cartridge shells. However, one metallic bullet of 1cm X 1cm cylindrical in shape, mentioned in postmortem report and having been recovered from seat of injury No.3 of the deceased, which was found stucked in between intestines, is found to have been used in standard cartridge of .12 bore. If we go through the recovery memos of firearms, which were recovered at the pointing out of accused persons, we find that one .12 bore country made pistol was recovered from accused Santosh Singh during his police custody remand on his pointing out, thus, on the basis of the scientific evidence emerging from report of ballistic expert, this lead slug which is shown as metallic bullet in postmortem examination report can safely be attributed to accused Santosh Singh, which would have been emitted from the firearm of 12 bore recovered from his pointing out during his police custody remand on 11.5.2013. His active participation in the offence is also fortified with the fact that in FIR version as well as in statement of the witnesses namely, PW-1 Digvijay Singh and PW-2 Shiv Shanker Singh, this fact emerged that Akhilesh Singh and Santosh Singh lifted and dashed PW-2 Shiv Shanker Singh on ground when he tried to save the informant while being assaulted by accused Vimlesh Singh by butt of his weapon and thereafter both accused Akhilesh and Santosh Singh gave beating to him by hockey sticks which were lying nearby the place of incident. In ballistic examiner's report (Ext.Ka-33), it is stated that one piece of lead slug (ball shot) marked by B-1 was made of lead metal and it was partially disfigured. Its diameter was 17mm and signs of collision/striation, tiny parallel grooves were visible. Thus, on the basis of recovery of 12 bore firearm at the pointing out of accused Santosh Singh, injury No.3 of the deceased, as appearing in postmortem report, appears to have been caused by accused Santosh Singh by his 12 bore katta (country made firearm) on the basis of recovery of partially disfigured lead slug from the seat of injury No.3 during postmortem examination. In recovery memo of firearms Ext.Ka-13 (at the instance of accused Santosh Singh), Ext.Ka-14 (at the instance of accused Akhilesh Singh, Ext.Ka-15 (at the instance of accused Vimlesh Singh, two public witnesses namely Satrudhan Singh and Harendra Singh are enjoined as witnesses of recovery and in recovery memo of accused Rakesh Singh (Ext.Ka-12) public witnesses namely, Manoj Kumar Singh and Sanjay Kumar Singh are enjoined. Although, they were not produced during trial to prove these recovery memos and same are proved by evidence of PW-9 Anand Rao and are exhibited by his evidence. Subsequently, this recovery memos are also proved by evidence of Investigating Officer, S.H.O. Ram Nihor Mishra, who has given details of the process of recovery of these firearms by police team headed by him. These recoveries are preceded by recording of statements of four accused persons under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigating Officer during their custody.

43. Statement of PW-2, Shiv Shanker Singh during trial to the effect that just after the incident, informant Digvijay Singh carried the deceased to police station on motorcycle, which he drove himself and deceased was got seated behind him and he was held by Sanjay Singh, this statement was corroborated by extracts of GD of registration of case at police station vide report No.32, time 20:40 hours, dated 25.4.2013, Police Station Gahmar, which is proved by PW-10, the author of this GD entry as Ext.Ka-17 and in this extract of GD, it is mentioned that at 20:40 hours, dated 25.4.2013, Digvijay Singh, son of Harivansh Singh, resident of Village- Gahmar Patti Khemanrai, Police Station Gahmar, District- Ghazipur, appeared alongwith injured Ajay Singh, who is his brother and produced one written report under his hand writing and signature, on the basis of which chik FIR has been registered vide Crime No.136 of 2013, under Sections 147, 148, 148, 307, 504, 506 IPC and Section 7 of Criminal Law (Amendment) Act. Time of occurrence is 20:15 hours, dated 25.4.2013 and place of occurrence is Village- Patti Khemanrai, which is one kilometre far from Police Station Gahmar. In this GD entry (Ext.Ka-17), injuries of injured Ajay Singh and informant Digvijay Singh are mentioned. In Ext.Ka18, which is extract of GD report No.37, time 23:45 hours, dated 25.4.2013, S.O. Ram Nihor Mishra (PW-11) has mentioned that he was taking injured Ajay Singh to district hospital, Ghazipur for treatment but he died on way due to injuries suffered and he placed the dead body in mortuary and came back to police station alongwith informant Digvijay Singh. He also mentioned therein that Section 302 and 323 IPC is added in penal sections mentioned in chik FIR.

44. In present criminal appeals, only appellant Dhruvjeet Singh has been enlarged on bail by orders of this Court and other convicts/appellant are held in jail custody and undergoing sentence awarded in impugned judgement. In FIR itself, the informant has stated that he has come to police station to lodge the FIR together with his elder brother Ajay Singh, who is injured. There is some inconsistency in the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 regarding mode and manner in which the deceased was taken to police station after the incident. PW-1 has stated in his cross-examination that after the incident he rushed to the police station alongwith Sanjay Singh by motorcycle driven by him. They stayed at police station for ten minutes whereas PW-2 has stated that the deceased was taken to police station in injured condition by laying him on motorcycle driven by PW-1 and Sanjay Singh, who appears to be brother of the informant and deceased, who was pillion rider but this fact is proved by documentary evidence that deceased was produced at police station at the time of lodging of FIR. This fact is also proved by ocular testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 as well as antemortem injuries of the deceased that he sustained three firearm shots and total five antemortem injuries as two wounds of entry were coupled with wounds of exit, as discussed above. This fact also appeared in evidence that blood oozed out from the injuries and it was found on the spot. PW-1 clarified in his evidence that his clothes got smeared with blood of his brother and he had shown his blood stained clothes to Darogaji but he could not tell as to whether any documentation thereof was made by him. In any manner this may be a specie of faulty investigation. A suggestion has been given by learned counsel for the defence during cross-examination of both the witnesses of fact that the deceased was killed in darkness of night by unknown person and accused persons are roped in due to village partibandi at the behest of Kishan Singh against whom accused side is litigant. Witnesses have denied this suggestion outrightly. PW-1 has admitted in cross-examination that his statement was taken by Investigating Officer thrice and some contradiction are bound to occur yet no material contradiction could be noticed by us in the sworn testimony of the witnesses and their previous statement recorded by Investigating Officer. The informant Digvijay Singh (PW-1) has stated in FIR as well as in his evidence before the Court that accused Vimlesh Sing assaulted him by butt of his weapon on his ear due to which he got injured and when his uncle Shiv Shanker Singh came to his rescue, Akhilesh Singh and Santosh Singh thrown him on ground and assaulted him by hockey sticks. Thus, the witness has been confronted with wrong question during cross-examination that he had not stated in his FIR that Shiv Shanker Singh was assaulted by accused persons by hockey sticks and he has stated that his fact is narrated by him in Ext.Ka-1. Statement of PW-1 that he was assaulted by accused Vimlesh by butt of his weapon remained intact for want of cross-examination on this score from accused side. He has also stated that he had seen pistol/katta in the hands of accused persons. However, he had used word 'weapon' in his FIR. From perusal of FIR itself, it appears that the informant meant for firearms where he used words 'illegal weapons' because he has stated therein that on exhortation of Dhruvjeet Singh his four sons engaged in indiscriminate firing by their weapons on informant's side in which his elder brother Ajay Singh received serious injuries. Thus, there is no doubt that the informant meant firearms where he used word 'weapon' in FIR and he has clarified this in his evidence during trial. Hon'ble Apex Court in Mukesh and Another vs. State for NCT of Delhi and others, AIR 2017 SC 2161 (Three Judge Bench) (Nirbhaya rape and murder case) observed that if there are no material discrepancies and contradiction in the testimony of a witness, his evidence cannot be disbelieved merely on the basis of some normal, natural or minor contradictions, inconsistencies, exaggerations, embellishment etc. The distinction between material discrepancies and normal discrepancies are that the minor discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a party's case but material discrepancies doe so. In present case, the contradictions and discrepancies pointed out in the statement of the witnesses of fact by defence side are not of such nature that it could be termed as material contradictions or discrepancies in their statements. This is settled law that testimony of a witness before the Court can be contradicted by his own previous statement and not by the previous statement of another witness.

45. So far as the allegations and proof of recovery of firearms during police custody remand of accused Rakesh Singh, Santosh Singh, Akhilesh Singh and Vimlesh Singh, who are real brothers at their pointing out, is concerned, the recoveries are effect by PW-11, the Investigating Officer and police team in presence of public witnesses as stated in his evidence as well as in recovery memo but it appears that the public witnesses were not forthcoming to testify the factum of recovery of firearms at pointing out of the accused persons and, therefore, the recovery has been proved by the evidence of police witnesses in the case. There is no legal mandate that in absence of the testimony of public witnesses of recovery or discovery of fact effected during police custody at the instance of accused on the basis of his disclosure statement under Section 27 of Evidence Act, the testimony of police witnesses which is otherwise not disbelievable will not be considered. In Mukesh Singh and Another vs. State For NCT of Delhi (supra), Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

83. In this context, we may fruitfully reproduce a passage from State of U.P. v. M.K. Anthony:-

"10. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper-technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole. ..."

84. In Harijana Thirupala v. Public Prosecutor, High Court of A.P.[44], it has been ruled that:

"11. .... In appreciating the evidence the approach of the court must be integrated not truncated or isolated. In other words, the impact of the evidence in totality on the prosecution case or innocence of the accused has to be kept in mind in coming to the conclusion as to the guilt or otherwise of the accused. In reaching a conclusion about the guilt of the accused, the court has to appreciate, analyse and assess the evidence placed before it by the yardstick of probabilities, its intrinsic value and the animus of witnesses."

85. In Ugar Ahir v. State of Bihar[45], a three-Judge Bench held:

"7. The maxim falsus in uno, falsu in omnibus (false in one thing, false in everything) is neither a sound rule of law nor a rule of practice. Hardly one comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggerations, embroideries or embellishments. It is, therefore, the duty of the court to scrutinise the evidence carefully and, in terms of the felicitous metaphor, separate the grain from the chaff. But, it cannot obviously disbelieve the substratum of the prosecution case or the material parts of the evidence and reconstruct a story of its own out of the rest."

46. Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Maharashtra vs. Bharat Fakira Dhiwar (Criminal Appeal No.1246 of 1997), placed reliance on a case of State of H.P. vs. Jeet Singh, reported in (1999) 4 SCC 370, wherein held as under:-

"26. There is nothing in Section 27 of the Evidence Act which renders the statement of the accused inadmissible if recovery of the articles was made from any place which is "open or accessible to others". It is a fallacious notion that when recovery of any incriminating article was made from a place which is open or accessible to others, it would vitiate the evidence under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. Any object can be concealed in places which are open or accessible to others. For example, if the article is buried in the main roadside or if it is concealed beneath dry leaves lying on public places or kept hidden in a public office, the article would remain out of the visibility of others in normal circumstances. Until such article is disinterred, its hidden state would remain unhampered. The person who hid it alone knows where it is until he discloses that fact to any other person. Hence, the crucial question is not whether the place was accessible to others or not but whether it was ordinarily visible to others. If it is not, then it is immaterial that the concealed place is accessible to others.

27. It is now well settled that the discovery of fact referred to in Section 27 of the Evidence Act is not the object recovered but the fact embraces the place from which the object is recovered and the knowledge of the accused as to it. The said ratio has received unreserved approval of this Court in successive decisions. (Jaffar Hussain Dastagir v. State of Maharashtra [(1969) 2 SCC 872], K. Chinnaswamy Reddy v. State of A.P. [AIR 1962 SC 1788], Earabhadrappa v. State of Karnataka [(1983) 2 SCC 330], Shamshul Kanwar v. State of U.P. [(1995) 4 SCC 430], State of Rajasthan v. Bhup Singh [(1997) 10 SCC 675])."

48. From a bare perusal of charge No.4th, it appears that the learned trial court framed that charge under impression that the informant was assaulted by the accused persons in prosecution of common object on his right ear with intention and knowledge to cause his death and if by that injury, he would have died, they would be guilty of charge of murder. Learned trial court has not discussed in impugned judgement as to how the said charge has been proved in the case. The injuries of informant (PW-1) Digvijay Singh are found to be simple in his injury report by its author Dr. M.J. Anwar (PW-3), who proved this injury report as Ext.Ka-2 by his evidence. He categorically stated in his evidence that the injury was of simple nature. It was caused by hard and blunt object. All the three injuries were found on same place of right ear. The injuries were not bone deep. He has not mentioned oozing of blood from the injury on ear of the injured. It has come in evidence of the injured PW-1 that when he rushed to save his brother Ajay Singh when he fell down on being shot by the accused persons, accused Vimlesh Singh hit him on his right ear by the butt of his pistol. The butt of a pistol is a hard and blunt object. Thus, neither the nature of injury nor the impact of injury suggests that accused Vimlesh Singh had assaulted PW-1 by the butt of his pistol by knowledge to kill him and had it been so, he would tried to fire a shot at him and would not use the blunt portion of the firearm to hit PW-1, that too by solitary impact. The charge under Section 307/149 IPC is neither made out nor proved in the case. However, keeping in view the recovery evidence of firearms, which is preceded by disclosure statement of four accused persons namely, Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh, in this regard, is found to be corroborated by Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. during their police custody remand and sanction for prosecution granted by District Magistrate in exercise of powers under Section 39 of Arms Act vide order dated 10.6.2013, which is proved by evidence of Investigating Officer, Ram Nihor Mishra (PW-11); Charge under Section 25 of Arms Act is proved beyond reasonable doubt against all the four accused persons. There is evidence to the effect that on their pointing out a TVS Apache motorcycle used in escaping of accused Rakesh Kumar Singh and Santosh Singh after this incident and recovery of a pistol of 7.65 mm bore, on which 'MADE IN USA' was written and this pistol matched with four empty cartridges recovered from place of occurred by Investigating Officer. Charge under Section 25 of Arms Act has been proved against accused Rakesh Kumar Singh. Similarly, charge under Section 25 Arms Act has been proved against accused Santosh Singh, Akhilesh Singh and Vimlesh Singh on account of proof of recovery of one country made pistol of 12 bore on pointing out of accused Santosh Singh, one countrymade pistol of .315 bore on pointing out of accused Akhilesh Singh and one CBZ motorcycle used in abscondance of accused Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh after the incident and one country made pistol of 32 bore recovered on1 1.5.2013, on pointing out of accused Vimlesh Singh.

49. In present case, five accused persons who include Dhruvjeet Singh, the father and his four sons are attributed role of causing murder of deceased Ajay Singh, who was brother of the informant by creating riot by forming unlawful assembly on the date, time and place of incident having armed with firearms. This is evident on the basis of evidence on record that deceased received three firearm shots at the time of incident. Four used cartridges were collected from the spot by Investigating Officer on next day of the incident, when he visited the spot and prepared the sketch map of the place of incident. All these four cartridges of 7.65 mm (.32 bore) matched with firearm recovered on 7.5.2013 on pointing out of the accused/convict Rakesh Kumar Singh, who was posted in Army in New Delhi at that time. Deceased was also posted in military. As all the four empty cartridges matched with firearm recovered on pointing out of Rakesh Kumar Singh, the firearm recovered on pointing out of other accused persons namely, Santosh Singh, Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh could not be matched with any empty cartridge as per the report of FSL dated 27.5.2015 on which Ext.Ka-34 and Ka-35 has been marked. However, one lead metal slug (partially disfigured) which was found stucked in between intestines of the deceased in his injury No.3, was found to have belonged to standard cartridge of 12 bore and on the basis of this recovery of lead slug, the direct evidence of involvement of accused Santosh Singh causing firearm injury to deceased by his weapon is corroborated. The firearm recovered from accused Vimlesh Singh could also not be matched with any of the empty cartridges in FSL Report but the evidence of eye-witnesses i.e. PW-1 and PW-2 makes it manifestly evident that he assaulted the informant on his ear by butt of his pistol resulting in three lacerated wounds on a particular place behind his right ear. This is another thing that the injuries were found to be simple. Thus, accused Vimlesh Singh appears to have used blunt side of his firearm causing injuries to the informant when he rushed to save the deceased when he fell down after being seriously injured by assailants. The fourth accused namely, Akhilesh Singh has been assigned specific role together with Santosh Singh to have caused simple injuries to PW-2 Shiv Shanker Singh, the uncle of the informant, when he tried to rescue the informant from being assaulted by accused. In FIR as well as in evidence of PW-2, this fact emerged that accused Akhilesh Singh and Santosh Singh assaulted PW-2 by hockey sticks, which were lying nearby and the Investigating Officer collected four pieces of hockey sticks on 26.4.2013 at the time of spot inspection. Due to slackness of prosecution, the hockey sticks could not be produced during evidence of PW-11 but on perusal of evidence of eye-witnesses, this fact is established that PW-2 was assaulted by these two accused persons by hockey sticks. This is not the case of prosecution that the accused persons were armed with hockey sticks and the prosecution is specific that the hockey sticks were lying in the vicinity of place of incident. Accused Dhruvjeet Singh, the father of other accused persons, is attributed role of exhorting co-accused, who are his sons to kill informant's side and co-accused persons are alleged to have acted upon this and opened indiscriminate fires on informant's side, which resulted in causing of fatal injuries to the deceased with whom Dhruvjeet Singh had picket up quarrel in Gahmar market on the same date earlier as he borrowed motorcycle of one Arvind Singh with whom accused side was inimical. Except the deceased none of the witnesses or family members of the deceased have sustained any firearm injuries but only due to this fact, the eye-witnesses account could not be disbelieved or faulted with keeping in view the back ground of the incident. Although, PW-1 and PW-2 have given eye-witness account of the commission of offence and have attributed role of indiscriminate firing on deceased to all the four sons of accused Dhruvjeet Singh yet the injuries of the deceased can be connected with accused Rakesh Kumar Singh and Santosh Singh. No firearm injury can be connected with weapon/firearm recovered at the instance of accused Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh, although the recovery of one firearm each has been proved in the case at the instance of four accused persons.

50. So far as the role of Dhruvjeet Singh is concerned, he is father of alleged assailants. He has been attributed role of exhorting his sons to kill the informant's side whereupon co-accused are alleged to have fired upon the deceased. This is admitted fact that Dhruvjeet Singh was bare arm. He was not wielding any weapon in his hand when his sons were armed with firearms. The question of exhorting his sons to kill the informant's side looses its significance as some of the co-accused were already prepared to kill the deceased and PW-1 and PW-2 are assaulted by Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh, only when they intervened.

51. In case of Jainul Haque vs State Of Bihar, AIR 1974 SC1651, Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 8 of its judgment has held as under:

"The evidence of exhortation is, in the very nature of things, a weak piece of evidence. There is quite often a tendency to implicate some person, in addition to the actual assailant by attributing to that person an exhortation to the assailant to assault the victim. Unless the evidence in this respect be clear, cogent and reliable, no conviction for abetment can be recorded against the person alleged to have exhorted the actual assailant."

52. In Suresh and another vs State Of U.P. 2001 3 SCC 673, Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 24 of its judgment has held as under:

"24. Looking at the first postulate pointed out above, the accused who is to be fastened with liability on the strength of Section 34, IPC should have done some act which has nexus with the offence. Such act need not be very substantial, it is enough that the act is only for guarding the scene for facilitating the crime. The act need not necessarily be overt, even if it is only a covert act it is enough, provided such a covert act is proved to have been done by the co-accused in furtherance of the common intention. Even an omission can, in certain circumstances, amount to an act. This is the purport of Section 32, IPC. So the act mentioned in Section 34, IPC need not be an overt act, even an illegal omission to do a certain act in a certain situation can amount to an act, e. g. a co-accused, standing near the victim face to face saw an armed assailant nearing the victim from behind with a weapon to inflict a blow. The co-accused, who could have alerted the victim to move away to escape from the onslaught deliberately refrained from doing so with the idea that the blow should fall on the victim. Such omission can also be termed as an act in a given situation. Hence an act, whether overt or covert, is indispensable to be done by a co-accused to be fastened with the liability under the section. But if no such act is done by a person, even if he has common intention with the others for the accomplishment of the crime, Section 34, IPC cannot be invoked for convicting that person. In other words, the accused who only keeps the common intention in his mind, but does not do any act at the scene, cannot be convicted with the aid of Section 34, IPC. "

53. In Surendra Chauhan VS State Of M. P. , 2000 4 SCC 110, Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 11 of its judgment has held as under:

"11. Under Section 34 a person must be physically present at the actual commission of the crime for the purpose of facilitating or promoting the offence, the commission of which is the aim of the joint criminal venture. Such presence of those who in one way or the other facilitate the execution of the common design is itself tantamount to actual participation in the criminal act. The essence of Section 34 is simultaneous consensus of the minds of persons participating in the criminal action to bring about a particular result. Such consensus can be developed at the spot and thereby intended by all of them. Ramaswami Ayhangar & Ors. v. State of Tamil Nadu2. The existence of common intention can be inferred from the attending circumstances of the case and the conduct of the parties. No direct evidence of common intention is necessary. For the purpose of common intention even the participation in the commission of the offence need not be proved in all cases. The common intention can develop even during the course of an occurrence. Rajesh Govind Jagesha v. State of Maharashtra3. To apply Section 34 IPC apart from the fact that there should be two or more accused, two factors must be established : (i) common intention and (ii) participation of the accused in the commission of an offence. If a common intention is proved but no overt act is attributed to the individual accused, Section 34 will be attracted as essentially it involves vicarious liability but if participation of the accused in the crime is proved and a common intention is absent, Section 34 cannot be invoked. In every case, it is not possible to have direct evidence of a common intention. It has to be inferred from the facts and circumstances of each case."

54. From the law laid down in the above referred cases it can be deduced that evidence of exhortation is a weak piece of evidence. There is quite often a tendency to implicate some person, in addition to the actual assailant by ascribing to that person role of an exhortation to the assailant to assault the victim. Unless the evidence in this respect is clear, cogent and reliable, no conviction can be recorded against the person alleged to have exhorted the actual assailant.

55. Thus, in the light of legal proposition cited above and on facts of the case, the complicity of accused Dhruvjeet Singh in the offence and his implication in the case in view of the fact that he exhorted his sons to kill the informants side on date, time and place of occurrence does not inspire confidence and his involvement in the offence appears to be doubtful. He deserves to be accorded benefit of doubt, in respect of all charges. This is also noteworthy that except alleged exhortation, no overtact has been attributed to him in the evidence of witnesses of fact.

56. In view of finding complicity of accused Dhruvjeet Singh in the offence doubtful and not believable in ordinary course of nature, the charges under Sections 147, 148 IPC fails in respect of accused persons. Keeping in view facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction and sentence of the appellant for charge under Sections 147 and 148 IPC is set aside.

57. Consequently, we are of the considered opinion on the basis of eye-witness account as well as recovery, the evidence adduced by police witnesses in the case that the accused persons namely, Rakesh Kumar Singh and Santosh Singh in furtherance of common intention committed murder of deceased Ajay Singh by causing injuries to him by opening firearm shots at him with intention to kill him on the date, time and place of incident. Thus, the charge under Section 302/34 IPC is proved against them beyond reasonable doubt. Conviction of accused Dhruvjeet Singh, Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh recorded by learned trial court for charge under Section 323 IPC for causing simple injuries to injured namely, Digvijay Singh and Shiv Shanker Singh is partly affirmed in respect of accused Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh as charge under Section 323 is not proved beyond reasonable doubt against accused Dhruvjeet Singh and Rakesh Kumar Singh. There is specific allegation against accused Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for causing injuries to PW-1 and PW-2 by hard and blunt object.

58. On the basis of discussion herein above, the conviction and sentence of appellants for charge under Section 307 IPC read with Section 149 IPC is set aside.

59. One abusive word has been attributed to accused appellant Dhruvjeet Singh in FIR as well as in evidence of witnesses regarding his exhortation to co-accused but none of the co-accused are alleged to have intentionally insulted or provoked the informant's side to commit breach of peace and complicity of appellant Dhruvjeet Singh has not been found to be proved in the offence beyond reasonable doubt, therefore, the charge under Section 504 IPC fails and the conviction and sentence for charge under Section 504 IPC is accordingly, set aside.

60. There is no specific averment against the appellants that they threatened the informant, deceased or any of their family members with life at the time of the incident, therefore, due to lack of specific allegation and evidence in respect thereof, charge under Section 506 IPC has not been proved against the appellants beyond reasonable doubt and hence, conviction and sentence recorded by the trial court against the appellants is consequently set aside.

61. This fact finds place in FIR as well as in sworn testimony of eye-witness that due to daring act of accused persons by which the deceased Ajay Singh was shot dead in the late evening on the date of the incident, a panic created in the locality and people shut the doors of their houses and started running here and there to find safe place, thus, we find no factual or legal error in recording of conviction and sentence awarded by learned trial court in respect of appellants Rakesh Kumar Singh, Santosh Singh, Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for charge under Section Section 7 of Criminal Law (Amendment) Act.

62. With above findings and conclusions drawn after re-appreciation and re-scrutinization of evidence on record, we direct as follows:-

(1) Conviction and sentence recorded against accused Dhruvjeet Singh for charge under Sections 147, 148, 302/149, 307/149, 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act is set aside and he is acquitted of all the charges by this modified order.

(2) Conviction and sentence of appellants namely Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for charge under Section 307 read with Section 149 IPC is set aside and they are acquitted of this charge.

(3) Conviction and sentence of appellants namely, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for charge under Section 323 IPC is affirmed. Appellant Rakesh Kumar Singh is acquitted of charge under Section 323 IPC.

(4) Conviction of appellants namely, Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for charge under Section 302/149 IPC is modified and altered to the extent that the appellants Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh are acquitted of charge under Section 302/149 IPC and appellants Rakesh Kumar Singh and Santosh Singh are instead convicted of charge under Section 302/34 IPC but their sentence of life imprisonment and fine of Rs.10,000/- payable by each in impugned order is affirmed.

(5) Appellants namely, Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh are acquitted of charge under Sections 504 and 506 IPC and their conviction and sentence recorded by the learned trial court for these charges is hereby set aside.

(6) The conviction and sentence of appellants namely, Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for charge under Sections 147 and 148 IPC recorded by the learned trial court is hereby set aside and they are acquitted of these charges.

(7) The conviction and sentence of appellants namely, Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for charge under Section 7 of Criminal Law (Amendment) Act is affirmed.

(8) The conviction and sentence of appellants namely, Rakesh Kumar Singh, Vimlesh Singh, Santosh Singh and Akhilesh Singh for charge under Section 3/25 of Arms Act is affirmed.

(9) The period undergone by the convicts/appellants shall be liable to be set off/adjusted to sentence of term imposed against them by this modified order.

(10) All the sentences shall run concurrently.

63. Accordingly, present Criminal Appeal No.5218 of 2016 is allowed and Criminal Appeal Nos.5501 of 2016, 5502 of 2016 and 5649 of 2016 are partly allowed and the impugned order assailed in these criminal appeals stand modified/altered to the extent stated as above.

64. Appellants Dhruvjeet Singh, Vimlesh Singh and Akhilesh Singh are directed to furnish a personal bond, each and two sureties each in the likeamount to the satisfaction of the learned trial court/Session Judge, Ghazipur as the case may be, in compliance of Section 437-A of Cr.P.C. within seven days of their release from jail pursuant to this modified order as they have already undergone the modified sentence as awarded in present judgement. Appellants Rakesh Kumar Singh and Santosh Singh will serve out the sentence as modified in present judgement in accordance with law, as they are stated to be in jail custody in present offence.

65. Let a certified copy of this judgement and lower court record be sent back forthwith to Session Judge, Ghazipur for compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rahul Chaturvedi, J. & Hon'ble Mohd. Azhar Husain Idrisi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant assisted by Sri K.K. Pandey as well as Sri Dileep Kumar, Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Amit Singh, learned counsel for the informant, learned A.G.A. representing the State of U.P. On account of certain gray areas in the instant appeal we have sought an assistance from the learned counsel for the appellant to further argue the case and clarify those areas in the appeal. Which was done by the counsel in the month of May, 2024 and now we are in position to decide the matter finally on merits. After hearing the rival submission we are proposing to decide this matter finally on merits.

2. From the record it reveals that there are two connected Appeals 5905 of 2018 in Re- Saurabh Kumar Vs. State of U.P. & Criminal Appeal No. 7075 of 2018 in Re- Bhanu Urf Bhanu Pratap. Both the appellants have preferred the afore-mentioned appeals. Accused-appeallants namely, Bhanu Pratap and Saurabh Kumar filed these separate appeals assailing the legality and validity of judgement dated 03.10.2018 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/ FTC-2 Bijnor whereby both the aforesaid mentioned namely Bhanu Urf Bhanu Pratap and the appellant Saurabh Kumar were convicted by the concerned trial court. Now for the sake of convinience, we have clubbed the records/ memo of both the appeals and they are being jointly decided.

From the order sheet of Criminal Appeal No. 7075 of 2018, it reveals that Sri Satendra Tiwari learned A.G.A. informed the Court, that pending appeal the appellant Bhanu Urf Bhanu Pratap died about two years back and as such his appeal Criminal Appeal No. 7075 of 2018 stood abated and consigned to record vide order dated 21.09.2023 by the Bench of this Court.

Thus, the current situation is that the only appeal No. 5905 of 2018 in Re: Saurabh Kumar is pending for final adjudication.

3. Saurabh kumar, the appellant before us, has preferred the instant Criminal Appeal, under section 374(2) Cr.P.C., challenging the validity and legality of the judgment and order dated 03.10.2018, passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.2, Bijnor, in Session Trial No.105 of 2016, emanating from case crime no. 381 of 2015, Police station- Mandawar, Disrtict Bijnor wherein, he has been convicted under section 302 read with section 34 I.P.C., and sentenced to life imprisonment, with a fine of Rs.50,000/- and in default of payment of fine, the appellant has been directed to undergo three years additional imprisonment, along with co-accused Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap.

4. Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant at the outset informed the Court that the present appellant Saurabh Kumar is neither named in the FIR nor charge sheeted accused and has been summoned by learned trial judge vide order dated 06.09.2016 in the excercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

He further states that the name of the appellant Saurabh Kumar for the first time floated by the informant after one month and five days of the lodging of the FIR. It is submitted that, no plausible or convicing reason was forwarded by the proseuction for this unexplained delay and this sea change/ addition in the tone, tenure and texture of the prosecution story which is extremely relevant for the present case and having a potential for, far reaching repercussion upon the authenticity and vericity of the prosecution story.

5. In short conspectus, the genesis and portray of the prosecution case as mentioned in FIR and other undisputed facts and circumstances is that on 02.11.2015 at about 7:50 P.M., a Tehrir (report) was given by Kamesh Singh (informant/complainant) at Police Station- Mandawar, District-Bijnor, divulging therein that at about 7.00 p.m. when his uncle Dr. Narendra Kumar was present in his clinic, situated in his residence at village-Kamalpur, P.S. Mandawar, District Bijnor, Bhanu Pratap Singh (since dead), resident of Kamlapur, came at his clinic for having the medicine. His uncle asked him to sit and wait. It caused great annoyance and irritation to him. Bhanu could not squeeze his ire and fury and opened firing, with an intention to eliminate Dr. Narendra Kumar (uncle of the complainant). Consequently, he sustained fatal fire-arm injury over his abdomen. The complainant took prompt step of informing, by giving a Tehrir (Ext Ka-1), regarding the said incident, alongwith the injured in a precarious condition to the police station Mandawar, where a letter to the District hospital, Bijnor was prepared and sent along with the injured to the hospital for the treatment and necessary medico legal action.

6. On the basis of the above stated scribe (Tehrir), dated 02.11.2015 at about 7.50 p.m. a Criminal Case No. 381 of 2015, under Section 307 IPC was registered against accused Bhanu Pratap alone, at P.S. Mandawar, District Bijnor. Particulars of which were entered into chik FIR Ext ka-21 and G.D. Kaimi Ext Ka-22 Initially, the investigation of the case was entrusted to S. I. Guru Pal Singh.

7. Injured Narendra Kumar was admitted at District Hospital Bijnor and was medically examined there. Since there was fatal injury on the vital part of his body i.e. abdomen, his condition was not improving, rather deteriorating. Hence, he was referred to Meerut on the same day for better and proper treatment at about 8.30 p.m. While the family members of the injured Narendra Kumar was taking him to Meerut, he scummed to his injuries on the way, at about 11.25 pm.

DEVELOPMENTS DRUING INVESTIGATION

* The information to this effect Ext Ka-2 was given by Kamesh Singh (Complainant) on 03.11.2015 to the police station concerned. Accordingly, the case was converted into Section 302 IPC. In addition to this revelant information regarding the demise of the deceased on account of gunshot injury, the informant has tried swell the number of witnesses for the obivious reasons and as such he himself along with his aunt Dinesh Devi w/o late Narendra Kumar Rajput has become two eye witnesses of the incident who have seen Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap while running away from the place of occurrence, carrying illegal tamancha in his right hand.

It is strange, that the name of appellant Saurabh Kumar does not find place even in the application dated 03.11.2015.

* Sri Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant has drawn our attention to an application dated 01.12.2015, addressed to S.P. Bijnor signed by the informant annexing the two affidavits of Sandeep and Amit who have given their own affidavits. By this application the informant is of the view that those applications should be kept on record and taken into consideration while investigation done by Sri Shyam Singh Negi I.O. of the Crime Branch.

* In addition to above learned counsel for the appellant has drawn our attention to yet another application on behalf of first informant Kamesh, addressed to S.P. Bijnor dated 07.12.2015 (Ext. No. Ka- 3) whereby for the first time the informant states that in witch he was in the stage of shock and mental trauma and turbulance, while lodging of the parent FIR dated 02.11.2015 but now after gethering the infomration from the various quarters, the informant Kames states that, the main auther of the incident is Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap with the help and aid of Saurabh Kumar (present appellant) has committed this offence. He further states after lapse of more than one month period that this unfortunate incident was witnessed by the Amit and Sandeep who shared this information to the first informant that they have seen the assaulants and the appellant Saurabh Kumar running away from the place of occurrence after comming of offence. He further accuses that the local police is trying to save the present appellant Saurabh Kumar from this offence. It has been mentioned that the present Saurabh Kumar have actively participated in the commission of the offence as he was nurturing enimical relationship qua his uncle Narendra Singh, the deceased. Sri Shukla further states that the name of the present appellant has surfaced after one month and five days after lodging of the original FIR on 02.11.2015. That is how the name of the present appellant Saurabh Kumar came into light after much an inordinate delay, admittedly after collecting the information from various quarters. Under circumstances embellishment in the prosecution story cannot be completely ruled out. However, this aspect of the issue would be well considered in the subsquent paragraph of the judgement.

Learned counsel for the appellant, drawn our attention to the Ext. Ka- 5, 16.12.2015 whereby the first informant after one month and forteen days, realising his blunder that no motive has been attributed to the present appellant in the FIR, in order to fill in the blank, and after having the legal advice for the first time have tried to insert the motive in the present offence.

We have perused Ext. Ka-5 dated 16.12.2015 whereby he has mentioned that in fact the present appellant Saurabh Kumar was having the serious differences and tangle with son of the deceased namely Harsh. On this account the deceased went to Saurabh Kumar's place and have scolded him and has given to two-three slap to the him. This is the reason attributed for the alleged enimical relationship between the appellant and the deceased. This information was shared by the informant Kamesh after one month and sixteen days of the lodging of the FIR.

This picemeal improvement in the prosecution story and the every stage of investigation casting a serious doubt and shift from the primary prosecution story, which considerably corrodes the authenticity and veracity of the prosecution story. The informant at every stage is move an application inserting new fact and feature in the prosecution story just to fill up the lacunas as per legal advice received to the informant.

8- On being informed about demise of Dr. Narendra Kumar, the police administration came into action and ensued investigation. The investigating officer took into custody the corpse of the deceased Narendra and carried out the requisite formalities and arranged to keep the corpse at mortuary. On 03.11.2015 after completion of requisite formalities like appointment of panchan, I.O. got prepared panchnama (Inquest) of the dead body of the deceased. It is opined in the inquest report, marked as Ext Ka-8, that cause of death of the deceased is fire-arm injury sustained by him in his abdomen, nevertheless in order to ascertain the exact cause of death autopsy of the dead body was proposed. In Post Mortem Report, Ext Ka-9, the doctor opined that the death of the deceased Narendra Kumar has occurred due to profuse bleeding and asphyxia, as a result of gun shot injury. Meanwhile, the investigation was transferred to S.O./S.I. Surendra Kumar Pachori.

9. The I.O./S.I. Surendra Kumar Pachori inspected the place of occurrence, prepared the site plan at the instance of complainant and recorded the statements of the witnesses u/s 161 Cr.P.C. and on getting the tip off and clue from the police sympathizer with respect to presence of accused Bhanu, arrested him on 04.11.2015 at about 7.00 p.m. and recovered a country-made pistol with a empty cartridge in its barrel, allegedly used in the incident, at his instance, from a plastic sack filled with paddy, from the room of a tube-well. Recovery memo Ext Ka-17 and site plan of place of recovery Ext Ka-26 was prepared in the presence of witnesses and recovered weapon physical Ext-6 & cartriges physical Ext-7,8,9, was sealed on the spot. The recovered weapon was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for forensic examination.

10. It transpires from the record that on arrest of the accused Bhanu and recovery from him, a Case Crime No.382 of 2015, under Section 25 of Arms Act was also registered, against him.

11. In view of the applications moved by complainant, I.O. strived to collect evidence about involvement of Saurabh in the crime, but he found no such evidence against him. However, I.O. after due investigation collecting sufficient material and evidence, showing the complicity of accused Bhanu only, submitted charge sheet against him ,under Section 302 I.P.C. and 25 Arms Act in the court of learned C.J.M., Bijnor. Even after holding the thorough investigation the I.O. of the case could not collect anything incriminating against the appellant Saurabh Kumar and therefore the charge sheet No. 02 under Section 302 I.P.C. was submitted only against the Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap and not against the appellant which has led to the creation of S.T. No. 105 of 2016.

Similarly, Case Crime No. 382 of 2015 under Section 25 of Arms Act the IO of the case has submitted the charge No. 2145 of 2015 against the co-accused Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap which has eventually given rise to S.T. No. 106 of 2015.

As mentioned above, name of the appellant Saurabh Kumar does not find place in both the charge sheets but was summoned in the excersise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. in S.T. No. 105 of 2016 under Section 302 I.P.C.

12. Learned C.J.M. took cognizance of the case. Being exclusively triable by the court of sessions, committed it to the Sessions vide its order dated 24.02.2016 for trial, where the case was registered as S.T. No. 105 of 2016 and S.T. No. 106 of 2016 against Bhanu under Section 302 I.P.C. and Section 25 Arms Act respectively and later transferred it to the court of Additional Sessions Judge/ Fast Tract Court No. 2, Bijnor.

13. Learned Sessions Judge framed charges under Section 302 I.P.C. and Section 25 Arms Act against the Bhanu (since deceased) on 29.03.2016 and accused Saurabh was charged under Section 302/34 I.P.C. on 21.10.2016. The accused appellant Saurabh, including co-accused, abjured the charges, "plead not guilty, and claimed to be tried".

14. The prosecution, in order to bring charges home, against accused persons / appellant, examined following witnesses in the ocular evidence as under:-

Sr no.	Name	PW Nos.	Remarks
1.	Kamesh Singh	P.W.-1	(nephew of the deceased)

17. On conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the appellant was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C., with reference to prosecution evidence on record. As many as 42 queries were put to him by the learned trial court. In his statement he denied that renounced the prosecution story and stated that complainant got prepared wrong and false affidavits of various persons, which contains not even an iota of truth. He know, nothing about the incident as stated in prosecution. He denied his presence on the place of occurrence at the time of incident, firing by Bhanu upon the deceased with a country made pistol in his abdomen, his medical treatment at district hospital Bijnor or Meerut. He stated that FIR is based on a wrong facts. Incident was not seen by the complainant Kamesh and his aunt Dinesh Devi who reached there on hearing the fire. In answer to a suggestive query he stated that it is wrong to say, that PWs saw fleeing him along with Bhanu Pratap after fire. He did not comment that the post mortem of the deceased conducted on 03.11.2015 in district hospital Bijnor. He stated that the site plan was wrongly prepared and nothing incriminating was recovered from him.

The appellant stated that the evidence of PW- 1 Kamesh, PW-2 Dinesh Devi, PW-3 Sandeep Kumar, is wrong and not believable. He further stated that evidence of PW-4 doctor Yogendra Tirkha. PW-5 Gurupal Singh, PW-6 S.I. Surendra Singh Pachori, PW-7 Shyam Singh Negi, PW-8 Ram Singh, PW-9 doctor Prem Prakash, PW-10 S.I. Satish Kumar is wrong and reports are wrongly prepared by them. He was falsely implicated due to enmity and he is innocent.

18. The accused/ appellant did not adduced any oral or documentary evidence in his defence.

19. The Learned Trial Court after examining and evaluating the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, oral and documentary, and other material on record, came to the conclusion that there is a complete chain of evidence showing the complicity of accused appellant in the commission of the said crime and the prosecution has successfully been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubts, pointing the guilt against the accused persons and as such convicted Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap under Section 25, Arms Act and sentenced him for one year imprisonment along with fine of Rs.1,000/-. The appellant Saurabh too was convicted in Session Trial No.105 of 2016, under Section 302 read with 34 IPC for life imprisonment with fine of Rs.50,000/- with default clause. Thus, it is evident that the learned trial judge after taking the recourse of Section 34 I.P.C., have roped the appellant under Section 302 read with 34 I.P.C.

20. Broadly speaking learned counsels for the appellant putforth following arguments in his favour:

A- Appellant Saurabh Kumar is not named in the FIR:- It has been argued by the counsel for the appellant that appellant is not named in the FIR dated 02.11.2015 nor his name figure in the application given by the informant to the S.P. Bijnor on very next date dated 03.11.2015. Nor any role attributed to the appellant in his 161 statement given to the police. As mentioned above at the very belated stage about one month and five days name of the appellant has figured along with his so called accomplice Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap. From the application it is evident that the actual role of firing has been attributed to the co-accused Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap and it is alleged that when actual offence was taken place the present appellant was standing over the channel and after the incident both of them fled away from the place of occurrence. Interesting feature of the case is that informant and his aunt Dinesh Devi both of them claims that they are the eye witness of the incident but surpringingly neither in the FIR nor in the statement 161 Cr.P.C. nor given application to the S.P. Bijnor has even wisper the name of the present appellant. It is only after gathering information from the various quarters friends and relatives have tried to stigmatize falsely implicate the appellant in this offensive.

B- Appellant is not charge sheeted accused:- that it is pertinent to point out that though the information vis-a-vis and other witnesses have tried to figured the name of the appellant as a perpetrator of the crime but during the course of the investigation no active participation of the appellant was found hence after thoroughly investigated the matter the investigating officer submitted the chaege sheet against the Bhanu Pratap but no charge sheet have filed against the appellant.

C- No motive to the appellant:- That though during the course of investigatio the enmity was established between the co-accused Bhanu Pratap and the deceased i.e. Ext. Ka- 23 but neither the appellant is having any motive nor having any concerned with the Bhanu Pratap.

D- No Recovery from the appellant:- That it is also pertinent to point out that there is no connecting material against the appellant to connect in the present crime in question even the alleged weapon of crime was also recovered from the alleged co-accused Bhanu Pratap whereas no recovery of any weapon or any incrementing material was recovered from the possession or pointing out of the appellant.

E- Appellant Summoned u/s 319 of Cr.P.C. That it is also pertinent to point out that after filing the police report and during the course of trial the prosecution have filed an application u/s 319 of Cr.P.C. but without considering the material the then available on record and without prpoerly appreciated the evidence the learned Court concerned have summoned the appellant vide its order dated 06.09.2016.

F- Disputed Place of Occurrence:- That it is also pertinent to point out that the place of occurrence is higly doubtful which create a serious shadow of doubt on the testimony of the P.W.- 1 & P.W. - 2.

G- Referring the evidence and other relevant material placed by the prosecution on record, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, has assiduously argued that appellant was neither named in the tehrir (Ext Ka-1) nor in first information report (Ext Ka-21). Nothing incriminating material recovered from his possession or pointing out. There is no eye witness of the incident or who have seen the accused Saurabh committing the crime and running away from the scene of occurrence. The witnesses examined by the prosecution are interested and partition. There are material contradictions in their statements. Place of occurrence is also disputed. The name of the appellant for the first time came on the surface in an application dated 07.12.2015 (Ext Ka-3) moved to SP Bijnor.

The application contains concocted, deliberated and after thought story. He was not charge sheeted by the I.O. Appellant was erroneously summoned u/s 319 Cr.P.C., to face the trial. Above all, no motive is attributed to the appellant although during the course of investigation, the enmity was established between the co-accused Bhanu Pratap and the deceased regarding chak road but neither the appellant is having any motive nor having any concerned with the Bhanu Pratap. statements of PW-1 complainant Kamesh , PW-2 Dinesh Devi and PW-3 Sandeep Kumar are not reliable and believable. He finally argued that prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubts. There is no justification to convict and sentence to a person against whom there is no complete chain of evidence pointing towards the guilt. The learned trial judge failed to take into account and appreciate the discrepancies occurring in the evidences. The finding of guilt recorded by the court below are not based on proper and correct evaluation and appreciation of evidence, rather the learned trial judge has drawn adverse inference while there is no evidence worth name available against the appellant showing his complicity. Therefore, the impugned judgment and order convicting and sentencing the appellant in the aforesaid crime is not sustainable in the eyes of law and the same is liable to be set aside and the appellant deserves to be absolved of the charges of murder under Section 302 read with section 34 IPC. These arguments have been further elaborated in the course of evaluation of evidence.

Per contra, learned counsel for the informant as well as learned A.G.A. representing the State, and learned private counsel for the complainant opposed the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant and contended that evidence has to be weighed and not counted. If the evidence is cogent, credible and trustworthy having a ring of complete chain of incident, it cannot be jettisoned. The emphasis is laid on value, weight and quality of evidence rather than on quantity, multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. It is submitted that there are sufficient materials to depict the involvement of the appellant in the commission of said offence. The fatal injury to Dr. Narendra Kumar has been caused in a very brutal and horrific manner with the sole object of taking away his life. The prosecution has fully proved that the accused appellant has shared in the commission of said offence. It is compatible to illustrate here that Dr, Narendra Kumar (deceased) has been shot in a very diabolical and gruesome manner with the sole object of taking vengeance. The execution of crime has been carried out in a pre-planned and pre-concerted manner, which is conspicuous on record. If there is any defect in investigation or inconsistencies in the testimony of prosecution witnesses, the entire prosecution story cannot be discarded. The findings of guilt recorded by the trial court are based on correct appreciation and evaluation of evidence on record. Blackening of the wound can be found only when the shot is found from a distance of three to four feet and not beyond the same.

The learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the complainant further argued that First Information Report as noticed herein above was lodged at the quickest possible time. As per prosecution case the incident has occurred on 02.11.2015 at about 07.00 p.m. and tehrir (Ext Ka-1) of the same was presented to P.S. Mandawar at 07.35 p.m. on the same day. The first information report is not supposed to be an encyclopedia of the entire event. The learned trial judge has found sufficient materials to take cognizance against the appellant by allowing the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The findings recorded by the trial court cannot be said to be erroneous or perverse. (P.W.-1) Kamesh Singh and (P.W.-2) Dinesh Devi, who are the eye witnesses of the case, have fully supported the prosecution version. The ballistic report also supports the prosecution version, as the country made pistol, which was used in the commission of crime, was recovered on the pointing out of accused Bhanu. Thus, learned trial judge has sifted and weighed entire evidence on record and has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant.

Learned counsel for the informant, has further elaborated these arguments of during the course of analysis of evidence.

22. In view of the rival submissions made by learned counsels for the parties and having gone through the material available on record and having regard to entire gamut of the case, the only question that falls for our consideration is whether the trial court committed any error in passing the impugned judgment and order. Therefore, their submissions will be tested on the touchstone of the given evidence, undisputed facts and circumstances and legal scenario.

Analysis of the issues involved

21. Now, we propose to analyse ocular evidence adduced by the prosecution. PW-1 complainant Kamesh, PW-2 Dinesh Devi, are the witnesses of facts. They were examined twice by the prosecution. Once when appellant was not made an accused and second time when he has been summoned u/s 319 Cr.P.C.

22 PW-1 Kamesh Singh is the complainant of the case. He claimed himself to be an eyewitness of the incident. He has deposed that on 02.11.2015 he was sitting in the residence of his uncle Dr Naraendra Kumar at about 07.00 p.m. Bhanu along-with his companion saurabh, came at the clinic of his uncle, which is situated in his residence. Bhanu entered in the clinic, while Saurabh stood near Chanel. As soon as Dr. Narendra got up to give the medicine, Bhanu shot him by country made pistol, with the intention of killing him. The bullet hit the abdomen of his uncle. As soon as he and his aunt ran outside to catch the accused, Bhanu and Saurabh, ran away waving the pistols in their hands. He has also stated that about 8-9 months before the incident, some hot altercation had taken place between Saurabh and his uncle's son Harsh kumar then his uncle had gone to the residence of Saurabh and reprimanded and scolded him and even slapped Saurabh three four times. Since then appellant Saurabh was nurturing animus and grudge against his uncle Dr. Narendra. Saurabh and Bhanu are the teaching in the same school and are close friends. A few days before the incident, Saurabh had told Dhyan Singh and Ankur of Basi that Dr. Narendra to be killed. After the incident they took injured to the police station, where he gave a scribe (Therir), Ext. Ka-1, about the incident, which is in his writing and signature. The witness proved the scribe as Ext. Ka-1. At the time of occurrence he was sitting with his aunt Dinesh Devi in the Varandah in side her residence. Thereafter injured Dr. Narendra was brought to District Hospital Bijnor, where viewing his pitiable condition doctor refereed him to Meerut. He died on the way to Meerut. They return to police station, and gave the information in writing, Ext Ka-2. about demise of Dr. Narendra Kumar. This application is also in his writing and his signature. The witness proved it. He further stated that on 07.12.2015 he gave an application to the S.P. Bijnor to take appropriate action against the police officers because Saurabh was arrested by the police and after keeping for one night in the police station, set him free. He further stated that before 05.11.2015 he has given an other application. Similarly on 01.12.2015 and 16.12.2015, he gave other applications along-with the affidavits, to S.P. Bijnor. He proved these applications as Ext Ka 4 and Ka 5. Besides he, Sandeep and Amit are also witnessed, Bhanu and Saurabh, after shooting his uncle Dr. Narendra, both of them has country made pistol in their hands, while running Bhanu was saying to Saurabh that he has shot Narendra, as per your direction, save me.

23. PW-1 complainant Kamesh has been thoroughly cross examined by the learned counsel for the defence. In his cross examination he stated that earlier he had been a doctor, but now has left the medical practice and running the business of RCM and forming. On the day and time of the incident he was sitting in the Varandah of the residence of his uncle. He had gone there by chance, just to meet his uncle at about 6.30-7.00 p.m. His aunt was also there. He reached at police station at about 7.30-7.45 pm where on the dictation of Daroga Ji he wrote the tehrir Ext Ka-1. He had told to Daroga ji that he was present at the spot at the time of the occurrence but it is correct that the same has not been scribe in Ext Ka-1. I have seen the incident. When he gave the tehrir, it was well with in his knowledge that the fact that he was present at the time of incident and witnessing the evidence, is not written in the tehrir. When he inquired about this daroga ji answered that complete the formalities and take the injured for treatment. At an other place he confessed that he has not communicated to any one that he have seen the incident. At that time, he never gave in writing to any one that he witnessed the occurrence. He has not made any complaint about. The fact that daroga ji Surendra Singh Pachauri restrained him in writing his statement in this regard in the tehrir. When the investigation handed over to the crime branch, he had not disclosed to them that FIR was written as per dictation of Surendra Singh Pachauri and not voluntarily by him. He had given a first application on 05.12.2015 regarding the incident, which is not on record. However, photocopy of the same was annexed by him to his application u/s 319 Cr.P.C. He had orally informed about the demise of his uncle on the very day of his death, he do not remember the date. It it true that in Ext Ka-3, it is not mentioned that he witnessed the incident, even in Ext Ka 4 dated 01.12.2015, it was not mentioned that he witnessed the incident. He , his uncle and aunt were sitting in the Varandah of the residence. There is only a window between the clinic and residence. Uncle had gone to the clinic room to give medicine, he and his aunt remained sitting in the Verandah. When the fire took place, he was sitting near aunt. On hearing fire he got up and ran to see as to what has happened. He ran towards uncle and found him hit by a bullet in his stomach. When he reached, the aunt came with him, the doctor was standing after being shot, both of us made him sit on the chair. He had motor cycle with him. Uncle was taken to the hospital to the car. His uncle's son had gone to call Gaurav, the car owner. It would have taken 20-25 minutes the car to arrive. He did not gave any first aid to the injured uncle during that time. Even uncle did not ask to give him any medicine. There was no bleeding when my uncle was shot. No blood had poured on the ground at the scene of the incident. Only a little bit of blood was on the clothes. He spent about 20 minutes in the police station concerned. There after went to District hospital, Bijnor. He admitted the injured uncle, but his signature is not obtained in this behalf. His injured uncle was sent from Bijnor to Meerut. He has never told to any police officer, that there was a dispute between his uncle and Bhanu regarding chak road. There was no dispute between them. If the inspector did not mention this in his statement, he cannot tell the reason. He saw Saurabh and Bhanu running. A part from him Sandeep and Amit of his village also saw Bhanu and Saurabh running away after shooting his uncle Narendra. He was not refrained from telling this to crime branch. Such an statement was not written by any previous officer or in any application that while running away, Bhanu was telling Saurabh that he had shot Dr. Narendra as per his instructions, save him.

24. In his further cross-examination PW-1 has stated that the incident took place at about 7.00 p.m. It was dark. Electricity was being supplied and tube light was on in the clinic room and street light of the village was also supplied. Injured went up to vehicle by foot but no bloodstained found there in the car. He has not named Dinesh Devi as witness, in the application by which he informed the death of his uncle. In the application dated 07.12.2015 he has not mentioned that he had seen Saurabh on the spot. While going to Meert by ambulance police personnel were with them. On returning they managed to keep the dead body in the mortuary. The witness has referred the narration between him and his injured uncle. He told to I.O. that he and his aunt reached on the spot and both of them saw Bhanu running with a pistol. He further stated that he has shown the place where he his uncle and aunt were sitting and having tea. He did not pointed out the place from which he saw the Bhanu. They were having tea sitting in the Varandah and not in the courtyard. This Verandah is situated towards south from the courtyard. If these places are not exhibited by the I.O. in the site plan he cannot say anything about it. After the incident nobody of the vicinity reached at the place of occurrence after hearing the sound of fire and running the accused. It was known to me prior to lodging of FIR that there is an enmity between the Saurabh and the deceased due to which he wants to take revenge. He denied the suggestion that he has named Saurabh after deliberation with the relatives. At the time of occurrence noon of the village or vicinity present on the spot. The person running after committing the crime was wrapped with a loi.

25. PW- 2 Dinesh Devi, is the wife of the deceased Dr. Narendra Kumar. In her testimony she has attributed role of firing to the alleged accused Bhanu Pratap. She deposed that she knows accused Saurabh and Bhanu. They are close friends and both of them teach in same school. At the time of incident they were posted in the village-Teetarpale. Bhanu was Prerak and Saurabh was teacher. She further stated that about 5-6 months before the incident, there was a altercation in between her son Harsh and Saurabh. At this, her husband Narendra Kumar went to the residence of the Saurabh, scolded and slapped him. Since then Saurabh was nurturing enmity with her husband. On 02.11.2015 at 7.00 p.m. She was in her home with Dr. Narendra. Kamesh had also come there and was sitting in her residence. Dr. Saheb was sitting next to them near the window of the clinic. Bhanu and Saurabh came there. Bhanu entered inside the clinic and Saurabh stood near the Chanel. As soon as her husband Dr. Narendra got up to give medicine to Bhanu, he immediately shot him. We took care injured Dr. Saheb picked him up and brought him to the police station in the vehicle. Thereafter he was brought to Bijnor hospital. There from, he was being taken to Meerut hospital, but on the way he succumbed. Amit and Sandeep have told her that they have seen Bhanu and Saurabh running with country made pistol and Bhanu was saying to Saurabh that he has killed the doctor, save him.

26. The witnesses was thoroughly cross examined. In her cross examination she deposed that when she reached near his husband she saw running the person who has hit him with bullet. He was not wrapping any loi. When doctor shaheb went to give medicine. He was fired upon after 10-15 minutes. She do not know whether he has given medicine before the firing. This is true that a shutter opens outside in the clinic room. There is open place between the shutter and the road. The road is in the south of his residence at the distance of 6 to 7 fit. Accused after coming out the shutter firstly ran towards east and then towards south then there is jungle. It is also true that at the time of incident, it was dark but lights were on. She do not know whether the site plan was prepared as per his indications or on some other basis. Varandah means a roofed structure and court yard means open place. The door of the room, where the incident occurred, opens towards east in the place under the roof. She denied the suggestions put-forth to her.

27. PW- 3 Sandeep Kumar has deposed in his examination that he know the accused Bhanu and Saurabh. Both of them are resident of the same village. On 02.11.2015 at about 07.00 P.M. He was returning from Jungle. His co-villager Amit met him in front of his house. When they reached near the residence of Dr. Narendra, they heard the sound of fire. They approached towards of the residence of the Dr. Narendra. and saw running away Saurabh and Bhanu, holding country made pistol in their hands, from the front of the residence of the deceased. Bhanu was saying to Saurabh that I have shot Dr. Narendra on your direction, save me. They were frightened. Injured Dr. Narendra was taken away to district hospital by his nephew Kamesh. 5-6 months before the incident, there was a scuffle in between Harsh son of Dr. Narendra and Saurabh. At this, Narendra Kumar went to the residence of the Saurabh, scolded and even slapped him. Since then Saurabh had harbored hostility with Dr. Narendra Kumar. He has given an affidavit, Ext Ka 6, to S.P. Bijnor on 01.12.2015. The witness further stated that on 04.11.2015 accused Bhanu was arrested and a country made pistol was recovered, at his instance. The recovery memo was prepared at the spot, which bears his signature also. The witness proved it as Ext Ka-7. He further stated that on 03.11.2015 inquest of the dead-body of the Narendra was conducted . He was a witness to inquest report, Ext Ka - 8.

28. The witnesses is also cross examined. In his cross examination, he admitted that deceased Dr. Narendra was his real uncle and the complainant Kamesh is his real cousin. On the day of occurrence he was coming from jungle, he saw Saurabh and Bhanu fleeing from a distance of 2-3 meters, from the residence of Dr. Narendra. He saw them from 25-30 meters from the residence of the deceased. He saw them in the light installed in the balcony of the house of the deceased. When accused were passing him, he did not ask them, where from they are coming. Then he came to his residence, thereafter he reached to the residence of doctor saheb. Kamesh was taking doctor out his residence. He did not accompanied them. He do not know who had gone with doctor then he did not went inside doctor's residence. He received the news in the village that the doctor has expired. Latter he went to the hospital but Doctor saheb did not met him in the hospital. So he returned at about 10-12 o' clock to his residence. He remained in his residence next day throughout the day. He has told next day to Kamesh that he saw Saurabh and Bhanu going. He him self gave affidavit, Ext. Ka-6, to S.P. Bijnor. In the affidavit he has not written that deceased and Bhanu have some dispute regarding chak road and if it is there in the affidavit, it is wrong. The affidavit was given after one month of the incident. He confessed that it is true that they have taken doctor to the hospital, before he reached. He has stated to the investigating officer that Saurabh and Bhanu were running with pistols in their hands and Bhanu was saying to Saurabh that he has shot doctor as per his instruction, now save me. He has signed the recovery memo of Bhanu but he do not know from where Bhanu was arrested and where from recovery was made. He was not informed by anyone about the incident. He had no talk with aunt till next day. He had not gone inside the residence of his uncle nor he accompanied him while he went for treatment to Meerut. He attended the postmortem of his uncle. Other relatives were also present there, except his aunt Dinesh Devi at the postmortem house. His residence is situated only two meters away from the residence of the deceased.

29. P.W.-4 Yogendra Tirkha conducted the postmortem of the deceased on 03.11.2015. During autopsy he found following ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased doctor Narendra Kumar:-

(1)- Gunshot entry wound 3 x 1.5 cm. x 1 x depth could not be measured during examination, with inverted margin on the right side of the wall in front of the chest and abdomen at the 5 o'clock position of the clock, 12 cm below the right nipple, the edges of the scar were bent downwards. There were marks of blackening and tattooing of marked 30x24 cm around the wound.

In his opinion Cause of death was shock and hemorrhage, as a result of ante-mortem fire-arm injury of the deceased. The witness proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-9.

The witness also deposed that at the time of autopsy he got prepared four photographs of the dead boy and one photo was also photographed the bullet which was recover from the body of the deceased. He proved these photographs and bullet as physical Exts. 1 to 5.

30. PW- 4 is also put to cross examination wherein he stated that only one bullet was hit to the deceased which was embaded in the body. No pellets were recovered from the dead body. He was shot from the distance of 2-3 fit.

31. PW- 8 Doctor Ram Singh, deposed that Doctor V.K. Shukla prepared the reference slip referring the injured doctor Narendra Kumar to the medical collage Meerut for further treatment. The reference slip is in the hand writing and signature of doctor of doctor V.K. Shukla. He is conversant with his writing. Thus, he proved the reference slip, in secondary evidence, as Ext. Ka- 24

32. P.W.- 9 Dr. Prem Prakash, medico-legally examined the injured Narendra Kumar on 02.11.2015 at about 8.25 pm. He found the following injuries upon the body of the injured:-

In his examination, he has deposed that he cannot tell the distance between injured and place wherefrom the fire was opened. In his opinion it was approximately 10 fit. He found the injury fresh.

33. P.W.-5 S.I. Gurupal Singh, P.W.-6 S.I. Surendra Singh Pachori, P.W.-7 S.I. Shyam Singh Negi are I.O.s of the case, who deposed that they conducted the investigation the matter and proved various prosecution documents like request for PM, site plan, chik, charge sheet and kaimi G.D. from Ext. Ka-10, to Ext. Ka-23. and physical Ext. from Ext. 6, 7, 8, 10, 11 to 16. and P.W.-10 Satish Kumar proved chik FIR, Kaimi G.D. and G.Ds. from Ext. Ka-26 to Ext. Ka-33. and various other documents. These witnesses were put under detailed cross examination also.

In the nutsell above is the material relied upon by the prosecution to establish the guilt of the appellant Saurabh Kumar. After examining the aforementioned material critically and in a reasonable prosepective it is highly unlikley that for a insinificant and severe incident said to have been taken place about 7-8 months back, the accused appellant would nurture the anamosity for aforesaid period and implicate his friend to commit the offence and he remain a silent spectator of the incident. It is most unlikely that while fleeing away from the place of occurrence, the accmplice Bhanu alias Bhanu Pratap would say to the accused appellant that commonding your direction I have committed the offence as per your commond and guidence, now you (the accused appellant), he has to save him from the clutches of the police and this conversation would be overheard by Sandeep and Amit. This narration is picturised the absuerdity of the prosecution story would be apparent.

Presence of the appellant at the place of occurrence

34. The first question to be scrutinized is as to whether the appellant was named in the first scribe (tehrir), Ext. Ka- 1, on the basis of which chik FIR Ext. Ka-21, was lodged at the police station concerned and his presence on the place of occurrence at the time of incident and participation in the occurrence. Learned counsel for the appellant Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla has assiduously contended that appellant is not named either in tehrir Ext Ka-1, or chik FIR Ext Ka 21, or any other evidence. FIR was launched against Bhanu Pratap only u/s 307 I.P.C. His name did not surface any where. No incriminating article is recovered from his possession or at his pointing out. He was introduced for the first time in an application moved by the complainant on 07.12.2015 i.e. after a delay of one month and five days, from the incident. As a matter of course appellant's name has been introduced by the complainant after due consultation and deliberation, with a view to implicate him . Learned G.A. and private counsel of the appellant refuted the argument of the learned counsel for appellant.

35. Per contra, learned G.A. contended that FIR is not supposed to be encyclopedia of the entire facts therefore, it is not necessary to mention each and every thing pertaining to the case. The complainant was in a state of shock at the time of occurrence and in a hurry to report and carry the injured to hospital for treatment, so while writing the scribe he could miss the fact that Bhanu and his associate Saurabh both, went to the clinic of the deceased in the pretext of taking medicine. Bhanu entered in the clinic and fired at the deceased, while Saurabh remain stood near the channel. This fact has been deposed by PW-1 Kamesh and PW-2 Dinesh Devi who are eye witnesses of the occurrence and Sandeep Kumar and Amit also, who saw both of them running, waving the country made pistols in their hands. They also heard Bhanu while running saying to Saurabh that he has shot Dr. Narendra as per his direction, save him. PW-3 Sandeep has been examined by the prosecution. He confirms it by stating that while running Bhanu was saying to Saurabh "मैंने तुम्हारे कहने से डॉ. नरेंद्र को गोली मार दी है, मुझे बचा लेना" In these conditions, the factum of participation of the Saurabh in the crime is amply clear. Therefore, anonymizing the name of the appellant in the FIR is not fatal to the prosecution case.

36. It is well established proposition of law and jurisprudence that FIR is not an encyclopedia of entire case wherein each and every, minor or major, fact is to be mentioned, yet it must state skeletal features, there by disclosing the commission of the offence. As for as the argument, that FIR does not contains the names of the all the accused persons, is concerned it has to be kept in the mind that if any overt act is attributed to a particular accused among the assailant, it must be given greater assurance about his participation in the crime. In this context reference to certain authorities would be fruitful .

In, State of Uttar Pradesh v. Naresh and Others (2011) 4 SCC 324, placing reliance on Rohtash vs State of Rajasthan (2006) 12 S.C.C. 64 and Ranjeet Singh Vs state of M.P. (2011) 4 S.C.C. 336, the Apex Court held as under:-

"It is settled legal proposition that FIR is not an encyclopedia of the entire case. It may not and need not contain all the details. Naming of the accused therein may be important but not naming of the accused in FIR may not be a ground to doubt the contents thereof in case the statement of the witness is found to be trustworthy. The court has to determine after examining the entire factual scenario whether a person has participated in the crime or has falsely been implicated. The informant fully acquainted with the facts may lack necessary skill or ability to reproduce details of the entire incident without anything missing from this. Some people may miss even the most important details in narration. Therefore, in case the informant fails to name a particular accused in the FIR, this ground alone cannot tilt the balance of the case in favour of the accused."

37. In view of the above legal scenario the question is whether appellant Saurabh has been implicated indeed owing to his participation in the said crime or he has been falsely implicated by way of after-thought or not. It must be judged having regard to the entire factual scenario of the case. In this regard it is worth quoting the tehrir Ext. Ka-1 which reads as under:-

" महोदय निवेदन है कि मेरे चाचा जी डा० नरेंद्र कुमार अपने क्लीनिक पर जो घर पर ही है, मौजूद थे । समय करीब 7 बजे सांय गॉव का भानू S/O राम किशन निवासी कमालपुर क्लीनिक पर आया तथा मेरे चाचा से दवा लेने के लिए आया तथा मेरे चाचा ने कहा बैठो अभी दवा देता हूं। इसी बात पर नाराज होकर जान से मारने की नियत से मेरे चाचा के गोली मार दी, जो उनके पेट मे लगी है। इन्हें उपचार हेतु अस्पताल ले जाना है रिपोर्ट दर्ज कर कानूनी कार्यवाही करने की कृपा करें। (02.11.15)"

38. Since, chik FIR Ext. Ka- 21 has been registered on the basis of the tehrir, Ext. Ka- 1, hence, it is the ditto version of tehrir as mentioned above.

39. As discussed above, the complainant moved several applications on different dates to the S.O. Mandawar and S.P. Bijnor. An birds eye view of these applications will be helpful in finding out the actual fact.

(i)- On 03.11.2015 complainant Kamesh gave an application to the S.O. Mandawar, Bijnor, which read thus:-

महोदय,

निवेदन इस प्रकार है दिनाक 02.11.2015 को मेरे चाचा डॉ. नरेंद्र कुमार राजपूत पुत्र स्वर्गीय तेजराम सिंह निवासी ग्राम कमाल पुर थाना मंडावर को जान से मारने की नियत से भानु पुत्र रामकिशन निवासी कमाल पुर थाना मंडावर जिला बिजनौर ने गोली मार दी थी जो गंभीर रूप से घायल हो गई थी मैं उन्हें थाने लेकर आया था और मुकद्दमा लिखवाया था गंभीर रूप से घायल होने के करण जिला अस्पताल बिजनोर उपचार हेतु लेकर गए थे डॉक्टरो ने उन्हें इलाज हेतु जनपद बिजनौर से मेरठ को रेफर किया था मैं अपने चाचा जी को इलाज हेतु मेरठ लेकर जा रहा था रास्ते में ही उन्होंने अपना दम तोड़दिया है उनका मृत शरीर सदर अस्पताल की मोर्चरी में रखा है थाना सूचना देने के लिए पुन: आया हूं क़ानूनी कार्यवाही करने की कृपा करे आपको बताना चाहता हूं कि मेरे चाचा को भानु पुत्र रामकिशन ने जब गोली मारी थी तो गोली कि आवाज सुनकर के मैं तथा मेरी चाची दिनेश देवी पत्नी नरेंद्र कुमार राजपूत के साथ मौके पर आ गए हम दोनों ने मौके से भानु पुत्र रामकिशन को भागते हुए देखा है जब भानू मौके से भागा था उस समय इसके दाहिने हाथ में तमंचा भी था मेरे चाचा की मृत्यु दिनांक 02.11.2015 को समय करीब 11.25 बजे रात्रि में हो गई है

अत: आपसे अनुरोध है कि उक्त संबंध में आवश्यक कानूनी कार्रवाई करें! (03.11.2015)

(ii) On 01.12.2015 the complainant Kamesh singh gave another application Ext Ka-4 to SP Bijnor divulging therein that some important witnesses were inquired by the IO. These witnesses are important to reach at right conclusion of the case. Hence, the annexed affidavits of the deponents sandeep and Amit, be sent to IO Inspector Shyam Singh Negi.

(iii) On 07.12.2015 he moved another application before S.P., Bijnor which reads thus:-

महोदय,

निवेदन है कि दिनांक 02.11.2015 को शाम समय लगभग 7 बजे गांव के भानु वा सौरभ ने प्रार्थना के चाचा डॉ नरेंद्र की हत्या गोली मार के कर दी थी। जिसकी रिपोर्ट प्रार्थी ने थाना मंडावर में अपराध क्रमांक 381/2015 धारा 307 आईपीसी के तहत लिखाई थी। जिसे बाद में धारा 302 में तरमीम कर दिया गया। प्रार्थी ने भानू के विरुद्ध रिपोर्ट लिखाई थी। चुनकी वह परेशान व सदमे में आ गया था और रिपोर्ट लिखने से पूर्व उसकी किसी से बात नहीं हुई थी। वास्तव में यही है कि प्रार्थी के चाचा की हत्या भानु द्वारे सौरभ पुत्र शेर सिंह के सहयोग सेकी गयी है।, इस घटना को अमित वा संदीप ने भी देखा है। लेकिन थानेया पुलिस सौरभ को बचा रही है और जनबूझकर सौरभ के विरुद्ध कार्यवाही नहीं कर रही है। जबकी सौरभ पूरी तरह से प्रार्थी के चाचा की हत्या में संलिप्त रहा है। और सौरभ से प्रार्थी के चाचा मृत डॉ नरेंद्र सिंह की दुश्मनी थी अगर सौरभ के विरूद्ध कार्यवाही नहीं होती है तो अपराधी साफ बच निकलेगा सौरभ के विरूद्ध पर्याप्त साक्ष्य है। परिस्थितियो में सौरभ को गिरफ़्तार किया जाना वा उसके विरुद्ध भी कार्यवाही होना अति आवश्यक है इसके बाद से सौरभ ने प्रार्थी के परिवार और गवाहों को धमकाना शुरू कर दिया है। इस से पूर्व भी प्रार्थी श्रीमान जी को प्रार्थना पत्र प्रेषित कर चूका है।

अत: श्रीमान जी प्रार्थना है कि विवेचक अपराध शाखा को आदेश देने की कृपा करें कि वह सौरभ पुत्र शेर सिंह.....के विरुद्ध कार्यवाही करे। (07.12.2015)

(iv) On 16.12.2015 the complainant Kamesh gave yet another application to the SP Bijnor, the relevant part of the application may be reproduced here under :-

"मुझे ज्ञात हुआ है कि पूर्व विवेचक थाना प्रभारी मंडावर द्वारा भानु वा नरेंद्र सिंह के बीच चकरोड का विवाद अपनी विवेचना में अंकित किया है जबकी वस्तविकता ये है कि उनके मध्य चकरोड का कोई विवाद नहीं था मेरे गांव के सौरभ पुत्र शेरसिंह वा मेरे चचेरे भाई हर्ष पुत्र डॉ नरेंद्र सिंह के बीच आपसी कहा सुनी हो गई थी जिसपर डॉ नरेंद्र सिंह (मृतक) ने सौरभ को उसके घर जाकर डाट डपट व मारपीट कर दिया था जिस से सौरभ नरेंद्र सिंह से रंजिस रखने लग गया था जिस से सौरभ ने भानु से मिलकर एक षड़यंत्र रचकर डॉ नरेंद्र सिंह की हत्या की है मैं सत्यता से श्रीमान जी को अवगत करना चाहता हूं इसलिए मैं अपने गांव के मौजिज लोगो/ गवाहान के शपथ पत्र श्रीमान जी की सेवा में प्रस्तुत कर रहा हूं जिनका विवेचना में शामिल कराया जाना न्यायहित में अत्यन्त आवश्यक है!

अत: श्रीमान जी से प्रार्थना है प्रार्थी के प्रार्थना पत्र के साथ संलगन शपथ पत्र को उपरोक्त शपथ पत्र को विवेचना में शामिल करा कर कार्यवाही कराये जाने के आदेश पारित करने की कृपा की जाए!" (16.12.2015)

40. A bare perusal of the scribe, Ext. Ka-1, reveals that appellant Saurabh has not been named in it. Similarly the name of the appellant is anonymized in the chik FIR, Ext. Ka 21, there is not even a whisper in these documents about the complicity, presence and participation of the present appellant in the crime. In the application dated 03.11.2015 Ext. Ka-2, which is intended to furnish information to PS concerned, about the demise of Dr Narendra Kumar, complainant added that when his uncle was shot by Bhanu, on hearing the sound of fire, he and his aunt Dinesh Devi, came to the spot, both of them saw Bhanu running from the spot having a pistol in his right hand. Thus, Pw-1 and Pw- 2 has introduced a new story before the court that at the time of incident Bhanu entered into the clinic whereas Saurabh remain standing near the channel. PW-2 who is the wife of the deceased, in her testimony has attributed role of firing to the alleged accused Bhanu. On the basis of this application it could safely be inferred that PW-1 Kamesh and his aunt PW-2 Dinesh Devi, has not witnessed any assailant firing on the deceased and as such they are not eye witness. At the most what they witnessed after reaching on the spot, only running away one and only one Bhanu with a pistol in his right hand. Thus, Kamesh and Dinesh Devi were introduced for the first time as the eye witness, while they do not saw appellant Saurabh on the spot or running him. No other witness was named in the application.

41. It is for the first time the complainant introduced the name of the Saurabh as an author of the crime who assisted Bhanu in committing the crime, by moving an other oft quoted application dated 07.12.2015, Ext Ka-3, wherein he divulged that Bhanu with the assistance of the appellant Saurabh killed the deceased Dr. Narendra. But he further improved the prosecution version by saying that at the time of launching the FIR, on account of shock and disquiet of his mantel faculty, he could not disclose the name of co-accused Saurabh in the written scribe, but this explanation seems is not acceptable. Because the name of the appellant was brought on surface afterthought and at a very belated stage.

42. The complainant also introduced Sandeep Kumar and Amit as eye witness of the incident in application dated 7.12.2015. Prosecution has not examined Amit as a witness. However, as the statement of Pw- 3 Sandeep Kumar reveals that he saw Saurabh and Bhanu from a distance of 25-30 meters running and talking. Thus, he is also not an eye witness of the commission of crime. This story of overhearing the conversation between these two assailants was floated by PW- 3 after more than one and half month.

43. Since the woes and throes of the complainant remain unattended by the authorities and complainant has been running from pillar to post agitating his grievances. He moved an other application (Ext Ka-5) on 16.12.2015, to the SP Bijnor, wherein he stated that Saurabh in association with named co accused Bhanu committed said crime. He spelled out the details of enmity or reasons (motive) for rendering assistance to Bhanu to commit the incident. Thus, none of the witnesses of the prosecution saw committing/ firing at the deceased. It follows that no active overt act of committing the crime is attributed to the appellant and his name was introduced with a view to implicate him at a belated stage. The testimonies of the prosecution witnesses is not believable, in this regard and create doubts about the truthfulness of these witnesses.

44. Now the question is that whether there was any possibility of witnessing and identifying appellant standing near channel or running away after the commission of crime in conspiracy with each other.

45. In his deposition PW-1 complainant Kamesh admitted that he was sitting in side the residence of the deceased in Verandah having a cup of the tea with his aunt and the deceased. When assailant came, his uncle went in his clinic room to give him medicine. In the spur of movement the assailant fired and ran away. Although in the site plan, Ext Ka-15, proved by the IO PW-6 S.I. Surendra Kumar Pachauri, the said Verandah in not shown. Neither the exact point where from PW-1 and PW-2 witnessed the incident is exhibited. Only a open court yard has been depicted. IO has not shown the existence of window in said to be in the northern wall of the clinic room. It may be omission on the part of IO but it is enough to conclude that it is improbable to see the incident sitting in the court yard by these witnesses. Whatever it may be, one thing is certain that a person standing near the channel in the southern wall of the clinic, who was trying to hide himself could not be seen by witnesses sitting in the court yard attached to clinic room. Thus deposition of PW-1 and PW-2 in this regard is not believable. PW-3 Sandeep is also not an eye witness to the incident. Even if his statement is believed at all even then he has not seen appellant committing the crime. It transpires that it is by way of improvement of the prosecution case, his name was introduced as an eye witness. In his deposition he admitted that he has seen Saurabh and Bhanu from a distance of 25-30 meters fleeing with pistol. He heard Bhanu saying to Saurabh that he has fired Dr. Narendra you save me. It is highly improbable that any person involved a heinous crime like murder, would so loudly cry that he has committed murder and it is also not believable if he was whispering the said statement and a person standing away 25 to 30 meters to heir away. That too, he has not disclose this to complainant at an earliest, while the person murdered was his real uncle and the statement PW-1 and PW-2 are nothing but hearsay statement, not admissible in evidence. As for as PW-3 Sandeep is concerned he is also not an eye witness of occurrence and his presence at the spot is also doubtful. For the shake of argument, if their statement is considered to even then, they only saw assailant fleeing away from the scene of the occurrence with pistol with their hands. It was not possible for the witnesses to identified the person running, from his back or hearing the statement of Bhnau to Saurabh that he has shot Dr. Narendra as per your instructions, now you save me. The above discussion leads the one and only conclusion all these witnesses is eye witnesses and there presence at the spot at the time of the occurrence is highly doubtful.

46. Thus, unnaming the appellant Saurabh in the FIR and in the applications moved by the complainant as well as doubtfulness of witnessing him at the spot is important and creates a question mark before the truthfulness of the prosecution case and thus the roots of the prosecution case turns lax. In these circumstances it may be safely concluded that the factum of presence of the appellant on the spot or other vise has not been proved by the prosecution beyond shadow of doubts. In these conditions unnaming of the appellant in FIR is fatal to the prosecution case.

Partisan and interested witnesses

47. Now, we may consider the submission of learned counsel for the appellants that PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 are relatives of the deceased and they are highly partisan and interested witnesses of the incident, being nephews and wife of the deceased, their statement could not relied upon. Learned AGA refuted this argument and contended that ordinarily a close relative would not spare the real culprit who has caused the death and implicate an innocent person.

48. The above submission was thoroughly considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Daleep Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1953 SC 364. and enunciated the following principles:-

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth."

49. In a three Judges Bench of the Supreme Court of India in Hari Obula Reddy Vs. State of A.P. (1981) 3 SCC 675 observed as under:-

"13. ...it is well settled that interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. Even partisanship by itself is not a valid ground for discrediting or rejecting sworn testimony. Nor can it be laid down as an invariable rule that interested evidence can never form the basis of conviction unless corroborated to a material extent in material particulars by independent evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. If on such scrutiny, the interested testimony is found to be intrinsically reliable or inherently probable, it may, by itself, be sufficient, in the circumstances of the particular case, to base a conviction thereon."

50. Again in S. Sudershan Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P (2006) 10 SCC

163, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"12. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interests of the witnesses for furthering the prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyze evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

15. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh case in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the Members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses."

51. Thus, we find that Hon'ble Apex Court in its enumerable decisions has categorically held that evidence of eye-witness, if found truthful, can not be discarded simply because the witnesses were relatives of the deceased.

The only caveat is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution.

52. In the present case PW-1 is complainant in the matter. He is nephew of the deceased of the Dr. Narendra and PW-2 Dinesh Devi is the wife of the deceased. An other witness of PW-3 Sandeep is also the real nephew of the deceased Dr. Narendra. Thus they are closely related to the deceased, but as discussed above all these witnesses are not the eye witnesses who have seen the appellant committing the crime. Their evidence about the presence of the appellant on the spot is also doubtful and not believable. As a matter of course it is the case of circumstantial evidence. If at all their evidence it believe and relied upon, they saw appellant running with pistol from the scene of occurrence and not firing upon the deceased. Although PW-1 & PW-2 has deposed that the co-accused Bhanu was close friend of the Saurabh and both of them committed the crime in connivance but there is no inspiring evidence in this regard amidst circumstances of the case. Yet another aspect of the issue required into consideration that the alleged incident has taken place on 02.11.2015 and for the first PW- 3 Sandeep who claim himself to be a witness while runing away the assailant but he along with Amit is giving his affidavits, after considerable delay i.e. 16.12.2015. This by itself smacks foul about his presence over the site.

Appellant is not charge sheeted

53. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that it is pertinent to point out that though the informant vis a vis other witnesses have tried to figured the name of the appellant as a perpetrator of the crime but during the course of the investigation no active participation of the appellant was found. Hence, even after thorough and due investigation the investigating officer submitted the charge sheet only against the Bhanu Pratap, and no charge sheet have filed against the appellant Saurabh.

54. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that it is also pertinent to point out that after filing the police report during the course of trial the prosecution have filed an application u/s 319 of Cr.P.C. but without considering the material, then available on record and without properly appreciated the evidence the learned trial court summoned the appellant Saurabh vide its order dated 06.09.2016. Thus, the appellant Saurabh arraigned as accused in pursuant under section 319 Cr.P.C vide order dated 21.10.2016 to face the trial the co-accused Bhnau Pratap under section 302/34 IPC passed by the trial court. It has been discussed above all the three witnesses of the facts have not seen the appellant at the spot committing the crime.

No Recovery from the Appellant

55. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that it is also pertinent to point out that there is no connecting material against the appellant to connect him in the present crime in question. The alleged weapon of crime are any other incriminating material was not recovered from the alleged co-accused Bhanu Pratap whereas no recovery of any weapon on any incriminating material was recovered from the possession or pointing out of the appellant.

No Motive to the Appellant

56. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that though during the course of investigation the enmity was established between the co-accused Bhanu Pratap and the deceased but neither the appellant is having any motive nor having any concerned with the Bhanu Pratap. However Learned G.A. refuted this argument. He contended that about 8-9 months before the present incident some hot altercation had taken place between the Saurabh and son of the deceased Harsh Kumar, then his uncle had gone to the residence of Saurabh and reprimanded and scolded him and even slapped him 3-4 times. So, Saurabh was nurturing animus and grudge against the deceased. Saurabh and Bhanu were teaching in the same school and are close friend. Bhanu killed Dr. Narendra with the assistance of Saurabh and thus he had a strong motive to commit the said crime. The learned AGA further submitted that anyway motive occupies back seat in a case of direct evidence, as the present case is. Therefore, prosecution need not prove the motive.

57. In Jaikam KhanV/S The State of Uttar Pradesh 2022 1 Crimes (SC) 01 and in a plethora of other cases Apex Court has observed no doubt in case of direct evidence and ocular testimony being found to be trustworthy, reliable and cogent, it will not be necessary for prosecution to prove the motive for the crime. However in the present case as be have already held herein above that testimony of the eye witnesses could not to be wholly reliable , the motive aspect would be a relevant factor.

Contradictions and Discrepancies in prosecution evidence

58. That the witnesses PW-1 Kamesh singh has admitted that statement of the deceased was recorded in the hospital in his presence and a video CD was also prepared by the then investigating officer. PW-5 in the part IO Gurupal Singh has corroborated the testimony of PW-1 in his deposition. PW-7 IO Shyam Singh Negi has specifically stated in his deposition that on 22.12.2015 he has prepared a site plan of the disputed place on account of which the Bhnau Pratap and deceased were having inimical relations and the site plan was prepared at the instance of PW-1 same in available on record as Ext Ka-23. However PW-1 has denied any animosity on this count between the too.

59. As discussed above PW-1 and PW-3 are the real nephews of the deceased while PW-2 is his wife. In the facts of the circumstances of the case Harsh son of the deceased was alleged to be present at the spot, but prosecution did not examined him. It may be mentioned that he was an important eye witness as per statement of PW-1 and PW-2., motive of hot altercation between Harsh and appellant Saurabh resulting in nurturing animus and grudge against Dr. Narendra .

60. Thus, appellant was not named in first information report. His name find no place even after due investigation by the I.O. in the police report/ charge sheet . Name of the accused arraigned only in an application moved by the complainant under section 319 Cr.P.C. No active participation is established against the appellant. Prosecution has failed to establish evidence of conspiracy of the appellant with co-accused Bhanu. There is no recovery of any incriminating article or weapon from the appellant or at his instance or pointing out. In these circumstances prosecution could not establish its case beyond reasonable doubts. The truthfulness of the prosecution case in itself is highly doubtful and against the material on record.

61. From the prolix and verbose discussions, we arrives at the conclusion that the findings of guilt recorded by the Trial Court is not based on correct and proper appreciation and appraisal of evidence. The life and liberty of any person cannot be downsized on the touchstone of doubt. Regard being had to the given facts and circumstances of the case in its entirety and upon hearing the learned counsel for the parties, the conviction and sentence of the appellant on the basis of present set of evidence cannot sustain. Consequently the conviction and sentence of the appellant under section 302/34 IPC deserves to be set aside.

62. Resultantly, the appeal is ALLOWED and the judgment and order dated 03.10.2018 passed by the trial court in Session Trial No.105 of 2016 to the extent of appellant Saurabh is hereby set-aside. The appellant-Saurabh Kumar is on bail. He need not surrender, rather the appellant is set at liberty. The appellant who is on bail, shall stand discharged from his liabilities of bail bonds.

63. The copy of the judgment be sent to the trial court to incorporate entry with respect to result of this appeal in the relevant register. The compliance be recorded, under intimation to this Court within two months.

64. Trial Court Record be remit back.

Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 - Section 13 - Divorce - S. 13 provides for grant of divorce and enumerates various grounds on which the same may be granted. Each of those grounds are independent of each other. Each of those grounds are mutually exclusive of each other, which is evident by the use of the disjunctive 'or' to separate each ground from the other, and there is no reason to read 'or' conjunctively as it will lead to absurdity. In the instant case, the Family Court, after returning a finding that "cruelty" has been inflicted by the respondent-wife on the appellant-husband, refused to grant divorce to the husband on the ground that the ground of "desertion" could not be proved by the appellant-husband. Held: - Cruelty can by itself be a ground for dissolution of marriage. Once cruelty was proved, the suit for divorce had to be decreed. (Paras 25, 26, 27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

(1) Heard Mr. Rohit Tripathi, learned counsel for appellant and Mr. D.P. Singh Somvanshi, learned counsel for the respondent.

(2) These appeals under Section 19 (1) of the Family Court Act, 1984 read with Section 28 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 have been filed by the appellant/husband, assailing the judgment and decree dated 15.02.2021 passed by the Principal Judge/District Judge, Family Court, Lucknow, whereby Regular Suit No. 886 of 2012 filed by the appellant/husband under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 for dissolution of marriage was dismissed and Regular Suit No. 29 of 2013 filed by the respondent/wife under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 for restitution of conjugal right was decreed in favour of the respondent/wife.

(3) Since the above-captioned appeals arise out of a common factual matrix and judgment, hence they are being decided by a common order.

FACTS

(4) Shorn of unnecessary details, the facts, in brief, which give rise to the appeals herein are as follows :-

In both these appeals, the appellant is the husband and the respondent is the wife. Appellant got married with respondent on 27th November, 1986. Two sons were born out of the wedlock of the parties. According to the appellant, after conceiving both sons, his wife (respondent herein) was not interested in him at all and started misbehaving with him in front of servants and other members of the family. It has been alleged by the appellant that on one day, his wife (respondent herein) locked him in toilet; his wife used to connect/co-relate him with a lady residing next door; she abused his parents in front of his children; after 2003, she stopped even giving food to him; though he took her to U.S.A. for 18 months/Europe for 4 months; in the year 2008, he arranged for a visit to Kerala with his entire family but the respondent strictly refused for it; since 2003, only course of communication between them was either through sons or SMS or handwritten notes, which even spilled over at the time of offering tea/lunch etc.; and since 2003, respondent is living separately with the appellant under the same roof. According to the version of the appellant, in compelling circumstances, he instituted a suit, bearing Regular Suit No. 886 of 2012 (hereinafter referred to as 'First Suit'), under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 for declaring his marriage with the respondent as null and void.

(5) After filing the aforesaid suit on 28.04.2012, the respondent-wife had lodged four cases against the appellant/husband, namely, (a) case under provisions of the Domestic Violence Act; (b) case for Maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C.; (c) Criminal Case under Sections 498A/323/504/506/406 I.P.C.; and (d) under provisions of Dowry Prohibition Act, for which Police Complaint was lodged in November, 2012. Subsequently, the defendant/respondent/wife had also instituted a suit, bearing Regular Suit No. 29 of 213 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Second Suit'), under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 for restitution of conjugal rights. Both suits were clubbed together and heard analogously by the Family Court.

(6) The respondent/defendant/wife had filed his written statement in the aforesaid suits and denied the allegations made by the appellant/plaintiff/husband. She set up her own version of the case in as much as she has stated that she conceived two male children, namely, Vishwendu Kundu and Diyendu Kundu and after their birth, she had to take care of her children as well as had to fulfill her own duties and responsibilities; she never ignored her own duties and responsibilities towards her husband/appellant; she never locked the plaintiff/appellant; all the decisions with respect to the children were taken by the plaintiff/appellant; appellant himself wanted the children to study in convent school, therefore, he got them admitted at St. Francis College, Lucknow; he also wanted the children to become Engineers and she only used to help the children in doing daily chores; the relation between the plaintiff/appellant and defendant/wife continued as usual, they cohabited as and when the plaintiff/appellant wanted; and the defendant as a wife took care of the plaintiff in all possible ways.

(7) On the basis of pleadings and documents, the Family Court framed following issues in the First Suit filed by the appellant for dissolution of marriage :-

"1. Whether as asserted in the plaint defendant behaved with the plaintiff with cruelty and deserted him ?

2. Whether the defendant forbade the plaintiff from conjugal relationship ?

3. Whether the suit is legally tenable ?

4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for any relief ?"

(8) However, since no issues were framed in the Second Suit filed by the respondent/wife for restitution of conjugal right, therefore, the Family Court framed following issues for proper adjudication of the Second Suit filed by the respondent/wife :-

"1. Whether the defendant has withdrawn himself from the society of the plaintiff ?

2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to restitution of conjugal rights ?

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to any other relief ?"

(9) In support of their respective cases, both appellant and respondent got examined themselves as P.W.1 and D.W.1, respectively. Except them, no one was examined to prove their case as set up by either of them. Documentary evidence was also led, details of which are mentioned in the impugned judgment.

(10) The Family Court stated that many a times efforts have been made for an amicable settlement, but on the basis of allegations which have been levelled by both the parties against each other, mediation between the parties was not successful.

(11) The Family Court, after appraising both, oral as well as documentary evidence, decided the issues framed in both the suits.

A. As far as the First Suit filed by the husband/appellant for dissolution of marriage, the issue were decided in the following manner :-

Issue Nos.	Issues	Decision of the Family Court
Issue No.1	Whether as asserted in the plaint defendant behaved with the plaintiff with cruelty and deserted him ?	The said issue was decided in affirmative in part in favour of the plaintiff /appellant by returning a finding that the husband had succeeded in bringing home the charge of cruelty against the defendant/respondent. So far as the issue of desertion, the Family Court had decided it against the appellant/ husband. Thus, issue no.1 has been partly answered in favour of the appellant/plaintiff so far as it relates to the ground of cruelty.
Issue No.2	whether the defendant forbade the plaintiff from conjugal right ?	The said issue was decided by the Family Court in negative and against the plaintiff/appellant.
Issue No.3	whether the suit is legally tenable ?	The said issue was decided in affirmative in favour of the plaintiff/appellant.
Issue No.4	whether the plaintiff is entitled for any relief ?	The said issue was decided by the Family Court in negative against the appellant.

B. As far as the Second Suit filed by the wife/respondent for restitution of conjugal rights, the issues were decided in the following manner:

Issue Nos.	Issues	Decision of the Family Court
Issue No.1	Whether the defendant has withdrawn himself from the	The said issue was decided in favour of the respondent and against the appellant.

	society of the plaintiff
Issue No.2	Whether the plaintiff is entitled to restitution of conjugal rights,	The said issue was decided by the Family Court in affirmative and in favour of respondent and against the Appellant/ Husband.
Issue No.3	whether the plaintiff is entitled to any other relief,	The said issue was decided in favour of the respondent by recording finding that the respondent would be entitled to get costs.

(12) In this backdrop, the Family Court had dismissed the First Suit filed by the appellant and decreed the Second Suit filed by the respondent and passed a decree for restitution of conjugal rights in favour of the respondent vide judgment and decree dated 15.02.2021. It is this judgment and decree dated 15.02.2021, which have been challenged in the above-captioned appeals.

SUBMISSIONS

(13) Assailing the impugned judgment/decree, learned Counsel for the appellant submitted that cruelty by the respondent/wife towards the appellant having been found to be proved by the Family Court, the only logical corollary of its finding was to order dissolution of marriage even if desertion was not proved but surprisingly the Court below dismissed the suit for divorce and has allowed the suit of respondent/wife for restitution of conjugal rights, which is apparently erroneous and perverse both on facts and law. The finding of the Court below on the issue of cruelty has not been challenged by the respondent, therefore, the appeal is liable to be allowed on this count itself.

(14) The appellant cannot be forced to live with the respondent once cruelty meted out by her to the appellant is proved and this by itself disentitled her to relief but the Court below has missed out on this relevant and apparent aspect.

(15) Appellant's Counsel did not advance any argument nor attempted to demonstrate as to how the finding of the Family Court on the question of desertion was perverse or erroneous in any manner.

(16) Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submitted that parties are staying separately since March, 2012 i.e. prior to three weeks from the date of filing of divorce petition by the appellant/husband and during that period, no attempt was ever made by the respondent/wife for reconciliation and even when the appellant tried to make the issue settled, it all went in vain, therefore, the marriage having been irretrievably broken down, the appellant is entitled for a decree of Divorce on the ground of Cruelty. In this regard, he has relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Inderjeet Singh Grewal Vs. State of Punjab and another : (2011) 12 SCC 588 and Sureshtha Devi Vs. Om Prakash : (1991) 2 SCC 25.

(17) Per contra, the learned Counsel representing the respondent/wife could not putforth any argument much less an acceptable one as to how the suit for divorce could have been dismissed once a finding favourable to the appellant/plaintiff had been recorded on the issue of cruelty. He submitted that the respondent had made all efforts to respect the sacred relationship between the parties all through out and is still ready to look after the appellant with the assistance of her sons. According to him, mere long period of separation could not tantamount to irretrievable break down of marriage. He lastly submitted that there is no perversity or illegality in the impugned judgment/decree passed by the Family Court.

(18) We have carefully perused the pleadings and documents on record and heard the respective learned Counsel representing the parties at length.

(19) The point which falls for our determination as to whether, in view of the finding of cruelty by the respondent/wife towards the appellant/husband as returned by the Family Court in the context of issue no.1 framed by it, the appellant/plaintiff is entitled to a decree of divorce and the suit of the respondent under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is liable to be dismissed; whether the Family Court has erred in dismissing the suit of the appellant and allowing the suit of the respondent in spite of the finding in favour of the appellant on the issue of cruelty in terms of Section 13 (1) (i-a) of the Act, 1955 as amended by U.P. Act No. 13 of 1962.

(20) The Family Court after considering the pleadings, oral and documentary evidence on record, has categorically recorded a finding that cruelty as a ground for seeking divorce has been proved by the appellant/plaintiff. Relevant extract of the judgment containing his conclusions on the issue is quoted below :-

"Since issue no.1 takes in its fold allegations of cruelty, hence in this regard observations of this Court are a must. Apart from the pleadings of the plaint regarding cruelty perpetrated by the defendant, admission of the defendant herself is relevant in this regard. The plaintiff has filed documents per list C-71/1 to C-71/26 and has also got it substantiated by his oral testimony as rendered at page 1 and 2 of his statement-in-chief. The defendant has been subjected to a lengthier cross-examination and as D.W.-1 she has stated at page-10 of her cross-examination that it is true that she has filed a reply in the case instituted under Domestic Violence Act and whatever she has written in paragraph 4 of it, all they are correct……..Thereby the defendant has stated, that it is the respondent, (plaintiff in the first suit) who is of a promiscuous virtue he has had several long relationships and undesirable association with other woman and the respondent had several times contacted sexually transmitted disease which could be discerned by the fact that the respondent was regularly under the treatment of Dr. S.K. Jain, Sexologist……That the respondent is illegitimate son of his father Late Dr. B.N. Kundu, who at the age of 50 years deserted his legally wedded wife with whom he had a legitimate son and without valid and legal divorce started to live with another woman named Late Kamla Kundu inheriting such immoral values from his unmarried parents the respondent is now revealing his genetic traits.

Apart from it also it has been mentioned herein before that after filing of instant divorce case, the defendant filed several cases in quick succession against the plaintiff including criminal case U/S 498A, 323, 504, 506 IPC with false and absurd allegations which was quashed by the Hon'ble High Court in Criminal Misc.

Application No. 5246/2013. Accordingly all the allegations of demand of dowry, cruelty and mis-appropriation of property and breach of trust etc. were found baseless. This fact is further substantiated by the documents filed by the plaintiff namely C-71/39 to C-71/47. Also it has been stated by the plaintiff that the defendant locked him in toilet from inside and this statement of the plaintiff could not have been got controverted even by his cross-examination. All these facts sufficiently indicate that the defendant has behaved with cruelty with the plaintiff and these instances cannot be termed as stray incidents of day to day life."

(21) This finding on the issue of cruelty has not been challenged by the respondent/wife nor even in this appeal in terms of Order XLI Rule 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure. This finding has, therefore, attained finality. It being so one fails to understand as to how the appellant's suit for divorce could have been dismissed. The fact the other ground taken by the appellant/plaintiff which was of desertion referable to Clause (ib) of sub-section (1) of section 13 of the Act, 1955 could not be proved, was immaterial.

(22) Although the findings of the Family Court on the issue of cruelty has not been challenged, we have also gone through the pleadings and evidence on record including oral and documentary evidence keeping in mind the decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in case of K. Srinivas Vs. K. Sunita :. 2014 (16) SCC 34, Mangayakarasi Vs. M. Yuvraj : 2020 (3) SCC 786 as also in the case of Ravi Kumar Vs. Julmi Devi 2010 (4) SCC 476 and the judgments referred in the impugned judgment and we do not find any perversity or illegality in the said findings.

(23) Section 13 of the Act, 1955 reads as under :-

"13. Divorce.—(1) Any marriage solemnized, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, may, on a petition presented by either the husband or the wife, be dissolved by a decree of divorce on the ground that the other party—

(i) has, after the solemnization of the marriage, had voluntary sexual intercourse with any person other than his or her spouse; or

(ia) has, after the solemnization of the marriage, treated the petitioner with cruelty; or

(ib) has deserted the petitioner for a continuous period of not less than two years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition; or

(ii) has ceased to be a Hindu by conversion to another religion; or

(iii) has been incurably of unsound mind, or has been suffering continuously or intermittently from mental disorder of such a kind and to such an extent that the petitioner cannot reasonably be expected to live with the respondent.

Explanation.—In this clause,—

(a) the expression "mental disorder" means mental illness, arrested or incomplete development of mind, psychopathic disorder or any other disorder or disability of mind and includes schizophrenia;

(b) the expression "psychopathic disorder" means a persistent disorder or disability of mind (whether or not including sub—normality of intelligence) which results in abnormally aggressive or seriously irresponsible conduct on the part of the other party, and whether or not it requires or is susceptible to medical treatment; or

(iv) * * * * *

(v) has been suffering from venereal disease in a communicable form; or

(vi) has renounced the world by entering any religious order; or

(vii) has not been heard of as being alive for a period of seven years or more by those persons who would naturally have heard of it, had that party been alive;

(viii) ***

Explanation.—In this sub-section, the expression "desertion" means the desertion of the petitioner by the other party to the marriage without reasonable cause and without the consent or against the wish of such party, and includes the willful neglect of the petitioner by the other party to the marriage, and its grammatical variations and cognate expressions shall be construed accordingly.

(1A) Either party to a marriage, whether solemnized before or after the ommencement of this Act, may also present a petition for the dissolution of the marriage by a decree of divorce on the ground—

(i) that there has been no resumption of cohabitation as between the parties to the marriage for a period of one year or upwards after the passing of a decree for judicial separation in a proceeding to which they were parties; or

(ii) that there has been no restitution of conjugal rights as between the parties to the marriage for a period of one year or upwards after the passing of a decree for restitution of conjugal rights in a proceeding to which they were parties.

(2) A wife may also present a petition for the dissolution of her marriage by a decree of divorce on the ground,—

(i) in the case of any marriage solemnized before the commencement of this Act, that the husband had married again before such commencement or that any other wife of the husband married before such commencement was alive at the time of the solemnization of the marriage of the petitioner:

Provided that in either case the other wife is alive at the time of the presentation of the petition; or

(ii) that the husband has, since the solemnization of the marriage, been guilty of rape, sodomy or bestiality; or

(iii) that in a suit under section 18 of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 (78 of 1956), or in a proceeding under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) (or under the corresponding section 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (5 of 1898), a decree or order, as the case may be, has been passed against the husband awarding maintenance to the wife notwithstanding that she was living apart and that since the passing of such decree or order, cohabitation between the parties has not been resumed for one year or upwards;

(iv) that her marriage (whether consummated or not) was solemnized before she attained the age of fifteen years and she has repudiated the marriage after attaining that age but before attaining the age of eighteen years.

Explanation.—This clause applies whether the marriage was solemnized before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976 (68 of 1976).

(24) U.P. Amendment to Section 13 (1) (i-a) is as under :-

"(i-a) has persistently or repeatedly treated the petitioner with such cruelty as to cause a reasonable apprehension in the mind of the petitioner that it will be harmful or injurious for the petitioner to live with the other party; or"

(25) It is apparent that Section 13 of the Act, 1955 provides for grant of divorce and enumerates various grounds on which the same may be granted. It enacts that "any marriage solemnized whether before or after the commencement of this Act' may be dissolved on petition presented either by the husband or by the wife or any of the grounds specified therein. Clause (i-a) of sub section (1) of section 13 of the Act, 1955 declares that a decree of divorce may be based by a court on the ground that after solemnization of marriage, the opposite party has treated the petitioner with cruelty subject to the State amendments to Section 13 (1) (i-a) in this regard. There are other grounds also mentioned in the said sub section (i) of section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act and each of these grounds are independent of each other. It has to be understood that each of these grounds are mutually exclusive to each other which is evident by use of the disjunctive 'or' to separate each ground from the other and there is no reason to read 'or' conjunctively as it will lead to absurdity. Thus, cruelty can by itself be a ground for dissolution of marriage. However, it seems that learned Family Court, after returning a finding that "cruelty" has been inflicted by the respondent-wife on the appellant-husband, refused to grant divorce to the husband presumably on the ground that the ground of "desertion" could not be proved by the appellant-husband.

(26) Interestingly, instead of allowing the suit for divorce, it has decreed the suit of the respondent for restitution of conjugal rights which is apparently incongruous and irreconcilable with finding on the issue of cruelty recorded in the context of the suit for divorce in favour of the appellant/husband and against the wife. This finding itself constituted a valid ground and a reasonable cause within the meaning of Section 9 of the Act, 1955 for the husband not to live with the respondent and for the Family Court to dismiss the suit of the wife under Section 9 of the Act, 1955, but this material aspect has been omitted from consideration.

(27) In view of the above discussion, we have no hesitation in determining that once cruelty was proved, the suit for divorce had to be decreed and the suit of the wife had to be dismissed, subject of course to the provision of Section 13A of Act, 1955, but, the Family Court has erred on facts and law in not doing so. The point of determination is answered accordingly.

(28) We have not expressed any opinion on the issue of desertion as recorded by the Family Court because the appellant's Counsel did not press the said ground.

(29) At this juncture, it would be apt to mention that this case has travelled from the Family Court to this Court. The suit for divorce was filed in 2012, whereas suit under Section 9 of the Act, 1955 was filed in 2013. The decision of the Family Court is of 15.02.2021. The records reveal that both the appellant and respondent are now living separately for the last more than a decade i.e. since 2012. Even prior to 2012 i.e. from 2003 till three weeks prior to filing of the suit in 2012, though they were living in a house under the same roof, there was no communication between them and they communicated only through SMS/calls. Two sons were borne out of their wedlock prior to 2003, both of whom are well educated. Both sons are living with respondent/wife. Repeated efforts by the Courts for reconciliation or settlement have resulted in failure. At the very initial stage, the Family Court had sent the parties for mediation, which did not succeed. This Court had also sent them for mediation, which also failed. On the last date, this Court had also requested the parties to explore the possibility of them living together, but nothing materialized. This Court had also made an effort by asking the parties to come with some mutual settlement, but in vain, meaning thereby that every single effort of the Court and the mediators, towards the compromise or settlement has led to a blind alley.

(30) The husband and wife, who are before us, have been living separately since the last more than a decade. There are bitter allegations of cruelty from both the sides and multiple litigations have taken place between the two in the last more than a decade. This embittered relationship between the appellant and respondent which has not witnessed any moment of peace for the last more than a decade or more is a martial relationship only on paper. The fact is that this relationship has broke down irretrievably long back.

(31) In the facts and circumstances of this case also, it is not a fit case for grant of alternative relief of judicial separation under Section 13A of the Act, 1955.

(32) Although there are allegations and counter allegations between the parties about their financial status, however, we find that the respondent did not seek permanent alimony under Section 25 of the Act, 1955 presumably because she was seeking restitution of conjugal relationship, though she could have done so as an alternative relief in the suit for divorce but we find that before us also there is no such pleading by parties nor any prayer made nor any evidence on record, therefore, we leave it open to the respondent to initiate separate proceedings in this regard as per law.

(33) Based on the discussions made hereinabove, without interfering with the findings of the Family Court with regard to issue nos. 1 and 2, its findings and conclusions with regard to relief no. 3 in Regular Suit No. 886 of 2012 filed under Section 13 of the Act, 1955 are set aside. Consequently, the judgment and decree dated 15.02.2021 dismissing Regular Suit No. 886 of 2023 for divorce is also set-aside, Regular Suit No. 886 of 2012 is decreed. The marriage between the appellant and respondent is dissolved. Liberty is granted to the respondent to initiate separate proceedings under Section 25 of the Act, 1955 as per law.

(34) The judgment and decree 15.02.2021 allowing the Regular Suit No. 29 of 2013 is set-aside. Regular Suit No. 29 of 2013 filed under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is dismissed.

(35) Both the appeals are allowed in the aforesaid terms.

(36) Parties to bear their own costs.

On the basis of said charge sheet, learned Magistrate has taken cognizance and since the case was exclusively triable by the court of Sessions, made over the case to the court of Sessions for trial, where it was registered as Session Trial No. 246 of 1983 (State vs. Khajan and others). The trial court on 27.8.1983 framed the charges against the accused persons under Section 307 read with Section 34 IPC. The charges were read out and explained to the accused who did not plead guilty and claimed to be tried. Further vide order dated 4.10.1983 charges under Sections 307/149, 323/149, 147, 148 were also framed, which was read out to the accused respondents, who abjured the charges, pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. During the course of trial, the prosecution in order to prove the guilt against the accused respondents have produced as many as two witnesses of fact and and two formal witnesses. Their testimony in brief is enumerated hereunder :-

10. Dr. D.P. Singh (P.W.-1) is the medical officer, who had medically examined two injured witnesses, namely Veerpal Singh and Ranvir Singh on 1.5.1982 at Primary Health Centre, Harduaganj, who are said to have been brought by constable Amar Singh, Police Station- Harduaganj. The injuries on the person of victims have already been mentioned above.

11. During cross examination, he stated that the duration of said injuries could vary 6 hours on either side. He further stated that the injuries found on the person of Ranvir could be manufactured. The injury No. 1 of Veerpal can also be manufactured/manipulated by touch of some heated iron object, however, injury nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5 can very well be manufactured.

12. Veerpal Sharma (P.W.-2) is the first informant of the case and injured witness. He, in his testimony has stated that the incident had taken place about one and half year back at about 11:30 p.m. in the khalian where Ranvir and Satyadev were also present. It was a moon lit night, when Khajan, Shamshad, Hanif, Ramji Lal, Edal and Habib reached khalian. Khajan and Shamshad were having country made pistol, Hanif and Ramji Lal were having farsa, Edal was having ballam and Habib was having a lathi. On their reaching, Khajan stated to kill him by opening fire and with an intention to assault, opened fire, however it missed the target then Habib armed with lathi and Edal armed with ballam started assaulting him from the reverse side of the ballam. Hanif and Ramji Lal asked Shamshad to assault him, on which Shamshad opened fire by a country made pistol, consequent to which, he received injuries on his head. Hanif and Habib armed with lathi also caused injuries to him and Ranvir also received injuries, who was hit by Habib with lathi. On raising alarm, number of witnesses reached there, however the assailants escaped.

13. It is further stated that father of appellant Edal had instituted a case under Section 307 IPC against him, in which, about one month and ten days back he was acquitted of the said offence, consequent to which, Edal was having enmity with him and on account of which he was assaulted by the accused persons. During cross examination, he stated that a case under Section 307 IPC was instituted against him, in which, he alongwith Amar Singh and Mohan were accused, in which, he has been acquitted, Habib was a witness in the said case. On the day of incident, he was present in the khalihan from the very morning alongwith Ranvir. His son reached the khalian at 7 a.m. bringing his food and did not return back home. The day of incident was a moon lit night, however, after one and a half hours of the incident it became dark. He had disclosed to the Investigating Officer that at the time when assailants reached there, he was sitting on the cot and Khajan opened fire upon him. After the said fire, two assailants started assaulting him with lathi by giving four blows each, however he did not fell on the cot and stood up. When Hanif exhorted Shamshad to open fire, he fired a shot, however, he did not fell down but bent down. Fire shot by Khajan did not hit him. It is true that Khajan first fired upon him but it did not hit him then two other assailants hit him by a lathi and ballam and then Shamshad fired upon him. He did not state to the Investigating Officer that after Shamshad opened fire then he was assaulted by lathi and ballam. The said incident continued for about 5-6 minutes, however no blood fell on the cot or on the wearing apparels and only a very little blood oozed out from his head injury.

14. He did not find any pellets at the place of incident nor any blood and further denied the suggestion that he was not fired upon by a country made pistol and the injuries were manufactured. Injuries of Ranvir also did not bleed. It is wrong to state that he has lodged the report in collusion with the police. The injuries were examined at 9 a.m.

15. Ranvir Singh (P.W.-3) is the other eye witness and he stated that on the fateful night at about 11 p.m., he alongwith Veerpal and Satyadev were present at the khalian when Khajan, Shamshad, Hanif, Habib, Ramji Lal and Edal reached there, Veerpal questioned as to who it was, then Khajan stated to kill him and fired a shot, however, the shot did not hit Veerpal. Thereafter Habib and Edal started assaulting Veerpal by lathi and reverse side of the ballam. Then Hanif exhorted Shamshad to open fire, who shot a fire, which grazed through the head of Veerpal. He along with Veerpal received injuries. The witnesses were identified in moon light, who ran away towards the river. Khajan and Shamshad were having country made pistol, Hanif and Ramji Lal were having farsas, Edal was having ballam and Habib was having lathi. His injuries were examined by the doctor.

16. During cross examination, he stated that the report in respect of incident was scribed by Om Prakash in moon light. Veerpal injuries were seen by Moharrir. Veerpal injuries were caused by firearm. Veerpal was not wearing clothes smeared with blood. A very little blood oozed out from his wound. Shamshad fired upon Veerpal in a standing position facing each other from the distance of 2-3 paces. Shamshad first hit and then others hit. Veerpal was given 3-4 lathi blows. He was interrogated by the Investigating Officer after 8-10 days of the incident. He further stated that it is wrong to state that no incident took place and he received injuries.

17. Diwan Singh (P.W.-4) is the Investigating Officer of the instant case, who has recorded the statement of the witnesses and prepared the site plan and after concluding the investigation, had submitted charge sheet. During cross examination, he stated that Veerpal in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. had disclosed that all the assailants came near him and stated to kill Veerpal then Khajan opened fire, which did not hit him and he narrowly escaped then all the accused-persons exhorted Shamshad to kill him, consequent to which, Shamshad opened fire though he bent down but still pellets hit his head. Hanif and Ramji Lal stood there holding farsa whereas Edal and Habib assaulted him by lathi and reverse side of the ballam.

18. Thereafter, statement of accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has been recorded by putting all the incriminating circumstances to the accused-respondents. The accused-respondents denied the incident and clearly stated that on account of past enmity, they have been falsely implicated, however the defence has not led any evidence. The trial court after appreciating the evidence and material on record has held that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused-respondent and thus acquitted all the accused-respondent by holding that rest of the accused except Ramji Lal are neither the relatives of Edal with whom victim Veerpal was having serious enmity but they are not even their friends and had no animosity with him, however just on account of fact that Veerpal was an accused in a case of attempt to murder of Manik father of Edal, in which case he had been acquitted just one month before and, as such, in order to settle their scores and to teach a lesson to Edal he has been falsely implicated in the present case. The trial court further stated that the accused-respondent is alleged to have opened fire upon the victim from a distance of 2-3 paces, however he received only a grazing injury on his head though he is said to have bent down when the fire was made. The trial court has further held that even Edal was armed with ballam but he is said to have assaulted Veerpal from its reverse side. Further Hanif and Ramji Lal though armed with farsa but they did not wield any farsa blow on him and merely stood there as a spectator, which circumstance appears to be highly improbable in the facts and circumstance of the case and creates a dent in the prosecution story.

19. The trial court has further held that even doctor, who noted the injuries on the person Veerpal pointed out that except injury No. 1, all the injuries of Veerpal are simple in nature. Even injury No. 1 is too superficial and could not necessarily be caused by firing. If the injury had been caused by pellets, some pellets could have been found in the injury but no X-ray was done. Even the doctor, who had examined the injuries has opined that the said injuries could be manipulated/manufactured. Admittedly, accused-respondents are said to have assaulted the victim, who were armed with lethal weapons like farsa, ballam, lathi and country made pistol but none of the injuries found on the person of the victim is grievous in nature and even the ballam is said to be used from the reverse side, as such, the prosecution story is found to be highly doubtful, on the basis of which, the accused-respondents are liable to be acquitted. Furthermore, firing was made only from a distance of 2-3 paces after extending their hands, yet only a grazing injury is said to have been caused to the victim, which in the facts and circumstances of the case appears to be highly improbable and not worth credence.

20. Learned Additional Government Advocate for the State has submitted that the testimony of P.W.-2 and P.W.-3, who are injured witnesses, inspires confidence and as such, their testimony cannot be lightly discarded. The assailants were known to witnesses P.W.1 and P.W. 2 and, as such, in the moon light they have been identified to have caused injuries. The medical examination report also corroborates the prosecution story and injury No. 1 caused to Veerpal cannot be self inflicted and therefore, the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court is wholly illegal and liable to be set aside.

21. Per contra, learned counsel for the accused-respondent has submitted that Veerpal was an accused in an attempt to murder case of Manik, father of Edal, however, only about one and a half month back, he was acquitted in the said case and after his acquittal Veerpal in order to settle his scores and to teach a lesson to Edal and his witnesses, concocted the present prosecution story and by manufacturing the injuries falsely implicated the accused respondents in the said case. Even witnesses of the aforesaid case and their relatives have been falsely implicated in the instant case. He has further submitted that the manner, in which, incident is said to have taken place and the injuries, which is said to have been caused to the injured do not match and infact are self inflicted, manipulated and manufactured, just with an intention to falsely implicate the accused-respondent as held by the trial court.

22. Learned counsel for the accused-respondents has further submitted that only one fire arm injury is said to have been received by Veerpal on his head when he bent down to rescue him, however if we go through the nature of the said injuries then possibility of said injury being manufactured or manipulated or self inflicted cannot be ruled out. Admittedly, even according to the statement of the witnesses, a very little blood oozed out from the said wound, which in normal course is not possible particularly when he is said to have been hit by a fire arm causing a pellet injury hitting his head. Even the doctor in his statement has stated that the said injury could be manufactured or manipulated.

23. Learned counsel for the accused-respondent has further submitted that there are material contradictions in the statement of P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 regarding manner of incident. Accused Hanif and Habib are cousins and Shamshad is their nephew. Since Habib was a witness in the case under Section 307 IPC and, as such, they have been falsely implicated. Even Edal and Ramji Lal are also cousins and were on inimical terms with Veerpal as he was prosecuted for the offence of attempt to murder of Manik, father of Edal in which Habib was a witness and in the backdrop of the said circumstance, the accused respondent has been falsely implicated.

24. The trial court after making a detail discussion and considering each and every aspect of the matter, has rightly recorded the finding of acquittal, which as per settled proposition of law, cannot be said to be perverse, illegal and impossible as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in several of its decision.

25. Having considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and taking into consideration the evidence adduced before the trial court, the prosecution case is that in the night at 11-30 p.m. Accused-persons, who were six in numbers reached at the khalian of the victim Veerpal and a shot was fired by accused-respondent Khajan, however, it missed the target, though it is said to have been fired from a distance of 2-3 paces. Moreover, the victim Veerpal have been assaulted by Habib with lathi and Edal from the reverse side of the ballam, which injuries are too superficial. It is further stated that on the exhortation of Hanif and Ramji Lal as per the statement of P.W.-2, Shamshad opened fire, which hit him on his head though P.W. 2 in his statement stated that all the accused persons exhorted to open fire. It is further stated that servant Ranvir was also assaulted, who too received simple injury on his person.

26. Now when we go through the injuries of the two injured persons, we find that their injuries are simple in nature and even as per the doctor opinion, the injuries may be manipulated, manufactured or self inflicted. Only an injury said to be caused on the head of the victim Veerpal by firing from a country made pistol is noteworthy, however if we carefully look to the nature of the said injury, it also appears to be manipulated as admittedly even according to the prosecution own case, a very little blood oozed out from the said wound, which in our opinion, is not possible looking to the firearm injury allegedly caused to him. Had the said injury been caused by a pellet hitting his head, then blood would have considerably oozed out but even according to the prosecution own case, a very little blood oozed out, which neither fell on his clothes nor any blood was found on the cot nor any pellet or wad was recovered at the place of incident. To quote:

"यह झगड़ा करीब 5-6 मिनट हुआ था चारपाई या पहने हुए कपड़ो पर खून नहीं गिरा था मेरे सर की चोट से थोड़ा सा खून निकला था यह मैने नहीं देखा कि मौके पर छर्रे गिरे थे या नहीं, मैने खोखा कारतूस भी नहीं देखा।"

The said circumstance particularly creates a serious dent in the prosecution story and, in our opinion, makes it highly doubtful as held by the trial court.

27. Admittedly, even according to the prosecution own case, victim Veerpal was an accused in an attempt to murder case of Manik father of Edal, in which, very recently about one month back, he was acquitted of the said charge and the possibility that in order to settle personal scores and teach a lesson to Edal son of Manik and the witnesses of the said case, who have also been made an accused in the instant case and their close relatives have been falsely implicated. It is well settled principle of law that prior enmity cuts both ways. It may be motive for the commission of the crime but at the same time can well be used for false implication. Thus, in the backdrop of the said facts and circumstances, false implication of the accused-respondents cannot be ruled out.

28. The trial court by impugned judgment and order has considered each and every aspect of the matter and has passed an order acquitting the accused, which in our opinion is just, proper and legal. It is well settled principle of law that there is a presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, which further has been concretised by recording the finding of acquittal against the accused-respondent.

29. The law with regard to interference by the Appellate Court is very well crystallized. Unless the finding of acquittal is found to be perverse or impossible, interference with the same would not be warranted. Though, there are a catena of judgments on the issue, we will only refer to two judgments, which are as reproduced below:

"13. In case of Sadhu Saran Singh vs. State of U.P. (2016) 4 SCC 397, the Supreme Court has held that:-

"In an appeal against acquittal where the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused is reinforced, the appellate Court would interfere with the order of acquittal only when there is perversity of fact and law. However, we believe that the paramount consideration of the Court is to do substantial justice and avoid miscarriage of justice which can arise by acquitting the accused who is guilty of an offence. A miscarriage of justice that may occur by the acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. Appellate Court, while enunciating the principles with regard to the scope of powers of the appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal, has no absolute restriction in law to review and relook the entire evidence on which the order of acquittal is founded."

14. Similar, in case of Harljan Bhala Teja vs. State of Gujarat (2016) 12 SCC 665, the Supreme Court has held that:-

"No doubt, where, on appreciation of evidence on record, two views are possible, and the trial court has taken a view of acquittal, the appellate court should not interfere with the same. However, this does not mean that in all the cases where the trial court has recorded acquittal, the same should not be interfered with, even if the view is perverse. Where the view taken by the trial court is against the weight of evidence on record, or perverse, it is always open far the appellate court to express the right conclusion after re-appreciating the evidence if the charge is proved beyond reasonable doubt on record, and convict the accused."

30. This Court in the case of Rajesh Prasad v. State of Bihar and Another encapsulated the legal position covering the field after considering various earlier judgments and held as below: -

"29. After referring to a catena of judgments, this Court culled out the following general principles regarding the powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal in the following words: (Chandrappa case [Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415]

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

(1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not distrub the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

31. Thus, it is beyond the pale of doubt that the scope of interference by an appellate Court for reversing the judgment of acquittal recorded by the trial Court in favour of the accused has to be exercised within the four corners of the following principles:-

1. That the judgment of acquittal suffers from patent perversity;

2. That the same is based on a misreading/omission to consider material evidence on record;

3. That no two reasonable views are possible and only the view consistent with the guilt of the accused is possible from the evidence available on record.

32. The appellate Court, in order to interfere with the judgment of acquittal would have to record pertinent findings on the above factors if it is inclined to reverse the judgment of acquittal rendered by the trial Court.

33. In view of the above settled principles of law and after examining the present case, we find that the first informant and the accused-respondents were on highly inimical terms. Even possibility of the injuries being self inflicted/manipulated or manufactured by the injured persons cannot be completely ruled out as rightly held by the trial court. All the injuries caused to two injured Veerpal and Ranvir are simple in nature. Even the injury on his head cannot be caused in the manner as described by the injured witness Veerpal by a fire arm hitting his head only a very little blood coming out from his wound creates serious dent in the prosecution story and makes it unreliable. The possibility of the said injury being manipulated as opined by the doctor (P.W.-1) cannot be ruled out.

34. In our opinion, the trial court has passed well reasoned and detailed order, which in view of settled principle of law regarding reversal of acquittal needs no interference by this Court. The view taken by the trial court cannot be said to be perverse, impossible and illegal and, as such, present Government Appeal filed by the State has no force and is accordingly dismissed.

35. Trial court's record be remitted back forthwith

Nanda & 3 Others) arising out of Case Crime No. 106/81 of 1981 (71 of 1981), under Sections 324, 307 and 302 of I.P.C., Police Station-Machhali Shahr, District-Jaunpur, whereby the accused Nanda, Ram Siromani, Ram Janak, Ram Lagan have been acquitted of the charges levelled against them as the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

3. During the pendency of the instant Government Appeal, one of the accused-respondent, namely, Nanda has already expired and the instant Government Appeal qua accused-respondent Nanda has been abated by this Court vide order dated 6th October, 2021.

4. The prosecution case as borne out from the records of the present government appeal is that on a written report given by the informant/P.W.-1 Ram Murat (Ram Murti Patel) dated 8th July, 1981 (Exhibit-ka/1), first information report (Exhibit-Ka/7) came to be registered on 8th July, 1981 at 1650 hrs. (04:50 p.m.) at Police Station-Machhali Shahr, District-Jaunpur against the accused Nanda, Ram Siromani, Ram Janak, Ram Lagan under Sections 324, 307 and 302 of I.P.C. In the written report, it has been alleged by the informant/P.W.-1 that he was a resident of Viillage-Madhupur, Police Station- Badshahpur, Ditrict-Jaunpur. He lived with his family at Nandlal house, who was his maternal grandfather situated in Village Bhatadih, Police Station-Machhili Shahr, District-Jaunpur. The house of his cousin maternal uncle, namely, Jagannath was adjacent to his house. The sump (Nabdan) of his house was on the east side of the house. The sump (Nabdan) used to flow in front of the house of accused Nanda and then turn towards north going towards the fields. On 8th July, 1981, at around 01:00 p.m., when the accused Nanda along with his sons, namely, Ram Janak, Ram Shiromani and Ram Lagan was blocking the drain (Nali) of their sump, Jagannath forbade them, on which the accused ran towards him to beat him then Jagarnath raised an alarm, on which the informant/P.W.-1, his father-in-law Nanda Lal, his mother Smt. Piyari, mother of Jagarnath, namely, Smt. Angani rushed to rescue him. In the meanwhile, the accused Ram Janak, Ram Shiromani and Ram Lagan, who had pushed maternal grandfather of the informant, namely, Nand Lal on the ground, also started assaulting him. The accused Ram Lagan with a stick, whereas the accused Ram Shiromani and Ram Janak assaulted the maternal grand-father of the informant with knives. The accused Nanda assaulted his mother with Lathi due to which she sustained injury on her back. The accused Ram Janak assaulted the mother of Jagarnath with knife due to which she sustained injuries on her hand. On hearing the alarm of informant's side, Ram Bahore and Babu Lal @ Kabu arrived and saw the occurrence and they scolded the accused. Due to the injuries caused by the accused, his maternal grand-father Nand Lal and his maternal uncle Jagarnath died on the spot. Their dead bodies were taken to the Police Station with the help of villagers through Eekka.

5. After lodging of the first information report, P.W.-9 Rajendra Singh Chauhan, who was the then Station House Officer of Police Station-Machhalishahr, prepared the inquest report of the dead bodies of the deceased Nand Lal and Jagarnath and other papers required for post-mortem. After keeping the dead bodies of both the deceased in sealed covers, the same was sent to the Mortuary for post-mortem through Constable Jata Shanker Mishra (P.W.-8) and Ram Shanker Singh. P.W.-9 the Investigating Officer, namely, Rajendra Singh Chauhan recorded the statement of informant/P.W.-1 at the Police Station. Thereafter P.W.9 reached the place of occurrence at 09:00 p.m. in the night for searching the accused. On the next day i.e. 9th July, 1981 in morning, P.W.-9 recorded the statement of Smt. Angana, Piyari, Ram Bahor and Babu Lal. He prepared the site plan. He also collected the blood stained earth and plain earth from the place of occurrence and prepared its recovery memo (Exhbit-ka/22) Blood was also found at the sitting place/room (Baithaka) of house of accused Nanda, which was collected by P.W.-9 and a recovery memo was prepared which was marked as Exhibit-ka/23. The accused Nanda was arrested on 9th July, 1981 whereas the other accused surrendered before the court concerned and they were sent to jail.

6. The injured Ram Murat had been sent to the Primary Health Centre, Machhalishahr for medical examination by P.W.-9, where he was medically examined by Dr. B.K. Singh (P.W.-6) on 8th July, 1981 at 05:00 p.m. who found following injuries on his person:

"1. Lacerated wound 4 cm x 1.2 cm x scalp deep, middle of head. Margin torn, jagged, irregular, swollen and bleeding present.

2- Lacerated wound 2.4 cm. x 04 cm x scalp deep, left side head 11 cm above the left ear. Margin torn jagged irregular and bleeding present.

5- Abrasion 6 cm. x 1.5 cm back of left forearm. Lower part. Bleeding present."

7. P.W.-6 has opined that the first three injuries were caused by blunt object like lathi. Injury no.4 was caused by pointed weapon. The last injury was opined to have been caused by friction.

8. Other injured, namely, Smt. Piyari and Smt. Angana have also been examined by the same doctor i.e. Dr. B.K. Singh (P.W.-6) on the next day of incident i.e. 9th July, 1981 at 11:30 a.m. and 12:00 noon respectively. P.W.-6 Dr. B.K. Singh found only one swelling 2 cm x 0.4 cm right side buttock region upper part on the person of Smt. Piyari and he has opined that the same has been caused by blunt object, which is simple in nature. On the person of Smt. Angana, P.W.-6 has found a punctured wound 0.3 cm x 0.1 cm right palm back lateral surface. He also found no bleeding and margin of wound was joint with lymph of blood and margin was clean cut. He opined that the said injuries are simple in nature and has been caused by some pointed weapon.

9. An autopsy of the deceased Jagarnath has been conducted by Dr. A.K. Sarin (P.W.-7) on 9th July, 1981 at 11:30 p.m. and in the autopsy report (Exhibit-ka/2), the cause of death of the deceased Jagarnath has been reported to be shock and haemorrhage as a result of following ante-mortem injuries:

18. After completion of the prosecution evidence, statements of the accused-respondents Nanda, Ram Janak, Ram Lagan and Ram Siromani were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused-respondent Nanda, while giving their statements in the Court, denied the prosecution evidence. In counter, it has been stated by the accused that sitting place (Baithaka) of his house is situated towards north east of the house of deceased Nand Lal and Jagarnath. There was a charani (manger) (fodder eating pot) towards south west. When the deceased Jagarnath tried to demolish the said charani (manger), wife of accused Nanda, namely, Smt. Indrani objected on which the deceased Jagarnath started abusing her. Wife of accused Nanda, namely, Indrani also abused him. Consequently, the deceased Nand Lal, Jagarnath and the informant/PW..-1 Ram/Raj Murat came to the house of accused Nanda with lathi. They assaulted Indrani with lathi on her head. When the accused Nanda tried to rescue his wife, they assaulted him. When the accused Ram Lagan and Ram Siromani started rescuing the accused Nanda and his wife Indrani, the deceased Nand Lal, Jagarnath and Ram/Raj Murat (first informant) also assaulted them by lathi then the accused Ram Lagan and Ram Siromani wielded lathi and ballam in defence, on account of which the deceased Nand Lal, Jagarnath and Ram/Raj Murat (first informant) sustained injuries. During the above scuffle (marpeet), the injured Agana and Smt. Ram Piyari also came nearby and sustained injuries. When the accused Nanda was going to the police station with a written report to lodge the first information report, the Investigating Officer apprehended him on the way and his report was snatched and thrown by him on the way. His report was not written by the Police. He also sustained injuries in the alleged scuffle (marpeet). His medical examination was conducted in the jail. His wife Indrani has been paralysed. The accused Ram Lagan and Ram Siromani reiterated the same version as stated by the accused Nanda. Fourth accused Ram Janak denied his involvement in the alleged crime by stating that at the time of occurrence, he was not present.

19. The medical examination of wife of the accused Nanda, namely, Indrani was conducted by same doctor, who has medically examined the injured Ram/Raj Murat (first informant), injured Smt. Angana and Smt. Ram Piyari i.e. Dr. B.K. Singh (P.W.-6) on 10th July, 1981 at 03:00 p.m. He found following injuries on the person of Indrani:

"1. Lacerated wound 1.3 cm x 0.3 cm x scalp deep on right side of head 10 cm. above right ear. Margin torn jagged irregular, swollen pus was present with swelling 3.8 cm x 2.4 cm. around the injury. P.W.-6 advised X-ray. According to him, the injury found on the person of Indrani was about 48 hours old and caused by blunt object."

20. The accused Nanda was medically examined in jail by D.W.-1 Dr. R.P. Singh, Medical Officer District Jail, Jaunpur on 11th July, 1981 at 11:00 a.m., who found following injuries on his person:

"1- Abraded contusion obliquely on the right side of back extending downwards medially by from the inferior angle of scapular towards back bone.

2- Lacerated wound dressing done on the back of left forearm 3 ½ " x 1/4" x muscle deep one inch above wrist joint.

3- Traumatic swelling 2" x 1/2" on the back of left thumb."

D.W.-1 opined that all injuries are simple in nature and the same have been caused by blunt object.

21. D.W.-1 also medically examined the accused Ram Siromani in jail on 14th July, 1981 at 10:30 a.m. and he found following injuries on his person:

"1. Contusion 5" x 1/2" obliquely on the left side of back over scapular region.

2. Contusion 2"x1/2" transversely on the left side of back 2" below inferior angle of scapula.

3. Contusion of black colour 3" x 1" transversely on the right side of back 7" below inferior angle of right scapula.

4- Contusion 2" x 1" on the right side of back transversely 1/2" above injury no.3.

5- Abrasion 2" x 1/2" scabbed obliquely on the outer part of left arm 6" below shoulder joint."

Qua injuries found on the body of accused Ram Siromani, D.W.-1 opined that all injuries simple, which have been caused by blunt object about 5-6 days back.

22. The accused Ram Lagan has also been examined by D.W.-1 on 14th July, 1981 at 10:45 a.m. in District Jail Janpur and following injuries were found on his person:

"1- Multiple scabbed abrasion in the area of 3" x 1" on the right shoulder.

2- Multiple scabbed abrasion (in some scabbing shred off) in the area of 3" x

2" on the right side of back 2" below nape of neck.

3- Scabbed abrasion in the area of 1" x 1" on the left side of back 1" below nape of neck 1/2" lateral to vertebral column.

4- Scabbed abrasion in the area of 3" x 2" on the left arm on inner aspect 3" below axilla with scabbing shredding off.

5- Abrasion scabbed 1/2" x1/4" on the inner part of right leg just above medial malleolus."

Doctor i.e. D.W.-1 found that injuries on the body of accused Ram Lagan were simple and caused by friction against hard substance and blunt weapon and the same has been caused about 5 to 6 days back.

23. On the basis of above evidence oral as well as documentary adduced during the course of trial, while accepting the argument of the learned counsel for the accused that the murder of both the deceased has been committed in private defence, the trial court has recorded its finding that all the eye witnesses stated that Maarpeet (quarrel) took place for more than two minutes. They also stated that several blows were given to the person of the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal and because of that both the deceased would have received aforesaid meager number of injuries. The circumstance of the case read with the injuries on the bodies of both the deceased Nand Lal and Jagarnath will go to show that there could not be any intention of the accused to commit murder of both the deceased. On the basis of such finding, the trial court while accepting the plea of the learned counsel for the accused that the murder of both the deceased has been committed in private defence by the accused, has opined that during the maarpeet, the wife of the accused Nanda, namely, Indrani had sustained injuries on the top of her head. Therefore, seeing the injuries on her/his vital part of the body on any person, the relatives of such person like husband, brother son and sister etc. could have an apprehension in their mind that in case they did not exercise their right of private defence, a grievous injury or death would be the ultimate result. In such circumstances, any person exercising the right of private defence of body has got a right to voluntary cause death.

24. The trial court has further recorded that the nature of injuries on the person of both the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal indicated that the accused had not exceeded his right more than what was actually required. Throughout it was not the case of the prosecution during the course of trial that the medical examination report qua the injury on the person of Smt. Indrani, which has been prepared by the same doctor i.e. P.W.-6 Dr. B.K. Singh, who also medically examined the prosecution witnesses i.e. first informant/P.W.-1 Ram/Raj Murat, Smt. Piyari and Smt. Angana, was fabricated. As such, the injury report of Smt. Indrani cannot be doubted. In view of those circumstances, the trial court has expressed its opinion that the accused had every right to exercise their right of private defence of body and they had not exceeded it. The injuries inflicted by the accused were sufficient and not in excess of the right of defence.

25. Then, the trial court has recorded that the defence has satisfactorily explained qua the injuries found on the person of Smt. Piryari and Smt. Agana. Both of them had one injury each. The trial court considering the statements of the accused Nanda, Ram Siromani and Ram Lagan given under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and relying upon their injuries found on their bodies by D.W.-1 in Jail, has opined that the possibility as stated by the accused that the injuries sustained by both the deceased during the course of Maarpeet resulting in their death, have been caused accidentally and not intentionally in private defence, cannot be ruled out.

26. So far as the injuries sustained by the first informant/P.W.-1 Ram/Raj Murat is concerned, the trial court has recorded that it was stated that he was the aggressor, hence he could have suffered injuries found on his person during the Maarpeet. Such circumstance also support the defence theory of private defence. The trial court has disbelieved testimony of first informant/P.W.-1 Raj/Ram Murat while observing that he has made improvement in the prosecution story. The first information report was not lodged by him as the same appears to have been dictated by the Investigating Officer. Even though P.W.-1 tried to support the prosecution story but he has not explained the injuries on the person of the accused and their family member, namely, Smt. Indrani. Similarly, the trial court has also discarded the testimonies of other prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.-2, P.W.-3, P.W.-4, P.W.-5, who are alleged to be eye-witnesses of the incident.

27. Relying upon the judgment in the case of State of U.P. VS. Ghanshyam, the trial court has opined that it is clear that the accused did not inflict more injury than what was necessary. Babu Lal (P.W.-5) is simply exaggerating his version are trying to give a colour of atrocity to the accused.

28. On the basis of such finding and observation, the trial court has come to the conclusion that the prosecution version was not at all reliable. The accused had exercised the right of private defence of their bodies and their family member. They were within their rights. They had not exceeded. Therefore, the trial court had found that prosecution has failed to prove its case. The accused therefore, deserve acquittal. Consequently, the trial court has acquitted the accused Nanda, Ram Siromani, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak of the charges levelled against them.

29. Being aggrieved with the impugned judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court, the State has preferred the present Government Appeal against the impugned judgment of acquittal of accused-respondents, namely, Nanda, Ram Siromani, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak by the trial court.

30. Assailing the impugned judgment and order of acquittal, , the learned A.G.A. for the State in the present government appeal, has advanced following submissions:

(i). The first information report (Exhibit-ka/7) lodged on 8th July, 1981 at 04:50 p.m. on the basis of written report given by the first informant/P.W.-1 Ram/Raj Murat on 8th July, 1981 is prompt first information report.

(ii) There is clinching and direct evidence against the accused by way of testimonies of ocular-cum-injured witnesses i.e. P.W.-1 Raj/Ram Murat, P.W.-3 Smt. Piyari Devi and P.W.-4 Smt. Angana Devi, independent eye witnesses i.e. P.W.2 Ram Bahor and P.W.-5 Babu Lal and the same has also been supported by the medical and other material evidence as available on trial court record.

(iii) Since the incident took in broad day light i.e. at 01:00 p.m., all the prosecution witnesses have fully identified the accused persons while commissioning of the alleged offence and also assigned their role in such offence successfully.

(iv) There is strong motive for the accused-respondents to commit the alleged offence including the heinous murder of both the deceased Nand Lal and Jagarnath, as the accused annoyed with the sump (Nabdan) of the deceased Nand Lal, which used to flow in front of the house of accused Nanda and then turning north heading towards the fields and also there were village parti bandi between both the families.

(iv) Except the minor inconsistencies/contradictions, the testimonies of all the prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.-1 to P.W.-5 are throughout consistent either in their-examination-in-chief and also in their cross-examinations, which have also been supported by the other prosecution witnesses like Investigating Officer, who conducted the investigation of the case and the Doctor who conducted the post-mortem examinations of the bodies of both the deceased and the Doctor who conducted the medical examinations of the three injured prosecution witnesses.

(v) The site plan and the recovery memos of blood stained earth and plain earth and Gamchha have also supported the prosecution case.

(vi) The defence has failed to establish its theory of private defence. It is not a cross case in which it is alleged by the defence that they have committed the offence in private defence. It has not been established by the accused-respondent that the injuries on the person of the accused and Smt. Indrani have been inflicted by the members of prosecution side in the same incident as alleged by prosecution. It is also pertinent to mention here that with regard to the incident in which such injuries have been sustained by accused, no complaint or first information report was lodged by the accused at the police station concerned.

vii. The medical examinations of accused have not been been conducted through Majroobi Chiththi of police station concerned. Even otherwise, the medical examination reports of accused have been prepared in private capacity after two days of the actual incident.

31. On the basis of the aforesaid submissions, learned A.G.A. submits that as this is a case of direct and clinching evidence, the testimonies of eye witnesses, namely, P.W.-1 to P.W.-5 who are consistent throughout in their examination-in-chief and the cross-examinations inspire confidence in the facts and circumstances of the case and they have disclosed about the commissioning of the offence of murder of the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal and the same has also been supported by the medical evidence in all material particulars, therefore, trial court has committed gross error in acquitting the accused-respondents. Despite the defence having been failed to establish its case of self-defence and the trial court has recorded its finding that the accused have rightly exercise their right of private defence, the trial court while ignoring the entire evidence produced by the prosecution, has passed the impugned judgment, which suffers from illegality and perversity. As such the same is liable to be set aside and the accused-respondents are liable to be convicted for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. Hence, the instant Government Appeal filed by the State is liable to be allowed.

32. On the other-hand, learned counsel for the accused-respondents have advanced following counter submissions:

(i). The first information report lodged on 8th July, 1981 at 04:50 p.m. on the basis of written report of the first informant/P.W.-1 dated 8th July, 1981 is ante time.

(ii) Since the Investigating Officer/P.W.-9 has not indicated the sump (Naabdan) of the deceased Nand Lal in the site plan (exhibit-ka/21), which was being demolished by the accused persons including accused Nanda due to which the alleged incident took place, the genesis of the crime is doubtful.

(iii) Non recovery of crime weapon i.e. knife/lathi/ballam or any other weapon makes the prosecution case doubtful.

(iv). The manner in which the injuries of the accused Nanda, Ram Siromani and Ram Lagan as also the injury of wife of accused Nanda, namely, Indrani have been caused, has not been explained by the prosecution.

(iv). As per the statement of P.W.-6 Dr. B.K. Singh, who medically examined the first informant/P.W.-1 Raj/Ram Murat, P.W.-3 Smt. Ram Piyari and P.W.-4 Smt. Agana as also the wife of accused Nanda, Smt. Indrani, in his cross-examination has stated that the first informant/P.W.-1 has sustained four injuries,whereas P.W.-3 Ram Piyari and P.W.-4 Smt. Angana have sustained one injury each. Such injuries on the person of P.W.-1, P.W.-3 and P.W.-4 have been caused at about 11:00 a.m. on 8th July, 1981. On the other-hand as per the prosecution case, the incident occurred on 8th Juy, 1981 at about 1:00 p.m. On the basis of aforesaid testimony of P.W.-6, it is urged that the time of incident has been changed by the prosecution and has reported that the incident occurred at 01:00 p.m.

(v). The sitting place (Baithaka) of the house of accused Nanda is situated towards north east of the house of deceased Nand Lal and Jagarnath. There was a charani (manger) (fodder eating pot) towards south west. When the deceased Jagarnath tried to demolish the said charani (manger), wife of accused Nanda, namely, Smt. Indrani objected on which the deceased Jagarnath started abusing her. Wife of accused Nanda, namely, Indrani also abused him, as a result whereof the deceased Nand Lal, Jagarnath and the informant/PW..-1 Ram/Raj Murat came with lathi and assaulted Indrani with lathi on her head. When the accused Nanda tried to rescue his wife, they assaulted him also. Similarly, when the accused Ram Lagan and Ram Siromani started rescuing the accused Nanda and his wife Indrani, the deceased Nand Lal, Jagarnath and Ram/Raj Murat (first informant) also assaulted them by lathi. Then the accused Ram Lagan and Ram Siromani wielded lathi and ballam (bhala) in defence, on account of which the deceased Nand Lal, Jagarnath and Ram/Raj Murat (first informant) sustained injuries. During the aforesaid Maarpeet, P.W.-3 Ram Pryari and P.W.-4 Smt. Angana also arrived and sustained injuries. The above maarpeet took place suddenly without any intention to commit any crime in which members of both sides sustained injuries. The injuries on the persons of both the deceased and three injured of prosecution side have been caused by the accused in their private defence without any motive and intention to commit the same. The death of the deceased occurred incidentally in the aforesaid Maarpeet. The accused have not exceeded their right of private defence. It is, therefore, clear that accused had inflicted the injuries on the person of the members of the prosecution side in exercise of the right of self-defence.

On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the accused-respondents submits that as this is a case of weak evidence, the impugned judgment and order of acquittal does not suffer from any illegality and infirmity so as to warrant any interference by this Court. As such the present Government Appeal filed by the State is liable to be dismissed.

33. We have examined the respective contentions urged by the learned counsel for the parties and have perused the records of the present appeal including the trial court records.

34. It is in the context of above submissions and materials placed on record before the Court that this Court is required to consider as to whether the prosecution has established the guilt of accused-appellants on the basis of evidence on record beyond reasonable doubt?

35. Before entering into the merits of the case set up by the learned counsel for the accused-appellant in criminal appeal, learned counsel for the accused-respondent in government appeal and the learned A.G.A. as also the learned counsel for the first informant in both the appeals qua impugned judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court, it is desirable for us to briefly refer to the statements of the prosecution witnesses as well as the defence witnesses.

36. First Informant/P.W.-1 Raj/Ram Murat stated in his examination-in-chief that his father worked in a coal mine in West Bengal for 18 to 19 years. His mother name was Smt. Piyari (P.W.-3) and the deceased Nand Lal was his maternal father-in-law, who had four daughters including P.W.-3, Piyari, Chamelia, Bela and Harsu. On the asking of the deceased Nand Lal, P.W.-1 and his mother P.W.-3 stayed at the place of the deceased Nand Lal for taking care of him and also his fields for the last 17-18 years. The deceased Nand Lal executed a will deed of three bighas' land in his favour and his younger brother Rajnath. The deceased Jagarnath seemed to be the nephew of the deceased Nand Lal and lived with him.

37. This witness further stated that name of father of accused Nanda was Shiv Nath and other accused, namely, Ram Janak, Ram Shiroman and Ram Lagan were his sons. The house of accused Nanda was 7-8 steps east of his house. Nanda's sitting place(Baithaka) was three to four steps north of his house. The sump of house of the deceased Nand Lal was on the east side. The water from his house turned east leaving two hands west of Nanda's sitting place (Baithaka) and fell into Jagarnath's field through a drain. The said sump had been there ever since house of the deceased Nand Lal was built.

38. This witness further stated that it was after 1 o'clock in the day and he was in his house. Hearing the alarm of the deceased Jagarnath and his maternal father-in-law Nand Lal, he, his mother Piyari and his maternal mother-in-law Angani/Angana, who was mother of the deceased Jagarnath also came out from their house. They saw that the accused Nanda, Ram Siromani, Ram Janak and Ram Lagan were blocking his drain and the deceased Jagarnath were objecting on which the accused pounced to beat him. The accused Ram Janak and Ram Shiromani were having knives in their hands, whereas the accused Nanda and Ram Lagan were armed with lathi. The deceased Jagarnath had been assaulted by accused Ram Janak with knife and Ram Lagan with lathi. The deceased Jagarnath ran away after suffering injuries and fell in the courtyard of his house and died there. Thereafter the accused Nanda, Ram Shiromani, Ramjanak and Ramlagan picked up his maternal grandfather Nand Lal and threw him down. The accused Ram Shiromani attacked him with a knife and Ram Lagan and Nanda attacked him with sticks. Ram Janak later attacked him with a knife due to which the deceased Nandlal sustained injuries and fell near a Neem tree and died there.

39. This witness again stated that his mother Piyari and Angani ran to rescue the deceased Nandlal, then all the accused started beating them too. The accused Ram Shiromani hit P.W. 1 with a knife and accused Ram Lagan and Nanda hit him with sticks. The accused Nanda hit his mother on the back with a stick and Angani was hit by the accused Ram Janak with a knife. After the incident, P.W.-2 Rambahor and P.W.-5 Babu Lal reached there and saw the entire incident. Blood was spilled on the places where Jagannath and Nandlal fell. After the incident the accused ran towards their house. P.W.-1 was feeling slightly in a fainting state, therefore, it was not possible for him to write a report in that regard in his handwriting. Due to this, a report was written by Swaminath on his dictation. The dead bodies of Jagannath and Nand Lal were brought to the road with the help of the villagers and after crossing the road, he came to Machhilishahar police station, where his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer.

40. This witness again stated that since his mother Piyari and Angani were crying a lot and were in grief that is why their medical examinations were conducted on the next date of incident i.e. 9th July, 1981 at Primary Health Centre, Machhalishahr.

41. In his cross-examination, P.W.1 stated that the drain is on the land of deceased Jagarnath' and the accused Nanda and his son had no connection with that land. The door of Nanda's house was towards the north and his window was in the west while his sitting place was on the empty land in the east. This witness stated that there had been a drain ever since the house was built. This witness denied that there was neither a drain from the west of Baithaka (sitting place) of accused Nanda nor water ever flowed from there. He stated that in his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer, he categorically stated as to who killed Jagarnath and with what weapon. He also stated that Jagarnath ran away after getting injured and went into the house and died. All four accused had thrown Nandlal on the side of his face.

42. This witness has again denied that they had caused injuries to the wife of the accused Nanda, namely, Indrani, accused Nanda, Ram Siromani. He denied that Indrani sustained injuries on her head. They had no weapon in their hands. He further denied that the deceased Jagarnath and Nandlal went to the doorstep of accused Nanda with sticks and started beating Indrani, when accused Nanda tried to rescue her, they started beating him too. Again this witness denied that when the accused Ram Lagan and Ram Shiromani started rescuing their parents, they were also beaten by them. This witness denied that when the accused Nanda was going to the Police Station to lodge the first information report, the Investigating Officer apprehended him near Jamuhar and after tearing his report, he was sent in the police lock up.

43. This witness stated that it was possible that the accused Nanda may have fallen in the Maarpeet also due to which he sustained injuries. This witness again denied that while they were fighting at the doorstep of accused Nanda, P.W.-3 Piyari and P.W.-4 Angana intervened in the fight and got injured. He also stated that he did know whether P.W.-5 Babulal had initiated any case against Ram Nath before the incident of murder or not. He also did not know whether the deceased Nandlal or his predecessors were witnesses in any case.

44. P.W.-2 Ram Bahor, who is a star independent witness stated in his examination-in-chief that 13 months back the incident occurred. It was 1 o'clock in the day. Since a man from his community had died, he was going to his house, which was in his village. The house of his community man was west of the house of P.W.-1 Ram Murat. He heard a noise at the door of Jagarnath near the mango tree and went there and saw that Jagarnath was speaking and the accused Ram Lagan, Nanda, Ram Janak and Ram Shiromani were blocking the drain. The drain was flowing over two hands of Nanda's sitting place (Baithaka). The deceased Jagannath was objecting not to do the same on which the accused rushed to hit Jagarnath. The accused Ram Janak hit Jagarnath with a knife and Ram Lagan hit him with a stick. After sustaining injuries, the deceased Jagarnath ran away in his house and he fell in the courtyard and died there. Ram Lagan hit Nandlal with a stick and Ram Shiromani with a knife. When P.W.-1 Raj Murat ran to rescue the deceased Nandlal, he was hit by the accused Nanda with lathi, accused Ram Siromani hit him with lathi (after some time in his statement, this witness stated that Ram Siromani hit him by knife). This witness further stated that when P.W.-3 Piyari ran to rescue his son, the accused Nanda hit her with a stick. Angana was hit by accused Ram Janak with knife. After sustaining injuries, the deceased fell and died near a Neem tree. There was blood spilled over where Nandlal and Jagannath fell and died. Apart from this witness, P.W.5 Babu Lal was also present at the spot.

45. In his cross-examination, this witness stated that Indrani, Ram Shiromani, Nanda and Ram Lagan were not hit by anyone nor they were caused any injuries. He reached the police station at four in the evening. He disclosed to the Investigating Officer the manner in which the deceased Jagarnath and Nandlal died.

46. This witness again stated that the deceased Nandlal had fallen due to injury at the spot. The accused Nanda, his wife and sons were not injured. The exit of the sitting place was on the south side. He further stated that the deceased Jagarnath was hit by the accused for 2-3 minutes due to which he sustained injuries. The deceased Nandlal was also assaulted by the assailants for 2- 3 minutes. P.W.-1 Raj Murat was given 10-15 blows by stick.

47. P.W.-3 Smt. Ram Piyari stated that the deceased Nandlal was her father. She was staying at her father’s house for the last twenty years prior to the incident. It was 01:00 o'clock in the afternoon, when she was in her house at the relevant time. On the alarm of Jagarnath, she came out from her house. Her aunt Angani, her father Nandlal and her son Rajmurat also came out and they saw that accused Nanda, Ram Shiromani and Ram Lagan were blocking the drain (Nali). When the deceased Jagarnath objected, all the accused rushed to hit him. The accused Ram Janak and Ram Shiromani were having knives and accused Nanda and Ram Lagan armed with lathi. The accused Ram Janak hit Jagarnath with a knife and accused Nanda with a stick. The deceased Jagarnath ran away after sustaining injuries and fell in the courtyard, where he died. After hitting Jagarnath, the accused thrashed father of P.W.-3. The accused Ram Shiromani attacked him with a knife, Ram Lagan with a stick and Ram Janak with a knife due to which the deceased Nand Lal fell near the Neem tree and died.

48. This witness further stated that all the four accused set out to hit her son P.W.-1 Raj Murat. Raj Murat was hit by accused Ram Janak and Ram Shiromani with knives and accused Nanda and Ram Lagan with sticks. When P.W.-3 went to rescue her son, the accused hit her on her back with a stick. The accused Ram Janak hit her aunt with a knife. P.W.-5 Babulal and P.W.-2 Rambahor had reached the spot and saw the incident. After fighting, the accused entered their house.

49. In her cross-examination also P.W.-3 supports the prosecution version and she is consistent with the version as stated in her examination-in-chief. She also denied that the deceased Nandlal, Jagarnath and first informant/P.W.-1 Raj Murat went at the doorstep of accused Nanda with lathi and hit Indrani and Nanda on the issue of removing of manger of accused Nanda and when accused Ram Lagan ran to rescue the other accused Ram Shiromani, he was also hit. In their defense they also hit them. This witness also denied that she was not hit by the accused and she and Angana (P.W.-4) had sustained injuries when they were intervened in the Maarpeet to rescue.

50. P.W.-4 Angana, mother of the deceased Jagarnath reiterated the same version in her examination-in-chief as stated by P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and P.W.-3. In her cross-examination, she stated that she disclosed to the Investigating Officer that the accused hit her with knife. She also disclosed that the accused Ram Janak attacked the deceased Nand Lal with knife.

51. P.W.-5 Babu Lal, second star independent eye witness of the prosecution stated in his examination-in-chief that he knew the deceased Nand Lal and Jagarnath. The incident took place 13 months back. At 01:00 o'clock in the day, hearing the alarm of the deceased Jagannath from his house, he reached the spot. He saw that accused Nanda, Ram Janak, Ram Lagan, Ram Shiromani were blocking the drain. When Jagarnath was objecting loudly, P.W.-3 Piyari, P.W.-4 Angana and P.W.-1 Raj Murat also came out of the house and they also objected. Accused Ram Janak hit Jagarnath with knife and Ram Lagan hit him with stick. Jagarnath sustained injuries and ran away towards his house and fell and died there. When the deceased Nandlal bent down to rescue Jagarnath, all four accused caught him and the accused Ram Lagan hit him with lathi, Ram Shiromani with knife. The accused Ram Janak also hit Nand Lal with knife. After hitting Nand Lal, the accused Ram Janak hit P.W.-4 Angana with knife. P.W.-1 Ram/Raj Murat was also chased by the accused and he was hit by accused Ram Shiroman by knife and accused Ram Lagan and Nanda by lathi. When P.W.-3 Piyari ran to rescue, she was also beaten by the accused Nanda by lathi. Beside him, P.W.-2 Ram Bahor also reached at the spot. The deceased Nand Lal fell near the Neem tree.

52. In the cross-examination this witness is consistent with the version as stated in examination-in-chief. He fully supports the prosecution case.

53. Dr. B.K. Singh, Medical Officer has been examined as P.W.-6. He medically examined the injured/ P.W.-3 Ram Piyari on 9th July, 1981 at 11:30 a.m. she was taken by the Constable Kashi Pal. He found one injury on her body. He opined that the injury was simple and was caused by a blunt object such as a lathi.

54. This witness has also examined the injured/P.W.-4 Angana Devi at 12:00 noon on the same day i.e. 9th July, 1981. She was also taken by Constable Kashi Pal. He found one injury on her body. In his opinion, the injury found on the body of Angana was simple and caused by some sharp weapon. It can come from the tip of a knife.

55. This witness also examined the injured/P.W.-1/first informant Raj/Ram Murat, who was taken by Constable Kripa Shanker. He found as many as five injuries on the body of P.W.-1. This witness opined that apart from injury no. 4 of P.W.-1, other injuries were caused by some blunt weapon like a lathi. Injury No. 4 was caused by a sharp edge weapon, which could not come with a knife.

56. This witness stated in his examination in chief that the injuries of the above three injured might have occurred at 1 o'clock on 8th July, 1981.

57. On 10th July, 1981 at 03:00 p.m. this witness also examined wife of the accused Nanda, namely, Smt. Indrani and found following injuries on her person:

"Cracked wound 1.3 cm X 3 cm x on the right side of the head from the right ear. There is swelling along with it, which is 3.8 cm scalp deep till the bone and upwards 2.4 cm around the injury. Pus was present in the injury."

58. Seeing the said injury, P.W.6 advised for its X-ray and the same was kept under observation. P.W.6 opined that the said injury was caused by some blunt object like a lathi. The duration of the said injury was within 2 days.

59. Dr. A.K. Sarin, Orthopaedic Surgeon, who has conducted the post-mortem examinations of both the deceased, namely, Jagarnath and Nand Lal, has been examined as P.W.-7. P.W.-7 found two injuries on the person of the deceased Jagarnath. He opined that the death of the deceased was due to shock and bleeding resulting from injury No. 2. On the person of the deceased Nand Lal, this witness found three injuries and in his opinion, his death was due to shock and excessive bleeding resulting from injury no.3.

60. This witness has further opined that both the deceased might have died on 8th July, 1981 at 01:00 o'clock on the day. Injury no.2 found on the person of the deceased Jagarnath could have been caused by spear, whereas injury no.3 found on the body of the deceased Nand Lal could also have been caused by a spear. Nandlal's injury no. 2 could have been caused by friction with a pebble etc. after falling.

61. Constable Jata Shanker Mishra has been examined as P.W.-8. He stated that he had taken both the corpse of the deceased to the Government Hospital at Jaunpur for post-mortem examinations.

62. P.W.-9 Sub-Inspector Rajendra Singh Chauhan was the investigating officer. He stated in his examination-in-chief that dead bodies of the deceased Jagarnath and Nandlal were brought to the police station. He appointed Panch witnesses and prepared their inquest report. He also prepared photo lash, challan lash, letter to the Chief Medical Officer for post mortem examination. He stated that he has recorded the statements of first informant (P.W.-1), other witnesses, namely, Ram Chandra, Sahdeo and panch witnesses of inquest. On the next day of incident, this witness also recorded the statements of

P.W.-4 Angana, P.W.-3 Ram Pyaari, PW.-2 Ram Bahor and P.W.-5 Babu Lal. He also prepared the site plan.

63. This witness further stated that after preparing the site plan, he collected the blood stained earth and plain earth from the courtyard of Jagarnath's house and prepared their recovery memos in front of the witnesses. This witness further stated that he collected the blood stained earth and plain earth from the west side of sitting place (Baithaka) of the accused Nanda and also prepared its recovery memos. He further stated that he arrested the accused Nanda on 9th July, 1981. On 19th July, 1981, after completing the statutory investigation, he submitted the charge-sheet against the accused persons. On the same day i.e. 19th July, 1981, he also prepared the report for sending the clothes taken from the bodies of the deceased, blood stained earth and plain earth for chemical examination to Agra.

64. In his cross-examination, this witness stated that when he arrested the accused Nanda near Jamuhar, there were injuries on his body. He denied that he had arrested Nanda on 8th July, 1981 at 2-3 o'clock on the day and kept him under arrest. He also denied the factum that at the time of his arrest, accused Nanda had any written report in his hand. He again denied that he tore the written report of accused Nanda and did not lodge the same.

65. This witness further stated that he did not know whether there was any manger (charani) near the house of accused Nanda or not. He denied that there were two mangers (charani) there and he deliberately did not show them in the site plan. He also did not know it any of the two mangers had demolished.

66. This witness again stated that P.W.-5 Babu Lal disclosed him that the accused Nanda and others wanted to block the drain. He also disclosed him that when he reached there, he saw that the accused named in the first information report, namely, Nanda, Ram Janak, Ram Shiromani, Ram Lagan and both the deceased Jagarnath, Nandlal, injured Raj Murat, Mrs. Piyari and Angana were present there. He denied that he had set up a false case and prepared a fabricated map and deliberately concealed the truth and submitted a false charge sheet.

67. P.W.-10 Devi Prasad was the clerk in the office of Chief Medical Officer, Jaunpur. Constable Jagarnath Tiwari has been examined as P.W.-11 and he stated that he deposited the recovered materials like blood stained earth and plain earth, seal mohar in the Sadar Malkhana Jaunpur. Moti Ram, who has been examined as P.W.-12 being the witness of recovery memos prepared qua blood stained earth and plain earth collected by the Investigating Officer. P.W.-13 Head Constable Udai Bhan Pandey was the Moharir of Sadar Malkhana and produced the register before the trial court. Sub-Inspector Amarjeet Singh Chauhan has been examined as P.W.-14. He was the second investigating officer along with first investigating officer P.W.-9.

68. Dr. R.P. Singh, Medical Officer, District Jail, Jaunpur has been examined as D.W.-1. He stated that he medically examined the three accused, namely, Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman in jail. He stated that he found three injuries on the person of accused Nanda. In his opinion, all injuries were simple and were inflicted by some blunt object such as a lathi and such injuries were three days old. This witness found as many as five injuries on the person of Ram Shiroman. D.W.-1 opined that all injuries of accused Ram Shiroman were simple in nature and could have been caused by some blunt object like lathi. He also opined that at the time of examination, the injuries of accused Ram Shiroman were 5 to 6 days old.

69. This witness also found five injuries on the person of accused Ram Lagan. Similarly, in his opinion, all injuries of Ram Lagan were simple and could have been caused by blunt object such as lathi, which was 5 to 6 days old. He also opined that the injuries found on the bodies of three accused Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman were inflicted on 8th July, 1981 at 11:00 am.

70. Jokhai Singh, village pradhan of village-Bhattadeeh, Police Station-Machhalishahar has been examined as D.W.-2. He stated that P.W.-2 Ram Bahor lived in his village Bhattadeeh. Sant Lal being son-in-law of Ram Bahor also lived with him.

71. From bare reading of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, it is clear that there are two incidents, which are alleged to have taken place on 8th July, 1981 at two different places. The first set up by the prosecution which is alleged to have taken place i.e. at the sump (Nabdan), which used to flow in front of the house of accused Nanda and the second which is set up by the defence i.e. at the manger (charni) of the accused Nanda.

72. The incident which is alleged to have occurred on 8th July, 1981, as per the prosecution/first informant is extracted hereunder:

"घटना घटे लगभग 13 माह हुआ। 1 बजे दिन का समय था। मै अपने घर मे था। जगरनाथ की शोर सुनकर बाहर आया। मेरे नाना नन्दलाल मेरी माँ प्यारी, मेरी नानी अंगनी जो जगन्नाथ की मॉ है, भी बाहर सहन के आये। हम लोगों ने देखा कि नन्दा, राम शिरोमणि राम जनक व राम लगन मेरी नाली पाट रहे थे। जगरनाथ मनाकर रहे थे। मुलजिमान इस पर मरने को लपके। राम जनक, राम शिरोमणि चाकू लिये थे। नन्दा व राम लगन लाठी लिये थे। जगन्नाथ को रामजनक ने चाकू व राम लगन ने लाठी से मारा। जगन्नाथ चोट खाते हुए भागे ये अन्दर अपने घर में आँगन में जाकर गिर गये। जगरनाथ की वहीं मृत्यु हो गयी। नन्दा, राम शिरोमणि, रामजनक व रामलगन ने तब मेरे नाना को उठाकर पटक दिया। रामशिरोमणि ने चाकू से व राम लगन व नन्दा ने लाठी से मारा। राम जनक ने बाद मे चाकू से वार किया। नन्दलाल नीम के पेड़ के पास चोट खाकर गिरे व वही मर गये।

घटना के बाद रामबहोर व बाबू लाल पहुंच गये थे जिन्होने पूरी घटना देखा। जहाँ जगन्नाथ व नन्दलाल गिरे वहाँ खून गिरा था। घटना के बाद मुलजिमान अपने घर की ओर भाग गये। मुझको हल्की सी बेहोशी आ रही थी। इससे रपट हाथ से नही लिख सकता था। इससे स्वामीनाथ को बोलकर रपट लिखाया। जो बोला था वही उन्होने लिखा सुनकर मैने दस्तखत किया था। रपट देखकर कहा कि यही रपट है। इस पर इक्ज क-1 डाला गया। जगन्नाथ व नन्दा की लाशों को गाँव वालों की मदद से सड़क पर लाया। सड़क पर इक्का करके थाना मछलीशहर आया। वहाँ दरोगा जी मौजूद थे।"

73. The incident occurred on the same day i.e. 8th July, 1981 as per the defence is as follows:

"10-11 बजे दिन मेरे बैठका के पश्चिम दक्षिण मेरे मैस की चरनी को जगरनाथ तोड़ रहे है। औरत ने मना किया। जगरनाथ गाली देने लगे। मेरी औरत ने गाली दिया। नन्दलाल, जगरनाथ, राज मूरत लाठी लिये मेरे दरवाजे पर चढ़ आये। मेरे औरत के सर मे लाठी से मारा। मै बचाने लगा तो मुझे भी मारा। राम लगन, रामशिरोमणि बचाने लगे तो उन्हे भी मारा। राम लगन व राम शिरोमणि लाठी व बल्लम से बचाव किया जिससे उनको चोटे आयी। इसी बीच अंगना व प्यारी घुस गयी तो उन्हे चोटे आ गई। रपट लिखाकर थाना जा रहा था तो दारोगा ने मुझे रास्ते मे पकड़ लिया मेरी रपट फाड़ कर फेक दिया। मेरी रपट लिखी नही गयी। मुझे चोट लगा था। मेरा डाक्टरी मुआयना जेल मे हुआ, मेरी औरत को लकवा मार दिया है।"

74. On deeper scrutiny of trial court records including the oral as well as documentary evidence led during the course of trial, it is apparent that the incident set up by the prosecution has been supported by all the prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.-1, P.W.-2, P.W.-3, P.W.-4, P.W.-5, P.W.-6, P.W.-7 and P.W.-9 (as per the prosecution, P.W.-1 to P.W.-5 are said to be the eye-witnesses of the incident). The medical examination reports of the injured, namely, P.W.-1, P.W.-3 and P.W.4, the post mortem examination reports of the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal, the site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer (P.W.-9) and the recovery memos prepared by him qua blood stained earth and plain earth also support the prosecution case about the said incident.

75. On the other-hand, the incident set up by the defence has been supported by the accused-Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman only. The fourth accused Ram Janak has stated under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he was not present at the time of incident. Wife of accused Smt. Indrani, who is alleged to have sustained injuries in the said incident has not been produced as defence witness. Except the statements of accused-Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman, no other evidence has been produced by the defence to support the said incident. Even otherwise, all the prosecution witnesses i.e.P.W.-1, P.W.-2, P.W.-3, P.W.-4, P.W.5 and P.W.-9 have specifically stated in their testimonies that no such incident took place in which the members of prosecution were aggressor.

76. However, in the testimonies of P.W.-6 and D.W.-1, seeing the injuries found on the person of Smt. Indrani and accused accused-Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman, it has been stated that the same could have been caused on 8th July, 1981 at 11:00 a.m.

77. In the cross-examination, P.W.-6 Dr. B. K. Singh, who conducted the medical examination of Smt. Indrani on 10th July, 1981 at 03:00 p.m., qua the injury found on her person, has opined as follows:

"यह चोट 8.7.81 के 11 बजे दिन की हो सकती है।"

78. Similarly, in the examination-in-chief D.W.-1 Dr. R.P. Singh on the basis of injuries found on the bodies of accused-Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman, has opined as follows:

"तीनों मजरूबान की चोटे 8-7-81 को 11 बजे दिन की हो सकती है।"

79. P.W.-9, Sub-Inspector Rajendra Singh Chauhan, who has conducted the investigation in his cross-examination, has qua injury sustained by accused Nanda, has stated as under:

"नन्दा मुलजिम को मै जमुहर के पास गिरफ़्तार किया था। जब मैने गिरफ़्तार किया तो उसके शरीर पर चोटे भी थी।"

80. In his cross-examination, P.W.-1/first informant also stated that there was no injury on the body of the accused Nanda. This witness then stated that it was possible that the accused Nanda might have fallen on the ground during the fight (maarpeet) due to which he sustained injury. The relevant extract is reproduced hereunder:

" नन्दा के शरीर पर कोई चोट नहीं थी। हो सकता है पटकी पटका में नन्दा गिर पड़े हो जिससे उनको चोट लग गई हो"

81. It is also pertinent to mention here that the prosecution has also not explained as to how and in what manner, such injury found by P.W.6 on the body of wife of accused Nanda namely, Smt Indrani and further the injuries found on the persons of accused Nanda, Ram Shiroman and Ram Lagan by D.W.-1 have been caused, has not at all been explained by the prosecution. In the first information report as well as in the testimonies of all the prosecution witnesses particularly P.W.-1, P.W.-2, P.W.-3, P.W.-4 and P.W.-5, the presence or involvement of wife of accused Nanda, namely, Smt. Indrani, who is also mother of other accused, namely, Ram Shiroman, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak has neither been mentioned nor has been explained but when as a matter of fact she sustained injury on her vital part of her body and has been medically examined by P.W.-6 also.

82. Even though, the prosecution as well as the defence have set up their two different incidents, which are alleged to have occurred, as quoted above, but it is also true that the members of both sides have sustained injuries, which have been supported by the medical examination reports, post-mortem examination reports prepared by P.W. 6, P.W.-7 and D.W.-1. It is also not disputed that the injuries found on the bodies of accused-Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman are simple in nature except the injury sustained by wife of accused Nanda, namely, Smt. Indrani, which is said to be grievous and the same could have been caused by blunt object like lathi as is evident from the testimony of P.W.-6. Meaning thereby the weapon used for causing injuries on the persons of accused-Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman and Smt. Indrani was lathi.

83. On the other-hand, the injuries sustained by the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal, could have been caused by lathi and knives. The weapon used for causing injuries on the person of first informant/P.W.-1 could be lathi. Similarly, the injury found on the body of Angana (PW.-4) could have been caused by spear. Meaning thereby, that not only the lathi but also the knives have been used in causing injuries on the persons of both the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal and both the injured, namely, P.W.-1 Raj Murat and P.W.-4 Smt. Angana.

84. From the perusal of all the evidence oral as well as documentary led during the course of trial and the same have been discussed herein above, it is evident that admittedly, an incident took place on 8th July, 1981 either because of blocking of drain of the deceased Nand Lal by the accused persons or because of destroying of charni (manger) of accused Nanda by the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal and before this incident, there was no enmity between the members of prosecution and the defence, therefore, they had no motive or intention to cause such injuries to each other. When both the versions of setting up of their own incidents by the prosecution and the defence have not been fully established, we are of the opinion that there was a fight (Maarpeet) between the members of prosecution and the defence and who was aggressor has not been cropped from the above evidence. We also find that either because of blocking of drain of the deceased Nand Lal or because of destroying of charni (manger) of accused Nanda, Maarpeet (fight) took place in which members of both sides have caused injuries to each other in their private defence.

85. There can be no doubt that in judging the conduct of a person who proves that he had a right of private defence, allowance has necessarily to be made for his feelings at the relevant time. He is faced with an assault which causes a reasonable apprehension of death or grievous hurt and that inevitably creates in his mind some excitement and confusion. At such a moment, the uppermost feeling in his mind would betoward off the danger and to save himself or his property, and so, he would naturally be anxious to strike a decisive blow in exercise of his right. It is no doubt true that in striking a decisive blow, he must not use more force than appears to be reasonably necessary. But in dealing with the question as to whether more force is used than what is necessary or was justified under the prevailing circumstances, it would be inappropriate to adopt tests of detached objectivity which would be so natural in a court room, for instance, long after the incident has taken place. That is why, in some judicial decisions it has been observed that the means which a threatened person adopts, of the force which he uses, should not be weighed in golden scales. To begin with, the person exercising a right of private defence must consider whether the threat to his person or his property is real and immediate. If he reaches the conclusion reasonably that the threat is immediate and real, he is entitled to exercise his right. In the exercise of his right, he must use force necessary for the purpose and he must stop using the force as soon as the threat has disappeared.

86. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Jai Deo Vs. State of Punjab reported in 1963 Cr.L.J. 493 has observed that in exercising the right of private defence, the force which a person defending himself or his property is entitled to use must not be unduly disproportionate to the injury which is to be averted or which is reasonably apprehended and should not exceed its legitimate purpose. The use of the force must be stopped as soon as the threat has disappeared. The exercise of the right of private defence must never be vindictive or malicious.

87. The Hon'ble Supeme Court of India in the case of Darshan Singh Vs. State of Punjab & Another reported in (2010) 2 SCC 333, has laid down following principles in order to scrutinize the case in respect of the right of private defence:

"(i) Self-preservation is the basic human instinct and is duly recognized by the criminal jurisprudence of all civilized countries. All free, democratic and civilized countries recognize the right of private defence within certain reasonable limits.

(ii). The right of private defence is available only to one who is suddenly confronted with the necessity of averting an impending danger and not of self-creation.

(iii) A mere reasonable apprehension is enough to put the right of self defence into operation. In other words, it is not necessary that there should be an actual commission of the offence in order to give rise to the right of private defence. It is enough if the accused apprehended that such an offence is contemplated and it is likely to be committed if the right of private defence is not exercised.

(iv) The right of private defence commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension arises and it is co-terminus with the duration of such apprehension.

(v) It is unrealistic to expect a person under assault to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude.

(vi) In private defence the force used by the accused ought not to be wholly disproportionate or much greater than necessary for protection of the person or property.

(vii) It is well settled that even if the accused does not plead self-defence, it is open to consider such a plea if the same arises from the material on record.

(viii) The accused need not prove the existence of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt.

(ix) The Indian Penal Code confers the right of private defence only when that unlawful or wrongful act is an offence.

(x) A person who is in imminent and reasonable danger of losing his life or limb may in exercise of self defence inflict any harm even extending to death on his assailant either when the assault is attempted or directly threatened."

88. Considering the above principle of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, seeing the injury reports and medical examination reports of the two injured persons and two deceased persons of prosecution side, we find that the accused persons, namely, Nanda, Ram Shiroman, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak have exceeded their right of private defence by causing two injuries to the deceased Jagarnath by lathi and knives as well as by causing three injuries to the other deceased Nand Lal by knives and lathi. They have also exceeded their right of private defence by causing as many as five injuries to the first informant/P.W.-1 Raj Murat/Ram Murat by lathi and knives as also causing one injury of spear to P.W.-4 Smt. Angana.

89. On the other-hand both the deceased Jagarnath and Nand Lal and P.W.-1 Raj Murat/Ram Murat had not exceeded their rights of private defence in causing injuries to the accused persons, namely, Nanda, Ram Lagan and Ram Shiroman, which are simple in nature (as per their medical examination reports) as also to the wife of accused Nanda, namely, Smt. Indrani, by lathi only. It is no doubt true that the injury found on the person of Smt. Indrani was grievous in nature and on her vital part but no complaint or report has been lodged by the defence side. It is also relevant to mention here that from the oral as well as documentary evidence, it is fully established that accused Ram Janak, who denied his presence at the crime scene at the time of incident under Section 313 Cr.P.C., was actively involved in the commission of alleged offence.

90. Since the incident in question occurred on a spur of moment and in the heat of passion upon sudden quarrel as also both the parties have exercised their rights of private defence, even though the defence has exceeded the same, the same would be covered under the 4th Exception to Section 300 I.P.C., which reads as under:

"Exception 4. —Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner."

91. On going through the entire evidence on record, we find that the necessary ingredients to attract 4th Exception to section 300 IPC are clearly present in the facts of the present case inasmuch as death is caused; there existed no pre-meditation; it was a sudden fight; the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner, therefore, the case in hand clearly falls under fourth exception to section 300 IPC.

92. The issue relating to quantum of sentence under Section 304 I.P.C. depends on background facts of the case, antecedents of the accused, whether the assault was premeditated and pre-planned or not, etc. There are no straight jacket formulae for the determination of the same in law.

93. In the case of Genda Singh & Others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in (2008) 11 SCC 791, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that though the appellants claimed to be exercising of right of private defence, it was exceeded, therefore, the protection for exercising the right of private defence cannot be extended to them. However, appropriate conviction would be under Section 304 Part-I I.P.C. and custodial sentence of 10 years would meet the ends of justice.

94. It would be worthwhile to reproduce paragraph nos. 10 and 11 of the said judgment, which read as under:

"10. "11. The only question which needs to be considered is the alleged exercise of right of private defence. Section 96 IPC provides that nothing is an offence which is done in the exercise of the right of private defence. The section does not define the expression 'right of private defence'. It merely indicates that nothing is an offence which is done in the exercise of such right. Whether in a particular set of circumstances, a person legitimately acted in the exercise of the right of private defence is a question of fact to be determined on the facts and circumstances of each case. No test in the abstract for determining such a question can be laid down. In determining this question of fact, the court must consider all the surrounding circumstances. It is not necessary for the accused to plead in so many words that he acted in self-defence. If the circumstances show that the right of private defence was legitimately exercised, it is open to the court to consider such a plea. In a given case the court can consider it even if the accused has not taken it, if the same is available to be considered from the material on record. Under Section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short 'the Evidence Act'), the burden of proof is on the accused, who sets up the plea of self-defence, and, in the absence of proof, it is not possible for the court to presume the truth of the plea of self-defence. The court shall presume the absence of such circumstances. It is for the accused to place necessary material on record either by himself adducing positive evidence or by eliciting necessary facts from the witnesses examined for the prosecution. An accused taking the plea of the right of private defence is not necessarily required to call evidence; he can establish his plea by reference to circumstances transpiring from the prosecution evidence itself. The question in such a case would be a question of assessing the true effect of the prosecution evidence, and not a question of the accused discharging any burden. Where the right of private defence is pleaded, the defence must be a reasonable and probable version satisfying the court that the harm caused by the accused was necessary for either warding off the attack or for forestalling the further reasonable apprehension from the side of the accused. The burden of establishing the plea of self-defence is on the accused and the burden stands discharged by showing preponderance of probabilities in favour of that plea on the basis of the material on record. (See Munshi Ram v. Delhi Admn. [AIR 1968 SC 702], State of Gujarat v. Bai Fatima [(1975) 2 SCC 7 : 1975 SCC (Cri) 384 : AIR 1975 SC 1478], State of U.P. v. Mohd. Musheer Khan [(1977) 3 SCC 562 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 565 : AIR 1977 SC 2226] and Mohinder Pal Jolly v. State of Punjab [(1979) 3 SCC 30 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 635 : AIR 1979 SC 577] .) Sections 100 to 101 define the extent of the right of private defence of body. If a person has a right of private defence of body under Section 97, that right extends under Section 100 to causing death if there is reasonable apprehension that death or grievous hurt would be the consequence of the assault.

The of quoted observation of this Court in Salim Zia v. State of U.P. [(1979) 2 SCC 648 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 568 : AIR 1979 SC 391] runs as follows : (SCC p. 654, para 9)

'9. ... It is true that the burden on an accused person to establish the plea of self-defence is not as onerous as the one which lies on the prosecution and that while the prosecution is required to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, the accused need not establish the plea to the hilt and may discharge his onus by establishing a mere preponderance of probabilities either by laying basis for that plea in the cross-examination of prosecution witnesses or by adducing defence evidence.'

The accused need not prove the existence of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt. It is enough for him to show as in a civil case that the preponderance of probabilities is in favour of his plea.

12. ... A plea of right of private defence cannot be based on surmises and speculation. While considering whether the right of private defence is available to an accused, it is not relevant whether he may have a chance to inflict severe and mortal injury on the aggressor. In order to find whether the right of private defence is available to an accused, the entire incident must be examined with care and viewed in its proper setting. Section 97 deals with the subject-matter of right of private defence. The plea of right comprises the body or property (i) of the person exercising the right; or (ii) of any other person; and the right may be exercised in the case of any offence against the body, and in the case of offences of theft, robbery, mischief or criminal trespass, and attempts at such offences in relation to property. Section 99 lays down the limits of the right of private defence. Sections 96 and 98 give a right of private defence against certain offences and acts. The right given under Sections 96 to 98 and 100 to 106 is controlled by Section 99. To claim a right of private defence extending to voluntary causing of death, the accused must show that there were circumstances giving rise to reasonable grounds for apprehending that either death or grievous hurt would be caused to him. The burden is on the accused to show that he had a right of private defence which extended to causing of death. Sections 100 and 101 IPC define the limit and extent of right of private defence.

13. Sections 102 and 105 IPC deal with commencement and continuance of the right of private defence of body and property respectively. The right commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension of danger to the body arises from an attempt, or threat, to commit the offence, although the offence may not have been committed but not until there is that reasonable apprehension. The right lasts so long as the reasonable apprehension of danger to the body continues. In Jai Devv. State of Punjab [AIR 1963 SC 612] it was observed that as soon as the cause for reasonable apprehension disappears and the threat has either been destroyed or has been put to rout, there can be no occasion to exercise the right of private defence.

14. In order to find whether right of private defence is available or not, the injuries received by the accused, the imminence of threat to his safety, the injuries caused by the accused and the circumstances whether the accused had time to have recourse to public authorities are all relevant factors to be considered. Similar view was expressed by this Court in Biran Singh v. State of Bihar [(1975) 4 SCC 161 : 1975 SCC (Cri) 454 : AIR 1975 SC 87] . (See also Wassan Singhv. State of Punjab [(1996) 1 SCC 458 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 119] and Sekar v. State [(2002) 8 SCC 354 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 16] .)

15. As noted in Buta Singh v. State of Punjab [(1991) 2 SCC 612 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 494 : AIR 1991 SC 1316] a person who is apprehending death or bodily injury cannot weigh in golden scales on the spur of the moment and in the heat of circumstances, the number of injuries required to disarm the assailants who were armed with weapons. In moments of excitement and disturbed mental equilibrium it is often difficult to expect the parties to preserve composure and use exactly only so much force in retaliation commensurate with the danger apprehended to him. Where assault is imminent by use of force, it would be lawful to repel the force in self-defence and the right of private defence commences as soon as the threat becomes so imminent. Such situations have to be pragmatically viewed and not with high-powered spectacles or microscopes to detect slight or even marginal overstepping. Due weightage has to be given to, and hyper technical approach has to be avoided in considering what happens on the spur of the moment on the spot and keeping in view normal human reaction and conduct, where self-preservation is the paramount consideration. But, if the fact situation shows that in the guise of self-preservation, what really has been done is to assault the original aggressor, even after the cause of reasonable apprehension has disappeared, the plea of right of private defence can legitimately be negatived. The court dealing with the plea has to weigh the material to conclude whether the plea is acceptable. It is essentially, as noted above, a finding of fact.

16. The right of self-defence is a very valuable right, serving a social purpose and should not be construed narrowly. (SeeVidhya Singh v. State of M.P. [(1971) 3 SCC 244 : 1971 SCC (Cri) 469 : AIR 1971 SC 1857]) Situations have to be judged from the subjective point of view of the accused concerned in the surrounding excitement and confusion of the moment, confronted with a situation of peril and not by any microscopic and pedantic scrutiny. In adjudging the question as to whether more force than was necessary was used in the prevailing circumstances on the spot it would be inappropriate, as held by this Court, to adopt tests by detached objectivity which would be so natural in a courtroom, or that which would seem absolutely necessary to a perfectly cool bystander. The person facing a reasonable apprehension of threat to himself cannot be expected to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude of only that much which is required in the thinking of a man in ordinary times or under normal circumstances.

17. In the illuminating words of Russell (Russell on Crime, 11th Edn., Vol. I at p. 49):

'... a man is justified in resisting by force anyone who manifestly intends and endeavours by violence or surprise to commit a known felony against either his person, habitation or property. In these cases, he is not obliged to retreat, and may not merely resist the attack where he stands but may indeed pursue his adversary until the danger is ended and if in a conflict between them he happens to kill his attacker, such killing is justifiable.'

18. The right of private defence is essentially a defensive right circumscribed by the governing statute i.e. IPC, available only when the circumstances clearly justify it. It should not be allowed to be pleaded or availed as a pretext for a vindictive, aggressive or retributive purpose of offence. It is a right of defence, not of retribution, expected to repel unlawful aggression and not as a retaliatory measure. While providing for exercise of the right, care has been taken in IPC not to provide and has not devised a mechanism whereby an attack may be a pretence for killing. A right to defend does not include a right to launch an offensive, particularly when the need to defend no longer survived."

The above position was highlighted inV. Subramani v.State of T.N.[(2005) 10 SCC 358 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1521] , SCC at pp. 364-68, paras 11-18.

11. Factual scenario as noted above clearly goes to show that though the appellants claimed to be exercising the right of private defence, it was exceeded. That being so, the protection for exercising the right of private defence cannot be extended to the appellants. But the appropriate conviction would be under Section 304 Part I IPC and custodial sentence of 10 years in case of each appellant and fine imposed by the trial court would meet the ends of justice."

95. In view of the discussions and deliberations held above on the evidence led during the course of trial, the laws laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as the findings recorded by the trial court in acquittal of accused-respondents Nanda, Ram Shiroman, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak, we are of the view that the trial court has not examined the evidence led by the prosecution in correct perspective and the finding returned by it that the prosecution has not succeeded in proving its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused-respondents, cannot be sustained. The prosecution has fully established the guilt of the accused-respondents on the basis of evidence led at the stage of trial by the prosecution. The acquittal of the accused-respondents, namely, Nanda, Ram Shiroman, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak, is consequently, reversed.

96. We are of the opinion that the accused-respondents Nanda, Ram Shiroman, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak could be convicted for the offence punishable under Section 302 and 307 I.P.C. However seeing entire evidence led during the course of trial, we are of the view that the accused had no intention or motive to cause death and the incident in question occurred on the spur of moment in their private defence, even though they have exceeded their rights of private defence, they are liable to be convicted under Part-1 of Section 304 I.P.C.

97. Consequently, the accused-respondents Ram Shiroman, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak are convicted for the offence under Part-1 of Section 304 of I.P.C. and sentenced them to undergo six years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 10,000/- each. Since the accused-respondent Nanda has already expired and the Government Appeal at his behest has already been abated, no further order is required to be passed against him.

98. The Government Appeal filed on behalf of the State is, hereby, partly allowed.

99. There shall be no order as to costs.]

100. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jaunpur shall ensure that the accused-respondents, namely, Ram Shiroman, Ram Lagan and Ram Janak are arrested and sent to jail for serving their sentences awarded herein above.

101. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jaunpur, henceforth, for necessary compliance.

5. Ram Swaroop Rai Vs Smt. Leelawati, (1980) 3 SCC 452

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri R. K. Mishra, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Prateek Sinha, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. By means of S.C.C. Revision No. 29 of 2020, revisionist has challenged the impugned judgement and decree dated 20.01.2020 passed by learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 20, Kanpur Nagar in S.C.C. Suit No. 70 of 2017 (Pranveer Singh Vs. Jitendra Kumar Rajpoot).

3. By means of S.C.C. Revision No.27 of 2020, revisionist has challenged the impugned judgement and decree dated 20.01.2020 passed by learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 20, Kanpur Nagar in S.C.C. Suit No. 72 of 2017 (Pranveer Singh Vs. Madhukar Pandya).

4. Since the common question of law and facts are involved in both the revisions, therefore, with the consent of counsel for parties, both the revisions are being decided together by a common judgment.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionists-defendants submitted that revisionists are the tenants of plaintiff-respondent since the year 2000 and paying rent at the rate of 1250/- p.m. including taxes. He has received a notice of eviction dated 16.06.2014 stating therein that the provision of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972(hereinafter, referred to as, 'Act, 1972') are applicable to the house in question. The revisionists have replied the said notice vide his reply dated 02.07.2014. Revisionists have further received second noticed dated 03.09.2015 for arrears of rent and to vacate the accommodation with the specific averment that Act, 1972 is applicable. Revisionists have also replied the said notice stating therein that rent is being deposited and is paid up to 31.12.2015.

6. Lastly, he received third notice dated 13.05.2017 under Section 106 of Transfer of Property Act, 1882(hereinafter, referred to as 'Act, 1882') and in the said notice a new stand was taken by the respondent-plaintiff that wrongly in the notice dated 16.06.2014 in para no. 6, it was mentioned that the provisions of Act, 1972 are applicable and stated for the first time in the notice dated 13.05.2017 that the provisions of Act, 1972 would not be applicable. The revisionists-defendants submitted their reply dated 29.05.2017. Based upon the aforesaid notices, respondent-plaintiff has filed SCC Suit No. 70 of 2017 & SCC Suit No. 72 of 2017 against the revisionists-defendants respectively seeking a decree of eviction as well as recovery of arrears of rent.

7. He firmly submitted that once the applicability of Act, 1972 is admitted by the respondents-plaintiffs in the notices dated 16.06.2014 and 03.09.2015, it would be treated admission on the part of the respondents-plaintiffs and he cannot take U-turn in the third notice dated 13.05.2017 that Act, 1972 would not be applicable. Therefore, revisionists-defendants are entitled for benefit of Section 20 (4) of Act, 1972, as they are regularly depositing the rent @ Rs. 1250/- per month. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the revisionists has placed reliance of judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Avadh Kishore Dass Vs. Ram Gopal and Others1979 0 AIR (SC) 861.

8. He next submitted that first assessment of house in question was made in the year 1979 which is prior to the cut of date i.e. 26th April, 1985, therefore, under the facts of the case Act, 1972 would be applicable. He also pointed out that learned Judge has relied upon the second assessment which was made on 11.10.1985 and has held that Act, 1972 shall not be applicable. Leaned counsel for the revisionists-defendants firmly submitted that once the first assessment has taken place in the year 1979, the Act, 1972 would be applicable.

9. He lastly submitted that once there is admission about the applicability of Act, 1972 in notices dated 16.06.2014 and 03.09.2015 and further, first assessment took place in the year 1979, Act, 1972 would be applicable and there is no scope of adjudication on this point.

10. He next submitted that Suit No. 70 of 2017 & 72 of 2017 have been instituted by the respondent-plaintiff through power of attorney and it is settled principle of law that power of attorney holder can only depose about the facts which are within his personal knowledge and not about the facts which are not within his knowledge or are within personal knowledge of person, who he represents or about facts that may have transpired much before he entered to scene.

11. Per contra, Sri Prateek Sinha, learned counsel for the respondent-plaintiff vehemently opposed the submission of learned counsel for the revisionist and submitted that illustration of Section 113 of Act, 1882 clearly provides that in case after issuance of first notice, if the house is not vacated and second notice is issued, the first notice is to be treated waived of. He next submitted that this ratio of law has also been affirmed by the Apex Court in the matter of Tayabali Jaferbhai Vs. M/s Ashan and Co. andothers: AIR 1971 SC 102 and by this Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 14421 of 1997(Anish Ahmad Vs. Special/Additional District Judge, Saharanpur and others), decided on 01.05.1997.

12. He next submitted that it is undisputed that pursuant to the notices dated 16.06.2014 and 03.09.2015, no suit has been filed, therefore, the contents of both the notices cannot be treated as admission. He next pointed out that undisputedly the SCC Suit No. 70 of 2017 & 72 of 2017 are based upon the third notice dated 13.05.2017, in which it is clearly stated that Act, 1972 would not be applicable, therefore, contention so raised by learned counsel for the revisionists-defendants is bad in law and is not sustainable.

13. He next submitted that so far as the document about the assessment year issued by Nagar Nigam, Kanpur Nagar is concerned, the document produced before the Court clearly indicates that first assessment was made in the year 1979 and after construction of four new shops the fresh assessment took place on 11.10.1985 which may be taken into consideration for applicability of the Act, 1972.

14. He next submitted that once the municipal tax record is available, no oral evidence is required for first assessment. In support of his contention, he placed reliance on the judgment of this Court in the matter of Aziz Alam@Guddu Vs. Smt. Malti Vaish: 2017(3) ARC 811.

15. Learned counsel for the respondent-plaintiff further submitted that so far as argument of deposition of power of attorney is concerned, it is oral submission and this fact has not been pleaded and is not the part of written statement filed in SCC Suit No. 70 of 2017 & 72 of 2017, therefore, this may not be raised at this stage. Apart from that, learned counsel for the revisionists-defendants has also not pointed out as to what deposition is made by the power of attorney holder beyond his personal knowledge, therefore, argument of learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant may not be accepted.

16. I have considered the rival submissions advances by learned counsel for the parties, perused the record and the judgments relied upon.

17. There are two issue before the Court to decide. The first issue is that in case of issuance of more than one notice and based upon last notice, a suit is instituted, what would be the fate of earlier notice. Second issue before the Court is with regard to municipal assessment made by the Municipal Corporation of a house at two different stages.

18. Now, coming to first issue i.e. about the status of notices issued from time to time. Section 113 of the Act, 1882 is relevant for this issue, which deals with the waiver of notice to quit. Section 113 of the Act, 1882 is being quoted hereinbelow:

"113. Waiver of notice to quit-- A notice given under section 111, clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Illustrations

(a) A the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires. B tenders, and A accepts, rent which has become due in respect of the property since the expiration of the notice. The notice is waived.

(b) A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires, and B remains in possession. A gives to B as lessee a second notice to quit. The first notice is waived."

19. This issue was before the Hon'ble Apex Court in the matter of Tayabali Jaferbhai(Supra). Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:

"6. In the present case there can be no doubt that the serving of the second notice and what was stated therein together with the claim as laid and amplified in the plaint showed that the landlord waived the first notice by showing an intention to treat the tenancy as subsisting and that this was with the express or implied consent of the tenant to whom the first notice had been given because he had even made payment of the rent which had been demanded though it was after the expiration of the period of one month given in the notice.

7. It further appears that the rent was sent by the tenant treating the tenancy as subsisting and not as having come to an end by virtue of the first notice. There is another significant fact which shows that it was the second notice which was considered by the landlord to be the effective notice. It was in the notice sent in October 1957 ,that the landlord, for the first time, raised the ground of personal necessity. In the suit requirement of personal necessity was made one of the main grounds on which eviction was sought. In the first notice which was sent in June 1956 no such requirement or ground had been mentioned. It was not open, therefore to the landlord to say that he did not ,want to rely on the second notice and should be allowed to base his action for eviction only on the first notice containing the ground of the default in payment of arrears of rent. We are satisfied that the suit of the landlord was rightly dismissed though we have sustained its dismissal on different reasoning."

20. Again the very same issue was before this Court in the matter of Anish Ahmad(Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:

"A landlord can waive the notice as provided under Section 113 of Transfer of Property Act which provides that the notice given under Section 111, Clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting. The person claiming that the notice has been waived has to satisfy two essential ingredients (i) the intention of the landlord was to treat the lease as subsisting, and (ii) he had a knowledge of the fact that this conduct amounts to waiver."

21. From the perusal of the provision of Act, 1882 as well as ratio of law laid down Courts in Tayabali Jaferbhai (Supra) and Anish Ahmad(Supra), it is apparently clear that in case lessor gives notice to lessee to give the property leased and lessee remains in possession and thereafter, lessor gives second notice to lessee to quit, the first notice is waived of. The legislation is very much clear on this point. If no action has been taken upon the issuance of earlier notice and there is no change of status of lessor and lessee, the earlier notice would be waived off after issuance of latter notice. Therefore, this Court is of the firm view that any admission made by the learned counsel for the revisionist-defendant based upon first and second notice would be of no use. In the present case, it is undisputed that neither any SCC Suit is filed, nor the house is vacated pursuant to first and second notice, therefore, both the notices would be waived of after issuance of third notice.

22. Now, coming to the judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the revisionists-defendants in the matter of Avadh Kishore Dass(Supra), which is about the admission. This Court is of the view that there would be no effect of first and second notice for the purpose of admission as the notices would be treated waived off in terms of Section 113 of the Act, 1882 as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Courts in this regard. Therefore, this judgment is not coming in the rescue of the revisionists-defendants as there is no admission on record made by the respondent-plaintiff and withdrawn later on.

23. Now, coming to the second issue about the assessment. It is defined under Section 2(2) of the Act, 1972. The said Section is being quoted hereinbelow:

"[Except as provided in Sub-section (5) of Section 12 Sub-section (1A) of Section 21, Sub-section (2) of Section 24, Section 24A 24B, 24C, or Sub-section (3) of Section 29, nothing in this Act shall apply to a building during a period of ten years from the date on which its construction is completed]:

[Provided that where any building is constructed substantially out of funds obtained by way of loan or advance from the State Government or the Life Insurance Corporation of India or a bank or a co-operative society or the Uttar Pradesh Avas Evam Vikas Parishad, and the period of repayment of such loan or advance exceeds the aforesaid period of ten years than the reference in this sub-section to the period of ten years shall be deemed to be a reference to the period of fifteen years or the period ending with the date of actual repayment of such loan or advance (including interest), which ever is shorter]:

[Provided further that where construction of a building is completed on or after April 26, 1985 then the reference in this sub-section to the period of ten years shall be deemed to be a reference to a period of [forty years] from the date on which its construction is completed.

Explanation I.-For the purposes of this Sub-section,

(a) The construction of a building shall be deemed to have been completed on the date on which the completion thereof is reported to or otherwise recorded by the local authority having jurisdiction, and in the case of a building subject to assessment, the date on which the first assessment thereof comes into effect, and where the said dates are different, the earliest of the said dates, and in the absence of any such report, record or assessment, the date on which it is actually occupied (not including occupation merely for the purposes of supervising the construction or guarding the building under construction) for the first time:

Provided that there may be different dates of completion of construction in respect of different parts of a building which are either designed as separate units or are occupied separately by the landlord and one or more tenants or by different tenants.

(b) "construction" includes any new constructions in place of an existing building which has been wholly or substantially demolished;

(c) Where such substantial addition is made to an existing building, that the existing building becomes only a minor part thereof, the whole of the building including the existing building shall be deemed to be constructed on the date of completion of the said addition." "

24. This issue was considered by Hon'ble Apex Court in the matter of Ram Swaroop Rai Vs. Smt. Leelawati, (1980) 3 SCC 452, and the Apex Court has held that in case where tax records are available, oral evidence remains inconsequential for the purpose of first assessment. This Court in the matter of Aziz Alam@Guddu(Supra) has reiterated the the ratio of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the matter of Ram Swaroop Rai(Supra). Relevant Pragraph of Aziz Alam@Guddu(Supra) are being quoted hereinbelow:

"8. The aforesaid judgment of the Apex Court conclusively holds that in a case where tax records are available, oral evidence remains inconsequential and it is the documentary evidence submitted, as per the provisions of Rent Control Act, 1972, which is relevant for deciding the date of completion of building for the purpose of Rent Control Act. Thus, the oral admission made in the cross examination cannot be looked into by the Court. There remain two house tax assessments on record, one claims to be first assessment of the year 1992 of the entire building and another a house tax assessment of the year 1986 of the shop in dispute. They both are of a date later to 26.04.1985. Even presuming, on basis of the house tax assessment register submitted by the revisionist/tenant of the year 1986, the building was constructed in the year 1986, still the same was constructed after 26.04.1985 and thus is exempted from the application of Rent Control Act, for a period of 40 years.

9. Present suit for eviction admittedly was filed within the said period of 40 years. Hence, conclusion of the court below that the provisions of Rent Control Act, 1972 are not applicable on the property in dispute cannot be faulted with. "

25. From the perusal of the aforesaid Section, it is apparently clear that in case new construction is made to the extent that existing building becomes only a minor part, the whole building including existing part shall be deemed to be constructed on the date of completion of said addition. In the present case, earlier, assessment was made in the year 1979 having a tin shade, road, a gumti, some open land. Later on, two shops, four bed rooms, one kitchen, one store & one portico were constructed and cancelling the earlier assessment, new assessment was made on 11.10.1985 by the municipal authority. From the perusal of Section 2(2), it is also clear that in case any building is constructed after 26.04.1985, Act, 1972 would not be applicable and after construction, assessment so made is to be treated first assessment and. Apart that, once the municipal record of assessment is available, no oral evidence is required.

26. So far as last issue argued by the learned counsel for the revisionists-defendants about the authority of power of attorney is concerned, the same is having no relevance for the reasons that it was not part of the written statement and being confronted by the Court this fact could not be disputed by learned counsel for the revisionists-defendants.

27. Therefore, under such facts and circumstances of the case, I found no infirmity or illegality in both the impugned judgements and decrees dated 20.01.2020.

28. Revisions lack merit and are accordingly dismissed.

29. No order as to costs.

7. Matters under Article 227 No. 5213 of 2013; Shri Firoz Uddin & ors. Vs Shri Anwar Uddin

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashwini Kumar, learned counsel for revisionist and Sri Santosh Kumar Kesarwani, Advocate holding brief of Sri Girish Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for opposite parties.

2. Present revision has been filed seeking following relief:-

"It, is therefore most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to stay the further proceeding of S.C.C. Case No. 34 of 2013 (Rama Raman vs. Mahendra Pratap Singh) pending before Additional District Judge, Court No. 14/Special Judge Gangster Act, Varanasi."

3. earned counsel for petitioner submitted that respondents have filed S.C.C. Case No. 34 of 2013 in which revisionist has filed written statement on 05.02.2014 admitting the tenancy. After change of counsel, it was found that documents so annexed alongwith written statement is having a 'license deed', but due to typographical error, it is mentioned as 'tenant'. He next submitted that after change of counsel, amendment application dated 23.03.2022 has been moved under Order VI Rule 17 of CPC for substitution of word, 'licensee' in place of word, 'tenant' which was rejected on the ground that first of all any admission made in written statement cannot be withdrawn. Secondly; change of counsel cannot be a ground to allow amendment application at a very belated stage. Further, condition of due diligence has also not been satisfied. He firmly submitted that Apex Court has categorically held that a liberal view is required to be taken while deciding amendment application. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the matter of Life Insurance Corporation of India vs. Sanjeev Builders Private Limited and another; 2022 0 Supreme(SC) 864.

4. Sri Santosh Kumar Kesarwani, Advocate holding brief of Sri Girish Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for opposite parties has vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for revisionist and submitted that law is very well settled on this point that once any admission is given in written statement, same cannot be withdrawn. The very similar issue was before Apex Court in the matter of Ram Niranjan Kajaria and others vs. Jugal Kishore Kajaria; (2015) 10 Supreme Court Cases 203 and others in which Apex Court had clearly held that categorical admission made in the pleadings cannot be permitted to be withdrawn by way of amendment application. He further submitted that even in case of typographical error in written statement, admission cannot be withdrawn. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the matter of Abdul Ahmad vs. Haq Nawaz Ahmad; 2016(8) ADJ 176. He also pointed out that so far as change of counsel is concerned, that can also not be a ground at a very belated stage. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court passed in Rama Nand and Ors. vs. Amrit Lal and Ors. (Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 12067 of 2012).

5. I have considered rival submissions advanced by counsels for parties and perused the records as well as judgments cited above.

6. Facts of the case about the date of filing of suit, written statement and amendment application are not disputed.

7. Issue before the Court is as to whether admission made in written submissions may be withdrawn due to typographical error pointed by a new counsel i.e. due to change of counsel.

8. Learned counsel for petitioner has placed reliance basically upon paragraph nos. 25, 26 & 70 of judgment of Life Insurance Corporation (Supra), which is being quoted below:-

"25. The principles applicable to the amendments of the plaint are equally applicable to the amendments of the written statements. The courts are more generous in allowing the amendment of the written statement as question of prejudice is less likely to operate in that event. The defendant has a right to take alternative plea in defense which, however, is subject to an exception that by the proposed amendment other side should not be subjected to injustice and that any admission made in favor of the plaintiff is not withdrawn. All amendments of the pleadings should be allowed which are necessary for determination of the real controversies in the suit provided the proposed amendment does not alter or substitute a new cause of action on the basis of which the original lis was raised or defense taken. Inconsistent and contradictory allegations in negation to the admitted position of facts or mutually destructive allegations of facts should not be allowed to be incorporated by means of amendment to the pleadings. The proposed amendment should not cause such prejudice to the other side which cannot be compensated by costs. No amendment should be allowed which amounts to or relates in defeating a legal right accruing to the opposite party on account of lapse of time. The delay in filing the application for amendment of the pleadings should be properly compensated by costs and error or mistake which, if not fraudulent, should not be made a ground for rejecting the application for amendment of plaint or written statement. (See South Konkan Distilleries & Anr. v. Prabhakar Gajanan Naik & Ors., (2008) 14 SCC 632)

26. But undoubtedly, every case and every application for amendment has to be tested in the applicable facts and circumstances of the case. As the proposed amendment of the pleadings amounts to only a different or an additional approach to the same facts, this Court has repeatedly laid down the principle that such an amendment would be allowed even after the expiry of statutory period of limitation.

70. Our final conclusions may be summed up thus:

(i) Order II Rule 2 CPC operates as a bar against a subsequent suit if the requisite conditions for application thereof are satisfied and the field of amendment of pleadings falls far beyond its purview. The plea of amendment being barred under Order II Rule 2 CPC is, thus, misconceived and hence negatived.

(ii) All amendments are to be allowed which are necessary for determining the real question in controversy provided it does not cause injustice or prejudice to the other side. This is mandatory, as is apparent from the use of the word "shall", in the latter part of Order VI Rule 17 of the CPC.

(III) The prayer for amendment is to be allowed;

(i) if the amendment is required for effective and proper adjudication of the controversy between the parties

(ii) to avoid multiplicity of proceedings, provided

(a) the amendment does not result in injustice to the other side.

(b) by the amendment, the parties seeking amendment does not seek to withdraw any clear admission made by the party which confers a right on the other side.

(c) the amendment does not raise a time barred claim, resulting in divesting of the other side of a valuable accrued right (in certain situations).

(IV) A prayer for amendment is generally required to be allowed unless:

(i) by the amendment, a time barred claim is sought to be introduced, in which case the fact that the claim would be time barred becomes a relevant factor for consideration.

(ii) the amendment changes the nature of the suit.

(iii) the prayer for amendment is malafide.

(iv) by the amendment, the other side loses a valid defence.

(V) In dealing with a prayer for amendment of pleadings, the court should avoid a hypertechnical approach, and is ordinarily required to be liberal especially where the opposite party can be compensated by costs.

(VI) Where the amendment would enable the court to pin-pointedly consider the dispute and would aid in rendering a more satisfactory decision, the prayer for amendment should be allowed.

(VII) Where the amendment merely sought to introduce an additional or a new approach without introducing a time barred cause of action, the amendment is liable to be allowed even after expiry of limitation.

(VIII) Amendment may be justifiably allowed where it is intended to rectify the absence of material particulars in the plaint.

(IX) Delay in applying for amendment alone is not a ground to disallow the prayer. Where the aspect of delay is arguable, the prayer for amendment could be allowed and the issue of limitation framed separately for decision.

(X) Where the amendment changes the nature of the suit or the cause of action, so as to set up an entirely new case, foreign to the case set up in the plaint, the amendment must be disallowed. Where, however, the amendment sought is only with respect to the relief in the plaint, and is predicated on facts which are already pleaded in the plaint, ordinarily the amendment is required to be allowed.

(XI) Where the amendment is sought before commencement of trial, the court is required to be liberal in its approach. The court is required to bear in mind the fact that the opposite party would have a chance to meet the case set up in amendment. As such, where the amendment does not result in irreparable prejudice to the opposite party, or divest the opposite party of an advantage which it had secured as a result of an admission by the party seeking amendment, the amendment is required to be allowed. Equally, where the amendment is necessary for the court to effectively adjudicate on the main issues in controversy between the parties, the amendment should be allowed. (See Vijay Gupta v. Gagninder Kr. Gandhi & Ors., 2022 SCC OnLine Del 1897)"

9. From the perusal of afore-quoted judgment, it is clear that in the said judgment, Apex Court has clearly said that admission made in favour of plaintiff cannot be withdrawn, therefore, judgment is not in favour of petitioner rather against him.

10. Learned counsel for respondents has also placed reliance upon the judgment of Ram Niranjan Kajaria (Supra). Relevant paragraph no. 23 of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"23. We agree with the position in Nagindas Ramdas and as endorsed in Gautam Sarup that a categorical admission made in the pleadings cannot be permitted to be withdrawn by way of an amendment. To that extent, the proposition of law that even an admission can be withdrawn, as held in Panchdeo Narain Srivastava, does not reflect the correct legal position and it is overruled."

11. Apex Court has expressed view that categorical expression made in pleading cannot be permitted to be withdrawn and overruled the judgment of Panchdeo Narain Srivastava v. Jyoti Sahay; 1984 Supp SCC 594, in which a contrary view is taken.

12. Therefore, in the light of facts of the case as well as law laid down by the Courts, this Court is also of the firm view that once an admission is made in pleadings, same cannot be withdrawn by way of amendment application.

13. So far as typographical error is concerned, learned counsel for respondent has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the matter of Abdul Ahmad (Supra). Relevant paragraph nos. 15 & 20 are quoted below:-

"15. Having perused the above noted material on record, this Court finds that there is clear admission of the petitioner with regard to the landlord-tenant relationship between him and the plaintiff. He has made categorical statement in this regard in paragraph no.9 of the written statement. Though the admission in paragraph no.9 of the written statement has not been withdrawn as the petitioner did not seek any such prayer in the amendment application, however, the averments in paragraph no.15-A which he sought to add in the written statement shows that he wants to plead that there was no landlord-tenant relationship between him and the plaintiff and, therefore, suit at the instance of the plaintiff could not be maintained. This amendment has been sought with further assertion that there was a typographical mistake in the written statement for correction of which, the amendments are necessary.

20. The judgements relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner are distinguishable in the fact of this cases in asmuch as, in both the cases namely Sushil Kumar Jain (supra) and Ushal Bala Saheb Swami (supra) it is held by the Apex Court that the amendment in the written statement was not for withdrawal of admission rather keeping the amendment intact something more was sought to be added. The contradiction and the confusion in the written statement was sought to be clarified. "

14. From the perusal of same, it is clear that any admission given in written statement cannot be withdrawn on the ground of typographical error.

15. Another issue taken by the revisionist is about change of counsel. This issue was very well considered by this Court in the matter of Hari Shanker and 5 others vs. Bhawati Prasad Mishra; reported in 2014 (0) Supreme (All) 3127 and Shri Firoz Uddin and 4 others vs. Shri Anwar Uddin (Matters under Article 227 No. 5213 of 2013). Relevant paragraph of the judgment passed in Hari Shanker (supra) is quoted hereinbelow:-

"14. Supreme Court again in J. Samuel v. Gattu Mahesh, (2012) 2 SCC 300, held that due diligence is the idea that reasonable investigation is necessary before certain kinds of relief are requested. Duly diligent efforts are a requirement for a party seeking to use the adjudicatory mechanism to attain an anticipated relief. An advocate representing someone must engage in due diligence to determine that the representations made are factually accurate and sufficient. The term "due diligence" is specifically used in the Code so as to provide a test for determining whether to exercise the discretion in situations of requested amendment after the commencement of trial. A party requesting a relief stemming out of a claim is required to exercise due diligence and it is a requirement which cannot be dispensed with. The term "due diligence" determines the scope of a party's constructive knowledge, claim and is very critical to the outcome of the suit. In the given facts, there is a clear lack of "due diligen not search out the fact, which is to be amended in written statement. Therefore, the condition of due diligence could not be satisfied. Law is very ce" and the mistake committed certainly does not come within the preview of a typographical error. Similar view was taken in Vidyabai Vs. Padma Latha, (2009) 2 SCC 409, Sushil Kumar Jain Vs. Manoj Kumar, (2009) 14 SCC 38 and Abdul Rehman Vs. Mohd. Ruldu, (2012) 11 SCC 341.

15. The written statement was drafted by an advocate after reading the plaint. After legal advice, it cannot be said that in exercise of "due diligence" the fact sought to be brought in the pleading by way of amendment was not in the knowledge of the defendant. A distinction has to be drawn between 'due diligence' and 'negligence'. The case of the defendants falls in the category of 'negligence' and not 'due diligence'. Trial Court rightly rejected the amendment application, as Proviso to Order VI Rule 17 C.P.C., now castes a rider on the power of the Court in allowing amendment application."

16. Again, similar issue was considered by this Court in the matter of Shri Firoz Uddin (supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"20. So far as present case is concerned, there is no dispute on the point that except the engagement of new counsel, nothing has been stated in amendment application even after sincere efforts, they could not search out the fact, which is to be amended in written statement. Therefore, the condition of due diligence could not be satisfied. Law is very much settled that change of counsel cannot be a ground for filing amendment. Therefore, no interference is required in the impugned order dated 11.04.2023."

17. This issue was also considered by this Court in the matter of Rama Nand (Supra), in which Court has held that change of counsel cannot be a ground to file amendment application. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"Having heard Sri Shiv Nath Singh the facts of this case leaves no room for doubt, that the petitioners who are the defendants were duly represented by a lawyer for the past several years, who consciously made an endorsement on 30.10.2007 that he does not want to file any additional written statement. The evidence was led thereafter and the witnesses were cross-examined. It is after some new lawyer who was engaged at the time of hearing that dawned on the petitioners that a mistake has been committed by not filing an additional written statement. The mistake of the lawyer of the petitioners as alleged, in my opinion, is not a mistake at all. It was a conscious endorsement by the lawyer not to file an additional written statement. Apart from this, the evidence with regard to the plea raised in the amended plaint has been adduced by the defendants. Thus, they cannot plead either mistake on behalf of the lawyer or on their behalf also. The petitioners cannot be permitted to raise a plea that their lawyer on a wrong advise made the endorsement. If this is condoned, then in every case a litigant will unscrupulously come forward with this plea and get the case reopened on one pretext or the other. The subsequent engagement of a counsel who has a better understanding of law cannot be a ground to plead that the earlier counsel was incompetent, particularly, in this case where an endorsement in writing has been made by the lawyer that he does not wish to file any additional written statement. ”

18. In the light of law laid down by the Courts, change of counsel cannot be a ground to file amendment application bypassing the rigorous conditions of due diligence. In fact, to meet out any mistake, no advantage can be given to litigant due to change of counsel.

19. In present case, facts are undisputed that due to typographical error as well as change of counsel, amendment application under Order VI Rule 17 of CPC has been filed to withdraw the admission earlier made in written submissions, which cannot be permitted in the light of law laid down by the Courts from time to time, therefore, I found no illegal or infirmity in the impugned order.

20. Revision lacks merit, hence dismissed.

21. No order as to costs.

1. Heard Sri P.K. Jain, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Saurabh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Utkarsh Birla, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. By way of present revision, revisionist is assailing the impugned order dated 27.2.2024 passed in S.C.C. Suit No. 7 of 2008 by the Judge, Small Causes Court/ADJ Court No.7, Ghaziabad.

3. Case was heard on 17.5.2024, Court has passed the following order:-

"1. Heard Sri P.K. Jain, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Saurabh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Utkarsh Birla, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. Sri P.K. Jain, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Saurabh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the revisionists submitted in the present revision impugned order is having two parts; first about the vacation of commercial house in question occupied by the Punjab National Bank Earlier Oriental Bank Of Commerce and second about the decretal amount and enhancement of mesne profit at the rate of 15% per annum.

3. So far first part is concerned, he is ready to vacate the commercial house in question within one year and also pay the monthly rent of Rs. 3,27,000/- for the same period, which is not objected by Mr. Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner.

4. So far second part is concerned, he is having no objection to the decretal amount, but he is challenging the enhancement of mesne profit at the rate 15% per annum.

5. Heard learned counsel for both the parties on this issue.

6. Judgement reserved.

7. Put up this case for order on 27.5.2024.

8. Till the delivery of judgment, parties shall maintain status quo as on date."

4. Considering the submission made by learned counsel for the revisionist in aforesaid order dated 17.5.2024, he is granted one year time to vacate the commercial accommodation from today with following condition;

(i) Revisionist is directed to file affidavit within two weeks from today before learned Judge, Small Causes Court/ADJ Court No.7, Ghaziabad to vacate the commercial accommodation in question within the time given by the Court.

(ii) Revisionist is directed to deposit all decretal amount within four weeks from today before learned Judge, Small Causes Court/ADJ Court No.7, Ghaziabad. In case, any amount is already deposited, same shall be adjusted against the decretal amount.

(iii) Revisionist is also directed to pay Rs. 3,27,000/- as monthly rent of commercial accommodation in question per month on month to month basis on or before 7th day of every month till the vacation of house.

(iv) In case of failure of fulfilment of any conditions so imposed by the Court, this order would lost the effect and plaintiff-respondent is at liberty to proceed against the defendant-revisionist in accordance with law.

5. Accordingly, the revision is disposed of so far it relates to vacate the commercial accommodation in question only.

6. Learned Senior Counsel submitted that in the year 2021 by enactment of State Legislation, Uttar Pradesh Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as Act, 2021) came into force, which provides maximum enhancement of mesne profit at the rate of 7% per annum for non residential building, therefore, in all eventuality, mesne profit may not be enhanced beyond 7%. In the present case, it has been enhanced to the tune of 15% per annum. In support of his contention he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the cases of State of Maharashtra and another vs. Super Max International Private Limited and others reported in (2009) 9 SCC 772 and Smt. Anguri Devi Since Deceased and 10 others vs. Smt. Sampatti Devi and 10 others passed in Writ-A No. 2853 of 2024 decided on 26.2.2024.

7. Per Contra, Sri Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Utkarsh Birla, learned counsel for the opposite party has vehemently opposed and submitted that present impugned order has been passed pursuant to S.C.C. Suit No. 7 of 2008 and at that point of time Act, 2021 was not in force. Even U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 was also not applicable. He firmly submitted that only way to fix the enhancement of mesne profit is market rate. He has produced the market rate through affidavit before the SCC Court, which was neither denied nor controverted by any affidavit contrary to that and considering the same mesne profit alongwith enhancement of 15% has been fixed. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court as well as this Court in the cases of Atma Ram Properties (P) Ltd. Vs. M/s. Federal Motors Pvt. Ltd. reported in 2005 (2) ARC 936 & Union of India and another vs. Smt. Suman Gupta and others reported in 2004 (1) ARC 330.

8. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the judgment relied upon. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that Act, 2021 provides for enhancement of mesne profit only at the rate of 7% in case of non residential accommodation beyond that no enhancement can be made. There is no doubt on the issue that suit was filed in the year 2008 and on that date Act No. 2021 was not in existence, therefore, any provision of Act would not be applicable.

9. Apart that I have also perused the Section 9 of Act, 2021, which provides Revision of Rent. Same is being quoted herein below:-

"8. Rent Payable. The rent payable in respect of a premises shall be the rent agreed to between the landlord and the tenant in accordance with the terms of the tenancy agreement or as revised under Section 9 or determined under Section 10.

9. Revision of Rent.-(1) The revision of rent between the landlord and the tenant shall be in accordance with the terms of the tenancy agreement.

(2) Where, after the commencement of tenancy, the landlord has entered into an agreement in writing with the tenant prior to the commencement of the work and has incurred expenditure for carrying out improvement, addition or structural alteration in the premises occupied by the tenant, which does not include repairs necessary to be carried out under Section 15, the landlord may increase the rent of the premises by an amount as agreed to between the landlord and the tenant, and such increase in rent shall become effective from one month after the completion of such work.

(3) Subject to any agreement in writing, where the premises have been let out before the commencement of this Act, the rent thereof shall be liable to be revised for a further period of two years from the commencement of this Act, according to the formula indicated below-

(a) where the premises have been let out prior to 15.07.1972, it shall be deemed to have been let out on 15.07.1972;

(b) where the premises have been let out on or after 15.07.1972, the date for revision of rent shall be one year after the date of commencement of tenancy.

The rate of rent payable in above cases shall be liable to be increased at the rate of 5% per annum in case of residential accommodation and 7% per annum in case of non-residential premises, and the rate of increase of rent shall be compounded on an yearly basis. The amount of rent so arrived at shall again be liable to be increased at the aforesaid rates per annum in similar manner up to the commencement of this Act.

Notwithstanding anything mentioned above, if rent of premises had been revised during continuance of tenancy after 15.07.1972, the formula of revision of rent mentioned above shall be applicable from the date of such revision of rent:

Provided that notwithstanding anything mentioned above, the revised rent payable as per formula indicated in aforesaid provision, shall be payable as below from the date of commencement of this Act:

(i) in the first year, half of the rent so computed; and

(ii) in the second year, full amount of rent so computed.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1) of Section 3 wherein any premises referred to, has been let out to a tenant, the landlord of such premises shall also be entitled for revision of rent in accordance with provisions of clause (3) and the relevant provisions of this Act shall apply to such cases.

(5) In the case of tenancy entered into before the commencement of this Act the landlord shall, by notice in writing to the tenant, demand the enhanced rate of rent as specified under sub-section (3) and the rate of rent so enhanced shall be payable within 30 days of the service of notice. In such event the tenancy agreement shall be deemed to be amended and enhanced rate of rent shall be the rent payable under Section 8:

Provided that if there was no tenancy agreement before the commencement of this Act, the landlord and the tenant may mutually agree to execute tenancy agreement for enhanced rate of rent failing which the rent authority shall determine the enhanced rent subject to the provisions of Section 10.

(6) No arrears of aforesaid enhanced rent shall be payable or recoverable for the period prior to commencement of this Act."

10. From perusal of the heading of section, it is apparently clear that it deals with revision of rent and has nothing to do with the mesne profit. In the present case, in light of notice under Section 106 of Transfer of Property Act, 1882, tenancy is to be terminated, the status of petitioner would be trespasser and he cannot take any benefit or advantage of any provision of Act, 2021. It is not the case of payment of rent, but mesne profit, therefore, even in case Act, 2021 is applicable, petitioner is not entitled for benefit of Section 9 of Act, 2021.

11. The similar issue was before this Court in the matter of Smt. Suman Gupta (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"6. Learned counsel for the applicants relied upon Dwarka Prasad vs. Central Talkies, Collectorganj, Kanpur (AIR 1956 All 187). In that case the defendant was paying Rs.550/- per month as rent. The plaintiff landlord demanded Rs.1500/- per month as rent in the notice and also claimed damages at the rate of Rs.1500/- in the suit. It was held that the damages in the suit should be equal to such amount, which the defendant could have realized as rent of the premises the amount which the landlord can be said to get from the premises in suit would be equal to the maximum permissible rent under the Control of Rent and Eviction Act, and he is not entitled to anything more under the guise of damages on the alleged basis of high offers of rent to him by persons who may not have any chance of getting an allotment made in their favour. This Case is entirely distinguishable. In that case the Rent Control Act was applicable to the building in dispute. In cases where the Rent Act applies the rate of rent is regulated by statute. On termination of tenancy by notice under Section 106 Transfer of Property Act the tenant in such cases still continues to enjoy the protection of the Rent Control Act as a statutory tenant and his tenancy comes to end only after the order of eviction. The measure of damages in such cases is therefore at the rate of rent permissible under the Rent Act in cases where the Rent Control Act does not apply there is no statutory restriction and the measure of damages after termination of tenancy by notice under Section 106 of Transfer of Property Act would be the market rent."

12. This Court has taken view that in case of termination of tenancy by notice under Section 106 of Transfer of Property Act, 1882, enhancement of mesne profit shall be determined on the basis of market rate not on the basis of provision of any statutory provision.

13. The Apex Court has considered the very same issue in the matter of Atma Ram (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment are quoted hereinbelow:-

"In Shyam Sharan Vs. Sheoji Bhai & Anr., (1977) 4 SCC 393, this Court has upheld the principle that the tenant continuing in occupation of the tenancy premises after the termination of tenancy is an unauthorized and wrongful occupant and a decree for damages or mesne profits can be passed for the period of such occupation, till the date he delivers the vacant possession to the landlord. With advantage and approval, we may refer to a decision of the Nagpur High Court. In Bhagwandas Vs. Mst. Kokabai, AIR 1953 Nagpur 186, the learned Chief Justice of Nagpur High Court held that the rent control order, governing the relationship of landlord and tenant, has no relevance for determining the question of what should be the measure of damages which a successful landlord should get from the tenant for being kept out of the possession and enjoyment of the property. After determination of the tenancy, the position of the tenant is akin to that of a trespasser and he cannot claim that the measure of damages awardable to the landlord should be kept tagged to the rate of rent payable under the provisions of the rent control order. If the real value of the property is higher than the rent earned then the amount of compensation for continued use and occupation of the property by the tenant can be assessed at the higher value. We find ourselves in agreement with the view taken by the Nagpur High Court."

14. The Apex Court has held that after determination of tenancy, the position of tenant is akin to that of a trespasser and he cannot claim that the measure of damages, should be awarded under the provision of Rent Control Order. In case the real property is higher than the rent earned, amount of compensation for use and occupation of property can be assessed at the higher value.

15. In light of discussion made hereinabove as well as law laid down by the Court, this Court is also of the view that once after service of notice under Section 106 of Transfer of Property Act, 1882, tenancy is terminated, the status of tenant would only be tresspasser and mesne profit shall be determined, based upon market rate prevailing in the area. Provisions of Rent Control Act would not be applicable.

16. In the present case, the facts are entirely same, notice was served, tenancy was terminated and status of petitioner became trespasser. Mesne profit with the enhancement at the rate of 15% per annum is based upon the market rate produced by the plaintiff respondent not controverted or denied by the petitioner-defendant.

17. Therefore, under such facts and circumstances, law laid down by this Court as well as Apex Court, I found no illegality or irregularity in the impugned order.

18. Accordingly, the revision is dismissed, affirming the judgment of trial Court so far it relates to payment mesne profit at the rate of 15%.

Sale/Trade Tax Revision No. 30 of 2023

Commissioner Commercial Tax U.P.
...Petitioner
Versus
M/S Pan Parag India Ltd. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Bipin Kumar Pandey, Addl. C.S.C.

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri Shubham Agarwal

U.P. Value Added Tax Act, 2008 - Section 58 - Double taxation - franchise of a trademark - Issue before the Court was whether the franchise of a trademark constitutes a transfer of the right to use goods, thereby making it subject to VAT ? – In the case license was given by the respondent for the use of his brand name. Said franchise agreement granted only representational right and not an exclusive right to the licensees to sell/manufacture goods. Permission granted by the dealer under the agreement was a non-exclusive right given to the licensees, as it was not to the exclusion of others. Held: Franchise agreement in the present case grants a non-exclusive license rather than a transfer of the right to use goods. As such, the transaction does not attract Value Added Tax under the UPVAT Act. Respondent received royalty amounts from various dealers under the franchise agreement, and service tax at a rate of 15% was already paid by the respondent on the amount of royalty received by them from the licensees under the franchise agreement. If the payments have been subjected to service tax, they cannot be recharacterized as the sale of goods to levy VAT or sales tax. Prevention of double taxation is a fundamental principle of tax law. Constitution of India does not permit overlapping of taxes. Once an activity is taxable as a service, it cannot be taxed as a sale/deemed sale of goods. (Para 27, 28, 29)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

1. This is a commercial tax revision petition under Section 58 of the U.P. Value Added Tax Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as the 'UPVAT Act'). The following question of law has been admitted by this Court:

"Whether on the facts and circumstances of the case the Commercial Tax Tribunal was legally justified in deleting the amount of tax which is taxable under schedule 2 part A at serial No. 3 (All intangible goods like copyright, patent, license etc. transfer of right to use goods)."

2. In the instant case, first appellate authority had concluded that the dealer/respondent had sold his brand name/title under the franchise agreement, and since it is to be considered as a sale, therefore, Value Added Tax has to be levied on it.

3. Against the order of the first appellate authority, the dealer/respondent had gone into appeal before the Commercial Tax Tribunal. Relying upon the judgment of Delhi High court in M/s Mc Donalds India Pvt. Ltd. V. Commissioner of Trade Taxes New Delhi reported in 2017 (5) GSTL 120, the Commercial Tax Tribunal held that since the franchise of trademark can be transferred to several persons at the same time, it is merely a license to use the goods and not a transfer of the exclusive right to use the goods, and therefore, no Value Added Tax can be levied on the same. It is this order which is assailed before this Court.

CONTENTIONS OF THE REVISIONIST

4. Mr. Bipin Kumar Panday, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the revisionist has made the following submissions before this Court:

a Once the copyright has been transferred and royalty amount has been received in lieu of the same, it becomes taxable under the provisions of the Act because entry at Serial No. 3 in Part A of Schedule- II of the Act makes clear that "All intangible goods like co pyright, patent, rep. license etc; transfer of right to use of goods" are taxable.

b. It is further submitted by him that since franchise or trademark falls within the meaning of transfer of right to use the goods hence Value Added Tax is leviable on it.

c. It is further submitted by him that even if service tax was paid, it does not absolve the liability under the UPVAT Act, as Value Added Tax and Service Tax were separate and distinct taxation regimes before the introduction of the Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017. Further, the term 'sale' as defined under Section 2 (ac) of the UPVAT Act includes a transfer of the right to use any goods for any purpose (whether or not for a specified period) for cash, deferred payment or other valuable consideration.

d. In support of his contentions, he relies upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in case of Vikas Sales Corporation V. Commissioner of Commercial Tax reported in (1996) 4 SCC 433 wherein it was held that REP license/Exim scrips were goods on the sale of which sales tax can be levied.

e. Further reliance has been placed upon the judgment of Madras High Court in the case of S. P. S. Jayam and Co. v. Registrar, Tamil Nadu Taxation Special Tribunal reported in 2004 SCC OnLine Mad 1018 and the judgment of Bombay High Court in Commissioner of Sales Tax v. Duke & Sons Pvt. Ltd. reported in (1999) 112 STC 370.

CONTENTIONS OF THE RESPONDENT

5. Mr. Shubham Agrawal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent has argued as follows:

a. The franchise agreement which the respondent dealer had entered into with various parties, only a mere license was given by the respondent for use of his brand name. The said franchise agreement grants only a representational right and not an exclusive right to the licensees to sell/manufacture goods.

b. The permission granted by the dealer under the agreement was a non-exclusive right given to the licensees, as it was not to the exclusion of others. Thus, the license does not constitute a 'transfer of right to use of goods'.

c. He further relies upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of BSNL V. Union of India reported in 2006 (3) SCC 1 wherein the Supreme Court propounded a test for the constitution of a transaction as the transfer of right to use the goods.

d. He further submits that service tax at a rate of 15% has already been paid by the respondent on the amount of royalty received by them from the licensees under the franchise agreement. In view of this fact, no intention to evade tax on the part of the respondent can be inferred.

e. Finally, he argues that Service Tax and VAT are mutually exclusive levies and a single consideration cannot be subjected to both the levies. To buttress his argument, he relies upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Imagic Creative Pvt. Ltd. v. Commissioner of Commercial Taxes reported in (2008) 2 SCC 614.

ANALYSIS

6. I have heard the learned counsels appearing for the parties and perused the materials on record.

7. The pivotal issue revolves around whether the franchise of a trademark constitutes a transfer of the right to use goods, thereby making it subject to VAT.

8. Section 65(47) of the Finance Act, 1994 which is relevant to the instant issue is extracted herein:

"65(47) "franchise" means an agreement by which- (i)Franchisee is granted representational right to sell or manufacture goods or to provide service or undertake any process identified with franchisor, whether or not a trade mark, service mark, trade name or logo or any such symbol, as the case may be, is involved;

(ii) The franchisor provides concepts of business operation to franchisee, including know how, method of operation, managerial expertise, marketing technique or training and standards of quality control except passing on the ownership of all know how to franchisee;

(iii) The franchisee is required to pay to the franchisor, directly or indirectly, a fee; and

(iv) The franchisee is under an obligation not to engage in selling or providing similar goods or services or process, identified with any other person;"

9. Reliance has been placed by the revisionist upon the judgement of the Bombay High Court in Commissioner of Sales Tax v. Duke & Sons Pvt. Ltd. (supra) wherein the Bombay High Court held that for transfer of the right to use trademark, it is not necessary to hand over the trademark to the transferee or give control or possession of trademark to him. The Bombay High Court further stated that it can be done merely by authorizing the transferee to use the same in the manner required by the law as has been done in the present case. The right to use trademark can be transferred simultaneously to any number of persons. Relevant paragraph is extracted below:

7. "Trade mark" has been defined in Section 2(1)(v) of the Trade and Merchandise Marks Act, 1958 to mean a mark used in relation to goods for the purpose of indicating a connection in the course of trade between the goods and some person having the right, either as a proprietor or as registered user, to use the mark whether with or without any indication of the identity of that person. There is a distinction between transfer of right to use a trade mark and assignment of a trade mark. "Assignment" of trade mark is taken to be a sale or transfer of the trade mark by the owner or proprietor thereof to a third party inter vivos. By assignment, the original owner or proprietor of trade mark is divested of his right, title or interest therein. He is not so divested by transfer of right to use the same. Licence to use a trade mark is thus quite distinct and different from assignment. It is not accompanied by transfer of any right or title in the trade mark. The transfer of right to use a trade mark falls under the purview of the 1985 Act and not the assignment thereof. The manner of transfer of the right to use the goods to the transferee would depend upon the nature of the goods. For transfer of right to use a trade mark, permission in writing as required by law may be enough. In case of tangible property, handing over of the property to the transferee may be essential for the use thereof. All that will depend upon the nature of the goods. Take for instance, transfer of right to use machinery. The right to use the machinery cannot be transferred by transferor to the transferee without transfer of control over it. The case before the Andhra Pradesh High Court in Rashtriya Ispat Nigam Ltd. v. Commercial Tax Officer was a case of transfer of right to use machinery. It was in that context, the above decision came to be rendered. But the position in case of trade mark is different. For transferring the right to use the trade mark, it is not necessary to hand over the trade mark to the transferee or give control or possession of trade mark to him. It can be done merely by authorising the transferee to use the same in the manner required by the law as has been done in the present case. The right to use the trade mark can be transferred simultaneously to any number of persons. The decision of the Andhra Pradesh High Court in Rashtriya Ispat Nigam Ltd. v. Commercial Tax Officer thus has no application to the transfer of right to use a trade mark."

10. Further, a strong reliance has also been placed by counsel for the revisionist on judgment of Madras High Court in S. P. S. Jayam and Co. v. Registrar, Tamil Nadu Taxation Special Tribunal (supra). Relevant paragraphs are extracted herein:

"8. Coming to the facts of the present case, the petitioner/ assessee permitted M/s. Muthu Agencies to use their trademark in the course of trade at the rates specified therein for various items during a particular period. Of course, it retained the liberty to make use of the trademark in the event of the licensor starting to manufacture the products. Equally, it retained the liberty to grant licence to any other individual person or company to use the trademarks. Trademark is the property right and it exclusively belongs to the party who has registered it. Such a right is an intangible or incorporeal goods, which can be merchandised by the registered owners. As pointed out by the Supreme Court, the word "goods" is defined in very wide terms so as to bring in both tangible and intangible objects. General Clauses Act would explain movable property as property of every description except immovable property. Trademark right is intangible goods, which can be subject-matter of transfer. As already pointed out, M/s. Muthu Agencies was granted permission to use the trademark without any restriction whatsoever for a particular period. Consequently, it can only be taken as transfer of a right to use and not a mere right to enjoy. Simply because the assessee retained the right for himself to use the trademark and reserved the right to grant permission to others to use the trademark, it would not take away the character of the transaction as one of transfer of a right to use. That being so, this Court has to only hold that the order of the Tamil Nadu Taxation Special Tribunal, Chennai, confirming the order of the Joint Commissioner-III (SMR), Chepauk, is well in order."

11. In Duke & Sons (supra), the Court's interpretation highlighted that the right to use a trademark could be granted without transferring the physical control or possession of the trademark itself. This perspective was further validated in S.P.S. Jayam (supra), wherein the Madras High Court elaborated on the nature of trademarks as intangible goods, capable of being transferred without relinquishing ownership. The Madras High Court's reasoning underscored that such transfers should be viewed as the transfer of the right to use, rather than a mere license for enjoyment. However, these judgments must be re-evaluated in the context of Finance Act, 1994, which introduced specific provisions for the taxation of franchises. The legislative intent behind this Act was to bring clarity and uniformity to the taxation of service-based transactions, which had become increasingly prevalent with the rise of franchising as a business model. Finance Act, 1994 delineated the boundaries of what constitutes a taxable service in the realm of franchising, thereby superseding earlier judicial interpretations that did not account for this legislative framework.

12. The judgments in Duke & Sons (supra) and S.P.S. Jayam (supra) were rendered in a legal landscape where the specific nuances of franchising agreements were not explicitly covered by the prevailing tax laws of the assessment periods that the High Courts in those cases were dealing with. The assessment year under challenge in S.P.S. Jayam (supra) was 1987-88. The order impugned in Duke & Sons (supra) dated back to 1989.

13. With the introduction of the Finance Act, 1994, the legal foundation has shifted. The introduction of the said law significantly altered the landscape of how such transactions are to be treated under tax law. The statutory provisions of the Finance Act, 1994 override judicial interpretations that did not consider franchising under a unified tax framework. This means that earlier judgments, such as those in Duke & Sons (supra) and S.P.S. Jayam (supra) must now be read in light of the new legislative context. As such, the precedential value of these decisions is diminished.

14. By Finance Act, 1994, the distinction between the transfer of right to use a trademark and its assignment was further nuanced. Licensing agreements, where the franchisee is granted limited rights to use a trademark or business concept, are clearly delineated from outright assignments or sales of trademarks. This distinction is crucial for tax purposes, as it determines the nature and extent of tax liability for the parties involved.

15. In light of the aforesaid, it is pertinent to look at judicial decisions on taxation of franchisees, or licensing agreements, which were rendered after the introduction of the Finance Act, 1994.

16. The Delhi High Court in the case of Mc Donalds India Pvt. Ltd. V. Commissioner of Trade Tax reported in 2017 (5) GSTL 120 espoused that commercial transactions primarily revolve around tangible items, with trademarks serving as valuable assets that contribute to the overall value and demand of the products or services. The Court further stated that since an agreement of franchise of trademark grants only a non-exclusive right, it does not constitute a transfer of right to use the goods. Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

"38. Now, hypothetically, even if we are to agree that the McDonald's system as well as trade marks of the petitioners would fall within the definition of "goods", for it to be taxable within the DVAT and DSTRTUG Act, a transfer of the right to use goods needs to take place; occasioned from the franchise agreements read concurrently with the relevant law. Section 65(47) of the Finance Act 1994 reads as follows:

"(47) 'franchise' means an agreement by which the franchisee is granted representational right to sell or manufacture goods or to provide service or undertake any process identified with franchisor, whether or not a trade mark, service mark, trade name or logo or any such symbol, as the case may be, is involved. Thus, by definition, the franchise agreement grants only a representational right and not an exclusive right to sell/ manufacture goods. Further, the provisions of the franchise agreements are only to the effect of giving the franchisee the non-exclusive right to use, for instance, as was reiterated in clause 11(d) of the MLA (of McDonald's) as below :

"Franchise and joint venture partner shall acquire no right to use, or to license the use of, any name, mark or other intellectual property right granted or to be granted herein, except in connection with the operation of the restaurant."

42. Under trade mark law in India, trade mark use even for advertisement purposes is to be preceded by prior consent of the proprietor and any unauthorized use of the trade mark without such prior permission of the proprietor could lead to an infringement of the trade mark (in India, under section 29 of the Trade Marks Act, 1999). The function of the MLA and other franchise agreements in the case of petitioners and the trade mark licensing agreement (in the case of GSK) was (a) to provide for a strictly limited usage of the marks, i.e., only for advertisement and promotion of the services in the restaurant; (b) to provide for restrictions on usage of such marks, i.e., not for any commercial purposes such as use on merchandise, etc.

43. The grant of a right, in the form of license to use the mark is primarily to be utilized in the licensee's product. In usual cases of licensing, the trade mark owner may not wish to use mark its products or services in an area or region ; it instead would license the mark, to be used by the licensee's products, subject to limitations. The licensee has no right to initiate legal proceedings, in the event of infringement, (i.e., statutory right given to an owner or someone having proprietary rights over the mark, to seek injunction and damages). This is clear from section 28 of the Trade marks Act :

"28. Rights conferred by registration.—(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the registration of a trade mark shall, if valid, give to the registered proprietor of the trade mark the exclusive right to the use of the trade mark in relation to the goods or service in respect of which the trade mark is registered and to obtain relief in respect of infringement of the trade mark in the manner provided by this Act.

(2) The exclusive right to the use of a trade mark given under sub-section (1) shall be subject to any conditions and limitations to which the registration is subject."

The property in the mark always vests with the owner. Furthermore, importantly the use of the mark by the licensee inures to the owner, as the latter's continuous use, in terms of section 48 of the Trade marks Act, which is as follows :

48. Registered users.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 49, a person other than the registered proprietor of a trade mark may be registered as a registered user thereof in respect of any or all of the goods or services in respect of which the trade mark is registered.

(2) The permitted use of trade mark shall be deemed to be used by the proprietor thereof, and shall be deemed not to be used by a person other than the proprietor, for the purpose of section 47 or for any other purpose for which such use in material under this Act or any other law."

44. Therefore, when a trade vendor, distributor, establishment or anyone else permitted to sell articles or offer services the trade marks (or brand) which belongs to another, it is incorrect to state that the brand or mark, associated with the product, constitutes the sale rather than from sale of the underlying goods or services that are the subject of the trade mark (dishes in a restaurant) themselves. It would be incorrect, therefore, to conclude what is involved is not the sale of the product, but the intangible property or mark connected with the reputation of the mark, though that reputation guarantees a high demand for the product, from which the seller benefits. Likewise, in the case of distribution, a distribution agent is under an agreement with the manufacturer to sell its goods ; it also possesses the right to advertise the goods and brands of the manufacturer. This implies a licence of the manufacturer's trade mark. In such an event, the distributor need not pay for the right to use the intellectual property under which the goods are sold; he merely pays for obtaining the commercial right to sell the goods he buys from the manufacturer for enabling onward sale.

47. For a transfer of the right to use goods to be effective, such transfer of right should be one that the transferee can exercise in exclusion of others; which is not the case in the present appeals and petitions, as the franchise agreement only grants a non-exclusive right, retaining the franchisor's right to transfer the composite bunch of services to other parties, apart from it retaining ownership to the same. The ownership in the trade mark, logo, service marks, and brand name is solely vested in appellant and the petitioners and has not been transferred; as is clearly manifested in the various clauses of the franchise agreements. The appellant and the petitioners grant a non-exclusive licence to the franchisees, which can be revoked upon non-compliance of the terms and conditions as stipulated in their franchise arrangement. Clearly, this does not amount to a transfer of the right to use goods."

17. Reference at this juncture can also be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in BSNL (supra) wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the test for a transaction to be constituted as the one for the transfer of right to use the goods:

"97. To constitute a transaction for the transfer of the right to use the goods, the transaction must have the following attributes:

(a) there must be goods available for delivery;

(b) there must be a consensus ad idem as to the identity of the goods;

(c) the transferee should have a legal right to use the goods—consequently all legal consequences of such use including any permissions or licences required therefor should be available to the transferee;

(d) for the period during which the transferee has such legal right, it has to be the exclusion to the transferor—this is the necessary concomitant of the plain language of the statute viz. a "transfer of the right to use" and not merely a licence to use the goods;

(e) having transferred the right to use the goods during the period for which it is to be transferred, the owner cannot again transfer the same rights to others."

18. The Kerala High Court in the case of Malabar Gold Private Limited v. Commercial Tax Officer, Kozhikode and Others reported in (2013) 63 VST 497 wherein the trade mark of the petitioner was transferred to the franchisees for their use and the consideration received was the royalty paid to the petitioner, held that, such a transaction cannot be treated as a "deemed sale". Relevant paragraphs are extracted below:

"61. The issue therefore can be considered in the light of the dictum laid down in Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd.'s case [2006] 3 VST 95 (SC); [2006] 145STC 91

(SC); [2006]282 ITR 273 (SC); (2006) 6 RC 276; (2006) 3 SCC 1. Herein, the term "franchise is included in section 65(105)(zze) of the Finance Act. The same is a taxable service and the taxable event is the service rendered by the company. Thus, any service provided or to be provided to a franchisee will come within the purview of the said provision. The meaning of the terms franchise and franchisor under section 65(47) and (48) are also important. Going by the definition of franchise, it is an agreement by which the franchisee is granted representational right to sell or manufacture goods or to provide service or undertake any process identified with franchisor, whether or not a trade mark, service mark, trade name or logo or any such symbol, as the case may be, is involved. The terms of the agreement herein will show that Clause II of the Preamble has specifically given under items (i) to (v) the activities to be carried out by the franchisee which are as follows :

"(i) Retailing of gold ornaments.

(ii) Retailing of diamond and other precious stone ornaments.

(iii) Retailing of premium watches.

(iv) Retailing of platinum and other premium fashion accessories.

(v) Any other items introduced by MALABAR GOLD in future."

62. Clause 2 under the heading "products" will show that the franchisee cannot stock, exhibit or sell any products in the authorised showroom during the period of the agreement except the products authorised by Malabar Gold, which may include products manufactured or sourced by Malabar Gold. Therefore, the same will definitely satisfy the meaning of "franchise" as contained in section 65(47) of the Finance Act, 1994. The learned Special Government Pleader for Taxes referred to the agreement herein and said that no service is referred to in the clauses therein. We do not agree, in the light of clauses 3, 4 and 5 of the model agreement as already noticed. Since what is termed as "taxable service" is any service to be provided to a franchisee by a franchisor in relation to a franchise, the terms of the agreement will have to be understood in that context.

63. In the light of the principles stated in para 98 of the judgment in Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd.s case [2006] 3 VST 95 (SC); [2006] 145 STC 91 (SC); [2006] 282 ITR 273(SC); (2006) 6 RC 276; (2006) 3 SCC 1, the provisions of the agreement, especially clauses (3) and (5) will show that the franchisor retains the right, effective control and possession and it is not a case of transfer of possession to the exclusion of the transferor. We notice that under clause(12) the franchisee has no right to sub-let or sub-lease or in any way sell, transfer, discharge or distribute or delegate or assign the rights under the agreement in favour of any third party, which is also significant. On termination of the agreement also, going by clause 25.3, the franchisee shall forfeit all rights and privileges conferred on them by the agreement and the franchisee will not be entitled to use the trade name or materials of "Malabar Gold". Merely because, going by clause 18, the franchisee is not an agent, it will not get any other exclusive right.

67. Therefore, we are unable to agree with the view taken by the learned single judge. The view taken in para 14 of the judgment is that the transaction in question is a deemed sale as defined under section 2(x)(iii) of the KVAT Act. The above view was taken by concluding that the trade mark of the appellant is transferred to the franchisees for their use and the consideration received is the royalty paid to the appellant. In para 17, the principles stated in Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd.s case

[2006] 3 VST 95 (SC); [2006]145 STC 91 (SC); [2006] 282 ITR 273 (SC); (2006) 6 RC276; (2006) 3 SCC 1 were distinguished on the facts of the said case and it was held that in the said case the court was not dealing with a case involving transfer of intellectual property rights such as trade mark. It was held that there is total transfer of trade mark on payment of royalty which alone will attract the provisions of the KVAT Act. With great respect, we are unable to agree with the same.

68. Accordingly, we allow the appeals reversing the judgment of the learned single judge and hold that the franchise agreement will not attract the provisions of the KVAT Act. No costs."*

19. Commercial transactions primarily revolve around tangible items, with trademarks serving as valuable assets that contribute to the overall value and demand of products or services. However, as highlighted by the Delhi High Court in McDonald's (supra), since, a franchise agreement grants only a non-exclusive right, it does not constitute a transfer of the right to use goods. As defined by the Finance Act, 1994 "franchise agreements" grant representational rights, not exclusive rights to sell or manufacture goods. The judgment of Kerala High Court in Malabar Gold (supra) also bears relevance. The Kerala High Court noted that the terms of agreement made it clear that the franchisor retained effective control and possession, preventing a transfer of possession to the franchisee. The Division Bench of Kerala High Court disagreed with the earlier view that the transaction constituted a deemed sale and held that the franchise agreement did not attract provisions of the Kerala Value Added Tax Act, as it involved non-exclusive rights and control retained by the franchiser.

20. Franchise agreements typically grant non-exclusive rights to use trademarks and business systems. Such agreements do not constitute a transfer of the right to use goods in a manner that excludes others, which is a critical criterion for considering a transaction as a deemed sale. The non-exclusive nature of these rights ensures that the franchisor retains control and can license the same rights to multiple franchisees, reinforcing the licensing framework rather than a full transfer.

21. When trademarks are licensed, the licensee's use of the mark is considered the owner's use, maintaining the continuity of the trademarks' reputation and legal protections. This distinction between ownership and licensed use is crucial for determining the scope of rights and the corresponding tax liabilities. For instance, in typical licensing arrangements, the licensee does not acquire the right to initiate infringement proceedings, which remains with the trademark owner. This legal nuance affects the control dynamics and the nature of the transaction, influencing whether the arrangement is taxed as a service (licensing) or as a transfer of goods (sale). The retention of ownership and control by the franchisor or licensor ensures that the transaction remains within the purview of service tax rather than sales tax.

22. The differentiation between licensing and transfer also extends to the method and scope of use. In licensing, the licensor often imposes stringent conditions on the use of the trademark to ensure that the brand's reputation and quality are maintained. These conditions might include guidelines on marketing, product quality, and even operational standards. Failure to comply with these conditions can result in the revocation of the license. This level of control is indicative of a licensing arrangement rather than a transfer, where the new owner would have the autonomy to use the trademark without such restrictions. In contrast, a transfer or assignment of a trademark involves transferring all rights associated with the trademark to the transferee. This includes the right to use, license, and enforce the trademark. Once transferred, the original owner relinquishes all control and ownership rights over the trademark. This kind of transaction is more straightforward in terms of taxation as it involves a clear transfer of an asset, typically subject to sales tax or capital gains tax depending on the jurisdiction and the specifics of the transaction.

23. Enter the protagonists, the franchisors, and franchisees, each adorned with their roles and responsibilities. The franchisor, akin to the playwright, holds the script of the brand, trademarks, and business model, while the franchisee, like the eager actor, steps onto the stage with dreams of entrepreneurial success. Together, they form a dynamic duo, ready to bring their shared vision to life. As the plot thickens, the script of franchise agreements unfolds, revealing the terms and conditions that will govern the partnership between franchisors and franchisees. Like the lines of a well-crafted drama, these agreements detail the rights and obligations of each party, setting the stage for a performance of mutual benefit and cooperation. Tax authorities, like astute critics, scrutinize each scene, seeking to unravel the true nature of franchise agreements. Yet, amidst the confusion, one question looms large: can franchise agreements be taxed as sales of goods?

24. Franchise agreements have become a ubiquitous feature of modern commerce, facilitating the expansion of businesses across diverse industries and geographies. However, the tax treatment of franchise agreements poses intricate challenges, with implications for both franchisors and franchisees. Transfer of the right to use a trademark does not necessitate the physical handover or control of the trademark. Instead, it can be affected by authorizing the transferee to use the trademark in accordance with the law. This underscores the intangible nature of trademark rights and their transferability without the need for physical possession. Franchise agreements primarily grant a representational right rather than an exclusive right to sell or manufacture goods, thereby categorizing such transactions as services rather than sales of goods. Franchise agreements are fundamentally licensing agreements rather than sales of goods. Licensing involves granting permission to use intellectual property rights, whereas sales of goods involve the transfer of ownership of tangible items. Understanding this distinction is crucial for determining the appropriate tax treatment for franchise agreements.

25. At first glance, franchise agreements may appear analogous to sales of goods, as they involve the transfer of rights and benefits from one party to another in exchange for monetary consideration. However, a deeper examination reveals crucial distinctions that warrant disparate tax treatment. Unlike conventional sales transactions, which involve the transfer of tangible property, franchise agreements primarily entail the licensing of intangible assets, such as trademarks, trade secrets, and proprietary know-how. One of the central aspects of franchise agreements is the grant of intellectual property rights from the franchisor to the franchisee. These rights include trademarks, trade names, logos, and proprietary business methods. Unlike tangible goods, which can be bought and sold outright, intellectual property rights are licensed for use under specific terms and conditions. Another key factor that distinguishes franchise agreements from sales transactions is their non-exclusive nature. Franchise agreements typically grant franchisees the right to operate a business using the franchisor's brand and system within a defined territory. However, this right is not exclusive, as the franchisor may grant similar rights to other franchisees within the same or overlapping territories. Franchise agreements also entail an ongoing relationship between the franchisor and franchisee, characterized by training, support, and ongoing assistance. Unlike a one-time sale of goods, which concludes once the transaction is complete, franchise agreements involve continuous interaction and collaboration between the parties. The financial aspects of franchise agreements further underscore their distinction from sales transactions. Franchise fees and royalties are payments made by the franchisee to the franchisor in exchange for the right to use the franchisor's brand and system. These payments are not for the purchase of goods but rather for the ongoing support and benefits provided by the franchiser.

26. In conclusion, the taxation of franchise agreements and sales of goods represents a complex and multifaceted issue that defies easy categorization. While both involve commercial transactions, they embody distinct economic realities and legal considerations that necessitate differential tax treatment. By recognizing the unique characteristics of franchise agreements, including the prevalence of intangible assets and the importance of intellectual property, tax authorities can develop nuanced tax policies that promote fairness, efficiency, and compliance. Ultimately, a balanced approach that takes into account the economic substance of franchise transactions and the need to prevent tax arbitrage and avoidance will ensure the integrity and effectiveness of the tax system.

27. In light of the above, I am of the view that the franchise agreement in present case grants a non-exclusive license rather than a transfer of the right to use goods. As such, the transaction does not attract Value Added Tax under the UPVAT Act.

28. The Supreme Court in the case of Godfrey Phillips India Limited v. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in (2005) 2 SCC 515 held that the Constitution of India does not permit overlapping of taxes. Once an activity is taxable as a service, it cannot be taxed as sale/deemed sale of goods. Relevant paragraphs of the are extracted below:

"44. The Indian Constitution is unique in that it contains an exhaustive enumeration and division of legislative powers of taxation between the Centre and the States. This mutual exclusivity is reflected in Article 246(1) and has been noted in H.M. Seervai's Constitutional Law of India, 4th Edn., Vol. 1 at p. 166 in para 1A.25 where, after commenting on the problems created by the overlapping powers of taxation provided for in other countries with federal structures such as the United States, Canada and Australia, the learned author opined:

"The lists contained in Schedule VII to the Government of India Act, 1935, provided for distinct and separate fields of taxation, and it is not without significance that the concurrent legislative list contains no entry relating to taxation but provides only for 'fees' in respect of matters contained in the list but not including fees taken in any court. List I and List II of Schedule VII thus avoid overlapping powers of taxation and proceed on the basis of allocating adequate sources of taxation for the federation and the provinces, with the result that few problems of conflicting or competing taxing powers have arisen under the Government of India Act, 1935. This scheme of the legislative lists as regards taxation has been taken over by the Constitution of India with like beneficial results."

46. Therefore, taxing entries must be construed with clarity and precision so as to maintain such exclusivity, and a construction of a taxation entry which may lead to overlapping must be eschewed. If the taxing power is within a particular legislative field, it would follow that other fields in the legislative lists must be construed to exclude this field so that there is no possibility of legislative trespass."

29. It is clear from the factual matrix of the instant case that the respondent herein had received royalty amount from various dealers under the franchise agreement and service tax has been duly paid by it on the same. If these payments have been subjected to service tax, they cannot be recharacterized as the sale of goods to levy VAT or sales tax. The prevention of double taxation is a fundamental principle of tax law. Double taxation occurs when the same income or transaction is taxed more than once by different tax authorities or under different tax regimes. An activity once taxed as a service cannot be taxed again as a sale of goods. This principle is crucial for ensuring fairness in the tax system and avoiding undue tax burdens on taxpayers.

30. I would like to put on record my gratitude for the assistance rendered by Sri Bipin Kumar Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the revisionist and Sri Shubham Agarwal, learned counsel appearing for the respondent. Furthermore, I would also like to put on record my appreciation for painstaking research and assistance in drafting this judgment by my Research Associate Mr. Aman Deep Sharma and Law Intern Mr. Jaspreet Singh.

31. In light of the aforesaid, I found no reason to interfere with the view taken by the Commercial Tax Tribunal, and accordingly, the instant revision application is dismissed.

32. There shall be no order as to the costs.

3. I have heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties and perused the material on record.

4. In the instant writ petition, the primary issue that lies for the consideration of this Court is that "Whether the appeal filed by the Petitioner under Section 107 of the UPGST Act was within the statutory time limit?"

5. I have reproduced the relevant sub sections of Section 107 of the UPGST Act herein for ease of reference:

107. Appeals to Appellate Authority. — (1) Any person aggrieved by any decision or order passed under this Act or the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 by an adjudicating authority may appeal to such Appellate Authority as may be prescribed within three months from the date on which the said decision or order is communicated to such person.*

***

(4) The Appellate Authority may, if he is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from presenting the appeal within the aforesaid period of three months or six months, as the case may be, allow it to be presented within a further period of one month."

6. Since the clock of limitation starts running "from the date on which the said order or decision is communicated to such person" it would be prudent to refer to Section 9 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 (hereinafter referred to as the 'GC Act') which provides as follows:

"9. Commencement and termination of time. — (1) In any [Central Act] or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act, it shall be sufficient, for the purpose of excluding the first in a series of days or any other period of time, to use the word "from", and, for the purpose of including the last in a series of days or any other period of time, to use the word "to".

(2) This section applies also to all [Central Acts] made after the third day of January, 1868, and to all Regulations made on or after the fourteenth day of January, 1887."

7. The phrase "from the date on which the said decision or order is communicated to such person" is crucial as it marks the starting point of the limitation period for filling an appeal. The legislative intent behind this provision is to ensure that the aggrieved party has a clear and fair understanding of the decision or order before the clock starts ticking for the appeal period.

8. Section 9 of the GC Act provides guidance on how to compute periods of time specified in statutes. Specifically, it indicates that when calculating a time period that starts with the word "from", the day of the event from which the period begins is excluded, and when the period ends with word "to", the last day of the period is included. According to Section 9 of the GC Act, when calculating the limitation period "from" the date of communication of the order, the day on which the order is communicated is excluded. This ensures that the appellant has a full three months to prepare and file the appeal. For example, if an order is communicated to a taxpayer on January 1, the period of three months will start from January 2.

9. It is also crucial to understand the meaning of the individual terms "within" and "month" as used in legal parlance and specifically within the framework of the UPGST Act.

10. The term "within" in legal terminology typically denotes the inclusion of the entire period specified, up until the last possible moment of the specified time frame. When a statue prescribes an action to be taken "within" a certain period, it generally means that the action can be performed any time from the beginning of the period until the end of the last day of the period. For instance, if a law states that an appeal must be filed "within three months", it implies that the appeal can be filed at any point during the three-month period, right up until the end of the last day of the three-month period. This interpretation ensures that the party obligated to take action has the full benefit of the entire period specified by the statute. In the context of Section 107 of the UPGST Act, "within three months" means that the appeal can be filed anytime from the date following the communication of the order until the end of the third month, ensuring that the appellant has the maximum possible time to prepare and file their appeal.

11. The term "month" is a fundamental unit of time in statutory interpretation, particularly in the context of legal deadlines and limitation periods. The term "month" can be interpreted in various ways, but in modern statutory contexts, it primarily refers to a calendar month. A calendar month is defined as the period from a given date in one month to the corresponding date in the following month. For example, a period of one calendar month from January 15 would end on February 14 and the next month in this context would begin from February 15. With the standardization of the Gregorian calendar, a month is commonly understood to mean a calendar month. This uniformity aids in consistent statutory interpretation and application, ensuring that legal deadlines are clear and predictable.

12. Thus, while calculating the three-month period for filing an appeal, the starting point is the day following the date of communication of the order. For example, if an order is communicated on January 1, the three-month period begins on January 2 and ends on April 1:

Communication Date	January 1, 2024
Limitation Begins From	January 2, 2024
Calculation of Three Months	January 2, 2024 to February 1, 2024 February 2, 2024 to March 1, 2024 March 2, 2024 to April 1, 2024
Limitation Ends On	April 1, 2024

13. If the appellant is unable to file the appeal within the initial three-month period, they can seek an extension under Section 107(4) of the UPGST Act. This extension allows the appellant an additional period of one month beyond the initial three months to file the appeal. To calculate the extension period under Section 107(4) of the UPGST Act, the following steps are involved:

1. Determine Initial Period End Date: Identify the last date of the initial three-month period.

2. Add One Month: Add one calendar month to the initial period end date to determine the extended deadline for filing the appeal.

Taking the earlier example, in which, the limitation period ended on April 1, 2024, the extended period for filling an appeal would end on May 1, 2024. It is important to point out here that the extended period would start running from the next day after the expiry of the originally prescribed limitation period.

14. In this regard, reference can be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Himachal Pradesh and Another v. Himachal Techno Engineers and Another. reported in (2010) 12 SCC 210. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case explained the calculation of the period of a "month" as follows:

"17. In Dodds v. Walker [(1981) 1 WLR 1027 : (1981) 2 All ER 609 (HL)] the House of Lords held that in calculating the period of a month or a specified number of months that had elapsed after the occurrence of a specified event, such as the giving of a notice, the general rule is that the period ends on the corresponding date in the appropriate subsequent month irrespective of whether some months are longer than others. To the same effect is the decision of this Court in Bibi Salma Khatoon v. State of Bihar [(2001) 7 SCC 197]

18. Therefore when the period prescribed is three months (as contrasted from 90 days) from a specified date, the said period would expire in the third month on* the date corresponding to the date upon which the period starts. As a result, depending upon the months, it may mean 90 days or 91 days or 92 days or 89 days.

Re: Question (iii)

19. As the award was received by the Executive Engineer on 12-11-2007, for the purpose of calculating the three months period, the said date shall have to be excluded having regard to Section 12(1) of the Limitation Act, 1963 and Section 9 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. Consequently, the three months should be calculated from 13-11-2007 and would expire on 12-2-2008. Thirty days from 12-2-2008 under the proviso should be calculated from 13-2-2008 and, having regard to the number of days in February, would expire on 13-3-2008. Therefore the petition filed on 11-3-2008 was well in time and was not barred by limitation."

15. To qualify for an extension under Section 107(4) of the UPGST Act, the appellant must demonstrate sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within the initial three-month period. Sufficient cause refers to circumstances beyond the control of the appellant that prevented them from filling the appeal within the stipulated time frame. The appellate authority may consider following factors when assessing whether sufficient cause has been demonstrated:

Nature of Circumstances: The severity and impact of the circumstances preventing the appellant from filling the appeal.

Evidence Presented: The quality and credibility of the evidence presented by the appellant to support their claim of sufficient cause.

Timeliness of Request: Whether the appellant promptly sought an extension after encountering the circumstances preventing them from filing the appeal within the initial period.

16. Limitation provisions in the UPGST Act set clear timelines for various actions, such as filing returns, making payments, or initiating appeal. By imposing time limits on actions, limitation provisions discourage delay and procrastination. Taxpayers are incentivized to fulfil their obligations promptly, which contributes to the smooth functioning of the tax administration system. Limitation provisions ensure equal treatment of taxpayers by establishing uniform deadlines for compliance. This prevents unfair advantages for non-compliant taxpayers and promotes a level playing field in the taxation process.

17. Counsel appearing on behalf of the Petitioner submitted that the appeal filed under Section 107 of the UPGST Act by the Petitioner was rejected on the ground that the same had been filed one day after the expiry of limitation and by treating 4 months as 120 days. She humbly submits that the authorities below had erred in not reading the provision correctly, and in reality, the appeal of the petitioner had been filed within time on November 10, 2022.

18. It is evident that that the petitioner received the order in original on July 12, 2022 and filed the appeal on November 10, 2022. In light of the same, three months period would have begun on July 13, 2022 and expired on October 12, 2022 and the extended period would have expired on November 12, 2022. In light of the same, it appears that the calculation done by the authorities below is incorrect which warrants the exercise of writ jurisdiction.

19. In the realm of administrative law, the writ jurisdiction of superior courts serves as a powerful tool for ensuring justice, fairness, and adherence to the rule of law. One of the key grounds for invoking writ jurisdiction is the presence of factual errors or errors apparent on the face of the record. This allows aggrieved parties to seek judicial intervention when administrative authorities have committed errors that are evident from the records of the case. In the context of taxation and administrative adjudication, the exercise of writ jurisdiction becomes particularly relevant when there are discrepancies in the calculation of statutory timelines, as exemplified in the instant case. The presence of errors apparent on record provides a valid ground for the exercise of writ jurisdiction by the courts. When administrative authorities commit mistakes that are evident from the records of the case, aggrieved parties have the right to seek judicial intervention to rectify such errors and ensure justice.

20. Accordingly, let there be a writ of certiorari issued against the order dated November 24, 2022 passed by the first appellate authority. The said order is quashed and set aside. This Court directs the first appellate authority to allow the delay in filing the appeal and thereafter hear the appeal on merits and decide the same expeditiously, preferably within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before it.

21. With the aforesaid directions, this writ application is disposed of. There shall be no order as to the costs.

(Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

EPILOGUE

22. Chanakya, also known as Kautilya or Vishnugupta, was a renowned ancient Indian philosopher, economist, and statesman who authored the Arthashastra, a treatise on statecraft, economics, and governance. In the Arthashastra, Chanakya emphasized the importance of dharma, or righteous conduct, in governance and taxation. According to Chanakya, taxation should be guided by dharma, ensuring that it is fair, equitable, and beneficial to the welfare of the State and its subjects. In New India, the principles espoused in Chanakya's Arthashastra remain relevant for promoting ethical governance and sustainable development. Taxation is not merely a fiscal tool but a means of advancing social justice, economic prosperity, and environmental sustainability. Therefore, compliance with tax obligations is crucial for revenue generation, which, in turn, funds essential public services and infrastructure development.

23. In the evolving landscape of taxation in New India, fostering a culture of compliance has emerged as a cornerstone for achieving economic growth, stability, and social development. Embracing compliance culture entails adhering to tax laws, regulations, and deadlines in a proactive and transparent manner. Within this framework, the role of limitation provisions cannot be understated. These provisions set clear boundaries and timelines for taxpayers and tax authorities, ensuring accountability, fairness, and efficiency in the tax system.

24. A robust compliance culture stimulates economic development by fostering an environment of trust, certainty, and predictability. When taxpayers comply with tax laws and regulations, it enhances investor confidence, attracts foreign investments, and promotes entrepreneurship and innovation. Compliance also ensures a level playing field for businesses, and prevents unfair advantages to non-complying entities and encourages healthy competition. Limitation provisions serve as guardrails within the tax framework, preventing arbitrary or prolonged disputes that could disrupt economic activities. By imposing time limits on legal actions, limitation provisions facilitate the timely resolution of tax matters, reducing uncertainty and promoting business continuity. Strict adherence to limitation periods ensures that tax disputes do not linger indefinitely, providing clarity and stability for taxpayers and investors alike.

(B) Word and Phrases - Sub-rule (2) of Subsidiary Rule 146-A - 'ordinarily' - itself is indicative that in given circumstances, may be extraordinary circumstances, such leave can be granted to a government servant who has put in less than five years of service - Present facts constitute extraordinary circumstances. (Para - 24,32)

Appellant/Petitioner took an entrance exam for a PG course - applied for Medical Officer post before knowing PG course result - selected as a Medical Officer - with a 2-year probation - Joined PG course - Completed half of PG course - Joined as Medical Officer - Applied for 12 months study leave - to complete remaining half of PG course (16-18 months) - Leave application was rejected - citing no provision for study leave for a probationer with less than 4 months of service - Rejection referenced Rules 81-B(4), 84, 146(2), 157-A(4), and Financial Handbook Vol. 2 Part-II - Appellant challenged rejection by filing writ petition - dismissed by Single Judge - rejection was unfair and discriminatory -hence appeal. (Para -7,27,28)

HELD: - Appellant's appointment as Medical Officer valid. Eligibility criteria and selection process were properly followed, and appellant was eligible for appointment despite participating in PG course examination. Both groups consist of doctors (P.M.H.S. and Ayurvedic Services), and there should be no discrimination. State can't have different standards for similar situations. Discrimination unacceptable. Not only was study leave permissible, but it was also a fitting case for granting study leave. (Para - 35,40)

List of Cases cited:

Krishna Kant Pandey Vs St. of Uttarakhand & ors., (2015) 6 SERVLR 85

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J. & Hon'ble Om Prakash Shukla, J.)

1. Rejoinder affidavit filed today, copy of which has been served to learned

Standing Counsel much earlier, is taken on record.

2. Heard Shri Apoorva Tewari along with Shri Shivang Tiwari, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri V.P. Nag, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

3. This is a Special Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 challenging the judgment and order dated 19.03.2024 passed by the writ Court in Writ - A No. 2075 of 2024 by which writ petition of the appellant/petitioner has been dismissed.

4. In the aforesaid writ petition the following reliefs had been sought:-

"a) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari to quash orders dated 30.01.2024, passed by the Director, Ayurvedic services, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, as contained in Annexure no. 1 to the writ petition;

b) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to grant the petitioner a study leave of 12 (twelve) months in accordance with the provisions laid down in the Financial hand book;

c) Issue such other orders, which this Hon'ble Court may deem just and proper in favour of the petitioners; and

d) allow the petition with costs."

5. The facts of the case in brief are that on 18.09.2021 an examination was held for admission to P.G. Course, namely, M. D.- Ayurveda Kayachikitsa, in which, the appellant being eligible participated. It was a three years course. Before the result of the said examination could be declared an Advertisement was issued on 23.11.2021 for recruitment to the post of Medical Officer, Community Health Center (Ayurvedic and Unani) in the services under the State of Uttar Pradesh. Written test was held on 31.07.2022. The appellant/petitioner qualified the same. She was called for interview which was held on 15.12.2022. The result of the selection was declared on 11.01.2023 and the petitioner was one of the successful candidates. Accordingly, an appointment letter was issued to her on 01.09.2023. The appointment was on probation of two years as Medical Officer in the Pay-scale of Rs.15600-39100 Grade Pay- 5400/- (Matrix Level - 10). The appellant/petitioner joined her service on the said post on 30.09.2023.

6. In the interregnum, the result of the entrance test to the P.G. Course referred above was declared and appellant/petitioner was admitted to the said course. She took admission on 01.03.2022 i.e. immediately after issuance of Advertisement i.e. 23.11.2021 and possibly after having applied for recruitment to the post of Medical Officer, Ayurveda.

7. By the time, she joined on 30.09.2023 she completed almost one and half years study in the P.G. Course and 16 months study remained, as, informed by Shri Apoorva Tewari, learned counsel for the appellant. Accordingly, the appellant/petitioner applied for leave on 30.11.2023, however, the said application was rejected on 30.01.2024, meaning thereby, in view of this rejection the appellant/petitioner could not complete P.G. Course. Consequently, she challenged the said decision by filing the aforesaid writ petition out of which this special appeal arise. The rejection order is on record and the only reason assigned for rejecting the leave prayed for by the appellant/petitioner is that there is no such provision for grant of study leave to a probationer, especially as, the appellant/ petitioner had put in less than four months of service. Reference was made in this regard to Rule 81-B(4) and 84 of the Financial Handbook Vol. 2 Part-II and subsidiary Rule 146(2) as also Rules 81-B of Financial Handbook Vol. 2 Part- II to IV Chapter- 10 and Subsidiary Rule 157-A (4). The learned Single Judge has dismissed the writ petition with reference to the Rules referred in the order impugned before it as also Rule 84.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant in order to assail the judgment of the writ Court and the order impugned before it has invited our attention to subsidiary Rule 104(b) which relates to grant of leave to probationers as also to the Rules made under Rule 104(b) i.e. Rule 170. He has also invited out attention to subsidiary Rule 146-A and use of the word 'ordinarily' therein in the context of probationers. According to him, this itself indicative of the fact that it does not exclude or preclude the grant of leave including the Study Leave to probationers also of course in exceptional circumstances, such as, the one existing in the case at hand wherein the appellant/petitioner has completed half the course and midway had to join her services on the post of Medical Officer, Ayurveda in State of Uttar Pradesh. He also submits that higher qualification which she will acquire consequence to such study leave being granted will ultimately benefit the public at large, as, she would be better equipped and qualified to render of her services in Medical Department of the State. Moreover, he has referred to the discrimination being practiced by the State of U.P. in this regard by extending the joining time of freshly recruited Doctors of Provincial Medical Health Services (P.M.H.S.) vide order dated 14.03.2024. The submission in this regard is that the Doctors of the Ayurvedic Services and P.M.H.S. are similarly situated as far as Study Leave and an application for Fundamental and Subsidiary Rules contained in the Financial Handbook referred hereinabove are concerned. A person who does not even join the service he is being given extension up to three years to complete the P.G. Course that too without any bond in the case of those recruited to the P.M.H.S., but, in a case, such as, the appellant/petitioner who has in fairness after taking leave from the Institution where she was pursuing her P.G. Course and was half way through, has joined the services and thereafter, duly applied for grant of leave but the same has been rejected on the mistaken ground that there is no provision under which the probationer, especially one who had barely put in a few months of service, could be granted such leave. The submission is that this reasoning can not be justified in view of the Rule position and in view of the Government Order dated 14.03.2024 when the State extends the joining of persons who have not even joined the service to facilitate completion of their study. He also says that in the fact the appellant/petitioner is ready to give a personal bond that after completing her P.G. Course she will join her services and serve the public in the State of U.P. as per the terms and conditions of her service.

9. Learned Standing Counsel on the other hand has tried to persuade the Court that the Government Order dated 14.03.2024 has no application because they have been given the benefit before joining the services and therefore, such recruits to the P.M.H.S. are differently placed than the appellant/petitioner who has already joined but has put in less than four months of service. He has also invited our attention to subsidiary Rule 146-A to contend that such leave is not admissible. He has also referred Fundamental Rule 67 and 84 to contend that leave is not a matter of right and it is the discretion of the Authority to refuse or revoke leave of any description and this right is reserved to the Authority empowered to grant it. The U.P. Fundamental Rule 84, according to him, clearly mentions that the leave may by granted to Government servants, on such terms as the Governor may be rule or order prescribe, to enable them to study scientific, technical or similar problems or to undergo special courses of instructions. Such leave is not debited against the leave account. According to him, subsidiary Rule 164- A (2) does not permit grant of Study Leave to a Government Servant of less than five years service in a routine manner. He also refers to subsidiary Rule 170 in support of his contention. As regards subsidiary Rule 157 regarding extraordinary leave the submission is that it is a separate leave and was not applied by the appellant/petitioner. Extraordinary Leave can not be granted for study purposes. It is also his submission that the appellant/petitioner was aware of the fact that she had applied for being recruited to the post of Medical Officer, Ayurved on 23.11.2021 itself and therefore, she would have desisted from taking admission to the P.G. Course subsequently on 01.03.2022. Knowingly having done so, she has to face the consequence and she has to be treated in terms of the Rules applicable and not merely on the asking of the appellant/petitioner.

10. Referring to the Government Order dated 14.03.2024 and discrimination alleged by the appellant/petitioner we had passed an order on 03.04.2024 which reads as under:-

"1. Let the opposite parties file affidavit specifically addressing the issue as to how the claim of the petitioner for study leave could have been rejected by the Director, Ayurvedic Services vide order dated 30.01.2024 on the ground that there is no provision for grant of such leave to probationers whereas even as per the impugned judgment passed by the Writ Court, Subsidiary Rule 146A(2) provides study leave should not ordinarily be granted to Government Servant of less than five years' service or to Government Servants within three years of the date at which they have the option of retiring, meaning thereby in exceptional circumstances it can be granted. This can be the only understanding of said provision in view of the use of word 'ordinarily' and also as in the context of doctors of PMHS and doctors of Dental Service, Government Order dated 14.03.2024 has been passed, which permits extension of joining of such persons, who have been selected for appointment as Medical Officer in PMHS for a period of six months and even beyond the date till three years with the permission of department, whereas the case of the petitioner is better placed in the sense that she has very fairly joined the service after seeking leave from the Institution where she was pursuing the P.G. Course and has then applied for study leave. How double standards can be adopted in respect of apparently similarly placed candidates/Government Servants albeit appointed or proposed to be appointed in different services, but under the same employer, i.e. the State Government and in any event if the study leave is not permissible why on the same principle extraordinary leave cannot be granted, especially in view of S.R. 157A(IV) of the Subsidiary Rules made under the Financial Handbook.

2. List this case on 18.04.2024 as fresh.

3. In the meantime, the appellant may move an application before the Institution where she was pursuing her P.G. Course seeking indulgence for providing further leave, if it is otherwise permissible."

11. In response to which a counter affidavit has been filed by the State. We have gone through the counter affidavit and we do not find any rational and intelligible criteria mentioned therein for differentiating the Doctors who have been recruited for joining as Medical Officers in the Provincial Medical Health Services and such as the appellant/petitioner who, after such recruitment as Medical Officer Community Health Center (Ayurvedic and Unani) has already joined the service, for the purposes of grant of study leave.

12. The Government Order dated 14.03.2024 extends the joining of such recruits in the P.H.M.S. up to three years to enable such recruits to the Provincial Medical Health Service to complete their study/course or to acquire a specialization to which they have already been admitted, meaning thereby, even though, they have been recruited they have not joined the service and the services of such Doctors would not be available to the Public and the State Government for different periods up to three years depending upon the facts of each case because they will be pursuing their courses of study but the request of the appellant for study leave has been rejeted on the ground that Rules do not permit the same. The appellant is no way differently situated.

13. In the case of the appellant/petitioner, she in all fairness joined on 30.09.2023 and thereafter applied for study leave. No doubt, she is a probationer and she has put in less than four months of service, but, she is better placed than those recruits in P.M.H.S. who have not even joined the service. Moreover, the extension of joining of such recruits to P.M.H.S. has been done without asking for any bond from them, meaning thereby, it is quite a possibility that some of the them after completing their P.G. or whatever courses they are pursuing, may not join, but, no security has been taken in this regard by the State from them. This is apparently discriminatory so far as appellant/petitioner is concerned. Moreover, learned Standing Counsel, on being asked to show which rule permits the benefit granted to recruits of P.M.H.S. Cadre as discussed above, he could not show any Rules but contended that they had not yet joined the service, whereas, the petitioner had already joined the service, therefore, they stand on a different footing. Such a contention can hardly be accepted as this can not form any rational basis for differential treatment for the purpose of grant of study leave/ or extension of joining, for completing the course to which both of such category have already been admitted.

14. Now, we come to the Rule position. Rule 84 of the Fundamental Rules reads as under:-

"84. Leave may be granted to Government servants, on such terms as the Governor may by rule or order prescribe, to enable them to study scientific, technical or similar problems or to undergo special courses of instructions. Such leave is not debited against the leave account."

15. The Study Leave Rules as contained in the Subsidiary Rules have been made by the Government under this Fundamental Rule 84.

16. Fundamental Rule 104 reads as under:-

"104. During their period of probation or apprenticeship, probationers and apprentices are entitled to leave as follows:

(a) if appointed under contract in the United Kingdom with a view to permanent service in India, or if appointed in the United Kingdom posts created temporarily with the prospect, more or less definite, of becoming permanent:

(i) to such leave as is prescribed in their contracts, or, when no such prescription is made;

(ii) (1) when the period of probation is not less than three years, to the same leave which would be admissible if they held permanent posts; or

(2) when the period of probation is less than three years, to leave on average pay up to one eleventh of the period spent on duty, to which may be added, on medical certificate, leave on half average pay; provided that the total leave granted under this clause shall not exceed three months reckoned in terms of leave on average pay; and

(b) If appointed otherwise, to such leave as is admissible under rules framed by the Government on this behalf.

17. Fundamental Rule 104 provides that during their period of probation or apprenticeship, probationers and apprentices are entitled to leave as mentioned therein. Now, Clause (a) thereof deals with those appointed under the contract in the United Kingdom with which we are not concerned, but, Clause (b) thereof which applies to this case, goes on to state that if appointed otherwise i.e. otherwise then what is mentioned in Clause (a), a probationer would be entitled to such leave as is admissible under rules framed by the Government on this behalf.

18. Now, there are Rules which have been made under FR 104- (b). These rules are contained in Chapter XVII. We are concerned with Chapter XVII of the Subsidiary Rules. For the case at hand it is Subsidiary Rule 170 which is relevant and it reads as under:-

"170. Leave may be granted to a probationer if it is admissible under the leave rules which would be applicable to him if he held his post substantively otherwise than on probation."

19. Now, in this very context we may refer to Subsidiary Rule 146-A contained in Chapter XI-A and has been made by the Governor under Rule 84 of the Fundamental Rules under the heading 'Study Leave Rules'. Rule 146- A reads as under:-

"146-A. The following rules have been been made by the Governor to regulate the grant of additional leave to Government servants for the study of scientific, technical or similar problems, or in order to undertake special courses of instruction. These rules relate to study leave only. They are not intended to meet the case of Government servants deputed to other countries at the instance of the Government, either for the performance of special duties imposed on them or for the investigation of specific problems connected with their technical duties. Such cases will continue to be dealt with on their merits under the provisions of Rules 50 and 51 of the Uttar Pradesh Fundamental Rules. These rules apply to the Public Health and Medical Research Departments, the Civil Veterinary Department, the Agricultural Department, the Education Department, the Public Works Department and the Forest Department (except in respect of Continental tours, to which special rules apply). The rules may be extended by the Government to any Government servant not belonging to any of the departments mentioned above in whose case they may be of opinion that leave should be granted in the public interests to pursue a special course of study or investigation of a scientific or technical nature."

20. Fundamental Rule 67 is also relevant and it reads as under:-

"67. Leave cannot be claimed as of right, when the exigencies of the Public service so require, discretion to refuse or revoke leave of any description is reserved to the authority empowered to grant it."

21. Fundamental Rule 67 clearly means that if exigencies of Public service so require any prayer for leave can be refused and can not be claimed as a matter of right and discretion to refuse or revoke leave of any description is reserved to the authority empowered to grant it. Now, discretion obviously has to be exercised keeping in mind the object and intent of the Rules and also in a reasonable manner. Discretion can not be exercised unfairly and unreasonable merely on whims or fancies, clearly not to discriminate or in a manner which may result in discrimination.

22. Now, we come to Fundamental Rule 84 which provides that leave may be granted to Government servants, on such terms as the Governor may by rule or order prescribe, to enable them to study scientific, technical or similar problems or to undergo special courses of instructions. Such leave is not debited against the leave account. Fundamental Rule 84 permits grant of leave for study whether scientific, technical or of any other nature referred therein subject of course to the terms as the Governor may be rule or order prescribe.

23. Now, Subsidiary Rule 146-A has been framed under Fundamental Rule 84. We have already quoted it above. It is under the heading 'Study Leave Rules'. The said rule applies only to Government servants which the appellant/petitioner before us is. The said rule has been made by the Governor to regulate the grant of additional leave to Government servant for the study of scientific, technical or similar problems, or in order to undertake special courses of instructions. These rules relate to study leave only. From a reading of the said Rule it is clear that these rules are in addition to other Rules admissible to Government servants including the extraordinary leave under Subsidiary Rule 157. The rule specifically states that they apply to the Public Health and Medical Research Departments, the Civil Veterinary Departments and other departments, therefore, the rule clearly envisages situation where the Officers and employees of such departments may require study further in addition to the educational qualifications already acquired by them and therefore, the Rule caters to such situation. In fact, the rule further goes on to state that the rule may be extended by the Government to any Government servant not belonging to any of the departments mentioned therein in whose case they may be of opinion that leave should be granted in the public interest to pursue a special course of study or investigation of a scientific or technical nature, therefore, there is an element of public interest implicit in the grant of such study leave and Subsidiary Rule made by the Governor itself recognizes it and extend the same even to those departments which are not specifically mentioned under Subsidiary Rule 146-A, subject of course to there being public interest involved.

24. Thereafter, Sub-rule (2) of Subsidiary Rule 146-A, inter alia, provides that study leave should not ordinarily be granted to Government servant of less than five years' of service or to government servant within three years of the date at which they have the option of retiring. The use of the word 'ordinarily' itself is indicative that in given circumstances, may be extraordinary circumstances, such leave can be granted to a Government servant who has put in less than five years of service.

25. Fundamental Rules were framed prior to independence, therefore, the reference therein to Public Health and Medical Departments has to be understood accordingly in the light of the departmental structure existing in the State of U.P. at present and the Rules have to be applied accordingly to corresponding departments including Medical and Health Departments such Ayurveda and Unani Medicine and it is not the case of the opposite parties that the position is otherwise.

26. From the Rules discussed above the ground for rejection of leave requested by the appellant is that there is no provision, can not be sustained as, apparently there is a provision in the said Rules even if hedged with conditions whether these conditions are satisfied in the case of the appellant is to be considered.

27. Now, against this backdrop, we consider the case of the appellant/petitioner. We find that it is not a case where she has joined service barely two three months earlier and thereafter has applied for admission to the P.G. course i.e. after joining, though, the Rules do not specifically debar such an option also, but, it is a case where on 18.09.2021 itself she had appeared in an entrance examination for admission to a P.G. Course as referred above, but, before the result could be declared the advertisement was issued inviting applications for recruitment to the post of Medical Officer, Ayurveda. Obviously, she being eligible applied for the same and ultimately qualified. In the interregnum, the result of the entrance examination for admission to P.G. Course was declared before the written test for recruitment was held and she joined the P.G. Course on 01.03.2022. Ultimately, on being successful and the result of recruitment having been declared, after taking due leave from her educational institution, she joined her service as Medical Officer, Ayurveda on 30.09.2023 and then applied for grant of study leave on 30.11.2023.

28. Now, the situation is that she has completed half of the Course and only half remains to be completed, which, according to the learned counsel for the appellant/petitioner, would take another 16 to 18 months, however, she had applied for study leave of 12 months.

29. In this very context, of course he has submitted that she is better placed than those who have not even joined the P.M.H.S. but their joining has been extended for the same purpose and has pleaded discrimination.

30. Now, the term 'ordinarily' used in Subsidiary Rule 146-A(2) would include an extraordinary circumstance as mentioned hereinabove, as, she was already pursuing a P.G. Course prior to selection for the post of Medical Officer and was halfway through on the date of her joining, especially as, ultimately, the higher qualification which she wants to acquire and is in fact in the process of acquiring, the same will ultimately benefit her services which are to be rendered to the public at large as a Government Servant, therefore, the element of public interest is also satisfied.

31. We are, therefore, not satisfied with the stand of the State Government that the Subsidiary Rule 146-A does not contain any provision for grant of study leave to a person who is a Government servant and who has put in less than five years of service or for that matter who has put in less than four months of service. No such period of less than four months of service is mentioned in the said rules nor any such rule has been pointed out.

32. We are of the considered opinion that use of the word 'ordinarily' in the said Rule permits the grant of study leave in extraordinary circumstances (not ordinarily or in a routine manner) and we are also of the opinion that facts before us constitute extraordinary circumstances as already discussed hereinabove, more-so because the appellant must have deposited fee etc. and incurred other expenses for the said Course , all of which will go waste.

33. We may in this very context refer to Subsidiary Rule 170 which has been made under Fundamental Rule 104(b) and says that leave may be granted to a probationer if it is admissible under the leave Rules which would be applicable to him if he held his post substantively otherwise than on probation, meaning thereby, if the probationer was substantively appointed on a post after completed of probation and would be entitled to certain leaves, then, those leaves would also be admissible to a probationer. This rule also does not come in the way of the appellant/petitioner in the grant of study leave in the factual circumstances as already noticed hereinabove, rather it supports her case.

34. No doubt, Rule 67 is there, but, then, the State Government has not rejected the leave application with reference to any Public exigency nor with reference to Fundamental Rule 67, in fact, rejection is on the ground that it is impermissible, there being no such provision for a probationer, which is factually and legally incorrect as already discussed.

35. Moreover, the State can not blow hot and cold in the same vein. If there is no such provision for a probationer where is such provision for a new recruit who is yet to join service who have been given this benefit by Government Order dated 14.03.2024. To say that the latter have not joined service as yet, therefore, Fundamental Rules/ Subsidiary Rules do not apply to them, they form a different class vis-a-vis the appellant who has already joined service, is an argument made only to be rejected. It is accordingly rejected as being discriminatory and arbitrary. Once, it has extended the joining of new recruits to the P.M.H.S. who have not even joined the service, that too, up to a period of three years, then, it cannot say that in the case of the appellant-petitioner, who is the only person seeking such leave after having joined, albeit in the Ayurvedic Services, she is not entitled to similar benefit, especially as, she claims leave for only 12 or 18 months as the case may be. Both the classes consist of Doctors, one of P.M.H.S. Service, the other of Ayurvedic Service and there can be no discrimination in this regard. Rule 67 can not be pressed into service in the case of the appellant-petitioner while giving a go by to it while issuing the order dated 14.03.2024 in respect of new recruits, who are yet to join the P.M.H.S. Service.

36. We are convinced that any differential treatment to the appellant/petitioner as has been metted out to her by the order which was impugned before the Writ Court, would be a clear case of discrimination, which the Constitution abhors in letter and spirit.

37. The reasons in the order, which were impugned before the writ Court, are not sustainable in view of the above discussion. The learned Writ Court has also lost sight of the rule position and the extraordinary situation as discussed hereinabove.

38. As regards the reliance placed by Shri V. P. Nag, learned Standing Counsel upon a judgment of Uttarakhand High Court reported in (2015) 6 SERVLR 85; Krishna Kant Pandey Vs. State of Uttrakhan and Ors., there was no case of discrimination in the said case, as has been set up by the appellant/petitioner herein, successfully. Moreover, that was a case, where the petitioners before Uttarakhand High Court had not joined hence the Court held that they had no right under Fundamental Rule 170, but, here in this case, similarly placed persons who have not joined PMHS, have been granted the benefit by the State of U.P. vide Government Order dated 14.03.2024, therefore, the said judgment does not apply here.

39. At this stage, Shri V. P. Nag, learned Standing Counsel submits that the order of rejection of the leave in respect of the appellant/petitioner is dated 13.01.2024, whereas, the benefit granted to the new recruits of P.M.H.S. is by subsequent Government Order dated 14.03.2024. This hardly improves the situation. This has nothing to do with the point of time when the claim of the appellant/petitioner was rejected and the date on which the request of new recruits to P.M.H.S. was acceded. It is a case of unfair treatment or unfair policy. It is a clear case of differential treatment for grant of study leave. There can be no rational and intelligible criteria for treating the two classes differently.

40. We do not consider the plea of the appellant- petitioner that extraordinary leave would also be admissible, as, we are of the considered opinion that not only it was permissible to grant study leave to the appellant,this was a fit case where study leave should have been granted.

41. For all these reasons, we set aside the judgment of Writ Court as also the order impugned before it.

42. The Director, Ayurvedic Services is directed to issue necessary orders afresh in the light of what has been discussed hereinabove within a period of three weeks from the date a certified copy of this order is submitted. The appellant is also permitted to move a fresh application, if required.

43. Accordingly, the Special Appeal as also the writ petition is allowed.

Sister Meera Vs St. of U.P. & ors., (2013) 10 ADJ 310

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. This intra court appeal is directed against judgment and order dated 7.12.2018, passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 12781 of 2018; whereby the challenge laid to the order of District Basic Education Officer, Ballia, dated 19th May, 2018, is rejected.

2. Admitted facts, as are noticed by the learned Single Judge, are that the post of Headmaster in Gautam Purva Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Basti Mundera, District Ballia (hereinafter referred to as the 'Institution') fell vacant on 30th June, 2014 due to retirement of the earlier Headmaster. The Institution is recognized under the provisions of U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972 and is receiving financial aid from the State. The Manager of the Institution, namely Sanjay Singh resigned on 24th April, 2015 and the Deputy Manager, Hridya Nand Singh assumed charge of the office of Manager of the Committee of Management pursuant to resolution of Committee of Management, dated 31st May, 2015. Papers for attestation of signatures of Hridya Nand Singh as Manager were sent to District Basic Education Officer, who approved his signatures on 6.6.2015. Even before attestation of his signatures/recognition as the Manager of the Institution, Hridya Nand Singh initiated the process for appointment to the post of Headmaster by seeking permission to advertise the post vide his letter dated 1st June, 2015. On the very day when signatures of Hridya Nand Singh were attested i.e. 6th June, 2015 the District Basic Education Officer also granted him permission to fill up the post of Headmaster. On the very next day i.e. 7th June, 2015, the vacancy was advertised in two Daily Newspapers namely 'Swatantra Chetna' and 'Anchalik Swar'. The selection proceedings were undertaken by the Committee of Management and ultimately the writ petitioner came to be selected and appointed as Headmistress on 26th June, 2015. Papers were sent for grant of approval to District Basic Education Officer, who approved the selection on 29th June, 2015. The petitioner claims to have assumed the charge on the office of Headmistress on 10th July, 2015.

3. Selection and appointment of petitioner was challenged by one Madhubala Singh, by filing Writ Petition No. 41678 of 2015, who claimed that she was not allowed to participate in the selection though she was eligible and had duly applied pursuant to the advertisement in question. Another candidate, namely Ashutosh Prasad Singh also challenged the selection and appointment of petitioner by filing Writ Petition No. 61437 of 2015 on grounds similar to Madhubala Singh. The appointment of petitioner was directed to abide by the outcome of the writ petitions. It transpires that the District Basic Education Officer called for an explanation from the managing committee on various aspects relating to appointment offered to petitioner vide notice dated 29th April, 2017. The committee of management responded to the show cause notice vide its reply dated 2nd May, 2017. It is thereafter that the District Basic Education Officer has passed the order dated 3rd May, 2017. The order records that:

(i) Even before the signatures of the Manager were attested, he had initiated the process of recruitment, which was impermissible;

(ii) Proper notice has not been given to the candidates before making appointment so as to extend undue favour to limited persons;

(iii) Educational qualification and age for appointment have not been specified in the advertisement;

(iv) Although, seven persons are said to have applied, but it is not clarified as to how their applications were received;

(v) The order also records that though notice has been sent to the Institution on 29.4.2017 calling for reply by 2nd May, 2017, but till 5.00 pm on 3.5.2017, no explanation was received in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Ballia from the petitioner.

4. The order of District Basic Education Officer, dated 3rd May, 2017, came to be challenged in Writ Petition No. 25292 of 2017 wherein an interim relief was granted to the petitioner. This interim order was challenged in Special appeal filed by Ashutosh Prasad Singh being Special Appeal No. 372 of 2017. The special appeal came to be disposed of on 31st July, 2017 vide following orders:-

"We have heard learned counsel for the parties and examined the records of the writ petitions as well as this special appeal.

We are in agreement with the contention raised on behalf of Smt. Rambha Singh that once the selection has been approved and she had joined and was actually working any order of cancellation of approval granted earlier must have preceded an opportunity to the teacher concerned. Any order passed without following such procedure would be in violation of principles of natural justice and and therefore legally not sustainable.

We are of the opinion that the order passed by Basic Shiksha Adhikari dated 3.5.2017 can not be sustained being in violation of principles of natural justice whatever may be the basis for passing such an order. Smt. Rambha Singh was at least entitled to be informed of the grounds on which it was proposed to cancel the approval and to have her say in the matter.

This leads the court to issue as to what should be the next step once the order is found to be in violation of principles of natural justice. In our opinion having regard to the allegations made and the enquiry report received qua Smt. Rambha Singh being a relative of Sri Rakesh Singh, BSA as well as in respect of the mode and manner of the selection of Smt. Rambha Singh being illegal as contended before us by the counsel for the appellant, we are of the opinion that the interest of substantial justice would be served by requiring the Basic Shiksha Adhikari to pass a fresh order in the matter of selection and appointment of Smt. Rambha Singh after affording opportunity of hearing to the Committee of Management of the institution, Smt. Rambha Singh and after examining the original records as may be available in the office of Basic Shiksha Adhikari or may made available qua the selection in question. The appellants are also at liberty to file their representation disclosing the grounds on which they propose to challenge the selection within two weeks from today along with certified copy of this order. The Basic Shiksha Adhikari shall complete the exercise as indicated above within four weeks thereafter by means of a reasoned and speaking order.

We are not expressing any opinion on any of the issues which have been raised by the parties inasmuch all such issues needs examination of records and a finding of fact is to be returned. It is for this purpose that the matter is being asked to be examined by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari.

The writ petitions i.e. Writ-A Nos.25292 of 2017, 61437 of 2015 and Writ-A No. 41687 of 2015 and the special appeal stand disposed of. All consequential actions shall be taken accordingly."

5. Pursuant to the directions issued in Special Appeal No. 372 of 2017, the District Basic Education Officer, Ballia, has reiterated the previous order cancelling the approval granted to the appointment of the petitioner vide his order dated 20.8.2017. This order records that even before signatures were attested of the then Manager, Hridya Nand Singh, he had initiated the process of appointment by asking for permission from the District Basic Education Officer, which was impermissible.

6. A subsequent meeting has been called of the General Body of the Institution in which appointment of petitioner as Headmistress has been held invalid. The District Basic Education Officer, therefore, concluded that appointment of petitioner has not been made in accordance with law.

7. It transpires that the order of the District Basic Education Officer was challenged in Writ Petition No. 10596 of 2018. Contesting parties appeared in the writ petition and the District Basic Education Officer was permitted to revisit the matter after affording an opportunity of hearing to the parties. It is thereafter that an order has been passed by the District Basic Education Officer on 19th May, 2018. It is this order which was under challenge in the writ petition and has been sustained by the learned Single Judge, while dismissing the writ petition. Learned Single Judge has concluded that the advertisement pursuant to which the petitioner has been appointed was not in accordance with the Rule 7(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High School)(Recruitment and Condition of Service of Teacher) Rules, 1978. Learned Single Judge has also found the appointment of the petitioner to be a result of favouritism and consequently denial of equality of opportunity under Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. In para 34, the learned Single Judge has observed as under:-

"34. The manner in which the then Manager had proceeded to advertise the post and make selection clearly establishes that the whole exercise was carried out in a predetermined and bias manner to appoint the petitioner on the post of Headmistress. The then Committee of Management sent the signatures for approval to the BSA only on 02.06.2015 but before that, a request for carrying out the advertisement for filling up the post of Headmaster/Headmistress was sent. The approval was granted on 06.06.2015. The advertisement was sent for publication before that and it was published on 06.06.2015 in two newspapers. It has also come on records that the petitioner happens to be relative of Rakesh Singh which is the clear finding in the punishment order dated 29.05.2017 of Shri Rakesh Singh. This Court, therefore, cannot and should not come in the way when the corrective steps have been taken for declaring the appointment of the petitioner as invalid and not in accordance with law. The appointment of the petitioner is tainted and against the statutory Rules and the allegation of bias of the then BSA is also not without substance. The petitioner is holding a public office, but her appointment is tainted and, therefore, this Court does not find any illegality or irregularity in the impugned order whereby the petitioner's appointment has been held to be invalid."

8 Challenging the judgment of learned Single Judge, Sri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Counsel submits that the process of recruitment was held in a fair and transparent manner; the advertisement was already made and mere non-specification of qualification or age of recruitment cannot be a ground to question it in view of the judgment of this Court in Sister Meera Vs. State of U.P. and others, (2013) 10 ADJ 310; petitioner is not in the prohibited degree of relationship with the District Basic Education Officer Rakesh Singh and merely because she may have been distantly related can be no ground to invalidate her appointment. Learned Senior Counsel submits that since appellant has already been appointed and has worked for several years, as such, there is no reason to interfere with her appointment, particularly when she possesses requisite qualification for the post and procedure for appointment has otherwise been complied with.

9. Sri P.N. Ojha as well as Sri J.P. Singh, learned counsel for the respondents on the other hand submits that the entire process of recruitment lacked fairness and transparency and was at best a farce. It is further stated that the manner in which appointment was made clearly showed that its object was to extend undue favour to the petitioner and once learned Single Judge has found substance in the reasons assigned by the District Basic Education Officer for cancellation of appointment no interference in its be made. Learned State Counsel has also adopted the submissions made by Sri P.N. Ojha as well as Sri J.P. Singh.

10. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and have carefully perused the materials on record. It is not in dispute that the post of Headmaster in the Institution fell vacant on 30th June, 2014 due to superannuation of the earlier Headmaster. It transpires that the elected Manager of the Institution Sri Sanjay Singh resigned on 24th April, 2015. Hridya Nand Singh was allowed to work as Manager for the remaining term by the Managing Committee vide its resolution dated 31st May, 2015.

Signatures of Deputy Manager Hridya Nand Singh admittedly came to be recognized on 6th June, 2015. It is even before signatures of the Deputy Manager were attested as the Manager of the Institution that the process of recruitment was initiated by seeking permission to advertise the post.

11. The resolution of the Managing Committee of Institution authorising Hridya Nand Singh to function as Manager came to be approved only on 6th June, 2015. It is even before it that Hridya Nand Singh made a request for grant of permission to make appointment on the post of Headmaster. The District Basic Education Officer Rakesh Singh granted this permission on the 6th June, 2015 itself. The advertisement was also published in two newspapers on 7th June, 2015. From the manner in which the process of recruitment has commenced even before the signature of Manager was attested prima facie indicates haste on part of the authorities in commencing the recruitment process. Although educational authority has doubted legality of appointment on the ground that advertisement did not specify the age and qualification for recruitment, but even if this issue is kept aside, as we find substance in the argument of Sri Ojha that non-specification of age and qualification may not be fatal to the cause of the petitioner in view of the law laid down by this Court in Sister Meera Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2013 (10) ADJ 310, yet there are other glaring facts which requires consideration in the matter.

12. Soon after the appointment was offered to the writ petitioner two petitions came to be filed before the High Court by Ashutosh Prasad Singh and Madhubala Singh, who stated that their applications for appointment have been arbitrarily overlooked. Records of the appeal would go to show that Ashutosh Prasad Singh and Madhubala Singh have informed the District Basic Education Officer that they had made application for appointment to the post of Headmaster and had also attempted to appear before the selection committee but they were not permitted to do so. They were informed that the date of interview has been altered. Later on they came to know that the petitioner has been appointed. Complaint was made by these two persons before the concerned authorities by sending representation. There are written letters on record sent by Hridya Nand Singh in his capacity as Manager, dated 25.6.2015 stating that letter by registered post are received from the aforesaid two persons namely Ashutosh Prasad Singh and Madhubala Singh containing their educational and training qualification. They were informed that the purpose of sending their letter is not clear therefore these letters are being returned. The letters sent to both these persons are on identical terms and are extracted hereinafter:-

13. The Manager of the Institution has also sent a representation to the District Basic Education Officer on 11.5.2018 stating that no resolution was ever passed by the managing committee to initiate the process of recruitment; applications sent by Smt. Madhubala Singh and Ashutosh Prasad Singh are available on record, but their educational certificates are not available in the office; quality point marks of other applicants namely Ajay Kumar Singh and Vandana Mishra are higher than that of petitioner but educational certificates of these persons are also not available. Maximum marks at the interview had been given to the petitioner; all other candidates, who secured higher quality marks have been shown absent; the manager has also specified that permission for initiating the recruitment as well as approval of petitioner's appointment has been granted by District Basic Education Officer Rakesh Singh. His father-in-law is Rajendra Singh. Brother of Rajendra Singh is Ravindra, who is married in village Rohana. Petitioner's husband is Dharmendra Pratap Singh. Real sister of Dharmendra Pratap Singh (husband of writ petitioner) is married to Ravindra, who is the real brother of father-in-law of Rakesh Singh.

14. Learned Single Judge has noticed the fact that disciplinary inquiry was initiated against the then District Basic Education Officer Rakesh Singh and Charge No. 5 relating to appointment being offered to his relatives, including the present petitioner, has been proved. Punishment order has also been passed against Rakesh Singh on 29.5.2017.

15. In the facts of the case, we find that the process of recruitment has been initiated in undue hot haste without any resolution passed by the managing committee for initiating the process of recruitment on the post of Headmaster. Admittedly the appointing authority is the committee of management and in the absence of its authorisation the process of recruitment would be without authority of law. The process was otherwise initiated by the Deputy Manager, even before his signatures were formally attested as Manager. The recruitment process does not appear to be fair and transparent, inasmuch as, all persons with higher quality point marks are shown absent and two of the candidates, who had applied for appointment, have not been permitted to take part in the recruitment. Allegation of favouritism otherwise surfaces against the then District Basic Education Officer. Even if we accept the contention of the petitioner that the advertisement for appointment was valid notwithstanding the fact the qualification and age are not specified, yet we find that the recruitment process cannot be said to be wholly transparent. In such circumstances, the decision of the District Basic Education Officer to cancel the approval of petitioner's appointment and dismissal of the writ petition by the learned Single Judge would not require any interference in the present appeal.

16. The appeal consequently fails and is dismissed.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri R.B. Singh

Counsel for the Respondent:

(A) Service Law - Gratuity - Entitlement to - Gratuity is payable based on completed years of service, not age of retirement - premature retirement does not disentitle a teacher to gratuity - 'treading the beaten path' - utter lack of application of mind and non-understanding of principle. (Para - 7)

Petitioner (teacher) opted for voluntary retirement at the age of 57 years - District Minority Welfare Officer rejected petitioner's claim to gratuity - citing that - gratuity payable only to those who opt to retire at the age of 60 years or die before attaining that age - decision challenged - ground - entitled to gratuity based on their completed years of service. (Para - 1)

HELD: - Petitioner entitled to gratuity despite retiring at 57 years. The District Minority Welfare Officer's interpretation of the rules was flawed. Directed respondents to sanction and calculate gratuity to the petitioner taking into account the total number of completed years of service rendered by him before prematurely retiring within a specified timeframe. Impugned order quashed. (Para - 10)

Writ Petition Allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against the order dated 02.12.2023 passed by the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj, rejecting the petitioner's claim to gratuity on the ground that the petitioner has sought voluntary retirement at the age of fifty-seven years, whereas gratuity is payable only to those who opt to retire at the age of sixty years (as distinguished from those who opt to retire at the age of sixty-two years) and also in cases of teachers, who die before attaining the age of sixty years.

2. It is submitted that according to paragraph no. 4(1) of the Government Order dated 14.12.2011, it is provided that like civil service, governed by Article 474 of the Civil Service Regulations, those who do not complete ten years of qualifying service, are not entitled to pension but if they opt to retire at the age of sixty years, they are entitled to gratuity under the rules framed for the teachers serving in the aided Intermediate Colleges.

3. On 26.04.2024, this Court passed the following order:

"The petitioner opted for voluntary retirement at the age of 57 and has been denied his gratuity by the District Minority Welfare Officer on ground that since he had not filled up the option to retire at 60, which is the entitling age to receive gratuity, or 62 years, which disentitles, the petitioner is not entitled to gratuity.

Prima facie the reasoning is absolutely flawed.

Mr. J. N. Maurya, learned Chief Standing Counsel states at this juncture that one opportunity be provided to the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj to reconsider the matter.

A week's time is granted for the purpose.

Adjourned to 07.05.2024 as fresh. "

4. An opportunity was provided to the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj to re-consider the matter. The District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj has skirted the opportunity granted to him by this Court. He has issued a memo dated 03.05.2024, where the stand taken is that gratuity is payable only to such teachers of the aided Intermediate Institutions, who opt to retire at the age of sixty years. He has referred to an objection in this regard raised by the Joint Director (Pension) Prayagraj Division, Prayagraj vide his memo dated

09.09.2020 annexed as Annexure no. 3 to his memo dated 03.05.2024, where it is observed:

"श्री मो० अबुल कलाम स्वैच्छिक सेवानिवृत्त प्रधानाचार्य मदरस्सा हिदायतुल दोंदीपुर प्रयागराज के प्रकरण का परीक्षण किया गया जिसमें उन्होंने यह कमी इंगित की है कि मो० अबुल कलाम की जन्म तिथि 15.08.1962 के आधार पर अस्वस्थता के कारणवश 57 वर्ष 4 माह 16 दिन की आयु पर स्वैच्छिक सेवानिवृत्त हुए है। पेंशन प्रपत्र भाग-5 में सेवानिवृत्तिक ग्रेच्युटी का आगमन करते हुए प्रस्तावित किया गया है। संगत/प्रचलित शासनादेशों की प्राविधानित व्यवस्था के अनुरूप 60/62 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर सेवानिवृत्त होने वाले शिक्षकों को 58/60 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता पर सेवानिवृत्त होने वाले विकल्पधारी शिक्षक को ही उपादान (ग्रेच्युटी) अनुमन्य है। श्री कलाम उक्त शर्त / प्रतिबन्ध से आच्छादित नहीं है, जिसके कारण उपादान (ग्रेच्युटी) की अनुमन्यता का शासनादेशिक आधार/औचित्य स्पष्ट नहीं है। अतः 60 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर सेवानिवृत्त होने वाले शिक्षकों को 58 वर्ष पर विकल्प चयन करने वाले विकल्पधारी शिक्षकों तथा 62 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु वाले शिक्षकों को 60 वर्ष पर विकल्प चयन करने वाले विकल्पधारी शिक्षकों को ही उपादान की सुविधा संगत/प्रचलित शासनादेशों में अनुमन्य है। इसके अतिरिक्त अन्य आयु वर्ष पर सहायता प्राप्त शिक्षण संस्थान से स्वैच्छिक सेवानिवृत्त अध्यापकों को उपादान (ग्रेच्युटी) अनुमन्यता विषयक शासनादेश कार्यालय में अद्यतन उपलब्ध नहीं है। पेंशन निदेशालय के पत्र में संगत शासनादेश की प्रति सहित प्रकरण उपलब्ध कराने का उल्लेख किया गया है जिससे प्रकरण परीक्षणोपरांत निस्तारण किया जा सके।"

5. It is on the basis of the aforesaid note put up by the Joint Director (Pension), Prayagraj Division, Prayagraj that the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj has refused to re-consider his stand that gratuity may be payable to the petitioner though he has prematurely elected to retire at the age of 57 years 4 months and 16 days. For one he may clarify that the age of a retiring employee is never to be reckoned in terms of days and months. It is to be reckoned in terms of the completed age. Thus, so long as an employee does not turn fifty-eight, he is to be regarded as fifty-seven years old. The petitioner, therefore, is an employee, who has chosen to retire at the age of fifty-seven years. prematurely.

6. The Government Orders, under reference or rules, which these orders reflect or amplify, give effect to a scheme wherein a teacher, who serves for an extended tenure up to sixty-two years is deprived of his gratuity to which he would be entitled, if he were to retire at the conventional age of sixty years. He looses gratuity because he serves for two years more beyond the conventional years.

7. Here is a case, where the petitioner has chosen to retire at the age of fifty-seven years, prematurely. The option to retire at the age of sixty years is to be understood in contra-distinction to the option to retire at the unconventional and the higher age of sixty-two; it is not to be understood as an option vesting a teacher with a right to receive gratuity only if he elects to retire at sixty. Retirement at sixty years is not an entitling fact, which leads the employee to acquire a right to receive gratuity, which he otherwise does not have. An employee gets his right to gratuity according to the number of the years that he serves. Rather, if he chooses to serve, as already said, beyond the conventional age of sixty years, he is divested of that right for the extra remuneration of two years in regular service that he receives. The interpretation, based on the relevant Government Orders by the Joint Director (Pension), Prayagraj Division, Prayagraj and the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj, is the product of what is conventionally called 'treading the beaten path', which shows utter lack of application of mind and non-understanding of principle.

8. In future, the Additional Chief Secretary (Secondary Education), U.P., Lucknow will bear these remarks of ours in mind and pass appropriate orders so that these kind of perverse interpretations are not placed by the officials functioning in the Department of Secondary Education to the prejudice of teachers vis-a-vis their valuable right to receive gratuity to which they are otherwise entitled.

9. The Joint Director (Pension), Prayagraj Division, Prayagraj and the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj shall also take note of this order and will not repeat this kind of interpretation in future, if a similar set of rights were to arise for consideration.

10. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 02.12.2023, passed by the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj, is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the respondents to sanction and calculate gratuity to the petitioner, of course, taking into account the total number of completed years of service rendered by him before prematurely retiring. The reckoning of the petitioner's entitlement to gratuity shall be done within a period of fifteen days hence and gratuity determined shall be paid to the petitioner within next fifteen days thereafter.

12. There shall be no order as to costs.

13. Let this order be communicated to the Additional Chief Secretary (Secondary Education), U.P., Lucknow through the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lucknow, the Joint Director (Pension), Prayagraj Division, Prayagraj and the District Minority Welfare Officer, Prayagraj through the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Allahabad by the Registrar (Compliance) within 48 hours.

List of Cases cited:

St. of W.B. Vs Debabrata Tiwari & ors., 2023 SCC OnLine SC 219

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against the order dated 30.09.2023 passed by the District Cane Officer, District Sambhal and the resolution dated 25.09.2023 issued by the State Cane Service Authority (for short, 'the State Authority'), rejecting the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment.

2. The petitioner's father was a Stock Clerk in the Establishment of the District Cane Officer, Chandausi, District Sambhal. He passed away in harness on 13.11.2011. The deceased was survived by his widow, a son and three daughters. It appears that the petitioner at the time of his father's demise was a minor. He moved an application, seeking compassionate appointment on 10.11.2020, after attaining the age of majority. On 11.01.2021, the District Cane Officer, Sambhal demanded some documents, which the petitioner provided on 25.10.2021. On 21.11.2021, the petitioner submitted some other documents to the District Cane Officer for the consideration of his claim. The petitioner claimed inaction on the respondents' part to consider his case for compassionate appointment and said that despite his requests to the respondents to pass necessary orders, no orders were made. Very recently, again it is pleaded that the petitioner made applications dated 21.02.2023 and 17.07.2023 before the District Cane Officer, urging his claim for a consideration for compassionate appointment, but to no avail. It is pleaded that the only source of livelihood for the petitioner and his father's family was the deceased's salary. After his demise on 13.11.2011, neither compassionate appointment has been offered by the District Cane Officer to the petitioner nor post retiral dues released in his favour. He is on the verge of starvation. The respondents are sitting tight over the matter. It is on these pleadings that the petitioner initially sought a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the Cane Commissioner, Lucknow, the District Cane Officer, District Sambhal to pass appropriate orders on the petitioner's application for compassionate appointment. This Court vide order dated 15.09.2023 issued a show cause notice to the respondents in terms of the following orders:

"The petitioner's father, who was a Stock Clerk in the office of the District Cane Officer, Chandausi, died in harness on 13.08.2011. The petitioner was a minor at the time of his father's demise. He applied for compassionate appointment on 10.11.2020.

Let the District Cane Officer, District-Sambhal file his personal affidavit within ten days showing cause why the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment has not been considered so far.

Lay this writ petition as fresh on 03.10.2023.

Let this order be communicated to the District Cane Officer, District-Sambhal by the Registrar (Compliance) by Monday i.e. 18.09.2023."

3. A counter affidavit was filed on behalf of respondent No.3 on 03.10.2023. Since it was not on record on that day, the matter was adjourned to 11.10.2023. A perusal of the counter affidavit shows that the State Authority has passed a resolution dated 25.09.2023, rejecting the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment. This Court, accordingly, permitted the petitioner on 11.10.2023 to move an application, seeking to amend the writ petition and challenge the order dated 25.09.2023. An application for the purpose was moved in Court on 20.11.2023, which was taken on record and allowed by an order of the said date. A supplementary affidavit was then filed by the petitioner, in answer to which, a supplementary counter affidavit was filed in Court. The parties having exchanged affidavits, when the matter came up on 11.12.2023, it was admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith and concluded. Judgment was reserved.

4. Heard Mr. Rajesh Kumar Yadav, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Jhanvi Singh, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Ravindra Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the District Cane Officer, Sambhal and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State respondents.

5. A perusal of the impugned order dated 25.09.2023 passed by the State Authority shows that the petitioner at the time of his father's demise was aged about 9 years. It is remarked that the application moved on behalf of the petitioner for compassionate appointment was forwarded by the District Cane Officer, Sambhal to the State Authority vide a memo No. 767/ Shee dated 20.07.2021. It is recorded by the State Authority that the case is being considered under the U.P. Cooperative Cane Service Regulations, 1975 (for short, 'the Regulations of 1975') by the Committee appointed for the purpose, which has resolved in terms that the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of. Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (for short, 'the Rules of 1974') have been enforced for the purpose of providing immediate succour to the dependent family of a deceased government servant. In this case, Sanjay Pathak died on 13.08.2011 and the family have managed to live through it normally for ten years. At the time of his demise, the deceased's dependent was his widow, who could have applied for compassionate appointment in order to provide for the family immediately, but no such application was made on her behalf.

6. The Committee inferred that the widow not applying showed that after Sanjay Pathak's demise, the family faced no immediate financial crisis. Now, ten years after his demise, his son has applied solely for the purpose of securing employment. It is also remarked in the order that his widow, promptly after Pathak's death, did not make an application that her son is a minor and that his application may be considered as soon as he attains majority. The Committee also found that after the employee passed away, the fact that his dependent family members did not claim compassionate appointment and did so after a lapse of about 10 years in order to secure employment, shows that the case was one that did not fit into the requirement of a valid compassionate appointment claim under the Regulations of 1975 and the Rules of 1974.

7. It is also observed by the Committee that the District Cane Officer, Sambhal had evaluated the financial circumstances of the deceased's family. He found upon inquiry, which he has submitted in the form of a report, that the deceased's wife was employed as an Anganwadi Karyakatri. She has established the Anganwadi Kendra in her own house together with the other family members of the late Sanjay Pathak. It was also reported that the deceased's wife, Smt. Sudha Pathak and his son, Aman Pathak, hold an area of 0.498 hectares and 0.405 hectares, respectively of agricultural land, situate in Village Bahat Karan and Gavan, Tehsil Gunnaur, District Sambhal. It is observed by the Committee that the fact that the deceased's wife is employed as an Anganwadi Karyakatri, his heirs holding agricultural land and the fact that the deceased's family have been leading life normally for 12 years since he passed away, shows that it was not a case, where the claim for compassionate appointment ought to be accepted. It is on the basis of the said reasoning of the Committee that the State Authority rejected the petitioner's claim. The rejection was formally communicated to the petitioner through the order dated 30.09.2023 passed by the District Cane Officer, Sambhal. Both these orders are impugned in this petition.

8. Upon carefully hearing learned Counsel for the parties and perusing the record, this Court finds that the respondents have not considered all relevant factors to judge the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment. They might have broadly examined the claim on some relevant parameters, but left out of consideration equally important relevant material, which if considered, might have led them to a contrary conclusion. The fact that the deceased's widow did not apply immediately for compassionate appointment is relevant; the fact that she is employed as an Anganwadi Karyakatri, has a house of her own for the family, where she runs the Anganwadi Centre are all relevant. It is also relevant that the dependents of the deceased, including his widow and the petitioner, have some agricultural holding. If from this relevant information a plausible inference has been drawn, is quite another matter. If a plausible inference has been drawn, it is not for this Court to say if there is an equally plausible view which the Court would take and then substitute it for the respondents' opinion. That is beyond the province of a wednessbury review. At the same time, if perverse conclusions have been drawn from the material considered, though the material is relevant, this Court would have justification to interfere.

9. So far as the question of leaving out of consideration relevant material bearing on the issue of the petitioner's entitlement to seek compassionate appointment, it must be remarked that it nowhere figures, what was the death-cum-retirement benefits that the family received upon death of the employee. It has not been considered at all what are the investments of the family that yield income. It has also not been considered what are the liabilities of the family to be met. It has figured that two of the deceased's daughters are married, but one is still unmarried. These are matters that are relevant, but omitted from consideration altogether by the State Authority and their Committee, who have examined the petitioner's claim. The State Authority has much depended on the fact that the family have managed to survive for a period of 12 years and leading a normal life. It is true that the family have not landed in an orphanage, but between the family becoming a causality of the civilization on account of the breadwinner's untimely death and a sufficiently prosperous or normal life is the twilight zone, where they could be seen struggling to make end's meet. It is for this reason that in State of W.B. v. Debabrata Tiwari and others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 219, it was held:

"32. On consideration of the aforesaid decisions of this Court, the following principles emerge:

i. That a provision for compassionate appointment makes a departure from the general provisions providing for appointment to a post by following a particular procedure of recruitment. Since such a provision enables appointment being made without following the said procedure, it is in the nature of an exception to the general provisions and must be resorted to only in order to achieve the stated objectives, i.e., to enable the family of the deceased to get over the sudden financial crisis.

ii. Appointment on compassionate grounds is not a source of recruitment. The reason for making such a benevolent scheme by the State or the public sector undertaking is to see that the dependants of the deceased are not deprived of the means of livelihood. It only enables the family of the deceased to get over the sudden financial crisis.

iii. Compassionate appointment is not a vested right which can be exercised at any time in future. Compassionate employment cannot be claimed or offered after a lapse of time and after the crisis is over.

iv. That compassionate appointment should be provided immediately to redeem the family in distress. It is improper to keep such a case pending for years.

v. In determining as to whether the family is in financial crisis, all relevant aspects must be borne in mind including the income of the family, its liabilities, the terminal benefits if any, received by the family, the age, dependency and marital status of its members, together with the income from any other source.

34. As noted above, the sine qua non for entertaining a claim for compassionate appointment is that the family of the deceased employee would be unable to make two ends meet without one of the dependants of the deceased employee being employed on compassionate grounds. The financial condition of the family of the deceased, at the time of the death of the deceased, is the primary consideration that ought to guide the authorities' decision in the matter."

(emphasis by Court)

10. The position of the law that then appears is that what has to be compared is the income of the deceased at the time of his death and the family's income after his demise from various sources. This would be a safe index to assess, if indeed the family have been plunged into a crisis or they still have a reasonably normal life to lead, which is not ridden by financial crisis. It must be remarked that the State Authority and their Committee have singularly omitted to consider this very relevant material as to what was the deceased's income, when he passed away and the family's income when the District Cane Officer Officer appraised their circumstances.

11. The deceased's widow is no doubt employed as an Anganwadi Karyakatri, but that does not mean that the family are not financially struggling. An Anganwadi Karyakatri is not a government employment. It is pleaded in paragraph No.6 of the supplementary affidavit that the engagement as an Anganwadi Karyakatri is a contractual job, for which no salary is paid. The petitioner's mother receives an honourarium in the sum of Rs.3250/- - 6500/- per month. It must the remarked that a contractual employment that offers the sum of money that the petitioner alleges is hardly any reckonable financial resource to guarantee a subsistence level of income for the family. The fact that the petitioner's mother receives an honourarium for her engagement as an Anganwadi Karyakatri in the sum of Rs.3250/- - 6500/- per month, has not been denied in any of the two counter affidavits filed on behalf of the respondents. Therefore, the fact asserted in paragraph No.6 of the supplementary affidavit has to be accepted as correct. In fact, in the supplementary counter affidavit, contents of paragraph No.6 about the fact of what the nature of engagement of an Anganwadi Karyakatri is and what remuneration is received, has not at all been denied or pleaded to by the respondents.

12. Another factor that has been taken into consideration by the respondents is the existence of agricultural holdings. Now, the agricultural holdings that have been found with the petitioner and his mother, are not lavish in size or big enough to support a steady income. The impugned order records that the holdings are situate in two different villages, one in Village Bahat Karan and the other in Gavan. The petitioner's mother has a total of 0.498 hectares whereas the petitioner has a holding of 0.409 hectares. The Khatauni, that have been annexed with the counter affidavit at pages 29, 30, 31, 32, 33 and 34, would show that the holdings are joint with other co-sharers. The District Cane Officer, Sambhal has not made any endeavour to ascertain what is the yield from these small holdings to the petitioner or his mother, that is to say, the deceased's dependent family. By the bare existence of an agricultural holding with the petitioner and his mother of the sizes noticed in two different villages, there cannot be a plausible inference drawn that it yields reckonable income to the petitioner or the family, whom the deceased has left behind. To do that, the District Cane Officer has to undertake further inquiries and make a report on the annual yield from these holdings to the petitioner and his mother.

13. So far as the delay in making the application for compassionate appointment is concerned, it is obvious that the petitioner was a 9 years old boy, when his father passed away. He cannot be blamed for making the application 9 years after his demise. He apparently made the necessary application as soon as he attained majority. There is always adequate provision to consider the case of minors, while exercising the power to condone delay, in a deserving case by the Appointing Authority, where the delay is more than five years. The power of condonation may be exercised by a higher Authority and in this case, there could be no higher Authority than the State Authority itself. The State Authority seems to have gone by the fact that the petitioner's widow ought to have applied. They have not inquired into her educational qualifications, if at all she would be eligible to seek employment in their establishment, even on a Class-IV post. A contractual engagement as an Anganwadi Karyakatri is on the basis of very different qualifications, from which no inference can ipso facto be drawn that she too could have applied upon her husband's demise for compassionate employment. The respondents ought to have probed the issue and sought information from the petitioner's mother about reasons why she did not choose to apply for compassionate appointment before they reached the conclusion that the widow not having made a prompt application, the inescapable inference is that there was no financial crisis for the family. We do not approve of the reasoning that the State Authority have adopted to deal with the petitioner's case. They ought to have done much more than what they have done, while passing the impugned order dated 25.09.2023.

14. This Court must remark that the petitioner made his application for compassionate appointment on 10.11.2020 and on the own showing of the State Authority, the application was received by them from the District Cane Officer, Sambhal on 20.07.2021. The impugned order was passed on 25.09.2023. This order came to be passed after we had passed orders on 15.09.2023, asking the respondents to show cause in terms indicated in that order, which we have quoted hereinabove in extenso. In administrative decision making, this Court cannot lose sight of the fact that the primary decision maker, the Administrator, sometimes loses his objectivity, the moment he is visited with a judicial command to do his duty. Either he is panicked into acting erratically and taking a wrong decision or turns malicious and motivated to teach the man, who has brought a writ to him of any kind. Administrators must not panic or retaliate when faced with a judicial command, asking them to perform their duties. Sadly, they often do. Here, the Court thinks that the very nonchalant and halfhearted appraisal of the petitioner's claim, which the State Authority have done by the order impugned dated 25.09.2023, could be the result of either of the two possibilities that we have indicated above. We are sure that in the sequence of things, it is the result of one of the two; which one, would be best known to the State Cadre Authority themselves. We do not wish to probe into it, but caution the State Authority in this regard.

15. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 25.09.2023 passed by the State Authority and the order dated 30.09.2023 passed by the District Cane Officer, Sambhal are hereby quashed. The petitioner's application for compassionate appointment stands remitted to the State Authority, which they shall now decide strictly in accordance with law, within a period of one month, from the date of receipt of this judgment, bearing in mind our remarks.

16. Costs easy.

17. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated to the District Cane Officer, District Sambhal and the Adhyaksha, Rajya Ganna Pradhikaran, Uttar Pradesh by the Registrar (Compliance).

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition has been instituted by the widow of a deceased employee of the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow (for short, 'the Corporation'), praying that a mandamus be issued directing the respondents to refund the deducted sum of Rs.5,62,745/- out of the gratuity payable to her for her deceased husband's services, along with interest at the admissible rate.

2. The petitioner's husband was a Patrolman, a Class-IV employee, appointed against a regular vacancy on 01.04.1976, after following the procedure prescribed. He was promoted to the post of a Technician Grade-II (for short, 'TG-II') in the office of the Executive Engineer, Pashchimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Bulandshahr. In the year 2007, the petitioner's husband was TG-II In-charge in the Division of the Executive Engineer and while still in harness, he passed away on 24.07.2007. The respondents say that some receipt book was issued to the deceased employee for the purpose of ensuring collection of revenue from consumers. The deceased employee, after collecting the dues of the Pashchimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited (for short, 'the Distribution Corporation') from consumers, deposited it in the Distribution Corporation's account. Later on, the Executive Engineer issued a letter dated 17.05.2007 to the petitioner's husband, directing him to submit his explanation and return the receipt books, and something called an RR Statement etc. The details of receipt books, with their number and date of issue, were given in the letter issued to the deceased employee. The petitioner's husband deposited the revenue receipt books on 17.05.2007. The Executive Engineer proceeded to issue a letter dated 22.05.2007 to the deceased employee, informing him that a total sum of Rs.6,65,985/- was recovered by him on the basis of receipts available from consumers, but a sum of Rs.1,26,576/- alone was deposited in the Distribution Corporation's account. The balance sum of Rs.5,40,467/- be deposited, failing which penal action would be taken against him.

3. The allegation levelled against the deceased employee was that some receipt books for revenue collection were issued to the employee to facilitate collection on behalf of the Distribution Corporation, but when the receipt books were returned, the discrepancy, as aforesaid, in the sum of money collected in revenue from consumers and that deposited, was detected. On these allegations, the Assistant Accounts Officer got an FIR lodged against the deceased employee on 31.05.2007. On the selfsame allegations, the deceased employee was placed under suspension vide order dated 01.06.2007. Surprisingly, the order of suspension does not say if it is passed pending or in contemplation of inquiry or pending criminal investigation, though it says that the employee is being placed under suspension finding him prima facie guilty of embezzling a sum of Rs.5,40,467/-.

4. It is the petitioner's case that the allegation against the petitioner's husband, about non-deposit of the entire revenue collected from consumers, is baseless and he did not commit any embezzlement of the Distribution Corporation's moneys. It is averred that no inquiry in this regard was conducted or the liability determined in any departmental proceedings against the deceased employee. It was only an allegation and nothing more. The FIR, that was registered against the petitioner's husband, did not lead to any charge-sheet being filed against him in Court. He died on 24.07.2007, and the Investigating Officer submitted a Final Report on 02.06.2009. It was accepted by the Court on the same day. It must be remarked that the Final Report was submitted as the accused was dead and no proceedings could be taken.

5. On 27.06.2007, the Superintending Engineer wrote a letter to the Executive Officer saying that the sum of Rs.5,40,467/-, which appears prima facie embezzled by the employee, be recovered from the petitioner's husband and departmental proceedings initiated against him. Apparently, by that time, the employee was already dead, a fact of which the Superintending Engineer does not appear to have been aware. It is averred that the letter dated 27.06.2007 from the Superintending Engineer shows that, until the petitioner's husband's demise on 24.07.2007, no departmental proceedings had ever been initiated against him. The further case of the petitioner is that no charge-sheet was issued to the employee during his lifetime, or any action taken against him in accordance with law to recover the sum of money that was alleged to have been embezzled by him. On 07.10.2009, the Executive Engineer wrote a letter to the Panel Lawyer, representing the respondents, seeking his advice in the matter. The letter said that the petitioner's husband had caused a loss of Rs.5,63,000/-, but no liability had been fixed and the Police had submitted a Final Report. The learned Panel Lawyer gave opinion that the sum of money aforesaid can be recovered from the funds payable to the deceased employee's heirs.

6. The petitioner made a number of applications, seeking payment of death-cum-retirement benefits, including family pension and gratuity, but none were paid for a long time. One of these representations dated 23.06.2010 is annexed to the writ petition. A letter dated 27.09.2010 was written by the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-II, Distribution Corporation to the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-I, Bulandshahr, saying that there are no outstandings against the petitioner, except the sum of Rs.5,62,745/-, on account of revenue collected from the consumers, but not deposited by the deceased employee. An entry to that effect had been made in his pension papers with a request that after deducting the said sum of money from the gratuity payable to the petitioner, the necessary papers be made available to the Executive Engineer.

7. In furtherance of the letter dated 27.09.2010, the petitioner's family pension and all other dues were sanctioned and paid, but the sum of Rs.5,62,745/- was deducted from the gratuity payable to her on account of her husband's services illegally. The total sum of gratuity payable was a sum of Rs.8,33,052/-, from which the deduction was illegally made.

8. The petitioner, being aggrieved by the aforesaid illegal deduction, made a representation dated 28.10.2010 to the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-II, Bulandshahr, demanding payment of the sum of Rs.5,62,745/-, illegally deducted from the gratuity payable. It is the petitioner's case that since no liability had been fixed while the deceased was alive and no inquiry held during his lifetime, determining the liability, the respondents have no right to deduct the sum of money from the gratuity payable to the petitioner, merely on the basis of an allegation. It is specifically pleaded that neither departmental proceedings were initiated against the petitioner's husband, nor any inquiry conducted nor a show cause notice issued in this regard to the petitioner's husband, after he was placed under suspension. It is averred that without conducting disciplinary proceedings, affording due opportunity to the deceased employee while alive, no deduction can be made from his gratuity. The deduction is castigated as illegal. The fact of embezzlement is denied by the petitioner, who claims refund of the sum of money deducted from the gratuity paid to her on account of her husband's services.

9. It is also averred that the deceased employee was never terminated or removed from service during his lifetime and for the said reason, no deduction could be made from his gratuity in violation of Section 4(6) of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 (for short, 'the Act of 1972'). There is also reliance placed on a Board Order dated 10.03.1997, an order of the former State Electricity Board, said to be still in force, which prohibits recovery from the death-cum-retirement dues of a deceased employee, where the liability has not been fixed during his lifetime after issue of a show cause. Attention of the Court is also invited to the otherwise very obvious proposition of law, which the aforesaid Board Order incorporates that upon the death of an employee, departmental proceedings or judicial proceedings pending against him would abate.

10. A notice of motion was issued in the case on 18.10.2023 and a counter affidavit filed in Court on behalf of respondent No.4 on 28.11.2023. Respondent No.2, represented by Mr. Raj Kumar Mishra, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel, made a statement that they waive their right to file a counter affidavit as they were proforma parties. A rejoinder affidavit was also filed. When the matter came up before the Court on 13.12.2023, the parties having exchanged affidavits, it was admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith and concluded on that day. Judgment was reserved.

11. Heard Mr. Bhagwan Dutt Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Ridham Gupta, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Kaushalendra Nath Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Distribution Corporation, Mr. Raj Kumar Mishra, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Corporation and Ms. Amrita Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State.

12. This Court having heard learned Counsel for the parties finds that for a fact it is not disputed that during his lifetime, the petitioner's husband was not found guilty on any charge of embezzlement, either in departmental proceedings or by a Court of law. There is no material on record to show that except for the respondents' stand that he had not accounted for a sum of Rs.5,40,467/- that he had collected in revenue from consumers, an order was ever made by any competent officer of the Distribution Corporation, holding the petitioner's husband liable for the aforesaid sum of money. This could have been done during the petitioner's husband's lifetime in more than one ways. This liability could have been determined in consequence of disciplinary proceedings taken against the petitioner's husband, where the Disciplinary Authority could have held him liable for the aforesaid loss caused to the Distribution Corporation. In addition, there could be some basis for the Distribution Corporation to recover from the petitioner's husband's death-cum-retirement benefits, if he had been held guilty of embezzling the sum of money in question by a Court of competent criminal jurisdiction after trial. There was still this possibility of holding the petitioner's husband liable during his lifetime, in some kind of a summary proceeding by issuing a show cause notice to the employee and asking him to demonstrate why the sum of money in question be not recovered from him. In that case, after due opportunity, an order directing recovery passed against the petitioner's husband, could then be made the basis of recovery from the death-cum-retirement benefits due to the deceased's employee in the petitioner's hands.

13. A perusal of the stand taken in the counter affidavit does not show that any such course of action was taken by the Distribution Corporation during the lifetime of the petitioner's husband. No order passed after hearing the petitioner's husband, fixing liability against him, is in existence. If there were such an order indeed, it would have been annexed to the counter affidavit. In the absence of a determination of liability for the petitioner's husband made during his lifetime by some method acknowledged in law, it does not appear to be at all permissible to recover from his widow, in whose hands the deceased employee's death-cum-retirement benefits have come.

14. The second point, on which parties have been much at issue, is a letter written by the petitioner to the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-II of the Distribution Corporation at Bulandshahr, where she has said that she assures the Engineer that if the Corporation pays the death-cum-retirement benefits due to her on account of her husband's services, she is ready to deposit, after receipt of her dues, any outstandings against her husband, payable to the Distribution Corporation in accordance with rules. Now, this application was apparently made by the petitioner when the death-cum-retirement benefits due to her husband, were all withheld. Apart from the fact that the concession may be a desperate attempt to secure some of her deceased husband's dues to bail herself and the family out of financial difficulties, the application does not authorize any deduction to be made. It says that once the Distribution Corporation pays all death-cum-retirement benefits due to her husband, she assures that she would pay the Distribution Corporation any outstandings against her husband in accordance with rules. This was never an acknowledgment of any liability or an authorization by the petitioner to the Distribution Corporation to deduct unilaterally a mere claim of theirs from the petitioner's husband's gratuity.

15. It is to be noticed that the petitioner's husband's liability to pay the sum of money in question on account of revenue receipts illegally retained by him, has never been adjudicated or determined by any Authority or Forum and held payable by the deceased to the Distribution Corporation. It is no more than an allegation. It is not possible to prove it now anyway once the deceased employee has left the mortal world. There is no firm basis to accept the Distribution Corporation's case that in fact the deceased owed a sum of Rs.5,62,745/- to the Distribution Corporation on account of illegally retained revenues that he had collected. The case has never travelled beyond an allegation to ripen into a determination by any competent Authority or Forum while the deceased was still around.

16. The third issue, that has been mooted by parties, is, if at all it is open to the Distribution Corporation to recover the sum of money that they claim as embezzled by the deceased from gratuity payable to the petitioner on account of the deceased's services. In this connection, reference may be made to the Act of 1972, where Section 4 is relevant. Sub-Sections (1) and (6) of Section 4 of the Act of 1972 provide:

"4. Payment of gratuity.—(1) Gratuity shall be payable to an employee on the termination of his employment after he has rendered continuous service for not less than five years,—

(a) on his superannuation, or

(b) on his retirement or resignation, or

(c) on his death or disablement due to accident or disease:

Provided that the completion of continuous service of five years shall not be necessary where the termination of the employment of any employee is due to death or disablement:

Provided further that in the case of death of the employee, gratuity payable to him shall be paid to his nominee or, if no nomination has been made, to his heirs, and where any such nominees or heirs is a minor, the share of such minor, shall be deposited with the controlling authority who shall invest the same for the benefit of such minor in such bank or other financial institution, as may be prescribed, until such minor attains majority.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, disablement means such disablement as incapacitates an employee for the work which he was capable of performing before the accident or disease resulting in such disablement.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1),—

(a) the gratuity of an employee, whose services have been terminated for any act, wilful omission or negligence causing any damage or loss to, or destruction of, property belonging to the employer, shall be forfeited to the extent of the damage or loss so caused;

(b) the gratuity payable to an employee may be wholly or partially forfeited—

(i) if the services of such employee have been terminated for his riotous or disorderly conduct or any other act of violence on his part, or

(ii) if the services of such employee have been terminated for any act which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude, provided that such offence is committed by him in the course of his employment.

17. A perusal of Clause (a) of sub-Section (6) of Section 4 would show that gratuity of an employee may be forfeited to the extent of damage or loss caused to the employer, if his services have been terminated for any act, willful omission or negligence, causing any damage or loss to or destruction of the employer's property. It may be wholly or partially forfeited, if the employee's services have been terminated for his riotous or disorderly conduct or any other act of violence on his part. It can also be forfeited in whole or in part, if the employee's services have been terminated for an act which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude, provided such offence is committed in the course of his employment. This is more or less the phraseology of sub-Section (6) and its clauses to limit and define situations where gratuity payable to an employee may be forfeited, fully or in part. Else, the entitlement to receive gratuity is sacrosanct. Sub-Section (5) of Section 4 of the Act of 1972 does provide that the employee has the right to receive gratuity on better terms under an award or agreement or contract with the employer, that is to say, better than those provided under the Act of 1972. In case of employment under a State or State Corporation, there could be rules governing gratuity, that may offer better terms, or whatever that be. No such rules have been brought to the Court's notice on behalf of the respondents, which may entitle the employer to forfeit a part of the gratuity for loss caused to them merely for their saying. This the Court observes, because we have held elsewhere that no determination of liability against the petitioner's husband was ever made in any proceedings, known to law while he was alive.

18. If one were to go by the mandate of Section 4(6), which this Court thinks would apply in the present case, the deduction being made from gratuity, the right to forfeit gratuity or a part thereof, postulates the essential fact of termination of the employee's services for any act or omission envisaged under Section 4(6). The petitioner's husband was admittedly never terminated from service while alive. Not even a charge-sheet relating to disciplinary proceedings was issued to him, though he was placed under suspension in contemplation of inquiry. Departmental proceedings had to go a long way and end in termination of service in order to attract Clause (a) of sub-Section (6) of Section 4, where the charge of causing loss to the Corporation on account of embezzlement alleged, was held proved. If the petitioner's husband had been charge-sheeted by the Police and convicted on a charge of criminal breach of trust, it would have attracted Section 4(6)(b)(ii) of the Act of 1972 to authorize a partial or wholesome forfeiture of gratuity payable to the deceased in the petitioner's hands. This contingency also never came about, because the FIR, alleging embezzlement, lodged by the respondents, resulted in a Final Report as the deceased passed away. In these circumstances, this Court does not think that it was at all open to the respondents to recover any sum of money from the deceased's gratuity payable to the petitioner.

19. In this connection, reference may be made to a Bench decision of this Court in Bankey Bihari Chauhan v. State of U.P. and others, 2015(3) ADJ 305 (DB).

The facts in Bankey Bihari Chauhan (supra) show that disciplinary proceedings were initiated against a bus conductor of the State Road Transport Corporation and a charge-sheet issued to him. His reply was not found satisfactory and a show cause notice followed. After considering the employee's reply, the Disciplinary Authority found him negligent in the performance of his duties, which had resulted in financial loss to the State Road Transport Corporation in the sum of Rs.2,19,846/-. The State Road Transport Corporation passed an order to recover it from the gratuity payable to the employee. It was in the context of the aforesaid facts that their Lordships of the Division Bench held:

"7. In the decision of the Supreme Court in Jaswant Singh Gill v. Bharat Coking Coal Limited, (2007) 1 SCC 663, it has been held that termination of services for any of the causes enumerated in sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act is imperative before the gratuity can be forfeited. The same principle has been followed in a more recent decision of the Supreme Court in State of Jharkhand v. Jitendra Kumar Srivastava, 2013(2) ESC 554 (SC).

8. In the present case, it is not in dispute that the services of the appellant were never terminated. The appellant continued to be in service and retired on attaining the age of superannuation. In the circumstances, the basic pre-condition for the forfeiture of gratuity under Section 4 (6) of the Act was not fulfilled. We may also note that Regulation 63 of the Regulations provides for penalties and clause (4) thereof provides for the recovery from pay or deposit at the credit of an employee of the whole or part of a pecuniary loss caused to the Corporation by negligence or breach of an order. The Regulations must necessarily be harmonized with the provisions of the Act and cannot override the express statutory provision. In any event, it is clear that even Regulation 63 contains no such provision of recovery from gratuity. In these circumstances, we are of the view that the action for recovery from gratuity was contrary to law and in the teeth of the express provision of the Act....."

20. Reference in this connection may also be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Union Bank of India and others v. C.G. Ajay Babu and another, (2018) 9 SCC 529. In C.G. Ajay Babu (supra), it was held:

"15. Under sub-section (6)(a), also the gratuity can be forfeited only to the extent of damage or loss caused to the Bank. In case, the termination of the employee is for any act or wilful omission or negligence causing any damage or loss to the employer or destruction of property belonging to the employer, the loss can be recovered from the gratuity by way of forfeiture. Whereas under clause (b) of sub-section (6), the forfeiture of gratuity, either wholly or partially, is permissible under two situations: (i) in case the termination of an employee is on account of riotous or disorderly conduct or any other act of violence on his part, (ii) if the termination is for any act which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude and the offence is committed by the employee in the course of his employment. Thus, clause (a) and clause (b) of sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act operate in different fields and in different circumstances. Under clause (a), the forfeiture is to the extent of damage or loss caused on account of the misconduct of the employee whereas under clause (b), forfeiture is permissible either wholly or partially in totally different circumstances. Clause (b) operates either when the termination is on account of: (i) riotous, or

(ii) disorderly, or (iii) any other act of violence on the part of the employee, and under clause (ii) of sub-section (6)(b) when the termination is on account of any act which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude committed during the course of employment.

17. Though the learned counsel for the appellant Bank has contended that the conduct of the respondent employee, which leads to the framing of charges in the departmental proceedings involves moral turpitude, we are afraid the contention cannot be appreciated. It is not the conduct of a person involving moral turpitude that is required for forfeiture of gratuity but the conduct or the act should constitute an offence involving moral turpitude. To be an offence, the act should be made punishable under law. That is absolutely in the realm of criminal law. It is not for the Bank to decide whether an offence has been committed. It is for the court. Apart from the disciplinary proceedings initiated by the appellant Bank, the Bank has not set the criminal law in motion either by registering an FIR or by filing a criminal complaint so as to establish that the misconduct leading to dismissal is an offence involving moral turpitude. Under sub-section (6)(b)(ii) of the Act, forfeiture of gratuity is permissible only if the termination of an employee is for any misconduct which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude, and convicted accordingly by a court of competent jurisdiction.

18. In Jaswant Singh Gill v. Bharat Coking Coal Ltd. [Jaswant Singh Gill v. Bharat Coking Coal Ltd., (2007) 1 SCC 663 : (2007) 1 SCC (L&S) 584] , it has been held by this Court that forfeiture of gratuity either wholly or partially is permissible under sub-section (6)(b)(ii) only in the event that the termination is on account of riotous or disorderly conduct or any other act of violence or on account of an act constituting an offence involving moral turpitude when he is convicted. To quote para 13: (SCC p. 670)

"13. The Act provides for a close-knit scheme providing for payment of gratuity. It is a complete code containing detailed provisions covering the essential provisions of a scheme for a gratuity. It not only creates a right to payment of gratuity but also lays down the principles for quantification thereof as also the conditions on which he may be denied therefrom. As noticed hereinbefore, sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act contains a non obstante clause vis-à-vis sub-section (1) thereof. As by reason thereof, an accrued or vested right is sought to be taken away, the conditions laid down thereunder must be fulfilled. The provisions contained therein must, therefore, be scrupulously observed. Clause (a) of sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act speaks of termination of service of an employee for any act, wilful omission or negligence causing any damage. However, the amount liable to be forfeited would be only to the extent of damage or loss caused. The disciplinary authority has not quantified the loss or damage. It was not found that the damage or loss caused to Respondent 1 was more than the amount of gratuity payable to the appellant. Clause (b) of sub-section (6) of Section 4 of the Act also provides for forfeiture of the whole amount of gratuity or part in the event his services had been terminated for his riotous or disorderly conduct or any other act of violence on his part or if he has been convicted for an offence involving moral turpitude. Conditions laid down therein are also not satisfied."

19. In the present case, there is no conviction of the respondent for the misconduct which according to the Bank is an offence involving moral turpitude.

Hence, there is no justification for the forfeiture of gratuity on the ground stated in the order dated 20-4-2004 that the "misconduct proved against you amounts to acts involving moral turpitude". At the risk of redundancy, we may state that the requirement of the statute is not the proof of misconduct of acts involving moral turpitude but the acts should constitute an offence involving moral turpitude and such offence should be duly established in a court of law.

20. That the Act must prevail over the Rules on Payment of Gratuity framed by the employer is also a settled position as per Jaswant Singh Gill [Jaswant Singh Gill v. Bharat Coking Coal Ltd., (2007) 1 SCC 663 : (2007) 1 SCC (L&S) 584] . Therefore, the appellant cannot take recourse to its own Rules, ignoring the Act, for denying gratuity."

21. In view of whatever has been held by this Court and the position of the law authoritatively settled, we hold that it was not open to the respondents to recover the sum of Rs.5,62,745/- from the gratuity payable to the petitioner on account of death-cum-retirement benefits due to the petitioner's husband and now receivable by her.

22. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. A mandamus is issued to respondent Nos.2, 3, 4 and 5 to ensure amongst themselves immediate refund of the sum of Rs.5,62,745/- to the petitioner in account within a month of the date of receipt of a copy of this order. The said sum of money will carry simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum, reckoned from the month after death of the petitioner's husband, until realization. In the event, the said sum of money is not remitted in account to the petitioner within a month of receipt of a copy of this order by the respondents, it will carry simple interest at the rate of of 9% per annum beyond the period of one month as aforesaid, until realization.

23. There shall be no order as to costs.

24. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the Chairman, U.P. Power Corporation Limited, Shakti Bhawan, 14 Ashok Marg, Lucknow, the Deputy General Manager, Electricity Distribution Circle, Western Area, Pashchimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Railway Road, Bulandshahr, the Executive Engineer, Electricity Urban Distribution Division, Pashchimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Railway Road, Bulandshahr and the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Distribution Circle-1, Pashchimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Railway Road, Bulandshahr by the Registrar (Compliance).

Writ Petition Allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

The petitioner has applied for a mandamus to consider his case for compassionate appointment on account of his father's death in harness while in the employ of the respondent-Bank of Baroda.

2. The petitioner's father joined service of the Bank of Baroda, Khaga, Fatehpur Region, Fatehpur1 as a Peon on 09.10.1984. He was promoted from a Class IV post to a Class III post with the Bank. He was working as a Cashier in the year 2016. The petitioner's father died in harness on 21.02.2016. He left behind him a family of three - his widow, Smt. Gyanmati Devi and two sons, the petitioner, Rachit and his younger brother, Sachin.

3. It is the petitioner's case that his mother, being the only surviving adult in the family, moved an application on 10.01.2017 to the Branch Manager of the Bank, indicating that her elder son was 14 years old, and the younger, 11. It was also said that the family have been destituted and in the event, the petitioner's sons be regarded ineligible on account of their minority, their right to be considered must be postponed until a later date. The application desperately says in the end that either the petitioner's mother's candidature be considered or consideration of the petitioner's right be postponed, keeping it intact.

4. During the interregnum, nothing happened. The petitioner passed his High School Examination in the year 2020 and the Intermediate Examination in the year 2022. He earned his Bachelor of Science Degree from the Professor Rajendra Singh (Rajju Bhaiya) University, Prayagraj in the examination of 2022-23. The petitioner, after attaining majority, contacted the Branch Office of the Bank to gather progress about the consideration of his claim. The Branch Office advised the petitioner to move an application in the proforma prescribed for claiming compassionate appointment. The petitioner moved an application in the appropriate proforma on 20.01.2021. The petitioner's application in the proper proforma along with the checklist was forwarded on 02.03.2021. Despite submission of the application on 20.01.2021 along with the checklist separately and a 'No Objection' by the other family members, the claim has not been considered by the Bank, and therefore, the petitioner, being a member of the deceased's family, who say that they have not been able to tide over the resultant economic crisis, has prayed that this Court may issue a mandamus, directing the respondents to consider his claim.

5. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the Bank, after a notice of motion was issued.

6. In the brief facts, it is averred that a sum of ₹17,09,549 has been paid in all towards terminal benefits to the deceased's widow, Smt. Gyanmati Devi. The widow is also being paid family pension in the sum of ₹17,332 per month. It is not denied that when the deceased Shyam Lal passed away, the scheme dated 18.02.2016 for compassionate appointment or payment of ex gratia or financial relief was in force. It is pleaded that in order to seek compassionate appointment, the applicant must have completed 18 years of age. It is also the respondents' case that for entitlement to compassionate appointment or ex gratia financial relief to the dependant of a deceased employee, the deceased should not have crossed the age of 55 years at the time of his demise in harness. Since in the present case, the deceased was aged 57 years, the benefit of compassionate scheme or ex gratia financial scheme is not available to his dependants.

7. The petitioner's mother moved an application on 01.02.2021, saying that earlier the date of birth disclosed for the petitioner in her deceased husband's service record as 24.12.2003 is incorrect and the correct date of birth of the petitioner is 24.12.2002. It has been castigated by the respondents as a suppression of fact. It is also asserted as a suppression of fact that the petitioner's mother, on three earlier occasions, had moved applications seeking compassionate appointment, all of which were declined on 31.03.2017, 10.04.2017 and 13.03.2018. It is pleaded in paragraph No. 21 that when the deceased's widow applied for compassionate appointment for her son on earlier occasions, she was advised that it is not permissible for him to be appointed, inasmuch as on 21.02.2016, he was aged 12 years, 1 month and 27 days and by time he attained the age of 17 years, the period of five years would have already expired.

8. A rejoinder affidavit was filed on behalf of the petitioner. The parties having exchanged affidavits, the writ petition was heard finally on 19.12.2023. Judgment was reserved.

9. Heard Mr. Prabhakar Awasthi along with Mr. Suresh Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Ashok Trivedi, learned Counsel appearing for respondents Nos. 2, 3 and 4, and Mr. Satish Chandra Singh, Advocate holding brief of Ms. Annapurna Singh Chandel, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No. 1.

10. Upon hearing learned Counsel for parties, what this Court finds is that respondents have not been very fair in considering the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment under the scheme that was in vogue. The plea taken that since the petitioner's father died at the age of 57 years, the petitioner is not eligible under the scheme, is a patent misreading of the scheme. The scheme for compassionate appointment, called the Scheme for Compassionate Appointment or Payment of Ex-Gratia Financial Relief to Dependants of Deceased Employees on Compassionate Grounds2, is annexed as Annexure CA-3 to the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondents Nos. 2 and 3. It is annexed to a circular letter of the Bank addressed to all branches and offices of theirs. A perusal of Paragraph No. 1 of the Scheme, that speaks about coverage, reads :

1.1 To a dependent family member of a permanent employee of the Bank who

a) Dies while in service (including death by suicide)

b) is retired on medical grounds due to incapacitation before reaching the age of 55 years Incapacitation is to be certified by a duly appointed Medical Board in a Government Medical College/Government District Head Quarters Hospitals/Panel of Doctors nominated by the Bank for the purpose).

1.2 For the purpose of the Scheme "employee" would mean and include only a confirmed regular employee who was serving full time or part time on scale wages, at the time of death OR retirement on medical grounds, before reaching age of 55 years and does not include any one engaged on contract/temporary/casual or any person who is paid on commission basis.

11. Upon a reading of paragraphs Nos. 1.1 and 1.2 together, particularly with reference to Clauses (a) and (b) of Paragraph 1.1, it is evident that a dependant family member of a permanent employee of the Bank is one defined with reference to a permanent employee, who dies while in service, including a person who dies by suicide. Clause (b) of paragraph 1.1 says that a dependant family member could be one in relation to a person who has retired on medical grounds due to incapacitation before reaching the age of 55 years. Likewise, the word “or” used in Paragraph 1.2 of the scheme makes it evident that the upper age limit for the employee in order to entitle his dependant family members under the Scheme, is prescribed in the contingency where the employee is retired on medical grounds due to incapacitation. It does not apply to a case of death in harness. To the clear understanding of this Court, death in harness has nothing to do with the age of the employee, who dies while still in the Bank’s service. If this is the criteria by which the petitioner’s claim has been judged by the respondents, we have no hesitation in saying that it has been misjudged by a manifestly illegal understanding of their own scheme by the Bank. So far as the other contention is concerned, that the petitioner was a minor and by the time he turned 17, the maximum permissible period of limitation of five years would be over is, again, based on a misreading of paragraph No. 8 of the scheme. Paragraph No. 8 of the Scheme reads :

8. TIME LIMIT FOR CONSIDERING APPLICATIONS:

8.1 Request for appointment should be received by the Bank within one year from the date of death of the employee

8.2 Application for employment under the Scheme from eligible dependents can normally be considered upto five years from the date of death or retirement on medical grounds and decision to be taken on merits of each case.

8.3 However, Bank can consider request for compassionate appointment even when the death or retirement on medical grounds of the employee took place long back, even five years ago (in cases where the dependant's eligibility is not there immediately). however, in any case, not before 05.08.2014 as the scheme is applicable from 05.08.2014 onwards While considering such belated requests, it should, however be kept in view that the concept of compassionate appointment is largely related to the need for immediate assistance to the family of the employee in order to relieve it from economic distress. The very fact that the family has been able to manage somehow all these years should normally be taken as adequate proof that the family had some dependable means of subsistence Therefore. examination of such cases would call for a great deal of circumspection. The decision to make appointment on compassionate grounds in such cases (cases of death / medical retirement which occurred more than 5 years back) will therefore, be taken only at the level of MD & CEO

12. A reading of sub-para (3) of Paragraph No. 8 of the Scheme shows that the usual period for consideration is up to five years from the date of death. However, the concluding words of Paragraph No. 8.3 would show that consideration beyond five years is also possible, but that decision has to be taken by the Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer3 of the Bank. It is said in Paragraph No. 8.3 that if the family have been able to survive for a period of five years, it would normally be taken as adequate proof that the family has some dependable means for sustenance. It is for this reason that cases beyond the period five years have to be dealt with a great deal of circumspection. The decision to consider beyond five years has to be taken by the MD & CEO of the Bank. The fact that the decision to consider beyond five years can be taken, whoever might be the officer competent, the Bank cannot take a stand that beyond five years, no consideration is permissible.

13. Then, there are some general rules applicable for evaluating cases for compassionate appointment. These provisions are carried in paragraph No. 16 of the Scheme. Paragraph No. 16 reads :

16. GENERAL:

16.1 Appointment made on grounds of compassion to be done in such a way that persons appointed to the post oo have the essential educational anc technical qualifications and experience required for the post consistent with the requirement of maintenance of efficiency of administration.

16.2 It is not the intention to restrict employment of a family member of the deceased or medically retired sub-staff employee to an erstwhile sub-staff post only As such, a family member of such erstwhile sub-staff employee can be appointed to a clerical post for which he/she is educationally qualified, provided a vacancy in clerical post exists for this purpose.

16.3 An application for compassionate appointment shall, however not be rejected merely on the ground that the family of the employee has received the benefits due the benefits under the various welfare schemes. While considering a request for appointment on compassionate grounds, a balanced and objective assessment of the financial condition of the family has to be made taking into account its assets and liabilities (including the benefits received under the various welfare schemes mentioned above) and all other relevant factors such as the presence of an earning member, size of the family, etc.

16.4 Compassionate appointment shall be made available to the person concerned if there is a vacancy meant for compassionate appointment and he or she is found eligible and suitable under the scheme.

16.5 Requests for compassionate appointment consequent on death or retirement on medical grounds of erstwhile sub-staff may be considered with greater sympathy by applying relaxed standards depending on the facts and circumstances of the case.

16.6 Compassionate appointment will have precedence over absorption of surplus employees and regularization of temporary employees.

14. The stand in the counter affidavit to the effect that a lump sum of ₹17,09,549 have been paid to the widow and she is being paid a family pension in the sum of ₹17,332 is not enough to infer that the family are not living in penurious circumstances and their means are sufficient to sustain themselves in life. The deceased was a Class III employee and a sum of rupees seventeen lacs and odd is not such a princely sum in these hard days that the same can serve as an assurance about sustenance for the family. The pension too is a meagre sum. What has to be borne in mind is the fact that the deceased has two sons and a widow. While the pension paid to her and the lump sum payment may barely serve the widow's purpose to keep her body and soul together, it may not really serve the family to provide for their basic needs. The needs here would be the sons' education. The petitioner's younger brother is three years younger to him age. He might still be requiring funds to study. The family could be in need of other things, like roof and shelter, about which, there has been no inquiry. There is no inquiry disclosed about alternate sources of income.

15. Paragraph 16.3 of the Scheme says that a claim for compassionate appointment cannot be rejected on the ground that the family of the deceased have received benefits due to various welfare schemes. There has to be a balanced and objective assessment of the family's financial condition, taking into account their assets and liabilities, which would, of course, include benefits received from the Bank and other relevant factors, such as the presence of an earning member, size of the family. As we have remarked, the needs of the family like money for provision of roof and shelter and education of children, is very relevant. Unfortunately, the counter affidavit shows a very nonchalant approach that the Bank have adopted in resisting the petitioner's claim. They have not passed any orders on his claim as yet, as no order is annexed. It is possibly so, because the Bank have taken the claim to be time-barred. Even that order has not been passed. We have already held that the claim is not irredeemably time-barred and can be considered by the appropriate officials of the Bank, which, in this case, may be the MD & CEO of the Bank. This Court thinks that if the petitioner's claim on account of it being belated beyond five years is required by the Scheme to be considered by the MD & CEO of the Bank, he ought to consider it, bearing in mind the guidance in this judgment.

16. In the result, this petition succeeds and stands allowed. A mandamus is issued to the Assistant General Manager, Bank of Baroda, Regional Office, Fatehpur, the Regional Head, Bank of Baroda, Fatehpur Region, Fatehpur and the Senior Branch Manager, Bank of Baroda, Branch Khaga, District Fatehpur to ensure, amongst themselves, that the MD & CEO of the Bank is immediately apprised of the petitioner's claim, which shall be submitted to him and the claim decided by the MD & CEO of the Bank within one month from the date of receipt of a copy of this order by him through any of the respondents Nos. 2, 3 and 4, to all of whom this order shall be communicated. After the necessary decision is taken by the MD & CEO, the Assistant General Manager, Bank of Baroda, Regional Office, Fatehpur shall ensure that that orders of the MD & CEO are communicated to the petitioner within fifteen days of the MD &

CEO recording his decision on the petitioner's claim.

17. There shall be no order as to costs.

18. The Registrar (Compliance) is directed to communicate this order to the Assistant General Manager, Bank of Baroda, Regional Office, Fatehpur, the Regional Head, Bank of Baroda, Fatehpur Region, Fatehpur and the Senior Branch Manager, Bank of Baroda, Branch Khaga, District Fatehpur.

3. On 09.01.2022, the Chief Development Officer, Basti issued a communication to the Heads of different departments of the District for sparing two Clerks/Computer Assistant on 10.01.2022 for their presence at, something described by the petitioner, as Integrated Command and Control Centre, Vikas Bhawan, Basti (for short, the 'ICCC'), in deference to the directions issued by the District Magistrate for the purpose of effective instruction in vaccination details pertaining to the CoViD-19 Omicron Variant. The Senior Cane Development Inspector, by an order dated 10.01.2022, directed the petitioner to be present at the ICCC, Vikas Bhawan. In compliance, the petitioner reported at the ICCC, Vikas Bhawan and discharged all assigned work to him until 26.03.2022. On 26.03.2022, the Chief Development Officer, Basti passed an order to the effect that for the present CoViD-19 was almost not there and proceeded to relieve all the employees attached at the ICCC, Vikas Bhawan for resuming their normal duties. Upon being relieved, the petitioner submitted his joining report before the Senior Cane Development Inspector on 28.03.2022. On 28.03.2022 itself, the Senior Cane Development Inspector also issued orders to the petitioner allocating him work. The petitioner continued to discharge his duties and it was business as usual.

4. On the 5th of April, 2022, the petitioner fell ill. An intimation of the fact was given by the petitioner by an application dated 06.04.2022. The application aforesaid was also accompanied by his medical report and prescription. The petitioner, however, did not regain health immediately and remained under constant medical treatment. In support of the fact, he has placed on record his medical reports and prescriptions of successive dates between 20.04.2022 to 20.06.2022.

5. On 06.05.2022, departmental proceedings were instituted against the petitioner and the District Cane Officer, Gonda was appointed the Inquiry Officer. The aforesaid order was followed by a departmental charge-sheet. Pending the aforesaid proceedings, the Cane Commissioner proceeded to pass an order dated 07.12.2022, placing the petitioner under suspension pending inquiry. The petitioner was in the first instance issued a charge-sheet dated 15.06.2022, carrying four charges. Subsequently, another charge-sheet was issued on 22.06.2022 carrying two charges. The petitioner submitted a composite reply to the two charge-sheets dated 15.06.2022 and 22.12.2022, on 11.01.2023, denying the charges and raising pleas in defence. While submitting his reply to the charge-sheets, the petitioner requested for an oral hearing. On 13.01.2023, the Inquiry Officer issued a notice fixing 20.01.2023 as the date of hearing. However, information of the aforesaid date was sent to the petitioner on 20.01.2023, which was the date fixed. It is on this account that the petitioner was not able to participate in the scheduled hearing on 20.01.2023.

6. The petitioner made an application dated 20.01.2023 seeking adjournments of the inquiry proceedings. The petitioner's request was accepted and the inquiry adjourned to 25.01.2023. On 25.01.2023, the petitioner appeared before the Inquiry Officer.

7. It is averred in paragraph no. 23 that the Inquiry Officer did not hold any kind of inquiry on the said date. No evidence of any kind was led by the Establishment to prove the charges against the petitioner. No oral testimony was given to prove any of the documents sought to be relied upon against the petitioner. In paragraph no. 24, it is averred that the Inquiry Officer on 25.01.2023 put certain questions to the petitioner and required him to answer the same. And that was all.

8. The Inquiry Officer, without holding an inquiry in accordance with salutary principles in a matter, where a major penalty may be imposed, proceeded to hold all the six charges proved by his report dated 03.02.2023. On 15.03.2023, the Cane Commissioner issued a notice to the petitioner along with a copy of the inquiry report, granting him time to file his objections. On 22.04.2022, the petitioner filed his objections to the inquiry report and also requested a de novo inquiry through an unbiased Inquiry Officer. No action whatsoever was taken on the basis of the petitioner's reply to the second show cause. Instead, the Commissioner issued a notice dated 26.05.2023 scheduling 08.06.2023 as the date for personally hearing the petitioner. Upon receipt of the said notice, the petitioner filed a further representation dated 30.05.2023. However, no action was taken on the petitioner's representation last mentioned. On 16.06.2023, the Commissioner proceeded to pass the impugned order dismissing the petitioner from service. The petitioner challenged the order passed by the Cane Commissioner, his Disciplinary Authority by filing an appeal to the State Government on 06.07.2023. The appeal lay dormant with the State Government.

9. Accordingly, the petitioner moved this Court by means of Writ-A No. 1279 of 2023, seeking a direction to the State Government to decide the appeal. The writ petition filed by the petitioner was disposed of vide order dated 17.08.2023, ordering the Principal Secretary, Department of Sugar Industries and Cane Development, Government of U.P., acting for the State Government, to decide the petitioner's pending appeal by a reasoned and speaking order within a month and communicate the result to the petitioner within a week of recording the order made.

10. In compliance with the orders of this Court dated 17.08.2023, the State Government rejected the petitioner's appeal vide order dated 18.09.2023. Aggrieved by the orders dated 16.06.2023 and 18.09.2023, the petitioner has instituted this petition under Article 226 of the Constitution.

11. A notice of motion was issued on 08.11.2023 and a counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent nos. 2, 3 and 4 on 05.12.2023. Learned Counsel for the petitioner waived his opportunity to file a rejoinder. Parties having exchanged affidavits, this petition was admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith. Judgment was reserved.

12. Heard Mr. Akhilesh Chandra Srivastava, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Monika Arya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents.

13. In answering the case of the petitioner that no evidence, oral or documentary was produced by the Establishment to prove the charges, no inquiry was held worth the name and that the Inquiry officer did nothing more than interrogate the petitioner as pleaded in paragraph nos. 23 and 24 of the writ petition, the respondents have pleaded in paragraph no. 14 of the counter affidavit as follows:

"14. That the contents of paragraph nos. 20, 21, 22, 23, and 24 of the writ petition are not admitted in the manner stated hence denied, in reply thereto, it is submitted that enquiry officer, District Cane Officer, Gonda vide his letter dated 13.01.2023 fixed the date for personal/oral hearing of the petitioner on 20.01.2023 and directed the petitioner to be present on the date fixed but petitioner did not come on the date fixed for oral hearing on 20.1.2023 rather vide his letter dated 20.01.2023 which was received in the office on 23.01.2023 informed that he got the information of the oral hearing on 20.01.2023 at 11.00 A.M. and in such situation it is not possible for him to reach on the fixed date so he may be granted a week time. Petitioner was again directed to be present for oral hearing on 25.01.2023 vide letter dated 20.01.2023. Petitioner was present on the date fixed for oral hearing on 25.01.2023 and replied in writing to the questions asked that, "he has to say nothing except his reply dated 12.01.2023". True copy of the letters dated 13.01.2023 and 20.01.2023 are being collectively annexed herewith and marked as Annexure CA-9 to this counter affidavit."

14. The six charges against the petitioner, four carried in the charge-sheet dated 15.06.2022, read thus:

"आरोप संख्या-1

15. Likewise, in the supplementary charge-sheet dated 22.12.2022, the following two charges figure thus:

"आरोप संख्या-1

अपचारी कार्मिक पर जिला गन्ना अधिकारी, बस्ती के पत्र संख्याः1402/स्था., दिनांक 23.08.2022 द्वारा प्रदत्त सूचना के अनुसार ऊंचे रसूख के बल पर विगत कई वर्षों से कार्यालय में मनमाने ढंग से उपस्थित रहने व विभागीय कार्य न करने, कई बार मौखिक एवं लिखित रूप से नियमानुसार विभागीय कार्य करने हेतु सचेत किये जाने के उपरान्त भी अपनी आदत में कोई सुधार न करते हुए कार्यालय समय से न आने, उपस्थिति पंजिका पर जबरदस्ती हस्ताक्षर कर चले जाने, सरकारी सेवा नियमों का पालन नहीं करने एवं उच्चाधिकारियों के आदेशों का उल्लंघन करने, साजिशन एवं प्रतिशोधवश अपने व्यक्तिगत मोबाइल नं. 7007064009 का उपयोग कर छद्म व्यक्ति के नाम से आई.जी.आर.एस. करके विभाग की छवि धूमिल किये जाने एवं कर्मचारी आचरण नियमावली 1956 के विरूद्ध कार्य करने का आरोप है।"

16. A perusal of the charges shows that the first charge is about presence of the petitioner in the ICCC, Vikas Bhawan during the Covid control programme and the ensuing Assembly elections, which the petitioner says he attended and the respondents charged him with unauthorized absence. The second charge is about the petitioner being attached to the headquarters and it says that the petitioner was conveyed the orders by the Senior Cane Development Inspector vide his memo dated 11.04.2022. It says that the Senior Cane Development Inspector conveyed the petitioner the order of his attachment to headquarters on a Whatsapp call and via a mobile phone call, besides conveying it through registered post. The charges that the petitioner did not comply with the order and join headquarters, where he was attached by citing ill-health. The third charge is about the petitioner's absence from the Board office during inspection done by the Senior Cane Development Inspector on 31.03.2022, and later on, the petitioner came back to the office and signed the attendance register at 2 O'Clock. The charge is one about not attending the office on time and petitioner having his way with signing the attendance register. In the supplementary charge-sheet, the charge is about not acknowledging service of a copy of the charge-sheet at his local address and despite being called by the District Cane Officer over Whatsapp, the petitioner deliberately avoided receiving a copy of the charge-sheet. The second charge in the supplementary charge-sheet is about his indifferent presence in the office and not undertaking departmental duties despite being warned in writing and orally in this regard. It is also said that in the last charge that there is no improvement in the petitioner's ways of nonchalance towards official duties. Part of the last charge is also an allegation regarding forcibly signing the attendance register.

17. Upon hearing the learned Counsel for parties and perusing the charges, this Court is of opinion that nature of the charges are such that it would be imperative to prove them for the Establishment not just by producing documents, but examining witnesses. Even otherwise, in a case involving the imposition of a major penalty, the salutary principle is that the Establishment must prove the charge before the Inquiry Officer in a duly constituted inquiry by producing evidence through a Presenting Officer. The Inquiry Officer must distance himself from the Establishment, which he otherwise serves and act as an impartial arbiter. He must not believe or think that the charges in the charge-sheet are proof of themselves. Instead, he must know that it is the burden of the Establishment, the employer, who brings the charges to prove them in the first instance by producing documentary evidence and examining witnesses. After this burden is discharged through the agency of a Presenting Officer, producing documentary and oral evidence, the chargesheeted employee has a right to cross-examine the Establishment's witnesses. Once the Establishment have gone through with their evidence, the Inquiry Officer must give opportunity to the chargesheeted employee to lead his defence evidence, which can again be both documentary and oral, that is to say, witnesses.

18. A perusal of the inquiry report shows that all that the Inquiry Officer has done is to juxtapose the charges and the petitioner's defence in his reply and then gleaning through idle papers on record, recording findings on each of the charges. There has been no evidence led before the Inquiry Officer, at a duly constituted inquiry, by the Establishment, to prove their case. The oral inquiry of which the Inquiry Officer speaks was no more than an interrogation of the petitioner with the Inquiry Officer putting him questions with reference to the charges. An Inquiry officer may question the delinquent at an appropriate stage, but if this is the only exercise done in an inquiry, it is, in fact, no inquiry in the eyes of law, on the basis of a major penalty may be imposed. If the Inquiry Officer, placing the charge-sheet and the delinquent's reply together, puts questions in the inquiry to the delinquent and does nothing more, it shows that the fundamental principle of a fair inquiry is breached. It shows that the Inquiry Officer assumes the charges to be correct and requires the delinquent or the chargesheeted employee to come up with a defence that may dispel the charges. This cannot be the procedure to be adopted in formal proceedings of a departmental inquiry, involving the possible imposition of a major penalty, as the case here. Here, the Inquiry Officer has indeed done nothing to require the Establishment to prove the charges. He has held the charges proved because he has assumed them to be true.

19. The nature of the charges here, for instance about the petitioner forcibly signing the attendance register, is something which cannot be held proved because an officer has complained in this regard against the petitioner. If the charge is to be proved on a written complaint of the officer, who saw the petitioner forcibly or deviously mark his attendance creating false record, the fundamentals of a fair inquiry would require that the author of the complaint must be examined as a witnesses before the Inquiry Officer and made available to the delinquent for cross-examination. If this charge is based on the oral evidence of other employees or officers reporting the petitioner forcibly marking his attendance, the employees ought to have been produced as witnesses before the Inquiry Officer through a Presenting Officer and the employee given an opportunity to cross-examine them.

20. Likewise, the charge about absconding from the ICCC meeting unauthorizedly, which the petitioner utterly denies and says that he was throughout present, also requires proof through the testimony of some witness; not just the written reports made by one or the other officer.

21. The principle that the Establishment have to prove the charge in the first instance in a matter involving the imposition of a major penalty by leading both documentary and oral evidence before an inquiry formally convened, is well established, going by the holding of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others, (2009) 2 SCC 570, State of Uttaranchal and others v. Kharak Singh, (2008) 8 SCC 236 and the Bench decisions of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal an another, 2018 (9) ADJ 397 (DB)(LB), Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P., 2018 (9) ADJ 107 (DB)(LB) and State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB)(LB)

22. A perusal of the Inquiry Officer's report, the Disciplinary Authority's order and the Appellate Authority's order as well, shows that all singularly fall foul of the principle that requires the Establishment to prove the charges by producing evidence, both documentary and oral. The Inquiry Officer has committed a breach of this principle himself by hardly holding an inquiry worth the name and the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority have committed a grave error of law in not noticing this fundamental flaw in the inquiry conducted by the Inquiry Officer. Even if this point was not raised by the delinquent, who is a layman, this fundamental principle governing a departmental inquiry where a major penalty may be imposed ought to have been in the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority's ken, who would know the procedure to hold an inquiry, involving a major penalty, much more than the petitioner.

23. In the circumstances, this Court is of opinion that the impugned orders are vitiated, as also the inquiry report. The result would be that proceedings would have to be taken again, if the respondents desire to pursue them from the stage of the charge-sheet. Everything beyond the charge-sheet has to be nullified.

24. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned orders dated 16.06.203 passed by the Commissioner, Department of Sugar Industries and Cane Development, U.P., Lucknow and the appellate order dated 18.09.2023 passed by the State Government acting through the Principal Secretary, Department of Sugar Industries and Cane Development, U.P., Lucknow are hereby quashed. The petitioner is ordered to be reinstated in service forthwith and paid his current salary regularly.

25. The question of arrears would depend upon the respondents election to pursue fresh proceedings against the petitioner. If the respondents elect to pursue fresh proceedings, the issue of arrears would be for the respondents to decide dependent upon the event in fresh proceedings to be taken. If however, the respondents do not elect to pursue fresh proceedings, the petitioner would be entitled to 50% of the arrears of his emoluments for the period that he has remained out of service. If fresh proceedings are pursued by the respondents, it goes without saying that these would be concluded expeditiously with which the petitioner shall cooperate.

26. There shall be no order as to costs.

8. Ram Bachan Singh Vs C.E.O. Khadi Gramodyog & ors., Writ-A No.52811 of 2012

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. his writ petition is directed against an order dated 16.09.2023 passed by the Secretary, Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut and a further order dated 25.09.2023 passed by the Secretary aforesaid, requiring the petitioner to vacate his official quarters.

2. The petitioner was employed as a Supervisor in the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Garh Road, Meerut and transferred to Shri Gandhi Ashram, Khadi Bhandar, Baraut, District Baghpat vide order dated 04.09.2023, passed by the Secretary, Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut. The petitioner says that he was also the elected Secretary of the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram Employees Union, Meerut. It is averred that the petitioner moved a complaint dated 08.09.2023 before the Branch Manager of the Union Bank and the Canara Bank, where accounts of the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut are maintained, about execution of a forged sale deed on behalf of the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut in favour of one Ranuka Ashiyana Private Limited, besides misuse of funds by the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut. An inquiry was conducted into the complaint and operation of the Bank Accounts of the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut was stopped. The petitioner was threatened by the Secretary of the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut to withdraw his complaint, upon pain of facing dire consequences.

3. It is the petitioner's case that bickering arising out of the said complaints that the petitioner had made, led the Secretary of the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut to pass the order impugned dated 16.09.2023, dismissing the petitioner from service, without holding any inquiry. It is said that the order is absolutely bad in the eye of law as it was passed without affording opportunity of hearing. By the other order impugned dated 25.09.2023, the petitioner has been asked to handover possession of the house allotted to him as an employee of the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut. Both these orders have been impugned by the petitioner by means of the present writ petition.

4. When the matter came up for admission before this Court on 22.11.2023, this Court passed the following order:

"Learned Counsel for the petitioner will indicate the organizational set up to show how a writ petition is maintainable against Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut, which appears to be a private registered society.

Lay as fresh again on 06.12.2023."

5. On 13.12.2023, this petition was heard on the question of maintainability, where learned Counsel for respondent Nos.2 and 3 was also heard. Orders were reserved.

6. Heard Mr. Abhishek Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Rajiv Sharma, learned Counsel appearing for respondent Nos.2 and 3.

7. The petitioner has relied upon the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Khadi and Village Industries Board Act, 1960 (for short, 'the Act of 1960') to submit that the respondent, Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut, discharges statutory duties of a public character, and, therefore, the present writ petition is maintainable.

8. Mr. Rajiv Sharma, learned Counsel for respondent Nos.2 and 3, on the other hand, submits that the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram is a registered society under the Societies Registration Act, 1860. It is neither an instrumentality of the State nor in the exercise of whatever duties it performs, does it discharge any kind public functions. The provisions of the Act of 1960 do not apply. It is also submitted that the Khadi Ashram Sewa Niyamawali is not at all statutory in character and are service rules framed by the private registered society for its employees. Even if there is violation of the Sewa Niyamawali or principles of natural justice, a writ petition would not lie against a private registered society, unless the society is discharging functions essentially of a public character or there is any violation of a statute.

9. Learned Counsel for the petitioner, in support of his contention, has placed reliance upon the holding of the Supreme Court in U.P. State Cooperative Land Development Bank Ltd. v. Chandra Bhan Dubey and others, (1999) 1 SCC 741, besides the Full Bench of our own Court in Vijay Bihari Srivastava v. U.P. Postal Primary Co-operative Bank Ltd., 2002 (5) AWC 308.

10. No doubt, in Chandra Bhan Dubey (supra), the Supreme Court does seem to obliterate the divide between public duties and private duties or public functions and private functions for the purpose of maintainability of a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution and greatly expanded the scope of the High Court's writ, where it has been held:

"25. In Air India Statutory Corpn. v. United Labour Union [(1997) 9 SCC 377 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 1344] this Court speaking through a Bench of three Judges said: (SCC pp. 435-36, para 60)

"60. The public law remedy given by Article 226 of the Constitution is to issue not only the prerogative writs provided therein but also any order or direction to enforce any of the fundamental rights and 'for any other purpose'. The distinction between public law and private law remedy by judicial adjudication gradually marginalised and became obliterated. In LIC v. Escorts Ltd. [(1986) 1 SCC 264] (SCC at p. 344), this Court in para 102 had pointed out that the difficulty will lie in demarcating the frontiers between the public law domain and the private law field. The question must be decided in each case with reference to the particular action, the activity in which the State or the instrumentality of the State is engaged when performing the action, the public law or private law character of the question and the host of other relevant circumstances. Therein, the question was whether the management of LIC should record reasons for accepting the purchase of the shares? It was in that fact-situation that this Court held that there was no need to state reasons when the management of the shareholders by resolution reached the decision. This Court equally pointed out in other cases that when the State's power as economic power and economic entrepreneur and allocator of economic benefits is subject to the limitations of fundamental rights, a private corporation under the functional control of the State engaged in an activity hazardous to the health and safety of the community, is imbued with public interest which the State ultimately proposes to regulate exclusively on its industrial policy. It would also be subject to the same limitations as held in M.C. Mehta v. Union of India [(1987) 1 SCC 395 : 1987 SCC (L&S) 37]."

11. However, what cannot be lost sight of is the fact that the observations of their Lordships, for the maintainability of a writ petition against any person or authority, irrespective of whether the action arose under the public law or private law, were made in the context of the Uttar Pradesh Cooperative Land Development Bank, an entity not only governed by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative. Societies Act, 1965 (for short, 'the Act of 1965'), that deeply regulates the functions of a Cooperative Society, but further that Cooperative Societies, like the Bank under reference, was subject to statutory control by the State Government. The State Government constituted the Uttar Pradesh Cooperative Institutional Service Board. The Service Board, with the approval of the Governor, framed regulations, called U.P. Co-operative Societies Employees Service Regulations, 1975. The Board, last mentioned, and the Regulations of 1975 would closely protect many of the rights of employees of Cooperative Societies like the appellant Bank in Chandra Bhan Dubey. It was in this context that it was remarked in paragraph No.25 of the report that the State Government had control on the appellant, that was all pervasive and their employees had statutory protection.

12. The other wider remarks of their Lordships are to be understood in the context of the establishment, structure, statutory regulation and government control, in case of a Cooperative Society, functioning under the Act of 1965. The case of a society, like Shri Gandhi Ashram, is very different. It is no more than a registered society, registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860. The Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut is a regional body. Its parent body is the Shri Gandhi Ashram, Lucknow. There is no statute, regulating the functioning of the society, or providing the State and its Officers, control over their affairs. In a later decision, the Supreme Court, considering the ratio in Chandra Bhan Dubey regarding the maintainability of a writ petition against a Cooperative Society, held in S.S. Rana v. Registrar, Coop. Societies and another, (2006) 11 SCC 634:

"16. Our attention has also been drawn to U.P. State Coop. Land Development Bank Ltd. v. Chandra Bhan Dubey [(1999) 1 SCC 741 : 1999 SCC (L&S) 389] wherein the writ petition was held to be maintainable principally on the ground that it had been created under an Act. Reliance has also been placed upon Ram Sahan Rai v. Sachiv Samanaya Prabandhak [(2001) 3 SCC 323 : 2001 SCC (L&S) 584] wherein again the appellant thus was recruited in a society constituted under the U.P. Cooperative Land Development Bank Act, 1964 and this Court, having examined different provisions of rules, bye-laws and regulations, was of the firm opinion that the State Government exercised all-pervasive control over the Bank and moreover its employees were governed by statutory rules, prescribing an entire gamut of procedure of initiation of disciplinary proceedings by framing a set of charges culminating in inflicting of appropriate punishment, after complying with the requirements of giving a show-cause and an opportunity of hearing to the delinquent.

18. We may notice in some decisions, some High Courts have held wherein that a writ petition would be maintainable against a society if it is demonstrated that any mandatory provision of the Act or the Rules framed thereunder, have been violated by it. (See Bholanath Roy v. State of W.B. [(1996) 1 Cal LJ 502]).

19. The Society has not been created under any statute. It has not been shown before that in terminating the services of the appellant, the respondent has violated any mandatory provisions of the Act or the Rules framed thereunder. In fact, in the writ petition no such case was made out.

13. The Full Bench of this Court in Vijay Bihari Srivastava (supra) has observed:

"35. In the light of foregoing discussions, we answer question as to whether a writ petition in the nature of certiorari will lie against a Co-operative Society or it comes within the meaning of the words other Authority occurring in Article 226 of the Constitution, as follows: the writ petition in the nature of certiorari will lie against a Co-operative Society only when such Society has ingredient of an authority within the meaning of Article 226 of the Constitution and not otherwise. The following guidelines are culled out from the various decisions of the Supreme Court, referred to above:

1. The constitution of the Managing Body/ committee constitutes the functionaries of the governed, 2. There is an existence of deep and pervasive control of the management and policies of the co-operative Society by the Government, 3. The function of the Co-operative Society is of public importance and closely related to the governmental functions, 4. The financial control is by the Government or it provides financial and controlling its affairs, 5. The violation of statutory rules applicable to the Society in regard to the service matters of its employees, and 6. Statutory violations or non-compliance of it by an authority under the Act.

36. It is made clear that there is no straight jacket formula to point out as to when a Co-operative society is an authority but it has to be considered in the light of various factors enumerated in the decisions of the Supreme Court."

14. The question, whether by its constitution, the Shri Gandhi Ashram is a society or body that is amenable to the writ jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution in the matter of service causes of its employees, was examined by this Court in Suresh Ram v. State of U.P., 2005 SCC OnLine All 727, where it was held:

"4. A preliminary objection has been raised by Sri Rajeev Sharma, learned Counsel for the respondents that the writ petition is not maintainable as Shri Gandhi Ashram Khadi Bhandar has been held not to be a State by a Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No. 3842 of 1990 (Ram Jokhan Singh v. Union of India) connected with Writ Petition No. 8639 of 1990 (Dhirendra Brahmchari v. Union of India). He has also placed reliance upon the judgments passed by His Lordship Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sunil Ambwani in Writ Petition Nos. 51147 of 2003 (Chhabi Lal v. Union of India) and 40101 of 2002 (Santosh Kumar Rastogi v. President, Khadi Gram Udyog Sangh, Allahabad) as well as on the judgment passed by his Lordship Hon'ble Mr. Justice S.K. Singh in Writ Petition No. 11302 of 2003 (Ram Nagina Singh v. U.P. Khadi Evam Gram Udyog Board, Lucknow).

5. The preliminary objection in those cases was accepted after hearing the learned Counsel for the parties at length and it was held that Shri Gandhi Ashram Khadi Bhandar is not a State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution.

6. The respondents have raised a preliminary objection that in view of the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in The General Manager Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd. v. Satrughan Nishad, [(2003) 8 SCC 639.] there is no foundation laid in the writ petition as to how the respondent-Kisan Sewa Sahkari Samiti Ltd., Kharkhaunda No. 2, district Meerut is an instrumentality of the State as has been held in Ajay Hasia v. Khalid Mujib Sehravardi, [(1981) 1 SCC 722.] and Ramana Dayaram Shetty v. International Airport Authority of India. [(1979) 3 SCC 489.] In the aforesaid case of International Airport Authority of India (supra), the following principles have been laid down which may be a pointer as to whether a co-operative society is a State or other authority within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution or not.

(1) One thing is clear that if the entire share capital of the corporation is held by Government, it would go a long way towards indicating that the corporation is an instrumentality or agency of Government. (S.C.C. p. 507, para 14)

(2) Where the financial assistance of the State is so much as to meet almost entire expenditure of the corporation, it would afford some indication of the corporation being impregnated with governmental character. (S.C.C. p. 508, para 15)

(3) It may also be a relevant factor ……. whether the corporation enjoys monopoly status which is State-conferred or State-protected. (S.C.C. p. 508, para 15)

(4) Existence of deep and pervasive State control may afford an indication that the corporation is a State agency or instrumentality. (S.C.C. p. 508, para 15)

(5) If the functions of the corporation are of public importance and closely related to governmental functions, it would be a relevant factor in classifying the corporation as an instrumentality or agency of Government. (S.C.C. p. 509, para 16)

(6) 'Specifically, if a department of Government is transferred to a corporation, it would be a strong factor supportive of this inference' of the corporation being an instrumentality or agency of Government. (S.C.C. p. 510, para 18)

7. If on a consideration of these relevant factors it is found that the corporation is an instrumentality or agency of Government, it would, as pointed out in the International Airport Authority case, be an 'authority' and, therefore, 'State' within the meaning of the expression in Article 12."

8. In this case no foundation has been laid down as to how the respondent is State or other authority within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution.

9. The writ petition is not maintainable in view of the decision rendered in General Manager, Kisan Sahkari Chini Mills Ltd., Sultanpur v. Satrughan Nishad, [(2003) 8 SCC 639.] as the respondent-Mills is not instrumentality or agency of the State Government within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution.

10. In the facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the opinion that the petitioner is not State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution."

15. To like effect is the unreported decision in Ram Bachan Singh v. Chief Executive Officer Khadi Gramodyog & Others, Writ-A No.52811 of 2012, decided on 09.10.2012, where it has been observed:

"Petitioner is an employee of Sri Gandhi Ashram Ratanpura, Mau Camp Office Jangipur, Ghazipur. When the matter has been taken up, preliminary objection has been raised by Sri Rajeev Sharma, Advocate that present writ petition is not at all maintainable. This Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 40101 of 2002 Santosh Kumar Rastogi Versus President Khadi Gramodyog Sangh Allahabad and others has clearly taken the view that it is a society registered under Societies Registration Act, 1860, and he is not an employee of the U.P. Khadi Gramodyog Board, and the provisions of U.P. Khadi and Village Industries Board Act 1960 are not applicable to the petitioner. The Khadi Ashram Seva Niyamawali is not a set of statutory rules which can be enforced by a writ petition. In view of this once services of petitioner are governed by Khadi Ashram Seva Niyamawali, writ petition is not maintainable and petitioner has been transferred by his employer, then this Court refuses to interfere with the same."

16. Upon a perusal of the writ petition, this Court does not find that there is any such violation of a public duty or public obligation, cast upon the Kshetriya Shri Gandhi Ashram, Meerut, as may make it amenable to the writ jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution.

17. In the result, this petition fails and is dismissed.

18. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kripa Shankar Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Saurabh Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Vijay Shankar Prasad, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondents.

2. The present writ petition has been filed by the petitioner, with a prayer to quash the order dated 7.11.2019 passed by the State Government, compulsory retiring the petitioner and also quash the order dated 22.10.2019, by which the petitioner was awarded major penalty, i.e., stoppage of two increments for 5 years with temporary effect and one minor penalty of censure in terms of Rules 3 of U.P. Government Servant (Disciplinary & Appeal), Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules of 1999"). The petitioner has further challenged the order dated 20.9.2018 passed by the Director General of Police, by which the penalty of censure has been imposed upon the petitioner under Rule 3 of aforesaid Rules of 1999 as well as appellate order dated 1.5.2019.

3. The facts as stated by the petitioner in the writ petition are that the petitioner was directly recruited in the year 1998 on the post of Sub-Inspector of Police. During the course of duty in an encounter with Munna Bajrangi gang, the petitioner received five AK-47 bullet injuries. After recovering from the said injuries the petitioner was granted promotion to the post of Inspector in 2001 and he was also awarded with Presidential Medal.

4. The petitioner was subsequently promoted as Deputy Superintendent of Police on 11.7.2016 and was posted at Zamania District Ghazipur on 18.7.2016. He was suspended on 15.11.2016 on the basis of some enquiry conducted by Shri Anil Kumar Singh, Additional Superintendent of Police (Rural) Ghazipur. However, the said suspension was revoked on 3.1.2017. Thereafter he was served a charge-sheet dated 9.9.2017. In the said charge-sheet, following charges were levelled against the petitioner :-

"यह कि वर्ष 2016 में आप द्वारा क्षेत्राधिकारी जमानिया, जनपद गाजीपुर के पद पर कार्यभार ग्रहण करते ही जनपद के सभी थानों से मानक के विपरीत जाकर दो-दो आरक्षी अपने हमराही बुला लिये गये और जनपदीय पुलिस बल कम होने के बाद भी बिना उच्चाधिकारियों के संज्ञान में लाये 12 पुलिस कर्मियों को अपने साथ ड्यूटी में लगा लिया गया। आपके द्वारा क्षेत्र में भ्रमण करने के समय सरकारी गाड़ी का उपयोग न कर, प्राइवेट वाहन (स्कार्पियो) का प्रयोग किया गया है तथा पीछे के वाहन में 12-13 हमराही बैठाकर चल रहे थे। कई जमीनी विवाद के प्रकरणों में अनावश्यक हस्तक्षेप कर एकपक्षीय कार्यवाही का प्रयास किया जाना परिलक्षित हुआ है। श्रीमती माया सिंह, पूर्व जिला पंचायत सदस्य एवं हिन्दू पी.जी. कॉलेज, छात्रसंघ की पूर्व अध्यक्ष का आवास खाली कराने के सम्बन्ध में गाली-गलौज करने एवं उनके घर पर जाकर अनावश्यक दबाव बनाने आदि के संबंध में राजकीय कर्तव्यपालन के प्रति की गई घोर लापरवाही, उदासीनता एवं अकर्मण्यता/स्वेच्छाचारिता बरतने के आरोप में आपको दोषी पाया गया है।"

5. The petitioner submitted his reply to the said charge- sheet on 11.1.2018. The Enquiry Officer, i.e., Deputy Inspector General of Police, Azamgarh Zone, Azamgarh submitted his enquiry report on 5.7.2018. It is mentioned in paragraph 10 of the writ petition that the Enquiry Officer, while recording its finding in paragraph 9 of the enquiry report, has not at all considered the evidence adduced by the petitioner. The enquiry report dated 5.7.2018 was served upon the petitioner on 27.11.2018, directing him to submit his reply, which was submitted by the petitioner on 5.2.2019. The respondent no. 1 by an order dated 22.10.2019, imposed penalties, i.e., stoppage of two increments for 5 years with temporary effect along with censure entry.

6. It is further stated in the writ petition that in the preliminary enquiry conducted by Shri Keshav Chandra Goswami, ASP, City, Ghazipur, it was held that no charge has been proved against the petitioner. However, inspite of the same without any basis or disagreeing with the preliminary report dated 31.12.2016, the said enquiry report dated 31.12.2016 was forwarded to two officers, i.e., Sri Kamlesh Dixit, ASP and Dr. Anil Kumar Pandey, ASP who were of the equivalent rank i.e., ASP, for reviewing the report dated 31.12.2016. There is no provision for reviewing the preliminary enquiry report under the law. It is important to point out here that both the officers namely Sri Kamlesh Dixit and Dr. Anil Kumar Pandey did not make any enquiry independently rather reviewed the report submitted by Shri Keshav Chandra Goswami dated 31.12.2016 and formed their opinion. The said preliminary enquiry conducted by Shri Keshav Chandra Goswami, A.S.P., City, Ghazipur has not been considered. It is stated that the petitioner has been awarded double punishment i.e. stoppage of increments and censure entry for one and same charge.

7. By an order dated 20.9.2018, the petitioner was granted censure entry under Rule 3(1) of Rules of 1999. It is further stated that for awarding the said censure entry, no reason has been recorded by the Disciplinary Authority and there was no material before him or before the authority, conducting the preliminary enquiry for awarding punishment of censure entry.

8. It is further stated that the petitioner was awarded appreciation letter dated 12.11.2015 by the Senior

Superintendent of Police regarding successfully organizing the event during visit of Shri Rajnath Singh, the then Home Minister.

9. The appeal filed by the petitioner against the said censure entry has been rejected by order dated 01.05.2019 by a non-speaking order. It is further stated that while passing the order dated 7.11.2019. whereby the petitioner has been compulsory retired, censure entry of 2017, which was imposed by order dated 2.11.2017 was also considered. However, the said order was never communicated to the petitioner. It is further stated that while passing the order of compulsory retirement, the respondent no.1 has considered the three orders, i.e.

(I) censure entry awarded on 2.11.2017;

(II) censure entry awarded on 20.9.2018; and

(III) the order dated 22.10.2019, by which the censure entry and stoppage of two increments for 5 years was imposed.

The petitioner in paragraph 38 of the writ petition has stated that since 1999 till 2019, all the entries in service-record are outstanding. Based on the aforesaid outstanding entries, it is stated that the petitioner is not a deadwood.

10. It is further stated in the writ petition that as per Fundamental Rules 56, before compulsory retiring a government servant, an opinion has to be framed by the concerned authority that it is in public interest to retire a person, after considering his entire service record. In the impugned order, there is no mention about consideration of service record of the petitioner and only three orders of punishment has been considered.

11. The petitioner also filed two supplementary affidavits dated 12.12.2019 & 16.3.2021. In 1st supplementary affidavit, it is stated that the compulsory retirement of the petitioner is against the provisions of Fundamental Rules 56(c) of U.P. Financial Handbook Part II-IV, as it has been passed without following the provisions contained under the said rules. It is further stated that the Screening Committee has not been properly constituted as per the provisions contained in the Government Orders dated 26.10.1985, 6.7.2017. 8.9.2017. 21.6.2019 & 1.7.2019. It is further stated in the supplementary affidavit that since the compulsory retirement order refers to the punishment awarded to the petitioner, as such, the said order cast stigma upon the petitioner, and as such, the order being passed without notice and opportunity to the petitioner, is bad in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed. It is further stated that without considering the annual confidential report/character role of the petitioner, the impugned order has been passed and while passing the said order, efficiency of the petitioner has not been considered.

12. In 2nd supplementary affidavit, it is stated that the Screening Committee has fixed the criteria for retiring a person compulsory who has attained the age of 50 years and who have been charged three or more than three minor penalties and other penalties. It is further stated that the Screening Committee has considered the censure entry awarded on 22.10.2019, which was awarded just a week earlier before meeting of the Screening Committee. The Screening Committee has not considered last 10 years annual confidential report in the service record of the petitioner. The petitioner in 2nd supplementary affidavit has also made averment regarding the communication of the approval of U.P.

Public Service Commission for award of punishment and with the said averment he has stated that the commission was not informed properly and was infact forced to approve the punishment awarded to the petitioner by order dated 22.10.2019.

13. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondent by Shri Rajdhari Saroj, Deputy Superintendent of Police, Police Head Quarter, Prayagraj. In the counter affidavit it is stated that as per the Government Order dated 26.10.1985, any government servant who has completed 50 years of his age, may be retired by the Appointing Authority by giving 3 months notice without assigning any reason. The Screening Committee, as per the government order dated 26.10.1985 has considered the service record of the petitioner and in pursuance of the punishment order passed time to time on 1.11.2019, the Screening Committee recommended for compulsory retirement of the petitioner.

14. It is further stated in the counter affidavit that no representation has been moved by the petitioner against the punishment order dated 22.10.2019. So far as censure entry of 20.9.2018 is concerned, the appeal against the said censure entry has been rejected. In supplementary counter affidavit it is stated that in the government order dated 26.10.1985. exclusive guidelines and provisions had been made for the Screening Committee to examine and assesse the entire service record and formed opinion objectively as to whether an employee is fit to be retained in service or not and subsequently various government orders have also been issued being government orders dated 6.2.1989, 21.5.1998. 23.9.2000, 25.1.2007 & 6.7.2017.

15. It is further stated that the Screening Committee has scrutinized the entire service record of the petitioner and other employee. The petitioner was awarded 4 punishments under Rule 14(2) of Uttar Pradesh Police Officer Subordinate Rank (Punishment & Appeal), Rules 1991. The Screening Committee has submitted its report on 1.11.2019, wherein it has recommended that the petitioner should not be continued in service in public interest and he has been compulsory retired. In pursuance of the recommendation of the Screening Committee, an office-memorandum dated 7.11.2019 under Uttar Pradesh Fundamental Rules 56-C of Financial Handbook Vol. 2 (Part-II-IV) was issued. Since the services of the petitioner was not found satisfactory by the Screening Committee, therefore, the Screening Committee recommended that the petitioner should not be continued in service in public interest and he should be compulsory retired.

16. It is further stated that the order of compulsory retirement is not an punishment. Copy of the report of Screening Committee has also been annexed as annexure-1 to the supplementary counter affidavit. The said report of Screening Committee, in description, there is reference of punishment order dated 20.10.2019 and censure entries dated 2.11.2017 & 20.9.2018 and in recommendation column, the details of punishment and censure entry has been mentioned. The Screening Committee has recommended that to maintain the efficiency in State Police Service, the recommendation for compulsory retirement has been passed. In recommendation of the Screening Committee, it is nowhere mentioned the compulsory retirement is in public interest.

17. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents. With the consent of learned counsel for the parties the present writ petition is being disposed of at the stage of admission.

18. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the order of compulsory retirement has been passed only on the basis of punishment order dated 22.10.2019 and two censure entries dated 2.11.2017 & 20.9.2018, whereas the service record of the petitioner from 2009 to 2019 is outstanding and this fact has not been denied by the respondents in their counter affidavit. The report of Screening Committee filed along with supplementary counter affidavit, clearly demonstrate that only consideration before the Screening Committee was order dated 22.10.2019. 2.11.2017 & 20.9.2018. The service record of the petitioner and other appreciation in performance of the petitioner has not at all been considered by the Screening Committee.

19. The petitioner for the said proposition has relied upon a judgment rendered by Lucknow Bench of this Court in Writ-A No. 1888 of 2005 (S/B) (Mahesh Chand Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. & others) decided on 27.03.2006. In the aforesaid judgment, the Division Bench of this Court has held as under:

"While considering the case of a public servant it is not only the Character Roll which would be relevant either for retaining the officer or public servant in service or for screening him out, but such consideration would also go to the other materials in the service record namely; e.g. appreciation letters or certificates of commendable work by higher or superior authorities or to say of the competent authority of if there is material which though does not find mention in the Character Roll entry but either appreciates or deprecates the work and conduct of the public servant or shows his or her shortcomings or in any other way reflects his or her character, integrity and reputation. All such material cannot be lost sight by the Screening Committee and has to be considered while making an assessment. Thus, relying only upon the award of marks as against the annual remarks on the basis of criteria of promotion strictly on the basis of 'merit cannot be supported to, under the aforesaid provision."

20. For the proposition that once the order of compulsory retirement contain the details of punishment awarded earlier, it cast stigma and for this, the learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a judgment of this Court dated 7.8.2018 in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 496 of 2018 (Brijesh Kumar Vs. State of U.P. & others).

21. Coordinate Bench of this Court in Writ-A No. 45254 of 2017 (Ghanshyam Mishra Vs. State of U.P. & others) decided on 09.05.2019 has considered the law, pertaining to the compulsory retirement . The relevant portion of the aforesaid judgement reads as follows:

"In the ultimate analysis, the Court must be satisfied that the formation of opinion is neither whimsical nor arbitrary but in fact based purely upon an objective assessment of the suitability of the employee. It is to be remembered that Courts will not interfere merely because another view could possibly be taken. After all the exercise of power to compulsorily retire is an outcome of the subjective satisfaction so arrived at. It would however, be justified in posing to itself the question whether a reasonable and prudent person would have arrived at the same conclusion as the employer upon an assessment of the entire record.

Often orders of compulsorily retirement are assailed on the ground that they came to be made in order to obviate the requirement to prove allegations of misconduct levelled against an employee. Such a challenge is raised often where the power of compulsorily retirement is exercised either during the pendency of disciplinary proceedings or before a punishment is ultimately inflicted. A challenge on these lines may also be raised whether though a decision to initiate disciplinary proceedings is taken, an enquiry need not have commenced. In such situations the Courts are called upon to consider whether the power of compulsorily retirement was in fact invoked as a ruse and veils the true intent of the employer to avoid the necessity of holding a departmental enquiry. These issues very often call upon the Court to consider whether the misdemeanor alleged and yet to be proven or acted upon formed the motive or foundation of the order of compulsorily retirement.

Reiterating the settled legal position of the power to compulsorily retire and the obligation of the employer to scan the entire service record of a government servant, the Supreme Court in Punjab State Power Corporation held thus:-

"14. In State of Orissa v. Ram Chandra Das*: (1996) 5 SCC 331 a three-Judge Bench has emphatically held that object behind compulsory retirement is public interest and, therefore, even if an employee has been subsequently promoted, the previous entries do not melt into insignificance. To quote:*

7...Merely because a promotion has been given even after adverse entries were made, cannot be a ground to note that compulsory retirement of the government servant could not be ordered. The evidence does not become inadmissible or irrelevant as opined by the Tribunal. What would be relevant is whether upon that state of record as a reasonable prudent man would the Government or competent officer reach that decision. We find that selfsame material after promotion may not be taken into consideration only to deny him further promotion, if any. But that material undoubtedly would be available to the Government to consider the overall expediency or necessity to continue the government servant in service after he attained the required length of service or qualified period of service for pension.

15. The aforesaid dictum has been approved and followed in State of Gujarat v. Umedbhai M. Patel*: (2001) 3 SCC 314, wherein emphasis has been laid on the factum that entire service record of the government servant is to be examined. Same principle has also been followed in another three-Judge Bench decision in* Pyare Mohan Lal v. State of Jharkhand and Ors. (2010) 10 SCC 693. Slightly recently, a Division Bench in Rajasthan SRTC v. Babulal Jangir (2013) 10 SCC 551, after discussing number of authorities, has held thus:

22. It clearly follows from the above that the clarification given by a two-Judge Bench judgment in Badrinath v. State of Tamil Nadu is not correct and the observations of this Court in State of Punjab v. Gurdas Singh: (1998) 4 SCC 92 to the effect that the adverse entries prior to the promotion or crossing of efficiency bar or picking up higher rank are not wiped off and can be taken into account while considering the overall performance of the employee when it comes to the consideration of case of that employee for premature retirement.

23. The principle of law which is clarified and stands crystallised after the judgment in Pyare Mohan Lal v. State of Jharkhand is that after the promotion of an employee the adverse entries prior thereto would have no relevance and can be treated as wiped off when the case of the government employee is to be considered for further promotion. However, this "washed-off theory" will have no application when the case of an employee is being assessed to determine whether he is fit to be retained in service or requires to be given compulsory retirement. The rationale given is that since such an assessment is based on "entire service record", there is no question of not taking into consideration the earlier old adverse entries or record of the old period. We may hasten to add that while such a record can be taken into consideration, at the same time, the service record of the immediate past period will have to be given due credence and weightage. For example, as against some very old adverse entries where the immediate past record shows exemplary performance, ignoring such a record of recent past and acting only on the basis of old adverse entries, to retire a person will be a clear example of arbitrary exercise of power. However, if old record pertains to integrity of a person then that may be sufficient to justify the order of premature retirement of the government servant."

Dealing with a case where an order of compulsorily retirement comes to be made during the pendency of disciplinary proceedings, the Supreme Court in State of U.P. And another Vs. Abhai Kishore Masta made the following pertinent observations:

"7. So far as the order of compulsory retirement under Fundamental Rule 56-J is concerned, we are of the opinion that the principle enunciated by the High Court in J.N. Bajpai and followed in the Judgment under appeal is unsustainable in law. It cannot be said as a matter of law nor can it be stated as invariable rule, that any and every order of compulsory retirement made under Fundamental Rule 56-J (or other provision corresponding thereto) during the pendency of disciplinary proceedings is necessarily penal. It may be or it may not be. It is a matter to be decided on a verification of the relevant record or the material on which the order is based.

8. In the State of Uttar Pradesh v. Madan Mohan Nagar (1967)IILLJ63SC it has been held by a Constitution Bench that the test to be applied in such matters is "does the order of compulsory retirement cast an aspersion or attach a stigma to the officer when it purports to retire him compulsory?" It was observed that if the charge or imputation against the officer is made the condition of the exercise of the power it must be held to be by way of punishment-otherwise not. In other words if it is found that the authority has adopted an easier course of retiring the employee under Rule 56-J instead of proceeding with and concluding the enquiry or where it is found that the main reason for compulsorily retiring the employee is the pendency of the disciplinary proceeding or the levelling of the charges, as the case may be, it would be a case for holding it to be penal. But there may also be a case where the order of compulsory retirement is not really or mainly based upon the charges or the pendency of disciplinary enquiry. As a matter of fact, in many cases, it may happen that the authority competent to retire compulsorily under Rule 56-J and authority competent to impose the punishment in the disciplinary enquiry are different. It may also be that the charges communicated or the pendency of the disciplinary enquiry is only one of the several circumstances taken into consideration. In such cases it cannot be said that merely because the order of compulsory retirement is made after the charges are communicated or during the pendency of disciplinary enquiry, it is penal in nature.

9. It is true that merely because the order of compulsory retirement is couched in innocuous language without making imputations against the government servant, the Court need not conclude that it is not penal in nature. In appropriate cases the Court can lift the veil to find out whether, in truth, the order is penal in nature vide Ram Ekbal Sharma v. State of Bihar."

It ultimately held:-

12. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the High Court was in error in holding that merely because the order of compulsory retirement was passed during the pendency of a disciplinary enquiry, it must be necessarily deemed to be penal in nature, is unsustainable in law. The Judgment of the High Court is accordingly set aside and the matter is remitted to the High Court to determine, in the light of the observations made herein, whether the order of compulsory retirement is, in truth, penal in nature? There shall be no order as to costs."

Dealing with the decision rendered by a learned Judge of the Court in Mukesh Bhatnagar and upon which great emphasis was laid by Sri Mishra, this Court finds itself unable to either adopt or subscribe to the proposition as broadly formulated by the learned Judge in that decision. In Mukesh Bhatnagar, the learned Judge noticing the fact that two disciplinary proceedings were pending prior to the order of compulsorily retirement being passed proceeded to observe that compulsorily retirement must not be imposed as a punitive measure and as a short cut to avoid a departmental enquiry when such course is more desirable. While noting thus, the learned Judge sought to draw sustenance from the principles as formulated by the Supreme Court in State of Gujarat Vs. Umedbhai M Patel reported in (2001) 3 SCC 314. Firstly, no such absolute proposition was culled out or propounded in Umedhai M. Patel*. Secondly and with due respect to the learned Judge, this Court finds itself unable to tread this path bearing in mind the principles as enunciated by the Supreme Court in* State of U.P*. As was observed there, the Supreme Court held that it cannot be said as a matter of law or as an invariable rule that an order of compulsorily retirement made during the pendency of disciplinary proceedings is necessarily penal. It held that whether it was penal or not would be a matter to be decided on verification of the relevant record. The position was then further elaborated with the Court observing that only in a case where it is found that the main reason for compulsorily retiring the employee was the charge which formed the subject matter of the disciplinary proceedings could it be said to be penal. It held that even in a case where the pendency of disciplinary proceedings is only one of several circumstances which are taken into consideration by the employer, in such a situation it could not be said that the order of compulsorily retirement was penal in nature. The above exposition is necessitated only in light of the great emphasis laid by Sri Mishra upon the decision in* Mukesh Bhatnagar*. However the above observations are not to be construed as an expression of any opinion on the correctness of the ultimate conclusion arrived at by the learned Judge in that matter. Ultimately it would be for this Court to consider whether in the facts of the present case, the order of compulsory retirement was based solely upon the pendency of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner or whether it was founded upon other relevant considerations.*

In the present case as this Court reads the reasons recorded by the Screening Committee while recommending the compulsory retirement of the petitioner, it does not find that the same was based solely upon the charges which formed the subject matter of the disciplinary proceedings. The Screening Committee while framing its recommendations has taken into consideration the annual confidential entries, disciplinary proceedings, orders of punishment, reports of the Vigilance Department cumulatively. At least that is what the recommendation recites and records. No other material was relied upon to establish that the ultimate conclusion recorded by the Screening Committee hinged and rested solely on the departmental enquiries stated to be pending. The fact that this opinion was formed without the Screening Committee taking into consideration the fact that the petitioner stood exonerated of all the charges levelled against him by the Enquiry Officer and its ultimate impact on the order of compulsorily retirement itself is an aspect which is left over to be considered in the subsequent passages of this decision. The Court in the facts of this case finds itself, therefore, unable to hold that the order of compulsorily retirement was penal in character. The record as prepared by the Screening Committee does not establish that the recommendation came to be formulated solely on the basis of the enquiry proceedings which were stated to be pending.

22. The counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon the case of Allahabad Bank Officer Association Vs. Allahabad Bank and others reported in AIR 1996 SC (2030) for the proposition that once the order of compulsory retirement cast stigma, it is not sustainable. The relevant paragraph is as follows :-

"The above discussion of case law makes it clear that if the order of compulsory retirement casts a stigma on the Government servant in the sense that it contains a statement casting aspersion on his conduct or character, then the court will treat that order as an order of punishment, attracting provisions of Article 311(2) of the Constitution. The reason is that as a charge or imputation is made the condition for passing the order the court would infer therefrom that the real intention of the Government was to punish the Government servant on the basis of that charge or imputation and not to exercise the power of compulsory retirement. But mere reference to the rule, even if it mentions grounds for compulsory retirement, cannot be regarded as sufficient for treating the order of compulsory retirement as an order of punishment. In such a case, the order can be said to have been passed in terms of the rule and, therefore, a different intention cannot be inferred. So also, if the statement in the order refers only to the assessment of his work and does not at the same time cast an aspersion on the conduct or character of the Government servant, then it will not be proper to hold that the order of compulsory retirement is in reality an order of punishment. Whether the statement in the order is stigmatic or not will have to be judged by adopting the test of how a reasonable person would read or understand it."

23. The learned counsel for the petitioner has further relied upon a judgment, reported in AIR 2012 SCW 1791 (Nand Kishore Verma Vs. State of Jharkhand & others) in which it is held that :-

"Keeping this object in view, the contention of the appellant has to be appreciated on the basis of the settled law on the subject of Compulsory retirement. In Baikuntha Nath Das v. Chief District Medical Officer, (1992) 2 SCC 299, three Judge Bench of this Court has laid down the principles regarding the Order of Compulsory retirement in public interest:

34. The following principles emerge from the above discussion:

(i) An order of compulsory retirement is not a punishment. It implies no stigma nor any suggestion of misbehaviour.

(ii) The order has to be passed by the government on forming the opinion that it is in the public interest to retire a government servant compulsorily. The order is passed on the subjective satisfaction of the government.

(iii) Principles of natural justice have no place in the context of an order of compulsory retirement. This does not mean that judicial scrutiny is excluded altogether. While the High Court or this Court would not examine the matter as an appellate court, they may interfere if they are satisfied that the order is passed (a) mala fide or (b) that it is based on no evidence or (c) that it is arbitrary -- in the sense that no reasonable person would form the requisite opinion on the given material; in short, if it is found to be a perverse order.

(iv) The government (or the Review Committee, as the case may be) shall have to consider the entire record of service before taking a decision in the matter -- of course attaching more importance to record of and performance during the later years. The record to be so considered would naturally include the entries in the confidential records/character rolls, both favourable and adverse. If a government servant is promoted to a higher post notwithstanding the adverse remarks, such remarks lose their sting, more so, if the promotion is based upon merit (selection) and not upon seniority.

(v) An order of compulsory retirement is not liable to be quashed by a Court merely on the showing that while passing it uncommunicated adverse remarks were also taken into consideration. That circumstance by itself cannot be a basis for interference.

Interference is permissible only on the grounds mentioned in (iii) above. This aspect has been discussed in paras 30 to 32 above."

24. The learned counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon a judgment of this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 24 of 2018 (Rizvan Ahmad Vs. State of U.P. & others) in which it is held that :-

"14. Before we delve into the rival submissions raised at the bar we must deal with the contention canvassed by learned Standing Counsel that the committee had recorded its subjective satisfaction and once subjective satisfaction has been recorded the Court should not interfere. We may hasten to add the concept of subjective satisfaction does not necessarily mean that there can be no material and the competent authority can take a flight in fancy. Subjective satisfaction cannot be done in a manner which a prudent man can never conceive. Satisfaction like discretion has to be based on proper consideration and weighment of material. In our considered opinion subjective satisfaction cannot be scanned as if one is sitting in an appeal, but it must meet the requirement of appreciation expected of a prudent man and the appreciation should be relevant and germane to the purpose apropos to its context. It cannot be conceived for a moment that the subjective satisfaction would take away the order from the purview of judicial scrutiny solely on the basis that the Committee has been subjectively satisfied.

15. In the case of State of Gujrat Vs. Umedbhai M. Patel (2001) 3 SCC 314, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

The law relating to compulsory retirement has now crystallized into definite principles, which could be broadly summarised thus:

"(i) Whenever the services of a public servant are no longer useful to the general administration, the officer can be compulsorily retired for the sake of public interest.

(ii) Ordinarily, the order of compulsory retirement is not to be treated as a punishment coming under Article 311 of the Constitution.

(iii) For better administration, it is necessary to chop off deach wood, but the order of compulsory retirement can be passed after having due regard to the entire service record of the officer.

(iv) Any adverse entries made in the confidential record shall be taken note of and be given due weightage in passing such order.

(v) Even uncommunicated entries in the confidential record can also be taken into consideration.

(vi) The order of compulsory retirement shall not be passed as a short cut to avoid departmental enquiry when such course is more desirable.

(vii) If the officer was given a promotion despite adverse entries made in the confidential record, that is a fact in favour of the officer.

(viii) Compulsory retirement shall not be imposed as a punitive measure."

16. In the case of State of U.P. Vs. Lalsa Ram (2001) 3 SCC 383 the Apex Court in para-15 of the judgment held as under:

"15. Incidentally, the five guiding principles as laid down in Baikuntha Nath's case (supra) by this Court stands accepted in another three-Judges Bench's judgment of this Court in Posts and Telegraphs Board v. CSN Murthy wherein this Court observed that whether the conduct of the employee is such as to justify a conclusion of compulsory retirement but the same is primarily for the departmental authorities to decide. The nature of the delinquency and whether it is of such a degree as to require the compulsory retirement, the courts have no authority or jurisdiction to interfere with the exercise of power if arrived at bona fide on the basis of the material available on record: Usurpation of authority is not only unwarranted but contrary to all norms of service jurisprudence."

17. From the aforesaid enunciations of law there remains no iota of doubt that the order of compulsory retirement is not to be passed as short cut to avoid departmental enquiry and that order is to be passed after having due regard to the entire service record of the officer. It is also follows that an order has to be tested on the touchstone that no reasonable person would form requisite opinion on the given material. To elucidate, the order should not smack of perversity or based on no material or prima facie malafide."

25. A perusal of the report of the Screening Committee dated 31.3.2019 (annexed by the respondent as annexure-1 to the supplementary counter affidavit dated 07.02.2020), it is evident that the case of the petitioner has been considered and the said report is as under.

26. A perusal of aforesaid report clearly established that only punishment order and censure entry has been mentioned in the report, which has been considered by the Screening Committee. There is no subjective satisfaction recorded by the Screening Committee. The entire service record of the petitioner and various appreciation letter has not at all been considered by the respondent, while passing the impugned order. No finding has been recorded by the Screening Committee that the continuation of the petitioner in public service is not in interest of the public. Only fact recorded by the Screening Committee is as under:

"इस प्रकार सरकारी सेवाओं में दक्षता सुनिश्चित करने के लिए प्रान्तीय पुलिस सेवा के अपर पुलिस अधीक्षक/पुलिस उपाधीक्षक स्तर के अधिकारियों की अनिवार्य सेवानिवृत्ति हेतु गठित स्क्रीनिंग कमेटी सम्यक् विचारोपरान्त सर्वश्री अरूण कुमार, विनोद कुमार राना, नरेन्द्र सिंह राना, रतन कुमार यादव, तेजवीर सिंह यादव, संतोष कुमार सिंह व तनवीर अहमद खाँ पुलिस उपाधीक्षकगण को उपयुक्त पाते हुए अनिवार्य सेवानिवृत्त किये जाने की संस्तुति करती है।"

27. Thus, it is clear that the Screening Committee has not recorded any subjective satisfaction and in vague term has recorded the findings that the petitioner is fit for compulsory retirement and that too without considering individual cases of the government servant. The report further established that the service record has not at all been considered by the respondent while passing the impugned order of compulsory retirement. The order dated 07.11.2019 further contain the detail of punishment orders dated 22.10.2019, 02.11.2017 and 20.9.2018. Thus, the order dated 7.11.2019 cast stigma and also amount double punishment. As such, the order dated 7.11.2019 passed by the respondent no. 1 is not sustainable being contrary to law and is hereby quashed. So far as the orders dated 22.10.2019, 02.09.2018 and 02.11.2017 awarding punishment to the petitioner is concerned, he is granted liberty to file representation/appeal against the said order in accordance with the relevant rules.

28. In this view of the matter respondents are directed to pass orders for joining of the petiitoner within three weeks from today. Respondents are further directed to provide all the consequential benefits to the petitioner including arrears of salary, seniority and other benefits in this regard within a period of 6 weeks from today.

29. The writ petition is partly allowed.

30. No order as to costs.

31. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to communicate copy of this order to respondent no.1-Additional Chief Secretary, Ministry of Home, U.P. Secretariat, Lucknow within 24 hours.

11. As referred in Clause 9(5) of Statutes the Selection Committee for the post of Registrar consists of a Chairman and four Members and, therefore, constitution of Selection Committee constituted on 26.10.2021, wherein instead of a Chairman and four Members its constitution was a Chairman and six Members, on face of it was not exactly in terms of Clause 9(5) of Statutes.

12. In reference to above paragraphs No. 35, 36 and 37 of counter affidavit filed in Writ-A No. 20794 of 2022 are relevant and the same are reproduced hereinafter:

"35. That, it is necessary to mention here that from the aforesaid constitution of the Selection Committee, it could be verified that out of 7 members, three members were not approved by the Board of Governors/Senate, they are Prof. DVLN, Somayajulu Director of IIIT Kurnool, Shri S. Goverdhan Rao, Registrar, NIT Warangal (Member), Prof. Shekhar Verma, Dean HA, IIIT A (Member). The clause 9(7) provides that the list of experts nominated by the Board and the list of experts nominated by the Senate shall be a priori approved by the Board and Senate, respectively.

In view of aforesaid, inclusion of alleged other mentioned members, the Selection Committee becomes completely illegal and acts without jurisdiction.

A copy of the list of the experts nominated by the Board and by the Senate is being filed herewith andmarked as Annexure No. 9 to this affidavit.

36. That, in order to give the reasons why aforesaid persons were not eligible to become the members, it may be noted that as per the Statute 9(5), the First member is Director i.e. Chairperson, Second-two expert Members Prof. K. Sethupathi, IIT, Madras, R.C. Hansdah also under SC/ST (nominated by the Board) and third member nominated by the Senate Professor S.A Ansari, Ex-Professor MONIRBA Allahabad for which there is no dispute. In the fourth category Head of the department or center or school or unit, the Member referred for Selection Committee Prof. Shekhar Verma in this category, the name given is neither qualified/eligible nor approved by the Board of Governors. Fifth member was vacant as Registrar herself was candidate.

37 That other than the above, Prof. DVLN, Somayajulu Director IIIT, Kurnool, was neither member nor nominated by the Board of Governors and illegally participated. Sri S. Governdhan Rao Registrar, NIT, Warangal, was neither member nor approved by the Board of Governors in any category and illegally participated. From the aforesaid it is clear that 02 members were outsider and neither approved nor authorized by the Board of Governors. Further so far as member in reference to category 04 is concerned, 4th member Prof. Shekhar Verma was neither eligible nor approved by the Board of Governors."

13. In pursuance of call letter for presentation number of candidates appeared on 10.11.2021 and 11.11.2021 and a tabulation chart was prepared giving marks out of 50 under two different criteria, i.e., (a) case study marks (out of 25), (b) presentation marks (out of 25) and (c) total marks obtained (out of 50).

14. At this stage, it would be relevant to mention that according to petitioner the two criteria stipulated, i.e., "Case Study" and "Presentation" was in terms of advertisement issued for the post of Registrar. As earlier referred, as per Clause 9 of General Instructions to candidates, the selection process for the post of Registrar would consists of Presentation/Seminar and Interview whereas it is the case of Institute that under criteria "Case Study" it was a written examination for maximum marks of 25, which was not included in selection process for the post of Registrar though it was included for selection process to the post of Deputy Registrar. The Court will consider later on the effect of Clause 2 of General Instructions which provides that Institute reserves its right to place a reasonable limit by putting a certain criteria on the total number of candidates to be called for written test/ presentation/ seminar/ interview and as such the Court will also consider effect of written test being included in selection process for the post of Registrar.

15. The Presentation Committee of a Chairman and two Members drawn minutes for selection on the post of Registrar as per candidates appeared before said Committee on 10.11.2011 and 11.11.2021 and on basis of total marks obtained (Case Study and Presentation) it recommends names of seven candidates as qualified for post of Registrar for Interview. The said minutes of meeting dated 11.11.2021 is reproduced hereinafter:

There are rival submissions on the issue that Screening Committee has violated the above referred procedure by submitting names of only seven candidates selected for interview and though out come of consideration of all candidates might be same but procedure prescribed has not been followed in its entirety and that there is no adverse effect on candidates whose names were not forwarded for interview by Screening Committee to Selection Committee. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioner also submitted that entire procedure, as referred above, was fairly conducted without any influence of petitioner and no complaint whatsoever was made by any candidate participated in selection process. Flaw, if any, in constitution of Selection Committee where two additional Members were appointed, has no adverse effect and since entire selection process was unanimous, therefore, it may be an irregularity but not an illegality. After aforesaid approval the only process left was to issue an appointment letter to petitioner, however, it appears that since a Model Code of Conduct was enforced, appointment letter was not issued immediately.

26. A controversy commenced with regard to selection of post of Registrar and approval of name of petitioner for said post when a complaint was made on 07.01.2022 by a completely outsider. The complaint was forwarded by the Office of Ministry of Education, Department of Higher Education, Government of India, New Delhi. The contents of complaint is reproduced hereinafter in its entirety:

"Dear Sir,

We are writing this letter to disclose the following dishonest activities of Director, IIIT Allahabad, Dr P Nagabhushan:

1. Dr Vijaishri Tiwari who is daughter of Mr Pramod Tiwari, Ex Member of Parliament (Rajya Sabha) of Congress Party, is recently appointed as Professor in IIIT Allahabad in the month of March 2021. Dr Vijaishri Tiwari is still on probation.

2. On 27 July 2021, IIIT Allahabad advertised the post of Registrar, for which last date of application was 30th September 2021. Dr Vijayshri Tiwari applied for this post also. Although, she was on the probation till March 2022. Without completing the probation, an employee cannot be given NOC for applying another post. Hence, she cannot be provided NOC for applying any post during probation. But, without following the rules and regulation, Director IIIT Allahabad gave her NOC.

3. It is clear rule of that any deputation or leave cannot be given for lower grade-pay position. She is working as Professor, whose grade pay is 10,500/-, while grade pay of Registrar is Rs 10,000/-.Hence, Director, IIIT Allahabad has violated the rule in providing NOC to Dr Vijaishri Tiwari for the post of Registrar.

4. Department of personnel and Training, though his etter 17th June 2010 has clarified at point no 3.3 that: "A person in a higher Grade Pay/scale of pay shall not be appointed on deputation to a post in lower Grade Pay/scale of pay.."

5. According to the clause no. 11 of the First Statutes of IIIT Allahabad; "The matters which are not covered by above rules shall be dealt with in terms of Central Civil Services Rules."

6. Hence, Director of IIIT Allahabad has violated the IIIT Statutes, Central Civil Services Rules and Probation rules for providing NOC to Dr Vijaishri Tiwari.

7. There were more than 40 applications for the post of Registrar. Many of them are already working as Registrar in reputed organizations like IIT Kanpur, High Court, IITs and esteemed organizations.

8. Director IIIT Allahabad has violated the rules only to select Dr Vijayshri Tiwari as he is in the influence of her father Mr Pramod Tiwari, Ex Member of Parliament of Congress Party.

9. Director IIIT Allahabad, has already dishonestly appointed her as Professor without following the roster and disobeying the "Central Educational Institutions (RESERVATION IN TEACHERS' CADRE) Act, 2019". It is essential to mention here that MHRD vide its letters Dated 25.1.2000, 17.5.2000, 22.3.2001, 10.11.2003, 6.12.2006 sanctioned 02,01,05,07 and 03 posts of Professors respectively to IIIT Allahabad. Hence, there are total 18 sanctioned posts of Professors, out of which only 9 posts of professors are for general category. After commencement of CEI Act 2019, as per the instruction of ministry, IIIT Allahabad prepared the roster on 21" November 2019 with the signature of Director and Registrar and sent to ministry, according to which out of 9 unreserved posts of professors, 7 posts are filled and 2 posts are vacant.

10. In March 2021, Director IIIT Allahabad knowingly changed the roster and appointed 7 Professors of General Category, while there was only two vacant positions of Professor in general category. Hence, Director IIIT Allahabad disobeyed the CEI Act-2019 of Parliament only to select Dr Vijayshri Tiwari as Professor. It is not known that why ministry could not notice these violations. Secretary or Additional secretary level officer or his representative attends the meetings of BOG, while approving the appointments done by the CFTI's.

11. Previously, on 4th December 2017, Director Dr Nahabhushan had given the charge of Registrar for one year to a temporary Teacher, Mr Channappa B Akki. Several financial irregularities were done in that period.

Hence, considering the above facts, it is requested that selection process on the post of Registrar should be stopped and Ministry should constitute an independent enquiry against Director, IIIT Allahabad for his unfair acts in selection process of Registrar and other positions.

It is also requested to the Board of Governors of IIIT Allahabad should not give approval on the selection of Registrar in the coming meeting of BOG scheduled Dated 11th January 2022, till the outcome of enquiry."

27. The Institute has taken cognizance of above referred complaint as referred by Ministry of Education, Union of India, and constituted a four Members Committee who submitted its report dated

01.02.2022 whereby all allegations raised in complaint were rejected and for reference the same in its entirety is reproduced hereinafter:

"Hon'ble Director IIITA constituted this committee to examine and prepare the point wise reply to the letter received from Ministry of Education (MoE) regarding the alleged complaints received from one Mr Om Prakash Pandey through email Dated 7th January 2022 with subject: "Regarding illegal and unfair Selection process adopted by Director, IIIT Allahabad in the selection of Registrar, IIIT Allahabad to appoint Dr Vijaishri Tiwari (Daughter of Ex Member of Parliament of Congress Party, Mr Pramod Tiwari) on the post of Registrar"

The committee suggests the following:

1. Response to Q.1: The statements mentioned in point 1, are matter of fact and hence, needs no explanation. It doesn't carry any interpretation towards the allegation made by the complainant

2. Response to Q.2: The selection of Registrar of IIIT Allahabad has been questioned by the complainant primarily on the ground that Dr. Vijayshri Tiwari was given no objection certificate for applying against the aforesaid post illegally by the Director of the institute. It is alleged by the complainant that Dr. Tiwari was appointed as a Professor in IIIT, Allahabad in the month of March. 2021 and she continues to be on probation. According to the complainant a probationer could not have been given no objection certificate for applying against another post by the Director as per the Rules and therefore the no objection certificate granted to her by the Director, IIIT, Allahabad is illegal and consequently her selection as Registrar is also illegal.

The aforesaid allegation made by the complainant is totally misconceived. In as much as under the Rules Dr. Vijayshri Tiwari since was employed in the same establishment, was neither required to submit a no objection certificate nor was she given any no objection certificate by the Director. A no objection certificate is required to be submitted by a candidate only when he/she applies for a post which is in an establishment other than the one in which he/she is working. The object of having a no objection certificate from the employer is only to see that an employee does not leave the establishment in which he /she is working without the consent/knowledge of his employer. In the present case, Dr. Tiwari is currently working as a Professor in the same establishment and therefore she was not required to furnish any no objection certificate with her application

3. Response to Q.3, Q.4, Q.5 and Q.6

It is also alleged by the complainant that Dr. Tiwari could not be sent on deputation or leave cannot be given to her for joining a post which is there in the lower grade. According to him, she being a Professor could not be allowed to join the post of Registrar, which is a post of lower grade. The complainant is not right in saying that in as much as the post of Professor and the post of Registrar of the institute are of the same level. The pay level of Registrar and Professor is equal i.e. Pay level 14 and Pay Level 14A for academic staff respectively. In fact a majority of University employs the Senior Professor as Registrar In-Charge in case of unavailability of a full time Registrar. It is because of the fact that both the position are of similar pay level. Secondly Dr. Tiwari is not going to the post of Registrar on deputation. From the aforesaid it is therefore clear that there is no illegality or irregularity in the selection of Dr. Vijayshri Tiwari at all.

4. Response to Q.7, Q.8: The facts need correction and the number of applications has no correlation with the said complaints. The logic and rational behind the said allegation is apparently misleading and highly prejudice.

5. Response to Q.9 and Q. 10: The statements in the above said point is misleading and erroneous. The detailed explanations for similar communications were provided to your good office earlier. The reply was also placed before Hon'ble BoG of the institute and after the satisfaction and approval of the members and Chairman of the BoG the same roster was implemented against which the appointments were carried out.

6. Response to Q. 11: The said engagement of Prof. Akki in the post of Registrar In charge is a well know fact, however, the allegation of corruption is a false and misleading statement as it doesn't have any evidence whatsoever to justify the alleged complaint.

Endorsing considering that-

1) The statements made in this report are factually verified and found to be true by the Dean (IITA) with respect to its legal merit vis-a-vis the service rules of IIIT A.

2)The marked portion may be so verified."

28. Thereafter Ministry of Education again send letter dated 10.03.2022, which is not on record, requiring Institute to justify the appointment of petitioner. The Institute took cognizance of said letter also and constituted a four Members Committee who again considered material and submitted report dated 01.04.2022 and again all allegations were denied. Report dated 01.04.2022 is also reproduced hereinafter:

"Committee's Report on MOE's Letter

This is in reference to the letter received from the Ministry of Education (MoE) with the latter F. No. 46-12/2016-TS-1, dated 10th March 2022, with the subject "Selection of Registrar at IIIT Allahabad".

As per the direction communicated by the Office of the MoE, the pointwise reply is as follows:

1. Dr. Vijayshri Tiwari has applied for the post of Registrar as per the Advertisement dated July 27, 2021. Dr. Tiwari was under probation on the post of Professor from 23.03.2021 to 22.03.2022. Dr. Tiwari is working in the same establishment while applying for the post of Registrar and therefore she was not required to furnish any no- objection certificate with her application.

II. The post of Professor and the post of Registrar of the institute are of the same pay level. The pay level of Registrar and Professor is equal i.e. Pay level 14 and Pay Level 14A for academic staff respectively. In fact, a majority of Universities employ the Senior Professor as Registrar In-Charge in case of unavailability of a full-time Registrar. It is because of the fact that both the positions are of similar pay levels.

III. The eligibilities for the post of the Registrar advertised on July 27, 2021, were taken from the RPN-2016 only (copy of the Advertisement and extract of the RPN-2016 enclosed for your reference). Please also refer to the enclosed page 6 of the RPN-2016. Later as per the decision taken in the 4th Council Meeting held on 16th October 2019 vide Agenda Item No. 4.14 (Copy enclosed) uniform contract period of 5 years for the post of Registrar in CF-IIITs was approved. Accordingly, the tenure UPTO 05 years was advertised.

IV. Institute follows the decision of IIIT Council, however, in the present case it was general advice of the council. IIIT Allahabad has advertised for the post of Registrar earlier too following the decision of the 4th IIT Council Meeting. Due to the NFS (no one found suitable) scenario, it has issued a fresh advertisement on July 27, 2021. Since the direction by the IIIT council was advisory in nature, the matter was discussed in BOG before bringing up the advertisement.

V IIIT Allahabad maintains the roster as per the norms laid by GoI. The detailed explanations for similar communication were provided to your good office earlier too. The reply was also placed before the Hon'ble BoG of the institute and after the satisfaction and approval of the members and Chairman of the BoG the same roster was implemented against which the appointments were carried out. A copy of the reservation roster followed up at IIIT Allahabad is attached.

VI. This is to put it on record that no caveat has been filed for the said advertisement.

VII. The constitution of the selection committee as per the Act and Approved Selection Committee for Registrar post is enclosed. The member in the list of the Selection Committee was approved by the Director. The relevant list of BoG and Senate Nominees approved by the BOG for teaching and non-teaching positions is also enclosed for your reference. The same procedure, was also followed earlier when the position was advertised."

29. In pursuance of above referred reports of committees the Ministry of Education by a communication dated 07.04.2022 addressed to Director of Institute has again raised some queries and sought pointwise reply from Institute. For reference said letter is reproduced hereinafter:

30. In aforesaid circumstances petitioner approached this Court by way of filing Writ-A No. 16967 of 2022 with a prayer to issue appointment letter in pursuance of process undertaken and approval of appointment of petitioner on the post of Registrar. During hearing impugned minutes of 21st Board of Governors Special Meeting dated 02.11.2022 signed by its Members on 09.11.2022 was placed on record wherein resolution adopted on Agenda Item 21.02 was referred whereby report by Fact Finding Committee, as constituted by Chairman, Board of Governors was considered and Board resolved as follows:

"(I) Accept the recommendations presented through the two reports submitted by the Fact Finding Committee,

(II) Accept that the selection process for Registrar and Deputy Registrar IIIT Allahabad was flawed.

(III)Further the members of the Board of Governors agreed that the Director shall start the process of setting up a new advertisement for the selection of the Registrar and Deputy Registrar of IIIT Allahabad following norms laid down by the IIITA Statutes and the IIIT Council.

(IV) The institute should proactively try to resolve the issues and resentments among the stakeholder's about the functioning of the Acting Registrar."

31. The two Members Committee's reports dated 01.10.2022 on appointment of Registrar, IIIT Allahabad and 17.10.2022 allegations against the Professor-in-Charge, Registrar, IIIT Allahabad are reproduced hereinafter:

"Report on the Appointment of the Registrar. IIIT Allahabad

Date 01.10.2022

The following fact-finding committee was constituted by the Chairperson, Board of Governors. IIIT Allahabad to look into the matter against appointment of Registrar IIIT Allahabad received through Ministry against the Professor-in-Charge. Registrar IIIT Allahabad.

1) Prof Vinod K Singh (Chairman)
Professor of Chemistry. IIT Kanpur
Former Director, IISER Bhopal

2) Prof Manindra Agrawal (Member)
Professor of Computer Science & Engineering
Former Dy Director, IIT Kanpur

Dr P.K. Saini, Joint Registrar. Estt, IIIT Allahabad was asked to provide the relevant documents held by the Institute related to the recruitment process.

The Committee had a meeting at the campus of MNNIT on 21 September 2022 to examine the papers given by the institute and meet the concerned people as part of the enquiry.

The committee was also asked to conduct separate fact-finding enquiries related to the administrative complaints received against the acting Registrar of the Institute This report shall be submitted independently.

Documents examined

• The relevant extract of the provisions of Statutes for appointment of Registrar is enclosed (Annexure-1)

• The minutes of the IIIT Council. F. No. 77-3/2019-TS I dated 30 October 2019 specify that the Professors may not be appointed as Registrars (Annexure-II).

• The advertisement dated 27 July 2021 (Annexure-III)

• The constitution of the selection committee by the Director (Annexure-IV)

• Call letter sent to candidates (one model letter enclosed as Annexure-V)

• The selection committee report dated 12" November 2021 (Annexure-VI)

• The minutes of the BoG meeting held on 11 January 2022 (Annexure-VII)

• MoE Letters: dated 16.03.2022 (Annexure-VIII): 22.09.2022 (Annexure-IX)

• Application for the post of registrar (Annexure-X)

• Other Miscellaneous complaints sent by MoE and provided by the Institute

Findings of the enquiry

1) The post of a registrar is a statutory position for a period of five years to be filled in accordance with the provisions of the Statutes of the Institute. Therefore, the Statutory provisions laid down for this purpose are very sacrosanct and cannot be tweaked by individual officials or Board unless amended by the approved process.

2) As per the Statule No: 5. (ii) and (iv), the selection committee for the Registrar should consist of the Director (chairperson), two experts nominated by the Board, one expert nominated by the senate, one administrative expert nominated by the Board and one SC/ST member nominated by the Board if none of the other members belongs in this category.

A perusal of documents revealed that there were six members on the selection committee of which two members. Prof DVLN Somayajulu and Shri S. Goverdhan Rao were without any approval of the Board. This deviation was made by the then Director in constituting a committee suo moto without obtaining the approval of two expert nominees from the Board of Governors in derogation of the Statutes rendering the entire selection process null and void which is done without powers and usurping the powers of the Board.

3) The Council of IITs categorically resolved that the candidates for Registrar with experience as Professor shall not be preferred. However the advertisement did not carry any condition to that extent totally ignoring the guidelines of the Council of IIITs. which is the competent Authority.

4) Out of 68 received applications, 52 were found to be eligible These eligible candidates were called for presentation before the selection committee on 10 and 11 November 2021 A total of 24 candidates appeared for the presentation.

It was noticed that a written test in the form of a case study was done just before the interview although there was no mention of this in the call letter dated 25 October 2021 sent to the candidates. The inclusion of the additional process without making explicit provisions for the witten test in the call lottor reaufta premeditated unfair practice. Further there are hardly any instances of conducting a written test for the selection of candidates at level 14 which would cast doubls in the minds of the candidates and could result in seeking judicial interventions, by the unsuccessful aspirants once the results are announced.

5) Based on the marks in the written test and presentation, 7 candidates were interviewed on 12 November 2021 Prof Vijaishri Tewan, the Acting Registrar of IIIT Allahabad was recommended for the post. The committee also recommended her as an adjunct faculty in her academic department.

6) Prof Vijayshri Tewari was appointed Professor on 23 March 2021 After a year of probation, she was confirmed on 23rd March 2022. She applied for the position of registrar on 29th September 2021 The documents indicated that the application was not made through a proper channel.

It is a violation of the rule for a Government employee not to apply for a post through the proper channel. It is surprising to note that the institute accepted her application The offer letter of Professor does not indicate barring her for applying any position under probation. On that count, we cannot hold her guilty for applying under probation. However she should have provided vigilance certificate it is also the administrative lapse on behalf of the then Director to interview a person and recommend to Board for the appointment without having vigilance clearance.

Summary

The findings of inquiry render the entire Selection process null and void. The committee recommends that the selection committee report should be quashed and a new advertisement should be released for the selection of the Registrar of IT Allahabad following norms laid down by the Statutes and the Council."

Professor of Chemistry, IIT Kanpur

Former Director, IISER Bhopal

Prof Manindra Agrawal (Member)

Professor of Computer Science & Engineering

Former Dy Director, IIT Kanpur

Terms of the reference of the fact-finding committee

To look into the various charges/complaints received through the Ministry against the Professor-in-Charge. Registrar, IIIT Allahabad (Annexure 1)

Introduction

The Indian Institute of Information Technology Allahabad (IIIT-A) was established in 1999 as a centre of excellence in Information Technology (IT) and allied areas. The institute was conferred the "Deemed University status by the Government of India in the year 2000. It was declared an "Institute of National Importance" by the Act of the Parliament, Govt. of India, in 2014.

The campus (100 acres) is a fully residential one. The institute has four academic departments: Information Technology, Electronics and Communication Engineering, Applied Sciences, and Management Sciences. There are 2036 students (UG & PG), 78 faculty members, and 75 non-teaching staff, including 14 officers.

The committee members received a letter (Annexure 1) from the Director, MNNIT, who is having charge of the Director, IIIT Allahabad, on 14th September to look into the matter regarding allegations against the acting Registrar of the Institute.

The Visit of the Fact-Finding Committee

The Committee met on the campus of MNNIT on 21 September 2022 from 12:30 PM-7 PM. It interacted with some of the institute functionaries, faculty, non-teaching and contractual staff. In addition, the members of the Committee also met PIC, Registrar The modalities of the interactions were:

• The Committee made a conscious effort to restrict itself to get the people's opinion for their respective impression on the professional attributes of the PIC, Registrar People were chosen to interact randomly.

• Committee also decided not to divulge individual names of those who opined on the performance of the PIC, Registrar. This modality was adopted to bring in confidence and trust while the people expressed their opinions freely and openly to the Committee.

Report of the Committee

The committee individually interacted with some of the institute functionaries, a few faculty members and non-teaching & contractual staff. Nearly all of them had some allegations against the PIC. Registrar It appeared to us that most people were unhappy with the functioning of the PIC. Registrar. We summarize here some of the common allegations:

• The PIC. Registrar does not spend enough time on campus. Some mentioned that she spends only 7-8 hours a week in the institute.

• She is not well versed with rules and regulations.

• Due to above reasons, she relies on a small coterie for decision-making.

• There has been corruption in the Institute's security, where money is collected from each of the security guards by the supervisor of the current service provider. Despite written complaints to the Registrar, nothing happened

The Registrar denied most of the allegations. She mentioned that she had to take leave due to her health issue.

Conclusions

While it is difficult to substantiate some allegations against PIC, Registrar, it is clear that she does not spend sufficient time towards discharging her responsibilities. As a result, she is unable to resolve issues proactively, causing resentment and disappointment in many in the institute.

During the course of its investigations, the Committee observed some additional issues that need to be addressed. In the interest of the institute, the Committee wishes to give some suggestions regarding these:

1. The faculty strength in the institute is 78. Out of this, more than 40 faculty are involved in administration. We feel that the top should not be so heavy. There is no need for associate Deans, and there are too many Deans in such a small institute.

2. There is a house marked for the Registrar on the campus, but no one lives there. This is a waste of taxpayers' money. Since it is a residential campus, all the people should live on the campus. This is particularly true for the institute functionaries."

32. In aforesaid circumstances, petitioner withdrew Writ-A No. 16967 of 2022 and it was dismissed with liberty to challenge impugned resolution dated 09.11.2022 and in pursuance of above liberty petitioner filed Writ-A No. 20794 of 2022 with following prayers:

"i. a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned resolution dated 9.11.2022 (Annexure no.20 to this writ petition) passed by Board of Governors.

ii. a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to conclude the selection process in terms of the resolution passed by the Board of Governors dated 11.1.2022 and forthwith issue a formal appointment letter in favour of the petitioner for the post of Registrar in the respondent - institute.

iii. any other writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case to meet the ends of justice.

iv. award cost of the petition to the petitioner."

33. During pendency of above referred writ petition a fresh advertisement was published by Institute for selection to the post of Registrar on 05.10.2023 which was assailed by petitioner in connected Writ-A No. 17984 of 2023. During argument it was pointed out by learned Senior Advocate appearing for Institute that in pursuance of fresh advertisement Selection Committee has recommended name for appointment to the post of Registrar, however, due to present Model Code of Conduct, further proceedings for appointment of new Registrar is not concluded. On a specific query of this Court, learned Senior Advocate appearing for petitioner has stated that petitioner has not participated in subsequent process as she was before this Court.

34. Petitioner is represented by Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Hritudhwaj Pratap Sahi, Advocate and Respondent-Institute is represented by Sri Shailendra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Rohan Gupta, Advocate.

35. Both learned Senior Advocates have argued vehemently and referred various documents and interpreted the same differently according to their case and have also placed various judgments.

36. In brief, arguments raised by learned Senior Advocate for petitioner and as also referred in written submission, are mentioned hereinafter:

(i) The impugned action on the part of Institute suffers from lack of jurisdiction inasmuch as Institute has reviewed its earlier resolution of 11.01.2022, which was confirmed by way of circulation dated 28/29.01.2022, by impugned resolution which is impermissible in eyes of law as no power of review under any statute or provision of law is vested with Institute. The said proposition of law is supported by paragraph 11 of judgement of Apex Court in Kuntesh Gupta Vs. Management of Hindu Kanya Mahavidyalaya Sitapur and others, AIR 1987 SC 2186*.*

(ii) Reliance on ex parte reports dated 01.10.2022 and 17.10.2022 by Institute is also impermissible as said action is in violation of principles of natural justice for the reason that petitioner was neither served with reports nor was she was heard by Committee formulating reports. Even otherwise before passing of impugned resolution petitioner was never heard and on contrary stigma was cast upon her without hearing her version.

(iii) In so far as findings in the ex parte reports dated 01.10.2022 and 17.10.2022 are concerned, the same have been categorically rebutted in paragraphs 42 to 56 of Writ-A No. 20794 of 2022. For reference relevant paragraphs No. 42, 43, 45, 46, 48, 49, 50, 51, 53, 54 and 56 are reproduced hereinafter:

"42. That in so far as the first ground is concerned it is submitted that vide order dated 26.10.2021, the then Director constituted the selection committee for the post of Registrar in terms of Statute - 5 of the Statutes of IIIT. Bare perusal of the constitution of the selection committee annexed as Annexure no.3 to this writ petition would indicate that the persons named at Serial Nos. 3 & 4 of the said selection committee were over and above statutory mandate required under Statute-5, which provides for constitution of a selection committee. Apart from the abovementioned two members, the rest of the members of the selection committee are strictly in accordance with Statute-5 of the Ist Statutes.

43. That inclusion of the abovementioned two persons would have no bearing on the issue at hand in as much as all the 7 members had unanimously decided in favour of the petitioner therefore even if the recommendation of the abovementioned two persons is not taken into consideration then too the petitioner would be selected by the rest of the members of the selection committee, as their decision also were same as the decision of the abovementioned two persons."

"45. That it is further submitted that Section 44 of the 2014 Act specifically provides that no Act of the Council or any institute, Board or Senate or any other body set up under this Act or the Statutes, shall be invalid merely by reason of any vacancy in or defect in the constitution thereof or any irregularity in its procedure not effecting the merit of the case and any defect in the selection, nomination or appointment of a person acting as a member thereof, meaning thereby that the selection committee constituted on 26.10.2021 would not be put to question since it does not affect the merits of the case as the members who were there in the selection committee as per the Statute had unanimously decided in favour of the petitioner therefore even if the two persons namely Professor DVLN Somayajulu and Sri S. Goverdhan Rao were removed or their recommendations were not considered then too the outcome would have been the same i.e. the petitioner would be selected.

46. That in so far as the second ground is concerned it is submitted that the respondents have wrongly interpreted the resolution of the council of the IIITs in as much as the council had resolved at Item no. 4.14 that normally a Professor may not be appointed as a Registrar, as the same resulted in loss of academics, which clearly goes on to show that the council had nowhere put an embargo or restricted the appointment of Professor as Registrar. The council had merely advised that normally they should not be considered."

"48. That it is further apposite to mention over here that there is no embargo in the RPN norms which have been annexed along with the advertisement, restricting the appointment of Professors as Registrars, therefore once there is no such embargo in the RPN norms then in that case the petitioner was very much eligible and qualified to be appointed as a Registrar. Even otherwise no such amendment has been brought about in the Ist Statutes of IIIT, Allahabad regarding the restriction of appointment of a Professor as Registrar, therefore in the absence of same the reasoning given by the fact finding committee is totally misplaced.

49. That in so far as third ground is concerned it is submitted that the general instructions which have been issued to the candidates in the advertisement specifically provide in Clause-9 that the selection process for the post of Registrar will consist of presentation / seminar and interview. In view of the above condition the presentation was conducted wherein a case study was given to the candidates to analyze and present the same before the presentation committee, therefore it is amply clear that there was no separate written examination conducted as has been alleged in the exparte reports submitted by the fact finding committee.

50. That it is also apposite to mention over here that the general instructions issued to the candidates in the advertisement specifically provides in Clause 2(a) that the institute reserves its right to place reasonable limits by putting a certain criteria on the total number of candidates to be called for written test / presentation / seminar / interview, meaning thereby that the modalities adopted by the respondent institute for conducting the selection proceedings is just, fair and in accordance with the advertisement.

51. That even otherwise none of the candidates who had applied nor any of the prospective applicants have objected to the fairness of the selection proceedings. It is also apposite to mention over here that nobody has comeforward objecting to any of the stages of the selection process therefore in the absence of the same it is amply clear that the selection proceedings had been conducted in a fair manner which did not cause any prejudice to any person concerned. It is further submitted that the minutes of the 20th Board of Governors dated 11.1.2022 have never been put to challenge by any body before any competent court or authority under law, therefore the same has attained finality."

"53. That in so far as the last ground is concerned it is submitted that a completely vague reasoning has been given that the appointment of the petitioner was not made through a proper channel, in as much as the respondents have failed to indicate as to why the application of the petitioner had not been made through a proper channel. The petitioner had strictly applied in terms of the advertisement through online mode, therefore it cannot be said that the petitioner had not applied via the appropriate channel.

54. That another surprising fact which demolishes the case of the respondents is that Professor Manindra Agarwal who was a member of the fact finding committee constituted on 1st September, 2022 was also one of the members of Board of Governors which had passed the resolution dated 11.1.2022, approving the selection of the petitioner on the post of Registrar, therefore it is amply clear that Professor Agarwal has conveniently altered his stand. It is also apposite to mention over here that if Professor Agarwal was not in agreement with the selection proceedings, then he ought to have objected to the same when the 20th meeting of the Board of Governors was held."

"56. That it is the prerogative of the employer to cancel 1 the selection proceedings and a selected candidate does not have any right to question the same, however at the same time it is also well settled that while doing so that employer cannot be allowed to act arbitrarily, which has been done in the facts and circumstances of the present case for the reason that the Board of Governors had passed a resolution, approving the selection of the petitioner in the month of January, 2022 itself and no action was taken by the respondent institute till the time the petitioner had approached this Hon'ble Court by filing Writ-A No. 16967 of 2022, which clearly goes on to show that the impugned actions by the respondents are a malafide exercise of power."

(iv) Learned Senior Advocate further relied upon judgement of Apex Court in Kerala State Electricity Board Vs. Hindustan Construction Company Limited and others, 2006 (12) SCC 500, wherein it has been specifically held that minutes of a meeting are recorded to safeguard against future dispute as to what had taken place thereat and they are record of the fact that a meeting was held and decision taken therein. It was further held that said minutes as placed before next meeting for what is generally known as 'confirmation' though they are placed for verification and not for confirmation. The reasoning given by Apex Court for above conclusion was that there was no question of any conformation of a decision already taken for once a decision taken does not require any confirmation and it is only placed in the next meeting to see whether the decision taken at earlier meeting was properly recorded or not. The said proposition of law is being relied upon by petitioner as respondents are alleging that resolution passed by Board of Governors on 11.01.2022 was never confirmed in subsequent meetings, therefore it cannot be said that appointment of petitioner had been conclusively approved by Board of Governors.

(v) In so far as contention of Institute that Selection Committee was irregularly constituted as two extra Members had participated is also liable to be rejected for the reasons that as per Section 44 of The Indian Institutes of Information Technology Act, 2014 no act of Council or any Institute, Board or Senate or any other body set up under the Act or Statutes would be invalid merely due to any vacancy or defect in its constitution, any irregularity in its procedure not affecting the merit of the case or any defect in selection, nomination or appointment of a person acting as a member thereof. The Selection Committee in instant case is a body set up under the Act and Statutes therefore any irregularity in its constitution would be of no consequence that too in the wake of fact that due to such irregularity there is no change in merits of case, as it was unanimous decision of Committee to appoint petitioner. Pari materia provision of the State Universities Act was up for consideration in Dr. Mohd. Suhail Vs. Chancellor, University of Allahabad and others, 1994(2) UPLBEC 787, wherein Court in paragraph 10 (referred below) has upheld the aforesaid proposition of law:

"10. A perusal of the aforesaid provisions of Section 66 of the Act read with Section 99 & 99-A of the Code would indicate that these provisions have an overriding effect after a selection has been made by the Selection Committee or a decree has been made by the trial court. This Section 66 of the Act is akin to a proviso to the procedure for selection. This Indicates that no proceeding of any Committee of the University including the Selection Committee shall be invalid merely by reason of any Irregularity In the constitution of the Selection Committee or any vacancy and even if there was any irregularity In the constitution of the Selection Committee because some body participated in the selection of the candidates who could not have participated. But this irregularity need not affect the merits of the case. This provision has been engrafted with a view to do complete justice with the result of the Selection Committee."

(vi) Learned Senior Advocate for petitioner further placed reliance upon judgement of this Court in Prabhu Narain Singh Vs. Deputy Director of Education, Varanasi, 1977 (3) ALR 391, wherein Court has held that if a person has been selected by a Selection Committee which has been subsequently approved by appropriate authority then Appointing Authority is bound to appoint said selected candidate and issue a letter of appointment in his / her favour. In the facts of present case petitioner was selected by Selection Committee and her selection was approved by Board of Governors in its meeting dated 11.01.2022, therefore, Institute was bound to issue an appointment letter in favour of petitioner.

(vii) The Institute has further failed to take into consideration earlier inquiry reports submitted by Institute itself on 01.02.2022, 01.02.2022 and 01.04.2022, approving selection process pursuant to which petitioner has been appointed, therefore impugned resolution as well as advertisement are illegal in the eyes of law.

(viii) None of the candidates nor any prospective candidate has filed any complaint regarding selection process nor have they challenged selection of petitioner, therefore solely on basis of a complaint of a complete rank outsider, respondent - Institute could not have proceeded to pass order impugned and issue consequential advertisement.

(ix) Clause 2(a) of advertisement provides that Institute has right to place reasonable limits by putting a certain criteria on total number of candidates to be called for written test / presentation / seminar / interview.

(x) In so far as contention of Institute that petitioner was present in meeting of Board of Governors in capacity of a Secretary at the time when Board of Governors was considering candidature of petitioner is concerned, it is submitted that petitioner was not present in meeting as she was asked to leave said meeting which is evident from minutes of meeting dated 11.01.2022 itself.

(xi) Even otherwise it is no more res integra that nobody is to be allowed to take advantage of their own wrong inasmuch as it was the respondent - Institute which constituted Selection Committee, therefore, they were estopped from raising objections against its constitution.

37. Per contra, learned Senior Advocate appearing for Institute has vehemently opposed above submissions and arguments raised before this Court as well as in written submission, are mentioned hereinafter:

(i) Present process of selection become void due to illegal constitution of Sub-committee namely 'Presentation Committee' which has also evaluated Case Study (Written Examination) and further due to formation of illegal Selection Committee being contrary to relevant statute.

(ii) In reference to Selection Committee as constituted on 26.10.2021 learned Senior Advocate has submitted that in said Selection Committee out of 07 members 03 members were invalid being not approved by Board of Governors or Senate and so far as experts nominated by Board and list of experts nominated by Senate is concerned that shall be prior approved by Board of Governor and Senate respectively. To that extent Selection Committee itself was illegal. Some of the Members participating in Selection Committee were having no jurisdiction.

(iii) Learned Senior Advocate submitted that petitioner in paragraph no. 17 of rejoinder affidavit has admitted that Prof. Shekhar Verma was not an expert but relied upon principle that since he is Member of Board of Governors being nominated by Senate, therefore his inclusion in Committee is correct, but the fact is that there is a difference between "Member of Board of Governors" and "Experts nominated by Board". It is settled that these persons were neither in list of experts nominated and approved nor in list of experts declared by and approved by Senate and BoG.

(iv) Constitution of Presentation Committee who has evaluated Case Study (written examination) was illegal as there is no provision in Statute and there is no reference in advertisement too, so constitution of said committee was absolutely illegal. Same was the issue in regard to written examination of Case Study, same was also not part of either Statute or advertisement, separate to jurisdiction of Selection Committee.

(v) Learned Senior Advocate also pointed out that Chairman of Selection Committee, i.e., the then Director, Prof P Nagabhushan influenced Selection Committee in favour of petitioner. The fact could be verified from opening remarks of Director, Chairman of Selection Committee in selection itself that he wants a local candidate and also referred that he did not desire candidates who are touching 59 years, however, there is no such instruction/requirement in Statute or in advertisement. It appears that it was just to accommodate petitioner at serial no. 1 and out someone who touching 59 years, may be better candidate and further he desires a local candidate, as a matter of fact which comes in favour of the petitioner because only petitioner was a local candidate, although there is no relevance but definitely requires to be seen that working of petitioner was also apprised by Chairman in Selection Committee for reasons best known to him.

(vi) Learned Senior Advocate referred para 15 of supplementary affidavit. Apart from the fact that there are series of averments and contents where it could be verified that throughout the selection proceeding petitioner was part of selection proceedings during matter is pending before Board of Governors and she also took decision as to which issue is to be dropped or at which stage proceedings is to be concluded. When she was present in meeting through Video Conferencing, she was asked to mute the video but she continued even after she muted and was in access to decision of Committee as there were two login accesses in her favour, as she was enjoying the meeting by two logins one as Registrar (Acting) and other as Secretary BoG. Further, averments filed in counter affidavit are series of transactions which petitioner was operating till the matter was to be concluded in Board of Governors. Further, when there was specific mention that she could not participate in meeting by Additional Secretary, MoE, Sri Rakesh Ranjan vide letter dated 27.01.2022 even then she continued to handle the matter.

(vii) Learned Senior Advocate seriously objected conduct of petitioner in filing writ petition (earlier one) when she was already working as Registrar (Acting) and custodian of entire records, she filed the documents in earlier writ petition which are not in access of other authorities of IIIT, Allahabad. Proceeding of Selection Committee was never to the public, particularly the candidates in Selection Committee. Petitioner filed writ petition with confidence that Selection Committee finalizing the issue which were never published or any notification was made and challenge the same by way of earlier writ petition without disclosing the fact that result was never communicated to any candidate. It is the case of misuse of her position as Registrar (Acting).

(viii) Learned Senior Advocate also referred that the petitioner has claimed herself the BoG finalized the issue on 11.01.2022 but she was also indulge in getting objection, accepting suggestions and then without placing the same before Board of Governors, with amendments, claimed that resolution has already passed on 11.01.2022 although suggestions were from 14.01.2022 onwards. The issue in reference to "amendment suggested" could be approved by circulation, as it was case of fresh consideration on account of amendment suggested. To that extent there is no occasion of claiming approval dated 11.01.2022 that too when petitioner herself was a candidate and was also functioning as Registrar (Acting).

(ix) The Screening Committee screened in 52 candidates out of 66 applications received. Out of which only 24 candidates appeared for presentation and written test (Case Study). There was an apparent illegality that out of 24 candidates only 7 candidates were allowed to appear before Selection Committee for interview that too by a process which was not provided in Statutes. Once it is assumed that if there were no Presentation Committee then there was a probability that at least 24 candidates would have been present before statutory Selection Committee for presentation and interview.

(x) In all fairness, petitioner was not required to involve in procedure either from outside or inside. Apart from the fact that there was another misrepresentation where Presentation Committee took presentation and evaluated written exam (Case Study) and prepared list of 07 candidates and names were sent before Selection Committee without providing their marks. Although their marks were mentioned in results issued by Presentation Committee, the way list was produced by Selection Committee is apparent from record there was 04 persons having equal marks but petitioner was shown at serial no 1 "mentioning in order of merits". This was clearly misrepresentation showing petitioner the best candidate by way of misrepresentation. There were all possibility that has played in favour of petitioner for given her selection on the post.

(xi) In the present case 02 inquiry committees were constituted. One by Chairman of Board of Governors i.e. two Members Committee consisting of Prof. Manindra Agarwal, IIT, Kanpur (Padamshree) and Prof. Vinod Kumar Singh, IIT. Kanpur (Padamshree) and another Enquiry Committee of Prof. Anil Sahasrabudhe was constituted by Ministry of Education, Govt. of India. In both inquiries persons involved having great reputation and having nothing to do with any particular party, both these committees have found illegality in procedure adopted by Selection Committee.

(xii) Apart from the fact that this fact could be verified that neither report of Committee dated 01.10.2022 nor second report dated 14.01.2023 at any stage challenged by petitioner, therefore, any consequential order passed relying upon same cannot be challenged at this stage.

DISCUSSION

38. The Institute in question was established under the Indian Institutes of Information Technology Act, 2014 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 2014") [See Schedule of Section 4(1)]. Section 32 of Act, 2014 is for 'Appointments', which is reproduced hereinafter:

"32. All appointments of the staff of every Institute, except that of the Director, shall be made in accordance with the procedure laid down in the Statutes, by–

(a) the Board, if the appointment is made on the academic staff in the post of Assistant Professor or if the appointment is made on the non-academic staff in every cadre the maximum of the pay scale for which exceeds prevalent grade pay scale for Group A Officers;

(b) the Director, in any other case."

39. It has already referred that a detailed procedure of 'Appointments' is provided under Clause 9 of Statutes of Indian Institute of Information Technology. It has also been observed earlier that for appointment of 'Registrar' the Selection Committee (See Clause 9(5) of Statutes) should consists of Director (Chairperson) and four Members (two experts nominated by Board, one expert nominated by Senate and one more Member nominated in terms of Clause 9(5)(iv) of Statutes). Therefore, in the case in hand, the Selection Committee constituted of a Chairperson and six Members, as such, two persons were additionally included.

40. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioner has referred Section 44 of Act, 2014 that no act of Board or body set up under the Act and Statutes shall be invalid merely by reason of any vacancy in or defect in constitution thereof or any irregularity in its procedure not affecting the merits of the case, whereas per contra, learned Senior Advocate appearing for Institute submitted that it was not mere irregularity but illegality which goes to the root of procedure and vitiates entire procedure for appointment of Registrar and he referred Section 32 of Act, 2014 that all appointments shall be made in accordance with procedure laid down in the Statutes. There is not much argument that there was mala fide behind extension of number of Members of Selection Committee but there is no reason why deviation was made.

41. Learned Senior Advocate for Institute has submitted that petitioner despite a candidate for Registrar has not only tried to make influence but also tried to expedite process of approval of resolution of BoG in issuance of appointment letter. Learned Senior Advocate has referred an e-mail dated 14.01.2022 send by petitioner under capacity of Secretary, BoG, IIIT-A, whereby minutes of 20th Meeting of Board of Governors be confirmed through circulation as well as she was in possession of documents, which were not available in public domain, but she brought them in public domain.

42. As referred earlier, the advertisement does not provide any process of written test but Screening / Presentation Committee has adopted a different procedure of written test without any prior or post approval. According to learned Senior Advocate for petitioner General Instructions were provided in advertisement which includes written test also, however, said argument is contrary to Item No. 9 of advertisement where it is provided in specific term that for Registrar (Sl. No. 1) process will consist of Presentation/ Seminar and Interview and for Deputy Registrar, selection process will consist of Written Test/ Presentation / Seminar and Interview, therefore, there was clear distinction. No substantial argument was raised on behalf of petitioner to support the process so far as inclusion of written examination is concerned.

43. The argument that report on appointment of Registrar, IIIT Allahabad dated 01.10.2022 does not take note of earlier report, has no legal basis since the Inquiry Committee has specifically considered specific query raised by Ministry of Education (Department of Higher Education) dated 07.04.2022. Section 46 of Act, 2014 further provides that "the Institute shall carry out such directions as may be issued to it from time to time by the Central Government for efficient administration of this Act", therefore, there is no illegality in conducting fresh inquiry on basis of communication and direction or query raised by Ministry of Education.

44. The findings of inquiry report of two Members Committee dated 01.10.2022 would be summarized in following manner:-

(a) Deviation made by the then Director consisting six Members in Selection Committee i.e. 2 members were additionally included suo moto, without any approval from BoG, being contrary to statute, rendered entire selection process null and void.

(b) A written test in the form of a Case Study was done just before the interview though it was not part of call letter. Inclusion of additional process resulted in a premeditated unfair practice.

(c) Application of petitioner was not made through a proper channel. Committee has also wrongly recommended her as an adjunct faculty in her academic department.

45. So far as above referred clause (c) is concerned, Court is of view that it does not have legal basis since recommendation of adjunct faculty was dropped by BoG as well as after process is concluded appointment of petitioner could not be found fit irregular only on ground that it was not through proper channel.

46. The Court finds that Clauses (a) and (b) are violation of due process of selection and as discussed above, learned Senior Advocate for petitioner has failed to satisfy the Court on basis of any material that process prescribed in selection was not violated. No justification was brought on record to satisfy any reason for such deviation.

47. The Court does not find much substance that petitioner has tried to influence the process, though she may be more zealous to complete the process expeditiously and a reason for that may be that her name was approved for appointment, which ought to have been avoided. A selection process not only should remain fair but a single instance of influence should be avoided. There is substance in the argument of learned Senior Advocate for Institute that many documents which were not in public domain but they were brought in public domain by petitioner.

48. The Court is of the considered opinion that though petitioner's name was approved by BoG for appointment on post of Registrar but it would complete only when appointment letter was issued and in present case admittedly no appointment letter was issued, therefore, she was not required to be heard.

49. The Court has also taken note that during pendency of this writ petition, fresh recruitment process has substantially progressed and petitioner on her own will has opted not to participate in the fresh recruitment though there was no interim order in present case as well as in other writ where fresh process was challenged.

CONCLUSION

50. Fairness in any selection process is an utmost necessity and when it is of a single post of Registrar of a prestigious Institute, it became more imperative to keep entire process unblamable, unbiased, unblemished and strictly in accordance with prescribed procedure and on scrutiny if it was found that contrary to above the process became blameable or biased or blemished or prescribed process was not strictly followed, the entire process could be declared void, irrespective of it's stage.

51. In present case as referred above, a two Members Committee reviewed entire process and found that not only there was deviation in constitution of Selection Committee by including two extra Members without any prior permission or any express reason but written examination was also introduced though it was neither provided in advertisement nor in the call letter rather it was only provided for selection of Deputy Registrar. Such deviation from process also remained without prior permission or any express reason. Details of interview being deciding factor as four candidate including petitioner got equal marks in written test and presentation, was not on record which shows that process was opaque and not transparent. There is no challenge to findings of Committees.

52. Above all, the Petitioner a candidate for post of Registrar was running the show being Acting Registrar and being aware of all internal process, she remained in a position to influence the process directly or indirectly. At least in final stage she definitely tried to expedite the process when she became aware that her name was approved in the meeting of Board of Governors. She ought to have remained disassociated with the process to keep it pure but her acts are also a reason that entire process of selection became unfair and it was rightly declared void by Board of Governors and their decision as discussed above being based on legally sustainable reasons does not warrant any interference.

53. The challenge to it at behest of the petitioner thus failed on various ground. Firstly, being a candidate she has no indefeasible right of appointment; secondly on a direction of Central Government, the Institute was under a legal obligation to scrutinise the process and reply to queries raised; thirdly a two Members Committee on a detailed inquiry found above referred deviations which could not be cured as they goes to the root of process being contrary to procedure prescribed under statute and thus entire process became illegal as well as earlier inquiries were only an eye wash; fourthly earlier process was not concluded as no appointment letter was issued thus the petitioner was not required to be heard; and, fifthly the petitioner being a candidate for the post of Registrar failed to keep her away (directly or indirectly) from selection process, no matter that she was an Acting Registrar.

54. During pendency of present writ petitions a fresh process (under challenge also) of appointment of Registrar is reached to its near conclusion and petitioner on her on will has not participated in it, therefore at this belated stage Court cannot pass an order to allow her to participate in present process, however the Institute will have liberty to allow petitioner.

55. The challenge to fresh recruitment process has no basis since this Court is of considered opinion that there is no ground to interfere with a decision to declare earlier process being void.

56. The outcome of above discussion is that both writ petitions fail and are accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Shri Avanees Kumar Rai under the authority of Samarth Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Abhishek Shukla, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondent and Shri Bhupendra Kumar Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent No. 2.

2. Considering the nature of the order that is proposed to be passed, the service of notice upon private respondent Nos. 3 to 12 is being dispensed with.

3. The writ petition arises out of proceedings under Section 24 (4) of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 and is directed against the order dated 30.11.2023 passed in appeal No. 257 of 2022 by the Commissioner (Administration) Varanasi Division, Varanasi in exercise of powers under Section 24 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 whereby and whereunder the appeal has been dismissed upholding the order dated 4.2.2022 passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Chakiya, District Chandauli under Section 24 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.

4. Shri Abhishek Shukla, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel at the very out set submits that the order impugned passed by the learned Commissioner in appeal under Section 24 (4) of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 has been made subject to the provisions of Section 210 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 and finality to the order passed under Section 210 has been attached. He submits that the issue has already been considered by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Writ-C No. 25616 of 2021 (Jhinka Devi versus State of U.P. and 4 others). In paras 48 & 49 of the aforesaid decision, the Court has held as under:-

48. The mere fact that there is no further appeal against the order passed by the Commissioner in an appeal under sub-section (4) of Section 24 would not be held to create a bar in invocation of the revisional jurisdiction of the Board of Revenue under section 210 of the Code. The jurisdiction conferred on the Board under Section 210 to revise the orders passed by the subordinate revenue courts would not be dependent on a motion being made by a party to the case inasmuch as the section confers power upon the Board to exercise revisional jurisdiction independent of any such motion having been made. The fact that a right of appeal is not given to the party concerned would therefore not be held to affect the jurisdiction vested in the Board under Section 210.

49. The provision under sub-section (4) of Section 24, as it existed, prior to the amending Act of 2019, that "the order of the Commissioner shall be final" would therefore be held to mean no more than that the order passed in appeal under sub-section (4) would not be subject to any second appeal. The provision with regard to finality attached to the order of the Commissioner under sub-section (4) would not in any manner be held to limit or control the revisional jurisdiction conferred upon the Board under Section 210.*

5. It is, thus, submitted that in the wake of availability of alternate remedy, the writ petition may not be entertained and the petitioner be relegated to the statutory alternate remedy available.
